Americans Responding to Plight of Starving Biafrans

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans are responding with emotion — and cash — to the plight of children reported starving on the other side of the world.

This time the victims of war are the people of Biafra, a tiny African country which seceded from Nigeria and in the ensuing fight was cut off from food and medical supplies.

Church groups and the International Red Cross have been aware of the tragedy of the Biafrans. Millions of dollars and thousands of tons of food and other supplies have been collected around the world, much of it through U.S. churches.

The supplies, including baby food, powdered milk and eggs to meet the Biafrans' desperate need for proteins, and medical supplies, have been airlifted into Biafra's 10,000-square-mile cul-de-sac, surrounded by hostile territory, in a cloak-and-dagger operation — a miniature Berlin airlift.

Related Story, Page A-10

Many tons of supplies already are in African warehouses and much more is on the way.

For example, Church World Service, relief arm of the Protestant National Council of Churches, has started trucking 500,000 pounds of high-protein beans from its Saginaw, Mich., depot to Baltimore for transport by ship to Biafra.

The Biafrans get only a few plane loads of food and medicine a day because the relief planes must fly at night to avoid Nigerian government anti-aircraft fire, landing in the dark on makeshift landing strips.

Photographs showing tiny Biafrans with protruding ribs and distended bellies of malnutrition brought sudden and dramatic results.

COMMITTEE FORMED

Three girls who had worked in Nigeria with the Peace Corps teamed up with a young Britisher, Paul Connell, formed a committee, rented a Manhattan store front and soon had donations coming in off the street for the Biafrans. They also located a more affluent donor, who paid for a full-page advertisement in the New York Times.

In its advertisement in New York, the American Committee to Keep Biafra Alive called on the government to organize an airlift to Biafra, and to persuade the Nigerian government to open the shortest possible land route for trucking in supplies to Biafra.

Negotiations for a supply road long have been stalemated.

Missing Dem Likely to Stay on Ballot

By JIM LONG

Unless the apparent death of Oakland County Clerk John D. Murphy can be established within the next few days, his name will appear on the primary ballot Tuesday as the lone Democratic candidate for the office of clerk-register of deeds.

JOHN D. MURPHY

State and county election officials said today that until death can be determined, there is no way that Murphy's name can be removed from the ballot.

Murphy, the father of six children, has been missing since Saturday when he failed to return from a boating trip to the Beaver Island group off Charlevoix. He was alone. His 14-foot craft was found overturned on Lake Michigan on Sunday.

James Chapman, state elections supervisor, said that there is a state law providing for the selection of an alternate candidate by a county political committee in cases where a lone candidate for office dies.

STATUTE DOESN'T APPLY

The statute does not apply in Murphy's case, said Chapman, since death has not been officially established.

If his body is recovered the day before the primary, there is a possibility that the County Democratic Committee could select a substitute candidate to run in Murphy's place.

This, however, would press county election officials, who would have to print stickers with the name of the new candidate and then distribute them to each of the 400 precincts for placement on voting machines.

Should Murphy's body be found after the primary, the Democratic committee could choose a replacement to run in the Nov. 5 election against the Republican nominee for the office.

NOVEMBER BALLOT

The name of the replacement candidate would be printed on the November ballot.

If all attempts fail to find Murphy's body before the November election, his name would appear on the general election ballot unless a Probate Court is petitioned to make an official ruling on the death.

The petition can be filed with the court only after 90 days have elapsed from the time a person is presumed dead.

County Democratic Chairman George Googasian said that the committee probably would take this action. Otherwise, (Continued on Page A-2, Col. 2)

Airport Project Faces Injunction

Legal steps have been taken to prevent the Oakland County Board of Supervisors from carrying out expansion plans at the Oakland-Orion Airport until after members of a reappointed board of supervisors take office in January.

Bernie R. Warden, a candidate for supervisor in District 22, has asked for a Circuit Court order blocking the board from implementing any plans to enlarge the airport in Orion Township into an all-weather aviation facility.

A hearing is scheduled for Wednesday before Judge Philip Pratt at 9 a.m. on Warden's request for an injunction against the board.

Warden of 1123 Doris, Pontiac Township, wants Pratt to direct the board to defer formal action on matters other than those that concern the usual operation and maintenance of existing facilities.

AWAITING APPROVAL

Presently the board of supervisors is awaiting approval of a Federal Aviation Administration master plan before beginning construction and purchasing additional land.

Some 500 acres of the estimated 1,400 needed for the expansion already have been acquired by the county.

Big Steel's Price Boosts Will Stand Despite LBJ

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The nation's top three steelmakers have posted their most sweeping price hikes in six years and say they will stand despite sharp criticism from President Johnson.

Other producers strongly hinted they would follow.

U.S. Steel Corp., Bethlehem Steel Corp., and Republic Steel Corp., the

tion's No. 1, 2 and 3 steelmakers respectively, raised prices Wednesday, the day after the United Steelworkers union won its richest contract.

Johnson called Bethlehem's nearly 5 per cent across-the-board hike "unreasonable" and said at a Washington news conference that it "just should not be permitted to stand."

'62 ROLLBACK RECALLED

It was the first confrontation between the federal government and the steel industry since 1962 when President John F. Kennedy forced the rollback of a general price hike.

Johnson, asked if he planned "any instruments" to compel a rollback, said,

"We urge them and reason with them and counsel with them and plead with them not to increase prices."

Republic Steel followed Bethlehem and said it would hike its principal steel mill products 4.5 per cent and said the new labor contract was the reason. The Bethlehem and Republic increases are effective Aug. 8.

U.S. Steel, acting in a manner that has become common in the industry in the past six years, announced a selective price increase for its tin mill products, material used in making cans.

The U.S. Steel increases are effective Oct. 1.

Johnson expressed hope "other steel companies will not join this parade," saying such action would lead to a price increase of $500 million for American consumers.

Commenting on the union's billion-dollar plus settlement, Johnson said, "The terms of their settlement are high. That settlement will result in some increases in steel costs, but the announced Bethlehem price increase far exceeds any reasonable calculation of the cost of the wage settlement."

Romney, Nixon Tell Viet Views

Republican Platform Writers Listen To Romney

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — American participation in the Vietnam war should be reduced, but the United States must not accept "a camouflaged surrender," Gov. Romney told the Republican platform committee today.

"The key to a successful strategy in Vietnam is an expansion of the South Vietnamese role and contraction of the American role," Romney said.

The platform writers also heard the Vietnam views of Richard M. Nixon, who said that the United States must seek a negotiated settlement of the war, but must also prepare for new military and diplomatic approaches if the Paris Vietnam peace talks fail.

The Republican presidential nomination seeker, in his first major statement on the war since the talks began, said that "rather than further escalation on the military front," the present need is for "a dramatic escalation of our efforts on the economic, political, diplomatic and psychological fronts."

'MUST BE ENDED'

Nixon said nothing done in the political arena should undercut the U.S. negotiators in Paris.

"The war must be ended," he said. "It must be ended honorably, consistent with America's limited aims and with the long-term requirements of peace."

Romney, in his proposed platform plank on the war, said the United States should consult with its allies to develop a peace proposal "so fair and just that it commands active support."

One such proposal, said, would be his earlier suggestion that the United States, the Soviet Union and other powers guarantee the neutrality of North and South Vietnam, and neighboring Laos and Cambodia.

'SHOULD PROPOSE IT'

"After developing an acceptable fundamental basis of settlement jointly with friendly nations and allies, we should propose it," Romney said.

"If it is rejected initially by our adversaries, we should build support for it through every international means possible and put them on the defensive."

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California advised the platform writers yesterday to endorse a policy of standing firm and fighting to win, while New York Mayor John Lindsay said the party "should assume a forthright leadership for the cause of ending this unwanted war."

Romney also urged that the GOP platform call for replacing many existing poverty programs "by contracting with private urban corporations whose purpose it is to provide jobs for the jobless in construction, health, household, general service and other occupations."

Flash

DETROIT (AP) — Publishers of Detroit's two newspapers today reached tentative agreement on a new contract with the mailers, the only union still striking the papers. A ratification vote on the new contract has been scheduled for Monday.

Senators Shelve Fortas Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee shelved Abe Fortas' nomination as chief justice until after Labor Day after not enough senators showed up today to take action on the appointment.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the judiciary committee, said he wouldn't try to call another meeting until Congress returns in September after the national political conventions.

The latest delay consumed more time in the fight by Fortas' foes to block the nomination by filibustering after it reaches the floor.

Sen. Robert F. Griffin, R-Mich., opposing President Johnson's Supreme Court appointments of both Fortas and Judge Homer Thornberry, said his forces have doubled in recent weeks and claimed he has more than enough votes to keep a filibuster going indefinitely.

ONLY 5 SHOW UP

Only five members of the 16-man Senate Judiciary Committee showed up for today's meeting.

The session had been scheduled after Southern opponents of Fortas used a Senate courtesy to force a one-week delay in committee action on the nomination last week.

At least nine members of the committee must be present to take action. Three Southern senators fighting Fortas were among the absentees who prevented action today.

Those present besides Eastland were Sens. Quentin Burdick, D-N.D., Joseph R. Tydings, D-Md., George A. Smathers, D-Fla., and Hiram L. Fong, R-Hawaii.

Rocky Backers Buoyed by Poll

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Buoyed by a favorable national poll, backers of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller claimed progress today in their battle to hold favorite sons in line against any early ballot decision on the presidential nomination at next week's GOP convention.

A Louis Harris poll that showed the New York governor "could defeat the leading Democratic contenders and that Richard M. Nixon would lose to them gave the Rockefeller camp new ammunition in its effort to ward off a possible convention blitz attempt by the former vice president.

In this connection, one of Rockefeller's strategists reported that Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio had made a commitment to hold his 56-vote state delegation intact behind his favorite-son candidacy through the first two ballots.

Supporters of Nixon, the former vice president, scoffed at this claim. They noted that Rhodes has said his course will be determined by a state caucus before the convention opens Monday. They said they have what they called reliable indications that Rhodes prefers Nixon.

Michigan Gov. George Romney predicted last night that Nixon does not have enough votes to win the Republican nomination on the first ballot.

Two in Area Are Affected

State Weigh Station Cutback Is Slated

Full-time operation of all Michigan expressway weigh stations — including one in Pontiac Township and another in Waterford Township — will cease Saturday.

While stations will be used sporadically for inspections they will not operate on regular shifts as they have in the past, according to spokesmen of the State Department of Commerce in Lansing.

Plans for the stations on a permanent basis include use for licensing purposes. This fall, all commercial vehicles will be licensed according to a new standard — the weight of the truck plus its maximum load.

1st Day of August Sunny and Cooler

August entered with mostly sunny skies and slightly cooler temperatures. Highs of 73 to 79 were predicted for today.

Yesterday's flash storm brought .3 inch rain to the Pontiac area between 6:45 and 7 p.m.

The official day-by-day U.S. Weather Bureau forecast is:

TONIGHT — Fair and cooler with lows from 48 to 54.

TOMORROW — Sunny and a little warmer.

SATURDAY — A chance of showers and warmer.

Precipitation probability for tonight and tomorrow is near zero.

Low in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 60. By 2 p.m. the temperature was 74.

imum load. In the past, vehicles were licensed according to the empty weight of the vehicle.

The weigh stations will be used extensively in determining the new licensing weights, according to Lyle Stephens, assistant chief of Enforcement for the State Public Service Commission.

LEGISLATIVE ACTION

The shuffle in the use of the stations and the gradual phasing out of their role as now conceived is a result of a bill passed July 1 by Michigan legislators. The bill integrated weighmaster responsibilities with those of the public service division of the Department of Commerce.

Commerce Department spokesmen said some weigh stations will be closed completely. Others, including the Pontiac Township and Waterford stations, will operate on sporadic schedules.

The Pontiac Township station is on I-75 near the Baldwin Road exit, while the station in Waterford Township is on Dixie Highway near Walton.

Raccoons Gone; I May Be Rabid

A raccoon under quarantine at the Drayton Plains Nature Center for suspicion of rabies is missing.

Jim Shea, manager of the center, said two youths were seen leaving the building where animals are kept about 11 p.m. Tuesday. He discovered two raccoons missing when he investigated.

"One of the raccoons came to us from the animal shelter to be quarantined," he said. "I understand it bit someone and the shelter does not have quarantine facilities."

Viet, Steel Price Hike Cause Johnson Concern

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says the nation can expect a massive attack by the enemy in Vietnam and possible "dire economic consequences" at home over a steel price boost.

The President says he is discouraged over the infiltration and troop buildup by North Vietnam in the South and lack of response, so far, to the U.S. bombing restraint.

But, he expressed hope the enemy will match the restraint and that the attack, which he said appears imminent against major South Vietnam's cities "could be aborted."

"Inflation for steel is inflation for the nation."

Johnson said he hoped other steel companies "will not join this parade" and that competitive factors would then "bring about a readjustment on the action the Bethlehem company has taken."

The 42-minute session with reporters, longer than usual, covered only a few topics.

DISCUSSES NOMINATIONS

The President concentrated on Vietnam and the economy.

But he also spoke out publicly for the first time — and at length — on his controversial nominations of Abe Fortas to be chief justice and Homer Thornberry as an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

Johnson said he thought he promoted

"two good men", both judged highly qualified by the American Bar Association. "I have no doubt but what a very substantial majority in the Senate believes them qualified," he added.

Johnson had an answer for a group of Senate Republicans who oppose the appointments by Johnson because it is an election year and he is, they say, a lame duck President.

He said he didn't believe many senators wanted him to withhold Supreme Court nominations six or seven months "or that I should play that I was not President" for the remainder of his term.

On the peace talks, he said, "We continue to hope for the best." Johnson said he had de-escalated the bombing of North Vietnam and he wanted to give the other side all the time necessary to consider a response.

Czechs Agree to Host Warsaw Pact Meeting

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia have agreed to discuss the Czechoslovak situation with other Communist Warsaw Pact countries beginning Saturday in the Slovakian city of Bratislava, a communiqué said today.

PRAGUE (AP) — A last-minute snag developed at the conference of Soviet and Czechoslovak leaders, possibly over the wording of the final communiqué, and the two sides held another night session yesterday. Still another meeting was expected today.

The Politburo of the Soviet Communist party and the Czechoslovak party's presidium began meeting Monday at the little railway junction of Cerna, on the Soviet-Czechoslovak border.

The new leaders of the Czechoslovak party have been defending their moves liberalizing the party's control against Soviet demands for a return to tight control and obedience to dictates from Moscow.

The meetings at first were expected to last only two days, but they continued yesterday.

Birmingham News LTV Division Head Named

BIRMINGHAM — Appointment of Harry M. Graham, 38-year company veteran, as vice president-manager for the Missiles and Space Division—Michigan Facility of LTV Aerospace Corp. has been announced by Dr. Gerald M. Monroe, vice president of the Dallas-headquartered division.

For the past two years Graham of 7286 Cathedral was vice president for both the Texas and Michigan facilities of the division. He moved his headquarters to Michigan, in the Michigan Army Missile Plant in Sterling Heights, several months ago.

In making the announcement, Dr. Monroe said Graham's extensive background in missile development and technical program direction greatly augments management capabilities of the division.

A native of Saskatchewan, Canada, Graham received a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Saskatchewan in 1945 and a master's degree in the subject from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1948.

He attended MIT on a scholarship and was graduated with honors, receiving an award from the Engineering Institute of Canada and being elected to the Sigma Xi Honorary Society.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS—Mayor William Shaw will keynote the dedication program tomorrow at the new Gehring-Forsyth Building at 1700 Woodward.

Building owners Charlie Gehring (formerly of the Detroit Tigers) and Raymond Forsyth will be on hand to help open the new office complex.

A public open house will be also held in the million-dollar three-story building from 2 to 5 p.m.

Susan Jean Straight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard O. Straight of 2673 Broadway, Bloomfield Township has been awarded the silver wings of an American Airlines stewardess and has now been assigned to flight duty out of Washington, D.C.

She received her wings as a graduate in the 17th class this year at the American Airlines Stewardess College, Fort Worth, Tex.

Miss Straight graduated from Seaboard High School in 1966. She attended Northwestern Michigan College.

NEWS CONFERENCE

Calling an impromptu news conference in the Cabinet Room of the White House late yesterday afternoon, the President issued a blast at Bethlehem Steel Corp. for its announced 5 per cent across-the-board price increase effective Aug. 8.

Pointing to the possible inflationary consequences from pricing decision he said could affect the entire economy, Johnson declared:

C. of C. Schedules Summer Meeting

The Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual summer meeting next Wednesday at Spring Lake Country Club, 6060 Maybree, Independence Township.

Included in the stag party's $12 ticket price are a plate of golf, a plate lunch and buffet dinner with dinner music and door prizes.

Tee-off times may be reserved for any time after 8 a.m. by calling the country club.

Tickets are available at the Chamber of Commerce office, 33 W. Huron.

FIRST DEM IN POST

When elected in 1964, Murphy, 54, of 420 Marais, Clayton, became the first Democrat to hold the position.

If a judge or a jury would have to rule on the question of death, there would still be ample time to place the name of another candidate on the ballot.

Meanwhile, the vacancy will be filled by an appointee selected by Oakland County Circuit court judge.

It is not known when they would make the appointment.

WOULD SERVE UNTIL '69

The appointed clerk would serve in office until Jan. 1, 1969, when the winner of the November election takes office.

The U.S. Coast Guard in Charlevoix yesterday abandoned its full-scale search for Murphy.

Following the announcement, Murphy's wife said that she has given up hope that her husband would be found alive.

"... Too much time has gone by," she said. "The longer it gets, the worse you know the news will be."

'Useless' Checks Object of Reward

DETROIT (AP) — The Bankers Dispatch Corp., which ferries canceled checks between Michigan banks, has offered a $300 reward to the finder of a package of $3.4 million worth of non-negotiable canceled checks.

"They're not worth anything to anyone but us," said Dan Crowley Jr., an insurance adjuster for a firm that insures the service.

"All the checks are on microfilm," Crowley said, "but if the bank has to make copies of them, the cost could run into tens of thousands of dollars."

Ol' Sol Was in July Rut

Looks like Ol' Sol's in a rut weatherwise. His beaming tan-toasting rays favored Oakland County residents with 24 days of sunshine both in July '67 and last month.

This year during July, however, rain clouds sent picnickers scurrying for cover nine days in comparison to last July's seven.

Total rainfall for the month was 5.10 inches, more than double the previous July's 2.35 inches. Farmers, gardeners and conservationists welcomed the respite from summer drought that has plagued the area for the last decade.

The lowest July rainfall during the 1960s (.88 inches) was chalked up in 1960.

93 IS HIGH

Last month's high of 93 degrees was reached July 17. It was two degrees warmer than the July '67 high.

As temperatures slid to a monthly low of 48 degrees on the 2nd and 8rd, area residents whirled thermostat dials to take the chill off their homes. Last July's low was 51 degrees.

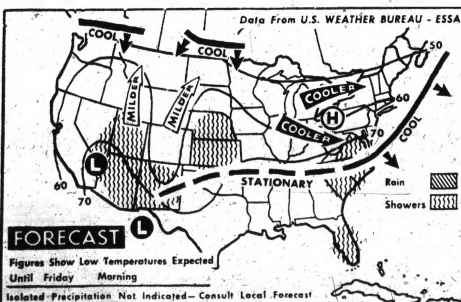

Mean temperature for July 1968 was 72.5 degrees, compared to the previous July's 70.58.

Nursing Home Faces Task of Relocating 12 Patients

J. STERLING KEMP

ORION TOWNSHIP — Ninety-year-old J. Sterling Kemp has to find a new home before tomorrow is out.

The veteran of the Spanish-American War is one of 12 patients in the Glen Acres Nursing Home Annex No. 1, 1235 W. Silverbell, who must be relocated because of fire hazards in the annex.

The state fire marshal ordered a reduction of the home's Medicaid payments because the home used a wall board over plaster boarding in the living room.

Ed Shelby, assistant administrator, explained that in order to satisfy fire requirements the wall board must have a low flame spread, and that the flame spread of the existing board is not low enough.

PAYMENTS REDUCED

As a result, Medicaid payments are being reduced from $11 and $12 to $8 per patient.

"We just can't afford to operate at that amount," said Shelby.

Mrs. Glendola Shelby, administrator and one of three corporate owners explained, "I'm not debating the state's ruling. I am in violation."

"I maintain if this place is a fire hazard then I should have no license at all, but if I can operate with $8 of Medicaid I should be allowed to operate on $12 because my nursing staff and facilities are the same," Mrs. Shelby added.

HAD FULL LICENSE

The wall board was put up three years ago when Annex No. 1 was remodeled.

"We had a full license for three years," Mrs. Shelby said. She added the state was aware of the wall boarding during that period.

Ed Shelby said of the 12 patients involved four or five can not be taken home. Two of them have no families.

"We just don't know what we are going to do," he said. "We just can't put them out of course."

OTHER HOMES FULL

"I know most other nursing homes are either full or not taking any more Medicaid patients."

The home has two different buildings, Annex No. 1 and Annex No. 2, each with different licenses according to Mrs. Shelby. The first annex is the only affected portion of the home.

An addition to the second annex is under construction and will be completed in two months. After its completion the 12 patients would have been moved from the first annex and that would have been converted into a living area for the staff.

Mrs. L. V. Schaar, Kemp's daughter, received word Tuesday that her father would have to be moved Friday.

ANNIVERSARY NEAR

"We don't know what we are going to do," she said.

She explained that Kemp's wife is in the second annex. "They will celebrate their 64th wedding anniversary Aug. 31 and we don't want to separate them."

Shelby said he hoped patients not able to move would be able to be accommodated in what facilities Glen Acres does have.

WORLD RECORD CLAIM — Five Farmington Township youths are claiming a world record today for continuous bicycle riding. They will have kept this bicycle going for 300 hours — 12½ days — as of noon, through the streets of their

Plan to Go 300 Hours in Farmington Twp.

Teens Out to Break Bike-Riding Record

Five teens in Farmington Township are out to break the world's record for continuous bicycle riding. They will have kept this bicycle going for 300 hours — 12½ days — as of noon, through the streets of their subdivision, Lincolnshire, at 11 Mile and Middle Belt.

The 300-hour point was to be reached at noon today. The youths say they may go on. At an average of 10 miles per hour, they will have traveled 3,000 miles at the scheduled end of their trip.

The bike has reportedly had a few flat tires, which were changed in motion by holding up one end and doing the repair work while the rider kept the other wheel going.

Teen Listed as Critical After Tractor Tips Over

ALLEGAN (AP) — A 17-year-old rural Hamilton youth was reported in critical condition at the Allegan Health Center after a tractor tipped over and pinned his head yesterday.

The accident occurred on the Bart Miller farm four miles north of Allegan. The 300-hour point was to be reached at noon today. The youths say they may go on. At an average of 10 miles per hour, they will have traveled 3,000 miles at the scheduled end of their trip.

4 Protest Proposal to Drop Train Run

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Three Ann Arbor men and a Ypsilanti woman showed up at a hearing to protest the proposed elimination of a Penn Central Railroad run from Detroit to Chicago.

The hearing was one of three conducted in Michigan by the Interstate Commerce Commission prior to a decision on whether to allow the railroad to discontinue the run.

A second Michigan hearing will be held in Battle Creek today and a third in Kalamazoo Friday.

Monthly Meeting Set

The Oakland County Monthly meeting of the Naig Conference for Catholic widowers and widows under 59 will be 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Friar Dolan K. of C. Hall, 1024 E. Nine Mile, Hazel Park.

AIDED BY NEIGHBOR

The group has been lucky because the period was marked by little rain and cool weather. They have been assisted by neighbors who, night and day, have been supplying food and drink to whichever youth was taking his turn keeping the wheels churning.

Parade to Kick Off 4-H Fair

Drum and bugle corps, Scottish bagpipe bands and an old-fashioned callopie will lead the way as Oakland County's 50 4-H clubs kick off their annual fair with a parade in downtown Pontiac Monday evening.

The five-day fair, which begins Tuesday morning, at the 4-H Fairgrounds at Perry and Pontiac Road, will be the largest ever staged locally, according to county officials.

The record of 50,000 people who attended the festivities last year is expected to be broken as nearly 2,000 youngsters from every township in the county will be exhibiting their projects and participating in various events and contests.

"This year's parade promises to be the biggest ever," said Richard W. Brown, Oakland County's Extension 4-H youth agent looking ahead to Monday's opening ceremonies.

Brown said that the parade will commence at 6:30 p.m. at Water and Perry and proceed north on Perry to University.

The marchers will go west on University to Saginaw, north on Saginaw to Oakland and will disband on Oakland at Wide Track, he said.

The parade will also feature nine 4-H Club floats as well as local dignitaries and a color guard from Pontiac's Naval Reserve Training Center.

Also included will be contestants for the 4-H king and queen contest along with this year's reigning royalty, King L. C. Scramlin of Holly and Queen Karen Rose of Rochester.

MILLAGE SUPPORT — Mrs. James H. Gallagher Jr. (left) of 609 Provincetown in Pontiac Township puts the finishing touches on one of 15 sixteen-square-foot posters showing support for Avondale School's request for a 7.7 operational mill increase. Dawn Doll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Doll of 2136 Hempstead, and Casey Shattuck, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Shattuck of 636 Sheffield (both looking on), modeled for the poster. More than 1,300 miniature posters have been hand-cut at neighborhood "poster parties," according to Mrs. Gallagher. They are being distributed for display in windows of individual homes within the school district. The election is set for Sept. 7.

Pontiac Twp. Tells Poll Sites

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — Polling places for the Aug. 6 primary, with some changes, have been announced by the township. They are: Precinct 1, Township Hall, 2060 Opdyke; precinct 2, Auburn Heights Fire Hall, 9425 Auburn; precinct 3, Township Building, 3432 Auburn; precinct 4, Joslyn Fire Hall, 3253 Joslyn; precinct 5, Auburn Heights Fire Hall; precinct 6, Township Hall; and precinct 7, Grant Graham School, 2450 Old Salem, Bloomfield Orchards.

Trouble at Teen Dance Spells the End

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Tuesday nights were something special in West Bloomfield Township. Teen-age dances were held each Tuesday in the hall on Green Lake Road, next to Middle Straits Lake.

As many as 400 kids would attend. Two bands would play. It was a good chance to yell, jump around and let off steam, according to the adults who ran the program.

But, sometimes things got rough. Last Tuesday it got out of hand, and the dances have been canceled for the rest of the summer, it was announced by Mrs.

Ernest Zechar, chairman of youth activities for the Middle Straits Community Center.

Mrs. Zechar said she regretted having to call an end to the dances. But the supervising of teens, from age 13 to 19, is a large responsibility and their cooperation is necessary, she said.

SIX SECURITY MEN

There are six security men engaged to help maintain order in the building and the parking lot, she said.

Mrs. Zechar added, "There is always a little trouble, but nothing that couldn't be straightened out by talking to those who were involved. However Tuesday night was something else."

The crowd was unusually large and there were many new faces. Early in the evening there were fights, she said. Then a security officer discovered that the locked door to the recreation facilities had been broken.

Still later it was discovered that some boys had been drinking and snuffing glue in the men's rest room.

MADE ANNOUNCEMENT

After the first signs of trouble, Mrs. Zechar made the announcement that if the teen-agers could not be more responsible, next Tuesday would be the last dance of the summer.

When more trouble occurred she informed the youths that summer dances ended at 11 p.m. that night.

The dances, sponsored by the Middle Straits Community Association, have been an annual occurrence for the past three years. Admission is $1 and the proceeds for the last two years were used to enlarge youth facilities, Mrs. Zechar said.

11 Face Dope Charges in E. Lansing Raids

EAST LANSING (AP)—Eleven persons, including three juveniles and one woman, face narcotics charges today following a rapid series of raids in the East Lansing area.

Within hours of their arrests Wednesday, the eight adults were arraigned before East Lansing Municipal Judge William K. Harmon.

Demanding examination on charges of selling LSD were Stephen C. Kirtland, 19; Ronald Robinson, 22; and Richard Harris, 17, all of Lansing. Harris posted $5,000 bond, while Kirtland and Robinson were held at the Ingham County Jail in lieu of bond.

Charged with sale of marijuana were Connie Comstock, 19, and Robert B. Ashman, 19, both of Lansing; Charles M.

Fink, 20; Kenneth A. Carlisle, 18; and John Miller, 19, all of East Lansing.

DEMAND EXAMINATION

They demanded examination, set for Sept. 17, and bond was set at $10,000.

The juveniles, whose identities were not revealed, were released in custody of their parents pending full hearings in probate court.

Conducting the raids were some 20 officers from the Michigan State Police and Lansing, East Lansing and Michigan State University campus departments.

Authorities said investigations leading to the raids began in early June, immediately after the arrests of 12 persons on narcotics charges.

Those arrests touched off three days of demonstrations on the MSU campus.

One official said some 20-30 young people appeared at Municipal Court Wednesday afternoon, but the arraignments had been conducted and those arrested were on their way to the county jail at Mason.

Police Question Woman Set Ablaze by Youths

CADILLAC (AP)—A young woman who had been doused with a flammable liquid and set afire by youths in a passing car spoke with police Wednesday, but Chief Delbert Conrad said there was little new information.

Mrs. Christy Titus, 23, was found by her husband, Larry, on the porch of their home Monday night; her clothing in flames.

She told police she had been walking home from her mother's house when a carload of unidentified youths pulled

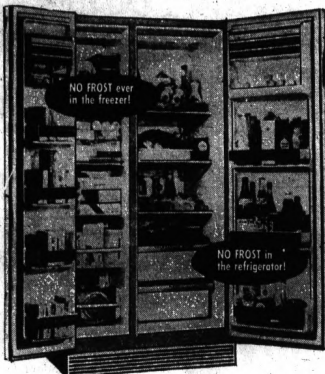

Doctors had not permitted police to question the woman while she was under heavy sedation after the incident, but Conrad spent about 20 minutes talking with her Wednesday, when she was listed in fair condition.

NO IDENTIFICATION

Conrad said Mrs. Titus told him there were three young men in the front seat of the car and two or three in the back. She was unable to identify the

Aspirants Sketched in Appeals Court Bid

DETROIT (UPI)—The Michigan Court of Appeals, scarcely 8 years old, is already too small. The first step in making it bigger will come next Tuesday when voters select candidates for three new $32,500-a-year judgeships.

The Legislature voted earlier this year to increase the size of the court from nine to 12 judges. One judge will be elected from each of the court's three districts in the fall election.

The court said an increasingly heavy work load, caused by the Michigan Constitution's guaranteed right of appeal, prompted the expansion.

In the 1st and 2nd districts two candidates each have filed for the nominations. There will be two nominations in each district, from which one judge will be selected in November. Thus those same candidates, Vincent J. Brennan and Charles Kaufman in the 1st District and Stuart Hoffman and Thomas A. Bruns in the 2nd District, will be automatically nominated when the polls close.

SEEK 2 JOBS

In the 2nd District, however, there are three men seeking the two nominations. The 2nd District consists of Genesee, Hillsdale, Huron, Ingham, Jackson, Lapeer, Lenawee, Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair, Sanilac, Shiawassee, Tuscola and Washtenaw counties.

The three candidates seeking the two nominations are Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson of Oak Park; Robert J. Danhof of East Lansing, legal adviser to Gov. George Romney; and John F. Foley of Birmingham, commissioner of the Court of Appeals.

Here is a thumbnail sketch of each candidate:

S. Jerome Bronson: Bronson, 38, a graduate of Wayne State University and the University of Michigan, has been prosecutor in Oakland County for four years. He blames an "over-permissive society" for making law enforcement difficult and says he seeks the nomination "believing that my experience as prosecutor should be brought to the Court of Appeals."

Robert J. Danhof: Danhof, 42, was a former assistant United States attorney and the Republican candidate for attorney general of Michigan in 1962. He joined Romney's staff in 1963 and has been his legal adviser since 1964. "One of the main functions of the Court of Appeals," Danhof said, "is to interpret the Constitution and statutes of the state of Michigan, and I feel my background will allow me to render efficient and effective judicial service."

CITES EXPERIENCE

John F. Foley: Foley, 40, a graduate of Georgetown and the University of Michigan, has been a hearing officer in the Detroit office of the National Labor Relations Board. He said his experience as commissioner of the Appeals Court "has made it clear that the essential job of a judge of this court is to recognize serious error in the trial court and then right the wrong. I have developed the ability to recognize error and I have an intolerance for wrongs."

Actress Calls Theater Way of Seeing Life

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP)—Actress Celeste Holm, speaking at a mental health banquet, defined the theater as a way of looking at the world.

"It is a temple to people. It holds the spotlight," she said. She stressed the sense of identification between actor and actor on the stage and their responsibility to each other, the play, the writer and the audience, and the audience's responsibility.

"The other actor" is a character, a part of yourself. You need him and he needs you. We are doing the play together for an audience," she said.

Even End of War Won't Stop Biafra Starving

ABA, Biafra (U) — Hundreds of settlement of the Nigerian civil war are dying of protein starvation and the receipt of massive starvation every week, and relief supplies become a reality. many more are doomed even if The dying can be found in any refugee camp or hospital in the West African nightmare land that is Biafra.

Children are the main victims. Some cannot stand. The sounds they make are croaks of low moans. Many are already alone, having lost their parents to famine or to battle.

The protein deficiency disease called kwashiorkor plays a cruel joke on people it has carried to the edge of death. They lose interest in everything, and indifference replaces the aching desire for food they have craved for months.

FOOD SUPPLY CUT

War and the blockade by Nigeria's advancing army have cut off most of the normal food supply to this secessionist state. The main staples — yams and garri from the cassava root — are reasonably plentiful but do not contain significant protein.

As the fighting closed in around the Ibo tribal heartland, thousands of farmers fled into villages or refugee camps. There were no harvests.

The refugees are now said to total 4.6 million. The Biafran head of state, Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, has estimated that 1.7 million of them are destitute.

DEATH ESTIMATE

The number of deaths from malnutrition is variously estimated.

Red Cross officials stated recently that 3,000 a day were dying. O. F. Ohi, chief planning officer of Biafra's planning commission, calls that figure "incredibly high."

A Roman Catholic priest deeply involved in relief work guesses at 300 per day. But Dr. Herman Middlecoop, a Dutch doctor organizing relief in Biafra for the World Council of Churches, says about 6,000 Biafrans die each day.

Each side in the war blames the other over the plight of the starving.

'PEOPLE PAWNS'

Nigeria charges that Ojukwu's propaganda machine is using his people as pawns, to win through public opinion what Biafra has not won by war — sovereignty. Biafra accuses Nigeria of harboring aims of genocide.

Nigeria has offered to open a land corridor to allow food in for the needy. But Biafra charges that this would mean repairing bridges and roads and supplies, and has threatened to use for arms shipments to the West African nightmare land that is Biafra.

Biafra wants a massive airlift only a trickle of relief supplies is getting to the population. Some are sneaked in on clandestine night flights in the ch of Churches has been same creaky, darkened plane stranded.

Ohio Reservists Sue in Call-Up

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A group of 113 Army Reservists from Ohio contend in a U.S. District Court suit that their call to active duty violated their constitutional rights.

Judge Frank A. Kaufman hears arguments today in the case.

The Ohioans, members of the 1002nd Supply and Service Company on inactive duty in Cleveland, were notified last April they would be activated as a unit for two years, effective May 13.

Three days later, they said, they were moved to Ft. Meade, Md., as the 1002nd Combat Support Co.

SUIT TARGETS

They brought suit against Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford; Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor; Gen. Harold K. Johnson, then Army chief of staff; and the commanding officers of Ft. Meade and the 1st Army, headquartered at Meade.

The soldiers contend they "could not, under the terms of their enlistment contracts, legally be ordered to active duty without their consent except in time of war declared by Congress or national emergency declared by the President."

Their petition to the court said each of them enlisted in the Army Reserve before Oct. 15, 1966, with an obligation to serve six years on inactive duty, and no more than 17 days a year on active duty. Each had served on active duty for training before being assigned to the Cleveland unit, they said.

Making a distinction between reservists called up as a unit, as in this case, and those called up as individuals violates the equal protection provision of the Fifth Amendment, the suit contended.

Literally, the word veto means "I forbid."

Laotian Hippy Haven's Almost Straight

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Man, it's a square world. Bourgeois respectability is creeping into this once-blooming hippie paradise.

The "world travelers" are getting their hair cut and taking a shower now and then. The "Free United States" government-in-exile has closed shop and taken down its black-and-white stars and stripes.

They even threw a man out of the "Third Eye" bar for smoking pot. The Third Eye, of all places, which prided itself not long ago on its psychedelically decorated opium den.

Now the Third Eye is run by Prince Panya Souvanna Phouma, the prime minister's son.

HE SWINGS

Handsome, 25-year-old Panya, educated in Paris and the Harvard Business School, is quite a swinger in his own right and counts many of the hippie community among his friends.

So when the normally easy-going Laos police threatened to close down the Third Eye and expel the long-haired community of Americans, Australians, Scandinavians and Germans, Panya stepped in and took over the bar.

Panya's daytime job is running the Vientiane water company. He put none of his money into the Third Eye, but the various hippie houses happily signed their rights over to him, making him — on paper at least — the sole proprietor.

"I imposed three rules," Panya said. "No politics such as Mao Tse-tung posters and governments-in-exile, no opium, marijuana or other drugs, and — for the first time — proper bookkeeping."

NOT A POT SPOT

And so the Third Eye, the mecca of "world travelers" who often hitchhiked 8,000 miles from Europe, became the only bar in Vientiane where pot is banned.

Laos still is one of the few countries in the world without any kind of legislation against narcotic drugs. Panya's father, Premier Souvanna Phouma, could do nothing to clamp down on drugs in a country where marijuana is sold in every marketplace and opium poppies can be grown anywhere.

But when a young German girl died of the combined effect of malnutrition and an overdose of opium, Souvanna decided the community of some 100 foreign hippies was giving Laos a bad name and ordered the police to crack down.

There must have been a few stormy scenes between father and son when Panya sought to save his friends from expulsion.

HIPPIES REPRIEVED

In the end, the hippies were reprieved — on condition that they introduce a minimum of cleanliness into their appearance, found regular employment and stopped making a public exhibition of their liking for pot and other narcotics.

Politics also were banned. U.S. Ambassador William H. Sullivan just laughed at the "Free U.S.A." government-in-exile, but Premier Souvanna regarded the rebel office 100 yards from the American Embassy as an insult to the country whose economic aid is the backbone of the Laos government.

The first expulsion order hit former New York psychiatrist Cheldon Cholst, president of the "exile government" and founder of the Third Eye.

Cholst quickly took down the exile government's official-looking shield and its monochrome flag. This saved him from expulsion, but he denied that his short-lived "regime" was killed by the Laos government.

DRAFT CONSTITUTION

He still lives in his tree-shaded white bungalow near the U.S. Embassy. And he still believes in his draft for a revised U.S. Constitution which would legalize abortion, prostitution and narcotics and would give everyone a guaranteed income from the dividends of partially nationalized industry.

He has had a new sign painted saying, "Doctor Sheldon Cholst, expert in mental conditions," and he hopes the Laos authorities will allow him to practice as a psychiatrist. So far, the necessary license has not come through and the sign stands unused in a corner of his bungalow.

He now goes to the Third Eye more and more of the "official" strictly as a customer. The famed opium den has become a discotheque. A dozen of so hippies work full time around the place and draw a free meal and a dollar a day — giving them "employed" status as far as the Laotians are concerned. They are planning a souvenir store, an art gallery showing their own paintings, and a workshop for painting silk screens.

The excellent American-Australian guitar group draws being rerouted for two weeks around a short section of U.S. 41 on the campus of Michigan Technological University in Houghton, reports the State Highway Department.

FROM HUDSON'S PONTIAC THE NEWS IN BRIEF FROM HUDSON'S PONTIAC THE NEWS IN BRIEF

Complete comfort control from Hudson's pays off in COOLNESS now — and maybe in dollars later!

Lennox central air conditioning can be added to your present warm air heating system, and will make cool, quiet sleep come naturally. In fact, everything your family does seems more leisurely when you relax in cool, crisp comfort. We've everything from 19,000 BTU's to 50,000 BTU's and will be glad to advise you on which you need.

Electronic Lennox air cleaners in a new cabinet style with automatic self-washing feature. They really help cut down on cleaning of rugs, furniture, and frequency of wall-washing, help eliminate smoke and odor, and give vast relief to allergy sufferers.

Lennox gas furnaces, with its Duracurve glass coated heat exchanger treats and circulates the air you live in. The whole system is designed so that central air conditioning can be included, and power humidifiers. From 55,000 BTU's to 200,000 BTU's.

■ A home without central air-conditioning can very well be a white elephant a few years from now. That's why, unlike many other things, the cost of a comfort control system is not really all money spent. Much or all of this cost could conceivably be returned by the increase in resale value of your home in the future. And that's only in addition to the many other benefits you derive from it immediately.

■ This summer your home can be cool, dry, clear and quiet... a real oasis to return to, to live in, to invite others to enjoy as your guest.

■ Next winter your home can be peaceful, warm, clean, humidified—to aid immeasurably to the health and comfort of you and your family.

■ Right now, you can trust Hudson's to help you choose the proper Lennox system to meet your home's requirements—and to see that it's carefully installed.

■ And this investment in well-being can be taken in easy doses—with Hudson's convenient credit terms. Just call Hudson's Home Improvement Centers to investigate. Gun Clinics Distorted, Detroit Suburbs Say DETROIT (AP)—Lisa Rozner is an attractive, blonde housewife who teaches other housewives in suburban Dearborn how to shoot pistols.

Mrs. Rozner says, however, that she favors strong gun-control legislation and that she teaches her students safe handling of weapons and not how to be trigger-happy.

She is one of a number of weapons instructors and public officials in the five Detroit suburbs with gun clinics who feel their programs have been misrepresented by news men. "I trained them in safety rather than in how to kill someone," she says.

550 FINISH
Some 550 women completed the course from January to June. Since applications for the class were not accepted after March, Mrs. Rozner says, there is no way of determining if the assassinations of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and the subsequent demand for gun control legislation have affected the demand for gun instruction.

She says the clinic is expected to resume in the fall.

In Ferndale, however, the city commission has asked the city's Recreation Advisory Board to discontinue rifle and pistol instruction clubs and classes because they are affiliated with the National Rifle Association (NRA).

Proponents of the request say they oppose the NRA, but not the instruction classes. The request passed by a 3-2 vote.

ANTI-NRA

One city commissioner, William J. O'Donnell, says he is "against anything the NRA has to do with. They are the ones responsible for most of the trouble we're having today with gun laws and the rest of it."

Last year more than 50 youths and eight adults registered for the classes where they were taught how to properly fire weapons and a little history and the mechanics of firearms.

"We might as well try and teach these youngsters how to avoid mechanical mistakes," says Ferndale Mayor Bruce D. Garbutt. "This may somewhat help to decrease the accidents which now happen with firearms."

Mrs. Richard Anderson, who attended the Dearborn classes, says she took them because her husband had a gun in their home and "as long as it was in the house, I thought I'd learn to use it."

Mrs. Frank Long, 30, of Dearborn says she wanted "to learn how to handle a gun without shooting myself or anybody else."

A gun clinic in Warren concentrates on rifle instruction for recreation purposes. Al Ritz, gram.

Police Capt. Michael V. Orlich says anyone interested in firearm safety is eligible. He says from 200-300 men, women and children have participated.

LOTS OF GUNS
He says the classes began after he noticed there were a lot of guns registered and, "I began to wonder if these people knew how to use them."

In Highland Park, Police

Chief William E. Stephens says individuals wishing weapons instruction merely have to call the police to make appointments.

The instruction started after merchants were hit with an epidemic of holdups last year. Stephens says one woman told him she needed a gun for protection but didn't even know how to load one.

Concerning the gun control debate, Mrs. Rozner says: "I'm for strong gun control. People who go to the clinic have their guns registered. If we had strong control, people wouldn't have to arm themselves."

HE AGREES
Stephens says he is in full agreement with a bumper sticker he saw recently which said, "Register the Communists and let the guns go."

Bird Somewhere Knows Exactly What Time It Is

VIRGINIA, Minn. (AP) — When Elwood Young described his new watch as being "for the birds," he wasn't being critical—just factual.

On a recent hunting trip, Young shot a deer and proceeded to clean it. To protect his new electronic timepiece, he removed it from his wrist and hung it on the limb of a nearby tree.

Minutes later he glanced up and saw it being carried away by a lumberjack, a bird familiar to hunters in the north woods. After unsuccessfully searching the area in hope that his watch had been dropped nearby, Young reported the "theft" to his insurance company.

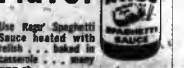

His claim was paid because the fine print in his policy didn't specify that a theft must be committed by a human being.

And somewhere in the Minnesota woods, there's a bird that knows exactly what time it is.

what to look for when you select a diamond or how to make certain your investment is sound as well as sentimental

Most people buy diamonds for sentimental reasons: an engagement ring, a wedding band, a gift for the most important man or woman in your life. But because a diamond is an infrequent purchase, most people buy diamonds without adequate knowledge and experience. Yet a diamond—intelligently selected and properly priced—is not only a thing of beauty, but also an investment that maintains value. So we've prepared the following guide to help you make your selection wisely.

DON'T BE AFRAID TO ASK QUESTIONS. Any reputable jeweler will be happy to answer your questions. The first fact you should know is that a diamond's value is based on a number of factors: • size • color • clarity • cutting • proportion.

Let's examine them separately.

size Many people believe that size is the most important measurement of a diamond's value, but this is not necessarily true. For example, a half-carat diamond may be priced anywhere from $150 to $750. What determines its value is the quality of the stone: its color, its clarity, and how it is cut.

color The highest-grade diamonds are usually colorless, or blue-white. The gradations toward yellow decrease the value of the diamond in most cases. Actually, very few stones fall into the colorless or blue-white category.

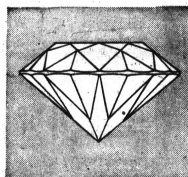

clarity There is virtually no such thing as a "flawless" diamond. Because a diamond is formed by nature, imperfections (or "inclusions") are inevitable. The term "flawless" is applied to diamonds which have no visible inclusions when examined by the trained eye at 10-times magnification. Most inclusions however, are not apparent to the naked eye. Many beautiful stones are not flawless, but are nevertheless of high quality and value because of their color, cutting, size and proportion. For example, A blue-white diamond with a small inclusion may be worth far more than a "flawless" stone of poorer color. By the way, an inclusion in no way impairs the "wear" or hardness of a diamond. It is simply a tiny portion of the diamond which did not crystallize many thousands of years ago . . . which will appear as a speck, line or bubble under magnification.

cut The art of cutting a diamond requires not only great technical skill, but also great artistic judgment. The rough stone is examined carefully, until the cutter has determined what the best shape might be (round, marquise, emerald, pear, oval, heart, etc.). Polishing also plays an important part. For many years (and even now) the "girdle"—or outside perimeter—of the stone was left unpolished. At Rose, we favor a technique of polishing this girdle so that an added dimension of brightness is attained. Our Halo of Light diamonds are polished in this manner.

proportion This is one of the most important, and most overlooked, qualities. For even a flawless stone of superb color can lose much of its brilliance—and value—if it is not correctly proportioned. If the stone is too shallow or too deep, light is not properly refracted—as it should be—from facet to facet within the stone and back through the top. This refraction gives the stone its depth of brilliance. It is not infrequent to see diamonds which have a large top surface area, but which have very little sparkle. This simply reveals poor judgment on the part of the cutter, who sacrificed the "life" of the stone to make it look bigger or to weigh more.

If it is properly designed and finished, the mounting can greatly enhance the beauty of the stone; just as a poor mounting can diminish it. Ideally, the mounting should allow as large an area of the stone as possible to be exposed to the light. Thus most diamonds today are set in open mountings—sometimes held by four prongs as high above the band as possible. (Quite often, when an antique diamond is reset, it takes on much more brilliance—because the old setting smothered many of the stone's light-refracting facets.)

Equally important, however, is the comfort of wearing the diamond—especially a ring. For this reason, it is our policy at Rose to suggest that you wear your diamond ring for two or three months while you decide whether or not you like it. If, during this 90-day trial period, you discover that the ring is not comfortable, or if it displeases you in any way, we will exchange it, alter it, re-set it, or adjust it to your satisfaction—at no additional charge. We don't believe you should have to decide in a few minutes—or even in two or three weeks—whether you like a ring you will probably wear for the rest of your life.

price All of the things we've discussed influence the price of the diamond. How much you spend is purely a matter of personal preference. Where one person will insist upon a diamond that is flawless and perfect in color, another will prefer, perhaps, a larger stone whose color is less fine and whose quality is less than flawless. Both diamonds, however, have very definite value—and a reputable jeweler will be happy to explain the difference in price and to point out the difference in quality. The most important fact to remember is that diamonds represent a constant value—just as gold represents a constant value. Large "discounts" are suspect, for it is as unlikely that you will find a diamond priced far below its market value as you would expect to find gold bars at a reduction.

Perhaps the most important advice we can give you is this: because no two diamonds are alike, and because evaluating the quality of a diamond requires years of experience—if you don't know diamonds, know your jeweler. At Rose, the largest part of our business—by far—is in diamonds . . . as it has been for more than fifty years.

Dr. Oaks Says:

Jogging Is Catching On Across Nation

(Dr. Oaks is the collective voice of the Oakland County Medical Society. This is one in a series of articles on jogging.)

Jogging, one of the more positive preoccupations of people concerned about good health, is fast becoming a sport, so numerous are participants. In suburban subdivisions in Oakland County and across the country, chubby, blue- and white-collar workers devote early morning and evening hours to jogging around the block in the interest of health.

This is not too surprising for anyone can jog. No special equipment, except perhaps loose fitting clothing and comfortable shoes, is required.

What are the collective thoughts of these joggers? Here is a dialog of a jogger with himself.

FOURTH LAP: "Should I look at my watch? No. If I do I'll want to break four minutes for the half-mile. I know I can't... just jog. Really sweating is now. Wow, I must really be dilating those vessels, as they say."

(The work of the muscles increases as the exercise continues. This requires the delivery of more blood — fuel — to the working unit — a task accomplished by increased circulation. More blood can be delivered by opening up the channels, opening new channels and or speeding up the pump.)

LONGER EVERY DAY

FIFTH LAP: "Seems like this half-mile pole gets longer every day. I don't seem to be puffing as hard now. Wonder what my pulse rate is right now? I remember when I finished that half-mile for the first time. It took 30 minutes

Piano Finishes Show Variety

CHICAGO (AP) — Piano finishes, once confined to deep red mahogany, now are changing with fashion trends. Today, walnut leads in popularity, with cherry in second place. Mahogany, in nut-brown finish, is a close third, while maple, oak, ebony and pecan share fourth place.

Constance Wagner, consumer education consultant, said there was a time when geography might dictate a choice of wood, finish and even style of piano. But this is no longer true.

"With so many Americans on the move and with publications wielding so much influence from coast to coast, regionalism has little to do with individual taste today," she said.

before my pulse returned to normal." (As the sedate life becomes more common, diseases referable to the blood vessels and the heart increase. Statistical evidence suggests that lack of physical exercise is perhaps among the most important factors in causing such disease. It is known that the least active men have more heart attacks and more fatal attacks. The reverse is also true. The most active men have fewer heart attacks with a much greater chance for survival and recovery should they experience an attack.)

SIXTH LAP: "I should take a towel along... just to mop up. Wonder what distance runners do to overcome boredom? Don't recognize any unusual difficulties this lap." (The increased circulation caused by running occurs not only in the working muscles of the legs, but more importantly in the circulation of the heart. Research indicates that this additional circulation is the factor that allows a recovery from a heart attack.)

SEVENTH LAP: "Think I'll run the next lap heel-toe, my calf muscles are beginning to hurt. I guess that's what a charley horse is like. Boy, hope I don't have any more shin splints... those hurt." (A muscle that contracts improperly... involuntary contraction as a result of exertion creates pain. The best remedy is rest and or less exertion. Sometimes a runner can slow down or change stride to alter the muscle activity. This type of

PLUNKETT PROSECUTOR

Too young to vote... but old enough to care

Kirk is only 12—but he's old enough to know that Oakland County is a pretty great place to live. Kirk is happy here—and he's safe.

One big reason is because the office of Oakland County Prosecuting Attorney works effectively with the police officers of his community.

Chief Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, Thomas G. Plunkett, is the only candidate for Oakland County Prosecuting Attorney who is now a member of this highly-rated professional staff.

Tom Plunkett has a clear picture of the importance of the office he seeks: "We have to maintain the public's right to be safe from violence. I am committed to a renewal of our faith in criminal justice and our respect for the dedicated police officer."

Tom Plunkett cares about Kirk's safety . . . and yours . . . and your children's.

This space paid for by Plunkett for Prosecuting Committee, Bruce T. Lettman, Chairman 8355 Timber Ridge, Birmingham, Michigan.

GUIDE AIR TRAFFIC — Control tower personnel at Kennedy International Airport in New York City guide air traffic. Their strict enforcement of Federal Aviation Administration rules and a continuing increase in traffic have led to slowdowns in takeoffs and landings.

Jam-Up in Air Traffic Forced by Collision of 3 Circumstances

NEW YORK (AP)—Flight clear for takeoff. "Roger." That match of dialogue, between an air traffic controller, occurs daily at airports across the country.

Every commercial airliner, cargo carrier, most military air traffic and many private airplanes come under their control from the moment the plane prepares for takeoff until it lands at its final destination.

But with growing frequency this summer, particularly in the congested New York area, pilots are getting clearances to take off and land only after long waits on the ground or in the air.

CIRCUMSTANCES COLLIDE

These delays — frustrating to air passengers and expensive to the airlines — are being caused by a collision of circumstances. They are the booming business in air travel, which is even heavier in the summer; bad weather; and a decision by the controllers to strictly enforce the FAA safety regulations.

The number of takeoffs and landings at airports with FAA towers increased nearly 80 per cent between 1962 and 1967, reaching 50 million last year. That total is expected to double by 1974.

The FAA's 14,000 controllers man the nationwide network of air traffic centers at 340 airports and 27 regional centers. It's a complicated system, demanding exacting "handoffs" of planes into prescribed flight patterns, and it depends mainly on radar and radio communications systems.

DEPENDS ON CONTROLLER

Equally, it depends on the skill and concentration of the air controller, who complains that his ranks are undermanned, that he is overworked, and that the facilities he uses are overtaxed and outmoded. The controllers receive $10,000 to $11,000 a year after four to six years.

The Professional Association of Air Traffic Controllers has denied causing a slowdown in traffic, but their enforcement of the FAA regulations—which were breached regularly in the past to speed up traffic—has meant more spacing between planes. The wider the space, the fewer planes that can take off and land in a given time.

The pilot of hypothetical Flight XYZ, en route from New York to Los Angeles, is monitored by the FAA controllers from the time he leaves the departure gate until he reaches his destination.

His flight data — flight number, desired altitude, estimated time of arrival and other pertinent facts—are fed into a computer and relayed through the check centers to his destination.

After the takeoff, which is watched on radar scopes, the flight is under supervision of the New York center until it approaches the boundaries of the next center, which for Flight XYZ would be Cleveland.

A half-hour away, the pilot radios. Cleveland control and advisers at which point he will enter their air space. The Cleveland center guides the pilot through its zone to the next checkpoint.

There are a number of air lanes it can take to Los Angeles, depending on the weather, but Flight XYZ is flying via Indianapolis, Kansas City, Denver, Salt Lake City, Oakland and Los Angeles.

As the flight approaches the Los Angeles air traffic space, the pilot contacts the center. He is assigned to a holding position and, on being cleared to approach the airport, the flight receives its final FAA "hand-off" to the Los Angeles control tower. From there the pilot will get his final landing and weather information and will be guided down to the runway.

DEMOCRAT FOR CONGRESS

This ad paid by Citizens for Frink Committee

22 E. Pine St., Pontiac

ON CRIME

Attorney Gary R. Frink is the one candidate for 19th District Representative in Congress who goes beyond the generalities when he talks about crime.

He knows that America's most-arrested criminal is only 15 years old and that 75 percent of all major crimes are committed by persons 24 or under.

He knows, too, that weapons and violence are no answer to the chief breeding grounds of crime, the deeply-riddled centers of our cities.

He would switch the focus of crime control from punishment to prevention, utilizing the major portion of the $9.35 we spend each day to confine a juvenile prisoner, for his rehabilitation.

He would work for better pay and training for our policemen.

He would submit plans to attack poor housing, unemployment and out-dated educational systems on an interrelated basis.

GARY FRINK knows the solutions are years away. But he knows the work must begin now! He is ready to get started—as your Congressman.

"For a long time, we have realized we could provide taxpayers the same enforcement more efficiently and less expensively," he said.

Where four separate agencies used to exercise control over the roads, only two now will provide enforcement, according to Deputy Director of Personnel Armand Dove.

CUTTING DOWN

In the past, the State Police, the Secretary of State's office, the Highway Department and the Public Service Commission have all exercised enforcement on the highways.

Under the new system, only State Police and Public Service Commission officials will patrol the state's highways. Total man-hours of enforcement will remain the same in the Pontiac area, DeJonge said.

Thus, weigh stations under the jurisdiction of the highway department were eliminated. Bove said State Police officials and public service workers will carry portable scales in their cars that can weigh the trucks as well as weigh stations have been able to.

Bove also said present weigh stations still will be available for use by State Police and public service inspectors.

SYSTEM LAUDED

DeJonge lauded the new system:

"In the past we've had four agencies doing the work two can easily do. We were doubling up on our responsibilities. When a state policeman stops a truck on the road now, he can either weigh the truck with his own portable scales or direct the driver to the permanent scales."

"We felt bad about stripping 20 weigh station workers of their jobs, but it became necessary when we determined this method to provide equal services to taxpayers at such savings."

DeJonge estimated the savings with the new system to be about $125,000 per year.

RETAIN SALARIES

He said also that efforts would be made to place each of the 20 affected workers in jobs with the state. If the new jobs pay at a lower scale, workers will maintain their present salaries, he added.

Leftus and Smith have conceded the switch will hurt them, since they will not be qualified for pay raises until the pay scale in the lower wage classification matches their own present salary.

Also, they claim they will lose the benefits in pensions, insurance and sick leaves they have accrued during their years of service.

DeJonge denied this, though. "As long as these men have worked for the state they will continue to accumulate their benefits unless they jump departments."

SAME DEPARTMENT

DeJonge said he thought all 20 men, including Leftus and Smith, could be placed at another spot in their own department, the Department of Commerce.

The wettest place on earth is in central Kauai, one of the Hawaiian Islands. The highest peak on the island, 5,000-foot-high Kawiak, receives 500 to 600 inches of rain a year.

Family's Faith Wins $23,728 at Dog Track

DENVER (AP)—The winner of the $23,728.80 twin quinella at Mile High Kennel Club Monday night turns out to be a family group that has been playing the same numbers combination for two years.

The group consists of William C. Stephens, his son, William, and his daughter, Mrs. Patricia Vauling. The elder Stephens estimates the family had invested at least $200 so far this season in the 3-5, 4-8 combination.

Fire Chief, Warren Disagree on Needs

By MEL NEWMAN

Pontiac Fire Chief Charles Marion has described his department's manpower situation as "poor and deteriorating" and "a calculated risk for the city."

City Manager Joseph A. Warren said he agrees that "it would be nice if we were in a position to hire more firemen."

And there agreement ends.

While Marion insists that operational cutbacks made necessary by the department's shortened roster of fire fighters denies full protection to Pontiac, Warren said that at least six other city services deserve higher priority status.

Warren said that he does not believe the curtailed operations present a dangerous situation.

NUMBER DOWN TO 139

In 1966, the fire department numbered 150 officers and fire fighters.

Through retirements, resignations, disabilities and death, this number has been reduced to a present quota of 139 — a quota Warren said must stand.

Because of the reduction, Station 5, which serves the western city limits, has been closed nine days since May of this year and Station 6, serving the north-west and central area, has been closed a total of 20 days during the same period.

Station 5 is at Huron and Genesee and Station 6 is at West Walton and Baldwin.

OUT OF SERVICE

"Ladder companies at various stations have been out of service a total of 15 days," Marion added.

He said that the situation means "we must hope that nothing happens wherein a company that's needed, can't respond. Also, at a given time, some area isn't fully protected," he asserted.

Births

The following is a list of recent Pontiac area births as recorded at the Oakland County Clerk's Office (by name of father):

- William H. Dye, 462 Cameron
- James A. Mullins, 124 State
- Scholar W. Pittman, 27 Clark
- Gilbert J. Shaw, Union Lake
- Robert E. Brander, Union Lake
- David J. Kopp, 185 W. Perry
- Donald R. Houser, Union Lake
- Edward C. Reid, 141 W. Beverly
- Wendell E. Hutchinson, Union Lake
- Marvin E. Hoss, 3849 Pontiac Lake Rd.
- Donald G. Hoad, 235 Columbus
- Kenneth J. Kemp, 251 Red Hill
- Norman E. Sinclair, 171 Grandview Terrace
- Charles R. Casler, 12 Clark
- Delbert B. Bannister, 44 E. Mansfield
- Cole Taylor, 12 Hollister
- William H. Granger, Oxford
- John Towner, 12 Hollister
- Willie J. Washington, 387 Union
- Donald G. Hoad, 235 Columbus
- Kenneth J. Kemp, 251 Red Hill
- Norman E. Sinclair, 171 Grandview Terrace
- Mary F. John, Ortonville
- John A. Kellish, 1564 Riverside
- Robert G. Lacy, Union Lake
- James A. Ross, 57 Kimball
- John A. Smith, 124 State
- Ernest Williams, 408 Dittmer
- Ronald G. Cimmi, Lake Orion
- Donald M. Hoad, 235 W. Brooklyn
- Donald R. Mandlin, 308 Chalice
- James A. Mitchell, 79 Elm
- Larry S. White, 881 University
- John D. Wilcox, Clarkston
- Sandra Ann, 141 Oxford
- Michael Sweeney, Lake Orion

Warren denied that any particular risk is being taken. "Fire stations never yet put out a fire," he said. "Firemen do the work, and we haven't seen able to project a situation which is made more dangerous by a station being closed at a given time."

NOT SIGNIFICANT

He said the difference in possible response time from another station to a fire in a section normally covered by a closed station is not significant.

Warren based his refusal of Marion's request on "the fact that we simply can't afford a manpower increase."

He explained that the city income tax, which became effective Jan. 1, is still under appeal with the State Appellate Court and is only 75 per cent effective this year because collection began after the first quarter (in April).

"There is no assurance that the lower-court decision on which we began collection will not be reversed. That would be catastrophic as things already stand. Adding more firemen would be even more of a financial risk than we've already taken," he said.

$65,000 PER YEAR

Warren produced figures showing that to increase the average daily strength of the two fire department shifts by one man, the city must spend more than $65,000 per year.

This is because of the two-unit arrangement and the two-week vacation schedule, he explained.

"We'd have to hire six more men just to raise the average daily strength by one man," he said.

"Warren rated at least six areas of service as having greater priority in future plans:

- An adequate finance department.
- An income tax department.
- A housing code department.
- Police needs.
- Local street improvements.
- Parks and recreation services.

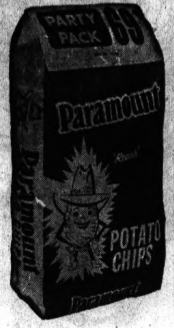

WAGE ADJUSTMENTS

"In addition," he said, "we must face the prospect of a new round of wage adjustments for city employees in 1969."

He said that this was inevitable.

In summation, Warren said that the city will continue as always to provide the fire department with the best available equipment and would attempt to replace the two firemen lost from the ranks this year.

But the prospect for a substantial increase of manpower in the foreseeable future is dim, at best.

Grad Can Pick Her Own Work Even If Neighbor Doesn't Like It

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor of mine has a daughter who is 24 years old. Linda is a college graduate so she can't be dumb.

Well, this Linda girl happens to be very pretty with a knock out shape, so she went to the city and took a job posing for an artist who specializes in painting girls with nothing on.

Aren't there laws against indecent exposure and can't this shameless girl be arrested if caught?

ABBY

ARKANSAS

DEAR ARKANSAS: There is a law against indecent exposure, but I don't know how (or if) it would apply to your neighbor's daughter. The young woman is well past the age of consent, and if the artist is legitimate, and Linda is indeed his model, no one can stop her from making a bare living.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday my girl friend and I were standing in front of my house talking to a bunch of boys, and one of the boys said something real dirty. I felt my face getting real hot, but I didn't say anything. Nobody else said anything either, but a couple of the boys

Greg, who is sort of my boy friend, but we don't go sleazy or anything like that because we are only 14, just stood there and didn't say anything.

Later on when Greg walked me to the door I told him I was disappointed in him because when that boy said something dirty in front of me he didn't tell him he shouldn't talk that way in front of girls. Greg said if I didn't like what the guy said I should have said something. What do you think?

SUNNYVALE

DEAR SUNNYVALE: You were right. Greg was wrong. Color him yellow.

DEAR ABBY: Bob and I were married earlier this year and everything is just wonderful except one thing. I don't have a penny to my name.

Bob goes to the store with me and pays for the groceries and if I want a dime for a soft drink or six cents for a stamp I have to ask him for it. (I'm telling him the six cents I need for this letter is for a letter to my mother.)

When we were going together he was very generous, so I had no way of knowing that he would be such a miser.

He reads your column every day, so will you please give him the word?

RESENTFUL

DEAR RESENTFUL: You're lucky you are still a bride, and your husband's stinginess has not yet become a bad habit. TELL him that you want an allowance. Work out a budget together and decide on a mutually agreeable amount. And do it now, or prepare to be a "beggar" all your married life.

DEAR ABBY: I had heard about teenage rebellion, but I never experienced it until suddenly Joe, 17, and Betsy, 15, let me know they were "old enough to do as they pleased." Life became one constant battle about haircuts, mini mini skirts, dating hours, and make-up two inches thick.

Taking away privileges and cutting allowances didn't faze them. When I was told for the 50th time that they were old enough to do as they pleased, I saw the light.

I told them that by their reasoning I was also "old enough to do as I pleased." Then I sat down with a book, put my feet up, and relaxed. When they asked when dinner would be ready, I told them whenever it pleased them they could make their own dinner. I then made myself a salad and a chop and continued to read my book, ignoring them.

For five days I neither cooked, cleaned, washed nor ironed for them. Only for myself. When they asked me what was wrong with me, I told them I was "old enough to do as I pleased" too, and it pleased me to think of no one but myself.

They finally got the point. Life is now restored to normal, and now we all live by the rules in this house. This may not work for everyone, but it worked for me.

REBELLIOUS MOTHER

CONFIDENTIAL TO "S" IN HARTFORD: Don't lend her any more money until you find out what she is doing with it. Anyone who is as "desperate" for cash as your friend appears to be could be supporting a very bad (and possibly dangerous) habit.

Needlepoint a la carte

It's Not Just Another Business Yarn

By JEANNE NELSON

Giant wicker baskets filled with varying hues of yarn dominate the back room of the new Needlepoint a la carte shop manned by a two-woman team of area homemakers.

This unique business venture, housed in the rear section of Birmingham's historic Masonic Temple, is operated by wisewomen Mrs. Alan (Marianne) Schwartz and Mrs. Alan (Joan) Kahn.

Beginning about a year ago with a needlepoint kit mail order business, the women soon found there was a definite demand for retailing as well. The creative stitchery craze had boomed into "big business" at an alarming pace.

The kits, custom made up by the two, are complete with proper amounts of yarn in colors specified by the pattern, the mesh canvas on which the design has been hand painted, needle and directions.

Each is contained in a handy, attractive plastic tote bag.

Custom designs are available for every conceivable use. Many customers have brought in samples of wall paper, draperies, carpeting, to be matched with chair seats, window cornice boards, area rugs, headboards in the needlepoint.

Handbags are among the very popular items, and are available in limitless patterns with a choice of styles and size.

These are matched with leather and other trims to enhance the complete look.

ARTISTS

New designs by two artists the shop owners have commissioned, are constantly being created. New items, too, keep developing as customers make known their individual needs.

The canvases, which are to be worked in the two most popular stitches, continental and half cross, range in size from petit point (very small) to gros point (the largest).

Joan had been needlepointing for a few years when Marianne started taking an interest in it. They both found it such fun and loved the results of their handwork that the idea of the business seemed a natural outcome.

Since both women have three children each, belong to a number of organizations and often entertain for family and friends, you might wonder where the time comes from for this new project. The two of them agree that husbands and children have made things a lot easier with cooperation and a sharing of chores.

Joan does most of the yarn buying which is similar to the grade used in Oriental rugs. Her background as an interior decorator has been a plus in this business of color and design.

Marianne is the mathematical one, weighing and figuring out the amounts of yarn for each pattern.

In addition to the excitement of watching their venture grow and prosper, the pair has the added advantage of being good friends who have found working together is fun, too.

Polly's Pointers

Use Styrofoam Trays

DEAR POLLY — I, am those empty round oatmeal cartons as they make excellent protectors for tender tomato and pepper plants. Take out the meat comes in from the bottom and remove the top of the market. Cut one tray in half and place on top of an uncut tray, bottom sides facing out. Sew around the two trays with knitting yarn, holding the two pieces together.

No wind can harm them and they get plenty of noon day sun. Leave these cartons on for the rest of the season as they protect the fruit or vegetable from touching the ground. Cartons could also be cut in half to give you two for one. — EDNA

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — I once saw a pretty basket made out of old Christmas cards. I find not only Christmas but birthday and other greeting cards too pretty to throw away so would like to make one of those baskets. If one of the readers knows how to make such a basket I would appreciate getting the instructions. — SHIRLEY

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Nina R. that my Cub Scouts made spears and tomahawks with foam meat trays. They counted as an elective as well as being harmless to play with. We cut a pattern in the shape of a spear and one in the shape of a tomahawk head. I got some bamboo poles from a carpet store, cut them to the desired length, made a slit about one inch-long in one end of each pole, then painted them black. Cut two heads for each weapon and glue them together, but do not use airplane glue as we found it melts the styrofoam. Spray the heads with silver. Press heads into the slit in the poles and they can even be decorated with plastic lacing, bells and feathers and hung on the wall of the boy's room. — GERRIE A.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for early gardeners. Save, and they will become firm.

Salt Belongs in the Bathroom

A box of salt belongs in the bathroom medicine cabinet. It makes an excellent non-scratch dentrifice or a mildly antiseptic mouthwash.

Relieve the pain of a bee sting by covering the spot with a thick plaster of wet salt. If your hands become wrinkled from being in water for some time, rub them with moist salt.

The engagement of their daughter, Janice Marie, to Thomas Joseph Gagne is announced by the Claude C. Coldwells of Utica. Thomas, a junior at St. Clair College, is the son of the Joseph O. Gagnes of Utica. Mid-June 1969 vows are slated.

Announcing the engagement of their daughter, Susan Marie, to B. Allan Benson are her parents, Mrs. Doris M. Bailey of Raskob Avenue and William H. Bailey of Hatchery Road. The bride elect and her fiancé are both juniors at Michigan State University. He is the son of the Bertil A. Bensons of Silverside Drive.

Dec. 28 wedding vows are planned by Catherine Moore and Glenn R. Pascoe as announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Y. Moore of Farmington. A student at Michigan State University, Glenn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Pascoe of Larch Street.

If a Man Must Be Right, Just Let Him

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: My husband's sister whose first marriage failed because of the man's irresponsibility is now divorced and remarried. But this new brother-in-law is even harder to take.

He's extremely conceited and that it reads, "Eat well at Barney's." Instead of "Eat well at Barney's." Good at Barney's." ANSWER: So? why can't you let this poor man have his wrong rightness, for heaven's sake? Why do you have to grab it away from him by arguing with him?

I don't understand your indignation at your brother-in-law. It's not your responsibility to bring light to him in the darkest Africa of his misinformation. So why can't you just let him revel in his wrong rightness about this sign and let it go at that?

WASTING TIME

You (and maybe his wife, too) are wasting your time and energy by joining yourselves in arguments with her husband. Clearly, he's one of the millions among us who cannot be mistaken. Nor is his horror of mistake due to conceit. It is due to some parental almighty-god who made such a reproachful, disappointed fuss over any mistake he made that it was turned into catastrophe.

Such people are compelled to deny any mistake they've made. They HAVE to contradict us. They've got no other alternative. How else can they retain that absolutely essential right-

Piano Regaining Position as Prime Status Symbol

Opulent status symbol, the upright in the parlor, is surging back into its former position of prominence despite the coast-to-coast plunking of guitar-jivin' rock-'n'-rollers.

Last year, Americans spent more than $200 million for pianos of all varieties from the apartment-size spinet to the concert grand.

Choosing a piano, usually a once-in-a-lifetime affair, involves a number of decisions second only to the 7,000-odd parts in the instrument.

According to piano manufacturers, the first consideration should be to buy from a reputable dealer who will stand behind the factory guarantee. There are several schools of thought on the question of new or used. Manufacturers agree that it is generally wiser to buy a new instrument, since they say, few quality instruments are offered to second buyers until they have been in families for many years, and time, friction and climate do take their toll.

However, John Gallagher, of Gallagher's Music Company on Telegraph Road, suggests that, given care, a piano will not depreciate very much, though its desirability may decrease as styles change and betray its age.

SECOND-HAND

And, he pointed out, second-hand pianos sell for only $100-$300 less than a new instrument. Purchasers are urged not to be timid about making their selection in the store. Sit down and play the models that appeal to you. If you are unsure of your own judgment, take a pianist friend along and listen while he plays.

Prices range from $7,500-$8,000 for a concert grand down to $400 for a little spinet, to up around $1600 for a larger size quality upright. The average price paid is between $7-8 hundred.

Quality materials in the construction are essential for beautiful tone. According to Gallagher, close-grained spruce should be used in the sound board, rock maple in the pin block. The president of Baldwin Piano and Organ Company agrees, adding that the ribs should be of spruce and the plate of gray cast iron, in order to withstand the tremendous continual tension of the strings and provide the rigidity necessary for the tone-producing elements.

A quality instrument may be custom-finished in the factory at an additional cost of about $75, if your taste runs to purple, yellow, Wedgwood, avocado or black lacquer. Or about $100 for white trimmed with antique gold which is frequently chosen for French provincial styles.

FUNCTIONAL

To accommodate homes with combined living-dining areas, Baldwin has recently come up with a Scandinavian design with natural woven cane panels in both front and back which makes the instrument a "natural" for a room divider.

In family rooms which must sometimes double as sleeping rooms, a piano placed back-to-back with a convertible sofa will do double duty as a room divider. Atmospheric changes cause the wood in the soundboard to contract and expand, so the strings are no longer stretched to that exact point at which they vibrate at proper pitch. Tuning, by a skilled professional, is, essentially, bringing the strings back to correct tension.

"Voicing" (picking the felts with needle-like prongs to soften them) is required every two or three years to prevent tonal harshness which develops when continued use flattens and hardens the hammer felts.

The lady of the house becomes the keeper of the keys when the piano moves in. This is an easy task nowadays since "Implex" has replaced ivory which had an unfortunate tendency to yellow and chip. Wiping with a damp cloth is all that is necessary.

The long flat vacuum attachment is the tool to use for removing dust from the soundboard and innards without touching strings or other sensitive working parts. Though felts are mothproofed at the felt mill, it is a good idea to place moth repellent cakes on pieces of heavy cardboard, on the bronzed plate of a grand, or hang small cloth bags of moth flakes on the clamps at each side directly under the top of an upright.

The Spanish Renaissance style of this grand piano accentuates the dignity of the formal living room.

Functionally arranged and versatile furniture can be the key to expanding the living area within four walls. Above, an antique white, French Provincial styled piano was used to illustrate one method of solving a space problem. The result provides a room within a room effect without going into costly remodeling.

Fashion Theme to Be Reflected in Glass Decor

"Reflections in Fashion" is the theme of the show planned for Sept. 6 by Kingswood's Alumnae Association.

Preliminary plans have been formulated under chairmanship of Mrs. Melvin Kolbert. Fashions will be by Claire Pearson.

Mrs. John McManus of Birmingham is chairing the decorations committee. The decor, to be entirely of glass, will carry out the "Reflections" theme.

COMMITTEES

Other committee heads are Mesdames: Macon Truhee, Robert Scott, Richard Hughes and Richard Mabae.

Benefits from this luncheon affair will go to the Ellen and Catherine Wallace Memorial Scholarship Fund at Kingswood.

University Offers Nuclear Course

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — For the first time next fall, a program leading to a bachelor's degree in nuclear engineering will be offered at the University of Virginia.

Two nuclear power plants planned by the Virginia Electric and Power Co. were a major reason for the new undergraduate course, university officials said.

One project is scheduled for completion in 1971 and the other is expected to begin operations in 1974.

Why Grow Old?

JOSEPHINE LOHMAN

I am receiving so many requests concerning silicone injections for enlarging the bust that I would like to bring you some information concerning this.

Many different materials have been employed in plastic surgery for enlargement of the breasts. Some of these rubber sponges, wax, and transplanted tissue from one's own body. The latter was a delightful idea; taking it off of the hips and putting it on the bust!

However, these techniques had drawbacks. The tissue tended to be absorbed gradually, while the body's reaction to other methods sometimes caused scar tissue which distorted the shape of the breasts, and made them hard.

Then liquid silicone appeared on the scene. For a while it was thought that this might be the answer for the flat-busted woman. However, (sorry to give you bad news) silicone was found to cause the formation of glandular tumors.

At the present time, in the United States, this is classified as a new drug and the Federal Drug Administration prohibits its use for enlarging the bust. Perhaps at a later date some magic, effective and safe substance, will come along. In the meantime the woman who wishes to have a larger bust should remember the following facts.

In the first place good posture is an aid. If your spine is straight and your ribcage is lifted your bust will just naturally be more prominent. Since there are no muscles in the bust the only way to increase its size is with a gain in weight. However you can make the breasts more prominent by enlarging the underlying chest muscles.

Remember also that general health, good nutrition and exercise, have a happy effect on the body as a whole. Try this increasing exercise.

Stand tall. Raise your arms sideward, shoulder height, palms toward the floor. Extend the fingers. Keep the elbows stiff as you make circles with your arms. Circle forward only. If it is not too strenuous take a weight in each hand before circling.

Noted Artists to Visit

Three eminent artists will be visiting the Cranbrook Academy of Art during the 1968-69 school year.

Jules Olitski, Russian-born and Brooklyn-raised, will be in residence at the Academy the first part of December and again, during spring semester, in the latter part of April.

He is among the foremost of today's color-field painters and was recently featured in the art section of a national magazine with three of his large-scale canvases being reproduced in color.

Esteban Vicente is known for his unique achievement in color. Spanish-born, he has had a number of one-man shows as well as wide participation in group shows. His work is represented in many museums and corporate collections.

He will be in residence at the Academy during the fall session, the latter part of November.

IN CANADA
Jack Bush is considered Canada's foremost painter at this time. Toronto-born, he has won many honors including the Grand Award from Montreal Museum of Fine Art and the 1968 Guggenheim Award in Painting.

Bush will be at the Academy the first part of October and the first two weeks in February.

The Academy's pilot system of teaching is built upon the master-apprentice tradition which encourages an intimate relationship between students and faculty. Instruction is predominantly counseling, direct, and informal, on a person-to-person basis.

Former Highland Residents Note Daughter's Vows

Methodist Church of Saline was the recent setting for vows spoken by Sherry Ann Smith and Darrell Leroy Rodgers.

Attending the daughter of the Hubert M. Smiths of Bridgewater, who are former Highland residents, and the son of Mrs. Anna Shaw of Hillsdale and the late A. B. Rodgers were Mrs. Wayne Beach and Lee Smith.

Other members of the wedding party were Carla Brown, Mrs. Lee Smith and Marilyn Balmer as bridesmaids with Wayne Beach, Raymond Ireland and Dale Buttle as ushers. The newlyweds, who will make their home in Ann Arbor, received guests in the church parlors, following the ceremony.

Collector Should Investigate Values

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

A friend of mine whom I shall call Harry started searching through some old papers in his attic a couple of years ago and found a 23-year-old comic book in perfect condition. Ever since, he has been buying original comics from the newstands.

MARY FEELEY

Do you think he's right? I'm wondering, because he's spending about every penny he can get that way. Please give me your comment.

"Harry's Friend," Flushing, N.Y.

Dear Harry's Friend:

It's just possible that someday you may be glad to call yourself Harry's friend. However, the collector's fame and fortune depend on how many other people want to collect — and while there's been quite a bit in print recently about the possible prices old comics can bring, such as $200 or so, it depends on a lot of factors other than the simple fact that they're comics.

So neither you nor I can tell Harry for sure whether he's investing his money or merely spending it.

One noted authority on autographs and manuscripts cites the story of a man who's collected old documents of all kinds over the years, convinced he was building up to a big profit. But alas, he discovered too late that all he had was a collection of old documents, not valuable ones.

KNOW HOW

The kind of collecting that pays off, involves some know-how and know-what. Fashions in collecting have their ins and outs, except for such overlastings as furniture, paintings and jewels. But maybe Harry could get a better perspective on what he's buying and saving by offering that 23-year-old comic for sale to see who grabs for it.

Dear Miss Feeley:

I have a few 78 records and would like to sell them and put the money into my young son's income tax on the total interest received at the time of redeeming, such as $200 or so, it deformation about disposing of new bonds?

Mrs. E. J. Spring Valley, N.Y.

Dear Mrs. J.:

Since many old recordings have been reproduced on LPs and sound better, the old records aren't bringing as high a premium as they otherwise might. One collector said, for example, that he'd pay 75 cents for a 1821 Caruso record if it's in good condition.

Quite a number of buyers of old records are listed in the yellow pages, so your best bet is simply to call around and tell them what you have. There are also record guide publications on the newstands which carry buy-and-sell ads.

Dear Miss Feeley:

I have a number of matured series E savings bonds. Would it be advantageous to cash these bonds in and apply the money received to issues of the present date — thereby increasing the number of bonds I possess?

Would I have to pay federal income tax on the total interest received at the time of redeeming, if the full amount is ap-

Music School Sets Recitals at Wilson Hall

Meadow Brook School of Music is sponsoring music programs tonight and Monday evening in OU's Wilson Theatre. Curtain time for each event is 8:30 p.m.

Soprano Mary Jane Walker and mezzo-soprano Louise McClelland share the theatre's stage tonight.

Mrs. Walker, a resident of Union Lake, is well known to area audiences as director of the Birmingham Madrigal Singers.

Louise McClelland is an assistant professor of voice at the University of Maryland.

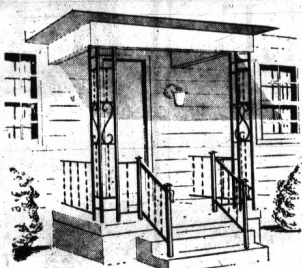

Both singers are studying at Meadow Brook School of Music this summer.

MONDAY RECITAL

John Wustman, of the Meadow Brook School faculty, will accompany 10 of his vocal students Monday, as they perform the works of 19th century Austrian composer Hugo Wolf.

Wustman, a New York City resident, has been highly praised by music critics across the nation as accompanist for Birgit Nilsson and other great artists.

Basic Ideas on Cosmetics Listed Here

Any woman who efficiently plans a household budget can also practice economy with her cosmetics!

First rule is to read directions. If the directions for a make-up foundation say, "use sparingly", do just that. The same holds true for shampoo.
Usually, a painful of shampoo will effectively cleanse the hair and scalp; using more may look lovely frothing but will serve no practical purpose at all.

Make your skin fresher go further by sprinkling it only on a water-moistened cotton pad.
This procedure was recently tested by a beauty consultant who reported her favorite fresher lasted three times longer than it did when sprinkled directly on a dry cotton pad.

Another of her experiments proved that nail polish will remain liquid for months if kept in the refrigerator. This is a particular boon during hot summer weather.

STOCK UP

Women seem to be irredeemable hoarders when it comes to face creams and lotions. They will stock up on any product that appeals to them through direct advertising or even as they browse around the cosmetic counters of their favorite department stores.

The fact is, basically your skin needs only three essentials: a tropical moist oil such as oil of Olay for nourishing and protecting the skin by day, a rich vitalizing night cream for concentrated nourishment and massage at night, and a dissolving-type cleansing milk that will lift ordinary impurities and stale make-up right off the skin surface.

Lipstick will last twice as long if you take care to keep it symmetrical as you stroke your lip brush over it. Once you've worn deep grooves into the side of a lipstick it will inevitably break off.

Quiet Squeaks

To lessen any squeaks in shoe soles and to keep the soles pliable, rub with neat-foot or linseed oil. But be sure to keep the oil off the uppers.

Elegant Lady Never Combs Hair in Public

The charming and elegant woman never combs her hair in public. Naturally, it goes without saying that if you are at a restaurant or any public place and a stray strand falls into your face, excuse yourself and go to the powder room for a quick repair job.

Cello Slipcover for Recipe Cards

Keep a cellophane envelope in your recipe card file. The envelope should be large enough to slip the recipe card in easily. Then when using any card from the file, slip it into the envelope and leave it there while it is being used.

This is the easiest way to keep your recipe cards clean, as the envelope can be wiped off and used over and over. It is also easy to read the writing through it.

Romantic Ruffles

Ruffles are playing the romantic role in women's wear today. They are lovely on fresh, crisp blouses and around throat and wrists on a plain dress. Also irresistibly sweet peeking out of hems of little girls' dresses.

Shade Valance Will Lend Zest

A brand new three-piece shade valance, called Shade-Val, will lend zest to almost any window treatment. The two side pieces overlap the center — making for great flexibility in adjusting to size.

Available in a great choice of Joanna's shade cloths and in a variety of hemlines, there are appropriate styles for the formally elegant or the country-casual, so that shade and Shade-Val, together, offer a striking new look at the window.

Sheet Playhouse

For rainy days indoors, make a sheet playhouse for the children. Simply drape an old cotton sheet over a card table.
First you can cut out windows and a door, and let children decorate the "walls" of the fabric house with crayons or water colors.

Starching lingerie straps helps them to stay flat and comfortable longer.

Precinct Delegates Key to Party's Path

LANSING (UPI) — The mood and direction of Michigan's Republican and Democratic parties for the next two years will be determined by the precinct delegates selected in the Aug. 6 primary.

The precinct delegate is the basic component of the party structure in this state, molding the ideological stance from top to bottom.

As Sen. Sander M. Levin, state Democratic chairman, puts it: "The precinct delegate is the first step and determines the staircase that follows above it. It's like a staircase; if it doesn't have a strong first step it will cave in or be misshapen."

Selection of precinct delegates sets in motion a complicated and intricate process through which the state's Republican and Democratic parties select their county, district and state officers, the powerful central committees, delegates to state and during presidential election years national conventions, and make nominations for non-primary state offices.

SERVE UNTIL '70

For example, the delegates selected in the Tuesday primary will name the delegates to state conventions later this month, when they will nominate candidates for two state board of education posts and one Michigan Supreme Court Position.

The precinct delegates elected in this primary will serve until the next general election primary in August 1970. Since each county determines its own number of delegates, it is impossible to fix an exact number that will be elected statewide for each party. But the number is between 5,000-6,000 for each.

The precinct elections give the outsiders of both parties an opportunity to build influence.

In the case of the Republicans, the conservative faction — led by Richard Durant of Detroit and State Sen. Robert Huber of Troy — are making a strong bid for power in the suburban Detroit areas of Oakland, Macomb and Wayne counties.

"We're up against it, but we're going to win," said an official of the regular

NEED 75 PCT.

In order for the Romney Republicans to retain control of the party organization in Oakland County they must win at least 75 per cent of the elections against the conservative challengers.

On the Democratic side, the "liberal" faction, best identified by their strong support of Sen. Eugene McCarthy and membership in the Michigan Conference of Concerned Democrats (MCCD), is pushing candidates for precinct delegates throughout the state.

'No Ad Push for Controversial Drug'

DETROIT (AP) — The president of a major drug producer Wednesday denied charges made in a Senate speech earlier in the day that it intends to launch a high-powered advertising campaign to push a drug temporarily barred by the Food and Drug Administration.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., chairman of a Senate subcommittee which held hearings that revealed possible dangerous side effects of the antibiotic Chloramphenicol, said Parke, Davis & Co. hoped to overcome the adverse publicity through advertising.

"While Parke, Davis & Co. does not intend to over-promote this drug, or recommend it for uses not permitted by the Food and Drug Administration, it does intend to remind the medical profession that the drug is still available and does have a useful place in today's medical practice," said the firm's president, Dr. Austin Smith.

The FDA announced Friday it had ordered a halt to further marketing of the drug pending further studies. The action does not affect supplies already on the market, which the federal agency said should be enough to meet current demands.

TIED TO HEARINGS

Nelson attributed a 78 per cent drop in the drug's production to hearings held by his small business monopoly subcommittee and a subsequent FDA warning that the medication should be used only in very few cases and can cause dangerous blood disorders such as leukemia and aplastic anemia.

The hearings showed that diseases attributed to the drug, Chloramphenicol, the generic name for which is chloramphenicol, should be used only in treating typhoid fever "and a very limited number of serious diseases which fail to respond to other treatment," Nelson said.

Noting a state of California study showed one of every 24,000 children died of agonizing blood

The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York was founded in 1806 with 14,000 Catholics. There are now nearly two million Catholics in this diocese.

What Happened to the Dream Cars?

NEW YORK (NEA) — Whatever happened to the "dream" cars? You know, those out-of-this-world, futuristic phenomena which always seemed to materialize during auto shows, mainly to create floor traffic around the current line.

They are still with us, of course, creations of the auto industry's styling studios which have hardly a prayer of ever reaching a production line. In fact, many of these flights of fancy aren't engineered at all: drive train, engine, electrical system make the "styling problem" most complicated.

Oh, sure, the manufacturer alludes to the "car of the future" or "what you'll be driving in 1979" actually the dream cars make the show circuit and are retired or are turned into Batmobiles. It's all pretty silly since any auto maker worth his salt knows what his products will look like five years hence . . . and you can bet it's a secret he plans to keep.

SLOWLY PHASED OUT
In recent years the highly touted dream cars have been slowly phased out. Who wants to spend thousands on a mere exercise? Besides, the motoring public is less easily conned these days.

Taking their place are slightly jazzed up, almost-production models. Pontiac, for example, labeled its Firebird a "special car" a few months before it found its way into production.

Now the Ford Motor Co., which regularly hits us over the head with its "better ideas," has produced what it terms "a functional engineering experimental car of the future."

Naturally, this FEECF had to have a zingy name (all future cars do). So call it the "Techna."

INTERESTING POINTS
What's interesting about this particular car is:

(1) Ford skipped the auto show unveiling route this time, which perhaps means the company is serious.

(2) It primarily embodies creative engineering concepts, rather than gee-whiz styling.

Basic theme of the Techna, says Harold MacDonell, vice president for car engineering, is more "effective utilization of space for increased function and greater occupant comfort, within a stream-lined 51-inch-high profile." It's a "six-passenger luxury sports car." The engineers found more space on a 120-inch wheelbase through a new power train configuration.

Crash Kills Man

MORLEY (AP)—An 80-year-old rural Big Rapids man was dead on arrival at Big Rapids Hospital Wednesday after his car crashed on U. S. 131 north of Morley. State Police said Riley E. Robinson lost control of his car during a heavy rain. The vehicle went off the road and struck a tree.

The engine and transmission are located nine inches further forward than conventional cars and are canting down to one side to connect with an offset drive line.

A cynic may wonder why the engineers bothered with this elaborate method of diminishing an interior tunnel when all they had to do is locate the engine at, which neatly eliminates the tunnel altogether. However, engineers must play

But here's a new concept: Improved access to the passenger compartment is provided with power-operated, parallel-hinged doors.

ENTRY SPACE WIDENED

By opening straight out from the body rather than swinging, the two six-foot-long doors provide the same entry as with four doors, even when the car is parked within 18 inches of another vehicle.

Another goodie: An electronic information system, displayed through a small window in the dashboard, provides 16 messages including warnings for coolant level, transmission temperature, battery level, windshield washer fluid, etc., all that stuff you've been dying to know about.

Is the Techna the "car of the future?" Ford, without mincing, says no — but adds that some of its ideas "may well be offered to the public in the future."

Michelangelo designed the colorful costumes worn by Vatican City's Swiss Guards.

NEW IDEA CAR—Ford's experimental car, the Techna, features such innovations as doors which open straight out from the body rather than swing; high-level brake and turn signals mounted in the rear window; and plastic, flush-mounted bumpers.

Gear to Test Sea Bottom Is Developed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Scientists have perfected devices for studying possible building sites more than a mile beneath the surface of the sea.

Successful tests of the new instruments, first of their kind, were reported Wednesday by the Environmental Science Ser. vices Administration (ESSA).

"The tests," ESSA said, "are part of a long-range program which may help pave the way for habitations and engineering activities on the ocean floor."

They were carried out last May in Exuma Sound in the Bahamas, about 250 miles southwest of Miami, at a depth of 5,520 feet.

JOINT PROJECT

ESSA and the University of Illinois cooperated in the project to develop and test devices for analyzing the load-bearing strength of deep sea bottoms.

Dr. George H. Keller of ESSA's Atlantic oceanographic laboratories in Miami and Prof. Adrian F. Richards of the University of Illinois in Urbana-Champaign directed the operation.

The instruments measured the physical properties of sediments not only on the sea floor but to a depth of 10 feet beneath it.

Such tests, ESSA said, are necessary "if structures are to be built on the seabed to enable man to live in this environment and develop the resources which lie there."

TOWER USED

An aluminum tower 14 feet high and eight feet wide at the base was lowered to the ocean floor from the Coast and Geodetic Survey ship Whiting. It served as a platform for probing devices.

First Baby Due, Birthday—and War

Bad Day in Delta for Sergeant

THE MEKONG DELTA, Vietnam (AP) — The young sergeant was covered with mud. His men had been in battle all night and were tired and he was worried.

"You know how it is with the first baby," he said. "The doctor said it was due before now but I haven't heard anything."

Nor was husky, crew-cut Edwin Williams likely to hear anything this day.

He was deep in the delta, often hip deep in water and surrounded by scarred paddies and patches of nipa palms. His only contact with the outside world was a pack radio which sometimes cracked with orders from the command helicopter circling the battlefield. It didn't seem likely that the radio would relay any tidings from a hospital in El Paso, Tex.

BETTER BE GIRL

"It had better be a girl or I'll have to go into bankruptcy," Williams grinned. "I've bet 12 cases of beer on a girl."

The 9th Division Infantrymen of C Company, 2nd Battalion, 39th Infantry, naturally were hoping for a boy. Either way, however, they figured on drinking 12 cases of beer.

The 26-year-old sergeant broke out a cigar, carefully kept dry in a little plastic bag that old campaigners quickly learn to use in the Mekong paddies.

"Today's my birthday, too," Williams said. "I may as well light up."

WELCOME NEWS

The radio had just snapped out some welcome news. The men of Charlie Company could stop their sweep and sit down. "Take off your boots and dry your feet," the radio said impersonally.

Some of the men laughed. The only dry ground was on low dikes crisscrossing the paddies. If by some miracle you managed to dry your feet they would be wet again the first step you took. And even though the guerrilla force in the area had been routed, it still didn't seem too wise to take your boots off.

So the men just slouched down where they were, seeking such dry places as they could find and opening Cration cans and relaxing and talking easily for the first time in many hours.

LONG 18 HOURS

They had been tense since the previous afternoon, a distant 18 hours in the past. It had started when a chopper was shot down and a band of guerrillas had opened fire from a thatched farmhouse nearby. Through the afternoon the fight grew.

More 9th Division Infantrymen of the 1st Brigade were brought in by helicopter, encircling the battlefield. Jet strikes hit the nipa palm patch where the Vietcong were holding out. Flares lit the field at night and artillerymen unloaded a 1,500-round barrage.

Girl Stowaway Is Arraigned

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A green-eyed, 18-year-old blonde may have stowed away on a Navy ship because she had a boyfriend among the crew, the Navy says.

Ruth Warrington of Port Orchard, Wash., was arraigned Wednesday on charges of being on a Navy ship without authorization. Navy spokesmen said she boarded the destroyer tender Samuel Gompers Saturday at Bremerton, Wash., along with its crew of 1,100 and 228 visiting Navy wives and children. FBI agents arrested her Tuesday when the Gompers docked in San Diego.

The ship's commander, Capt. Harry Rich Jr., said Miss Warrington told her after being found Sunday night that she stowed away because she wanted "a free ride to San Diego."

Navy spokesmen didn't identify the crewman they think may be the girl's boyfriend.

At her arraignment, bail was set at $5,000 and Miss Warrington remained in county jail.

Peak Gets Snow

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Snow fell throughout the day Wednesday on 14,000-foot Pikes Peak near here.

At dawn the battlefield had to be swept. In the torn palms and muddy shell holes 32 enemy bodies were found, some wearing black uniforms of the Vietcong and others in the khaki and helmets of North Vietnamese regulars.

Some of the enemy had gotten away in the darkness. One small group had run right over startled Cpl. Charles Burton of San Francisco, and he was taking a ribbing from his comrades who had opened up on the guerrillas and possibly saved his life.

Williams is a six-year Army veteran who was reared in Somerset, Pa., where his mother lives. His company had taken casualties, a few wounded and a few killed—not many.

But in a good infantry company, all losses are deeply felt. In almost nine months Williams had seen many friends lost.

Once, as a staff sergeant, he was in command of the whole company, the senior man left on his feet.

They offered him a field commission but he turned it down. "I'm just a country boy," Williams shrugged. "I like being a sergeant. I like my men. Officers eat too high on the hog for my taste."

Cuba Is Said to Be Jailing Air Hijackers

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuba strongly disapproves of the recent rash of airplane hijackings and immediately jails the culprits when they arrive in Havana, the Miami News reports.

The most recent hijacker—the FBI identified him as Rogelio Hernandez Leyva, 24, after he took over a National Airlines DC8 on July 17—is still in prison while authorities decide what to do with him, the News said Tuesday in a copyrighted story.

The story was written by News reporters Ian Glass and Terry Johnson King, who returned Monday with a group of Miami exiles who sailed to Cuba last week from the Florida Keys with a mission of seeking the release of political prisoners held by Fidel Castro.

Glass and Mrs. King said they interviewed Moises Perez, an official of Cuba's Ministry of the Interior, the security force of the island nation.

'NOT WELCOME'

"We hear that the Cuban population in Miami says Fidel is behind all these hijackings," Perez was quoted as saying. Believe me, this is not so."

He added: "A person who wants to come here will be welcome—but not if he steals a plane to do it."

Perez would not reveal which prison Hernandez was in nor the number of others still detained, the News said.

"Some have been released after showing the proper revolutionary attitude," Perez said. "When they admit they made a mistake by being overzealous, there is no point in keeping them in prison."

Since January, nine planes have been hijacked. Several other attempts have failed.

Book of 'Dates' Brings Charge

NEW YORK (UPI) — The names of 25 young women who subscribed to a computer dating service ended up in a privately printed book sold for $2 in Times Square book stores, State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz charges.

The names, along with addresses and phone numbers, were put on display next to signs reading:

"Girls galore: Ages 18-34. Dial-a-date. All in New York City. Large list of names, addresses, phones. Just a phone call guarantees a date."

Lefkowitz charged in State Supreme Court that the names were obtained by George Ziekas of New York by subscribing to computer date services.

When the names of 25 young women, picked as compatible by the firm's computer, were sent to Ziekas, he had them printed up in a small book which he sold to book stores for 50 cents each, Lefkowitz said.

The 25 young women received obscene phone calls from both men and women, Lefkowitz said, and their complaints brought him into the case.

Suspect Held in Robbery

MUSKEGON (AP) — Eugene Thomas, 31, of Muskegon was held in lieu of $10,000 bond Wednesday on a charge of armed robbery.

He was jailed in connection with the robbery of a private party in Muskegon. Police said nearly $4,000 in cash and jewelry were taken from the guests by three armed bandits wearing masks.

Thomas demanded examination when he appeared before Municipal Court Judge Harold Steadman Tuesday.

Nudibranch an Ugly Slug? Never, Say Mollusks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Anybody who'd call a nudibranch "an ugly-looking little species of sea slug" is a Blank (Be-nighted, Lying, Addle-pated, Noxious Kook).

The nudibranch is, indeed, a little species of sea slug. But who's to say it's ugly? Not another Nudibranch, surely. And not the mollusks, either.

Mollusks, of course, is the "Movement for the Open and Lavish Laudation of Unpopular yet Superior Kinds of Snails."

A while back the Smithsonian Torch, house organ of the Smithsonian Institution, had occasion in a scientific piece to refer to the nudibranch. It identified the creature as "an ugly-looking . . ."

HOT RIPOSTE

This infuriated mollusks, which has now delivered a hot riposte.

Mollusks didn't actually go so far as to call the Torch a Blank, much less a Blankety Blank. The long hot summer wasn't that far advanced.

But Mollusks' dissent nevertheless was vigorous. In the first place, it wrote to the Torch, use by a human being of "ugly" to describe a creature of another species was "not at all in keeping with the philosophy of science."

In the second place, said Mollusks, "ugliness and beauty are perhaps two of the most disputed concepts formed in the mind of man."

The scientist, Mollusks continued, "is supposed to try to view all things objectively." And for a publication of a purportedly scientific organization to call a nudibranch ugly is "in particularly poor taste."

LOCAL BRAINCHILD

Mollusks, like the Torch, is a strictly Smithsonian institution. It is the brainchild of a Smithsonian snail fancier and does not otherwise exist.

Moral: Ugliness as well as beauty is in the eye of the beholder.

Ex-Disneyland Executive Finds Something for Teens to Do

ANAHEIM, Calif. (NEA) — What is there for teen-agers? — Tommy Walker wonders. When he answered his own question — not very much — he got about to fill the gap.

Walker, formerly the director of entertainment at Disneyland, poured most of his life savings into Teen Time U.S.A., a fair and exposition just for teen-agers.

It premiered recently for a nine-day run at the Anaheim Convention Center, just down the road from Disneyland.

He hopes that eventually it will be a permanent thing, giving teen-agers — he has three teen-age daughters, himself, so he knows the problem — someplace to go, something to do.

"DIRE NEED"

"There is," he says, "a dire need to do something for the teen-agers. They need, and they want, wholesome activity. And there are two million teen-agers within a radius of 50 miles of Anaheim."

There is, of course, a profit motive in Walker's thinking, too. He has compiled some impressive statistics relating to the teen-agers, as an economic force in this country. Among them:

Teens spend $18 billion a year — more than the Atomic Energy Commission, NASA, the Treasury Department and the Veterans Administration combined.

Teens spend 20 per cent of all clothes, 27 per cent of all cosmetics, 85 per cent of all single records, 50 per cent of all movie tickets, and they own 9 per cent of all cars.

BIG BUSINESS IMPRESSED

Forty per cent of all teen-agers have their own charge accounts, and almost 40 per cent are married before their 20th birthday.

Walker's statistics — and Walker himself — have impressed big business so much that he was able to line up a potent list of firms for Teen

Time U.S.A. — auto manufacturers, food companies, soft drinks, record players, musical instruments, department stores, bathing suits, even a beauty saloon.

But he has turned down people who wanted to sell dirty buttons and T-shirts with risqué drawings and sayings on them. "I wanted the fair to be clean and wholesome," he says.

The fair came up with 15 rides, a beauty queen contest (with the entrants all southern California high school homecoming queens; a battle of the bands, a revue, midget auto-pilots to make sounds, and almost continuous rock 'n' roll concerts. Such oddly-named units as Love, the Sunshine Company, the Nitty-Gritty Dirt Band and the American Breed all signed

With his Disneyland experience as a guide, Walker knows how to control attendance. His policy is to let anybody in "who is neat and clean and wears shoes."

Nine days may be only a drop in the bucket, but it's a start. And, as Tommy Walker sees it, two million teen-agers can't be wrong.

Medical Help for Riot Stress?

Psychosomatic Ills Linked to Disorders

By RALPH DIGHTON

AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Help for one of the nation's great social ills — riots in Negro areas — may come from the medical magic of psychosomatic therapy.

"Psychosomatic — mind-body — diseases are those caused or aggravated by emotional stress. Some conservative authorities place 60 to 70 per cent of man's ailments in this category. Others go as high as 100 per cent, insisting even that rate of recovery from wounds and injuries is dependent on state of mind."

Physicians and psychiatrists working in clinics set up in Los Angeles' Watts district after bloody rioting in 1965 say physical disease and emotional stress appear to be much tighter there than in other parts of the city.

They believe the physical and mental ailments contribute to each other in a vicious circle, eventually triggering sociologic explosions of burning and looting.

CHIEF STRESSES

Chief among the stresses motivating rioters, the researchers found, were hopelessness and self-hatred. The cure, they say, is to give the underprivileged Negro respite for hope and to teach them not to hate themselves. This would relieve tension and reduce the physical diseases that cause more stress.

This concept of the underlying causes of rioting emerged in a recent symposium at the University of California at Los Angeles on "Medicine and the Mind."

The symposium, an extension program, was organized to give the nonprofessional public an insight into advances in treatment of psychosomatic ills of all races. Interviews later developed the potential of psychosomatic therapy in troubled Negro areas.

Sacrifices Seen as Needed to Survive

Singapore a 'Rugged Society'

SINGAPORE (AP) — Stripped to white gym shorts, the sweating schoolboys trotting in formation around a soccer field are doing what their prime minister asks of them: building the "rugged society."

The "rugged society," as Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew sees it in this island city-state, is a vital, pulsating, intermeshed society of hard-working, sacrificing young people.

"If we were a soft community," he said recently, "then the temptation would be to leave things as they are and hope for the best. But we are not an easygoing people."

Lee's estimation of the multiracial citizens of Singapore seems to be borne out by the people themselves. Parents as well as schoolchildren take seriously the cult of lean, hard bodies and a lean, hard life.

But the sacrifices that 44-year-old Lee asks go beyond sweating it out on the playing fields and the parade grounds.

In a bill he is driving through Parliament, he would order workers to drop the 48-hour workweek and substitute a 44-hour week. He would eliminate four public holidays, slash overtime payments and open more industries to round-the-clock schedules.

Incredibly enough, labor appears to stand with Lee and his get-tough bill. "We need economic expansion," said one union leader, "therefore we must create a healthy investment climate. Even the ordinary workers now realize that investors must have profits."

The need to attract foreign and local investors towers behind Lee's flat-pounding appeals to his countrymen to sacrifice. A dominant theme, hammered home regularly by Lee and his Cabinet, is that once the British abandon Singapore in 1971 the fate of the tiny nation is in its people's hands.

Labor Minister Sinnathamby Rajaratnam told parliamentarians: "The best we can hope for if our economy collapses would be that some kindhearted nations will send us food parcels and cast-off clothing to avert mass starvation."

"And in an island like Singapore, where we can grow no food or plant cotton and where one square mile has to keep alive and sustain 8,000 Singaporeans, a stagnant economy would mean starvation."

Some 50,000 workers of the island's 550,000-member workforce are unemployed. Between now and 1971, when the British military withdrawal will be completed, 30,000 workers directly employed by the British will be out of jobs.

Each year, 15,000 to 20,000 students graduate from school and go onto the job market. Only an estimated 5,000 jobs in industry are created a year, sometimes at a cost of $10,000 a job. To create work, young men and women replace parking meters, collecting fees from drivers at the curb side.

"There are testing times ahead," Lee told Parliament a few days ago. "The heaviest blow will fall in 1971. Unless we attract manufacturers on new projects now, there will neither be the factories nor the jobs in 1970, 1971 and 1972 when the pressure of unemployment will be heaviest."

Lee says the new labor legislation will have its most direct and positive effect on unorganized workers.

Unorganized white-collar workers will "have to make some adjustments" downward in their scale of living, he allows, but most unorganized workers will benefit.

"This is a helpful change," Lee said in Parliament, "for it will bring the blue-collar workers into line with the white-collar workers. And we need more blue and less white-collar workers."

To workers who are organized, Lee has cautioned that their unions must not protect "the weakest and the slowest." He thinks a revitalized work force will become a major attraction ahead," Lee told Parliament a

Mobile Home and Car Are Castle, Too

CHICAGO (AP) — An Illinois State Bar Association publication says that your home is your castle, even if it is only one on the road or afloat.

The 100-page booklet, "Your Bill of Rights," offers discussions by attorneys of the 23 basic rights guaranteed in the Bill of Rights, the first 10 amendments of the U.S. Constitution.

One of the points made is that the constitutional protection against unreasonable search and seizure applies to automobiles and to boats as well as to fixed dwellings.

However, its author says that "Amendment IV — Search and Seizure," which stemmed from the abuse of search warrants in early England and in the American colonies, must be interpreted in the light of modern-day conditions.

Tigers' M-M Boys Hang 4-0 Loss on Visiting Senators

Denny McLain Wins No. 21; McAuliffe Raps Four Hits

By the Associated Press
Dick McAuliffe did something different Wednesday night. Denny McLain did not. McAuliffe rapped four hits and scored four runs with a different batting stance while McLain was just the same old Denny who has been mowing down the American League hitters all season.

Detroit blanked Washington 4-0 and for McLain it was his 21st victory against just three losses.

McAuliffe, who collected a homer, two doubles and a single, explained the change in his stance.

"I made a little correction — I mean a big correction," McAuliffe said. "I've brought the end of the bat a little closer to my body and shortened my strike. It makes me follow the ball better."

SCORES FOUR RUNS

McAuliffe's home run was his 14th this year and his four hits in four trips to the plate overshadowed Al Kaline, who got three hits and drove in two runs.

McAuliffe scored twice on Kaline hits and also scored the other two Detroit runs. Kaline slapped two doubles and a single.

In the fifth, Kaline, who started the game at first base and moved to the outfield when Willie Horton left with an upset stomach, doubled and McAuliffe scored from first. In the seventh, McAuliffe doubled, took third on an infield out and scored on Kaline's single.

McLain scattered four hits in recording his second straight shutout.

FAST START

His only complaint was that his catcher, Bill Freehan was rushing him too much through the first five innings.

"He had me tired by the fifth inning, then I slowed down," said McLain.

The game was delayed for about 40 minutes because of rain and McLain guessed that Freehan was worrying about another downpour.

"I didn't even think about it, the rain, until the fifth inning," said McLain. "After the fifth I was praying for rain."

A major concern in the Tigers' clubhouse after the game was the result of the Cleveland-Baltimore clash for second place. Baltimore won the game 4-2 and is seven games behind Detroit. The third-place Indians are eight out.

TIGER SAFE — Detroit Tigers' second baseman Dick McAuliffe appears to be ready to start a slide but he is only climaxing one after rapping a double in the first inning against the Washington Senators in Detroit last night. Senators' shortstop Ron Hansen is too late with the tag as umpire Nestor Chylak makes up the safe sign. McAuliffe rapped out four hits and scored four times and the Tigers won, 4-0.

Midland Linksman Conquers 'Fears'

After firing a three-under-par Tuesday in the first round of the Golf Association of Michigan qualifying at Red Run, young Stan Thompson Jr. of Midland was a bit concerned about "tomorrow's" round.

Understandably so. Thompson, 23, a graduate of University of North Carolina, had never played Red Run before and his sub-par score was the surprise of the day.

He knew it, too. "After that, you don't know what will happen tomorrow," he said.

REIGNS AS MEDALIST

But tomorrow has come and gone and the pre-med student is the medalist of the GAM.

Thompson, continuing his fine putting that led to the 60 Tuesday, checked in with an even-par 72 over the 6,785-yard Red Run course yesterday for a 36-hole total of 141.

The victory was the biggest in a brief career for the long-hitting Thompson, who was the No. 2 man on the Tar Heels golf team last season.

MATCH PLAY

Today, Thompson and 63 other qualifiers headed into the first two rounds of match play. Double rounds are slated for tomorrow and Saturday in the 46th GAM championship.

Defending champion Peter Green of Orchard Lake, exempt from the qualifying, shared the runner-up spot in the qualifying with Dave Cameron and Gene P. Eyer of Oakland Hills. All were at even-par 144.

Cameron and John Grace of Detroit shared the low-round honors yesterday with 71s.

CHAMPS MAKE CUT

Grace and 1966 champion Pete Jackson were in with 145s, while five-time champion Bud Stevens of Livonia was among a crowd at 153.

Bud's brother, Don, runner-up in this year's state amateur, was also in with a 153.

Tom Draper of Red Run, 1956 titlist, was at 150, while Gene Woodard of Grosse Ile made it with a 156. It took 157 or better to make the cut. Another former champion, Dick Whiting (1963) checked in with a 152 (GAM scores listed Page C-3).

Wrightson, a 5-foot-6, 24-year-old blond, has won five national AAU outdoor and indoor diving crowns. A Navy seaman, he was given leave June 1 to work out with the Dick Smith Swim Gym at Phoenix, Ariz.

Texan Upsets Women Divers

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Unheralded little Cynthia Potter of Houston, Tex., was an upset winner in women's 1-meter springboard diving, and veteran Pan American champ Bernie Wrightson took the men's 3-meter springboard Wednesday, opening the 18th National AAU swimming meet.

Miss Potter, a 17-year-old blonde just out of Lamar High School in Texas, was in fourth place going into the finals. Her victory caught everyone by surprise.

"I'm really surprised," she said. "Yes, I think I'm the first girl from Texas to win a national diving title."

"My coach in Houston was Mrs. George Duty."

"Since the middle of June I've been going to summer school at Indiana and training under Hobbie Billingsley."

Cynthia claims to be "just a quarter of an inch under 5-1 and 102 pounds," although one meet official referred to her as "that cute little 4-8 blonde."

Miss Potter had 439.02 points. Keala O'Sullivan of Hawaii was second with 431.55, and Jerrle Adair of Long Beach, Calif., third with 427.47.

In fourth place was 25-year-old Joel O'Connell of Santa Clara, Calif., champion in this event in 1965 and 1966, with Air Force Lt. Micki King — the defending champ — fifth in a close finish. Miss King led going into the finals.

Wrightson, a 5-foot-6, 24-year-old blond, has won five national AAU outdoor and indoor diving crowns. A Navy seaman, he was given leave June 1 to work out with the Dick Smith Swim Gym at Phoenix, Ariz.

Brocklin hasn't indicated which of the two would start against the Packers. Landry, from Massachusetts, was the No. 1 choice of the Detroit Lions in the 1968 draft, while Beban of UCLA was picked by the Rams and later traded to the Redskins.

Gibbons' 'Big Steal' of Lions' Trades

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

When Jim Gibbons, as a Cleveland Browns' rookie in 1958, dropped a pass in an exhibition game against the Detroit Lions, he found himself packing his bags a week later and heading from Cleveland to Detroit.

Veteran Jim Doran and Steve Junker, a high draft choice, were both among the walking wounded and thus the search for an end started.

Anderson, the club president, needed Brown about having so many receivers he should be able to spare one in a trade and Anderson didn't hesitate to take Gibbons.

As result Gibbons became a regular at the position and Clarke departed from the Browns.

STEAL FOR LIONS

Paul Brown later admitted that the Gibbons deal was a steal for Lions and in every trade which followed he pointed out that Detroit should add a little more to help compensate for it.

"Paul Brown never got over it," said Anderson, "every time we talked trade he would always say we stole Gibbons from him and always looked for something extra in the deals which were made."

After one of his finest seasons in 1964, as the team's Most Valuable Player, Gibbons had his confidence shattered when the Lions obtained Ron Kramer, who had played out his option with the Packers and which was consummated when Commissioner Pete Rozelle ordered the Lions to give up a No. 1 draft choice to Green Bay for Kramer.

As it happened neither Gibbons nor Kramer saw regular duties, as they were alternated and sometimes used together for blocking purposes.

"Sure, it hurt my confidence, but it hurt Ron's also. We talked about it often. We both wanted to play," Gibbons said.

In 1965, Gibbons caught only 12 passes compared to 45 in 1964. In 1966 he was on crutches and had surgery after a training camp leg injury.

FEW TOTAL PASSES

Last year, Kramer had the injuries, but together as tight ends they had only 14 passes between them, 10 for Gibbons.

"I did the best blocking I ever did last season," said Gibbons, "and it's because of the big rush on the quarterback today, whereas the tight end does less receiving."

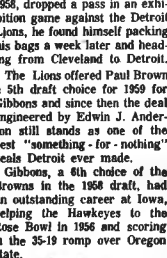

Competition at tight end this year will come from 64 and 225 pound Jerry Zawadzka from Columbia who was a 16th choice in 1967, and Charles Saunders, the third choice from Minnesota this year.

Sanders 64 and 215 is one of the four Lion rookies in the college all-star game Friday night.

"Both of the rookies are big and strong and we'll take a good look at them during the exhibition season," said head coach Joe Schmidt.

Gibbons himself is in top physical condition and is on a slow skater for 10 years, he credits his activity on the winter slopes the past season for helping his legs.

"It might sound like a terrific thing to say, but with Ron (Kramer) out of the picture I think it will help my confidence knowing I might get to play more. Both Ron and I felt this would be the case with either one of us," said Gibbons.

BEST DEAL YET — When the Lions obtained Jim Gibbons from the Cleveland Browns in 1958 it was considered one of the best but cheapest deals they ever made. Gibbons is now the lone veteran at tight end with the recent release of Ron Kramer.

Grid Camps Bustling; Exhibition Tilts Near

By The Associated Press

Pro football has passed another outdoor date with several minor trades, many rookies sent packing and a few star holdouts, star injuries and star retirements. And now it's away we go with the start of the exhibition season tonight.

FOUR SATURDAY

Four more games are set for Saturday: the Chicago Bears and Dallas at Canton, Ohio, in the afternoon, and Baltimore at Oakland, San Francisco at San Diego and Kansas City at Cincinnati at night.

The Redskins will be without Sonny Jurgensen, the National Football League's 1967 passing champion who is recuperating from arm surgery. Veteran Jim Minkowski and rookie Harry Theofanis will replace him while last year's Heisman Trophy winner, Gary Beban, plays for the College All-Stars.

ern Division champs in the American League, are supposed to be stronger with quarterback Pete Beathard starting the season with them.

FIRST IN DOME

A crowd of 40,000 is expected for the first football game in the Astro dome, and they'll see no extra points kicked. The teams will test a new system in which all extra points must be made by passing or running.

The Rams rule the favorite over the Saints, despite the absence of key personnel. Defensive end Deacon Jones and offensive end Jack Snow are involved in contract disputes and defensive end Lamar Lundy and linebacker Maxie Baughan are recuperating from off-season surgery.

Coach George Allen also said he won't play running backs Dick Bass and Tommie Mason in order not to risk injury.

Upsets Thin Tennis Ranks

Juniors Seek National Title

Prep Champion Falls in Third Round

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Upsets thinned the ranks of seeded players Wednesday in the third round of singles in the National Juniors and Boys Tennis Championships at Kalamazoo.

An aggressive Steve Krulvitz of Baltimore scored the tournament's first major surprise, beating sixth-seeded junior Charlie Owens, national interscholastic champion from Tuscaloosa, Ala., 7-5.

Bud Gion of Santa Monica, Calif., upset 15th-ranked junior Ron Cornell of Oakland, Calif., 6-2, 9-7.

In today's fourth round Krulvitz meets ninth-seeded Mac Claffin of Coral Gables, Fla. Gion plays top seeded F. D. Robbins of Salt Lake City. Krulvitz and Gion are not ranked among the 16 leading juniors in the tournament.

Claffin won over Mike Kreiss of Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-1, 6-4 and Robbins whipped Mike Chadwick of Houston, Tex., 6-2, 6-0 in third round matches.

Two seeded players also were eliminated Wednesday in the third round of boys singles. Charles Emley Jr., San Antonio, Tex., defeated 11-ranked James Hagey of La Jolla, Calif., 6-1, 7-9, 6-1, and Bruce King of Mobile, Ala., defeated 12th-seeded James Delaney of San Francisco 2-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Emley was to play third-seeded Brian Gottfried of Cape Coral, Fla., and King was to meet eighth-seeded John Andrews of Fullerton, Calif. in the fourth round.

Jimmy Connors of St. Louis, top seeded in boys singles, defeated Kevin Senich of Parma, Ohio, 6-1, 6-1. Connors was to play 10th-seeded Jake Ward of Denver today.

Negro Vote Reveals No Olympic Boycott

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif.

(UPI) — Harry Edwards' dream of leading a Negro boycott of the 1968 Olympic Games apparently vanished into thin air today.

Lee Evans, one of Edwards' prime backers in the boycott movement, which began nearly a year ago and caused all sorts of problems for the U.S. Olympic track and field committee, pulled the rug out when he revealed a secret vote taken 10 months ago in Los Angeles showed nearly 100 per cent of the Negro athletes eligible for the team wanted to participate in the games.

Edwards, a former associate professor of sociology at San Jose State College, was supposed to reveal the outcome of the Los Angeles vote at a news conference in San Francisco three weeks ago, but instead chose to keep everyone guessing.

"We have decided not to tell you what we are going to do," Edwards said at the time. "We will tell you when we decide the right time."

Goalby Named in Suit

CHICAGO (AP)—A California promoter sued Robert Goalby, 1968 Masters Open Golf Tournament champion, Wednesday for $112,750 for allegedly violating a contract to play exhibitions.

The suit was brought in Circuit Court by John N. Murray of San Mateo, Calif., who stated he made an agreement with Goalby May 23 through Consulting Services, Inc., an Akron, Ohio, firm. Murray said Goalby, president of the firm, still is holding the contract. The firm and Goalby also are defendants.

Murray declared Goalby, 37, had agreed to play seven exhibition matches with Ken Venturi, also 37, a professional golfer under contract to Murray.

New York Dumps Boston, 7-3

Yankees' Goat Turns Hero With Timely Hit

By The Associated Press

For a man who doesn't make many errors, Horace Clarke knows how to get rid of the goat horns in a hurry when it does happen: just wait until there are two out and the bases loaded in the ninth, then come up with the game-winning hit.

"Yes indeed it felt especially good under the circumstances," the New York Yankee second baseman said of the two-run double which sparked a 7-3 victory over Boston Wednesday night.

"It was about time I did something," he added.

The usually slick-fielding Clarke, who committed only eight errors in 143 games last year while leading American League second basemen in fielding with a .990 percentage, picked a bad time for one of his rare miscues Wednesday night.

The score was 2-2 and the Red Sox had runners on first and third with one out when Carl Yastrzemski hit a possible double play ball to the right of the bag. Clarke came over but the ball went through him as Mike Andrews scored from third to make it 3-2.

The Oakland Athletics and the Chicago White Sox also scored victories in ninth-inning comebacks.

COMPLETE SWEEP

The A's completed a double-header sweep by overtaking California 4-3 on Ted Kubiak's two-run triple in the ninth after winning the opener 4-1 on a three-run homer by Mike Herberger in the eighth.

The White Sox spotted Minnesota an 8-1 lead, then fought back behind an 18-hit attack and finally floor the Twins 12-8 with six runs in the ninth.

Baltimore trimmed Cleveland 4-2 on Elrod Hendricks' two-run homer in another AL game.

LOOKED TIGHT

The way Gary Bell was pitching, Clarke's "mistake" looked like the ball game until the Yankees rallied to get runners on first and second with two out in the ninth. Now it was Boston's turn for a miscue as third baseman Joe Foy bobbled an apparent game-ending grounder by pinchhitter Rocky Colavito, loading the bases, and giving Minnesota left the White Sox

Clarke his chance for atone-ment.

The switch-hitting infielder, who has been having the worst year of his career at the plate, hitting only .229, had grounded out four straight times against Bell. He didn't fail this time, however, slicing a double down the left field line to send home the tying and go-ahead runs.

The Yankees poured it on from there, with a walk, a single by Bill Robinson and a damaging error by first baseman George Scott adding up to three more runs. All five runs in the inning were officially unearned, but as Yankees manager Ralph Houk pointed out, "there were a couple of big hits in there."

In the nightcap at Oakland the A's fell behind 3-1 in the seventh when California's Tom Seaver and Jim Fregot slapped run-scoring singles.

Herberger unloaded his second homer of the year following the final regular season at last yesterday morning, the youthful Tigers rallied for six unearned runs and pulled out a 12-1 triumph to finish tied for first place at 8-2. They pounded out 15 hits and were aided by nine errors.

on the ropes with a six-run volley in the fourth inning, but they bounced back with four in the sixth and went into the ninth trailing 8-4.

Southpaw Ron Perranoski got the first out, but Tommy Davis, double off Al Worthington and scored on Woody Held's single, sealing the Sox' fifth victory in their last six starts.

Pontiac's Junior Tigers Follow Detroit Formula

The Tigers are having some manage to get in enough innings to enter the standings.

This is the final week of the regular season for the boys' leagues and no games will be made up.

NO-HITTER

The House of Barbers managed a 5-0 win in four and a half innings over The Mayas in Class E, as Ricky Redmond tossed a rare short-timed no-hitter, striking out eight.

Quentin May and Bruce Woodman came through with two-out singles in the third inning to spark a four-run outburst for the winners.

Joe Bessau's one-out single in the last of the fifth ended Felice's Market to gain a 1-1 tie with The X-L's in the "D" tilt.

The success of the Detroiters in the American League has carried over to their city junior program namesakes in Class F, American.

Trailing 12-7 entering their final regular season at last yesterday morning, the youthful Tigers rallied for six unearned runs and pulled out a 12-1 triumph to finish tied for first place at 8-2. They pounded out 15 hits and were aided by nine errors.

Rain curtailed last night's junior action but one game in Class D and another in "E" did

Initial Trip to New World

Another 'First' for Olympic Flame

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The first Olympic flame to travel from Greece to the new world is to be lighted in Olympia Aug. 23 to start a month and a half journey to Mexico City's Olympic Stadium.

On Oct. 12, Enriqueta Basilio, Mexico's best female runner, and a member of this country's Olympic team, will trot in the stadium holding the symbolic flame aloft to open the Games of the 19th Olympiad.

In between those two points the flame will travel by runner by ship and even by swimmer as Mexico's emphasis on its desire for peace and friendship with all peoples.

Only twice before have the Olympic Games been held in the Western Hemisphere — both times in the United States — and in each case the Olympic flame was lighted in the stadium rather than being brought to the triphall of the international athletic competition.

COSTLY TRIP

The cost to Mexico of the torch's journey has been conservatively estimated at $40,000.

The actual cost will be higher, but the expenses in Europe are to be borne by the National Olympic Committees of Greece, Italy and Spain.

Once the torch is lighted at the spot where the first recorded games were held in 776 B.C. it will start a journey over the same route taken by Christopher Columbus when he discovered the new world and, later, by Spanish Conquistador Hernan Cortes when he led his small band on the conquest of Mexico.

One of the most unique parts of the journey will be across Veracruz Harbor on the eastern coast of Mexico. Seventeen young Mexicans will swim across the harbor with one hand while holding the torch aloft with the other.

The Mexicans have even designed a pair of special boats with underwater cradles to protect each young man on his 50-meter swim in the shark-infested water.

All runners, from Olympia to the Olympic Stadium, will be dressed in identical white uniforms. The uniform has a green band across the chest in which is depicted a white dove of peace.

NATIONAL FLAGS

At the waist is a red band with the "Mexico 68" slogan of the Games. On the left leg of the shorts each runner will wear a four-by-four inch flag, the only national identification, on the uniform.

From Olympia the torch goes through the Greek cities of Pyrgos, Amalías, Patras, Aigion, Xikokastron, Kition, Corinth, Megara and Eleus before arriving at the Parthenon Aug. 24.

The next day it goes from Athens to the port of Pirae where it is to be put aboard a Greek naval ship destined for the Italian port of Genoa — the birth place of Columbus.

In Genoa Aug. 27, there will be a ceremony in the house where Columbus was born. On Aug. 28, the flame will be put aboard the Italian sailing ship Amerigo Vesputi — the same ship which carried the torch from Athens to Syracuse before the 1960 Games in Rome — destined for the Spanish port of Barcelona.

Avery Dampens Detroit's Hopes

IOC President Sees Olympic Rejection

Avery Brundage has thrown a damper on Detroit's bid for the 1976 Olympic — or any other U.S. city for that matter.

An Associated Press dispatch from Chicago reports that the 90-year-old president of the International Olympic Committee does not believe the United States can land the 1976 or 1980 Summer Olympic Games.

Detroit has been an unsuccessful bidder the last few years and is expected to be the U.S. candidate for the 1976 games. "I get around quite a bit," AP quotes Brundage, "and I'm sorry to say the United States has very few friends when it comes to voting on international questions."

COMMERCIALISM

Brundage, speaking before a meeting of college sports information directors, indicated that the future of the Games is at stake because of commercialism arising from the Winter Games in Grenoble, France. "There was just too much commercialism," he said. "We have a committee now investigating the future of the Winter Games. They have grown too big and too expensive."

Man, Brakes Make a Team

Both Must Be Good to Stop Auto Well

By United Press International
How good are you and the brakes on your car at stopping?

In case you don't realize it, you are a team. The best brakes in the world won't slow down your car until they are applied. And the driver with the best of reflexes is at the mercy of bad brakes.

Safety experts consider both factors in rating the proper distance in which a car should be stopped.

For example, a car moving at 60 miles an hour on clean, dry pavement with good tires and dependable brakes should be stopped in not more than 366 feet. That rating includes the time it takes the driver to react to an emergency situation and get his foot off the accelerator and onto the brakes.

WHILE FOOT MOVES
At 60 m.p.h., you might travel anywhere from 44 to 88 feet before even getting the brakes applied. This is the distance your car will travel while your foot moves from accelerator to brake pedal.

The magazine Motor News, published by the Automobile Club of Michigan, says that a recent study in states that have periodic vehicle inspections indicates that from 10 to 25 per cent of today's cars have brakes that are dangerously faulty — and that 8 out of 10 cars have brakes that need some kind of service.

Brake fade is one of the least recognized and least understood problems that can make brakes unsafe. This occurs when excessive brake applications cause linings and drums to reach high heats. The linings become glazed and actually act as a lubricant instead of a friction surface. If given time to cool off, the linings will recover much of their braking efficiency, and the best quality linings are those which recover more rapidly.

Harold Fuerst of the Mare-mont Corp. which manufactures automotive parts including brake linings, says the best way to minimize brake fade is to decelerate gradually whenever possible.

DOWNSHIFT HELPS

In mountainous areas, drivers should shift their transmission to the low position so that the engine can take over more of the deceleration job on long down grades.

In wet weather, brakes can get wet if the car is driven through puddles. Fuerst advises applying brakes gently and intermittently to speed up drying.

Montmartre, in Paris, was built on the site of an old Roman Temple of Mercury, and was consecrated in 1147.

DECEPTIVE VIEW — This perspective makes the tower of St. Michel Church in Hamburg, Germany, appear taller than modern television tower (right). Actually, the new structure is more than twice as tall as the tower.

Air Traffic Jam Will Continue for Some Time

WASHINGTON (UPI) — That big traffic-jam-in-the-sky will get worse before it gets better. The reason is simple. There isn't a single thing that can be done today to substantially ease the air traffic crisis in the immediate future.

Statistically, the situation this week was better than last. But the over-all problem will continue to grow worse until more air traffic controllers are hired and trained, more airports are built and airline routes are overhauled.

The professional Air Traffic Controllers' Association's announcement July 2 that it would go-by-the-book in regulating air traffic did not create the crisis. DRAMATIZED CRISIS

The crisis was there. The air traffic controllers' action merely served to dramatize it. The Federal Aviation Administration knows this. So do the airlines, the pilots, and knowledgeable congressmen.

All the experts agree that more air traffic controllers are needed. Congress is appropriating the money to hire the controllers. But it will take at least two years before the men are trained.

Another plea is for more airports. In the New York Metropolitan area, a fourth jetport has been needed for some time. Not even a site has been selected. Even if this was done today, it would take years to build the airport.

MAJOR OVERHAUL

The most often talked about immediate action is a major overhaul of airline schedules in congested areas. In the past, nothing has been done about this.

The Civil Aeronautics Board contends it does not have the power to regulate this type of scheduling. The result has been an oversaturation of prime routes with airliners.

The New York-to-Chicago run is a good example of this. American, United, and Trans World are locked in a battle on this route. As a result of heavy scheduling, none of the three airlines gets a big share of the market.

American says its planes are averaging about 70 per cent of capacity. United and Trans World report they are averaging about 40 per cent.

'NOT NECESSARY'

Observers claim there is no need for such a heavy concentration of planes on the route and that a cutback would ease congestion.

But the airline business is fiercely competitive. In the past, no one has been willing to back off and leave a route to a competitor. But the current crisis apparently has started some movement in this direction.

The major airlines have agreed to meet, with the blessing of the Civil Aeronautics Board, to try to ease duplication of service. But no one is optimistic.

Satirist Spoofs in Argentina

Austere President Is Target of Magazine

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — "I'm terribly worried," says the lady in the cartoon, pointing to a drawing of President Juan Carlos Onganía, caricatured as a baby in diapers. "He's 2 years old and hasn't started walking yet."

The cartoon, on the cover of Tio Landru magazine, referred to opposition charges that Gen. Onganía's military regime has done less than it promised when it came to power two years ago.

The cartoon is the work of one of the few Argentines who makes fun in print of the austere, 54-year-old cavalry officer who rules South America's second-largest country.

Juan Carlos Colombres, 45, edits Argentina's only magazine of political satire. He uses the pen name Landru, and the weekly Tio (Uncle) Landru is cartoonist Colombres' third magazine of its type under Onganía.

COMPARED WITH WALRUS

The first one, Tia Vicenta, was closed by Onganía a few weeks after the general became president as a result of a military coup. Landru had printed a cartoon comparing Onganía's generous mustache with that of a walrus.

"It was an attack against freedom of the press," says Colombres. "If a man thinks that a cartoon about him is insulting, he can go to court, but closing the magazine was an arbitrary action."

The second magazine, Maria Belen, was published as a supplement of the daily newspaper El Mundo, which folded in December 1967 and went into bankruptcy.

Tio Landru has been published for two months without interference from the government.

NOT LIKED

"But I know the president doesn't like the jokes," Colombres said. "However, if we survive a few weeks more, he may get used to them."

Colombres claims that Tio Landru's jokes "actually help the president by projecting a more down-to-earth image." He says Onganía, a devout Roman Catholic who rarely smiles in public, "has a public image of a tough, overly serious person. The jokes about him make him more human."

A government official who reads Tio Landru at home every week says that "The president feels that cartoons and jokes are disrespectful and hurt the prestige of the office."

A recent satirical story in Tio Landru included this list of "prophecies," all of them national issues in Argentina today:

"The cost of living will go down. In West Germany."

"The president has a sense of humor. In Colombia."

"No new taxes will be levied. In Canada."

"The police will not beat students. In Corsica."

"There will be elections this year. In the United States."

"The military will not intervene in the government. In Switzerland."

War on Rats Set by Mayor in Philippines

MANILA (UPI)—The rats of Lapaz are so bad that Mayor Venustiano Martinez tells visitors, "You have heard, perhaps, about the unusual fiesta?" No, said the man from the Manila Chronicle.

"Instead of paid ballots to be cast for the beauties of Lapaz who were vying for the title of Fiesta Queen and two princesses, I required rat tails."

"The tails stunk but we did not mind. We netted more than 5 million tails," the Mayor said. "The town beauty queen got the title—not a very complimentary one—of Queen of Rats. But she did not complain."

RATS REMAIN KING

Unfortunately for Lapaz, rats remain king of the farming community 50 miles north of Manila. According to the Chronicle today, Mayor Martinez has ordered war on the rats. The rodents declared war five years ago.

In a Germany medieval myth, the town of Hamelin was delivered of its rats by a Pied Piper who fluted them into the river. In Lapaz, five years ago, on a sorry morning, the rats came out of the Chico River.

Rats are not an uncommon hazard hereabouts. Last week in the Central Philippines, sea-going rats caught a small fishing craft in a narrows between two islands. Witnesses said the thousands of rats overturned the boat. The three boatmen drowned.

In Lapaz the rats eat the crops. At first Lapaz tried to grin and bear it. Martinez said superstitious residents and farmers figured it bad luck to hurt the rodents.

WORE OUT

Later the rats wore out such superstition. Townspeople turned to prayer, then bulldozers, pesticides and clubs and spears.

But crops disappeared as the rats chewed onwards.

Today Martinez was distributing flamethrowers to his army of town males.

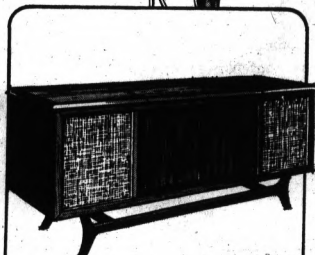

Animal Food Their Concern

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—A few months ago, a man came to Reed McDonald and said he had a dog food that would kill fleas.

McDonald, director of the Texas Feed and Fertilizer Control Service, asked the man to prove it.

"Take molasses, a widely used ingredient in animal feed," McDonald explained. "Agents sometimes stop molasses trucks and check the syrup to see if it has been watered down."

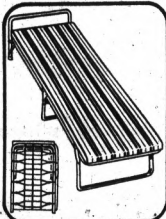

McDonald said inspectors find out if the ingredients on cans of dog food actually provide the nutrition the label says it does.

St. Louis Still a Highway Hub

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—This historic city, once called "Gateway to the West," now is the interstate highway hub to the four main points of the compass.

This year's vacationer heading south to HemisFair in San Antonio, Tex., or north to Montreal's Mand and His World is fair-bound through America's midway city.

Famed today for its towering arch and the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial, St. Louis' history for almost 400 years has been dominated by its role in the nation's eras of transportation.

From its position on the Mississippi, St. Louis has in turn been: focal point for French voyageurs on their fur-trapping expeditions to the Great Lakes and Canada by canoe; the country's greatest inland port in the era of river steamboats; the staging area for legions of pioneers during the country's westward movement by wagon train the nation's second largest rail terminal; and central link in the air transportation age as U.S. airlines followed airmail pioneers across the continent in the 1930s.

TRANSPORTATION EPIC

Today's interstate highway motorist has a role in St. Louis' epic saga of transportation. Whether heading for Canada or Mexico, California or New York, he probably will hit St. Louis when crossing the continent.

The reason is that the city is crisscrossed by more North-South and East-West interstate and defense highways than any other inland city.

Coast-to-coast are the main arteries: Interstates 70 and 44, linking with famed Rt. 66—Interstate 40. North-South, the main routes passing through or by St. Louis are Interstates 55 and 57.

These link southward at Memphis and Little Rock with Interstates 40 and 30 to Dallas, and Interstate 35 at Dallas to San Antonio and to the Mexican border at Laredo. North to Chicago are Interstates 55 and Rt. 66, and not yet completed Interstate 57.

HISTORIC EXHIBITS

Stopping over in St. Louis can mean easy access to downtown St. Louis and the waterfront National Park with historic exhibits dedicated to National Expansion Memorial.

From the convenient Beltway, Interstate 244, motorists can find modern motels, sightseeing in Missouri Cave Country at Meramec Caverns at Stanton on Rt. 66, and time to view the National Expansion Memorial Arch on the Mississippi riverfront.

THE HOLE JOB — Welder Joseph Lynam has a big job. He has to make leakproof connections of tubes to each of the holes in this thick metal plate. It's all part of a huge steam generator. There are 6,400 welds required in its 39 miles of tubing.

Foreign Critics Take Aim at U.S. Image

LONDON (AP) — The United States got a going over from foreign critics on a wide range of issues including the image it projects.

"It is ironic that the country which developed the theory and practice of marketing consumer and industrial goods should be so bad at marketing itself," said Anthony Thorncroft in the Financial Times of London.

"The supporters of Discover America can have no illusions now about the problems of selling to Europeans," said Thorncroft. "For one thing, they now realize that a different approach is required for each country, and that there are distinct markets in each national market scope."

Rosemarie Wittman of the London Evening Standard described New York as "a huddle of the very rich and the very poor, with few middle-income families."

'DEGRADING'
 "New York is said to be the richest city in the world, and it is one of the most beautiful and exciting, if you have money to spend," she wrote. "It must also be one of the most degrading if you don't."

The London Observer suggested that to really understand America one should "start, not in New England, but in Texas."

"For in Texas, it is still obvious that America is historically the white settler society that really made it," the paper continued.

Describing Dallas as an outpost of elegance and culture in a "famously howling landscape," the writer noted that "in one year there were more murders in Dallas than the whole of Britain."

COMPLAINS OF ATTACKS

In Tokyo, the newspaper Yomiuri Shimbun complained that Japanese ships and business offices in the United States have been the target of "a series of terrorist acts, for which anti-Castro Cubans are alleged responsible."

Noting that the "anti-Castro terrorists are as elusive as Zorro," the famed outlaw, the paper expressed hope that the FBI would "track down the culprits with the enthusiasm that was displayed in the arrest of Al Capone and thereby put an end to the indiscriminate blasts."

"Unless the FBI can do that, the prestige of the United States will be seriously undermined," said the paper.

Official Boosts Negro Project

Self-Help Idea Taken to GOP Convention

PASCO, Wash. (AP) — "Someday you will be noticed and envied," Washington Gov. Dan Evans told East Pasco Negroes when their self-help program was started two years ago. That someday may have come.

Pasco City Councilman Art Fletcher, who sold the idea in his community, will try to sell it this week to the Republican Platform Committee in Miami Beach, Fla.

"We were frustrated with the federal government's futile attempt to help the Negro in the poverty pockets," said Fletcher, a Negro who is seeking the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor in Washington.

POSITIVE SIDE

When the East Pasco self-help cooperative was started in 1966, Fletcher peddled $7,000 in stock door to door.

Now a service station will be operating soon as the first phase of a proposed $650,000 shopping center. A neighborhood credit union formed a year ago has made 45 loans with only two persons delinquent. The group owns a $37,000 shopping center site.

Membership in the cooperative exceeds 300 in an East Pasco Negro population of around 2,100. Race relations there have not always been tranquil. Most of the nonwhite population of the three cities—Richland-Pasco-Kennewick—is concentrated in East Pasco. Many are employed at the nearby Hanford nuclear project.

In recent years there have been complaints of discrimination. Recently there was a rock-throwing incident and four police officers were beaten.

STOCK PEDDLED

But the self-help project is on the positive side.

"This is just the beginning," said Fletcher, who says people ought to help themselves before enlisting outside aid.

Fletcher, 43, is an employee relations specialist for a group of Hanford contractors. When the program was started, he saw the solution to the Negro dilemma as active participation in every phase—planning, organizing, initiating and fulfilling.

When he first was selling stock, he said, most Negro families bought it but few had any real hope of success.

But now:

"Stockholders are coming to the service station almost daily and feeling the walls to see if it's real."

Since the 1,520-mile-long Alaka Highway was built 25 years ago, Dawson Creek, B.C., the southern terminus of the road has grown from 300 to nearly 15,000 residents, and Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, through which the highway runs, from 500 to more than 5,000.

Her Husband Turns Trips Into Voyages

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — It is about 300 miles between New York and Washington, and some motorists can make the trip in as little as four hours. It takes us 10.

That's because my husband has a yen for taking ferryboats. If there isn't a ferry where we are going, we go where there is a ferry.

Thus on a recent trip to the nation's capital, we disdained the direct mode of travel via turnpike and expressway in our eternal pursuit of a ferryboat route.

Instead we traversed the entire coastline of New Jersey, all the way down to Cape May where, by diligent map study, my would-be sailor had located a ferry that took us from New Jersey to Delaware. From there it was only a roundabout trip of some hours before we reached our destination.

PERSONAL AFFRONT

En route to Florida we always drove down to the tip of the Delmarva Peninsula, from which point we were waterborne in slow splendor across Chesapeake Bay. When they built the 17-mile-long Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel a few years ago and eliminated that ferry, what others regarded as an engineering marvel, my husband regarded as a personal affront.

The next time we went down that way, we traveled a couple of hundred extra miles in order to take a ferry he had discovered in Wilmington, N.C.

There is always some heated debate between us as to whether the ferries he has ferreted out are seaworthy. I always take the negative.

On one occasion we rode a vessel so tiny that it resembled a raft. It was so small it wouldn't even hold the car, but that didn't deter my determined spouse. We left the family vehicle behind and went to an island and back just for the ride.

NOT MUCH DANGER

"When we do manage to get the car onto a boat, I am always convinced that we are going to drive straight into the water when we leave it. Actually there is not much danger of this as my chauffeur is usually not even at the wheel when we make landfall. He always insists on getting out, no matter how short the trip, to view the passing scenery and is usually not back by the time the chains are down and the attendants are motioning impatiently for the car to move.

Each time my husband reads that a new bridge is being built and an old ferry is being dropped, he reacts as though a favorite uncle had died.

Outwardly I commiserate with him, but inwardly I smile. I'm all for progress.

Hal Boyle is on vacation.

EASY SNACKING — The Ham 'N Egg Canapés are fine for patio treats, light lunch menus, TV snacks and many other uses. Since dips are a summertime-partytime

"must," you can't go wrong either with the Hasty Tasty one. It's equally good for dipping celery sticks or potato chips and crackers.

Canned Meat Is Ideal for Snacks

"Summer time and the livin' is easy," goes the well-known song. Just one look into most bins with remaining ingredients. Serve as dip for this season of sunshine will crackers or fresh vegetables prove it true. Come summer, the living is easy and more informal, not only in day-to-day affairs but in entertaining, too.

Colorful, easy-to-fix, help-yourself snacks, such as these Ham 'N Egg Canapés and this new Hasty Tasty Dip, become the rule rather than the exception so that the hostess has a chance to relax along with her guests.

How can this be accomplished? Easily! Just turn to your kitchen cabinet for assistance. Nothing is simpler than giving that quick twist of the wrist that opens a can of deviled ham or potted meat. With such canned meats you can create a snack or even a meal, to suit many varied occasions.

HASTY TASTY DIP
1 teaspoon instant onion
1 teaspoon water
1 can (5½-ounce) potted meat
½ cucumber, seeded and finely chopped
¼ cup chopped dry roasted cashews or peanuts

2 tablespoons mayonnaise
Softened onion in water. Combine onion with remaining ingredients. Serve as dip for this season of sunshine will crackers or fresh vegetables prove it true. Come summer, the living is easy and more informal, not only in day-to-day affairs but in entertaining, too.

HAM 'N EGG CANAPÉS
4 large eggs
1½ teaspoon mustard
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 can (2½ to 3¼-ounce) deviled ham, chilled
Buttered thin sliced white bread
Parsley

Pimiento Strips Color a Salad
Bean sprouts make a salad. Bean Sprout and Pimiento Salad
1 can (1 pound) bean sprouts
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
¼ cup salad oil
1 teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons sugar
1 can (4 ounces) pimiento
2 tablespoons fresh chives, if on hand

Drain sprouts and rinse with cold water. In a wide shallow container, with a fork, beat together the vinegar, oil, salt and sugar.
Drain pimiento, cut in thin strips and add to dressing with bean sprouts and, if used, the chives; mix. Cover and chill for a few hours.

Ice Cream's Appeal Just About Endless

When the word gets out, ice cream for desert, watch every member of the family gather around. Here's a food that has universal appeal and at the same time is so nutritious. It has all the same nutrients as milk, you know, only in different proportions.

Ice cream may be a topping for most any desert — fruit, cake, pie, or pudding to name just a few. Or, ice cream can be the dessert when served as is or with sundae sauces or toppings.

No matter how you prefer to serve ice cream, be sure that you always keep a carton or two on hand. Ice cream is a cool and creamy dessert favorite that can be an elegant finale to a meal, or it can be a quick pick-up refresher, whichever you prefer.

ANGEL ICE CREAM LOAF
1 loaf angel food cake
1 quart strawberry ice cream
1 pint heavy cream, whipped
1 cup miniature marshmallows
¼ cup chopped nuts
1 can (8 oz.) crushed pineapple, drained
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen strawberries, drained
Slice angel food loaf cake lengthwise. Place a layer of strawberry ice cream 1 inch thick between the cake slices sandwich style.

Make an icing of whipped cream to which marshmallows, nuts, pineapple and strawberries have been added. Keep in freezer until ready to serve. Loaf slices easily as soon as it is taken from the freezer. Serves 6 to 8.

PAN AMERICAN SUNDAE
½ cup honey
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar

2 tablespoons water
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 quart chocolate or vanilla ice cream
3 ripe bananas
Combine honey, brown sugar, water and salt. Slowly bring to a boil, stirring constantly. When sugar is dissolved, remove from heat, add flavoring and cool. When ready to serve, spoon ice cream into individual serving dishes.
Slice half a banana over ice cream; top with sauce. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Shake Up Pudding for a Quartet

Here's a dessert that's nice for two couples at an outdoor supper.

Picnic Pudding
1 package (6½ ounces) shaker-type butterscotch pudding
Milk
4 teaspoons powdered coffee (soluble in cold liquid)
Add cold milk up to the line on each paper cup in the pudding package; add 1 teaspoon powdered coffee and a packet of powdered pudding mix to each cup.
Cover cups tightly; shake each for at least ½ minute; check to make sure pudding is blended. Refrigerate to set. Carry to picnic in insulated bag to keep chilled. Makes 4 servings.

When you want to separate the large outer leaves from a head of cabbage, par-boil the whole head.

ROOT BEER ENLIVEN PORK CHOPS — Pork chops and root beer may sound like an unlikely flavor team — but actually they result in an exotic and delicious main dish for summer suppers. Serve the chops with a crisp green salad, fresh garden peas, and mugs of well-chilled root beer.

Make Tasty Soup

Heat a 13½-ounce can of chicken broth with a large can of cream-style corn until the mixture nears the boiling point. Stir in salt, pepper and freshly grated nutmeg. Serve in heavy pottery bowls, topped off with crumbled bacon.

Get Fill of Fresh Blueberries

The heavenly blue of the season are just plain blueberries and cream. Big bowls of blueberries that can be scooped out generously and doused with different kinds of cream.

If solace is needed for dieters, remember that the blueberries themselves contain only 84 calories per cup.

Creams to Serve With Blueberries

SPICED SOUR CREAM
1 cup (½ pt.) sour cream

¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon ground mace
2 tablespoons orange marmalade
Combine all ingredients. Chill until ready to serve with fresh blueberries. Yield: 1 cup.

PINEAPPLE CREAM

1 cup heavy cream
1-3 cup confectioners' sugar
¼ cup well drained crushed pineapple
1 teaspoon mint extract
Combine all ingredients. Chill until ready to serve with fresh blueberries. Yield: 3 cups.

GINGER ICE CREAM

1 pint vanilla ice cream
¼ cup finely chopped crystallized ginger
¼ cup frozen concentrated limeade

Combine all ingredients and stir until well blended. Freeze until firm. Scoop or spoon into a bowl. Garnish top with additional chopped ginger and serve with fresh blueberries. Yield: 2 cups.

Graham Crackers Make New Treat

Arrange 1 package graham crackers side by side on a cookie sheet. Top ¼ cup finely chopped pecans or walnuts with ¼ cup flaked coconut.

In a saucepan cream ½ cup softened butter or margarine and ½ cup firmly packed light brown sugar; beat until very light and fluffy. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly; boil 1 minute. (Mixture will be thin.) Pour over graham crackers.

Quickly spread with a spatula and sprinkle with nut-coconut mixture. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 10 minutes. Cut in sections while warm. Remove from pan; cool on wire rack. Makes 44 cookies.

BLUEBERRIES AND CREAM

Moist Blueberry Loaf Stars With Fruit Plate

Blueberry Bread is ideal to have on hand for a morning coffee or afternoon tea party. And in combination with a fruit plate it makes an excellent start for a summer luncheon menu.

BLUEBERRY BREAD
1½ cups fresh blueberries (approx. ½ pint box)
3 cups sifted flour
¼ cup sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup evaporated milk
¼ cup water
1 egg
2 tablespoons butter, melted

Wash blueberries gently and drain thoroughly. Sift flour with the sugar, baking powder, soda, salt and cinnamon into a medium size mixing bowl. Combine blueberries with the flour mixture.

Pour evaporated milk and water into a small mixing bowl. Add egg and melted butter, then beat to blend. Add to flour mixture, stirring just enough to moisten dry ingredients. (Batter will be stiff and lumpy.)

Turn into a well-greased 9½ x 5½ x 2½-inch loaf pan. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) until done when tested, about 55 to 60 minutes. Let cool 5 minutes in pan, then turn out on cooling rack. Makes 1 large loaf.

Note: If using a glass loaf pan, reduce oven temperature to 325 degrees.

BLUEBERRY BREAD

Mix in Glasses

Cook Berries for Drink

For a most refreshing change, be a do-it-yourselfer when it comes to satisfying the almost unquenchable thirsts of summer. From a few boxes of the beautiful big fresh cultivated blueberries now on the market, can evolve a whole series of delightful drinks.

BLUEBERRY DRINK BASE
1 quart fresh cultivated blueberries
2 cups water
1 cup sugar (about)
Wash and drain fresh

Blueberry Malted Milk
1 cup milk
14 tablespoons Blueberry Drink Base
1 teaspoon malted powder
1 scoop vanilla ice cream
Beat all together until frothy. Garnish with a few fresh blueberries.

Blueberries On-The-Rocks
Fill an old-fashioned glass with shaved ice or whole ice cubes. Add a splash of Angostura aromatic bitters. Pour on pure Blueberry Drink Base and stir until chilled. If desired, plain water may be added.

Blueberry Lemonade
Add two tablespoons Blueberry Drink Base to each glass of prepared lemonade. Stir well and garnish with lemon slice.

Blueberry Cooler
Fill a tall glass with ice cubes. Pour glass half full of Blueberry Drink Base. Fill remainder with carbonated water. Stir and serve while frothy "head" is still intact.

BLUEBERRY DRINKS—All different, all delightful, but every last one of them easily made at home with big fresh cultivated blueberries. From the left are Blueberry Malted Milk; Blueberries on-the-Rocks; Blueberry Lemonade and Blueberry Cooler.

BLUEBERRY ICE—Beat one can blueberry pie filling with electric mixer until part of the berries are mashed. Add one can (6 oz.) frozen lemonade, partially thawed, 2 juice cans of water and ¼ cup sugar. Freeze mixture several hours. Serve in scoops. Makes 1½ quarts.

Roman Salad Is a Bowl of Summertime

Ages ago, the Roman poet Virgil invited a compatriot to "steep" himself in a bowl of summertime. Perhaps he was referring to a special Roman salad—for refreshing salads are surely "bowls of summertime."

Take this Seafarer's Salad, for example. It's almost as refreshing as a day at the beach—a pretty mélange of shrimp, lobster, crab, ripe olives, and hard-cooked egg tossed with kelly crisp greens.

Complementing all is a rosy pink dressing you make in a twinkling with a can of condensed tomato soup (it's America's favorite!).

The tangy dressing is a poetic combination of tomato soup, cream cheese, and sour cream plus "sparkers" of Worcestershire.

SEAFARER'S SALAD
1 medium head lettuce
1 cup cooked shrimp
1 cup cubed cooked lobster
1 can (7½ ounces) crab, drained and flaked
1 hard-cooked egg, chopped
¼ cup sliced ripe olives
½ cup sour cream
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed tomato soup
1 tablespoon prepared horseradish
1 teaspoon Worcestershire
Lemon wedges
Line salad bowl with lettuce leaves. Tear remaining lettuce and toss with shrimp, lobster, crab, egg, and olives.

Cheese Roll Coated Red

Because of its many good uses, paprika is a best-seller in the spice line today. We use more than 12 million pounds of paprika annually. One-third of this vast quantity reddens in the bright California sunlight. The remainder is imported from seven or eight different countries.

Slices cut from seasoned, chilled cheese rolls are most attractive with rims of bright red paprika.

Paprika Cheese Rolls

½ pound processed American cheese, finely shredded
1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese
½ cup finely chopped, stuffed olives
¼ teaspoon instant onion powder
1/16 teaspoon cayenne
1 tablespoon sour or heavy cream

Have cheese at room temperature; mix together until well blended. Add olives, onion powder, cayenne and sour cream. Mix well.
Shape into 3 rolls, each about 4 inches long. Thickly sprinkle paprika on waxed paper. Turn cheese rolls in paprika.

Wrap in foil. Chill several hours. Cut into thin slices. Serve on rounds of melba toast or on round crackers as an accompaniment to salads, or as a tea sandwich or with beverages as appetizers. Yield: Approximately 4 to 5 dozen.

Fragrant toasted chopped almonds give elegant flavor and "crunch" to potato salad.

Fixed French Style

Grits Add Excitement

Want an exciting and delightful change from potatoes?

Try Galette a la Robert, a French version of all-American grits! These crisp fried patties of grits, eggs, Parmesan cheese, and chives are absolutely delicious and so simple to make!

The recipe was created by Pierre Orsi, Executive Chef de Cuisine of Maxm's de Paris in Chicago, for the Quaker Oats Company, the world's largest manufacturer of enriched white hominy grits.

Galette a la Robert is a perfect substitute for potatoes with your dinner. And you'll find the fresh corn flavor of grits to be a real "pick-me-up" for taste buds tired of routine!

Try living up your meat dishes, too. Serve Galette with rolled veal stuffed with Swiss cheese.

GALETTE A LA ROBERT
1 cup enriched white hominy quick grits
¼ cups water
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup shredded Parmesan cheese
2 eggs, slightly beaten

2 tablespoons fresh or frozen chives
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
Shortening

Slowly stir grits into boiling salted water. Cook, uncovered, for 3 to 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool to room temperature. Stir in Parmesan cheese, eggs, chives, salt and pepper.

Dip hands in cold water. Shape into patties, about 2 tablespoons each. Heat shortening and fry patties until golden brown, turning only once. Can be served with any roast or broiled meats. Makes 6 servings.

Summer Pleasures Include Simple Menu

Cook in the kitchen, if you will, during these summer evenings . . . but move the dining out of doors. These al fresco dinners should be composed of easily prepared foods, and the menus should be relatively simple.

A modest, but perfectly seasoned dish is appropriate to the occasion.

Spaghetti with mushrooms and Parmesan cheese is a delightful accompaniment to fried chicken. The National Macaroni Institute's new recipe is easy to make, and economical in the bargain.

Serve it with a huge crisp green salad and a pitcher of iced tea. Top the meal off with an assortment of chilled fresh fruit.

FRIED CHICKEN WITH PARMESAN-MUSHROOM SPAGHETTI
1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut up
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup solid all-vegetable shortening
1 tablespoon salt
3 quart-boiling water
8 ounces spaghetti
3 tablespoons butter

1/4 pound mushrooms, sliced
1/2 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
Dip chicken pieces in milk, then shake in bag containing flour, 2 teaspoons salt and pepper. Using large skillet, brown chicken in shortening over medium heat for 10 to 15 minutes.

Cover and reduce heat to low; cook for 25 to 30 minutes or until tender. Remove cover for last 10 to 15 minutes; if crisp chicken is desired.

Meanwhile, add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add spaghetti so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally until tender. Drain in colander.

Remove cooked chicken from skillet and drain on paper towels; keep warm on serving plate. Drain off shortening and melt butter in same skillet.

Saute mushrooms until tender. Stir in cooked spaghetti, parsley, and Parmesan cheese; toss lightly.

Arrange Parmesan - Mushroom Spaghetti on heated serving dish. Serve with Fried Chicken.

Vegetable Puff Is One Creation of Real Distinction

With its mashed squash, ripe olive pieces and American cheese, "Olive Vegetable Puff" is a vegetable creation of true distinction.

Next time you're serving ripe olives on a relish tray, remember this simple tip on keeping them shiny: Drain the olives until dry, then roll them in a bowl with a few drops of olive or salad oil.

Olive Vegetable Puff
1/4 cup ripe olives
1 1/2 lbs. summer squash or zucchini
1 small clove garlic
2 eggs
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1/2 cup milk
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
Black pepper
2 tablespoons grated onion
1 cup grated American cheese

Cut olives into medium-size pieces. Slice squash and cook with garlic in small amount of water until tender. Remove garlic.

Drain squash and mash. Beat eggs; add bread crumbs, milk, seasonings and onion. Blend in cheese, squash and olives. Pour into greased casserole.

Bake in 350-degree (moderate) oven 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Cinnamon Rolls Easy to Make

Women everywhere have taken to the cool method of yeast baking. After making bread successfully, they want to go further and try other breads.

Here's a similar recipe for cinnamon rolls made with wheat germ for extra nutrition.

REFRIGERATOR RISING CINNAMON ROLLS

2 packages active dry yeast
1 cup warm (105 to 115 degrees) water
1 cup milk, heated until warm (105 to 115 degrees)
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 tablespoon salt
1 cup wheat germ
4 cups (about) unsifted regular flour
6 tablespoons butter, at room temperature
Filling Mixture
1/2 cup raisins
Confectioners' Sugar Icing
Butter the bottoms of 2 cake pans (each 8 by 8 by 2 inches).

DISSOLVE YEAST
In a large bowl, dissolve the yeast in the warm water. Add warm milk, sugar, 1/2 cup butter, salt, wheat germ and 2 cups of the flour; beat until smooth. Add enough of the remaining flour to make a stiff dough, stirring it in at first and then working it in, if necessary, with your hands.

Turn out onto a prepared stationary pastry cloth or a lightly floured surface and knead until smooth and elastic; roll into a 12 by 16 inch rectangle. Cover with transparent plastic wrap and a towel. Let rise for 20 minutes. Punch down.

TWO PORTIONS
Cut into 2 equal portions. On prepared pastry cloth, with prepared stockin-covered rolling pin, roll one portion of the dough into an 18 by 9 inch rectangle, spread with 3 tablespoons of the soft butter; sprinkle with one-half of the filling mixture and one-half of the raisins.

Beginning at 18-inch side, roll up tightly. Cut crosswise into twelve 1 1/2-inch slices. Arrange slices, cut-side down, in one of the prepared pans. Repeat process with remaining portion of dough.

Cover pans with transparent plastic wrap, tucking edges under but leaving wrap tentlike at top to allow for expansion of dough. Refrigerate 2 to 24 hours. When ready to bake, remove pan (or pans) from refrigerator; uncover; let stand at room temperature for 10 minutes. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until browned - 35 to 40 minutes.

WIRE RACK
Turn out on a wire rack placed on wax paper; with another rack, turn top side up. With a spoon, drizzle Confectioners' Sugar Icing in several additions over top of the warm rolls. Nice served warm with butter.

Makes 2 dozen.

FILLING MIXTURE: In a small bowl stir together 1/2 cup sugar and 2 teaspoons cinnamon. Have this ready to sprinkle on the dough as directed in the Refrigerator-Rising Cinnamon Rolls recipe.

CONFECTIONERS' SUGAR ICING: Into a small mixing bowl turn 1 1/2 cups unsifted confectioners' (powdered) sugar. Stir in 1 1/2 tablespoons milk; gradually stir in enough more milk (about 1 1/2 tablespoons) - beating vigorously with spoon against side of bowl - to make a thin icing that can be drizzled over the rolls. Applying the icing when the rolls are hot helps to give them a professional looking glazed appearance.

Poach Salmon, Serve Chilled

No one wants to be a cold fish, but to serve one — that's different! Poach salmon steaks just until they flake, then remove from pan and chill thoroughly.

While the steaks chill, grate a medium-sized cucumber and fold into stuffy beaten heavy cream. Season with 1 tablespoon horseradish and a dash of salt and pepper. Serve with the salmon and enjoy!

Quaker Project Aids Black Community

By DICK ROBINSON

"How many times does seven go into 70?" a white high school student from Philadelphia asks a black elementary pupil at McConnell School in Pontiac.

"Ten," the little girl answers. "That's right," says the high school tutor.

"Now, how many times does seven go into 63?" he asks again. "Ten," the girl answers.

"No. No," the tutor replies. "Sixty-three is seven less than 70, so the answer would be nine."

HELPING OUT

The tutor is one of 21 high school students from all over the United States who have been helping pupils at McConnell, Wilson and Frost elementary schools and Eastern Junior High School this summer.

They are a part of the community service project of the American Friends Service Committee (Quakers) of Philadelphia, Pa.

"Our purpose is to help pupils on a one-to-one basis and in small groups in and out of the classroom and to promote good school and community relations," explains Lee Tankley of Philadelphia, adult leader of the project.

School projects include work with adult basic education students at Wilson, preschool children and block clubs at Frost and Individual instruction at McConnell.

COMMUNITY PROJECTS

Community projects may include helping a woman put down a linoleum floor, holding dances and movies for teenagers.

A cleanup campaign is set for Saturday near McConnell School, 245 S. Paddock, to complete the one-month project.

NEW EXPERIENCE

Not only have some Pontiac pupils benefited from the project, but a new experience in human relations was provided for the high school students.

For many of the volunteers, who come from well-to-do families, the program included sensitivity training to the problems of the black community.

"We have learned the problems these people face," says Mike Shulman of New York City, whose father is an adviser to Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

"We have tried to be the pupils' friend rather than having a teacher-pupil relationship."

"A lot of kids are going bad," comments Alvin Wessels of Philadelphia, who has been working at Eastern Junior High School.

"They have family problems, and they want more in life and know they can't get it. Their family can't support them."

A TUTORING FRIEND — Twenty-one high school students of the American Friends Service Committee (Quakers) of Philadelphia have been working to improve school-community relationships in Pontiac this summer. Volunteer Roseanne English (center) of Burlington, N.J., tutors Norva Williams, McConnell School sixth grader, while her mother, Mrs. Mary Williams, 371 S. Paddock, checks her progress.

GI Coffeehouse Sells Peace

KILLEEN, Tex. (AP) — Malcolm X, Sophia Loren, Marilyn Monroe and Albert Einstein looked down from bigger than life photoposters as a young GI in fatigues put a Peter, Paul and Mary record on the turntable.

A few feet away from the stereo's blaring speaker two Ft. Hood GIs in civilian clothes played a war game—chess.

Overseeing the scene was Josh Gould, who runs the Oleo Strut, a coffeehouse near the end of Avenue D, a garish, Army town-type of street, lined with pawnshops, pinball joints, military uniform shops and small loan companies.

The Oleo Strut—the name belongs to a shock absorber on a helicopter's landing gear—is a project of the Summer of Support, an effort to put the "New Left" peace movement in personal touch with enlisted men in seven major Army posts. The coffeehouse opened a little more than a month ago.

LARGE POST
Ft. Hood is one of the Army's largest posts, both in land area and in number of troops—35,000 men in uniform.

It is about three miles west of Killeen. Many of its men are either bound for, or just returning from, Vietnam.

Two volunteers work with Gould in the Oleo Strut and say they pay their living expenses out of what the coffeehouse takes in.

One identified himself as Jay Lockard, 21, a Radcliffe College student from New Jersey. She is tall and brown-eyed with short black hair.

FRAIL BLOND YOUTH

The other is a frail, blond youth, about 19, whose forehead keeps falling over his face. He is from New York. He doesn't want his name used.

Both came down just for the summer but now are thinking about staying on.

"There has been a problem of not many people in the peace movement understanding GIs. A lot even regard him as an enemy. But most of the guys in the Army see themselves as victims, not as enemies of peace," Jay said.

Gould, 23, says the purpose of the coffeehouse is to give soldiers a place where they can relax in the "with it" atmosphere many of them were used to before they came in the service.

NO LIQUOR

No liquor is sold, and drugs are forbidden.

An ex-soldier three years in Special Services, from San Antonio, Gould claims no effort is made to convert soldiers to opposing the Vietnam war. During one weekday evening none of the people who run the Oleo Strut was overheard starting a conversation about the war.

The walls of the Oleo Strut are light yellow. It has about 20 tables with orange plastic cloths over them, and an odd assortment of chairs. Numerous posters—psychedelic, art nouveau, giant blowups of celebrity photos—cover the walls.

From a bar up front, coffee, cider, soft drinks, cheesecake, ice cream, pie and donuts are sold. A rack full of records sits next to the stereo turntable for customers to play. The discs lean heavily toward the new rock groups, folk singers and protest songs.

There is a stage in one corner for live musicians.

JUST LIKE HOME

"I like this place because it's like the ones in California, where I come from," said a tanned young Vietnam veteran with a mustache.

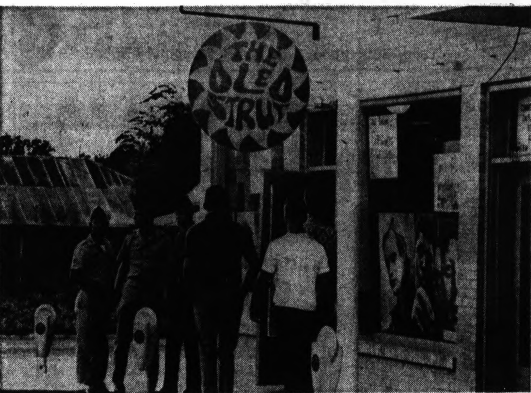

He said he is all for the United States staying in the war "because if we pull out the Communists will take over."

Another soldier, not yet 20, said he is about to go to Vietnam. A helicopter mechanic, he said he has doubts about the war "but I'll do anything I'm ordered to do."

Col. Robert Carpenter, Ft. Hood information officer, said he has heard rumors that efforts are being made at the Oleo Strut to promote the American servicemen's union.

NOT INVOLVED

Gould says the Oleo Strut is not involved with the union.

AP Wirephoto

A PIECE OF THE ACTION — Soldiers from nearby Ft. Hood, one of the Army's largest training posts, gather in front of the Oleo Strut, a coffeehouse in Killeen, Tex.

The coffeehouse is run by a peace-minded group that is trying to keep in touch with enlisted men in seven major Army posts in the U.S.

'A Tale Told by an Idiot'?

Bard-Banding Is Dem Gambit

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — I don't know how many delegates William Shakespeare controls, but Stratford's favorite son may have a decisive role at the forthcoming Democratic National Convention.

Several days ago, the United Democrats for Humphrey claimed the immortal bard was backing their man. As evidence of his support they quoted a line from Shakespeare's "King Henry VI."

"Humphrey is no little man," it says.

Political pundits everywhere were properly agreed that this implied endorsement of the vice president was all Hubert Humphrey needed to swing the nomination in his direction.

But ere the bandwagon could become a steamroller, Shakespearean scholars at the campaign headquarters of Sen.

Eugene McCarthy cried "havoc!" and other Elizabethan exclamations.

ADD QUOTE

They claimed that Shakespeare came not to praise Humphrey but to bury him politically. For in another passage in the same play, Shakespeare wrote:

"Seems he a dove? His feathers are but borrowed, for he's disposed as the hateful raven... the welfare of us all hangs on the cutting short that fraudulent man."

Only the convention can resolve this conflict. In the meantime I might point out that "Henry VI" is replete with other fruity phrases that should be brought to the attention of the delegates.

In Act III of Part II, for instance, appears a line that in my opinion should become a plank in both the Democratic and Republican platforms.

"The first thing we do, let's kill all the lawyers," it says.

Both parties likely will have anticrime planks in their platform shows.

For what it may be worth, Shakespeare favored a hard-nosed approach.

"And what makes robbers bold but too much lenity?" he wrote. I fear, however, that the Bard won't be of much help to the platform committees when it comes to spelling out a position on Vietnam.

"Both of you are birds of the self-same feather," he wrote.

DIFFICULT TO APPLY

It would be difficult to apply that line to the hawks and doves.

Shakespeare appeared a bit hazy in writing that "A little fire is quickly trodden out; which, being suffered, rivers cannot quench." But that depends on whether Vietnam can be classified as a "little fire."

Anyway, we can all look forward to the conventions in a Shakespearean way. They do indeed promise to be "mirthful comic shows."

Follow Their Horoscopes

Stars Keep Eyes on the Stars

(EDITOR'S NOTE - Talent and good looks may help, but it's when you were born that really counts, many Hollywood stars contend. They're believers in astrology, the divination that treats of the supposed influence of the stars - the celestial ones - upon human affairs.)

By LINDA DEUTSCH
HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Some days a movie star might just as well stay in bed.

And in many cases if that's his astrologer's prescription, that's just what the star will do.

Astrology - almost as old as civilization - is having a renaissance in the mod movie crowd.

Actors faithfully follow their horoscopes; they consult astrologers; they date the male most compatible to their zodiac sign, and they even throw swinging zodiac parties.

ANCIENT THEORY

Astrology is based on an ancient theory that movement of celestial bodies - stars, planets, the sun - influences human affairs.

A horoscope, drawn by an astrologer, is a map of the heavens at the moment of one's birth. For an accurate horoscope, a person must know, within one hour, the time of his birth. Planetary relationships in that hour supposedly determine a person's temperament and his chances for good or bad fortune.

The horoscope is divided into 12 "houses" or "signs" for about 30-day periods. Persons born during each period are said to be born under that sign. All the signs together compose the zodiac.

For some of the very successful, like Bob Cummings, Marlene Dietrich and Bette Davis, astrology has been a long-time devotion. Some younger successes - Faye Dunaway, Steve McQueen, poet-folk singer Rod McKuen - consult the stars regularly.

HOPE FOR YOUNG

And for the aspiring young, astrology is hope. Watch the celestial bodies - stars, they say, and maybe planets, the sun - influence human affairs.

To play the astrology game is to try to outwit the stars. Many say it works.

Astrologer Carroll Righter says he suffered a crippling back injury while living on the East Coast. He checked his horoscope, saw that he was in the aspect on the West Coast, and moved. He says he has had no back trouble since.

Designer Theodora Van Runkle, who won an Academy Award nomination for her "Bonnie and Clyde" costumes, says she knew they would be successful because of the stars. An Aries, she says her horoscope was so well aspected at the time she did the designs that anything she did would have been successful. The important thing was to do something and do it then!

FOR 30 YEARS

Righter has been charting horoscopes for entertainers for almost 30 years. His phone rings at all hours. His clients have questions:

"Is it the right day to sign a contract?" "Should I fly today?" "Are the planets good for hiring a director?"

stars, but declines to name many of them, explaining: "Psychiatrists don't tell who their patients are, do they?"

SOME NOTABLES

Such notables as Kim Novak, Walter Slezak, Rbert Vaughn, cameraman James Wong Howe and writers Anais Nin and Henry Miller are known dabblers in the subject.

Omar and Righter limit their personal counseling. So young aspiring actors often go to places such as the Astrological Metaphysics Institute - a small office just off Hollywood Boulevard where for $30 one can get a complete horoscope chart, interpretation and personal advice. For a few dollars more the interested can attend weekly astrology classes.

Paul Leon Masters, head of the institute, says the horoscope "is equivalent to two years of psychoanalysis." His clients, he says, "all want to know if they're going to make it in show business." Many ask if they should change professions.

AP Wirephoto

MUCH IN DEMAND - In Los Angeles, Calif., astrologers Carroll Righter (top) and Sidney Omarr, whose astrological forecasts appear in The Pontiac Press, do a booming business with their predictions based on the movie stars' stars.

Righter, who calls himself "a gregarious Aquarius," answers all queries happily, keeping each star's chart recorded in a phenomenal memory file.

"Entertainment people are wonderful to work with," he says. "They always have something new happening to them. They need something to give them answers."

SHOWMAN'S SENSE

Serious as it is, Righter's work often is colored by a sense of showmanship equal to his clients'. He has thrown huge zodiac parties for friends born under each sign.

Showmanship also characterizes Sidney Omarr, a Leo and an astrologer, who has defended the subject on television, radio and in print as often as possible.

"People confuse astrology with fortune telling," Omarr complains. "You don't have to be psychic to be an astrologer, though intuition helps. But you do have to be a writer, historian and mathematician. The public doesn't realize this." Omarr counsels some top

Moral Rulings on Transplants - Whose Job?

CHICAGO (AP) - Difficult moral questions relating to heart transplantations may have to be decided by persons other than the physicians, according to a professor of Psychiatry and of law at the University of Michigan.

Dr. Andrew S. Watson, in an American Medical Association report, said that select committees, broadly representative of legal, economic, political and religious organizations, may be needed in the future to decide ethical standards.

"We are faced with a myriad of perplexing questions that will have to be answered," said Dr. Watson. "The prospect of more clinical transplant trials by surgical teams calls for defining the physician's role."

"Who gets the transplanted organ? Whom do you let die, whom do you let live? This latter question is critical. Can we leave it up to the doctors to decide?"

Antiviolence Trend Hits 'Mad Room' Film

By DICK KLEINER

NEA Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD — A month or so ago, when Columbia was the box-office take of some re-playing a psychological suspense movie called "The Mad Room," the studio asked the action.

THE GREEN BERETS

JOHN WAYNE DAVID JANSSEN

— PLUS —

GARNER · ROBARDS · RYAN
"HOUR OF GUN"

So Maurer and Bernard Girard, the writer and director, added a few scenes. Then, after Sen. Robert Kennedy's assassination and the antiviolence backlash, the studio asked Maurer to tone it down. Out came the added scenes.

What is left still is no afternoon tea at the old ladies' home. "The Mad Room" has more blood than bargain day at the plasma store. A couple of people are backed to death with sabers.

"IN GOOD TASTE"
"But it's all in good taste," Maurer says. "Even the scene where the dog runs around with the severed hand — I guarantee you the audience will chuckle." "What we had originally planned," says Girard, "is a film in the Grand Guignol style. But, of course, we've had to tone it down."

He looked a little sad about it all. "I've been through all this antiviolence business before."

he said. "And it will pass. You know, actually there are so many things that can be done outside movies in the area of social improvement — things like passing the rat control bill — that what we do on films is relatively minor."

BIG CONFRONTATION

On the set, they were doing a wanted to be present for a scene in which Stella Stevens full-naked scene, involving confronts Barbara Sammeth. Stella Stevens. That was Miss Sammeth — a newcomer nobody. with an impressive background. Stella is still one of acting awards — and Michael Burns as her sinister siblings, beauties, and everybody seems Miss Sammeth was in a bra to think that "The Mad Room" and half-slip, sitting on a couch. will establish her as a top. Stella has just found another dramatic actress, too. She's body — Shelley Winters', this already acquired a deserved time — and thinks her young reputation as an outstanding sister did it. (It's a reasonable assumption, based on the kid's past accomplishments.)

"O.K.," called the assistant director, "put some fresh blood on her and we'll shoot it." They daubed a bit more blood on the girl's hands and went to work.

THAT'S THE SCENE

Barbara Sammeth had impressed the people in the company with her talent and her

HER BOYFRIEND

The party of the second part in the nude scene is Stella's on-screen boy friend, conveniently played by her current off-screen boyfriend, Skip Ward. There is another scene of passing interest to girl watchers, this one featuring beautiful Carol Cole, Nat's daughter. In this one, she is out to seduce young Michael Burns.

TERROR-STRICKEN STARS—Barbara Sammeth (left) and Stella Stevens cling to each other for protection in a tense scene from the psychological thriller, "The Mad Room," now being filmed.

India to Test Land-Sharing

NEW DELHI (AP) — A revolutionary experiment in landholding will be tried in Uttar Kashi district bordering Communist Chinese-ruled Tibet.

Under the inspiration of the land-gift movement leader, Acharya Vinoba Bhave, the entire untitled land will be owned by the villages for purposes of cultivation.

Uttar Kashi is the northwest-most district of India's most populous state, Uttar Pradesh. The spiritual heir of India's independence leader, Mohandas Gandhi, Bhave has been touring India collecting land for distribution among the landless.

"The key to the solution of poverty in Asia lies in the equitable distribution of land, which like air and water is God-given and must be owned by the entire community in a cooperative way," Bhave says.

'Apple' Is Picked Clean

Crowds Jam Beatle Giveaway

LONDON (AP) — The Beatles were cleaned out today. More than 500 fans of the mop-topped foursome stormed their psychedelic boutique for free clothes and other Beatle gear like beads and highly colored posters.

The Beatles were tired of being "just shopkeepers." So, in their own headquarters of hippie outfits—a place they called "Apple"—they gave away $48,000 worth of stock.

Grandmothers joined hippies in the rush over Beatle gear. Only within three hours every thing had been taken that wasn't nailed down.

Shoving, shouting and elbowing marked the second day of the shop's giveaway. Gasping patrons emerged clutching mod dresses, beads, posters and other psychedelic paraphernalia.

The shop opened as usual Tuesday. Customers were told they could take what they wanted. By noon, when the shop closed, about $24,000 worth of jackets, overcoats and trousers had been handed out.

Screams, grunts and groans went up as police barricaded the door on Baker Street today and pushed the crowds back, letting in a few customers at a time.

Sieve Krenkel, 16, Jackson, Mich., pushed through the der what they punningly call crowds holding tightly to his Applecore (Apple Corp.). They purple shirt laced with silver went into clothes, music publications and records, films and

"It's rather tight in there," he complained. "It's hard to breathe and there are a lot of elbows."

Another American here for the summer, Neyssa Whiteman, 14, Encino, Calif., said someone plained: "They were all tired of the business of being shopkeepers. All four decided to close the shop."

Fight Near Cambodia

Brings Heavy Losses

SAIGON (AP)—An enemy

force inflicted heavy casualties of 16 killed and 38 wounded on two companies of South Vietnamese irregulars led by U.S. Green Beret men in a battle close to the Cambodian border.

The Saigon government reported today.

South Vietnamese headquarters said only four enemy bodies were found after the hard battle Wednesday 65 miles northwest of Saigon on one of the enemy routes from the Cambodian border to the capital.

All the casualties in the government force apparently were Vietnamese irregulars. There was no report of any among the U.S. Special Forces men who train and lead the irregulars.

Initial reports indicated the government force was ambushed, although a military spokesman did not say so. They said two companies of irregulars—perhaps 200 men or more—clashed with an enemy force of unknown size along the border.

The spokesman said the government troops destroyed 150 fortified positions in the battle area.

MAJOR STAGING AREA

Tay Ninh Province, where the battle occurred, is believed to be the major staging area for the big Communist offensive which allied intelligence men expect the Vietcong and North Vietnamese to launch against Saigon in the next two months.

The North Vietnamese 8th

Infantry Division and two independent regiments are said to be at secret base camps in the area preparing for the Communist offensive.

America's biggest bombers

Air Force B-52s, have been attacking the enemy camp areas in Tay Ninh Province daily with thousands of tons of bombs. The eight jet bombers flew seven more missions against base camps, troop concentrations in the area near the border.

In another critical sector, the defense of South Vietnam's northern frontier was stiffened by 4,500 fresh American troops from a Colorado base in an airlift of 71 Air Force C-141 Starliners. Scores of armored personnel carriers for the troops came by sea.

The U.S. Command announced the arrival of the 5th Mechanized Infantry Division's 1st Brigade. A spokesman said the troops were flown from Ft. Carson, Colo. to Da Nang, and immediately deployed to positions below the eastern end of the demilitarized zone.

Nationality Foods Big in Frozen Mart

By JACK LEFLER

(A Business Writer)

NEW YORK — Americans are becoming more adventurous in their eating. As a result, foods of foreign origin now account for $154 million of the frozen food market.

Italian, Oriental, Mexican and kosher foods lead in popularity. But dishes native to Hungary, France, Germany, Poland, Sweden and Spain are gaining a place at the table.

Twenty years ago nationality foods for the general public were limited to quaint Italian and fancy French cafes, family-owned Chinese restaurants and other such atmospheric eating places.

Anaconda Aluminum Co., a major supplier to the frozen food industry, predicts that the sales volume of frozen foreign foods will be more than doubled in the next 10 years and possibly tripled.

Don't Follow Patterns

Sales of foreign specialty

Today's menu planners want convenience plus originality, says Allan N. Cooper, an executive of Anaconda Aluminum.

"They find this in frozen nationality specialties."

Cooper says a survey of his company indicates that Italian foods led the popularity parade of frozen nationality specialties with $90 million in sales last year. Chinese and other Oriental foods were second with sales of $30 million.

Mexican food—considered the fastest-growing entry in the field—accounted for $25 million. Sales of kosher foods totaled $15 million.

Pizza has become a standby item. Tacos and tamales with egg rolls and chow mein blintzes and bagels are becoming common as well as Polynesian skewered kabobs or sauerbraten with spatzle.

Don't Follow Patterns

Sales of foreign specialty foods don't follow traditional ethnic patterns.

In New York, for example, it is generally considered likely that Irish Catholics and other ethnic groups buy more kosher products than do Jewish people.

Minnesota, with its strong Swedish heritage, is one of the better markets for Mexican food.

The foods themselves cross ethnic and nationality lines. On the market are kosher Chinese-style turkey roast and Irish pizza.

The crossing of nationality lines extends to the producers. Jeno Paulucci, son of Italian immigrants in Minnesota, founded the Chun King Corp. in 1946 and built it into the world's leading producer of canned and frozen American-Oriental foods.

$63-MILLION SALE

In 1966, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. paid Paulucci $63 million for his company.

This was a major example of the trend in mergers and acquisitions in the frozen food industry.

Other ethnic food companies have found new corporate homes.

A ravioli company founded by Joseph and Cyrene Settimari in a small garage in South Hackensack, N.J., became big and was acquired by H. P. Hood & Sons, a major packer of frozen citrus fruit and concentrates.

Beatrice Foods, once an all-day dairy company, now owns Temple Frosted Foods (Chinese-style products), LeChoy Chinese Foods, Gebhardt's Mexican Foods and Rosaria Mexican Foods.

Hy Epstein, who began making and selling blintzes in the Bronx borough of New York City during World War II, expanded under the Milady brand and sold the company to Pet Milk Corp.

'68 Cadillac

Output a High

DETROIT (UPI)—Cadillac Motor Division completed its 1968 model production Wednesday with a record 320,000 cars, a 15 per cent increase over the 1967 model year.

It was the seventh consecutive model year record for the General Motors Corp. division.

Calvin J. Werner, general manager of Cadillac and a GM vice president, said the new record included 24,528 Cadillac of Grand Rapids, a 24-year-old Negro, Floyd Glass, was arrested and booked on a charge of arson after a fire-bomb was thrown against the wall of a cement block building occupied by Gibson Inc., a guitar manufacturer.

Kalamazoo Police Lt. Michael

Marklin said no damage was set to the building, located in the city's Negro section.

It's Time for Veterans to Get Set for School

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press News Features

WASHINGTON—Veterans who plan to enter school under the GI bill this fall should get their eligibility certificates early and avoid the rush.

This way you can be sure your government allowances under the program is dated the day school begins. If you wait until after school begins to get your certificate it may delay getting your first checks.

You'll need a certificate if you're entering the program for the first time or if you're already in and plan to change programs or schools this fall. If you're not changing programs or schools and already have a certificate you can just sit tight.

To get your first certificate apply at your nearest VA office. If you're changing programs or schools and need a new certificate it's best to apply to the VA regional office that handled your records under the original certificate.

Medical Warning Tag

The Army Digest, official monthly magazine of the Army, says that soldiers with allergies or other special health problems will wear a red medical warning tag with their identifying "dog tags," come fall.

The red tag, the same size and shape as the familiar serviceman's "dog tag," will contain the soldier's name, serial number, drug serum or allergy, specific conditions or potential problems and specific therapy.

Retired Lapel Button

A gold lapel button for retired soldiers will soon be available. The button is gold with enamel insignia of the Department of the Army with an olive drab annulet. That's the symbol for completeness, completion of service.

It will be inscribed "United States Army" at the top and "Retired" at the bottom.

Sales Tax Blockbuster

A decision that may have far-reaching effect was handed down by the U.S. Court of Appeals for New England recently. It said military personnel from other states do not have to pay Connecticut sales and use taxes.

The case specifically involves a protest by a Nebraska naval officer, Lt. Stanley D. Schuman, who objected to paying a $21 tax on a used boat he bought at Groton three years ago for $600. The Navy judge advocate general backed him up.

The court ruling is such that Connecticut might have to pay back any such taxes collected after June 28, 1964.

If the case goes to the U. S. Supreme Court and the ruling is upheld it could split over into most other states, since many levy sales and use taxes that apply to out-of-state residents.

Complaint of AF Reservists

Members of many Air Force Reserve units called to active duty are writing their congressmen, protesting being taken away from their units and assigned elsewhere. It's happening to a much lesser degree in the Army and Navy.

But there's no legal bar to it, the experts say, once the men are in service, although there's a limit on how long you can be kept in.

The Air Force situation stems from the fact that while tactical units are being kept pretty much intact, it was found support type units weren't really needed. So about 2,200 Air National Guardsmen and Reservists in these support units are being sent to Vietnam, Thailand, Korea and Japan to replace regulars whose tours of duty are ending there.

Another 2,700 Air Guardsmen and Reservists are being taken from their units and assigned to the worldwide assignment pool at Randolph Air Force Base, Texas.

10,000 OTHERS

The more than 10,000 others called up have either been sent overseas or assigned in the United States with their units. The Air Force says there are no plans to break up any of the units, but concedes some of them may end up pretty much as paper units with a cadre of two or three people.

The Army also is pulling men out of some units called up after the Pueblo and T-27 Offensive crises. About half of the 78 Army Guard and Reserve units mobilized in May are now being trained for Vietnam.

Indications are, that some of the first units probably will be sent out in the fall.

The Navy has a lesser problem than either the Army and Air Force in taking men out of their reserve units. Of the units called up, three have been training on the West Coast and three on the East Coast. They are primarily combat air units so they have had little drain for reassignment.

Return $1,500, Dingell Urged

DEARBORN — A Republican opponent of U.S. Rep. John Dingell, D-DeARBORN, said Wednesday he has urged Dingell to return a reported $1,500 campaign contribution from trucking industry interests.

Ezra G. J. Niparko said he made the suggestion in a letter to Dingell. Niparko said he is seeking election as the representative from Michigan's 16th district.

The Des Moines, Iowa, Register last Saturday reported Dingell and Republican James Harvey of Saginaw were among seven of nine members of a House subcommittee who firemen.

They said a window on the side of the building had been broken through and they found what appeared to be the remains of a fire-bomb at the scene.

Firemen controlled the blaze before it caused more than what was described as minor damage.

Police said they still are investigating the incident.

The new law forbids farm cooperatives to carry more than 15 percent of their total tonnage as commercial freight.

Freak Plane Mishap Kills Pilot and Wife

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press News Features

OCEANSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — A freak aircraft accident yesterday killed the pilot of a two-engine plane and his wife who was directing his work from the ground.

Witnesses said Robert Nichols, 45, a retired Marine Corps major, was at the controls of a P-4000 Cessna owned by a Costa Mesa, Calif., aviation firm.

His wife, Ann, 36, stood at the end of a lima bean field, to mark the edge of the undusted rows of plants.

Nichols' plane hit a utility wire, flipped over and hit the ground. It skidded 20 yards, struck Mrs. Nichols and hurtled her 20 feet. The craft then burst into flames.

The Nichols are survived by a 10-year-old daughter.

Thousands of Mexican Students Preparing Demonstrations

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Thousands of students are preparing demonstrations in the Mexican capital to press their charges of police brutality and violation of their traditional right of autonomy.

A spokesman said plans were going ahead for a joint demonstration by students of the University of Mexico and the Polytechnic Institute, whose buildings were invaded Monday night by army and police forces after hours of youthful violence.

The University of Mexico's rector, Javier Barros Sierra, declined to lead today's demonstrations, although on Wednesday he condemned repression of the riots early this week and ordered the Mexican flag flown at half-staff in mourning for university freedom. He said autonomy "in almost 40 years has never been so seriously menaced."

The 55,000-student university and its affiliated preparatory schools have been free from intervention by federal and local authorities, since the riots of 1928.

1,100 ARRESTED

At least one person was killed, more than 400 injured and at least 1,100 arrested in the anti-government rioting that began last Friday with a pro-Castro demonstration honoring the anniversary of the Cuban 26th of July revolution.

In the demonstrations and violence on succeeding nights to protest alleged police brutality in suppressing the first demonstration, the mobs were made up largely of prep school students 14 to 18 years old.

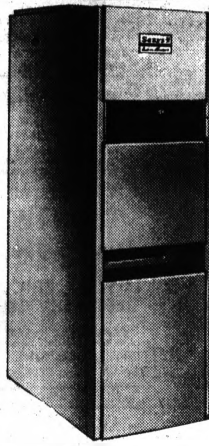

The support of older students, labor unions and others French students who had taken part in the Paris University riots in May.

Americans Responding to Plight of Starving Biafrans

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans are responding with emotion — and cash — to the plight of children reported starving on the other side of the world.

This time the victims of war are the people of Biafra, a tiny African country which seceded from Nigeria and in the ensuing fight was cut off from food and medical supplies.

Church groups and the International Red Cross long have been aware of the tragedy of the Biafrans. Millions of dollars and thousands of tons of food and other supplies have been collected around the world, much of it through U.S. churches.

The supplies, including baby food, powdered milk and eggs to meet the Biafrans' desperate need for proteins, and medical supplies, have been airlifted into Biafra's 10,000-square-mile cul de sac, surrounded by hostile territory, in a cloak-and-dagger operation — a miniature Berlin airlift.

MORE IS ON WAY

Many tons of supplies already are in African warehouses and much more is on the way.

For example, Church World Service, relief arm of the Protestant National Council of Churches, has started trucking 500,000 pounds of high-protein beans from its Saginaw, Mich., depot to Baltimore for transport by ship to Biafra.

The Biafrans get only a few plane loads of food and medicine a day because the relief planes must fly at night to avoid Nigerian government anti-aircraft fire, landing in the dark on makeshift landing strips.

Photographs showing tiny Biafrans with protruding ribs and distended

bellies of malnutrition brought sudden and dramatic results.

COMMITTEE FORMED

Three girls who had worked in Nigeria with the Peace Corps teamed up with a young Britisher, Paul Connet, formed a committee, rented a Manhattan store front and soon had donations coming in off the street for the Biafrans. They also located a more affluent donor, who paid for a full-page advertisement in the New York Times.

In its advertisement in New York, the American Committee to Keep Biafra Alive called on the government to organize an airlift to Biafra, and to persuade the Nigerian government to open the shortest possible land route for trucking in supplies to Biafra.

Negotiations for a supply road long have been stalemated.

Missing Dem Likely to Stay on Ballot

Unless the apparent death of Oakland County Clerk John D. Murphy can be established within the next few days, his name will appear on the primary ballot Tuesday as the lone Democratic candidate for the office of clerk-register of deeds.

State and county election officials said today that until death can be determined, there is no way that Murphy's name can be removed from the ballot.

Murphy, the father of six children, has been missing since Saturday when he failed to return from a boating trip to the Beaver Island group of Charlevoix. He was alone. His 14-foot craft was found overturned on Lake Michigan on Sunday.

James Chapman, state elections supervisor, said that there is a state law providing for the selection of an alternate candidate by a county political committee, in cases where a lone candidate for office dies.

STATUTE DOESN'T APPLY

The statute does not apply in Murphy's case, said Chapman, since death has not been officially established.

If his body is recovered the day before the primary, there is a possibility that the County Democratic Committee could select a substitute candidate to run in Murphy's place.

This, however, would press county election officials, who would have to print stickers with the name of the new candidate and then distribute them to each of the 400 precincts for placement on voting machines.

Should Murphy's body be found after the primary, the Democratic committee could choose a replacement to run in the Nov. 5 election against the Republican nominee for the office.

NOVEMBER BALLOT

The name of the replacement candidate would be printed on the November ballot.

If all attempts fail to find Murphy's body before the November election, his name would appear on the general election ballot unless a Probate Court is petitioned to make an official ruling on the death.

The petition can be filed with the court only after 60 days have elapsed from the time a person is presumed dead.

County Democratic Chairman George Gogans said that the committee probably would take this action. Otherwise, (Continued on Page A-2, Col. 2)

Airport Project Faces Injunction

Legal steps have been taken to prevent the Oakland County Board of Supervisors from carrying out expansion plans at the Oakland-Orion Airport until after members of a reapportioned board of supervisors take office in January.

Bernie R. Warden, a candidate for supervisor in District 22, has asked for a Circuit Court order blocking the board from implementing any plans to enlarge the airport in Orion Township into an all-weather aviation facility.

A hearing is scheduled for Wednesday before Judge Philip Pratt at 9 a.m. on Warden's request for an injunction against the board.

Warden of 1129 Doris, Pontiac Township, wants Pratt to direct the board to defer formal action on matters other than those that concern the usual operation and maintenance of existing facilities.

AWAITING APPROVAL

Presently the board of supervisors is awaiting approval of a Federal Aviation Administration master plan before beginning construction and purchasing additional land.

Some 500 acres of the estimated 1,400 needed for the expansion already have been acquired by the county.

Big Steel's Price Boosts Will Stand Despite LBJ

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The nation's top three steelmakers have posted their most sweeping price hikes in six years and say they will stand despite sharp criticism from President Johnson.

Other producers strongly hinted they would follow.

U.S. Steel Corp., Bethlehem Steel Corp., and Republic Steel Corp., the nation's No. 1, 2 and 3 steelmakers respectively, raised prices Wednesday, the day after the United Steelworkers union won its richest contract.

Related Story, Page A-2

Johnson called Bethlehem's nearly 5 per cent across-the-board hike "unreasonable" and said at a Washington news conference that it "just should not be permitted to stand."

'62 ROLLBACK RECALLED

It was the first confrontation between the federal government and the steel industry since 1962 when President John F. Kennedy forced the rollback of a general price hike.

Johnson, asked if he planned "any instruments" to compel a rollback, said,

"We urge them and reason with them and counsel with them and plead with them not to" increase prices.

Republic Steel followed Bethlehem and said it would hike its principal steel mill products 4.5 per cent and said the new labor contract was the reason. The Bethlehem and Republic increases are effective Aug. 8.

U.S. Steel, acting in a manner that has become common in the industry in the past six years, announced a selective price increase for its tin mill products, material used in making cans.

The U.S. Steel increases are effective Oct. 1.

Johnson expressed hope "other steel companies will not join this parade," saying such action would lead to a price increase of $500 million for American consumers.

Commenting on the union's billion-dollar plus settlement, Johnson said, "The terms of their settlement are high. That settlement will result in some increases in steel costs, but the announced Bethlehem price increase far exceeds any reasonable calculation of the cost of the wage settlement."

GOP Convention Will Be Open, Claims Gov. Rockefeller

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Buoyed by a favorable national poll, backers of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller claimed progress today in their battle to hold favorite sons in line against any early ballot decision on his presidential nomination at next week's GOP convention.

A Louis Harris poll that showed the New York governor could defeat the leading Democratic contenders and that Richard M. Nixon would lose to them gave the Rockefeller camp new ammunition in its effort to ward off a possible convention blitz attempt by the former vice president.

In this connection, one of Rockefeller's strategists reported that Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio had made a commitment to hold his 58-vote state delegation intact behind his favorite-son candidacy through the first two ballots.

Supporters of Nixon, the former vice president, scoffed at this claim. They noted that Rhodes has said his course will be determined by a state caucus before the convention opens Monday. They said they have what they called reliable indications that Rhodes prefers Nixon.

'DIRKSEN TO BACK NIXON'

In another development, the Chicago Tribune reported yesterday that Sen. Everett M. Dirksen will declare his support of Nixon when the Illinois Republican delegation meets Sunday in Florida.

Michigan Gov. George Romney predicted last night that Nixon does not have enough votes to win the Republican nomination on the first ballot.

Senators Shelve Fortas Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee shelved Abe Fortas' nomination as chief justice until after Labor Day despite not enough senators showed up today to take action on the appointment.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the judiciary committee, said he wouldn't try to call another meeting until Congress returns in September after the national political conventions.

The latest delay consumed more time in the fight by Fortas' foes to block the nomination by filibustering after it reaches the floor.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., opposing President Johnson's Supreme Court appointments of both Fortas and Judge Homer Thornberry, said his forces have doubled in recent weeks and claimed he has more than enough votes to keep a filibuster going indefinitely.

ONLY 5 SHOWUP

Only five members of the 16-man Senate Judiciary Committee showed up for today's meeting.

The session had been scheduled after a Southern opponents of Fortas used a Senate courtesy to force a one-week delay in committee action on the nomination last week.

At least nine members of the committee must be present to take action. Three Southern senators fighting Fortas were among the absentees who prevented action today.

Those present besides Eastland were Sens. Quentin Burdick, D-N.D., Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., George A. Smathers, D-Fla., and Hiram L. Fong, R-Hawaii.

State to Close Weigh Stations

Full-time operation of all Michigan expressway weigh stations — including one in Pontiac Township and another in Waterford Township — will cease Saturday.

While stations will be used sporadically for inspections they will not operate on regular shifts as they have in the past, according to spokesmen of the State Department of Commerce in Lansing.

Plans for the stations on a permanent basis include use for licensing purposes. This fall, all commercial vehicles will be licensed according to a new standard — the weight of the truck plus its maximum load. In the past, vehicles were licensed according to the empty weight of the vehicle.

The weigh stations will be used extensively in determining the new licensing weights, according to Lyle Stephens, assistant chief of Enforcement for the State Public Service Commission.

LEGISLATIVE ACTION

The shuffle in the use of the stations and the gradual phasing out of their role as now conceived is a result of a bill passed July 1 by Michigan legislators. The bill integrated weighmaster responsibilities with those of the public service division of the Department of Commerce.

Commerce Department spokesmen said some weigh stations will be closed completely. Others, including the Pontiac Township and Waterford stations, will operate on sporadic schedules.

The Pontiac Township station is on I-75 near the Baldwin Road exit, while the station in Waterford Township is on Dixie Highway near Walton.

Voter Guide-Tomorrow

Candidates in Oakland County's primary election Tuesday will be spotlighted in a special section of The Pontiac Press tomorrow.

The 16-page voters' guide covers the races for Congress, Michigan House of Representatives, District Courts, and Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

Among the 20 workers affected by the cutback across the state are six employed at the Pontiac Township and Waterford Township stations. They will have to work elsewhere, and at least two of them aren't happy about the move.

OTHER JOBS

Commerce Department Director of Personnel Herbert DeJonge said all former weigh station workers will be offered other jobs with the state, but Richard Loftus and Norbert Smith, workers at the Pontiac Township Station, claim the state is reneging on its promise of job security.

DeJonge said the consolidation of duties has been in the making for many years.

Raccoons Gone; 1 May Be Rabid

A raccoon under quarantine at the Drayton Plains Nature Center for suspicion of rabies is missing.

Jim Shea, manager of the center, said two youths were seen leaving the building where animals are kept about 11 p.m. Tuesday. He discovered two raccoons missing when he investigated.

"One of the raccoons came to us from the animal shelter to be quarantined," he said. "I understand it bit someone and the shelter does not have quarantine facilities."

GOP Unit Starts Hewing Its Platform Planks Today

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Republican platform will call for a smaller U.S. role in the Vietnam war, but will say American forces should not be pulled out without a satisfactory settlement.

It will bear down hard on crime in the streets and organized underworld activity, insisting on more leeway for enforcement methods.

These were among the clear indications of the mood of the Republican platform committee, which winds up its hearings today and begins writing the document the GOP presidential candidate will take to the voters in November.

ROMNEY APPEARS

A onetime major figure in this year's nomination race, Gov. George Romney of Michigan, today offered recommendations for the platform ranging from a Vietnam policy to revision of labor laws.

Romney called in prepared testimony for a declaration of conscience pleading action at every level in behalf of "the legal and moral equality of citizens."

The platform-writers go to work today on a tentative draft.

Viet, Steel Price Hike Cause Johnson Concern

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says the nation can expect a massive attack by the enemy in Vietnam and possible "dire economic consequences" at home over a steel price boost.

The President says he is discouraged over the infiltration and troop buildup by North Vietnam in the South and lack of response, so far, to the U.S. bombing restraint.

But, he expressed hope the enemy will match the restraint and that the attack, which he said appears imminent against major south vietnamese cities "could be aborted."

Related Stories, Page D-8

He cautioned Hanoi that the U.S. might have to act promptly with additional military measures if they "put our men in danger."

NEWS CONFERENCE

Calling an impromptu news conference in the Cabinet Room of the White House late yesterday afternoon, the President issued a blast at Bethlehem Steel Corp. for its announced 5 percent across-the-board price increase effective Aug. 8.

Pointing to the possible inflationary consequences from pricing decision he said could affect the entire economy, Johnson declared:

C. of C. Schedules Summer Meeting

The Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual summer meeting next Wednesday at Spring Lake Country Club, 9960 Maybree, Independence Township.

Included in the 12-5 p.m. ticket price are a round of golf, a plate lunch and buffet dinner with dinner music and door prizes.

Two-off times may be reserved for any time after 8 a.m. by calling the country club.

Tickets are available at the Chamber of Commerce office, 33 W. Huron.

"Inflation for steel is inflation for the nation."

Johnson said he hoped other steel companies "will not join this parade" and that competitive factors would then "bring about a readjustment on the action the Bethlehem company has taken."

The 42-minute session with reporters, longer than usual, covered only a few topics.

DISCUSSIONS NOMINATIONS

The President concentrated on Vietnam and the economy.

But he also spoke out publicly for the first time—and at length—on his controversial nominations of Abe Fortas to be chief justice and Homer Thornberry as an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

Johnson said he thought he promoted

"two good men", both judged highly qualified by the American Bar Association. "I have no doubt but what a very substantial majority in the Senate believes them qualified," he added.

Johnson had an answer for a group of Senate Republicans who oppose the appointments by Johnson because it is an election year and he is, they say, a lame duck President.

He said he didn't believe many senators wanted him to withhold Supreme Court nominations six or seven months "or that I should play that I was not President" for the remainder of his term.

On the peace talks, he said, "We continue to hope for the best." Johnson said he had deescalated the bombing of North Vietnam and he wanted to give the other side all the time necessary to consider a response.

the party would be left without a candidate for the high county office.

FIRST DEM IN POST

When elected in 1964, Murphy, 54, of 420 Marals, Clawson, became the first Democrat to hold the position.

If a judge or a jury would have to rule on the question of death, there would still be ample time to place the name of another candidate on the ballot.

Meanwhile, the vacancy will be filled by an appointee selected by Oakland County Circuit court judges.

It is not known when they would make the appointment.

WOULD SERVE UNTIL '69

The appointed clerk would serve in office until Jan. 1, 1969, when the winner of the November election takes office.

The U.S. Coast Guard in Charlevoix yesterday abandoned its full-scale search for Murphy.

Following the announcement, Murphy's wife said that she has given up hope that her husband would be found alive.

"Too much time has gone by," she said. "The longer it gets, the worse you know the news will be."

'Useless' Checks Object of Reward

DETROIT (AP) — The Bankers Dispatch Corp., which ferries canceled checks between Michigan banks, has offered a $300 reward to the finder of a package of $34 million worth of non-negotiable canceled checks.

"They're not worth anything to anyone but us," said Tom Crowley Jr., an insurance adjuster for a firm that insures the service.

"All the checks are on microfilm," Crowley said, "but if the bank has to make copies of them, the cost could run into tens of thousands of dollars."

Snag Develops at Meetings of Soviets, Czechs

PRAGUE (AP) — A last-minute snag developed at the conference of Soviet and Czechoslovak leaders, possibly over the wording of the final communiqué, and the two sides held another night session yesterday. Still another meeting was expected today.

The Politburo of the Soviet Communist party and the Czechoslovak party's presidium began meeting Monday at the little railway junction of Cerna, on the Soviet-Czechoslovak border.

The new leaders of the Czechoslovak party have been defending their moves liberalizing the party's control against Soviet demands for a return to tight control and obedience to dictates from Moscow.

The meetings at first were expected to last only two days, but they continued yesterday.

TALKS RESUME

The talks resumed last night after Czechoslovak sources reported they had ended and newsmen went to Cerna for a news conference at which they expected to get the conference communiqué. When they got to Cerna, they were told the news conference had been canceled.

Soviet party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev missed the conference day sessions Wednesday reportedly because of a slight illness, but informants said he attended the session Wednesday night. He also had received Alexander Dubcek, the Czechoslovak party chief and leader of the new liberalization program, at lunchtime aboard the Soviet delegation's special train.

Although Czechoslovak reports earlier in the conference were largely optimistic, some local observers feared that the delay could mean a serious clash of views had developed.

However, some sources expressed belief that the Soviet negotiators have softened their opposition toward Czechoslovakia's special road to socialism.

It was noted that Soviet newspapers yesterday, for the first time in days, did not publish their own editorial attacks against Czechoslovakia but limited themselves to reprinting criticism by other Communist parties which side with the Kremlin.

Texas Blast Burns 32

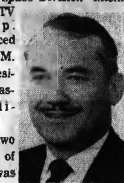

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A gasoline storage tank exploded last night, rocketing a huge fireball into the air and burning 32 persons.

Four of the injured were reported in critical condition today. Hospitalized people were under treatment overnight.

LTV Division Head Named

BIRMINGHAM — Appointment of Harry M. Graham, 26-year company veteran, as vice president-manager for the Missiles and Space Division—Michigan Facility of LTV Aerospace Corp. has been announced by Dr. Gerald M. Monroe, vice president of the Dallas-headquartered division.

For the past two years Graham of 7286 Cathedral was vice president for both the Texas and Michigan facilities of the division. He moved his headquarters to Michigan, in the Michigan Army Missile Plant in Sterling Heights, several months ago.

In making the announcement, Dr. Monroe said Graham's extensive background in missile development and technical program direction greatly augments management capabilities of the division.

A native of Saskatchewan, Canada, Graham received a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Saskatchewan in 1945 and a master's degree in the subject from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1948.

He attended MIT on a scholarship and was graduated with honors, receiving an award from the Engineering Institute of Canada and being elected to the Sigma Xi Honorary Society.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS—Mayor William Shaw will keynote the dedication program tomorrow at the new Gehring-Forsyth Building at 1700 Woodward.

Building owners Charlie Gehring (formerly of the Detroit Tigers) and Raymond Forsyth will be on hand to help open the new office complex.

A public open house will be also held in the million-dollar three-story building from 2 to 5 p.m.

Susan Jean Straight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard O. Straight of 2673

Bloomfield Township has been awarded the silver wings of an American Airlines stewardess and has now been assigned to flight duty out of Washington, D.C.

She received her wings as a graduate in the 17th class this MISS STRAIGHT year at the American Airlines Stewardess College, Fort Worth, Tex.

Miss Straight graduated from Seaboard High School in 1966. She attended Northwestern Michigan College.

Ol' Sol Was in July Rut

Looks like Ol' Sol's in a rut weatherwise. His beaming tan-toasting rays favored Oakland County residents with 24 days of sunshine both in July '67 and last month.

This year during July, however, rain clouds sent picnickers scurrying for cover nine days in comparison to last July's seven.

Total rainfall for the month was 5.10 inches, more than double the previous July's 2.35 inches. Farmers, gardeners and conservationists welcomed the respite from summer drought that has plagued the area for the last decade.

The lowest July rainfall during the 1960s (.98 inches) was chalked up in 1960.

93 IS HIGH

Last month's high of 93 degrees was reached July 17. It was two degrees warmer than the July '67 high.

As temperatures slid to a monthly low of 48 degrees on the 2nd and 3rd, area residents whirled thermostat dials to take the chill off their homes. Last July's low was 51 degrees.

Mean temperature for July 1968 was 72.5 degrees, compared to the previous July's 70.58.

Upsets Thin Tennis Ranks

Juniors Seek National Title

Prep Champion Falls in Third Round

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Upsets thinned the ranks of seeded players Wednesday in the third round of singles in the National Juniors and Boys Tennis Championships at Kalamazoo.

An aggressive Steve Krulvitz of Baltimore scored the tournament's first major surprise, beating sixth-seeded junior Charlie Owens, national interscholastic champion from Tuscaloosa, Ala., 9-7, 7-5.

Bud Gion of Santa Monica, Calif., upset 15th-ranked junior Ron Cornell of Oakland, Calif., 6-2, 9-7.

In today's fourth round Krulvitz meets ninth-seeded Mac Clafin of Coral Gables, Fla., Guion plays top seeded F. D. Robbins of Salt Lake City.

Krulvitz and Guion are not ranked among the 16 leading juniors in the tournament.

Clafin won over Mike Kreiss of Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-1, 8-4 and Robbins whipped Mike Chudwick of Houston, Tex., 6-2, 6-0 in third round matches.

Two seeded players also were eliminated Wednesday in the third round of boys singles. Charles Emley Jr., San Antonio, Tex., defeated 11-ranked James Hagey of La Jolla, Calif., 6-1, 7-9, 6-1, and Bruce King of Mobile, Ala., defeated 12th-seeded James Delaney of San Francisco 2-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Emley was to play third-seeded Brian Gottfried of Cape Coral, Fla., and King was to meet eighth-seeded John Andrews of Fullerton, Calif., in the fourth round.

Jimmy Connors of St. Louis, top seeded in boys singles, defeated Kevin Senich of Parma, Ohio, 6-1, 6-1. Connors was to play 10th seeded Jake Ward of Denver today.

Negro Vote Reveals No Olympic Boycott

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (UPI) — Harry Edwards' dream of leading a Negro boycott of the 1968 Olympic Games apparently vanished into thin air today.

Lee Evans, one of Edwards' prime backers in the boycott movement, which began nearly a year ago and caused all sorts of problems for the U.S. Olympic track and field committee, pulled the rug out when he revealed a secret vote taken a month ago in Los Angeles showed nearly 100 per cent of the Negro athletes eligible for the team wanted to participate in the games.

Edwards, a former associate professor of sociology at San Jose State College, was supposed to reveal the outcome of the Los Angeles vote at a news conference in San Francisco three weeks ago, but instead chose to keep everyone guessing.

"We have decided not to tell you what we are going to do," Edwards said at the time. "We will tell you when we decide the right time."

Goalby Named in Suit

CHICAGO (AP)—A California promoter sued Robert Goalby, 1968 Masters Open Golf Tournament champion, Wednesday for $112,750 for allegedly violating a contract to play exhibitions.

The suit was brought in Circuit Court by John N. Murray, of San Mateo, Calif., who stated he made an agreement with Goalby May 23 through Consulting Services, Inc., an Akron, Ohio, firm. Murray said Goalby, 37, president of the firm, still is holding the contract. The firm and Murray also are defendants.

Murray declared Goalby, 37, had agreed to play seven exhibition matches with Ken Venturi, also 37, a professional golfer under contract to Murray.

After two appearances, the suit stated, Goalby refused to appear in the remaining matches.

Murray asked an award of $100,000 damages plus $12,750 he said he spent in arranging the promotion of the series.

Her Husband Turns Trips Into Voyages

By JOE STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — It is about 200 miles between New York and Washington, and some motorists can make the trip in as little as four hours. It takes us 10.

That's because my husband has a yen for taking ferryboats. If there isn't a ferry where we are going, we go where there is a ferry.

Thus on a recent trip to the nation's capital, we disdained the direct mode of travel via turnpike and expressway in our eternal pursuit of a ferryboat route.

Instead we traversed the entire coastline of New Jersey, all the way down to Cape May where, by diligent map study, my would-be sailor had located a ferry that took us from New Jersey to Delaware. From there it was only a roundabout trip of some hours before we reached our destination.

PERSONAL AFFRONT

En route to Florida we always drove down to the tip of the Delmarva Peninsula, from which point we were waterborne in slow splendor across Chesapeake Bay. When they built the 17-mile-long Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel a few years ago and eliminated that ferry, what others regarded as an engineering marvel, my husband regarded as a personal affront.

The next time we went down that way, we traveled a couple of hundred extra miles in order to take a ferry he had discovered in Wilmington, N.C.

There is always some heated debate between us as to whether the ferries he has ferreted out are seaworthy. I always take the negative.

On one occasion we rode a vessel so tiny that it resembled a raft. It was so small it wouldn't even hold the car, but that didn't deter my determined spouse. We left the family vehicle behind and went to an island and back just for the ride.

NOT MUCH DANGER

When we do manage to get the car onto a boat, I am always convinced that we are going to drive straight into the water when we leave it. Actually there is not much danger of this as my chauffeur is usually not even at the wheel when we make landfall. He always insists on getting out, no matter how short the trip, to view the passing scenery and is usually not back by the time the chains are down and the attendants are motioning impatiently for the car to move.

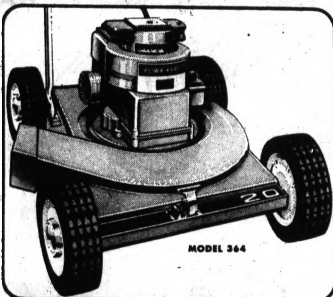

Each time my husband reads that a new bridge is being built and an old ferry is being dropped, he reacts as though a favorite uncle had died.

Outwardly I commiserate with him, but inwardly I smile. I'm all for progress.
