

Britain Seeks to Skip Debt Payment

Find No Buyer for $37 Million Highway Bonds

County Officials Told Northwestern Project Will Still Go Ahead

Oakland County supervisors, meeting yesterday to approve bids on bonds for the proposed extension of Northwestern Highway, instead heard a representative of the State Highway Department explain why no bids were received at the scheduled sale in Lansing yesterday morning.

Edward A. Bellenbaum, chief assistant deputy commissioner, told the board the market yesterday seemed "shut right off" for the first time since 1952.

The Northwestern bonds, and bonds for two other projects all with a fixed ceiling of 3 1/2 per cent interest—went begging yesterday, he said, because the interest rate wasn't high enough to attract bonding companies.

"We had had no indication that 3 1/2 per cent wouldn't be high enough," Bellenbaum said. "As late as September, bonds were moving at 3.04 per cent."

He linked the bond's unpopularity with the Federal Housing Commission's hike of interest rates last week, and signs of rises in bank interest rates Monday.

"Now we'll have to wait and see what happens after the first of the year," Bellenbaum said. "We may have to come to you again and ask you to approve a higher interest rate."

PLANS TO CONTINUE

"But in the meantime, we'll continue with our plans and engineering and the purchase of right of way for the road. This delay in selling the bonds will mean no delay in the completion of construction."

"I want to assure you this is not a dead issue."

Under the proposed plan, Northwestern Highway would be extended to a junction with U. S. 23 in Livingston County. The county would pay the state $90,000 a year for 20 years as its share of the $37 million project.

Federal and state governments would pay equal shares of the initial cost, with the county's share—5 per cent of total cost—returning to the state.

Oak Park Supervisor Charles E. Cardon asked Bellenbaum if he had any assurance that "we won't have a $40 million obligation with only $20 million worth of bonds." Cardon said he feared construction costs would rise with the soaring money market.

Bellenbaum said he doubted construction costs would rise, but added the highway department has allowed for "normal" cost increases in its estimate of total cost.

Nominate 10 for 5 Chamber Positions

Ten nominations for five positions on the Board of Directors of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce were announced today.

Nominated for terms which will expire December 31, 1959 are: The Rev. Edward C. Auchard, Edward P. Barrett, Howard L. Canfield, Dr. Leonard F. Klausmeyer, Curtis E. Matthews, James F. Nye, Fred J. Poole, Richard C. Scribner, Stuart Whitfield, and Dana P. Whitmer.

Ballots probably will be mailed Monday, with the election closing on December 24.

The nominating committee includes Harold A. Fitzgerald, chairman; Milo J. Cross, Glenn Griffin, Ralph T. Norvell, Dr. George N. Petroff, and George M. Watson.

16 SHOPPING DAYS TO CHRISTMAS

Crowned Queen of Rose Tournament

ROSE QUEEN FOR 1957 — Pretty Ann Mossberg, 19-year-old Pasadena City College freshman, was selected yesterday to reign as Queen of the New Year's Day Tournament of Roses. Queen Ann is 5 feet, 7 inches tall, weighs 127, and plans to be a teacher. She and her six princesses, all finalists in the Queen competition, will rule over the 68th annual Rose Parade and occupy the Royal Box at the Rose Bowl football game.

Kelley to Name Committee

Safety Council Picks Steering Unit Leader

Royal Oak Mayor Howard Kelley was named last night to appoint a five-member committee to plan an Oakland County Safety Council.

At a meeting of the group's steering committee, Kelley announced he would select a representative group which has the time and interest to do the job.

He said the main duties of his committee would be to draw up a constitution and bylaws for the operation of the council. All members were to make a complete report of their work at the next steering committee meeting in late January.

Plans call for each municipality in the county to be informed of the project, and asked to designate a candidate for the Board of Control to be selected in the future.

Police, civic, and business leaders from throughout the county attended the council's second organizational meeting, held in Pontiac. Guest speakers were Gerald Shipman, executive director of the Michigan Safety Commission, and Gerald Phalen, executive director of the Detroit Safety Council.

Shipman presented an outline of the type of county safety organizations being boosted by state officials throughout Michigan. He stressed that the council should be well represented geographically, since every area has its own traffic problems.

The state expert advised the group that the addition of members from all fields, the establishment of a sound budget, and the educating of the people to the problems of safety would go a long way towards making a safety program successful.

"If this Council is organized and put to work it can really cut the fatalities down," Shipman commented.

Phalen emphasized the need for money and an outstanding man to have overall charge of the operation as executive secretary on a full-time basis.

He said all those communities already having their own safety committees could continue to operate as they have been in cooperation with the county unit.

U.F. Donations Nearer to Goal

Industrial Division Gifts Bring Total Collections to 97 Per Cent

The Pontiac Area United Fund stands $17,000 short of its $612,202 goal after two weeks of extended solicitation, campaign chairman Walter K. Willman announced today.

The drive has collected $595,189, or 97 per cent of goal, he said.

Large gains in the Industrial Division, Willman said, have brought pledges from corporations and their employees up to $393,414, or 94 per cent of goal.

Division chairman Earl Maxwell was optimistic his quota would be reached by the end of a 30-day extension called by Willman when the drive officially ended Nov. 16.

The Commercial Division, headed by James F. Nye, has reached $159,175, Willman said, or 101 per cent of quota, and the women's door-to-door Geographic Division has turned in $20,698 or 108 per cent.

The women's chairman is Mrs. Ralph G. Bump.

Funds collected this year will support 54 health, youth, recreation, child welfare and family council agencies in 1957.

Port Said Closes Up

Troops Pull Out of Egypt Rapidly

PORT SAID, Egypt (U)—With few backward glances, more than 2,000 British and French soldiers filed aboard ship for home today just a month after the first paratroopers leaped into Egypt.

The leave-taking was cool. Emboldened Egyptians closed down all shops in Port Said. Even the noisy little peddlers who hawked souvenir trinkets to the troops while there was fighting on the Suez Canal banks were nowhere to be seen.

The withdrawal ordered by London and Paris was dubbed Operation Harridan—a worn-out strummet or bag—signifying the military distaste for the exodus.

But the troops themselves were jubilant with hope they would be home before Christmas.

It was apparent the pace of the withdrawal was going to be extremely fast.

Some 3,200 French and British troops were withdrawn before British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd announced Monday that the two nations had written off their Suez invasion. The total strength of the expeditionary force has never been divulged.

The U. N. police force in Egypt grew to nearly 2,600 men as the British and French packed up. The arrival of a company of Colombian soldiers swelled the U. N. forces in Port Said to 600. A Swedish company was due today.

The U. N. troops have taken over policing of a third of Port Said. Another U. N. detachment is spread across the no man's land dividing British-French and Egyptian lines 24 miles south of the city.

Yugoslav patrols fanned out from the Suez Canal zone into the Israeli-conquered Sinai Desert. The first-class postage is urged for placed between the Israeli and Egyptian forces.

Israel has announced its withdrawal from a 30-mile-wide strip of the Sinai Peninsula at the edge of the canal and said that it has pulled 10,000 to 12,000 of its troops all the way out of Egyptian territory. The Israeli Foreign Office gave no clue as to when the entire peninsula would be evacuated but said, "It should be a staged withdrawal."

However, the Israeli government hinted today it will not obey a United Nations resolution and withdraw all forces promptly from the captured Gaza Strip.

Street Lights Forced On Storm Blackens Pontiac

Black skies this morning caused motorists to switch on headlights and windshield wipers as the clouds unleashed an unseasonable thunder and electrical storm over the Pontiac area.

The darkness forced on city street lights twice for periods of some 15 minutes by means of a photo-electrical cell atop Consumer Power Co.'s substation which activates when light is absent from the mechanism.

With the thunderstorms, the temperature today was expected to climb to a spring-like 55 degrees.

The Weather Bureau said the rain will change to snow flurries tonight, with the mercury expected to dip to around the freezing mark. The snow should continue tomorrow, the weatherman said, with temperatures ranging from 32 to 35 degrees.

Yesterday's temperature in downtown Pontiac reached a high of 40 degrees.

The lowest temperature in Pontiac preceding 8 a. m. was 33. The mercury had climbed to 51 at 1 p. m.

New Envoy

AMBASSADOR—Douglas MacArthur II, nephew of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, has been named ambassador to Japan by President Eisenhower. He replaces John M. Allison who will return to the United States for reassignment. MacArthur, 47, has been in the diplomatic service for 21 years.

Wags With Tale, Tails With Wag, Animal Crackers

LANDER, Wyo. (U)—Bartender Jack Clark had just opened the tavern where he works. He looked up and there was a mountain lion, crouched as if to spring.

Friends report Clark scaled the side of a cooler cabinet, backward.

Then the jokesters entered and rescued Clark. Then he learned the mountain lion had been shot by hunters, frozen into an upright position and placed in the bar during the night.

ANAHEIM, Calif. (U)—Stolen: one tall, thin ape. George Craybill, a partner in the Jungle Restaurant, Anaheim, made this complaint to police yesterday. The ape—a young female gibbon worth about $300—was taken from its cage the night before.

"Somebody took a small lion one time," said Craybill. Another time a boa constrictor was taken, he said, adding: "The people who took them brought them back."

"But they never did bring back the alligators they stole," he added, thoughtfully.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (U)—Two deer who wandered into town will provide dinner for the children at Kosair Crippled Children's Hospital and the Children's Hospital today.

The deer, a buck and a doe, were captured by police and dog pound agents. However, both died shortly after they were caught in nets and taken to the city dog pound.

It was thought the deer died of exhaustion after being chased by dogs before being captured.

OSCODA Adds Jets

OSCODA (U)—New supersonic F102 jet interceptors are being added to the aerial defenses at Wurtsmith Air Force Base here, one of the first in the nation to be equipped with the Delta-wing planes. Some 25 planes, which can carry guided missiles, will be assigned to the 31st Fighter Interceptor Squadron by the end of January.

Big Chief—Big Trouble

RENO, Nev. (U)—Palute Indian Chief Avery Winnemucca reported he is in Dutch with his tribe because he lost a red leather bag containing $400 in tribal funds.

"I sure hope the finder returns it," said Chief Winnemucca. "They'll scalp me."

U.S. Considers English Appeal With Sympathy

President Expected to Let Congress Rule on $82 Million Matter

WASHINGTON (U)—Great Britain's plea for permission to pass up payment of nearly $82 million dollars due this country at year's end drew promises of sympathetic consideration from some key senators today.

The reaction at the State Department was similar, but officials indicated the Eisenhower administration will ask Congress to rule on the British request.

Doubt was expressed that the executive agencies had authority to take final action.

Congress does not convene until Jan. 3. The payment is due Dec. 31, but it appeared that the question would be left hanging fire until Congress has had time to consider it.

The London appeal, coming on the heels of British-French invasion of Egypt, in effect amounted to a request to this country to share the cost of that U.S.-opposed venture.

Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, Harold Macmillan, told Parliament yesterday his country's gold and dollar reserves have shrunk. He said the request to the United States was a step essential to protect the stability of the British pound sterling and save it from devaluation which would have repercussions around the world.

2,500 Women Defy Commies

Mourners of Budapest Demonstrate in Streets for Second Day

BUDAPEST (U)—Hundreds of Hungarian women demonstrated for the second consecutive day in Budapest's streets today in mourning for insurgents killed in the anti-Communist rebellion.

The Russians moved more tanks and armored cars into the city as a precaution, but ordered Hungarian soldiers and police to handle the job of dispersing the women.

Most of the demonstration was orderly. It involved about 2,500 women, made up of groups of about 200 each. Yesterday about 15,000 demonstrated and one woman was wounded by gunfire after an altercation with a Soviet officer.

The center of today's demonstration was Petof Square, on a bank of the Danube in the center of town, where there is a monument to the Hungarian poet of the 1848 revolution, Sandor Petofi.

As the women approached the square they were blocked from approaching the monument by seven Russian tanks and about the same number of armored cars.

At the United Nations in New York, despite word that Dag Hammarskjold plans to go to Budapest in 10 days, the U. N. Assembly early today adopted a U. S.-sponsored resolution calling again on Hungary to let in other U. N. observers to investigate conditions generally in the revolt-torn country.

Spirit of Christmas Hovers Over Pontiac Shopping Areas

THROUGH THE STREETS — Crowds of shoppers roamed the downtown streets yesterday, checking Christmas lists and carrying bulging bags of Yuletide gifts as the shopping days dwindled away. "Do you think this is OK for Uncle Joe?"

"What did we give Alice last year?" "What size socks would Willie take this year—he's a growing boy." (See story on Page 2.)

Post Office Time Revised for Yule

Postmaster Asks Public: 'Ease the Pressure', Mail at Slack Times

Announcing extended hours of post office window service, Pontiac Acting Postmaster Leslie H. Dean today urged postal patrons to help "ease the pressure" by doing their mailing in slack periods of postal business.

He said mail can be handled quickly before 10 a.m. or between 1:30 and 3:30 p.m.

"Air mail should now be used for mailing to distant points, and first-class postage is urged for faster, better service for all of your Christmas cards," Dean said.

Extended window service hours will be: Saturday, Dec. 9 — 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Monday, Dec. 10, to Friday, Dec. 14 — 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Saturday, Dec. 15 — 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Sunday, Dec. 16 — 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.; Monday, Dec. 17, to Friday, Dec. 21 — 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Saturday, Dec. 22 — 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Dean said the extended service would apply at stamp and parcel post mailing windows at the main office downtown and the Huron Gardens, Union Lake and Perry Street branch offices.

Scramble Starts as Adlai Quits

Kefauver Noncommittal Among Many Other Potential '60 Nominees

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson's announcement he will not seek a third chance at the presidency opened the way today to a scramble for the Democratic nomination in 1960.

Stevenson, defeated by President Eisenhower by about 10 million votes last month, said in a statement yesterday: "I will not run again for the presidency." He said he will resume private law practice in Chicago in January.

The twice-defeated Democratic candidate said his interest in the party will "continue undiminished."

Stevenson's vice-presidential running mate, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, was asked if he too might be in a mood to remove himself from consideration for the 1960 presidential nomination. He replied:

"I am only in the mood to be the best senator here that I know how to be."

TO BID AGAIN
Kefauver's friends expect him to bid again for the top nomination in 1960.

Stevenson's statement he "will not run again" generally was accepted as removing him almost entirely from consideration four years from now. He did not, however, close the door tightly against a draft movement, in the unlikely event one should develop. William Jennings Bryan set a previous precedent by winning three Democratic presidential nominations, but not an election. Stevenson's withdrawal makes many Democratic governors and senators potential candidates for the 1960 nomination.

Office Breakin Yields $45 in Box, Jars

A cashbox and $30 plus two jars containing $15 were taken from an automobile sales office at 40 W. Pike St. Monday night, Pontiac police said.

Thieves broke in through a side window and stole the money, police said, from an office cabinet.

Here Are Dollar Gift Ideas

By JANET ODELL

"Let's draw names and exchange dollar gifts." Over and over in clubs, offices and social groups we hear this suggestion. Some one always objects that you can't find anything "decent" for a dollar. You can.

This gift snooping assignment is proving to be expensive for us. We BUY things. But it's a fun way of doing our Christmas shopping.

One store has beautifully monogrammed white handkerchiefs for a dollar. Many women like one such hanky to use for best. For a man you can get some of the handkerchiefs, monogrammed along one edge; they are the newest style, you know.

If your child happens to be in a dollar-gift exchange, let him choose one of the metal banks for his present. Metal banks of the past are now collector's items. Who knows what the present day banks will be the same. We saw a Davy Crockett, a pirate and a clown, any one of which would delight a youngster.

One man's store with a small gift section has some charming stone ware. They are hand painted with herb designs and are made to be used in the freezer, in the oven or on the table. We were enchanted with a little covered jar (we bought it) and with the small skillet.

The smallest apothecary jars cost less than a dollar. Fill them with powder puffs, bath salts or candy for an interesting gift at the desired price.

For the woman who collects earrings you have a wide choice of unusual and attractive ones. When in doubt, shun the rhinestone type.

Juror Pleads Guilty After Hearing Verdict

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Traffic Judge James Demopolos often had wondered if other people agreed with his verdicts. So he summoned an impromptu six-man "jury" to hear evidence against a man charged with drunken driving.

The six, chosen at random from persons in the court room, agreed unanimously that the defendant was guilty. He was fined $40.

Pontiac City Affairs

Street Widening Deeds Accepted by Commission

A brief and routine nine-point agenda was written into the minutes in less than an hour last night by the Pontiac City Commission.

Deeds needed for the 60-foot widening and extension of Bay street through to the Herrington Hills Subdivision were accepted by commissioners.

A one-year lease extension was granted to the Michigan Animal Rescue League, Inc. upon the recommendation of City Manager Walter K. Willman.

Deeds for two parcels of land were accepted from the State Dept. of Conservation. One was for two lots in the Dixfield Subdivision in the vicinity of Osun Lake.

The other was for part of a lot in Pulford's Subdivision near Bagley street. Both will be used for public purposes.

A resolution of public necessity was offered and adopted to call for the blacktopping of all streets on the 1956 capital improvement program which were not offered by reason of public necessity or by commission resolution.

A long 13-point agenda will face commissioners when they gather Friday night for their monthly informal session.

Britain Asks to Skip $82 Million Payment

Interest payment—71 million due on a U.S. postwar loan of 3½ billion dollars and 11 millions on a 600-million-dollar sum agreed to as settlement of Britain's World War II lend-lease account with the United States.

Also due Dec. 31 are payments of 57 million dollars in the principal on these two accounts. This sum is not affected by the British request.

"If the British can't pay, they can't pay," Chairman Hayden (D-Ariz.) of the Senate Appropriations Committee told a reporter.

Hayden said he would go along with an emergency "waiver" of the interest payment—the term used by Macmillan in describing the request.

"We have to support our allies even though they don't always act as we think they should," Hayden said. "We have taken the same kind of action in the past in emergencies."

Sen. George (D-Ga.), retiring chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said, "I anticipate sympathetic consideration of a modification or postponement" of the interest payment.

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.), the Foreign Relations Committee's senior Republican member, said he feared failure to grant the request might set off "a harmful economic chain reaction" from which the whole free world would suffer.

Pontiac Men Jailed on Entering Charge

Two Pontiac men were given jail sentences totaling 30 days each Tuesday after they were found guilty of a charge of entering without permission by Keego Harbor Justice James Southart.

David L. Fairbotham, 39, of 107 Mt. Clemens St., and Francis P. Mazurek, 34, of 351 Franklin Rd., were lodged in the county jail when they failed to pay fine and costs of $121 apiece.

The charge involved the alleged theft of hunting clothes valued at $45.20 from the glassed-in porch of a Keego home early in November.

OLCC Expands Its Facilities

OKs $185,000 Job to Start Jan. 1, Selects Shurley as President

An expansion and improvement program to cost approximately $185,000 has been approved by the Orchard Lake Country Club membership, and Burt R. Shurley Jr., Detroit banker, has been selected as president for 1957.

Plans for the building were prepared by the Birmingham architects, O'Dell, Hewlett & Luckenbach, and Tom Hewlett said today that bids would be taken Dec. 15. Work will begin first of the new year, Hewlett said.

Other officers are: Robert C. Lealand of Birmingham, vice-president; John C. Moore of Detroit, secretary (re-elected) and Edward H. Lerchen of Birmingham, re-elected treasurer. All are members of the board of governors along with new members Morgan Collins, John K. Bagby and John W. Shenfield and holdovers William J. Bird and C. B. Harman.

Revision of the entire second floor of the south portion, a new cocktail lounge, other new facilities including a new women's locker room and lounge; a new mixed grille and enlargement of the men's grille are major items. The club's main entrance will be new, with a covered access, new approach and vestibule, and revision of the clubhouse area south of the lobby. A new manager's office is included.

Parents Face Jail for Snubbing School

VERSAILLES, Mo. (AP)—Unless they change their minds or win an appeal, Mr. and Mrs. William Cheney face 10 days in jail for refusing to send their 7-year-old daughter to school.

The Cheneys contend an open storm cellar makes the school grounds dangerous and say there is no playground supervision.

Circuit Judge Claude E. Curtis imposed the jail term Monday, plus a $10 fine, but delayed execution of the penalty 30 days to give the Cheneys an opportunity to appeal.

Cheney is a high school English teacher at nearby Eldon, Mo., his wife is a former schoolteacher. They said they had set up an exacting second-grade program at home for their little girl Stephanie.

Judge Curtis said this was not enough to comply with Missouri's school attendance law since it did not provide the social contacts a pupil has at school.

City Considers Two Ordinances

Public Nuisance Law, Bottled Gas Restriction Proposals Under Study

Two proposed city ordinances were introduced to the Pontiac City Commission last night. Both will be up for possible adoption next Tuesday.

Fire Marshal Charles Metz asked consideration of an ordinance regulating and licensing the use of liquid petroleum gases in the city.

The second ordinance is proposed to be the city's first public nuisance law which would repeal the one paragraph 1874 law now on the books.

City Attorney William A. Ewart drafted the new law prohibiting the keeping of certain animals (not including dogs, cats and most household pets) in Pontiac, requiring the keeping of sanitary areas where allowable pets are kept, making it unlawful to occupy condemned premises, listing the right of entry of a health officer to inspect premises, and other clauses.

"If we don't have the weapons to work with, we're powerless," Ewart said explaining the need of the ordinance. Would require permits.

The suggested bottled gas ordinance would require permits from the city building inspector before containers in excess of 125 gallons could be installed.

The law would prohibit the use and storing of liquid petroleum gases in the No. 1 fire limits or the central downtown area except for a one-year period or until natural gas is secured.

Other provisions include safety measures mandatory before a permit for installation would be granted.

Area Man Belly Lands Plane at City Airport

While three Waterford Township fire trucks, police cars, and an ambulance stood by, a Drayton Plains pilot belly-landed a twin-engine plane yesterday at Pontiac Municipal Airport.

Gordon Trevelthan, pilot for Allen Anderson & Co., Inc. of Birmingham, walked away from the $70,000 plane without a scratch. The plane suffered $500 in damages according to Homer C. Hoskins, manager of the airport.

Hoskins explained that Trevelthan radioed the field asking ground observers to inspect the plane's front tricycle landing gear. A second plane went aloft to get a closer look at the gear. Examination proved it apparently had jammed.

After calling for the emergency vehicles, Trevelthan brought the craft down on a grassed section of the field.

Drain Authority Plans to Avert Storm Disaster

BIRMINGHAM (AP)—"What do we prepare for the once-in-ten-year storm, or the worst one in 100 years?" members of the North Evergreen authority are asking themselves.

They mulled the question over by themselves yesterday morning, and have called in their engineers of the Ann Arbor firm of Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May for a conference on the question tomorrow morning.

The authority members, meeting in Birmingham municipal offices, yesterday studied a new suggestion by the engineers to step up treatment of storm water.

Water from storms might surpass the abilities of the Birmingham Sewage Treatment Plant if expanded for the North Evergreen use in rare, heavy storms, especially if complete treatment is required, the theory goes.

"It isn't economically possible to be ready for the one worst storm every ten years," points out James Juhl, Birmingham coordinator.

A plan of the engineers for primary and not secondary sedimentation along with chlorination, of storm waters was suggested two weeks ago by the engineers, but was rejected by Don Pierce of the Michigan State Health Department.

Pierce has not specified just what treatment he does require, but has said he will require treatment of storm waters as well as sewer waters.

Desk contents are still being sorted at the city offices following "moving day" on Monday, in which several departments changed their headquarters.

Moved into offices on the second floor at the east end of the municipal building is the city manager's staff, with City Manager Harold Schone and Assistant Manager Robert Kenning in offices off a central room, occupied by their two secretaries and coordinator James Juhl.

Across the hall on second floor, the billing section of the water department, and the city's finance department is being settled.

Below stairs, the city health department has occupied the former manager's office area.

Young Girl Treated After Being Struck

A 16-year-old Detroit girl is under treatment at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital today for a possible head injury suffered yesterday when she was struck down by a car at a Troy intersection.

Phyllis Mathews was listed in "good" condition at the hospital this morning. She was struck by a car operated by Herman L. Miner, 50, of 840 Trombley St., Troy.

Miner told Troy police he was driving slowly through a green light at Rochester and 15 Mile roads when Miss Mathews dashed out in front of his car. He said it was impossible for him to stop in time.

Sen. Johnson Eyed

Dems Look for Presidential Timber

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—There never was any doubt — after Adlai Stevenson's second defeat by President Eisenhower — that he was washed up as a presidential candidate.

So his announcement yesterday saying so only emphasized that for the next four years the Democrats will have no one man to point to as their leader.

The only question — after Stevenson's political epitaph was written in the Nov. 6 election returns — was not whether he would like a third try but when he would say he was through.

Delaying the announcement would have done no good for him or the party. If he had delayed, in the hope he might continue as party leader, he would have been disillusioned in a hurry.

NEED NEW LEADER

There was no reason for the Democrats to take guidance from a man who suffered two overwhelming disasters, particularly this year when the Democrats as a whole came out ahead of the Republicans.

On a practical day-by-day basis from now on the party leadership will be shared by two Texans: Sen. Lyndon Johnson, the Democrats' Senate leader, and Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn.

They'll have the job of guiding the Democrats in Congress toward establishment of a record on which the party can appeal to the voters in the 1958 congressional elections and in the 1960 presidential race.

The Johnson-Rayburn leadership will have to be shared to some extent with the Democratic National Committee and the Democratic state governors, who will have, or try to have, some say about the road the Democrats are to follow in Congress.

Before the 1958 congressional elections the party may suffer from disagreements between Johnson and Rayburn on one side and other Democrats in and out of Congress on the other.

JOHNSON WATCHED

Johnson in particular will be watched, especially by those other Democrats anxious to build themselves up as likely 1960 presidential candidates. Rayburn, who will be 78 in 1960, is out of consideration as a candidate.

Johnson will be only 52 four years from now. He made motions like a candidate this year but got nowhere. Although he had a heart attack a year and a half ago, he can be expected to have presidential ambitions still.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, who made two unsuccessful tries for the Democratic presidential nomination and settled for the vice-presidential spot this year, certainly shows no signs of not wanting another try. He'll be 57 in 1960.

There are others, some out in the open as men of high ambition and others who may emerge in the next four years, who will wind up in the Democratic presidential merry-go-round.

Former President Truman found out at the Chicago convention this year, when he tried to stop Stevenson's nomination, that his onetime leadership in the party is gone.

Stevenson indicated he'll have plenty to say about party affairs in the next four years. But, as a political force, he has been completely discredited.

Husband and Wife Should See Situations Through Each Other's Eyes

Experts View Empathy as Key to Happy Marriages

(This is the third of seven articles presenting case histories of "Marriages on the Rocks" — from the files of the Family Service Association of America — together with advice and opinion of experts on what can be done to prevent a marriage from breaking up. All names used in these real case histories are fictitious.)

By EDWIN DIAMOND
INS Science Writer

Experts have one key to happy marriages—something called "empathy."

Mrs. Dorothy V. Thomas, director of case work services, Washington, D.C., Family and Child Service, explains it this way:

Empathy is the ability to put yourself in somebody else's emotional shoes and judge and weigh situations as they affect that person.

In marriage, it comes down to the wife being able to see a situation through her husband's eyes and vice versa.

The professional case worker like Miss Thomas knows she cannot solve any and all marital problems singlehandedly; nor can she beat empathy into an individual.

First she tries to untangle surface circumstances and get at their deeper roots. Once these roots have been uncovered, the case worker in a low-pressure way helps the person understand how they influence and direct behavior.

Take the case of Jack and Sally Smith, an actual couple with a fictitious name but a very real problem.

Sally, 21 and pretty, had come to her local Family Service Association on the advice of a wise department store manager. A bride of less than six months, she had applied for a saleslady job. Her tense, lip-chewing manner as she filled out the job application tipped the manager that something was wrong.

The manager suggested she might need some trained person to talk to about what was on her mind. He had personal knowledge of how a trained, objective third party could help "crazy, mixed-up kids." Ten years before, his own tottering marriage had been shored up through counseling.

It took several interviews before the counselor was able to get to the root of Sally Smith's red-eyed tenseness.

TEXTBOOK CASE

When the facts, all of them, including the most intimate ones were out on the interviewer's table, they formed a textbook case of sexual maladjustment in early marriage. Sally told the counselor:

"Whenever I was doing the dishes or fixing dinner or even combing my hair, Jack would come up to me and begin to fondle me. His kisses told me he was eager to make love."

"It made me feel uncomfortable. It seemed so wrong, all this practically public love-making. I know we're married but I have to feel right about love up here (she pointed to her head)."

"I guess I'm just frigid—that's the word for wives who don't like sex, isn't it?"

"In any event, after I rebuffed him a few times he became angry. Now he stays downtown two or three times a week; he says because of 'extra work at the office' or to have 'a beer with some of the boys.' Well, I thought I'd get a job."

PROTECTIVE MOM

Further questioning brought out the facts of Sally's own childhood. Her mother had always been very protective and loving towards Sally. Her attitude towards teaching what our society calls "the facts of life" to Sally could best be summed up as "the less said the better."

In high school Sally's dating activities were closely watched by her mother. When she met Jack, through mutual friends at a picnic, his considerate, gentlemanly manner at all times captivated her.

How was she to know what he was really like, she cried, twisting her handbag fittily.

The case worker offered this comment on Sally: This young lady, like many girls in our society, was brought up to think of sex as something quite high-minded and almost mystical.

TWO EXTREMES

There are two extremes in sex education and preparation for marriage. Some mothers believe their job is to conceal facts to "protect" their daughters. Others think "everything should be put on the line" and the more direct the better.

The wise mother adopts a middle-of-the-road approach, down to earth and factual without being shocking.

In Sally's case, the girl was unprepared for her husband's quite natural feelings. Yet, because of her love for him, she was actually stirred by his actions. Afraid to respond to him and her own feelings due to her training, she sought escape from the home by taking a job.

The case worker suggested to the young bride: "Put yourself in Jack's place. Think how he must feel when you rebuff his advances. Does anyone like to be rejected?"

Sally was brought to a realization that "husbands are like that, always ardent, eager for love."

DIFFERENT MOODS

Jack in his turn received some facts of married life: "You must remember that men and women are different, in moods, needs, responses. Sally wants love, but she is anxious about it. Remember, some girls are taught to be shy."

"What she needs is more assurance of your love, other than sexual advances. That isn't all there is to marriage, is it?"

A little empathy went a long way for Jack and Sally Smith. After a half-dozen interviews at the Family Service Association, Sally knew she wanted to stay home instead of going to work. And Jack knew he wanted to come home after work.

Their happy home life together proved to be the best remedy for Sally's anxieties, a product of her paradoxical fear of and need for love.

The Smith case is cited by professional counselors as demonstration of a truce toward marital discord. In the words of a Cleveland, Ohio, case worker:

"Inevitably, we see that people who come to us because of marriage difficulties have carried over unresolved childhood problems into marriage to an extensive degree."

Holidays Mean More Guests

Be Ready for Jiffy Meals

NEW YORK (INS)—Sometimes the larger number of Christmas callers can upset the kitchen larder, so the best thing to do is to set up a "social shelf" stocked with quickie foods.

This is a sure way to remain a relaxed and gracious hostess and be reasonably unconcerned about spur-of-the-moment entertaining.

In addition to having an assortment of foods that can be turned into snacks or quick meals, it's a good idea to pile up a versatile supply of tidbits that go with drinks—canned goods like cheese, meat, fish, to be teamed with crisp crackers or melba toast.

Potato chips, French-fried onions, olives, pickles, nuts and popcorn also are excellent hostess helpers and tiny cocktail sausages and frankfurters are always a hit, particularly when served piping hot from a chafing dish.

If you follow this line of least resistance even an impromptu dinner can be easy. To avoid fuss and frenzy when the guests linger on, figure out two or three simple menus in advance, then stock up on the foods that will go together.

Canned hamburgers, a whole chicken or pre-cooked ham are bulwarks for such occasions as well as small cans of potatoes, green and yellow vegetables that need only to be heated.

Desserts can be effortless too if you have a supply of canned fruits on the shelf. You can combine them for a compote of mixed fruit or use them as toppings for ice cream.

Bob Considine Says:

International Harmony Reigns at Olympics

MELBOURNE (INS) — Basketball has proved so popular at the Olympic games that Russia is seriously considering inventing it. But in this atmosphere of muscular harmony, I doubt if the Americans would resent the claim.

If there was going to be a serious incident in these Olympics it was calculated to rise out of the final game of the basketball tournament, the long-awaited playoff between the Americans and the Reds.

Our side, infinitely better, made monkeys of the Muscovites. But when it was ended, the Reds swarmed all over the Americans with handshakes and embraces.

These same affectionate scenes took place also in the hot wake of the 4 x 100 meters relays, in which our side was forced to break a legendary 20-year-old record in order to beat out a Russian quartet which tied the old mark.

The winded Russian anchor man threw his arms around Bobby Morrow, who had just beaten him by a step or two, and if it wasn't a genuine gesture it will do until something better is engendered by the human emotion mechanism.

The Russian relay team knelt down smiling behind the seated

American team for a group picture a moment later.

OKAY, BUDDY

At Olympic Village the other day a young Russian boy came up to 17-year-old Frank McKinney Jr. of the American swimming team, stuck out his paw, pumped McKinney's hand and said his only word of English.

"Okay," he said.

He repeated it several times and might still be doing it if a Russian guard had not taken him away.

This pocket of good fellowship in a world of hate-bripping hatreds, tears and suspicions might well be studied by the United Nations.

But no claim is made here to a monopoly on the amenities of international relations. Baron de Coubertin, who organized the modern Olympics in 1896, never believed its competitors should feed exclusively on Pabulum.

"Heaven preserve us from a society in which there are no excesses and where any expression of impassioned feeling must be kept imprisoned within the narrow confines of convention," he said in the midst of the rhubarbs which flourished in the 1908 games at London.

STRUGGLE IS VITAL

"I thrill to the realization that this sort of wrestling is great sport even when our adversaries disregard the niceties of the classic techniques and go in for catch-as-catch-can methods.

"The important thing in life is not the victory, but the struggle, the essential thing is not to have conquered but to have fought well. To spread these precepts is to develop a more valiant, more strong, more generous humanity."

Official Attitude: Wait and See

Egypt Remains Skeptical

CAIRO (INS)—The Anglo-French announcement of withdrawal from Egypt "without delay" was greeted in Cairo with mixed elation and skepticism.

One authoritative Egyptian said: "There won't be any celebrations until the last enemy soldier has left our soil. We've heard promises from London before that were never kept."

President Gamal Abdel Nasser maintained the silence he has kept ever since he turned over responsibility for ousting the invaders to the United Nations.

A highly placed source said the official attitude was "wait and see."

Public elation over the evacuation—which is regarded here as a combined Egyptian-U.N. victory over aggressors—was tempered by the continued influx of refugees from Fort Said. They related stories of death and destruction caused by the invasion.

Cairo newspapers again demanded that "war criminals" of Britain,

France and Israel be forced to pay all damages resulting from the invasion.

Egyptian authorities were ready to credit President Eisenhower with playing a major role in bringing about the withdrawal announcement by holding off consent to ship oil to Western Europe.

Personal Income Up $3 Billion in October

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Commerce Department said yesterday that personal income in the U.S. increased three billion dollars in October to an annual rate of 332 billion, 600 million dollars.

One half of the gain was in wages and salaries, particularly in the automobile industry where employment grows sharply with the model changeover. Longer hours and higher wage rates also contributed.

Malta, British base in the Mediterranean, is about 35 square miles in area.

THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

Chapter 25

I knew what had happened to Anita Farrell. She had said good-bye to Steve after his dance lesson, closed the door behind him. She had turned and seen the cut-out on the floor. Curious, as intrigued as I had been, she had picked it up and, instantly, had died. But there was nothing lethal about it. Anita had been shot to death. Then why the silhouette?

I knew why. I had had the answer all along. The grill work in the ceiling was the answer after all. The killer had dropped the silhouette through the grill.

Nothing could be less characteristic of its artist than a black cut-out, nothing less traceable to the person who had made it. It hadn't mattered which side it lighted on. The needle in it weighted it enough to make it fall straight down and land beneath the grill. Anita had been shot from up there, shot in the back as she stooped to pick it up. That made the angle by which the bullet entered her body the way the killer wanted it . . . on a line parallel to the floor.

That made it seem that the murderer was someone who had stood in the room with her, her last pupil, the Walter.

The killer was above me now, waiting for me to bend over the silhouette, to move into the position he wanted. I forced my eyes to look into that black checkered square of the ceiling.

I could see nothing behind it but darkness. And yet the killer was up there watching me, waiting for me to touch the trap he had set, waiting to shoot.

But I wouldn't touch it. By now, I suddenly realized, he must know that I had stumbled on the truth, that now I wouldn't touch it. And I understood why he hadn't already sent a bullet crashing down.

He was waiting for me to move, to step out from the wall. Flat-tened against it as I was, I was out of his range. The size of the grill kept me out of his line of fire. He could probably see no more of me than my feet.

I looked toward the door. To reach it, I would have to pass too close to the grill. I would make myself an easy target for him. My eyes circled the room, the shining, mirrored walls, the panel with the black knobs that were the music regulators, the telephone.

The phone was only a few feet from me. I started inching toward it, my back glued to the wall, my eyes fastened on the black hole above. My hand touched the phone's smooth coolness and I raised it to my lips.

"Leone," I whispered. "Leone!"

There was no answer. Frantically, I jiggled the hook.

"Leone," I said again. "Leone, please . . ."

The phone on her desk had rung. It buzzed automatically when a studio phone was lifted. Leone was there, she had to be there. It was four o'clock, the classes were changing now. Leone would be assigning new students to studios, calling teachers, scribbling appointments in her book. She was always at her desk when the classes changed, she never left it then . . .

But there was once when she had.

"I remember that one time and my hand, clutching the phone, fell limply to my side. I remembered sitting in the reception room that evening as the classes changed. I remembered the pupils moving to and from the elevators, the smart, statuesque receptionist escorting a newcomer to an interview and then, a minute later, Steve swinging up the corridor from Studio K.

I knew now why the telephone went unanswered. Leone Webb wasn't at her desk. She was huddled above me, watching me, waiting for me to move.

The sharp sound came from the grill work. I saw a corner of it being slowly forced up, bent backwards. The triangle of cleared space increased . . . and a woman's hand pushed a gun down into the room and turned it toward me.

I plunged headlong for the door, and I saw it open. Steve was coming into the room, Bolling behind him. I shouted. "No, Steve, stay back . . ."

There was the crack of a shot, but it was Bolling who fired it from the doorway. I heard a scream and I turned in Steve's arms in time to see the gun clatter onto the studio floor from the small black triangle in the ceiling.

I heard Bolling's voice. "Mrs. Barton . . ."

"Connie's all right," Steve said. "She's fine."

Steve, Lieutenant Detective Bolling and I suspended all talk of murder while Bolling concentrated on executing a miracle of modern parking. He gentled the police car into an impossibly small space in front of the Bartons' Lexington Avenue residence and looked to us for approval of his feat. I smiled at him fondly; I smiled at Steve fondly. I was fond of those two boys.

Steve had found the answer to the murder in the tape recordings. He had figured out that Leone Webb was Anita's killer. He had rushed that information to Bolling and proved to him that he was right. Together they had gone to the Crescent School.

When they had not found Leone at her desk in the reception room, they had immediately set out for me and Studio K . . . and here I was, able to smile fondly at those two fine fellows, and there was Leone, in a hospital, with a shattered wrist and with cops in attendance.

Steve helped me out of the car, and I enjoyed the way he held my arm . . . so tightly that it hurt. Mr. Golden, our janitor, came running up out of the vestibule. I had never seen Mr. Golden so excited before; he was hopping.

"Mr. Barton, Mr. Barton, I been phoning all over for you!"

"Why?" Steve asked. "What's happened?"

"A burglar! In your apartment! I caught him! He's in jail!"

"A burglar . . ."

"Yeah!" Mr. Golden guffawed a fine, scornful laugh. "He got himself locked in your bedroom closet, a fine burglar! I heard him pounding and yelling! And the story he told me, ha! What a crazy story!"

"Just a minute," I said, and I never realized how small my voice could sound. "Just a minute . . ."

Mr. Golden went on shouting. "He says Mrs. Barton locked him in the closet! Why, he don't even know Mrs. Barton! He said you were a dancing teacher, your name was Hester Frost or something, he said you were a blonde . . ."

Mr. Golden choked off and gaped at me. He said, "Mrs. Barton, you are a blonde . . ."

"Just a minute," I said again. "This is all very simple. Mr. Bolling, that was no burglar, that was Ralph Tolley. I . . . I had just planned to borrow him for an hour of two . . ."

"Mrs. Barton," Bolling said. He looked as if he were going to say quite a lot more, of rather a serious nature. But he only shook his head and said, "Mrs. Barton, Mrs. Barton."

"I'll write him a nice note," I said. "He was very sweet and cooperative."

"Mrs. Barton," Bolling said a few more times.

Upstairs Bolling used our phone to liberate Mr. Tolley. Steve used our gin and vermouth and added a batch of Martinis. I used our love seat, all five and a half feet of it. I was rather tired, not sleepy, but tired. It had been a busy day.

"Steve," I said, "what was in the recording that tipped you off to Leone?"

Hungarians to Holland

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (U.P.)—The Netherlands government today announced it will take 1,000 more Hungarian refugees—a total of 3,000. In addition the government will accept 2,000 Hungarian refugees on a temporary basis.

Deported Jews Arrive in Israel

Egypt Denies Terror; Expect Large Groups to Cross Border

HAIFA, Israel (U.P.)—Twenty-nine deported Jews arrived Tuesday from Egypt. Israel thinks they may be the vanguard of thousands anxious to flee the Nile country.

Egypt denies reports abroad that it has launched a reign of terror on its 50,000 Jews. It says some are leaving of their own accord. A correspondent inside Egypt reported 250 to 500 Jews have been arrested and 250 to 500 deported since the Israel invasion Oct. 29, but that a rumored mass exodus has not materialized so far.

The 29 told of sudden arrest in Cairo, imprisonment and seizure of their property, and finally expulsion.

One said he was beaten up in a Cairo jail where 500 Jews were held. He said he did not see his family after his arrest.

Israel Premier David Ben-Gurion has charged that Egypt imposed a Hitlerite reign of terror on all its Jews who tried to hold fast to their faith.

A dispatch from Cairo pieced together this picture from government, diplomatic, Jewish and international agency sources:

Egyptian officials say 250 Egyptian Jews have been interned for engaging in subversive activity. Jewish sources say closer to 500 are under arrest.

The Egyptians say 250 alien or stateless Jews suspected of subversive activities have been deported. Jewish sources say this group also numbers nearer 500.

Egypt is encouraging more than 4,000 Jews with French passports to leave—not because they are Jews but because they are French and thus enemy aliens since the British-French invasion of Egypt.

The property of 105 Jewish firms and 529 Jewish individuals has been seized as enemy alien property. But there appears to be no attempt in Cairo to whip up public feeling against Jews.

Doctor Collapses, Colleagues' Fast Action Saves Life

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (U.P.)—When Dr. Frederick C. Hoebel collapsed at a friend's house Saturday night, two other doctors quickly cut open his chest with a penknife and started massaging his heart. The Colorado Springs Medical Center reported today he has improved rapidly and probably will recover with few if any after effects.

A spokesman at the center said its records show only three other cases where doctors were able to get a heart to work again after a lapse of as much as four minutes.

Dr. Hoebel's collapse was attributed to a heart attack. He is 46.

The two doctors maintained his respiration by mouth-to-mouth breathing. They continued to massage his heart while he was taken to the hospital in an ambulance. It was two hours before his heart started beating normally again.

About 50,000 towns and villages in the U. S. have no rail outlets and depend entirely on motor transportation.

It's a Whiz at Everything a car should do

It turns out that the 1957 Buick is far more than just a brand-new automobile.

It turns out that this new '57 Buick is winning the raves with a new kind of going and a new kind of stopping—a new kind of handling and a new kind of road sureness—a new kind of safety and a new kind of comfort.

We'll be specific.

When you press the pedal of a new '57 Buick, the response is literally instant . . .

Because the high-torque power of a few 364-cubic-inch V8 engine is delivered in the split of a second through a new full-range Variable Pitch Dynaflo* that's immediate in its oil-smooth action.

When you brake to a stop, you and the car stay on a level plane . . .

Because an ingenious new ball-joint suspension in every '57 Buick virtually ends the down-in-front dip that cars have on sudden stops.

When you take a turn or swing into an "S" curve, you still hug the road like a streamliner on rails—

Because under you is a massive wide-frame new chassis that "nests" the whole car inches closer to the road with the lowest center of gravity in Buick history—yet with no change in road clearance.

And when you sit in the deep comfort of those soft wide seats, you can drive with the pleasant ease of a clear conscience, without watching the speedometer . . .

Because only in Buick today can you have an ingenious new Safety-Minder* that acts as a warning sentinel for the miles-per-hour you preset for yourself.

There are many other new things that make this gorgeous Buick a car of limitless wonders—from the bigger and more rakish windshield that makes seeing more relieving, to the extra roominess that's so surprising in this beauty with the sports-car lowness.

But there's nothing like a firsthand sampling to know how modern the newest thing on wheels really is. Come in today for your meeting with the newest Buick yet.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special. Safety-Minder standard on Roadmaster, optional other Series.
