Frank Steere Suggests Merger of City and Township

Feels Pontiac and Waterford Might Benefit

Urges Careful Study; Says Both Would Gain by Coordinated Plans

In an interview with the Pontiac Press, Frank W. Steere, well known resident of Waterford, suggests that the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce should investigate the possibility of joining Waterford Township with the City of Pontiac.

"I think the question of annexation could profitably be studied by both areas," he said, "and the Chamber of Commerce is probably the logical entity to lead the investigation."

Steere, a prominent engineer, said: "Late last summer the Press addressed an open letter to Robert Critchfield, General Manager of the Pontiac Motor Division, answering some questions about Pontiac and its future. I have been thinking about it, and both Pontiac and Waterford's future come to my mind.

"Pontiac seems very favorably situated financially, and I hope that city planners are giving the problem of the whole area due study and thought.

"The questions can no doubt be properly asked of almost every community in the United States. I suggest that they should be directed to this whole area rather than to one of its municipalities. The city of Pontiac is located practically in the geographical center of Oakland County.

"Nature has been very kind to Oakland County, with its 400 fresh water lakes and wooded hills. Its natural beauty is unrivaled, go where you will, but that is only a part of it.

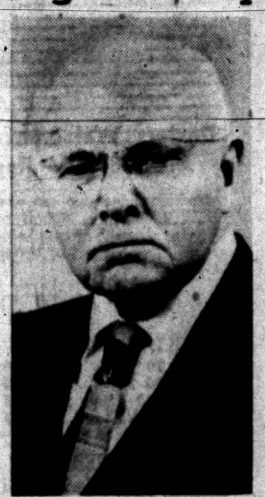

"This area is practically free from those natural hazards, so destructive to life and crippling to industry, to wit: tornadoes, floods and earthquakes.

"Our greatest natural asset is our proximity to the Great Lakes. Fresh water is an absolute essential for both man and industry. It can be made available to this area in unlimited quantities from the Great Lakes. No serious engineering problems are involved.

"Contrast this with the fresh water situation in much of the nation. Hydrologists seem to agree that many areas are feeling the results of the unfavorable basic hydrologic balance made more acute by the greatly increased per capita consumption of water, increase in

Firm Operating Ill-Fated Plane Now Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP)— Complaints that Peninsular Air Transport and an associated nonscheduled airline, Aero Finance Corp., overloaded planes, worked pilots excessively long hours and maintained their planes inadequately currently are being studied in Miami.

The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) opened a hearing at Miami Nov. 8 on charges of violations filed by the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

A CAB spokesman said the hearing, before safety examiner Joseph Caldwell, is still under way.

Both Peninsular and Aero Finance have headquarters at Miami Springs, Fla. They are listed as nonscheduled operators of twin-engine aircraft—C46s and DC3s.

Hunter Deaths Rise to 15; Two Freeze in Quicksand

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

The addition of four golf professionals believed drowned in icy waters of an inland lake and three new heart attack victims today brought to 15 the number of hunters who have died so far during Michigan's 1955 deer season.

Meanwhile, two Wyandotte duck hunters were presumed dead after a two-day air-sea search of the Detroit River proved fruitless.

And a search was to continue in Gogebic County for 2 missing deer hunters.

Five deer hunters, who had been missing more than 24 hours, were either found or made their way to safety.

The Coast Guard rescued nine hunters in the Detroit area.

Canadian provincial police, assisted by an RCAF plane, rescued 8 Canadian hunters reported missing in the vicinity of Long Pointe, on Lake Erie.

Presumed drowned in Gratiot Lake, four miles from Eagle River in Keweenaw County, were:

THE GOLFERS

Edward Van Opering, 50, of Kent Country Club, Grand Rapids.

Danny R. Nowak, 39, of Green Ridge Country Club, Grand Rapids.

Ted Lamanski, 36, of Spring Lake Country Club, Grand Rapids.

Leonard Gillette, 50, manager of the Homewood, Ill., Country Club.

The four golf pros were reported missing Wednesday when they failed to return from a hunting trip. They had crossed Gratiot Lake in an outboard motor boat to hunt in almost uninhabited country along the southeastern side of the peninsula which is the northernmost tip of Michigan.

Searchers found the boat overturned in the lake. Dragging operations, begun yesterday, were to continue today.

HEART VICTIMS WERE:

Fern E. Hillard, 57, of Detroit.

Charles Broadstreet, 71, of Hudson.

Robert Havel, 70, Utica assessor and a former Macomb County sheriff.

The Wyandotte hunters presumed dead:

Otto Radeback, 35, father of seven children.

Francis Holton, 30, father of two.

Their car was found parked on Huron River drive, south of Gibraltar. They had put out into the river Wednesday afternoon. A search for them was to continue today.

The search also was to continue for Walter Kline, 52, of Benton Harbor, and Stanley Bouher, 31, of Richmond, both missing in Gogebic County.

Juvenile Gang Rumor Studied

Prosecutor to Probe Reports of Youth Vice Ring in County

Charges of juvenile vice and gang activity in Southern Oakland County will be discussed at a meeting next week of Oakland and Wayne County authorities, Oakland County Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor said today.

Taylor, Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem, Detroit Police Commissioner Edward Piggins and Juvenile Judge Nathan Kaufman will hold the meeting to review facts of the case and attempt to determine what action should be taken.

Officials in the Prosecutor's office today denied published reports that the office has asked State Attorney General Thomas M. Kavanagh for assistance in investigating charges that the juvenile vice ring exists.

And Oakland County Undersheriff Elmer McQuern said no invitation to aid in the investigation has VICTIM REMOVED — One of the victims of a chartered DC-4 crash near Seattle early this morning is removed, as the grim job of retrieving the dead continues. Twenty-seven were killed in this smashup, and an Air Force Transport with 14 aboard came down high in the Charleston Mountains near Las Vegas. Rescue units are being hampered by rocky terrain and deep snow.

Second Craft Carrying A - Scientists Plunges Into Nevada Peak

By International News Service

Two plane crashes, one late last night and one early this morning, killed 27 servicemen, with 14 believed dead in the second plane.

At Seattle, a four-engine non-scheduled airliner, carrying 73 persons including 66 servicemen returning from Far Eastern duty, crashed in flames early today and 27 were killed.

Three hours after the crash, the King County coroner's office announced that the 27 bodies had been recovered. Names of victims have not been released.

And at Las Vegas, Nev., several atomic scientists were among the 14 persons believed killed late yesterday in the crash of a military transport plane on towering Mt. Charleston, west of Las Vegas.

An Air Force spokesman in Washington said that none of the scientists was of top rank. Identifications were being held up pending notification of the next of kin.

The big Seattle plane took off from Boeing Field in a light snowfall a few minutes before midnight and crashed two miles south of the airport into the backyard of a house, demolishing a garage and setting the home on fire. A mother and four children in the house escaped injury.

Eyewitnesses said the plane crashed "like a ball of fire" and sent flames shooting 75 to 100 feet into the night skies.

Among the survivors of the Seattle crash were two Michigan men:

Pvt. Rhiner Grondyk, 18, of Saranac.

Sgt. T. J. Gostiger, Port Huron.

Oakland's Oldest Man Will Reach 100 Monday

Without doubt the oldest man in Oakland County, Jonathan A. Ferrier will be 100 years of age next Monday. He lives with his son, Arthur Ferrier, at 14 McNeil St.

In honor of the event an open house will be held at the Ferrier home Sunday from 2 to 5 o'clock.

Ferrier was born in Canada on Nov. 21, 1855, and was a farmer most of his life until retiring. He has lived in Pontiac the past 20 years.

His recollections run back to Civil War days, and he well remembers the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln and other incidents of that period.

He has enjoyed general good health most of his life. His recipe for living to the century mark is always to be cheerful. He never has used tobacco or liquor.

He was married at an early age, but has been a widower for 54 years. They had seven children, four of whom still are living. He also has 35 grandchildren, 112 great grandchildren and 39 great great grandchildren.

President Hears Geneva Report

Ike Will Continue Fight for World Peace; Dulles Gives Facts Tonight

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (INS) — President Eisenhower is not discouraged in his search for an enduring world peace because of Soviet Russia's refusal to negotiate European settlements at Geneva.

An informed authority said today that the Chief Executive does not believe the failure of the foreign ministers' Geneva conference to reach any specific agreements has brought the world any closer to war.

This report came after the President met with Secretary Dulles.

The President has frequently remarked that skirmishes may be lost before a war is won. He has also remarked that the efforts to win the peace may take a half century or more.

These thoughts may be reflected in Dulles' radio and television report tonight.

He speaks on a half-hour "live" telecast over the CBS television network at 7:30 p.m. EST. The report will then be repeated on NBC-TV at 11:30 p.m. EST, on NBC-Radio at 9:30 p.m. EST, and on the CBS and ABC radio networks at 10:30 p.m. EST.

One 'Little' Piggy Didn't

S-D Day Leader Cautions Drivers Against Handicaps

Snowy streets this week bring home the message of Pontiac's safe-driving campaign.

Civic safety-leader Clyle R. Haskill, says that increased safety consciousness is the remedy for winter weather's two major traffic handicaps.

"They are poor visibility and loss of tire traction," said Haskill, who is chairman of Safe-Driving Day Dec. 1.

"Motorists must realize that they need at least a week to get the feel of the road when winter comes," Haskill said.

When roads first are slippery, drivers are apt to forget that speed and sudden braking are especially dangerous, he pointed out.

And drivers can't see well, either, he added.

"Darkness falls early, days are cloudy, snow blinds the driver, and frost and steam on car windows block vision.

"These extra hazards call for increased care on the part of both driver and pedestrian," Haskill said.

Haskill, who is chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Safety Committee, urged that safety be practiced at all times.

"S-D Day is observed to demonstrate that with care on the part of everyone, the number of traffic accidents can be dramatically reduced.

"But the real meaning of S-D Day is to persuade drivers and pedestrians to exercise care every day of the year," he said.

Snow Late Tonight, Rain for Tomorrow

The weatherman drew a more normal weather picture today after two days of winter-cold weather accompanied by near-gale winds.

It's to be partly cloudy today with a high of 34-38. There is some chance of snow late tonight and rain tomorrow, with little change in temperature.

Tonight's low will be 28-30 and tomorrow's high 38-42. Diminishing westerly winds becoming light and variable are forecast for tonight.

Lowest reading in downtown Pontiac before 8 a.m. was 27 degrees. At 2 p.m., the mercury stood at 35 degrees.

Suspended Officer Demands Job Back

James L. Ockerman, suspended from the Pontiac Police Dept. a month ago by Chief Herbert W. Straley, today filed suit for a writ of mandamus ordering Straley to reinstate him and to pay him back wages.

Ockerman, a patrolman for 11 years, claims he was suspended without legal process and has not been paid his monthly wages since.

Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick issued an order instructing Straley to appear Nov. 30 to show cause why the writ should not be issued.

Christmas Clubs Distribute Funds

Members Receive Over $1,165,000; 6 Savings Firms Mail Checks

Nearly 12,850 members of six Pontiac-area Christmas clubs will share $1,166,469 when local savings institutions complete their annual distribution of checks this month.

Officials of all but one of the firms said yesterday that checks have either been mailed to members or will be within the coming week.

The Community National Bank announced that it will send out $661,426 to 7,213 members of its club during the next three days.

The Pontiac State Bank, with 4,430 accounts, will complete distribution of $381,033 Monday, officials said.

According to spokesmen at the Pontiac Federal Savings & Loan Assn., the firm has already completed distribution of $58,000 to 662 holders of accounts in the club.

Three area credit unions reported that a total of $66,080 was deposited in club treasuries by more than 500 members.

The organizations include: Pontiac Municipal Employes Credit Union, $31,500 (354 members); Pontiac Telephone Employes Credit Union, $21,580 (180 members); and Oakland County Employes Credit Union, $12,630 (109 members).

Purpose of the Christmas Club plan is to encourage members to deposit sums ranging from 50 cents to $10 weekly for annual distribution shortly before Christmas.

The amount of each check averages between $25 and $500, depending upon how much the member has deposited during the year.

Michigan Man Describes Seattle Plane Tragedy

'No One Was Screaming,' Crash Survivor Recalls

SEATTLE (INS) — Pvt. Rhiner Groendyk Jr., 18, of Saranac, one of two Michigan soldiers to survive today's airline crash near Seattle, credited his safety belt for bringing him through the crash and explosion with only an arm burn and slight head injury.

In a graphic telephone account of the disaster, Pvt. Groendyk said the belt kept him from being hurled forward into the burning part of the plane where most of the 27 victims perished.

He related:

"I was sitting in the plane's midsection about three seats in front of the emergency door.

"The weather was pretty bad, although it had stopped snowing. There was ice on the wings, I guess. Our takeoff had been delayed over three hours waiting for the snow to stop.

"We hadn't been in the air five minutes before it happened. We were barely airborne when the plane started to circle back toward the airport.

"Still we didn't think anything was wrong, even when I saw a house at our left seeming to come up to meet us. I couldn't see the house on the right—the one we hit.

"I don't recall the crash itself. We hit and the plane burst into flames—just like that. It happend almost too fast to think.

"Maybe I was stunned when we hit, anyway, the first thing I recall was the flames sweeping the inside of the plane.

"Strangely, no one was screaming and there seemed to be no panic. I think most of those who were able to had gotten out while I was coming to.

"The whole rear part, where I was sitting, had broken off. But you couldn't get out the front part of the tail. The opening was a sheet of flame.

"I got up on my seat and looked for an opening, then I remembered the emergency door. Nobody else seemed to be moving.

"Somehow I fumbled my way to the door. I must have gotten my arm burned then, but I don't remember it.

"Actually, I'm not clear on anything until I got about 30 yards away. Then came that terrific explosion. Several smaller explosions followed.

"I started toward the closest house, the one I had seen from the plane. It was about 110 yards away.

"A civilian came up and asked me if I was OK and when I said, 'Yes,' he went on to help others. My head started to clear and I began looking for other GIs. Just outside the house, two were lying in the snow.

"One was in shock, just able to mumble. I got him to his feet and led him into the house. The woman there said she had seen the crash coming and had called the fire department before the plane hit the ground.

"The other soldier in the snow appeared to have broken bones so we didn't take a chance on moving him, just covered him up and waited for the ambulances.

"Then I went back into the house and waited. I was in no real pain. In fact my arm hardly hurts me now."

Groendyk said the thing that stood out in his memory was a cute little girl among the passengers. He said she was sitting in the front part of the plane and he remembers getting a kick out of seeing her safely on the field afterward.

"That was a real miracle, her getting out," he said.

Youth, 16, Held on Theft Count

Admits Holding Up Gas Station, Stealing $164 From Attendant

A 16-year-old Hazel Park youth is being held after admitting to Pontiac Police that he robbed a gas station at gun-point Sunday.

The boy had told station attendant Harold Werth, "I hate to do this, but my father is in a wheel chair and needs help."

Today he admitted his father is not sick at all. "Actually, I spent most of the money to buy flowers and presents for my girl friend," the youth said.

Werth identified the boy as the one who robbed him of $164. Police were still questioning the boy today.

He was apprehended after a Bloomfield Township Policeman, Knute Tubbs, reported the boy was driving a car with a license plate number similar to the number reported by Werth.

Fight Common Cold -With Handkerchief

LANSING (AP)—Waste no hopes for a vaccine against the common cold, but rely on the old dependable handkerchief, the State Health Department said today.

Dr. F. S. Leeder, director of the bureau of disease control, said scientists do not believe that any vaccine will be developed which will have long-term results in preventing colds.

This, he said, is based on the observations that the natural immunity humans get from a cold often disappears overnight. Immunity by vaccination, therefore, appears unlikely, he said.

Dr. Leeder declared that a handkerchief or a box of tissues used to cover up coughs and sneezes will do more than anything else to break the chain of infection which carries the common cold.

Is Your Spouse More Like You After 20 Years?

DETROIT (AP)—A University of Michigan professor calls old wives tales the beliefs that men and women are attracted by opposite characteristics in each other and that married life makes husband and wife more alike.

Dr. Lowell Kelly, past president of the American Psychological Assn., told a Detroit meeting of psychologists, psychiatrists and social workers Wednesday that research showed "husbands and wives were no more alike after 20 years of marriage than they were at the beginning."

Dr. Kelly said although he could find no evidence that opposites attract he "could think of nothing more boring than to come home to my psychological twin."

Steere Asks Study of Merger Proposal

population, and increased demands of industry.

"All of this is a part of the tremendous upsurge of technical progress of the past generation. This area does not have to be concerned with the basic hydrologic unbalance unless the United States becomes a desert.

"We have fresh water in limitless quantities. In addition to all these natural advantages, this area is bounded on the south by the automobile capital of the world, which tomorrow will be an ocean port, with the commerce of the world at its docks.

"This area has everything that nature and location can give. Its phenomenal growth will continue at an accelerated pace. Pontiac is now spilling over into the surrounding townships, particularly Waterford Township, the most beautiful section of Oakland County.

"Waterford Township forms the western boundary of the city of Pontiac. These political boundaries separating these two municipalities were originally laid down in the days of the horse and buggy. Few things today have survived the social and economic revolution of the past 50 years without change.

"I suggest an inquiry into the feasibility of changing these political boundaries and merging the city of Pontiac and Waterford Township into one municipality. Such a merger would soon make 'New Pontiac' the fourth largest city in the state. It would eliminate the duplications of the functions of government that are unavoidable in running two independent municipalities.

"While there is nothing inherent in size, per se, to assure vision, integrity and economy in government, it would seem that 'New Pontiac' would be in a better position to provide for the water requirements and the best development of this area than a multiplicity of small communities, each with its own political setup and local prejudices.

"'New Pontiac' would have lakes within its corporate limits. Its recreation facilities could be developed without limit; there would be nothing like it anywhere. Such a merger presents many problems, all of which should be given most exhaustive study before intelligent decisions could be made.

"The objective of any such move should be better living conditions and better citizenship for the entire area. If this area is to be developed to the best advantage for this and the coming generations, it will require vision and statesmanship of a high order.

"I suggest studies be initiated at once, under the auspices of the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce, to determine the feasibility and advisability of such a merger. This would be the first step in a long range program for the development of this area, which is destined to be the most important industrial area of the United States.

"'Without vision the people shall perish,' and as Lord Byron said: 'That which man maketh not better, Time maketh worse.'"

Muskegon Landmark Burns to the Ground

MUSKEGON (AP)—The towering First Baptist Church, a downtown Muskegon landmark, burned to the ground last night while 30-mile winds fanned the flames.

Damage was estimated at upwards of $100,000 by Fire Chief Wallace Gannon.

The brick building, which housed the largest Baptist congregation in Muskegon, suddenly puffed into a flaming cloud just after firemen reached the scene. They were summoned by a passerby who saw smoke seeping from the building.

The only part of the church standing following the blaze was the shell of a brick tower which housed the steeple.

Pontiac Deaths

Mrs. James P. Connelly

Mrs. James P. (Mary L.) Connelly, 78, of 56 Bennett St. died yesterday afternoon in the Pine Cone Nursing Home after an illness of eight weeks.

Born in Rantoul, Kansas, Jan. 27, 1877, she was the daughter of S. L. and Julia Keene Brewer. She was married in Saginaw in 1921.

A member of the First Baptist Church. Mrs. Connelly had lived in Pontiac 35 years. She belonged to the Berean Class and Wayside Gleaners, both groups of her church.

Besides her husband, she is survived by her step-mother. Other survivors include two brothers, Harry W. Brewer of St. Petersburg, Fla. and Ross E. Brewer of Osawatomie, Kan.; four sisters, Mrs. Emma Welton of Fowler, Colo., Mrs. Hattie Christie of Pontiac, Mrs. Hazel Haney of Rantoul and Grace Brewer of Rantoul.

Service will be held at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Huntoon Funeral Home with the Rev. William E. Hakes of the First Baptist Church officiating. Burial will be in Roseland Cemetery.

Mrs. Katherine Hamlet

Word has been received of the death of Mrs. Katherine Hamlet, a former resident of Pontiac. She died Wednesday in the Bertha Fisher Convalescent Home after a six-month illness.

Mrs. Hamlet, 84, was born in Columbus March 17, 1871. Her parents were John and Mary McGrath.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Anna Mills of Bradheadsville, Pa. and Mrs. Margaret Drouillard of Detroit.

Included in the nine nieces and nephews surviving are F. Earl Bixby and Bernard Hamlet, both of Lake Orion.

The Recitation of the Rosary will be Sunday at 8:15 in Allen's Funeral Home, Lake Orion. A prayer service will be held in the funeral home at 9:30 a.m. Monday. The funeral will be held at 10 a.m. from St. Joseph Catholic Church. Burial will follow in Oak Hill Cemetery.

William John Morgan

The Loyal Order of Moose will conduct the service at 8 p.m. Sunday in the Voorhees-Siple Chapel for William John Morgan, 75, of 103 Fairgrove Ave.

The Rev. Carl W. Nelson of St. John's Lutheran Church will officiate at the funeral in the Chapel Monday at 11 a.m. Burial will be in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Besides his wife, Mr. Morgan is survived by nine children, eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Two brothers also survive. He died yesterday after a brief illness.

Commerce Women Hurt as Car Skids in Snow

A Commerce Township woman yesterday became the first person to be injured here because of snowy streets.

Mrs. Viola Fine was released after treatment at Pontiac General Hospital.

Police said she was thrown to the slippery pavement after a car skidded and hit the curb at Orchard Lake Ave. and Ottawa Dr. The driver, Mrs. Lorene Snavely, also of Commerce Township, was not injured, they said.

Royal Oak Township police, now investigating the charges with Detroit and Wayne County police, partially confirmed the reports of vice activity today.

Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem said today he is also investigating the story, given to police by a unnamed juvenile, that gangs of juveniles are taking dope, roaming streets with home-made "zip guns" and using the back room of a dry cleaner's for immoral purposes.

"If the claims are substantiated," Ziem said, "a vigorous campaign will be conducted to clean up the situation."

Royal Oak Township Police Chief Robert Richardson said that youths carrying the guns and prostitutes from other parts of Detroit have recently been apprehended in the township.

Russians Threaten Veto in U.N. Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS)—The U. N. today faced the alternative of seating Communist Outer Mongolia or dooming the entry of 13 free nations, including Italy and Japan.

The "either-or" dilemma was touched off by Russia's announced threat to veto the 13 western-sponsored states unless Outer Mongolia and four other Soviet satellites were incoluded for membership.

Soviet First Deputy Foreign Minister V. V. Kuznetsov told a specially summoned news conference that Russia will agree to admission of all 18 states—including Mongolia—or none at all.

Kuznetsov's "all or nothing at all" attitude killed prospects for a compromise settlement on Outer Mongolia.

The Soviets, for their part, claimed they had agreed to inclusion of Spain and Japan among the 13 in exchange for Western acceptance of all the satellites, including Mongolia.

U. S. and British spokesmen declined comment on the Soviet threat.

Listed Wrong Owner of Truck in Crash

The truck which a Troy Township man crashed into on M24 Wednesday night, did not belong to Carl D. Fry, Pontiac, as stated in Thursday's Press.

Fry said he sold the truck three weeks ago. Vern L. Keller, 3229 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, is the present owner.

Wants Bigger 'Pound'

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — The Police Traffic Bureau has asked for an expanded car "pound" to handle cars which must be stored in a theft-proof space while awaiting disposition. The bureau's current "pound" includes about 10,000 square feet of land. They said 104 impounded autos were unclaimed from Nov. 1, 1954 until this month.

The Day in Birmingham

Platter Party Program Changes Time by Request

BIRMINGHAM — By tomorrow afternoon there should be a lot of slipped discs here. Only far from the painful type, these will be the latest recordings spun in the lobby of the Birmingham Theater, for teenagers to go through their paces from 11 a.m. to 12 noon.

That's the new time, by request of the young people, for Platter Party to be held. Changes in the usual Friday night format, will see dancing in the lobby and a press conference, when area teenagers interview celebrities during a "live" radio broadcast. All this and more, will now be at no charge.

Another "first" for the program will be a "Teen-Age Citizen of the Week" presentation. Jim Traa and Bill Sweeney, captains of Birmingham's Eastern Michigan League football champions, plus Royal Oak High Captains Bud Allen and Darrell Draper, will discuss the Thanksgiving Day game.

Royal Oak High has been selected to do the first press conference, with Judy Byam, Carol Fornier and Angie Coggin interviewing the Melodaires, among Saturday's guest celebrities.

From Birmingham High, Diana Gardner, Karen Williams and Joan Kidd will give the results of a teen survey, naming the school's choice for the top three record hits of the week.

Jack Cataldo and Charles Goudie said the shows will continue at 11 a.m. each Saturday and invite all area young people to attend. Doors will open at 10:30.

All seventh and eighth graders have been invited to today's opening of the Youth Room at the Community House, the Youth Room Committee has announced. The program for junior high schoolers will be held on the first and third Fridays of each month, from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

On hand to assist with the dancing, music, games and other social activities tonight, will be William and Rosemary Squires and Art and Anne Zimmer.

Through the Birmingham-Bloomfield - Franklin Council of Community Services, a director has been obtained for the program, with volunteer assistance arranged by the Rev. Robert Dewey, minister of the Congregational Church. The Community House is supplying the Youth Room facility.

Mrs. Harvey Greene, chairman of the council's Youth Committee, commented, "Through cooperation in our community, this program has been arranged for junior high school students. We expect that a senior high program will be arranged shortly."

The tax rates on the winter role, will see about a 20 per cent increase over that of 1954, the City Commission was informed this week by City Assessor Elmer Haack. Most of this is attributed to increased school levies, it was pointed out, plus an increase in drain and county levies, all items over which the city has little control.

Taxes assessed on the 1954 winter role totaled $1,574,034 while this year's tax levy totals $2,050,104.

A tabulation of tax rates for 1954 and 1955, respectively, shows city, $19.30, $19.70 (collected on the spring role); and the following on the winter role: city-at-large drain, 25 cents, 50 cents: county, $5.75, $6.70; school, $25.75, $30.50; and special education, 50 cents, 80 cents.

Fire of undetermined origin caused an estimated $3,000 damage yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Hendrickson, 1170 Arden Lane.

Fire Chief Park Smith theorized that the blaze, confined mostly to the utility room with considerable moisture damage elsewhere, may have started from spontaneous combustion.

An unidentified neighbor notified the Fire Department, Smith said. The Hendricksons were away at the time.

Name Drayton Man to State Fair Post

Gov. Williams has appointed three new members of the State Fair Board, including a Drayton Plains resident.

Eldon C. Rosegart, a music instructor in the Pontiac School system, was named to the board. Other newcomers are Mrs. Mildred Stark of East Detroit, and Archibald McIntyre, of Bad Axe.

Rosegart will serve a term which expires April 14, 1956. Mrs. Stark's term is up in 1958, and McIntyre's in 1959.

Police Warn Area Against Bad Checks

Phony checks, forged on blanks stolen from a Troy Township lumber company this week, may be circulating in the Pontiac area, Pontiac Police warned.

Detective Olin E. Hoffman said that over 400 blank checks were missing from Archie's Lumber Company.

"Although police have found the company's check protector, which also was stolen, it may have been used before it was recovered," said Hoffman.

Hoffman said the checks are issued by the National Bank of Detroit and are numbered 4,156 to 4,583 inclusive. The serial number of the protector is 1508844, he said.

Plan New Play Center

Bonn Economy Hits Highest Production Yet

PARIS (AP)—The West German economy reached its highest-ever level of production in the first half of 1955, the Organization for European Economic Cooperation reported today.

The report said industrial production for the first half of 1955 was 17 per cent up over last year, and although about 3 per cent of the working population is unemployed, the rate has been sharply reduced in the last 18 months.

A suiter on his knees no longer has his feet on the ground, observes a London commentator.

Reds Hold U.S. Man in Prison

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—A mystery American in a Russian slave labor camp had a picture of himself smuggled into the free world and appealed for help.

An Austrian returning from Russia's notorious Vorkuta prison camp said the American was "Henry Malinauskas from Massachusetts". But the Austrian said he was neither sure of the spelling of the American's name nor of his home state.

The Austrian gave the Associated Press a picture of a dark-haired young man whom the Austrian said had been arrested in Lithuania in 1946. On the back of the photograph was this message in blue ink:

"To Walter. I believe that you have not forgotten Mass., Ataol, (Athol?) Wain Str. 105 Vembre S. J. (Salubiene-Malinauskaite A.), and I believe that we shall meet us again. Henry."

The Austrian, Walter Stipek, said the American slipped him the picture as he was leaving Vorkuta last May on the first stage of his release.

Stipek said he was the "Walter" to whom the message was addressed. This was one, he said, in case the Soviets should find the photograph on him. But Stipek said the message actually was meant for the man's mother and sister, whom he believed might be the "Salubiene" in the text.

Stipek said the American was a bachelor of Lithuanian parentage and had some engineering training.

Cat and the Canary

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mary Ellen Kay brought her cat and her canary to an animal hospital last week. The findings: they were suffering from nervous exhaustion. Said the doc: "Too much game of cat and mouse."

BEAUTY ON THE BEACH—The smog doesn't bother pretty Nancy Young, 16, as she stretches out on this beach in Santa Monica, Calif. That's because she's wearing a "smog helmet," which is better known to youngsters as a plastic space helmet. But though it keeps away the smog, it's of little help in keeping away men's stares.

Convict's Death in Chair Delayed

Hurbie Fairris Granted Reprieve in Oklahoma on Priests' Testimony

MCALESTER, Okla. (AP)—Just 10 steps and 7½ hours separated 21-year-old Hurbie Franklin Fairris Jr. from the electric chair. Then word was flashed to H. C. McLeod, warden of the Oklahoma State Penitentiary, that the postmidnight execution was off.

Gov. Raymond Gary, after a series of hurried telephone conversations, had granted Fairris a 60-day stay of execution so the State Pardon and Parole Board could study new evidence disclosed yesterday.

The 11th-hour reprieve was granted after 24-year-old Raymond Carrol Price, one of Fairris' companions the night Oklahoma City Detective Bennie Cravatt was shot to death, told two Catholic chaplains at the penitentiary he—and not Fairris—had shot the detective.

Price is serving a life term for his connection in the shooting during a holdup of an Oklahoma City supermarket July 16, 1954. Price and James Skinner, 22, pleaded guilty and were given life sentences. Fairris went to trial and was convicted of the murder of the detective. All three are from Dallas.

Train Engineer Dies of Attack at Throttle

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)— James Robert Williamson, 69, veteran Louisville & Nashville Railroad engineer, died at the throttle of the Dixieland streamlined passenger trains as it approached the Nashville station yesterday.

The fireman, William Butler Coombs, 38, of Henderson, Ky., brought the train into the terminal.

City Detective O. W. Pride said Williamson died of a heart attack.

Trainment said passengers were unaware of the engineer's death.

Philip Tordoff, 17-year-old musician of Cleckheaton, England, turned in the second highest marks in winning his diploma from the Royal College of Organists.

Ike, Mamie Endorse Dystrophy Campaign

NEW YORK (AP)— The campaign for funds to combat muscular dystrophy has the endorsement of President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

The fund drive takes place during Thanksgiving week.

In a letter received yesterday from Gettysburg, Pa., Mrs. Eisenhower told Mrs. Lou Gehrig, national campaign chairman of the Muscular Dystrophy Assns. of America:

"The President joins me in best wishes for the success of this year's nationwide Thanksgiving week March for Muscular Dystrophy. I congratulate all who are helping to aid the victims of muscular dystrophy — the majority of them children to whom it is nearly always fatal — and to further the progress toward the discovery of its causes and cure."

Mrs. Gehrig is the widow of Lou Gehrig, baseball great of the New York Yankees who died of a disease akin to muscular dystrophy.

66 Years in Same Hotel

WAPAKONETA, Ohio (AP) — Retired candy store owner John Graetz, 89, has resided for 66 years in the same hotel at nearby St. Marys.

Advancing years have forced one change in Graetz' familiar trips through the hotel. He now walks up one flight to his second floor room. In his younger days, he had a longer walk to his third floor room.

Shirley Jones Skyrockets to Stardom as Laurey in Todd-AO 'Oklahoma' Film

HERE SHE IS—Shirley's character "shines from her untroubled eyes."

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Everyone knows the words to "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning."

But now you'll have to learn a couple of new lines:

"Oh, what a beautiful girl!
"Oh, what a beautiful succes story!"

It's about that Jones Girl. Twenty-year-old Shirley Jones of Smithton, Pa., who wound up in "Oklahoma!" Three years ago she was graduated from South Huntington High School in the small (pop. 800) coal mining town of Smithton. Today she is the star of two Rodgers and Hammerstein Hollywood movie spectaculars—the just released "Oklahoma!" and "Carousel," now being filmed.

"I'm the luckiest girl in the world," says Shirley, the blonde unknown American beauty who won the role of Laurey in the $6,000,000 movie version of "Oklahoma!"

OVERNIGHT FAME

That Jones girl from Smithton is Miss Cinderella 1955.

"Overnight fame," usually preceded by years of struggling for recognition, is a loosely used phrase in show business.

But it fits Shirley Jones like Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning" fits her gorgeous voice, her fresh young beauty and what Richard Rodgers calls "the character that shines from her untroubled eyes."

Broadway's famed producing team of Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II discovered Shirley in New York and groomed her for stardom in the chorus of "South Pacific" and "Me and Juliet."

THE BIG MOMENT

The big moment—when Shirley captured the lead in the film version of "Oklahoma!" only 11 months after walking into their offices—raised Hollywood's eyebrows as high as a giraffe's horns along with the question:

"Who is Shirley Jones?"

The name meant nothing in Hollywood.

But the announcement was an "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning" cue back in Smithton and in Pittsburgh, Pa., where everyone knew Shirley Jones would be famous some day.

The daughter of Paul and Marjorie Jones — he's a wealthy brewery owner — Shirley was born to sing and act.

At three, on a vacation to Niagara Falls with her parents, she entertained some fellow tourists with a tap dance. At 11, she won $10 in an amateur singing contest at the Atlantic Steel Pier. At 12, her parents hired a vocal coach and she studied singing for five years. In high school, she was a majorette of the school band, soloist in the glee club, honor student and star drama queen.

After graduation in 1952, she represented Pittsburgh in the state-wide "Miss America" beauty contest and was runner-up, in the finals, to the title of "Miss Pennsylvania."

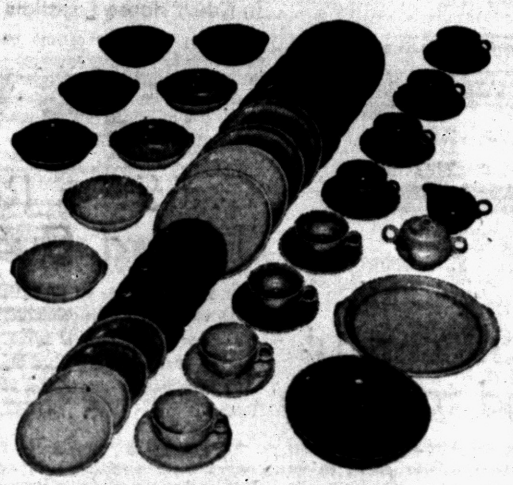

The following year she attended the Pittsburgh Playhouse and sang the leads in the Civic Light Opera productions of "Lady In the Dark" and "Call Me Madam."

But after a trip to New York in 1953 it was "Call Me Miss Cinderella" for Shirley Jones. On a holiday before entering the Centenary College for Girls in New Jersey, her vocal coach, Ken Welch, insisted she should look up a friend of his, agent Gus Schirmer.

Shirley looked up Gus and, after hearing her sing, Gus looked up John Fearnly, casting director for Rodgers and Hammerstein. Fearnly took her across the street to a theater where Rodgers was rehearsing an orchestra for a road company of "Oklahoma!"

Rodgers asked her to sing all the "Oklahoma" songs she knew. Then Hammerstein arrived at the theater and Shirley was asked to sing all of them again.

Stevenson's Candidacy No Surprise Anywhere

Adlai E. Stevenson's formal announcement that he is a candidate for the 1956 Democratic Presidential nomination surprised no one.

But while the element of surprise is lacking, it must be apparent to almost everyone in both parties that the nomination won't go to Illinois' former Governor without a fight.

Certainly as Mr. Stevenson well knows, potential rivals for the nomination include that prominent, soft spoken Tennesseean, Sen. Estes Kefauver, who made such a fine showing in the 1952 Presidential primaries. There also is New York's politically potent Gov. Averell Harriman, whom no well informed observer would rule out of the race.

In his 1952 campaign Mr. Stevenson paid little attention to the big city Democratic machine bosses. His 1956 attitude, however, makes it clear that things will be different next year. It would not even be surprising if it develops later that his campaign is to be directed from behind the scenes by that old political veteran, Col. Jake Arvey.

Among other things Mr. Stevenson is going to attack GOP foreign policy and make a bid for the farm vote by advocating return to the economically unsound, rigid 90 per cent of parity farm price supports. Also implicit in the statement was notice that he will attempt to grab the "peace-prosperity-progress" theme from the Republicans.

Even some Democrats in 1952 criticized the Stevenson campaign speeches as being over the heads of the people and too full of wisecracks. This doesn't mean, however, that if he does win the nomination the Republicans can afford to take lightly so formidable a candidate.

Growth Rate Rising

Population of the United States is growing at an increasingly rapid rate. At present the net increase is one every twelve seconds.

There is one birth every eight seconds, one death every twenty-one seconds. One immigrant arrives on an average of every two minutes, and an emigrant departs every twenty-four minutes.

These are startling figures. Our population today is 165,000,000. Only a few years ago the U.S. Census Bureau estimated this total would not be reached before the year 2000.

This increasing rate of growth is upsetting previous calculations in many fields. Noteworthy among these are education and business.

This tremendous growth in population is forcing us to build school houses at an ever increasing rate. It is causing a shortage of trained teachers, and is presenting our colleges and universities with increasing cost problems.

On the brighter side, it is this same growth which is producing the rising demand which has given business and industry its solid upswing in recent years. This increasing demand for goods and services of all kinds enabled the country to pass from a wartime economy to peacetime without the severe unemployment which heretofore has been experienced.

For years the size of American families was declining. Today that trend has been reversed and the size of the average family is increasing. War has been credited in some degree for this change. But a bigger factor is believed to be the increasing security which our young people feel as a result of the Social Security promised by the government, as well as the great increase in pensions and hospitalization programs by private employers.

Whatever your task or your chief interest, this increase in population is bound to affect you during the coming years. Pontiac and Oakland County are affected in more than average degree because we are in the midst of one of the most rapidly growing areas.

Possibly the most visible evidence of the rising population is in building. New homes are rising in Oakland County literally by the thousands. Business places and plants of all kinds likewise are going up on every hand.

Here and there, efforts to meet the increasing demand may overshoot the mark and bring temporary setbacks, but the inevitable result of rapidly increasing population is a steadily increasing demand for products and services.

It cannot be denied that everybody has a sense of humor. A man named David Fido recently had his name changed to David Chalkey because he got tired of everybody barking at him.

One thing that most people have a lot of, yet use sparingly, is common sense.

David Lawrence Says:

Big 4 Talks at Geneva Were Successful —Soviet Proves It Blocks Road to Peace

WASHINGTON — There's something wrong with the headline which appeared in many newspapers: "Big Four Talks End in Failure." For the truth is the talks have by no means "ended," and it really was a failure only for Soviet Russia — not for the West.

In a broad sense, the two Geneva conferences have indeed proved a real success for the United States, Britain and France. Any appraisal must take into account the original objectives of Russia and of the West.

The fact is the United States, Great Britain and France were anxious to demonstrate that Soviet Russia was blocking the way to peace. It was often said that, if Russia made concessions, the world would benefit but, even if they didn't come through, a face-to-face talk would "clear the air." The "air" has been "cleared." Everybody now knows which side is standing in the way of peace.

But the most important aspect of what has just happened is that Soviet Russia has failed in her objective. It is the Communist "failure" that deserves the headlines.

CANNOT COMPROMISE EVIL

When there is an issue of basic principle in which an evil force collides with morality, there can be no compromise. That's why all the palpable appeasement talk of "trading" and "bargaining" has been mischievous before and during the Geneva conferences.

It may well be that the whole project of trying to bring about some kind of understanding with the Soviet government now has really received its biggest impetus. If the Soviet has been convinced that the Allies are not going to surrender on vital issues, it may be the Kremlin will realize they must come up with substantial concessions even to enable them to retain some of what they have acquired.

The Moscow strategists have been angling for a "status quo." This means a divided Germany and a group of satellites indefinitely under their yoke. But "status quo" means "things as they are." In this age of popular unrest there can be no such thing. The ferment of discontent and incipient revolution is always present.

Now, therefore, that the Western world has refused to yield and has shown its heart to be still with oppressed peoples this is but another way of spreading apprehension inside the Kremlin.

A CALCULATED RISK

The first and second Geneva conferences have been propaganda victories for the West. Some moves have been misunderstood on this side of the Atlantic. Thus, when Secretary Dulles announced at one stage that he was full of "optimism," he was maneuvering to influence Molotov to come through with something to justify that hopefulness. It was one of the calculated risks of the diplomatic game and deserved better from some of the observers at the scene who didn't discern the strategy.

It is no "failure" but rather a "success" to put the Russians behind the eight ball and also to reveal to the world that the Soviet has suffered a defeat. Indeed, the Soviet plan to win trade and other advantages from the West without giving in on major issues of German reunification and independence for the satellite states has been rejected.

For the Allies, therefore, the Geneva conferences are a "success," whereas for the Russians they have been a "failure."

Since the Russians know now they can't bluff the Allies into surrender, important progress has been made.

Will the Soviet come through with a different strategy and a plan to assure peace? There's more chance of it in the next few months as a result of the Geneva talks than there has been heretofore because the only way to assure peace is not to cringe before but to stand up to the Kremlin and let the Communist regime know the truth—that there will be no compromise with evil.

Schools Should Provide Sports Used in Later Life

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Imagine yourself middle-aged, like your parents, or old folks, like your grandparents. What do you see wrong with them?

Looking at all the middle-aged and older folks you know, would you agree that they sit a great deal, even lie down too much?

When do you see them playing a game? A sport, that is, requiring bodily movement? Much? A few play golf, but what percentage?

They were once in high school as you are now. But the public schools have been failing for years—as they are failing you today—in preparing young people for a happy later life. D'you see how? Look about at your own school.

Isn't the almost total emphasis of your physical education department placed on varsity football, basketball, baseball and track? Now please be as detached and scientific as you can in this.

What per cent of the time of your physical education teachers is given to non-varsity students? How does their interest in "the others" compare with their interest in the varsity squads? Think it over and then write in and let me know how wrong or right you find these ideas.

VARSITY QUIET

I do not want to hear from the varsity squads, their coaches, brothers, sisters or parents, but from you others, the backbone of the country.

After considering your own status, and the physical condition of your immediate old folks, let me hear from you.

Wouldn't you prefer to be learning skills in the sports you can use for the rest of your life?

You could earn your letter at these sports, if the Board of Education saw fit, you know at such sports as:

Tennis, badminton, swimming, riding, golf, handball, fencing, dancing, table-tennis, archery, and bowling.

NOTHING TO DO?

When you write, students, let me know if you feel it's true that your parents and grandparents sit about with nothing to do but nag and criticize one another and you, because they never learned to play a game!

Also tell me whether the school authorities in your community show any regard or respect for physical education and whether you find it easier to be "excused" from gym class than to avoid other classes.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to the Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Mich.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Many Good Marriages Are Delayed by Procrastination of Those Past 30

Rodney shows the reactions of the typical bachelor. He has developed the habit of deferring important decisions till later and now is caught in his own trap of procrastination. Men and women past 30 should use the strategy outlined below, for it is foolish to be a slave to indecision after logic and love give you the green light.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case P-395. Rodney E., aged 38, has never married.

"Dr. Crane, I've been dating a girl steadily for 9 years," he began.

"I love her but I am afraid to get married. Oh, I have promised to go through the wedding ceremony with her several times, but I always back out. I just get scared or cautious or something.

"She is a very pretty girl and a good church worker. She comes from a farm and is a hard worker. She teaches school for a living.

"I've told her I don't know what is wrong with me, for I really do love her. So she has got me to reading your daily column.

"I want to get married but I am afraid. What should I do?"

BACHELOR JITTERS

When people delay marriage till after they pass the age of 30, they often engage in Hamlet's type of futile debate.

"To be or not to be—married" is the thing that troubles them.

They consider the matter, then desperately put off a decision till tomorrow or manana, as the Spanish say.

And ultimately this habit of delaying a decision until later, becomes so deeply impressed upon them, that they actually become a slave to it.

I have dealt with many old bachelors who were just like Rodney. And I've literally pushed many girls aged 30 to 35 into marriage when they wavered even on their wedding day.

So if you are beyond the age of 30 and are unmarried, but have met a suitable person whom you love and admire, then grit your teeth and take the plunge. Break your slavery to manana (procrastication).

Rate your sweetheart on the "Tests for Sweethearts" named below. If he (or she) makes a good score thereon, and if you know each other well and have met the prospective in-laws, etc., then take the bit in your teeth.

Marry quickly. Elope! Or drive around and pick up a couple of friends for witnesses. Then head for a clergyman and be married at once.

A church wedding is always best, even if the four of you simply stand before the altar. You don't need have a fancy wedding.

Get your marriage license and take the pre-marital medical examination; then don't delay an additional 60 minutes.

If you girls are dealing with the typical frightening old bachelor like Rodney, don't plan on elaborate church weddings which must be announced long in advance.

Work fast. Get him signed on the dotted line while he is in the mood.

In salesmanship, many a tyro salesman loses the order because he doesn't close the deal at the psychological moment.

He may insist on delivering the final 10 minutes of his memorized sales talk, just because he feels that is the proper thing to do.

But his prospect, who was ready to sign in the middle of the sales interview, may now have cooled off. So sign 'em when they will take the pen in their hand, regardless of where you are in your canned speech.

The same applies to you girls who have a skittish old bachelor. After he has had a delicious dinner, plus two cups of coffee to stimulate his nervous system, and when he then reaches out to take you in his arms, smile sweetly, but push him away.

"Let's get married right now," you say seductively as you reach for your hat. "It'll surprise everybody, too, and that will be even more fun."

For additional strategy, see tomorrow's follow-up. And send for the 200-point "Tests for Sweethearts, enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Ione Bartholomew Asks State Buildings Purchase

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters, but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

In regard to our mentally retarded children, I am making a plea for the purchase of the T. B. Hospital and the Farmington Children's Home.

Our T. B. hospital is only half full and the patients could be economically moved to the Contagious Hospital, keeping the Oakland County units together. The purchase of these two buildings would make a state hospital for the mentally retarded where they could be supervised by trained teachers and social workers.

Putting them into private homes is an assinine thing. It takes trained people to care for and teach them, and Michigan has a goodly percentage of them.

Ione W. Bartholomew

Questions Public Interest in Court House Location

Recently, a photo of the proposed county building appeared on the front page of the Press. No doubt, the average reader glanced at the picture, shrugged and ignored the accompanying story.

True, it's probably nothing more than an architect's dream. But it should serve as an inspiration to the few civic minded people residing here.

When the public begins to realize just what the so-called officials from Royal Oak and other suburbs intentions are, they'll support the "Keep the Court House Here Campaign." These wealthier people would enjoy nothing more than to see the county seat transferred to Royal Oak. Seeing this can't legally be accomplished, they're making an all-out attempt to build the structure as far from Pontiac's business district as possible.

What other county has their court house located way out in the sticks? The idea is ridiculous! It's obvious these officials don't want Pontiac to have this beautiful improvement.

Instead of relating the true facts, they insist it's parking and traffic problems which make the switch necessary. Wake up, Pontiac, and assume an interest in what we may possibly lose. Once these big wheels are permitted to take advantage of our local factory employes, there's no telling what else they'll deprive us of.

Car Sales Reflect Trend Toward Quality Buying

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
INS Economic Commentator

A phase of the current boom is the reported stepping up on quality on the part of the typical customer.

This trend to upgrade is reported from numerous quarters. Taking cognizance of it in his store advertising, Nathan Ohrbach, the merchant, discounts a low price tag unless the merchandise has style and gives the customer precisely what he or she wishes. This theme is doubly significant coming from a source which got started on the basis of price appeal.

Perhaps the best statistical measurement of the tendency to upgrade is discernable in the records of new automobile registrations.

As compared with 1953, the second from the lowest price group has improved more percentagewise than the lowest price group. The lowest price group includes Chevrolet, Ford, Plymouth, Dodge 6 (in 1955), Nash, and Hudson Rambler and Metropolitan, Studebaker Champion, Studebaker Commander in 1955, and Willys.

As compared with 1953, this group in the first eight months of 1955 accounted for 56.2 per cent of the registrations, as contrasted with 57.3 per cent in 1953 and 60.4 per cent in 1954.

2ND LOWEST JUMPS

While the lowest price group, the highest price group and the next to the highest price group showed a decline in the percentages of the whole market in the first eight months of 1955, as compared with 1953 and 1954, the 2nd from the lowest price group blossomed forth with important percentage gains.

This group includes Buick 40 and 60, DeSoto Firedome (DeSoto 6 prior to 1955 and Dodge 6 prior to 1955), Oldsmobile 88, Pontiac, Mercury, Hudson Wasp (and Hornet 1950-53), Kaiser and Frazer, Nash Statesman and Ambassador, and Studebaker President.

This price class rose from 29.0 per cent of all new car registration in 1953 and 27.5 per cent in 1954 to 32.6 per cent in the first eight months of 1955.

Before the big bulge in Ford production in recent years, this second from the lowest price group showed even higher percentage figures, namely, 33.3 per cent in 1950 and 32.9 per cent in 1951.

Then this group slumped relatively for the next three years, but recovered sharply in 1955, suggesting that automobile users too were following the trend of stepping up to a higher quality class.

In addition to the immediate economic trend, new families are forever in process of formation, others are maturing, and others are aging. Thus the life cycle of the individual customer, as well as the business cycle, affects the decision at the market place in respect to the balancing of quality with price.

In automobiles, the objective is to get down unit costs through expanding volume.

By and large, the customer is shrewd and discerning, and this quality accounts for the tendency of competitors to achieve something akin to price identity.

The late Sen. William Borah, eminent Idaho Republican, once told me that he regarded price identity as evidence of collusion and violation of the anti-trust laws. But a knowledge of the operation of markets indicates that competition tends to narrow price differences for similar or identical markets.

Ex-Circus Queen Reported Very Ill

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Dolly Varden, once a $10,000-a-week circus queen famous in America and Europe, was reported critically ill from cancer today in City Hospital.

Miss Varden, now Mrs. Raymond O'dell, 84, had her own private railroad car when she followed the tan-bark trail. She is in a three-bed room in the hospital.

She came to St. Louis more than 50 years ago after her retirement from circus life. For the past 10 years she lived behind an antique store just south of the downtown area.

It was there a Roman Catholic priest found her slumped in a chair, half-conscious, a week ago. Her husband had died last August.

DIPLOMATS VISIT SCHOOL—Kenneth Elbert, 8, tells diplomats Samir Ahmed, center, of Egypt, and Sandor Kormos, of Hungary, about his third grade class in Silver Spring, Md. Kenneth explains how pupils make dolls and posters to dramatize stories read in the class. Kormos holds a copy of a Davy Crockett book. Diplomats from 12 embassies visited the school to see how U. S. children are taught.

Orders Parking Meters

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—City Purchasing Agent James E. Baker says Grand Rapids is purchasing 400 parking meters from firms in Ohio and Oklahoma at a cost of about $17,000. He said 200 of the new meters will be equipped to take pennies, nickels or dimes—a concession to motorists' change pockets.

Freezing Weather Hinders Montana Yule Tree Supply

EUREKA, Mont. (AP)—Montana's million-dollar Christmas tree industry is approaching a crisis due to the state's worse November cold wave in history.

The state produces about a seventh of the nation's Christmas trees.

The Weather Bureau said there was little indication of better weather conditions in the next five days. Temperatures have dropped to as low as 35 degrees below zero the past week.

Thousands of trees have been cut but they cannot be baled for shipment out of state due to the cold. They become so brittle that any pressure breaks the twigs off.

Officials said this could mean a shortage of trees for Americans this year.

10-Year Foreign Aid Totals $51 Billions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has provided more than 51 billion dollars in foreign aid in the last 10 years, a Commerce Department report shows.

Of this total, 40 billions was in the form of grants and the other 11 billions as loans to other nations. Some of this help went to Russia and other nations now in the Communist orbit. This was before the cold war set in.

Argentine Labor Strike Ceases

Peronista CGT Leaders Fail in Try to Discredit New Government

By ROMAN JIMENEZ

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentina's five-day-old government, apparently victorious in the first major challenge to its authority, announced last night Peronista labor leaders had called off their faltering general strike.

The announcement came after old-line Peronista leaders of the General Confederation of Labor (CGT), deposed by the government when they issued their strike call, had met with Labor Minister Raul Migone. The communique said the CGT leaders had "resolved unanimously to cease immediately" the three-day walkout.

CGT, mainstay of the toppled dictator Juan D. Peron, called the strike in an obvious attempt to discredit the provisional government headed by Maj. Gen. Pedro Aramburu while it was new and untried. The strike knocked out some key industries such as meat packing but "free laborers" in the transportation and communications industries defied the strike call.

Although technically the Peronista leaders of CGT were out of power by a government decree which outlawed the strike, the Aramburu regime apparently felt it would be better for the suspended officers themselves to call off the walkout which they had started.

While speaking softly, the government continued to wield a very big stick. After jailing some 300 strike leaders — most of whom now have been released — it was reported cracking down on nationalistic officers in the armed services and even on some of the clergy.

Perilous Span Splits Community of Lyons

LYONS (UP) — This little Ionia County village is a community divided against itself because of a 74-year old sagging bridge.

Two steel supports in the middle of the bridge which spans the Grand River gave way this week, closing the rickety old structure to all vehicular traffic.

Foot traffic is still allowed to use the bridge but those wishing to drive across the river must go 13 miles in one direction to Ionia or 12 miles in the opposite direction to find another bridge.

Most of the community is located east of the bridge but some homes, a school and a factory are on the west side of the river.

The problem of repair or replacement is complicated because none will admit ownership of the bridge. Its history is lost somewhere among a jumble of community, township, county and state records.

Naval Officers Find Body of Peron's Wife

BUENOS AIRES (INS) — The "mystery" of the whereabouts of the body of Eva Peron, the wife of ousted Argentine president Juan D. Peron, has been cleared up.

Navy officers found the casket in a second floor "secret" chamber of the troop-occupied General Confederation of Labor headquarters in Buenos Aires, and said the body which they could see through a glass top appeared to be in a perfect state of preservation.

There had been reports that the remains of the late wife of Peron had been removed from the headquartrs when he fell from power and fled into exile.

Eva Peron, a strong supporter of the pro-Peron labor organization whose leaders now are fighting President Pedtro Aramburu's provisional government, died on July 26, 1952, of cancer.

Her body was interred in the labor headquarters pending creation of a multi-million dollar mausoleum.

Kaiser Sales Surpass $124 Million for Year

TOLEDO, Ohio (UP) — Kaiser Motors Corp. and its subsidiaries said yesterday consolidated net sales for the first nine months of this year were $124,588,013. Included in the subsidiaries were Willys Motors Inc.

Kaiser Motors said consolidated profit amounted to $746,685. It also said additional consolidated profit, "attributable to various non-operating and special items of income, aggregated $2,846,589."

Two Pals Hit Hard in the Same Manner

DETROIT (UP) — Harry Ernstein was sitting in his Great Lakes Vending Machine Co. office in suburban Dearborn chatting with his friend, Harry Stemm., operator of the GHP Cigar Co., when the telephone rang.

It was police, telling Ernstein one of his trucks had been hijacked, its load of cigarettes and $700 cash taken.

Stemm offered his sympathies and was preparing to leave when he decided to call his office. There he got word that one of his trucks, carrying $2,000 worth of cigars, had been hijacked, too.

Ernstein's truck was grabbed while the driver was making a delivery; Stemm's while the driver was having lunch. Both were recovered, empty.

State Department Okays Goodwill Jazzmen's Tour

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep Powell (D-NY) says the State Department has agreed to let American jazz artists try wooing new friends for America with hot rhythms.

Powell told a news conference yesterday, "We are going to get our cultural exchange program out of the gilded concert and opera halls and try to appeal to the mass of the people."

The New Yorker said the State Department approved the new cultural exchange approach Wednesday and already has okayed tours by Dizzy Gillespie and Count Basie. Other jazz maestros are awaiting clearance for trips to the Middle East, Africa and Asia, he said.

Powell, a Negro, said the plan is to use mixed groups of Negro and white artists "as far as possible." He said the touring bands will specialize in "folk and modern jazz music and native and modern dance."

Partly influencing the switch in propaganda approach, Powell said, was the fact that the Voice of America is getting "a lot of fan mail from behind the Iron Curtain" as a result of broadcast of jazz recordings.

Church Trustee Sues Minister

Asks Court to Order Pastor to Account for Building Funds

Legal action is being taken by the trustee of a Pontiac church in an attempt to force the church's minister to give an accounting of money contributed by the congregation to a building fund.

Albert Branch, trustee of the Providence Missionary Baptist Church at Bagley and Diston Sts., is suing the Rev. T. Walter Harris.

The reverend's wife, Almeta, is also named as defendant in the suit filed in Oakland County Circuit Court.

Branch, who says he represents the church congregation, seeks a court order directing the minister to describe use of funds turned over to him by members since 1949.

"Thousands of dollars" have been donated to a building fund wthout church members receiving benefit from the money, Branch claims.

Six lots on which the church stands are in Rev. Harris' name, Branch alleges. He claims the minister borrowed money against the church property and is negotiating for sale of the church premises to a private buyer.

Branch asks a lien against two lots owned by Rev. Harris which would allow the congregation to sell them to pay off alleged debts incurred against it by the minister.

Also named as defendants are the River Rouge Savings Bank and the Detroit Mutual Assurance Co. Branch alleges they hold mortgages against the church property as result of loans obtained from them by Rev. Harris without authority from the congregation.

Branch asks the court to cancel the mortgages.

Judge George B. Hartrick issued a temporary order restraining Rev. Harris from taking any steps which would further encumber the church lands. The minister has been directed to appear in court Nov. 28 to show why the order should not be made permanent.

Reserve Board Raises Credit Curb

By FRANK O'BRIEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board has ended its recent pampering of the business boom with a double crackdown on resurgent credit expansion.

Effective today, the reserve board permitted six reserve banks to shove the discount rate — the interest cost at which they lend to their member comercial banks — up from 2¼ to 2½ per cent.

That is the most restrictive lending cost enforced by the board in 20 years, since the first half of 1935. Since then, until late this year, the reserve bank lending rate had never topped 2 per cent.

The new discount rate was authorized for the reserve banks at New York, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Chicago, Cleveland and San Francisco. A similar increase for the nation's six other reserve banks is expected on the basis of previous experience.

As a second step to curb credit, the reserve board disclosed that it returned this week to sales on the open market of federal securities owned by the reserve system. Funds used to buy these securities thus become unavailable for lending.

The two moves followed an ebullient upswing since the first of this month in business activity. The spurt created sudden new demands for credit on a large scale, and put a strain on production signalized in upward-moving commodity prices.

Upward movement of the discount rate is a favorite technique of the reserve system for hitting at possible inflationary developments.

All Local Boards on Their 'Honor' to Increase State Teachers' Wages

LANSING (AP)—The state's school chief today put local school boards on their honor to do right by their teachers with a $12,500,000 pay raise grant allowed by a recent special legislative session.

Dr. Clair L. Taylor, state superintendent of public instruction, sent a letter to all school board members and administrators to emphasize their responsibility in proper handling of the pay raise money.

The recent Legislature, Republican controlled, rejected Gov. Williams' proposal that excess school aid money be allocated to school districts if they would agree to give each teacher $200 more than their present contracts. The Legislature, holding this violated local control of education, provided the additional money in a form leaving school boards discretion in splitting up the additional funds.

Dr. Taylor advised the local boards that a "concerted effort" had been made in the Legislature to set a precedent taking away from school boards the right to fix salaries. This, he said, would have been the first time the state tried to interfere with local school affairs.

Dr. Taylor wrote local schoolmen that the Legislature had "reaffirmed its faith" in local control of education and he urged local administrators not to abuse this faith.

School boards should, he said, "forever dispel" any doubts that they are not responsible agencies able to handle their affairs without state interference.

Dr. Taylor said that legislators seemed agreed that current economic conditions indicated that teachers should be paid $200 a year more. He said the Legislature had provided two million dollars more than was required for Gov. Williams' proposal of $200 for each teacher so that non-teaching personnel could receive pay raises.

Dr. Taylor urged each district to call in all present teacher contracts and issue new ones covering their pay raises.

He asked each district to report by Feb. 1, how it is using the additional money and to give a final report by July 1.

Soviets Launch Trek Into India

Nehru Greets Bulganin, Khrushchev for 18-Day Goodwill Tour of Nation

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Russian Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev arrived in New Delhi today to begin an 18-day goodwill tour of India.

The two top Russian leaders were greeted by Prime Minister Nehru and other high Indian officials at New Delhi's military airport, where thousands of persons had been assembling since early morning.

The Indian capital was decorated lavishly for the welcome to the Russian, whose visit was set up five months ago when Nehru toured Russia as a guest of the Soviet government.

Appeals from Nehru for discipline among the crowds were given wide publicity. Nehru warned that disorders during the Soviet visit would be a blot on Indian honor.

Special trains brought thousands to the capital and veteran residents predicted the welcome would rival any here since Britain's late King George V held a royal durbar — a reception of Indian princes — in 1911.

A government spokesman said there was no "declared holiday," but there "will be nobody working today."

All government offices were closed and many private businessmen shut their shops to permit their employes to join in the celebration.

The tour of the Soviet leaders is certain to have significant political effect on this country and observers were agreed that it would be the Western Powers whose position here would suffer.

Michigan Liquor Sales Increase 1.5 Per Cent

LANSING (AP) — Liquor sales in Michigan are 1.5 per cent higher so far this year than last, with a bumper holiday season in prospect.

The State Liquor Control Commission said 123 million dollars worth of liquor have been sold so far this year compared to 121 million dollars worth at the same time last year.

Sales in October were $13,355,931, compared to $11,969,905 in the comparable month of 1954.

Three Boys Confess to 20 Burglaries

DETROIT (AP) — Three boys—one of them a slim 13-year-old who slithered through milk chutes of homes—have admitted 20 burglaries in suburban Detroit during the past month.

Berkley police said the smallest youngster would ease through the chute of unlighted homes, open the door and his pals would ransack the place.

Officers said the trio took $1,500 in cash, jewelry and radios from homes in Berkley and surrounding areas. Police said the boys apparently did it for "thrills."

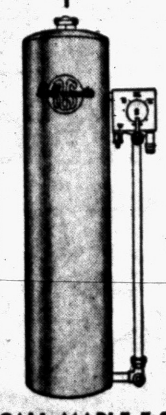

The three were released to their parents for later appearance before juvenile authorities.

Bob Considine Says:

Dems Set Up Nixon as Their 1956 Target

CHICAGO (INS) — Early signs suggest that the No. 1 whipping boy of the Democrats next year will be Vice President Richard Nixon.

Continued peace and prosperity will be, massive obstacles in the path of a party determined to regain the White House. The other targets must be found, influence peddling in high place, officials who didn't get all the way out of their businesses . . . but there's always Nixon. Few Dems will rap Ike, but It'll be open season on Nixon.

Not all the Democratic chieftains agree with this strategy. A consistently picked-on man sometimes generates tremendous sympathy and support.

Col. Jack Arvey, the man who did so much to bring Stevenson to the fore in the party, felt that if the 1952 elections had been held the day after Nixon made his historic appearance on television to explain his finances the GOP would have won by an even greater margin than it did.

"Every woman in the country would have voted for him," the colonel grumbled at the time.

STEVENSON HINTS

In his cultivated duel with the press the other day, Adlai Stevenson seemed to be saying, in connection with the importance that he placed on the role of the vice president, that the GOP was remiss in choosing Nixon. Paul Butler used no such kid gloves.

"Any candidate we have would be a better candidate than Nixon," Butler said. He went on to say that Nixon called the Democratic Party the party of treason and that if the Eisenhower-Nixon team runs again the question of the President's health will be a major issue of the campaign because of Nixon's presence.

But Butler seems sure that Eisenhower will not run. At least he seems surer than Stevenson, who may have set the tone for Democratic treatment of Eisenhower through the next year. Nobody here seems to have anything against Ike.

Speaking of Sen. Lyndon Johnson's heart attack, Stevenson volunteered earnestly to "hope and pray" that useful activities of all who have suffered heart attacks are not limited, and "most specifically" he included the President.

He hadn't expected the President to run again, he added, but from the tone of reports many people believe he will, an' Steveepson went on to imply that he could believe it himself.

Butler, who talks much tougher, said that when he first predicted months ago that Ike would not run again he based his opinion on Mrs. Eisenhower's health. Now he bases it on the President's.

HEALTH CONSCIOUS

Never have political writers been so health conscious. Of all the millions of questions hurled at the candidates in '52 it is extremely doubtful if anybody asked about the pulse, blood pressure, cardiograph and other readings on the contestants.

Looking back, this was remarkable when one considers that Truman was in the White House at the time chiefly because his illustrious predecessor had worn out and died on the punishing job.

It thus seemed natural when someone asked Stevenson about his own health at his news conference. The 55-year-old tennis-playing former governor of Illinois said that he had just emerged from his "semiannual ordeal" and the doctors had found him in "better than normal condition."

Stevenson has the finest, quickest command of good English of any politician in my experience. Astonishingly, it could hurt him here and there in the country. But it shore makes purty listenin'.

I am not one of those who believes that you can characterize a philosophy on public issues by slogans. I have never been sure what progressive conservatism means, or was it conservative progressivism? I have forgotten what dynamic moderation or moderate dynamism means.

I am not even sure what it means when one says that he is a conservative in fiscal affairs and a liberal in human affairs. I assume what it means is that you will strongly recommend the building of a great many schools to accommodate the needs of our children, but not provide the money.

Nine Flee $60,000 Blaze in Tuscola County Motel

CARO (AP) — Fire destroyed the Sunset Motel on M81 near this Tuscola County community Wednesday.

Nine persons who occupied six of the eight units fled the blaze that spread from the furnace room. Strong winds fanned the blaze.

Mrs. Chester Sokol, who with her husband owns the motel, estimated the damage at between $50,000 and $60,000. Sokol was away deer hunting.

Ferry Site Revived

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. (AP) — The site of the ferry landing once used daily by George Washington to go to school in Fredericksburg has been donated to a foundation planning to revive the ferry service.

Wipe Your Wheels!

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Trucks will please wipe their wheels before driving into Charlottesville. City Council took this view after recent rains when trucks from outlying construction jobs painted the pavements with red Albemarle County mud. Council also told the city attorney to draft an ordinance to make the request enforceable.

X-Way Drivers Beware!

DETROIT (AP) — Police patroling Detroit's expressways in unmarked cars issued 85 tickets in their first 15 hours aboard the super highways. Nine tickets were for exceeding the 55 mile an hour speed limit; the rest for assorted violations. The patrol in unmarked cars began Tuesday.

Kiddies, Santa Will Talk to You by Telephone

WEST LEBANON, N. H. (AP)—The "Telephone Santa" is in trouble, kiddies, and he needs your help.

"Santa" is a jolly gentleman named Joseph Schambier, 38, who the last six years has talked via telephone at Christmas time to youngsters all over North America.

Each day of Christmas week from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. in past years children could call the "North Pole" and to the accompaniment of a music box, the tinkle of reindeer bells, and the peal of a 100-year-old bell, Santa would listen to their pleas for presents.

Last year the Associated Press carried a story telling of Schambier's Christmas program. Once the story appeared in print Schambier got so many calls he couldn't keep up with them all.

75,000 TRIED

Seventy-five thousand youngsters attempted to phone him, but only 25,000 succeeded.

The onrush of calls tied up service nightly in parts of New Hampshire and Maine. The New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. assigned additional operators and installed a bigger switchboard at the control point in nearby White River Junction, Vt., but busy signals still greeted two out of every three callers.

Schambier, a 5-foot-6, 125 pound Veterans Administration clerk, wants to talk to every boy and girl this year. Here's what he's going to do:

OPEN WORKSHOP

He's going to open his "workshop" Dec. 9, and the local VFW post and neighbors are going to assist him in compiling a list of the boys and girls who "wanna talk to Santa."

Here's what he wants you kiddies to do:

Drop him a postal card. Address it to Joseph "Santa" Schambier, 32 Maple St., West Lebanon, N. H.

* * *

On the card write your name, address and telephone number. Tell him the day or night and the time you want him to call you and tell him it's okay to reverse the charges. Do it now so "Santa" will receive your card in plenty of time.

SANTA PLACES CALL

This year, instead of thousands of calls pouring into West Lebanon, many at the same time, "Santa" himself will place the the calls.

The telephone company would like to help out, but there just aren't enough lines up at the "North Pole."

There's only one more thing "Santa" wants you kids to remember. Tell mommy not to use the phone at the time you've put down for "Santa" to call. You know how women are once they get on the phone and "Santa" would hate to get a busy signal when he tries to reach you.

New Jap Party Seeks Stability

Liberal-Democrat Union Will Attempt to Rebuild Shattered Trade

By JAMES CARY

TOKYO (AP) — The formation of Japan's first united conservative party may be the first big step in the island empire's quest for economic stability.

The merger this week of the Democrats and Liberals into the Liberal-Democrat party makes possible a solid majority government with the continuity of policy and planning needed to rebuild Japan's shattered trade fortunes.

Trade is the only means by which an industrious land of too many people and too few resources can earn the purchasing power to buy necessities abroad.

The gap between what Japan must buy and what it can pay for is still great — between 300 and 400 million dollars a year, a deficit covered by purchases of U.S. service forces stationed here.

Industrialists, businessmen and government leaders know thatthe U. S. forces will not always be here and the day is in sight when Japan must carry the full load.

Industrialists and businessmen have been among the most active backers of the conservative merger, achieved after seven months of struggle.

Policemen in Detroit Play Stork-Twice

DETROIT (AP) — Mrs. Gilda Cirelle, 27, was expecting, but not for 10 days or so.

Yesterday she awoke and shouted to her husband John to call the doctor. The doctor was in surgery at the hospital so he called his mother. She called police. The fire department and an ambulance also came screaming. Neighbor dropped in to see what all the excitement was about.

Patrolmen Walter Nalley and James Mahar delivered a 5-pound, 7-ounce baby girl. With justifiable pride, they started to leave. But Mrs. Cirelle tugged at Nalley's sleeve and told him: "Excuse me, but I think . . . "

Nalley went back to work, delivered a twin sister of identical size. With that, calm returned to the Cirelles East Side neighborhood.

Kennedy's Wife Ailing

Students' Thoughts Stray to Turkey Feasts, Holiday Time

Junior Highs Plan Thanksgiving Pageant, Play, Dances

Next Thursday is Thanksgiving, and students everywhere are looking forward to the festive four-day holiday — they'll be off school Thursday until the following Monday.

But though their thoughts often turned to fun and feasting, students in Junior High schools here were caught up in a swirl of activity. Thanksgiving programs, a successful magazine campaign, dances, and plans for a play kept the scholars going "on the double."

AT LINCOLN

At Lincoln Junior High, two morning assemblies Wednesday will give all students a chance to see "Thanksgiving Around the World," sponsored by Mildred Wiersema and her 9th grade speech classes.

The assemblies depict seven episodes, showing the development of thanksgiving from the time of the early Greeks, 3,000 years ago, to modern day observances. The students did their own script-writing, costuming, planning and staging for the pageant.

Robert Rickard's sixth hour speech class also has a part in the Pilgrim tableau, where Gov. William Bradford declared the first American Thanksgiving at Plymouth in 1621.

Lincoln's Drum Corps, headed by drum-major Delmar Benson, led the massed bands of Lincoln, Eastern and Washington Junior High Schools onto the field at Wisner Stadium Friday, when they played at half time at the Pontiac High-Flint Northern game. Lincoln's solo maneuver was "To the Winds," and the band also played the Flint Northern school song in honor of the visiting team.

AT EASTERN

Eastern Junior High students are planning to turn out for the first fall dance, to be held from 7 to 9 tonight. The dances, chaperoned by parents, will continue every other Friday through the school year. Homeroom 100 reports its dance and talent show, held Wednesday afternoon, was a successful affair.

Yesterday, achievement certificates and awards were presented to members of Eastern's football squad at a banquet in the school cafeteria.

The magazine campaign topped all expectations, with a total of $8,465 in subscriptions. Winning Homeroom 100 will have lunch at Devon Gables and attend the movie "The Tall Men." Rooms 304 and 212 who placed second and third will join them at the movie.

Top salespeople were Kay Slater, James Benfield and Cathy Stickney (high 7B) who won portable radios; second were Melvin Thornton and Cathy Stickney, who received camera outfits; and third place winners of table radios were Jeannette Ohanesian and Fred Mayers.

AT WEVER

Wever Junior High students proclaimed the first teenage dance session, held from 7-9 last night, a pleasant affair. Future events may include some square dancing, students were told.

Wednesday parents followed their children's class schedules at an Open House meeting.

Students and teachers are busy preparing Wever's float for the Pontiac Christmas Parade. Hansel and Gretel and their gingerbread house will be the theme of the float which students hope will outshine all the rest.

FIRST THANKSGIVING — A tableau in the "Thanksgiving Around the World" pageant, to be presented in two morning assemblies Wednesday at Lincoln Junior High School, is this Pilgrim scene of the first Thanksgiving in America in 1621. Students in the scene are (l-r) Douglas Newberry, Lloyd Albertson and Janet Biscovich, all members of Robert Rickard's sixth hour speech class. The overall program is under the direction of Mildred Wiersema, speech and English instructor, with Gary MacDowell and Ronald Contor as student directors.

"OUR TOWN" IN THE MAKING — Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" is a play packed with humor, plus an insight into the human heart that often brings a lump to the throat. Pontiac High speech students will present it at 8 p. m. on Dec. 1 and 2. Above, rehearsing a scene, are (seated) the two juvenile leads Dick Ramsdell and Barbara Kenney, who will portray George Gibbs and Emily Webb in this play within a play. Standing at the right is Bob Crandall, who is cast in the leading part of the "stagemanager." Pontiac Press Photos

PHS Prepares to Stage 'Our Town'

By VICKY MICU

The day draws closer for the opening of Pontiac High School's second play, "Our Town," and casts and committees are hard at work to prepare for its presentation Dec. 1 and 2.

Turkey time and the Thanksgiving holiday, too, are upmost in the minds of PHS students this week, as all look forward to the beginning of the long holidays. Students will be dismissed next Wednesday and return the following Monday.

Overshadowing other club activities this week was the sweeping victory the PHS debaters scored in the second Saginaw Valley Debate Tournament held at PHS Tuesday.

Pontiac won 10 of their 12 debates, adding to their seven wins at the first tournament Nov. 8. The overwhelming win enabled the debaters to take first place in the Valley standings.

PICTURES TAKEN

Shutters were heard clicking this week as senior pictures were finished up and group pictures for the Quiver were also taken.

The Radio Workshoppers will present "The Thanksgiving Story" Wednesday on "It's Story Time" series. Monday on the science series, "More Wonderful Than Magic," the Workshoppers will give the specially written script "Peter Follows the Earth's Travels."

Sidelights of the news this week: Total amount collected by Pontiac High School for the United Fund was $986.74. December 18 will be the date for the annual Christmas Concert presented by the Vocal Dept. Besides the high school vocal students, the MacDowell Male Chorus, and the Pontiac Women's Chorus will take part.

ATHLETES PRACTICE

Swimming, basketball, girls' basketball, and fencing practice have been going on all week, preparing for the opening of the season's competition for all teams.

Girs' met for the first time Monday to organize teams for a basketball league, while swimmers have been practicing all week. The basketball squad preparing for the first game Dec. 2 with Detroit Catholic Central at Detroit.

The fencers met again this week, continuing challenge bouts. At the present, Marica Thomas, Barbara Hagerman, and Dick Beyer hold the top three positions.

Future nurses are arranging last minute plans for a tour of the University of Michigan Hospital Nov. 30 and the annual Mothers' Tea Nov. 23. Besides the usual committees to handle teas and activities, the Future Nurses will also have a babysitting committee and a tag committee.

Assembly Held at Washington Gets Applause

Washington Junior High's seventh graders put on an assembly today that rated plenty of applause from the student body. Piano and vocal numbers, a skit and a tap dance were included in the program. Next Wednesday, the Girls Glee Club will hold its assembly program.

Saturday the Varsity Club traveled to Ann Arbor to see the UM-Indiana game. Forty students and 11 faculty members made the trip.

A Bermuda Party, complete with program and refreshments, was given by Virginia Yanson's Girls Service Club, to welcome the new 7th grade members.

"While the Toast Burned" is the name of the one-act comedy that drama club members are planning to stage after Christmas. Idella Webb is directing the production. Actors will be Mike Godwin, Sandra Ferguson, Warren Norlund, Diane Garrett and Lynn Anderson.

Student Council officers are working hard to draft revisions for the clause in the council's constitution that deals with the election of officers.

Reports Are Out at St. Fred High

By ANN SCHACHERN

Some students at St. Frederick High School breathed a sigh of relief and others resolved to do a better job from now on when they saw their first quarter report cards Monday. On the honor roll are 12 seniors, 14 juniors, 9 sophomores and 10 freshmen.

The 10 seniors attending the Catholic Theater Conference at Marygrove College Saturday analyzed and discussed three 1-act plays, and attended clinics in makeup, stage direction, lighting and stage management. They say they are now ready to tackle almost any problem which may come up while staging their senior play.

Varsity Club members are working fast and furiously to ready things for their "Varsity Ball" which will be held next Friday night. Dick Doyon and Jim Duren are general chairmen for the affair.

Decoration chairman, David Jones, is busily collecting football helmets, basketballs, baseballs, bats, hockey sticks, golf clubs and various other sports equipment which will fill the hall carrying out the varsity theme.

Seniors were measured for their caps and gowns Monday. They first wear this traditional garb on Dec. 8 in honor of Mary, the Blessed Mother.

Waterford High Juniors to Hold Dance Tonight

By JEAN LIMATTA

With preparations completed, Waterford Township High School juniors will hold their first dance of the year tonight from 8 to 11 o'clock. "Moonlight in November" will feature Jim O'Grady's Band from Milford playing for the first time at Waterford.

"Candy for Sale," the cry of the senior trip club members during their week's candy campaign, was last heard Wednesday when the sale ended. Several members sold as high as 85 pounds of the mints, peanut crunch, and cocoanut crunch.

More than 200 GAA members attended the first meeting of basketball season Tuesday afternoon.

Ten thousand envelopes were addressed for the national infantile paralysis drive by Lulah McCully's and Moureen Samuel's typing classes. It took the classes about ten days to complete the list.

Thursday evening seniors wishing to learn how to dance attended the first session of the newly formed dance class. David Klinke instructs the class with the help of several assistants. A senior dance class was first formed by the class of '55.

Chief Howling Mad

LAS CRUCES, N. M. (AP) — Chief of Police Santos Armires was enjoying his vacation — until someone stole all four of the hubcaps off his personal car.

MARCIA THOMAS

Marcia Thomas, recently chosen as Pontiac High School's "Good Citizen" by the General Richardson Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, is active in many school affairs. She is a member of the Y-Teens, Future Nurses, Laboratory Assistants, Fencing Club, Playcrafters, Basketball Team, Quill and Scroll, and is on the staff of the school paper, the Tomahawk. She was chosen Good Citizen for qualities of dependability, loyalty, punctuality, leadership, responsibility and service to the community. Marcia will attend the meeting of the General Richardson DAR in February, and also will be entertained at the state conference in Detroit, where a state Good Citizen will be chosen.

Michaelite Staff Gets Out News

By JANET ENGLISH

St. Michael's school doors were opened to parents Tuesday and Wednesday nights for the first general PTA meetings of this semester. In every room, work of students was on display.

Along with report cards was the announcement that 7 seniors, 4 juniors, 19 sophomores and 9 freshmen had earned a place on the honor roll.

Members Michaelite staff were kept on their toes th isweek as they worked to complete the quarterly publication. Students received the paper Thursday and agreed wholeheartedly that everyone on the staff deserves recognition for a fine job.

The "Drumstick Drag," which is to be held Wednesday from 9 to 12 in the hall, is the project that is engaging the time and efforts of the juniors.

The monthly meeting of junior and senior members of the Children of Mary took place Wednesday under the authorization of the newly elected officers. Prefect Mary Heitjan assisted by vice prefects Alice Adams and Loretta Lauinger conducted a successful meeting stressing the importance of missionary activities.

At the same time Larry Maison, Chuck Brown, and Mike Lyons took over their responsibilities of president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively, of the Junior Holy Name Society.

Honor Students

St. Frederick honor students, this week, are:

Seniors: John Keller, Marcia Kramer, Janice Myers; Elizabeth Taylor, James Brucker, Janet English, Gerard Steinhelper. Juniors: Loretta Lauinger, Patricia Martin, Sharon Moore, Gary Sabourin. Sophomores: Ronald Andrews, Michael Bialiac, George Budwith, Larry DeMilner, William Fitzgerald, Rose Marie Flanigan, Helen Franzel, Frances Goulet, Patricia Harbert, Kathleen Heitjan, Jacqueline Hoover, Mary Ann Johnson, Elizabeth Klinck, Robert Mineweaser, Phyllis Raymond, Constance Rhindorf, Joseph Tatham, Diane Treinen, James Wyzgoski. Freshmen: Dominic Ginnell, Jane Rindfuss, Judy Merithew, Carolyn Sharrow, Michael Moultrup, Mary Louise Taylor, Roberta Schumacher, Dolores Ardeman, Joan Gibb.

Student Bags Pheasant

A pheasant feather displayed in Homeroom 206 at Eastern Junior High School was put there by Jimmy Dennis—evidence of his good luck when he was excused from classes to go bird hunting.

Area Students Caught in Rush of Events

High school students in communities adjacent to Pontiac continued a rush of activities, trying to get in as much as possible before the Thanksgiving holidays next week. In most schools, classes will recess Wednesday afternoon until the following Monday morning, as they are doing in Pontiac.

BIG DOINGS

Walled Lake High was set for big doings tonight, with the traditional student-faculty basketball tilt and following that, a dance sponsored by the Student Council.

Last Saturday, 190 students attended the J-hop. Barbara Gilbert was crowned queen of the affair, and Joann Giroux and Zoe Hess made up her court.

Book was emphasized in the school this week, with librarian Mabre Kreuger giving talks on new books.

PLAY COMING UP

West Bloomfield High School seniors will reveal the "horrifying and enlightening facts behind the death of the world's most powerful business tycoon" Tuesday and Wednesday nights when they stage "The Night of Jan. 16." Furthermore, six people from the audience will be picked to take their part in the play as jury, when the glamorous secretary is tried. Seniors are selling tickets fast.

Typing students cited for accomplishment this week were Jane Adams and Doris Manuel, both second year typists.

The annual Variety Show is in its second day today at Birmingham High School. Theme is the European trip of three high school teachers, with acts pointing up life in France, Italy, Spain, Germany and Switzerland. Proceeds will help seniors pay for their class expenses.

CHEERLEADERS PICKED

At Avondale High School, new reserve cheerleaders have been chosen. A sophomore, Joan Bourdo, is the captain, with Nelda Hyten, Zadell Hysmith, Carol Atwood, Pat Parker, Janet Wisehart, Barbara Parker and Joan Ward completing the squad.

Avondale girls also turned out better than 30 strong for girls' basketball. The team will play an eight-game schedule this winter.

11 Council Members Elected at Eastern

New student council members, including the first pair of twins ever elected, have been chosen to represent 7B homerooms at Eastern Junior High School.

Terry and Tommy Brown are the twins, and others elected are Carolyn Beaver, Harriet Zimmer, Diana Butler, Betty Legare, Sharon Drew, Charles Wiegert, Lowell Eaves and Brenda Mosley.

Swim and Swing Night Open to Teenagers

All teenagers in Pontiac and surrounding communities are invited to turn out for a "Swim and Swing" session tonight at the Pontiac YMCA.

The record hop will include guest artisits, with Don Zee spinning the discs. Dancing will be from 9 p.m. to midnight, and those who bring bathing suits can take time out from 9:30 to 10:30 for an hour's coed swimming.

SAGINAW (AP)—The 1956 Legislature will be asked to create a bean commission similar to those now operated by the state's apple and cherry industries.

The commission would be empowered to collect assessments from growers and shippers for promotion and bean research.

Plans for the commission were drawn up by committees from the Michigan Bean Shippers Assn. and Michigan Bean Producers Assn. yesterday.

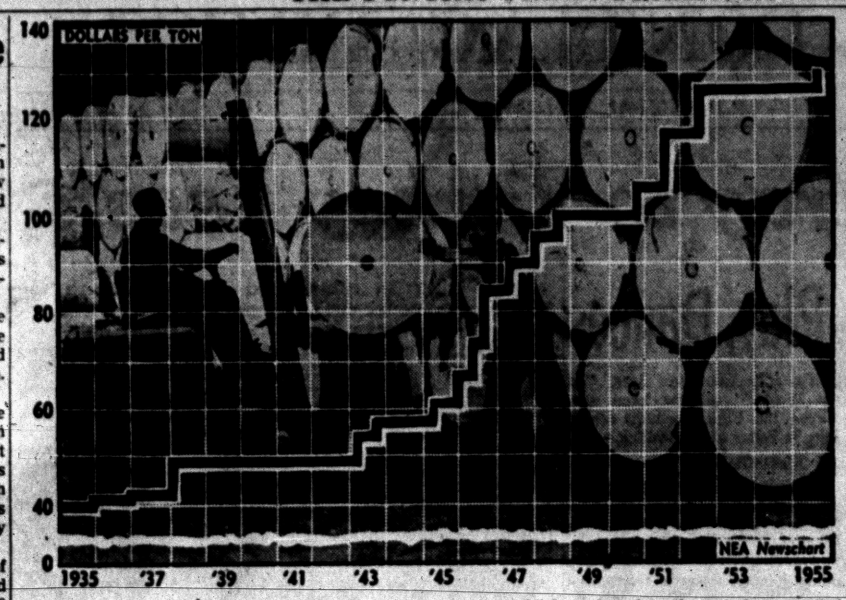

A 14-member commission will be proposed and would include seven growers and seven shippers. It would be empowered to assess each grower 1¼ cents for each hundredweight of beans he turns over to processors. A similar levy would be laid against shippers.

Maurice A. Doan, secretary of the shippers association, estimated the assessments would give $75,000 to $90,000 a year for promotion and research in development of a better strain of beans.

Michigan is one of the nation's leading bean producing states.

Snakes Hide Age

DENVER — The number of rattles on a rattlesnake's tail is not a reliable indicator of age. A new rattle is formed each time the snake sheds its skin — from one to three times a year, depending on the amount of food it eats. Sometimes rattles are broken off between sheddings.

HOW PAPER COSTS HAVE GONE UP — The cost of Canadian newsprint paper, used by most U. S. publishers, went up $5 a ton Nov. 1, bringing the cost to $131 a ton. That's delivered at New York. Publishers in other than eastern seaport cities will pay $132 a ton. The hike adds something over 30 million dollars a year to the cost of newspaper publishing.

Water, Water All Around —All Because of Cows

GREENVILLE, W. Va. (AP) — Connie Baker of Greenville was one of many Monroe County farmers forced to haul water because of drought.

He put 2,000 gallons in his cistern and went to bed. Next morning, there was only a gurgle. His cattle had turned the faucet at the barn accidentally and all 2,000 gallons were gone.

Women Prefer Radio

OSLO—A poll conducted by the Norwegian Broadcasting Corporation indicates Norwegian women are greater radio fans than men, manual laborers listen more than white-collar workers, and programs between 7 and 10 p. m. have the largest following. Some 8,000 persons over age 16 were polled; each answered 67 questions.

Moose Comes to Town

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — A moose has been added to Sault Ste. Marie's long list of visitors. Deer and bear frequently stroll into town from surrounding woods.

Stevenson Says GOP Likes Welded Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adlai Stevenson says the Eisenhower administration should be turned out because it has "joined together too much power in one place for the good of the country."

In an interview in the New Republic magazine, he is quoted as saying the administration is a "coalescence of government, of business, of money and of the press."

And he declares Democrats are distinguished from Republicans by their "compassion for people."

Stevenson's comments were in an interview with New Republic Editor Michael Straight, published in this week's edition of the magazine. The interview was conducted before Stevenson's formal announcement yesterday that he will seek the Democratic presidential nomination. But in it he gives an indication of why he entered the race a year ahead of time, in contrast with his apparent reluctance to bid for the nomination in 1952.

He was then governor of Illinois, nominated for a second term, Stevenson said. And he "loved" the job.

Stevenson said he found himself in a "perplexing dilemma" and added:

"If I had said then, 'Folks I'm your candidate for governor, and I'd also like to be considered for President,' why that would have been intolerable! I wouldn't have deserved either candidacy.

"Now, I have been absorbed by national or international issues for three solid years."

4 Persons Die in Blaze

HULL, Que. (INS) — Four persons, including a father and daughter, died today in a fire which destroyed an apartment house in Hull in freezing weather.

Literal Youngster Can Cause Headache

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. John Fredericks has given up talking over Sunday School lessons with her daughter. The little girl came home and said, "The teacher told us that before people are born they are dust and that they return to dust when they die. Is that true, Mommy?"

Mrs. Fredericks replied that if it was taught at Sunday School it was true. Why do you ask, honey?"

"Well," the youngster drawled. "I just looked under my bed and someone is either coming or going."

Wisconsin Road Leads Nowhere but Very Costly

ELKHART LAKE, Wis. (INS)—Sports car racing fans will like a new road that goes nowhere in Wisconsin.

It is the first major race course in the country designed specifically for the fast-growing sport of road racing.

Instead of the conventional oval, the million-dollar "Road America" is a scientifically designed layout which affords calculated curves, fast straightaways, tricky grades and descents.

The four-mile blacktop surface, located about two miles southeast of Elkhart Lake, follows the rugged hills and wooded tracts of the area.

J. K. Johnson, an official of Elkhart Lake Road America, Inc., said the new course is designed to provide clockwise or counter-clockwise racing in competition.

Firemen Visit Silo

YORK, Pa. (AP) — Firefighters from nearby Springetts answered a call to extinguish a chimney blaze. On their return to the fire house, they stopped off at an abandoned silo to extinguish another fire. There was no damage at either place.

Half of Revoked License Holders Still Motoring

DETROIT (AP)—Half of all motorists in the state whose drivers' licenses are revoked or suspended continue to drive, says the Automobile Club of Michigan. It made a study in 40 Michigan cities and a number of rural areas.

Club General Manager E. S. Matheson says the problem "is one of apprehension and punishment." He said "stiffer penalties would help." The current maximum sentence for the misdemeanor is 90 days in jail or a $100 fine, or both.

Jap Women Organize

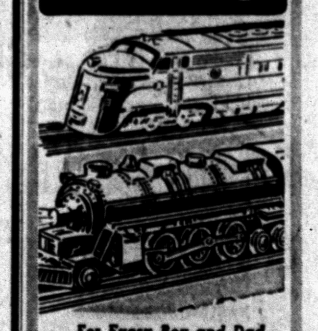

TOKYO — Japan now has about 20,000,000 married women. They have the same legal rights as their husbands and are exerting a big influence on the country's social and political problems. There are some 30,000 women's organizations, with a total membership of 10,000,000.

United States and Canadian troops soon will undergo training in Australia's jungle training center at Canungra, in Queensland, Canberra indicated.

Uncertainty Follows Return of Moor Sultan

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef's triumphant return to the throne in Morocco is full of uncertainties not only for France but also the United States.

If Moroccan socereignty ever is established, the sultan, to the dismay of France, might insist on renegotiation on U. S. retention of vital air bases. The French originally conceded those bases.

The 45-year-old Sultan, third son of the late Sultan Moulay Youssef, ascended the throne of the Sherifian Empire in the French protectorate as a boy of 17.

To the French he seemed more pliable than his elder brothers. He was encouraged to enjoy all the Oriental trappings of a harem (he still has a whole planeload of concubines with him in exile or in power), horse racing, tennis and a garage filled with 52 shiny automobiles.

BECAME STUBBORN

But the Sultan proved to be unpredictable after the French collapse in World War II and even stubborn—to French official thinking—after the war.

He became a mixture of orthodoxy and modern trappings. While not abandoning his concubines, he accepted Western forms of education. He allowed his daughters to go unveiled and short-skirted in public despite Moslem traditionalism.

They preached feminine emancipation. His eldest son, Prince Moulay Hassan, raced around in a sports car, studied French law and pressed his nationalist enthusiasms on the father.

The French, meanwhile, did all the "paper work," the drafting of decrees in ruling Morocco. They were backed by Berber chiefs such as El Glaui, Pasha of Marrakesh, who enjoyed rich favors from the French and whose mountain tribes traditionally disliked the Arab city dwellers.

The Sultan could not do much—except to speak out in favor of Nationalism and to refuse to give the royal seal on French decrees. He did both and the French, backed by Berbers and French settlers, kicked out the Sultan. He was routed out of his palace in his pajamas Aug. 20, 1953.

But the Istiqlal Party and other Nationalists made him a martyr. Moroccans unleashed a wave of terror which killed or wounded thousands. The gunplay and assassination still is going on, engineered by natives who insist on complete independence from France.

French rulers who finally restored Ben Youssef to the throne grudgingly have acknowledged the concept of eventual Moroccan sovereignty but have attached the phrase "within a frame-work of inter-dependence" with France.

This will not satisfy the extremist wing of the Istiqlal group. Its exiled leader, Allal El Fassi, now in Madrid, says: "We will form our opinion of inter-dependence when the word has been given meaning."

Which may mean that more violence is in store for Morocco—unless the Sultan can knit all the warring elements in the rich but explosive land.

Moonshiner Reports 'Sneaky Pete' Theft

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—"I'd like to report that someone broke into my residence and stole three gallons of moonshine whisky," the male voice informed the sheriff office's radio operator on the telephone.

The operator tried twice to get the caller's name and then said:

"Well, listen to me then. Don't you know it's against the law even to have moonshine whisky in your possession? You could go directly to jail if we knew who you were."

"Well, now," the man replied, "if that's the case, I'd just as soon forget about the whole thing." He hung up.

22 Operations, 37 Years Later Bring New Life

SUNSET, Utah (AP) — After 37 years and 22 operations, Joseph L. Wells knows what his wife and eight children look like.

And, he adds, "I never realized before that fire hydrants are red."

Wells was born with a cleft palate and hairlip, and a visual defect which grew worse as he grew older. It threatened to result in total blindness.

But today he has normal vision, with the aid of mild corrective lenses. His eyesight was restored by two corneal transplant operations. The first was performed at Stanford Hospital at Palo Alto, Calif. three years ago. The second was done last April.

In addition to the eye operations, he has had 20 operations to correct the defects in his mouth and nose. Some of them were the result of assistance from the Vocational Rehabilitation Division of the Utah State Department of Public Instruction.

Before getting his present job at the Naval Supply Depot, Wells had to work at manual labor, although he held a degree from Brigham Young University. Now he is looking forward to a job more in line with his university training.

Smug Citizens a Problem

PORTLAND, Ore. (INS)—Smugness and complacency are the leading problems in many American towns, according to Harry J. Krusz, Assistant General Manager of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. People in those towns like things as they are and don't want to change, Krusz said, despite the fact changes would be for the better.

Aussie Savings Climb

CANBERRA — Deposits in Australian savings banks exceeded the equivalent of $2,430,000,000 July 31, an increase of 6 per cent in a year. There is now an average of more than $265 per capita in the nation's savings banks.

A Tint Does the Job

Color brings light into a room. The ceiling is usually made lightest in color so that it will reflect light. White, tinted with a little of thet wall color, ties the ceiling to the color scheme. White alone may make the contrast too strong, say Michigan State University specialists.

Keep 'Em Inside

Don't store water-thinned paints outdoors where they might be subject to freezing. If the liquid does freeze, it may not be much good as a paint.

Three Chemical Firms Set Montague Area Humming

MONTAGUE (AP)—The Montague area, once noted only as a resort territory, now enjoys a year-around hum of industrial activity generated by three of the nation's largest chemical corporations.

Pacing the new industrial upswing are Hooker Electrochemical Co., E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co., and Linde Air Products Division of Union Carbide & Carbon Corp.

They have settled a multi-million dollar expansion program just west of Montague near the shores of White Lake and Lake Michigan.

The boundless salt deposits of the area attracted the firms which use the material as a basic element in their manufacturing processes. Hooker has been in production since spring of 1954.

Its main plant is valued in excess of $12,000,000 and the firm is continuing further construction work.

Dupont is constructing a $15,000,000 plant and the Union Carbide operation is busy on a new $3,000,000 installation. All three ultimately will dovetail operations in the production of neoprene, a Dupont synthetic rubber.

PIPELINE SUPPLY

Pipelines will supply the Dupont plant with acetylene gas from Union Carbide & Carbon and anhydrous hydrogen chloride gas from the Hooker firm. The Dupont Company plans to produce 50,000,000 pounds of neoprene a year. It expects its plant to be in production late in 1956.

A force of 500 construction workers already has boosted the economical outlook of the Montague and White River Townships. Of this number, about 80 are busy on new home construction to meet the needs of greater employment in the area when the three plants reach full production.

Dupont expects to employ about 500 workers. The Hooker firm already employs 125 persons.

C. S. Anderson, field project engineer for Dupont, says the area has welcomed the new activity.

"We have been well received by the community. The people seem glad to see us and are helping us," he reports.

One of the few major problems facing the construction workers recently was dissolved by modification of a Montague zoning ordinance. The new ordinance allows construction workers, who are housed in trailers, to continue residence in their mobile homes as long as they are required at the job.

7 Rail Workers Killed in Crash

Truck Rams Into Train at Unmarked Crossing Near Monroe

MONROE, Mich. (AP)—Seven and possibly eight New York Central Railroad section hands were killed today when a truck carrying them to work was struck by a New York Central passenger train at a crossing in northern Monroe County.

Three other workers, including the driver, were injured.

Sheriff's deputies said the truck, a panel-type vehicle, was smashed to bits and strewn along the tracks for 100 yards.

Bodies were badly mutilated, making identification difficult.

The seven dead were identified tentatively as Royal Green, Herbert Churchill, Carl Woolfield, Earl Sweet, Robert Cline, Eugene Doty and Joe Ellison. The eighth person believed dead was a new employe and could not be immediately identified.

Ages and home towns of the victims were not immediately available.

Injured in the crash were J. C. Martin, the truck driver, Clayton Bryant and Tom Leope. The three apparently were riding in the cab of the truck and the dead were seated on benches in the rear end.

Martin, who was taken to Mercy Hospital in Monroe with the other injured workers, told sheriff's men "I don't know what happened." He said he didn't realize the train was approaching.

Fred Foshag of Toledo, engineer of the Indianapolis to Detroit train, said he did not see the truck until it was on the tracks.

Was His Face—Red?

OMAHA (AP)—The amplifying system somehow got crossed with a radio beam during Sunday morning worship at the Wheeler Presbyterian Church. As a result the strains of "The Yellow Rose of Texas" boomed out over the loudspeaker right in the middle of the service.

Historical Sites Get Applications for Registration

LANSING (AP)—The State Historical Commission today began mailing some 1,000 applications for registration of state historical sites to local historical societies and interested parties.

Dr. Lewis Beeson, executive secretary, said the applications will be reviewed at a Nov. 29 meeting of the commission.

"I would estimate the commission might approve about 200 of them," he said.

The markers, of cast aluminum with gold leaf lettering, will be placed at roadsides and on buildings to mark sites of historical significance.

The commission will ask the Legislature to appropriate funds next year to finance markers to be placed on state property.

Markers on private property will be financed privately or by local governments. One marker has already been installed at Michigan State University, marking the site of the first building on the campus.

County, City Receive Shares of Gas Tax

Oakland County has received $90,103 and Pontiac $18,536 from the first distribution of funds accumulated from the new 1½-cent gas tax for expenditure on highway improvement.

The statewide allocation totaled $9,812,410 and covered the period from June to Oct. 1, according to the Michigan Highway Department.

The department received $7,359,207 of the total, the counties $1,620,799 and muincipailties $832,302.

First chloroform for use as an anaesthetic in America was believed that produced by a Nova Scotia druggist about 1833.

Sultan Sees End of French Rule

Moroccan Leader Tells Crowd of Agreement to Cease Protectorate

RABAT, French Morocco (AP)—Sultan Mohammed Ben Youssef announced today the approaching end of the French protectorate in Morocco.

He told a wildly cheering crowd before his palace he had reached agreement with the French government on "essential principles" which would open a new era of freedom for Morocco.

His eldest son Prince Hassan, who acts as his political adviser, quoted him as saying:

"We are glad to announce the end of the period of protectorate and guardianship."

There were differences of interpretation about what the Sultan meant by this statement. The protectorate, established in 1912, cannot be ended except in agreement with France.

The Sultan spoke to about 70,000 during celebrations of the 28th anniversary of his accession to the throne. He returned to Morocco only two days ago after more than two years of exile.

Earlier today leaders of two major nationalist parties refused to disavow a campaign of terrorism that helped restore the Sultan to his throne. They were Abdel Kader Ben Jellun of the Democratic Independence party and Mendi Ben Barka of the Istiqlal party.

Police Charge Youths for Holding Fake Rite

ANCONA, Italy (INS)—Twelve Italian teenagers were charged with organizing a fake religious procession. They're alleged to have walked through the streets of Ancona dressed as priests, sprinkling "Holy" water on passersby, before asking for money.

The boys told police they needed the money to buy a new football for a local team.

Has $10,000 Mouse?

MIAMI, Okla (UP)—Robert G. Smith of Miami has filed a $10,000 damage suit in District Court here against a soft drink bottling company for what his petition describes as "permanent mental and physical injury." He claimed he found a mouse in his bottled beverage.

Chinaman Says Gods Gave Him Lottery Tips

IPOH, MALAYA (INS)—A Malayan magistrate believes today he's heard everything. A 36-year-old Chinese mechanic, found guilty of running a lottery, testified he got the race tips from the gods.

Said the mechanic: "I go to the temple and pray, and the deities give me the tips. Sometimes they give them to my wife."

Officials at Southport, England, report that some hospital staff workers have been taking the maximum of six months' fully paid sick leave each year.

RESIDENT COMMISSIONER — Andre L. Dubois, center, new French Resident Commissioner in Morocco, salutes the flag of the Guard of Honor after arriving at Rabat Sale airfield in Rabat, Morocco. On hand to greet him were Moroccan Premier Si ben Slimane, left and General Charles LeBlanc, the French Military commander.

Jail 2 Detroit Boys on Assault Charge

DETROIT (UP) — Two Detroit youths whom Recorders Judge W. McKay Skillman described as "sniveling cowards," were sentenced to one to four years imprisonment apiece yesterday for assaulting a family at a picnic last summer.

Kendall Sprietzer, 21, and Edmond Moran, 17, were found guilty of felonious assault.

"You are brave when armed and with a gang, but you're just a couple of sniveling cowards when you get before the court," said Judge Skillman as he passed sentence.

Police said the family was picnicking at Patton park last July 29 when attacked without provocation by Sprietzer and Moran.

Edward McMurray, 15, of Detroit, was hospitaled for 10 days with knife wounds in the chest and head. Also beaten were his stepfather, mother, brother and a nephew.

Dealer Offers New Car for Two 50-Yard Seats

PARIS, Ky. (UP)—Anyone want a 1956 convertible for $7?

All you need are two 50-yard line box seats (price $7) for Saturday's Kentucky-Tennessee foot ball game at Lexington. Gene Martin, Paris car salesman, advertising yesterday in the Paris Daily Enterprise he would trade the car for the seats. The annual game usually is a sellout by the time the season opens.

The veteran British Broadcasting Co., after a contract fight to sign up programs before commercial TV arrived, announced it had not "lost to anyone else a single sporting contract that it wanted," but admitted that many were no longer exclusive.

Jacona Products Named Area's Top JA Company

The title "Company of the Week" was bestowed on Jacona Products, as Pontiac's top Junior Achievement company, by the JA area headquarters this week.

The JA firm, which manufactures Christmas table centerpieces, was cited for its "ambition and efficiency of operation" in these first weeks in which the 17 teenagers of Jacona Products organized their firm, under the sponsorship of the Community National Bank.

President of the company is James Mason, 17, of 646 Homestead Drive. Other officers are Richard Gavette, 17, of 2160 Avondale, vice-president; Natalie Rolfe, 16, of 1459 Beach Dr., Lake Orion, treasurer; and Patricia Sears, 18, of 103 Home St., secretary.

To date, in just two weeks of production, the firm has manufactured and sold 36 centerpieces. The price per unit is 1.85 retail, and the firm has grossed $64 to date.

Their early success is good news for the 79 people who invested $79.50 in the stock of Jacona. Money raised through the sale of stock at fifty cents a share provided the initial operating capital for the firm.

When Jacona Products, like all JA firms, liquidates next May, the stockholders will receive reports on how the company fared, and dividend checks if the company is successful.

The Achievers are advised in the operations of their company by three executives of the sponsoring concern, the Community National Bank.

Robert Shueller, 342 Northwood, Rochester, is chief adviser; Donald D. Taylor, 708 Birmingham, Lake Orion, is business adviser; Clement LaBarge, 1158 Nokimis, is sales adviser; and Robert Norberg, 182 W. Chicago, is production adviser.

Jacona is one of 13 JA companies operated by Pontiac area Achievers. All of them have headquarters at the business center JA maintains at 53 N. Mill St.

Airlines Agree to Study Move to Wayne Airport

DETROIT (UP)—Officials from Detroit and Wayne County asked representatives from seven airlines yesterday what facilities they would need to move from Willow Run airport to Wayne County Airport.

An airport use panel of the President's Air Co-Ordinating Committee recently recommended that the move be made to the Wayne Airport.

However, six of the airlines said they disapproved of the move, but would meet with officials to find out what such a move would cost them.

State to Have 44 Votes at '56 Dem Convention

CHICAGO (UP) — Michigan will have 44 votes at the 1956 Democratic national convention.

This includes a bonus of four votes over what the state had at the 1952 convention.

Each state will decide for itself whether it wants to send two delegates for each vote, thus Michigan, if desires, could send 88 delegates, as well as 52 alternates. But if it does so, each vote will be divided between two delegates.

27 Dead, 14 Missing in 2 Air Crashes

is next door to the house that caught fire when parts of the wreckage hit it, described the crash as "15 minutes of hell."

She led three children of the Colin Dearing family from the porch of their burning home and also took her own daughter to safety.

Mrs. Platt said:

"I remember the boy who ran burning from the plane, saying 'Help me . . . help me stop shaking.' I patted his head and the black came off on my hand."

She added:

"And the cries from the plane, the burning plane, of 'Help me. Help me, God help me.'

"And the woman from the plane who ran into the snow and screamed:

" 'Save my baby. She's inside. I can hear her crying for me . . .' "

Some servicemen were thrown clear and were given first aid treatment while ambulances rushed over ice roads to the scene.

The plane, a DC4 operated by the Peninsular Air Transport Co., carried 66 servicemen who arrived yesterday morning at Seattle aboard the transport General Howze, and a woman and two children along with a crew of four.

It was eastbound for Chicago and other points.

They were loaded aboard nonscheduled airlines planes operated by commercial airlines which are not certificated by the Sivil Aeronautics Board for scheduled flight —chartered by the government for speedy return to their homes. Twenty-two such transports took off from Boeing Field at intervals yesterday and last night, carrying 1,000 of the servicemen.

One was the Peninsular transport.

The plane steward, James Adams of Hialeah, Fla., was among the survivors, and he said that one of the plane's engines "conked out" shortly after takeoff, picked up a few times, but then went dead altogether.

"One wing of the plane hit a tree and the wing was sheared off. In 10 years of flying this company has never scratched a passenger before."

Herbert Gardner, a Boeing Aircraft Co. employe, was among eyewitnesses to the crash. He said one of the four engines seemed to go "suddenly flat" just after takeoff and no exhaust was visible from the other three.

The home hit by the plane was occupied by the family of Colin Dearing, 33. He was not home but his wife, Mary Agnes, 31, with the help of neighbors, brought their five small children out. The children range in age from 8 years old to 9 months.

When the ambulances arrived, dozens of the soldiers were wandering or lying about the wreck scene, some in a state of shcok, others needing only minor treatment.

Charred bodies were scattered through the still burning wreckage and it was some time before firemen could dampen the flames and start the grisly job of collection.

The soldiers were among hundreds who had streamed from Seattle toward homes and separation centers after arriving yesterday morning from the Far East.

The government had contracted with a number of nonscheduled airlines, including Peninsular, to speed the men home for the holiday.

The Las Vegas plane, a C54 reportedly carrying a crew of four and 10 passengers, hit the mountain yesterday very close to its 11,900-foot peak, 27 miles northwest of Las Vegas.

It crashed in country so rugged that officials believed no one could survive.

A storm was in progress at the time and it apparently was the cause of the crash.

The mountain is covered with more than 2 feet of snow, temperatures are below zero and a humbling wind is blowing.

The accident occurred within a few miles of where actress Carole Lombard died in a similar crash early in World War II while she was returning home from a bond-selling tour.

The C54 was en route from Norton Air Force Base, near San Bernardino, Calif., to Camp Mercury on the Nevada atomic test site. It stopped on the way at the Lockheed Air Terminal, Burbank, Calif., to pick up some of the passengers.

When it failed to reach its destination on schedule at 9:30 a.m. a search was started by planes from Nellis Air Force Base, near Las Vegas, and the wreckage finally was found at 3:45 in the afternoon.

At first great secrecy surrounded the crash "for security reasons," but later these restrictions were lifted. However, armed guards were sent from Nellis to police the area.

A special Arctic jeep flown in from March Air Force Base started up the mountain early today in an attempt to reach the wreck site. Two air rescue units from Norton also are en route to the site.

An attempt to parachute two medics to the wreckage will be made if weather and terrain permit.

French Cabinet Meet to Rule Faure's Fate

PARIS (INS)—The French Cabinet meets today to decide the government's next move in the face of virtual parliamentary defeat for Premier Edgar Faure.

After more than three weeks of maneuvering, the National Assembly took a vote last night which made impossible the holding of elections next month as the premier had asked.

The cabinet had a number of possible choices. They were:

1. Resign.
2. Pose a question of confidence on the government's general policy, but which would demand the early elections.
3. Present a proposal for new demarcation of small election districts.
4. Abandon the premier's insistence on early elections. Possibility. No. 3 presumably would set off lengthy debate since each deputy would seek to gain the best possible rearrangement of the constituencies.

Which Type Are You?

MIAMI (INS) — H. N. Kirman, Florida state highway patrol director, said in a statement on Safe-Driving Day that "there are two types of pedestrians today—the quick and the dead."

'Saboteur' Denies Bomb Plant Charge

DENVER (AP)—John Gilbert Graham flatly denies planting a bomb on the airliner that crashed and killed his mother and 43 other passenger, the Rocky Mountain News said today.

Federal authorities annouced Monday that Graham, 23, had signed a "written admission". But the newspaper in a copyrighted interview quoted Graham as saying:

"Yes, I signed a statement. But it's not true. They told me they were going to put my wife in jail, and I'd better get it straightened out myself."

Asked by reporter Al Nakkula if he meant FBI agents had used duress—kept questioning him until he confessed — Graham answered:

"Well, they started about noon that Sunday and didn't stop until I signed a confession about 4 a.m. the next morning. Oh, they took me out for dinner once and gave me drinks of water and such . . ."

Graham appeared briefly in court yesterday. His arraignment was postponed until Nov. 28 to allow him to retain counsel. He is charged with murder in the death of his mother, Mrs. Daisie King, 54.

Bergsma Brothers Offer to Buy Furniture Plant

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Julius and Kenneth Bergsma, Grand Rapids furniture manufacturers yesterday announced an offer of $1,000,000 for the 53-year-old Imperial Furniture Co., which employs 350 workers.

The brothers operate three furniture companies in the city. Imperial is one of the founder-members of the Grand Rapids Furniture Makers' Guild and distributes its products through about 2,000 dealers.

Perhaps George Has Something

He's Footless and 73, but Runs Cleaning Shop After Cancer Surgery

BALTIMORE (AP)—The doc said it was okay, so George Barnes is back in the hat-cleaning business.

Business is pretty good too, even if you don't make any allowances for the fact that George is 73 and doctors at Johns Hopkins Hospital in the last two years have:

1. Amputated his right leg above the knee because of congested blood vessels. (The left leg was amputated for the same reason in 1944.)

2. Removed about 80 per cent of his stomach because of cancer.

3. Relieved him of an aneurysm, or balloon-like swelling, of the aorta, the main blood vessel of the body.

"I don't see any reason why I should just set aroun' and collect relief checks and look at myself in the glass," George said today. "I feel just as good as I've ever felt."

He sat erect in his wheel chair, looking through the window at people passing by on Pennsylvania Avenue. Behind him, stacked high on tables aroound the shop, were scores of spotless hats.

"When I went back to Dr. (John) Harvey last week and told him I wanted to get off the welfare and go back to work, he was really tickled," he said.

George seemed pretty tickled himself. He explained this is more than just a case of an old man trying to keep busy.

"It might show so many people that if they just try to do something, they can do it," he said. "But if you don't even try, you're whipped.

George lives alone and cooks his own meals in his quarters adjoining the shop. His marriage ended in separation 20 years ago. There were no children.

He shuns the movies, has a telephone but no radio or television.

"I like to read the Bible a lot after I close the shop. You'd be surprised how that helps you the next day when you run into a problem."

Reluctant Robber

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The holdup man appeared even more reluctant than his intended victims, three employes of a St. Louis county school.

"We're just working people," said one of the employes. "We haven't any money."

"Oh, well," replied the meek bandit, "this is a toy gun anyway. Just forget about it." With that, he left.

Indian Drawings Hide on Rocks at Cass City

CASS CITY (AP)—They are only a few stick-like figures carved in rock and fading now under the erosion of years.

But the discerning eye sees in those primitive pictures the ancient ways of the Indians who once roamed the Michigan forestland.

The drawings, on a sandstone ledge running along the Cass River, are some of the few left intact since Indian braves scratched them in the rock hundreds of years ago.

Few people are aware of the location of the rock pictures. No signs mark the spot and no effort is made to preserve them. But they are visited by anthropologists and geologists and other students of Indian lore.

History teacher David Ackerman of Cass City High School has been taking his students to visit the rock each year for the past eight years—ever since he located the carvings after reading of them in a Michigan reference work.

The ledge with the pictures is in a cow pasture cut in half by the north branch of the Cass River. It is seven miles east and three miles north of Cass City.

The two clearest carvings show the Thunderbird, ancient Indian symbol of luck, and a hunter taking aim with bow and arrow. One drawing, only dimly seen, appears to be a comb-like object with a seven-branched candlestick. Other carvings resemble animal tracks.

Dr. Emerson F. Greenman, archaeologist of the University of Michigan Museum of Archaeology, said the drawings apparently date from when the Chippewa, Huron and Ottawa Indian tribes lived in the area.

He explained that Indians seeking the blessings of the Great Spirit drew scenes with crude implements on the soft sandstone chiefly for luck.

"Mostly rock carvings have to do with animals," Dr. Greenman said. "They are magical attempts to gain some control over animals of the chase and to insure success of the hunt."

Visitors to the carvings have added their own rock pictures. Many have scratched in their initials. In one spot someone carved a Masonic symbol.

Some of the carvings have been removed — possibly by a zealous student of Indian history. Two or three places show signs hat someone carefully cut pictures out of the rock.

A Black Star sapphire about the size of a golf ball has been found in the Australian sapphire fields near Ruby Vale, central Queensland, Brisbane learns. It weights 820 carats and may be the largest Black Star sapphire ever found.

Ruling Hurts Judge

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dist. Judge William McGraw hung a no-smoking sign on his brand new courtroom. "This is going to hurt me more than anyone else," he said. In his old courtroom, he had the habit of smoking cigars continuously while on the bench.

Doctor Warns Against Disease

Mastoid Infection Still a Problem Capable of Causing Deafness

HOUSTON (AP)—A Texas doctor has cautioned physicians against any idea that mastoid infection is "a disease of the past," relegated to history by the "wonder drugs."

Dr. M. P. Spearman of El Paso, declared that infection of the mastoid bone behind the ear remains a continuing problem, yet is often being overlooked.

In a report prepared for the closing session of the Southern Medical Assn. 49th annual meeting, he said:

"There is an uncritical acceptance by many of the statement that mastoiditis has been eradicated by the antibiotics and the sulfanilamides."

"Prolonged nonrecognition of this infection, especially in the child, may lead directly to deafness as an end consequence. Very likely, uncured mastoiditis is one of the chief causes of deafness in the young," he said.

In the case of "middle ear" infections, he said, while antibiotic and other drugs are of value, doctors should avoid any "blind reliance" of them. Surgical drainage is sometimes necessary, he declared.

He Gets Around

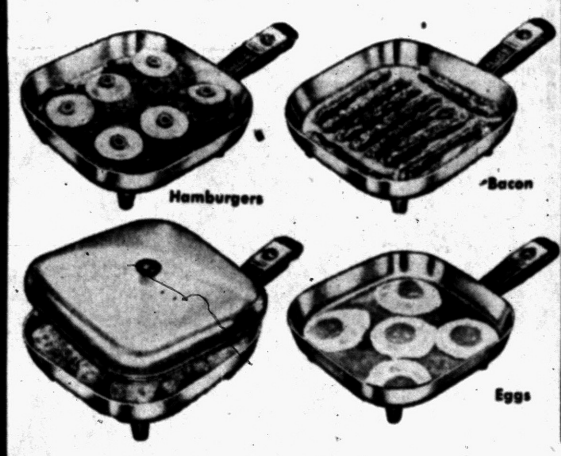

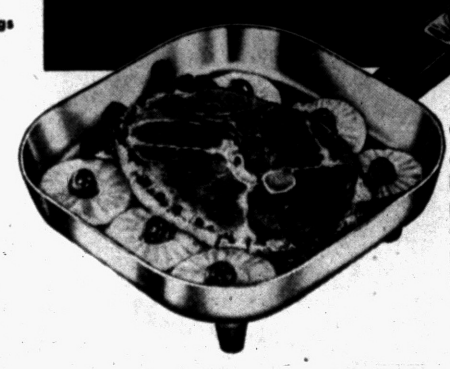

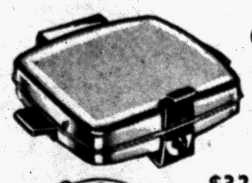

HUGO, Okla. (AP) — John David Hyun, the new president of the seventh grade class was born in Oklahoma but has lived also in Hawaii and Japan during his 12 years. His mother is a Choctaw Indian and his father is of Korean-Hawaiian descent.

California Designers Stress Shaft-Slim Silhouette

Style Ideas Come From Other Lands

Hues and Fabrics Are Varied to Suit All Tastes

BEVERLY HILLS (INS) — The American femme fatale will be wearing ideas from 'round the world in 1956 according to California fashion stylists.

For, not only are Western designers promoting their own sun-right styles for spring and resort wear, they also are giving out with the "bestest from the restest" of the universe.

Trends never have been so "many splendored" as they are this season. Colors run the gamut of the spectrum, fabrics run from sheer to tweedy and the silhouette from lineal and relaxed to the fitted torso.

Whatever you feel like wearing—it's yours.

During their fifth annual showing of original designs before the nation's fashion writers, California creators have displayed everything from jeweled bathing suits to tailored coats and suits.

Jeannette Alexander's reasonably priced world cruise line featured sleeveless sari border prints in orange and gold and turquoise and burnt sugar.

PRINCESS STYLES

Hand-screened pique, prominent in this group, was offered in princess line dresses with full skirts, short sleeves and interesting neck treatments of plain pique.

The ever-popular sheath dress was displayed time and again in a variety of colors and fabrics. One zippy model offered an interesting sailor collar-shaped yoke in a hand-screened Moygashel linen print. Another (by Marjorie Montgomery) featured self-bands placed above and below a gently fitted waist.

As in all California clothes, the designs are easy and free and made for comfort as well as beauty.

Agnes Barrett, a designer who believes in simplicity and "ageless and timeless" fashions, accented the slim, straight line in dresses and a smooth look of gentle restraint.

This exotic border print cotton with the feel of silk — sleeveless with high mandarin collar — is called "Teahouse of the August Moon." The border of print runs down the front and back of the slim-skirted dress by Jeannette Alexander.

The undisputed importance of knits hits a new high in the California cruise fashions—not alone because they assume a new shape, but also because there is new meaning in the casual look that is smartness in itself. Here is a three-part costume from Zolot of California, a ginger and white striped rib-knit blazer worn over a sleeveless torso blouse and slender rib-knit skirt in ginger.

Symphonies Explained for Zonta

Zonta Club of Pontiac heard Mrs. James Rosenthal speak Thursday at the noon meeting held at Hotel Waldron.

Discussing "How to Listen to a Symphony," Mrs. Rosenthal pointed out the accomplishments of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra and the fact that its renditions are professional in tone.

Mrs. Rosenthal explained that the sonata of a classical symphony has a definite form like the invariable form of a letter with its salutation, paragraphs and complimentary close.

In the sonata form, she said, there are three themes, the second and third form preceded by a passageway, followed by a development section, and finally the recapitulation.

Sometimes, the speaker said, there may be a coda, like the postscript to a letter, in which the composer brings out some point he may have neglected or which he particularly wishes to stress.

To illustrate her talk, Mrs. Rosenthal played the C Major Sonata by Mozart and a recording of the first movement of the G Minor Symphony by Mozart played by the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra.

Golden Age Group Greets Members

The Golden Age Group of the YWCA met at the YWCA Wednesday evening. Mrs. Nettie Carr and Mrs. Nettie Manns were welcomed into the club.

Meditations were given by Mrs. Nellie Williams. The November birthdays of Mrs. Minnie Richardson, Mrs. Laura Hamilton and Mrs. Rose Doig were recognized. Mrs. B. B. Kimball sang Thanksgiving songs accompanied by Mrs. Donald Hogue.

Mrs. George Morrow of Pontiac High School also entertained the group with Thanksgiving poems.

Assisting Mrs. Harold Euler on the social and transportation committee were Mrs. H. T. Baker and Mrs. Marcus Scott.

A blueprint for fashion smartness in the coming spring season is offered by California designer Dorothy O'Hara in a shaft-silhouetted dress of yarn-dye, featherweight wool. Like a blueprint, the intricate design of this style indicates engineering of fabric to give the most flattering lines that slim the figure. The white winged collar is of crisp pique. The hat is by Rex.

A fashion trend to be found not only in dresses, but also in swimsuits and sportswear, is the high front, low back that denotes a more covered look for the cruise and resort season ahead. Here is Marjorie Montgomery of California's butterfly-print silk dress with deep wedge back, elbow-length sleeves and graceful, full skirt in an afternoon-into-evening fashion.

The embroidered sheath dress forecasts the future starring role of the shaft silhouette in the cruise and resort fashions from California. Here is Addie Masters' cool linen in soft shell pink, with embroidered stars in rouge red. High in front, low in back, the squared neck is a detail that finds acceptance in many styles.

Ivan-Frederics does a handsome spring version of the trench coat dress, this time in washable poplin with the look and feel of fine gabardine. The back takes a tip from the masculine version with an extra piece across the shoulders sporting a metallic monogram. Contrasting railroad stitching is an Ivan-Frederics trademark.

Attorney Addresses Club

Philip Rowston, attorney, spoke on the legal responsibilities adults must recognize, and the degree to which they can be held responsible for others on their premises, when he addressed members of the Child Culture Club.

* * *

Wills and their importance were discussed, and the speaker noted that a will can disburse any assets in the manner designated by the individual.

The advantage of wills over joint accounts was established, and adequate insurance in case of accidents was advised.

Mrs. Allen Denham was hostess at her home on Oriole road for the Thursday meeting. President Mrs. Charles Bowers called roll by asking members, "Have you made your will?"

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Hilman Fortney on Hamilton drive.

Sorority Chapters Gather for Dinner

Members of the Epsilon and Alpha Delta Kappa sorority met for dinner Thursday evening at Devon Gables.

Agnes Shipman of Kansas City, Mo., executive chairman of the board, and Mrs. Maye Payne of Little Rock, Ark., national field representative, were guests from the national Alpha Delta Kappa.

Following the meeting, Miss Shipman reported to the local chapters on the proceedings of the national convention held in Chicago last summer.

Vocational Tests Are Not Magic

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Are vocational tests worth anything or are they a waste of time and money?

That question comes to me dozens of times a week, from all kinds of people.

"My husband hated his job," one woman writes, "but when he took a vocational test, all they did was tell him he would be a good executive; they didn't get him a new job. Is that ethical?"

And, from another, "I'm sure vocational tests would solve all my problems. Please tell me where to get some."

Vocational tests alone do not give the magic answer. They have to be interpreted in the light of your life education, hobbies and many other factors.

The good psychologist considers the tests themselves as just one tool in the process of vocational advising.

MANY FACTORS

You wouldn't expect your doctor to get all the answers about your physical state by just weighing you or taking a blood test. Many factors are involved, and they combine to present the whole picture.

Furthermore, it is not the purpose of a vocational advising session to get you a job.

Its aim is to give you a better understanding of yourself, so that you will know more about your abilities and interests, have some idea of what kind of jobs you should consider and what you should leave alone.

Armed with this self-knowledge, it is up to you, largely, to guide yourself into the proper fields.

Your librarian can help you, by recommending books in the indicated fields; businessmen in your community, who are in the field you are interested in, will frequently give you advice on how to enter it.

AVOID QUACKS

Also, a great deal depends on taking the test at a qualified agency. There are many quacks in this field, as in all others, and you must protect yourself from them.

* * *

Check with your state university, with your local YMCA or YMHA, with your family doctor or U.S. Employment Service Office. They can recommend a valid office for vocational testing and advice.

Awaken, Men, the Girls Are Scheming Against You!

Read the Women's Pages and Learn All About It

S'NO GO — Pontiac Press reporter Burdett C. Stoddard tried unsuccessfully to put on a smock owned by Women's Editor Judith Clemence before he wrote his "expose" of the women's pages. Because "all social editors wear smocks" Stoddard thought the garment would set the proper atmosphere.

By BURDETT C. STODDARD

Men! Arouse and beware, A pernicious plot is on foot against us.

Who is behind this foul scheme? The women, who else?

Now, before I unfold the lurid details, let me describe how this movement was discovered.

It started innocently enough. Our social editor came to me some time ago and requested that I write a story for the women's section.

My first reaction was to emit a snort (in fact, two snorts).

"What, Judy," I retorted (her last name is Clemence). "Me, a veteran newsman, and I emphasize the MAN, write a story for the women's pages. Balderdash! The women's pages are strictly for females."

"That's just my point," she replied. "Our pages contain much material that would be interesting to men and I'd like a man to point it out in a story."

TRAPPED, SNARED

My strenuous excuse-making availing naught, I ended up committed to writing an article for the—pardon the expression—women's pages.

As I leafed through back copies of the Press, the germ of an impression started climbing my cerebellum. Sprinkled in among the news of weddings, club meetings, and other events were stories which constitute a definite threat to the Oakland County male, at least in my opinion.

"We girls are superior to you fellows in lots of ways," these articles seemed to say. Let me quote you some examples:

"Who says it's a man's world? "Statistics show that women have a longer life expectancy than men. Women own more of the wealth of this country than men. In bitter weather, a woman wears clothing comfortably that would have a man in a hospital with pneumonia in 24 hours. Have you seen any bald-headed women lately?"

I submit that perhaps the male life span is shorter because we poor devils work too hard attempting to bring home the bacon to the little woman.

Perhaps women are wealthier because we're kind enough to hand them the bulk of our hard-earned cash.

Perhaps men wear more clothes in cold weather because they have sense enough to do so.

And for another perhaps, maybe we lose our hair because we shoulder more of the worries.

A couple more examples of this anti-man movement are:

"American men are growing heavier while their wives are becoming lighter . . ." and "European Romeos have it all over the American male when it comes to pretty compliments."

To this I say "Foo, Foo" (which is, double Foo) and add, "So what?"

After uncovering the evidence above, I decided I would write the requested article and sat me down to turn out this piece. (Even tried to put on Judy's smock. All society editors wear smocks.)

So, you see, there is a reason why men should read the women's pages. We've got to discover what new charges they're lodging against us and prepare to defend ourselves.

Next time you see some of the fair sex grouped together in the corner and casting quick glances your way, shut your mouth. They probably read the article which said:

"But what about good-looking, healthy teeth. A quick smile-survey will show you that women are ahead in this department, too."

Insurance Women to Hold Card Party

Plans for a card party to be held Dec. 7 were made by the Pontiac Association of Insurance Women. The group met Wednesday for a luncheon at the Hotel Waldron.

Ernestine Neubauer, Mrs. Emerson Loan and Mrs. Marvin Blades will be in charge of prizes for the party. Olive Blair is in charge of tickets.

The association will have its annual Christmas party with Wave Davis as chairman.

Mrs. Beatrice Dodge presided at the meeting and welcomed Mrs. Michael Daniels, Mrs. Richard Richmond, Mrs. Wallace Knowles and Barbara Hagerman to the association.

Sylvan Shores Club Entertained

Mrs. Webster C. Grimes of Sylvan Shores drive entertained 45 members of Sylvan Shores Women's Club and their guests at her home Wednesday evening.

Guests of the group were Mrs. W. R. Hamilton, Mrs. Norman Mack and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Roth. Mr. and Mrs. Roth showed 3-D slides of their trips to Hawaii, Haiti, Jamaica and through the states.

The subdivision will hold its annual Christmas party Dec. 8 in St. Benedict Hall.

Mrs. Edward F. Collins presided at the refreshment table. Cohostesses were Mrs. John Kinzler, Mrs. G. Eldred Mathes, Mrs. Walton F. Adams and Mrs. James E. Anthony.

City Symphony Violinist Will Play for Association

Jack Boesen, concertmaster of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra, will play at the Monday meeting of the Pontiac Symphony Association. The group will meet at the home of Mrs. George Wyman on Ottawa drive.

Mr. Boesen's task is to supervise bowings and intonation of the string players, and to lead the first violin section with his own performance.

He Began studying at the age of 7. Henry Matheys, a prize-winning gradute of the Paris Conservatory, was his first teacher.

Mr. Boesen won many scholarships, including two consecutive summers at the American Music Camp where he studied with the world famous Leon Samatini. Later he was offered other scholarships, and he accepted one at Oberlin Conservatory of Music.

For the past 13 years Mr. Boesen has been a member of the first violin section of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. He was concertmaster with the Scandinavian Symphony on its European tour.

Mr. Boesen has appeared frequently as soloist and is prominently known for his activities in the field of chamber music.

Gathering Is Held by Willard WCTU

Members of Frances Willard WCTU met in the Phil Walker home for a cooperative dinner and short business meeting.

Mrs. Alva Ashley, president, presided at the recent meeting, and group singing was led by Mabel Wiser. Devotions were given by the Rev. LeRoy Shafer.

Highlights from the Flint convention were given by the delegates.

The group will meet Dec. 20 at the Church of the Brethren for a special Christmas program. The Rev. Lola Marion closed the meeting with a prayer.

Girl Must Thaw Ice to Get Second Chance

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: I went with him for months and liked it very much, but my parents decided we were getting just a little too serious.

"So I was convinced not to ask him to a big semi-formal dance. He found out I went with another boy and was very cross. Several weeks later he brought my ring back.

"I've been sorry ever since that I went to that dance with the other boy. I see the boy I like in school and wish more than ever that I were going with him again. How can I get him to realize that I still like him?"

Answer: Gradually let him find you a bit more cordial and enthusiastic than you have been. Around school make a point of speaking to him gaily.

When the ice is thawed, invite him to something. It might be a party at your house, or at someone else's house. You might get tickets for something.

Prime your family to welcome him at the house with a friendly "we've missed you—how have you been?" When you're together catch up quickly and briefly on your separated months, then start off afresh attracting him all over again. And hope that it takes.

Second chances sometime happen. You might even get around to laughing together over why you're having yours. Though what upset your applecart wasn't very funny at the time.

Looking back, it's too bad you let yourself be convinced. You could have agreed in principle with your family's edict that you were seeing too much of him. But you should have begun to taper things off after that big dance.

Going with another boy without any warning to the boy you'd been dating consistently was a big blow that took him unawares. He decided you didn't want to go with him at all any more, so he ended it.

After all, you owed him that dance invitation. You could have timed your slowdown for later. And managed to save your friendship.

Perhaps you can still salvage something. It's worth a try.

"Dear Miss Woodward: I'd like very much to ask him to our school dance. Trouble is I've never met him.

"I had a date with one of his best friends recently, but I don't know him well enough to have him introduce us. What do you suggest? The dance is in two weeks."

Answer: You'd have to do some very fast work in the next two days to make that dance invitation make sense. So I'd say, skip it.

Take your time about getting acquainted with him by accident or by design, and ask him to something else. Something very attractive that he couldn't go to except with you. But be sure you know him first.

Parliamentary Club Conducts Meeting

Mrs. George Watters presided at the meeting of the Parliamentary Study Club Wednesday in the Masonic Temple.

* * *

Mrs. James Hampton served as leader of the study group sponsored by Mrs. Dale Moats. The lesson demonstrated the many kinds of motions and the importance of their proper usage in speech making.

Tellers appointed by Mrs. Watters were Mrs. I. J. Gouin, Mrs. Lawrence Lacy and Mrs. Edwin Carlson.

Mrs. Joseph Lanter conducted the question box and Mrs. Bradley Scott supervised the guest book. Mrs. Morris Cucksey was welcomed into the club.

It's Simple to Prepare Cooked Icing

Mrs. Floyd Halpin Makes Changes With Chocolate

We know you can buy good frosting or icing mixes in packages nowadays. But it's still nice to have some stand-by recipes for frostings you make yourself. Such a recipe comes from Mrs. Floyd Halpin. She gives us one for a simple cooked icing.

Mrs. Halpin has an outside job. At home she has two children, while a third child is married. Mrs. Halpin was a charter member of the Mothers' Club of the Boys Club; her son was one of the first members of the Boys Club.

A social club, some church work, crocheting, cake decorating, sewing — these are all activities Mrs. Halpin enjoys doing whenever time permits.

ICING

By Mrs. Floyd Halpin

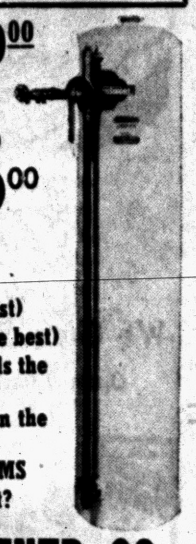

1 cup granulated sugar
½ cup milk
¼ cup shortening
1 teaspoon vanilla
Pinch of salt

Bring all ingredients to a rapid boil, boil hard for one minute. Beat until cool enough to spread. If icing gets too thick to spread, add a few drops of milk.

This same recipe will make delicious chocolate frosting by just adding a square of chocolate to the above ingredients.

Measure the shoulder width, the length and the arm length of your sweaters before you wash them, then stretch them to this measurement. Dry them flat on a Turkish towel.

Fashion has a many-splendiored look this year. Even little velvet slippers for at-home wear glitter and gleam with stones and braid.

Criticize Maidish Aprons

PARIS (INS) — A well-known Paris fashion designer attacks frilly aprons that make women look like parlor-maids in a musical comedy.

"Wear a clothes-protecting smock when you cook or work around the house," advised Antonio Castillo, designer for the House of Lanvin, saying "Keep the smock hanging near the kitchen door."

Castillo is against the coquettish little aprons that make a house-wife look like a pseudo-maid. Besides, he said, they don't really protect your cothes. A smock in the color that suits you is much smarter.

It is easy to wash, stylish in its simplicity and will be practical for household chores. And it doesn't take more time to slip on a smock than to tie on an apron.

Cocktail aprons—worn as ornaments rather than functional apparel—are in Castillo's opinion quite a different matter. He has designed a glamorous hostell-apron.

This model is of black felt, trapeze-shaped and lavishly embroidered with gold braid. The apron strings are black ribbon. Worn over a flaring black skirt, it looks more like a part of the outfit than an apron.

Another Castillo idea is an apron cut in suede. He calls it the "Smoker's Apron," meant to protect a lady's skirt from holes burnt by cigarette ashes.

It looks pretty in bright colored suede or kid and also can be worn for gardening.

Fourth in Farm Series

Farmers Want Quality Recognized

By OVID A. MARTIN
AP Farm Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Demands are rising from farmers that government farm programs be refashioned to encourage — and compensate — them for producing better quality food and fiber crops.

Recent hearings held by the Senate Agriculture Committee on the problem of declining farm income showed that many producers now realize that much of the responsibility for their low prices should be placed on overproduction of poor quality products.

Markets take the better quality commodities, leaving the poorer grades to pile up in government surplus stocks, where they overhang markets and depress prices.

In many areas witnesses testified that present farm programs often fail to take quality into account in offering price support aid or allotting production shares.

Farmers in Kansas, the nation's No. 1 wheat state, said they think more than half the government's billion-bushel stock of wheat is unfit for human consumption. They want it dumped for livestock feed.

Under the price support and crop control programs, wheat and other crops have been dealt with on a fairly uniform basis, regardless of quality.

Proposals were advanced that growers be offered 90 to 100 per cent of parity on good quality wheat used for food. Wheat unsuitable for food would be supported at 50 to 60 per cent of parity. (Parity is the price goal of federal farm programs.)

Advocates said this would force low-quality wheat growers out of business.

Under this year's program, for instance, all wheat is being supported at 82.5 per cent of parity, with slight premiums for quality grain and slight discounts for poorer grades.

Hearings in Southern and Far Western cotton-growing states brought out pleas for quality provisions in programs for cotton. Much of the government's surplus cotton is known to be of lower grades.

California growers contend there is no surplue of the type of cotton they grow.

There appeared to be a growing awareness among many farmers that a failure to put greater emphasis on quality has been resulting in losses of some foreign markets. This is especially true among producers of wheat, cotton and rice.

The hog farmer — who has been having his share of price troubles recently — is beginning to lay more stress on the production of "meat-type" rather than "lard or fat-type" hogs.

There is a realization that consumers prefer pork with little fat on it. Yet, the bulk of the hogs being produced are of a type that puts a large amount of fat on the carcass rather than lean meat.

Producers said that if markets offered a higher premium on lean-type hogs, farmers would be encouraged to produce more of them and fewer of the fat-type animals.

The committee found strong support for present programs which permit producers of fruits, some vegetables and potatoes to set up marketing programs which keep low-quality products from entering interstate markets.

Some farmers urged that these programs be broadened to take in more commodities.

'Forgotten' Thief Robs

LOUP CITY, Neb. (AP)—It was "county government day" last Tuesday and high school students from over the county crowded in and out of offices. Came the noon hour and visitors were ushered out of the county clerk's office before the key was turned in the door. That is—most of them were. Left behind was a burglar who took $585 in cash. What he took was money paid in by hunters for licenses.

Ten Satellites Will Be Shot by 1958 to Circle Earth

CHICAGO (AP)—The United States plans to fire at least 10 instrument-filled satellites into space in 1957 and 1958, hoping that half of them will circle the globe.

This was disclosed last night by Dr. Joseph Kaplan, chairman of the group entrusted with the American satellite program. He outlined some new details about the satellites in a speech to the American Rocket Society.

Kaplan heads the U. S. National Committee for the International Geophysical Year, a section of the National Academy of Sciences which President Eisenhower empowered to conduct the satellite program.

The "minimum satellite program" proposed, Kaplan said, consists "of approximately 10 instrumental birds, with the expectation that at least five of the birds will be successfully launched into their orbits, circulating about the earth for a period of about two weeks, at heights of about 200 to 800 miles."

The satellites are to be carried into space by giant rockets. Then they are expected to travel freely about the earth, much as does the moon. Inside will be instruments to measure ultraviolet rays, cosmic rays and other particles in space. Measurements are expected to add to man's knowledge of the earth itself.

Kaplan said scientists are confident they can design a package of instruments weighing between 25 and 50 pounds to fit into the small satellites.

Some rocket scientists said Dr. Kaplan's speech indicated the program is going slower than expected, the satellites may be smaller than first anticipated, and they probably won't be shaped like basketballs.

Talks to Crowd by Phone

BOSTON (AP)—Reuben B. Gryzmish could not attend a dinner in his honor last night because a doctor ordered him to bed—but he addressed the 400 diners as planned. He spoke from his bed by telephone through a loud-speaker system connected to the dining room used for the dinner given by the Boston Assn. for Retarded Children. Gryzmish is a former honorary chairman of the association.

Dulles Emerges as Big 3 Leader

U. S. Secretary Seen as Strategist for Allies in World Negotiations

GENEVA (AP)—John Foster Dulles, who has had his ups and downs as American secretary of State, emerged clearly during the Big Four foreign ministers conference here as the director of Western strategy in the struggle with Russia's V. M. Molotov.

His role contrasted sharply with the one he played 18 months ago when Britain and France split with the United States over making peace in Indochina. Dulles then attended only the first few sessions of a big foreign ministers conference on the Far East. He finally disassociated himself and the United States from the agreement which ended the long war in Indochina at the cost of leaving Viet Nam half Communist and half free.

* * *

There was no disagreement of the West over issues in the meeting just concluded here. The course of Western policy generally followed the lines charted by Dulles in close cooperation with British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay.

At 67 Dulles turned in a grueling volume of work each day. When the conference recessed, as it did on two occasions, he undertook some extra fence-mending for United States interests in Europe. He visited Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Spanish chief of state, in Madrid, and talked with Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito at Brioni.

GAME WARDEN KILLED—Irvin J. Patrick, 43, above, of Washington Court House, Ohio, a game protector, was shot to death while making an arrest on the opening day of Ohio's hunting season. Sheriff Hays, of Fayette County, said George Baldridge, 63, former Adams County sheriff admitted the shotgun killing.

EVER SINCE Buick fashioned the first 4-Door Riviera, this panoramic sightseer has been the top hit in hardtops.

And no wonder—what with its wide-open view, its extra roominess and comfort, its easier in-and-out passage.

So what better news can we bring you for 1956 than that this fabulous new body style now comes in all four Buick Series—the extra-roomy SUPER and the custom-built ROADMASTER, as well as the bedrock-priced SPECIAL and the high-powered CENTURY.

But that's only part of the reasons why the 1956 Buicks are so quickly becoming the choice of the choosiest.

Whether you pick one of these rakish new 4-Door Rivieras, or any one of the many other Buick body types—your money buys more thrill, more comfort, more safety and more pure automobile than it ever did before.

Take power. Every Buick now cradles a big 322-cubic-inch V8 engine. And, in each Series, its high-compression power hits a new record level.

Take getaway. A new advance in Variable Pitch Dynaflow* now gives you double-action take-off and instant acceleration right in the gas-saving normal driving range. And that's plus the tremendous surge of safer-passing power you get when you floor the pedal to switch the pitch.

Take the great new chassis that bulwarks every '56 Buick and brings a surer "sense of direction" and a whole new sweetness to the most envied ride in the industry.

Or take styling—or roominess—or the luxury of interiors—or the extra safety of a new braking system, of new interlocking safety latches, of new Safety-Aim headlamps. On every count you'll find here the best Buick yet.

Best of all, take a sitting and a ride in this stunning new beauty—and a good long look at its hard-to-beat prices. The rest we'll leave to you. Can you come in soon—maybe before another sun sets?

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

EARLY BIRD—If the early bird really gets the worm, lovely Barbara Hilgenberg has a very good chance of becoming Miss America of 1956. The Tucson miss, recently named Miss Arizona of 1956 at the state fair in Phoenix, is among the first to enter next year's Miss America contest.

Hal Boyle Says:

Hoppy's Horse, Topper, Is Coming of Age

NEW YORK (AP) — Leaves from a reporter's notebook:

It may interest several million American kids of all ages to know that Hopalong Cassidy's horse comes of age next week.

Topper, four-footed hero of more than 95 films, will be 21 on Tuesday. The children at the Graham School in Hastings-on-the-Hudson have arranged a party for him. The birthday cake will have a huge carrot in the center to make it more attractive to Topper.

The big horse, who has had white hair all his life, shows few signs of age. He still travels 30,000 miles a year on personal appearance tours, still puts in a full day's work whenever his boss, that guy in the black cowboy suit, needs him.

But like most famous stars, Topper has a double who performs certain difficult stunts for him.

At 21, a mellowing age for a horse, life holds many attractions for Topper.

He isn't allowed to ride streetcars, of course, but he is ineligible and he always knows where his next lump of sugar is coming from.

Topper knows about every trick for the draft, he doesn't worry about who pays his income taxes, except the trick of speech. Suppose he could talk, what would he say?

An admirer of Topper's thinks the horse would look back over his shoulder at Hopalong and remark: "If only I could get that guy off my back!"

A week ago I was eating at Toots Shor's and saw a tall thin man with a graying mustache dining alone at the next table.

I had a sudden urge to go over and tell him what a fine human being I thought he was and how much I admired his ability as a writer. I had met the man casually, and it would not have been out of place for me to obey my urge. But I didn't.

The man was Robert Sherwood, the playwright. The next day he suffered a heart attack. Two days later he was dead.

It would have made no difference to Bob Sherwood if I had stepped over to him and put my thoughts into words. He was accustomed to receiving the praise he had earned.

But it makes a difference to me that I left my regard for him unspoken, for now I can never tell him and can only write it here, and am left with a regret.

ROMANCE LIVES

Who says romance has died out of the world?

Recently during a cruise the chief steward of the Furness liner "Queen of Bermuda" knocked on the door of stateroom C-119.

He asked the occupants, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Larson of New Rochelle, N.Y., if they would accept a bottle of champagne that evening with the compliments of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Vreeland of Wilmette, Ill.

The surprised couple asked the origin of the gift.

The steward explained that 20 years before the Vreelands had sailed on the liner on their honeymoon. They had planned to spend their 20th anniversary the same way, but family illnesses had prevented them from carrying out their plan.

So the Vreelands wrote the ship line, enclosed a sum of money, and asked that whoever occupied their old cabin—C-119—have a bottle of champagne on their 20th wedding anniversary.

The unusual request was carried out. The Larsons joined the ship's captain in toasting the Vreelands and then radioed them a "happy anniversary" message.

"Im sorry they didn't get to make the trip themselves," said Larson. "They sound like people it would be fun to know."

Mixed Reaction Greets Turncoat

Few Visitors Welcome Freed Traitor Home; Thanks God for Escape

JACKSONVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Lewis Griggs walked down the streets of his home town and found some folks ready to welcome him back. Others resent the fact the turncoat is free.

The lanky 22-year-old thumbed through old high school yearbooks and family pictures.

Except for relatives, there were few callers at the old-fashioned, 2½-story white frame house where his mother has an apartment. He went to the apartment after his arrival Wednesday from San Francisco.

He insists he wasn't a traitor but gives no clear answer when asked why he stayed with the Communists when the Korean War ended.

On the streets of Jacksonville you find a widespread belief that Griggs has suffered, been tortured, or "gone through a lot." Others said they can't forget that of the hundreds of Americans captured in Korea, only 23 chose to stay with the Reds—and Griggs was one of the 23.

Griggs says he believes his "escape" from Red China was a miracle wrought by God "to give me a chance to do this anti-Communist work."

* * *

He and the two other turncoats were freed at San Francisco by a Supreme Court ruling that their dishonorable discharge freed them from military jurisdiction and court-martial on collaboration charges.

Why do they always "rev" the motor of a used car?

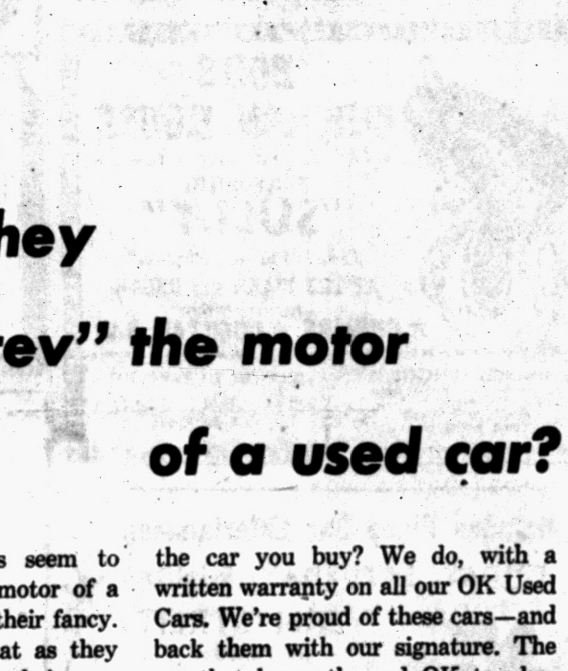

Most prospective buyers seem to enjoy "revving up" the motor of a used car that has caught their fancy. Perhaps the reason is that as they accelerate to a high pitch, their confidence in the car goes up too.

But just sheer volume of power can't produce half the assurance you get when the used car you buy is backed by our reputation as a Chevrolet dealer offering warranted satisfaction.

Because, what you really want to know is, does the dealer stand behind the car you buy? We do, with a written warranty on all our OK Used Cars. We're proud of these cars—and back them with our signature. The car that bears the red OK tag has been thoroughly inspected; reconditioned for safety, value and performance. Its price is likely to be lower because we want to maintain a fast turnover to make room for more trade-ins on brand-new Chevrolets. And because of the high volume of Chevrolet sales, your choice of makes and models is greater than ever.

Red China Opens Store Displaying Capitalistic Items

TOKYO (AP) — Red China has opened the largest state-owned department store in Peiping—with a lot of capitalistic trappings.

A Peiping radio broadcast said a new six-story building was opened with a special ceremony. The vice mayor cut a ribbon, and 10,000 customers massed outside rushed in the door.

Goods on sale, said Peiping, "range from hairpins to pianos, from teaspoons to children's bath tubs, from popular knitwear to fur coats, from daily household utensils to handicrafts."

There is fluorescent lighting, snack bars and "a rest room specially for mothers with children." And the store stays open later on Saturday and Sunday "for the convenience of afternoon shoppers."

LONDON — Despite the trend of other countries to switch traffic to the right of the road, Britain is unlikely to introduce the right-hand rule soon, traffic experts here say. "Such a rule would be all right for new drivers but not for those who have been driving for years," one authority has told newsmen.

"There would be many head-on collisions caused by forgetful and absent-minded drivers. Other countries which keep to the left include China, Japan, Manchuria, Iceland, Cyprus, India and Pakistan—although Pakistan soon may change.

Sweden also may "go right" as her neighbors, Norway and Denmark now do. Generally, British Commonwealth countries have the left rule of the road, it is claimed.

Electronic Sales Jump

NEW YORK—Factory sales of electronic products topped the five-billion dollar mark in 1954. Sales of components and subassemblies to equipment manufacturers added another billion dollars to the total. More than 500,000 persons were employed directly by the industry.

"GEORGE" WINNERS — These famous stars of the silent screen are among 20 winners of the first "George" award for "Distinguished contribution to the art of motion pictures, 1915-1925." The awards were made in Rochester, N. Y., at the First Festival of Film Artists. The winners were selected by the persons they worked with during their film days. The festival is sponsored by the George Eastman House of Photography. The award, named for George Eastman, is a medal bearing his likeness, set in an eight-inch block of transparent plastic.

Rabbit Brush Plagues Western Grazeland

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP)—Ranchers of the West have spent a lot of money and effort getting rid of sagebrush. But two researchers from Oregon State College say that ranchers who kill sagebrush that doesn't have a good grass cover under it may be the victims of something even worse.

That's rabbitbrush, a hearty range perennial that moves in quickly when other vegetation is killed. Overgrazing, fire and cultivation have encouraged its spread until it has now become a major range threat in some areas. Cattle won't eat it.

W. W. Chilcote and C. E. Poulton, OSC range experts, say sage can keep rabbitbrush in check.

Chinese Soldier Retires After 50 Years Service

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist China's oldest soldier has retired after 50 years in the army.

Pvt. Wang Chao-hsiang, 70, joined the army when China was under the rule of the Manchus.

He fought against the Japanese in World War II.

He later was captured by the Chinese Communists but escaped.

The army's political training school gave a farewell party for the old soldier yesterday.

Boys Will Be Boys

MAYSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Boys will be boys, and Will Cooper couldn't resist sifting down the stack of hay after pulling into the hay barn. Only thing was, Will wasn't as young as he felt. The 96-year-old farmer broke an ankle and two ribs.

Cupping Hands to Make Peephole Improves Vision

CHICAGO—A middle-aged person who needs much light in order to see clearly may find this trick helpful.

When he is caught without his glasses and has to look up a phone number in dim light he can usually distinguish the number by cupping one hand into a tiny peephole and looking through it.

The reason for this is fairly simple. Under low illumination the pupil expands so that larger diffusion circles fall on the retina —that is, rays of light are spread

Both Parents Working in 15 Pct. of Families

NEW YORK—Fifteen per cent of American families with both parents working now have children under 6 years of age compared with fewer than 11 per cent in 1948.

Actually, the number of families with both parents working nearly doubled during the period, rising from 800,000 in 1948 to $1,500,000.

Remove Death Trap

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Montana's largest current highway project will eliminate the motorist-killing Devil's Elbow and other hairpin curves of cross-country U. S. Highway 2. It is perhaps Montana's most spectacular highway job, involving relocation of a river channel and moving parts of mountain on the near western slope of the Continental Divide. Crystal Creek will be piped underground for it.

Hollywood Headlines:

Bogey Takes Star Role in 'The Good Shepherd'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—Humphrey Bogart, up to his neck doing "The Harder They Fall" at Columbia, took time off to tell me that he's going to star in C. S. Forrester's "The Good Shepherd."

I asked Lauren Bacall if Bogey is going in for these "good" characters now that he's had two or three sympathetic roles.

She said, "Good heavens, I wouldn't know. He likes being both bad and good."

Playing Captain Queeg, the psychopathic captain in "Caine Mutiny," won Bogey praise and an Academy Award nomination.

Now that he has accepted the sterling character of captain of the fleet in "The Good Shepherd," he may win himself next year's nomination. The picture doesn't start until next year after Bogey and Lauren do "Melville Goodwin, USA," for Warners.

$75,000 FOR STORY

Seventy five thousand dollars on the button was what Darryl Zanuck paid to writer Louis L'Amour for a novel which is still in the writing stage.

It's called "Sitka," and deals with the history of Alaska during the 50 years prior to our acquisition of the territory.

In fact, Darryl commissioned L'Amour to write the book in order that he might acquire the screen rights, and it will be one of Zanuck's own pet projects. In other words, a picture of importance.

Haven't seen "Man With the Golden Arm" myself, but one of my reliable spies reports that this daring study of drug addition may land Frank Sinatra his second Academy Award, or at least a nomination.

Just in case this does happen, it's going to put our production code in a difficult position. The Johnston Office has intimated it may have to refuse a seal of approval because of the subject matter of the picture. If this happens it will have to be handled as was Otto Preminger's other picture, "The Moon Is Blue."

However, Arthur Krim, whose management has guided United Artists to a fine comeback, says he still hopes to get a code seal but that his company will release the picture regardless.

MAN IN ANN'S LIFE

Ann Sheridan is—and always has been — a one-man woman. Rudy Acosta, her Mexican boy friend, has been the only man in her life since the death of Steve Hannagan.

Rudy, who is an actor, gets his best role to date, that of Gilbert Roland's henchman in "Bandido," now being shot near Cuernevaca.

As for marriage, I doubt that Ann will marry Rudy, although he is in love with her and she with him.

When death took Robert Sherwood, one of the country's foremost literary figures, it came suddenly. He was preparing to write the screenplay for "Andersonville" for Columbia.

I knew Bob so well when he used to be a member of the round table at the Algonquin, when I lived there many years ago. His was such a rare talent, and when you think he won the Pulitzer Prize four times and academy recognition for the motion picture, "Best Years of Our Lives," you realize what a truly great writer he was and what a loss he is to the literary world.

Speaking of "Andersonville," the first casting, I believe, is Walter Slezak, who plays the psychotic Confederate Gen. Winder.

MARLENE AND MIKE

Snaps: Marlene Dietrich and Mike Todd seem to be getting around together these evenings. Saw them at Chasen's, and he's built up her role in "Around the World in 80 Days," bringing her back for added scenes.

Saw Jerry Lewis same place. He was with Patti and he says it's 98 days now until the baby arrives. They'll call her Maria after Patti's mother. They have no name for a boy—they don't expect a boy.

Norma Talmadge and her doctor husband have moved to Las Vegas again.

Korean Traitor Given Life Imprisonment

SEOUL (AP)—A 36-year-old Korean was sentenced to life imprisonment yesterday for passing documents to a Communist Chinese last year at the SEATO conference in Manila.

South Korea's Central Military Court dismissed three of four espionage and collaboration with the enemy charges against Hong Ki Kyung. In a secret unanimous vote, it convicted him on the fourth.

Prosecutors had asked the death penalty.

Kyung was extradited from the Phillipines. He denounced the Communists for trapping him into espionage.

Baseball Helps U.S. Diplomacy

Army General's Interest in Sport Endears Him to Japanese People

TOKYO (NEA)—America has a brand new pitcher on its military-diplomatic team in the Far East.

He is Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, who succeeds Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor as Commander-in-Chief of the Far East Command. Taylor has been appointed Army Chief-of-Staff.

Lemnitzer was a catcher on the West Point baseball team in 1920 and baseball and diplomacy have been mixed up in his brilliant career ever since.

Maybe it was just luck that he happened to be in line for the job, but the Japanese love baseball and worship American baseball players, and already have a high regard for Lemnitzer's pitching. One of the first things he did when he arrived in Japan recently was to officiate at a service soft-ball game.

As a gag he pitched a couple of innings before a large Japanese crowd and they loved it. They had never seen an American general play baseball before.

The most famous game he ever pitched was in Africa during World War II when commanding an anti-aircraft brigade. A rough-and-tumble Army railroad outfit had moved in next to him and trouble developed between the men in the two units.

Lemnitzer suggested that all difficulties between the outfits be settled on the baseball diamond. The railroaders agreed on the condition that Lemnitzer play.

He did, pitched a shut-out and knocked out three hits.

That ended the trouble.

Lemnitzer's diplomatic duties began when he was on the famous submarine visit to Africa with Gen. Mark Clark. They succeeded in getting the French generals to agree not to fight U. S. troops that came ashore.

He also helped negotiate the surrender of Italian and German troops in Italy during World War II.

Chit-Chat at Met Open — Real Gone Dialogue

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Looking back on it, I must say you surely do hear strange dialogue at the Met Opera opening . . . I asked Hope Hampton, whose gown was the hit of the party, how long it took her to dress, and she answered, "Ten minutes—with bubble bath."

HOPE

TV Star Ernie Kovacs: "Where we going for the next act?" . . . "How about Sardi's?" . . . "But Sardi is here!" . . . Famous Name (in Sherry's Bar): "Oh, my goodness, you mean we missed another act just sittin' here?"

Blanche Thebom, Canton, O.'s gift to the Met, whom we congratulated on her gold tiara, looked around at some of the borrowed jewelry, and said, "The nice part about it is, it's mine!"

Everybody piled over to El Morocco afterward. Hollywood's Mike Romanoff commented, "I didn't wear my crown tonight . . . just modesty, I guess."

The wife who, of course, was with me, observed, "With all those dresses, you didn't see any two alike."

"Most of them," snapped a by-sitter, "should never have been made even once!"

Taffy Tuttle didn't object to her boy friend drinking Scotch on the rocks, but she really did squawk when he ordered "A little Scotch on Scotch."

Down at the Key Biscayne Hotel in Miami, Irving Berlin personally congratulated a dinner group for singing "God Bless America," explaining he'd written it. The chairman snorted at Berlin, "A wise guy, eh? It so happens I'm a personal friend of Irving Berlin; so don't pull any of your phony impressions on me!" Now the chairman is blushing.

'Pensioner' Had Plenty

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sidney Langdale, 69, who was believed by acquaintances to be living on an old age pension was found — after death — to have been the owner of more than $110,000 worth of U.S. Steel stock. All efforts to locate relatives were unavailing until a brother, Arthur, of Salt Lake City, telephoned the public administrator.

Ball Parks May Have Plastic Domes Soon

NEW YORK — Developments in rigid structural plastics may make possible the construction of protective plastic domes over major-league baseball parks to permit play in all kinds of weather.

The largest rigid plastic structure put up thus far was a dome 40 feet high with a diameter of 55 feet. Engineers say domes 350 feet high and 600 feet across can be built if metal ribs are used.

'Your Son's a Vulgar Snob' Red Radio Tells Russians

LONDON (AP) — A Moscow radio commentator says some teen-age Russian boys are sporting nail polish that "defies description."

That and a lot of other things got a thorough going over today in a home service broadcast warning well-to-do parents their sons are getting out of hand.

The broadcast was addressed to couples it said typically "possess a television set, a summer house in the country and who live in one of the new tall blocks of flats and have on their bookshelves De Maupassant, Boccaccio and Swift."

THE VARNISH DEFIES . . .

The commentator said such parents are likely to "know very little about their 16-year-old son and care very little whether they see him every day for meals or not, where he goes and what he does."

And he added:

"Look at him, the precious pet.

"Look at his tie, the color of a parrot.

"Look at the cigarette stuck between his teeth . . . and this at the age of 16.

"Look at his socks of specially chosen shade, and as to his nails, the varnish defies description.

The CAB has asked the airlines to comment by Jan. 16 on the proposal.

Insurance Benefits Up

DETROIT (AP) — The Institute of Life Insurance says payments of $70,605,000 in life insurance death benefits were made to Michigan families during the first nine months of this year. Payments during that period in 1954 were $66,897,000. The institute said 42,871 policies became claims in the nine months period this year as against 40,317 last year.

Traditional Battles Mark Weekend Schedules

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There'll be a bargain counter full of old school ties resting on old grad paunches at a flock of traditional battles in college football this weekend, but for all practical purposes there are just two games on the schedule—Ohio State at Michigan and Southern Cal vs. UCLA.

Both are on tap tomorrow afternoon and the Rose Bowl lineup rides on the results.

Michigan can cop the Big 10 title and the Jan. 2 berth with a victory. UCLA can win the Pacific Coast Conference crown and the other half of the Pasadena pass by defeating the Trojans.

Ohio State has "only" the Big 10 at stake. The Buckeyes can't go to the Rose Bowl since they performed there last New Year's Day.

Southern Cal has nothing at stake except a whale of a chance to brighten a so-so season. An upset of fifth-ranked UCLA, however, might open the Rose Bowl door for Oregon State, which plays Oregon.

Michigan, playing before a home crowd of 97,239, is favored by a touchdown and maybe more after a minor auto accident in Columbus, Ohio, Thursday. OSU's All-America backfield ace, Howard (Hopalong) Cassady, was involved in the mishap and he'll be carrying a stiff neck against the Wolves.

UCLA is favored by 9, although whiz Ronnie Knox is on the injured list. The nod goes to whip-cracking Coach Red Sanders, who must have been bristling all week after that 19-17 score by Washington last weekend.

It's the national TV game of the week (NBC) and 100,000 plus will be in the stands for what shapes up as a running battle between UCLA's Sam Brown and Bob Davenport and Southern Cal's Jon Arnett. It may be played in the rain.

The weekend gets rolling tonight when winless Alabama visits Miami (Fla.). The Hurricanes mentioned as a possible new addition to the Southeastern Conference, shouldn't have any trouble at all with Bama, a cellar member of the SEC at present.

In addition to the two big ones tomorrow, Oklahoma, the Nation's No. 1 team, takes on Nebraska for the Big 7 title. The Sooners, with 27 straight victories, are favored by 3 touchdowns and a Husker victory would be such an upset Coach Bill Glassford probably would tear up the resignation he filed Thursday (effective at season's end).

The nation's only other major unbeaten, second-ranked Maryland, wraps up the season against George Washington. The Terps, headed for an Orange Bowl showdown with Oklahoma, are favored by 4 TDs.

In the Southwest, Texas Christian and Jim Swink and sew up the Cotton Bowl berth against Rice. TCU, No. 7 nationally, gets the nod by 2 touchdowns, Conference leader Texas A&M, banned from a bowl by probation, is idle.

Mississippi and Georgia Tech, top bowl prospects from the Southeastern Conference, are idle—but Auburn and Tennessee keep the fires buring. Auburn has a touchdown edge on Clemson, which may have lost its fight playing Maryland last week. Tennessee is a TD underdog against Kentucky.

Pitt, which gained bowl attention by toppling unbeaten West Virginia last week, could clinch a reported Gator Bowl bid against Penn State. The Panthers are favored by 6.

In the Midwest, fourth-ranked Notre Dame goes against Iowa in a game that's been a sizzler in recent years. The Irish are favored by 10.

In the East, Princeton can win the Ivy crown by whipping Dartmouth (the Tigers are favored by 12) while Harvard needs a third-straight upset of Yale for the Big Three title. Yale's favored by two TDs.

State Ranks 1st as Snow Sport Center

Calender Lists 22 Special Events in Winter Months

LANSING (AP)—Michigan is vaulting into the 1st rank among the states in winter sports with 22 special events scheduled for January, February and March.

The state tourist council said there will be increased activity this winter at more than 40 winter sports centers.

Included in the calendar are nine winter carnivals, and ice-fishing festivals, eight downhill and slalom ski races, two ski jump tournaments, two speed skating championships and an ice revue.

The calendar:

Jan. 8—Central Michigan speed skating championships, Bay City; Jan. 13-15—Alcona County winter sports roundup and bobcat hunt, Hubbard Lake; Jan. 20-22—"Tip-Up-Town" ice fishing festival, Houghton Lake; Jan. 22—Briar Hill downhill and slalom race, Mesick; Jan. 28—Avalanche Day at Boyne City; Jan. 28-29—Sheridan Valley Winter Carnival, Lewiston; Jan. 28-29—Winter Wonderland Carnival, Petoskey; Jan. 28-29—Caberfae junior ski meet, Cadillac;

Feb. 3-5—Silver Valley Winter Sports Carnival, Tawas; Feb. 5—Annual Southern Michigan jumping championship, Mesick; Feb. 4-5—22nd annual Thunder Bay Winter Carnival, Alpena; Feb. 6-11—Michigan Tech winter carnival, Houghton; Feb. 10-12—Grayling Winter Sports Carnival; Feb. 11-12—Michigan intercollegiate ski races, Boyne Mountain; Feb. 11-12—Caberfae senior ski meet, Grayling;

Feb. 18—National Classic jumping and cross-country tournament, Ishpeming; Feb. 19—40th Ishpeming Ski Club tournament; Feb. 19—Diamond Derby speed skating championship, Saginaw; mid-month—Escanaba ice revue; Feb. 25—Ski tournament, Iron Mountain; Feb. 26—Kircher Trophy ski race, Boyne Mountain.

March 18—Boyne Mountain Ski Club races.

Bill Glassford Quits Nebraska After OU Tilt

Contract Expires in June; Decides Not to Take Option

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—The Big 7 Conference championship game with Oklahoma here Saturday will be the "Swan Song" at Nebraska for Coach Bill Glassford. His team is given little chance to beat Oklahoma, champion or co-champion for eight years.

Glassford, at the Nebraska helm for seven up and down years, announced yesterday he was quitting. A five-year contract expires next June 30 and the coach said he had decided not to exercise a five-year option on the $12,500 per year job.

The coach said "my family and I have decided for our best interests and happiness" that the option would not be picked up.

So, he said, he is writing "Finis" to a Nebraska career that has seen him under heavy fire the past three years, fire that never died all the way down even when his teams won games.

Glassford referred briefly to this when he acknowledged, in response to questions, that his family had been subject to "vicious harrassment" from disgruntled elements of the alumni and other fans.

At the same time he said he had made "many wonderful friends" in the state and he sincerely hoped "that my successor will have the support of the students and of the administration. . . ."

When some members of the 1953 team, which had a 3-6 season, petitioned for Glasford's resignation, and if he would not resign, that he be fired, there was a rush of alumni, students and fans to choose up sides.

Glassford stayed, even though his resignation, he said, was demanded by two school officials connected with the athletic setup. His contract was iron-clad—stating he could not resign nor could he be fired.

But even though the disgruntled players returned and Nebraska enjoyed a winning season and a trip to the Orange Bowl in 1954, some alumni factions kept up a steady drumfire of talk that Glassford "had to go."

Blues and Crimsons Clash in East's Feature Battle

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Yale and Harvard, who once fought for the national football championship, collide in the bowl tomorrow in what they fondly call The Game.

Although the traditional rivals no longer measure the entire seasons success by the outcome of this battle, it remains the big one, the one that really counts, both to them and to the graduate Blues and Crimsons and their families.

On the records, Yale (6-2), including an upset 14-12 victory over Army, is a 2-touchdown favorite over Harvard (3-3-1). But, in the past two weeks, Harvard beat Princeton 7-6, and Princeton surprised Yale 13-0.

Both teams completed preparations yesterday for this 72nd contest between them and are as ready as they'll ever be. All that remains now are the dressing room speeches.

In New Haven, two dressing room talks are most frequently recalled. One was by Tad Jones, the other by Herman Hickman.

"Gentlemen," said Jones just before a Harvard game he wanted to win for more than the usual reasons, "you are about to play football for Yale against Harvard. Never in your lives will you do anything so important!"

If this appears to be corn, it worked. Jones, now a fuel merchant here, coached Yale in 1916, and again after World War I from 1920 through 1927. His over-all record was 5-3-1 against the Harvards, but the best the Crimsons could do during his last five years was a scoreless tie in 1925.

Except for Howie Odell, who during World War II years managed to score 4 in a row over Harvard, no other Yale coach, dating back to 1871, has been able to equal the Jones record.

100,000 to See UCLA, USC

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The day might be rainy and the squads heavily populated with the lame and the halt, but barring even graver misfortunes, UCLA and Southern California will meet in an important Pacific Coast Conference football game tomorrow.

UCLA has an opportunity to cinch the Rose Bowl assignment and win another local honor over the Bruins' bitter crosstown rival, and the sellout crowd of more than 100,000, along with the nation's vast television audience, may see a whale of a game.

The latter will come to pass, however, only if the small army of cripples return to good health and sound limb by kickoff time at 1:30 p.m. PST. NBC handles this game of the week on TV.

There has been such a flow of disheartening reports from both camps all week the casual observer might have concluded the game could be called off entirely.

Most likely the Warriors will rise to the occasion, as they generally do, and if the experts are correct, UCLA will emerge triumphant.

A Bruin win will also nail down the Rose Bowl honor. If they lose, and Oregon State defeats Oregon at Eugene the same afternoon, the bowl representatives will be decided by vote of the nine conference members.

UCLA goes into the fray with a 5-0 conference record, 1 loss (to Maryland) in it over-all season of 9 games, the fifth-ranked team in The Associated Press national poll, and a single wing style of attack that can either be deadly and beautiful to watch, or if it doesn't, unpleasantly dull.

Southern Cal, which has lost the past two years to the Bruins, employes a variety of offenses, including the straight and split-T, the single wing and the Michigan buck lateral.

If the Trojans, with such fine running backs as Jon Arnett, Gordon Duvall or C. R. Roberts, click as they did, for instance, in hammering Wisconsin around, UCLA is in for real trouble and the fans in for a fine show.

If the multi-attack gets too complicated, as Washington, Minnesota and Stanford made it appear, goodbye Trojans.

Big Ten Eyes 'M,' Buck Tilt in Loop Finale

Windup Finds 3-Way Fight for Fourth Place to Be Settled

CHICAGO (AP)—The Big Ten football campaign roars down to the finale tomorrow with the title and Rose Bowl trip still at stake.

The blue-chip windup sends Ohio State, unbeaten in conference play, to Michigan, were a crowd of 97,239 will watch the Wolverines try to stop the Buckeyes' great game-breaker, Howie (Hopalong) Cassady.

Michigan, playing seven league games to Ohio State's six, can take the crown and become the 1st Big Ten team to make three Pasadena trips since the series was inaugurated in 1947 by defeating the Buckeyes.

A victory would give the Wolverines a 6-1 conference count for the season while defending champion Ohio State, ineligible to return to the Rose Bowl after appearing there last January, would wind up with 5-1 to share 2nd place with Michigan State.

A Buckeye victory, or a deadlock, would assure Michigan State of the Rose Bowl date. Michigan would finish 3rd.

Michigan has won 7 of the last 10 games with the Buckeyes and played to a 7-7 tie in 1949. The dope sheets favor the Wolverines by a touchdown.

The windup finds a three-way battle for 4th place among Purdue (3-2-1), Ilinois 3-3) and Wisconsin (3-3).

Purdue will take that spot, regardless of what the others do, by beating Indiana (1-4) in the traditional Old Oaken Bucket scrap at Bloomington, Ind. The Boilermakers rate a two-touchdown edge.

To stay in the running for 4th, Illinois must defeat Northwestern and Wisconsin do the same with the Gophers at Minnesota.

Illini are heavily favored in their Northwestern invasion if the Wileats lose, it will be the 1st season in their history without a victory. They have dropped all eight of their games.

Wisconsin is a seven-point choice over the Gophers who have a 1-5 conference mark and were blasted 42-14 by Michigan State last week.

Michigan State will have a chance to wipe the bench clean in the Spartans' home non-conference engagement with Marquette.

Refrigerator Teams OK Bid

Jacksonville State to Donate Its Profits to Charity

JACKSONVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Jacksonville State last night announced its acceptance of a bid to meet the University of Rhode Island in the seventh annual Refrigerator Bowl at Evansville, Ind., Dec. 4.

Athletic Director Newbern W. Bush said Jacksonville agreed to play in the bowl game with the understanding that its share of the proceeds, after expenses, be donated to the Alabama Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

The Refrigerator Bowl is an annual charity game, sponsored by the Evansville Junior Chamber of Commerce. Part of the proceeds go to the benefit of crippled children of Evansville.

Jacksonville has a season mark of 8 victories and 1 defeat.

Rhode Island is undefeated with 6 victories and 3 ties, and is champion of the Yankee Conference, composed of schools from New Hampshire, Maine, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Vermont.

Fresno Catcher to Pilot Allentown Club

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Roland (Nat) LeBlanc, 34, catcher-manager of the Fresno Cardinals of the California Baseball League for four seasons, announced today he will pilot the Allentown, Pa., club of the Class A Eastern League in 1956.

LeBlanc led the Cards to the league pennant in 1955 and 1952 and also managed the team in 1950 and 1953.

Radio Calls Bring Son, Gun and Bear

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — A Drummond stockman, Wayne Hill, radioed for a gun when he saw a bear. He spooked the bear into brush. While wondering what to do next, he saw a Blackfoot Forest Protective Assn. patrol car. Patrolman Art Ahlin radioed a lookout station which called Hill's son, Byron, at school. Byron got to the scene with a gun and his daddy bagged the bear.

Deer-Killing Disease Gone, Department Says

LANSING (AP) — A mysterious disease, which killed more than 130 deer in Michigan in a month this fall, has disappeared. The Michigan Conservation Dept. said it believes the disease was a virus infection which principally covered a five-county area in the heart of Michigan's deer country.

Bowling Clinic

By BILLY SIXTY

HOLDING THE SPOT—You can learn a valuable lesson by watching a topflight team. See how the different members apply different angles in "playing" an alley that "runs." Such an alley hooks easily, sometimes sharply.

On a first class team, all bowlers watch every ball rolled to observe its action; then adjust themselves accordingly. You'll see one of them shift toward the center of the alley with his stance and deliver the ball to the right of the head pin for his strike angle. He "allows" for the alley run.

You'll see another hold his strike spot, as sketch shows. He doesn't move his stance. Instead, he angles less on a slick alley, shooting more directly at the 1-3 pocket. And on a "run" alley, using the same starting spot, he reduces the amount of hook by swinging through farther and lofting the ball. In this way it rotates longer before it revolves into hook action—it "breaks" farther down the alley, as sketch shows, and thereby holds the strike line. Try this in practice. Observe just where your ball begins to break and determine in that way whether you need loft and how much of it. I'm sure you'll gain a lot by doing this.

Dales Hopeful of Bowl Game

Expect Word Monday of Teams Selected for Tangerine

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Hillsdale College still is among eight small college football teams being considered for the Tangerine Bowl game at Orlando Jan. 2.

Besides Hillsdale, unbeaten in nine games and with the nation's leading scorer, the Tangerine Bowl committee said it also is considering Centre, Coe, Middle Tennessee, Heidelberg, Iowa State Teachers, Tampa and Missouri Valley.

A committee spokesman said no announcement of selections is expected before Monday.

Fencers Begin Preparing for Tourney Play

Challenge bouts have begun in the Parks and Recreation Department's fencing classes at Pontiac High School in preparation for tournament activity at the close of the season.

Classes are being conducted in the PHS girls' gymnasium every Wednesday night from 7 to 10 p.m. under the guidance of Guy Waterman and Eldon Gardner, Jr. Sessions will continue through March.

Fencing season will be climaxed by several tournaments with teams from other cities, although the schedule is still incomplete. Competition is planned against Saginaw, Bay City, Lapeer, Highland Park and the Michigan School for the Deaf in Flint.

Pontiac High School fencing club is active in the classes as are numerous interested adults. Instruction is offered to all senior high school students and any person who was active in the sport of fencing last year. Equipment is provided and there is no charge for membership.

Barajas Decisions Kid in 10-Round Slugfest

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Pimi Barajas of Tijuana, Mexico, 116, won a split decision over Danny Kid of Manila, 117, in last night's 10-rounder at the Olympic Auditorium.

There was considerable dissension over the verdict, but none whatever about the fight itself. It was a slam-bang action all the way.

Bishop, Gleason Horseshoe Champs

George Bishop and George Gleason won league honors over a field of 10 doubles teams in the Waterford Township Recreation Department's fall horseshoe pitching competition conducted weekly under the lights at Drayton Plains ball park.

The Bishop-Gleason tandem amassed 60 points in league play, which ended Nov. 8. Tom Pearsall and Bud Gibson were runners-up with 48 points.

Twice as many participants are expected next year, the recreation department reports, and additional courts are needed. Tentative plans call for starting the new season in June.

Final standings:

Bishop, Gleason 60; Gibson, Pearsall 48; Fullerton, Oakley 44; Larr, Larr 43; Heaton, Leslie 37; Keith, Ruelle 30; Russell, Strong 29; Keeling, Case 23; Goulet, Wheeler 17; Vernan, Haring 16.

The Old Major Sees Wolverine as Loser

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
(One Who Laughs Last)

Har-har! That's probably an unconventional way to launch a football discussion that is meant to be serious. Well, gentle readers, there's a reason. Several weeks ago this paragrapher wrote:

"Not too many upsets this week, folks. The big one is Illinois to defeat Michigan, Stanford to upset USC." Remember!

Throughout the broad land the wiseacres laughed loud, and long.

You know the rest. Both upsets took place.

For this week, here's the top item: Ohio State to trip the Wolverines at Ann Arbor, and send Michigan State to the Rose Bowl. Spartans should win, also as they choose.

Here are the forecasts:

Arkansas 23, La. State 12; So. Methodist 20, Baylor 19; Florida 14, Vanderbilt 13; Kentucky 20, Tennessee 14; Tex. Christian 20, Rice 14; Stanford 27, California 7; Oregon 21, Oregon State 7; So. California 21, UCLA 13; Washington 20, Wash. State 14.

Yale 16, Harvard 13; Princeton 20, Dartmouth 7; Penn State 14, Pitt 7; West Virginia 20, Syracuse 14; Illinois 30, Northwestern 13; Purdue 21, Indiana 14; Notre Dame 27, Iowa 14; Missouri 14, Kansas 7.

Okla. A & M 19, Kans. State 13; Mich. State 41, Marquette 0; Ohio State 27, Michigan 21; Wisconsin 20, Minnesota 17; Oklahoma 33, Nebraska 0; Miami 20, Alabama 7.

After Five Years, Highly-Publicized Quarterback May Start Second Game

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—After 39 games and five years, Lynn Beightol may be starting his second game at quarterback tomorrow for Maryland's undefeated football team against George Washington. If he does, it will be by a hair.

Two ingrown hairs, in fact, on the neck of first-string quarterback Frank Tamburello. They set up an infection in Tamburello's neck last week to give Beightol his first crack at starting against Clemson and kept Tamburello in the hospital most of this week.

If it weren't for that, Beightol would have the dubious distinction of being the most publicized football player to enter Maryland in the last decade and never start a game.

About a dozen colleges, including Notre Dame's Coach Frank Leahy, sought him after he starred at Fort Hill High in Cumberland, Md. He made the Maryland varsity as a freshman in 1951, scored in the first game and went on to play in every game with the undefeated team that beat Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl.

His fame was so widespread that Judge Saul S. Streit of New York in sentencing college basketball fixers mentioned him as an example of competition for star athletes.

With All-America candidate Jack Scarbath—he made it—and highly capable Bernie Faloney behind him at quarterback in 1952, Beightol laid off football that season.

He came back in 1953 to join another undefeated team with Faloney as the quarterback. When Faloney got hurt before the Orange Bowl game with Oklahoma, Coach Jim Tatum turned to Charlie Boxold and Beightol still was third string.

Last year, it was the same with Boxold starting and a sophomore, Tamburello, ousting him.

This season, it was Tamburello all the way until last Saturday's Clemson game. Beightol successfully quarterbacked Maryland from behind to clinch the Orange Bowl, and third post-season game in four seasons of play that he will make.

He is the best passer and punter on the squad. He also is the biggest family man. He has three children, 1, 2, and 3 years old.

Beightol is only 22 years old despite spending five years of study in pre-medical courses at Maryland.

Dennehy Takes '2-and-2' to Win in Toronto Show

TORONTO (INS) — Besting a field of seven riders, Charles Dennehy Jr., won the two-and-two event at the Royal Winter Fair horse show at Toronto last night to give the U. S. its 3rd straight victory in the international jumping competition.

A unique affair, the two-and-two consists of one rider who rides two horses. He covers the course one way, then changes horses and completes the course again in reverse.

Dennehy, riding Pillbox and Altmeister, did the two rounds with only three faults in one minute, 47.3 seconds. Although Canada's James Elder completed the double ride in one minute 28 seconds, he had eight faults. This gave the Canadians, who rode Bellair and Amsel, 2nd place.

Ireland captured 3rd and 4th spots. Lt. William Ringrose, aboard Glencree and Hollyforth, had eight faults and was timed in one minute, 39.8 seconds. Lt. Patrick Kiernan, who took his turns on Ballynonty and Gelnamaddy, also had eight faults but needed one minute 44.6 seconds to complete his ride.

A feature of the Dennehy victory was the fact he was the only U. S. rider while each of the other three conutries had two in the contest.

Friends of Connie Mack Give Birthday Party but 'Grand Old Man' Not Able to Be Present

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — As they have done for so many years, old timers and admiring younger fellows gave a pre-birthday party for Connie Mack last night, but the great man, himself, couldn't be there.

On Oct. 1 baseball's patriarch fell from his bed and suffered a right hip fracture. While in the hospital he fell from bed a second time. Later in October he underwent surgery, and in what seemed like no time at all he was back home and reported to be fit indeed for a man who will turn 93 on Dec. 22.

Last night was supposed to be his first venture out since the start of his convalescence at home, and his appearance at the Reciprocity Club's annual party in the Warwick Hotel was eagerly awaited.

At least 150 persons—club members, civic leaders, baseball fans and baseball giants of yore—teetered for more than two hours in the hope that Connie eventually would show up, if only for a hail and farewell, and to hear a congratulatory greeting from President Eisenhower read in public.

Although no formal explanation was given why Connie didn't make it, word was passed around that hi family and physician felt it inadvisable for him to make the considerable effort, however keen his desire.

That was long after the remains of the dinner's last course had been removed, and after the dozens of times that the diners had turned swiftly and expectantly at every sound at the doors.

Thus it came about that baseball stars of other times, men such as Frank (Home Run) Baker, Bing Miller, Lena Blackburn and Howard Ehmke, gathered around the chair that was meant for Connie Mack. They spoke mistily of him as a friend and as a master baseball strategist who guided the Philadelphia Athletics to one-time dominance in baseball.

"There'll never be anybody like Connie Mack. He'd sure like to be here at his own birthday party, you can bet."

It might have been Baker who said that. Or perhaps Ehmke. No one rightly knew, for the big four of glory long ago weren't the only ones who felt a bit weepy.

* * *

Someone remarked that it would have been a happier personal appearance for Connie than last year's. It was recalled that Connie then still was acutely saddened by the loss of his beloved Philadelphia Athletics to Kansas City. Connie put up a brave front at the 1954 birthday shindig, but you kept thinking of his real feelings.

Buckeyes in Seclusion on Eve of Game

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Ohio State's Woody Hayes and his Buckeye power were due in the state today still under wraps for their Big Ten showdown tomorrow against Michigan's title and Rose Bowl hopes.

Ohio is after its 9th Big Ten title, while Michigan's 19th title and 4th Rose Bowl trip are at stake.

Hayes is taking no chances. His star halfback Howard (Hopalong) Cassady escaped serious injury in a minor auto accident yesterday.

The cautious Ohio coach is taking his whole team out of circulation until game time. Bucks aren't staying at either the Ypsilanti or Jackson hotels usually frequented by Michigan opponents. They'll stay at the Dearborn Inn in suburban Detroit.

Nor will Hayes risk working his squad out in mammoth Michigan Stadium, where a sellout crowd of 97,239 will watch the traditional battle between the two teams. Usually visiting coaches like to work their squad out at the stadium to give them the feel of it.

After declaring his Columbus practice field off limits to all but three regular newsmen, Hayes decided that was the safest place to work his team.

After today's workout in Columbus, they board a plane for Willow Run airport and bus from there to Dearborn.

Hayes had a severe scare when All-American Cassady was involved in a minor accident. Cassady's car was struck from behind by another auto near the Ohio State campus.

The brilliant Ohio speedster, currently leading Big Ten ushers, complained that the jolt snapped his neck back. Ohio State trainer Ernie Biggs said the neck may be stiff but that was all. There was no doubt that Cassady would be in top shape to play.

Meanwhile on the Michigan campus, coach Bennie Oosterbaan and his staff brushed away news of the injury.

"It's not much anyway," they said. "Besides he'd be a threat at half efficiency."

The Michigan team, working on a snow-swept practice field, finished an hour early yesterday. Oosterbaan said, "I cut it short because the ground was frozen hard."

Wolverines worked out for about two hours, in and out of the adjoining field house. Trainer Jim Hunt reported all hands were well and should be by game time.

Today the squad runs through signal drills for more than an hour in full dress uniform in the last practice before the game.

Ohio State's only injury problem is apparently at the right halfback slot. Earlier this week Hayes said that 2nd stringer Jerry Harkrader would likely miss the game. Then 1st stringer Jim Roseboro turned up with an injury and Hayes said he will start Don Sutherin, a powerful sophomore.

Hayes Readies Aerial Offense for Wolverines

OSU Coach Says Use of It Planned Only if Bucks Trail

COLUMBUS (AP)—Michigan football rooters may keep their eyes glued to Ohio State's Hop Cassady, the swivel-hipped ground-gainer. But the Michigan team may have to guard against an air attack Saturday, especially if it takes an early lead over the Bucks.

That advice comes from one who knows better than anyone what the Buckeyes plan to do—coach Woody Hayes. "We might do a little passing of our own," said Woody, adding with a chuckle, "and hurt somebody with it."

But the Buckeye mentor indicated that if his team does take to the airlanes, it will only be because Ohio will be in trouble.

"We'll be rooting for you everytime you throw," someone remarked to Hayes during yesterday's one hour and 20-minute workout.

"No, you better not," replied Woody, indicating the sad state the Bucks would probably be in if it came to the point where they have to throw the ball.

Ohio, of course, had relied on a powerful ground attack to register its five successive Western conference victories. And spearheading that attack is Cassady, the galloping red-headed halfback.

Lenny Moore, East's Top Gainer, Waits for Pitt

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Penn State's Lenny Moore, top running back in his school's 68 years of football, has just one wish for his 27th and final college game tomorrow against bowl-hungry Pittsburgh.

"I hope it's a good one, that's all," is his reserved comment.

Never known to blow his own horn the spindle-legged runner already has had all the adjectives hooked to his game. He's been called the best, greatest and his accomplishments have been listed as the "mostest."

Son of a Reading, Pa., steel mill worker, the 6-foot halfback goes into the game as the leading rusher in the East and fifth in the nation. His 687 yards net in 8 games averages better than 5 a try.

Still the figures are a bit under his 1954 record of 1,082 yards in 9 games—the first Lion ever to break 1,000—that won him runner-up honors in the nation and a slot on the third All-America team backfield.

"Something Moore said during that great season helps explain the difference. He attributed his success mainly to good blocking. "Without those men up front you can't get anywhere," he said.

This year Penn State, losers to Army, Navy and West Virginia, just hasn't the line it had last fall. Moore's 13 touchdowns in 1954 tied a school record and placed him among the top in the country. This season he's recorded 5 TDs. He's had 8 runs of 50 yards or better.

All this by a player who says: "I never think about long runs or records. I think only of playing as well as I can and winning for the team. I guess I'm just lucky."

Creekmur Gets Tagged

After being moved to middle guard from his offensive tackle spot, Lou Creekmur of the Lions came up with the new nickname, "Little Bing." Creekmur is 100 pounds lighter than Les Bingaman, who manned the position in 1954.

Calumet Farm Gets Back in Derby Picture

Two Horses Entered in Pimlico Futurity Tomorrow

BALTIMORE (AP)—Calumet Farm could be stating an early trial for the 1956 Kentucky Derby for itself tomorrow.

It is sending out Eastgate and Liberty Sun in the Pimlico Futurity. A victory by either would not only throw the 2-year-old championship of 1955 into complete confusion, but serve early notice that Calumet is back in the Derby picture.

It has been out of it for the last three years with not even an entry. But before that it won in 1952 with Hill Gail, 1949 with Ponder, 1948 with Citation, 1944 with Pensive, and 1941 with Whirlaway. It first started in the Derby in 1935 and besides its 5 victories since then has had 2 seconds and a third.

In customary training style of Jimmy Jones, the Calumet 2-year-olds have been brought along slowly and cautiously this year so that neither Eastgate nor Liberty Sun earned much attention.

But they have been doing all right in their quiet ways. Eastgate has won his last three races, including his first big one in the Spalding Lowe Jenkins at Laurel Tuesday. He started only twice before.

The Spalding Lowe Jenkins was a mile and sixteenth, same distance as tomorrow's Futurity.

Liberty Sun has won 2 of 6 races and according to insiders seems faster in practice, but has never actually competed more than three quarters of a mile.

Either could really make a mess of the 2-year-old championship by winning. Right now, there is no standout.

At one time or another, Swoon's Son, Needles, Prince John and Nail seemed to be it.

Jovial Jove, one of those likely to be entered in the Pimlico Futurity, took care of Swoon's Son in the Breeders Futurity at Keeneland.

Spartans, Irish Favored to Take Harrier Meets

CHICAGO (AP)—Michigan State is favored in the Big 10 and Notre Dame in the Central Collegiate as both conferences today hold their annual cross country championship meet over the 4-mile course at Chicago's Washington Park.

Michigan State, winner of the IC4A crown Monday in New York, ranks a heavy favorite with a strong one-two threat in Henry Kennedy, winner of the New York meet, and Selwyn Jones.

Michigan, defending champion, canceled its cross country schedule this fall and will not be represented by a full squad.

Notre Dame dominates the central field with Marquette, Western Michigan, Drake and Wheaton battling for second place.

Ane Fills Three Slots

Charlie Ane, veteran Detroit Lions tackle from Southern California, played offensive tackle, offensive center, and defensive tackle in the Lions' 31-28 decision over Pittsburgh during the '55 season.

Commission Suspends Two

Licenses for Fight Managers Revoked in Pennsylvania

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—Fight Managers Anthony Ferrante and Carmen Graziano were suspended yesterday by the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission, leaving up in the air the future course of their stable of fighters—which includes lightweight champ Wallace (Bud) Smith and middleweight Joey Giardello.

The revocation of their licenses was recognized immediately by Chairman Julius Helfand of the New York State Athletic Commission and is expected to be backed nationwide by members of the National Boxing Assn.

Pennsylvania commission chairman James (Sleepy) Jim) Crowley said the commission suspended the two Philadelphians because it found them:

Unfit and incompetent by reason of their habits; because of their conduct and behavior; guilty of unprofessional and unethical conduct; they had conducted themselves in a manner detrimental to boxing, to the public interest and general welfare; they associated with criminals, gamblers and others of ill-repute.

PHS Weight Lifters Select 1st Officers

The newly-formed weight-lifting club of Pontiac High School elected its officers at a recent meeting in the high school gymnasium.

Those elected were as follows: Delbert Zimmer, president; Samuel Karagualluf, vice-president; Dean Millon, treasurer, and Robert Lamson, secretary.

Club members voted to order weights and other necessary equipment, using as funds the money received from the proceeds of the weight-lifting exhibition.

No TV for 'M'-OSU Tilt; Plenty of Radio Pickup

ANN ARBOR (AP) —The Michigan-Ohio State football game Saturday will definitely not be on television, but it will be on radio. Les Etter, U. of M. publicist, said 16 radio stations and the Mutual and NBC networks are picking up the game.

The Michigan-Ohio State game is a sellout, but athletic director Fritz Crisler explained that sellout games may be added to TV only if there is no other game within 90 miles. Michigan State is playing Marquette at East Lansing Saturday.

Marquette Tilt Closes Old Rivalry

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State says farewell to an old and honored football rival Saturday.

The fact that this season's ender is probably the last gridiron meeting with Marquette has been overshadowed by all that depends on developments at Ann Arbor.

If Ohio State can trip Michigan, of course, the Spartans will get an unexpected ride West as the Big Ten representative in the Rose Bowl.

Saturday's meeting with Marquette marks the end of a series that dates back to 1909. Kansas State has been booked for the season's ender the next three years and it's thought unlikely that the Marquette contract will be picked up again unless the Warriors once again become a major football power.

Over the years, Michigan State has won 17, lost six and tied one. The last Marquette win was in 1941 and the two teams tied 13-all in 1945. Michigan State has won every year since.

Judging on the basis of Marquette's 2-5-1 won, lost and tied record and Michigan State's seven wins against a single loss, the question Saturday isn't so much "who?" as "how much?"

State is expected to work off its nervous energy about the goings-on at Ann Arbor by running up the biggest score of the Spartan season.

Said Marquette coach Frosty Ferzacca: "We'll just do our best and hope for the best."

Said MSU's Duffy Daugherty: "We'll be concentrating on trying for an 8-1 season.

Daugherty is toying with the idea of starting as many as possible of his 13 graduating seniors for the last kickoff of the season. He has seniors available for every position except left half.

A crowd of about 45,000, depending on the weather, is expected for the 1:30 p.m. kickoff.

Ticket-takers and police have been instructed to look the other way when they see violators of the ban against radios in the stands.

So Macklin stadium will be dotted with little portable radios—carried in by fans anxious for the first word on whether it'll be Michigan or Michigan State Rose Bowl-bound come the holiday season this year.

LEADER — Displaying his 260 pound entry in the weight division of the Pontiac Press deer contest is Wilfred A. Bird (above). Bird brought down the 14-point buck near Rudyard in Mackinac County. This is the largest entry to date in the division.

Philadelphia Plans 75,000 Seat Stadium

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Erection of a 75,000 seat sports stadium in Fairmount Park has the tentative backing of mayor-elect Richardson Dilworth.

Dilworth gave his backing yesterday to the proposal made by John B. Kelly, vice president of the Fairmount Park Commission. Kelly had suggested the stadium, to be owned and operated by the city, for use by Philadelphia baseball and football teams. He said it would be more accessible than various stadia now in use.

All-Oakland County Teams to Be Feted

22 Gridders and Top Coach Will Be Named at Dec. 5 Affair

First annual banquet honoring the All-Oakland County football team and coach of the year will be held Monday Dec. 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the Elks Club on Orchard Lake Avenue.

Guest speaker will be Terry Brennan, head football coach of Notre Dame University.

The All-Oakland team which is being selected by the coaches in the county will comprise two teams, an offensive and a defensive unit.

Players from all three classes, "A," "B," and "C" will make up the squads.

Trophies will go to players and the coach. Civitan Club of Pontiac and WPON are sponsors of the banquet.

'Stilt' Makes His Debut as Kansas Frosh

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Coach Phog Allen celebrates his 70th birthday — the mandatory retirement age at the University of Kansas—today by introducing publicly a 7-foot basketball player.

Allen calls him "the greatest basketball player I've ever seen." He is Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, who scored 2,252 points in three seasons at Overbrook High School in Philadelphia.

Chamberlain will make his debut as a Kansas player tonight in the freshman lineup of the annual varsity-freshman game.

Allen, dean of the nation's coaches, will be able to coach through this season under the university's retirement rules. Last year a resolution was introduced in the state legislature to extend the retirement age in his case. There was some opposition to making an exception to the rules and the move finally was shelved.

Bob Miller of the Lions is getting the reputation around the National Football League as "the most under-rated defensive lineman in the game." The 250-pound former Virginia star has been a defensive standout for Detroit since 1952.

Pontiac Hunter Takes Lead in Deer 'Derby'

Here's one for all weight entries in the Pontiac Press' Deer Contest to try to beat.

A 14-point buck, with an officially recorded weight of 260 pounds, was entered in the derby by Wilfred A. Bird, 5633 Oster drive, Pontiac.

Bird, a hunter since 1927, downed the big buck with a 30.06 caliber bullet near Rudyard in Mackinaw County, Tuesday afternoon.

The deer fell at the 1st shot in the heart area. Bird was hunting with a friend.

Earlier this year he was on a hunting trip in Canada and came back with a deer, moose and a bear.

The big buck had a certified weight slip from the Motor Vehicle division of the State. Weights in this division must be dressed-out figures.

Another entry in the rack division came from Wallace B. Theunick, 620 West Scripps road, Lake Orion and Ed Finch, 3130 Coventry, Drayton Plains.

The rack entered by Finch had similar measurements. It was a six-pointer with a beam of 13⅞" on each side.

Moses Ward Out on TKO in 4th

CANTON, O. (AP)—Middleweight Bobby Gordon of Akron hung a technical knockout on Detroit's Moses Ward last night after Ward, the favorite, suffered a severe cut over the right eye in the 4th round.

Dr. George De Stafano, boxing commission physician, examined the slash and ordered the bout halted with 40 seconds gone in the round.

Ward made hay in the 3rd, pounding the 22-year-old Golden Gloves ace with thrusts to the head and stomach. The battling seemed even in the 1st two rounds.

SW Conference May Lift Ban Against A&M

Sugar Bowl Welcomes Report Restrictions Are Removed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — President Bernie Grenrood of the Sugar Bowl today welcomed reports that the Southwest Conference may relax its ruling which bans Texas A&M from bowl participation.

The Aggies were banned from bowls by the conference for their recruiting practices. A source close to the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., said the restriction might be lifted, however.

* * *

Dr. E. D. Mouzon Jr., president of the Southwest Conference, said in Dallas that he knew of no such plans, but that if the ban were lifted A&M could play in the Cotton Bowl if it wins the conference title as expected.

If the Aggies were permitted to play and went to the Cotton Bowl, Grenrood said, "we would be glad because it would make Texas Christian University eligible for the Sugar Bowl."

TCU, beaten only by A&M, is expected to be runner-up to the Aggies and would fill the host's spot in the Cotton Bowl if A&M remains ineligible.

* * *

"If the southwest conference gives A&M permission to play in another bowl," Grenrood said, "we're happy because it makes another team (A&M) eligible for bowl competition."

TCU is the nation's seventh-ranked team. A&M ranks eighth.

Bad Weather Hampers Area Hunters

By JACK PATTERSON

CURRAN — Thursday's missing column was entirely due to weather conditions beyond our control Wednesday night. The day started out with fog and a warmish 45 degree temperature, and steadily grew worse. Fog progressed to rain and rain to snow. By evening the temperature had dropped to 20 and winds rose to gale force. Local telephone systems were out of touch with long distance and we were effectively isolated.

PATTERSON

It was a poor day for any purpose, and practically a useless one for deer hunting. Of nearby hunters, only Louis Cole added a buck to the camp's string.

We had planned to get over to Mid Forest Club and check on how Glenn Gillespie, Frank Wood and Supreme Court Justice Sharp are getting along as deer hunters. Wind and weather stopped us.

After a particularly miserable and frustrating day we dropped in at the Ten Buck Club to see whether its residents were carrying their fair share of the load. Members present and fit for duty included Dr. E. V. Howlett, Art Nicholie, A. W. Dickinson, Art Compton, Palmer (Bill) Bundy, Bob Armstrong and Bob Eldred.

Three deer on the rack were collected, as nearly as we can figure out from several conflicting versions, by Bob Armstrong, Art Compton and Art Nicholie. Didn't get a very straight answer on whether the rest of the party had been outdoors yet, either.

Thursday opened up with a junior blizzard for a few hours, and early hunting prospects looked very bright, but few deer moved until late afternoon. During the day we were visited by a Detroit newspaper outdoor staff and had our picture taken in a characteristic pose by the kitchen stove.

Main force of the Sleepy Hollow gang departed Thursday night without claiming other than near misses, which leaves the writer as the only real deer hunter in the advance group.

We dropped in on former mayor John Cowe but didn't find him in. We didn't notice any large animal carcasses in sight so delay comment on his hunting prowess until we can check up further.

Temperatures remain around the freezing mark with indications of more snow to come. Hunters who were unable to open, and had to hold off until the coming weekend need not feel that they have been too badly treated. Weather so far has been anything but ideal and should improve steadily if it doesn't warm up again and start raining.

Gola Stars in His First Pro Cage Showing

Gets Ten Points as Favored Warriors Win 106 to 92

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LaSalle's fabulous Tom Gola made his National Basketball Assn. debut last night and the three-time All-America promptly showed why the Philadelphia Warriors are favored to win the league's Eastern Division crown as they defeated the Boston Celtics 106-92.

The 6-foot-7 Philadelphia resident missed the Warriors' first four games because of a broken right hand suffered in a pre-season exhibition and he was able to resume practice only recently.

But despite a lack of conditioning and work with his teammates, the Warriors' new pride scored 10 points, grabbed 7 rebounds and had 3 assists in 24 minutes of action.

Gola, a center in college play, didn't get into the starting lineup but when he relieved guard George Dempsey the 6,197 fans in Convention Hall shook the auditorium with cheers for the local favorite.

Owner-Coach Eddie Gottlieb, who's said all along he doesn't see how Gola can miss making good, didn't change his mind after last night's game, Gotty said he was highly pleased with the initial performance, Gola left the scene before he could be reached for comment.

The Warriors were paced by veteran forward Joe Graboski, with 21 points, and by Neil Johnston and Paul Arizin, the league's two high scorers last year, and Jack George, each with 17. Bill Sharman had 23 for the Celtics.

The win made the Warriors' record 4-1 and kept them just behind the pace-setting Eastern-leading New York Knickerbockers who made their record 5-1 with a 110-88 win over Fort Wayne at Syracuse.

Stump Files Entry for ABC Tourney

FORT WAYNE (AP) — The honor of filing the first paid entry for the 1956 American Bowling Congress Masters tournament has gone to Don Stump of Forty Wayne for the second straight year.

Qualifying dates are May 12-13 with double elimination play starting the night of May 13. The final field will be 64 men. First prize, won last spring by Buzz Fazio of Detroit, again will be $1,000.

Hunchy Misses Mark

Bob Hoernschemeyer missed setting a new Detroit Lions all-time career rushing record in '55 when sidelined by a shoulder separation. The former Indiana star has gained 2,439 yards since 1950, just five yards short of Ace Gutowsky's mark of 2,444, set in the mid-thirties.

THEY'LL PACK THE BALL — Tailbacks Sam (First Down) Brown (left) of UCLA and Jon Arnett (right) of Southern California, the leading rusher and scorer, respectively of the Pacific Coast Conference, will meet Saturday when the two teams square off in the Los Angeles Coliseum. AP Wirephoto

Brown, a 170 pound senior, has averaged 6.6 yards per carry. Arnett, a 180 pound sprinter, has scored 84 points in conference play. A victory in the Nationally-televised game will put UCLA in the Rose Bowl.

Wildcat Gives Trio Hunted Feeling

BECKLEY, W.Va. (AP) — C. Harold Hanks, Andy Lilly and Herbert Wills said they felt like the hunted instead of the hunters on a recent trip to the woods near Meadow Creek.

While they were sleeping, a wildcat tried to enter their tent. Hanks knocked the animal outside. They built a fire to scare it away, but the wildcat made a second run on the tent before slinking off into the darkness.

PHS Tankers Prep for Year

Boyce's Swimmers Aim to Topple Lumberjacks From Valley Throne

Pontiac High School's swimmers are busily preparing for the season ahead under the watchful eye of instructor Des Boyce.

The 1955-56 schedule is not complete yet, but will announced shortly. The Chief tankers had their 1st taste of competition yesterday at Royal Oak in a practice session against the Acorns.

Boyce terms Tom Cross, backstroker, and Bob Keavy, breaststroker, the aces of his squad. Cross and Keavy were named to last year's All-America high school tank team along with freestyler Bob Lamson. Lamson, who will be graduated in mid-year, is ineligible for further competition.

Chiefs' swimmers will be seeking to do the customary thing this season—dethrone Saginaw Arthur Hill, which has won the Valley crown eight of the last nine years.

No Iowa-Irish TV, NCAA Informs Iowa

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP)—A statewide telecast in Iowa of the Iowa-Notre Dame football game at South Bend, Ind., Saturday has been refused.

It now appeared that only eastern Iowa viewers' served by station WMT-TV here will receive the contest. WMT-TV, designated as the home station for the University of Iowa, announced last night it would telecast the game as authorized by the NCAA.

Noren Goes Under Knife to Fix Knee Ailments

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—New York Yankee outfielder Irv Noren was slated for an operation today at St. John's Hospital to correct a faulty cartilage condition in his knees.

Del Webb, co-owner of the Yankees, said he had been assured by doctors that Noren's knees "will be as good as new" after the operation. The fleet outfielder was hobbled by injuries in late season and in the World Series.

Maples, RO Meet - at Lunch

Although the "big" game is a week away, the 1st contact between Birmingham and Royal Oak took place yesterday at the luncheon table in the Royal Oak YMCA.

Coaches and co-captains of both teams were guests of the Royal Oak Kiwanis in the annual pre-game get-together.

Coach Carl Iemle of the Maples and Jim Manilla of Royal Oak expressed their views on the forthcoming turkey day clash on the Acorn gridiron, and after the gathering they returned to their respective fields to continue workouts for the traditional affair.

Birmingham will go into the game in its best physical condition since the second game of the season against Cranbrook.

Ready for duty are tackles Dave Griffith, 200 pound transfer from Kansas City, and Dick Dexter, 210 pound stalwart on the defensive line. Both have been out with leg injuries.

Guard Dave Spehar, who suffered a knee injury in the Cranbrook game, will be back at his starting post for the first time in six games.

Birmingham, unbeaten in eight games, captured the Eastern Michigan League title in a walk. In the final Associated Press prep school pool the Maples were ranked 5th.

Coach Manilla bewailed the numerous injuries suffered this season by Royal Oak.

"We've lost nine players, most of them for the season," he said, "but I think we will make up our physical losses with a real good mental attitude."

Birmingham will depend on outmanning the Acorns. Maples have been blessed this year with a well balanced backfield, led by quarterback Bill Swaney and the running of John Appleford and Wayne Geggie.

End Jim Traa, Birmingham's all-state candidate, is rated by Lemle as one of the outstanding players in the county.

More Stock Goes to Comiskey Heir

CHICAGO (AP)—Chuck Comiskey, vice president of the Chicago White Sox, had a happy 30th birthday today.

On reaching the milestone he received another chunk of club stock as provided by the will of his father, Lou Comiskey.

He received the first part when he reached 21 and will get another at 35. That will give him 25 per cent of the stock. Other principal stockholders are his mother, Mrs. Grace Comiskey, president of the baseball club, and his sister, Mrs. Dorothy Rigney, Sox secretary-treasurer.

Western Golf Club to Host Motor City

DETROIT (AP)—The $20,000 Motor City Open golf tournament will be held at the Western Golf and Country Club.

Dennis Boyle, tournament chairman, said the Professional Golfers Assn. indicated it will be scheduled for some time in August. However, Boyle said a July date still is hoped for because course conditions are better then.

Seven Lions Have Been in Pasadena Classic

Seven Detroit Lions players were members of Rose Bowl teams during their undergraduate days. Charlie Ane (USC), Jim Cain (Alabama), Bob Long (UCLA), Bill Stits (UCLA), Harry Gilmer (Alabama), Jim Salsbury (UCLA), and Ted Toper (Michigan), played in the Pasadena classic.

Steel Mill Heavyweight Plans to Fool Experts

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Rowan, a full-time steel mill worker and a part-time fighter until last summer, thinks he has a surprise in store tonight for favored Willie Pastrano and the experts.

The 21-year-old Phoenixville, Pa., heavyweight is a 3-1 underdog in the 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden. The bout will be broadcast and telecast (NBC-TV and radio, 10 p.m., EST). Pastrano is the world's No. 3 light-heavyweight. Rowan is unranked.

"Full time fighting is easy," said Rowan, a solidly built, 5-11, 180-pounder. "The way I'm training now, Pastrano and a few others may be fooled."

"With a couple of breaks I might be up there fighting for the heavyweight title in a year or two," he said.

Joe hasn't been beaten in the last 13 months. His non-losing string includes 8 victories and 1 draw, the latter with wicked-punching Bob Satterfield. Since the erratic Satterfield followed that tie by whipping Nino Valdes, currently the third-ranking heavyweight contender, Rowan feels happy about it. His over-all record is 26-6-1 with 13 knockouts.

Pastrano is equally confident he'll keep his own unbeaten streak going.

The Prize Gift-Exclusive GOLD MARK DECANTERS with G&W SEVEN STAR at No Extra Cost!

A special message to truck drivers' wives

from your Ford Dealer . . .

This year, everybody is talking about safety in automobiles. And with good reason. The hazards of the road take more American lives every year than we lost in the whole Korean war.

So important things are being done to make cars safer.

But—isn't safety even more important in trucks?

If safety is important to the man who drives a car a few hours a day, isn't it even more important to the man (and his family) who drives a truck for a living?

We think it is.

And we think you wives think it is. That's why we believe you'll be vitally interested in what Ford has done to make driving a truck safer for your husband.

Ford has taken the lead in safety with not just one, but a whole family of new safety features for America's trucks and cars.

What are these features that could be so important to you?

1. Lifeguard Steering Wheel

Ford's exclusive Lifeguard truck steering wheel is built in such a way that, in case of accident, it helps protect the driver from any contact with the steering post. This kind of "deep-center" steering wheel actually acts as a cushion in case of accidents.

2. Lifeguard Door Latches

Ford's Lifeguard door latches have a new "double grip" type construction. Their extra holding strength gives added protection against doors flying open in the event of an accident . . . to help keep the driver in the truck where he's twice as safe.

3. Seat Belts

You've read a lot about seat belts. You probably know that the Accident Research Center at Cornell University, the American College of Surgeons and many other groups strongly urge that every owner equip his vehicle with seat belts. Studies prove that in about one-half of all accidents, injuries could be avoided or reduced by the use of seat belts.

Ford is the first truck manufacturer to make seat belts available (at low extra cost, for both new and used trucks).

In case of an accident, or sudden stop, a Ford Seat Belt holds the driver firmly in the seat. This greatly cuts down the chances of serious injury.

And remember—it isn't necessary to be driving fast to be seriously injured or thrown out of the truck in case of an accident. A sizable percentage of injuries of this kind occur at speeds of only 30 or even 25 miles per hour. (If your dealer happens to be out of seat belts temporarily, please be patient. He will have them shortly.)

4. Tubeless Tires

This year, tubeless tires are standard equipment on every Ford Truck. Tubeless tires do not prevent punctures. But they do help to prevent many blow-outs. When a puncture occurs in a tubeless tire, the air is apt to escape very slowly. The driver has a greater chance to slow down and stop safely.

5. Power Brakes

What we call vacuum-boosted power brakes make it possible for the driver to apply a lot more force to the brakes, faster and easier. This makes it possible to stop faster in emergencies. Power brakes are standard or available on every '56 Ford Truck.

6. High Visibility

A better view of the road—in front, behind and to the sides—can help the driver to spot trouble before it happens. A full-wrap windshield is standard on the new Ford Trucks for '56. The standard rear window is the widest on any truck . . . and a new full-wrap rear window is available at slight extra cost. All told, a new Ford Truck gives the driver one of the greatest all-around glass areas of any truck.

7. Reserve Power

A "slowpoke" truck can be a threat to highway safety—it is a stumbling block in the path of other traffic. Trucks should have enough power to keep up with the traffic stream. And they should have enough reserve power to pull out of emergency situations. So you will be interested to know that the new Ford Trucks for '56 have power increases up to 26%, to make sure drivers have all the reserve power they are ever likely to need.

Why should any man who drives a truck for a living take chances, needless chances, by not taking advantage of every available safety device?

To repeat—if safety is important to a man who drives a car once in a while, isn't it far more important to the man who drives a truck all day, for a living?

When a man drives a '56 Ford Truck—from Pickup to tandem-axle BIG JOB—he and his family have this peace of mind. They know he's driving a truck that gives him the added protection of exclusive Lifeguard safety features.

Every Man's an Inventor but Few Succeed

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — There are two elements in his life that the average man can't understand. One—his woman. Two—why nobody recognizes him for the inventive genius he concedes that he is.

So far as science goes, there is no sound solution to the first enigma.

But a man named Albert Gelardin is an expert on puzzle No. 2, inventive genius, and he says, "Almost every man has an invention up his sleeve, but the chance of his selling the world on it is much smaller than his chance of winning an Irish Sweepstakes.

"The reason nobody concedes your invention is great is that everybody has one of his own. And inventions are like babies . . . no matter how attractive the other guy's is, yours is better."

Gelardin, an inventor since he was 8 and a successful inventor—quite a difference—since college days 25 years ago, says the trouble with most do-it-yourself type geniuses is that they get a half-cocked idea and think it's great.

"They don't realize that the idea is only 1 per cent of the job. The 99 per cent between the idea and financial profit of an invention is the merchandising and selling."

JUST KEEP COOL

In other words, don't get excited because you've dreamed up a better mousetrap; someone else has probably just invented a magic spray that converts mice into cute little kittens—a cheaper product than yours, too.

"A little far-fetched, but you get what I'm driving at?" says Gelardin. "A lion's share of the home-grown inventions are ideas that have been done before, or which would be either impractical to produce or impossible to sell."

Gelardin's latest invention—his 61st—is the "audio engineer," a microphone attachment for electric toy trains, which enables the trains to "stop," "back up" or "go forward," at verbal command.

"Now take the audio engineer as an example," he says. "Before I decided it would sell to the public, I spent months in research to make certain there was no similar item on the market. Then, I put plenty of money into developing it, so it could be sold at a price the public could afford.

"The average man or woman can't afford either the time or money, because almost all armchair inventors work at the other jobs."

Unless you have an independent income and are willing to devote long hours to studying the markets for your invention, don't invent. Frustrated inventors, even more than poets and actors, turn bitter and die broke.

As a partner in his own firm, Electro-Nuclear Services, Inc., 50-year-old Gelardin is frequently called upon to study ideas by amateur idea men. Most must be turned down.

He turns down four out of five of his own ideas—even after he's applied for patents for them—because "when the first flush of headiness wears off, I see snags in them. They are not commercially marketable."

If he rejects most of his own patent-pending devices, even after a quarter-century of experience, you can imagine how he felt about a man who approached him and exclaimed—"I've got a great idea: A plane that flies, drives on highways and submerges under water like a submarine."

Gelardin said yeah? How is it done?

The man replied that he wasn't an engineer—he just had the idea, and wasn't it sensational?

In kindly tones, for he is usually a sympathetic man, Gelardin told him to drop dead.

The genius went away mad.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR JUNIOR EDITORS

THE TABLE TOP CORRAL
The Little Cowgirl

Junior Editors saw a rodeo and they have made a table top corral. You can make one too.

Fold heavy paper as shown in the small diagram at right. Fold it in four pieces, and cut it with straight scissor cuts. Make the fence as tall as you want it, and with as many bars. Cut any number of these and paste them together. Now you have a long corral fence that you can curve in any shape. Put in it cattle cut from newspaper or magazine pictures.

If you don't want to cut your own fence, you can build a block fence or use books standing on end.

At the rodeo the cowboys and cowgirls who were not busy roping or riding sat perched on the corral fence watching the events.

Here's a cowgirl climbing up for a look. The dog is also trying to see what's going on.

Paste this page on cereal box cardboard and color it with crayons. Cut out the figures.

The fence should be high enough so that when you fold back the tabs on the girl's hands they will hang over the top rail and she will seem to be scrambling up for a seat.

Fold back the tab on the bottom of the dog's feet and lean him against the corral fence.

Junior Editors pays $10 for any reader's idea that is used. Write your suggestion to "Junior Editors" in care of this newspaper, it cannot be acknowledged or returned.

Tomorrow: A Cowpuncher

This Is a Terrific Idea —if You Like Martinis

NEW YORK (INS)—A plastics firm suggested yesterday that the housewife of the future may buy her cocktail party martinis in boxes of individually wrapped servings to be kept in the home freezer until ready for use.

James E. Bernard of Chicago's Visking Corp. said his firm manufactures just the right plastic to make the leakproof bags for the individual martini servings.

Paint will often blister when it is applied to damp materials.

Village UF Drive Goes Over Top First Time in Three Years

Pontiac Press Photos

FRESH PRODUCE FROM AREA FARMERS — Above, Mrs. M. W. Whitfield of Sylvan Shores Drive buys garden produce from Mrs. Herbert Prey of Washington in the Farmers Market on Pontiac Lake Road. Right, one feature of the market is the oil heating system where huge blowers keep the building at a comfortable temperature for customers.

Celebrate First Birthday Nov. 20 in Pontiac Lake Road Building

Farmers Market Offers Benefit of Bountiful Harvest to Buyers

Winter's cold winds are already whistling round the corners, but the golden bounty of autumn's harvest continues to pour in at the Oakland County Farmers Market.

The modern building, located on Pontiac Lake Road just west of the blinker on Telegraph Road, will be one year old on Sunday, Nov. 20. The market was moved from its old site on Mill Street in downtown Pontiac to make room for the City Parking Lot.

Area residents can buy farm pressed cider, fresh eggs, apples, vegetables, live and fresh dressed poultry, baked goods, novelties and potted flowers, all in the heated comfort of the 187 foot market.

Fresh, locally raised products are brought into town three times weekly by 78 county-area farmers.

These supplying producers belong to the Oakland County Growers Cooperative, Inc., of which Emmet DeConick of Walled Lake is president.

BAND TOGETHER

It was when the old city-county market was sold that the producers decided to organize the cooperative to keep the group together. They carried their produce to the 4-H building for one year while the new county market was being constructed.

* * *

Officials in the office of the Oakland County Agricultural Agent believe the growers cooperative is a good instrument —keeping the producers quality up and assuring that all produce sold from the market must be produced by the county-area growers who are selling it.

"Cooperative enforces high quality and backs it up by keeping all hucksters out of the market, they say.

In the county agricultural office at 1260 West Blvd., County Agricultural Agent Lyle Able and his assistant agents, John Bray and John Trocke act on producers' qualifications through investigation before approving them. This office was also instrumental in aiding the producers to form the Growers Cooperative Assn.

MAY APPLY TO SELL

John Bray, under whose division the Farmers Market comes, has advised that persons wishing to sell in the market may obtain an application from the market master, Mrs. Alfred Harding.

If the producer is qualified the application will be signed by the agricultural office.

Farmers Market is presently open three days a week — on Tuesday and Saturday from 7 a.m. until 1 p.m. and on Thursday from 2 until 8 p.m.

Utica Assessor Dies Thursday

The confirmands, of the two 1954 classes, under the chairmanship of Mrs. L. K. Smith, will provide a reception honoring Bishop and Mrs. Emrich and the 1955 class members following the service.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Hunt will entertain at 5 p.m. at the Vicarage when the Bishop and Mrs. Emich will meet the Chapel Committee members and their wives.

Romeo Fire Causes $100 Damage to Mill

ROMEO—Fire broke out at 1 a.m. this morning at Rumsey's Mill on East Lafayette causing slight damage to the storage shed.

The blaze was brought under control almost immediately by volunteers of the Romeo Fire Department.

The damage which amounted to about $100 was covered by insurance. Fire Chief Walter Werth reported today the cause of the blaze is still being investigated.

Owners of the mill are brothers John and Harry Rumsey of Romeo.

Radio Society Plans November Meeting

Catalpa Amateur Radio Society's November meeting will be held at 8:15 Monday at St. James Episcopal Church, West Maple Avenue, Birmingham.

Twenty men are needed to put directories together, club president said. All those able to help are asked to be at St. James Church at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Mothers to Supervise Noontime Recreation

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — A noontime recreation program for youngsters attending Williams Lake School was inaugurated when 11 mothers met yesterday afternoon with the assistant principal of the school, Donald Smith. Seven more mothers have signed to help.

The program has a two-fold purpose — teaching the youngsters game skills and eliminating playground injuries. Williams Lake School goes no higher than the third grade and the program will be offered to the 500 students in grades through three.

Beginning next week, at least three mothers will be on hand Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays to conduct organized games. The schedule was planned so that each mother will serve less than once a month.

Mrs. Keith Armstead, Mrs. Calvin England, Mrs. David Reid and Mrs. Polly Kremlick will be on the playground next week, and Mrs. Howard Peterson, Mrs. Ruth Hunt and Mrs. Eldon Rosegart, the week of Nov. 29.

Missing Teller Sought in Detroit

Bank Cashier Believed Kidnaped; FBI Wants 'Mystery' Depositor

DETROIT (AP) — A search for Kenneth S. Lindbergh, 44, missing Thief River Falls, Minn., bank cashier, centered in Detroit today.

FBI agents yesterday obtained a warrant in federal court charging a Joe Doe, alias Charles D. Kenwell with illegal transportation of securities totaling more than $5,000.

The agents said Lindbergh may have been kidnaped by a man giving the name of Charles D. Kenwell, who was reported to have cashed $50 in checks here.

Lindbergh, a cashier at the Northern State Bank in Thief River for 10 years, vanished last Saturday with $14,000 in blank travelers checks and $1,850 in silver.

BANK SUSPICIOUS

The man being sought by the FBI registered at a hotel here MHonday. He deposited an envelope which he said contained about $10,000 in travelers checks at the cashier's office. He later returned and attempted to make a cash withdrawal on them but was refused. Then he reclaimed the envelope and cash $500 as a guest.

The man next was seen at The Detroit Bank where he attempted to open a checking account with $7,800 worth of checks. Bank officials required him to sign each check, most of which were in $10 amounts.

After signing $6,000 worth, he said he was tired, secured an account book for that amount and asked the bank to keep the rest for him until the next day. Bank officials later became suspicious and ordered all checks stopped.

Eager buyers swept aside a cordon of police to make purchases from England's Princess Margaret during a charity bazaar near Gallater, Scotland.

County Health Nurses to Hold Education Meet

Key speakers for the staff education meeting today of the Oakland County Health nurses include Dr. James M. McHugh, psychiatrist at Pontiac State Hospital; Dr. Harry Haan, remedial teacher for the Oakland County Board of Education and Mrs. Eleanore McCurry, director of the Occupational Therapy department at Pontiac State Hospital.

Dr. McHugh, who is in charge of the Children's Service at the hospital, will talk on the emotionally handicapped children within the hospital and Dr. Haan will explain the reading clinic in Oakland County.

Mrs. McCurry will discuss the role occupational therapy plays in the rehabilitation of the mental patient.

Reports on the combined convention of the Michigan State Nurses' Association and the Michigan League for Nursing held Oct. 24-26 in Grand Rapids will be given.

Mrs. Anyce Gillette of Birmingham is chairman of the staff education committee.

Man Sues Township in Dump-Site Issue

Peter Christiansen, of Avon Township, is suing the township in an attempt to force issuance of a license allowing him to continue operations on a 20-acre site where rubbish is dumped and processed.

In a suit filed in Oakland County Circuit Court, Christiansen claims he applied for a permit Oct. 26 this year which was denied as violating terms of two township ordinances.

He asks the court to rule the ordinances unconstitutional and order the township to issue the permit. No hearing date has been set.

Holly Fund Goes Over Drive Goal

Campaign 30 Per Cent Above '55 Quota, Says Chairman

By JOE HAAS

HOLLY—After failing to a considerable extent to meet its Community Fund quota the past two years, Holly has gone over the top on its 1955 solicitation to the tune of more than 30 per cent.

With 75 per cent of the amount raised to go for local projects, this year's quota was placed at $4,090. An intensive house-to-house campaign was put on, in addition to that among the mercantile, professional and industrial interests.

Mrs. Jack Alpeters, the campaign chairman, announces today that the contributions have passed the $5,350 mark, with a number of solicitors yet to deliver their returns.

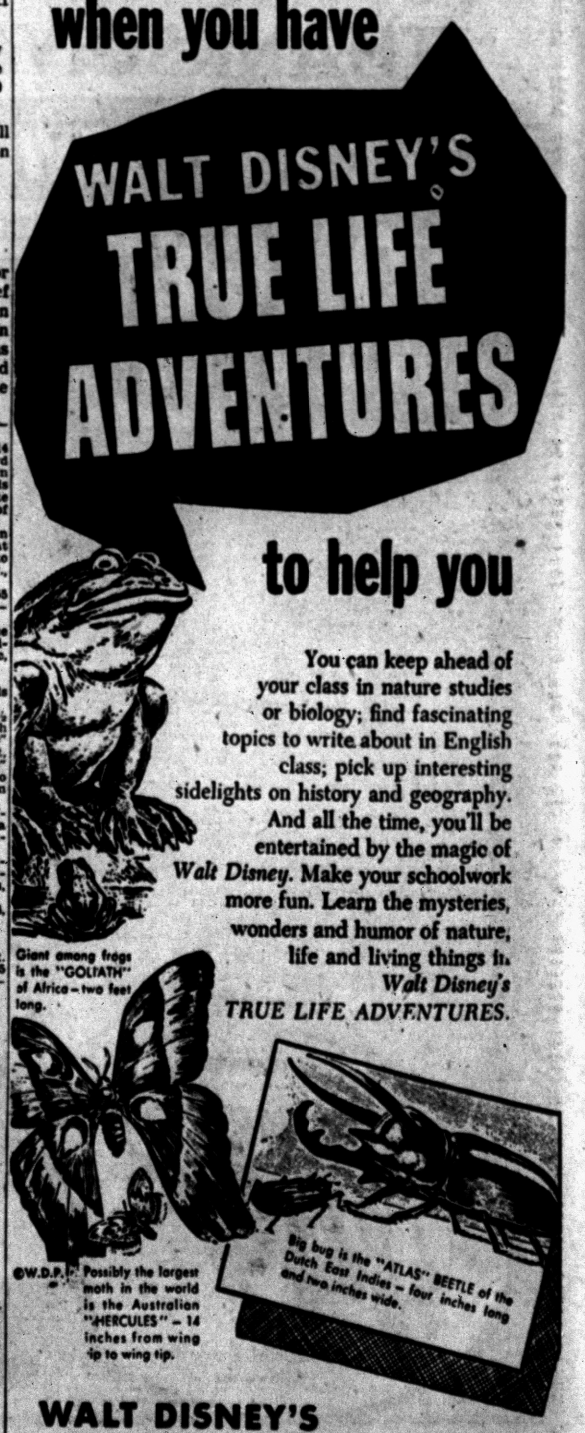

It is expected that before it is necessary to close the books the amount will be close to $5,500. This will more than make up what was lacking in the 1953 and 1954 drives.

The increased amount will make possible a number of extensions in summer playground work, preschool nursery, summer music activities, scouting and other youth work.

RESULT IS PROOF

Mrs. Alpeters and her assistants feel that the result of this year's drive here is proof of what can be done in most any community if the purpose is generally understood, and the people are assured how their money will be spent.

The canvassers, almost without exception, made a coverage of 100 per cent, and the refusals they received were practically negligible.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN OF ORDINANCE NO. 6
BRANDON TOWNSHIP
BUILDING CODE

(Effective Date—December 19, 1955)

An ordinance regulating the erection, construction, alteration, repair, demolition, height, location and area of buildings in the Township of Brandon, Oakland County; Providing for the issuance of permits and collection of fees therefore; Providing for establishing of fire limits; Providing penalties for the violation hereof.

The Township Board of Brandon Township, Oakland County, Michigan, ordains:

SECTION 14. TITLE

This Ordinance shall be known as the Building Code for the Township of Brandon, Oakland County, Michigan and will be referred to in this Ordinance as This Code.

SECTION 15. APPLICATION AND SCOPE

15.1

The purpose of this code is set forth in the Preface hereto attached and same is made a part hereof. Further it is the purpose of this code to provide minimum standards of association of government agencies and/or other national organizations listed in the appendix of this code as standards for the Township of Brandon and such shall apply wherever applicable.

15.2

All buildings and structures designed for use as, or used as one or two family dwellings, not more than two stories nor more than 30 feet in height and private garages and other buildings accessory to dwellings not more than 1½ stories nor more than 15 feet in height hereafter erected, altered, repaired, moved or demolished, shall comply in full with the requirements of this code.

15.3

From and after the effective date of this ordinance the exterior walls of all new commercial buildings erected in an established fire zone shall be constructed of brick, concrete blocks, vitreous tile or other non-combustible material approved by the Brandon Township Building Inspector. The balance of the construction shall meet all other requirements of Section 15.4.

15.4

Whenever an existing building or structure in an established fire zone is destroyed, demolished, or altered in excess of 60% of sound value, such building or structure shall be repaired, reconstructed, or altered so that its exterior walls are of brick, concrete block, vitreous tile or other non-combustible material approved by the Brandon Township Building Inspector.

No building or structure whose exterior walls are constructed of materials other than brick, concrete block, vitreous tile or other non-combustible material approved by the Brandon Township Building Inspector shall be moved into an established fire zone.

15.6

The Basic Code as adopted by reference in this code which was copyrighted and published by such Conference in 1950 and including subsequent revisions and amendments.

15.6

All areas zoned as commercial or manufacturing by the Zoning Ordinance shall be deemed as established fire zone.

SECTION 15A DEFINITIONS

For the purpose of this Code, the terms listed below shall have the meanings given in this chapter.

APPROVED

Approval by the Building Inspector under the provision of this Code or by other authority designated by law to give approval of the matter in question.

AREA

The maximum horizontal area of the building at finished grade exclusive of unroofed porches, terraces, steps and areaways.

BUILDING INSPECTOR

The person charged with administration and enforcement of this Code.

CEILING HEIGHT

The vertical distance between the floor and ceiling. Where a finished ceiling is not provided the underside of joists shall determine the upper point of measurement.

CELLAR

That portion of a building, between floor and ceiling, which is more than 50 per cent underground.

CONCRETE

1. Plain

Concrete cast in place without metal reinforcement or reinforced only for shrinkage or temperature changes.

2. Reinforced

Concrete in which steel rods or mesh are embedded to increase strength.

DWELLING

A building designed or occupied as the living quarters for not more than two families or households and usually equipped with cooking, bathing, heating, and toilet facilities.

ERECTED

Includes any construction, reconstruction, enlargement, movement or physical operation on either the dwelling or on the land required for the dwelling. Excavation, fill, drainage and the like shall be considered a part of erection.

FLOOR AREA OF A ROOM

The number of square feet of floor space within the walls of a room.

GRADE FINISHED

The line formed at the junction of a building and the area immediately surrounding the building to which the ground is to be or has been cut or filled.

HABITABLE ROOM

A room occupied by or designed for occupancy by one or more persons for living, sleeping, eating or cooking including kitchens, serving a dwelling unit but not including bathroom, watercloset, compartments, laundries, serving and similar uses, storage rooms, cellars, attics, recreation rooms, and spaces that are not used frequently or during extended periods.

INCOMBUSTIBLE

Material that will not of and by itself ignite when its temperature and that of the surrounding air is 1,200° Fahrenheit (649° Centigrade).

LINTEL

A horizontal structural member supporting masonry above an opening in a wall or partition.

LOAD, DEAD

The weight of walls, floor, roofs, partitions and other permanent portions of the structure.

LOT

A portion or parcel of land considered as a unit devoted to a certain use or occupied by a building or a group of buildings that are united by a common interest or use, and the customary accessories and open spaces belonging to the same.

LOT LINE

A line dividing one lot from another or from a street or other public place. In case any part of a lot lies adjacent to the public right-of-way or easement, the lot line of that part shall be the right-of-way line or easement boundary crossing such part.

MASONRY

Stone, brick, structural clay tile, concrete masonry units, gypsum tile or block, structural glass block or other similar building units or materials or a combination of same bonded together with mortar. Masonry also includes plain concrete.

PARTITION, BEARING

A partition which supports any vertical load in addition to its own weight.

PARTITION, NON-BEARING

A partition which supports no load other than its own weight.

WALL, VENEERED

A wall having a facing which is not attached and bonded to the backing so as to form an integral part of the wall for purposes of load bearing and stability.

YARD

A space open to the sky and unoccupied or unobstructed except by encroachment or structures specifically permitted by this Code on the same lot with a dwelling. All yard measurements shall be the minimum distances between the front, rear, or side yard lir as the case may be, and the nearest point of the dwelling including enclosed or covered porches. Every part of every yard shall be accessible from every other part of the same yard.

1. Yard, Front

A yard across the full width of the lot extending from the front line of the dwelling to the front line of the lot.

2. Yard, Side

A yard extending from the front yard or front lot line to the rear yard or rear lot line, and from the side lot line of the dwelling to the side lot line nearest that side of the dwelling, or of any accessory building attached thereto.

3. Yard, Rear

A yard across the full width of the lot extending from the rear line of the dwelling to the rear line of the lot.

Also subject to Brandon Township Zoning Ordinance.

SECTION 16—QUALITY OF MATERIALS AND WORKMANSHIP

All building materials and workmanship shall be of good quality conforming to generally accepted standards. Except as may be otherwise provided in this Code, the standards of the National Bureau of Standards are hereby declared to be acceptable good practice.

SECTION 17—MASONRY MIXES

17.1 Mortar

Proportions: Mortars of the following proportions measured by volume with the sand in a damp loose condition, shall be acceptable for the specific use mentioned in this section:

Type A—One part of Portland cement to not more than three parts of sand with an addition of hydrated lime or lime putty of not more than twenty-five per cent of the cement.

Type B—One part of Portland cement, one part of hydrated lime or lime putty, and not more than six parts of sand or one part of prepared masonry cement conforming to Type II (eleven) of Federal Specification SS-C-181B to

	Dry	¼%	Wet
Type A—All concrete exposed to the weather or to water pressure, or reinforced.	6	5¼	4¾	6 2500 lb.
Type B—All other concrete, except Type C.	7	6	5¼	6½ 2000 lb
Type C—Footings	7½	6½	5¼	7½ 1500 lb.

*Proportion of sand (passing ¼ inch screen) to coarse aggregate (retained on ¼ inch screen) shall be not less than thirty-five per cent nor more than fifty per cent by volume.

Protection: When the temperature of the surrounding air is less than 40° Fahrenheit, the materials shall be heated and the concrete protected for as much time as is necessary to insure proper curing. All concrete shall be kept wet for at least five days. All masonry shall be protected against freezing for at least 48 hours after placing. Unless adequate precautions against freezing are taken, no masonry shall be laid when the temperature is below 32° Fahrenheit on a rising temperature or below 40° on a falling temperature at the point where the work is in progress. In hot, dry weather, precautions shall be taken to prevent too rapid drying by sprinkling or shielding with damp earth, burlap or similar protective covering. No fresh masonry construction shall be made upon frozen concrete.

Other Requirements. For design principles and practices not specifically mentioned in this section, the standards set forth in the "Building Regulations for Reinforced Concrete" of the American Concrete Institute, ACI-318, shall be acceptable.

SECTION 18—FOOTINGS AND FOUNDATIONS

18.1 General

All exterior footings shall be carried a minimum of forty-two inches below finished grade and shall bear on undisturbed soil, and shall be designed to properly and safely distribute the superimposed load. Interior footing to solid soil where soil conditions are unstable, the Building Inspector may require additional provisions to insure stability. Drain tile shall be used around basement foundations where conditions require it.

18.2 Size of Footings and Columns

Footings for all load bearing walls shall be of concrete four inches wider each side than all masonry walls and eight inches in depth. Footings of column shall have a minimum area of 20x20x12 inches depth.

18.3 Chimney Footings

18.4 Foundation Walls

Foundation walls of all dwellings shall center on footings and shall be of the following thickness: If built of rubble stone, the thickness shall be not less than eighteen inches. If built of brick, concrete, hollow blocks or solid blocks, the thickness shall be not less than ten inches, provided that when such walls of dwellings do not extend more than five feet below the adjacent ground level, the minimum thickness of masonry or concrete walls shall be eight inches. Foundation walls shall be wider than the wall being supported. In case of commercial footings where building is on lot line footing is to be wider on inside of exterior wall and designed to support the load.

18.5 Hollow Masonry Unit Walls

Eight inch walls of hollow masonry units shall have four inch by twelve inch bonded pilasters at girder bearings. The bearing under girders shall be twelve inches of solid masonry. Top of walls shall be at least four inches above outside finished grade under frame construction.

18.6 Openings for Inspection and Repair

An opening of not less than eighteen inches high and two feet wide shall be installed to provide access for inspection and repair of each unexcavated space under wood or metal floor construction, or under concrete slabs where piping, ductwork, etc., requiring periodic inspection or repair are located.

18.7 Wall Vents

Wall vents proportioned on a basis of two square feet for each twenty-five lineal feet of exterior wall shall be installed for ventilating all dead air spaces under wood or metal floor construction and each such space shall have vents in at least two walls, except that only one vent in a basement or cellar wall will be acceptable. Noncorrodible screening of not over ½ inch mesh shall be installed in each outside vent opening.

18.8 Concrete Slabs on Ground

Dwellings constructed on concrete slabs will be acceptable when the construction of the slab is on 42 inch minimum footing at least 8 inches in width and meets the approval of the Building Inspector. Garage may have floating footing 16 inches by 14 inches reinforced with two steel rods ½ inch in entire length around footings. (Description of footing and heating will be given by Building Inspector.)

SECTION 19—MINIMUM DESIGN LOADS

All floors for one and two family dwellings shall be designed for the dead load plus a live load of not less than forty pounds per square foot of floor area. Each room shall be designed for the dead load plus a live load of not less than thirty pounds per square foot of horizontal projection.

SECTION 20—WOOD CONSTRUCTION

20.1 General Requirements—Working Stresses Design

Compliance with the standards set forth in the publications "Minimum Construction Requirements for New Dwellings located in the State of Michigan, revised May 15, 1940, Federal Housing Administration, FHA Form No. 2296, or "National Design Specification of Stress-Grade Lumber and Its Fastenings" first edition 1944, National Lumber Manufacturers Association, shall be acceptable.

(1) Use of Lumber Members

(2) Splicing

(3) Girders

Girders may be structural steel, solid wood, built-up wood or reinforced concrete. All build-up wood girders shall have joists broken at no less than four foot intervals.

(4) Wood Columns

20.2 Floor, Ceiling and Roof Framing

(1) Joist Supports

Where floor joists frame into the side of wood girders the joists shall be supported on metal joist hangers or on a wood bearing strip spiked to the side of the girders. Ends of the floor joists framing into masonry walls shall be supported on metal joist hangers or shall have not less than four inch bearing and shall have at least a three inch fire cut. An air space of one inch shall be provided at ends and side of wood joists framing into masonry.

(2) Over Unexcavated Areas

Floor joists shall have a clearance of not less than eighteen inches between the bottom of the joists and the surface of the ground underneath in unexcavated areas.

(3) Joist Schedule

Maximum Allowable Spans for Floor Joists;
Size of Joists Nominal	Spacing of Joists Center to Center (inches)	Length of Span (feet)
2x8	16	13
2x10	16	18
2x12	12	20

(4) Multiple Joists

Floor joists shall be doubled under all non-bearing partitions which run parallel to the floor joists. Joists under bearing partitions shall be multiplied in sufficient number to adequately support combined loads. Doubled joists shall be separated and blocked at four foot intervals where piping or duct work occurs.

(5) Headers and Trimmers

Headers and trimmers shall be doubled except that headers four feet or less in length may be of single thickness provided the headers are supported in metal joist hangers, or on columns of posts, or on not less than two inch by three inch ledger boards and header is secured by spikes driven through one thickness of the trimmers into the ends of the headers. Headers receiving more than four tailbeams shall have ends supported in metal joist hangers.

(6) Lapped Joists

Ends of lapped joists shall rest on girders or on bearing partitions and shall be securely nailed to plate and to each other.

(7) Bridging

17.2 Concrete

Workable Concrete. Water used in mixing concrete shall be clean and free from deleterious amounts of acids, alkalies or organic materials. The maximum size of concrete aggregates shall not be larger than one-fifth of the narrowest dimension between forms of the member for which the concrete is to be used, nor larger than 2½ inches. Workable concrete shall be produced in accordance with the following tables for the particular use specified:

Type of Concrete and Use	Maximum Gallons of Water per Sack of Cement with Sand of Moisture Content Indicated			Maximum Cubic Feet of Total Aggregate per Sack of Cement
	Dry	¼%	Wet
Type A—All concrete exposed to the weather or to water pressure, or reinforced.	6	5¼	4¾	6 2500 lb.
Type B—All other concrete, except Type C.	7	6	5¼	6½ 2000 lb
Type C—Footings	7½	6½	5¼	7½ 1500 lb.

*Proportion of sand (passing ¼ inch screen) to coarse aggregate (retained on ¼ inch screen) shall be not less than thirty-five per cent nor more than fifty per cent by volume.

Protection: When the temperature of the surrounding air is less than 40° Fahrenheit, the materials shall be heated and the concrete protected for as much time as is necessary to insure proper curing. All concrete shall be kept wet for at least five days. All masonry shall be protected against freezing for at least 48 hours after placing. Unless adequate precautions against freezing are taken, no masonry shall be laid when the temperature is below 32° Fahrenheit on a rising temperature or below 40° on a falling temperature at the point where the work is in progress. In hot, dry weather, precautions shall be taken to prevent too rapid drying by sprinkling or shielding with damp earth, burlap or similar protective covering. No fresh masonry construction shall be made upon frozen concrete.

Other Requirements. For design principles and practices not specifically mentioned in this section, the standards set forth in the "Building Regulations for Reinforced Concrete" of the American Concrete Institute, ACI-318, shall be acceptable.

SECTION 18—FOOTINGS AND FOUNDATIONS

18.1 General

All exterior footings shall be carried a minimum of forty-two inches below finished grade and shall bear on undisturbed soil, and shall be designed to properly and safely distribute the superimposed load. Interior footing to solid soil where soil conditions are unstable, the Building Inspector may require additional provisions to insure stability. Drain tile shall be used around basement foundations where conditions require it.

18.2 Size of Footings and Columns

Footings for all load bearing walls shall be of concrete four inches wider each side than all masonry walls and eight inches in depth. Footings of column shall have a minimum area of 20x20x12 inches depth.

18.3 Chimney Footings

Chimney footings shall have a minimum projection of four inches beyond outside dimensions of chimney foundation and a minimum depth of twelve inches.

18.4 Foundation Walls

Foundation walls of all dwellings shall center on footings and shall be of the following thickness: If built of rubble stone, the thickness shall be not less than eighteen inches. If built of brick, concrete, hollow blocks or solid blocks, the thickness shall be not less than ten inches, provided that when such walls of dwellings do not extend more than five feet below the adjacent ground level, the minimum thickness of masonry or concrete walls shall be eight inches. 18.5 Hollow Masonry Unit Walls

Eight inch walls of hollow masonry units shall have four inch by twelve inch bonded pilasters at girder bearings. The bearing under girders shall be twelve inches of solid masonry. Top of walls shall be at least four inches above outside finished grade under frame construction.

18.6 Openings for Inspection and Repair

An opening of not less than eighteen inches high and two feet wide shall be installed to provide access for inspection and repair of each unexcavated space under wood or metal floor construction, or under concrete slabs where piping, ductwork, etc., requiring periodic inspection or repair are located.

18.7 Wall Vents

Wall vents proportioned on a basis of two square feet for each twenty-five lineal feet of exterior wall shall be installed for ventilating all dead air spaces under wood or metal floor construction and each such space shall have vents in at least two walls, except that only one vent in a basement or cellar wall will be acceptable. Noncorrodible screening of not over ½ inch mesh shall be installed in each outside vent opening.

18.8 Concrete Slabs on Ground

Dwellings constructed on concrete slabs will be acceptable when the construction of the slab is on 42 inch minimum footing at least 8 inches in width and meets the approval of the Building Inspector. Garage may have floating footing 16 inches by 14 inches reinforced with two steel rods ½ inch in entire length around footings. SECTION 19—MINIMUM DESIGN LOADS

All floors for one and two family dwellings shall be designed for the dead load plus a live load of not less than forty pounds per square foot of floor area. Each room shall be designed for the dead load plus a live load of not less than thirty pounds per square foot of horizontal projection.

SECTION 20—WOOD CONSTRUCTION

20.1 General Requirements—Working Stresses Design

Compliance with the standards set forth in the publications "Minimum Construction Requirements for New Dwellings located in the State of Michigan, revised May 15, 1940, Federal Housing Administration, FHA Form No. 2296, or "National Design Specification of Stress-Grade Lumber and Its Fastenings" first edition 1944, National Lumber Manufacturers Association, shall be acceptable.

(1) Use of Lumber Members

Minimum sizes of lumber members required by this Code refer to nominal sizes. American Lumber Standards for dressed sizes shall be accepted as the minimum net sizes conforming to nominal sizes. Computations to determine the required sizes of members shall be based on the net dimensions (actual size) and not the nominal sizes.

(2) Splicing

Splicing of wood joists between bearing points will not be permitted.

(3) Girders

Girders may be structural steel, solid wood, built-up wood or reinforced concrete. All build-up wood girders shall have joists broken at no less than four foot intervals.

(4) Wood Columns

Wood when used as columns in basements shall bear on a cement base eight inches by eight inches which shall extend three inches above the finish floors. The base shall bear directly on the post footing.

20.2 Floor, Ceiling and Roof Framing

(1) Joist Supports

Where floor joists frame into the side of wood girders the joists shall be supported on metal joist hangers or on a wood bearing strip spiked to the side of the girders. Ends of the floor joists framing into masonry walls shall be supported on metal joist hangers or shall have not less than four inch bearing and shall have at least a three inch fire cut. An air space of one inch shall be provided at ends and side of wood joists framing into masonry.

(2) Over Unexcavated Areas

Floor joists shall have a clearance of not less than eighteen inches between the bottom of the joists and the surface of the ground underneath in unexcavated areas.

(3) Joist Schedule

Maximum Allowable Spans for Floor Joists;
Size of Joists Nominal	Spacing of Joists Center to Center (inches)	Length of Span (feet)
2x8	16	13
2x10	16	18
2x12	12	20

(4) Multiple Joists

Floor joists shall be doubled under all non-bearing partitions which run parallel to the floor joists. Joists under bearing partitions shall be multiplied in sufficient number to adequately support combined loads. Doubled joists shall be separated and blocked at four foot intervals where piping or duct work occurs.

(5) Headers and Trimmers

Headers and trimmers shall be doubled except that headers four feet or less in length may be of single thickness provided the headers are supported in metal joist hangers, or on columns of posts, or on not less than two inch by three inch ledger boards and header is secured by spikes driven through one thickness of the trimmers into the ends of the headers. Headers receiving more than four tailbeams shall have ends supported in metal joist hangers.

(6) Lapped Joists

Ends of lapped joists shall rest on girders or on bearing partitions and shall be securely nailed to plate and to each other.

(7) Bridging

Floors, including attic floor, and flat roof joists shal be cross-bridged at intervals not to exceed eight feet and double nailed at each end.

(8) Defects

Where the structural strength of framing members is definitely impaired by inherent defects or by cutting or drilling, such members shall be reinforced or replaced, as required by the Building Inspector.

(9) Access

An opening not less than twenty-four inches by thirty inches for access to the attic space shall be provided.

(10) Ventilation

All attics and spaces between flat roofs and ceilings shall be ventilated by screened louvers or other means approved by the Building Inspector.

(11) Collar Beams

When ceiling joists do not serve as ties for the rafters, collar beams of 1 by 6's or 2 by 4's shall be installed on at least each 3rd pair of roof rafters and shall be securely nailed to the rafters. Maximum spacing of collar beams, 5 feet on center.

(12) Valley Rafters

The depth of ridge boards and valley rafters shall be not less than the ends of the abutting rafters. Valley rafters shall be 2 inches heavier than adjacent or main rafters. All rafters shall be securely spiked to the supporting members.

(13) Double Rafters

20.3 Exterior Walls

(1) Framing

All external wall covering materials shall be moisture-resistant, of sufficient stiffness and properly anchored to remain in place during high winds and be reasonably permanent, provided however, that no type of material shall be used other than those types approved by the Zoning Board. A list of such approved materials may be obtained from the Building Inspector. All exterior wood or metal stud walls shall provide strength and rigidity equivalent to the following:

2 inch by 4 inch wood studs spaced not more than 16 inches on center for dwellings.

All studs shall be securely fastened to plates top and bottom; and diagonally braced at outside corners of walls except where wood sheathing is used. Walls shall have corner posts either built-up or solid of not less than three by 4's. Top plates shall be not less than doubled 2 by 4's which shall lap at all corners and at all intersecting partitions. All such laps shall be securely spiked. All window and door openings shall have studs doubled on jambs. The inner stud shall be cut to receive the header over the opening and shall extend in one piece from header to bearing.

Headers over all openings shall be doubled and shall be set on edge. In lieu of headers, trussed construction may be used. Spans for headers shall not exceed the following for the size given:

Spans up to 5½ feet, two 2 by 6's
Spans 5½ feet to 7 feet, two 2 by 8's
Spans over 7 feet, two 2 by 10's

(2) Anchorage

The sills of frame walls supported directly on masonry shall be not less than 2 inches thick and not less in width than that of the width of the studs. Such sills shall be bolted to the masonry at corners and between corners with ½ inch bolts not less than 6 inches in length and spaced not more than 6 feet apart.

(3) Sheathing

Sheathing may be of wood, structural insulation board, gypsum board, plywood, or other materials approved by the Building Inspector.

20.4 Interior Partitions

(1) Bearing Partitions

Studs of all bearing partitions and studs of all non-bearing partitions exceeding 6 feet of unsupported length which contain openings shall be made up of 2 by 4's spaced not more than 16 inches on center and set the 4 inch way.

(2) Non-bearing Partitions

Studs of all non-bearing partitions which are devoid of openings may be made of 2 by 4's spaced 16 inches on center and set the 2 inch way.

(3) Openings

All openings in interior bearing partitions shall have jambs and heads double-framed same as required for exterior openings.

(4) Top Plate

The top plates of all bearing partitions shall be doubled. All partition plates shall lap at all intersecting partitions and at outside walls, and shall be securely spiked.

(5) Sole Plate

When partitions frame on top of the joists or subfloor, the studs shall bear on a sole plate at least 2 inches thick.

SECTION 21—MASONRY CONSTRUCTION

21.1 Walls

(1) Solid Brick Walls

Solid brick bearing walls shall be not less than 8 inches thick. There shall be a header course in all brick walls at least every seventh course on both sides of the wall or there shall be at least one full-length header in every 1½ square foot of wall surface.

(2) Hollow Masonry Unit Walls

The minimum thickness of bearing walls of structural clay tile or concrete masonry units shall be not less than 8 inches. Hollow masonry units shall have full mortar coverage on vertical and horizontal edges of face shells. Where 2 or more hollow units are used to make up the thickness of a wall, the inner and outer course shall be bonded at vertical intervals not exceeding 34 inches by lapping with units at least 50 per cent greater in width than the units below.

(3) Brick Veneered Walls

Thickness of brick veneer shall be not less than 3⅝ inches properly anchored with rust-resisting wall ties and with at least one tie in every three square feet. The veneer shall rest on the foundation. Two inch brick veneer may be used for one-story dwellings upon approval by the Building Inspector.

(4) Existing Walls

No existing wall shall be used for renewal or extension of a building or be increased in height without special written permission from the Building Inspector.

21.2 Lintels and Arches

The masonry above openings shall be supported by arches of masonry or lintels of steel or reinforced concrete, which shall bear on the wall at each end for not less than 4 inches and shall be supported as required for concentrated loads.

21.3 On Masonry Construction

All structural members producing concentrated loads shall have bearings at least 3 inches in length upon solid masonry not less than 4 inches thick. Metal bearing plates of adequate design and dimensions but not less than ¼ inch thick may be used.

21.4 Support on Wood

No masonry construction shall be supported on wood construction. No timber except nailing blocks not exceeding 4 by 4 inch in size, shall be built in as a part of masonry walls.

SECTION 22—STRUCTURAL STEEL AND IRON WORKING STRESSES, DESIGN AND FABRICATION

Compliance with the standards set forth in the "Specification for Design, Fabrication and Erection of Structural Steel for Buildings" as adopted by the American Institute of Steel Construction, Fourth edition 1942, shall be acceptable.

SECTION 23—FIRESTOPPING

23.1 General

Firestopping shall be supplied at the locations specified in this section and shall be so arranged as to cut off all concealed draft openings and form an effectual fire barrier between stories and between the upper story and the roof space.

23.2 Exterior Walls

(1) Wood Construction

Exterior walls of wood construction shall be properly firestopped at each floor level and at the level where the floor and rafters connect with the wall plate.

(2) Furred Space

For all masonry walls that are furred or studded off, the space created by the furring or studding shall be properly firestopped once in each story. Space around chimneys shall be firestopped with incombustible material.

23.3 Partitions

Where stud partitions rest directly over each other and the studs run down between the floor beams and rest on the top plate of the partition below, the spaces between the studding shall be properly firestopped.

23.4 Stairs

The space between stair carriages shall be firestopped by a header beam at top and bottom. Where a stair run is not all in one room or where a closet is located beneath the stairs, the stair carriage shall have an intermediate firestop so located as to cut off communication between portions of the stairs in different rooms or between closet and the room in which it is placed. Such stops shall be made of plank or other suitable material.

23.5 Pipes or Ducts

Where any pipe or duct passes through a floor, the space between the pipe or duct and the floor construction shall be firestopped. Where the installation of pipes, ducts or conduit in walls, floors or partitions requires the removal of any firestopping, the spaces around the pipes, ducts or conduit at such points where such firestopping was removed, shall be tightly filled with asbestos, mineral wool or other incombustible material.

23.6 Inspection

SECTION 24—CHIMNEYS, FLUES AND SMOKE PIPES

24.1 General

Chimneys shall be constructed in accordance with good practice provided that the specific requirements of the Code shall be observed.

24.2 Construction of Chimneys

(1) Materials

Chimneys shall be constructed of brick, stone or of reinforced concrete. When constructed of laid-up masonry units such units shall be not less than 3½ inches wide laid full head and bed joints of Type A or Type B mortar (see Section 17 of this Code). No chimney shall be constructed of hollow masonry units unless such units shall first have been proven to the satisfaction of the Building Inspector to be the equal of or superior to solid masonry units. Flue linings shall be required under conditions indicated in another part of this section. Variations from specific requirements noted herein shall be subject to the approval and labeling requirements of the Building Inspector.

(2) Separation from Other Construction

No combustible beams, joists or rafters shall be within 2 inches of the outside face of chimneys or of masonry enclosing a flue, provided that this distance may be reduced to ½ inch when the members are faced to their full depth with asbestos insulating board or other approved insulating material not less than ½ inch thick. No combustible studding, lathing, furring or plugging shall be placed against the chimney or in the joints thereof. Such combustible construction shall either be set away from the chimney or the plastering shall be directly on the masonry or on metal lath and furring or on other incombustible lathing and furring material. Combustible furring strips placed around chimneys to support base or other trim shall be insulated from the masonry by asbestos paper at least ⅛ inch thick, and metal wall plugs or other approved incombustible all-holding devices attached to the wall surface shall be used for nailing.

(3) Foundations

Masonry or reinforced concrete chimneys shall not rest upon or be carried by wood floors, beams or brackets, nor be hung or supported by metal stirrups from wood construction but shall be built upon concrete or masonry foundations or upon concrete slabs properly proportioned to carry the load without danger of settlement or cracking. The footing shall rest on solid earth and shall be carried below the frost level. (42 inches deep).

(4) Bonding

Masonry or reinforced concrete walls of buildings may form parts of chimneys when the chimney walls are securely bonded into the walls of the building and when the flue is lined with flue lining the same as an independent chimney.

(5) Corbeling of Chimneys

Corbeled chimneys shall not be supported by hollow walls, cavity walls or walls of hollow units. Solid walls supporting corbeled chimneys shall not be less than 12 inches thick and corbeling shall not project more than 1 inch per course and not more than 6 inches in all. The total offset, overhang or corbel of an independent chimney shall not exceed ⅓ of the width of the chimney in the direction of the offset.

(6) Height

Chimneys shall be built at least 3 feet above the roofs provided that the tops of chimneys shall not be below the tops of adjacent parapet walls. In the case of sloping roofs, chimneys shall be not less than 2 feet above the ridge of the roof that the chimney penetrates and not less than 2 feet above the highest ridge within 10 feet of the chimney. Unless provided with a stone, terra cotta, concrete, cast iron or other approved cap or top, the chimney lining shall project not less than 2 inches. No chimney top shall decrease the required flue area.

(7) Concrete Chimneys

Concrete for chimney cast in place shall be readily be well-rodded and shall be reinforced both vertically and horizontally.

(8) Flashing

Connections between chimneys and roofs shall be made with cap and base flashing of sheet metal or other approved material, arranged to allow for any lateral or vertical movement between the chimney and roof.

(9) Change of Interior Dimensions

No change in the interior dimensions of chimneys shall be made within a distance of 6 inches above or below the floors or roof joists.

24.3 Flues

(1) General

Except as otherwise provided in this Code, every heating apparatus or heat producing unit referred to in this Code shall be connected with a flue conforming to the provisions of this section.

(2) Flue Linings

Chimneys built of brick, stone or other masonry units with walls less than 8 inches thick shall be lined throughout with fire-clay or other refractory clay lining not less than 5/8 inch thick, provided that metal or other approved flue liners may be inserted in the flue to reduce it to a desired size. (Deterioration of fire-clay lining, commonly encountered where gas appliances are used, may be largely prevented by adherence to the provisions of Section 25 on "Combustible Flues for the use of gas appliances only which are not suitable for solid or liquid fuels must be plainly and permanently labeled "This flue is for the use of gas burning appliances only." Such label shall be attached at a point near where the vent pipe enters a chimney or other permanent visible place. All masonry flue sections shall be set in Types A or B mortar as described in Section 17 of this Code.

(3) Separation

When two or more flues are contained in the same chimney, widths of brick or mortar not less than 3¾ inches thick shall be provided.

(4) Construction

The masonry shall be built around each section of lining as it is placed and all spaces between masonry and linings shall be filled with mortar. Linings shall start at least 8 inches below the center line of smoke pipe intakes or in the case of fireplaces from the apex of the smoke chamber and shall be continuous the entire height of the chimney. Whenever it is necessary to cut a smoke pipe intake opening into a flue lining already set in place, due care shall be exercised to prevent breaking away of the flue lining. Flues shall be built as nearly vertical as possible but in no case at an angle greater than 30° from the vertical. Where changes in direction, the abutting linings at the angle joints shall be cut to fit closely and at no point shall the cross-sectional area be reduced.

(5) Cleaning

Flues shall be cleaned out thoroughly at the time of construction and shall be left smooth on the inside.

24.4 Smoke Pipes

(1) Connection With Flue

a. Connection required—Every smoke pipe shall connect with a flue by means of a tight joint.

b. Number limited—Not more than one smoke pipe shall be connected to a flue at the same level, nor shall one from a gas burning appliance may connect into the same flue as a smoke pipe providing the connection is above the smoke pipe. For other gas appliance restrictions, see Section 25.2 of this Code.

c. Thimbles—Smoke pipes shall enter chimneys through a masonry or metal thimble or flue ring of masonry. Neither the intake pipe or the thimble shall project into the flue.

(2) Passage Through Combustible Construction

a. Ceilings, Roofs and Floors—No smoke pipe shall pass through a ceiling floor or roof construction of combustible material. Vents for gas burning appliances shall not be construed to be smoke pipes.

b. Partitions—Smoke pipes shall not pass through combustible partitions unless protected by double metal ventilated thimbles not less than 12 inches in diameter than the pipe or 4 inches larger in diameter than the pipe with the space between the pipe and thimble solidly filled with approved incombustible insulating material, or unless protected by a concentric sleeve of diameter 2 inches larger than the pipe with the ends of the sleeve solidly filled with incombustible insulating material and the outside surface of the sleeve distant at least 2 inches from combustible material.

c. Clearance from Combustible Construction—The clear distance in all directions between a smoke pipe and combustible construction, including plaster on a combustible base, shall be not less than 12 inches provided that this clearance may be reduced ½ when such construction is protected by a cement asbestos board or by rock lath and plaster ⅝ inches thick, or asbestos millboard not less than ¼ inch thick or equivalent approved covering extending the full length of the smoke pipe and not less than 6 inches beyond it on all sides or where plaster is on metal or wire lath.

24.5 Additional Requirements

Except as may be otherwise provided by this section, the standards set forth in the Building Code, 1943 edition, recommended by the National Board of Fire Underwriters of New York (copy on file in the office of the Building Inspector) shall be used by the Building Inspector as a guide for acceptable construction and installation of chimneys, flues, vents for gas appliances and smoke pipes.

SECTION 25—HEATING APPLIANCES

25.1 General

Heating appliances shall be installed in accordance with good practice provided that the specific requirements of the Code shall be observed.

(1) Combustion

Adequate facilities shall be provided for the entrance of air to support combustion in rooms or other spaces enclosing heat producing appliances and the area of such facilities shall not be less than the combined outlet area of the appliances so located.

(2) Clearances for Heating Furnaces

No hot air, hot water, steam heating or other type of furnace described herein shall be located nearer than 6 inches in any direction to wood work or other combustible construction, including plaster on a combustible base, unless such furnace shall be enclosed in a jacket providing an air space or which is insulated in an approved manner and the combustible material protected with a sheet metal shield, or with ¼ inch asbestos board, or with ¾ inch Portland cement plaster on metal lath, or equivalent protection, in which case this clearance may be reduced to not less than 6 inches.

(3) Ducts

Warm air ducts, fittings and connections to warm air heating plants shall be made of bright tin or of galvanized iron or of such other incombustible material as may be approved by the Building Inspector.

(4) Heating Protection

That portion of plenum chamber or trunk line immediately above a furnace out-let shall not be less than 2 inches from any combustible material. Unless protected with at least 1½ inches of asbestos mill board or the equivalent.

25.2 Gas Appliances

(1) General

Except as otherwise provided in this section, compliance with the standards set forth in the "Requirements and Recommended Practice for House Piping and Appliance Installation," 1940 edition, and "Requirements for Installation of Conversion Burners in House Heating and Water Heating Appliances," 1940 edition, of the American Gas Association, shall be acceptable.

(2) Gas Fired Furnaces

Gas fired steam or hot water furnaces shall be installed as prescribed in this Code for gas heating appliances and shall be connected with smoke pipe conforming to the requirements of this Code.

(3) Gas Logs—Radiant Heaters

No gas log, gas grate or similar heating apparatus or appliance shall hereafter be installed except in a fireplace constructed as prescribed by this Code and connected with a smoke-flue or outlet pipe as hereinafter set forth provided that if any such appliance shall be determined to be of a type which cannot produce an explosive mixture or asphyxiating condition in the room or space where it is installed, these requirements may be waived by the Building Inspector.

(4) Liquified Petroleum Gases

The regulations covering the use of liquid petroleum gases as set forth in the state fire marshal's regulations shall be standard for all installations using this type of fuel.

(5) Venting

Outlet pipes for venting gas appliances shall be standard cast iron smoke pipe, terra cotta pipe or the other approved incombustible material so connected as to prevent leakage at the joints. Such outlet pipes shall be connected to chimneys or be carried to and through the roof or through an exterior wall to the outer air. When not connected to chimneys they shall be surmounted by a suitable cap. The vent from a gas appli

Detroit Parking Fees Climbing Higher

DETROIT (AP)—Parking fees in downtown lots are climbing in Detroit, the outgrowth of higher taxes, bigger cars and increased wages for attendants.

The trend is reported by William H. Coy, general manager of the Detroit Parking Assn.

Fee increases, he said, are in effect at about 40 per cent of downtown lots. Some lots have raised the price for the first hour, but most have added 5 to 10 cents to the charge for each additional hour.

Increased assessments on downtown unimproved property have contributed to the rise, Coy said.

"Newer, wider and much longer automobiles have cut the capacity of lots by a tremendous amount," he added.

The Japanese Government has launched a two-year program to eliminate 60,000 Government jobs.

GMC Sales Set All-Time Record

Total for First Third of November Over 25 Pct. Higher Than in '54

DETROIT — Retail sales of General Motors passenger cars in the United States during the first 10 days of November set an all-time record for that period, President Harlow H. Curtice announced today.

Sales of used cars by General Motors dealers also set all-time records for that period, Curtice said, and all-time records were set for the sale of new and used cars for the Jan. 1-Nov. 10 period.

These records were set in spite of the fact that 1956 Oldsmobiles were not announced until Nov. 3 and Chevrolets and Buicks were announced Nov. 4, Curtice explained, adding that all new GM cars were in short supply.

New car sales for the Nov. 1-10 period totaled 83,314 or 125.4 per cent of the same period of 1954. Used car sales by General Motors dealers during the same period totaled 109,660 or 115 per cent of the same period last year.

Retail sales of new General Motors cars for the year to date total 3,275,104 or 139.9 per cent of the same period of 1954. Used car sales for the year thus far total 4,310,249 or 130.5 per cent of 1954 sales to Nov. 10.

Dealers Sell 14,274 Pontiacs in 10 Days

Pontiac dealers delivered 14,274 new cars during the first 10 days of November, R. M. Critchfield, Pontiac general manager and General Motors vice president, announced today.

The record brings Pontiac year-to-date sales to 480,510 new units, 57 per cent above Pontiac year-to-date sales at this time last year, Critchfield said.

Used car sales by Pontiac dealers totalled 20,280 units during the first 10 days of November, Critchfield reported.

Business Notes

The election of Thomas S. Nichols to the Board of Directors of the Fruehauf Trailer Co. was announced yesterday by President Roy Fruehauf. Nichols is president of the Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp.

A former government official, Nichols served as deputy administrator of the National Production Authority during the Korean War, and in World War II was associated with the State Department as a coordinator of the overseas supply program.

Dual Exhausts Offered

DETROIT (INS)—Plymouth Division of Chrysler Corp. announced yesterday that dual exhausts are now available as a factory-installed option on cars with "Hy-Fire" V-8 engines.

The factory retail price for the device, which is said to provide an extra margin of performance and improved fuel economy, is $18.40.

7 Millionth Car for '55 to Roll Off Plant Lines

DETROIT (AP) — The seven millionth automobile of 1955 will roll off assembly lines tomorrow, Automotive News said yesterday. It will mark the first time in history that yearly production figure has been reached.

The highest previous mark was 6,658,510 cars built during 1950.

The eight millionth motor vehicle of this year was produced today, the trade paper said. It estimated this week's production would reach 175,901 cars and 28,020 trucks, compared to 180,775 cars and 28,318 trucks built last week.

Car output last week was the second highest in industry history. The all-time high is 184,114 cars assembled during the week ended April 30.

Predicts Sharp Rise in National Product

NEW YORK (AP)—The gross national product—the total of goods and services—may reach 500 billion dollars a year "soon," Charles E. Wilson, chairman of the board of W. R. Grace & Co., predicted today.

This year, it is estimated the gross national product will reach around 392 billions.

Wilson, addressing the Electrical Associates Club, said political parties should "be adamant in the defense of the system of business and government which has made this possible."

Earnings

NEW YORK (INS)—General Dynamics Corp. has reported net income for the nine months ended Sept. 30 of $13,754,390, equal to $2.74 a common share. This compared with $14,161,038, or $2.78 a common share, in the same period last year. Sales increased to $506,133,036 from $477,829,633 in the 1954 period. The company estimated its backlog of unfilled orders on Sept. 30 at $1,415,000,000, the highest level in its peacetime history. In addition, it reported that contracts under negotiation on Sept. 30 totaled $518,000,000.

NEW YORK (INS) — Corning Glass Works reported net income for the 40 weeks ended Oct. 9 of $14,316,849, equal to $2.12 a common share. This compared with $12,111,075, or $1.78 a common share, in the same period last year. Sales increased to $116,229,204 from 108,456,032 in the 1954 period.

Violent Storms Lessening in Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow and rain fell in Western states today but violent storms which lashed broad areas of the nation this week appeared diminishing.

The windy, snowy, cold weather was blamed for at least 13 deaths. Nine persons were missing and presumed dead. Four other persons were reported snowbound in the mountains near Boulder, Colo., which was hit by an 18-inch snowfall Monday.

The arctic air which has gripped the northern Rockies and Northern Plains states for several days appeared nearly broken this morning. The Weather Bureau reported only a few areas reporting below-zero temperatures.

Temperatures in the icy belt climbed as much as 20 degrees compared to yesterday morning. However, readings through the area as far south as southern Colorado were in the 20s or lower.

But it was colder in the South, with temperatures in the 30s as far as the central Gulf states. Readings were 20 to 30 degrees lower in the Southeast.

* * *

The coldest November weather in Montana's history dropped temperatures more than 30 degrees below zero in some areas. The cold also hit Wyoming and Colorado.

Study Continues on GM Hearings

Witness Charges Firm Refused Engine Sales; Wilson May Testify

WASHINGTON (AP) — Testimony that General Motors refused in 1952 to sell engines to a bus-manufacturing competitor put the name of Secretary of Defense Wilson before a Senate subcommittee today.

A Pentagon spokesman said Wilson, who was GM's president in 1952, would have no comment now on the testimony but would "certainly" answer any questions the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee might want to ask him later.

Chairman O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) said he was "inclined to believe" that the defense secretary was the "Mr. Wilson," not otherwise identified, on whose orders Thomas F. Butler said yesterday his firm was denied engines.

Butler, vice president of the Flexible Co., Loudonville, Ohio, said his firm had ordered GM engines for its buses through the Great Lakes Diesel Co., a Cleveland dealer.

He then produced for the committee a memorandum of Jan. 29, 1952, relating that Dick Cook, Great Lakes sales manager, advised Flxible:

* * *

"I just received a telephone call from the Detroit office stating that orders had come down from Mr. Wilson, who had a meeting with other officials in Chicago that we were not to deliver any engines to the Flexible Co. as they are competitors of ours."

Frank R. Fageol, Kent, Ohio, who said he began building buses 30 years ago, testified that the fierce competition from GM had forced his and other companies out of business.

Paper Says Israeli Wants 50 U.S. Jets

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times said today Israel has asked the United States to sell her 40 to 50 late model jet aircraft, a number of vessels for use against submarines, heavy tanks, anti-tank guns and anti-aircraft weapons.

The Israeli arms list is understood to call for armaments costing less than 40 million dollars, a Washington dispatch to the newspaper added.

Neither the U. S. State Department nor the Israeli embassy would comment on the story.

The Israeli embassy declined to make public a specific list of its requests, which have been sent by the State Department for study by naval, military and air specialists.

Negotiations Scheduled

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Further meetings between Lear, Inc., and CIO United Auto Workers local 330 have been scheduled for next week after attempts Thursday made no progress in settling a strike which began Oct. 21 at Lear's Grand Rapids division. About 1,800 production workers are on strike in support of new contract demands.

Guilty of Embezzlement

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — George L. Scott, 26, a Benton Harbor substitute mail carrier, pleaded guilty Thursday before Federal Judge Raymond W. Starr of embezzlement of three letters, containing checks, from the mails last August and September. He was ordered to appear Dec. 1 for sentencing.

Market Drops in Early Dealings

NEW YORK (AP) — The Stock Market fell back today in early dealings, sometimes rather abruptly, in a reaction to the latest government blow against inflation.

The Federal Reserve after the close of the Stock Market yesterday raised to 2½ from 2¼ per cent its charges for lending money to commercial banks.

Banks usually pass such increases on to business borrowers. It has a tendency to limit borrowing.

The Federal Reserve in Washington said it raised its discount rate as a move to curb inflationary tendencies.

The Stock Market reacted in a calm manner to the harder money move. Prices were off fractions for the most part, but some leading issues showed much larger losses that ran on out to between 3 and 4 points at the most.

Offerings weren't heavy enough to cause any congestion in trading, but the pace was brisk from the outset.

Railroad to Expand Fleet by 6,000 Cars

CLEVELAND (INS) — Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Co. has announced it will expand its freight car fleet by 6,000 new cars at an estimated cost of $45,000,000. This brings to 10,500 the cars ordered by the C. and O. in the past year.

Walter J. Tuohy, president, said that "ordering of these cars shows C. and O.'s faith in the continuing of a bullish coal market and a high level of business generally."

This placed the total value of cars ordered by his road in the past year at $83,000,000.

Driver Hurt as Autos Collide Near Road Bend

James D. Frerrier, 17, of Grand Blanc was treated for a bruised shoulder and released from Hurley Hospital, Flint, yesterday after a two-car collision on M-87 three miles west of Holly.

Frerrier's auto collided with one driven by 21-year-old Clyde E. Mullins of Fenton. Mullins told deputies he had been going too fast around a bend in the road.

Oakland County Sheriff's deputies are holding Mullins on a charge of driving without license.

Detroiter Shoots Wife, Then Self

Son, 14, Says Parents Fought Over His Mom's Excessive Drinking

DETROIT (AP) — An electrician shot and fatally wounded his wife with a double-barrelled shotgun and then killed himself early today, ending months of wrangling over the wife's drinking habits.

Mrs. Katherine Casey, 37, died in Receiving Hospital two hours after she had been shot in the left arm and chest. Her husband, Edward, 49, was dead of a head wound when police arrived at their home in the city's northwest side. The shotgun lay at his side.

Officers were summoned by Thomas White, 14, Mrs. Casey's son by a previous marriage. He said he and his 9-year-old half-brother, David Casey, were awakened by two shotgun blasts while they were sleeping.

Thomas told police his mother had been drinking heavily for months and frequently had stayed away from home for days at a time. He said his step-father and mother argued many times about her drinking habits.

"He felt awful about it," Thomas said. "He was so unhappy that he tried to kill himself two months ago with sleeping tablets. But I never heard him threaten to hurt mother."

The Caseys came to Detroit two mother had been drinking yesterday afternoon and went out again last night despite the protests of her husband.

'Court Martial' Due Saturday

Shaw, Goldsmith Plays Among Top Offerings for Sunday

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Things to see on television this weekend (all times Eastern):

Saturday, 9:30 p.m., CBS — Ford Star Jubilee presents an hour and a half TV version of Herman Wouk's "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial," with most of the original cast of the Broadway hit. The TV version, edited by Charles Laughton, is not a watered down version of that excellent drama.

Sunday, 4 p.m., NBC — Hallmark Hall of Fame presents George Bernard Shaw's "The Devil's Disciple," starring Maurice Evans, Ralph Bellamy, Teresa Wright, Dennis King. This is one of Shaw's "Plays for Puritans," which means it's a satire on conventional morality. The time is the American Revolution, the scene New England.

Sunday 5 p.m., CBS — Omnibus presents Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," starring Michael Redgrave and Hermione Gingold. If you want to see the 18th century roots of the plots and characterizations of many a modern "romantic comedy" here is your chance.

Sunday, 7:30 p.m., ABC — Famous Film Festival presents the British film, "The Lavender Hill Mob," starring Alec Guinness. Here is one of the best of British actors in one of the best of his many fine films. It's a hilarious comedy.

Come to think of it, this weekend might be called "the British influence on American television."

Hats off to Bob Hope. His program Tuesday evening (NBC-TV) was good comedy despite the fact the quality of the filming was the worst in a long time. Too much light. On my set at least. Even after turning all dials and kicking the set, Hope and company glowed whitely as ghosts.

Grid Games to Be Aired

Football games scheduled to appear on radio and television this weekend (all times eastern) include:

FRIDAY

Mutual radio, 9:15 p.m., Alabama vs. University of Miami.

SATURDAY

CBS radio, 2:05 p.m., "Football Roundup." Oklahoma vs. Nebraska, Michigan vs. Ohio State, Purdue vs. Indiana, Pitt vs. Penn State, Tennessee vs. Kenutcky.
Mutual radio, 1:15 p.m., Ohio State vs. Michigan.
NBC radio, 1:15 p.m., Michigan vs. Ohio State.
NBC elevision, 4:15 p.m., Southern California vs. UCLA.

SUNDAY

Mutual radio, 2 p.m., (pro football), Detroit Lions vs. Chicago Bears.

FRED COE

Pontiac Show's Producer Has Had Fine Training

One of television's outstanding producers is soft-spoken Fred Coe, 38, who produces the new Pontiac Playwrights '56 series.

Coe, who during the past several years produced Television Playhouse, Mr. Peepers and Producer's Showcase, is now devoting himself entirely to the new program which is sponsored by the Pontiac Dealers of America.

He later directed Nashville Community Theater on a dramatic fellowship in 1937-38, at the same time producing shows for a Nashville radio station.

After studying further at Yale Drama School, Coe directed the Columbia, S. C. Civic Theater for four years.

Off to New York in 1944, he worked in small off-Broadway productions and in a hat factory. Finally, discouraged, he was about to give up and head South for a job, when he landed a spot at NBC.

From there on, his theatrical star rose and by 1946 he was writing, directing and producing television shows.

Coe's Tuesday night show for the Pontiac program is "Daisy," Sumner L. Elliott's original television comedy, starring Tom Ewell and Jane Wyatt. "Daisy" will be shown over the NBC-TV network at 9:30 p.m.

New Record Claimed for Bee Disease Control

LANSING (AP) — The State Department of Agriculture claimed a new record for county-wide coverage in its 1955 campaign to control diseases of bees.

The department said only 2.1 per cent of bee colonies inspected were infected with foulbrood disease, one of the main enemies of bee colonies. There were 1,731 infected colonies out of 80,088 inspected.

The inspections covered 72 of the 83 counties.

Tempting Offers Nixed

CLEVELAND—One major appliance manufacturer has received a number of inducements to relocate. The offers, all rejected, came from a number of cities and included rent-free, tax-free buildings; special country-club privileges for executives; cheap labor and a swimming pool and a golf course for employes.

Editors See Ike Retiring, Stevenson-Nixon Battle

By GORDON G. GAUSS

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Adlai E. Stevenson are the leading candidates for the 1956 presidential nominations in the view of most delegates attending the Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. convention here.

By a ratio of almost a 4-1 newsmen from all sections of the country predicted President Eisenhower will not seek re-election.

They see the farm problem and foreign policy as the two issues which will figure most heavily in the 1956 campaign.

These are the highlights of a poll of the editors taken at the meeting and tabulated today. They were asked in a written questionnaire whether they believed President Eisenhower will run or not; if not, whom do they consider the three persons most likely to win the Republican presidential nomination; whom do they consider the three most likely to win the Democratic nomination; and what they think the major issues will be.

They were not asked to express personal preferences.

The editors voted Chief Justice Earl Warren of the United States the most probably rival of Nixon for the GOP nomination.

Of 186 managing editors participating in the poll, 86 listed Nixon idential nominee while 77 others as most probable Republican preslist Warren.

Nixon received 61 votes as the second most likely candidate and Warren polled 39.

The vote for Stevenson on the Democratic side was overwhelming. He was listed by 156 editors. Next was Gov. Averell Harriman of New York. He polled 14 votes.

Harriman got 101 votes as the second most likely choice.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) far outdistanced all others as the third most likely candidate with 74 votes. He also had eight first-place votes and 39 second-place.

Several other persons were mentioned as possible Republican or Democratic presidential nominees but lagged far behind.

Only 39 of the newsmen expressed belief President Eisenhower will be a candidate for re-election; 147 thought he won't.
