Scott Charges Hoffa Asked Help on Trial

Rackets Probers Hear Former City Teamster

Testifies Union Boss Sought New Hearing for 'Purple Gang' Head

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL Jr.

Ex-Teamster Robert P. Scott charged his ex-boss James R. Hoffa once asked him to "see what you can do" about getting a new trial for Harry Fleisher, notorious head of Detroit's "Purple Gang" now in prison.

Scott, of 31 Bloomfield Terrace, made his second appearance before the Senate Rackets Committee in Washington yesterday to level charge after charge against the head of the Teamsters Union.

He told the McClellan committee that Hoffa, sometime prior to 1948, approached him and asked him to intercede with the late Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick for a new trial for Fleisher.

It was not made clear whether Scott ever did approach the judge on the matter.

Judge Hartrick, who died yesterday in San Francisco hours before Scott testified, sentenced Fleisher, Myron (Mike) Selik, William W. (Candy) Davidson, Pete Mahoney and Sammy Chivas to long prison terms in 1945 for the holdup of the Aristocrat Club in Pontiac on Dec. 2, 1944.

Scott said the five were given stiff sentences as the result of an "understanding" between Judge Hartrick and the late Kim Sigler, who served as special prosecutor in the case.

'DEAL' FELL THROUGH

The agreement, Scott testified, was that Sigler had promised the judge a seat on the Michigan Supreme Court in exchange for the 25 to 50 year sentences handed Fleisher, Mahoney, Davidson and Selik, and a 20 to 40 year sentence for Chivas.

Scott, former past president of Pontiac Teamsters Local 614, said the deal never came off because of Sigler's defeat in the 1948 election by Gov. Williams.

The investigation of the $700 holdup of the Aristocrat Club followed probing of the ambush shooting of Sen. Warren G. Hooper, who was to have been a witness before a grand jury investigation.

At the time they were convicted and sentenced in the Aristocrat Club robbery, Fleisher, along with his brother Sam, as well as Selik and Mahoney, were appealing conspiracy convictions in the Hooper

Pontiac Man Accuses Hoffa

VAGUE ABOUT GIFTS — Teamster President James R. Hoffa testifies he has received gifts but "no cash money" from a Detroit labor relations consultant, George Kamenow, with whom he discussed labor contracts. Hoffa expressed only a vague recollection of just what gifts and favors he has accepted from Kamenow.

Swamped by Bill Backlog, Senate Eyes Education Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate waded deeper into its legislative backlog today to take up a 1½-billion-dollar bill to spur U.S. education.

The House—with most of its work done for this waning session—arranged to vote on whether to cite Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine for contempt of Congress. The action stems from Goldfine's refusal to answer certain questions before a subcommittee investigating his relations with presidential aide Sherman Adams.

SCHOLARSHIPS, LOANS

The education bill before the Senate would provide college scholarships and student loans as well as measures to raise the level of teaching.

It carries 280 million dollars for four-year college scholarships of up to $1,000 a year each. It also includes 315 million dollars in student loan funds and 280 million for grants to the states to buy laboratory equipment for grade schools and high schools.

Additional millions are earmarked for insfitutes and training centers to improve instruction in science, mathematics and foreign languages as well as to better the teaching of general subjects.

The Senate passed three major tax bills yesterday in a sudden burst of speed which somewhat brightened hopes for an early adjournment. All three bills went to conference with the House, which had passed them previously in different form.

First the Senate passed a bulky excise tax revision bill. Then, in a late night session, it finished work on an equally complex technical tax revision bill and added to it a hitherto separate measure designed to give tax relief to small business.

The excise tax revision bill would cost about 39 million dollars a year in revenue. One section, sought by the motion picture industry, would ease the 10 per cent admissions tax to exempt

Top Torch Case Suspect Released on Court Order

By PETE LOCHBILER

Jack Thompson, top suspect in the arson death of Flint Teamster leader Frank H. Kierdorf, was freed on a court order today as close relatives of the victim's missing uncle volunteered to tell authorities here their stories.

Thompson, 41, a fellow business agent of Kierdorf's at Flint local 332, was freed by Circuit Judge Stephen J. Roth after Genesee County Prosecutor Jerome F. O'Rourke refused to press a charge against him.

Thompson, whose fingerprints were found on Kierdorf's station-wagon, had been held five days as a suspect in the arson at a Flint dry cleaning station in which authorities believe the 56-year-old Frank was accidently burned.

O'Rourke said he felt that he could not obtain a conviction against Thompson "at this time," and Atty. Gen. Paul Adams gave reassurances that the release of the Teamster "should not be construed that we are stumped or will not reach a solution."

Judge Roth, presiding over a habeus corpus hearing, refused to let the state hold Thompson two more days, in order to question him further.

Meantime, Lila and Richard Kierdorf, wife and son of Herman Kierdorf, were to appear at Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem's office here at 3 p.m. today to answer questions about Herman's disappearance.

Ziem said he had arranged the interview through their attorney.

State police attempted last night to enter Richard's Saginaw home, where Lila has been staying. Police were reportedly denied en-

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House voted today to cite Bernard Goldfine, Boston millionaire friend of Sherman Adams, for contempt of Congress.

The action sends the matter to the U.S. District Attorney who can submit it to a grand jury. If convicted of contempt, Goldfine could be fined $1,000 and imprisoned for a year.

Since he was cited for refusing to answer 22 questions from an investigating subcommittee, some members suggested in the debate that theoretically such a penalty could be imposed for each question, on conviction. The roll call vote was 387 for citing Goldfine and 8 against. Four members simply voted present.

Fair, Cooler Tonight With Low Near 60

Fair and cooler with the low near 60 is the prediction for the Pontiac area tonight with today's northeasterly winds becoming light and variable tomorrow.

Partly cloudy and warmer with a high of 84-88 is tomorrow's forecast by the U.S Weather Bureau. A low of 64-68 with scattered thundershowers is expected tomorrow night.

For the next five days, temperatures will average near or slightly above the normal high of 82 and normal low of 61. Friday will be cooler, Saturday warm again, with cooler temperatures Sunday and Monday. Precipitation will total one-third inch with showers tomorrow night, or possibly Friday and Sunday.

The mercury soared to a sizzling 90 degrees again yesterday for the third time this month but early morning thunderstorms brought temperatures tumbling to a cool 64 shortly after 5 a.m. At 2 p.m. the recording was 82.

Pravda Already 'Nyets'

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, today denounced President Eisenhower's new plan for the Middle East even before he presented it to the emergency session of the United Nations General Assembly.

Gromyko Accuses U. S. of Trampling on Charter by Action in Lebanon

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—President Eisenhower today set forth a sweeping six-point plan for building enduring Mideast peace.

The plan included swift creation of an emergency U.N. police force and an international economic development program.

In a dramatic personal appearance before a tense extraordinary meeting of the United Nations General Assembly, the President at the same time accused the Soviet Union—without naming it—of stirring up war hysteria with tactics of "ballistic blackmail."

The President, in blue suit and tie, spoke for 28 minutes before the emergency session of the United Nations General Assembly called to consider the Mideast crisis.

The President delivered his address without interruption, but at the end the delegates applauded him for 34 seconds. They give him another ovation as he left.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko answered President Eisenhower's Middle East peace bid today with a charge that the United States was the main threat to peace in that area.

GROMYKO TALKS BACK

Gromyko addressed the emergency meeting shortly after Eisenhower.

Refusing to take the President's cue for playing down East-West differences, Gromyko charged that policies of the United States and Britain "threaten to hurl mankind into the abyss of a new war with all its consequences."

He accused the United States of trampling the U. N. charter under its feet by sending military forces into Lebanon. He also charged that indirect aggression was a firm part of U. S. foreign policy.

The Arabs, for the momen, were noncommittal.

A spokesman for Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said Britain "warmly welcomes" the President's speech. It also was praised by Ireland and Italy.

Eisenhower laid down his proposals for peace and economic stability in a prepared major foreign policy speech carried coast-to-coast on television and radio, and beamed around the world by the government's Voice of America radio.

He said his program would promote a true Arab renaissance.

The alternative, he asserted, is: "The danger that nations under aggressive leadership will seek to exploit man's horror of war by confronting the nations, particularly small nations, with an apparent choice between supine surrender or war."

Again without naming Moscow, Eisenhower compared the Krem-

U.N. Hall Is Dream for Debates

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The U.N. emergency General Assembly meets in a debater's dream world come to life.

Every technical facility is provided for leaders from 81 nations to let the world know their views on the Middle East situation.

The meeting is in a big blue and gold modernistic assembly hall. Each delegation is entitled to 10 seats in the acoustically designed hall with its 75-foot ceiling.

The U.N. has five official languages — English, French, Russian, Spanish and Chinese.

Translators occupy glass enclosed booths along side walls. As a speaker talks in one of the official languages, language experts provide simultaneous official tongues.

Delegates listening through earphones obtain the translation desired by twisting a dial to the proper language channel.

Press, radio and TV booths also line the walls of the hall.

In addition to space for the 810 delegates, the Assembly accommodates 270 observers, 234 reporters in a special press section, and 800 visitors in the public galleries.

Assembly President Leslie Munroe of New Zealand occupies a marble podium on a elevated state at the front of the hall.

On one side of him is seated Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, and on the other side Andrew Cordier, executive assistant to the secretary general.

Behind the podium is the seal of the United Nations.

The speaker's stand is in front of the podium.

The big power veto does not apply in the General Assembly, as it does in the 11-nation Security Council.

Resolutions must win a two-thirds majority of those present and voting in order to pass the Assembly.

Ex-President Truman Likes Ike's Speech

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Former President Harry Truman made this comment today on President Eisenhower's speech to the United Nations General Assembly:

"A good, constructive speech on which I hope the United Nations Assembly will act immediately."

Truman listened to a broadcast of the speech.

'Remember Hungary'

Thousands Applaud Ike

NEW YORK (AP)—Thousands of persons cheered President Eisenhower today as he drove from the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel to address the United Nations.

His motorcade was escorted by 85 motorcycle policemen on the five-minute trip.

About 3,000 persons were standing opposite the hotel's driveway as the President's familiar bubble-dome car emerged.

In response to the cheers, Eisenhower smiled, doffed his hat and waved.

Several thousand persons lined the route. Another 5,000 waited at the United Nations Plaza.

Secretary of State Dulles sat in the back seat with the President. Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to the U.N., occupied a front seat.

The American flag and the President's flag flew at the front of the car.

About 20 Hungarians at one point along the route waved a banner, reading: "Ike, remember Hungary, please."

Skate Passage Strengthens Nautilus Triumph

Second U.S. Atomic Sub Crosses North Pole

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States staked a new claim to mastery of undersea pioneering today after a second atomic submarine had crossed under the North Pole.

The USS Skate reached the pole at 8:47 p. m. (EST) Monday—just six days after its older sister, the Nautilus, emerged from an historic 1,830-mile trip across the polar cap. The Nautilus arrived yesterday in Portland, England, and got a big welcome.

The Navy released word of the Skate's achievement last night without any fanfare—in a two paragraph statement. This contrasted sharply with the special White House ceremony arranged last Friday to announce the Nautilus' voyage.

The bare announcement last night said the Skate surfaced in an ice field some 40 miles from the North Pole to radio word of the trip. The Navy said the Skate, the third U. S. atomic sub built, was continuing under-ice explorations.

The Skate's path to the pole was just the opposite from the Nautilus, which began its journey from the Pacific. The 265-foot long Skate left New London, Conn. July 30 and entered from the Atlantic.

As with the Nautilus, Navy officials did nothing to call attention to the military significance of the transpolar trips. President Eisenhower cited the Nautilus' achievement as pointing the way toward a new commercial seaway between the world's two major oceans.

But the military importance of the feats was made plain in remarks by Sens. Prescott Bush (R-Conn) and Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM).

Bush, telling the Senate of the Skate's trip, spoke of the Navy's delivery of a "one-two punch."

Anderson said the submarines may have given the United States the means of preventing war.

"We now have vast new ocean areas from which to wage war," Anderson said.

"There our submarines can hide, can remain undetected for long periods of time, and can fire missiles at anyone who dares to attack us."

The United States currently is building a fleet of 33 atomic subs. These include three already in service, several soon to go into service and others in the process of construction or on the authorization list.

Cmdr. James F. Calvert, a veteran submarine officer who graduated from Annapolis in 1942, is the Skate's skipper. The Navy said 10 officers, 87 enlisted men and 9 civilian technicians are making the Arctic trip. The Skate is expected to return to New London late this month through the Atlantic.

Leathernecks Begin Pullout

Battalion of Marines Lugs Heavy Equipment to Lebanon Beaches

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A battalion of 1,700 U.S. Marines began pulling out of Lebanon today — the United States' answer to Russian charges the American troops were here for "aggression."

The Marines began their move early today by pulling their heavy equipment up to the beaches where they landed July 15 at the invitation of President Camille Chamoun who felt his government was threatened by outside forces.

Marines on the beach estimated it would take two or three days before all 1,700 men and their equipment are placed aboard the waiting ships of the U.S. Sixth Fleet.

The withdrawal leaves approximately 9,000 airborne troops and 3,000 Marines in Lebanon.

The Marines boarded landing craft at Yellow Beach, the same strip they hit nearly a month ago, and were ferried to the ships of the U.S. fleet standing offshore.

A State Department spokesman in Washington said he knew of no plans for any immediate withdrawal of additional troops from Lebanon.

A blazing sun beat down on sweating Seabees, Marines and sailors loading ammunition, food and personal effects aboard landing craft.

The departing Marines were unanimous in their belief that the landing operations last month had worked out fine.

But they were equally unanimous in being happy to leave.

Jean Seberg to Wed Attorney From Paris

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa (AP) —Jean Seberg, 19-year-old actress, and Francois Moreuil, Paris attorney, will be married here Sept. 4.

Moreuil, 24, is attached to the French legation in New York City.

It will be a small and simple wedding for the Marshalltown girl who vaulted to stradom at the age of 17 when selected to play the role of Joan of Arc in George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan."

Miss Seberg also starred in "Bonjour Tristesse."

It's the Same; Hot, Humid Air With Showers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's weather pattern showed only minor changes today. It was a continuation of warm and humid air in many areas and scattered showers.

This morning's major thunderstorm activity was along the Atlantic Coast from the Carolinas to southern New England. Thunderstorms also hit spots in the Gulf states and in a few other sections across the country.

Heavy rain doused parts of the Atlantic coastal states during the night. More than an inch fell in Baltimore, Washington, D. C., Gordonsville, Va., and Charlotte, N. C. A severe thunderstorm uprooted trees and disrupted power service at Lewes and Milton, in eastern Delaware.

In the Gulf states, rainfall was light in most places but amounts measured more than 1½ inches at Lake Charles, La. Fairly heavy rains also were reported at Jacksonville, Fla., Lafayette, La., and Athens, Ga.

The mercury climbed to 100 degrees and higher in parts of Kansas, Oklahoma, Utah and Colorado as well as in the Southwest desert.

Delegates to Grapple With Poverty, Misery of Mideast

Magnificent U.N. Building Houses Debate

(UPI correspondent Jack V. Fox has just returned from Lebanon. In the following dispatch, he contrasts the scene here with that in the New York headquarters of the United Nations.)

By JACK V. FOX

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The cool, antiseptic corridors and council chambers of this glass and stainless steel edifice on New York's East River seem so remote and detached from the glaring heat and violence of the Mideast.

Yet here tonight the representatives of 81 nations meet to grapple with the big power struggle in that ancient land and seek some solution to its poverty and misery.

I have just spent a day wandering through the richly carpeted lounges and rooms. Here freshly starched schoolgirls dutifully listen to the tour guides.

In the delegates' cocktail lounge, the new Miss Universe is visiting. She holds court to a ring of diplomats—the ambassador from Poland bending attentively over the beautiful young girl in an orange-colored dress.

A few days ago it was the narrow and squalid streets of Beirut that I walked, shoes gritting in sand spilled from bags of Lebanese army gunposts.

There, too, I was struck by a young woman. She held by either hand two small girls, their clothing literally strips of rags held together by pins, their thin little legs and bare feet caked with dirt. One of them clutched a cucumber.

Here a polite young guard in the light blue uniform of the U.N. discreetly asks for identification at the entrance to the dining room.

MEETING PLACE OF NATIONS — Here is the United Nations Headquarters building on the East River in New York. Delegates of 81 lands are gathering today for a special emergency session of the U. N. General Assembly on the Middle East crisis. The delegates will meet in the spacious Assembly hall, which is in a building adjacent to the Secretariat building.

In Beirut, the stiff young Marine on sentry duty held his rifle ready as he examined newsmen's credentials at the gate to the compound where Leathernecks ate C rations.

Here everything is so beautifully efficient. The desks glitter with polish, the draperies and murals are set off by soft lights. The headsets for the simultaneous translation hang ready for use. The chairman's gavel rests on the rostrum desk.

There everything had been so utterly chaotic. The bazaars one moment swarming with people, the next utterly deserted at a sudden burst of machinegun fire. The 19 American nurses of a field evacuation hospital trying to make womanly order of their tent in a sweltering olive grove.

Here the movement—escalators noiselessly transporting secretaries, newsmen, diplomats from floor to floor. Outside the endless hum of traffic on the Franklin D. Roosevelt Drive that will go on late into the night.

Movement in Beirut, too — the taxis darting through pedestrian crowds, the trucks carrying Marines to their evening shower at the bathhouses. And then the startling hush at the 8 p.m. curfew and the only movement the occasional jeep of the military police.

Here the cultured and soft voices of the cosmopolites in many tongues.

There the horseplay and occasional profanity of the soldiers, or the streetcorner exchange of two Arabs standing nose to nose and shouting.

Today the immaculately dressed and groomed delegates from the world's nations take their seats in the great Assembly hall to talk about the events touched off when a howling mob, their king assassinated, dragged the nude body of their premier along the cobblestoned streets behind a truck.

Judge Hartrick Dies Suddenly in West

on San Francisco's Geary street to have a coat button replaced.

In the shop he suddenly collapsed. He was taken to Central Emergency Hospital where he died.

A coroner, who declined to speculate whether the cause was a heart attack or stroke, ordered an autopsy.

The Judge was expected to fly from the West Coast Aug. 30 in order to be back in Michigan Sept. 3 for a meeting of the Michigan Judges Assn., of which he was president.

Judge Hartrick spent almost all of his colorful years in the legal field. His election in April of 1935 to the Oakland bench marked what observers said was the first "southender" from the county to be elected as circuit judge in the county.

The name Hartrick was a well-known one in that section of the county, especially. The judge had been a life-long resident of the county, living in Royal Oak.

At the time of his death, he and his wife, the former Bernice Bossardet, lived at 404 Hendrie St.

Of the thousands of cases which the judge handled in his 22 years on the bench, probably the best remembered were his tenures as a one-man grand jury in the 1936 Black Legion scandal and the investigation of rackets in Oakland County 10 years later.

Judge Hartrick was born July 2, 1891 to Thomas and Mary Elizabeth (Briggs) Hartrick on a tiny farm off Woodward avenue between Eleven and Twelve Mile roads, in what is now Berkley.

FROM IRELAND

The Hartrick family came originally from Ireland, first made residence in Canada and finally relocated in Michigan.

The passing of Judge Hartrick brought this comment from William B. Hartman, president of the Oakland County Bar Association:

"It comes as a great shock to learn of the passing of Judge George B. Hartrick. An extremely able jurist, he graced the Oakland Circuit Bench and served the people of this State and County well.

"His passing is a great loss, not only to the Oakland County Bar Assn., but to all."

Hartrick's early life was spent on the family farm. He continued to help his mother and father as he began his schooling in the Royal Oak public school system. He graduated in 1910 from the high school there.

Then, just three years later, Hartrick received his law degree from the Detroit College of Law. That same year he was admitted to the Oakland County Bar.

Had he lived, Judge Hartrick might have tried for his fifth six-year term on the Oakland bench in next April's judicial election. His present term expires Dec. 31, 1959.

He was first elected in 1935, re-elected in 1941, 1947 and 1953 elections.

After his admission to the Bar, Hartrick opened up an office in Royal Oak and practiced law there until he became a candidate for the Circuit Court judgeship 22 years later.

LONG PUBLIC OFFICIAL

Besides the many years he spent in the legal business, Hartrick spent an equal number combining this business with years as a public official.

He was Royal Oak village assessor, supervisor of Royal Oak Township, president of Royal Oak village and assistant prosecuting attorney in the county under Prosecutor A. Floyd Blakeslee.

After Hartrick's service in the prosecutor's office, he became a candidate for Circuit Court commissioner. He won and held this position for four terms.

He served as city attorney for the cities of Royal Oak and Berkley.

Education of children was of great interest to the veteran jurist. He succeeded George A. Dondero as president of the Royal Oak School District in 1928. He retired from this position in 1934.

As a Circuit Judge, Hartrick sentenced notorious Purple Gangsters Harry Fleisher and Myron (Mike) Selik and three others in 1945 for their part in the holdup of a gambling house in Pontiac.

Hartrick's many months as grand juror on the investigation of the numbers racket in the county in 1946 brought about the indictment of 32 persons on charges of violating state gambling laws.

As a public official, the judge was chairman of the Oakland County Tax Allocation Board. He was also director of the Oakland County Lincoln Republican Club.

Hartrick was past district governor of Rotary International.

trance and told by Richard to "see my attorney." Richard is a business agent, with the Saginaw Teamsters local.

Meantime probers today eyed a possible Teamster conspiracy extending to Genesee and Wayne counties, but apparently not to Oakland.

Ziem said a check of county records over the past two years showed no incidents here comparable to the Aug. 3 arson of a Flint dry cleaning pickup station.

Adams said investigators are attempting to link the Flint blaze with other bombings there and more than a dozen early this year in the Detroit area.

"If there is a pattern indicating a conspiracy, then we will definitely ask for a grand jury investigation," said Adams here yesterday afternoon.

In Pontiac, Ziem and his corps of investigators hoped to question once more Myron D. Weiss, a friend of Herman Kierdorf. Weiss, who is the last known person to have seen Herman, has been held since Saturday, well over the 48-hour limit usually adhered to in Oakland County.

A Detroiter, Weiss, 54, has given authorities almost no information so far, Ziem said, because he apparently fears retaliation from Herman or "Herman's friends."

Ziem said his staff was taking steps to meet any writ that Weiss may seek to obtain his freedom. Weiss has reportedly contacted an attorney for this purpose.

Adams, who conferred here with Ziem late yesterday afternoon, said he now believes only two men were involved in the arson, instead of three as originally supposed.

Although Adams said it has been proved "sufficiently to my satisfaction" that Frank was one of the arsonists, Herman apparently is no longer suspected of being the other.

Adams said he has "no reason to doubt" statements by Herman's Madison Heights neighbors that he was home Sunday evening at approximately the same time the fire took place.

STILL 'THE KEY'

However, authorities still believe Herman knows enough about the arson to make him "the key that could bust this case wide open."

Adams believed that Herman's flight and Frank's participation in the arson show that it was "absolutely a Teamster affair."

murder. They were never accused of the unsolved slaying itself.

Scott fired his first barrage of corruption charges against Hoffa, once trustee over the Pontiac local, when he testified last September.

Yesterday, while the fiery Teamsters chieftain was sitting close by, Scott told the committee how Hoffa once asked him to "take his brother Billy out of Pontiac for awhile" as he was being sought by police on robbery charges.

The one-time Teamster, who is now on the Michigan Board of License Examiners of Barbers, told also how it cost $7,000 of Local 614 money to find William Hoffa's runaway wife.

"She ran away and Billy was throwing a fit, and Jimmy was raising hell," Scott testified.

Practically everyone listening to Scott's testimony in Washington Tuesday grinned at his answers, with the exception of Hoffa himself.

Scott, 51, could not see Hoffa, who was blocked from his view by spectators.

Scott became irritated when Hoffa's attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, objected over and over again to his testimony.

"I understand this man is a narcotics addict," Williams said.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) interrupted the testimony to ask Scott if this was true.

As he emphatically denied it, Scott glared at Williams.

During his hiding from police, William Hoffa's bill at a Pontiac hotel was paid for from Local 614 funds, Scott said. In addition, Scott testified, Hoffa was given $75 a week in spending money.

James Hoffa went to the stand earlier to deny that he had asked Scott to hide his brother. "I have no recollection of discussing my brother with Scott insofar as hiding my brother."

Scott, who was James Hoffa's choice as secretary - treasurer of the old Michigan Federation of Labor in 1952, told also of being asked by "fellow they called Chinaman" to set up William Hoffa in the numbers racket in Oakland County.

This request was refused, Scott declared, because "his brother (James Hoffa) wouldn't like it."

When Sen. Carl Curtis (R-Neb.) asked Scott why he had never disclosed any of the alleged deal involving Judge Hartrick and Sigler, Scott replied:

"Nobody ever asked me."

Further testimony from Scott, a recent Democratic Candidate in Oakland County, revealed that James Hoffa also asked him to intercede with Gov. Williams to get a pardon for Frank Camaratta, Detroit hoodlum now scheduled for deportation.

(Hoffa answered this charge by saying "I believe some attorney asked me "to intercede for Camarratta.")

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz) inquired of Scott whether he knew the governor "well enough to ask him for a favor." Scott replied he did.

Owen (Bert) Brennan, Teamsters Union vice president and one of James Hoffa's top aides in Detroit, once called Scott and asked "is your insurance paid up," Scott testified.

Asked what he meant, Scott said Brennan replied that he had "two pretty bad guys with him" who wanted Scott to help "put a fix" on Oakland County officials to set up a gambling house.

Detroit fight promoter Sammy Finazzo, Scott said, was slated to operate the house which operated 30 days "because someone else must have put the fix on." Scott said he refused to.

His refusal to aid William Hoffa in "muscling into Oakland County rackets," resulting in Hoffa hiring Herman Kierdorf "to knock me off," Scott said.

Kierdorf, uncle of torch death victim Frank, is being sought by police in the case.

Shortly after Frank Kierdorf stumbled into St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Aug. 3 with burns covering 85 per cent of his body, Pontiac police dispatched a car to check on the "safety" of Scott.

Scott had been in Washington a week before he took the stand yesterday. He originally was scheduled to testify Aug. 7 but Robert F. Kennedy, chief counsel for the committee, put James Hoffa on the stand before Scott.

Kennedy yesterday placed in evidence figures from union files which, he said, showed that two former Pontiac Teamsters officials and two Detroit Teamsters had drawn $114,719.32 in salary while in prison for conspiracy.

The chief counsel identified the men as Daniel J. Keating, former 614 president, Louis C. Linteau, former secretary-treasurer, and Detroiters Michael Nicoletti and Sam Marosso.

They were convicted and sent to prison in 1954 in a $100,000 shakedown of area builders.

Hoffa explained support of the four while in prison saying: "The union felt sorry for the wives of the four." "Besides," Hoffa said, "they (the men) had worked pretty hard."

Ike's Voice Strong, Firm Holding Tense Audience

By JACK V. FOX

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—President Eisenhower made one of the most effective speeches of his political career today when he put the American view in the Near East before the United Nations.

Eisenhower's voice was strong and firm, his enunciation far better than it usually is and his main points strikingly underlined with emphasis as he spoke to the representatives from 81 nations.

There was no applause at any point in his speech. The President held the audience in intense interest, some listening by earphone to translations. At the end there was a surge of applause that swelled and continued more than 30 seconds.

But Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Arkady Sobolev, the Soviet's U. N. delegate, did not clap once. They stood silently as other delegates hailed the American Chief Executive. Within 15 minutes Gromyko was in Eisenhower's place on the rostrum, lauunching immediately into a blunt condemnation of U. S. "armed intervention."

Eisenhower had slept fairly late and breakfasted leisurely at his suite in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Among his morning visitors were Robert Murphy, who just returned from a "trouble shooter" mission in the Mideast.

At 10:40 he strode out of the Waldorf to his black limousine and, escorted by blue-helmeted New York motorcycle police drove swiftly to the U. N. building where barricades held back eager crowds.

General Assembly President Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, U. N. Secretary Dag Hammarskjold and his assistant, Andrew Cordier, escorted Eisenhower down the center aisle of the great Assembly hall while delegates and spectators stood and applauded, mildly.

From Eisenhower's first words it was apparent that the President was tackling his speech with vigor. His voice was stern and low when he warned that there had now been loosed "force that could generate great disaster."

The tone of solemn warning was unmistakable when he said:

"Please believe me when I say that the dream of world domination by one power or of world conformity is an impossoble dream."

During the standing ovation he was given after he had finished, Eisenhower sat down in a large blue upholstered chair and made no move to acknowledge the applause.

Sir Leslie Munro announced that there would be a 10-minute recess while he escorted Eisenhower to his car.

At 12:02 the President and his party drove off toward their waiting plane for Washington.

The presidential plane Columbine took off at 12:14 p.m. The President reviewed an 85-man New York City motorcycle police escort that took him to the airport and took time out to shake hands with a group of admiring children.

Hills High School Plans Special English Course

BIRMINGHAM — A stepped-up program of college preparatory English will be started this fall in Bloomfield Hills High School, according to Supt. Eugene Johnson and Principal Richard Spiess.

The course will be conducted in cooperation with the English Department of the University of Michigan.

Dr. A. K. Stevens, U. of M. English Department professor, will visit the high school—one of nine selected for the course —on Oct. 2 and Dec. 11 to conduct demonstration classes.

Themes developed by the students will be evaluated by Dr. Stevens on his return visit. He will discuss them with the students and explain gradings.

He also will give his recommendations to the faculty for improving the English department of the high school.

Johnson said he feels this is an important project for the school and will be of great value to all students participating in it.

Enrollment in the Bloomfield Hills School District, along with the sale and exchange of books, will begin Monday, Johnson said. School enrollment has increased 100 per cent during the past three years, he said.

Birmingham City Clerk Irene Hanley today announced postponement of a hearing on zoning of the block surrounded by Lawndale, Madison, Oakland and Hunter streets.

It has been rescheduled for Sept. 2.

Clyde G. Murdoch, 1616 Croft Rd., Birmingham, retired last week after 49 years with the Detroit Edison Co.

He joined the company in 1909 as inventory clerk in the stores department. At the time of his retirement he was custodian for the company's records and documents.

Birmingham Kiwanis Club has been granted permission by the city to conduct its annual peanut sale on Sept. 27. Proceeds will be used to finance the club's children's activities, according to E. B. Morley Jr., president.

Elected to membership of the executive committee were: Ralph Eastridge, J. C. Penney Co.; Don Shaw of the Kroger Co.; Richard Poole, Poole Hardware; Maurice Firberg, Nadon's Shop; Phil Brodax of Youngland and Marvin Talan of the Lion Store.

The Miracle Mile Shopping Center is located on S. Telegraph and Square Lake Rds.

'I Drowned Baby,' Mother Tells Police

DETROIT (AP) — A mother of three who walked up to a Detroit police scout car and said "I just drowned my baby" was held today for investigation of murder.

Mrs. Gertrude Rice, 43, was taken into custody last night after officers found her daughter, Michelle, 18 months, dead in a bathtub full of water at the Rice family's East Side home.

Officers said Mrs. Rice's husband, Philip, 30, was at work when the drowning took place. The Rices have two other children, Kevin, 6, and Deirdre, 4. Both were asleep.

Detectives said Mrs. Rice told them she decided to drown the baby because "I want to go to jail and not have any more worries."

They said the woman was released from a sanatorium last January and had been under the care of a Detroit psychiatrist.

Busy Senate Turns to Education Bill

all portions of a ticket below $1. At present, tickets costing 90 cents or less are exempt. But if the price is higher than that, the tax must be paid on the full amount. This provision is not in the House bill.

The technical tax revision bill would close some loopholes in present law. But it also contains benefits for various groups.

ADDITIONAL TAX CUT

The Senate version would give couples living on pensions an additional tax cut of up to $240 a year. This is not in the House bill.

It also would permit all newspapers and magazines to spread subscription income for tax purposes over the period the subscription runs. Some of them now must pay tax on that income in the year received.

The small business tax measure, added to the technical bill, is estimated to give 250 million dollars of annual relief to small firms. The chief provision would permit a faster tax writeoff on new and used equipment bought by the concerns.

Rookie Officer Feels He's Only One in Town

NEW YORK (UPI) — This city has more than 23,000 policemen. But for a while yesterday probationary Patrolman William Bett, 23, felt that he was the only in town.

During a four-hour period, Bett, single-handedly:

—Broke up a cafeteria brawl at gunpoint and took three men to the station house.

—Disarmed a man brandishing a gun at a street corner.

—And, finally, routed 13 persons from a tenement after smelling fumes.

Bett wound up his tour of duty in the hospital, where he was treated for — exhaustion.

Dulles Forced to Move From President's Suite

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles — a victim of hotel protocol—had to move out of the presidential suite at the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday to make way for President Eisenhower.

Dulles already was staked out in the suite of four bedrooms, dining room, living room and foyer. Then came word the President was on his way for an overnight stay before addressing the United Nations.

Bellboys carried Dulles' bags to a suite one floor above.

"The new suite is just as nice as the presidential suite," a hotel spokesman said.

AF May Make First Try

Shoot for Moon Sunday?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Informed sources said today the Air Force may make its first try at launching a moon rocket next Sunday morning.

If conditions are satisfactory, the three-stage rocket, more than 100 feet tall, may blast off from Cape Canaveral, Fla., around 7 a.m. EST.

If it does not prove possible to launch within half an hour's time, the attempt may be postponed to a similar brief period Monday or Tuesday morning.

Those are the three most favorable days this month for a moon shot.

After Wednesday, the rocket specialist said, any lunar probe would have to be postponed until the middle of September.

It will take 2½ days for the lunar vehicle to reach the vicinity of the moon.

The rocket will be equipped with a photoelectric scanning device which, if it functions properly out in space, could relay closeups of the moon back to earth.

Here's Text of Ike's U.N. Address

(By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL)

It has been almost five years since I had the honor of addressing this Assembly. I then spoke of atomic power and urged that we should find the way by which the miraculous inventiveness of man should not be dedicated to his death but consecrated to his life. Since than great strides have been taken in the use of atomic energy for peaceful purposes. Tragically little has been done to eliminate the use of atomic and nuclear power for weapons purposes.

That is a danger.

That danger in turn gives rise to another danger—the danger that nations under aggressive leadership will seek to exploit man's horror of war by confronting the nations, particularly small nations, with an apparent choice between supine surrender, or war.

This tactic reappeared during the recent Near East crisis. Some might call it "ballistic blackmail."

In most communities it is illegal to cry "fire" in a crowded assembly. Should it not be considered serious international misconduct to manufacture a general war scare in an effort to achieve local political aims?

Pressures such as these will never be successfully practiced against America, but they do create dangers which could affect each and every one of us. That is why I have asked for the privilege of again addressing you.

The immediate reason is two small countries — Lebanon and Jordan.

The cause is one of universal concern.

The lawful and freely elected government of Lebanon, feeling itself endangered by civil strife fomented from without, sent the United States a desperate call for instant help. We responded to that call.

On the basis of that response an effort has been made to create a war hysteria. The impression is sought to be created that if small nations are assisted in their desire to survive, that endangers the peace.

This is truly an "upside down" portrayal. If it is made an international crime to help a small nation maintain its independence, then indeed the possibilities of conquest are unlimited. We will have nullified the provision of our charter which recognizes the inherent right of collective self-defense. We will have let loose forces that could generate great disasters.

The united nations has, of course, a primary responsibility to maintain not only international peace but also "security".

That is an important fact. But we must not evade a second fact, namely, that in the circumstances of the world since 1945, the United Nations has sometimes been blocked in its attempt to fulfill that function.

Respect for the liberty and freedom of all nations has always been a guiding principle of the United States. This respect has been consistently demonstrated by our unswerving adherence to the principles of the charter, particularly in its opposition to aggression, direct or indirect. Sometimes we have made that demonstration in terms of collective measures called for by the United Nations. Sometimes we have done so pursuant to what the charter calls "the inherent right of collective self-defense."

Recalls Moments of Clear Danger

I recall the moments of clear danger, we have faced since the end of the second World War — Iran, Greece and Turkey, the Berlin blockade, Korea, the Straits of Taiwan.

A common principle guided the position of the United States on all of these occasions. That principle was that aggression, direct or indirect, must be checked before it gathered sufficient momentum to destroy us all — aggressor and defender alike.

It was this principle that was applied once again when the urgent appeals of the governments of Lebanon and Jordan were answered.

I would be less than candid if I did not tell you that the United States reserves, within the spirit of the charter, the right to answer the legitimate appeal of any nation, particularly small nations.

I doubt that a single free government in all the world would willingly forego the right to ask for help if its sovereignty were imperiled.

But I must again emplasize that the United States seeks always to keep within the spirit of the charter.

Thus when President Truman responded in 1947 to the urgent plea of Greece, the United States stipulated that our assistance would be withdrawn whenever the United Nations felt that its action could take the place of ours.

Similarly, when the United States responded to the urgent plea of Lebanon, we went at once to the Security Council and sought United Nations assistance for Lebanon so as to permit the withdrawal of United States forces.

United Nations action would have been taken, the United States forces already withdrawn, had it not been that two resolutions, one proposed by the United States, the other proposed by the government of Japan, failed to pass because of one negative vote — a veto.

But nothing that I have said is to be construed as indicating that I regard the status quo as sacrosanct. Change is indeed the law of life and progress. But when change reflects the will of the people, then change can and should be brought about in peaceful ways.

U.S. Respects Rights of Arab Nations

In this context the United States respects the right of every Arab nation of the Near East to live in freedom without domination from any source, far or near.

In the same context, we believe that the charter of the United Nations places on all of us certain solemn obligations. Without respect for each other's sovereignty and the exercise of great care in the means by which new patterns of international life are achieved, the projection of the peaceful vision of the charter would become a mockery.

Prompt Action Needed in Lebanon

Let me turn now specifically to the problem of Lebanon.

When the United States military assistance began moving into Lebanon, I reported to the American people that we had immediately reacted to the plea of Lebanon because the situation was such that only prompt action would suffice.

I repeat to you the solemn pledge I then made: our assistance to Lebanon has but one single purpose — that is the purpose of the charter and of such historic resolutions of the United Nations as the "essentials for peace" resolution of 1949 and the "peace through deeds" resolution of 1950.

These denounce, as a form of aggression and as an international crime, the fomenting of civil strife in the interest of a foreign power.

We want to prevent that crime — or at least prevent its having fatal consequences. We have no other purpose whatsoever.

The United States troops will be totally withdrawn whenever this is requested by the duly constituted government of Lebanon or whenever, through action by the United Nations or otherwise, Lebanon is no longer exposed to the original danger.

It is my earnest hope that this assembly, free of the veto, will consider how it can assure the continued independence and integrity of Lebanon, so that the political destiny of the Lebanese people will continue to lie in their own hands.

The United States delegation will support measures to this end.

Jordan Is Also an Urgent Problem

Another urgent problem is Jordan.

If we do not act promptly in Jordan a further dangerous crisis may result, for the method of indirect aggression discernible in Jordan may lead to conflicts endangering the peace.

We must recognize that peace in this area is fragile, and we must also recognize that the end of peace in Jordn could have consequences of a far-reaching nature. The United Nations has a particular responsibility in this matter, since it sponsored the Palestine Armistice agreements upon which peace in the area rests and since it also sponsors the care of the Palestine refugees.

I hope this assembly will be able to give expression to the interest of the United Nations in preserving the peace in Jordan.

Urges Monitoring Propaganda

There is another matter which this Assembly should face in seeking to promote stability in the Near East. That is the question of inflammatory propaganda. The United Nations Assembly has on three occasions — in 1947, 1949 and 1950 — passed resolutions designed to stop the projecting of irresponsible broadcasts from one nation into the homes of citizens of other nations, thereby "fomenting civil strife and subverting the will of the people in any state."

We all know that these resolutions have recently been violatd in many directions in the Near East.

If we, the United States, have been at fault we stand ready to be corrected.

I believe that this Assembly should reaffirm its enunciated policy and should consider means for monitoring the radio broadcasts directed across national frontiers in the troubled Near East area and for examining complaints from these nations which consider their national security jeopardized by external propaganda.

The countries of this area should also be freed from armed pressure and infiltration coming across their borders.

When such interference threatens they should be able to get from the United Nations prompt and effective action to help safeguard their independence. This requires that adequate machinery be available to make the United Nations presence manifest in the area of trouble.

Therefore I believe this Assembly should take action looking toward the creation of a standby United Nations peace force. The need for such a force in being is clearly demonstrated by recent events involving imminent danger to the integrity of two of our members.

I understand that this general subject is to be discussed at the 13th General Assembly and that our distinguished secretary-general has taken an initiative in this matter. Recent events clearly demonstrate that this is a matter for urgent and positive action.

President Proposes 4 Plans of Action

I have proposed four areas of action for the consideration of the Assembly—in respect to Lebanon, Jordan, subversive propaganda and a standby United Nations force. These measures, basicaliy, are designed to do one thing: To preserve the right of a nation and its people to determine their own destiny, consistent with the obligation to respect the rights of others.

This clearly applies to the great surge of Arab nationalism.

Let me state the position of my country unmistakably. The peoples of the Arab nations of the Near East clearly possess the right of determining and expressing their own destiny. Other nations should not interfere so long as this expression is found in ways compatible with international peace and security.

However, here as in other areas we have an opportunity to share in a great international task. That is the task of assisting the people of that area, under programs which they may desire, to make further progress toward the goals of human welfare they have set. Only on the basis of progressing economies can truly independent governments sustain themselves.

This is a real challenge to the Arab people and to us all.

To help the Arab countries fulfill these aspirations, here is what I propose:

First — That consultations be immediately undertaken by the secretary-general with the Arab nations of the Near East to ascertain whether an agreement

Back to School

Discipline Was No Problem Century Ago

By TOM HENSHAW
Associated Press Writer

More than 100 years ago, a German schoolmaster named Hauberle sat down and added up a blow-by-blow summary of his achievements on the educational firing line.

He announced with some pride that in 51 years, 7 months of teaching he had administered 911,527 blows with cane, 124,010 with rod, 20,989 with ruler, 136,715 with hand, 22,763 with books, 12,235 on mouth, 7,905 on ear and 1,115 on head.

Hauberle's record, noted in an 1830 edition of the "American Journal of Education," might go a long way towards explaining why school discipline was scarcely thought of as a problem in his time.

It was a day when teachers could chortle with satisfied humor over a riddle that went:

Question: Why does the eye resemble a schoolmaster?

Answer: Because it has a pupil under the lash.

Don't Stop Spanking

It was a time when a woman who signed herself "a numerous mother" could write to an Ohio journal in complaint about a campaign to eliminate spanking in the classroom. Wrote she:

"I've got nine of 'em and they all need walloping every blessed day. If I tried to do justice by them, it would keep me busy doing that and nothing else.

"So I send 'em to school where I know, if the teacher does what a teacher ought to do, they'll get their desserts. It takes a heap of trouble off my hands. . ."

It was also a day when teachers strode into the classroom with a firm step, secure in the knowledge that they were armed with the best of all possible weapons —the complete works of Hiram Orcutt.

Orcutt was principal of the North Granville, N.Y., Ladies' Seminary and a prodigious authority on how to teach, particularly on how to make 'em sit still while you teach 'em.

A haunting echo of today's school problems sounds through his writings. It's difficult to remember that it was the mid-19th, not 20th, Century when he observed:

"The present is an age of insubordination and can we doubt that this has resulted from the loss of authority in the family and school.

"Parents and teachers . . . no longer enforce obedience but attempt to purchase it by a promised reward . . .

"Now mark the effect of such discipline upon the child. Who conquers in this instance? The pupil, not the master. And soon he learns that disobedience is the best currency at his command to purchase the desired favor.

"Insubordination becomes a habit and he soon loses all respect for authority and those who exercise it over him and grows up in reckless disregard of the laws under which he lives."

Orcutt's studied solution? It can be summed up in two graphic sentences, published under the quasi-authority of the U.S. Bureau of Education:

"Moral suasion is not the remedy for bold and defiant violations of law . . . Rebellion should be met by stunning, crushing blows, such as will vindicate and reestablish authority and deter others from committing the same crime."

Orcutt would have no truck with what he called "Utopian theories of school government . . . that either moral suasion or legal suasion alone will govern schools."

"Obedience is not a voluntary compliance with a request but a hearty response to acknowledged authority — an implicit yielding to a command. Such obedience, prompt and unreserved is the duty of every pupil."

New Ideas Gaining

Orcutt was writing at a time when corporal punishment was losing favor in schools.

"It is a mistaken idea," he maintained, "that corporal punishment is in itself an evil . . . It is not 'violence and outrage' . . .

"Is the surgeon hard-hearted because he performs a painful operation to save the life of the patient? By no means.

"Is the teacher, then, to be accused of cruelty who aims to prevent violence by teaching the necessity of subjection? He is not cruel but merciful.

"Many a child has been saved in school that was lost to the family and society; lost for the want of proper discipline and save by the legal and moral power of the rod."

Find Bodies of 9 in Plane Crash

Japanese Airliner Fell in Sea With 33 Aboard; No Sign of Survivors

TOKYO (AP) — Nine bodies were recovered from the Pacific today after Japan's second fatal civil airline crash since World War II. There were no signs of survivors from the 33 persons, including one American, aboard the twin-engine DC3 of All-Nippon Airways.

The bodies were not identified immediately.

The plane crashed 80 milessouth left engine. The plane was on a flight from Tokyo to Nagoya, 150 miles west, by a roundabout coastalroute to avoid mountains.

The first wreckage was found 15 hours after the radio report. Thirty-three ships and 22 planes, including 11 American aircraft, kept up the search.

The American passenger was Howard Kreiss, 34, a Los Angeles importer who arrived Aug. 4 on one of the four or five business trips he made to Japan annually. He was going to Nagoya to purchase chinaware.

The other 29 passengers and three crew members were Japanese.

81-Year-Old Dozes Until Bolt Strikes

TITUVILLE, Pa. (AP) — A thunderstorm that struck as 81-year-old John E. Williams dozed in a chair at his home gave him a rude and rough awakening.

A lightning bolt which Williams said sounded "like a ton of dynamite" struck nearby about 5 p.m. Boards from the ceiling fell on him. A newspaper he was holding in his hand caught fire.

Williams stuffed the newspaper into a stove and climbed out of the house through a window. A son who lives nearby helped fight a fire that broke out in the lean-to kitchen that had collapsed in ruins.

The house was wrecked by the bolt. Williams said he wasn't hurt.

Fortune Teller Gets Future All Mixed Up

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP)—"Dont spend your money unnecessarily today," warned the fortune teller, "or your bills will come crashing down on you."

So Roy Owens and his wife Eileen took the seer's advice and left $200 home while they went on a -weekend trip. They hid the money in a can and stuck it in the stove for safekeeping.

On Monday Mrs. Owens cooked a tasty dinner. All she burned was

Two Teenage Sisters Perish in Superior Waters

WAKEFIELD (AP)—Two teenage sisters drowned while bathing in Lake Superior waters yesterday, one in a vain effort to aid the other.

The victims were Joann Kraus, 15, and her sister Gerry, 13. They drowned in the mouth of the Presque Isle River 16 miles north of here.

A companion of the girls said Joann entered deep water and that Gerry went to her aid.

Economic Development Solution for Mid-East

Now that Premier KHRUSHCHEV again has backed away from a summit meeting no one not even Russia really wanted, the way is open for today's United Nations General Assembly meeting to discuss the Middle East crisis.

An American resolution introduced by Ambassador LODGE prior to discussion of a summit meeting and aimed at facilitating an early withdrawal of U.S. troops from Lebanon, will have priority. It calls for the Assembly to consider a U.N. force for Lebanon under the 1950 resolution created to circumvent the Soviet veto in the Security Council.

Our recognition of the revolutionary Iraqi government, the peaceful election in Lebanon and Undersecretary Murphy's personal visit to President Nasser have taken the wind out of Khruschchev's propaganda charges of U. S. agressive intent.

Solution of Middle East turmoil appears to lie in a broad regional development program. As far back as December, 1950, the U.N. General Assembly voted $30 million to finance a reintegration program for Palestinian Arab refugees. Two of the projects called for irrigating the northwestern part of the Sinai Peninsula with Nile River water piped from the Suez Canal and development of the whole River Jordan system.

The Sinai plan fell through when NASSER decided in 1956 that Nile waters could not be spared until the Aswan High Dam was built. Acting as special presidential envoy, ERIC JOHNSON made several trips to the Middle East between 1953 and 1955 to promote the Jordan project, But Jordan, Israel and Syria could not reach agreement on water rights.

It would be a fine thing if our country would now step forward with a U.N. resolution proposing development aid and inviting all members to participate in helping over-populated "have-not" nations of the Middle East to erase their age old poverty and misery.

Another Cyprus Plan Advanced by Britain

Hope for a settlement of the Cyprus problem is being revived by the current conferences between the Prime Ministers of Britain, Greece and Turkey.

A truce appeal by all three countries has ended temporarily most terrorist activities on the island. In the meantime the latest British interim solution, a partition of the population into Greek and Turkish communities under three power rule, will have a chance for calm consideration.

Greek Cypriotes want union with Greece. Some Turks are preparing for a territorial partition by moving to the predominantly Turkish area opposite the mainland Turkey. Naturally, the British solution is unacceptable to both Greek and Turkish Cypriotes.

Territorial partition between the two nations is almost impossible because no large area can be called Greek or Turkish.

Although one section of the capital city of Nicosia and some individual villages are Turkish, the two peoples are inextricably intermingled.

The United States has an air base at Adana in Southern Turkey near the Syrian border. NATO has a base on the Greek island of Crete. Leader of the opposition United Front, GEORGE KARTALIS, has declared that Greece must use its position in NATO as a key to blackmail a more favorable attitude out of NATO countries and force Britain to retreat. Should Britain do that, Cypriotes would be at each others throats with both Greece and Turkey lending aid in a full scale civil war.

Informed observers say that the U.S. is pressuring the Athens government to settle this long standing and futile controversy which is having repercussions in the Western Alliance. Both Greece and Turkey are members of NATO and Turkey, with its well trained army of 400,000, is now the keystone of the Baghdad Pact since the Iraqi revolt.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER seems to be looking forward to a summit meeting with about as much enthusiasm as a 10-year-old boy looks forward to a visit to the dentist.

Recreational Facilities in Pontiac Area Are Tops

Politics: What makes strange bed fellows—but they usually get accustomed to the same bunk.

In his story on Michigan's great tourist growth, widely known authority on the subject, singles out the Pontiac area. He says we are the outstanding example of what the state has to offer, and supports this column's long time claim that no other area in our entire nation that is so contiguous to a large concentration of population has so much to offer. He writes in the magazine Michigan Conservation.

Frank W. Suggitt,

He mentions the new highways as a means of reaching Oakland County's recreational spots, and which place them at the disposal of millions. As an example he picks out the Holly Recreational Area, on either side of the Dixie Highway, and our county's largest such area. He says its attractions will give you a "real shock," and that its attendance has jumped from 67,000 to 538,000 in recent years, and will pass the million mark this year.

As a testimonial to the readers of this column, Manager of the Holly Area writes me a long letter. He states that his men have been busy directing people to its "Overlook," since I proclaimed it to be the most scenic spot in our county, and one of the finest in the nation. Camping privileges still are available there.

Word comes from my life long friend,

Mayor George M. Algoe

of Flint, that the parade Friday evening, which marks the closing event of this week on their General Motors Golden Jubilee celebration, will be the most spectacular thing ever attempted in Flint.

It was 50 years ago today that

Mrs. Charity Hotchkiss Cowley Stevens

of Oxford celebrated her 100th birthday. She lived to 104, and was known as "Aunt Charity" throughout our county. Her grandsons are all of whom live at Oxford.

Fred, Marvin and Mahlon Stevens,

Planting 20 kernels of wheat one foot apart in his garden last fall, of Lake Orion is reaping the results of an interesting experience. He fertilized the ground, cultivated it, gave the young plants good coverage during the winter, and tied each to a supporting stake as they grew to a height of over four feet. They produced heads five inches long, each with over 200 kernels. "There's a loaf of bread in every head," says Mr. Mazer.

"Anybody Know Where This Goes?"

David Lawrence Says:

Strong Alliance Can Keep Peace

WASHINGTON — Critics of American foreign policy, both inside and outside of the Democratic-controlled Congress, are having a hard time being specific. They generally bemoan what seems to them a lack of "positiveness," and they even blame the President and the secretary of state for not having a secret microphone in the Kremlin to get minute-by-minute reports of what an erratic Khrushchev plans to do throughout the world.

LAWRENCE

The tendency after every crisis is to complain either that the "intelligence" reports of the United States were not adequate or timely, or that the United States has failed somehow to checkmate Soviet moves in the world.

Partisan politics and the hope for some advantageous issue from a political standpoint undoubtedly are back of most of the criticism, especially the mimeographed speeches and statements that flow from certain quarters in and around the Democratic membership of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The doctrine that "partisanship ends at the water's edge," an American tradition, seems to have been replaced by an attitude which says, in effect, that any criticism of the United States — even if the Soviets pick it up for their own radio broadcasts — is good sniping in the game of politics-above-patriotism.

The main criticism seems to center on the charge that the United States should have foreseen the way things have shaped up in the Middle East. Just how is never made clear. But the idea most widely advertised is that the United States should have taken Nasser unto its bosom and loaned him billions for the Aswan Dam, even though he indicated clearly beforehand that he intended to seize the Suez Canal and secretly got arms from the Soviets.

Sometimes it is argued by the hindsight critics that the Western allies never should have allowed the state of Israel to be created in the first place. This is a favorite gripe, particularly among some people who want to continue to do business with the Arab countries and feel that it is expedient to apologize constantly for America's interest in Israel.

There never seems to be any inclination to search the real estate titles in the Middle East and to go back far enough to discover that the people of Israel may possibly have lived there long before the modern Arab monarchies or colonies came into being. World War I took most of Asia Minor away from Turkey and enabled some new republics and monarchies among the Arabs to start up in business. But simultaneously Israel's right to existence as the Palestinian homeland was recognized in public declarations made by the foreign secretary of Great Britain and by the President of the United States.

The issue today isn't Israel, or Arabian supremacy, or "colonialism," handy as it may be to toss slogans around that reflect the prejudices of the interested parties. The real issue in the world today is the same as it was before World War I and before World War II. It's whether a single power — an authoritarian government and dictatorship — shall threaten the peaceful life of the free democracies or true republics of our times.

There is only one way to keep the peace in the world. It would have saved us participation in two world wars. It's to build militarily a strong alliance with Western nations that believe as we do, to say again and again that force will be used to secure respect for our rights, and to mean it.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Have Fissure Removed if Condition Is Chronic

A Michigan reader says she has had a very troublesome anal fissure since the birth of her baby in April. The scratch has been painted with silver nitrate, and under her physician's direction she has avoided roughage foods, which she hated to do because she nurses her baby. Also she has taken various things to keep bowel movements loose or soft but without much success.

DR. BRADY

She sends 35c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the booklet The Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene and any information or advice I may have for her condition. Finally she tells me how much she enjoys this column and how much she is going to miss it when she moves to Baltimore this fall.

Fissure is an oval ulcer rather than a mere scratch in the posterior-quadrant of the rectal orifice, in many instances with what is called a "sentinel" pile at its lower end. It is the cause of excrutiating pain, compared to which the pain of piles (hemorrhoids) is mild.

Indeed, fissure has been called intolerable ulcer. Therefore I hope this Michigan lady will stop fooling around with silver nitrate and freak diet and have the ulcer excised, under anesthesia, without further delay.

In my free pamphlet, You Need Not Have Piles, it behooves anyone past 40 to have a proper medical examination if troubled with repeated slight bleeding or other vague rectal symptoms purporting to be due to "piles."

By proper medical examination I mean visual examination of the interior of the rectum through a speculum. Any examination short of this is pretense.

Excision of the ulcer requires general anesthesia and several days in hospital. This is for chronic fissure of more than a month's duration. Application of silver nitrate or phenol may suffice to cure fissure that has persisted only two or three weeks.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

"Four years ago my left kidney was removed, with a large stone embedded. No chemical formation was given. My surgeon said I could eat as usual, but cautioned me not to use alcoholic beverages. Recently my daughter had a stone removed from her ureter. The chemical formation was calcium phosphate. Her surgeon gave her a strict diet excluding nearly all foods containing calcium. Should I follow such a diet to prevent formation of stones? Of course, I now have only one kidney." (G.C.A.)

ANSWER — Dieting to prevent kidney stone formation is of questionable value. Your surgeon gave you good advice.

"Both of our children were born at home (in England), natural childbirth. After the doctor and midwife left we were entirely on our own. I felt very fit and my husband and I managed very well. It was the most rewarding and wonderful experience of our lives." (Mrs. L.D.R.)

Answer — That's what they all say.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Give Deep Consideration to Fire Station Plans

The residents of the north end asked the city to consider building a fire station north of Columbia and Walton area. Thus far we haven't seen or heard of any action toward the plans to build one.

If the homes, churches and business establishments are in danger of not receiving proper protection, then something should be done.

There is a skating rink, three or more churches, a trailer park and numerous other businesses that would be destroyed if one train blocked the track to prevent fire equipment from reaching them.

Furthermore, two public parks and boating facilities are within a short distance and the need for an inhaler truck is even more evident.

Plans for a north end fire station should certainly be given consideration.

Elect Competent Representatives

The Frank Kierdorf case has set me wondering what has become of the sacrifice that pioneers suffered in long weeks of transportation from other lands.

Many discomforts in building log cabin houses, not one modern thing about them, were shared. On that first Thanksgiving day they were grateful to the Almighty for their freedom from excessive taxation and molestation and as in the Kierdorf case, from "gangster-dom."

Where and why has this freedom gone? Gone, too, is the right to work or run a business of your own without paying to gangsters such as unions are controlled by. I hope this incident wakes people up in this coming November election. I hope that all will wake up to the fast loss of freedom won through sacrifice of our ancestors and that churches will cooperate, with the example of Cardinal Spellman to denounce the scourge of such unionism.

Let's, in a true American way, show our contempt of such filth by steering clear of voting for any of their associates. Don't vote for governors of states who have failed to clean house, to live up to the Constitution of the U.S. by not demanding the rights to work, by not cleaning up the filth of Communism, as the union represents. Cast no vote for congressman or senator in state or federal who supports such filth.

Strike Approval Not Unanimous

Walter Reuther says the CIO membership is in favor of a strike.

How did he get this vote for strike—just what was his method in counting the votes.

The only ones that are in favor of striking are those workers who have wives employed and are drawing down good salaries.

The worker with a large family is the one who will be hurt by a strike. How long are the people to be misled and brow-beaten with the likes of James Hoffa and Walter Reuther?

I realize most people are now laid off and come by their money in small amounts that are few and far between. From them I'd expect nothing more than a cheerful smile and a thank-you. It's the people who drive up in their big cars, etc., that have extra large orders and do not give out with so much as a smile (let alone a tip they could well afford), hop in their expensive cars and drive off without even a thank-you, that gripe me.

May the Lord help me if the time comes that I can't smile for a service rendered on my behalf.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

Neigther filthiness, nor foolish talking, nor jesting, which are not convenient: but rather giving of thanks.—Ephesians 5:4.

I thank my Heavenly Father for every manifestation of human love, I thank Him for all experiences, be they sweet or bitter, which help me to forgive all things, and to enfold the whole world with a blessing.—Mrs. L. M. Child.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

False Notion Threatens Marriage

Jim's confession is one of the educational tragedies of this 20th century. Thousands of otherwise happy homes have been driven into the divorce courts by the false sex notions which young men have received from drummers. Scrapbook this case and see that all married couples have access to the sex booklet below.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE Y — 387: Jim J., aged 31, is the jealous chemist who rushed home at unexpected hours to try to catch an intruder in his bedroom.

DR. CRANE

"Dr. Crane, I just KNOW my wife must be unfaithful," he confessed to me in my office.

"For I realize that women are just as erotic as men. Yet my wife is usually cool and indifferent to my physical advances.

"So I figure her lack of ardor must be due to the fact she is being satisfied by somebody else in my absence from the house.

"That's why I have been dashing home at odd times to try to catch this home breaker who is wrecking my marriage."

WRONG SEX NOTIONS

Jim's case is not uncommon. Millions of husbands are unduly jealous this very day, right here in civilized America, chiefly because they fail to understand the true facts about women.

Wives are primarily maternal creatures and only mildly interested in the basic erotic aspects of marriage.

But many cultured young men have been tutored by the traveling salesman or old fashioned "drummer".

As a sophisticated man of the world, such a drummer has come back to his home town and pontificated about the erotic nature of women.

He has told salacious stories concerning his own illicit affairs, perhaps in the commercial houses of prostitution.

And because he sincerely protested that women are wildly passionate creatures, documenting his salacious claims with firsthand experiences, his youthful listeners have believed him implicitly.

That was what happened to Jim in today's case. He was 100 per cent a believer in the lewd drummer's diagnosis of women.

So he grew jealous when his normal wife showed less ardor than he did.

With her fatigue from household duties, PTA meetings, Sunday school work and the many chores involved in operating a home with children therein, she was often too tired to pick up her cues as eagerly as her husband felt she should.

So he grew insanely jealous, and firmly believed she must be having a clandestine affair during the day. She wasn't.

SEXUAL DECEIT

When I was interning at our old Wesley Memorial Hospital on Chicago's southside, I had many prostitutes on my gynecology service.

They routinely admitted that they had little if any sexual desire. But they confessed that they soon learned to trick men.

"If the drummers and other patrons think a girl is wildly passionate," they exclaimed, "then such a patron will give a bigger tip or ask for you the next time he is in town.

"So we fooled the men and made them think we were excited and sexy. But it was an act."

However, such drummers didn't realize it was an "act." for purely commercial purposes so they the excessive eroticism of women.

And their lewd tales have helped break up thousands of otherwise happy homes by inciting good husbands like Jim to excessive jealousy.

This widespread misconception about the erotic ardor of women is one of the greatest educational tragedies in the 20th century.

If this column has done no other good, it has certainly helped dispel this wrong notion and thereby has preserved many marriages from divorce.

can be reached to establish an Arab development institution on a regional basis.

Second — That these consultations consider the composition and the possible functions of a regional Arab development institution, whose task would be to accelerate progress in such fields as industry, agriculture, water supply, health and education.

Third — Other nations and private organizations which might be prepared to support this institution should also be consulted at an appropriate time.

United States to Help if Arabs Also Will

Should the Arab states agree on the usefulness of such a soundly organized regional institution, and should they be prepared to support it with their own resources, the United States would also be prepared to support it.

The institution would be set up to provide loans to the Arab states as well as the technical assistance required in the formulation of development projects.

The institution should be governed by the Arab states themselves.

This proposal for a regional Arab development institution can, I believe, be realized on a basis which would attract international capital, both public and private.

I also believe that the best and quickest way to achieve the most desirable result would be for the secretary-general to make two parallel approaches. First to consult with the Arab states of the Near East to determine an area of agreement. Then to invite the international bank for reconstruction and development, which has vast experience in this field, to make available its facilities for the planning of the organizational and operating techniques needed to establish the institution on a progressive course.

I hope it is clear that I am not suggesting a position of leadership for my own country in the work of creating such an institution. If this institution is to be a success, the function of leadership must belong to the Arab states themselves.

I would hope that high on the agenda of this institution would be action to meet one of the major challenges of the Near East, the great common shortage — water.

Much scientific and engineering work is already under way in the field of water development. For instance atomic isotopes now permit us to chart the course of the great underground rivers. And new horizons are opening in the desalting of water. The ancient problem of water is on the threshold of solution. Energy, determination and science will carry it over that threshold.

Another great challenge facing the area is disease.

Already there is substantial effort among the peoples and governments of the Near East to conquer disease and disability. But much more remains to be done.

The United States is prepared to join with other governments and the World Health Organization in an all-out, joint attack on preventable disease in the near east.

Ike Sees Many Steps Ahead for Arab States

But to see the desert blossom again and preventable disease conquered is only a first step. As I look into the future I see the emergence of modern Arab states that would bring to this century contributions surpassing those we cannot forget from the past. We remember that Western arithmetic and algebra owe much to Arabic mathematicians and that much of the foundation of the world's medical science and astronomy was laid by Arab scholars. Above all, we remember that three of the world's great religions were born in the Near East.

But a true Arab renaissance can only develop in a healthy human setting. Material progress should not be an overriding objective in itself; but it is an important condition for achieving higher human, cultural and spiritual objectives.

But I repeat, if this vision of the modern Arab community is to come to life, the goals must be Arab goals.

Opportunities Loom for Mideast Nations

With the assistance of the United Nations, the countries of the Near East now have a unique opportunity to advance, in freedom, their security and their political and economic interests. If a plan for peace of the kind I am proposing can be carried forward, in a few short years we may be able to look back on the Lebanon and Jordan crises as the beginning of a great new era of Arab history.

But there is an important consideration which must remain in mind today and in the future.

If there is an end to external interference in the internal affairs of the Arab states of the Near East:-

If an adequate United Nations peace force is in existence ready for call by countries fearful for their security:-

If a regional development institution exists and is at work on the basic projects and programs designed to lift the living standards of the area, supported by friendly aid from abroad and governed by the Arab states themselves:-

Then with this good prospect, and indeed as a necessary condition for its fulfillment, I hope and believe that the nations of the area, intellectually and emotionally, will no longer feel the need to seek national security through spiralling military buildups which lead not only to economic impotence but to war.

Perhaps the nations involved in the 1948 hostilities may, as a first step, wish to call for a United Nations study of the flow of heavy armaments to those nations.

My country would be glad to support the establishment of an appropriate United Nations body to examine this problem. This body would discuss it individually with these countries and see what arms control arrangements could be worked out under which the security of all these nations could be maintained more effectively than under a continued wasteful, dangerous competition in armaments. I recognize that any such arrangements must reflect these countries' own views.

I have tried to present to you the framework of a plan for peace in the Near East which would provide a setting of political order responsive to the rights of the people in each nation; which would avoid the dangers of a regional arms race; which would permit the peoples of the Near East to devote their energies wholeheartedly to the tasks of development and human progress in the widest sense.

Six Elements of Plan Must Be Eyed as One

It is important that the six elements of this program be viewed as a whole. They are:

1. United Nations concern for Lebanon.

(2) United Nations measures to preserve peace in Jordan.

(3) An end to the fomenting from without of civil strife.

(4) A United Nations peace force.

(5) A regional economic development plan to assist and accelerate improvement in the living standards of the people in these Arab nations.

(6) Steps to avoid a new arms race spiral in the area.

To have solidity, the different elements of this plan for peace and progress should be considered and acted on together, as integral elements of a single concerted effort.

Therefore, I hope that this Assembly will seek simultaneously to set in motion measures that would create a climate of security in the Near East consonant with the principles of the United Nations Charter, and at the same time create the framework for a common effort to raise the standard of living of the Arab peoples.

World Must Try for Modernization

But the peoples of the Near East are not alone in their ambition for independence and development. We are living in a time when the whole world has become alive to the possibilities for modernizing their societies.

The American government has been steadily enlarging its allocations to foreign economic development in response to these worldwide hopes.

We have poined in partnership with such groupings as the organization of American states and the Colombo Plan; and we are working on methods to strengthen these regional arrangements. For example, in the case of the organization of American states, we are consulting with our sister republics of this hemisphere to strengthen its role in economic development. And the government of the United States has not been alone in supporting development efforts. The British Commonwealth, the countries of Western Europe, and Japan have all made significant contributions.

But in many parts of the world both geography and wise economic planning favor national rather than regional development programs. The United States will, of course, continue its firm support of such national programs.

Only where the desire for a regional approach is clearly manifested and where the advantage of regional over national is evident will the United States change to regional methods.

The United States is proud of the scope and variety of its development activities throughout the world. Those who know our history will realize that this no sudden, new policy of my government.

Ever since its birth, the United States has gladly shared its wealth with others. This it has done without thought of conquest or economic domination.

After victory in two world wars and the expenditure of vast treasure there is no world map, either geographic or economic, on which anyone can find that the force of American arms or the power of the American treasury has absorbed any foreign land or political or economic system. As we cherish our freedom, we believe in freedom for others.

These Things Real, Awaiting Our Grasp

The things I have talked about today are real and await our grasp. Within the Near East and within this Assembly are the forces of good sense, restraint, and wisdom to make, with time and patience, a framework of political order and of peace in that region.

But we also know that all these possibilities are shadowed, all our hopes are dimmed, by the fact of the arms race in nuclear resources, straining the nerves of all our peoples.

As I look out on this assembly, with so many of you representing new nations, one thought above all impresses me.

The world that is being made on our planet is going to be a world of many mature nations. As one after another of these new nations moves through the difficult transition to modernization and learns the methods of growth, from this travail new levels of prosperity and productivity will emerge.

This world of individual nations is not going to be controlled by any one power or group of powers. This world is not going to be committed to any one ideology.

Please believe me when I say that the dream of world domination by one power or of world conformity is an impossible dream.

The nature of today's weapons, the nature of modern communications, and the widening circle of new nations make it plain that we must, in the end, be a world community of open societies.

And the concept of the open society is the ultimate key to a system of arms control we can all trust.

We must, then, seek with new vigor, new initiative, the path to a peace based on the effective control of armaments, on economic advancement and on the freedom of all peoples to be ruled by governments of their choice. Only thus can we exercise the full capacity God has given us to enrich the lives of the individual human beings who are our ultimate concern, our responsibility and our strength.

In this memorable task there lies enough work and enough reward to satisfy the energies and ambitions of all leaders, everywhere.

Agency Shifts Top Personnel

Advertising Firm Lists Changes on Pontiac, Cadillac Accounts

BLOOMFIELD HILLS—Ernest A. Jones, president of MacManus, John and Adams, Inc., advertising agency today announced top level personnel changes in the advertising agency's operations groups on the Pontiac Motor Division and Cadillac Motor Car Division accounts.

Hovey Hagerman, senior vice president, becomes Cadillac account supervisor under Charles F. Adams, vice president and executive assistant to Jones.

Hagerman's former post as supervisor of the Pontiac Motor account is assumed by James H. Graham, who has been Pontiac account executive.

HAGERMAN GRAHAM

Robert E. Field, who has been assistant account executive for Cadillac becomes account executive. Colin John, associate account executive succeeds Graham as Pontiac account executive.

FIELD JOHN

James E. McGuire, assistant Pontiac art director becomes associate art director of that account, and Robert L. Saffell has been named Pontiac account manager, responsible for coordination of all print, radio and television advertising.

With these exceptions, basic agency lineups on Cadillac and Pontiac remain unchanged, Jones pointed out.

"We believe that the adjustments provide maximum application of our creative and administrative talents," Jones said.

"In addition, the return of Hagerman to the Cadillac group will allow Charles Adams to broaden his activities as my executive assistant although the well-being of the Cadillac account will, of course, remain his chief concern."

He Urges Grand Jury to Probe 'Hoodlumism'

LANSING (UPI) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Paul D. Bagwell said last night the Frank Kierdorf burning case showed the need for a grand jury investigation of "hoodlumism" in Michigan.

"The explosion and burning is in the same pattern as the number of mysterious bombings in Wayne County within the past year — which were obviously acts of enforcement in a jungle law of hoodlumism," he said.

Cowboy Rejects Key

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — One key to a city is apparently all that cowboy star Roy Rogers can handle at one time. The actor—who is honorary mayor of his home town of Chatsworth, Calif.—asked Milwaukee Mayor Frank Zeidler in a letter not to give him a key to Milwaukee when he arrives today to perform at the Wisconsin State Fair.

They Gain by Accident

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—A truck-car accident here forced local police to make out two separate reports. The first was quite routine. The second was written after some 20 neighborhood children opened a door of the ice cream truck and helped themselves.

Nations Vary in Selection, Requirements for Judges

CHICAGO (UPI)—For all their differences, the United States and the Soviet Union do have at least one similarity. Both elect judges.

An article by E. Blythe Stason, dean of the University of Michigan's law school, in the Journal of the American Judicature Society, reported two ways of choosing judges are most common—appointment by a political officer or a career system. He surveyed ways of judicial selection around the world.

Stason said every nation "in the civilized world" seeks judges independent of outside pressure and influence, but their methods of choice differ. He compared some of the different judicial systems.

In Britain a political officer, the Lord Chancellor, appoints nearly all judges. "The traditions are such that the appointments can be said to be uniformly non-political in character," Stason commented.

In France and most of continental Europe lawyers and judges choose different career courses immediately after law school. They must pass a competitive exam, with those who pass entering judicial life as openings occur.

In Latin America judges are selected usually by the president or congress. In some nations, Stason noted, judges are picked from a list drawn up by the supreme court. In Asia some variation of these methods is used.

In the Soviet Union lower court judges are elected while upper court judges are appointed by legislative bodies. Stason said Russian judges do not have to have training in law. Up to 10 years ago two-thirds of the judges had no legal training.

But Stason pointed out that in spite of the fact Soviet judges are elected, the law requires them to serve "the policy of a totalitarian dictatorship as expressed in the statutes of the Soviet state." He said Soviet judges are always under scrutiny from agents of the Ministry of Justice who can see they are punished. The judges also can be recalled by their constituents.

Thirty-six states in this country elect all judges. In five states they are appointed by the governor, in four by the legislature. A few states are experimenting, Stason noted, with appointment from a list prepared by a judicial commission. Federal judges are appointed by the President with confirmation required by the U. S. Senate.

Plot Truck Explosion to Escape Prison

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP) — Two North Americans serving 30-year sentences for murder of a Michigan couple planned to escape Tamaulipas State Penitentiary by blowing up a gas truck.

Officials said William Shelton, Dallas, Tex., and Joseph O'Brien, New York, had well-prepared plans to blow up the truck which delivers fuel for the prison's kitchen.

They planned to escape during the confusion such an explosion would cause among the 600 prisoners and guards.

But another prisoner tipped off the warden yesterday, and the two North Americans were placed in solitary confinement in chains.

Shelton and O'Brien were convicted Aug. 7, 1957 of the murder the year before of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Barton Kennison of Detroit.

The Kennisons were in Mexico on vacation at the time, and had stopped at a hotel operated by the two men in Ciudad Victoria.

Learn Missing Man Wanted in Minnesota

IRONWOOD (AP) — The identity of a man missing with his wife and two children from a campsite has been cleared up.

Police Chief John Sullivan said yesterday the man has been identified as Norman Hudson, wanted in Minnesota for violation of parole.

The vanished family, with clothes and food left behind but their car gone, disappeared more than a week ago.

Sullivan said Hudson was sentenced in Duluth in 1950 to a term of 10 to 80 years for robbery. He said Hudson was paroled several years ago.

Waterford Pays $1 per Voter in Primary

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

It cost Waterford Township more than one dollar a person to vote in the Aug. 5 Primary election this year, according to clerk James Seeterlin.

Only 3,017 out of a possible 17,500 registered voters took the trouble of going to the polls last week, and total cost of the election was $3,403.

"This expense figure does not include any costs for materials purchased, which could be used in future elections, or any cost of dividing the 18 precincts," Seeterlin said.

An additional $1,500 in supplies was furnished by Oakland County and the State of Michigan, and Seeterlin pointed out that it would not have cost one more cent, had every registered voter cast his vote.

Another $900 was saved this year because of a decision approved by people at the Annual Township meeting, April 5, to reduce election workers' fees approximately $10 each.

In Seeterlin's report, there were 90 election inspectors (five to each precinct) who received a total of $1,742. Thirty extra workers were hired this year because of six additional precincts in the township.

The setting up of 36 automatic voting machines, plus periodic inspections of the precincts during the day was $306 and cost of moving the machines to and from the precincts was $345.

It was necessary to pay extra time for 15 school custodians and this expense totaled approximately $265.

Posting of legal notices in newspapers, printing of absentee ballots and mileage for three election custodians, totaled $105.

"If people only realized the important signifigance, and expense involved in any election, they would probably be more concerned about making an effort to get to the polls and make their choice of candidates to run the government," Seeterlin concluded.

Three Strikes and Out

LOS ANGELES (AP)—For the third time, Mrs. Eva McCullough has divorced Marine Cpl. George McCullough. "And this time it's final," she said after receiving the decree on her complaint of cruelty. "He said the only reason he married me last time was to get even for our previous divorce."

Germans Can Cook Food With Magnets

BONN — A German concern has developed a kitchen range that produces heat from magnetic eddy currents and cuts ordinary cooking time in half.

It works only with cooking utensils made of a magnetic metal, and a copper coating makes them heat faster. The amount of heat is controlled by turning a knob that raises or lowers the surface on which the pan rests.

Since the heat is not directly transmitted to the cooking vessel, a paper napkin can be placed between the pan and the heating surface and it will not burn or char.

Mickey Cohen's Girl to Pay Back Taxes

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Liz Renay, girl friend of ex-gambler Mickey Cohen, is going to pay her back income taxes on the installment plan.

The green-eyed beauty, who was quizzed by a New York grand jury investigating the slaying of mobster Albert Anastasia, said she had agreed to pay $1,002 due on her 1954 income tax.

And her real name, it turns out, is Pearl O'Leary. She said she is still dating Cohen, who once had a bit of income tax trouble himself and served five years in prison as a result.

Pontiac City Affairs

Plan to Build Fences Near 2 Water Areas

The city will erect fences on Terry Lake and at Dawson Mill Pond for the protection of small children.

City commissioners last night voted in favor of the safety measures. Each body of water has claimed a drowning victim this year.

Commissioners voted to have the city administration proceed with erection of 1,000 feet of four-foot high fencing on the north side of Terry Lake from Woodland street to S. Merrimac and 85 feet of fencing along the catwalk capping the dam at the east end of the mill pond in Beaudette Park.

A treacherous dropoff lies off the northern shore of the lake, while tricky currents in the mill pond are apt to pull under anyone who falls off the catwalk.

Commissioners, in other business, vacated an alley paralleling East boulevard to the east between Midway avenue and the alley north of South boulevard. The Detroit Edison Co. plans to erect overhead lines there. No objections to giving up the alley were voiced at a public hearing last night.

Two recommendations were received from the Planning Commission. One is for rezoning of 23 lots along the south side of Montcalm street between Baldwin avenue and the Pontiac, Oxford & Northern Railroad from Commercial and Residential 2 to Commercial 2. A hearing is expected to be set next Tuesday.

The other was approval of a small plat west of the Sallee Woods Subdivision. It extends a block west of Stanley ovenue along Yale avenue. Final commission approval of the new plat is not expected until the block has been improved with streets, sidewalks and sewers.

Four hearings were scheduled for next week. They cover the city's intention to construct a sanitary sewer on the north side of Montcalm, from Lakeside about 80 feet east. Assessment rolls on sanitary sewers on Lounsbury avenue, from Stanley about 300 feet west, and on Montcalm, Wing to Portland; and assessment rolls on curbs and gutters on Longfellow avenue, University to the Pontiac, Oxford & Northern Railroad.

The Commission applied to the Urban Renewal Administration for $758 credit in the proposed urban renewal project here. The money represents what it cost the city to install a sidewalk in the project area recently.

Infant Dies of Burns

DETROIT (AP)—David Salliotte, 7-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Salliotte of suburban Wyandotte, died Tuesday of burns suffered when he was scalded in a bath tub. The child's mother told police she left her son in the tub with the water running while she went to answer the door. They said the infant was burned when his sister apparently turned off the cold water and left the hot water running.

1958 Mates Fur to Fur in High-Fashion Styling

By JUDITH L. CLEMENCE
Women's Editor,
The Pontiac Press

Virtually the entire animal kingdom contributes to the fur fashion procession this year.

And, as if led by a modern Noah, they come two by two to make the smartest of the new fur coats. Otter, sheared beaver, sheared raccoon, sheared nutria, Alaska seal, and broadtail coats often have collared cuffs of a different fur such as mink, silver fox, sable or chinchilla.

The modern woman chooses her furs practically — to integrate with the silhouettes of today, and to anticipate those of tomorrow. She also wants the fur to complement her coloring.

Top furriers stress various lengths to go with this season's flighty hemlines. Keeping in mind the significant fashion changes, there are low 1920s waistbands and high Empire waistlines. Coats reflect the trapeze shape and rounded oval silhouette. The same variety of collars is shown in furs as in the cloth coat collection.

The new shaped fur coat fastens or wraps precisely. It is meticulously shaped for a fashion look, not just a mountain of fur wrapped about in a confused mass as in previous years.

The shape, instead, is designed to create the illusion of the slimmer hipline and body line by its slightly widened shoulders. Even in the unfitted contour, the coat is slightly shaped to wear over semi-fitted clothes.

The Directoire line influence is seen in some coats through high placed belts for a youthful interpretation of the Empire waist.

To wear over the new trapeze silhouette, coats have been designed for a controlled silhouette beginning with an understated shoulder line, dropping into a pyramid shaping.

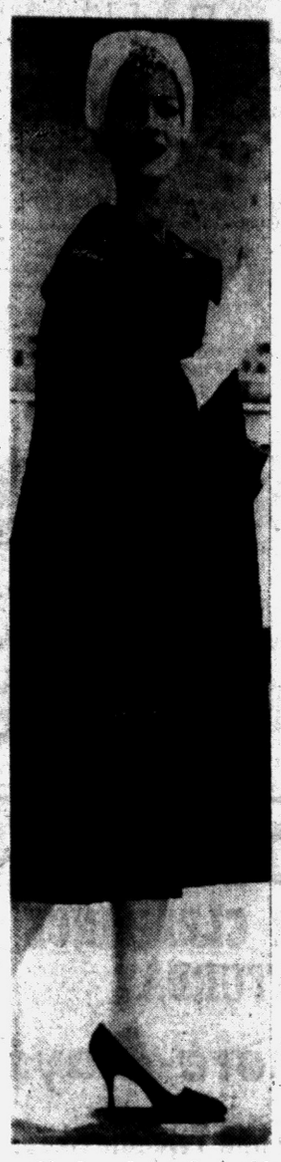

Sleeves are simple, and turned-back cuffs and bloused sleeves are being shown by top furriers.

BLACK PROMINENT

The importance of black furs is stressed this season includ- otter, Alaska seal, black dyed squirrel, Persian lamb and the fur of the '20s — black monkey!

Some of the colors furs to choose from are blue iris, cerulean and silverblu (gray tones); azurine platinum, jasmine, palamino, all very pale tones; diadem, desert gold (golden tones); autumn haze, a warm pastel, and lutetia, wild mink, ranch mink and dyed black mink, all darker tones.

Sleek and supple is this distinguished coat of black Russian broadtail for wear from afternoon through evening. The full sweeping back falls from the shoulder-wide collar to wrap in front.

This dyed white beaver coat with a deep yoke and extended shoulder line is from the Leo Ritter fur collection. Narrow cuffs finish the slim sleeves.

This waist-length jacket has many uses. Of naturdl autumn haze mink, it is a perfect costume maker for daytime silks and wools and for evening wear. A fashion note is the double-breasted closing, the notched flat collar and the gauntlet-length sleeves.

Don't be surprised when you see the Australian opossum, a mainstay of the suburban wardrobe, come back as a "city" fur. By Fredrica, the fur has the warmth of beaver and yet is practically weightless. Note the understated shoulder line dropping into the pyramid shaping.

Alaska sealskin gives the charm of youth with a world of sophistication. From Mr. John's "society collection," the creation is trimmed with a diamond horseshoe collar of Empress chinchilla.

Natural chinchilla adds the touch of luxury to costuming this fall. Arthur Schwartz chose chinchilla for this straight line stole to complement the new relaxed silhouette.

Decline to Have Sniffles

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I have a friend whose children have colds nearly all the time. This friend thinks nothing of coming to the house with the children even though they are infected. I have three children of my own, one a six-month-old baby. Naturally the children play together and invariably the next day my children have the "sniffles."

"Is there any way I can tactfully tell her that I don't want her children playing with mine when they have colds? This is quite a problem and I hope you have a solution."

Answer: You might say to her, "We have been having an awful time with colds lately. The children seem to pick up every cold germ that comes near them, and I hope you will understand when I don't let them play with other children who already have the "sniffles"—even your darlings."

"Dear Mrs. Post: I went to the funeral home to pay my respects to the mother of a friend. I noticed that all the cards had been removed from the flowers. Wasn't this incorrect? I always thought they were left on so that people could see the flowers they had sent."

Answer: It is definitely in best taste to remove the cards from the flowers when they are received. A careful description must, however, be written on each card of the kind of flowers sent, so that each offering shall be appreciatively acknowledged.

"Dear Mrs. Post: The son of an old friend of mine is about to become engaged and I'd like to send him some sort of congratulatory message. However I don't know his fiancee and wonder to whom this message should be sent?"

Answer: Write to him and tell him that you wish him every happiness and that you hope some day to have the pleasure of meeting his bride-to-be.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When a young man invites a girl from another city to visit at his home, should he pay her transportation? He believes the young woman thinks he will reimburse her and he's a little worried about it."

Answer: She should neither expect nor permit her host or his family to pay her traveling expenses unless his mother sent her a ticket in advance. At any rate, it would be very incorrect for him to reimburse her.

Unaware of Husband's Murder

Mrs. Muri Said Destitute

LONDON (AP) — Mrs. Nuri Said, 65-year-old widow of the murdered Premier of Iraq, is living in a London apartment nearly destitute and unaware her husband is dead, the Daily Mail reported today.

With her are the widow and children of her son Sabah, another victim of the July 14 revolution in Iraq.

The Mail gave this account:

Sabah's widow knows the fate of her husband and father-in-law but no one so far has had the courage to tell Mrs. Nuri Said. She knows there has been a revolution in Iraq, but since she does not read or speak English, she has not learned about her husband and their son. Her fears are growing, however.

Sabah's wife is 39, a graduate of the University of Paris and doctor of law and economics who speaks five languages. She says she will have to go to work soon but at the moment spends all her time looking after her mother-in-law.

An official at the Iraqi Embassy told the Mail: "Mrs. Nuri's position is the same as anyone else holding an Iraqi passport. If she has no money, she can return to Iraq."

Catholic Women Set Card Party

It's Your Duty to Be Beautiful

"Being a good wife and mother means more than the ability to cook and clean," says the glamourous Mrs. America. "Part of a woman's duty to her husband and her family is to be as attractive as possible at all times.

"If more of us were, those cartoons of housewives wearing ill-fitting slacks with their hair in curlers would disappear."

Only the Best Is Good Enough

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Most of us live up to the picture we have of ourselves and few of us have personalities and egos vibrant enough to withstand the damage of physical deformity. I might even say that physical defects, sometimes small ones, often ruin the happiness of people.

The hundreds of thousands of letters I receive each year from readers have taught me that women are apt to exaggerate in their own minds any defects in beauty they may have, but my classes in figure molding have made me acutely aware that improvement in physical appearance has amazing and happy effects on personality.

It can change self-consciousness into self-confidence and depression into gaiety. As a matter of fact, it can change an entire outlook and has saved many a life from despair.

For these reasons I always have been very much interested in cosmetic plastic surgery. It seems too bad to allow some physical handicap which can be corrected to put the brakes on happy living.

For the last two days I have been writing about rhinoplasty, or the operation to correct deformities of the nose. Today I want to give you one last warning about that and then tell you how to select a competent plastic surgeon in case you want one.

SURGEON DECIDES

If you are going to have your nose operated on, do not expect the surgeon to give you one like your favorite movie star's because it probably won't fit you. The plastic surgeon is an artist, a sculptor, and he shapes each nose to match a particular face. He wants your new nose to look as if it belongs to you, not to someone else.

I always shiver a little when I write about plastic surgery for fear some of my readers will dash out to the nearest self-styled plastic surgeon and have an operation. Plastic surgery is safe and successful in the hands of highly trained experts. Dire results may occur if you select your surgeon carelessly.

While rhinoplasty seldom carries post-operative complications, poor results may occur when it is performed by incompetent hands. Surgeons occasionally work with patients who have become mouth breathers because of the development of excess scar tissue or the removal of too much mucus membrane from the nasal lining.

One surgeon tells of a patient who had lost the whole lower third of her nose because an incompetent operator had tried to correct the mistakes of the first operation he did, with two more.

I tell you this rather harrowing tale, not to scare you away from plastic surgery, but to impress upon you the crucial importance of selecting your surgeon with care. A few years ago I interviewed one of America's most distinguished men. He told me that from one-fourth to one-third of the operations he performed were repairs on botched up jobs by other so-called plastic surgeons.

It is good to know that when a competant surgeon performs a cosmetic rhinoplasty he is equally as concerned with normal function of the repaired nose as with its new appearance.

If you want to locate a qualified plastic surgeon, consult with your family physician, your county medical society or the American Medical Association at 535 North Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois.

In this column, sometimes later on, I will bring you the facts about dermabrasion and sandpaper surgery for the removal of scars and other skin defects.

Frosting Plus Pudding Equals Puff Filling

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Cream puffs have reached a new height in popularity since the advent of a mix for them. However, they are easy to make with your own raw materials. What is new in this recipe is the unusual filling, a combination of pudding and frosting.

This recipe came from Mrs. Louis De Yonge of Commerce. She is deeply engaged in PTA work, is president of the Commerce School group for the coming year. Mrs. De Yonge is also an active worker in Girl Scouting. Ceramics are her hobby.

CREAM PUFF FILLING
By Mrs. Louise De Yonge

For the Frosting mixture:

1 cup vegetable shortening (must be this kind)
1 cup sugar
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons flour

Cream shortening and sugar very thoroughly. Mix milk and flour in a saucepan. Bring to a slow boil and cook until thick. Cool. Add to creamed mixture and whip until very fluffy and creamy. A teaspoon of vanilla may be added, if desired.

For the pudding mixture:

1 package vanilla pudding (not instant)
2 cups milk

Prepare as directed on package. Cool. Fold into frosting and till cream puffs. This will fill at least 50 bite-sized puffs generously. It keeps well in the refrigerator.

The frosting may be used to cover a large cake.

Will Take Time to Change TV Habit

By RUTH MILLETT

Her husband's idea of how to spend an evening—in fact every evening—is to sit in front of the TV set until bedtime.

"Even when he complains about how poor the shows are, he still sits there as though hypnotized," says his wife. "If I suggest going to a movie, or to visit friends, or to a ball game, or whatever, he says all he wants to do is relax. And relaxing to him means watching TV with his shoes off.

"If I try to carry on a conversation, he looks annoyed. Actually the only time I can say anything to him is during commercials and then he has his eye on the set, he's so afraid he'll miss the start of the next show. I've got cabin fever from being shut up with a TV set night after night — but what can I do about it?"

You can get dressed up tomorrow night, tell your husband you have invited some friends in, or that you are going to a movie and would like to have him go along if he wants to, or that you have tickets to a concert and if he doesn't want to go you'll ask one of your friends.

You may have to go without him the first time you decide to walk out on the TV set. But keep on making plans once or twice a week and your husband will probably get tired of TVing all by himself.

But give him a chance to join you without losing face by not making an issue of whether he goes or stays at home. Tell him you want him to do just as he wishes, but that you have to get out of the house once in awhile.

If he feels you aren't trying to force him to go out with you, it will be easier for him to say some evening, "That movie sounds good, I think I'll go, too."

Once you've shown him that there are other ways of relaxing besides sitting before a TV set with his shoes off, you've won your battle.

Young Baby Often Looks Cross-Eyed

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — A baby takes turns developing first one side of his body, then the other.

The baby will use his right hand, right foot and right eye in all his movements. Then he will switch to the left side of his body for a few days or a week.

It is normal for the eye not in use to go off at an angle. But the infant should learn to use both eyes together by three months or so. If he doesn't, the child may be cross-eyed, and a vision specialist should be consulted.

Dear Abby....

Ah, the Good Old Summer Time With Air-Conditioned Conflicts

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: Just what do air-conditioning engineers say? How low should a thermostat be set in an office? We girls shiver while the men in the office wear woolen suits and turn the thermostat down to 62. In winter you'd have your furnace turned on at 62! We can't wear our summer clothes to work because we'd freeze in them.

ABBY

"We've all had our turns at stiff necks, colds and earaches because of the air-conditioning. Please say something in your column. These men don't believe anything unless they see it in black and white."

FIVE FROZEN GALS

DEAR FIVE: A comfortable (and sensible) temperature is 74. Push thethermostat up, Girls, and let he who is without conscience push it down!

"DEAR ABBY: My neighbors moved away and couldn't take their collie puppy with them so they gave it to me because they know I love animals. After a few weeks I could see that my own dog (whom I've had for eight years) resented the new dog, so I thought it best to give the collie to a friend of mine in the country.

"When I went to see this friend three months later I was shocked to see the puppy I'd given her, looking so sickly and thin. I asked if he had been sick and she said, 'No, he eats good. We give him potato peels and table-scraps and plenty of it.' This hurt me because I am a dog lover. It has been bothering me. Should I ask for the dog back and try to find it a better home?"

DOG LOVER

DEAR DOG LOVER: Certainly. Ask for the dog, and if you can't find a home in which it will be happy and well treated, your Humane Society will take good care of it.

"DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that lots of other mothers have so I will speak for all of us. It concerns my neighbor. She lets her small children out of the house before 7 o'clock in the morning and when they get out they act like they have just escaped from a cage. They scream, sing and yell as loud as they can. Many people are trying to sleep at 7 in the morning. I never let my children out of the house until after eight. Please tell me if I am wrong to complain?"

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: Your neighbor is inconsiderate. Have a talk with her and tell her if she must let her children out so early, to please instruct them to be quiet, or to stay with them and KEEP them quiet.

"DEAR ABBY: I can't let this opportunity pass without telling the mother who complained about her boys taking off their shoes just any place in the house. I know this mother loves her boys as I do mine, but she doesn't realize how quickly they can slip away even if it's only going out in life on their own.

"But my oldest son died last summer and believe you me I'd gladly help him find his shoes if I could just have him back. I looked for his shoes many times and it never got on my nerves. Tell her she doesn't have a problem, she has a blessing, and she should thank God for the boys who are still with her."

A SAD HEART

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CRAZY-OVER-HORSES:" Don't make any long-range promises without thinking it over. You're just feeling your oats.

Tina Leser's "small" evening dress and matching coat of white silk satin clearly shows her feeling for the truly feminine party dress. The coat is lined with quilted silk to match the sashed Empire dress. Crystal beads are used for a floral-patterned embroidery.

Clothes Drying Tip

So many fabrics have special permanent finishes today that starching has become an infrequent, but special, laundering operation. Starched fabrics should be dryer-dried separately. Otherwise, starch may transfer to unstarched articles, and moisture in unstarched fabrics dilutes starch and lengthens drying time.

Don't Break Date

For a young man to break a date with a girl for any reason except an emergency over which he has no control is unforgivably rude. Once he has asked for a date he isn't free to change his plans.

Economy Measure

The less financial margin you have to operate on, the more you need a washable wardrobe that you can take care of yourself—right in your own washing machine, washtub, or washbasin.

Thoughtless Words Can Be Harmful

Be careful what you say in conversation about a business or professional man that might in any way reflect upon his integrity.

It is one thing to say you don't like a person but quite another to hint that he is anything less than honorable in his business or professional life.

Hem Lines Get Plenty of 'Hmmm!'

Designers give hemlines plenty of "hmmm" this fall. In evening gowns, the hemlines swoop high in front to show plenty of leg, swoop into a train at back for a dramatic and regal look.

Some daytime dresses, loose from shoulder to knee, end with the fabric gathered to a belt, with buckle, at the hemline.

Flounces abound, and designer Luis Estevez shows the pleated flounce, which is more conservative than the gathered.

Get Name Straight

If you aren't sure you understood his name when you are introduced to another person, stop and ask to have it repeated. If you just think you'll find out later you may not have an opportunity.

Save Those Steps

Stop hunting a bib every time you put baby in the high chair. Attach a cup hook in the back of the high chair and keep a bib or two hanging on it to save yourself steps.

The limp, outer leaves of lettuce can be shredded and used in mixed salads or sandwiches. Wash and crisp the leaves in cold water before using.

'All-Wise' Standard Confuses Parents

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

In the crowded tearoom the small boy and his mother were shown to a table.

She didn't seat him. Instead she said, "Would you like to sit on the chair or the bench, Christopher?"

After prolonged hesitation, Christopher chose the chair, and the aisle was freed of its blocked traffic.

Other decisions were soon required of him. He chose between clam broth and chicken soup, between a toasted and untoasted turkey sandwich. He chose not to have the sandwich cut into smaller pieces.

But he could not manage the decision between banana and peach ice cream. He solved his dilemma by an irritable, "I don't want any ice cream!"

The next moment he realized the fate to which he'd doomed himself — and in despair shoved his glass of milk to the floor.

"The crisis over discipline has developed because parents are wise," anthropologist Margaret Mead said recently.

I think Christopher's mother suffered from the obligation to be all wise. Fearing that her decisions for him might be wrong, she exhausted him with the effort to make them for her.

The parent education profession is partially responsible for our need to be all-wise mothers and fathers.

By telling us what is the "right" thing to do about everything from thumb-sucking to disobedience, it has made millions of us so uncertain of our own judgment that we cannot take any convinced action toward children.

If we remove Linda's thumb from her mouth, we jerk it out irritably because we know that the experts consider removing it "wrong."

CHILD FEELS INDECISION . .

If we spank Jimmy for disobedience, we can't wait for him to forgive us, because we know we've delivered discipline that falls short of ideal wisdom. As Linda and Jimmy feel this wobbliness in us, they soon become as crtical of our discipline as we are.

The parent education people have not interpreted the psychological sciences accurately to us.

Psychiatry does not propose to make us perfect. It seeks to help us live at peace with the fact that we are imperfect.

Be Proud to Stress Femininity!

"I have always stood firmly on the belief that women should be feminine," says designer Mme. Elsa Schiaparelli, "Yet, I see and read constantly about American women who continually fight to be better than or like men.

"I have come to realize—and shouldn't we all—that men have the upper hand in this world. But isn't this exactly the way we women prefer it? Your most important talent is being a woman, and this automatically makes you superior to men. By trying to be masculine you're throwing away your God-given advantages.

PLEASE MEN

"It is decidedly the men who have altered fashions through the years, not women. There's hardly a woman in the world—certainly none I have met—who wouldn't much rather have a man's opinion on how she looks than compliments galore from another woman.

"Follow any chic woman through her day and chances are you'll find there's a man behind everything she does. Her charming bedroom—probably designed by a man—feminine nylon lingerie due to Messrs. Dupont, the telephone on which she spends many hours, thanks to Alexander Graham Bell, even the beauty salon where she's likely to pick a man to do her hair.

"I raised a daughter, and well, I think, without outside help. But when worries bring psychologicgal problems, you're off to the psychiatrist—to tell a man your troubles.

Posture a Must for Beauty

Many women gain the impression from fashion photography that it is smart to stand in a position similar to a question mark. They do not recognize the difference between an extreme pose and faulty posture, says a world-famed Hollywood beauty authority.

Yet, the top models who pose for these pictures have unexcelled posture.

Stooped shoulders and curved spines are not only unattractive but aging. They can bring webs of lines into otherwise youthful faces.

Always stand to your full height. Imagine a straight line from the top of your head down to your feet and line yourself up with it.

Then, you will look smart in all of your clothes and your beautiful years will increase.

No Trick to Avoid Ironing Slipcovers

Slip covers need frequent laundering to keep their bright colors and fresh appearance, but an automatic clothes dryer can make laundering simple for sanforized ones.

You can avoid ironing except for pleats and ruffles if you remove the covers from dryer while slightly damp and replace them on furniture.

MR. and MRS. KEITH J. SINGLES

Married Saturday morning in Lansing were Mary Jo Murphy and Keith James Singles. Parents of the couple are John J. Murphy and the late Mrs. Murphy and Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Singles.

Keith Singles Takes Bride

Mary Jo Murphy and Keith James Singles were married Saturday morning at Church of the Resurrection, Lansing. The bride's uncle, the Rev. William Murphy of Wharton, Texas, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are John J. Murphy of Lansing and the late Mrs. Murphy and Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Singles of Oliver street.

The bride wore a gown of embroidered nylon tulle over satin, featuring a fitted bodice with a wide portrait neckline and a bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil of imported French illusion was held by a shaiolw pillbox hat edged in pearls, and she carried a modern arrangement of stephanotis, album lilies an dcascading ivy.

Kay Cusack of Lansing, the bride's stepsister, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mary Kay Schafer, Patricia Byers, both of Lansing and Mrs. James Maggard, the bride's cousin.

The attendants wore identical dresses of aqua and white nylon organza featuring scoop necklines with cap sleeves.

Best man was Francis Visniski and ushers were Donald Shea of Gladwin, the bridegroom's cousin; William Zwack of Drayton Plains and Craig and Gary Cusack, stepbrothers of the bride.

Following a honeymoon to northern Michigan, the couple will live on Moreland street.

Housecleaning Need Not Be Burdensome

It's almost here . . . the time to think of fall housecleaning!

Turn a great share of your attic-to-cellar work over to your good friend, Mr. Drycleaner. Take your fall housecleaning in easy stages.

Clean bedding should come first. And don't forget those bed pillows. Start on the windows next. After the curtains have been cleaned and hung, your slip covers and furniture should be next in line for professional cleaning.

Last, but certainly not least, come the rugs on the floors. If you have two sets of rugs, put down the cleaned rugs for the winter and send the summer rugs for cleaning and storage over the winter months.

Say Shame Forced on Patients

Mental Hospital Heads Score 'Inhuman' Laws

LANSING (AP) — Superintendents of Michigan's mental hospitals have called for legislation to wipe out some of the embarrassment and shame forced on the mentally ill by laws that date back to the 19th century.

Testifying before a legislative committee yesterday, heads of half a dozen mental institutions assailed laws covering hospital commitment procedures as outmoded, inhuman and unwieldy.

Rep. Ben E. Lohman (R-Hamilton) said needed legislation would be introduced next year, culmination a two-year study by his House-Senate committee appointed to look into commitment procedures.

Dr. Yewing Crawfis, superintendent of the Cleveland Regional Treatment Center, recommended lawmakers reduce or abolish the mandatory three-year probation period for patients released from mental institutions.

During the three years, they are forbidden to marry, drive an automobile or exercise other civil rights.

Besides hindering continued improvement in their mental health, he said, the lengthy probation is needless since relapses almost always occur in the first six months after release from an institution.

T. Carl Holbrook, assistant attorney general assigned to the State Revenue Department, advised legislators to help step up collecting procedures from relatives of patients.

Costs of caring for 75 per cent of the approximate 30,000 patients in mental institutions are borne entirely by state and county governments, although relatives of many are able to pay part of the costs.

Holbrook said the state pays 86 per cent of its annual 62-million-dollar mental hospital bill. About $3,800,000 is collected from legally liable relatives, he said, and about $5,200,000 from counties, which pay the first-year costs of patient care.

"We're only skimming off the cream," Holbrook said. With a bigger staff, he said, his department could easily double its year collection of 1½ million dollars from relatives of patients.

To ease the drain on state coffers, Holbrook recommended the committee back legislation to:

1. Split costs of patient care between the state and the counties on a 50-50 basis for the full period of commitment or;
2. Boost the period of county care from one to two years.

BEULAH (AP) — Construction is expected to start about Nov. 1 on a new Benzie County jail as the result of voter authorization of the work in elections last week.

Graduate of GMI Learning to 'Swim' at Pontiac Motor

Pontiac Motor Division has never been adverse to submerging its General Motors Institute fledglings in deep-water fifth-year projects to determine how well they can "swim."

Clayton Dale DeLorge, 24, of 610 Lake Angelus Shores, Lake Angelus, and a GMI "co-op" student with Pontiac Motor the past five years, took to the water like a fish and is now eager to get into the swim of things as a full-time employe of Pontiac's Master Mechanics Department.

The youthful DeLorge wound up a 164-page fifth year project report in mid-summer and received his bachelor of mechanical engineering degree Aug. 8 from GMI.

DeLorge's skillful fifth year work, involving the attempt to improve current machining processes on the Pontiac steering knuckle and differential case, established him as a capable member of the Pontiac engineering team.

His recommendation to utilize a clamping method on the steering knuckle to reduce variations in machined surfaces, resulted in a savings to the company of approximately $17,000.

OTHER IMPROVEMENTS

Additional improvements outlined in DeLorge's lengthy report amounted to substantial reductions in time as well as increased efficiency of current machining operations.

"DeLorge has an unlimited opportunity with Pontiac and General Motors," according to Assistant Master Mechanics Lewis B. Arscott and William C. Killen, DeLorge's supervisor and plant advisor, respectively. His fifth-year work is indicative of exceptional capability and initiative and a vital interest n the solution of complex problems," they said.

Likewise, DeLorge has found a "home" with the company's Master Mechanics Department. "Part improvements and new parts through model changes necessitate frequent modifications of existing machinery," he points out.

"It is not feasible, of course, to purchase new machinery for each part change. Thus the 'machine engineer' faces a continual challenge—there is always something new," he explains.

Pontiac's new engineer entered GMI following graduation from Pontiac High and one year at Highland Park Junior College. He found GMI's first four-year schedule of alternating four weeks of school and four weeks on the job with only four weeks vacation per year, "strenuous at times but much more interesting than the routine college curriculum."

He said that boredom is an impossibility at GMI with the frequent schedule changes and the Institute's fascinating array of modern laboratory facilities and equipment.

As a Pontiac engineer DeLorge will aspire for high goals. His successes will at least surprise another member of the DeLorge family, Charles L., father of "Dale" and superintendent of Pontiac's 20 MM Gun Plant.

Rochester Council Acts to Solve Water Problem

ROCHESTER — The Rochester Village Council has given Village Manager Paul A. York the go-ahead to have plans drawn up for the improvement of Rochester's water system.

They will be prepared by George Schmid, consulting engineer, for the village.

Schmid has recommended the village construct an elevated water tower and relocate some of the mains.

Lack of water pressure became acute this summer due to the dry weather.

York told the Council at its meeting Monday night that work must be started soon in order to insure completion of the project by next summer.

In other business, the Council approved plans and specifications for development of Rochester Hills Subdivision No. 2.

Presented by E. J. Giffels, representing Daniel Kline Housing and Building Developers, the plans call for 89 housing units in the area of Elizabeth street.

On recommendation by Felix Anderson of Johnson, Anderson, Inc., Pontiac, the Council stipulated in its approval that the developer construct 36-foot streets and a 42-inch storm sewer.

Vern A. Pixley, 400 W. Fifth St., appeared before the Council to ask the rezoning of a 2-acre piece of property on N. Main street from residential to merchantile.

The request was tabled until the next meeting, at which time Pixley is to present a petition signed by property owners in the area, giving their approval.

The gown was made with chantilly lace panels, had a sabrina neckline embroidered with pearls and featured a chapel train. Her fingertip veil was held with a circlet of orange blossoms. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Her sister, Carolyn Sue, was maid of honor. Carol Killian, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid.

Combining Nearly Finished

State Wheat Crop Tops

LANSING (AP) — Combining of Michigan's bumper wheat crop moved into its final stages this week and both the yield and the quality of the crop are something to brag about, the State-Federal Crop Reporting Service said today.

Harvest weather generally was good and preharvest losses were negligible this year, the agency reported.

Record-yielding oat crops also came off Michigan farms this year, with the harvest about two-thirds completed in the state as a whole. The Upper Peninsula harvest, however, has only just begun.

Row crops generally are good despite poor moisture conditions in many parts of the state, the report indicated. Moisture for crop growth is spotty in southern and east central sections of the state, the result of scattered showers last week, but other parts of the state are dry.

Corn is four-fifths tasseled and progress is favorable in most of the state's important corn areas, the agency said. Rainfall was reported in much of the dry bean area but bean beetle activity still is reported in many sections, causing moderate damage.

Early potato harvests have started. Sugar beet growth is generally satisfactory.

Pastures are short through most of Michigan and many farmers are feeding hay to supplement inadequate pastures, the report said. Second cuttings of hay are under way in most of Lower Michigan but yields in many instances are a disappointment, especially in moisture-short northern counties, it said.

Harvest of red haven peaches got started last week and a good volume of this early-variety species is coming to market, the agency reported. Quality is excellent.

The sour cherry harvest in the northwest is approaching completion. Harvest of summer apples has started, with good prospects for ample supplies through the season. Pear prospects also are top, the report said.

Throughout the state, vegetable harvesting is in full progress, with snap beans, pickles and tomatoes being readied in volume for processors.

Term Too Suggestive, Banned From Film Ads

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico City's Entertainment Department has banned use of the term "Nudoscope" in advertising the movie "Enchanting Ladies."

Original ads said: "First—Cinerama—Panorama — CinemaScope—andnow—Nudoscope."

The department said the term was too suggestive. The cast includes several noted flesh artists.

Man Denies Kidnaping

DETROIT (AP) — Ex-convict John E. Novak, 44, of Dearborn, pleaded inncent Tuesday to a charge of kidnaping a 7-year-old girl. Recorder's Judge Gerald W. Groat set bond at $20,000 pending examination Aug. 20. The child told police Novak forced her into his car Aug. 5 near her northwest Detroit home. Novak served terms in Southern Michigan Prison from 1942 to 1946 on child molesting charges.

16-Year Minimum Age to Drive Scooter Urged

HAZEL PARK — If the Hazel Park City Council has its way, no Michigan youngster under 16 years of age will be permitted to operate a motor scooter.

The council has asked the State Legislature to set the minimum age for scooter drivers at 16 instead of 14. The resolution was passed to aid in preventing traffic deaths, councilmen said.

Backing Blimps for Research

Officer Says Airships Most Suitable Type for Work in Arctic

SOUTH WEYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) —Capt. H. B. Van Gorder reported enthusiastically there is no question of the ability of a blimp for supply line work or research in the Arctic.

Just back from a nearly 8,000-mile round trip from South Weymouth Naval Air Station to a point about 500 miles from the North Pole, Capt. Van Gorder told a news conference the airship—christened the Snow Goose by its crew—can work in the Arctic in the comparatively warm summer months better than any other aircraft. Van Gorder is commanding officer of the Naval development unit here.

"The flight was as scheduled—except for a certain reluctance to leave this country," he said. The flight was delayed because of unusual weather in late July.

Capt. Van Gorder paid tribute individually to the 18 members of the crew and observers who were aboard on the most northerly part of the flight from Churchill, Man., to T-3, the floating ice island which is a research base.

The blimp passed within 25 miles of the magnetic pole.

"It is a lot warmer in the Arctic at this time of year than people think," he said.

The temperature in the far north ranged from that 35-degree low up to 54 to 56 degrees during "the heat of the day," he said.

The temperature at Churchill was 76 degrees the day after the blimp arrived there.

Observers and scientists aboard were: Capt. Frank J. Nusom of Corpus Christi, Tex.; Commodore Oscar Robertson of Montreal, naval member of the Canadian joint staff, Washington, D.C.; Guy S. Harris of Waterford, Conn., head of the underwater sound laboratory research group at New London, Conn.; Walter H. Bailey of McLean, Va., a geographer in the Office of Naval Research; Paul Swenson of Washington, D.C., attached to the Arctic Institute of North America and the Navy hydrographic office; Norman Bray of Ottawa, hydrographer in the Department of Mines and Technical Survey, Canada; and Hugh Mulligan, Associated Press staff writer.

Capt. Van Gorder, in paying tribute to the crew, particularly praised Wing Commander Keith Greenaway of Ottawa, Royal Canadian Air Force expert on polar navigation.

He said Greenaway made an estimate 35 hours before their return that the air ship would arrive at South Weymouth at 8:27 a.m. today. The airship touched down at 8:26.

Presley Granted Furlough to Visit Ailing Mother

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Pvt. Elvis Presley, drafted rock 'n' roll king, made a flying trip to Memphis yesterday to be with his seriously ailing mother.

The Army gave Elvis an emergency seven-day furlough — although Presley's company is on alert and expected to go overseas — when a Memphis physician urged that Presley be allowed to visit his mother.

"Oh, my son. Oh, my son," Mrs. Vernon Presley exclaimed when Elvis walked into her hospital room last night.

Mrs. Presley was admitted to a hospital Saturday. She is suffering with jaundice and a liver ailment. Elvis' father Vernon Presley said she was in a serious but not critical condition.

The physician, who asked that he not be named, said he recommended the furlough in a long-distance telephone call to the young singer's commanding officer at Ft. Hood, Tex.

"I have registered emergency leaves for many boys to come home when their parents were sick," he said. "If it were any other boy I would have no hesitation about recommending that a leave be granted."

Earlier Polar Trip by Nautilus Failed

WARWICK, R.I. (AP) — Two crewmen have written home that the nuclear submarine Nautilus attempted to pass under the North Pole two months ago but was repelled by an 8-foot wall of ice.

"We tried to get under the ice pack a couple of months ago but didn't quite make it," Engineman 2.C. William J. McNally Jr. wrote weraninto a solid wall of ice 80 feet thick.

"The distance from the surface to the ocean floor is about 130 feet. Subtracting 80 feet of ice leaves the Nautilus with 50 feet of water, not quite enough.

"We also ran into a couple of near collisions with icebergs. So the captain decided the attempt wasn't worth the possible loss of his crew. That's when we turned around and headed for hawaii.

Robert E. Simonini, 27, engineman first class, wrote that "we ran into too much ice so we went to Pearl Harbor to wait for better ice conditions."

Miss Michigan, Valerie Joy Strong of Williamsburg, models the gown she will wear in Atlantic City in September as one of the three-member Court of Honor at the Miss America Pageant. The gown is of brocade over ivory everglaze, trimmed with Aurora Borealis stones and ranch mink. When removed the jacket reveals a strapless ball gown.

1,500 New Workers Daily in Civil Service

NEW YORK (UPI) — It takes 1,500 new employes per working day to replace the people who quit, retire, die, or are fired from the Federal Civil Service, according to the National Civil Service League. That's three new workers every minute of every working day.

This 375,000-man-per-year need was revealed in a study by the league in connection with the 75th anniversary of the first Civil Service Law. When the original law was signed by President Arthur, it protected 14,000 federal employes from the spoils system. Today there are over 2.4 million Civil Service workers in the federal government alone, half of whom work in the Department of Defense.

Calcutta Teachers on Hunger Strike

CALCUTTA — Having voted a two-weeks hunger strike to call attention to their demands, 28 secondary school teachers in and around Calcutta, including three women, drank glasses of orange juice as a final gesture, and started their fast.

They had decided on a fortnight's strike because this type of agitation would not affect the students, the teachers said. If the authorities continued to ignore their protests, agitation of other sorts would be tried, it was agreed.

Their principal complaint was that they are required to appear before the Public Service Commission in order to be eligible for newly revised scales of pay.

Chicken Raiser Brands Birds to Halt Stealing

MOCKSVILLE, N.C. (AP)— Chicken raiser M.K. Allen, of near Mocksville, was bothered by thieves stealing so many of his pullets. So he borrowed an idea from the branding iron of cattle rustling days.

He bought a tattoo set and is now putting his brand in the web of the chickens' wing so he can identify stolen ones as his property.

Child Killed by Auto

TRAVERSE CITY (AP) — Dennis McDuff, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McDuff, was killed Tuesday when he dashed into the path of an auto driven along US 31 by Richard J. Rozanski, 31, of Chicago. Besides his parents and a twin brother, Dennis is survived by four other children in the McDuff family.

Douglas fir covers about 70 per cent of the northwestern U. S. Coast area.

Chrysler, UAW Argue Overtime

Union Opposes Extra Hours for Some While Others Are Idle

DETROIT (AP) — Labor contract negotiations in the auto industry were warmed up today by a verbal battle over overtime work between Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers.

The dispute developed as the time approached for the return to work of thousands of laid off union members to prepare for production of the new 1959 model cars.

Some workers already have been recalled. Chrysler plans to start a recall Monday in advance of the start of 1959 model production later this month.

The UAW, which has gone without contracts with Chrysler, Ford and General Motors for more than two months, has been holding back on use of its strike weapon until more of its men are back on the assembly lines.

Chrysler and the union sparred yesterday over a union declaration that it opposes overtime work for employes as long as others are idle. At this time about 52,000 Chrysler men, more than half the company's work force, are laid off.

Douglas Fraser, administrative assistant to UAW President Walter Reuther, told Chrysler that individual union locals would decide whether to support their feelings on overtime with strike action.

The company retorted by calling this "harassment. A spokesman said the company would expect employes to "perform work that we expect them to do."

He said overtime work is essential to new model production and that Chrysler would continue to operate its plants "in a normal manner."

Interlochen Musicians Close Season Sunday

INTERLOCHEN (AP) — Performance of Lizst's symphonic peom, "Les Preludes," next Sunday night concludes the 31st summer program of the National Music Camp at Interlochen.

Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, president and founder of the camp, will conduct the performance which has a cast of more than 1,000 dancers, singers and instrumentalists.

Dance faculty members last night presented a work by composer Igor Stravinsky to lead off a week-long finale schedule.

UN HEADLINERS — Foreign secretaries Selwyn Lloyd of Britain, John Foster Dulles of the United States, Andrei Gromyko of the Soviet Union and Mahmoud Fawzi of the United Arab Republic (left to right) four of the world's toughest bargainers will provide fireworks in the United Nations General Assembly session on the Middle East opening in New York today. Lloyd, 54; Dulles, 70, and Fawzi, 56, all are lawyers. Gromyko, 49, began his career as an engineer-economist.

Four of World's Toughest Bargainers May Spark Fireworks at U.N. Parley

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Dulles . . . Gromyko . . . Lloyd . . . Fawzi . . .

Four of the world's toughest bargainers — all career diplomats — will provide fireworks in the United Nations General Assembly session on the Middle East starting today.

They are the foreign secretaries of the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and the United Arab Republic — respectively John Foster Dulles, Andrei Andreivich Gromyko, John Selwyn Brooke Lloyd and Mahmoud Fawzi.

Dulles, Lloyd and Fawzi all are lawyers. Gromyko began his career as an engineer-economist. All four today are diplomats of long experience.

Here are capsules of their careers:

MAHMOUD FAWZI

President Gamal Abdel Nasser's representative knows and likes Americans. But he shows no quarter in pushing Egypt's complaints against the United States.

At 56, Fawzi is a calm, self-assured negotiator with a reputation for brilliance and agility. No stranger to United Nations debates, he is a Nasser holdover from the regime of King Farouk.

Fawzi is the product of a middle class Egyptian family, son of a teacher. He was educated in Europe and the United States, speaks a half dozen languages fluently. He was a banker when he began his diplomatic career before World War II with the Egyptian Mission in Washington. He headed Egypt's delegation to the U.N. in 1949 and at later sessions.

SELWYN LLOYD

His bitterest foes have acknowledged the nimbleness of Britain's foreign secretary. A veteran of U.N. debates, Lloyd once won grudging praise from the late Andrei Vishinsky, one of Moscow's ablest debaters.

Smiling, Lloyd told Vishinsky of an "old Russian proverb: the more moo in the cow, the less the milk." Vishinsky objected that this was no Russian proverb. Lloyd apologized, said it really was a Polish adage, and if the Poles deviated from the Russian moo and milk policy, they ought to be investigated. Vishinsky conceded: "the young Englishman is tough."

Lloyd is 54 years old now, coldly efficient and logical and a formidable speaker. He has the habit of success.

A former judge, he was minister of state for foreign affairs under Winston Churchill in 1951, minister of supply in 1954, and became defense minister under Sir Anthony Eden in December, 1955. As foreign minister under Prime Minister Macmillan, he returns to the United Nations with a solid reputation for agile bargaining.

ANDREI GROMYKO

Son of a peasant from White Russia, Gromyko has had a spectacular career in diplomacy which made him the symbol of the Soviet veto—Russia's "No" man.

Gromyko first wanted to be a teacher, then an economist, but events and a shortage of clever men changed his plans. By 1938, at the age of 29, he was in the American section of the Soviet foreign office. He soon became counselor of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, then charge d'affaires during the war, and, in 1943, at the age of 34, ambassador to the United States.

Gromyko has had plenty of experience in U.N. debate, having attended most of the important sessions.

JOHN FOSTER DULLES

Just a year ago Dulles made it plain that his aim is to look out for United States interests, and "whether we make friends or not, I do not care."

One of the criticisms of this much criticized diplomat is that that he has not made many real friends in a globe girdling career that began more than 50 years ago, when, at the age of 19, he attended a Hague Peace conference.

A member of a family of diplomats, Dulles has been in and out of diplomacy through most of the years since World War I, when he was an adviser to President Wilson at Versailles.

A man of strict Presbyterian upbringing, Dulles' code of right and wrong often shows through his diplomacy. He can deliver earth-shaking pronouncements in a flat, undramatic way. Phrases like "brink of war," or "massive retaliation" and "agonizing reappraisal" became the butt of world argument.

Since 1953, Dulles has traveled at least a half million miles in the service of his country.

Dulles, 70, last February, probably has been the world's most severely attacked diplomat for his role as chief architect of the Eisenhower administration's policy. President Eisenhower has expressed great faith in his "experience and wisdom."

Await Russia's Answer to Feats of U.S. A-Subs

MOSCOW (AP)—The voyages of the U.S. atomic submarines Nautilus and Skate under the ice of the North Pole undoubtedly have given Soviet leaders something to think about.

But the exploits have produced mainly silence from the Soviet Union except for a brief report on the voyage of the Nautilus.

The Defense Ministry's newspaper Red Star, however, published a story today on the progress of the United States in the field of atomic submarines.

Under the heading "Foreign Military Information," it carried a report from Washington that the United States has 22 nuclear submarines built, under construction or authorized.

"At least three of these will have installations for firing the missile Polaris with a range of 1,500 miles," it said.

What the Soviet Union is doing to match the United States in the development of nuclear submarines is a question here.

If the Kremlin has among its huge submarine fleet one or more atomic-powered craft it is a well-kept secret. If such submarines are planned or under construction, that too is not public knowledge.

Reports have been published abroad from time to time that the Soviet Union is building new submarines of massive size and presumably atomic powered. But there is no confirmation here.

Convict Changes Mind

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP)—Frank C. Stepp, who broke out of a prison camp last February, suddenly had a desire to continue paying his one-year debt to society. He surrendered to police here and was taken to the Gaston County prison camp. Three hours later he was over the fence and gone again.

Tropical Storm Nearing Land

Gale Warning Up as 'Becky' May Grow to Hurricane Force

MIAMI (UPI)—Tropical storm Becky, gaining momentum in its westward march over the Atlantic, swirled toward Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands today with winds up to 55 miles per hour.

Gale warnings were ordered up in the Leeward Islands for "winds up to 50 miles per hour in squalls beginning after 5 a.m." Weather men said the storm may reach full hurricane force as it moves into warmer waters today.

The San Juan Weather Bureau in Puerto Rico said late yesterday "If the storm continues its present direction and rate of motion, it is expected to pass about 100 to 125 miles north of Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands during the forenoon."

The San Juan bureau said unless this storm changed direction, its center would pass to the north of Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, with the land area in the "quieter semi-circle of the storm."

Forecasters warned, however, that the Virgin Islands and the northern Leeward Islands should not relax their vigilance "owing to the location of the storm and the possibility of a change to hurricane intensity Wednesday."

Miami forecaster Walter Davis estimated on its present course Becky would take nearly four days to reach the Florida coastline.

Segregationist Ahead in Arkansas Judgeship Race

Adam Clayton Powell Wins With Ease

ADAM CLAYTON—17 & OI—
By the Associated Press

Men on the exact opposite side of the integration question were on top today in political races in New York's Harlem and in Arkansas.

Integrationist Adam Clayton Powell was an easy victor in Harlem over another Negro, Earl Brown, for the Democratic nomination for Powell's seat in the House.

Segregationist Jim Johnson held a narrow lead over Justice Minor Millwee in his efforts to replace Millwee on the bench of Arkansas' Supreme Court.

Opposing views, too, were in evidence in still a third primary election. This one, in Idaho, featured a photo finish race between State Sen. A. M. Derr and Max Hanson, a wheat farmer, for the Democratic governor nomination.

These two leaders in a field of four candidates had argued over bringing legalized gambling back to Idaho. Derr wants it. Hanson doesn't.

The winner will run against Republican Gov. Robert E. Smylie.

Politicians regarded Powell's victory as the most significant contest nationally.

They felt it provided at least an indicator of how Negroes themselves line up on whether integration should be fast or slow.

Powell's approach to the race question has been for full speed ahead. He disdainfully called his opponent, Brown, an "Uncle Tom" for his more cautious approach to Negro-White relations.

Brown, in turn, criticized Powell as a racial extremist. Nevertheless, Brown, an editor of Life magazine, told Powell in his telegram conceding defeat that the victory was "clear cut" and sent best regards.

The contrasting political picture in Arkansas indicated that segregationist views still have a great appeal—coming, as it does, so soon after Gov. Orval Faubus' big renomination victory.

But the contest was extremely close. It may not be known for a week, when the official results are calculated, whether segregationist Johnson or Justice Millwee won.

Johnson had used as a top issue a contention—denied by Millwee—that Millwee was a friend of integrationists. Millwee claimed Johnson was riding Faubus' coattails.

In the other contested Arkansas Supreme Court race, Justice Ed F. McFaddin easily defeated Griffin Smith Jr. Smith had only mildly introduced the integration question in this race.

Sacramento Fights Battle of Skunks

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The scent of battle fills the air today as Sacramento moves to wipe out an invasion of skunks.

Poundmaster George Martin estimates there may be 500 concentrated in southwest Sacramento.

The city hired Walter Sims, a professional trapper and expert on skunks. He has caught six.

"This is an all-out battle," said Martin. "I mean it's a serious thing."

Ike Addresses General Assembly, Proposes Middle East Peace Plan

lin's conduct with someone who cries "fire" in a crowded assembly.

The President's proposed six points:

1. A stand-by United Nations peace force.

2. An Arab-run Mideast economic development loan fund and a technical assistance program, financed jointly by the Arab states, the United States and other countries, presumably including the Soviet Union.

3. A constant U.N. check to curb inflammatory propaganda broadcasts to and from the Middle East nations.

4. A U. N. study of possible controls on arms shipments to Mideast countries, including Israel, to avert an East - West munitions race in the area.

5. Unspecified new U.N. moves to guarantee Lebanon's security and independence after American troops are withdrawn.

6. An expression of U.N. determination to assure Jordan's survival as a nation, presumably by replacing British troops now there with U.N. personnel.

Calling world attention to the tense situation in Jordan, Eisenhower warned that "indirect aggression discernible in Jordan may lead to conflicts endangering the peace." He did not fix blame for this, but said consequences of a far-reaching nature could result.

Eisenhower proposed fast General Assembly action on the parts of his program dealing with the peace force, Lebanon, Jordan, and the curbing of subversive propaganda. The regional economic development plan and arms control he left for handling through other U.N. machinery.

The President made it clear the Arabs first of all must agree on the regional development plan.

"Should the Arab states agree on the usefulness of such a soundly organized regional institution, and should they be prepared to support it with their own resources, the United States would also be prepared to support it," he said.

With Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko on hand, Eisenhower strongly defended his decision to rush U.S. troops into Lebanon.

"This world of individual nations is not going to be controlled by any one power or group of powers," he said. "Please believe me when I say that the dream of world domination by one power, or a world of conformity, is an impossible dream."

The President served notice that if necessary the United States again would go to the aid of a any small nation, which appeals for help within the spirit of the U.N. charter.

The President did not spell out the kind of police force he has in mind. But informed officials said he favors a highly mobile force of about 3,000 men, equipped with small arms only. They would be the first U.N. permanent police force, ready to speed to the help of any country appealing for aid.

Their main value would be to cover a threatened land with a symbolic mantle of U.N. protection. The force would be stationed in the capital of a threatened country, and not used to patrol frontiers as the Soviet Union proposed yesterday.

In a clear bid for Arab support of his plan, Eisenhower sprinkled his speech with high praise and backing for Arab nationalism. But no place did he mention leadership of that movement by President Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Nor did he specifically accuse the U.A.R. of fomenting the current Mideast crisis by interference in Lebanon's internal affairs—a charge the United States made at the time it sent troops into Lebanon a month ago.

Eisenhower said that if his Mideast peace program can be carried out, then "in a few short years we may be able to look back on the Lebanon and Jordan crises as the beginning of a great new era of Arab history."

He said that the six parts of his plan should be acted on together.

"Within the Near East and within this Assembly," Eisenhower added, "are the forces of good sense, restraint and wisdom to make, with time and patience, a framework of political order and peace in that region."

"I hope it is clear that I am not suggesting a position of leadership for my own country in the work of creating such an institution. If this institution is to be a success, the function of leadership must belong to the Arab sates themselves, he said.

When the transatlantic cable opened in 1858 first messages were exchanged between President Buchanan and England's Queen Victoria.

Favor Transfer to City Court

Commissioners Want to Have Traffic Violations Bureau Moved

City Commissioners last night went on record as favoring the transfer of the Traffic Violations Bureau from the Police Department to the Municipal Court.

Mayor pro tem John A. Dugan is expected soon to appoint a committee of three commissioners to meet with the two municipal judges to work out details of the switch. The final plan is subject to commission approval.

The change was strongly recommended in the report of the Public Administration Service survey of police department morale and efficiency.

Similar moves are being taken in many communities, the report said, where it is felt that law enforcement should be entirely separated from the collection of traffic fines. The latter is a judicial function, it is said.

Commissioners have agreed with this position, as have the two judges. Several police officials, though, including the head of the present violations bureau, have argued against it.

Action on the violations bureau means that the commission has taken steps to effect two of the three major recommendations which City Manager Walter K. Willman sees in the PAS report.

The report also recommended the city hire a public safety director, which was accomplished last week, and drop state civil service for city police.

Although the latter recommendation has been discussed, commissioners have made no decision about it one way or the other.

Plunges to His Death

DETROIT (UP) — Paul Peloquin, 22, a construction worker, fell 60 feet to his death Tuesday from a fourth-floor scafolding when he was struck by a falling ramp while repairing masonry on an apartment.

Church membership in the United States is reported to be growing twice as fast as the population, arid 60 per cent of all U. S. adults are now members of a church.

Jumbo Shots for Hay Fever

New Injection Called 98 Pct. Effective by New York Scientist

NEW YORK (UPI) — A New York scientist has come up with a new type of hay fever shot described as 98 per cent effective.

It differs from the conventional anti-hay fever injections in two ways. Only one shot a year is needed, in contrast to the from 15 to 70 annual injections of the old-type shots. And it is made of mineral oil and ragweed extract. The shots now being used are made of a water base and extract.

Dr. Mary Loveless stressed that the medication is not now generally available and is still in the experimental stage. She added however that it has been used with good effect on hundreds of patients in five university medical centers.

She contended that the mineral oil in the jumbo shot was absorbed more slowly than water in the human system. She explained that this was one of the reasons why the new-type injection given three months before the start of the ragweed season maintained sufficient strength in the body to last through the hay fever months.

Honolulu Bases Report Abundant High Brass

HONOLULU (UP)—The latest roster of the U. S. Pacific Command shows a record 50 admirals and generals based in Hawaii.

Last year there were 36.

The present lineup is: Army—16 generals. Navy—14 admirals. Air Force — 14 generals. Marine — 4 generals. Coast Guard — 1 admiral. Hawaii National Guard—1 general.

Past Kiwanis Presidents Eye Retirement Activity

"What on earth do you do with your time when you retire?" four retired past presidents of the Kiwanis Club of Pontiac had been asked so often by fellow Kiwanians that yestreday they decided to tell all.

Disclosing their rising-to-bed-time schedules were Conrad N. Church, former Pontiac Press editor; J. Cecil Cox, former assistant superintendent of Pontiac schools; Earl R. Milliman, for many years a Ford dealer in Pontiac, and Frank J. DuFrain, former superintendent of schools.

All four agreed there was plenty to do after retirement. They voiced some of the things they like best of their "new lives."

"Getting up at 8 after 30 years of 6:30 is a luxury," said Church. "Another luxury is that nap in the afternoon."

He related how he loves to test his "green thumb" in his garden, listen to the ball games, and once in awhile spend a leisurely afternoon at the end of a fish line.

This last pastime is enjoyed by Cox also. "And I still get bluegills that are keepers," Cox told Church.

Cox, who retired last fall as assistant superintendent, spoke of the importance of having a hobby before "one calls it quits."

Milliman interjected a serious note when he advised that retirement is fun if "we exercise our minds and bodies with some good goal in mind."

Milliman told those at yesterday's Kiwanis luncheon at the Waldron Hotel not to try and operate any businesses when retirement age rolls around.

The last retiree, DuFrain, school superintendent from 1945 through 1954, added much humor to the luncheon meeting.

"I sit around and figure out my net worth by reading the Wall Street Journal," he remarked. "I figured this to be around $150 this morning, but don't think it will be that high tonight because I understand the market is slipping."

When he's not doing this, Du Frain said, he "tosses nuts to a red-headed woodpecker outside his front door that he has trained not to go south."

1st Man to Moon Already Born

We Could Live Much Longer in Zero Gravity of Outer Space

NEW YORK — The first man who will land on the moon has already been born, according to an article by space expert Arthur C. Clarke in a recent issue of a national magazine.

Life in outer space is one of infinitely greater promise than the one we now enjoy, says the author. The most immediate change will be the result of living in gravitational fields lower than earth's. On Mars, a 180-pound man would weigh about 70 pounds; on the moon, less than 30. On a space station or artificial satellite, he would weigh nothing.

The article explains that living in a place of zero gravity would render void the enormous amount of energy that is required on earth to send the blood coursing through the veins and arteries of our bodies. "How much longer we might live if the weight of the blood, and of our whole bodies, were abolished!"

But mere extension of the life span, and even improved health and efficiency, are less important than expanding the richness and diversity of human experience.

"In space, there will be no horizon this side of infinity. There will be suns and planets without end, no two the same, and many of them teeming with strange lifeforms and even stranger cultures.

"Go further afield to the worlds of other suns, and picture a planet where the word 'night' is meaningless, for with the setting of one sun there rises another—and perhaps a third or fourth—of totally different hue."

Will man's search for happiness be realized with the conquest of space? The answer, says the author of this article, lies in distinguishing between man, the individual, and Man, the race.

"For man, 'home' is the place of his birth and childhood," Dr. Clarke explains. "But for Man, home can never be a single country, a single world or a single solar system . . . This divine discontent will be driving our descendants on toward unimaginable goals when earth itself is a fading legend lost among the stars."

Turks Extend Airstrips as Plane Traffic Rises

ISTANBUL — Turkey's airlines carried 218,806 passengers in 1957 compared with 86,331 in 1950. Landing and take-off strips have been increased from 8,080 yards to 21,860 yards during the period.

100 Million for Research

NEW YORK—Grocery manufacturers spend about $100,000,000 a year on product and market research and employ 6,400 scientists and technicians to develop new food products and improve old ones, industry sources report.

Bob Considine Says:

It's Too Costly to Harvest Gold in Alaska

FAIRBANKS, Alaska — There's still a lot of gold in Alaska, but any man who would call the recovery of it a gold rush would be an atrocious judge of pace. Chopping and slopping it from the earth is appallingly slow, costly, and about as romantic as digging cesspools.

Alaska has yielded more than $700,000,000 of its gold, not bad return on an original investment of $7,200,000. The difficult harvest now amounts to around $7,00,000 a year. There is no truly accurate way of measuring the land's gold reserves, as one measures oil or coal deposits, but gold operators such as the veteran Jim Crawford feel that the only thing that will stop large-scale mining will be the government pegged price of $35 an ounce. Recovery costs have nearly tripled since that price was frozen.

LITTLE MONEY

"There's very little money in gold these days," Crawford told us. He is a small, neat man and studious who is the antithesis of the legendary sourdough who opened up these gold fields in 1902. "Sometimes it costs more to find it than it's worth, which is one of the reasons why we have to import 30 per cent of the gold Americans use each year in medicine, dentistry, jewelry and the arts," he said mildly. A huge goldmining plant on a steep hill above Juneau has found it more profitable to sell the gravel which surrounds the precious metal.

Crawford took us to his company's claim near Fairbanks. It is not easily described. It involves vast amounts of electrical power brought from miles away, the overland pumping of countless tons of water, building of roads, housing for machinery, and the wearing away by water, friction and steam pipes of a gorge a mile long, half mile wide and fifty feet deep. This latter job has taken twenty years and still is not completed.

But the awful eye-catcher of the complex is a monstrous 700-ton dredge eating its way slowly across the land, living off the stray flecks of gold it finds in the mud and rocks it eats, and spewing the rest out a great waving tail pipe.

It looks for all the world like a prehistoric ant eater of colossal and clumsy bulk. Its teeth are 60 big steel buckets mounted on a continuous chain. It carries its own pond with it, barely enough to support its bulk, and inches forward by means of two great steel legs that reach down through the slope to the permanently frozen ground beneath.

In its deafening interior it does on a large scale what the bearded pioneer did in the old days. It shakes and stirs and sifts the debris with water and the gold, if any, falls to the bottom. Then it throws the rest away. In the wake of this particular dredge was a half-mile little mountain range of barren rocks, unsightly even amid the general disorder of these struggles with a reluctant nature.

Once the gold ran through the quartz of the area like veins through a human body but then the great ice packs came and crushed the rock, squeezing out the gold, and on top of that formed 40 or 50 feet of earth frozen harder than rock.

In the course of removing the perma-frost by water friction and the sinking of hot-steam daggers into it here and there, incredible graveyards have been unearthed.

Here must have been an oasis, tens of thousands of years ago. Here lived the lion, the sabre-toothed tiger, the camel, mastadon, mammoth and horse. The museums hope the gold companies will continue digging, whatever the cost.

Every two weeks the dredge is shut down and the gold is taken out of the panning trays. It is sent into Fairbanks, separated from its cloying silver and mercury, and finally baked into $25,000 bricks. At the end of the excruciating process it is sold to the government, which promptly rushes it to Fort Knox and puts it back in the ground again.

INSIDE PHOTOGRAPHY — This tiny camera, only three-quarters of an inch long, was designed to take pictures inside the human stomach. It was invented by Norman Gosselin at the Charles Brusch Medical Center in Cambridge, Mass. The standard-sized darning needle locates the lens opening. In a special capsule, it can be swallowed by the patient without discomfort. The camera can take up to eight pictures, black-and-white or color, from light supplied by a built-in bulb.

Turks Treble Phones

ISTANBUL — Turkey almost trebled its number of telephone subscribers in the last six years. There were 173,730 at the start of 1958 and 60,407 at the start of 1952.

Few Planes in WW I

WASHINGTON—At the outbreak of World War I the United States had only 14 military aircraft. During 18 months of combat the United States sent only 196 planes to France.

Ireland Putting Peat to Work

DUBLIN (UPI)—The Bord Na Mona — Ireland's peat board — is determined that the country's bogs, covering about one-seventh of the total area will be very much a part of this jet age.

The board's operations in every part of the country are designed to put modern techniques to work to guarantee the future of peat (turf or moss used for fuel after drying). Better still, they are making it work the other way around —peat is now in the service of modern techniques.

The most impressive thing about the whole operation—it's a business with an annual turnover of $60,000,000—is the spirit of dedication which animates the men who make it work.

In one of the fields at Burra, a great new electric power station has gone up. Its sole source of fuel for manufacturing the electricity which will turn the wheels of industry and light homes, shops and factories is peat.

SET UP IN 1936

These modern methods are also put in the service of more traditional uses — for fuel in homes. Here the keynote is simply the far greater efficiency with which machines can be used to do the same job.

The board was set up by the government in 1936 following successful experiments carried out by a predecessor, the Turf Development Board.

The bogs, despite their seemingly solid surface, are 93 per cent water. The problem of converting this very low-grade but tremendously abundant material to useful purposes was the challenge. The work of Bord Na Mona is the response, and a thoroughly successful one.

The bogs have provided fuel for farmers for centuries. But the farmers, using simple implements, never got beyond the perimeters of the great bogs.

The board, by mechanizing the operation, had to make it show some economic sense. Some of the machines are of the kind you're used to seeing on a farm—with a few wrinkles added by the board's own research men. Some are specially commissioned from manufacturers.

WEATHER PROBLEM

Despite the long way the board has come from the old-time methods, one problem is the same as that of all farmers in all ages—the weather.

The board is at peak production only 65 to 70 days of every year. In those days an augmented labor force works around the clock on a three-day shift.

The board's permanent employees — about 5,000 strong — are brought up to full strength of some 7,000 during the peak period.

It has built whole villages to house its workers and maintains a research station, museum and library. Its men have gone everywhere in the world where there was anything to be learned and now others are coming to them.

But all of this would be beside the point, at least in some eyes, if it weren't for one thing. The board itself is willing to stand and fall by it. They claim, and say they can prove it that the use of their material produces electricity more cheaply than any other raw material that could be used except water.

State Park Usage Up

WASHINGTON — Attendance in the nation's State parks totaled more than 217,000,000 in 1957, an 8 per cent increase over 1956.

Nab Gift-Giving Confidence Man

New York Police Hold Bilker for FBI After Capture in Bus Depot

NEW YORK (AP)—A colorful confidence man who once sent golf clubs to Vice President Nixon with a card reading, "Dick, beat the boss," was arrested last night.

Seizure of Joseph Levy, 65, at a West Side bus terminal ended a three-month, coast-to-coast search.

Levy, who has a habit of sending gifts to public figures, was on his way to Washington, D. C., when two city patrolmen picked him up and held him for FBI agents.

The veteran con artist rarely stays in one city more than two or three days. The FBI had distributed 100,000 posters in an effort to nab him.

The one job Levy has been known to have held was as a male nurse in Rye, N. Y., in 1951.

H. G. Foster, special agent in charge of New York FBI headquarters, estimated Levy had bilked his victims out of tens of thousands of dollars in a career that started before World War I. One recent exploit ascribed to the suave and dapper Levy took place in Phoenix, Ariz., where jeweler Harry Rosenzweig accepted an order for a silver plate engraved "To Pat and Dick from Joe."

"Joe" paid for the $50 plate with a $150 check. It bounced.

Nixon's office said the plate was returned to Rosenzweig a couple of weeks later.

Other recipients of his generosity were said to have included former Sen. Herbert Lehman (D NY), who received a set of pipes, and Senators Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass) and Styles Bridges (R-NH).

The golf clubs, accompanied by the note alluding to Eisenhower's penchant for golf, were sent to Nixon in March 1953.

The FBI noted the "public officials all promptly returned gifts sent to them."

Levy has been arrested at least 26 times, the FBI said. The last time was in the spring of 1953 when he was seized at the $50 window at Churchill Downs race track, Louisville, Ky.

Levy is charged with violating the terms of his conditional release last April from the federal prison in Atlanta, where he had served five years of a sentence for probation violation and transporting stolen property across state lines.

The FBI said that beginning in Chicago early last May, Levy visited Los Angeles, Phoenix, Las Vegas and Salt Lake City, among other cities, name-dropping and check-writing all the way.

That Wandering Jet Stream

One Cause of Summer's Freak Weather

WHEN WINDS COLLIDE — Weather Bureau experts say the southerly wanderings of the so-called jet stream have been largely responsible for the freak summer weather over two-thirds of the U. S. When the cold winds of the jet stream collide with the warm winds off the Gulf of Mexico, violent storms and rain are produced.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Resort owners east of the Rockies who have been tearing their hair over this summer's terrible weather can take some consolation from the plight of the fuel oil salesman in in the Arctic.

Northern Canada and the whole Arctic have been having just as freakishly warm weather recently as the eastern three-quarters of the U.S. has had strange weather in the way of excess rain, cold, storms and floods.

The U.S. Weather Bureau says there is probably some connection between these unusual conditions. But they won't say just what it is because, they modestly admit they don't know.

To make this summer's strange weather picture even more cloudy a new upper atmosphere phenomenon has just been discovered.

Scientists who have been firing high-altitude rockets up there as part of the International Geophysical Year program have discovered hitherto unknown masses of warm air at altitudes above 100 miles.

This, too is undoubtedly a piece in the big bad weather puzzle, Weather Bureau experts admit. But the fact that they don't know yet whether the IGY discovery is normal or peculiar to this year complicates efforts to fit it into the overall bad weather confusion.

Weather Bureau experts however, are positive about one set of facts. A spokesman explains:

EXTRA RAINFALL

"For the past several months over the general area of the U.S. east of the Rocky Mountains precipitation has been considerably above normal, with some areas such as Washington, D.C. getting two to three times more rain than average in July.

This has included more than average cloudiness, temperatures lower than average, storms and floods in Kansas Nebraska Illinois and West Virginia."

A few isolated areas in the East and Midwest have had near-normal weather with about average rainfall. But these spots are freaks of chance, too, it is claimed.

Weather Bureau experts are not entirely in the clouds about one cause of the country's summer weather snafu. They know that the transcontinental jet stream has been splitting and meandering down as far south as over Illinois and Kentucky instead of sticking to its normal path just over the Canadian border.

The jet stream is a river of cold air which races across the North American continent from west to east at an altitude between 20 and 40 thousand feet. It originates somewhere near Japan and blows across half of the world at speeds of up to 300 miles an hour.

But beyond establishing these facts about the jet stream information about it becomes purely speculative.

Movements of Arctic air, temperatures of the oceans and possible sun spots may influence the jet stream's origin and path.

Anyway when this jet stream starts ducking below the Great Lakes area weather trouble really starts. In the summer it collides with the prevailing warm, moist air which normally blows from the south to the north from the Gulf of Mexico and Caribbean.

Thus when the icy jet stream smacks into the gentle moist masses of air lazily rolling up from the south rain clouds and stroms result. The fact that the meanderings of the jet stream have been far ranging and the stream has been frequntly split, has caused the widespread bad weather over the U.S. this year.

SILVER LINING

Wather Bureau experts are reluctant to admit it because it is so speculative but there is a possible silver lining to this whole dark weather cloud.

If the jet stream continues to snake across the U.S. south of its normal Canadian-border route the chances of a bad hurricane season over the eastern part of the U.S. this fall are lessened.

When the jet stream moves abnormally north the possibility of tropical hurricanes hitting the U.S. increases. This is what happened during 1954-55 when the East Coast was struck by numerous devastating hurricanes.

When the jet stream is south of normal it tends to blow the hurricanes away from the U.S. over the Atlantic.

'Just Like Children'

WASHINGTON — Chairman Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) of the Senate disarmament subcommittee, commenting on the U.N. report that continued atomic testing would result in genetic defects to thousands of future babies: "We are like children playing with dynamite. Because of our limited knowledge we have little or no conception of the nature of this force we have unleashed and what it might do to us."

Ordinary life insurance accounts for almost two-thirds of all U. S. life insurance.

Science to Aid Fishing

CANBERRA — Australian scientists plan to use a form of a wartime submarine-detecting device, called Asdic, to locate untapped sources of tuna, barracuda, and other commercial-type fish on the south coast of New South Wales.

Powell Landslide Winner

Opposition of NAACP Fails to Impress Harlem

NEW YORK (AP)—Adam Clayton Powell, landslide victor in the Democratic congressional primary in Harlem, is a man of contrasts with a taste for the dramatic.

A vociferous champion of Negro rights in Congress, he was recently charged by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People with a kind of racism in reverse. Racial issues were important in his campaign against City Councilman Earl Brown, his vanquished opponent in yesterday's primary, although both are Negroes.

Brown, hwile fighting for civil rights, takes a calmer approach.

A spokesman for teeming Harlem, Powell owns two expensive sports cars and makes no secret of his taste for fine wines and choice cuisine. He is 49.

A Baptist minister with a strong following in preponderantly Negro Harlem, he has been married twice, once to an actress, then to a jazz pianist. The first marriage ended in divorce. He has a son by his second wife, Hazel Scott.

During his campaign against Brown, he referred to his 55-year-old opponent as an Uncle Tom—a Negro term for a colored person regarded as subservient to white people—and to Tammany leader Carmine DeSapio as "Massa Carmine."

A Democrat and practical politician, Powell supported President Eisenhower in the 1956 campaign—because, he said, he felt the Democrats did not take a strong enough stand on civil rights.

As a result, Tammany Hall dropped him this year after supporting him in seven successful previous elections.

But even when he received its support, Powell was often feuding with Tammany over his refusal to cooperate with it at all times. "I can't be bought," he explained.

He is awaiting trial on charges of evading federal income taxes. Powll has pleaded innocent.

In Congress he has introduced a multitude of civil rights bills, including many antidiscrimination riders (amendments) to major legislation.

Five Gypsies Arrested

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — State Police reported five gypsies being held Wednesday at Kent County Jail for investigation of grand larceny, strongarm robbery and fraud following their arrest near a Sand Lake encompment. Officers said complaints included the robbery of $460 from two elderly women.

Cost of all accidents in the U. S. in a single year would build about 300,000 first class school rooms which would house nine million pupils.

Two Heidelbergs Set Up Program of Foreign Study

TIFFIN, Ohio (UPI)—A unique program of foreign study has been arranged between Heidelberg College here and the University of Heidelberg in Germany and will be put into effect in the fall.

Roots of a modern-day friendship between the two Heidelbergs can be traced to 1946, when students at the college here collected a considerable amount of clothing, shoes and books for needy students at the German university in the post-war era.

In more recent years, American Heidelberg students on the annual summer tour of Europe enrolled at the German Heidelberg for a month's course as part of the program of the tour.

Termed "Junior Year at Old Heidelberg," the new program is in keeping with the growing interest in education abroad.

Dr. Charles M. Prugh, head of the department of German at Heidelberg College, is drector of the program.

"Proficiency in the knowledge and use of the German language is a prerequisite for participation in this program," Dr. Prugh said, "for it is the door to the understanding of German history and culture."

Dr. Prugh said the program is believed to be especially profitable for students desiring to major in German. At the same time he added, it is comprehensive enough to further one's knowledge in such fields as geography, history, literature, art, philosophy and religion.

Minister Settles Fine, Gives Clerical Warning

CLINTON, Ind. (AP) — A local minister decided to make good use of his trip to the police station to pay a parking ticket. He left this sign hanging on the station house door:

"Warning! No-Parking Violation. All officers not parking their carcasses in the pews of their respective churches are going to face HELL."

Seeking Mitzi Gaynor for Broadway Musical

By DOROTHY MANNERS
(For Louella O. Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD—The bulky package airmailed to Mitzi Gaynor is the Broadway musical version of "Destry Rides Again" for which Mitzi's being sought to co-star with Andy Griffith. Producer David Merrick also sent along the musical score by Harold Rome. I hear it kids the boots off movie Westerns. It would have to with Mitzi in the Marlene Dietrich role and Andy playing the part Jimmy Stewart did in the movie.

Mitzi and Jack Bean were among those fishing from the decks of the "Gentleman" cruising around Paradise Cove on Walter Lang's birthday. Mitzi caught two baby sharks which skipper Jack Ward made her throw back.

"It's not everybody who can catch two sharks," Mitzi protested. "I could have had them stuffed!" So nice to have floating around the pool.

Mel Ferrer's 14-year-old son, Mark, returned to Santa Barbara after treatment on his seriously injured left eye, hit with a BB shot. The surgery they had feared would be necessary has been avoided because the sight is not impaired.

It's a big relief to Mel in the middle of directing "Green Mansions" with Audrey Hepburn. When the MGM picture is completed, he and Audrey are off for their chateau in Switzerland, the only real home they have.

It's been so long since Audrey has seen her family that they are inviting her mother, two brothers and favorite aunt from Holland to be their houseguests.

No more tennis playing for Gilbert Roland. He's too busy. Gil was on the U-I lot Monday to ink his contract with producer-writer Sy Gomberg to co-star with Audie Murphy in "The Wild Innocents."

As it won't start until October, Gil still has time to get in his movie in Cuba, "Mr. Pharaoh and the Cleopatra," with Zsa Zsa Gabor.

Speaking of Zsa Zsa, she's drawing big crowds to see her nightclub act at the Chez Paree in Chicago. Dean Martin, en route to Indiana for "Some Came Running," dropped by the catch Zsa Zsa's act, hopped up on the stage, and between them they brought down the house.

Such a pretty and sentimental luncheon-shower Betty (Mrs Robert) Young gave for bride-to-be Suzanna Mayer at the Bel Air County Club.

If you think Hollywood can't be as sentimental as any place else about these things you should have hear the "ohing" and "ahing" over the book of pictures Betty brought showing Suzanne and all four of the Young's daughters when they were taking bows at piano recitals and kid parties.

Bob came off the golf course to say hello—but didn't stay. Too many wimmin. Mrs. Jerry Lewis said she was on the run getting Jerry and all the children packed for their boat trip to Honolulu. Among the guests were Nancy Sinatra, Mrs. Bill Thomas, and, of course, Suzanne's mother, the beautiful Mrs. Louis B. Mayer and the mother of the bridegroom-to-be, Mrs. Verl Dean Keiser, Sr.

Vanguard Second Stage Ground-Tested at Cape

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) A static test, or dry run, of a Vanguard rocket's second stage has been held at the missile test center here, but the results were not disclosed.

The tryout of the rocket engines in a ground experiment was the first static test at Cape Canaveral for a Vanguard second stage.

Two Vanguard firings which failed were blamed on malfunctions in the missile's second stage, which normally doesn't roar into action until the rocket is high in the sky.

A static test usually precedes an actual launching by about 10 days.

Israel Watches U.N. Closely

Nation Has Made Plain It Can't Be Ignored in Vital Decisions

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Israel is taking the position of a watchful observer at the outset of today's U.N. emergency Assembly session on the Middle East.

But Israel has made plain to the Western powers and Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold that it cannot be ignored in any vital decisions affecting the future of its area.

Israel's delegation to the Assembly is headed by Ambassador Abba Eban. He is being assisted by Arthur Lourie, the Israeli ambassador to Canada, and Moshe Tov, adviser on Latin-American affairs at the Foreign Ministry in Tel Aviv.

Authoritative sources said this was Israel's position:

Israel has served notice on the Western powers that if Jordan seems about ready to fall into the hands of President Nasser's United Arab Republic, defense considerations will dictate Israel's course of action.

Uppermost in Israel's mind is what happened in Gaza. The Israelis feel they surrendered Gaza to U.N. control, only to be confronted later by Nasser's forces in that area. They do not intend to se the same thing jappen in Jordan.

The inference is that the Israelis will occupy all of Jordan west of the Jordan River and the Dead Sea, including the Old City of Jerusalem.

Eban intends to speak in the Assembly when it gets down to brass tacks on specific proposals.

He will stress Israel's contention that any state threatened by another has the right to invite help from a friendly power.

He will also stress that any guarantees given to Arab states in the Middle East should be applicable to non-Arab states as well.

Excavation Cave-In Kills One Worker

DETROIT (AP) — A cave-in of an Edsel Ford Expressway drain excavation killed one worker and injured another yesterday.

Police said the survivor lived because his face was covered by the body of his fellow worker when they were buried under a mass of earth.

Harvey Spearman, 60, employe of a contracting firm, was killed.

Witnesses said a sidewall of a drain trench 20 feet deep collapsed and the two men lost out in a race with tons of plunging earth.

Robert Daniels, 40, was hospitalized with a broken arm. He also suffered shock.

Warner Slightly Better

CANNES, France (AP) — The condition of Hollywood film pioneer Jack Warner, critically injured a week ago in an automobile accident, was reported slightly improved today. Hospital aides said the 66-year old president of Warner Bros. spent an easier night. However, he still was allowed no visitors.

Forestry Expert Allays Fears of Timber Shortage

CHICAGO (UPI) — A forestry expert says the nation's timber needs at the turn of the 21st century can be met by a tree farming program sponsord by the timber industry.

James C. McClellan, chief forester for the American Forest Products Industries, said the program — already helping many small landowners to farm trees — has removed long-time fears that the country would run out of wood one day.

"Now we are growing timber faster than it is being removed from the forest — by harvest, fire, insects and disease," McClellan said. "This steadily expanding program gives us reasonable assurance that we can meet all future needs for wood."

He said tree farmers already have plans set up for production well beyond the year 2000.

Since 1859 the United States has produced two-thirds of the world's cumulative production of oil.

States having the longest sea coastlines are Florida, California, Louisiana, Texas.

Salute to a LIFELINE

America's food industry is one of the great wonders of the modern world. Before food in the field becomes fare on your table it must be harvested, inspected, processed, packaged and distributed. This is the lifeline of America.

Among those protectively watching over this lifeline is the Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc., an association of more than 400 leading food companies. The GMA and others in the food business are constantly searching for ways to make your food better and more convenient to buy.

This year the GMA reaches its 50th birthday. The newspaper industry salutes the Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc., for contributing so much to our high standard of living.

Probably nothing has changed more than the food field in giving so many new things to the American family. New products mean news. Traditionally, the best way to carry that news is in food ads and food features appearing in the pages of your daily newspaper – another vital strand in the golden lifeline that nourishes the nation.

Mystery Rebels Concern GIs

U.S. Soldiers Keeping Watchful Eye on Rocky Lebanese Ridges

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Reconnaissance units of the U. S. Army keep a constant watch on rocky ridges beyond which the mysterious forces of rebel leader Jamal Jumblatt make their camps.

The American watchers work with helicopters, jeeps and on foot. The blue Mediterranean glistens about four miles away. They get down to the beach about once every three days to swim off the dust that goes with soldiering.

They are not looking for trouble and have not had any. Like the cavalry of old they are the eyes of the Army. They should be among the first to know if the present uneasy truce in Lebanon breaks down.

In the most advanced position of all, members of Troop C, an airborne reconnaissance unit of the 17th Cavalry, are dug in snugly. Working with Lebanese security troops and patrolling on their own, they keep track of any disturbances in rebel territory.

Maj. Oran K. Henderson of Indianapolis, the commander, said: "According to our information Jumblatt's army has about 35 per cent local people from his own area in its ranks with the other 65 per cent being what we call strangers. These are said to be Lebanese from other parts of the country, Syrians and even Egyptians.

"Jumblatt, who is even respected by his opponents, can keep the local people in his army from starting the shooting again. His control over the strangers is questionable, however; that is why we are here to keep a watch on things."

"There has been little to report from here since the recent election of Gen. Fuad Shehab as Lebanese president," said Lt. Douglas Fingles, Storrs, Conn. "Before that there used to be some noise in the hills but nobody seemed to be shooting at us."

Fingles commands the outfit's reconnaissance platoon.

Rice Husks, Sawdust Cut Costs of Building

SAIGON — United States technicians are working with Vietnamese in the experimental use of rice husks in cement blocks to reduce house-building costs and increase insulation. In building an experimental house and using the husks and sawdust for this purpose, costs were cut 25 per cent.

Hal Boyle Says:

You Must Be Coy With Customs Inspectors

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the greatest mistakes made by the American Indians was their failure to set up customs posts all along the coast shortly after Columbus first landed.

Had they done so they could easily have checked the mass emigration from Europe to a dribble, and they'd still own most of the continent. But, no, they chose to fight the white man with weapons instead of the law's delays—and look what happened to them!

But the custom of customs inspection has spread now throughout the world. Half the ordeal of traveling abroad today lies in going through customs—or, rather, in waiting to go through.

The elements of the situation are always the same: The customs inspector tries as long as possible to keep you from entering his country; and you try to get past him and into the country as soon as possible.

There are a few tricks, however, which veteran travelers find sometimes speed them through the barriers.

Tell the customs man you are a secret courier from Washington, D.C., sent to expedite a loan to his country. To make it more plausible, offer to lend him a buck.

If you are in France, whisper that your wife is enciente. The French, who are crazy about motherhood, will rush her to a hospital—from which you can remove her to a hotel. If you want to attend the Folies Berger, you might even leave her in the hospital overnight.

Speaking just a few words of his native tongue is often helpful, as it shows the customs man you are really interested in his country. This doesn't work in Britain, however, where they distrust any Americans who speak English.

Never bribe a customs agent yourself to speed up his inquisition. Let your wife do it. It's cheaper. Women can always get more for less money.

Never brag you've got influence. They'll know you're lying. People with real influence don't have to announce it. It goes ahead of them—like waves.

Faint. When the customs agent picks you up, faint again. After he's picked you up several times, he'll be glad to stamp your baggage just to get rid of you.

Pretend you're in no real hurry. Open a bottle of wine and spread a picnic lunch. This strategem doesn't work well, however, in countries whose customs agents are poorly paid. They'll join in the feast and won't admit you to their country until the last crumb is gone.

Lie down on the pier and cry. There's something about a grown man in tears that softens even the heart of a customs agent.

Tell them you're a smuggler. This is admittedly a drastic step, but after all they can't take you to jail without first leeting you into the country.

After you've outwitted the customs agents of half a dozen foreign countries, comes the acid test—on your return home.

All travelers since Marco Polo have agreed that the toughest part of a trip abroad lies in getting ack into your own country when the trip is over.

College Grads Seek $$$ in Big Business

EAST LANSING (UPI) — The college graduate today goes with a big business firm "because he feels it offers him the most money," a business specialist said Tuesday.

Dr. Eugene E. Jennings, associate professor of business administration at Michigan State University, said many students are less interested in a profession and more in salary and that society "forces the young man to place a high premium on a large starting income."

Today's university is a "breeding ground for big business people," Jennings said and professors "concentrate their attention" on the big business firm.

Small firms have "an overpaid top structure" and other men in the small business trade top salary prospects for security. "The smaller firms seldom fire anybody," he said.

U.S. Rubber to Sell Chemicals in Italy

NEW YORK (AP) — United States Rubber Co. has teamed up with one of Italy's largest chemical firms to make and sell U.S. Rubber Co. chemicals in Italy.

The Italian partner is Rumianca Co. of Turin. A new company to be known as Naugatuck-Rumianca, S.P.A., will be formed to produce and market chemical products patented by U.S. Rubber's Naugatuck Chemical Division.

The new company will have headquarters in Turin and a manufacturing plant in Borgaro Torinese, a Turin suburb. Products will include accelerators and anti-oxidants for the rubber industry, agricultural chemicals and chemical specialties.

Inventor Gives Aid to Larceny on the Links

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — It is becoming increasingly difficult to cheat at golf.

This is not because one's competitors are more eagle-eyed than before, or because there is any less dishonesty in the soul of the average golfer.

COURSES CROWDED

It is purely a matter of time. Now that everybody and his grandchildren over seven have taken up the game, the public courses are so heavily trod that to pause — even long enough to nudge one's ball into a more opportune lie — is madness. It results, not only in verbal abuse from the foursome to the rear, but like as not in the sting of a drive to the derriere.

A man named Luther Morris of Decatur, Ga., proposes to solve this problem, however. He has designed a new type of golf course which should greatly contribute to larceny on the links. The patent was granted in Washington last week.

Morris's invention, which he claims is designed to save acreage and money for the owner of the grounds, is a golf course in which there are only three fairways.

Each fairway has only one tee, but it serves three holes.

Thus, a player drives three balls from the tee of fairway No. 1 toward three different greens — which are placed at varying distances from the tee. Cup No. 1 is closest; the No. 2 pin is located perhaps 100 yards further, an dto the right; No. 3 green is even farther down the line and to the right.

The inventor figures that after driving his three balls, a player can move onward quickly to hole out each of them in succession. By the time he has sunk his ball in the closest hole, and has used one stroke on each of the other two balls in play, he is allegedly far enough along the course so that the next group could tee off safely.

At the end of the first three holes, the player moves on to the second fairway, which serves holes No. 4, 5 and 6. Then on to fairway three, to drive ou tto greens 7, 8 and 9.

Morris's contention is that this will cut the requirement for a nine-hole course from 60 acres to about 25; and that the average golfer can play a round with half the time, and one-third the effort.

These practical elements aside, the scoring opportunities on such a course are almost too enormous to contemplate.

For erratic golfers, it is a dream course.

Since there is no rule requiring a "statement of intent" before making a drive, the player can conceivably spray his trio of blasts to all sides of the broad fairway — and still be in line for one green or another.

And when a foursome tees off, there wil lbe 12 balsl in play at one time. If, in the ensuing confusion and memory lapsing and bewilderment, a player cannot be profitably dishonest, he just isn't trying.

We predict that this delightful new golf course will raise morale and drop scores dramatically.

Trapped Over 2 Days in Closet, Woman Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A woman trapped for more than two days in a closet died last night.

Firemen used hacksaws to free 62-year-old Mrs. Ruby Hummingbird yesterday. Authorities said she apparently suffered a stroke and as she fell wedged between a folding bed and a closet wall. She lay helpless until discovered by a neighbor.

Mrs. Hummingbird, a quiltmaker, used the closet for sleeping after renting out her apartment bedrooms.

Blood temperature may be taken by a thermometer so small it may be pushed through a hollow needle which is inserted into a vein.

Commission Considers Proposal for Another Site on Telegraph

The city's stand against new trailer parks was being tested today.

City commissioners had under consideration a proposal that a new park be allowed to locate on a Telegraph road site just north of one of the two parks that exist within the city limits.

Attorneys representing the owners of the site asked the Commission last night to rezone the land and include it within a trailer park district.

Commissioners decided to hold off a decision until the proposal had been discussed informally.

The proposed site has 200 feet of frontage on Telegraph, and is backed on the east by the Clinton River. It lies just south of the northern end of the Orchard Lake road underpass.

In May, the Commission passed a new zoning ordinance that makes it impossible for a new trailer park to locate here without Commission approval. Any proposed trailer site must be rezoned by the Commission and included within a trailer park district.

GOP Conventions in Counties Tonight

LANSING (AP) — Republicans will gather in every county in Michigan tonight to pick delegates to their state convention at Grand Rapids Aug. 30.

Conventions on a county-wide basis will be held in 82 counties. In Wayne, congressional district conventions will be held.

Rank and filers will select 1,549 delegates and a like number of alternates to the convention.

The county voting will have significance beyond the state level since the state convention delegates will select Michigan delegates to the presidential nominating convention in 1960.

Paul D. Bagwell, Republican gubernatorial aspirant, will be the speaker at the Genesee County convention at Flint. Other top Republican spokesmen have been assigned to speak at meetings in the various other counties.

Genesee Board Bars Incorporation Question

FLINT (AP)—The Genesee County Board of Supervisors has rejected a proposal to put the incorporation of Flint with adjoining governmental units on the November election ballot.

Supporters of the proposal, however, say they will carry a fight to the State Supreme Court.

By a vote of 23-13, the board yesterday refused to put the proposal on the ballot. The proposal is to incorporate Flint, Mount Morris, Grand Blanc and all or parts of eight adjoining townships into a new city.

The board's legislative committee recommended it be placed on the ballot. The board, however, overruled its attorney's opinion that requirements of the law had been met.

City Ordinance on Vendors Appealed

Ice Cream Test Case Opens

Cooling 10-cent ice cream bars would have made a big hit in Judge H. Russel Holland's courtroom yesterday.

"Despite the fact we're talking about ice cream," Judge Holland said, telling the men in the room to shed their coats, "it doesn't cool us off any."

The judge sat through a hot 90-degree day of testimony in the test case of Pontiac's controversial ice cream peddling ordinance. There were no free samples.

City attorney William A. Ewart battled with Southfield attorney Paul W. Harty whether Pontiac has the right to require vendors to carry an assistant on trucks to protect the safety of young children.

Harty, counsel for Sam "Mickey" Wineman, vendor in Pontiac since 1954, said this is an unconstitutional provision. Ewart argued it was legal.

Wineman, 54, of 19320 Schaffer St., Detroit, volunteered in May to serve as a "guinea pig" and violate this requirement in order that an appeal could be made to Circuit Court. The appeal began yesterday.

Harty, in his brief opening statement, contended the law is an "unreasonable exercise of police powers." Earlier he charged the city was "pressured" into passing the new act in 1955 by business people who found street vendors too much competition.

The case was recessed until today so that Harty could produce witnesses "to show the care my client takes when he sells to kids."

"I have them trained," Wineman said on the stand. "Every child knows my stops . . . they know they have to wait at the curb until I pull up."

A further witness, Sol Greenwald, another Detroit peddler who sells in Pontiac, testified "the safety of those children is a lot more important than that dime."

It was Greenwald who protested an old peddling ordinance in 1954 which ruled out all selling from trucks. Judge Frank L. Doty ruled this law unconstitutional.

Questioned also yesterday was former city commissioner John E. Carry.

Second Place Cash Hope of Tigers

Bengals Start Long Road Trip Against Tribe

Detroit Now 2 Games Behind Second-Place White Sox

DETROIT (UPI) — Still in the running for second place money—and approximately $2,000 per player or more is nothing to sneeze at — the Detroit Tigers left today on a three-week trip of the circuit.

The Bengals, who open the journey tonight with a twi-night doubleheader in Cleveland, "vaulted" over the Indians into fourth place last night thanks to the inept fielding of Kansas City's Hector Lopez and Gail Harris' timely two-run homer.

The 7-6 decision over the Athletics was an important one for Detroit. If left the Tigers with a 54-55 record and two games behind the second-place Chicago White Sox.

Since finishing above .500 probably will mean a first division berth in the "Yankee League," the victory put the Tigers in striking range. A loss would have put them at 53-56 and needing three victories to reach .500.

"You can't expect to go anywhere until you hit .500," skipper Bill Norman said, expounding his No. 1 rule of thumb.

Herb Moford (2-4) and Paul Foytack (8-10) were given the nod by Norman to face rookie Gary Bell (6-5) and knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm (2-5).

The Tigers had to rally three times to pull out last night's contest which closed a long home stand. They were 12-10 against the Eastern and Western clubs.

Harris decided it with a shot high into the second deck in right off reliefer Dick Tomanek in the seventh after Al Kaline doubled for his first hit in 17 tries.

The clout, which gave Harris the club leadership with 12 to Kaline's 11, boosted the Tiger lead to 7-5. Kansas City pushed over a run in the eighth on Harry Chiti's double and pinch-hitter Frank House's single.

Kansas City routed Frank Lary in the second. Roger Maris singled home Bill Tuttle, who had doubled, for one run in the first and when Lary issued a bases-loaded walk to Whitey Herzog to put the A's in front 2-0, Al Cicotte took over.

Witt Blanks Braves, 10-0; Bucs Only 5 Games Behind

Pirates Win 6th Straight

By the Associated Press

Just when Milwaukee's world champs looked to have that National League pennant race under control, up pops Pittsburgh to upset the Braves' breeze as the Bucs blow up a storm.

The Pirates, usually stone cold dead at this stage, ran their winning spurt to six games, took over second place and trimmed Milwaukee's lead to five games last night by beating the Braves 10-0.

Rookie right-hander George Witt blanked the champs on two hits, although it wasn't as easy as it sounds. It was his second successive shutout and gave the Bucs a sweep of the two-game series at Pittsburgh.

St. Louis skidded San Francisco to third by beating the Giants 7-3. Cincinnati belted Philadelphia 12-4 and the Chicago Cubs smacked Los Angeles 9-3.

Witt had to struggle for his sixth victory until Frank Thomas unloaded his 29th homer with a man on in the sixth off loser Bob Rush (6-5). The Bucs then put it away with eight in the eighth. Witt had little trouble with the Braves, however, after the second inning, but the second was a pip.

Frank Torre lifted a pop fly to left that fell for a double and the Braves' first hit when BobSkinner lost it in the lights. Then Witt, who walked four, hit Johnny Logan with a pitch, loading the bases with one out. Rush then bunted, Witt scooped up the ball and flipped to catcher Danny Kravitz for a home-to-first doubleplay. in his third run with a double, and Skinner tripled home two.

It was the biggest inning of the season for the Bucs, who have won 17 of their last 22 as they open a 19-game road trip at Philadelphia tonight. The trek ends with a three-game series at Milwaukee.

The Cards made it eight out of nine by overcoming a 3-2 Giants lead with a pair of unearned runs in the seventh. Sam Jones won his 10th, fanning seven but walking eight while matching loser Mike McCormick's six-hit job. Gene Green each drove in two runs for the Cards who had lost four in a row at San Francisco.

Jim Bolger hit a two-run triple and Lee Walls socked a two-run homer as the Cubs scored five runs in the third at Los Angeles. Walls also hit a solo homer in the ninth, his 23rd of the season and sixth in five games at the Coliseum. He hit only six all last year. Dick Drott won his fifth, giving up Gil Hodges' two-run, 16th homer in the fourth, with relief help. Danny McDevitt (1-5) lost it.

The Redlegs bagged it with a six-run sixth, capped by Bob Thurman's three-run double, at Philadelphia. Tom Acker gave up eight hits for his first victory. It was his third complete game in a three-year career — all winners against the Phils—and he had a three-hit shutout until the seventh, when Chico Fernandez hit a two-run double. Wally Post hit a two-run pinch homer in the ninth for the Phils, while Frank Robinson hit his 21st homer for the Reds.

HE WAS SAFE — It looked like a sure tag, but Tiger second baseman Frank Bolling was ruled safe on this play even though Kansas City third baseman Hal Smith has the ball in his glove. It was a triple for Bolling. The Tigers won, 7-6.

HOT BUT HAPPY — Youthful George Witt covers his red head with a cool towel after he pitched a 2-hitter to give the Pirates a 10-0 victory over the Milwaukee Braves last night. The freckled righthander has now pitched two successive shutouts.

Mantle Sets Homer Pace as Yanks Thump Orioles

By the Associated Press

An uniquely healthy Mickey Mantle, finally busting into the American League home run lead, suddenly has a shot at joining Babe Ruth, Jimmy Foxx and Ralph Kiner as the only sluggers ever to twice hit 50 or more home runs in one season.

The Oklahoma strong boy with the legs of clay still has a long way to go (he needs 17 in 41 games for 50), but he's come a long way, too, after a sour spring. He's hit 29 home runs since June 1, breaking loose from a tie with Boston's Jackie Jensen and Washington's Roy Sievers yesterday by hitting his 33rd as the New York Yankees beat Baltimore 7-2.

The Chicago White Sox, 15 games behind New York, broke a second place tie with Boston by defeating Cleveland 4-1, and Detroit outlasted Kansas City 7-6 in the other AL games.

Mantle, generally hobbled by bad legs as the season nears an end, apparently got his miseries out of the way early this time. A sore shoulder, among other troubles, left him with only four homers through Memorial Day. In 1956, when he hit 52 and swept the Triple Crown, he was near Ruth's record-60 pace of 1927 when his legs gave out. He hit only five home runs in September—the month Ruth slugged 17 in 1927. Last season, Mantle had leg troubles virtually all the way and he hit only 34, none after August. Sievers won the title with 42.

Early Wynn (10-12), who had lost his last four decisions, won his third in a row over his former Indian mates while Jim Landis drove in three runs for the White Sox. Minnie Minoso gave the Tribe a 1-1 tie with his 17th home run in the second inning, but the Sox bagged it with a sixth-inning run on Ron Jackson's sacrifice fly for their eighth success in 10 games. Jim Grant (9-9) was the loser.

Homer Barrage Features 26-11 Commerce Win

Jackie Thrasher, Verlyn Dawson and Jo Ann Tibbetts each smashed home runs last night as Commerce Drive-in massacred Pursley Ambulance, 26-11, in a women's City League softball game at North Side Park.

Commerce collected 20 hits with Dawson getting four of them. Grusnick blasted a two-run homer for Pursley, which was able to field only eight players.

The All-Stars whitewashed Smith's Service, 16-0, in a three-inning women's exhibition contest, also at North Side. Gerry Bender hurled a one-hitter and made three safe blows herself to pace a 13-hit offense.

In men's exhibition play at Beaudette, the Soorts Shop hammered out an 8-2 win over the Lakeside Royals behind the five-hit pitching of Alvah Webster.

Boys Club 9-3 Victor in Shortened Contest

Pontiac Boys Club, regular season winner of the Class B City League baseball race, tuned up for the playoffs which start Thursday by drubbing Talbott Lumber, 9-3, in yesterday's loop game at Jaycee Park. Darkness halted play after five innings.

Bill Hayward and Del Chavez each cracked home runs and Jerry Dennis socked two singles to spark the winner's eight-hit attack off Talbott pitcher Marv Holler. Jerry Pointer hurled a five-hitter for Boys Club.

Pine Lake Has 6th Ace

Mrs. June Dearing yesterday became the 6th person to score a hole-in-one at Pine Lake Country Club this year when she aced the par three 170-yard 4th hole with her driver. Witnesses were her husband, Clyde Dearing, and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Sloman. Mrs. Dearing shot 93 for 18 holes, the best score of her golfing career.

Elks Win Softball Opener, 3-0

Boys Club Advances in Class F Baseball

Both success and failure greeted Pontiac teams Tuesday in opening rounds of district baseball and softball tournaments on city diamonds.

Pontiac Boys Club sent two into the single-elimination Junior District baseball playoffs at Jaycee Park with the Class F squad coming out on top and the Midget team falling by the wayside.

Elks No. 810, behind the stellar pitching of Lynus Grant, advanced a notch in the double-knockout District Class A softball tournament with a 3-0 decision over Mt. Clemens at Beaudette Park.

The Class F Boys Club moved into the semifinals with a 14-3 rout of Roseville. Darryl Thorpe hurled one-hit ball for the BC nine while Dick Smith and Pete Vasquez each made two safeties to lead an eight-hit assault against three Roseville pitchers.

Boys Club held a 10-0 lead after 2½ innings and Thorpe just coasted to victory. The winners met Center Line this morning and East Detroit, which chalked up a 4-1 win over St. Clair Shores yesterday, faced Saginaw in today's other "F" semifinal. Dave Thompson socked a two-run homer to pace the Detroit triumph.

East Detroit's Midget representative eliminated the Boys Club, 8-7, in a see-saw battle. Pontiac blew a lead three times and the Detroiters won the game in the bottom of the 7th inning with back-to-back singles and a stolen base.

Tom Zink, who relieved starter Ron Wilkenson in the 5th, was the losing pitcher. Pontiac evened the count at 7-7 with one run in the top of the 7th, only to see the Detroiters tally once to win it after two were out. Milford Hillie homered in defeat.

East Detroit was slated to meet Center Line and Saginaw met Roseville in this morning's Midget semifinals at Columbia-Joslyn.

The Elks scored one run in the 2nd inning, which would have been enough to win for the strong-armed Grant, but they added two insurance runs in the 7th. Grant didn't walk a man and limited the Mt. Clemens club to three scattered singles.

Southfield, which drew a bye, meets the Elks tonight on the Beaudette diamond at 7 o'clock. Mt. Clemens waits to play the loser Thursday evening while the winner advances to the final round.

Cranbrook faces St. Clair Shores this afternoon in the two-team Junior District Class D baseball playoff. The victor goes to Jackson next Monday.

Detroit Farm Pads Lead

WICHITA, Kans. (UPI) — The Charleston Senators, Detroit's top minor league farm club, last night stretched their American Association lead to six games with a twi-night doubleheader sweep of Wichita, the defending league champion.

Jerry Davie pitched a two-hitter in the seven-inning opener to take a 2-0 decision although Charleston also was held to two hits. But one of them was a homer by Stan Palys who was with Detroit briefly in spring training.

Don Lee hurled a five-hitter in the nightcap with Tom Yewcic and Ron Samford belting homers for the Senators to put their league lead at six games over Denver, the New York Yankees' farm club, and eight-and-a-half over Wichita, the Milwaukee Braves' top club.

Crawford in Return Match With Ortega

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Crawford, the painter-fighter, gets his chance tonight to do a retouch job on Gaspar Ortega.

Mickey blotched his first canvas, as it were, when he lost a controversial 10-round split decision to Ortega July 11 in Madison Square Garden.

The 24-year old from Saginaw, Mich., promises to "bring all my paint brushes" to the same Garden ring tonight.

"He'll get hit so many left jabs he won't know whether he's fighter or a retouched Rembrandt."

The scrap will be nationally televised over ABC starting at 9 p.m. EST. It will be scored on a round basis.

Arthurs, Looney Tops

Those blind holes in Silver Lake Women's golf league play are proving easy during August, with another tie, with 5s, turned in yesterday. Day's leaders were Mrs. Elbert Looney with 52 low gross and Pearl Arthurs with 36 net for the first flight.

Pearl Arthurs, Mrs. Loren Aris and Ms. Harroun tied on the blind hole (No. 2), and Mrs. Aubyn Coops and Mrs. Leonard Billig each had 16 putts for low.

Second flight leaders were Mrs. Cliff Andrews with net 33 and Mrs. Lloyd Farley gross 64.

Rolladium 9 in Finals

Pontiac Rolladium earned the right to meet Lakeland Pharmacy in the finals of the Waterford Junior League softball playoffs by scoring a 9-7 triumph over Nu-Brite Plating yesterday. The title game is slated tonight at Drayton Plains. In the "B" division of the Little League playoffs, Berg Cleaners forfeited to Ruth & Sybil's Draperies.

Spencer vs. Hubert for Playoff Crown

Spencer Floor Covering meets Hubert Wall's Service tonight at 8 o'clock at Drayton Plains for the championship of the Waterford National League softball playoffs.

The two teams moved into the final round last night with identical 11-1 wins in games stopped after 5½ innings by the league's 10-run rule.

John Herrington homered and Chuck Kirken and pitcher Jack Nelson each garnered three hits to spark Spencer's easy victory over the Arrows. Nelson gave up four hits.

Gene Neeley made three safeties and Glenn Sheffield hurled a four-hitter as Hubert Wall's eliminated the team sponsored by brother Jim.

5 Homers in Church Loop

Five home runs, two of them grand-slammers, featured Tuesday's action in the Pontiac Church Softball League as Church of the Brethren defeated First Baptist, 5-2; Trinity Baptist outscored the Salvation Army, 13-9, and Columbia Avenue Baptist thumped Liberty Baptist, 15-8.

George Thrasher hit a two-run homer for Brethren, Joe Hatchett socked a three-run circuit clout and Herb Smullins made a solo round-tripper for Trinity, and Columbia's Jim Wheatley and Jake Ramig of the Salvation Army each hit grand-slammers. Mason Peace and Rusty Lund made four hits apiece for Columbia.

Kraus Team Wins Golf Tournament

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Kraus combined for a score of 63 to win Pine Lake Country Club's annual Husband-and-Wife Best-Ball golf tournament.

The team of Mr. and Mrs. John Driver shot a 64 to capture 2nd place and Mr. and Mrs. Vern Hodges took 3rd spot with a 65.

Midwest Regionals Next Stop for Birmingham LL

Next stop for Birmingham, the Michigan Little League baseball champion is Naperville, Ill. for the Midwest regionals which will send the winner to the National tournament in Williamsport, Pa., the following week.

Jerry Kurz, a pitcher who had not seen any action in several previous tournament games, started the game in the 10th inning yesterday against Elyria, the Ohio champion, and came through with the 6-5 victory at Ypsilanti.

The game was called after nine innings Monday because of darkness and Birmingham had used up its three regular pitchers.

Kurtz pitched three scoreless innings and himself added a single in the 12th when Dave Kaloc-say scored the winning run.

Doctoring Your Golf

By DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF

PATIENT'S COMPLAINT: "There's Something Lacking in My Swing!"

DIAGNOSIS: Elbows Pointing Out and Far Apart.

TREATMENT: An important but frequently overlooked refinement of the swing is the position of the elbows at address. You should bring them as close together as is comfortably possible, and make certain that both point toward your right hip. Never let either elbow point outward.

The idea behind this is to get the two arms working as a unit. This adds a cohesive quality to the swing, and makes it much easier for you to swing the same way and makes it much easier for you to swing the same way each time.

I refer to this elbow business as a "refinement" because it's hardly a fundamental of the swing. Nevertheless it's highly important. Sometimes you may feel that you are carrying out all of the fundamentals, and still not hitting the ball right. Getting the elbows close together may easily be the one thing lacking in that case.

Still Chance for Big Ones

Press Fishing 'Derby' on Last Lap

August's "dog-days" should make little difference in the activity among area fishermen, with hopes of capturing one of the three $50 United States Savings Bonds in The Press "Big Fish Derby." It takes just a little more application to the business of getting the "big ones" to bite. And there is still plenty of time in which to move in on the current leaders.

Contest, which began June 21, has a little less than three weeks left. It closes on Labor Day, Sept. 1, and the winners will be announced Wednesday, Sept. 3. Entries of fish taken Labor Day must be filed not later than 12 o'clock, noon, Sept. 2.

The division in which the best opportunity remains for a new leader is for bluegills. Current leaders (three are tied) are one-pounders.

A new top fish in the bass division is the 6-pound, 8½-ounce largemouth lunker, taken by Mrs. Lyle (Noreen) Roglitz of White Lake township. This entry shoved a 6-pound, four-ounce fish caught by Roger Snelling of Rochester, out of the picture.

The northern pike division is led by a 11½-pounder.

Mrs. Roglitz' husky bronzeback was taken last Saturday, on a fishing effort that came about in a very casual way. Mrs. Roglitz and her neighbor and friend, Mrs. Tom (Mary) Stumpf, were having a cup of coffee at a White Lake boat livery, where a few days previously Noreen had landed a 3-pound smallmouth.

"Why don't we go fishing and get a big one," Noreen suggested. "OK," replied Mary. They hired a boat, were out only a short time when the big one struck.

"He didn't fight nearly as much as the little 3-pounder I caught first of the week," Noreen explained. "We just horsed it into the boat, but almost let it get away when the hook came out as we dragged the bass into the boat."

"People at the livery told us about the contest in The Press, so we hurried right down." The fish was still kicking when the excited pair arrived for a picture.

Pontiac Press Photo

Includes Boats Under 16-Feet

Number All Outboards

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Commerce Committee has approved a House-passed bill to require registration of all motorboats with more than 7½ horsepower motors. It would include outboards under 16-feet previously excluded from the Federal numbering act.

The bill requires each owner to number his boat in accordance with a state numbering system meeting certain federal standards. If the state does not have such a system the coast guard handles the certification. The bill carries a $50 fine for violators.

Nearly two billion dollars were estimated to have been spent at retail levels for new and used pleasure boats last year by an estimated 30 million persons. There were an estimated seven million recreational boats in use last year, most of them under 16 feet.

His Biggest Pike

A 24-inch, 4½-pound that grabbed a minnow on Navy Jackson's (327 Wessen) fishing line, Monday was Navy's biggest fish of the year.

Navy and Tom Gray were fishing with cane poles, in Crystal Lake: "I just heaved that pike into the boat" Navy reported.

Resorters Move Northward

August Is Boom Period

By JACK PATTERSON

The other day L. H. Cole suggested that something inspiring be written about the up-north country because he thought he could be prodded into a trip if he had something to stir him up a little, and anyway he could use a rest. Without passing judgment on whether or not Louie needs relaxation it's certain that he's spent enough time in northern woods and on northern waters not to need any urging. And apparently that's the case with a lot of other people, because August is turning into a boom period in resort areas, which gives the lie to dour prophets of recession.

PATTERSON

The keening and wailing of resort operators which characterized the early summer is no longer heard in our land. People are on the move these days, and in traditional August fashion, the move is northward.

Dominant feature of the northern landscape these hot August days is a paradoxical combination of luxuriant foliage which suggests abundant rainfall and drying-up lakes which bespeak of a sustained drouth. Best bet for reconciling these irregularities is to go along with the theory that spring and summer rains govern foliage and winter snows dictate lake levels.

Whatever the reason, lakes are low, an example being Houghton which is, according to Thad Verhine, some three and a half feet below normal. Take three feet or so out of Houghton and you don't have much water left, since even in a wet year the deep holes scarcely come up to the chin of an average Texan.

Great Lakes are extremely low, too, and we'd better get our pipeline into Lake Huron before what's left of the Great Lakes disappears down the Chicago Drainage Canal.

The lush foliage in the north has an exception in oak trees, which took a beating from late frosts, and had to grow a new set of leaves. They still aren't up to summer normal. At least, late frosts are the culprits so far as we are concerned, but this opinion is not universal. "Ain't frosts, its walking sticks, that's what raised the devil with the oak trees" offered an antique member of the An Sable Guides.

"Walking sticks," otherwise known as praying mantises, are those odd mechanized twigs that prey on lesser insects.

Talking of August sooner or later some spoilsport brings up the subpect of fishing. Not that fishing isn't good in August, but it takes more skill on the part of the fisherman to produce. Fishermen don't like to be reminded of this.

WAGONER, Okla. (AP) — Fishermen in this area of eastern Oklahoma may still attend church and fish on Sunday. The Rev. Bill Greene of the Christian Church has started 8:30 a.m. service at which men are invited to come attired in their fishing garb.

Little Stories About Outdoors

During a recent pleasant vacation tour through the Colorado Rocky Mountain country, writer of this column was informed that the splendid new United States Air Force Academy, near Colorado Springs, would be declared a game refuge. The more than 17,000 acres of the service school site will be closed to all hunting and fishing starting with the dedication, set for early in 1959. No game or fish may be taken until the wildlife population becomes too large for the area to support.

Michigan state parks are attracting more and more campers, where such facilities are available. Camping has continued a record pace for attendance during July (through July 20) with 55,266 persons, compared with 46,107 for the same period a year ago. Oakland County's parks have absorbed considerable of this total.

When no woodland fires were reported for the 6-county Michigan area that includes Oscoda, Crawford, Alcona, Iosco, Ogemaw and Roscommon counties for a recent week's period, conservation men were delighted. This area embraces the heavily used Au Sable, Manistee and other trout streams, and this year had suffered the most severe fire losses—with 3,119 acres damaged.

List 100 in PKC Show

Preparations were practically complete today for the annual fall all-breed dog show of the Pontiac Kennel club. The event takes place Sunday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on the Waterford High School Athletic Field. Site is located at intersection of Crescent Lake and M-59 highways.

The site is a new one, and there is certain to be a new top-dog this year. Last year's interesting "best-in-show" was a splendid Basset hound, Ch. Siefenjajenheim Lazy Bones. Bones will not appear again in the PKC show, although there is no ruling against a previous show winner making the grade again. It just simply hasn't happened that way in any Pontiac Kennel Club fall show. Bones is owned by Chris Teeter of Birmingham.

The Pontiac Press awards the best-in-show trophy again this year.

Oakland county entries dominate the lists, show officials said today, with more than 100 dogs from the metropolitan area swelling the entries from Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and other states to more than 500. A number of eastern state dogs are among the entries, including several from Pennsylvania.

PKC members abstain from placing any of their dogs in competition in this unbenched show, and obedience trials.

Working dog division comprises the largest single group of entries, with 146. Next in line is the sporting group, with 144. Altogether 63 different breeds are represented, including all the usual types and many odd numbers, such as the "butterfly dog" (pappilon) and the Egyptian Salukis.

The popular boxer leads all breeds among the entries with 39, followed by 38 cocker spaniels, another popular dog, with great Danes next with 32.

All-Stars Plan to Attack by Air

Graham Unsure Who Will Start at Quarterback

King Hill of Rice May Get Nod Against Lions Friday Night

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO (AP) — Will it be King Hill of Rice, Ray Brown of Mississippi, Tom Forrestall of Navy or Jim Ninowski of Michigan State?

That's the lineup of All-Star quarterbacks for the big game against Detroit's Lions Friday night at Soldier Field.

And if the All-Stars hope to win, they'll need a sharp field general to manipulate the job.

Otto Graham, former Northwestern University star and later the quarterback who led the Cleveland Browns to numerous professional football titles, has not announced his starting lineup.

But it's a good bet that King Hill of Rice will be the quarterback. If not Hill, then it's anyone's guess. Graham says he'll play a wide open game which, at best, means a lot of passing.

"You can't run through the pros," says Graham. So maybe he's hoping his team can pass its way to victory.

Graham played with winning All-Star teams in 1943 and again in 1946. He has played pro football to the point of knowing what his collegians must do.

The All-Stars have a line that averages 234 pounds from tackle to tackle. They're well fortified up front and have the horses, if needed, in the backfield.

But since Graham is the coach, and he knows what it takes to beat the pros, he'll probably have his quarterbacks pitching to his halfbacks.

Graham is satisfied with his team's showing in drills and insists that it takes a lot of desire to beat the champions of the National Football League.

"The pros should win," says Otto, but somehow, somewhere, lurks the idea that his All-Stars might surprise the Lions in the 25th anniversary of the contest.

The game will be broadcast and televised nationally by ABC at 8:30 p.m. EST.

Both teams will employ free substitution. There will be no test of the new collegiate conversion rule which provides for two points on a run or pass as against one point for the conventional kick for an extra point.

Wilson Wants 'Hungry' Team Friday

Lions Relax at Drills

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

All workouts have simmered down and the Lions are now just going through the motions in preparation for Friday night's clash with the college All-Stars in Chicago.

Coach George Wilson eliminated drills this morning and said an afternoon workout today and early tomorrow would be relatively easy.

"We can't kill the desire in them to play football. They looked bad on Monday, but they've worked hard and we will taper off now to make them hungry for action," said Wilson.

Wilson who believes that in pro ball a player should be able to move into more than one position, did some experimenting yesterday.

He used guard Bill Glass at center and had Charley Ane back at tackle temporarily.

It was a move designed to give Glass some experience at another position as a precautionary measure.

Unmoved by the threat of All-Star coach Otto Graham that the collegians will open up the game through the airlanes, Wilson will have the Lions' veteran defensive backfield of Jack Christiansen, Yale Lary, Jimmy David and Carl Karilivacz as a starting unit with Terry Barry, Gary Lowe and rookies Dave Whitsell and Jim Wagstaff as another unit.

In the offensive backfield, rookie Danny Lewis of Wisconsin will make his debut with the Lions and he is expected to see plenty of action.

The Lions will fly into Chicago Thursday afternoon and make headquarters at the Edgewater Beach Hotel.

NFL NOTES: Pat Burke, captain of the 1957 MSU squad, left the New York Giants training camp yesterday. The Giants also asked waivers on five rookies, end Billy Lumpkin, tackle George Kurker, center Lou Pitney, linebacker Jerry Goebel from Michigan, and center Charles Hansen of Tulane . . . The Los Angeles Rams have lost the services of defensive end Paul Miller for the season. He will undergo surgery of the back this week . . . The Rams will have Bill Wade, replacement for Norm Van Brocklin who is now with the Eagles, starting at quarterback against the Redskins Saturday night before an expected 80,000 fans.

Star 'Stunned' by Suspension

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — Tennis star Mervyn Rose made plans today to return to Australia to explain the situation that has caused his indefinite suspension by the Lawn Tennis Assn. of Australia.

"I am stunned," Rose said yesterday after it was announced in Melbourne that the veteran Aussie player had been set down for failing to furnish information concerning expenses on an overseas tour.

"Rose has not been declared a professional," said LTAA President Don Ferguson. "However, we can see no excuse for his not giving us the details we want, so he has lost his status."

Wings Add Five to Fold

DETROIT (UPI) — Detroit Red Wing's general manager Jack Adams announced today that five more players have signed contracts for the 1958-59 National Hockey League season which begins in two months.

This brings to 21 the number of players signed for the upcoming season, including 12 regulars, he said. The only member of last year's Red Wings unheard from is all-star defenseman Marcel Pronovost.

Pete Goegan, 24, who played 14-games at defense for Detroit after being acquired from Cleveland last February, heads the list of recent signers.

Goegan, who got a pair of assists while with the Wings, scored six-goals and 17-assists for 23-points in 55 starts for the Barons in the American League.

Centers Len Lunde, 21, and Jerry Melnyk, 23, and right wing Chuck Holmes, 23, all of whom played last season with Detroit's Edmonton farm club, also came to terms through the mails.

The flashy Edmonton trio scored 84 goals and 201 points in 1957-58. Lunde led the way with 39 scores and 82 points.

Gene Achtymichuk, a 25-year-old center purchased from the Montreal organization in June, also agreed with his first Detroit pact.

Achtymichuk, with the Quebec league's Montreal Royals for 54 games last year, also was with the parent Canadiens for 16 contests. He accounted for three-goals and five assists while in the National League.

Buc Pilot Would Like Hometown Fans on Trip

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Manager Danny Murtaugh would like nothing better than to take a ballpark full of rabid Pittsburgh Pirate fans on the 19-game road trip that starts today.

But he wouldn't swap George Witt for even that much help. Not after the redheaded young righthander's pitching feat of handcuffing Milwaukee last night.

"The Forbes Field crowds help us play better ball," enthused Murtaugh after the Pirates crushed the National League-leading Braves 10-0 before 36,867 wildly screaming fans.

The victory moved the Pirates to within five games of the National League leaders.

San Francisco's loss last night gave the astounding Pirates sole possession of second place.

Looking at the records, one would have to agree.

The Pirates have won 16 of the last 18 games at Forbes Field, including all six of the short home stand which ended last night.

Pittsburgh has copped 17 of its last 22 games and currently is rising a six-game winning streak, including the two-game sweep over the Braves.

The Pirates open the road trip tonight against the Philadelphia Phillies, return to Forbes Field Sept. 1 for an 18-day home stand.

"We're looking at this road trip optimistically," Danny said. "It's going to be rough. Any road trip is tough. A loyal crowd helps the home club.

"If we're within striking distance of the pennant when we come back, you'll have to concede us a chance. Nobody is surrendering to Milwaukee."

Tourneys Settle Horseshoe Titles

Divisional tourneys this week determined four championships for the Waterford Township Recreation horseshoe league, and these top shoe tossers will now test their skill against Pontiac's recreation champs. This climaxing match has been set for next Monday night (Aug. 18) at Oakland Park's pits.

Waterford's tourneys wound up township league action in three divisions, as follows:

Class A — Tom Piersall of Drayton Plains defeated seven other contestants, including the runner-up, John Stenquist 60-38.

Class B — Julius Vargo defeated Charles Garvin after wading through a field of nine. Score was 66-58.

Class C — Paul Beckwith won the title with 33 points to 27 for Earl Adams. There were five contenders in the field.

Oakley won the league doubles honors without tourney action. George Gleason and Clayton Whitman lost the final match 60-37.

Horseshoes program at Waterford ran for 10 weeks, with all events held under the lights. Winners and runnersup received trophies.

Steel Market Improves Despite Price Hikes

NEW YORK (AP) — The steel market continues to improve despite the recent rise in prices, th Iron Age, national metalworking weekly, said today.

"If the current trend continues, August may be as good a month as June, when order books were swelled by hedging against the coming price boost," Iron Age declared. "At worst, August will be second only to June. A still further pickup is seen in September when automotive orders will really begin to take hold."

The weekly cautioned that while the metalworking industry has seen the worst of its recession, it isn't out of the woods yet.

Grain Futures Market Firmer

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market firmed up somewhat in early dealings today after an irregular opening on the Board of Trade.

Prices appeared, however, to be lifted more by speculative buying rather than any general demand although Brazil was authorized by the Department of Agriculture over night to buy 300,000 tons of U. S. wheat to be paid for in Brazilian currency.

Activity was slow and offerings were liberal on the bulges.

Wheat was ⅛ to ⅜ cent a bushel higher near the end of the first hour, September $1.84⅝; corn ⅛ to ⅝ higher, September $1.28; oats unchanged to ⅛ lower, September 63¼; rye unchanged to ¼ higher, September $1.24⅜; soybeans ⅛ 59½ higher, September $2.23⅞; lard 3 cents a hundred lbs. higher to 10 cents lower, September $12.50.

Mart Pulls Out of Early Lows

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market pulled out of a small decline and became mixed in the early afternoon today.

The improvement came after President Eisenhower presented a six-point Middle East program to the United Nations.

Changes were generally in fractions. A few special situations moved in a wide range.

Trading was quiet except for a brief spell when Wall Street responded to the President's talk. His program called for an economic development organization for the Arab world and a standby U.N. force. Some brokers said Wall Street liked the way Eisenhower stood firm.

Airlines, tobaccos, motors and metals were a shade higher. Steels and oils were irregular and aircrafts were lower.

Schering rose about a point after announcing a new drug for treatment of hay fever and asthma.

General Precision dropped around 3 after failing to act on a common dividend.

American Motors, most active stock the last four days, got a good play near the start, rising a fraction. Minute Maid and Loew's continued active, both up slightly.

Pan American World Airways, Allied Chemical and Lorillard were ahead major fractions.

Up ½ point or so were Chrysler, Kennecott, Merck and Eastern Air Lines.

He Walks Out of Court as Other Case Ends

WEST NEW YORK (AP)—Paul Case, 42, listened absently in Magistrate's Court while another action was disposed of prior to his scheduled arraignment on an assault and battery charge.

When the court clerk boomed out "Case dismissed!" he came out of his reverie, got up and left the court.

Police rearrested him near his home.

Stamp Dealer Indicted by U.S.

Accused of Smuggling Products Into Country From Red China

NEW YORK (AP)—A top American stamp dealer is accused of smuggling thousands of dollars worth of stamps from Red China.

The dealer, Kurt Weishaupt of Queens, was indicted in Brooklyn Federal Court yesterday under the Federal Trading With the Enemy Act.

He is scheduled to plead next Tuesday. If found guilty, he would face a possible maximum sentence of 40 years in prison and $40,000 in fines.

The six-count indictment charges the 45-year-old dealer imported the stamps from Shanghai between November 1953 and February 1957.

An unidentified American naval officer stationed in Japan was said to have tipped federal authorities to the operation.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Warren M. Deutsch said more than two million stamps were seized in Weishaupt's home. He reportedly paid more than $33,000 for them.

Weishaupt, a former president of the American Stamp Dealers Assn., was said to have sold smuggled stamps at 100 per cent profit.

The naval officer told authorities last year that Communist Chinese stamps were being sold at a concession at Gimbels department store.

Neither Gimbels nor the concessionaire was named in the indictment. Deutsch said they had cooperated fully in the investigation.

Treasury agents reported tracing $33,394 sent by Weishaupt to his alleged source, a Shanghai firm named the Oriento Stamp Co.

The stamps assertedly were shipped in small parcels to members of Weishaupt's family. They forwarded the packages to him, Deutsch said, on being advised the stamps were worthless.

Victim Not Angry With Hit-Run Driver

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Ebenezer Dunlap, 76, was crossing the street last night on his way to a restaurant when he was struck by a car.

The driver didn't stop and neither did Dunlap. He picked himself up and went to dinner. A witness called police.

Dunlap said he had only a scratched knee and didn't want medical treatment.

Police found the car. Its owner, Delaney Gross, told police his son Henry, 19, had been driving it. Henry admitted striking Dunlap, officers said.

But Dunlap refused to prosecute.

"I've lived my life and I want this boy to live his," he told police.

Henry was released.

Professor to Take $5,000 Into Russia

BOSTON (AP)—Prof. Harold J. Berman of Harvard Law School has an unusual assignment—to deliver $5,000 behind the Iron Curtain.

An expert on Soviet law, Berman was appointed by Probate Judge Edmund V. Keville to serve as a courier.

The $5,000 was left by Jacob Paulink, a Boston house painter who died in 1953, to a niece in the Ukraine, Paraskeva Homaruk. Until Judge Keville's decision, the courts had held up the legacy because there was no guarantee the money would reach the niece.

Berman will take the legacy to the U. S. Embassy in Moscow. The niece will have to go there to get it.

Resume Deliberations on River Rouge Mayor

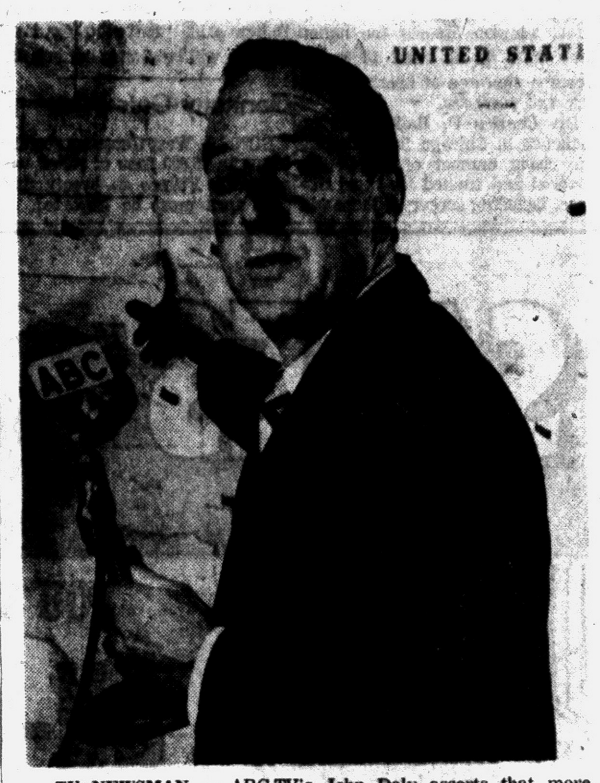

DETROIT (AP) — A Circuit Court jury resumed deliberations today in the conspiracy and bribery trial of six-time River Rouge Mayor M. Warren Duncan.

The one man, 11 woman jury met for nearly three hours yesterday but was sent home for the night by Circuit Judge Lila M. Neuenfelt when it failed to reach a verdict.

Duncan, 56, is accused of taking a $2,000 bribe from a Redford Township firm in return for his vote in River Rouge City Council balloting on a move to buy a $23,000 crane from the firm.

TEL AVIV, Israel — Potash in a concentration five times as great as that in the Dead Sea has been discovered near Mount S'dom, the Israeli Ministry of Development reports.

TV NEWSMAN — ABC-TV's John Daly asserts that more radio and TV broadcasters are being urged to editorialize. Eventually, he claims, stations will be adding special editorial departments to their staffs.

Restaurant Deal Could Make Toots Millionaire

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Pardon my frivolity but in this wacky weather, who can be serious? Anything to ease the pain. Which reminds me that one of Ed Wynn's TV writers, Si Jacobs, asked the dentist to apply novocaine to his bill, too, "because that's the part that hurts the most."

Toots Shor'll wind up one of those stuffy millionaires if William Zeckendorf completes a deal to buy the restaurant site for a new building project. A "rich Toots Shor"—particularly to Mrs. Toots Shor, is hard to imagine.

In any new restaurant, Toot's millionaire customers (Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, John Daly, Ben Fairless) would probably be constantly reminded that a guy with $1,000,000 is as much a millionaire as a guy with $50,000,000.

And as Jimmy Cannon once wrote, it "would always be quieter without the proprietor."

Ernest Hemingway blew up at his lawyer (he told me from Havana) because the latter said the only story about the Esquire injunction suit "was a little squib in The Times." When Hemingway got the N.Y. Times by air and saw it was a Page 1, 2-column story, he exploded . . . A New England inn has a sign reading "George Washington slept here"—to which some wit has added, "Who paid the bill—Goldfine?" (Spotted by Butter-and-Egg Man Elmer Reilly).

Taxi tycoon Danny Arnstein gave his Miami court jester, "Cheesecake Ike" Berger, an allowance—but the latter insisted on earning it. So Arnstein asked him to act as a "spotter"—watching out for cab drivers who cheated by not driving with the meter running. One day, weeks later, Ike told Danny, "Well, I found one of those guys." Danny said, "Fine, what was his number?" Exclaimed Ike: "Oh, I didn't take his number. What d'you think I am, a stool pigeon?"

He Sabotages Ship to Stay Near Wife

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A young ensign sabotaged his ship so he wouldn't have to leave his wife, says the Navy.

Ens. James L. Johnson, 23, of Long Beach, Calif., was ordered dismissed from the navy and sentenced to six years at hard labor.

The Navy said Johnson caused $3,100 damage to his LST last January by placing metal materials and tools in the ship's propeller gears. The ship made repairs and sailed for the western Pacific without Johnson.

Johnson, who pleaded inncent to the charges, said his wife Patricia, 20, was so upset he feared to leave.

Bashful Baby Tapir Named 'It' for Now

CHICAGO (AP) — A 45-pound tapir born at Brookfield Zoo yesterday, it appears, is a mixed-up young animal. For the present its only name is "It."

It is related to the horse and rhinocerous, looks like a pig and is living in the zoo's elephant house.

The sex of the South American river animal has not been determined.

"It keeps hiding behind its mother," said Director Robert Bean. "So, temporarily, its name is 'It.'"

Stations Need Special Staffs

Only Qualified Persons With Courage Should Form Editorial Opinion

By JOHN DALY

NEW YORK (AP) — Increasingly, U.S. radio and television broadcasters are being urged to editorialize.

The right of stations to present editorial stands was affirmed 10 years ago, but only recently has the issue come to the fore.

A series of statements by industry leaders, culminating in an address by the chairman of the Federal Communications Commission to the National Assn. of Broadcasters, has urged license holders to make increased use of the right to editorialize.

Chairman Doerfer pointedly remarked that, "having fought and won the battle for the right to editorialize, the broadcasters have failed to follow up this conquest at least to the extent expected by the commission."

The only solid precedent we have here is that of the press. One thing the better American newspapers have shown us is that it takes an editorial staff to write editorials.

This staff may be a young editor behind the rolltop desk of a north Texas weekly, or it may be a dozen elder statesmen of journalism meeting around a gleaming conference table on the 30th floor of a New York skyscraper.

In any event, the editorial staff worth its salt is marked by four qualities: experience, intelligence, courage and detachment.

One of the radio-TV newsmen's prime responsibilities—one which, by and large, we fulfill—is to know what we are talking about. A certified public accountant, a mechanic, a real estate broker, a Union Square haranguer for the corporate state of vegetarianism, is not qualified to express his opinion on world events over the airwaves of the United States.

A Quincy Howe, an Edward R. Murrow, a Hans Kalterborn is qualified, through years of experience and study, to express such an opinion.

By extension, only experienced observers of current events are qualified to form an institutional opinion—for a newspaper, or for a radio—TV station.

An editorial, in whatever medium, must be a distillation of facts leading to a conclusion; this is the logical process in its most vital form, requiring of its practitioners that rare gift, intelligence. Brains, if you like.

And since the conclusion drawn by this intelligence frequently flies in the face of popular opinion — in the words of one writer, 50 million Frenchmen can be dead wrong—it requires as well the equally rare gift of courage. Colloquially, guts.

Experience, brains, guts. These are the qualities which our editorial staff must embody. They are the qualities of the specialist, the detached specialist with no other responsibilities.

She Dies 3 Times, Lives to Hear of It

MILAN, Italy — A woman who died three times lived to hear of it 18 days later. Death first came to Mrs. Carla Santambrogio during a stomach operation near Milan, Italy.

Quickly Professor Benedetto Rossi, chief surgeon, made an incision in her chest and massaged her heart.

After several minutes it resumed beating. He completed the operation. Then the heart stopped again. More massage.

The heart picked up . . . faltered . . . and stopped. Still more massage. This time it kept on beating. Eighteen days later Mrs. Santambrogio, 21, was listening to the hospital radio and heard about her experience for the first time.

Average human hair grows about one-half inch per month. An average single hair lasts between two to four years before it falls out.

Expect No Shortage of Heart Specialists

CHICAGO (UPI) — A noted heart surgeon assures the nation that there is no need to worry about a shortage of heart specialists and surgeons.

Dr. Charles P. Bailey told an audience in Chicago that "despite the rising number of people discovered and treated for heart disease, including surgery," there will be enough specialists to take care of the need.

"Indeed, if two great types, arteriosclerotic and rheumatic heart disease yield to preventive and curative measures now under study," Bailey said, "the need for heart surgery will be almost cut in half."

Germany Gets Wire

BONN — West Germany requires 90,000 to 95,000 tons of rolled wire a month. Fifteen to twenty thousand tons must be imported.

East Lansing to Vote on Liquor by the Glass

EAST LANSING (AP) — This college city, traditionally dry for more than 50 years, will vote on liquor by the glass Nov. 4.

Sale of intoxicating liquors has been prohibited in the home of Michigan State University since the city was organized in 1907.

When the city charter was revised in 1944, the prohibition provision was carried by a narrow margin.

The new vote will be necessary this fall because the city annexed the Marble School District, which allows liquor by the glass.
