OU hosts Annual Educators Recruiting Day

Oakland University's education students will have a chance to interview for their first teaching position at OU's 4th Annual Educators Recruiting Day, to be held on Monday, May 1 from 9 a.m.- 4 p.m. in the Oakland Center on the university's campus.

"This is a great opportunity for students to interview with many schools and districts in one day without all of the traveling and scheduling involved," said Bob Thomas, director, Placement and Career Services. "This has proved to be a very successful day in the past, and with more schools participating this year, it is sure to be an even greater success."

This unique recruiting event allows upcoming graduates and alumni from Oakland University's School of Education and Human Services to interview with various schools and districts for fall 2000 teaching positions.

There are 38 schools and districts registered for this year's recruiting day. Students are able to sign up for interview slots via the Internet-based CareerConnections program, which allows students to put their resume on-line into a database where schools and districts can search for teaching candidates.

Oakland University is a comprehensive state-supported institution of higher education located in suburban Oakland County, Michigan. The university has 109 bachelor's degree programs and 63 graduate degree and certificate programs. Dedicated to preparing learners for the 21st-century workplace and society, Oakland University is organized into the College of Arts and Sciences and the Schools of Business Administration, Education and Human Services, Engineering and Computer Science, Health Sciences, Nursing, and the Honors College.
