Influence of Dale Evans, His Wife, Gives Roy Rogers Courage to Talk of Faith

By ROY ROGERS
Film and Radio Star

What's wrong with a guy who isn't scared when he nearly breaks his neck filming Western pictures, but gets the shakes when he has to make a simple speech? For years I asked myself this question.

I was shy from my boyhood days when we lived on the Ohio River in a three-room houseboat built by my father. Our family—Mother, Dad, and three sisters—later settled on a farm outside Portsmouth, Ohio. Dad worked in a shoe factory, while my sisters and I helped Mother run the farm.

By the time I was 10 I could call a square dance and play the guitar. But to get up and talk before a class, or just a few people, would make me take off across the cornfields.

I earned a dollar a week by ploughing corn on neighborhood farms, later quit school and went to work in the shoe factory to help out the family finances. When the family went to visit my sister in California, I fell in love with the far West.

I drove a gravel truck in Lawndale, California for a while, then during the depression took any kind of job. During my spare time I practiced on my guitar, hoping that some day I could make a living as a musician and a singer.

Then, as often happens to a guy who wanders into Hollywood, I had a lucky break, got a spot in a picture and my film career started. When my wife died during the birth of our third child, I was faced with a demanding career and the responsibilities of raising three fine children.

The story I want to tell begins several years later. Dale Evans, a film star in her own right, and I had been making pictures together for many years. With the unanimous approval of my children, we were married on Dec. 31, 1948.

We hadn't been married but a few days when she started one morning with "It's a beautiful day to go to church."

Now I wasn't a stranger to churches. I just hadn't time to get acquainted with very many because of other things I preferred doing. "Honey, I've gotta go see Joe Miller this morning," I said quickly. "Why don't you go ahead without me?"

4th Circuit Judgeship Bill Considered Dead for Year

The Michigan House of Representatives Thursday sent a bill to let Oakland County elect a fourth circuit judge back to committee for more study.

Rep. William S. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak) said the action "kills the bill for this year at least."

And he blamed opposition from Oakland County's own representatives for its death.

The measure was sent to the Ways and Means Committee, which would have to find money for the state's share of a fourth judge's salary.

Rep. Harry Phillips (R-Port Huron), committee member and house majority floor leader, moved for referral, promising that the state court administrator, Meredith Doyle, will survey the need for a fourth judge here.

Broomfield said if Doyle finds another judge is needed "we'll reintroduce the bill in January and it should go right through."

Broomfield introduced this year's bill, which would have let voters choose a fourth judge this November to take office Jan. 1. The County Board of Supervisors approved it.

Democrat Reps. Leam Harrison of Pontiac and Walter T. McMahon, of Hazel Park, opposed the bill. They wanted the governor to be given the right to appoint a judge.

Republican Fred G. Boardley, of Oxford, also opposed it, saying the county has no place to put another judge.

Broomfield fought the move to return the bill to committee Thursday, pointing out that Oakland County's three judges handle five times as many cases each as Wayne County's; that 4,000 cases are waiting for trial now, and that the average case has to wait about 30 months to be heard.

RAF Offers Cash Bonus for Long Service Terms

LONDON (AP)—The British government is going to pay Royal Air Force pilot officers a bonus of $4,000 for completing 12 years of service. For completing eight years, they will be paid $4,500. The bonus has a double purpose: to induce more men to go into the air force and to keep trained men in.

Army Arrests Cpl. Batchelor

Former Pro-Red POW to Be Grilled on Conduct in Prison Camp

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army today ordered Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor held for a pre-trial investigation of alleged misconduct and aiding the enemy while a prisoner of war in Korea.

The 23-year-old Kermitt, Tex., soldier was placed under arrest at Ft. Sam Houston, San Antonio, today.

He arrived there yesterday for a medical checkup. Batchelor is one of two American prisoners of war who had a change of mind and came home after first electing to remain with the Communists.

The other was Cpl. Edward S. Dickinson, 23, of Cracker's Neck, Va., a little hamlet in the Blue Ridge mountains.

On Feb. 18, the Army ordered a court martial trial for Dickinson on charges he gave the Communists information about fellow prisoners in order to gain better treatment for himself. His trial is due to begin sometime late this month but the date has not been set.

The formal charge against Dickinson is unlawfully collaborating with the enemy.

Angry House Asks Transcript

Telecast Criticizes Attempt to Control TV Liquor Ads

LANSING (AP)—The House today awaited a reply to its request that a Lansing television station (WJIM) send it a transcript of a telecast which members said was "far from complimentary to the Legislature."

The telecast urged viewers to wire their legislators opposing a bill to forbid dramatizing liquor, beer and wine drinking in television advertising.

The motion was made by Rep. Adrian De Boom (R-Owosso) who said the telecast "very seriously misrepresented the bill" and stirred legislators.

Howard Finch, vice-president of the station, made the telecast. He said he believed the transcript would be supplied.

Finch acknowledged that he said something to the effect that the Legislature had more important things to do, including dealing with

Postal Employees Praised for Mail Truck Fire Work

Acting Postmaster Leslie H. Dean Sr. praised 15 postal employees today for removing 14 mail trucks from the Jack Habel Chevrolet Co. building during Wednesday's fire.

The 15 men range from the assistant superintendent of mails to substitute mail carriers.

They drove the trucks outside through hanging wires, heavy smoke and twisted debris while the fire still smoldered.

In an official memorandum, Dean stated:

"I wish to express sincere thanks for myself and the Post Office Department to the employees who worked so diligently in spite of the extremely bad weather and extreme danger to themselves to remove and salvage as many of our trucks as they did."

One of those cited, George D. Aris, assistant mails superintendent, directed salvage operations. "We had to stand in water and push hanging wires out of the way to get the trucks out," he said. "All the work had to be done by flashlight."

Three other mail trucks were removed by a tow truck while still afire. Seven were destroyed.

Despite the loss of about half its fleet, the deliveries were on schedule most of Wednesday and all day Thursday. Today, 14 of the damaged trucks are back in operation and 16 have been borrowed from Detroit.

Many postal employees voluntarily offered their cars for deliveries during Wednesday's emergency. Dean pointed out that the 15 employees winning the citations also (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

This week's three storms put some 45,000 youngsters out of class in 110 schools in the county sometime during the week.

Oakland County and Pontiac City roads and streets—like the rest of Michigan's highways—were getting back to normal.

The State Highway Department hopes rising temperatures will clear up icy highways over most of the state today.

But the weather bureau's five-day forecast—running contrary to its 30-day forecast of a warm, wet March—predicts temperatures will run 5 degrees below normal in the next five days, averaging highs of 36 and lows of 17 or 18 degrees.

Wilson Studies Security Risks in Army Setup

Looks for Better Way to Handle Cases; Blasts Back at McCarthy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson says any "idea the Army is coddling Communists is just d— tommyrot" but that he is looking for better ways to handle security risk cases in the future.

Wilson was questioned yesterday at a news conference about the case of Maj. Irving Peress, Army dentist who invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions about possible subversive connections.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), investigating the case, has sharply criticized the Army.

Wilson's comment stirred McCarthy, who only a few minutes before had vowed he was "all through" issuing statements, to retort that "no one has ever claimed that the Army as such is coddling Communists."

But, McCarthy insisted, testimony had established that "certain individuals in the Army have been protecting, promoting, covering up and honorably discharging known Communists." The senator said he was sure the secretary "will not disagree with that."

Because McCarthy's was the final statement of the day, there was no immediate indication whether Wilson did or did not agree.

But in his news conference, devoted this week to the sole subject of communism, he did say:

1. Using a "task force" from his office, he is setting out to determine the "who and why" element in the Army's sudden issuance of an honorable discharge for Peress months after Peress was said to have invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions about communism. Peress was indicted and commissioned under the doctors' draft law.

"I doubt he should ever have been made an officer," was Wilson's reply to a question whether (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Search for C47 Missing in Alps

20 Aboard Air Force Plane on Flight From Rome to Germany

MARSEILLE, France (UP)—Airmen and skiers fanned out over the French Alps today seeking traces of a U. S. Air Force transport missing for more than 24 hours over southern Europe with 20 persons aboard.

The two-engine C47, carrying 18 passengers and a crew of four, left Rome Thursday on a flight to Bitburg, Germany.

The plane was last heard from at 12:45 p.m. (6:45 a.m. EST) Thursday, when the pilot radioed the French Mediterranean island of Corsica.

The plane's fuel supply would have kept it in the air only until 7:30 p.m., and there appeared to be no doubt that it had crashed.

The plane's scheduled course would have taken it up France's Rhone Valley, skirting the rugged Alpine mountains chain that fences Germany off from Italy.

Reports reaching rescue headquarters here indicated, however, that the plane headed directly over the Alps—perhaps accidentally or perhaps to avoid a storm in the Marseille area.

The focus of the search shifted to the mountains after an early sweep of the Mediterranean sea between Corsica and the French coast produced no trace of the missing plane.

A party of French skiers who saw a plane in apparent distress near Lake Annecy, in the mountains some 30 miles north of the Riviera resort city of Nice, were searching for wreckage while French authorities prepared to send an official search party into the area.

College Exposes Fake Professor of Physics Class

DURHAM, N. H. (UP)—A fake professor has been teaching advanced physics at the University of New Hampshire for more than a year, college officials disclosed today.

They identified the self-styled professor as Marvin Hewitt, 31, of Philadelphia, who had only a high school education.

Hewitt was described as a "natural born genius" who educated himself so well that he was able to teach two advanced technical courses without detection.

Edward D. Eddy Jr., assistant to President Robert F. Chandler, said Hewitt's teaching was "above criticism."

"Students who were instructed by him will be given full credit for their work and grades," Eddy said. "Hewitt flunked only one student."

Officials said Hewitt adopted the name of Dr. Kenneth P. Yates and was exposed after a student noted discrepancies while making a routine check of "Dr. Yates" background.

New Hampshire officials said Hewitt taught at four other colleges during a seven-year span. Two of those universities dismissed him after discovering his true identity. The other two never were aware of it.

Bentley Stays on Serious List

4 Puerto Ricans Face Court Today on Counts of Shooting Solons

WASHINGTON (AP)—The condition of Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich.), most seriously wounded in Monday's wild shooting spree in Congress, today was reported unchanged—serious but not critical.

Meanwhile, four Puerto Rican Nationalists accused of the shooting face a court today.

Each has an opportunity to answer to a 10-count indictment, but their formal arraignment may be postponed if they have not arranged for attorneys to represent them.

Amid indications of official concern yesterday that President Eisenhower and others may have been marked for terrorists' attacks, Atty. Gen. Brownell disclosed the Justice Department is studying possible ways to proceed against members of the small, fanatical Puerto Rican Nationalist Party.

Washington police made two recommendations to Congress yesterday:

1. That the special Capital police force, members of which are now appointed by legislators as part of their patronage, be replaced by a professional body.

2. That a bulletproof glass barrier be installed around the public galleries.

The four Puerto Ricans are charged with assault with intent to kill and assault with a dangerous weapon on the five representatives wounded.

The defendants are Lolita Lebron, 34; Rafael Concel Miranda, 25; Andres Figueroa Cordero, 29, and Irving Flores Rodriguez, 28, all of New York City.

Chief Says Truck's Slant Saved 7 Firemen's Lives

The tilt of a truck cab was credited today with sparing the lives of seven firemen injured Wednesday while battling the Habel company fire here.

Pontiac Fire Chief John F. Schroeder said the force of the truck's exploding gas tank blew away from the firemen because the vehicle was on an incline.

"If it hadn't been on a slant, the men never would have escaped alive," Schroeder said.

The truck was being repaired on a frame machine when sparks from an arc welding torch ignited spilled gasoline.

Moments later, one of the truck's gas tanks blew up while the seven firemen stuck to their posts less than 15 feet away. Two of the men required hospital treatment; the others either were scorched or had their hair singed.

Schroeder said the truck's tilt, estimated at between 30 and 35 degrees, made a gas pocket in the front end of its tank. This gas exploded.

"If the truck had been on a level," the fire chief said, "the explosion would have smashed right into the faces of the men."

32,000 Children Offered Chance Against Disease

Officials Succeed in Getting Oakland Placed in Research Project

Some 32,000 Oakland County school children will take part this April in a nationwide test of the new Salk vaccine which may give lifelong protection from polio.

"This may be the vaccine that will stamp out polio for good," said Dr. Robert J. Mason, president of Oakland County Medical Society.

Children in first, second and third grades in this county's public, private and parochial schools will be offered the chance to take part. They will not be vaccinated unless parents give their permission.

Oakland is one of 11 Michigan counties chosen for testing by Michigan Health Department, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and Michigan Medical Society's Polio committee. The others are Bay, Calhoun, Lenawee, Monroe, Muskegon, Ottawa, St. Clair, Washtenaw, Ingham and Macomb counties.

Dr. Mason said the new vaccine was developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of the University of Pittsburgh, in cooperation with the Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which is financing research.

Oakland County Health Department, headed by Dr. John D. Monroe, and the county medical society have been working through New York and Lansing for some time to get Oakland accepted for the testing program.

Dr. Mason said the new vaccine will be given to half the test youngsters. The other half will get injections of ordinary sterile water.

Dr. Thomas Francis Jr. of the University of Michigan will check later to see how many children receiving the vaccine contracted polio compared with the ones who received only the sterile water.

Dr. Mason pointed out the new vaccine is expected to differ from gamma globulin in two ways:

1. Gamma globulin is used after a person has been exposed to polio to prevent paralysis. The Salk vaccine would prevent the disease entirely.

2. Gamma globulin is effective for 30 days. The Salk vaccine is expected to give life-long protection.

"This vaccine is extremely safe," he said. "It's been used on 2,700 youngsters in Pennsylvania—and not a single one has had a bad reaction."

The vaccine, he said, is triple-tested by the manufacturer, Dr. Salk's laboratory and the National Health Institute to insure purity.

All seven of the firemen returned to their jobs Thursday at Pontiac Fire Station No. 1, although two of them were still nursing burns.

Those with the most severe burns were Kenneth Eggert and Harold Lloyd. The others scorched were Capt. John J. Morrissey, Lt. Howard White, George D. Burdick, Robert H. Gayford and Orville Woodworth.

Changes Boost Tentative City Recreation Program Budget to $15,110 in 1955

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM — Minor changes in the recreation board program altered the tentative 1954-55 cash budget discussed by the board last night. To be approved at a meeting March 18 and then sent to the City Commission, the budget totals $15,110 as opposed to the 1953-54 budget of $13,410.

The city's participation totaled $11,000 and with this year's revenues estimated by the board at $2,730, only an additional $1,380 would be needed.

Mrs. William Jackson, chairman of the board, estimates that the board of education contributes the equivalent of the budget in services and facilities.

A new summer sports program, recommended by Frank Whitney, city recreation director, would operate at the Birmingham High School gym five mornings a week.

Whitney felt advantage should be taken of the facilities already there. He mentioned table tennis.

archery, badminton, roller skating, shuffle board, wrestling and pole vaulting as among possible activities.

A proposed day camp program would operate at city-owned Springdale Park, with the idea that groups be taken from the various playgrounds each day.

A greatly expanded program calls for 30 weeks of swimming, instead of 26, and 72 more nights of swimming. The board also hopes to open the pool at Barman School to teenagers, one night a week in the winter and two nights a week during the summer for teenagers and adults.

The question of whether to standardize fees, which are charged in only a few of the programs, or do away with them entirely, will be taken up at the next meeting, along with the possibility of an expanded summer music program.

Parishioners of the Congregational Church have scheduled a full program of Lenten activities, which began last night with an all-church dinner. Forums for adult members and friends of the church will be led by the Rev. Robert D. Dewey at 8 p. m. on March 16 and 24 and April 7.

He will discuss practice of Congregationalism. A discussion period and informal coffee hour will follow.

Men of the church will gather for breakfast and a brief worship service at 8:45 a. m. next Wednesday and again on April 14, and membership classes for the youth of the church will be held each Saturday and Sunday.

Pilgrim Fellowship will hold an early morning worship each Thursday. New members will be received into the church this Sunday and April 11, Palm Sunday.

A service of communion and Tenebrae on Maundy Thursday will be the final event leading up to Good Friday and Easter.

About $1,700 was netted in the Sister Kenny Anniversary fund benefit showing of the film, "Sister Kenny," it was reported today. The money will be used to purchase equipment for the Sister Kenny Polio Treatment Center in Farmington.

The Altar Society of Holy Name Catholic Church has scheduled a rummage sale for April 2, to be held at the former Krege store on N. Woodward.

With 111 new or renewed members, the YMCA Membership Enrollment drive has topped all previous records. Membership chairman Arthur Blakelee reported that the 167 per cent goal achieved by the local group was topped only by the Downtown Branch, of Detroit with 170 per cent.

Total membership of the Birmingham YMCA is now 1,653, the highest it has in history.

Wilson Starts Study of Army Red Tape

he thought Peress should have been given an honorable discharge.

2. Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens was "technically responsible, because he's the boss," for the handling of the Peress case—but "I wouldn't think" Stevens would resign because of the matter. Wilson guessed Peress "could have been gotten out quicker by a little bit different administrative procedure."

3. His task force is covering "the whole incident, from Peress right through, so we'll know the facts, so we can handle things better in the future. . . . This is sort of a new kind of a problem: You wouldn't want a man to be able to dodge the draft just because he says he is a Communist."

Here Wilson was referring to another of the several thorny points which confront the military, particularly in enlisted ranks.

The policy, as it stands now, is that if a volunteer for enlistment refuses to state whether he has or has had Communist connections, he is refused acceptance by the Army. If a draftee comes up for induction and refuses to answer the questions he is inducted, but assigned to a nonsensitive (no military security involved) job.

A second policy, applying to officers, was established by Secretary Stevens Feb. 26, and circulated to all Army commands, with instructions that handling of cases covered by it "be expedited." The order under that policy is that officers found to be security risks be given discharge "other than honorable." It specifies that refusal to sign the loyalty certificate or invoking of the Fifth Amendment shall be considered sufficient evidence that the officer is a security risk. Its final clause announced that where there is conflict with existing regulations, the Feb. 26 Army policy shall govern.

But the Pentagon bill started for Capitol Hill yesterday proposed legislation which would provide for the retention in service—as enlisted men—anyone inducted under the Doctors Draft Act even though they refused to answer questions about communism.

The Pentagon said the object of the legislation was to "remove any doubt that may exist as to the authority of the armed forces to retain and utilize in a professional capacity in an enlisted rank" any doctor or dentist who was drafted or ordered to active duty. This meant that the military wanted the current law changed so that it wouldn't by mandate, have to commission these men but could hold them in service, as enlisted men, in such security-free jobs as drilling teeth or dispensing pills.

McCarthy told his Senate investigations subcommittee yesterday he is ready to show from testimony the Army has had "a very contradictory system" of handling personnel suspected of Communist connections.

He said Peress got an honorable discharge, while a private who told his superiors he broke with communism as a teen-ager in high school got a less than honorable discharge, another private was kept in service although he refused to answer questions about communism and still another, a doctor, was assigned to duty at a hospital but denied an officer's commission.

Couple Fined for Soliciting

Pontiac Judge Finds Pair Guilty of Acting Without License

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Couls of 3170 Orchard Lake Rd., Keego Harbor, were found guilty of soliciting funds without a license yesterday in Pontiac Municipal Court.

They immediately appealed the verdict through their defense attorney, Clarence Smith.

Pontiac Judge Odlin H. Johnson fined the Couls on $75 bond each pending the circuit court hearing this spring.

The Couls are named as promoters of a circus sponsored by the Pontiac National Guard to be held for underprivileged children March 20, in a complaint signed by John W. Herlinger, manager of the Pontiac Better Business Board.

"What I object to is this: First the solicitor takes 25 per cent of the gross, then a runner (picking up money solicited) takes 10 per cent, and there must be some profit for the promoters," Herlinger testified. He pointed out that Couls' organization was to take 75 per cent of the proceeds and the National Guard 25 per cent.

Section six of the ordinance states: Public solicitation or public soliciting within the meaning of this ordinance is defined to be soliciting donations in public streets or places, or in going from house to house, from place to place or from person to person.

Smith contended that soliciting by phone did not fall within the ordinance. Johnson, in finding the defendants $75 or 30 days in jail upheld City Attorney William Ewart's view that "the letter as well as the spirit of the law" prohibited soliciting by phone, which constituted going "from person to person."

Following the trial Smith said that Couls, after his arrest, tried to get a license at the City Hall but was told there that soliciting by phone did not require a license. Mrs. Ada Evans, city clerk, said today that she or her assistants did not remember such a license request.

irrevocably opposed to any type of censorship of TV," he said. Representatives of the Methodist Church have asked for equal time on the station to refute Finch's broadcast, he said. Rep. John J. McCune (R-East Lansing), the bill's sponsor, is in the process of making the same request.

Finch said the station would undoubtedly grant his opponents a total of four and a half minutes, the time he took for his telecast.

A flood of telegrams and telephone calls, still uncounted, were unleashed by the telecast. Clerks said they were running 10 to one against the bill.

Thousands of messages in favor of it had been instigated earlier by dry organizations. This had forced the bill out of a reluctant House Liquor Control Committee.

House leaders are encouraging attempts to move the bill up on the calendar, preferring to let the opposition develop for a few days. Under normal circumstances, the measure will not be debated until Monday night at the earliest.

Woman of 90 Hoping to See 180 Offspring

DETROIT — On her 90th birthday, Mrs. Minnie Weitzel looked back at her motherhood of two families of nine children each.

Mrs. Weitzel, of East Detroit, had nine children by her first husband, Daniel Bishop. He died in 1913.

In 1913, when the youngest Bishop child was 18, Mrs. Weitzel married Martin Weitzel, who had been married to her first husband's sister. Weitzel, a widower, also had nine children.

"It was like starting motherhood all over again," Mrs. Weitzel recalled yesterday. "His youngest child was just four."

Mrs. Weitzel has outlived her second husband, one of her sons and two of her daughters. She now has 140 descendants, and says: "I won't feel content until I can count 180 offspring."

That will be 10 times the children I had. And it will sort of round out my life."

Royal Oak Attic Yields Fugitives

Two Jackson Escapees Caught Hiding in Home of Probationer

Two Jackson prison escapees were arrested yesterday by Michigan State Police of the Center Line Post as they hid in the attic of a Royal Oak home.

Owner of the home, George L. Jorrey, 21, of 2128 Milverton, Royal Oak, was released after questioning. The fugitives are being held in Oakland County Jail.

Leonard Beatty, 22, formerly of Royal Oak, serving time for auto theft, and Ervino L. Korth, 26, of Fosters, Saginaw County, imprisoned for passing bad checks, walked away from a prison farm in Jackson County Tuesday, police said.

In Jackson, the men took a car and drove to 13-Mile and Dequindre Rds. in Royal Oak Township, about two miles from where they were arrested.

After abandoning the car, the escapees walked to Jorrey's home. Jorrey, on his way to work, told authorities he tried to get the pair to surrender.

Police Sgt. Claude Cook and Troopers Carl Freeborn, M. L. Hendricks and Ray Hoopengartner, after checking out a list of the escapees' friends, borrowed a key from Jorrey's estranged wife and made a search of the home. They found the men hidden in the attic.

Officials from Jackson are expected today to return Beatty and Korth to prison.

Police said the men were up for parole in April.

Senate Adopts FEPC Measure

But Sponsor Says Bill Ineffective Without Subpoena

LANSING — The Senate today passed a fair employment practices (FEPC) bill from which Democrats claimed the heart had been cut.

The controversial measure cleared the Senate with a 20-11 vote and went to the House where similar legislation previously had been buried.

Sen. Cora M. Brown (D-Detroit), one of the sponsors, virtually disavowed her own bill after the Republican majority cut off the right of the proposed FEPC Commission to issue subpoenas to compel the presence of witnesses and persons accused of discrimination.

By a 10-12 vote, the chamber defeated her amendment to let the commission petition circuit courts for subpoenas to compel the appearance of witnesses.

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

FRIDAY, MARCH 5, 1954

2 Issues Facing Voters

Pontiac voters have two important decisions to make when they go to the polls April 5.

First of these to be voted on by all electors is a proposed charter change to permit continued levying for public improvements of the millage now devoted to debt retirement. This won't be needed after 1954 when the city will be out of debt.

The second is the proposed issuance of $3,000,000 in bonds to finance a sorely needed addition to Pontiac General Hospital. Only property owners vote on this and a three-fifths majority is required for authorization.

The Press favors these proposals. They must have voter approval if a wisely planned and much needed long range program of public improvements can be launched.

We favor the program outlined by City Manager WILLMAN and topped by the proposed hospital addition. It recognizes that Pontiac has a future as well as current needs, and proposes to do something positive about them.

Moreover, we favor it because it can be financed without any increase in the present tax rate of $13.80 per thousand. This means that Pontiac will retain its rank of sixth from the lowest of 15 Michigan cities as far as total tax rate is concerned.

It also means that the city will continue to enjoy a tax rate 20 per cent lower than the average of all American cities of comparable size. As City Manager WILLMAN put it:

"If you vote for the transfer of the debt retirement fund into a public improvement program, it simply means that this money . . . will then be going to buy . . . public improvements that are vitally needed by our city. Furthermore, there will be no increase in your present tax rate. It will remain at $13.80 per $1,000 of assessed valuation."

Well Done, Fire Fighters

The community owes a hearty salute to the 150 firemen who fought and conquered Pontiac's biggest blaze since 1942.

Called out at 3 a. m. in the worst weather of the winter, every man in Chief SCHROEDER's department battled the flames which caused $700,000 damage to the Jack Habel Chevrolet Co.

Because of the nature of the property and the speed with which the fire roared out of control, the Chief wisely summoned help from the Birmingham and Waterford fire departments.

Fire fighting is a dangerous business at best. It is more than ever so when flames may explode gasoline tanks. Yet the knowledge that one truck in the flaming garage might explode failed to stop seven Pontiac fire fighters.

When the tank finally did let go showering the men with flaming gasoline, all suffered burns but only two required hospital treatment. With the flames threatening the department's pump, Fireman Orville Woodworth drove it outside to safety through smoke so thick he couldn't see. The other six escaped on their hands and knees.

It is comforting to know that Pontiac has such an able and well trained force of professional fire fighters to guard our property and lives whenever danger threatens.

The Press extends its sympathy to Mr. HABEL who suffered this misfortune. Everybody loses in a fire.

Spending Curb Proposed

Iowa's Republican Congressman LE COMPTON has an idea which may make him highly unpopular with his colleagues but should commend itself to taxpayers.

The chairman of the House Administrative Committee has been investigating the use made by junketing Congressmen of counterpart funds in the European countries they visited.

According to reports, some of the touring lawmakers have abused the privilege of using these funds without the necessity of a report. In some cases it is said the money was used for personal purchases, entertainment and gifts.

This has disturbed LE COMPTON so much that he has introduced an amendment to the Foreign Aid Act to make reports on the use of counterpart funds mandatory. In support of his proposal he says:

"There is no reason why they shouldn't account for their use of counterpart funds since, in effect, that is only foreign money purchased with United States dollars. No one who is not abusing the privilege of using counterpart money should be afraid to explain how it was spent."

The Congressman is right.

Tax Old Sorehead was bemoaning the passing of the "good old days." "Ain't nothing like it used to be," he said. "Why, it's been nigh on to 30 years since I've seen a good dog fight."

To run out how much sense a person hasn't got, turn him loose with a snazzy high-powered automobile.

Middle age: When too much goes to waist.

Celebrating his eightieth birthday Saturday is J. A. Tillson.

Pontiac attorney and dean of the Oakland County Bar Association.

Starting his practice here in 1903, he has had quite an intimate connection with the progress of our city and county. Still active, he has kept up his golf and other outside activities, and enjoys reciting some of his early experiences. Soon after starting practice, he went to the county jail one day to confer with some prisoners he was to defend. He was allowed to go to their cell, and the sheriff then forgot about it and went away. Mr. Tillson was locked up in the cell for several hours while the city was being scoured to find the man who had the keys. He decided right then that he'd keep out of jail.

Morris Barnett involved in an auto mishap on route to Florida, called to say he would be back with his leg in a cast. "But," he adds wryly, "I really can't kick."

Having just celebrated her third birthday, Barbara Sue Goodman is in perfect health. She is the daughter of Byron Goodman and was born after her mother had passed away in a local hospital on Mar. 1, 1951. She is being cared for by her aunt.

Believes McCarthy Is Working to Save United States From New Red Scourge

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full names, addresses and telephone numbers of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.

The controversy between Senator McCarthy and Secretary Stevens is a very serious thing to America. Senator McCarthy is a true American. He takes his life as an American citizen very seriously and knows that we are fighting for the every day life of each American. This talk of McCarthyism to me is just plain Americanism. The two names are a great gift of God.

We are becoming very poor thinkers because we don't stop to think that this man is giving his very life to save us from this new Red scourge that goes back 25 years.

We have weak men in office and don't know yet what is going on. Thank God for McCarthy and the man that is clean of mind and a fighter for America.

I'd like to ask everyone to look at "I Led Three Lives" on TV. This will let you know how the Reds would handle you and me. The program is on channel 2 at 10:30 on Thursday.

You Americans are not so stupid to see that Molotov, at the big four meeting, as much as said we want the whole of Europe. Stand back of Senator McCarthy.

Teen-ager Tells of Need for Recreational Centers

Although I am only 14 years old I think I know what I'm talking about when it comes to the subject of recreation.

Some boys and girls don't know what recreation means. To some it's just a way of amusing themselves, no matter if it's robbing a store, beating a person up or maybe even carrying deadly weapons.

I agree that there are many boys running around at night trying to pick up girls along the streets, etc. There should be as many recreational places for girls as there are for boys. There are a few places for girls, but how can one go to recreations when you have to depend on a bus to take you there and if you go at night you don't get home until late?

I live on the southeast side of the city and only on Wednesday nights do we have recreation two blocks from my home. Other nights I go over to my girl friend's home and we go for walks because we have nothing to do at night.

I think this is something that parents should think about. Then maybe people will stop calling teen-agers juvenile delinquents.

Nation Would Be Spared Cat-Dog Fights If Top Officials Were Slower to Talk

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Well, they had five members of the Senate subcommittee instead of one on the job — as recently recommended by President Eisenhower.

They had a "code of fair procedure" — also as recommended.

The witness, Dr. Marvin Sanford Belsky, now in the Army, was represented by counsel — also as recommended.

There was no "how beating" of anybody. And yet the facts turned up at the Thursday hearing of the committee of which Sen. McCarthy is chairman are these:

1. Dr. Belsky, an alleged Communist, refused to answer the Army's questions about whether or not he was a Communist.
2. Dr. Belsky declined to tell the committee whether he aided the Communists in any way while in the Army.
3. Dr. Belsky was not granted a promotion, though he applied for a commission, and he was never given any official reason for that refusal.

So it turns out that all the talk about how hard it was for the Army to keep Dr. Irving Peress, dentist, known to the Army as a Communist, from being promoted from captain to major or from being denied an honorable discharge was a lot of baloney.

Yet it didn't take the testimony of Dr. Belsky alone to prove that point. Charles E. Wilson, secretary of defense, came back to town and opened up with a free-swinging press conference that disclosed these unpleasant points:

1. That the Army could have found a way to prevent Major Peress from getting a commission and that a court-martial could have been ordered.
2. That he ordered the 21 Americans who refused repatriation in Korea to be court-martialed when Army lawyers were debating whether he could order a court-martial.
3. That, while legislation to keep Communists from getting honorable discharges or commissions would be helpful, the secretary of defense doesn't need it. He said: "I know how to get the Communists out of the Army without legislation if I have to."

Then Wilson said that, while Secretary of the Army Robert

Case Records of a Psychologist

Pay Attention to Others; Your Worries Will Fade

Doris is unhappy because she thinks people are talking about her behind her back. Never let yourself develop such a persecution complex. Face the facts and then thank God for your manifold blessings, for "He who grumbles has too much."

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case K-341: Doris A., aged 29, is a very efficient housewife.

"Dr. Crane, I have a wonderful husband and two children that we both adore," she began with a rueful smile.

"So I suppose I ought to be entirely happy. But I'm not, for I keep worrying about this profuse growth of hair on my chin."

"I'm sure people must talk about me behind my back because of it. And although I have pulled out the hairs, they always come back."

"Is there any way I could get them removed permanently?"

We psychologists often talk about the "cripple complex," which refers to the tendency to over-magnify any ailment or minor facial blemish which you may suffer.

It develops because the victims see their defect every time they look in the mirror, so they keep paying more and more attention to it.

Soon it seems monstrous, though it is usually of only mole-hill size to the general public.

Thus, I hadn't noticed hairs on the chin of Doris as she sat across from me at my office desk. It wasn't till she mentioned the "profuse growth" that I had thought to analyze her chin.

But millions of girls and married women grow unduly self-conscious about hairs on their lip or face, or on their legs.

Her chief problem is simply the fact that her surplus mental energy isn't completely used up in external activity.

So she has enough surplus time and attention to start scrutinizing herself. And when you do this, sooner or later you become a victim of some complex.

Either you develop imaginary heart trouble or grow alarmed about cancer, or start wondering if your mate is faithful to you, etc.

To avoid this dangerous "involution" of personality, as we psychologists describe it, arbitrarily turn your attention outward upon people.

Join the "Compliment Club" and pay an honest compliment each day to three different people.

For you must observe your companions in order to pick out a virtue on which to give them a bit of praise.

And as you analyze your neighbors, you won't have time to throw a monkey wrench into the smooth functioning of your own body and mind, via excessive introspection.

If you wear a cheery smile and look for good things in your neighbors, and if you then pay daily verbal compliments, you'll be so popular that people will not notice your hairy skin, or flat feet or unduly pendulous bust, or your bowed legs or thick ankles or pug nose or big mouth or whatever else you have brooded about.

Imagine Doris, worrying about a few hairs on her chin, when some veterans are without hands and eyes and chins!

Send for my bulletin "The Psychology and Medicine of the Face," enclosing a stamped, return envelope plus a dime. Use it to regain proper perspective.

In spite of Mr. Dulles' stuttering optimism we feel Moscow ran the Berlin circus like a ringmaster with two whistles.

Do You Have an Adequate Breakfast?

Or Are You Inviting Pellagra, Beriberi?

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Regular readers of this column, if any, ought to know by now that one of my pet notions or beliefs is that in most instances chronic rheumatism (call it arthritis if you prefer) is physical degeneration.

This is from nutritional deficiency through the years from early childhood.

In talks to follow I'll tell you what specific deficiency or deficiencies I mean and how to correct your family eating habits.

But here let me ask: Do you have an adequate breakfast? For that matter do you know what an adequate breakfast is?

If you skip breakfast you cannot do your best at work or play.

Minimum Breakfast Menu

Fresh fruit in season
OR
Canned or frozen fruit
OR
Fresh, canned or frozen fruit
OR
It is always better to eat the fruit than just to drink its juice. Some ninnymammers have a funny notion that the juice of this or that fruit or vegetable has some vitamin, mineral or other virtue other than that one gets from eating the fruit or vegetable, but the moon isn't made of green cheese either.

Any unrefined cereal, with milk or cream and sugar or syrup if desired.
OR
Bread or toast or roll or bun or muffin or pancake or waffle or fried cake or doughnut.
OR
Never both cereal and bread-stuff. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet Wheat to Eat, which tells how to use plain wheat in the everyday diet.

Only whole wheat flour should be used to make any of the breads or cakes in the breakfast menu. Grind it in your own hand or power mill every morning or two or three times a week as described in the wheat pamphlet, or crack it coarsely, for cereal.

Margarine or butter on bread, toast or cakes, if desired. Also sweetening — preferably "cane" or "raw" sugar, dark brown sugar, honey, molasses or, if you are rich or have a friend in Michigan, maple syrup.

III
Bacon or ham or sausage or fish or eggs. Skip cereal or rice, or potatoes.
OR
Bacon and eggs
OR
Ham and eggs
Breakfast without at least one such animal protein item is inadequate. A poor way to start the day. Especially for a growing child.

IV
Not less than a glass (one-half pint) of milk.
OR
One-half pint of skim milk if preferred.
OR
One-half pint of buttermilk, sour milk, or cultured milk (Acidophilus, Bifidus, Lactogen or the like) and for persons over 12 coffee tea or fruit.
OR
If this minimum menu for an adequate breakfast strikes you as being too hearty for a nibbly-pansy in tackle, you are very likely cultivating pellagra or beriberi, Yankov type.

The early manifestations of calcium and vitamin D deficiency go unrecognized in most instances for the same reasons — which we'll consider in a piece to follow.

Send letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertinent to nutrition, health and hygiene, to Dr. William Brady, M.D., 1000 N. Franklin, Pontiac, Mich. 48106. All letters are returned, if desired.

Doctors at U-M Plan Research

Nervous System and Its Problems Listed for New Kresge Institute

ANN ARBOR — Part of the University of Michigan's new $3,500,000 Kresge Medical Research Building and Institute will house facilities dedicated to investigations of the central nervous system and its problems.

One of these problems is found in the spastic child, who is to his distressed parents what the aging and palsied father is to his devoted family.

In these cases, as in those of a paralyzed facial muscle or an erratic eye movement or uncontrolled stumbling, the medical mystery is embedded deep within the brain, and the solution is complicated by a fantastic labyrinth of nerve pathways.

For those reasons, among the remaining health hurdles which medical science has yet to jump, none is so disheartening, or intriguing as the disabled nerve or the injured brain.

At the Kresge Medical Research Institute, the nerve and brain specialist will have a unique opportunity to become his own researcher. Equally significant is the opportunity for all, clinical specialist and researcher alike, to make an organized attack on problems which often involve a many-sided approach to man's nervous system.

The neurologist will work with the neurosurgeon; the neurosurgeon will assist the eye specialist; and all will call on the specialist in electroencephalography. All will have laboratories in the Kresge building, and all will share common research facilities.

At Kresge Medical Research Institute, clinical problems will have the support of research. The doctor will be able, in specially outfitted operating rooms and laboratories, to duplicate human problems in experimental animals.

Because of his close proximity to the University Hospital, he will have an opportunity to compare his patient's progress with the progress of an animal displaying identical symptoms.

City Clerk at Petoskey Left Out of Pay Raise

PETOSKEY (U)—Three city officials, manager, treasurer and justice, have been given pay increases ranging from $200 to $600, but the city clerk must wait until the election in 1955 before getting more money.

The clerk, Mrs. Ted Hubbard, serving on an appointment basis, has announced she will be a candidate for the office.

Plans for Industries

GRAND HAVEN (U)—A planning commission has proposed to the city council zoning for industrial purposes 80 acres of land east of U.S. 31 near the south city limits. The commission also proposed notice of intent to reserve an additional 80 acres adjoining the original plot for the same purpose.

Harbor Work Doubtful

PENTWATER (U)—Hopes for government dredging of the Pentwater Harbor channel are dim, village president Edward A. Schimke said after receiving a letter from Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) explaining the stand of the Army engineers.

By BILLY ROSE

An old friend of mine, Henri Bernstein, the French playwright, died in Paris a few weeks ago.

The last time I saw Henri was in the spring of 1950, when we lunched in his apartment over the Theatre des Ambassadeurs which had been confiscated by the Germans and restored to him by General de Gaulle in recognition of his services to the Free French.

Burnstein, though he was pushing 70 at the time, was what the phrasemakers call "a fine figure of a man."

Over the cognac, I steered the conversation around to the subject of dueling—a field in which Henri had won even more kudos than he had in the theater.

BILLY ROSE in which Henri had won even more kudos than he had in the theater.

If rumor was to be believed, the playwright had fought more than 80 duels with drama critics who liked his plays too little and husbands who liked their wives too much.

"When you challenged a man to a duel," I said, "weren't you afraid you might get killed?"

"Seldom," said Henri. "In almost every case, I was the bigger man and the better swordsman."

"I see," I said. "You picked your opponents carefully."

"Let me put it this way," said Bernstein. "A duel these days is hardly more dangerous than a minute. One's honor is satisfied and everybody shakes hands if a swordsman as much as pinks his opponent."

"Actually, the only courageous duelist I have ever heard of was a small man named Rudolf Virchow. And he never fought a duel."

As Henri told it, Rudolf Virchow was one of Germany's most distinguished citizens in the 1800s.

He was personally popular and, without seeking the honor, had been elected to the Reichstag. There, as might be expected, the humane little man found quick disfavor with Prince Bismark, the big blood-and-guts chancellor who was dreaming the perennial German dream of taking over the world.

Matters came to a head one afternoon when Virchow made a speech in which he complained that too large a percentage of Germany's income was being spent on guns and far too little on public improvements.

The irritated Bismark rose to answer. Such namby-pamby as Virchow, he fumed, only diverted the Reichstag from its rightful business—conquest.

One word led to a thousand others and, when the warrior found he was no match for his antagonist with words, he challenged him to a duel.

When Virchow calmly accepted, his friends became panicky. Bismark was a giant of a man, and one of the best swordsmen in Germany.

Next day the Chancellor's heel-clicking seconds called on Virchow to give him his choice of weapons. The scientist greeted them with (a) a smile, and (b) a plate on which there were two frankfurters.

"These are the weapons," he informed the seconds. "They are identical, except that one frank-

Back Tax Limit Plan 217 to 20

Revote Props $600,000 Program for Additions to Present Units

CLARKSTON—The school building bond issue approved by the voters of Clarkston Community School District Feb. 2 by a four to one vote was reaffirmed Thursday by a more than ten to one total.

Approving the tax limitation on the $600,000 proposal yesterday were 217 "yes" votes. Only 20 "no" were cast.

Because of an error in the printing on the Feb. 2 ballot, it was necessary for the voters to again decide the tax limitation portion of the election. The word "not" was eliminated on this previous ballot.

The approved issue will provide a high school addition to the present Clarkston High School. It will also give the district additions to elementary schools at Andersonville, Sashabaw Plains and at the Clarkston Elementary school.

Regular board meeting scheduled for Monday has been changed to Tuesday at 7:30, announced Superintendent Leslie F. Greene today. Salary schedules for teachers will be considered at this time, he said.

Grass Institute Set Next Week

Harvesting and Storing Hay and Pasture Crops Among Topics

Harvesting, storing and feeding hay and pasture crops will be topics of an all-day Grass Institute slated for next Wednesday, County Agriculture Agent Ed Alchin announced today.

To be held in the Community Activities Building on Williams Lake road in Waterford Township, the farm program will feature soils, crops, livestock and dairy experts from Michigan State College, along with a panel of local farmers.

The institute will get under way at 9:30 a.m. with movies on "Making Grassland Farming Pay."

Following will be talks on soil management, high quality feed, harvesting and storage for quality and roughage feeding to dairy cattle and livestock for profit.

Alchin urged farmers to bring along samples of hay and grass silage for a judging contest to be held at noon. Forage experts from MSC will do the judging. A bushel basket will hold enough hay for the competition, Alchin said.

At 2:30 p.m., local farmers will hold a panel discussion on storing and roughage utilization. Participating will be dairymen Floyd Vergin of Davisburg and Adolph Engler of Lake Orion and beef farmers Joe Speck of Oxford and Robert McCrory of south Lyon.

According to Undersheriff Neil Glass, Brewer started to pass another east-bound vehicle on M-21 when he collided with Brewer's west-bound car.

Glass said action against Brewer is pending.

Village Election Spurs Interest

Worth Hitchcock to Run Against President Lake as Sticker Candidate

HOLLY — This village's usual one-ticket annual election is picking up interest this year. It takes place Monday, and the Union ticket is the only one in the field.

But President Clare W. Lake who has held that office for several years, and again heads that ticket, will be opposed by Worth Hitchcock, running as a sticker candidate.

In the village primary on Feb. 15 Lake and Hitchcock each polled 120 votes. In the drawing to break that tie, Lake won out, but Hitchcock's friends will use stickers in an effort to elect him Monday.

Also presented to the voters at that time will be a $350,000 sewerage bond proposal. Last April a proposal largely along the same lines, but for $300,000, was defeated by a large majority.

Romeo to Pick Candidates by Sticker, Write-in Votes

ROMEO — An expected 1,000 voters will find an unusual ballot when they go to the polls here Monday to elect village officers.

No candidates' names will appear on the ballot. Only the names of offices to be filled will be listed.

Voters must either write in the names of their choices or paste stickers opposite the position to be filled.

To be elected are four village trustees, a village president, one clerk, one treasurer, two library directors and one assessor.

Three of the elected trustees will hold office for two years, with the fourth to complete the one-year term left vacant by Al Hildred's resignation.

The unusual ballot resulted from failure of the village to post official notice of the election 30 days prior to the balloting, as required by state law, which cancelled the Feb. 15 primary.

Eleven residents had filed petitions for the trustee posts, four had filed for president of the council, two had filed intention to run for the two library posts and three had entered the race for assessor.

Seeking the council presidency are Joseph Mallen, Philip Stone and James Campbell Jr. The Rev. C. Earl Page, originally listed as a candidate, announced his withdrawal from the race this week.

Seeking trusteeships are Fred C. Hubert, appointee incumbent of nine weeks, incumbent Marvin Slewska, Ray Mallen, Arthur Moslow, Donald Payne, Louis H. Freye, Coleman Davidson, Gerald McLean, David Pettibone and Raymond Taylor.

Ralph Garrison also announced his candidacy recently when George Tapley withdrew because of the press of business.

An attempt will be made to unseat Conrad Turroli who has

Board Proposes Expansion Plan

Romeo Education Group Urges 18 Classrooms Built for $450,000

ROME — After six months of discussion and hearings, the Romeo Board of Education this week came up with an expansion program calling for construction of 18 additional classrooms. The program is expected to cost $450,000.

The school governing body agreed to add four rooms each to the Washington and Romeo South elementary schools, an eight-room classroom building adjoining the present South structure, and two classrooms and an agricultural and general shop at the Maples School.

A major change in the tentative plans drawn up by the board last month is a shifting of the planned bus repair facilities from the proposed agricultural shop to the South school site.

The board proposed that a separate steel structure for repairing the school system's fleet of buses be erected at the elementary site and that a parking lot for the vehicles be included at the Crowell street location.

Approval was voiced for a motion by member Joseph Jelsch to retire the school bonds at an eight mill tax assessment rate. Total millage for the program is not to exceed 12 mills. The other four mills will be used for operating expenses.

Jelsch said he made the proposal for an early retirement of the bonds with an eye to future expansion of the high school.

The board will adopt the formal resolutions passed this week at an executive session Tuesday night, according to board President L. W. Rickett. Election date for the bond issue will be set as soon as possible, he added.

Lindy's Story to Hit Screens Late This Year

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (U)—The story of Charles A. Lindbergh's flight from New York to Paris will finally reach the movie screens late this year.

Ever since his history-making journey, the Lone Eagle has resisted Hollywood offers to dramatize the story on film. When he published his own version of the flight last year, studios began bidding for rights to the book, "The Spirit of St. Louis." Lindbergh turned down their bids for one of a man who has never produced a movie before, Broadway showman Leland Hayward.

"When the book first came out I didn't even read it; I had always been so tied up with aviation myself," said Hayward, who is a pilot and founder of Southwest Airways. "Then I got around to reading it. I was fascinated. When I came to the part where his wheels touched the ground at Le Bourget in Paris, the tears came to my eyes. I didn't think he could make it."

"It's a fabulous story. The Atlantic had been crossed before, but never from New York to Paris. It was a matter of the right man attempting it at exactly the right time. Lindbergh was that man. His feat had an electric effect on aviation, advancing it 10 years just by his single flight."

Right now Hayward is seeking an actor to play the flier, and he's getting plenty of help.

"Of course, every actor wants to play the part," he sighed, "and I have a great pile of photographs from unknowns who say, 'My mother always said that I looked just like Lindbergh.'"

"I would like to find an actor who is not famous. I think the public is jarred when it sees someone like Clark Gable portraying a well-known figure. You don't know whether you're watching Gable or the person portrayed."

Hayward has assigned Billy Wilder to write and direct the film.

"The locations are a problem," he added. "It will be hard to find any place that looks like Roosevelt Field in 1927. And it is almost impossible to reproduce the coast of New England towns he flew over. Nearly every town on a large body of water today has TV aerials on the houses!"

Hayward said the picture would end when Lindbergh lands in Paris. The famed flier will approve the script and may be on hand as technical adviser.

Caracas Talks Show Optimism

Inter-American Parley Warned of Red Menace by Dulles

CARACAS, Venezuela (U)—Delegates to the Inter-American Conference buckled down to the grind of committee work today in an atmosphere of optimism and unity following Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' statement of U.S. hemisphere policy.

The committees are studying affairs, social problems and cultural topics.

Delegates from Guatemala, Argentina, Ecuador, Mexico and Nicaragua were listed to give policy statements at today's plenary session preceding committee meetings. The statement from Guillermo Toriello was awaited with particular interest since his government has been charged, particularly in the United States, with being much influenced by the Communists.

Dulles did not mention Guatemala specifically in his policy address yesterday, but he hit hard at the theme that America must realize it is not immune from the Red menace. Not a single country, he declared, has been free from Communist penetration and the American republics must make clear their position to it.

Most Latin-American delegates expressed satisfaction with what they termed the frankness and earnestness of Dulles' speech; although many wished he had gone further into their specific economic problems.

Except for telling them that President Eisenhower's administration is opposed to artificial price ceilings on coffee and increases in U.S. import duties on wool, the secretary couched his economic remarks in general terms.

He called on the Latin-American governments to avoid "unnecessary" obstacles to the inflow of foreign capital for economic development. He said plenty of private U.S. capital could be attracted to Latin America. Public financing, he told the delegates, should come primarily from the World Bank He Said the United States is Increasing Funds for Technical Assistance and Cultural Cooperation.

Dulles told the conference the U.S. Export-Import Bank also would finance sound and acceptable development projects not helped by the World Bank.

Dulles said the Communist danger for American republics mounts as long as they fail to make their position clear.

Winning the Democratic nomination usually assures election in traditionally Democratic Oklahoma.

Roy J. Turner, 59, Oklahoma City oilman who owns a widely known Hereford ranch at Sulphur, Okla., said yesterday he will oppose incumbent Robert S. Kerr.

MONROE (UP)—Oscar A. Gannaway, 37, of Detroit, died early today of injuries suffered in a Monroe County traffic accident Thursday night.

Police said Gannaway's car skidded on icy U.S. 25 in French Township and spun into the path of an oncoming truck.

The truck driver, Ralph B. Miles, 44, of Mishawaka, Ind., was not injured.

Blind Broom Makers Strive to Stay in the Industry

One of the workers said: "The trouble is that since we're blind we can't walk out. We have to work here or not at all." The association says it lost money last year and has asked the blind broom makers to take a cut in their piecework rate from $1.13 a dozen to 75 cents a dozen.

Atlantic City has had a boardwalk since 1870.

Diets, Smoking Cause Frowns

But Diane Sinclair and Ken Spaulding Praise Each Other's Ability

NEW YORK — What does a dance team fight about? Never about the mistakes either might make in dancing. At least Diane Sinclair and Ken Spaulding don't.

The two, who are featured on the Dave Garroway show, say that whatever troubles they have usually are petty disagreements. But they admit that at the moment they happen, temperament makes them seem monstrous.

If they are dancing during one of their "mad-ons," they don't hurl epithets at each other through clenched teeth. They just don't speak to each other except for necessary professional conversation.

"One of our constant troubles comes from Diane's eating," says Ken.

They were off. "He always says I eat too much and gain so much weight he can't lift me," declared Diane, flushing.

"She always says I eat too much and my stomach gets so fat she can't dance close to me. So she makes me sit there eating salads while I have to watch her eating all sorts of yummys," complained Ken.

"How much do you weigh, Diane?" the interviewer asked Diane.

"114 pounds," she declared defiantly.

"Hah," said Ken.

"All right," admitted Diane.

"117 right now, but it mostly goes from 114 to 117."

The interviewer changed the subject. "But you are good friends."

"O yes," they declared in unison, beaming.

She interposed: "Kenny, let me finish your cigarette."

Spaulding handed her the half-smoked cigarette, commenting, "I'll give you a fresh one."

"No, if I only smoke one today, I won't smoke any tomorrow."

"That's another thing that makes me mad," growled Ken. "Ever since we've been dancing together she has been giving up smoking. She always thinks that she isn't smoking if she just finishes my cigarettes. I haven't smoked a complete cigarette in years."

There was a moment of silence, the two glowered slightly at each other.

"Do you expect to work together for a long time?" the interviewer queried.

"Oh, yes," said Diane. "I just couldn't get along without Ken."

"Of course," echoed Spaulding.

"What would I do without Diane?"

Teachers May Clean Floors, Supplement Pay

BRISTOL, Pa. — The Delhass Joint School Board has voted to allow teachers in the Bristol Twp. Junior-Senior High School to wax school floors on Saturdays at $1.45 an hour if regular janitors don't want the extra work.

The school principal, Henry Decker, said he could obtain outsiders for the job but felt they wouldn't be as reliable as the teachers.

A member of the board said many teachers, who earn $3,000 to $4,000 annually, had told her they wanted the extra work.

Hearty efforts by employees put an auxiliary press into action and the paper went to press at 1:02 a.m.—an hour and 32 minutes late.

Truman's Solution: Ridicule McCarthy

ST. LOUIS — Former President Harry Truman says he sees no reason "for any hard times" ahead for this country.

He made the remark in an interview while passing through St. Louis yesterday en route to New York with Mrs. Truman.

"I am no prophet," he said. "But from what I have heard and what I have seen, I don't see any reason for any hard times. There's no reason to talk ourselves into a depression."

Truman also said the "best remedy" for Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) "is ridicule. No demagogue can stand ridicule."

Paper to Pay for Return of Missing Boll Weevil

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — A $100 reward has been offered by the Montgomery Advertiser for the return of the boll weevil which disappeared from atop its monument in the city square at nearby Enterprise.

The famed monument was unvelled in 1919 as a tribute to the insect which damaged so much cotton that Alabama farmers were forced away from dependence on a single major crop.

Civil War Era Railroad Bonds Found in Attic

ST. LOUIS — About $200,000 worth of Civil War era railroad bonds were found covered with dust in the City Hall attic but the unanswered question now is: How much are they worth?

Porters found the 160 bonds while cleaning out the attic yesterday. They had been issued by the Ohio & Mississippi River Railroad Co. in 1859, to become due in 1880.

Comptroller Milton Carpenter has asked a bond company to check to see if the bonds are worth anything now. He said a preliminary check showed the railroad went bankrupt in 1880. He speculated the bonds might have been given to the city in lieu of taxes.

Thieves Tie Janitor of Redford School

DETROIT (INS) — Thieves last night broke into Redford High School and bound janitor Thomas Sinclair, 54, with articles of his own clothing before they fled.

The incident was the fifth in recent weeks where burglars have broken into school buildings in Detroit and Grosse Pointe.

Sinclair said he "encountered three persons after they broke into the Redford building. After binding him with a belt and a necktie, Sinclair was forced into a telephone booth."

The burglars tunneled into a safe in the principal's office and rifled a cash box. It was not learned immediately whether the box contained any cash.

Sinclair managed to free himself shortly after and telephone police.

Police Raid Uncovers Games, 2' Nude Women

BALTIMORE — When police raided the Elton Social Club they found a dice game in one room, a slot machine in another and two nude women in a third room.

Police testified at a hearing yesterday that an angry wife's tip led to the raid. The wife told police she didn't like her husband visiting the place.

After the hearing, five men and two women were held for grand jury action.

Now Comes the Question of Who Pay the Fines

Five of the six were Salt Lake City garbage trucks.

Hamtramck Police Hunt Gunshot Killer

DETROIT (INS) — Hamtramck police today sought the gunshot killer of 49-year-old John J. Jurewicz, a Hamtramck salesman.

Jurewicz' body was found late yesterday in his snow-buried automobile, parked on a Hamtramck side street.

Police theorized robbery was motive. Jurewicz was known to have carried more than $4,000 in negotiable checks shortly before his body was found.

None of the checks was found, however.

Preliminary examination disclosed that Jurewicz was shot in the left chest by a small caliber weapon.

Jurewicz was married and a father of four children.

Audit Fails to Show More Shady Deals

GRAND RAPIDS — State Auditor General John B. Martin Jr., Thursday had kind words for the State Highway Department.

His over-all audit has shown no serious wrong-doing except for the already exposed irregularities in the right of way and excess property divisions, Martin said.

"We have no reason to believe there are other problems in the department outside these divisions," Martin asserted.

Martin said his major recommendation in a list of suggestions tightening accounting in the right-of-way division is for internal control to give a continuing check on operations.

Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler has agreed to carry out this recommendation, Martin said.

Martin made this statement on a routine trip from Lansing.

Motorist Buys Two Autos, but Is Still Walking

PITTSBURGH — Last August Morris Lebovitz purchased a high-priced sedan. It was stolen a few weeks later after he had driven it only 3,000 miles.

Two weeks ago he made a settlement with an insurance company. Then, he purchased a 1954 model of the same make. He had only 300 miles on the speedometer when the car was stolen yesterday.

As he was bemusing his fate, police found his 1953 car last night. It had 8,778 miles on the speedometer but was in good condition otherwise.

However, Lebovitz is still without an auto. The insurance company which made the settlement has taken possession of the recovered car.

There are 1,393,534 acres of national forests in Kentucky.

This Is Harmony?

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—Mayor Edgar Deen proclaimed "Harmony Day" in Fort Worth recently, but before the day was out, police reported one shooting, five stabbings and the jailing of a man who tried to burn his house.
