Gigantic Road Program Urged by President

Suggests $50 Billion Highway Expansion to Nation's Governors

BOLTON LANDING, N. Y. (AP) — Governors divided sharply today on how to carry out President Eisenhower's bold proposal for a 60-billion-dollar transcontinental highway program.

Almost without exception, Republican and Democratic governors agreed that the country needs a 10-year expansion of roads that would shape up as one of the country's greatest permanent, nonwar construction programs.

But there was a distinct feeling among leaders of the 46th annual Governors Conference here that the President had laid down a challenge to them in the historic controversy over state and federal powers.

Against a backdrop of conference demands that the federal government get out of the road-building business, Vice President Nixon put to the governors at their annual state dinner last night a presidential suggestion for an interstate road program designed to provide transport for 200 million Americans by 1970.

Reading notes the President had prepared for a speech which Eisenhower canceled after the death of a sister-in-law, Nixon told the governors in the President's words that the "appalling inadequacies" of America's highways must be solved "to meet the demands of catastrophe or defense should atomic war come."

Eisenhower suggested that the governors study a proposal for federal-state cooperation under which Washington might "advance funds or guarantee the obligations of localities or states which undertake to construct new or modernize existing highways."

Eisenhower's notes, as read by Nixon, said the present highway system is obsolete and its penalties are manifold.

Among the latter the President listed an annual death toll approaching 40,000, "comparable to the casualties of a bloody war."

He said there was an annual wastage of "billions of hours" in traffic jams and detours, amounting to billions of dollars in productive time.

Eisenhower suggested self-liquidating programs "through tolls or the assured increase in gas tax revenues" as well as "federal help where the national interest demands it."

Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Michigan Democrat, said the President's proposal "apparently has given no thought of returning primary control of the highway programs to the states."

New GM Scenicruisers to Be Operated by Greyhound

No Water Restrictions . . . Yet

Heat That Hit Year's High Monday Expected to Stay

Weather forecasters predict no relief until Thursday from heat that sent Pontiac thermometers soaring to 93 degrees Monday—the highest reading this year.

The U. S. Weather Bureau says Pontiac will swelter under partly cloudy skies Wednesday with a high temperature between 90 and 94 degrees. Low tonight will be 66 to 70.

Yesterday's 93-degree heat topped the year's previous high of 92, recorded three times in June. The mercury dropped to 67 degrees early today, but rose to 75 by 8 a. m. and 88 at 1 p. m. today.

Pontiac persons, however, can use all the water they like to keep cool—at least for the present. Walter K. Willman, city manager, said this morning that he hadn't yet suggested a sprinkling ban. The city waterworks, helped by two new wells, shoved water into the mains at normal pressure Monday as the city used 17,862,436 gallons.

Pontiac probably won't suffer as much as its neighbors from the heat wave that sent temperatures over 100 degrees in most of the Midwest. Missouri and Kansas were the nation's hot spots, with Butler, Mo. and Emporia, Kan. reporting 114 degrees Monday. Dallas, Tex., sizzled in 110 degrees. Columbia, Mo., reported 113.

But W. W. Oak, chief meterologist at the weather bureau's Detroit office, said the "core" of the heat wave will probably bypass Pontiac as it moves east toward the Atlantic. "We'll just catch the northern edge," he said.

Oak thinks a weak cool front will push back the heat wave's fringes Thursday and Friday, dropping temperatures here back to the 80's. But it is expected to warm up again Saturday.

Provision Cut From Aid Bill

Italy, France Would Have Had to Forego U. S. Assistance

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, yielding to State Department appeals, reversed itself late yesterday and struck out of its $3,100,000,000 foreign aid bill a proposed notice to France and Italy to join a proposed European army or forego U.S. help after Dec. 31.

With two top Republican leaders voting against the move, the committee substituted less stringent language already approved by the House in a move to prod the two nations to approve the projected European Defense Community.

Now the bill goes to the Armed Services Committee.

Voting on the losing side in the Foreign Relations Committee for the virtual ultimatum to France and Italy were Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, and Sen. Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee.

No Time Extension in Housing Projects

A time extension has been ruled out for families being evicted from the Parkview and Crystal Beach federal housing projects here, according to James N. Weissner, projects' manager.

Wiessner received word from the Public Housing Administration offices in Chicago yesterday that there is no possible way under the housing regulations to give families more time to find other quarters. The residents have until Aug. 1 to move.

The letter to Weissner was a duplicate one sent to Pontiac Mayor William W. Donaldson in reply to a request for an extension made May 18 by Pontiac City Commission.

Baby Chokes to Death

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—Eighteen-month-old Jeanine Jackson choked to death yesterday when she swallowed a medicine dropper with which she had been playing.

Small's Wife to Take Stand

Prosecutor Slates Mother of Three as Murder Witness

ALLEGAN (AP) — The dark-eyed, brunette wife of Dr. Kenneth B. Small was expected to take the stand today as a prosecution witness in the first degree murder trial of her husband.

Mrs. Edith Small said: "I hope they get it over as quickly as possible."

Her 31-year-old Detroit dentist-husband went on trial yesterday in Allegan County circuit court. He is accused of the May 29 pistol slaying of his wife's suitor, Jules Lack, 45, New York industrialist.

Lack was shot to death while playing cards in a swank summer home near Douglas in Southwestern Michigan.

Dr. Small's defense is based on temporary insanity at the time of the shooting.

Mrs. Small, mother of three young sons, is to be called to the stand by Prosecutor Dwight M. Cheever. Her appearance as a prosecution witness was made possible when defense attorney Leo Hoffman waived a ruling which permits a wife to refuse to testify against her husband.

Before the trial began, Mrs. Small had said she wanted to do "everything possible" to help her husband, whom she had planned to divorce after meeting Lack. She withdrew the divorce action following the slaying of the New Yorker.

Mrs. Small, who sat through the trial opening, left the courtroom once in the afternoon.

"I couldn't take it any more," she told a reporter. "I was so nervous and hot that I thought I was going to be sick so I went outside for a while. They are all so cold-blooded in the court. But I suppose they have to be."

President at Funeral of His Sister-in-Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower flew from Washington this morning to Pennsylvania to attend the funeral of his sister-in-law, the wife of Milton Eisenhower, president of Pennsylvania State University.

From Altoona, Pa., the Eisenhower party will go by car to State College for the funeral services this afternoon.

Touring Pleasure Is Goal for Latest in Bus Design

Many of the nation's top automotive and travel editors gather at the GMC Truck & Coach plant here tomorrow to see the first new Scenicruiser for Greyhound Lines roll off the assembly line.

Groups of newsmen from New York and Chicago will be flown to Pontiac in GMC aircraft for the ceremony, which will involve the delivery of the first Scenicruiser to Orville S. Caesar, president of Greyhound Corp., by P. J. Monaghan, general manager of GMC Truck & Coach. Other Greyhound and GMC officials also will be present.

The Scenicruiser is a deck-and-a-half design, striking in appearance and incorporating many mechanical innovations, according to a description in Greyhound's annual report to stockholders.

It has seats for 43 passengers, 10 on the forward lower deck and 33 on the upper deck. This arrangement elevates the majority of passengers above the traffic level and provides excellent vision through the big "picture" windows of glare resistant glass.

The windows are six feet in length and comprise more than 90 per cent of the side structure of the Scenicruiser above the seat levels. The window glass is tinted green, with a heavier gradation of color at top and bottom to eliminate glare of sunlight and headlights.

Other special improvements for passenger comfort are individually controlled reclining seats, added leg room, and lavatory facilities. The lavatory is located at the rear of the lower deck of the bus.

The air conditioning system is a new concept seen for the first time in a Scenicruiser. The structural parts of the body-framing and the walls are utilized as air ducts for radiant heating in winter and cool air flow during the hot summer months.

The ventilation system can draw fresh air from the outside at a rate sufficient to change the air in the Scenicruiser every 40 seconds. This air is cooled and de-humidified or heated, as required, and circulated through vents at the window ledges.

A series of manually-operated ports in the window frames provide further ventilation and an individually controlled smoke vent above each seat permits a passenger to smoke without annoying others.

Two GM Diesel engines, each developing 150 horsepower, provide the power for driving the Scenicruiser and also for the generator and air compressors.

Air suspension is standard on the new vehicle. Greater riding comfort will be possible as a result of a longer wheelbase and the use of tandem axles in the rear.

The differential is on the forward axle of the tandem, while the rear axle rides free to more effectively absorb road shock.

Both power steering and power braking assures easier and more positive control of the Scenicruiser by the driver.

'Miss Universe' Entries Awed by New York Sights

NEW YORK (INS) — Eleven beauties in 11 shapes, sizes, nationalities and languages are gathered in New York en route to the "Miss Universe" contest, and New York greeted them with the long, low one-word salute —a whistle.

"Nevair," giggled Miss France (Jacqueline Beer, 21) "have I heard so much of whistle." In Paris, they don't whistle; they speak up.

The other girls, aged between 18 and 23 and proportioned between Marilyn Monroe and Jane Russell agreed.

It is an easy city to understand, this New York. A whistle presents no language barrier.

The exotic eleven — hailing from Norway, Chile, Uruguay, Argentina, Germany, Sweden, Greece, France, Finland, Belgium and Italy — will be in New York until Thursday morning when they take off for Long Beach, Calif., to compete with 21 other foreign beauties and one from the U. S. in the third annual "Miss Universe" test on July 25.

All are shy. None thinks she has a chance to win.

All the girls are "thrilled" at their first sight of America, and are "almost overwhelmed" by the heights and caverns of New York City, according to a young lady named Toni Gale, official "babe-sitter" for the crew.

Only two of them are homesick, she disclosed, although all have boyfriends back home. Miss Greece and Miss Italy are each afraid to sleep alone in the big, strange Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, so they have special permission to room together.

Six of the girls speak a bit of English. The others understand it but can't talk it.

Illinois Heat Hits Hospital Thermometers

GRANITE CITY, Ill. (AP)—St. Elizabeth Hospital nurses had trouble keeping their clinical thermometers down below 105 degrees because of the heat here yesterday.

The temperature in the hospital rooms was 105 degrees and it was a sweltering 109.3 in nearby St. Louis.

A hospital official said the thermometers maintain the temperature of the environment until they are shaken down.

She explained an accurate reading could be taken by keeping the thermometer in cool water or alcohol and then putting it quickly into the patient's mouth.

One nurse took her thermometer into an air-conditioned room, ran cool water over it and cooled it to 98 degrees but by the time she got back to her patient the thermometer read 105 again.

Late GI Busy Chasing Down Missin' Chicken

FUERSTENFELDBRUCK, Germany (AP)—When Sgt. Donald Burden of Palouse, Wash., wants his dinner he is not a man to be trifled with.

Late for roll call, Burden gave this explanation:

He and his wife were not at home when quartermaster men replaced the Burden's kitchen stove with a new one. A succulent roast chicken was still in the oven when the old stove went on a truck.

Finding the chicken gone when he returned home, Burden hustled off to the post's stove warehouse.

He retrieved the family dinner. But looking through all those stoves took time, he explained.

Rebel Mortars Shell French

Army Post 25 Miles From Hanoi Is Hit; Pressure Builds Up

HANOI, Indochina (AP) — Vietminh mortars shelled French Army headquarters at Son Tay, 25 miles northwest of Hanoi, last night and sniper warfare rang through the streets of the defense outpost town of 6,000.

A French army spokesman said civilians were moving out of Son Tay as rebel pressure built up in that sector and across the northern Red River delta defense area.

Forty-one rebels were reported killed and 17 captured in various actions during the night. There was no announcement of French losses.

Between Son Tay and Hanoi Vietminh guerrillas attacked a French highway guard patrol but were driven off by a tank squadron that rumbled out of Son Tay to the rescue. Twenty Vietminh were killed and seven captured in the roadside fight.

One rebel sniper was killed on a Son Tay street corner but others apparently escaped.

Other fights were reported just north of Hung Yen, 25 miles southeast of Hanoi, and through the Sept Pagodes-Luc Nam-Puh Lang Thuong triangle, 35 miles northeast of Hanoi.

North of Hung Yen, rebel guerrilla and French-Vietnamese patrols clashed in small night battles for possession of the supply road from Hanoi.

In each fight, the French spokesman said, the Vietminh were driven off before their demolition units could cut the road. Twenty rebels were killed and 10 captured in the area.

In the air yesterday, French fighters and bombers plastered Vietminh bases north of Hung Yen with more than 120 tons of high explosives. Other planes bombed a string of rebel bases north of the Hanoi-Haiphong supply lifeline.

Reds Claim Success for Food Program

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet government claimed some successes today in its program to give the Russian citizenry more food.

Moscow radio quoted Deputy Food Minister Mikhail Parshikov as saying the output of processed food increased 11.6 per cent during the first six months of this year as compared to the same period in 1953.

France Hopes for His Okay on Asia Peace

Secretary Willing to Aid but Wishes for 6-Nation Army

PARIS (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles arrived here today and said he considers that a collective defense organization for Southeast Asia could help France get "just and honorable peace terms" in Indochina.

Dulles flew into Paris aboard a U. S. Military Air Transport Constellation for a British-French attempt to convince him an "honorable" peace can still be won in Indochina—and that his presence in Geneva would help win it.

He is scheduled to talk with French Premier Pierre Mendes-France and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

Eden and Mendes-France left Geneva earlier today to be on hand for the conference.

In a statement, Dulles recalled he had come to Paris last April 13, before the Geneva conference, started to talk about forming a Southeast Asian defense pact.

At that time, he said, he felt such an organization would help France. "I still feel the same way," he added.

He went on to explain:

"The United States is not itself a belligerent and therefore not a proper party to many aspects of the problem which are the principal concern of the Geneva conference. However, we do have a great and continuing interest in collective action by France, Great Britain, the United States and other free countries to promote the peace and freedom of the area.

"This, as well as pressing European problems, will, I hope, be among the subjects of our conversations here, which are bound to re-emphasize to the Communists the futility of their efforts to divide us."

The reference to European problems indicated Dulles expects to discuss plans for the six-nation European army which France has delayed placing before its Parliament for ratification.

Dulles' flight here was in answer to an urgent appeal from Mendes-France. On leaving Washington last night, the American secretary emphasized that Paris was his present destination.

At conferences this afternoon and tonight, Mendes-France and Eden will outline the prospects for an Indochina peace settlement in an attempt to allay American fears that France is getting ready to surrender to the Reds at Geneva.

Dulles' determination that the United States should not be saddled with responsibility for any such settlement resulted in his decision that neither he nor Under Secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith would return to Geneva for the final round of negotiations.

Equals Toll for All of '53

14 Drownings in County This Year Bring Plea for Greater Caution

With the summer outdoor season only half over, 14 people have lost their lives by drowning, in Oakland County this year. This number equals the water fatality total for all of 1953.

What is the reason for this big increase? Authorities whose duty includes promotion of safety at beaches and on lakes, and whose men must search for bodies of victims, call attention to two contributing causes:

One is the increasing hazard as the more popular beaches become more crowded. Another, and perhaps the most important, is carelessness on the part of someone.

"I believe carelessness and the failure to take proper safety precautions in advance is the biggest cause for drownings," said Sheriff Clare L. Hubbell, in discussing the drowning toll.

"Carelessness can be charged at times to some parents, frequently, to swimmers and bathers themselves, and to caretakers who fail to rope off safety areas at bathing sites.

"Most people swim at safe beaches provided for them. But always some believe they are better swimmers than they really are and take chances, such as attempting to swim across a lake and going into deep water alone."

Growing population and discovery by many of beaches and recreation facilities have brought ever increasing crowds to the more popular spots. Large crowds make the task of keeping watch on children, and on adults who may take extra changes, more difficult.

Use of beaches which have not yet become overly crowded has been suggested. Many in the county still have plenty of room.

But the best advice to everyone, the sheriff believes, is the simple warning: "Be careful; don't take unnecessary chances."

Birmingham Commission Gives Go Ahead on Plans for Link in Water System

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM—Moving through the agenda in 50 minutes last night, the City Commission authorized City Manager Donald C. Egbert to proceed with engineering plans and to secure proposals for constructing a water main on Cummings, north of 14-Mile road, to connect with mains at the Woodward-Lincoln intersection.

The Cummings-14-Mile intersection has been designated as a metering point where a water supply will eventually be received through the South Oakland County Water Authority, Egbert told the Commission.

This will permit Detroit water to flow into the city's system and help ease the current water shortage, which necessitates summer lawn-sprinkling restrictions.

Inasmuch as the State Highway Department has not yet been heard from, no action was taken on the hearing called for vacating Elm street, from Webster to the alley north of Webster.

A market is to be built on the property adjacent to that portion of the street and an adequate means of access must be approved by the highway department.

Oak Park OKs Issuing Bonds

Voters Approve Fifth Issue in Five Years to Build Schools

OAK PARK — A $1,500,000 school bond issue — the fifth in five years —was approved by voters here yesterday.

Also passed was a proposal to increase taxes by 6.5 mills to finance the 20-year bond issue.

Elected to the Board of Education were incumbent John J. McDaid and Abraham Brickner. Brickner led the vote parade, with 325 tallies. McDaid garnered 248 votes.

Defeated in his bid for re-election was incumbent Walter G. Sandrock, with 212 votes. Also in the running were Dr. Seymour C. Smelsey, Robert M. Bonus and Mrs. Dorothy Goss.

The bond proposal, which passed by a 647-58 vote, brings the district to the limit of its borrowing power.

The issue will finance construction of two new elementary schools, plus an addition to the Clinton School. The Clinton building will also be remodeled.

Passage was given the tax hike by a vote of 639 to 84.

Voters also authorized Oakland County to come under the Michigan Special Education Act for handicapped children.

Quizzed on 1 Theft, Boy Admits Another

An 18-year-old youth, charged with a weekend breakin, told Pontiac Police he burglarized the Quality Drug Store, 94 Bagley St., Sunday night. About $570 in cash, $19 worth of cigarettes and an $18 check were reported stolen.

Detective Sgt. John I. Williams said the youth, Joseph D. Johnson, of 293 South Blvd., is scheduled to be arraigned in Pontiac Municipal Court today.

According to Williams, Johnson admitted the breakin after he was brought in for questioning about stealing auto parts Monday. Williams said the youth denied taking $570, but said he netted $120 which police recovered.

Pontiac Woman Hurt in Two-Car Accident

Mrs. Helen Blanchard, 30, of 1244 Cherrylawn Ave., was admitted to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Monday after she suffered hip and leg injuries in a two-car accident while a passenger in an auto driven by her husband, Raburn R., 31. She is reported in fair condition.

Pontiac Police quoted Blanchard and the other driver, Leslie H. Hudson, 32 of 69 W. Colgate Ave., as saying that neither motorist was able to avoid the accident at Baldwin and Sheffield Aves.

Motorist Hits Pole

Edward T. Vanderworp, 26, of 34 Virginia Ave., suffered a fractured rib and bruises early today when his auto hit a utility pole on S. Saginaw street near Central avenue, according to Pontiac Police. Vanderworp was treated at Pontiac General Hospital.

House Banking Group Considers Compromise With 'Restrictions'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Key members of the House Banking Committee were reported today to be considering a compromise public housing program only for families who lose their homes in the razing of slums.

A conference committee seeking to reconcile differences between Senate and House versions of housing legislation was due to turn to the controversial public housing question either today or tomorrow.

• • •

President Eisenhower asked Congress for authority to start 35,000 new public housing units a year for the next four years. The House refused to grant any new public housing authority, but the Senate voted to give Eisenhower what he wanted.

Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich), chairman of the House Banking Committee, said in an interview he might go along with a public housing program with "restrictions." He declined to spell these out. Wolcott long has been a foe of low-rent public housing.

Other persons close to the conference committee said public housing opponents may offer to back a one-year continuation of the program—provided new units are restricted to families dispossessed by slum clearance.

Senate advocates of public housing said this kind of a restriction would cut the heart out of the program.

First Birmingham Polio Case Is Boy, 10

BIRMINGHAM — The city's first polio case was reported this morning by City Health Nurse Anyce Gillette.

A 10-year-old boy has been stricken with the disease, but is suffering from a non-paralytic type, she said.

It was on Aug. 10 of last year that the first case occurred here, Mrs. Gillette said, with a total of eight cases all year. The Oakland County picture shows 19 cases to date, compared with 17 at this time last year, she said.

The nature of the disease is so unpredictable that it is impossible to determine whether there will be a high incidence this year, Mrs. Gillette said. She added that Detroit's cases are double what they were last year at this time.

Pontiac Deaths

Harold I. Frack

After a prolonged illness, Harold I. Frack, 46, of 4170 Foley, Waterford Township, died at 5 a. m. today in Pontiac General Hospital.

Born in Medford, Okla., on Jan. 22, 1908, he was the son of Calvin T. and Otha Clark Frack. He married Helen Bertram here in 1933 and was a member of the Congregational Church.

Mr. Frack was last employed as a projectionist for Butterfield Theaters.

Besides his widow, and his mother, who resides in Ann Arbor, he is survived by six daughters and a son, Sandra, Vicki, Vonnie, Marilyn, Caroline, Stephanie and Douglas.

Also surviving are four brothers and two sisters, Harvey of Huntington Woods, Carl of Villa Park, Ill., Herbert Frack and Mrs. Dorothy Morrow of Ann Arbor, Donald of Pontiac and Mrs. Evelyn Zejp of Los Angeles.

The body is at the Sparks-Griffin Funeral Home.

With Bands, Floats, Marching Units

County's Organizations Plan Labor Day Parade

Bands, floats and marching units will be featured in a Labor Day parade being planned for Pontiac by the CIO, AFL and other labor organizations in Oakland County.

Prizes will be awarded the organization entering the float judged most beautiful, built on the labor theme, and to the local union with the most marchers.

All organizations, groups or individuals in the county or surrounding areas are invited to participate. Those interested are requested to call FEderal 4-0579 for information.

The parade will originate in downtown Pontiac and proceed to Murphy Park where a flag-raising ceremony and invocation will begin afternoon festivities.

Games and races for adults and children will be held in the park to be culminated with an evening dance on the tennis courts and a fireworks display.

All interested in joining the affair are urged to contact the Oakland County CIO Council offices immediately to insure a place on the program.

Crowd Abuzz Over Arrival of A Queen

A wandering female threw downtown Pontiac's business area into a tizzy today and halted the operation of a parking lot at 15 S. Perry St. when she flew at the owner in a rage.

The female, a displaced queen bee with more than 5,000 loyal followers, made her grand entrance at 11 a. m. The swarm flew over the Pontiac State Bank building in a noisy, arrow-shaped formation.

After circling several office windows the bees swooped into the parking lot and set up a tight traffic pattern around owner Charles O. Graine's head.

Graine and an attendant, Glen D. Wallace, 20, of 24 Henderson St. said they "froze" immediately and then melted a few moments later when the swarm descended to the right front tire of an automobile.

Graine said the bees are costing him money since he's afraid they'll become enraged if he allows them to be disturbed by the parking of additional autos.

More than 300 curious citizens have visited the "bee exhibit," Graine said, and several have offered solutions. "But none of them has volunteered to do anything about it."

Graine's attempts to locate a bee keeper have been unsuccessful so far but he said he hopes to oust his unwelcome visitors before too much longer.

Truck Hurts Detroiter in Oxford Accident

A 46-year-old Detroit truck driver was injured Monday when his truck accidentally backed over him at the Oxford dump.

Charles Howard, according to Pontiac General Hospital authorities, is in fair condition with broken ribs and possible internal injuries.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said the victim crawled under the truck to remove a wire caught on the frame and the 1½-ton vehicle rolled over him. The truck was loaded with scrap iron.

Noble D. Travis Elected Junior Achievement Head

Noble D. Travis, vice president of the Detroit Trust Co., has been named director of Southeastern Michigan Junior Achievement Inc.

He was elected recently at the annual board of directors meeting in Detroit. Travis succeeds J. C. Doyle, sales and advertising manager of the Ford Motor Co. The Junior Achievement program, which puts teen-agers into business for themselves, is now in its sixth year of operation locally.

Carver District Voters Elect 2 to School Board

ROYAL OAK TOWNSHIP — James Marrison and Lonie Cash were elected to the Carver School District Board of Education by voters yesterday.

The independent district is located in the 8-Mile road-Wyoming area.

Defeated were Samuel Jackson and Sidney Thomas.

3rd Inning Blasts Give Junior Circuit 4-0 Lead

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland's Al Rosen smashed a home run with two on base and two out in the third inning and Detroit's Ray Boone followed with a bases empty homer to give the American League a 4-0 lead over the National in the annual All-Star Game at the end of the third inning today.

First Inning Nationals

Hamner bunted Ford's first pitch foul then flied to Bauer in front of the portable right field fence.

Dark popped to Carrasquel behind third.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

First Inning Americans

Minoso flied to Snider in deep center.

Avila bounced a single through the hole between short and 3rd.

Mantle raised a high fly to Snider in shallow center.

Berra walked.

Rosen went down swinging.

No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

Second Inning Nationals

Musial lined a single to right on which Bauer barely missed making a diving catch.

Kluszewski rapped into a double play, Avila to Carrasquel to Rosen.

Carrasquel threw out Jablonski.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Second Inning Americans

Kluszewski hauled in Boone's high foul behind third base.

Bauer singled sharply to left.

Carrasquel struck out.

Ford was called out on strikes.

Third Inning Nationals

Robinson grounded out to Carrasquel. Campanella walked. Roberts forced Campanella, Boone to Carrasquel. Hamner popped to Cararsquel.

Third Inning Americans

Minoso walked. Avila singled to left, Minoso stopping at second. Mantle struck out. Berra grounded out to Kluszewski, as both runners advanced.

Rosen walloped a home run over the fence in left center, scoring Minoso and Avila ahead of him to put the Americans in front 3 to 0.

Boone hit another home run to practically the same spot, to make the score 4-0. Bauer struck out.

Four runs, three hits, no errors, none left.

Walpole Island Blaze Monday Took Lives of Father, 5 Children

ALGONAC, Mich. (AP)—An inquest was ordered yesterday into the death of a father and five of his six children in their small frame home on nearby Walpole Island, Ontario.

An inquest order came from acting Crown Attorney W. R. Oliver of Lambton County, Ont. just as the caskets arrived at the graves.

The victims died early yesterday morning. The mother and a son were away at the time.

The Ontario fire marshal's office sent an investigator to the island to check into the blaze that killed 36-year-old Benjamin Jones and the children—Gloria Ann, 14; Nanette, 10; Mabel Patricia, 7; Charles Wesley, 6; and Edmun Ralston, 2.

There has been no explanation for the fire. Some reports said a stove may have exploded. Part of the stove was found on the father's body.

The caskets were left at the graveside when the crown attorney issued the order. However, funeral services were completed by Rev. Duncan McLean, pastor of St. John the Baptist Church on Walpole Island.

Exhibit of Matador Slated for Air Show

America's first mass-produced pilotless bomber, the B-61 "Matador," will be one of three new exhibits prepared by the Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in conjunction with the 7th Annual Air Show at Detroit-Wayne Major Airport July 24 and 25.

A cut-down version of the famous F-84 "Thunderjet" and the F-86 "Sabre-jet" also will be on view at the air show. Special ramps have been built so that spectators may see the airplanes from all sides. Parts of the fuselage have been cut away so that the interior workings of the planes may be viewed.

These special Air Force exhibits are sponsored by the Aero Club of Michigan in cooperation with the Air Force Recruiting Command in Detroit as an aid in acquainting local residents with their Air Force and to show the unlimited career possibilities now open to young men and women.

County Electors Back Education Act

Oakland County school electors Monday endorsed a four to one vote on Special Education Act 18 which will locally finance and control the education of handicapped children in Oakland County.

On June 14, many county districts voted on the act with those whose annual elections fell on July 12 casting their ballots yesterday. In June the total vote tallied 11,643 yes votes and 3,582 no votes. Monday's election drew 891 endorsements and 134 negative votes.

In August the Oakland County Board of Education, under whose jurisdiction the Special Education program will operate, plans to announce its proposals for the coming year.

The original White House was the first government building to be completed in Washington.

Southerner Flies Confederate Flag at Yankee Fort

WASHINGTON (AP)—A never-say-die Southerner raised the Confederate flag over Ft. Stevens yesterday —something Gen. Jubal Early failed to do just 90 years ago.

It was found snapping in the breeze when workmen came out to the reconstructed Civil War fort on the northern edge of Washington to prepare for a ceremony marking the anniversary of the skirmish that ended Early's 1864 threat to the capitol.

Searchers Find Accident Boat

Locate All-Metal Craft in Which Five Perished on Lake Huron Outing

DETOUR (AP) — The 15-foot, all-metal boat, in which five persons perished on a Fourth of July outing on Lake Huron near this eastern Upper Peninsula community, was spotted yesterday in dragging operations.

Drummond Township Supervisor Buster Bailey and Tenho Jarvinen, who located the boat, said they were hopeful of raising it today.

They said they discovered the ill-starred craft in 45 feet of water, some 60 feet off Scammon's Point on the southern shore of nearby Drummond Island.

Bailey said they had set off a dynamite "depth charge" which sent a boat cushion and oil can floating to the surface.

The Coast Guard abandoned the search for the missing boating party after recovering the body of George Smick, 61, of Dearborn. Still missing are George Onnela, 52-year-old Drummond Island resort operator; his brother, Roy, 40, Oak Park, Mich., builder of the boat, and his two children, Betty, 13, and Larry, 6.

McCarthy's Staff Faces Clean-Up

Committee Democrats Set Showdown Session for Thursday

WASHINGTON (INS) — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R. Wis.,) announced today he is calling a meeting of his senate investigations subcommittee on Thursday and a showdown on the unit's staff is expected at that time.

McCarthy said the meeting is being called at the request of Sen. Stuart Symington (D. Mo.,) and added he assumed Symington was speaking for all three Democratic committeemen.

The Thursday meeting will be the first since the ending of the stormy McCarthy-Army hearings on June 16.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D.-Wash.,) a committeeman, told newsmen that the question of the committee staff will be brought up Thursday. He declined to amplify the statement.

Democrats, led by Sen. John J. McClellan, Ark., have demanded a "housecleaning" of the staff. Sen. Charles E. Potter (R. Mich.,) has said that top employes on both sides of the McCarthy-Army dispute should be ousted.

McCarthy insisted he did not know what the Democrats intend to bring up at the Thursday meeting, but he said he hopes that the minority party members "will not block an investigation of communists in defense plants." He said it is "extremely urgent" that Reds in defense work be exposed.

Jackson said Democrats will not object to such a probe. He declared: "We have been waiting for it."

Begins Engineer Duties

James N. Carlisle, 30, began duties yesterday as Pontiac city assistant engineer. Carlisle has been employed in several city engineering jobs in Marysville since 1951. His office is in the City Hall Annex at 35 Hill St.

Pentagon to See Top Army Unit

82nd Airborne Division to Display Atom Guns as Brass Watches

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP) — The Army massed its elite outfit, the 82nd Airborne Division, for a dress review to show Pentagon officials today a mobile striking force.

To the approximate 17,300 men of the famous airborne division the Army added several thousand supporting troops and some of its newest atomic age weapons, including a six-gun battalion of 280 mm. nuclear cannon, two batteries of the "Honest John" heavy rocket weapon and two tank battalions.

* * *

The review and demonstration was set up for top Washington officials invited to Ft. Bragg, among them Deputy Secretary of Defense Robert B. Anderson, Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens and the Army chief of staff, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the latter a World War II commander of the 82nd. Secretary of Defense Wilson canceled plans to attend so he could go to the Detroit funeral of a former associate.

Only rarely is a full Army division assembled for a formal review, an occasion which takes weeks of planning and days of equipment polishing. It takes hours just to parade almost 18,000 men, their trucks, jeeps, weapons carriers, tanks and guns past a reviewing point.

But the Army plans were not confined to a mere formal parade.

They scheduled also an actual, capsule demonstration of the "vertical envelopment" technique of the modern battlefield, assigning a battalion (about 800 men) to stage a parachute drop of troops and heavy equipment.

The 82nd Airborne is virtually the only one of eight divisions in the United States at full strength and equipped for going into action immediately. With full strength and high mobility, it thus represents virtually the core around which a larger striking force could be built which would be deployed to any point in the world in a new and serious emergency.

Only nine states have population densities greater than that of Delaware.

Search Party Puts Out to Find Becalmed Raft

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —Another search party sails out after the raft Lehi today — confident after air sightings and radio contacts she is still floating southward in the Pacific.

The Lehi, only about 20 miles off central California, refused a Coast Guard tow to shore yesterday.

Four of her five crew members still hoped she would change course and drift the 2,200 miles southwest to Hawaii.

* * *

The fifth, radio operator Don Smith, of Santa Rosa, Calif., repeatedly radioed from the 32-foot boxlike craft:

"Get me off this damned thing."

He complained he was coming down with the flu and threatened to call the Coast Guard for help.

The motorless raft was towed out of the Golden Gate Friday with no provisions.

The amateur adventurers planned to live off the sea. They have caught one salmon and one small shark and made "a little water" in their solar still.

Effects of Uranium on Miners Studied

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Are uranium miners exposing themselves to radioactivity which could shorten their lives? The U.S. Public Health Service is going to find out, if it can.

The service, in cooperation with the Atomic Energy Commission and the health departments of Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico, has sent two motor caravans onto the vast Colorado Plateau, heart of the nation's uranium boom, to gather the facts.

Actually begun in 1950, the study may take years more to complete.

The motorized medical teams are scheduled to visit 20 mining districts in the four-state area this summer. Officials said that more than 1,000 miners and mill workers have been examined in the last four years.

Air Force Cuts Needs $2 Billion

Global Air Base System Would Cost $7 Billion, Official Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force says now it needs $7,600,000,000 to build a global system of air bases for its strategic bombers, a cut of nearly two billion dollars from earlier estimates.

James H. Douglas, under secretary of the Air Force, said in testimony made public today that minimum operational requirements for a 137-wing Air Force should be completed by the end of 1957. A wing ranges from 30 to 75 planes.

* * *

He told a House Appropriations subcommittee that "closer figuring" had cut nearly two billions off the 9½-billion-dollar estimate given Congress a little over two years ago.

Maj. Gen. L. D. Washbourne, assistant Air Force chief of staff, testified that the 137-wing Air Force now projected and former President Truman's onetime goal of 143 wings have approximately the same "over-all combat potential."

Douglas said air strength now is 115 wings and he added:

* * *

"Some of these have highly inadequate base facilities, and these inadequacies must be corrected."

The committee was told that to accommodate 137 wings new bases must be built overseas and some World War II bases must be put back into service.

The Air Force asked the subcommittee for 218 million dollars to continue construction at a number of overseas airfields. This is part of a $1,100,000,000 budget for military construction in all three services for the year ending in mid-1955 which is being studied by the subcommittee.

Overseas requests included 48 million dollars for four airfields in Spain and the same amount for 31 bases now used by the Strategic Air Command in Great Britain. The Spanish figure was in addition to 40 million dollars appropriated earlier.

Dodger Pays $50 on Old Traffic Violation

NEW YORK (AP)—The judge was a Dodger fan but that didn't help Brooklyn first baseman Gil Hodges escape a $50 traffic fine.

Hodges pleaded guilty yesterday to a two-year-old speeding charge. He said he had not appeared earlier because he forgot about the summons served on him April 12, 1952.

"Although I'm a Dodger fan myself, Mr. Hodges reached home plate here much too late," remarked Magistrate James E. LoPiccolo as he fixed the fine at $50.

Industrial America Fails as Cuisine Connoisseur

By LAURA Z. HOBSON

LOOGOOTEE, Indiana (INS) — We Americans are called many things, but never a nation of gourmets.

I can't stomach snobbery about "connoisseur cooking," but if you travel by car across the good old U.S.A., the average meal you get is a bitter pill to swallow too.

In our big cities and smart suburbs you find lots of places where food is a pleasure as well as a duty to your body chemistry, but once you leave those culinary oases and take pot luck wherever you happen to be at mealtime, your lucky streak plays out mighty fast.

After a couple of days of ordering from the "ready" list, you settle down to a few old reliables, but after a week of them, you gnash your teeth in bored frustration.

Breakfasts are bearable though fresh orange juice is rarer than gold nuggets, and the pale beige coffee in your stainless steel spoon resembles chicken consomme—from weak chickens at that.

Lunch is a hamburger, a ham or cheese sandwich, potato chips, pie, milk or more beige coffee.

The "burgers" come on flabby, stone-cold buns, heated or toasted only if you're "finicky" and demand it. Pie is apple or cherry, with the "binding" as gelatinous as aspic, and the crust two slabs of sweetened putty.

Dinner is steak, chicken or pot roast, french fries, pie or ice cream, and still more beige coffee. The chicken appears under a muscular flour gravy resembling wallpaper paste, and most pot roast is so overcooked, it tastes and acts like dark brown shredded wheat.

As for steaks, the further west you travel, the larger and thinner they get, till they come by the yard, cardboard thin, with pale fat hanging over the sides of the oval platter from which you eat it. Tonier prices buy you a "New York cut," though as a native New Yorker, the slander cuts me to the quick.

In France you can stop at almost any cheap restaurant, city or country, and get, say, an omelette so fluffy you have to pin it down with your fork to keep it from floating off.

In Italy, Austria, Germany, Belgium, Sweden—everywhere abroad except in muttony England, small unpretentious places produce at least a few national specialties that delight the palate and the eye.

But in great big brilliant America? Industrial giants and inventive geniuses we certainly are—but culinary giants and gastronomic geniuses we definitely are not.

Though this sad little piece happens to be written in the Hoosier State, I'm not singling out any one state of the union — only a state of mind about "good plain cooking."

Indiana's motto is "crossroads of America," and I got remembering backwards to our three squares a day in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky, not to mention the District of Columbia.

I'm also looking ahead, alas, to the squares in a couple of dozen other states we'll be hungry in before we're home again.

If my remarks seem too peppery, you can recall some great "vittles" you've had in your own state and take my beefs with a grain of salt. But most tourists who blow into a strange town and start asking for "the best place to eat" really do end up pretty griped.

This nation has the highest standard of living in the world — so when it comes to our national cuisine, why can't we start cooking with gas?

Svartisen glacier, in northern Norway, is Europe's only glacier that reaches from the mountain heights directly to the sea. Its name means "black ice," but its color actually appears as deep blue.

SMOKING SOLUTION? — Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond, Yale scientist who says his research shows cigaret smoking contributes to lung cancer, displays pipes to his wife, who has converted to that form of smoking. "I'm not a confirmed pipe smoker yet," she said. "I still smoke a few cigarets a day."

British Tankers Hit in Mediterranean Sea

LONDON (INS) — The British Admiralty announced that two British oil tankers collided in the Mediterranean Sea today in a thick fog about thirty miles east of Gibraltar.

The collision set off a fire on the naval tanker "Wave Commander," but the flames were quickly extinguished.

The "British Unity," a merchant tanker, was reported proceeding to the harbor at Gibraltar with a gash in her port side.

Owosso Girl Killed in Highway Accident

OWOSSO (UP) — Beverly Ann Machala, 11, was killed Monday night when she was struci by a car and thrown 70 feet while walking along a highway near her home 13-miles east of here, police said.

They quoted the driver, William B. Moline, 36, of Farwell, as saying he was passing another vehicle at the time and "failed to see" the girl.

Moline was not held.

Bob Considine Says:

Baseball's Race Barriers Lifted Too Late for Many

NEW YORK (INS) — In the current excitement over wonderful Willie Mays, who has been achieving goals which escaped even the immortal Babe Ruth, it is sobering to remember that without Branch Rickey this phenomenal player might now be playing in forced and remote exile.

Rickey, now director of the Pittsburgh Pirates and himself in eclipse, did more than any other man to crush the anti-negro barrier in organized baseball. He used as his weapon another tremendous colored athlete, Jackie Robinson, who came to the majors after proving himself in the International League. He was an almost ideal representative of a bleakly rejected race: Great all around athlete, daring competitor, scholar, gentleman.

But there was deep resentment through the majors. Some of the older owners deplored Rickey's move as "premature." Old Clark Griffith in Washington said the negro would some day come to major league baseball, but along about 1980 — I think it was.

There were more than paper protests. The St. Louis Cardinals actually voted to strike in protest against Robinson's presence in the league. Fans who followed Brooklyn's games in the first days after Robinson joined the team did so as much in anticipation of a race riot as in hope of seeing a sparkling contest.

Fan and player alike waited for the day when Robinson would be required to break up a double play by throwing a pulverizing football block at the rival shortstop or second baseman to keep him from getting the hitter at first for the second out.

Robby said later that Hank Greenberg, then playing first for the Pirates did more to make him a bona fide member of the baseball monopoly than any other player. It was Hank's huge frame which was the second part of Robinson's first bruising collision. Robby bounced off Hank like a ball off a wall and bit the dust. For one awful moment the baseball world held its collective breath. Then Hank walked over quickly and helped Robinson to his feet.

"You okay, Jackie?" Greenberg asked, with concern.

Robinson slowly grinned from ear to ear. "Okay," he said, speaking a volume in a word.

With the barrier down, the ragamuffin and often fly-by-night negro leagues and teams began to yield their treasures. In some cases it was almost like the gates of Belsen and Dachau creaking open. The men who came out were happy to be liberated but they were hardly the men who had entered.

No man can guess correctly how many games Satchel Paige would have won if he had been permitted to enter major league ball at 20 instead of a quarter of a century later.

Hitters like Joe DiMaggio and pitchers of Dizzy Dean's calibre who played against Paige in the 1930's — even then he was an old man — rated him as one of the marvels of the age. But he was never permitted to take a step out of his segregated field, when he had it in him to be another Walter Johnson.

Those who saw them play in negro competition say that if Monte Irvin and Roy Campanella had come up as young men they would have been Hall of Fame timber, not just outstanding players. But at least they and Larry Doby and others reached the majors. What of those who never did? Paul Kritchell, veteran Yankee scout, was remembering some of them for me today:

"Sam Gibson of the Pittsburgh Crawfords could hit a ball as far as anybody who ever lived . . . anybody, Cannonball Redding could throw with Bobby Feller in his prime, and Joe Williams of the Lincoln Giants was as smart a pitcher as I ever saw.

But fifty years ago there was a negro player named Monroe who was the best shortstop I ever saw. And the most confident hitter. He'd turn his back on the pitcher for two strikes — just let 'em go by — then turn around, yell, "Now strike me out!' and belt the next pitch like crazy."

They were born too soon, or Rickey too late.

Army Issues Draft Call for 23,000 in September

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army today issued a draft call for 23,000 men in September, the same quota previously announced for July and August.

The September draft will bring to 1,766,430 the total number of men drafted or earmarked for induction since the resumption of Selective Service in September, 1950.

The national University of Mexico was founded in 1553.

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

TUESDAY, JULY 13, 1954

Donald B. McLouth

Probably no death in recent years has visibly shaken industrial and business circles in this area as profoundly as has DONALD B. MCLOUTH'S.

If you wish to conjure a picture of a 52 year old man in perfect physical condition and at the absolute peak of his mental powers, you could do no better than look upon DON MCLOUTH.

★ ★ ★

He was known everywhere.

He was admired everywhere.

Very few individuals ever go along this Great Journey and make as many friends and make them as easily. Even casual acquaintances of Mr. MCLOUTH felt as though they were intimate pals and he readily accepted them all on their own evaluation.

★ ★ ★

He was severely stricken in the night and was probably acutely aware of his condition for he said to Mrs. MCLOUTH:

"I'm not afraid to die, Marie. But there are so many things I'd like to complete."

No man of our acquaintance died with as much "unfinished business," and no man was so well qualified to complete the assignment himself. He was just ending sections of a hundred million dollar steel expansion, placing it among the major moves of its kind in the history of industry. Triumph was ahead; but now it will come without the aid or presence of its motivating force.

★ ★ ★

The sheer thrill of living ran through DONALD MCLOUTH'S life and permitted him the continuous joy of a "cup that runneth over." A few days ago he was one of the most assertive, vigorous and capable Americans we had. Today he is a memory — a revered and tremendous memory, but a powerful force has been wrenched away and lost to mankind forever.

Losses like this are stunning.

Industry Backs Schools

Two of the country's biggest and most powerful organizations are the National Education Association and the National Association of Manufacturers. One is made up of teachers who train the Nation's youth. The other is made up of large and small businesses that turn out the Nation's manufactured products.

★ ★ ★

The point that one can't get along without the other was made pretty strongly at the NEA meeting by HAROLD C. MCCLELLAN, president of the NAM.

Teachers were delighted to hear the spokesman for manufacturers say: "The 20,000 members of the NAM want better schools and better-paid teachers because we know that our own and the Nation's progress depends on education."

★ ★ ★

President MCCLELLAN wasn't just being nice to the 20,000 teachers at the NEA convention. Industry has checked its own manpower resources and knows that it has to rely on the products of the public schools and the liberal arts colleges for its supervisory, technical, research, sales and management personnel.

★ ★ ★

Industry has expressed its faith in the liberal arts colleges by supporting financial drives to keep the independent ones alive. And at the NEA meeting President MCCLELLAN knew he had complete backing of the NAM in supporting more and better public schools and more adequate pay for their teachers.

PROPAGANDA is baloney so artfully disguised that it passes as food for thought.

Bulging Butter Bins

A big fuss was made the other day when we sold 14,600,000 pounds of butter to Great Britain. On top of ration-free meat, sold now in Britain for the first time in 14 years, the British housewife can buy American butter for around forty-three cents a pound.

That's about two-thirds of the current American rate. But because we sold surplus butter, which the Government bought in the open market to support the price, Britain got a bargain.

★ ★ ★

The Government and the taxpayer lost money, while the British consumer gained. But if the butter hadn't been sold there wouldn't be any place to store the butter we have to keep on buying.

In about four weeks all the space saved by the 14,600,000 pounds shipped to England will be filled with more surplus butter. After that cold storage warehouses in the U. S. will be bulging again.

★ ★ ★

This illustrates the futility of fixed price controls. Iit is now in the Senate's hands to do something to relieve the butter situation. The Agriculture Committee has made a half-hearted stab at it, but Congress will have to act quickly if surplus butter doesn't go to waste.

Children's Home Librarian Asks Books for Younger Age Levels; Shelves Depleted

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

The people of Oakland County have in the past been very generous in donating books and magazines to the Oakland County Childrens' Home (formerly known as the Juvenile Home). At one time we had about two thousand books.

Since the cottages have been built we have depleted our shelves by sharing with them and with Camp Oakland. Our books at present are anti-dated for modern science.

We would appreciate biographies of modern men, new books on radar, airplanes, sports, wildlife, electrical science, history of events in history since World War I.

We also need some fiction from modern writers including science fiction such as interspace travel, etc. from the 4th to the 9th grade reading level. Most pupils like mystery stories, but we bar murder mysteries.

We would also appreciate magazines.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Marriage Foundation Would Be Formed and Operated Like Efficient Business

Harry's case shows the need for some stellar American business efficiency to aid Cupid. It is high time we quit ignoring romantic hungers of our people, for they are more vital to America's future safety than milk funds for tenement kids or even polio and cancer research.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case L-356: Harry M., aged 27, is a surgical resident at a large city hospital.

"Dr. Crane, I'd like to get married and rear a family," he told me recently.

"But my hospital duties tie me down so I don't get a chance to meet many eligibles. All the patients here are already married or sickly.

"So maybe you could give me the names of two or three young women between 23 and 30 whom I might meet with the aim of developing friendships and maybe romance, if our personalities harmonize."

Modern business and professional men often come to me with the same request that Harry has uttered.

For they feel it is high time that science was applied to this matter of meeting eligible members of the opposite sex.

Mail order firms have long given the farmers a wide array of merchandise from which to select.

And modern Employment Agencies put worker and employer together in a quick, efficient manner.

Yet we still force young people to blunder around in random manner regarding marriage prospects.

That's why they often marry those who aren't of the same religion or race or family background and thus end in the divorce courts.

For a scientific marriage foundation would match people of the same basic habits, religion and attitudes.

Then, if romance developed, those marriages would have an ideal foundation, so very few would ever end in divorce.

If we had a Marriage Foundation, Dr. Harry could immediately send to it for a questionnaire. He'd fill out all the items thereon, and send in a recent photograph, plus the names of three references, and a medical report as to his health. He'd include a registration fee of maybe $5.

A local field agent, such as a clergyman or YMCA secretary, would then call on him in person and also consult his references. This would rule out ineligibles, gold-diggers or Bluebeards.

The $5 fee would go to pay the field agent for his house call and his brief written report to the home office about Dr. Harry.

Then Dr. Harry would be given the names of two or three fine girls with the same religion, hobbies, cultural background, etc. He could write to them and build up a pen pal friendship.

Later, if he wished to meet them in person, he could go to their home town, which should preferably be within 300 miles or less to avoid needless travel expense, and meet them at the church of their local field agent.

This clergyman could introduce them. After the church service, they could then go to dinner and thereafter they'd be on their own.

In St. Louis, a YMCA group tried to stimulate a social gathering for romantic purposes. But they failed to get acquainted via mail. And had no field agents, etc.

Lacking previous exchanges of letters, they ran short of conversational ammunition and became relatively tongue - tied after a few minutes.

So I find that it is wiser to meet via mail and get acquainted through many exchanges of letters, before the personal introduction is made.

We could promote 100,000 additional and happy marriages each year if somebody would finance the home office of such a Marriage Foundation.

For the $5 registration fee should go to repay the field agent for his house call and written report to the home office re the prospect.

Aunt Het

I know it's silly to brag, but when a woman starts tellin' me about her trips abroad, I'm going to tell her about my Wedgwood.

David Lawrence Says:

Crisis in World Affairs Awaits Cue From U. S.

WASHINGTON—America's "agonizing reappraisal" of the world situation is not far away. The trip of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to Paris at this time is one of the first moves in the process.

It will be recalled that Dulles several months ago warned the French that, unless the European Defense Community were ratified, the United States would have to make "an agonizing reappraisal" of its world policies.

No clarifying definition was ever supplied, but it has been generally believed that, if France and Britain pursued policies that isolated the United States, it would become necessary to re-examine America's past policies and assumptions as well.

There is at present a far-reaching crisis in world affairs.

The French Cabinet realizes it is defeated in Indochina and is preparing some form of surrender. But it wants an American blessing to be given to the so-called "settlement," so it will seem more palatable to the French people.

Great Britain is trying to side with France but also wants a cue from America as to what to do.

When Secretary Dulles and Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith dealt with the problems that arose at Geneva, they made it crystal clear that the United States was not in favor of appeasing the Communists in Indochina or anywhere else.

There was a brief period recently when America considered military intervention in Indochina, but the French government, while discussing the matter on a hypothetical basis, never really requested intervention.

The reason was a fear that, if the United States did intervene, it would mean the internationalization of the war and this might result in a prolonged conflict. The pressure in France has been to get out of Indochina at almost any cost.

This pressure comes to a large extent from the Communist deputies — 100 of them — who hold the balance of power in the French Parliament, and from the leftist groups who have been influenced by what seemed to them a popular cry for the ending of the war in Indochina.

* * *

But now that the time is at hand for scuttling the Indochina War by retreat and evacuation, the French Cabinet is ill at ease. Frantic appeals were made to the American government last week to send a top-level official to attend the Geneva conference, where Messrs. Molotov of Russia, Chou En-lai of Communist China and Foreign Secretary Eden of Britain were ready to meet with Premier Mendes-France. This could only mean arrangements for the funeral of allied hopes for an honorable Indochina settlement.

The United States government replied last Friday that it couldn't see the wisdom of sending a top-level official back to Geneva, because America would have to speak its mind plainly and in the end this could complicate matters for the French if they were really bent on surrendering or appeasing or retreating — whatever the descriptive phrase for ending the Indochina War on the enemy's terms really is.

But the French felt bad about America's abstention and again urged that someone from the Department of State come to talk things over. So Dulles conferred with President Eisenhower on Monday of this week and decided that, as a courtesy to the French, the best thing to do was for the secretary of state to fly to Paris and hold conferences there.

Whether or not Dulles goes on to Geneva — an hour away from Paris by plane — depends on what tangible results crop up at the Swiss center of diplomatic effort.

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Churchill dispelled one source of anxiety that had arisen since he left Washington. He declared that Britain didn't favor Red China's admission to the United Nations "at the moment," which means that the matter will be deferred for some time to come even though Churchill reaffirms his belief that ultimately such a course should be taken.

He revealed, incidentally, that the matter of admitting Red China into the United Nations figured very little in his talks with President Eisenhower.

The real controversy arose afterward when reports became current that Premier Mendes-France, in order to get Chou En-lai's approval of peace terms, had to promise something about supporting Red China's bid for entry into the Security Council of the U. N.

But the forthright expressions from majority leader Knowland and minority leader Johnson in the U. S. Senate, together with the legislation proposed to cut down on foreign aid, may have had a sobering effect on those abroad who were pressing the Red China matter.

For the present, therefore, nothing will be done about it, and American leadership on this issue has received a strong measure of support throughout the world.

Adlee - Adlai - Adlee Stevenson emerges from his cocoon of unpremeditated silence with an astonishing prescription for Democratic victory in 1956.

Adlai advocates nothing less than adoption of the GOP platform for 1952. In less monitored words he wants the Democrats to run on the Republican ticket.

You can slap my sassy face and reduce my alimony if that isn't the gollwallopingest proposition since Honest John brought back the red hot stove.

Alai said at a bought-for dinner in the celebrity booth of a corner lunch wagon that the time is ripe for everything including speckled apples, Democrats and neck boils.

Between bites at a paper cup Adlai said the GOP promised us two thumbs in every pie, old age young enough to still enjoy it and louder snappers in bon-bons.

Never before according to Adlai have so many waited so long for so little. The GOP promised us the world with a fence around it. But didn't tell us the fence was going to be barbed wire.

What Adlai forgets is the Republicans ran six times on that platform before they won in 1952.

Like it or lump it 1932, 1936, 1940, 1944 and 1948 are not historic dates in GOP history. Each one is a numbered vacuum without pay.

In 1952 the Republicans came out with the best of all slogans and won. Get the old rascals out and the new rascals in.

It's the lure of the appurtenance and the fascination of the emolument that makes a politician ride a reform wave up a damp avenue, preferably Pennsylvania.

Type of Hernia Should Be Determined to See If Injection Treatment Is Indicated

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

A brash young "clinic" racketeer, protesting to an editor about my warnings to patients against tonsil snatchers, refers to me as "this cull" etc.

Boy, you're so right—I felt so old this morning that I rolled only half of my usual 6 somersaults.

But I'm not washed up yet—I just rolled half a dozen after the game—bowling on the green, of course—and then into the shower—so now I am washed up or as nearly so as I ever get.

Another colleague advises an editor down east that "if your so-called Doctor Brady is a physician, he is certainly not an authority on the treatment of hernia."

Man, that's an understatement. I'm no authority on anything, except, perhaps, straight stem tanshell briar pipes and old-fashioned yeast-raised buckwheat pancakes.

But my colleague adds that "the injection treatment of hernia was tried by the ethical medical profession and the results carefully studied 20 years ago, and the treatment was discarded as a useless procedure."

One of the best textbooks, if not the best, on hernia is that of Dr. Leigh F. Watson, published by C. V. Mosby Co., St. Louis (3rd edition, 1948).

The book contains several chapters on ambulant (office, injection) treatment, although most of the text deals with surgery.

The ever-ready operator who says the ambulant (injection) treatment of hernia (rupture, breach) was tried years ago and discarded as useless has probably not examined Watson's textbook.

This authoritative work lists several types of hernia for which injection treatment is "indicated" and several types for which it is not.

I hope no reader, medical or lay, will infer that I advocate injection treatment regardless of the individual circumstances.

But when circumstances are favorable within reasonable limitations as defined by such authorities as Watson, I earnestly advise the victim of hernia (rupture) breach) to seek the advice of an open-minded physician in regard to the method of choice.

In any case let neither physician nor prospective patient forget that hernia operations fail to cure in 5 to 20 per cent — that is, the hernia recurs weeks or months after the operation in many instances no matter how skillful the surgeon.

Recurrence is perhaps equally frequent after injection treatment. Of course no honest doctor can or will guarantee cure of anything by any method.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Shah May Call Landlord's Bluff

Iranian Sovereign Will Set Up Fund to Pay Off Property Owners

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Iran's rich and stubborn landowners, who balk at breaking up their giant estates because peasant buyers can't put up ready cash, may have their bluff called by Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi.

High court sources say the sovereign plans to set up a fund of about 50 million dollars to pay off any landowner willing to follow the Shah's example of splitting up his holdings.

* * *

The Shah is convinced land reform is one of the best ways of heading off communism here. He will put up a major chunk of the fund. If the plan matures, the rest will be sought abroad, probably from the Export-Import Bank or from such American sources as the Point Four program.

So far the patient Iranian monarch is relying on persuasion and example in his determined effort to break the grip of big landlordism—especially absentee landlordism—on the nation's most fertile areas.

The Shah's land reform movement, supported to the hilt by American policy, started in 1951. It has met implacable opposition from Iran's rich owners.

* * *

In 1951, landlords accused the Shah of being a Communist for proposing to lift the nation's landless millions out of quasi-serfdom.

But the ruler pressed forward with distribution of his own vast crown lands and warned landlords to follow his example or face wholesale communism in the agricultural areas. His opponents dropped the "Communist" cry but claimed land reform violated the Korean.

Former Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, one of Iran's biggest landowners now doing three years solitary confinement for trying to overthrow the monarch, halted the program in 1953.

Launch $10 Million Reactor Experiment

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission announced yesterday approval of a 10-million-dollar project in which the commission and North American Aviation Inc., of Los Angeles will work together on development of the nation's first sodium-graphite reactor—an atomic furnace that will use slightly enriched uranium or a combination of thorium and U233 as fuel.

The commission called the project "a new step toward the development of economic nuclear power." The experimental furnace is due to be operating by 1957.

7-Year Dispute on Trieste Seen Close to Settlement

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

A settlement of the tangled seven-year dispute over the Free Territory of Trieste at the upper end of the Adriatic Sea seems imminent.

It is proposed to turn over the northern half of the 320-square-mile area to Italy and leave Yugoslavia in possession of the southern half.

Advices from Rome, Belgrade and Washington agree that a final solution on this basis almost certainly will be reached within the next few weeks.

A Trieste agreement would remove a trouble spot which has plagued the Western allies and thus helped the Kremlin in the Cold War.

It also would be, to a considerable extent, a triumph for brilliant, beautiful Clare Boothe Luse, United States ambassador to Italy.

For many months, Mrs. Luce has worked patiently and quietly at her post in Rome to persuade Italy to give up its claim to the entire territory. As much as anybody, she must share the credit for a settlement.

The Trieste area was taken from Italy after World War II. It was divided into two zones. Zone A, the northern half was occupied by American and British troops. Zone B, the southern half was occupied by Yugoslavia.

The Italian Peace Treaty of 1947 provided that Trieste should become a free territory, ruled by a neutral governor. But Russia blocked every attempt to name a suitable man.

In March, 1948, the United States and Britain proposed that the entire territory be handed over to Italy. Russia objected — Yugoslavia was then allied with the Soviet bloc.

But in June, 1948, Yugoslavia was thrown out of the Red Cominform because Marshal Tito refused to subordinate his country's interests to those of Russia.

That changed the situation radically. Tito began aligning himself with the West.

Last October the United States and Britain proposed that Italy get Zone A and Yugoslavia get Zone B. Italians were enraged. There were bloody riots in Trieste City. Italy and Yugoslavia sent troops to their frontiers.

Now agreement is in sight on the basis of the October proposal, with some minor changes in the zone B border.

Mrs. Luce has reason to be happy during the vacation she has just started in the United States. She has won outstanding success as an editor, a playwright, a politiian and a diplomat.

At 27 she was associate editor of Vogue magazine. At 34 she was the author of the knockout-success play "The Women." She served with distinction for two terms in the House of Representatives.

Her appointment to the Rome ambassadorship in February, 1953, caused criticism — a woman as envoy to a major power. But she came through as usual. At 51, she is at the peak of her career.

3 Slug Guard; Escape Ontario Mental Hospital

LANGSTAFF, Ont. (AP)—Police combed farms and villages 15 miles north of Toronto early today for three mental patients who escaped from the Ontario Hospital for the Criminally Insane after slugging a guard.

Authorities described two of the escapees as 'very dangerous.'

Moroccan Dies, 8 More Injured in Bomb Blast

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP)— A homemade bomb thrown into a group of Moroccans here last night killed one and wounded eight others seriously.

Police said the bomb, a gas can filled with high explosives and pieces of metal, presumably was thrown by a terrorist who escaped in the panic which followed the blast.

Hydraulic brake systems for automobiles were introduced in 1927.

2 School Board Officials Elected

Rochester Voters Also Approved Sale of Nine Unused Schools

ROCHESTER — Wallace Hodges and Dr. Eve Schlecte were elected school board members yesterday, defeating William McClelland and Roy Plauman.

Voters approved the school district's selling nine schools acquired when the school district was consolidated, and presently unused, by 10-1 margins.

These were former one-room rural schools, and school officials said it was neither economical nor practicable to operate them any more.

Hodges polled the largest vote in the four-way contest for two three-year posts on the board. He received 268 votes, with incumbent Dr. Schlecte polling three less.

McClelland received 146, and Plauman, 89.

Hodges takes the place of Earl Dean who declined to run again after 11 years of service. Hodges was the chairman of the Rochester Community Citizens's Committee, which promoted the recent bond issue program for new school construction.

Voters also approved the Special Education Act for aiding handicapped students, 294-38.

Romeo Voters Choose 2 to Serve on School Board

ROMEO — In one of the lightest turn-outs in recent years, voters of the Romeo Community School District elected Walter Sewell of Washington and Dr. Ralph G. Renwick, Romeo dentist, to the Board of Education yesterday.

Present board President Lawrence Ricket ran a close third in the three-man race for the two positions.

Sewell garnered a total of 411 votes in the three precincts, leading the field in his home precinct and in Davis and running a close second in Romeo.

Dr. Renwick carried Romeo and ran second in the other two precincts, receiving a total of 382 votes.

Rickett ran close to Sewell in Romeo, trailing him by only nine votes, but ran third in the other two precincts, with 310 votes the final count for Rickett.

The much-discussed teacher tenure proposal lost by a 22-vote margin. The total vote was 324 against and 302 for the proposal. Washington and Davis precincts voted against the proposition. While voters in Romeo favored tenure by a vote of 226-209, it was not enough to overcome the negative vote in the outlying areas.

The six other proposals, which sought authorization to dispose of several school buildings and sites formerly used by the school district before consolidation, all passed by substantial majorities.

Following closing of the polls the annual school board meeting was held in the Romeo High School auditorium, with 24 citizens present.

The school year was set at 10 months and a comprehensive 32-page booklet outlining the activities of the school district during the past year was favorably accepted by those attending.

Thorne's Body to Be Exhumed

E amination of Tissues Fails to Find Enough Poison to Cause Death

CHICAGO (UP) — Mrs. Marion Thorne, wealthy Chicago socialite, has agreed that her son's body should be removed from its grave for final efforts of medical scientists to fix the cause of his mysterious death.

"I want to get at the truth," her attorney, Bartlett Marimon, quoted her as saying.

* * *

The inquest in the case resumes tomorrow.

Coroner Walter E. McCarron said he will appear before Chief Justice Charles S. Dougherty in Criminal Court today to get legal authorization to exhume the body of Montgomery Ward Thorne, 20-year-old heir to a mail order fortune.

The request came from a panel of prominent pathologists who were unable to determine the cause of death after reviewing the findings of Dr. Harry Leon, coroner's physician who believes young Thorne met with foul play.

* * *

Thorne died suddenly June 19, nine days after he rewrote his will and left three fourths of his estate to his sweetheart, Maureen Ragen, 18, and her mother Aleen. His mother, who was sole beneficiary under an earlier will, was left a one-eighth share.

Thorne told his attorney, Jay Stough, at that time he feared he might not live until his 21st birthday in October. He asked that his death, if it occurred, be thoroughly investigated.

Dr. Leon attributed Thorne's death to the depressive breath-halting effects of narcotics, a sleeping potion and wood alcohol. He opined a second person might have administered narcotics in Thorne's veins.

* * *

However, the panel reported Monday that "toxicological examination of vital tissues has not revealed poisons in quantity to cause death."

The panel members microscopically examined slides of tissue sections from Thorne's body and also studied new specimens they prepared from organ samples removed from the body before burial.

'Hard to Find Homogeneity

Forum Told Variety of Residents Is Barrier to Problem Solving

EAST LANSING (UP) — The wide variety of residents in many Michigan townships is a barrier to settlement of their problems, the Michigan State College Governmental Forum was told yesterday.

William H. Form, MSC sociologist, in a profile of a mid-state township, said "It is hard to find a homogenous group. The area included suburban development areas, farms and privately-built homes—there is an uneven concentration of population.

"There are many young adults and young children, many of whom think the 'county' is a good place to raise children. There are very few natives in the area, 90 per cent having come from cities or other places. The area has very little tradition of its own."

From said urban fringe areas are tending to grow in size and become more city-like.

Louis Vos, supervisor of Wyoming Township in Kent County, and Homer E. Dowdy, Flint Journal staff writer, said a basic township problem is representation on boards of supervisors.

Reporting on a Flint area study, Dowdy said that unless boards equally represent different population groups "the balance of power can be held by the area" not affected by proposed improvements.

Speakers said modernization of township and drainage laws and better public relations between citizens and office holders would help township government.

Ray Fry, Midland City Manager, said one of the greatest problems in fringe development "is the question of who is going to pay for trunk service to an area to be serviced." He said cooperation between cities and outlying areas is necessary to solve these problems.

Dowdy said the Flint survey showed sewage disposal to be the primary problem in the public mind. Next came streets and highways, zoning law enforcement, schools, financing and water supply.

TWICE IN ONE YEAR—Four children in one year were born to Mrs. Robert Cunningham, 18, of Marion, Ohio. Twin boys, Donnie Ray and Ronnie Jay, held by their mother, were born, June 25, the same date twin girls were born last year. The girls are Bonny Lou and Connie Sue. Daddy Robert Cunningham, 21, works in a steel mill.

Detroit Grocer Sentenced to Life Term for Shooting

DETROIT (UP) — Leo Walker, 41, convicted slayer of a Detroit grocer, was sentenced to life imprisonment Monday by recorder's judge John A. Ricca.

Walker was convicted of fatally shooting John Drousiotis, 54, last February when the grocer attempted to stop Walker from robbing him.

Mother of Eight Guilty of Cruelty

Jury Convicts Woman on Charges of Assault, Mayhem Against Child

LOS ANGELES (UP)—A young mother of eight children has been convicted of prolonged brutality against a 9-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Trinidad Vera, 28, was convicted by a jury yesterday of six felony counts, including four of assault, one of mayhem and one of assault with a deadly weapon. That makes her liable for a prison term of from 6 to 64 years.

She had pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity. Trial of the sanity plea begins Thursday.

During the trial the child, Celia Sanchez, and other witnesses testified that two years of mistreatment resulted in permanent damage to her vision, two skull fractures, many broken arms, loss of teeth and other injuries. Her thrice-broken left arm still is in a cast despite extensive treatment that started in April when her plight was discovered.

* * *

Celia's stepfather, Jose Cruz Cruz Vera, 43, an ex-convict, was charged during the trial with four counts of felonious assault against Celia and one count of child molestation. He was jailed in lieu of $10,000 bail.

The Veras have six children of their own. Celia and a sister were Mrs. Vera's children by a previous marriage. Juvenile authorities said the mother told them she could give no reason for the beatings. Investigation indicated the other children were not mistreated.

Of an estimated 500,000 highway bridges in the country, about 170,000 are not adequate to meet demands of present-day traffic.

The Caine Mutiny

Copyright

Synopsis: Willie Keith is in the Navy, assigned to a filthy dirty old ship, the minesweeper Caine. Willie is the decoding officer. The new Captain, Queeg gets into trouble by getting the ship grounded and also over a lost target, and is ordered to report in person on the flagship.

CHAPTER 12

Captain Grace, a fierce - looking old officer with a square face and heavy white eyebrows, accepted the envelope offered by the captain of the Caine and motioned him to a yellow wooden chair beside his desk.

Queeg, natty as his bulbous figure permitted in gabardine khakis, sat with his fingers laced tightly together in his lap.

Grace put on heavy black-rimmed glasses, and read the document. Then he deliberately removed his glasses, and shoved the report aside with the hairy back of his hand.

He inhaled on his enormous black pipe, and puffed up a volcanic cloud from the hissing bowl. "Unsatisfactory," he said, looking straight at Queeg.

The commander's lower lip trembled. "May I ask why, sir?"

"Because it says nothing I didn't know before, and explains nothing I wanted explained."

Queeg unconsciously began to roll imaginary balls between the fingers of both hands.

"I gather," Grace went on, "that you divide the blame among your exec, your first lieutenant, your chief boatswain's mate, and your predecessor, Capt. de Vriess."

"Sir, I accept full responsibility for everything," Queeg said hastily. "I'm well aware that the mistakes of subordinates are no excuse for an officer but simply reflect on his ability to lead.

"And as for my predecessor, why, sir, I am cognizant that the ship spent a very long time in the forward area and I have no complaints about the ship, but facts are facts, and the state of training is definitely not up to snuff, but I have taken steps which will quickly remedy the situation, and so—"

"Why didn't you recover the target, Commander?"

"Sir, as I state in my report the chief boatswain's mate seemed to have no clear idea how to go about it and my officers were equally vague and uncertain, and failed to give me precise information, and a captain has to lean on his subordinates to some extent, it's inevitable.

"And I judged that it was more important for the Caine to report back to base for such further duty as might be assigned instead of wasting God knows how much time in futile complicated maneuvering. If this decision was erroneous it is regretted, but that was my decision."

"Hell, man, there's nothing complicated about recovering a target," Grace said irritably. "You can do it in half an hour. DMSs out here have done it a dozen times. Those damn things cost money. God knows where that target is now. The tug we sent out can't find it."

"I'm not commanding that tug, sir," Queeg said with a sly little smile at his hands.

Grace screwed up his eyes and peered at Queeg as though he were in a very poor light. He rapped the ash out of his pipe against a horny palm into a heavy glass ashtray.

"See here, Commander," he said in a pleasanter tone than he had hitherto used, "I understand how you feel about your first command. You're anxious to make no mistakes — it's only natural. I was that way myself.

"But I made mistakes, and paid for them, and gradually grew into a fairly competent officer. Let's be frank with each other, Commander Queeg, for the sake of your ship and, if I may say so, your future career. Forget that this is an official interview. From here on in everything is off the record."

Queeg's head was sinking down between his shoulders, and he regarded Grace warily from under his eyebrows.

"Between you and me," Grace said, "You didn't try to recover that target because you just didn't know what to do in the situation. Isn't that the truth?

"If that's the case, man," said Grace in a fatherly way, "for Ch—t's sake say so and let's both put this incident behind us.

"On that basis I can understand it and forget it. It was a mistake, a mistake due to anxiety and inexperience. But there's no man in the Navy who's never made a mistake—"

Queeg shook his head decisively, reached forward, and crushed out his cigarette.

"No, Captain, I assure you I appreciate what you say, but I am not so stupid as to lie to a superior officer, and I assure you my first version of what happened is correct and I do not believe I have made any mistake as yet in commanding the Caine nor do I intend to, and, as I say, finding the caliber of my officers and crew to be what it is, I am simply going to get seven times as tough as usual and bear down seven times as hard until the ship is up to snuff which I promise you will be soon."

"Very well, Commander Queeg." Grace rose, and when Queeg started to get up he said, "Stay where you are, stay where you are." He went to a shelf on the wall, took down a round purple tin of expensive English tobacco, and refilled his pipe.

When he was lighting the pipe with a thick wooden match he inquisitively regarded the Caine captain, who was rolling nonexistent balls again.

"Commander Queeg," he said suddenly, "about the—puff puff—defective towline—puff puff — that broke. How much of a turn were you making?"

Queeg's head tilted sidewise; he darted a look full of suspicion at the captain. "I was using standard rudder, of course, sir. I have never exceeded standard rudder with the target, as my logs will show—"

"That's not what I mean," Grace returned to his seat, and leaned forward, waving the smoking pipe at Queeg. "How far did you turn? Twenty degrees? Sixty degrees? Were you reversing course 180 degrees—or what?

The Caine skipper gripped the arms of the chair with bony knuckles, saying, "I'd have to check in my logs, sir, but I don't see what bearing it has on the matter how much of a turn it was, so long as—"

"Did you come around in a complete circle, Commander Queeg, and cut your own towline?

Queeg's jaw dropped. He closed and opened his mouth a couple of times and at last said in a low, furious tone, stammering a little," "Captain Grace, with all submission, sir, I must tell you that I resent that question, and regard it as a personal insult."

Grace's stern expression wavered. He looked away from Queeg. "No insult intended, Commander. Some questions are more unpleasant to ask than to answer —Did that happen or didn't it?"

"If it did, sir, I think I odght to have recommended my own general court-martial."

Grace stared hard at Queeg. "I must tell you, Commander, that you have troublemakers aboard your ship. We received such a rumor here this morning. I seldom take cognizance of such scuttlebutt.

"However, the admiral heard it, and in view of several other actions of yours which have seriously troubled him, why, he ordered me to put the question to you. However, I suppose I can take your word as a naval officer that it didn't happen—"

"May I know, sir," Queeg said in a faltering tone, "in what respect the admiral finds fault with me?"

"Well, hang it man, first time under way you run up on the mud — of course, that can happen to anybody — but then you try to duck a grounding report and when you do send one in upon request, why, it's just a phony gun-deck job.

"And then what do you call that dispatch to us yesterday? 'Dear me, I've lost a target, please, ComServPac, what shall I do?' Admiral blew up like a land mine. Not because you lost the target — because you couldn't make a decision that was so obvious a seaman second class could have made it! If the function of command isn't to make decisions and take responsibility, what is it?"

Queeg's upper lip raised, showing his teeth in a mechanical half-smile. "By your leave, sir, I made my estimate of the situation and my decision. Then, considering the expense of the target which you have just mentioned and all, I made another decision, which was that the matter ought to be referred to higher authority. As for the grounding report I did not try to duck it, sir, I did not wish to trouble higher authority with a dispatch about a trivial matter.

"It seems to me that I am being reproved here in one case for bothering higher authority, and in the other case for not bothering higher authority. I respectfully submit, sir, that the admiral ought to make up his mind as to which policy he prefers." There was a glimmer of triumph in the downhung face.

The operations officer ran his fingers through his gray hair. "Commander," he said, after an extremely long pause, "do you really see no difference between those two situations?"

"Obviously they were different. But in principle they were the same. It was a question of consulting higher authority. But as I say, sir, I accept full responsibility for whatever happened, even if it means a general court-martial—"

"Nobody's talking about a general court - martial." Grace shook his head with a pained, exasperated expression. He stood, with a motion to Queeg to keep his seat, and paced the little office several times, whirling spirals in the layers of smoke that hung in the air. He came back to the desk and rested one haunch on the corner.

"See here, Commander Queeg. I'm going to ask you a couple of straight off-the-record questions. I promise you your answers will go no farther than this room unless you wish. In return, I would greatly value a couple of forthright answers." He looked into Queeg's eyes in a friendly yet searching way.

The Caine skipper smiled, but his eyes remained opaque and expressionless. "Sir, I've tried to be as forthright as possible in this interview, and I certainly will not stop being forthright at this point—"

"Okay. Number one. Do you think your ship, in its present state of training, and with the caliber of subordinates you have, is capable of carrying out combat assignments?"

"Well, sir, as to a definite yes-and-no commitment on that nobody can predict the future and I can only say that with the limited resources at my command I will to the utmost of my ability strive to carry out any orders I may receive, combat or otherwise, and —as I say—"

"You'd be happier, if the Bureau had given you another assignment, wouldn't you?"

Queeg grinned with one side of his mouth. "Sir, I respectfully submit that that's a question no body would care to answer, not even the admiral."

"True enough." Grace paced in silence for a long time. Then he said, "Commander Queeg, I believe it's possible to transfer you to a state-side assignment — with no reflection whatever," he added hastily, "on your performance of duties aboard the Caine. The transfer would be a simple correction of an unjust and erroneous assignment."

Queeg, frowning at the air in front of him, his face gone pale, said with difficulty: "And I wonder how that would look in my record, sir—relieved of my first command after one month!"

"I believe I could guarantee you a fitness report that would remove any possible doubt on that score—"

Queeg suddenly plunged his left hand into his pocket and brought out the steel balls. "Don't misunderstand me, sir. I don't say that CO of the Caine is the best assignment any officer ever had, or even that it's the assignment I deserved. But it happens to be the assignment I've got.

"The Caine is far from what I want it to be, but that doesn't mean I'm going to give up and sneak off to some shore billet. No, thank you, Captain Grace."

He looked for a moment at the operations officer, and resumed his glowering address to the invisible audience in front of and a little above him. "I am captain of the Caine, and I intend to remain captain, and while I'm captain of the Caine will carry out all its assignments or go to the bottom trying.

"I'll promise you one thing, sir—if stubbornness, and toughness, and unremitting vigilance and supervision by the commanding officer are of any avail, the Caine will come through any combat duty assigned. And I'll stand by the fitness report I'll get when my tour of duty is over, sir. That's all I have to say."

Grace leaned backward, hooking his arm over the back of his chair. He regarded Queeg with a slight smile, and nodded his head slowly several times. "Professional pride and a sense of duty, both of which you obviously have, can carry an officer a long way in this outfit."

He stood, and put out his hand to Queeg. "I think we've each spoken our piece. I'm going to accept your report. As to these mistakes of yours, or unfortunate incidents, as you prefer to call them, well, they say a bad beginning makes a good ending—"

"Thank you, sir," said Queeg. "I have always endeavored to make only sensble and useful decisions, and in view of your kind advice I shall redouble my efforts in that direction."

* * *

Captain Grace stood beside the admiral's heavy mahogany desk in a wood-paneled, green-carpeted room.

"I wish you'd have let me see the report before accepting it," the admiral was grumbling. He was a lean, wintry little man with piercing blue eyes.

"I'm sorry, admiral."

"It's all right. What's your impression of this Queeg? That's the main thing.

Grace dummed on the desk softly with his fingers for a moment. "An old lady, I'm afraid, sir. I think he's earnest enough and probably pretty tough, but he's one of those that are never wrong, no matter how wrong they are—"

"How about that towline? What's the story? Did he cut it or didn't he?"

Grace shook his head dubiously. "Well, it's one of those things. He got terribly offended when I asked about it—seemed sincere enough. I more or less had to take his word that it didn't happen. You'd have to run a court of inquiry to get at the definite facts, sir, and I don't know—"

"Hell, we can't go tracking down scuttlebutt with courts of inquiry. But I don't like the cut of the man's jib, Grace. Too many questionable occurrences too fast. Do you think I ought to recommend to the Bureau that he be relieved?"

"No, sir," said Grace promptly. "In all fairness to the man, he's done nothing that we know of definitely to warrant that. Overtension in his first command could account for everything that's happened so far."

"Well, then—look here, CincPac wants me to send two destroyer-minesweepers back to the States for overhaul and new radar installations to go on the Flintlock push," said the admiral. "What's wrong with sending the Caine?"

"Nothing, sir. It's been in the forward area twenty-two months."

"Okay. Get up the dispatch recommending the Caine. Let this Queeg pull his next butch somewhere else."

A yard overhaul in the States was the most precious, prayed-for assignment of the war. In a year of combat steaming De Vriess had been unable to earn it for the old disintegrating Caine. Queeg had achieved it in his first four weeks, commanding the Navy's best target-towing ship.

Actors, Writers Lose Probe Suit

23 in Hollywood Were Fighting for Jobs After 5th Amendment Right

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Twenty-three film actors and writers have lost their $51,750,000 damage suit against major studios which denied them employment for refusing to say whether they had Communist affiliations.

Superior Judge Ellsworth Meyer threw the suit out of court yesterday and ordered judgment in favor of the studios and other defendants, including members of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

• • •

The 23 charged that they had been penalized for exercising their right under the Fifth Amendment. They argued they had been blacklisted by studios after being subpoenaed by the House Committee in 1952.

• • •

However, the judge held that the plaintiffs did not state sufficient facts to constitute a cause for action. And he added that in a criminal prosecution or investigation, a court or jury is entitled to draw unfavorable inferences from refusal of witnesses to testify.

In addition to studios and film executives, defendants included Representatives Donald L. Jackson (R-Calif) and Clyde Doyle (D-Calif) of the House committee, and committee investigator William Wheeler.

Bringing the suit were Michael Wilson, Gale Sondergaard, Howard Da Silva, John Howland Chamberlin, Fred Graf, Alvin Hammer, Donald A. Gordon, Robert Lees, Robert L. Richards, Waldo Salt, Philip Stevenson, Louise Rosseau, Alfred Lewis Levitt, Paul Jarrico, Abraham Lincoln Polansky, Wilma Shore, Herta Uerkvitz, Paul Perlin, Guy Endore, Edward F. Huebsch, Frederick I. Rinaldo, Louis Solomon and Anne Revere.

Writer Cleared at Ft. Monmouth

Is First of Suspended Group to Be Heard and Reinstated

FT. MONMOUTH, N.J. (UP)—Bernard Martin, a technical writer suspended a year from Ft. Monmouth as a purported security risk, has been cleared and reinstated.

In an announcement yesterday, Army authorities said Martin had been notified July 9 he could return to work at the electronic center. But the Army did not disclose whether he would be put back on his old job.

• • •

The Army said he was informed of the charges against him in September 1953 and that his case went before the security hearing board in Washington. The board found that his "continued employment was clearly consistent with the interests of national security."

• • •

Reportedly, Martin was one of 21 Ft. Monmouth employes suspended from their jobs as alleged security risks and given hearings by the 1st Army review board. He thus would be the first of the group cleared publicly.

Raccoons Prove Fast Hand Work

ST. LOUIS (UP) — A humane society officer found out recently that a "come along snare" is not much good when it comes to catching raccoons.

Richard Jones was called to the scene after construction workers found a fighting 'coon in an empty 50-gallon steel drum.

Jones unlimbered the snare, which is used on many types of creatures from dogs to snakes, and went after the animal. He failed to take into consideration that a raccoon used his front feet as hands.

"Everytime I'd put the snare on, he'd take it off," Jones complained.

It was fully 20 minutes before Jones finally trapped the animal. The raccoon was given to state conservation officers.

A-Sub Can Circle Globe at Full Speed, Submerged

WASHINGTON (UP)—The land-based model of the world's first nuclear submarine engine "has already produced more than enough power to send an atomic submarine around the world, fully submerged and at full speed."

The Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee said so today in a report to the Senate and House recommending a series of changes in the basic Atomic Energy Act.

The engine, a land-based "prototype" of the atomic engine now installed in the USS Nautilus, is located at the Atomic Energy Commission's testing site in eastern Idaho.

Speaking of prospects for economic atomic power for industry, however, the committee said only that such an objective "is on the horizon, though not within our immediate reach."

The legislation which the committee recommended would generally carry out President Eisenhower's recommendations for changes in the 1946 Atomic Act to allow exchange of some nuclear secrets with Allied nations and permit private industry to enter the atomic power field.

The bill as a whole was unanimously approved by the 18-member committee, but some members expressed sharp dissents on some sections. The Senate may begin debate on the measure late today or tomorrow.

• • •

The bill would:

1. Authorize the negotiations of agreements with foreign nations in the area of peacetime uses of atomic energy. The committee said this would provide "a mechanism to implement the President's peacetime international atomic pool plan."

2. Permit the AEC to transfer to another nation participating in such an agreement atomic materials in quantities needed for the development or utilization of atomic energy for nonmilitary and research purposes.

3. Allow transfer to another nation, or to a regional defense organization, secret data concerning the tactical employment of atomic weapons—but not including any information on their design and fabrication.

Girl Questioned in Murder Case

California Technician Says Dr. Sheppard Only Replaced Lost Watch

CLEVELAND (UP)—Authorities say they plan to question a former Bay View Hospital medical technician, now living in Downey, Calif., about her relationship with Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard.

The technician, 24-year-old Miss Susan Hayes, told the Cleveland Plain Dealer reporter in a long distance telephone conversation last night she was the woman who was given a wrist watch by the Bay Villate osteopath, whose pretty 31-year-old wife was hacked to death last July 4.

• • •

The girl's explanation was the same as one Dr. Sheppard told police several days ago.

• • •

She said that Dr. Sheppard, while attending a medical convention in Los Angeles last March, had asked her to accompany him to the wedding of a friend.

At the wedding, she lost her watch, she said, and the osteopath gave her a new one to replace it. She said he never had given her any other gifts.

Asst. County Prosecutor John H. Mahon said he had questioned Dr. Sheppard about his friendship with the woman, and added:

• • •

"We intend to go into this further. We intend to talk to the woman about her relationship with Dr. Sheppard."

• • •

The osteopath, who says he was beaten when he attempted to capture his wife's attackers, is now carrying a .38-caliber, snub-nosed revolver for protection, police said.

Dog Barking Curfew Gives Animals a Break

WATERTOWN, N.Y., (UP)—A barking dog's life, the City Council says, can begin an hour earlier each morning.

The Council voted last night to amend a recent ordinance that stipulated that dogs "are not permitted to howl or bark between the hours of 11 p.m. and 8 a.m. so as to disturb the neighbors."

Yielding slightly to the protests of dog owners who had trouble convincing their pets, the councilmen moved the morning curfew back to 7 a.m.

WILL HOT SUMMER MONTHS HELP YOUR ARTHRITIS?
Some people do get temporary relief on dry warm days, BUT IF YOU DO OR NOT, now is the best time to take O-JIB-WA BITTERS for more positive, lasting results.
Mrs. Ruby Killgore, Route No. 3, Cedar Springs, Michigan, suffered in good weather and bad alike. Read how she overcame her rheumatism and arthritis.
"For over 20 years, my whole body ached and pained terribly from rheumatism and arthritis.

Mrs. Killgore
I have spent a lot of time in bed because of fierce pains in my back, hips, fingers and ankles. I couldn't get up or down stairs, or in or out of bed without help, and just walking was a struggle. Each year I looked forward to the hot summer months in hopes that I would feel better. I was always disappointed, for I suffered in good weather and bad weather alike. I tried what seemed like everything on earth, without much relief, and had about given up hope, when I learned about O-JIB-WA BITTERS. Right from the start, O-Jib-Wa acted different, and I saw results in two weeks and was elated as my recovery was rapid. I was able to put in a garden this Spring and work everyday around the house again. I am certainly grateful for O-JIB-WA BITTERS, and urge you to try it, especially if you have tried other medicines without help. If you want to fully enjoy the summer months, free from the torture of rheumatism and arthritis, ask your druggist for O-JIB-WA BITTERS on my recommendation."

Will-O-Way Play Closes on Sunday

'Curious Savage' Cast Is Headed by Mrs. Merrill

Treesa Way Merrill heads the cast for "Curious Savage," the current offering at Will-O-Way, the straw-hat theater on West Long Lake road in Bloomfield Hills.

Taking the role as Ethel Savage, an elderly and wealthy eccentric, Mrs. Merrill reveals the character of a woman who is placed in an institution by her grasping children.

Her family considers it a maladjustment for their mother to devote her money to satisfying long-cherished whims of people less fortunate than herself.

Amidst several engaging mental cases, all of whose performances are touching, Mrs. Savage employs comical devices to outwit her children. She finally bids farewell to her friends and their ideals for which she shows much understanding.

The roles of the relatives are played by seasoned performers, Robert Bryson, Bettie Toti and Frederick L. Norris.

The staff roles are played by George C. Scott, a recent newcomer to Will-O-Way, and Shirley Nikoden. The "guests" are played by Gail Engel, Kemal Kasem, Lawrence C. Bosley, Mary Anne Wilson and Frances Hamburger.

"The Curious Savage" will run through Sunday. Coming next is tthe Moss Hart-George S. Kaufman comedy, "You Can't Take It With You," which opens July 20 for a two-week run excluding Mondays.

The girl in the upper left photo has naturally curly hair which she finds hard to manage. So the hair stylist cuts her hair in a style suited to curly hair. He keeps the natural direction of the curl in mind as he cuts and shapes her hair. The result is a soft feathery hair style (upper right) which demands little upkeep.

The girl (lower left) with straight hair, however, has another problem. She dislikes spending most of her time trying to curl her hair. So it's cut while it's wet. Afterwards, the girl (lower right) admires her new hairdo. It's shaped close to the head and proves that straight hair, when cut correctly, can be sleek, easy to care for and flattering to the face. This style will take a daily brushing, a weekly shampoo and that's all.

Proper Cut Means Less Time Spent for Care

Follow Natural Tendencies of Hair for Best Style

A major beauty problem that confronts most hairdo-conscious women during the summer is that of finding a hair style that's cool and easy to care for.

They don't want a complicated style that requires an hour each night to pin up. And according to most women, the ideal haircut is one that doesn't require cutting every week.

What woman wants to interrupt her annual vacation to dash to her neighborhood hairdresser for a quick trimming of her week-old haircut? Or, if she doesn't have the cut, to go about looking as if she needed it?

A crusader for the free-and-easy hair style is Victor Vito, famous hair stylist who offers a few realistic and practical attitudes about hair styles.

"All during my professional life," says Mr. Vito, "I have worked to emancipate women from the need for continuous hair care.

"My object is to enable every woman to take advantage of the natural qualities of her hair, whatever they may be.

"What I am doing is to reverse the popular view of hair styling so that women will depend more on hair cutting for good looks than on hair dressing for attractive appearance.

"One of my basic, though strictly unorthodox beliefs is that any woman can wear any hairdo, if she has the right hair for it.

"So long as it comes within the natural tendencies of your hair, some version of any style can be worked out."

Mr. Vito works on a theory of completely natural hair-styling. That is, if your hair is straight, you should have a straight hair style.

This is especially true if your hair is rather thick and of medium texture, for this type of hair is most attractive in a straight hair style which is best shaped close to the head.

On the other hand, if your hair is naturally curly and you find it unruly and hard to manage, Mr. Vito thinks you may have chosen the wrong hair style.

He suggests you try to visualize all the hair styles that utilize curls, waves or fluffs and decide which one of them can be adapted to your face and features.

Whatever hair style you may decide up, just remember Mr. Vito's important beauty rule for a pretty head. Your hairdo should come within the natural tendencies of your hair. If it does, you can cut your hair-care time in half.

After Visiting in Pontiac

Gerald Shirleys in Miami

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Shirley of Flint were recent visitors in the homes of their parents, the Richard Bashores of Ogemaw road and Mrs. Roy Shirley of Mark avenue. The Shirleys, who received master's degrees in the June graduating exercises at Michigan State College, are now vacationing in Miami, Fla.

The Bashores will leave Wednesday for Miami, by way of the Smoky Mountains.

After a month's stay in Miami they will travel to Alexandria, Va., where they will visit with his brother's family, the Don Bashores. They will spend some time in Washington, D. C., before returning to Pontiac.

* * *

Pike's Peak, a chuck wagon dinner in Garden of the Gods and a wild west rodeo are memories of Ruth Johnson, who recently returned to her home on Hudson avenue after vacationing for two weeks in Colorado.

The Black Hills and Bad Lands of Dakota and a stay on a dude ranch were of interest on the return trip. Ruth was accompanied by Marie Clouse of Coldwater.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Clark recently returned to their home on Silver Lake road after vacationing for 10 days. The couple spent part of their vacation touring New York City, Albany and Hartford, Conn.

Former Pontiac residents they visited were the R. M. Clarks of Chagrin Falls, Ohio, and the Floyd Neikirks of Clyde, Ohio.

* * *

Mrs. Hazel Knutsen and daughter, Clarice, of Toronto, Ont., were recent guests in the Joslyn avenue home of Mrs. Seely Dart.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Bemis were honored on their 25th wedding anniversary at a party given Saturday evening by Mrs. Dart in the Bemis home on Baldwin avenue.

* * *

Mrs. Millie Long and Mrs. Ethel Wiswell entertained 20 guests Thursday at a dinner in the Lafayette street home of Mrs. A. Scott Topp.

Honored at the occasion were their niece, Mrs. Charles Dismukas, and her daughter, Linda, of Kendall, Fla., who are visiting with friends and relatives in Pontiac.

Other out-of-town guests at the dinner included A. J. Flintoft of Orlando, Fla., Myrle Flintoft of Hartland and Arnold Moore and family of Kingston.

* * *

The Dale Klines of North Cass Lake road celebrated their silver wedding anniversary Sunday with an open house at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, the J. D. Goodsons of Lockhaven road.

Mrs. Gene Denham, Mrs. Maxine Allen and Mrs. A. W. Robinson assisted the hostess for the party, which was attended by 100 friends and relatives.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Barnfather of Owego drive and Mr. and Mrs. Ewalt Buittner of Orchard Lake avenue left Monday for a week's trip to the Wisconsin Dells.

When the Buittners return to their home, the Barnfathers will travel to the Smoky Mountains where they plan to spend several days.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. H. Malcolm Kahn of Pioneer drive announce the birth of a son, Joseph Alan, July 10 at Sinai Hospital. The infant's grandparents are the Joseph Kahns of Detroit and the Emil Walds of Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. O'Connor of Menominee road are announcing the birth of a daughter, Julie Katherine, July 1 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. Grandparents are Mrs. S. J. Patterson and Mrs. T. J. O'Connor of Pontiac.

Copper Sets Style Pace in Kitchens

ATLANTIC CITY (INS) — Old-fashioned copper is setting the style for new 1954 housewares.

Every type of kitchen gear from casseroles to garbage cans has been given a copper coat for fall. Even pots and pans will sport copper lids to match their bottoms.

The revival of copper made the big trend news at the national housewares show in Atlantic City. Copper gleamed all over the three floors of Atlantic City's big convention hall, where 600 manufacturers displayed their new merchandise.

The housewares makers kept the up-to-date color ideas they showed off last year — pretty pastels and lots of coral and cocoa in addition to the usual kitchen red and yellow. But copper outshone a variety of pink dishdrainers, turquoise scrubbing brushes and pale yellow enamel pots.

There were copper canister sets by the dozens, with or without black or chrome trim, copper trivets, copper breadboxes, copper towel rings (in copper-colored plastic), copper coffee-makers, and copper can-openers, juicers, shredders and grinders.

To make it unanimous, there was even a copper electric broiler-rotisserie, and one of the oldest makers of cast iron skillets proudly displayed his line with new copper lids.

All this copper will make a pretty display in the stores next fall.

Club at Lake Hears Talk on Flowers

The July meeting of the Green Lake Women's Club was held at the Green Lake Community House Monday.

Mrs. Don Morse, the new program chairman, presented Mrs. Myrl Windsor who gave a talk on flower arrangements. Containers considered difficult for flower arrangements were brought by the members and Mrs. Windsor demonstrated no problem in using them.

Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Dan Geisler, chairman; Mrs. Henry Boller, Mrs. E. Lee Potter and Mrs. A. P. Fergueson.

The officers for the coming year are Mrs. Gordon Van Camp, president for the second term; Mrs. Ken Hedges, vice president; Mrs. Fred Bott, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Martin Helmreich, recording secretary and Mrs. Ernie Fuller, treasurer.

Wandering Waistline Vies With Slouch Look in Fall Style Showings

Oleg Cassini's black wool broadcloth day dress collared with white silk satin has gold buttons to fasten the tabs, and is piped in red velvet to match the neckline ribbon.

Lends Sweater Look to Daytime Dresses

Oleg Cassini Shoves Belt Up, Down

NEW YORK (INS)—Nearly 150 top fashion editors yesterday asked designer Oleg Cassini what's coming up in fall styles—and Cassini replied, "The waistline."

It will be up under the bust, he demonstrated, showing off one of his satin cocktail frocks with its seductive belt spanning the rib cage.

Of course, sometimes the waistline will be down, he demonstrated, showing another molded satin cocktail frock on which the seductive belt spanned the hips and buckled directly over the stomach.

It obviously will not matter where a woman's belt goes next autumn, the "wandering waistline" trend is bac't, and one just belts oneself in at the most flattering point of circumference.

Cassini, who is generally considered to be the greatest promoter of the revived "empire silhouette" (high-bosomed, slim-midriffed), was the first designer to show off his fall wardrobe ideas yesterday in the first day of the semi-annual "fashion openings" in New York.

He spotlighted not only the wandering waist, but the wide-wrapped waist.

This was an 8-inch wide elastic midriff belt which was stitched into either side-front of the dress, and curled around in back to clutch in a woman's waist to its smallest conceivable dimension.

A new "sweater girl" look was given to Cassini's casual, daytime dresses. They were slim frocks made of dark-colored sheer wool, with multi-colored striped bands of knitting around their V-necklines and their elbow-length sleeves.

Some dresses, even for very formal evenings, had great shawl collars. They were casual as country clothes in design, but elegant as coronation costumes in their fabrics: Rich velvets and heavy brocades.

Cassini, a man who believes a woman should be interesting from all angles, cut off the backs of some of his evening dresses to the waist.

And for an extra fillip on one formal gown, he caught a bow and a dangling rhinestone pin into the plush fabric of a sheath skirt just at the back of the knees.

This swan-neck sweater dress with an outsize turtle neck which pulls up over the head to form a hood, is designer Claire McCardell's contribution to the fall fad fashions. The striped jersey outfit, typical of the designer's "slouchy look," is an elongated tube sweater with narrow belt.

This scarlet knitted velvet day or after-dark dress is from Claire McCardell's fall 1954 collection. Comfort-cut sleeves are close below the elbow. The buttons are matched to a shiny brown leather belt.

This bottle green silk velvet cocktail suit is proportioned for the smaller figure. A Bellciette design from the collection of Dave Bellsey, it has a cream silk satin jacket lining, and the neckline opens in a crescent below a rhinestone-buckled strap.

McCardell Emphasizes the 'Swan-Neck' Sweater

Outsized Turtle Top Pulls Up Over Head to Achieve Casual Hood Effect

NEW YORK (AP) — The "swan-neck" sweater, with an outsize turtle neck which pulls up over the head to form a hood, is Claire McCardell's contribution to the fall fad lineup.

This casual designer long has anticipated the "Slouchy Look" so important in the fall collections, and has been training her models to slouch for years. This time she underscores the sweater dress, which is simply an elongated tube sweater, worn with or without a narrow belt.

The bloused waist-length jacket is a particular pet of the careless Claire, who likes it so well that she shows two in one costume—one over the other, with a matching skirt.

Outstanding are her tweeds in unusual muted colors and her amber brushed wools and velveteens combined with soft pink or bright red blouses and matching amber "junk jewelry," also designed by Miss McCardell.

For the college crowd she shows the wildly popular knee-length skirts in bright corduroy or wool, and trouser-pleated slacks with fly-fronts boasting brass buttons.

The "clochette" silhouette is the high note in Hannah Troy's collection, designed by Bruno. This is a fitted princess shape with nipped waistline achieved by darts that are released to form rounded hipline and shaped bustline.

This house ignores the relaxed look of most fall collections, and continues to stress the fitted midriff, the Princess silhouette and the nipped waist. The coat dress is a favorite here, being shown in many fabrics up to and including white satin embroidered in rhinestones.

Bride-Elect Gets a Dinner Party in Her Honor

Villa Inn in Lake Orion was the setting for the Tuesday evening dinner party given by Mrs. Eric Berg and Betty Jane Berg in honor of Jane Hursey, bride-elect of Clinton Lippard Jr.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Hursey of Spence street and the Clinton Lippards of Oakland avenue are his parents. They will speak their vows Aug. 28 in Central Methodist Church.

Miss Hursey announced that her sister-in-law, Mrs. James Hursey, will be matron of honor. Her other attendants will be Elaine Tefend and Betty Jane Berg.

The prospective bridegroom has chosen his brother, R. C. Lippard to be best man. Clinton's other attendants will be J. W. Lippard, Harlan Boyce, James Hursey and Jack Erb.

Better Home and Garden Club will meet Thursday at 12:30 for a cooperative luncheon with Mrs. Ray Field of Crescent Lake. Members will furnish flowers and containers for an afternoon of making table arrangements.

Month's Exhibit to Feature Work by Landscaper

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Brazilian landscape architecture, which has risen to worldwide prestige during the past 20 years, will be illustrated through the work of Roberto Burle Marx at the Cranbrook Academy of Art.

July 16 through Aug. 15 are the dates for the exhibition by the leading pioneer of landscape art in Brazil.

The show consists of 35 watercolors of garden design, 75 photographs of gardens and their related buildings, a selection of printed fabrics and a panel of ceramic tiles.

One of the artist's most conspicuous triumphs was an assignment to landscape a park with gardens for the fourth centennial of the city of Sao Paulo.

The museum of the Cranbrook Academy of Art is open free to the public daily from 2 to 5 p.m. except Mondays.

Sorority Holds Walpole Picnic

The Walpole Island summer home of Dr. and Mrs. D. J. Hackett was the setting for an annual picnic of Alpha Sigma Nu sorority held Sunday.

Chairman for the party, which was attended by 35 members and their families, was Mrs. A. W. Mitchell. Mrs. Mitchell was assisted by Mrs. Howard Looney, Clarabelle Amidon and Elena Bajari. Eva Baylis was a guest of the group.

Host at Lake Home

The Floyd Durnbaughs entertained 35 members of the Fellowship Group of First Church of the Brethren, Harper Woods, Sunday evening at their Watkins Lake home.

Financially Secure Widow May Need a Job so She Can Feel Useful

Girl's Pursuit Maneuvers Seem Silly and Fruitless

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: When I met Tim about a year ago I didn't particularly like him, but my girl friend and I went on a couple of double dates with him anyhow.

"At the time I didn't think he liked me. I figured our friends were just forcing us together. So when he called I acted as if I didn't want to speak to him, and, of course, he stopped calling.

"Some six months ago when I saw him again I realized how much I did like him. So I called him and invited him to go to my school dance with me. He had to work and couldn't go.

"He lives on the other side of town and the only time I see him is when I make special trips over there to see him at the drug-store where he works. He knows I come over just to see him.

"Would it be wrong for me to call him when I'm babysitting, just to talk to him? Is it wrong to go way over there to see him?"

Neither is a crime exactly, but both are fairly silly. You've been chasing like crazy without catching a thing. Calling him up just to chat might bother him even more than having you turn up where he works.

If you had any encouragement of any kind from him, I'd understand how you might get away with "reciprocating" his interest. But to date you've drawn a blank with your maneuvers.

High time you squelched that impluse. He has your phone number, and he'll use it if and when he wants to.

"Dear Miss Woodward: A month ago my girl friend brought this boy over to my house to introduce to me. That date went smoothly, and he asked me for another.

"I saw quite a bit of him during the next two weeks. I really liked him and he told my girl friend he liked me. A week ago we went out in his car and I haven't seen him since.

"He doesn't have my phone number and doesn't live around our way, so I keep giving myself that excuse. What should I do? Go around his way and see what's up—or sit home and wait?"

He may not have your phone number, but he's been over to your house several times, so he does know your address. And he knows that your girl friend knows your phone number, if he can't find it for himself in the book.

You haven't heard from him for a week and already you're in despair. You haven't known him long enough for that; your interest in each other isn't old enough.

But you do know him well enough to call him and invite him to do something interesting. An invitation, whether he accepts it or not, will give you a chance to hear his voice, find out if he's been away, and get a hint as to whether you'll be seeing him again.

Why stalk him to his own lair or wait when it's so easy to buzz him once on the phone and find out what's what?

Jaunty button-front striper (left) is sleeveless and convertible in navy or red. It's worn with sharkskin shorts of bright white, cinched with matching chromspun jersey belt. Eight-gore sharkskin (right) with coolness and poise has convenient change pockets and belt which matches blouse.

MAKE FRIENDS

If your friends have a dog they are fond of, don't ignore him when you go to their house for a visit. Speak to him and make friends with him. It will be noticed and appreciated.

There's a lot of truth in this: "Love me, love my dog."

The Michigan constitution drafted in 1835 was the first in the United States to provide for a state superintendent of public instruction.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Eccentrics of Yesteryear Might Be Locked Up Now

Half the fun of being a newspaper reporter in the old days was an occasional assignment to get a story about an eccentric—a woman who set herself up as a reincarnation of Cleopatra complete with barge, or a man who calmy waived his rights to several million dollars and went to live a Thoreau-like existence in the woods.

Now, with life so highly standardized and conformity the general aim, many of the colorful characters I used to know would have had a hard time evading lunacy commissions.

In this assembly-line world even a man with a beard rates stares and a certain well-known figure in the entertainment field is more famous for his sensible refusal to shake hands—for fear of germs—than for the power he wields as head of an important union.

Miss McBride

So the young reporter sighs in vain for another Hetty Green, worth 80-million dollars, yet saving on laundry bills by ordering only the lower half of her petticoats washed and offered to swap a farmer her front lawn as a pasture in return for a daily quart of his best cow's milk.

Hetty and old Commodore Vanderbilt shared a prejudice against conventional checkbooks and wrote their checks on any handy scrap of paper.

The commodore, who like other individualists of his time behaved with complete disregard of what anybody might say or think (this is what makes an eccentric), was yet concerned enough about evil spirits, according to his biographer, that he kept a dish of salt under each leg of his bed to scare them away.

A European eccentric I wish I might have known was Francesca Nortuega, who willed a considerable fortune to a niece with a proviso that the heiress dress the three family goldfish in pants. Regrettably enough, the record does not add whether the niece was able to accomplish that job.

The famous Cardinal Richelieu spent several hours daily leaping over furniture. Catherine the Great of Russia once had her hairdresser jailed for three years so he couldn't gossip about a royal case of dandruff.

And Nicolo Paganini, the great violinist, carefully used frayed strings for important concerts—although maybe this shouldn't count as an eccentricity since he hoped one would snap so he could show his virtuosity on those remaining.

As a matter of fact, eccentric were often so characterized for acts that seem to me just good sense. Alexandre Dumas, for instance, was considered a bit odd because he used blue paper on which to write novels; yellow for poetry, and rose for non-fiction. A perfect filing system, I think.

Another misjudged fellow, I'm convinced, was the Dutchman labeled an eccentric in Paris (fame indeed) because he paid a fashionable restaurant for meals he intended to eat during the next 10 years, settled with his tailor for 10 sets of suits and dealt in similar practical fashion with his landlord and others with whom he was accostumed to do business, including theaters that might have plays he would enjoy in some distant future.

His canniness is more evident when it is explained that he had lost two fortunes and when a third appeared, decided to assure himself of something being left next time.

The common toad eats about 10,000 garden pests a year. Its work is worth about $20.

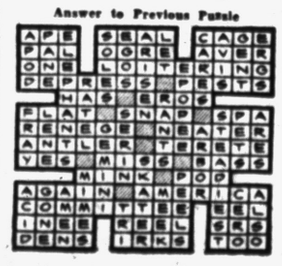
Answer to Previous Puzzle



Work Banishes Loneliness, Fills Time

BY ANNE HEYWOOD

The widow who is penniless must go to work immediately to make enough money to live on.

But a widow with a comfort-pelled to work, often has a need pelled to wrok, often has a need which is just as strong. It is a need to feel useful to the world, to do things for people, to fill her time.

The other day, Mrs. Marjory Ponzo of Long Island, one of my talent scouts, wrote me about just such a widow.

"This is the story of an older woman," she wrote, "a grandmother, in fact, who, out of her comfortably, financially secure loneliness, was prompted to establish what is now the well-known Nellie Speer's Kitchen in Jackson Heights, L. I.

"Mrs. Speer came up from the South after her husband's death, because her married children lived in New York and thought it best for her to be near them.

"They found her an attractive apartment, feeling that she would be happier living by herself than with one of them.

"Life went along all right with Mrs. Speer at first, but time began to hang heavy on her hands.

"She had always liked to cook, so she began baking birthday cakes and pies for her children and her neighbors and friends. It was just a guesture of friendliness to fill her time.

"But the pies and cakes made a hit, and before long one of her 'customers' persuaded her to make an arrangement with a storekeeper in her neighborhood, to bake pies and cakes on order.

"The plan was a huge success, and her activity soon outgrew her little apartment kitchen. She began looking for larger headquarters.

"This distressed and bewildered her family. They just couldn't understand why their mother had to go out and do such a nonsensical thing when she had a comfortable apartment and an assured income."

Mrs. Speer's venture is thriving, and her story has, actually, two morals:

First, if an older woman in your family wants to work, even when she doesn't "need" to, face the fact that there are all kinds of needs; and second, the activity begun out of enthusiasm and friendliness often hits a financial jackpot.

Hinder Color-Scheming

Some Prints Too Garish

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

Of course, it's a good idea to choose a patterned fabric and use its colors as a palette for the room's color scheme. But the pattern and the colors in it must be well chosen, or the room is off to a bad start.

Some patterns are so bold and combine colors so strong that they do more to startle than to decorate. These hinder rather than help the room planning.

The fabric alone — too often used lavishly for picture windows — overpowers the room, and a repeat of the strong colors is too emphatic and makes the print look bolder than ever.

One example which brings so many unhappy questions in the mail is the garish "modern" print which blasts red and black and glaring chartreuse onto gray and white, and has touches of dark green.

Too many colors of equal area fight for attention in common versions of this print, especially the two sharp opposites, red and green and black and white.

Far better are quieter prints with darks and lights, brights and dulls in widely varying proportions.

Paints Made for Specific Purposes

By HUBBARD COBB

In spite of what a lot of people think, there is no such thing as an all-purpose paint.

Paints are formulated to do certain jobs and because a paint does one job well, it should not be expected to do all the painting jobs about the house equally so.

For example, the paint you apply to the outside walls is made so it will be almost self-cleaning.

As the paint ages, the rain falling on the painted surface will wash away a thin film of the paint taking with it the dirt that has gathered on the surface. This is your outside wall paint.

Outside trim paint is somewhat different. As the trim around windows and doors is usually a different color than the walls, you wouldn't want to use a paint that was going to wash down over the outside walls and stain them.

For the outside trim you use an outside trim paint that dries to a hard finish and won't wash or chalk too much.

For outside steps and porch floors you need a paint that will be elastic enough so it won't be worn away by the wear it gets and yet will be able to withstand moisture.

So here you use a deck paint formulated for both wear and for its ability to withstand moisture.

If you have some woodwork outside that you want to varnish, then be sure to use an exterior or spar varnish.

This type of varnish won't be bothered by the moisture and the sun as much as would an interior varnish or a floor varnish.

Remove Oil Stains

Cod liver oil or mineral oil stains should be removed from baby clothes promptly. First sponge the stain with carbon tetrachloride, then launder the garment in soap-

Bride Gets Duplicate Presents

Should Ask If She May Exchange 2 of the Clocks

By EMILY POST

Duplicate shower presents is the problem under discussion in the following letter: "My daughter was given a bridal shower at which she received three kitchen clocks. Would it be proper for her to ask two of the givers to return the clocks and get something else in their place?

"My daughter thinks it was up to the girls to offer to exchange them when she opened the presents and they saw that she received three clocks. Since not one of them volunteered to do so, she refuses to ask them.

"I think she is acting very silly about the whole thing as she cannot possibly use three kitchen clocks."

Answer: Since the guests at a shower are supposedly the bride's best friends, she could surely ask two of the ones she knows the best if they would mind if she exchanged the clocks for something else. But it would surely hurt their feelings to do this herself without asking their permission.

Dear Mrs. Post: My son is going to be married soon. He has bought a house which he and his bride intend to move into after their return from their wedding trip.

The bride-to-be thought it might be nice to have the wedding reception in their new house. Would this be proper, or should it be held elsewhere?

Answer: The proper place to have it is in her parents' house. But if her parents do not have a house and it means taking a reception room at an hotel, then I think the new house would be very appealing.

Dear Mrs. Post: What sort of invitation can I write to ask relatives and personal friends, both his and mine, to an informal tea to meet my son's fiancee?

Answer: To relatives and intimate friends you can write personal notes announcing John's engagement to Mary Blank, and asking them to come to a tea you are giving for her.

Otherwise, write "To meet Miss Mary Blank" across your visiting card with day and time below your name.

Mary Pickford Keeps Happy in Retirement

By HUBBARD KEAVY
(For Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—This is a success story—the success being Mary Pickford's ability to keep busy and happy in retirement and to grow old gracefully. She is nearing 61, but looks years younger.

There are few lines in her face. There are two deep perpendicular ridges between her eyes—signs of exactness, nothing else. She has a slight mid-section roundness that comes to all of us eventually, but I'd guess she weighs only 10 or 15 pounds more than she did 20 years ago when she retired.

* * *

What does she do to keep happy? She gives a lot of time and energy, and money, too, to charities, principally Catholic and Jewish although she is of neither faith. She is active in civic affairs. She gets letters and calls nearly every day asking her to lend her name to this or that. She won't be a letterhead member of any committee.

"Unless I can really give time to a movement, I won't lend my name. Names do not mean a thing, but a good solid committee meeting does."

She runs a big house, the fabled Pickfair. There are several servants and a secretary. She personally approves every bill and signs every check.

* * *

With her husband, Buddy Rogers, she has interests in TV stations. They invested in oil too but got only dry holes.

A big interest now is the effort to raise further funds for the Motion Picture Relief Fund. She and Jean Hersholt, perpetual president of the fund, are working on a movie exhibit for tourists.

"We'd have sets and costumes and stills and miniatures of pictures in production," she explained. I said people want to see stars, not things. Mary disagreed, but admitted stars might be induced to take part in the tourist attraction.

* * *

"It would give me something further to do," she said. "There could be reproductions of interiors of stars' homes—my living room, Will Rogers' ranch or Marilyn Monroe's dining room. Or would they be more interested in her boudoir?"

LUCKY LUANA—The dream of every struggling young hopeful in Hollywood is to be spotted by some important person and speeded to stardom. This is exactly what happened to Luana Lee, pretty 18-year-old messenger girl who caught dancer Gene Kelly's eye. Kelly was so smitten with her loveliness that he arranged a screen test for her at the studio where she worked. The result—a long term contract and a role in Gene Kelly's new film.

Landslides in Colombia Kill Five, Injure Sixty

The first landslide attracted many rescuers and onlookers. A second slide buried many in the crowd.

Wrestling Show Builds Road for Jap Children

TOKYO (UP)—Tax coffers were as dry as the roads were wet. So women of Okachi Island near Sasebo decided to do something for their children who waded through mud to school during the prolonged rainy season.

They planned a sumo tournament to start a fund for a two-lane paved road. Husbands watched aghast as their wives — clad in the traditional sumo costume of scant breech cloth, rope and unmnswept hairdo contorted through the grotesque leg-swinging, muscle-flexing warm-up routines in preparation for the wrestling matches.

The men hastily subscribed the money and built the road, paved with a hard promise that the women stay out of the sumo ring.

Japs Will Display Whale Fossil With 9-Foot Legs

TOKYO (UP)—A whale with legs? The Japan News today described a whale fossil, reputed to be 20 million years old, with forelegs protruding nine feet from the main skeleton.

It was found at Esashai on Japan's northernmost main island of Hokkaido. The fossil will be exhibited here Monday at the International Whaling Conference.

Window-Washer, 77, Sticks to His Job

SEATTLE, Wash. (UP) — O. R. (Dick) Ancharstrand is 77 years old, but he figures he has a few more years to live despite those who think he should quit tempting fate.

Ancharstrand is a window-washer. And he doesn't ply his trade on the sidewalk either. He likes it up high—"close to heaven."

Ancharstrand's major job is keeping windows of the Seattle Hotel clean. The hotel has been his home for the past 40 years.

He started his hazardous occupation when he was 15 years old and he's washed windows in all the major cities of the United States.

Ancharstrand plans to continue his vocation as long as he can climb out of a window and buckle the safety belt.

"Getting up high worries me a little bit these days," he admitted, "but as long as I can work, I will. I don't like to sit around."

Virginia Dems Vie for 2 Seats

Today's Primary Will Designate Opponents of GOP Congressmen

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Democrats in two of Virginia's 10 congressional districts vote in primaries today to choose nominees they hope can unseat Republican representatives who gained office in 1952.

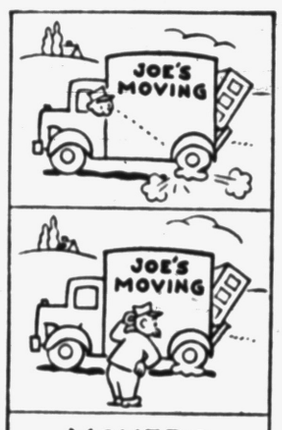
In the 6th District, three candidates are in the field for the nomination to oppose Rep. Richard Poff, one of three Republicans elected to Congress in the Eisenhower sweep of normally Democratic Virginia two years ago.

The three are Ernest Robertson of Roanoke County, a member of the Virginia House of Delegates; Powell Glass Jr., Lynchburg newspaper publisher; and Dr. J. Carl Poindexter of Salem.

* * *

In the 10th—located in the northern Virginia area adjacent to Washington—four candidates are vying for the right to do battle with Rep. Joel Broyhill in November. They are Delegate John C. Webb, Fairfax; J. Walter White, Fairfax; Charles Lewis Knight, Arlington; and Dean E. Brundage, Arlington. Webb, White and Knight are lawyers. Brundage is director of social studies at Washington-Lee High School.

The state's third Republican congressman, Rep. William Wampler of the 9th District, will be opposed this fall by Sheriff Pat Jennings of Smyth County, who was nominated at a Democratic convention earlier this year.



Seattle Fisherman Found in Cascades

NORTH BEND, Wash. (AP) — A Seattle fisherman, lost for nine days in the primitive Cascade Mountains 13 miles southeast of here, was found alive yesterday, weary and hungry but otherwise unharmed.

Bearded James Stolberg, 31, a Navy veteran who has a 70 per cent disability rating because of arthritis, said he wandered some 30 miles over brush-covered mountains with nothing but berries and small fish to eat.

He left his Seattle home July 4 on a fishing trip. When his car was found parked on the Sunset Highway near an old fire trail July 5, a massive search began.

Stolberg said he had followed the fire trail to its end and had started through dense brush toward the trail leading to Mason Lake. He lost his bearings and when found was some 16 miles from the lake.

His wife Ann had the final word: "He's not going fishing again—except in the bathtub at home. That is, not unless he takes me along."

Prison Files Suit to Prove Its Land Title

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP)—You don't own any of the land the New Mexico Penitentiary sits on, do you?

Scads of other folks do—or their ancestors claimed they did—and the prison is suing those it knows about to prove they don't.

The whole matter came up in a preliminary step to clear title to the 900 acres of land comprising the 75-year-old prison site. It was part of an ancient land grant.

Attorneys representing the prison say the old records are incomplete and indefinite.

The list of defendants in the prison's suit to clear title totals 1,040 persons and companies. Of these, about 350 are living and their whereabouts are known. The rest have died, or can't be traced.

Michigan is served by 23 railroad companies with 7,100 miles of track.

China Nationals May Seize Ship

Red Tanker Leningrad Is Heading for Shanghai From Singapore

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) —Chinese Nationalist warships may attempt to intercept the 15,000-ton Soviet tanker Leningrad, which has cleared Singapore for Shanghai in Red China, a high Nationalist official indicated today.

There was no comment concerning three other Soviet ships reported heading northward — two toward the Siberian port of Vladivostok, and one for Red China.

* * *

But there was widespread speculation here that the Soviet merchant ships might rendezvous with a submarine escort for the dangerous voyage through waters patroled by Nationalist naval vessels.

The Nationalists seized the 8,840-ton Soviet tanker Tuapse June 23.

An official with top-level contracts, when asked today if the same fate faces the Leningrad, replied:

* * *

"We have not received any official information on the movements of the Leningrad, but perhaps we will take the same action as we did in the case of the Tuapse."

The Leningrad reportedly carries a cargo of kerosene and diesel oil for Communist China. The Tuapse's petroleum cargo, also destined for Shanghai, has been unloaded by the Nationalists.

Judge Charts Cure for Film Star's Son

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"I want to stop drinking but I can't," Edward G. Robinson Jr. told the Domestic Relations Court yesterday.

"I've had some experience in those matters," replied Superior Judge Elmer D. Doyle. "I'll show you how."

So the busy judge, who handles more than 100 cases a day, offered to set aside his lunch each day for two weeks to talk to the actor's 21-year-old son, who has been arrested three times in recent months for intoxication.

Young Robinson's wife Frances, with whom he recently was reconciled, promised to help the judge.

"I hope it works," she said. "It must work."

Jose Ferrers Announce They Are Expecting

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singer Rosemary Clooney and her husband, Jose Ferrer, announced last night on the eve of their first wedding anniversary that they are expecting a child next January.

The couple returned yesterday from New York, where Miss Clooney appeared in a television show. She hopes to appear in one or two more movies before the stork arrives.

Train Engineer Retires— to Operate A Railroad

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UP) — A retired railroad engineer has accepted a job on a farm — operating a miniature railroad.

Theodore E. Herb, who retired from the New York Central after 48 years' service, will supervise laying of two miles of track on the summer farm of a physician. Then he can take over the controls of any one of five miniature engines, all operated by steam.

Herb began work on steam engines as a fireman in 1906 and switched to diesels several years ago.

Pair's Terms Are Expiring

Schedule First Reading of Ordinance Regulating Parking in New Lot

Pontiac City Commission tonight is expected to appoint two members to the Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees.

The terms of board members William P. Babcock and Willis M. Brewer are expiring. The appointments were deferred two weeks ago by commissioners until the whole commission could be present to rule on them.

Commissioners have scheduled first reading of an ordinance regulating parking in the new 250-car municipal parking lot being constructed at the northwest corner of E. Pike and Parke Sts.

Public hearings are slated on intention to construct combined sewer on Columbia from Barkell to 400 feet east and on rezoning to C-1 lot 1 of assessor's plat 139 at N. Johnson and Norton Aves.

A request is expected from the Honey Bee Restaurant, 19 W. Pike St., to remain open until 1 a.m. while the Elk's carnival is in progress.

A request is slated for transfer of ownership of an SDM package beer and wine license at 146 E. Howard St. from Everett J. Cummings to Willis and Viola Keasey.

Requests are scheduled from Paul L. Spadafore, Stephen Tsineff and Don Deni for approval of SDD package liquor licenses.

Reports are expected from the City Pgan Commission:

Recommending that lots 9 and 10 of Citizens Development Subdivision be rezoned to C-1, provided a 20 foot alley is deeded.

Denying a request to rezone to R-3 lots 20 through 40, inclusive, of Crystal Lake Subdivision.

Deiying a request to rezone the north side of W. Huron between Lincoln and Thorpe.

Recommending that lots 17 through 20, inclusive, and part of lot 22 of assessor's plat 97 be rezoned to C-1, uproviding an alley is furnished.

Approving assessor's plat 161, the plat of Walton Subdivision and the plat of Cheryl Gardens, providing that all platting regulations are followed.

Approving an ordinance rezoning to C-1 lot 1 of assessor's plat 139.

A resolution is expected to receive a special assessment roll for road-mix oil on Second from Joslyn to Ivy.

Confirmation is slated of special assessment rolls for curb, butter, drainage and related work on Strathmore from Baldwin to University and for two-inch black top paving on Shirley from Pike to Fiddis.

Engineer's cost estimates are scheduled for planned grading, graveling and installation of culverts on PRINCETON FROM Highwood to the east line of the subdivision, Highwood from Sheffield to Princeton and Laurel from Sheffield to Princeton.

Personnel Changes on Board's Agenda

Pontiac Board of Education will discuss school personnel changes, the school building program and repairs to the bus garage and Bagley School Wednesday night.

The board's regular monthly meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at school offices, 40 Patterson St.

Board members plan to set a definite salary for Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, new superintendent of schools; approve minutes for three past meetings; and discuss the school system's bill and expenses for the month of June.

Woman Drives Big Bus to 10-Year Eafety Record

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Pacific Greyhound lines today said it has the only woman driver with a recognized 10-year safety record of heavy-duty driving.

She is auburn-haired Helene G. Dearman of San Francisco, 5 foot 4 and 125 pounds, who pilots a 13-ton bus through heavy commuter traffic.

Miss Dearman, now 39, gave up candy making in World War II to become a bus driver. She credits her perfect record to courtesy and "a good guardian angel."

Parents Reunited With Daughter, 17, After Two Years

ALBUQUERQUE (UP) — Everybody in the Robert B. Hewston family is happy today.

They've reunited with their 17-year-old daughter after two years of grief and worry, of prayer and fruitless earch.

Their daughter, Peggy Ann, ran away from their Pennsylvania home two years ago and until last week they didn't know whether she was alive or dead.

Yesterday the Hewston family arrived here after an 1,800 mile drive from Pennsylvania to see Peggy, her new son and her husband. It was a joyful, moist-eyed reunion.

"Everything is all right now," Mrs. Robert B. Hewston said as she clung to her daughter.

"Honey, I ought to spank you," Hewston growled into his daughter's ear.

"I'm glad the deception is over," Peggy's airman husband, Tom Cory, said.

And Peggy's grandmother, Mrs. Ann Pickel, and her sister, 14-year-old Janey, were still close to speechless with delight.

Peggy, the object of a nation-wide search after she disappeared, sat quietly while the overjoyed parents and her husband made plans for the immediate future.

The family reunion will be completed when a son, Robert A. Hewston, flies into Albuquerque later this week to see his long-lost sister.

Her parents will stay in Albuquerque, where Peggy fled when she left her Pennsylvania home, "until about the first of next week," Hewston said.

He said the time would be spent "just getting acquainted."

Peggy and Tom went ahead with their plans for returning to Tom's home in Bucyrus, Ohio, when he is discharged from the Air Force next January. He plans to go into the grocery business with his father there. Peggy doesn't plan any immediate trip to her parents' home in Edgewood, Pa., "until the baby is older."

The birth of the baby about seven weeks ago set in motion the chain of events that resulted in the reunion.

An unidentified airman, a friend of her brother, saw and recognized Peggy at the hospital. He called the police. Pennsylvania police were then notified and her identity established.

Calling All Cabbies! Where Is Amanda?

DETROIT (UP) — Eddie Tuxford, a 67-year-old dishwasher from Grand Rapids, brought his wife with him when he came to Detroit five days ago to earn some extra money.

They got off a bus and asked a taxicab driver to "find us a cheap room." Tuxford said he left his wife, Amanda, also 67, in an $8-a-week room while he returned to the bus terminal to pick up their suitcases.

Tuxford got a different cab driver on the return trip and couldn't find the place where he left his wife. He said he didn't think about writing down the address.

Tuxford asked police today to help him find his wife, who he says can hardly walk because of a weak back.

Ike Opposes Opening U. N. to Red China

Editor's Note: President Eisenhower has said the United States is "completely and unalterably opposed" to admitting Red China to the United Nations. The following dispatch tells why U. S. leaders take this stand, and how Europeans feel about it.

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Why is the United States so bitterly opposed to admitting Red China to the United Nations?

Many Europeans profess to be baffled by the vehement U. S. stand on this issue. They point out that Russia and several other Communist nations already are U. N. members. And they argue that the free world should be realistic about the fact that the Red government at Peiping actually rules the Chinese mainland—whether we like it or not.

Admitting Red China to the U. S. in the European view, would be nothing more than recognizing the facts of international life, and it might pay dividends by opening up a channel for diplomatic negotiation with the biggest country in Asia.

In time, dealing with Red China in the U. N., the free nations might even succeed in driving a wedge between Russia and its biggest Red satellite.

British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill is reported to have expounded this argument during his recent White House visit.

The U. S. reply was eloquently stated at news conferences last week by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Mr. Eisenhower, speaking rapidly and with obvious emotion, ticked off five reasons why he is "completely and unalterably opposed" to giving the Chinese Reds a U. N. seat:

1. Red China has been declared an aggressor by the U. N. in the Korean war and — since no peace treaty has ever been signed in that conflict — is actually "at war with the United Nations" today.

2. Chinese forces have supported a "great effort at further enslavement of peoples in Indochina."

3. Red China continues to hold "certain of our prisoners unjustifiably."

4. At the Geneva Far East Conference, first international postwar meeting attended by the Chinese Reds, they "excoriated the United Nations" instead of taking a conciliatory attitude and "demanded repudiation of the U. N. position."

5. The Peiping regime has been "guilty of the employment of the worst possible diplomatic deportment in the international affairs of the world."

Pointing out that the U. N. was established as "an attempt to marshal the moral strength of the world in order to preserve peace," Mr. Eisenhower asked:

"How can the United States, as a self-respecting nation doing its best and in conformity with moral standards as we understand them, how can we possibly say this country should be admitted to the United Nations?"

Iceberg Wins 1st Publinx Match, Texan Is Favored

Roy Iceberg and Mike Andonian of Pontiac and Wally Smith of Royal Oak were still in the chase for the National Publinx Golf championship at Dallas, Tex.

Iceberg defeated W. Morgan Barofsky of San Francisco, 2 and 1, while Andonian and Smith drew byes. They are among the 9-man Michigan team in the tourney. Only one state player, John Kurach of Brooklands Golf Club, was defeated.

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS (AP)—Some young fellow who isn't sapped by a merciless sun should win the National Public Links golf championship here this week and Hal McCommas, the wiry little sophomore from Southern Methodist University, looks just like the guy who can do it.

Take the word of Stan Bielat of Yonkers, N.Y., six times a competitor in this huge tournament and champion in 1950, "the old legs don't stand up for you when you're over 40." Stan is 41.

Bielat, who says this is the hottest, from the standpoint of the weather, of any Public Links tournament the USGA has staged, ran into trouble yesterday as he struggled through 110 degree weather to barely outlast a young, tough fellow from Spokane, Wash., named Missildine, "I almost didn't make it," puffed the chunky truck driver, one of two former champions surviving the first round. He had a 5-up lead at nine holes but lost four of them coming to 18. He won 2-up.

McCommas was fresh as a daisy at the finish, however, as he did a 3-under-par over the par 36-35—71, 6,296-yard Cedar Crest Course in wiping out F. M. Wiggins of Louisville, Ky., 5 and 3. The 19-year-old, 120-pound collegian, who went to the quarter-finals last year and is the highest ranking player in this tournament, thus became a strong favorite to wade through.

Results of Michigan's entries:

Roy Iceberg, Pontiac, defeated W. Morgan Barofsky, San Francisco, 2 and 1
Mike Andonian, Pontiac, bye.
Wally Smith, Royal Oak, bye.
Norbert Praybylski, Detroit, bye.
Dick Hayman, Detroit, defeated Stanley Hobart, Phoenix, 4 and 2.
William Heyn, Roseville, defeated Walter Knower, New Orleans, 2 and 1.
Dick Preston, Detroit, bye.
Sam Lima, Detroit, defeated U. C. Jonas Jr., Milwaukee, 5 and 4.
Doug Wilson, Oak Park, bye.
Arthur Jennemann, St. Louis, defeated John Kurach, Detroit, 3 and 2.

National League Heavy Favorite for Fifth Year

NL Holds Wide Margin in Power; Junior Loop Has Better Pitching

By JOE REICHLER

CLEVELAND (AP) — Willie (The Wallop) Mays and Theodore (The Thumper) Williams, two of baseball's top glamor guys, were not in the starting lineups but both were expected to see plenty of action in today's annual All-Star game at Cleveland's vast Municipal Stadium.

* * *

This was in the nature of promises (or threats) made by National League Manager Walter Alston and his American League counterpart, Casey Stengel, as the rival All-Star pilots discussed the lineups and personnel of their squads on the eve of the 21st mid-summer classic.

* * *

The Nationals, winners of the last four interleague clashes, ruled a decided 8-5 favorite to do it again over the revamped and injury-riddled Americans. But Stengel, in understandably high spirits over his New York Yankees' recent rash of victories, brimmed with confidence that he would win his first All-Star game after four successive failures. Game time is 12:30 p.m. (EST).

"The other fellows are supposed to have all the home run hitters," he said wolfishly. "What do you think I've got a bunch of powder puffers?

"I've got a fellow named Williams. Know him? They tell me he's hit a few home runs in his day. Of course, they were against American League pitching. But I've been told he's hit 'em even against National League pitching. Well, I'll let those fellows get a good look at him. He'll be in there as soon as the rules permit."

"Mays will be in there at the first opportunity," promised Alston. I know the fans would like to see him and, for that matter, so would I. It will be nice to have him on my side for a change."

Except for naming their starting pitcher (for the first three innings) and the batting order, neither manager volunteered too much in the way of information.

The National appears to have a wide edge in power and the American a slight edge in pitching. Composite batting averages show the Nationals outhit the Americans .317 to .299, lead in homers 230 to 152 and in runs batted in 926 to 686. The American League pitchers lead in victories 73 to 61.

The game will be beamed to the nation on radio (Mutual) and television (NBC and Mutual). All gate receipts and the $110,000 Radio-TV cash go toward the player pension fund. If rain should postpone the contest, it will be played either tonight at 8 p.m., tomorrow at 11 a.m., 2 p.m. or 8 p.m. (EDT) depending on the weather.

Home Runs, Good Hurling Highlight Softball Action

What is believed to be a City League record for home runs in a single game was registered last night by Giles Realty's girls team.

Giles' batters pounded out six round-trippers during a 24-hit barrage to swamp Gingellville 26-7 for their 10th consecutive Girls' League victory.

Ronnie Roberts and Effie Seay paced the attack with two homers each, while Learlie McCaughan and Katy Boykins added single home runs.

Tight pitching dominated Men's League action.

Forster Tool's Joe Petroff fired a 1-hiter as his mates upset Moose, 1-0. Grant Amour spoiled a perfect game for Petroff when he rapped a single in the 6th inning. Petroff had retired 16 men in a row up to that point.

Drive-In Cleaners' Bill Alderson pitched a 2-hitter, but lost a 7-5 decision to Milford Merchants. GMC hurler tossed a 3-hitter as his team blanked Champagne-Velvet, 5-0.

Network, Frick Subjects in $6 Million Suit

Radio-TV Union Upset by Video Arrangements for All-Star Game

CHICAGO (INS) — The National Broadcasting company and baseball commissioner Ford Frick were threatened with a six-million-dollar suit in connection with telecast arrangements for today's All-Star baseball game in Cleveland.

George Maher, executive secretary of the CIO-National Association of Broadcast Engineers and Technicians, said the suit is predicated upon filing of a grievance with NBC over breach of contract.

The issue, he continued, is that the All-Star telecast would be originated by Cleveland TV station WXEL.

Maher predicts the grievance will be decided in favor of the union by an arbitrator. Then, he added, the suit, which also will charge conspiracy in restraint of trade, might be filed in a federal court.

He said the suit also would name the Gillette Razor Company, sponsors of the telecast; General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Cleveland Indians, and the Maxon Advertising Agency of New York City.

Maher said the grievance is based on arrangements to channel the telecast to the NBC network via Cleveland TV station WXEL, which he added, employs non-union workers.

According to Maher, Frick picked station WXEL, a Dumont network affiliate, to originate the telecast because he felt the station which normally carries the home team games should be used for the all-star classic.

Maher said NBC agreed to use the Dumont station instead of the Cleveland NBC outlet, station WTAM.

The union official said NBC is violating its contract with the NABET union by using a station which employs non-NABET staffers. Frick and the others, he charges, are engaging in a "conspiracy in the restraint of trade."

NBC officials in New York said there was no comment on the suit at this time.

Bird Season Rules Altered

WASHINGTON, July 13. (AP)—The Fish and Wildlife Service Monday lengthened the seasons and changed some bag limits for the shooting of doves, band-tailed pigeons, rails, and gallinules in some states.

The changes were announced in the basic regulations for the 1954-1955 season, from Sept. 1 to Jan. 10, 1955. The specific season dates for the various states will be published later.

* * *

At the same time, Secretary of the Interior McKay said most of the detailed regulations for the hunting of migratory water fowl, coots, jacksnipe and woodcock would be issued late in August. The regulations in Alaska, where the season begins in some areas as early as Sept. 1, were included in the regulations issued today.

The proposed changes:

Atlantic flyway states—Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida—the length of the season on rails (other than sora) and gallinules will be increased by 10 days, providing a 70-day season, and the possession limit is raised to 30 birds and the daily bag remains at 15. Last year the daily bag limit as well as the possession limit was 5 birds.

Game departments of states east of North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas—except Missouri and Illinois—will be allowed to choose a season on mourning doves consisting of 30 consecutive days, two periods of 15 days each, 40 consecutive half-days, or two periods of 20 consecutive half-days, starting at 12 o'clock noon. Last year the seasons on mourning doves in these states were 30 consecutive half-days or two periods of 15 consecutive half-days.

* * *

The seasons on doves in Illinois and Missouri will be increased from 30 to 35 consecutive days.

* * *

In the remaining states, except Texas, state game departments will be allowed to select a season on mourning doves of 40 consecutive days or two periods of 20 days each. This increases the length of the seasons except in Arizona and New Mexico where a 42-day season was in effect last year.

In Texas, the mourning dove season length of 40 half-days in northern and 40 half-days on different dates in southern counties will remain the same as last year. The shooting of white-winged doves in Texas will be prohibited this year.

Yankee Slugger Takes Over Top Spot in AL From Tribe's Avila

NEW YORK (AP)— Outfielders hogged the spotlight in the major league batting races today with Duke Snider of Brooklyn and Irv Noren of the New York Yankees showing the way.

Snider slumped seven points to .367 last week with 11 hits in 35 at bats. Meanwhile outfielders Don Mueller of the Giants and Gus Bell of Cincinnati closed in—Mueller with a three point increase to .356 and Bell with a four point gain to .344.

* * *

In the American League Noren took over the top spot from Cleveland's Bobby Avila. Irv gained 15 points to .344 while Avila tailed off nine to .341.

* * *

Mickey Mantle of the Yankees, the circuit's home run leader with 18, is third in batting with .316.

The sensational Willie Mays wrested the National League home run lead from the Cards' Stan Musial. The Giants' outfielder slammed six circuit blows last week to bring his total to 31.

Musial, who has hit for the distance 26 times, is the loop's pacesetter in runs batted in with 82.

Antonelli, Garcia Top Majors in ERA Efficiency

Giant Southpaw Leads Phils' Pair; Cleveland Ace Shades Garver

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Johnny Antonelli, brilliant lefthander of the New York Giants and one of the seven National League pitchers selected for today's All-Star game, is his circuit's leader in earned run averages.

* * *

Antonelli has given up 34 earned runs in 144 innings for an earned run mark of 2.13, figures compiled by the Associated Press show. Johnny also is the league's top hurler in winning percentage (.867) with 13 victories, four of them shutouts, against two setbacks.

The 24-year-old southpaw, acquired from Milwaukee last winter in a deal involving outfielder Bobby Thomson, was fifth in earned runs in 1953 with 3.19. He had a 12-12 record with the Braves.

* * *

In the American League, Mike Garcia of the Cleveland Indians has wrested the lead from Detroit's Ned Garver. Mike was one of Manager Casey Stengel's All-Star selections but bowed out because of a ruptured blood vessel in the middle finger of his throwing hand.

Garcia has permitted only 32 earned runs in 137 frames for a 2.10 mark and Garver 32 tallies in 131 innings for 2.20. The Tribe's fastballer has won 11 games and dropped five while Garver's record is 6-5.

* * *

Robin Roberts, the National League's starter in the All-Star tilt, and Phillies' teammate Curt Simmons are runners-up to Antonelli. Each has a 2.44 average.

Virgil Trucks of the Chicago White Sox, another of Stengel's pitchers in the "dream" game, is third in the American League with a 2.56 mark. He has given up 43 earned runs in 151 innings. Trucks has won 12 games and dropped five.

Johnny Klippstein of the Chicago Cubs and Bill Henry of the Red Sox possess the highest earned run marks in the majors. Klippstein has allowed 7.48 runs per game and Henry 4.87, the poorest American League percentage.

Patterson Bounces Back After Knockdown to Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Patterson, the Olympic middleweight champion, winner of 14 of his 15 pro fights and nine times a winner by knockout, today finally considers himself a full-fledged professional.

* * *

Last night Patterson scored a knockout win over Jacques Royer of France but not before he was dropped for a six-count in the opening round. It was the first time Patterson was ever put down. A left hook did it.

* * *

"It was kind of a funny feeling," said Patterson. "I wasn't hurt, but I sure was surprised. I guess I'm a real pro now."

Except for the knockdown part of the first round Patterson was the boss of the fight in the St. Nicks Arena and was ahead on the official cards when the bout ended after seven rounds. Royer, former French middleweight champion, was not allowed to answer the bell for the eighth and final round. He was cut badly over the right eye.

* * *

At Eastern Parkway Arena, in the other half of the Monday night TV war, Willie Troy of Washington, D. C., the seventh ranking middleweight contender, stopped Tony Anthony of New York, in 47 seconds of the fourth round.

* * *

All three officials had Anthony ahead going into the fourth. The former National AAU champion didn't run into trouble until the end of the third when he caught a solid right in the midsection.

He wobbled to his corner and had no defense when he came out for the fourth.

Miss Wall Tops Qualifying List

Mary Agnes Fires 74 to Lead State Title Play at Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Mary Agnes Wall, Menominee's gift to golf, today led the field in the beginning of match play in the annual Women's State Amateur golf championship.

Miss Wall dominated a record field of 171 entrants in qualifying round yesterday. She fired a remarkable 74, one of the lowest competitive rounds ever recorded in a women's state tourney.

Her 74, composed of a 38-36, was four strokes under women's par at the Detroit Golf Club and only three strokes over men's par. The score equaled a course record for women set in 1948 by Sally Sessions.

Irene Bretzlaff, of Detroit, was runnerup in the qualifying with 37-39—76. Third went to Pat Devaney, of Grosse Ile, with 39-42—81.

Layne Kayos Foe

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Rex Lane, former heavyweight champion hopeful, entered the ring at 210 pounds last night and knocked out 235-pound Eddie Kobb of Chicago in 2:16 of the second round. It was scheduled as a 10-rounder.

Bumpy Jones Loses to Japanese Star

HILO, Hawaii (AP)—Young Teruki Hosoma of Japan defeated Hawaii's Olympic champion Ford Konno, formerly of Ohio State University, in a 220-yard freestyle race last night.

Hosoma was timed in 2:11.1, one-tenth of a second faster than Konno.

The race was one of eight in a meet matching Japanese swimmers against Hawaiian stars.

In the 100-meter backstroke, Japan's Masaru Furukawa defeated Bumpy Jones of Pontiac, Mich. Furukawa was timed in 1:06.2.

The Men's Amateur Golf championship will be held Aug. 23-28 at Grosse Point Farms, Mich. Entries for the tourney close July 12.

'Captain Dynamite'

Carnival Stunts Help Minor Leagues Survive

By JACK HAND

CLEVELAND (AP) — These are lean, dark days in baseball's minor leagues. It takes a super promoter to make ends meet. No longer do you open the gates and expect the loyal citizens to fight for the honor of paying to cheer for the home club.

* * *

Tommy Richardson, the energetic litle man who bubbles with jokes, tricks and fancy pranks while trying to keep the Eastern League together, was talking about some of his problems:

"The other night in Elmira I even shot a man out of a coffin at second base," he said. "Honest, no kidding. There is a fellow who calls himself 'Captain Dynamite.' We needed help so we hired him to come to Elmira. He makes a big thing of it. All sorts of explosions, enough to shake the center field fence.

"I'm doing a little talking, pepping up the crowd while he gets ready. But there's a guy out in the bleachers who is really on me. He keeps yelling 'Never mind the tricks, Tommy. How about getting some new umpires?' He keeps it up all during my spiel. Finally it's time for Captain Dynamite to climb into the coffin so I wave my hands and ask everybody to be quiet.

* * *

"I tell them all they are free to cover their ears because this is going to be a tremendous explosion. My pal out in the bleachers bellows, 'Don't worry Tommy. We've had our ears covered ever since you started talking.'

"The other night we had Eddie Fisher and a crew of recording artists up in Wilkes-Barre, Pa. The disk jockies helped us make a go of it. We drew about 11,000 people. Max Patkin, the comedian, has done a great job for us, too. You have to do things like that.

* * *

Before you criticize Richardson's carnival approach to the crisis, remember the situation is critical. If somebody doesn't help soon, they'll be blowing the minors—instead of Captain Dynamite—out of a coffin at second base.

A's Exchange Four Pitchers With 'Farm'

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics have exchanged four members of their pitching staff with their International League farm club, the Ottawa A's.

The A's called up lefty Johnny Gray and righthander Charley Bishop. Righthanders Bob Trice and Ossie Van Brabant were sent to Ottawa.

Jackson Boy Leads Way in JC Tournament

Bob Zimmerman Only Par Shooter Among 137 Entries

JACKSON (AP) — Bob Zimmerman, the single par shooter of 137 entries yesterday, paced the Jackson Golf squad to an early lead in the Michigan Junior Chamber of Commerce Junior Golf Tournament.

Zimmerman, a lanky slammer, toured the Arbor Hills Country Club course in 37-35—72 for a one stroke lead over Davey Hill, also of Jackson, and Arnold Nedelman, of East Lansing. Nedelman is competing for the Lansing team.

Dick Weyand, of Detroit, was third with 37-37—74. He was followed by Steve Miller, of Jackson, who posted a 35-40—74 and Tom Rosely, of Grand Rapids, with 38-38—76.

On the strength of the showing by Zimmerman and Hill, Jackson led the teams with 298 points.

At the end of today's rounds, the four low scorers will be selected to represent the state in the National JC tournament at Albuquerque, N. M., in August.

112 Teams in Best-Ball Test

Birmingham CC Revives Invitational Tourney; Starts Thursday

A record entry list of 112 two-man teams will compete Thursday through Sunday in the Birmingham Country Club Invitational golf tournament.

Event is being renewed this year after a lapse in 1953, when the Birmingham club was host to the PGA tournament.

The Invitational's seven flights will bring together many of the leading players from all parts of the state, according to Drew C. Haneline, president.

Low qualifiers thus far with 68 are a Birmingham Country Club father-and-son team, Claude Phelps, Sr., and Claude, Jr. In 2nd place with 69 are Dick Whiting, of Red Run, and Roland Weyand, of Birmingham Country Club.

Lions' One-Man Gang Signs for '54 Season

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Lions, champions of the National Football League, had their one-man gang in the fold today.

Nick Kerbawy, Lions general manager, said yesterday hulking Hawaiian lineman Charlie Ane, a 6-foot-2, 260-pounder, had signed his 1954 contract.

Ane, former University of Southern California star, is expected to begin the season in the offensive right tackle slot, replacing the drafted Oliver Spencer.

Hasty House Horses Dominate Arnour Event

CHICAGO (AP) — Hasty House Farm dominated the second running of the $28,200 Laurance Armour Memorial Handicap at Arlington Park yesterday, producing the first and third-place finishers.

Hasty House's Mister Black, a 5-year-old import from Argentina, was steered by Jockey Johnny Adams to a head decision over Iceberg II. Ruhe, another Hasty House entry, was two lengths back in third.

'Bonus Baby' Delivers

Jackson Has Made Jump From Western Michigan Campus to Majors in Month

By TOM BRANAGAN

CHICAGO (AP)—It was just about a month ago that tall young Ron Jackson was finishing his book work for the school year at Western Michigan College. Today he's a bright new star with the Chicago White Sox.

* * *

Jackson was signed to a Sox bonus contract—estimated at between $20,000 and $30,000—in late June, a few days after he completed his junior year at the Kalamazoo, Mich., school.

* * *

Because of what he calls "the team's bad luck" he already has jumped into the major league spotlight as a significant cog in the White Sox drive for the American League pennant.

For this 20-year-old, 6-feet, 7-inch kid, it all "just happened."

"I just happened to be around when Paul Richards (Sox manager) needed a first baseman," he explained today as he prepared to watch on television seven members of the Sox squad perform in the All-Star game at Cleveland.

Jackson's "bad luck" theme stems from the fact that he was a desperation-move replacement at first base. The two frontliners at the position, Ferris Fain and Phil Cavarretta, both suffered injuries.

Richards knew he was gambling heavily in making a starter of the untried Jackson—"and I heard plenty of static about it then," he says—but he liked what he saw of Jackson in practice.

"I was impressed by the way he looks pitches over," says Richards. "He's doing the same thing in ball games."

* * *

Right now he's the Sox' leading slugger. He's batting .387 with 12 hits in 31 at-bats—including three home runs.

* * *

Richards and General Manager Frank Lane, though tremendously pleased with the way Jackson has come through for the Sox in the pinch, still don't go overboard about his future with the Sox. "He looks pretty good so far," says Richards; "I hope he keeps it up," says Lane.

League-Leading Grill, Rosebud and Lunsford Nines Retain Winning Pace in City Junior Loop Action

By JACK SAYLOR

Leaders in three divisions of the City Junior baseball leagues retained their positions with victories Monday, while one fell, via the forfeit route.

In Class D Griff's Grill marked up its 4th win in 5 games with an easy 18-3 rout of Doris Skating Rink. Ted Wharry and Dayton Patterson teamed up to hurl 3-hit ball, while Del Chaves sparked the Grill's 12-hit attack.

Chaves had a triple and double among 3 hits. Other Class D game went to the Mets over Lytell-Colgrove by forfeit.

Rosebud Market won its 4th straight Class E contest by drubbing the Pontiac Police nine, 19-4, Bob Reeves pitched a 5-hitter, fanning 9. Lytell's, 3-0, could climb back into a tie with Rosebud by beating Cass Ponts tonight, which would set up a crucial game between the 2 leaders Wednesday.

Lunsford Market, which won the Midget title a year ago and currently leads the Class F clubs, won its 5th game without defeat as Joe Tinson stopped Boys Club, 5-1, on a 4-hitter. Majestic whipped Welden's, 12-7.

Orioles fell from the lead in the Knothole National league by forfeiting to Vollmar's, which took the lead with a 4-0 record. Senators spanked Lytell's, 17-1, on an abbreviated no-hitter by Delano. Indians downed the Tigers, 13-7, with Rich Lamphere tossing a 2-hitter and Gary Rose collected 3 hits, including a homer. Dick & Wes defeted GMC, 10-1, as Danny Kimmel homered for the winners.

Ex-Adrian Prep Star Joins Toronto Pro 11

ADRIAN (AP)—Jack McDonald, 19-year-old Associated Press all-state football player at Adrian High two years ago, announced Monday he had signed a $5,000 professional grid contract with Tronto (Ont.) Argonauts. While in high school, McDonald played as an offensive end and defensive halfback while handling most of the punting. He attended Michigan State College for one semester last year but dropped out.

Packers Secure Court Order to Keep Bob Fleck

WEST CHESTER, Pa., July 13 (AP)—Robert Fleck, former football star from Syracuse University, Monday was put under a court order to play professionally only with the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League.

Fleck, a native of nearby Coatesville, was bound by a temporary injunction granted by Chester County Judge Ernest Harvey who held that a contract signed by Fleck last February with Green Bay was legally binding.

Fleck reportedly planned to leave today to join the Ottawa Rough Riders in the Canadian League.

Major Leaguers Effect Formal Organization

By JACK HAND

CLEVELAND (AP) — The major League baseball players have organized formally into an association with by-laws and a constitution but no dues. J. Norman Lewis, their lawyer, goes out of his way to insist this is no union.

Lewis will receive a reported $30,000 fee for services rendered in helping the players negotiate a new pension contract with the owners. His fee covers work through October, 1954.

* * *

"There is no definite arrangement for the future after October," said Lewis. "We didn't discuss it. That is something that probably will be decided later."

Lewis' fee will come out of the Central Fund into which All-Star game gate receipts and All-Star and World Series radio-television cash is placed. According to Lewis, the owners' committee already has agreed to the payment and the players followed suit yesterday. Pension payments also are paid out of the same Central Fund.

The 16 current player representatives, one from each big league club, will continue in office until July, 1955 when a general election will be held.

A new player pension agreement, by which the Pension Fund will get 60 per cent and the owners 40 per cent of the All-Star game and World Series TV will be drawn up by Lewis and the lawyers of the two leagues.

When the major league owners meet in New York, July 26, they will receive suggestions from the players on both the winter baseball situation and the reporting date for spring training.

The players want the right to deal directly with the Winter League teams in Cuba, Venezuela, Panama and Puerto Rico. They also want no restrictions on the number of players allowed to participate.

As for spring training, the players want to report no earlier than March 1 and play no exhibitions before March 10. They also ask one day a week free from exhibition games. As the first March Saturday will fall on March 5 in 1955 this would mean the owners would have to pass up a profitable weekend.

The players reported "satisfactory" luncheon meetings with the owners who were willing to co-operate on most of their problems.

Elks Surprise Merchant Club With 9-7 Win

Big 3rd Inning Turns Trick; Stone's Fine Relief Job Too Late

Elks Lodge No. 723 won its 2nd victory in 12 City Class A Baseball League starts yesterday, surprising 4th-place Auburn Merchants, 9-7.

Winners collected only four hits to the Merchants' 10. Elks' big inning with the 3rd, in which six runs crossed the plate on a combination of two walks, three errors, a hit batsman and one hit.

Les Stone relieved Merchant starter Dick Lewis in the 4th and retired nine of the final 12 batters he faced. Chester Woodmore went the route on the mound for the winners, fanning one and walking three.

Stone was the game's top hitter, with two singles and a pair of doubles in four trips.

Landy Sees World Mile Mark at 3:55

LONDON (AP) — John Landy, of Australia, who bettered the world record for the mule, said his time of 3:58 could be beaten "but not by me."

Landy said he thought someone could trim the time to 3:55, but added, "that run of mine represents about my best."

Texan Leader in Trans-Miss

DENVER, July 13 (AP)—Rex Baxter, an 18-year-old Texan who found the 101-degree temperature and a hot wind to his liking, paced the opening round of the 51st Trans-Mississippi golf tournament Monday with a two-under-par 70.

* * *

Baxter led a field of 204 golfers around Cherry Hill's 6,888-yard course in quest of the title being defended by Lt. Joe Conrad of San Marcos, Tex., Air Force Base. He didn't turn in a card.

Hank Hopes for Inter-Loop Play

Big All-Star Crowd Would Help Cause, Greenberg Says

CLEVELAND (AP)—If today's All-Star game tops the classic's attendance record of 69,812, General Manager Hank Greenberg of the host Cleveland Indians believes it will bolster his proposal for regular season interleague play. The All-Star crowd record was set here in 1935.

Greenberg will present his plan for interleague games which count in American and National League standings at the July 26 meeting of club owners in New York.

Manager Casey Stengel of the All-Stars was ribbed by somebody that his club might be able to stave off the Nationals until the Giants' Willie Mays got into the game.

Stengel retorted that "We got some pretty good center fielders in our league. You take that Jim Busby fellow of Washington. Mickey Mantle might have hit four home runs in Washington Sunday if that Busby wasn't around."

Bill (Sports Shirt) Veeck reported he "slowly but surely" is making progress in his survey to bring major league baseball to Los Angeles. Veeck said it was unlikely he could come up with any proposal at the New York meeting of club owners July 26.

Seixas Breezes Through First Round of Net Test

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, fresh from winning the Western tennis championship at Indianapolis, Monday breezed through the first round of the National Clay Courts tournament.

Seixas, defending champion but seeded second behind Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, needed only 28 minutes to defeat Dick McAfee of Clinton, S. C., 6-0, 6-0.

The week-long meet drew a field of 70 in the men's singles division.

Trabert and third-seeded Art Larsen, the 1952 winner from San Leandro, Calif., are not due on the scene until tomorrow.

Action in the women's division also will start tomorrow but defending champion Maureen Connolly, heavily favored in the field of 32, and second-seeded Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., are among those who will be a day late in arriving.

Another top-rated star, Bernard Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex., advanced to the third round. After drawing a bye in the first, he defeated George Johnston, Murphysboro, Ill, 6-0, 6-1.

Other seeded players easily moved through the second round after first round byes.

Hal Boyle Says:

Martha Wright Chooses Country Over Broadway

NEW YORK (AP)—They say the big city is a place where a country boy can come and, by hard work, earn enough money so he can afford to live in the country again.

The saying holds true for country girls, too—for example, Martha Wright.

* * *

Martha, a farmer's granddaughter, first learned to sing by crooning barnyard lullabies back in Duvall, Wash. She hit the heights here, however, by "Washing That Man Right Out of Her Hair" through 1,048 performances of "South Pacific."

* * *

Today the blue-eyed farmgirl with the tousled mop of red-blonde hair, who was glad to get $5 for her first radio appearance, now is in the $100,000-a-year-plus bracket.

But while she thinks Broadway is a great street to make a living on, she agrees with most out-of-towners that it's no place to live for anybody who ever liked to go barefoot. She gets her mail at a 10-acre rented country place near Westport, Conn.

"It was like going back to my childhood," she said the other day during a break in rehearsals for a TV show.

* * *

"I was raised on a farm, and used to love to ride farm horses. I don't have any horses now, but the place has two swans, a stray pigeon and a couple of black miniature poodles.

* * *

"No, I don't find it lonely. City tensions get me down. It is wonderful to be able to read a newspaper and relax—all by yourself.

"And I manage to keep busy. I do my own gardening and take care of the yard, too. My only romantic interest right now is the power mower at home."

Martha has retained the typical Westerner's preference for simple informal living. She has a breezy dislike for all forms of fuss and ceremony. She drives to and from work herself, and this summer she and her maid will take turns at the wheel on a motor tour to Seattle, where her parents live.

* * *

"About the only problem I have right now is this darned weight," she said, comfortable forking at a place of chopped sirloin steak. "I don't have to fight weight hard—but sometimes I should fight it harder than I do."

* * *

When she has to take off a few pounds, she doesn't resort to pills or capsules. She has known little illness in her life and has a healthy person's distrust of medicines.

"I don't cut out any of my regular foods, not even butter," she said. "I just cut down on the amount. I suppose it would help if I ate more fruit, but I don't care for it. I ate too much green fruit off the trees as a kid, I guess."

Martha knows hundreds of songs by heart—"just how many I couldn't say." Her two favorites are "Cock-Eyed Optimist"—even after singing it 1,048 times in "South Pacific"—and "Blue Room."

* * *

Many singers are haunted by a nightmare fear they will forget a lyric in the middle of a big musical number.

"I'm scared to death at the start of any performance that I'll fluff a line, and sometimes I have," said Martha, smiling. "But if, I do, I make up another line and go right on. I never panic when I make a boo-boo.

"It's a funny thing, but the audience seems to like you better when you make a boo-boop—as long as they see you don't let it throw you. They like to see a singer act like a human being."

That's the only way Martha knows how to act.

How much horsepower in your ad program?

If you want your products to move faster, take a cue from the automobile people. They stepped up their newspaper advertising by 47.1% last year.

BIG NATIONAL ADVERTISERS of all types of products increased their newspaper advertising heavily in 1953.

But in the giant automotive field — where manufacturers had to sell as never before — they turned to newspapers with even more dramatic force.

Certainly these big advertisers use other media to help move their mountainous production — but they rely on newspapers as the basic medium in their sales effort.

They know all business is local — and that the newspaper is closer to the hearts of the people in each local community than any other means of communication.

They know that almost all the people in every town read a newspaper just about every day. It's one thing people won't do without.

They know that people read the newspaper for the ads as well as for the news — and that sales action follows newspaper reading!

•

IF YOU SELL PRODUCTS IN THIS AREA — you're entitled to the strongest possible advertising to help sell those products. Don't settle for advertising that covers part of your market part of the time. For fast movement of your products, you need a steady, high-power ad program that hits on all cylinders!

You can't afford half-way measures in today's tough competitive market. Insist on a strong continuous program of newspaper advertising.

If you're not getting newspaper advertising on all your products, don't delay. Get in touch with your wholesalers and manufacturers' men today and demand full support in your local newspaper.

Weather Spurs Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) — Weather again spurred buying in grain futures on the board of trade today but the market met considerable resistance as it tried to extend yesterday's lengthy gains.

In very active dealings wheat, corn and new crop soybeans pushed up fractions to a few cents during the early trade. At that point selling became more persistent. The upturn was checked and some contracts were thrown back for small losses.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was unchanged to ⅝ lower, July $2.03¾, corn ⅛ lower to ⅝ higher, July $1.60⅛, oats ¼ lower to ½ higher, July 71¼, rye unchanged to ½ lower, July $1.04¾, soybeans ¼ to 1¾ higher, July $3.39½ and lard 27 cents lower to 20 cents a hundred pounds higher, July $16.60.

Market Moves Higher Again

NEW YORK (AP) — A higher tendency was shown by the stock market today in early dealings.

Gains got up around a point at the best but most were small. Losses dotting the list detracted from the performance. Many leading issues remained unchanged.

Steels were higher along with railroads, aircrafts, radio-televisions, motion pictures and theaters, and airlines. Most other areas were steady to mixed. The motors were down a shade.

Deep Rock Oil, up 3 points yesterday, gained another point today in early dealings. Directors are proposing to sell off part of the company to General American Oil Co. of Texas.

Among higher stocks were New York Central, Southern Railway, American Airlines, RKO Theaters, American Cyanamid, U. S. Steel, North American Aviation, Curtiss-Wright, and Radio Corp.

Yesterday's stock market was a bit higher on balance, but the Associated Press average of 60 stocks remained unchanged at $130.00, highest point since Oct. 22, 1929.

Card of Thanks 1

OUR HEARTFELT THANKS TO all who extended comforting sympathy and help in our recent loss of husband and father, Herman F. Stier. For the beautiful floral offerings, and other kindness. We are deeply grateful. Special thanks to Rev. Marbach for the beautiful service. Mrs. Herman Stier and family.

THE FAMILY OF T. C. SISK wishes to thank the many friends and neighbors for their kindnesses during our bereavement. Special thanks to Rev. Downey for his comforting words & the Pursley Funeral Home. Mrs. T. C. Sisk and family.

WE WISH TO EXPRESS OUR gratitude and appreciation to the minister, Walter Bankes, singers, ladies from the Church of Christ, many friends and neighbors, also Voorheis-Siple Funeral Home, for their acts of thoughtfulness and floral offerings on the bereavement of dear mother. The family of Mrs. James (Maude) Bader.

In Memoriam 2

IN MEMORY OF MARGARET E. Wakefield who passed away July 12, 1951

A wonderful mother, woman and aid
One who was better, God never made
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true
One in a million that mother was you
Just in your judgment, always right
Honest and liberal, ever upright
Loved by your friends and all whom you knew
Our wonderful mother, that mother was you

Children and Grandchildren.

Has Long List of TV Shows

Singer Was Overseas With Army for 2 Years but Held Popularity

NEW YORK—Johnny Desmond, baritone on the new Jack Paar Show, has microphoned his way into the upper strata of song stars and into the hearts of bobby-soxers and fan clubs the country over.

The former song stylist of Glenn Miller's Air Force Band has come a long way since his singing debut at the age of 11. A local station in Detroit started him on his professional career by featuring Johnny in a juvenile show known as Uncle Nick's Children's Hour.

He was going strong at 15 — was billed as the Italian John McCormack — when Mother Nature intervened — his voice started changing and he had to give up crooning until his vocal chords adjusted themselves to their present baritone quality.

Music was Johnny's first love, and his free time was spent in song and dance routines at local night spots. His first real break came when Bob Crosby chanced to hear a quartet Desmond had organized, known as the Downbeats.

The group had been doing nicely in Detroit. Crosby signed the Downbeats with his band, changed their billing to the Bob-O-Links.

While appearing in Salt Lake City, the male trio signed on a girl, Ruth Keddington, who clicked with the combo — and with Johnny. It wasn't long before she was Mrs. Desmond.

After his marriage, Johnny left the combo, set out on his own. While crooning in the feature spot with drummer Gene Krupa and his orchestra, his reputation, press notices and fan mail began to soar.

He remained with Gene's group until they played a one-night stand at the Army Air Forces base in Enid, Okla. There Johnny decided to enlist.

When discharge time rolled around after two years overseas, Johnny Desmond found himself in demand by American radio, theater and film companies.

The Continental teenagers' loss became young America's gain. Johnny was featured on such shows as Doris Day's and Peggy Lee's. He broke into television on such programs as the Jackie Gleason Show, Ed Sullivan's Toast of the Town, the Ken Murray Show, Faye Emerson Show, Songs for Sale, and Face the Music.

Fame Is Fatal

YARMOUTH, Me (UP)—A Rhode Island Red rooster named Gump has paid the supreme penalty for fame. The rooster, owned by Dewey Ringrose, won the super-grand championship at the Boston poultry show. The prize bird caught cold on the way home and died.

Health Officials List Prevention Rules for Polio

LANSING (UP) — Time-tested "do's and don'ts" for the prevention of polio were repeated today by the State Health Department.

Officials emphasized that in spite of advancements with Salk vaccine and gamma globulin, parents still must "rely entirely on the traditional safeguards to protect our children."

The do's:

1. Keep away from crowds and from contact with new people.

2. Get plenty of rest. Add an afternoon quiet period if necessary.

3. Watch for signs of sickness such as headache, fever, sore throat, upset stomach, sore muscles, stiff neck or back, extreme tiredness or nervousness, trouble with breathing or swallowing.

4. Put a sick person to bed at once, away from others, and call the doctor. Quick action may lessen crippling.

The don'ts:

1. Don't play or work to the point of exhaustion.

2. Don't take children to places where there are outbreaks of polio.

3. Don't get chilled.

4. Don't take children out of camp or playground if there is good health supervision.

The Australian continent has a wide range of weather, but no extremes of cold and heat such as occur in parts of the U. S. and Canada.

Michigan Pair Lost in Superior

Went Out Sunday in 10-Foot Boat to Fish; Police Searching

SAULT STE MARIE (UP) — A Michigan couple was missing today and feared drowned in Lake Superior off the mouth of the Montreal River, 80 miles northwest of Sault Ste. Marie in Canadian waters.

They are Albert Ginser, 47, and his wife, Edith, 38, of Grand Rapids.

The Ginsers set out Sunday in a 10-foot aluminum boat equipped with two outboard motors. A stiff wind was blowing and big swells rolling in the lake.

Mrs. John Kaymakers, their daughter, said the Ginsers were due back at their tourist camp accommodations at the mouth of the river Sunday night. Mrs. Kaymakers, her husband and child had passed up the Sunday fishing expedition and stayed ashore.

Ontario Provincial Police have begun an air and sea search along the rugged, rocky coastline.

NOTHING COMPARES WITH

MILK

FRESH FROM THE FARM

NATURE'S GOODNESS AT ITS BEST

There is no substitute for fresh, wholesome milk. There's something extra special about Milk. Milk's individual familiar flavor satisfies thirst and hunger as nothing else can. It tastes so clean, so cool, so smooth. It comes to you as Nature intended it . . . delicious and nutritious.

And Milk is more than the finest drink known to man. Milk contains the rare combination of vitamins, minerals, and proteins. These nutrients are essential for buoyant good health. Adults should drink 3 glasses of Milk every day—children, four glasses—to feel their best. So feel fresh—enjoy fresh Milk every day.

In addition to all of its wonderful qualities, Milk, also, is a real Bargain in Nourishment. It provides more enjoyment and health giving elements than any single food—yet costs so little.

FOR TASTE-HEALTH-ECONOMY DRINK MILK

FRESH, WHOLESOME MILK COSTS ONLY 5c FOR A FULL SIZE GLASS when purchased by the quart

Most of the pure, fresh milk consumed each day in Greater Detroit and environs is supplied by 11,000 members of the

Non-Com Stripes Came Before Army Uniforms

WASHINGTON (UP) — The U.S. Army had insignia for non-commissioned officers before it had uniforms.

The Continental Army once had no uniforms, and there was confusion in distinguishing commissioned officers from non-coms. An order was issued from headquarters in Cambridge, Mass., in 1775 to remedy the situation:

"The serjeants may be distinguished by an epaulett, or stripe of red cloth sewed upon the right shoulder; the corporals, by one of green."

Kerr Is Dem Senate Choice

Opponent Withdraws From Runoff Primary Election in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Former Gov. Roy J. Turner withdrew from Oklahoma's runoff primary election last night, automatically giving the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate to Sen. Robert S. Kerr.

Turner, though personally wealthy with cattle and il millions, said lack of finances prevented his making the campaign for the runoff, which had been scheduled July 27.

* * *

Under Oklahoma law no candidate may personally spend more than $3,000 in the Senate race. Turner said "pressure" on friends—through whom big campaigns are generally financed — "prevented them from cooperating as originally intended."

He accused Kerr of buying the first primary election.

"Deluges of money altered the results last Tuesday," he declared in a statement released at midnight.

* * *

Kerr had a plurality of 33,302 votes, leading Turner 238,543 to 205,241, but strength of seven other Democratic candidates blocked his bid for a majority and forced the contest into a runoff.

Kerr will now face the Republican runoff winner in the Nov. 2 general election.

"The information came as a complete but very pleasant surprise to me," said Kerr.

Connecticut was the first state to set up its own bureau to handle inter-American affairs.

Stevens Meets McCarthy With His Every Move

SHANNON, Ireland (AP) — U.S. Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens found himself knee deep in McCarthys yesterday when his plane stopped at this international airport en route from Paris to Washington.

The secretary has been touring Army units in West Europe.

Operations officer Charles McCarthy cleared the plane for landing.

At the control tower microphone was Jack McCarthy.

* * *

The immigration officer who okayed Stevens to leave the plane was another Jack McCarthy.

The customs officer who learned he had nothing to declare — just passing through — was John McCarthy.

Stevens went to the airport post office to mail some postcards and got his stamps from Tom McCarthy.

Messenger Nick McCarthy took his order for a cup of coffee, and lounge attendant Paddy McCarthy brought it to him.

"I seem," said Stevens, "to be in McCarthy country."

Army to Lower Prices on Post Exchange Goods

TOKYO (AP) — Servicemen and their families in Japan and Korea will find prices a bit lower in Army post exchanges next month.

Post exchanges are not allowed to make a profit and must lower prices when business gets too good.

An "odd cent" price reduction set for Aug. 1 will cut prices to the nearest 5-cent figure. And profits from cheap, fast-selling merchandise such as candy bars, which cannot be reduced 5 cents, will make greater cuts possible on more expensive items, the Army said.

Embezzled Funds Subjected to Taxes

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Embezzled funds are subject to income tax under terms of a ruling by the U.S. Court of Appeals.

The court made the ruling yesterday in upholding the conviction of Arthur B. Marienfield of St. Louis, former president of the Mar Meat Co. He was sentenced to 15 months in prison and fined $5,000 in Federal District Court last year after being convicted for evading $23,968 in income taxes for 1946.

In his appeal, Marienfield contended the money which the government claimed was income and was used by him, actually belonged to the firm.

Appeals Court Judge Harvey M. Johnsen wrote:

"One who acquires funds by criminal means and uses them for his own purposes has no less measure of economic gain, value and enjoyment from them than the law-abiding citizen."

Sugar was considered a medicine until 1750.

How to Quickly Stop Bleeding Piles Without Surgery

Why go on spending your money month after month, year after year, on ointments, suppositories, injections, etc., that give you little or no temporary relief and leave you suffering as usual. Medical research has developed a harmless, pleasant, quick-acting, wonder drug called RECTORAL. It is taken internally and goes right to the seat of the trouble. Usually in just a few days bleeding with any accompanying irritation and soreness begins to disappear and in a few days more is completely gone. It has been tested in thousands of cases without any return of bleeding even years afterward.

This amazing drug can now be obtained without prescription at Simms; J-V; Hallman Drug; Luttrell Pharmacy; Walgreen's; Thrifty; Slankster & Jones; Dunseth; Cole's; Furtney's; Rule; Quality; Keego Drug; Keego Harbo; Drayton Plains; Auburn Heights.

The arts of jet propulsion and smoke screening were mastered by the squid and the octopus long before man ever dreamed of such things. Water squirting through funnels propels the animals, and enemy pursuers are confused by the discharge of clouds of ink.
