

MSU Gets Largest Single Part of Mrs. Wilson's Estate

The will of Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson, whose gifts were responsible for the existence of Oakland University, was filed yesterday in Oakland County Probate Court.

The beneficiary of the largest part of the estate, conservatively estimated by her attorneys at more than $15 million, is Michigan State University.

The will provides that the university, the parent organization of Oakland University, receive $300,000 for the John Hannab Professorship Fund.

Pierre V. Hettler, of the Detroit law firm of Bodman, Longley, Bogle, Armstrong & Dahling, said it is too early to know the true value of the estate,

"but it's actually much more than the $15 million."

After the distribution of specific property and cash to persons named in the will, including children, employees, friends and organizations, the remainder will be placed in the existing Matilda R. Wilson Fund to be used for charitable purposes.

The will does not mention the donation of 1,400 acres of land and property for the establishment of Oakland University in Avon Township, since this matter was taken care of in 1967, according to Hettler.

At that time Mrs. Wilson retained only her home, Meadow Brook Hall, with the provision that it would become part of the university at her death.

In her will, dated March 9, 1967, seven months before her death last week in Brussels, Belgium, she has bequeathed most of the furnishings in Meadow Brook to Oakland University.

A number of personal items will go to one of her two daughters, Mrs. Frances Dodge Van Lennep, of Lexington, Ky., while her other two children, Mrs. Thomas Eccles of Scottsdale, Ariz., and Richard S. Wilson of Bloomfield Hills, will each receive $10,000.

Johnson Softens Wording on Offer to Halt Bombing

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's offer to stop U.S. bombing of North Vietnam if that action would lead promptly to "productive discussions" is evidently designed to soften the wording of his policy without actually changing it.

Johnson held out little hope, however, in his speech in San Antonio, Tex., last night that President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam would take up the offer.

Johnson said the North Vietnamese still believe they can win their struggle to take over South Vietnam because they "hope that the people of the United States will not see the struggle through to the end."

High Washington officials have said privately in the last few days Hanoi has given no indication through secret diplomatic channels of an interest in opening peace talks.

Persons familiar with the planning of the President's speech said it was intended to make his policy on halting the bombing and starting talks as acceptable as possible to Ho Chi Minh if the Communist leader is in any mood to respond at this time.

Presumably, Johnson also wanted to put his position in a form as agreeable as possible to domestic and foreign critics. Recently at the United Nations General Assembly several speakers have called for an end to the bombing in the hope that Ho would then be willing, perhaps in three or four weeks, to enter into discussions that would lead to a peace settlement.

The most dramatic statement in Johnson's speech was his declaration he was "ready to talk tomorrow" with the North Vietnamese leader or to send Secretary of State Dean Rusk to meet the North Vietnamese foreign minister if there was a willingness on the other side to begin negotiations in good faith.

Bogus $10 Bills Passed in Area

Several counterfeit $10 bills were passed at area shopping centers Thursday evening, eight at Miracle Mile Shopping Center and four at Montgomery Wards at the Pontiac Mall.

All of the fake bills have the same serial number: F 02152448 A, according to Lt. Martin McLaughlin of the Bloomfield Township police, who said, "They really look authentic."

Three were found at Kresge Co., two at Cunningham Drugs, and two at Miracle Camera Shop Inc.

Kresge clerk Margaret Seagull of 3173 Fernberry, Waterford Township, first discovered the bills, according to McLaughlin. He said she became suspicious because of the feel of one of the counterfeit bills and began checking serial numbers. She found two with the same number.

yesterday are (from left) Donald D. O'Dowd, provost of OU; John Fernald, director of ADA; and Wilbur W. Kent Jr., assistant dean of the school of performing arts.

Drama Academy Opens at OU: 'N. America's 1st'

The Academy of Dramatic Art (ADA) of Oakland University, cited as the first of its kind in North America, opened yesterday with a charter class of 14 students.

Students were selected at competitive auditions in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and at the university for the two-year professional program.

Director John Fernald patterned the unique university-sponsored academy after the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art (RADA) in London, which he directed.

He welcomed yesterday the first group of students who registered for an intensive acting course, which is the first segment of OU's new school of performing arts.

A maximum of 30 students will eventually attend the academy at one time, with new classes being started in the fall, winter and spring of each year.

ACTING TALENT

The 14 students, who were selected

only on the basis of having a natural talent for acting, out of 83 who auditioned, will start classes Monday.

Leading to a diploma in dramatic art, the course provides a practical approach to the professional theater, and its teaching covers all aspects of acting technique.

Many of the students, who come from seven states, have advanced degrees in theater and are attending the academy to polish their acting.

ADA is designed for mature students, primarily in their 20s and 30s, who intend, upon graduation, to seek employment in the professional theater.

A realistic approach to the problems of training for the stage is maintained through the constant survey of Fernald and his faculty and staff, many of whom served under him at the Royal Academy.

Fernald is known as a superior director and a "prime architect" among drama teachers.

He was a theater director in London and on Broadway and headed the RADA for 10 years before coming to OU in 1966 to head the resident professional acting company of the Meadow Brook Theatre.

OU's school of performing arts will ultimately include music and dance training. A building to house the school was designed to provide the finest modern instructional facilities for the arts. It is expected to be completed late next year.

FOURTH STEP

Entrance of the charter class of ADA marks the fourth impressive step toward a potentially nationally prominent performing arts center.

The university's nationally acclaimed Meadow Brook Festival began in 1964 and the Meadow Brook summer study institute a year later, before the establishment of Meadow Brook Theatre.

ON ITS WAY — About 80 boxes of junk mail are heading for Congress in a campaign protesting proposed mail rate increases. Ten area women will meet the delivery in Washington, D.C. next week. Loading the van yesterday are Mrs. Marion Tymkov, leader of the group (top left), Mrs. Ronald Baker (top right), both of Avon Township, and other group members.

Weather Holds Key to Hot Pennant Race

"Rain, rain, go away . . . come some other day!"

This chant is being heard in Michigan, Minnesota and New England as the weather does its best to put a damper on the hot American League pennant race.

The only water that fell in Chicago last night came from White Sox manager Eddie Stanky. He walked away from a tearful interview with newsmen after Chicago had been eliminated from the race, 1-0, by Washington.

The Detroit Tigers, rained or frozen out the last two nights, try again today with a doubleheader against the California Angels and Detroit by one game, take on the Red Sox in single games today and tomorrow.

Another twin bill with the Angels will wrap up regular season play tomorrow.

RAIN PREDICTED

Over in Boston, rain was predicted for this afternoon. The Minnesota Twins, leading Boston and Detroit by one game, take on the Red Sox in single games today and tomorrow.

A doubleheader will be played tomorrow if today's action is rained out.

Tiger aces Mickey Lolich and Earl Wilson were scheduled to pitch today against ex-Detroit Jack Hamilton and noted Tiger-lamer George Brunet.

Joe Sparrano and probably Denny McLain will work for Detroit tomorrow. The Angels will counter with Clyde Wright and former Detroit Redford star Ricky Clark.

If the Tigers win twice today, and Boston downs the Twins, Detroit will lead by half a game. If the Tigers lose twice, there will be tears in Michigan—regardless of what happens in Beantown.

County to Mull Record Budget

Adoption of the county's biggest-ever budget of $21,134,162 will be up for consideration by the board of supervisors at their regular meeting Monday at 9:30 a.m. at the courthouse.

The enlarged spending is deemed possible because of increased revenues in the county — attributed mostly to a rise in the county valuation.

Included in the budget are salary raises for all employees that average about $600 per person.

Among the other items on the agenda is consideration of calling an annexation election in Commerce Township. The issue is whether areas in the township and Wolverine Village will annex to the city of Walled Lake.

The election was recommended by the boundaries committee which proposed an election date of Jan. 16.

FINAL APPEAL

Road Commission officials plan to make one last appeal for funds for road construction projects. A request for a eight-tenths of a mill levy was rejected.

Now the commission hopes to gain a portion of the $1.2 million the county is expected to receive from the state income tax. The has been earmarked for new jail construction, however.

Escalation Under Medicare Cited

Ceiling on Doctor Fees Urged

CHICAGO (AP) — George Policanski, 84, a Greek immigrant who died in 1962, left his entire estate of more than $200,000 to the federal government to be used to pay public debts.

His major property, an 80-acre farm near Joliet west of Chicago, was auctioned in Chicago Friday and yielded $180,000. A real estate development company bought it.

A federal official said Policanski, a real estate dealer as well as farmer, left $43,450 in other forms of capital. Policanski, a bachelor, came to the United States at age 20 from the island of Mykonos.

Two brothers, Richard Henry Lee and Francis Lightfoot Lee of Virginia, signed the Declaration of Independence.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Council of Senior Citizens urged the Senate today to put federal ceilings on the fees doctors charge for treating Medicare and Medicaid beneficiaries.

John W. Edelman, president of the council—which claims Chicago, was auctioned in Chicago Friday and yielded $180,000. A real estate development company bought it.

A telegram to Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Senate Finance Committee, Edelman referred to an 8.9 percent increase in doctor's fees reported this week by the Bureau of Labor Statistics for the 12-month period ending August 1967.

He said rising physicians' charges were mainly responsible for a $1 hike to $4 a month in Medicare ceilings, announced this week by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

EXORBITANT CHARGES

"I object with all the force at my command," Edelman wired Long, "to the proposal to pass on the cost of these exorbitant doctor charges to the elderly, including millions living on low incomes who simply cannot bear this added burden."

He urged Long's committee to back federal Medicare and Medicaid fee ceilings onto the House-passed Social Security measure.

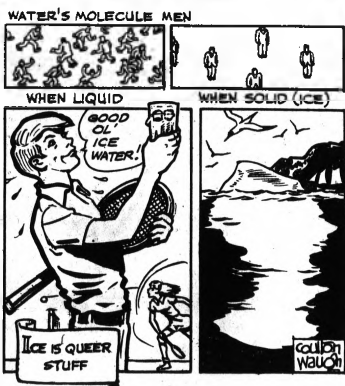

Edelman said his group opposes government interference with medical practice. But he added: "In the absence of reasonable controls on doctors fees, many doctors have not only hiked their fees but have encouraged Medicare patients to see them more often."

Edelman said doctors' fees rose an average 3 per cent for the four-year period before Medicare "but shot upward last year when Medicare began."

The Appian Way, built before 300 B.C. from Rome southward to the sea, was so durably constructed that today, some 2,000 years later, it still can be used for heavy traffic.

Junior Editors Quiz on ICE CUBES

QUESTION: Why do ice cubes float in a glass of water?

ANSWER: Things in nature are either gas, like the air; fluid, like water; or solid, like ice. These states of matter can change from one form to another. For example, ice is the hard form of water. It has hardened because it has frozen.

Any substance, when cooled sufficiently, will become solid. But most substances, when cooled this way, will contract.

Ice is strikingly different from other solids in that as the water cools to ice it expands instead of contracting. This is because the tiny molecules, which we symbolize as molecule men, tend to stop their movement and become further apart when the water freezes.

This makes a piece of ice less dense than the same volume of water. It is less heavy, and so the lighter ice cube floats on top of the heavier water in the glass and the Greenland iceberg (right) floats on the sea (although seven-eighths of the iceberg's mass is below water).

It's very lucky for us ice has this quality of relative lightness. If it became heavier when freezing it would sink, and many of the lakes and seas would be packed solid; fish and marine life could not exist.

Nature Center Links Class and Trail

At a time when life for increasing numbers of the populace is circumscribed in urban areas, any design to acquaint them with the mysteries and miracles of nature is to be applauded.

Such an objective, whose birth flickerings were first seen last February, now shines with the glow of life as Seven Ponds Nature Center, near Dryden, makes progress in fulfillment of its mission.

The area of the 100-acre tract, donated by a nature-loving couple, to the Michigan Audubon Society, is evenly divided between wooded slopes with meandering trails and the seven connected ponds they overlook—constituting a unique nature laboratory.

A classroom has been erected at a point of vantage, providing facilities for a half-hour conceptual discourse by a professional naturalist prior to observation of natural phenomena during one-hour conducted trail trips.

Although the project has been functioning only since May, some 700 youngsters and adults (the former members of school classes) have partaken of its educational attractions. Group tours are solicited, though advance arrangements should be made.

Admission to Seven Ponds and its revelations is free. It relies for support on private donors, clubs and organizations interested in furthering understanding and appreciation of the supreme force of the universe—nature.

States Seen Laggard in Meeting Responsibilities

"The states as innovators and initiators" will be the keynote of the 20th annual National Legislative Conference, opening Wednesday in San Antonio. The choice of topic seems a little odd, for innovation is not generally considered to be the states' long suit.

A report issued last July by the Committee for Economic Development bluntly stated that "some state governments meet new needs relatively well, but most do not."

There are two reasons, the committee suggested, why the states have been unable to keep up with changing social and economic demands.

First, many of today's problems transcend state boundaries and thus require regional solutions. Second, "most state governments are poorly organized to fulfill their growing responsibilities and to perform the functions clearly within their province.

Progress toward reform of state constitutions and governmental machinery has been glacial. At least 18 states will submit proposed constitutional revisions to the voters this year and next, but few of the proposals are major. Two exceptions are Maryland and New York, both of which are following in Michigan's footsteps and are rewriting their constitutions.

With respect to human affairs, "God's mill," as the philosopher put it, "grinds slowly"—nowhere as slowly as in the evolution of progressive government.

British Have Red Faces After 'Red Defector' Snafu

It was a script any Hollywood screenwriter would have been proud of:

A drugged Russian physicist, spirited out of the Soviet embassy in London and forced into a limousine . . . the race to the airport where a Red airliner awaited . . . alert British police surrounding the plane to prevent its departure . . . Bobbies tussling with the crew and finally rescuing the man . . . another Commie plot foiled.

It happened like that in London the other day. Only not quite like that. Instead of a cliff-hanging Hitchcockian climax to a thrilling spy drama, it turned out to be a Foreign Office boo-boo of international proportions.

The young Russian was not a would-be defector, as the British thought. He was mentally ill and had been given a sedative, not a sinister injection. He really wanted to go back to Communistland, he told examining physicians.

The Kremlin is outraged and Downing Street is embarrassed, though still peeved at the cheeky way the Russians handled the whole affair. We trust, however, that after an exchange of diplomatically indignant notes, the Case of the Purloined Physicist will be forgotten and Anglo-Russian relations will get back to normal.

LBJ Caught Up in Ancient Rivalry

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON—The Senate is shadow-boxing with the President. It's talking of doing something it can't make stick.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright and others complain President Johnson is getting too big for his britches, although they MARLOW didn't put it that plainly. So alterations are suggested.

Johnson got overwhelming congressional approval before heading for Vietnam, but now he's getting an endless pasting just the same.

What he got mixed up in was a big way was the ancient rivalry for power in foreign affairs between Congress and presidents.

The approval he got was in the Gulf of Tonkin resolution which Congress passed Aug. 7, 1964, at his request. It authorized him to do what he thought necessary to stop aggression in Southeast Asia.

TOOK CHARGE

Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate's

Foreign Relations Committee and Johnson's most constant critic about the war, took charge of getting the Tonkin resolution through the Senate three years ago.

But now he has offered his own resolution which would curtail Johnson's handling of foreign affairs by saying a "national commitment" has no validity or meaning unless both the president and Senate approve.

One trouble with "national commitment" is its vagueness, but over the years it has been interpreted as meaning all kinds of presidential actions which Congress hadn't approved.

Thirteen years ago, in the last great effort to drag the country back into her ancient isolationism, Sen. John W. Bricker, an Ohio Republican, offered something more powerful than a resolution. He called for a constitutional amendment.

OPPOSED IDEA
His proposal would have hamstringed a president even more than Fulbright's. Fulbright, at that time called Bricker's idea a retreat from the world. The Senate killed the proposal.

The next day a substitute proposal, a little milder than Bricker's but still an interference with the president's foreign affairs powers, was also killed.

Ironically, while Fulbright voted against that, too, Johnson, then Democratic leader in the Senate when Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower was president, voted for it.

But even if the Senate votes for Fulbright's resolution it can't change anything for Johnson. He wouldn't have to pay any attention to it since such a resolution is not a law.

A WARNING
Yet if it passed, it would be a warning to Johnson he could expect rough treatment if he made any "national commitment" and didn't get the Senate's okay first.

This could damage his strength in dealing with other nations for they could rightly ask: How can Johnson promise anything?
All the Senate uproar over Johnson—because of his sending troops into Vietnam—could be ended in a minute if the Senate would just act to rescind the Gulf of Tonkin resolution which gave him the power.

So what's happening is an oblique attempt to curb him instead of doing it directly.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

Since 1967, Nicholas Royce has led a crusade for the recognition of Eastern Orthodoxy as a major religious force in the United States.

When he started his campaign, the denomination—fourth largest in this country—was excluded from many areas of public life. For example, there were no Eastern Orthodox chaplains in the military services, although the faith has about six million communicants.

Partly because of Royce's correspondence with political and industrial leaders, Eastern Orthodoxy may be on the way to full recognition. Legislatures of about half the states have passed resolutions officially designating the Eastern Orthodox church as a fourth major faith. Royce's dedication is showing results.

Confident Living:

Four Steps Get You Somewhere

By NORMAN VINCENT
PEALE

This man was failing, skidding from low to low. A long-time salesman, he really was having it rough. Or maybe he was making it tough.

DR. PEALE

Anyway he could not sell, or at least was not selling. Buyer resistance and job stress were getting him down.

As I saw it, the main trouble was that he was letting difficulties frighten him. Concern for basic livelihood, groceries, to put it bluntly—was running him scared.

We concentrated on helping him to strengthen faith in himself, in God and in his ability to sell. By getting his mind filled with this faith he developed new heart and more positive attitudes. That was his turning point.

Someone showed him a plan for successful achievement formulated by William A. Ward. He decided this was for him; and it worked, sending him forward to solid accomplishment.

The rules which did so much for this man are called the "8 P Plan": Plan purposefully. Prepare prayerfully. Pursue persistently. Let's take a look at this formula:

Plan Purposefully. Planning means choosing the best approach to your objective; right timing; and of course knowing where you want to go. Planning must always be related to an objective.

It is all too easy to lose sight of purpose or goal; and before you know it, thinking centers on small daily matters, simply getting through a day's work with the least exertion and unpleasantness. To really achieve, planning with purpose is basic.

A goal cannot be fuzzy. It's got to be sharp, specific, clearly defined. You have to know precisely where you want to go, what you want to do.

Prepare Prayerfully. Know the techniques, have relevant information and equipment, then get yourself into proper mental condition for what you want to do.

By preparing prayerfully you grow more alert, you get in tune with situations and people, you recognize opportunities more quickly, you become more receptive to guidance and insight.

Proceed Positively. That means to go forward confidently, energetically attacking problems, expecting favorable outcomes. When obstacles or difficulties arise, the positive thinker takes them as creative opportunities.

Pursue Persistently. Al Haake, past mayor of Park Ridge, Ill., started life with a terrible stutter. In school he often had to give up trying to answer questions.

At play any small dispute or sudden excitement would make him stutter—and the boys made fun of him as words piled up on his tongue. He wandered miserably if he had to be that way all his life.

Then he heard a man speak at the Y.M.C.A. who declared that anyone could achieve anything he wanted if he wanted it enough and had real faith in God and himself.

Al Haake believed this and confided to his mother that what he wanted most was to overcome stuttering and become a public speaker. His mother wisely said, "To faith add something else—patience."

Having read of a Greek orator named Demosthenes who put pebbles in his mouth to make himself enunciate more clearly, Al Haake spent countless afternoons in deserted spots on the shore of Lake Michigan putting pebbles in his mouth and trying to speak. Then another idea came to him: "Don't be so tense."

He continued practicing and exercising, becoming increasingly confident that he would eventually overcome stuttering. Little by little it stopped.

And in time he became a compelling speaker, widely known for his eloquence. He pursued persistently and it paid off. It always does.

Believe me that "8 P Plan" is entirely sound. Those four steps to achievement will get you somewhere—to the somewhere you want to go.

It is named the Gangplank and sports a honky-tonk atmosphere which could be come part of the American scene.

The owners of the place announced that the political personality who makes the week's biggest booby will win the weekly "Gangplank Award."

And the man or woman who pulls three such honors will have his name permanently inscribed on the Gangplank honor roll.

To build business the restaurant's socially "in" young owners plan to publicize the award all they can.

Winner the first week: Michigan Gov. George Romney, for his "brainwashing" blast at President Johnson.

Letters Discuss Work and Pay of Teachers

In answer to the "Fed Up!" of this country who quote "those who can, do," etc., isn't it a good thing that those who "can" had teachers to show them how?

MARTHA JOHNSON
WATERFORD TOWNSHIP

Teachers don't understand about hayfever if they have never had cause to watch and care for a sufferer. They have an idea the child prefers staying in at recess time. The child is torn between the cautionings of the parent who must lead with him from the beginning of hay fever season to try to control his actions, and the teacher who tells him he should go out. Please let the doctor advise when it's safe for him. We don't want his missing school and neither do we want to lose him.

Views Gov. Romney's 'Nonpolitical' Tours

The best "fairy story" of the year, or perhaps the century, is the contention of our part-time governor that his present swing around the Country touring the major slum areas is non-political. If not political, what possible benefit does he think will accrue to the people who pay his salary—the Michigan taxpayers—by such a tour? He must think he represents a generation of nitwits who would swallow any kind of "fairy story." This is on a par with his contention that he was "brainwashed" by government brass in Vietnam.

City Finance Director Gallagher tells us you would pay tax because the County facility is within the City. Non-residents who work for County facilities located outside the City would not be subject to the tax.

Political Boners on 'Honor Roll'

Reps. Sam H. Gibbons of Washington—(NEA)—Washington has a posh new restaurant, a double-decked barge moored on the Tidal Basin not far from the Jefferson Memorial.

It is named the Gangplank and sports a honky-tonk atmosphere which could be come part of the American scene.

The owners of the place announced that the political personality who makes the week's biggest booby will win the weekly "Gangplank Award."

To build business the restaurant's socially "in" young owners plan to publicize the award all they can.

Winner the first week: Michigan Gov. George Romney, for his "brainwashing" blast at President Johnson.

More than one politician has changed his vote because bags full of constituent mail told him to.

Sometimes even one letter can do it, as Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., now attests.

"About a month ago I received a letter from a troubled young man whom I won't soon forget," Pike said.

"He was troubled because he said he saw the American taxpayers being taken for a bumper ride on some purchases which may have looked pretty big to him."

"Congressmen get loads of letters containing broad and general complaints, so I asked him to document his charges. To my considerable surprise, the young man did so completely."

The young letter-writer concentrated on the Defense Department in his own private investigation.

In one example, he charged that the Pentagon spent $35,000 for the purchase of 130 small knobs, which would have cost no more than $210.00.

The astonished Pike looked into the charge and the Defense Department confirmed "an error."

The total result of this one letter: Pike is trying to persuade the House to look at the over-all Defense Department procurement program.

Jury Convicts Pair in Sale of Firm's Stock

NEW YORK (AP) — Financial Louis Wolfson and his business associate, Elkin B. Gerbert, have been convicted of conspiring to unlawfully sell $3.5-million worth of stock in 1960-62.

A U.S. District Court jury of 10 men and 2 women brought in its verdict Friday after deliberating 6 hours.

The government charged that Wolfson, 55, of Miami Beach, Fla., and Gerbert, 58, of Jacksonville, Fla., were "insiders" who illegally sold the stock of Continental Enterprises, Inc., while public investors were unaware of the sale by the two men.

They were convicted on all 19 counts of an indictment accusing them of conspiring in the illegal sale of some 600,000 shares of stock in Continental, a firm once headed by Wolfson.

DROP IN VALUE

Wolfson is chairman of the Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corp. Gerbert is a director and vice president of Continental.

The stock dropped from a high of about $8 a share to $1.50 a share after sales by Wolfson and Gerbert.

Judge Edmund L. Palmieri, who presided at the trial which began Sept. 6, set sentencing for a later date.

The two men each could be given as much as 95 years in prison and fines totaling $95,000.

UNAWARE OF ILLEGALITY

Both Wolfson and Gerbert testified that they were unaware there was anything illegal in the sale of the stock.

Wolfson and Gerbert were indicted a year ago on charges that they willfully violated the Securities Act of 1933 by selling unregistered shares of Continental Enterprises between 1960 and 1962.

The key issue was whether the shares should have been registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission prior to their sale and whether Wolfson and Gerbert knew they should have been registered.

During the trial, a number of stockbrokers testified that they questioned Gerbert as to whether the shares could be sold legally.

600,000 SHARES

The Wolfson interests sold about 600,000 shares between 1960 and 1962, according to records introduced in court. Continental had about 2.5 million shares outstanding at the time.

The act stipulates that no more than 1 per cent of a corporation's outstanding shares may be sold in a six-month period by the individual or group which controls a corporation.

Defense counsel Milton S. Gould depicted Wolfson as "an innocent tycoon" whose financial advisers failed to give him proper advice about the securities law.

Judge Palmieri set bail for Wolfson at $850,000 and for Gerbert at $500,000.

HIGH BOND SOUGHT

Prosecutor Michael F. Armstrong, chief of the U.S. attorney's securities fraud unit here, had sought $1-million bond for each man.

Armstrong presented evidence during the trial that Wolfson netted about $1.3 million on the stocks deals, while Gerbert made about $130,000.

Armstrong accused Wolfson of trying "to generate some cash... He generated $3 million out of the pockets of the public."

Scientists have discovered evidence of a flood of disastrous proportions some 6,000 years ago in the Tigris - Euphrates Valley, probably the one which is related in the account of Noah and the Ark.

GOP Must Forget Grudges for '68—Reagan

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, disclaiming any interest in the 1968 presidential nomination, told a Republican rally Friday night that the Democrats can be ousted from the White House "if we forget past grudges and intra-party fighting."

The California governor told a crowd of 3,500 at a $100-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner that the country must "turn away from the sickly pastels of expediency and a system where the government buys the people's votes with the people's money."

Reagan will speak in Milwaukee tonight at a dinner sponsored by the Wisconsin Republican State Central Committee.

In his South Carolina address he called for party unity in next year's presidential campaign.

"How many more chances will we get if we don't do it this time?" he asked.

At a news conference earlier, Reagan insisted he is not interested in the GOP presidential nomination and that he is not interested in the vice presidency "because I feel I have more opportunity for service where I am."

The ex-actor said he thought the entry of a third-party candidate into the presidential race would serve no useful purpose.

"The worst thing that could happen to this country would be a multiparty political system instead of our two-party system," Reagan told newsmen. "What we need is a working two-party system in all parts of this country."

Asked about segregation, Reagan said he believed every American should have the rights guaranteed to him by the Constitution, and if those rights are being denied the federal government should act to preserve them.

On Vietnam Reagan said, "Once the shooting has started we should accept the advice of our military leaders on where best to attack the enemy."

If the military leaders should advise the invasion of North Vietnam, he said, "then I would be for that."

In his speech in Columbia Reagan noted that he had once been a Democrat, "but somehow the Democratic party went away and left us."

"It left us when it switched to so many philosophies and policies we would not accept—the philosophy that big government is the best government."

He accused the Johnson administration of "arrogant use of poverty funds to build a political nest egg."

State Sunday School Convention in Detroit's Cobo Hall

PLAN CONVENTION — The Rev. Theodore R. Allebach, pastor of Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church, is shown with Ivan Hamel, president of the Michigan Sunday School Association, (left) and Clate E. Raymond, MSSA executive director. The three men have completed plans for the 22nd Annual Michigan Sunday School Convention Thursday through Saturday in Cobo Hall, Detroit. Pastor Allebach is chairman of the Pastor's Advisory Board for the MSSA.

By MARY ANGLEMIER
Pontiac Press Church Editor

At a time when many believe young people are losing interest in the church and Christianity, more than 8,000 Bible school teachers, teachers and teenagers will gather at Cobo Hall in Detroit, Thursday through Saturday, to reaffirm the importance of Sunday School.

The 22nd annual convention of the Michigan Sunday School Association will bring delegates from 500 midwestern and Canadian churches in 32 major denominations.

SHEA SINGS

In addition to more than 145 workshops, the convention will feature George Beverly Shea, singer with the Dr. Billy Graham Team, and six other headline speakers.

At the Saturday night teen rally, there will be more than 100 exhibits and displays, and a variety of musical presentations.

According to Clate E. Raymond, executive director of the MSSA, there is no admission charge.

Highlight of the Saturday night program for young people will be appearances by Vonda Kay Vandyk, the former Miss America, and by Bobby Richardson, ex-baseball player with the New York Yankees.

Richardson, who played for the Yankees from 1955 to 1966, now represents the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. George Beverly Shea will provide special music throughout the convention.

Gov. George W. Romney will welcome the delegates at the opening assembly Thursday night. Dr. Myron Augsburger of Eastern Mennonite College will give the evening address.

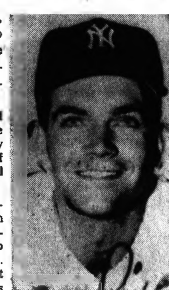

Other principal speakers during the three-day convention will include the Rev. Mel Johnson of Tips for Teens; Dr. Bob Smith of Bethel College; Mrs. Ethel Barrett of Gospel Light Publications; Dr. Ray Hughes of Cleveland, Ohio; and Dr. Merrill F. Unger, well-known author in Christian education.

CHILDREN'S CHOIR

Music for the convention will be furnished by a 900-voice Children's Choir under the direction of Mrs. Joann Cleveland of Ferndale, the Salvation Army Band and the Jim Murk family of Wheaton, Ill.

A 700-member Convention Choir will also present a variety of numbers. Music will be under the direction of Charles Ohman who heads the statewide MSSA music program.

According to the Rev. Theodore R. Allebach of Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church, a convention chairman, the Michigan Sunday School

Convention is recognized by national church leaders as the most successful in the United States.

In 1966 the Association drew an overflow crowd of 6,247 to Ferndale High School with several hundred turned away.

As a special service to delegates, a nursery will be provided for children during all conference sessions.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Just how important is Sunday School?

Circuit Court Judge Arthur E. Moore has this to say: "Years of experience with juvenile delinquents and adult crime have convinced me of the great need of every child for religious and moral training."

"Most delinquents and criminals were deprived of such training. Recent riots and increased crime are proof of moral decadence."

"The best cure is Christian training of youth. This is a great national challenge."

In an address FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said, "What we need is a return to God, more specifically a return to the practice of religion. That is without doubt the greatest need in America today."

Hoover was reared in a religious home.

"We didn't have much — but we had everything we needed," he recalled. "I always had to go to Sunday School. I was given a little Testament for attendance on 32 consecutive Sundays, and it was one of my treasures. I still have it."

First Assistant Has Arrived

Stefanic in Charge of Young People

New to the Birmingham Unitarian Church this season is the Rev. Stanley Stefanic, first assistant minister of the congregation.

A graduate of Harvard Divinity School, he came to Birmingham from Southern Methodist University where he was studying for a doctorate in the philosophy of religion. Stefanic grew up in Cleveland, Ohio and received a degree in English from Maryville College.

While at Harvard, the new assistant and his wife, Jean, were residents at the Center for the study of world religions in 1963-1964.

He was also associated with the Harvard Protestant Catholic Colloquium ecumenical dialogue of 1963.

The Rev. Mr. Stefanic describes his duties at the church, as first of all, working with the youth to develop a program of interest to them, and to provide a center for university students of the area.

In the area of social responsibility are duties dealing with the many urban-suburban problems of today.

The Stefanic family lives at home at 1027 Forest, Birmingham.

New Year's Sunday Slated at Marimont

Tomorrow will be New Year's Sunday at the Marimont Baptist Sunday School. Everyone attending the 9:45 a.m. classes will receive a rose.

Mrs. Marge Tistworth was elected general chairman of the Sunday School for the coming year. Other leaders chosen include Nancy Yingling, Mrs. Mae Norman, Mrs. Diane Seiber, Alice Krueger, and Phyllis Altwater.

Other youth leaders include Kate Dunnam, Rod Altwater, Donna Gavette, Denny Vincent, Mrs. Frank Webber and Thelma Taber.

The Colonist Group of Pioneer Girls will have an overnight campout Friday.

If you do the best and the most you can today, don't worry about tomorrow. —B.C. Forbes, American financial writer.

Costly Wedding Can Be Avoided —Use Church

By ELIZABERH L. POST

The following letter provides a lovely solution to the problem of costly weddings. As the writer says, even the most socially inclined in-laws could find it hard to criticize a church reception, and it allows both families to invite a substantial number of guests.

A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to Mrs. Walter Aker of Warwick, R. I., for her interesting letter.

Dear Mrs. Post: May I suggest that the young orphaned woman, whose future in-laws expected an elaborate wedding, investigate the possibility of holding her reception in the church?

If she has been a fairly regular member especially, the pastor and the women's society will probably be more than glad to help her have the best wedding possible. A great many churches are eager to have an "all church" wedding.

I was a working woman with elderly parents, and had a lovely buffet reception in our church hall, catered by the church. They provided the silver service and lace cloths, and several of my friends "poured." I decorated the table and room myself. The photos were taken by a friend, and music was recorded.

One of the assets to such a reception is that you do not have the expense of providing liquor, or the nuisance of those who over-indulge!

Possibly it could be held outside, if the church has a lovely lawn, and the time is suitable.

Everyone, including myself and the groom, enjoyed our reception immensely; we could hardly get the guests to leave. Future in-laws could scarcely criticize a wedding done with taste and dignity in church.

I would be glad to pass on any hints I may be able to give to the young lady, or perhaps you could devote a column to such a situation sometime, since there must be many working girls in a similar situation. — Muriel Aker.

Dear Mrs. Post: The other day a seven year old neighbor boy accidentally broke our dining room window. He nervously came to the door by himself to admit his guilt and to offer to pay for the damage. The bill came to approximately 30 dollars.

I am sure the little fellow for just "confessing," and I hesitate to present him or his parents with this bill. What is the proper method of taking care of such a situation? — Mrs. Grimes.

Dear Mrs. Grimes: Good for the little boy who had the good manners to confess his sin. However, this does not mean that you should be obliged to pay the cost of repairing the window which he broke.

I suggest you call his parents, compliment them on their son's behavior and ask them over for a cup of coffee to discuss the arrangements and cost for replacing the window.

It's fashionable in the sport world to look the part. Members of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Oakland County Dental Society knowing this have planned just THAT kind of show at Pine Knob Resort Tuesday with members modeling styles from the Sporthaus. The luncheon event begins at 11:30 a.m. Previewing what is to come are from left, Mrs. Robert Vestevich of Southfield and Mrs. A. K. Toepfer of Birmingham.

MRS. JOHN THOMAS MCDILL

Tell Sister Her Problem Teen-Ager Isn't Your Responsibility Any More

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband drives a cab and he works nights off and on. We are happily married with three children of school age. My problem is my sister Ethel. She calls me up at all hours of the morning when one of her kids is late in getting home.

It scares the living daylight out of me to get a call at that hour. I always think something terrible has happened to my husband. Well, Ethel called me this morning at 4 a.m. to tell me that her 16-year-old daughter hadn't come home from a movie date yet. Ethel's husband is a night watchman so he doesn't know about this problem daughter of theirs.

Ethel cried and carried on so that I located my husband and we went looking for this juvenile delinquent in all the places we thought she'd be. We couldn't find her, so we went to Ethel's at 6:30 a.m. to calm her down, and the little darling was there! (Flat tire. Oh sure!) What can I do with that hysterical sister of mine? My own kids don't get any rest with her 'calling all the time.

SHOT NERVES

DEAR SHOT: Tell your sister to call her own husband when she has a problem at odd hours. If she doesn't know that it's unfair to disturb you and your family, TELL her! But don't expect her to be more considerate of you just because you complained to ME.

DEAR ABBY: I proposed to a girl and she has accepted. My problem is this: Although she will accept an engagement ring, she told me that she doesn't like diamonds. I would like to know if there are any other kinds of stones used for an engagement.

GOING SHOPPING

DEAR GOING: ANY other kind of ring you wish to buy her may be appropriately symbolic of your engagement. How about her birthstone? (If she was born in April, forget it.)

DEAR ABBY: My brother married about 10 years ago and moved to the west coast. That marriage ended in divorce, which was unfortunate for his three children. Soon afterwards, another marriage, and another batch of children.

Then another divorce. This news came when my husband was quite ill, so I decided not to tell him anything about it.

That was a year ago. Today I received a letter from my brother - bubbling with enthusiasm. He's coming to visit us with his new "girl friend." He knew we had only one spare room, but could we get one of our neighbors to accommodate his friend?

What do I do now? Insofar as my husband is concerned, my brother is still married to Number Two.

My brother says in his letter that his latest is a living doll, 25 years younger than he, but misunderstood by her husband! My brother is now 53, has had a lot of unhappiness in his life and I hesitate to contribute to it, but I can't have him here with a lady who's married to someone else. What should I do?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Write to your brother and tell him your position. And I suggest that you put your husband up to date on Brother's latest caper. You may have unexpected company.

Drop in Federal Jobs Is Seasonal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal employment, like farm work, is partially seasonal.

A congressional committee reported today that the federal civilian work force declined by 10,593 in August. That left 3,001,781 civilians drawing paychecks from Uncle Sam at month's end.

The Joint Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures attributed the cutback to reductions in "temporary seasonal employment and temporary summer employment under the President's youth opportunity program."

From 1955 to 1964, United States domestic cigarette consumption has had an average annual rise of 3 per cent, while consumption in the rest of the non-Communist world has shown an estimated 4.7 rise.

Griffith Regains Ring Crown

Emil Collects Split Decision in N.Y. Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — "He never hurt me," exclaimed an exultant Emil Griffith after he had regained the world middleweight boxing championship with a 15-round decision over Nino Benvenuti Friday night.

"I felt I had the fight won from the seventh round," Griffith said in his dressing room at Shea Stadium.

"He never hurt me. It may have seemed that way to you writers, but I was out there and I wouldn't lie."

DECKS ITALIAN

Griffith said the punch that floored Benvenuti in the 14th round for an automatic eight-count "wasn't a hard punch. I got him with a right going away."

Griffith and Gil Clancy, his manager, credited Griffith's triumph primarily to his accurate left jab.

"I won this time because of three reasons," Griffith said.

"First, I didn't shove this time. Second, I kept my balance and third, I punched when I had to."

"He wasn't as good as he was the first time," Griffith said referring to the Italian's victory in April at Madison Square Garden.

"What did you think of the referee's decision," Griffith was asked.

"I have no complaints about my referee any more," Griffith replied.

"He called the fight a draw, you know," said a reporter.

"He did, did he?" Griffith laughed. The two judges each had Griffith winning nine rounds, with one even.

Firebirds Sparked by QB Addition

With the hope of added offensive spark by the addition of James "Lefty" Williams, the Pontiac Firebirds travel to Dayton tonight to meet the strong Dayton Colts in a Midwest Football League contest.

The game will be played at Trotwood, Ohio field near Dayton and Jones is expected to play even though he has had only one day workout with the Firebirds.

His opponent will be another former Lions' tail QB, Pete Miskolczi, who has led Dayton to three straight victories since his return from the Army reserve camp.

Dayton, 3-1, tied for the MFL lead, routed Mt. Clemens two weeks ago 34-7 and was idle last week.

Pontiac, 1-2 in the league, has been trying to boost its offense and have added running back John Panatages, former Western Michigan griddle, to the backfield.

Next Saturday night Oct. 7, Dayton will visit Winder Stadium, in a local debut for Jones, who will have gained a week's practice with Pontiac.

In other games in the MFL this weekend, Ypsilanti is at the Clemens tonight and Detroit Downriver is at Flint Sunday. Lansing has an off week.

There's more than one Canadian whisky up there to choose from. So, when you want a really great whisky, just say, "Canadian Club, please."

Can You Buy Half a Claymore Suit?

Yes, you can buy a Claymore sport jacket or a pair of Claymore slacks, or both. Our slacks are coordinated, so that they go together as naturally as the pants and coat of a Claymore suit. And they make you feel just as good.

Pick a sport jacket of Shetland lamb's wool, Camel hair or Skey Homespun. Then match it up against our worsted flannel or cavalry twill slacks. Why go half way?

Gold Walls And Sculptured Gold Carpeting Establish The Monochromatic Background Of The Living Room Furnished In Distressed Pecan And Oak

Home's Mediterranean Mood Set In Foyer

Abe Rossi Bilevel Found In Fox Bay Estates

Always Ready to Entertain

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

Located on Fox Bay Drive in White Lake Township, the Abe Rossi home follows a Mediterranean theme in its interior decorating design. The formal living room opens directly off the entrance hall.

"Please note," said Mr. Rossi who built his own home, "we arranged the floor plan to keep the living room free of traffic. This way it is always ready to entertain guests. With children in the household, this is a big help to the mother."

Heavy cotton draperies in a floral pattern of burnt orange, gold, green, black, white and pumpkin match the room's sofa and complement the gold background.

Paired gold velvet chairs are placed before the broad picture window.

EMPHASIS
Wrought iron legs of the cocktail table add to the Southern European motif

as does the Italian figurine on the sofa's distressed pecan lamp table.

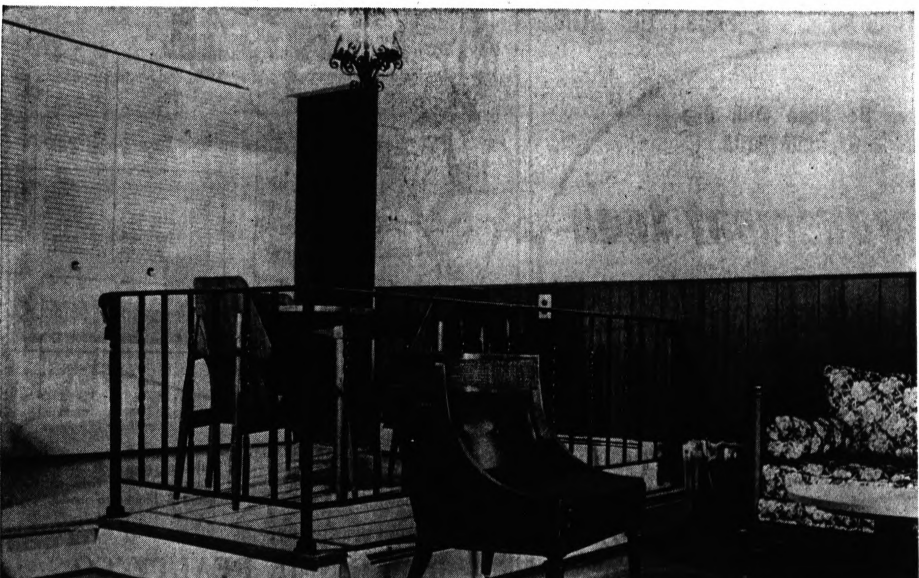

Antique brass appointments highlight the dark-stained oak credenza above which hangs a battle scene. The painting, hand-painted in rust, repeats the room's accent colors. White candles in antiqued rust candlesticks balance the figurine on the credenza.

The adjoining tiled entrance hall facilitates the home's traffic pattern leading to the family room-kitchen, the lower level recreation room, the children's bedroom area and the master bedroom.

Carpeted in olive green, the master bedroom features white walls and draperies of an olive-green-on-white print. An antiqued brass lamp with metallic tortoiseshell shade hangs above the distressed pecan bedside table.

"We have the room's light switch wired to the side lamps," said Mr. Rossi, "to avoid the glare of overhead lights."

An oval Victorian painting above the room's olive green antique satin chair introduces an interesting change of pace.

Not a Difficult Task

Save Money, Replace Window

One thing about a broken window — it's never just a little bit broken. Cracked or smashed to pieces, it needs replacement.

While having the window pane replaced at the local hardware store is one way of doing it, this means removing the sash — more work than putting in new glass yourself. You can also have someone come out to the house, but this can be expensive, and the job is not that difficult.

You needn't even cut the new glass yourself (though you can, if you wish). Most hardware stores will cut glass to size. All you have to do is provide the dimensions.

To get the proper dimensions, measure the inside of the sash opening and subtract 1/4-inch from both length and width. Wood will expand and contract with changing weather conditions and having the glass slightly undersize will prevent its cracking.

The sash will have to be completely cleaned of broken glass. Wear old gloves to protect your hands. Pull out as many pieces as you can. The rest will come out when you scrape away the old putty.

You may have to prise away at the putty with a knife or chisel. Be careful that you do not remove any wood. If the putty is very difficult to remove, soften it with a hot soldering iron.

The rabbit (the groove to which the glass fits) must be thoroughly clean. Make certain that all the old glazier's points are picked out. These are tiny triangular pieces of metal. Even tiny bits of old putty should be removed since these may cause the new glass to crack when pressed into the rabbit.

When the sash is clean, brush it with linseed oil. This will prevent the new putty from drying out right away. Even if you use glazier's compound — far superior to putty — use linseed oil anyway.

Take a small bit of putty or glazier's compound and roll it out thinly in your hand, about the thickness of a thin pencil.

Press this ribbon of putty into the channel and then set the new piece of glass in this bed of putty. This provides a tight seal.

Now put in the glazier's points. If the old ones are rusty or bent get new points. Press them flat against the glass with the point into the wood. Use the edge of a chisel or putty knife to do this.

The points hold the glass in place while you put in the rest of the putty. Roll more putty in your hands, making pencil size strips. Press this strip of putty into place along the edge of the glass so there is a continuous joint.

Bevel the putty with a putty knife. Press the knife into the corner and move it along the putty with a firm, fast stroke. This will cut off a strip of putty along the glass and farthest from the sash. Check from the other side of the window to see that the putty is still not too high. Remove any excess.

Use a turpentine-moistened rag to clean off the putty-smeared glass. If linseed oil putty was used, wait several days for it to harden before painting. Glazing compound remains pliable and can be painted over any time.

Welcome Your Guests

The entrance hall of your home should be both "in" and "out."

It should blend outdoors with interior decor, be inviting yet move one along, suggest both nature and artifice.

The transition can be greatly aided by using a natural flooring material like quarry tile which will not only add decorative interest but be easy to maintain.

Neutral Best

A floor covering should be neutral to act as a background to highlight other furnishings in a room. Then you can go all out when choosing colors for side chairs, toss pillows, curtains and today's pop art decorations.

OUR ANCESTORS KNEW how handy wooden wall pockets could be. They made them in designs that stood out with good effect against a light wall. Today we copy them to use for letters, keys, gloves or a graceful plant. Pattern 261, which gives actual-size guides and directions for three of these old-time pockets, is 35 cents. It also is in the Early American Reproduction Packet No. 19 which is $1. The Pontiac Press, Pattern Dept. P.O. Box 50, New Windsor, New York 12550.

The edges of a deck look neatly tailored when trimmed with a 2x4 turned on edge.

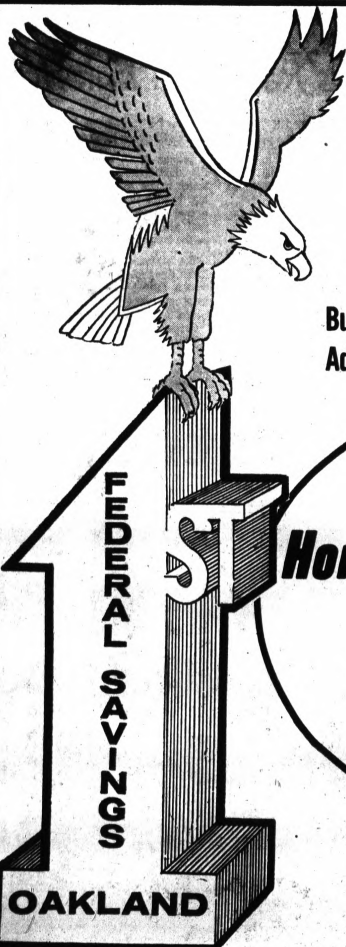

INDEPENDENCE SQUARE — The grass is up, the shrubs are in and the last segment of apartments in the luxury Independence Square Complex at 5901 Dixie, Independence Township, is now available for rental. The one and two bedroom apartments are air conditioned, carpeted and electrically heated. Residents of the complex have lake privileges on the private beach of Van Norman Lake and the use of the complex' clubhouse for entertaining, according to Don White, developer of the project.

CORNER APARTMENT — Located on the ground floor in the newly completed lakeside building of the Independence Square Complex, the living room in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Felt is carpeted in French blue. For the room's sofa and curved-back chair grouping, the Fells have selected navy blue velvet. The round white cocktail table centering the seating arrangement repeats the wall coloring. Apartment regulations prohibit rental to families with children.

6 Oxford-Area Homes Open

Junior Women Sponsor Tour

Six Oxford area homes will be open to the public on the Fall Home Tour sponsored by the Oxford Junior Women's Club.

The tour will be held Wednesday from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. with tea to be served at Camp Oakland, 130 E. Drabner, Oxford, from 2 to 4 p.m.

Proceeds are earmarked for the Oxford Public Library.

Guests are asked to refrain from smoking in the homes and to wear low heels for their comfort and to protect walkways.

Included on the tour is the Luther L. Clyburns' fieldstone and cedar shingle home at 27 W. Burdick, Oxford. Long an Oxford landmark, this late 19th century home has been restored to its original beauty.

VICTORIAN
Authentic period pieces have been used to furnish the Victorian home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Baldwin of 49 Denison, Oxford. The Baldwin have transformed the former woodshed into the family room.

Reminiscent of another era, the home of the William Edgar Beatty at 1408 S. Coats, Oxford Township, features colonial, urns, corbels and handpainted beams as the background for antiques and a collection of American primitive paintings.

Built in the 1840s, the remodeled farmhouse home of Mr. and Mrs. Graham Shinnick of 1045 Brauer, Oxford Township, has seven fireplaces. An art collection of early and modern paintings accents the home's antique furnishings.

Also on the tour is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Fillmore of 3800 Delano, Oxford Township. In the Fillmores' high-ceilinged living room European antiques create an air of formal elegance. The decorating motif takes a quick about face in the kitchen and children's wing with the accent on informality and comfort.

The home of Dr. and Mrs. David Loewith, 5890 Hosner, Addison Township, will especially interest horse fanciers and enthusiasts of Early Americana. Built originally as a stable, alterations and additions have transformed it into a year-round home. The back terrace and glass enclosed porch overlook a private lake.

Tickets are available at the Oxford Public Library and at the individual homes on the day of the tour.

Arrangements and tour plans were handled by Mrs. Robert Peterson and Mrs. Robert Beatty, cochairmen.

Assisting on the committee were Mrs. Jack Valentine, Mrs. Gerald Neidinger, Mrs. Benjamin Swanson and Mrs. Richard Buechler.

Real Estate Report

Median Creeps Up

More than one-third of June's homes sold in the nation during July were priced under $17,500, although the median sales price of existing homes continues to creep upward.

This was brought out in the current report of the research department of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, which also showed a 16 per cent gain in the number of sales of existing homes as compared with the corresponding month a year ago.

The median price of all existing homes sold in July was $19,700, an increase of $700 over the median price a year earlier.

In spite of the increase in median price, and are continuing gain in sales, homes priced under $17,500 continued to meet a major share of housing demand. The survey disclosed that 15 per cent of all sales of existing homes were in the price class of $15,000 to $17,500; 11 per cent, between $12,500 and $15,000; and 15 per cent, less than $12,500.

The increase of all existing home sales was a continuation of the trend shown in the June and May surveys. Sales in June of this year were up 15.3 per cent over June, 1966. The July survey reflected gains in all four regions of the U.S., topped by a healthy 21.6 per cent in the West. The other percentage increases were: Northeast, 10.9; North Central, 11.6; South, 16.5.

The three-bedroom home continues to be the most popular, as shown by the NAREB report. Of all homes sold in July 97.3 per cent had three bedrooms; 21.5 per cent had four or more bedrooms; 21.6 per cent had two bedrooms or fewer.

The existing home survey, the only one of its kind in the nation, is conducted monthly as a cooperative project of the NAREB Department of Research and executive officers of boards of realtors in offices throughout the nation.

STYLISH RANCH: Crisp and modern lines distinguish exterior design of this three-bedroom ranch, which combines

V-joint siding with brick for interesting effect. Garage doors can be located on opposite side if size of lot permits.

Informality Stressed in Rambling Ranch

Exposed beams, following the line of the roof, increase the feeling of spaciousness in this stylish, L-shaped, three-bedroom, 2½-bath ranch house of contemporary design.

A cathedral ceiling in the entrance foyer-living room area adds height to the rooms.

Although other materials could be substituted for the exterior, the plans call for 1" by 8" rough-sawn, bleached, red cedar vertical V-joint siding, with two interesting brick "privacy" walls.

The low-pitched white gravel asphalt-shingled roof is specified for its reflecting and insulating value. There is a partial basement under the family room, kitchen and dining room. It is accessible from the garage, the laundry and the outside.

The balance of the plan is constructed over a three-foot ventilated and insulated crawl space.

All parts of the design radiate from the main foyer which is 16' long makes a fine reception area. Straight ahead is the living room with its floor-to-ceiling ing sectional windows and bottom-ventilating hinged sash. The litation and just enough of a hall to permit easy circulation.

The master bedroom has a walk-in closet almost 8' deep and a full bath, including an oversized tilled stall shower and a full-length mirrored vanity.

The main bath is compartmentalized and within a few steps of the two bedrooms and the living section of the house.

For informal entertaining, the family room has all the necessary attributes: accessibility to the kitchen, a fireplace, wood-paneled sidewalls, and open-beamed ceiling and floor-to-ceiling glass doors that lead to the outdoor sitting and recreation area.

Note, too, that unlike most family rooms, it has two spacious closets. The family room is well located to keep other parts of the house free from traffic. And its proximity to the kitchen makes it convenient for the person who does the serving.

The oversized two-car garage connects directly with the laundry room. Depending on personal preference or lot width, the garage doors may be located at the front rather than as shown in the plans.

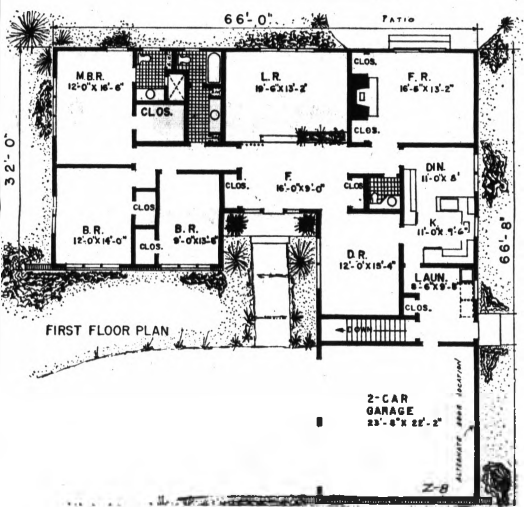

Space is available for garden tools, lawn chairs, toys and other equipment. The laundry room to the right of the kitchen has access to the outside as well as to the garage.

The step-saving, U-shaped kitchen has a full complement of appliances, a large countertop area and a maximum number of cabinets in a minimum amount of space.

The picture window in the dinette and the window over the kitchen sink assure plenty of light and air.

It is rare indeed when, as in this case, the lady of the house can move from the dining room to the kitchen, living room, dining room, laundry, family room or bedroom wing and never once set foot in any other room.

For those who are oriented to the convenience of one-level living and have the land which can handle this house, design Z-8 provides everything for modern comfortable living.

FLOOR PLANS: Large foyer, with two big closets, serves as central point for circulation to all parts of the house. In addition, it is an excellent reception area when entertaining guests.

Window Care Is Costly Chore

Painting windows is not only tedious, it's costly. Industry sources estimate that it can cost as much as $2.50 per window, every year.

With 15 windows in the average house, that totals over $35 a year and helps explain the recent rise in popularity of aluminum frames, which don't need painting.

Ladies Look in Refrigerator

American homemakers think when it comes to organizing their refrigerators, according to a survey conducted by Republic Molding Corp., Chicago.

It was found that the typical refrigerator is such a colossal mess that as much as 50 percent of useable space goes to waste.

What's even worse — good good spoils. It gets lost or forgotten in the confusion.

When you burn the leaves, spare the neighborhood. Burn cautiously this fall.

Remember, only you can prevent forest fires.

Sun Shield Benefits Patio Entertaining

For families who enjoy dining, entertaining and just plain relaxing in the back yard, sunshine is always welcome. But heat is not. And how do you manage one without the other in midsummer?

The answer comes in the form of a good shade roof built over the outdoor living area. It won't be a solid roof, however, for a solid cover traps heat more often than not.

Better by far is the type of sunshade that filters light. Basically, it works like leafy tree limbs, providing a cooling canopy overhead that encourages air circulation. There are many types of such shade roofs.

A favorite is the slat roof which always looks good, works well and is about the easiest to build. Slat roofs, either 1x2s or 2x2s, are nailed across a post-and-beam framework to make the roof. Spacing between them shouldn't exceed a half inch.

Another common material which can be used effectively is garden latticework. Panels of latticework can be stapled between the ribs of a trellis framework to make a highly attractive canopy.

DOUBLING ADDS SHADE

If the patio is completely exposed to afternoon sun, lattice-work can be doubled to create even more shade. It's done by setting one panel on the diagonal between supports, then adding another directly over it, but turned at right angles.

That reduces the spaces between the wood strips by half. At the same time, an intriguing pattern is developed.

Where trees and house shade the patio part of the day, an eggcrate roof may provide enough supplementary shading. They're built with beams and joists outlining open two-foot squares.

You need 1x10s to do the best job, since screening action comes from the depth of an eggcrate roof.

A vine-covered trellis roof is another favorite. It has an advantage in that good cover is supplied during summer months, but sunshine reaches the area — and house windows — during the autumn and winter.

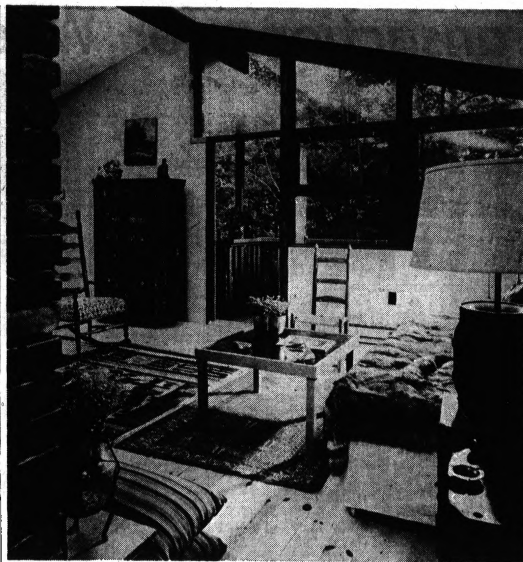

Woods recommended and commonly used for shade roof construction are Douglas fir, western red cedar and white fir. Ponderosa pine and sugar pine also may be used.

In each case, it's wisest either to let the wood weather naturally or to finish it with semi-transparent exterior grade stain.

Paint also may be used, but it usually demands frequent refinishing to retain top appearance.

Best-Sellers

Beige and off-white are the best-selling colors in asphalt and vinyl asbestos tile. The reason is not hard to find: a neutral floor color allows the home decorator greater freedom when choosing other furnishings.

ACCENT ON EASY LIVING—Interior of manufactured vacation home illustrates today's new high standards of design and comfort. Spacious rooms are attractive setting for either contemporary or traditional furnishings.

FUN FOR ALL — Redwood exterior is just one of the low-maintenance features in this year-around leisure home by Spacemakers, Inc., Dedham, Mass. Equipped for four-season-living, it is ideally adapted for expense-halving alternate-season use by two families.

Build Vacation Home in Fall

"Whether you plan a vacation home for the mountains or at the shore, fall is the best time for building it." So says Stanley Miller, president of Spacemakers, Inc., of Dedham, Mass., one of the largest manufacturers of houses designed especially for leisure living.

"If winter sports and skiing are your special interest, a fall start means a completed house before snow has come to the slopes," says Miller.

"If bathing, boating, and water sports are your choice, building now means a house ready for next season's fun, without the long delays often encountered when the spring rush begins."

The trend toward making a vacation house an all-season resort has further boosted the popularity of fall as the time to build. "In ski areas," says Miller, "revenue from winter rental is often enough to cover year-around expenses. So completing a house in time for winter occupancy makes good economic sense."

"Rental is no problem to the owner. Real estate agents arrange range bookings, see that the house is in order after renters leave. And the rental means the house is an investment property, eligible for important tax deductions."

Spacemaker houses are typical of the new breed of around-the-calendar leisure homes. They are available completely insulated and with heating system installed, or for later completion. A free booklet offered by Spacemakers shows many styles in every price range.

Bribery Indictment Issued in Hoffa Case

BATON ROUGE, La., (AP) — Three grand juries are probing alleged Cosa Nostra activities in Louisiana, and one of them has indicted a contractor of bribing a governor's aide in an attempt to buy a new trial for Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa.

The East Baton Rouge Parish Grand Jury indicted New Orleans contractor D'Alton Smith Friday. The indictment said he tried to get an aide to Gov. John J. McKeithen to serve as a midman in an alleged $1-million scheme to get Hoffa a new trial.

Smith, who divides his time between New Orleans and Los Angeles, is being sought by police.

The charge against him carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $1,000 fine.

The alleged attempt to buy Hoffa out of prison, where he is serving a term for tampering with a jury, also is the subject of a federal grand jury investigation in New Orleans.

In addition, the Orleans Parish Grand Jury in New Orleans has issued a subpoena for Carlos Marcello, described as the Cosa Nostra boss in Louisiana, to appear before it Thursday. Marcello, a short, gray-haired man who lives in Metairie, a New Orleans suburb, was reported away on a trip. The subpoena was left with his wife.

Smith was accused of offering $25,000 to Aubrey Young to set up for him a private meeting with Edward G. Partin, a Teamsters Union official in Baton Rouge.

Partin is not easily accessible. He has had federal marshals as bodyguards since becoming a key government witness in Hoffa's 1962 conviction.

Partin said he rejected a $1-million bribe at the meeting, offered if he would change the testimony he gave at the trial and thus establish new grounds for a new trial.

Young resigned as McKeithen's aide in July. He spent two days as a state's witness, immune to prosecution, before the grand jury.

Dist. Atty. Sargent Pitcher of Baton Rouge said Young agreed that he had arranged the meeting, at his home, between Partin and Smith. Pitcher said, however, that Young denied accepting $25,000 for the action.

Whether the money actually was paid would not change the charge. Louisiana law does not discriminate between bribery and attempted bribery.

Pitcher said the special session of the East Baton Rouge Parish Grand Jury resumes Monday. Grand jury sessions are secret.

The session was called at the request of McKeithen, who demanded the crackdown after a series of Life magazine articles reported that organized crime flourishes in the state.

The governor first contended that Life deliberately "unmasked" the state. He switched position after flying to New York to confer with the magazine's editors and reporters.

MSU Gets Largest Single Part of Mrs. Wilson's Estate

The will of Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson, whose gifts were responsible for the existence of Oakland University, was filed yesterday in Oakland County Probate Court.

The beneficiary of the largest part of the estate, conservatively estimated by her attorneys at more than $1.5 million, is Michigan State University.

The will provides that the university, the parent organization of Oakland University, receive $300,000 for the John Hannah Professorship Fund.

Pierre V. Heffler, of the Detroit law firm of Bodman, Longley, Bogle, Armstrong & Dahling, said it is too early to know the true value of the estate,

"but it's actually much more than the $1.5 million."

After the distribution of specific property and cash to persons named in the will, including children, employees, friends and organizations, the remainder will be placed in the existing Matilda R. Wilson Fund to be used for charitable purposes.

The will does not mention the donation of 1,400 acres of land and property for the establishment of Oakland University in Avon Township, since this matter was taken care of in 1957, according to Heffler.

At that time Mrs. Wilson retained only her home, Meadow Brook Hall, with the provision that it would become part of the university at her death.

In her will, dated March 9, 1967, seven months before her death last week in Brussels, Belgium, she has bequeathed most of the furnishings in Meadow Brook to Oakland University.

A number of personal items will go to one of her two daughters, Mrs. Frances Dodge Van Lennep, of Lexington, Ky., while her other two children, Mrs. Thomas Eccles of Scottsdale, Ariz., and Richard S. Wilson of Bloomfield Hills, will each receive $10,000.

Johnson Softens Wording
on Offer to Halt Bombing

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's offer to stop U.S. bombing of North Vietnam if that action would lead promptly to "productive discussions" is evidently designed to soften the wording of his policy without actually changing it.

Johnson held out little hope, however, in his speech in San Antonio, Tex., last night that President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam would take up the offer.

Related Stories,

Johnson said the North Vietnamese still believe they can win their struggle to take over South Vietnam because they "hope that the people of the United States will not see the struggle through to the end."

High Washington officials have said privately in the last few days Hanoi has given no indication through secret diplomatic channels of an interest in opening peace talks.

Persons familiar with the planning of the President's speech said it was intended to make his policy on halting the bombing and starting talks as acceptable as possible to Ho Chi Minh if the Communist leader is in any mood to respond at this time.

Presumably, Johnson also wanted to put his position in a form as agreeable as possible to domestic and foreign critics. Recently at the United Nations General Assembly several speakers have called for an end to the bombing in the hope that Ho would then be willing, perhaps in three or four weeks, to enter into discussions that would lead to a peace settlement.

The most dramatic statement in Johnson's speech was his declaration he was "ready to talk tomorrow" with the North Vietnamese leader or to send Secretary of State Dean Rusk to meet the North Vietnamese foreign minister if there was a willingness on the other side to begin negotiations in good faith.

Bogus $10 Bills
Passed in Area

Several counterfeit $10 bills were passed at area shopping centers Thursday evening, eight at Miracle Mile Shopping Center and at Montgomery Wards at the Pontiac Mall.

All of the fake bills have the same serial number: F 0253448 A, according to Lt. Martin McLaughlin of the Bloomfield Township police, who said, "They really look authentic."

Three were found at Kresge Co., two at Cunningham Drugs, and two at Miracle Camera Shop Inc.

Kresge clerk Margaret Seagull of 3173 Fernberry, Waterford Township, first discovered the bills, according to McLaughlin. He said she became suspicious because of the feel of one of the counterfeit bills and began checking serial numbers. She found two with the same number.

OPENING DAY — Oakland University opens its professional acting academy with some explanation to one of its first students, Kitty-Alice Sneed of Westland, Tex. Helping her get acquainted at the Academy of Dramatic Art (ADA) gathering yesterday are (from left) Donald D. O'Dowd, provost of OU; John Fernald, director of ADA; and Wilbur W. Kent Jr., assistant dean of the school of performing arts.

Drama Academy Opens
at OU: 'N. America's 1st'

The Academy of Dramatic Art (ADA) of Oakland University, cited as the first of its kind in North America, opened yesterday with a charter class of 14 students.

Students were selected at competitive auditions in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and at the university for the two-year professional program.

Director John Fernald patterned the unique university-sponsored academy after the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art (RADA) in London, which he directed.

He welcomed yesterday the first group of students who registered for an intensive acting course, which is the first segment of OU's new school of performing arts.

A maximum of 90 students will eventually attend the academy at one time, with new classes being started in the fall, winter and spring of each year.

ACTING TALENT

The 14 students, who were selected

only on the basis of having a natural talent for acting, out of 83 who auditioned, will start classes Monday.

Leading to a diploma in dramatic art, the course provides a practical approach to the professional theater, and its teaching covers all aspects of acting technique.

Many of the students, who come from seven states, have advanced degrees in theater and are attending the academy to polish their acting.

ADA is designed for mature students, primarily in their 20s and 30s, who intend, upon graduation, to seek employment in the professional theater.

CONSTANT SURVEY

A realistic approach to the problems of training for the stage is maintained through the constant survey of Fernald and his faculty and staff, many of whom served under him at the Royal Academy.

Fernald is known as a superior director and a "prime architect" among drama teachers.

He was a theater director in London and on Broadway and headed the RADA for 10 years before coming to OU in 1966 to head the resident professional acting company of the Meadow Brook Theatre.

OU's school of performing arts will ultimately include music and dance training. A building to house the school was designed to provide the finest modern instructional facilities for the arts. It is expected to be completed late next year.

FOURTH STEP

Entrance of the charter class of ADA marks the fourth impressive step toward a potentially nationally prominent performing arts center.

The university's nationally acclaimed Meadow Brook Festival began in 1964 and the Meadow Brook summer study institute a year later, before the establishment of Meadow Brook Theatre.

ON ITS WAY — About 80 boxes of junk mail are heading for Congress in a campaign protesting proposed mail rate increases. Ten area women will meet the delivery in Washington, D.C. next week. Loading the van yesterday are Mrs. Marion Tymkow, leader of the group (top left), Mrs. Ronald Baker (top right), both of Avon Township, and other group members.

Weather Holds Key to Hot Pennant Race

"Rain, rain, go away . . . come some other day!"

This chant is being heard in Michigan, Minnesota and New England as the weather does its best to put a damper on the hot American League pennant race.

The only water that fell in Chicago last night came from White Sox manager Eddie Stanky. He walked away from a tearful interview with newsmen after Chicago had been eliminated from the race, 1-0, by Washington.

The Detroit Tigers, rained or frozen out the last two nights, try again today with a doubleheader against the California Angels. The forecast indicated the rain will let up by the starting time of the first game.

Another twin bill with the Angels will wrap up regular season play tomorrow.

RAIN PREDICTED

Over in Boston, rain was predicted for this afternoon. The Minnesota Twins, leading Boston and Detroit by one game, take on the Red Sox in single games today and tomorrow.

A doubleheader will be played tomorrow if today's action is rained out.

Tiger aces Mickey Lolich and Earl Wilson were scheduled to pitch today against Ex-Detroit Jack Hamilton and noted Tiger-lamer George Brunet.

Joe Sparrano and probably Denny McLain will work for Detroit tomorrow. The Angels will counter with Clyde Wright and former Detroit Redford star Ricky Clark.

If the Tigers win twice today, and Boston downs the Twins, Detroit will lead by half a game. If the Tigers lose twice, there will be tears in Michigan—regardless of what happens in Beantown.

IRS Probes Political Gifts as Tax Dodge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service is probing several major political campaigns to find out if businessmen counted political contributions as tax deductions.

The IRS, while acknowledging the investigation, refused Friday to say whether it is interested in any particular political races.

But syndicated columnist Rowland Evans and Robert Novak reported the financial records of several major races under scrutiny. They said these include Republican John V. Lindsay's 1965 mayoral campaign in New York and Democrat Robert F. Kennedy's winning 1964 senatorial race in the Empire State.

Also, the columnists wrote the IRS wants a look at the financial records of Democrat Edmund G. Brown's successful 1963 race for reelection as governor of California and the Chicago campaign records for the race between Democrat Paul Douglas and Charles H. Percy for Illinois senator last year, won by Percy.

CONTRIBUTORS STUDIED
The candidates themselves aren't involved in the probe—only suspected contributors seeking an illegal tax advantage. Political contributions are not tax-deductible.

Several blocks away, 1,000 Buddhist monks and nuns ended a separate sit-down protest against South Vietnam's military rulers. They marched from government headquarters but left behind their militant leader, Thich (Venerable) Tri Quang, who has vowed to stay in front of the building until his demands are met.

It was the third day of anti-government protests but observers said the unrest did not appear a critical threat to Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, the vice president-elect.

U.S. AMBASSADOR Ellsworth Bunker went to see Thieu and was believed to have expressed U.S. concern about the situation.

FREQUENT MEETINGS
Bunker and other embassy officials have been meeting frequently with Thieu and Ky, and with members of the National Assembly, to point out that refusal by the assembly to approve results of the Sept. 3 presidential election could radically affect American public opinion and the course of U.S. support in Vietnam.

U.S. officials have already termed the election fair. Twenty-two election observers sent by President Johnson generally said they found no evidence of fraud.

The assembly's special committee reviewing charges of election irregularities brought by defeated civilian candidates has voted overwhelmingly to throw out the results of the voting.

Despite the committee's action, observers believed it unlikely that the full assembly would order a new election. But they said assemblymen opposed to Thieu and Ky would probably extend debate in the assembly until the midnight Monday deadline in an effort to embarrass the government.

MOM'S HERO — Army Sgt. Robert T. Ledellayner, 21, of Bridgeport, Conn., gets a big hug from his mother, Mrs. Mary Ledellayner, after receiving four medals, topped by the Silver Star, in a ceremony at Valley Forge, Pa., yesterday. In addition to the Silver Star, he was awarded the Bronze Star, the Air Medal and the Purple Heart with an Oak Leaf Cluster.

N. Vietnam Reaction to LBJ Offer Awaited

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson, his top advisers and much of the world are awaiting Hanoi's reaction to Johnson's offer to halt U.S. bombing of North Vietnam on condition it lead promptly to productive peace discussions.

Reviewing Vietnam policy for a bipartisan gathering here and for a nationwide television-radio audience, Johnson adopted language Friday night that sounded conciliatory, but did not weaken his expressed determination to see the war through to an acceptable ending.

Thus, in talking about a possible bombing halt, he said: "We of course assume that while discussions proceed, North Vietnam would not take advantage of the bombing cessation or limitation."

VAGUE PHRASING
This rather vague phrasing, when contrasted with some earlier U.S. demands for a promise by Hanoi to scale down its side of the war in order to gain respite from American bombs, seemed more flexible.

One administration source said the softer language was not accidental; that the government—in both public and private messages to Hanoi—has been probing for a formula that would get talks started.

But he suggested that Johnson's "we assume" statement amounted to putting Hanoi on notice once again that the United States would expect something more than talk if it were to stop the bombing.

The source said U.S. policy remains basically unchanged.

NO EARLY SOLUTION
Certainly Johnson held out no hope of an early solution. He reminded his frequently applauding listeners that "Hanoi has not accepted any of these proposals" for peace talks in the past.

But the Chief Executive was emphatic that "we and our South Vietnamese allies are wholly prepared to negotiate now." He said: "I am ready to talk with Ho Chi Minh and other chiefs of state concerned tomorrow."

"I am ready to have Secretary Rusk meet with their foreign minister tomorrow."

"I am ready to send a trusted representative to any spot on this earth to talk in public or private with any spokesman for Hanoi."

While emphasizing peace efforts in his address—delivered before 1,600 delegates to the National Legislative Conference of State Officials—Johnson put approximately equal stress on U.S. determination to preserve in Vietnam.

Lunar Rocks Like Earth's

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In an achievement ranked by scientists as one of men's greatest, the Surveyor 5 spacecraft has analyzed the moon's surface and found it contains materials much like those on earth.

One is basalt, an ordinary sort of rock so common on earth it is found everywhere from the Palisades of the Hudson to the Deccan Plains of India.

Others are silicon and oxygen, by far the most common elements on earth and apparently on the moon too.

Surveyor 5's findings about the chemical composition of the lunar surface were told to newsmen yesterday at the headquarters of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

They appear to dispel all doubt whether the moon was once molten and whether it still is inwardly hot and subject to volcanic turmoil. According to Surveyor 5 it certainly was and surely is.

County Unit Backs Vote on Annexation Proposal

The boundaries committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors yesterday unanimously voted to recommend an annexation election in three areas of Commerce Township. The land, which is projected for annexation to Walled Lake, is in Commerce Township and Wolverine Lake Village.

The committee also voted to recommend an election date of Jan. 16. The request will go before the entire county board at its regular meeting at 9 a.m. Monday.

A public hearing will be held on the issue at 8 p.m. Oct. 12 at Walled Lake High School. The committee will conduct the meeting and give both proponents and opponents equal time to state their case.

At yesterday's committee meeting, objections to approving the election were voiced by representatives from Wolverine Lake Village — attorney Martin Boyle and Clifford Cottrell, village manager. They protested that additions were made to the petitions after they had been filed and that the village is seeking to incorporate and has its own petitions collected from some property owners who had signed the original petitions, but had since changed their minds.

Walled Lake would triple its size if the vote proves favorable.

Involved are two large parcels in Commerce Township, to the east and west of the present city boundaries and land in Wolverine Village to the north of the city.

Counsel for the county, Robert P. Allen told committee members that in his opinion the moves by Walled Lake were probably legal. He said there may be some doubt on the issue that additions to the petitions were made on Sept. 15, but that the board was due to act on the issue Oct. 1, without a required 30-day waiting period as required with an original petition.

News Briefs at a Glance

SAIGON (AP) — The Communists opened up with mortars in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon today, shelling the U.S. 9th Infantry Division headquarters — the main American base in the area — and four South Vietnamese camps. Sixteen Americans were wounded in the attack, which followed intensified U.S. air strikes deep into North Vietnam. Air Force planes blasted the frequently hit MIG airfield at Hoa Lac west of Hanoi, and carrier-based Navy pilots flew through surface-to-air missile barrages to strike a bridge inside the port of Haiphong.

Teachers Target of Suit

DEARBORN HEIGHTS (AP) — The North Dearborn Heights Board of Education has filed a suit against picketing teachers, charging them with using "slandering and obscene" language and blocking school entrances and seeking an injunction against "illegal" picketing. The pickets, members of an American Federation of Teachers local, have been striking since Sept. 8. The district is the last in the state where teachers and school officials face an impasse over a new contract settlement.

Rio Grande Surges On

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The Rio Grande, which left destruction and human misery in its wake, hurled its floodwaters today at the mouth of the Gulf of Mexico where the trouble began 10 days ago when Hurricane Beulah hit. The river was at flood stage in the Rio Grande Valley from Rio Grande City eastward for almost 200 miles, although it was receding in some spots. The 153,000 residents of the Brownsville, Tex., Matamoros, Mexico, area at the Rio Grande's mouth braced for the flood crest, expected sometime today. Upstream, residents began returning their still-covered homes in the beginning of a massive cleanup.

Birmingham Area News

Annexation Action Is Delayed

BIRMINGHAM — The Oakland County Boundaries Committee yesterday delayed action on a petition asking for a special election in Birmingham to annex a portion of Bloomfield Township to the city.

The petitions signed by 300 persons from the two areas are for the annexation of about eight acres of land in the township at the southwest corner of Big Beaver and Adams owned by C. A. Harlan of 3535 N. Adams, Bloomfield Township.

Harlan wants the move in order to have the land rezoned commercial from multiple residence.

The committee referred the matter to its legal sides because of questions of legality concerning the age of the petitions and description of the land involved.

Township Supervisor Homer Case and some residents adjacent to the area have registered opposition to the proposal as is the Birmingham-Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce.

It would cost Birmingham $2,000 to $3,000 for a special election on the annexation question alone, it was pointed out by the committee.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The firm of MacManus, John and Adams, Inc., announced yesterday that it has acquired a Beverly Hills, Calif., advertising firm, Atherton-Privett.

The announcement came jointly from chairman of the board of MJ&A, Ernest A. Jones, and the president of Atherton-Privett, Alfred A. Atherton.

The acquisition will give MJ&A a Los Angeles office with billings in excess of $6 million. The Bloomfield Hills firm, located at Long Lake and Woodward, now handles $100 million in billings.

5-Day Antismoking Program Slated

Smokers who want to kick the cigarette habit have a chance beginning tomorrow, to participate in a special five-day program to be held at Cray Junior High School, 561 N. Cass Lake, Waterford Township.

Sponsored by the Riverside Seventh-day Adventist Church, 156 University, and the Michigan Cancer Society, the plan consists of regular evening group therapy sessions and a daily personal control plan.

A physician-counselor team will conduct the nightly sessions which will begin at 7:30 p.m. The sessions are offered free. Conducting the group therapy will be Dr. Raymond L. Mayor, 35 S. Johnson, Dr. Robert Williams, director of guidance, Oakland Schools, and Pastor Elmer Malcolm of the Riverside church.

The group sessions will explore physical aspect of the smoking habit, how craving can be lessened, how to strengthen will power, and physical effects of smoking.

BUDDY SYSTEM
A buddy system will be organized to help smokers break the habit.

The Seventh-day Adventist antismoking program, devised three years ago, has enjoyed notable success in major cities across the United States, according to pastor Malcolm.

Seventy-nine per cent of reservation Indians in the U.S. still lead water from outside wells for household use. Nearly 90 per cent of all reservation housing is substandard.

Jury Convicts Pair in Sale of Firm's Stock

NEW YORK (AP) — Financier Louis Wolfson and his business associate, Elkin B. Gerbert, have been convicted of conspiring to unlawfully sell $3.5-million worth of stock in 1960-62.

A U.S. District Court jury of 10 men and 2 women brought in its verdict Friday after deliberating 6 hours.

The government charged that Wolfson, 55, of Miami Beach, Fla., and Gerbert, 58, of Jacksonville, Fla., were "insiders" who illegally sold the stock of Continental Enterprises, Inc., while public investors were unaware of the sale by the two men.

They were convicted on all 19 counts of an indictment accusing them of conspiring in the illegal sale of some 600,000 shares of stock in Continental, a firm once headed by Wolfson.

DROP IN VALUE

Wolfson is chairman of the Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corp. Gerbert is a director and vice president of Continental.

The stock dropped from a high of about $8 a share to $1.50 a share after sales by Wolfson and Gerbert.

Judge Edmund L. Palmieri, who presided at the trial which began Sept. 6, set sentencing for a later date.

The two men each could be given as much as 95 years in prison and fines totaling $95,000.

UNAWARE OF ILLEGALITY

Both Wolfson and Gerbert testified that they were unaware there was anything illegal in the sale of the stock.

Wolfson and Gerbert were indicted a year ago on charges that they willfully violated the Securities Act of 1933 by selling unregistered shares of Continental Enterprises between 1960 and 1962.

The key issue was whether the shares should have been registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission prior to their sale and whether Wolfson and Gerbert knew they should have been registered.

During the trial, a number of stockbrokers testified that they questioned Gerbert as to whether the shares could be sold legally.

600,000 SHARES

The Wolfson interests sold about 600,000 shares between 1960 and 1962, according to records introduced in court. Continental had about 2.5 million shares outstanding at the time.

The act stipulates that no more than 1 per cent of a corporation's outstanding shares may be sold in a six-month period by the individual or group which controls a corporation.

Defense counsel Milton S. Gould depicted Wolfson as "an innocent tycoon" whose financial advisers failed to give him proper advice about the securities law.

Judge Palmieri set bail for Wolfson at $850,000 and for Gerbert at $500,000.

HIGH BOND SOUGHT

Prosecutor Michael F. Armstrong, chief of the U.S. attorney's securities fraud unit here, had sought $1-million bond for each man.

Armstrong presented evidence during the trial that Wolfson netted about $1.3 million on the stocks deals, while Gerbert made about $130,000.

Armstrong accused Wolfson of trying "to generate some cash... He generated $1 million out of the pockets of the public."

Scientists have discovered evidence of a flood of disastrous proportions some 6,000 years ago in the Tigris - Euphrates Valley, probably the one which is related in the account of Noah and the Ark.

Unit Adopts Legal Aid for Poor Program

The war on poverty's legal aid for the poor program has finally been adopted by an agency in Oakland County.

For want of a sponsor, some $50,000 in federal funds almost went unexpended. The money was granted last July, and termination of the program will be Dec. 31 of this year.

The program met delays when the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity sought approval and support from local lawyers.

The County Bar Association Board of Trustees approved the venture earlier this month after an internal struggle.

Such approval was necessary in the procedure to set up the program.

The OEO took the problem to the Legal Aid Society and it was approved yesterday.

DETAILS UNSETTLED

William Wilson, chairman of the society, said details of how the program will be handled are yet to be worked out.

Legal services to the poor will either be offered through the present society setup or a separate agency will be formed, he indicated.

Wilson expressed the same fear was voiced at Wednesday's OEO meeting — that a program would be set up only to find the federal government shutting off funds in the future.

Her Job: 27-Year Muster of Draftees

By MEL NEWMAN
Not long ago, a young man appeared voluntarily at Selective Service Board 67 in the Pontiac State Bank Building, and asked to see the board's clerk.

He was introduced and explained that, as a registrant, he had received a great deal of mail signed "Mary Kelly," and simply wished to meet the woman whose name had become so familiar to him.

Board 67 now has some 19,000 registrants in Bloomfield Township, Birmingham, Troy, Rochester and Pontiac Township.

All communications from the board to these men bear the signature of Mary Kelly, and this has been the case for nearly 27 years.

SPAN OF 3 WARS

Since this period encompasses World War II, the Korean war and the present Vietnam conflict, countless numbers of youths have been processed into the military of deferred from service via Board 67.

It's a wonder that more of them haven't been curious enough to want to meet the signer of their selective service mail.

Miss Kelly's job since 1940, when the most recent Selective Service Law went into effect and Pontiac boards were being organized, has been that of liaison between board and registrant.

As such, she represents the board talking to registrants and is responsible for "telling them how they stand" in respect to the draft.

MAILS GREETINGS

She explains procedures and prerogatives and also mails the "greetings."

That would seem to make Miss Kelly a likely scapegoat for the hostile feelings of some frustrated youths, but isn't the case.

Perhaps it's her concept of the job that has made those 27 years "a pleasant experience."

She explained that it is her aim to see that all registrants are given an opportunity to be dealt with fairly within the law insofar as she is responsible.

NOT MERE STATISTICS

In other words, she does not deal with registrants as mere statistics to be analyzed and filed accordingly.

"I like contact with people," she said, "and the contacts have much more often than not been nice."

"When problems have come up between registrants and the board, we've been able to talk and arrive at an understanding."

It's clear that she injects a personal element into the job. Through the years there have been difficult, though necessary, things for Miss Kelly to be a part of.

"It was hard when so many fathers were drafted at the peak of World War II, and at other times certain people the draft system isn't fair to them," she said.

"But I just want to do the best I can," she added.

And for her, doing this is satisfying aspect of the job. From her 27 years with the board, except for a 1½-year suspension of the draft and three months missed for illness in 1965, she has one overriding impression:

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Con-will go up more than their sumers will spend more in the income.

A high proportion of respondents the center said, continued to think the Vietnam war stimulates the domestic economy. Among all respondents, 31 per cent said they expect prices to go up 5 per cent or more during the next 12 months, 14 per cent expect a rise of 3 or 4 per cent, and 37 per cent forecast a gain of 1 or 2 per cent.

Only 13 per cent did not expect prices to go up and 5 per cent failed to give an estimate.

TAX HIKE EXPECTED

Most expect there may be an increase in income taxes, yet the center reported only about half of those who anticipate an increase think it would have an effect on business conditions.

"Most of the people who foresee effects on business speak of a reduction in demand and practically nobody of a dampening effect of a tax increase on inflation," the center reported.

The center said it disregarded any effects which an automobile strike may have on the economy generally in compiling its statistics.
