Soviet Leaders, Tito Will Confer in Yugoslavia

Khrushchev, Bulganin to Visit Belgrade Late This Month

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai Bulganin will meet Yugoslav President Tito in Belgrade late this month, the Russian government disclosed today. Their talks will precede the Big Four East-West conference expected this summer.

The announcement, carried by the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia, came as a surprise to observers here and abroad.

Independent Communist Yugoslavia has been estranged from the Kremlin since 1948, although relations have bettered in recent months.

The U. S. State Department had no comment on the development. But sources in Washington and London said Yugoslavia had informed Britain and the United States of the impending visit and assured them it reflected no change in the Tito government's policy of good relations with the West.

The United States has furnished Yugoslavia with millions of dollars in economic and military aid since 1948. Tito also has joined in a mutual assistance pact with Greece and Turkey, two members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Among the numerous questions raised by the Soviet announcement was: What advantage do the Russians hope to gain from the Belgrade talks which could be useful in a Big Four parley?

Relations between Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union have been cool since the 1948 break, when the Moscow-led Cominform accused Tito of following "nationalistic" policies instead of the international Communist line.

Although both countries have sought in recent months to "normalize" their relations, Tito has insisted he will maintain his strict independence.

There has been no indication of willingness on Tito's part, however, to come to Moscow to discuss differences. So the visit of the Soviet leaders to Belgrade looks like a case of the mountain going to Mohammed.

President Glows Over Flag Pole

30-Foot Staff Erected at Gettysburg Farm by Republican Club

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Talk about a man being pleased—you should have seen President Eisenhower admire his new flag pole with the Stars and Stripes flying from it.

The pole, about 30 feet high, is on the spacious front lawn of the President's new country home here. The deep blue presidential flag flutters just below the national emblem.

The pole is the gift of the Suffolk County Republican Club of New York State, and it had been put in place shortly before Eisenhower arrived from Washington yesterday to spend the weekend and to help celebrate the 77th birthday of his mother-in-law, Mrs. John S. Doud of Denver.

With a family group gathered around them, the chief executive and Mrs. Eisenhower stood on the glass enclosed patio of their home while he talked to newsmen.

"I can't tell you how pleased I am about those flags," Eisenhower remarked.

Mrs. Eisenhower appeared to be completely recovered from the illness which had caused cancellation of all her engagements the last two weeks. The illness, described by the White House as the aftermath of a respiratory infection, started last March and became a political issue.

On Thursday Mrs. Eisenhower created some excitement in downtown Gettysburg by showing up at a grocery store to do her own shopping. She also visited a five and ten cent store.

The President plans to return to Washington tomorrow evening.

8 Red Countries Sign Army Pact

Soviet, Satellites Set Up 'Eastern NATO' Led by Marshal Konev

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—The Soviet Union and seven East European allies established a unified military command today to rival the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and made Soviet Marshal Ivan Konev the supreme commander.

The eight allies signed a 20-year mutual security and friendship treaty and a protocol placing their military forces under a single command.

A summarized text of the agreement—outcome of a three-day conference here—was read to reporters by Soviet spokesmen after the signing ceremony.

They announced Konev's headquarters will be in Moscow. He is deputy Soviet defense minister.

Deputy commanders will be the defense ministers or other military leaders of the participating nations—the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Albania, Romania, Bulgaria and East Germany.

Snubs 5-Year Pact

CHICAGO (UP)—CIO President Walter Reuther said the CIO United Auto Workers, which he heads also, would not agree to a five-year contract with major automobile firms.

Car Buyer Gets a Bonus; Five Tiny Tots in Trunk

Four of them survived the ride from North Branch, where Hutt recently purchased the automobile.

The animals' mother probably never thought her nest to be mobile, as Hutt probably never suspected of finding the five orphans when he lifted the trunk lid.

The squirrels have lived in their new home, a pasteboard carton lined with cotton, for eight days. Mrs. Hutt feeds them with milk and says they are beginning to eat bits of bread soaked in milk.

Named Nipper, Skipper, Chipper and Zipper, Mrs. Hutt hopes to keep the squirrels and give them proper living quarters when they grow older.

Parents Needn't Fret 31 Days After Shots

WASHINGTON (UP) — Parents whose children have had a shot of polio vaccine and who still are a little uneasy about it can quit worrying after 31 days.

In the unlikely event the shots were going to produce polio, the ailment would show up by then at latest. Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele gave this information in response to a question.

Durand Students to Close Prom With Train Trip

Immediately following the prom, students will board a special train which will take them to Pontiac and back.

Parents feel this dating idea is safer than having their sons and daughters scooting over the countryside in autos.

A special chartered train from the Grand Trunk Western Railroad will take the students on the trip. They will arrive back home at around 3 a.m.

One car will contain a buffet and serve breakfast, two coaches will provide seats and a fourth will be cleared for dancing.

Singapore Chief Probes Murder of U.S. Reporter

United Press Charges Police Ignored Attack by Chinese Mob

From Our Wire Services

SINGAPORE — The governor of Singapore has ordered an investigation of charges nearby police did not go to the aid of United Press Correspondent Gene Symonds when he was killed by a Chinese mob Thursday, it was disclosed today.

Police Commissioner Nigel Morris gave this version of Thursday's incident.

Symonds' taxi was stopped at two police roadblocks and each time warned against going past.

* * *

The first time he ordered the driver to drive on. The second time he told four constables manning the block "I have an important job to do."

Symonds handed the car driver his papers instructing him to go to the police should anything serious happen to him. The correspondent then left the car and walked toward the rioting crowd. They noticed him. He tried to turn back but was then beaten.

Morris said the assault on Symonds took place 330 yards from the last police post. He explained the officers there had orders not to leave their posts on any account.

They notified headquarters by radio of the attack and a police van drove into the area to pick up Symonds.

Charges Against Police Made by UP Official

The allegations against the police were made in New York yesterday by Frank H. Bartholomew, president of the United Press. A verbal UP protest was delivered to police today by officials of the agency in Singapore.

* * *

Singapore was in the grip of a score of new strikes called in protest over police use of firearms against demonstrators.

No clashes were reported today, but the city was tense and authorities feared new demonstrations by the Communist-led Chinese this afternoon. Armored troops patrolled the streets and barbed wire barricades were set up at strategic points.

Police last night and early today interviewed several eyewitnesses who said several policemen failed to help Symonds when left-wing Chinese students beat him fatally with clubs, stones and bottles.

The United States also ordered U. S. Consul General Lampton Berry to investigate the slaying during the riots which have claimed at least four lives and left many others injured. The State Department expressed deep distress at the incident.

Move to Drop Rape Count Denied by Judge Holland

A motion for a directed verdict of guilty of kidnaping was denied yesterday by Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland in the trial of four men accused of abducting and raping a 21-year-old Pontiac housewife last March 6.

The motion was made by defense attorney William Brusstar, of Detroit. The quartet is charged with both kidnaping and rape. If the judge had agreed, the rape charge would have been dropped and the jury instructed to return a guilty of kidnaping verdict.

The trial was adjourned after the morning session until next Tuesday at 9:30 a.m.

Only witness yesterday was Dr. Walter Olson, of Pontiac, who examined the accused men after their arrest. He said one defendant complained of sore knuckles, another of a chest injury and a third of a sore shoulder. The doctor stated he could find no positive evidence of any such injuries.

Dr. Olson said he did treat one for a bruised shin and that two had bruised lips. None was confined to a hospital. Police officers involved in the case, who testified previously, all said they did not mistreat the four or see them physically abused.

They are charged with criminally assaulting the mother of three after pulling her from an auto stuck in mud near South Blvd. while her escort was absent summoning a tow truck.

Clinics Delayed Here Week Ago for Safety Continue Today

Salk polio vaccine shots were administered today to some 9,500 first and second grade children in Pontiac and some areas of Oakland County.

In addition to several in Pontiac, clinics were held in Birmingham, Ferndale, and Waterford Township.

The shots were scheduled a week ago but were delayed just before the start when federal health officials in Washington advised waiting until a further study of vaccine could be completed.

Late Friday the U. S. Public Health Service released vaccine manufactured by the Parke, Davis & Co., at its Rochester laboratories.

Inoculation program today includes children who had not yet had their first shots and virtually completes the first shots in the series for first and second grade children in Oakland County.

At Lansing the state health department said nine new cases of polio were reported in the state the past week, bringing the total this year to 36 as against 43 at this time a year ago.

The department emphasized that none of the cases reported so far in Michigan this year have occurred in children who received the Salk polio vaccine.

Repeating previous warnings, however, the department said that some cases of polio undoubtedly will develop in vaccinated children.

Some children may be in the incubation period of the disease when the vaccine is given. In these cases, it will have little effect.

After a week-long halt for safety rechecking, the federal government has turned loose enough

To Seek Parley in Switzerland

Western Allies Prefer Lausanne as Site for Big 4 Talks in July

VIENNA (INS)—The three Western Allied foreign ministers decided today to propose to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov that a Big Four chiefs of state meeting be held in Switzerland, preferably at Lausanne, in July.

A crowd of approximately 200 Austrians cheered and waved when U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles left the American Embassy today.

A 7-year-old boy wearing "lederhosen," the short leather pants which are a typical Austrian costume, gravely marched up to Dulles and shook hands with him.

Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay arrived in Vienna yesterday from the Paris meetings of the North Atlantic Treaty Organiztion (NATO).

Molotov Due to Arrive in Vienna Later Today

Molotov is expected in Vienna later today for talks with the three Western statesmen. All four are scheduled to sign the state treaty restoring Austrian sovereignty in a ceremony tomorrow.

The Russians and delegates of seven Communist satellite states signed a friendship pact in Warsaw today. It provides for a unified military command under Soviet Deputy Defense Minister Marshal Ivan S. Konev. Molotov, who participated in the conference, flew from Warsaw to Vienna.

Authoritative informants said the Big Three ministers in a two hour meeting this morning agreed to adopt a flexible attitude about a time and place for the Big Four meeting aimed to bring together President Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, French Premier Edgar Faure and British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden.

If Molotov objects strongly to Switzerland they are ready to consider another place such as Stockholm, capital of neutral Sweden.

1½ Cent Boost Begins Sunday

Milk Price to Climb Here; Farm Leader Hits Hike

One dairy here will raise prices on its home-delivered milk by 1½ cents beginning tomorrow morning. Other creameries are expected to follow suit by next week.

On the heels of the milk price hike announcement came charges by a dairy farmer leader that there was no basis for attributing the increase to the reported ending of a milk surplus situation in the area.

Harold Fritz, president of the Romeo local, Michigan Milk Producers Assn., said, "Someone has created a 'shortage.' They have done this at the flush period. It is just an excuse for a raise in prices."

"My own farm's production is up 20 per cent and I've had many calls from farmers in Tuscola and Lapeer counties and they say the same thing: They're producing more milk than ever."

Fritz's statement came after George Irvine, federal milk market administrator, said in Detroit Thursday that consumption in the Detroit area has risen to the point where there is no longer a milk surplus.

Meanwhile, Gordon Hayter, manager of the Sealtest Corp.'s Pontiac division, told the Pontiac Press the price of home delivered standard and homogenized milk would be increased to 22½ cents a quart, effective tomorrow.

The Borden Co., which also has a Pontiac division, has not announced a price increase but indicated it will also go along.

While Hayter agreed with Irvine that there was no longer a milk surplus, the independent manager said he believed only that "we are coming to the point where we won't have so much extra milk available."

An independent local dairy indicated it would go along with others in the price rise.

Fritz said he didn't think it possible to have consumption increase so much as to equal the production increase and create a shortage.

"Our own MMPA plant at Imlay City is beginning to process milk into powdered milk or butter because of the surplus," he said.

Adding confusion to the local milk scene was the price level on half-gallon containers in food stores and supermarkets.

A few independents are still charging the cut-rate 29-cents-a-half-gallon price they began charging two months ago when a price war broke out.

Most other independents are selling in the 33-to-37-cent range, according to Maurice J. Croteau, president of the Oakland County Food Dealers Assn.

No Plan Ready for Local Roads

Schedule Unprepared for $10 Million Work on County Highways

No schedule has been set up for doing the $10,000,000 worth of work the State Highway Department plans in Oakland County this summer and in 1956.

This was indicated in a letter from Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler received by County Plan Commission Highway Engineer Robert A. Larson.

Larson had requested that Ziegler outline his program for the next three or four years in the county.

"We cannot even be sure of a 2-year program ahead," said Ziegler. "We have a terrific volume of extremely emergency work . . . let one year roll around and we might have a section (of road) going to pieces badly so that we have to change our program and may have to change it before the first year is over."

The widening of M24 between Lake Orion and Pontiac, slated for this spring, has been delayed because of difficulties in securing needed right-of-way, the commissioner stated.

Speaking of a proposed freeway he has suggested to run through Oakland County if the toll road plan is killed, Ziegler said the lake area west of Pontiac must be checked carefully to see if a road can be routed through.

A highway-needs study now under way will probably reveal Michigan needs 3½ billion dollars spent on its state trunk lines, he said.

The commissioner blamed slowness in doing planned work and failure to speed road construction on lack of funds.

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — Waterford Township will pay one-third the cost of chloriding roads in the township, or will apply a commensurate sum of money toward the application of oil—but the township will not pay a third of the cost of applying oil, township Supervisor Lloyd Anderson pointed out at a board meeting this week.

Troopers, who said their investigation is incomplete pending a statement by Bauer, reported Dustin was crossing the 4-lane highway from east to west near Silver Circle when he was hit.

Oxford Man Hospitalized After Auto Overturns

John L. St Clair, 20, of Oxford, was reported in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital with a possible concussion suffered when his car overturned in a Seymour Lake Road ditch early this morning.

St Clair, who also received face cuts, told Oakland County Sheriff's deputies he lost control of his car after he ran off the road.

RECOGNIZE LONG SERVICE — Arriving for the dinner in honor of the Rev. J. Frank Green's birthday and in recognition of his 50 years of service to the Christian Church are, (left to right) the Rev. S. V. Mattson of East Lansing, Flint district superintendent; the honoree of Frankfort; the Rev. Duncan D. McColl of the host church, Pontiac, and the Rev. Floyd A. The dinner was held at Bethany Baptist Church last night. The Rev. Green, now retired, is a former state secretary in the denomination.

His Name: Ivan Konev

Beria Trial Judge Heads New East Europe Army

Marshal Ivan Konev, the supreme commander of the new East European Communist unified military command, is the man the Kremlin picked to condemn to death the former secret police chief, Lavrenty Beria.

Konev is the man Joseph Stalin used to replace popular Marshal Georgi Zhukov in 1946 as deputy minister of armed forces and commander of Soviet land forces.

* * *

Konev is the man the present rulers of the Soviet Union—Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai Bulganin—are using as a counterweight against any possibility Zhukov might get too big as minister of defense.

Russians who claim to know say Zhukov has an intense disliking for Konev and Konev reciprocates.

Zhukov is said to consider Konev a poor military leader. One reliable account says that during the most intense phase of the final offensives against Germany in World War II, Zhukov was so fearful Konev would wreck the whole operation with his ineptitude he sent his own chief of staff, Marshal V. D. Sokolovsky, to take over as Konev's chief of staff and run the operation for him.

* * *

But it is clear from the assignment of Konev to preside at the Beria trial that Konev is trusted by Khrushchev and Bulganin. Almost certainly Konev has been involved in some of the intrigues in top Soviet circles before Stalin's death and since.

There has been no official announcement but apparently Konev now holds a post as a first deputy minister of defense—the job from which Zhukov was promoted to become minister. This is the same title held by Marshal Alexander Vasilevsky, another man who is said to have no great love for Zhukov.

The treaty runs for 20 years and will remain in force for 10 years longer unless any participatnt renounces it. The treaty will automatically be dissolved if any all-Europe collective security system is devised.

Salk Polio Shots Are Resumed Today

Several state health officers approved immediate resumption of their mass vaccination programs on receiving word yesterday that the public health service had cleared 11 batches of vaccine made by Parke, Davis & Co.

* * *

Enough for Million

U. S. Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele announced late yesterday that a health service team had completed its recheck of 4,250,000 cubic centimeters of the Parke, Davis product. He said some three-fourths of this total already had been used, but that "over a million more children can now be vaccinated" with the remainder, beginning at once. One shot takes one c.c. of the vaccine.

An estimated 5½ million children already have received the first of a projected three-shot series.

The inoculations came to a temporary stop a week ago pending a plant-by-plant reappraisal by public health service specialists of vaccine manufacturing safety standards.

* * *

Parke, Davis was the first of five pharmaceutical firms to be visited by health service teams. Eli Lilly & Co. of Indianapolis was next on the list and government scientists were reported already at work there.

Park, Davis vaccine produced from now on, the surgeon general said, will be approved or rejected on the basis of reports supplied by the company and in the light of up-to-date information gathered in the rechecking operation.

Nineteen bands were scheduled to take part in a three-hour band review early this afternoon which was to be followed by the parade at 4 p.m.

* * *

Although the festival ends tonight, thousands of persons were expected to visit Holland tomorrow to tour the city's colorful tulip lanes. Most of Holland's millions of tulips are at their peak of beauty.

The Day in Birmingham

Students Get Polio Shots After Delay of One Week

BIRMINGHAM—First and second graders in the school district received their initial shot of the Salk vaccine today, after a one-week delay.

Volunteer doctors and nurses handled the inoculations at Birmingham High School and at Pierce School. In all, some 2,000 eligible students from public and parochial schools in the district bared their arms to the needle.

The program scheduled to be completed last Saturday was called off hours before it began on a recommendation from the U.S. Health Department in Washington.

Teams of experts were sent to producers of the vaccine, including the Parke, Davis & Co., of Detroit, to make scientific checks of procedures followed in production. All of the vaccine used in Michigan for inoculation of children has been produced by that company.

Yesterday, the health department approved for immediate distribution and use 11 batches of the vaccine manufactured by the Parke, Davis company.

Award Judgment in False Arrest Suit

A $100 judgement for false arrest was returned yesterday against Pontiac Police Patrolman Harold Hayden by an Oakland County Circuit Court jury.

Attorney Philip A. Rowston filed suit on behalf of John A. Rodden, of 420 Fourth St.

Hayden had obtained a warrant charging Rodden had left the scene after colliding with Hayden's private auto last Aug. 24 parked outside Rodden's home.

Rodden denied hitting the officer's car. He said Hayden approached him in uniform Aug. 24 and obtained information without first informing him the car in question belonged to the officer.

Rodden was arrested by Hayden, arraigned and released on personal bond after being booked and fingerprinted at the police station, he asserted.

Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan dismissed the case against Rodden Sept. 8 entering an innocent verdict. The false arrest suit was heard before Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty.

Rochester Man Guilty

Shirley Davis, 40, of Rochester, yesterday was found guilty of bad check passing by an Oakland County Circuit Court jury and Judge George B. Hartrick set sentencing for Monday.

Davis' partner, William Worden, 30, of Rochester, previously had pleaded guilty, according to Assistant Prosecutor William E. Lang.

The pair were charged with passing more than $1,104 in bogus checks in a one-month period.

Judge Emett C. Choate yesterday set June 27 for the trial of Duon H. Miller, Coral Gables cosmetics manufacturer, and Polio Prevention, Inc.

* * *

Miller and the polio prevention group he heads were charged 13 months ago by the U.S. district attorney with sending "libelous, scurrilous and defamatory" post cards in the mails to oppose test vaccinations in the fight on polio.

The cards said that "thousands of little white coffins will be used to bury victims of Salk's heinous and fraudulent vaccine"—only recently approved and distributed nationally.

* * *

Advertisements in 1953 signed by Polio Prevention, Inc., attacked the use of gamma globulin as a polio preventive and called the fluid "worthless."

The maximum penalty under the law, if convicted, is a year in prison and $1,000 fine for Miller and a fine of $1,000 for the organization, on each count.

Judicial Handshake Endangers License

OMAHA (UP)—Clarence Brewster, 74, Omaha, was before traffic Judge James O'Brien on a speeding charge yesterday.

"I won't do it again," said Brewster.

Let's shake on it," said Judge O'Brien.

* * *

They did and Judge O'Brien noted Brewster had to use his left hand because his right arm had been injured in a fall six months ago.

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON—3
Adventure on Treasure Island

When the Hispaniola reached Treasure Island, Long John and some of the pirates went ashore and Jim smuggled himself along to spy on them. Unknown to the others, Jim met a marooned sailor named Ben Gunn who was with the pirate chief when the treasure was buried.

The pirates raised their flag, the Jolly Roger skull and crossbones, on the Hispaniola. Squire Trelawney led the loyal crew members to an island stockade. The pirates attacked it. When no one was watching, Jim slipped away and rowed to the ship.

One pirate was there and he threatened Jim with a knife. The boy had to climb fast to the top of the mast to escape death. Jim finally overcame the pirate and took charge of the Hispaniola. Then he went back to the stockade, where he was captured by the pirates. They wanted to kill him but Long John saved his life. Jim found out that his friends had given the pirates the treasure map.

But when the pirates went to the hiding place, they found the treasure gone. They turned angrily on Long John and Jim. Luckily, Jim's friends arrived just then to rescue them. Jim learned that the treasure was hidden in Ben Gunn's cave. He and his friends took the gold, boarded the Hispaniola and sailed safely back to England. Long John escaped with a sack of coins and was never heard of again.

4th Wife Wants Probe of Death

Authorities Rule That Accidental Fall Killed Borg-Warner Heir

PASADENA, Calif. (UP) — Police say that Thomas W. Warner Jr., 40-year-old heir to an auto parts fortune, died as the result of an accidental fall.

But his fourth wife, estranged but not divorced, said through her attorney she wants an inquest to determine whether Warner met death through foul play.

* * *

Her lawyer said she is hiring private detectives to check Warner's activities and companions in the hours preceding his death early yesterday.

Warner, whose father developed the Borg Warner Co., was found dead—his neck broken—at the foot of a 12-foot embankment on his mother's Pasadena estate.

* * *

Police said he apparently plunged through a gap in a hedge along the estate's driveway at the top of the bank.

Marietta Mordue, 36, of South Pasadena, said she let Warner out of her car about 2 a.m. yesterday. She said he had been drinking and that he stumbled once into the hedge—but then got up.

* * *

"He seemed all right," she told detectives. "I told him to go in the house and go to bed. Then I went away."

Mrs. Anita Lipton Warner, fourth wife of the heir, had just returned from a Bahamas vacation. She has been receiving $600 monthly separate maintenance. Her attorney, S. S. Hahn, said that Warner's estate may exceed two million dollars.

Warner's other marriages were to Virginia Warner, Mrs. Jean MacDonald, and actress Anne Sterling. He and the fourth Mrs. Warner separated in 1950.

Medicines of Ancient Times

Oldest Rx's Uncovered

DETROIT (UP) — A University of Pennsylvania professor said today that the oldest known medical prescriptions have been uncovered and translated.

* * *

Dr. Samuel Noah Kramer, research professor of Assyriology at Pennsylvania, said the prescriptions are contained on a clay tablet 3¾x6¼ inches which lay buried 4,000 years in the sands of Mesopotania. He spoke at the annual meeting of the American Association of the History of Medicine.

They were written in cuneiform script, developed by the ancient Sumerians, Dr. Kramer said, and translated by him and Martin Levy, a Philadelphia chemist.

The prescriptions show "a broad acquaintance with chemistry" among the ancients, Dr. Kramer said, and they used material which required skill for preparation.

* * *

The ancient doctor used potassium nitrate, table salt, ground snake skin and turtle shell in his prescription, and he also used botanical preparations made from seeds, bark, roots or leaves of cassia, myrtle, thyme, willow, pear, fir, fig and date, Dr. Kramer said.

Asafetida Included

"The prescriptions reflected the long-standing confidence of the ancients in the odoriferous principles of botanical elements," he continued. "Asafetida was included."

* * *

Dr. Kramer reported that the Sumerian doctor prescribed medicines for internal and external use, mixing oils with external preparations and adding beer or milk to make internal medicines palatable.

"But he failed to name the disease for which the prescriptions were written, and he didn't tell the quantities to be used," which led Dr. Kramer to believe "such information may have been concealed for reasons of professional jealousy."

As best as he could translate, Dr. Kramer said one of the prescriptions read thus: "Pulverize bark of the pear tree and the root of the moon-plant; dissolve it in beer; let the man drink it."

Police to Work Day Off to Pay Stricken Officer

Pierce, married and the father of three children, was to be dropped from the police department payroll tomorrow. He had used up all his sick leave, vacation time and a special 60-day leave.

Patrolman C. M. Leaming informed the stricken policeman yesterday that 52 officers had agreed to work their day off without pay so that Pierce could continue to receive his salary.

Hospitalized since Dec. 30, Pierce said he hoped to be back on the job in another month.

Henry S. Booth Is Doing Fine Work for County

Oakland county residents are indebted to Mr. Henry S. Booth for the tremendous amount of work he has poured into the Oakland Citizens League.

The organization spreads the gospel of good government. This message is sorely needed in practically every county in the United States. It is especially desirable in counties that grow as rapidly as Oakland for so many of the late arrivals are ready to subscribe to the ancient motto: "let George do it."

This same attitude motivates too many of the pioneers and old settlers, also. This country has a tremendous need for a large number of Henry Booths who will battle for better government and give it the all-out try instead of shrugging their shoulders and walking away.

★ ★ ★

The Press wishes to bestow the accolade of achievement on the Bloomfield Hills man. He has carried the league on his own shoulders almost unaided at times. Conscientious voters needed the very aid and help Mr. Booth has been struggling for many years to provide.

★ ★ ★

The organization is progressing but it needs more finances and more assistance. It exists solely for YOUR GOOD AND YOUR HELP. Mr. Booth is not a candidate for office. His work is purely in behalf of better government and better citizenship.

A Black Eye for Boxing

While it still isn't exactly clear what happened to Heavyweight Harold Johnson in his bout with Julio Mederos, it is clear that professional boxing has suffered a black eye.

So far the results of an investigation are contained only in a report by a Pennsylvania Athletic Commission doctor to Gov. Leader. This report blamed Johnson's collapse in the second round on a barbiturate, such as seconal or annembutal.

Gov. Leader, shocked by the implications, quite properly has suspended boxing in Pennsylvania for 90 days except those bouts already arranged. Police narcotics experts are skeptical of Johnson's belief that an orange he ate just before the bout caused his collapse after he clearly had outpointed Mederos in the first round.

This incident should serve as a sharp lesson to those who promote boxing and want to maintain public interest in the sport. Any suggestion that underworld characters are succeeding in doping boxers would doom the professional prize ring as a popular television attraction.

Looking Ahead Into 1975

Arch N. Booth, executive vice president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, is a man who likes to speculate on what American life will be like in 1975.

Whether you think existence already is too complicated or that science could make it much easier, Mr. Booth's predictions should interest you. Some of his forecasts, in fact, already are realities, such as helicopters taking the place of buses in certain kinds of big city service.

One of the things he expects by 1975 is less than three hour air flights from Washington to Paris. Another is the transition of the family automobile from petroleum power to nuclear power with the old bus equipped to spy out traffic conditions electronically and park automatically.

Twenty years hence, in his opinion, things will be considerably different at super markets. Then our groceries will come out to us in hot or cold packages and the bill will be totaled instantaneously at the checkout counters by automatic computers.

Two other advances envisioned by Mr. Booth are of vital interest to housewives. He believes ultrasonic waves will clean dishes and clothes. They already are being used to clean small machine parts in manufacturing plants. Finally, he thinks household lighting will have advanced to the stage where a mere wave of the hand will light up a room.

If one believes Mr. Booth is a visionary, it at least must be admitted that he is a conservative one. Certainly nothing in his list of predictions seems beyond the realm of possibility in 20 years.

The People's Business

Dems Ride Herd

Hound Local Republican Election Officials

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING—Well, the Board of State Canvassers has finally gotten around to deciding who won the April 4 election.

For the past several weeks, the board, now controlled by Democrats for the first time in years, apparently has been stalling and hoping against hope that something would turn up which would show more Democratic candidates winning than actually did.

Their hopes were understandable because of the closeness of the vote in several races and the obvious number of errors shown across the state.

But never before has the board hounded and needled the county clerks as it has this year in an obvious attempt to discredit the existing election machinery.

Since this is the first time that the Williams administration has been in control of the elections process it is interesting to examine its philosophy and tactics.

Democrats, of course, aren't coming right out in public and explaining their strategy, so it is open to misinterpretation. But their program seems obvious.

First, let it be said that many Democrats believe that the Michigan election system outstage gives Republicans all the edge. Their beliefs run all the way from a theory that it is downright crooked to a certainty that it is encrusted with Republican favoritism and inefficiency.

The Williams' administration, supported by plenty of evidence of inefficiency, has pursued a continual policy of attacking the election system by both direct onslaught and by innuendos of malfeasance.

Its aim apparently is, first, to build up public pressure for an overhaul of the election's system; secondly, to scare local election officials who might be tempted to play favorites; and, thirdly, to whip up party morale.

The Democrats have succeeded somewhat in all three fields, probably.

The accumulated weaknesses of many years in the election system came to light in the two Williams' recounts and, coupled with constant Democratic howling, probably combined to bring about the revision of the election laws in the Legislature last year and this.

Without a doubt, Democratic Party workers have been incited by the administration's constant stream of propaganda. The workers have been made to feel that they are the underdogs, that they must work just that much harder.

It is easier to obtain poll watchers and dig up recount money, for instance, if the party feels sure that only its own vigilance will keep it from being cheated.

Secretary of State James M. Hare, the new Democratic head of the elections system, has openly gone beyond his statutory authority in the past election in an attempt to bulldoze the local clerks into what he considers a more equitable operation of elections.

Lacking specific control over the county clerks, Hare has instructed them to select bipartisan election boards and to report the political affiliations of the members. Many ignored him, while others frustrated him by reporting a board full of "Independents."

He has demanded that clerks explain why their official counts differed from the election night counts tabulated by the newspapers.

He has delayed the official certification of the election while he demanded that the clerks give him precinct-by-precinct tabulations—something not required by the law. About half of the clerks replied.

In fact, the Democrats are using their new-found supervision of the election machinery to do what the Legislature has refused to do—belabor local election officials into accepting a more strict state supervision.

And it is obvious that the Democrats would dearly love to catch some veteran Republican county official with his hand in the ballot box. Then the fur would really fly.

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

After reading the letter of 'One Who Cares' in the Pontiac Press, we would like to learn about the cruelty mentioned.

'Organic Farming Brings Big Health Improvement'

Man has ignored God's laws, exploited the land, denuded it of vegetation so that necessary elements such as iodine, potash, phosphates, and many trace elements are leached out of the land. As a result, man's health has deteriorated.

Man also refines much of his food so that it is practically worthless and then to top it off, he sprays everything with deadly poisons.

Return to organice farming and gardening and you will be surprised at the way your health will improve.

Charles Zamek Praises Fix-Up Project Workers

As a former co-chairman of Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce annual Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up project, I want to publicly commend the wonderful job they're doing this year.

I am happy to see that some of the activities that were developed in the past are working well enough to continue them, and some of the new undertakings are terrific. Best of all, Pontiac folks are doing a job too, in cooperating all the way.

There are still a lot of stones unturned, but this is a good-sized city and you can't see everything. That is where the general public can offer more help.

And last but not least, our thanks to the Press. Without the publicity of the local paper, it would be an even rougher job to put over the ideal of better health, fire prevention and civic beautification through a cleaner city.

Again, thanks for a good job well done.

Austria Pact Could Start Soviet Rollback in Europe

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

By signing an Austrian treaty of independence, the Soviet Union is taking a calculated risk. It could backfire to start a Russian rollback in Europe.

This is the opinion of competent European sources close to the situation in the heart of the divided continent.

* * *

The effect upon satellite Communist countries in middle Europe is going to be profound, these sources report. Czechoslovakia and Hungary, both under Communist—and Soviet—rule, have long borders with Austria.

Austria becomes free for the first time since Hitler's anschluss annexed the country in 1938. No Austrian under 30 can have much memory of what national independence means. The nation becomes, in the middle of Europe, a symbol of hope that foreign domination is not a permament thing.

* * *

More than that, however, Austria shows the rest of Europe that it is possible to get rid of the Russians. There have been few such instances in the past, and in those instances the Russian move was forced. That happened in northern Iran in 1946, when the Russians withdrew rather than risk a dangerous international flareup.

The morale of the resistance to communism in satellite Europe is bound to rise. Withdrawal of Soviet troops may increase the contacts people in Czechoslovakia and Hungary have with the free world. It will take at least triple the manpower and safeguards for the Russians and Communists of those two countries to seal off their long borders with Austria and the free world.

* * *

The European security alliance being signed by the Russians and satellite Communists in Warsaw provides the legal framework for the Soviet Union to increase its troops and installations in the satellite countries. But it may require much more open and ruthless suppression to offset the morale effect produced by Austria's emergence as a free nation.

The Russians obviously undertook this risk advisedly. The Soviet Union's own statements demonstrate that Moscow hopes the events in Austria will produce a passion for neutrality among the West Germans, now members of NATO.

* * *

From a purely military standpoint, the Russians had little to lose by leaving Austria. From Hungary and Czechoslovakia, the Communists still control the plans of eastern Austria militarily. At the same time the withdrawal of Western troops denies the strategic western hills to NATO forces and interrupts communications between Germany and Italy. From a political standpoint, the Russians in Austria indicate that something can be gained by negotiation with them.

Much depends on the diplomacy of the next few months. If the Russians succeed in breaking Western European unity, their grip on the satellite world will remain firm. If they do not, the grip could begin to loosen.

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials believe a limited disarmament agreement may eventually be negotiated with Russia even though world wide atomic controls seem a long way off.

Publication of proposals made by the Soviet Union and the western powers at a U.N. Disarmament Committee meeting in London showed today that the two sides are still far apart on the key issue of enforcements.

* * *

Informants said that even if agreement were reached on all other points, the issue of safeguards to prevent an aggressive nation from secretly preparing an atomic war is so vital that there could be no overall agreement unless it also were resolved.

Mother of Grown-up Children Feels Lonely Without Any Visits or Letters

"Feed my sheep," Jesus told us, but the hunger which Ruth demonstrates is just as crucial as the stomach hunger for bread and meat. So dicuss this case tomorrow and make it a project of your Sunday School class to follow the technique described below.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

"Cora, when you don't have anything else to do, please drop me a line," she recently wrote to my wife, who is her niece.

"I certainly like to get mail. It makes me feel blue and lonely whenever I see the mail carrier go past the house without leaving something for me.

"Besides, I think I feel more alone because I used to have the house full of children."

Most of us are far too negligent as regards sending a postcard or letter or appropriate greeting to our relatives and friends.

"What can I do to help my church?" is often the eager query of new members who are imbued with great zeal to make this world a better place.

Well, you can always begin in your own home or even your single rented room if you are a young person living in a dormitory or boarding house.

First of all, tack a calendar on the wall above your writing desk. Then go through it and mark the dates of all birthdays, anniversaries and other occasions on which you should remember your relatives and friends.

Second, lay in a supply of two cent postal cards or three cent stamps. Or if you see some unusually clever greeting cards, don't buy just one. Get a dozen or more so you will have a reserve supply on your desk.

Then resolutely watch your calendar and send off the cards or greetings, with a scribbled note attached.

It will not require five minutes of your busy day. Besides, most of us have several hours which we squander each day, so nobody can alibi that he is too busy to be thoughtful and courteous and kind in this minor manner.

And be sure you drop your parents a letter regularly. Mark this weekly letter as a must on your calendar.

For as parents grow older, they have fewer breaks in the monotony of their daily routine.

The call by the postman is one of these few highlights. Often they will stand around for 15 minutes waiting to see if he will leave them something.

"But I have nothing new to write about," many a thoughtless child will say in defense of his lack of folks. Or he may add:

'I've let them down and am a failure, so I hesitate to write home and disappoint them."

Well, you are disappointing them far more by leaving them worried and uninformed concerning your whereabouts or your routine daily duties.

So change today! Win or lose, at least write home regularly. Tell them you are well, if nothing else. And ask them about their daily affairs.

Even if you are not a whiz as a letter writer, at least clip interesting comments, jokes or even these case records from your newspaper and enclose them.

Be liberal with honest compliments. Tell your aged parents you wish you were home and able to have some of the old-fashioned cookies or cup cakes your mother can make so well.

For it is actual cruelty, though usually unintentional, to penalize old folks by letting the mailman go past their house without stopping.

And many teenagers, away at school or in the Army, likewise grow very hungry for even a single postal card. Sometimes in desperation they fill out coupons for advertisng booklets or free souvenirs, just so they will receive mail.

Therefore, mark up your calendar now and start being thoughtful about the desire for mail which your friends and relatives experience.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his psychological charts.

Days of All Faiths

'Rural Day Sunday' Points Out Relationship of Man as God's Agent in Soil Cultivation

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Rural Life Sunday, which is observed May 15 by member-churches of the National Council of Churches, is a fairly new item in American Protestant life, although it goes back to the sixth century in the Roman, Anglican, and Lutheran traditions.

Since 1929 this fifth Sunday after Easter has been set aside by the National Council, and its predecessor the Federal Council, as a day of prayer for farm people and a day of emphasis on the relation of Christianity to the agricultural life.

The council will make available to its members in both country and city churches a form of service in which they will stress the fact that all land belongs, of course, to God, Who created it, and that man cultivates and uses the soil only as God's agent. The point to be brought out is that man is responsible to God for the preservation and conservation of all natural resources.

In earlier times men brought no such philosophical considerations into their spring prayers. They simply prayed for a good growing season.

The gospel for the day (one of the Bible readings in the mass) which has been a part of the service since ancient times, begins "Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my name, He will give it to you" (John 16:23). Acting upon this definite statement, Christians of a less sophisticated age proceeded directly to ask for what they needed and wanted most: good crops.

May 16 is the anniversary of a saint who, though almost forgotten now, once stimulated the imagination of all adventurous people. His name was Brendan, and his record is so over-laid with fanciful legend that there is good reason to wonder whether he ever actually existed in real life.

In mediaeval times everyone knew about St. Brendan and his fantastic voyage in search of the Earthly Paradise. The story was that this great man, an abbot ruling over 3,000 monks at Clonfort, Ireland, during the sixth century, set out in a small boat with a little group of companions and sailed for seven years.

The tales he brought back—or at least the things people made out of what he said—were as wonderful and unlikely as were most travelers' stories in those times.

It was said that in one of the places Brendan visited, even the birds and animals he met were Christians, observing the regular feasts and fasts of the church.

It is possible that Brendan and his friends did reach the Canary Islands. Everyone in those times believed that the Earthly Paradise would be found on an Atlantic island, and for many years old maps used to show a St. Brandon's (or San Borandan's) island just to the west of the Canary group.

Always 40 days after Easter, and therefore always on a Thursday, is Ascension Day, the commemoration of the Lord's departure from earth and return to His heavenly source. Tradition says that day must always bring fair weather, for it is the day on which Jesus "kissed the clouds."

Some people have for centuries called this Holy Thursday, which causes some confusion because other people, notably the Roman Catholics, use the name referring to the Thursday before Easter.

The site of the ascension (see Acts, chapter 1, first 12 verses, for the story) has always been assumed to have been Mount Olivet, just outside Jerusalem. An ancient legend told that on the stone of this hill there were plainly visible the footprints Jesus made in the rock as He left the earth.

Early Christians constantly made pilgrimages to the spot to kiss these sacred marks and even the reliable Jewish historian Josephus mentions these footprints as if they and their miraculous presence were common knowledge.

Estate Includes Check Signed by A. Lincoln

DENVER (AP)—A check for $1 signed by Abraham Lincoln to his son Tad was ordered distributed by the County Court yesterday as part of the assets of a $72,000 estate.

Under terms of the will of Mrs. Maude E. Stoddard, her estate was to be divided equally among four children. Thus, each child owned an equal interest in the document with other old letters and publications.

* * *

William E. Doyle, attorney for the estate, said each of the four children submitted a sealed bid for the check. Mrs. Everlyn S. Gourley of Los Angeles was high bidder at $360.

The check is dated Sept. 6, 1861, and is drawn on Riggs & Co. of Washington, D.C. It is payable to "Master Tad" and is signed "A. Lincoln."

* * *

According to legend, the President would write a check to Tad whenever the boy was sick or his father wanted a favor. Tad never would cash the checks, but Lincoln would give him a gold dollar for its return.

The check was left to Mrs. Stoddard by her husband, Xerxes T. Stoddard Sr., a U.S. Mint employe, who died in 1951. Mrs. Stoddard died Feb. 9, 1954.

Legislator's In-Law Too Eager for Bill

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—Sen. Nelson Woodson turned toward Sen. Jack Blythe in the North Carolina General Assembly yesterday, telegram in hand.

A bill sponsored by Blythe would require children to support their parents.

"I got this telegram from my father-in-law in Martinsville, Va.," Woodson said. He read: "Regarding support of parents bill, please let me have my May check by 15th."

AMA President Hits Polio Panic

Thinks More Children Killed by Cars Than by Infantile Paralysis

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The president-elect of the American Medical Assn. told reporters yesterday that "sometimes, I can't see why we get so hysterical over polio."

Dr. Elmer Hess, Erie, Pa., urologist, said it was his belief "more children are killed by automobiles in a month than are killed by polio in a year."

"Perhaps it's time to get hysterical over traffic deaths," he said.

Dr. Hess is in Los Angeles to address a local medical group. He will be installed as AMA president June 7 in Atlantic City, N.J.

"It must be admitted that unusual methods were employed to announce the discovery" of the Salk antipolio vaccine, he said. "Most frequently great scientific advances aren't announced with quite so much acclaim," he added.

He said that the AMA was asked to approve the vaccine two weeks before the report was publicized. "We declined to approve unless we could have an advance copy of the report for study," he said. "The first chance the AMA had to obtain information was at a breakfast held only two hours before the report was publicized."

INSURANCE for Your NEW HOME

You're buying a new home! It's a wonderful experience and will bring you happiness for many years to come.

A most important part of the deal is your INSURANCE POLICY.

Where Should You Buy Your Insurance?

Under law, you have the right to buy your insurance from the agent of your choice. Unfortunately, there are out-of-town builders who will tell you that you must buy their insurance. If any such inference is made to you, ignore it.

It Pays to Deal With a Friend

Your local agent can give you immediate service in case of need. He will give you friendly service, because he is your neighbor. He will give you the best possible rates. Give him a call before you sign with some distant agent.

What About Insurance Renewals?

If you have already purchased a home, you still have a right to buy your insurance from the agent of your choice. You can solve the problem of long distance calls and correspondence by switching to your own agent at the expiration of your present policy.

IT PAYS TO DEAL WITH LOCAL, WELL-ESTABLISHED FIRMS!

Bride Wears Gown of Swiss Organdy

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Living white dogwood trees graced the entrance to the aisle and to the chancel of Christ Church Cranbrook this afternoon at four o'clock when Nancy Elisabeth Trumbull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Titus Trumbull of "Springwood" Bloomfield Hills, became the bride of William David Seibert.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd D. Seibert of Rosedale Park.

The bride wore a gown of white Swiss organdy richly embroidered in sprays of lilies of the valley. Cut in many layers over petticoats, a rippling effect was produced in the full skirt.

The polonaise type bodice was appliqued in light scroll embroidery around the deep square neckline and short sleeves.

Veil Is Fastened to Carnegie Hat

The short illusion wedding veil was fastened to a little organdy Carnegie hat embroidered in valley lilies and a small cascade of lilies was tucked under the veil in back.

Mrs. Harold A. Lynch Jr. was matron of honor and her small daughter, Deborah Lynch, was flower girl. Bridesmaids were Mrs. George T. Trumbull Jr., Mrs. Henry Whiting Jr., Mrs. Harold J. Stenglein Jr., Mrs. Charles E. Getler, Mrs. Frederick M. Warner II and Elizabeth Boyne.

Wear Tina Leser Gowns

They all wore short Tina Leser models of white eyelet embroidery over powder pink. The bodices, with waist and shoulder lines of pink velvet ribbon, topped full skirts and short boleros of pink cashmere with small eyelet collars were worn.

Tiny hats of the same eyelet embroidery had bobbing flowers from back to front and they carried Enchantress geranium buds outlined in variegated geranium leaves.

John J. Seibert was his brother's best man and ushers included George T. Trumbull Jr. and Elliott Trumbull, brothers of the bride, Robert T. Sheppard, John J. Albert, Donald A. Frankman and Dr. Bruce W. Squiers.

Mrs. Trumbull wore a Hattie Carnegie model of navy taffeta, a close fitted jacket over a short, princess gown. Her hat of navy straw had a bow of white mink and parma violets lightly scattered with paillettes.

Mrs. Seibert wore a gracefully draped gown of navy crepe with a deep square neckline. Her hat was of pink straw and she wore pink cymbidium orchids.

Reception Held at Country Club

Pink blossoms in crystal champagne glass shaped containers and tubs of pink blossom dogwood trees decorated the reception rooms of Bloomfield Hills Country Club for the bridal reception and in the ballroom individual tables held white birdcages filled with pink and white blooms.

On the bridal table a white cage with white flowers was surmounted by a white cockatoo with many narrow ribbons running from it to vases at each end of the table.

For her wedding trip to Bermuda the bride wore a navy sheath under a long fitted coat of sheer navy wool. Her hat and gloves were white. On their return the couple will live in Birmingham.

Married this afternoon at Christ Church Cranbrook were Nancy Elisabeth Trumbull and William David Seibert. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Titus Trumbull of Bloomfield Hills, and his parents are the Floyd D. Seiberts of Rosedale Park.

Garbo: The Legend and the Lady

Greta Makes First Talking Picture, 'Anna Christie' With Veteran Actors

By JOHN BAINBRIDGE

As queen of the movies, Garbo found herself at the close of the 1920s in the uneasy situation that is the lot of all who wear a crown. Hollywood was in the throes of a revolution set off by the advent of talking pictures.

Old favorites whose voices failed to satisfy the demands of the new medium were banished. To survive in the new order was hard enough for stars whose native tongue was English.

For non-English-speaking players, like Pola Negri, Emil Jannings and a great many other Europeans, the challenge posed by American talkies proved impossible to meet. Foreign talent departed from Hollywood in large numbers. What fate, moviegoers anxiously wondered, lay in store for the queen of the movies when she, too, was required to speak?

Neither Garbo nor MGM showed any inclination toward haste in providing an answer to this question. In fact, Garbo's last silent picture, The Kiss, went into production almost two years after The Jazz Singer, the first feature-length talking picture, was released.

Public enthusiasm for the talkies had become so marked by the end of 1929, however, that Metro decided Miss Garbo's speaking debut could not wisely be longer delayed.

Though its morality had become somewhat outdated by the end of the roaring Twenties, the play offered one distinct advantage to Miss Garbo: as Anna, she played a young woman who had been brought to America from Sweden as a child. Garbo's accent could thus be turned into an asset.

Garbo Has First Talking Picture

In her first talking picture Garbo was up against a supporting cast made up of players with long stage experience. George Marion, who created the role in the original Broadway production, played Anna's father.

Charles Bickford was cast as Matt Burke, the Irish sailor who falls in love with Anna but is repelled upon learning of her scarlet past, which she describes as the time she "worked in a house in Sain' Paul." The part of Martha Owen, the boozy wharf rat, was entrusted (and, as it turned out, with great wisdom) to sixty-year-old Marie Dressler, who made her first appearance at the age of five.

* * *

Anna Christie opened at the Capitol Theater in New York on March 30, 1930. The dedicated Garbo admirers who packed the theater waited with breathless anxiety for the monarch's first words. To prolong the suspense, Clarence Brown, who directed the film, shrewdly delayed Garbo's appearance until the picture was well into the second reel.

Finally, the door of the "ladies' entrance" of a waterfront saloon opens and there stands Garbo. She is wearing nondescript clothes, she looks wan, and she carries a battered suitcase. For nearly a full minute she doesn't speak. Putting down the suitcase, she slouches over to a table and wearily sits down.

* * *

A waiter approaches. At last, Garbo utters her first words: "Gimme a visky. Ginger ale on the side." As the waiter goes to fetch her drink, Garbo turns her head to call after him, "And don' be stingy, ba-bee."

Garbo's first speaking performance, described by one critic as "the most eagerly and fearfully awaited cinema event since the talking pictures got into their stride," was a triumphant success. Her voice was described as "alluringly deep-toned," "sensationally effective," and as a "haunting, husky growl."

Her acting was also greeted with plaudits. Of all the tributes showered on Garbo for her interpretation of Anna, probably none was less unrestrained than that of Robert E. Sherwood, the distinguished playwright and biographer.

He began his review of Anna Christie by observing that the MGM publicity department was advertising Greta Garbo as 'the greatest living actress," "While it is always a pleasure to any critic to dispute the extravagant claims of the press agents," wrote Sherwood. "I find myself unable, on this occasion, to utter a word of protest . . . An actor or actress to deserve that most misapplied of all epithets, 'great,' must possess intelligence, grace and power in high degree.

"Miss Garbo is liberally endowed with the three essential qualities. Her intelligence and grace were revealed in all her silent films, from The Torrent to The Kiss. Her intense power bursts forth for the first time in Anna Christie."

"Isn't It Terrible?"

Garbo did not agree. She was not pleased with Anna Christie. Because of her practice of never looking at the daily rushes, she did not see the picture until after it was completed. She attended a showing of it with her friends Jacques Feyder and Wilhelm Sorensen at a theater in Beverly Hills. "Isn't it terrible?" she whispered to them time and again as the picture unfolded. "Who ever saw Swedes act like that?"

Her displeasure and agitation increased as the film progressed. With her friends she walked out long before it was over. Though disappointed in her own performance, Garbo was greatly impressed with Marie Dressler's. The morning after she had gone to see Anna Christie, Garbo drove to Miss Dressler's home and presented the veteran comedienne with a large bouquet of chrysanthemums.

The reception of Anna Christie proved that Garbo talking was an even more magical figure than Garbo mute. MGM was vastly relieved. Garbo's contract had two more years to run. During that time, Metro attempted to make capital out of its most valuable property by keeping her almost constantly at work.

* * *

In twenty-four months Garbo completed six pictures in rapid succession: Romance, Inspiration, Susan Lenox: Her Fall and Rise, Mata Hari, Grand Hotel and As You Desire Me. None added much to her reputation. Only "the greatest living actress" could have survived the banality of most.

In the majority of these films Garbo played her now familiar role—"the unhappy heroine of many amours, who finds that true, and rather infantile, love has entered her life and thereupon proceeds to suffer and suffer." Nobody, it was acknowledged, could suffer more beautifully than Garbo.

Still, some filmgoers who were not confirmed Garbo addicts began to feel that enough was as good as a feast. Only in As You Desire Me (the screen version of Pirandello's mystical play) and in Grand Hotel (which also starred John Barrymore, Joan Crawford, Wallace Beery, Lionel Barrymore and Jean Hersholt) did Garbo have a vehicle of any consequence.

* * *

The rest of the half dozen pictures added up to a series of personal triumphs over material that ranged from commonplace to ludicrous. It was a tribute to her "exasperating enchantment" that she came through this spate of mediocre pictures bearing the title, conferred upon her by the New York film reviewers, of "The Magnificent One."

Sickens of 'Bad Women's Roles

Throughout this artistically lean era Garbo was quite constantly unhappy not only over the roles she was given but over her interpretation of them. She had long since sickened of playing what she had earlier called "bad womens."

In her anxiety to be cast in a different, challenging role she had argued with Louis B. Mayer and wrangled with Harry Edington, her business manager and agent—eloquent indications of her deep concern, for she has always abhorred being party to a quarrel.

* * *

But Metro seemed to take the position that people went to see a Greta Garbo movie to see Greta Garbo, and the corporate mind could not be changed. It was the old story, always accentuated in Hollywood of the artist and the money-changers.

The somnambulistic quality of Garbo's acting during this period did not arise alone from repugnance over her stereotyped roles and an unconscious desire to escape from them. The sense of remoteness that she revealed on the screen had its origins also in her personal life.

To the few people who knew her, she seemed to have become even more remote, moody and troubled. Her professional acquaintances saw this side of her character only on rare occasions, as, for instance, the time a director approached her on the set where she had been working for many hours.

"You look tired, Miss Garbo," he said. "You'd better go home. You must be dead." There was a long pause before she replied, "Dead?" she finally said. "Dead? I have been dead many years."

Mrs. R. T. Estabrooks Uses Pastry Mix for Cornish Pasties

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Pasties might be considered a Michigan dish, especially in the Upper Peninsula. Mrs. Robert Estabrooks shares her recipe for pasties with us today. She uses a prepared pie crust mix and says her husband definitely approves. That trick may spur more of you to make the little meat pies.

Mrs. Estabrook's current enthusiasm is Girl Scouting. With twin daughters in the troop, she has a double incentive. As a lover of all outdoor activities, Mrs. Estabrook is in her element. She says the entire family participates happily in all kinds of sports, winter and summer. She also does church work.

CORNISH PASTIES

By Mrs. Robert Estabrooks

1 package prepared pie crust mix
1 pound diced beef
½ pound diced pork
Sliced potatoes
Chopped onions
Salt and pepper

Make pastry as directed on package. Divide into 4 pieces and roll into 9-inch circles. On half of each circle place a half-inch layer of sliced potatoes. Season with salt and pepper. Over this place a thin layer of chopped onion. Top each with ¼ of the meat mixture and season again. Dot with butter or margarine.

Fold the uncovered portion of the pastry circle over the filling and crimp and seal the edges. Make a one-inch slit in the top of each pasty and place on a greased cookie sheet. Bake at 400 degrees for 1 hour. Eat out of hand.

This amount of pastry and filling may be used to make 2 larger pasties in pie tins.

One hundred members and guests of the Colonial group of the First Congregational Church attended the sixteenth annual May Breakfast Friday morning. Mrs. D. R. Wilson was hostess and general chairman of the affair, held in the ball room of the Casa del Rey.

The speaker of the day, Rabbi Sanford E. Saperstein of Temple Beth Jacob presented a few highlights from the sermon that won him the Freedom Foundation award recently.

"There are," he said, "two Americas . . . one we see and one we are constantly rediscovering. It is this second America that is more nebulous, that keeps disappearing, and that we must continually look for.

The ideal of this America is the betterment and progressive improvement of all men everywhere.

"Religiously committed people must translate their ideals into daily living. Here in Pontiac there are several jobs that could be done.

Need a Survey or our Community

"We need a community survey to find out just what kind of a city we live in; how we stack up with other communities; and how we meet the needs of our citizens."

Rabbi Saperstein went on to discuss the needs in housing that a city like Pontiac has. He discussed also the need for a growing understanding among all peoples in the community and mentioned the Round Table of Christians and Jews as one means of achieving this understanding.

"Let us learn the message from the 133rd Psalm before it is too late," concluded the Rabbi, "Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!"

WHAT HAPPENS AFTER DEATH?

In a few score years, all who read these lines will have vanished from the face of the earth.

Every day, almost a hundred thousand human beings finish their earthly span and pass off into the vast beyond. That our turn will come we all know, but when and where and how we cannot be sure.

No merely human being ever has been able to look into eternity and tell us what it is like. No scientific knowledge or scientific instruments can pierce the curtain that divides this world from that into which all of us must eventually journey.

All we know about God's eternal plans for us... all we know about what lies beyond the grave... comes from the God Who made us and to the extent He has seen fit to reveal it to us.

But we can face eternity without fear. For we do have a definite answer to the mystery of death. With the facts God has put at our disposal through the inspired books of the Old and the New Testaments, the Catholic Church always has given, and gives today, a definite answer to the tremendously important questions raised by the fact of death.

Man's life in this world, the Church tells us, is a preparation for the world to come... a testing-time which ends with our death. What happens after that depends on whether death finds us loyal to God, or opposed to Him and the way He expects us to live. "... it is appointed unto men once to die and after this the judgment" (Heb. IX:27).

Christ gave us (Matt. XXV) a description of God's judgment which leaves no room for doubt that our worthiness of everlasting reward will be judged solely according to the way we have lived our lives on this earth.

Death does not bring merely a long, unconscious slumber, but rather a quick awakening to the irrevocable judgment of our Creator. Nor does it bring us a second chance to prove ourselves or to amend our erring ways. In our own hands rests the opportunity ... and upon our own heads the responsibility ... to determine if death shall be the threshold to everlasting life among the blessed, or among the lost.

Men blessed by youth and good health often feel that death for them is far away—something to be worried about only in the twilight years. Some scoff at the suggestion that an everlasting hell could be permitted by a merciful God. Others seem to think that God will treat them kindly if they live reasonably moral lives, even though they pay Him no special honor which is His due.

But whatever they think ... however they avoid the question ... all men must eventually face the fact of death. To think about it wisely ... and in time ... is the most important thing in our lives. If you would like more information on this subject ... on Heaven, Hell, Purgatory, the end of the world and the resurrection and judgment of all men ... we shall be happy to send you an interesting pamphlet free of charge. Write today for Pamphlet No. 14—KC.

New Churches to Open in June

Services to Be Held in Community House School Building

The Mission Board of the Michigan District (Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod) will open two new churches in Oakland County this summer. One of the mission churches will be located in the Westacres community on Commerce Lake road, where services will be conducted at the Westacres Community House, 7200 Cedar Bank.

Opening day services will be held on Sunday, June 12, at 11:15 a.m. Sunday School classes will begin a week later, Sunday, June 19, at 10:15 a.m. The Community House will only be a temporary place of worship, and a permanent chapel will be constructed in the very near future on a site located between Green Lake road and Hiller road.

The second mission church will be located at the junction of Square Lake, Franklin, and Telegraph roads, where services will be conducted in the Tuscarora Grade School building, which the mission board just recently purchased.

Extensive repairs and redecorations are in progress on the school building. Regular church services and Sunday School classes will be conducted there as soon as preparations are completed.

The Rev. William C. Grafe, of 3533 South Elder, Westacres, will be in charge of both missions. Mr. Grafe formerly ministered to three congregations in North Central Wisconsin.

Minister Celebrates 21st Year at Church

The Rev. Ford B. Reed, pastor of New Hope Baptist Church is observing his 37th anniversary in Pontiac and his 21st year at New Hope, all this month. Special programs, guest speakers, choirs and soloists will be a part of the celebration.

Sunday at the morning and afternoon services, the ushers will have charge of the planning of the service. At 8 o'clock tomorrow night, the Rev. R. W. Wright of the Mt. Zion Baptist Church of Detroit will preach.

Next Sunday several pastors' wives and a local minister are responsible for the program.

Confident Living

Unruly Children Taught Art of Creative Prayer

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

A school teacher in Massachusetts was "sick and tired of teaching." Her new fifth grade class had brought with them from the fourth grade the reputation of being usually hard to handle.

She looked at them that first day and told herself that this was undoubtedly the dumbest and most unpromising group of children she had every seen. The job ahead of her seemed to be an impossible one.

DR. PEALE

But then, fortunately for her and for the children, she had an inspiration. She stood before her class and said: "Listen, children. God is broadcasting today."

This was a new idea to them and they looked puzzled.

One boy put up his hand. "You dial to the number of the station or channel and tune in."

"That's right," she agreed. "So we'll tune in on God and see what He has to say."

She sat down in her chair. "Bow your heads," she instructed. Keep your eyes and your mouths closed. And listen hard."

A little while later, she said: "The broadcast is over. What did you receive?"

There was no answers and she went on to their regular lessons. But the next day she tried this again and continued to try it for several days more.

Finally, one day, when she asked, "What did you receive?" a hand went up.

A boy said, "I got the idea that if I worked harder I would do better in school."

Parents Become Curious

Then a girl put up her hand, "I am so silly," she confessed. "I giggle all the time. I get the idea that if I stopped that, maybe I could do better work."

The next day, she got even more such answers and their number increased as the days passed. Soon parents began coming to her to ask about "this business of God's broadcasting," for the children were talking about this curious new idea at home.

"Now we're tuning in to God's wave-length every day at our house," some of the parents told her, "and it means a lot to us."

That class, which seemed so difficult at first, ultimately became the best in that school. And the message those children brought to their parents established a pattern that helped to revolutionize several of their homes.

Their teacher, who had complained of being sick and tired of teaching and who was about to try something else, is now one of the most effective teachers in the state. She got a new enthusiasm for her job.

Great Things Happen

Great things happen to people when they get on God's wave-length. It has life-revolutionizing effect to listen to God's broadcast each day for answers and insights to life's problems.

This direct but silent communication with the Almighty is a form of creative prayer in which you open your mind to God and let spiritually guided answers put you right. When really used such prayer changes conditions and throws off every defeat, as many have proved.

Getting on the right spiritual wave-length is the art of creative prayer and it can lead one to a better life than heretofore experienced.

It has the effect of releasing new powers, so that you can find indeed that there are no limits to your possibilities.

Missionary to Jamaica Becomes Pontiac Pastor

The Rev. Trenton Harrison Staton, former missionary to Jamaica, B. W. I. has assumed his new duties as pastor of the First Open Bible Church, 1517 Josyln Rd.

"Other Sheep Have I," will be the topic of his sermon tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. In the evening at 7:30, he will show moving pictures of his missionary work in St. Thomas and St. Croix, Jamaica.

For the past two years, the Rev. Mr. Staton has worked in Jamaica ministering to the people outside the cities. An orphanage and Bible School were built to care for the homeless and a school to equip young people to help themselves.

The mission was connected with the "Jamaica Livestock Association." This group taught the natives how to grow better hogs and helped them establish a meat processing plant.

The plant is an outlet for labor and it teaches the youth how to cut meat and process it.

The Rev. Mr. Staton said it was hard to preach to hungry people and to those who have no hope of helping themselves. More than 30 businessmen joined in the venture, with the main idea of helping the poor man in the bush.

Many churches were built and Sunday Schools grew from 0 to 500.

REV. TRENTON H. STATON

Starting his ministry in Ottuma, Iowa, Mr. Staton has served churches in Sioux City, DesMoines and Highland Park, Iowa and Toledo, Ohio, besides his work as a missionary.

He attended high school in Ottouma, Open Bible Standard College in Des Moines and also took a post graduate course there.

The Rev. Mr. Staton is married to the former Thelma Rose and has three children, the Rev. Ronald Staton of Bradford, Pa., Betty Ann of Eugene, Oregon and Cathy Ann, at home. The Statons make their home at 2597 Genes Drive.

Vivian Scott to Play

The Rev. J. Allen Parker, pastor of the Newman AME Church announces that a member of his congregation, Vivian Scott, well known concert pianist, will present a recital at the Pontiac High School June 5th.

The proceeds will benefit the building fund of her church.

35 Voice Choir to Sing Sunday

Members of Chorus Come From Churches of New York State

Coming for the festivities next week at Trinity Baptist Church will be the Rev. and Mrs. Richard H. Dixon Sr., parents of the pastor of the church.

A musical concert will be presented Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock by the combined choirs of two churches from New York State.

The choir is composed of members of the First Baptist Church in Lackawanna, N. Y. where the Rev. Mr. Dixon Jr. has been pastor and members of the Second Temple Baptist Church in Buffalo, N. Y., the present pastorate of the Rev. Mr. Dixon Sr.

Mrs. Dixon studied under Dr. Robert Betgood and has been a staff member of the Neal-Clark Music House.

The program will consist of classical songs, favorite hymns and spirituals, with Mrs. Loverta Hart, and Toni Tollerson, soloists.

There will be no charge and the public is invited. The week's program is to honor the pastor, the Rev. Richard H. Dixon Jr.

Church to Have Revival

Revival meetings will be held at the Bethlehem Temple, 533 Franklin Rd. beginning Monday night and will continue through May 22.

The Rev. R. A. Corr announces that Elder R. A. Wauls of San Antonio, Texas will be the evangelist. Members of the church will assist with the music.

Robins Don't Sing to Please Us Humans

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Despite what the poet says, the robin probably only sings for two reasons, neither of which is human pleasure.

* * *

Harry W. Hann, assistant professor of zoology at the University of Michigan, tells us why the male robin sings so frequently.

First, says Prof. Hann, he's letting wifey know where he is. Second, he's telling all other robins in the area to stay away from this place, it's his home.

Wife robin in the meantime is busy with the nest. Frequently the male, her husband, lends a hand with gathering material. Sometimes he condescends to carry some himself.

It's Wifey's Work

But for the making the home, that is the nest, the major share of the work falls to the female. She rotates and shakes her body violently, shaping the nest interior. With every trip for material, the direction in which she turns is said to be different.

Finally as things begin to take shape, she spends more and more time just resting. After the eggs are laid, the resting becomes the order of the day, keeping the eggs warm.

After the eggs hatch, Papa Robin joins Mama Robin in the enormous task of bringing home large quantities of caterpillars, cutworms and earthworms to the hungry small fry.

Feeding is really a problem, since the young birds nearly double in weight the day after they've hatched. After 10 to 12 days, they're ready to leave the nest, by now nearly full grown.

Time for Worry

If their parents ever worry, this is the time to do it. Many of the young robins are destined to become prey for a variety of enemies, one of which is the common house cat.

Papa has to help with the feeding of the fledglings even after they've reached this stage, especially if this is the first brood.

* * *

Mama has gone back to nest-making to prepare for a second batch of baby robins. Sometimes she has to go back for a third.

Teen Problem Solved in Milan

Young Villagers Set Up Program of Wholesome Saturday Night Fun

MILAN, (AP)—When you ask what on earth the young people do for excitement in the village of Milan, you'd better smile.

* * *

For while many large — and smaller cities too—worry about juvenile delinquency, the teenagers in this small Monroe County community have a regular program of recreation that they themselves have set up.

Instead of raising cain on Saturday night, the town's young folk take over the village Community House. Music for dancing is by juke box. Pool addicts have two tables on the third floor to practice their skill. On the ground floor it's ping-pong tables.

It's a gay, noisy but well-chaperoned place. Two pairs of parents look after things. A committee of youths is in charge of lining up the chaperones.

Joined by Teenagers From Other Towns

In the last few years word spread around that such a good time could be had by all that teenagers from Ann Arbor, Dundee, Ypsilanti and Adrian traveled to Milan to join the fun.

But because some of the visitors were rowdy and they crowded out the town kids, new rules went into effect this year barring outsiders unless they're personal guests of card-holding members.

The Community House youth program is run by the teenagers with officers they elect themselves. The officers work with the adult youth guidance committee of the Milan Community Council.

The teenagers make and enforce their own rules; smoking is allowed but no drinking; anyone who leaves the building during the evening is not permitted to return; lights out at midnight so youngsters can get home by the 12:30 village curfew.

Teen 'Rec' Program Almost Self-Supporting

The Milan Community Council helps with financing the center's activities, but so many youngsters belong that their yearly membership fee of $1 makes the program virtually self-supporting.

* * *

Success of the program has led other lower Michigan communities to inquire into the setup with a view to organizing similar fun for their own young people.

Rich diets common to many American families are blamed for the high percentage of heart diseases.

Peggy and Mother Share Housecoat on New York Trip

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Peggy King and her mother flew in from Hollywood and Peggy promptly got a hansom cab and showed her mother Central Park.

I've covered a couple hansom cab rides before, but never with Peggy King. So I went along.

"Mother left Daddy alone back in Ohio for the first time in 27 years and came to Hollywood to visit me," said the Judy Garland-looking little gal on the George Gobel show. "We phoned him we'd take three days more to see New York and he said, 'Oh, no!"

WILSON

We were riding up around 72d St. where it sure does look purty this time of year.

"I think I'm gonna learn to sing louder so I can come to New York and do a show!" enthused Peggy. Her mother said she liked this place more than anywhere she'd been.

"Tell him some of the movie stars you met in Hollywood," Peggy told her mother.

Her mother, Mrs. Margaret King—Peggy's also Margaret—a small, quiet woman with glasses, mentioned Walter Brennan, Fred Astaire, Gale Storm, Charles Farrell, and others.

Johnny Mercer took her to dinner," Peggy said. "And Dinah Shore—well, she took five minutes saying 'Aren't you proud of Peggy?'"

"And I met George Gobel," Mrs. King spoke up.

★ ★ ★ ★

"George is very shy," Peggy said when we stopped to take some pictures around the lake. "Mother has a parakeet that says 'I'll be a dirty bird' and George laughed about that.

"We're going to 'Pajama Game,'" Peggy went on. "Mother's never seen a show.

"I forgot to tell you," she said, "about me meeting Fred Astaire. I've worshipped him for years and when we met he said 'I think you've got to be a big star.' That stopped me. Everything I tried to say came out backwards. I'm sure he thinks I'm an idiot."

PEGGY

Peggy took her mother to the Warwick—swanky surroundings compared with the little West Side apartment about as big as a maid's room that she had three years ago when she was singing at the Blue Angel and just getting known.

She was just 18 then, but already a well-informed young lady, having sung with the Charlie Spivak and Ralph Flanagan bands touring Air Force bases. Then she'd been on the Mel Torme color TV show—all this now seems long ago.

"You know," Peggy said, "Mother forgot to bring a housecoat for herself on this trip. The waiter never sees both of us at the same time.

"One of us is always in the bathroom when he comes in because we've only one housecoat.

"He probably thinks we're cooking in there or selling dope or something."

Peggy—deluged with night club and summer stock offers since her success on the Gobel show—and also with a picture deal on at Paramount—was only sure of one plan.

★ ★ ★ ★

She was going back to Ravenna Township High School for three days and sing at a carnival to raise money for the school from which she was graduated in '47.

"How about taking off your fur jacket for one picture since it's spring?" I asked.

"All right," pouted Peggy. "But it took me 6 years to get it and I'd like to wear it!" That's earl, brother.

Will Canvass Area Sunday

Ministrial Group Hopes to Get Clear Picture of Religious Needs

MILFORD — Eight churches in the Huron Valley area will combine forces Sunday afternoon in a religious census campaign, sponsored by the Huron Valley Ministrial Association.

This is the first time in nine years that a census of this kind has been taken, according to Rev. Charles Richey, president of the association. Some 260 members of the various churches are expected to participate.

A door-to-door canvass will be conducted, with workers meeting at their own churches at 2:30 p.m. From there they will cover designated areas which have been scheduled by a special committee.

Residents in the Huron Valley area will be asked to fill out cards as to their religious affiliations, so that the Ministrial Association may have a clear picture of whether or not the churches are meeting the needs of the area.

Identical preparation for instruction meetings for the census takers will be held at the Milford Methodist Church Wednesday and Friday nights at 7:30, under the direction of Rev. Robert Worgess.

Brown City Rites Unite Eva Kahnt, R. O. Westover

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kahnt. Mr. and Mrs. James D. Westover of Marlette are the parents of the bridegroom.

MR. AND MRS. H. D. NINE

Carol Anne Moore Wed to Ensign Harmon D. Nine

ROMEO—Carol Anne Moore and Ensign Harmon D. Nine spoke their nuptial vows Saturday in a ceremony at the First Congregational Church.

Carol is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Moore of Romeo. Harmon's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nine of Detroit.

The bride's gown was of nylon lace and net, with lace appliques on a bouffant skirt. Her shoulder-length veil was held with a lace cap trimmed with pearls, and she carried a bouquet of red rosettes and white daisies.

Maid of honor was Mary Dean Jacob of Romeo, and bridesmaids were Marjorie Fairman of Ann Arbor and Mrs. Joseph Brown, the bridegroom's sister, of Detroit.

James Rienstra of Alaska, Mich. was best man. The bride's brother, Curtis Moore, and the bridegroom's brother, Charles Nine Jr., served as ushers.

The newlyweds are spending their honeymoon in Northern Michigan.

The bride will return to Ann Arbor to complete her junior year at the University of Michigan. In June she will join her husband, who will report back to duty with the Navy in Washington, D.C.

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—Two year-end events are scheduled for Waterford Township High School students tonight.

The senior prom, "Ebb Tide" will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the gym. For the first time, the seniors have decided to open the dance to the entire high school.

The annual Bleacher Club banquet will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Hotel Roosevelt in Pontiac.

Eighty members of the religious study group will be on hand to hear guest speaker, the Rev. Ted Place of Detroit.

Fill 2 Board Posts at Carver School

ROYAL OAK TOWNSHIP—Two new trustees were appointed to vacancies on the George Washington Carver School Board at a meeting last night in the school.

Replacing Chester Carter and Mrs. Loretta Baker, who were ousted in a recall election Thursday, will be Willie L. Young of 21640 Ithaca, Ferndale, and Mrs. Annabelle Ethridge of 21377 Ithaca, Ferndale. They were appointed by a three-member board comprised of Mrs. Lucille Taylor, president; James Harrison who filed the petition for the recall; and Samuel Jackson.

At the same meeting, Jackson was made treasurer of the board and Harrison was made secretary.

Rubbish Men Win Pay Hike

Collectors in Southfield Also Get 40-Hour Week, Overtime Allowance

SOUTHFIELD TWONSHIP — A request for a 40-hour week with time and a half for overtime, plus a wage hike, was granted township rubbish collectors by the Southfield Township Board this week. Wage hikes will amount to 10 per cent.

The board also declared its intention to change to commercial zoning, 400 feet on Northwestern highway, between Evergreen and 10½ Mile roads.

Members of the newly organized Northwestern Civic Association, which is studying the proposed zoning change, requested a joint meeting of representatives of their group with township and zoning board officials. The request was granted, with date for the meeting to be set later.

The board took under consideration a proposal to construct two double tennis courts, as a cost of approximately $3,500, for the benefit of all the township.

A resolution was passed requiring subdividers to blacktop subdivision roads with a minimum of two-inch bituminous aggregate, as specified by the county road commission.

Church Opens in Waterford

Faith Baptist Services to Be Held Tomorrow in CAI Building

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—The CAI building will be the scene Sunday of the first services of the newly-formed Faith Baptist Church.

The church has been founded by the Rev. Alex H. Kasten, who has resigned as educational director of the Emmanuel Baptist Church of Pontiac.

Rev. Kasten has recently completed three years of study for his doctor of divinity degree at the Bible Seminary in Fort Worth, Tex. This will be his first pastorate.

Sunday School will be held at 10 a.m. with morning worship at 11 a.m. There will be a Sunday evening service at 7:30 p.m., and a Wednesday evening prayer service at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. Kasten, his wife and two children, Robert, 11, and Alan, 8, are living in Pontiac at present, but plan to move into the township in the near future.

Area Prepares for 4-H Sunday

County Clubs Planning to Hold Special Church Events Tomorrow

Boys and girls in Oakland County 4-H Clubs are planning special events and services for the annual 4-H Club Sunday.

Jack Worthington, county 4-H Club agent, reports that special services will be conducted in many of the rural churches in the county. He points out that the 4-Hers wish by this recognition to place emphasis on the meaning and value of Christianity in rural life.

Some boys and girls will follow the lead of other Michigan 4-H clubs by conducting entire regular Sunday services, holding special services, youth programs and candlelight services.

Members will attend as a 4-H Club unit, providing choir numbers, acting as ushers and or providing programs or flowers for the altar.

Worthington reports that such programs have been held in Michigan communities for many years, with Oakland County participating.

Nip and Tuck Grades End in 4 Milford Salutatorians

MILFORD — After report cards and semester tests for the past four years had their chance to determine the grade averages of students, school officials found they must name four salutatorians of the 1955 graduating class.

To select just one winner of the second-high honors in the class would have required using the thousandths, or third decimal place, as the determining factor.

There was no question that Joyce Morrow should become the valedictorian, with her 3.78 average.

But right behind, with 3.56 averages, were Marilyn Davis, Tom Sandford, Richard Kinsey and Dan Perkuchin. Their averages correspond to an "A-Minus" record for the high school years.

Joyce is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edison Morrow, of 525 Buno Road. She has been active in forensics and debate, as well as in the Future Homemakers, the Future Teachers, Future Nurses, Cadet Teaching, the junior play and the student council.

All four of the salutatorians also have participated in extracurricular activities.

Royal Oak Pair Repeats Vows Spoken in 1905

ROYAL OAK — A Royal Oak couple, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Reed of 412 Curry St., repeated the wedding vows they spoke 50 years ago, at an anniversary Mass this morning at St. James Catholic Church in Ferndale.

The Reeds moved from Detroit to Pontiac in 1909, when Mr. Reed started the E&R Boot Shop on Saginaw street. The couple lived in Pontiac until 1933, when Mr. Reed sold the business to his brother and moved to Royal Oak.

The couple has five children: Francis of Birmingham, James of Sandusky, Mrs. D. P. Campbell of Pontiac, Mrs. Edwin DeMink of Vicksburg and Mrs. Richard Stannard of Royal Oak. There are also 11 grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

A golden anniversary breakfast followed this morning's ceremony, and an open house is being held this afternoon from 2 to 6 p. m. at the Reed home.

HENRY HOME — The upper left photo shows Mrs. Roger Henry and her two daughters, Melissa and Kevin, relaxing for a few moments on the family hearth. This is the family room with its central wall in a native stone fireplace. The floor of this room is slate floored and up the steps the living room is located on the second level. Directly at the left is the second-level living room with is mahogany paneling. The third level is visible from here with steps leading to the bedroom wing. At the right is the kitchen area shown as a part of the family room. The mahogany for this room is pickled.

Pontiac Press Photos by James Mahar

LIVING ROOM — The huge fireplace wall is part of the second floor living room. It has two-way facilities giving heat and cheer for the living room and the family room which is a few steps down to the first level. At the right is the pickled mahogany paneled kitchen in which Mrs. Henry is shown. Note the dropped soffit in the same wood, the built-in oven and counter top stove. At the left of the picture is the snack bar with its built-in facility with sliding doors to conceal the toaster and other electrical equipment.

Your Neighbor's House

Rochdale Home Is a 3-Level Design

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

It is a white frame house with beckoning pink doors and it appears to grow from the side of a slope currently basking in the bountiful blessing of blossoming apple trees. (Editor's Note: The author of this page is presently suffering from an attack of Springitis.)

Built on three levels, this lovely suburban home is the near-Rochester residence of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Henry at 1473 Pontiac Rd. It is located in the newly developed Rochdale subdivision.

To arrive at the Henry home from Pontiac Rd., the visitor climbs a long hill and comes to park on a flat area in front of the two-car garage. Windows and roof elevations reveal the different levels of the vertical white clapboard house.

Accessible from three ground area entrances, a pair of pink doors in the house front open and you enter the family room floored in polished slate and walled in both pickled and stained treatments of Philippine mahogany.

Most-Lived-In

Undoubtedly the "most-lived-in room for not only the Henrys with their two young daughters, Melissa and Kevin, this room is also the "most-entertained-in" spot in the tri-level home.

At one end of the room is the native stone fireplace, the walls of which center the house and contain 11 tons of stone and brick. Slate and stone steps flanking this unit lead to the second level

The fireplace has a two-way opening, with the opposite side giving warmth for the living room. On the family side there is a raised hearth.

The kitchen is located at one end of this room and it is done in the pickled mahogany. Offering everything in built-in and well-planned efficiency for working units, the soft gray of the wood treatment is highlighted with blue patterned plastic working areas and stainless steel ovens and counter top stove. A maple chopping block intersects the stove and the working space.

An interesting wood arrangement in both grain and color tone results in a dropped soffit in which is recessed around-the-kitchen lighting.

Close to the kitchen is the dining area. Paneling on this wall is stained mahogany and it is applied in horizontal strips.

Window Wall

One wall of windows overlooks the sloping hillside and centering this fenestration of glass is a doorway. Frames for the doors and windows are painted a deep yellow for contrast. A planter, flush with the floor, is edged in field stone and its luxuriant greenery offers another decorative note for this gracious room. Furnishings are in leather and metal mesh.

Also located on this first level and adjacent to the family room and kitchen is another bedroom (can double as a den or office),

Blame Ship Officers for Ferry Collision

TAKAMATSU, Japan (AP)—Three ship officers have been arrested and charged with criminal negligence in Wednesday's ferry collision which cost at least 156 lives, most of them touring school children.

The Takamatsu district prosecutors office said the charges were based on preliminary investigations indicating both the sunken Shiun Maru and the Utaka Maru, which rammed it, were travelling at excessive speed.

Charged were Capt. Minoru Miyake and Second Mate Toshi Sugsaki of the Utaka Maru and Second Mate Masayoshi Tachiiwa of the Shiun Maru.

How Fence Can Tend to Change Looks of House

John Carlton decided this when he undertook the modernization of an old house. The house seemed to be too tall for its width, when Carlton looked at its front facade. He wanted to widen the appearance.

So he built a fence to one side of the house, separating the backyard from the front.

His fence, about 30 feet long, extending from one side of the house to the lot line, needed only about $30 worth of lumber.

"I built it strong," he says, "to let the kids climb if they wanted to. I used 4 by 4s for posts and 1 by 6s for stringers and rails.

"Building a gate is very simple if you work out the design you like. The main thing to do is to brace a gate diagonally to prevent sagging. Keep the diagonal bracing in mind in your design."

Beware of Holidays

"Holidays" are spots missed in a paint job. They can be troublesome, especially on a ceiling, because going back to touch them up often results in a larger spot of deeper shade. "Holidays" can be avoided by having plenty of light when painting.

Penetrating Sealer Used

The penetrating seal type of finish is highly recommended for hardwood floors. There are many good sealer products on the market today. The quality product will not darken Maple and Birch Flooring. It will give the floor an attractive, satin-like sheen and highlight the varying natural color of the wood.

Ask Seeing-Eye for Police Dog

Pound Officials Seek Human to Guide Blind German Shepherd

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A German shepard dog is in desperate need today of a seeing-eye master.

The animal, whose breed guides so many sightles humans, is blind.

* * *

He is at the city pound, where he will be put to death unless somebody claims him.

Fred Wood, acting poundmaster, said the dog, about a year old, was picked up Monday. He was standing motionless and frightened in the middle of traffic on a busy street.

* * *

His eyes, looking like dark purple grapes, are completely sightless. But his other senses are unusually keen, Wood said.

He never barks. He raises his nose and quivers when any one comes near, as if seeking some one he loves.

* * *

Wood says his sleek condition is proof he has been well cared for. He apparently was born blind or became so from disease. There is no evidence of injury to his eyes.

The pound is supposed to put unclaimed animals to death within 72 hours. This dog, because his kind serves blind humans so faithfully, was given the reprieve.

Home Ownership

The percentage of home owners to renters runs even higher in Canada than in the U. S. Robert P. Gerholz, former president of the ational Assn. of Real Estate Boards, says 60 per cent of Canada's 3½ million dwellings are owner-occupied. In the United States, 56 per cent of the nation's 52 million homes are owned by their occupants.

Gold 'Mined' From the Air in Iowa Factory

FORT MADISON, Iowa (UP)—They don't dig for gold in this town. It's "mined" from the air—thanks to electronics—in the gold pen department of a local firm.

The air, containing minute particles of gold from pen point grinding and polishing, is carried by exhaust ducts to a giant precipitron where it is charged with 13,000 volts of DC current.

The charged particles are then attracted to plates charged with the same voltage. Each night the gold dust is automatically flushed from the plates and salvaged.

The big preciptron will "pan" gold particles as small as 1/250,000th of an inch.

The company estimates that it salvages approximately $300,000 a year in gold dust from the aprons of its craftsmen, work benches and the floor.

It has no figure on the air salvaging because the operation is so new, but it is expected to be more than the cost of the electronic equipment.

Long Wearing Floors

The prospective builder should be reminded that his floors will get at least 90 per cent more wear than any other part of his home; hence, it is good judgment to select the longest wearing flooring product available. A hardwood floor will prove an excellent choice. For the Northern hardwoods, Maple, Birch and Beech floorings are the most popular, in that order.

Dry Subfloor Please!

When the subfloor of a newly built home shrinks, openings may develop between the strips of the finish hardwood flooring. In order not to ruin the beautiful hardwood floor in your new home, insist that specifications call for "dry" softwood boards, preferably kiln dried.

Henry's Hill Home in White Frame

Living Level

Up the series of steps to the living room you will find one wall of stained mahogany, one plastered and finished in a gold tone of paint, one in windows and the other in the stone fireplace.

Built into the mahogany walls is a bookcase. Carpeting for the room is in the same gold as the wall with a long, two-piece divan sectional upholstered in a sandy brown.

Continuing up the last six steps you can find the four-bedroom wing. This is located directly over the garage and is designed to give the ultimate in quiet and privacy from the rest of the house plan. Two bathrooms are also placed in this wing.

Mrs. Henry, a "decorator by instinct," has chosen warm earth tones which carry from room to room of the countryside home. Using browns, with lighter and still lighter beige tones, she took clear blues for bathroom fixtures, for accent notes and for trim decor.

One bedroom is a nursery in pink; another is a young girl's room and the master bedroom is also located in this wing. This latter room is done in oatmeal and soft tones of brown.

In the one bathroom, the ceramic tiled wall flanking the tub has a free form patterned tile in beige, brown and blue.

California contemporary height windows are placed in the bedroom wing to allow the maximum of wall space for furniture arrangement. All bedrooms have full wardrobe closets.

There is 2,053 square feet of living area in the Henry home and it is oil heated. James Heins of Rochester did the cabinet work in the home.

Keep Moisture Out

Moisture difficulties arise when moisture gets into places where it should not be. A large per cent of paint blistering and wood-rotting troubles are caused by outside moisture entering a structure. Faulty construction, improper design and neglect are generally the causes.

Recess for Safety

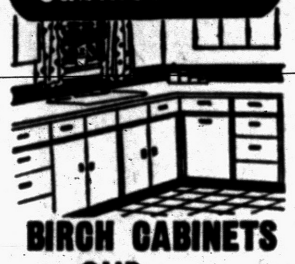

To make your bathroom safer, have all paper holders, toothbrush and tumbler holders, and soap grab bars recessed right in the ceramic tile wall. They now come in colors to match your tile wall. They're just as easy to reach and can't be bumped or knocked against.

Bathrooms Are Versatile With Built-in Units

Modern bathrooms are known for size and versatility.

Consider the growing practice of installing a vanity countertop around the wash basin. A few years ago, the bath was not large enough for so luxurious a feature. Today the opposite is true.

As for versatility, the countertop greatest wonderful storage opportunities underneath and its top serves all members of the family in their clean-up chores.

Another way alert builders are putting the countertop to work, especially when it's surfaced in a waterproof material such as tile, is to install a handy laundry underneath. A compact automatic washer and dryer unit fits right under the counter and saves the homemaker loads of work.

Horned toads are protected in New Mexico and anyone who kills, sells or transports one is subject to a fine of $100 or up to 60 days in jail.

Odorless Paint Saves the Nose

How to use odeorless paint and what to expect of it are things the home handyman ought to know about this now widely advertised product.

First, it works like any other kind of paint and the biggest manufacturers are now making it in virtually all types — flat, gloss, enamel, or what have you.

It is a superior type of paint being extensively used for hospitals, hotel rooms, hair dressing parlors and other places where quick redecorating jobs are necessary.

Therefore it may appeal to you, especially if the missus wants that kitchen or living room freshly painted next weekend to get ready for a ladies' aid meeting on Monday.

There are five things to bear in mind when you use this new invention:

1. Use only the recommended odorless thinner if you must dilute the paint. Otherwise you'll stir up as bad a stink as with any paint. Even less than 3 per cent contamination with the regular smelly thinners will give you that old-fashioned paint smell.

2. Stir the thinner into the paint about twice as long as you would stir turpentine. Odorless thinner mixes much more slowly.

3. It is better to clean your brushes outdoors in one of the old-style solvents to save time. Either turps or spirits work faster.

4. Ventilate throroughly while painting, if you want to avoid a cheap drunk that will drive you out for fresh air.

5. Don't expect odorless paint to remain odorless after it is on the wall. It develops a certain amount of smell of its own while it is drying—not that of turpentine or mineral spirits — but nevertheless a little smell.

The search for odorless paints has been a long one. The main odor in paint comes from the solvent. First organic solvents were eliminated by the use of waterborne vehicles — the casein paints and rubber based latex paints. But this had no effect on the odor of oil paints.

When mineral spirits were substituted for turpentine it merely resulted in one odor replacing another. Then attempts were made to mask the odors of aromatic petroleum solvents with perfumes.

Lots of people remember the experiments with vanillin about 20 years ago. But it seemed that consumers didn't want to smell vanilla. Then deodorized kerosene was tried, but that slowed up the drying of paint and caused other troubles.

Around 1940 the DuPonts found an odorless solvent which was a by-product of making aviation gasoline. It worked fine for paint, but it took a decade or more to make it commercially available. Dr. Davis says it has a different atomic makeup from the previous petroleum solvents.

After more research, the new petroleum by-product was worked into paints which, according to Dr. Davis, "were superior to the finished we had previously sold." These new odorless paints proved "faster drying, better in flow, had a longer lap time and were easier to brush," the doctor explains — "so much so that there may be a tendency to spread them too thin."

If you do not care for fishing there are other ways that this folding seat with back-rest may be enjoyed. It is easy to make too if you use actual-size guides when sawing out the shaped pieces from 1½-square feet of ¾-inch plywood. Tracing diagrams for the parts to make a minnow bucket, boat bailing scoop and the fishing line drier shown in the sketch are all on pattern 421. This pattern will be mailed for 25c or it will be included in the sportsman's packet of patterns for gun rack, duck decoys, pipe rack and a plywood boat that is light enough to carry on top of your car, all for $1 postpaid. All these patterns are standard size.

Actor Devours Actor, but Show Still Goes On

BOSTON (AP)—Just before the television show went on, one of the actors ate another actor.

Heat Absorbing Glass Plate Now Blue-Green

Heat absorbing plate glass is one such working material. Special chemicals are added to the raw material of this glass which, according to Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company technologists, enable it to absorb 54 per cent of the sun's radiated heat.

This glass, cool blue-green in color, is used chiefly for windows exposed to the summer sun's direct rays. When used for this purpose, the glass substantially reduces the amount of heat gained from solar radiation, thus helping maintain cooler interiors.

Thermopane insulating glass, a permanent, double-glazed unit made up of two panes of glass with a space of dehydrated air between is also available with heat absorbing plate glass as the outer pane. The combination of Thermopane's insulating qualities with the reduction in solar heat gain achieved with heat absorbing plate glass has made heat absorbing Thermopane popular for use in east and west elevations of air-conditioned homes.

Some Points to Watch in Planning Bathrooms

To modernize a bathroom, or in planning a new bathroom, you will want to give some thought to these features:

1. If a bathtub is under a window where cold drafts are noticable, you can replace that window with a panel of glass block and install a ventilating fan elsewhere in the room to expel odors and excessive moisture. Hollow glass blocks have a certain amount of insulating quality and are warmer than window glass. They admit light while obscuring the view.

2. In building a new bathroom, plan to place the tub in an alcove away from windows.

3. Provide adequate electric outlets for electric shavers, hair dryers, curlers, sun lamp and other equipment. But avoid putting electric outlets or switches near the tub or shower. Use special grounding plugs on electric bathroom equipment.

4. Investigate electric heating units for bathrooms. Additional heat is usually needed. Radiant glass panels are made in special sizes for bathrooms. Another electric heating unit combines with ceiling lighting fixture.

5. Provide ample storage space for linens and toilet articles. Oversize medicine cabinets are the most useful. Sufficient towel bars are needed. Install sturdy grab bars to prevent slipping in tub or shower. Grab bars placed vertically will not be used to hang things on.

6. Even if you don't use a bathtub, have at least one in your house to protect its resale value and mortgage value. Stall showers are becoming more popular among both young and old. They are being installed in homes where aging people have difficulty getting in and out of bathtubs. But you can't bathe a baby in a shower.

7. Select all plumbing fittings carefully for permanent finish as well as utility. A mixing faucet is preferred to two separate faucets. Aerating nozzles prevent water from splashing.

8. Consider a built-in dryer for a light laundry — an inevitable problem in any bathroom.

You Can Spray Paint Now Without a Gun

A shortcut for a small paint job is offered by the new enamels in aerosol cans for spray painting. These cans, charged with freon gas spray any object with paint as effectly as expensive equipment with a motor driven compressor.

Of course, each can contains only a small amount of paint—6 to 12 ounces, depending on size. So it would take a lot of cans to spray paint a house.

But for refinishing a radiator, touching up chipped enamel on a refrigerator or kitchen cabinet, or giving any small piece of furniture a smooth finish like an automobile body, aerosol cans of spray paint are big time savers.

There is no cleaning of brushes or rollers when all you do is to press a button on top of a can and let the paint spray.

You can get 13 colors, including gold and aluminum, plus a clear colorless lacquer. All of these dry within a few minutes. They can be used on wood, metal, leather, or paper.

Various decorative possibilities have been opened up by this invention.

Alkyds Speed Drying

Alkyds in paint mean that part of the natural fatty acid of linseed oil has been replaced with synthetic phthalic acid. Faster drying and a tougher and more water-resistant film are the results. Alkyds originally were used mostly for outdoor paints, but are now being used in many indoor coatings.

Laundry Can Be Part of the Second Bathroom

A new approach to home planning is giving many families more attractive laundry space—and a second bath or a powder room to boot.

Although it is a necessity in every home, the laundry is usually treated as an after-thought and stuck away in any odd corner available. It's a drab spot that no woman can enjoy as a work area.

The new trend in planning combines the laundry with the second bath or a powder room.

The combination room need be only slightly larger than a bathroom alone. It should be located near an entrance, so that the homemaker can have easy access to her clothes line on wash day, and so that the children can use the bath without tracking through the house.

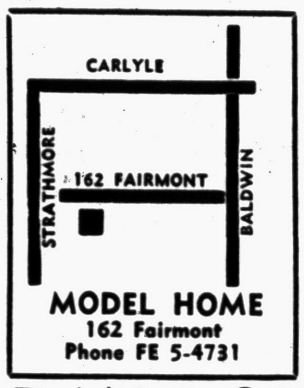

To Plane a Door

Q — How should a too-wide door be planed?

A — Remove the door from the frame, remove hinges from door and plane the hinge edge. Planing the latch side involves resetting the latch. Draw line on both sides of hinge edge to indicate amount of wood to be removed.

State Went Dry 100 Years Ago

Unenforced Prohibition Brought About Adrian's Whisky War

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan enacted its first prohibition law 100 years ago today.

The law—Act 17 under the 1850 Constitution — though largely winked at, remained on the books for 20 years.

In Detroit there was little attempt made to enforce the measure. Juries consistently failed to convict violators and the law soon became a dead letter.

But in outstate areas enforcement was sometimes rigid. In 1869, however, the drys were dealt a severe blow in the so-called "Whisky War of Adrian."

Adrian's Reformation

At that time Adrian had a population of some 8,500. There were 46 saloons in town and every hotel boasted a bar. None was licensed since the 1850 Constitution contained a provision forbidding legislation licensing the liquor traffic.

* * *

Stung by temperance group attacks marshaled under the banner of "law and order," every saloon and hotel closed. The action seriously demoralized business since it left the city without hotel accommodations.

Faced with the decline in business, the city acted. It was decided it would be in the best interest of the city if a live-and-let-live attitude were adopted. Three weeks later the saloons and hotels reopened.

The Legislature that enacted the 1855 prohibition law passed other measures that proved more lasting.

* * *

Ship Canal Opened

The St. Marys ship canal at Sault Ste. Marie was opened for operation 100 years ago this month.

Kinsley S. Bingham was governor at the time. And the state had a 509,374 population. Forty-five years earlier, a census showed only 4,762 people in the territory.

* * *

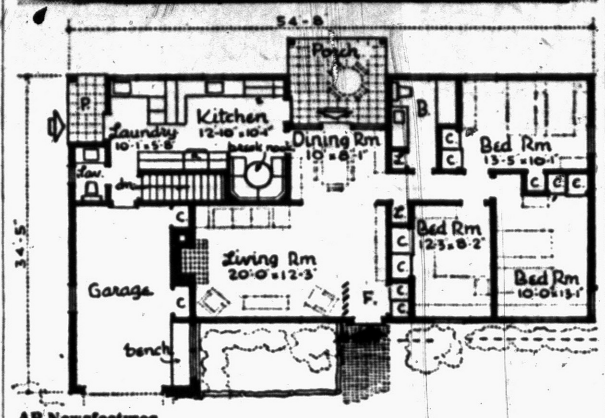

Notable was the state debt — $2,387,581 — or less than one day's cost of state and local governments in Michigan of today.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP Newsfeatures

Featuring a built-in dining porch, sheltered from the wind, open to a garden view, this one-story house is marked by smart planning throughout. Lavatory adjacent to kitchen, service entry and garage; main floor laundry; workbench in garage; breakfast nook; window walls in living room and dining room, and an abundance of closets distinguish the layout. This is Plan 319-T by Edward R. Tyler, 586 Macon Place, Uniondale, N. Y. The house covers 1,320 square feet, without porches and garage, which figure at lower estimating rates.

Gypsum Plaster Ready-Mixed, Easy to Handle

A lot of the grief encountered in plastering walls and ceilings is reduced by a new ready-mixed lightweight gypsum basecoat plaster, American Builder magazine, light construction industry publication, observes that only water need be added to the packaged plaster at the job site.

The material, which has a mortar weight less than half that of wet sanded plaster, is easier to handle, and gives joists less weight to carry.

It eliminates the necessity of mixing aggregate with the plaster. Thus, American Builder says, the hazard of bad sand and of oversanding is avoided, at the same time assuring a strong plaster.

The gypsum plaster mix is also more fire-resistant than sanded plaster.

Glider Pilot Claims the British Record

BISHOP, Calif. (AP) — Cmdr. H. C. N. Goodhart of the British royal navy today claimed the British altitude record for gliders with a 37,000-foot flight in a sailplane in the swift-rising air currents of the Sierra Wave.

The mark will have to await official approval of the Royal Aero Club, which will inspect the sealed barographs.

* * *

Cmdr. Goodhart was released by a tow plane over the Owens Valley Friday at 13,600 feet and climbed to 37,000 feet in currents flowing upward off the Sierra range. He is stationed in Washington and his home is in Newbury, Berkshire.

The existing British record is 30,400 feet, set Dec. 29, 1954, by Philip A. Walls of London in New Zealand. The British record can be set by any British subject anywhere in the world.

3-Year-Old Overcomes Bad Case of the Hive

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — It was a bad case of the hive for little Jackie Robles. But the 3-year old boy survived 250 irate bees and is expected to leave the hospital today.

Doctors said they pulled 250 stingers from Jackie's hands, ears, nose, even his tongue.

"Only a strong constitution pulled him through," one physician said.

Man Becomes PTA Chief in Woman-Minded Capital

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—In this town, women are steadily moving in.

Oveta Culp Hobby is in the Cabinet. Margaret Chase Smith is in the Senate. Fifteen women, a record, are in the House. Step into almost any government office, and what do you see? A lot of women.

So it's a relief today to report a stunning reversal of this trend in the nation's capital. The District of Columbia Congress of Parents and Teachers, with a membership of 27,000, elected John Gillilland president.

* * *

He became the first male to hold this job in the Congress' 50-year history.

Gillilland won the hard way. As the choice of the nominating committee, he normally would have no opposition. But Mrs. Samuel Hooks was nominated from the floor.

When the decisive moment came, there were 500 female and three male delegates on the floor. The three male delegates and the one male reporter held their breaths. Could Gillilland win this unequal ballot of the sexes?

* * *

He could. Of 497 votes cast, Gillilland got 420.

If the national PTA has its way, this sort of thing will be going on everywhere. It has been urging men to take a more active part in PTA affairs.

But this advice has not been needed for Gillilland, an energetic, balding, bespectacled man of 51 who owns real estate and foam rubber businesses.

* * *

Gillilland has been holding PTA offices of one sort or another for 15 years. One year he headed his elementary school PTA. Twice he was president of the PTA at his junior high school.

In years when Gillilland wasn't president, who was likely to turn up in the chair? Mrs. Gillilland.

In fact, one of the toughest jobs facing the nominating committee was this: should it be Mr. G., or Mrs. G.?

Gillilland thinks the answer should have been: Both.

"Copresidents," he said, talking easily above the congratulatory twittering about him, "that's the answer. More men and women should go into PTA work together. That's what will happen with me. My wife will supply the beauty, inspiration, ideas and do the work. I'll be the front man."

Then, as if he feared he was being overly modest, he said:

"One thing in my favor. I can talk louder."

Hit-Run Driver Gains Freedom With $1,000

SEATTLE (AP) — Harold E. Cottom, 23, whose car killed a 6-year-old boy last Nov. 15 then sped on, gained his freedom yesterday by agreeing to provide $1,000 reward money for capture of other hit-run drivers.

The $1,000 or year-in-jail choice was given Cottom by Superior Court Judge Henry Clay Agnew when Cottom appeared for sentencing after conviction on a charge of failing to stop and give aid.

The money must be paid in instalments to Police Chief H. J. Lawrence during the next two years.

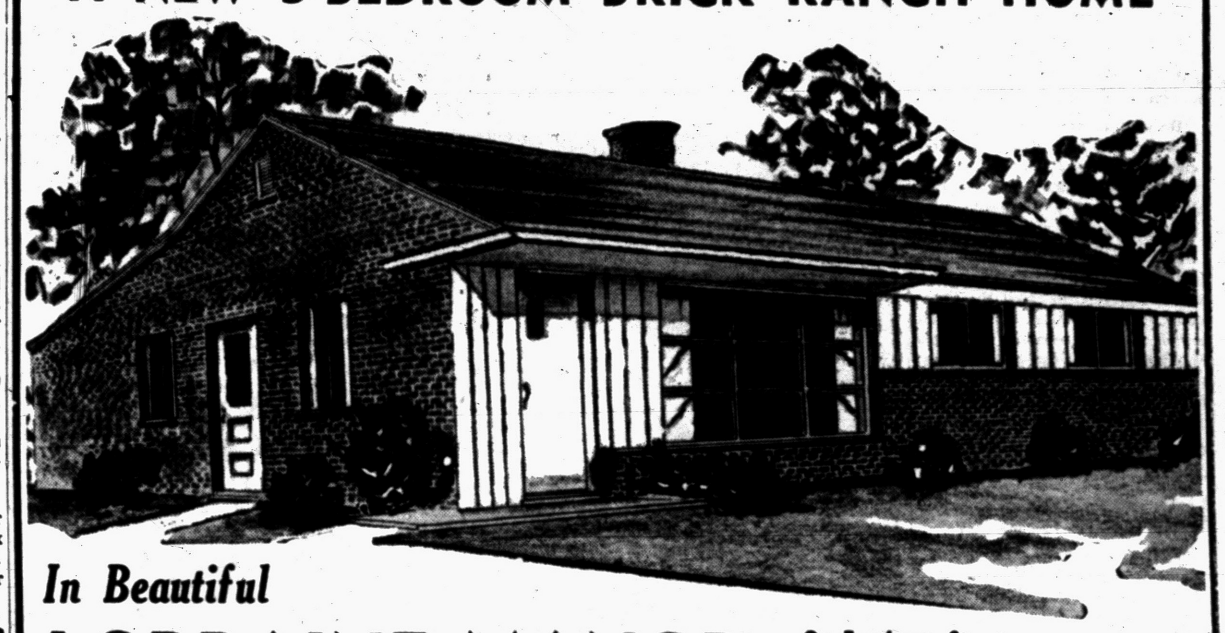

Mars will be closer to the earth both in 1956 and 1971.

Michigan Week to Show State's Cultural Growth

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A statewide community program starts Sunday to point out to Michiganders "the nature of their state and the heritage which is theirs."

* * *

Everything from early architecture to lumberman's folk ballads and local art are on the docket, including a community theater project to stimulate one act playwriting.

It's all part of Michigan Week. Specifically its the work of one Michigan Week committee for culture, headed by Dr. Harlan H. Hatcher, president of the University of Michigan.

Some of the plans were announced to a press conference last week.

Michigan Week begins Sunday, but some of the projects, it was explained, will run throughout the year.

Writers to Be Indexed

University Professor of English Robert F. Haugh said one project contemplated in the field of literature will be an updated index to state writers and writing. It will, he said, be similar to the now outdated WPA Writers Guide, and will be available to Michigan libraries for reference.

* * *

Michael Church, supervisor of special projects in the university's Extension Service, said he had received many letters from localities that are planning art shows in connection with Michigan Week.

He said an art show is planned in Ironwood that will use merchants windows for display cases for the local talent. Kalamazoo, Muskegon and Port Huron are planning similar shows.

Hugh Z. Norton, assistant professor of speech and drama at the university, reported that the Community Theater Assn. of Michigan is planning a contest to begin Michigan Week. One-act dramas, musicals and ballets will be sought from Michigan writers and will be judged by next January or February.

Theaters Encouraged

The association, comprised of 21 community theaters, is offering honorary membership to any other theater which cares to join the contest program. The winner will be judged by the best possible production.

* * *

Norton pointed out that Edward H. Brink of Grand Rapids is president of the association in Michigan and Norman Carver of Kalamazoo is president of the national association.

This, he said, is an indication of how Michigan has achieved cultural importance.

He said that there are perhaps some 50 theater groups in the state. The state is also progressing, Norton said, with the arena theater. These are becoming increasingly popular, because of the smaller expense needed to operate them.

Switzerland to Buy U.S. Atom Reactor

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States is going to sell Switzerland a $350,000 research atomic reactor to be shown at the U.N atoms-for-peace congress in Geneva this August.

The Swiss also will acquire 55 pounds of uranium in the post-exhibit deal, announced at a news conference yesterday by Dr. I. I. Rabi, U.S. member of the advisory council for the international scientific congress. Rabi said the two governments are now making arrangements for the purchase.

The reactor is being built at the Oak Ridge National Laboratory as a key part of a U.S. exhibit in Geneva. It will produce 10 kilowatts of power, enough for important research.

Wolfson Sure of 3 Directors

He and 2 Associates, One a Woman, to Sit on Ward's Board

CHICAGO (AP)—Louis Wolfson and two of his associates in the battle for control of Montgomery Ward & Co.—one of them a woman—stood by today for their first meeting as members of the firm's board of directors.

Composition of the new board of the big mail order and retail merchandising firm was to be announced at a reconvened session of the annual shareholders meeting.

* * *

Figures disclosed yesterday by the election inspectors on the number of votes cast at the April 22 stockholders meeting supported Wolfson's claim that he had won three of the nine seats on the board.

At least one management source still clung to the possibility Wolfson had won only two seats, but the announced figures appeared to preclude this. The spokesman, who asked that his name not be used, said:

* * *

"We know we have six directors, but we can't say definitely if we have six or seven until the recumulation is completed."

The recumulation, allotment of nine votes per share among nominees so as to elect the greatest number of candidates, was to be completed today.

* * *

Wolfson's three choices for the board are himself, Alexander Rittmaster III, a New York financial consultant, and Bernice Fitz-Gibbon, also of New York, an advertising and promotion consultant.

As a Ward director, Mrs. Fitz-Gibbon—a grandmother—would be the first woman on the board in the company's 83-year history.

Outstanding in her field, Mrs. Fitz-Gibbon, a short, stout woman who declines to tell her age, coined some of the slogans made famous by New York department stores.

* * *

A one-time small town newspaper reporter in Illinois, she reportedly was paid $75,000 a year as consultant to one big New York merchandising firm in recent years. She now operates her own firm in New York and contributes a column in a monthly magazine.

Mrs. Fitz-Gibbon said she thinks her election to the Ward board of directors "will be a good chance to show that women have something to offer."

Earnings

NEW YORK (INS) — Bendix Aviation Corp. announced net income for the quarter ended March 31 of $6,981,479, equal to $1.53 a common share. This compared with $6,359,188, or $1.39 a common share, in the same period last year. Sales declined to $151,837,685 from $153,083,063 in the initial three months of 1954.

* * *

PHILADELPHIA (INS) — Electric Storage Battery Co. reported net income for the quarter ended March 31 of $59,964, equal to seven cents a common share. This compared with a net loss of $86,689 in the same period last year. Sales fell off to $18,959,279 from $19,720,668 a year ago. C. F. Norberg, president, said the improved earnings resulted chiefly from economies that led to lower operating costs.

Detectives Probing Breakins at School

Seven breakins have been reported at the school within the past two months, the latest of which took place Thursday night.

In each case entry was made by unlocking a door or window after breaking the glass. Nothing of value has been taken, leading officers to believe the breakins are the work of children. During Thursday's entry, about $8 worth of ice cream cups were taken.

Breakins also have been reported at Stone, Allenwood, and Auburn Heights schools, the detectives said.

Business Notes

A mechanic with Oliver Buick Co. four and a half years, Stremke took advanced study dealing with 1955 model car brakes.

Employment, Income Reported at High Level

NEW YORK (AP) — High levels of employment and consumer income were reflected again this week in brisk business at the nation's retail stores, according to Dun & Bradstreet.

Spurred by on-the-cuff buying, total dollar volume of retail sales for the week ended Wednesday ranged from 3 to 7 per cent higher than in the comparable week last year, Dun & Bradstreet said.

Pacific Coast unchanged to up 4 per cent; East and Northwest up 1 to 5; New England and South up 2 to 6; Midwest up 6 to 10, and Southwest up 7 to 11.

Gisele MacKenzie Called One-Gal Show Business

By JACK O BRIAN

Last night on "Justice" Gisele proved her straight-acting deftness with a sold, sympathetic and sustained performance which used her deep warm singing voice only incidentally.

Gisele has authority, poise, sincerity and that slender thread of communication with an audience in an intimate fashion that wins friends and influences higher tax brackets.

With somewhat less than classic handsomeness she still has an attractiveness and femininity beyond reproach.

All this and her famous singing voice, the ability to play piano, violin and low comedy as she proved with Jack Benny . . . a real pro.

Lux Theater proved its plots needn't run to the gooey soap operatics its title suggests—Thursday's "Eight Iron Men" was a rough-tough nerve-tingler.

We wonder if Chas. Boyer ever has given a poor performance in any medium; if so, we missed it.

If Lux Theater wishes to hold its dramatic mood someone should quiet the director's "cues" which seep into microphones through unmuffled earphones of TV soundstage technicians.

Can't Say That Britain Has Routine Weather

LONDON (AP) — Britain had all sorts of weather yesterday.

In Scotland seven inches of snow fell over the Highlands and many cars were stuck in the drifts.

Down south in the Channel Islands, a sudden frost did heavy damage to the new potato crop.

The weatherman played it safe today. He said the weather would continue "changeable."

Sicily has been occupied by the original Sicans or Sicels, the Phoenicians, the Carthaginians, the Romans, the Saracens, the Normans and the Italians.

'Dead' Rocket Kills Three GIs

Torch Ignites Charge While Salvage Crew Cuts Up WW II Missile

EL PASO, Tex., (AP)—Three men were killed here yesterday when a supposedly dead target rocket screamed to life and an acetylne tank xploded. Three men were seriously injured.

The dead were Pvt. William J. Harrison, 22, Cambridge, Md.; Pvt. Myron A. Baxter, 22, Allentown, Pa., and Pvt. Gene K. Martin, 27, Marlin, Tex.

The injured were Pvt. William F. Underhill, 19, Hollywood, Fla.; Pvt. Ralph Watson, 20, Smithfield, N.C.; and Pfc. Wilfred Wassenberg, 24, Marysville, Kan.

The 5½-foot World War II rocket was being cut up for scrap by Wasenberg when a toch ignited thepropella nt charge. It carried no explosive charge but caused Wassenberg's acetylene tank to explode.

The rocket landed in a vacant field after a 110-yard flight through the motor shop at Ft. Bliss and narrowly missed a group of soldiers working on a gun carriage. Only one of the dead was believed struck by the rocket.

Jobless Claims Drop Begins Leveling Off

After plummeting rapidly for the last several months, the drop in unemployment compensation claims at the Pontiac office of the Michigan Employment Security Exchange this week began to level off.

Get Lucky Break on Unlucky Date

SAN ANGOLO, Tex. (AP)—Freed inmates of the city jail here can't decide if they were lucky on Friday the 13th or just the receivers of famed West Texas hospitality.

A 230-pound ranchman from down Corpus Christi way ("no names, please") paid off $95 in dsunkenness fines, including his own, and started home yesterday with three other inmates. He promised them jobs burning prickly pear for cattle fodder.

* * *

"The jail stinks and is no fitplace for a man," he told City Judge Forrest Hardine.

Two hours later the rancher was back behind those nonopening doors—same charge, drunkenness.

His three hired hands were looking for new jobs.

Party for Black Cats Banishes Superstition

CHICAGO (AP)—The Anti-Cruelty Society snapped its fingers at superstition Friday the 13th yesterday by throwing a sardine and catnip party for its eight black cats.

J. J. Shaffer, society director, said it would have been more appropriate had there been 13 black cats for the celebration. But the society didn't have that many.

Fast OK Seen for Gen. Taylor

Senate Is Expected to Give Quick Approval to Ridgway Successor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Speedy Senate confirmation appeared likely today for President Eisenhower's nomination of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor as Army chief of staff.

* * *

Taylor, now Far East commander, was picked by Eisenhower yesterday to succeed Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway when the latter retires June 30, a month and a half before his two-year term as chief of staff would expire.

Ridgway, who has been critical of the Eisenhower program to cut back the ground forces, said there was "no significance whatsoever" in the announcement now of his request for retirement.

He said he has "plans to keep busy" but added he couldn't announce his plans now.

* * *

He has not denied persistent reports that he will become a corporation executive after his retirement.

He said "it is a great honor" to take over the dual command from Gen. Taylor.

Meet for Title Monday

Training Grind Nears Conclusion for Champ Rocky and British Challenger

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The long training grind ends, perhaps very happily, today for heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano and the round-lad from from England, Don Cockell.

A couple of rounds for the unbeaten champ from America, three frames of light sparring for the English, strong boy and thus will wind up weeks of hard work, all in preparation for their 15-round international struggle in Kezar Stadium Monday night.

The 30-year-old blockbuster from Brockton, Mass., is a hardened 188 pounds or so for the fifth defense of the title he won from Jersey Joe Walcott by a 13-round knockout in Philadelphia Sept. 23, 1952.

Cockell, the British Empire champion, weighs around 208, and while he is big in arm, leg and round about the middle, he can never be called flabby.

That is just about the poundage they'll carry into the ring.

Rocky's manager, Al Weill, said his champ needs a final, if brief tune-up with the gloves at his Calistoge camp 75 miles north of here.

"Mainly to keep sharp," said Weill, who might also add that he is not opposed to the thought that 1,500 or 2,000 admirers will stream into the place, paying $1 apiece for the privilege of watching The Rock perform.

No such turnouts greet the challenger at his place in suburban San Rafael. Every little bit helps, however, meaning the $1 admission plus the fact that Cockell, even at this late date, can stand more sharpening in punching practice.

Marciano remains a heavy betting favorite, with little action reported in this respect. And among the visiting corps of press, it is almost impossible to locate a person who is picking the Englishman to win. Included are the British writers who have followed Don's rather long and somewhat puzzling career.

Promoter Jimmy Murray and his local partner, Lou Thomas, remained optimistic about a $500,000 gate. Less optimistic observers cut the figure in two. The ticket buying interest over the weekend, and the weather Monday, will supply the real answer.

Ted Signs With Bosox for $75,000

BOSTON (AP)—Ted Williams has settled down to conditioning after signing a Boston Red Sox contract for the rest of the season, but he's not uncertain how much longer he will play.

* * *

It's up to Ted now how long before he can get into shape for pinchhitting and returning to a spot in the Sox lineup, according to General Manager Joe Cronin and field boss Mike Higgins.

* * *

When asked how long he would remain in baseball in his fifth comeback (Marines 1946, elbow injury 1950, Marines 1953 and broken collarbone last year) Ted Answered:

"I honestly don't know. Perhaps I should say that I'll play as long as I think I can do it. I'll quit as soon as I feel I can't do things right—can't help the team."

* * *

It was a full day for Theodore Samuel yesterday. He arrived by plane from Miami at 7:05 a.m., arrived at Fenway at noon and signed after an 80-minute session with Cronin, talked with press and went through a workout of batting, catching and throwing.

"I feel pretty good, but very tired," he said in the dressing room after spraying hits in and out of the playing field.

"I'm awfully happy to be in the surroundings of baseball again," a smiling Williams told the press. "Regardless of what has been written and said I'm back in the game I love the best."

* * *

"Williams looks in fine shape—much better than I had ben led to believe," confided Trainer Jack Fadden after looking at the 36-year-old slugger. "Actually, he's in much better shape now than he was when he started training again last year after the collar-bone injury. It won't take him long to get into action. Hitting's natural to this guy. All he needs is time to build up callouses on his hands and feet."

* * *

Williams would not hazard a guess as to how soon he'd be ready.

Ted's contract signature ended a retirement which he had announced often during last season and reaffirmed on the final day.

He said he didn't know just when he changed his mind but that he could make no moves until certain personal difficulties were resolved. Williams phoned Cronin Wednesday morning to say he'd play again—the same day a Miami, Fla., court handed down the final settlement to his divorce.

"Very frankly," Williams admitted, "when the season started my interest turned from fishing. I found myself listening to games. I never thought that would happen to me but it did."

Maples Win Regional Title; Chiefs Third at Brighton

A MHSAA regional championship was added Friday to Birmingham High School's unbroken string of golf victories this spring, when the Maples took the Kearsley Lake (Flint) tourney with a 321 card.

Joe Borovick's quartet edged last year's state champion Midland team by two strokes. The Maple squad was led by Mike Conroy, soph shotmaker who first tied with Midland's Gary Howlett at 76 for medalist honors, but lost a "sudden death" playoff on the 1st extra hole.

Owosso was 3rd with 333, Flint Central 4th with 334, Saginaw Arthur Hill 5th at 342 and Royal Oak and Berkley tied for 6th with 346.

* * *

Steady golf was the answer to the victory, Borovick reported.

However, that has been an important factor all season in the Maples' continued success. This was the 6th straight win.

Conroy's card was 40-36—76. Howlett hit 39-37—76.

Tom Cross fired a blistering one-under-par 70 Friday over the Burroughs Farms layout to spark his Pontiac High School teammates into a 3rd-place finish. PHS qualified for the state finals at Battle Creek next Saturday.

Cross went out in 33, then came home with 37 to wind up one under the regulation par 71. He put together five birdies, nine pars, and four bogies for his medalist count.

* * *

Only Rain Can Stop Records at Indianaoplis

Drivers Bid for Pole Position in Memorial Day '500'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Motor speedway regulars agreed today that only rain could preserve the track records from a half-dozen hot driver-car combinations in opening qualifications for the 39th 500-mile race May 30.

Just a couple of dry hours were needed to send the glittering speedsters in a smoking assault on the marks set last year by Jack McGrath of Inglewood, Calif.

The first of the four elimination sessions was scheduled for 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. EST, barring interference by the weather. Rain kept the drivers from trying out their cars yesterday.

Qualifications also are scheduled for tomorrow and May 21 and 22. They can be held as late as the morning of the race if the 33-car field isn't full.

McGrath won the 1954 pole position, the inside spot on the first row, with a record speed of 141.033 miles an hour for 10 miles. His best lap around the 2½ mile track was 141.287. He has the same Hinkle Special this year.

Other drivers with potential record-breaking cars include Bob Swikert of Indianapolis, Sam Hanks of Burbank, Calif., and Pat O'Connor of North Vernon, Ind.

A combination that might grab the pole is Troy Ruttman of Houston, Tex., the 1952 Indianapolis winner, in the V-8 Novi Special. Probably the most powerful car on the track, it failed to make the field last year on a relatively slow qualification run by Duke Nalon of Fort Worth, Tex. Owner Lou Welch of Novi, Mich., thereupon got himself a new boy.

Chief Netters Drop Tilt to Viking Crew

Pontiac High's tennis team, idle for a week, returned to action Friday afternoon on the Murphy Park courts and dropped a 5-2 decision to Flint Northern.

Vikings won all five singles matches, while PHS' victories came in the two doubles events. Loss was the Chiefs' 8th this season and 7th in the Valley.

7-Foot Jump Made by Davis

Exhibition Marks 2nd Time Texan Has Gone Over World Height

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—Walt Davis high jumped seven feet last night, his second exhibition jump of that altitude within a week.

'Dutch,' Fetchick Pace Tourney

Bulla and Snead Stay Close to Leaders at White Sulphur

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Dutch Harrison of St. Louis and Mike Fetchick of Yonkers, N.Y., switched to the supposedly easier Greenbrier golf course today after beating the Old White's par by eight strokes for the first half of the White Sulphur Springs Open.

Their 132 scores led the field of 47 pros, all of whom played the first 36 holes on the Old White course. They split up today, half going around Old White again and half on the Greenbrier. Tomorrow they'll switch.

Treading right behind Harrison and Fetchick to the Greenbrier course were Johnny Bulla of Pittsburgh, a stroke behind them, and Sam Snead, trailing by two. Bulla and Snead had the best second-round score of 65. Snead, the home pro, was tied with Henry Picard of Cleveland and Jackie Burke Jr. of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., for third place.

Old Thendara Links Revived, Opens Sunday

Nine-Hole Course Now Known as Clarkston Golf Club

Another golf course is added to Oakland County's large collection with the Sunday opening of the Clarkston Golf Club.

The 9-hole layout is located on Eston Road, 4 miles east of Clarkston village off Clarkston-Orion road. The rolling 2,715-yard course is in a picturesque site, overlooking both Walters and Dennis Lakes as well as the surrounding countryside.

The course, which is owned by Paul Frechette, may be recalled by some as the old Thendara Golf Club, formerly a private, then a semi-public club. It has not functioned in 24 years.

A new clubhouse, complete with locker facilities for men and women, is under construction, but for the present, the old clubhouse, which is the Frechette home, will be utilized.

The layout has one par 5 hole (455 yards), five par 4s and three 3s. Men's par is 34, women's par 36. It will be operated on a semi-public basis.

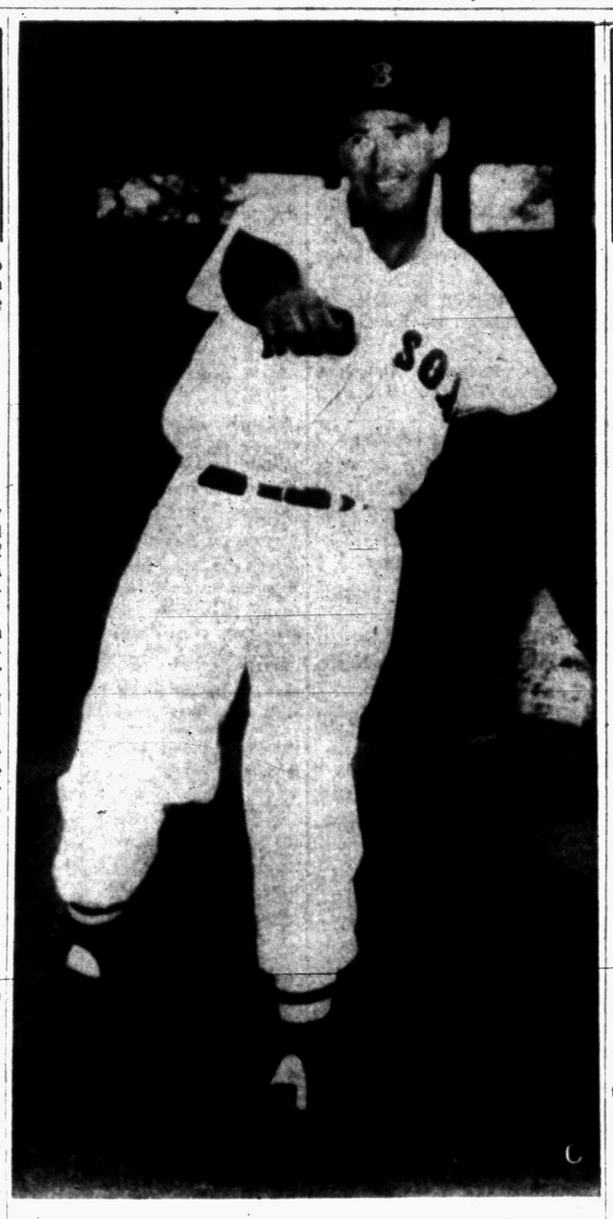

Scramble in Sight for Big 10's Title

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State's ball team, after a 3-0 blanking of Michigan yesterday, was in position today to make a scramble of the Big Ten championship race.

Spartans and Wolverines met here in a doubleheader to conclude the series that began with yesterday's game in Ann Arbor.

MSC's opener victory, achieved on redheaded Walt Godfrey's 5-hit pitching, gave the Spartans a 6-4 record and held Michigan in a 7-3 conference leadership tie with Minnesota. Gophers lost to Ohio State, 4-3.

WILLIAMS WORKS OUT — Ted Williams smiles happily as he throws ball to a catching partner as he began workouts Friday at Fenway Park, following his signing of a baseball contract for the balance of the 1955 season with the Red Sox. Williams also worked out in the batting cage, bunting, banging drives into the right field seats and off the left field wall.

Berkley Retains Baseball Lead in Inter-Lakes

Skippers Gain Second Place Tie as Southfield Nine Bows

Berkley still sets the pace in the Inter-Lakes baseball league, but the rest of the standings underwent a juggling Friday.

Berkley routed Farmington, 11-0, for its 6th win in 7 games, Waterford downed Walled Lake, 5-2, and gained a tie for 2nd place as Southfield fell at Van Dyke, 8-7.

Bob Blackwell tossed a 3-hitter against Farmington, striking out 16 and helped his cause with a grand-slam homed. Keith Phillips had a homer, double and 2 singles for Berkley.

Jerry Kruskie limited Walled Lake to 3 hits, and worked on a no-hitter for 5 frames. Two errors helped Waterford to its winning runs in the 2nd inning.

Play Opens Monday in Waterford Loop

Games are open to the public with no admission charged. The park is located just off the Dixie Highway in Drayton.

OSU in Lead, Michigan Tied at 2nd Place

Bucks Edge Gophers to Take Over as Spartans Blank Wolverines

CHICAGO (AP)—Ohio State moved into the Big Ten baseball lead and Michigan and Minnesota dropped into a tie for 2nd in fast developing action yesterday.

A further reshuffling in the 1st division may come after today's schedule which sends Indiana to Minnesota, Ohio State to Iowa and Michigan to Michigan State for doubleheaders.

Ohio State edged Minnesota 4-3 behind Harold Northrop's six-hitter to take the conference lead with a 5-2 record. The decisive Buckeye run in the 7th inning was protested by the Gophers.

The hassle came when Chuck Ellis' hit to center with Ron Shay and Warren Mizutani on base for Ohio State fell for a double. The base runners held up until the ball dropped between right fielder Shorty Cochran and Dick Anderson in center.

Shay was tagged out at the plate by Minnesota catcher Linder Peterson, who then faked a play for Ellis at 2nd and stumbled against Mizutani. Umpires eventually ruled that Mizutani actually had not been tagged and had scored.

Michigan State blanked Michigan 3-0 as Walt Godfrey hurled a five hitter. Spartans collected eight hits off Marv Wisniewski, one of them a homer by Bob Powell.

Illinois lost 9-6 to Wisconsin although getting 18 hits, including a Big Ten home run record display by sophomore Vic Petreshene.

Petreshene slammed two homers to run his production to six for the campaign, wiping out the record of five in one season by Michigan's Dick Wakefield in 1941.

Iowa downed Indiana 4-2 with catcher Don Bock accounting for all Hawkeyes' runs. He smashed a bases-loaded double and scored on a balk.

Mickey Steals Major Show

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some of the pitching arms may be getting weary and some of the joints creaky on the once mighty New York Yankees, but the spirit of Babe Ruth and Joe DiMaggio breathes on.

Mickey Mantle, the phlegmatic, boyish-looking Oklahoman who was marked prematurely for baseball greatness, rekindled memories of the Yankees' most prodigious hitting feats with three home runs yesterday which dazed the Detroit Tigers 5-2.

Mantle's one-man wrecking job dulled all other developments of a major league program chopped in half by four postponements because of widespread rain and unseasonable cold.

The quick-starting Brooklyn Dodgers forestalled any panic and snapped a two-game losing streak by whacking the Milwaukee Braves 6-2 on home runs by Junior Gilliam and Roy Campanella. Another well-known center fielder, Willie Mays, put a shot out of the park in the 10th inning to give the New York Giants a 4-3 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Boston Red Sox won a weird, rain-plagued game from the Kansas City Athletics 4-3 at Boston in which the winning run was walked home in the ninth. Kansas City Manager Lou Boudreau played the game under protest, contending play was resumed after an hour and 23 minutes delay before rain had stopped.

Inclement weather idled two National Leagues parks—Philadelphia at Cincinnati and Pittsburgh at Chicago—and, showing no favorites, did the same to the American. The Cleveland at Washington and Chicago at Baltimore games were rained out.

This permitted greater focusing on Mantle's slugging exhibition at Yankee Stadium, a big, blase ball yard which takes such things for granted.

But Yankee fans couldn't hide their glow. And the old questions reverberated again. Is this his year? Has Mickey finally come into his own? Is the Yankees' "Golden Boy" at last the nugget he was supposed to be?

Ever since he was plucked virtually from a playground—a shy, reticent young man with fantastic speed and hitting power—Mantle has been tabbed as the personality to fill the gate attraction role worn by such men as Ruth, Lou Gehrig and DiMaggio. But he has never quite made it.

* * *

He has had his great moments, such as the 565-foot home run in Washington in the spring of 1953, and his low ones, such as the four strikeouts in one game of the 1953 World Series after which he cried. But he has not been able to deliver on a sustained scale.

May's game-clinching home run for the Giants was his seventh of the season and saved a well-pitched game by John Windy McCall, who replaced Don Liddle in the third and gave up only two hits through the last eight innings. Hard-luck Harvey Haddix was the victim.

Gilliam and Campanella packaged their Brooklyn home runs in the fifth inning to spell defeat for Milwaukee's Bob Buhl. Billy Loes was the winner, giving up seven hits. One was a home run by catcher Del Crandall, who broke up Thursday night's game with a home run in the 12th.

Seek Marbles Titles

Championship finals of the Pontiac Press' annual marble tournament were scheduled this morning at the Crofoot school playground. Champions will be determined in two divisions, the Midgets, for youngsters under 12 years old, and Juniors, for youths between the ages of 12-14.

Midget shooters represent 17 Pontiac elementary and junior high schools. The Pontiac Press will award trophies to divisional winners. New champions will be crowned this year, since the defending titlists are not around.

Mantle's 'Switch' Homers Beat Tigers

NEW YORK (AP)—Switch-hitting Mickey Mantle, who yesterday joined the exclusive three-homers-in-one-game club, may have cured one of his biggest bugaboos—the strikeout problem.

"I'm trying to shorten my swing," the 23-year-old New York Yankee center fielder said after he had hit three home runs, two from the left and one from the right side of the plate. "I've been working on it and I think I'm getting the idea."

Mantle used a couple of borrowed bats to turn the feat. Batting left-handed, he homered in the 1st and 5th off right-handed pitcher Steve Gromek of the Detorit Tigers and then turning to the right side he homered in the 8th off lefty Bob Miller.

Batting left-handed, he also singled home a run in the 3rd to account for all the Yankee runs in a 5-2 victory over the Tigers.

Mantle disclosed that, in addition to using borrowed bats, he also had changed hit batting tactics at the suggestion of manager Casey Stengel and coach Bill Dickey.

Stengel had criticized his center fielder for trying to hit a home run every time and had suggested that he concentrate on meeting the ball.

"He'd hit the ball just as far and wouldn't strike out so much," the grizzled Yankee manager added. Mickey struck out 107 times last year, and fanned four times in a World Series game in 1953.

Mantle, presently batting .289, has hit a total of 10 home runs this season and shares the major league lead with Kansas City's Gus Zernial.

All yesterday's home runs were hit into the right center field bleachers and one—the 2nd one—measured 430 feet.

* * *

Mickey said in hitting the 1st two he used a bat which had been discarded by Enos Slaughter, who was sold by the Yankees this week to the Kansas City Athletics. Later he shifted to a stick borrowed from ailing teammate Bill Skowron and his 3rd homer came off this bat.

It marked the 1st time Mantle had hit three home runs in a single game. He also became the 1st American League batter to hit home runs from opposite sides of the plate.

Mantle's three homers completely overshadowed the game's 4th round-tripper, a well hit ball by Ray Boone which landed in the lower left field stands. The 7th inning blow was a face saver for the Tigers. It accounted for their only two runs and prevented the Yankees from scoring a shut-out.

CHRISTIAN HILLS' EXECUTIVE — Several hundred ranch-colonial houses are going up in the rolling acreage known as Christian Hills. This project is located on Adams and Crooks Rds. near Rochester and is being developed by Ranch Homes, Inc. The house in the photo above is known as "The Executive." Others are built on one-half acre plots of land with landscaped yards and winding driveways. One-floor plans, the houses feature three and four bedrooms, two ceramic tiled bathrooms, family kitchens and activity garages. "The President," (not shown) is the exclusive model in Christian Hills and this features a bedroom suite in one end with its own bathroom and dressing room. Natural fireplaces are included in these homes which are now open daily to the public. The house pictured is done in antique brick with bright turquoise for trim.

Want to Modernize?

Do-It-Yourself Plan Will Help You

Keeping your home up to date can be an enjoyable and satisfying project for your entire family. But you have to know where to start and when to stop.

New things to work with, new ways of speeding jobs for spare-time workers and a new spirit of cooperation among merchants, brought about by the do-it-yourself movement, are kind to your pocket book.

You can best decide where to start home modernization by deciding what home improvement your family needs the most.

Even if that project should be a new kitchen, you can't solve it entirely merely by buying new equipment.

You may want to install some new cabinets yourself, or build some shelves, or cover the floor, or redecorate the room.

Perhaps the family consensus will swing toward sprucing up the bathroom. You can even install colored clay tile yourself nowadays.

* * *

But usually the greatest need is for more space or more livable space to make your family life more pleasant. Homes can be enlarged in various ways.

A house with an attic is the easiest to enlarge. A dry basement, or a cellar that can be made dry, is the second best candidate. An attached garage often can be converted quickly into an extra room, especially since carports have proved to be adequate for modern automobiles.

In all of those instances, you have four walls and a roof to start with.

Your next most practicable choices are to enclose a breezeway or a porch for use as an extra room. Here you usually have two walls and a roof. A minimum of framing and windows are required. But they call for professional help.

Most expensive to build is a wing on your house, because this involves a new foundation, a new roof, three new walls and partial destruction of the old wall. This is a project full of pitfalls for amateurs.

* * *

But even a new wing for an extra bedroom doesn't cost as much as new house construction, because you don't have the heavy burden of bathroom, kitchen and utilities to figure on.

Auxiliary heat can be provided with modern space heaters, electric radiant glass panels, or if your furnace capacity is great enough, an extension from the present plant.

New building materials greatly simplify home enlargement projects. Sheet forms of sheathing, easily installed insulation complete with vapor barriers, various types of interior wallboards, floor covering tiles, prepasted wallpapers,

WITH NEW MATERIALS — You can modernize an old bathroom with today's new materials and methods. Thin-bed setting of clay tile for a vanity counter and built-in linen shelves create glamour like this.

But when it comes to structural work, such as enclosing a breezeway or porch, or building a wing, it is wise to call a halt to do-it-yourself plans.

Building codes can be involved as well as the structural safety of your house.

The smart do-it-yourself fan knows when a job calls for a professional. It's the difference between administering aspirin and leaving an appendectomy to a surgeon. Enlarging a window, installing a dormer, making changes in plumbing or electrical work are among jobs the wise amateur avoids.

With limitations, you can save yourself a lot of money and annoyance by making many improvements to your home.

Contractors are strong for the do-it-yourself movement, because they can't afford to tackle little jobs and don't want to lose your good will by charging you for the full time required from office to job to fix a dripping faucet.

Every householder today is expected to know how to turn off the water supply and replace a worn washer at the kitchen sink — how to replace a fuse plug without calling an electrician. But many novices have learned the hard way that it often costs more to get a botched-up building job rectified than it would have cost to have it done by a professional in the first place.

quick drying and odorless paints —each with instructions from their manufacturers — make it possible for almost any man and-or woman to tackle such jobs.

Hardwood plywoods, veneered in rare woods, make beautiful paneling easy and economical. Imitation paneling is reproduced photographically on wallpapers and pre-decorated wallboard. New

Why Contractors Want You to Do Small Repairs

Small repairs around a house are best done by the homeowner. Contractors and skilled workmen, who are reluctant to come to your home on minor jobs, are usually trying to save you money.

A crack develops, for instance, between a bathtub and the tile-work in your new home. You call a tile setter and find him definitely not eager to have the job. The reason is that the work itself can be done in less than a half hour. But the worker needs perhaps a half hour to reach your home, another half hour to get back to his office, and if lunch time or quitting time is near at the end of the trip it is not worthwhile to start another project.

The result is the worker must charge perhaps two hours time, plus overhead, for a half hour job. Knowing this cost will be out of line, and rather than chance losing your good will, he prefers to have you do the job yourself.

You can buy a tube of crack filler for bathroom walls at any hardware store. You can patch cement between tiles yourself. You can fix leaky faucets, point up brickwork, replace broken window panes, sand the edges of doors that bind, and perform many other little jobs without skilled help.

Give your plumber, electrician or carpenter all the information you can on the problem that comes up so he can visualize the work. In most cases he will be glad to give you whatever simple instructions you need for doing the job yourself.

Q—Do newly plastered walls have to be sized for paperhanging?—P. H.

A—Yes, they must be coated with glue size. But be certain the walls are dry before applying the size, and don't hang the paper until the size has dried.

Use Caution on Insects

All insect killers should be handled carefully and should be stored out of the reach of pets and children. When using the solutions, follow the manufacturers' instructions to the letter.

Corner cupboards like or similar in design to the one shown in the sketch above were probably the most widely used built-ins to be found in Early American homes. The increasing popularity of these cupboards in modern homes stems likely from their beauty and utility. Here is a design that combines these two qualities. The saw lines for the scallops and other irregular shapes are traced directly from the pattern to the wood. The pattern allows for variations in ceilings. Pattern 138 for making the cupboard and 261 for three styles of wall pockets are 25c each if ordered separately. Pattern 261 is included in the packet of five patterns for making Early American Reproductions.

Kitchen Traffic Control Needed

Ideal Room Should Be Divided Into Two Parts

Preparing a meal at a busy street intersection is a good stunt except to the harried housewives who feel they do it every day.

These unfortunate homemakers, with kitchens better suited for family census taking, would do well to consider remodeling for safety's sake, convenience, to ease the physical and emotional strain of overwork.

Even better-designed kitchens can be improved. They, too, are subject to excessive family traffic, because all kitchens today have again taken up the role as centers of family activities and informal entertaining areas.

The ideal kitchen should be divided in at least two parts. One should be reserved for food preparation and cooking only. The other parts, separated from the cooking area by practical countertops or storage shelves, may serve for entertaining or family hobbies.

The classic U-shaped kitchen is eminently suitable for this arrangement. The work space should be located around the closed end of the "U" with appliances preferably set right into the countertops and walls. The open end may serve as space for after-theater snacks or other informal purposes. The play area for children can be located on either side of the "U," outside the kitchen work space.

Basic to this design is a counter-top defining the entire area. When made of a versatile, durable material such as ceramic tile practical and decorative results are guaranteed.

Because many kitchen accidents come from falls on slippery floors, slightly abrasive ceramic mosaic floor surfacing is recommended. Its slip-proof qualities are good insurance against dangerous falls.

Last but not least, every kitchen should have two entrances, one near the work area and the other near the informal play area. Thus no unnecessary traffic can interfere with the homemaker busy about her tasks.

Windows Treated

An important difference between factory-made ponderosa pine windows and windows made on the job or in small shops is preservative treatment. Factory-made windows are chemically treated to resist warping, swelling, shrinking, and rotting.

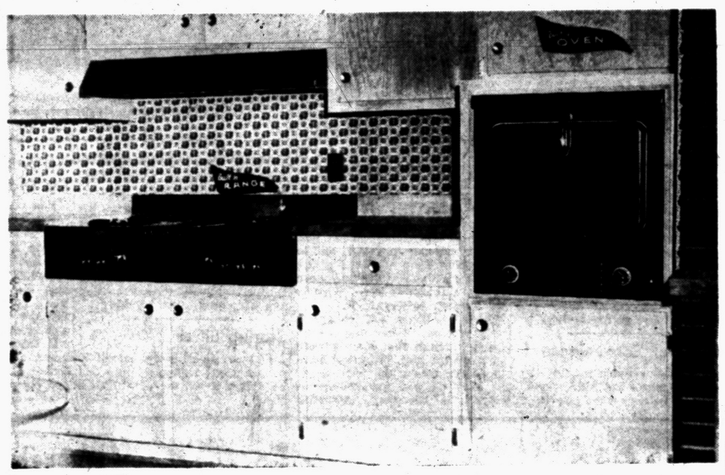

Top and Bottom

Contrary to some beliefs, the northernmost town in the United States is not in New England. It is Penasse, Minn. Key West, Fla., is its southernmost counterpart.

CHARNWOOD HILLS — This lovely, one-story gray brick with white clapboard section is located at 2898 Bretby in the new Charnwood Hills, a development located east of Adams Rd. between Square Lake Rd. and South Blvd. Placed at the top of a wooded hill, this colonial ranch-styled home has ceiling-to-floor windows in the living room area and California contemporary height windows in the bedroom wing of the home. The light gray roof of the home gives an illusion of greater height. This is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stolte.

How to Make Your Wallpaper Stick

Q — Some friends bought an old house and repapered the walls. After four months the wallpaper started peeling off in large pieces (walls were sized previously) and nothing makes it stick. Now we have bought an old home and want to repaper. What will make the paper stick and stay??

— Mrs. E. O.

A — If there are more than three layers of old wallpaper, remove paper to the bare plaster. Wash the plaster walls with a solution of warm water and sal soda to rid walls of old glue size and paste. Fill holes and cracks with patching plaster, let dry; sand patches and apply glue size over entire walls. If there are stained spots on plaster, coat stains with thinned shellac before sizing. If you do not remove old wallpaper, don't apply glue size over it when repapering.

A Travel Convenience

Use hard-to-detach patched tags with your name and address on all pieces of luggage when you travel.

What to Do About Wet Plaster Walls

Q — In summer the plaster wall by our chimney gets wet, and in the winter when we have a fire in the furnace the walpaper cracks and comes loose. What is the answer? — Mrs. F. P.

A — It's likely that leakage is your problem. Water may be entering through the joint between chimney and roof. The metal flashing which covers the joint should be inspected and recalked or replaced, if necessary. Assuming your chimney is of brick construction, there is another possible leakage point. Water enters between the bricks and flue lining at the chimney top if there is no barrier to prevent it. A mortar cap, covering the top course of bricks and sloped upward to the flue lining, will direct water away from this point. Finally, the entire chimney may need to be repointed.

Storing Silver

Flat or silver pieces stored in tarnish-proof wrapping need not be opened if you use identification tags.

'Tis Branding Time for Your Tools

Now that everyone in the neighborhood seems bent on repairing and renewing his household and garden, the borrowing instinct often comes to the fore. For this reason, it's wise to paint the handles of your tools in a color that's as distinguishable as a cattleman's brand. When you choose a paint-color, remember to select one that contrasts brightly with grass and earth so that garden tools will not be overlooked when you complete a job and round up your accessories.

Make Do

Glass circles can be cut with a homemade glass cutter compass. Practical Builder magazine suggests screwing an ordinary glass cutter to the end of a wooden bar. Holes for adjustable radii are bored in the bottom of the bar. A rubber suction cup with a screw imbedded in it forms the pivot.

Simple Safety Hints Can Save Lives in Bath

Figures reveal that one in every 20 persons burned and one in every six persons poisoned in the home, are injured in the bathroom. To help prevent these accidents, here are some important safety hints:

1. Pipes must be big enough for a good water supply at peak periods. Burns resulting from sudden changes in water pressure will thus be avoided.

2. One in every three deaths from poisoning in the home is that of a child under five. Therefore, all bathrooms should have a locked compartment for poisons, laxatives, headache remedies, and other drugs.

3. Falls are a common accident in the bathroom. Perfect for floors is a slip-resistant material such as tile whose durable, slightly abrasive surfaces help prevent falls on wet floors.

4. A grab-bar in the tile wainscot above the tub will also prevent dangerous falls.

5. Electrical switches should be located well beyond reach of the tub and wash basin. Never use electrical appliances in the bathroom. The person who plugs in the radio for a musical bath is courting the funeral march.

6. Never forget that the bathroom door should have a lock which can be worked from the outside in case someone becomes ill inside or a small child locks himself in.

Four of Five Choose Flush Doors Today

According to a recent Bureau of Labor Statistic's survey, 78.9 per cent of the doors installed in new homes last year were of the flush type. The material used for making smooth flush doors is hardwood plywood in a choice of species, such as birch, gum and oak. The survey covered 202,000 new homes in every price class and area.

JOB TIP—Here's how to hang storm sash or screens so that no hardware is exposed to the outside: Drill holes for dowels in the top of the sash, gluing the dowels so they'll hold fast. Let these project 1 to 1½ inches. Drill holes in the window frame slightly larger to allow enough play for the dowels to slip in. Hooks and eyes on the inside hold the sash at the sill, says the American Builder.

Tile Countertops Increase Quality

Kitchen countertops surfaced with life-lasting ceramic tile are a great improvement because virtually nothing can ever mar tile's attractive appearance. Builders and architects alike admit that ceramic tile increases kitchen quality many times.

The colors never fade.

Hottest pans and dishes may be placed on its surface, without danger, for tile is fireproof, too. Besides all this permanent protection and beauty, waterproof tile prevents rotting in the wood underlayment from seeping water.

Bathroom Color Choice Hinges on Basic Rules

A few basic rules for selecting colors in bathroom tilework and fixtures have been worked out by experience.

Color experts says that if a bathroom is small, as most of them are, the wisest course is to use the same color for both the walls and the floor.

If you have two or more tile colors, you will automatically limit your choice of colors for accessories, since they will have to go with all the tile shades.

With a single tile color, on the other hand you can use a number of different shades for accessories and still have a satisfactory room. The color scheme can be changed completely from time to time by using towels, shower curtains and bath mats in a different shade. Such a change of accessories will do as much as an ordinary decorating job to freshen up the room.

SOUTH WILLIAMSBURG IN BIRMINGHAM — New houses going up in Birmingham along South Williamsburg Rd. will include a group of combination colonial ranch styles. Brick homes with small sections of frame are being constructed on this street. Shutters are used for window trim and ledgerock planters face the front entrance ways. Bruton Realty Co. is handling the sales in this area.

Home Pools Cost Depends on Source, Kind of Labor

A pool costs $1,000.80.

A pool costs $3,632.00.

Each cost estimate is correct and realistic. The answer of course, depends on the type of construction, the size, the filtration requirements, and the amount of labor you contribute yourself.

The design of a pool, the soil and the climate will also affect the price, according to Hubbard Cobb. Mr. Cobb points out that you just have to be realistic about what you want. You have to decide whether you want an honest-to-goodness pool that will be a permanent improvement to the property—or an enjoyable toy that may not.

Pools completely installed by professionals usually come highest . . . and for a good reason. Aside from the cost of labor, there's no gamble on strength! Any contractor who takes on a job stakes his reputation and chance for future profits on the job he does. He wants to make very sure that nothing goes wrong. So, the costs go up.

Naturally when you do part of the work yourself the costs go down. And on a do-it-yourself pool the cost is even lower. But you take a chance on quality.

Add New Color

Even the dullest home interior can have new life if you use color creatively in your decorating. More than any other single item, color brings new joy into home decor. So refresh yourself and your family with color everywhere. Paint walls in relaxing pastels, re-do kitchen and bathroom in any of the 200 color-lasting ceramic tile shades, cheer up the entrance way with bold primary colors. Do the same with furnishings, drapes and other accessories—make them gay with color.

Vacuum Fiber Rugs Before Paint Job

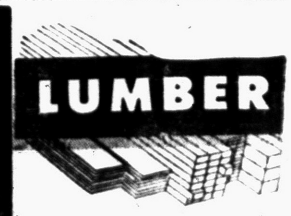

If you have been using your fiber rugs indoors through the winter, it is not too early to get them reconditioned for outdoor service during the summer.

Vacuum clean them on both sides, and then decide whether they could use a paint job.

If so, the sprayer attachment of the vac is excellent for the purpose. At the same time, check over your wicker furniture, blow out the dust with a vacuum cleaner attachment and spray-paint if it seems necessary.

Hard Wearing Finish

A good floor finish is one of the sealer types that penetrate and become part of the wood, so that it will only wear away as the wood itself wears.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

California builds for economy. This compact two-bedroom house for a small family is built without basement and heated with floor furnace with registers in living room and bedroom hall. Garage is built long enough to provide laundry space. This is Plan 727 by J. Lloyd Conrich, 593 Market St., San Francisco 5, Calif. The house covers 993 square feet; garage 246 square feet.

(Further information and plans available from architect.)

Here's How . . . .

Do Outside Painting

Normally a well painted house with wood siding does not need re-painting more often than once in four to six years. Painting too often may result in an unnecessarily thick coat that may crack or peel.

Check the condition of the paint. Dirty paint may be scrubbed with a brush and a mild detergent, then rinsed with a garden hose.

* * *

If painting is needed, check first to see if wood parts need to be replaced, repaired or re-nailed. Then, check all cracks or loose knots, and repair with a good wood filler and knot sealer.

Where old paint has cracked or peeled, scrape and sand the loose material. Brush the surface clean after filling and sanding. Coat sanded areas with primer.

The craftsman will need ladders (or scaffolding for over two stories), drop cloths, rags, paint thinner, screening, extra pails for mixing, stirring paddles, scrapers and sandpaper. Brushes 4½ to 5 inches wide are used for large surfaces; and 1½ to 2-inch brushes for trim. Use sash brushes around windows.

For new wood surfaces use a primer first. For old surfaces primers are not necessary except on scraped and sanded areas. See your local building supply dealer for advice as to the best paints for the job.

Apply paint during a dry spell when humidity is low; but not on an extremely hot day. Choose moderate temperature; never below 40 degrees F. Wait until the dew has dried, and work in the shade.

Mix paint thoroughly, dissolving all pigment. Use paint sparingly on the brush — never more than half a brush full at a time. Work the paint into the surface of the wood by stroking back and forth to avoid running and streaking.

Always paint the sash, trim and doors first. If righthanded, start in the upper left corner and stroke to the right, working from top to bottom of the area. Make sure the surface is covered; fill any voids before the paint has dried.

Dos, Don'ts for Bandsaw and Metals

DO . . . remember that the ordinary woodworking bandsaw can be used for cutting metals by changing to metal-cutting blades and reducing the blade speed.

DO . . . cut down on blade breakage by selecting a blade that contact with the work at all times.

DO . . . start all cuts slowly with light pressure, gradually increasing the feeding pressure as the blade takes hold of the stock.

Free Booklet Now Ready on Floors

If you're planning to build, you will find a great deal of helpful information on floor selection in the new edition of "Oak Floors for Your Home," a free 32-page booklet now available. In addition to an explanation of the various types, sizes and grades of oak flooring, the pocket-size guide contains up to date pointers on installation and care. To receive a copy simply address a postcard or letter request to the Oak Flooring Information Service, 77 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill.

Oak Floors Help in House Sales

It pays to specify oak floors for a new home even if decorative plans involve the use of complete floor covering at first, many builders and home planning experts assert. They point out that when the floor covering becomes worn, the attractive oak floors can be brought into play as part of a new decorative arrangement. Another important consideration is that floors of oak add to the resale value of a house.

New Capital House to Open

Part of World's Fair, Goal Is to Help Improve Housing

WASHINGTON (INS) — A house dedicated to housing opens in the nation's capital this summer.

No ordinary place, America's new national housing center promises wonders on the housing front for both home builders and buyers in the years to come.

Featured in the eight-story building not far from the White House will be such housing marvels as disappearing stairs, ice-free sidewalks and electronic doors of the future.

It's all part of a $2,500,000 "world's fair" of housing which will be opened Aug. 15 by the National Association of Home Builders in an effort to help improve housing conditions in the U. S.

Six floors have been allocated for public exhibitions by the nation's leading manufacturers of materials and products that go into making a new home. The upper two stories will house NAHB's headquarters and its Housing Research Institute.

The exhibits will cover a wide range of home products including the last word in air conditioning and heating, bathroom accessories, hardware, insulation, kitchen and laundry equipment and scores of other materials and fixtures.

Only one of its kind in the U. S. also will provide the latest ideas on modern home design and construction along with a continuing series of educational programs for the building and allied industries and the home-buying public.

"Our objective," says center director Neal J. Hardy, "is to make the National Housing Center a great and vital force for the entire building industry."

Some of the new tricks of the trade to be exhibited will show how radiant heating can keep sidewalks clear of snow and ice, an automobile gadget which opens a garage door, a how-to-do-it display for the home owner and a mechanism which selects a harmonious color combination for the interior of a new or old house.

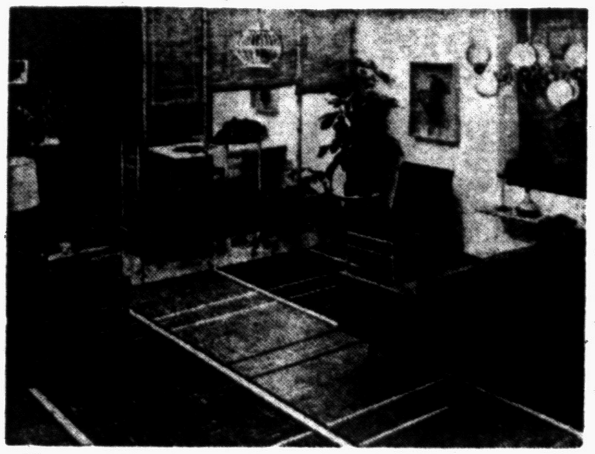

Protect Wood for "Underground"

When you are adding new fence posts, clothesline posts or supports for abors, be sure to apply preservatives to prevent the rotting of the wood that spends its time beneath the surface of the ground.

Such preservatives, mainly chlorinated phenols and zinc naphthenates, penetrate the pores of the wood and help it withstand the attacks of destructive fungi.

Any type of paint can be applied successfully over the chlorinated phenols and zinc naphthenates. Copbut tend to bleed through some paint coatings.

The age-old beauty and mystery of the Far East are reflected in modern home decoration. Rich Oriental woods, and decorative accessories echoing the colors and culture of Asian centuries, are used in adaptations suited to present day living. Bamboo, wicker and cane, in warm beige shades from natural to deep honey, fashion window curtains, furniture and many other articles, that feature simple, functional lines. In contrast, the art and decorative objects used for beauty and accent, all display the vivid colors and hand-carved look long associated with the opulent luxury of the East. Here are two rooms which show the exotic influence of the Orient.

Retractable Door for Dining Table

A new idea suitable for both new and old homes is the use of a smooth hardwood plywood flush door as a built in dining table which can be retracted into the kitchen after a meal for easy cleaning. The table passes through an aperture between the dining area and the kitchen. The hardwood plywood in flush doors is the same fine material used in professional made dining tables.

Venetian Blinds for Modernizing

A short cut in modernizing home interiors—once you have decided on your wallpaper and painting scheme—is to install venetian blinds. You can do a lot of decorating tricks with venetian blinds. By using a little ingenuity, you can employ blinds in ways that will save you real money.

These contrivances can make windows seem much larger than they actually are. They can give you the decorative appearance of a window where there is no window.

They can cut down drafts in the winter and help with air cooling in the summer.

Here's how the indoor appearance of a window can be enlarged. Suppose your window is 3 feet wide. Hang a venetian blind 4 feet wide in front of it. Build a box valance 5 feet wide to accommodate the blind when it is raised. Hang your draperies from a rod inside that cornice so they will cover a foot or so on each side of the window.

The result is that you have a window 5 feet wide as far as interior appearances are concerned.

• • •

Architects have used the same kind of camouflage on the outside of windows for generations by employing shutters which people do not use. The same tactics indoors produce the effect of a wider window without cutting an expensive hole in a house.

Faking a window where there is none is just as easy. Suppose you have two small windows at the end of a room. They may be separated by a space that could have been used for a third window, if it wouldn't have made the exterior design look lopsided.

You can treat that space as a third window and keep a venetian blind closed over it.

Or you can treat the entire room end as a window wall, hanging a wide venetian blind across it with draperies down the corners.

As for stopping drafts, blinds act almost like storm windows. When closed they create a buffer space and diffuse whatever draft leaks in by acting as baffles.

In summer they insulate in another way. Tests have shown that when the slats of venetian blinds are tilted at 45 degree angles, they can reflect much heat while letting air circulate and add an insulating value varying from 20 to 35 per cent at the window.

A decorating advantage of venetian blinds is the possibility of painting the indoor sides of the slats any color to harmonize with a room scheme, while leaving the exterior sides a neutral shade to unify exterior appearances.

A California manufacturer has been making metal venetian blinds for some time in 10 or more colors on the inside with an ivory finish for uniformity on the outside.

You can do the same thing with almost any type of venetian blinds. Remove the slats and place them inside-up on newspapers on the floor. New latex base paints will cover them neatly without brush marks. Or if you can get the exact shade you want in one of the new aerosol spray cans, you can spray paint them as neatly as a factory job.

As for suspension tape, you can get that now in virtually any contrasting or blending color you want. Or the ladies can dye it as easily as they tint their frilly frills.

Autos, Furniture Have Common Bond

Automobile and furniture may be poles apart in construction—yet fashionable steel outdoor chairs and chaises are bonderized by The Troy Sunshade Company for rust protection and to resist marring, chipping or peeling with the exact method as is used for automobiles.

Colors are identically impregnated bringing to 1955's summer furniture crop a range of soft, pastel shades as well as the vivid tones used in today's high-style automobiles.

Plastic Drawers for Cabinets

These smooth, non - warping drawers are available in two standard sizes: 17⅛ inches wide by 14¾ inches long and 4¾ inches high with 3½ inches of inside depth; also 16¾ inches wide by 14½ inches long by the same height and inside depth. Other sizes are scheduled.

Since drawer making is one of the most complicated and time consuming tasks for the handyman, these prefabricated units ranging around $5 in cost, offer welcome short cuts.

How to Estimate House Paint Needs

Since top quality paint covers about 500 square feet per gallon, it's easy to determine your paint needs by the method shown here.

Scene I. Anybody's back yard Anywhere, U.S.A. Mr. and Mrs. Anybody are seated in their patio, eyes shut, basking in the Saturday sun, the picture of relaxation. Mrs. Anybody speaks:

"George, I think you should paint the house."

George opens his eyes wide and quickly closes them, tightly. Very tightly. He feigns sleep.

Mrs. Anybody rises, quits the scene and returns shortly with a paint brush. Mr. Anybody has quit the scene, via the back fence. End Scene I.

Scene II. The neighborhood paint store. Mr. Anybody speaks:

"How much paint do I need to cover a house 20 by 40 feet?"

Finis.

You've just witnessed a one-act melodrama that will be repeated (with variations) every day in Anywhere, U.S.A., during the summer months. Always the last line is the same—"How much paint do I need?"

This being a universal question, it deserves an all-inclusive answer. The answer supplied by the Sherwin-Williams Company to its paint dealers, who in turn relay it to their customers, is this rule of thumb:

1. Compute the square feet of surface to be covered by multiplying the number of feet around the house by its average height to the eaves, then add two feet to the average height. The extra two feet automatically takes care of paint needs for the gables.

2. Ascertain from your paint dealer approximately how many square feet each gallon of undercoater covers, then divide the total square feet of area by this figure.

3. Similarly, learn the square feet coverage of a gallon of topcoat house paint, and divide the total square feet of surface by this figure.

For example, a house 20 by 40 feet with an average height to the eaves of 13 feet has a surface area about 1800 square feet. A good grade of undercoater, or prime coat, covers about 450 square feet per gallon, and a top-quality house paint covers 500 square feet per gallon. A little simple arithmetic reveals that four gallons of undercoater and three-and-a-half gallons of house paint are needed to cover.

Incidentally, this two-coat system is recommended for previously painted houses. A prime coat is the best base for a top coating, no matter how many times the house has been painted.

There is another factor to consider, however, before ordering paint. It is the condition of the surface.

If it is unusually rough, heavily textured, dry and porous, it may require 20 per cent more paint, according to the Glidden Company. Concrete block, for instance, usually takes even more—up to 50 per cent more paint—for the first coat.

Since there is more surface to cover on corrugated metal than on smooth metal, it requires one-third more paint. For the same reason, narrow lap siding uses up to 10 per cent more paint than wide lap siding.

No matter what kind of surface you are painting, allow 8 hours' drying time between coats.

Tile Offers Home Safety

Quality kitchens whose floors are surfaced with ceramic mosaics offer another advantage besides durability and beauty: safety. The slightly abrasive tile surfaces resist slipping. Being impervious to water and other spillage, these tiles can not soak up water and thus leave a moist spot for the homemaker to slip on. They are quickly dried with just a cloth or mop.

Home Ownership Sweeps Over Country Today

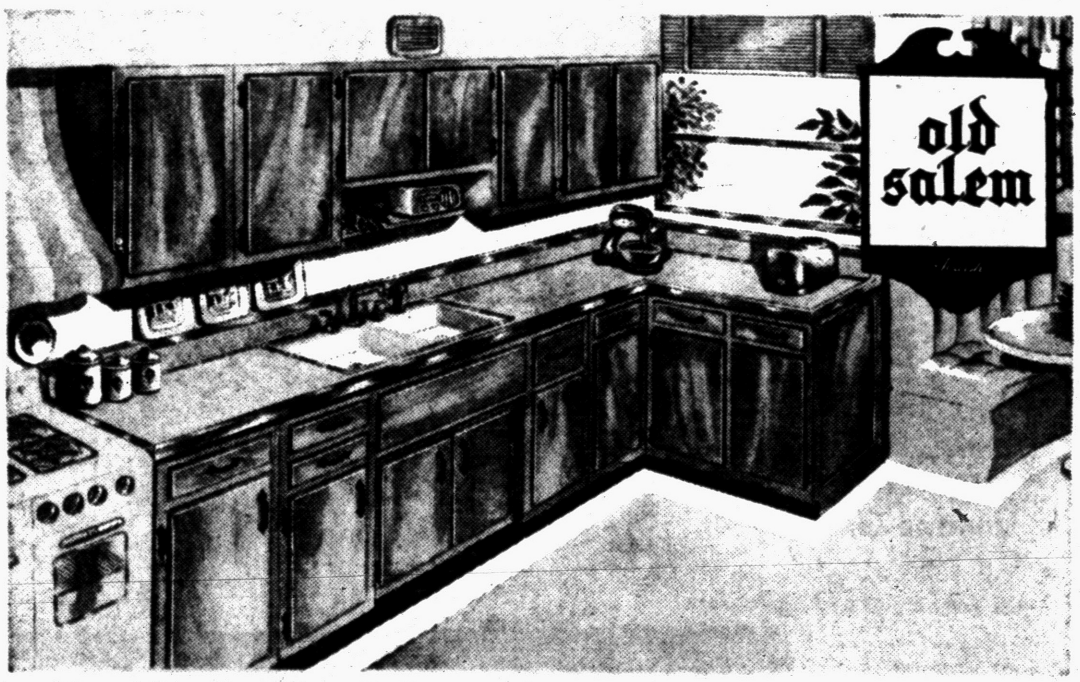

The trend to home ownership in the last few years has been tremendous.

After World War II, a great wave of buying saw 8,000,000 families seeking new homes. Today, some 24,000,000 prosperous families own their own homes. Population growth and modern construction have combined to make home-building one of the industrial giants of the land. As a result, home design has jumped years ahead.

Just a generation or so ago, the average home had but one bathroom, two bedrooms, and a kitchen. And though the latter had automatic appliances, they usually were awkwardly placed, and not built-in. Today, the trend in even mass housing is toward extra bathroom facilities, with a really fine material like ceramic tile covering all surfaces where a waterproof, decorative material is needed.

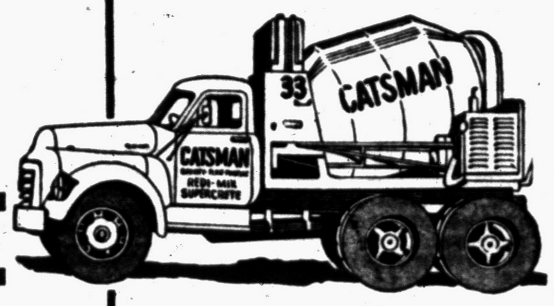

Today's home has at least three bedrooms and a kitchen whose built-in appliances are taken for granted.

6 REASONS
WHY YOU SHOULD USE
Ready-Mixed CONCRETE

HIGH QUALITY

Ready-Mixed Concrete is of high quality, accurately proportioned at a central plant with modern batching equipment. Each batch is designed for your specific job and is thoroughly mixed to insure concrete of uniform quality, durability and high strength.

CONVENIENCE

Ready-Mixed Concrete results in maximum convenience on the job. You don't have the problem of estimating the quantities of cement and aggregates required. You save the time, trouble and hard labor of handling and mixing materials. It does away with stock piles of aggregates and stores of cement that take up space on the job site. And, too, there's no cleaning up of excess materials upon completion of the job. A phone call will bring the concrete to your job, and in many cases, it may be placed directly into your forms.

SPEED

Ready-Mixed Concrete avoids delays in placing operations because it is delivered when and where it is needed. It is ready to deposit in your forms immediately upon delivery, often without re-handling, thus speeding up operations. The exact quantity of concrete needed is delivered directly to the job site—construction crews lose no time in waiting to start or finish a job.

ECONOMY

Ready-Mixed Concrete is economical. And big-volume efficiency methods mean low costs . . . even small jobs get the benefit of large-volume production. There's no waste — for concrete is delivered in the exact amount desired — no wasteful left-over materials, no costly reordering. Neither is it necessary to rent or purchase a mixer. You know what the concrete for your job will cost because the price it quoted before the concrete is delivered.

DURABILITY

Ready-Mixed Concrete is durable. It is scientifically designed and properly mixed to insure the quality desired for specific jobs. Too much water in the mix causes a loss in strength and durability. Skilled concrete technicians at ready-mix plants determine the amount of water to be added to the portland cement and aggregates. The amount of water used in mixing Ready-Mixed Concrete is always right for good durability.

DEPENDABILITY

Ready-Mixed Concrete is dependable because there is full strength and uniformity in every load. With modern precision batching equipment, each truckload coming to your job is alike and exactly as you have specified. This makes it possible to obtain uniform strength and appearance in the finished work. You can depend upon Ready-Mixed Concrete to be available where and when you want it.

Seasons Bring Palette of Colors to Dress Home and Furniture

Certain color schemes in Nature seem to belong to different seasons of the year. Each Spring brings forth pale yellows and yellow-greens, hyacinth blues, delicate pinks and tones of violet.

Summer and Fall bring the richer, stronger colors without deviation. If people were just as consistent, we might repeat the same painted color schemes on our porch and garden furniture year after year and think no more about it.

But we are never content to live without change. So, each Spring we discover that the designers and colorists who cater to our wishes and sense our desires have brought forth new and different color schemes for the furniture that plays such an important part in our treasured leisure hours.

Whether you're buying new furniture or merely repainting older pieces so they look like new—this year's color schemes are of interest to you. It's good to know, for instance, that the high-style paint colors for the graceful iron chairs and the tables with glass, tile or marble tops, are antique white, cream, dusky black, aqua, pale pink and coral.

Then there's a painted effect known as "gold dust" that's achieved by sprinkling a little gold metallic powder on newly painted surfaces before the paint has a chance to dry. Verdigris and Pompeiian green also play an important role in this year's garden furniture picture.

Most of the aluminum tubing furniture is silver in color, but some of the chairs are dull gold. These are combined with plastic webbing in black or white.

For the sturdy wooden furniture, the strong reds, vivid greens and royal blues share their popularity with glistening white enamels. The transparent spar varnishes that reveal the natural markings of the wood they protect also remain in high favor.

Whether you're repainting metal or wood furniture—any surface, as a matter of fact—you must first make sure that the surface is clean, smooth, free from rust or flaking paint.

When you're working on iron or steel surfaces, stel wool is a great aid in removing rust. After the rust is completely eliminated, the bare spots should be given a coating of metal primer to protect against further destructive attacks of corrosion.

When you're working on wooden furniture, fill cracks or nail head indentations with spackling material, then sand the surface level.

Shellac's Drying Time

Shellac is quick drying, hardening dust-free within 10 minutes, but it should not be walked on, even lightly, in less than an hour. For best results, allow at least three hours between first and second coats. If a third coat is desired, allow an overnight drying period.

How to Refinish Hardwood Floors

Tip on refinishing hardwood floors.

To the homemaker who desires a more uniform color in hardwood floors, it is an easy matter these days to apply the newly created "Color Sealers" to the freshly cleaned surfaces. The colors are mixed with a penetrating sealer at the factory.

These combination sealers are easily applied if instructions are followed carefully. The popular tones are the browns, but pastel shades of other colors are in demand among homemakers who have the time and opportunity to change decorative schemes frequently.

The color sealers are ideal for finishing the sound lower grades of flooring, especially the "Thrifty" third grade of Maple. Most local paint and hardware stores now carry these highly recommended color-sealer products.

If you're going to do your painting in the garden, choose a clear and windless day. Make sure that your paint is free from lumps and that the solid and liquid substances are thoroughly merged before you begin. Usually, it's convenient to pour some of your paint into an empty coffee tin. It's so easy to dip your brush into such a wide-mouthed container.

Before you begin to paint, get all your accessories together: paint, brushes, coffee tin, stirring paddle, paint rag and paint brush cleaner. Then you're really ready to go to town—without interruption.

NEW TUB — Lightweight and graceful, this new tub is made of plastic and fiberglas.

Stationary Tub Loses Weight, Adds Glamour

The stationary laundry tub has taken on glamour. Soapstone, porcelain and concrete have given way to fiberglas reinforced plastic in green, blue, yellow or white. The weight of the tub has been reduced by 90 percent — so light that a woman can lift it. The prosaic angle-iron stand has been replaced by a graceful wrought iron fixture. The tubs are made of the same material now being used for lightweight bathtubs, sports car bodies and military body armor.

Window Dressing Saves 'Sore-Thumb'

A window halfway up a stairway often needs some dressing-up to avoid an awkward, "sore-thumb" appearance. Most satisfying way to do it is by a pleasing arrangement of potted plants or flowers.

Essential to this is a protective covering for the windowsill. A decorative yet waterproof and scratch-proof material such as ceramic tile is ideal. Individual tiles can be used under the pots or better the windowsill can be lined permanently with the tiles.

Vets Set Record

War veterans are setting a record in payments on their home mortgages. The Mortgage Bankers Assn., surveying 1,700,000 home loans, found GI payment delinquencies of two months to be less than one-third of 1 per cent.

Keep Woodworking Tools Sharp

Once upon a time your woodworking tools were new and sharp—remember?—and you felt you could do work with them that was worthy of a trained cabinetmaker. But you weren't using the tools often, and when they needed sharpening you let it ride.

Now, however, you've gotten into the full swing of the do-it-yourself trend and your tools aren't what they used to be. Neither is your work. Your plane slips and gouges, your chisels won't chisel and your auger bits won't auger—to coin a verb.

So you want to sharpen up, but you don't know how.

Let's start with the plane. Next to the saw it's very likely the most important single tool. To sharpen it you need a little skill, only two oilstones—coarse and fine—and a can of oil. Saw sharpening, on the other hand, takes a higher degree of skill and some tools you probably don't have or don't care to buy. Saws are best sharpened by a professional.

First off, square up the cutting edge of the plane blade by holding it vertically on the coarse stone and passing it back and forth. Bear down hardest on the side that needs to be taken down.

Use a little light machine oil diluted with an equal amount of kerosene on the stone in all the sharpening operations.

Next, stone the face of the plane blade to remove tool marks or rough spots. These depressions in the face make a true edge impossible unless removed. Use an oval movement with the blade's face flat on the fine stone. And use plenty of oil.

Now stone the bevel on the underside of the blade, being careful to maintain it at the original angle, or at such an angle that only the cutting edge touches the wood you plane. Start with the coarse stone and finish with the fine. Use a continuous "figure-8" or oval movement.

Soon you'll achieve what is called a "wire edge," an indication that the job is nearly done. You have only to remove the wire edge—the very edge of the blade, which has been stoned down so far that it bends away from the stone and refuses to be stone off.

To break the wire edge, run it across a piece of hardwood once or twice. Don't try to stone it off.

Last, you stone the bevel at the very tip of the blade. Put the blade bevel flat on a fine stone, raise the heel of it slightly, hold the blade rigid and use the figure-8 motion on the oiled stone. To test the edge for fineness, place it on a thumbnail. If it slides down, continue stoning.

Your chisel can be sharpened in exactly the same manner. To sharpen auger bits, an auger-bit file or stone can be used.

Stone or file the upper side of a bit's cutting edges, retaining the original bevel. Stone the opposite side of the bevel just enough to remove any burr, then stone or file the small spurs that score the wood in advance of the cutting edges. Stone them on the inside only.

A cabinet scraper should be sharpened in a vise, using an oilstone on the bevel, which should be about 45 degrees. Use a coarse stone first, then a fine one, take off the wire edge with a piece of hardwood.

The most difficult part is to shape the hooked edge of the scraper. After all the sharpening is done, roll the edge over with a burnisher. This takes a hard but even pressure. Correctly sharpened, a cabinet scraper gives a fine shaving on wood.

Ease and Safety in New Design for Stepladder

Have you ever wondered why somebody doesn't do something about the straight edges on stepladder steps which play havoc with with your shinbones every time you do a dab of painting or some similar chore?

Well, somebody has—at last.

After much thought and a little work, John L. McGlothen, 65-year-old, retired Pittsburgh, Pa., machinest, came up with a concave—or inwardly offset—tread that permits you to work in a sort of cradle.

Demonstrating his improved ladder recently, McGlothen, a big man, moved about—facing backward and forward—with an agility just about impossible on a conventional ladder.

"When using a straight-tread ladder," he explained, "a man must stand in a twisted, awkward and off-balance position. He cannot brace himself.

"With this ladder he has freedom of toe movements and can stand at ease; facing in any direction, with legs firmly secure in the recess of the tread."

McGlothen has patents on both the tread and strut support design. But he has one big problem. No one has stepped forward with an offer to manufacture the new ladder.

Q—My house has brick veneer walls. Does it need insulation?

A—Yes. Brick veneer and other solid constructions do not prevent heat loss. It would take nearly 6 feet of common brick to do the work of only 3 inches of mineral wool insulation. Heat escapes through walls and roof, through plaster and masonry, through anything that is cold to the touch. Thus, even the most solidly built house will be cold in winter and hot in summer unless there's adequate wall and ceiling insulation.

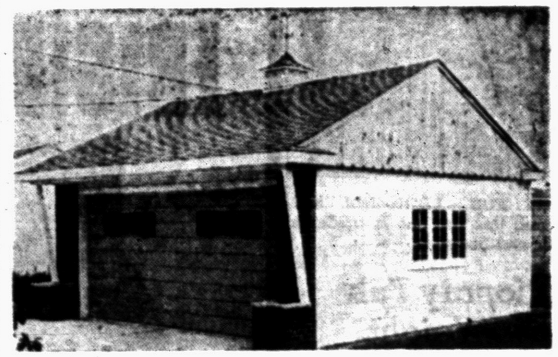

How to Cut Shellac

Shellac is usually sold in 4 or 5 pound "cut" or strength. To thin for proper use, add an equal amount of denatured alcohol—not anti-freeze.

Smooth Surface Under Linoleum Cuts Down Wear

A smooth floor surface is very important when you plan to lay linoleum or other floor covering. Any loose boards must be nailed down and any large cracks should be filled and smoothed if you want to prevent your floor covering from wearing unevenly over the ridges created by the basic floor.

"When you put down linoleum," says John Carlton, "be sure to use regular felt underlayment, which is made for this purpose.

"The felt is cemented to your wood floor and then you cement the linoleum to the felt — using the regular adhesive which is recommended by your floor covering dealer.

"The easiest way to figure the amount of linoleum you'll need for a room is to sketch a floor plan of the room, taking careful measurements and putting all measurements on the sketch. Take this sketch to your floor covering dealer and he can figure the right amount of materials you will need.

"I used a rubber cove base around the edges of the linoleum. This cove base fits on top of the linoleum, conceals any crack you may leave between the linoleum and the wall. The cove curves upward along the wall to guard against soiling when the floor is mopped."

Carlton put an inlaid ribbon strip of yellow linoleum in his maroon floor covering to form a border. To do this he cut the linoleum to accommodate the ribbon, ripped up the cut piece and set the ribbon in place.

Mark Stored Trunks

When you store trunks in an apartment house storage room, attach your name to each with a patched tag.

TOY BIN—A toy bin that rides out of sight under a boy's bed can be made by attaching flush-plate casters to an old suitcase. It will store many toys that are usually underfoot.

Impatience Is Big Enemy of the Home Handyman

By ANDREW C. LANG

What's the difference between a finished product turned out by a home handyman and a similar job completed by a professional?

Why does one often have a "home-made" look and the other a "finished" look?

The answer to both those questions is, of course, experience. On the surface, that would seem to indicate that the amateur do-it-yourselfer can never hope to achieve the perfection of the professional until he acquires the experience.

But, like that much-sung tune from "Porgy and Bess"—it ain't necessarily so.

Modern tools and modern materials have brought the amateur and the professional much closer together in working skills than before manufacturers began catering to the fix it-make it trade. The chief reason why the home workman doesn't always get first-class results is that he refuses to take his time. Once he starts a project, he wants to see it finished.

The professional, with that all-important experience as his guide, moves along smoothly and easily from step to step. The amateur does not have that experience—but can effectively balance it merely by taking more time to do the job. Fundamental as that seems, it is a fact that the tyro usually takes less time to do something rather than more time.

It's there when he omits putting on a coat of sealer even though he has been instructed to do so.

It's there when he neglects the sanding operation between the coats of glossy finishing materials.

It's there when he doesn't bother to drill pilot holes for screws.

It's there when he makes a wood joint which isn't "just right" and decides that it will do, even though an extra few minutes would enable him to make it perfect.

It's there when he doesn't give contact cement sufficient time to dry before bonding plastic laminate to wood.

And on . . . and on . . . and on. The peculiar angle to this "hurry, hurry" complex is that the unskilled worker of today is able—even when he takes his time—to complete a job much faster than the professional of yesterday. With power tools he can saw wood, make joints, drill holes, sand and do everything else in far less time than when all such operations had to be done by hand. Better yet, he can attain a degree of accuracy never before possible except by the most expert craftsmen. This accuracy is achieved, however, only when the do-it-yourselfer is willing to take the little extra time necessary to make the proper adjustments . . . some of which consist merely of turning knobs or moving levers.

Like the golf duffer who makes his backswing too rapidly because he cannot wait to hit the ball, the impatient handyman plunges into a project with insufficient preparation because he cannot wait until the idea becomes a reality.

The best advice for the handymen is the same as the oft-repeated advice to the golf duffer: "Take It Easy."

Now Is the Time

Spring and summer are the seasons for home remodeling. So while the feeling is in the air, take advantage of your family's energetic mood. Get them to pitch in and help on the smaller jobs. If you've always wanted to tile your hallway for appearance and ease of cleaning, do it now. How about fixing up the basement recreation room? Need a good bookshelf-room divider? How about some new shubbery in the yard? Remember, now's the time.

Thermopane Is Now a Good Insulator

Thermopane itself crosses the boundaries of the general product categories since it is available both in plate glass and window glass or with an inner pane of plate glass and an outer pane of patterned glass.

It is made in thicknesses of one inch (two panes of ¼-inch plate glass and a ½-inch air space) and ½ inch (two panes of ⅛-inch plate glass or two panes of double strength window glass with a ¼-inch air space).

Chief advantages of insulating glass are that it eliminates the need for storm sash, enables the use of wider expanses of glass even in regions with severe winters, saves fuel by reducing heat loss in winter, keeps interiors cooler in summer, does not collect condensation as readily as single glass and helps keep interiors quieter by excluding more outside noise.

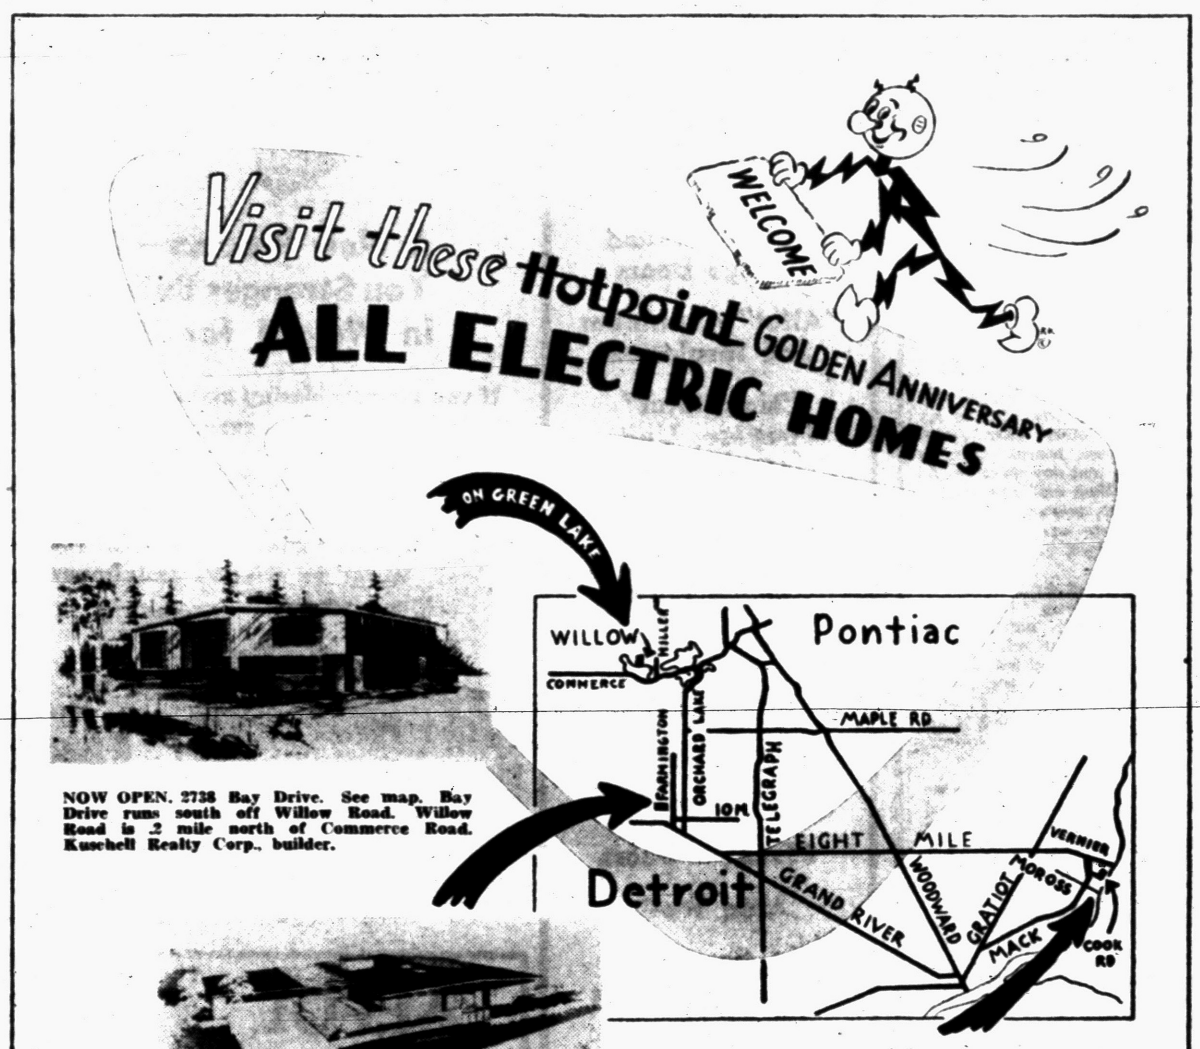

Your Fix-It Forum

Q—Is there a way to remove oil from a concrete floor?

A—Yes. Spread dry Portland cement or hydrated lime over the oil spots. If the spots are not absorbed after several days, a solution of 4 ounces of tri-sodium phosphate and 4 ounces of washing soda to a gallon of water can be used to wash down the concrete. Flush with clear water to remove the solution.

These so-called Dutch designs were selected as typical of the wide variety of hearts, flowers, fruits, and hex symbols used by the early Dutch settlers in Pennsylvania. The 12 designs on the pattern are correct size for use in tracing onto cupboard doors, wall panels and other large spaces. There are also designs for small spaces such as chair backs, drawer fronts and box tops. These are all authentic and the pattern gives step by step details for the selection and use of paints. No special skill is needed as all outlines are traced directly to the surface to be decorated. This pattern may be ordered separately at 25 cents. The number is 262. It is included in the packet of Painting Patterns for Leisure-Time Artists at $1 postpaid. Write to Workshop, Pontiac Press, Bedford Hills, N.Y.

Painting Easier With New Latex

Part of the excitement of spring cleaning—and much of the satisfaction that results from it—comes from seeing lovely new color applied to walls and woodwork. An especial aid, in this connection, is the easy-to-apply latex paint which can be speedily whisked onto a surface with paint roller or brush.

Even though you've never painted before, you can achieve professional-looking results with it. It dries so rapidly that a room can be put to rights as soon as you've finished painting.

After latex paint has adequate time to cure, it's very durable and washable.

Because it's a water-thinned paint, it's possible to wash your brush or roller right in the sink beneath the faucet. Incidentally, be sure to clean your tools just as soon as you've finished with them —before the paint has time to harden.

New Flooring Patterns Offered

New flooring patterns. Square block and several intriguing patterned designs in hardwood flooring are now available in maple and birch.

Patterned flooring is usually laid directly over the concrete subfloor in a mastic bonding material, but it can be nailed to softwood subfloors and old wood floors. In addition to the square blocks, the new patterns include the rectangle, herringbone, end-to-end and narrow face edge-grain designs.

Fix It Yourself

Brace Up Wall Linoleum

By HUBBARD COBB

When you apply wall linoleum or tileboard, it often pays to put up a temporary brace to hold the material tight against the wall until the cement is hard.

The portion of the brace coming in contact with the wall material should be covered with a cloth so it won't damage the high finish of the material.

* * *

You can drill a hole in glass with a three-cornered file with the end broken off. Just put it in a wood brace and rotate.

* * *

There are some wood preservatives that can be painted over without trouble and some that will bleed through paint, so if you want to apply paint at some later date, be sure to use a preservative that can take paint.

* * *

If you plan to paper over gypsum wallboard, the board should be coated with a varnish size—not an ordinary glue size that is suitable for use on plaster.

* * *

Should you want to paint over woodwork that has been finished with a red mahogany stain, better play safe and give the surface a coat of aluminum paint to serve as a seal. If you don't, the stain may bleed into the paint.

A sheet of hardware wire cloth fastened over the lower half of a screen door will prevent the insect screening being damaged by household pets and children.

Soft Rubber Tile Is Easiest to Lay

An easy do-it-yourself home decorating project that fits into a weekend schedule is to rejuvenate dilapidated floors with bright colored rubber tile patterns.

Unlike hard tiles, rubber tile calls for no blow torch, is easy to cut and lay.

New Plywoods Give Handyman Paint Economy

Wider usage of plywood has been one of the biggest changes in home building and home repair since World War II. Production of this sturdy panel type of lumber has almost doubled in that time.

Almost a tenth of all plywood produced is now sold over the counter at retail lumber dealers to home handymen who have discovered the advantages of the material in making furniture, finishing attics and basements and doing other home construction jobs.

One of the most recently developed forms of plywood has been a type faced with plastic to save labor cost in painting and maintenance. It is designed for both indoor and outdoor use. On the exterior it is suitable for lapped siding, gable ends, blinds and shutters and wall panels.

A lower-priced, medium density, plastic-faced plywood was introduced by Georgia-Pacific as GPX green, named for its green surface. This surface, being more than equivalent to a coat of paint made one-coat paint jobs practicable.

Panels are produced in standard thicknesses ranging from 5-16-inch to 1⅝-inch in 3 by 8 and 4 by 8-foot sizes.

Enamel Is Best Lining for Drawers

Paint is better than paper for lining bureau drawers. A thorough coating of gloss enamel not only reduces the danger of delicate fabrics snagging on wood splinters, but also provides a hard slick surface which can be dusted easily.

One warning is offered by DuPont experts — since paint will not dry on a waxed surface and some furniture makers wax interiors of drawers, try a test in an inconspicuous corner to see if enamel will dry in 24 hours.

A Gallon for a Room

Making Draperies, Slipcovers Now Easy

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — In any decorating project, large or small, costs are appreciably higher if you hire all your work done. Even though you have your own ideas, it costs to have someone else execute them.

Many housewives are adept, not only at painting, but at wallpapering, too. They've learned how from sheer necessity, in times when the budget wouldn't stand for an expert painter or paperhanger.

In our decorating project, the apartment owner felt that the paint and paper should be handled by experts. She didn't feel that she could do an adequate job. But she could and did cut corners by making her own slip covers and drapes. This seemed the logical place to show a saving in the budget.

She had had previous sewing experience, which proved a great help. But even if she had not, there are excellent patterns and instruction books available that would have told her just how to proceed, step by step.

She was helped in her sewing by a machine that literally performs wonders. It does zigzag stitching, overcasts edges, makes blind stitches, appliques, embroiders, sews on hooks-and-eyes, sews on buttons, makes button holes of any length and mends and darns, all without special attachments.

Closed, it looks something like a television cabinet. The cabinet conceals a matching chair and a deep storage drawer to keep sewing odds-and-ends out of sight.

Q—Last winter we noticed that some rooms of our house were colder than others. What is the remedy?—Mrs. C. H.

A—The answer may lie in the adjustable damper valves in your heat ducts. Readjust them to proportion the amount of warm air entering each room through the ducts.

UNDER CONSTRUCTION — Located in Waterford Township, off Williams Lake Rd. is this new project of one-story ranch style homes. Built in a subdivision with winding streets and nearby wooded areas, this project has lake privileges. Sale of the houses in this area is being handled by White Brothers Realty of Waterford.

Insulating Tiles Offer Quiet, Pleasant Ceiling

Insulation board tile offers the home handyman an easy way to create an attractive ceiling in basement or attic and at the same time block much of the sound and heat loss that otherwise would be transmitted.

Planning the job properly is the only phase that is not so easy. The actual application of the material, for anyone handy with hammer and saw, is more simple than the planning.

So let's face it: First, get a few sheets of paper, a pencil and a tape measure. Find the length and the width of the ceiling and make a drawing of this area to scale.

Now draw a line through the center of this rectangle vertically, and another line through the center horizontally. This is necessary because application of ceiling tile begins at the center of a room. This permits partial tiles along the edges of the finished ceiling to be of a uniform width.

Decide on the size of tile you plan to use—they come in 12 by 12 inches, 12 by 16 inches and other dimensions. Show on your scale drawing where each piece will appear. You can do this by starting the first course lengthwise with the room along the horizontal center line, with one end of the first tile flush against the vertical center line.

Unless the ceiling has been finished before, you'll need furring strips. These should be 1 by 3-inch strips of boards, nailed wall to wall across the ceiling at right angles to exposed rafters or joists. The furring strips must be spaced so that one side of each tile can be nailed to them. So if you're using 12 by 12-inch tile, your 1 by 3 furring strips should be 9 inches apart.

To play it safe, show on your drawing exactly where the furring strips will go. After your sketch is complete, take it to your building supply dealer.

He will be able to make any corrections needed and can tell you exactly how many pieces of the tile and furring strips you need.

With your material on hand, you're ready for a hammer, saw and nails. It's possible to use an automatic stapling hammer for faster application. Or you can apply the tile with adhesive. But it's wise to discuss these methods with the dealer.

* * *

Fastening the tiles starts with the first course at the center of the room, the same as you started your working sketch. One side of the first tile is placed flush with the horizontal center line and one end is flush with the vertical line. The tongue on the tile, to be fitted into a groove in the next tile, should always be the leading or exposed edge.

On almost every ceiling tile job, the tile that goes up against the wall must be trimmed to fit. The width of these border units should be as nearly equal as possible on opposite sides of the room.

You can use this same principle with virtually any type of ceiling tile, including perforated acoustical tiles.

Average House $12,300

Furring strips, 3 inches wide are nailed across the ceiling at right angles to rafters or joists. Space them so one side of each tile can be nailed solidly to each strip.

Nail the first course of tile lengthwise with the room along the center line, with one end of the first tile flush with the intersecting center line. The tongue edge should always be the leading or exposed edge.

Summer Furniture News

Despite its name, summer furniture is a well established year 'round furniture style. New designs appear at any time and take a ceiling overhead instead of the sky. But most of the new begins to come into the stores now, in tempting summer settings, — now in deep winter, when it's especially eye-catching with its promise of sunnier seasons to come.

A news highlight of recent preview showings of summer furniture was the unusual combination of metal and rattan. Sketched are two examples, the sofa bed at top left and the chair and table at lower left. The sofa bed has a frame of rattan posts which are both decorative and the sturdy support of bolsters. Legs and stretchers are metal, painted white. The chair upholstery is outlined in rattan to include narrow rattan diagonal pieces across the back. Metal and rattan together widen the arms. Narrow rattan also forms a table shelf.

Another news item in the previews combines unusual elements if not materials. A design in redwood, sketched at upper right, is called a double contour chaise longe — two contour chairs, two table levels, all in one piece and half on wheels.

Wrought iron is responsible for several types of interesting design. A chair, center left, has special slip-on upholstery. The slip-on back and the tie-on seat are reversible and can be covered with linen or denim on one side for indoor use and waterproof fabric on the other for the outdoors. This chair can also be taken apart for easy storage or shipping.

Another wrought iron chair, center, laces bright canvas onto the back frame, and the grouping it belongs to includes the wood and wrought iron table in front of it. Notable among wrought iron chairs are the larger lounge types of which the one at center right is good example.

Wicker for summer furniture grows sturdier without losing grace and combines with wrought iron. The chair sketched at lower right comes in both dining chair and a larger pull-up size. Tall standing lamps are shown with the new furniture, for terraces, gardens, driveways, walks, and to be used poolside.

Q—Rust from nail heads has come through the paint on wood siding of our house. What can be done about it?—Mrs. C. K.

A—Scrape or sand paint off of nail heads, then remove rust by sanding. Coat each nail head with aluminum paint, and repaint the siding.

Miles of Blinds Painted in Strips

Metal Venetian blinds are coated mile after mile in continuous strips. Both sides are painted at once—sometimes in two colors at the same time. The coating is baked in 40 to 60 seconds at a temperature that's in excess of 500 degrees.

The strips are then cooled and stored in coils. It may be two or thre months before the blinds are fabricated from the strips. In the meantime, the film must remain flexible to withstand cutting to leigth, forming to impart rigidity, punching holes to accommodate the tapes and, finally, assembly into the finished blinds.

How to Loosen Sash

Q — We are fearful of damaging some newly painted window sash that are stuck closed. How can we loosen them? —Mrs. J. S.

Old Homes May Prove 'Fatal' to Some

Its symptoms include hallucinations about how easily an oversized old barn, with plenty of air passages, can be remodeled. The victims are known for rash judgments, over-romantic imagination, and a ready willingness to be swindled.

However, there's hope. The vaccine is common sense. Here's the prescription:

1. Check condition of paint and joints on the outside. Chalky surfaces mean a new paint job is needed. And if a new paint job has been needed for some time, the wood may well be rotted.

2. How about the foundation? If it's cracked and loose, improvements here will be costly.

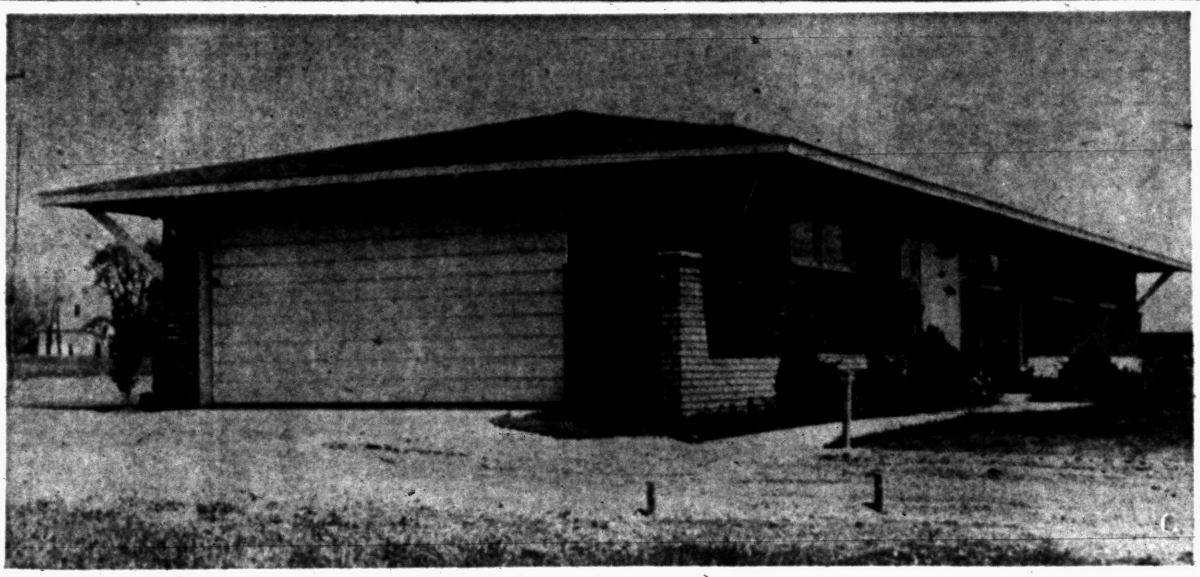

3. Old homes often have grand fireplaces. Almost invariably, however, the chimney will need major repair. You'll know that when you see daylight through it.

4. Test the floors. Put a marble on them and if it rolls fast away, the house has settled too much. If the floors spring when you walk on them, there is insufficient framing.

5. Inspect the two most important rooms thoroughly: Bathroom and kitchen. Walls and floors will probably require refinishing with a practical modern material. Are the base surfaces smooth and even? If not, remodeling will be expensive.

6. What's the possibility of adding an outdoor terrace? You'll want one, but will it involve extensive landscaping because the wilderness has marched up to the back door?

Now, if this sound medicine still leaves you optimistic, either one of two things is certain: You're incurable or you really did find "a lovely old home in the country."

Q—What can be done to get rid of roots that are clogging sewer lines, without damaging the trees and shrubs?

A—There is a chemical product available from plumbing dealers. Consult your dealer on how it may be used with perfect safety.

A Laundry Problem

Ten pounds of clothes, washed and spun-dried in a washing machine, still contain about 10 pounds of water. Drying the clothes indoors evaporates this water into the air of the house. Ventilation is the only solution. Vent clothes dryer to the outside or use exhaust fans while the dryer is in use.

Now It's Easy to Install Your Own Wall Paneling

Paneling interior walls always has been the most rewarding way of creating a background for good living. The warm, rich appearance of wood-paneled walls make a handsome setting for furnishings of any period, either in a new house or a remodeled home. They completely transform a rundown room into a place of distinction.

Once considered a luxury to be found only in the most expensive houses, wall paneling now can be used in homes of every income bracket. Leading interior decorators are using wood paneling to add loveliness and beauty, to give elegance and charm to living rooms, libraries, guest rooms, bedrooms, recreation rooms, dining rooms, halls and foyers.

Home owners, following today's decor trend to fine wood paneled walls, are improving the value of their property and increasing its livability by installing their own wall panels. This do-it-yourself activity has been made possible by two "firsts" in the building materials field.

A simple new method of installation that meets all home building code requirements has been worked out by Georgia-Pacific plywood engineers, and a popular priced, quality plywood wall paneling of rich Savannah Oak has been developed to be used with this installation system.

Easy to Do

There is no trick to installing Savannah Oak wall panels. Anyone who can use an ordinary hammer can do it, with professional results. The three-ply, all-oak plywood planks, eight feet long, are available in random widths. They are pre-finished in a rich honey tone, and waxed to protect their beautiful grain pattern, so no painting or staining is required. They can be installed over existing walls by the new application system.

First, patented, grooved furring strips are nailed to wall studs, approximately one foot apart on the wall, starting with a strip at the top and another at the bottom. Then, beginning in a corner of the room, a special G-P retaining clip is inserted into the groove of each furring strip, and engaged to the first plank. Other planks are locked to the special clips, one after another right across the room.

A home owner may panel an entire room, or do one, two or three walls, leaving the balance papered or painted and creating modern, effective decor combinations. The quiet luxury of Savannah Oak blends perfectly with other materials when used for accent walls. Installed alone and finished with matching moldings, it gives matchless beauty to any room in the home.

Windows Post-War Innovation

Architect and Builders Believe They Have Changed Living

If architects and builders were asked to name the one post-war development in building materials that brought about the greatest changes in architecture and the living habits of people they probably would agree it was the double-glazed insulating type of window.

The idea of sandwiching a hermetically sealed and permanently clean air space between two panes of glass has been responsible for four major changes in homes:

1. It has brought more light and sunshine into the home by making large picture windows and window-walls practicable. Condensation and frost on windows and the chill from sitting near a window are eliminated.

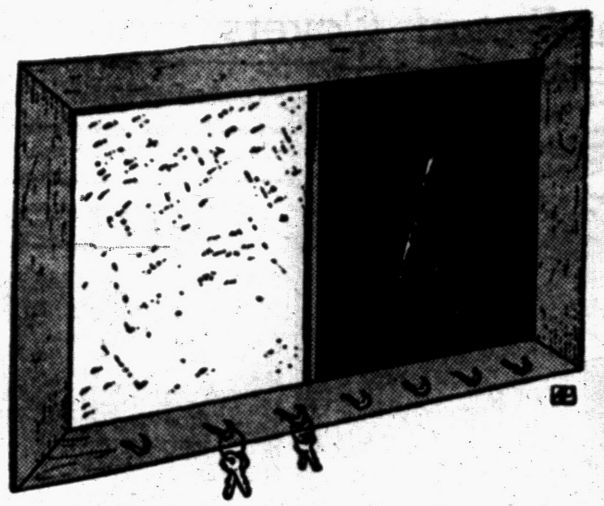

2. It has brought about a greater interest in the outdoors. The large windows which replaced the smaller conventional openings have revealed panoramic vistas which can be enjoyed throughout the year. Seasonal changes bring only changing views.

3. It has changed architecture radically. The rambling ranch house and its variations have won many converts from the Cape Cod, Colonial and other styles. People who clung to the traditional, because they said it looked like they thought a house should look, began to see advantages in designs that exploited living possibilities.

4. It has sold land. Changing the home buyer's concept of what a homesite should comprise, he began to think in terms of the view his picture window or window-wall would frame—in terms of a larger plot instead of the minimum size lot. He became willing to travel farther to have more trees and landscaping between him and his neighbor.

Replace All Worn Electric Outlets

Contacts in electrical outlets become sprung and worn in time. Switches also wear out. Poor contacts result in interference with the sound and picture in television reception and the tone in radio receivers. Worn outlets and switches should be replaced just as it is customary to replace washers in kitchen faucets.

FOR THE WORKSHOP—A handy reminder board for kitchen or garage can be made from an old picture frame. Hooks along the bottom can hold keys, memos, bills. Half of the board can be covered with cork tile or other soft material to accept thumb tacks. Half can be a black board for quick notes. This is easily made with a piece of tempered hardboard, available at lumber yards. It is painted with slate finishing material to be had in any well stocked paint store.

Clean Heating Units Now

By HUBBARD COBB

The more automatic things become, the less we pay attention to them.

In the old days of hand fired home heating equipment, some unfortunate member of the family was on pretty close terms with the furnace or boiler.

Not only did they visit the basement once or twice a day to add coal and remove ashes, but when the fire went out in the spring they usually took an afternoon off to clean the heating equipment and put it in order so it would get through the summer without harm and be ready again when the weather got cold.

Today things are different and there are a lot of people who wouldn't know what sort of fuel their heating equipment burned if it weren't for the monthly bills sent in by the gas or oil company.

All of which gets us around to saying that even modern automatic heating equipment needs a little care at this time of year to keep it in good condition.

Soot should be removed from the interior surfaces and the edges of doors and clean-out openings should be cleaned and then coated with oil to prevent rusting.

The stove pipe from heater to chimney should be cleaned and if the basement has a tendency to become damp during the summer it would be wise to store the stove pipe in a dry place until it's time for the system to go back in operation again.

Of course, if the heating plant is used to heat domestic hot water or is turned on from time to time during the summer to take the dampness or chill out of the house, the stove pipe must be left in place.

It's important that boilers be left full of water during the summer to prevent excessive rusting and it's best if you allow the same water to remain in them rather than to drain it out and refill with fresh water.

Oil storage tanks, both indoor and outdoor types, should be filled and kept filled during the summer to prevent condensation occurring inside the tank which can cause rusting of the tank and a collection of water at the bottom.

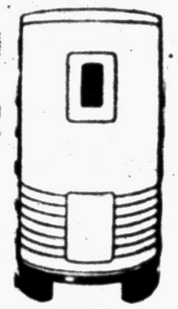

Estimating Paint

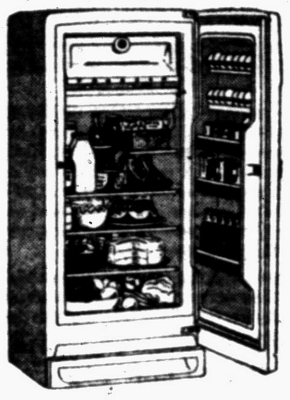

A gallon of paint will cover about 750 square feet of the outside walls of a wood house. One gallon will cover about 650 square feet of hard plaster wall, but only 400 square feet of porous plaster.

Conceal Radiators With Hardboard Covers

Hardboard is an outstanding product for the "do-it-yourself" trade. This composition material has a hard, glossy grainless surface that is highly resistant to abrasion and wear, and yet can be readily worked with woodowrking tools.

We're all familiar with the old-style home radiators. Hardly things of beauty, they do little for the home—outside of heating it. But dressed up in new outfits, they can hold up their heads of steam proudly.

For, concealed behind properly designed enclosures, radiators not only take on a more pleasing appearance, becoming furniture pieces, they also heat more efficiently. That fact is confirmed by the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau, representing the dustry.

What constitutes a properly designed radiator enclosure? First, it should be pointed out that it must provide for a higher temperature near the floor, a higher average temperature in the living zone of a room (below breathing level) and a lower temperature near the ceiling. This latter reduces heat loss at the ceiling, saving you money.

A radiator enclosure should offer a minimum of resistance to the flow of air over the radiator, providing convected warmth. Don't cover up so much of the heating unit that air cannot circulate freely over and around the tubes. Adequate openings for it to "breathe" are essential near the floor and at the top of the enclosure.

Another essential is a shield at the back of the enclosure to prevent undue heat loss through the walls. A shield can be made of aluminum foil tacked to hardboard or plywood, of foil-backed gympsum wallboard, or of some other insulating materials.

A three-sided radiator cover that will fit neatly around an offending radiator, and which can be moved for dusting and cleaning, can be made simply by building a skeleton wood frame to which hardboard panels are attached. The panels can be secured to the frame with nails, screws or glue, or all three.

To build an enclosure with curved surfaces, first build a frame curved to the planned radiator-cover pattern. Hardboard is flexible enough to conform to a curve of fairly large radius, but if the radius is small, hardboard should be moistened to make bending easier.

The best way to do this is to submerge the area of the panel to be bent in a tub or vat of water not exceeding 100 degrees F. for 45 minutes.

If this is not handy, or if the panel is to retain its natural finish, scrub water into the underside with a stiff brush; lay panel on its face and place wet rags on top; then cover to reduce evaporation and allow to set for at least 24 hours.

Before finish coating a radiator enclosure, a primer or sealer should be applied. Any finish suitable to natural wood can be used on hardboard.

Experts Veto Scrubbing of Oak Floors

In caring for your beautiful oak floors, remember that they're somewhat like the typical American boy—rugged and durable, but averse to being scrubbed with soap and water.

That's the advice of floor maintenance specialists, who say the modern, easy way to freshen up oak floors and keep them sparkling is to use a wax base cleaner.

Such preparations, which come in liquid form, are easy to apply with a soft cloth or a long-handled applicator. They rid the floors of dirt and ordinary spots, leaving a protective wax film.

Two basic types are available. One contains about three times as much wax as the other. When the former type is employed, a separate coating of wax afterward usually is unnecessary.

Soap and water scrubbing, according to the experts, tends to raise the wood grain and produce a rough surface. If repeated often, it may also mar the finish. Moreover, it calls for substantial amounts of "elbow grease," whereas the wax base cleaner method makes oak floor upkeep a relatively simple chore.

Clean Windows

A dash of ammonia in warm water and soft, clean cloths or a soft brush and squeegee are what Libbey - Owens - Ford Glass Company recommends for cleaning windows and mirrors.

Two Luminous Paints

There are two kinds of luminous paints. One, the fluorescent type, glows only when it is activated by artificial light—such as headlights, or under ultraviolet, "black" light. The other is phosphorescent paint, which continues to glow for several hours after sunlight or other stimulation is gone.

GRAY SHAKE, YELLOW TRIM — In Waterford Township, the Edward Yuille home at 2222 Paulsen has been built with exterior of gray shakes and yellow for trim color. Attached to the house is a two-car garage. The front porch has been made into a year-round room with its jalousie windows and screens. A winding drive gives the house a two-way approach.

Dacron Paint Rollers

A new fleece covering for paint rollers is made of Dacron polyester fiber. It is rated to hold 27 per cent more paint than other fleece and will not mat or wilt.

Dripping Faucets

A dripping faucet soon can waste more water than a new faucet costs. If a new washer fails to stop the leak, grind the valve seat down with the special tool used for this purpose.

Storm Warnings Give Time for Precautions

Hurricane or storm warnings usually give you time to take emergency precautions.

Here are things you can do to prevent or minimize storm damage. This list was worked out by engineers of the National Board of Fire Underwriters:

1. Loose material and movable objects, such as boards, garbage cans, porch and outdoor furniture, should be put where there is no danger of their being lifted and blown against your house or through a window.

2. Movable awnings should be raised and securely tied back, or removed entirely.

3. Shutters should be firmly attached as quickly as possible. Delay may mean that it will be impossible to get them in proper position, with the result that they may cause further damage.

4. Garage doors and other large doors should be braced against movement either in or out.

5. If possible, stay in rooms on the leeward side of the house —that is, on the side opposite that against which the wind is blowing.

6. Keep a door or window open on the leeward side. If windows or walls are broken on the windward side, open more leeward doors or windows. This will help keep internal air pressure from building up and will lessen the chance of damage to leeward walls and windows, or the hazard of the roof being lifted.

7. If your house is divided up by interior partitions, keep partition doors closed to reduce the suction of air currents on the leeward side of the house.

White Kitchen Equipment Has Its Advantages

Ever wonder why most manufacturers of kitchen equipment stick to white finishes, while people decorate their kitchens with brightly colored wallpayers, woodwork and curtains?

A kitchen authority answers this question by saying that colored appliances would be a perennial headache to the housewife as well as economically unsound both for her and for the manufacturers.

Eloise Davison, home consultant to American Kitchens and other leading manufacturers, contends that color preferences change so often that makers could not possibly stock a variety of steel kitchen cabinets, sinks, dishwashers, refrigerators and other appliances to sell at popular prices.

"Problems of scheduling production of colored appliances and equipment would be so great they would have to be sold on virtually a custom-made basis at prices prohibitive for the average homemaker," Miss Davison says.

"A woman can be as fickle as she wants and can redecorate her kitchen as often as she likes if she chooses white cabinets and appliances as a base."

Finishes Contribute

Nowadays there are countless "miracle-working" devices to simplify modern living. Nearly all of them—in one way or another—are dependent upon the ingenious and durable coatings developed by the paint, varnish and lacquer industry.

When June Bride Shops for Furniture

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

What will you buy first for your new home?

For some reason, most brides say a soft, perhaps because they feel that owning a sofa, of all things, brings the new home close to coming true. Then they mention a coffee table, a living room rug, a dining table, arm chairs and bedroom furniture, any one or all of these in any order.

What should come first?

It doesn't matter what single ticket the man in the store writes out first because of course several bare necessity purchases must be made before a home can be lived in at all. But it is important to have a definite idea of what matters most in what you buy of those beginning furnishings. It is important to decide first to buy comfort, beauty and convenience —not merely furniture, fabrics and rugs.

Buy comfort, or there's little satisfaction in the new home once the first pride of ownership wears off. Buying comfort means choosing good quality bedding equipment and the kind that exactly suits you, for a third of your lives must be spent in sleep. Buying comfort means the careful choice of a good chair apiece, one that's exactly right for each of you to settle down into for hours—they'll make all the difference in how you'll enjoy long evenings at home.

The sofa and the other chairs should be comfortable, too, but the long term comfort of beds and lounge chairs is so important it should be assured from the start.

Buy beauty, because the eye can give us much of the pleasure of daily living. Beauty in a home means good color schemes, and there's more for your money if a color scheme is planned from the beginning. Decide on a good color scheme and stick to it as furnishings are bought. Thus

Beauty also means the design of the things you buy, furniture finishes, fabric, rug and wallpaper textures and patterns, and the harmonies all these create together. Again, a good plan at the start, however simple, for building a complete picture keys the wise spending of money as random buying never can.

Buy convenience—there never was a better time for it than now. The whole home furnishings industry aims for loftier and loftier goals of convenience.

Storage furniture engineered to store anything and everything so you can keep a neat house in close quarters; idea-full pieces that serve two and three purposes instead of one; wonderful new easy-to-care-for materials to minimize chores. Alert shopping trips now will discover convenience you hadn't dreamed of for your new home.

Floor Cleaners Help

The upkeep of hardwood floors is now more economical than ever. This is due to the development of modern floor cleaning equipment and the use of attractive and effective floor finishing products.

Furniture Makers Use More Ply for Hidden Parts

Furniture manufacturers are increasing their use of hardwood plywood for concealed construction such as drawers, backs and dust panels, plywood producers across the nation report. The greater dimensional stability and added structural strength of plywood are among the reasons for the movement, they say.

An innovation is the development of a special plywood for drawer sides which keeps the drawers from sticking. The plywood has thick outer faces to provide smooth matching edges, and a thin inner layer for exceptional stability.

LONG WAY TO GO — Helen Welty puts down the first cinder blocks at home-to-be in Fairborn, Ohio. They used mail-order house plans.

TWO YEARS LATER — This is the house the Weltys built with toil and sweat. Mrs. Welty did all stone work.

A Kindergarten Teacher Builds House of Stone

By VIVIAN BROWN

Ever think of building your own house with the fun of patting every little stone in place, and sweating lovingly over blocks, boards and beams? Helen and Stuart Welty of Fairborn, Ohio, had that dream, and what's more they did something about it. They built a house so good in fact that it has just won first prize in a national do-it-yourself contest sponsored by Woman's Home Companion.

The stonework was done by Helen, every last bit of it. The finished Cape Cod house has three rooms downstairs, two bedrooms and bath upstairs. A garage will be completed soon.

It all began when the Weltys missed out on a house they wanted while they were scraping up the down payment. They decided to mend their heartbreak by investing in a mail order house plan and materials for a house to be built with their own hands.

"Little did I realize that two years after I put down that first stone I would lay the last," says Mrs. Welty. "I taught kindergarten half-day while we were building and I was always anxious to get home to my stone pile."

She wanted a stone house, and fitted every stone together just like a jigsaw puzzle. She didn't feel safe on a scaffold so the chimney was stone faced by climbing a ladder, requiring many trips. Thirty feet from ground level she placed the last stone.

The house includes built-in features such as china and kitchen cabinets and shelves. Outdoor handiwork includes banked flower beds made of the same stone as the house. A current project includes an outdoor fireplace and basement recreation room.

How to Save Doors

The screw should be flush with the plate so the door opens and closes easily and the lock doesn't catch. When youngsters are older, you can remove the screw to make the lock operative again.

Criteria by Which to Judge Kitchens

1. There's more space for family activities and informal entertaining.
2. Dining counters, work counters and "islands" separate but do not seal off the kitchen from the living room area.
3. Durable, easily maintained and handsomely decorative materials such as ceramic tile surface kitchen floors, walls, splashback and countertops.

New Clothes Tree Boosts Closet Space

A new fixture is the closet tree. This comprises a vertical metal pole reaching from floor to ceiling with adjustable side arms extending out toward the walls. It makes the hanging of garments easy for children as well as adults.

Colorful Papered Walls ---'Before and After'

Check Your Weather Before Painting Job

House painting weather means that the air is comparatively warm and dry, that there is no morning dew on the house and there is no likelihood of rain. The temperature should register no less than 40 with no chance that it will drop below that point during the drying period.

Don't paint in the direct rays of the sun. Plan the job so you'll always be working in the shade.

Heed Expert Advice on Floor Care

A number of readers have inquired of this column regarding the care and maintenance of resilient wall and floor coverings—asphalt tile, rubber tile, linoleum and similar materials.

Prompted by this outpouring of questions, Mr. Fix called upon experts of Armstrong Cork Co. for the answers.

One thing that has been bothering readers is whether or not they should use lacquer, varnish, shellac or liquid plastic finishes on resilient coverings.

The experts say, quote, No, unquote. These finishes look all right for a while, but most eventually darken and alter the colors of the covering. Besides, when the finish once wears out in the heavily used areas, it may become necessary to remove the entire brushed-on finish in order to restore the appearance of the resilient covering. Or so they say.

Removal of finishing materials is difficult, expensive and may be harmful to the covering material. Finish removal should not even be attempted on resilient tiles and felt-base floor coverings. Finish-removing solvents seep down between tiles and cause failure of the adhesive used to install them, or, in the case of felt-based coverings, may damage their enamel surfaces.

Instead, wash them more often to prevent soilage from accumulating in the pores. Use a concentrated solution of liquid cleaner especially formulated for use on resilient floor and wall coverings. Use three or four cupfuls to a pail of lukewarm water—then rinse. This treatment slightly offsets darkening of the colors.

For removal of finishes on other types of resilient coverings, use ethylacetate or lacquer remover on varnish or lacquer, denatured alcohol on shellac, and, on plastic finishes, the remover recommended by the manufacturer.

No specific remover can be recommended for plastic finishing materials. Whether the substance can be removed, and how it is to be removed, is dependent upon the formulation of the plastic.

When any kind of finish is removed, extreme care must be taken to prevent damage to the covering. Apply remover to a few square feet at a time, and as the finish softens, wipe it off with a clean cloth. Scraping with knives or other metal instruments might cause damage to the covering. Vigorous scrubbing may be necessary. Above all, never use alkaline-type paint and varnish removers on any resilient covering.

Paint is not recommended, either, as a means of improving the appearance of old, worn resilient floorings. Ordinary paint does not stand up under foot traffic. In fact it becomes dull in traffic lanes, and in time may crack or peel, resulting in a worse appearance.

Concealing light scratches on resilient floorings, and deep cuts or gouges in linoleum, is a problem some readers are faced with. Here is the solution recommended by Armstrong:

To conceal scratches, scrub them with the liquid cleaner. Mix cleaner with lukewarm water and scrub with stiff brush; rinse with clear water, let dry and apply wax.

Deep cuts or gouges in linoleum (not felt-base coverings) can be filled, if not too large, with a putty formed by mixing fine shavings of linoleum with clear brushing lacquer. Make the shavings by scraping a remnant of linoleum with a sharp knife.

Carefully fill the holes with the mixture, allow to dry thoroughly, then rub with No. 00 steel wool. Wash clean, wax, and buff when dry.

Larger holes or gouges may be repaired by patching. Your floor covering dealer will advise the proper procedure.

Stubborn spots or stains on most resilient floorings, other than the felt-base types, can often be removed with a combination of liquid cleaner, No. 00 steel wool and elbow grease. Steel wool, however, should not be used on felt-base coverings. Even the finest grades are too coarse for use on the surface.

Plywood Available in Plank Effect

Hardwood plywood wall paneling is available in a special plank effect. Vertical lines are routed at the factory at either regular or random intervals, for a formal or rustic motif. This gives the paneling the appearance of planking, yet retains the functional values of plywood — dimensional stability, strength, less weight and easy installation.

Glass block opens wide opportunities for modernizing a house. Light without view can be obtained with a wall of textured glass blocks. Various patterns are available as well as clear glass where a view is wanted. Where such a wall is not exposed to the weather or to moisture, no mortar is required. The blocks are fitted on wood strips and wedges, creating a firm, lasting panel. Partitions and panels built with this set-in-wood method can be dismantled and relocated, using the same materials. You can take these walls with you.

Supply and Demand Law Still Holds

Today's demand is for homes with three bedrooms, one and one-half to two bathrooms, large kitchens with built-in features and a downstairs recreation or family room.

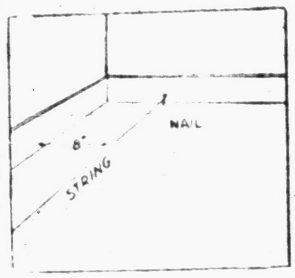

Builders are meeting that demand. And the price of these homes is within today's moderate income range.

The home-hunter is not only getting more space; he's getting quality materials and construction, too. For instance, modern bathrooms are usually surfaced with waterproof ceramic tile to answer the home-buyer's demand for permanence, ease of maintenance and beauty.

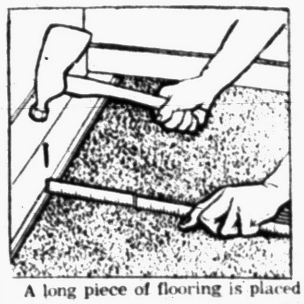

Paint by the Yard

Coated fabric wall coverings, popular for durability in kitchens, are now available in 21 new solid colors as well as in wallpaper designs. The material is scrubbable.

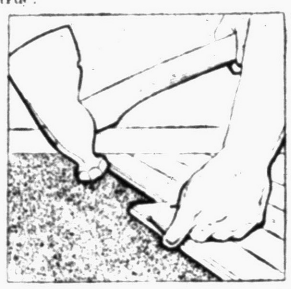

Steps Show Skill Needed to Get a Quality Floor

First sweep a subfloor clean and cover it with 15-lb. asphalt saturated felt. Stretch a line between nails placed 8 inches out from a sidewall. This will be a guide for the first course. In many rooms the walls are not perfectly true.

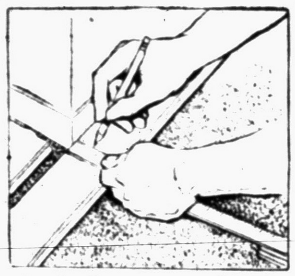

A long piece of flooring is placed with groove edge facing the sidewall and groove end toward the endwall. Space to be hidden by shoemold is left for expansion. This strip is face nailed every 10 inches. Measure from the string, then toe nail it.

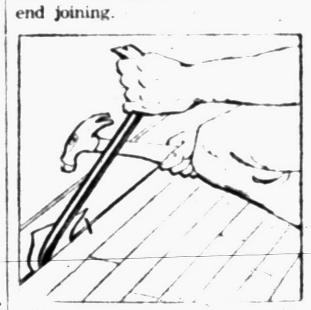

Fit the groove edge of each strip over the tongue of preceding strip. Toe nail at 10-inch intervals at an angle of 50 degrees where tongue leaves the shoulder. Countersink all toe nailing. Screw-type nails are preferred for holding power.

Avoid grouping joints closer than 6 inches apart. Select several varying lengths before nailing. To cut a piece to finish a course, reverse the strip when measuring. Always cut off the tongue end. Groove end must be retained for end joining.

Space will not permit toe nailing the last two courses. So the next to the last course is merely fitted without nailing and final strip is face nailed. It is pulled snug with a crowbar. Baseboard or wall is protected with cardboard.

Here to Stay Is Shower-Tub

The shower-tub installation has become a permanent fixture in homes today. The nation first became shower-conscious during the '20s and ever since that time the popularity of stand-up bathing has increased.

Today, something like 90 per cent of all new homes have the shower-tub combination.

Besides raising the standards of personal cleanliness, the dual installation has had the effect of making the bathroom cleaner, too.

Easily-cleaned, sanitary tile is most commonly used for surfacing around the shower-tub. This waterproof material is virtually impossible to soil because its impervious surfaces come clean so easily.

You Can Pick Chair for Comfort

By VIVIAN BROWN
(AP) Newsfeatures Writer

CORRECT CHAIR BALANCE—Walter Dorwin Teague, industrial designer, points out features of his new chair design. It provides the 135-degree angle physiologists consider necessary for relaxation.

If your husband stretches out on the couch as soon as he returns from work or moves from chair to chair during the evening, it is simply because he isn't comfortable, says industrial designer Walter Dorwin Teague. He explains:

"Man was not made to sit or stand up and he can only sit comfortably as long as he can change his position when the impulse motivates him, one reason men favor lounge chairs and foot rests. If we sit in the same position for any time our lower backs ache."

Teague, who has just designed a new chair on the principle that does not reverse the normal back curve says housewives should get adequate support at the lower back in a chair similar to that used by most stenographers. A swivel chair is a good bet for a man in his office because he can tilt it back and move around more freely than in a rigid chair, he says.

His new chair design is based on the 135 degree angle that is a curved line from the upper abdomen to upper thigh when you are relaxed. It is the position assumed when one is in the cranked-up hospital bed or reading in bed propped with pillows under the knees.

Dr. J. Jay Keegan, neurologist, writing in the Journal of Bone and Joint Surgery, said the low back pain of older persons is due to the type of discomfort that arises from bad chairs, particularly after long sitting in a lounge chair, automobile or theater seat.

"Chair manufacturers," he says, "have done little scientific study of the anatomical, physiological and pathological factors involved in low-back complaints of seating. Too often home furniture manufacturers have followed standard or classic models of chairs designed many years or centuries ago based largely on trial and error method or they may have thought more of the luxurious appearance and sales appeal of the chair than the users' requirements for comfort."

Teague's new "loafer chair" takes into consideration this lower lumbar region, permitting more relaxation and comfort without undue pressure on the back. He is hoping more designers take this angle into consideration. He says:

"A good chair is ever so much more important today when women no longer wear corsets to hold them in a normal position. Those days it was impossible to fall into the chair pattern. They had to maintain correct posture in the corset."

When buying a new chair take these points into consideration:

1. Is it comfortable and adjustable?

2. Can it be used by guests as well as family?

3. Is it large enough to suit the bigger contour of the head of the house?

If all of these factors are present, then choose the fabric of your choice for the chair, but don't make that the original factor in your selection.

THE TRAILVIEW

★THREE BEDROOMS ★TWO BATHS

$16,000 to $16,500 --- Including Lots

FOUR EXTERIORS TO CHOOSE FROM

AS FOR THE ROOMS—

You will be pleasantly surprised to see the large living room with well balanced wall space for furniture and TV, separate dining room, breakfast space off the kitchen, two bathrooms, three good size bedrooms and more closet space than you've seen in a long while. One bathroom is ceramic tiled and the other is tastefully decorated.

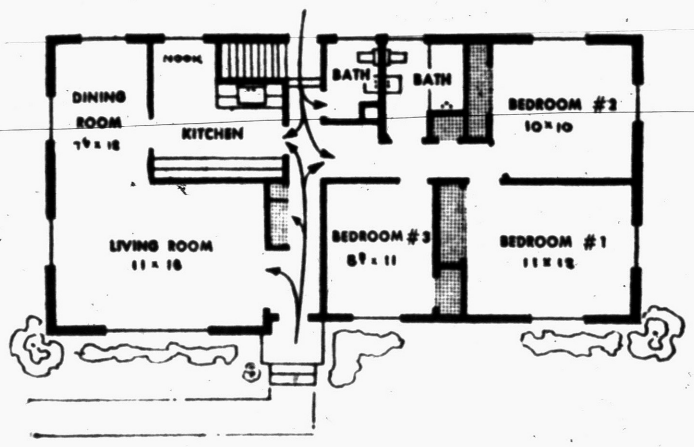

AND YOUR LOT—100 FEET WIDE, OR MORE

Will be large and well-drained and will have a paved driveway from the curving paved street. You will neither be sitting on your next door neighbor nor upon the back fence.

AND LAST . . . BUT NOT LEAST—THE SUBDIVISION

Is far removed from the heavy traffic highways and is located within easy access to schools (there are four new elementary schools, one new high school and a new parochial school in the area) and a new and complete shopping center, as well as being located in the heart of the lakes recreation area.

These Homes Are Fully Approved for FHA and VA Mortgage Insurance

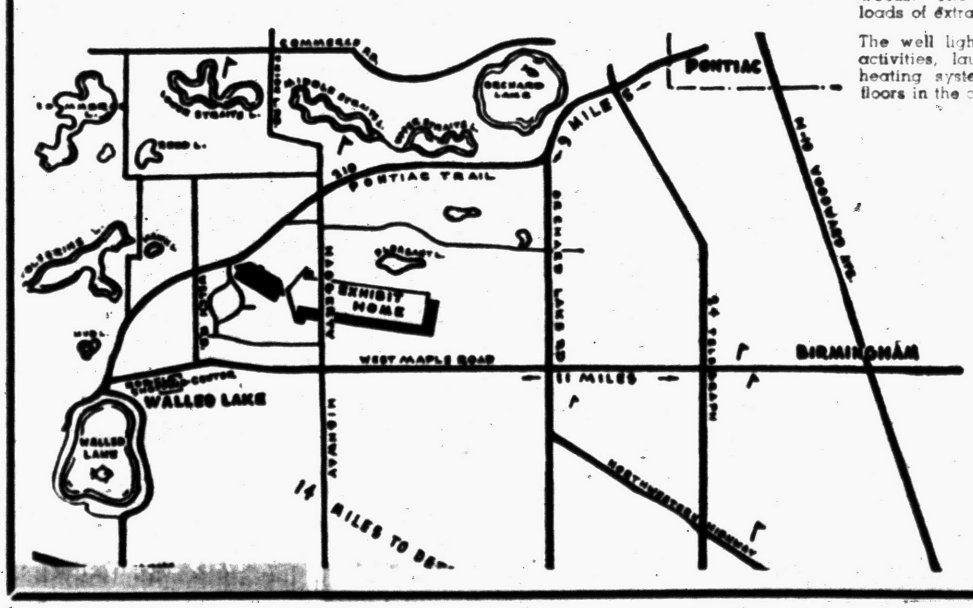

A well-built "easy-to-live-in" one floor, full basement brick home. Front and rear center hall entrance eliminate the disadvantage, found in most houses now being built, of having to "traipse" through the dining room or living room each time you want to go into the kitchen, bath, or bedroom area.

The living room and kitchen are at the left of the center hall, the bedrooms and baths at the right. Dad can come home from work and will find it easier to put his hat and coat in the closet than to drop them on the nearest chair. Junior can come in the rear door and find himself practically in the bathroom. And best of all, mother has an "easy-do" kitchen with no lost cabinet corners, plenty of work space, an out-of-the-way breakfast nook and easy access to the dining room, bedrooms, and baths.

Her NU-TONE hooded exhaust fan will quickly remove cooking odors and grease and will eliminate the drudgery of washing walls every few weeks. The counter between the range and refrigerator will provide loads of extra work space.

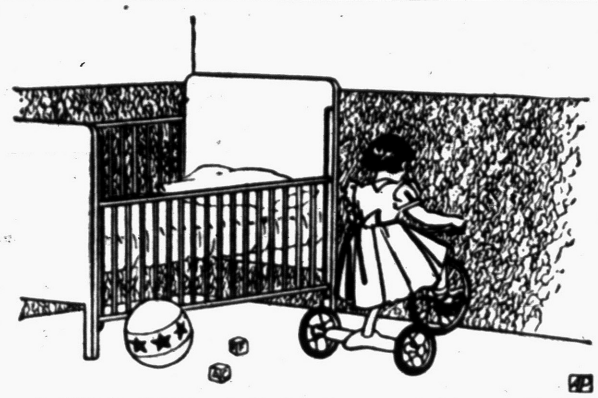

The well lighted full basement has plenty of room for all the family activities, laundry, recreation, and hobbies. The forced air perimeter heating system will guard you against cold exterior walls and drafty floors in the coldest of weather.

A CHILD'S ROOM gets the heaviest wear and tear on the lower portions of the walls. A tough and durable wainscot can prevent this and also protect children from scratches aaginst rough plaster or masonry. Modern hardboard panels make the construction of a wainscot easy and attractive. Decorative effects can be obtained by using types of hardboard known as leatherwood, which has the natural dark brown finish of Spanish grain leather. These can be painted any color.

Ways to Help Prevent Falls

The tub grab-bar is used in virtually all bathrooms today because it helps prevent accidents when getting into or out of a tub.

But comparatively few bathrooms have a grab-bar installed higher up in the ceramic tile wainscoting as a safety aid for persons taking showers.

You can install a shower grab-bar with little trouble. An excellent idea is to use a long metal towel rack, set vertically in the wall, so that children as well as older folks can use it. Because bathroom fixtures come in colors matching waterproof ceramic tile, you'll have no trouble fulfilling the bathroom's decorative scheme.

The Small Home

Thousands of homes with under 1,000 square feet of floor space are still being built. They're good buys if made with quality materials in bathrooms and kitchens. But if they're not quality made, they will have no re-sale value in a few years. A small home may seem like a bargain at first, but check carefully before buying.

Not Just Accident

Architect, Builder Look at Beauty in Home Lines

They usually come about because an architect for a builder knows how to combine two or more building materials well, just as a chef blends flavors to enhance a meal.

There are as definite rules for the process as there are recipes in cooking, and you will do well to keep them in mind when you plan a new home or select one done by a builder. Here are some pointers:

1. One material should always dominate, when two or more are used. The secondary materials should be used as accents. If equal amounts are employed the house will look cut up and therefore smaller.

2. The maintenance and weathering qualities of the secondary material should always be considered. A material gaining favor for exterior use on homes is ceramic tile, which is made in frost-proof types and never needs painting or redecorating.

3. The secondary materials should blend with the dominant one in texture. A sharp contrast—a rugged surface next to a fine-textured one, for instance— can be jarring and unpleasant.

4. The scale of all materials should match the scale of the home. If the home is small and ceramic tile, for instance is used for a secondary material a small unit should be selected. A larger tile would be suitable on a long rambling house.

5. The same colors should be used for all materials on the exterior of a small home. Large patches of different colors will just make it seem smaller. For contrast, window frames, shutters and doors can be done in a color that contrasts with the dominant one.

New Switches Have Lights in Handles

New mercury switches that operate silently without the usual on and off clicks are now being equipped with lighted handles clearly visible in the dark. A tiny neon light in the toggle handle glows when the switch is off.

The glowing handle also serves as a reverse pilot light for basement circuits, indicating when the basement lights are off.

The neon handle is supposed to be good for 10 to 15 years and its current cost is figured at about 2 cents per year at average rates.

Hardwood Floors for Radiant Heat

Oak floors now are being used successfully in conjunction with radiant floor heating systems in homes built on concrete slabs. For best performance of the floors which are laid in mastic experts recommended a boiler water temperature of about 115 degrees under ordinary conditions.

Low Cost Homes Hard to Finance

Rural Areas Report Difficulty, Too, in Recent Survey

Considerable difficulty is being experienced in financing small low-cost homes, suburban dwellings, and homes in rural areas, according to a nationwide survey conducted by the National Retail Lumber Dealers Assn.

Of 1,800 retail lumber and building materials dealers replying, over half reported specific instances where mortgage loans could not be obtained. Less than 10 per cent of the dealers reported that mortgage funds were entirely adequate in their locality.

The survey was conducted for the purpose of providing data needed in the Voluntary Home Mortgage Credit Program authorized by Congress as a means of facilitating the flow of mortgage funds to areas where financing is difficult to obtain.

The survey indicated that funds are generally available in needed quantities in larger metropolitan areas. Nearly 80 per cent of the dealers reporting an inadequacy of FHA and VA funds were in communities with a population of 10,000 or less.

More than half the dealers reporting stated that FHA and VA insured mortgage loans were unavailable, and most said that the situation had prevailed for a year or more.

A retail lumber and building materials dealer is serving on each of the 16 regional committees which have been set up by the Housing and Home Finance Agency to conduct the voluntary home mortgage program.

Colors Are Tricky

A safe rule in selecting a paint color is to choose a sample considerably lighter than the shade you have in mind. Any color on a large area takes on a darker appearance than it does on a small sample. Walls also reflect colors and deepen the effect.

Making a Dutch Door May Be an Easy Project

A Dutch door has many advantages as well as time-tested popularity. With top and bottom sections swinging independently, the upper part of the door can stand open while the lower section is locked. This can be a safeguard for children and pets and makes the door practicable indoors as well as for entrance use.

Almost any stock pine paneled door, new or old, can be made into a Dutch door, but it must be of the design with a thick section crosswise through the middle.

2. Attach two hinges above the selected cutting line and two below it. If the door has been in use before, the top and bottom hinges may be left in place, providing you can find two new hinges that exactly match the old ones. If matching hinges can't be obtained, four brand-ne whinges will give a better looking job and a better hanging door.

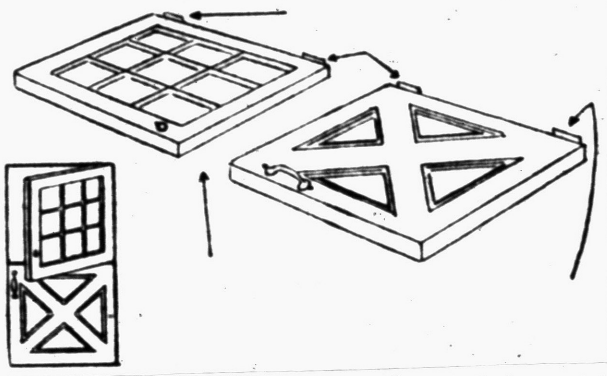

3. Saw the door apart along the chosen line.

4. Plan about 1-16th-inch from the bottom of the top section for clearance. If the door is to be used as an exterior door, slightly more planing may be necessary to accommodate weatherstripping.

5. Sand the edges smooth and round all corners slightly.

7. Install a sliding bolt vertically near the outside edge of the top section, just above the lower edge. Attach the bolt receptacle at a corresponding point on the bottom section. When this bolt is engaged, the entire door will swing as one unit.

Metal Lath Supply Good

Increased Demands Produced New Market Sources

There is an ample supply of metal lath on hand in both manufacturers and building supply dealers warehouses throughout the country, according to Donald R. Wadle, managing director, Metal Lath Manufacturers Assn., Cleveland.

"Although the demand for this type of base for plaster reinforcement has grown rapidly, nonetheless manufacturers now have sufficient production facilities," Wadle stated. "Subsequent to World War II, manufacturers added to their equipment with the result that today they can readily meet the increased requirements."

Concern has been expressed currently by architects and builders over the availability of metal lath. This can be traced to the numerous reports regarding the near capacity production of the steel mills.

Members of the Metal Lath Manufacturing Assn. indicated in a survey that they were able to get the steel they needed for production of metal lath, corner bead, casing bead and the numerous other metal plastering accessories so necessary to the completion of a structure.

"Inasmuch as the manufacturers feel certain that their requirements for steel will be met in the future just as they are being adequately cared for now," according to Wadle, "architects and builders should be able to specify metal lath as a plaster base with assurance that the material will be available when needed."

Texture Paint Conceals

A—That depends upon the width of the cracks. Texture paint conceals hairline cracks, but larger ones will have to be filled with patching plaster before the texture is applied. On walls and ceilings where cracking is extreme, the best bet is to completely resurface with wall panels or planks of one kind or another.

Professor Builds His Own Home

When Jack Kellam and his family recently moved into 'Halcyon House" in Beverly Hills at Danville, Ky., they realized a dream that had been born through faith, courage, confidence, resourcefulness and initiative. They were moving into a home that really was their own — planned and actually built by Jack himself, who is head of the art department at Centre College.

* * *

But even after they were in the house, Kellam said "It'll be a long time before we have everything just as we want it, but it's fun."

When Jack first had his dream of a home, he set about getting himself ready to build it. He carefully selected a desirable lot and then read books on planning and building.

He talked with local builders, told them of his plans and received encouragement and help from them. Jack realized it was an experiment that might prove very costly.

* * *

He visited his brother, a builder in Texas, and saw a concrete block house he had built. Jack liked it. He reasoned that if his brother could build such a house, he himself should have the courage to try it. He says he was just a bit envious of his brother's building ability.

He learned there are many type of concrete blocks and that some are much better for building houses than others. He studied the proper laying of the blocks and their insulation features. He finally found the block which he thought would suit his purpose best.

* * *

Kallam drew his own plans for a compact, modern, convenient three-bedroom house of 1,100 square feet. He drew the wiring layout and the plans for the plumbing. Then he tacked his drawings on a shade tree in the yard and went to work.

Block by block, inch by inch, the structure took shape. Aluminum windows and frames were installed, wires were strung, pipes were laid.

When time came for the roof, Jack decided to call in a professional carpenter. This was the only professional work he had done. The roof cost him $1,000.

A concrete floor was poured in the house and over it will be laid asphalt tile. The partitions between the rooms are wood, and the walls, inside and out, are painted in pastel shades with concrete paint. Ceilings of fir gave him wide possibilities for variety of colors and color blends.

* * *

A utility room houses a gas furnace. He provided a vertical crawl space, something rare in houses. It accommodates pipes for all utilites, so arranged that a workman can get to any of these grouped lines without disturbing the rest of the house.

The septic tank was built just so — after a great deal of thought and study had been given to drainage in consultations with health authorities.

"I have learned as I went along and if I should build another house I would know much more about it" Jack says.

Q—If tempered hardboard is used as an underlayment for asphalt tile, on top of a subfloor, how thick should it be?—G. L. M.

HOLLY HOME — Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Freeman at 212 Cogshall St., Holly, chose a one-story home with full basement for their retirement years. The exterior has pale green siding with white and yellow shutters and trim. For floor plan, the Freemans have two bedrooms, a large living room with dinette, full basement with recreation room and a screened in porch in the back. A breezeway and two-car garage is attached to the house. Believing that the outdoors is as important as the indoors, the Freemans have landscaped their spacious lawns edging them with borders of flowering shrubs and perennials. Mr. Freeman has one area especially assigned to his collection of rare roses.

Colors Play Big Part in Modernization Job

"Real modernization of a house without an attractive job of color styling the exterior is impossible," says Beatrice West, color consultant to professional builders. "The planned use of color is an essential part of all home design today," she says.

"The roof is generally the largest unbroken area visible. The color is the key to colors you may use elsewhere on the house. You have a wide range of selection in modern asphalt shingles. But make that selection with care. Be sure your liking for the roof color will last as long as the roof itself. A house may need painting every 4 or 5 years, but its roof is expected to last 15 to 20 years.

"A light, bright roof will make a house appear taller than it really is. A dark roof makes a house seem shorter. Use light-colored roofs on 1-story houses, darker roofs on 2-story or 3-story houses.

"Sidewalls should be colored to harmonize with the roof. If the roof is light in color, keep the sidewalls light. If the roof is medium to dark in color, the wall may be in those ranges.

"In general, contrasts between a roof and siding should be subtle. To give a house bigness, choose a light, bright asphalt roof and bright siding. To make a big house appear smaller, use subdued colors.

"Paint gable ends on small houses to match the sidewall color. Don't use many different siding materials on one house. A combination of colors, patterns and textures can be unpleasant."

KENTMOOR ROAD, BLOOMFIELD HILLS — A new-lined contemporary built recently in Bloomfield Hills on Kentmoor Rd. is built of Roman brick and has white clapboard and California redwood in vertical siding for exterior contrast. Turquoise is used for the trim notes with a wide overhang dropping into a covered porch area in the front of the house. Illusion of extra length is added to the house by the use of an extended brick wall. Two columns of white painted grillwork frame the front door.

This crib is easy too make with ordinary household tools and all metal fittings will be found at any hardware store. The pattern gives a list of materials and dimensions for the different parts and a large perspective sketch showing just how the pieces go together. The lamb pattern is taped to thin plywood so that the saw and painting outlines may be traced. Areas of flat color are shown on the pattern in natural graduation of tone to give the lambs a realistic effect when glued to the ends of crib and the nursery walls. Pattern 357 may be ordered for 25c or it will be included in the Small Household Furniture Packet of five standard size patterns for $1 postpaid. Write to Workshop, Pontiac Press, Bedford Hills, N. Y.

Camp Stove Lets Chef Expand Menu

The charcoal grill's fine for steak but what about coffee?

Many backyard chefs are solving that problem by setting up a Coleman camp stove beside the grill. The stove burns white (unleaded) gasoline, giving a flame that can be regulated as easily as the flame of a kitchen range.

Used in conjunction with a grill, the camp stove serves for making coffee, boiling corn, or for cooking any food that the grill isn't suited for. The stove makes it unnecessary to run to and from the kitchen.

Portable Oak Floors Utilized in Coliseum

"Convertible" hardwood floors that can be dismantled, stored and re-installed as a matter of routine when the occasion calls for a different type of underfooting now are used in many large public buildings. Among such recent installations was the 33,800-square foot oak floor in the Montgomery, Ala., Coliseum. It was constructed in 4x10-foot sections, laid by a method which renders them easily portable.

Paint Iron Furniture

Outdoor furniture made of iron should be painted when it is new and then repainted regularly to keep the metal from rusting. American Builder magazine says that if rust gains a foothold, it should be removed entirely with steel wool or a wire brush before refinishing.

Start at Floor for Best Results in Washing Walls

* * *

Its experimenters also have found that the easiest way to remove finger marks from a painted wall surface is to wet the marks with a cleaning solution, allow it to remain a few minutes to soften the dirt, then sponge it off with a circular motion.

* * *

Gold, Peach, Blue for New Plate Glass

In addition to regular and heat absorbing, plate glass is made in gold, peach and blue colors. The golden plate absorbs 99.7 per cent of the sun's bleaching ultra violet rays affording a measure of protection to the colors of upholstery, fabrics and carpets.

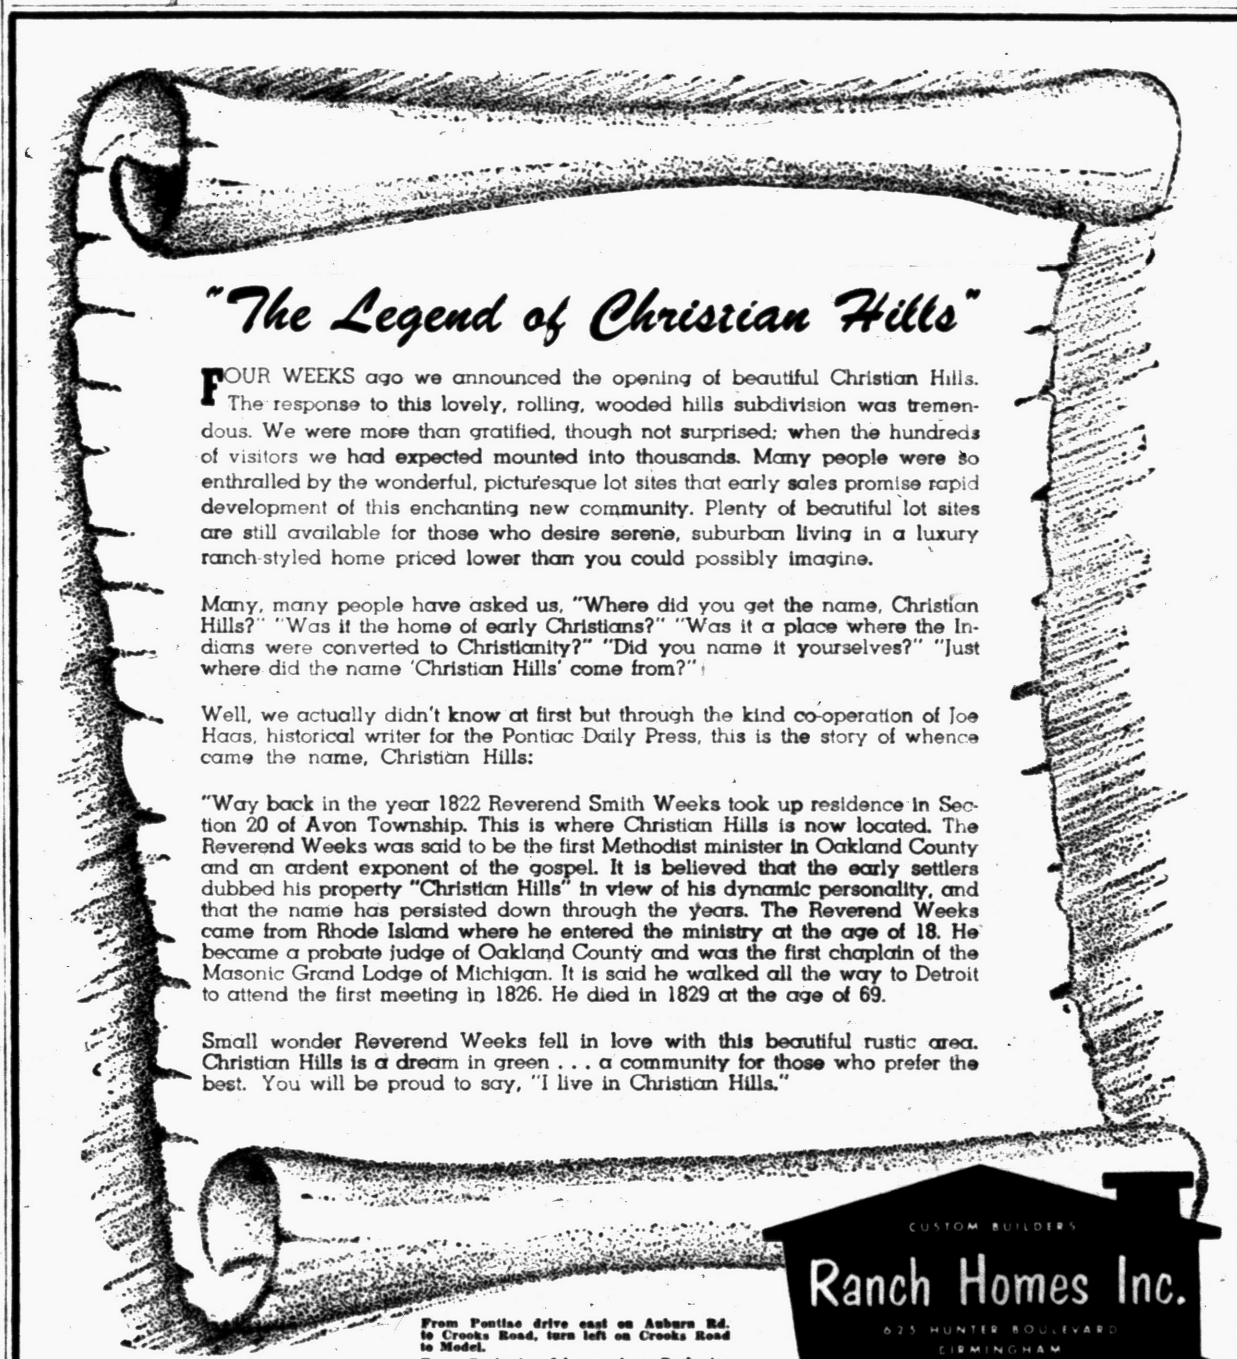

* * *

In addition to a slight chemical difference, window glass differs from plate glass in that it is not ground and polished. The glass is fire-finished as it comes from the furnace.

* * *

Modern window glass has been vastly improved over the years and is relatively free from distortion, but since distortion becomes more noticeable in large sheets of window glass, plate glass is preferable for use in picture windows and window walls.

"The Legend of Christian Hills"

FOUR WEEKS ago we announced the opening of beautiful Christian Hills. The response to this lovely, rolling, wooded hills subdivision was tremendous. We were more than gratified, though not surprised; when the hundreds of visitors we had expected mounted into thousands. Many people were so enthralled by the wonderful, picturesque lot sites that early sales promise rapid development of this enchanting new community. Plenty of beautiful lot sites are still available for those who desire serene, suburban living in a luxury ranch-styled home priced lower than you could possibly imagine.

Many, many people have asked us, "Where did you get the name, Christian Hills?" "Was it the home of early Christians?" "Was it a place where the Indians were converted to Christianity?" "Did you name it yourselves?" "Just where did the name 'Christian Hills' come from?"

Well, we actually didn't know at first but through the kind co-operation of Joe Haas, historical writer for the Pontiac Daily Press, this is the story of whence came the name, Christian Hills:

"Way back in the year 1822 Reverend Smith Weeks took up residence in Section 20 of Avon Township. This is where Christian Hills is now located. The Reverend Weeks was said to be the first Methodist minister in Oakland County and an ardent exponent of the gospel. It is believed that the early settlers dubbed his property "Christian Hills" in view of his dynamic personality, and that the name has persisted down through the years. The Reverend Weeks came from Rhode Island where he entered the ministry at the age of 18. He became a probate judge of Oakland County and was the first chaplain of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Michigan. It is said he walked all the way to Detroit to attend the first meeting in 1826. He died in 1829 at the age of 69.

Small wonder Reverend Weeks fell in love with this beautiful rustic area. Christian Hills is a dream in green . . . a community for those who prefer the best. You will be proud to say, "I live in Christian Hills."

5431 SASHABAW RD. — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Callahan of 5431 Sashabaw Rd. recently purchased this brick and cedar shake home. White clapboard has been used on the front of the house to break the straight brick lines. The Callahan home has three bedrooms, a large kitchen, living room with dinette area and full basement. Brick for the house is beige in shade with a blue variegated roof.

Sectional Tables Now Popular

There is lots of emphasis on odd dual-purpose seating arrangements such as small benches that can double as snack tables or small folding seats that can be utilized in emergencies and stored away in between times.

Along these lines the massive coffee table seems to be popular only when it is sectional.

Uneven Floors

When buying hardwood flooring, check carefully the species you order. A mixed species of flooring will wear unevenly, with the softer boards wearing faster than the harder wood.

Outlook on Life Via Kitchen Window

Kitchen windows have to take more steaming and cooling, more opening and closing than any other windows in the average house.

At the same time they also give the housewife her only outlook on the world for all the hours she spends in the kitchen. For the mother, they should afford a good view of the play yard, so she can watch her children, or see the approach of visitors or tradespeople.

To Measure Wallpaper

A—First determine the square feet of wall area, minus openings, such as doors and windows. There paper, but six square feet of each roll should be subtracted for waste. Therefore, divide the square feet of wall area by 30 for the number of rolls needed.

Plan for Outdoor Living

WINDOW WALL—Merging the outdoors with the indoors, only a window wall of double glazing marks the boundary when the pavement of the terrace also forms the living floor this is an example of dull red quarry tile, which is frostproof.

Planning the ground around a house, whether you are building or modernizing a house, is more important today than it used to be. The wide spread use of glass in the modern home and the blending of indoor-out-door living make the garden and the grounds far more important to today's family than they were a generation ago.

When you consider that an average lot comprises 5,000 to 6,000 square feet of space, and the average house occupies only about a fifth of that area — and sometimes less, especially when the lot is larger—you can see what you can gain by planning the other four-fifth to provide as much living area as possible.

Architects have found that the best way to control a view on a small lot is to place the outlook from the living room on the rear of the house, instead of toward the street.

This makes it posible to use fences, hedges and suitable plantings to create whatever view is desired.

Indoro and outdoor areas can be related by extending a terrace from the glass wall areas of the living room. And many architects are going a step farther. They tie interior space to exterior space by employing a flooring material, such as large clay tile of the dull red quarry type for both the living room floor and the surfacing of the terrace. The use of the same pavement in both spaces efefctively unifies the indoor and outdoor areas.

Red quarry tile, often used in foyers and around fireplaces, blends well with natural wood finishes. It has enough color for floors so that a minimum of rugs are used with it. It is practical for homes with radiant heated slabs and it is easy to clean and maintain.

Trees are important in planning a lot. Think twice before you let a builder cut down a shade tree to expedite construction of a new house or addition. Careful planning may enable you to save a tree that would take 20 to 30 years to grow from sapling stage. Very often a terrace or porch can be built around a tree and adequate moisture and ventilation can still be provided for the roots.

Play space for children is a must in planning grounds. A terrace can be ideal for them and keep them from the hazards of street play.

Storage is another factor. Where wil the lawn mower and garden tools be kept? Tricycles, bicycles, wagons and sleds need space. A simple solution is to make a garage or carport a little longer, with storage space at the end. Sometimes an inconspicuous tool shed at one side of the lot will fill the bill.

Lot planning can be more flexible than house planning. You can transport shrubs and hedges if you change your mind.

But it is wise to plan your paved areas, such as terraces or patois carefully. They are more or less permanent adjuncts to a home.

To Remove Water Spots

A—Rub lightly with a very fine production sandpaper or fine steel wool. This must be done carefully. If stain remains, remove finish with shellac solvent, then apply several coats of new shellac, thinned one to one with solvent.

Moth Control Year Round Problem

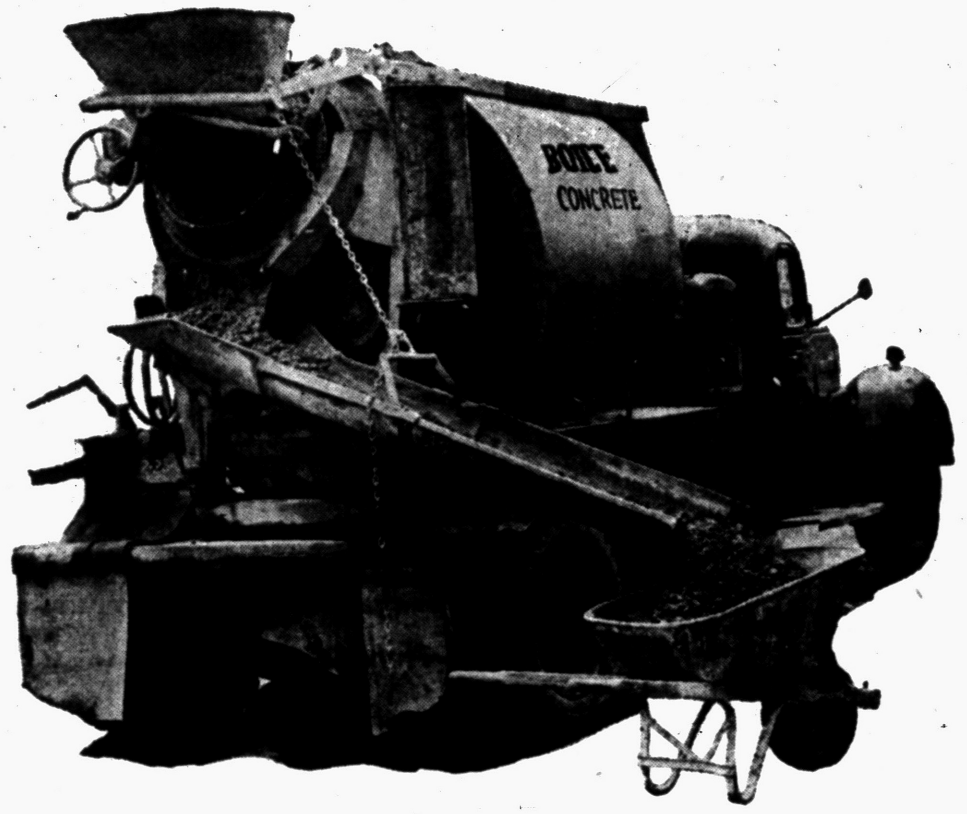

Some authorities say that the normal time for moths to lay their eggs is late May, June and July and again in September and October.

However, from experience, many homemakers know that any time of the year seems to be the normal time.

Rather than run the risk of having their prized possessions ruined by these pests, they see to it that the vacuum cleaner is used frequently; to keep closets, shelves and apparel free of dust and dirt and for spraying a good moth repellant in any place where there is the slightest risk of infestation.

The great desire of the American housewife for still more beautiful kitchens is seeing new fulfillment with the colorful new appliances that are now on the market. Major appliances, such as ranges, refrigerators, dishwashers and washer-dryer combinations are now available in eye-delighting tones of pink, yellow, green, blue and brown. Paints and enamels in matching or pleasantly contrasting shades are easy to obtain for kitchen walls,

Weekend Handyman Can Streamline Kitchen

Many a modern man takes an active interest in the kitchen and what goes on there, but none to the extent of the man who has modernized the family cooking center all by himself.

Kitchen remodeling is definitely a man's job, and he can make it simple or complex, depending on his skill or lack of skill with tools. One man we know bought a power table saw just to build cabinets for his kitchen. Starting from scratch, he built them from the floor up, and made the saw pay for itself.

New cabinets give a drab, old kitchen a substantial lift, but it isn't necessary to build them, thanks to manufacturers who prefabricate metal or wooden units. The cabinets are lightweight, easy to install and versatile. The combinations and arrangements you can make of them are numberless.

Extension kitchen streamlining, complete to tiled walls and built-in ovens, cannot be done on a shoestring, but it's actually amazing what changes can be wrought with a coat of paint, soft indirect lighting and new modern base and wall cabinets.

All makes of the latter are of nearly equal depth and height and are available in widths to fit almost any space. Some come knocked down and are assembled on the job. Wall cabinets are simply hung on brackets fastened to wall studding and are then secured to the wall. Base and sink cabinets are first leveled, then secured in place according to manufacturer's directions.

In modernizing an old-style kitchen, it is usually best to leave the plumbing where it is, if the pipes are in sound condition. A practical arrangement can be worked out in most cases, regardless of the sink's location.

It is generally agreed that the best arrangement of kitchen units calls for the sink to be placed between the stove and refrigerator, all close together to eliminate unnecessary steps. Of course this specification cannot always be met, but should be borne in mind while planning the new layout.

Lighting comes next in importance and is of course planned to do away with eyestrain. The homemaker who must work in her own shadow is handicapped. Never place a light source so that shadows are thrown over important work areas.

Soft, general indirect lighting near ceiling level is excellent. Local fluorescent lighting beneath wall cabinets is ideal counter-top illumination. Fluorescent ceiling fixtures also furnish good overall lighting and are not unbecoming.

To eliminate a good part of the annoying clatter of pots, pans and dishes, ceilings of acoustical tile come highly recommended. The tile can be installed by a handy home owner, and can be painted with brush or roller coater if care is taken not to clog the tiny holes in some makes of tiles.

Another form of comfort insurance is adequate ventilation. And perhaps the most satisfactory way to ventilate the kitchen is to install an exhaust fan in the ceiling over the stove, or on an outside wall near the stove. The fan whisks away cooking odors and grease laden air.

Geometric and Linear Designs for Glass

Patterned glass is semi-transparent with distinctive geometric or linear designs on one or both surfaces to provide diffused light transmission with varying degrees of privacy and to meet special requirements in decorative or functional uses.

In addition to 17 patterns ranging from finely engraved to boldly louvered, patterned glass is available with any one of five surface finishes which afford varying degrees of light diffusion and transparency.

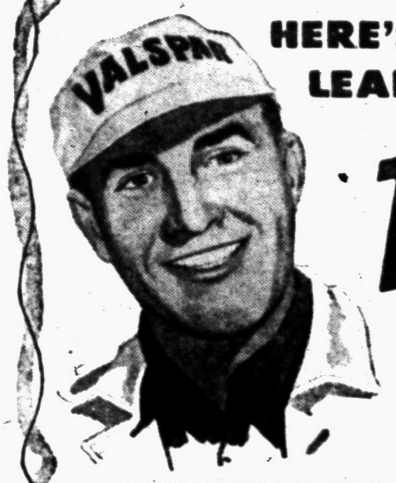

Lay Hardwood Tight

When laying hardwood flooring in residences, do not, under any circumstances, lay it tight against studding or walls. Leave not less than ½-inch horizontal expansion space at all walls.

It's Good Management

"Paint before you need to," the current issue of a magazine advises. "The best time to paint a house is just before it really needs painting," the article advises. That's the time when the job takes the least pre-painting preparation—when you restore the protective coating with a minimum of hidden damage—when one coat will do the job of two."

LYNSUE LANE — A new community of one-story with carport homes is located near the Waterford Township high school. Built by Carey Homes, the houses are placed on curved streets with different colorings used to vary the neighborhood appearance. This photo was taken from the corner of Lynsue Lane. In this row are houses in gray and green, lilac with mauve, beige and cafe au lait, terra cotta and beige and green with yellow. At the end of each paved carport is a large storage cabinet.

Workshop Patterns

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

If you have a storage problem these little chests may be the answer. They do not hold much but everything is on the top in plain sight. They are attractive, too. When loaded they move easily on unique little rollers. The pattern gives a cutting list for the materials to make a set of three chests. If you want to save time and labor just take pattern 428 (price 25c) to your nearest woodworker who will zip out the parts. The assembling is an easy hand job. Other standard size patterns for children's wardrobe; double-deck bed; bunny chair, table and lamp are all in the Children's Furniture Packet which is only $1 postpaid. Flower Boxes Liven Porches and Indoors

There's hardly an older home without flower boxes on the porch railing, or a flower bed in the yard. Today, families moving into new homes with undeveloped grounds think first of grading and seeding their yard for grass.

Flowers, if any, are restricted to the inside for a while. But this doesn't have to cramp your style. All sorts of plants are suited for indoor growth in any climate—even orchids.

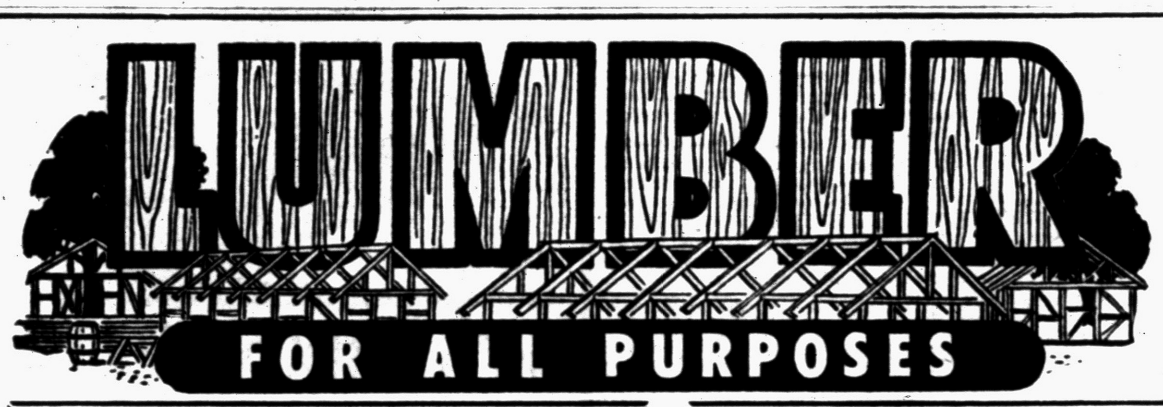

Be sure, though, to protect your home's new surfaces from water, sand, and rough pots. Line your planters, window sills, shelves and floor segments with a scratch-proof, waterproof material like ceramic tile. Colorful tile can add a decorative note of its own, too.

Homes Lead Parade

The home construction industry employs more workers directly than any other industry. According to the United States Savings and Loan League, three million persons were engaged in the production of homes in the past year.

Colors for Masonry

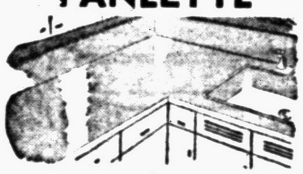

An easy way to color masonry walls is to use dry powder cement-base paints. These usually comprise Portland cement, lime and mineral pigment. When mixed with water and applied to a dampened surface, they create a finish that is similar to concrete or mortar.

One 20-ampere electrical circuit is minimum for a home workshop. A separate circuit for workshop lights is also advisable.

Is Your Home Workshop Wired for Safety?

If you've never been pitched into total darkness while feeding heavy lumber to a power saw, then (1) you don't have a power saw, or (2) you only operate it in the daytime, or (3) your home workshop has an unusually good electrical system.

Nor have you "enjoyed" an annoying experience. In inadequately wired shops it's made the more annoying by erratic behavior of power tools. Some days the saw motor seems to reach the stall point without much provocation. Stalling, it overloads the circuit, a fuse blows or a circuit breaker trips, and Presto!—no lights, no power.

Other days it breezes through heavy lumber and does no more than dim the lights.

One practical answer to erratic power tool performance is to rewire your workshop. The same may go for the rest of the house. It has been estimated that 34 million homes in this country are inadequately wired, struggling along with small-sized wires and circuits lacking capacity.

In the event your workshop was added after the house was built, it's better than an even bet that its electrical system is not up to snuff.

Check to see if it has one 20-ampere circuit with No. 12 wire all to itself. That's the minimum for even the smallest workshop. Although not essential, there really ought to be a separate 20-amp circuit for the workshop lights, in addition. This prevents temporary dimouts or blackouts when power-tool motors are heavily loaded.

Since individual power tools do not draw large amounts of current, a larger shop, too, can get by with one 20-amp circuit, if—the power tools are used one at a time.

This being the case, if there's more than one workshop fancier in your family, you would be wise to have additional circuits installed. How many depends on the size of your power-tool motors and on the number that might be in use simultaneously.

Amperage ratings for electrical motors are as follows: 1 hp—13 amps, ½ hp—7.4 amps, ¼ hp—4.6 amps, 1-6 hp—3.2 amps.

Should you plan on eventually expanding your workshop into a really de luxe affair, your best bet is to install three-wire 120-240-volt circuits and 240-volt motors, which will reduce by half the current drain put on the wiring.

On workshop electrical circuits it is definitely a wise move to install time-delay fuses or circuit breakers. One "slow-blow" fuse will save you the price of many an ordinary fuse. Here's why:

When an electric motor starts, there is a temporary demand for at least 25 per cent more power than the same motor draws after it once reaches full speed. Should the circuit it's connected to be loaded to near capacity, the initial current surge will blow an ordinary fuse. A 20-amp, time-delay fuse, however, will stand a 100-amp surge for one second, and as much as 60 amps for up to 10 seconds.

When you rewire your workshop, don't make the mistake of underestimating your lighting needs. There should be a separate work light for each permanently installed piece of equipment, and one for every 10 feet of bench length.

For general illumination, inside white-bowl lamps of 150 watts each, placed about four feet above your workbench, are adequate. For local illumination, at each power tool, for instance, reflector spotlights are good. While you're at it, install more duplex convenience outlets that you think you'll need for small electric tools, soldering iron and other plug-in appliances. You'll never be sorry you did.

Floor Drain Keeps Bathroom Neat

This simplifies mopping the floor and when children splash in the tub or shower, the water goes down the drain instead of standing in puddles on the floor.

It is a safety measure, too. On those rare occasions when someone lets a bathtub or wash basin overflow, the water merely runs down the drain in the tile floor, instead of under the door and on the carpets of other rooms.

The reason why this number is one of the most popular we have ever offered is probably the fact that it is so adaptable. The center section may be used with two end units as shown; or with one or none at all. A corner section (pattern 271) and a drop-leaf desk (No. 272) may be combined with the above piece for a continuous assembly on two sides of the a room. The patterns give actual size cutting diagrams for all shaped parts, list of materials needed and the steps in assembling and finishing. Patterns should be ordered by number and 25c enclosed for each pattern requested. For first class mail delivery include 2c extra for each number.

Table Shows Area Paint Will Cover

How far will a gallon of paint go? This is a problem the home handyman would like to solve before he buys an unnecessary amount of paint.

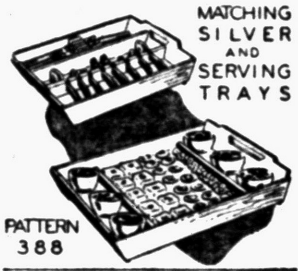

Rough, porous surfaces, and those lacking a primer or other undercoater, naturally call for more paint than walls or woodwork in good pre-painted condition.

The following table for one coat of paint, where no sizing has been used, was prepared by the M. J. Merkin Co., to show the areas which one gallon of paint will cover:

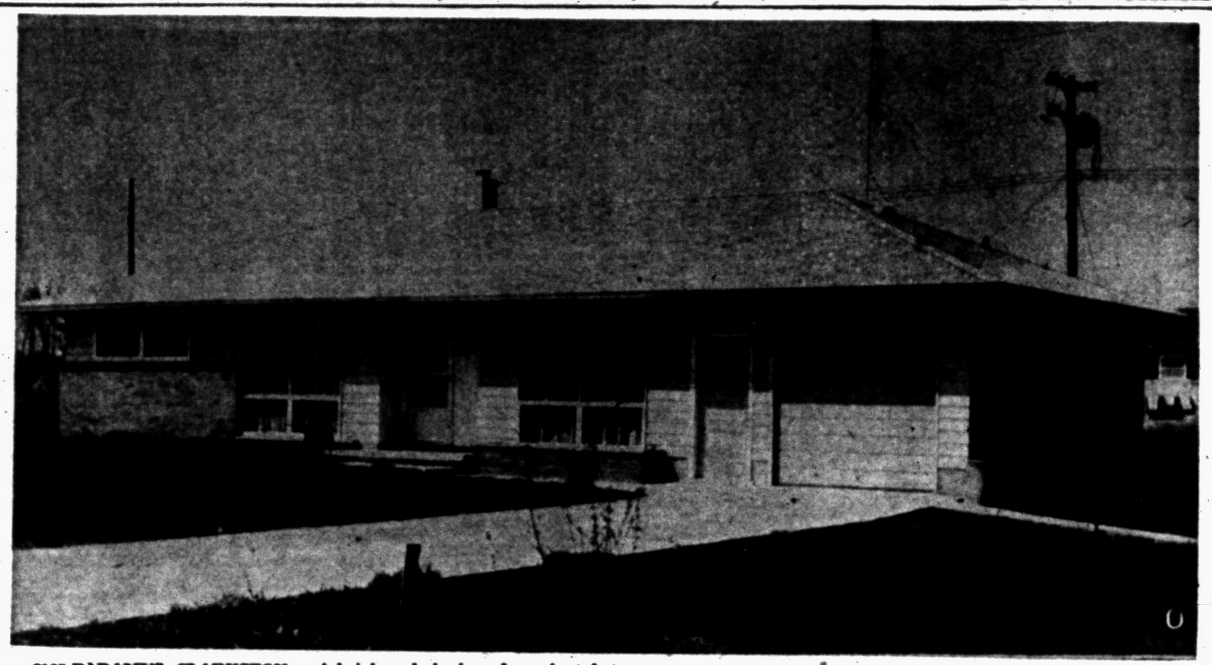

Type of Surface	Sq. Ft.
Smooth painted surfaces	700-800
White coat plaster	500-600
Sand finish plaster and textured walls	250-350
Wallpaper	350-450
Gypsum wallboard	250-350
Concrete surfaces	400-500
Brick surfaces	300-400
Cinder block	300-350

For average-size rooms with surfaces in good condition, where a one-coat finish is planned, and where ceilings are a different color than the walls, with the height of walls about 8 feet, the following number of quarts will be needed:

Room Size	Walls	Ceiling	Woodwork	Floor
6 x 9	2	1	½	½
9 x 9	3	1	½	½
10 x 12	3	1	1	1
30 x 18	5	3	2	2

This serving tray is known as a step-saver in many busy homes. It holds a complete service for eight. It is carried to the sink to receive the silver as it is dried. It fits into drawer and at meal-time is all ready to be taken to the table to set as many places as may be needed. Pattern 388 gives actual-size tracing designs for all shaped parts and three-dimensional drawings of the various pieces showing exactly how they go together. This is just the project for the shop student who is looking for something to make. The price of pattern 388 is 25c. It is included in the Kitchen Handies Packet of full-size patterns at $1 postpaid. Include 2c extra for first class mail or 10c extra for the packet. Write to Workshop, Pontiac Press, Bedford Hills, N. Y.

Many Decorating Tricks Are Done With Wallpaper

Simple tricks that you can do yourself with a few rolls of wallpaper can make a drab room or an old piece of furniture distinctive and eye-catching.

If you have a dark corner, a gayly figured wallpaper that harmonizes or contrasts with the rest of the room coloring can go far in creating a dining corner or a smart setting for television or a favorite furniture piece.

Bright patterned wallpaper can do a lot for a dingy closet. Such is a place where you can use lavishly andy vividly colored paper that you would hesitate to use in a more conspicuous place.

Screens are now often used as important parts of the decorative scheme. Patterned wallpaper that contrasts with the rest of the room can make a screen an accent piece. Or if a screen is to be used as a room divider, or otherwise wanted to recede into the background, wallpaper of the same design as that on your walls will turn this trick.

Old furniture, such as chests of drawers, often can be given a smart decorator appearance with wallpaper. Sand the surface until it is smooth. Cut a pattern for each panel out of newspaper. Then cut your wallpaper an extra inch larger than the pattern all around to allow for turning under at the corners.

Regular wallpaper paste, or plain glue will hold the paper permanently in place. After it is well dried, shellac it for a finished look and for durability.

Unfinished furniture lends itself especially to this wallpaper trick. The insides of a china cabinet or a bookcase provide handsome backgrounds for your china or bric-a-brac when lined with wallpaper .

When Planning Swinging Walls Figure on Load

Swinging bookcase walls have added a glamorous note to modern homes. They often are used to close off one end of a living room, or an ell off a living room to create a den or extra sleeping space.

When empty, such bookcases swing easily. When loaded with heavy books, trouble may develop unless the contrivance is cantilevered properly and equipped with strong bearings.

This problem was illustrated recently when a decorator for a large furnishing establishment telephoned various companies to find out where she could buy false book bindings.

"We are decorating a new house with a swinging bookcase wall," she explained, "and when the shelves are loaded with real books the wall will not swing."

Your Fix-It Forum

Q—There is a leak along the bottom of our basement walls where walls join floor. How can this be stopped?—R. G.

A—Enlarge the joint with a hammer and cold chisle, undercutting it so that the opening at the surface is smaller than inside the hole. Clean out loose mortar and dampen the cavity. While wet, patch with mortar (one part cement-two parts sand). When mortar sets, paint with cementbase waterproofing compound.

Floor Laying Tip

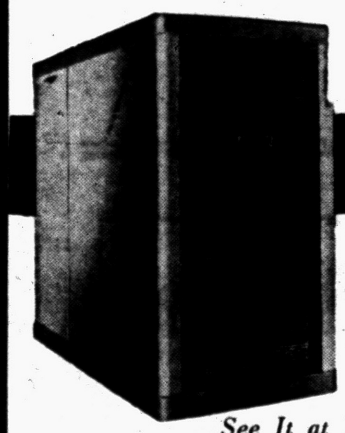

In applying oak flooring, do not hammer each piece into final position as soon as it is nailed. After installing three or four pieces, place a short length of scrap flooring against the tongue edge of the outside strike and drive the units up snugly. Use of the scrap piece helps protect the tongue from breakage.

Here's How . . . .

Make a Magazine Rack

A rack for storage and display of magazines of all sizes is easily made by the home craftsman.

First make the two sides, of edge-glued boards or hardwood plywood, ¾ by 16 by 30 inches. With a square, mark off the 3-inch squares, and with a compass inscribe the arcs for each step. Saw out the sides with a jigsaw or coping saw.

The shelves vary from 6 to 7 inches deep, and the top is 4 inches. The larger shelves may be of two pieces. Make sure the shelves are cut square to assure a neat joint with the sides of the rack.

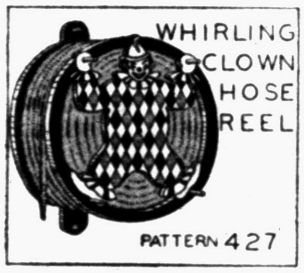

Use glue and 6-penny finishing nails to fasten the sides to the shelves. Set the heads of the nails.

The back is made of ¼-inch hardwood plywood, cut to fit flush with the sides of the rack, and is fastened to the rack with 2-penny finishing nails or 1-inch brads.

No more hose trouble with this jolly fellow to help you. Just fasten the back of the reel to any wall, slip the hose end in place and whirl the clown. The hose will drain as it winds up and lie flat when it unwinds which saves much wear and tear. Lift the reel off the wall and use the handle to carry wherever needed. The piece is painted in five bright colors beside the white enamel. The pattern (427) may be ordered separately for 25 cents or it will be included in the Gardeners' Helpers Packet of five standard size patterns for $1 postpaid. Q—My neighbors say I won't be able to use colorful roofing on a house I'm building because the roof is nearly flat. Is this true?

A—No. A new method of applying asphalt shingles to roofs with slopes as low as two inches per horizontal foot means that you have all the colors you want to choose from. A roofing contractor or building materials dealer can show you the many colors available and, incidentally, explain how shingles are applied to low pitched roofs.

Tips for Tile

Homemakers are often pleasantly surprised at the tremendous variety of types, shapes, sizes, colors and uses of ceramic tile. Basically, tile is either the glazed type, as on bathroom walls; ceramic mosaics, popularly used on floors; or quarry tile, used for terraces. Tile designs are virtually limitless. It comes in 200 different colors. And as for uses—tile is practical and decorative for surfacing any house.

It's Fun to Paint, but an Oversight May Start a Costly Fire

Years ago the owner had turned his basement into a workshop, filled it with stores of paint and a clutter of old furniture and junk picked up at auction sales.

He liked to paint and make repairs. The neighbors liked him for it. Many of them were fixers themselves. Only they knew when to stop, when to replace worn appliances, when to seek professional help.

This owner was careless, too, in handling paints and solvents, even failing to provide good ventilation. And there wasn't an ash tray to be found.

The likes of that guy says the National Board of Fire Underwriters, cause about 90 per cent of all fires.

What is the hazard? The oils, turpentine, mineral spirits and other common ingredients in paints. Lacquers contain acetone and amyl acetate (banana oil) and occasionally some benzine (petroleum naphtha).

Rags containing paint or linseed oil or almost any vegetable or fish oil are subject to spontaneous heating under certain conditions. You are wise if you keep these in covered metal cans, or destroy them.

Right and Wrong Places for Trees Can Be Selected

A tree that sheds its leaves for winter can be used in places where summer shade is wanted without sacrificing winter warmth—around the south and west sides of house. Evergreens, on the other hand, can be used for dense windbreaks or screens for privacy.

The litter created by some trees should be considered. Acorns, catalpa pods, useless fruit from certain flowering trees, are problems when lawn care is involved.

Here's How . . . .

Make an Easel

The frame is made of 1¼ by 1¼-inch lumber, the front legs being 60 inches long and the rear leg 54 inches long.

In each front leg, bore a ¼-inch hole 5½ inches from the top; and 26 inches from the base bore a 5-16-inch hole, and three others at 29, 32, and 35 inches. Make a hinge plate ¾ by 3 by 7 inches over-all, tapered to 5 inches at the top. Then fasten the rear leg to the hinge plate, and fasten the two front legs together, using 3-inch strap hinges. Assemble by fastening the hinge plate to the front frame with ¼-inch bolts, 2½ inches long, using wing-nuts.

Use light chain, strung through screw eyes to control the spread of the easel. The tray is supported on 5-16-inch bolts at desired height.

Modern Fireplace

If yours is an uninspired fireplace that seems really out of place in a modern living room, surface it with handsome fireproof ceramic tile. This decorative material, because of its virtually limitless variety, can complement any room design. It will add a new note of brightness and cheer to the fireplace—center of interest in any living room.

Kitchen Quiz

What's the one material that is fireproof and waterproof, equally suited for around hot ranges or on counters near the sink?
