TO MEET IN LONDON—U. S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles, French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will meet in London tomorrow.

To Confer With British, French on Trieste Issue

Secretary of State Says Conference May Ease Tensions

LONDON (AP) — U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles flew into London today to confer with the British and French foreign ministers on the explosive Trieste situation and cold war problems.

Dulles was accompanied by his wife and state department aides. The U. S. Air Force plane landed at London Airport in a haze.

Dulles was met by British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and U. S. Ambassador Winthrop Aldrich.

Prime Minister Churchill arranged to dine with Dulles tonight and meet Bidault separately. The British veteran was expected to press on both his pet project for a top-level, informal conference of himself, President Eisenhower, French Premier Joseph Laniel and Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov.

As he left Washington last night, Dulles in a statement expressed hope the London talks would "make some progress" toward easing world tensions.

The three nations' "undeviating objective," he said, is "to seek out, with all of our allies, the basis for a lasting peace."

Although both the British Foreign Office and the State Department claimed the get-together had been in the making for some time, it was given a war-or-peace urgency by Yugoslav President Tito's threats to use force to forestall the announced British-American plan to turn over Trieste's Zone A to Italy.

In addition to Trieste and Churchill's "Big Four" project, the ministers also were expected to give final approval to their new vote inviting Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov to meet them at Lugano, Switzerland, Nov. 9 to discuss Germany and Austria, and to study latest developments on the projected Korean peace conference.

French Launch Full Scale Attack

Vietnamese Join Land, Sea, Air Assault on Red Forces

WITH FRENCH AIR FORCE, Northern Indochina (AP) — French and Vietnamese land, sea and air forces jumped off at dawn today in a full-scale offensive aimed at destroying huge war depots and paralyzing Communist-led divisions threatening an attack on the Red River delta.

Breaking out of their Red River delta bulwark for the first time in a year, the French-led troops quickly crossed the Day River in the Ninh Binh sector, 50 miles southeast of Hanoi.

They pushed outside the southern rim of the delta's defenses and stabbed through muddy, rain-flooded ricefields and jagged limestone hills toward the big rebel supply bases before Phu Nho Quan and Thanh Hoa.

At Phu Nho Quan, 55 miles from Hanoi, the Vietminh have one of their crack divisions, No. 320, entrenched in the hills less than 10 miles from the delta rim.

Another rebel division, No. 304, is concentrated in the Thanh Noa area, 90 miles south of Hanoi.

French fighters from the aircraft carrier Arromanches and land-based fighters and bombers plastered both Phu Nho Quan and Thanh Hoa as troops steadily moved southwestward from the Ninh Binh sector.

Popgun Hunter Brings Back Bird

AP Wirephoto

HAS EVIDENCE—Kenneth Nelson, 2, of Boyne City, took up his double-barreled cork popgun and announced, "Mommy, I'm going hunting." Mommy (Mrs. Dorwin D. Nelson) just smiled. But when Kenny returned shortly with a partridge in hand, Mrs. Nelson was the most surprised woman in Boyne City. Deduction: Kenneth probably startled the bird, which killed itself as it flew against power lines. Anyway, Kenneth the hunter, was mighty pleased with the whole situation.

Top Defense Secrets Flow to Russia, Scientist Says

NEW YORK (AP)—Testimony on the reported removal of top-secret radar defense documents from the Ft. Monmouth, N. J., Signal Corps center has dovetailed with a charge that vital defense data from the base has been channeled to Russia for some time.

Testimony in the case was disclosed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) after a closed hearing yesterday of his Senate permanent investigations subcommittee.

The charge that America's radar defense secrets have been flowing to the Soviet Union came from an unidentified German scientist quoted last night in a copyrighted New York story by the Chicago Tribune under the byline of William Edwards.

The Tribune said the scientist, who fled the East zone of Germany, told U. S. authorities in Western Germany:

"The Russians said that they could get anything they wanted out of Ft. Monmouth."

The Army announced recently without elaboration, that five civilian employes at Ft. Monmouth had been suspended for security reasons.

McCarthy, whose committee continues closed hearings here today into possible Communist subversion in the center's radar laboratory, said yesterday that five other persons have been suspended in the past two days.

However, the 43 documents which McCarthy's witness admitted taking home were recovered when Army agents raided the scientist's home that same year.

Ike Gets Warm Ohio Welcome

Calls for International Understanding in Talk at Defiance

EN ROUTE WITH PRESIDENT EISENHOWER (AP)—President Eisenhower arrived in Defiance, Ohio, today with a new plea for international understanding. He said education is the means of bringing it about.

The President spoke from a flag-decked platform at a cornerstone laying for the Anthony Wayne Library at Defiance College.

He paused at Defiance at the request of Kevin McCann, a former aide, who now is president of Defiance College.

The stop was at the start of a trip that will take him to Kansas City for a major farm speech tonight and then to the Mexican border.

Cheering thousands lined the streets of Defiance, in northwestern Ohio, as the President rode, standing and waving, to the Defiance campus. Police Chief C. D. Nestleroad estimated the campus crowd at 15,000 and the throng lining the street at 75,000.

School bands in brilliantly colored uniforms lent a note of gaiety to the scene.

Ohio's Democratic governor, Frank J. Lausche, and its Republican senator, John W. Bricker, were on the platform with Eisenhower and joined in the applause when he paid tribute to the late Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Earlier in an extemporaneous talk at Willard, Ohio, Eisenhower declared his administration stands for peace with self respect.

The crowd gave him a noisy reception — plus an invitation to a forthcoming high school chili supper. There was an orchid, too, for Mrs. Eisenhower, though she wasn't along.

Tot Dies Before Favorite Hero Can Visit Him

DETROIT (AP) — Four-year-old Carl Ertley Jr. won't keep his long anticipated date with "Hopalong Cassidy."

The younster, son of a navy reserve officer stationed at Grosse Isle Naval Air Station, died yesterday of bulbar polio which had paralyzed most of his body a few weeks after he entered school last month.

Carl was to have met "Hoppy" in a personal visit Monday at Children's Hospital. The youngster was placed in an iron lung at the hospital following a serious operation to aid his breathing.

His parents said the boy only wanted his cowboy gun and holster when taken to the hospital. On top of his iron lung was a picture of the famed TV and motion picture cowboy.

Cassidy is scheduled to lead a parade here Monday opening the united foundation's fund raising "torch" drive.

11 Americans Die in Crash

All 44 Aboard Belgian Convair Airliner Perish at Frankfurt

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — At least 11 Americans, and possibly 12, were listed today among the 44 persons killed in the crash of a Belgian Sabena airliner near here.

The two-engine Convair plummeted into a wooded area yesterday four minutes after its delayed takeoff from Frankfort. Witnesses said the plane faltered in flight, apparently because of trouble with one engine. Then the craft tilted on one wing and dropped to the ground almost vertically.

Officials worked all night to investigate the cause of the accident, which was the second worst commercial air disaster in Germany.

All 40 passengers and the crew of four died in the burning wreckage. The bodies were almost unrecognizably battered.

The passengers included 12 women and 3 children. The plane was en route from Salzburg, Austria, to London.

Sabena's list of passengers included these identified as Americans:

The disaster came less than 20 months after a Dutch KLM airliner crashed near the same airport as it was preparing to land.

Violence Flares at Iron Mountain Chemical Plant

Millard Will Request Williams to Order State Police to Scene

IRON MOUNTAIN (AP) —Violence marked a reopening of the strikebound Kingsford Chemical Co. plant today.

Almost immediately Attorney-General Frank G. Millard said at Lansing he would ask Gov. Williams to send State Police to the scene.

Millard said he would make the request as soon as he received a formal, telegraphed report from a representative he sent by plane yesterday to Iron Mountain.

So far Governor Williams had refused to send in State Police.

At the plant reopening this morning a barricade of CIO pickets stopped workers' cars from entering the property.

Pickets, defying city Police Chief Henry King, upset one car load of workers. They stopped several other cars from entering the barricaded main gate.

A controversy over sending State Police here has built up over the issue whether law and order has broken down.

At Lansing, state officials received on-the-scene reports from observers at this morning's plant gate trouble.

Meanwhile, Rep. Claire Hoffman (R-Mich), demanded a grand jury investigation.

Eugene Townsend, assistant attorney-general whom Millard sent here, recommended to his superior that the governor be asked to order in State Police. Townsend made his informal report in a telephone call to Millard.

At the same time, however, Dickinson County Sheriff Peter Carlevato was informing the governor's office he was "able and willing" to cope with the situation.

This left doubt as to how the governor would act. Williams has held that he would not order in the police as long as local authorities feel they can manage.

Rep. Hoffman, a witness at today's picket line violence, asked the grand jury inquiry in a wire to Millard late yesterday.

Millard made public no immediate answer to Hoffman. However, he then sent Townsend to Iron Mountain.

Sheriff Carlevato made his "able and willing" declaration to the governor's office in talking over Baril's shoulder while the latter was making a report.

The car upsetting and halting of other cars were among picket line incidents witnessed by official observers.

Churchill Gets Nobel Award

Literature Prize Made for 'Mobilizing' English Language During War

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UP) — The coveted Nobel Prize for Literature was awarded today to British Prime Minister Winston Churchill who is credited with "mobilizing" the English language during World War II.

It was an open secret that the 78-year-old Churchill, who has dedicated his remaining years to the cause of world peace, would have preferred the Nobel Peace prize.

But he was genuinely moved, friends said, when informed of his selection for the world's highest literary distinction.

Churchill's choice by the Swedish Academy of Literature, over such contenders as America's Ernest Hemingway, is worth $33,840 in prize money.

The designation was made a month earlier than usual to enable Churchill to come to Stockholm in person to receive the prize from King Gustav Adolf on Dec. 10.

Churchill, the first active statesman to be chosen for the award, received the prize for his war memoirs, "The Second World War," whose five volumes bear such eloquent titles as "The Gathering Storm" (volume I); "Their Finest Hour" (volume II); "The Grand Alliance" (volume III); "The Hinge of Fate" (volume IV) and "Triumph and Tragedy," (volume V).

Churchill's fame in statescraft tended to obscure his remarkable writing talents but he was, even before the turn of the century, the highest paid war correspondent of his time and author of several brilliant books on military campaigns.

Reds Coax 500, but Only Lure Ten Men Back

Indians Use Threats to Make Balky Chinese Attend Interviews

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Balking Chinese war prisoners today rejected overwhelmingly the first Communist attempts to coax them home.

Of 500 Chinese who met Red interviewers in an opening session, only 10 requested repatriation to Red China, said the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission (NNRC).

The long-delayed interviews began only after Indian custodian troops pried the wildly demonstrating Chinese from their compounds with threats of force.

After defying two Indian ultimatums, the first 200 rock-throwing, bugle-blowing, anti-Red Chinese finally submitted to Communist interviews. The explanations began more than seven hours behind schedule.

They originally were to have started Sept. 26 but were delayed by wrangling over facilities.

An Indian spokesman said the 10 Chinese would be returned to the Reds in a ceremony Thursday night at Panmunjom.

He said Communist persuasion teams will talk to 1,000 prisoners Friday, including at least 500 North Koreans.

The atmosphere was charged with tension in the opening of this vital psychological phase of the armistice, but there was no violence.

Indian guards had to prevent the first prisoner from slipping away as he was taken before the interviewer.

A U. N. interpreter said the Reds told the POW: "You must go back to your home, to your family."

Refusing to face the interviewer, the prisoner answered, "No, I want to go to Formosa."

"Do not be cheated by the U. N.," the Red interviewer argued.

"I have made up my mind," the POW replied.

When the Reds saw they were making no headway, they gave up, the observer said. Then the prisoner was left alone to make his choice between two doors—one to repatriation and Red China, the other back to his compound. He chose the latter.

Steel-helmeted Indian guards with rifles stood outside the explanation center and others with big sticks were outside the explanation booths.

Still more guards were posted along the road leading to the center from compounds where the rest of the 22,300 anti-Red POWs screamed and shouted.

Waving Chinese Nationalist flags, the first 200 prisoners emerged from their stockades and climbed aboard trucks to the interview area after a crack Indian battalion surrounded their barbed wire enclosure.

Indiar Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, head of the repatriation commission, ordered the troops to drag the POWs to the interviews if necessary after they had refused to leave their compounds for nearly seven hours.

The prisoners could be heard shouting from two miles away as

Michigan's 1st Toll Road May Cut Across County

Two surveys to determine the feasibility of a Bay City-Detroit toll road which probably would pass through Oakland County west of Pontiac and Birmingham, began today according to Rollin M. McConnell, Michigan Turnpike Authority commissioner.

At present the route west of Pontiac is considered most likely for construction of the state's first turnpike, the Detroiter said.

Current planning, he explained, indicates the road would meet Northwestern Highway south of Birmingham.

The Coverdale and Colpitts Co., New York, is surveying traffic volume at points between the two cities, while the J. E. Greiner Co., Baltimore, is making an engineering study of possible routes.

On Dec. 15 representatives of both firms will report their findings and a decision will be made on whether the studies should continue, McConnell said.

A decision to proceed, he stated, would mean the turnpike will be built, provided financial backing can be obtained through issuance of revenue bonds.

"We feel the area betwen Bay City and Detroit has the greatest need for relief of traffic congestion at present," McConnell added.

Vogeler Says Early Educational Pursuits Helped Ward Off Commie Questioning

Robert Vogeler told over 2,000 Oakland County teachers in Birmingham today that his early educational training helped him stand the pressure of interrogation when he was a prisoner of Red Hungary.

The American businessman who was imprisoned 17 months spoke at the opening session of the two-day conference of Michigan Education Association's Region seven in Birmingham High School.

"I am proud of American teachers because they advance the beliefs in tolerance, patience and concern for one's neighbors and all mankind," he said.

Vogeler pointed out that his early training enabled him to retain his beliefs in individual rights and national freedom under questioning that lasted as long as 44 hours at a time.

Vogeler's talk followed speeches by Milburn P. Anderson, president of the MEA, and Dr. Robert A. Skaife, field secretary for the National Education Association's commission for the defense of democracy through education.

Milburn opened the conference by appealing to teachers to help in rebuilding the tornado-ravaged library in Beecher School District near Flint. Teachers at the conference contributed $1,965 to the project.

Dr. Skaife said investigations of possible Communist infiltration in schools should be conducted on the local level rather than by federal agencies.

Mrs. Gertrude Matteson Bruno, chairman of the Oakland County MEA Region, presided at the morning meeting.

Music was furnished this morning by the Pontiac High School vocal department under the direction of George Putnam.

Invocation for the opening program was given by the Rev. Roy Bloomquist of the Gethsemane Lutheran Church, Berkley.

Birmingham Officials Get Secret Wabeek-Jacobson Report on Parking Plans

(From Our Birmingham Bureau)

BIRMINGHAM — The Wabeek-Jacobson's report on proposed off-street parking plans for the northwest quadrant of the city has been submitted to city commissioners individually, marked "confidential," it was learned today.

Nathan Rosenfeld, president of Jacobson's, informed the City Commission Sept. 14 that the report would be delayed "since it involves more work than we had anticipated, and will probably not be ready until Oct. 15."

However Commissioners James Allen, Lance Minor, Vincent Watkins, Richard Patterson and Mayor Ralph Main agreed when contacted that the report could not be treated as anything official and could not be considered until placed on the commission agenda and made public.

Birmingham School news, page 3.

"I wrote to the mayor, city manager and commissioners giving them progress to date, and asking their advice on further development," Rosenfeld stated.

"We haven't been able to accomplish all we wanted to," he added, "although we do plan to have one lot just north of our new home decorating shop open by Nov. 15."

Rosenfeld said there was "no definite plan given" in the reports to the commissioners.

Mayor Ralph Main said he would divulge nothing of the report since it was marked confidential, but that it won't be acted upon until the confidential note is taken off it. "We want nothing behind the scenes," he added.

"What he (Mayor Main) does with the report after we give it to him is his problem, and I have no right to say what should be done with it," Rosenfeld stated when informed of Main's stand.

Commissioner Richard Patterson said he saw nothing "startling" in the report, and nothing that could not be made public.

Commissioner Dean Beier said "I feel that if the city feels there is no reason to have the report confidential, we should immediately ask Rosenfeld for permission to make it public or else sit down with him and discuss what the problem is here."

FM Communication Cost Is Corrected

BIRMINGHAM — The Pontiac Press incorrectly stated yesterday that $1,500 would be spent to install an FM communication in the Birmingham High School Radio workshop.

The story should have read that for an additional $1,500, an FM communication could be added to the present installation.

FBI Agent to Address Baptist Men's Group

BIRMINGHAM — "Meet Your FBI" will be more than the title of a speech at tomorrow's first fall meeting of the Men's Club of the First Baptist Church.

Speaking at the 6:45 dinner meeting will be D. E. Moore, assistant special agent in charge of the Detroit FBI office. Moore will report on activities of an agency of the federal government.

While the program, which will start at 8 p.m., is planned for men who are members and friends of the church, it is open to all men of the community.

George Stinnett Is Elected President of Varsity Club

Editor's Note: The Birmingham High School column is written for the Pontiac Press by members of the high school journalism class under the direction of Miss Vida McGiffen. This week's contributors are Bruce Terry, Carol Klein, Jane McDaniel and Lynn Bennett.

BIRMINGHAM—Elections for this year's Varsity Club were held recently in the little theater.

Taking over the duties of president from Ted Schwarz is George Stinnett. Other officers are Jerry Kraus, vice-president; Tom Rockwell, secretary; Thor Halvorson, treasurer; Bob Luscombe, senator; Dick Muller, sergeant at arms; and Martin DeHaan, historian.

These newly elected officers will wield their powers for the benefit of the Varsity Club and the school as a whole.

After the Ferndale game the second informal dance was sponsored by the Pep Club in the gymnasium.

General chairman was Joan Polhemus, decorations; Pat Booze, refreshments; Jane McDaniel and Shirley Dusbeiber, music; Sue Begg, publicity; Betty Quillian and Nancy Yarnall, ticket sales.

General admission was 25 cents and refreshments were on sale, although the main idea of these dances is not to make money but to stimulate interest and to provide a recreation for students after the game.

Fluoride Plan Results Exceed Expectations

LANSING (AP)—The State Health Department said yesterday that new dental examinations of youngsters in Grand Rapids, where flouridation of drinking water started in 1945, show a 71 per cent reduction of decayed permanent teeth among six-year-olds and a 25 per cent reduction among 16-year-olds.

Dr. Fred Wertheimer, chief of Dentistry Section, said the results "far exceed our original expectations."

He said no real reduction had been expected in the decay rate among youngsters whose permanen teeth were formed before the experiment started.

But, he said, the 16-year-olds examined this year were eight when the experiment began and nearly all their permanent teeth were formed yet they had a 25 pr cent reduction in decay.

The latest tests were made by examiners of the National Institute of Dental Research.

Dr. Wertheimer, rejecting fears that flouridation is a hazard to health, said its safety was established beyond doubt.

Stylish New York Hotel Sold for $15 Million

NEW YORK (AP)—The fashionable Plaza Hotel has changed hands for 15 million dollars.

The sale of the noted hostelry—at Fifth Ave. and 59th St., facing Central Park—was announced yesterday. It was purchased by Abraham M. Sonnabend.

The Plaza cost more than 12 million dollars when it was built in 1907 on the site of a previous hotel bearing the same name.

The institution contributes the funds and services normally devoted to such work and the AEC provides additional assistance to purchase equipment and pay salaries of research associates and assistants.

Withdrawal From Trieste

Despite the violence of Yugoslavia's reaction there is reason to believe the U. S.-British decision to let Italy control Zone A may bring a temporary solution of the Trieste problem.

The way also may be paved to a more solid defense alignment of anti-Communist Nations in the Mediterranean and Balkan areas. Moreover, withdrawal of U. S.-British troops may make it easier for Italy's PELLA government to obtain ratification of the European Defense Treaty.

The withdrawal decision is a retreat from the U. S.-British promise of March, 1948, to work for Italian sovereignty over the whole Trieste area. That promise cut the ground from under the Italian Communist Party and helped re-elect the DE GASPERI government. While this later decision gives Italy less than it had hoped for, the Italian foreign ministry greeted it with praise.

There is some merit in Marshal Tito's proposal that Zone B be placed under Yugoslav sovereignty for 10 or more years. But Tito also is demanding similar control over Zone A. Actually the U. S.-British plan is not at odds with Tito's Zone B proposal and it should be possible for Belgrade and Rome to negotiate an agreement.

Any attempt by Italy to close off the port of Trieste by customs barriers would be an economic affront to Yugoslavia. It also would work to the disadvantage of the people of the city, for they can prosper only as the port thrives.

Marshal TITO's thundering is not being taken too seriously in diplomatic circles. He must be aware that the U. S. and Britain are within their rights in giving Italy control of Zone A. Many believe that when national feelings have had a chance to cool, Yugoslavia, too, will find itself fairly well satisfied with the new arrangement.

Dr. Taylor Right

This newspaper does not share the opinion of those criticizing Dr. CLAIR L. TAYLOR, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, for refusing to reinstate 10 high school athletes.

Nor is it clear that the Legislative Administrative Rules Committee has the constitutional authority to suspend the rule under which the boys were declared ineligible. Their suspension followed acceptance of small merchandise prizes for participation in Summer sports competition.

The fact that the boys had been advised by adults that acceptance of the awards wouldn't be in violation of the Michigan High School Athletic Association's rule isn't sufficient excuse. Ignorance of the law never is. Neither does return of the merchandise erase violation of a regulation that has been enforced by MHSAA for years.

It seems to us that those who attack the rule as too harsh and inflexible lose sight of an important point. Obviously the purpose is to protect high school athletics against professionalism.

Dr. Taylor could not have granted reinstatement without grave injustice to those athletes who in the past have been declared ineligible for similar infractions.

If the situation calls for a review by proper authorities of the whole question of safeguarding amateurism, let's have it. But as long as the rule is on the books, let's enforce it.

A Devoted Teacher

In few professions can a high minded person exert as much direct influence on the character and culture of a community as in education.

MARY S. HERRINGTON was such a person and for nearly a quarter of a century her work as teacher and principal contributed in distinguished measure to the building of a better Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

A native of Four Towns and a graduate of Pontiac High School, she began her teaching at Petoskey in 1885. Just after the turn of the century she joined Pontiac's teaching staff, serving most of the time, until her retirement in 1924, as principal of the Bagley School.

★ ★ ★

Though her chief interest always was education and she considered Pontiac her home, Miss HERRINGTON never forgot her birthplace. That interest was emphasized four years ago when she and her sister, Mrs. ELMER CHARLES, donated several acres of land for a community center at Four Towns.

Her death at 89 saddens many friends and thousands of former pupils.

Pocket Piece Worth That Much on Vehicle Purchase

Daffynition

Depression: A time when even those who don't intend to pay quit buying.

Several answers have come forward in response to the inquiry in this column about the pocket piece put out by the Pontiac Buggy Co. This was done around the turn of the century, and the piece was good for one dollar on the purchase of any vehicle which they made, some of which sold for as low as $15, and none above $100. An elaborate surrey with all trimmings, including the "fringe on top," was $85. The coming of the auto age and discontinuance of the company caused many people to keep the pieces as souvenirs of the horse and buggy days.

Tree spraying has become so universal in this area, according to

Says Per Capita Consumption Alcoholic Beverages Greatly Increased Since 1934

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

Here are a few facts which we would do well to ponder.

In 1941 Federal agents confiscated 11,826 illicit stills; in 1951 they seized 20,402 illegal stills, with a capacity greater than the actual 1951 production of the entire legal distilling industry.

Has repeal stopped bootlegging?

The per capita consumption of alcoholic beverages in the U. S. has increased from 8.36 gallons in 1934 to 19.26 gallons in 1950.

Are conditions getting better?

Judge Joseph T. Zottoli of Boston says: "There is evidence that in general the cost to the state due to alcoholism is about six to eight times what it receives from the liquor industry."

Not a very profitable business for the public treasury!

Says Give Others Rights You Claim for Yourself

"Agnostia" has the right to his own belief as do those who profess Christianity.

The only wrong I see in freedom of the press or radio is trying to compel others to believe as they do. The Constitution guarantees freedom of speech and of the press and says Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press or the right of the people to peacefully assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

The Constitution was adopted long before radio was even thought of but anything spoken over the radio amounts to the same thing spoken before an audience or public assembly.

There is one thing all people could agree on and that is to give every other person the rights each one claims for himself.

Our freedoms have made this nation what it is today. To advocate the violent overthrow of the government by force is quite a different thing. It is then that they may be considered traitors and may be punished by the death penalty.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The White House might well be concerned about the defeat experienced by the Republican nominee for Congress in the Ninth District in Wisconsin.

For, when only 21,000 Republicans go to the polls this time, as compared with 81,000 who voted Republican in the same district 11 months ago, there is something to be explained.

The late Sen. Taft used to say again and again that when Republicans stay at home in large numbers, it's either because they don't care which nominee wins or because they are overconfident about the outcome anyway.

There was, of course, much disaffection over the farm issue, particularly the drop in farm income which started under the Truman administration but which operates against the Republican Party because it's in power today.

To say, however, that the farm question is the only reason for the defeat of the Republican nominee is to ignore the trend in that same district heretofore.

The late Merlin Hull, who was a LaFollette Republican, got the benefit of both the radical and conservative votes in the Republican Party and in November 1950 he got 60,000 Republican votes, while the Democratic nominee got about 25,000. This was an off-year election — that is, there was no presidential ticket in the field.

A comparison can also be made with 1946, when Hull got 70,000 votes and had virtually no opposition. Fewer than 1,000 votes were cast for the other candidate, who was a Socialist.

Back in 1944 the same thing happened when Hull, running as a Progressive, got 48,000 votes again 736 for his Socialist opposition. But in 1942, as a Progressive, Hull got 38,000 votes while the regular Republican polled about 20,000.

So the Ninth Wisconsin District hasn't been a clear-cut example of a straight-out Republican and Democratic fight. The late Rep. Hull was a New Deal Republican and in the last Congress often voted against the Eisenhower administration.

The Republican nominee this time, State Sen. Arthur Padrutt, was a regular organization man who promised to support the Eisenhower administration. He got 21,000 votes. His opponent, the successful Lester Johnson, who promised to vote in Congress as the late Mr. Hull did, got 28,000.

The combined vote was only 40 per cent of the 1952 total. Obviously some Republicans who wanted to register a protest on farm policies went over to the Democratic side this time but most of the regular Republicans —who probably voted heavily for President Eisenhower last November and would have favored Padrutt—did not bome out to vote at all.

This was either because they were confident the district would go Republican anyway or because they weren't much concerned with the issues — nobody had aroused them.

The Democratic National Campaign Committee thought enough of the special election to send in some of its prominent speakers—former Secretaries of Agriculture Brannan and Wickard, Sen. Kefauver and others. The Republican national campaign managers didn't take the contest seriously enough to get out the vote.

Now it could be that many of the regular Republicans stayed away because they, too, have lost some of their enthusiasm for the Eisenhower administration. If this is so, it is going to be very important for the White House to begin to worry a lot more about the regular Republicans it may be losing than about the New Deal Democrats it seems to be angling for in some of its policies.

The moral of the Wisconsin election for the Democrats is to keep hammering away on the assumption that the Republicans will not get out their vote, and the moral for the Republicans is that they will lose many a district in November 1954 if they take it for granted that they can allow a substantial defection without offsetting it by getting the stay-at-home Republicans to go to the polls.

A total of 124,000 people voted in November 1952 for a congressional candidate in the Ninth Wisconsin District. This week both parties there cast a total of less than 50,000 votes.

One would think an election to choose a member of Congress would be as important today as it was 11 months ago. It was the smallest total vote since the late Rep. Hull ran virtually unopposed in 1944.

Attention Attracting Ideas Draw Youth to Church

David's comment shows how to get young people into a church. And we must attract youth before our clergy or Sunday school teachers can hope to "sell" them on the church's superior brand of ethics. So make your church basement hum with contests every week.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Case J-316: David, aged 16, is our youngest child.

"Dad, they certainly have a dandy Sunday school over at Gene's church," he informed me recently.

"That's fine," I replied. "I'm glad to know it. But why is it so fine?" I reversed the question.

"Oh, they have a basketball team and play other churches. And they are so good that they were sent to Minnesota last year.

"I almost feel like going there myself."

And still I hear the theologians attacking me because I advocated using "attention attracting" methods to bring youth into churches.

One such theologian objected very heatedly because I praised a motherly woman who brought a sack of freshly baked cookies to Sunday school and rewarded all her children with two or three apiece.

Her class attendance grew. But this theologian argued that such methods were wrong.

"Instead," he demanded, "she should have gone out into the highways and byways and urged them to come to Sunday school for their spiritual well-being."

Can you readers imagine anybody so dumb as this theologian?

Yet that actually occurred. And right here in my home state of Illinois.

A man like that is a drag upon the progress of the church. Jesus himself indicted such stupidity when he ordered us not to cast our pearls before swine.

The meaning of that phrase, as every good psychologist and advertising man knows, is simply this: "Use appeals which your customers can understand."

What children, aged 5 or 6, would understand "spiritual well being?"

We need a house cleaning in the home offices of many of our churches. Some of the leaders therein are excellent.

But others are downright stupid. And the stupid leaders, because of their position of authority, are holding back church attendance.

The first law of any business or church is this: You must get prospects into your building.

Jesus recruited his big crowds by using modern advertising methods. For he sent the 70 ahead of him, two by two, to drum up as large an audience as possible.

And the people came out to see Jesus because they had heard of the miracles and the free dinners, rather than because they thought he was the son of God. It was curiosity which brought the crowds.

But after he had got the crowd then Christ reasoned with them and tried to show them his religious views.

But the crowds definitely did not come to see Jesus for their "spiritual well being."

Our churches need to realize that competition is the very life of youth. So harness their hunger for rivalry in a constructive manner by organizing games between fathers and sons, or mothers and daughters.

Then the clergymen and teachers can sell them the church's brand of ethics and ultimately sign them up as church members. But attract them first.

We see that there is a woman heading up the U.N. these days. That will only stop half the fighting.

There's the pad. Let's see what you doodle.

Just A Smile

First Refusal

A landlady entered her boarder's room on the morning of his departure. "I see, sir," she said quietly, "there's a hole burnt in that easy chair. Of course, I shall expect you to pay for it."

"I won't," replied the boarder, decisively. "I don't smoke."

"Of all the nerve," exclaimed the landlady, "I've had this house for over two years, and you're the first visitor who has refused to pay for that hole."

No Gentleman

"Repeat the words the defendant used," said the lawyer.

"I'd rather not. They were not fit words to tell a gentleman."

"Then," said the attorney, "whisper them to the judge."

Hooked

"Darling," said the poor young man, when the subject of marriage came up, "you know I love you, but marriage is—just impossible. Why, I couldn't keep a canary."

"Of course you could, dear," the girl declared firmly. "I love them."

The Attraction

Two women were chatting over tea.

"Yes," said one, reminiscently, "I fell desperately in love with my dear husband at first sight. I remember it just as though it were yesterday. I was walking with my father, and he suddenly pointed to him and said, 'There, my dear, goes a man worth $200,000!'"

Reader Writes In About Grinding Wheat and Making Good, Firm, Chewy Bread

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

When I was a youngster in Kansas (writes Mrs. C. D. H.) we took our wheat to the neighbor blacksmith who ground it. We called it graham and it was the most delicious cereal I ever tasted.

We have tried and tried to get the same thing here (Cleveland) but in vain. I wrote to the—people in southern Ohio for a sack of their graham, but it is much too fine, like flour, to be palatable. If your pamphlet throws any light on the subject I'll be pleased to get it.

(It does. Send stampedr self-addressed envelope and ask in writing (no clipping) for What to Eat.)

We enjoy your column very much although we only recently discovered it. . . We eat plain wheat for breakfast, wheat grown on our own farm in Indiana, and how we miss it when we're away from home and have to settle for you know what namby-pamby food (S. J. A.)

We are newcomers to America (writes Mrs. K. N.). We have learned much about the ways of healthy living from your column. There is one thing we do not like in America, and that is the bread, the cereal too, which we find almost uneatable.

So we grind wheat ourselves and eat it fresh, uncooked or only slightly cooked every morning with berries or other fruit.

Although it may seem a lot of work for a little family (5) I bake all our bread myself of fresh ground whole wheat flour. I use a little cornmamill. . . Most Americans do not like bread they have to chew.

They seem to like only that funny, white, ready-sliced they buy in a store, which seems to me to consist of water, air and salt!

There's a thought that keeps recurring, and it bothers me. When I was a boy in Canandaigua mother baked several loaves of bread each week. Yet, occasionally we ran out of bread between bake days and had to get a loaf of store bread to tide over.

What I'd like to know now is this: Why were these indulgences in store bread so pleasing? For one thing, I feel sure, the store bread in those days was baked, not just half-baked, and the flour was not so ultra-refined or so white as flour is today.

Muscles Mean Heart Danger

Athletes More Likely to Have Hard Arteries Than String-Bean Type

NEW YORK (AP)—The well-muscled athlete is a more likely candidate for heart attacks from hardened arteries than the lean, string-bean type man, Dr. D. M. Spain of New York said today.

The evidence is based upon postmortem examinations of apparently healthy men under 45 who died suddenly from unsuspected heart disease or from accidents.

* * *

It offers clues to predicting, someday, which men are potential heart-attack victims, and should change their habits to live longer. The work is a cooperative study between the medical examiner's office of Westchester County, N. Y., and the laboratories of Beth-El Hospital, Brooklyn, and is directed by Doctors Spain, Victoria Bradess and I. J. Greenblatt.

A close parallel is found between a man's type of physique and the degree of hardening of his coronary or heart arteries, Dr. Spain told the Association of Life Insurance Medical directors.

The mesomorph type, the classical athlete who is broad-shouldered and has big muscles, showed the most advanced artery disease among men of comparable ages. Ectomorphs, men with narrow shoulders, long legs and arms, and long thin muscles, showed the least.

Men who had the most artery disease most often also showed abnormally high amounts in their blood of larger molecules of fatty substances, lipoproteins, which some experts blame as a cause of artery hardening.

A blood test of this kind plus study of body type may make it possible to predict the degree of artery hardening a man has long before there are any symptoms, signs or other positive laboratory tests, Dr. Spain said.

The Westchester Heart Assn. is supporting the research.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Internal Revenue Bureau's search for 14 million dollars from tax delinquents in the Maryland area turned up $12,000 in the first week of a door-to-door check. Agents made 1,763 calls in Washington, D. C., and in Montgomery and Prince George's counties last week.

Bob Considine Says:

Baseball Not Just a Game? It Sure Looks That Way

NEW YORK (INS) — Organized baseball's shaky legal contention, in arguing before the Supreme Court is that there is no essential difference between baseball fo 1953 and baseball of 1922—the year the high court ruled that it was a game, not a business.

It was hardly a game in 1922, of course, but now if it is not more business than game I'll eat your hat. Baseball's lawyers, fighting three damage suits totaling $275,000, have much more at stake than this comparatively piddling sum.

On trial are the very foundations of the enterprise, its right to operate as it has operated for most of our lifetimes, and a code of business ethics the entrepreneurs of the game have been trying to disguise ever since the National Labor Relations Board came into effect.

A number of teams in major league ball lost money this year. A few broke even. Three or four made money. The owners of the Boston Braves, forgetting perhaps that it is just a game and not a business, moved their franchise to Milwaukee, broke the National League record for attendance, and will show a net profit of a million dollars.

The owners of the St. Louis Browns, apparently hard of hearing when cajoled to the effect that their's was just a boisterous bit of horseplay with ball and bat, lammed out of St. Loo like hot train robbers and sold their "sporting" enterprise and all its human flesh to Baltimore for $2,500,000.

The owners of the New York Giants, Brooklyn Dodgers, Philadelphia Athletics and one or two other teams, including maybe the Cincinnati Redlegs, looked longingly at Los Angeles, San Francisco, Montreal and a big Texas city or two—as if filthy lucre played a role in their joy of bringing baseball to the public.

In 16 front offices, as many sterling sportsmen, deceptively disguised behind miens that seem not unlike those of short term loan brokers, had a composite lapse of memory—and entered into hard deals with television, radio and catering interests, with an eye to next season's income.

These sessions were not reported because baseball writers were busy interviewing the departing heroes of the World Series (net "gate" $1,779,269.44, plus $1,250,000 for TV and radio rights) as they wended homeward. Yankees with a full share of the series melon were individually $8,200 richer; Dodgers $6,100 richer.

The boys, in keeping with the tone baseball's lawyers used before the Supreme Court, should in all conscience give their series check to the Community Chest or some other deserving charity. For, surely, they did not play for aught but the love of a beloved old American sport.

Elmer Davis, commenting on the President's trip to Hershey, Pa., said on ABC:

"The President drove into the fair grounds in a horse and buggy, proof that the influence of General Motors in the administration is overestimated."

Eddie Dowling, actor-producer par excellence, is busy these days giving substance to a massive dream — his plan to build Holy Land, Inc.

It would be a mile square reproduction of the shrines, homes, shops, streets and bazaars of Jerusalem, Bethlehem and Nazareth at the time of Christ. In a special amphitheatre he would present, 120 times between each Christmas and Easter, dramatic incidents from the period concerned.

America's Oberammergau hasn't found an anchorage as yet. A Catholic archbishop in Florida objected to what he called a "nonsectarian Christ." But other bishops, as well as officials of other religious groups, have given Dowling much encouragement. Five states have bid for the right to be the site.

Singer Ella Logan Sues Husband for Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Alleging cruelty, singer Ella Logan has sued movie producer Fred Finklehoffe for divorce.

In her complaint, filed yesterday, she asked reasonable support, estimated her requirements at $2,000 a month, plus a clothing allowance and requested a division of community property. She said the property includes a $10,000 home, a $55,000 farm at Springtown, Pa., a foreign sports car, house furnishings and five racehorses.

League Assails Benson's Plan

Izaak Walton Group Hits Proposal to Cut Soil Conservation Service

CHICAGO (AP) — The Izaak Walton League of Almerica yesterday labled a sedtion of the proposed Department of Agricultur reorganizaton plan "the falsest kind of Economy."

The league, a nationwide natural resources conservation group, was critical, in a statement, of the proposal Tuesday by Secretary Benson that seven regional offices of the Soil Conservation Service be abolished.

"We are told there won't be an agronomist, forester or bilogist left in the entire Soil Conservation Service," said William Voigt, Jr., league executive director.

"This looks like the falsest kind of econom."

"It appears that this cut must be followed by a slow and painful death of a young but vigorous and capable agency, one that has been more than paying its own wasy by the increased productivity it has brought to America."

Action Against Cardinal Hit by Pope Pius

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius XII today raised his "most sorrowful and firm protest" against Communist Poland in the case of Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski.

The Polish government announced Sept. 28 the Roman Catholic primate had been forbidden to fulfill his religious duties because of alleged violation of a 1950 church-state agreemnt and that he had been assigned to a monastery.

received reports the cardidal had been placed under arrest. Four days after the Polish action was disclosed the Roman Catholic Church put the penalty of excommunication on all its members who had any connection with the action taken against the cardinal.

Today the Pope, in a letter issued to the Catholic hierarchy throughout the world, said he is receiving from every corner of the earth "innumerable testimonoies of emotion and indignation" over the treatment of the cardinal. The Pope sent the letter on the occasion of Mission this Sunday.

Turk Tribunal Opens Red Trial

167 Are Charged With Plot to Overthrow the Government

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Three army officers today began the mass trial of 167 men and women charged with a communist plot to overthrow Turkey's government.

Many of the defendants have been held in jail for long periods, some for as much as two years, while secret police completed their investigations.

All but three of the defendants were present as the trial opened before the three-man tribunal. The mising trio were reported ill in a hospital.

The trial provided for first news of many of the defendants for their relatives and friends since their arrest. They had dropped from sight completely after being picked up.

Turkey's government has charged the Communists with attempting to take over the government by formenting militant Moslem sentiment against the reforms of Kemal Ataturk, the nation's dictator from 1923 to 1938 who separated the church and state and modernized the nation.

Ataturk eliminated Islam, the religion of Mohammed, from the country's schools, laws and constitution, abolished the fez and veil, and gave women equal rights.

Fanatic Moslems fought the reforms and have bitterly resented their widespread adoption.

Already this year the government has given prison sentences up to 10 years to 79 members of the fanatic Tijani sect on charges of illegal religious practices and plotting to destroy the nation's established social order.

Reds Order Union Purge in Germany

BERLIN (AP) —Communist bosses today ordered the East German labor union to clean house and eject any members who had active roles in the violent June 17 revolt against the government.

The step had been hinted in recent speeches by party chieftains.

The union (FDGB) will check its five million membership in a thorough-going quiz to be conducted by a special commission. The job will require a month.

Ejection from the trade union in the Soviet zone amounts to economic disaster. A worker who gets in this position is virtualy unable to get any kind of decent job.

FBI Searching for Package

Quiz Postal Workers in Hunt for Greenlease Ransom Money

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The FBI centered its cleanup work in the Bobby Greenlease kidnap - killing around the St. Joseph, Mo., area today, with a mysterious parcel post package apparently the main objective.

The package was believed mailed in East St. Louis, Ill., a week after 6-year-old Bobby was kidnapped from a private school here. If such a package is found, it may lead officers to $300,000 in missing ransom money.

FBI agents have questioned 22 St Joseph postal workers who might have handled the package.

St. Joseph, in northwest Missouri, is the home of Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, 41-year-old divorcee, who along with 34-year-old Carl Austin Hall have admitted the abduction. They are held here in the Jackson County Jail.

Approximately $300,000 of $600,000 ransom paid by Robert C. Greenlease, multimillionair Kansas City automobile dealer, was recovered with the arest of the pair in St. Louis Oct. 6. Hall has said he believes the remainder of the money was lost during a drinking spree.

A St. Louis cab driver, John Hager, who gave the tip that resulted in the arrests, told police he remembered Hall remarking that he had mailed a package.

The FBI questioned Mrs. Heady and Hall throughout yesterday, using wire recorders and polygraphs. Polygraphs are used in lie detector tests.

At St. Joseph, a member of the Buchanan County prosecutor's staff said some new evidence had been obtained by U. S. District Attorney Edward Scheufler during a visit to Mrs. Heady's home. Scheufler declined to comment on the report.

Bobby's body was dug from a lime-filled grave in Mrs. Heady's yard eight days ago.

Scheufler, who is taking personal charge of the prosecution, has recalled a federal grand jury for duty Oct. 26 to consider the case. He said it was another move to make certain the government has the best case possible against Mrs. Heady and Hall.

The district attorney already has filed kidnaping charges against them.

Administrator Seeks Gradual Court Changes

LANSING (AP)—Meredith H. Doyle, newly appointed state court administrator, today promised gradual improvement, not drastic change, in the Michigan court system.

Doyle said he planned a general survey of the various courts as the first step in his new job.

"At this time I will have the opportunity," he said, "to solicit the aid and counsel of the servral judges so that together we may meet and solve our mutual problems.'

Doyle, a native of Menominee and an assistant attorney general since 1941, was appointed to the post by the State Supreme Court yesterday.

"The office of court administrator," he said, "is an innovation in our judicial system and necessarily will present many difficult problems. In an effort to solve these problems I shall sek and require the wholehearted cooperation of all members of the judiciary."

An award will be made to Donald M. Pierce, Michigan State Board of Health, for outstanding contributions in research.

Doesn't Scare Him

GRAND HAVEN (AP)—Jack Johnson's springer spaniel "Bummie" stood his ground on a trestle over Grand River as a train bore down on him while the two were hunting. The engine and two cars rolled over him, then he disappeared. When Johnson reached home, ther was Bummie, minus half an ear, licking cuts and bruises, but ready to hunt again.

Planes Arrive Too Late to Beat Grasshoppers

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—A farmer near here was appalled at sight of hungry grasshoppers invading his field of corn one evening. He hustled back to the house and phoned a company that does aerial spraying.

The promised to get right on the job in the morning.

But bright and early the farmer took another look at the field and canceled the spray job. The grasshoppers' night shift had cleaned the field.

Firemen Must Pay Fee to Get to Some Fires

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—The firemen of suburban Midway are not only volunteers—they have to pay admissioin to get to some fires. Their district is cut in two by Grand Marais State Park. The state recently began collecting a 10-cent fee from every-one entering the park, including firemen.

That's why the Midway firemen began collecting a fund to make dimes part of their standard fire-fighting equipment.

Chinese Dam Finished, Eliminating Flood Threat

HONG KONG (AP) — The Chinese Communist news agency says that the Sanho dam of the Hwai river project has been completed, eliminating the flood threat to hundreds of thousands of acres of land in Kiangsu province.

If it does what the Reds claim, a large section of the nation between the Yellow and Yangtze Rivers will be spared the periodic floods which have ravaged it for 700 years.

Music Hath Its Charms and Makes One Forget

BOSTON (AP) — Police think they have some evidence that music lovers tend to be absent-minded. After three weeks of Boston's famous outdoor concerts on the Charles River Esplanade, the following articles are at the station-house awaiting their owners:

Two wallets containing identification papers, two coats, two sweaters, an automobile robe and six pairs of eye glasses, including a child's pair.

Newton Firemen First to Ride to Fire Scene

NEWTON, Mass. (UP)—This city lays claim to being the first community in the United States to use a motor vehicle in its fire department.

W. U. Fogwill, 83, of nearby Auburndale, Mass., was driver of the three-horsepower Stanley Steamer when it was put into service on June 13, 1903. The automobile carried a hand fire extinguisher, ax, hook and other equipment.

Uprisings Postpone Giraffe Pressure Study

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—Native uprisings in Africa have postponed a projected trip of three Duke University doctors to study the blood pressure of giraffes. Dr. James W. Warren and his assistants, Drs. Henry D. McIntosh and E. Harvey Estes, had planned the trip under a grant of the Office of Naval Research. The grant has been extended to Jan. 1.

An African hunter is holding several giraffes for the Duke medical team. Theoretically, a giraffe lives with a constant blood pressure that would kill any other animal, including man. The researchers want to learn how the giraffe's heart and artery tissues stand the strain of the high blood pressure.

A dwelling fire occurs about once every 90 seconds someplace in the U. S.

Here's Good News From Massachusetts

BOSTON (AP)—The Massachusetts Department of Agriculture says there are about 180 feet of silk on an ear of corn—or about 300 miles per acre of corn.

It seems a bit silly to lay all the corn silks now growing in New England end to end, but if you do — the department says — they'd make a cord nearly eight million miles long. Wait a minutes, there's more.

That cord would be long enough to encircle the earth at the equator more than 250 times.

Diesels Build Up No Personality

They're 'Its,' While Old Steam Engine Always Was 'She'

NEW ORLEANS (INS) —Colorful language that characterized railroading in the past is disappearing today, almost as rapidly as the steam locomotive.

But the oldtimers will eagerly tell you about this strange vernacular, which grew up with the steam engine, and is now giving way to the more technical language brought in by the mighty diesel.

The oldtimers, men who were almost teethed on the puffing steam engines, do not resent the sleek diesels.

But they will explain that railroaders these days do not feel the same way about diesels as they did about steam locomotives.

For example, a steam locomotive was always referred to as "she." a diesels is simply called "it."

Fred W. Boardman, master mechanic for the New Orleans Public Belt railroad, gives many reasons why the feminine gender was attributed to the steam locomotives.

Boardman, veteran of 50 years of railroading philosophically explains the chief reason:

"Like a woman, they are hard to manage, and it takes a man to run them."

Boardman, son of a steam engineer who died at the throttle of his runaway train, said also that locomotives have such feminine apparel as "aprons," a device between the engine and the tender. They also have a pipe called the "petticoat."

These words and others are disappearing as the diesel becomes predominant on the nations railroad tracks.

The steam locomotives came to be called "hogs," Boardman related, because they ate up so much fuel; Engineers, resultantly, were called "hog-heads," and firemen were called "tallow-pots."

Today, when a diesel develops mechanical trouble, "it" simply "broke down." But not so with a steam locomotive.

If the pressure went out of the boiler, "she died." If the fire had to be taken out of the engine, "we had to kill her."

The sound of the steam engine was also romance to the ears of oldtimers. In Boardman's words:

"Oldtimers miss the way you could hear the old steam engines bark — that sound of the exhaust going crack! crack! crack! 'listen to her barking up that hill,' you'd hear somebody say, or 'listen to her barking in the yard.'

"When the valves were adjusted right, she purred. A railroad man loved the sound of a good exhaust on an engine. When she lost that, they said she was 'lame.'

Boardman took a look at the muddy Mississippi and sighed:

"In the old days, every engineer stayed with his locomotive. He went with her whereever she went."

Many like Casey Jones and Boardman's own father went to their deaths, rather than leave the engines.

Boardman watched as a shiny diesel almost silently purred down the tracks into New Orleans. He looked at it and said:

"I'm a mechanical man myself and I like the diesels . . .like their majesty, the way they're so sleek and steeamlined . . .

"With steam locomotives, it used fb take us about five minutes to find the trouble, and all day to fix it. In the beginning, with diesels, it took us all day to find the trouble, five minutes to fix it.

Now it doesn't take long to do either one. But still, they just haven't acquired the animation the old steam engines had."

Boardman speaks of the steam locomotive in the past tense, as do many of the other oldtimers.

But it's easy to see, that deep in their minds and hearts, the mournful wail of the steam whistles still means magic.

Conservation Award to MSC Professor

LANSING (AP)—Prof. Julian W. Smith of Michigan State College, formerly of the State Department of Public Instruction, will receive a national award Oct. 20 for initiating the school-camp movement to foster conservation education.

The award will be presented by the National Association of Conservation, Education and Publicity at a meeting at Gull Lake.

The award is the only one to be made by the Association Youth Education this year.

Smith started the school camp program with a pilot camp in 1948. Last year it had grown to 46 school systems.

Attorney Contemplates Change, Woman Obliges

MARSHALL, Mich. (AP) — Atty. H. C. Winsor was looking out a window of his first-floor office, wondering whether he should have the office remodeled. He got his answer unexpectedly.

A car driven by Mrs. Clara Bonnell, 55, crashed through the front wall. No one was hurt.

British Explode Atomic Weapon

Country's Second Test in Australia Is Believed to Be Projectile

WOOMERA ROCKET RANGE, Australia (AP)—Unofficial observers speculated that Britain's second atom test weapon—set off earlier today in this south Australian desert—was a projectile warhead.

A third British test is scheduled here soon.

There was as usual no official word on the type of weapon exploded today, but observers based their warhead theory on the comparative smallness of the devastated area and the fact that the blast was officially described as smaller than the one Britain set off in her first atomic test a year ago.

* * *

Today's blast was the 43rd atomic explosion reported by Western nations since the United States set off the first one in New Mexico eight years ago. Forty-one of these have been by the United States, including the two atom bombs dropped on Japan during World War II.

The Russians were believed to have detonated five atomic explosions before a recent series of tests that included an unspecified number of blasts.

* * *

A few hours after today's explosion, Australian political leaders united in calling for an international ban on the use of atomic weapons. Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies told the House of Representatives that Australia would do all in her power to press for an effective system of international control and inspection of atomic energy.

Although comparatively small, the blast was an awesome, terrifying spectacle. A huge semi-spherical ball of fire glowed brilliantly for several seconds over the target area as a giant brown cloud mushroomed up thousands of feet above the hard-packed desert plain.

Vet Once Dead for 15 Minutes Regains Reason

BALDWIN PARK, Calif. (AP)—The Navy veteran who two years ago was brought back to life after being "temporarily dead" for 15 minutes is now in fair health, his mother says.

He is Melvin Eugene Hewitt, 29, who was revived by heart massage at El Monte Medical Center. Hewitt remained in a coma for a month thereafter, and doctors agreed that his brain was damaged by being deprived of oxygen for the relatively long period of 15 minutes. His memory of recent events and his reasoning powers were affected.

* * *

Now, however, he is able to read, to care for himself and to carry on coherent conversations, says the mother, Mrs. Sam L. Werrett. "He can even add a long list of numbers in his head just as well as he used to."

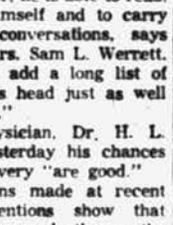

Hewitt's physician, Dr. H. L. Falk, said yesterday his chances for a full recovery "are good."

"Investigations made at recent medical conventions show that Hewitt's temporary death was the longest in recorded medical history," Falk said. "In all cases where the patient is dead for more than five minutes there is damage to the brain cells. In Hewitt's case there was a great deal of damage."

Crack Shot Misses; Wife Fells Fox With Stone

HADDAM, Conn. (AP) — Gaston Schreiber, a World War I army captain with a reputation for marksmanship, took three shots recently at a fox raiding his chicken farm here. He missed each time.

The fox was less fortunate when it returned to Schreiber's farm two days later. Mrs. Schreiber hit it squarely between the eyes with a stone, knocking it cold, and killed it with a club.

Two-Shift Job Rough on June

Actress Allyson Admits Acting by Day, Directing by Night Is Hard

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—June Allyson admitted today that being an actress all day and playing the part of a film director every evening has just about driven her crazy.

"I'm doing the day-shift and the swing-shift," June revealed, "and the hours are killing me."

During the day June is at Universal - International, co-starring with James Stewart in the Technicolor musical biography, "The Glenn Miller Story."

And every evening she is rehearsing her 2½ - year - old son, Ricky, for the film debut he will be making next week in a scene of the picture in which he will portray Glenn Miller's son, Steven, in company with his real-life mom.

She said Ricky has just about exhausted her and her husband, Dick Powell, with his love for rehearsals.

"Ricky's a bigger ham than Dick and I put together," said June. "As soon as he finishes dinner every night, he races into the den and begins yelling for rehearsals. I've played that scene seven dozen times at home and I'll probably play it 50 more times before it's filmed."

Rick's exhaustive rehearsals concern his approach to a crib in which the Miller infant daughter lies, taking a good look at the occupant and saying: "Baby."

"Needless to add," smiled June, "Ricky has his lines down to perfection."

Not only will his mother be there to help him before the cameras, but Ricky's dad also will be on hand.

Dick, in the interest of promoting a fine showing of his talented family to the world, has offered his services gratis to director Anthony Mann during this particular sequence of the film. Powell, who recently achieved great critical glory for his direction of "Split Second," hopes his presence will help director Mann through "a terrifying experience."

"Ricky minds me at home," Powell told Mann, "so he might be just a little less inclined to ham it up if he knows 'pop' is watching from the sidelines."

IRRIGATION DOES IT—J. S. Wallace, of Sikeston, Mo., contrasts specimens of irrigated and non-irrigated cotton grown at the Campbell (Mo.) Horticulture Field operated by the Missouri College of Agriculture Experiment Station. Plant on left received normal rainfall, while plant on right was irrigated. Non-irrigated cotton averaged 1430 pounds of seed cotton to the acre and is through. Irrigated cotton is between one half and two thirds picked and already averages 1540 pounds of seed cotton per acre. Both were planted on April 25. Irrigated cotton received 1½ inches of water on July 7; two inches on July 27; two inches Aug. 10, and two inches Aug. 15. Water came from a shallow well and was applied through a sprinkler system.

U. N. Begins Program to Teach Million Arabs

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—The United Nations has started a vast program to teach the three Rs to the children of around half a million Arab refugees now in Jordan. The program has been set by the United Nations Relief and Work Agency (UNRWA). The U. N. agency is in charge of the welfare of refugees who fled the Palestine war in 1948.

At present plans call for primary education only during this coming year. UNRWA officials here estimate the most urgent task is to prevent thousands of refugee children to grow up as illiterates.

Sea-Going Doctor Picks Far-Off Ports

VANCOUVER (AP)—In five years of sailing his 33.5 foot yawl, Dr. John Evans, physician and mariner has sailed his Stortebecker, III from England to New Zealand and from New Zealand to Canada, going where his fancy pleased him with no set itinerary. If he liked a port or its people he stayed there until he felt like moving on.

His Norwegian crew member, Frank Jensen, has been with him throughout the journey.

The yawl is sturdy, admirably suited for single-handed or two-man sailing. She has a mahogany hull, oak frames and measures 24.5 feet at the waterline by 8.4-foot beam An auxiliary gas engine is used only for entering harbor.

The first successful oil pipe line, four miles long, was laid in 1865.

Mock Air Raid Evacuation Shifts Royal Oak Students

Ike, Cortines to Skip Issues

U. S., Mexican Chiefs Expected to Keep Talk Social at 1st Meeting

MEXICO CITY (UP)—Two crusading presidents, Adolfo Ruiz Cortines of Mexico and Dwight D. Eisenhower of the United States, will meet Monday for the first time, but probably will avoid talking about anything more serious than the weather.

They will shake hands and pose for press photographers at the Texas border dedication of another monument to good-neighborly cooperation between their countries, the giant Falcon Dam.

But it appears likely they will keep conversations on a friendly, social level, and leave the diplomatic headaches to the diplomats.

The tight official schedule allows scant time for discussions of any of the delicate mutual problems affecting the two nations—and that suits the Mexican government.

Many Mexican officials fear that otherwise the two presidents might attempt to solve some of the major and knottier questions in off-the-cuff talks.

Matters that they might—but probably will not—discuss include migrant labor, military aid, trade agreements and U.S. "pirate" fishing in Mexican waters.

Mexican spokesmen admit Mr. Eisenhower and Senor Ruiz Cortines "probably could make a lot of progress" by talking over these problems, but add they are too complicated for "easy solution" in brief conversations.

Akihito Is Welcomed Home by Big Throng

TOKYO (AP) — About 50,000 people — mostly school children — overflowed a downtown park today to welcome home Crown Prince Akihito.

The 19-year-old heir to the ancient throne of Japan returned Monday from a six-month world trip.

When the crown prince arrived, every one waved small Rising Sun flags.

In contrast to the prewar custom of standing at attention in hushed silence before an imperial family member, thousands of children shouted and shrieked.

Akihito calmly thanked the crowd and assured them he would try to "live up to your expectations."

ROCHESTER FOR REFUGE—Leaving the buses which transported them from the Oakland School in Royal Oak to Rochester for "Operation EVAC" are some of the 200 school children who were evacuated. Rochester students met the busloads of children and escorted them to their corresponding assigned grade rooms. Arriving in Rochester at 11 a. m., they left on schedule at 1 p. m. for the return trip to Royal Oak.

REGISTRATION—Two Gray Ladies from the American Red Cross serve as registrars for Royal Oak students who moved into Rochester for the mock evacuation program Wednesday. Keeping tab on each youngster is a tremendously important part of an evacuation procedure, civil defense authorities say.

3 Grades Move to Rochester

Police Escort Buses in Civil Defense Test; Officials Eye Results

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

The operation went off without a casualty.

A 10 a.m. air raid alarm at Royal Oak School sent thousands of youngsters beneath their desks.

The "all clear" which followed brought news that the second, fourth and six graders of Oakland School would be moved to Rochester.

Boy and Girl Scout guards accompanied the groups to waiting buses in which Red Cross first aid workers were stationed. Each teacher, carefully checking her students, went with her class.

Police escort took the three Greyhound buses through Royal Oak and, as they proceeded on their 15-mile trip to Rochester, each community and township police department met the caravan and led it to the next waiting official escort.

Upon arrival in Rochester, high school students met their assigned groups at the buses and escorted them into the school where they registered. They proceeded to their corresponding grade classrooms, were name-tagged and became acquainted with their new pals.

Rochester students responsible for the stay of their Royal Oak pals took them to lunch either in the school cafeteria or at their homes. Only fourth and sixth graders left the school grounds.

Gerry Heemsoth, fourth grader from Royal Oak, said he was "so excited" when selected to make the trip.

"No one was afraid. It seemed like a great adventure," he said.

General feeling among Rochester children, said Superintendent Donald C. Baldwin, was that they were glad to share their classrooms and their homes with these children. "I am sure that same sense of sharing would exist, only more so, during wartime."

Mayor Vernald E. Horn, director of civil defense for Royal Oak, said, "We must face the fact that we are no longer a quiet suburban city, but part of a large metropolitan target within range of the effects of an H-bomb explosion."

Superintendent James C. Covert, Royal Oak, complimented Royal Oak and Oakland County civil defense organizations on their plan for school evacuation.

"The exercise that I have witnessed here today is workable and can easily be put into effect by the various departments of education."

Lewis C. Jarrendt, Oakland County director of civil defense, observed the project and said the result would strengthen his planning for a county-wide evacuation system.

Following the lunch hour at Rochester, the Royal Oak students returned to their own school.

Auto Tips, Hits Train; Couple Not Badly Hurt

SOUTH HAVEN (UP) — Robert Ganger, 31, and his wife, Arlene, 30, of Elkhart, Ind., escaped serious injury late Wednesday when their car rolled over and was struck by a Chesapeake and Ohio train at the US-31 crossing in South Haven Township.

Ganger and his wife were treated for minor cuts and bruises. He told State Police that his car rolled over in his attempt to turn away from the approaching train.

NEW "PALS"—Each Royal Oak student was assigned to a "pal" in the Rochester schools. Above, Pete Long of the Rochester fourth grade talks things over with his new friend, Gerry Heemsoth, of the fourth grade at the Oakland School in Royal Oak. In their discussion they found that each one had reached the same chapter in geography class.

LUNCH BREAK—Pete Long, fourth grade Rochester student, entertains his "pal," Gerry Heemsoth at home for lunch. Sharing their noontime meal is Pete's young sister, Sue, who is "all ears" listening to the evacuation experience of the lad from Royal Oak. Mr. and Mrs. George Long, parents of Pete, welcomed the boy to their home and said that the ease with which the local youngsters accepted the "new neighbors" was a sign that during wartime these boys and girls would share the safety of their homes with the less fortunate.

GOP Will Cause Recession Williams Warns Dem Rally

ANN ARBOR (UP) — Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams warned Wednesday night that the same Republican policies which have caused a decline in farm prices threaten to produce a business recession.

Speaking at a Second Congressional District Democratic rally, Williams hailed election of a Wisconsin Democrat to Congress in special voting Tuesday as repudiation of GOP farm policies.

"There is every indication that the people are profoundly disillusioned with the policies of the Republicans," the governor said. "What they are getting is not at all what they bargained for last November.

"From Wisconsin comes the angry voice of the people repudiating Republican farm policy. The voters of Wisconsin's Ninth District have given notice they will not accept the Republican idea that the farmer should be surrendered to the mercies of blind economic forces."

Williams said farm prices a year ago were 100 per cent of parity but dropped to 99 per cent one week after the elections and continued to drop until by mid-August this year the ratio to parity was 93.

"The debacle of Republican farm policy is the logical result of thinking which puts the human being at the bottom of a distorted scale of values," Williams said.

"A bigger mess is in process of creation in the whole field of American business. The Republican budget director has declared that a little depression is a good thing.

"A so-called leveling off may be normal by Republican standards, but it is not normal by Democratic standards. Big business can ride out a government-sanctioned period of leveling off.

"But the little business man, the wage earner, and the farmer whose prosperity is keyed to the continued upward trend of living standards cannot ride out a Republican recession. The little fellow in business, like the little fellow on the farm, is going to get hurt.

"This is the same philosophy which has caused a recession in agriculture. And it will cause a recession in business too."

Georgia Neese Clark, former secretary of the treasury, also spoke at the Ann Arbor rally.

Skunks Stink, but That Stuff Fetches Money

SHOW LOW, Ariz. (AP) — A skunk may be a skunk, but its oil value is something else again.

That's the considered opinion of Paul Webb, who couldn't eject a family of skunks which moved in under the porch the same day Webb's family took over upstairs.

His plight was reported by the Associated Press. Back in the mail came dozens of letters advising Webb of ways to get rid of his smelly boarders.

One suggestion, which Webb wouldn't repeat, worked, and the skunks moved out.

All of which has interested Webb in one of the letters. It says skunk oil is worth $50 an ounce. That, says Webb, can compensate for the odor. He told his wife they are in business.

Disabled Vets Seeking Jobs

Employment Counselor Says 9 Can Perform at Normal Efficiency

Nine disabled veterans living in the Pontiac area have been carefully screened for work capabilities and are seeking jobs, according to Ray C. Jewell, veterans employment representative of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Jewell points out that given the proper position these men can perform at normal efficiency.

One man, with five years experience, is seeking a tool inspector's job at which he can remain seated. Another is a competent shoe repairman. A third, with mechanical ability, wants on-the-job training in some type of mechanical repairing.

Two, unable to do strenuous physical labor, ask work as watchmen, parking lot attendants or elevator operators. Another, with three years of business college training, seeks a clerical job.

Part time clerical work is sought by a veteran with experience as a post office clerk. Two want janitor or personal service work. Jewell asks interested employers to contact him for more information.

President Sends His Respects to Pioneer Aviators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower, the first U.S. President to know how to fly, has sent his respects to the world's aviation pioneers.

"The gigantic strides made by the aviation industry in the last half century could not have been made by one country alone," said Eisenhower.

"Despite our pride in the achievements of American aviation leaders, we are all quick to recognize the magnificent contributions made by the genius and courage of men in other lands."

The President expressed himself in a letter to Harry K. Coffey of Portland, Ore., president of the National Aeronautic Association (NAA), on the occasion of the visit here of aviation old-timers from many foreign countries.

Coffey read the message at a dinner sponsored by the association for the visitors last night, and attended by a good percentage of the names that are famed in aviation.

31 Killed by Attacking Israelis, Jordan Says

JERUSALEM (AP)—Jordan sources claimed today that 31 people were killed and two injured in the Jordan village of Kibya in an attack by Israelis with mines and mortars.

Thirty-nine houses were reported destroyed.

The reports claimed a full battalion of Israelis took part in the attack.

Jordan's acting delegate to the mixed Armistice Commission said U.N. observers were on the way to the villages to investigate.

Rescue Lost Hunter, 77

MARQUETTE (AP) — Tired and still weak from his four-day ordeal, lost in the north woods, 77-year-old Edward Downs was ready to leave St. Luke's hospital today.

A posse of state police, sheriff's men, and volunteers rescued the Hastings hunter from the Escanaba state forest yesterday. They said he had not eaten since Sunday morning when he left on his hunting trek.

The four-day search by the posse, a Coast Guard helicopter, and bloodhounds, was touched off by Downs' wife Sunday night when he failed to return to their cottage at Kiva, 30 miles south of here.

When he was found, the partially deaf Spanish-American War veteran could barely talk. A trapper, Bill Metsala, found him, after he left the main searching party and backtracked along a creek.

The posse had followed Downs' trail of branch-made beds in the wilderness.

State police said that Downs' ideal physical condition helped him survive.

Yankee Ingenuity

New England Employment High Thanks to New Industry Boom

By CHARLES MERCER

This is the last of three articles on how New England Yankees are weathering their transition to "economic maturity."

HARTFORD, Conn., (AP)—More people are employed now in Connecticut than ever before in the state's history. It shares a trend that shows that all-time employment high through New England, with about 3,500,000 at work in non-farm jobs.

How has it happened?

The answer is a new diversification of industry, especially in the electronics field.

* * *

In 1939 about 760,000 New Englanders were making soft goods like textiles, shoes and paper. That year about 360,000 were engaged in producing durable goods such as machinery and metal products.

Today New England's soft goods plants employ about 800,000. But durable goods plants have surged ahead to a 765,000-job level.

Connecticut has taken big strides in the increased manufacture of durable goods. It can point to a long strike in the hat industry and rumored uncertainty concerning the future of some textile plants, but a view of its entire industrial stage shows it crowded with new plants.

* * *

Aircraft manufacture has contributed heavily. In East Hartford, for example, Pratt & Whitney recently advertised for 3,000 more workers to be added to a labor force of 31,000. But more important to the overall picture of New England's growth in durable goods manufacture are the numerous plants which have cut their baby teeth and come of age in surprisingly brief time.

There are certain basic reasons for this changing industrial pattern.

As textiles faded from a powerful role in the economy, New Englanders knew they had to "git up and go" if they were not to be left far behind in the nation's prosperity parade.

* * *

One factor against them was a high cost of power. Another was a country-wide myth that New England was slipping.

But employment, that basic measure of a region's economic health, shows New England has indeed "gotten up and went."

Sparking the transition has been an amazing research industry. Many have heard of empty textile mills. But few have heard of the "trillion dollar triangle" on the banks of the Charles in Cambridge, Mass.

* * *

One of the great research centers of the world has sprung up there in the past few years. At Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard and Boston Universities and in many private companies is a great concentration of knowledge and experimenting in everything from atom-smashing to frozen food.

Throughout Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Maine, one finds new plants rising in many places. An example is what the Raytheon Manufacturing Co. has done in Waltham, Mass.

* * *

Organized on a very small scale in 1922, it manufactured radio tubes. In the late 1930s it had the vision to develop its research facilities. During World War II it specialized in work for the armed services, producing 7 per cent of surface-search radar and also power transmitting tubes. After the war it continued its research, acquired other companies, and today it is a leader in underwater sound equipment and power tubes with about 22,000 employes.

Raytheon naturally has given the city of Waltham an economic shot in the arm. Other firms have followed in its wake in the familiar pattern of one firm attracting others to a community. Thanks to the automobile and relatively short distances in New England, Raytheon also typifies a sort of employment that is increasing throughout the region. About 400 of its employes drive daily to Waltham from Lawrence, about 300 from Lowell, and some 150 from Brockton.

* * *

Rising hand-in-hand with New England industry are farm, forest and fisheries products. While farm employment is down since 1939, farm cash receipts have increased roughly from 260 million to 760 million dollars, the New England council reports. The wood using industry this year is expected to turn out $1,300,000,000 worth of products compared to a 1939 output of 460 million. Fishing last year netted about 68 million dollars as compared to $19,500,000 in 1939.

1,000 Homes Darkened by Electricity Failure

GRAND RAPIDS (UP) — Normal service was restored to more than 1,000 home owners in several suburban areas Wednesday night after a power failure plunged their dwellings into darkness for two hours.

A wire break caused the power failure in Bostwick and Silver Lake communities and part of Ada.

Park Official Caught

HOBART, Okla. (AP) — Two game rangers in Quartz Mountain State Park filed charges of illegal fishing against three men. They turned out to be the state park superintendent, Ira Tomlinson, and two of his employes.

$5 Deposit All That's Required

Bank Giving Door Prizes to Lure New Customers

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—And now even a bank is going in for giveaways.

The bank of Silver Spring, Md., in a big four-column ad, has announced that anyone who opens a savings account of $5 or more or rents a safety deposit box will be given free:

A 12-cup coffee server, or a football, or an official Boy Scout knife, or a world globe with 315 square inches of map surface.

Naturally such gay goings-on in normally sedate banking circles called for an investigation. What did all this mean?

"First, let me say," said the cashier, Edward J. FitzGibbon, "that the response has exceeded our fondest expectations. We already are out of globes and coffee warmers."

FitzGibbon said he doesn't know whether other commercial banks have tried somewhat similar versions of bank night although a building and loan company here has offered a set of steak knives with a $50 deposit.

"But I do know we didn't copy this idea from anyone," he said. "It came from our board of directors—I'm very proud of our board, a progressive bunch—who felt this would be a good way to get new customers."

The bank's theory on Operation Give-Away:

A fellow makes a small deposit, and maybe gets a Boy Scout knife for his kid. Keeps coming back, gets to like the place. Buys an automobile. Turns to bank for floating loan on same. Ditto on money for home improvements.

Before one can say "interest compounded semiannually," the bankers hope, the small depositor has become an important customer.

Time Clock Voice Deaf to Date Pleas

DENVER (INS) — The phone company's "Audichron," the automatic device which reels off the time of day every 10 seconds around the clock, is self-synchronizing and can pretty well take care of itself.

Occasionally, however, telephone technicians listen in on the circuit to see that everything's working all right.

One technician, who tuned in recently about 2 a. m., caught an extraordinary conversation.

tron was trying to promote an afthe persistent drunk poured dime tron ws trying to promote an afternoon date with the "voice." But the persistent trunk poured dime after dime into the tavern pay phone, his anger rising with his telephone bill, trying to break down the electronic operator.

No Accounting for Taste

WACO, Tex. (INS) — Among its many other oddities, Texas has come up with a watermelon-eating buffalo. The strange diet of the historical animal was revealed recently when Valley Mills rancher Fred Hall, Sr., brought part of a herd which live on his ranch to the Heart O' Texas fair at Waco.

Early American Artist Showed Indians Had Fun

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Well, sir, for a moment it looked as if the U. S. National Museum had gone and done it. Given the country back to the Indians, that is.

For scattered over its walls today is a new exhibit of pictures of Indians as they lived, played and hunted before the white man came.

Probably most of us got our ideas about Indians from the romantic stories of James Fenimore Cooper or from redskin-bites-the-dust westerns.

A better way would be to do what the museum experts have done: turn to the man who tried to record them exactly as they were:

In 1829 an American artist, George Catlin, decided the Indian way of life was about done for. So he hurried west, and, in the words of the museum people, "with great difficulty and some hazard to life" spent eight years among the alleged savages.

In all Catlin painted 607 pictures, with a descriptive text for each. In 1879 most of these were given to the museum, which is a branch of the Smithsonian Institution.

It's from this collection that 27 paintings have been chosen for the exhibit here. When it's over, on Oct. 29, the pictures will be sent abroad for display there under the auspices of the U. S. Information Agency.

Possibly the main surprise in looking at Catlin's Indians is the realization that they had a lot of fun.

The Mandan braves had a game in which they tried to see who could keep the most arrows flying in the air. "I have seen some of them," Catlin said admiringly, "get eight arrows into the air at once."

Even some of the hunting had a gay air about it. One picture shows Indians wearing wolf masks and skins creeping up on unsuspecting buffaloes.

IT'S ALL THE RAGE—The ridiculous (Red Skelton) and the sublime (Ruth Hampton) model the new Italian haircuts that are currently in the beauty limelight. A popular hairdresser describes the hairdos as making one look like an Italian Street urchin, but Hollywood's Skelton, in this instance seems to defy description.

Democrats Eye California Vote

Nov. 10 Congressional Election Is Next Test for Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Flushed by an upset victory in Wisconsin, Democrats trained their campaign guns today on a special congressional election in California Nov. 10.

And some Republicans, stunned by Tuesday's reversal that saw a Wisconsin House seat go to the Democrats for the first time, talked of calling on the White House for help.

* * *

The California election is for the House seat vacated when Republican Norris Poulson resigned to become mayor of Los Angeles. It's in a district that in recent years has been normally Republican but has swung to the Democrats from time to time. Two Republicans and two Democrats are seeking Poulson's seat.

"We have better than an even chance to win it," said a top Democratic strategist, asking not to be named. "Our chances there appear to be better than they were in Wisconsin, where we hoped to make a good showing but didn't expect to win."

A top House Republican said his information was that the California contest "may go either way."

* * *

"We are going to lose that one and mary more in next year's general elections unless we get busy and really get to work," he added.

Rep. Keating (R-NY) said Tuesday's Wisconsin election sending Democrat Lester Johnson to the House to replace the late Merlin F. Hull, veteran Republican, "was one of the best things that could have happened to the Republicans at this time."

"It may wake up the party and arouse us from our complacency," he said. "It should be proof that we are going to take a beating next year unless we get out and work and do something."

Report Prime Minister Thinking of Retiring

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion reportedly is thinking of taking a prolonged leave of absence from official life.

Political sources said the 68-year-old premier, head of Israel's government since the Jewish state was proclaimed in 1948, was considering at least temporary retirement both because of health reasons and differences within his coalition cabinet and his Social Democratic party, the Mapai.

An authoritative source said last night, however, that "nothing definite has been decided yet."

Bolivia is the fifth largest country in South America.

20 Traffic Ordinances Broken in 15 Minutes

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A 17-year-old youngster, stopped because of a bad muffler, tried to get away from a policeman yesterday and broke more than 20 traffic ordinances in a 15-minute chase. They included:

Going through 10 boulevard stops crashing eight red lights, going 80 miles an hour on a boulevard, going 50 miles an hour through a school zone, trying to make an illegal U turn, driving with a revoked license, going the wrong way on a one-way street and resisting arrest.

Driving on the Railroad

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—Gilbert Poitra, 33, arrested for driving his car on railway tracks across an underpass, has forfeited $15 bond on a drunk charge. Officers explained he couldn't be charged with drunk driving because he was not on a city street.

About 26,000 occupations were listed in the 1950 U. S. census.

Four-Seat Majority Won by Norwegian Laborites

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Official results announced last night in Norwegian parliamentary elections gave the governing Labor party a four-seat majority.

The legislature's 150 seats were distributed thus: Labor 77, Conservatives 27, Agrarians 14, Christian Democrats 14, Liberals 15, Communists 3.

The Labor party has been in office the past 18 years.

List Now Eight for Police Chief

Waterford Township Board Will Interview Finalists Friday

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — Waterford Township Board members yesterday completed screening applicants for the township's new police chief.

Of the original 14 applicants, eight will be granted personal interviews at a special board meeting Friday night, Supervisor Lloyd Anderson said.

Although Anderson didn't name the eight men, he said the new chief would be named either Friday night or Saturday morning.

Among the applicants were two from Oakland County Sheriff's Department. They were Capt. Frank Van Atta, head of the uniformed division, and Lloyd Wertz, a detective.

Salary for the new chief has been set at $5,500 per year. Salaries for sergeants and patrolmen will be determined at a meeting of the new chief and the board.

Board members have expressed the hope that the new department will be in operation by the first of the year.

In other business, the board discussed problems of financing a proposed sewage system and disposal plant for the township with Louis H. Schimmel, Pontiac financial consultant.

Schimmel said he could file a report on methods of financing the project as soon as he has made a complete study of the plans.

Postpone Meetings

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—PTA meetings for Donelson, Hudson Covert and Jayno Adams Schools have been postponed until next Thursday, Oct. 22, because of the Teachers' Institute today and tomorrow.

COUNTY CONSULTANTS CONFER — Discussing ways of improving the work of school coordinators and supervisors, county educators met this week to plan their program for the year at Hotel Waldron in Pontiac.

'Ambassador of Education' Title Given School Co-ordinators by MEA Head

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

School co-ordinators and supervisors were called "ambassadors of education" this week by Milburn P. Anderson, superintendent of Berkley schools and president of the Michigan Education Association when he spoke in Pontiac before Oakland County school consultants.

Twenty school areas out of 30 were represented at the meeting held in Hotel Waldron. Miss Minnie Zielke of Farmington, chairman, presided at the first annual gathering.

"Your job," declared Anderson "is to act as the link between the teachers, other school personnel and the public."

Coordinator's jobs, he continued, should include "building an awareness that better answers in education are needed."

Providing the leadership is another role the coordinator or supervisor should assume and finally, putting the answers to work is also his job.

Teachers have the task of "bringing curriculum to life," said Anderson and it is up to the "link" to see that they are able to perform that vital job.

Six guide posts for better "coordination" were given by Anderson:

1-Teacher must feel that consultant or supervisor wants a better answer.

2-You must be willing to put that answer to work when it is found.

3-Coordinator must not insist upon his "own angle" when putting that better answer into operation.

4-Willingness to let teachers try their way of working for better program.

5-All change, he said, should be gradual. He warned against the "whole hog" approach.

6-Teacher must be convinced that new methods will not split the faculty and that the community will accept change.

Anderson said that the beginning teacher needs more assistance. Not only is the annual percentage of turnover greater in every school system, but increased enrollments mean larger teaching staffs each year and these new people need help, he said.

He recommended that boards of education consider means of bringing in these new people each fall a few weeks prior to school opening in order to completely orient them to their new systems.

This county group will function as a clearing house for educational coordinating problems in school districts, said Claude Elimore, assistant county superintendent of schools.

Program committee for the group has Mrs. Gertrude Ealy of West Bloomfield Township schools, Ralph Tyndall, director of instruction for Berkley and Gerald White, Pontiac school's elementary coordinator as members.

Education Board to Meet

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — Township board of education will meet at its office on West Walton boulevard at 8 p.m. today.

Hospital Funds to Be Discussed

Wednesday Meeting to Deal With Expansion Financing for General

A meeting to hear proposals for financing expansion of Pontiac General Hospital will be held next Wednesday at the hospital.

A committee composed of Pontiac City Manager Walter K. Willman and Louis H. Schimmel, director of the Michigan Municipal Advisory Council, has been studying means of financing expanded facilities and will report its findings.

Scheduled to attend the meeting beginning at 8 p. m. are city, hospital and staff officials as well as representatives of interested groups.

Willman said the report should answer questions regarding the creation of a hospital authority of surrounding communities to spread the tax basis to defray capital cost of expansion.

He added a report will be given on the study of operations of a typical hospital authority.

Further, the availability of Hill-Burton federal money provided for hospital construction has been studied.

Willman also stated that the exact estimate of cost for expanding facilities by some 200 beds should be available at the meeting, following its review by the architect.

Open Estimates at Nov. 5 Meet

Buildings Are Financed by $1,300,000 Bond Issue

WALLED LAKE—The Board of Education this week authorized architects to seek bids on two new school buildings for the Walled Lake district to be financed by the $1,300,000 bond issue approved by voters last May.

Bids on the buildings, a new high school and an elementary school, are scheduled to be opened Nov. 5 at 3:30 p.m.

The high school, to be located at Oakley Park and South Commerce roads, wil lcontain 22 standard classrooms, a double gymnasium with complete locker facilities, four science rooms, three commercial rooms, a home economics suite, vocal and instrumental music rooms, and facilities for shop, agriculture, drafting and art classes.

Other features to be included are a library, study hall, health clinic, offices, counseling rooms, cafeteria, book store, lavatories and provisions for future expansion.

The elementary school will be in the Twin Beach section of the district at Oakley Park and Green Lake roads. It will contain 12 classrooms, a multi-purpose room, a teachers' room, library, offices and lavatories.

Bonds in the amount of $500,000 have already been sold. The balance of $800,000 will be sold as construction progreses.

The board also passed a resolution to authorize borrowing of $50,000 for operating purposes until local taxes are collected and additional state aid payments are received. The notes are to be issued Nov. 1 and will be due Feb. 1, 1954. An application has been submitted to the State Municipal Finance Commission for approval of the borrowing.

Also this week the school board renewed fire insurance policies on the buildings, paid bills, approved an auditor's report, granted the Multi-Lakes Association use of the new high school site for field dog trials Nov. 7-8, and considered latest enrollment figures of 3,905.

The total enrollment showed an increase of 409 since last June.

Plan to Change Stream's Course

Diversion of Paint Creek at Rochester Would Allow Site for Hall

ROCHESTER — Eight adjacent property owners near Paint Creek here attended a public hearing Monday night to hear plans of the Village Council to change the course of the stream.

The proposed change for Paint Creek was planned in order to prepare the 12-acre tract the village owns adjoining Avon Township Park for a possible village hall site.

Residents present at the meeting did not object to the council's plans but raised questions regarding possible erosion if the stream were changed.

The council set another hearing on the matter for Saturday at 1 p. m. in order to get a clearer understanding of the project.

The council, sitting in regular session Monday night, also heard a report from Village Manager Robert Slone on the progress of the new pump house at the water works.

Citizens' Group Approves Rochester School Plan

ROCHESTER —Unanimous stamp of approval was given an elementary school building program by members of the Citizen's Advisory Committee for the Rochester Community schools recently.

Clarence Burr, committee member and Rochester representative proposed a resolution which contained a six point program:

1. That an addition of five rooms and a multi-purpose room to the Goodison school be built.
2. An addition of four rooms and a multi-purpose room to Hamlin School also be constructed.
3. An elementary unit kindergarten through sixth grade to be built in the northeast part of Rochester.
4. That the McGregor offer of the site at the corner of North Rochester and Tienken roads be accepted.
5. A site for a future elementary school for the combined districts of Snell, Brush, Kline and Mt. Vernon be purchased in that area.
6. Additional property be purchased to enlarge the present Avon School site.

Frank Voll, Goodison representative to the committee, made a report on the school census figures and the equalized valuation picture of the district in the growth period.

Voll said that from 1944-53 the district gained 960 students between ages of 9 and 15. This, he said, represented an increase of 45 per cent.

A 150 per cent boost in equalized valuation for this district occurred in that same period.

A committee to consider the curriculum problem in the high school will be staffed by the subcommittee chairman, said Wallace Hodges, Citizen's chairman.

Motorist Is Unnerved by Wailing of Parrot

BLACK WELL, Okla. (AP)—Blackwell City Attorney Bruce Potter was nearly unnerved by a tiny Edmond, Okla. resident. Potter and City Clerk Carl Randall were driving to Oklahoma City. As they passed through Edmond they heard desperate cries of "help, help, help!" It sounded like a little girl's voice.

Potter brought the car to a screeching halt and looked wildly around, asking, "I didn't hit anyone, did I, Carl?" There was no one in sight — but Randall spotted a parrot on a line near the street, continuing its distress call.

Secret of Old Age: Touch Toes Daily

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (AP)—"Touch your toes every day to stay limbered up" is Mrs. Winnie Belcher's advice. She's 93. She recalls that as a girl she rode sidesaddle on a horse for as far as 50 miles at a stretch.

On a trip from Miami, Fla., to Bluefield two years ago when no suitable lodging could be found she insisted that the motoring party drive on through the night. Mrs. Belcher was the most refreshed member of the party next morning. Alighting from a Norfolk, Va.-Beckley, W. Va., airliner recently, she told the pilot:

"Young man I'm nearly 94 years old and this is the only way to travel."

Twice Mrs. Belcher has licked cancer. She has an excellent appetite during meals but—let this be a warning, junior—she doesn't eat between meals.

ROUNDTABLE EDUCATION—Mrs. Aletha Dopkins, 38-year-old widow of Madison, Wis., assists six of her seven children when homework hour rolls around. Then, when finished, she goes to work on her own studies. Mrs. Dopkins, a University of Wisconsin coed who is working to complete the education she started 21 years ago, plans to become a teacher. New Device Screens Metal From Machine

CAMDEN, N. J. (UP) — Costly crushing machinery used to smash rock, coal and other materials can be ruined or disabled if metal passes through it, which has led to the development of an industrial gadget to prevent such damage.

The industrial equipment section of the RCA Victor Dvision, Radio Corporation of America, has developed a metal detector which warns of the presence of metal in any substance to be crushed.

When unwanted metal passes through the metal detector, the device either flashes a warning light, rings bells or turns off the conveyor belt carrying the materail into the crushing machine.

German Student Clubs Again Take Up Dueling

BONN, Germany (UP) — Most West German university student corporations now require members to fight at least one duel, while some demand six, the weekly magazine, Spiegel, has reported.

Dueling has been revived, Spiegel said, by the generations either too old or too young to fight in World War II. The so-called "front generation" came home seeking only jobs and peace.

But 93 of the 97 student corporations which form the "Coburg Convent," one of four West German-wide student organizations, now require each member to fight at least one duel, the magazine declared.

Twenty-four of these corporations require at least two, 16 require three, eight require four, four require five, and one, in Muenster, requires six duels before members are fully accepted into the corporation.

"The Old Men," alumni who control the corporations because they provide their funds, started the movement to revive dueling after the Nazi government, which outlawed it, fell in 1945.

The "front generation," which filled the universities in the immediate postwar years, had little interest in dueling, having learned enough of "comradeship" and courage in the face of the enemy in seven long years of disastrous war.

But the universities now are filled with the "front generation's" kid brothers, who were just too young to fight in the last war, and who feel they have to prove their courage by acquiring a flaming cheek scar in a sword or saber match.

As Berlin delegates to the 1951 meeting of the "Coburg Convent" put it, "we cannot arrange a war for every generation!"

The government has tried to prevent the revival of dueling, but recently the federal courts acquitted a Goettingen student accused of illegal duelling, so the government appears to have lost the fight.

Only the school authorities continue the struggle. Their chief weapon is their power to outlaw any student corporation found arranging duels, and that weapon is used sparingly by rectors with one eye on moneyed alumni.

German students have been dueling as long as there have been universities, and have withstood the attacks of scores of governments.

There have been just enough high-ranking supporters of student dueling, such as Kaiser Wilhelm II, who claimed it brought out "the courage and the strength needed later in life," to keep them going.

Opponents of dueling say that, aside from the human mutilation involved, it tends to take priority over study which, after all, is the reason universities are operated.

Dueling has undergone a considerable change since the 18th century, when the challenger would go, sword in hand, around to the home of a prospective opponent and shout insults at him from the street until the man challenged would storm downstairs to do battle. A lot of students died in duels in those days.

Nowadays, however, students wear protective clothing and their eyes are covered by goggles. But the faces remain unprotected, to ensure that sooner or later the face will be cut by a sharp saber tip.

Students prefer a three-cornered scar, but a long, curved one will do. If the cut is so thin as not to leave the desired scar, a bit of salt rubbed in the wound does the trick, although strictly speaking, this is not sporting.

A Frankfurt lawyer wrote to Spiegel complaining about its dueling expose.

"You just don't understand why we duel," he wrote. "Boxing is just as bloody, but you never attack that sport."

Detroit Girl Dies

Benson to Consider Cattle Support Price

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson has told the House Agriculture Committee he will decide whether to support the price of choice cattle after he gets advice from meat and livestock leaders.

The committee last Saturday urged such a program. It also called for increased government purchases of beef to support the low-grade cattle market.

In a wire to the committee yesterday, Benson said a choice cattle support program would pose complex administrative problems, such as: price differential, compulsory grading, seasonal pricing and market outlets.

Benson said his department to date has purchased the equivalent of half a million head of cattle—about 41,000 last week—and will award contracts this week for an additional 46,000 head.

Resume Airline Service

JACKSON (AP) — American Airlines reopened service Wednesday. It had cut off flights to Jackson two weeks ago due to a damaged runway which was caused by the cave-in of a mine shaft under the airport.

Supermarket Pioneer Dies in Tennessee

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Clarence Saunders, the "Piggly Wiggly King" who started as a $4 a month grocery clerk and twice lost a fortune, died yesterday. He was 72.

A heart attack stilled his plans for a new-type mechanical grocery that he believed would put him "back in the million dollar class within a year." He had been critically ill two weeks.

His Piggly Wiggly chain, forerunner of today's supermarkets, 36 years ago grew into a vast seven million dollar corporation with stores in hundreds of cities.

He lost the chain in 1923 in his spectacular "one-man battle" with Wall Street.

Saunders soon established a second chain known as the "Clarence Saunders, Sole Owner of My Name" stores. Successful for several years, the chain folded during the depression.

His next undertaking, in 1945, was an automatic, electrically operated type of retail store—the "Keedoozle." It proved too complicated and too expensive.

Saunders' newest store — the "Foodelectric" — was to be completely self service, even to the customer adding up the bill.

It was to have gone into operation last month but was delayed by his illness.

Mashed, Fried, Boiled

CHEBOYGAN (AP) — Arnold Ostrander, Cheboygan County road Commissioner, scored the best potato crop in the county this season. An outstanding Cheboygan potato grower for several years, he averaged about 400 bushels per acre on his 22 acres.

Jail Gatekeeper in Boy's Death

Police Quiz Railroader Why Warning Signals Weren't Working

DETROIT (AP) — Police today held a 61-year-old gatekeeper for investigation of the death yesterday of Robert Drewek, 13, a safety patrol boy, who was fatally injured trying to warn a driver of an oncoming train.

Arrested was John Kaczmarek, tower watchman, as police tried to find out why the gates had not been lowered and the warning signal not turned on.

The driver of the car, Alfred Keber, told police that he saw someone trying to wave him down. It was right after he saw the figure in the heavy fog that the train hit him, he said.

Police said that Keber's car bounced off the train and skidded into the young safety patrol boy. Drewek had been protecting his schoolmates at the crossing for three years.

He had won an Automobile Club plaque for safety last May.

Train engineer Frank E. Smith of Port Huron said that after he had stopped his Grand Trunk Western Railroad train and gone to the boy's side, the gates were lowered.

A group of his classmates whom he had just taken across the street watched in horror, "Bobby" died three and a half hours later in Receiving Hospital.

Nixon Flies to Australia to Confer With Leaders

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—U. S. Vice President Richard Nixon flew here today from Auckland, New Zealand, for a six-day Australian visit on his Far Eastern fact-finding tour.

His schedule included a call on New South Wales State Premier John J. Cahill later today and a state dinner tonight. Nixon flies to Melbourne Saturday and on Tuesday meets Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies in Canberra.

The party will leave Wednesday by plane for Jakarta, Indonesia.

Says Send Moms

KALAMAZOO (AP) — The Kalamazoo Air Forces Association Auxiliary asked Michigan Senator Charles Potter today to send their American mothers after the 23 POW's, who the Communists say, don't want to come home. The auxiliary asked the senator to help obtain congressional approval for the plan in a letter, now in the mails.

Trieste Issue Now at U. N.

Vishinsky Is Expected to Echo Moscow Charges Against U. S., Britain

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The diplomatic battle to keep a shooting war away from Trieste shifted to U. N. headquarters today, but Security Council debate on the explosive issue was overshadowed by the impending London talks on the question.

With their foreign ministers meeting in the British capital tomorrow and Saturday, British and American delegates here sat tight and waited to see what tack Russia's Andrei Vishinsky would take before the council this afternoon.

Vishinsky's proposal—that the council again try to set up an international administration over both zones of Trieste and give the whole area independence three months later—so far had met with a cold reception from Yugoslavia and Italy, the two claimants to the area.

Vishinsky was expected to lead off the council meeting with an echo of Moscow's earlier charge that the United States and Britain violated the 1947 Italian Peace Treaty by their decision to turn over Trieste's Zone A—occupied by British and American troops — to Italy.

The United States and Britain both indicated they would not intervene at once in the council debate.

There was no advance indication of what part—if any—Yugoslavia would play in the debate. It was no secret, however, that the Yugoslav delegation wanted no part of the Soviet proposal and tried vainly to prevent Vishinsky from entering it.

Yugoslav President Tito already has proposed a conference of the United States, Britain, Italy and Yugoslavia on Trieste. U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, leaving Washington last night for London, was reported open minded toward that suggestion.

Gilliand to Be Tried for Hitchhiking Theft

James Gilliand, 24, of 1976 Hecla St., Detroit, charged with armed robbery, was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court Wednesday by Pontiac Judge Charles P. Webster.

Gilliand was returned to Oakland County Jail when unable to post a $1,000 bond following yesterday's examination. He is scheduled to be arraigned Oct. 23.

William R. Taylor of 18590 Maddy Lane, Keego Harbor, testified that Gilliand robbed him at knife point of $23 last month after Taylor picked up Gilliand who was hitchhiking on Saginaw street.

Compound Colors Produce New Vim and Vigor in Men's Fall Apparel

Fashion Accent From Waist Up

PARIS (INS) — According to Paris designer Madeline DeRauch, the fashion accent this season will be from the waist up. Her new silhouette emphasizes the bustline and shoulders, but calls for tight skirts and the small-hipped look.

Round, padded shoulders, draped bustlines, boleros, and clever tucks and pleats help create the full-bosomed look without the necessity for falsies. The nipped-in waistlines and straight, slim skirts also put the spotlight on the upper half.

Agence France Presse fashion experts call attention to the Oriental look in the De Rauch line. Mandarin jackets, plus the use of heavy satins, and rich brocades produce this effect. Especially exotic is a straight, slim hip-length jacket, slashed at the sides in eastern fashion.

Intermingled Hues Create Novel Tones

Shade Blends Are Far Different From Usual Monotones

There's a new visual vim and verve in the new fall fabrics called compound colors.

This vital new fashion is several color tones blended, compounded, intermingled in one fabric that creates a new tone-on-tone effect.

All types of apparel have this fresh, rich look which opens up an entirely new fashion vista of great appeal.

In the same way that a scientist compounds a formula, mills are compounding a variety of color casts and shades in fabrics. The results are unusual effects which are a far cry from the conventional monotones.

For example, two shades of gray with red and blue create a descriptive cast totall different in tonaity from the conventional gray.

Similarly, brown and tan tones are woven together with green and rust to create an individual overall effect. Two shades of blue with red and gray add description to bluish casts.

These new compound colors are apparent in a variety of fabrics such as wool, cotton, silk in the natural fibers, as well as the manmades such as dacron, orlon, nylon, acrilan, vicara, and in blends of various types.

Patterns lend concrete expression to compound colors in many different kinds of designs such as checks, plaids and nubby touch surface weaves in slubs, nubs and splashes.

The blended tones are subtle. They are not merely single colors but several multiples of shades mixed into compound effects with varying undertones and overtones.

From head to toe, apparel of all descriptions take on a new life with compound color tones. In headwear, compound colored felts in grays, tans, blues and greens create a new style interest in hats.

These felt bodies are further enhanced by brushed and roughed-up finishes that bring out the color values in the felt.

In neckwear, multiple colored stripes, checks and plaids all show the influence of compound colored styling. In house, bright argyles have a tone-on-tone effect.

From head to toe compound colors are bringing a richer, brighter look to all kinds of apparel. This worsted suit, felt hat and topcoat show this new trend.

Sun Dials Hold Own Despite Changing Times

CHICAGO (INS)—This is an age of time, clocks, alarm clocks, watches, bells, noon whistles and test sirens. But that silent time-teller—the sun dial—is holding its own.

Leonard Grosse, a Chicago artist, says he is designing the age-old device that measures time by shadow not merely from nostalgia but because there is a demand for it.

Grosse explained that many garden fanciers buy sun dials to enhance the peaceful surroundings of their shrubbery and flowers.

Grosse' latest version of the sun dial is embellished with the signs of the zodiac, with a bronze inset and a base of white stone.

Money may not get you friends, but it will get you a better class of enemies.

IF tiny and short legs—

Detail below the waist shortens legs, cuts height. Shoulder and sleeve enlargement without exaggeration, beltless for leg length.

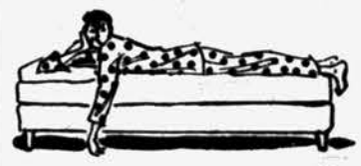

Miss S. L.—The new wool dresses have unusual merit for the short-legged figure in that so many are beltless. This line did not exist last season. Many are wide at the top, then narrow to the figure below, making them very becoming to the tiny figure.

The time that elapses between the beats of the average human heart is about six hours per day.

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

The "girls" are going to lunch, and the plan is to go Dutch treat. Have consideration for your waitress, and ask her for individual checks at the time you order. Never take a group check, and then try to determine what each of you owes, after the meal. Someone always overpays, the situation often leads to ruffled feelings, and the waitress hasn't all afternoon to conduct a class in accounting.

A little forethought is better than a bushel of hindsight.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Children Reared on Television Miss Delights and Comfort That Books Bring

Sometimes I get to worrying about today's generation of young television viewers. Will they, when they are grown, be bathed in warm, wonderful nostalgic memories at the mention of such names as Roy Rogers, Hopalong Cassidy and Howdy Doody?

MISS McBRIDE

Maybe they will. It could be, I suppose, that these heroes can invoke in children of today the same kind of ecstasy that Oliver Twist, Black Beauty and Alice in Wonderland did in me.

Actually children probably behave pretty much the same, generation after generation. Their tools and toys change but their reactions no doubt remain static. Today's young ones plaster snub noses against 21-inch screens until dragged screaming off to bed.

I, as a little girl, poured out the same passionate devotion to books. The lamp in my bedroom was always empty of oil long before any other in our house. That was because I lighted up again as soon as the place was dark and went right on with the saccharine adventures of Elsie Dinsmore or Little Lord Fauntleroy.

As a child, I hardly made any difference between book people and those I actually saw every day. Polly—Louisa May Alcott's old-fashioned girl—and the Little Colonel were as intimate and beloved friends as Anna Lois and Sally Joe who shared my secrets from first grade on and companioned me in exciting games of Run Sheep Run on summer evenings.

I was delighted not long ago to hear Margaret Scoggins, an important children's librarian, declare that it doesn't matter too much if a child who loves books reads some trash.

I was relieved too, for I remember an enchanted time when I was about 10 and a red-haired girl at school loaned me "Tempest and Sunshine" and "Lena Rivers," two novels some distance from the classic school.

I read these thrillers right in class, held inside my geography, and I was caught by the teacher just as Lena fell into her suitor's arms. Today I even remember his name. It was Durwood, and he was handsome beyond anything masculine in Paris, Mo.

To be truthful, I read anything printed that I could find. I loved one aunt more than all others because her house had an attic filled with old magazines and a sitting room lined with bookcases.

Summers I used to spend every minute I was allowed in that hot attic, streams of perspiration pouring down my face, my hands and clothes grimy. I remember I read even the advertisements in those magazines.

I was a bookworm then and I've been one ever since. Moreover, I'm thankful about it from the depths of my heart, for books have helped and comforted me in the sorrows that are part of every life.

Television is fine and I wouldn't take it away from children if I could. But I do wish all the boys and girls could also know about the delights of books.

News Notice of Wedding Not Enough

Those Not Invited Should Be Mailed Announcements

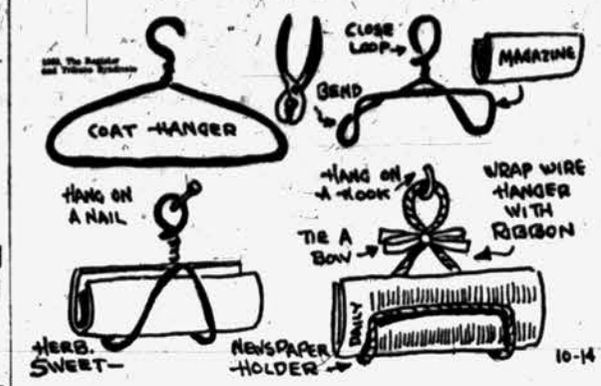

By EMILY POST

A mother tells me: "My daughter was recently married abroad. In compiling the list of friends and relatives to be sent wedding announcements, I did not include those living in town, as an announcement of the marriage was put in the local newspaper.

"I assumed that this announcement, which was undoubtedly seen by all, was sufficient and that an engraved announcement would be superfluous and might furthermore seem like a bid for wedding presents. Am I correct in my assumption or would it be proper to send them announcements too?"

Answer: Correctly all acquaintances (business and social both) who were not invited to the wedding receive announcements. The announcement in the paper has nothing to do with personal friends and is intended for the public.

And, in any case, the receipt of a wedding announcement is never an obligation to send a present.

Try It

Hanger Idea Wins Prize for Walled Lake Woman

This is an idea which will be helpful to you Try-Iteers and to your family. Mrs. Walter Heinke of Walled Lake, Mich., sent this. Thanks for the idea, and I hope that you enjoy your TryIt winner book. Do you have ideas to share with other Try-Iteers, too?

You will need some regular wire coat hangers and a pair of pliers. You will need to bend the handle of the coat hanger so that it forms a circle instead of a hook.

There are two ways to bend the rest into shape. The upper right hand hanger in the picture is bent up in an oblong shape. The one in the lower left has been bent into a pointed shape.

Either way will work equally well, just take your choice. You can see how the papers or magazines fit right into these holders.

After you have them bent, you may want to decorate them a bit. This can be done by giving them a coat of paint. Use colors to match your room or gilt paint for a real dressy hanger.

In the lower right corner is a hanger which is wrapped around and around with half-inch-wide ribbon. These are nice when they are used in sets of threes. Use them in a line or one higher than the others.

They will come in handy for keeping books off the tables. Mother will like this.

Sound-Wave Washing seen

DALLAS (INS)—A Texas scientist is convinced that someday the lady of the house will do the weekly wash with sound.

Dr. Joseph C. Sherrill, doing detergency research at Texas State College for Women in Denton, Tex., admits it may take 25 to 30 years before water, soap and sound replace elbow grease in the home.

Dr. Sherrill said he believes sonic washing will replace mechanical agitators since revolving and swishing clothes around in a washer eventually wears out the clothes.

Kirk in the Hills Audience Thrills to Fine Music as Three Symphony Artists and Vocalist Perform

By DONNA ANDERSON

There was music in the kirk Wednesday evening.

There was music in the sanctuary of George Chapel of Kirk in the Hills, a fitting accompaniment to the melody of an autumn night.

In an effort to install a greater love for cultural achievement into the citizens of our community, members of the John Bathgate and Mary Martha Circles sponsored a program of chamber music which surely accomplished its purpose.

Appearing on the program were three members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Zinovi Bistritsky, violinist and assistant concertmaster; Thaddeus Markiewicz, cellist, and Harold DeRemer, well-known Detroit pianist and teacher and symphony soloist.

With the trio was Maria Roumell, vocal soloist, who has appeared at Carnegie Hall and is a recording artist as well as a television and radio star.

Opening the program with "Andante and Allegro" by Haydn, the trio made known its versatiity of presentation.

Tranquil in the andante and mirthful in the allegro, the work offered opportunity for the cellist to show his ability for smooth, moving melody and extreme dexterity as he played in counterpoint with the violin.

Versatility in mood and expression stood out foremost in Miss Roumell's presentation. Tantamount to that quality was her winning charm and personality and her complete absorption in the characters and situations she portrayed.

The somber note of irony in the story of Violetta's fatal illness in Verdi's opera, "La Traviata" was depicted dramatically in the aria, "Ah Forse Lui," and forcefully in "Sempre Libre."

Turning from the dazzling aria, Miss Roumell portrayed the serenity of Rachmaninoff's "In the Silence of the Night" with the clarity and fitting drama so apparent in her other selections.

Before she sang "The Laughing Song" from "Die Fledermaus" by Johann Strauss, she explained the story behind the composition which enhanced her presentation considerably.

As the tale goes, Adele, the maid, borrows a dress from her mistress and attends a masquerade ball. All of this, of course, in unknown to the owner of the dress.

Adele is so beautiful that a young man of noble repute is attracted to her. Not knowing that she is just a poor servant girl he "pursues" her in the usual gentlemanly fashion, only to find that he is to be laughed at when the masks are removed and true identities revealed.

In speaking of Miss Roumell's performance, a word must be said about her accompanist, Stuart F. Piggins.

His excellence of touch and expresson set the scene for each number in a most outstanding manner. Extreme attention to words, music and mood achieved a fusion of each selection and its accompaniment into one.

Mr. Bistritsky chose for his solo selections compositions which portrayed two different settings and moods. From the smooth "Preludium" and the dancing "Allegro" by Pugnani, arranged by Kreisler, he changed to Sarasate's story without words, "Romanza Andaluza."

In the first selection, his remarkable finger movement was apparent; in the second, the complete change of scene through a change in type and tempo furthered his show of versatility.

As an encore he played Tchaikovsky's "Waltz Sentimentale," so plaintive and soulful on the muted violin.

Returning, Miss Roumell sang "Morte di Margherita" from Act 3 of "Mephistopheles" by Boite "A Spirit Flower" by Campbell-Tipton and "With All My Heart," from "The Great Waltz" by Johann Strauss. As an encore she chose Romberg's "Romance" from "Desert Song."

Mr. Markiewicz showed true virtuosity in his presentation of "Allegro Appasionate" by Saint-Saens and "Playera" by Granados. In Gabriel Faure's "Dreams," which he chose for an encore, he displayed his ability for liquid, violin-like melody in the somber, searching out-pouring of emotion.

The trio ended the program with Dvorak's "Dumky" in three parts, "Lento Maestose—Allegro," "Andante Moderato" and "Lento Maestose-vivace," bringing together the individual talents of each in a final reflection.

Women Channel Efforts for Successful Ingathering

'Charity Which Helps Other Charities' to Climax Its Annual Drive on Nov. 12

"The Charity which helps other charities"

By JUDITH L. CLEMENCE

It is that time of year when busy clubwomen, housewives and mothers put aside their duties to aid a cause that through the years has benefited the needy.

The Needlework Guild which was incorporated in 1896, becoming the Needlework Guild of America, Inc., was begun by a group of seven young girls who little dreamed of its becoming a nationwide charity.

On the local level, Mrs. Harold E. Howlett, who is president of the Pontiac Branch, is being assisted by active committee members, all of whom are hoping that the Nov. 12 Ingathering will prove the most successful ever.

The first vice president is Mrs. C. G. Burke. Mrs. John W. Fitzgerald is second vice president; Mrs. Harold A. Furlong, third vice president, and Mrs. Harold A. Fitzgerald, fourth vice president.

Miss Ella Green is honorary president.

Other officers include Mrs. A. J. Michael, secretary; Mrs. Don Nicholie, assistant secretary and Mrs. Bertil Larsen, treasurer.

In charge of receiving is Mrs. Stuart Whitfield with Mrs. Basil Brown, junior chairman, and Mrs. George Crane, assistant distribution chairman.

Purchasing is under the supervision of Mrs. Murray Ashbaugh assisted by Mrs. R. R. Anglemier.

Basis for membership is the contribution of at least two new garments. The theory behind this is to have one to wash and one to wear.

"The charity which contributes to charity" distributes these garments through local social service agencies.

Everything that is contributed goes back to our own locality, Mrs. Howlett related.

The Ingathering of garments on Nov. 12 at the First Presbyterian Church will begin at 9 a.m.; followed by a coffee hour from 10 until noon. The annual meeting will start at 1 p.m., with distribution of garments in the afternoon.

Mrs. Howlett will give a coffee hour at her home on East Iroquois road Oct. 26 for board members.

For those who are interested in helping the Needlework Guild and would like more information, Mrs. Howlett suggests they call Mrs. Michal at FE 2-0876. She will give the names of the social agencies and the section presidents.

Out-of-Town Guests Attend Celebration

The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Singleton of Commerce was the occasion for visits by several former Pontiac residents last weekend.

Mrs. Melva Giddings of Albuequerque, N. M., with her grandchild, Nancy Ann Ronayne, was the houseguest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Milton D. Dolan of Union Lake.

Also guests at the Dolan home were Mrs. Dolan's sister and brother-in-law, the Duncan J. McDonalds and daughter, Donna Jean, of Nashville, Tenn.

MRS. JOHN C. MORGAN

Phyllis G. Fink Becomes Bride

Phyllis Gayle Fink, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Fink of Bellevue avenue, wore a pink suit with navy accessories when she became the bride of John C. Morgan of New Castle, Ind.

Anne Byrne and Art Fink, the bride's brother, attended the couple at the evening ceremony performed in the home of the Rev. L. L. Marion on James K boulevard.

Following the recent ceremony, a reception was held in the bride's home.

Perfume That Clings

Q.— Dear Penny: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.—Mrs. A. W.

A.— A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily, and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houbigant Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. Only $1.85 plus tax at better stores.

Mrs. Roger Dean Entertains Group

Mrs. Roger Dean, senior vice president of Cook-Nelson Unit 20, American Legion Auxiliary, opened her Menominee road home Tuesday to the unit's membership committee.

Mrs. Dean, who is chairman of the committee, is assisted by Mrs. Leo Mineweaser, Mrs. Gladys Williams, Mrs. Charles Foote and Mrs. Russell D. Thompson. Mrs. Fred Bohlman, unit president, was a guest.

Mom, Daughter Make Stork's Life Like Dog's

BREMERTON, Wash. (UP) — A mother and her daughter each became mothers in the same delivery room here less than two hours apart. Baby Donna Joy was born to Mrs. Margaret Kanthack at 2:53 p.m.

At 4:46 p.m., baby Teresa was born to Mrs. Marlene Rose Lindstrom, the Kanthack's only previous child. Frank J. Kanthack, 45, a shop supervisor at the Puget Sound Naval Shipyard, and his son-in-law, Ralph E. Lindstrom, took turns congratulating each other.

"Both Ralph and I were there, of course, for the 'double feature,' Kanthack said. "However, it wasn't really scheduled that way at all."

He explained that Donna Joy arrived a week early and his new granddaughter wasn't expected for several weeks.

Reports Drop in Disease Rate

Michigan Health Board Statistics Show Cases Running Behind 1952

LANSING (UP) — The State Health Department reports that fewer cases of contagious disease have been registered in Michigan so far this year than during the same period in 1952.

Sharpest drop was reported in number of measles cases. Thus far this year, 21,169 cases have been reported compared with 31,204 at the same time a year ago.

Other decreases were noted for rheumatic fever, 578 cases this year compared with 643 last year; scarlet fever, 5,091 cases this year and 7,049 at the same time last year; infantile paralysis, 1,909 so far this year compared with 3,043 last year; tuberculosis, 4,723 this year compared with 4,845 a year ago; and syphilis, 4,709 this year compared with 5,550 last year.

Only increases in case loads were in whooping cough, 22,038 cases compared with 1,508 last year, and gonorrhea, 7,094 cases so far this year compared with 6,000 last year.

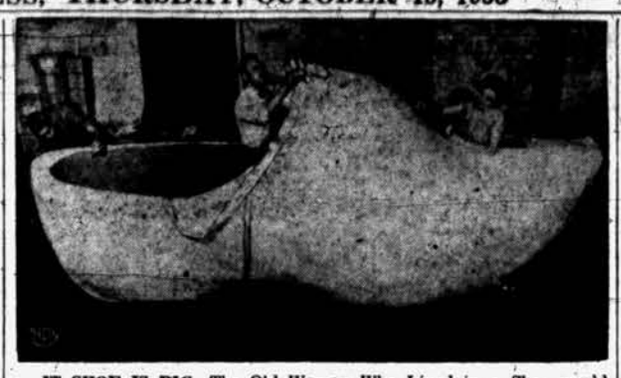

The fastest U. S. train run every recorded was made by the Pennsylvania Special, now the Boardway Limited, of the Pennsylvania railroad on June 12, 1905. It ran three miles near Ada, Ohio in 85 seconds, a rate of 127.06 miles an hour.

Seeks Fare Boost

MUSKEGON (UP)—Peoples Transport Corp. says its bus fares will have to be increased or night and evening service in Greater Muskegon may be discontinued. A straight 15 cents-a-ride fare in place of two rides for a quarter, via tokens, is suggested.

End of Fight in View

DETROIT (UP) — A no-raiding agreement, similar to the proposed AFL-CIO pact, is now in sight for the CIO United Auto Workers and the Independent Mechanics Education Society. For years the two have had jurisdictionl organizing differences.

Bride Finally on Honeymoon

Petite Japanese Rejoins Airman Husband After Year's Separation

ESCANABA (UP)—Mrs. Nori Onnkai Casey, Escanaba's first Japanese war bride, is finally on her honeymoon, but for a time her life was as mixed up as Chow Mein.

The petite young wife of Francis Casey, an Air Force careerist, has been reunited with her husband after international red tape had separated them for more than a year.

"I'm overjoyed and thrilled to be in the United States," she said. "It is surprising and very wonderful to have American people receive me so well."

Nori, a former school teacher, married Casey in June, 1952, while he was stationed in Japan. Immediately the new bridegroom had to return to the United States.

Red tape— a visa and passport—delayed Nori's departure until this month. The plane trip to her "new" home couldn't go fast enough, "but I also became a little sick over it."

Nori, a wee four-feet-eight, says American clothes are wonderful. She's been shopping already. And, she adds, Americans eat potatoes like her folks eat rice.

The Caseys will reside at Chanute Air Force Base, Ill., where Casey is stationed. He has been in service 10 years.

Old School Inkwells Disappearing Fast

NEW YORK (INS)—This school year few little girls need fear their pigtails will get an ink shampoo from the little boy sitting behind her. The reason is the rapid disappearance of the old-fashioned inkwells and dip pens from America's school desks.

A nation-wide survey by a leading pen company shows only 36.2 per cent of the nation's schools now use inkwells and dip pens. Dip pens are being displaced by ball points and fountain pens as fast as new schools are built.

French to Visit

MIDLAND (UP)— A group of French Ministry of Education representatives will visit Midland Friday on a tour of American schools. Central Michigan College at Mt. Pleasant also will be visited.

Two for Every Seat

KALAMAZOO (AP) — There were two candidates for eath of the positions on the seven-man city council when the deadline rolled around for filing candicacies Wednesday. Every member of the current commission, except Alvin Little is seeking reelection.

Speeds Through Fog, Gets Jail, $100 Fine

Donald R. Toohey, 29, of 505 E. Rankin, Flint, who was chased about three miles by Pontiac Police in the fog yesterday morning was sentenced to 10 days in Oakland County Jail and ordered to pay a $100 fine by Pontiac Judge Charles P. Webster.

Judge Webster said Toohey, who pleaded guilty to reckless driving would draw a 90-day sentence if unable to pay the fine.

Patrolmen said Toohey ran two red lights on Oakland avenue while driving at a high rate of speed. He was finally stopped on Dixie highway, they said.

Attacking AF Better Than Defense—Talbott

NEW YORK (AP)—Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott says the United States should build an Air Force with strong retaliatory power rather than rely on defense alone.

Speaking last night at the annual dinner of the Automobile Old Timers organization, Talbott put it this way:

"I wouldn't be afraid to get into the ring with Marciano (Rocky Marciano, world heavyweight champ) if I knew he was only going to defend himself.

"My reluctance to crawling into the ring with Marciano is based on his capability of knocking me out."

There are about 10,000 recognized species of bacilli in the world.

Met Arthur at Broadcast

Couple Was Married Four Months After First Dance

When asked recently if his wife was still on TV, Arthur Murray, the famous dance instructor, quickly remarked, "My wife is never still doing anything!"

One of the busiest career women today, Kathryn Murray at 47 is a grandmother. She is seen weekly on television as hostess of the Arthur Murray Dance Party, and as vice president of her husband's dance studios, is responsible for all information and instruction sent to their 275 branch studios throughout the country.

In addition, she has written books and articles on dancing as well as instruction manuals used to train the national staff of almost 8,000 Arthur Murray teachers. She also has found time to design fashion patterns.

Mrs. Murray was born in New Jersey Sept. 15, 1906, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Lincoln Kohnfelder.

The Murrays met in December, 1924 when he was broadcasting dancing instructions over a Newark station. Kathryn, who at the time was attending a state teachers college in New Jersey, was a member of the audience and was delighted when he asked her to dance.

She said: "Oh, I'd love to — then I can tell my grandchildren that I danced with Arthur Murray." Mr. Murray now claims that he said: "You mean our grandchildren," but she denies this, saying that she's sure all he was thinking about at the time was whether or not it would be worthwhile dating a girl way across the river in Newark. At any rate, they were married four months after their first dance.

When Mrs. Murray's daughters were 12 years old, she suddenly discovered they no longer needed her until after 6 in the evening. So she resumed working.

Kathryn Murray made her first appearance on TV in July, 1950, in the early series of the Arthur Murray parties. Since that time she has appeared regularly on the program, missing only two programs because of illness.

On the first of those two occasions, she commented: "You've heard the expression 'the show must go on' . . .Don't you believe it — it's the ham that must go on."

Having had no professional stage experience, Mrs. Murray nonetheless states that she is never nervous and is completely at ease on the program. "What is there to be nervous about?" she says. "I'm not a performer, I'm a hostess."

Arthur Murray likes to question taxi drivers to get their reaction to their TV program, and he takes great pride in the fact that invariably they will say, "My wife loves your wife."

Busy Burglar Retired by San Francisco Cops

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The busiest burglar in San Francisco was out of business today.

Police arrested Wallace L. Skaggs, 26, at his hotel room. They said he admitted breaking into 19 homes and stealing about $5,000 worth of furs, clothing, jewelry, radios, typewriters, luggage and electrical appliances in the past six weeks.

Skaggs met his downfall when he was spotted carrying a television set from the home of Thomas McKeon, a retired policeman.

Why don't you come in today and learn to dance the Arthur Murray Way. It's quick and easy. Special rates, special parties during his 40th Anniversary celebration, too!

Will Continue Work on Catholic Shrine

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roman Catholic officials said today work wil start next year on the main edifice of the National Shrine of The Immaculate Conception, to make it one of the 10 greatest churches in the world.

The shrine, on the campus of Catholic University here, was begun early in this century, but construction was suspended after the foundations and a crypt church were completed. The National Shrine of The Immaculate Conception Appeal said the 1929 depression and later World Warr II and extensive overseas relief activities of U. S. Catholics, were responsible for the interruption.

The projected main church will seat 3,000 persons and have a total capacity of 6,000. The seating capacity compares with 2,192 for St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York.

Getting Along

HOBBS, N. M. (AP)—State police nabbed a speeder going 80 miles an hour. He gave his age as 80.

The Army organized and manned the first U. S. weather bureau as a branch of the Signal Corps.

LEONARD ELECTRICAL COMPANY

162 W. MAPLE, BIRMINGHAM MI 4-3933

The seven stockholders of Leonard Electrical Co., employed therein, have voted to terminate the business, some wishing to retire and others to go into other lines of business for themselves. In view of the forty-two years in which Leonard's has served the Birmingham area and acquired a faithful patronage, they have taken this action reluctantly. We wish to thank these persons for their patronage through these many years. We are pleased to report that Miss Connie Vettraino, manager of our record department having purchased this department, will continue serving Birmingham in a new location to be announced later. Mr. Mark Smith will continue a service department in a new location to be announced later.

'Footballs' Satisfy Famished Fans

TOUCHDOWN HOT DOGS — Hungry fans will love these novel "footballs" for after-game celebrations. Crispy corn-meal biscuits, enclosing tiny frankfurts, are laced with catsup to resemble footballs . . . tantalizing and delicious.

Avocado Sauce Flatters Salads

Avocado is a fine flavor partner for tomatoes and the delicate green color of the dressing is eye-appealing to boot. The secret of this tempting dressing is the use of salad oil and double rich evaporated milk to form a creamy emulsion.

Lemon juice and seasonings are added to point up the delicate flavor of avocado. .

Incidentally, this avocado salad dressing doubles beautifully as a dunk for crackers or potato chips to serve with chilled tomato juice or other pre-dinner potables.

Avocado Salad Dressing

¼ cup salad oil (not olive oil)
¼ cup evaporated milk
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
½ teaspoon sugar
1 avocado, mashed (about ½ to ¾ cup)

Oil and evaporated milk should be at room temperature to form a good emulsion. Measure ingredients into a screw top jar that holds at least one pint.

Cover tightly and shake vigorously for about one minute. Chill thoroughly before using, about 1½ to 2 hours. Serve on sliced tomato and cucumber salad. Makes 1 to 1¼ cups dressing.

Do your youngtsers clamor for snacks when they come home from school Have a spread-your-own tray ready, with graham crackers, cottage cheese and jelly on it.

Cornmeal Mix Enfolds Wienies

Colorful Catsup Laces Tantalizing Snacks for Post-Game Crowd

Celebrate the team's victory with Touchdown Hot Dogs! Ravenous fans of all ages appreciate these hearty, catsup-laced "footballs," in which tiny frankfurts are nestled within crispy, cornmeal biscuits.

After a brisk trek from the stadium, the teasing aroma of freshly-baked "footballs" is completely tantalizing. The combination of spicy flavors is so delicious that they disappear like frost in the sun! Make plenty!

Touchdown Hot Dogs

Put four frankfurters in pan and cover with boiling water. Remove pan from heat, cover, and let stand seven-eight minutes.

Remove from water with tablespoon to prevent pricking skins. Dry on paper towels and cut in thirds crosswise. Meanwhile make the following cornmeal biscuit dough.

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup cornmeal
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
1 teaspoon chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
⅔ cup milk

Sift flour, cornmeal, baking powder and salt into mixing bowl . . . Cut in shortening until as fine as meal . . . Stir in green pepper, onion and pimiento . . . Add milk, mixing to a soft dough.

Knead lightly on floured board for 20 seconds. Roll dough into a rectangle 10½x16x⅛-inch thick. Cut with knife into 12 rectangles, 3½x4 inches. Place a piece of frankfurter in each rectangle.

Fold dough over frankfurter, forming into football shapes and pinching edges together . . . Bake in very hot oven (450) 15-20 minutes . . . Put catsup in small cone and press onto footballs, making "lacing." Makes 12.

Ham Tops Casserole

For a delightful "meaty" flavor with main dish vegetable casseroles, dot top with one (2 ounce) can deviled ham and bake as usual. Particularly good with bean, potato and eggplant dishes.

Pancakes Plain or Fancy Win Applause for Cooks

By JANET ODELL

When primitive man found that a mixture of meal and water baked on a hot stone tasted good, he laid the foundation for countless centuries of good eating. Down through the years since, woman has made and improved on that original griddle cake, while man has eaten and enjoyed it.

Fifty years ago the proper place for a pancake was on the breakfast table. Today, however, pancakes have their place in the best society at any meal.

Pancakes or griddle cakes, they are delicious eating and a versatile food. Incidentally, waffles are first cousins of the pancake family; many cooks use the same batter for both.

Perhaps you would like some general hints and suggestions of making good pancakes.

The thickness of the batter determines the thickness of the pancake; for heavy hearty cakes, use a thick batter; for thin dainty ones, a thin batter.

Use as little fat as possible on the griddle. If you like, you may put the fat right in the batter.

Don't pat the cakes or disturb them while they are cooking. Turn when bubbles form on the surface, and turn only once.

Don't stack pancakes. One minute of steaming takes the life right out of a brown, cheerful pancake.

We think of pancakes as particularly American, along with maple syrup and pork sausage. But by American, we must mean from Alaska to the Argentine, for each country from north to south has its favorite pancake. Perhaps you would like to try some or all of them.

How about salmon pancakes? Up in Canada in the Pacific Coast region they are raved about. And they're so easy to make.

Just stir 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and 1 cup flaked salmon into pancake batter. Use one-fourth cup of batter for each pancake and bake on hot, lightly greased griddle.

It is not surprising that down in Brazil coffee pancakes are the order of the day. Simply add 1½ to 2 tablespoons instant coffee to the milk used in making pancakes from a ready-mix. Serve with maple-blended syrup.

Vary your pancakes to suit your own fancy. Roll them into cornucopias and fill them with sliced strawberries, a la Alaskan style.

Fill a pair of them with chopped cooked meat mixed with tomato sauce for pancakes in the Argentine manner. Or just serve delicious, plain American hotcakes. Everyone agrees that pancakes mean good eating.

Easy Pastry Handling

An easy way to get the pastry from the cloth to the pan is to roll the pastry circle around the rolling pin. Then unroll the pastry from the rolling pin onto the pie pan. Fit the pastry loosely down into the pie pan and trim the excess from the edges.

Dinner for Busy Day

Try this meat and spaghetti combination for a busy day dinner. Saute mushrooms in butter or margarine. Then place in a greased casserole with chopped canned meat and spaghetti.

Cover with grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven for about 30 minutes.

Steaks Basted in Garlic Butter for Fall Picnic

Thick charcoal broiled steak and a great pot of fragrant coffee —there you have the two indispensibles for the best of all outdoor meals.

A slice of succulent steak, basted with garlic butter and done to a turn over glowing coals, is something to dream about. And true picnic-style coffee, properly steeped, can be as good as any you ever tasted.

Before autumn finally passes, why not plan an outdoor steak supper?

For easy eating, prepare steak finger sandwiches in the following manner:

Select a steak 1½ inches thick. Brush iton both sides with garlic butter and grill over hot coals, turning several times and brushing with garlic butter each time. (To make garlic butter, you mash a clove of garlic, add it to a quarter of a pound of melted butter and heat gently for 10 minutes).

When the steak reaches the desired degree of doneness, cut into half-inch strips, place each stripe in a hot frankfurter roll, and serve.

On the side, have an accessory tray set with relishes, mustard and so on; a platter of sliced tomatoes, onions and cucumbers, and a bowl of scallions, radishes and carrot sticks.

The best dessert to follow such a feast is an assortment of fresh fruit, thoroughly chilled.

Luxuries Commonplace

Fifty years ago the few food products which were manufactured and packaged were considered luxuries for the carriage trade, and quality was synonymous with wealth. Today quality is taken for granted, and convenience foods, ranging from canned or quick frozen main-dish meat combinations to instant tea, are emphatically not luxuries.

You can improvise a pastry cloth by using a heavy crash towel and rubbing flour into it. Then your dough will not stick.

Seasoned Sauce Adds Fillip to Cabbage Dish

Low calorie creamed cabbage, seasoned enticingly, is filling and satisfying.

4 cups green cabbage (coarsely shredded)
1½ cups water
½ cup nonfat dry milk powdtr
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Extra salt
Pepper
Paprika

Cook cabbage rapidly in small amount of boiling water just until tender crisp, about 7 minutes; drain.

Pour 1½ cups water into top of double boiler. Sprinkle nonfat dry milk powder, ½ teaspoon salt and flour over surface of water. Beat with rotary beater until just blended. Cook over simmering water, stirring constantly until slightly thickened, about 8 to 10 minutes.

Add Worcestershire sauce, cooked drained cabbage, and extra salt and pepper to taste: reheat. Sprinkle with paprika. Makes 6 generous servings.

Onions Stuffed With Spicy Chili

The savory fragrance of baking onions and chili con carne will bring your family to the kitchen, sniffing hungrily.

Stuffed onions make an easy dish to fix, for you can parboil the onions in the morning and do the actual baking just before dinner.

Stuffed Onions

Parboil medium onions until tender. Take out centers and fill with chili con carne or spiced Mexican-style chili beans.

Place in shallow baking pan. Pour over remaining chili or beans from one can and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Deep in the Heart Of

FALFURRIAS, Tex. (UP)—Falfurrias was named from an Indian word meaning "the land of heart's delight."

STUFFED ONIONS — Onions stuffed with chili con carne make an easy dish to prepare and one that's sure to hit the spot on cool fall days. Serve it with hot cornbread, a crisp salad and a filling dessert for an appetizing supper menu.

Chops Stuffed With Corn Mix

All of the flavorful things that go so nicely with pork have been rounded up to make the stuffing for the chops suggested here.

Whole kernel corn, apple, parsley, onion and sage are the savory ingredients which are coupled with bread crumbs and moistened with double rich evaporated milk.

A green vegetable and pickled beets make a pretty and satisfying plate accompaniment.

Corn Stuffed Pork Chops

4 loin pork chops
½ cup frozen or canned whole kernel corn
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 small unpeeled apple, finely chopped (about ½ to 2-3 cup)
1 tablespoon grated onion
¼ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
¼ teaspoon rubbed sage
¼ cup evaporated milk
Salt and pepper
Flour
1 tablespoon fat
½ cup evaporated milk
½ cup water

Chops should be about 1 inch thick. Cut slit in edge of chop about 2 inches wide, then cut pocket in chop from this outer edge to bone.

When using canned corn, be sure it is well drained. Frozen corn should be thawed before using. This may be done quickly by heating the half cup corn without water in a small saucepan over very low heat for three to five minutes.

Blend corn with crumbs, parsley, apple, onion, salt, pepper, sage and the one fourth cup milk. Fill pockets in the chops with the corn mixture. Skewer outer edges of chops to keep stuffing in, if necessary.

Sprinkle chops on both sides with salt and pepper, then dredge with flour. Melt fat in large fry pan and brown chops on both sides. After chops are browned, add the one half cup evaporated milk mixed with the one half cup water.

Cover tightly and cook over low surface heat until tender, about 45 minutes. If desired, flour and additional diluted evaporated milk may be added to the drippings in the pan to make gravy. Makes four servings.

Don't Ignore Basic Ways to Cook Fish Deliciously

With frozen haddock fillets such an easy and plentiful food to buy . . . flaky, white and tender, and generously endowed with easily digested, high-grade protein, minerals and other nutrients so necessary to health and a feeling of wellbeing — ways of cooking them are especially welcome.

Sometimes we pay so much attention to unusual ways of cooking fish, with special sauces and stuffings, that we forget fish is a delicious food in its own right, which cooks quickly and easily, and that the basic recipes for broiling, baking and frying are often sufficient.

Baking and broiling, of course, can be done in a heat-proof dish that can be brought to the table, further simplifying meal preparation. Golden brown fish fillets, sprinkled with paprika and garnished with parsley and lemon wedges, are delicious and attractive, too.

Here are basic methods of cooking recommended by the National Fisheries Institute. Add your favorite fish sauces if you like:

Baked Haddock Fillets

Let 2 pounds frozen fillets thaw completely, either at room temperature or in a refrigerator. Mix 1 cup milk and 1 tablespoon salt in a flat bowl. Mix on a piece of waxed paper 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon paprika, one fourth teaspoon pepper.

Dip the fish in milk and roll in seasoned crumbs. Place in a greased baking dish that can be used for serving. Pour 4 tablespoons melted butter or other fat over fish.

Place pan on shelf near the top of a very hot oven (500) and bake 10 to 12 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

Serve imediately on a hot platter, with lemon wedges. Makes six servings.

Broiled Haddock Fillets

Place 2 pounds fillets skin side down in preheated flameproof pan which can be used as a serving dish. (If fillets are frozen, let them thaw completely, either at room temperature or in the refrigerator.) Brush fillets with salad oil, sprinkle with paprika, salt and pepper.

Place in broiler about 2 inches from heat. Broil six to eight minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Serve immediately, garnished with parsley and lemon wedges. Makes six servings.

Maple Eggnog Tops Breakfast Cereal

Try these suggestions for a good breakfast roundup: Orange flow-toasty shredded wheat biscuiters (to eat with the fingers), topped with banana slices and nutritious eggnog, bacon strips and toast cutouts.

There's a breakfast to rouse galloping appetites at your house!

Eggnog Special

1 egg
1 cup milk
¼ cup maple-flavored syrup
Banana slices
Shredded wheat biscuits

Beat egg, milk and maple flavored syrup together well. Slice banana over shredded wheat biscuits; serve with maple-flavored eggnog instead of milk and sugar. Makes 1½ cups eggnog.

Give extra zip to breakfast fun with toast cutouts made with your favorite cookie cutter and touched up with butter and jelly.

Ice Cream Features Nectar Mint Flavor

Nectar Mint Ice Cream

2 eggs, separated
½ cup sugar
¼ cup light corn syrup
Few grains salt
1 cup apricot fruit nectar
1 cup light cream
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 to 3 drops mint extract

Beat egg yolks thoroughly with sugar, corn syrup and salt. Blend in nectar, cream, lemon juice and flavoring.

Pour into refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment with control set at lowest temperature. Freeze until firm.

Remove to chilled bowl and beat with rotary beater until smooth and fluffy. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites.

Return to freezing compartment and freeze to desired consistency. Reset temperature control to normal. Makes about 1½ pints. To serve, place a scoop of the ice cream on top of fruit cup.

Ham 'n' Cheese Tops Hit Parade of Sandwiches

Nothing is more popular than ham and cheese sandwiches, especially when they're grilled this special and super-delicious way.

1 Cup ground ham
1 cup medium-fine grated cheddar cheese (put in cup lightly when measuring)
½ cup mayonnaise
12 slices bread
Butter or margarine

Mix ham, cheese and mayonnaise. Make sandwiches with the mixture and the bread.

Butter generously top of sandwiches; place under broiler until golden-brown. Turn and butter other sides of sandwiches; broil until golden-brown.

Cut each sandwich in two triangles; use three triangles for each serving. Makes 4 servings.

Method of Preparing Frozen Sandwiches

To freeze sandwiches: Wrap unsliced sandwiches in moisture-vapor-proof material and place several in a box. This keeps sandwiches together and makes them easy to find. Let sandwiches thaw unwrapped. Takes about 1-2 hours. lice and serve immediately.

If sandwiches are not served immediately after thawing, keep them in the refrigerator.

When preparing sandwiches for freezing—avoid using mayonnaise, salad dressing, or jelly, as these soak into the bread and make sandwiches soggy. Avoid vegetables like lettuce, parsley, watercress, celery, carrots, tomatoes as they lose their crispness.

Handy in Kitchen

You'll find a bottle with a screw-on medicine dropper top handy in the kitchen for flavoring extracts, fruit coloring or any other liquid that has to be measured in very small quantities.

Perfect Gravy Depends on Measuring Ingredients

Never measure ingredients for gravy?

Guessing might be a safe system for the experienced cook, but for the bride or novice in the kitchen this may prove all too disappointing.

Good brown gravy is more than just an accompaniment. It is made from the extracted fats and juices of the meat and is an excellent way of extending the meat's flavor.

For best results in brown gravy use these proportions: 2 tablespoons of drippings, 3 tablespoons of flour, and salt and pepper to taste for each cup of liquid.

In mixing, add the flour, salt and pepper to the drippings in the frying-pan or roasting pan on the range. Stir for about 3 minutes, until the flour is nicely browned.

Then add the liquid and stir constantly, cooking until of the thickness desired.

One sure method of preventing lumps is to do this: Place ½ cup of water in a jar with a tight fitting cover. Add the flour, then shake the jar vigorously. When well mixed, add to the drippings in the pan and proceed in the regular manner.

Cheese, Bacon Top Vegetable

Try this easily made vegetable plate combination made with eggplant. If very small eggplants are used, serve more than one to each person.

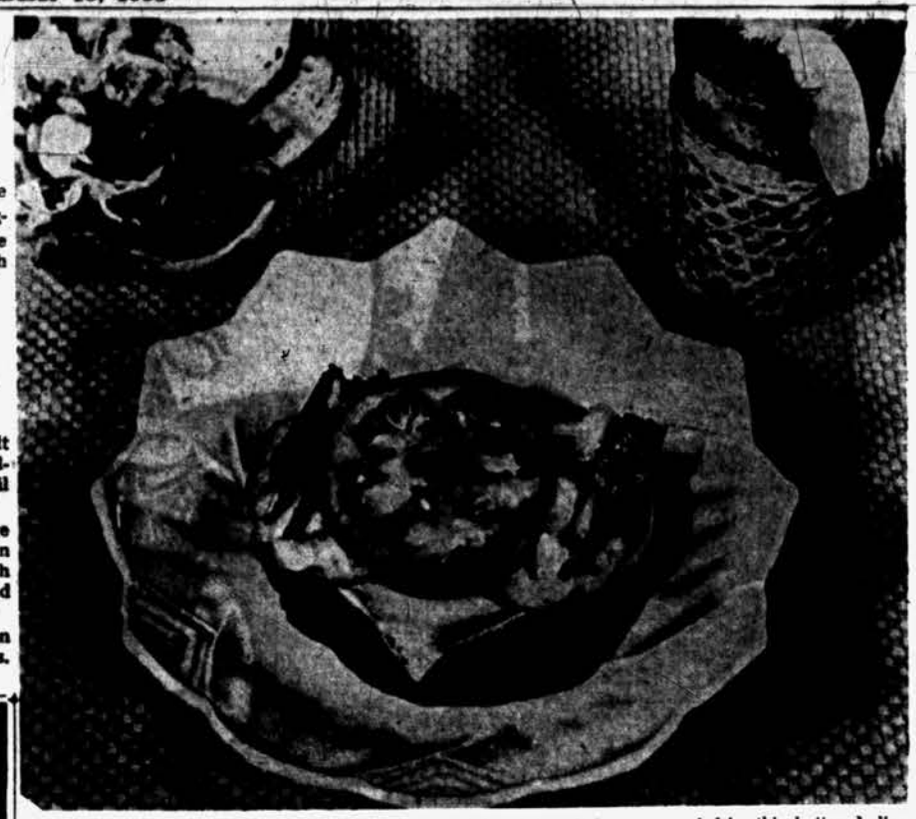

Eggplant Dreams

6 thick slices eggplant
½ pound American cheese
Flour
6 slices bacon
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
4 tomatoes, sliced ½ inch thick

Cover eggplant with flour. Melt butter or margarine in large skillet. Saute eggplant slowly until brown. Drain on paper towels.

Place on baking sheet. Arrange two or three slices of tomatoes on top, then the cheese. Top with bacon. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Place under broiler until bacon is crisp, about five-seven minutes. Serve at once. Serves six.

EGGPLANT DREAMS — Here's a wonderful new fresh vegetable luncheon dish. Eggplant is the base for this good combination of cheese and bacon. In the picture it is accompanied by thin buttered slices of rye bread and relishes.

Good Food and Company Insure Success of Brunch

By JANET ODELL

Why don't you entertain at brunch? As you know, brunch is simply a combination of breakfast and lunch and thus gives you a wide leeway in the choice of food.

If you like long, leisurely Sunday morning breakfasts, invite a few friends in to share them. If you go with a group that occasionally includes the children in its entertaining, a brunch is an ideal time to have them.

Plan a menu that will not be harmed by waiting; then ask your guests for any time between, say, 9:30 and 11:30.

We have done this several times on New Year's morning with happy results. Whole families have come, and we all had a wonderful time.

For your fruit course you may have a centerpiece of fruit in season. Let your guests choose what they want any time during the meal.

A mixture of fruit juices is always welcome. Be sure to use some citrus juice in the combination. Set the bowl of juice in cracked ice or freeze one kind of fruit juice in your ice cube trays to use for contrast in a second kind. Whatever you do, prepare your fruit course so that it will demand no attention from you while your guests are eating.

For your main course you may be elaborate with a number of dishes. However, it is perfectly proper to serve one hot dish. Keep it warm in a chafing dish, if you have one, or on one of those little candle warmers (available in variety stores for under a dollar).

Bring out that table grill you have stored away on the top shelf of the cupboard. Provide bacon and eggs and let your guests do their own cooking. Borrow a couple of waffle irons, make up huge quantities of batter and add side dishes of interesting foods for the guests to sprinkle on before baking. We suggest grated cheese, crumbled bacon, coconut or chopped nuts.

Hot breads are a must for a brunch. Make your own rich coffee cake, luscious sweet rolls, or tempting quick bread. Use prepared mixes if you prefer them.

If you are really pressed for time, or just cannot see yourself making your own bread, dress up brown-and-serve rolls or buy bakery rolls. Please, whatever bread you serve, serve it warm!

Have plenty of butter, perhaps some jam or honey or marmalade, milk or cocoa for any small guests, and scads of hot, strong coffee.

Do everything you can the day before, enlist the help of your family, plan your serving schedule, and then relax with your guests. You'll find the combination of plenty of delicious food, pleasant company and a leisurely Sunday go hand in hand to make any brunch a success.

Now's the Time for Stocking Up on Cranberries

Every day's Thanksgiving to the housewife who is foresighted enough to "put down a supply" of fresh cranberries now, while the new crop of bright red berries is still available.

Because of the popularity of the home freezer and the ease with which fresh cranberries can be frozen for use throughout the year, home economists and food editors are emphasizing to housewives that the economical and wise homemaker will freeze fresh cranberries at the time of peak supply.

In early colonial days, when Massasoit's men showed the Pilgrim mothers how to spice up their meals with wild cranberries, it was the custom to fill a cranberry barrel with water and let zero temperatures freeze the cranberries into solid block of ice.

This custom continued over many years so that even as late as the turn of the century it was possible to go into the rural general stores and order a "block of cranberries."

The United States Department of Agriculture has predicted that this year's crop of cranberries, being harvested in Massachusetts, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Washington and Oregon, will set a new record of more than 1,000,000 barrels of the tangy, red berries.

Socks to Put Sock in 'Y' Benefit Event

A pair of socks—that will be the admission to the Swim and and Swing Club sock hop Friday at 9 p.m. in the Pontiac YMCA, 131 Mt. Clemens St.

George C. Balch, Y boys and girls director, said about 250 youths are expected to plunk down a pair of socks tomorrow night.

The purpose of the annual affair, explained Balch, is to extend aid to war orphans through church groups. The Swing and Swim Council will pack the socks and forward them to various organizations.

Following a swim in the "Y" pool, the youths will gather in the gym for the dance.

Decorations in the gym, carrying a theme of world service, will be large photos showing orphans of various countries.

Spice for Sandwiches

It's so easy to get into a rut making lunch box sandwiches — the same things day after day. Spices and herbs can do wonders by way of adding flavor variation. For instance, meat sandwiches are extra delicious when you tuck a little chili powder into the filling. Try it with tuna fish, also.

FBI Joins Search for Murder Suspect

Pontiac Police today were informed by Fred H. McIntire, head of the Detroit FBI office, that the FBI has entered the search for James Woods, 25, formerly of Detroit, charged with the first degree murder of a Clarkston man.

McIntire said Woods is charged by the FBI with unlawful flight from the state to avoid prosecution on a murder warrant.

Capt. Clark M. Wheaton, chief of Pontiac detectives, said he asked the FBI to enter the case after receiving reports that Woods had left Michigan.

Woods, whose last known address is 2709 Deacon St., is accused of the fatal stabbing of Arthur Moran, 21, of 4675 First St., Jan. 7 in a Pontiac factory lot.

Delay Worth Money

MERIDEN, Conn. (UP) — The New Haven Railroad has discovered that time is worth $5 a minute to a Meriden alderman. Richard Kimball sued the railroad under a little-known statute which provides that it must pay $25 to anyone delayed more than five minutes by a standing train. The railroad paid without protest when Kimball said that was exactly what happened to him.

Cookies Boast Candy Richness

Your kids will love these chocolate cookies. They're the nearest thing we know to the chocolate candy bar, made with the crisp crunchy rice cereal that small fry adore. And they are so easy to make.

Chocolate Crisps

1 cup sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
⅓ cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup oven-popped rice cereal
Pecan halves

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Melt chocolate and butter over hot water. Remove from heat; cool slightly.

Beat in sugar thoroughly. Beat in egg and vanilla. Add to sifted flour mixture with rice cereal; mix well.

BUSY DAY LOAF—Upside-down meat loaf is your answer to an easy-to-cook meal that will satisfy the heartiest appetites at your table. To make, dress up regular meat loaf with canned peaches and bits of currant jelly.

Meat Loaf Is Glamorized With Peaches and Jelly

There's something about a meat loaf tht really hits the spot when cool weather whets the appetite for something hearty.

No tonly that, but for the chief cook and bottle washer whose activities are suddenly stepped up after the relaxing time of summer and vacation, it's one of the easiest dishes in the recipe file to prepare. No wonder it's such an old favorite with so many families.

Next time your menu reads meat loaf, make it just a wee bit different by baking it on top of juicy cling peaches.

And spark it to extra tantalizing taste with MSG — the seasoning that brings out natural flavors, makes ground beef — or any meat — taste better than ever before.

This upside-down meat loaf, specially patterned for busy day cooking, guarantees an hour of busy eating when you serve it.

Upside-Down Meat Loaf

¾ cup packaged bread stuffing
⅓ cup milk
1-3 cup catsup
1 medium onion, chopped
1½ pounds beef, ground
¾ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
½ teaspoon MSG
Few drops Tabasco
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
3 to 4 canned cling peach halves

Empty measured stuffing into large bowl. Combine milk and catsup; pour over stuffing; let stand 15 minutes or until stuffing is soft. Add remaining ingredients, except peaches; mix thoroughly until all ingredients are well blended.

Arrange peach halves, cut side down in greased loaf pan; cover with meat mixture. Bake in moderate oven (350) one hour.

Unmold on serving platter. Fill centers of peach halves with currant jelly. Makes six servings.

Maple syrup, jam or jelly, cinnamon mixed with sugar and honey are all delicious toppings for French toast. For Sunday breakfast, accompany the toast with strips of crisp bacon.

Combine cranberry sauce, chopped orange, spices, and pecans and fold mixture into gelatine. Chill until firm. Unmold and serve on crisp lettuce leaves. Serves 6.

Stolen Camera Snaps Right Back to Owner

HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)—Willie Banks was walking past two youngsters when he heard one of them describing a newly-obtained camera, the kind that makes and develops pictures.

Banks called police and the lad was turned over to juvenile authorities.

The camera had been stolen from Banks' automobile.

Cup Cakes Contain Mince Meat Surprise

If you consider yourself a whiz with a box of cake mix try branching out with a few original variations. For instance you can add to your laurels with these Mince Cup Cakes.

Bake at 375 until lightly browned, about 25 minutes.

Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar or serve with whipped cream.

Try Chocolate Sauce Over French Toast

Chocolate may be the special favorite of menfolk but when it comes to youngsters, girls and boys consider it tops.

For a special luncheon treat for the young, give them French Toast with a milky chocolate sauce, fater they've had their soup or salad.

French Toast

Dip pieces of bread in a sort of eggnog made by beating one egg with 2-3 cup milk and a pinch of salt. Brown on both sides in butter or margarine. Melt 2 chocolate covered malted milk bars in top of a double boiler with 3 tablespoons water until a thick smooth sauce is obtained and pour over the toast.

Garnet Country

CONCORD, N. H. (UP)—The Adirondack region of New Hampshire and New York accounts for practically all of the output of garnets in the United States, according to state officials.

Honey Important as Healthful Energy Food

Know these facts about honey:

Honey is an energy food for children as well as adults.

Honey helps in the retention of calcium by young infants, and contains minerals which are necessary for the growth and health of the body.

Honey has in limited quantities all of the important constituents of the vitamin B complex, vitamin C, some hormones, and amino acid.

Recent research shows that honey contains some biotin and folic acid.

Honey places no tax on the digestive system.

Honey is a safe food since bacteria which cause diseases in human beings cannot grow in it.

Honey is an appetizing and economical food for all ages and all income groups.

Chicken soup mixed with tomato juice and a little cooking sherry makes a delightful first course.

Succulent Stew Eaten Eagerly

A stew is probably the oldest and best form of cookery. It was invented by a busy woman, designed to feed and sustain a ravenous family.

Through the centuries it has developed from the crude cooking pots of the nomadic tribes, graduated to the mansion, the penthouse, the apartment. Today stew is one of the few dishes the embattled budgeteer can prepare with economy and have consumed with gusto.

However, the art of brewing a stew has declined because most people buy the prime meats. Only wartime restrictions, high prices, unavoidable scarcity can drive us away from prime meats to economy buys.

Many cooks do not realize that the more tender cuts of meat do not belong in a stew. They cook to tasteless pieces, where a somewhat tough piece of neck, shin or shoulder tenderizes slowly, exudes its goodness meagerly, imparts a magnificent flavor.

These are busy days for most of us. Not too much time can be spent bending over a hot stove, for there are other demands on our time, yet all of us have a healthy hankering for a good meal, properly cooked. The answer is stew.

Here's a recipe for old-fashioned Irish Stew. It should make your mouth water to read it.

Irish Stew

½ pound lamb riblets, breast or shoulder per person
½ pint chicken broth per pound of meat
2 small whole onions
2 shredded raw potatoes
Bouquet parsley and 1 bay leaf
6 small raw potatoes
6 carrots, ½-inch slices

Bring the broth to a boil, add the meat, boil for about 15 minutes. Strain the broth, skim off as much fat as possible, return the meat and strained sauce to a cleaned pan, add onions, shredded potatoes, bouquet.

Simmer over a moderate fire until the meat is almost tender, the liquid reduced about a half. Strain liquid through a fine sieve, throw away the herb bouquet, add small potatoes and carrots, cover with the strained sauce, and season lightly.

When the vegetables are done, turn into a handsome tureen and serve with pride.

Chocolate and Peppermint Top Ice Cream Snowballs

Ice cream gives a temperature, texture and flavor contrast to other foods. Only your imagination is the limit to the number of ways that you can use ice cream.

The many flavors available in ice cream make it a dessert favorite just as it is. And if you are watching calories, it is good to know that a serving of ice cream is lower in calorie count than many of the other desserts you might think of.

The peppermint snowballs combine the smooth texture of the ice cream with crunchy bits of crushed peppermint candy. And the gay red and white stripes make a colorful dessert when served with chocolate sauce.

In addition to rolling large balls or scoops of ice cream in the crushed peppermint candy, there are other ways to serve this dish. Chocolate sauce can be poured over the ice cream and the crushed candy sprinkled on top if you don't have an ice cream scoop.

The shape of an ice cream pack offers other interesting forms: Either cut the ice cream in slices, cubes or rounds and serve it with the candy and chocolate sauce.

No matter how you serve this trio, it is a refreshing dessert and a grand finale to the meal.

Peppermint Snowballs

1 quart vanilla or chocolate ice cream
2 cups crushed hollow type peppermint stick candy
Chocolate sauce

Form ice cream into balls with a scoop or spoons. Roll the balls in crushed peppermint stick candy and serve topped with chocolate sauce. Mint sprigs may be used for a garnish. Eight servings.

Chocolate Sauce

½ cup cocoa
½ cup granulated sugar
Dash of salt
1 cup light corn syrup
1 cup hot water
2 tablespoons butter

Mix the cocoa, sugar and salt together well. Add the corn syrup and hot water, stirring until smooth. Cook and stir over a low heat until the mixture boils.

Cook without stirring for 15 minutes or until a small amount of the mixture forms a jellied mass in cold water. Take from the heat, add the butter, and mix well. Store in the refrigerator in a covered jar. About 1¾ cups.

Cooks Applaud Versatile Tuna

For versatility and economy canned tuna wins the homemaker's vote every time.

Whether it's a full-fledged meal for the whole family or a quick snack for hungry youngsters, protein-packed tuna, combined with macaroni products, is the perfect ingredient for dishes of every kind.

Cold weather casseroles can be made in no time at all when several cans of this fine food are handy on the kitchen shelf.

Tuna-Macaroni & Cottage Cheese Casserole

1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
8 ounces elbow macaroni (about 2 cups)
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1 cup buttermilk
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 cup cottage cheese
2 7-ounce cans solid-pack tuna

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

In a bowl, combine remaining ingredients with tuna which has been broken into pieces with a fork. Add macaroni and mix lightly but thoroughly.

Turn into greased 1½-quart casserole and sprinkle with paprika and chopped parsley if desired. Bake in moderate oven (350) 30 minutes or until lightly browned. Serves four to six.

Ham Accented by Cranberry, Orange Sauce

For a delicious, different flavor the next time you bake a ham slice, try an orange-cranberry combination with it. Their flavors spark up many dishes, make a very special one when served with ham.

Bake the ham right in the sauce — the ham absorbs that fine tangy flavor during the cooking period—or serve orange-cranberry relish separately with the baked ham, according to the second recipe. Either way, you'll enjoy a delightful treat!

Baked Ham With Orange-Cranberry Sauce

1 2-inch thick ham slice
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
½ cup bite-size orange pieces (1 medium orange)
1 cup canned whole cranberry sauce

Place ham slice in baking dish. Combine brown sugar, ground cloves, orange pieces and cranberry sauce and pour mixture over and around ham slice. Bake in 325 oven for 20 minutes. Then baste with juice in pan and continue cooking for another 25 minutes, or until tender.

Orange-Cranberry Relish

1 medium sized orange
1 No. 1 can whole cranberry sauce
¼ teaspoon ground cloves

Cut unpeeled orange into quarters and put through food chopper. Crush cranberry sauce and blend in chopped orange and cloves. Allow to stand at least one hour for flavors to blend before serving. Makes about two cups relish.

Sandwich filling — soften cream cheese with enough honey to spread well. Add chopped raisins or nuts.

Nippy Weather Ideal for Potage

There's no doubt this is soup weather. When you make your own with good fresh vegetables and top it off with a hearty dessert, you feel well fortified against the dreary weather outside.

For a change, why not try this thick pureed vegetable soup. It's much like your old standby with soup bone and a variety of vegetables, but it has a few different twists to make it interesting and delicious. It's thick, smooth and richly filling, but not loaded with calories.

Provincial Potage

3 pounds cracked soup bones
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 medium potatoes, pared and diced
3 carrots, scraped and diced
3 turnips, peeled and diced
3 medium onions, peeled and chopped
1 sprig parsley, minced
1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts cold water

Place the soupbones in a shallow pan and brown in a hot oven, 450, for 15 minutes. Melt butter in soup pot over very low heat, add vegetables and cover tightly. Continue cooking until lightly browned, stirring occasionally. Add bones, salt and cold water. Cover tightly and simmer for an hour.

Remove bones and scrape out the marrow with a spoon. Strain the vegetables, saving the stock, and press with the marrow through a sieve or food mill. Blend with the stock.

Just before serving, reheat soup and stir in the following well blended. Do not boil:

1 cup top milk
2 beaten egg yolks

Serve with French bread sprinkled with Parmesan cheese and toasted. Float the toast on the soup in bowls.

Peas, Mushrooms Will Ring the Bell

Tempting meals for the back-to-school crowd can be easy. Spruce up the vegetable offering with delicious quick-frozen peas with mushrooms.

Ring the bell at every meal with a quick-frozen vegetable, easy on the budget, easy on the cook. You'll be sure to get an "A" when you prepare extra fancy peas in this delicious fashion.

1 package extra fancy quick-frozen peas
1 cup sliced mushrooms
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
Butter

Add sugar and salt to one-third cup water, bring to a boil. Drop in solidly frozen peas, cook for three minutes from second boil. Drain.

Brown mushrooms in butter, combine with peas. Serves five to six. Ideal vegetable to serve with chicken.

Friendly Wave Leads to Dunking for Golfer

PORTLAND, Me (UP)—Lincoln Farrar, an insurance company executive, now knows you can get in trouble by taking your eye off other things than the ball when golfing.

He turned his head and waved to friends on the 10th green while towing his caddy cart across a bridge on Riverside Golf Course.

His friends pulled Farra and his cart from the stream.

6 Senoritas in Trouble for Illegal Entry in U. S.

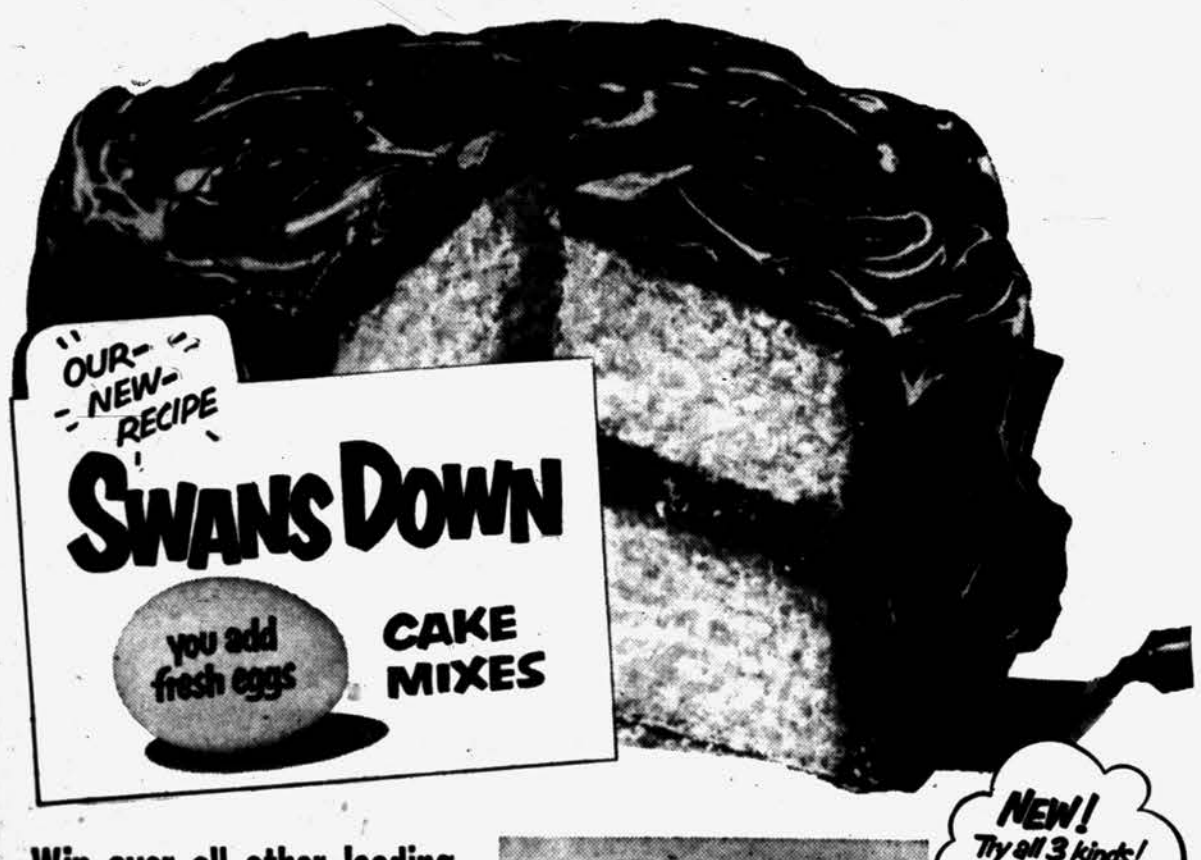

SAN DIEGO (UP)—Mexican girls illegally cross the border into California by droves because they aren't afraid of the consequences, Asst. U. S. attorney Morris Sankary declared in court here.

Sankary asked Federal Judge Jacob Weinberger to make an example of six senoritas before him for illegal entry by sentencing them to six months but suspended the terms as long as they stay in Mexico. They were ordered sent home.

REAL HOME BAKED BEANS

Quick Dinner: Tamales, Chili

For a dinner to please the family on a day you're extra busy, plan to serve a South-of-the-Border special . . . tamales and chili con carne.

It's a bright and hearty combination . . . a pantry shelf meal that you can have ready to eat in minutes.

Canned tamales and chili con carne are heated separately, and the chili is served on top of the tamales. Shredded onion and lettuce make an attractive salad and garnish for the platter.

To complete the dinner, serve hot cornbread and a simple fruit compote for dessert. Canned pear halves and pineapple chunks with fresh apple wedges make a nice contrast to the spiciness of the main dish.

Tamales Con Chili

2 1-pound cans tamales
2 1-pound cans chili con carne with beans
1 large sweet onion
½ head lettuce

Heat tamales and chili con carne separately. Remove parchment paper from tamales and arrange on platter; top with chili. Shred onion and lettuce; serve with tamales and chili. Six servings.

Do you find you often need small amounts of fresh orange or lemon juice for a recipe? Then keep a small reamer that fits over a custard cup handy and use it for extracting these small amounts of juice. A reamer of this sort takes little space and is easy to wash.

TAMALES CON CHILI—Tempting and tasty . . . this gay dinner of canned tamales and chili con carne whisks from your pantry shelf to the table in minutes. Keep the makings on your emergency shelf and you'll never be at a loss for quick dinner.

Finely diced fresh pineapple tastes wonderful when it's added to shredded green cabbage; moisten the salad with a creamy salad dressing and sprinkle with paprika.

If your cakes aren't rising high enough and hae a light curst, you are probably baking them in pans that are too deep for the amount of batter.

Salmon Sauce Tops Sandwich

Serve your family this delicious and different lunch dish. It's a new way of preparing salmon.

Baked Salmon Sandwich

2 cups water
⅔ cup quick-cooking rice cereal
¼ pound process cheddar cheese
1 11-ounce can condensed cream of celery soup
½ cup milk
1 8-ounce can salmon
1 tablespoon minced parsley
Paprika

Bring water to boil in saucepan. Sprinkle in quick cooking rice cereal so boiling does not stop. Cook, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened, about half a minute.

Cover and cook over low heat for three minutes longer. Stir well; pour into 6x10-inch oiled pan. Chill until firm; cut into eight equal pieces.

Arrange four of the pieces on greased heat-proof platter. Thinly slice cheese; place on cereal squares. Top with remaining squares of cereal.

Blend together soup and milk. Add salmon (including liquid from can) and parsley. Heat thoroughly, stirring gently so that the salmon will remain in fairly large pieces.

Pour over cereal squares. Sprinkle lightly with paprika. Bake in hot 400 degree oven until heated through, about 20 minutes. Serve at once. Makes four servings.

Corn Beef Hash Is Exciting Base for Many Dishes

Corned beef hash in cans is a versatile meal planning help. Keep a number of cans on your shelf and try some of the following suggestions for serving:

Open both ends of chilled can of hash, slide out contents, and cut in four slices. Wrap bacon strips around each slice, fasten with toothpick. Place in lightly greased pan, in 400 degree oven for 10 minutes or until bacon is crisp. Top each slice with a poached egg.

Roll out extra-thin pie crust. Cut into 5-inch squares. Put 2 heaping tablespoons corned beef hash in each pastry square. Fold up corners, seal edges, turn back tips. Bake 15 minutes on greased baking sheet in 450 degree oven.

Cut tops off green peppers. Remove seeds and veins. Drop into boiling water, remove from flame, let stand 10 minutes. Stuff hash into peppers, top with grated cheese. Set in pan with water covering bottom, pour tomato sauce over peppers. Bake 30 minutes in 350 degree oven, basting occasionally.

Line ring mold with waxed paper, fill with two cans corned beef hash. Bake 15 minutes to 400 turn out onto platter. Fill center of ring with hot canned corn (add chopped pimentos for exciting color). Surround ring with green peas.

Remove both ends from a chilled can of hash. Push contents out and slice thick. Pan fry in hot fat. Toast sliced sandwich buns, and top half of each toasted bun with lettuce leaf, slice of browned hash and a slice of cheese. Serve either open or closed-faced.

Soft cookies will keep fresh and moist in a tightly covered container if you tuck a slice of apple in among the cookies.

Bake your favorite corn bread in a ring mold and fill with creamed ham. Serve with watermelon pickle and a cooked vegetable or a salad.

Combine Honey and Lemonade

Frozen lemonade is as modern as frozen waffles, as modern as all the waffle and pancake mixes. In the hot summer months everyone drank gallons of frozen lemonade, and now all kinds of new ideas have been developed for using lemonade in easy-to-make recipes like this.

Try lemonade-honey syrup for Sunday morning breakfast. It's made by combining a can of frozen lemonade with honey and butter. With the melted butter in the syrup, you won't need to serve butter separately for pancakes or waffles.

LEMONADE-HONEY SYRUP—Here's a wonderful new idea for a homemade syrup. You can make it as quickly as you can bake waffles or grill pancakes. It's a smooth, tangy combination of honey, frozen lemonade and butter.

Lemonade-Honey Syrup

1 can frozen concentrate for lemonade
½ cup honey
4 tablespoons butter or margarine

Combine frozen lemonade and honey in saucepan, stir until they are well mixed, and heat just to piping hot (but do not boil). Stir in butter and serve as syrup over waffles or pancakes. (If you wish a sweeter syrup, use equal parts honey and frozen lemonade)

One quart of milk weighs 2.15 pounds. It requires 9.77 quarts of milk to produce a pound of butter, and about 4.65 quarts to manufacture one pound of cheese.

Molasses, Fruit Flavor Cookies

For a delicious and unusual cookie, make these bar-type treats.

Molasses Fruit Bars

2 cups flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon soda
¼ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
1 egg, unbeaten
½ cup milk
½ cup molasses
½ cup chopped dates
½ cup chopped raisins
½ cup chopped nuts

Sift dry ingredients together. Cream shortening until soft; gradually beat in sugar. Add eggs, beat vigorously until light.

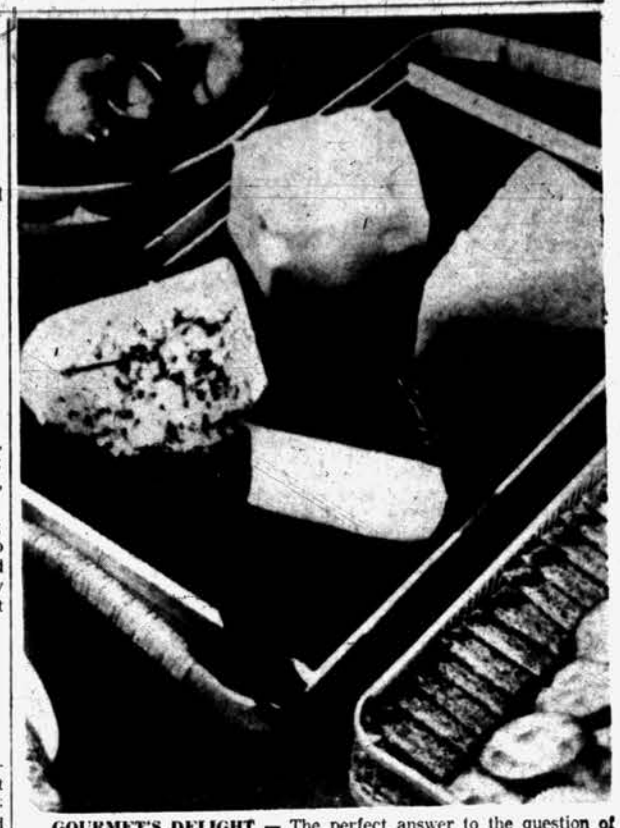

Add milk to creamed mixture; do not stir. Use same wet cup to measure molasses; add to creamed mixture. Sift in one-third of dry ingredients. Stir together; do not beat.

Add fruits and nuts and another third of dry mixture; mix until smooth. Stir in remaining flour mixture to make soft dough.

Grease and flour bottom of baking sheet (upside down). Put about one-third of dough on sheet; dampen palm of hand in cold water; press out dough in thin, even sheet on pan.

Bake in slow to moderate oven 325 to 350 degrees about 12 minutes. Cut into bars, squares or diamonds on the pan; remove to wire rack to cool.

Warm cookies may be dusted with granulated or powdered sugar, if desired. About 3 dozen.

GOURMET'S DELIGHT — The perfect answer to the question of dessert or the evening snack is an attractive snack tray with crisp crackers and assorted cheeses. Add fresh fruit, pears or apples, serve your favorite beverage, then relax.

Tinted Glasses Reported Night-Driving Hazard

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Dr. H. Richard Blackwell, director of the University of Michigan vision research laboratory, said today that commercially manufactured yellow "night driving" glasses and tinted heat-absorbing windshields reduce your ability to see at night.

Dr. Blackwell gave his report before a meeting of the Optical Society of America. He said:

"Anything that reduces the available light will reduce the distance at which objects will just be seen at night."

His conclusions were reported based on 25,500 laboratory tests made since last November under carefully controlled conditions.

Georgia Starts Drive Against Speed Traps

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—Gov. Herman Talmadge has threatened to revoke city charters of Georgia speed trap towns, if other measures fail. He issued this warning after receiving word from the American Automobile Assn. that it got more complaints from drivers about Georgia than any other state.

Tray of Varied Cheeses Has Snack-Time Appeal

There is only one school of thought in most families concerning snacks. They like them! Any time is a good time for a snack. Favorite of all favorites are the many exciting cheeses available in the stores nowadays.

A cheese snack tray is so simple for the hostess to prepare, so satisfying even to the gourmet and so attractive to the eye. The red-coated Edam, marbled bleu, yellow cheddar and pale Swiss complement one another with their differences in texture and color.

This combination of cheeses includes the delicate and robustly flavored varieties destined to enchant the novice cheese fancier or the experienced gourmet.

Which brings up another point. Snack trays of zippy cheeses, salty crackers and rye bread circles, served with tall glasses of cold beverage, are appropriate party fare in any circle.

And to add a further epicurean touch, bring out a bowl of fresh fruit—apples or pears are especially fitting.

One small tip to keep in mind when serving cheese and crackers is to make certain your crackers are crisp and, if possible, warm.

Tuck them in the oven for a quick warm-up before serving. This will net you a gold star from those who ordinarily steer clear of crackers which are served in a tired, soft state.

Dish Combines 3 Fall Favorites

When days grow shorter, we look forward to evenings by the fire and dinner tables laden with plent of hearty, home-cooked meals.

Three of the finest foods for autumn serving are flavorful sauerkraut, pork and apples, for at this time of the year they're plentiful and low in price.

There's no better way of keeping the family healthy and well-fed than with wholesome, nutritious dishes combining these three food favorites.

Sauerkraut-Sausage Casserole With Applesauce

12 link sausages (about 1 pound)
4 whole cloves
1 bay leaf
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 No. 2 can sauerkraut
½ cup sour cream
Fresh or canned applesauce

In a skillet, pan-fry sausages until browned on all sides; remove sausages and reserve 3 tablespoons drippings. In the same skillet, combine sausage drippings, cloves, bay leaf, brown sugar and sauerkraut; cook covered over medium heat until liquid has evaporated.

Remove from heat and add sour cream; turn into 1-quart casserole and top with browned sausages. Bake in moderate oven (350) 20 minutes.

Serve with fresh or canned applesauce. Serves four.

They are Prince Olasupo, 25, of Lagos, Nigeria, who is studying law in London, and Edelgard Grothe, blonde daughter of a Hamlin municipal employe.

Relatives said last night that the prince heads a tribe of 70,000 Negroes in Nigeria. The couple plan to go there after he completes his studies and they are married in December. They met in England while Edelgard was on a student exchange trip.

Detroit Attorney Named

DETROIT (UP)—Probate Judge James H. Sexton Wednesday named Attorney Floyd A. Frye as referee to handle almost $300,000 in claims against the estate of the late Gov. Alex Groesbeck, who died earlier this year.

'Space' Salad Caters to Kids

If the members of the doll buggy and sandlot ball game set exhibit widespread disinterest in salads and the proteins, minerals and vitamins contained therein, listen closely.

We've an idea that works like a charm. Why? Because it reaches children where they live most of the time these days . . . in the world of space and space travel.

The secret is to turn their interest in interplanetary matters to your own advantage by enticing them with something from their make-believe world . . . like this Interplanetary Salad.

Now comes the new arrangement — and a kitchen secret to assure success. The secret is: Start the salad-making by draining both the cottage cheese and the peach halves. This insures the salad will hold its shape.

In the center of your salad plate, hide a generous mound of the cottage cheese under a peach half. Then, make a strip of cottage cheese across the peach. Finally, rim the plate with watercress. Presto! The peach half becomes the glowing planet -Saturn; the cottage cheese, Saturn's gaseous ring; the watercress, clouds darkening in the distance.

The Danish middag or dinner is eaten at 7 or 8 p.m. Often, the dessert is a fruit on rice. Another dinner favorite in Denmark, as in all the Scandinavian countries, is the cabbage roll. Wilted cabbage leaves are folded aroung a seasoned mixture of rice, meat and crumbs and then baked until tender.

INTERPLANETARY SALAD — Even if you do not own a moon-shaped dish or sprinkle the table with stars, your youngsters will say this salad is "out of this world." It's a salad that's good for them and one that will appeal to their fancy.

America's Diet Healthier Than in Prewar Years

"The national diet is a lot healthier than it was before the war, an article in a current magazine says. "The ultimate reason has been mechanization.

"The machine reduced the amount of heavy labor Americans had to perform, and so reduced the need for calories. The machine also enhanced the wealth of Americans, and gave them a chance to abandon the bulky, starchy, low-income foods.

"Per capita consumption of flour and grain products is off by 18 per cent from 1941. Potatoes and sweet potatoes are off by 23 per cent. But meat (including poultry and fish) is up 9 per cent, vegetables are up 5 per cent, eggs up 29 per cent, and dairy products (excluding butter) up 10 per cent."

While carbohydrate consumption is down 11 per cent since 1941, protein is up 2 per cent per capita, and calcium 10 per cent. But the biggest gainers have been iron, thiamine, niacin and riboviavin: per capita consumption of these is up more than 12 per cent, largely because of the bread-and-flour enrichment program.

Housewives are buying, not only more nutritious food, but all the "convenience" they can afford—and they don't blush for doing so.

"The loathing with which American women seem to regard prolonged labor in the kitchen has been often noted and much interpreted," the magazine remarks. "Europeans have linked it to the babies at an awesome rate. The squeeze between babies and job has been intensified by the gradual disappearance of domestic servants."

A nested set of cups are wonderfully handy for measuring fractions of a cup of dry ingredients or fats. A set consists of four measures of one-quarter, one-third, one-half and one cup capacities. These nested cups are usually made of aluminum or plastic.

Versatile, economical and tasty, waffles are a favorite at any meal. Serve hot and crisp with cheese sauce for lunch or supper. Try them under minced creamed ham or chicken (seasoned with monosodium glutamate).

Baked Sandwiches Offer Taste Thrill

How do you like your sandwiches—hot or cold? Try them hot this time for a special taste thrill. Combine contents two cans (2¼ ounce) deviled ham with one-half cup chopped stuffed olives, two chopped hard cooked eggs, 1 tablespoon catsup and 1 teaspoon mustard.

Slit four hamburger buns and fork out some of the soft center. Fill with prepared mixture and press two halves together. Wrap each bun in aluminum foil, sealing securely.

Lay wrapped buns on cookie sheet and bake in a slow oven (300) 15 minutes. Serve at once in foil wrappings.

If there's a small crack in a plastic food container, you can use a piece of cellophane tape to seal the crack.

Color, Texture Make Yams Appeal to Most

Because yams cook moist and tender, they are among the most versatile of vegetables.

Baked, broiled or fried, they can be varied endlessly with different seasonings or combined with numerous other foods.

Because of their moisture content yams cook more rapidly than other root vegetables, which makes them ideal for last-minute meals.

Little preparation time is needed for many yam dishes.

Their color lends appetite appeal to any meal, and their mellow flavor blends readily with endless foods for new taste treats.

Everybody knows about peas and carrots as a combination dish, for a delightful change, try carrots and snap beans, with lots of butter.

Travelers Find Changing Africa

Dark Continent in Midst of Transition to Modern Way of Life

WASHINGTON— Africa's jungle drums still throb, but they are heard today by peoples in the midst of change.

Continent in transition, land of new consciousness — this is the Africa described by an observant world traveler, Elsie May Bell Grosvenor, daughter of Alexander Graham Bell and wife of the president of the National Geographic Society, Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor.

Mrs. Grosvenor recently made a 30,000-mile, three-month safari through changing Africa with her husband.

Although the Grosvenors had been to Africa before, the countries they saw now seemed far different. Gone are slaves, medicine men and Zulu wars. In their place are jeeps and trucks, hydroelectric plants, modern hospitals and schools—and Africans learning to govern themselves.

Scientists battle the scourge of the tsetse fly that for generations has devastated vast regions of Africa with the terror of sleeping sickness. In Nigeria, Mrs. Grosvenor talked with men who have cleared hundreds of square miles of this human and animal plague.

Africa's women, long secluded in their homes, are venturing out to serve as nurses in missionary hospitals. Girls are allowed to attend schools.

Johannesburg, Africa's largest city south of the Sahara, did not even exist 70 years ago.

TOWERING TROUBLE—Pedestrians seemed to be enjoying themselves, but it was a difficult job for the skilled workers who had to measure tight corners before moving this 80-ton, 102-foot fractionating tower across London, England's narrow streets. From the steelworks at Greenwich, the tower was moved via the Lambeth Bridge and North Circular Road to an oil company refinery at Coryton, Essex.

Primitive Cures Help Medicine

Scientists Find Many Ancient Remedies Still Work Today

WASHINGTON — Far-off lands and the "superstitions" of primitive tribes still are important contributors to the medicines of modern science.

Into the warehouses of huge pharmaceutical firms come not only basic chemicals to be compounded into today's exact prescriptions and drugs, but also tons of strange, exotic plant materials from the world around.

One company reports it uses 140 different types of medicinal plants. Crude drugs arrive in paper-and-varnish containers from the Orient and in woven baskets from the tropics.

The science that deals with the history, collections, identification and use of drug plants is known as pharmacognosy. It is as old as medicine itself.

Priest-doctors of Assyria knew the use of several hundred plant remedies. They treated wounds with sea kelp and goiter with burnt sponge, both rich in iodine and used for the same purposes today.

In the Middle Ages arose the so-called "doctrine of signatures," a belief that nature gives clues to its plant remedies for man's ailments. Hepatica, for example, had liver-shaped leaves; therefore it was believed to be a liver remedy. The walnut was used as a brain medicine, bloodroot as a blood tonic.

Shy, Short-Tailed Albatross Seen No More in Pacific

WASHINGTON — The short-tailed albatross of the Pacific Ocean may have followed the dodo, the great auk and the Labrador duck into extinction.

The short-tailed or Steller's albatross (diomedea albatrus) was the largest and handsomest of the three Pacific albatrosses, says the National Geographic Society.

Steller's was not the wandering albatross of the Southern ocean, which likes to follow ships, but a shy bird going its windswept way from the South China coast to Kamchatka, from the Bering Sea to Lower California.

First described by an ornithologist in 1780, it nested in numbers in the northern Boin Islands, the southern Izus and southern Ryukyus — all islands off the coast of Japan. Then came the world feather trade, starting about 1885, which cost America its white egret.

Hunters, mostly Japanese, started a persecution of the big white bird which ended at last in January, 1933, with ruthless slaughter of 3,000 Steller's albatrosses on volcanic Tori Shima, between the Bonins and the Japanese home islands.

Wiped out in anticipation of a Japanese law to save them, these birds were the last known definitely to exist.

Several times since that massacre, mariners have reported seeing lone Steller's albatrosses at sea. The latest report came in [illegible] from scientists aboard the British oceanographic survey ship Challenger, which discovered the record 35,640-foot Challenger Depth southwest of Guam.

But unfortunately Steller's resembles the other two Pacific albatrosses. Adults look like the fairly common Laysan albatross, the young resemble the black-footed albatross. Without an actual specimin to back it up, not even an expert's sighting can be regarded as scientific evidence — and no specimen has been taken since 1933.

A wildlife expert with the American occupation forces in Japan made a determined search for Steller's in its nesting islands, but found not a single bird or egg.

Regretfully, science is ready to conclude that if anyone has seen a Steller's at sea since 1933, the bird was an elderly individual, too old to breed, living out its last days in hopeless loneliness.

There is a possibility that, as in the case of New Zealand's chickenlike takahe, the species may rise again from the progeny of a few pairs still nesting in some out-of-the-way place.

The trouble with this hope is that Steller's bred only in a limited, well explored area. And this area swarms with Japanese, Okinawan and Chinese fishermen who will land and hunt down for food any big bird they may see on islands they pass.

Shy at sea, Steller's albatross was tame and stupid on the nesting grounds. A hunter could club several hundred a day on their nests, built on the ground.

Eggs frequently were left to spoil and chicks to starve. If the bird did try to fly away, hunters could easily catch it while making the long run needed for its takeoff.

Steller's hatched only a single chick at a time. Insect parasites and crows often killed the little ones. Even grown birds occasionally perished if they landed in a valley or depression where there was no room for a takeoff run.

But ornithology's record in this tragic case is crystal clear. Man killed off the Steller's albatross, as he has exterminated so many others of the world's specialized birds.

Corn from the 1953 crop will be supported at $1.58 per bushel, or 90 per cent of parity at the beginning of the 1953 marketing year, whichever is higher.

College Employs Business Leaders to Teach School

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (INS) — Experts from leading business concerns are serving as lecturers and consultants at the new and unusual school of business administration of the University of Kansas City.

The school was launched this fall with the support of nearly 100 Kansas City business firms which sponsored an advertising program to inform the public of the school's objectives.

It features a down-to-earth approach to preparing a young person for a career in business, KCU officials said.

In addition to a four-year program leading to a bachelor's degree in business administration, a two-year course leading to a certificate in business is offered. The course has been especially planned in consultation with Kansas City businessmen.

A student who needs or prefers to work is helped in obtaining a part-time job in the type of business he's learning. Thus the student can apply the effective "learn it and do it" technique on a daily basis.

Newly apointed president of the University of Kansas City is Dr. Earl J. McGrath, former U. S. Commissioner of Education.

Predicts Engineers in Greater Demand

CLEVELAND (UP) — If American industry develops at the rate it's going today, engineering will be the field to enter for young men.

Professor Frank Carvin of Illinois Institute of Technology recently made a two-week study of what engineers do in General Motors.

During his stopover here, he said, "Industry requires one engineer for every 100 employes. But the day is approaching when manufacturers will require a trained engineer for every 50 employes."

Many companies, Carvin has found, use engineers now where they never thought of employing them before. The explanation, Carvin said, is that "production in all fields is much more scientific than it used to be."

Currently colleges in the United States are graduating about 17,000 engineers each year and industry asks for about 35,000. At one time in this country, 50,000 engineers were graduated annually, he said.

Tennessee Police Chief Remembered His Youth

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—Police Chief Joe Kimsey, hurrying to an important raid, got caught behind a car creeping forward at five miles per hour.

"I couldn't see any violation of the law," the chief said.

Tipsy Rider's Horse Settles Ticket Question

IRONTON, Ohio (UP) — Can a man be accused of drunk driving when he's on horseback? A police car chased a tipsy driver and his steed the other night. Just as the officer cornered his quarry with the time-honored, "Pull over to the curb," the thought occurred to him:

"What can I charge the guy with?"

And, while he pondered, the frisky horse cantered off, his rider bobbing in the saddle.

Camels Bring Money to Oasis

Algerian Village Gains Prosperity With Rides for Tourists

WASHINGTON—For their newfound prosperity, inhabitants of the desert oasis of Bou Saada in Algeria credit an old friend—the camel.

The upsurge in tourist trade in this northern Sahara village, 155 miles south of Algiers, began seven years ago when enterprising Arab innkeepers took the camel out of the caravan and put it under the visitor.

Bou Saada's population has since risen from 4,000 to 10,000. Four new hotels have been built. Tri-weekly flights from Paris to the nearby Biskra airfield are filled.

It costs $2 per day to hire a camel at Bou Saada. The fee includes instruction in the techniques of mounting and dismounting and the services of a guide. The latter's duties are twofold: To keep camels awake and to prevent picnickers from getting lost in the dunes.

In the evening, when Bou Saada's "ships of the desert" are bedded down in their stables, vacationers feast at a diffa—an Arab banquet—or watch the Ouled Nails dancing girls.

Like all oases, Bou Baada owes its existence to the water which flows from a series of springs on the western rim of the village. Using an intricate network of dams and ditches, the Arabs have been able to wrest some 4,000 acres of fertile land from the desert.

Truck gardens carpet shaded plots beneath the palms. Apple, almond and pear orchards thrive. The town is the market center of an area larger than the eastern shore of Maryland.

Sand, not heat, is the scourge of Bou Saada. Tons of it have been blown from a nearby range of dunes into the northern edge of the village. Residents fear that some day the shifting sands may choke the springs and wipe out the entire oasis.

Siren Scares Ducks OK, but Pity Cows and Hens

VULCAN, Alta (UP) — The National Research Council has set up a siren in a nearby field in an attempt to rid farmers of grain-consuming ducks. But the experimenters are dubious of the effect of the high-pitched device, called "Screaming Memie."

When they tried it near Kindersley, Sask., it scared 90 per cent of the ducks, but "dried up the cows and the hens stopped laying," said E. L. Paynter, Saskatchewan game commissioner.

4 Living Natives of 'Lost Tribe' Found in Africa

CAPETOWN, South Africa (INS)—An American explorer, Colonel William J. Morden, has found in South West Africa what are believed to be the four last "Strandlopers" in the world—survivors of a mysterious African people as tiny as Bushmen.

Colonel Morden, leader of the Africa expedition of the American Natural History Museum, said in Windhoek, capital of South West Africa, that in the desert they found three old men and an even older woman who are believed to be the only pure "Standlopers" (People who run on the sands) alive today.

The Strandlopers are believed to have come up the coast from the Cape. These four "lost people" have intermarried and have no descendents.

Asked how old she was, the woman told Colonel Morden she was "the oldest person alive."

"The amazing thing about them," said Colonel Morden, "is that their hearts can distinctly be seen beating." The reason given by the expedition's doctor is that the bone structure on their chests is very thin.

"All four are emaciated," said Colonel Morden. "The Strandlopers, who have become a legend in South Africa history, are short people with coloring similar to Bushmen. But they have finer features."

Bobo Can Smile Again

Kids' Circus Gives Famed Clown New Inspiration

By MARY KAY FLYNN

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (NEA) — There's a real life smile once again under the grease-paint grin on the face of Bobo, the clown.

Until a group of Hutchinson Cub Scouts took over, 61-year-old Bobo (Clinton Floyd Kocher) was out of character — a very sad laugh-maker.

For 14 years Bobo was one of P. T. Barnum's top clowns. Then he hit the bottle—and after that, the skids. Five years ago he put himself "in the hands of the Lord and Alcoholics Anonymous."

Then he started the road back. It almost proved too bumpy until the youngsters took over and gave him new hope and courage, along with a grubstake for a comeback in show business.

"It's shameful the way I wasted my life," Bobo laments. "Now I want to get back and make up for those lost years—I'd like to make people happy."

While recuperating from his prolonged bout with the bottle, Bobo fashioned a successful animal-clown act featuring trained dogs, horned toads and bullfrogs. Three years ago his trailer, with the animals in it, burned. Only one dog, Nina May, survived.

After that, Bobo, Nina May and a newly acquired poodle hit the road, playing March of Dimes benefits for peanuts. The poodle eventually was traded for an old car for the trip to Pratt County, Kan., where Bobo spent his boyhood until he ran away and hooked up with a carnival at the age of 12.

In Hutchinson, Bobo tried in vain to get a job as a farm hand. That's where the Cub Scouts came in. They decided to stage a benefit circus — "the greatest show on earth" — on the lawn of their den mother's home for the nice, sad clown.

The kids didn't quite understand how a rollicking clown could have trouble. But they knew how it felt to have a skinned knee and Bobo, they had heard, "had a bad fall" but was picking himself up without a tear on his jolly face.

Ninety-four children, some with their parents, came to Bobo's benefit circus. It was the lollipop set's version of the real thing.

An arch of blankets formed the "tent" entrance; the aisle was roped off with garden hose, wrapped in crepe paper, and a string of Christmas lights hung over the brick patio where Bobo and Nina May performed.

The sideshows featured "wild animals." A pet kitten was billed as the "Wild Cat from Borneo." A bantam rooster was the "Bird of Paradise." A caged frankfurter and lemonade as Bobo, in his maswas the "Hairless Dog." And a big mirror reflected peering "Wild Baboons."

Hawkers sold popcorn, candy roon and chartreuse clown suit, entertained in the "center ring." At one point, Nina May, after doing tricks and sitting on Bobo's head, went out in the audience and licked nearly everybody's face.

When it was all over, Bobo had $34 to tide him over between television, private party and public events engagements he hopes to land.

"I could cry for joy at what those little shavers have done for me," Bobo said, and you could hear his voice quiver. "In my drinking days I used to think the world owed me a living.

Fugitive Phones Police and Gets Quick Answer

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — An 18-year-old Dallas, Texas fugitive, wanted on suspicion of several burglaries, called the local police to see if anyone wanted him for arrest.

Assured that he was wanted, the young man put the receiver back on the hook opened the telephone booth door to leave. On hand to greet him were two detectives—with handcuffs.

More dirt has been moved to bury pipe lines, most of which carry oil or its products, than that required to dig all the canals used since the beginning of time.

Unethical Crook

MOBRIDGE, S. D. (UP)—Officers here would like to get their hands on a "double-dealing" thief. They are looking for a man who stole a $65 set of stainless steel cooking utensils from a local cafe, sold the set to a tavern for $30, and then broke into the tavern and re-stole it.

Illiteracy in Yugoslavia Criticized by Newspaper

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslavia's educational system is drawing down sharp criticism here as a result of this year's census showing that approximately 25 per cent of the population still cannot read or write.

The Communist newspaper "Borba," voice of President Josip Broz Tito's government, termed the finding "highly unsatisfactory," and noted that the present literacy figure of 75.1 per cent was only about 0.5 less than five years ago despite a mass education drive.

The Amazon river system is the world's largest.

A Good Student

STURGIS, Mich. (UP) — When Vernon Le Fevre of Hartford, Ind., goes to a lecture, he apparently listens and learns. Le Fevre attended a rotary meeting at which an expert fisherman explained how to catch the big ones. Le Fevre hustled out to Palmer Lake and hooked a five-pound, two-ounce, big mouth bass several hours later.

Practical Pastor Sells Kitchenware on Side

GEARY, Okla. (AP) — The Rev. Richard Daetwiler, pastor of the Geary Christian Church and a student at Phillips University at Enid, supplements his ministerial income by selling sets of kitchenware.

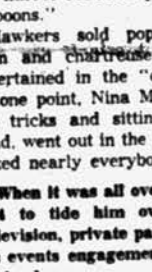

When he makes a sale to a bride-to-be, he throws in a bonus —an offer to perform the wedding without charge.

More Than One Way . . .

PROSPECT PARK, N. J. (UP) —North Jersey volunteer firemen scheduled their annual convention in this community and then discovered a local ordinance prevented them from selling beer. Undaunted, the firemen gave the beer away free—to all who bought glasses to hold it at 50 cents apiece.

She Fails Geography After 6 World Trips

SYDNEY (AP) — Eight-year-old Jean Palmer, of Melbourne, left Sydney in July on her sixth round-the-world tour. Her father, George F. Palmer, is director of a Melbourne travel agency.

Jean has spent only about 18 months at home in the past five years. In those years she has traveled about 200,000 miles by ship. With her parents she has been to the West Indies, the United States, Britain, Europe, Egypt, Hong Kong and Japan and has just completed a holiday in Tahiti.

Her father said Jean takes correspondence lessons from a Melbourne school while she is away. She recently passed an examination in all but one subject — geography.

Say Excise Tax Should Remain

Republican, Democrat See Need for the Billion Dollar Revenue

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Republican and a Democrat on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee agreed today that Congress should cancel a one billion dollar cut in excise taxes now set for April 1.

Present laws call for automatic reductions then from peak rates, imposed after the Korean War started, on automobiles, cigarettes, gasoline, sporting goods, liquor, wine and beer.

Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa) said he didn't see how these cuts could be permitted in view of the need for revenue at least to approach a balanced federal budget.

* * *

Rep Hale K. Boggs (D-La), in a separate interview, took a similar stand. Boggs predicted that many Democrats, although frequently opposed to excise or sales taxes, would go along.

President Eisenhower already has urged Congress to cancel the reductions, pending a promised general excise tax revision proposal, but Congress took no action this year.

Simpson said his political pulse-taking through Midwestern and Northwestern states over the past five weeks has convinced him taxpayers will be relatively pleased with two reductions now set for Jan. 1 and will not be upset by continued high excise rates.

* * *

The reductions scheduled Jan. 1 are an average 10 per cent cut in individual income tax rates, and expiration of the excess profits tax on corporations. They would cost an estimated five billion dollars annually in revenue.

Buys Car, Then License, Gets Caught, Stores Car

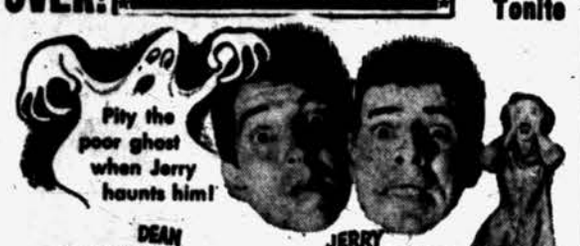

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Last week Hoyle Smith bought a car. This week, he decided he needed a drivers' license.

On the way to highway patrol headquarters he was arrested for driving without a license. Afterward, he flunked the test.

Yesterday, he was fined $6 for not having the license.

"I'm locking that car up in the garage and leaving it there," he disgustedly told Police Judge James Demopolos.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When will you be seeing color TV in your living room?

A lucky few will get it next year. Most of us will have to wait until 1955 or later.

"We expect there will be between 50,000 and 75,000 color sets in operation by the end of 1954," says Barry Wood, color coordinator for NBC-TV.

"After that, it will be up to the manufacturers. There are 270 makers of sets in this country, and 70 tube manufacturers. If they go together on production, there's no telling how fast the sets could be turned out."

What will it cost you to convert to color?

Opinions on this vary. Wood reported that the current cost of a color set is between $800 and $1,000 for a 14-inch screen. However, CBS has announced that by 1955 it will be producing a color tube costing only 30 per cent more than the black-and-white kind.

The fact remains that we will have a considerable wait before we are dazzled by color on the home screen.

But the networks aren't waiting. CBS had a demonstration of its new color equipment in New York last week. The network has been broadcasting color on an experimental basis since Sept. 10.

Barry Wood, onetime "Hit Parade" singer (remember his "Any Bonds Today?"), told me some of NBC's activities in color. He was here to arrange for the color premieres of the network's top shows, plus Pasadena's Tournament of Roses, which gets a full-hued telecast Jan. 1.

"Our first color show will be 'Carmen' on the NBC opera Oct. 31," he reported. "After that, each of our shows will receive one color telecast during the season. In that way, the personnel on each show will be trained for color and will be ready for the conversion when it comes."

I asked him what was required for the switch to color.

"The cameras and other equipment have to be changed," he replied. "The lighting has to be re-rigged; color requires more lights. The actors use a lighter kind of makeup.

"As far as the sets and costumes are concerned, there is no limitation, except for the artistic use of color. All colors must be tested so that they blend artisticaly and do not clash with the dramatic purpose.

"For many shows, this presents no problem. 'Your Show of Shows,' for example, could go into color tomorrow. The sets and costumes have always been put together like a Broadway show, with an eye for design."

The new era has meant a conversion for NBA personnel, he added. Executives and production workers were required to take color perception tests, the same as Air force candidates.

"I'll admit I was scared, but I passed," he reported. "Out of 200 who took the test, only two were doubtful. Luckily, they were in capacities where it didn't matter."

The color on TV is true, he explained. "You know how you take home movies and the sky turns out to be bluer than it actually is?" Wood said. "That doesn't happen on TV. The blue is the exact color of the sky."

Does he foresee a time when all TV is in color?

"That's hard to say. TV may turn out to be like the movies. Some movies are in color, some aren't. The public doesn't seem to object to seeing black-and-white movies if they're good."

I wanted to know just one more thing: Why did he quit singing?

"Five years ago, I decided I found the production end much more interesting. I couldn't do both, so I gave up singing.'

Asians in Soviet Area Marvel to See Foreigners

MOSCOW (AP)—In ancient cities that knew Ghengis Khan, the Soviet kids are going down the streets screaming shrill sounds.

"They drive me nuts," said the hotel manager and leading citizen in Bukhara to a recent party of British and Australian visitors admitted to that long-closed central Asian city.

"It's that Tarzan yell," he explained. "This place hasn't been the same since those Johnny Weissmuller Tarzan films came to town."

* * *

In the vast recesses of Soviet central Asia Dwight Eisenhower, Winston Churchill and Harry Truman are names known to few. But now this area has been opened to travel for foreign diplomats and correspondents residing in Moscow.

It is turning out to be a vast experience for both the traveler and the native. The foreign travelers shoot out by car, train or plane. Invariably they return telling about the hospitality accorded them by the natives. In some places foreigners are welcomed like men from Mars, they haven't been seen in so long a time.

* * *

In the Ukraine, also, American travelers report they have been welcomed with open arms.

"You say you are an American?" a taxi driver in Kiev recently said to a visitor. "No kidding?"

At another point in the Ukraine —on a country road, many miles from a city—a policeman stopped an American's car.

"What do you want?" said the American's Russian chauffeur.

"Nothing," replied the cop. "Only wanted to look at your car. Haven't seen one like that before. Have a good trip."

Powder Plant Explosion Kills Two in Illinois

EAST ALTON, Ill. (AP)—An explosion at the isolated smokeless powder processing plant of Olin Industries killed two workmen and injured a third here last night. The blast was felt more than five miles away.

Olin officials, who were unable to explain the explosion, identified the dead as Lee H. Heidinger, 32, of Gillespie, Ill., and Floyd H. Chamness, 51, of Bethalto, Ill.

William E. Perrin, 38, of Alton, a laboratory technician, was hospitalized with severe shock.

The Panama Canal was completed in 1914 under direction of Army Major General (then Colonel) George Washington Goethals.

Hal Boyle Says:

Middle Age Is Good Time to Take Ambition Check

NEW YORK (AP)—Middle age is the best time to check up on your ambitions.

Your goal no longer then should be to step up the tempo of living to achieve the unrealized ambition of your youth, but to discard and throw away those you no longer need to make you happy.

An ambition that may be a helpful spur to you at 20 may at 40 just be an unnecessary hotfoot.

Why moan because you have been able to climb only half way up the ladder of success? A goal half gained is generally more real pleasure than a goal won. You have some progress behind you, and some to look forward to.

But the guy who has reached the top of the ladder in middle age can't pause to admire the view, as you can. Too many people are clawing at his legs, trying to pull him from his perch. If you have a comfortable niche on the ladder, the sensible ambition to have is to keep your hold and not be hit and knocked loose by the guy at the top when he is struck by lightning and falls off.

Ambition rarely is given to anybody in just the right quantity and quality. If you have too little you are a bum in the world's eyes. If you have too much, you may turn out to be another Napoleon or Hitler. The wrong kind of ambition has killed more people than the Black Plague.

Just as a man changes the kind of motor oil in his automobile at the advent of bitter weather, so should he begin to winterize his way of life in early middle age. If he tries at two and forty to live by the same ambitions he had at two and twenty he is bound to get a knock in his motor.

In boyhood a fellow may decide life will hold no meaning unless he marries the prettiest girl in town and makes a million dollars. Suppose he does. He must learn in middle age to face the dismaying truth that beauty wanes, and so has the value of a million bucks today.

Or suppose he doesn't have that million bucks in the till until he is 45, and then goes ahead and woos and weds the new prettiest girl in town. An ambition he should have shed. The prospect is he may have to spend most of the million bucks trying to please the girl, and end up minus both girl and money.

Subtly and unconsciously, the ambitions of most people change of their own accord as they grow older. When young, they fret about the things they want to get and don't have, such as fame, fortune and a more glamorous address. As they age they worry more about what they have got and don't want — ulcers, gallstones, fallen arches, a bilious taste in the morning, or maybe a wayward child.

The final ambition of many old people, of course, is simply the desire to endure and survive. They derive even a wistful satisfaction on reading the obituary of a lifelong acquaintance, merely because they have outlived him.

But middle age is the proper period to check over your list of unsatisfied ambitions, and deliberately weed out the ones that really are more of a nuisance than they are a help. You may be surprised to find that actually your biggest ambitions no longer are to do something you never did get to do, but to be able to do some of the things you used to and no longer can.

I have just finished overhauling my own ambitions and have reduced them to three:

(1) To learn to sew on a button, and thus become fully emancipated from womankind at last.

(2) To look at a long flight of stairs, and feel (mind you, with no intention of doing it!)—just feel again like running up them two steps at a time.

(3) To comb my hair and catch the comb in a stubborn tangle. I haven't had this feeling for 15 years, and I suppose I never will unless I buy a toupee.

What do you have left on your secret list of ambitions?

Latin American Music Banned by China Reds

HONG KONG (AP) — As far as the cats are concerned, those Chinese Communists must be the least to say the most — real squares.

A traveler said the Communists in Shanghai have prohibited Latin American music and improvisation — two beat, bop or any other kind.

He said the Latin American music is called "yellow" because of the body movement (he couldn't understand their reasoning, either) and said the Reds term ad libbing "immoral."

Charge Nurse in Theft of Narcotics Capsules

ESCANABA (UP) — A 26-year-old nurse at St. Francis Hospital was awaiting circuit court trial today on charges she obtained narcotics by substituting harmless pills for 21 capsules of morphine.

Fannie Dale Smythe, employed at the hospital four years, was arraigned before Justice Henry Ranguette Wednesday and bound over to circuit court for trial. Police said the switch of pills for morphine was discovered when a doctor noticed his patient failed to react to treatment.

Plane Passenger Stricken En Route

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP) — A Northwest Airlines passenger, removed from the plane after an emergency landing here Wednesday, was pronounced dead on entrance at St. Francis Hospital.

He was identified by hospital attendants as Leonard Buckler, 30, of Flint, Mich.

Airline officials said Buckler boarded the plane at Chicago. He was taken ill on the flight to Minneapolis and arrangements were made by radio to land here. A fire department rescue squad met the plane, administered oxygen and took Buckler to the hospital.

There was no medical diagnosis of cause of death, but hospital attendants said Buckler apparently had suffered a heart attack.

Mountain Top Yields Cool Supply of Water

LINVILLE, N. C. (UP) — Tourists who manage to get to the top of mile-high Grandfather Mountain near here will find a fresh, cold well in the solid granite.

Howard Carpenter was hired to drill a well on top of the mountain even though he thought it was hopeless. He drilled for four months through the granite and decided to give up when he got to the 451-foot level.

In a last gesture, however, Carpenter dropped three cases of dynamite down the hole as a "good-bye kiss." The explosive produced a stream of clear cold water.

Despite Indications, Tito Bidding for Time, Not War

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor

Despite the sword rattling by Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito, there is no real indication he expects to go to war over Trieste.

And the fact that, for the present at least, the United States and Britain are standing quietly firm in their announced intention to turn their zone of disputed Trieste over to Italy, indicates that they also expect the present clouds to blow over like a summer storm.

Tito's immediate intent apparently is to fight a delaying action.

Thus his move to inject the dispute into the United Nations, and his demand for a four-power conference among the United States, Britain, Italy and Yugoslavia.

Either event would give him valuable time—to get the United States and Britain to change their minds or for him to prepare Yugoslav opinion for the next step, which in the end might very well be approval of the Allied Plan.

For, as regards Trieste, and despite the vehemence of his protests, Tito himself walks on shaky ground.

The Trieste situation has many wheels within wheels.

From the middle of the 14th century until the end of the World War I, Trieste was controlled by Austria and was land-locked Austria's principal outlet to the sea.

Italy took it over in 1919 and controlled it between wars.

However, the Italian peace treaty signed by the United States, Britain, France and Russia provided that Trieste should be set up as a free territory.

Until the free territoy should be set up, the United States and Britain were to administer "Zone A", including the port of Trieste, and Yugoslavia to administer "Zone B."

Of the two, "Zone A" is largely commercial and is inhabited by 250,000 Italians and 50,000 Slovenes. "Zone B," while the larger of the two, is primarily agricultural and is inhabited by 80,000 Slovenes and 20,000 Italians.

In any event, the U. S. and Britain, and Yugoslavia, simply were caretakers until the free territory could be set up.

Meanwhile, however, came the long series of disputes between Italy and Yugoslavia, beginning with their failure to agree on a governor for the free territory.

At the same time, came the absorption of "Zone B" by Yugoslavia, including a gradual exodus tribution of Yugoslav currency in the area and the imposition of Yugoslav laws.

The United States and Britain, too, were busily muddying the issue.

In 1948, they declared the idea of a free territory unworkable and declared themselves in favor of turning the whole area over to Italy. This was at a time when we were intent on defeat of the Communists in the Italian elections.

Back of the present move is the hope to swing Italian approval of the European Army.

Only quiet place today is Trieste's "Zone A." Trieste, once one of the world's great ports, now seems destined to go to sleep. And destined to go to sleep. And its its inhabitants are wondering how they'll earn their living once the American and British troops depart.

Fire Prevention Squad Comprised of One Dog

EMPIRE, Ore. (AP) — Rusty, a cocker spaniel owned by Warren Murphy of Empire is a dog-goned good substitute for a fire prevention crew.

You can't drop a lighted cigarette or cigar and walk away when Rusty is around. Murphy has trained the dog to combat such carelessness, and he does it effectively if sometimes perilously.

The dog will immediately pounce on the stub and bat it with its forepaws. If that doesn't extinguish the stub, Rusty then rolls on it, picks it up in his mouth and, after proper saliva treatment, spits it out.

EYE FIRST WIN—Walled Lake has yet to win a football game this season, in fact, the Vikings haven't scored a point, but their spirits remain high as the Lakers shoot for an upset of title-contender Southfield in an Inter-Lakes Conference game Friday. Coach Tom Evans is shown with four veterans of his 1952 team. From left are center Bob Andrews, guard Bill Burmeister, Evans, fullback Dick Bachmann and quarterback Mike Ryan. Burmeister suffered a broken ankle in the first quarter of the season opener against Redford Union. Cast has been removed and he is expected to return for the Farmington game, Oct. 23.

Bay City Central, host to Pontiac High in Friday night's only Saginaw Valley Conference game, will go into the contest holding three big "sticks" over the Chiefs' heads:

1. A 4-game undefeated, untied and unscored-on streak.

2. One of the nation's biggest high school lines.

3. The psychological edge accorded a defending conference champion.

Wolves have piled up 138 points in blanking four straight foes, and have outgained the opposition in over-all offensive yards, 1,732 to 637.

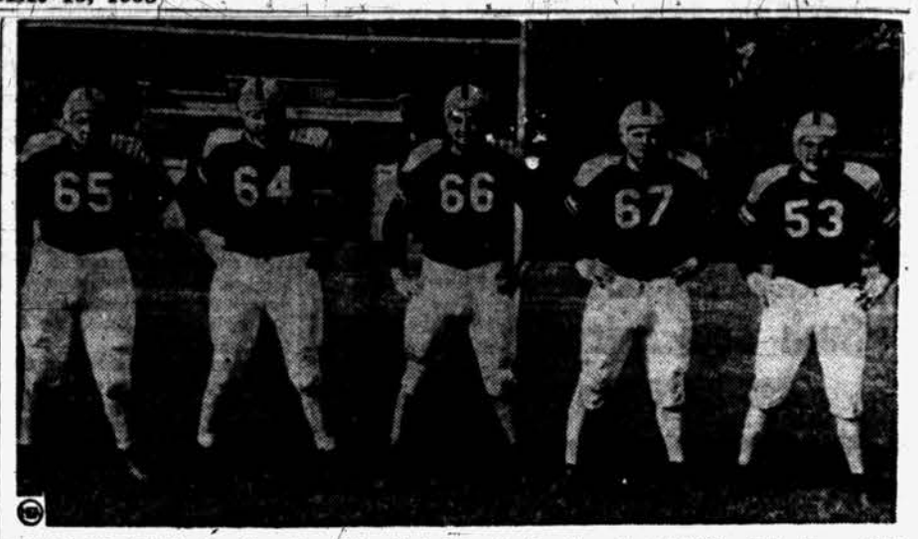

Leading ground-gainers in the Central steamroller attack have been alternating fullbacks Paul Drzyzga and Bill Herber. They also are the team's leading scorers with six touchdowns apiece.

Coach Elmer Engel's huge line, anchored by 1952 All-Valley tackle Jim Howse, averages from 195 to 223 pounds per man, depending upon the offensive and defensive alignments. Biggest man on the team is 255-pound Melvin Roe, who alternates with LaVern Roseberry, a "little" 210-pounder, at defensive guard.

Chuck Cowan, a 6 foot 4 end, is another standout performer on the Central line. He was named to the all-conference defensive last season.

Pontiac, led by halfback Jimmy Williams, who has averaged 7.7 yards per try in 26 plays this season, will have an advantage in speed over the big Wolves. Fullback Coley Gracey, another speedster, halfback Bill Rose and guard Ed Shaw still are on the injured list and may not be ready to go Friday.

Chiefs took advantage of the 2-day layoff from classes for Teachers Institute meetings to hold an early afternoon workout today. Coach Ed Graybiel sent his charges through only light drills to avoid more injuries.

Tradition-Rich Battle in Dixie TV Fans' Treat

Alabama Is 13-Point Pick Over Tennessee in 36th Meeting

By BOB HOOBING

NEW YORK (AP) — The Alabama-Tennessee game, traditional battle of Dixie's finest, is expected to give a nationwide television audience a glimpse of the blood and thunder football for which the series is famous.

Saturday's 36th meeting of these bitter rivals may not live up to the name of the bowl maker usually associated with the contest for Tennessee has won only one of three games and Alabama is off to a slow start. But its deep-rooted history always seems to fire its participants for a dynamic struggle.

• • •

Alabama, with sophomore quarterback Bart Starr's passing improving steadily, is a 13-point favorite in the latest edition of the series which his team leads 17 to 14. Four games have ended in ties.

• • •

Harvie Robinson hopes his first year facing Alabama as Tennessee's head coach won't be as unsuccessful as his first year as a Vol player back in 1930. Alabama won that bone-crusher 18-6 to snap a Tennessee defeatless string at 33 games.

Alabama stands to gain or lose the most in the game this year because it still is undefeated in Southeastern Conference play. However, it isn't any consolation to the Tidemen that the series is a graveyard of the favorite's aspirations.

• • •

The game is one of personal triumphs too. And Kozar, subbing for the injured Dick Ernsberger, bent and broke the 'Bama line for two touchdowns—the last with just two minutes remaining—to give the Vols a 14-9 victory before 50,000 limp onlookers at Knoxville in 1950.

• • •

Jimmy Wade, once stand-in now a regular, is the hope of Tennessee fans to lead an upset bid this year.

Illinois Eleven Takes Big 10 Statistical Lead

Caroline Tops Loop in Rushing; Bolden and Borton Other Leaders

CHICAGO (AP)—Illinois is off and running for the Big Ten statistical championship.

With J. C. Caroline leading the league in rushing with 192 yards in one conference game, Illinois has a total offense record of 447.

Michigan State, however, has an impressive average of 324.5 yards gained in two conference games. It remains to be seen if Illinois, with Caroline and Mickey Bates doing the churning, can maintain such a torrid pace against Minnesota Saturday.

Leading Michigan State's offense is Leroy Bolden with a rushing average in two games of 8 yards per play. Caroline also has an 8-yard average.

Ohio State's John Borton is ranked the No. 1 passer. He has 18 completions in 31 tosses in two league games for 221 yards.

Tops on defense is Michigan State, holding opponents to an average of 139 yards gained per game.

Rock Says Philadelphia Slugger Probably Will Be Next Opponent

By ROBERT HUNT

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Dan Bucceroni, a rough, free-swinging bout with rapid-fire Jimmy Slade behind him, now is looking forward with keener ambition to a possible first-of-the-year fight with heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano.

Is the Philadelphia butcher boy, who had to scrap to win a unanimous 10-round decision over Slade last night at the St. Louis Arena, ready for Rocky?

"Yeah!" says Danny.

• • •

Marciano, at ringside during the nationally televised bout while waiting to referee a co-feature 10-round match, said he thinks Bucceroni probably will be his next opponent.

• • •

"I think he's a good puncher," said Marciano, "and it looks like he takes a good wallop too."

But beyond that, the Rock didn't seem overly impressed with Bucceroni, who now has won 44 of his 47 bouts.

His victory over Slade, while unanimous, hinged on a fourth-round knockdown that had the 26-year-old New York Negro on the mat for a count of nine.

Both judges and the referee turned in cards that showed Danny won the decision with a combination left hook and rousing right to the head that floored Slade in the only knockdown of the fight.

Referee Dick Young and Judge Howard Hess scored it 51-49. Judge Fred Connell gave it to Bucceroni, 54-46.

• • •

Slade, normally a light-heavy, weighed in at 177, while Bucceroni, fighting below his usual weight, was 189.

• • •

Slade swarmed in throughout the fight, continually annoying Bucceroni, who wanted to fight from long range. Several times Slade caught Bucceroni against the ropes, bopping Danny's head from side to side with chopping rights and lefts.

Entry Fee in '500' Is Raised

Some Ticket Prices Upped; New Ventilation Check Planned

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)— Indianapolis Motor Speedway today upped the entry fee for the annual 500-mile auto race next May 30 from $250 to $500 and raised some ticket prices.

The fee listed on entry blanks mailed today will go into the prize fund. The speedway didn't say so but it was rumored it wants to squeese out some elderly race cars which just clutter up the grounds.

Most seat prices were unchanged but some were increased from $6.25 to $7.50 and others from $12 to $15. Seats in the new grandstand now under construction will be $15 on the lower level and $30 on the upper deck.

The speedway announced all cars will be inspected for adequate ventilation, a new rule apparently resulting from heat exhaustion death of Carl Scarborough in the 1953 race.

Speedway president Wilbur Shaw said rookie drivers next year must take a 100-mile test at speeds up to 125 miles an hour, 5 miles faster than this year.

Shoemaker to Ride Eight Mounts Today

ALBANY, Calif. (AP)—Willie Shoemaker has eight chances today to tie or break Tony Despirito's 1952 record of riding 390 winning horses in one year.

To the disappointment of 7,815 cash customers and scores of newsmen, photographers and television cameraman, Silent Shoes was shut out in his six rides yesterday. He had three seconds and three thirds.

Oakland B Tilts in Spotlight

By JACK SAYLOR

Prep football spotlight in the Oakland County area shifts to the Oakland B Conference Friday with two key games on tap.

Roseville, with its three-year victory string in the league finally snapped, entertains a hot-and cold Avondale eleven. Troy, which pushed its way into title contention last week, meets Fitzgerald.

Fitzgerald, coached by venerable Paul Smarks, currently holds the lead with wins in both its league games. Troy's record is 1-1 on its upset win over Roseville and a 12-6 loss to Avondale.

Avon won its only league game, while Roseville has a 6-0 triumph over Clawson in addition to the loss to Troy.

County Class A schools also are involved in a pair of important league games. Birmingham tests Hazel Park, and Royal Oak goes to Monroe.

Royal Oak was rated a top preseason contender in the Border-Cities, but Monroe holds the lead. Hazel Park is seemingly the only Eastern Michigan League outfit with even an outside chance of derailing the Port Huron express.

Port Huron, rated the state's best by one poll, expects no trouble from East Detroit as the Big Reds seek their 24th consecutive victory.

When Mt. Clemens scored 13 points on the Hurons last week, it marked only the second time during their long streak that they have yielded more than a single touchdown in a game.

In that stretch, Port Huron has registered 11 shutouts.

Inter-Lakes co-leaders, Van Dyke and Berkley, have non-loop dates with Hamtramck and Rochester, respectively, while conference action finds Walled Lake at Southfield and Waterford at Farmington.

In the game at Berkley, Rochester will be after its 11th win in the last 13 games. Only loss in that time was a 26-6 steback at the hands of Class A Grand Haven, fourth-ranking team in the state this week. Falcons also had a 12-12 tie with Lapeer.

Romeo, plays at Lapeer, while other independents, Oxford and Lake Orion, are idle.

Keego Harbor, the county's only undefeated team, meets Brighton in the Wayne-Oakland, while Milford catches Holly on the rebound from its loss to Keego.

Versatile Stars Coming Into Own in 'New' Game

NEW YORK (AP)—Versatile football players, geared for all-around duty, have emerged on the collegiate football front once again as the result of the 1-platoon system.

Now that the 2-way player has replaced the specialist, the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau has added a new statistical category to rate a player's overall ability.

A player's "total performance" now can be evaluated by compiling his total yardage on run backs of kicks, intercepted passes and other chores in addition to standard running and passing.

No longer obscured by specialists, such all-purpose players as Southern California's Aramis Dandoy, Wyoming's Joe Mastrogiovanni, Montana's Dick Imer, UCLA's Paul Cameron, Arizona's Ken Cardella, California's Paul Larson and Texas A & M's Don Ellis rank high in the total performance column.

Dandoy and Mastrogiovanni have accounted for the most yardage, 765 each, and both also are kickers to bring each man's total of plays to 108 in four games. Dandoy has gained 440 yards on runs and passes, 14 on pass catches, 206 on punt returns, 105 on kickoff runbacks and has punted 10 times.

Mastrogiovanni, the nation's leader in standard total offense with 637 yards, has added 32 on interceptions, 31 on punt returns and 65 on kickoff returns. He has punted ten times and has booted five extra points.

Imer has compiled 683 yards, Cameron 680, Cardella, the nation's rushing leader, 665, Larson 605 and Ellis 596.

Cameron appears to be the top candidate for versatility honors. He is 5th in total offense, 6th in rushing and 6th in punt returns. His punting average of 40.2 yards per kick puts him in 16th place.

Dandoy is the country's leader in punt-runback yardage with 206. In punting, TCU's Sammy Morrow, is tops with an average of 50.1 yards per kick for eight punts, but among the more frequent booters the leader is Georgia's Zeke Bratkowski with 44.7 in 19 tries.

Other department leaders are Ken Buck of the College of Pacific with 24 pass receptions for 309 yards; Joe Ulli of San Jose State with 11 touchdowns and 66 points; Jimmy Thacker of Davidson with 204 yards in kickoff returns and Tony Branoff of Michigan and Levi Johns of LSU with four interceptions each.

'Ennis' Takes Phils for $75 in Con Game

Office Staff Falls for Phone Call from Pretender

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Somebody pretending to be Philadelphia Phillies' outfielder Del Ennis called the club office Oct. 1 and said he (Ennis) had ordered several albums of records for a wedding present.

The voice said he ordered them delivered to the Phillies office and asked the staff to pay for them. He would drop in later and repay the $75. Staff members said they'd be glad to.

A youthfull messenger delivered the records and was paid $75 from the petty cash box.

After the records lay around the office a few days, one of the staff called Ennis' North Philadelphia home and asked when he planned to pick up his package.

"You must be kidding," Ennis replied. "I didn't order any records."

"The package contained a handful of old, worthless records inserted in albums labelled "Nutcracker Suite."

Breather No Longer!

Wolfpack's Rise Based on Sound Fundamentals

(Bay City Times)

BAY CITY (AP) — Once upon a time, many high school football coaches looked upon Bay City Central as a "breather" on their schedule.

But that was once upon a time. Now, a coach considers his team fortunate if it has any "breath" at all left after a 60-minute football session with the power-packed Bay City eleven.

And these same coaches are asking themselves, "how come?"

To those who know the full story at the smallest—but winningest—school in the rugged Saginaw Valley Conference, there is a simple answer: fundamental football.

If ever a coach was a stickler for the prime requisites of the game—blocking, tackling and good ball handling—it's Central's coach Elmer Engle. Brought up in sound teachings himself under the venerable Bob Zuppke and Ray Eliot of Illinois, Engel learned his lessons well and is applying this knowledge to a team that currently has rolled up 138 points to the opposition's none while winning four straight games.

Against such top-notch foes as Muskegon Heights and Saginaw High, this is no mean accomplishment.

Bay City Central's meteroic rise under Engel has been one of the most talked about performances in state high school circles. It was only four short years ago the Wolfpack was floundering along with one victory in 27 games.

Engel's first aim was to make the sport as interesting as possible to his boys. He set up a practice schedule that was as entertaining to the players as the Friday night games themselves.

Enthusiasm has spread to the fans as well. Last fall Bay City fielded perhaps its best team and pulled some 60,000 fans. That includes 36,400 in a 7,500-seat home stadium for five games.

Bill Vukovich Enters 100-Mile AAA Race

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Bill Vukovich, winner of this year's 600 mile Indianapolis auto race today delayed retirement from racing long enough to enter a 100 mile AAA national championship circuit race here Oct. 25.

The 34 year old Fresno pilot is the 17th big car racing driver to enter the $7,500-guaranteed run on the California State Fair dirt track.

Pacer Is Winner Despite Handicap of Bad Sulky

JACKSON (AP) — Grattan Creed dragged a sulky with a partly collapsed wheel to win the Traverse City feature mile for pacers at Jackson Raceway last night.

On the first lap, Grattan Creed, owned by Mrs. P. C. Beckner of Indianapolis, collided with another horse. The 3-year-old pacer recovered and hauled the damaged sulky through the second lap to victory.

Sales of Fish Licenses Fall Short of '52 Mark

LANSING (AP)—Fish license sales in Michigan have failed to equal the 1952 mark, state conservation department reported.

It said resident licenses sales are down about two per cent from last year, 759,000 compared to 776,000.

Temporary non-resident license sales were down from 107,000 last year to 101,000 this year.

Trout stamp sales increased five per cent, however, and the sale of annual non-resident licenses rose three per cent.

Sophs Are Predominant

Listed among the 73 candidates called back for the opening of practice for the 1953 University of Michigan football squad were 29 sophomores, 26 juniors, 17 seniors and one second semester freshman.

Caro Girl Named MSC '53 Homecoming Queen

EAST LANSING (UP)—Ardeth Raymond, 20-year-old blue-eyed blonde sophomore, will reign as Michigan State's homecoming queen.

The Caro girl will be crowned by grid captain Don Dohoney in brief ceremonies preceding Michigan State's homecoming day football game Saturday against Indiana.

Piersall Drew More Fans on His Fielding Ability Than Any Slugger in '53; He Ranks With Greatest

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK—Baseball's late season brought out one feature that calls for some comment. It was the presence of a defensive outfielder whose spectacular catches attracted more fans than any slugger lured into the stands this year.

• • •

His name is Jimmy Piersall, a six-foot, 190-pound outfielder.

There have been many outfielders of great defensive ability. The list I recall starts with Turkey Mike Donlin of the Giants. Mike was also an able hitter. Turkey Mike reigned from 1905 to 1911.

• • •

The list is a long one. Tris Speaker came on in 1908 and he was probably the best. Tris could come in or go back but he was at best at shifting, often from just back of second base to deep center.

• • •

In addition to Speaker we have Joe DiMaggio and Terry Moore, who were both fine artists. But in the raw act of going after and getting a ball, we doubt that any of these were quite as eye-catching as Jimmy Piersall of the Boston Red Sox.

Casey Stengel was talking about Piersall late this fall.

"I've never seen anyone like him," Casey said. "I believe he could play the three outfields alone. I've seen him make plays that were almost unbelievable.

• • •

"I can't tell you how many doubles and triples and even home runs he has robbed us of. He seems to be on his way to the right spot before the ball is hit. Anyway he always gets there if the ball is in the park. And sometimes when it isn't.

• • •

"I can't say enough for this feller. And he keeps doing it, day after day. He's a wonder. I never saw his equal."

Lou Boudreau takes the same view. He can't think up appropriate words to say about his defensive play.

• • •

It is rare when a defensive player draws in many extra people. But it was different in Boston last season. Piersal drew in more fans than any other man on the team until Ted Williams returned.

• • •

Piersall is extremely fast and he has that rare knack of judging a play in advance. It is hard to stand up and say that a man is better than Speaker or DiMaggio in going after and getting a fly ball. Maybe he isn't, but if there is any such ball hawk alive, his name is James Piersall of the Boston Red Sox.

Jerry Priddy Glad He Is Back in Minor Leagues

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Far from suffering a letdown, veteran baseball player Jerry Priddy is glad on one score about leaving the major leagues.

"Let's face it," said Jerry at his home here today, "a fellow can't expect to keep galloping around those big league diamonds forever.

"But look at the break I got. Always wanted to get into the managing end some day, and here I start with a swell organization in the best minor league."

Priddy, recently released by Detroit, is the new manager of Emil Sicks prosperous Seattle club in the Pacific Coast League. He succeeds Bill Sweeney.

Priddy, now 33, has been in baseball for 18 years as a pro. The 1954 season will mark his debut in the game on the coast.

In 1941, the aggressive Jerry went up to the Yanks as half of a double play combination rated the best ever in the minor leagues. His partner was then a young man named Phil Ruzuto.

Rizzuto replaced the aging Frankie Crosetti but Priddy had no luck unseating the reigning second baseman, Joe Gordon. Priddy went to Washington, St. Louis and Detroit.

Priddy hopes to be able to play in at least 70 games with Seattle—at first base. As for managing, he made one promise. There'll be no loafing on any ball club he manages.

Bowler Hits Triplicate

Despite that fact that Lloyd Hottmann is a member of the "Five Loafers" bowling team, he didn't loaf Wednesday at Pontiac Recreation. Lloyd is a 166 average kegler and almost hit his average with a triplicate 164-164-164—492. The team rolls in the Pontiac Motor Wednesday Morning league.

Hoosiers Eyeing Upset

By ROBERT E. VOGES

EAST LANSING (AP) — Interesting things have a way of happening when Michigan State and Indiana meet on the football field.

And this Saturday's homecoming game at Macklin Stadium, already a sellout, should be no exception.

The two teams are even up in their series of seven games.

Both have won three and there was one 7-7 tie at East Lansing in 1939.

Michigan State will be the favorite on the strength of its national No. 2 rating and unbeaten string of 27 games. But the Texas Christian game here last Saturday proved that an upset of MSC is possible this season.

MSC Coach Biggie Munn has a record of three wins in as many years over Indiana.

In 1950, it was strictly no contest, Michigan State winning by a 35-0 score.

In 1951, at Bloomington, it was a different story.

Indiana had things tied up 14-all at the half. Michigan State forged ahead to a 30-14 score. But in the closing minutes Indiana started piling up touchdowns.

Clock ran out before Indiana could get back the lead and Michigan State squeaked to a 34-26 victory margin.

Last year, at Bloomington again, Indiana led briefly 7-6 in the first period. Michigan State finally won 41-14.

It wasn't the score that provoked so much comment as what else went on during the ball game. Eight players were thrown out for unnecessary roughness, the majority of them Hoosiers.

There were fisticuffs on the field and a sideshow on the sidelines as the rival coaches prowled up and down, sputtering with indignation.

Munn drew a mild scolding from Western Conference Commissioner Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson for objecting to a ruling by one of the officials. But MSC partisans pointed out that Indiana Coach Bernie Crimmins was raising just as much of a rumpus on his side of the field.

Indiana is upset-minded. And Michigan State is victory-conscious, anxious to wipe the memory of last week's close one out of the memory of local fans. So the game should be a good one.

Jimmy Carter Faces Chavez

Lightweight Title Not at Stake in Bout at Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Lightweight champion Jimmy Carter of New York faces a busy and probably a profitable evening tonight when he meets again Carlos Chavez of Los Angeles in a non-title bout billed for 10 rounds at the Olympic auditorium.

Chavez, once a highly regarded fighter in California, admits to more than 30 birthdays, but the stocky, short-swinging little Mexican is unbeaten in a comeback campaign this year in four matches.

Carter, a mechanical, unimaginative but well schooled fighter who knocked out Ike Williams for the title in 1951, is a hard man to whip when the championship is at stake.

In three non-title scraps this year, however, the New Yorker has lost decisions to Armand Savoie and obscure Johnny Cunningham and was held to a draw by Freddie (Babe) Herman.

Tonight's bout, which will not be broadcast or televised, is expected to attract a near sellout of 10,000.

Carter is the betting choice.

PeeWee Reese May Land Dodger Managerial Job

By JOE REICHLER

BROOKLYN (AP)—Charlie Dressen still insisting today he will not return as Brooklyn manager for anything less than a two-year term, may be succeeded by Dodger Captain Pee Wee Reese.

* * *

Reese, a favorite of Brooklyn President Walter O'Malley and long regarded as a possible future successor to Dressen, indicated strongly he would be receptive if the job were offered him.

"I always said before that I wouldn't consider a managers' job while I still have some good playing years left," said the 34-year-old star shortstop. "But now this thing . . . I don't know . . . Things look a little different now."

Reese expressed surprise over Dressen's predicament yesterday.

"Charlie is a great manager and I hope he comes back next year."

* * *

Meanwhile, Dressen seemed to be going around in circles, just about as much as the baseball public, which was startled by the announcement yesterday that the two-time pennant-winning manager had split with the Dodgers because of a disagreement in the length of the contract.

Dressen, flushed with two straight National League championships, had demanded a three-year contract for $50,000 per season. O'Malley rejected it and countered with an offer of a one-year pact at an increase in salary from $35,000 to $42,500. Dressen refused it and attempted to compromise for a two-year contract at O'Malley's figure.

* * *

Asked to pose for a picture depicting him waving farewell to Ebbets Field, Dressen declined, saying:

"I might be back next year. I might change my mind."

Later when the same photographer bade him goodby and expressed the hope that he might see him again, Charlie smiled and said:

"You might see me in Baltimore . . . if you ever get down there."

* * *

In Baltimore, Clyde Y. Morris, secretary-treasurer of the Orioles, said his club would be "very interested" in talking with Dressen But he added:

"The position we are trying to fill is that of general manager of the club. If Mr. Dressen is talking about a field manager that is a subject we will discuss only after we have a general manager."

Marty Marion, who managed the club when it was in St. Louis last season, still has another year to go on his three-year contract.

Dressen, plainly bitter at what he considered unfair treatment, said:

* * *

"Why should I sign for anything less than a two-year term? All my friends tell me I'm crazy to sign a one-year contract. They point out that practically every other manager has a two or three-year contract. I win two pennants, something no other manager ever did in Brooklyn, and they want to give me one year. I'm not gonna do it."

'New' Turpin Slows Tempo of Workouts

British Middleweight Has Sparred Only 21 Rounds in 3 Weeks

By JACK HAND

GROSSINGERS, N. Y. (AP) — A carload of boxing writers cautiously sneaked up on the training home of Britain's Randy Turpin. They wanted to make sure Randy wouldn't head for the hills. He was supposed to be allergic to newspapermen.

* * *

Out front of Turpin's cottage was a sign: "Randy Turpin's Training Quarters." The other day a British writer, with a crayon made it read "Non-Training" quarters. But that had been erased.

Last time Turpin was in America for his second fight with Sugar Ray Robinson—the time he lost the middleweight title to the man he had upset in London—he was a training demon.

This was a new Turpin, who boxed Monday, rested Tuesday and Wednesday, boxed Thursday and then wasn't sure when he would work again. In three weeks he worked only 21 rounds. Counting the British workouts he had boxed a total of only 58 rounds.

Why this about face? What had happened? Turpin tried to give the answer as he spoke to the writers on the lawn in front of his cottage.

"I just don't feel like a lot of boxing," he said. "No use doing it now and going over the top too soon."

What about these stories that Turpin, irked at the press, talked of packing his bag and going home?

"I'm not happy," he said. "But it's nobody's fault but mine. They do everything for me here. Maybe I'm a little homesick. I don't know why. When I'm in England, I'm never home.

* * *

"I didn't say I was going home. I said that if I was pushed around like I was last time (1951) I might go home. Nobody is pushing me this time."

* * *

Turpin said he had never seen Bobo Olson, his opponent Oct. 21 for the world middleweight title at Madison Square Garden.

But he insisted he rated him as tough as Robinson.

"He's the best over here, isn't he?" he asked.

Writer Foresees Dressen, Harris With Baltimore

Bucky Would Get Job as GM, Pick Charlie for Field Boss

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—It may safely be put down that Chuck Dressen is not quitting one of the best jobs in baseball unless he has reason to believe that another one just as good or better is open to him. A lot of things have been said about the little guy, but no one has yet accused him of being dumb.

* * *

It is our strong guess, then, that the man who is spurning a one-year Brooklyn contract calling for $42,500 means to wind up managing the Baltimore Orioles for his old compadre, Bucky Harris. It all fits in too well.

Word has been kicking around for several days that the new Baltimore combine, having failed to land Frank Lane of the Chicago White Sox, has settled upon Harris as its first general manager. It would be difficult to make a better choice.

* * *

Bucky's present job as pilot of the Washington Senators doubtless would last as long as owner Clark Griffith does, but Griff is an elderly man and, besides, Harris has for some years been anxious to take himself off the field and do his heavy thinking from a chair in some front office.

He had such a post with the Yankees until Larry MacPhail talked him into returning to the bench, and he promptly drove the Bombers to a flag. But then MacPhail went out in a blaze of million dollar checks and the new owners, Del Webb and Dan Topping, gave Bucky the boot in favor of a fellow named Stengel.

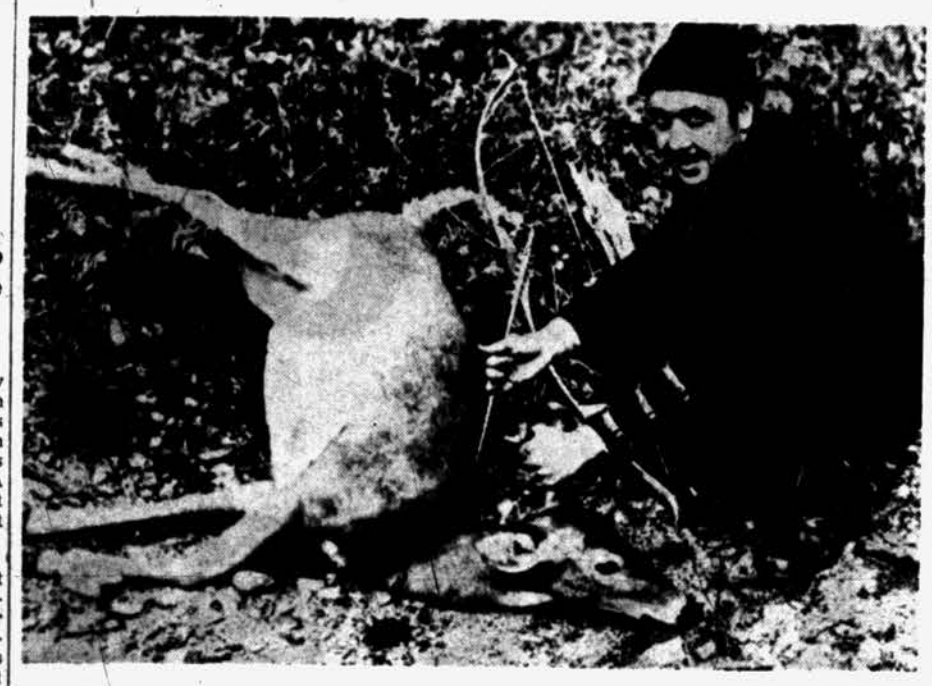

* * *

Now the time looks right for the talented "boy manager" to return to the executive end, and his first choice for a field lieutenant almost surely would be the peppery Dressen, who was one of his coaches during his two-year term with the Yanks. We have it on exceptionally good authority that this is the intended setup.

Hoople Sticks to Zlobotny, Shrugs Off Fans' Criticism

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

Egad! There are times when I become disillusioned with the intellectual fairness of my zillions of gentle readers.

What do they expect of a man?

My prediction on a recent Saturday is a case in point. I forecast a victory for Kansas State over Nebraska by a score of 20-to-13. This was one of the greatest upsets in history, and only Hoople, among 7,645 pigskin prophets, was correct on the winner.

But the final score happened to be 27-to-0, and because I prognosticated a 20-to-13 result, I have become the subject of verbal abuse from coast to coast.

Crabbed sports page figure filberts, who never dreamed in the first place that the Manhattan Wildcats ever would come close to defeating those Cornhuskers, now vent their caustic spleen because of a slight difference in points!

But I am a patient man, and so is Dr. Zlobotny, whose system of abstruse catalytic delineations I am following for the present. Dr. Zlobotny simply shrugs at criticism.

Now proceed with today's forecast, which appears to me to be just about perfect:

CASE—Pick Target Board.

Aids Follow-through—The most difficult thing for beginners to do is follow-through. And it's the thing stars fail to do when they're in a rut. No follow-through, no control, no stuff on the ball.

I emphasize reaching out with the arm to all pupils, beginners and advanced, by having them aim at a target board from 12 to 15 feet beyond the foul line.

Reaching develops control, but more than that it brings the bowler to the foul line low, body in balance, with a slide, and with the hand in position to apply finger-spinning hook power.

Marchibroda Deferred

PITTSBURGH, Pa. That meant the rookie signal caller will be able to play most of the National Football League season.

Sande Boots Home Long Shot for First Winner Since '32 as Crowd Goes Wild

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Jockey Earl Sande had his first winner since 1932 today, and he was as happy as when he won three Kentucky Derbies in the days when he was the toast of the American turf.

* * *

The 54-year-old rider, who began a comeback Oct, 5 because he "ran out of eating money," won the seventh race yesterday at Jamaica, scoring with the 12-1 shot Miss Weesie over the 8-10 favorite, Will Be There, ridden by Eddie Arcaro.

"I wish everyone in the world was as happy as I am right now," said Sande as he brushed away a tear and smiled to the crowd jamming around the winner's circle.

* * *

Since his comeback, Sande had ridden eight horses before today. He finished third with Honest Bread at Belmont Oct. 5, his first race in 21 years.

Honest Bread was the second choice in the third race yesterday, but Sande was beaten by a nose at the wire by White Hart.

He cried a bit then, and said:

"Once I get one (a winner) I'll lose some of this nervous tension. It makes me over anxious and I make mistakes. I'll get one, and then I'll feel better."

He got it in the seventh, and with a masterful ride that had the crowd howling and cheering with the greatest demonstration at a New York track in the memory of old-timers.

* * *

Miss Weesie was still third an eighth of a mile from the finish, then Sande made his bid and at the sixteenth pole the crowd sensed that this was it.

* * *

The time for the six furlongs was 1:13 1-5 and the winner, owned by T. F. White, paid $27.10.

"She's a sweetheart," Sande said later.

"I felt like this was the triple crown all rolled up into one, and that I won it."

MARCIANO STOPS BOUT—Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano raises the right hand of featherweight Charlie Riley of St. Louis as he awards him a 5th round technical knockout over Bobby Why of Los Angeles at the St. Louis Arena Wednesday night. Marciano, who refereed the scheduled 10-rounder, raises Riley's hand in victory when Why was unable to answer the bell for the 5th round.

Doherty Picked by Association

Ex-Bosox Official Is New President of AAA Minor Loop

CHICAGO (AP) — Edward S. Doherty, 53, former newspaperman, Boston Red Sox official, minor league club president and Lt. commander in Naval aviation, is the new president of the American Association.

By unanimous vote of directors of the Triple A Baseball league, Doherty yesterday was given a two-year contract to succeed Bruce Dudley. Doherty, president of the Louisville Colonels, will take the league presidency Dec. 1.

Dudley, also of Louisville, has until Nov. 30 to serve on a three-year contract as league president. He has been in ill health for several years.

Doherty, who will resign as Colonels president—a vacancy that will be filled by the parent Red Sox club—is a graduate of Providence College and was a reporter for Providence newspapers.

Later he became publicity director for the Red Sox and in 1948 was named president of the Scranton club in the Eastern League. Later that same year Doherty became Louisvillle president.

He served in the Navy in two World Wars and attained the rank of Lt. Commander in Naval aviation in World War II.

'Mr. Touchdown' Is Ineligible at San Jose State

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Fullback Joe Ulm, nation's leading college scorer with 11 touchdowns, has been declared ineligible at San Jose State for the remainder of the football season.

Ulm and three other Spartan gridders were barred on a technicality in Pacific Coast Conference rules, by which San Jose State abides although not a member.

The four players had attended a junior college for one semester and San Jose State for one quarter. PC rules require a residence requirement of two semesters or three quarters.

Loss of Ulm was a big blow. San Jose State, which has won three of its four games, meets California Saturday.

Veteran Football Coach Favors Modern-Day Play

By PHIL DESSAUER
United Press Sports Writer

NORMAN, Okla. (UP)—Football isn't the game it used to be, in the opinion of one gridiron elder statesman — it's a much better game, says Bennie Owen, 78-year-old former coach of the University of Oklahoma.

Owen "grew up" in football in the days of Michigan's Fielding H. Yost, when 60-minute players were a dime a dozen. The retired Sooner coach helped Yost build his famous point-a-minute outfit and other great teams before moving to the Southwest, but he still likes the present day brand.

"Where we had one good man, nowadays they have a dozen," he observed. "People often ask me if any of the old-time players could make the big college teams of today. Sure, lots of them could make the modern clubs—but we didn't have more than one or two like that every year."

Owen, who was honored as a new member of football's Hall of Fame Saturday before the Oklahoma-Texas game at Dallas, remembers the day when coaches were all-round performers as well as their players.

"When I came to Oklahoma in 1905 I coached football, baseball, basketball and sometimes track," he recalled. "By the time I left there were coaches for the other sports and I had acquired an assistant. He was usually a player from last year's team who came back to earn his degree."

The white-thatched former Sooner boss said there were times when the entire male student body at Oklahoma consisted of less than 100 not-so-stalwart youths above the freshman level.

"I remember once we took 14 boys up to play Kansas," he said. "We didn't have money to make another trip right away, so we entered them in classes at Kansas for a week, and the following Saturday we went over to Missouri to play the Tigers. Beat 'em both, too."

Michigan Rates Slim Favorite Over Wildcats

Dick Thomas' Passing Is Threat to Unbeaten String of Wolverines

By JOHN F. MAYHEW

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Michigan meets its first high-power aerial test of the 1953 season here Saturday in a Big 10 football clash with Northwestern.

A crowd of 60,000 was expected to watch the unbeaten Wolverines shoot for their second conference victory of the year.

To achieve their fourth straight triumph, Wolverines will have to stop or nullify the work of Dick Thomas, senior Northwestern quarterback.

Northwestern lost its only conference start 30-13 to Minnesota after whipping Iowa State and Army. And though it all, Thomas was never at a loss, completing 34 of 55 pass attempts for 516 yards and three touchdowns.

In the three games, Northwestern emerged as the nation's total offense leader on an average gain of 408.4 yards per game.

Michigan didn't meet the Northwestern kind of passing in scoring victories over Washington, Tulane and Iowa. Those opponents combined to throw 47 passes against coach Bennie Oosterbaan's players. Only a dozen were completed for a mere 111 yards.

Wolverines were favored by a slim margin to put a damper on Thomas, score a victory and enhance their fifth place standing in the Associated Press poll of sports writers.

After the close 14-13 squeak against Iowa, an all-out effort was expected from Michigan's top quartet; halfbacks Tony Branoff and Ted Kress, fullback Dick Balzhiser and quarterback Lou Baldacci.

That foursome has been effective on the ground and is expected to be a match for the top Northwestern runners.

Oosterbaan also counted on an improving Michigan pass game, built around quarterbacks Baldacci and Duncan McDonald.

Another man to watch will be Joe Collier, lanky Northwestern who has snared 11 passes for 216 yards and one touchdown.

His Wolverine counterpart was Bob Topp, senior end from Kalamazoo, who has impressed with his top-flight play both on offense and defense.

Wolverine captain Dick O'Shaughnessy, who made only a token appearance here last Saturday because of an ankle injury, was reported fit and ready to return to his center post.

Chip Backs Are Speedy, Just Like Their Coach

MT. PLEASANT (AP) — Central Michigan College boasts one of the fastest backfields in college football. But not one of these speedsters has equalled the running feats of their backfield coach, Al Thomas.

Running for the University of Michigan in 1942, Thomas was caught in 9.8 for the 100-yard dash. He was rated one of the top track men in the land. He also played football with the Wolverines.

Fastest man on the current Central Michigan team is halfback Jim Podoley, a freshman from Mt. Morris, who was timed in 9.9 last spring. Two junior fullbacks — Verne Hawes from Saginaw and La Verne Wolf from Grand Rapids—run the 100 in 10.1.

Another speedster is Jerry Thomas, a sophomore halfback from Port Huron. His time for the 100 is 10.4.

But speed isn't everything. One of the slowest players on the team is the leading ground gainer. That's Chuck Miller, senior halfback from Port Huron. He has gained 424 yards in four games.

Speed, however, has helped Central Michigan win three of its first four games. The Chips have rolled up 1,052 yards to 470 for the opposition.

Football Briefs From Midwest

CHICAGO (AP)—Midwest football briefs:

WISCONSIN—Jim Miller may be the answer to the Badgers' quarterback problem. The sophomore connected on a series of long passes in a workout against the junior varsity squad.

PURDUE—Sophomore Bill Murakowski, being used as a replacement for ailing fullback Max Schmaling, suffered a sprained ankle. Dan Pobojewski, senior reserve, may get the starting fullback job against Wisconsin.

ILLINOIS—A twisted ankle may keep fullback Ken Miller, top punter and reliable pass catcher, out of the Minnesota game.

MINNESOTA—Bob McNamara is expected to be recovered from a painful arm injury and go all out against Illinois. Stopping J. C. Caroline and Mickey Bates continues the main practice formula.

INDIANA—Guards Tom Hall and Ed Slosky missed practices with heavy colds. Hall is the replacement for Tom Dailey, whose injury will keep him out of the Michigan State game.

OHIO STATE—Halfback Jerry Hardraker is being groomed for his first fullback starting role against Penn and Dave Leggett is being polished at quarterback to replace injured John Borton.

IOWA — Pass defense was stressed in the Hawkeyes' longest drill of the season.

NOTRE DAME—Johnny Lattner, star right halfback, is recovered from a pulled leg muscle that has hampered him the last week. Sophomore Don Scahaeffer joined junior quarterbacks Ralph Guglielmi and Tom Carey as key tossers in a passing drill.

National Scholarships Concern Avery Brundage

NEW YORK (AP) — Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, is worried about what he terms "scholarships on a national scale," in some European countries.

Brundage, who returned from a tour of Europe Monday, said at a press conference yesterday that some countries "find a good athlete and put him on the police force or in the army where he has nothing to do but train for sports events."

Braves Alone Atop Standings in Junior Loop

Washington's Streak Extended to 8 Games Wednesday

SUBURBAN JR. LEAGUE

	W	L	T	PF	PA
Washington	2	0	0	19	0
Eastern	1	1	0	25	24
Lincoln	1	1	0	6	13
Jefferson	0	1	1	20	26
Waterford	0	1	1	40	46

Washington extended its 2-year undefeated string to eight games and assumed sole possession of first place in Suburban Junior High League standings Wednesday as the SJHS loop season reached the halfway mark.

Braves broke a scoreless halftime deadlock with two touchdowns in the last half to blank Lincoln, 13-0. Quarterback Art Poe passed 15 yards to Alex Barge for a third period score and fullback Charles Spann plunged five yards for another tally in the fourth quarter.

Freeman Watkins took a short aerial from Poe for the extra point after Spann's score. Lincoln reached Washington's 15-yard line, the deepest penetration against the unscored-on Braves this season, during the first half.

Eastern built up a 28-6 fourth period lead over Waterford and coasted to a 28-20 decision. Halfback Gerald Hayward and quarterback Marvin Cagle collected two touchdowns each to lead Eastern. Extra points were scored by Arnold Larson (2), Louis Waterfield and Cagle.

Lindy Salathiel passed to end John Harken for two Waterford touchdowns and scored another himself on a 35-yard return of an interception.

Giving Opponent Lead Then Roaring Back Old Stuff for MSC

By ROBERT E. VOGES

EAST LANSING, (AP)—Remember the nickname "Comeback Kids?"

That's what the sports writers dubbed the Michigan State football team two seasons ago when they started giving the opposition high hopes and their fans heartburn by tossing away a few touchdowns and then roaring from behind to win the ball game.

Spartans reverted to that pattern last Saturday when they came back to win 26-19 from Texas Christian after trailing 19-7 going into the fourth quarter.

Actually its nothing new. A quarter by quarter check of every game since the last defeat by Maryland in 1950 showed that Michigan State has broken a tie or come from behing 14 times in the present 27 game win streak.

Michigan State pulled the stunt twice in 1950, five times in 1951, six times in 1952 and once so far this season. They broke a tie or came from behind in more than half of the games in the present string.

Bill Marker and Chick Donaldson are the only two ex-servicemen on the West Virginia University football team.

FIRED — Charley Dressen, Brooklyn Dodgers manager, quit in a huff yesterday, when his demand for a 3-year contract was refused. He was offered a one-year contract and on his insistence for the longer term was dismissed.

Giel Worrying Big 10 Again

Illinois Has Job of Trying to Bottle Up Gopher Star

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The wailing wall where Big Teh coaches spill their sorrows is getting cluttered. Minnesota's Paul Giel is tearing up football fields again.

At the moment, the gentleman who is more nervous than anybody about Giel's ghostlike dodging is coach Ray Eliot of Illinois. The charged-up Illini collide with Giel and the Gophers Saturday at Champaign, Ill. in one of the features of the day.

Giel helped to ruin Illinois' Rose Bowl veterans last year, and he just might do the same to Eliot's speedsters this year.

It hasn't been all lilacs and roses this year for Minnesota's All-American tailback. After a creditable job against Southern California in Minnesota's opener he ran into defense-in-depth against Michigan State. The swift Spartans overbalanced against him, they surrounded him, trapped him and held him to one of the lowest yardage totals of his career.

But he got some daylight against Northwestern last week, with these results: Giel scored one touchdown, completed two touchdown passes of the four he threw and kept Wildcat tacklers spinning with his off tackle slants and punt runbacks.

Houston Soph Tops MVC Rushing Backs

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Sophomore Don Hargrove, a 180-pound halfback who wasn't even listed on Houston's early roster, is the leading rusher this week in Missouri Valley Conference football.

Used only twice as a ball carrier in Houston's first two games (in which they lost to Texas and tied Texas A & M), Hargrove ran wild through Detroit last week as the Cougars opened their title defense with a 25-19 victory. In 10 carries Hargrove banged out 199 yards, boosting his net total to 203 yards for a 16.9-yard average.

His nearest competitor is fullback Ray Zambiasi of Detroit, who has averaged 6.9 yards a crack while netting 282 yards in 29 carries.

Decision Not Likely Before Next Spring

Tribunal Must Decide if Sport Has Become Interstate Commerce

WASHINGTON (AP) — A prime question before the supreme court today is: has baseball in the past 30 years become involved in interstate commerce within the meaning of the anti-trust laws?

If the court says no, organized baseball will go on generally making its own rules as it has since the days of Abner Doubleday.

If the court says yes, baseball is in interstate commerce, three cases appealed to it will be ordered to trial in federal district courts.

The supreme court took the matter under advisement yesterday after two days of hearings. A decision is not likely before spring.

Judging by the manner in which the case unfolded before the nine justices, the big bone of contention is the role of radio and television in baseball.

In 1922, the supreme court ruled that baseball is a sport, not a ball outside the province of federal anti-trust jurisdiction.

Attorneys for two minor league players and a minor league clubowner contended that television has made organized baseball a commercial enterprise.

Baseball attorneys said this is not true.

Seymour E. Martinson, representing minor league clubowner Jack Corbett, maintained that major league clubowners exercise a dictatorial control over every aspect of the game.

Basic point of attack in the three appeals was that men were damaged because of provisions in player contracts allegedly violating the anti-trust laws.

Singled out particularly was the reserve clause in player contracts which binds a player to the club with which he signs.

The club may sell the player's contract and hence his service, blacklist the player if he does not live up to the contract terms, or keep him under contract as long as it wishes.

The court is not likely to rule specifically on the reserve clause, since that is not the question it is asked to decide.

But it declares baseball is interstate commerce, it would place the question of the reserve clause before the district courts.

Perch Fishing Good

According to a report from the Tawas Chamber of Commerce perch fishing off the Tawases has improved, and again is very good. Some exceptional catches are reported to have been taken off the piers, as well as from boats out in the lake.

Bow hunters (deer), patridge and rabbit hunters find considerable trouble with heavy foliage, but one good rain would change this condition in the northern areas of the state.

State Tackles Problem of Releasing Violators' Names

By JAMES A. O. CROWE

GRAYLING, Mich. (AP) — State conservation commission gathered at the Higgins Lake training school today to wrestle with a new policy on publicizing names of violators.

Conservation director G. E. Eddy was prepared to recommend that conservation officers be instructed to release the names on request after the formal arrest.

Eddy, in conference with deputy atty. gen. Arthur T. Iverson, was advised that violators' name become public records when they are arraigned in court.

In misdemeanor cases, which most conservation law violations are, the arraignment is the same as the issuance of a warrant in a felony case, Iverson said.

Under the present policy, which grew up by practice in the department, conservation officers reported only convictions to headquarters in Lansing.

The public was expected to get their information from the convicting judge of headquarters days later when the report arrived.

This policy, reportedly of years' standing, never came to light until last week. A Detroit newspaper was turned down in its request for the names of 10 prominent men arrested in Monroe County for overshooting ducks.

Gov. Williams, newspaper organizations and the board of directors of the Michigan United Conservation clubs have joined in urging the scrapping of the present policy.

Huskies' Guard Is Named Week's Best Lineman

SEATTLE (AP)—You might have guessed it.

he man who led the way as Washington tore down the Trojan horse Saturday is an engineer.

Powerful Milt Bohart, Associated Press lineman of the week, is a student in mechanical engineering, a tough course rarely tackled by football players. And his grades are well above the student averages.

Engineer Bohart played 60 minutes at right guard in Washington's 13-13 tie with the highly favored, nationally ranked Southern California Trojans. He was the star in a line that held USC to nine yards in the first half and a rushing yardage of 51 — net — for the full hour.

After that workout Bohart wasn't nearly as breathless as when he learned of his selection as lineman of the week.

After a gasp and a pause he said "Gosh! Not really?"

Babe, Polly Progress Easily in Texas Test

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Cofavorites Mrs. Babe Zaharias of Tampa, Fla., and Fort Worth's Polly Riley had little trouble in yesterday's first round of the women's Texas Open golf tournament.

Mrs. Zaharias scored easily over Virginia Marriott of Dallas, 9-8. Miss Riley defeated Joan Snyder, of Wichita, Kan., 7-6.

Boston's C of C Backs Cage, Hockey Outfits

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Chamber of Commerce, which became alarmed when the Braves transferred their National League baseball franchise to Milwaukee, today will be luncheon hosts for the Bruins and Celtics, Boston's representatives in the National Hockey League and National Basketball Association.

"Sports today are big business and they are increasingly important to a city's economy," President Paul Rothwell of the Chamber explained. "We will show the Bruins and Celtics we are backing them in their bids for fellowship."

Grains Recover From Selloff

By WILLIAM FERRIS

CHICAGO (AP)—Pretty good demand developed for grains on the board of trade today and the market recovered smartly from yesterday's selloff.

Soybeans were first to go higher, supported by a better tone in soybean oil and prospects of fairly substantial exports to Japan over the next few months. Corn eased at the start on rapid progress of harvesting in the main corn belt and then recovered in sympathy with other cereals.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was 1¼-1⅞ cents higher, December $1.93⅜, corn was ¼-⅝ higher, December $1.44⅜, and oats were ¾-1¼ cents higher, December 76⅜. Soybeans were 1½-2¼ cents higher, November $2.69, and lard was 8 to 15 cents a hundred pounds higher, October $16.65.

Youth Held for Trial on Driving Charge

Donald E. Tallent, 21, of 301 N. Saginaw St., charged with felonious driving, was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court following examination yesterday before Pontiac Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

He was returned to Oakland County Jail pending arraignment Friday. He was unable to post a $1,000 bond.

Tallent was arrested Oct. 3 by Patrolman Harold Hayden following an accident involving two other cars.

Witnesses testified that Tallent's car struck two autos, one of which was driven by Mrs. Grace Wright of 2040 south Lake Angelus Rd., who suffered a broken ankle and other injuries.

Stocks Keep Up With Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — The Stock Market advanced today in a continuation of yesterday's rise.

Steels and aircrafts again had a prominent part in the advance and they were helped by railroads, chemicals, oils, coppers, golds, motors, and utilities.

Gains ran into the major fractions at the best. Although minus signs appeared here and there in the list, they were small and not concentrated in any particular area.

Today's rise was helped along by good earnings reports and by bullishness Wall Street coming from yesterday's advance on expanded volume.

Twins, 3, Safe; Abductors Held

Ex-Pontiacers Involved in Apparent Wrangle Over Custody

IRONTON, Mo. (AP) — Three-year-old twins were taken from their home Wednesday but were found unharmed in a wooded area about 35 miles east of here.

Iron County Sheriff Ogie Selinger said it appeared to be a family dispute over custody of the boys, Danny and Dennis Francis, grandchildren of Iron County Magistrate J. Arthur Francis.

The boys' parents, Louis Francis and Mrs. Dorothy Francis, both formerly of Pontiac, Mich., were divorced.

The sheriff said Mrs. Francis and another woman, not identified, were with the boys when they were found about an hour after they were taken from their grandparents' backyard at 1:45 p.m.

Mrs. Francis and Frank McGowan, 17, of Pontiac, were held without charge pending further investigation.

Selinger and state highway patrolmen said McGowan admitted taking the boys away in his car. Patrolman said he was arrested at Weingarten, Mo., soon after he left the boys with their mother.

The other hunter was unidentified.

Police said the hunters left their car near a boat livery and pushed off in their boat yesterday at 5 a. m. fishermen and thumb area residents joined police in a search.

Reuther Urges Union Vigilance

Tells Labor to Keep on Guard Against Commie Infiltration

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—Walter Reuther, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, says the few remaining Reds in the labor movement must be "outworked, outfought and outvoted."

Reuther flew from Detroit to speak today at the International Woodworkers of America (CIO) Convention.

Influence of Communists in trade unions "has never been less," he sai dat a news conference yesterday. "It has been reduced to an all time low."

But he said local union officers must continue to be on guard against Reds, "get there earlier and stay there later to beat them. We've proved this in the CIO."

He said he believes Canadian and American workers should continue to drive for higher wages in 1954 "because we haven't yet reached a satisfactory solution of the distribution of production."

His own union, the United Automobile Workers, he said, intends to press for a guaranteed annual wage when their contract reopens in 1955.

"The guaranteed annual wage does not mean we want to get paid for doing nothing. As soon as industry accepts the principle, I think they'll find a way to schedule their production over the year, so that a worker need never be idle."

Blames Heavy Fog for 3-Car Accident

Three persons were treated for injuries at Pontiac General Hospital after a three-car accident yesterday at Orchard Lake Rd. and Fifteen Mile Rd., according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

A car driven by Frank N. Bulmanski, 35, of 8812 Maxwell, Detroit, hit one operated by Wilton B. LaWallen, 32, of 8300 Pontiac Lake Rd., deputies said. The impact forced LaWallen's car into a third auto which had stopped for a traffic light.

Bulmanski was treated for cuts. Two riders in LaWallen's car were treated for cuts and bruises: his wife Reba, 23, and George Lawrence, 57, of 9050 Pontiac Lake Rd.

Driver of the third car, Veryl C. Warfield, 39, of 7312 State Park Blvd., Walled Lake, was uninjured, deputies said. Bulmanski told the deputies he didn't see the other cars because of the heavy fog.

Ferndale Man Waives Hearing on Burglary

Fred J. Treadaway, 23, of 3314 Harris, Ferndale, yesterday waived examination on a breaking and entering charge and was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court for arraignment Oct. 23 by Royal Oak Township Justice Richard V. Broder.

He was released on $1,000 bond. Oakland County sheriff's deputies Roy West and Steven Hawlik, who arrested Treadaway, said he admitted taking a small amount of cash from a grocery store Tuesday morning at 14 E. Eleven Mile Road.

Expect Hydramatic in Big Volume Soon

DETROIT (AP) — Some time late next month hydramatic transmissions should be flowing in substantial volume from the former bomber plant at nearby Willow Run.

On some 1½ million feet of floor space General motors rented from Kaiser Motors the installation of manufacturing and assembly equipment is proceeding on schedule.

GM expects to have hydramatic transmissions for its 1954 model Cadillac, Oldsmobile and Pontiac lines as well as for the non-GM users of the unit, in time for initial production of the model cars.

GM rented the space in Willow Run within a week after fire destroyed its hydramatic transmission plant in Livonia, in mid-August. Because the space obtained at Willow Run equals that used in the former Livonia plant it is a fair assumption production volume will equal or better that attained before the fire.

Is Your Baby Allergic to Orange Juice? Rash May Come From Seeds, Not Oil

By JOHN GEIGER
Science Writer

NEW YORK — About four million babies will be born in the United States in the next year. About four million doting mothers will feed their babies orange juice.

And about two million infants on the orange juice diet may suffer stomach upsets, lose their appetites, or break out in rashes.

This capsule comment, based on recent medical findings, doesn't mean there's anything wrong with orange juice — which is a prime source of the vitamin C youngsters must have.

It doesn't mean there's anything seriously wrong with the babies, either. It indicates only that some babies — and some orange juices — don't mix, because of an allergic reaction.

Allergies in babies — even very young babies — are a focus of increasing medical interest. As in all allergy problems, doctors have turned detective to track down the offending substances.

Pediatricians who have studied these difficulties have picked up some surprising new information in the process.

Allergic reactions to orange juice —or any other basic item in baby's diet — usually aren't serious in themselves, doctors say. Babies can be allergic to mother's face-powder, too, or to the printing ink used in laundry marks on diapers, sheets, and clothing.

In each case, there's a particular offending substance — a protein in the orange juice, a perfume oil in the face powder, a dye in the ink — that acts as an antigen, the trigger in the allergic reaction process.

On first contact with the antigen, the baby's body treats it as a foreign substance and produces antibodies. By the second or third contact, the antibody level in baby's bloodstream is high, the infant is sensitized, and there may be a full-fledged fight between antigen and antibody, expressed in wheezing, in stomach upsets, or in skin troubles.

If — for example — it's the face-powder that's at fault, or a soap, the mother can change to a hypo-allergenic brand. And it's equally simple to correct the laundry-dye problem.

But a reaction to basic food items, pediatricians say, is more troublesome.

Dr. Milton I. Levine of Cornell University's medical school, a specialist with extensive research experience in infant allergies, points out that the baby is on relatively limited diets, especially during the first four months of life.

He doesn't have the variety — or the freedom for experimentation — of an older child or adult, and it's more difficult to find a substitute food to supply essential vitamins or minerals.

Of the two best-known staples for babies — milk and orange juice — milk allergies have been solved by the formulation of special milk products free of sensitizing substances. Now there's medical evidence to show the same job has been done for orange juice.

This particular allergy "detective story" begins with adults— for there was a wealth of data to show that some adults reacted to the peel oil found in orange juice.

Some manufacturers filtered out the oil — but some adults, and some babies, still were allergic.

One team of researchers, backed by the Bib Corporation of Lakeland, Fla., a major juice producer, decided to tackle the rest of the problem.

Under the guidance of two pediatricians, Dr. James Bulware and Dr. Meyer Marks, they found that both pulp and peel oil could cause stomach upsets. In some cases, too, there was a "bitter after-taste" reaction to the juice — and that, too, was tracked to the oil.

Filtering out the seeds — another potential antigen — didn't seem to help, and the allergy-hunters were stumped.

A worker at one Lakeland plant finally — though inadvertently — gave the researchers their answer. He handled the pulp and other waste-matter on the assembly line — and he always had a skin irritation on his hands and wrists. Tests showed that it wasn't a peel-oil reaction. Ultimately his trouble was traced to the cracked orange seeds in the pulp, and finally to a particular protein in the seeds.

To keep orange juice free of the protein, it was necessary to prevent all contact between seed and juice. The Bib Juice Corporation researchers found a way to do that — and tests showed that the resulting juice was free of antigens for almost all infants.

The product later was given the seal of approval of the American Medical Association's Council on Foods and Nutrition and the effect of orange seed protein was described in "Annals of Allergy," the publication of the American College of Allergists.

Of course there are other potential sources of vitamin C — including vitamin tablets. But pediatricians agree that synthetic vitamin sources, for babies as well as adults are inferior to natural foods.

Not all "fussy eating" in infants is due to allergy, of course. Researchers at Yale University Gesell Institute have been looking into the question of feeding habits and the development of infant appetites with emphasis on such more than allergic reactions.

Dr. Francis Ilg of the Gesell Institute reports that babies develop pronounced taste preferences even as early as the first ten days of life. And the studies also reveal that — for reasons not yet clear — girl babies have a greater desire for taste variety than boys.

Think Traffic Bad? Worse Yet to Come

CHICAGO (UP)—H. G. Kemper, president of Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company, expects traffic jams to get tighter. He points out that during the past 10 years the number of registered vehicles in the United States increased by 62 per cent while total road mileage increased only 2 per cent.

If cars had been spaced evenly over the roads 10 years ago, there would have been 169 yards between each car. Today that distance would be 104 yards, Kemper said, and 10 years from now, 64 years.

And Kemper added that vehicles are being driven more today. The average mileage per vehicle has risen to approximately 9,500 miles per year, an increase of 16 per cent over 10 years ago. Total annual mileage covered by all vehicles has increased 87 per cent during the past 10 years.

Pigeon Gets Cooped Up Searching for Meal

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A pigeon dropped into the United Cigar Store in downtown Youngstown with a couple of buddies to lunch on peanuts spilled on the floor.

Manager Lou Unger informed the pigeons they were not wanted around there, so the persistent pigeon's faint-hearted friends left.

But the persistent one hopped behind a magazine rack. Then he found he was stuck there. Clerks sawed a hole in the rack but the pigeon stayed on.

After all, you can't starve a guest, so the clerks now put regular rations of peanuts and bread in front of the hole, waiting for the pigeon to decide to leave.

Set Woods on Fire to Direct Rescuers

OAK RIDGE, Ore. (AP)—There is one sure way of attracting attention in Oregon's vast timberlands in the summer: start a fire. That's what Don Lewis, Kitson Springs fisherman, did when he lost his way. After hours of traveling in circles and getting nowhere, Lewis decided that one of the several forest lookout stations in the area would see the smoke of a fire.

So he set a blaze. Sure enough, it was spotted by a watcher at Rigdon Guard Station. In a few minutes emergency fighters were on the ground. They extinguished the blaze after it had spread over part of an acre. It could have developed quickly into a fire that threatened thousands of acres and millions of feet of valuable timber. The forest service sympathized with Lewis, but not to the extent of condoning a fire. He was taken into justice court and fined $20 and costs.

Even so, Lewis figures he came out ahead.

Automobiles Blossom With Front-End Ads

BOSTON (AP)—Private automobiles in Massachusetts are fast becoming billboards on wheels.

Since the state decided to have only rear-position license plates this year, the front ends have blossomed out with varied decorations promoting this or that. Shaped like license plates, they tell of the virtues of such things as beer woolen products, and even the Red Sox baseball team.

Some less modest motorists sport their initials in large letters.

School Board to Discuss Expansion Wednesday as Groups Offer Aid

ROMEO—The Romeo Board of Education has scheduled a special meeting for Wednesday as a result of six resolutions submitted by various organizations in the area at its regular meeting Tuesday evening.

The resolutions agreed to support an expansion program to meet both present and future needs of the school district.

Organizations which filed resolutions included Romeo Book Club, Rotary Club, PTSO, Elementary Schools Club, Washington parents Club and the Lions Club.

At the special meeting, board members plan to discuss the expansion needs among themselves and then air their views at a public meeting soon after.

In a brief discussion of the proposed needs, Supt. T. C. Filppula made specific recommendations. They included an addition of four rooms to the Washington Elementary School and 12 rooms on the South Elementary School site in Romeo, to take care of increased grade school enrollment and to withdraw the seventh and eighth grades from the high school.

He added that an agricultural and manual training building were also needed.

He stated that a long-range program for future construction should be launched as soon as possible.

The board at Tuesday's meeting, approved hearing tests to be given pupils in the entire school district sometime in December.

School Board Won't Pay Levy

Refuses Pontiac's Bill for $3,851.77 in Special Assessments

Pontiac Board of Education voted Wednesday not to pay $3,851.77 in special assessments from Pontiac city for street and sewer improvements near schools.

Action came during the regular monthly session at board offices, 40 Patterson St. Maurice J. Croteau, vice president, presided.

The board commented it had paid $7,468.56 in special assessments a month ago, telling the city that was the total for this year.

The school board, which members say is not required by law to pay any such assessments, makes a "token" payment of not over $10,000 a year.

The board approved hiring eight new and six returning teachers, and raised salaries of eight instructors who have taken additional training.

Final enrollment reports showing a total of 16,296 youngsters in classes were submitted by Frank J. DuFrain, superintendent of schools.

DuFrain commented that Bagley School, with 970 students, is now the largest elementary school in Pontiac. Webster School has 937 pupils.

The board passed a special resolution certifying Vernon L. Schiller as board treasurer. DuFrain explained that Schiller's authority to buy grain alcohol for school-science laboratories had been questioned because "they have him listed as a bookkeeper."

Members of the board watched a short slide film showing Pontiac's history, prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bell for elementary school students. The story starts with Pontiac as a wilderness, following through with erection of the first house here in 1818 and Col. Stephen Mack's founding of the city some time later.

Mrs. Lola B. King, board secretary, told of the recent Pontiac Educators' Conference at Higgins Lake attended by some 100 local teachers and principals.

"It's one of the best conferences I ever attended," she said. "It shows how our teachers 'grow'. Pontiac is one of very few school systems that have this type of thing."

JUICY FRUIT—Holding a 22-ounce lemon which grew on her farm is Mrs. Ernest Borchardt, of Leavenworth, Kan. The dwarf tree has been bearing extra-large lemons for three years. She claims one lemon furnished enough juice for four pies.

Gives Formula for Leadership

Ford II Says U.S. Views Should Be Talked Over With Other Countries

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry Ford II, a U. S. delegate to the United Nations, says other countries will accept our leadership "if we will sit down with them and discuss our views."

Ford spoke last night at a dinner honoring himself, Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of health, education and welfare, and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

The three were made honorary citizens of the George "Junior Republic" of Freeville, N. Y., set up by philanthropist William R. George 55 years ago to aid troubled adolescents or children with problems.

Ford said he believed all nations should work together for peace, adding:

"We don't have a monopoly on brains, or of all the money in the world. We've got to call on the help of other countries."

Gov. Dewey advised business executives to encourage — not penalize their brightest employes to take an interest in politics.

If they are elected to public office, Dewey said, the employes salaries should be doubled.

"Let's give government out best brains, or it will be taken over by the worst," Dewey said.

Mrs. Hobby, unable to attend the meeting, was represented by her 17-year-old daughter Jessica.

State Seeking to Cut Deaths of Pedestrians

LANSING (AP) — Because more than 3,000 pedestrians have been killed in Michigan traffic in the past seven years the State Safety Commission has chosen October and November for a statewide pedestrian protection campaign.

The commission said more hours of darkness, slippery pavements, and a rush of shoppers contributes to many pedestrian fatalities in the final months of each year.

The commission reminded that in seven of every 10 accidents involving pedestrians, the man on foot was at fault.

But the commission said motorists are under special responsibilities to guard against striking pedestrians. It offered these safety rules:

1 — During the fall and winter months, make a special effort to drive cautiously after dark.

2 — Form the habit of slowing down in areas where pedestrians are most likely to be found — at downtown intersections, on the edges of communities, and near roadside businesses on the highway.

3—When you see a pedestrian with his back to you, be prepared to make an emergency stop — he can't see you and may suddenly move over into your path.

4— Be especially alert for pedestrians who are preoccupied with carrying shopping packages and umbrellas.

5 — Keep your eye on "sand lot" games where a youngster may dash in front of you to retrieve a ball.

6 — Keep clear of parked cars which hide pedestrians who may step into the street.

7 — When you reach a pedestrian danger zone, slow down and keep your feet on the brake — remember, it's easy to kill a pedestrian at 10 miles an hour.

8 — Watch your speedometer when you approach the outskirts of a community at highway speed. There are likely to be pedestrians without the benefit of sidewalks or street lighting.

9—Turn on your headlights when dusk arrives. Don't wait for darkness. This will make it easier for pedestrians to see you coming.

10 — Be especially alert near night football or basketball games when crowds are leaving.

Seeks Relief

HASTINGS (AP)—Municipal Judge Adelbert Cortright, citing an increased work load, has asked the city council to boost his salary to $2,000, from $1,650, and to hire an associate municipal judge to expedite the work of the court.

'Temporary' Employe on Job for 66 Years

PITTSBURGH (AP)—For a fellow who took a so-called temporary job back on Aug. 13, 1887, Frank T. Smith is doing quite well.

Frank, the oldest city of Pittsburgh employe in point of continuous service, observed his 85th birthday yesterday on the job. Asked what he planned in the way of celebration, the veteran lien clerk in the law department declared:

"Go home and rest when I get off."

Fair Falls Short

PETOSKEY (AP) — The Emmet County Fair fell more than $900 short of paying its way this year, a report to the board of supervisors indicates.

American families own two-thirds of the world's life insurance.

Losing Proposition

LUDINGTON (AP) — The 50-year-old tower atop the Mason County Courthouse causes leaks and is a hazard to the rest of the building, a contractor has informed the board of supervisors. Treasurer John Butz told the board the county will go in the red this year because of repairs to the building.

Authorize Construction

LAKE CITY (AP) — Missaukee County Board of Supervisors has authorized its chairman and clerk to negotiate contracts for construction of a new courthouse.

Celery Harvester

HAMILTON (AP) — Celery grower Arthur Veldhof and blacksmith Jacob Datema have built an improvised mechanical celery harvesting machine which operates with four men and can do the work of six men, they say.
