Mounties Arrest Ervin Brother Near Ottawa

One of two Pontiac brothers on the FBI's "most wanted" list has been captured and is being held in jail in Ottawa, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police announced yesterday.

The Mounties said that Charles E. Ervin may be deported from the country. He has been living in Ottawa under an assumed name for several months.

The FBI in Detroit said they had received information that Ervin had worked in Montreal from March 1966 to March 1967 before moving to Ottawa.

He was using the name of Herbert Rodden, according to the FBI, and had dyed his hair and eyebrows black and he had grown a Vandyke beard.

Ervin was unarmed and offered no resistance when taken into custody.

YOUNGER BROTHER

Ervin's younger brother, Gordon D., also is believed to be in Canada and may be in the Montreal area, according to police.

The brothers were serving sentences of 50 to 60 years when they escaped from the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson Oct. 28, 1965.

They had been convicted of an armed robbery in Washtenaw County in 1964. Mounties said that Charles Ervin was arrested by Mounted Police at Hawkesbury, 65 miles east of Ottawa, on July 25.

Scars on his face indicated that he may have undergone surgery in an attempt to hide his identity, police said.

Charles, 52, and Gordon, 41, have been on the FBI's most wanted list of criminals since last April.

They escaped from the state prison by cutting their way through a trusty compound fence.

ATTEMPTED ESCAPE

During their trial, they broke out of a court detention room and crawled onto a ledge before being recaptured.

Gordon was wounded by a policeman's bullet and Charles was injured in a 40-foot leap.

15 Injured in Alpena

ALPENA (AP)—At least 15 men were reported injured today when an Ohio National Guard truck swerved off M66 about 15 miles west of Alpena and crashed into a ditch.

State Police reported that 20 men on the truck, 15 were taken to the Alpena General Hospital, and five were believed to be in serious condition.

N-Accord Is Seen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ambassador William Foster disclosed today that he is rushing back to Geneva in expectation of a prompt agreement with Russia on a draft of a nuclear nonproliferation treaty and its presentation promptly to an 18-nation disarmament conference.

Foster conferred with President Johnson about the matter this morning.

He had come in from Geneva Wednesday to testify in Congress on appropriations and expected to stay for some time.

But word came through, he told reporters, that the Soviet Union now is ready to agree on a draft treaty—although there will be one major blank in it.

This blank is on the issue of inspection and safeguards.

MATTER OF NEGOTIATION

The treaty and the discussions surrounding it have been a matter of negotiation for months.

Laying a draft before the disarmament commission would give various other nations a chance to consider terms on which the two principal world powers have agreed.

And this would be a step toward eventual presentation of the treaty to the United Nations General Assembly for signature by member countries.

GOP Antiriot Plan Is Outlined

COMMON CONCERN — New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller (right) and Gov. George Romney converse privately as they prepare to meet newsmen yesterday in New York with six other Republican governors. Rockefeller was chairman of the session designed to draw up action programs to deal with racial tensions in the cities. The governors charged that effectiveness of federal programs was inhibited by unnecessary administrative inflexibility.

Detroit Sought in Kidnap of Bloomfield Twp. Girl, 19

A federal warrant has been obtained today for the man accused of kidnapping a Bloomfield Township girl and driving her to Bowling Green, Ohio.

Bloomfield Township police identified the suspect as Frank Patterson, 32, of Detroit, a guard for Ogle Security Co., Detroit. He is 5 feet 6, 165 pounds, with gray-green eyes.

He is being sought in the kidnapping of Diane C. Brown, 19, of 1070 Northover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Brown. She is a student at Adrian College and was working for the summer at Sears at the Oakland Mall, Troy.

Police said a man answering Patterson's description used a ruse to capture the girl while she was driving home on I-75 at 2:30 p.m., Wednesday. Previously he had taken a uniform, car with flasher and pistol from the security firm, police said.

According to accounts, he forced the girl to stop, then said she was under arrest for speeding. He got in her car and drove it south, abandoning the flasher car which was later recovered.

LECTURED ON SPEEDING

In the Royal Oak area he lectured her on speeding, pointing to wrecked cars and a cemetery. He then pulled his pistol and handcuffed and bound the girl, police say.

Later he released her and forced her to call her parents and say she had to work late. He then proceeded to drive to Ohio. She persuaded the suspect to stop at a restaurant to eat.

She escaped by dashing into the kitchen and yelling for help at 7:30 p.m. — after five hours of captivity. The man fled with her car.

Contacted yesterday, Mrs. Brown said her daughter "has been through a very trying experience for a young girl."

NERVOUS REACTION

She said her daughter was calm when she first arrived home, but suffered a nervous reaction later. She was not available for comment.

Police said the girl told them she had not been harmed in any way by the man.

A police spokesman said the man has no criminal record.

Pontiac Area's 48 Is Low for Season

Michigan was the coldest spot in the nation today as both Grant and Pellston reported overnight lows of 34, the U.S. Weather Bureau said.

The mercury dipped to 48 at 7 a.m. today in downtown Pontiac, a new low for the season. The temperature had warmed to 67 by 1 p.m.

The Weather Bureau forecasts fair and warmer for the next two days. Here is the official day by day report:

TODAY — Sunny and cool, high 87 to 75. Fair and cool tonight, low 47 to 53. Northerly morning winds 10 to 20 miles becoming light and variable to night.

TOMORROW — Sunny and warmer, highs in the 70s.

SUNDAY — Fair and warmer. Precipitation probabilities in percent are: today 5, tonight and tomorrow near zero.

City Hospital Starts Annex

Pontiac Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. yesterday joined Aleck Capsalis, chairman of the Board of Trustees of Pontiac General Hospital, in ground-breaking ceremonies for a $820,187 annex to the hospital.

The new building, which has been designed primarily for treatment of emergency cases, will be separate from the main hospital but will be connected to it by a tunnel.

It will be located on Seminole immediately south of the present maintenance building and will have basement and street level floors.

Capsalis said it will be three times larger than the present emergency area and will be equipped to provide for major and minor services peculiar to emergency patient care thus enabling the hospital to handle the constant increase in patient load.

He noted that in 1966, 42,000 persons

Eight Governors Offer 60-Point Urban Program

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight Republican governors say prompt, firm law enforcement is needed in preventing riots and they outlined a 60-point program for dealing with social injustice and lawlessness.

In presenting their "action program" to deal with "the tragic epidemic of riots," the governors charged yesterday the federal government had failed to provide adequate solutions for the nation's urban racial problems.

The governors were summoned by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as chairman of the policy committee of the Republican Governor's Association to discuss means of easing racial tensions in American cities.

Their report, issued after a day-long closed session, said the action program was designed to "inaugurate a new era of creative state leadership to meet a national crisis of social injustice and lawlessness." Michigan Gov. George Romney said he felt the most important recommendation was that dealing with prompt law enforcement.

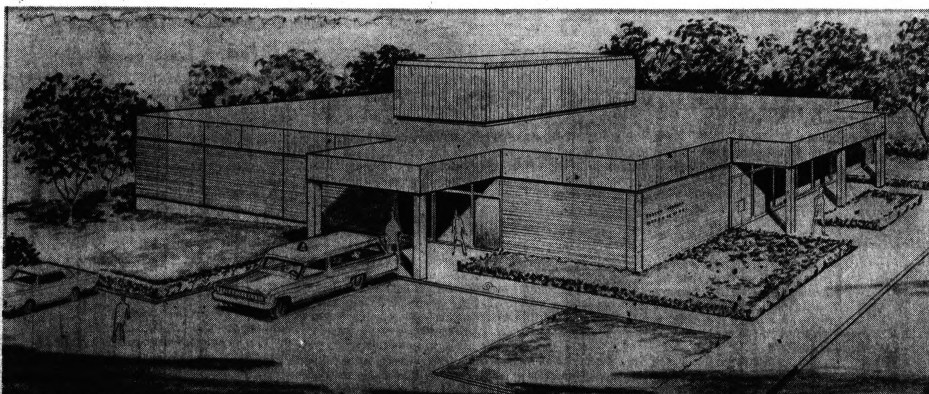

The governors also recommended that the federal government "emphasize now the National Guard's responsibility to serve as a tactical force for maintaining order within the states as well as its responsibility in national defense."

ATTENDING GOVERNORS

Besides Rockefeller and Romney those attending were Govs. John Love of Colorado, Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania, John A. Volpe of Massachusetts and Nils A. Bie of South Dakota.

To aid the disadvantaged areas directly the governors proposed seven measures:

- Transform slums into decent communities.
- Improve educational opportunities.
- Improve public service to individuals.
- Expand cultural and recreational opportunities in slum areas.
- Encourage individual citizen and private institution participation.
- Encourage speed, flexibility and adequate funding of federal programs.

UAW Charges GM Shuns Parity Issue

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors Corp. officials today studied the charges that the giant auto maker bargained in bad faith on a union proposal aimed at protecting jobs and standards of the corporation's U.S. workers.

The union has made wage parity between U.S. and Canadian workers a major issue in current contract talks.

Although the UAW cannot legally bargain in Detroit for Canadian workers, it has sought a clause in the U.S. contract that would bar the company from paying Canadian workers lower wages for the same work.

The charges filed with the NLRB accuse GM of refusing to bargain on that issue.

TIME FOR STUDY
GM said it will not comment on the charges until it has had time to study them.

Leonard Woodcock, director of the UAW General Motors department, said GM's 25,000 Canadian employees are paid an average of 45 cents an hour less than their 400,000 American counterparts. The U.S. workers earn an average of $3.41 an hour.

In another development, UAW officials said they probably will have no comment until the end of the month on a request by American Motors Corp. that the UAW agree to extend its contract with AMC for two years.

The financially troubled company Thursday asked that the contract be extended without changes except in the cost-of-living provisions.

BARGAINING RECESSED
Bargaining between the union and AMC was recessed until Aug. 29 and UAW officials said they probably will not comment on the request until that date.

"American Motors' current financial condition is a matter of public knowledge," said Frank G. Armstrong, the company's administrative vice president.

To the Gallows, Please

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tourist stopped a newsmen in the U.S. Capitol Thursday and asked: "Which way to the gallows?"

"The gallows?" he replied.

"Yes, the gallows," the young lady said. "I want to see the senators."

GALLERIES?
"You mean the galleries? Straight down this hall."

"Oh, yes — that must be what he meant," the young lady said.

'U.S. Marines in Viet Need More Copters'

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI) — Marine Corps Commandant Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr. said today that the U.S. Marines need more helicopters to support the ground forces in Vietnam.

The general told newsmen the Marines have the equivalent of five divisions of men in Vietnam but have only four helicopters.

The reported shortage has been reported since the "choppers" the U.S. ground forces use in spotting and assaulting Communist units and in supplying their own troops.

Helicopters often provide the only communication and transport between the Leatherneck bastions strung out along the North-South Vietnam border.

Green, making his sixth tour of the war zone, indicated the 45,000 additional troops President Johnson has approved might not be enough.

The general also indicated his Marines might once more push into the southern half of the six-mile Demilitarized Zone to clear out Communist build-ups in the so-called neutral zone.

Head of Congo Gets Ultimatum

Offensive Threatened by Mercenaries' Chief

BUKAVU, The Congo (AP) — Maj. Jean Schramm, while mercenary chief, says he may mount an offensive against the Congolese capital of Kinshasa unless President Joseph D. Mobutu confers with him on the Congo's future.

The Belgian-born leader told reporters he will give Mobutu 10 days to act on his proposal.

"It is up to Mobutu now to contact us, to take the first step," Schramm said Thursday at his headquarters in a Bukavu hotel. "We consider Mobutu is wrong."

"I count 10 days from now for Mobutu's answer," he said. "But I add that as soon as my measures of a greater scope and, who knows I could even go so far as launching an offensive against Kinshasa."

"But I add that as soon as my men, I mean all my men, will be in safety, I shall definitely leave the Congo."

The Belgian Radio in Brussels quoted Radio Kinshasa as rejecting any mercenary proposal to talk with Congolese authorities. It quoted the broadcast as adding that Mobutu could not stoop to talk to assassins.

RFK: Ky Regime Interferes With Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy said today there is "mounting and distressing evidence" South Vietnam's military regime is interfering with free choice in that nation's coming presidential election.

The New York Democrat said such interference would be a betrayal of the cause for which 12,000 Americans have died.

And his New York colleague, Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits, said the South Vietnam elections should "mark the beginning of an end of our commitment there." He said a new, elected government should set to work to take responsibility for its own security, and the United States should look toward disengagement.

Presidential elections are scheduled in Vietnam Sept. 3. Eleven tickets are entered, including a military pairing composed of Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, chief of state, and Nguyen Cao Ky, now premier. Ky is running for vice president.

Kennedy charged that would-be candidates have been barred from the election because their views were deemed unacceptable; that opponents of the Ky regime have been jailed; that the presidential campaigners are being hampered by harassment; and that the military government is moving to perpetuate its power whatever the election outcome.

"If free elections are not possible there," Javits said, "we have every right, once the elections take place, to begin to consider phasing out our commitment."

"We would no longer have a common purpose with the government of Vietnam," Kennedy said. "For our commitment is to the Vietnamese people—not to any government, not to any generals, not to the powerful and privileged few."

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said tactics employed by the military government in the current election campaign render "incongruous, at the very least," President Johnson's recent decision to send at least 45,000 more American troops to Vietnam.

SENATE SPEECHES

Kennedy, Case and Javits talked of the Vietnam political situation in Senate speeches prepared for delivery today in anticipation of debate on a $70 billion defense appropriation bill. It is expected to come up for action next week.

Their statements followed by a day issuance by 57 Senate Democrats — representing both backers and opponents of President Johnson's Vietnam policies — of a statement warning the South Vietnamese election may be a sham unless steps are taken to guarantee freedom of choice.

"We urge the President to make the strongest representations that steps be taken promptly to prevent a further eroding of confidence in the elections," they said, adding the elections may be regarded "as little more than a sham unless remedial measures are undertaken immediately by the Ky government and the military group in authority."

Mounting congressional concern over the coming elections came amid a burgeoning controversy over U.S. military strategy in Vietnam.

NEW HEARINGS

As Senate advocates of a step-up in the air war against North Vietnam demanded anew the lifting of targeting restrictions, a group of 21 House Republicans called for a new round of hearings on the 1964 Gulf of Tonkin resolution, which opened the way for escalation of the U.S. commitment in Vietnam.

Led by Rep. Paul Findley of Illinois, the Republicans said new hearings should consider whether the resolution "empowers the President to carry forward military operations of the current scope and magnitude in Southeast Asia."

County Law Officials Cite Risks

Avon's Safety Corps: a Legal Liability

By JEAN SAILE

AVON TOWNSHIP — Is it legal? The question was seriously considered yesterday by county law officials in regard to the township's new Public Safety Corps.

Proposed as a 1,000-man force of home owners to handle civil disorders and vandalism, the corps Wednesday night got the Township Board's nod of approval.

Supervisor Cyril Miller, spark plug of the organization, was authorized to appoint a part-time public safety director whose job would presumably be the organization of such a corps.

LIABILITY RISKS

"So many people acting on behalf of the township would increase its liability risks," said Oakland County Prosecutor Jerome C. Bronson in a review of the situation.

"There are many hypothetical cases which could occur," he said.

"A corps member rushing to the scene of a disturbance might run over a child in the street."

"Unnecessary force might be used."

IMPROPER ARREST

"An improper arrest might be made."

"The wrong man might accidentally get shot."

"Since any corps member would be acting on behalf of the township, litigation would be a likely consequence," Bronson remarked. "And it would likely be expensive — even if it were settled without a judgment."

"As such it would increase the legal obligation of the residents. They are the one who must determine if this risk of liability is necessary."

WHO HAS SAY?

"When does a situation become an emergency?" Bronson asked. "Who says? I personally have not been advised of any such situation in the county by any local law enforcement agency."

He concluded, "I am sure the township must have consulted its legal advisers before entering into such a program."

Avon Township Attorney Rex Bebout, when contacted by the Pontiac Press, said "I have not been consulted on any phase of it (the Public Safety Corps).

All I know is what I read in the papers." Former Birmingham Police Chief Ralph Moxley, now director of the Oakland Police Academy which teaches riot control among other programs, said, "Our experience has shown that a small group of trained officers can handle a mob more effectively than a large number of untrained men."

CARRIED AWAY

"It is so easy for untrained men to get carried away emotionally that they sometimes wind up doing more harm than good."

Moxley said he would recommend a 40-hour training course and the deputization of every man involved in such a corps.

RALPH MOXLEY

"There can be serious consequences if they exceed their legal authority," he said.

"All of their actions would be subject to review — the same as the actions of the rioters," he said.

"LEGAL ANGLES"

Moxley was in favor of training that would cover the legal angles as well as the riot techniques.

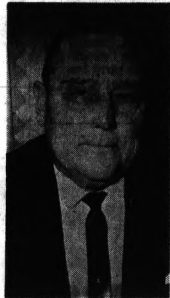

"It's just as important to know what you cannot do as well as what you can do," he said.

"Any man leaving his front yard on such a mission is on thin ground," he concluded.

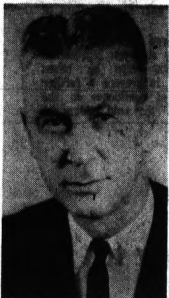

A public meeting is slated by the corps for 7 p.m. Monday at the Township Hall.

County Panel Initiates CHEC Plan to Encourage Citizens to Fight Crime

The law enforcement committee of the board of supervisors yesterday initiated plans to develop a countywide organization of private citizens to assist police in fighting crime.

The program, known as CHEC (Citizens Helping to Eliminate Crime) will be outlined to county officials from all levels of government at a breakfast meeting Oct. 4.

"This is an ideal time to introduce the CHEC program into communities," said committee chairman John S. Slavens, referring to recent riots.

The program originated in Flint and, because of its success there, has spread to a number of Michigan cities, including Pontiac, Saginaw, Grand Rapids, Bay City, Kalamazoo and Muskegon Heights, and the counties of Kent and Genesee.

The plan operates on the theory that there are witnesses to most crimes and that the offenses can be prevented if these persons immediately contact police with information.

ADDITIONAL EYES, EARS

In Flint alone, some 60,000 persons have enrolled in the CHEC program, giving police additional eyes and ears to circumstances of a suspicious nature.

Since the program began in Pontiac several months ago, 1,000 city residents have joined. They are known as CHEC-mates.

TO WEIGH RESPONSE

After the initial meeting with officials, committee members will confer with local leaders at another date to determine what response there is to the plan.

The program could be financed by service clubs, as now done in most communities with CHEC, according to committee members.

Committee member John T. Warren of West Bloomfield Township, said it must be emphasized that CHEC would not replace auxiliary police.

"On the other hand," said Warren, "this might lead communities to setting up auxiliary forces."

UAW Skilled Workers Vote to Demonstrate

DETROIT (UPI) — Skilled trades members of the United Auto Workers Union last night voted to go ahead with a planned demonstration despite UAW charges that it could jeopardize a contract settlement with the nation's auto makers.

In open defiance of the UAW leadership about 300 skilled tradesmen voted to stage a rally Aug. 23 at the Ford Motor Co. headquarters, where bargaining talks are being held.

Earlier this week the UAW national negotiating committee denounced the planned demonstration as "ill-advised and ill-timed."

The UAW feared the demonstration may snarl the bargaining and touch off rivalry between the skilled and production workers that could jeopardize a settlement.

The skilled tradesmen have been demanding special pay increases this year at Ford, General Motors and Chrysler Corp. to bring them up to the level of similar workers in other industries.

Oxford Twp. Again Tries to Get Safety Features at Intersection

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — A third attempt to get either a traffic light or turn-out lanes at the M24-Drahn road intersection has been initiated by the Township Board. The Michigan State Highway Department has been approached.

Supervisor Lee Valentine reported that since Artco, Inc., of Lake Orion has opened its new foundry on Drahn, 80 to 90 cars twice a day and equipment trucks have been added to the intersection flow.

Foundry traffic will shortly reach 200 cars twice a day, according to Shannon C. Allen, safety director.

Also requested was 950 feet of pavement to the easterly edge of foundry property. Allen said Artco would be willing to share financial responsibility for the project.

2-Township Picnic Is Slated for Sunday

Residents of White Lake and Independence townships are having their picnic Sunday at 1 p.m. at the Davisburg Park, Andersonville Road.

The event is free. Dinner is not provided.

Planned are games for children and adults, including a senior men's softball tournament. Also, a teen-age combo is slated to play.

Holly Twp. Leaders Push School Tax OK

HOLLY TOWNSHIP — Leaders of some local organizations have joined together in an effort to encourage community support of a school millage proposal, due to come before voters Aug. 31.

The electorate at that time will be asked to approve a continuation of the present 7-mill school operational tax.

In June and July, 16-mill requests were refused by voters.

Leading the campaign to win passage for the proposal are Mrs. Merton Pelton of 3211 20th, and Roger G. Gillespie of 1705 Weber.

They head a committee composed of leaders of the Holly VFW, Kiwanis,

Local 92 of the American Federation of State and Municipal Employees, Ministerial Assoc., band and athletic booster clubs, child study club, Holly Education Assoc., Jaycees and Board of Commerce.

LEADERS' ACTIVITIES

Mrs. Pelton is secretary of the Advisory Council to Holly Schools and Gillespie is president of the community Little League.

The committee, according to Mrs. Pelton, plans to print brochures describing the need for the seven mills.

An information booth in downtown Holly and a phone campaign are planned and speakers on the issue will be made available to interested groups.

Two public informational meetings are slated for Aug. 21 and 22 at Holly High School and Davisburg Elementary School, respectively. Both meetings will be at 8 p.m.

OPTIMISM EXPRESSED

Mrs. Pelton expressed optimism about prospects for passage of the millage this time.

"I think it will be approved," she said. "We believe that by election time most citizens will realize it is needed."

GEORGE DIAK

Troy Man Said Released From Jail in Romania

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Troy man was reported to have been released from a Romanian jail, pending a trial there later this month growing out of an auto accident.

A State Department spokesman said yesterday this information had been received from the Romanian Foreign Ministry concerning George Diak, 47, Troy.

The Romanians said Diak's car struck a Romanian man and wife on a motorcycle July 27, killing the husband and injuring the woman. U.S. officials expect the Romanians will try Diak for manslaughter.

The State Department spokesman, press officer Robert J. McCloskey, said the U.S. Embassy at Bucharest had not known that Diak had been jailed until his sister, a Romanian citizen, told the U.S. mission.

Diak had been held at Caram Sebes, in the western part of Romania, where the accident occurred. He had gone to Romania to visit relatives.

WITHOUT BAIL

McCloskey said the U.S. Embassy immediately asked to see Diak on July 31, and the Romanian Foreign Ministry confirmed he was being held. While not granting immediate access to Diak, McCloskey added, the Romanians said Diak was released at Caram Sebes Wednesday without bail, and is expected to arrive in Bucharest shortly.

The U.S. Embassy "will do everything it can to assist" Diak in the forthcoming trial, the spokesman said.

Lapeer County Corps to Vie in D.C.

LAPEER — The Golden Warriors Drum and Baton Corps, state champions four times, will compete Saturday in National Corps competition at Washington, D.C.

Comprising young people 15 to 19, the corps has won over 200 different awards

Sleeth to Close for Resurfacing

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — The County Road Commission announced Sleeth Road between Wikom and Bass Lake will be closed starting Monday through Nov. 1 for a resurfacing project.

Residents along the 2.5-mile stretch will be allowed access but, for others, the road commission suggests Duck Lake, Commerce, Benstein and Bass Lake roads. The $137,549 project is by Mather Construction Co. of Farmington.

Request Is Denied on District Transfer

A petition to withdraw three small pieces of property from the Lake Orion School District and add them to the Oxford district was turned down last night.

A combined hearing of the Oakland and Lapeer County Intermediate school board in Lapeer resulted in a denial of the request.

The property involved lies along Coats and Stanton roads to the south of three other parcels which were transferred from the Lake Orion to the Oxford district last fall by order of the State Department of Public Instruction.

Better access to elementary schools was the reason given for the request.

School Board Ups Novi Book Fees

NOVI — The board of education at its recent meeting raised the book fees for grades one through six to $10 this year.

The $3 increase goes for the purchase of all textbooks, not previously included in the book fee, which had only been for textbooks.

The book rental fees remain the same for the junior and senior high at $10 and for kindergarten at $5.

In other business, the board accepted bids for bus insurance, milk and gas and fuel oil.

Exam Slated for Woman in Keego Harbor Fracas

KEEGO HARBOR — Examination has been set for Aug. 29 for one of the 31 participants in the fracas on Willow Beach Drive the night of July 23.

Mrs. Emily Yousif, Highland Park, was charged with misuse of firearms at her arraignment before Judge Robert W. Carr, Independence Township.

She stood mute at the arraignment and was released on $100 personal recognizance bond.

The examination will be before Judge Christian Powell of West Bloomfield Township.

Complainant in the case is a youth, Frank C. Kusner, 1167 Nakomis, Pontiac. He claims that Mrs. Yousif shot a pistol at him.

The fracas was at the home of Sam Namy, 1990 Willow Beach, where several persons sought refuge from the Detroit riots. Twenty persons, it was reported, had gathered at the Namy home.

REPORTEDLY FREE-FOR-ALL

The use of firecrackers and name calling touched off the free-for-all between persons at the Namy home and 11 people at the Donald Likens home, 1984 Willow Beach, reported Keego Harbor Police Chief James Sisk.

It took officers from seven police departments 20 minutes to halt the fight, in which cement blocks, golf clubs and at least one hatchet were reportedly used. One man was taken to the hospital, and about six others needed medical treatment.

OTHER CHARGES

The Keego Harbor police department has questioned most of the participants and said other charges may follow.

Scientists Reject 'Earthquake Weather'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA) has made a small effort to scotch the notion that there is such a thing as "earthquake weather." It did so with an obvious lack of confidence that it would get anywhere. Old ideas, however wrong they may be, die hard.

For more than 1,500 years, according to ESSA's national earthquake information center, "the impression has been widespread that hot, sultry, and windless weather is a precursor of earthquakes."

Scientists now say this isn't so. "But," said ESSA, manifesting a mood of defeatism, "like all centuries-old theories, it will probably continue to be voiced for many years to come."

ARISTOTLE BLAMED
The villain in this controversy between the ancients and modern scientists seems to be that old fourth century B.C. Greek philosopher Aristotle. Greece has a lot of underground passages and grottoes, and Aristotle, according to ESSA, assumed that the whole earth was built the same way. He figured that many places beneath the surface were on fire. This was evidenced by the hot lava from volcanoes. Air found its way into these burning heat to such great pressure that destructive earthquakes just had to happen.

ECHO IN SHAKESPEARE
Shakespeare in Henry IV echoed Aristotle's theory on an earth suffering from a kind of colic caused "by the imprisoning of unruly wind within her womb"—a colic which, on being relieved, "tumbles down steeples and moss-grown towers."

Pontiac Motor Executive Retires

A truly grand guy by the name of MARTIN F. RUMMEL has retired from Pontiac Motor Division. MARTY, as he is known to hundreds of friends, started work some 40 years ago when the current company was the Oakland Motor Car Company.

RUMMEL

MARTY started as a college graduate trainee from Michigan State in 1927 and the next year moved into the purchasing follow-up department, and eventually buyer and purchasing director for Pontiac Motor.

Probably no single individual in the area has more friends than Marty Rummel. In his capacity as a buyer his acquaintanceships naturally are widespread.

Friends know MARTY as a true sportsman and civic leader plus a staunch supporter of his church. Anyone wishing to discuss Michigan State football lore need only mention the Spartans, and MARTY is ready to talk. In case you wonder why, he was once known as "Titan Iron Man," a tackle and captain of the 1926 Michigan State football team.

This easy-going, soft-spoken family man (a charming wife, MYRTLE, lovely daughter, MARIBEL, and son, ROGER) will not be on the shelf. We would hazard a guess that his golfing cronies at Pine Lake, and his fishing and hunting companions will have many enjoyable hours together in the years ahead.

Mert and Marty, many many more years of happiness.

New Laws Recognize Crime Victims' Plight

Crime victims are beginning to receive some attention from our governments and courts. Already New York and California have passed laws recognizing their plight in certain circumstances.

Other states have them under consideration.

The Reader's Digest devotes an article to this subject and it should receive increasing attention all over the country. Many, many years ago, "yellow journalism" extolled the virtues and misfortunes of the criminals, the killers and the defectors to the exclusion of the sufferer.

If a murderer were hanged, a few screaming newspapers ran photos of the "great man" leaving his death cell for his "last walk." His fine, old gray haired mother was described in detail as she wept silently in her vine-covered cottage and a tearfully watched the clock.

There was no mention of the mother of the innocent victim who was still hospitalized — or who had met death months before and was lying in a small grave.

Slowly public indignation killed the acceptance of these distorted versions of right and wrong. But we haven't gone far enough by miles, and miles.

Michigan is listed among the states considering new legislation on this matter.

DeGaulle Loses Friends, Alienates People

Why can't President CHARLES DE GAULLE pipe down, clam up or "get with it?"

Slowly he is alienating his neighbors and well-wishers. The current Canadian fiasco has left him with bitter enemies north of our border. He could just as well have controlled himself and kept discreetly silent. But the aging Frenchman has to sound off at the worst moments.

The British have turned thumbs down on him in earnest. His Common Market utterances put him behind the eight ball. Russia makes official use of him when the occasion presents itself, but all too often he gums up the works when Alexei Kosygin wants Johnson's ear and wants it without interruptions.

The United States has unofficially labeled him a plain pain in the neck a dozen times. The Israelis have written him off in no uncertain terms and his own countrymen have been shaking dubious heads for some time.

But where's his successor? Who can answer that? France is still a political void without the voluble old codger who still swings the biggest mallet.

Dove, Hawk Swoop on Johnson

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Around his head the doves coo and the hawks caw and President Johnson plods along, keeping the war going, sending in more men, asking a tax boost to help pay. This week a dove and a hawk swooped at the same time and MARLOW nothing illustrates better the fix he's in.

The dove was Johnson's most persistent critic, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D. Ark., who wants the war toned down.

The hawk was the leader of House Republicans, Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, who has backed the President consistently on the war. But he, too has been a critic, constantly complaining that Johnson wasn't fighting it hard enough or explaining it enough. He wants the war intensified.

Fulbright has read many ominous things into the war and this week came up with a new one. He linked Vietnam with the Negro riots in this country, saying "the Great Society has become a sick society by trying to cope with Vietnam and the riots at the same time."

"Each war feeds on the other," he said. "At home largely because of neglect resulting from 25 years of pre-occupations with foreign involvements, our cities are exploding in violent protest against generations of social injustice."

"INADEQUATE EFFORTS" He asked, "How can we commend democratic social reform in Latin America when Newark, Detroit and Milwaukee are providing explosive evidence of our own inadequate efforts at democratic social reform?"

Although both Johnson and Fulbright are Southerners, Johnson was the master pilot in getting civil rights legislation through Congress repeatedly while Fulbright voted against every civil rights bill approved by Congress in this century — 1957, 1960, 1964 and 1965.

And in 1958 Fulbright, along with 56 other Southern Democrats, signed the Southern Manifesto denouncing the Supreme Court's 1954 decision pledging by "all lawful means" to have it reversed. Johnson was banged from the opposite direction when a Ford denationalized intensification of the bombing of North Vietnam. He objected to sending one more American to Vietnam until the President ended the restraints on U.S. bombing missions against the North.

REPEATED THEME Ford was calling for heavier action against the Communists early in 1965, before this country had begun the steady bombing of the North. This has been a repeated theme of Ford's.

But Ford has also followed a line which probably irritates Johnson more than complaints that the war isn't tough enough. That's a steady plea that Johnson explain the war and the American position to the people.

For some reason Johnson, who has often talked about Vietnam, thinks he has given ample explanation. The fact is, his various statements on the war are not full-length explanations. He has made very few of those. More people than Ford are telling him so. It should be no surprise if he gives a long explanation some time soon.

'Don't Worry; It's In A Good Cause!'

David Lawrence Says:

Urban 'Marshall Plan' Not New

WASHINGTON—Vice President Humphrey has been frequently referred to in the last few days as the author of a "Marshall Plan" for the reconstruction of American cities in order to help solve problems of racial friction, riots and other disturbances.

Acutally, this idea was first advanced by the National Urban League and was discussed at a news conference in July 1963 by Negro leader Whitney Young, director of the league. It was later endorsed by James Farmer, then national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, in a book published in February 1966.

The original "Marshall Plan" for Europe was staged as a means of reconstruction in countries damaged in World War II. President Truman proposed it in a message to Congress in 1947. The project was authorized in a law passed in April 1948, and called for an expenditure of $17 billion over a four-year period.

When, therefore, the cry of a "Marshall Plan" for American cities is raised, it means that many billions of dollars would have to be provided.

Vice President Humphrey has emphasized that the project could be undertaken along with what has been called the "Model Cities Act." The purpose is primarily to clear up the slums and improve housing conditions in overcrowded areas.

$100 BILLION Preliminary estimates indicate that it would cost $100 billion over a 10-year period just for the "Freedom Budget" for the poor that is being proposed by Negro leaders.

When Whitney Young, speaker for the National Urban League, outlined his "Marshall Plan" four years ago, he urged that preferential and compensatory treatment be given Negroes to help them overcome the results of past discriminations.

Another Negro leader, James Farmer, later spoke of a domestic "Marshall Plan" as follows:
"We will need the financial resources and the concentrated effort of all levels of government, and it will take more money and concentrated effort than is now dreamed of in the philosophies of the antipoverty program."

Floyd McKissick, who succeeded Farmer as national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, declared in a speech in Harlem last week that there should be an increase of $10 billion in the appropriations for the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Members of Congress have not yet taken cognizance of the demand for a new "Marshall Plan."

While they may not object to the use of that title to describe the sociological improvements which the government is seeking to achieve in cities with congested populations, they hardly have envisaged the expenditure of tens of billions of dollars as the price of peace in the Negro neighborhoods of America's cities.

Bob Considine Says:

U.S. Officers Ask Switch to Night Fighting in Viet

NEW YORK — War correspondent R. W. Apple Jr., crack New York Times man, reports that a study made through out South Vietnam by young American officers and aides, who moved them to press their commanders for a switch from day to night fighting.

It would constitute a wrenching change for our side. We are daytime warriors by an overwhelming majority. The nights belong to the VC, the North Vietnamese intruders and the guerrillas.

It is at night that the enemy moves up his long-range mortars, sets his mines, arranges his ambushes, deploys his ground forces, and attacks, quite successfully as a rule, to one of the most remarkable logistics and service programs in the annals of war.

Night is the time of the raids against camps as small as a Montagnard stockade, manned by primitive people and the little bands of Green Berets who share their meager lot and show them how to fight.

Night also draws the suicide attacks on the big nerve centers, the ammo dumps, truck parks, airports as huge as Saigon's Tan Son Nhut, and even the inside-Saigon attempt to mortar Gen. Westmoreland's headquarters.

One of the reasons the war is costing about $2 billion a month is our efforts to dispel the pall of night by means of flares dropped by parachutes.

The flares, dazzling as falling stars, have a life cycle of about two minutes as they drift downward under their chutes.

Each flare cost, at last report, about the price of two Cadillacs, two Lincolns or two Imperials, or a middle-income house.

Voice of the People:

'Turmoil in America Is Hard to Understand'

Where is our American heritage going? I wonder if the people of America have ever stopped to consider how things look and sound to the fighting man overseas. Have they ever considered what would happen to families and sweethearts in our present turmoil and state of mind? I wonder if these people realize the effect it has on us here in Vietnam.

I have always looked forward to my return home. I had hopes of leaving this bloodshed and disorder in my past, to set aside my weapon and live a good Christian life as my father taught me from childhood. No one can truthfully tell me why these things are happening in the country I love. There is no reason for this turmoil and disorder among my brothers.

Please remember, whether Negro or white, we're fighting side by side for righteousness and our Country and our loved ones across the seas.

Fan Comments on Baseball Broadcasters

Detroit broadcasters have seen a hundred thousand pitches apiece, but they've never seen a strike anywhere except "across the corner," or "on the inside edge," or one that "just caught the outside." When Harry Hellmann was in his glory — and that was real glory in broadcasting — he said "right down the middle of Woodward Avenue," time after time. What do the modern men gain by trying to establish that no pitcher ever threw a ball right down the middle?

Question and Answer

President Johnson raised Social Security some time ago. Who are the special ones that got it? My sister's been on Social Security for quite some time, and she sure wasn't one of them.

CONCERNED SISTER

REPLY

The local Social Security office tells us Social Security benefits haven't been raised since 1965. The raise you are probably thinking of is a proposal only, and that proposal hasn't been passed by Congress.

Looking at the confusion and disorder among the Chinese Communists on the mainland, not only do the 700 million people detest the Communists, but the Communists themselves are split open, and the Communist soldiers and cadres are in a state of disunity in their goals and objectives. They find themselves in even more of a crisis of the human spirit than the Arab League insofar as affects fighting capacity.

De Gaulle Stays on Offensive

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle assailed his critics at home Thursday night as "apostles of decline" who renounce French independence and "experts in disparagement" who oppose the development of France.

In a 20-minute radio-television defense of his policies, the 76-year-old leader retreated on none of the domestic and foreign stands which this summer have aroused increasing opposition in France as well as abroad.

He enumerated his recent foreign policy stands—on Vietnam, the war in the Middle East, the European Common Market, relations with Communist nations and his support of French-Canadian separatism—and said "the fact that France is taking a position appropriately French, stupifies and exasperates the apostles of decline."

De Gaulle said nothing is more important than for France to rebuild its influence and power.

He said this is why his government recognized Communist China in 1964, and why "we condemn in regard to all states, any armed intervention in the territory of others such as in-Asia and in the Middle East, because nowadays a fire is de- testable and once lit threatens to spread far."

"Progress, independence, peace, these are the linked goals which our policy is follow- ing," he declared. "It naturally follows that this over-all action is disapproved by what one must call the school of national renunciation. To those minds, those parties, to those newspa- pers who belong to it, the idea itself that France could play a role that is its own appears to be impossible, ridiculous, even scandalous."

De Gaulle said he spoke out when he did—at the height of the French vacation season—because it as a good period for reflection. But it seemed certain that he as impelled by wide- spread newspaper criticism of his recent support of the Arabs against Israel and his speech in Canada in support of separat- ists, and by public opinion polls showing growing opposition to his social and economic reforms as well as his foreign policy.

'Canton Under Martial Law'

HONG KONG (UPI) — Hong Kong newspapers today said Communist Chinese authorities clamped martial law on Canton to quiet tens of thousands of Red Guards and workers who used molten steel as a weapon and ambushed ambulances to kill the wounded during a dusk-to-dawn battle.

Peking radio said Defense Minister Lin Biao, Chairman Mao Tse-tung's apparent heir, again appealed to the nation's armed forces to stand firmly behind Mao.

Travelers from Canton said workers splashed molten steel on the Red Guards in the Canton battle that raged for 11 hours and killed or wounded some 500 persons.

They said both sides, each apparently believing the other to be anti-Maoists, set up "murder squads" to ambush ambulances carrying casualties to hospitals.

Newspaper reports quoting the arrivals said the wounded were dragged from the ambulances and killed on the spot. Many had their noses, ears and hands chopped off. Some had their lips sliced away.

Lin's latest appeal was considered indicative of Peking's increasing concern about the loyalties of Red Guard's 3-million-man army, keystone in Mao's power struggle with President Liu Shao-chi.

Not for Irresponsible

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My 16-year-old daughter does nothing but sit and plunk on her guitar, watch TV, and listen to rock 'n' roll records. She's even too lazy to empty the waste basket in her room.

She's overweight, but the doctors say there's nothing wrong with her. She gets no exercise whatsoever and eats junk all day—candy bars, potato chips, and soft drinks.

She still has childish tantrums, yelling, slamming doors, and throwing things when she doesn't get her own way. She has no respect for her mother or me, talks back and won't take criticism.

Right now she's throwing a fit because I won't let her drive my car. A kid who still has tantrums isn't driving my car. If she doesn't respect her parents, she certainly won't respect pedestrians or other drivers. Am I right or wrong? What do you say about an irresponsible kid like this driving a car?

DADDY
DEAR DADDY: If you're asking whether or not an irresponsible kid should be permitted to drive a car, the answer is no. But be honest. Isn't this your way of punishing your daughter for being disrespectful, uncooperative, and generally obnoxious?

Your problem child needs desperately to tell her troubles to someone who understands her. Her unlovely, lazy, rebellious attitude is a cry for help. There are many fine therapists in your area. Ask your family doctor to recommend one who specializes in helping adolescents establish communication with their parents.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 14-month-old nephew whose feet turn outward when he walks. So severely in fact that the child walks sideways. My sister knows it and keeps talking about asking her pediatrician to put the child in corrective shoes. Shouldn't this have been done months before the child started to walk?

I've mentioned this to my sister several times and I don't want to bring it up again for fear she'll think I'm putting my nose where it doesn't belong.

Please don't say that if my sister wants her child to grow up with out-turned feet, it's her business, because it isn't my sister who will have to stumble through 70 years of life on deformed feet. I see her pediatrician socially quite often. Would it be unethical of me to say something to him about it?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: It's inconceivable that an aunt would be more concerned about the health of a child than the child's mother, but it's not impossible. You may not have all the facts, but on the chance that your sister is procrastinating needlessly, and the doctor is unaware, by all means, mention it to him.

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column that "in addition to teaching daughters how to cook, iron and keep house, mothers should teach them to cuddle a man, listen to him, entertain him, laugh with him, forgive him, and make him home a happy one to come home to, if they want a happy marriage."

I have always felt that way, but you put it so directly and simply.

I have three daughters and three sons. Have you similar advice for sons to follow if they are to have happy marriages?

MOTHER OF SIX

DEAR MOTHER: If a man kisses his wife good-bye when he goes to work, returns sober and kisses her hello, doesn't ask her what she's been doing all day, and keeps reminding her that she is loved and appreciated, no matter what he lacks, she won't even notice it.

How has the world been treating you?

Visitors From Other Lands

Area Families Involved in 'People to People'

Pointing out his homeland to his People to People Homes Night host is Fariqere N. Revanna (right) of Bangalore, India, deputy sales officer for Indian Light and Telephone Industry. With the rest of his group he spent a week in Detroit, also, sightseeing and resting from the tour, at the Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel.

Hosting 54 visitors from all parts of the world last night were 14 area families affiliated with the Bloomfield, Birmingham and Pontiac People to People program.

Interested people from foreign countries on a six-week tour sponsored by the International Marketing Institute ended their visit with "Homes Night" when they were invited to dine and spend the evening with People to People families.

PLANS TOUR

The Marketing Institute, from Harvard Business Institute, planned the tour with the cooperation of the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs and the Agency for International Development (AID) of the Department of State.

Host families included Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Ostot Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coppersmith, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Gay, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sloan and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Raymond.

Others were the Leslie Wares, J. Cole Browns, Lynn H. Stittles, Vaskey Nababidians, Andrew Yevichs, George Roepers and Charles Steebers.

Still others were the Magnus Von Brauns, Gerald W. Stankes, and Keith C. Rays, and Robert McKerschers.

Arranging for the evening was Mrs. Kenneth Peterson.

Newlyweds Will Repeat Vows at Church in Bride's Hometown

By SIGNE KARLSTROM

The former Christine Le Flaguais, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Le Flaguais, Caen, Normandy, France, who has spent over a year as the guest of Mrs. Marguerite Engle, left this weekend for her home in France. Before she departed, Mrs. Engle gave a dinner party at the DAC for the immediate family and some close friends.

She was also honoring her son Paul, who will leave next month for France when he and Christine will be married at her family church in Caen. A civil ceremony was performed on Friday.

MET IN FRANCE

The newlyweds met in France while Paul was attending the University of Caen. He was there as part of the Kalamazoo College program.

After the wedding, they will spend several weeks in Europe, and then Paul will bring his bride to Kalamazoo.

Mrs. Engle will attend the wedding in France, as will her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Imboden, who are spending part of the summer traveling in Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Morton Graddis are also expected to attend.

At present, Hartmut Bernauer of Frankfurt, Germany, is a guest in the Engle home.

The Ralph W. Crooks have had house guests, Mrs. Crook's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Meisner of Chicago. On Friday the Crooks entertained at dinner in their home honoring their guests and Mrs. Carl Moe who returned a week ago from a two month visit in Norway.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Hans Fredrickson and the Carl Oxfords. The Fredricksons also gave a dinner party for the Meisners.

STEAMING ALONG

Members of the Veteran Motor Car Club had a big week at Boyne Mountain recently. To be a member of this club, one must be the owner of an antique car. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Saylor prefer Stanley Steamers, of which they have three; and sons Frank D. Saylor III and James Saylor take active part in this yearly week of fun.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Bowers like their Model "T" Ford, and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Nichols have a Buick.

This is the 17th year the club has enjoyed a week of traveling in their old cars with friends from many parts of Michigan as well as other parts of America; some coming all the way from Texas.

Usually the families travel as much as a hundred miles a day, and picnics are a daily feast. The Saylor had to stop every 20 miles to get water for their Stanley, and made many friends among the farmers on these excursions.

Old Stuff Now

Maybe 'The Thrill Is Gone'

NEW YORK 10 — In 1919 when Virginia Furman became New York's first woman bank officer — an assistant secretary in charge of the women's department — her bank, Columbia Trust Company, took a quarter-page newspaper ad to celebrate the occasion.

Just the other day — nearly a half-century later — New York got its first woman vice president of a major commercial bank. Did the company, Bankers Trust, buy space to bandy Elizabeth Brady's name about the business community?

No. Her elevation received the standard treatment — a one-page release on the appointment was sent to newspapers. And a bunch of the girls took her to dinner.

That's how matter-of-fact the financial world is becoming about the heady rise of women in its midst.

No great stir, either, greeted the announcement, hot on the heels of Miss Brady's appointment, that Chase Manhattan Bank had its first woman branch manager.

But no sooner had Madeline Burgess settled herself at the manager's desk in the branch office on New York's chic East Side than the Federal Reserve Bank of New York got into the act. This largest and most influential of the 12 districts in the Federal Reserve System promoted Madeline H. McWhinney to become its first woman assistant vice president.

Each has worked long, hard and faithfully for her company to get where she is.

"The thing that thrills me most about my appointment," says Miss Brady, whose fellow workers and preferred customers call her Liz, "is how it has lifted the morale of the women in the bank. They realize that if I can do it, they can do it. Even the little mini-skirted kids who don't seem serious about anything are absolutely delighted."

Miss Brady — she was married 10 years ago to Philip C. Horter, a consulting engineer, but she uses her maiden name professionally — is a well-groomed, comfortable woman who has never forgotten that she started with the company as a stenographer during the depression.

She believes "women have as much a mind for money as men" and proudly points out that women now hold jobs in every phase of banking.

WNFGA Branch Plans Presentation

Birmingham branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association (WNFGA) has begun planning its traditional Christmas present to the community, its Christmas show.

The theme for this year's 30th annual presentation is "Let's Celebrate the Living Christmas" and is intended as a refutation of the thought held by some, that "God is dead."

At a recent meeting in the Bloomfield Hills home of general chairman Mrs. Clifford Ross, she and her committee appointees discussed preliminary arrangements which promise an outstanding production next Nov. 29-30 at the Birmingham Community House.

League Sets Plans for Its Presentation

The Junior League of Detroit, in cooperation with the J. L. Hudson Company, will present the city's most comprehensive collection of fall fashions in a show at the company's 12th floor auditorium, Sept. 12-13 at 2:30 p.m.

Madelyn Coe, Hudson's fashion coordinator, will be commentator for the show. Tea will be served afterwards. The public may attend.

Tickets can be obtained by contacting the Junior League's headquarters, Lake Shore Road, Grosse Pointe Farms.

Proceeds will be used for the organization's charitable activities.

Meadow Brook Performance Smashingly Pure Technique

By Bernice Røpeulhal
Two standard romantic compositions and two contemporary works comprised the program at last night's Meadow Brook Concert. Sixten Ehring was most inspired in his choice of material from the viewpoint of audience interest, orchestral and solo performances, and his own affinity for romantic and contemporary music.

Russian-born Vladimir Ashkenazy was the soloist in Chopin's F minor Piano Concerto. Delicacy and clean, concise technique and freshness highlighted his playing. There was none of theawkwardness, over-sentimentality, overt attempts at obvious virtuosity or effeminacy that one so frequently hears in this concerto.

NEW STRUCTURE
Rather, one heard a performance of pristine purity polished technique, marvelously controlled pianissimos and understated phrases that gave new stature to a concerto that has so often been exploited and misused with unwarranted flamboyancy and poor taste.

Brahm's Third Symphony likewise escaped the dull, ponderous reading from which it so often suffers from well-meaning orchestras and conductors. Ehring's light touch and moving tempo gave the symphony added strength and beauty, a spiritual uplift and excitement.

The undulations of the music were kept well in hand and the low instruments were not permitted to boom out and clutter up the inner voices which spoke out so expressively. It was an inspired performance, one of the most mature and artistic that Ehring has ever given.

The program opened with Alan Hovhanness "Prelude and Quadruple Fugue for Orchestra." To those familiar with the composer's philosophy and works of recent years, the Prelude and Fugue may have been a disappointment. There was none of the oriental approach or the unorthodox use of instruments which one associates with Hovhanness and his efforts to free the instruments from conventional boundaries.

Rather, this is a classic prelude and fugue, clean-cut, precise, artfully kept within traditional bounds, yet written with freshness, invention, and the master technician's hand. Ehring and the orchestra gave it a most satisfying performance, with no nonsense about it.

CLOSED PROGRAM
Another contemporary master's hand was heard in Paul Creston's "Invocation and Dance" which closed the program. After an evening marked by purity and restraint, Ehring and the orchestra pulled out all the stops and let loose with a torrent of sound and musical fireworks which was satisfying to one and all, especially the percussion section.

One could hear the influences of atmospheric composers like Griffes in the elegiac Invocation, and impressions of Ravel, early Stravinsky and De Falla in the pulsating atavistic dances which followed. The syncopated, fragmentary jazz themes were caught up in a maze of hypnotic beats that set the senses and Mr. Ehring dancing. It was a fiery conclusion to a great and spiritual evening.

On Saturday, Ashkenazy will perform Beethoven's "Emperor" Concerto, and the orchestra will feature the First Symphony by Shostakovich and the World Premiere of Krenek's "Horizon Circled," which was commissioned by the Meadow Brook Festival.

Couple Wed in Ann Arbor on Weekend

Douglas Memorial Chapel in Ann Arbor was the setting for the recent marriage of Dolores Edith Deckinger and Stephen Charles Fairbanks.

Their parents are the Hermann Deckingers of Glendale, N.Y., and Mrs. Orval Fairbanks of Bloomfield Hills and the late Mr. Fairbanks.

SILK ORGANZA

The bride was attired in a street length gown of white silk organza. She wore a lace mantilla and a shoulder corsage of white roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Manney Jr. were honor attendants for the couple. Mrs. Manney is the bridegroom's sister. A luncheon in the Camelot Room, Inn of America, in Ann Arbor immediately followed the ceremony, after which the couple left for a honeymoon in Montreal and New York.

They will return to Ann Arbor where both are pursuing post graduate studies; he seeking a master's degree in Middle Eastern language, she an M.A. in Islamic Arts. The bridegroom graduated from Cranbrook School and the University of Michigan and has served in Iran as a Peace Corps Volunteer, teaching English.

Fertilize Twice Yearly

For every 1,000 square feet of lawn, apply 25 to 30 pounds of lawn fertilizer — once in spring and once in fall.

The engagement is announced of Joyce Ann Furney to David I. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley R. Johnson of Cameron Street. She is the daughter of Mrs. Andrew Furney of Flint and the late Mr. Furney, and is a junior at Hurley Hospital School of Nursing. He is a student at Oakland Community College. Fall, 1969, vows are planned.

Adults Asked to Volunteer

There are many stimulating community service assignments waiting to captivate the interest and enthusiasm of persons who have a little time on their hands and are eager to use it to aid the less fortunate.

Important volunteer positions are now open to adults of all ages in the field of mental health.

Visiting with patients as a friendly companion is a good beginning. You can talk about books, sports, hobbies or lead a lively discussion on a pre-selected topic.

If you are artistic, talented in skills, like to dance or play cards, you will be opening up new avenues of interest for the patient.

There is much to do in mental health services. Let the Oakland County Volunteer Bureau on South Woodward in Birmingham show you the way.

FATHER GRIEVES FOR DAUGHTERS—Richard Barili, a purchasing agent, is on the verge of tears as he is interviewed yesterday on the slaying of his daughters, Roberta Ann, 6, and Cecilia Renee, 7. Their bodies were found in the Watts area of Los Angeles about 18 hours after they disappeared while playing near their suburban Altadena home. They had been strangled. Each wore only a striped blouse.

Bodies Found in Watts

No Clues in Slaying of 2 Girls

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Police said today they were without clues to the killer-rape of two young sisters, whose bodies were found in a vacant lot in Watts.

"Not one iota. Nothing," said Detective Lt. James Hamilton.

Roberta Ann "Robin" Barili, 6, and Cecilia Renee Barili, 7, were found nearly nude and strangled about 25 miles from their home in Altadena.

A resident of the south Los Angeles district spotted their bodies Thursday morning after a massive overnight search in the Altadena area. Each wore only a striped blouse. Scarfs were twisted around their necks.

NO SIGN OF STRUGGLE

"They were dead when they were put here," said Hamilton. "There is no sign of a struggle."

Police said they did not infer a racial motive from the fact the bodies were found in predominantly Negro Watts. The white girls, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Barili, lived in a racially mixed section of Altadena, which has about 40 per cent Negroes.

"It appears more likely that it was the work of a sexual deviate," said Sheriff's Sgt. Walt Thornton.

Officers fanned out through Altadena and Watts looking for clues. They are checking five foot-prints and several empty beer cans found near the bodies.

NO IDEA

At his stucco home, the girls' father, a purchasing agent for Computer-Measurements Co. in Sylmar, told newsmen he had no idea who could have killed his daughters.

Barili, 37, said his daughters—"friendly, pretty and full of life"—had gone out to play in the neighborhood Wednesday afternoon. He and his wife began looking for them for supper at 6 p.m.

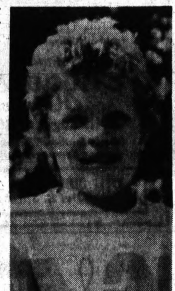

They searched with neighbors until 8:30 p.m., when they called the Altadena sheriff's substation. Barili said the girls had only two cents with them and would not have gone shopping.

WARNED ABOUT STRANGERS

"They had been warned about not talking to strangers," said Barili. "They knew not to get into strange cars."

The Barilis have two other children—Richard, 8, and Ruth, 2½.

State Police, FBI Crime Reports Don't Jibe

DETROIT (AP)—Anyone trying to reconcile the Michigan crime reports of the FBI and the Michigan State Police might as well give up.

That's on the word of Capt. John Plants, who handles the State Police crime listings.

The reporting techniques differ. And there are too many types of crimes and too many differing sources of official reports, Plants said.

Also, shadings of the various types of crime. A larceny here might not be a larceny there.

Issuance of widely varying State Police and FBI Michigan crime reports this week led to questions.

The State Police report said Michigan crime in 1966 over increased 21 per cent in 1966 over 1965. The FBI put the increase at more than 15 per cent.

While State Police reported a total of 168,513 "major" crimes in Michigan in 1966, the FBI was saying there was a total of 182,045 "serious" crimes.

Plants said he had tried his best to come up with a means for comparison of the FBI and State Police reports but found this impossible.

Why the difference? "I really don't know," Plants said after an attempt to identify it.

But he said Michigan has no uniform crime reporting system. The FBI has its own method. And the two don't tell.

At one time a proposal had been heard that all Michigan law enforcement agencies be required to make formal reports to some central agency.

So far, nothing has come of that.

Plants said he had tried his best to come up with a means for comparison of the FBI and State Police reports but found this impossible.

Plants also said the FBI "Crime Book" makes estimates of the crime total in an area on the basis of "comparable population" with another area. He said the State Police use only actual figures.

He also said a number of rural areas might make reports to the FBI and not to State Police with the result that this would "dilute" the over-all figures.

Rebuilding Cooperation

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit's official planning committee for rebuilding the city's riot-shattered areas Thursday said it will "recognize, welcome and cooperate with" a new Negro group formed for the same purpose.

In Washington, a Budget Bureau spokesman also announced Thursday it expects about $30 million in federal funds to be made available for the stricken area.

The funds would be used for housing construction, cleaning up debris and health measures.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Families of U.S. military personnel at Wheelus Air Force Base evacuated during the Mideast war now are returning to the big U.S. base in Libya, State Department officials say.

This is in line with the recently announced end to the ban on travel by Americans to Libya and a number of other Arab countries.

The travel embargo was imposed by the U.S. government during the hostilities and thousands of Americans were evacuated from Middle East lands.

Zipped Mail Surprises Auto Dealer in Pontiac

There are those who complain about the post office's slow delivery of mail, and then there are those few who are amazed at its fast service.

One of those amazed is Henry Gotham, general manager of Pontiac Retail Store, who received a letter yesterday half an hour after it was postmarked.

"This zippy zip code really works," said Gotham in a testimonial manner. He operates an auto dealership at 65 University.

Gotham said he had just told Sister May Edwins of St. Michael's High School in Pontiac on the telephone at 11:45 a.m. yesterday that "just drop the car

Defector Is Daughter of Vietcong Official

SAIGON (AP) — The 17-year-old daughter of a Vietcong province official—a guerrilla nurse herself for four years—has defected to the government and appealed to her father to return to his family, U.S. officials said today.

In a letter addressed to her father, she said his family needs him and is "looking forward to your return every hour, every minute," the official account said.

The girl was identified as Nguyen Thi Mat, who joined the Vietcong when she was 13 and was given eight months of training as a nurse. She was said to have turned herself in to national police two months ago about 20 miles north of Saigon.

NO INDICATION

There was no indication he was heading Mat's plea, officials said the girl gave this account:

Her father, now 52 and a former farmer, encouraged her when she was 13 to join the Vietcong "because it would bring me honor and I would be trained to be useful." He told her it was a good life.

Eager to be a nurse, she joined the guerrilla movement and received medical training in a hideout near her village. She was assigned later to various operational bases, most of them within a 40-mile radius of Saigon.

At first the work was challenging, but she became disillusioned and found that life with the Vietcong was not the "good life."

Living conditions were primitive, but there were shortages of food and clothing and Vietcong areas were under frequent air and artillery attack.

PERSONAL RIVALRIES

There was constant talk within the movement of revolution and killing, but there also were personal rivalries, suspicion and distrust.

"We were always being watched," she said.

Last February she was married to a 25-year-old political secretary in the National Liberation Front who was stationed near her base camp. He was killed in a South Vietnamese air attack in May. The next month, she made her decision to leave the Vietcong.

She said her husband had talked about leaving the Vietcong "but he was afraid. The Vietcong leaders are always telling the people they will be jailed or shot by the government if they give themselves up."

FELT SHE MUST HELP

She said she was afraid, too, but that her mother and her three young brothers are poor and that she felt she must help them.

Officials said she wrote the letter to her father after she came out, attached a photograph of herself and asked if South Vietnamese authorities could somehow deliver it for her. In it she said she could not understand "revolution" and "liberation," and that she was disappointed with the injustices and suspicion she had found with the Vietcong. She also told him he would be well treated by the government, as she had been, officials said.

Hovercraft Creates Legal Dither

By Science Service International

LONDON — Who or why or which or what is a hovercraft? The engineers know, the public generally knows, but governments apparently can't decide.

The vehicle travels over land and water, but it rides on air, so is it a boat? A plane? An automobile?

No one is certain just who should regulate the craft, and the temporary measures that have been taken are different in almost every country in which hovercraft are commercially used.

In England, they are treated as aircraft, licensed by the Air Registration Board, even though they can rise only a few feet off the ground. At the same time, the Intergovernmental Maritime Consultative Organization is trying to lay out safety standards as though they were ships.

U.S. DITHER

The United States is not sure what they are either. More than a year before scheduled hovercraft service began between San Francisco and Oakland, Calif., seven Federal agencies tried to straighten out the mess they faced.

Included were the Maritime Commission, the Commerce Department, the Federal Aviation Agency, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Civil Aeronautics Board and the Bureau of Customs.

The final decision was that jurisdiction should be in both the Coast Guard, since the craft were traveling over water, and the CAB, since they operated over a route usually served by helicopters.

A 3RD VOICE

In addition, the Customs Bureau got its hand in by saying that as long as they were on water, hovercraft could be defined as "vessels," and were thus subject to all of Customs' rules relating to "vessels generally."

Canada is another country with a double standard for hovercraft. The Air Transport Board gives out the licenses, but inspections are required by the National Harbors Board and the marine division of the Department of Transportation.

Officials close to the program believe that full control in Canada may end up with the maritime, however, and that the country will decide that the craft are less like low-flying planes and more like high-rising ships.

Other countries that have tried out commercial hovercraft service include Norway, Scotland, Japan and West Germany.

Junior Editors Quiz on PENNSYLVANIA DUTCH

QUESTION: Why do the Pennsylvania Dutch people have that name?

Answer: One might think that the Pennsylvania Dutch had descended from Dutch settlers coming over from Holland. Actually, the ancestors of most of these people came from Germany and the German part of Switzerland.

They were called Pennsylvania Dutch because at that time Dutch was used to mean German, being very close in sound to the German word Deutsch, also meaning German.

Settling in eastern Pennsylvania during the 1600's and 1700's, these German immigrants were deeply religious. Most belonged to the Lutheran or Reformed churches and were called the church people.

Some, the plain people, opposed formal church practices. Among these were the Amish and Mennonites, who live today, with little change, in Lancaster county.

The Pennsylvania Dutch have contributed much to American life. They invented the Conestoga covered wagons and made the long Pennsylvania rifles which helped the U.S.A. to expand westward. Sober and hard working, these people have enriched their soil and built many of the first farms in the country.

In Tijuana

2 Blood Banks Closed

TIJUANA, MEXICO — Two blood banks here have been closed on direct orders of Dr. Enrique Gomez Tagle, regional Department of Health representative.

Six blood banks had been inspected by Dr. Tagle in surprise visits, and official's only comment was that he found conditions warranting closing of two.

In recent months there has been strong public complaint against blood banks.

As a side issue, laboratories taking blood tests allegedly took large amounts of blood, selling the surplus.

Illegal sale of blood in Tijuana and across the border to United States sources, is a common practice, according to medical sources.

While there have been complaints that Dr. Tagle should have announced which blood banks were closed, and specified reasons, feeling is that a tight clamp down on illegal trafficking in blood will be imposed.

Eventually, he played his six of diamonds. West took his ace and led a club. The defense cashed two club tricks and South claimed the balance.

South was radiant! "I sure guessed that jack of diamonds," he chortled.

We hate to be kiljoys and spoil South's pleasure. He had made a good guess but if he had put about 10 per cent of the brain power he put into the guess into planning his play earlier, South wouldn't have had to do any guessing at all.

After drawing trumps, South should have played out the rest of the hearts. Then he should have led a club toward dummy's king.

That king would fall to East's ace and the defense could take a second club. Then it would be up to whichever one took that second club trick to lead again.

He could lead but he would

Arabs See War as Tito Urges Peace

By The Associated Press
President Gamel Abdel Nasser's closest confidant predicted today that renewed war with Israel is virtually inevitable, and King Hussein warned that Jordan would fight again unless the Israelis give back Old Jerusalem.

The belligerent notes were sounded as Yugoslav President Tito opened talks in Cairo with Nasser in an effort to sell the Egyptian leader a peace formula for the Middle East.

Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, editor of the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram, said in a signed editorial: "Only a miracle will prevent a return to the battlefield, and I do not think we live in an age of miracles."
Heikal, generally regarded as Nasser's spokesman, said the first task facing Egypt was "restoration of the army to its fighting readiness."

DEATH STRUGGLE

Hussein declared in Amman that Jordan "is determined to die" before it surrenders the Arab sector of Jerusalem to Israel.

"We are determined not to cede any part of our beloved land nor any stone of our sacred Jerusalem," Hussein said in a speech Thursday on the eve of the 15th anniversary of his becoming king.

He said Arabs had been protecting the Holy City for centuries and "we will not hesitate to sacrifice our lives in order to remain its protectors."

The Jerusalem Post reported Wednesday that Jordan's former development minister, Ismail Hejazi, had told one of its reporters Jordan plans to negotiate soon with Israel. Hejazi, known to be close to Hussein, said plans for such talks should be made public "within 10 days."

3-DAY VISIT

Tito planned to spend three days conferring with Nasser, an old personal friend and associate in the nonaligned movement. Informants said Tito has evolved a plan calling for Israeli withdrawal from territory wrested from the Arabs in the June war in return for guarantees by the big powers of the U.N. Security Council of Israel's prewar borders. But the Israelis have insisted they will not give up the Old City of Jerusalem and have given no indication they would consider any international guarantees sufficient to protect them.

Christian leaders in eastern Hejazi, had told one of its reporters Jordan plans to negotilary General U Thant and Pope Paul VI against Israel's annexation of Old Jerusalem and alleged desecration of holy sites.

Similar protests are being sent to Orthodox Patriarch Athenagoras in Istanbul and Archbishop of Canterbury, Michael Ramsey, a spokesman said.

The action was decided at a meeting in Amman of the Greek Orthodox archbishop, the Roman Catholic deputy patriarch and archbishop and Christian members of Jordan's Parliament.

Tremors Shake Island in Azores

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The island of Sao Miguel in the Azores experienced a series of light earth tremors Wednesday night and Thursday, it was reported.

There were no casualties and only slight damage to some of the older houses in villages east of Ponta Delgada, the capital.

There were 11.5 million civilian employees of federal, state and local governments when a survey was made late in 1966. This is about 15 per cent of the civilian labor force.

Dove's Role for GOP Urged

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., says the Republican party must take the dove's role of calling for lesser U.S. participation in the Vietnam war.

The American people want the United States to "de-Americanize the whole Vietnam war," Hatfield said at an airport news conference Thursday.

ways is demonstrating that it will not permit a free, open and fair election," said Hatfield. "The tragedy is that our government, this Johnson administration, recognizes that it must retain the military junta in power and thus is doing nothing to make it a truly free and fair election."

He said the Sept. 3 election in South Vietnam "will prove absolutely nothing" because the military junta in power will win. "The junta does not intend to let go of its power, and in many

Panel Probing Senator's Legal Fees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Ethics Committee is probing legal fees shared by Sen. Edward V. Long and St. Louis lawyer Morris Shenker, defender of jailed Teamsters President James R. Hoffa.

Long, a Missouri Democrat, turned over to the ethics panel Thursday a list of the legal fees he split with Shenker plus the names of clients he said were involved.

Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., said a staff check of the lists marked the next step in the committee's inquiry into accusations Long misused a Senate probe of wiretapping and other snooping by government agencies in an effort to help Hoffa.

Shenker represented Hoffa in an appeal from a jury-tampering conviction. The appeal was based largely on the contention Hoffa's conviction was obtained through illegal use of wiretapping.

TURNED OVER

After previously declining to do so, Long turned over to the committee a list of the legal fees he said he shared with Shenker since 1961 along with names of their joint clients.

When Long first was questioned by the committee July 17, he contended it would be contrary to the confidential lawyer-client relationship if he divulged who the clients were.

But he said Thursday he since had obtained permission from the clients to give their names to the committee.

Stennis said after the closed session with Long the committee agreed the staff should check the list with "such parties as it might see fit."

NO INVESTIGATION

"No investigation has been ordered — nothing of that sort," Stennis told newsmen. "It is just a question of checking out the facts he has given us."

Stennis said Long had furnished the committee with a year-by-year listing of fees shared with Shenker and of the clients involved from 1961 until Aug. 1 of this year.

Life magazine, in its May 26 issue, said Shenker paid Long $48,000 in legal fees in 1963 and 1964, at the rate of $12,000 a month. The magazine said Long misused the wiretap probe first in an effort to keep Hoffa out of jail and then to get his conviction reversed.

Long repeatedly has denied there was anything improper in his fee-sharing with Shenker and declared it had nothing to do with the investigation he conducted as chairman of a Senate Judiciary subcommittee.

Bodies of War Dead Get Top Priority

SAIGON (AP) — The bodies/highest' priority, U.S. officers of Americans killed in combat say. In the Vietnam war are being. "Any remains recovered are returned to the United States, with dignified handling and the says Maj. Joe R. Caldwell, 50 of Oakland, Calif., the officer in bat, his body is taken to the nearest graves registration point. There, identification is made, if possible. From there, the remains are moved by the fastest possible means available to one of the two mortuaries.

The Saigon mortuary has a staff of about 150 persons, military and civilian, compared to about 50 at Da Nang. The Saigon staff includes 65 persons who work in the personal effects division, charged with receiving, making an inventory, processing, storing and effecting final disposition of all the personal effects of deceased U.S. Army personnel.

Identification must be verified at the morgues before the remains are returned to the United States. This is done in many ways, including fingerprint records and dental charts.

SINCE BEGINNING

It has been that way since the beginning of American involvement in the Vietnam war.

"The mortuary here is conducted much as a funeral home would be in the states," says Ernest Demester of Nashua, N.H., a civilian mortuary officer and a licensed mortician.

The U.S. Army mortuary is responsible for "receiving, identifying, preserving and shipping to the continental United States" the remains of American servicemen killed in combat, those who die of noncombat causes and of American civilian noncombatants working under contract for the U.S. government. It does the same for the remains of allied troops from other foreign countries such as South Korea, Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines, except that the remains are sent to their own lands.

In the first seven months of this year, the Saigon mortuary handled the remains of 5,508 Americans, the bulk of them military, and 499 non-Americans.

SMALLER MORTUARY

Only recently, the army opened a smaller mortuary at Da Nang Air Base, 380 miles northeast of Saigon. The Da Nang mortuary is responsible for all of the so-called 1st Corps, the five northernmost provinces of South Vietnam in which 78,000 U.S. Marines are based. When a man is killed in com-

Judy at QB for Ypsilanti Vikings

Firebirds 13-Point Underdogs in Grid Exhibition at Rochester

The experience of an All-America quarterback and the size and experience of the front lines make the Ypsilanti Vikings solid 13-point favorites over the Pontiac Firebirds in a benefit exhibition game at Rochester High School Saturday night.

Steve Judy, former Michigan State All-American, will guide the Vikings at quarterback. In front of him on the offensive line and on the defensive line, Ypsilanti has a ton and half of beef.

The Firebirds, a new team in personnel, will make their debut under head coach Tom Tracy, who last year led the Vikings to a 7-3 record and the runnerup spot in the Midwest Football League.

The Firebirds finished serious drills yesterday evening at Wilsner practice field and Tracy has trimmed the squad down to eight over the 40-man player limit which must be met by the season opener two weeks away.

Next week, the Firebirds will play the Flint Blue Devils in an exhibition game at Wilsner Stadium.

Sam West, a Negro All-America quarterback from Bishop Czege High School, and Marty Malatin of Kent State will share the signal calling duties for the F-Birds.

Bill Apisa, a fullback-linebacker from the University of Hawaii and Dale Fry, a sturdy runner from Mansfield, Ohio, will split the heavy duties at fullback. Ypsilanti's front lines could average 240 on offense and 260 on defense.

THE BIG FOUR

The front four on defense have Mike Cunningham (275) and Jim LaMarr (255) at tackles and Dave Harris (280) and Terry Peterson (240) at ends.

Bill Hardy (245) Jim Graham (260), Dewey Cooper (235) Jeff Forsyth (235) and center Dan Viegiver (235) are the interior offensive linemen with Greer Cleverger (235) and Tom Grunder (225) at ends.

Pontiac's biggest lineman is Tom Yody, 270-pounder from Ashland College at defensive tackle. Other linemen include Jim Mansfield (230), Don Barrick (260), and George Nickson (230) on defense, with George LaJole (230), Mike O'Karma (200), Dennis Rehder (230), James Kennedy (235) and Mike Carlton (212) on the offensive front line.

Game time at Rochester High is 7:30 Saturday night. The Rochester Rotary club, sponsor of the game, hopes to raise $5,000 for the Crittenton Hospital which opens its doors next week.

Tickets in Pontiac are at Griff's Grill, Osman's Men's Store and the Firebirds office, 12 N. Saginaw.

HIGH MOVING KICK — The Green Bay Packers practice placements with an eight foot high net to simulate the arms of defensive linemen. Don Chandler, jersey 33, practices the kicking as quarterback Bart Starr holds and Ken Bowman does the centering. The Packers meet the Steelers in an exhibition game Saturday.

LeBeau OK's Pact, Lions Curtail Trade Threats

Trade talks involving Dick LeBeau have quieted.

The Lions are happy and LeBeau says he's happy even though he will be $2,400 poorer after signing his contract yesterday calling for a substantial raise in pay.

LeBeau sat out 24 days of training camp, costing him $100 per day, and after last week's 137 loss in Denver, there were reports that the veteran cornerback was on the trade block.

Rookie Lem Barney, considered a top prospect, filled in for LeBeau but had his problems in his first game assignment against the Broncos.

LeBeau reported to training camp a few pounds lighter than the 190 pounds he carries. The former Ohio State star (who has been picked for the Pro-Bowl the past three years) said, "I decided to play football. I'm very happy with the contract and I'm ready to play the fine."

LeBeau expects to play some in the Lions' second exhibition game Monday against the Buffalo Bills of the AFL at Tiger Stadium.

His presence gives the Lions some depth at the corner spot with Bobby Thompson and Barney vying for the other position.

While they gained LeBeau back on the field, the Lions lost the services of split end Gail Cogdill for possibly six weeks.

FRACTURED ARM

Cogdill was injured in practice Wednesday when he collided with defensive back Wayne Rasmussen. Yesterday it was learned that his arm was broken.

With Pat Studstill still hobbling after injuring his ankle on Tuesday, sophomore Bill Malinchak and third-year player John Henderson appear ready to pass receiving roles — replacing the two veterans.

Milt Plum, who completed 10 of 17 in the second half against Denver when the Lions scored their lone touchdown, will start against Buffalo.

Collegiate Stars Ready for Debuts on Pro Gridirons

By The Associated Press

Bubba Smith and Bob Griese, the two most valuable college All-Stars against the Green Bay Packers, make their first appearance for their pro football clubs this weekend.

Smith, a 290-pound tackle from Michigan State who was chosen the top All-Star by a 2-1 margin over quarterback Griese after last week's game in Chicago, is scheduled to start for the Baltimore Colts against the Boston Patriots in a Sunday afternoon game.

Griese, a Purdue standout, will be unveiled by the Miami Dolphins against the San Diego Chargers in a Saturday night fray.

The games are part of a full weekend program that calls for five National Football League and three American League exhibitions Saturday plus one NFL exhibition along with the inter-league Baltimore-Boston clash Sunday. In addition, there is another inter-league encounter listed for Monday night at Detroit.

Marshall Fails as White Sox Triumph, 2-1

DETROIT (AP) — Eddie Stanky, the Chicago White Sox manager, says he acquired Ken Boyer from the National League to hit home runs in Tiger Stadium. And Boyer did it Thursday night.

"It was a slider," said Boyer, now 36, who was the St. Louis Cardinals' third baseman when they won the National League pennant in 1964. "It was a pretty good pitch, but I had better pitches tonight."

Boyer's homer, his second in the American League, enabled the league-leading White Sox to nip the Detroit Tigers 2-1.

It came off rookie relief pitcher Mike Marshall.

Chicago ace Gary Peters relieved 43-year-old pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm with the bases loaded in the eighth and saved the contest for the Sox.

Chicago was ahead 2-1 on pinchhitter Pete Ward's RBI single off Tiger starter Joe Sparrina in the seventh and Boyer's homer in the eighth. Wilhelm had gotten through the Detroit seventh but was in trouble in eighth.

Al Kaline reached first on Boyer's throwing error. Willie Horton walked and Bill Freehan sacrificed the runners along.

Stanky ordered Wilhelm to give pinch-hitter Jim Northrup an intentional pass, loading the bases with one out. The veteran knuckleballer got Mickey Stanley on a pop fly. Then Peters came in and fanned Norm Cash to end the inning.

TWO-OUT SINGLE

The Tigers got to Chicago's Wilbur Wood for a run in the fourth on a single by Kaline, a walk and Stanley's two-out single. Stanley played first base for the injured Cash, handling several tough chances without error.

The loss left Detroit three games behind the White Sox, in fourth place; the same position Detroit was in before the four-game series began.

Mickey Lolich, who pitched in the doubleheader against Baltimore tonight, along with Dave Wickham.

Lolich, who has lost 10 in a row, appears the key to Detroit hopes.

Baltimore was expected to use rookies Tom Phoebus and Gene Brabender in the twin bill tonight.

Mrs. Eyer, wife of Oakland Hills' club champ Gene Eyer, an outstanding club tournament golfer, had an unusual match.

She was 4-up after six holes, then lost three in a row and again on 12 where the match was evened.

On 17, she won with a par and then ended the match with another par on 18.

Upset Marks WDGA Event

Mrs. (Sally Sharp) T. M. Werner, winner by the biggest margin in her WDGA match Wednesday, was a close 2-1 loser in her semifinal match against Mrs. John Hume, Jr. in the Women's District Tournament at Pine Lake yesterday.

In the other semifinal match, Mrs. Gene Eyer, the surprise of the match play tournament thus far, moved into today's final against Mrs. Hume by defeating Mrs. R. McKee of Country Club of Detroit, 8-up.

Seeking her sixth WDGA match title, Mrs. Hume went ahead in her match against Mrs. Werner on the par-5 eighth hole when she canned a 6-foot birdie putt.

She has been one of the steadiest players in the tournament after taking qualifying honors with a 79. In her second round match she ousted Joyce Kazmieraki and after Mrs. Werner routed her foe, 9-7 in the quarter-finals, she said, "I expected to lose again, but it

State Open Begins Today

Souchak Challenge to Bone

Mike Souchak, long-time touring pro who now holds the club position at Oakland Hills, is playing the Michigan golf circuit for the first time and is thus figured the top contender in the State Open Championship starting today at Spring Meadows in Linden.

Souchak's presence on the golf scene in Michigan gives defending champion Gene Bone of Pontiac a tougher task in his hope of winning an unprecedented third straight crown.

Bone, who qualified for the National PGA this year, has been playing good golf and is not ready to concede anything to the powerfully swinging Oakland Hills' pro.

Bone was third in yesterday's program event with a 69 on his own ball, behind Chuck Knowles of Holland who took medal honors with a 65, and Glenn Stuart who had a 67.

Bone's team in the best-ball-of-four match, however, finished out of the money.

The winning best ball team was led by pro Jerry Townsend of Atlas Valley who had a 14-under par 68 with amateur partners Charles Houston of Flint, Vaughn Davis of Detroit and Ray Schriever of Flint.

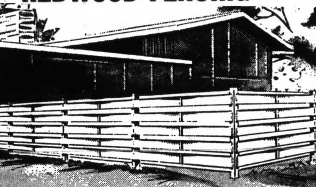

Don Kubiak of Niles and his amateur partners posted a 60 in the best ball.

Bone was scheduled to go out this morning at 9:45 with Ted Kroll of Franklin Hills and John Grace of Detroit.

Other scores among local entries yesterday were Tommy Shannon of Orchard Lake, 74; Kroll, 71; Jim Picard of Tam O'Shanter, 74; and Mac McMurry of Knollwood, 76.

The tournament, on the 6,784-yard course, will end with a double round on Sunday.

Rex Baxter Has Lead at Akron Golf Tourney

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Rex Baxter Jr. with only one tournament victory to show for his 10 years as a pro, is in an unfamiliar but pleasant position.

The 31-year-old Texan took a three-stroke lead into today's second round of the $100,000 American Golf Classic.

Baxter, who offhand couldn't remember the last time he held a lead in a tournament, shot a four-under-par 34-32-66 Thursday over the 7,180-yard Firestone Country club course which has his fellow pros moaning and groaning.

Rains, a wetter watering system and 20-mile-per-hour wind gusts had the lengthy layout playing at its very toughest.

"That's four shots lower than any round I've ever had on this course," said the happy Baxter.

DOESN'T FIGURE

"I'm as surprised as anyone else to shoot a 66 on this course today. It's one of my best rounds, but a score like that doesn't figure on a day like this. I still think a par of 280 or even 281 can win this tournament."

Baxter, whose only four victory came in the 1963 Cajun Classic, thought hard and then said, "I think the last time I led a tournament was the Western Open two years ago."

Only six others in the field of 124 players managed to break par and all came in with 68s. They were George Archer with 35-34, Bill Collins 36-33, Bill Marindale 36-33, Jack McGowan 34-35, Kermit Zarley 36-33 and Randy Glover 36-33.

Sunday afternoon, NFL — Cleveland at San Francisco, Baltimore, NFL, at Boston, AFL.

Monday night — Buffalo, AFL, at Detroit, NFL.

FIRST APPEARANCES

Some of the other collegians who received votes in the most valuable balloting after the Green Bay 27-0 victory last Friday, also are expected to make their first appearance in new pro togs.

George Webster, Michigan State linebacker, is likely to see action for the Houston Oilers against Oakland. The same goes for Alan Page of Notre Dame and Bob Grim of Oregon State for the Minnesota Vikings against Philadelphia and Mel Farr of UCLA for the Detroit Lions against the Buffalo Bills.

Fran Tarkeaton, obtained in an off-season trade from Minnesota, is expected to make his debut at quarterback for the New York Giants against Atlanta.

Three Classes Eliminated

Pontiac's usually strong showings in the State Recreation Association's junior baseball district tournaments turned into disaster Thursday.

Roseville routed Rochester in Class D, 7-1, and Saginaw marked to nip Felice's Marlet in Class E, 4-3, at Jaycee Park yesterday morning.

Wednesday, Pontiac's Class F Auburn Heights Boys' Club Pioneers were eliminated at Saginaw although no results were reported.

In city championships decided yesterday, Sam Allen & Sons won the Class F National League title, 4-1, over the Northside Huskies; and the Hustlers of the Auburn Heights Boys' Club Chief, 13-4, in F. SHUTOUT

The Optimist Whiz Kids forced a second game in the Widge B title playoffs by blanking the Giants, 2-0.

Felice's won the AHBC Patriots, 12-4, Wednesday for the Class E championship. The result was inadvertently omitted from yesterday's Press.

Roseville scored six times in the first three innings against Rochester. Bruce Vinson and Dave Caldwell clouted key triples, and Mario Point added a two-run double. The losers had only two harmless singles.

It was the "E" city title Wednesday as Steve Kimler rapped two singles and a triple, but it could only total four singles yesterday.

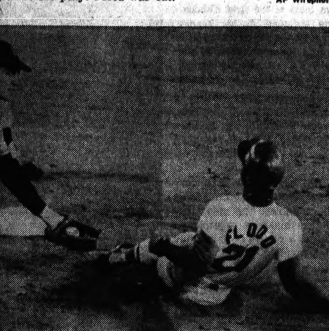

Europeans Defeat Americas Team

MONTREAL (AP) — They won't be a re-match until 1969 so track and field coaches on both sides of the Atlantic will have ample time to sit back and take a long hard look at their athletes.

Europe won the inaugural Europe vs. Americas track and field match by a two-night total of 169 points to 155, with the next of the biennial series scheduled for Europe two years hence.

The Americas team had entered Thursday night's final stage with a slim 79-74 point edge.

Commercial Anglers Object

Gill Net Debate Opens

LANSING (AP) — Some 600 Michigan commercial fishermen would be thrown out of work by a proposal to ban fishing by gill nets in lakes Michigan and Superior, the State Conservation Commission was told Thursday.

About 150 persons, many of them commercial fishermen from northern Michigan, attended a commission hearing on the proposal that extended through the afternoon and into the evening.

Wayne Tody, head of the department's Fish Division, said the restriction is needed to protect the steelhead trout, lake trout, chinook salmon and coho salmon being planted by the department.

Too many of the valuable fish are being caught by fishermen using gill nets to get other species, Tody said.

The Conservation Department planning program has two main objectives — to help control the alewife nuisance and to build up a profitable sports fishing attraction for the Great Lakes.

OFFERS OBJECTION

"The experts only brought out the facts they wanted brought out," objected Roy Jensen of Escanaba, representing the Michigan Commercial Fish Association. "There is room for both commercial and sports fishing in the Great Lakes."

"This would mean there would be no more commercial fishing for perch and whitefish, carp or suckers," he said. "The valuable fish wouldn't be harvested and the junk fish we take out would multiply."

Jensen said about 600 active commercial fishermen and some 2,500 people profiting from Michigan's commercial fishing industry would be thrown out of work.

Fishermen from other states, he said, would take Michigan's share of the commercial crop.

Jensen expressed some doubts about the salmon program.

"I doubt whether the salmon will spawn or whether their eggs will be fertile," he commented. "There is too much DDT in the alewives they are feeding on."

Mink farmers, Jensen said, won't feed fish meal made from the alewives to their mink because they fear the animals will be sterile.

GUIDES SPEAK

Earl Perrin of Traverse City, president of the Michigan Guides Association, suggested that the commercial fishermen get into the charter boat business. At least five boats now are doing a good business taking sports fishing parties out of

Howard Hite Earns Top Award

Daylily Annual Show Winners

By JODY HEADLEE
Pontiac Press Garden Editor
Ten years ago, Howard Hite of Lake Angelus bought his first patented hemerocallis or daylily. At the recent Hemerocallis Show he was awarded the Southern Michigan Iris and Hemerocallis Society's (SMIHS) top award, the Lee Armiger Sweepstakes Trophy.

Given this year for the first time, the Armiger Trophy recognizes the individual who earns the most first awards in the annual flower show.

Hite chalked up an impressive total of ten first ribbons. Also included in his honors were two special rosette awards for nomination in the Queen's Court with his entries, Napoli and Lane Painted Lady.

"I just joined the society a year and a half ago," said Hite, "though I've admired daylilies since I was a small boy and discovered the tiger lily."

"They are really ideal for people who entertain outdoors in the summer. The many new varieties make it possible to have blossoms from July through September."

NEWER HYBRIDS

"And the newer hybrids have bigger blooms, brighter colors and thicker petals than the old introductions."

Hite transplants his hemerocallis in either early spring or fall.

"I feed them bone meal in the fall," he said, "and a general garden fertilizer in the spring."

"I have a pump that pumps the water up from the lake and we use it to water the plants. They seem to like it," he said, "motivating to the hardy clumps of color bobbing their graceful heads in the summer sunshine."

"Recently," he continued, "I've tried my hand at hybridizing. It takes two years from seed to bloom by growing the seedlings under lights during the winter months."

Green pods with white tags listing the names of the parent plants give evidence to Hite's enthusiasm.

Other winners at the Hemerocallis Show included Mrs. Wesley Haywood of Romulus, Stephen J. Janovac of 17191 Kinross, Beverly Hills; Dr. H. E. Viergutz of 30470 Grand River, Farmington Township; and A. H. Goldner of Southfield.

OTHER WINNERS

Still others were Nelson Brown of 5650 Brookdale and Mrs. Lyman Kaul of 8321 Indianwood, both of Bloomfield Township; Mrs. Ben Hall and Bill Wilhelmsen, both of Livonia.

Mrs. Haywood won the new Stanley Hamacher Memorial Trophy for "Queen of Show" with her entry, Ringlets as well as the Miniature Award from the American Hemerocallis Society (AHS).

Janovac was awarded the new Dr. H. E. Viergutz Trophy for "King of Show" with his entry Lemon Meringue and a special Queen's Court Rosette for Crestwood Ann.

Dr. Viergutz received the AHS's Achievement Medal with his three scape entry of his new Memphis Maid.

Goldner earned an AHS Rosette for the popularity poll winner Frances Fay as well as the Chicago Land Rosette for the same entry.

The AHS Best Seedling Award was granted Brown. Mrs. Kaul received the Best Arrangement Sweepstakes and the Best Artistic Arrangement of Show went to Wilhelmsen.

For her Ebony Prince entry, Mrs. Hall won a Queen's Court Rosette.

Lilies Rebloom When Treated

The traditional white lily is still the top Easter gift plant. Lilies will bloom again as outdoor plants if you remove them from their red clay pots, plant them in the garden after the ground warms up and make sure the bulbs are 4 to 6 inches deep in a sunny, warm location.

Entomologist Gives Advice

Every year, about 500 persons bring insects that are bugging them to J. Peter Johnson for identification. About 2,500 others telephone or write to Johnson, some very upset by their problems.

Entomologist Johnson has been associated with the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station for 42 years.

There he has a library and collection of 10,000 insect specimens common to the area to help him solve pest problems.

"We have grateful women," Johnson says, "who are so relieved when told their home is not infested that they laugh, cry or even throw their arms around my neck."

Control advice ranges from a simple wait a couple of days and the trouble will vanish, to call a professional exterminator, or apply one of 10,000 pesticides.

Need Two Seasons of Growth

Biennials Are Garden Beauties

The case against biennials is easily stated. Since only leaves grow the year seed is sown and flowers appear the following year, seeds must be planted every year in order to have blooms each year.

This habit of flowering the second year is the reason for the "bit" in biennial and often confuses gardeners accustomed to annuals. They seem to think there must be extra work involved in growing biennials.

This is not so. The seeds are planted only once, just as with annuals or perennials.

The real case for biennials is that among them are some of the most beautiful garden flowers in existence.

What other flower duplicates the stately beauty of the foxglove, the showy blooms of Canterbury bell, the bright dance of Iceland poppies in the spring breeze?

BULB COVER

Another point in favor of biennials is that young plants may be set in areas where bulbs have bloomed to flower there, then pulled and discarded when their own blossoms have faded so that the gardener can plant again for later bloom in the same places.

The most popular biennials, in addition to the three named above, are pansies, English daisies, forget-me-nots, hollyhocks, sweet william and the wallflowers — English and Siberian. All are easily grown from seeds sown in late July or August.

A raised seedbed or a cold-frame, either one in a lightly shaded spot, filled with a mixture of one-third each good garden soil, granulated peat moss and sand is an ideal place to plant seeds.

After they are sown, the seedbed may be covered with burlap and watering done through this to avoid washing away of seeds. Burlap is removed when seeds sprout.

The seedling should not be allowed to lack for water and should be weeded.

When several inches high they may be thinned and the thinnings planted elsewhere.

Young plants may be moved in early autumn to places they are to bloom in spring or they may be left in the seedbed and protected with straw for winter, then transplanted in early spring.

DIRECTOR AND STAR — John Huston (right) stands with British actor John Hurt who is starring in Huston's "Sinful Davey," a saga of a legendary highwayman. Huston, directing an all-British cast in the film, says "American acting has been based on personality while the English actors have virtuosity." The movie is being shot in Leelane, Ireland, which is doubling as 1820 Scotland for the plot.

John Hurt Is Prime Example

'British Actors Have Virtuosity'

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie Television Writer
LEOLANE, Ireland — Working with English actors, observed Fred Zinnemann while directing "A Man for All Seasons," was like conducting a symphony orchestra after leading a dance band.

John Huston is inclined to THOMAS agree. He has been directing an all-English cast in this lushly green land of western Ireland, which is doubling as 1820 Scotland for "Sinful Davey," a saga of a legendary highwayman.

"American acting has been based on personality, while the English actors have virtuosity," says Huston.

Such virtuosity has been demonstrated in the Academy Awards, which have been dominated by English actors in recent years. How do they get that way? A prime example can be offered by Huston's present star, John Hurt.

SPOTTED PHOTO

Huston is accustomed to directing names like Humphrey Bogart, Gregory Peck, Richard Burton, Marlon Brando and John Huston. But to play adventurous David Haggart he needed a British actor who could appear to be 20. Huston spotted a photograph of Hurt, who had played the traitor Rich in "A Man for All Seasons."

"If the kid can act, that's our Davey," said the director.

He soon found out John Hurt can act. The young actor was prepared for the opportunity because he had been afforded the kind of acting experience that seems to exist in no other country except England. Nowhere else can an actor receive top-notch training in modern plays and the classics, then be able to practice his profession in the best of theater, films and television.

John Hurt's acting experience in school was limited to a female role in an Oscar Wilde play. But he was convinced he acted like his father, the Church of England minister, was not at all enthusiastic, and John was persuaded to study art instead.

LINCOLN REPERTORY

"But at 20 I still wanted to try acting, and I tried to enroll in the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art," he says. "They weren't holding auditions at the time, so I went off to work in the Lincoln Repertory, playing all the parts that the other actors didn't want."

Hurt returned to the Royal Academy and performed what he thought was a miserable audition. But his listeners perceived enough promise to grant him admission to the school, which has produced such recent graduates as Peter O'Toole, Albert Finney, Sarah Miles, Tom Courtney and David Warner.

For two years, Hurt was put through a regimen that included voice training, body movement, fencing, and performing in actual productions of classical and modern plays. After his graduation, he appeared in his first film, "The Wild and the Willing," which he terms "a rabbit of trash."

He found more satisfaction in stage and television work, and critics became more aware of him. "The Dwarfs" by Harold Pinter caused the London reviewers to name him the most promising newcomer. His three-hour nonstop performance in "Little Malcolm and His Struggle against the Eunuchs" was admired by Zinnemann, and the role in "A Man for All Seasons" resulted.

A plain-looking fellow of medium height, John Hurt may well find himself an international star as the result of "Sinful Davey." At 27, the prospect neither delights nor appalls him. "I think I'll be able to handle whatever happens," he says confidently.

Medical Chief

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Dr. Lionel F. Swan of Detroit has been installed as president of the National Medical Association at its national convention in St. Louis. His term is for one year.

Border Suit to High Court

GROSSE POINTE PARK (AP) — A seven-year-old suit to adjust the part of the boundary between Wayne and Macomb counties is going back to the Michigan Supreme Court for the second time.

The case, brought by an elderly couple in the Detroit suburb of Grosse Pointe Park, claims the correct boundary line is 550 feet north of the present one.

A ruling for the claim could affect more than 1,000 Macomb County residents and upset the boundaries of six local governments and two school districts. Judge Allen O. Miller of Macomb County Circuit Court in May ruled in favor of the present boundary, even though he held the true boundary is the one claimed by Mr. and Mrs. William C. Klenk.

But Miller said that "deplorable consequences" would result from disrupting the boundary and therefore it must be upheld.

The suit was brought by the Klenks in 1960. Klenk died early this year before the new trial, but suit was carried on by his widow.

Mormons Rely on Microfilm

Used in Hunt for Clues to Ancestral History

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — "For the strength of the hills, we bless Thee, our God."

That prayer of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints seems directed at the solid mountain encasing the world's largest microfilm repository.

Deep inside the Wasatch Mountains of Little Cottonwood Canyon southeast of here are deposited copies of vital records, original manuscripts, histories and biographies.

Cameras throughout the world daily engrave these records onto microfilm which is sent to the repository.

About 60,000 feet of film, or enough to produce 15 to 29 full length motion pictures, is processed each working day.

IN CHURCH LIBRARY
A copy is placed in the church's genealogical library; here is the culmination of record-searching and photocopying back to 1538 England.

Genealogy is more than a pastime for members of the Mormon faith. Visitors to the main library at Salt Lake City or to the 45 branch libraries scrutinize the films for clues to their ancestral history.

A basic tenet of the religion is that baptism is essential for salvation. Through genealogy, salvation for past generations is possible.

Mormons believe Jesus Christ was baptized and crucified as a proxy for the world and the proxy situation is used to baptize past generations of church members if they may enter a kingdom of heaven.

EARLY INHABITANTS?

A basis for this belief is the Book of Mormon, containing preachings of Christ to the Nephis and Lamanites, who were said to have descended from a lost tribe of Israel.

They supposedly crossed the ocean and inhabited America from 600 B.C. to 421 A.D.

The teachings were inscribed on gold plates and hidden by Moroni, the last of the Nephis historians, in a cave at Hill Cumorah near Palmyra, N.Y.

In 1827, Moroni, according to church doctrine was resurrected and led young Joseph Smith, who was to become a prophet of the church, to the hidden passages.

ONLY RECORD
Smith later translated the golden pages into the Book of Mormon, the only record of this ministry.

The Book of Mormon speaks of a temporal death for mankind; a probationary state in which man may repeat before an endless state of the resurrection of the dead.

Church doctrine calls for all ancestors to have a second chance for redemption of sins during the temporal state.

Living church members pursue their genealogy and are baptized by immersion in the name of their ancestors, giving all family members this second chance.

2 MILLION BOOKS
An estimated 1,500 persons—including a Harvard University sociologist working on a research project—daily scan the 46 libraries' stock of microfilm, equivalent to 2 million books of 300 pages each.

About 30 million names are recorded on film; another 5 million on family group sheets, which register the lineage of one family; and about 1 million names are added annually to a church genealogy file covering one floor of the main library.

Records filming is considered finished only in four New England states, Scandinavia and Scotland.

Congressmen in Hot Seat in More Ways Than One

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some members of Congress are getting edgy about their own safety during deliberations wide open to the public.

In the Senate, its 100 members sit and stroll about in a pit 113 by 80 feet, within easy lobbing distance of the 611 gallery seats above and surrounding them.

In the House of Representatives, at the other end of the Capitol, up to 435 legislators at a time sit and mill about in another ornate pit; 139 by 92 feet, wide open to the 624 gallery seats above and about them.

No protective barriers intervene in either chamber. Cameras are checked outside. But although a handful of plainclothes detectives sit casually among the visitors, ladies clasp handbags in their laps; gentlemen reach, unmolested, into their pockets.

"MATTER OF TIME"
"When will it be?" Rep. Andrew Jacobs Jr., D-Ind., asked his House colleagues this week. "A year from now? Next week? Later this afternoon?"

"Does anyone doubt that it is only a matter of time before the odds catch up with this chamber and violence visits us again?" he asked.

The event that agitated Jacobs was the intrusion into the House gallery Monday of 75 to 100 Harlem demonstrators demanding rat control legislation. Some battled fiercely with Capitol police—one of whom remains hospitalized—before being ejected. The House had adjourned minutes earlier.

WANT PROTECTION
One demonstrator promised the group would return next week—with rats.

Jacobs and Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W.Va., among others, want some protection.
"The galleries," Hechler said, "should be enclosed with soundproof, transparent covering with the floor debates piped into the galleries."

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, went Hechler one better. "There ought to be a plexiglass shield around the gallery," Gross told a newsman, "and there ought to be a wire mesh dropped from the ceiling so you couldn't throw grenades down into the House."

But there are other members of Congress who take a cooler view—and one, Rep. George H. Fallon, D-Md., speaks with some authority.

Fallon was wounded March 1, 1964, when Puerto Rican fanatics opened fire with pistols from the southwest gallery into a nearly full chamber. Five congressmen were wounded—one seriously. Fallon, who was shot through the hip, is the only one of the five still in Congress.

"They talked about this glass shield then, too," Fallon recalled to a newsman. "But I just don't like the idea of separating the people in the galleries from the members of Congress. Why, at that time, Congress had met for 150 years without a disturbance. We take so many risks in our everyday lives much greater than sitting in the House of Representatives."

"If they decide more security is needed, let them put in more policemen."

The drawing Tennesseean who heads the Capitol police force, James M. Powell, is a deputy chief of the Metropolitan Washington Police Department.

"It would be much safer if there were some protective shield around the chambers," Powell said. "But one of the things that really bothers me is that people often are allowed on the floor just before a session. Supposing they didn't want to leave? Or supposing they left something behind?"

Just 30 minutes before the House convened at noon Thursday, some 30 persons were occupying legislators' seats on the House floor. They were being addressed about the workings of the House by a congressional aide. A member of Congress had vouched for their presence.

But they were strangers to the Capitol.

Visitors who are not on guided tours must present tickets from members of Congress for admission to the galleries. Reporters who occupy the galleries immediately above and behind the speaker of the House and the president of the Senate must have special press accreditation.

CAN WANDER IN

But almost anyone can wander into a congressman's office, say "I'm from your district," and gain admittance to the galleries. And the Puerto Ricans who opened fire 13 years ago were on a guided tour.

That incident was the most violent that occurred in the halls of Congress since a South Carolina congressman, Rep. Preston S. Brooks, stalked over to the Senate chamber one day in 1856 and administered a near-fatal caning to a Massachusetts abolitionist, Sen. Charles P. Sumner.

There have been demonstrations in the galleries. In 1965, a member of the American Nazi party disrupted opening-day ceremonies by racing onto the House floor in blackface makeup. While that prompted the House Rules Committee to promise a reexamination of security measures, nothing ever came of it.

The best security the government can dream up is enforced whenever a President addresses a joint session of Congress in the House chamber. The Secret Service protects him—and passes to the galleries are hard to come by.

Hart Opposes Paper Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., indicated yesterday he is now opposed to the "failing newspapers bill" on the basis of hearings held by his Senate Antitrust subcommittee.

The bill would legalize arrangements for two papers to merge production and business functions but maintain editorial competition.

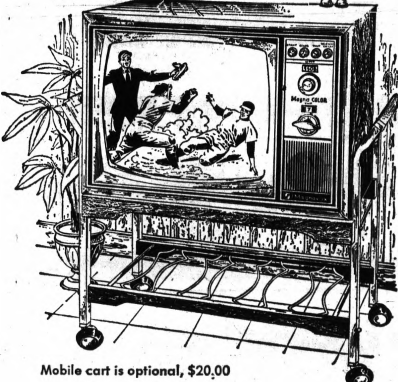

Hart told a news conference that at the outset of the hearings he thought the legislation "made sense" by assuring two newspapers for a community instead of just one.

"But when you listen to the testimony you get the feeling that if you authorize antitrust exemption, you are making absolutely certain that a new paper, truly independent competition, would be frozen out," he said.

He said the proposed exemption also would have the effect of restraining competition from the growing number of suburban metropolitan area newspapers.

Local Girl Hurt in Auto Mishap

A 16-year-old Pontiac girl was injured early yesterday in a one car accident on 30 Mile near M53 in Washington Township, Macomb County.

Listed in fair condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital with a back injury is Lois A. Duengel, daughter of Gordon Duengel of 577 Lowell.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Michael E. Wargel, 17, of 734 Joslyn. Wargel and two other passengers were treated at the hospital and released.

Wargel told Pontiac State Police that he was knocked unconscious when his head hit the steering wheel as the car passed over some railroad tracks.

The vehicle traveled several feet before coming to a stop in a ditch.

Motorcycle Crash Injures Area Youth

A 20-year-old Commerce Township youth is in satisfactory condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital after suffering a broken pelvis in a motorcycle accident last night.

The motorcycle Lee R. Thran, 1505 Midwood, Commerce Township was driving and a car driven by Phyllis J. Clark, 627 Baldwin, collided on East Montcalm near Glenwood.

People in the News

By The Associated Press
Former presidential aide Theodore C. Sorensen said today in Moscow he has been asked to lecture on the John F. Kennedy administration to the editorial staffs of two Soviet publications.

Sorensen is visiting the Soviet Union on a working vacation. He has delivered one lecture on his experiences with Kennedy and has met with several government officials, mostly on trade matters. He will address the staffs of Literaturnaya Gazeta—Literary Gazette—and Sputnik, an English-language magazine, Aug. 19.

Sorensen leaves Moscow tomorrow for a week of travel to the Ukraine, Yalta and Leningrad. Sorensen, an attorney in New York, says he is in Moscow representing private clients and not on government matters.

King Constantine to Visit N. America

King Constantine of Greece will come to North America late this month for a look at New York, sailing rates in Toronto and a tour of Expo 67 in Montreal.

Palace sources said yesterday that Constantine and Queen Anne-Marie would fly to New York Aug. 24 and on to Toronto Aug. 26. The royal couple will pay an official visit to Ottawa Sept. 4, then attend "Greek Day" at Expo on Sept. 6.

CONSTANTINE The trip abroad is the first for Constantine and his Danish-born queen since the April 21 military take-over in Greece.

Nicky Hilton Sued for Divorce

Conrad "Nicky" Hilton has been sued for divorce by his oil-heiress wife who charged him with "repeated acts and threats of physical violence." Patricia McClellint Hilton, 26, and the son of hotel builder Conrad Hilton separated Wednesday.

In the suit she filed in Santa Monica, Calif., yesterday, Mrs. Hilton said her 41-year-old husband struck her in the face recently as she drove home from the airport. She asked for $9,600 monthly alimony and custody of their two children, Conrad III, 7, and Michael Otis, 6.

Hilton, whose first wife was actress Elizabeth Taylor, married the heiress to the McClellint oil fortune on Nov. 16, 1958. They separated in August 1963 but were later reconciled.

Princess Grace, Family See Movie Studio

Princess Grace of Monaco, her husband, Prince Ranier, and their children, Princess Caroline, 10, Prince Albert, 6, and Princess Stephanie, 2, took a look at a Hollywood movie studio yesterday. The visitors saw a stunt and animal show and filming of "Jolly Pink Jungle" with James Garner, George Kennedy and Eva Renzi. The royal couple is visiting Hollywood for the first time since their marriage. They return to Monaco Aug. 20.

Assault Exam Adjudured in Independence

The preliminary examination of a 30-year-old Pontiac man, charged with assault with intent to murder a Waterford Township policeman, has been adjourned to 1:30 p.m. Aug. 31.

The hearing for Felix E. Murphy Jr., of 785 Kettering got under way yesterday in the court of Independence Township Justice William H. Stamp.

Murphy and Leo K. Smith Jr., 21, of 297 N. Saginaw were arrested following an incident early Sunday in the parking lot of the Sandbar Tavern, 3270 W. Huron.

They allegedly attacked Township Patrolmen Richard Dorrance and Roger Allen following an argument over a traffic ticket. Dorrance was issued to Smith. Murphy is accused of attempting to fire a gun at Allen.

Dorrance and Allen required hospital treatment.

BOND REDUCED Murphy's bond was reduced from $25,000 to $1,500. He was released from custody after posting bond.

The preliminary examination for Smith, charged with resisting a police officer, began today in Stamp's court.

Bid to Oust Garrison From Trial Near End

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Dean Andrews, charged with perjury in Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's investigation of the Kennedy assassination, prepared today for final arguments in his fight to oust Garrison as prosecutor in his case.

Andrews, 44, summoned as witnesses three major probe figures: insurance salesman Perry R. Russo; Dr. Esmond Patter, a specialist in hypnosis; and Coroner Nicholas Chetta.

"I hope to bust something loose somehow," said Andrews, a lawyer who is handling his own defense. "Pat man's got to go to the whip."

If the motion to oust Garrison and his assistants fails, Criminal Dist. Court Judge Frank J. Shea planned to get started as soon as possible on picking the five-man jury.

DIFFICULTIES Since the trial started Wednesday, Andrews has had a difficult time.

Time and again his questioning of the some 20 witnesses he called was cut off as irrelevant, leaving Andrews in blank frustration.

Normally jolly, Andrews has become glum and preoccupied in off-guard moments. At one of the crowded little courtroom, Andrews briefly wept—the tears hidden by his dark glasses.

Andrews was suspended as assistant district attorney of suburban Jefferson Parish (county) pending the outcome of the case and he says he is broke.

POORER THAN PAUPER "Most paupers got more than I've got," he said. "I've had good times, it's been fun, but not lately."

Shea overruled Andrews' motion Thursday to quash the indictment. The motion was based on a claim that the Orleans Parish grand jury which indicted him was illegal because wage earners were systematically barred.

Judge Bernard Bagert testified that procedures were changed months ago to conform with a federal court ruling that no class or race be excluded.

Oliver Leslie ROME—Service for Oliver Leslie, 72, of 163 Church will be 1 p.m. Sunday at Roth's Home for Funerals. Burial will be in Elkland Cemetery, Case City.

Miss Leslie died yesterday.

Terri L. Mengyan

Terri, a member of the First Baptist Church in Walling Lake, died Wednesday.

Surviving besides her parents are four brothers, David L. of Ferndale, Michael of F. Leonard and Wood, Mo., and Steven and Richard, both at home; five sisters, Mrs. Bud Long of Plymouth and Jennifer, Nancy, Elizabeth and Kathleen, all at home; and two grandparents.

Mrs. Henry Valliere

MILFORD—Service for Mrs. Henry (Gwendolyn F.) Valliere, 37, of 715 Union will be 11 a.m. Monday at Richardson-Bird Funeral Home. Burial will be in Milford Memorial Cemetery.

Mrs. Valliere died yesterday. Surviving besides her husband are two sons, Sidney of Brighton and Henry Jr. at home; a daughter, Valerie at home; two brothers; a sister; and a grandchild.

Ferency: LBJ Loss Possible

LANSING (UPI)—Riots in the cities and the war in Vietnam could defeat President Johnson if he decides to run for reelection next year, Democratic State Chairman Zolner Ferency said yesterday.

"I think there could be such a violent reaction to any incumbent because of those issues that he could be defeated," Ferency said in an interview with Detroit station WJR.

"If the war in Vietnam is still going on and if it's still with us, I think it will be a bad burden for the election campaign," he said.

He said "If these kinds of issues are still being badly handled by the President, they could defeat him."

Ferency, Democratic candidate for governor last year, said no other American president in modern history has come up for reelection "with so many severe and serious problems."

Bid to Oust Garrison From Trial Near End

The self-taught civil engineer was arrested June 29 in Shawville, Que., where he was working as chief engineer of a $60-million paper mill construction job.

He was known in Shawville as "Alex Bormann," the name he had used since fleeing to Canada.

An informant who has not been identified recognized a picture of Edmondson in a detective magazine and reported his whereabouts to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The engineering executive who hired Edmondson for the paper-mill job was shocked by the news of his arrest.

ANY TIME

He said the American can work for him any time despite his criminal record.

"He obviously knew his stuff," said G. F. Ryan, president of the Montreal firm of Ross and Grimaldi. "If I had 100 certified engineers from whom to choose I would still choose Alex. We couldn't have done without him."

"You can tell him there is always a job waiting for him with this firm."

Nearly 335,000 new cases of gonorrhea were reported in 1966, a 7,000-mile highway to link Saigon and Singapore with Paris and London is reported to be 94 per cent complete.

Expo Builder on FBI List Is in U.S. Hands

OGDENSBURG, N.Y. (UPI)—The engineer who built the German pavilion at Expo 67—unmasked as a fugitive on the FBI's most-wanted list—is on his way back to the U.S. prison which he escaped two years ago.

George Ben Edmondson, 30, of Springfield, Mo., was handed over to U.S. authorities in this Canadian-border city yesterday for return to the Missouri State Penitentiary.

He left behind him the 23-year-old French Canadian schoolteacher he married last year and the 5-week-old son who was born to them while he was in jail awaiting extradition to the United States.

Edmondson, a convicted bank robber, was serving a term for armed robbery when he broke jail in August 1965.

The FBI describes him as an "escape artist" who would not hesitate to kill.

CBS Rejects Plan to Curb Riot News

NEW YORK (AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System has turned down a U.S. senator's suggestion that news media develop self-censorship for coverage of riots or other racial tense situations, saying such a plan would make for worse problems than those it was designed to cure.

The network's president, Dr. Frank Stanton, said, "Such a device that aims at the suppression or conditioning of the news by agreement of editors and publishers on the grounds that it may be dangerous for the people to hear some of it, strikes me as no less hazardous, and possibly more so, than suppression or conditioning the reporting of news by government edict."

Stanton replied Thursday to the proposal of Sen. Hugh Scott R-Pa., that a network and news agencies set up a "code of emergency procedure."

Scott had said earlier that the news media, in the past, had inadvertently contributed to the turmoil of recent racial rioting. Stanton denied this allegation and a charge that television had concentrated on "the sensational aspects of the situation and frequent appeals to riot by extremists."

EMPHASIS DENIED

Scott had complained in particular about emphasis on the air given black power advocates H. Rapp Brown, head of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, and Stokely Carmichael, SNCC's former leader.

"I can find no evidence that this is true," Stanton wrote in his letter to Scott. "On the contrary, there is considerable evidence that the exact opposite is the case."

Brown, he said, had appeared on CBS but twice during the three weeks of greatest tension while Carmichael was never on the air. At the same time, he said, moderate Negro leaders and government spokesmen appeared 86 times.

The best approach in a period of crisis, Stanton contended, is for the media to report "all the aspects of the situation... and providing free and open discussion of every point of view."

Setting up a "code of emergency procedure," he said, could not work without "setting up a concentration of private power that would give rise to crises far more serious than 'it was established to cure.'"

Frisco Radioman Plans to Bid for London Bridge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A San Francisco radio producer, in a cablegram to the lord mayor of London, asked Thursday to be included in the list of bidders for London Bridge.

The historic span is to be dismantled later this year, and offered to foreign purchasers.

Keith Walker of KGO said he would send the parts to the city of San Francisco for reassembly in Golden Gate Park or some other spot where it might become a tourist attraction. Its 2,000-foot length would not be too cumbersome, he said. Walker said he had not estimated the cost.

Motorist Warning

LANSING (AP)—The State Highway Commission has warned motorists not to drive on the occasional crossover roads spanning the median on interstate freeways. Acting Highway Director Henrik E. Stalstede said the crossovers are for use only by highway department and State Police personnel. Motorists may change direction on freeways only at regular interchanges, he said.

Part-Time Killer

MANILA (UPI)—Police arrested an artificial flower salesman yesterday and said he moonlighted as a member of a Communist assassin squad. The suspect was charged with the kidnap-slaying of a village official and his relatives.

GOP Antiriot Plan Eyed

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight Republican governors say prompt, firm law enforcement is needed in preventing riots and they outlined a 6-point program for dealing with social injustice and lawlessness.

In presenting their "action program" to deal with "the tragic epidemic of riots," the governors charged yesterday the federal government had failed to provide adequate solutions for the nation's urban racial problems.

The governors were summoned by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as chairman of the policy committee of the Republican Governor's Association to discuss means of easing racial tensions in American cities.

Their report, issued after a day-long closed session, said the action program was designed to "inaugurate a new era of creative state leadership to meet a national crisis of social injustice and lawlessness." Michigan Gov. George Romney said he felt the most important recommendation was that dealing with prompt law enforcement.

The governors also recommended that the federal government "emphasize now the National Guard's responsibility to serve as a tactical force for maintaining order within the states as well as its responsibility in national defense."

ATTENDING GOVERNORS

Besides Rockefeller and Romney those attending were Govs. John Love of Colorado, Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania, John A. Volpe of Massachusetts and Nils A. Boe of South Dakota.

To aid the disadvantaged areas directly the governors proposed seven measures:

- Transform slums into decent communities.
- Improve educational opportunities.
- Improve public service to individuals.
- Expand cultural and recreational opportunities in slum area.
- Encourage individual citizen and private institution participation.
- Encourage speed, flexibility and adequate funding of federal programs.

CHARLES ERVIN

GORDON ERVIN

Older Ervin Brother Captured in Canada

One of two Pontiac brothers on the FBI's "most wanted" list has been captured and is being held in jail in Ottawa, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police announced yesterday.

The Mounties said that Charles E. Ervin may be deported from the country. He has been living in Ottawa under an assumed name for several months.

The FBI in Detroit said they had received information that Ervin had worked in Montreal from March 1966 to March 1967 before moving to Ottawa.

He was using the name of Herbert Rodden, according to the FBI, and had dyed his hair and eyebrows black and had grown a vandyke beard.

Ervin was unarmed and offered no resistance when taken into custody.

YOUNGER BROTHER

Ervin's younger brother, Gordon D., also is believed to be in Canada and may be in the Montreal area, according to police.

The brothers were serving sentences of 50 to 60 years when they escaped from the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson Oct. 28, 1965.

They had been convicted of an armed robbery in Washtenaw County in 1954.

ARRESTED BY MOUNTIES

Mounties said that Charles Ervin was arrested by Mounted Police at Hawkesbury, 65 miles east of Ottawa, on July 25.

Scars on his face indicated that he may have undergone surgery in an attempt to hide his identity, police said.

Charles, 52, and Gordon, 41, have been on the FBI's most wanted list of criminals since last April.

They escaped from the state prison by cutting their way through a trusty compound fence.

ATTEMPTED ESCAPE

During their trial, they broke out of a court detention room and crawled onto a ledge before being recaptured.

Gordon was wounded by policeman's bullet and Charles was injured in a 40-foot leap.

Police Seeking Detroit Man in Girl's Kidnaping

A federal warrant has been obtained today for the man accused of kidnaping a Bloomfield Township girl and driving her to Bowling Green, Ohio.

Bloomfield Township police identified the suspect as Frank Patterson, 32, of Detroit, a guard for Ogle Security Co., Detroit. He is 5 feet 6, 165 pounds, with gray-green eyes.

He is being sought in the kidnaping of Diane C. Brown, 19, of 1070 Northover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Brown. She is a student at Adrain College and was working for the summer at Sears at the Oakland Mall, Troy.

Police said a man answering Patterson's description used a ruse to capture the girl while she was driving home on I-75 at 2:30 p.m., Wednesday. Previously he had taken a uniform, car with flasher and pistol from the security firm, police said.

According to accounts, he forced the girl to stop, then said she was under arrest for speeding. He got in her car and drove it south, abandoning the flasher car which was later recovered.

LECTURED ON SPEEDING

In the Royal Oak area he lectured her on speeding pointing to wrecked cars and a cemetery. He then pulled his pistol, handcuffed and bound the girl, police relate.

He later released her and forced her to call her parents and say she had to work late. He then proceeded to drive to Ohio. She persuaded the suspect to stop at a restaurant to eat.

She escaped by dashing into the kitchen and yelling for help at 7:30 p.m. — after five hours of captivity. The man fled with her car.

Contacted yesterday, Mrs. Brown said her daughter "has been through a very trying experience for a young girl."

NERVOUS REACTION

She said her daughter was calm when she first arrived home, but suffered a nervous reaction later. She was not available for comment.

Police said the girl told them she had not been harmed in any way by the man.

A police spokesman said the man has no criminal record.

COMMON CONCERN — New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller (right) and Gov. George Romney converse privately as they prepare to meet newsmen yesterday in New York with six other Republican governors. Rockefeller was chairman of the session designed to draw up action programs to deal with racial tensions in the cities. The governors charged that effectiveness of federal programs was inhibited by unnecessary administrative inflexibility.

State Is Coldest in Nation Today; Area's Low Is 48

Michigan was the coldest spot in the nation today as both Grant and Pellston reported overnight lows of 34, the U.S. Weather Bureau said.

The mercury dipped to 48 at 7 a.m. today in downtown Pontiac, a new low for the season. The temperature had warmed to 67 by 1 p.m.

The Weather Bureau forecasts fair and warmer for the next two days. Here is the official day by day report:

TODAY — Sunny and cool, high 67 to 75. Fair and cool tonight, low 47 to 53. Northerly morning winds 10 to 20 miles becoming light and variable tonight.

TOMORROW — Sunny and warmer, highs in the 70s.

SUNDAY — Fair and warmer. Precipitation probabilities in the per cent are: today 5, tonight and tomorrow near zero.

Commander Says Marines in Viet Lack Helicopters

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI) — Marine Corps Commandant Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr. said today Leathernecks have a helicopter shortage in Vietnam. He also said U.S. forces could use more men that they have.

The general told newsmen the Marines have the equivalent of five divisions of men in Vietnam but have helicopters enough only for two.

The Leathernecks long have reported short on the "choppers" the U.S. ground forces use in spotting and assaulting Communist units and in supplying their own troops.

Helicopters often provide the only communication and transport between the Leatherneck bastions strung out along the North-South Vietnam border.

Green, making his sixth tour of the war zone, indicated the 45,000 additional troops president Johnson has approved might not be enough.

The general also indicated his Marines might once more push into the southern half of the six-mile-wide Demilitarized Zone to clear out Communist buildups in the so-called neutral zone.

City Hospital Starts Annex

Pontiac Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. yesterday joined Aleck Capsalis, chairman of the Board of Trustees of Pontiac General Hospital, in ground-breaking ceremonies for a $930,187 annex to the hospital.

The new building, which has been designed primarily for treatment of emergency cases, will be separate from the main hospital but will be connected to it by a tunnel.

It will be located on Seminole immediately south of the present maintenance building and will have basement and street level floors.

Capsalis said it will be three times larger than the present emergency area and will be equipped to provide for major and minor services peculiar to emergency patient care thus enabling the hospital to handle the constant increase in patient load.

He noted that in 1966, 42,000 persons were treated in the emergency area with 1967 already showing a sizable increase.

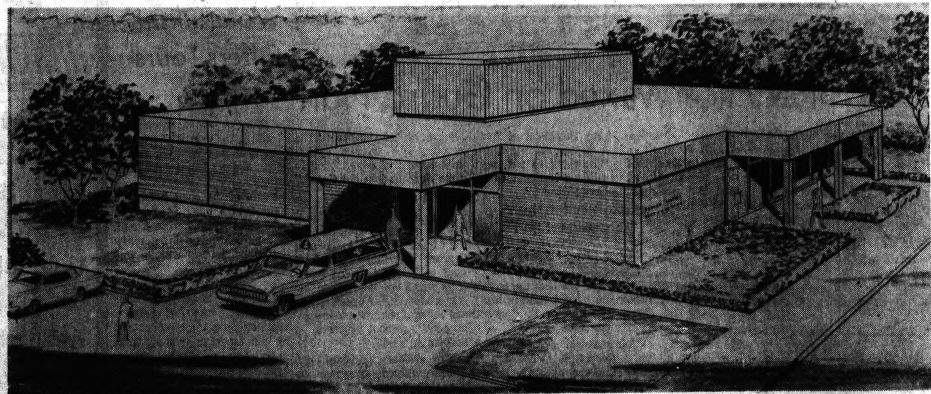

LONG-RANGE PLAN

"We're very excited about this project," said Capsalis, "because it is the first step in a long-range plan designed to improve our ability to meet the needs of the community."

When the new unit is completed, present emergency area will be converted to an outpatient clinic.

Construction on the project will begin Monday and is expected to be completed next summer.

Train Crash in Denmark Kills 3 Yanks

ODENSE, Denmark (AP) — Three Americans from Ohio and eight Danes died Thursday in Denmark's worst railroad disaster in more than 50 years—the crash of one passenger train into the rear of another that had stopped on a bridge.

The American dead were identified as Joseph Nemesh, 57, and his wife Mary Jane, 50, of Cleveland, and Alexander Kilbourne Young, 21, of Dayton, son of a Republican county committee chairman, Howard Young.

The U.S. Embassy in Copenhagen said two Americans were among the 33 persons injured in the crash on Denmark's central island of Funen. It said Gladys Schuman of New York City and Lynn Newwood, 22, a student from Dayton Ohio, were hospitalized with minor injuries.

Young and Miss Newwood were left a 28-member Miami (Ohio) University tour group for a side trip to see the birthplace of author Hans Christian Andersen. The others in the group had gone ahead to Copenhagen.

A man identified as an American doctor escaped unhurt and immediately started helping the injured. He refused to give his name.

County Law Officials Cite Risks

Avon's Safety Corps: a Legal Liability

By JEAN SAILE

AVON TOWNSHIP—Is it legal? The question was seriously considered yesterday by county law officials in regard to the township's new Public Safety Corps.

Proposed as a 1,000-man force of home owners to handle civil disorders and vandalism, the corps Wednesday night got the Township Board's nod of approval.

Supervisor Cyril Miller, spark plug of the organization, was authorized to appoint a part-time public safety director whose job would presumably be the organization of such a corps.

'LIABILITY RISKS'
"So many people acting on behalf of the township would increase its liability risks," said Oakland County Prosecutor Jerome C. Bronson in a review of the situation.

"There are many hypothetical cases which could occur," he said.

"A corps member rushing to the scene of a disturbance might run over a child in the street."

"Unnecessary force might be used."

'IMPROPER ARREST'
"An improper arrest might be made."

"The wrong man might accidentally get shot."

"Since any corps member would be acting on behalf of the township, litigation would be a likely consequence," Bronson remarked. "And it would likely be expensive — even if it were settled without a judgment."

"As such it would increase the legal obligation of the residents. They are the one who must determine if this risk of liability is necessary."

WHO HAS SAY?

"When does a situation become an emergency?" Bronson asked. "Who says? I personally have not been advised of any such situation in the county by any local law enforcement agency."

He concluded, "I am sure the township must have consulted its legal advisors before entering into such a program."

Avon Township Attorney Rex Bebout, when contacted by the Pontiac Press, said "I have not been consulted on any phase of it (the Public Safety Corps)."

All I know is what I read in the papers."

Former Birmingham Police Chief Ralph Moxley, now director of the Oakland Police Academy which teaches riot control among other programs, said, "Our experience has shown that a small group of trained officers can handle a mob more effectively than a large number of untrained men."

'CARRIED AWAY'

"It is so easy for untrained men to get carried away emotionally that they sometimes wind up doing more harm than good."

Moxley said he would recommend a 40-hour training course and the deputiza-tion of every man involved in such a corps.

"There can be serious consequences if they exceed their legal authority," he said.

"All of their actions would be subject to review — the same as the actions of the rioters," he said.

'LEGAL ANGLES'

Moxley was in favor of training that would cover the legal angles as well as the riot techniques.

"It's just as important to know what you cannot do as well as what you can do," he said.

"Any man leaving his front yard on such a mission is on thin ground," he concluded.

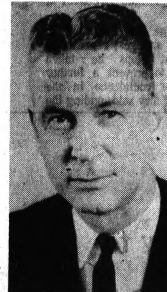

A public meeting is slated by the corps for 7 p.m. Monday at the Township Hall.

County Panel Initiates CHEC Plan to Encourage Citizens to Fight Crime

The law enforcement committee of the board of supervisors yesterday initiated plans to develop a countywide organization of private citizens to assist police in fighting crime.

The program, known as CHEC (Citizens Helping to Eliminate Crime) will be outlined to county officials from all levels of government at a breakfast meeting Oct. 4.

"This is an ideal time to introduce the CHEC program into communities," said committee chairman John S. Slavens, referring to recent riots.

The program originated in Flint and, because of its success there, has spread to a number of Michigan cities, including Pontiac, Saginaw, Grand Rapids, Bay City, Kalamazoo and Muskegon Heights, and the counties of Kent and Genesee.

The plan operates on the theory that there are witnesses to most crimes and that the offenses can be prevented if these persons immediately contact police with information.

ADDITIONAL EYES, EARS

In Flint alone, some 60,000 persons have enrolled in the CHEC program, giving police additional eyes and ears to circumstances of a suspicious nature.

Since the program began in Pontiac several months ago, 1,000 city residents have joined. They are known as CHEC-mates.

TO WEIGH RESPONSE

After the initial meeting with officials, committee members will confer with local leaders at another date to determine what response there is to the plan.

The program could be financed by service clubs, as now done in most communities with CHEC, according to committee members.

Committee member John T. Warren of West Bloomfield Township, said it must be emphasized that CHEC would not replace auxiliary police.

Exam Slated for Woman in Keego Harbor Fracas

KEEGO HARBOR — Examination has been set for Aug. 29 for one of the 31 participants in the fracas on Willow Beach Drive the night of July 23.

Mrs. Emily Yousif, Highland Park, was charged with misuse of firearms at her arraignment before Judge Robert W. Carr, Independence Township.

She stood mute at the arraignment and was released on $100 personal recognizance bond. The examination will be before Judge Christian Powell of West Bloomfield Township.

Complainant in the case is a youth, Frank C. Khuser, 1167 Nakomis, Pontiac. He claims that Mrs. Yousif shot a pistol at him.

The fracas was at the home of Sam Namy, 1990 Willow Beach, where several persons sought refuge from the Detroit riots. Twenty persons, it was reported, had gathered at the Namy home.

REPORTEDLY FREE-FOR-ALL

The use of firecrackers and name calling touched off the free-for-all between persons at the Namy home and 11 people at the Donald Likens home, 1844 Willow Beach, reported Keego Harbor Police Chief James Sisk.

It took officers from seven police departments 20 minutes to halt the fight, in which cement blocks, golf clubs and at least one hatchet were reportedly used. One man was taken to the hospital, and about six others needed medical treatment.

OTHER CHARGES

The Keego Harbor police department has questioned most of the participants and said other charges may follow.

Troy Man Said Released From Jail in Romania

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Troy man was reported to have been released from a Romanian jail, pending a trial there later this month growing out of an auto accident.

A State Department spokesman said yesterday this information had been received from the Romanian Foreign Ministry concerning George Diak, 47, Troy.

The Romanians said Diak's car struck a Romanian man and wife on a motorcycle July 27, killing the husband and injuring the woman. U.S. officials expect the Romanians will try Diak for manslaughter.

The State Department spokesman, press officer Robert J. McCloskey, said the U.S. Embassy at Bucharest had not known that Diak had been jailed until his sister, a Romanian citizen, told the U.S. mission.

Diak had been held at Caram Sebes, in the western part of Romania, where the accident occurred. He had gone to Romania to visit relatives.

WITHOUT BAIL

McCloskey said the U.S. Embassy immediately asked to see Diak on July 31, and the Romanian Foreign Ministry confirmed he was being held. While not granting immediate access to Diak, McCloskey added, the Romanians said Diak was released at Caram Sebes Wednesday without bail, and is expected to arrive in Bucharest shortly.

The U.S. Embassy "will do everything it can to assist" Diak in the forthcoming trial, the spokesman said.

Lapeer County Corps to Vie in D.C.

LAPEER — The Golden Warriors Drum and Baton Corps, state champions four times, will compete Saturday in National Corps competition at Washington, D.C.

Comprising young people 13 to 19, the corps has won over 300 different awards

Sleeth to Close for Resurfacing

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — The County Road Commission announced Sleeth Road between Wixom and Bass Lake will be closed starting Monday through Nov. 1 for a resurfacing project.

Residents along the 23-mile stretch will be allowed access but, for others, the road commission suggests Duck Lake, Commerce, Bensten and Bass Lake roads.

The $137,549 project is by Mather Construction Co. of Farmington.

Request Is Denied on District Transfer

A petition to withdraw three small pieces of property from the Lake Orion School District and add them to the Oxford district was turned down last night.

A combined hearing of the Oakland and Lapeer County Intermediate school board in Lapeer resulted in a denial of the request.

The property involved lies along Coats and Stanton roads to the south of three other parcels which were transferred from the Lake Orion to the Oxford district last Fall by order of the State Department of Public Instruction.

Better access to elementary schools was the reason given for the request.

School Board Ups Novi Book Fees

NOVI — The board of education at its recent meeting raised the book fees for grades one through six to $10 this year.

The $3 increase goes for the purchase of all workbooks, not previously included in the book fee, which had only been for textbooks.

The book rental fees remain the same for the junior and senior high at $10 and for kindergarten at $5.

In other business, the board accepted bids for bus insurance, milk and gas and fuel oil.

Bodker Dairy was chosen to provide milk at .057 cents per half pint. This is a slight increase over last year, but will not be reflected in students' prices.

Oxford Twp. Again Tries to Get Safety Features at Intersection

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — A third attempt to get either a traffic light or turn-out lanes at the M24-Drahner road intersection has been initiated by the Township Board. The Michigan State Highway Department has been approached.

Supervisor Lee Valentine reported that since Arco, Inc., of Lake Orion has opened its new foundry on Drahner, 80 to 90 cars twice a day and equipment trucks have been added to the intersection flow.

Foundry traffic will shortly reach 200 cars twice a day, according to Shardon C. Allen, safety director.

Also requested was 950 feet of pavement to the easterly edge of foundry property. Allen said Arco would be willing to share financial responsibility for the project.

Announcement was made that the township zoning board will meet at 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

Up for consideration is the rezoning request to allow sand and gravel mining on Gingell and Hart property to the north, and a recreational area rezoning requested by Addison Township Supervisor Billy VanArsdel. He would like to have seasonal trailer parking allowed on some lake land he owns.

Donations Sought for Rummage Sale

The Wixom-Novi-Walled Lake Kiwanis Club is asking for donations for their rummage sale Sept. 30.

The proceeds of the sale will help Kiwanis finance the civic organization's activities. It recently sponsored a junior olympics and has set a school bus drivers' awards event for October. The club also aids students and hospitals.

Ky Shrugs Off Charges

SAIGON (U) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky today brushed off charges from South Vietnam's civilian presidential candidates that he has failed to provide them adequate security and transportation for campaigning.

2-Township Picnic Is Slated for Sunday

Residents of White Lake and Independence townships are having their picnic Sunday at 1 p.m. at the Davisburg Park, Andersonville Road.

The event is free. Dinner is not provided.

Planned are games for children and adults, including a senior men's softball tournament. Also, a teenage combo is slated to play.

Holly Twp. Leaders Push School Tax OK

HOLLY TOWNSHIP — Leaders of some local organizations have joined together in an effort to encourage community support of a school millage proposal, due to come before voters Aug. 31.

The electorate at that time will be asked to approve a continuation of the present 7-mill school operational tax.

In June and July, 10-mill requests were refused by voters.

Leading the campaign to win passage for the proposal are Mrs. Merton Pelton of 3211 M27, and Roger G. Gillespie of 17027 Weber.

They head a committee composed of leaders of the Holly VFW, Kiwanis,

Local 92 of the American Federation of State and Municipal Employees, Ministerial Assoc., band and athletic booster clubs, child study club, Holly Education Assoc., Jaycees and Board of Commerce.

LEADERS' ACTIVITIES

Mrs. Pelton is secretary of the Advisory Council to Holy Schools and Gillespie is president of the community Little League.

The committee, according to Mrs. Pelton, plans to print brochures describing the need for the seven mills.

An information booth in downtown Holly and a phone campaign are planned and speakers on the issue will be made available to interested groups.

Two public informational meetings are slated for Aug. 21 and 22 at Holly High School and Davisburg Elementary School, respectively. Both meetings will be at 8 p.m.

OPTIMISM EXPRESSED

Mrs. Pelton expressed optimism about prospects for passage of the millage this time.

"I think it will be approved," she said. "We believe that by election time most citizens will realize it is needed."

Meadow Brook Performance Smashingly Pure Technique

By Bernice Rosenthal

Two standard romantic compositions and two contemporary works comprised the program at last night's Meadow Brook Concert. Sixteen Ehrlich was most inspired in his choice of material from the viewpoint of audience interest, orchestral and solo performances, and his own affinity for romantic and contemporary music.

Russian-born Vladimir Ashkenazy was the soloist in Chopin's F minor Piano Concerto. Delicacy and clean, concise technique and fresh highlights his playing. There was none of the mawkishness, over-sentimentality, overt attempts at obvious virtuosity or effeminacy that one so frequently hears in this concerto.

NEW STRUCTURE

Rather, one heard a performance of pristine purity polished technique, marvelously controlled pianissimos and understated phrases that gave new stature to a concerto that has so often been exploited and misused with unwarranted flamboyance and poor taste.

Brahm's Third Symphony likewise escaped the dull, ponderous reading from which it so often suffers from well-meaning orchestras and conductors. Ehrlich's light touch and moving tempi gave the symphony added strength and beauty, a spiritual uplift and excitement.

The undulations of the music were kept well in hand and the low instruments were not permitted to boom out and clutter up the inner voices which spoke out so expressively. It was an inspired performance, one of the most mature and artistic that Ehrlich has ever given.

The program opened with Alan Hovhaness' "Prelude and Quadruple Fugue for Orchestra." To those familiar with the composer's philosophy and works of recent years, the Prelude and Fugue may have been a disappointment. There was none of the oriental approach or the unorthodox use of instruments which one associates with Hovhaness and his efforts to free the instruments from conventional boundaries.

Rather, this is a classic prelude and fugue, clean-cut, precise, artfully kept within traditional bounds, yet written with freshness, invention, and the master technician's hand. Ehrlich and the orchestra gave it a most satisfying performance, with no nonsense about it.

CLOSED PROGRAM

Another contemporary master's hand was heard in Paul Dance" which closed the program. After an evening marked by purity and restraint, Ehrlich and the orchestra pulled out all the stops and let loose with a torrent of sound and musical fireworks which was satisfying to one and all, especially the percussion section.

One could hear the influences of atmospheric composers like Griffes in the elegiac Invocation, and impressions of Ravel, early Stravinsky and De Falla in the pulsating atavistic dances which followed. The syncretized, fragmentary jazz themes were caught up in a maze of hypnotic beats that set the senses and Mr. Ehrlich dancing. It was a fiery conclusion to a great and spiritual evening.

On Saturday, Ashkenazy will perform Beethoven's "Emporer" Concerto, and the orchestra will feature the First Symphony by Shostakovich and the World Premiere of Krenek's "Horizon Circled," which was commissioned by the Meadow Brook Festival.

ENG. BEAVER (16 MILE ROAD) AT COOLIDGE, TROY

Mr. and Mrs. Carlos M. Enmark of Barcroft Way, Sterling Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Rhonda L. to Larry D. Goldsworthy. He is the son of Mrs. Margaret Evans of Charles Lane and Lawrence Goldsworthy of Fox Bay Drive. She is a graduate of Pontiac Business Institute and her fiancé attended Taylor University, Upland, Ind.

The engagement is announced of Joyce Ann Furney to David L. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley R. Johnson of Cameron Street. She is the daughter of Mrs. Andrew Furney of Flint and the late Mr. Furney, and is a junior at Hurley Hospital School of Nursing. He is a student at Oakland Community College. Fall, 1969, vows are planned.

Adults Asked to Volunteer

There are many stimulating community service assignments waiting to captivate the interest and enthusiasm of persons who have a little time on their hands and are eager to use it to aid the less fortunate.

Important volunteer positions are now open to adults of all ages in the field of mental health.

Visiting with patients as a friendly companion is a good beginning. You can talk about books, sports, hobbies or lead a lively discussion on a pre-selected topic.

If you are artistic, talented in skills, like to dance or play cards, you will be opening up new avenues of interest for the patient.

There is much to do in mental health services. Let the Oakland County Volunteer Bureau on South Woodward in Birmingham show you the way.

Couple Wed in Ann Arbor on Weekend

Douglas Memorial Chapel in Ann Arbor was the setting for the recent marriage of Dolores Edith Deckinger and Stephen Charles Fairbanks.

Their parents are the Hermann Deckingers of Glendale, N.Y., and Mrs. Orval Fairbanks of Bloomfield Hills and the late Mr. Fairbanks.

SILK ORGANZA
The bride was attired in a street length gown of white silk organza. She wore a lace mantilla and a shoulder corsage of white roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Manney Jr. were honor attendants for the couple. Mrs. Manney is the bridegroom's sister.

A luncheon in the Camelot Room, Inn of America, in Ann Arbor immediately followed the ceremony, after which the couple left for a honeymoon in Montreal and New York.

They will return to Ann Arbor where both are pursuing post graduate studies; he seeking a master's degree in Middle Eastern language, she an M.A. in Islamic Arts.

The bridegroom graduated from Cranbrook School and the University of Michigan and has served in Iran as a Peace Corps Volunteer, teaching English.

Fertilize Twice Yearly

Defector Is Daughter of Vietcong Official

SAIGON (AP) — The 17-year-old daughter of a Vietcong province official—a guerrilla nurse herself for four years—has defected to the government and appealed to her father to return to his family, U.S. officials said today.

In a letter addressed to her father, she said his family needs him and is "looking forward to your return every hour, every minute," the official account said.

The girl was identified as Nguyen Thi Mat, who joined the Vietcong when she was 13 and was given eight months of training as a nurse. She was said to have turned herself in to national police two months ago about 20 miles north of Saigon.

Nguyen Van Hoa, a deputy province commander of the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Vietcong, in Binh Duong Province just north of the capital, he was described as a "long-time Communist underground fighter," who has been a leader in military and political operations against the South Vietnamese government since 1958.

NO INDICATION

There was no indication he was heeding Mat's plea.

Officials said the girl gave this account: Her father, now 52 and a former farmer, encouraged her when she was 13 to join the Vietcong "because it would bring me honor and I would be trained to be useful." He told her it was a good life.

Beggar to be a nurse, she joined the guerrilla movement and received medical training in a hideout near her village. She was assigned later to various operational bases, most of them within a 40-mile radius of Saigon.

At first the work was challenging, but she became disillusioned and found that life with the Vietcong was not the "good life."

Living conditions were primitive, there were shortages of food and clothing and Vietcong areas were under frequent air and artillery attack.

PERSONAL RIVALRIES

There was constant talk within the movement of revolution and killing, but there also were personal rivalries, suspicion and distrust.

"We were always being watched," she said.

Last February she was married to a 25-year-old political secretary in the National Liberation Front who was stationed near her base camp. He was killed in a South Vietnamese air attack in May. The next month, she made her decision to leave the Vietcong.

She said her husband had talked about leaving the Vietcong "but he was afraid. The Vietcong leaders are always telling the people they will be jailed or shot by the government if they give themselves up."

FELT SHE MUST HELP

She said she was afraid, too, but that her mother and her three young brothers are poor and that she felt she must help them.

Officials said she wrote the letter to her father after she came out, attached a photograph of herself and asked if South Vietnamese authorities could somehow deliver it for her. In it she said she could not understand "revolution" and "liberation," and that she was disappointed with the injustices and suspicion she had found with the Vietcong. She also told him he would be well treated by the government, as she had been, officials said.

Hovercraft Creates Legal Dither

By Science Service International
LONDON — Who or why or which is a hovercraft? The engineers know, the public generally knows, but governments apparently can't decide.

The vehicle travels over land and water, but it rides on air, so is it a boat? A plane? An automobile?

No one is certain just who should regulate the craft, and the temporary measures that have been taken are different in almost every country in which hovercraft are commercially used.

In England, they are treated as aircraft, licensed by the Air Registration Board, even though they can rise only a few feet off the ground. At the same time, the Intergovernmental Maritime Consultative Organization is trying to lay out safety standards as though they were ships.

U.S. DITHER

The United States is not sure what they are either. More than a year before scheduled hovercraft service began between San Francisco and Oakland, Calif., seven Federal agencies tried to straighten out the mess they faced.

Included were the Maritime Commission, the Commerce Department, the Federal Aviation Agency, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Civil Aeronautics Board and the Bureau of Customs.

The final decision was that jurisdiction should be in both the Coast Guard, since the craft were traveling over water, and the CAB, since they operated over a route usually served by helicopters.

A 3RD VOICE

In addition, the Customs Bureau got its hand in by saying that as long as they were on water, hovercraft could be defined as "vessels," and were thus subject to all of Customs' rules relating to "vessels generally."

Canada is another country with a double standard for hovercraft. The Air Transport Board gives out the licenses, but inspections are required by the National Harbors Board and the marine division of the Department of Transportation.

Officials close to the program believe that full control in Canada may end up with the maritimers, however, and that the country will decide that the craft are less like low-flying planes and more like high-rising ships.

Other countries that have tried out commercial hovercraft service include Norway, Scotland, Japan and West Germany.
