Workmen Return to Eastern Docks

President Uses T-H Injunction, Getting 80 Days

Strike Halted, Allowing ILA and New AFL Unit to Iron Out Troubles

NEW YORK (AP)—Longshoremen went back to work on New York docks bright and early today.

They did this in compliance with a court order halting their "no contract, no work" strike in east coast ports.

In hiring shapeups at several piers, several hundred members of both the International Longshoremen's Association which was recently evicted from the AFL and members of a new rival AFL unit reported for duty speedily and without incident.

There were no mixed work gangs, however, for the rival unions control workers at different piers.

The court order issued last night enjoining further strike activity for 80 days under Taft-Hartley Law provisions left unsettled the basic jurisdictional dispute between the ILA and the new AFL organization.

At two piers 11 gangs of longshoremen got busy handling baggage and supplies for the liners Andrea Doria, scheduled to sail at noon, and the Constitution, departing tonight.

At a third pier the Swedish-American liner Gripsholm was snugged into her berth, the first passenger vessel to dock since issuance of the court order.

Earlier in the day tug boat crews who had struck in sympathy with the ILA-work stoppage had reported for duty and started moving in ships which had been forced to anchor in the harbor during the five-day strike which cost an estimated 7½ million dollars in New York.

Crop of Marihuana Is Found on Farm

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A $200,000 marihuana crop has been located on a farm "somewhere in Washtenaw County," vice squad officers revealed here today.

Officers said the crop, which would wholesale at $33,000, was discovered after persistent reports of its existence over the past five months.

The name of the farmer and location of the crop was withheld pending a decision on prosecution.

The farmer was quoted as saying he knew the marihuana was growing on his property but that he "just hadn't got around to pulling the weed."

Expect Break in Kidnaping

Missing Family Friend Causes Speculation That Negotiations Are Afoot

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A missing spokesman at the home of the wealthy parents of 6-year-old Bobby Greenleaf aroused more speculation today that a break might come any time now in the nine-day-old kidnaping case.

The spokesman, Robert Ledterman of Tulsa, hasn't been seen at the home of the 71-year-old father, Robert C. Greenleaf, since early Sunday morning.

Other associates of the family have met all queries about Ledterman with the statement that he was resting and couldn't be disturbed.

Ledterman, because of his close ties with the family, frequently has been mentioned as a possible intermediary. Stirring more mystery about the quiet efforts of the family to get their son back was a visit to the home last night by President Eisenhower's banker-brother.

Arthur B. Eisenhower spent 15 minutes at the home. As he left he told newsmen he could give them no information. He declined to say whether Ledterman was in the house.

Earlier in the day a nurse at the home said she hadn't seen Ledterman around yesterday.

Last week, when Joseph Williams, president of the Commerce Trust Co., visited the home the father said he had made arrangements to get money day or night to meet ransom demands. Eisenhower is executive vice president of the same bank.

Indians Won't Attempt to Halt POW Breakout

Senior Officer in Korea Says Terrible Slaughter Would Follow

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The senior Indian officer in Korea said today that Indian troops would not attempt to halt a mass breakout of anti-Communist war prisoners because of the "terrible slaughter" that would follow.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya made the statement at a news conference even as thousands jammed streets in the South Korean capital of Seoul in a demonstration against Indians guarding POWs who have refused to go home.

It also came amid renewed threats by South Korean leaders to drive out the Indians, whom they denounce as pro-Communist.

Thimayya said, "We are not concerned if South Korea threatens us because we have the huge U. N. Command" and Communist forces "at our disposal."

He said the U. N. Command was responsible for preventing South Korean troops from entering the neutral zone to attack Indian forces.

Thimayya did not comment on a letter sent to him today by Gen. Mark W. Clark in which the retiring Far East commander said the United Nations will not waver from the principle of freedom of choice for the 23,000 anti-Communist prisoners in Indian custody.

Clark said the U. N. had shed blood to win that right and will not compromise.

Clark accused the five-nation repatriation commission—of which India is chairman—of working on the false idea that the reluctant prisoners "actually desire repatriation."

Thimayya said it was "highly likely" that the long-delayed interviewing of the balking POWs would begin next Tuesday.

Allied and Communist teams were to begin meeting Sept. 26 with the prisoners in an attempt to persuade them to return home, but a dispute over (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Court Bolsters Parking Efforts

State Supreme Jurists Uphold Use of Meter Revenue for City Lots

Local efforts to establish municipal off-street parking with meter revenue received an apparent legal boost Monday when the Michigan Supreme Court upheld similar action by Detroit.

The Supreme Court ruled out a suit by two Detroit citizens attempting to block the proposed transfer of $216,000 from that city's parking meter funds, to construct municipal off-street parking facilities.

Pontiac City Attorney William A. Ewart stated today that the court action sets a precedent for the use of meter revenues which would undoubtedly sustain any similar action by our Commission.

Ewart said the court had apparently recognized the need for off-street parking in crowded areas and broadened the use to which meter revenues can be put to relieve traffic congestion.

Pontiac has already had a favorable decision from Oakland County Circuit Court upholding Commission action this year to establish two off-street lots with the aid of parking meter revenues.

To build the lots, an emergency amendment to the 1953 appropriations ordinance was adopted, earmarking an estimated $54,000 in parking meter revenues for the purpose.

Additional provision was made for an allocation of unappropriated surplus funds totaling $103,890 to pay the cost of acquiring and developing the sites.

Circuit Judges Frank L. Doty and H. Russel Holland dismissed a subsequent suit which claimed the amended ordinance was invalid.

Adds Up to Thirteen

Australian Grandmother Gives Birth to Quadruplets

SYDNEY, Australia (UP)—A grandmother gave birth today to quadruplets in a farming town 326 miles northwest of Sydney and the father started hunting for an extra tent to solve his housing problem.

Mrs. Ethel Hudson, 38, was almost sure she was going to bear twins when her husband, Ellis, 40, a contractor, took her to the maternity ward in the Gilgandra District Hospital.

The trip to the maternity ward was not a new journey for Mrs. Hudson. She had had five children by her first husband, who was killed in World War II, and four by Hudson.

Like the old lady in the shoe, the Hudsons had so many children they did not know what to do—at least as far as housing them was concerned.

So they had settled down in two big tents on the outskirts of town. Mrs. Hudson was not surprised, then, when Dr. Trevor Williams delivered a 2 lb. 13 ounce boy and a 3 lb. 13 ounce girl.

She was somewhat flustered when the third child, a 3 lb. 10 ounce girl, was born and downright flabbergasted when she gave birth to the fourth child, a 3 lb. 5 ounce daughter.

Hudson, too, had expected twins. He received the news with alternating skepticism and good humor: "I suppose I'll have to buy another tent," he said.

1st Korean Prisoner Returns to Pontiac

Sgt. Martin A. Strahan Jr., 33, believed to be the first American military man captured in the Korean war, has returned to Pontiac.

A veteran of major battles in World War II, Strahan was captured the afternoon of July 5, 1950, just four days after the first ground forces landed in Korea. This was just 10 hours after the first clash of American and North Korean ground troops near Osan.

The son of Mrs. William Larson of 566 Lenox Ave., Strahan was released by the Reds on Aug. 28. He was a member of Co. B, 21st Regiment, 24th Division.

U. S. Considers Non-War Pact

Dulles Says Agreement With Russia One Way to Ease Tensions

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the United States is considering a possible non-aggression pact with Russia as one of a variety of ways to ease world tensions.

Dulles emphasized at a news conference that the United States and its allies are urgently looking for ways to ease these tensions because of constantly increasing destructive power of weapons.

He said this government is working with a great sense of urgency on the entire question, realizing that the stakes are greater now than ever before in history.

Dulles said that, as the danger increases, it becomes more necessary than ever to try to probe Russian capabilities and intentions. The idea of non-aggression guarantees is now centered primarily on the problem of West German rearmament, but Dulles said the United States might be willing to extend assurances also to cover Korea and Austria.

He said Germany, Korea and Austria are the areas of greatest concern because Communist and non-Communist forces are in close proximity there.

Dulles emphasized several times that the idea of a non-aggression pact is only one of several means under consideration.

He centered his remarks on non-aggression guarantees on Germany, where prospects are brighter for approval of the European defense community plan envisioning West German rearmament.

He said non-aggression assurances might be given in regard to Germany, even though the United Nations charter calls on all signatories to refrain from the threat or use of force against each other.

Calls on West to Insure Safety With Strength

Describes Horrors of Modern Destruction to Churchwomen

ATLANTIC CITY (AP)—President Eisenhower summoned his countrymen today to strive faithfully for "a firm and just and durable peace" lest the world slip into its other alternative—"terror and death" through H-bomb warfare.

And, while the path to peace is followed "slowly and tortuously," he said, "we and our friends in the free world must build, maintain and pay for a military might assuring us reasonable safety from attack."

Eisenhower addressed a churchwomen's assembly and, in broad outline, sketched the world situation as he sees it and the course to be followed if the world is to avert the threat of "sudden and mass destruction, erasure of cities, windrows of unidentified dead, the possible doom of every nation and society."

"This horror must not be," he said, adding: "This titanic force must be reduced to the fruitful service of mankind."

"If it is within the power of your leaders, with God's help, it will be done."

Eisenhower flew to Atlantic City this morning to address the sixth National Assembly of the United Church Women of the National Council of Churches of Christ.

The country's firmness of faith and soundness of family life, he said, are the foundations on which its world leadership depend.

"We must certainly make sure that all the world comprehends, in simplest terms, the paramount alternatives of our day," Eisenhower declared.

"The first of these alternatives is a wasteful and devastating contest in the production of weapons of inconceivable power."

"The other alternative is a world ever advancing in peace and prosperity through the cooperative effort of its nations and peoples."

FBI Agents Arrest 6 Communist Officials

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell today announced a roundup of six additional officials of the Communist party. The arrests were made by FBI agents in Cleveland, Lorain and Steubenville, Ohio, and Newark, N. J.

In addition, the announcement said a detainee had been placed against another party functionary now serving time in the Ohio State Penitentiary at Columbus for fictitious car registration.

All of those involved were described as now holding or having held positions in the Communist Party apparatus in the Midwest. All were charged under the Smith Act with conspiracy to advocate the violent overthrow of the United States government.

The new move represents a continued effort to get into custody second-string leaders of the party.

Car Listings Put Oakland With 35 Top U.S. Counties

Oakland County topped 80 out of 115 leading counties in the nation last year in automobile registrations.

Automobile Manufacturers Association's new edition of "Automobile Facts and Figures" placed Oakland's registrations at 150,113 on July 1, 1952. Based on the county's estimated 1952 population of 449,600, this meant that one out of every three residents owned a car.

Furthermore, the publication showed that there was an average of at least one car in every family.

The 115 counties listed in the survey either contained at least one city of 100,000 population or had a total population of more than 300,000.

Oakland County's passenger car registrations were higher than those in counties containing the cities of New Orleans and Boston.

In truck registrations the county ranked 39th, with truck registrations totaling 15,065.

Los Angeles County, Calif., led in total registrations, with cars totaling 1,679,071 and trucks, 205,745. New York and Chicago areas followed in that order.

Wayne County held 4th place, with 738,876 cars and 79,546 truck registrations. (See related story on page 25.)

Gentlemen's Agreement Suffers Another Delay at Birmingham Meeting

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM—A "gentlemen's agreement" on the zoning to be given the 40-acre Troy Township land within the city, if it is annexed, suffered another delay last night.

The W. E. Reid Development Co. submitted to the commission a revised agreement for the Porritt property incorporating crosswalks and easements the city commission recommended Sept. 21.

Last night the commission requested further revision to include a guarantee of parking land, and ruling out multiple dwelling or terrace construction.

The company plans a shopping center and duplex housing project if the city will zone it to allow such development.

Commissioner Vincent Watkins explained that although the intention of the Reid firm is well understood, the commission wants the assurance that other possible owners of the land could not violate this intention.

The entire arrangement is not legally binding and outlines only intended zoning action, since the present commission cannot bind future commissions.

No action was taken on the agreement subject to further negotiation between Mayor Ralph Main, City Planner Robert Boatman and company officials.

Board Okays Dumping Lease

Commerce Acreage to Be Used for Tri-Towns Garbage Disposal

Approval to lease a 70-acre site in Commerce Township for a dumping area was given yesterday by Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

The board, which holds its next meeting Oct. 2 at 9:30 a.m. in Oakland County Office Building, 1 Lafayette St., also passed the 1954 county budget.

The budget of $6,049,507.30 for next year was adopted exactly as the ways and means committee, headed by Fred W. Smith of Royal Oak, presented it.

Saginaw Valley Planning Commission's letter asking $400 as the county's share of its $10,000 budget for 1954 was referred to the ways and means committee. Supervisors voted to pay the board's $50 dues in Michigan State Association of Supervisors for 1954.

Supervisors approved transfer of the title to 70 acres of Commerce Township land to the Oakland County Road Commission. The resolution, offered by James L. Gardner, Commerce supervisor, authorized the commission to lease the land for 10 years to the Tri-Township Garbage and Refuse Disposal Authority as a supervised dump for Commerce, West Bloomfield and White Lake.

Lloyd Anderson, Waterford supervisor, asked the drain commission to act as soon as possible on the petition filed to establish a minimum water level for Sylvan Lake.

Anderson said dry weather has caused the shoreline to recede 10 to 15 feet all around and 50 feet in some places, with "severe damage to property."

Lewis C. Jarrendt was re-appointed county civil defense director for the rest of this year and 1954 and his name submitted to Gov. G. Mennen Williams for approval.

The road commission was told not to develop any of its allotted land at the county center along West boulevard until the building and grounds committee and planning commission can re-study some 50 acres of land recently bought from the state.

Harry W. Horton, buildings and grounds chairman, said the new land lies just south of the other site. He explained the county hopes to keep all heavy trucking operations along the fringes of the county center.

Robert O. Felt, commission chairman, told Horton the commission would like to meet with his committee before any definite plans are made.

In Fink's case, especially, the court said the inmate was sent to prison under a law requiring curative treatment. But, it said, Fink spent his time in Southern Michigan Prison and at Ionia as a laundry worker and nurse.

The Supreme Court said the state had no authority to hold Colin any longer. He had been sentenced in Detroit Nov. 6, 1925, for a burglary and was paroled the following year. He broke his parole and disappeared.

The court said that Colin had served several prison sentences in other states since then and that in 1934 and 1937 Michigan had refused to bring him back to complete his sentence here, pleading lack of funds for the trip.

In 1951, he was returned and ordered to serve his maximum sentence, expiring next July 11.

The court said Colin's maximum sentence began to run when the state had a chance to regain custody of him and failed to do so.

In another case, the state lost an attempt to pin a cigarette bootlegging conspiracy charge on five men arrested Dec. 15, 1951, in a state police blockade in Berrien County.

The court upheld the trial court and said there was no proof the men intended to dispose of the cigarettes in Michigan in violation of the state cigarette tax law.

They could have been shipping the cigarettes across Michigan in interstate commerce, the justices said.

The Supreme Court did not pass on the constitutionality of the cigarette tax.

Operation Cover-Up

Garbage Disposal, Fill-In Big Boon for Birmingham

By HARRY REED

Of Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM — Operation Cover-Up might be well the code word for the expanding usage of the Birmingham-owned Walker Gravel Pit located in Troy Township.

With part of the tract under consideration as a green belt screening nearby residence from proposed industrial development, a hog disease turned the site into a very valuable and necessary place.

Hog farms used by many neighboring municipalities including Birmingham, for garbage disposal were quarantined.

Beyond the quarantine, Birmingham's former disposal farm in Avon township was ruled out of existence by the township board, making the problem more than just a temporary one.

As a member of the Southeastern Oakland County Garbage and Rubbish Authority, Birmingham's disposal problems will be solved by the construction of the authority's incinerator, but this will not be in operation until next July.

The immediate solution was the leasing of the site on Maple road for garbage and rubbish disposal by sanitary land-fill method.

By this method, a large ditch is dug, and refuse bulldozed into it as delivered. This is covered each night with earth, and as a final precaution, a DDT spray and an additional two feet of earth eventually bury the material.

Under lease provisions, no burning is allowed, nothing may be dumped above the ground, and dumping must begin at the north end of the site and progress toward Maple road.

Larger items such as slabs of concrete, discarded construction materials and machinery or equipment measuring more than 6 feet long or 6 inches in thickness are refused.

A rate of charges for non-garbage and rubbish Authority users of the dump has been set up, to help defray the cost of excavating, covering and maintenance of the project.

Residents of member municipalities are not exempt from fees by virtue of their city's membership in the authority. Birmingham City Manager Donald C. Egbert has stated.

Cities and townships which are members of the authority, and Troy Township are charged on the basis of the amount of materials disposed of with relation to the total cost of operation.

The entire project is viewed as both necessary from the garbage disposal problem, and highly desirable by the Birmingham City Commission.

"It would cost the city several thousand dollars to clean up the property the way it would have to some day," Commissioner Lance Minor has stated, "and this way we're getting it all filled in and leveled for us."

Under the lease, Birmingham will receive $5,000 for the use of the site. The lease will expire in 18 months, regardless of whether the incinerator is finished or not.

To date, authority members Clawson, Berkeley, Oak Park, Hazel Park, Troy Township and Birmingham are using the site. Trucks from Royal Oak expected to start hauling in the near future.

Do Reds Have H-Bomb Ready-to-Go? --- Officials Differ

WASHINGTON (UP) — Contradictory statements from three high officials today produced a new peak of public confusion about the size of Russia's H-bomb arsenal.

In direct conflict were Chairman W. Sterling Cole of the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, who said Russia has "H-bombs-plural," and Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson, who said he is "assuming" that neither Russia nor the United States "has the hydrogen bomb yet."

Third contributor to the prevailing confusion was defense mobilization Arthur S. Flemming, who said in a weekend report that Russia is now "capable of delivering suddenly and without warning the most destructive weapon ever devised by man on chosen targets in the United States."

He first told reporters he meant H-bombs, but later said he had not intended to credit Russia with a stockpile of completed hydrogen weapons.

The Atomic Energy Commission, whose secret intelligence reports presumably are equally available to Cole, Peterson and Flemming, declined to comment on the various declarations. The only official AEC statement on the matter was issued Aug. 20, and merely confirmed that Russia had set off a hydrogen explosion.

The AEC did not say then, and has refused to say since, whether the Soviet explosion involved a cumbersome test "device" or a finished weapon that could be delivered on a target.

Likewise, the AEC has never said whether the United States has any "deliverable" H-bombs.

The assumption has been widespread that this country is now producing actual weapons, but all that is known for certain is that

Ike Sees Strength as Basis for Peace

six days after he told his news conference he planned to make a frank report of the new dangers confronting the free world since Russia demonstrated its ability to touch off a hydrogen explosion.

The President stressed that "a firm and just and durable peace" must come before atomic energy can be devoted to peaceful use. He added:

"Such a peace cannot be achieved suddenly by force, by edict or by treaty. It can come only slowly and tortuously. It will not be won by dark threats or glittering slogans. It will be born only of courage, knowledge, patience, leadership.

"To arrive faithfully for this peace — even as our science constantly develops new methods of mass destruction — imposes upon us a host of intricate labors.

"We and our friends in the free world must build, maintain and pay for a military might assuring us reasonable safety from attack. From this position of secure confidence, we must seek to know and respond to the legitimate aspirations and hopes of all peoples."

The President told the churchwomen that "in the terrifying nakedness of the battlefield, the faith and the spirit of men are the keys to survival and victory."

"The present and the future demand men and women who are firm in their faith in our country and unwavering in their service to her," Eisenhower said.

"I deeply believe that one of the supreme hopes for the world's destiny lies in the American community: Its moral values, its sense of order and decency, its cooperative spirit."

The country can make itself worthy of freedom, he went on, "by making each life, each home, each community more worthy of the trust it bears for all mankind."

Harking back to his inaugural address of last January, the President said his whole message rested on "one truth" which he enunciated then:

"Whatever America hopes to bring to pass in the world, must first come to pass in the heart of America."

Eisenhower told the churchwomen:

"It is within your power to reach for — and to attain — that day when you and all your neighbors can proudly say:

"Here we are faithful to freedom."

"Here in this town, our public schools are staffed and equipped to train our children splendidly to be free and responsible citizens."

"Here our teachers, loyal citizens of their free country, enjoy freedom of thought, untrammelled by political fashion or expediency."

"Here our libraries contain everything that can add to man's enlightenment and understanding — respecting common decency but disdaining any other censorship."

"Here our ministers and Sunday school teachers command the respect that they so justly earn in teaching our sons and daughters the love of God."

Free 799 More Germans

HERLESHOUSEN, Germany (UP) — A triumphal welcome greeted 799 more German prisoners of war as they passed through this West German border point today after years of internment in the Soviet Union.

They (the Russians) will have one; but I am afraid it will not be too many months away."

Cole, on the other hand, had told a reporter earlier that talk about Russia's having only a hydrogen "device" was purely wishful thinking.

He said flatly that Russia now has "deliverable H-bombs" in plural quantity, and that American cities are in "real and imminent danger."

Flemming's statement, in a mobilization report to President Eisenhower, also carried the clear implication of more than one Russian H-bomb in ready-to-go form. But after the issuance of the report created a stir of interest, he protested that interpretation and said he had not intended to go beyond the Aug. 20 AEC announcement.

2 Auto Crashes Take 9 Lives

5 Perish Near Saginaw as Car Hits Abutment; 4 Die at Sarnia

SARNIA, Ont., (UP) — Violent, multiple death that so often rides in automobiles jumped the international boundary from Michigan last night and took four lives here. It had claimed five near Saginaw, Mich., only hours before.

Members of three generations of one family were killed in a smash-up on the outskirts of Sarnia, and three persons were critically injured.

Two cars hit head-on, police said, when Arnold Wiles, 43, attempted to pass a truck and pulled into the path of an oncoming car driven by Jack Miller, 23.

Wiles, driving three women and a baby home from a bingo game, was killed. So were two of the women and the baby. Miller and his passenger, Ambrose Stark, 33, were critically hurt. All those involved lived here.

The only person in Wiles' car to survive was Mrs. Pauline Kettle, 18, whose six-month-old daughter, mother, Mrs. Mary Walsh, 42, and grandmother, Mrs. Julia O'Connell, 62, were killed. Doctors said shortly after the accident that Mrs. Kettle was so seriously hurt she might not live.

Five were killed outside Saginaw on M13 as a new convertible loaded with 10 persons slammed into a concrete bridge abutment. The five who survived were critically injured.

Among the victims was Mrs. Bernice Wood, 30, of Shields, Mich., mother of four; and Mrs. Tula Griffen, also of Shields, mother of three.

Nehru's Criticism of U.S. Indicates Unstable Attitude

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor

India's very vocal prime minister Jawaharlal Nehru accuses the United States of being politically immature.

The United States might accuse Nehru of suffering, politically, from an inferiority complex.

At any rate, a series of events and utterances by Nehru in recent weeks has not improved relations between the two countries.

The brilliant, 64-year-old Nehru inherited his mantle of leadership of the Indian people from Mohandas Gandhi. He is a contradictory man with a determined and apparently instinctive distrust of the "imperialist West."

It would be difficult to say just what the United States could do to please him.

Of late, he has in effect accused the United States of bigotry. He has found United States foreign policy immature.

He has denied that India wants a place on the Korean political conference table, but, because the United States banned India from the conference, he accused the U. S. government of flouting the will of both Asia and Europe.

He describes Indian policy as independent but not neutral. And while he freely criticizes U. S. policy, he declares that "any country which disapproves" his own policy "must be thinking in terms of pushing the people of India around."

There is an old saying that "sticks and stones may break my bones but words will never hurt me."

Nehru's utterances might be placed in the latter category but for some other unfortunate developments.

These have occurred at the "unrepatriates" camp at Panmunjom where Indian troops are guarding some 23,000 war prisoners unwilling to go home and where India acts as chairman of the five-nation neutral commission.

There, the commission first was accused of distributing Communist literature to anti-Communist prisoners.

Then, over United States and allied objections that it violated the whole spirit of voluntary repatriation, the commission ruled that prisoners may be forced to attend "explanation" sessions attempting to get them to change their minds.

The commission also asked that the 90-day period for "explanations" be extended. The U. N. Command refused.

Finally, Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimaya, Indian chairman of the commission, said that anti-Communist prisoners "appeared to have been misinformed" about their rights—presumably by the U. N.

Since commission rulings have gone almost uniformly in favor of the Communists, one U. S. officer remarked bitterly:

"The Indians are just as bad as Syngman Rhee (South Korean President) said they were."

It is inconceivable that Nehru is not in touch with his chairman to know the course of events. His own actions against Reds inside his own country make it also inconceivable that he is in cahoots with Moscow.

Nehru finds it impossible to understand the United States.

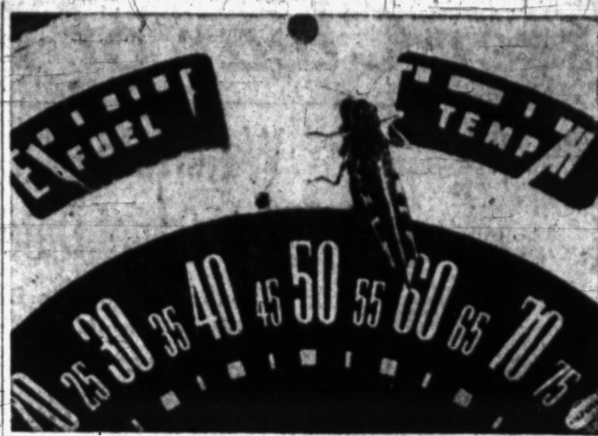

However, Nehru, a man who stands on his head to relax, is just as incomprehensible to the United States.

Illegal Fish Trapper Gets 'Trapped' Into Fire

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. (P)—The native was angry when he saw three men fiddling around with his home-made fish trap on the St. Francis river recently.

But he got hotter than a blister when he got close enough to see they were actually breaking up the illegal contraption. He accused them of stealing his fish, too.

The three conservation agents silently took him before the magistrate. And he lectured the man about illegal fish trapping. Then the judge charged him $19.50 for the lesson.

HOPPING MYSTERY—Many people would like to know how this grasshopper got inside the hermetically sealed speedometer panel of Earl Cole's 1953 Ford, but none has yet come up with an answer. Cole, who's put 53 miles on the new car, took it into a Parsons, Kan., garage and mechanics tell him they'll have to take the case apart to remove the insect.

Fire Chief Rescued From Roof by Woman

JACKSONVILLE, N. C. (P)—It wouldn't have been quite so embarrassing if it had happened to anybody but a fire chief.

R. O. Wrenn, in charge of the firefighters at the nearby Camp Lejeune Marine Base, was putting up screens at his home here. Standing on the porch roof, he snapped the last screen firmly into place.

Then he realized he couldn't get back into the house, and the ground was a long jump down.

A neighbor—a woman, at that—came to the rescue with a ladder.

Hoped to Send Boy to Clinic

Oil Well's Failure Dims Hopes of Milford Family

MILFORD—Little 6-year-old David Gidley had a big stake in the success of oil drilling crews who began sinking a well on his parents' property near here Aug. 19.

And his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Gidley of 3485 Childs Lake Rd. also had a big stake in the well's success. It meant the possible life or death of their son, ill with an almost incurable disease since birth.

But hopes to send the ailing tot to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. for tests and treatment were shattered Friday. Sun Oil Co. crews reported the well was a failure. After almost 5,000 feet of drilling it was a "dry hole."

Doctors describe David's illness as a fibrocystic malignancy which attacks the pancreas, and affects the lungs, heart and liver.

The boy, one of three in the family, has been in Children's Hospital for nearly a month where he spends much of his time in an oxygen tent. He is allowed out of it only during the day.

David took a turn for the worse last March when he contracted pneumonia. Up until that time he had been able to attend school.

Had the oil well come through, the Gidleys hoped to send their son to the Mayo Clinic for special treatment. But hope began to wane Thursday when the field geologist in charge of drilling said chance of striking commercial oil was slim.

Although failure of the well has been a crushing blow, Mr. and Mrs. Gidley expressed hope that something can be done to spare the life of their son.

Firearms Law Now in Effect

Citizens Approve Rule by Large Majority in Special Election

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP—Hunters with firearms should steer clear of Farmington Township this fall.

Voters here made hunting with firearms illegal in the township yesterday by overwhelmingly approving an ordinance in a special election, 780 to 382.

'Penalty for those found guilty of violating the ordinance will be $100 fine or 90 days in jail or both.

The proposal to adopt the firearm ban grew out of residents' protests over the dangers of hunting in thickly populated areas. Residents said they favored the ban because open farm lands for hunting in the township are disappearing.

They also protested infractions of the game laws by hunters which cause danger to life and property.

The ordinance passed was a state option act designed to give voters in specific localities a chance to vote on the legality of hunting with firearms in their particular area.

The act specifies "hunting with firearms" and does not apply to hunting with bow and arrow, according to state conservation officials.

The boundaries of the township in which the ban on firearms was imposed are Fourteen Mile road on the north, Eight Mile road on the south, Haggerty road on the west and Inkster road on the east.

Lucky to Get Out Alive!

This fire, like most home fires, was preventable. It started with a sparking chimney, one of the 9 places where most home fires start. Here are all 9:

- "junk" in cellar, attic or closets
- overloaded electric outlets
- frayed electric cords
- ordinary extension cords on heaters, irons
- smoking in bed
- not squashing out cigarettes
- flammable cleaning fluids
- matches left near children
- chimneys that spark

If any of these 9 fire hazards exist in your home—the next time that burns may be your own! Get rid of your fire hazards today!—you'll sleep better tonight!

Yanks Make It 5 Straight

Fifty years of baseball records and every Dodger player and fan said no team could win five consecutive world championships.

But CASEY STENGEL, the cagey old diamond tactician and his incredible young athletes proved them all wrong by doing just that. What's more, they lived up to an old Yankee custom of pushing over the winning run in as dramatic a finish as the most rabid fan could wish.

Needing only one more victory to win the title, STENGEL decided to gamble by calling on WHITNEY FORD to pitch the sixth game. The young southpaw held the Dodgers in check for seven innings and retired with the Yanks on the long end of a three to one score.

But Casey's strategy almost backfired when Furillo tied the score with a two run homer off Allie Reynolds in the ninth. It was little Billie Martin, the Yanks' hitting hero of the series who made Stengel's strategy look good. His ninth inning hit drove Bauer across with the winning run.

All honor to DRESSER'S men. They fought brilliantly and courageously. And hats off to the Yankees! Their feat of winning five consecutive world titles may never be duplicated.

Mayor Ernst Reuter

In the death of Berlin's Mayor ERNST REUTER, West Germany and the free world lost one of postwar Europe's great men.

As leader of his city's 2,000,000 inhabitants living in a tiny island 100 miles inside the iron curtain, he did much to maintain morale throughout the 327 day Berlin blockade.

A Communist himself in the days after the Bolshevik revolution, he became disgusted and disillusioned and quit the party in 1921. His fierce love of freedom was increased later by his concentration camp experience as a prisoner of the Hitler regime.

Before his untimely death, ERNST REUTER had become German Communism's staunchest foe, perhaps hated by the Kremlin more than any other man. After his election as Mayor of Berlin in 1947, he stood out as one of the key leaders in the task of rebuilding a new Germany on the ruins of the old.

That task still is incomplete. But the progress already made is a fitting memorial to the work and spirit of ERNST REUTER.

Dangerous Practice

In clearing the two State troopers who shot and killed Pontiac bandit Bruce McLean, a Berrien County coroner's jury pointed to an obviously dangerous practice.

After praising the troopers, the jury condemned the policy of sending law enforcement officers alone on dangerous assignments.

It will be remembered that in making his wild dash across the State, McLean disarmed one West Bloomfield Township policeman and kidnapped a deputy sheriff in Cass County. Both of these men were alone in their patrol cars.

No doubt most law enforcement officers and local government officials would agree with the inquest jury at Niles. Even taxpayers will agree that having two officers working together, as the State Police usually do, is a far safer practice.

But here one comes face to face with one of the major problems of local government. Many communities not only lack the necessary police manpower, but the tax funds to provide it.

Back in the Big Leagues

Baltimore is jubilant! It's back in the Big Leagues.

Football and baseball fans can hardly contain themselves. The Baltimore Colts celebrated return to the National Football League by winning their opening game from the Chicago Bears. Enthusiasm grew when the Colts held the world champion Detroit Lions to a 27-17 score, after outplaying them in the first half.

Joy was unrestrained when the American League, reversing its previous decision, transferred the St. Louis Browns' franchise to the Maryland metropolis.

Before the cheers had died away, there seemed to be unanimous agreement that the Little Brownies in 1954 would bear the legendary name of Orioles. There was even talk that this eighth place club would bring the city its first World Series and world championship next year. However, this latter prophecy wasn't taken too seriously elsewhere.

Shades of HUGHEY JENNINGS, "hit 'em where they ain't" WILLIE KEELER and all the other stars who made the old Orioles great back in the nineties. These names may not be able to inspire the uprooted team to a pennant, but Baltimore fans believe they will and that should help.

About those rejuvenated Dallas Texans now wearing the name Colts and doing it honor, don't let anybody fool you. They've got what it takes to make any NFL team hustle.

Yes, Baltimore is back in the Big Leagues and both professional football and baseball should be the better for it.

 Water Power Continues to Be Utilized in Oakland County

Ignorance: When you don't know and are found out.

Cider making is one of the oldest industries in this area, and it still is being done by water power, the earliest industrial power used here. At Franklin is making cider with the power generated by a more modernized turbine water wheel. This mill has been in the Yates family for over a century.

Walled Lake Reader Suggests Quicker Trials for Communists; Enemies of U. S.

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

I would like to know why a man who commits a murder is given the death sentence or life imprisonment, while men and women who become Communists are given trials that last two or three years. They are guilty of the most terrible crime in the world... betraying their country, yet they use our American rights to protect them.

I read recently where a soldier left his machine gun to get ammunition; was caught by the Communists and escaped. He is now being sent back to Korea to face possible court martial or death. Do those punishments make any sense?

Perhaps you think I complain too much. But when I speak, I know I am free from fear and doubt as to my safety and well-fare. I am proud to be an American citizen with the right to say what I please. I have four children and I know that they will never be punished or tortured in any way for what I have said.

Fan Says Tigers Will Do Better Next Year

Although the Tigers finished in sixth place I think they played a fine game all season. Granted they lost quite a few games, but most of the time only by one or two runs. Next year, I am sure the Tigers will be on top, or near it.

However, I still object to having our grand games sponsored by beer companies. Too many young folks learn to play ball from listening, and the beer commercials are a bad influence.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

The earth, O Lord, is full of thy mercy; teach me thy statutes. —Psalms 119:64.

As the sun's rays will irradiate even the murky pool, and make its stagnant waters to shine like silver, so doth God's goodness and tender mercy, towards the greatest sinner, and the blackest heart, make His own image visible there! —Hosea Ballou.

David Lawrence Says:

Let Your Conscience Be Your Guide, Justice Warren... Not Political Prejudice

WASHINGTON — Earl Warren, former governor of California, is now chief justice of the United States, which means — or ought to mean — that he is out of politics and out of the political arena where a count of the influences of pressure groups or a count of noses in a legislative body brings decisions on national policy.

Yet already predictions are coming from groups by wishful thinkers that the new member of the Supreme Court will vote to reverse the court's position on civil liberties and give a wider rein to the promoters of Communist imperialism inside America.

Too many people in America in the last 20 years, who talked about "flexibility" through judicial decision, have been indoctrinated with the notion that the Supreme Court of the United States is just another legislative body.

Too many people have been influenced by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt to believe that it's too much trouble to amend the Constitution in the manner provided in the document itself and that the nine justices are endowed with a mandate to change the Constitution in accordance with the views of changing administrations or pressure groups.

If the American people really want to amend the Constitution and a substantial majority favors it, the process has proved in the past to be relatively rapid.

More harm has been done by

Aunt Het

Maybe we forget, but it seems to me the girls in my time looked pretty good, and they didn't have any beauty aids.

the alleged witticism that "the Supreme Court follows the election returns" than by any other single fallacy about a lack of independence in the judiciary unless perhaps it is the frequent misuse of a quotation uttered once by Charles Evans Hughes and repeatedly taken out of context.

That quotation, distorted and misrepresented again and again, even by Franklin Roosevelt, was as follows: "The Constitution is what the judges say it is." It was never uttered by Mr. Hughes while he was on the bench but during an extemporaneous speech while he was governor of New York state. Placed in its proper context, the quotation merely meant that he felt it was the primary duty of the Supreme Court justices to interpret the Constitution, and that they were too busy doing this to be required to decide public-utility cases of an administrative nature.

Hughes, when he was chief justice, bitterly resented the misuse of that quotation by Roosevelt and told this correspondent it was used out of context.

Later on, in his diary notes — which Merlo J. Pusey, in his splendid biography of the chief justice, published in 1951 — Hughes wrote about that quotation as follows:

"The inference that I was picturing constitutional interpretation by the courts as a matter of judicial caprice... was farthest from my thought. I was not talking flippantly or in disrespect of the courts, but on the contrary with the most profound respect. I was speaking of the essential function of the courts under our system in interpreting and applying constitutional safeguards, and I was emphasizing the importance of maintaining the courts in the highest public esteem as our final judicial arbiters and the indismissibility of needlessly exposing them to criticism and disrespect by throwing upon them the burden of dealing with purely administrative questions."

printed in the Pusey biography, confirms the above exposition of Hughes' thought.

But the words will doubtless be quoted again and again to support the thesis of a certain school of thought which mistakenly holds that after all there are nine votes on the Supreme Court and that decisions are made by reason of political predilections or ideological prejudices.

There may be some men who have been on the bench and decided questions that way, but the American people sincerely hope that Earl Warren will not be one of them and that he will be guided by his conscience and not by legislative or political impulses.

The Supreme Court again and again has said that it is not the duty of the court to revise existing laws or make new laws, that the remedy for bad laws is to be found at the ballot box and that the best way to amend the Constitution is by the means provided in the Constitution itself.

Case Records of a Psychologist

We Are Psychologically Siamese Twins Each Day

Everybody is an "S-S" Siamese twin. For of the 76 waking hours, about 8 are spent on our job, while the other 8 are off the job. But psychological poisons in either twin can help destroy the other just as pneumonia in the original Siamese twin, soon killed his brother in 1874.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case J-308: Harry Hogan, aged 55, is the deft personnel director whom I mentioned yesterday. "We usually hold two big meetings at our store each year," he would tell each audience as he introduced me.

In the first, we ask one of our own experts to tell us about advertising or sales training and the like.

"Then we like to go outside our store for the other meeting and pick somebody to give us a fresh point of view. "So we have imported Dr. Crane from Chicago to talk to our complete organization of 12,000 on how to get along happily with people."

Then I would take over by mentioning the fact that we are awake about 16 hours out of every 24.

Half of that time we spend on our job. The other half is off the job in our homes or community activities, etc.

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

(International News Service)

If the Northern Democrats are looking for Southern Comfort they should look at the picture on the bottle. It shows a man driving past his own house.

We know that Harry beat 'em in 1948 by pulling a political rabbit out of a hat. And then making another hat out of its fur.

But nothing happened in Chicago that will make the deep sothrons bee-line to the national hive. They believe that charity starts at home while hope answers the doorbell. And little faith carries the mail.

While Adlai was pouring oil on the waters like gave 'em all the oil under 'em. Even some Republicans voted against that. But it got quicker results than bobbing-for-apples in a crocodile pool.

Here's one informative morsel we want to tell the Democratic committee. A Dixiecrat can forget what he's mad at. And still stay mad.

There's one formula for political architecture that holds good. A house divided against itself uses the same roof.

We advise the Democratic party to give the Dixiecrats more concessions than there are on the Coney Island boardwalk.

When an unreconstructed Alabamian votes Republican the wind doesn't have to be from Denmark to bring a whiff of something decaying.

Somersaults First, Then Nitroglycerin Are Immediate Aids for Jittery Legs

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

A common complaint of persons who have passed the peak is restless legs.

They say the "jittery" legs keep them from getting to sleep when they go to bed nights. Can't find a comfortable position for the legs, have to keep changing position every few minutes.

Now stretched out straight with toes turned up like a stiff in the morgue; then the floating frog; next the jack-knife position; then the figure four, and so on, far into the night, or, to be honest about it, for half an hour sometimes before sleep stops the fuss.

Mind, now, old timers, I'm not pooch-pooching the complaint. To tell the truth, I think I have had a touch of it myself lately; on both occasions I had arrived at the third position, I believe, before I drifted off. If it ever does seriously disturb sleep I have two remedies for it. The first remedy I'd try myself and the first I recommend to you is, unfortunately, out of the question for too many persons past fifty—it is to get out of bed and do half a dozen somersaults, — my kind, a physical education expert tells me, are generally called forward rolls.

Anyway, you curl up tight and roll like a hoop, as illustrated in the pamphlet on Somersaulting, available on written request if you provide stamped, self-addressed envelope.

If somersaults failed to relieve the trouble or if I were too decrepit to roll like a hoop, I'd plop at 1-200th grain nitroglycerin tablet under my tongue and lay me down to sleep.

If this didn't bring peace and comfort within 5 minutes I'd take a second 1-200th grain tablet, and if necessary in five more minutes a third.

If you decide to try this remedy and the druggist (who can't make any profit on the picaresque sale) gets stuffy about furnishing a dozen tablets of such a powerful medicine without a physician's prescription,

So I used that "S-S" example as an evidence that we are psychologically Siamese twins, inextricably linked together.

What occurs at home to lower our morale and make us unhappy or caustic or afraid, inevitably carries across to our "job" Siamese twin and thus reduces its effectiveness.

On the other hand, if we get our feelings hurt while on the job and begin to boil inwardly, even though we are diplomatic enough to remember that "the customer is always right," that store tension may then erupt after we reach home.

Some slight error on the part of our children or our wife, who then cause us to erupt like a volcano, except our searing words act as verbal lava which then burns our family.

"What's wrong with Daddy?" our children may then ask in tears as they seek their mother in the kitchen.

"We didn't do anything but he jumped all over us as soon as he got inside the front door." Thus, our emotional attitudes can shift from the "home" scene and spoil our effectiveness while on the job.

But our "job" personality can shift across into the "home" Siamese twin and contaminate it.

You readers may recall that the original Siamese twins were men. When one of them finally died of pneumonia, the other succumbed in a few hours for the poisonous toxins of the sick twin, soon killed the other, for their fluids shifted back and forth between their united bodies.

And so it is with human beings. Our keenest business leaders and personnel directors now realize that it isn't enough to concentrate just on the 8 hours that workers are on the job.

In fact, they have already done a very commendable job regarding the improvement of morale, the launching of house magazines, the organization of athletic teams and recreation, plus piping in music and offering incentives for workers to forgo the top.

But the other Siamese twin, namely those 8 hours we are off the job, may hamper our effectiveness. So we must teach people to avoid divorce and hold their children's devotion, or they will leave home grouchy and then act like "beards" on the job.

Modern personnel administration is thus becoming an "around-the-clock" affair!

Maybe you readers haven't yet realized that these daily Case Records and the bulletins help improve both of the Siamese twins which make up the personality known as you.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3 cent stamp, addressed envelope and a dime to cover printing and typing costs when you send for one of his psychological charts.)

Nitroglycerin works fast. Within a minute or two after you put the tablet in your mouth your face and neck will flush, your head throb, sometimes blurring of the sight and dizziness.

These effects last only a few minutes but may alarm one who does not expect such quick action. They are less uncomfortable if you remain lying down.

Nitroglycerin is very volatile. Therefore it evaporates from tablets which are kept long before use. The only way to be sure a nitroglycerin tablet still contains any nitroglycerin is to try it on the doctor.

I tested each new supply on myself to be sure I was giving real medicine and not just a placebo to my patients.

Urges Testing
Babies for TB*Virginia Doctor Scores
Many Pediatricians for Neglecting Checkup

MIAMI (U) — General declines in tuberculosis sickness and death rates have thrown many children's doctors off their guard against the danger of TB in infants, a Richmond, Va., physician declared today.

Dr. Edwin L. Kendig Jr. of the Medical College of Virginia at Richmond charged that many pediatricians are guilty of "some actual neglect" to test all infants for possible tuberculosis.

He told the opening general session of the 22nd annual meeting of the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP):

"In the early days of pediatrics, there was much tuberculosis in this country and all clinicians were constantly aware of the disease and alert to its possible presence in all ages and economic levels of society."

"In recent years the decline in tuberculosis morbidity and mortality rates has led to some faulty thinking and some actual neglect on the part of many practicing physicians."

Declaring that tuberculosis infection in infancy carries a "grave" outlook, and that earliest possible detection provides the best hope of success, the doctor urged universal use of the "tuberculin test" on all new patients more than a few months of age.

He said he had sent a questionnaire to 2,500 practicing pediatricians and the 1,480 answers revealed "that only 55.5 per cent employ the tuberculin test routinely and that 21 per cent of those who do employ the test do so after the age of 3 years, too late to be of maximum benefit."

Dr. Kendig said, "Tuberculous infection in infancy occurs more often than might be suspected," and offered this evidence:

Out of one group of approximately 600 children seen at a "well baby clinic" during a four-year period, 11 per cent have already "acquired tuberculous disease, as manifested by a positive tuberculin test." Of this infected group, three-fourths became tuberculin-positive before 2 years of age, the rest before they reached 3.

He added, though, that "even in extreme cases," treatment of TB in infants can be successful.

On this historic proving grounds, the new Dodge V-8 smashed all 24 official AAA records for cars in its class in tests of speed and acceleration.

Ten new unlimited records were also set. The Dodge with its sensational Red Ram V-8 engine traveled faster than any standard American car ever clocked officially by the AAA!

In tests of stamina and endurance, too, Dodge proved its great dependability. Hour after hour, mile after mile, endurance records fell before this spectacular performer—51 new records as this is written, with more piling up every hour.

This dramatic achievement in performance and endurance is matched by new elegance of interiors, more massive length and flashing style.

See this new '54 Dodge this Thursday—Dodge Premiere week at your Dodge dealer's. It is elegance in action!

New PowerFlite Drive Smashes 41 Records!

Fully-automatic—and fully-proved! 41 of the speed and endurance records were set by a Dodge equipped with new PowerFlite Drive. No automatic transmission in any car can match this record!

U. S.-Red China Talk Suggested

U.N. Diplomat Sees End to Dispute in Parley Between Two Countries

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—An influential U. N. diplomat has suggested privately that the United States and Communist China hold face-to-face talks seeking to work out their differences over who should attend the Korean political conference.

While making no formal proposal, this delegate—who was closely connected with arranging the Korean truce—said the two countries could throw out the problem when and if their representatives meet to discuss details of time and place for the conference.

Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. has offered on behalf of the U. S. government to send an American representative to talk over these points with the Reds. The Communists so far have ignored the offer.

Chances for the peace conference, scheduled to open Oct. 23, appear dim at present because of Communist insistence that neutrals be invited. The U. N. already has adopted a U. S. plan banning neutrals.

Lodge told the General Assembly that the conference itself could take up the question of whether to invite such countries as India. He said it was a problem for "both sides"—the U. N. and the Reds—and both would be represented at the conference.

The new idea, tossed out by the prominent neutral, was that "both sides" take up the issue when they meet to discuss technicalities. He said that if they reached agreement, the United States could report the results to the General Assembly and any necessary action could be taken.

The U. S. delegation, saying it had not been approached formally with the idea, withheld comment.

Another point of long standing East-West conflict returned to the fore in the Assembly's special political committee yesterday when South Carolina's Gov. James F. Byrnes urged the U. N. to admit 14 Western-sponsored states as members. The American delegate also blasted Russia for refusing to lift her veto on any of these nations unless the U. N. accepts five Kremlin-backed applicants.

The Western nominees—Italy, Japan, Ireland, Portugal, Austria, Finland, South Korea, Ceylon, Libya, Nepal, Jordan, Cambodia, Laos and Viet Nam—have all run up against the Soviet veto.

Automatic Nailer Kills California Engraver

TEMPLE CITY, Calif. (AP)—An automatic nailer, powered by blank cartridges, is blamed by sheriff's deputies for the death of one workman and serious injury of another in a freak accident.

Carl Mitchell, 45, an engraver, was killed, and Harry Fisher, 43, also an engraver, was injured at the Miller Dial and Name Plate Co. plant yesterday.

In an adjoining room carpenter Robert Becker was installing plasterboard. Deputies said nails which missed the studding struck Mitchell in the heart and Fisher in the chest.

Stuck by U. S., 'Pincushion' Lebanon-Bound

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It's back to Lebanon for the Human Pincushion.

Dr. Tahra Bey, a Lebanese mystic, has been astonishing television audiences by letting stage attendants stick knives and needles through his neck and face. He sheds no blood and says he feels no pain.

But he evinced considerable discomfort when Uncle Sam served a deportation warrant on him. He surrendered to immigration officials yesterday on a charge of violating his visa by making appearances on stage for pay.

The Human Pincushion says it's all an unwitting mistake and that since his visa expires Oct. 31 he will leave the country voluntarily.

Hal Boyle Says:

The Legend of Ernie Pyle Lives in Reader's Hearts

NEW YORK (U.S.)—Ernie Pyle lives on. The din of the second World War is dying in the distance of time, as the world wheels onto fresh woes and wars and new truces. Many of the heroes of the great conflict are slowly being forgotten. But Ernie Pyle, the man, has become a legend, and the years have put no tarnish on the luster of his name and fame. People in thousands of homes across America still cherish scrapbooks in which they pasted his stories, and they still get them out and read them.

Why are they so loyal to him eight years after his death? I think it is because he was so loyal to them, and their sons, brothers, fathers or sweethearts in uniform during his lifetime. He was the greatest typewriter tourist guide in history.

Nobody before him or since has ever been able to take the home folks by the heart and lead them up to the front and realize the hell their loved ones were going through.

In a national newspaper week ceremony Monday they put up a plaque at his old school, Indiana University, in his memory. Ernie became the ninth of America's famous newspapermen so honored by Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity.

His old friend, Gen. Omar Nelson Bradley, paid him tribute in the main address, and Ernie would have liked that. But if Pyle, the little man who wasn't there, could have heard the praise he would probably have chuckled later in the general's ear. "Brad, you're never going to get anywhere until you pull yourself together and learn to quit telling such whoppers."

For Ernie wouldn't have been able to keep his elfin face sober at the ceremony, particularly a ceremony honoring himself. He always thought people managed to make themselves look ridiculous on solemn occasions—like bears riding bicycles. Yet he had a vast sense of the true dignity of man.

For all his fun and warmth and sympathy, his own skinny 112-pound frame had an unshakeable dignity, and all you had to do was to see the purpose in his blue eyes to be aware of it. And that gave the real power to his writing.

Ernie Pyle wasn't the first reporter to make a hero of the infantryman. He did much more than that. He was the first to make the nation aware of the immortal dignity of the doughboy, who on every battlefield keeps the stature of a man in the face of the indignities of danger, dirt and death, hunger and hardship.

To Ernie the infantryman wasn't a hero because he fought and killed the enemy. He was a higher hero, one who endured suffering that would debase an animal and yet remained a human being, still moved by love and pity and charity.

That made the doughboy a figure of awesome grandeur to Ernie, and that is Ernie's greatest legacy—that he was able to make America realize the spiritual height of the soldier in combat. And as he suffered with them, he became taller, too.

To the job of war reporting Ernest Taylor Pyle gave his health, his hope of a happy home, his dream of ultimate personal peace, and finally—at 44—his life.

Whether, if he had it to do all over again, he would take the same path I don't know. I'd guess yes. But anyone who wants to know what war is really like can do no better today than go to his books—or go to war. Nobody ever told it better or more honestly.

A young lady who wants to become a newspaperwoman asked me, "Everybody says what a wonderful guy Ernie Pyle was. What did he have, anyway?"

I didn't know where to begin. You can't wrap Ernie in a phrase.

"Well, he had many things," I finally told her. "But I think his greatest gift was understanding. He was lonely, and knew everybody else in the world was lonely in the same way, and somehow he was able to communicate this feeling that he understood them, and therefore everybody felt he was a friend. Even in his grave they still do.

Mrs. Richard H. Larson, 27, of 205 Lakeside Dr., Columbiaville, and her three-year-old daughter Rosemary were injured Saturday when the car in which they were riding was involved in a collision on Perry St. near the viaduct. Richard Larson, 27, told Pontiac Police that he was making a U-turn when the accident occurred.

Driver of the other car was John A. Byles, 30, of 23 Brabb Rd., Oxford. Mrs. Larson was treated for face cuts and Rosemary was admitted to Pontiac General Hospital with a possible concussion.

UM Engineering College Will Celebrate Anniversary

In November of 1853, the regents of the University of Michigan appointed Alexander Winchell to start instruction in engineering. In 1855, he helped survey a railroad from Ann Arbor to Jonesville. Since that time the College of Engineering has been one of the outstanding departments of the University.

The engineering centennial will be celebrated on Oct. 23-24 with a program involving major addresses by Secretary of Defense Charles E.

Wilson and Robert Moses, New York commissioner of parks. In the spring of 1854, the regents had Jasper F. Cropsey, a New York artist, come out to do this painting of the campus.

Today, electric brains at the University are helping to make life better by doing in a short time certain research tests that would take years without the "brains."

Music and Science Give Double Degree

WACO, Tex. (UP)—Baylor University reports it granted two masters' degrees to a Waco man who couldn't make up his mind whether he was more interested in music or physics.

Merle Alexander earned a bachelor of music degree at Baylor in 1947, and began work on his master's degree in that field. He became interested in a theory advanced by Paul Hindemith that all music could be stated by a single formula.

Alexander's interest in Hindemith's theory led him to enroll in a physics course, so he could understand it. He won a bachelor of science degree in that field last year.

Alexander received a master of science degree as well as a master of music degree at Baylor's summer commencement.

His twin fields of interest have led to a job in which he will get a chance to combine them. He will work as a research engineer for the Conn. Band Instrument Co. of Elkhart, Ind., in acoustics and electronics.

Three-Car Collision Injures Five People

Five persons were treated at Pontiac General Hospital Saturday for injuries received in a three-car crash at M24 and E. Walton Blvd.

A car driven by Ezekiel Fulgham, 40, of 2307 Joyce Rd. collided with one driven by Clarence A. L. Connon, 20, of 2340 Commonwealth Ave., bounced off and hit a third car driven by Edward C. Linton, 30, of 1227 Desaix Ave., reported Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Fulgham's wife Lena A., 33, and daughter Linda Sue, 4, were treated for cuts and bruises.

Two riders in Lenton's car, his daughter Lucille, 3, and mother, Mrs. Florence Lenton, 57, of 1932 Ward Rd., were treated for bruises. Connon's wife, Hilda E., 22, same address, also was treated for bruises.

Thief Leaves Jewelry Loot for Owners

DENVER (U)—Denver police are seeking a burglar with a sense of humor.

Detective Cornelius Wykstra said a house prowler has struck three times in the last two weeks, taking jewelry and money.

The first time he got $300 and a $250 watch, but left the watch hidden under a bed.

Next time it was $130 in small change and $150 in jewelry. The jewelry was found later—under a bed.

When a third complaint came in, reporting the theft of $20 and $15 in jewelry, Wykstra said it was probably the same thief and advised the victim to search house.

The jewelry should be there somewhere, he said.

A third officer, Col. Kim Wha San, was acquitted of plotting to assassinate President Syngman Rhee.

Nixon Starts Trip to Far East for Ike

WASHINGTON (U)—Vice President Nixon started a 38,000-mile trip early today as President Eisenhower's personal emissary to Far Eastern leaders.

The vice president got final instructions at the White House a few hours before taking off at midnight on the first leg of his 73-day journey, a flight from Washington to San Francisco.

He said President Eisenhower gave him not only general instructions, but both written and verbal messages for the 18 heads of government and other dignitaries with whom he is to confer on "all the great problems which confront the free nations."

Probing Police in Philadelphia

Numbers Man Claims He Paid Thousands to Buy Protection

PHILADELPHIA (U)—A major investigation is under way in the police department of the nation's third largest city—shaken by a self-styled "payoff" man's story that he paid thousands of dollars to buy police protection for a "numbers" gang.

Police Commissioner Thomas J. Gibbons summoned an inspector and 11 sergeants and captains to report today for a face-to-face meeting with the man, Harry Lowry.

Another patrolman, suspended Sunday in connection with the investigation, failed to show up yesterday for a session with Dist. Atty. Richardson Dilworth and couldn't be found.

Lowry was released from Delaware County Prison Sept. 19 after serving six months on a numbers charge. For undisclosed reasons he went to Gibbons with his story.

Last Saturday Gibbons abruptly summoned some 50 policemen to his office for secret, individual conferences. Lowry was there too. On Sunday about 50 more patrolmen were called in.

Gibbons and Dilworth then announced that Patrolman Joseph Keenan Jr. had been suspended for "patent and material falsehoods" in his session with the officials.

Dilworth said he wanted to question the missing patrolman about a $25,000 home and another $25,000 he is reported to have in several banks.

The 12 men ordered to report to City Hall today are among 137 policemen whom Lowry has named—roughly 2 per cent of the city's 5,000 police officers.

"There might be more," Gibbons said yesterday. "We haven't had a chance to examine much of the information we have already received."

There's also a 28-year-old mystery woman in the case—a Miss Dolores Perry, reported to be connected with Leo (Clee) Coleman, alleged numbers king for whom Lowry said he worked.

An assistant district attorney and a police captain questioned her in Pittsburgh. She later told reporters she knew "nothing at all." Philadelphia officials had no comment.

Private Who Hitchhiked to U. S. Is AWOL Again

CAMP STONEMAN, Calif. (U)—Pvt. Robert Drane of Louisville, Ky., is over the hill again, the Army said today. It's the second time since he went AWOL in Korea and hitchhiked to the United States aboard a troop transport.

A public information officer said the 22-year-old soldier slipped away from a prisoners' work detail here Thursday.

The Army said Drane also was AWOL three days from the Presidio of San Francisco, where he was taken after he gave himself up Sept. 21 after riding a troop transport from Korea without orders.

Stop Heartbeat for Operations

Doctors Report Testing Electric Shock Method for Use in Surgery

CHICAGO (AP)—Electric shocks to make hearts quit beating for new and safer heart operations were reported today to the American College of Surgeons.

Dogs' hearts have been stopped this way for up to 72 minutes, no longer pulsing or pumping in bouncy fashion. The hearts merely quiver slightly, staying quiet for delicate surgery. A heart-lung machine, meanwhile, keeps the dogs alive.

When the surgery is done, a stronger electric shock starts the heart beating normally again.

This accomplishment was described by Dr. James A. Helmsworth, University of Cincinnati College of Medicine. The research team includes Dr. Leland C. Clark Jr., Fels Institute for Research on Human Development, Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, who developed a mechanical heart-lung machine, and Doctors Samuel Kaplan, Roger T. Sherman and Harold Liddle of the Children's Hospital Research Foundation, Cincinnati.

This method would permit new kinds of surgery on children's hearts, especially when there is a defect in the wall separating the two lower chambers or ventricles of the heart.

A quick series of shocks of 10 to 30 volts halts the dog's heart beat. Shocks of 70 to 90 volts restore it.

A scientific heartbreak is reported by Doctors Louis M. Rousselet, James F. Connell and William P. Whalen of St. Vincent's Hospital, New York.

In cooperative research with teams at Columbia University and Cincinnati, they found a chemical, an enzyme, which dissolves burned human tissues. It doesn't affect anything but burned tissues. The enzyme comes from a gangrene germ, clostridium histolytica.

It worked beautifully on six humans with small but deep third degree burns, Dr. Rousselet said. In 48 hours, all burned dead tissue had liquefied and could be washed away. This removal helps growth of healthy new skin and helps prevent shock and loss of fluids.

The heartbreak is that no one can get it. Two major drug firms told Dr. Rousselet that the problems in making it in any quantity look insurmountable. Other enzymes are being sought.

Ancient Lizard Law Trips Ambitious Trio

DONALDSONVILLE, La. (AP)—Lizards are fine insect killers so three men collected 600 of them to sell to florists.

But today they are charged with "taking and possessing lizards between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m."

Nighttime possession of lizards is illegal according to an old Louisiana law, Deputy Sheriff J. Arthur Sheets explained. Daytime possession is all right.

He didn't explain how you can possess lizards only half a day and expect to keep them.

General Clark Says Farewell to U. N. Troops

TOKYO (AP)—Lean, tanned Gen. Mark W. Clark said farewell today to the troops of his Far East Command.

At a colorful honor guard ceremony he said his goodbyes to a selected group of Korean veterans—soldiers, sailors, airmen and Marines—and the top officers of the Far East and United Nations Commands he has led since the spring of 1952.

An honor guard band saluted the veteran of 40 years of Army service with a briskly rendered "So Long, It's Been Good to Know You" and "California Here I Come." Clark retires Oct. 31.

The band switched to "Auld Lang Syne" and Clark shook hands with his successor, Gen. John E. Hull and U. N. and U. S. Far East officers.

The supreme Allied commander told about 500 soldiers of his command:

"Thank you for everything you've done for me. Goodbye and God bless you."

Clark and his wife leave tomorrow. They plan to spend five or six days in San Francisco, visiting friends. Then they will go to Washington where, at his own request, Clark will be retired.

Vaccine Against Polio May Be Ready for '54

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A new antipolio vaccine made from the tissue of monkey kidneys may be ready in time for next year's epidemics, says Joseph F. Nee, national fund-raising director for the March of Dimes.

He said yesterday small scale tests have been successful and more extensive experiments will be conducted soon. He said the tissue contains three major polio viruses and would be given to patients in diluted doses.

Released on Bond

John L. Shaw, 29, of 374 La-belle Ave., Highland Park, waived examination on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon yesterday when he appeared before Pontiac Judge Maurice E. Finnegan. He was released on $300 bond pending arraignment Friday in Oakland County Circuit Court.

Man Ends Life Lying on Tracks in Maryland

SALISBURY, Md. (AP)—Police sought today to identify a man who ended his life by stretching himself across the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks here in the path of a freight train.

Fireman T. M. Bolen said the man lowered himself gently to the rails and stretched out across them. He said he saw him too late to stop the train.

The engine and all seven cars passed over his body.

Playmate Revived After Two Girls Are Found in Old Refrigerator

GRAND HAVEN (AP)—An abandoned refrigerator has brought tragedy to another home and near-Little 4-year-old Mapela Pfahner became the year's 14th U. S. victim of such a tragedy at nearby Ferrysburg yesterday. Canada has had three such fatalities.

Pamela's 4-year-old playmate, Lila Mae Carpenter, all but died with her. Both were unconscious when found but Lila Mae was revived at a Grand Haven hospital.

Pamela, daughter of Mrs. Glen Bolthouse and Lila Mae were trapped in a refrigerator that Lila Mae's father, Robert Carpenter, had abandoned in his yard with plans to bury it later as a container for fish bait.

State Troopers Wilson Agar and William Chandler said the little girls either locked themselves in or were locked in by two smaller children with whom they were playing.

Carpenter was at work and Mrs. Carpenter was away on an errand at the time. She found the two missing when she returned and located them at the end of a frantic search. Neighbors rushed the unconscious children here.

15 States Failed to Apply for GG Polio Preventive

NEW YORK—Fifteen states in which severe polio epidemics struck this summer either failed to use gamma globulin for mass inoculation, or employed the serum in only a limited number of eligible areas.

For dozens of epidemic-swept counties, state health officials in these 15 states needed only to apply to the Office of Defense Mobilization for GG for mass inoculations. But no such aid was requested.

States failing to give any mass inoculations despite eligibility were: Iowa, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Texas and Utah.

States failing to give all their eligible epidemic-ridden counties mass inoculations were: Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, New York, North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and Wisconsin. (Some counties in these states did receive mass GG shots.)

Far from the shortage predicted in June, there is a considerable amount of gamma globulin left over as the polio season wanes.

While it is still too early to estimate the national toll of polio cases for 1953, authorities predict that this year will rank third—or perhaps even second—to last year's record of 57,000 victims.

Everybody's Doing It--Building Pools

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The movie stars started it, now everybody's doing it—building swimming pools. Thanks in large part to the stars, the pool business is booming. From 8,000 to 10,000 private pools are being built every year in the United States, more than existed in the whole country prior to 1940. I learned some fancy facts about this budding new industry from Philip Hsley, president of Paddock Pools, earliest and biggest company in the field.

"There's no doubt that the stars helped the business along," he remarked. "People in this country and all over the world have had a profound interest in what movie stars do.

"Since so many stars owned swimming pools, they helped popularize pools as a standard of good living.

"However, we would go out of business if we relied on the movie crowd for our business. Because of taxes and other reasons, they do not have the money to spend what they used to."

Fortunately for his business, the general public caught on to the notion of having a man-made lake in the backyard. Part of this is due to the continuing high standard of living and ample leisure time. But the main reason is the new method of construction.

Most pools used to be built in concrete forms. But Hsley developed a way of blowing the concrete onto forms, creating an inverted dome. This cut the cost more than half and the building time from four months to three or four weeks.

Paddock has built pools for Fred MacMurray, Jack Benny, Rosalind Russell, Bing Crosby, Joseph Cotten, Bob Hope, Gary Cooper and dozens of other stars. The most expensive one was a small lagoon for Marion Davies that ran $30,000.

"But we also build pools for mechanics and office workers," Hsley added. "Anybody who can afford a second car in the family can afford a swimming pool. You buy one, complete with filter, for as low as $2,500."

Paddock has 17 branches on the West Coast and leases equipment all over the world. Hsley pointed out that the pool boom isn't limited to California.

"The boom has hit places like Wisconsin and Southern British Columbia," he cited. "By the use of heating, which adds about 15 per cent to the cost, people in those places can stretch the swimming season from two months of the year to four or five."

Paddock Pools was started back in the 20s by Pascal Paddock. During that era, when movie money flowed like bathtub gin, he built some of the fabulous pools of Hollywood. One of them, in which you could almost float a PT boat, cost around $60,000.

By 1939, Paddock believed that the pool market had been just about saturated. He may have been right—for the luxury field.

But Hsley came along with the method of blowing concrete and brought pools within the means of many more homeowners. He bought out Paddock, who is now building pools in Oklahoma City.

Because concrete forms are no longer needed, there's no penalty for odd shapes of pools. The old rectangular pool is becoming passe, and folks are going for round ones, kidney-shaped, etc.

Hsley's own pool is shaped like that looked like a comma. Belonged to some frustrated writer, a maple leaf. I even saw one no doubt.

Drowning took the lives of 6,800 Americans in 1952.

Miss U.S.A. of '52 Sues for Separate Support

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Miss U.S.A. of 1952, who also became Mrs. Guy Mitchell of 1952, now wants separate maintenance from the singer.

Red-haired Jackie Loughery, 22, who won the U.S.A. title in the Miss Universe contest at nearby Long Beach, filed her suit yesterday, charging cruelty. She and Mitchell, 27, separated Sept. 22, after a marriage of less than a year.

She asked for $2,500 monthly support, $5,000 court costs and $25,000 for her lawyer, estimating community property to be worth $200,000. Mitchell's income, her petition stated, exceeds $25,000 monthly.

Plan 'Carmen' in New Color

Will Be Experiment, but Also in Compatible Black and White

NEW YORK — The Television opera theater's 1953-54 season will open with a one-hour performance to be broadcast in RCA compatible color. It was announced today by Samuel Chotzinoff and Peter Herman Adler.

The opening date has been set for Saturday, Oct. 31, and the opera will be a one-hour version of "Carmen."

According to Chotzinoff, general music director and producer of the Television Opera Theater, there will be eight presentations again this season at the rate of one a month on Saturday afternoons.

The length of each offering will vary with many of the programs running an hour and a half. Some operas will probably be done in color later in the year.

The opening opera "Carmen" will be the first full hour presentation in color. Viewers with standard black and white television sets will receive the program in black-and-white, since the RCA color system is fully compatible. The color-cast will be made under temporary experimental authorization of the Federal Communications Commission.

Vera Bryner has been chosen to sing the title role in this performance of the Bizet classic, with Robert Rounseville as Don Jose and Warren Gajjar as Escamillo, the torero.

The production will be prepared and presented by the NBC Television Opera Theater's regular staff with Samuel Chotzinoff as producer and Peter Herman Adler as music and artistic director. Kirk Browning is television director.

The opera will be televised from the Colonial Theater in New York, which is equipped for color television. Utilizing the entire theater and its acoustical qualities, the NBC orchestra will be seated in the balcony, which tests have shown to be the best location for the musicians.

This also will give greater scope to the performers and the cameras on stage.

AF F100 Fails to Break Skyray Speed Record

SALTON SEA, Calif. — An Air Force F100 Super Sabre has failed in an attempt to break the 753.4 m.p.h. speed record set Saturday by a Navy Douglas Skyraider.

The F100 will be flown again today if conditions are favorable, an Air Force spokesman indicated.

The spokesman disclosed last night that the F100 had made speed passes over the measured course here. He said the plane, flown by Lt. Col. Pete Everest, reached a speed of 752.3 m.p.h.

Temperature Hits 108 at Glendale, 101 at LA

LOS ANGELES — Los Angeles faced its third day of torrid fall temperatures today after yesterday's high of 101 brought at east four heat prostrations and sent thousands to the beaches.

Yesterday's high here was the top for Oct. 5. The previous high was 97 in 1926. It was 98 here Saturday and 100 on Sunday.

Nearby Glendale sizzled with an official top of 108. Neighboring San Gabriel recorded 104, hottest official temperature in the nation.

Hunters in Ohio Going Natty Over Squirrels

COLUMBUS, Ohio — There have been some nutty doings in Ohio since the squirrel hunting season opened Sept. 14.

For example, there was the Ravenna man whose pet monkey escaped the day before the season opened. He received a call the day after he advertised for his pet in a local newspaper.

"Sorry, buddy," said the voice at the other end of the line. "I thought that was a funny-looking squirrel I shot."

Then there was the brawny hunter who was treated at a Youngstown hospital for squirrel bite.

But Don Mack, Ohio State Journal outdoors editor, thinks the best of all was the hunter who mistook his pal for a squirrel and let loose both barrels.

His friend, wounded but not too badly, fired back. Both ended up in the hospital.

U. S. Costs Up, Revenue Down

Spending in First Part of Fiscal 1954 Amounts to 399 Million Over '53

WASHINGTON — The government spent more and took in slightly less in the first quarter of this fiscal year than it did the year before.

Spending in the first three months of fiscal 1954, which began July 1, totaled 399 million dollars more than in the first quarter of last fiscal year.

This increase in expenditures contrasted with predictions the administration made in August that spending this fiscal year would total two billion dollars less than last year. However, the budget revisions forecasting reduced spending probably applied mainly to the remaining three quarters of the fiscal year, which ends June 30.

A large increase in outlays for farm price supports and a sizable increase in military spending helped push the expenditure total in the first quarter of this year to $18,228,000,000 compared with $17,829,000,000 a year before.

The Treasury's statement of government finances for Sept. 30, released yesterday, showed that for the first three months of fiscal 1954, the government went in the hole $4,311,000,000, or 432 millions more than the red ink operations at this time last year. Net receipts in the first quarter of fiscal 1954 were $13,917,000,000, little different from the $13,950,000,000 receipts during the first three months of fiscal 1953.

However, it appeared that the government would probably be able to get by the remainder of the year without a special call to Congress to raise the debt limit.

The United States patent office was temporarily closed in 1946 because officials believed that everything that could possibly be patented had been invented by that time.

Medical Addicts for Narcotics Fewer

DALLAS, Tex. — A Public Health Service doctor says improved medical techniques have reduced the number of narcotics addicts who start on drugs while under a doctor's care.

Addiction resulting from medical treatment has dropped from 5 per cent to about 1 per cent in the past 20 years, Dr. William F. Ossefort of the U. S. Public Health Hospital at Fort Worth said yesterday.

Dr. Ossefort, addressing the Texas Surgical Society, said narcotic addiction on the whole is on the decrease in the United States. He said one out of every 1,000 military recruits was rejected for drug addiction in World War I but that figure dropped to one out of 10,000 in World War II.

Production and distribution of motor cars furnishes more than one million persons with jobs, according to recent industrial surveys.

Older Woman With 'Personnel Flair' Can Capitalize Upon Mature Wisdom

By ANNE HEYWOOD
"I am a widow," Mrs. M. writes, "and I have never had a paid job in my life. I am 47 years old, a high school graduate, and have had some vocational tests recently which indicated a flair for personnel work."

"I know very little about what it actually means, and wonder if you could give me some definitions and some ideas about the kind of jobs that require a 'personnel flair.'"

The first thing that comes to mind, of course, is the many jobs in the personnel departments of large companies. I would warn you against these, for several reasons.

First, many of the companies large enough to have a good-sized personnel department also have pension plans which make it difficult for them to hire anyone over 35.

Second, jobs of that kind, even when age is not against you, require some college background and preferably, a degree in psychology. Again, many of the beginning jobs in large personnel departments are very mechanical and factual.

They frequently involve handling a lot of records, files and other clerical details, and may not be right for you if your tests showed what we call the "social" skills.

However, this doesn't mean that the picture is hopeless.

Many receptionist jobs are open to the woman over 35, and these require a "personnel flair."

Book publishers, advertising agencies, law firms, hospitals and fund-raising organizations are beginning to prefer, as receptionist, a woman with maturity and wisdom.

I would suggest that you get a list of such organizations in your public library, and approach them.

Also, many doctors will hire an older woman as their receptionist, if they have a large staff and many patients.

Of course, if you could learn shorthand and typing without too much trouble, you would find that many secretarial jobs have the personnel factor, as, for example, a secretary to a sales manager.

A sales manager frequently has dozens of young salesmen out in the field, sending in reports and occasionally coming into the office.

One sales manager I know decided to hire for his secretary a mature and motherly woman who would, as he put it, "Keep the boys in line, keep 'em working, give them a shoulder to weep on—but not waste my time flirting with them like the young kids do."

A flair with people is one of the things that grows better with age.

If you have it, you can put it to profitable use. Just look for an employer whose business requires mature wisdom and a motherly touch.

Apple Dish Delicious Hot or Cold

Mrs. George Gale Gives Pudding Rule to Press Readers

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor
Here's another good apple dessert recipe that will bring cheers from your family.

Mrs. George Gale shares it with us. If you wish to serve this pudding hot, let it cook while you are getting dinner. It is just as delicious cold.

Her home and family are Mrs. Gale's chief interest. The American Association of University Women and the Yomar Group of her church claim her as a member.

She enjoys sewing for her home and for her young daughter.

APPLE DESSERT

By Mrs. George O. Gale
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup chopped apple
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Cream shortening and sugar. Add egg. Then add the dry ingredients sifted together.

Mix in the apples and nuts, add vanilla. Bake in a greased 8-inch square pan at 350 degrees for 30-35 minutes. Serve with whipped cream.

A new idea in leisure slacks has created a furor in the fashion world. The designer dazzles the eye with the rich beauty of "jeweler's embroidery" (left) in a diamond pattern. An off-the-shoulder blouse of wool jersey held secure with a wide band of elasticized velvet completes the costume. The tapered velvet pants on the right are shown with a luxurious striped satin pullover blouse.

Tips Offered on Vegetables

The U.S. Department of Agriculture suggests these rules to get the best buy in vegetables:

Root vegetables should be smooth and firm. Very large carrots may have woody cores. Oversized radishes may be pithy. Oversized beets may be woody. Fresh carrot tops usually mean fresh carrots. However, condition of leaves on most other root vegetables does not indicate degree of freshness.

For onions, remember that size and color do not affect flavor or quality. Avoid onions with wet necks.

Greens, to be of good quality, must be fresh, young, green, and tender.

Bridegroom's Ex-Fiancee Asked to Be an Attendant

By EMILY POST
A girl writes me: "I would like to know how I can decline gracefully to be a wedding attendant for a girl who is comparatively new in this town, but with whom I have become quite friendly."

"Before she moved here I was engaged to her intended, but unfortunately our wedding plans fell through. This girl is now engaged to him and plans to marry him shortly. She has asked me to be in the wedding party."

"I never told her of my engagement to him as I did not care to talk about it and furthermore thought this knowledge might embarrass her. So you can see, Mrs. Post, why I'd rather not take part, but how can I bow out without telling her the reason? Can you help me?"

Answer: I think you will have to tell her that at one time the bridegroom-to-be was engaged to you and it would surely cause some comment if you were to be in their wedding party.

Dear Mrs. Post: My boy friend is a graduate of X University. Being a former football player, he still has a keen interest in the team and consequently goes to practically all of their games, and I go with him to many of them.

Whenever the school song is played, he naturally rises. I would like to know if I am supposed to rise too.

Answer: Although you are not obliged to, it is certainly courteous to do so, especially if other girls around you do so.

Dear Mrs. Post: One of the wedding presents sent me through the mail was broken when it reached me. In my note of thanks, should I mention this fact, or do I simply thank her for the lovely dish?

My sister thinks that if I write that it was broken the person who sent it will feel obliged to replace it with something else.

Answer: I am afraid your sister is right, and that you should not say your present arrived broken.

Beauty and Household Hints Improve Appearance, Ease Awkward Moments

Drop a bottle or a glass on the floor, smash it to smithereens, and you can spend precious minutes picking up each tiny sliver with your fingertips. And wind up with splinters in your digits.

Or you can moisten a piece of absorbent cotton or a facial tissue, and mop up the tiny pieces without danger of cutting yourself.

THE SOLE OF BEAUTY: Aggravated at the rough, tough calluses those summer barefoot sandals have wrought on your heels? Soak them in warm soapy water to slough off the dried skin, then scrub them like mad with your toughest nail brush.

After that, smooth them with a pumice stone. Said stone is also good for your sewing finger—you know, the one you prick most often when you poke the needle through. It smooths off the rough parts.

At night, cream your heels as carefully as you do your hands and fingertips, or rub in baby oil. Regular applications of softening, friction, and more softening will make your heels as smooth as your knees.

TABLE CATASTROPHES: Though you usually keep your hands in your lap at the table, you might in absent-minded moment wave one in the direction of a glass of wine.

Nobody's likely to make a scene and insist on changing the cloth right then and there, but you can make things easier for later by saturating the wine spots with salt.

Sprinkle it on thick so it will absorb most of the liquid. Later, the cloth can be shaken out, and the complete removal of the stain will be that much easier.

If you're blowing out your own birthday cake candles and you blow a gust of sky-blue-pink candle wax all over the cloth, quick with a sharp knife to scrape up what you can while it's soft.

Then later lay the cloth, wax side down, on a blotter and gently run a warm iron over the spots. The blotter will absorb most of the wax, and soap and water will take out what's left.

STICK TO YOUR KNITTING: So you don't like what you've spent laborious hours knitting? You want to rip it all out and start over again, but you're afraid the wool will look all chewed up?

Unravel it carefully and wind it on a square of cardboard. Then dip the whole thing in luke warm water and hang it up to dry. It will then come off the cardboard smooth and ready to re-knit.

Can't thread wool through a needle, no matter how big the eye? Soap the end of the wool so it will make a stiff point.

Button up a cardigan when you wash it. Squeeze out the rinse water gently, then lay it between two Turkish towels and run it carefully through the wringer.

Lay it carefully on a fresh towel, straightening it into your size and shape, away from direct heat or full sunlight.

Salvage the bottoms of those pretty nightgowns that only seem to wear out on the top. Cut them off, hem elastic into the top and use them for short petticoats.

Plans Under Way for First Methodist's Harvest Home Festival Friday

Members of Entre Nous Enjoy Northern Holiday

Mrs. Clarence Smart Entertains Guests at Her Cabin on Blue Lake

A group of friends, all members of Entre Nous Club, are visiting at the Clarence Smart cabin at Blue Lake in Northern Michigan.

Among Mrs. Smart's guests are Mrs. Floyd Campbell of East Iroquois road, Mrs. Kirk Campbell of Elizabeth Lake road, Mrs. P. H. Kemp of Cherokee road and Mrs. B. G. Campbell of Watkins Lake.

Betty Holland, Richard Bartley Exchange Vows

In a double-ring ceremony in First Assembly of God Church Sept. 19, Betty Holland became the bride of Richard H. Bartley, son of James F. Bartley of Midway avenue. The Alfred Hollands of Franklin, N. C., are the bride's parents.

For the ceremony the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace over white satin, and she carried a bouquet of white gladioli and red roses. A rhinestone and pearl tiara held her fingertip veil.

Clarence Cromwell escorted her to the altar, and the recital was sung by Paul May accompanied by Mrs. S. M. Dudley.

Mrs. Jim Sexton was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Thelma Denton, Beulah Peter and Mrs. Lewis C. Harper. Joette Bartley was flower girl and Jimmy Bartley carried the ring for his uncle.

Loyd Bartley was best man for his brother, and ushers were Mr. Sexton, Mr. Harper, Chester Bowles, John Pankey and L. J. Negus.

After a reception at the Boys Club, the couple left for Niagara Falls, New York City and North Carolina.

Discussing their theme for the annual Harvest Home Festival of First Methodist Church are members of the decorations committee, Mrs. Norman J. Legge of North Ardmore avenue (left), Mrs. Fred Teeple of South Anderson street (center) and Mrs. Lewis H. Butler of North Sanford street (right), chairman of the committee. To be held Friday evening in the church, the festival will begin at 6:30 o'clock.

Williams-Nyden Rite Read

In a double-ring ceremony at Grace Lutheran Church Saturday evening, Helen Nyden became the bride of Raymond Williams.

The Rev. Otto Schultz performed the 7:30 o'clock ceremony before 100 guests.

The bride, daughter of William Nyden of Carter Street, chose a suit of white wool with rust-colored accessories for her bridal costume. Brown orchids surrounded by valley lilies formed her bouquet.

Mrs. Clayton McIlhargie was matron of honor in a dark purple suit.

Donald Miner was best man for his cousin, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Williams of Crescent road. Seating the guests were Mr. McIlhargie and Jess Williams.

Receiving guests at the Knights of Pythias Hall, Mrs. Williams wore a gray suit-dress with a corsage of red roses.

After a honeymoon in Canada and the New England states, the couple will reside on Paddock street.

If Wax Streaks:

If your floor wax streaks, rinse the floor thoroughly with a solution of one pint vinegar to a pail of water. Rinse again with clear water and allow to dry completely before re waxing.

Children Respond

Encourage good grooming habits in your little girl by having her examine the results of her face-washing, hair-combing and dressing routine in a floor-length mirror.

Sculptured charcoal over red wool makes a brilliant medium for Willi's brief fall topper which is tailored along simple lines with notched lapels and cuffless sleeves. The handsome coat is lined with ruby red satin.

Rug Can Cause Fatal Accident

Many deaths from falls are largely traceable to carelessness with throw rugs.

These fatal accidents could have been avoided if simple precautions had been taken, according to Amy Kelly, Missouri agricultural extension agent and a member of the National Safety Council.

Miss Kelly advises non-skid paper-thin pads as the best preventive of throw rug mishaps. Also effective are non-skid paste and powder which check many crippling falls.

Coming Events

Berean Class of the First Baptist Church will meet in the church Wednesday at 10 a.m. Luncheon will be served by the committee and election of officers will be held in the afternoon.

Women's Work Group of First Church of the Brethren will meet all day Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Ray Fleming, 144 Cottage St.

Corinne Sisterhood 184 Dames of Mails will meet Wednesday at 7:30 for installation. Birthdays will be celebrated.

Eastern Central District, Royal Neighbors of America, will hold the annual get-together Thursday at the Oroto Hall, 128 W. Pike St. Registration will begin at 10 a.m.

Filmdom's Stars Favor Basic Black

Many Think Simple All-Occasion Dress Due for Revival

What about the "basic black dress"? On this question, feminine opinion is as varied as color of hair.

It's a point of much argument and discussion among the Hollywood stars, as was proved recently when several of the screen's loveliest ladies met for luncheon at the Brown Derby. When the basic black was mentioned, very definite ideas were expressed, most of them favorable.

Arlene Dahl is impressed with the new versions of the simple black dress that are so fashion-right this year. She feels that although the basic black has not been as popular during the past few years as formerly, the time is now ripe for a revival.

Irene Dunne, whose diamond collection is the object of the admiration and envy of all her friends, votes for the black dress as the most appropriate setting for jewels. And Gracie Allen asserts, from a practical standpoint, that every woman needs a basic black in her wardrobe for that moment of crisis when she doesn't know exactly what to wear.

The one dissenting vote comes from Dorothy Lamour, who dearly loves "occasion" clothes. Dottie has in her wardrobe one exciting outfit which is particularly right for each type of event she finds on her social calendar.

However you feel about this issue, you will be interested in the opinion of the final authority, Don Loper, who dresses many of the most beautiful screen personalities in Hollywood, says about the black dress, "Always have at least one in your wardrobe, and wear it when in doubt, or when nothing else seems just right."

"But don't make the mistake of letting it become a crutch, or an excuse for lack of originality in your clothes planning!"

Too Many Women Spoil Grooming by Neglecting Care of Their Hands

MEL'O

Strong Soaps Ruin Linoleum

AUBURN, Ala. (INS)—Too much cleanliness may cost the homeowner the price of a new linoleum rug.

Constant washing with strong soap or abrasive powders can actually injure floor coverings. In time this practice removes the pattern from felt base coverings. The texture is weakened in linoleum and it becomes spongy and loses its color.

When your floor needs washing, use a mild soap and warm water. Be sure water doesn't get underneath the seams of the linoleum. After washing, rinse thoroughly and then dry.

As an added protection, several coats of a high-gloss, self-polishing wax, reinforced every few weeks with a single coat of wax are recommended.

This girl is applying a long-wearing lip-stick that matches her new nail polish, which is chip-proof. Every woman can have well-groomed hands by devoting just one hour a week to manicuring and a minute or two a day to touch-ups.

Pretty Nails Take Hour Each Week

Nightly Creaming
Banishes Redness
and Roughness

Our hands are almost as expressive of our personalities as our faces. They deserve good grooming.

Yet, too often we notice women who would be perfectly groomed except for their hands. Nail polish is chipped, there are ugly, ragged cuticles, skin is roughened and red. No one has to accept such a situation.

By devoting one hour a week to manicuring and a minute or two a day to touch-ups, creaming and cuticle training, every woman can have well groomed hands.

Liberal applications of hand cream at night and throughout the day will banish the roughness and redness.

As for cuticles, they should never be cut, since infection might result. Instead, apply cuticle oil and gently train the cuticles back with an orange stick.

The nails should be filed so that the corners are slightly square, the tips, slightly rounded. A nail shaped in this fashion is less likely to break.

Manicurists find they get best results by using long emery boards and by stroking in one direction only.

You will get a smoother base for your polish if you buff the nails and then scrub them with a nail brush in warm, soapy suds. The perfect manicure, the one that will last a week, requires four coats of polish: Base, two coats of color, overcoat. Allow plenty of drying time between each coat.

To further insure success, you might try a new nail enamel which the maker says is chip-proof.

According to the firm, the polish contains an ingredient which allows for the flexibility of the nail under ordinary circumstances, thus decreasing the tendency of the polish to chip.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

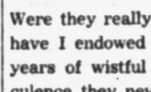

Food Today Can't Equal Mama's Succulent Fare

I do wish I could find some really good sausage meat. My hunt has gone on ever since I left Missouri, and that's about 30 years ago. I keep hearing of companies and communities noted for their sausages and I hopefully taste, then mournfully shake my head.

The trouble is that I'm always comparing with a memory. My father was famous all over Monroe County for his sausage and I can see him now, up to his elbows in it at hog-killing time.

I can see the sausage, too, in its brown crock in the cellar, smelling of sage and flecked with red pepper. On cold winter mornings nothing ever tasted nor smelled so good as it fried in the iron skillet on top of the kitchen stove.

Sausage is only one item in the long, long list of memorable foods that I can't find any more.

MISS McBride

Were they really so wonderful? Or have I endowed them through the years of wistful longing with succulence they never had?

Could my mother's sliced apple pie and apple dumpling really have been so much better than anybody else's? They certainly seem so to me, after hopefully sampling many other varieties.

Perhaps it was Mama's prodigal hand with butter, cinnamon and sugar. But I am said to be a butter and cream cook myself, yet my apple pie and dumplings never taste like hers.

The lusciousness of her ice cream may have owed something to the yellow thickness of our Jersey cream and the sugar-sweetness of the great strawberries from the patch at the side of the house, but I've worked with reasonable facsimiles of her ingredients and achieved only mediocre results.

Her salt-rising bread, eaten fresh from the oven, smothered in her own butter, her pickled peaches in thick syrup, her spiced gooseberries and rich red cherry preserves all had a flavor I can't duplicate.

My hot biscuits never rise like snowy cumulus clouds. My caramel frosting, though I go heavy on cream, never has the smooth texture I admire.

I'll never again taste mashed potatoes, handbeaten with cream and butter until they almost float into your mouth; baby chicken, fried to a delicate brown perfection and accompanied by cream gravy made in the skillet with all the little brown crumbs to give color and flavor.

Though perhaps a wee bit heavy on calories because of all the butter and cream, my childhood fare was simple food and this simplicity ought to point to my moral. Surely anybody who will take the trouble and combine the makings and a liking for good things to eat could do as well. Then why don't we?

The answer, I suppose, is that all this may be a picture painted by the tricky brush of memory.

3 Railroad Jobs Held by Woman

BONGOR, Me. (INS)—A pert attractive little brunette woman holds down three of the most important jobs on one of the nation's busiest little railroads.

Mrs. Doris Rosen, wife of a Bangor dentist, is superintendent of dining cars of the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad, the first woman in the United States to hold such a position. Her other two jobs on the railroad are chief clerk and secretary to vice president and general manager, J. C. Gardiner.

The Bangor and Aroostook, small in size compared to other railroads, carries most of the Pine Tree state's potato crop and handles approximately 1,000 passengers weekly between Auburn and Van Buren.

Making up menus is one of the least of Mrs. Rosen's problems because customers want mostly plain but hearty foods. As a result she changes the menu only once a month. A 10-ounce sirloin steak and potatoes, with homemade biscuits is the favorite meal.

Proper distribution of fabric will keep your proportions down and hide figure faults. Turns down on concentrated bulk for large sizes.

Mrs. S. T.—Rayon plus grosgrain in black with the emphasis on soft, slender silhouette. Keep the proportions but cheat by adding on the sides. This has the same slenderizing effect as redingote lines. Careful corseting will hide telltale bulges.

New Shoes Emphasize High Arch

Thoroughbred Foot Occupies Spotlight This Season

Coming fashion will spotlight the thoroughbred foot, high-arched and delicately but competently shod. A new showing for the press at the Waldorf-Astoria illustrated the thoroughbred elegance of designs in slender, beautifully turned shoes of restrained richness or great glamour, with new but non-tricky shapes.

Color as well as gleaming black was stressed and there was artistry in decoration that brings the shoe once more into the field of major accessories.

In addition, the guests received side glances at other "thoroughbred looks". A special niche was set aside for a display of a replica of Queen Elizabeth II's coronation slipper.

The gold kid slipper, with an open "rose-window" medallion edged with jewels on the toe and encrustations of ruby stones in its high slender heel, is now being duplicated and sold in shops in America.

It was placed on a crimson velvet cushion beside two other famous slippers, the pink faille pump made for Mrs. Eisenhower's Inaugural Ball costume and the court pump embroidered with golden vine leaves and thistles for Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, and worn at King George VI's coronation in 1937.

When they could tear themselves away from the celebrated slippers, fashion reporters learned major shoe fashion points for fall.

Among the points stressed was the importance of a high-arched profile with low heels as well as high. New shoe construction provides a pronounced curve under the instep, adding to the comfort as well as the beauty of the shoes.

Slender heels to prettify the foot proved the chunky-wedge type of heel outmoded in this collection by a famous designer.

Also holding the attention of fashion reporters was the look-twice beauty of combinations in color and texture.

Although the bulk of shoe fashion will be black, forecasts a famous designer, most women will want colored shoes for certain costumes, and those colors will cover a wide range from palest pastel to the most vivid deep tones.

The highly important touch or mass of decoration is on virtually every shoe. It may be the most discreet thread-line piping of patent, colored kid or satin, or the most ornate applique, underlay of color, overlay of lace or jewel-and-bead embroidery.

Americans Use Tons of Spices

When it comes to food, Americans apparently like it on the spicy side.

The American Can Company reports that the nation's housewives enlivened their cookery with some 150 million pounds of spice in 1952.

Pepper was No. 1 in popularity by a wide margin among the 75 spices packed for American kitchens. Other popular seasonings from the four corners of the earth included nutmeg, cloves, caraway and paprika.

Mrs. Don Dubats was hostess at her home on Blaine avenue Friday evening for a linen shower in honor of Shirley Gesch, bride-elect of William Withner of Omaha, Neb. Marilyn Miller and Mrs. Charles Lauinger were cohostesses for the event.

Shirley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hillman of Waterloo road, Waterford, and William's parents are the E. H. Withners of Franklin Park, Ill. They will speak their vows Nov. 14 in Our Lady of the Lakes Church, Waterford.

Guests at the shower were Mrs. Hillman, Mrs. Ron Dawley, Mrs. Lancy Jones, Mrs. Anna Gesch, Marjorie Wesp, Lillian Bullock, Mrs. Max Jarvis, Mrs. Doyle Smith, Mrs. Marshall White, Mrs. John Miller, Lois Leighton and Mrs. Harry Woodin.

Dust, Dunk Dry Bamboo Trim

With tropical woods moving more and more into northern living rooms, the time-honored job of washing down the woodwork now has an exotic touch about it.

Matchstick bamboo can be either suds-sponged or put right into the tub. Remove the loose dust first with a vacuum cleaner or brush, then lay the pieces flat. Sponge it with thick soapsuds, rinse with a cloth wrung out of clear water.

Turn it over, and repeat the process. If you tub it, plunge it up and down in warm soapsuds until clean, then rinse the same way in warm water and polish with a soft cloth.

Paris Designers Blanket New Dresses With Buttons on Shoulders, Waistline

NEW YORK (INS) — Not since the advent of the zipper have button designers been in such a tizzy as they are this fall.

Paris has gone button-buggy and that means that American ladies soon will be as receptive to buttons as buttonholes.

Philip Schechter, vice president of La Mode Buttons — oldest and largest U. S. makers of the practical and decorative discs — just returned from Paris and he reports that the French are putting buttons on shoulders, pockets, waistlines and sleeves this year.

But, he says, it is fortunate for a woman's budget that buttons have suddenly decreased in size. The most high-fashion designers, who two years ago were showing buttons that were as big as four inches in diameter, have now decided to show off more — but smaller — button trims.

Schechter insists that the best style suit and dress buttons for fall, '53, appear to be about the size of nickels. And coat buttons, usually much more mammoth, are now shaved down to quarter-size. It's the "quality" of the button, rather than its proportions, which is now getting the fashion attention.

He pointed out certain button trend observations which he noted on the programs of the London and Paris designers:

(1) Horn and wooden buttons are enjoying a tremendous, casual-wear comeback, especially on tweeds and monotone woolen dresses.

(2) Teaming up two different types of buttons on one costume is an unusual, fashion-wise technique. Buttons above the waist, for example, may be a different color or size than buttons below.

(3) There is a large trend toward metal buttons — and for dressy wear, irregularly-shaped metal buttons inset with jewels.

(4) The majority of black dressy frocks are trimmed with rhinestone or colored stone buttons, generally smallish.

Gal With Sniffles More Popular if Well Groomed

Some girls seem to think that the sympathy people extend to cold sufferers implies an invitation to neglect their grooming.

If one is well enough to appear in public, she should be able to maintain her appearance. Going around the office with a woebegone face will endear no one to you.

Among the things you can do should sniffles come your way is to pat a rich lubricating cream around your nose. Nightly applications will prevent redness.

Of course you won't wash your hair, but you can give it extra brushing and use a dry shampoo or witch hazel on cotton pads.

To ward off that wan look, try using a speck more rouge and eye make-up.

And be careful of your facial tissues. It's not only unpleasant to the eye but it's unsanitary to scatter half-used tissues about your desk. Put a small paper bag next to the tissue box for used tissues and keep the half-used ones on your person.

For Easy Peeling
Oranges put in boiling water for about five minutes will peel easily.

Book Explains High—and Low—Finance

Wall Street Invaded by Little Woman

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor.
The next time your husband makes a crack about "the little woman and her checkbook" you might silence him effectively with a brief dissertation on the merits of a diversified folio of stocks and bonds, referring casually to such terms as "margin", "stop-loss" orders and the advantages of debenture bonds.

He will be so goggle-eyed with amazement that you probably will be safe from criticism for several weeks.

The way to accomplish this is to bone up on a new book soon to be published, "A Woman's Guide to Financial Security," by Joyce Clarke and Sally Dickson, two alert young women who are partners in a New York public relations firm, and who have been writing the ABC's of investments for women's clubs and schools throughout the country for some years.

Joyce and Sally have tackled the investment problems of women with a view to explaining in the simplest possible terms just how you go about accumulating a nest-egg that may be expected to hatch some sound security in later years. They tell you such things as what are stocks and bonds, how and where to buy them, how to read the stock quotations in the newspapers, how to choose a safe list of investments and how to cash in if you need money for an emergency.

They explain in detail just what you may expect in social security payments when you or your husband reach the age of 65, how much you will receive per month and what considerations disqualify you for such benefits.

They explain the advantages and disadvantages of putting your savings in government bonds, in life insurance and in real estate. They describe the different kinds of mortgages you may have on your home, and they explain what happens when you can't meet your life insurance payments.

They suggest investment programs for a working woman on her own, for a working woman with two children to educate, for an unemployed widow and for a husband and wife with three children to educate.

"Today women have to be economists," says Mrs. Hiram Cole, Houghton, past president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in a foreword.

"The hand that rocks the cradle" belongs now all too often to one who must also negotiate the loan at the family bank to pay for the new roof next fall or understand the provisions of her husband's life insurance policies... we who do 85 per cent of consumer buying and own 50 per cent of the nation's wealth can, if we will, become judicious controllers.

The tweed look is interrupted in this smart school dress of brown and white slubbed cotton. The ample gathered skirt is banded at the waist with a brown elasticized cinch matching the buttons and piping on the white linen collar and cuffs.

Slow-Pokes Need System for Morning

If you find yourself dashing about the house every morning in search of gloves, a handkerchief or keys and leaving on a note of chaos, hair still up in pin curls, you need a morning routine. Get to it now while the autumn weather and you are both bright and brisk.

A good morning routine really begins in the evening. While you are relaxing in the bath tub, you can plan your outfit and check your pedicure, manicure and eyebrows.

After you have decided on the costume, get the latest weather forecast to be certain you will be safe weatherwise. Then check the clothes for loose buttons, gaping seams, torn hems and pressing needs.

Next, take time out to select the hose that will best match your outfit, to perfect the shine of your shoes and to outfit your handbag completely. This is a tremendous time saver, especially for the absent-minded misses among us.

As the final step before setting the alarm, estimate how much time you will need to dress and eat breakfast. If you are a sleepy-head, add 10 minutes for tossing in bed and for a wake-up shower.

Exercise Caution With New Starch

Heed one warning on the new permanent starches now on the market: You can't wash them out like ordinary starch if you overdo it.

However, used properly, the permanent starch will keep fabrics crisp through eight to 15 washings and make them wear twice as long. It's specially recommended for slip covers, curtains and other household items.

No Excuse

Automatic defrost in new refrigerators is a helpful feature to a busy homemaker. But even though the mess of manual defrosting is eliminated, the weekly cleaning of the ice box should not be neglected.

Sophomore Star to Lead Illini Against Bucks

Caroline Has Sparked Team to Tie, Victory in 1st Two Starts

CHICAGO (U)—Illinois' fighting Illini move into Buckeye country Saturday for their Big Ten opener against ranking Ohio State and with them goes a touch of South Carolina.

By name, he's J. C. Caroline of Columbia, S.C., a sophomore speedster who's being tabbed the cream of Western Conference newcomers.

This 20-year-old Negro with the ringing name says he came to Illinois to emulate his idol, Buddy Young, Illini football flash in the '40s, and Caroline isn't losing any time doing it.

Against Nebraska a week ago Saturday he reverted from goat to hero in 60 minutes. A couple of defensive errors and his tumble on the one-foot line helped the Huskers to a quick lead.

But J. C. redeemed himself. He whipped off a 73-yard run for one touchdown. Then he was the main factor in the game's final touchdown which enabled Illinois to gain a 21-21 tie. In all he picked up 142 yards in 17 tries for an 8.3 yard average.

Against Stanford last Saturday he again was Illinois' pacesetter. Caroline scampered for 133 yards compared to Stanford's entire ground net of 126 yards. His runs, including a 45-yard jaunt, helped Illinois score three times in the final quarter and beat the Indians, 33-21. He now has averaged 7.7 yards in 36 carries.

Like Young, Caroline is exceptionally fast and once in the clear can go all the way. But unlike Young, Caroline is a lanky, 184 pound six-footer.

Says coach Ray Eliot, "before he's through Caroline could be one of the Big Ten's best running backs."

Paul Bryant, a Michigan graduate, is in his third year as director of the 90-piece Duke University marching band.

End of the Line?

Mize Again Indicates He'll Retire, Allie Reynolds Also May End Baseball Career

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (U)—Big Johnny Mize reiterated today his intention to end his active career in baseball and Allie Reynolds may join him in retirement.

Reynolds, the New York Yankee's great righthander, told newspapermen after yesterday's final World Series game he would quit if his back failed to improve over the winter.

"My back has been bothering me ever since I hurt it in that bus accident last July," he said. "I've had muscular spasms, on and off, ever since. For a time, I couldn't even run, let alone pitch."

"My back improved somewhat in the hot weather but I reinjured it again pitching the World Series opener. I was greatly upset then because the muscular spasms returned. However, it wasn't as bad as I thought and I was able to pitch again although I knew I'd never be able to start another series game."

Allie, a wealthy oil man who last spring entertained thoughts of retiring at the end of the 1953 season, said he planned to rest all winter.

"I'm going to give the back a good chance to heal," he said. "If I'm physically fit and feel I can help the club next year, I'll return for another season. But if my back does not come around, I'll hang up my glove."

Reynolds, naturally, was jubilant over his triumph in the final game. He relieved Whitey Ford in last half of the ninth. It was his seventh World Series triumph, equaling the record held by Red Ruffing of another Yankee era.

Mize, who will be 41 in January, left no doubt about his intentions. "I know I can still help the club, especially as a pinch hitter," he said. "But I don't think it will be worth it. I've got two offers now, both of which will pay me more than I'd make playing with the Yankees next year. One is an all-year-round job, the other for five months."

CASE—The Slide Finish.
Develop With Swing—Watch any topflight bowler and you'll see him finish his stride with a graceful slide. It's the pay-off factor of bowling. The slide finish keeps the body in line, produces a smooth follow-through.

Important: The easy slide is the natural result of co-ordinated footwork and swing. Its source is the push-away with a slow first step, which means timing.

How far to slide? Six inches, a foot, 15 inches or more? It depends entirely on what "form" is used: Number of steps and amount of push-away. Major factors are: Don't rush the stride, and don't force the swing. Easy—all the way.

Marathon at Hazel Park

DETROIT (U)—Seven of the best distance horses on the grounds will go the post Wednesday in the $10,000 mile and three-quarters marathon at Hazel Park. Windy, a seven-year-old gelding, has drawn top weight of 132 pounds, highest ever assigned a horse at the track.

Orioles Beset by Ticket Rush

BALTIMORE (U)—Baltimore Orioles are experiencing a pre-season ticket rush — and club officials are rushing to see if they've got enough seats.

The newest club in the American League has orders for 1,600 box and reserve seats that total around $225,000, figuring an average of $140 for each season pastebored, club officials said.

Vice president Jack Dunn III is making a check of architects' plans to make sure no box or reserve seat bet is overlooked. Municipal stadium is being rebuilt and a second deck added to the structure.

Six Other Area Clubs Remain Untarnished

Keego Team Unscored Upon; Waterford Also Has Good Mark

By JACK SAYLOR

The football season is only three weeks old, but only two Oakland County teams can still boast undefeated, untied records. Six others in the county area have perfect marks, while five are unbeaten, but have been tied.

Pontiac High and Holly, in the county, have each won three straight along with Northville, Roseville, North Branch, Warren, Center Line and Port Huron. Keego Harbor is once-tied as are Van Dyke and Capac.

Romeo and Clarenceville have played only two games. One of Romeo's ended in a tie, while Clarenceville has played two tie contests.

Keego is the only team yet unscored on. The Presidents' stout defense, spearheaded by Captain and tackle Herman Kuhn, has shut out Waterford, Walled Lake and Clarkston in that order.

Waterford has given up only six points in three games. But the Skippers played a scoreless tie with Keego and the six points they yielded cost a 6-0 loss to Southfield.

North Branch and Port Huron also have limited opposition to only six points in three games, while Northville and Oxford have given only seven.

Port Huron also is the top offensive machine. Bob Hayes' Big

Ex-Lightweight Ring Titlist Critically Ill in California

CAMARILLO, Calif. (U)—The little man who held the world's lightweight boxing title for many years, Ad Wolgast, is critically ill in a state mental hospital that has been his home for years.

Wolgast, who won the title by a technical knockout over Battling Nelson in 40 rounds, is suffering from an upper respiratory infection. Doctors have been trying to ward off pneumonia. Wolgast, now 65, has been quite feeble for the last year or so.

Wolgast specialized in a rugged offense and could drop an opponent with either hand. It may be that the punishment he absorbed caused a brain injury. He spent most of his life in asylums, being first adjudged insane in Michigan in 1916.

Wolgast's title bout with Nelson, known as "The Durable Dane," was a finish match, with Nelson getting $15,000 and Wolgast $2,500. The bout was held at Port Richmond, near San Francisco, Feb. 22, 1910.

Wolgast, confident that he could outlast Nelson, bet heavily on himself and won $30,000.

Wolgast won the battle in the 40th round. Fouts didn't count. They butted each other. In the 40th the referee stopped the fight. At the peak of his career Wolgast was said to be worth $250,000.

"PRESTONE" ANTI-FREEZE GIVES YOUR CAR FULL 4-WAY PROTECTION

- 1. AGAINST freeze-ups in cold weather, boil-offs on warm days. One shot lasts all winter.
- 2. AGAINST corrosion of the cooling-system metals.
- 3. AGAINST rubber decay, radiator clogging, and pin-hole leaks developing from rust spots.
- 4. AGAINST foaming off and resulting loss of solution.

MECHANICALLY-MINDED CAR OWNERS...SERVICE MEN...ENGINEERS...

Save Trouble, Money...and Your Cars with these Simple Facts from the World's Largest Anti-freeze Laboratory

Most all-winter anti-freezes are made of glycols...high boiling-point, low freezing-point compounds. These properties prevent boil-off when the weather turns warm; prevent freeze-ups when the temperature drops. Thus, they do what alcohol can never do.

However, to make an ideal anti-freeze suitable for modern engines, glycols need 3 special additives:

1. A specially compounded oil inhibitor: (a) to form a microscopically-thin film over small rust spots which otherwise might break through and result in pin-hole leaks; (b) to lay any loose rust that may be in the cooling system, and keep it from circulating and thus plugging up the radiator; and (c) to plate out on rubber hose and seals, and thus to prevent the rotting of these parts by water penetration.

"PRESTONE" anti-freeze has this special oil inhibitor. It is not pretty in a test tube or a bottle, but it does a marvelous job of making pin-stay put and of preventing pin-hole leaks. No anti-freeze without such an inhibitor can do these jobs.

2. A chemical inhibitor to prevent corrosion of the cooling-system metals. Seven metals are commonly used in automobile cooling systems—cast iron, steel, copper, aluminum, brass, lead and tin (solder).

"PRESTONE" anti-freeze has this chemical inhibitor. It gives more protection over the full range of cooling-system metals than any other anti-freeze on the market.

3. An anti-foam to prevent the solution from foaming during fast driving, and thus spilling out through the over-flow pipe.

"PRESTONE" anti-freeze contains an anti-foam which is unsurpassed by that of any other anti-freeze.

The additives in "PRESTONE" anti-freeze are the result of thousands of tests by leading cooling-system engineers and research scientists in the laboratories of Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation at Tonawanda, N. Y., world headquarters for anti-freeze facts, headquartering system data. These and cooling-system data. These laboratories are the authority for our statement that no other anti-freeze gives the same complete protection as "PRESTONE" anti-freeze. There are no substitutes of equal value. There is nothing else like it.

Brooks Praise Hated Martin After Defeat

Tough Little Infielder Called 'Best Player on Yankee Team'

By JOE REICHELLE
NEW YORK (U)—The Dodgers "is" dead and Billy (the Bat) Martin, the "dead end" kid from California, is the little Yankee who slew them.

It was a bitter defeat for the Brooks to swallow, almost unbearable because it was made possible by Martin, most hated of all Yankees.

Brooklyn players made no attempt to conceal their deep dislike for the tough and cocky little second baseman. At various times during the series they called him "fresh," they called him "showboat," they called him "dirty," and they called him names not fit to print.

But at the end of the final game, after Martin had delivered the winning single, a record-breaking 12th hit, they called him "the best player on the Yankees."

They made certain, however, to put a "blankety-blank" in front of his name.

Despite their personal feeling for Martin, the entire Brooklyn squad voiced praise for the spindly-legged infielder.

"It was that little cocky out there on second. He's the best blankety-blank man on their club."

Martin appeared like anything but a fresh, showboat type of hero as he was besieged by reporters in the Yankee clubhouse demanding to know his entire life history.

"I couldn't believe I did it," he said happily but with a certain amount of reserve. "It was the biggest thrill of my life."

The Brooklyn Dodgers hit 40 home runs during the month of August.

The Yankees' Gene Woodling was the batting champion in every minor league in which he has played.

Appropriate Ending

Hero Martin Admired by Both Stengel, Dressen, Who Managed Him in Minors

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (U)—It was right and proper that the player whom Casey Stengel loves above all his other Yankees should have stroked the ninth-inning single which won the deciding game of the 1953 World Series and made the Old Professor the only manager in the history of the game to win five straight world championships.

If the grizzled strategist could have picked his man to lace the one-out drive into center field that gave the Bombers their thrilling 4-3 victory and crushed the resurgent Brooklyn Dodgers, you may be certain his choice would have been Billy Martin, the hard-bitten little scrapper he managed at Oakland and whom he sooner or later brings into almost every conversation.

Even Chuck Dressen of the Dodgers might have had slightly mixed feelings when he saw Martin lay into Clem Labine's second pitch and watched Hank Bauer heading for home with his ground-eating strides. Dressen also holds a soft feeling for the kid who buried his hopes. By one of baseball's choice coincidences, he managed the boy he refers to as "that tough little monkey" the year before Casey did at Oakland.

Only three nights ago, after Martin had made himself something of a goat by attempting to score a run that wouldn't have meant anything and getting thrown out at home to end the fourth game, Chuck sat long in his private dressing room at Ebbets Field and talked about the batter from the Coast. His words were all in admiration, even when he told of having had to slap a stiff fine on Billy for swearing at him. The $2000 fine was rescinded after Martin apologized, somewhat reluctantly.

It should not be assumed from any of this that everybody loves the series hero, whose nose is rivaled in grandeur only by those of such noted figures as Eddie Arcaro and Jimmy Durante. The Brooklyn players, themselves, hold the young man in very low esteem. He is, in fact, their unfavorable Yankee because they consider him a popoff and all-around smart alec.

After what must have been seen yesterday by many millions, including 62,370 who paid to be frozen blue in a sudden change of weather, it can only be accepted that the Yankees are supposed to win World Series and that the present Brooklyn team, however good, is destined to wind up with the losers' share.

No Rally Seen on Grain Board

CHICAGO (AP)—Small price changes ruled in grains at the opening of the Board of Trade today. Dealings were quiet.

The market appeared to be stabilized after Monday's selloff, but it still was not able to manage any rally.

Cash grain receipts fell off sharply, which is a normal development on Tuesdays.

Wheat started 1/4 cent lower to 1/2 cent higher, December $1.90 1/2; corn was 1/4 cent lower, December $1.41 1/2; and oats were unchanged to 1/4 cent higher, December 73 1/2. Soybeans were unchanged to 1/4 cent higher, November $2.59.

Bob Considine Says:

Are A-Secrets to Be Told? It Could Be Idea Is Good

NEW YORK (INS) — The administration finds itself in a position more or less unique in the annals of great nations. And all because of an odd little group of mousey men and humble men and men to peace-loving they would walk a block out of the way to avoid stepping on an ant managed to create bombs horrifying enough to destroy the species and all its achievements.

Not many years ago a nation was pleased and proud to let the world know exactly what it had in its holster. A nation's battlewagons were (and still are) written up and tabulated in "Jane's Fighting Ships."

Military journals tell to their best estimate the number of Russian, U. S., British and Peruvian divisions; how many tanks and what they look like, and often how many planes and what they can carry and how far.

The administration now would like to tell people about the atom, but is afraid.

The administration's great problem is that it feels the people who pay the bills for the atom should know what they're buying, and what the dingbat can do in its two known destructive forms, the A-bomb and the H-bomb.

But to carry out that commendable-sounding proposal, the administration must automatically give to Russia what Russia has been trying to get from us for a dozen years, vital statistics on our bomb development and inventory.

In effect, the administration now is contemplating voluntarily giving away information which would have jalled any individual who gave it away earlier. But it feels the people now must know, even if letting them know means letting Russia know a few things it has been pestering its U. S. spy ring to find out about for years.

The people now must know, it is felt, because they must understand the burden they bear, financially, of keeping us abreast of or ahead of the other side.

They must know, too, that the Reds supposedly have everything we have, and we must assume that they may have a little more; so it is best to tell the people what they would be in for if we got hit.

My suggestion is that the AEC let reporters cover the first real American H-bomb test. President Eisenhower, of course, can do almost anything with the stroke of a pen. But it is certainly going to be something when and if he tells the boys at the Atomic Energy Commission to loosen up and let the people in on what they've been doing.

You have to make a visit to a friend in AEC in Washington to understand how militantly cloistered is that nest of letter-day Merlins and their no-spokesmen.

You are virtually frisked at the door, then escorted to your destination by an armed guard who must get a person in that office to sign a paper to the effect that you have been delivered there.

where a pass-out word has to be memorized. Now, apparently, all of that is to be thrown out the window. Only the future can tell us whether that is a good idea or not. The hunch here is that it is good.

A hep public is an enlightened one, able in a democracy like this to select leaders who can do something about matters even as might as the sub-sub-sub-microscopic atom.

... And Why Not?

OSHKOSH, Neb. (UP)—Two-year-old Michael Bean decided that if you can plant seeds and get vegetables, there's no reason you can't grow chickens that way, too. After watching his father do some planting, Michael began digging holes and sticking chicken feathers in them to "raise some chickens."

Knowland Hits Non-War Pact

U. S.-Russia Agreement Proposed by Stevenson Opposed by Senator

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) let fly yesterday with a double-barreled blast against the kind of nonaggression pact with Russia proposed by Adlai E. Stevenson and against what he termed yielding by India to some Red China policies.

Knowland is Republican floor leader in the Senate, but he maintained he was speaking for himself, not as a member of the Eisenhower administration. There was no White House comment, but Sen. Theodore F. Green (D-R.I.) said: "I hope he is not reflecting White House views. Does he think we can fight the whole world alone?"

Fresh from weekend conferences with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, Knowland told a news conference he would oppose any pact guaranteeing Russia's borders unless the Soviets agreed in advance to free elections in their satellite nations.

Knowland verbally spanked Prime Minister Nehru of India. He said Nehru speaks for only a part of Asia, and that if Nehru's voice was paramount the ultimate communication of Asia would be in prospect.

Knowland, just returned from a world tour, accused India of "yielding to the policies of the Chinese Communists before there is any peace conference in Korea" and "handicapping the peace as they handicapped the war."

The Californian struck out directly at a proposal by Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, that the United States offer Russia a system of nonaggression guarantees in a move to force a showdown with the Soviets in the cold war.

Stevenson said after a White House conference last Thursday that Eisenhower was weighing the suggestion.

Sen. Green, like Knowland a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the Republican leader "sounds like the small boy watching a parade who said, 'Everybody's out of step but my papa.'"

"I hope he is not reflecting White House views," Green said. "Can't we get on with anyone? Does he think we can fight the whole world alone? It's unfortunate he has to put these views on record at such a critical time as we're having in the Korean affair."

At his news conference yesterday, Knowland said that if the Soviets were offered a nonaggression pact without conditions, the action would be tantamount to freezing the satellites within the Iron Curtain.

Bicycle Accidents Kill 600 Each Year

CHICAGO (UP)—The American Medical Association reports that bicycle accidents are killing about 600 persons a year.

The association said in an editorial in the July issue of its Journal that 70 percent of the victims are girls and boys between 5 and 19 years old.

Between the ages of 10 and 14 years, the association found, more girls were killed than boys.

"This indicates that young girls, like young boys, are frequently too venturesome," the editorial said.

"There was, however, an appreciable number of deaths even among older cyclists."

Two-thirds of the bicycle accidents occurred between May and October. Eighty percent of the deaths involved collision with a motor vehicle, the article said.

The editorial appealed to parents and the schools to teach bicycle safety. It asked that drivers be made more aware of the danger to bicyclists.

Vesuvius Gets Chair-Lift

ROME (INS)—For the first time in history it will now be possible to reach the summit of Mount Vesuvius in comfort and safety by means of a chair lift, making the ascension with 260 passengers at a time in five minutes, according to the Italian travel agency.

Manchuria is half again larger than Texas.
