"A DIFFICULT SITUATION" — Rep. Charles Halleck, R-Ind., House Republican leader, tells newsmen outside the White House this morning after a 45-minute conference with the President on the Laos crisis, that "no commitments were asked and none given." He said the Southeast Asian situation was "certainly very difficult."

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Air Force officials said a Michigan Air Guard jet crashed into a house today near the greater Pittsburgh Airport. First reports said no one was hurt in the house. The unidentified pilot bailed out.

Last-Ditch Try for Income Tax Plotted by Dems

Assemble House Forces for Solid Stand Against Nuisance Passage

A similar drive failed in the Senate last month.

Rep. Joseph J. Kowalski, D-Detroit, party floor leader, said Democrats would stand solid against a "nuisance" tax package scheduled for a vote today, then move to bring an income tax package out of the House Taxation Committee.

Republican leaders voiced little hope that the nuisance levies would muster enough support to pass on the first try.

They hoped to win ample Democratic votes to their cause when and if the income tax bills go down the drain.

The GOP package would raise $69 million a year by adding two cents to the five-cents-a-package cigarette tax, two cents to the third-of-a-cent per bottle tax on beer and restoring 4 per cent taxes on liquor and telephone and telegraph service.

Gov. Swainson told a news conference yesterday that he made no effort to pressure Democrats to vote against the nuisance levies.

"This is contrary to some reports that I 'blackjacked' them at a caucus last week," he said.

"I merely pointed out the alternatives — nuisance taxes or fiscal reform," he said. "It's the same position that I've taken for 16 months as governor."

1,800 Will Join Others; Goal Is 5,000 Men

Rumor Claims Russia Willing to Talk Peace for War-Ridden Laos

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy today ordered 1,800 U.S. Marines into Thailand, and the Defense Department said U.S. military forces there will be built up to about 5,000 men.

The announcement made plain the U.S. forces will go into battle if the Communists in neighboring Laos cross the Thai border.

"These forces are to help insure the territorial integrity of Thailand, a peaceful country," the President said of the dispatch of Marines to that country.

A short time later, Secretary of State Dean Rusk scheduled an afternoon meeting with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin amid indications from high U.S. officials that Russia was willing to seek a political settlement of the Lao crisis.

Officials said that the U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union, Llewellyn E. Thompson, received the impression from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev when they met last week that the Russians wanted a political settlement of the Loatian problem.

These officials said they expected Dobrynin would have more specific reaction to U.S. and British protests over the violation 10 days ago of the cease fire by Communist-led Pathet Lao rebels.

The White House said the Marines would go ashore at dawn Thursday, Thailand time. This (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

BANGKOK, Thailand—Thailand tonight invited the U.S. Marines waiting on its doorstep to enter the country and help defend its frontiers against pro-Communist forces in nearby Laos.

Premier Sarit Thanarit announced the decision in a broadcast to the nation after making a helicopter flight to the southern city of Chachernsao where a U.S. naval task force is waiting off the naval base of Sataheep with the Marines aboard.

President Kennedy said the primary purpose is to assure the safety of Thailand. But another aim is to help get a peaceful settlement in Laos.

Pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces, stiffened by Communist North Vietnamese battalions, captured Nam Tha, a provincial capital, 12 days ago and swiftly swept over all northwest Laos.

About 3,000 Laotian soldiers fled into Thailand from Houei Sai, a Laotian town just across the Mekong River.

Moscow reports indicated that the United States and Britain have not received much encouragement from Moscow in their efforts to get the Soviet Union to swing its weight behind a new cease fire drive.

FORCES REGROUPING

There was no word on whether the government troops have made actual contact with the pro-Communist rebels.

★ ★ ★

There has been no report of fighting since before the weekend when Laotian soldiers poured across the Mekong River into Thailand in advance of the rebel drive.

Aerial observations showed the rebels still had not occupied the Mekong River village of Houei Sai which the royalists abandoned.

Most of the 2,600 soldiers who fled to Thailand were being flown back into Laos, landing at Luang Prabang, Vientiane or Savannakhet.

Death Sentence Expected

OAS Leader Salan On Trial in France

PARIS (AP) — Secret Army leader Raoul Salan went on trial today before a special court that is expected to condemn him to death.

The ex-general, who once wore many of France's highest military decorations, was ushered into the court room by four gendarmes and took his place in the prisoner's box.

★ ★ ★

There was a hush when court President Charles Bornet asked Salan to identify himself.

"My name is Raoul Salan, ex-general of colonial troops, military medal, grand cross of the legion of honor, wounded in action."

As a court clerk began to read the degree which sent Salan before the high military tribunal, one of his lawyers interrupted to say that the defense wanted to cite a tribunal member, Henri Hoppenot, as a witness.

But when Hoppenot said that he had taken no part in events that led to Salan's trial, the court president in effect ruled against Hoppenot appearing as a witness and trial procedures continued.

The court clerk read the accusation, which charged Salan with helping organize a putsch in April 1961 and then of being the leader of the Secret Army, which seeks to retain French rule in Algeria.

DISPUTES COMPETENCY

One of Salan's attorneys argued that the special high military court was not competent to hear any evidence on Salan's activities in the Secret Army.

He argued the Secret Army activities came after expiration of the special powers of President Charles de Gaulle which permitted setting up the court. There was no argument, however, on the court's competence to continue the trial on the generals' putsch in 1961.

Andre Galvada, the prosecutor and legal adviser to the court, rejected the defense contention and the court withdrew to deliberate the question.

★ ★ ★

The legalistic objections of the defense delayed a lengthy statement from Salan which he intends as the basis of his defense.

Texas Legislator Tells of Estes Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., said today Billie Sol Estes had contributed $1,700 toward his expenses in taping programs for broadcast over Texas radio stations.

Yarborough revealed the contribution as Republicans were demanding the resignation of Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman over charges that his department had an employe committed to a mental institution because she knew too much about the Estes case.

Yarborough's aides issued a statement which gave an accounting of costs of preparing the broadcasts in the Senate recording studios since Jan. 1, 1959. The costs totaled $24,400.

"I have paid $20,384 on this amount and now owe the Senate studio $3,982.90," the statement said.

"Of this amount paid, Billie Sol Estes, who had contributed to several of my campaigns for offices in Texas, has contributed a total of $1,700 to this radio report, as others also have contributed, his

33 Men Students at MSUO

Live Baby Has 'Em Drooling

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

When Jeffrey Allen Obear was born, 33 men besides the father paced the floor.

★ ★ ★

The new-born baby was to be the cherished mascot of Fitzgerald Hall at Michigan State University Oakland, and residents there were as concerned for its safe arrival as the father, Dr. Frederick Obear, house counselor.

Since that time the ten-week-old baby has the devoted hearts of the entire dormitory in his tiny hands. And he's taking full advantage of his "king of the roost" position.

Jeffrey has developed a definite hankering for being entertained, fed and rock-a-byed by his houseful of male admirers.

It's not an uncommon sight in the Obear apartment to come upon a 186-pound football player holding (Oh, so gently) the baby, rocking him to sleep while softly humming a little modern jazz.

Or a muscular track man standing upside down on his head trying to coax a smile from little Jeffrey. Or a lanky basketball player awkwardly pushing soft, mushy food into the tiny mouth.

Then there is the dignified honor student, quiet as a hibernating racoon, making ridiculous noises and performing like a monkey with St. Vitus' dance — merely to get the attention of MSUO's youngest resident.

Then comes the rewarding three-cornered smile. If he could, Jeffrey would probably burst right out laughing.

The men flip coins just to see who gets to hold and feed their real live mascot, and a special take-turn schedule has been set up for making the many "changes."

"You know, its really funny," said Mrs. Obear, "but some of the men here have never actually seen a new-born baby — let alone hold one.

"They are more curious and concerned than the girls."

So Fitzgerald Hall's young men continue to have fun learning how to be future dads, and Jeffrey continues to gurgle his solid approval.

"HURRAH FOR MSUO" — That's what ten-week-old Jeffrey Obear seems to be shouting. To Seek City Action on New Rec Center

City commissioners will be asked to act on a resolution tonight authorizing City Manager Robert A. Stierer to start preliminary plans for a new community recreation center in the southeast section of Pontiac.

The proposed center would serve District 1, 6 and 7 and be built for an "amount not to exceed $200,000."

Basically commissioners have a building and outdoor swimming pool in mind.

Commissioners have indicated they will again postpone action on setting the city's 1962 tax rate, originally slated for adoption last week. This postponement is due largely to an already lengthy agenda tonight.

Another resolution up for action will authorize the city to apply for a federal demonstration project grant of $18,000 per year for the next three years to finance part of the city's youth assistance program.

TO APPOINT THREE

Commissioners will also make three appointments tonight. One vacancy is to be filled on the Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees and two appointments are to be made to the Retirement System Board of Trustees.

Sale of the old public library building and property at West Lawrence and Williams streets is expected to be completed as bids are slated for tabulation.

In another city property matter, a resolution authorizing City Clerk Olga Barkeley to advertise for bids to demolish the old central fire station at East Pike and Perry streets is also up for approval.

Commissioners also will consider a request that an ordinance to allow dancing in establishments serving liquor by the glass be presented.

The Commission is slated to view engineers' plans for the city's water distribution system at an informal meeting an hour before the regular 8 p.m. meeting.

State Suggests Raise in County Tax Base

The State Tax Commission has recommended a slightly higher tax base for Oakland County than was being figured on by the County Board of Supervisors.

According to a report from Lansing today the commission has proposed a county equalized property valuation of $2,149,908,200 for this year's tax purposes. This is $37.5 million more than the figure the county had arrived at.

If the commission's recommendation is approved by the State Board of Equalization next week it will result in slightly higher taxes on Oakland County property owners, according to William Grabendike, county equalization director.

It also would mean that county government would require a slightly lower share of the 15-mill total levy in order to finance its proposed $16,555,202 budget for next year, county auditors agreed.

The board of supervisors' equalization committee had recommended a $2,112,408,200 county equalized valuation.

★ ★ ★

The board's valuation would require 6.18 mills to finance the tentative county budget. The tax commission's figure would mean a .11-mill decrease, or 6.07 mills.

OAS, Moslem Gunmen Spread Death, Terror

ALGIERS (UPI)—European and Moslem terrorists ranged through the streets and countryside of Algeria today, shooting and killing in a new surge of violence that police feared might erupt into large-scale fighting.

★ ★ ★

By 12:30 p.m., terrorism across the country had killed 25 persons, at least 15 of them Moslems, and wounded 12, bringing the year's unofficial casualty toll to 4,002 dead and 8,611 wounded.

In Oran, the police prefecture warned Europeans and Moslems to stay in their own neighborhoods, "starting immediately and for some time . . ."

"In the present circumstances, only calm and the coolheadedness of all will preserve the future for all," a police communique said.

BRACE FOR TROUBLE

Heavily-armed troops braced for possible reprisals from both sides. It was feared that the Secret Army Organization (OAS) might unleash a major operation to avenge the Moslem raids in which 17 Europeans were killed and 35 others were wounded yesterday.

The 36 minutes of violence late yesterday was the first instance of mass terrorism by Moslems since the ceasefire March 18, and raised the threat of a major conflict that could upset the truce between the French and the Algerians.

The separate attacks by Moslem gunmen on the outskirts of Algiers resulted in one of the heaviest tolls for European casualties in one day since the Algerian rebellion began in 1954.

Authorities feared that the OAS European extremists, who are opposed to Algerian independence, would follow up the Moslem raids with raids of their own. They have been trying to sabotage the cease-fire with widespread terrorism.

The victims of the Moslem violence and those from earlier OAS terrorism brought yesterday's casualty toll to 30 dead and 47 injured. Nine women and two children were among the European wounded.

The OAS has been trying to provoke the Moslems into retaliatory attacks on Europeans, hoping that such attacks might force the French army to fire on the Moslems. The European extremists figure such action would lead to a collapse of the peace accords.

★ ★ ★

Yesterday's Moslem attacks occurred on Aid El Kebir Day, the biggest Moslem religious holiday of the year, and followed rumors in the European community that the Moslems planned to use the occasion to avenge victims of OAS terrorism.

Keep Berlin Rights, De Gaulle Tells West

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle declared today the Western powers must keep their present rights in Berlin without change.

★ ★ ★

At a crowded news conference, he also declared anew that France must build its own atomic force for her defense and independence, and again urged the formation of a European political union but along France's ideas of a loose confederation.

★ ★ ★

De Gaulle said France does not object to the United States' probe of Soviet intentions on Berlin.

"Now is not the moment to modify accomplished facts. The statute of Berlin was established on the basis of a quadripartite accord. It must not be changed," he added.

De Gaulle asserted that in the "current international circumstances it is vain to try to settle the problem of Germany in a satisfactory manner."

REDS 'USING' CRISIS

"The Soviets are demanding that the West finish with the German problem and they are using the Berlin crisis for this end.

"In the current atmosphere we very much doubt that any good results can be attained," he said.

County to Get Renewal Grant

Federal Agency OKs $142,960 for Over All Economic Survey

A federal grant of $142,960 to aid Oakland County in preparing for future growth and development has been approved by the Urban Renewal Administration in Washington, U. S. Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Oakland County) announced today.

★ ★ ★

The funds were requested by the County Planning Commission at the beginning of the year to conduct an over-all economic survey of the area.

Supplemented by 25 per cent in local funds, the grant will be used over a two-year period for studies of population, employment, industrial structure, a land use inventory and an analysis of these factors in relation to the region, state and nation.

Planning Commission Director George Skrubb said today he expects to meet with the URA's regional director or his representative within the week in order to review the program. Together they will decide which phases of the study will receive immediate priority.

WILL SPEED PROGRAM

Skrubb has said the county's share of the survey's total $192,163 cost will be in planners' salaries that would be paid anyway.

Actually, county planners have been working in these fields of study here for some time. According to Skrubb, the federal money will speed the program.

The study, which is a constant process, indicates current trends as they affect the economy in Oakland County, in an effort to encourage these trends favorably.

★ ★ ★

The program includes surveys of county population, labor force and employment, industrial composition, industrial land use, retail land use and market structure and wholesale markets.

last contribution being Dec. 4, 1961."

'NO STRINGS'

Yarborough said there "were no strings to these contributions."

The senator said at the time the contributions were made Estes was "being feted by chambers of commerce as the ideal young American."

"I knew him as a devout lay church worker and a devoted family man," Yarborough said. "As far as I knew until late March, he was a responsible businessman."

★ ★ ★

The Republican charges against Freeman revolved around Mary K. Jones, secretary to N. Battle Hales, who kept the files on Estes.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., told the Senate yesterday that the department "railroaded" her into a mental institution for 12 days.

The Agriculture Department denied the charges. It said in a statement that it "regrets that the medical problems of an employe have been made into a political controversy."

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., said Miss Jones was "dragged screaming from her office" to the hospital. He said Freeman should "step down and out" because of the burgeoning case of the Texas farm magnate indicted on fraud charges.

Lake Use Law Is Discussed

Waterford Twp. Board Indicates No Rush to Act on Proposal

The Waterford Township Board, with 21 lakes within its jurisdiction, indicated last night that it was in no hurry to act on a proposed uniform lake use ordinance.

Though not formally on the agenda, the proposal was discussed as they affect the economy in Oakland County, in an effort to encourage these trends favorably.

General opposition to such an ordinance was voiced by those who live on lakes. The limited hours for water skiing was particularly cited by the group as objectionable. As proposed, skiing is allowed between 10 a.m. and sundown on weekdays and 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. on weekends and holidays.

Supervisor Elmer Johnson, who informed the group that no position would be taken at the meeting prior to discussion, commented that he had received no phone calls favoring the ordinance but numerous calls registering opposition.

—NO URGENCY

None of the board members indicated they felt there was any urgency in acting on the ordinance and no date for further consideration was set.

In other action the much discussed proposal by the Community National Bank for establishment of an unincorporated village was voted down unanimously by the board.

Representatives of this bank as well as officials from the Pontiac State Bank and Pontiac Federal Savings engaged in lengthy discussion prior to the board decision. The proponents argued that they were the first to ask for a designation of the area that would include the Pontiac Mall and pave the way for a branch office there.

The Pontiac State Bank spokesman commented that he objected to the vast area asked for and not the Mall location itself. The representative of the Pontiac Federal Savings said he felt it was unfair to designate an area for a particular bank. He added that he would like to request designation of all of Waterford Township.

Part of Free Auto Safety Check

Motorists to Be Offered Eye Tests

When the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce opens its vehicle safety check lanes tomorrow, the "checks" won't be limited to automobiles.

One of the highlights of this year's safety check program will be a free eye vision test. Area residents will be able to find out how they rate on five vision skills needed for driving.

A vision test trailer will be parked on W. Huron Street at Saginaw. It will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. through Saturday.

Operated by the Oakland County Chapter of the American Optometric Assn., tests will be given for distance acuity, depth perception, field of vision, muscle balance and night vision skills.

TAKES 5 MINUTES

The complete test only takes about five minutes. Each person tested will be given a "score card" showing how he or she rated in each classification.

Of some 308 who took the vision screening tests during vehicle safety check week two years ago in Pontiac, about 72 per cent passed all five test points and 28 per cent failed in one or more of the test areas.

Parking meters on Huron near the trailer will be hooded so as to offer free parking for those taking tests.

★ ★ ★

Working at the three vehicle check lanes will be members of the Pontiac Lions Club, Rotary Club, Pontiac Auxiliary Police, Optimist Club, Civitans, and the Downtown, North Side and West Pontiac Kiwanis Clubs.

★ ★ ★

Lanes will be located on Montcalm at Lincoln Junior High, Orchard Lake Avenue near Beaudette Park and W. Huron Street at Croffoot School.

State Senators Override Veto

Roberts' Compensation Bill Appears Doomed by House Opposition

Republicans in the State Senate last night put full support behind a bill cosponsored by Sen. Farrell Roberts, R-Pontiac, and led the Senate to override a governor's veto for the first time since 1955.

By a 23-5 vote along strict party lines, senators supported the bill to prohibit a worker from collecting workmen's compensation while he is receiving unemployment compensation. Five Democrats were absent during the voting.

Roberts' bill, cosponsored with Sen. Arthur Dehmel, R-Bay City, was vetoed last Wednesday by Gov. Swainson. Two-thirds approval is required in both houses of the State Legislature to override a veto.

Despite Senate support, the bill appears doomed in the House, where Republicans, with a 56-54 majority, apparently cannot muster two-thirds approval.

Roberts said Senate Republicans supported his measure because Michigan employers already are paying the highest workmen's and unemployment costs anywhere in country.

The question, he said, is whether a worker should be eligible to draw both benefits at the same time.

Sen. John Smeekens, R-Coldwater, pointed out that "in some cases a worker can collect 100 per cent of his take-home pay or more by drawing both benefits."

Decision Due May 29 on Eichmann Appeal

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — The Israeli Supreme Court will announce its decision May 29 on convicted Nazi mass killer Adolf Eichmann's appeal against his death sentence.

The court announced today it will then read its judgment on the appeal.

Hare to Oppose November Vote

Battle Continues Over Date for Michigan to Accept Constitution

LANSING (UPI)—Secretary of State James M. Hare says he will oppose a suit filed against him yesterday in Ingham County Court to obtain the proposed new constitution of Michigan on the November ballot.

Stephen E. Nisbet, R-Fremont, president of the constitutional convention, filed the suit declaring it is the secretary of state's duty that when presented with a proposed new constitution more than 90 days before the general election, he is to submit it to the voters.

The convention completed work on the constitution Friday and tentatively adopted all its provisions. Formal adjournment is scheduled for Aug. 1.

Hare has supported a decision handed down by former Atty. Gen. Paul Adams, now a Supreme Court justice, that the new Constitution could not be submitted to the people in November unless the convention adjourned before April 2.

Galbraith to Return to U.S. for Conference

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith is returning to Washington May 26 for consultations, the embassy said today.

Galbraith is expected to discuss with the Kennedy administration the prospects of India aid in Congress and India's negotiations to buy Soviet MIG fighters, a spokesman said. The trip was planned many weeks ago, he added.

Ford Executive to Speak at Oakland NCCJ Dinner

BIRMINGHAM — William T. Gossett of Bloomfield Hills, vice president and legal adviser for the Ford Motor Co., will be the principal speaker at the spring dinner of the South Oakland Round Table of the National Conference of Christian and Jews.

The dinner, which is open to the public, will be held at 6:30 p.m. May 24 at the Helen Keller Junior High School, 12-Mile and Campbell roads.

Gossett, 490 Goodhue Road, recently resigned as Ford general counsel to devote more time to civic activities, which includes membership on the NCCJ national board.

FORMED LAST YEAR

Dinner tickets can be purchased by contacting program chairman Abraham Brickner of 21970 Marlow St., Oak Park.

The South Oakland Round Table was formed a year ago with Robert Wilson as general chairman and R. J. Alexander, Richard Marshall and Henry Schiffer as cochairmen.

The NCCJ is an educational organization devoted to the promotion of understanding among people of all racial, religious and nationality groups.

Charles Lyle, GOP county chairman, said ticket sales are "going great guns" for the stage show featuring Tony Martin, Jane Morgan and the Hills Brothers.

The program will be presented at Groves High School. Also on the bill are two comedy teams, Rowan and Martin and the Weire Brothers, and the dancing Steiner Brothers.

A fund-raising event, the show will be staged in five other Michigan cities before coming to Birmingham. A press preview dress rehearsal is scheduled for Sunday in Grand Rapids.

The Birmingham Police Department was honored last night with a certificate of merit from the National Police Officers Association for reducing traffic accident and fatalities and for promoting highway safety in the community during 1961.

The presentation of the "Walker's Safety Award" coincides with National Police Week, May 13-19.

The registering device will be installed on homes under construction by the Township Water Department for $28. Owners of older homes will be charged the cost for time and materials.

Marines to Help Protect Thailand

would be about 5 p.m. (Pontiac time) Wednesday.

The Defense Department said the Marines probably would be landed at the Bangkok Naval Base by helicopters from the Valley Force, a carrier converted to a helicopter and troop-carrying ship. The Valley Forge draws too much water to move into the docking area.

In a followup to the announcement, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said the U.S. military force in Thailand would be given a new over-all command and increased to about 5,000 men.

The buildup will include the 1,000-man Army battle group already in Thailand.

To this will be added the Marine battalion of about 1,800 men, from the 7th Fleet. The Marine contingent also will have its own tactical air units.

Additionally, about 1,200 Army forces from the Pacific area will be sent in.

The Pacific Air Force will provide tactical units to give air cover to the Army ground troops.

Both the Air Force and Marine air units will be based in Thailand.

Gen. Paul D. Harkins, now U.S. commander of the 6,000-man force in South Viet Nam, will be given the job of heading U.S. forces in both Thailand and South Viet Nam.

Incumbent, Newcomers File for Election to Waterford Board

One incumbent and four newcomers will be competing for the two four-year term seats on the Waterford Township Board of Education in the June 11 school election.

Edmund L. Windeler, a veteran of 12 years on the board, did not file a petition for re-election. His present term expires next month.

Board president Eldon C. Rosegart, 2983 Shawnee Lane, Drayton Plains, seeks his second term on the board. Married and the father of two children, incumbent Rosegart is an instructor of instrumental music in the Pontiac school system.

FATHER OF TWO

Catlin is assistant vice president and manager of the Pontiac branch of the Burton Abstract and Title Co. He is married and the father of two children.

Cheal, an experimental engineer at Pontiac Motor Div., is married and has six children.

Nordbeck is a property appraiser for the Michigan State Tax Commission. He is married and the father of four children.

By DICK HANSON

Helping the boss get re-elected is looked upon as good job insurance by many employes of various Oakland County government departments. They feel their jobs depend on it one way or another.

The reason for such feeling is typified by County Drain Commissioner Daniel Barry's recent action. He discharged two female secretaries on his staff for failing to circulate nominating petitions for his reaffirmation in August primaries.

As a result, the women's supervisor, Aston J. Berst, 12-Town Drain coordinator, resigned in protest. He had held his post, which entails overseeing the $40-million sewer construction in southeastern Oakland County, since 1956.

Already the County Democratic Committee has challenged his action in an effort to make political hay. Barry is vulnerable in the committee's opinion as expressed by Chairman Sandor Levin.

"The people have a right to know what's behind the new shakeup in the 12-Town office," declared Levin, "This is the second shakeup in a year.

"And the only indication we have as to what is going on is the implication that undue pressure is put on staff and clerical personnel to circulate his (Barry's) nominating petitions."

Yet the practice of an elected official hiring or maintaining political supporters in jobs where they can continue to help him get re-elected is virtually inherent in the democratic system of government.

COMMON CUSTOM

The practice certainly is prevalent in state government and in the higher echelons of federal government. It is seen every day in local communities where, for example, the police chief is fired or resigns under fire from a newly-elected regime.

In such an instance, the chief was appointed under the old regime and his ensuing job depended on the re-election of those who appointed him.

Obviously, he was obligated to work hard for the incumbents at election time if he hoped to remain head of the police force.

The opposite effect is just as obvious. By taking a political stand, he had alienated those seeking to oust the incumbents. If they succeed, he can expect the ax.

Barry's two fired secretaries said they were unaware that they were taking any political stand.

Mrs. Marie Griffith, who had worked for 12-Towns for five and a half years, said, "I didn't think it was a political job."

★ ★ ★

The other fired secretary, Mrs. Murl McGrath, said, "I had no idea that working with the 12-Town office had anything to do with one's political views." She was hired by Berst last September. Previously she had been employed by the County Welfare Department since 1949.

Opinions among perhaps more knowing county employes, as to whether they should support their elected bosses in election campaigns, vary from opposite poles.

These opinions invariably are offered in hushed tones with the inevitable "don't quote me" preface. They range from that of employes who feel they owe allegiance to their boss to "civil service is the only way."

These latter proponents believe that employes working for elected officials should be protected from having to take sides by the assurance of continued employment under civil service regardless of the election's outcome.

Those elected officials, who in the past have opposed civil service, argued that it would inhibit them from running an efficient department, and that they would be at the mercy of their employes on matters of administrative policy.

County elected officials, when quizzed, took the unanimous stand that they appreciated any campaign support from their employes but denied that jobs hung in the balance as far as they are concerned.

As Gubernatorial Candidates Address Parties

Bell Rung for 1st Romney-Swainson Round

By TOM SHAWVER

LANSING (AP) — The battle of George W. Romney vs. John B. Swainson, already billed as one of the biggest political clashes of the century in Michigan, is starting to warm up.

★ ★ ★

Now that both are officially announced candidates for governor, they may find themselves slugging it out with each other sooner than they planned, and well before the Aug. 7 primary election.

So far, Gov. Swainson and Romney, the almost-certain Republican choice to unseat him, have carefully avoided personal mention of each other in public appearances around the state. Two developments in the last week have taken some of the wraps off their impending clash for the state's top political prize.

At the party's annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in Detroit last weekend, the Democratic governor officially put himself in the running for a second two-year term with a fighting speech scorching the Republican Party record in state government.

Romney, a candidate for the GOP nomination since Feb. 10, freed himself to start campaigning this week with the windup of the state constitutional convention. The recently resigned president of American Motors Corp. is one of the convention's three vice presidents and held off formal campaigning until delegates finished writing a proposed new basic charter for Michigan.

It is probable that Romney and Swainson will try to sidestep attacking each other until after the primary. Like it or not, however, they may not be able to avoid it.

Romney, addressing Republicans from the 7th Congressional District at Port Huron Tuesday, lit into what he called "special interest" government in Lansing. He described it as "politically, morally, economically and socially evil."

DEFENDS RECORD

Voters, he said, "will not be taken in by the ridiculous potshots of a man who, because he is afraid to face government issues he does not understand, allows himself to be counseled into mudslinging."

A dearth of primary opposition may help fan the contest into a full-blown battle by midsummer.

No Democrat has challenged Swainson and nobody is likely to.

A drive is building up in southwestern Michigan to run Montgomery Sheppard, St. Joseph attorney and member of the Republican State Central Committee, as the standard bearer of Republican conservatives. Shepard, who has opposed Romney's stand for a state income tax, said he would not run.

Swainson's announcement speech and a series of talks made by Romney to meetings of party leaders across southern Michigan in recent weeks set the theme for their primary campaigns.

Time after time, Romney assailed "the union barons," whom he said are the real bosses of the Democratic Party in Michigan. Avoiding all mention of Swainson, the former automaker waded into August (Gus) Scholle, Michigan AFL-CIO president, as the party's top power and director of "a political conspiracy" to keep control of state government from the voters.

'STATE LAGS BEHIND'

"It it an indefensibly bad thing," he told an audience in Jackson. "It has been a primary factor in destroying Michigan's reputation and confronting it with its present grave economic and social problems."

"Our state is lagging behind the nation, as a whole, in its economic growth," he said.

Romney's oft-made plea is "to get Michigan rolling again." This, he says, can be done by taking away statehouse control from labor-dominated Democrats and turning it over to "a genuine citizens party speaking loud and clear the basic Republican philosophies and principles."

Romney also will be plugging hard for the new constitution, written by a convention heavily dominated by Republicans and carrying, in no small measure, the Romney trademark. He helped spear head a drive for voter approval of the convention and was one of its leaders.

Swainson served notice that he will concentrate his attack on the GOP party record, and especially the Republican-dominated legislature.

In probably the most biting speech of his political career, the governor lambasted the GOP last week as "a divided and confused political organization, incapable of governing in a responsible, enlightened fashion." He branded GOP leaders and legislators as "irresponsible political mossbacks," and "unreconstructed reactionaries."

'MISTOOK CIVILITY'

Swainson, who has fought a losing battle for two years to push a fiscal reform program keyed to a personal and corporate income tax through the legislature, said he has all but given up trying to "sit and reason" with GOP lawmakers.

"The Republicans mistakenly believed that civility meant weakness," he said. "I was scorned and ridiculed by those with whom I had tried to work in good faith."

"All of the problems which have accrued to Michigan as a result of the massive shifts in population, the enormous improvements in technology, the changing face of our industrial complex, were cynically laid at the door of the Democratic Party," he said. "The facts are that every large city, every large industrial state, has similar problems."

Any shortage of mental health facilities, state school aid, higher education programs and other needs must be blamed on tight-fisted Republican legislators, he said.

Swainson's advisors said the governor will concentrate almost entirely on the Republican party record during the primary campaign, linking it to Romney.

"Whether he likes it or not," said one, "Romney has to run on the Republican record."

Cuba Releases Plane 'Downed' by Mistake

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)— A Venezuelan transport plane returned Monday night after being forced to land in Cuba by two of the Fidel Castro regime's Russian-built MIG jet fighters.

The pilot and copilot said Cuban officials released them after brief questioning at the Camaguey airport in Cuba. The pilot quoted the Cubans as saying the forced landing had been a mistake.

Says Ike Has Golf Score in the Low 80s

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP)— One of former President Eisenhower's best kept secrets—his golf score—has been revealed by the manager of the Eldorado Country Club here.

"Generally," Mr. Eisenhower shoots in the low 80s," said William Daugherty. "After he carded a three-over par 75 here the day before he was scheduled to leave he was so pleased we thought he might not go."

Barracuda Attacked After Men Drowned

★ ★ ★

Deputy Coroner Eugene Miller, who earlier had said shark bites could have been an "equal" cause of death, announced findings of the autopsies Monday.

Meanwhile, the search continued for the victims' three other fishing companions aboard a 25-foot cabin cruiser that sank four miles off Newport Beach.

Six bodies, five mangled by fish, were recovered from the ocean Sunday. Two buoys, fishing poles, and a bait box also were found.

Use your head when you shop for a "new-size" car

The air is filled with claims about the so-called "new-size" cars—the ones that finally caught up with Rambler Classic's size, but with little else.

Just use your head and you'll discover sizeable differences. Slide into the front seat and you'll find much more headroom in the Rambler Classic (actually more than Cadillac!). The extra room for shoulders and hips adds up to space for six well-padded 6-footers.

You get better performance, and you can feel it. That's because Rambler is ahead in both horsepower and passing power. Don't worry about economy; any Rambler owner will tell you how he saves on gasoline.

If you care about quality, think this over. Rambler has Double-Safety Brakes—of all other U. S. cars only Cadillac has a similar system. Only Rambler gives you Deep-Dip rustproofing up to the roof. Con-Con's Battle on Representation Leaves Scars

(Editor's Note — This is the third in a series comparing the constitutions of 1837, the 1850 document which was slightly changed in 1908, and the work of the recent constitutional convention. In the following, UPI Lansing Bureau manager A. D. Underwood outlines the major battle of the convention — the sections on legislative apportionment.)

By A. D. UNDERWOOD

LANSING (UPI) — "I will back it all the way. It is a good plan, a great deal better than the people of Michigan have been led to believe."

★ ★ ★

John A. Hannah, R-East Lansing, president of Michigan State University and chairman of the legislative organization committee of the constitutional convention was speaking on March 28 of the work of his committee.

"The Democratic party will never settle for less than one-man, one-vote."

Melvin Nord, D-Detroit, second vice chairman of Hannah's committee, touched off a four-hour-plus pocket filibuster with that declaration of war when the matter came before the convention.

Legislative apportionment, how state senate and state representative seats will be assigned, was the battleground on which the entire convention hinged.

Democrats fought for both houses on population with a 15 per cent allowable variation to permit districts to follow county lines.

Republicans settled on a plan calling for a 38-member Senate elected from single-member districts determined by a formula giving 80 per cent weight to population and 20 per cent to area.

The Republican house plan would have a 110-member house on population "as nearly equal as possible" with a 25 per cent deviation allowed to settle determination of additional seats.

Democrats on the committee nearly boycotted the final sessions of Hannah's committee "to write our own apportionment plan."

The Republican plan was adopted by the convention on one of the many party line votes amid warnings by Democrats that the U. S. Supreme Court actions in the field of apportionment "could make the whole thing illegal."

The nation's high court recently remanded a suit by state AFL-CIO President August Scholle charging denial of rights because of a malapportioned state senate. The action returns the case to the Michigan Supreme Court for action.

Democrats admit that under either plan it appears unlikely that in the immediate future they will capture control of the legislature.

DEMS TO CONTROL

The metropolitan Detroit area, Democratic stronghold, would be the main area electing Democratic senators and representatives while scattered Democratic votes from the rest of the state would probably continue to control statewide elections.

The result would be a continuation of the deadlock between the governor and the legislature which has affected the state for the past 15 years unless voter patterns change.

George Romney, R-Bloomfield Hills, convention vice president and GOP candidate for governor, expressed his satisfaction with the apportionment decided upon by calling it "within a hair's breadth" of straight population apportionment.

There was an area of the apportionment issue which received substantial agreement from both parties. This was creation of an apportionment commission to enforce the formula for districting set forth in the constitution.

★ ★ ★

The bipartisan group would meet following each federal census and adjust the districts as needed. The effect of this would be to take the matter out of the hands of the legislature, where it is now.

★ ★ ★

Michigan legislatures have been painfully slow to act as required to adjust the boundary lines.

The immediate effect of the proposed section would be to add senate seats to Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Genesee counties, Kent County, although marginal in terms of population, would retain its second seat.

The Upper Peninsula would be guaranteed the same representation it now has.

The house plan would go into effect with the next general election after the adoption of the constitution. The first action by the apportionment commission would come after the 1970 census.

The depth of the rupture between the two parties on the matter of apportionment likely will be apparent during the campaign on the document.

NORD COMMENTS

"If for no other reason, this continuation of malapportioned legislature, unrepresentative of the true political structure of Michigan, would induce me to actively work against this document," Nord said.

"The Michigan House of Representatives would rank first among all of the states in the U. S. in giving fullest representation to population in house apportionment under this plan," Hannah said.

He indicated that the Senate plan would rank 12th on the basis of representation of population.

The political breakdown of the House would remain near the present 56 Republican, 54 Democratic split. The Senate would probably be 24 Republicans and 14 Democrats under the proposal.

There were some arguments from rural conservatives who offered plans based on one senator for every county regardless of population.

Nord plugged briefly for a "tote-board" plan of electing both a Republican and Democrat from each Senate district and allowing them both to vote the number of votes they received in their election.

A proposal for a unicameral or one-house legislature received short shrift from the delegates. Nebraska legislators visited the convention and explained their single-house system, the only one in the nation.

★ ★ ★

Viewed in another light — the balance between metropolitan and rural districts —the plan as approved would slightly increase the number of lawmakers coming from suburban areas and slightly reduce the rural representation.

★ ★ ★

Generally, if population trends continue as at present, the edge would remain in favor of the "farmers" for another 15 years.

The apportionment issue was involved in a deal between Republican backers of Romney and the farm bloc Republicans led by D. Hale Brake, Stanton.

"The scars from this fight will be evident in Michigan politics for many years," Nord said after the dust of battle cleared.

The words of the British anthem, "God Save the Queen," are a combination of patriotic phrases that cannot be attributed to any one author. The first known public performance of the combination of words and music was in 1745 at London's Drury Lane Theater.

FELONY IN THE FOREST

SMOKEY talks a lot about forest fires started by carelessness. What you don't hear so much about are the forest fires that are set, on purpose, by your neighbors.

Surely, you say, nobody I know would do a thing like that! But you're wrong. One out of every four forest fires, nation-wide, is classed as INCENDIARY!

Even though the wilful forest fire problem is greatest in the South and the East, no part of the Country is free of it. You should know that the malicious woods burner robs you, wherever you live!

Buying From Reds May Kill Our Aid

Nehru Tries Patience of Senators

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — Neutralist India may at long last have overstretched the patience and indulgence of the U.S. Senate.

Although the upper chamber is considerably more liberal in its thinking and its spending than the House of Representatives, it is now heading toward a showdown with the Kennedy administration over continued U.S. largesse to Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's fence-straddling nation.

Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, JFK's erstwhile presidential rival at the '60 nominating convention, has persuaded the powerful Senate Foreign Relations Committee to slash India's share of our foreign aid by 25 per cent.

Symington was even able to muster five of the necessary eight committee votes to eliminate India from the aid program altogether.

The harsh action stems from a long line of Nehru irritations, but was climaxed by information that the prime minister is negotiating for a fleet of Soviet jet fighter planes.

Only two weeks ago the U.S. granted his government a third-of-a-billion dollar loan — the largest single transaction in the 11 years of our assistance program for India.

24 RED PLANES

Within days after the deed was signed, word leaked out of New Delhi that India was negotiating with the Kremlin to buy "at least" 24 Soviet supersonic jet fighters.

Nehru previously had arranged to purchase from Russia 16 Antonov-12 transport planes, to be used for flying heavy equipment to its joint Himalayan border with Red China.

At least, that is what Nehru claims the planes are for, although Sen. George Aiken, a ranking Republican on the foreign relations committee, points out that Nehru has been threatening pro-Western Pakistan as well as Red China.

"India is apparently attempting to become a great military nation, for what purpose it is not entirely clear," Aiken said. "There is growing sentiment in the Senate that we reconsider aid to India, and reduce it drastically.

"If India has money to buy fleets of Russian fighter planes, she is apparently not as desperate for U.S. aid as we thought."

Aiken, a former staunch supporter of foreign aid, now believes that the entire program should be re-examined in view of the increasing drain on our gold supply, and our unfavorable balance of trade with the rest of the world.

There is little question but that Nehru has seriously weakened his once-towering position as a "moral" leader of the free world.

BECOMING AGGRESSIVE

His seizure of Portuguese Goa by force demonstrated that this inheritor of Gandhi's "passive resistance" mantle is becoming increasingly aggressive and nationalistic.

★ ★ ★

Nehru would like the West to think that his military build-up is directly related to India's border clashes with Red China. Recently he said publicly that India is preparing for possible war with China.

★ ★ ★

At the same time, however, he served notice on the United States that India will not permit a popular referendum to determine the fate of Kashmir, or even arbitration and mediation with Pakistan over the long-disputed territory.

Nehru, ruler of a Hindu nation, forcibly holds Kashmir, a predominantly Moslem area, despite Moslem Pakistan's insistence on a referendum.

It seems an odd role for this moralistic gentleman who pretends to deplore Western "colonialism."

★ ★ ★

Now that he is looking to Moscow for the implements of war, the Senate may buck the administration on the fantastic share earmarked for India in President Kennedy's nearly five-billion-dollar aid program for the coming fiscal year.

Business Activities Should Be Left 'Free'

The recent TV appearance of President KENNEDY has not dispelled a lot of the fear in the minds of businessmen. Despite his "olive branch"-like talk, the gnawing fear of interference still exists.

Business can do a lot of things to make its own case clear. But this is the time for Washington to act—not talk. In business circles honest-to-goodness actions are the payoff. Not mere sweet talk.

For example, the Attorney General should make it letter-clear — in public—that he does not intend to use the FBI indiscriminately for his political bidding. That should be reserved for public enemies. We can assume that most businessmen and reporters are not in this class.

The above statements appeared in an editorial in the magazine Iron Age. We endorse them heartily and hasten to add a few more. A lot of the double talk we've been listening to from Washington is doing more harm than good.

If you are out to win over someone, you don't throw mud in his face. Business and businessmen are just not all that bad. Sure, there may be a few, but to spank the entire lot amounts to a kick in the seat of the pants from the leaders of our administration.

There is nothing wrong with the majority of successful business enterprises in this country. Yet it seems to have gotten to the point where the mere mention of business or success immediately takes on the connotation of a dirty word.

We would like to ask why.

This country was built on free enterprise and the system is a part of our way of life. It does not seem feasible to us for the Government to make new inroads under the claim of "national interest" in supervising more and more business activities.

For many years the stock market has been a fairly true barometer of our business climate. Look at it today.

Instead of asking the business leaders what's wrong with the economy, let's ask Washington.

Hollywoodites Continue to Live Life of Luxury

Even in Hollywood's palmier days, the late comedian FRED ALLEN once characterized the average movie star's homestead as "an empty swimming pool entirely surrounded by mortgages."

Homesteads, like switching mates, have not changed appreciably.

Singer Rosemary Clooney testified in her divorce suit that she was nearly $30,000 in debt and had nothing in the bank, but she has six servants whose combined wages for the first quarter of 1962 came to $3,376.

With herself and a flock of kids to feed and clothe, presumably she has other expenses, too. And now husband JOSE FERRER simply says he can't foot the bills. We wonder who could?

★ ★ ★

Critics say that in recent years Hollywood has turned to "realism" in films. Apparently not much of it has rubbed off on the dream world outside the studios.

Palm Beach Concludes Successful Season

(Palm Beach Illustrated)

Time has rushed through another festive Palm Beach season.

Palm Beach has enjoyed its busiest, most prosperous season, according to merchants and businessmen. It has entertained more visitors and winter colonists than in any previous season, according to town officials. Certainly, by our own reporting, it has been the gayest season of them all, with Palm Beach playing host to scores of nationally and internationally prominent visitors including our country's First Family, a king and his colorful retinue.

★ ★ ★

The worldwide renaissance of art has had its focus on Palm Beach. The theater has contributed full measure of good entertainment.

Fashion has made its headquarters here with merchants presenting the most elegant and most chic from all over the world. Fine restaurants and hotels have provided gourmet dining for the most discriminating palates.

★ ★ ★

Consistently beautiful, sunny weather has given sports a heyday and record shattering achievements have spiced the news.

Washington

Hold That Line

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It is going to take more than words; it is going to take some specific actions on pending wage negotiation cases to clarify President Kennedy's real policies toward "noninflationary" pay increases for labor.

★ ★ ★

Nearly all the comment on the President's speech to the United States Chamber of Commerce meeting here was concentrated on what he had to say about business. But there was another segment in labor policy which deserved equal attention.

The President first declared that his economic stabilization policy was based on holding both wage and price increases and providing for both profits and increased investment for modernization "within the limits of productivity."

This would set a ceiling over all costs of production in the hopes that this would not only lower prices to consumers but also stimulate increased purchasing.

IN A NUTSHELL

The President then made clear that he was not just applying this ceiling to business. He had, and would continue to apply it to labor. Breaking up the key paragraph to give full emphasis to its various points, the President declared:

"I add at this point that when an administration—

"has not hesitated to seek Taft-Hartley injunctions for national emergencies—

"has successfully urged moderation on the steel workers and other unions—

"has expressed a firm and continuing opposition to the 25 hour week, or anything less than the 40 hour week—

"has gone on record against featherbedding and racketeering and road blocks to automation—

"it surely does not need to be asked whether it will invoke the national interest whenever it is threatened."

That is about as unequivocal a statement that the President will crack down on labor if its demands go above "the limits of increased productivity" as could be made.

The tests for this statement will come soon.

A presidential fact-finding board has recommended a "non-inflationary" 10-cents-an-hour wage increase for 450,000 off-train railway employes. But the railroads say this would cost them $80 million a year and necessitate a rate rise. The brotherhoods ask a 25-cents-an-hour increase.

The railroads and the on-train employes are still negotiating on another presidential commissions recommendation principally affecting working conditions. But the 200,000 enginemen and trainmen have customarily been given wage increases similar to those granted off-train employes.

The aluminum industry will begin negotiations with its employe unions in mid-May to renew a contract expiring July 31. In general, the aluminum industry has followed wage patterns set in the steel industry.

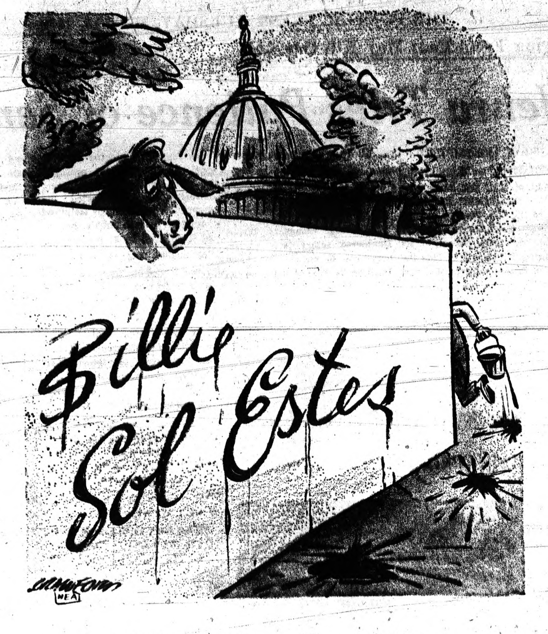

In aircraft and missile industry wage negotiations to come later, International Association of Machinists and United Auto Workers are asking for a "noninflationary" 3.5 per cent wage increase. That would soak up all the average national increase in productivity.

And Everything Was So Nice and Clean

David Lawrence Says:

Is Guilt by Association New Trend?

WASHINGTON — Suspicion does not necessarily mean guilt. Yet an emphasis on the improprieties committed by an official here and there in the Kennedy Administration in connection with the operations of Billie Sol Estes, a Texas businessman, has cast a cloud on the reputation of various persons who may be entirely innocent of any crime or wrongdoing.

LAWRENCE

This writer called attention to the tendency to rely on suspicion rather than evidence when the name of Harry Vaughan was in the headlines during the Truman administration, because of his part in collecting contributions during the 1948 campaign and his acceptance later of the gift of a "deep-freeze" from a friend.

★ ★ ★

Also Sherman Adams, personal assistant to President Eisenhower, was similarly criticized because he took some gifts and accepted favors from an old friend who was trying to obtain governmental benefits.

Yet there has never been any evidence that either Harry Vaughan or Sherman Adams really violated any law.

There is the case of Jerry R. Holleman, who has just resigned as assistant secretary of labor. He has known Mr. Estes for ten years, and they were close friends, both attending the Church of Christ in Austin, Tex., where Mr. Holleman taught a Sunday school class.

HELPED IN CAMPAIGN

The latter was assistant director of the 1960 national political campaign in his home state. Did he feel he knew Mr. Estes well enough to consider that, by accepting a gift, he would not be compromised?

There is only one kind of operation in which the Department of Labor could play a part favorable to the Texas cotton man, and this has to do with migratory labor. Representative Jim Wright of Texas, Democrat, in a public statement says Mr. Holleman took a position opposite to that of Mr. Estes on this question.

This writer doesn't know Mr. Holleman but believes he may be receiving a punishment that is not deserved. He resigned, of course, to avoid political embarrassment to the Administration, but if he really did nothing wrong, then should not the resignation have been declined?

Mr. Holleman has been active in politics for a long time. He was president of the Federation of Labor in Texas. Unhappily, the ways of politics develop customs which are condoned but which have their roots in a jaundiced view of what is ethical or unethical.

Thus, Mr. Holleman apparently saw nothing wrong in the suggestion that Mr. Estes pay the expense of a dinner that was given by Secretary of Labor Goldberg last January in Washington in honor of Vice President Lyndon Johnson.

Mr. Goldberg sensed the impropriety immediately, however, and insisted on paying for the dinner himself. Mr. Holleman would never have suggested it if he had not been accustomed to the ways of politics.

The Country Parson

Dr. William Brady Says:

Use Aspirin for Pain but Never Expect Cure

A recent newspaper story said that doctors in Providence, R.I., were alarmed about the increased incidence of aspirin poisoning in children. They said 50 per cent of all poisonings of children were aspirin poisonings.

BRADY

Children are given flavored aspirin. A pediatrician said responsibility rests squarely with the parents.

Well, now (remember Fibber McGee's druggist?), I wouldn't say that. I'd say the latter-day specialists are responsible for it.

When Mrs. Smart Alec Snob telephones her pediatrician (an ordinary doctor isn't good enough) that little Harold has a brassy cough and a temperature of 100, does the doctor pass up $50 worth of business waiting in his reception room to visit the patient for $20? No, that isn't the way latter-day specialists do business.

He directs Mrs. Snob to keep little Harold well under the covers, give him plenty of liquids and a couple baby aspirins, and report again at 4 o'clock.

Prescribing aspirin by telephone is a slick trick if you can do it—and you can if you're a smart businessman.

Acetyl-salicylic acid is aspirin. Nobody has a patent on it, and anybody may make and sell it, although the bulk of it is made by two or three large chemical companies. The aspirin for which you pay 29 cents is just as good as that for which you pay 69 cents.

Aspirin at any price is purely and simply an analgesic—it relieves ache or pain for an hour or so. It has no known remedial or curative effect and so, I maintain, it should never be used except to relieve ache or pain.

ARTHRITIS TO YOU

For headache, neuralgia, backache, leg ache, the pain of rheumatiz ("arthritis" to you), grip or the malaise of any acute infection ("cold" to you), aspirin is much less dangerous than other popular analgesics such as acetanilid and phenacetin (the main ingredients in scores of nostrums purporting to give fast relief).

Occasionally, a dose or two of aspirin produces alarming heart weakness, with extremely rapid pulse, edematous swelling of face and mucous membranes with eversion of lids and lips from the swelling and sometimes swelling of the throat.

More frequently, the untoward effects of a dose or two of aspirin are profuse sweating, cold extremities, fall of body temperature, rapid, irregular pulse.

My advice to anyone who ventures to take a dose of aspirin is: sit or lie at rest for at least half an hour after the dose. If you can't do so, hold the aspirin until you can. Anyway, remember, aspirin is the least dangerous painkiller we have, but it is stupid to use it as a remedy for illness.

Voice of the People:

'Not All People From City Monopolize the Lakes'

A writer recently complained of paying "high taxes" to live on the lake. Apparently, this person has little else to do but sit and watch the "speeding, drunken, city people." "All" the city people couldn't possibly be out drinking and speeding every weekend. Have the decency not to include "all" the people in your outburst.

'Mentally Retarded Should Be Helped'

It is gratifying to see the articles regarding programs for the mentally retarded versus an auditorium for the Oakland County Board of Supervisors. It would be nice to see more coverage on this.

★ ★ ★

I was displeased with the results of the vote and can't see why any supervisor would prefer to have an auditorium before setting up a program for the mentally retarded.

★ ★ ★

Those supervisors who were opposed to any consideration for the mentally retarded should stop and think about what they are doing.

Edith Newman

Thanks for the prompt action in printing all important news. The supervisors of the townships have voted to take money needed for retarded children to build an auditorium instead. Since they already have one, how can they do such an unkind thing? They would not be so quick if their children had special problems. What will become of these children if they aren't helped?

Mrs. R. King

Three per cent of our population (on a national average) is mentally retarded to the extent of needing special help. There are over 2,000 in Oakland County. When will our law makers wake up to the fact that it is better to educate these youngsters? With special training they could emerge into adulthood as useful and productive citizens.

Is there any way to get the supervisors to change their decision?

Mrs. E. Sumbur
Union Lake

Our son is retarded and we love and enjoy him the same as our other children. He gets along very well in the family, but he does need to attend school. Programs are needed so desperately for these children.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Melchert
Walled Lake

Thank you for the article "Supervisors OK New Auditorium." We are sorry to hear a building is more important than help for the mentally retarded children.

Many of us have a loveable little child or grandchild with some sort of mental ailment. We hope and pray something can be done and soon.

Mrs. G. E. Shirtliff
Walled Lake

I cannot understand why Chairman David Levinson would want to deprive Oakland County retarded children of a long needed home. All the money he wants to spend on a meeting place could surely be put to a better use.

James Henry

The article on the county board's OK for a new meeting place instead of help for retarded children sent me in a fury. I'd like to congratulate you for printing it.

★ ★ ★

These children are considered second-class. We have laws in Michigan to protect the first-class people, only because of majority. These children only give love. God made them that way, as He was.

★ ★ ★

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Hold Discussions With Teen-Agers

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE M-414: Leo Sullivan is a big, handsome man who should be a challenge to everybody.

For Leo was struck by polio. He spent two years in an iron lung and as a patient at Warm Springs, Georgia.

DR. CRANE

By sheer will power, he fought his way back until now he gets around readily with the aid of aluminum arm supports. And his dimpled wife, Jean, serves as his social secretary and often chauffeurs him to his many engagements.

He is a spark plug in various constructive youth organizations.

During the past winter, he brought 35 members of the Miami County Youth Council to Chicago for a Sunday excursion.

They attended my Bible class and then we all dined together afterwards.

I had slanted my Sunday school lesson to this crowd of teen-agers, with their few adult chaperones.

And after the dinner, I spoke again 45 minutes and answered questions from the young folks.

We discussed the value of finishing high school and even going on for at least one year of college, just for the greater financial earnings that accrue.

★ ★ ★

For Dr. Paul C. Glick, of our census bureau, has pointed out the terse fact that a high school diploma brings you $49,000 more in your future lifetime earnings, and each year of college adds an extra $25,000.

We also covered such items as the hazards of "going steady" and the dangers of teen-age infatuations, as well as teen-age marriages.

Also, we mentioned the zooming increase in venereal diseases among teen-agers, for in the past five years venereal infection in our larger cities has zoomed about 300 per cent, with most of it among teen-agers.

We covered the value of holding "fear parties" wherein teen-agers could cite their anxieties and fears, whether of snakes and lightning, or of failing exams and unpopularity.

These "fear parties" can be used from the early grades clear up to old age, for a lot of menopausal worries would disappear if the adults would hold "talk clinics" in the churches to thresh out these submerged or hidden phobias and misunderstandings.

This newspaper column is primarily a "talk clinic" wherein I let you readers hear the frank confessions of patients who have visited my office.

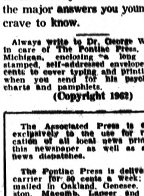

Thus, you frequently see yourselves, as it were, in the similar worries that are admitted by my office patients.

We suggested to this large group of young folks that they help their classmates by presiding at talk clinics, where everybody would be encouraged to toss his problem upon the table.

Young people often wield more influence with their own age group and can obtain quicker discussion of problems, for their is less formality than when older folks are presiding.

★ ★ ★

So get your school or church to set up such talk clinics. Use some of the educational booklets offered via this newspaper to help steer the discussion and add pertinent facts.

Send for the booklet "Sex Problems of Young People." Pass it around widely for it holds some of the major answers you young folks crave to know.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4 cent stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

What Do Parents Do?

Child Hates to Practice

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I strenuously disagree with your advice to NO CHOPIN. There is no better way to kill a child's interest in music than to force him to take lessons and practice when he would rather be doing something else.

ABBY

As a boy I had considerable talent and might have made music my career, except for the seven years I was forced to take lessons. This prevented me from ever becoming a decent pianist. I think "NO CHOPIN" should be allowed to forget the piano until he has a natural desire to take it up.

MIGHT-HAVE-BEEN

DEAR MIGHT: The best years for learning are the youthful years. And if children are permitted to put off the study of math, science, history, grammar, religion and music until they have a "natural desire" to learn, many would never learn.

I would like to know how a child with musical talent can develop it without instruction and practice. And so would millions of parents.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: We have a problem with our women's bowling league. We want to know how long a woman, who is pregnant, should be allowed to stay on the team. We want to set down a rule, but find it very difficult. Can you, or any experienced women bowlers help us?

BOWLERS

DEAR BOWLERS: The very thought of a pregnant woman bowling makes my back ache. Why must you have a rule? Let each pregnant bowler bowl as long as her doctor allows her to.

DEAR ABBY: Will you tell me if it is proper to bring an "escort" to a wedding? I am being married soon, and many of my friends have told me that if they can't bring their own "escorts" they are not coming. I have invited about 16 of my girl friends to my wedding and reception and I cannot afford to let them each bring an escort. What should I do?

UPSET BRIDE-TO-BE

DEAR UPSET: An engaged guest may request permission to bring her "intended" to a wedding. But not any old "escort."

* * *

How's the world treating you? For a personal unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of The Pontiac Press.

Well, What's New? Lots!

The Ray Comstocks from the Yerba Buena Mission, Chiatas, Mexico, were recent house guests of Dr. and Mrs. Glenn W. Bylsma of Stout Street.

They brought with them a native couple, Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Diaz, who helped with the home and school program for the Pontiac Junior Academy at Riverside Seventh Day Adventist Church on Mt. Clemens Street. They brought along colorful native dresses and pictures.

The 29-year-old Mrs. Diaz is the Mother-of-the-year from Mexico Indian tribes and has three children, ages 3, 6 and 12.

TRANSLATING BIBLE

Her husband is translating the New Testament into his native tongue. The Chamual Indians have only about 2,000 words and their language has never been written. He speaks Spanish and as the Comstocks' translator, invents ways to express the Bible in his language. He is to check his translation of the Gospels with the American Bible Society before it is printed.

Returned to their home on Dwight Avenue are the John Venemans who have closed their ocean-front apartment at Daytona Beach, Fla., occupied by them since early January.

Side trips to Anna Maria Island on the Gulf Coast, where they renewed friendships made in five seasons there, and a few days with Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Savage during the Bible conference in Boca Raton, account for the good round figure of 9,000 miles on the family car.

Is the Twist the Dance of Lonely Despair?

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"Stay away from other guys
BOOM BOOM . . . BOOM BOOM
Stay away from that gal
BOOM BOOM . . . BOOM BOOM
Stay away . . . stay away . . .

Over the night club's dance floor the lights were dimmed. On the floor near-man and near-woman, adolescent boy and adolescent girl danced, not together but alone, separate, their hips pushing and retreating as the pistons of engines push and retreat, their eyes blank, drugged, seeing neither themselves or each other, their ears crowded by the shrieks of the combo's saxophones, the whine of electric guitars, the drum's BOOM BOOM BOOM.

Have you seen young people dancing the twist?

If you have, you must have seen that they are not dancing but grinding down questions to which they no longer expect answers.

SEARCHING

If you have, you must have seen that the eyes are blank because searching has ended in Nothing, that the ears welcome deafness because what is heard is no longer worth hearing. In their swiveling hips you must have recognized the loneliest merry-go-round that youth has ever had to ride on.

Said the poet who sat beside me, "It's The Bomb."

Is it?

Is the Lonely Dance about The Bomb? Is the space so carefully preserved between the near-men and near-women the knowledge that it all adds up to BOOM BOOM BOOM?

I'm asking you.

In the dimly lighted night club I took my pulse.

★ ★ ★

The synchronized howls of the combo were ahead of my pulse, the beat faster than the natural beat of the human heart, screaming for a speed faster than the speed which should be asked of the human heart.

★ ★ ★

The poet who sat beside me said, "It is the tempo of hysteria. They dance to the glory of St. Vitus."

Four times I have seen the twist danced by my town's near-men and near-women.

Please don't write to me about the also-crazy dancing fads of last year and the years before that. I know them and have danced them and they were not this unjoyous and disconnected prancing of despair.

If we must recall the past, let's really do it. Let's recall Europe's Middle Ages and the dancing maniacs danced against the coming of plague and the sweep of the Black Death.

I wish that instead of twisting with despair in such lonely fashion, the near-men and near-women could cry out,

"We are afraid. We want love and cannot find it. We want hope and cannot trust it. Tell us at least that you know how it is with us."

Joint Bank Account Means Faith, Trust

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(Editor's Note—A condensation of Abigail Van Buren's new book "Dear Abby on Marriage" is appearing daily in The Pontiac Press in 24 installments under the serialized title "Hi-Infidelity.")

Biblical scholars may dispute me, but I have a hunch that the forbidden stuff in the Garden of Eden was lettuce! The folding kind. If money is not the root of all evil, I will nominate it as the most potent fertilizer.

★ ★ ★

Who should handle the $$$? That depends. Some husbands can't be bothered. Others wouldn't know how to be bothered. There's no law that says husbands must control the family Fort Knox.

★ ★ ★

If the wife has the dollar sense — plus a husband who doesn't know how to manage money — then she should get the nod as guardian of the household treasure. In many homes the hand that rocks the cradle also cradles the rocks.

But one principle must guide the handling of money; all assets must be considered the property of both parties! This isn't a recommendation for unrestricted joint checking accounts (in some hands a checkbook can be dangerous).

But both parties should agree on how the money should be spent, and they should regularly check their balances and canceled checks together. This is real "togetherness" — a sharing of interest and responsibility that draws marriage partners closer together. For the same reason, no husband is justified in concealing money matters from wives like this one:

DEAR ABBY:

How do you approach the subject of money with your husband? We've been married for over a year and I don't know how much he makes or even how much rent we pay. I never see any of the bills. He tells me not to open them. He takes all the bills and pays them. I get an allowance for spending money, and it is more than enough so I save a little.

The other day he asked me to sign a paper stating he was taking out a $1,000 loan. I don't know what he needs a loan for. We are supposed to have money in the bank. When I ask questions about finances he tells me not to worry. But worry, anyway. Do you think that a wife should know something about the financial situation in marriage?

IN THE DARK

"In the Dark's" husband needs to be enlightened before someone pulls the switch in that confused household. A wife should always know what comes in, what goes out and why and where. One way to keep marriage off the rocks is not to hide too many things under them.

A budget? Yes! Nothing that requires an IBM computer, understand, but alloting specific amounts to each general area of spending.

One final word about "personal" allowances. They are vital! Both husband and wife should have one. I don't mean for clothes and items that are vital necessities — I mean personal . . . to spend where and as they please, with no questions asked and no accounts to be rendered. Love and the human spirit need breathing space.

★ ★ ★

It's especially degrading for a wife to have to ask her husband for money for bobby pins, nylons or cologne. Besides, if she's like most wives, she's probably stashing a little boodle in the sugar bowl so she can buy her husband something special for Christmas!

'How to Keep Your Husband Alive'

Take Care of That 'Cured' Heart of His

(Editor's Note — Following is the eighth in a series of 12 articles by Dr. Kenneth C. Hutchin, English doctor and noted author, condensed from his new book "How Not to Kill Your Husband.")

By KENNETH C. HUTCHIN, M. D.

It is abnormal for blood to clot inside any part of the circulatory system. The clotting of blood within this system is called thrombosis.

It may occur in the heart, the arteries, or in veins. When it occurs in a coronary artery, it is known as a coronary thrombosis.

★ ★ ★

The formation of a thrombosis in a main branch of a coronary artery may be instantly fatal, because heart muscles cannot survive for even a short-time without oxygen.

★ ★ ★

If, however, thrombosis occurs gradually, a life-saving collateral circulation may develop.

If a large branch of a coronary artery is suddenly plugged by a thrombosis, the case is desperately serious. It may not be fatal if the patient receives the correct treatment without delay, but it will be touch and go.

TERRIBLE PAIN

When it occurs, a man will be suddenly struck down by the most terrible pain known to man.

This pain is a blessing in disguise because the slightest exertion may place demands on the shocked heart which it cannot meet and cause it to fail completely.

A heart attack of this sort can occur when a man is overexerting himself physically, when he is taking some moderate exercise, or when he is completely at rest.

★ ★ ★

Often it occurs in the middle of the night after a man has overexerted himself or overeaten during the preceding day or days. He may or may not have had some warning pains in the chest during the previous weeks.

OVERINDULGENCE

Overindulgence in almost anything can precede an attack — including responsibility, playing games, cigarette-smoking, eating, drinking, hurrying, worrying, or manual work.

★ ★ ★

Many cases of coronary thrombosis are immediately fatal because the heart cannot recover from the primary shock of having its blood supply interrupted. The effect is to throw the heart muscles into a state of quivering, ineffective fluttering.

★ ★ ★

The majority of people who suffer from coronary thrombosis live after treatment and a period of bed rest. Not only live in the sense of keeping alive, but they live to enjoy life afterward. They may have certain restrictions on what they can do, what they can eat, how much they can smoke, etc., for some time.

But even if these restrictions are permanent, they have sufficient freedom to make life very worthwhile for them.

Sudden coronary occlusion calls for summoning the doctor immediately day or night. No doctor minds being called without a moment's delay in a case of coronary thrombosis, because immediate action on the part of the doctor may avert a tragedy.

'DON'T MOVE'

A person who is struck down with an intense pain in the chest should be kept perfectly still and allowed to make no effort of any sort.

The doctor's arriving and calmly giving the patient an injection will relieve not only the pain but also the patient's terror. Immediately after this injection has taken effect, the pain goes and the great feeling of alarm is relieved, but even a slight physical exertion, such as attempting to get up out of bed or merely easing himself up in bed, must not be allowed.

★ ★ ★

The modern treatment of coronary thrombosis consists of complete bed rest with sedation with or without anticoagulants. The patient must be kept under sedatives to ensure mental as well as physical rest. Worry must be allayed and any physical exertion prevented during the first three weeks. "NO visitors" must be the rule.

★ ★ ★

Even in the early stages, when absolute rest is essential, however, it is often necessary to allow one or two important business interviews. The desperately ill patient with something on his mind is the better for getting it off his chest.

SHORT TALKS

This must be well prepared so that the interview is as short as possible. Some men who are desperately ill may only achieve peace of mind after a very brief visit from their minister or priest.

★ ★ ★

The patient is allowed to move about a little in bed and feed himself after the third week, but he must remain completely in bed for six weeks. The convalescent period lasts another six weeks.

★ ★ ★

The man who has been cured of coronary thrombosis will remain well as long as he remains within the limits the doctor has set for him. He will be able to live a full life, but he will never be fit for hard physical exertion. In time he will be able to do most things, but he must keep his weight down and avoid animal fat. He will be able to walk, play golf, swim, or play an easy game of tennis. He must avoid getting overtired or wet, and lifting, pulling, or pushing heavy weights.

He can work in the garden, but he must avoid digging, sawing and using an ax. He must not hurry, especially on a full stomach, carry heavy bags, put the tire chains on the car, or shovel snow.

NO MOUNTAINS

Above all, he must not go to high altitudes, and even at moderate altitudes, below eight thousand feet, he must not exert himself at all.

Whatever method of treatment is adopted, the time must come, usually in about three months, when the patient needs to be rehabilitated, and many a man who is rarin' to go finds that he cannot face up to it when the time comes.

In some cases he is encouraged by his wife to take a few weeks longer. You can see her point of view. She has had a terrible experience.

★ ★ ★

She will not let him go for two reasons: one, she is afraid of what might happen, and two, subconsciously, she wants to keep him under her wing.

★

But she must accept the fact that her husband has been cured, but he cannot return to health until he returns to life.

Beauty Shop Can Be Gal's Second Home

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A beauty salon in Levittown, N.Y., is open every Wednesday night to men only.

Since the idea seems to have caught on in Levittown that a man as well as a woman might look younger with a dye job or better groomed after a mud pack, facial and manicure, it just might spread to the rest of the country.

In that case, men ought to know a little about how to behave in the heretofore feminine world of the beauty shop.

They should know that women demand and get a lot of extra services when they get a hairdo or a facial.

Women customers expect the operators who work on them to be good listeners who will gasp, cluck, soothe or sympathize as the need requires depending on whether the customer wants to pass on gossip, take her husband's relatives apart, talk about her operation or tell her troubles.

Women expect to make and receive telephone calls at a beauty salon, so the shops are accustomed to having their receptionists serve as secretaries to their customers.

Women never miss a beauty appointment just because they haven't anyone to leave with junior. Junior is just turned loose in the shop while mom relaxes under the dryer unmindful that her little darling is taking the shop apart.

Women expect to be served coffee while they dry, or even to send out for a sandwich if they have skipped lunch.

Women expect to read the magazines they consider too expensive to subscribe to themselves, and they complain loudly if every slick magazine on the market isn't available in their beauty shops.

So just make yourselves at home, men, when it's your turn to take over the beauty shops. Women sure do.

Also good reading under the dryer is Ruth Millett's "Tips on Teen-Agers," Mail 25 cents to Ruth Millett Reader Service, c/o The Pontiac Press, P.O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 19, N.Y.

Mental Illness Needs Help

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The great progress which has been made recently in the control and cure of mental illness is one of the most exciting and rewarding things which is happening on the modern scene. Mental illness IS an illness just as tuberculosis and cancer are.

So much has been learned and there are so many new weapons with which to fight this malady!

There are the tranquilizing and antidepressant drugs, shock therapy, individual psychotherapy and group therapy.

In the past many dread diseases have been conquered such as typhoid fever, smallpox and diphtheria. Now polio and tuberculosis are about whipped, and before long science no doubt will vanquish heart disease and cancer. These successes have been possible because medical research has been backed by the public.

Mental illness is now on the list of enemies to be understood and controlled.

FOLLOWING DISCHARGE

The Mental Health Association helps find the patient a job if he needs it, or a place to live if he has no family or if it is best for him to live away from the family, and helps him get essential medication.

A warm welcome from family and friends and those who understand is of the greatest value.

More after-care medical clinics are needed for those discharged from mental hospitals. More ex-patient clubs and "half - way houses" are essential to aid the individual in adjusting to the society to which he has returned.

Research has shown that the more adequate the rehabilitative services the community is able to provide, the fewer readmissions there will be.

If you think you're worrying too much, you may benefit from my leaflet, "Worry," which tells you how to break this habit. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 64 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

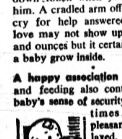

Tranquilizer pills as prescribed by your doctor are valuable aids in combating mental illness. Mental illness is an illness just as tuberculosis and cancer are.

Bringing Up Baby.

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

A happy baby is a baby beloved. But baby's inner security stems from knowing he is loved. And the ways you can tell him are wonderful, indeed: by the croon of your voice when you speak to him . . . your thistledown touch when you care for him. A cradled arm offered . . . a cry for help answered. Mother love may not show up in inches and ounces but it certainly makes a baby grow inside.

A happy association with food and feeding also contributes to baby's sense of security. If mealtimes are kept pleasant and relaxed, baby will learn that food is something to look forward to.

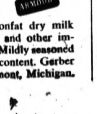

Mealtime satisfaction assured when you serve Gerber Strained Foods. For they're specially prepared to make baby want to beckon for seconds. Flavors are naturally good . . . the texture ever so nice to the tongue. In fact, baby will enjoy getting the many different nutrients he needs from the many different varieties Gerber offers. Over 50 choices—each makes a specific nutritional contribution.

Super supper suggestion: Gerber Creamed Cottage Cheese with Pineapple, served with Gerber Sweet Potatoes and a Gerber Fruit. Just as luscious for lunch.

The experts say: physical well-being goes hand in hand with a sense of security. Happy is the baby who reaps all the benefits of adequate exercise, sweet sleep and a nutritionally sound diet. Makes sense, too. Babies with vim 'n vigor are less apt to be fussy . . . more apt to take new challenges in stride.

Big news for finger-feeders. Your baby will love to play "pick up sticks" with Gerber Meat Sticks. For they are ever so tasty . . . nutritious, too. Made from juicy Armour Pork and Beef, plus nonfat dry milk solids for protein and other important nutrients. Mildly seasoned . . . extra-low fat content. Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.

Long Island RR Gives 'Stamps'

Coupons Handed Out With Tickets Allow Subdiscount Buying

NEW YORK (AP) — The Long Island Rail Road, the nation's largest commuter line, yesterday began issuing a form of trading coupons to its passengers.

The coupons are passed out free to ticket purchasers. They are worthless in themselves, but when turned in they allow merchandise purchases described as below discount prices.

★ ★ ★

A spokesman for the line said the purpose of the idea is to encourage business and to sort of serve a a "thank you" to rider "who have stuck with us through thick and thin."

FRINGE BENEFIT

"It's a fringe benefit and we hope it will make commuting just a little more pleasant," he added.

To get a catalogue of the items offered, commuters fill out an application for membership in the "Legion of Influential Rail Riders."

The value coupons are given out on a basis of one for each one-way ticket, five with a Ladies' Day, weekend special or round-trip ticket, 10 with a 10-trip ticket and 50 with a commutation ticket.

★ ★

The catalogue tells how many coupons must be turned in for each item and the cost. Passengers mail in their coupons and cash and the items are mailed back to them.

English Auction 'Shelled' From Artillery Range

MARKET LAVINGTON, England (AP) — Auctioneer George Austin was about to sell a set of matched chairs at an open-air auction on a local farm Monday when a 25-pound high explosive shell fell in a field several hundred yards away with a terrific blast.

★ ★ ★

The shell brought down a power line, shattered windows in two nearby buildings and showered stones and earth on a farm shed.

★ ★ ★

"This shell was a 'plus' shot," an Army spokesman said. "It was on a correct line of flight but overshot by about 2,000 yards. A board of inquiry has been convened to investigate the cause."

One-Room School Lives On

Pontiac Press Photos by Lee Winborn

ONE-ROOM SCHOOL — Only one-room school left in Oakland County is the North Oxford School about four miles north of the Village of Oxford. Off by itself, the lone building in an expanse of rolling farmland, the school is operated by the North Oxford School District, whose voters turned down a proposal to become consolidated in the Oxford Area Community School District about six years ago. The Oxford school board has an open invitation to the school to join the consolidated district, but North Oxford likes its one-room school the way it is.

By JIM DYGERT

★ ★ ★

Those fondly remembered and picturesque structures are a thing of the past now — except for a school about four miles north of the Village of Oxford.

There, on the crest of a hill standing alone in the midst of rolling farmland, away from modern hustle and bustle and such worries as teacher-student ratios and operating-tax increases; is the lone remaining one-room schoolhouse in Oakland County.

Although the building's brick is tan and only the door, chimney and some shingles are red, the North Oxford School at 2700 N. Oxford Rd. has all the other things a little red schoolhouse implies.

The school's 19 students go from kindergarten through the eighth grade in the same room and with the same teacher.

★ ★ ★

"It makes one wonder what a teacher does with her time who has only one grade to teach," says Mrs. Viola Woodward, the school's teacher for the last five years.

★ ★ ★

One grade doesn't interfere with another, however, as recitation chairs next to Mrs. Woodward's desk allow students to recite a grade at a time without distracting other grade students from their studies.

"You have to have a system," says Mrs. Woodward about being responsible for so wide a range of education.

Key to the system is cooperation. Seventh and eighth graders cook the lunches in a section of the room enclosed by a partition and containing a stove and a refrigerator while sixth grader Dale Plack, 11, collects the lunch money.

DURING PLAY

The older students also help look after their younger schoolmates, especially during recreation periods of games and tumbling in the basement or on the slides and swings of the playground.

★ ★ ★

It's the only school in the North Oxford School District which was left as the county's only primary school district about six years ago when the district's 60 or so decided not to take part in the consolidation of 13 primary districts into the Oxford Area Community School District.

OFFICIALS UNHAPPY

Nostalgia, however, is not the sentiment with which county and Oxford school officials regard the one-room schoolhouse. "It's archaic," says Oakland County School Superintendent William J. Emerson.

Roger Oberg, Oxford School superintendent, is unhappy about it, too. He feels the children would get a much finer education with the modern facilities and methods of his school system.

Although the Oxford Area Board of Education has given a standing invitation to North Oxford to join the consolidated district, Oberg says he doesn't expect it to be accepted in the near future.

Mrs. Woodward and Mrs. Alice Laidlaw, secretary of the school board whose members are elected at annual meetings of voters at the school, agree with Oberg on his prediction but not on his complaint.

They feel their students are getting a better education with the individual attention possible at North Oxford. Mrs. Woodward points to the fact that she helps two students in the Oxford district who live near her home.

Mrs. Woodward's only reservation concerns seventh and eighth graders, who, she says, "would get some advantages from attending a junior high school."

A better education at North Oxford and the fact that their school would have been closed and their students required to go by bus to Oxford are the reasons given by Mrs. Laidlaw for the vote against joining the consolidation.

IT'S MONEY

Oberg, however, doesn't take that explanation seriously. "It's money," he says, citing some statistics showing that North Oxford taxpayers pay only $8.17 per $1,000 assessed valuation compared to Oxford's $22.25.

Oberg also points out that North Oxford's $804,000 total valuation gives them more than $40,000 per student, compared to $9,025 for Oxford and $14,000 for Michigan. In addition, North Oxford receives some state aid.

North Oxford's low tax rate is possible, Oberg explains, because it need not contribute to support of a high school, a junior high school and other school programs considered necessary today in consolidated districts.

It's in regard to high school that Mrs. Laidlaw speaks when she says, "This is a pretty sore subject out here."

North Oxford's graduates go to high school in Dryden, where the district must pay their tuition. Oxford is accused of refusing to accept their high school students either out of spite or to force North Oxford to join the consolidated district.

Oberg denies this, saying it's only because Oxford has a policy of not accepting tuition students.

North Oxford, however, is happy with Dryden High School. Mrs. Laidlaw, who will not seek re-election June 11 after nine years on the school board because she is moving her residence ("Only way to get off the board here is to die or move away —") says the high schoolers are getting a better education in Dryden than they would at Oxford, and for less money.

The one-room schoolhouse on N. Oxford Road may remain the county school system's last nostalgic link with the past for a long time to come.

COMPARE LESSONS — The North Oxford School's only eighth grader, Nelson Williams, 13, shows his lessons to Jeanie Place, 8, the school's lone third grader, while teacher Mrs. Viola Woodward looks on. The one-room school has a total of 19 students enrolled in kindergarten through the eighth grade, with the first, fourth and seventh grade tying for largest enrollment with three each.

Wolverine Lake Sets Dedication

★ ★ ★

The noon ceremony at the $17,000 building, 425 Glengary Road, will be followed by an open house.

Guest of honor will be the mayor of Clare, David Donovan.

Village President Pro Tem Norman Shinsman will serve as host while Village President Oscar Fritz and Clerk Jessie K. Johnson are visiting Clare.

The pastors of three area churches will officiate at the dedication ceremony. They are Rev. Robert Shade, Shepherd of the Lakes Lutheran Church; Rev. Dewey Davis, Church of God; and Rev. Raymond Jones, St. William Catholic Church.

★ ★ ★

The one-story cinder block building was occupied last October. The hall houses the police department and the clerk's office, in addition to council chambers and garage facilities for village-owned vehicles.

Future plans call for construction of an addition to the 32-by 60-foot building.

To Advise Parents of Pupils to Attend Smart Jr. High

WALLED LAKE — An orientation program will be held May 23 for all parents of students who will be attending Clifford H. Smart Junior High School for the first time next fall.

Parents of sixth graders from Twin Beach, Union Lake, Glengary, Commerce, Smart, Dublin, Our Lady of Refuge, and St. Patrick's are invited to attend the 8 p.m. meeting at the junior high school.

Principal Murray Adams will address the parents concerning curriculum, school procedures, book rentals, rules of the school and other pertinent information.

Staff members as well as several students also will discuss the academic and nonacademic activities that will be available to the new students.

During this time the new students will receive a handbook containing information on clubs, the noon hour program, the library and music departments, the counseling program and assemblies.

Rochester Chiefs OK New Budget, Tax Hike

ROCHESTER — The Village Council here last night adopted a $418,100 budget for 1962-63 and approved a tax increase of $1.50 per $1,000 assessed valuation, the village's first tax hike in 16 years.

★ ★ ★

Councilmen also appointed a 14-member Citizen's Advisory Committee to work with village officials and planning consultants Vilican-Lennan Associates, Inc., in preparing plans for an urban renewal program.

The new budget's 18½ mill tax rate is 1½ mills higher than the 1961-62 levy and the highest since 1949. Last time the village tax was raised was in 1946 when it was jumped from 17 to 19.

Main features of the new budget are the addition of a patrolman to the police force and pay raises for policemen.

NO OPPOSITION

A public hearing three weeks ago revealed no opposition by residents to the tax boost.

Appointment of the 14-member citizen's committee for urban renewal is part of the village's preparation for application to the federal government for urban renewal funds.

The government requires submission of a "workable program" including citizen support and participation in the form of such a committee.

Appointed to the committee were R. Neil Rosso, 104½ W. Fifth St.; Earl Cargill, 320 Wesley St.; Rev. Robert H. Jacobson, 1306 N. Pine St.; Frank Voll Jr., 302 Glendale St.; Weston Ellis, 126 E. Third St.; Mrs. Richard C. Jerome, 157 Ferndale St.; and Dr. L. W. Meistrom, 303 W. University Drive.

★

Set Meeting to Show New Students School

TROY — A Spring Round-Up to introduce sixth graders and their parents to Baker Junior High School is planned for 8 tonight in the school auditorium.

Sponsored by the school's Parent-Teachers Association, the meeting also will feature installation of officers for the 1962-63 school year.

Pickle Packers Planning Sewage Disposal System

IMLAY CITY — Officials of Vlasic Food Products Co., which operates a pickle plant employing about 100 here, have announced plans for construction of a sewage disposal system that permits them to stay in Imlay City.

★ ★ ★

Engineering is under way on a lagoon type system to include a 10-acre pond and two and a half miles of pipe to control release of industrial waste into the Belle River south of the village.

Construction is slated to start early this summer.

The system will cost the company $125,000 or more, according to Albert Dubin, the firm's vice president and treasurer.

A June 30 deadline to solve the water pollution problem created during the summer's pickle packing season had threatened to force the company to relocate.

★ ★ ★

The deadline was given the village by the State Health Department and the Michigan Water Resources Commission.

The 8 p.m. meeting will be the association's last for the 1961-62 year.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Leif Hougen, superintendent, will speak briefly on the millage proposal to be voted on at the June 11 school board election.

The school board is asking that voters approve a two-mill tax increase for operations. This would be done without increasing the total tax rate by reducing bonded indebtedness by two mills.

Lyon School Board Sets Millage Vote

SOUTH LYON — A millage proposal that was defeated Saturday by voters in the Lyon Township School District will be requested again in the June 11 annual school board election.

★ ★ ★

The board of education scheduled the vote last night, two days after the rejection of a 6.5 mill proposal by a 622 to 472 vote.

No tax increase is involved with the new millage proposal, which is identical to the one turned down.

Four of the mills would be a renewal of recently expired taxes, and the remaining 2.5 mills would be converted from a building and site fund into the operational budget.

WOULD UP FUNDS

The total 6.5 mills would provide the school district with approximately $140,000 annually for operations.

According to Supt. Frank Bartlett it is imperative that the money be provided otherwise the school board will have to reduce the curriculum program.

Funds from the transfer would chiefly be used to meet across-the-board salary increases of $300 for the district's 70 teachers. New contracts already have been approved.

★ ★ ★

If the proposal is turned down, Bartlett said it will be necessary to operate on a deficit budget because the school board has an obligation to meet the pay raises.

The teacher salary schedule had been the lowest in the county.

Sewer Contract Action Delayed

Troy Commission Sets Meeting Thursday to Consider Proposal

TROY — An agenda packed with time-consuming public hearings last night kept the Troy City Commission once again from considering a proposed contract for construction of the Dequindre Sanitary Interceptor Sewer, a project that must be completed before Troy can have sanitary sewers.

★ ★ ★

A special meeting was set for 7:30 p.m. Thursday to review the contract. Last Thursday's special meeting, originally scheduled for consideration of the contract, was taken up instead by discussion of the city's budget.

A public hearing on the budget and its final adoption will come up Monday.

Discussion of a water expansion program to tie Troy's water system into Detroit's was also scheduled for Thursday. Plans for the program have been prepared by City Manager David E. Firestone.

Some 25 residents attended last night's meeting for public hearings on three water projects. Almost all of them registered approval of the projects.

Commissioners tabled the project to await a legal opinion on combining the three widely separated projects into one program with one contractor.

Any Conclusions on Life?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Jumping to conclusions:

Nervous tension is one of the leading ailments of civilization. But eight out of 10 people would feel less tense if they'd simply get one more hour of sleep a night, walk a mile more a day in the open air—and worry a third as much about the other fellow's problems as they do their own.

PCH Certain to Retain Press Sports Trophy

Pontiac Central is certain of winning the handsome Pontiac Press All-Sports Trophy for the 3rd time in the three-year existence of the award.

Based on 100 points for each sport, Central has clinched the title again although there are single golf and tennis matches remaining.

The schools will have met in eight different sports when spring activities come to a close. Only baseball will not have a PCH-PNH contest.

A recent one-sided triumph for Coach Dean Wilson's track squad wrapped up the win for Chief athletes. It gave the Huron Street teams 450 points to 150 for the Huskies. Victories in the two remaining events would give Northern 350 and provide the closest finish yet.

Top success the Red and White has had has been in wrestling with this season the highlight. Coach Bill Willson's charges eked out two-point and one-point verdicts for 100 points. Willson could also have a hand in another 100 as golf tutor.

The 50 points in the totals were brought about by an even split in two swimming meets.

NEED ONE GAME

Northern officials may regret not having a chance to meet Central in baseball during the regular season since victories on the diamond, in tennis and golf would have totaled 300 more points and forced a tie.

The 100-point per sport plan is a change from the original setup which had some sports carrying more value than others. It gives every team equal status towards winning the coveted prize.

★ ★ ★

The results of the various events are engraved on the trophy, thereby keeping a complete history of scores between the two schools.

Three Top Diamond Questions to Be Answered

Scheffing Moans Double Play Problem

Tigers Host Twins

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers have played 26 games and executed only 13 double plays—an average of one every 18 innings.

★ ★ ★

"That's not very good, is it?" said manager Bob Scheffing, who'd predicted a sharp improvement in the double play department this season.

★ ★ ★

The Tigers are far behind the rest of the American League in double play making. The rest of the clubs have been averaging one twin killing—or better—a game.

"I don't think there's much else we can do," said Scheffing. "We have to make more double plays, but we have to go with what we have."

Jake Wood's play at second base has been one of the sorest disappointments for Scheffing in a season filled with plenty of painful moments. Wood's fielding has been shaky and he has made seven errors. His hitting has suffered and his average has slipped to .220.

POSSIBLE CHANGE

"We might have to make a change there for a while," said Scheffing.

Wood muffed a pop foul and booted a grounder Sunday and heard about it from the Tiger Stadium boobirds.

Steve Boros, benched for Dick McAuliffe at third base, has been working out at second and is ready to step in when Scheffing gives the signal.

Last year the Tigers made 147 double plays, fewer than all but two teams. So double play making as one of the areas stressed at spring training in Scheffing's movement to tighten the Tigers' defense.

"The Yankees made 33 more double plays than us last year," Scheffing told his players. "We lost quite a few games when we could have stopped a run from scoring if we'd made a double play. This is one of the big reasons we didn't win the pennant."

Scheffing insisted Wood and shortstop Chico Fernandez would execute the double play better in 1962. A year of experience for Wood and a streamlined Fernandez would make the improvement. It hasn't worked that way.

Wood continues to show trouble pivoting. And Fernandez often is too anxious to start the twin killing and juggles the ball long enough to permit only a force out.

But Scheffing's pitching is beginning to come around. For him the best news is that Lary is ready to pitch again and tonight will make his first start since April 26. The veteran right hander will oppose the Twins' Camilo Pascual.

Lary has tested his ailing shoulder in batting practice for several days and reports the pain has disappeared. He's way behind his start last season when he won 23 games. Lary, out twice so far with injuries, has only one victory this year.

Tigers Plan 25 Games in Orient Tour Next Fall

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Tigers will tour Japan and the Orient next Fall on a 25-game exhibition schedule, it was announced today.

★ ★ ★

The Tigers will be fifth major league team to represent baseball and the United States on the good-will journey. Previous far Eastern visitors included the New York Yankees, St. Louis Cardinals, Los Angeles Dodgers and San Francisco Giants.

The negotiations were completed yesterday and announced today by commissioner Ford Frick, whose office supervises such trips.

A group of about 35 players, manager, coaches and club executives will make up the Tigers' official party for the off-season trip. They will depart from San Francisco about Oct. 10 and return Nov. 18. Many of the players wives will join the party on the tour.

★ ★ ★

The exhibition tour is sponsored by the Japanese newspaper, Mainichi, and it will take the Bengals to Hawaii, Korea, the Philippines and Guam in addition to principal cities in Japan.

BIG STADIUMS

Exhibitions in Japan are scheduled for Tokyo and Osaka — cities with stadiums ranging from 55,000 to 85,000 seats — along with Hiroshima, Nagoya, Shizuoka, Mito, Sendai, Saporo, Fukwoka and Shimonoseki.

Teams from the Central and Pacific Leagues of Japan will oppose the Tigers along with the native teams elsewhere.

President John E. Fetzer, who plans to accompany the Tigers, gave enthusiastic approval to the tour.

★ ★ ★

"This is a great thing in many respects," he said, "not the least of which is the high recognition of our team in being selected for the trip. I am sure that our players feel as honored by this selection as I do."

★ ★ ★

On a recent trip through Central and South America for the State Department, Fetzer said, "I found people wanting to talk about baseball almost everywhere I went—a common point of understanding. I know that the Japanese are even more interested in our game and this is a chance for some real person-to-person diplomacy which will help our prestige abroad. I am sure our players will give a good account of themselves in this field."

Yetsuo Higa, a Japanese industrialist who negotiated arrangements with Campbell for the trip, plans to return to Detroit this summer to complete them.

Titans Breeze Past Wayne 11-3 for 17-1 Mark

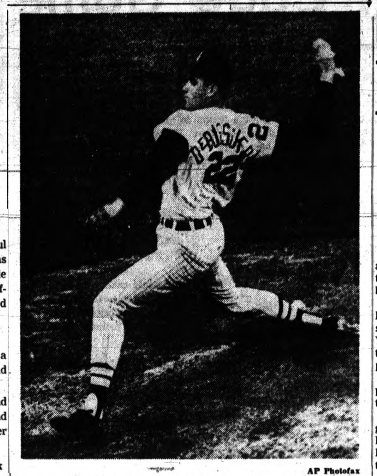

DETROIT (AP)—University of Detroit scored its 17th win in 18 starts yesterday by whipping cross-town rival Wayne State, 11-3, with two big innings.

The Titans scored four times in the second, the big blow being a two-run double by Paul Bibeau. They scored five times in the sixth with only one hit, a two-run single by Tom Fitzgerald.

Ed Mier relieved U-D starter Terry Barden during Wayne State's three-run fifth-inning burst and picked up the victory. Ed Nagel took the loss for Wayne State, whose hurlers issued 13 walks in the game.

BIG DAVE FIRES — This is how former University of Detroit basketball star Dave DeBusschere looked yesterday as he hurled for the Chicago White Sox in an exhibition game with the Cubs. DeBusschere worked five innings, gave up three hits and four walks, and uncorked three wild pitches. The score was tied 1-1 when he departed. The Cubs won, 2-1.

Aquisition of Kindall Great for Indians

CLEVELAND (AP)—It's agreed now that Cleveland general manager Gabe Paul made a tremendous deal last November when he traded pitcher Bobby Locke to the Chicago Cubs for second baseman Jerry Kindall.

★ ★ ★

Kindall is one of the big differences between the 1961 Cleveland team and the current Indians, who lead the American League by a half game over the New York Yankees.

★ ★ ★

The 26-year-old native of Minnesota has provided the Tribe with superb fielding and, surprisingly, solid hitting. Kindall is batting .277, although his lifetime average is only .217.

BOMBS YANKS

Even more important, Kindall is hitting in the clutch—especially against New York, whom the Indians have beaten five out of seven times.

Against the Yanks, Kindall is swinging at a .385 pace, with eight of his 14 runs batted in coming against the world champions.

★ ★ ★

"I like our club," Kindall said. "We feel optimistic and we think we could make run for the pennant."

Kindall doesn't subscribe to the theory that the Yankees' pitching is weak.

"I think they have enough pitching," he said. "I think we can win because we've beaten them. We've outplayed them."

GOT AWAY

It's difficult to understand how the Cubs and the rest of the National League let Kindall get away.

"I was surprised at the trade myself," Kindall declared. "It turns out to be the best thing that could have happened to me. I'm extremely happy about playing for Cleveland."

★ ★ ★

Kindall doesn't believe he's playing over his head and says it's important he's playing every day. He adds:

"I make my efforts. There are such things as fielding slumps, you know, but I can play second base.

ALL AROUND

"Last year I played some at short, some at second, once in a while at third. It doesn't help.

"You might say I feel secure here. I feel like a regular. To me, the most important factor in a ball player's success is experience . . . I came to the Cubs at 21 fresh out of college and hit .164.

★ ★ ★

"I simply wasn't ready. A fellow with my total lack of experience was just over his head. Experience is important. The more experience you get, the better you play. I'm getting experience."

★ ★ ★

Kindall speaks with erudition—and with good reason. He is a graduate of the University of Minnesota. Last winter he taught English at a Minneapolis high school.

★ ★ ★

Gabe Paul is happy to let Kindall do his talking with his glove but "If he hits only .240 he'll be valuable at second base," Paul said when he made the trade. "He'll knock in runs with that average."

Fall of Yanks, Threat by Tribe Two Features

Runaway Possibility of Giants in National Also Considered

By The Associated Press

The next two weeks may bring about answers to three very pertinent questions hovering over the baseball horizon:

1. Is the rest of the American League, after years of being spread-eagled by the New York Yankees, finally catching up to the practically perennial champions?

2. Are the Cleveland Indians, pennantless since 1954, really a threat?

3. Are the San Francisco Giants going to become the first National League runaway winner since the Dodgers, then in Brooklyn, waltzed to a pennant in 1955?

FEW LISTENED

A couple of weeks ago, Gabe Paul, general manager of the Indians, boldly stated that the Yankees would be hard pressed to repeat as champions this year. Taken lightly was his assertion that other clubs, including his own, had built themselves up to the Yankees.

Today, Paul's assertions have more meaning than they did two weeks ago, because of (a) Cleveland's current position at the head of the league (b) the Indians' early dominance of the Yankees whom they've beaten five times in seven meetings and (c) the league standings which show only 4½ games separating the first eight clubs.

There's no doubt that Gabe has revived the forlorn Indians of a year ago when they barely managed to squeeze into the first division, a whopping 30½ games behind the winning Yankees.

In a house-cleaning job, he changed managers and replaced several of last year's regulars with young, eager and speedy newcomers. The new manager, youthful Mel McGaha, besides establishing order and harmony, had fashioned a different club based on speed, pitching and defense.

STRONGER BENCH

Probably the biggest improvement has been in the club's bench, which has become one of the deepest and most maneuverable in the league. In the weekend series with the Yankees, McGaha platooned six outfielders and each contributed nobly in the club's three victories in four decisions.

★ ★ ★

In Sunday's double triumph, the second doubleheader sweep the Indians have accomplished over the Yankees in two weeks, the outfielders—Ty Cline, Chuck Essegian, Willie Kirkland, Willie Tasby and Don Dillard—collected 10 hits. Two of them were important pinch hits by Dillard.

★ ★ ★

The Indians open a two-game set against Kansas City in Cleveland tonight with Jim Perry going for his third victory. He hasn't been defeated.

POWER ATTACK

The Giants, combining a devastating batting attack with surprisingly strong pitching, threaten to upset the pattern that has produced a tight National League race in each of the last seven seasons.

The next two weeks may be the turning point. The Giants, with a four-game lead over their nearest rivals, will play 13 of their next 15 games at home. At the conclusion of a three-game series with the St. Louis Cardinals starting tonight the Giants play Houston four times, Philadelphia and New York three each. The home stand will be interrupted by a two-game series at Los Angeles.

Monday was an off day in both leagues.

Defamation, Slander Listed in $107,500 Suit by O'Brien

DETORIT (AP) — A former Boston College football star is suing the Detroit Lions of the National Football League for $107,500.

Jim O'Brien, 23, Hamden, Conn., tackle who failed to make the Lion squad in 1960, asked $100,000 in damages and $7,500 in contract pay in a suit filed in U.S. district court yesterday.

The $100,000 is to cover "defamation and slander" which prevented O'Brien from getting another job in football "commensurate with his ability," the suit says.

O'Brien charged the Lions arbitrarily dismissed him after he suffered a dislocated shoulder in an exhibition game with the Cleveland Browns Aug. 13, 1960, before the start of the regular season that year.

O'Brien's lawyer, Victor G. Hanson of Detroit, said he hoped the lawsuit would result in a precedent to protect players in organized pro football in the future.

NO PAY

Under NFL contracts players usually do not get paid until they have made the squad or the regular season has begun.

Hanson said the Lions is serving notice on O'Brien told him he had failed to "demonstrate sufficient skill and capacity."

"This defamed him to the extent that no other team wanted him whereas the truth of the matter was that he was hurt and couldn't play," Hanson said.

TURNS PRO — Veteran local keg star George "Chico" Chicovsky has become the 3rd member of the 300 Bowl staff and 5th local man to join the Professional Bowler's Association. He is planning to compete on the summer tour.

Paul Hogue, 6-9 center from the University of Cincinnati, was signed by the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association yesterday.

Tommy Bell, a Kentucky attorney, has been named to officiate in the National Football League next season.

The St. Louis Cardinals have placed Minnie Minoso, out of action with a fractured skull, on the 30-day disabled list.

James Sword celebrated his recovering from an illness by hurling a four-hitter as Rochester St. Paul Methodist downed Elmwood Methodist 10-0 in the Avondale Church Softball League. United Presbyterian topped Pontiac RLDS 8-7 in the other game.

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Albion preserved its chance for the MIAA baseball championship by sweeping a double-header from Calvin yesterday 10-3 and 7-0.

Jim Papenfus pitched in both games for Albion (6-3) as the Britions saved Gary Ketrow and Emil DeGrazia for today's double-header with league leading Alma (8-2).

Papenfus, winning pitcher in both games, struck out 12 men in the first five innings of the first game and another seven in the second game, reduced to five innings by agreement.

Jimenez and Rollins Rookies Pacing Batters in AL

NEW YORK (AP) — Manny Jimenez and Dick Rollins—a couple of rambunctious rookies—have been the hitting sensations in the American League during the first month of the season.

Jimenez, a Kansas City outfielder from the Dominican Republic, tops the league with a .382 batting average. Figures include games through Monday and are based on a minimum of 75 at bats.

Rollins is tied for second with Chicago's Floyd Robinson at .353 apiece. The Minnesota third baseman was the pace-setter for the first few weeks.

LEADER IN NL

Jimenez, the leader a week ago, was sidelined for several games after being hit in the leg by a pitched ball. He collected four hits in 12 trips during the week, but his average dipped nine points.

Rollins advanced from fourth with 9-for-24, a five-point boost. Robinson's average skidded 28 points on 4-for-19.

LOST GROUND

Gonzalez, returning to action after being idled with a cold in his back, went 3-for-11. The Phils' outfielder dropped 15 points, but advanced from a tie for second place a week ago.

★ ★ ★

Williams went on a rampage during the week, hiking his average 18 points on eight hits in 18 at bats. The Cubs' sophomore wasn't even litsed among the top ten a week ago.

★ ★ ★

Felipe Alou of San Francisco and Stan Musial of St. Louis are tied for third at .341. Los Angeles' Willie Davis holds down fifth place with a .340 mark.

★ ★ ★

Kaline has produced the most homers in the AL, 10, while the White Sox' Robinson is tops in RBI with 32. Cincinnati's Vada Pinson heads the National League home run derby with 11. The Giants' Orlando Cepeda and the Dodgers' Tommy Davis share the lead in runs batted in with 34 each.

German Fight Worth $50,000 to Johnson

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An American representative for a German boxing promoter said Monday he would deposit $50,000 with the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission as Harold Johnson's share of the purse if the world light-heavyweight champion agreed to go through with a proposed match in Germany.

★ ★ ★

Freddie Sommers, American representative for German promoter Fritz Gretzschel, said he would take the action before Johnson—if he agrees—would depart for Germany to defend his title against Gustav Scholz in West Berlin June 16.

Sommers has been in Philadelphia since last week trying to firm up the match which, he said, was arranged by George Gainford, Johnson's adviser, last January.

★ ★ ★

Furore Building in Cage Game

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Towering Russians traveling through the country, whipping American basketball teams, while this nation's best players are sitting on the sidelines . . .

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

The Russians could well be the ones that crack it wide open. They are due in November for a series of games in this country. Instead of playing the country's top college teams, they are likely to face some rag-tag pick-up clubs.

★ ★ ★

The resulting furore could extend clear to the White House. It will affect U.S. chances in the 1964 Olympics, and the outcome of the fight will shape U.S. Athletic policies for many years to come.

The AAU, which is handling the Russian tour, said it has asked the colleges to let their top teams play the Russians during the November tour, but has been refused. Col. Don Hull, the AAU's executive director, said November was an awkward month, but that the time was selected by the Russians, through the State Department, and there is nothing he can do about it.

CRITIZES AAU

"I can not accept placing the blame for the timing of the Russian trip on the State Department. It is another example of poor management of the AAU," Byers said.

"It would take a convention to change our rules to let our teams play in November, and the AAU didn't ask us in time for the convention."

Both sides agreed that there was a possibility that individual collegians might be able to play on an all-star-type team against the Russians, but each appeared to be waiting for the other side to make the first move.

The same situation will come up in December, when it comes time to select an American team for the World Basketball Championships in Manila. And again for the 1963 Pan-American Games and the 1964 Olympics.

NEED SANCTION

The AAU must certify all athletes for those contests. It can, and probably will, declare ineligible, athletes who compete in meets that are not sanctioned by the AAU.

"This is not a jurisdictional dispute between two plumbers unions," Byers said. "We wouldn't have gone into this if we didn't think that it would improve American sports in every phase. We have the enthusiasm and we believe we will move these federations forward. The test will be if they serve a useful function. Then they will survive and prosper."

★ ★ ★

The issue was not raised at a meeting of the U.S. Olympic Committee and other sports executives here Monday at a planning conference for future Olympic competitions. "The NCAA-AAU fight wasn't brought up," said Art Lentz, assistant director of the committee.

Plante MVP, Howe Fourth

MONTREAL (AP) — Although the Montreal Canadiens failed for the second straight year to win the Stanley Cup title, their star goalie, Jacques Plante, has collected enough bonus money to take an expensive vacation this summer.

Plante was named the winner of the Hart Memorial Trophy as the National Hockey League's most valuable player Monday. This boosted his total bonus earnings to $5,5250.

The masked netminder received $1,000 each for winning the Hart and Vezina Trophies, and for placing on the circuit's first all-star team. In addition, he received $1,500 as his share of Montreal's first place money and $750, the losers' share in the Stanley Cup semifinals.

94 POINTS

Plante polled 94 points in the Hart Trophy balloting by hockey writers and broadcasters in the six NHL cities. Doug Harvey, player-coach of the New York Rangers, was second with 60 points. He was followed by Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks, 53 points, Gordie Howe of Detroit, a five-time MVP, 40 points, and Andy Bathgate, New York, 31.

★ ★ ★

Others who received votes were Glenn Hall, Chicago, 25 points; Johnny Bower, Toronto, 16; Red Kelly, Toronto, 4, and Doug Mohns, Boston, 1.

YOUNG HECKLER SILENCED — Mrs. Don Maples of Fort Worth, Tex., clamps her hand over the mouth of her son, John, 4, as he began to laugh as Arnold Palmer got set to shoot from the edge of the ninth green during yesterday's playoff round in the Colonial National Invitation Tournament. Palmer beat Johnny Pott by four strokes.

Whips Pott in Colonial Playoff for $7,000

Palmer Wins on Typical Birdie Spree

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Arnold Palmer finished with a typical birdie barrage to beat young Johnny Pott for the championship of the $40.000 Colonial National Invitation. Then he announced a conscientious attack on the all-time money-winning record for professional golf.

Nerveless Arnie took a giant stride in that direction Monday when he trimmed Pott by four strokes in an 18-hole playoff to drag down the $7,000 first money.

THREE BIRDIES

Leading by a single stroke after nine holes, the cool-headed Pennsylvanian methodically birdied three of the next seven holes to win in a breeze.

He had a one under par 37-32—69 while Pott, playing out of Gulf Hills, Miss., came in with 38-35—73. Pott earned $3,500.

★ ★ ★

SIXTH WIN

The victory, third straight and sixth of the year for Palmer, boosted his official earnings to $59,308. It left him less than $16,000 behind the one-year record of $75,268, set by himself in 1960.

★ ★ ★

Palmer had an opportunity Sunday to win his first title here but he permitted the persistent 26-year-old Pott to come from seven shots behind and tie him with a 72-hole total of 281, one over par.

Palmer had a 76, Pott a 69.

Both agreed the turning point of the playoff came at the par 4 ninth hole when both were tied at one over par. Pott slapped his shot into a water hazard and carded a fat double-bogey 6. Palmer also had his troubles, missing a 5-foot par putt, but still picked up a stroke.

LONG PULL

"It's hard to overcome a double bogey," Pott said simply.

The man who has made his photo finishes the expected instead of the unexpected, got rolling at the par 5 11th when he chipped within 3 inches of the cup for a birdie.

★ ★ ★

He dropped a bombsell 66-footer on No. 15 to go 3 up, then added a 13-foot birdie putt on he next hole for good measure.

★ ★ ★

MOVE ACTION

"I will play more now than I previously expected since I have a good chance to break the record," he said.

★ ★ ★

Palmer, winning his eighth of 11 playoffs, said he plans to rest a little, practice a little for the National Open, play a few exhibitions and rejoin the tour at the Memphis Open in three weeks.

Ypsilanti Pair Pro-Am Champs; Bone Stars

By BILL CORNWELL

The Ypsilanti team of Tom Talkington and Bob Reynolds was the perfect combination in Monday's Pro-Am Best Ball golf tournament at Plum Hollow Golf Club.

Although their own games were erratic, they made everything "jell" just right in a best-ball sense as they joined forces for a 65, seven under par, to defeat their nearest rivals by two strokes on a warm and windy day at Plum Hollow.

Reynolds, Washtenaw County Hospital Superintendent, personally birdied six holes and Talkington, head pro at Washtenaw Country Club, birdied two others to produce a 32-33 scorecard against par 36-36.

With his own ball, Talkington could shoot no better than 79 and Reynolds, a one-handicap player, posted 74. Their lone bogey as a team was a five on the 10th hole.

★ ★ ★

Smith, a Gowanie member and a scratch golfer, birdied six holes and bogied three while shooting 34-35 — 69.

USES WOMAN'S PUTTER

It was the top performance of the infant season for Smith, a short, stocky swinger who has been using a woman's putter this year.

Smith never putted better with the shorter club as he and Gowanie pro Ray Highsmith notched 67 to share 2nd place with the Lochmoor tandem of professional Dick Bury and amateur Robert Meier.

The best score among the pros was tallied by Pontiac's Gene Bone, head man at Warwick Hills.

Bone pocketed $105.75 as the No. 1 pro in the field after carding 36-35—71. Hitting booming wood shorts off the tees all day long, Bone birdied three holes, then eliminaxed his round by cranking a drive and 7-iron to the 18th green and sinking a 15-foot putt for an eagle three.

★ ★ ★

Following Bone in the battle for low pro honors was Plum Hollows Roy Beattie, who shot 73. Pine Lakes Elmer Prieskorn, Tad Schmidt and Bury each posted 74.

Talkington was the leading money winner with $165.15. A huge turnout of 61 pros and 171 amateurs competed in the event.

In Preakness Saturday
Decidedly May Not Start

BALTIMORE (AP) — Local horsemen, responding to complaints by Decidedly's trainer, Horatio Luro, say the decision to resurface Pimlico Race Track was made before it was known Ridan would run in the Preakness.

Luro threatened Monday to withhold Kentucky Derby winner Decidedly after some rocks, mixed in with a new soil covering, showed up on the track.

"I'm not going to run unless the track is 100 per cent OK," Luro promised. He canceled a scheduled workout for Decidedly Monday morning and said he wouldn't run the colt Saturday if today's workout is canceled.

Luro charged that the new sand was spread over the track to benefit Leroy Jolley's Ridan, one of Decidedly's major Preakness rivals.

"The track was fast, it was superb Saturday," Luro said. "You can't change it overnight just to suit a particular horse."

Local horsemen reported today they had complained to Louis Pondfield, Pimlico vice president and executive director, about the track's condition before Jolley announced plans to enter Ridan in the Preakness.

The complaint was that sand spread on the running surface to prevent freezing during Pimlico's winter meeting had rendered the track slower than it had been in years.

After Luro complained Monday, Pimlico officials said someone had overlooked sifting the soil before it was put down. Workmen went over the oval picking out stones by hand and machine.

★ ★ ★

Jolley, who also canceled Ridan's workout Monday, complained about the condition of the Churchill Downs track after the Derby, in which Ridan finished third.

★ ★ ★

Pimlico apparently corrected most of the damage wrought by the stony soil. None of the horses running on Monday's nine-race card encountered any trouble.

Central, Romeo Baseball Victors

Bulldogs Lead Tri-County Loop, Captains Romp

Wayne-Oakland Wins to Wolves, Brighton; Thorpe Avon Star

Pontiac Central chalked up its 3rd Saginaw Valley baseball triumph in five tries and Romeo took over 1st place in the Tri-County League in key baseball games yesterday.

Kettering slammed Rochester 10-3, Brighton moved into a three-way tie for 3rd in the Wayne-Oakland by nipping Milford 2-1 as Clarkston was blasting Holly 12-5, Avondale edged Troy 3-2 and slumping Orchard Lake St. Mary fell before St. Rita, 3-0.

★ ★ ★

Frank Kettonen's bases-loaded single in the 7th scored two to break a tie and give PCH a 4-2 triumph at Bay City Handy. The Chiefs had led 2-0 until Handy, held without a runner past 2nd base, tallied a pair in the 6th. Gene Luppino got three of Central's eight hits. Jim Persinger had two and Kettonen had a double besides the big single. Rob Farms won a three-hitter. Pontiac is 5-3 all reason.

★ ★ ★

GOOD START

Doug Lyon opened the tilt at Rochester with a homer and Kettering went on from there despite the shaky hurling of Bob Bogert. The Captains had an 8-0 lead before the Falcons got all their runs in the 2nd. Numerous other threats failed. Jerry Goff had three Kettering hits. Three others had two. Kendrick took the loss. Kettering is 5-3.

Romeo moved ahead of L'Anse Creuse setting the stage for a shodown affair Thursday by whipping Lapeer 12-7. Gene Hennig won with relief help as Lapeer had a 15-14 hitting edge. Top Bulldogs were Bill Trieloff with a single, double triple and five runs batted in, Keith Simunic triple and homer for four rbis and Butch Peraino two hits for three rbis.

Down 1-0 and held hitless for five innings, Brighton filled the bases with two walks and a single by Jim Rockwell. Sophomore Dennis Hartman then singles home the two tallies. Jim Armstrong won a five-hitter allowing a run in the 3rd on a hit batter, walk and single by loser Duke Peterson. Peterson gave up the two big walks, Sparkman replaced him and allowed the hits. Sparkman had a double wasted.

MISKIN STARS

Clarkston led all the way pulling far ahead in the late stages. Ken Miskin sparked a 13-hit barrage with a double, triple and two singles. Mike Applegate and Dan Craven had three each. Craven and Rich Sheldon had doubles. John Williams won with relief help from Gary Pearson. Williams of Holly was the loser. Johnston had a Bronco three bagger.

★ ★ ★

Freshman Lynn Thorp hurled the Avon triumph with a four-hitter and seven strikeouts. He also singled in the deciding run in the 6th. The Yellowjackets are now 2-2. Fitzgerald heads the Oakland A at 4-0.

★ ★ ★

St. Rita got two-hit pitching from Roger Dupont. Larry Janiszekski got the setback while giving up only four safeties. His mates made four errors. The Eaglets are now 5-3.

Romeo Edges Lapeer; OLSM Defeated

Skippers Clip Falcons

Waterford used its superior depth yesterday to down Rochester 67-42 in a track meet on the Falcons' oval.

Romeo won the last event, the mile relay, to edge Lapeer 57-52 in a Tri-County meet and Benedictine whipped Orchard Lake St. Mary, 68-41.

The Skippers outscored Rochester 7¾ to 5½ in first places, but gained most of its margin in piling up seven seconds and six thirds.

Chris Allen of Rochester was the meet's only outright double winner. He copped the 100 and 220 dashes. Teammate Pete Long won the broad jump, tied for first in the high jump, placed third in the high hurdles and ran the anchor leg on the winning 880 relay team.

BEST TOSS

Romeo's mile relay quartet—Larry Kading, Bob Dittrich, Joe Walker and Jim Compton—posted the deciding victory against Lapeer. The score was 52-52 going into the last event.

Compton also won the high jump for the Bulldogs.

Rich Schalau of Lapeer took the 100 and 220 and anchored the winning 880 relay team. Panther Ernie Kohloff won the high hurdles and tied for first in the lows.

Stan Garwood won both hurdles and Irv Jaskalski the mile, but it wasn't enough to keep OLSM from going down to its fourth track loss in eight outings.

St. Mary, a one-sided loser to Royal Oak Shrine earlier, bowed only 3-2 and 196-188 in strokes. Al Karam and Bob Alonzo of the victors were co-medalists at 42. Frank Kladzyk and Jim Grella had 45s for the Eaglets, who stand 1-5.

CIO, 2 Bars Win

City Softball Under Way

CIO Local 653 triumpher in the National division and Auburn Bar, Bud & Louie's Bar and Langdon's Boat Livery were National loop winners as the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department's 1962 City League softball season got under way Monday night at Beaudette and Northside parks.

Floyd Frasier clouted an inside-the-park homer in the top of the 7th stanza with a teammate aboard to climax a four-run uprising that wrapped up the CIO verdict.

The pitching end of the Frasier towsome aided his own cause by collecting three of his team's 11 hits. Floyd and Vern Redden made two hits apiece and Art Brown had a pair in defeat.

SPINS THREE-HITTER

Gary Kubiak hurled three-hit ball to feature Auburn Bar's 7-2 decision over Berry Door. The loser's two runs came in the 3rd inning when Paul Davis slammed a two-run homer.

On the Beaudette diamond, Jim Fields twirled a two-hitter as Bud & Louie's trimmed Dixie Tool & Machine, 5-1. Mike Fields and Bill Carrie each bagged two of the winner's eight safeties.

The tavern squad clinched the victory early, scoring all five runs in the first inning as 11 batters strolled to the plate.

Langdon's crushed Oakland Auto Supply, 18-1, in a contest called after four innings by the 10-run rule.

★ ★ ★

Bill Ligon, Jerry Langdon and Larry Baker each socked three hits and Don Fitzgerald posted a pair to pace the victor's 15-hit attack. Langdon's tallied nine runs in the 2nd frame and pitcher Ken Langdon coasted to victory on a two-hitter.

Eleven Trackmen Get Suspended in AAU Move

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Amateur Athletic Union officials in several states today were reluctant to follow the lead of the Indiana AAU which has suspended 11 college track athletes for competing in the Ohio State University relays.

★ ★ ★

The AAU yesterday suspended the athletes from Purdue, Indiana, Notre Dame and Butler who placed in the April 21 relays, which were not sanctioned by the AAU.

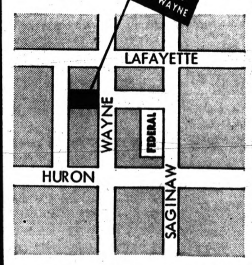

Suspended were Cornelius Miller and Steve Hibler, Indiana; Nate Adams, Purdue; Frank Carver, John Mulrooney and Pete Whitehouse, Notre Dame; Jack Krebs, Butler; Dave Edelman (who has completed his eligibility at Purdue), and three Purdue freshmen, James Moore, Dan Jones and Al Washington.

The suspensions were considered a direct blow by the national AAU against the college coaches, who seek to gain control of competition in track, basketball and gymnastics.

Defense Dept. Hopes to Hold Lid on Prices

U.S. Starting Profit Incentive Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department is counting on its new profit incentive program to help hold within reason prices for weapons and services.

The system, announced only in March, will take months or even years to become fully applicable and to show whether it is effective.

What the plan does is impose penalties as well as profits fitted to the performance of a contractor in delivering a military department order.

In general, if a firm with a government contract delivers on or ahead of schedule, in good quality material or workmanship, its profits will be scaled to performance. But if production is late or shoddy, punitive action can be taken and the profit will diminish accordingly, perhaps all the way down to zero.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. MacNamara testified before a Senats subcommittee earlier this year on the contracting system. He said the Defense Department has a history "of final prices ranging from 300 per cent to a thousand per cent higher than initial estimates." He added:

"I am shocked by the extent to which this exists. But it does exist. It has existed for a long time and it is going to be very, very difficult to correct it immediately, although we are starting to try to do that."

The control-incentive plan presumably is only one of several approaches which the Pentagon may take to keep the price of military wares within reason.

McNamara's testimony preceded by several weeks subsequent hearings by a Senate investigations subcommittee into alleged profit pyramiding in missile production.

ONE OF 2 MEANS

In general, the military procures material, equipment and services by one of two means.

One is through formal advertising in which all interested firms are invited to submit competitive bids. A specific day and hour is set for public opening and recording of bids.

The award goes to the bidder whose offer, conforming to precise specifications set forth in the advertisement for the bid, is most advantageous to the government in view of price and other factors.

But the Armed Services Procurement Act also permits so-called negotiated procurement when formal advertising does not meet particular needs.

These requirements may be dictated by the fact that the contract concerns highly technical research, urgency is of prime importance, the interest of national defense or industrial mobilization may be involved or high secrecy is required.

But even in negotiated contracts, the department says, various firms are sounded out so that competition still exists.

The aim of the present and all preceding administrations has been to encourage competition as a means of holding procurement costs down. The trend has been encouraging, officials say.

In fiscal 1961, they report, about 37 per cent of all procurement was through competitive methods. In the first six months of fiscal 1962 the figure has increased to 40 per cent.

LIKES FIXED PRICES

The new program emphasizes increased use of the firm fixed-price and incentive contracts, with deemphasis on cost-plus-fixed fee contracts. The department says existing contracts which do not impose risks on contractors and provide incentives for good performance are being discontinued or reduced substantially.

The cost-plus fixed-fee type will be used generally only in basic research projects and other work in which other styles of contract would be unsuitable.

★ ★ ★

The fixed-price contract is used generally in both advertised and negotiated procurement. But there are variations in this type to provide for price redetermination where a company is confronted with large contingencies or uncertainties in cost, as sometimes occurs when production is run through a line for the first time.

★ ★ ★

The government also uses the so-called "letter of intent" form, but only in emergencies or unusual circumstances under which the government wants production of long-lead-time items started at the earliest possible moment.

In this event, letters are issued which serve the purpose of a contract until a formal, detailed contract can be arranged and signed.

By OSWALD JACOBY

When today's hand was played in a master point game at the Bridge Deck in Dallas all South players arrived at four spades and were greeted by a king of diamond opening lead.

The hand would be a cinch at rubber bridge. South would probably win the diamond, draw trumps, lead a club to dummy's ace, return the queen of clubs and discard a diamond. West would take the king of clubs and two diamonds and South would claim the balance of the tricks.

There are a lot of other safe plays, but I like the one adopted by Don Reid. He took the ace of diamonds and four rounds of trumps and noted that West discarded three diamonds. Then Don led his eight of clubs and finessed dummy's queen. When the finesse succeeded Don discarded a diamond on the ace, ruffed another club and made six because the king dropped.

Why was his play safe? Because after three diamond discards there were only two diamonds left. If East held one of those diamonds and the king of clubs Don would have only to lose one diamond trick. If West held both diamonds, he would never get the lead.

Why was the play good? Because the odds certainly were in favor of the man who overcalled holding that king of clubs.

Astrological Forecast

By SIDNEY OMARR
For Wednesday

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Time to finish previous plans. Bright ideas but best be saved for future use. Do not push, press, demand. Not day to INSIST. Better take tactful way.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Time to see good business manager or take personal account of budget. Be realistic. Listen to one who has your best interests at heart. Do NOT permit price to trap you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Restlessness now could create situation which leads to ultimate embarrassment, regret. Best course is one of MODERATION. Remember obligations to others and YOURSELF.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Tug of war WITHIN takes place. You must decide for yourself. Be an individual in true sense. Let no outside influence supercede your duties to work or family.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 23): You could be misled by persons who invite you to celebrate. You as a Leo are always willing, ready and able. But, today, think twice. There could be an ULTERIOR MOTIVE.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Best now to take persons at face value. Do not try to analyze too much, you could swerve off track. Move ahead. Be truthful. Trust others to play "straight."

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): You gain most by being independent and original. Not so good for following crowd. If an associate expresses fantastic plan BEWARE OF "pipe dream."

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): There could be emotions which are deceiving. "Fluff" with the punches. Understand that temporary melancholy is only TEMPORARY. No tragedy to be alone for a time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Tendency today is to scatter your forces. You find your greatest asset is a smile, sense of humor. Worst mistake would be "bullying." Accept friendship if offered.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Facts stare you in the face and may be so "right" you are tempted to turn away. Face them, attend to details, get home in order. Delay parties and celebrations.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Sparkling day and social evening if you wish to make it so. Excellent for romance, creative endeavors. Not time to retreat. Go forward, be CONFIDENT.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Practicality is key. If choice is between "long shot" and tested value, better stick with the tried-and-proven. You could gain much by listening to loved one.

IF WEDNESDAY IS YOUR BIRTH DAY . . . you are more sensitive than even your closest friends might guess. There are two sides of your nature, the one you expose to the public, and your inner self. This could be one of most significant months for you.

★ ★ ★

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle up for VIRGO, LIBRA, SCORPIO. Not a day for ANY sign to "push." Being too high pressured and serious could cause loss.

Can Titov Be Right on Size of His Pocket Against Ours?

(Editor's Note — There has been a general feeling America's Saturn superbooster with 1.5-million pounds of thrust was going to draw the United States abreast, perhaps ahead, of the Soviet Union in heavy-duty rockets. In appearances last week Gherman Titov cited an interesting Russian statistic.)

By The Associated Press

Maj. Gherman Titov, a cosmonaut of many orbits but few details, did drop a comment of interest to space race handicappers during his recent tour of the United States.

At one point, Titov off-handedly mentioned the size of the rocket that orbited him 17 times last August. It had 1.33-million pounds of thrust, he said.

★ ★ ★

That's a lot. It could mean Russia's further ahead than ever. Can Titov be believed?

★ ★ ★

"There's never any reason to doubt Russian space claims," said a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Until very recently American estimates put the power of the Russian space boosters at about 800,000 pounds of thrust. This is approximately double the power of the largest operational American rocket, the Titan.

Now Titov is saying the Soviets have had for at least a year a rocket of 1.32 million pounds of thrust. This is not far below the power of the American Saturn superrocket.

Furthermore, Saturn, which was hoped to bring America up at least even with Russia, has only been tested (successfully) twice and isn't even scheduled to be operational until 1964.

The first Saturn, the C1, will have 1.59-million pounds of thrust in its two stages, 270,000 more pounds than Titov's booster.

★ ★ ★

That's not much of a margin. Or is it? There's no way of telling unless the Russians do.

And they, Titov included, don't. What's more, the Russians obviously are not standing still in rocket development.

★ ★ ★

For one Russian pound of thrust isn't necessarily the same as an American pound. The actual value of that pound is how much of an operational payload it can put in space, be it pound of astronaut, navigational satellite or what have you.

A Cadillac is much more powerful than a Volkswagen. But both can readily take milady to the supermarket.

The question is: Do the Russians need all that booster power to do what they have so far done in space?

If they do, their booster lead does not mean as much. If they don't, if they have power to burn, it will probably be only a matter of time before they pull off some more spectaculars.

Again, lacking any data from the Russians, there is no way of saying with certainty just where the Russians stand in the space race. But some relevant facts are known.

The Russians used their 1.32-million pound rocket to orbit Titov and his capsule — a payload of about 10,400 pounds. The United States used an Atlas of less than a third the power to orbit John H. Glenn Jr., and capsule, a payload of 4,200 pounds.

The Atlas will also be used to duplicate Titov's 24-hour flight with an American astronaut later this year.

Next year NASA has planned to orbit the two-man Gemini capsule with a Titan II, a rocket whose 430,000-pounds of thrust is still only a third of Titov's.

Russia has yet to orbit two men, even though their booster is triple the thrust of any operational American one.

Does this mean they can't? Not at all. American space scientists have frequently predicted that such an achievement by the Russians is imminent.

But it may mean the Russians need considerably more rocket power to do the same job as the United States. If this is true — and there are no data to prove that it is — it would be due to the American ability, and need, to miniaturize its space payloads.

SATURN IS FIRST

All the current big space boosters, Russian and American, are military rockets converted to space use. So far as is known, Saturn is the first giant designed spacifically for space shots.

Because Russia's nuclear warheads were much larger in size if not in power than the American, Russia developed larger rockets. This gave them a wide advantage when these rockets began to be used for space shots.

The United States had to devise superlight materials and minute parts to lighten payloads as much as possible. Russia alarmed the world with the size of the objects it thrust into space.

But as the reliability of the compact American payloads grew along with the size of American boosters, the United States came up with some admirable space shots of its own.

Has Russia, which already had the booster power, been able also to miniature space equipment? Or do they need all that power because Titov orbited in a cast-iron bathtub sealed in lead?

The Russians know. The Americans don't.

Furthermore, does Titov's 1.32-million pounds of thrust all burn up in the first stage? Or is some of it saved for an added kick up in the thin atmosphere where the force of a pound of thrust is much greater? Again, no word.

Saturn's second stage will have 90,000 pounds, a massive wallop where there is little or no air.

Saturn is due to orbit the three-man Apollo spacecraft around the earth in 1964.

Later more powerful versions will fire Apollo teams around the moon. But an even greater rocket will be needed for a direct shot for a manned lunar landing, a monster of as much as 15 million pounds of thrust.

Such a rocket is years away in the United States. Titov also said Russia isn't ready to send a cosmonaut to the moon but added such problems "might be solved very soon."

★ ★ ★

Russia's other cosmonaut, Maj. Yuri Gagarin, said recently his country was 2½ to 3 years ahead of the United States in heavy rocket development.

James E. Webb, NASA administrator, says Russia probably will beat the United States in flights by the moon. But he feels the United States is in a "completely competitive position" with Russia as to a manned lunar landing, hoped for by 1968 or "very soon," which one?

★ ★ ★

There are just too many unknows about Russian space technology to say who stands where in the race to the moon.

Russia certainly already has a strong horse. How about the equipment and the jockey?

Nurses Backing Medicare Stand

Association to Continue Policy Advice Despite 'Pressure by AMA'

DETROIT (AP) —The American Nurses' Association will continue advising on policy despite differences with the American Medical Association over aid to the aged, the president of the ANA said yesterday.

Mathilda Scheuer, opening the five-day convention of the AMA here, said "considerable pressure has been brought against nurses . . . because of the ANA stand in support of health insurance for the aged."

Miss Scheuer addressed the ANA House of Delegates, which numbers 1,174. More than 8,000 nurses from all states and from 27 foreign countries are here for the convention.

Last night, Abraham Ribicoff, secretary of health, education and welfare, praised the ANA because "unlike most of your sister—or brother—organizations in medicine, you have had the courage to come out and say in public what most of your members say in private:

"That the administration's proposal for health care for our older people under the Social Security system is efficient, is needed — and that you support it, no ifs, ands or buts."

Miss Scheuer said the ANA would answer AMA pressure with "more initiative in setting standards, preparing policy statements, and providing official guidance in those areas where nurses have primary responsibility.

"As ANA continues to speak out in meeting its professional responsibilities, we find more and more professional, government and other groups coming to us for information," she said.

ACCEPTS PLAQUE — John F. Gordon (right), president of General Motors Corp., receives the National Safety Council's "Award of Honor" for industrial safety from Howard Pyle, council president. GM set an all-time record of industrial safety for its U.S. and Canadian operations during 1961 to win its 16th honor award from the safety council. The number of accidents averaged only one for each million hours worked by approximately 415,000 GM employes.

CD Chief Tells of Shelter Plan

Conference of Mayors Hears Program to Build Space for 235 Million

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A program to provide 235 million fallout shelter spaces for the United States in five years was announced yesterday by the man in charge of civil defense.

★ ★ ★

This shelter system would cost between $5 and $6 billion, Stewart L. Pittman, assistant secretary of defense for civil defense, told the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

Pittman told about 400 mayors from America's larger cities, in annual convention, "It will be necessary to establish an adequate priority for civil defense among your other urgent programs."

A nationwide shelter system, Pittman said, was necessary because it can save tens of millions of lives in a nuclear attack.

★ ★ ★

Under the program, Pittman said, the federal government would locate shelter areas for 50 or more people and subsidize shelter construction in schools, hospitals, and public welfare institutions.

★ ★ ★

The federal government, he added, also would support state and local governments' civil defense efforts with matching funds and equipment.

No April Showers... Driest Month of Year

May flowers are blooming in the Pontiac area.

This is hardly a revelation, but it is something of a wonder since there was a distinct lack of April showers to bring them along this year.

Although a time when Nature's waterworks is supposed to be operating at peak capacity, April was the driest month of the year.

Precipitation totaled only 1.82 inches in downtown Pontiac last month, little more than half the 3.20 inches average for April in this area.

For the man with the green thumb, it meant overtime work with the garden hose to get the flower bed in shape and keep the lawn green.

A MIXTURE

It was sunny or mostly sunny on 21 of April's 30 days. Rain, mostly light showers or sprinkles mixed with snow, fell on six days and one day was cloudy. Two were an almost equal combination of sun and clouds.

The 25th and 26th of the month shared equal billing as the hottest days of the month. The mercury climbed to 85 degrees both times while April 2 was the coldest with a 24-degree reading.

The average high temperature was a tolerable 58.53 while the average low was 38.27 during April.

Nature saved its worst for the last few hours of the month. About 6 p.m. April 30, a violent storm whipped along by 80-mile-per-hour gusts cut a swath through Oakland County, leaving trees unrooted, buildings damaged and power lines cut.

An elderly Pontiac man was killed when the tornadic winds sliced off a portion of the roof at the old Chapman Hotel at North Saginaw and West Pike streets.

However, the rain which accompanied the brief but severe storm dampened fields, lawns and flower beds.

Jay Poffenberger, Oakland County agent for the Cooperative Extension Service, said the effects of the April 30 rainfall saved much of the soil in area farmlands from drying out.

Sees China 'Pupil Trade'

TORONTO (AP)—Exchanges of students at graduate level between Canada and Red China are "a good possibility now," University of Toronto President Claude Bissell said yesterday after a three-week tour of China's educational centers. He said the fields of engineering and languages are particularly suitable for such exchanges.

Hire Negro Coed to Dance Chorus in St. Louis Opera

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Miss Pelagio Green, 19, a college sophomore, is the first Negro ever selected for the St. Louis Municipal Opera's dancing chorus.

"I almost fainted when my name was called," said Miss Green, daughter of a mail carrier, who is known to her friends as "P.G." She was selected yesterday on her fourth attempt.

"I realize now I wasn't good enough the first two times and last year I was overweight. So, I went on a spartan diet and slimmed down," she said.

Trading Continues Heavy

Stock Mart Rally Goes Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market carried its rally higher but some gains had been whittled early this afternoon. Trading was heavy.

* * *

Trading lagged behind the 5.99-million-share pace of yesterdays hectic session but the ticker tape trailed transactions almost from the opening bell. At one time it was eight minutes late in contrast to 34 minutes yesterday.

million-share pace of yesterday's action was a selling climax but were being cautious about accepting it as the one that would put the market on a sustained upward course.

"It's too early to tell" seemed to be the general attitude.

As some advances were pared brokers reported professional traders were taking profits.

Gains ranged from fractions to about 2 points with a few wider movers.

President Kennedy's order for Marines to land in Thailand apparently had little effect on a market that until yesterday had been jittery over almost any foreign or domestic development.

Steels were slightly higher following a report that the Kennedy administration has decided against endorsing antitrust legislation aimed at the steel industry.

* * *

International Business Machines was up 6 points after having been ahead 7½.

Bond Mart Bit Stronger

Over the counter dealers in U.S. government securities quoted long bonds up mostly 2-32 to 4-32. Intermediates were generally unchanged. Trading was quiet

Industrials started with an upside edge in moderately heavy corporate trading on the New York Stock Exchange. Rails and utilities were mixed.

* * *

Kelley Quizzes Two Lobbyists

Auto Company Agents Testify in Investigation Ordered by Swainson

LANSING (AP) —Two auto company representatives were to appear before the attorney general today in a probe of lobbying ordered by Gov. Swainson.

Called as witnesses by Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley were Stewart W. Didzun of St. Clair Shores, representing Ford Motor Co., and Hiram P. Todd Jr. of Lansing, representing Chrysler Corp. Both are registered lobbyists.

Swainson ordered the investigation after his tax reform program, based on an income tax, was defeated in the Senate after having first been approved. The governor asked Kelley to determine if there had been any improper lobbying.

August (Gus) Scholle, state AFL-CIO president, was to appear tomorrow. Scholle was in the office of Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski, behind the Senate, during the night-long debate that resulted in original passage of the income tax.

OTHERS TO TESTIFY

Leon S. Cohan, deputy attorney general, said two other registered lobbyists will testify tomorrow. He listed these as Myles F. McGrail of Midland, representing the Dow Chemical Co., and Nicholas J. Rini of Grosse Pointe Woods, representing the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce.

Walter D. Devries, Republican constitutional convention delegate from Grand Rapids, has agreed to testify some time next week, Cohan said.

Devries was asked to give evidence because he did a study of lobbying received his doctor's degree from a thesis based on his findings, Cohan said.

The interviews and taking of evidence will continue for two or three weeks, Cohan said. Kelley has said no findings will be devulged during the investigation. When it is complete, Kelley said, a report will be made to the governor.

Chicago Business Wants to Be Pals With Kennedy

(Editor's Note — Can the split between the Kennedy administration and much of the business community be healed? In this, second of three self-contained articles, Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, tells what Chicago executives say would do the trick.)

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

CHICAGO — Many business leaders in the Chicago area would like to bury the hatchet and work in better harmony with the Kennedy administration—even if most think this is a pretty long chance just now.

* * *

"Government and business are partners and need each other" pops up again and again in interviews with Chicago's top men in industry and trade. Usually it is said with wonderment that relations got out of hand so fast in the battle between the President and the steel companies over the short-lived price rise.

* * *

Austin T. Cushman, who just became chairman of Sears, Roebuck, says both sides should work for a better business-government climate so the nation can do its best and achieve the economic growth goals.

* * *

Charles H. Kellstadt, retiring Sears chairman, says: "All groups—government, business, labor—must be more temperate in words and actions. All must consider carefully before making statements or taking actions. It is vital to our economy that we maintain our free enterprise system.

'BUSINESS ECONOMY'

"Ours is a business economy. And I'm sure the President is aware of that. There should be no penalizing of business as such, or of bigness as such, or of the desire and need of making a profit."

Kellstadt brushes aside many of the more extreme fears now expressed for the immediate future of business, such as the tremors in the stock market following the steel price clash, with the assertion: "In my opinion our economy is sound—if they all just quit tampering with it."

* * *

Ross D. Siragusa, chairman of Admiral Corp., says the President was right in championing the public interest. The head of the electronics and electrical appliance firm says he feels sure the President wants business to prosper and thinks fighting inflation is the right way to achieve it.

'MUST COMPETE'

"This wage-price spiral should have been halted long ago. The President is right in telling both business and labor to moderate their price or wage demands if these are going to start up inflation again," Siragusa says.

"We have to compete in world trade with the countries in the European Common Market and with Japan and they have new and efficient equipment. It is only smart to hold down American industrial costs and prices now, when wages and costs are starting to rise in other nations. If we can hold ours down, we can move nearer to closing the gap and compete on more equal terms."

* * *

Siragusa admits most of his business friends don't agree with him on the wisdom of the President's course. And many question his belief that most of the unions will go along with the President's plea for moderation.

Most business executives interviewed feel that the chances of much coming out of the White House Conference on National Economic Issues, May 21-22, have been lessened by the flare-up between government and business.

'TALK TO SELVES'

Joseph L. Block, chairman of Inland Steel, the company that cracked the steel price boost line, says one of the big troubles all along is: "The three elements in our economy—government, business, labor—usually talk only to themselves. Mostly they don't know what the others are saying.

* * *

"The President's conference should let each side see how the other side thinks. Also it will let the public see what the issues really are. All this could help."

Shaping Up Best This Year

May Car Production High

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT — May is shaping up as the best production month of the year so far for the automobile industry.

Present calculations are that the five passenger car builders will assembly some 650,000 cars this month compared with 628,583 in January, the previous leader.

Production is rising because retail sales are strong. Even a 650,000-unit month probably will not add to present inventories which totaled 953,300 units when the month began.

In terms of days' supply, or how long the stockpile would last, the inventory is the lowest for this time of year since the industry's record period of 1955. The supply is equivalent to 38 days at April's selling rate of 24,845 daily.

DAYS' SUPPLIES

General Motors continues to run on minimum stocks, equal to only 32 selling days. Ford had a 39-day supply at the start of this month; Chrysler 51 days; Studebaker 53 days and American Motors 62 days. The inventories include cars in dealers' hands plus cars in transit to them.

Improved sales plus a sharp rein on output are responsible for a significant drop in Chrysler inventories. The corporation's stock of cars at the end of February was equal to 105 days' sales.

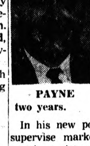

The same is true for Studebaker which cut stocks from 107 days at the end of February to 53 at the start of May.

American Motors, Studebaker and to some extent Chrysler maintain slightly higher stocks than Ford or General Motors under normal conditions because of their limited number of assembly plants. AMC and Studebaker both are single point oprations.

In a revised estimate Ward's Reports said last week the 1962 model run should total 6,605,100 cars, up 22.1 per cent from last year and up 9.9 per cent from 1960.

Business Notes

William B. Payne has been promoted to vice president in charge of sales at the Progressive Welder and Machine Co., 915 Oakland Ave.

PAYNE

Payne, 32739 White Oaks Trail, Birmingham, joined the company in 1948 and has been national sales manager for two years.

In his new position, Payne will supervise marketing of the company's resistance welding equipment and special fixtures for automotive, rocket and missile manufacturing.

A veteran of nearly 40 years in General Motors manufacturing management, John Q. Holmes of 657 Rudgate Road, Bloomfield Hills, retires May 31 as executive engineer on the director's staff at the GM Technical Center.

Holmes has served several GM divisions as master mechanic, section director and executive engineer since joining the Delco-Remy Division at Indianapolis, Ind., in 1923. He was a metallurgist with the now defunct Marmon Motor Car Co. before coming to GM.

J. A. Park, 5076 Country House Road, West Bloomfield Township, has been appointed account executive in the American Standard Oil account group for McManus, John & Adams, Inc.

Prior to joining the Bloomfield Hills advertising firm, Park was associated with the McCann-Erickson, Burke-Dowling-Adams and the George and Glover agencies.

The Mills Bakery Co. has awarded a diamond ring to Elbert A. Lorenzen, 47, 1932 Devonshire Road, Bloomfield Township, for driving without recording a single accident chargeable to him in 20 years as a bakery route salesman.

L. Jack Connell, project engineer at the General Motors Technical Center, will speak on "plastics for tooling and small prototype parts" at Thursday's 7 p.m. meeting of the Oakland County Chapter, American Society of Tool and Manufacturing Engineers, at the Waldron Hotel.

Grain Futures Firm With Strong Demand

CHICAGO (AP) — Demand improved all around and grain futures prices were steady to strong today in initial transactions on the board of trade.

Wheat ran up gains of about a cent on the May contract during the first several minutes but met resistance of that level and quickly settled back. Dealers said the demand may have included short covering and commercial buying which lacked follow-through support.

May corn also attracted good support where offerings were understood to have slackened somewhat. Brokers said there appeared to be a lighter volume of both liquidation and hedge selling.

Dividend Is Declared by Pontiac State Bank

The Pontiac State Bank Board of Directors declared a regular semiannual dividend of 50 cents per share at a board meeting yesterday.

The dividend is payable June 1, 1962, to shareholders of record as of May 15, said Milo J. Cross, bank president.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Standard & Poor's says stock prices are now down to levels "offering tempting values," but it seems advisable to proceed cautiously with new buying until the market shows signs of stabilizing.

In its weekly publication "Outlook" S&P says until such stability appears, investors should "review portfolios for possible advantageous switches."

* * *

Recent firming of the gasoline price structure in the U.S. suggests to the value line investment survey that 1962's poorest oil company results have been seen and that earnings will improve substantially in the months ahead.

Spear & Staff's latest study of 100 representative science companies shows that for the first quarter sales in the aggregate were up 14.2 per cent while earnings jumped 51.8 per cent above a year ago. Also, it says, profit margins in the group widened from 3.4 to 4.2 per cent.

* * *

Joseph E. Granville of E. F. Hutton & Co. says a very cautious attitude by investors is now called for. "The bear market swing may be as short as it was in 1957 and, if so, then we could be in the last days of decline." But on the other hand, he adds "there is a technical danger that the full gamut of the 1960-61 rise may ultimately be retraced, such as a rise starting at 366 in the Dow-Jones.

Jobs Picture Much Improved

Average Hours Tops for April Since 1955; 80,000 Find Work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Factory jobs and hours of work showed "strong improvement" in April and could trigger a bigger-than-seasonal decline in unemployment this month, the Labor Department said today.

The department reported that manufacturing employment climbed by 80,000 to 16,598,000 last month. It usually declines at this time of year.

The average factory work week increased to 40.4 hours, the highest April total since 1953, and included 2.7 hours of overtime, the report said.

Total nonfarm payroll jobs jumped by 675,000 to a monthly record high of 54,699,000.

Seymour Wolfbein, the department's chief manpower expert, predicted the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate would "move down a little bit" in May. The April level was 5.5 per cent.

Wolfbein said he believed the economy was at the point where employers would add more men rather than schedule additional overtime for current employes.

This will help to make a bigger dent in the long-term unemployed. The number of persons out of work for 15 weeks or more has not moved much from the level of 1.5 million it reached last winter.

The department also reported that construction jobs picked up by 240,000 in April after a late start because of bad weather. Trade employment also showed better than seasonal gains, it said.

Cite 35 Pct. Earnings at Sears, Roebuck

NEW YORK (AP) — Sears, Roebuck and Co. expects that strong consumer demand brought 35 per cent earnings for the first quarter, its officers said today.

At the annual meeting, Chairman Charles H. Kellstadt said preliminary figures indicate earnings for the period ended April 30 will be equal to 42 cents a share, compared with 31 cents in the same period last year.

* * *

Sales, said Kellstadt, rose about 8½ per cent during the quarter to top $1 billion.

Could Help Cut High Rate

Exception Helps Science Grasp Suicide

NEW YORK (UPI)—The single exception which disproves a rule has strengthened psychiatric science's efforts to understand suicide-bent minds so well it can unfailingly straighten them out before they go all the way.

This science holds, you see, that without exception suicide and attempted suicide are so abnormal the people involved in them are mentally ill.

When the science triumphs in its prime endeavor, the present appallingly high suicide rate should get out to the bone.

The disapproved rule is that persons with hysteria neurosis, which is not an uncommon form, may talk of suicide and may even make attempts at it but never actually kill themselves.

CLASSIC NOW

The single disproving exception was presented to the science by Dr. James H. Satterfield of St. Louis.

Hysteria neurosis is now classic in the science because the findings of Sigmund Freud which revolutionized the science and gave birth to Freudian psychology came from neurotics of that type.

In current psychiatric parlance hysteria neurosis is also called "conversion reaction."

★ ★ ★

The basic neurotic mechanisms get "converted" into surface symptoms both of the mind and the body and in really florid cases of hysteria neurosis those symptoms pile up prodigiously.

Dr. Satterfield's exception to the nonsuccessful-suicide rule for "conversion reaction" had at one time 35 of them.

These included a temporary paralysis of both legs.

The young woman could faint without losing consciousness—and fall in such a way she couldn't be hurt.

She could mimic unconsciously an epileptic-like seizure but without any of the changes which go with such a seizure. She had been hospitalized repeatedly and always with such a seizure. She had been hospitalized repeatedly and always her "conversion reaction" had no physical basis.

But none of these incidents which would scare any normal person seemed to disturb her. She had, according to the French contribution to psychiatric language, "la belle indifference."

The time came when her husband stormed out of the house after a quarrel and she said she would kill herself if he didn't return at once. And she did, with sleeping pills.

★ ★ ★

Satterlee reported her case to the American Psychiatric Association's technical journal because "there have been no reports in the literature of a patient with conversion reaction uncomplicated by alcoholism, drug addiction or other psychiatric disease, who successfully committed suicide.

And it also shows that doctors working with such neurotic are exposed to two dangers, he added.

MAY MISS DEEP SYMPTOMS

"The first danger is that the physician may be so impressed with the multiple hysterical symptoms that he may not pay enough attention to depressive symptoms and underlying depression.

"The second danger is that these patients may intend to make only a suicide gesture and in so doing commit unintentional but successful suicide, as may have occurred in this case.

Philip's Bird Book Challenge to Tony?

LONDON (UPI)—The duke of Edinburgh served notice today that when it comes to photography that other royal cameraman, Lord Snowdon, had better look to his lenses.

★ ★ ★

The duke published a delightful study of birds taken on his world tours in the royal yacht, Britannia, and the British press not only predicted a best seller but one newspaper hailed him as "top photographer of 1962."

"And that," said the headline, "is a shock for his pal Tony!"

The duke, of course, does not see his venture into photography as competition with the husband of Princess Margaret. He modestly describes his book, "Birds from the Britannia" as "a completely amateur work."

★ ★ ★

But even the newspaper Lord Snowdon works for, the Sunday Times, said the duke's first excursion into the difficult field of bird photography was "an unqualified success."

CHANCE TO COMPARE

And there are bound to be comparisons. The British public had a chance to judge the technique of its two royal family photographers yesterday when most papers printed bird shots taken by the duke and the Sunday Times published a couple of portrait studies snapped by Lord Snowdon.

The duke, whose interest in ornithology has led him to cut down on his hunting in favor of bird-watching and bird photography, took 80 pictures for his book, many of them of rarely photographed species.

"There is a theory that because both sexes appear to be identical penguins must have matrimonial problem of a very special kind and that mating occurs somehow by trial and error.

★ ★ ★

"I find this difficult and rather depressing to believe."

He relates that he went surf fishing clad only in shorts with Gilbert Island natives. The newspaper "The People" commented: "That little story will probably give the fuddy-duddies apoplexy. What! The queen's husband romping with a bunch of natives!"

The royal family does not make political comments but the duke comes close when he remarks of the Solomon Islanders:

"What must they think of the administrators we sent out to them, who stop them fighting with bows and arrows and preach law and order, but whose own people think it is perfectly all right to fight each other and involve everyone else with the most destructive weapons science can invent?"

★ ★ ★

It is the first time the Kennedys have scheduled one of the traditional White House social functions as a lawn party.

★ ★ ★

A buffet will be served from striped tents on the south lawn for the 6-to-8 affair. The Marine Corps Band, the Air Force strolling strings, Army Drum and Bugle Corps and a Navy combo will provide music.

24-Hour Strike Halts French Rail Service

PARIS (AP)—Railway workers went on strike throughout most of France today, paralyzing the state-operated rail system.

★ ★ ★

In Paris, many city bus drivers also struck and several subway lines halted during the morning rush hour. Only about 10 per cent of the familiar green and white Paris buses were operating.

The strike was called for 24 hours, beginning at 4 a.m. Long-distance trains en route at the time continued to their destinations.

★ ★ ★

The transport workers are seeking a shorter week and other benefits that the government has refused. More strikes in nationalized industries and the administration are scheduled later this week.

Small Vote Seen in 3 Primaries

Maryland, Pennsylvania and Nebraska Holding Elections Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Voters in Maryland, Pennsylvania and Nebraska pick nominees for state and federal offices in primary elections today. Turnouts of less than half the registered voters in each state were predicted.

★ ★ ★

The Maryland campaign has been liberally laced with charges of corruption and patronage peddling. The Nebraska and Pennsylvania campaigns have been more sedate. None of the Democratic primaries has directly involved President Kennedy.

IKE INVOLVED

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is involved to some extent in Nebraska and Pennsylvania. His personal choice, Rep. William W. Scranton, 44, is the front-runner in the Pennsylvania gubernatorial primary. Fred Seaton, who was secretary of the interior in Eisenhower's Cabinet, appears a shoo-in for the Nebraska Republican gubernatorial nomination.

★ ★ ★

Seven Democrats seek the gubernatorial nod in Maryland, including incumbent Gov. J. Millard Tawes. His stiffest opposition has come from George Mahoney, a contractor who has scored some near misses in losing biennial tries for the Democratic nominations for Senate or governor since 1950. David Hume, an attorney, has no organization to match Tawes or Mahoney but was ranked as a darkhorse possibility.

DISCUSSED PATRONAGE

The campaign was a rough one. Baltimore political leader Jack Pollack, who supported Tawes in 1958 but has switched to Mahoney this year, produced a tape recording portraying his alleged gift of $5,000 to Tawes in exchange for the right to name several Baltimore judges. Tawes conceded he discussed patronage with Pollack in 1958 but said the politico's demands grew too great and he broke with Pollack in 1959.

★ ★ ★

Despite the heat of the campaign, some Maryland observers think many Democrats will stay home, cutting the vote total to less than 50 per cent of registrations.

Airport Report Being Submitted

County Board Presents Status of 10-Year Plan to All Towns

The aviation committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors yesterday adopted a background and status report on the proposed multimillion-dollar major jet airport here to be submitted to all branches of local government in the county.

★ ★ ★

Purpose of the report, according to committee chairman Philip E. Rowston, is to give the municipal governments a clear understanding of what has been done toward establishing the airport in Orion and Pontiac townships and the reasons for the county's action.

Plans are to develop the airport, as a second major terminus serving the general metropolitan area within the next 10 years.

So far the county has spent $362,710 for the purchase of a 44-acre nucleus in the center of the 30,000-acre proposed site. Among initial purchases is Allen Airport—previously a private field—on Giddings Road.

★ ★ ★

Kuhn-for-Senate Group Appoints District Leaders

Chairmen for each of the county's six legislative districts were appointed by Fred L. Morningstar and Walter Kresge, chairman and vice chairman of the Kuhn For Senator Committee.

Kresge said the group is working "to prove to Dick Kuhn that the people of Oakland County want him to be the next state senator from Oakland."

Kuhn has not publicly announced his intentions.

★ ★ ★

Chairman Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., of the Juvenile Deliquency subcommittee ended the hearings by accusing the major networks of abusing their own moral code.

Governor Vetoes Court Fee Hike

Swainson Says Motion for Wayne County Is Barrier to Justice

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Swainson vetoed a bill yesterday which provided for an increase in court fees in Wayne County only.

★ ★ ★

In his veto message, Swainson denounced the bill as requiring a payment of fees double or triple the amount required to start actions in courts outside of Wayne County.

Part of the money collected would have been earmarked for the legislative retirement system.

"Court fees should not be established for the purpose of raising public revenues," Swainson said, adding: "Justice belongs to all of us and we must insure that it is equally available to each of us.

"We must guard against place of residence and economic status becoming barriers against free access to our courts because such a barrier for a single citizen is actually a barrier to all."

★ ★ ★

Swainson said he understood the measure originally was a companion proposal to legislation increasing the number of circuit judges in Wayne County and thereby enhancing accessibilitp to the courts.

But the governor said no such legislation had reached his desk.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF ARVID Fors, who passed away May 15, 1957.
His helping hand was always first
To render any aid he could;
His voice was always raised in praise.
His words were wise and good.
Dear father and husband, since you've gone away,
The ones you loved so true,
Try hard to carry on the way,
We know you'd want us to.
Sadly missed by wife Ida, daughter Mavis and family.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR daughter Joan Miller who passed away May 15, 1961.
One year has passed since God called you away,
He has you in his keeping,
Your memory we shall always cherish,
Daddy and Mother.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR dear wife and mother, Joan Miller, who passed away May 15, 1961.
Your memory is a keepsake
With which we'll never part,
Though God has you in his keeping
We still have you in our hearts.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR Daddy, Claude W. Finkle, who passed away May 15, 1960.
Our kind and loving father
We think of you today,
And recall the happy hours
Ere the day you passed away.
Never shall your memory fade,
And although we miss you so,
We are waiting til we, also
Leave this world of strife and woe.
Sadly missed by Daniel and Claudie Finkle.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF DONNA L. Stillers who passed away May 15, 1961
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sadly missed by husband and children

South Koreans Waiting Before Judging Junta

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — With shoulders hunched against the evening chill, the young student beat a fist on the breast of his threadbare coat and whispered: "Remember, the big test is yet to come."

He looked for eavesdroppers around the deserted Duk Soo Palace garden and added:

"Please don't write my name—that's the way things are these days. Just say, we Koreans are waiting and watching."

As South Korea's military leaders prepared to mark the first anniversary of their May 16 revolution, this uneasy "waiting and watching" attitude pervades Seoul.

There is no sign of widespread support for the stern young officers who marched their troops on this capital a year ago, overthrew Premier John M. Chang and with military precision learned in U.S. Army staff schools began a U.S.-backed reconstruction campaign to halt corruption and industrialize South Korea.

Neither is there any sign of significant resistance. The military made clear early in the game that it had the guns—and that was that.

So, many South Koreans have taken a raincheck and will pass judgment at a later date.

"They're from Missouri," one well-informed American said. "They'll have to be shown and don't think the junta doesn't realize it. These officers know no government can last without a mandate."

Many Seoul residents say—privately—that they fear they have lost freedoms, especially freedom of expression.

★ ★ ★

But they also express respect for the military's self-discipline and honesty in the face of tremendous economic and social problems.

As a little more rice finds its way into their bowls, many Seoul residents are warily hopeful of a better economic tomorrow, which is more valuable to a lot of them than democratic ideals.

Some Americans here doubt more than 10 per cent of the population gives a thought to what type of government is running Seoul. But for the students, who overthrew a corrupt Syngman Rhee regime in 1960, and the intellectuals, the "big test" of the military is whether it will truly turn over the reins to civilians next year as has been repeatedly promised.

No one met in three days of interviews, Korean or Americans, even privately accused the military of lusting for personal power. Many, however, are betting the 28-man ruling council headed by Gen. Chung Hee Park will in some manner retain decisive control of South Korean politics indefinitely.

RUMORED PLANS

"I just can't see them risking their necks to pull off a revolution and then taking a chance of another government fulfilling the revolution's objectives," one American said.

There are reports the military is forming the nucleus of a government political party to go before the voters next summer led by a "retired" general in mufti, perhaps Gen. Park or junta No. 2 man, Col. Kim Chong-Pil, director of the powerful Central Intelligence Agency.

About 4,500 officials and politicians who served under previous governments and could provide opposition in future elections have been banned from politics for six years unless they receive special clearance from the junta. The government says "fresh and conscientious politicians" will be permitted to engage in politics.

"In other words," an informed American said, "the election would be a pushover."

On the whole, Park and his generals are gaining applause for their first year in office—more from Americans, who want a strong anti-Communist South Korea, than from Sounth Koreans, who feel the pinch of military rule.

Nevertheless, the military is credited with working hard (Park spends 10-12 hours in his office daily) to clean up corruption. Interest rates that hit 60 per cent annually in some areas are down to 20 per cent.

Prices are relatively steady, currency is stabilized and inflation is being held within what one American economist called manageable bounds.

PRODUCTION RISING

With the help of U.S. economic aid totalling about $250 million annually, the military has prodded many sectors of the economy. Mining and manufacturing production has risen steadily in recent months.

But staggering economic problems remain and the junta's political fortunes may well depend on how quickly it fulfills its promises.

Large groups of unemployed men stand on Seoul street corners, so poorly fed and clothed that they shiver on even warm days. There are an estimated two to three million unemployed out of South Korea's 26 million people, and though hunger is nothing new to Korea it means unrest and possible political trouble.

The junta's industrialization program faces critical shortages of capital, managerial talent and natural resources.

Americans here say two major political problems face the junta:

First, it must widen its base of support without police state methods, bringing in civilians, winning the farmers and intellectuals. Failure here could mean trouble next summer, some experts believe.

Second, the junta must fight factionalism, a quarreling between provinces and army cliques that has created instability in Korea for centuries.

"Things are going well enough so that these officers are cocky and confident now," an American said. "Time will tell."

Home on Tropic Isle Takes Life's Savings, Life's Blood

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK—There seems to be a great deal of interest these days in building a "vacation home"—preferably on a tropic island, long on palm trees and short on nuclear fallout.

It is an excellent idea, and my husband and I are doing it.

As a few friends and many bank clerks know, we have a house going up at a lazy tropical pace on the sea at St. Croix, Virgin Islands.

We just returned from a flying trip to the site and are stunned to report that the house is almost finished. So, financially, are we.

This house, which is located five miles from the easternmost tip of the U.S. and a few hundred miles due northwest of where hurricanes spin due northwest from, is destined to be magnificent. If the architect doesn't tell you, the bills speak for themselves.

Besides, the insurance broker down there was most flattering. As we signed up for $879 annual premiums against havoc to our hideaway, he assured us, "It's really too nice a house to risk losing in a tidal wave." You can bet that was reassuring.

In case anyone reading this column is interested in following the big trend toward building a "second home" in the tropics, perhaps I should mention how it works.

First, you go to an island or two and look around for a good real estate buy. That's what we did. We found our two beautiful acres on the sea, put down our life savings as a deposit and took three years to pay off.

Then we rested a year, to let our nerves calm down and our bank account build up. After which we looked up an imaginative young architect on the island and said, "Can you build us a pretty little mansion for about $25,000?" He allowed as how he probably could, and we returned to the states.

A few weeks later he submitted a plan for a pretty little $30,000 mansion, and we decided to overlook the discrepancy and plunge ahead.

As things turned out, however, the contractors couldn't see it the architects's way, so the best bid we could get was for $7,000 more. Not wanting to disappoint anyone (mainly ourselves) we took our business away from Wall Street and transferred it to the builder.

The bank in the islands insisted that the contractor be bonded before it would grant a mortgage, because it is almost customary for builders there to go bankrupt before completing a job.

But it seems the bonding companies know everything the bank knows and more, so they wouldn't do business. The bank then said, Oh well, let's take a chance—but not a very big one; they cut down their mortgage by 40 per cent.

Then, finally, 13 months ago, the ground for the dream house was broken. By late summer 1961, work stopped. The builder was broke.

Financially helped out with advances, he was in business again. But slowly. The roof was almost on this winter when he was hauled into court for nonsupport of his young illegitimate children—a terrible thing to happen to a poor old man. He is 70. Our lawyer got him a suspended sentence to finish the house.

A few costly fiascos later we arrived at last week, when we flew down to see the domicile which, in spite of it all, we call the "A & P for (Art and Phyllis) superhouse."

And there it was in all its untiled, unpainted, unpaid-for-glory—but beautiful.

We asked the poor old builder how soon it would be finished, and he said as soon as he could pay his poor old creditors what he owed them. It amounted to considerable money.

We gave him a little more of that—and all our prayers. He said that was very good of us, and he'd really try to finish.

★ ★ ★

Not everybody building in the tropics has mortgage and money problems, along with mildew. But our experiences are typical enough that friends in the islands chuckle and say, "You think YOU had troubles, wait'll we tell you . . ."

But we aren't any more bitter than we are smart. We'd do it again tomorrow. Up north, just thinking about our tropical superhouse, we have a million laughs . . . which is, after all, slightly more than the dollars we've put into it!

Singer's Texas Fiance Acting Like Flynn

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Shades of Errol Flynn!

Patrice Wymore's lanky, handsome, sombrero-wearing, high-booted Texas fiance, Mack Caudle, a Houston insurance broker, flew in and surprised her when she opened at the Latin Quarter . . . at the same time serving notice on the other boys as to who's her leading man.

WILSON

It was well that he swashbuckled into her dressing room and embraced her. Pat wouldn't have recognized him in his skinny-tie get-up—she's that near sighted. Tall like her late husband Errol, he's also polite and soft-spoken. She has the ring, but they've postponed the wedding for a while. One reason: Pat, who's dimpled, leggy and lovely these days, wants to keep singing and dancing in night spots, while he wants her to be a leading Houston hostess. Don't be amazed if they honeymoon on the Errol Flynn yacht, which Pat now owns—and which is now being moved from Mallorca to Barcelona, to be chartered by a wealthy sportsman there.

Jack Paar stranded in Pacific! I just got this cable: "Jack Paar, John Reddy and I stranded Guadalcanal for week by tripical storms after filming Kennedy PT boat story in Solomons. Fiji Airliner with us aboard failed in takeoff attempt when mud flooded runway, knocked out two of four engines. Relief aircraft unable to land here because Henderson Field still flooded. All safe but frustrated. Best regards."

Signed by Tom Cochran, Paar's talent coordinator, the cable was sent from Honiara, the Solomons, and was the first news to reach here of the troupe's difficulties.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Natalie Wood and Warren Beatty, at Leone's before flying to Cannes, asked the musicians to play "Love Is A Many-Splendored Thing" . . . Sally Ann Howes, who entertained at a press dinner for JFK, said there was no stuffiness at all. . . . Anne Baxter's buying cattle in England for her Australian ranch.

★ ★ ★

EARL'S PEARLS: The old-fashioned girl wondered if there was a man in her future; today's ambitious lass wonders if there's any future in her man.—Louis Ginsburg.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: The quickest way to get a doctor these days is to turn on your TV set—A.H. Hallock. Quote.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: There are too many ways to spend money nowadays, and not enough new ways to earn it.

The TV comic's son rushed home from school and said, "I wasn't promoted, Pop, but something better—I was held over another 26 weeks!" . . . That's earl, brother.

Movie Studio Seeking $10,000 From Dancer

SOUTHEAST ASIA IN FOCUS — These two maps, drawn to the same scale, compare the western United States to the southeast Asian peninsula where spreading Communist advances have raised the possibility of U.S. intervention. The peninsula contains Laos, North and South Viet Nam, Cambodia and Thailand. AP Photofax

Trouble Spots Are Compared

Southeast Asia Large as Western America; Many More People

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The scene of the Laotian and South Vietnamese conflicts is a huge, jungled peninsula as large as a whole section of the western United States.

Contained in the peninsula, along with Laos and North and South Viet Nam, are Cambodia and Thailand. Together these five countries cover an area of 506,928 square miles—just 11,000 square miles less than the states of Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho and Nevada combined.

But the difference in populations between the two areas is considerable—some 64 million in the Southeast Asian group compared with about 21 million in the five western American states.

Communist North Viet Nam is the smallest of the Southeast Asian group with an area of 62,000 square miles. Thailand is largest with more than 200,000 miles. Thailand also has the largest population, about 25 million.

Laos, with 3 million people, has the smallest population. It is also the only nation in the group completely landlocked.

Black, White Confuse Clark in High Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Black and White of the U.S. Supreme Court created a bit of judiciary confusion and merriment yesterday.

★ ★ ★

In announcing a decision, Justice Tom C. Clark said that Justice Hugo L. Black took no part in the consideration or decision.

★ ★ ★

"White," Chief Justice Earl Warren whispered to Clark, meaning Justice Byron R. White a new member of the court who did not hear arguments in the case.

Clark corrected himself, smiling, and murmured, "Black and White" while those in the courtroom chuckled.

★ ★ ★

"Pardon me," Justice Clark added, "Mr. Justice Black did take part—very vociferously—in fact, he filed a dissent in which the chief justice joined."

36 Officers Taking Course in Explosives

JFK Orders Marines to Land in Thailand

AP Photofax

"A DIFFICULT SITUATION" — Rep. Charles Halleck, R-Ind., House Republican leader, tells newsmen outside the White House this morning after a 45-minute conference with the President on the Laos crisis, that "no commitments were asked and none given." He said the Southeast Asian situation was "certainly very difficult."

Dispatches 1,800 to Help Insure Integrity of U.S.

Troops to Go Ashore From Seventh Fleet Tomorrow Morning

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Kennedy today ordered 1,800 U.S. Marines into Thailand, and the Defense Department said U. S. military forces there will be built to about 5,000 men.

The President announced his action in a statement:

"These forces are to help insure the territorial integrity of this peaceful country," the statement said.

The statement mentioned only the dispatch of additional elements of the U.S. military forces, both ground and air.

An administration official said the additional elements consisted of 1,800 Marines who will be landed at the Bangkok naval base tomorrow morning.

He said they are being moved in by units of the 7th Fleet.

They will supplement an Army battalion of 1,000 men already in Thailand for Southeast Asia Treaty Organization maneuvers.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy said the sending of additional U.S. forces to Thailand was considered desirable "because of recent attacks in Laos by Communist forces, and the subsequent movement of Communist military units toward the border of Thailand."

The President called a threat to Thailand a matter of grave concern to this country.

But he said he wished to emphasize that the dispatch of U.S. forces to Thailand is a defensive act on the part of the United States and completely consistent with provisions of the United Nations Charter which recognizes that nations have an inherent right to take collective measures for self-defense.

Kennedy said that he had directed that the United Nations be notified of the actions this country is taking. He said, too, that "We are in consultation with SEATO governments on the situation."

Kennedy's announcement followed one in Bangkok by Premier Sarit Thanarat that Thailand and

Death Sentence Expected

OAS Leader Salan On Trial in France

PARIS (AP) — Secret Army leader Raoul Salan went on trial today before a special court that is expected to condemn him to death.

The ex-general, who once wore many of France's highest military decorations, was ushered into the court room by four gendarmes and took his place in the prisoner's box.

There was a hush when court President Charles Bornet asked Salan to identify himself.

"My name is Raoul Salan, ex-general of colonial troops, military medal, grand cross of the legion of honor, wounded in action."

As a court clerk began to read the degree which sent Salan before the high military tribunal, one of his lawyers interrupted to say that the defense wanted to cite a tribunal member, Henri Hoppenot, as a witness.

But when Hoppenot said that he had taken no part in events that led to Salan's trial, the court president in effect ruled against Hoppenot appering as a witness and trial procedures continued.

The court clerk read the accusation, which charged Salan with helping organize a putsch in April 1961 and then of being the leader of the Secret Army, which seeks to retain French rule in Algeria.

DISPUTES COMPETENCY

One of Salan's attorneys argued that the special high military court was not competent to hear any evidence on Salan's activities in the Secret Army.

He argued the Secret Army activities came after expiration of the special powers of President Charles de Gaulle which permitted setting up the court. There was no argument, however, on the court's competence to continue the trial on the generals' putsch in 1961.

Andre Galvada, the prosecutor and legal adviser to the court, rejected the defense contention and the court withdrew to deliberate the question.

The legalistic objections of the defense delayed a lengthy statement from Salan which he intends as the basis of his defense.

GOP Demanding Freeman Resign

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

WASHINGTON—Republicans today were demanding the resignation of Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman over charges that his department had an employe dragged screaming to a mental institution because she knew too much about the Billie Sol Estes case.

The charges revolved around Mary K. Jones, secretary to N. Battle Hales, who kept the files on Estes. Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., told the Senate yesterday that the department "railroaded" her into a mental institution for 12 days.

The Agriculture Department denied the charges. It said in a statement that it "regrets that the medical problems of an employe have been made into a political controversy."

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., said Miss Jones was "dragged screaming from her office" to the hospital. He said Freeman should "step down and out" because of the burgeoning case of the Texas farm magnate indicted on fraud charges.

To Hear Request on Center Plans

City Chiefs to Be Asked to Give Go-Ahead on Recreation Building

City commissioners will be asked to act on a resolution tonight authorizing City Manager Robert A. Stierer to start preliminary plans for a new community recreation center in the southeast section of Pontiac.

The proposed center would serve Districts 1, 6 and 7 and be built for an "amount not to exceed $200,000." Basically, commissioners have a building and outdoor swimming pool in mind.

Commissioners have indicated they will again postpone action on setting the city's 1962 tax rate, originally slated for adoption last week. This postponement is due largely to an already lengthy agenda tonight.

Another resolution up for action will authorize the city to apply for a federal demonstration project grant of $18,000 per year for the next three years to finance part of the city's youth assistance program.

TO APPOINT THREE

Commissioners will also make three appointments tonight. One vacancy is to be filled on the Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees and two appointments are to be made to the Retirement System Board of Trustees.

Sale of the old public library building and property at W. Lawrence and Williams Streets is expected to be completed as bids are slated for tabulation.

In another city property matter, a resolution authorizing City Clerk Olga Barkeley to advertise for bids to demolish the old central fire station at E. Pike and Perry Streets is also up for approval.

Commissioners also will consider a request that an ordinance to allow dancing in establishments serving liquor by the glass be presented.

The Commission is slated to view engineers' plans for the city's water distribution system at an informal meeting an hour before the regular 8 p.m. meeting.

State Suggests Higher County Land Valuation

The State Tax Commission has recommended a slightly higher tax base for Oakland County than was being figured on by the County Board of Supervisors.

According to a report from Lansing today the commission has proposed a county equalized property valuation of $2,149,908,200 for this year's tax purposes. This is $37.5 million more than the figure the county had arrived at.

If the commission's recommendation is approved by the State Board of Equalization next week it will result in slightly higher taxes on Oakland County property owners, according to William Grabenstetter, county equalization director.

It also would mean that county government would require a slightly lower share of the 15-mill total levy in order to finance its proposed $16,555,202 budget for next year, county auditors agreed.

★ ★ ★

The board of supervisors' equalization committee had recommended a $2,112,408,200 county equalized valuation, which is $37.5 million less than what the state tax commission is recommending.

★ ★ ★

The board's valuation would require 6.18 mills to finance the tentative county budget. The tax commission's figure would mean a .11-mill decrease, or 6.07 mills.

Market Recovering From Monday Plunge

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved higher in active early trading today in what appeared to be continued recovery from the deep dip and near-record activity Monday.

Key stocks gained $1 or more in opening trading today, resuming the rally that broke what some analysts were terming the Kennedy bear market. The ticker tape, which fell as much as 34 minutes behind the pace of floor transactions, again fell behind five minutes this morning.

On Monday, the market sank sharply in early trading in what had the makings of a deepening skid after six straight days of decline.

Last-Ditch Try for Income Tax Plotted by Dems

Assemble House Forces for Solid Stand Against Nuisance Passage

A similar drive failed in the Senate last month.

Rep. Joseph J. Kowalski, D-Detroit, party floor leader, said Democrats would stand solid against a "nuisance" tax package scheduled for a vote today, then move to bring an income tax package out of the House Taxation Committee.

Republican leaders voiced little hope that the nuisance levies would muster enough support to pass on the first try.

They hoped to win ample Democratic votes to their cause when and if the income tax bills go down the drain.

The GOP package would raise $69 million a year by adding two cents to the five-cents-a-package cigarette tax, two cents to the present 4-cent per bottle tax on beer and restoring 4 per cent taxes on liquor and telephone and telegraph service.

Republicans, with a slim 56-54 majority, concede it can't pass the House without Democratic support.

Gov. Swainson told a news conference yesterday that he made no effort to pressure Democrats to vote against the nuisance levies. "This is contrary to some reports that I 'blackjacked' them at a caucus last week," he said.

"I merely pointed out the alternatives — nuisance taxes or fiscal reform," he said. "It's the same position that I've taken for 16 months as governor."

Royalists Planning Push to Recapture Lost Town

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—American military sources said today that Royal Laotian government forces are regrouping in northwestern Laos for a push toward the rebel-captured town of Nam Tha.

There was no word on whether the government troops have made actual contact with the pro-Communist rebels.

There has been no report of fighting since before the weekend when Laotian soldiers poured across the Mekong River into Thailand in advance of the rebel drive.

Aerial observations showed the rebels still had not occupied the Mekong River village of Houei Sai which the royalists abandoned.

Most of the 2,600 soldiers who fled to Thailand were being flown back into Laos, landing at Luang Prabang, Vientiane or Savannakhet.

Local diplomats could do very little here today to try to bring peace to this troubled land.

PREMIER IN TAIPEI

Premier Prince Boun Oum and his strongman deputy, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, are in Taipei trying to get aid from Nationalist China. Nationalist Chinese officials were reported to have cautioned Boun Oum against forming a coalition government with neutralist and pro-Communist factions.

Informed sources said Chinese officials urged Boun Oum to proceed with care in dealing with the pro-Communists in efforts to settle the political strife in Laos.

The sources said the Nationalists cited their own experience with Communists in advising a cautious course. They stressed this view in a series of meetings with Boun Oum, the sources said.

The United States has suspended economic aid to Boun Oum's regime in an attempt to force him to negotiate a neutral, coalition government.

He has resisted the pressure but informed sources reported in Vientiane yesterday that he had made new overtures for peace talks to neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma.

Souvanna, the "neutralist" who was commissioned by King Savang Vatthana to try to form a coalition government, is in France.

Reports from Paris quoted him as saying he would return to Laos this weekend "to cool people down."

Souvanna said he first would see the king and then would try to arrange a princely summit meeting with his half brother, Pathet Lao Red Prince Souphanouvong, and Boun Oum on a coalition government.

33 Men Students at MSUO

Live Baby Has 'Em Drooling

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

When Jeffrey Allen Obear was born, 33 men besides the father paced the floor.

★ ★ ★

The new-born baby was to be the cherished mascot of Fitzgerald Hall at Michigan State University, Oakland, and residents there were as concerned for its safe arrival as the father, Dr. Frederick Obear, house counselor.

Since that time the ten-week-old baby has the devoted hearts of the entire dormitory in his tiny hands. And he's taking full advantage of his "king of the roost" position.

Jeffrey has developed a definite hankering for being entertained, fed and rock-a-byed by his houseful of male admirers.

It's not an uncommon sight in the Obear apartment to come upon a 186-pound football player holding (Oh, so gently) the baby, rocking him to sleep while softly humming a little modern jazz.

★ ★ ★

Or a muscular track man standing upside down on his head trying to coax a smile from little Jeffrey. Or a lanky basketball player awkwardly pushing soft, mushy food into the tiny mouth.

Then there is the dignified honor student, quiet as a hibernating racoon, making ridiculous noises and performing like a monkey with St. Vitus's dance — merely to get the attention of MSUO's youngest resident.

Then comes the rewarding three-cornered smile. If he could, Jeffrey would probably burst right out laughing.

The men flip coins just to see who gets to hold and feed their real live mascot, and a special take-turn schedule has been set up for making the many "changes."

"You know, its really funny," said Mrs. Obear, "but some of the men here have never actually seen a new-born baby — let alone hold one.

"They are more curious and concerned than the girls."

So Fitzgerald Hall's young men continue to have fun learning how to be future dads, and Jeffrey continues to gurgle his solid approval.

Pontiac Press Photo

"HURRAH FOR MSUO" — That's what ten-week-old Jeffrey Obear seems to be shouting. Actually, he's taking a good old-fashioned baby yawn while some of his "admiring slaves" at Fitzgerald Hall, Michigan State University Oakland, ogle. OAS, Moslem Gunmen Spread Death, Terror

ALGIERS (UPI)—European and Moslem terrorists ranged through the streets and countryside of Algeria today, shooting and killing in a new surge of violence that police feared might erupt into large-scale fighting.

★ ★ ★

By 12:30 p.m., terrorism across the country had killed 23 persons, at least 15 of them Moslems, and wounded 12, bringing the year's unofficial casualty toll to 4,602 dead and 8,611 wounded.

In Oran, the police prefecture warned Europeans and Moslems to stay in their own neighborhoods, "starting immediately and for some time . . ."

"In the present circumstances, only calm and the coolheadedness of all will preserve the future for all," a police communique said.

BRACE FOR TROUBLE

Heavily-armed troops braced for possible reprisals from both sides. It was feared that the Secret Army Organization (OAS) might unleash a major operation to avenge the Moslem raids in which 17 Europeans were killed and 35 others were wounded yesterday.

The 90 minutes of violence late yesterday was the first instance of mass terrorism by Moslems since the ceasefire March 18, and raised the threat of a major conflict that could upset the truce between the French and the Algerians.

The separate attacks by Moslem gunmen on the outskirts of Algiers resulted in one of the heaviest tolls for European casualties in one day since the Algerian rebellion began in 1954.

Authorities feared that the OAS European extremists, who are opposed to Algerian independence, would follow up the Moslem raids with raids of their own. They have been trying to sabotage the cease-fire with widespread terrorism.

The victims of the Moslem violence and those from earlier OAS terrorism brought yesterday's casualty toll to 30 dead and 47 injured. Nine women and two children were among the European wounded.

The OAS has been trying to provoke the Moslems into retaliatory attacks on Europeans, hoping that such attacks might force the French army to fire on the Moslems. The European extremists figure such action would lead to a collapse of the peace accords.

★ ★ ★

Yesterday's Moslem attacks occurred on Aid El Kebir Day, the biggest Moslem religious holiday of the year, and followed rumors in the European community that the Moslems planned to use the occasion to avenge victims of OAS terrorism.

Mansfield So Moves in Senate

May Shelve Vote Test Bill

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — With all sides reasonably satisfied that political profit has been squeezed out of it, the Senate may shelve today the administration's voter literacy test bill.

★ ★ ★

Before members is a motion by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana to put aside the measure. If it prevails as expected on a roll call vote, that will be the end for civil rights legislation in the 87th Congress.

★ ★ ★

Poitically, there was something for everyone in this outcome.

Southern opponents could brag at home they had killed another civil rights bill by their filibustering tactics. Advocates of the measure could assure interested minority voters they had done their best and would be back to try again.

★ ★ ★

Democrats and Republicans each could blame the other party for the lack of results.

★ ★ ★

The bill itself was designed to establish a sixth grade education as the only literacy test for qualification to vote in federal elections.

★ ★ ★

It was aimed primarily at about 100 counties in the South where its supporters said state tests were used to keep Negroes from voting. Southerners called the measure an unconstitutional invasion of the right of states to fix voting qualifications.

★ ★ ★

The 52-42 vote by which the Senate Monday refused to limit debate sealed the measure's fate for all practical purposes.

But advocates would not let it be buried without a proper wake. They took over the talk from the Southerners who had used up most of the time of 14 working days since Mansfield and Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois first maneuvered April 24 to bring the measure before the Senate.

Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., blamed what he called an unholy alliance of Southern Democrats and conservative Repubicans, mostly from the West, for the Senate's failure to get action on the measure.

He said that Republicans—who pledged in their 1960 platform to back such legislation — found it easy to vote against limiting debate after having been given a chance last week to record themselves in support of the bill.

Kennedy Orders Marines to Land

the United States had agreed to the stationing of U.S. troops in Thailand.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy said in his statement that there is no change in U.S. policy toward Laos, "which continues to be the re-establishment of an effective cease fire and prompt negotiations for a government of national union."

★ ★ ★

In advance of the White House announcement, there had been reports that Kennedy had informed congressional leaders at an early forenoon meeting that U.S. Marines would begin landing in Thailand within a matter of hours.

Storms Let Up Over Midwest

Rain Following Rash of Tornadoes, Severe Thunderstorms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More rain splashed across northern Midwest areas today but severe storms that caused property damage and injured at least nine persons diminished.

★ ★ ★

Tornadoes and severe thunderstorms struck areas in Nebraska, South Dakota and Minnesota Monday as most of the Midwest reported record heat for the date.

The midday hot spell extended from the Gulf states to the Great Lakes region. Fairly warm weather covered most of the eastern half of the country but it was a little cool in some western sections.

TORNADO TOLL

Four twisters skipped across areas in Nebraska and damaging windstorms and hail storms hit sections of South Dakota. Nine persons suffered minor injuries when a tornado hit rural areas near Naper in northeast Nebraska. Other twisters struck farms near Hershey in the central part of the state.

★ ★ ★

Heaviest damage from the storms in South Dakota appeared to be near the Nebraska border at Bonesteel. Hail pelted Mitchell, S.D. The thunderstorms extended eastward into sections of Minnesota. To the west, rain dampened areas in southern Montana, parts of Nevada, southern Nevada and southern California. Light rain also hit sections in the north Atlantic Coast states.

Part of Free Auto Safety Check

Motorists to Be Offered Eye Tests

When the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce opens its vehicle safety check lanes tomorrow, the "checks" won't be limited to automobiles.

One of the highlights of this year's safety check program will be a free eye vision test. Area residents will be able to find out how they rate on five vision skills needed for driving.

A vision test trailer will be parked on W. Huron Street at Saginaw. It will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. through Saturday.

Operated by the Oakland County Chapter of the American Optometric Assn., tests will be given for distance acuity, depth perception, field of vision, muscle balance and night vision skills.

TAKES 5 MINUTES

The complete test only takes about five minutes. Each person tested will be given a "score card" showing how he or she rated in each classification.

Of some 308 who took the vision screening tests during vehicle safety check week two years ago in Pontiac, about 72 per cent passed all five test points and 28 per cent failed in one or more of the test areas.

Parking meters on Huron near the trailer will be hooded so as to offer free parking for those taking tests.

Working at the three vehicle check lanes will be members of the Pontiac Lions Club, Rotary Club, Pontiac Auxiliary Police, Optimist Club, Civitans, and the Downtown, North Side and West Pontiac Kiwanis Clubs.

★ ★ ★

Roberts' Compensation Bill Appears Doomed by House Opposition

Republicans in the State Senate last night put full support behind a bill cosponsored by Sen. Farrell Roberts, R-Pontiac, and led the Senate to override a governor's veto for the first time since 1955.

By a 23-5 vote along strict party lines, senators supported the bill to prohibit a worker from collecting workmen's compensation while he is receiving unemployment compensation. Five Democrats were absent during the voting.

Roberts' bill, cosponsored with Sen. Arthur Dehmel, R-Bay City, was vetoed last Wednesday by Gov. Swainson. Two-thirds approval is required in both houses of the State Legislature to override a veto.

Despite Senate support, the bill appears doomed in the House, where Republicans, with a 56-54 majority, apparently cannot muster two-thirds approval.

Roberts said Senate Republicans supported his measure because Michigan employers already are paying the highest workmen's and unemployment costs anywhere in country.

The question, he said, is whether a worker should be eligible to draw both benefits at the same time.

Sen. John Smeekens, R-Coldwater, pointed out that "in some cases a worker can collect 100 per cent of his take-home pay or more by drawing both benefits."

Lake Use Law Is Discussed

Waterford Twp. Board Indicates No Rush to Act on Proposal

The Waterford Township Board, with 2 lakes within its jurisdiction, indicated last night that it was in no hurry to act on a proposed uniform lake use ordinance.

Though not formally on the agenda, the proposal was discussed at length. Several residents, mostly lake front property owners in the township, appeared at the meeting and commented.

General opposition to such an ordinance was voiced by those who live on lakes. The limited hours for water skiing was paricularly cited by the group as objectionable. As proposed, skiing is allowed between 10 a.m. and sundown on weekdays and 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. on weekends and holidays.

Supervisor Elmer Johnson, who informed the group that no position would be taken at the meeting prior to discussion, commented that he had received no phone calls favoring the ordinance but numerous calls registering opposition.

—SO NO URGENCY

None of the board members indicated they felt there was any urgency in acting on the ordinance and no date for further consideration was set.

In other action the much discussed proposal by the Community National Bank for establishment of an unincorporated village was voted down unanimously by the board.

Representatives of this bank as well as officials from the Pontiac State Bank and Pontiac Federal Savings engaged in lengthy discussion prior to the board decision. The proponents argued that they were the first to ask for a designation of the area that would include the Pontiac Mall and pave the way for a branch office there.

The Pontiac State Bank spokesman commented that he objected to the vast area asked for and not the Mall location itself. The representative of the Pontiac Federal Savings said he felt it was unfair to designate an area for a particular bank. He added that he would like to request designation of all of Waterford Township.

Detroit Man Crushed to Death in Accident

DETROIT (AP)—A 45-year-old Detroit man was crushed to death today when he was caught in a winch-operated cable and pulled into the drum of the winch.

Empty Caboose Takes Ride Off the Track

An empty caboose was knocked over by a Grand Trunk Western Railroad switch engine at the railroad's siding just north of Johnson Avenue about 10 a.m. today.

No one was injured, according to Trainmaster C. E. Stack. The caboose was located on a track that abuts the line on which the engine was working.

The engine, apparently traveling too fast, was unable to stop in time to avoid the accident.

Galbraith to Return to U.S. for Conference

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith is returning to Washington May 26 for consultations, the embassy said today.

Galbraith is expected to discuss with the Kennedy administration the prospects of India aid in Congress and India's negotiations to buy Soviet MIG fighters, a spokesman said. The trip was planned many weeks ago, he added.

De Gaulle Stressing A-Bomb for France

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle today asserted that France must build its atomic force for the nation's own defense and independence.

Speaking to a jam-packed news conference, he said this French military force should operate within the framework of the Atlantic Alliance.

This French force, he said, is required so that "no matter what happens, we can play our own role in our own destiny."

The president stressed this as his third point in a three-point national program. He dessribed the three points as the "policy of the possible."

1. Disengagement from political, economic and military commitments overseas.

2. The unification of Europe so as to re-establish a balance of power within Europe.

3. Creation of a modern national force capable of defending French soil with the aid of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Ford Executive to Speak at Oakland NCCJ Dinner

BIRMINGHAM — William T. Gossett of Bloomfield Hills, vice president and legal adviser for the Ford Motor Co., will be the principal speaker at the spring dinner of the South Oakland Round Table of the National Conference of Christian and Jews.

The dinner, which is open to the public, will be held at 6:30 p.m. May 24 at the Helen Keller Junior High School, 12-Mile and Campbell roads.

FORMED LAST YEAR

Dinner tickets can be purchased by contacting program chairman Abraham Brickner of 21970 Marlow St., Oak Park.

The South Oakland Round Table was formed a year ago with Robert Willson as general chairman and R. J. Alexander, Richard Marshall and Henry Schiffer as cochairman.

The NCCJ is an educational organization devoted to the promotion of understanding among people of all racial, religious and nationality groups.

Charles Lyle, GOP county chairman, said ticket sales are "going great guns" for the stage show featuring Tony Martin, Jane Morgan and the Mills Brothers.

The program will be presented at Groves High School. Also on the bill are two comedy teams, Rowan and Martin and the Weire Brothers, and the dancing Steiner Brothers.

A fund-raising event, the show will be staged in five other Michigan cities before coming to Birmingham. A press preview dress rehearsal is scheduled for Sunday in Grand Rapids.

The Birmingham Police Department was honored last night with a certificate of merit from the National Police Officers Association for reducing traffic accident and fatalities and for promoting highway safety in the community during 1961.

The presentation of the "Walker's Safety Award" coincides with National Police Week, May 13-19.

The registering device will be installed on homes under construction by the Township Water Department for $28. Owners of older homes will be charged the cost for time and materials.

Republicans Demand Freeman Resignation

made the same demand on the letterhead of the GOP Congressional Committee.

Dole charged that the agriculture Department's integrity has been impugned, and "we cannot allow a cabinet rank department to remain under a cloud."

Allott told the Senate that the department had been "caught in clear cases of misfeasance and malfeasance" in the Estes case and "If he (Freeman) does not resign and the Wihte House maintains its strange silence, it must be explained."

The department said in its statement:

"The woman, Mary K. Jones, was taken to D. C. General Hospital on April 25 on the advice of two physicians. One was her own personal physician and the other was the doctor assigned to the department. The department's physician accompanied her to the hospital."

Later the department added this to the statement:

"The department's doctor acted only after consulting with her personal physician and only on his instructions. The psychiatric test at D.C. General Hospital concurred that she needed immediate hospitalization.

"She was under the care of the psychiatric staff at the hospital until she was released to the custody of her own family with the understanding she should receive further treatment."

Incumbent, Newcomers File for Election to Waterford Board

One incumbent and four newcomers will be competing for the two four-year term seats on the Waterford Township Board of Education in the June 11 school election.

Edmund L. Windeler, a veteran of 12 years on the board, did not file a petition for re-election. His present term expires next month.

Board president Eldon C. Rosegart, 2983 Shawnee Lane, Drayton Plains, seeks his second term on the board. Married and the father of two children, incumbent Rosegart is an instructor of instrumental music in the Pontiac school system.

FATHER OF TWO

Catlin is assistant vice president and manager of the Pontiac branch of the Burton Abstract and Title Co. He is married and the father of two children.

Cheal, an experimental engineer at Pontiac Motor Div., is married and has six children.

Nordbeck is a property appraiser for the Michigan State Tax Commission. He is married and the father of four children.

Over Political Petitions?

Twelve-Town Office in Shakeup

By DICK HANSON

News Analysis

Helping the boss get re-elected is looked upon as good job insurance by many employes of various Oakland County government departments. They feel their jobs depend on it one way or another.

The reason for such feeling is typified by County Drain Commissioner Daniel Barry's recent action. He discharged two female secretaries on his staff for failing to circulate nominating petitions for his reaffirmation in August primaries.

As a result, the women's supervisor, Aston J. Berst, 12-Town Drain coordinator, resigned in protest. He had held his post, which entails overseeing the $40-million sewer construction in southeastern Oakland County, since 1956.

Already the County Democratic Committee has challenged his action in an effort to make political hay. Barry is vulnerable in the committee's opinion as expressed by Chairman Sandor Levin.

"The people have a right to know what's behind the new shakeup in the 12-Town office," declared Levin, "This is the second shakeup in a year.

"And the only indication we have as to what is going on is the implication that undue pressure is put on staff and clerical personnel to circulate his (Barry's) nominating petitions."

Yet the practice of an elected official hiring or maintaining political supporters in jobs where they can continue to help him get re-elected is virtually inherent in the democratic system of government.

COMMON CUSTOM

The practice certainly is prevalent in state government and in the higher echelons of federal government. It is seen every day in local communities where, for example, the police chief is fired or resigns under fire from a newly-elected regime.

In such an instance, the chief was appointed under the old regime and his ensuing job depended on the re-election of those who appointed him.

Obviously, he was obligated to work hard for the incumbents at election time if he hoped to remain head of the police force.

The opposite effect is just as obvious. By taking a political stand, he had alienated those seeking to oust the incumbents. If they succeed, he can expect the ax.

Barry's two fired secretaries said they were unaware that they were taking any political stand.

Mrs. Marie Griffith, who had worked for 12-Towns for five and a half years, said, "I didn't think it was a political job."

★ ★ ★

The other fired secretary, Mrs. Murl McGrath, said, "I had no idea that working with the 12-Town office had anything to do with one's political views." She was hired by Berst last September. Previously she had been employed by the County Welfare Department since 1949.

Opinions among perhaps more knowing county employes, as to whether they should support their elected bosses in election campaigns, vary from opposite poles.

These opinions invariably are offered in hushed tones with the inevitable "don't quote me" preface. They range from that of employes who feel they owe allegiance to their boss to "civil service is the only way."

These latter proponents believe that employes working for elected officials should be protected from having to take sides by the assurance of continued employment under civil service regardless of the election's outcome.

Those elected officials, who in the past have opposed civil service, argued that it would inhibit them from running an efficient department, and that they would be at the mercy of their employes on matters of administrative policy.

★ ★ ★

County elected officials, when quizzed, took the unanimous stand that they appreciated any campaign support from their employes but denied that jobs hung in the balance as far as they are concerned.

Business Activities Should Be Left 'Free'

The recent TV appearance of President KENNEDY has not dispelled a lot of the fear in the minds of businessmen. Despite his "olive branch"-like talk, the gnawing fear of interference still exists.

Business can do a lot of things to make its own case clear. But this is the time for Washington to act—not talk. In business circles honest-to-goodness actions are the payoff. Not mere sweet talk.

For example, the Attorney General should make it letter-clear — in public—that he does not intend to use the FBI indiscriminately for his political bidding. That should be reserved for public enemies. We can assume that most businessmen and reporters are not in this class.

The above statements appeared in an editorial in the magazine Iron Age. We endorse them heartily and hasten to add a few more. A lot of the double talk we've been listening to from Washington is doing more harm than good.

If you are out to win over someone, you don't throw mud in his face. Business and businessmen are just not all that bad. Sure, there may be a few, but to spank the entire lot amounts to a kick in the seat of the pants from the leaders of our administration.

There is nothing wrong with the majority of successful business enterprises in this country. Yet it seems to have gotten to the point where the mere mention of business or success immediately takes on the connotation of a dirty word.

We would like to ask why.

This country was built on free enterprise and the system is a part of our way of life. It does not seem feasible to us for the Government to make new inroads under the claim of "national interest" in supervising more and more business activities.

For many years the stock market has been a fairly true barometer of our business climate. Look at it today.

Instead of asking the business leaders what's wrong with the economy, let's ask Washington.

Hollywoodites Continue to Live Life of Luxury

Even in Hollywood's palmier days, the late comedian FRED ALLEN once characterized the average movie star's homestead as "an empty swimming pool entirely surrounded by mortgages."

Homesteads, like switching mates, have not changed appreciably.

Singer Rosemary Clooney testified in her divorce suit that she was nearly $30,000 in debt and had nothing in the bank, but she has six servants whose combined wages for the first quarter of 1962 came to $3,376.

With herself and a flock of kids to feed and clothe, presumably she has other expenses, too. And now husband JOSE FERRER simply says he can't foot the bills. We wonder who could?

★ ★ ★

Critics say that in recent years Hollywood has turned to "realism" in films. Apparently not much of it has rubbed off on the dream world outside the studios.

Palm Beach Concludes Successful Season

Time has rushed through another festive Palm Beach season.

Palm Beach has enjoyed its busiest, most prosperous season, according to merchants and businessmen. It has entertained more visitors and winter colonists than in any previous season, according to town officials. Certainly, by our own reporting, it has been the gayest season of them all, with Palm Beach playing host to scores of nationally and internationally prominent visitors including our country's First Family, a king and his colorful retinue.

★ ★ ★

The worldwide renaissance of art has had its focus on Palm Beach. The theater has contributed full measure of good entertainment.

Fashion has made its headquarters here with merchants presenting the most elegant and most chic from all over the world. Fine restaurants and hotels have provided gourmet dining for the most discriminating palates.

★ ★ ★

Consistently beautiful, sunny weather has given sports a heyday and record shattering achievements have spiced the news.

Washington

Hold That Line

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It is going to take more than words; it is going to take some specific actions on pending wage negotiation cases to clarify President Kennedy's real policies toward "noninflationary" pay increases for labor.

★ ★ ★

Nearly all the comment on the President's speech to the United States Chamber of Commerce meeting here was concentrated on what he had to say about business. But there was another segment in labor policy which deserved equal attention.

The President first declared that his economic stabilization policy was based on holding both wage and price increases and providing for both profits and increased investment for modernization "within the limits of productivity."

This would set a ceiling over all costs of production in the hopes that this would not only lower prices to consumers but also stimulate increased purchasing.

IN A NUTSHELL

The President then made clear that he was not just applying this ceiling to business. He had, and would continue to apply it to labor. Breaking up the key paragraph to give full emphasis to its various points, the President declared:

"I add at this point that when an administration—

"has not hesitated to seek Taft-Hartley injunctions for national emergencies—

"has successfully urged moderation on the steel workers and other unions—

"has expressed a firm and continuing opposition to the 25 hour week, or anything less than the 40 hour week—

"has gone on record against featherbedding and racketeering and road blocks to automation—

"it surely does not need to be asked whether it will invoke the national interest whenever it is threatened."

That is about as unequivocal a statement that the President will crack down on labor if its demands go above "the limits of increased productivity" as could be made.

The tests for this statement will come soon.

A presidential fact-finding board has recommended a "non-inflationary" 10-cents-an-hour wage increase for 450,000 off-train railway employes. But the railroads say this would cost them $80 million a year and necessitate a rate rise. The brotherhoods ask a 25-cents-an-hour increase.

★ ★ ★

The railroads and the on-train employes are still negotiating on another presidential commissions recommendation principally affecting working conditions. But the 200,000 enginemen and trainmen have customarily been given wage increases similar to those granted off-train employes.

The aluminum industry will begin negotiations with its employe unions in mid-May to renew a contract expiring July 31. In general, the aluminum industry has followed wage patterns set in the steel industry.

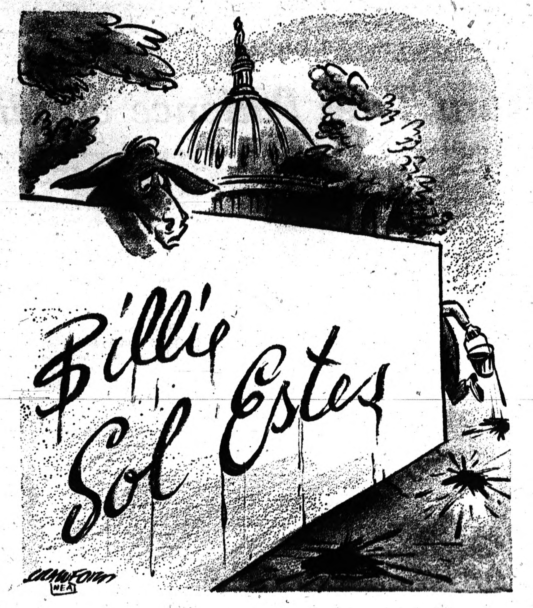

In aircraft and missile industry wage negotiations to come later, International Association of Machinists and United Auto Workers are asking for a "noninflationary" 3.5 per cent wage increase. That would soak up all the average national increase in productivity.

And Everything Was So Nice and Clean

Is Guilt by Association New Trend?

WASHINGTON — Suspicion does not necessarily mean guilt. Yet an emphasis on the improprieties committed by an official here and there in the Kennedy Administration in connection with the operations of Billie Sol Estes, a Texas businessman, has cast a cloud on the reputation of various persons who may be entirely innocent of any crime or wrongdoing.

LAWRENCE

This writer called attention to the tendency to rely on suspicion rather than evidence when the name of Harry Vaughan was in the headlines during the Truman administration, because of his part in collecting contributions during the 1948 campaign and his acceptance later of the gift of a "deep-freeze" from a friend.

★ ★ ★

Also Sherman Adams, personal assistant to President Eisenhower, was similarly criticized because he took some gifts and accepted favors from an old friend who was trying to obtain governmental benefits.

Yet there has never been any evidence that either Harry Vaughan or Sherman Adams really violated any law.

There is the case of Jerry R. Holleman, who has just resigned as assistant secretary of labor. He has known Mr. Estes for ten years, and they were close friends, both attending the Church of Christ in Austin, Tex., where Mr. Holleman taught a Sunday school class.

HELPED IN CAMPAIGN

The latter was assistant director of the 1960 national political campaign in his home state. Did he feel he knew Mr. Estes well enough to consider that, by accepting a gift, he would not be compromised?

There is only one kind of operation in which the Department of Labor could play a par. favorable to the Texas cotton man, and this has to do with migratory labor. Representative Jim Wright of Texas, Democrat, in a public statement says Mr. Holleman took a position opposite to that of Mr. Estes on this question.

This writer doesn't know Mr. Holleman but believes he may be receiving a punishment that is not deserved. He resigned, of course, to avoid political embarrassment to the Administration, but if he really did nothing wrong, then should not the resignation have been declined?

Mr. Holleman has been active in politics for a long time. He was president of the Federation of Labor in Texas. Unhappily, the ways of politics develop customs which are condoned but which have their roots in a jaundiced view of what is ethical or unethical.

Thus, Mr. Holleman apparently saw nothing wrong in the suggestion that Mr. Estes pay the expense of a dinner that was given by Secretary of Labor Goldberg last January in Washington in honor of Vice President Lyndon Johnson.

Mr. Goldberg sensed the impropriety immediately, however, and insisted on paying for the dinner himself. Mr. Holleman would never have suggested it if he had not been accustomed to the ways of politics.

The Country Parson

Dr. William Brady Says:

Use Aspirin for Pain but Never Expect Cure

A recent newspaper story said that doctors in Providence, R.I., were alarmed about the increased incidence of aspirin poisoning in children. They said 50 per cent of all poisonings of children were aspirin poisonings.

BRADY

Children are given flavored aspirin. A pediatrician said responsibility rests squarely with the parents.

Well, now (remember Fibber McGee's druggist?), I wouldn't say that. I'd say the latter-day specialists are responsible for it.

When Mrs. Smart Alec Snob telephones her pediatrician (an ordinary doctor isn't good enough) that little Harold has a brassy cough and a temperature of 100, does the doctor pass up $50 worth of business waiting in his reception room to visit the patient for $20? No, that isn't the way latter-day specialists do business.

He directs Mrs. Snob to keep little Harold well under the covers, give him plenty of liquids and a couple baby aspirins, and report again at 4 o'clock.

Prescribing aspirin by telephone is a slick trick if you can do it—and you can if you're a smart businessman.

Acetyl-salicylic acid is aspirin. Nobody has a patent on it, and anybody may make and sell it, although the bulk of it is made by two or three large chemical companies. The aspirin for which you pay 29 cents is just as good as that for which you pay 69 cents.

Aspirin at any price is purely and simply an analgesic—it relieves ache or pain for an hour or so. It has no known remedial or curative effect and so, I maintain, it should never be used except to relieve ache or pain.

ARTHRITIS TO YOU

For headache, neuralgia, backache, leg ache, the pain of rheumatiz ("arthritis" to you), grip or the malaise of any acute infection ("cold" to you), aspirin is much less dangerous than other popular analgesics such as acetanilid and phenacetin (the main ingredients in scores of nostrums purporting to give fast relief).

Occasionally, a dose or two of aspirin produces alarming heart weakness with extremely rapid pulse, edematous swelling of face and mucous membrances with eversion of lids and lips from the swelling and sometimes swelling of the throat.

More frequently, the untoward effects of a dose or two of aspirin are profuse sweating, cold extremities, fall of body temperature, rapid, irregular pulse.

My advice to anyone who ventures to take a dose of aspirin is: sit or lie at rest for at least half an hour after the dose. If you can't do so, hold the aspirin until you can. Anyway, remember, aspirin is the least dangerous painkiller we have, but it is stupid to use it as a remedy for illness.

'Not All People From City Monopolize the Lakes'

A writer recently complained of paying "high taxes" to live on the lake. Apparently, this person has little else to do but sit and watch the "speeding, drunken, city people." 'Mentally Retarded Should Be Helped'

It is gratifying to see the articles regarding programs for the mentally retarded versus an auditorium for the Oakland County Board of Supervisors. It would be nice to see more coverage on this.

★ ★ ★

I was displeased with the results of the vote and can't see why any supervisor would prefer to have an auditorium before setting up a program for the mentally retarded.

★ ★ ★

Those supervisors who were opposed to any consideration for the mentally retarded should stop and think about what they are doing.

Edith Newman

Thanks for the prompt action in printing all important news. The supervisors of the townships have voted to take money needed for retarded children to build an auditorium instead. Since they already have one, how can they do such an unkind thing? They would not be so quick if their children had special problems. What will become of these children if they aren't helped?

Mrs. R. King

Three per cent of our population (on a national average) is mentally retarded to the extent of needing special help. There are over 2,000 in Oakland County. When will our law makers wake up to the fact that it is better to educate these youngsters? With special training they could emerge into adulthood as useful and productive citizens.

Is there any way to get the supervisors to change their decision?

Mrs. E. Sumbur
Union Lake

Our son is retarded and we love and enjoy him the same as our other children. He gets along very well in the family, but he does need to attend school. Programs are needed so desperately for these children.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Melchert
Walled Lake

Thank you for the article "Supervisors OK New Auditorium." We are sorry to hear a building is more important than help for the mentally retarded children.

Many of us have a loveable little child or grandchild with some sort of mental ailment. We hope and pray something can be done and soon.

Mrs. G. E. Shirtliff
Walled Lake

I cannot understand why Chairman David Levinson would want to deprive Oakland County retarded children of a long needed home. All the money he wants to spend on a meeting place could surely be put to a better use.

James Henry

The article on the county board's OK for a new meeting place instead of help for retarded children sent me in a fury. I'd like to congratulate you for printing it.

★ ★ ★

These children are considered second-class. We have laws in Michigan to protect the first-class people, only because of majority. These children only give love. God made them that way, as He himself was.

★ ★ ★

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Hold Discussions With Teen-Agers

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE M-414: Leo Sullivan is a big, handsome man who should be a challenge to everybody.

For Leo was struck by polio. He spent two years in an iron lung and as a patient at Warm Springs, Georgia.

DR. CRANE

By sheer will power, he fought his way back until now he gets around readily with the aid of aluminum arm supports. And his dimpled wife, Jean, serves as his social secretary and often chauffeurs him to his many engagements.

He is a spark plug in various constructive youth organizations.

During the past winter, he brought 35 members of the Miami County Youth Council to Chicago for a Sunday excursion.

They attended my Bible class and then we all dined together afterwards.

I had slanted my Sunday school lesson to this crowd of teen-agers, with their few adult chaperones.

And after the dinner, I spoke again 45 minutes and answered questions from the young folks.

We discussed the value of finishing high school and even going on for at least one year of college, just for the greater financial earnings that accrue.

For Dr. Paul C. Glick, of our census bureau, has pointed out the terse fact that a high school diploma bring you $49,000 more in your future lifetime earnings, and each year of college adds an extra $25,000.

We also covered such items as the hazards of "going steady" and the dangers of teen-age infatuations, as well as teen-age marriages.

Also, we mentioned the zooming increase in venereal diseases among teen-agers, for in the past five years venereal infection in our larger cities has zoomed about 300 per cent, with most of it among teen-agers.

We covered the value of holding "fear parties" wherein teen-agers could cite their anxieties and fears, whether of snakes and lightning, or of failing exams and unpopularity.

These "fear parties" can be used from the early grades clear up to old age, for a lot of menopausal worries would disappear if the adults would hold "talk clinics" in the churches to thresh out these submerged or hidden phobias and misunderstandings.

This newspaper column is primarily a "talk clinic" wherein I let you readers hear the frank confessions of patients who have visited my office.

Thus, you frequently see yourselves, as it were, in the similar worries that are admitted by my office patients.

We suggested to this large group of young folks that they help their classmates by presiding at talk clinics, where everybody would be encouraged to toss his problem upon the table.

Young people often wield more influence with their own age group and can obtain quicker discussion of problems, for their is less formality than when older folks are presiding.

★ ★ ★

So get your school or church to set up such talk clinics. Use some of the educational booklets offered via this newspaper to help steer the discussion and add pertinent facts.

Send for the booklet "Sex Problems of Young People." Pass it around widely for it holds some of the major answers you young folks crave to know.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4 cent stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

From left to right are Mrs. Joseph F. Flaherty of Pon Valley Road, Mrs. George B. Morris Jr. of Pembroke Drive, both of Bloomfield Hills, and Mrs. George A. Dungan of Cottontail Lane, Birmingham.

Tabernacle Society Sets Exhibit

Mrs. Arthur L. Bartley of Strathcona Drive, president of the Tabernacle Society of the Convent of the Sacred Heart, Bloomfield Hills, announces Friday, Saturday and Sunday as the dates for the biennial exhibit of religious articles made by its members during the year.

These articles totaling 165 complete sets of vestments, 1,400 pieces of linen, seven capes, 25 albs and surplices will be displayed in the newly completed Don E. Ahrens Auditorium 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. during the three days.

Mrs. Robert Hodge of Birmingham is in charge of procuring display tables after which members gather to arrange the vestments for the exhibit.

While the Tabernacle Society has been in the Bloomfield Hills area only four years, it has a venerable past in Detroit. As early as 1888 it was located at the old Jefferson Avenue Convent of the Sacred Heart.

PROVIDES VESTMENTS

In 1892 it was affiliated with the Archassociation centered in Rome. Its work is to provide church, vestments, altar linens to poor churches and needy missions throughout the world. Missionaries in Kerala, India; the Philippines; South Africa; South America; Caanda; Mexico; and our own Southern states have been recipients of these much-needed gifts.

Mrs. Bartley has asked Mrs. Anthony Foley, Mrs. Emil Kraus, Mrs. Edward Ptak and Mrs. Myroslav Lapchak to be in charge of readying invitations. Flower arrangements for the display, the altar, and for the tea will be the responsibility of Mrs. Edward Christie.

Tea will follow the solemn benediction and the blessing of the vestments Sunday, the final day of the exhibit. Mrs. George Chaedle, chairman of the tea, has invited Mrs. Edmond Hillier and Mrs. Ptak to assist her.

Is the Twist the Dance of Lonely Despair?

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"Stay away from other guys
BOOM BOOM . . . BOOM BOOM
Stay away from that gal
BOOM BOOM . . . BOOM BOOM
Stay away . . . stay away . . .
BOOM . . .

Over the night club's dance floor the lights were dimmed. On the floor near-man and near-woman, adolescent boy and adolescent girl danced, not together but alone, separate, their hips pushing and retreating as the pistons of engines push and retreat, their eyes blank, drugged, seeing neither themselves or each other, their ears crowded by the shrieks of the combo's saxophones, the whine of electric guitars, the drum's BOOM BOOM BOOM.

Have you seen young people dancing the twist?

If you have, you must have seen that they are not dancing but grinding down questions to which they no longer expect answers.

SEARCHING

If you have, you must have seen that the eyes are blank because searching has ended in Nothing, that the ears welcome deafness because what is heard is no longer worth hearing. In their swiveling hips you must have recognized the loneliest merry-go-round that youth has ever had to ride on.

Said the poet who sat beside me, "It's The Bomb."

Is it?

Is the Lonely Dance about The Bomb? Is the space so carefully preserved between the near-men and near-women the knowledge that it all adds up to BOOM BOOM BOOM?

I'm asking you.

In the dimly lighted night club I took my pulse.

★ ★ ★

The synchronized howls of the combo were ahead of my pulse, the beat faster than the natural beat of the human heart, screaming for a speed faster than the speed which should be asked of the human heart.

★ ★ ★

The poet who sat beside me said, "It is the tempo of hysteria. They dance to the glory of St. Vitus."

Four times I have seen the twist danced by my town's near-men and near-women.

Please don't write to me about the also-crazy dancing fads of last year and the years before that. I know them and have danced them and they were not this unjoyous and disconnected prancing of despair.

If we must recall the past, let's really do it. Let's recall Europe's Middle Ages and the dancing maniacs danced against the coming of plague and the sweep of the Black Death.

I wish that instead of twisting with despair in such lonely fashion, the near-men and near-women could cry out:

"We are afraid. We want love and cannot find it. We want hope and cannot trust it. Tell us at least that you know how it is with us."

Mr. and Mrs. Rex D. Wonders of Island Park Drive, Drayton Plains, were hosts at a spaghetti dinner following a recent field trip over the proposed location of a 60-acre professional golf course in Waterford.

Kelley Quizzes Two Lobbyists

Auto Company Agents Testify in Investigation Ordered by Swainson

LANSING (AP) —Two auto company representatives were to appear before the attorney general today in a probe of lobbying ordered by Gov. Swainson.

Called as witnesses by Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley were Stewart W. Didzun of St. Clair Shores, representing Ford Motor Co., and Hiram P. Todd Jr. of Lansing, representing Chrysler Corp. Both are registered lobbyists.

Swainson ordered the investigation after his tax reform program, based on an income tax, was defeated in the Senate after having first been approved. The governor asked Kelley to determine if there had been any improper lobbying.

August (Gus) Scholle, state AFL-CIO president, was to appear tomorrow. Scholle was in the office of Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski, behind the Senate, during the night-long debate that resulted in original passage of the income tax.

OTHERS TO TESTIFY

Leon S. Cohan, deputy attorney general, said two other registered lobbyists will testify tomorrow. He listed these as Myles F. McGrail of Midland, representing the Dow Chemical Co., and Nicholas J. Rini of Grosse Pointe Woods, representing the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce.

Walter D. Devries, Republican constitutional convention delegate from Grand Rapids, has agreed to testify some time next week, Cohan said.

Devries was asked to give evidence because he did a study of lobbying received his doctor's degree from a thesis based on his findings, Cohan said.

The interviews and taking of evidence will continue for two or three weeks, Cohan said. Kelley has said no findings will be devulged during the investigation. When it is complete, Kelley said, a report will be made to the governor.

Grain Futures Firm With Strong Demand

CHICAGO (AP) — Demand improved all around and grain futures prices were steady to strong today in initial transactions on the board of trade.

Wheat ran up gains of about a cent on the May contract during the first several minutes but met resistance of that level and quickly settled back. Dealers said the demand may have included short covering and commercial buying which lacked follow-through support.

May corn also attracted good support where offerings were understood to have slackened somewhat. Brokers said there appeared to be a lighter volume of both liquidation and hedge selling.

Dividend Is Declared by Pontiac State Bank

The Pontiac State Bank Board of Directors declared a regular semiannual dividend of 50 cents per share at a board meeting yesterday.

The dividend is payable June 1, 1962, to shareholders of record as of May 15, said Milo J. Cross, bank president.

Chicago Business Wants to Be Pals With Kennedy

(Editor's Note — Can the split between the Kennedy administration and much of the business community be healed? In this, second of three self-contained articles, Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, tells what Chicago executives say would do the trick.)

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

CHICAGO — Many business leaders in the Chicago area would like to bury the hatchet and work in better harmony with the Kennedy administration—even if most think this is a pretty long chance just now.

* * *

"Government and business are partners and need each other" pops up again and again in interviews with Chicago's top men in industry and trade. Usually it is said with wonderment that relations got out of hand so fast in the battle between the President and the steel companies over the short-lived price rise.

* * *

Austin T. Cushman, who just became chairman of Sears, Roebuck, says both sides should work for a better business-government climate so the nation can do its best and achieve the economic growth goals.

* * *

Charles H. Kellstadt, retiring Sears chairman, says: "All groups—government, business, labor—must be more temperate in words and actions. All must consider carefully before making statements or taking actions. It is vital to our economy that we maintain our free enterprise system.

'BUSINESS ECONOMY'

"Ours is a business economy. And I'm sure the President is aware of that. There should be no penalizing of business as such, or of bigness as such, or of the desire and need of making a profit."

Kellstadt brushes aside many of the more extreme fears now expressed for the immediate future of business, such as the tremors in the stock market following the steel price clash, with the assertion: "In my opinion our economy is sound—if they all just quit tampering with it."

* * *

Ross D. Siragusa, chairman of Admiral Corp., says the President was right in championing the public interest. The head of the electronics and electrical appliance firm says he feels sure the President wants business to prosper and thinks fighting inflation is the right way to achieve it.

'MUST COMPETE'

"This wage-price spiral should have been halted long ago. The President is right in telling both business and labor to moderate their price or wage demands if these are going to start up inflation again," Siragusa says.

"We have to compete in world trade with the countries in the European Common Market and with Japan and they have new and efficient equipment. It is only smart to hold down American industrial costs and prices now, when wages and costs are starting to rise in other nations. If we can hold ours down, we can move nearer to closing the gap and compete on more equal terms."

* * *

Siragusa admits most of his business friends don't agree with him on the wisdom of the President's course. And many question his belief that most of the unions will go along with the President's plea for moderation.

Most business executives interviewed feel that the chances of much coming out of the White House Conference on National Economic Issues, May 21-22, have been lessened by the flare-up between government and business.

'TALK TO SELVES'

Joseph L. Block, chairman of Inland Steel, the company that cracked the steel price boost line, says one of the big troubles all along is: "The three elements in our, economy—government, business, labor—usually talk only to themselves. Mostly they don't know what the others are saying.

* * *

"The President's conference should let each side see how the other side thinks. Also it will let the public see what the issues really are. All this could help."

Shaping Up Best This Year

May Car Production High

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT — May is shaping up as the best production month of the year so far for the automobile industry.

Present calculations are that the five passenger car builders will assembly some 650,000 cars this month compared with 628,583 in January, the previous leader.

Production is rising because retail sales are strong. Even a 650,000-unit month probably will not add to present inventories which totaled 953,300 units when the month began.

In terms of days' supply, or how long the stockpile would last, the inventory is the lowest for this time of year since the industry's record period of 1955. The supply is equivalent to 38 days at April's selling rate of 24,845 daily.

DAYS' SUPPLIES

General Motors continues to run on minimum stocks, equal to only 32 selling days. Ford had a 39-day supply at the start of this month; Chrysler 51 days; Studebaker 53 days and American Motors 62 days. The inventories include cars in dealers' hands plus cars in transit to them.

Improved sales plus a sharp rein on output are responsible for a significant drop in Chrysler inventories. The corporation's stock of cars at the end of February was equal to 105 days' sales.

The same is true for Studebaker which cut stocks from 107 days at the end of February to 53 at the start of May.

American Motors, Studebaker and to some extent Chrysler maintain slightly higher stocks than Ford or General Motors under normal conditions because of their limited number of assembly plants. AMC and Studebaker both are single point oprations.

In a revised estimate Ward's Reports said last week the 1962 model run should total 6,605,100 cars, up 22.1 per cent from last year and up 9.9 per cent from 1960.

Dowling Says U.S., Germany in Basic Agreement

BONN (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador Walter C. Dowling said he had a "long and friendly talk" last night with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

"There is no basic disagreement between the two governments," he said.

Dowling said he and the elderly German statesman "covered a great many subjects, including, of course, German-American relations, affairs of the world, and Berlin."

* * *

President Kennedy had ordered Dowling to see Adenauer to clear up misunderstandings that arose from remarks made by the German leader at two news conferences and several private political meetings in West Berlin last week.

Decision Due May 29 on Eichmann Appeal

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — The Israeli Supreme Court will announce its decision May 29 on convicted Nazi mass killer Adolf Eichmann's appeal against his death sentence.

The court announced today it will then read its judgment on the appeal.

Eichmann, a former high official in the Nazi SS, was kidnaped from Argentina by Israeli agents and tried and convicted in Israel last Dec. 15 for his part in the killing of an estimated six-million Jews in Europe during World War II.

Claims Insanity Caused Him to Defect to Russia

MOSCOW (UPI) — Robert Webster, former plastics technician from Pennsylvania, said today "temporary insanity" caused him to renounce his American citizenship and settle down in Russia two and a half years ago.

Webster, a 33-year-old native of Zellenople, Pa., said he wants to return to his wife and two children if they will have him back.

He cleared one of the final obstacles yesterday when he picked up a visa at the American embassy. This will allow him to enter the United States as a Russian immigrant. He expects to leave the Soviet Union by the end of the week.

* * *

Webster, who last worked in Cleveland, Ohio, said he gave up his American citizenship to live in Russia because he wanted "to avoid responsibilities."

Consumers Power Co. witnesses yesterday urged the commission to maintain the policy that has allowed the reserves of tax-free, nonearning funds to build up.

Cite 35 Pct. Earnings at Sears, Roebuck

NEW YORK (AP) — Sears, Roebuck and Co. expects that strong consumer demand brought 35 per cent earnings for the first quarter, its officers said today.

At the annual meeting, Chairman Charles H. Kellstadt said preliminary figures indicate earnings for the period ended April 30 will be equal to 42 cents a share, compared with 31 cents in the same period last year.

* * *
