Lake Huron Combed for Survivors of Ship

HARBOR BEACH (AP) — Rescue forces fanned out over Lake Huron today in search of survivors of the ill-fated Daniel J. Morrell which sank in a storm with a feared loss of 23 lives.

One crewman miraculously survived the Great Lakes' worst disaster in eight years.

Three bodies were recovered today after an all-night search. All were in an area about 20 miles southeast of the Harbor Beach light.

Gale-force winds and heavy snow hampered overnight rescue operations. Enlisted in the search were three Coast Guard helicopters, three cutters and three other vessels.

The search turned up several orange life jackets and water-logged life preservers, all stamped clearly with Daniel J. Morrell. Orange-colored oars and other debris also were recovered.

Eleven bodies were recovered yesterday.

Its fate concealed by the storm for 34 hours, the 603-foot Morrell snapped in two Tuesday morning and sank in 145 feet of water 30 miles northeast of Harbor Beach, a town in the northern half of Michigan's Thumb district.

Twenty-nine crewmen were aboard, said John Hamminen, a legal representative of Bethlehem Steel Co. which had leased the 60-year-old ship.

"I saw two lifeboats launched before the ship sank," said deck watchman Dennis Hale, the survivor.

Plucked from a life raft by a helicopter, Hale was clad in undershorts, pajamas and a pea jacket when found lying beneath the bodies of three crew mates who died from exposure.

An empty life raft bobbed on waves near the coast and a life ring and debris from the Morrell washed up on the snow-covered shore at the northern tip of the Thumb district.

The wreckage was found by a 100-man search party that scoured the shoreline during heavy snowfall.

But the blinding snow hampered the search by three Coast Guard cutters over a 400-square-mile area of Lake Huron. The storm grounded Coast Guard aircraft during most of the hunt.

Any crewman not in lifeboats would have died within three hours in the 36-degree water, the Coast Guard said.

Hale, 26, of Ashtabula, Ohio, was sleeping when he "heard a hard thump."

"I thought the anchor was dropping," he said. Books tumbled off a shelf in his room and he jumped out of bed.

"I heard the emergency alarm. The ship was breaking in half," Hale said. He launched a raft with three other crew members.

'BUCKLED, SANK'

"As we were floating out on this raft I could see the two halves hitting each other," he said. "They had separated and the back part still had power and kept ramming the front part."

"She buckled and sank," Hale said.

Hale was reported in good condition at a hospital.

"The weird thing" about the 12,500-ton Morrell, said a Coast Guard spokesman, was "There was no distress signal."

Area Executive Chrysler Chief

NEW YORK (UPI)—Virgil A. Boyd, who came to Chrysler from American Motors in 1962, was elected president of the company today, succeeding Lynn A. Townsend.

Townsend moves up to chairman of the board but continues as chief executive. Boyd was designated chief operating officer and was elected to Chrysler's executive and finance committees.

As chairman, Townsend succeeds George Love, who continues as chairman of the executive committee.

Townsend and Boyd will assume their new posts Jan. 1.

Boyd, 1370 Forbes, Bloomfield Township, previously served as vice president and group executive in the automotive sales department.

He joined Chrysler as vice president and general sales manager in 1962. He was born in Butler County, Kan.

ERNEST G. MARCOTTE

Area Man on Ill-Fated Freighter

By JOE MULLEN

A Waterford Township man was one of the 28 crew members aboard the Bethlehem Steel Co.-owned vessel when it left Lackawanna, N.Y., Saturday.

Marcotte, 62, apparently died on what was planned as his final voyage before retirement.

Only one of the crew members has been found alive since the Morrell split during a raging storm and went to the bottom of the lake.

Dennis Hale was found 34 hours after the sinking as a Coast Guard helicopter spotted him huddled under the bodies of three fellow crewmen on a raft in the lake.

The neat Marcotte brick ranch home was for sale and he and his wife Ruthie presumably planned to relocate in Alpena after the sale of the house. They had lived there eight years.

Both were interested in guns and usually were in the Alpena area at this time of year deer hunting.

A crewman on the Great Lakes since 1924, Marcotte actually held a rating of first mate but was acting third mate on the fateful voyage.

Besides his wife, he is survived by four stepchildren, Mrs. Josephine Kline of Pontiac, Clayton Beach of Swartz Creek, Sylvester Meeley and Mrs. Loretta Bloss.

Also surviving are a sister, Mrs. Alfred LaForest of Detroit, and 16 grandchildren.

ESCAPES DEATH—Dennis Hale, 26, of Ashtabula, Ohio, shown here with his family, survived the sinking Tuesday of the freighter Daniel J. Morrell in Lake Huron. Hale was plucked from a life raft yesterday. He was found lying beneath the bodies of three shipmates who died from exposure. With Hale and his wife Bertha, 29, is their son Billy, 10, and their daughters (from left) Cathy, 4, Cindy, 6, and Debbie, 8.

Only One Crewman Is Found Alive

HARBOR BEACH, Mich. (AP) — When Dennis Hale signed on the freighter Daniel J. Morrell, it was reluctantly and with a fear of Great Lakes storms.

"He was awful scared about storms," said his wife, Bertha. "He was always afraid."

But Hale was the lucky one — he survived.

At least 12 of his sailing mates perished when the Morrell split during a raging storm and plunged to the bottom of Lake Huron.

Sixteen other crewmen were missing.

THE WHEELSMAN

One of the dead recovered by the Coast Guard was Charles H. Fossbender, 42, wheelsman on the Morrell.

Only a few hours earlier, Fossbender's wife, Jan, of St. Clair, had received a letter from him.

With the coming end of the shipping season, he wrote: "If our luck holds with us, it will be our last trip."

Arthur L. Crawley, 47, of Rocky River, Ohio, the bachelor captain of the Morrell, had held a similar view.

CALLED RELATIVES

The vessel had completed its voyage to Buffalo, N.Y., when Crawley telephoned relatives in Rocky River.

"He had thought that was his last trip," said Crawley's brother, John. "But he told us they were going up again for another load."

Hale was rescued 34 hours after the Morrell went down in freezing temperatures. A Coast Guard helicopter found him huddled under three bodies on a raft eight miles northeast of here.

He was suffering from exposure. A priest administered last rites.

DOCTORS HOPEFUL

Doctors said they expected the deck watchman, hospitalized here, to pull through.

Mrs. Hale said her husband, a costume Ashtabula hotel chef, had been reluctant to join the crew of the Morrell three years ago because of the dangers. But he signed on anyway.

'DEBRIS FROM SHIP — Coast Guardsman Roy Dalzell sorts through life jackets and a lifesaver from the ill-fated freighter Daniel J. Morrell that were picked up floating in Lake Huron today. Fourteen bodies of crewmen from the ship have been recovered along with one survivor. No trace of the Morrell has been found other than small pieces of debris floating in the lake.

At Pay Hearing

Warren Airls City Finances

More than two hours of testimony by City Manager Joseph A. Warren yesterday brought to an end the formal presentation of evidence in the police-city fact-finding hearing.

Following Warren's discussion of the city's financial picture, State Labor Mediation Board-appointed examiner Harry N. Casselman set Dec. 15 as the next meeting date for the two groups.

In the interim, Casselman said, he would study the city's preliminary budget along with other exhibits introduced by both city and police representatives.

Yesterday's session, the third since Casselman initiated the hearings Nov. 9, followed the pattern of the two previous meetings.

Attorneys for the Pontiac Police Officers Association (PPOA) again sought to establish existence of unappropriated surplus monies in the city treasury.

Warren admitted to a surplus of roughly $650,000 in the sewage collection and disposal fund.

Transfer of the monies, however, Warren said, would involve a "considerable" policy change on the part of the City Commission.

"It would be extremely hard for me to recommend (such a transfer)," Warren told the hearing.

The city manager had previously cited city budget policy in opposing sale of city-owned lands to finance a police pay raise.

An unappropriated surplus of between $750,000 and $1 million in the city's general fund has several times been defended by Warren and City Attorney Philip (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Coldest Night of Season Due

The Pontiac area is headed for its coldest night of the season tonight with temperatures expected to plunge to 5 to 12. Snow is also on the way.

New snow is forecast for the Pontiac area the next two days. The weatherman predicts colder with occasional snow flurries through Saturday.

West to northwesterly winds at 12 to 22 miles per hour this morning will become 15 to 28 miles late today then diminish a little tonight.

Temperatures dropped from 32 at midnight to 18 at 8 a.m., a new low for the season. At 2 p.m. the mercury stood at 17.

School Study Given Challenge

By PAT MCCARTY

Citizens committed to investigating the equality of educational opportunity in Pontiac schools last night were challenged to make their study both broad and deep.

They received a pledge of full cooperation from school officials and were told their study is to be more intensive than any previous review of intergroup relations in the district.

"What we're really delving into is the question of honesty — the honesty of the school board and administrators," chairman John T. Rogers said.

"How do the facts square with their pronouncements?"

The organizational meeting of the Pontiac School District Citizens' Study Committee of Equality of Educational Opportunity was attended by 33 persons appointed by the board.

Committee membership, including additional representatives of groups which have not yet submitted nominees, is expected to number about 50.

GREATER SCOPE

Its scope is "far more intensive, covering a far greater area" than that of the school district's human relations committee, Rogers said in answer to the questions of several persons.

Rogers, an attorney, also serves as chairman of the human relations committee, established by the board 2½ years ago.

Charles M. Tucker Jr., president of the Oakland County chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, was one of those to question the apparent duplication of purposes.

He asked if the new committee had not been formed "on the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Marine Probe Is Urged in Ship Disaster

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Rear Adm. Charles Tighe, commander of the U.S. Coast Guard 9th District with headquarters here, recommended today that a marine board of investigation be formed to investigate the sinking of the ore carrier Daniel J. Morrell in Lake Huron.

A spokesman at headquarters, who sent the recommendation, which went to Adm. William J. Smith, the Coast Guard commandant in Washington, indicates the sinking is regarded as a major marine disaster.

He said that normally the closest marine official would make the investigation.

A marine board of investigation would be composed of men of higher rank than the official who normally investigates marine disasters, the spokesman said.

Tighe said his recommendation was based on a preliminary investigation of the facts available in the Morrell sinking.

Record Defections in Viet Cong Ranks

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. officials today reported a new peak in defections from the ranks of the Viet Cong. They said 2,595 returnees came over to the Allied side in November for the highest monthly total since the chieu hoi — open arms — program was launched nearly four years ago. The previous high was 2,062 last February.

At the same time, the U.S. Command reported a rise in American and enemy war casualties last week, while Vietnam low pace as it has for the last three weeks because of rainstorms and generally foul weather.

The U.S. Command reported American troop strength in Viet Nam reached 361,000 by last Saturday, an increase of 1,000 men over the previous week.

The record number of Viet Cong defectors reported for November also exceeded a five-week high of 2,336 in March, U.S. officials said.

City Manager Testifies at Pay Hearing

A. Rowston as needed for "pay-roll and operating expenses."

Casselman yesterday questioned, however, whether the city would be able to transfer funds "for a short period" to meet police wage demands.

The PPOA is asking for a $1,276 annual raise in addition to longevity benefits.

City representatives, in the course of the hearing, also have cited the Pontiac Finance Study Committee as seeking a long-range solution to Pontiac's budget problems.

The committee, composed of civic and agency representatives as well as businessmen, is reported to be considering recommendation of an increase in the city's current property tax rate of 10 mills on the general fund.

direct suggestion of the (Michigan) Civil Rights Commission "because of the previous lack of investigation of racial problems. Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer said the Civil Rights Commission had investigated a number of complaints against the school and had proposed establishment of the committee shortly after a parent-pupil demonstration at Eastern Junior High School last spring.

Charges of discriminatory discipline practices toward Negro pupils were dramatized when parents and pupils picketed the school briefly last June.

In retaliation, two-thirds of the school's faculty did not go to work for two days.

The school board managed to come to terms with both parents and teachers.

Rogers noted that the human relations committee is an on-going organization while the study committee will be dissolved after it presents a detailed, written report to the school board.

He admitted that the human relations committee's "follow-through on recommendations has been very bad, very sluggish."

The group's materials are to be made available to the study committee.

School board member Dr. Robert Turpin added that the Civil Rights Commission and State Board of Education also could be called upon for resources, along with other agencies.

STUDY COORDINATORS

The school board has named John F. Perdue, its community-school and human relations director, coordinator of the study.

Perdue said he has held several meetings with Civil Rights Commission representatives and that they were involved in the selection of study committee members, who represent a cross section of organizations and interests.

He emphasized that the purpose of the study is twofold. The committee is to report to the board on the strengths and weaknesses it discovers in the system, making proposals for improvements.

However, its report also is to be made public so that other citizens are informed of the situation, Perdue noted.

In answer to a question from Lawrence Beamer, president of the Pontiac Education Association, Perdue said the committee was not organized to "cap an explosive situation but to look at the system before there is an explosion."

Rogers has appointed attorney Julian Cook to serve as his vice chairman.

He also announced that he had named acting chairmen for four subcommittees.

They are George Googasian, pupil distribution and character; Charles Harrison Jr., employment distribution and personnel policies; Thomas Fowler Jr., school organization, curriculum and special services; and William Beane, climate of relationships in the school and community.

The group's second meeting was scheduled for 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday at Lincoln Junior High School.

November Held Surprises

Like Pandora's box, November held many surprises for Oakland County residents.

From an innocuous beginning of sunshine Nov. 1, a late afternoon drizzle turned into the season's first snowstorm of the year dumping nearly seven inches of the white stuff in the next 48 hours.

Another storm blew in from the north Nov. 28 with winds of 25 to 40 miles per hour and a total snowfall of six inches in 48 hours.

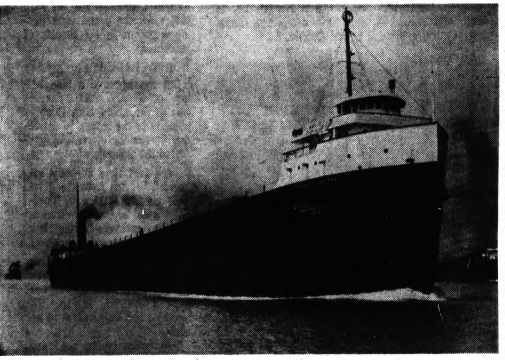

Only eight days of sunshine were sprinkled through the month which brought a total rainfall of 2.57 inches and a total snowfall of 13 inches.

This compares to a total rain and snowfall of 3.40 inches chalked up for November 1965.

TEMPERATURES

Temperature high for the month was 60 degrees on Nov. 8 and 9. The mercury slid to the month's low of 21 degrees Nov. 28. High and low for November 1965 were 39.2 and 24.

The monthly mean of 39.55 was slightly lower than the area's expected normal mean of 40.4.

U.S. Needs More Patriotism--Dirksen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen says what this country needs is a patriotic rebirth.

Dirksen, 70, ruminated at a press conference Wednesday to mark the issuance of a record he made on American history.

"All I hope," the Senate Republican leader said, "is that I can make a contribution to the tranquility of my own blessed land."

"This dream of liberty and freedom, this glorious tapestry we call America," he intoned.

Dirksen said he made a tape recording last year, reciting

"Battle Hymn of the Republic" and among other things, a piece he wrote titled "Viet Nam and Flinders Field."

"I rather liked it as a matter of fact," he said.

The tape turned into a record, with appropriate musical background. Dirksen said the music background was a superb job — "it might have been a little on the loud side."

When somebody asked if he intended to challenge the Beatles, Dirksen replied: "Well—if I were interested in being knighted by the queen."

Wins Short Term

LANSING (UPI) — A Muskegon attorney yesterday won election to the 14th Circuit Court bench for a four-week term after convincing a state officials that votes cast for his father in the same election should go to him.

There are about 800 mills in this country that make wood pulp, paper and paperboard.

U.S. Yule Tree Steals Into D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fir tree nicknamed George — chosen for his debut. The 80-year-old footer didn't drop a needle.

A beauty queen — has arrived in the capital to be the 1966 national Christmas tree.

In secrecy that would be a credit to the FBI, George was hidden for 10 days near Washington.

Most wanted their picture taken with him.

George then was installed on the ellipse, an extension of the White House backyard that runs toward the Washington Monument. Within two weeks, he will be decorated and when a date is set, 2,500 lights will be turned on.

2 Cities Await Word on Bond Issue OK

LANSING (AP)—At least two or 60 per cent of the vote of Michigan cities, which thought pass a bond issue. State law used to require 60 per cent, but that was changed to a majority last March 31. Apparently, the lawmakers accidentally repealed the change May 17 and the requirement went back to 60 per cent.

The question is whether home-rule cities need a bare majority

Bond issues passed Nov. 8 in Midland and Coldwater with a majority vote—but not with 60 per cent. Officials of the two cities have delayed authorizing issuance of the bonds.

The first bullfight in Mexico was held on Aug. 13, 1559.

Brazil Project

EAST LANSING (AP)—Dr. John D. Ryder, dean of Michigan State University's Engineering College, plans to leave next month to spend 18 months helping develop a master plan for higher education in Brazil. Ryder will serve in Rio De Janeiro as a member of an advisory team sponsored by the Midwest Consortium for International Studies.

Clerk Slain as Throngs Watch

DETROIT (UPI)—It was slipped quietly through the coat near closing time yesterday and throngs of Christmas shoppers, laden with purchases, began leaving the huge downtown department store.

Minutes later he stabbed a 36-year-old clerk to death and fled with a stolen $185 suede coat.

"I'd rather be a live coward than a dead hero," one bystander said, recalling how hundreds of shoppers stood by in horror as the shoplifter repeatedly stabbed William Fredericks, 30, of Royal Oak.

"We just stood there, then watched him go."

Only 2 per cent of the United States population lived in California in 1900 compared with 8 per cent in 1960.

Cheer City's Fast Snow Removal

In our complex and highly specialized society, individual welfare is dependent in large part upon the work and ministrations of others.

The advent of winter heralded by a couple of snowstorms of disruptive severity serves to remind us of the superb job done winter after winter by DPW supervisors and workers clearing our streets of clogging snow.

This army of civil caretakers is out in force at the first indication of a developing snowstorm, speedily clearing and de-icing primary traffic routes before attacking feeder roadways.

It goes without saying that much of this yeoman service is performed during night hours, under conditions that would quickly drive an Eskimo to cover, while John Q. Public is comfortably wrapped in slumber.

The Press renders a grateful salute to those whose devotion to duty keeps the wheels turning in an essential area of public service.

Help Yourself by Helping the Handicapped

There are an estimated 5.5 million mentally retarded persons in the United States. More than 2 million of them are of employable age.

Many think of the mentally retarded person as someone unable to hold a job or contribute to the productive stream of life. In reality, less than 5 per cent of the mentally retarded require institutional care. The majority can lead happy, productive lives if given the opportunity. A growing number of business firms is cooperating with the government and various other agencies to help provide employment for the mentally handicapped.

This trend toward industry-government cooperation in providing jobs and opportunities for the retarded is producing tangible results. A major chain organization in the variety retailing field has sent a thoughtful guide to all local store managers to be used in job placement of the mentally retarded.

Based on previous experience with these people, the president of the company wrote his store executives: "We discovered that the employment of such people, while a social responsibility of business, is likewise good business too, for they may actually be better qualified for certain types of work than are more normal persons. Moreover, none can dispute the economic soundness of changing the status of a person from that of a charge on society to a wage-earning, taxpaying citizen."

Retail distribution offers excellent opportunities for all kinds and types of people. It is appropriate that the chain stores, which have led in merchandising innovations that have brought substantial benefits to consumers and a steady advance in living standards, should now take the lead in widening the horizons of employment for the handicapped.

Urge U.S. Take Off on Supersonic Transport

Final proposal for a supersonic transport have been submitted to the Government by two major American aircraft manufacturers.

In the words of U.S. Senator Mike MONROE, "If the U.S. does not build an SST, our airlines will have to buy them from abroad. This compounds the loss to the economy. The effect on the national balance of trade... and the gold flow could well exceed $50 billion. And you can't calculate how much of an indirect boost to the economy a successful SST program would represent... in terms of employment... in taxes... in all the other economic fringe benefits that come from infusion of billions of dollars into the economic cycle."

Moreover, in the opinion of Juan T. Trippie, chairman of Pan American World Airways, "When many hundreds of millions of men and women are being taught—brainwashed, if you will—to hate America, nothing is more necessary than personal relationships between people everywhere... This is a new job for air transportation overseas."

Few will question that a successful, American-built supersonic transport is vital to the continuance of United States air supremacy, and to the role our international airlines are playing in developing commerce and good-will between peoples of all nations.

GOP Wounds May Be Reopened

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — After the Republican gains in last month's elections — in Congress and in the states — the party naturally perked up and began dreaming of the possibility of winning the presidency in 1968.

With the Democrats in a bit of disarray, with President Johnson losing popularity, and with the chance the war in Viet Nam might last two years more, Republicans began thinking big about that next election.

It could be their best chance in years. But even the sunniest among them know that any real chance depended on melting the antagonism between the right wing and the moderate and liberal Republicans.

The opposite has just happened. The presidential try of the right wing's hero, Sen. Barry Goldwater, was a disaster in 1964. Now, Michigan's Gov. George Romney, elected to a third term this month, was the Republican front-runner in the polls.

But Romney had refused to support Goldwater in 1964 and this left a wound in the party. Without full Republican support in 1968, his prospects would, look dim, even if he got the presidential nomination.

How could it be healed? By some salve, perhaps, plus a lot of political maneuvering, political convictions, and perhaps large doses of political expediency.

But with the Republican nominating convention still more than a year and a half away, the Republicans seemed to have plenty of time to doctor themselves.

Then a little more than two weeks ago, Goldwater said that, while he wasn't closing the door on Romney, the Michigan governor had a lot of "homework" to do with party leaders for not endorsing Goldwater in 1964.

But on the same day, Romney said, "I am not interested in going back and taking a look at the past." Then, this week, the past caught up with both men, but hardly in a way to take the pain out of that wound of two years ago.

The New York Times published a letter Romney sent Goldwater six weeks after the 1964 election, although no one so far among the Republicans has admitted being the one who gave the Times the letter.

Romney's letter was in response to one from Goldwater plainly expressing the latter's irritation, if not anger, over Romney's failure to endorse him.

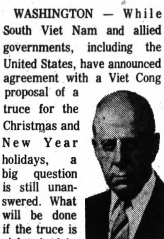

"Where were you, George," Goldwater asked, "when the chips were down and the going was hard?" Romney's letter was a 12-page explanation of his position and, in the process, was a complaint and a criticism of Goldwater and of extremism.

Because It's There!

David Lawrence Says:

Truce Violations Are an Issue

LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — While South Viet Nam and allied governments, including the United States, have announced agreement with a Viet Cong proposal of a truce for the Christmas and New Year holidays, a big question is still unanswered. What will be done if the truce is violated this time as it was last year?

Most people have forgotten that the 30-hour Christmas truce in December 1965 had been in effect only a little while when several Viet Cong violations occurred. Gen. Westmoreland then promptly rescinded an order for the extension of the truce.

The South Vietnamese and allied forces obeyed the truce, but there were at least 84 violations by the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese before it ended, and 12 Americans and 50 South Vietnamese were killed. One of the sneak attacks occurred early Christmas morning.

The State Department at the time commented that the violations were unfortunate. But bombing raids were nevertheless halted until the end of January, for a total of 37 days.

Will the United States again go through with the truce and a deferment of bombing, despite violations that may occur?

MORE LOGICAL

Instead of waiting for such happenings, it is more logical for an announcement to be made now that, while a truce has been proclaimed, it will be terminated immediately if there are any violations by the other side.

Allied commanders have standing orders to take countermeasures for defense if attacked during a truce, but a specific warning could persuade the Communists that they will gain nothing by violating the truce.

It has been argued that the North Vietnamese are not able to control some of their troops in the field. But this makes it even more necessary that the United States take precautions against further casualties that could result from irresponsible action.

It is a temptation, of course, for the North Vietnamese to make attacks when American soldiers are presumably taking the day off to celebrate Christmas. But if it is emphasized in advance that instant resumption of the fighting and bombing will occur, there may be less of an inclination to test out American readiness.

CAREFUL SCRUTINY
The whole world will watch carefully the behavior of the Communists in connection with the truce this year.

If the Communists violate the truce, they will undoubtedly claim that orders had been disregarded in the field. But the decision has been made that the truce will be honored by the forces of the South Vietnamese and their allies and that the risks are worth taking.

If violations do occur, it might be one way to convince the world that the only logical course to follow thereafter is to pursue the war intensively to a successful conclusion.

Bob Considine Says:

Pundits Are Bewildered by China's 'Red Guards'

HONG KONG — There is this to say about the Red Guards, China's latest pestilence. They have completely bewildered celebrated "China watchers" who operate here on Mao Tse-tung's doorstep.

The view of resident American consular officers is formulated from endless hours of reading tons of propaganda now being shoveled across the border. They also monitor Radio Peking, question endless refugees and, of course, the British are of help. They move in and out of China more or less at will, having diplomatic relations.

The view is clouded. The briefing officer tends to wander when visiting reporters ask questions. He says he does not know who gives Red Guards their orders to stop. Sometimes they do but sometimes they don't, so that is unsettling to a good diagnosis.

He thinks the whole business of eight or 10 million hooligans terrorizing 700 million persons may be a gimmick dreamed up by Mao to purge the Chinese Communist party of incompetent bureaucrats and reactionaries who think it should rub noses and make up with the Russian comrades.

The Chinese Communist party itself could not be involved officially in such public purges, on my reasons, else it would lose face.

WHAT IS KNOWN

What is definitely known is the Peking government is unwinding these lawless young hordes to the extent of food, drink, clothing, shelter and printing presses. To give them time for their mischief and mayhem, all upper and middle schools have been closed.

"The Red Guards are far worse than the Hitler youth," an Englishman fresh back from Peking told us. "They are absolutely without rhyme or reason. They operate on the premise that this is the year A.D. 1 and everything that went before it or had association with the past is foul."

The same traveler reported that one of China's foremost authorities on cancer, a surgeon of international reputation, now is forced to work several nights a week on a Peking garbage truck after attending to his professional duties.

The Red Guards imposed this sentence on him for "past associations."

Seek Help in Promoting A Club for Teen-Agers

Parents, are you making a quick judgment of your teen-agers? Do you provide adequate recreation and stimulating activities for them or do you just want them "out of the way?" Have you forgotten you were a teen yourself? Did you feel let down, rejected, unwanted, when you heard people talk about you and your friends?

Let's not let our teens feel this way. Let's give them the opportunity to grow into respected and responsible adults. We wish to give them our support by forming a club for them. But we need your help, support and prayers. Let's show our teens we do care.

I certainly agree with "non-Sunday shopper." God gave us 6 days to labor, and He only asks that we put aside the 7th day for our Sabbath or Lord's Day to keep that day holy.

Sunday employment may fatten the pocketbook but bring leanness to the soul. Let us honor the Lord by dedicating this day to Him.

I would like to know why the railroad does not build a viaduct over Huron Street. The trains have caused children to be late for school. And suppose someone gets hurt or becomes sick downtown. If the gates were down, they would have to go three blocks down to Orchard Lake Avenue to get to the Hospital.

A viaduct would eliminate traffic jams and do away with the signal operator.

Worries About Cigarette-Smoking Adults

Store managers had better take a long, hard look at cigarette-smoking customers and do it soon.

My husband and I don't use cigarettes but we have friends who do, and while we are not happy about it, as long as they are careful, they are welcome in our home.

But when I see adults walking through crowded stores with lighted cigarettes, dropping ashes among displays of Christmas cards, wrappings, decorations, etc., it really worries me. I never see a "no smoking" sign anywhere.

'City Parking Meters Should Be Checked'

Twice a day for the past four weeks I have gone to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital and parked in City Lot 113. Several times I have put 15c in meters for three hours parking and have gotten anywhere from 40 minutes to two and one half hours for my money.

Recently, I parked as usual and tried for ten minutes to put money in the meter but all my coins were rejected. No policeman or attendant was in sight, so finally I gave up and went into the hospital.

When I came out, I had two parking violations on my windshield, one for "expired" meter, and the other for "angle parking." I checked carefully before leaving the lot, and my car was within the yellow lines. Aren't these meters checked? Someone should do something about this.

'Says Working Mothers Should Stay Home'

When such a large percentage of mothers are going to work, it puts a lot of pressure on a father who is the sole breadwinner. If these women who have to compete with males would stay home and take care of their families, what would happen to the high cost of living—or the economy?

I believe if measures could be taken to make married women (whose husbands are employed) stay home like they should, we could eliminate 90% of the "high cost of living."

It takes a lot of stamina and intelligence to keep home and raise a family—plus realizing a woman's obligations.

CAPABLE OF WORKING

Question and Answer

What is the interest rate on those fly now—pay later plans?

TEMPED

REPLY

Very high. We called several travel agencies, and they all said you'd be better off getting the money directly from your bank or credit union. The plan used by most of the major carriers is turned over to a finance company, which charges almost nine per cent a year. (On a one-year plan, you would pay back, directly to the finance company, $108.96 for a $100 trip.) Some airlines issue their own credit cards, which are handled like regular charge accounts, with a charge of 1.5 per cent per month on the unpaid balance, even higher than the above plan. American Express, Diners Club and Carte Blanche credit cards are sometimes accepted, with their interest rates prevailing.

Scouts Plan Summer Trip

9 From Area Going to World Jamboree

Nine Explorers and Boy Scouts from the Clinton Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America will go to the 12th World Jamboree next summer.

The boys will be members of the Region Seven contingent to the international scouting event at Farragut State Park, Idaho Aug. 1-8.

Scout Lawrence Bacow, 15, of Troop 7 will serve with the World Jamboree Host Corp., a special group which will assist foreign scout groups. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell L. Bacow of 34 Cherokee.

Other delegates from the local council include Bloomfield Township Explorer Post, 14 members, James Wagner Jr., 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Wagner of 4619 Hedgewood, and John Axelson, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Axelson of 4620 Hedgewood.

Also Tim Huemiller, 45, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Huemiller of 3499 Baldwin, Orion Township, from Troop 64; Gary Edwards, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Edwards of 2825 Otsego, Waterford Township, of Troop 5; Daniel Arnold, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Arnold of 340 Riviera, from Troop 57; and Steven Newton, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Newton of 2925 Woodbine, Waterford Township, from Troop 51.

Others are Bruce Brys, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Brys of Mount Clemens; and Bruce Maxim, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Maxim of St. Clair Shores.

The boys will join the 540-member Region Seven Jamboree contingent in Chicago, for a weekend pre-jamboree training session, and then tour Seattle, Glacier National Park, and Victoria, B.C., prior to the jamboree.

Local scouts will hold friendship campfires as their part in the universal observance of the 60th anniversary of scouting during the jamboree.

CHOSEN FOR PROFICIENCY

Local scout and explorer representatives were chosen for their proficiency in campcraft and their general knowledge of world conditions and U.S. history.

High School Day Classes for Adults Set

Adults interested in the Waterford Township School District's high school credit completion program will have an opportunity to attend classes during regular daytime school hours in the winter term, adult education director Donald Arsen announced today.

It will give persons unable to attend night classes because they work the second shift a chance to acquire a high school diploma, said Arsen.

Persons can register for the winter session next Monday through Thursday at the adult education office at Waterford Township High School.

Those planning to take daytime classes should register from noon to 4:30 p.m. The others should enroll from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Classes for the winter term will begin Jan. 3 and continue for a 10-week period through March 9.

CLASSES OFFERED

Daytime courses being offered are mathematics, algebra, speech and American government.

All classes, daytime and nighttime, will be held twice weekly for three-hour periods.

Daytime classes will be held either from 9 a.m. to noon or from noon to 3 p.m., while the night sessions will extend from 7 to 10 p.m.

Altogether, 28 courses will be available in the winter term.

NEW COURSE

A new course being offered is electronics which, according to Arsen, is for the technician or the ham radio operator.

Waterford Kettering High School instructor Royce Bunce will teach the class.

Arsen hopes enrollment will exceed the record 581 turnout for the fall term which ends next Thursday.

Love Splits Up Asian Villagers

By Science Service
PITTSBURGH — Southeast Asia's Lahu people are continually splitting up their villages—paradoxically because their idea of "brotherly love" is extraordinarily high, reported Cornell University anthropologist Lauriston Sharp at his association's recent convention here.

The generosity demanded of siblings extends to distant and "fictional" kinship as well, said Dr. Sharp.

Consequently, when some households in the natural course of events become less productive than others, they become a "constant drag on their better-off 'siblings,'" he said.

Rather than renounce the high ideal, the more industrious or energetic households will move out and establish a separate village. There, for a while, villagers more nearly reach their ideal.

The Lahu people live in the borderlands of Burma, Laos, China and Thailand.

The U.S. Custom House, erected in 1850 in Savannah, is the oldest Federal building in the state of Georgia.

Cuba Exile Airlift Is a Year Old

MIAMI (UPI) — The Cuban refugee airlift, one year old today, has poured nearly 45,000 exiles into the United States since last Dec. 1.

But the end of the Cuban exodus is nowhere in sight. In fact, it may just be getting into high gear as the biggest thing since the "multitudes" led by Moses fled Egypt.

Both the United States and Communist Cuba seem to want it to continue indefinitely, although for different reasons.

Exiles have so far filed more than 1.1 million names — some of which may be duplicates, — of relatives in Cuba that want to leave the Fidel Castro regime, according to the Cuban refugee center here.

If they were all to be brought out, at the present rate of 3,000 to 4,000 monthly, it would take another 25 years, provided the U.S.-operated airlift were to continue that long.

NO FORECASTS
At the moment, there are no forecasts on how long the unique "air bridge" between Miami and Varadero, Cuba, may be kept intact. There is no indication that it will be either speeded up or slowed down.

The United States charters private airliners for two flight a day, five days a week. Exact cost of the charters is not known.

But it apparently totals between $400,000 and $500,000 if figured at an estimated average cost of $800 per flight for 536 flights since last Dec. 1.

That sum is only a fraction of federal fiscal allotments for handling and resettling the refugees.

REFUGEE BUDGET
The 1966-67 refugee budget of the Health, Education and Welfare Department — which operates the refugee center — calls for $51 million, for example.

Observers here believe it would be equally "sticky" for either the Johnson administration or the Castro regime to suddenly halt the airlift, unless tensions between the two countries flare.

The United States' position was set Oct. 3, 1965, when President Johnson said: "I declare to the people of Cuba that those who seek refuge here will find it."

In addition to that, the 300,000 Cubans already in this country badly want their relatives and friends to get out of Cuba.

CASTRO SIDE
For Castro, shutting down the air ferry would be tantamount to putting the lid on his still fermenting communization of the island. Internal pressures would build up without an "escape valve."

In the United States' view — as expressed by Johnson a year ago — the very fact that Castro wants the exodus "stamps the mark of failure" on his red regime before the world.

The airlift, in line with traditional American policy of offering refuge to victims of oppression, also keeps the door open for the possible release of thousands of political prisoners, some U.S. officials believe.

There are a number of Americans among these prisoners.

BARRIERS UP
American authorities apparently feel also that operation of the airlift may somehow figure in the removal of barriers to the departure of about 950 Americans and their Cuban families, stymied for years from leaving the island.

For the Castro regime, the continuing outflow of Cubans thoroughly disgusted with communism is undoubtedly a major embarrassment to not only Cuba but to other Communist countries.

But the bearded premier seems to regard the immediate "benefits" — including an easing of domestic economic strains — as more important.

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — When you're a red-hot salesman, you find your prospects where you may — even if they happen to be in Russia.

Romaine Fielding, the son of a silent screen star by the same name, is America's top salesman in Russia. Since he discovered the untapped market that is the Soviet Union back in 1958, he has peddled some $15 million worth of equipment there.

Before then, Fielding's business was running coin-operated laundries throughout the West. He wanted to expand and, casting about for a likely spot, took stock of himself and his talents.

He had been a lieutenant commander in the Navy in World War II. Afterwards, he had used his GI Bill educational privileges to study Russian — 1,000 hours of study — because he felt it was a mental challenge. Since he is a chess expert, he looks for mental challenges.

"My friends used to razz me," he says. "They would accuse me of being a Commie. So I used to say, 'No, I'm just planning to put a Laundromat in Moscow.'"

"I even had a slogan: 'Red Square Automatic Laundry — See Lenin's Tomb and Have Your Clothes Washed at the Same Time.'"

In 1958, Romaine Fielding said — why not?

He heard about a trade fair in Moscow and arranged to display an exhibit of automatic laundry equipment. The fair folded when his machinery was halfway to Helsinki, so he talked his way through the Soviet red tape and put on a private exhibition.

His was the first commercial exhibit from the United States since the Russian revolution.

EQUIPMENT SELLS

Gradually, the equipment and more like it sold. Fielding made more and more visits to the Soviet Union. He finally persuaded them to open a coin-operated laundry and dry cleaning establishment in Moscow. It opened the day President Kennedy was killed.

From laundry equipment, Fielding moved to shoe repair equipment and sold the Russians a complete, packaged shoe repair shop.

Big American firms, hearing about the Los Angeles man who can do business with the Russians, asked him to represent them. Now Fielding handles many accounts of top U.S. manufacturers anxious to sell their products to the Soviet Union.

Fielding says the Russians are just as anxious to have American products. But they want only the most modern.

BEHIND INDUSTRIALLY

"Industrially," he says, "they are in the 19th century, but they want 21st century equipment with no stops in between."

In most ways, he finds they are very good to do business with. You have to learn to accept the red tape and the slowness of decision stemming from their bureaucracy.

And you have to be prepared for the fact that they will attempt to copy your machinery — although generally the attempt is unsuccessful.

"But they pay promptly — 'like a slot machine,'" Fielding says — and they live up to the terms of their contracts scrupulously.

They will try to haggle over prices first but once the contract is signed, they pay exactly what they owe when it's due.

Now Fielding spends almost as much time in Russia as he does here. He married a beautiful Russian girl — Galina — and has many close friends in the Soviet Union.

His business card typifies his current life. On one side it has the name of his firm and the address in English. Flip it over and the same information is in Russian.

VP, Romney to Talk in NY

NEW YORK (AP)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Michigan Gov. George Romney will address the 29th annual national conference of the United Jewish Appeal here next week, it was announced Wednesday.

Romney will speak at the inaugural dinner Thursday, Dec. 8.

Humphrey will address the conference banquet Saturday, Dec. 10.

TOP DRAWER—Two miles of metal ribbon such as pretty Marianne Kowalski is peering through is needed to wind the superconductive magnet she is holding. The magnet will be used in high-energy physics experiments in addition to medical and biological research. Engineers for RCA, who developed the magnet, say it has a field strength 200,000 times as powerful as the earth's magnetic field.

Is Golf the True Course to World Peace?

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The possibility that anthropologists have unwittingly discovered an aspect of human behavior which could unlock the doors to world peace is under some discussion here.

A number of studies have accumulated in government archives which show that some primitive peoples work off frustrations by banging the ground with sticks.

The significance of this activity for modern man was almost universally overlooked until a political science student detected the extraordinary parallel between ground-pounding and the modern game known as golf. From this he has postulated tentatively — the theory that a nation's peace loving quotient

Union Rejected

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Employees of the Fetzer Broadcasting Co. owner of WKZO radio and television stations, have voted 11-8 to reject union representation by the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists AFL-CIO. The election, sponsored by the National Labor Relations Board, covered newsmen, announcers and performers.

can be accurately established by counting the numbers engaged in golf.

FIRST REPORT

Preliminary investigation indicates that where golfing is widespread no dictatorship can long survive. The anonymous scientist's initial findings are impressive and are here reported for the very first time.

For example, there are no known golf courses in the Soviet Union, Red China, Poland, Romania, Bulgaria or Albania. The number of courses in once-democratic Czechoslovakia has been reduced to two and they are primarily for the use of decadent Western diplomats.

The Communists reportedly object to golf on the grounds that it creates capitalistic class distinctions. Obviously, anyone who plays golf requires considerable capital.

Try to Save Tree

OAK PARK (AP)—A drive to save a 30-foot elm tree which stands in the path of a proposed school addition has been launched by a number of Oak Park High School students. The students have named the tree "Arthur." Some 400 of the school's 1,400 students have signed petitions to have the tree transplanted instead of cut out. "Arthur is the only tree we have," explained Mitchell Z. Hauptman, 17, a senior.

One of the most significant findings in support of the theory involves Japan.

RENOUNCED WAR

Since 1945 the Japanese, a hard-driving, aggressive people, have renounced war as an instrument of national policy.

As matters now stand, Japan is developing golfers at a great rate than any other nation in the world. Japan currently has approximately 1,100 golf courses and 500,000 practitioners, while the English and Scottish countryside maintains around 1,000 courses for 1.5 million golfers.

yond a doubt that they have adopted a policy of live and let live.

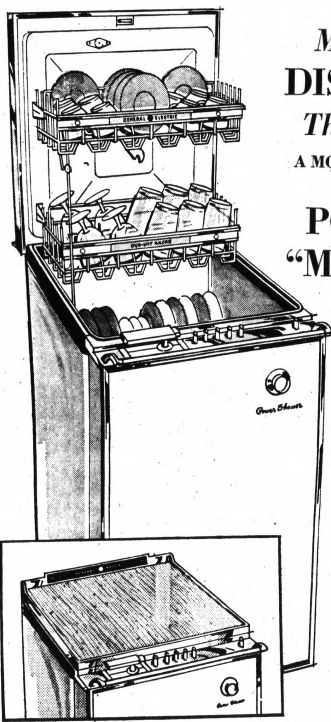

Of equal significance is the fact that the English-speaking peoples, who have a long and unbroken history of self-government, are the world's most avid golfers.

For example, there are 8,667 golf courses in the United States and around eight million golfers. The Australians have approximately 1,100 golf courses and 500,000 practitioners, while the English and Scottish countryside maintains around 1,000 courses for 1.5 million golfers.

Response of Young in Wake of Flood Impresses Italy

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Young people from all over Italy and from foreign lands are helping this historic city of books and art reemerge as it once was.

The rush of volunteers in their teens and early 20s has impressed Italy almost more than any other single aspect of the flood disaster and its aftermath.

Italian papers see it as a contradiction of adult criticism of the beatnik, rock 'n' roll generation.

Italians work side by side with students from Germany, England, the United States and many other lands.

They are mainly occupied at the museums and libraries, moving the millions of books and archives that remain in mud-matted masses awaiting movement to drying sheds outside the city.

The stench of water-soaked paper and glue bindings is sickening. The youngsters sing as they lift, carry, and pass the precious cargoes into trucks.

The adult world may see their work as an example of sacrifice. But the young don't see it that way at all. For them it is obviously fun — the fun of working in a multilingual group their own age, of putting up with discomforts and hardships that challenge their bodies and spirits, and of taking part in something that is undeniably important and historic.

Judith Rosner and Joanne Newman, each 21, were language students in Florence when the floods hit Nov. 4.

Judith of Glencoe, Ill., says:

"We stayed for a while after the flood but our parents got so worried they insisted that we leave. Joanne and I went to Rome to fly home but decided no, we missed Florence so much we had to come back and help.

So here we are again. We have not told our parents yet but we will and it will be all right." Judith and Joanne of Highland Park, Ill., went immediately to the National Library on the Lungarno just a few yards from where the Arno River tore away a whole section of paved bank and inundated the library basement and ground floor.

"We came right here to start working again," said Joanne. "We didn't report to anybody. We just picked up a pair of these rubber gloves given to volunteers and started to work. It's terribly sad what's happened to so many beautiful and precious books. It's wonderful to be able to be here to help."

Sales, Use Taxes Record High Again

LANSING (AP) — Michigan collected $57.1 million in sales and use taxes in November, topping the figure for the like period a year ago for the 58th consecutive time, the State Revenue Department said Wednesday.

The department said the collections were an increase of $2.5 million or approximately 4.7 percent over November of 1965.

Sales and use tax figures for the month are based on the previous month's business.

PR Men Face Test--Proving They Know Something

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON — The public relations business, I'm told, is seething with internal strife over a move to improve its own image.

The object of dispute is an accreditation process worked out by the Public Relations Society of America. To become "PRSA accredited," a member must pass an eight-hour written test followed by a three-hour oral exam.

The idea is to give the PR business more of a professional aura.

The Washington PRSA chapter recently held a cram session to help its members prepare for the ordeal. Which would indicate the quiz is pretty formidable. However, one member who has already taken it told me that "any working journalist" could pass it without difficulty. Nevertheless, some PR men bitterly oppose the accreditation program. They resent having to submit to testing, they claimed. PR talent cannot be reduced to paper and in some cases they suspect it will be used to try to force them out.

I ran into one of the dissidents the other evening when I stopped in the National Press Club to participate in a seminar on African violet cultivation.

Although the indoor smog was rather thick, I espied at one end of the barroom a local PR man whom I shall identify here as Esterhazy Flack.

He had a flagon of mead at his elbow and was morosely taking deep draughts, punctuated by sorrowful sighs.

"I am what we used to call a press agent," Flack said when I inquired into the cause of his melancholy. "But the term isn't used any more."

"While we were busy improving the images of our clients, our own image was going to pot. People somehow got the impression that press agents were undignified.

"Then the good fairy came along and turned us into publicists."

"That helped some but it still didn't sound properly dignified. So all of us publicists went to Baltimore for an operation that changed us into public relations consultants."

"Now they're trying to give us a professional status, like doctors and lawyers. Accreditation exams! Did you ever hear of anything so ridiculous?"

"I am 20 years in this business and now I've got to waste an entire day proving that I know how to take a newspaperman to lunch."

Ocean Yields Elephant Teeth

By Science Service
WASHINGTON—Scientists have been amassing a hoard of ancient elephant bones and teeth from the Atlantic Continental Shelf, sometimes under 270 feet of ocean water.

Valuable mammoth and mastodon teeth as well as other kinds of Ice Age bones have been discovered along the 300,000-square-mile shelf extending 80 miles into the sea, and ranging 450 miles from Georges Bank east of Cape Cod to the coast off Virginia.

The find is a by-product of a five-year search for mineral deposits and other valuable resources, undertaken by scientists of the U.S. Geological Survey and the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution.

Browns Mark Anniversary

By SIGNE KARLSTROM

Dr. and Mrs. Audrey O. Brown of Cedar Hill Drive had been married 50 years last Saturday. Their children, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Husband, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin R. Brown honored them with a reception in the Husband home on Overhill Road.

Some 200 friends came to enjoy the occasion, including a very special friend, Mrs. Stillson R. Ashe who had been a bridesmaid in the Browns' wedding party.

Their grandchild, Nancy Husband came from DePauw University and their grandson came from Western Reserve University in Cleveland.

The Browns have 11 grandchildren who were all participating in the festivities.

Following the reception, the Browns' close friends of many years, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Ludington, entertained the immediate families for dinner at the Birmingham Athletic Club.

On Sunday, more guests came to the Browns' home so there was a great celebration over the entire weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Williams of Hammond Lake Road are entertaining for dinner in their home on Sunday honoring Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Alvary who will be in Detroit for a short stay.

Dr. David DiChiera will include in the Opera Overture this spring an opera of which Mr. Alvary owns the producing rights. John Broome of Meadow Brook Theatre will be stage director.

There will be a lively opera discussion around the dinner table.

ble with the DiChieras, Mr. Broome and Mrs. Williams who is well known as the former opera singer, Barbara Gibson.

The principal reason for Mr. Alvary's coming to the city is that he is here to judge the candidates for the Grinnell Opera Scholarship auditions as well as the Metropolitan Opera district auditions.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvary who have their permanent residence in New York but also commute to Europe and her former home in LaPorte, Ind. are entertaining at dinner Saturday in the Pontchartrain Hotel. Mr. Alvary is famous for some of his comic opera roles with the Metropolitan in New York. He has appeared in Detroit with the opera many times and he has also been soloist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra on several occasions.

Help Your Son Make Change; It's Past Time for Him Now

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I've just had another scene with my husband over our four-year-old son, and I am at my wits' end.

My son likes to play with dolls. He can spend hours in the doll house playing with doll clothes and doll dishes. This annoys his father no end. Other adults have made some rather unkind remarks about it, too.

Personally, I see nothing wrong with it. Why is it when a little girl plays with cowboy guns and climbs trees everyone calls her a cute little tomboy, but when a boy plays with dolls they say he's queer? Please answer as I am pretty shook.

MOM

DEAR MOM: It's easier to get a little girl down from a tree than it is to get a boy out of a doll house. Encourage your son to play with toys for little boys.

DEAR ABBY: I am sure other wives of traveling men have the same problem. When my husband is out of town he will sometimes get a long distance call. The operator asks, "Is Mr. So and So home?" I say, "No, he isn't."

She asks, "When do you expect him?"

Young Girl Hesitates to Attend

of the Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: I am 18 years old and have been dating my boy friend for two years. His family received an invitation to a cousin's wedding, addressed Mr. and Mrs. John Doe and Family. His brothers do not plan to attend the wedding, so his mother replied to the invitation saying that four would attend — his parents, my boy friend and me.

I feel I was not formally invited and I am uneasy about attending. Also, if I go, I would be required to bring a gift and, since I do not know the bride, I don't really want to incur that expense. What should I do? Maria.

Dear Maria: Since you are not a member of the family, you really have no right to attend the wedding, even to take someone else's place. Nor do I see any reason, since you do not know the bride, that you should send a gift.

You do not say that you are engaged, so it would not be strictly proper to join with your boy friend in sending a present.

My advice is to skip the whole thing — tell your boy friend to go with his parents and make other plans for the day.

I say, "Not until next Friday."

She asks, "Where can he be reached?"

I reply, "I don't know. He's on the road now."

Well, Abby, as you can see, it could be someone right around the corner, or very near here just trying to find out if I'm alone and how long I will be alone.

With the crime rate rising, shouldn't something be done about this? Maybe someone at the telephone company has the answer.

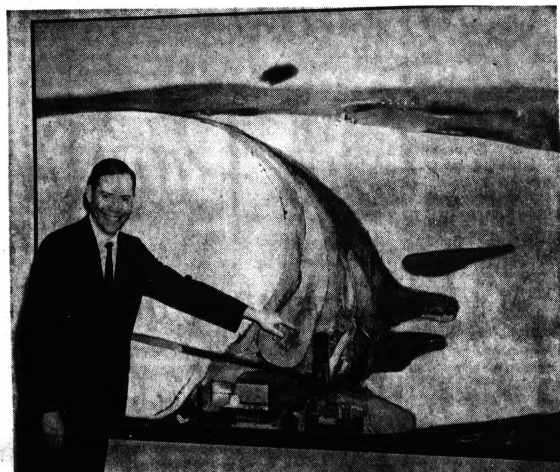

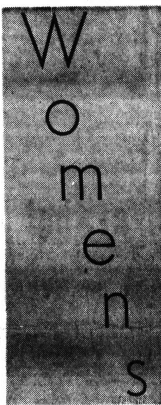

LONE WIFE

DEAR LONE: When someone calls for your husband and he is out of the city, you need only ask, WITHOUT REVEALING THAT HE IS OUT OF TOWN, "Who is calling Mr. So and So, please?"

If you don't recognize the name, say, "If your party will leave his name and operator's number, I will have Mr. So and So return the call." That way you disclose NO information whatsoever.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HAVE REGRETS": Tell her you're sorry you told her secret. Strange how we can learn how to talk in two years, but sometimes it takes a lifetime to learn how to be quiet.

Victor Stokes, assistant professor in the art department of Oakland Community College, won the Art Directors Club of Detroit award for his collage, "Hill View of Duluth in Winter." He entered it in the 56th Michigan Artists' Exhibition at the Detroit Institute of Arts which continues through December. Over 1,600 entries were submitted for the competition with 159 selected for exhibition.

Richard F. Brenners Are Wed at Cranbrook

St. Dunstan's Chapel, Christ Church Cranbrook, was the setting for the recent marriage of Mary Gail Crissman to Richard Frederick Brenner.

Reception for 300 guests in the Kingsley Inn followed the double-ring afternoon ceremony.

The Lewis K. Crissmans of Applehill Lane, Avon Township, are the bride's parents. Her husband is the son of Sylvester E. Brenner of Ann Mrs. Sylvester E. Brenner of Ann Arbor and the late Mr. Brenner.

IVORY SATIN

Hand embroidered Alencon lace applique accented the bride's A-line gown of ivory satin worn with fingertip mantilla of matching lace. She carried a red cabbage rose.

Mrs. Alger Shelden Jr. of Grosse Pointe Farms was the bride's only attendant.

William R. Roy of Ann Arbor was best man. Scott Harvey of Washington, D.C., Michael Schivani of Ann Arbor, along with the bride's brothers, Charles and Philip Crissman, were ushers.

Pay Attention to Unusual Situations

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Is it possible that you could fail to take advantage of any tax break you're entitled to when you fill out your income tax report? Yes. Incredible as it may seem that you or I would fail to spot a chance to save a dime, we may do just that if we're not careful.

MARY FEELEY

The things to pay special attention to, when you claim exemptions or deductions, are the unusual situations that happened to you this year—so therefore you're not accustomed, as a matter of routine, to putting them down on the tax report.

What are some of these unusual tax-saving opportunities this year? Well, one may be the fact that you can deduct the penalty you may have paid for prepaying your mortgage. Maybe you're about to retire and you want to do it under your own roof.

But your mortgage contract didn't specify that you could pay it off ahead of the specified time. So you paid a penalty for doing it anyway. The penalty is deductible on your income tax as interest.

If your home was damaged this year by storm, flood or fire, the losses to property are deductible on any amount over $100 for each casualty loss. Of course, insurance coverage and other compensation you would receive are not deductible.

Older people are probably aware that, this year, every dollar of medical expenses for an individual 65 years old or over can be deducted. But as of January, 1967, older people will be subject to the very same deductions that apply to younger people.

They will only be able to deduct medical expenses that exceed three per cent of the adjusted gross income, and drugs which exceed one per cent of the adjusted gross income. If dental work or any other medical treatment not covered by Medicare is put off until 1967, it may not be deductible since it may not exceed three per cent of the adjusted gross income. If this work is undertaken and paid for this year, the expenses not reimbursed by Medicare or insurance are deductible.

If this was the year you changed jobs and paid an employment agency to find your new job for you, the fee you paid can be deducted. But one cannot deduct expenses involved in seeking employment—expenses caused by the preparation and mailing of resumes, hiring answering services, etc.

If your vacation this year was spent traveling outside of your own state, you can deduct any sales taxes you paid on such things as gasoline tax and other merchandise—just as in your own state.

The rates of tax imposed in the states you traveled through can be found in the income instructions Form 1040.

If you plan to take charitable deductions this year, be sure you have a receipt for the gifts of money or property. The amount deductible for clothing, furniture, etc., given as a charitable gift, is to be established at the current fair market value. If the gift is a substantial one, it might be a good idea to have an independent appraisal of it in order to establish the fair price.

Any out-of-pocket costs of rendering services to charitable groups are also deductible, such as transportation parking fees, tolls when using your car to do volunteer work for a local hospital or church.

If this was the first year you were involved in new types of investments such as the investment clubs, real estate investment trusts, or if you purchased investment property, you'll want to get a booklet known as Document No. 5448, Investment Income and Expenses.

You can get a copy of this 25-page booklet free at your nearest Internal Revenue Office.

A Sunday open house in the First Federal Savings of Oakland banquet hall in Lake Orion will mark the golden anniversary of the Charles A. Haffner of Pine Tree Road, Orion Township. The 2 to 7 p.m. celebration will be hosted by the Haffner's four children: Marvin D. of Minton Road, Orion Township; Kenneth A. of Forest Drive, Mrs. Francis St. Arno of Fox Bay Drive, White Lake Township; and Mrs. Paul Wheeler of Foster Street. The couple who were married Nov. 30, 1916 have seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Paul Schoenfield Solos at Pontiac Symphony

By BERNICE ROSENTHAL.
As soloist for its second concert of the season on Tuesday, the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Felix Resnick presented Paul Schoenfield, brilliant young Detroit pianist.

In spite of the inclement weather and the difficulties which it undoubtedly caused for the dress rehearsal Monday evening, the full orchestra of dedicated musicians was on hand for a spirited performance at Pontiac Northern High School.

Mr. Schoenfield is a tremendously gifted pianist. His maturity, his unflinching, direct approach to his instrument—refreshingly without the mannerisms so often seen on the concert platform these days—his complete understanding of the difficult Brahms Second Concerto—were equalled by his depth of tone and his ability to interpret the music with extremely good taste.

He displayed sentiment without mawkish sentimentality, virtuosity without ostentatious display, remarkable control without overplaying.

His careful phrasing and his immaculate technique, his beautiful rubato in the sustained passages, his full-bodied tone which came from the use of the large body muscles which he has learned to control at his discretion, made for an inspired performance, the like of which has not been heard in this area in many moons.

Mr. Schoenfield has a great future in store for him as a concert artist.

Equally as important as the piano score of the Brahms concerto is the parallel orchestral score.

Brahms thought of his solo instruments as extensions of the main body of the orchestra. His orchestrations have a sweep and a flow which are as symphonic in scope as any of his symphonies.

Resnick and the orchestra played the difficult music with depth and great understanding. The many off-beat entrances were smooth and carefully handled, and the quality of tone was mellow and flowing.

Light, sparkling and refreshing was Kabelevsky's Overture to "Colas Breugnot" which opened the program. Its good-humored, fast-moving score was interpreted with spirit and delicacy.

The ambitious program was completed with Mozart's "Haffner" Symphony.

Deceptively simple-sounding, this symphony is difficult to play smoothly and well. The burden lies heavily on the string section which was a little unsure in its attaches and releases.

Only in the rapid and fiery fourth movement did the orchestra hit its stride and give a masterful performance of one of the great works of symphonic literature.

Adoption Topic of Discussion

Mrs. Marion Shepard presented a program on "Adoption" at the recent meeting of the Waterford Child Study Club. Hostess at the event was Mrs. Russell Jacobson of Terrence Street.

Mrs. Amos Vaught was the cohostess with Mrs. Donald Wisner as a guest. Mrs. Ernest Shegna will be the Dec. 12 hostess.

Set Christmas Concert

The annual alumni Christmas reunion and benefit concert of Musical Youth International will take place Dec. 17 in the Pease Auditorium, Ypsilanti.

Time of the performance sponsored by the Roosevelt High School choir of Ypsilanti will be 8:00 p.m.

MYI includes a band and chorus whose members are carefully selected from outstanding high school musicians between the ages of 16 and 18. They are chosen annually and travel each summer on concert tours abroad.

Began in 1965, under the direction of Lester McCoy, MYI is a member of the People-to-People program, having been recommended by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

It is the first group of its kind to receive such an honor.

The public is invited to attend the reunion concert. Tickets will be available at the door. Proceeds will benefit the MYI scholarship fund and the Roosevelt High School Music Department.

More Beautiful Women Today Than in the Past

"Are women more beautiful today?"

The question was put to Nancy White, editor-in-chief of Harper's Bazaar, which just launched its 100th anniversary celebration with a special December supplement, "100 Great Beauties of the World."

"There are more beautiful women today," Miss White replied, choosing her words carefully. "I wouldn't say that women are more beautiful. There have been great beauties in every era. But today there are more of them."

Asked why this great wealth of beauty in our time, Miss White pointed to the time, money and freedom that is available to millions of women throughout the world today "to a point that their ancestors would find hard to believe."

Especially in our country, women have been relieved of so many burdens that they can now put their time and their intellect to use in making themselves attractive."

Never has there been so much interest in high fashion, in beauty products, and in events of elegance where feminine glamor holds the spotlight."

She recalls that not too many years ago the couturier fashions unveiled in Harper's Bazaar each month were envied by millions but could be afforded by only a comparative few.

Many American women were reading Harper's Bazaar the way a small child studies a toy store window. It was where you saw what you wished you could have.

But today's average woman "participates" in the fashion world. She is no longer just a spectator.

"Just as the U.S. fashion industry never came into its own until after World War I, the American woman came in to her own after World War II."

A "MUST"
"For instance, one of the major reasons why there are more beautiful women today, Miss White notes, "is the acceptance of the beauty salon as a 'must' in the weekly routine of the average American woman."

The attention given to hair styles, cosmetics, and special beauty aids has transformed the American woman's everyday appearance, her coloring, her features, her entire personal appearance.

"Add to these today's concern for weight control, physical fitness, and active recreation, and you further understand why the number of beautiful women is increasing daily."

Discussing the special supplement that accompanies the current Harper's Bazaar on the newsmagazines, Miss White stresses, "Note that it is called '100 Great Beauties of the World,' not 'The 100 Great Beauties of the World.'"

"There are so many thousands of beauties in our world today that it would be preposterous of us to say that we have named THE 100. We have gone through hundreds and hundreds of names and selected those ladies who reflect the various elements that we feel comprise beauty."

"Beauty, you know, is much more than physical appearance."

INNER GLOW

Editor Nan Kemper reinforced this observation of her editor-in-chief. "In classifying the many mirrors of beauty we kept one all encompassing quality in mind: truly great beauties have a special inner glow that goes beyond physical features in creating their aura of beauty."

Certainly Jacqueline Kennedy reflects this magnetism, as do Margot Fonteyn, Marlene Dietrich and others in the special supplement."

Mrs. Kemper added, "We hope that our selections will also prove that age has nothing to do with beauty. The 100 ladies we have pictured range in age from the teens to the eighties, and a young man would encounter many an argument from many experienced authorities if he should insist that Jane Fonda's age makes her more beautiful than, say, Gladys Cooper."

"It is a good sign, however, that today's teen-age girls are so 'beauty-conscious,'" Mrs. Kemper agrees. "They are willing to set the pace in fashions, to try the newest innovations in cosmetics, to experiment with changing hair styles and colorings."

It bodes well for the next generation of mature young women. In fact, in 1976 we may have to expand our selection of great beauties to 1000."

Mrs. Kemper lists the description categories into which the Harper's Bazaar Centennial supplement on beauty is divided: Beauty is Freshness, Electric, Regal, Perfection, Ageless, Alive, Magic, Mysterious, Impact, Tender, Bold.

"Every woman's beauty can be associated with one, and usually more, of these descriptions," says Nancy White. "If one or more of them can apply to you, polish it to perfection — and work from the inside out."

The Richard D. Mervyns of Eston Road, Independence Township, announce the engagement of his sister Nancy to Viviano L. Martinez, son of Mrs. Vica Martinez of Ovid and the late Mr. Martinez. The March bride-elect is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Mervyn.

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: As mass murders by individuals are becoming everyday news, please discuss gun and knife interest in boys of 12 to 16. My 13-year-old son owns a gun and knife but has shown no interest in using them.

Just the same, I think we mothers should be alerted to savage tendencies in our boys. These continuing explosions of it, he's in.

ANSWER: I am aware that this is going to be an unpopular column. Nevertheless, I am going to reply to it.

It's a very simple trick. It's been known and used by every savage people. You define a man as a person who feels no pain. That's what savage puberty rituals are about. The witch doctor subjects the boy to some form of pain. If the boy succeeds in pretending not to feel it, he's in.

We civilized people have our tricks, too, for making skilled warriors out of boys. We give them straw dummies to thrust bayonets into. So, when they thrust the bayonet into the flesh-and-blood of the fellow human being called the "enemy," they, too, can pretend that they are not inflicting pain.

I think we have to do every tender thing we can to convince our sons that we do not regard manliness as imperviousness to pain but think that true men are as unafraid to know they can feel hurt as they are unwilling to inflict it on someone else.

You're asking me, you know, how the child who thinks of weapons as toys is turned into the man who uses them to kill with.

I think that murderers are people whose ability to experience their own pain, their own hurts, their own human vulnerability has been atrophied and destroyed.

I agree that these persisting mass murders are terrifying. So I share your anxiety over boy children. I see no way to counteract the influence of exterior violence upon them except by refusing to define manliness as that deadness to hurt which makes it possible to inflict it on others.

The Kenneth Hendersons of South Baldwin Road, Brandon Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Ann, to Clarence Leon Scott Jr., son of the senior Mr. and Mrs. Scott of Grafton Road, Orion Township. A June wedding is being planned.

Skin Blooms Again with 2nd Debut

With this non-surgical face lift, lined, prematurely aged faces appear to have suddenly been reborn. Hard to find are even the most fearsome signs of on-coming crow's feet and wrinkles that inconsiderately showed your age just a short time ago. Smoother now is your skin to a finger-tip touch with a fresh young feeling of moisture beneath, and rose tinting your cheeks. For 2nd Debut gives a stimulated lift without the surgeon's scalpel—a lift that lasts a long time, an ageless look that's much more intriguing than common youthfulness. The lift comes from underneath as you apply 2nd Debut on the surface. 2nd Debut (with CEF 800) for the woman of no more than 40. 2nd Debut (with CEF 1200) for the important lady a few years older—at good department and drug stores.

The City Council of Pontiac Beta Sigma Phi Sorority conducted the final meeting of the current year Monday evening. The group met in the Chamber of Commerce Board meeting room on West Huron Street.

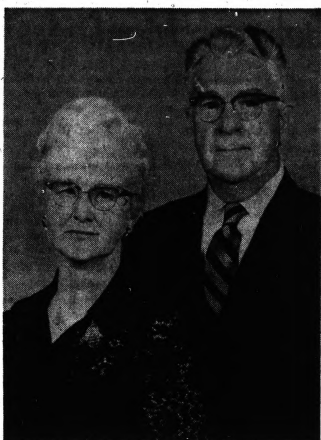

A Nu Phi Mu degree chapter of the sorority from Birmingham became the 16th area chapter to become members of the council. Guests present for their first meeting were Ruth Clevers, president of Phi Gamma Chi Sorority and Mrs. Bruce Barker, recording secretary.

Iota Omicron chapter was hostess for the refreshments. Phi Gamma Zeta chapter announced that they need a new advisor.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin P. Webb of Port Austin, former residents of Pontiac, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday. A reception was held recently in their honor at Maurice's Hall on Edison Street. Their children were hosts for the occasion. They are: James A. Webb of Manning Road; Mrs. Jesse Bradburn of Grosse Ile; Mrs. Donald Sharette of Liberty Street; Mrs. Albert Weckle of Oxford and Mrs. Donald Viaw of Hudson Street. The couple have 24 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren. They were wed in Flint Nov. 29, 1916.

Everyday Psychology

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE A-501: Dr. Kenneth Edgers served as my host while I was in Seattle recently to address his state dental convention.

As the former state president, he took me to dine atop that American version of the Eiffel Tower, DR. CRANE with its revolving restaurant that makes one complete revolution every hour.

Thousands of you readers visited it during the World's Fair.

But during our luncheon we were discussing child psychology.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "my mother used some very clever psychology on us boys."

"Like most youngsters, we were always afraid the other one would get the larger piece of cake or the most milk."

"So my mother made a very wise decree! 'The boy who divided the cake had to let the other one take his first choice!'"

"So you can be sure the division was very exact!"

You good mothers often can surpass our Supreme Court Justices in your wise decisions. In fact, it is very likely that King Solomon's mother fed many clever ideas to him, for which he later got the full credit.

Many of our psychology textbooks deal with abstractions and stay up in the stratosphere, thus failing to prepare the students for the everyday practical problems that beset us.

This daily column was devised to keep psychology down on terra firma where we live and bump into dilemmas that the textbooks ignore.

If the textbooks translated psychology into its specific daily uses, I wouldn't need to address the hundreds of dental, medical, engineering and sales conventions throughout America.

Alas, the usual textbook author is a "brainer" who deals in vague generalities but doesn't get down to practical cases.

So in this daily column I try to meet that acute need by showing you how to answer Junior's query when he bluntnly asks:

"Mommy, where did I come from?"

Even you college graduates didn't get the answer in your four years of Liberal Arts.

Herein I pour, the useful rules from a dozen psychology courses, as well as the practical hints from the psychological department of our medical schools, so be grateful to your newspaper for this service.

There will be a new businessman in offices across the country this season, reports the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear. To give him a fashion lift for Christmas the Institute suggests, dress shirts in wide-space stripes of contrasting collars and cuffs, wide boldly patterned neckties, heavy silk squares and perhaps a grained dress leather belt. For added dash, a gift of cologne may be just the thing.

Pastor's Wife Will Be Guest

Mrs. Robert Armstrong, wife of the Pastor of the Warrendale Community Church, will be the speaker at Wednesday's luncheon meeting of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Christian Women's Club.

The event takes place at noon in Devon Gables. Ski fashions by the Sporthaus will be seen with background music by Mrs. Marian Nyeberg. The subject of Mrs. Armstrong's talk will be "The Song of Solomon." The Scofield Bible describes this book as "the picture of a true Christian marriage."

Information about reservations may be had by contacting Mrs. Loren Brunsink of Detroit.

Michigan Artists to Show Work in Birmingham

Local Michigan artists will have their varied work on display Dec. 4 through Jan. 4 in a "Christmas Group Show" at Stanger's Garrett in Birmingham. Creations in weaving, drawing, graphics, ceramics, tapestries and silver will comprise the showing.

Those exhibiting work will be Beth Lynch of Bloomfield Terrace, Ronald Goodman, Clinton Mackenzie, Nancy Schmidt, Robin Torbano. Also included is recent prize winner in the 56th exhibition for Michigan Artists, Charles W. Schmidt of Birmingham.

A reception to introduce the artists will take place Sunday from 2 until 5 p.m. Daily hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Thursday and Friday 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday 12 noon to 6 p.m.

Picasso Exhibit Is Midwest's Largest Display

The largest exhibition of Pablo Picasso works ever presented in the Midwest will go on public view Dec. 13 at 8 p.m. in the new London Arts—Detroit Gallery in the Fisher Building.

Assembled in Europe by gallery director, Eugene I. Schuster, 32 major drawings and more than 200 graphics will be on view.

This exhibit is one of a number of commemorative ones being held around the world in honor of the artist's 65th year.

The new gallery is one of the largest graphics dealers in the world and operates branches in London and New York City.

Make Poncho From Towels

Make an after bath poncho robe from two large bath towels. You can use giant safety pins to fasten your poncho at the top and midway down each side if you don't want to stitch them together permanently. This way you can wear different towels to match your mood.

Lemmon Excited Over 'Wildest Role Yet'

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — A (tel) low has to look after himself in the movie business, and that's why Jack Lemmon has formed his own company, Jalem Productions.

During the first dozen years of his film career, the Harvard-educated actor placed his destiny in the hands of other producers. The results were often good—Oscar, supporting actor, "Mister Roberts," 1955; and four nominations as star, "Some Like It Hot," "The Apartment," "Days of Wine and Roses," "Irma la Douce."

But in between those milestones were other films which did little to enhance the Lemmon image, though most were financially successful. He found himself cast as a satyr—"Under the Yum Yum Tree"—or as the man who sacrifices his principles to go along with the system—"The Fortune Cookie."

Now Jalem has joined with producer Martin Manulis for the film version of Murray Shisgal's far-out comedy play, "Luv."

"It's wild," Lemmon reports. "The wildest part I've ever played."

His appearance bore this out. His hair was unkempt, his cheeks hollow—he dropped 25 pounds to 140 for the role. He wore baggy pajamas, a shabby robe and sneakers that looked like Howard Hughes discards. He plays one of life's losers, a would-be suicide from a New York bridge.

"I'm taking a big chance on this role," Lemmon declared as he puffed on a cigar stub. "The guy goes against all comedy principles: he feels sorry for himself."

"That's a dangerous thing to do with a audience; people immediately lose sympathy with a character who feels sorry for himself. The greatness of Chaplin was that he always played the underdog but he never was beaten."

"Even when he was starving, he remained indomitable. Instead of becoming defeated, he figured out how he could make a meal out of his shoe."

KEEPS MOANING

"Now Harry Berlin (his character in 'Luv') is nothing like that. He keeps moaning about how badly life has treated him, how he suffers from attacks of deafness and blindness, even temporary paralysis."

The role of Harry Berlin was created on Broadway by Alan Arkin, the brilliant comedy actor who scored in "The Russians Are Coming" as the bewildered Russian submarine.

"I saw Arkin do it on the stage, and he was fantastically good," said Lemmon. "I thought at the time no one else could do it as well, and I had no inkling that I would play it."

Road Projects

LANSING (AP) — The Highway Commission reports completion of seven road construction projects costing a total of $2.2 million. Largest are a $1.72 million modernization of 10 miles of M47 in Saginaw and Shiawassee counties, a 1.5-mile, $235,397 modernization of Shattuck Road in Saginaw County, and a $131,923 modernization project on business U.S. 27 in Gratiot County.

AP Wirephoto

or four tons of cargo. It is one of three such vertical takeoff and landing (VTOL) craft being tested. In the photo sequence at right it is shown: 1. Dropping cargo by parachute. 2. Hovering and picking up a man in a rescue mission. 3. At slow speed, dropping cargo without parachutes.

Sign Talk Called Language All Its Own

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Sign talk used by the deaf is a language all its own, not simply English translated into gestures, a California researcher told the American Speech and Hearing Association meeting here.

It takes 50 pages of type to analyze "sign," Miss Elizabeth A. McCall of the Monterey Institute for Speech and Hearing said.

Her description of sign as a language touched on a 30-year-old controversy between proponents of sign and those who believe the deaf should be taught to speak English at the earliest possible moment.

Like any other language, sign differs from country to country and even shows changes of "dialect" within the United States, said Miss McCall.

The elements that make it distinct from English include:

- A grammatical sentence does not always require a subject.
- Tense is not in the verb, but in adverbs such as "yesterday," and "tomorrow."
- Sign has no verb like the English "to be," said Miss McCall. The deaf communicate "I tired" instead of "I am tired."

Plurals, she said, are made by repeating gestures, which in English would be something like "big, big, dog, dog, dog," Miss McCall and her colleague, Dr. Cletus G. Fisher of the University of Iowa, proposed that once the deaf know the rules of sign, they can more easily learn English as a "second language."

There are more than 12,000 kinds of paper and 100,000 uses for them.

Pravda Urges 'Purge' of Padded Expense Accounts

MOSCOW (AP) — And then there was the kindergarten which gave a banquet featuring Armenian cognac, vodka and Turkish coffee.

This cost $342, and the menu included, among other delicacies, jellied sturgeon.

The guests were not children, but men from the hydroelectric company in the town, called Mary, near the Iranian border. The company ran the kindergarten, and the staff conveniently made use of some of its funds to have a good time.

The case was one of a number of this kind exposed by Pravda, the paper of the Soviet Communist party. It urged a crackdown on the practice of holding banquets, sometimes with hundreds of guests, and falsifying documents to make them look like legitimate expenses.

HEAVY DRINKERS

Pravda cited a fishermen's collective in the Leningrad area which carried out "cultural activities and public after a business meeting. These turned out to be a heavy-drinking banquet attended by 280 persons and costing $336.

"But perhaps after that the fishermen thought things over and became conscience-stricken, resolving in the future to pay for their own drinking," Pravda asked.

No, it answered, citing another banquet later by the same fishermen. That one was for 313 guests and cost $2,862.

Turning its attention to the south, the paper noted that the "hospitable" city of Tiflis in Georgia enjoyed 198 banquets at just three of its restaurants in recent months. At these 7,901 persons wine and dined.

GREAT INGENUITY

Pravda reported that great ingenuity was shown in charging such things off to expenses and getting the state to foot the bill.

Pravda warned: "Everybody who handles public money, from street car conductors up to leaders of farms and plants with budgets in the millions, must show great care."

"The state treasury is an inanimate object incapable of self-defense."

More dollars are lost on the average ranch or farm through livestock deaths than through fires or vehicle accidents.

Lunar Spires Set Scientists at Odds

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — The mysterious spires spotted on the face of the moon by Lunar Orbiter 2 have the moon theorists back-clawing at each others' theories. They're just house-sized chunks of rock tossed up by meteoric impact, says Dr. Lawrence Rowan, chief astronomer with the U.S. Geological Survey team analyzing Orbiter's photos.

This theory is pooh-poohed by Dr. John O'Keefe, National Aeronautics and Space Administration lunar authority.

The survey team, he contends, is against any evidence of volcanic activity on the moon at all.

Dr. O'Keefe contends that the spires are like those that thrust up through the floor of volcanic craters on earth. And he points to the volcanic spires in Mt. Pelee in the Caribbean as evidence of a similar phenomenon on earth.

JUST CAN'T BE

The survey specialists say that the lunar spires can't be the result of volcanic activity, since they don't all appear in craters. You don't need craters, counters Dr. O'Keefe. Volcanic spires can just ooze out of a crack in the ground, "like toothpaste out of a tube."

Dr. O'Keefe points to a 1,000-foot tower of lava that arose out of Pelee's heart in 1902 as the answer to the elongated shadows Orbiter photographed on earth.

In early days, shoes showed the rank or wealth of the wearer, among the Greeks, Romans and Egyptians.

Common Mart Entry a British Challenge

LONDON (AP) — If Britain joins the European Common Market, the changes in this island's life will be deep and subtle.

Food will cost more. Common Market farmers are guaranteed higher prices than Britain's state-subsidized farmers, and the cost is passed directly to the consumer. Britain will have to change its farm policy to conform. Beef will probably cost more, and so will butter. Most livestock prices may go up because of the higher cost of grain used for feed.

The government estimates this may boost the cost of food by 10 to 14 per cent, although the rise will be spread over several years. The price of imported fruit and vegetables probably will come down. The farmers' union warns the cost will be about $3 a week extra, or almost twice the government's estimate.

The entire British economic pie is expected to grow, and the breadwinner's slice of it should be larger. Greater industrial opportunities in a huge market now fenced off by a 12 per cent tariff represents the major argument for going into the Common Market.

COMPETITION

The big question is whether British firms can compete. Rising British sales in Europe already indicate they can. Of the 10 largest companies in Europe, four are British. They are ideally scaled to compete in the huge Common Market which already has 180 million consumers.

Britain would have to make a host of adjustments in tax and immigration policies. The Common Market's founding treaty provides for free movement of workers on equal terms. For women, the treaty means equal pay, long a sore point in Britain.

The average British worker will discover that he is not necessarily the best-paid or best-cared for in Europe. Fringe benefits — vacations, unemployment compensation, sick leave and pensions — are often better under other European governments.

Common Market countries spend 16 to 18 per cent of their Gross National Product on social security, Britain 12 per cent.

WELFARE BENEFITS

The British finance welfare benefits largely out of taxes. The Common Market underwrites social security largely through employers' contributions. That means businessmen hesitate to carry surplus workers. Applied in Britain, this would mean less job security. But the resulting tax savings might allow Britain to lower income taxes, long a brake on personal incentive.

Britain's prospective European partners may demand that the British pound end its role as a world currency. Devaluation could be one price of British entry. It is more certain that other Common Market countries will be protected from the fiscal shocks Britain absorbs as a price for playing banker to half the world.

This may seem a distant abstraction to the man with $140 in the post office savings bank, but Britain's foreign investment and banking have helped underwrite its world influence for more than a century. The dividend for the average Englishman has been a pride in his country's international role in trade, politics and colonization. Entry into the Common Market would spell an end — and a healthy end, some say — to what are now often seen as only national illusions.

British membership in the Common Market still is vague, but Prime Minister Harold Wilson has expressed interest.

Even if the transition is smoothed by up to seven years of special arrangements for Britain, the shift toward Europe is bound to come as a shock to an island which has always regarded itself as so far away. European quarrels indeed. Its policy has long been based on manipulating the disputants for its own benefit. Against this must be set another shock to the entire nation if Britain does not enter the Common Market. The British can then count on waking up one day and finding themselves an offshore island, still separated from a dynamic Europe by Channel fog.

New Typology for Criminals?

Crime Panel Urges Updating of System

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — When the National Crime Commission submits its report to President Johnson next January, it will propose a method for typing personalities that promises to update the nation's correctional system.

The aim is to tailor correctional measures to fit different types of individuals. Traditional treatment of the criminal population has been unsophisticated to say the least — "We've been firing with a shotgun," said Dr. Elmer K. Nelson, who heads the commission's task force on corrections.

"Until we can break down the offender population," Dr. Nelson, "we can't get very far."

The "typology," developed by California psychologist Rita Warren, would put offenders in one of nine categories according to their style of dealing with other people, or their "interpersonal maturity."

One type is the manipulative personality — the type skilled at working others for his own purposes. Another is the anxious personality. Ideally, the first should get firm handling, greater discipline; the second more permissive treatment and tender care.

Wrap Keeps Food Gifts Fresh

Why battle the bedlam of stores? The makings of the best gifts of all... those that bear the home-made-with-love stamp... can be whipped up in the peace and quiet of your own kitchen.

A single gift of goodies... does for an entire family, from young cousin Joe to aged Aunt Mabel, saving you the quandary of what to give to each with the resulting accumulative cost.

So this holiday season, set to with the baking. Do it in nice leisurely sessions, scheduling fruit cakes for one morning, cookies for another, and so on, setting aside a half hour or so for wrapping each day's harvest.

This can be done simply and effectively this year thanks to a new wrapping medium... double-wal quilted plastic bags appropriately called Hefly.

More than three times stronger and seven times stiffer than other see-through plastic bags, they'll stand up stoutly beneath the weight of the heaviest fruit cake, withstand punctures from the shapest nut-studded brittle, and completely seal off the air so that your gift will arrive at its destination fresh as the minute you popped it out of the oven.

GREATER ROOMINESS

Other definite advantages are the side gussets which give the bags to accommodate more goodies than you might expect or those with odd shapes.

And the bags' lack of either static or vacuum cling make them a cinch to handle and fill.

You're sure to find the perfect fit for whatever it is you baked, for you have a quart and a gallon size to choose from.

Since the quilting gives them a sparkly look, you need little more in the way of Christmas dressing than one bright bow and a wee sprig of holly.

GLAMOROUS, NEW — To make sure your homebaked Christmas gifts arrive oven-fresh yet beautifully festive, pack them in new double-wal quilted plastic bags which are three times stronger and seven times stiffer than any other see-through plastic bag. And since the quilting gives them a shimmery effect, all you need add in the way of dressing is a bow and a bit of holly.

Beam Simulates Space in Lab

By Science Service
LOS ANGELES — A molecular beam that realistically simulates conditions facing a space vehicle moving at about 25,000 feet per second 100 miles above the earth has been produced in a laboratory.

After years of experimentation, Dr. Eldon L. Knuth, head of the molecular beam laboratory at the University of California at Los Angeles, has produced a molecular beam of two electron volts (ev), which is within the approximate energy range in which upper atmosphere particles collide with spacecraft.

Shooting the beam at metal and glass surfaces, Dr. Knuth and graduate student Jack Alcala got a surprise bonus by discovering that the particles bounced off the solid surfaces in different ways than had been generally assumed.

They had expected that particles in this energy range would bounce off and scatter either completely at random or in one preferred direction. Instead, the experiments showed that the particles scattered in several preferred directions.

The findings, the first of their kind ever reported, can play an important role in future space research, Dr. Knuth believes.

"As we determine how molecules interact with the surfaces of spacecraft, we will be able to predict the actual useful lifespan of a satellite," he said. Fast estimates, he added have been off by as much as a factor of two.

Results of the studies are also of value in calculating the density of the atmosphere at different altitudes and predicting the heat load on a spacecraft as it reenters the earth's atmosphere. The latter may allow designers cut down on the protective heat shield and reduce the ship's overall weight.

Communist Split Is Hindering Latin Reds

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Fidel Castro's Cuban Communists have just thrown a new scare into Latin-American governments, says a report from Chile, by announcing the establishment in Havana of a new university for guerrillas. Graduates, the report says, will be shipped around the continent to Asia and Africa to foment "people's wars."

The project, however, has a look of desperation as far as Latin America is concerned. Communism and guerrilla warriors in general have been faring poorly there. Confusion generated by the world Communist split and increasing confidence of governments in dealing with the threat have contributed to the sagging fortunes of violence-minded revolutionaries in the Western Hemisphere.

For some time, there had been a lull in Castro's program of shipping trained guerrillas to other countries, probably because of Cuba's own vexing internal problems. Now there are reports that new batches of guerrillas are ready, some reportedly trained by instructors who have returned from North Viet Nam.

The guerrilla university, sponsored by a "solidarity organization for Asia, Africa and Latin America," is a project that grew out of the so-called tricontinental, anti-imperialist conference in Havana early this year.

GENERAL FEELING

For the most part, there appears today to be a feeling in Latin America that the threat has subsided considerably.

Directly after Castro came to power in Cuba, guerrilla war was something new for Latin-American military and police to learn much. Since then, they have learned much. The job of containing guerrillas is not so difficult as in the jungled Orient. Guerrillas in the Western Hemisphere often have to rely on urban violence and that, with a steady rise in city living standards, has tended to ease off in recent years.

VENEZUELA

The Communist movement is badly split in Venezuela between the cautious, Moscow-line wing and the violence-minded supporters of the Revolutionary Movement of Leftists — MIR. Even Communist sources report the movement in bad shape.

The Armed Forces of National Liberation — FALN — as the guerrillas call themselves, have been having a hard time. Their commander, Pedro Medina Bli-va, reported earlier this year that 500 of them had died and 1, 000 others were in prison, although he boasted that the movement would be intensified with prospective help from Cuba.

PEOPLE HUNGRY

But other sources on the scene say the Venezuelan people are hungry for an end to violence and turmoil and the FALN has been faltering for lack of support. It has been unable to re-assert itself. It has lost support in the cities, and among the peasantry.

Because of their own political blunders, the Communists have run afoul of the government, which has banned both the regular Communist party and the MIR, thus depriving them of any legal positions. Many leaders have been arrested. The police and army have exerted heavy pressure on the FALN.

Two arrested guerrilla leaders, brought to Caracas and military prison in September, provided under interrogation a picture of a swiftly fading guerrilla movement. One reason they said, was entirely too much interference from Castro's Cuba. The founder of the MIR, Domingo Alberto Rangel, jailed this year in San Carlos military prison, has turned his back on the guerrillas. Castroites now call him traitor.

GUATEMALA

Guatemala is one of the most sensitive hemisphere spots but the guerrilla movement there suffered a heavy blow in October, with the death in an automobile crash of the top guerrilla leader, lean and intense young Luis Augusto Turcios Lima. The command now has been taken by 23-year-old Cesar Montes. But the Guatemalan guerrilla movement already had been badly split, also because of Castro's interference.

DISPUTE AROSE

A dispute had arisen between Turcios and the man he had served as deputy, Marcos Antonio Yon Sosa, head of the 13th of November Movement. Turcios founded his own movement with the backing of the pro-Moscow Communists, while Yon Sosa retained the support of the more violence-minded Chinese-leaning element. Then Castro stepped into the picture. Fresh from a dispute with the Chinese — because he had been obliged to make peace with Moscow — Castro arbitrarily decided that only Turcios was worthy of support and that Yon Sosa in reality was a "henchman of the imperialists."

Today, the Guatemala guerrilla movement is relatively small and confined mostly to an eastern mountain region of the nation of five million. The government of President Julio Cesar Mendez Montenegro, a civilian elected in March and inaugurated in July, is bent on social reform. The few hundred guerrillas, who still have some potential for trouble, have proclaimed an intention of mounting a new "agrarian, anti-imperialist revolution," but their efforts at forming a unified, peasant-worker front have been blocked by the basic split among the guerrilla leaders.

PERU

The Peruvian Communist movement is split down the middle. The dominant faction is pro-Chinese but lacks influence. Its secretary-general, Saturnino Pa-redes, now denounces Castro for making peace with the Soviets. He has been trying, without much success, to form a "patriotic liberation front" of peasants and workers. Parades tried to launch a guerrilla war more than a year ago but police and army response was quick and effective. There was considerable fighting in mountain areas for about eight months but the lack of the guerrilla effort appeared at last to be broken, at least for the time being.

COLOMBIA

Confusion between communism and banditry muddies the picture in Colombia. Sometimes Communist guerrillas run into untrained bandits and take a beating. On the whole, the guerrillas do poorly. Army patrols have become more effective. The Communists in Colombia also are confused and split, and what guerrillas remain are led by a Castroist named Pedro Ramirez. In the whole, the guerrillas remain are led by a Castroist named Pedro Ramirez. In the whole, the guerrillas remain are led by a Castroist named Pedro Ramirez.

Elsewhere in the continent, communism still retains a potential for trouble, but the party almost everywhere is bedeviled by the Moscow-Peking split and the added confusion of Castroism which seems constantly to jump between the cautious Moscow line and the impatient line of violence at any cost, one day approving and another disapproving, the activities of various Red leaders in the hemisphere.

Junior Editors Quiz on HORSES

QUESTION: Why are horses milked from the left side, yet cows are milked from the right?

ANSWER: Horses, like many other animals, are creatures of habit. They like to have things done the same way each time.

They have been trained to understand that when you approach from the left side you may mount them. If you tried to mount from the right side, they might be startled. Using the left side is said to have come from the old days when riders, such as the knight in chain armor which we show, had to mount a horse with a long sword hanging by his left side (A).

If he had mounted from the right, the weight of both left leg and sword would have to be thrown over the horse's back, making it a clumsy operation.

Cows are by no means all milked from the right side. Most cows are milked by machine, in which case the side doesn't matter.

Since most people are right-handed, most hand milking was from the right side in the old days. It is more natural for a right-handed person to reach under the cow with the right hand, as our pictures (B) and (C) show.

FOR YOU TO DO: Imagine there's some enemy standing in front of you which you have to knock out fast. Take a swat at him. If you are right-handed, chances are you used your right hand; if left-handed, your left hand. This shows how you do what comes naturally unless there is a specific reason to do otherwise.

Phase of Cancer Probe Hints Smoking Negative

NEW YORK (UPI) — A slight indication that cigarette smoking may protect against one variety of cancer has again appeared in a statistical hunt for cancer causes.

Dr. John Higgins, the medical scientist who found it, had no faith in it. Nevertheless, it could be neither explained nor dismissed statistically.

"A slightly higher proportion of colon and rectal carcinoma patients did not smoke cigarettes as compared to the controls," he reported to the technical journal of the National Cancer Institute.

"These results are not clear-cut but it is of interest that some previous reports from North America also show a slight negative association between cigarette smoking and carcinoma of the large intestine."

Repeated and strong statistical "positive associations" have made cigarette smoking a suspected cause of lung cancer and of heart disorders.

CANAL CANCERS
Higgins applied similar statistical techniques to cancers of the alimentary canal from the stomach downward.

There were 83 stomach cancers and 348 colon and rectal cancers. The "controls" were 1,020 other hospital patients who were free both of cancer and of alimentary tract diseases.

Cancer patients and "controls" were matched as to ages, sex, marital status, occupation and education.

Then the habitual food-and-drink patterns and personal habits of cancer patients and "controls" were compared statistically in the hope of revealing significant differences.

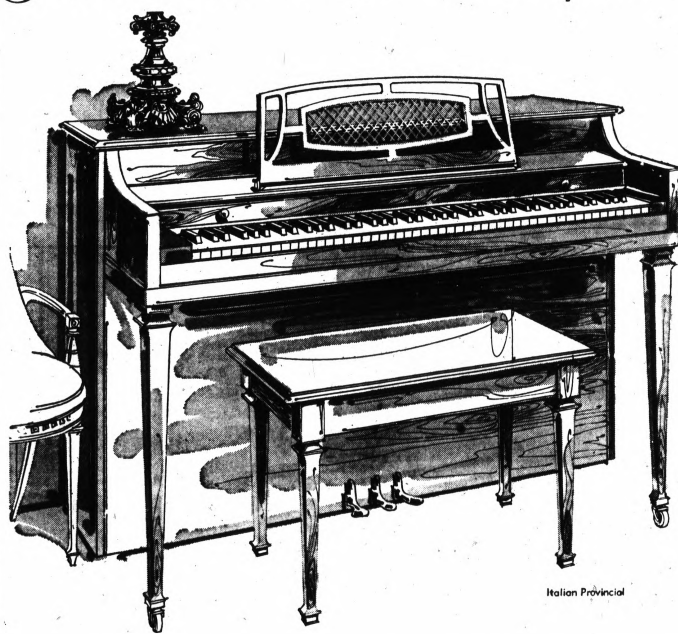

ANIMAL FATS

The stomach cancer patients consumed more in animal fats, cooked fats, fried food and bacon than did their "controls," Higgins added, "the differences were not statistically significant."

Nor were there significant differences "regarding marital status, religion, occupation, bowel habits, tobacco and beverage habits, and usage of individual foodstuffs."

The differences between intestinal cancer patients and "controls" were the larger number of smokers among "controls" and "a more frequent history of constipation and use of laxatives which were of doubtful significance" among the patients.

Author Rex Stout Going Strong at 80

By MARION E. PRILLOCK
Danbury News-Times
DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — It would take a considerable metamorphosis for spare, gray-haired, white-bearded author

Rex Stout to become the overweight, dark-haired, clean-shaven Nero Wolfe whose adventures in criminology have been the subject of 40 of Stout's published works.

AP Wirephoto

TAKES A BREAK—Rex Stout, author of 40 Nero Wolfe mysteries, takes time out from writing to take care of some plants in his Danbury, Conn., home. Stout observes his 80th birthday today by starting a new Nero Wolfe story, and he says it should take him the usual 39 days to complete.

In the place, Nero Wolfe, despite 32 years of literary detecting, is ageless. Rex Stout celebrates his 80th birthday today, and is marking the occasion by beginning a new Nero Wolfe story.

Writing the book will take the usual 39 days. Stout neither rewrites nor rewrites. Allowing for time out for the holidays, the book will be published, according to Stout, on May 9 or 10.

LOGICAL THINKING

Both Stout and Nero Wolfe credit a good part of their success to logical thinking. Stout describes logical thinking as the ability to consider a problem without introducing the extraneous.

He ascribes this ability — ergo, Wolfe's — to an arrangement "somewhere in my head."

He holds this same arrangement responsible for the fact that by the time he was 10, he had read the 1,200 books in his parents' library.

His sister, author and gardening expert Ruth Stout, says Rex began to read when he was 18 months old.

SAVED MONEY

"I rather doubt that," says Stout, "but I do remember that after I was 2, I started saving my money to buy my mother a gift. On my third birthday, I gave her a book."

Born in Noblesville, Ind., Dec. 1, 1886, Stout states unequivocally that he left Indiana at the age of 1, "because I was fed up with Indiana politics." He grew up near Topeka, Kan.

His appearance belies statistics. He neither looks nor acts his 80 years.

He is keen and vital, and exudes a lusty masculinity.

Stout's biographical data says he has been, successively, an office boy, store clerk, bookkeeper, sailor, hotel manager, inventor of the school thrift system — adopted by schools in 432 cities in the United States — and author.

In addition to writing 54 books in the past 36 years, Stout was master of ceremonies for the "Speaking of Liberty" radio programs in 1941 and the "Voice of Freedom" programs in 1942.

TIME OUTDOORS

Unlike Wolfe, Stout spends a great deal of time outdoors. In winter, he enjoys playing chess and tending his plants.

Like Wolfe, Stout enjoys good food and its preparation. He cooks dinner about three times a month at Highmeadow, the estate straddling Danbury and Brewster, N.Y., where he has lived for the past 36 years.

Says Stout: On sex: "Most boys and girls act the same now as they did 100 years ago."

On beards: "Fifty years ago, when I went packing into the mountains in Montana, I discovered that it was very lovely not to shave. I haven't shaved since. All this fur over boards on the young men today is silly."

"Wearing a beard or not wearing one is purely subjective. If any man wants to permit the hair that nature put there to grow, what right has anyone to comment, let alone condemn?"

Colleges Try to Fill Truck Driver Shortage

LANSING (UPI).—"The man who can assume responsibility, take command of a situation, possess the physical and mental aptitude requirements... will find excellent career opportunities awaiting him."

Sounds like a recruiting pitch from the Marine Corps, Army, Navy or Air Force.

But it's not. It's a plea for more truck drivers.

Two Michigan junior colleges, one in Lansing and the other in Highland Park, near Detroit, are training men to meet an increased demand for "big rig" drivers.

"The trucking industry is crying for qualified drivers. Unless more truck drivers are trained the American trucking industry is headed for a very serious crisis," said Marvin E. Snyder, chief instructor at Highland Park Community College.

LCC WAS FIRST

Lansing Community College, which started truck driving training classes nearly two years ago, was one of the first in the country to do so.

"Michigan alone will need 2,000 truck drivers next year," explained Leonard Snider, head of the Lansing College training course. The Michigan Association claims the business is the state's fourth leading industry.

Snider said the industry offers good pay salaries ranging from $8,000 a year for beginners in cities to $15,000 for long-distance haulers.

Early retirement, promotion to better jobs and more trucking business are responsible for creating the demand for more drivers.

FIRMS DONATE TRUCKS

Snyder said some trucking firms offer their own training courses but prefer the college workshop because of the concentrated classroom instruction.

A federal grant of $75,000 provides the financial backing for the Highland Park school. The Lansing school depends on an enrollment fee of $300 from local students and $250 from outsiders to meet its costs.

The state's major trucking firms and auto companies have donated trailer trucks and vans of varying sizes and makes for the men to use in highway training.

The Highland Park school began six months ago with four trucks and is patterned after the Lansing operation.

Both offer 20 hours of classroom work with emphasis on accident prevention, safety, freight handling, maintenance, first aid, use of emergency and fire equipment, driver situations, and the history of the trucking industry.

Special test tracks for training the drivers in making turns and in maneuvering in tight spots have been set up at both schools.

Highland Park trainees use the huge Michigan state fair grounds in Detroit. In Lansing, a five-acre abandoned commercial parking lot is used for training purposes.

Before graduation from the four-week course, the trainees must make two 400-mile round trip night runs and also complete 400 miles of city driving.

Trucks are loaded with steel and sand to allow the trainees to get the feel of heavy loads.

Both schools have small enrollments, mostly because they have been unable to get new students, said Snider. A four-week course which he now instructs has only eight students.

A new class will begin at Highland Park Dec. 15 and is expected to have about 20 students.

Furniture Firms Hire More Men

GRAND RAPIDS (AP).—Metropolitan Grand Rapids furniture factories were reported Wednesday to have increased their employment by 4 per cent in October, compared with the same month of 1965.

The national increase for the month was only 3 per cent, according to a survey released by Seidman and Seidman, furniture industry analysts.

'First Kidney Transplant Is Hardest'

By Science Service

WASHINGTON.—The chances of surviving a second and possibly a third, kidney transplant are better than surviving the first. The reason is that the system gets more accustomed to the "foreign invader" that is often rejected.

"We have had one little girl who has survived a third kidney transplant at the Medical College of Virginia," Dr. David M. Hume told Science Service in an interview here.

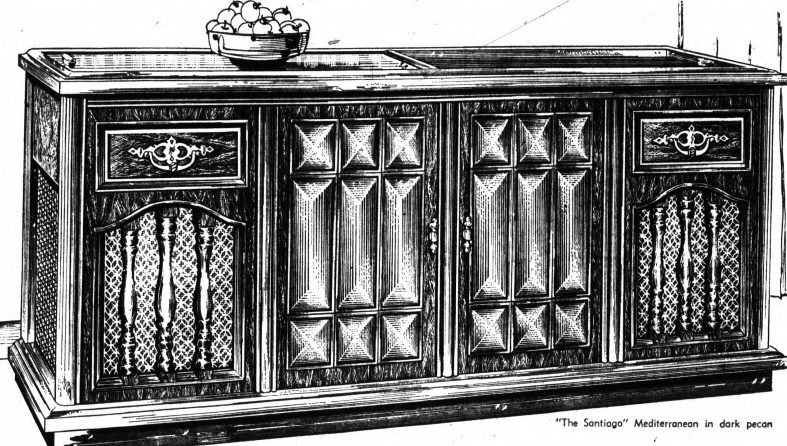

"Although we can say that a second transplant is much more likely to succeed than the first, we have had only the one patient with a third transplant and have no basis of comparison."

The child's first kidney was donated by her father, and the other two were from cadavers.

She has been living 19 months from the date of the first transplant.

Sixty-nine patients are still living after transplants over the four-year period from 1963-1966 at the college.

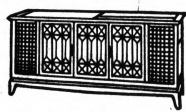

"We have transplanted 108 kidneys altogether in 98 patients," Dr. Hume said. "The longest survival time has been four years."

Draft Cutback for County Set

The State Selective Service office in Lansing late yesterday announced a 50 per cent cutback in Oakland County's induction quota for the month of January.

The new figure, according to Col. Arthur Holman, director, is 60, compared to a previous quota of 134.

The county call is among a state quota of 977. Nearly a third of that number — 266 — will come from Wayne County.

The revised Oakland figures include six men from Board No. 65 in Pontiac; seven from Board No. 67 drawing on southwestern Oakland County; and two from Board No. 331 serving the northern sector of the county.

In addition, Farmington Board No. 338 will call 23 men and the three Royal Oak boards 29.

Cavanagh Calls for New, Young Dem Candidates

FLINT (AP).—Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh of Detroit, menaced as a possible new leader of Michigan's Democratic party, called Wednesday for "new and younger candidates" in the party.

He told nearly 75 Genesee County leaders, most of them Democrats, that "a number of people should have influential roles in rebuilding our party."

"I'm hopeful of being of some help," Cavanagh said.

The mayor, who lost a U.S. Senate bid in the primary election, warned that if Michigan Democrats fail to take his advice, "the future will be similar to what happened in the Nov. 8 election of the GOP."

Make Steamed Pudding Now

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Anything you can do this far ahead of Christmas will make the last week easier for you. Making steamed pudding is one job you can get out of the way early.

Plum Puddings—really are miniature plums which contain no plums—used to take hours and hours of preparation. Now they don't take any more time than making a cake or other dessert.

Wrap your puddings well and keep them in the refrigerator or freezer until Christmas. Re-steam for an hour before serving.

This first recipe calls for biscuit mix which means you don't even have to measure and sift a number of dry ingredients.

MODERN PLUM PUDDING
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup brown sugar
2 eggs
1 cup biscuit mix
2 teaspoons grated orange rind

1/2 teaspoon each, cinnamon and nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 cup pitted, dried prunes, cut
1 cup raisins
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
1 cup fine soft bread crumbs
1 cup applesauce
1/2 cup brandy

Cream shortening with brown sugar; beat in eggs. Toss biscuit mix with orange rind, spices, fruit, nuts and bread crumbs; to mix. Add alternately with applesauce and brandy to creamed mixture. Beat well.

Pour into a greased 1 1/2-quart pudding mold or bowl. Cover mold with its own cover or with foil. Tie foil with string to secure it.

Place mold on a rack in a large kettle. Add boiling water to 1/2 the depth of the mold. Cover the kettle and steam the pudding 2 to 2 1/2 hours.

Keep the water boiling and add more as needed to maintain the level. The pudding is done when it is firm to the touch.

Unmold on a heated serving plate and garnish with a sprig of holly. At serving time, heat 1/4 cup more brandy or fruit liqueur, set the spirit on fire, and pour it blazing over the pudding. Serve with Christmas hard sauce.

Christmas Hard Sauce
1/2 cup butter
2 1/2 cups confectioners sugar
Brandy or liqueur of choice

Cream butter, gradually beat in sugar (sift if necessary). Add brandy or liqueur (any fruit flavor) to make a light, fluffy, soft mixture that will just hold its shape. Keeps well in the refrigerator, indefinitely in the freezer.

American cooks in colonial days made their holiday puddings with molasses. Experts

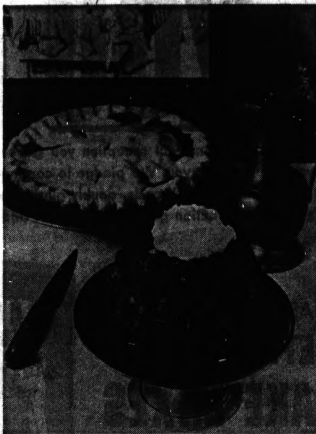

Salmon Is Mixture Base

The seasonings and sauce make this salmon main dish something special.

Combine the liquid and oil from a pound can of salmon with 2 cups corn flakes, 2 eggs, 1 small chopped onion, 1/2 cup evaporated milk, 1/2 teaspoon each thyme, savory and salt and a dash of pepper. Pack the salmon mixture into well-greased custard cups and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) about 20 minutes. Serve the hot salmon cups with cucumber sauce.

To make the sauce, stir some finely chopped, peeled cucumber into Tartar sauce and add a dash of Worcestershire sauce with a pinch or two of sugar. Five servings.

Try paring egg plant, slicing and cutting into thin strips then dip into fritter batter and fry in deep hot fat. It's good and so easily done.

GRANDMA'S PLUM PUDDING

Make Cheese-Walnut Sauce

Combine one cup ricotta or creamy cottage cheese with 1/2 cup chopped California walnuts. Flavor to taste with sugar, nutmeg and rum or brandy. Very refreshing served over warm

Eight to nine egg whites measure about one cup.

New Booklet Tells How to Mail Food

For homemakers interested in sending gift goodies to far-away places, Pillsbury has just introduced a new booklet called "Hints and Helps for Mailing Baked Foods."

The 16-page booklet contains suggestions on kinds of food to mail, instructions for food packing and wrapping, general mailing hints, and information on sending food packages to servicemen, when they are preparing men overseas. "Hints and Helps" also features assorted recipes that have been carefully tested and found to be "travel-tested."

To order a free copy, write to The Pillsbury Company, Mail Station No. 908, 600 Second Avenue South, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55402.

Taste of Coffee Is in Filling and Frosting

Here's a biscuit variation that's so simple to make you'll want to serve it often. Quick and uncomplicated, yes — and oh, so good to eat! Coffee-Nut Scone Rolls will make your family or your guests feel happily pampered.

Serve warm or cool—but like any quick breads, they do taste extra special straight from the oven!

Of course, as a conscientious homemaker you're always concerned about nutrition. So note that the recipe calls for enriched flour. The word "enriched" means to "add in the wealth of." And that's exactly what has been done to the flour—its nutritional wealth has been increased through the addition of three B-vitamins, thiamine, niacin, and riboflavin, plus the mineral, iron, essential nutrients the body needs daily for growth, maintenance and repair.

The enrichment process—now in its 25th year—is a scientific contribution to the health needs of the Nation.

COFFEE-NUT Scone ROLLS
2 cups sifted enriched flour
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup shortening
1 egg, beaten
¼ to ½ cup milk
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
¼ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
2 tablespoons chopped nuts
2 teaspoons instant coffee powder
¼ cup confectioners sugar
2 teaspoons milk

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into mixing bowl. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Blend together egg and ¼ cup milk. Add liquid all at once to flour mixture, stirring until flour is moistened. If necessary, add more milk to make a soft dough.

Turn out onto lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead gently 30 seconds. Roll out to 12-inch square. Brush with butter or margarine. Combine brown sugar, nuts and 1 teaspoon coffee powder; sprinkle evenly over dough.

Roll up jelly-roll fashion, sealing edges securely. Cut into 1-inch thick slices. Place on lightly greased baking sheet. Bake in preheated 425 degree oven 12 to 15 minutes, or until golden brown.

While rolls are baking, blend together confectioners sugar, 2 teaspoons milk and remaining coffee powder. Cool rolls slightly, then drizzle icing over warm rolls. Serve warm or cool.

*If you don't sift and in the absence of other directions, spoon flour directly from container into a one-cup dry measure, level off, then remove two level tablespoons, according to USDA recommendations.

NOTE: If self-rising flour is used, omit baking powder and salt.

COFFEE-NUT Scone ROLLS — When the neighbors drop in for a kaffee-klatch, or the youngsters clamor for an after-school milk "break," serve them a special treat — Coffee-Nut Scone Rolls.

Spices and Herbs Will Add Flavor

Be a creative cook the easy way with the use of spices and herbs. Here are a few suggestions to add to your recipe file: For interesting texture, use 2 cups each of mayonnaise and 2 teaspoons poppy seed in a one-crust pastry; add ½ teaspoon nutmeg to 1 cup pancake or waffle mix; for a zesty dip, 2½ teaspoons chili powder and ¼ cup each of mayonnaise and 2 teaspoons poppy seed in a one-crust cream. Bon appetit!

Bake Appetizers

Bacon-wrapped chicken-liver halves, water chestnuts or plums-stuffed olives may be placed on the flat rack of a very shallow roasting pan and then be baked in a hot oven for about 30 minutes or until hot through and the bacon is crisp.

Crisp the Lettuce

For lettuce that is limp, place in a bowl of ice water. Drain, place in plastic bag and then in the coldest shelf in your refrigerator for 30 minutes.

Pour bottled coleslaw dressing over shredded crisp western iceberg lettuce and sprinkle with poppy seeds.

Pork and Rice Bake in Stock

Allow 1 pork chop and ½ cup rice for each serving. Season chops to taste with salt and pepper. Brown in melted shortening. Remove chops and brown uncooked rice in the drippings. For 4 servings, add about 2 cups chicken stock, ¼ teaspoon thyme and ½ cup each diced green pepper and diced onion. Arrange rice medley in baking pan; place browned chops over this. Cover and bake one hour at 350 degrees.

Sprinkle mashed potatoes with roasted diced almonds and chopped parsley.

Group Looks to Congress to Crack Down on Labor

WASHINGTON (AP) — A national contractors' group, accusing construction unions of "excessive" wage demands, joined in speculation today that the new Congress may act to crack down on organized labor.

The development followed White House confirmation that a presidential task force is studying ways to protect the national interest in major strikes.

And it added to organized labor's fears that the more conservative tone of the new Congress convening Jan. 10 may lead to demands for the first new strike legislation since the 1947 Taft-Hartley Act.

"Certainly the recent elections improve the prospects of securing passage for legislation to curb union irresponsibility," said the Associated General Contractors of America.

FIRST TARGET

Construction unions were the first target of an unsuccessful Johnson administration effort last year to hold wage increases down to White House guidelines of 3.2 per cent a year.

"The contractors' association said its survey of 216 wage settlements in the industry showed average pay hikes of about 6.6 per cent a year. The Labor Department has estimated major construction contract wage hikes in 1966 at 5.9 per cent.

In Texas, White House spokesman George Christian said the Justice, Labor and other federal departments had been studying the problem of strikes, but that no recommendations had been made to President Johnson.

Asst. Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds said the White House task force study was in line with increasing concern over "the whole question of labor disputes that injure the public and the image of labor."

MOVES EXPECTED

AFL-CIO President George Meany said recently he had no direct word from the White House, but that he expected congressional moves for some kind of strike legislation, and possibly wage-price controls.

The contractors' group also said drastic changes, including wage controls, "are inevitable unless unions show more responsibility and restraint at the bargaining table next year."

TEACHER OF YEAR—Arlyne E. Phillips, head teacher in Dearborn's 3-year-old school program for mentally retarded children, has been named Michigan's Teacher of the Year. Miss Phillips, 48, and a staff of seven teach 55 severely retarded children. She will be entered as Michigan's candidate in nationwide competition, the winner becoming a member of the Presidential Scholars Commission.

Girl Hopes for Christmas With Parents

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Delmar Correll Perrine, 17, Kalamazoo may have what she terms the first happy Christmas of her life.

She has a baby due on Christmas day—and she may also see her parents the same day—for the first time in 17 years.

Delmar wrote a letter recently to Indianapolis Police Chief Neal Jones saying her parents had separated after three months of marriage and her mother, Manuela, left her at an aunt's home when she was only 4 weeks old.

She said she has been trying to track down her parents most of her life.

Mrs. Perrine said she found out her mother is a nurse in Chicago and her father is working in Indiana.

SUCCESSFUL SEARCH

Chief Jones put Lt. Robert Morrison in charge of a search and he found Delmar Correll working for a stone company in Logansport, Ind.

The letter to Chief Jones reads in part: "I am writing to see if you could find my daddy who I have never seen in my life, and I would like to have him and my mother for Christmas."

"My husband is fighting in Viet Nam . . . and so I need my daddy very much."

Mrs. Perrine added, "My mother and daddy burned their marriage license after three months of marriage, and my daddy doesn't even know he has a daughter."

"I got a new certificate for them and maybe they could start over and then we could all become a family."

"Please Mr. Officer, could you have it put in an Indianapolis newspaper and maybe my daddy will read it."

Good to the taste—smooth, mellow, satisfying. Good to the pocket, too. It costs only $4.80 and it's really worth much more. And, if you're skeptical about a value like that,

Short-Term Anesthetic Tested at 'M'

ANN ARBOR (AP) — University of Michigan doctors say they have found a new, short-acting anesthetic "of utmost value" for children, some adult burn victims and a variety of office procedures.

Dr. Guenter Curssen, professor of anesthesiology, said the anesthetic has been used on more than 800 patients at University Hospital in the past two years.

A bit of the watery-looking fluid, Curssen said, produces general anesthesia lasting from 10 to 20 minutes when injected into a vein or muscle.

The patient recovers rapidly and is usually free of the effects of the drug in 30 minutes, he said.

USE LIMITED

The new drug is limited to investigational use.

A spokesman for the company that produces the drug said the company will soon seek approval from the Food and Drug Administration to make the drug available commercially.

Justice Dept. Sifts Cases for Eavesdropping

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is investigating all cases it has prosecuted — and those headed for court — to make certain no evidence on which they are based was obtained by electronic eavesdropping.

The review could go back to early days of bugging devices — but department officials could not say how many years or how many cases might be involved.

The department announced the investigation in a supplementary memorandum filed during its review of cases the government will "promptly notify the appropriate court."

The government also made public a motion it filed several days ago with the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, Ohio.

There, the government said the Federal Bureau of Investigation had monitored the conversations of three defendants who were convicted, but said the material obtained was not part of the evidence against them.

That case involved Frank Deniro Jr., Michael Deniro and Louis Deniro, convicted of conspiring to defraud the government and attempting to defraud an estate tax.

LITTLE CHANCE

A department spokesman estimated the chances at "one in a thousand" that cases already tried would be reopened for reason of illegal bugging.

The spokesman did not say when the review began, but said it started "because this problem had arisen in a case or two — and the department wanted to find out whether other cases were affected."

The memorandum said the department recognized "its obligation not to use evidence obtained in violation of a defendant's protected rights in any criminal prosecution."

It said results of the investigation are being sent to Clark. It added: "A careful review of pending and prospective prosecutions is being conducted by the department for the purpose of determining what other cases might fall within this category."

Principals Meet

DETROIT (AP) — Nearly 800 Michigan secondary school principals opened a convention Wednesday in Detroit. Chief topic before the principals is their relationship with teachers, in view of recent legislation that gave teachers the right to organize and bargain collectively.

'No Vacancy' Haunts House-Hungry Area

By L. GARY THORNE

The "No Vacancy" sign is proving a starkly realistic symbol of a desperate need being felt by many Pontiac area families.

Specific numbers are yet undetermined, but the giant need has been expressed by spokesmen for labor unions, minority nationality groups, businesses and most loudly, by the displaced themselves.

Widespread concern has been focused on the problem. A variety of public officials have repeatedly termed the housing shortage as "drastic" and "critical."

But, what is the housing situation? What is its cause?

Ironically, record auto production and the accompanying prosperity that has embraced the nation also appears as the number one cause of the housing shortage.

POPULATION BOOM

Growth has been dictated not only by unprecedented prosperity but also by rapidly increasing population. Once rural in character, Oakland County appears destined to be the center of an urban complex stretching from Detroit to Flint and beyond.

These are large forces at work. However, the immediate problem is housing.

Tentative figures collected to show the extent of the housing situation reflect the area's growth. For example, employment at the three General Motors Corp. plants has risen steadily for the past 5½ years.

In 1960, the local GM plants employed 25,342 persons. There had been a 42.9 per cent increase by the end of the last year. The total number employed had jumped to 39,124 by June 30, 1966—a gain of 13,782 persons.

FELL BEHIND

Meanwhile, the construction of housing has not kept pace. In some 25 communities in the Pontiac area, there has been a net gain of 19,330 residential dwelling units in the 1960-1966 period.

(Subtracted from these dwelling units are demolitions during the same time period.)

According to a housing tally secured from the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission, building activity has been on the rise.

In 1960, there was a net gain of 1,952 residential dwelling units. In 1965, there were 4,441 such units.

GAINS MADE

And through June of this year, there were 2,641 units constructed, less those demolished.

Of the 25 Pontiac area communities, new housing is most prevalent in five municipalities—West Bloomfield, Avon, Bloomfield and Waterford Townships and Troy.

Bloomfield Township has experienced the most new housing with 4,024 dwelling how. A blue ribbon committee of 27 community leaders has attempted to analyze the "crisis."

Initial research, according to committee members, has disclosed that the housing problem runs deeper and is hugely more complex than some housing proponents previously indicated.

There is a need, at least it would now appear, that a variety of housing must be built for nearly all income brackets. "Strangely enough," explained a committee member, "we need housing priced from $5,000 to $30,000."

In recent months, particularly in Pontiac, there has been considerable agitation for added public housing. The past ban on such housing has been lifted, but even more public housing is expected to meet only a small part of the demand for housing.

VARIOUS STUDIES

The various studies of housing have shown that those in the Pontiac area seeking it are not necessarily the poor or down-trodden.

Often the head of the house is gainfully employed, earning reasonably good wages. But, for one reason or another, the family has to leave its rented house or, perhaps because savings-sapping sickness, has caused a foreclosure.

Usually such a family is large enough so an apartment of one or even two bedrooms will not replace the former quarters. Financially, the family can not purchase a home, and rental property is scarce.

Although the facts and figures are not yet complete to draw a full picture of the housing situation, initial findings indicate meeting the current demand plus that projected for the future may be a giant endeavor.

NEEDS REPAIR

Still another wrinkle in the problem affects some areas, including Pontiac. As indicated by the 12,504 units listed in some state of advanced decay, a substantial amount (13.3 per cent) of existing housing needs repair.

This added fuel for the housing crisis, a problem made difficult by its proportions.

GOOD HOUSING—Pontiac's housing comes in variety of shapes, sizes and conditions. Here, the Pontiac Knolls subdivision north of Mount Clemens represents some of the city's newer and better housing.

EVERYTHING BUT . . .—This collection of trash has everything but the kitchen sink, substituting an outdoor grill. Located back of a store, this trash pile is adjacent to one of the city's residential areas, illustrating some of the problems that face those who have found shelter but find it undesirable.

CAR LOT—A nearly new, but apparently nonoperating automobile joins two other cars and a pickup truck in a south side Pontiac neighborhood to offer a "used car lot" appearance to two homes. The rundown effect seems to carry over to the neighborhood.

FHA PROPERTY—This FHA property on California on the city's South Side represents a rarity. Repossessed Federal Housing Administration and Veteran Administration properties in the city were substantial in number a couple of years ago, the latest monthly tally of FHA and VA properties lists only half-a-dozen homes.

OVER 60 PER CENT—These new town house units, located roughly across from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, illustrate further the type of housing being built in Pontiac. Over 60 per cent of all dwelling unit starts since January 1964 have been multiple family-type residences. The figure was 40 per cent for the entire Detroit metropolitan area last year.

Cruel Month of November Brings Tragedy to the Lakes

DETROIT (AP) — November is the cruellest month upon the five inland seas known as the Great Lakes.

Many great storms have sprung as if from nowhere in this month. One such sent the freighter Daniel J. Morrell to the bottom.

It was only eight years ago this month that the giant freighter Carl D. Bradley—as long as two football fields end-to-end—suddenly broke apart and plummeted to the bottom in a Lake Michigan storm. Thirty-three of her 35-man crew died with her on the night of Nov. 18, 1958.

Until now no other ship ever has taken so many with it in a Great Lakes sinking, but the worst disaster of all swept the lakes 53 years ago this month.

19 SHIPS LOST

Between Nov. 7 and Nov. 12, 1913, a total of 19 ships went down, 11 without trace or survivors, and 20 others were grounded in storms. An estimated 250 sailors died in the fury of those six days.

Insurance companies acknowledge the ravages of winter on Great Lakes shipping. Insurance rates climb through November, double on Dec. 1 and double again after Dec. 3.

The rate then doubles every few days until by Dec. 12 or 15 it becomes prohibitive and the line elects to carry its own insurance or lay up the vessel for the season.

The same storm which sank the Morrell in Lake Huron Tuesday broke apart the German freighter Nordmeer which had gone aground on a reef off Alpena Nov. 19.

805 SENT

The eight crewmen who had remained aboard sent an SOS at 3:03 a.m. Tuesday. A helicopter pilot who said "God was real nice to us," plucked them off during an unexpected break in a gale-force snow squall at dusk.

Across Michigan's Lower Peninsula in Lake Michigan a railroad car ferry with 104 passengers and crewmen aboard, aground for three days on a sandbar, reached port on Wednesday night.

The Bradley, a limestone carrier, riding empty, was headed up Lake Michigan through heavy seas, about 100 miles from her Lake Huron home port of Rogers City, Mich., when disaster overtook her at 5:31 p.m.

The Cedarville herself went to the bottom in the spring of 1965 after a collision with a foreign ship near the fogbound straits of Mackinaw. Eight perished in that mishap.

BROKE APART

She broke apart so quickly they were was no time to lower lifeboats; time only for the first mate to shout "May Day" and rattle off position. After that the Bradley was silent.

Doctors said survival of two crewmen found ice-sheathed 14 hours later aboard a raft was "an amazing piece of human endurance."

Four made it to the raft which gushed up with flotsam from the sinking ship, her back broken. A wave washed one man away into the night. Another, apparently crazed by the torture of encrusting ice, jumped overboard only an hour before rescue came at dawn on Nov. 19, 1958.

Loss of the 615-foot Bradley of the U. S. Steel Corp. fleet brought heartache to many homes in Little Rogers City, which had a population of 4,722.

Fifty-two children were left fatherless.

Elmer Fleming, then 42 and the first mate, and Frank Mays, then a 33-year-old seaman, were the survivors.

Fleming and Mays agreed after rescue, there suddenly was "a big thud."

They also agreed the big ship had broken in two, almost immediately.

The reason never was determined. Some theorized she might have been suspended in air by simultaneous waves at her bow and stern. Others suggested rivets might have been rent amidships in wallowing in the towering seas.

When rescued, after being spotted by plane, Fleming's and Mays' raft had been driven 15 miles northward by 42-mile winds. Spray torn from wave tops formed the ice sheath on them.

Five years later both Fleming and Mays wanted to forget, not remember. Fleming refused to be interviewed or photographed on the bridge of the freighter Cedarville, a sister of the Bradley's which he then skippered.

Wife Hopes... in Vain

ST. CLAIR (UPI) — Janice Fobender sat home waiting last night. She never gave up hope. Her husband, Charles, was one of the 32 missing crewmen in the sinking of an iron ore ship near Harbor Beach.

"I know he isn't dead," she said crying at the thought of the possibility, "I'll never give up hope... never."

Then the news came. The telephone rang and a reporter informed Mrs. Fobender that her husband had been identified as a victim of the tragic incident. She fell to the couch in shock. She cried... and cried... and cried.

Groveland and Progress: Companions for Future

By JANICE KLOUSER

GROVELAND TOWNSHIP — Progress is catching up with this once quiet, predominantly agricultural township. For years, the population remained fairly stable and there was very little construction. The majority of the residents made their living from the land.

Suddenly, within the last two years, things have started to move.

This year alone, there has been more than $1 million in new construction compared to $100,000 in past years.

"And this is a conservative estimate," said Township Supervisor Earl B. Rhinevault, who is all for the progress.

NOT UNWITTED Apparently not all the residents agree with him, however.

"This boom is really going to shake people some day,"

News of the Area

he said. "There are many who don't want to see a change come about."

The 62-year-old supervisor probably knows his township as well as anyone. A lifelong resident, his present home at 8159 Buckell Lake is only a short distance from where he was born.

Located in the northwest section of Oakland County, the township is roughly 25 miles from Pontiac. With expressway travel, Detroit is only 35 minutes away.

EXPLANATION The close proximity to Detroit and Flint, which is only 20 minutes away, is given as one explanation for the growth which continues as people move from the cities to the wide open spaces of the township.

And with the influx of population, the rural face of the community is changing from agricultural to residential.

Twenty years ago, when Rhinevault became supervisor, there were 125 farms. Today, there are but nine.

The population which had remained constant for years jumped from 1,306 in the 1960 census to more than 2,200 in the last two years, according to Rhinevault.

PROBLEMS ARISE

The growth is starting to create problems, however. More people mean a greater demand for services. New residents want more fire and police protection and garbage collection, all of which require money the township doesn't have.

It may soon be up to the people to help solve their own fire protection problem. Township officials are considering a vote to establish a fire district accompanied by a one-mill increase in taxes.

Currently, the township pays about $5,000 for fire protection to Orionville, Davisburg and Holly.

Another sign of progress is the proposed new township hall which residents may be asked to provide with another mill increase in taxes.

NOTHING FINAL

No final decision has been made yet on either proposal.

If a new township hall is approved, the site for it is ready and waiting. A year ago, the township purchased a 2½-acre site on Barron and Grange Hall, but funds were not available for the new hall.

The present hall, built in 1875 on Wildwood near Grange Hall, is rarely used except for township meetings.

Officials keep most of the township records in their own homes.

The township's lack of funds can be attributed in part to the absence of a substantial tax base.

Taxes this year totaled about $200,000, mostly in property taxes, but about 85 per cent of it goes to the three school districts which serve the township.

Two large camps, which between them take up 1,100 acres, are tax exempt. However, township officials are trying to get one, Camp Tamarrack, on the tax rolls. The matter is now awaiting an opinion from the attorney general.

At least a quarter of the township's land area, about 5,000 acres, is state owned. While not tax exempt, it is land which can't be used for industry.

A FOOTHOLD

Industry is nevertheless beginning to gain a foothold. Within the last few years, such businesses as Holly Mining, Ann Arbor Construction Co., Holly Ready Mix, Jennings Transport and Mount Holly Ski Resort have moved in.

Water and sewers would undoubtedly attract more industry, but the township isn't ready for it yet, according to Rhinevault.

Also adding to the tax rolls are 30 new homes in the $20,000 to $30,000 price range, 185 new families in the new mobile home park, and a proposed new toboggan slide area.

Evidence of the growth is the jump in assessed valuation this year from $1 million to $1.5 million.

"We will probably need a master plan some day," said Rhinevault, "because we are really going to grow."

Police Are Probing Fatal Lapeer Crash

Lapeer State Police are investigating a two-car accident early yesterday morning which proved fatal to James M. Foltz, 41, of Columbiaville, and critically injured a passenger in a second car.

Officers said Foltz's car collided head-on with one driven by Charles Matia, 42, also of Columbiaville.

Both Matia and his wife, Marion, 40, are patients at St. Joseph's Hospital, Flint, where she is listed in critical condition.

Foltz was driving alone. icy roads were the cause of the accident, said State Police.

Loan Approved for WMU Work

KALAMAZOO (UPI) — Western Michigan University yesterday received a $4 million loan for construction of a new college-type residence complex. The loan was approved by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Construction will begin on the project in 1968.

In Romeo District

Field Upgrading Eyed

ROME — A decision to hire an engineer has given impetus to the program to upgrade the school district's athletic field.

The Board of Education voted this week to ask for an engineering survey following a report of a committee composed of teachers and board members.

Daniel Barnabo, Romeo athletic director, cited the need for lighting, a better seating capacity, and track facilities at the field.

The field is located on Morton, a block from the junior high school and three blocks from the senior high. It is used by both schools, by the community recreation group and by adult ball clubs.

Serving with Barnabo on the committee are David Olson, Ray Gamelin, Walter Sewell, Rex Mattinger and Robert Randall.

OPEN HOUSE

An open house at the new Indian Hills Elementary School was set for 2 p.m. Dec. 11, prior to Romeo's school bond vote Dec. 19.

Dem Club Elects Trustees, Delegate

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — Two trustees and a delegate-at-large were elected at a recent meeting of the Independence Township Democratic Club.

Named trustees were Stanley Eaton of 5324 Pine Knob and James Humphrey of 4851 Clintonville. E. R. King of 5550 Mary Sue was elected to the delegate-at-large post.

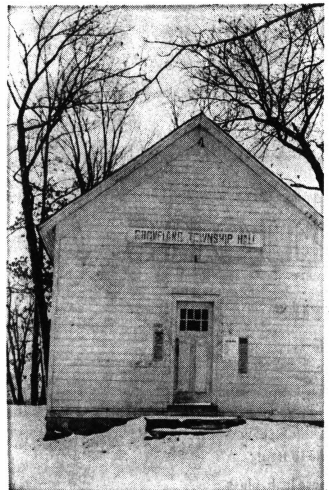

The club elected Charles Curry Jr. of 5729 Warbler as its 1966-67 chairman at a meeting in September.

Elected at the same meeting, Paul Derryberry of 5208 Maybee and Robert G. Phillips of 55 Orion are serving as vice chairmen of the club.

The club will meet next at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 19 in the home of Bernice M. Fuller of 5200 Pine Knob.

Romeo to Get Aid on Plan if It Will Pay Part of Cost

ROME — The village has received approval on a federal grant to assist in working out a master plan for future growth, according to the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Clerk Norman Engel said word was received last week that the government will pay two-thirds of a $14,910 planning project. Romeo will be expected to pay the other $5,000, if it takes part in the program.

The Village Council will discuss the matter at its next meeting Dec. 12, according to Engel.

Application for the aid was made a year and a half ago, and, according to Engel, the village's financial picture has changed somewhat since then.

Said Engel, "Five thousand dollars is a lot of money for a small town to put out. We need the planning, particularly since Ford Motor Co. has moved here, but it will be up to the council to decide."

Children's Home to Hold Annual Benefit Dec. 11

FARMINGTON — The Seton Guild of the St. Vincent and Sarah Fisher Home for Children will hold its annual benefit Christmas tea from 2 to 5 p.m. Dec. 11 at the home, 12 Mile and Inkster roads.

Proceeds from the tea will be used to purchase large playground equipment for the new Mother Seton School.

Assisting president Mrs. John C. Malpel will be Sisters of the home and committee members.

Party Dec. 17 in Rochester

ROCHESTER — Rochester Goodfellows have set this year's Christmas party for needy children at 1 p.m. Dec. 17 at Central Junior High School.

Last year the group entertained 225 children with dinner, a toy each and candy.

Support for the program, plus the distribution last year of 13 family Christmas dinners, comes from the sale of Good-fellow papers.

Some 75 salesmen are expected to take to the streets tomorrow and Saturday to raise money for needy families this year.

Lake Orion Concert Event Aids Interlochen Fund

LAKE ORION — A concert by both Faulmann and his wife had members of the high school band has enriched the Joseph E. Maddy Interlochen Memorial Fund by $200.

As a gift to the Maddy fund, the contribution qualified for an additional gift of $50 from the W. Clement and Jessie V. Stone Foundation of Chicago.

The foundation pays $1 for every $4 contributed by others in Interlochen's campaign to raise $25 million. Maddy was founder of the National Music Camp.

The local concert was the inspiration of Roger Faulmann, conductor of the Lake Orion High School Symphonic band and former student and staff member at Interlochen.

Lake Orion has been sending students to the All-State division of the National Music Camp and both Faulmann and his wife had members of the high school band has enriched the Joseph E. Maddy Interlochen Memorial Fund by $200.

The Lake Orion benefit concert, presented by the band, the Girls' Glee Club, barbershop quartet and mixed chorus of the school, was the first given outside of Interlochen since Dr. Maddy's death last spring.

The band will present its annual Christmas concert at 8 p.m. Dec. 15 at the Lake Orion High School.

Board Takes Land Options

MILFORD — The Huron Valley Board of Education this week approved taking an option on two parcels of land to be used for future elementary school sites.

The parcels of land, one 13 acres and one 16 acres, are located in the southeast and the central portions of the district.

Also discussed, but tabled until the next meeting, was liberalizing the policy covering the use of school buildings by outside groups.

Children's Night

Stone School PTA will host a children's night at 7:30 p.m. next Thursday.

Members of the 4-H Club, Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts, Campfire Girls, YMCA and Boys' Club will demonstrate with slides and plays the after-school activities of children.

GOP Senators Face Rift Over Fund Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — What Sen. Everett M. Dirksen describes as a very interesting struggle is developing between Senate Republican liberals and conservatives over their next campaign chairman.

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, took refuge in the statement that "nothing has been settled" when asked by a reporter about what now looks like a three-man race for the job held by Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky.

By custom Morton will step out of the Campaign Committee chairmanship in January because his Senate seat will be at stake in 1968.

In an atmosphere charged with presidential politics, Sens. George Murphy of California, Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and John G. Tower of Texas are being advanced as prospective candidates.

AFTER JAN. 10

The next chairman will be chosen by the conference of Republican senators, meeting after the 90th Congress convenes Jan. 10.

Dirksen has assumed a neutral attitude up to this point — a stance he might not be able to maintain much longer.

The campaign chairman's primary job is to raise money for Republican senatorial nominees and to distribute it equitably among them.

But the assignment also includes travel about the country, speeches at fund-raising dinners, huddles with local political leaders and the drumming up of likely candidates for senatorial contests.

Barry Goldwater held the job for two 2-year terms.

The liberals, still outnumbered among Senate Republicans despite addition to their ranks in the Nov. 8 election, are expected to rally behind Scott while Tower is the candidate of some — but not necessarily all — of the conservatives.

Muslims regard religious images with abhorrence, and an image of Mohammed as a desecration.

Speck Ruled Fit to Stand Trial

CHICAGO (UPI) — Richard W. Speck is mentally competent to stand trial on charges of slaughtering eight young nuns. The ruling was returned — on orders — by a jury yesterday.

Criminal Court Judge Herbert C. Paschen overrode the objections of public defender Gerald W. Getty and ordered the seven men and five women to return the verdict.

Paschen said he would consider a change of venue motion in a hearing today.

Getty, who objected to the hearing in the first place, again raised a dissenting voice yesterday when Paschen told the jury "The preponderance of the greater weight of evidence — of all the eminent doctors who testified — shows that Richard Franklin Speck is competent to stand trial."

"It's a sad day for Cook County," Getty said, "when a jury cannot take the evidence into its own hands and return with its own verdict."

VERDICT

The jury was out only two minutes. Its verdict read:

"We, the jury, find that Richard Franklin Speck was at the time of the empanelling of this jury and is now able to understand the nature of the charges against him and is able to assist in his own defense."

All seven testified that Speck was mentally competent to stand trial and aid in his defense.

"It's a sad day for Cook County," Getty said, "when a jury cannot take the evidence into its own hands and return with its own verdict."

Spirits Of Passengers Undiminished As Ordeal Ends

3 Days Stranded on Lake

Ferry Freed, All Safe

LUDINGTON (AP) — "The were 'really kind of fun,' and time at bridge tables, over last time I went on the ship a had nothing but compliments coffee and just talking.

"This time we got stuck on a sandbar. I don't think I'll make the trip again for a while."

Mrs. David Schmidke of Midland echoed many of the comments of debarking passengers. "We really had a fine time. I hate to go home to my own cooking and housework," she said.

WORRIED WAITERS

Among worried relatives and friends waiting on the frigid pier was E. W. Born, of Manitowish, Wis., whose daughter, Mary Ann, 22, was returning to her teaching job in Kalamazoo.

"I drove all night to get here," he said. "The worst part was not being able to communicate with the ship and not really knowing how they were doing. We were really pretty worried a good part of the time."

CHEERING CROWD

To the accompaniment of automobile horns, ship whistles and cheering onlookers the 407-foot vessel steamed into the channel under her own power. Nearly all the passengers said the three days of being stranded

"One thing for sure, there were no snobs aboard. Everybody was very friendly and we all got along real well," said Mrs. Ralph Hickmott of Oxford, Mich.

CHILDREN ABOARD

Many small children came off the ship in their parents' arms. Some were crying, but others said they enjoyed the extended trip.

Tamy Lyn Ledger, 6, of Reed City, said she wanted to make the trip again.

"They gave me some cards and I played with the other kids. It was fun," she said.

John Miller, second cook aboard the Midland, said there were few problems in feeding the passengers and crew.

"We've still got some food left in the galley and could have stayed out a while longer," he said.

Piston Clinic

Coach Art Paddy and members of the West Bloomfield High School team will participate on the program during the annual Detroit Pistons' basketball clinic at Coca Cola Arena on Saturday.

Paddy will share the spotlight with coaches Dave DeBusschere (Detroit Pistons), Larry Kerr (Chicago Bulls) and Bill Peely (Detroit Catholic Central) during the 90-minute event which will precede the Detroit-Chicago game.

The clinic will begin at 6 p.m. Paddy will run his players through a series of offensive drills in their first appearance on the Pistons' annual schoolboy clinic.

All area schools are invited to attend the clinic and remain for the game that follows. They should call the Pistons in advance.

Bowlers who wish to bowl and shoot for the "800" target score Sunday should have their entries in at Huron Bowl, 300 Bow Airway Lanes or Cooley Lanes this evening.

The squads will be made up at their respective houses with the exception of each site expected to start at 10:30 a.m.

CHANCE TO RE-ENTER

Those who fail to hit the 600 average in the early rounds will have the opportunity to re-enter in later squares at any of the establishments.

Last week 7 bowlers, a first week high, bowled 600 or better to gain semi-final berths.

If past tournaments are any indication, at least another 100 may hit the mark Sunday at the four sites.

Some 300 bowlers are expected to compete in the semi-finals Sunday morning December 18th at Huron Bowl and then follow with the top 12% per bowler in the finals at 300 Bowl that afternoon.

Also that afternoon they should call the Pistons in ad-day's opening qualifying round where Wiley Keeth whose 742 total at Huron Bowl topped all bowlers for the day.

At 300 Bowl Monroe Moore's 712 and 691 actual was tops, while at Airway Lloyd Cress finished with 719 and at Cooley, Sid Harris totaled 672.

Cooley led the parade of qualifiers with 26.

Qualifying trophy awards will go to the top scorer at each house following the final qualifying day, Sunday, December 11.

There will be no extension of qualifying, thus bowlers should get the times and sites they desire for this Sunday and next as soon as possible.

Irish Were Gunning for No. 1--Parseghian

DETROIT (AP)—Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian said his team was trying for the national championship and points to the latest Associated Press poll as proof that he used the right strategy in the final minutes of the Michigan State game.

Notre Dame was ranked No. 1 nationally and MSU No. 2 going into the game Nov. 19. With the score tied 10-10, Notre Dame ran out the clock rather than go for the long pass.

"Notre Dame plays in no conference," Parseghian told a football dinner audience here Wednesday night. "The national polls mean everything to us, and those who vote in the polls put a premium on being undefeated."

BAD POSITION

"We had bad field position. 'Another big factor is that for MSU it was all over with that game. At the end of that game, they hang up the pads. There is no more,' Parseghian said.

"But we had an overtime. We could control our own destiny. For us, there is another game. Southern California. So we didn't try for the bomb."

"If you say this is wrong, then look at the national polls to day," he concluded.

Notre Dame smashed South Cal in the final game and increased its poll margin over MSU.

"Actually," the Notre Dame coach joked, "it was an easy decision to make. When I first became coach at Notre Dame I got a telegram from an alumni group telling me, 'We're with you, win or tie.'"

"But," Parseghian concluded, "judging from the mail I got after the MSU tie, I guess that word 'tie' can be dropped."

Wolverines Rebuild After Russell Era

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—What will the University of Michigan basketball team be like without Cazzie Russell?

UM fans will find out tonight as the Wolverines open the 1966-67 season here against Tennessee, Saturday Michigan plays Duke at Durham, N. C., then returns to Ann Arbor for the home opener.

That comes Monday night against University of Houston. But not only is two-time All-America Russell gone from the Michigan squad, so are such men as John Thompson, Jim Myers, Oliver Dargen and John Clawson.

Only three lettermen return from the defending Big Ten championship team: Craig Dill, Dennis Bankey and Jim Pitts.

Major Hoople Boasts of Hot 'Grid' Hand

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Football's Foremost Forecaster

Egad, friends, seldom has the Hoople System functioned more beautifully than it did last week. There were upsets galore and the Hoople Plan had most of them analyzed perfectly, including the upset of the year.

On Saturday we had a brilliant record of 16 winners, 4 losers, for an 800 batting average—kafkaff!

To refresh your memories, in my Turkey Day forecast I wrote, "Watch for the Oklahoma Sooners to treat a national TV audience to the upset of the year as they 'feast' on Nebraska's Cornhuskers!"

And—ahem—just as I predicted they would, the Sooners, with a spine-tingling display of dogged determination, prevailed 10-9 on a last-minute field goal to knock Sugar Bowl nominee Nebraska from the ranks of the unbeaten—har-rumph.

But as gratifying as the Oklahoma prediction was it was on Saturday the Hoople System excelled!

On the last big day of the regular 1966 season your favorite forecaster correctly tabbed Army's "fourth quarter" upset of Navy, the Miami Hurricanes' upset of Orange Bowl bound Florida, and the Georgia Bulldogs' triumph over previously undefeated Georgia Tech, who will face Florida in the New Year's classic!

The Hoople System gave you underdog Holy Cross to upend neighbor Boston College, Florida State to triumph over Maryland, and Notre Dame to trim Southern California—hak-kaff!

Notre Dame's 51-0 thrashing of the Trojans gives the Irish undisputed possession of first place in my personal ratings! It also makes the South Bend lads the unofficial Rose Bowl champion by virtue of their early season conquest of Purdue's Boilermakers, who will meet Southern California on New Year's Day—umkumph!

For a rundown on the results on Saturday's card, see my selections reproduced here alongside the actual results of the day's proceedings. And now, dear readers, your peerless prognosticator will repair to his laboratory to prepare his annual bowl games forecast. Watch for my selections in this newspaper.

Ring Greats Raise Funds for Ex-Champ

NEW YORK (AP)—A benefit program raised $10,800 Wednesday night for former boxing champion Barney Ross, who is suffering from throat cancer.

The benefit was held at Sunnyside Garden and Ross listened to and addressed the proceedings by telephone from the Chicago apartment. The former lightweight, junior welterweight and welterweight champion is being treated as an outpatient at the Chicago Veterans' Research Center.

The event, which featured a regular boxing program, was attended by 14 former champions, including Floyd Patterson, James Braddock, Mickey Walker and Rocky Graziano, and two current boxing titlholders, Carlos Ortiz and Emile Griffith.

Most of the money was raised by the sale of 100 tickets at $100 each, but 1,677 persons paid $2, $3 and $4 to attend. The money was presented by Father Frederick P. Gehring, a Naval chaplain on Guadalcanal when Ross was a Marine there during World War II.

DETROIT (AP)—Fourteen University of Windsor students walked into the University of Detroit athletic center Tuesday and walked out with 11 drill team and marching trophies.

No one noticed the loss until leaders of the Windsor raiders, Jim Cunningham and Nick Neman, called to report their haul.

The two schools meet in a basketball game Thursday night.

Spartan Five Duels Broncos in Lid-Lifter

CHICAGO (AP)—The Big Ten basketball season opens Thursday night with Michigan State, a prime pre-season tie favorite, one of four conference teams in action.

The Spartans entertain Western Michigan, coached for the first time by Sonny Means, who was assistant to MSU coach, John Bennington, last season.

Michigan's depleted champions visit Tennessee, Minnesota is at Kansas State and Ohio State is host to Butler.

All Big Ten teams are on the firing line Saturday. Butler is at Illinois and Houston at Minnesota for afternoon engagements.

Michigan's game is at Indiana, Miami Ohio at MSU, Ohio U. at Northwestern, Cincinnati at Wisconsin, Iowa at Washington, Michigan at Duke, Ohio State at Michigan State and Purdue at Virginia Tech.

Lions Need Room

Gilmer Looking for Daylight

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Lion Coach Harry Gilmer heads toward the setting sun this week, looking for a little daylight.

Not much. Just enough for some of the Lion ball carriers to run through. The Lions, their running attack showing little or nothing last week, face the Rams at Los Angeles Sunday.

"They're a tough bunch to run against," Gilmer said. "Last week the Rams limited

Baltimore to just 33 yards rushing. That's less than the Lions got losing to the San Francisco 49ers. The 49ers held the Lions to 47 yards rushing and quarter-back Karl Sweetan, who twice called himself on running plays with long yardage needed, led the Detroit runners with 18 yards on three carries.

The Lion defense last week gave up 486 yards, 214 rushing. "We're stressing running in practice," Gilmer said Wednesday. "You have to have a little running attack or they just tee off on you."

He said the trouble with the Detroit ground attack was "they just don't block anyone. I don't care who your back is, they have to have a little daylight to run in. Of course, the backs have to do their share of blocking, too."

Sweetan, the rookie who took over when Milt Plum was injured Oct. 16, has thrown 228 passes and clicked on 115 of them for 1,389 yards. He faced a heavy rush by the 49ers last week and expects another this week.

"Let's face it," Sweetan said, "there's nothing dull for a quarterback any time he grabs the football and a bunch of big guys from the other team rush in to see what he's going to do with the darn thing."

Detroit, now 4-7-1, faces a team that is 7-5.

Spartan Team in Semifinals

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Michigan State, just as powerful in soccer this season as in football, puts its undefeated record on the line today against once-beaten Long Island University in the opening game of the NCAA soccer championship semifinals.

The undefeated University of San Francisco face twice-beaten Army in the second contest. Finals are slated for Saturday.

Kimball Swimmers Win Opener, 58-47

Royal Oak Kimball may have a better outlook in swimming this season than expected. The Knights defeated Warren Fitzgerald, 58-47 in the opener for both teams. Fitzgerald was expected to be the class of county area teams this year.

Read McCarty, the Kimball All-America, won the 200 freestyle and 100 freestyle while teammate Gary Gotchling won in the 100 butterfly and 400 freestyle.

Les McCormick was the other double winner.

Irish Dominate Teams

Bubba Tops Vote-Getters

NEW YORK (UPI)—Notre Dame players won the most berths and a Michigan State star the most votes on the 1966 United Press International All-America football team.

The Irish, No. 1 team in the nation, placed four players on the 22-man squad while defensive end Bubba Smith came within seven votes of being a unanimous choice, the strongest individual showing in UPI All-America since the World War II days of Army's Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis.

In the balloting of 267 football writers and broadcasters, Smith received 260 votes, just seven short of perfection.

Guard Tom Regier, the leading vote getter on the offensive front, and halfback Nick Eddy on offense and tackle Pete Duranko and linebacker Jim Lynch on defense were the Notre Dame stars honored.

In addition to Smith, Michigan State, last year's national champions, also placed end Gene Washington on the offensive team and linebacker George Webster on the defensive squad, giving the Spartans three berths.

Here are the players they chose as the best in the land:

OFFENSE
Ends—Washington and Jack Clancy, Michigan.
Tackles—Cecil Dowdy, Alabama and Ray Vary, Southern California.
Guards—Regier and Lawrence Albers, Nebraska.
Center—Jim Breland, Georgia Tech.
Quarterback—Steve Spurrier, Florida.
Backs—Eddy, Mel Farr, UCLA and Ford Little, Syracuse.
DEFENSE
Ends—Smith and Tom Greenlee, Washington.
Tackles—Duranko and Loyd Phillips, Arkansas.
Middle Guard—Wayne Meylan, Nebraska.
Linebackers—Lynch and Paul Naumoff, Tennessee.
Halfbacks—Webster, Nate Shaw, Southern California; Tom Bear, Miami, Fla. and Martina Bercher, Arkansas.

Smith, Webster and Phillips are repeaters from the 1965 UPI All-America.

The Midwest with eight players dominated the team geographically followed by the South with five. The Far West landed four players, the Southwest and Midlands two each and the East one.

Named to the second team were:

OFFENSE
Ends—Jim Seymour, Notre Dame and Ray Perkins, Alabama.
Tackles—Warne Mass, Clemson and Jack Calcaterra, Purdue.
Guards—Edgar Chandler, Georgia, and Del Williams, Florida State.
Center—George Goodeste, Notre Dame.
Quarterback—Grise, Michigan State.
Backs—Clint Jones, Michigan State; Len Snow, Georgia Tech and Ray McDonald, Idaho.
DEFENSE
Ends—Allen Page, Notre Dame and Sam Harris, Colorado.
Tackles—George Patton, Georgia and Kevin Hardy, Notre Dame.
Middle Guard—John Lagrone, Southern Methodist.
Linebackers—Charles Thornhill, Michigan State and Townsend Clarke, Army.
Halfbacks—Bobby Johns, Alabama; Tom Schoen, Notre Dame; Ray Wacholtz, Nebraska and Lynn Hughes, Georgia.

Minor Deal May Spur Trades

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Relief pitcher Darold Knowles, who unwittingly helped trigger the trade of the year — decade? Century? — when he changed uniforms the last time, may be at it again.

Knowles was traded for the second time within a year Wednesday night, going from Philadelphia to Washington for center fielder Don Lock, and strangely enough that set the Baltimore Orioles on the trail of possibly satisfying their primary need — an experienced starting pitcher.

As soon as Personnel Director Harry Dalton of the Orioles heard about the trade, he tried to reach officials of both the Phillies and the Senators.

He didn't get them immediately, but he knew what he was after — pitching help in the form of Philadelphia's Ray Culp or Washington's Pete Richter — and he intended to pursue it to day.

CHANGE DEAL

"Both teams changed their decks with the deal," Dalton explained. "We want to find out if we have anything to talk about."

"We have a good right-handed hitter in Sam Bowers who is available. Maybe Washington or Philadelphia has a pitcher available. We want to find out if we have anything to talk about."

The Cincinnati Reds, who hadn't been satisfied with the previous Orioles' offer, suddenly perked up. They liked Baldschun.

So three days later, hardly time enough to let him get used to his new employer, Baldschun was traded to the Cincinnati Reds for relief pitcher Jack Baldschun.

Meanwhile, a one-time Oriole pitcher, Chuck Estrada, found his way into the New York Mets' chain when he was purchased by their Williamsport farm club of the Eastern League.

While the Knowles deal and the purchase of Estrada were the only transactions Wednesday, the New York Yankees continued to pursue shortstop Maury Wills from the Los Angeles Dodgers and reportedly were offering one of two pitchers — southpaw Al Downing or right-hander Jim Bouton.

The Reds and the Minnesota Twins also were reportedly talking about pitching. The Reds supposedly offered pitchers Jim Grant, but were turned down.

In another development, the player representatives talked with club owners about raising the minimum major league salary level above the $7,000 mark. The players reportedly want to hit the $10,000 level.

Further meetings on the subject were expected to be held at a later date.

Detroit Drops to Third Rung

76ers Overpower Pistons, 128-119

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Pistons couldn't cope with the Philadelphia 76ers and today slipped into third spot by half a game in the National Basketball Association's Western Division.

NFL Owners Approve Pro Realignment

NEW YORK (AP)—A long range look at 1967 in the National Football League presents a strong possibility of a Cleveland-Dallas game for the Eastern Conference title and a Green Bay-San Francisco tilt for the Western Conference crown.

The two winners would meet for the NFL title with the survivor meeting the winner of the American Football League championship.

The NFL owners realigned the conference Wednesday when they placed the new New Orleans franchise in the East and the Atlanta Falcons in the West. Each eight-club conference was split into two four-club divisions.

After much deliberation the owners came up with a grouping of Cleveland, Pittsburgh, New York and St. Louis in the Federal Division of the East. The Capitol Division of the East will include Dallas, Philadelphia, Washington and New Orleans.

SHIFT - IN 1968

In 1968 New York will shift to the Capital and New Orleans to the Federal in a compromise move designed to give all eight of the Eastern teams a chance to play the Giants home and home in one of the two years.

The Green Bay Packers will be joined by the Chicago Bears, Minnesota Vikings and Detroit Lions in the Central Division of the Western Conference. San Francisco, Los Angeles, Baltimore and Atlanta will comprise the Coastal Division of the West.

No decision has been made on the 1969 alignment. The NFL and AFL are due to merge into one league 1970.

Idle St. Louis climbed half a game past the Pistons, both trailing San Francisco, when the Philadelphia 76ers whipped Detroit 128-119 Wednesday night.

The New York Knicks edged Cincinnati 119-115, and the Los Angeles Lakers rolled past the Baltimore Bullets 126-111 in other games.

Philadelphia, leading the Eastern Division, won its fifth straight victory and 20th of the season against only two losses.

Detroit had won five of its previous seven starts and jumped into an early 17-1 lead. But Chamberlain and Chet Walker sent the 76ers ahead 33-29 at the end of the quarter.

Walker led the 76ers with 30 points, followed by Chamberlain with 23 and Greer with 22. Rookie Dave Bing got 26 for Detroit.

Walt Bellamy was deadly in the clutch and totaled 32 points as New York beat the Royals. Howard Komives and Dave Stallworth chipped in 20 each for the Knicks.

Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson and rookie Flynn Robinson nearly pulled it out, scoring 19 of the Royals' last 20 points.

Robertson finished with 26 points and Robinson 21. Jerry West led the Lakers to a 73-50 halftime lead and Los Angeles coasted in over Baltimore. West scored 39 of his 38 points in the first half.

lustrates the element of surprise. Any other good player would respond two clubs or maybe one heart and try to steer eventual no-trump play to his partner, but not Fred. He liked to play all hands and he hoped that he would get the benefit of a heart or club lead if he concealed strength in both suits.

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
3 ♠		Pass	Pass
Dble.	Pass	3 N.T.	Dble.
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	?

You, South, hold:

Such hopes are usually ill founded. Somehow or other opponents lead their best suits which are likely to be your worst and West opened the time of wonder.

Fred looked over dummy and studied the opening lead. It was surely fourth best which meant that West held four, five or six spades and that East would hold at least three. The situation looked hopeless. Fred could run eight tricks but that would be all.

Instead of running out to four clubs West goes to four diamonds, after you double three no-trump. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

Road Travel Up

He could accept one down if he wished but Fred was not a man to accept one down. He saw one chance to make his contract. It will risk a set of several tricks but Fred didn't care.

He won the first spade trick with dummy's ace and led the jack of hearts. What would you do if you were East? This East assumed that Fred had the king of spades and played low. Fred hopped up with his king. It held

Kosygin Lands in Paris for Political Discussion

PARIS (UPI) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin flew here today for a nine-day state visit aimed at opening up new areas of Franco-Russian political cooperation.

President Charles de Gaulle greeted the Kremlin official at Paris's Orly Airport after the six-hour flight from Moscow.

Kosygin was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Ludmila Gvghian, who was replacing the premier's ailing wife at state functions during Kosygin's stay in France.

Saint Lucy is the patron saint of the blind.

Bureau of Prisons Being Reorganized

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is reorganizing its Bureau of Prisons, aiming at improving rehabilitation of convicts.

President Johnson said in Austin, Tex., Wednesday that he is concerned about the high rate of crime among ex-convicts.

A division of community service will be created to administer a recently established work release program. A new division of institutional service will direct prison programs such as education, vocational training, recreation and religion.

2 Red Nations Due U.S. Envoys

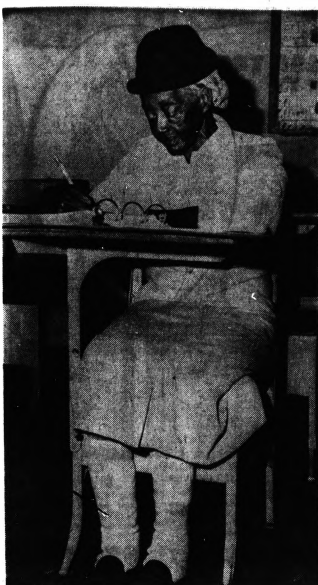

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is expected to name ambassadors to Hungary and Bulgaria shortly, following up his announcement this week raising the American diplomatic missions there to the ambassadorial level.

There is no indication as yet who the new envoys will be. The expectation is that John M. Sweeney, a career diplomat and minister to Sofia, will be named ambassador to Bulgaria, but a new man will be appointed to Budapest.

Janos Radvanyi, the Hungarian charge d'affaires in Washington, is expected to be elevated to the new ambassadorships for their respective countries.

Both have ambassadorial experience, Radvanyi was envoy to India, and Guerasimov to the Soviet Union.

In explaining the upgrading of the two diplomatic missions, U.S. officials caution against any speculation attaching undue importance to this step. It is, they say, in the U.S. interest to be represented in every country 000.

OLDEST GRADUATE HONORED—Lillie Lester, at 104 years, is achieving her lifelong dream in learning to read and write. After five months of perfect attendance at the State-Federal Adult Basic Education Program in Athens, Tex., she finished the first phase of the course and can write and do elementary arithmetic. Federal, state and local officials today are attending graduation ceremonies for the woman, believed to be the oldest ever to complete the course.

State Canvassers Make Fast Work of Certification

LANSING (AP) — It took the Board of State Canvassers about five minutes Wednesday to declare Gov. George Romney and U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin winners in the Nov. 8 election. None of the unofficial results reported by the news media immediately after the election was overturned.

GOVERNOR
Romney 1,490,547
Ferenzy 963,383
U.S. SENATE (Full Term)
Griffin 1,363,808
Williams 1,070,484

MINOR PARTY
James C. Horvath got 8,017 votes for governor and Ralph W. Muncy got 6,166 for senator on the Socialist Labor ticket. Votes for other candidates totaled 79 in the governorship contest and 185 in the Senate race.

Also certified were victories of the only two Democrats to win statewide partisan contests. Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley got 1,332,146 votes to 1,001,892 for Republican Lawrence Lindemer. And Secretary of State James Hare beat GOP challenger George Washington 1,337,138 to 1,030,086.

Kelley's victory margin was 140,257 and Hare's was 307,052. Some 2,331,463 votes were cast in the attorney general race and voters cast 2,374,459 votes in the secretary of state contest.

Certified returns in the Supreme Court race, a technically nonpartisan contest where the top two candidates are elected, showed: Thomas Kavanagh 1,065,526
Thomas Brennan 824,857
Otis Smith 775,534
Meyer Warshawski 445,522

INCUMBENT LOSES
Kavanagh and Smith were incumbents.

The state board certified all statewide races, all Circuit Court contests and elections in legislative and congressional districts which comprise parts of more than one county.

The candidates other than would-be legislators have two days to appeal for a recount. Legislative candidates appeal to the house where they sought a seat under rules established by that house.

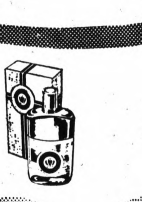

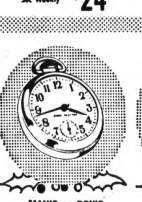

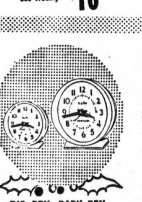

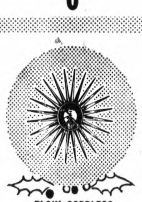

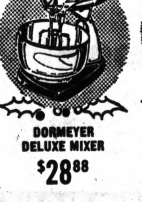

Colored diamonds and other rare gems worth a total of $1 million will be viewed at the annual jewelry showing at Connolly's Jewelry Stores Saturday, according to Norman L. Pattison, store owner.

The exhibit will be at the store on 16 W. Huron from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday. It will be at the Miracle Mile branch for display from 6 to 9 p.m.

"The jewelry" never before shown in the Pontiac area, includes yellow, pink, blue, and green diamonds set in different combinations and 12½ carat emeralds," Pattison said.

U.S. Tests Mightiest Rocket

BAY SAINT LOUIS, Miss. — The mightiest rocket booster ever tested by this nation's captive firing of a flight strained against its shack-model.

The S-II-I, troublesome second stage of the Saturn 5 rocket designed to carry American astronauts to the moon, was ignited four months later than was first scheduled.

Space officials termed the six-minute static test an apparent success and said it occurred within the timetable of the "big picture" — to land a man on the moon by 1970.

At 12:13 a.m. a great yellow flame gushed sideward from the booster's base deflected by a huge shield from curling back on the engine.

EARTH TREMBLES

Generating 21,000,000 horsepower, as powerful as 90,000 automobiles, the engines made the earth tremble for more than a mile.

The sound, a dull and deep roar punctuated by crackling noises, buffeted clothing of viewers 5,000 feet away. It made breathing rougher, made it exhilarating like speeding over a dip in the road. It gave the insides of ears an itching sensation.

Fire licked through jets of water trained on the flame-deflector to keep it from melting and sent a dirty gray plume of vapor rising an estimated 1,000 feet into the clear sky.

As the cloud boiled higher, cold air caused it to condense and rain, tinged pink by the rocket's glare, began falling from about 300 feet down around the gantry.

It was awesome. At 12:18 a.m. it ceased. There were some murmurs of excitement, but many spectators continued to stare before turning away.

Japanese Premier Re-elected Narrowly

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato was re-elected today and said he would do his best to clean up corruption in his government.

But the vote retaining Sato as president of the ruling Liberal Democratic party for another two years, a post which automatically gives him the prime ministership, reflected dissatisfaction with his handling of the corruption issue. He got only 289 of the 459 votes cast, less than the two-thirds he sought as a sign of party confidence.

His closest rival and bitterest critic in the party, former Foreign Minister Aichiichi Fujiyama, polled 89 votes.

Denies Report Muzzles Press

BENTON HARBOR (AP) — The president of the American Bar Association said Wednesday a controversial report drafted by the Advisory Committee on Fair Trial and Free Press does not "muzzle or hamstring the press."

Speaking before the Berrien County Bar Association, Orison S. Marden said, "In reading some press accounts of the committee's report it would not be difficult to get the impression that the legal profession was trying to tell editors how to run their papers."

"It just isn't so."

Marden said the report's recommendations are directed almost entirely to lawyers, courts and law enforcement agencies rather than the news media.

He said the report proposes a new canon of professional ethics specifying certain types of prejudicial information, the release of which should be deferred by lawyers or court employees in pending criminal cases.

"In other words," he said, "the committee has recognized that lawyers and law enforcement officials are themselves the sources of most prejudicial news reports that are published and broadcast."

2 Thais Tell of Training by Viet Reds

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Two young Thais told a news conference today they were enlisted by the Communists in northeast Thailand and sent to North Viet Nam for guerrilla training.

Bong Prakob, 25, a farmer from Ban Nkhom village in the northeast Thailand, and Sod Netra, 18, a fellow villager, said Communists convinced them to join their ranks in 1964 by telling them they should fight to free Thailand from the "American imperialists."

They said they were sent by land across Laos to the North Vietnamese town of Vinh and eventually to a guerrilla warfare training camp near Hanoi, where they received training for 18 months before being sent back to Thailand's northeast, focus point of Communist terrorist activity.

Air Arm Poised for Truce Violations

WASHINGTON (AP) — American and Allied forces in Viet Nam will use air power if necessary to defend themselves against any Viet Cong violations of the holiday truce, sources disclosed today.

These officials expect the fighting pause to be more difficult for the Communists to control than for the Allies.

Consequently, instructions are being given to fit the response to the degree of Communist attack.

In Chicago, Secretary of State Dean Rusk told reporters Wednesday, "Everybody remembers last year and the violations of the truce by the other side. We will have to watch ourselves and keep ourselves in a position to shoot back."

Asked whether he thought the truce might be a step toward peace talks, Rusk said, "We have not seen any basis for that."

Surviving are two sons, Ellis and Hubert, both of Holly; two daughters, Miss Edith Hartz of Holly and Mrs. Linda White of Waukegan, Ill.; a brother, six grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Fatal Shooting Ruled Accident

Pontiac Twp. Man Ordered Released

A 32-year-old Pontiac Township man, held for questioning in the Tuesday night fatal shooting of his wife, was released yesterday by order of the prosecutor's office.

The shooting of Peggy Y. Johnson, 21, during a struggle with her husband, James, 32, was ruled accidental after an investigation by sheriff's detectives and the prosecutor's office.

Johnson called sheriff's deputies to the family home at 1325 Collier about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday, according to Capt. Leo R. Hazen.

He was holding his wife's body up against a sofa apparently trying to stem the flow of blood from a wound in her neck, Hazen said. The woman was pronounced dead on arrival at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

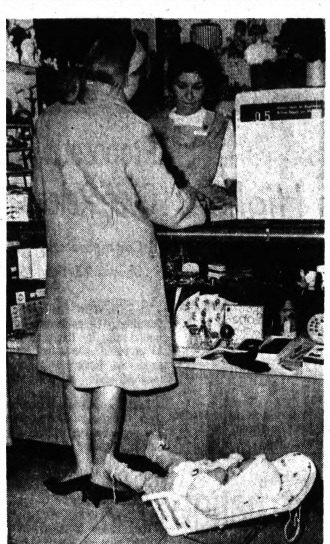

Johnson, a truck driver, told detectives that his wife pulled a gun as they were arguing about an accident she had with their new family car while he was out of sight on a truck driving assignment.

He said that the gun discharged at short range as he was trying to wrest it away from his wife.

Waterford Firemen Fight Blaze at Firm

Fire erupted at the Munro Plastic Co., 5894 Andersonville, Waterford Township, last night, causing an undetermined amount of damage.

Attributed to acetone spilled on an electric motor, the fire broke out at about 6:20 p.m. Township fire fighters remained on the scene for more than 2 1/2 hours.

EARLY LESSON—It's none too soon for 5-month-old Martin Vines to learn that shopping with a woman just means waiting, waiting and more waiting. Sucking philosophically on his thumb, Martin resigns himself to this fact of life as his mother, Mrs. Raoul Vines of 900 S. East Blvd., purchases an item in the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital gift shop from Mrs. Joan Georjian of 2192 Yorkshire, Bloomfield Township. The transaction flowed Martin.

Osteopaths to Review College Status, Plans

State osteopathic medicine officials were scheduled to meet today at Kingsley Inn to receive a report on the current status of the Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine (MCOM) in Pontiac and to review future plans.

Meeting in a joint session will be the corporate board of the college, the college's board of trustees, and the trustees of the MCOM Foundation.

William H. Coleman, vice president of planning and development for the Pontiac-based college, said that a special resources study will be presented at the meeting.

This report, prepared by a New York consulting firm, is termed "a milestone in the development of the college" by Dr. Alan M. D'Amico, chairman of the board of trustees of MCOM.

"It will have far reaching effects in directing our future steps and progress," Dr. D'Amico said.

He added that the report will provide the objective over-all view of the college's support position—support not only in funds but also in outstanding leadership.

The college is under development at Auburn and Odyke.

Man Testifies on Illegal Meat

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — A witness has testified that he processed unstamped meat for one of more than a dozen defendants charged in an alleged plot to sell meat of unsuspected animals.

Allen Myers, 32, of Battle Creek, said he worked part-time in 1963 and 1964 at the Rockford farm of Roy and Doris Cooper and handled the alleged unstamped beef which he understood was to be sent to the Holland Meat Co. of Holland.

The Coopers and the meat company are among the defendants.

National Post

LANSING (AP) — Highway Department Safety Engineer E.D. Suino has been elected to the Executive Committee of the National Safety Council's Public Safety Employee Section, the State Highway Commission said Wednesday.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Sinatra Fits Into the Role of a Doting, Dutiful Spouse

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Frank Sinatra was a portrait of felicity and domesticity (that means a blissful husband) backstage at CBS' "What's My Line?" show after he and "Mia Sinatra" signed in as myrmidon guests. ... in fact, Frank told me one reason they're in town "is to do some Christmas shopping."

"Hey," he said to John Charles Daly, "we got to get together at Truman Capote's ball (the big masquerade for the Jet Set) at the Plaza. Even in her mask, you can spot Mia—in that haircut!"

"I think Frank was really surprised about me being a guest," said Mia who, by the way, has a new long grey minik coat.

Frank mentioned to me why he said he'd go to Capote's ball despite the mob scene and hordes of photographers. "I got to go," he said. "She's got a new gown."

"Why aren't you going to Truman Capote's masquerade ball?" a friend asked Irving Hoffman, who replied, "Nobody masked me."

When I go to El Morocco, something nice happens, like the hatcheck beauty Ellen McKenna smiling at me. The other night, Maurice Uchitel, the proprietor, wrote out a check for $500 to my pet charity, Fight for Sight, and gave it to me to turn over the Mildred Waiselstein, the blind girl who runs it. (Try to knock night clubs after that!)

THE MIDNIGHT EARL ...

Prince and Princess Radziwili (Jackie's sister) entertained Count Agnell, of Fiat, at Voinis ... Aren't Julie Christie and Terence Stamp very chummy again in "Far From the Madding Crowd"? ... Sonny Werblin, Jets proxy, was at Danny's after tough loss at Shea Stadium, was cheered up by Guy Lombardo.

Secret Stuff: A famous baseball star is upsetting calf performers with his bad manners ... A new movie mogul is acting like a veteran mogul — he's already silencing a paternity suit against him ... Songwriter Eddie Lawrence'll make his Broadway debut in the musical, "Sweeney."

French star Charles Aznavour signed with Sinatra's Reprise label to record his first album in English ... Mrs. Jerry Vele was stopped at the door of the Copa, where her husband's starling. She was wearing pants ... Sue Ann Langdon'll go nude again, in "Guide for a Married Man."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "Ronald Reagan's trying to get the California constitution changed to give him a part of the state contract." —Win Elliot.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Allen & Rossi described modern teenage etiquette: "The party is formal if the girls wear dresses."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Trust everybody — but cut the cards." (Finley P. Dunne.)

EARL'S PEARLS: Morty Gumpy once played a small town restaurant featuring spaghetti roulette: Every sixth meatball was a hockey puck.
