SCENE OF ARSON — A fireman inspects damage to the Bloomfield Township home of Charles O'Brien, Detroit Teamster business agent. State police said arson figured in the blaze that caused $35,000 damage to the interior of the home last night.

$35,000 Damage to Hoffa Pal's House in Area

Charles O'Brien Away as Blaze Wrecks 8-Room County Residence

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR. and PETE LOCHBILER

Fire, which State Police said was deliberately set, last night gutted the interior of the Bloomfield Township home of Charles O'Brien, Teamster pal of James R. Hoffa.

The home, a two-story brick modern colonial, is at 205 Harrow Circle, a block north of Birmingham on the east side of Woodward avenue.

Damage was estimated at $35,000.

Union troubles and burglary both figured as possible motives for the blaze.

O'Brien and his family were not home. O'Brien is a business agent for Teamsters Local 299 in Detroit, Hoffa's home local.

Police said the living room of the eight-room house and two second floor bedrooms had been soaked with fuel oil or possibly kerosene.

Four empty five gallon cans were found inside the house, two on the first floor and two on the second.

Sgt. Oramel O'Farrell, state police fire marshal said the blaze "definitely was arson."

'NO ACCIDENT'

"We don't know why the fire was set, or who set it, but we know it was no accident."

The home is owned by O'Brien's mother, Mrs. Sylvia Paris, wife of the late John D. Paris, official of the laundry workers' union. She had been away from home 1½ hours before the fire started at 9 p.m., but happened to drive by only 40 minutes before the blaze and saw a mysterious car there.

More than 40 firemen and eight trucks from the Bloomfield Township, Bloomfield Hills and Troy fire departments fought the stubborn blaze for 1½ hours last night.

Firemen said flames started on the first floor and swept through the interior, burning part of the roof.

The $50,000 home is in a secluded, well-to-do neighborhood set 75 yards back from the road in a cluster of trees.

More than a score of officials were at the scene this morning, including state and local police.

The stately house, its walls scorched and windows broken, was roped off by state police.

★ ★ ★

The arson carried echoes of the sensational Frank H. Kierdorf torch case last summer.

Kierdorf, a Flint business agent for the Teamsters Union, was fatally burned setting fire to a dry cleaning establishment.

Coincidentally, Frank's uncle, Herman Kierdorf, was due today to begin a 1 to 5 year prison term in Jackson Prison. Herman's conviction of possessing a pistol silencer stemmed from the investigation of his nephew's arson death.

"There is no apparent connection between this fire and the Kierdorf case," O'Farrell said.

But officials were poised in the event a connection developed. Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem, who helped conduct last summer's Kierdorf investigation, said his office was prepared to enter the case.

Mrs. Paris blamed the arson on her hon's Teamster activities, but added, after inspecting the house, that a number of valuables were missing, including a watch, two rings and $200 cash.

She said there had been numerous telephone threats made to her home earlier this year when O'Brien led the Teamster movement to organize Dearborn city employes.

"We'll burn you out," was one of the threats made by anonymous telephone callers, she said.

Mrs. Paris said that not only O'Brien, but his wife, two chil-

EXAMINES PRIME CLUES — Sgt. Oramel O'Farrell, state police fire marshal, studies one of the five-gallon cans found at the scene of last night's arson. Despite the label "gasoline," fuel oil or possibly kerosine was used in the arson, O'Farrell said. Police later began studying the cans for fingerprints in hopes of a clue leading to the identity of the arsonist. O'Farrell is shown in the living room, where destruction was greatest.

Arson and Teamsters

Violence Pattern Emerges

By PETE LOCHBILER

Arson and Teamsters.

Almost a year ago, the sensational torch death of Frank H. Kierdorf, a Teamster business agent.

Shortly after, fire in the Pontiac apartment of Leaun Harrelson, president of Pontiac Teamsters Local 614.

Now, the Bloomfield Township home of a Detroit Teamsters business agent ravaged by flames.

Arson in all three cases.

A rare pattern of violence is emerging, with Oakland County as the scene.

The match which Frank Kierdorf put to the Latreille Cleaners in suburban Flint late Aug. 3 set off more than the fire in which he was fatally burned.

It has touched off a strange series of events, seemingly connected in some baffling way.

Harrelson, who figured in last summer's torch probe, maintained there was no connection between the Kierdorf case and the fire that struck his apartment at 20 Douglas St. just 16 days after Kierdorf stumbled into St. Joseph Mercy Hospital with burns covering his body.

Living in the apartment was Harrelson's girl friend, Mary Ann Thon. Police said an arsonist threw gasoline into the apartment through the front door, lit it, then dashed away down the back stairs.

A shadowy figure, never identified, was seen running down the stairway.

Harrelson maintained the fire was set to embarrass him publicly.

Authorities never found any other link between the Harrelson and Kierdorf fires except the obvious one:

Both men were Teamsters, both fires were arson.

There was no attempt in last night's fire to hide the fact that it was arson.

Four fuel oil cans were found in the gutted home of Charles O'Brien, business agent for James R. Hoffa's home local in Detroit.

Officials began investigating the fire with the Kierdorf and Harrelson blazes occupying a portion of their thoughts.

One of the first statements made by Sgt. Oramel O'Farrell, state police fire marshal who is investigating the fire, was pointed at the two previous arsons.

"There's no apparent connection so far between this fire and the Kierdorf case," he said.

But police were looking for any clue that would connect the fires.

So far, there was only that one, baffling connection:

Teamsters and arson.

Pontiac General Eying Profit

Hopes for Balanced Budget During Next Fiscal Year

Pontiac General Hospital hopes to show a profit during the coming year, said James Clarkson, re-elected chairman of the hospital's Board of Trustees last night.

★ ★ ★

"I'm sure the next 12 months will see us out of the red," said Clarkson, beginning his second one-year term.

"Completion of the building program early next year will see the hospital operating on a balanced budget," he predicted.

Two other officers were re-elected.

Mrs. B. B. Roush was re-elected secretary and T. M. Bradford was re-elected treasurer.

The Rev. Theodore R. Allebach was named vice chairman, succeeding William P. Babcock, one-time chairman of the Board.

Harold B. Euler, hospital administrator, reported on three financial matters.

He said the hospital expects to receive soon an $85,892 federal construction grant, applied for three years ago under the Hill-Burton act.

TO REMODEL WING

The money will be thrown into remodeling of the east wing, he said.

State officials administering the federal funds recently completed an inspection of the hospital, Euler said, and have recommended to federal officials that the money be released.

The hospital has appealed to Michigan Hospital Service (Blue Cross) in an effort to save $51,235, Euler said.

The money represents the amount by which the hospital was overpaid by Blue Cross last year, he explained.

★ ★ ★

The hospital last month paid back $24,000 and promised to pay $4,000 more every month until the debt is paid off.

★ ★ ★

"However, by appealing to Blue Cross as a hardship case, we hope to cancel the whole debt and recover the $24,000," Euler told Trustees.

The third item brought up by Euler concerned expenditures which the City Commission authorized this spring to get remodeling of the east wing started.

Of the $200,000 authorized by the city, the hospital had spent $182,343 as of last Monday, Euler said.

★ ★ ★

"The city will have to allocate more money for the east wing soon," he told the Board.

Castro Quits Post to Rebuild Support

By HAROLD K. MILKS

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro is quitting as prime minister, apparently to rally public support for his troubled regime.

Cuban workers at once began strikes and parades to show they are behind the bearded revolutionary.

Castro arrived at the presidential palace at midmorning, apparently to present his resignation to President Manuel Urrutia. Immediately Havana radios began appealing to listeners to send telegrams to Castro to show their support.

Workers in a number of Havana shops and factories began a walkout. The Federation of Bank Workers called an immediate sitdown strike.

The Federation urged all other unions to join in the demonstration in "a show of approval of Fidel Castro and his policies."

STILL TOP MAN

Groups of workers marched to the plaza of the presidential palace, shouting support for Castro and his revolution.

It was generally agreed in Havana that Castro still is the No. 1 man in Cuba and that his absence from office will be brief.

Castro's decision to resign was announced today in Revolucion, newspaper of his 26th of July Movement and confirmed by Paul Castro, his brother and heir-apparent.

Associates said Castro had been upset by recent developments, including the resignation and flight of his air force commander, Maj. Pedro Luiz Diaz Lanz. Later Diaz told U.S. senators that Castro and others high in his government are Communists — a charge the Castro forces vigorously deny.

Castro also has been disturbed about evidence of opposition to him within Cuba. But close associates say these activities have been annoying rather than serious.

Casto took over as Prime Minister Feb. 17.

Recently he has been devoting almost all his working time to the agrarian reform program. He said it would "determine the fate of our revolution."

Opposition to Castro's plan to break up large land holdings to provide small farms for the landless has been reported from sugar to cattle interests.

Power Failure Paralyzes Half of Pontiac Today

Half of Pontiac was without electricity this morning as a power line failure knocked out traffic signals and halted production at the Fisher Body plant.

Work at Fisher Body came to an abrupt halt at 11:37 a. m. when the power failure occurred. The entire plant shut down and first shift workers sent home.

★ ★ ★

"With no idea how long it would take to restore power, we had no alternative but to close up shop and send everybody home," said T. F. Wiethorn, plant manager.

Meanwhile motorists were proceeding cautiously as lights in the north and east section of the city were not operating.

Electricity was finally restored two hours later at 1:30 a.m. Second-shift Fisher Body workers were to report this afternoon.

★ ★ ★

The power failure occurred when a Consumer power main transmission cable on South boulevard reportedly burned out. An auxiliary line for use in such emergencies was down for repairs and could not be used, a Consumers spokesman said.

The power failure also affected the Administration building of the Pontiac Motor Division on Oakland Avenue.

The switchboards of Consumers Power and the Pontiac Police Dept. were busy handling hundreds of calls. Many residents in the vicinity of Sanford street and Irwin Ave. reported hearing what sounded like an explosion at the time the power failure occurred.

Steel Production Losses Mount

500,000 Strikers Also Drop Much in Wages as Deadlock Prevails

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Steel production loss mounted toward 100 million dollars today in the third day of the nationwide steel strike. No end to the crippling shutdown is in sight.

Many more millions in wages have been lost by 500,000 striking United Steelworkers, quietly manning picket lines at darkened mills.

Losses on both sides will grow steadily. The negotiations front is static.

In Washington, President Eisenhower and Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell conferred for an hour and 45 minutes today on the steel strike but the White House declined to provide any details.

There's little optimism on the part of strikers, the steel industry or the government that the contract stalemate can be resolved quickly. Neither the industry nor the union has given any sign of retreating from its stand.

David J. McDonald, president of the Steelworkers, told pickets at the Bethlehem Steel Corp. plant in Bethlehem, Pa.: "We meet with the government on Monday, but I don't know whether it will do any good. Up to this point, we have been meeting nothing but messenger boys."

Dry Spell Due to End With Rain Tonight

Scattered showers and thunderstorms beginning tonight and occurring daily through Wednesday, mostly in the afternoons or evenings, was the welcome forecast of the weatherman.

Temperatures for the next five days will continue near the normal high of 84 and normal low of 63. The low tonight will be near 68, tomorrow's high 86.

Saturday night and Sunday will be somewhat cooler.

Sixty-eight was the lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The mercury rose to 79 at 2 p.m.

News Flash

JACKSON (AP) — Consumers Power Co. said today it will add 30,000 gas space heating customers in Michigan as soon as a Federal Power Commission order is effective permitting increased supplies from Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co.

Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. said its customers will face a gas rate boost within 30 days if the order goes through. The FPC order permits Panhandle to cut its supplies of 137 million cubic feet of gas a day to Consolidated and distribute most of that gas to other customers.

Predict Plum for Bohlen

WASHINGTON (UPI)—High administration officials said today Soviet affairs expert Charles E. Bohlen probably will be offered a high state department post soon with President Eisenhower's full approval despite recent indications to the contrary.

Kierdorf and Dye Now on the Way to Jackson Prison

Slow, but sure, the wheels of justice locked shut on former Detroit Teamsters Union organizer Herman Kierdorf and former Fenton attorney Clifford B. Dye today.

★ ★ ★

Both men were denied continuance of bail this afternoon in the Oakland County Circuit Court of Judge Clark J. Adams.

For 63-year-old Kierdorf it marked the end of almost a year-long battle through Michigan's court system in appeals of his conviction of possession of a pistol silencer.

It was a three-year fight for Dye, convicted on assault with intent to do great bodily harm on a farmer with whom he had been having disputes over land ownership.

Kierdorf was sentenced with 1 to 5 years.

Dye received a 2 to 10 year sentence.

Both men, appearing in good spirits, at 1:30 p. m. departed the Oakland County Jail by sheriff's road patrol car for Jackson Prison.

Both men surrendered themselves in Circuit Court today after the Michigan Supreme Court denied appeals of both for stays of execution.

Judge Adams told Kierdorf, "I feel that the matter has gone as far as it can in this court. I must deny you your freedom on continuance of your bond and remand you to the sheriff for the execution of your sentence."

The same words were directed to Dye.

★ ★ ★

Kierdorf, who said recently he didn't think he could stand a long sentence because of a heart condition, was asked the condition of his health at present. He shook his head negatively.

★ ★ ★

White haired, 57-year-old Dye complained that the manacles were too tight on his left wrist as the pair were led to the squad car waiting to take them to Jackson. Kierdorf chided him as they left the jail.

"Just behave yourself," Herman quipped.

Linteau Granted Airline Service

LANSING (AP) — The Public Service Commission today granted Louis C. Linteau and T. N. Bancker permission to operate a limousine bus service between Pontiac, Birmingham, Pontiac Municipal Airport, Detroit Metro Airport and Willow Run Airport.

Permission was granted, the commission said, despite the criminal record of Linteau, former secretary-treasurer of Pontiac Teamsters Local 614, convicted twice for illegal business deals.

SAN DIEGO, Calif (AP)—For nearly a week, the announcement board in front of St. Mark's Episcopal Church carried the plea: CHOIR IS BADLY IN NEED OF VICES.

Phone Threat Follows Blast

'Better Join the Union,' Says Caller to Pontiac Gas Station Manager

The manager of a Pontiac gas station which the Michigan Gas Attendants Union of Teamster Local 614 has been attempting to organize reported receiving anonymous telephone threats last night.

The phone calls were received following a mysterious explosion earlier at the Progressive Oil Co., 477 S. Saginaw St., in which a station attendant was injured.

Arthur Sofian, 43, station manager, reported to Pontiac Police today that the caller, speaking roughly, warned him that the "attendants better join the union if the station wants protection."

The attendant, Ross Morgan, 54, of 7125 Elizabeth Lake Rd., was burned while burning papers behind the station early yesterday morning. When he put a match to the trash, the 50 gallon drum exploded.

Morgan was hurled backward 20 feet by the force of the blast. He was taken to Pontiac General Hospital and treated for burns to the right arm, bruises and shock. He was sent home and ordered to rest for a few days.

Morgan's wife reported to the Oakland County Sheriff's Dept. that last night and this morning she had received two anonymous calls asking about her husband's condition.

"The person who called said that he was sorry about what happened and the explosion wasn't meant for my husband," Mrs. Morgan told deputies.

Sofian said that attempts have been made by the Michigan Gas Attendants Union to organize the station and that he has been threatened in the past.

"But I didn't pay any attention before because I thought they were bluffing," he said.

The station employs six attendants and is open around the clock.

Pontiac Police Det. Earl Skrobeck said that all of the station's employes would be questioned today.

The contents of the oil drum are being sent to the Michigan Dept. of Health for analysis, he said.

A spokesman for the Gas Attendants Union said no contact has been had with the station since an unsuccessful attempt to bring the attendants into the union six weeks ago.

Waterford Township School Tax Rates Set

Waterford Township Board of Education last night approved 1959 school tax rates as presented by Supt. William Shunck.

The total spread amounts to 25.5 mills, with school operation absorbing the bulk at 16.32. Elementary school debt was set at 2.2 and the junior high .8.

The report showed that .9 mills was allocated to be paid on the $1,000,000 bond issue authorized in 1956, and 2.28 mills for the $2,500,000 school bond issue in 1957.

Of the $5,000,000 bond issue approved by voters in March, only $2,500,000 is being spread at this time, with a tax rate of 3 mills.

NO TAX HIKE

In spite of the large building program now in operation, Shunck said, there will be no increase in taxes.

"If this year's Waterford Township valuation is not increased, the school tax will remain the same as last year," he stated.

In other business, the Board approved the hiring of 13 teachers, and followed the superintendent's recommendation that Mrs. Corine Ruelle, an Isaac Crary Junior High school teacher, be named principal of the Drayton Plains Elementary School effective Aug. 31.

The following committees were approved by the Board: Building Committee: Lester K. Carlson, chairman; Edmund L. Windeler, James DenHerder and John E. Hills.

Personnel Committee: past president of the Board of Education Mrs. Donald E. Adams, chairman; and Eldon Rosegart and Shunck.

New School Name Committee: Mrs. Adams and Dr. Chandos Reid.

Windeler was named chaplain, and the two Recreation Board members will be Carlson and Rosegart.

Of the two bids submitted for additional parking and driveway facilities for the new Thomas E. Cooley School, the low base bid of $12,700 was awarded to Fulte-Strand, Inc.

The other bidder was the Petku Construction Co., whose bid was $20,861.

★ ★ ★

The Board also approved the school building location of the Dill property on Walton Blvd. at Dill St.

KIWANIS CLUB CHARTERED — Congratulating new Drayton-Waterford Kiwanis Club President Loren D. Aris is Sidney Main, governer of the Michigan District of Kiwanis. Burn Home of Hoffa Pal in Bloomfield Township dren, and she herself had been the objects of the telephone threats.

The last threat was two weeks ago, she said, when her son was warned, "Stay out of Dearborn."

Hoffa handpicked O'Brien to lead the Dearborn drive, Mrs. Paris said.

"People who said they were from Dearborn called and said they would beat Charlie (O'Brien) up or kill him if he didn't lay off," the mother said.

★ ★ ★

"He called them cranks and laughed at the calls, but they worried me and his wife."

O'Brien was flying home today from Wyoming, where he was scheduled to remain on business until tomorrow.

Police planned to talk to him after his plane arrives at Detroit Metro Airport. It's scheduled for 5 p.m.

Mrs. O'Brien and two children are visiting her mother in Kansas City, Mo. for the summer.

Mrs. Paris told of seeing a strange car speed away from her home as she drove away from the neighborhood with friends about 8:20 p.m.

The car — an old light grey sedan — was parked mysteriously in her driveway, she said.

Mrs. Paris had been at the home of her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Schjolin, since 7:30 p.m., she said.

The Schjolins' home is on Stoney Brook Lane, around the corner from the O'Brien house.

"As we rounded the corner onto Harrow circle, the strange car took off. I didn't see how many people were in it.

"We thought it must have been teenagers who parked there for some reason after I had left an hour earlier."

Mrs. Paris and the Schjolins spent the evening at a public meeting in the Bloomfield Township Hall and didn't return home until midnight. Firemen were still at the O'Brien home.

O'Brien, although only 23, commands a high position in the Teamster hierarchy and is a personal friend of Jimmy Hoffa.

O'Brien's daughter, Josephine, 2, is named after Hoffa's wife. O'Brien also has a son, Charles Jr.

At noon, Hoffa's own personal representative arrived, a private investigator named Albert DeLamielleure. He accompanied Mrs. Paris when she entered the burnt-out house for the first time to inspect damage.

When Mrs. Paris emerged a half-hour later, she had retrieved only two objects from the ruin. One was a framed photograph of Jimmy Hoffa, the other was a small, pocket notebook which she said was her son's.

"The Teamsters want to find out who did this," DeLamielleure said.

The private investigator had hovered on the sidelines of the Kierdorf investigation for Hoffa and later testified in behalf of Jack Thompson, Flint Teamsters business agent who was convicted as Kierdorf's partner in arson.

Raven-haired Mrs. Paris granted a tearful press interview in the Schjolin back yard.

"I don't know who could have done such a terrible thing" she said.

Petite and still attractive, Mrs. Paris talked nervously and broke into tears frequently.

She wore a strange combination of mulberry colored shorts, and orange blouse. She had on sunglasses and was barefoot.

Mrs. Paris said the house was bought by her husband, who died in February, 1957.

Paris was secretary - treasurer of Laundry Workers Union Local 129.

Mrs. Paris herself was once active in a union. She was a secretary to Local 876 of the Grocers and Retail Clerks Union, which had its headquarters at the same place as her husband's local.

Mr. and Mrs. Paris were divorced before his death in California. A sister of Paris, Cleo, was married to the late movie actor, Edward Arnold.

Hoffa's top aide, Bert Brennan, president of Teamster Local 337 in Detroit, said he knew of no reason why any one would set fire to O'Brien's home.

"We all have enemies, of course, but Charlie didn't have any that would do that. It all surprises me."

BILLIE HOLIDAY

Jazz Great Dies in N. Y. Hospital

Billie Holiday Eclipsed by Narcotics, Liquor in Recent Years

NEW YORK (AP)—Billie Holiday died today in a city hospital bed—a wasted shadow of the once great blues singer who packed night clubs from coast to coast.

Bouts with narcotics and liquor had cracked her fine and mellow style, and she had been in eclipse in recent years.

The Negro entertainer — called "Lady Day"—died at 3:20 a.m. at Metropolitan Hospital. Her husband Louis McKay was at her bedside.

The immediate cause of death was given as congestion of the lungs complicated by heart failure.

Miss Holiday, 44, was taken to the hospital unconscious May 31 after she collapsed in her apartment.

When death came, she was under arrest—charged with possession of a pack of heroin in her bed.

She had been under treatment for liver and heart disease and other ailments.

Miss Holiday, who had a sordid childhood in her native Baltimore, hit the entertainment heights in the 1930s. She made her first recordings in 1933.

In the 1950s she started to slip badly — arrests on narcotics charges in several states; a "cure" in a federal hospital that didn't work; bouts with the bottle; and only small jobs despite the best efforts of her manager-husband.

"Lady Day's" last major jazz concert appearance was Sept. 13, 1958, at Town Hall. Her last public appearance—at an off - Broadway theater—was shortly before she was taken to the hospital.

Because of her arrests, police had banned her from entertaining in night clubs here in recent years.

★ ★ ★

In better days Miss Holiday had appeared with Benny Goodman and Louis Armstrong. Among her big song hits were "Them There Eyes," "Strange Fruit" and "I Cover the Waterfront."

Plan to Tax Advertising Draws Stiff Opposition

DETROIT (AP)—Advertising circles and the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. (ANPA) today attacked a legislative proposal to tax commercial advertising.

The Adcraft Club of Detroit sent a resolution to members of the House and Senate at Lansing warning that the advertising tax proposal would have a "regressive effect on business generally."

The publishers association, a national group, said in a letter sent here that such a tax would be harmful because it would "place a burden on the people."

Cranston Williams, general manager of the ANPA, referred to advertising as "not a commodity" but a "primary factor in mass production and mass distribution."

"It is not the advertising or the advertising medium which benefits most from advertising, but the people," Williams said. "To tax advertising is to place a burden on the people themselves and there is no instance on record showing that the economy and the people are helped by such a tax."

The Adcraft Club, which has 1,300 members, said the tax would harm citizens both by impending free speech and denying the public full information on goods and services.

W. D. Moore, club president and director of advertising for Dodge Division of Chrysler Corp., said the commercial advertising tax proposal was included "as an afterthought" in the "fine print of the Conlin plan."

In its resolution the club said:

"Taxes on commercial advertising will harm the tax program itself, will place Michigan advertising producers and media in an undesirable competitive position with out-of-state companies, will adversely affect employment in the business and trades, and will work against the interests of consumers."

Moore said four other Michigan groups support the Adcraft club's position. He said they are the Graphic Arts Assn., American Assn. of Advertising Agencies, Michigan Assn. of Broadcasters and the Audio-visual Assn.

Farmington Outing Ends in Drowning

A Farmington recreation swimming group outing ended in tragedy Thursday as a 12-year-old boy drowned in Kent Lake at Kensington Metropolitan Park.

William R. Tesner Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Tesner Sr. of 32501 W. 11 Mile Rd., Farmington Township, was discovered missing at 1:30 p.m., about 30 minutes after the group of youngsters entered the water at Maple Beach.

Group supervisors and park lifeguards cleared the beach and began the search. Charles Schendor, a camp counselor, found the boy's body at 1:50 in about three feet of water.

An inhalator failed to revive him. He was pronounced dead by Oakland County Deputy Coroner Dr. W. C. Gibson of Milford.

Miriani Fires Verbal Volley at Russian Coach

DETROIT (AP)—Mayor Louis Miriani has fired another verbal shell over the iron curtain in his personal war with the Russians.

Miriani touched off the battle last week when he refused to meet Soviet First Deputy Premier Frol Kozlov during the top Russian's visit to Detroit.

His latest volley came yesterday when he was told Gabriel Korobkov, head coach of a Russian track team now in Philadelphia to compete against an American team, considered Miriani's failure to greet Kozlov as "unkind."

"Tell Korobkov to be a track coach and stay out of politics," Miriani said. "I don't know him and I'm not going to be unkind to him. I do hope he's as good a track coach as he says he is, but in the showdown I'm still betting on the United States team to beat his team."

According to latest figures, last year's 100 top national newspaper advertisers invested over $300 million dollars.

Kills Subpoena for GM Records

Attorneys Claim Move Political Angling; Judge Rules It Unreasonable

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge today quashed a subpoena calling for General Motors Corp. records as far back as 1929 to be produced before a grand jury investigating the auto industry.

GM attorneys had attacked the move as part of a "politically inspired fishing expedition" in search of evidence for a civil antitrust action. The company said the subpoena would have involved digging up tons of files and a search of more than 100,000 file drawers.

GM, the largest manufacturing corporation in the country, argued against the subpoena before Judge John F.X. McGohey in U.S. District Court. The company's lawyers charged the government was using a federal grand jury improperly.

★ ★ ★

"The subpoena itself must be read and studied to appreciate the extraordinary breadth and demand for 'policy documents.' It includes, for example, those relating to 'products' produced by the corporation or purchased by it from others," the judge said.

Two Area Women Chosen for Mental Health Offices

BIRMINGHAM—Two area women have been elected to offices of the Oakland County Chapter of the Michigan Society for Mental Health.

Named to a vice president's post was Mrs. Harvey B. Greene, of 1040 Country Club Dr., Bloomfield Hills. Mrs. Edwin V. Clarke, of 792 Willits St., will take over as treasurer.

Both women will assume their duties in September for the 1959-60 year.

Authority to consent to dismissal of a zoning suit brought by Birmingham builder, Archie A. Addison, against Beverly Hills was given to Village Attorney Thomas Dillon this week by the Village Council.

Dillon said that Addison is dismissing an Oakland County Circuit Court suit which asked for commercial zoning of lots 63, 64 on Southfield road between 13 and 14-Mile roads. The lots originally were zoned residential.

Addison's legal action had been brought prior to the council's approval of education-research-office zoning for the lots, where he wants to establish a dental office.

The year's quota has been surpassed at the Red Cross Blood Bank in Beverly Hills, reports Director Mrs. C. L. Klepper.

At least 100 pints of blood were sought, and residents have donated 102 pints to insure an adequate emergency supply of blood to the community. The Blood Bank is located in the Greenfield School.

School bonds for an addition to the Bloomfield Hills Junior High school on Quarton road have been awarded to Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., of Chicago, according to School Superintendent Eugene L. Johnson.

The Chicago firm's low bid was for 4.4 per cent interest. The Board of Education expects to complete the bond transaction by Aug. 1. Bloomfield Hills Junior High School is located at 4200 Quarton Rd.

Johnson also announced that the Board of Education is in the process of completing negotiations for the purchase of a 16-acre tract from Roy Deskin.

Purchase of the land, located on Long Lake road, across from the Kirk - in - the - Hills Presbyterian Church, will provide a site for future school construction.

An overheated firepot yesterday sent the Birmingham Fire Department to the Arcadia Manufacturing Co., at 1081 Eton Rd., Birmingham.

When they arrived, firemen fought fumes and smoke as well as a small fire. The blaze was controlled quickly. Fire Chief Park Smith attributed the incident, which occurred at 3:56 p.m., to "faulty housekeeping."

Seek Young Woman in Golf Pro Killing

CANTON, N.Y. (AP) — A young golf pro was shot to death today and police were looking for an attractive young woman seen with him Thursday night.

★ ★ ★

The body of Richard G. Smith, 27, pro at the St. Lawrence Golf and Country Club, was found at about 7 a.m. hanging face-down on the right side of his automobile.

The car had come to a fast stop, judging by skid marks, in the middle of a road on the St. Lawrence University campus.

Police broadcast an alarm for Miss Terry Francis, who registered here a few days ago as a resident of Miami, Fla. Police said the shapely brunette was wanted as a material witness.

Fenton Attorney Dye to Start Prison Term

Former Fenton village attorney Clifford B. Dye was scheduled to begin a 2-to-10-year sentence in Jackson Prison today.

He has been instructed to surrender himself to the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office at 1 p.m.

★ ★ ★

The State Supreme Court today refused to allow bail for the 57-year-old practicing Fenton attorney convicted in Oakland County Circuit Court of assault in the shooting of a farmer in 1955.

★ ★ ★

Out on bail of $10,000 for more than three years, Dye had asked freedom pending an appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

According to a recent survey, the average high school girl spends $170 per year on clothing. To reach this ever growing market, apparel advertisers invested over $8½ million in daily newspapers last year.

Thundershowers Hit Wide Area of Middle U. S.

By The Associated Press

More thunderstorms and showers hit wide areas in the West, Midwest and Southeast today but the rains appeared ended in most of the Atlantic Coast region.

One wet belt during the night extended from South Dakota southward through the central plains into the southern Rockies. The showers and thunderstorms diminished in many areas but thunderstorms continued during the morning in parts of Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and parts of Arkansas.

A smaller band of showers persisted from Mississippi into eastern Tennessee and western North Carolina.

Gal Racer Says Men Are Better

Women Drivers Don't Compare

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"Women drivers are just not in the same league with men."

★ ★ ★

The woman who says this ought to know. She's Josie von Neumann who's been racing against men the last seven years and will compete in Sunday's 150-mile Grand Prix sports car race at Riverside International Raceway.

"The best woman driver will never measure up to a good male driver," says 27-year-old Josie.

"She doesn't have the right mental attitude. A woman is more flighty than a man. I think women lack a certain amount of concentration and they have a stronger feeling of self-preservation."

Is she talking about racing only, or does this hold true in traffic too? "Anywhere," said Josie. "We gals are just not as competent as men."

Sunday's race will be the first time the U.S. Auto Club has let a woman compete against top drivers in a national event and Miss von Neumann admits she's "a little nervous."

"But I'm dying to try it," she said.

★ ★ ★

Josie grew up in sports car racing. Her stepfather, now divorced from her mother, is Johnny von Neumann, one of the country's top drivers.

Josie, 5-feet 4 and brown-eyed, is a divorcee, has no children.

Watered-Down Labor Bill Facing House Battle Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bitter, unpredictable battle on the floor of the House was all but assured today over adoption of a labor-management controls bill.

The House Labor Committee, at a late night session, virtually completed action on a bill denounced by a Republican spokesman as Teamsters President James R. Hoffa's greatest victory. Faction-split Democrats disagreed on various provisions and on the bill's over-all effectiveness.

★ ★ ★

In many respects, the bill met most basic objections of organized labor and represented a substantial revision of the Senate-passed version.

Rep. Carroll D. Kearns of Pennsylvania, senior committee Republican, told reporters "Jimmy Hoffa has won his greatest victory."

"The bill tentatively agreed on by the House Labor Committee fails to correct the racketeering that has been revealed" by the Senate Labor-Management Committee investigation of the Teamsters and other labor unions, "In fact," he said, "it exempts nearly 70 per cent of the nation's unions from even reporting their activities."

★ ★ ★

Resentment was reported among some committee members over strong efforts of AFL-CIO representatives to influence them in favor of labor - backed amendments. AFL-CIO spokesmen met twice in the past two days with committee members in what was reported as "or else" sessions in support of labor's views.

Still ahead are the drafting of some of the measure's provisions and of a report to accompany it.

London Catches Slaying Suspect

Underworld Aids in Capture of German in Policeman's Death

LONDON (UPI) — Guenter Podola, the scarfaced ex-Hitler youth suspected of blackmail and murder, was confined today in the mental ward of a hospital while Scotland Yard studied his case.

Podola, 30, was not charged, but Scotland Yard questioned him at length about the murder of Detective Sergeant Raymond Purdy, a crime so abhorrent in Britain that even the underworld helped look for the killer.

The nightmare world without friends ended for Podola yesterday afternoon when Scotland Yard men — armed for the first time in months — charged into room 15 of a small residential hotel and found him cowering there, weak from hunger.

Podola had been hiding for three days without food while a hostile underworld aided a massive police search that ended when the detectives, one with a powerful dog on a leash, entered room 15 at the Claremont House Hotel in Queen's Gate.

★ ★ ★

It was still not know what "nark" — London slang for informer — had turned Podola in.

The slaying of a policeman is one of the few murders for which Britain exacts death by hanging. It is frowned on by the underworld as not playing the game — it causes too much inconvenience for London's minor criminals.

Man, 72, Wants Clean Record

He Deserted Navy in 1917

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Lewis E. Clayburg, 72, has gone without Social Security payments for seven years, he told the FBI Thursday, because he deserted the Navy in World War I and was afraid to collect payments under a false name.

Clayburg walked into the Navy recruiting station Wednesday, the FBI said, and surrendered as a deserter because "I want to get it off my chest."

Once a ship's carpenter and now a farm and odd job worker, Clayburg said he went on a drinking spree Aug. 7, 1917, from his post at Bremerton, Wash., Navy base, "woke up in Oregon" and decided not to go back.

The FBI said a check with Washington, D.C., failed to turn up any "wanted" status for Clayburg.

The Navy said it couldn't arrest Clayburg until it finds out whether he is a deserter. Clayburg checked into a hotel to await the Navy's decision.

AP Wirephoto

He's One of 'Those Who Can'

Humphrey Has Come Long Way

By United Press International

Hubert H. Humphrey has disproved the adage "Those who can, do; those who can't, teach."

The Democratic senator from Minnesota was a professor of political science. Then he quit teaching and started politicking. His record shows he has been quite scientific about it. Undoubtedly he's been successful.

The tall senator — so handsome he could be a television cowboy — is under consideration as the Democratic presidential candidate next year. This week Minnesota Sen. Eugene McCarthy and Gov. Orville L. Freeman announced formation of a Humphrey-for-president organization.

Humphrey has been regarded for several years by some as presidential timber. But formation of the organization to get him the nomination 12 monnths from now gave him a jump on others in the timber pile.

Humphrey's prestige got a boost last December when Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said he "comes closest" to having the "spark of greatness" needed in the White House.

★ ★ ★

A little later the 48-year-old senator became something of an international figure when he had an eight-hour talk with Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev and reported his impressions to President Eisenhower.

Humphrey's reputation as a talker was secure long before he visited Khrushchev. His ability to keep words flowing is undisputed.

In the Senate Humphrey has been a champion of civil rights, federal aid and numerous international programs for waging peace.

Humphrey's attractive wife, Muriel, calls him a "very normal husband and father" who likes to putter around the house and yard. They have a four-bedroom house on Waverly Lake west of Minneapolis. Their daughter, Nancy, 20, is a student nurse.

He has come a long way since 1937 when he was working in a drug store at Huron, S.D. Born in Wallace, S.D., he studied at the Denver College of Pharmacy in 1932-33. After four years at Huron he returned to school and got a degree at the University of Minnesota in 1939. He was an assistant instructor in political science at the Louisiana State University and got a master's degree there in 1940.

Later he was a member of the WPA's administrative staff and was with the war manpower commission and was a visiting professor of political science at Macalester College. In 1945 he was elected mayor of Minneapolis and three years later led the fight at the Democratic convention for a strong civil rights plank. The same year he became a senator.

It's a long way from Huron. But his middle name is Horatio.

Alaska's great river, the Yukon, carries about as much water to the sea as the Mississippi system.

Laws May Stimulate UP Mining Industry

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Williams has signed into law two bills which backers say can lead to a boom in the Upper Peninsula's taconite industry.

The two new laws are designed to stimulate investment in the low grade mining industry by:

1. Clarifying the application of the specific tax on ordinary mining to the costly taconite operations.

2. Assuring taconite operators access to water resources necessary for processing low grade ore.

Supporters of the new laws claim they may result in the addition of 3,000 persons to employment rolls and $1,700,000 a year to local tax revenues, mainly in Dickinson, Marquette and possibly Gogebic counties.

Urges N-Bomb Shelters for All New Homes

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The government should encourage housing developers to put civil defense features such as nuclear bomb shelters into all new homes, says atomic expert Dr. Willard F. Libby.

This would protect the population against nuclear warefare's most terrible hazard—atomic fallout, Libby told a press conference Wednesday.

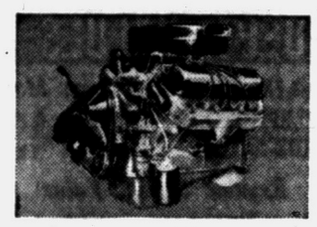

Libby, a member of the Atomic Energy Commission from 1954 until June 30, is now a chemistry professor at UCLA.

The U.S. commerical fish catch for 1958 came to 4,626,000,000 pounds, 152 million less than in 1957.

LOWEST-PRICED V-8 is Ford V-8!* You pay less for a V-8 from the leading V-8 maker . . . and you get modern, low-friction design in both V-8's and Six!

LOWEST-PRICED WAGONS among the best-selling three are Ford wagons!* Ford Station Wagons are the easiest to load, to convert from cargo- to passenger-hauling, to sit in, too. And they're easiest to own because their price is so low. No wonder most people drive them!

LOWEST-PRICED MODELS AND ACCESSORIES are Ford!* For example, your first savings go up to $102.75 on a Fairlane 500 equipped as most people want their cars . . . with heater, radio and automatic transmission. If you'd like your Ford air conditioned, you can save up to $219.85!

Ford is first to sell over ONE MILLION '59 cars . . . so your Ford Dealer can now offer you a terrific SECOND MILLION DEAL on

America's No.1 Economy Car

With over one million 59 Fords already sold, there's no wonder America's car buyers acclaim FORD America's No. 1 Economy Car!

It didn't take America long to recognize that the 59 Ford is not only good looking, but a good saver, too! See for yourself how these 59 Ford owners learned you can save when you go Ford. You save up to $1.00 on every tankful of gas, because Ford's standard engines—V-8 and Six—thrive on regular gas. You save on oil. With Ford's standard Full-Flow Oil Filter, you change oil only every 4,000 miles. You save on Ford's aluminized mufflers that normally last twice as long as the ordinary kind . . . on Ford's beautiful Diamond Lustre Finish that never needs waxing . . . on Ford's standard 66-plate battery for quick, surer starts (instead of the usual 54-plate type found in most other cars).

And today's big news is that besides all these built-in Ford savings, and because Ford Dealers have already sold over one million 59 Fords, they're offering to pass the advantages of these volume sales along to you in the form of a greater-than-ever deal . . . a deal that will multiply all the handsome savings Ford already offers. Stop in. See the money you save on this generous, special 2ND MILLION DEAL on a 59 Ford . . . America's No. 1 Economy Car!

LOWEST-PRICED SEDAN is the Ford Custom 300 Tudor Sedan!* In fact, this model of the world's most beautifully proportioned cars is the lowest-priced family sedan of any among the most popular three . . . and it's outselling every single make of comparable competitive model by a substantial margin!

Dr. William Beebe, scientist and explorer, has offered tips on how best to watch wildlife. The observer should wear drab clothes, but it is mainly movement, not color, that frightens animals. Preferably an observer should move only when the wind blows and moves the leaves. When a wild creature is near, eyes should be kept partly closed as animals do not like to be stared at.

Gross value of the Australia whaling catch at five stations in one year was $4.4 million, slightly above average.

She'll Talk in Finals of International Public Speaking Contest

A Waterford Township high school girl, who has talked her way through three public speaking contests in the state, is tuning up for the finals in an international contest to be held Aug. 12, at Denver, Colo.

Carol Saul, 16, daughter of the Joseph E. Sauls of 4240 Roseberry Ct., will represent Michigan in the 14th annual public speaking contest sponsored by the Knights of Pythias.

Contest domains have been split into six sections throughout the world. The winner of each section will compete in a ten-minute oration from the subject matter "My Favorite Character in History."

Carol, who plans to study for missionary work after graduation next June has chosen "Christ" as her topic in the contest.

★ ★ ★

The winner of the international contest will be given a $1,500 scholarship to a college of his choice.

The second-place winner will receive a $750 scholarship and $500 will go to the third-place winner.

The remaining three contestants will receive $250 each.

★ ★ ★

A fund for defrayal of travel expenses of the six sectional winners from their homes to Denver and return has been provided.

Carol's family, including her parents and sister Barbara, 11, will leave Waterford Township Aug. 3 by automobile.

'Space Suit' Aids Pain Sufferers

Pressure Helps Patient's Blood Return and Cardiac Output

NEW YORK (UPI) — An inflatable "corset" patterned after the space suits used in military aviation is offering relief to patients suffering from low back pains, angina and certain circulatory ailments.

Dr. Milton E. Eisen of New York recently told the local Medical Society that the "pressurization" garment has been used in the treatment of 77 persons during the last several years. Of these, he said, 69 were helped while only eight received "inadequate" relief.

The medical "space suit" looks like a long pair of nylon shorts, extending from the waist to the lower part of the thigh. The seat is made of a fine elastic mesh which, according to Dr. Eisen, helps the wearer to stand and sit with ease.

At the upper right of the garment, there is a small valve. Into it goes a pound or more of pressure applied with a hand inflator. But, said Dr. Eisen, even when the corset's bladder is inflated, there is no detectable bulge—even when it's worn under a fairly tight-fitting dress or a pair of trousers.

Usually, the doctor said, the patient wears the garment one hour daily for three weeks while lying down. Then, he said, it is worn three times a week for the next three weeks.

It is the "pressurization" that helps to relieve pain, he explained. "Physiologically," said Dr. Eisen, "the application of air pressure on both thighs and abdomen helps to maintain an improved venous (blood) return and cardiac output.

"In cardio-vascular disease, a decrease in venous return, produced by pressure garment on thighs and abdomen, thus trapping excess blood in lower extremities, may improve performance of the heart."

Low back pain, he continued, is connected with muscle deficiency or muscle ischemia (deprivation of blood). He said the garment appears to help those suffering from this ailment by improving circulation and muscle relaxation.

Dr. Eisen consulted the experts at Mitchel Air Force Base on Long Island, N.Y., when he first conceived the idea of using the space suit principle to help certain kinds of patients.

Then, we went up to the makers of military space suits and they came up with the inflatable "corsets." Incidentally, they cost $125 apiece.

Humphrey's Aspiration Not Worrying Anyone

Senator HUBERT H. HUMPHREY, Minnesota Democrat, is the first candidate to break officially from the starting gate and head for the Presidential nomination in 1960.

★ ★ ★

This will not cause any perceptible stir in other camps for the rivals are quite content to let the Minnesota aspirant run in solitary grandeur for some appreciable period of time. In fact, they all hope (and secretly believe) that he is running himself squarely into the ground. HUBERT is going about the ancient process of eliminating himself in the mind of many political followers.

★ ★ ★

He has been an avowed candidate from the start and this premature entry will do little to assist or detract from his chances. He should fade from the scene when the big horses start pounding around the track. This early lead will attract a little attention —but only a little, for that's all Hubert's worth.

Delinquency Big Issue in Detroit's Schools

Professor HOWARD Y. MCCLUSKY, of the University of Michigan, has just castigated Detroit in merciless style.

★ ★ ★

He says he is "overwhelmed by the evidence of delinquency in Detroit schools." William C. Morse said "approximately three per cent of the hard core delinquents should be removed from the regular classrooms." This would be for the protection of the other children and the teachers.

★ ★ ★

With conditions as bad as these, it would look as though Detroit needs a complete re-evaluation of her educational program. It sounds incredible, but these speakers are men of repute and standing.

Dalai Lama Stresses Red Perfidy in Tibet

At his news conference in Mussoorie, India, the Dalai Lama told of Communist victimization, sacrilege and plunder of his country in the name of reform.

Complete absorption and extinction of the Tibetan race is being undertaken, declared the Dalai Lama, "forced labor and compulsory systematic persecution of the people, plunder and confiscation of personal property and execution of certain leading men in Tibet — these are the glorious achievements of Chinese rule in Tibet."

In speaking of the 1951 agreement with the Chinese setting forth the status of Tibet, the Dalai Lama pointed out it was forced on his government at the point of a bayonet. Even so, the Chinese violated their own dictated terms. The religious leader was forced to dismiss his ministers under threat of their execution and thus commenced a reign of terror.

Going back to his 1955 visit to India, the Dalai Lama admitted that he then had made up his mind not to return to Tibet. However, on the advice of Prime Minister Nehru who had "assurances" from Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, he did return to find the assurances absolutely worthless.

The Dalai Lama did not suggest any sort of retaliation—only that the Chinese carry out their agreements made eight years ago. He said nothing out of line with his status as a refugee and exile or that could draw the government of India into conflict with the Communists. If a satisfactory solution were not found, he pointed out, his people would continue to resist and that the case of Tibet might be brought before the United Nations.

★ ★ ★

Unfortunately, the free world can only express its abhorrence of the evil regime in Peiping. Any remote hope of Red China's membership in the United Nations has had a further setback.

Dry Summer

City Water Consumption Passes All-Time High

Reports keep pouring in concerning our current drouth which is harming all segments of our County and State. Claims and counter arguments seem to differ on how this summer rates with the years past. Official figures for the entire County are hard to find, but the City of Pontiac has one measurement that can't be challenged.

City Manager Willman

points out that within the last day or two, we've been pumping water at the rate of 21.3 million gallons in a single 24-hour period, which is slightly more than the high of 21.1 million gallons reached in 1955. This indicates that the summer drouth of 1959 surpassed all summers so far on record.

That Guy Again!

David Lawrence Says:

Nikita Rewrites Red History Again

WASHINGTON— Nikita Khrushchev has again undertaken to rewrite history. Sensitive to the charge that Stalin and the Communist party, by an alliance with Hitler in 1939, made World War II possible, the Soviet premier now brazenly tells the people of Poland that the Soviets did all this "just to buy time."

LAWRENCE

Millions of Russians and Poles lost their lives because Stalin chose to make Hitler his ally and thus, by protecting the eastern front for the Nazis, gave them a free hand on the western front against France and Britain in the first years of World War II.

But Khrushchev now says he was preesnt when Stalin committed his act of perfidy in making an alliance with Hitler and that this action was fully justified. One wonders how the Soviet premier dares to say this today to the very people of Poland who, as a consequence thereof, lost their independence.

Just why Khrushchev brought up the Soviet-Nazi alliance at this time isn't clear, but it seems probable that he is smarting under the charges made earlier this year by the United States government in an "official analysis" of the Nov. 27, 1958, note from the Soviets about Berlin.

★ ★ ★

The Soviets had alleged that, prior to World War II, they had "displayed constant willingness to establish co-operation with the other powers with the object of resisting Hitlerite aggression," and that "if the Western powers had not been shortsighted in their hopes of turning Hitler eastward and had cooperated with the U.S.S.R., millions of lives would have been saved."

U. S. ANSWERS

The Department of State, in answering this fantastic distortion of the facts of history, said:

"From 1930 to 1933 the Soviet Union through its international Communist arm, the Comintern, directed the German Communist party to collaborate with the Nazis and other extremists in undermining the German Weimar Republic.

It helped sabotage democratic parties and institutions and promoted lawlessness and disorder. This aided Hitler's rise to absolute power . . .

"The U.S.S.R. turned aside from negotiations with the United Kingdom and France in August, 1939, and concluded the Molotov-Ribbentrop agreements which provided the necessary guaranties for coordinated Nazi-Soviet aggression in eastern Europe and resulted in World War II.

"In spite of warnings from the Western powers of impending German attack, the Soviet government aided Nazi Germany until Hitler marched against it in (June) 1941.

"In April, 1941, the U.S.S.R. signed a neutrality pact with the Japanese ally of Hitler, thereby clearing the way for the Pearl Harbor attack on the United States on Dec. 7, 1941."

★ ★ ★

Thus it is clearly demonstrated that the Stalin action caused many millions of Allied citizens to become casualties in the war. Notwithstanding Stalin's behavior, the United States promptly sent a vast amount of war materials to aid the Soviet armies when Hitler did attack Russia.

In view of this action, there has been no more flagrant example of ingratitude in world history. For ever since 1945, the Soviet government has turned on its own Western Allies who saved the Soviet people from the Nazis.

Today, however, war is being threatened by the Soviets against the West because it does not accept the demands of Communist imperialism.

★ ★ ★

While Nikita Khrushchev is rewriting history during his trip to Poland, it may not be amiss to remind him and the Polish people of these exultant words that Molotov — Stalin's mouthpiece — uttered on Oct. 31, 1939:

"However, one swift blow to Poland, first by the German and then by the Red army, and nothing was left of this ugly offspring of the Versailles Treaty which had existed by oppressing non-Polish nationalities."

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

He was in the world, and the world was made through him, yet the world knew him not—John 1:10.

★ ★ ★

At His birth a star, unseen before in heaven, proclaims Him come. — John Milton.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Why Not Allow Husband to See His Child Born?

"My wife and I want to be together when our child is born," writes a reader.

(This will come as a shock to the people who make the "regulations" for nineteenth century lying-in institutions, many of which are still maintained.)

DR. BRADY

"After much looking we have finally found a hospital and doctor that will allow us to be together during labor, but the docotor says the hospital has regulations . . ."

The good old game, passing the buck. The doctor blames the "regulations" on the hospital or sometimes tells the peasant there's an ordinance or perhaps a health board rule prohibiting the prospective father from sharing with his wife the miracle of the birth of their baby. The hospital people, on the other hand, tell customers that they they can't help it — the doctors make the rules.

"The doctor claims that my presence in the delivery room would contaminate the otherwise sterile environment, because as a layman I don't know the aseptic technique.

"I have been surprised at the startled looks and actions when we asked if we couldn't remain together during the birth of the baby. I have even been answered with profanity!"

★ ★ ★

The bunk about contamination of the delivery room environment rates a roaring laugh, if you know what goes on in delivery rooms. In view of what goes on — which I'll describe in detail if any physician of standing undertakes to controvert what I say — this bunk seems shabby indeed — but then, the general management of such hospitals is based on contempt for the intelligence and dignity of patrons.

Of course the place for a husband who is a man and not a mouse or a rat is at his wife's side when their baby is being born, be it in a hospital or a hovel.

It is a sad commentary when expectant parents have to canvass the entire state to find a hospital where childbirth is treated as a happy event. It is a disgrace to the medical profession that doctors in America still perpetrate such a despicable trick on the most worthy people in the world, expectant parents.

★ ★ ★

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

The Country Parson

"If you can't think of good things to say about your friends — you have the wrong friends."

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Tardiness Universal in Women

Norman's wife is wonderful except for her addiction to womankind's universal fault, And because of this flaw, she causes her devoted husband to storm and criticize, while he also develops peptic ulcers. If you wives wish to refute Norman's charges, I'll gladly print your retorts. But let's have facts; not more excuses.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE B-489: Norman G. aged 29, is an industrial engineer.

★ ★ ★

"Dr. Crane," he began, "my wife is a wonderful woman and a perfect mother to our two youngsters.

DR. CRANE

"But she has no sense of time! If I tell her on Wednesday we are to be packed and ready to leave at 4 p. m. Friday afternoon for an auto trip to see our in-laws, she is never ready.

"In our 8 years of marriage I don't believe she has EVER been ready on schedule.

"I always get into the car first and then grow irritable till I honk and honk to get her moving.

"She protests that I have less work to do than she does and that it takes her longer to get the children ready. But she was just as tardy even before our children arrived so that doesn't make sense.

"I think women should indulge in track meets or swimming contests where they just keep their minds on a stopwatch. What do you think?"

SLOW WOMEN

Well, most husbands have the same report as Norman. And that stopwatch idea is a good one.

Even if you grant that a wife has more duties in connection with an auto trip, she should be ready on schedule if she has been given 24 hours advance notice.

Most wives aren't ready with a week's advance notice!

I'll be glad to eat my words, ladies, but a couple of years ago I challenged any husband to send me a letter testifying to the fact that his wife was prompt and on time.

And only ONE husband ever wrote to me lauding his wife's punctuality, yet my column is supposed to appear before some 50,000,000 readers daily!

★ ★ ★

So—until you girls can prove otherwise—we'll proceed on the assumption that the female sex is characteristically tardy.

Why should this be so? More last minute chores for wives?

That sounds good but unmarried girls are almost as slow about being ready for a date.

And childess wives are likewise just about as tardy as those with several children, so it isn't primarily a woman's overworked condition.

WOMEN ARE CHILDLIKE

Women are more nearly like children than are men as regards their emotions.

★ ★ ★

Thus, they shed tears, as do children, while men seldom weep.

Children are more submissive, and so are women.

Children, if sent on an errand, forget their goal if a fire truck rushes past.

Women likewise forget goals, including clocks and deadlines, if the phone rings or they pass a shop window with some new dress displayed therein.

Incidentally, mothers obtain the confidences of their children far more readily than do men, partly because they are emotionally closer to the children and the youngsters sense this fact.

★ ★ ★

Men tend to stick to basic fundamentals and skip the frills in order to meet deadlines.

Women will stop to manicure their fingernails though their train or plane is just about ready to take off, and they could do their manicuring en route.

If you wives disagree, let's hear your evidence. Until then, you are accused of lacking a good time sense, despite your other lovable traits.

★ ★ ★

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Forbidding Strike Risky in Democratic Nation

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Each time a strike occurs in an essential industry affecting the whole economy—as now in steel — this question comes up:

Are we reaching a point where the government—meaning a majority of the people—can no longer permit and must forbid a strike in such an industry?

A strike in any industry was pretty much a private affair years ago when the government's revenue needs were smaller and the various people, plants and industries were far less interdependent than now.

But the American society is now highly complex and interdependent. A strike in one big industry can send out waves that splash thousands of workers, hundreds of businesses, and maybe drown many of them.

For example: This steel strike comes at a time when the nation is recovering from last year's slump. If it's short, it won't do much damage. It will do a lot if it lasts long.

★ ★ ★

If the strike continues long enough, other industries will use up their steel supplies and have to close, throwing many thousands out of work.

As their income—and the profits of their shut-down plants—are cut off, the national Treasury will suffer from loss of income tax revenue just when it is badly needed.

Thus a steel strike — unlike a strike in any industry in years past—is no longer truly private. It already affects and, if it lasts long enough, could paralyze a broad part of the national economy.

★ ★ ★

But individual rights—the right of employes to quit a job and of an employer to shut down his plant—and the right of both sides to work out their wages and profits must be balanced against the general welfare.

★ ★ ★

Thus the question: Is the President in the near future likely to propose or Congress to approve a law forbidding a strike in an essential industry? Very likely not.

It would be political dynamite. Both unions and employers want a minimum of government interference. If the government through law could forbid a strike, it would almost certainly then impose compulsory arbitration.

This means that arbitrators appointed by the government would listen to both sides and give an opinion both sides would have to accept. If the government did that, out of justice it probably would have to do more.

In the end it would probably have to step in and regulate both wages and prices, which would mean regulating profits too. That would be true governmental control. Eventually it might have to take over the industry.

Board of Trustees Adds Several to MSUO Faculty

Several Michigan State University Oakland faculty appointments were approved this morning by the Michigan State University Board of Trustees meeting in East Lansing.

Mrs. June Collins, an assistant professor of anthropology at Pennsylvania State University, will join the MSUO staff Sept. 1 as an assistant professor of sociology and anthropology.

★ ★ ★

She holds a Ph. D. in social anthropology from the University of Chicago and has also taught there.

Dr. William Rhode, the first student ever to receive a Ph.D. from MSU (1956), was named an assistant professor of political science.

For the past two years, he has been on the faculty of San Diego State College (Calif.). He is 28.

★ ★ ★

J. David Danielson, 32, who will receive his Ph. D. this fall from the University of Michigan, has been named an instructor in French language and literature. He has taught at Clark U. (Mass.) the past three years.

Dr. Gertrude Mason White has been named an assistant professor of English.

She received her Ph. D. from the University of Chicago, and has been on the faculty of the University of Chicago, Wayne State University, and Kingswood School, Cranbrook.

"All have received superior training, visited the campus and discussed the future of the university with us.

"They are all eager to become a part of this great pioneering adventure."

Yankus Has Job at $36 a Week, Likes It Fine

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) — Stanley Yankus, who sold a prosperous Michigan chicken farm for $30,000 and moved his family to Australia, is working here as a $36-a-week clerk.

And he's happy about it because "nothing is complicated." He left the United States to get away from government agricultural controls.

"I don't feel the least hurt at starting where I am," said the 40-year-old American. "It's a legitimate, honest job—and a beginning."

He has a small desk in a factory office and handles the purchasing receipts. The factory has 1,600 on the payroll.

★ ★ ★

Yankus is bubbling with confidence.

"My present job gives me a chance to begin slowly in Australia and I understand a better job is waiting for me," he said.

Ex-Spartan Joins Pistons

DETROIT (AP) — Jack Quiggle, former Michigan State basketball captain, Thursday signed his 1959-60 contract with the Detroit Pistons.

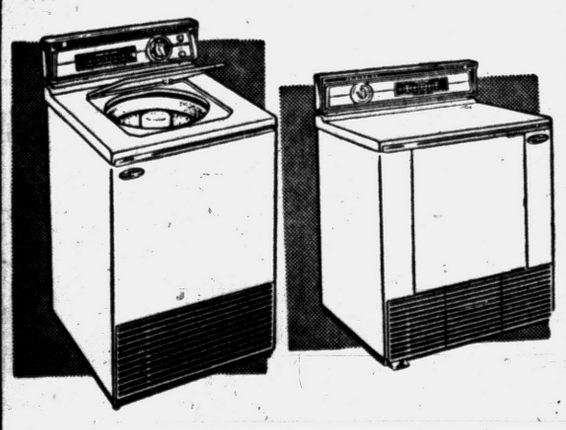

Quiggle attended the Pistons' pre-season training camp a year ago after he was drafted by the club. But the 22-year-old guard elected to bypass an immediate shot at the National Basketball Assn. ranks in order to gain more experience.

Area Man in Hospital, Poisoned by Cat Bite

A Milford Township man, Ronald Dingman, 45, was in Pontiac General Hospital today as the result of a cat bite last Monday.

Dingman, who lives at 200 Burns Rd., was bitten on the arm. He became ill yesterday and was taken to the hospital by Oakland County sheriff's deputies with blood poisioning. His condition was reported as satisfactory.

Tearful Jury Convicts Youths

All-Woman Panel Gives Guilty Verdict in Trial of 2 for Murder

DETROIT (AP) — Most of the 12 women jurors wept after their verdict convicted Seymour Berman and Peter Klavinger, both 22, of murder yesterday.

"I think they cried," said Recorder's Judge John A. Ricca later, "because of their emotional strain of feeling it was their duty to take away the liberty of these two young men."

The good looking defendants, in fresh crewcuts and neat clothes, were convicted of first degree murder in a holdup slaying last Dec. 3. Life imprisonment is mandatory.

The all-woman jury returned its verdict after about four hours of deliberation.

Claude Richard, 54, father of two boys, was the slaying victim. He was shot to death in a holdup of the Plymouth Employes Federal Credit Union where he was manager. The killers fled empty-handed.

Deaths Elsewhere

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Charles H. Huff, 71, who wrote the "Falcon" detective series under the name of Drexel Drake, died Wednesday. Huff at one time worked for the Chicago Daily News, later was editor of the old St. Louis Star and a financial writer for the New York World-Telegram.

★ ★ ★

NEW YORK (AP)—Wallace R. Harper, 49, a steel industry executive, was found dead Thursday in his Park Avenue apartment of a shotgun wound which police said apparently was self-inflicted. He was assistant executive vice president of the American Institute of Steelconstruction, a trade association.

★ ★ ★

MOSCOW (AP) — The government Thursday announced the death of Ivan V. Zholtovsky, 92, one of the Soviet Union's leading architects. No date of death or other details were given.

★ ★ ★

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. Harlow H. Stafford, 106, believed to have been the oldest living member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, died Wednesday.

There are more than 565 independent scientific laboratories in the United States working on research and development in consultation with industry.

Find 13-Year-Old Boy Shot in His Bedroom

A 13-year-old Highland Township boy was found shot to death yesterday in his bedroom with a .22-caliber rifle lying beside him.

Richard Brampton, 13, son of Mrs. Paul Keller by a previous marriage, of 1998 Jackson Blvd., Highland Township, was pronounced dead at the scene by Oakland County Coroner Dr. Isaac Prevette.

The bullet penetrated the youth's forehead, and death was instant, according to Dr. Prevette. The body was discovered by Mrs. Keller at about 11 a.m.

The shooting was investigated by the Highland Township Police who reported no violence was involved.

Surviving besides the mother, are the boy's stepfather, Paul Keller, an aunt, Mrs. Ernest Hunger of Hazel Park, and his grandfather, Henry Ames.

Richard was an eighth-grader at Highland School.

Funeral service will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow from the Richardson-Bird Funeral Home at Milford. Burial will follow at Highland Cemetery.

Research Director Named to AEC by Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—John H. Williams, a nuclear physicist, was nominated by President Eisenhower Thursday to be a member of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Williams, now director of the Atomic Energy Commission's research division, was named to succeed Willard F. Libby, who resigned recently. The nomination is subject to Senate confirmation.

Williams has been in his present post since 1958. He came into government service from the University of Minnesota where he was a professor of physics for 12 years starting in 1946.

Only about 30 tons are mined each year of the platinum group of metals—platinum, palladium rhodium, ruthenium, iridium and osminum. This compares with 1,200 tons of gold and 7,000 tons of silver annually.

He Says 'No' but Texas Boot Keeps Door Open

Johnson No. 3 Choice for Dem Nomination

By BRUCE BROSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas is the most powerful man you'll find who says he neither wants to be President nor to have a hand in making one.

This is the Senate's acknowledged Big Operator, the master of the whispered conference, widely hailed for his persuasive talents and his maneuvering skill as his party's chief legislative strategist.

He's made himself into the image of the practical man who gets things done, the reasonable fellow who finds the winning course of compromise while others carry flapping brief cases filled with plans that will never get off paper.

If this is the middle of the road, Johnson makes it the busiest part of the street in Washington, and he loves every conspiratorial detail of it.

★ ★ ★

Yet plenty of people ignore his denials that he'd like the bigger power and excitement of the White House. National opinion polls now plant him third among Democratic eligibles for 1960. A host of prominent Southerners, and some others, tout him for the Presidency.

Texas has re-jiggered its primary law to favor his candidacy. Some say he could walk into next year's Los Angeles convention with 300 delegates, no small package to juggle.

Johnson has his fingers in every ple that's baked, including outer space. Said a GOP colleague: "Lyndon's the first man to turn outer space into a congressional district."

He doesn't take many dates about the country, but he's had pre-presidential exposure in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and a few other spots.

NEW SPEAKING STYLE

He's scrapped a matter-of-fact speaking style for a new one with dramatic range from whispers to thunder.

★ ★ ★

Nevertheless, many seasoned observers insist that in the convention clinches the Democrats will never take a man from Texas. They say that knowing that this somberly handsome man of 50, who looks like the well-to-do rancher he is, probably is more Western than Southern.

Some think Johnson himself believes this and so means it when he says he won't try for the nomination. He abhors failure and wastes no time on lost causes.

Others think he's held back by the memory of the massive 1955 heart attack that nearly killed him. Today he's fully recovered and a good insurance risk. But what happened may give him pause.

It doesn't give him pause around the Senate. He drives down that field like every day was the big game.

You'll seldom see a more deceptively casual dynamo. He lounges in his office chair, feet up, as if he were unfurled in the Texas sun, drawling his earthy, salty, sharp comments on men and events.

JOHNSON IN ACTION — A deceptively casual dynamo.

In fact, he's whirring all the time. Little pink slips bearing messages cascade onto his desk. Secretaries scurry about. His four telephones jangle steadily.

He picks up one to listen to a senator who wants to write him a well publicized letter, announcing group support for a bill. Johnson demurs. He figures if these men bunch up it will only stir counter force. He replies:

"First thing you know we'll have a lot of blocs and no bills. That other fella can get more votes just by noddin' than you can with a detective."

Johnson's huge staff has to keep pace. He frowns on conversational huddles and other distractions. Said one of the devoted: "This is one of those easy government jobs you read about. I had a quick dinner last night and worked till 10. It was a light night."

All this began when, as a lad, he used to find his father shaking him awake at dawn and saying: "Lyndon, every boy in town's got an hour's start on you."

Bedeviled the whole way by the urge to succeed, he declined to settle for ranching. He got close to politics as a congressional secretary, then spent a decade or so in the House, and in 1948 made the Senate. "Landslide Lyndon" they called him after he won by 87 votes.

In five years he rose to Democratic leader. And whatever happens on the presidency, he may already have made the enduring mark he seeks. For many rate him the most successful practicing politician ever to enter the Senate.

So he should be President, say his friends and admirers. Johnson keeps saying "no." But the things he does — and others do — keep the door ajar. He may have to set aside a fragment of his crowded day for the regular denials due between now and July 11, 1960.

Convicts Quit Sit-Down Strike

Georgia Officials Use Threat of Isolation Cell to Subdue Prisoners

BUFORD, Ga. (UPI) — A sit-down strike by 111 convicts at a prison rock quarry here was called off Thursday when a state prison official threatened to jam them into isolation cells "like college boys in a phone booth."

"We didn't make any concessions," said State Prison Director Jack Forrester. "We're going to run these prisons if we have to pack them in isolation like college boys in phone booths." The isolation cells measure eight feet by 10 feet.

Forrester said the strikers, who participated in a hunger strike at the Reidsville State Prison last week, objected because 25 of their number were placed in the isolation cells, of which the prison has 25.

All but three agreed to return to work, following negotiations with four convict spokesmen, Forrester said.

The prison director said there was no immediate "packing" of the isolation cells. The three holdouts replaced three cell occupants who were willing to join the workers.

Michigan Industrial Ambassadors Meet

PETOSKEY (AP) — The first regional meeting aimed at building the Michigan industrial ambassadors into a dynamic sales force for the state was held here yesterday.

A similar meeting was scheduled today at Traverse City.

The ambassadors, a volunteer group of business and industrial leaders, have the job of selling the state to the nation.

Edwin O. George, Detroit Edison Co., vice president, told of plans to build the present corps of 214 ambassadors to more than 500.

"Today more than ever," George said, "Michigan needs an aggressive sales force to spread the truth about the state and correct false impressions that have been created throughout the nation."

Ex-Pig Farmer Says He'll Run for Presidency

SECAUCUS, N.J. (AP)—Henry Krajewski's hat is in the political ring again.

The former pig farmer said Wednesday — his 47th birthday—that he was a candidate for the 1960 presidential election.

★ ★ ★

"I will be the poor man's party candidate for president of the United States," said Krajewski, who now runs a tavern.

Twice before Krajewski has run for the presidency. In 1952 he received 4,203 votes. Four years later 1,829 voted for him.

★ ★ ★

He has also run for New Jersey governor twice and twice for U.S. senator. He has never won an election.

Hal Boyle Says:

Test Your Rich-or-Poor Score, if You Can

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you rich or poor?

Sometimes it's hard to tell, world values being what they are.

★ ★ ★

But here are a few tests to help you find your status gratis:

You're poor if you have to worry about keeping up with the Joneses.

You're rich if Jones asks, "Mind if I borrow your credit card?"

You're rich if you still have one good friend you knew when you knew when young.

You're poor if a panhandler takes one look at your face—and decides not to hit you up.

You're rich if you can say "Money isn't everything" — and name something it isn't.

You're poor if you can't.

You're rich if you're the healthiest guy in the poorhouse.

★ ★ ★

You're poor if they have to help you up the steps at the Country Club.

You're rich if they welcome you at a snob restaurant even though

You're rich if you can't even remember the names of all your former wives.

You're poor if you can't forget their names.

You're poor if you can't afford to own a car made before 1910.

You're rich if you walk to work — just because you like to.

You're rich if you can choose the particular ocean you prefer to swim in.

You're poor if you have to paint your own yacht.

You're rich — and probably over 70 if your second cousins still send you happy birthday cards.

★ ★ ★

You're poor if they cross the street to keep from meeting you.

You're poor if the only sunsets you see are on television.

You're rich if the singing of birds in the morning doesn't annoy you.

You're rich if you can't recall all the servants you've had in the last five years.

You're poor if you can recall only one—the wife.

You're rich if, when someone says "Let's go to the beach," you reach for a phone to charter a plane to Biarritz.

You're poor if the whole gang winds up at Coney Island.

You're rich if you wear that 15-year-old elbow-patched sports jacket because they don't make 'em like that anymore.

★ ★ ★

You're poor if you still wear it because you can't afford a new one like it anymore.

Cancer kills more men than any disease with the exception of diseases of the heart, the circulatory system and complications therefrom.

Pastor Plans Christmas Service Early This Year

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Lots of people do their Christmas shopping early, but few put up their Christmas scenes in July.

Nevertheless the Whitehaven Methodist Church here is putting up a Christmas scene, and plans to hold a special spirit of Christmas service July 26.

Dr. R. A. Flatt, the pastor, explained that Christmas is becoming too much of a "commercial affair" and children are "being indoctrinated with reindeer instead of divine raiment."

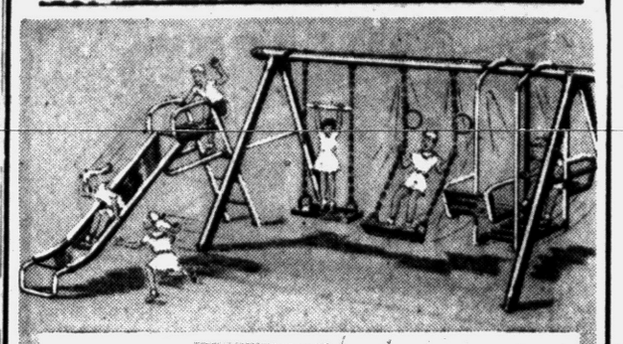

So Dr. Flatt decided to hold the special service to "remind people of the real significance of the birth of Christ."

Metamora Will Switch to Dial Phones

Pontiac Press Photos

TESTING! — General Telephone Co. switchman E. H. Parrott, of 572 Cedar St., Imlay City, tries out the dial equipment which will go into operation in Metamora at 2:01 a.m. Sunday. The complex mechanism is located in a small, new brick building at 214 E. High St., just 100 feet from the Earl Kirby home where the old magneto equipment has been housed for years.

THEY'LL BE MISSING — These are two of the women who have offered 'round the clock "service with a smile" to Metamora telephone users for many years. They are, from left, Mrs. Merle Russell, veteran of seven years on the local switchboard, and Miss Vivian Middleton, with three. They will be out of a job Sunday when the new dial system goes into operation.

'Personal Touch' Stops Sunday

Switchboard Operators Gave Extra Services to Customers

By LEE WINBORN

METAMORA — The "voice with a smile" will soon be missing from Metamora telephone service.

At 2:01 a.m. Sunday the switchover from the present magneto system to modern dial equipment will be made.

It will be a sad moment for many telephone users who have become accustomed over the years to leaving messages and expecting other services from their local operators.

For example, whenever they were changing shifts it was not uncommon for one operator to tell another that "99 is away from the store and will be back in an hour."

The customers have always been identified by their telephone numbers rather than their names.

The fire department also will miss that "personal touch" service on the switchboard.

When anyone called the operator to report a fire or other emergency she immediately pushed the button which blew the fire whistle. Then she called the fire chief and each fireman.

★ ★ ★

The present switchboard which serves some 350 Metamora families is located in the west wing of the Earl Kirby home at 124 E. High St.

LONG SERVICE

For 13 years Mrs. Kirby has been chief operator. The operator with the next longest service record is Mrs. Merle Russell with seven years.

The two other young women who take turns at the switchboard are Mrs. John J. Brewer Jr. and Miss Vivian Middleton.

There are as many as 10 families on a party line now, and there will continue to be after the conversion is made. The only difference will be in the rings.

★ ★ ★

Now a particular family knows that one short and two longs is their ring for example. When the switch-over is made, that phone will ring just once in their own house — not in all the houses on the line as before.

ALL SET UP

The dial equipment has been set up in a small, new brick building about 100 feet from the Kirby house.

When conversion time comes, "block picks" which have served as protectors and prevented the use of the new equipment, will be removed. After their removal, General Telephone Co. employes will run a series of tests to assure the proper operation of the complex mechanism.

C. D. Lamphier, the General Telephone Co.'s local manager, said Metamora customers will have the metropolitan two-letter, five-digit numbering plan (2L5) giving all telephones in Metamora new numbers.

With this system, customers will dial the letter "O" and the letter "S" plus five more numbers when calling a local party. The 2L5 is necessary to include Metamora customers in a nationwide Direct Distance Dialing system in which local customers may dial numbers in many parts of the United States and Canada.

Direct Distance Dialing service is made available to Metamora through centralized automatic message accounting equipment located in Pontiac, which is the center for Metamora's long distance service, Lamphier explained.

Must Decide Marketing Controls

Wheat Growers to Vote

Wheat growers of Michigan soon will be making their annual decision on marketing quotas, William Porritt, chairman of the Oakland County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee announced today.

On July 23, wheat farmers in Michigan will join with those in 38 other states in a referendum to decide the type of marketing control they will have for the 1960 wheat crop.

"The referendum is held at this time so that farmers will know at winter wheat planting time whether marketing restrictions will be in effect at harvest time in 1960," said Porritt.

The wheat program on which farmers will vote is the same as that which has been in effect for the past several years.

Any farmer is eligible to vote who expects to produce more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest as grain in 1960, except any grower who participated in the 1959 feed wheat program, said Porritt.

Polling places for Oakland County wheat producers are as follows:

Those whose farms are located in Addison, Brandon, Independence, Oakland, Orion and Oxford townships will vote at the Quonset Building, Oxford Co-op, at Oxford.

For those whose farms are located in Holly, Rose, Springfield, Groveland and that part of White Lake and Highland townships north of M59, voting will be at the Holly Township Office, 102 Front St., Holly.

Growers in Lyon, Novi, Farmington, West Bloomfield, Commerce and Milford and that part of White Lake and Highland townships south of M59 will vote at the Lyon Township Hall on Pontiac trail in New Hudson.

★ ★ ★

Waterford, Pontiac, Avon, Troy, Royal Oak, Southfield and Bloomfield townships wheat growers will vote at the County ASC Office, 323 Hubbard Building, in Pontiac.

Newlyweds Now Residing in Rochester

ROCHESTER — Now residing at 211 Walnut boulevard here are newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis R. Watson, who were married at St. Andrew Catholic Church here. The Rev. Edward Baumgartner officiated at the ceremony.

Formerly Sheila Ann Boyney, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Boyney, of 1355 Mead Rd., here. The bridegroom's parents are the Lewis Park Watsons, of 910 Cole Dr., Longview, Tex.

Wearing a princess style dress of silk organza with Alencon lace bodice and three-quarter length sleeves, and featuring a chapel train, the bride had a rhinestone crown headpiece. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and pink rosebuds entwined with a crystal rosary, a gift of the bridegroom.

Dianne Schwenke of Rochester was her sister's maid of honor. Attending as bridesmaids were Peggy and Janet Watson, sisters of the bridegroom, of Longview, Tex.

Frank Lukacs of Griffith, Ind., served as best man while John Weidleich of Albion ushered.

Following a reception held at the church the couple left for a two week trip to Texas.

Four County Residents Named to Cattle Group

Four Oakland County residents have been named members of the Holstein - Friesian Assn. of America.

Ralph L. Ruggles, of 5152 McKeatchie Rd., Milford; David E. Bourns, of 2800 Martindale Rd., South Lyon, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Vangieson, of 50490 S. Pontiac Tr., Walled Lake, where admitted to the association which ranks as the world's largest dairy cattle registry organization.

Will Live at Columbiaville

Wed in Lapeer Church

LAPEER — Upon returning from a honeymoon in northern Michigan, newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Heckman will reside at their Miller Lake home in Columbiaville. The couple was married here at Hunters Creek Community Church Saturday with the Rev. John Stevenson officiating before members of the immediate families and close relatives.

The bride, the former Margaret Jane Farrell, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Blackwell, of 3699 Hadley Rd., Hadley, formerly of Pontiac. Roy's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Heckman, of 828 State St., here.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of Rochelle lace and tulle. It featured a sabrina neckline, three-quarter length sleeves, and bouffant skirt accented by alternate rows of lace and tulle.

A crown of seed pearls and sequins secured her veil of French illusion, and white carnations and sweetheart roses comprised her colonial bouquet.

Karen E. Sabell of Drayton Plains, attended her cousin, the bride, as maid of honor. Serving as best man was Tom Citas of Lapeer. Ushers included David Farrell, brother of the bride, and Glen Heckman, the bridegroom's brother.

Guests attended a reception held at the Lapeer County Center Building immediately following the ceremony.

ROSE MARY PILSON

Announcing the engagement of their daughter, Rose Mary, to Jack L. Hoskins, are Mr. and Mrs. William A. Pilson of 5604 Tuscola, Commerce. Jack, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Hoskins of Paris, Tex., is stationed at the U.S. Army Nike missile site at Commerce. An August 22 wedding is planned.

Plan Campout and Canoe Trip in Canada

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP—Thirteen senior high school young people from the Commerce Methodist Church will leave at 5 a.m. Saturday for a week-long camp-out and canoeing trip in the north woods of Ontario, Canada.

Scheduled to arrive at Algonquin Provincial Park in Canada late Saturday, the group will register and leave the next morning for one of the most exciting adventures of their young lives, according to the Rev. Perry Thomas, one of the sponsors.

For six days and nights the six girls, seven boys and their chaperones paddle through a chain of lakes by river, pitch camp, sleep on the ground at night, and cook all of their meals on an open fire.

Other adults participating in the trip will be Mr. and Mrs. David Mansfield, William Krug, Jack Ettinger and Harold Mitchell, co-sponsors.

The group is expected to return to Commerce Township July 25.

BARBARA JEAN WEAVER

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne W. Weaver of 864 Orion Rd., Lake Orion, announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Jean, to Donald Eugene Moran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Moran, of 10410 Dartmouth Rd., Independence Township. An Aug. 22 wedding is planned.

Six Area Owners to Exhibit Holsteins

Six Oakland County Holstein owners will exhibit their animals at the annual Holstein Show at Mason, July 31.

They are, Douglas and Brenda Long of Milford, Ronald Brown and Laura Turner, both of Oxford, Larry Middleton of Lake Orion, and Richard Foster of Clarkston.

Beside Holstein competition, there will be displays arranged to interest dairymen in the fields of breeding, feeding, testing and record keeping.

General Douglas MacArther was born on a military reservation in Little Rock, Ark. The site is now known as "MacArthur Park."

Grange Poll Backs State Income Tax

LANSING (AP)— The Michigan State Grange said today a survey of its members has reaffirmed the organization's backing of a state income tax to solve the state's cash problems.

William J. Brake, grange master, said the survey was prompted by "the flurries of claims and counter-claims in recent weeks about what the people think."

He said only about 10 per cent of the grange's 29,000 responded to the survey, but termed the results decisive in view of the organizations long-standing support of a state income tax.

Brake listed these results:

1. 56 per cent for a state income tax.
2. 39 per cent for an increase in the use (sales) tax.
3. 5 per cent for using a temporary source of income, such as the veterans trust fund, until a referendum can be held for a people's choice between an income tax and a sales tax boost.

★ ★ ★

No one among those surveyed, the grange leader added, said the income tax was unfair, citing only cost of collection as an objection.

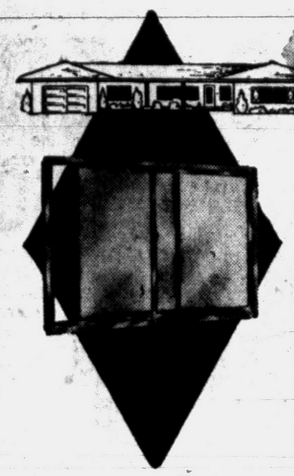

The beaver does not use his flat, scaly tail to excavate earth but rather to help him stand erect.

Nine Have Jumped Levy

Price Raises Hiking Union Dues

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The high cost of running a union is pushing up dues and fees in many of the nation's leading labor organizations.

An informal survey showed that nine AFL-CIO unions have increased "taxes" on their rank-and-file members in the first six months of this year.

Labor leaders assert that the trend will continue as unions build bigger strike funds and attempt to keep pace with prices.

Even the AFL-CIO has temporarily raised its dues for affiliated unions from five cents per member per month to six cents a head each month. It is expected to make the increase permanent at its convention next September.

★ ★ ★

"The price of everything a union buys has gone up," says AFL-CIO Secretary - Treasurer William F. Schnitzler. "That includes postage stamps, transportation, telephone calls and wages of employes."

Some unions suffered drastic membership losses during the recession. Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers union was especially hard hit.

The UAW executive board has increased dues $1 a month for the nearly 1 million members of the auto union. In doing so, it noted that the international paid a record 22 million dollars in strike benefits in 1958 even though there was no major auto strike.

The Ladies' Garment Workers Union jacked up dues by 50 cents a month to $3 to finance a million-dollar drive to publicize its union label and bolster its strike fund.

And the American Federation of Musicians okayed initiation fees of $100 and raised the international's slice from $3 to $20. This was designed to defray costs of holding annual conventions at a cost of $400,000.

FEW SOURCES

AFL-CIO officials explained that unions have very few sources of funds. They can get additional income only by expanding membership or raising dues.

The alternative is to reduce services to members—organizing, contract negotiating and research—or fire staff members. Unions hesitate to take either course.

Some unions — in the postal, entertainment and maritime fields — are considering mergers to lower costs without cutting services.

The 350,000-member Communications Workers of America recently raised its per capita payment by local unions to the international headquarters from $1.50 to $2.

Joseph A. Beirne, CWA president, had arranged to borrow $450,000 from local unions after a similar proposal was voted down at his 1958 convention. Beirne thus avoided making economy cuts in the union staff until he could get convention approval of the dues-raising move.

Increasing per capita payments, dues or initiation fees is often made a political issue at conventions against the union leadership.

As a result, any labor leader who wants to put across a dues increase goes well-armed with statistical ammunition to counter opposition broadsides.

Unions are natural targets for annual wage boosts from their own employes, many of whom are organized into unions themselves.

The Office Employes Union, for example, represents the 200 clerks and secretaries at AFL-CIO headquarters. An average secretary now receives a minimum of $91 a week.

This is about $11 to $13 a week higher than CIO secretaries received five year ago.

Many unions have also stepped up their research, legislative and education activities in recent years and they have bigger payrolls than they did when unions stuck to "bread-and-butter" goals.

Political Confab Calls County Union Secretary

Mrs. Mildred A. Burns, secretary of the Oakland County AFL-CIO, has been selected as a Democratic participant in the Institute of Practical Partisan Politics to be held at the University of Michigan next week.

Mrs. Burns of 1255 Florence St., Waterford Township, has been active in the Democratic Party several years.

She is a member of the Oakland County Democratic Finance Committee and a former Democratic city chairman in Pontiac.

She will be among 20 Democratic participants in the Institute, which runs from July 19-31, and is offered by the university's political science department in cooperation with the Democratic and Republican State Central committees.

It is financed by a grant from the Ford Foundation.

Twenty persons chosen by the GOP also will participate.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams will address the Institute on July 21, with Paul D. Bagwell, unsuccessful GOP nominee for governor in 1958, speaking the following day.

Detroit Officials Reject Monorail Transit Plan

DETROIT (AP)—A 255 million dollar monorail system proposed by the Rapid Transit Commission was rejected Thursday by Controller Henry P. Dowling and seven other city officials.

Detroit's Mayor Louis C. Miriani said, "The monorail plan is not feasible at this time. It is unrealistic and cannot be financed."

Will Suspend Upgrading of Teaching Certificates

LANSING (AP)—A one-year suspension has been ordered on upgrading of requirements for an initial state board of education teaching certificate.

Gov. Williams yesterday signed an order giving immediate effect to the board action, described as an emergency measure.

Dr. Lynn M. Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction, said the action merely holds the line by retaining last year's requirements instead of increasing them, as has been the case for the past three years. He estimated it might make as many as 1,000 more teachers available for Michigan schools.

Stay Alive Longer!

You're as Young as Your Arteries

By LELORD KORDEL
Installment Five

Dr. Irvine H. Page, president of the American Heart Association, says "a heart attack, as it is ordinarily considered by the public, is basically arteriosclerosis of the coronary vessels." In other words, hardening of the arteries.

LELORD KORDEL

Coronary thrombosis is no respecter of time or persons. It generally cuts down its victims during their most productive years. Unfortunately, the disease that leads up to it is not the kind that gives advance notice, that rings a warning bell and says, "Stop — Look — Listen. Slow Down —heart a work."

Coronary thrombosis strikes quickly and dangerously. Its sudden occurrence is the result of atherosclerosis.

"But why do we develop atherosclerosis?" asked my friend, Bill, who at 28 found he was a victim of the disease.

"There are several theories," I replied. "Let's consider the diet theory first:

"1. A high-cholesterol diet is consumed year after year, which piles up lesions in the arteries.

"2. It is the result of a metabolic fault, an inability of the body to handle the normal cholesterol and fat intake properly. This metabolic fault is especially aggravated in the presence of high starch foods. In other words, starches and fats."

"It all adds up to something," said Bill, "that I wish I'd known about a lot earlier. Now, here's what I want to know: Can a change in diet still help me? Or is it to late?"

"Of course it isn't too late," I said. "The ultimate results depend largely on you. How's your survival quotient, Bill."

"What do you mean?" he asked.

"Just this: How much do you really want to live, to retain your health? Do you have the stamina of spirit, the will power, to give up your old way of eating?

"Are you going to feel sorry for yourself every time you pass up fried foods and rich desserts? Or will it be a challenge to you to acquire new tastes, new interests in life, and, most of all, new energy and vigor?"

HIGH STARCH

When cholesterol was first discovered to be the cause of atherosclerosis and gall gladder trouble many patients were asked to forego completely such wholesome and necessary foods as eggs, cheese, meats, milk, and cream.

However, a diet of rice and fruit, or any other inadequate diet, can only result eventually in weakening the patient.

I quote from my book Eat and Grow Younger: "It is only when fats are eaten to excess, or when they are combined with high-carbohydrate meals, that they pile up in all those unwanted and dangerous places—around the waist, in the liver, around the heart and on the inner walls of arteries . . .

"Isn't it more logical to eliminate the artificial, high starch foods in the diet—foods that we can live very nicely without and be far healthier for the omitting—than to take away certain valuable foods like eggs, cheese, butter, liver and gland meats . . . which are rich sources of urgently needed vitamins and minerals?"

★ ★ ★

Atherosclerosis and high blood pressure are almost unknown among the Eskimos. Yet they eat large amounts of blubber, or whale fat. How do they escape disastrous consequences? Isn't it because of their high protein, low-starch diet?

Choline, inositol, and methionine are needed in the diet to help prevent cholesterol from becoming lazy and settling down in the arteries.

We find an abundance of choline and inositol in lecithin. The protein foods give us methionine. The high protein diet of the Eskimos is rich in all three of the lipotropic agents!

STOCKPILES FAT

Choline, a fat-distributing agent, is a wonderful aid in promoting normal distribution of food fat throughout the body and thereby preventing the stockpiling of fat in undesirable places, notably in hardening arteries and in a fat-clogged liver.

The human requirement for choline is assumed to be about half a gram, or 500 milligrams, daily.

Choline and inositol are found in whole grains and in most high-protein foods: lean beef and lamb, organ meats—liver, kidneys, heart, brains, sweetbreads—eggs, nonfat milk, cheese, and seed cereals.

Methionine, valuable as a fat-dissolver in its own right, seems to act as a catalyst for choline and inositol—speeding up their functions. In other words, a little methionine makes choline and inositol go a lot farther in doing tremendous good. Where do you suppose we find it. The complete proteins, of course: meat, fish, poultry, eggs, cheese, and nonfat milk.

★ ★ ★

Are you beginning to realize the value of a high protein diet?

Inositol is related in its functions to choline.

It is the substance which assists the heart muscles secure a constant supply of energy.

In animal experiments inositol was removed from the diet. The result: hamsters experienced reproductive disorders, chickens developed softening of the brain, and mice became completely hairless over various parts of their bodies.

CAUSE DAMAGE

Now, I'm not suggesting to you bald-headed men that inositol will grow hair. Instead, let me stress the fact that the lack of inositol can cause irreparable damage. I merely give you the facts. Let them speak for themselves.

Beef heart contains more inositol in an average serving than any other meat. There are 250 milligrams in one slice. But how often do you eat beef heart? If you're the average American male, never. Or hardly ever.

"If you're willing to work for that new lease on life," I told Bill, "you can have it. Begin now, with your very next meal, by putting yourself on a high protein, low starch, low sugar diet for the rest of your life."

What about your new lease on life? Are you interested in doing something about it—or just in reading about it? Unfortunately, you can read all the good advice in the world, and it won't help you.

Unless you do something about it!

When will you start? Now? . . . today? . . . tomorrow?

Why not make it today?

'Stars, Stripes Forever' Greets Nikita in Poland

KATOWICE, POLAND (AP)—Poland's Pittsburgh, the industrial heart of this country, was buzzing today with speculation about whether Katowice's famed Silesian Miners' Bands would soon have a new leader.

The current one greeted Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Poland's Red chief Wladyslaw Gomulka with a rousing rendition of "The Stars and Stripes Forever" when they arrived here yesterday.

Investigation indicated today there was no political motive behind the choice of this song, and that it had been popular with the band for ceremonial occasions since long before World War II.

As a matter of fact, the title of the song was recognized only by the only two Americans who were in the crowd outside the station.

The first commerical international flight in aviation history was made by a "Goliath" in which 11 passengers flew the 178 miles from Paris to London in two hours and 30 minutes in 1919.

Combine Money and Casual Air

Costly Gowns Hark Back to Louis XIV

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP) — If you can manage to wear a thousand-dollar ball gown with the casual air you'd have in a five-dollar house dress, you've achieved the fashion stance of the year.

The most opulent and expensive fabrics seen since the court of Louis XIV are used in this fall's fashions, being presented this week before the nation's fashion press, by now almost blinded by the general magnificence of the scene.

Probably the peak performance of the day was given by Roxane, the small, silver-blonde and self-effacing designer for Samuel Winston, who feels about fabrics the way most women feel about diamonds and mink.

An example is a simply cut afternoon dress of dark olive green guipure lace which, Winston announced, cost him $156 a yard. The price of the dress is $800—a Texas buyer has ordred it in all colors.

For lounging around the house, Roxane advocates dazzling "rajah" pajamas, with tunic tops of gold or silver encrusted brocade and slim, cuffed pants of matching satin. These will set you back about $200.

Colors run rampant through the Winston collection, both in daytime tailored suits and ensembles and in lavish after-5 outfits. In the suit lineup are lush woolens in such colors as olive green, seaweed, citron, cerise, henna and of course scarlet, many with blouse or sweater tops of a new sheet knit called "chanka," dyed to match exactly. Also shown are tops of a slightly fuzzier sheer knit mohair, called "etcha-chan." A number of suits have collars of fox, lynx or opossum, a new favorite in the high-fashion lineup.

For evening wear there are such little items as a short dance dress of chartreuse lace completely embroidered in iridescent pearl paillettes, a full-length ball gown in wheat-patterned white and gold cut velvet, and a completely straight, floor-length sheath made entirely of silver bugle beads.

This rhododendron silk satin evening dress with matching stole is from the Talmack fall and winter 1959-60 collection and was designed by John Moore. A huge bow slightly above the waistline in front creates the Moyen Age silhouette featured in this collection.

Hooded and faced with mink is this fawn colored fleece coat designed by Originala for the fall and winter collection.

Anne Fogarty designed this one-piece brown and rust plaid wool day dress. Part of her fall and winter collection, it features a brown kid "slither" belt. The sleeves are long and fitted, the neckline banded and high.

This red worsted wool dress by Larry Aldrich has a cardigan front and a pleated skirt stitched at the top hipline to eliminate bulkiness. The neckline is ideal for a many stranded necklace.

Tell Boy About His Adoption but Spare Him Ugly Details

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My sister's adopted son is now 14 years old. He was never told that he was adopted for this reason:

ABBY

Years ago, my sister's husband had an affair with a young girl who worked for him. This boy is the result of that affair. My sister had no children and wanted a family badly so they adopted this baby. Everything was done legally.

Do you think my sister should tell her son the story of his real mother and father? If so, when should she tell him, and how?

KEEPING A SECRET

DEAR KEEPING: The boy should be told he is adopted, and the sooner the better. Since this information is recorded on his birth certificate, he is likely to learn about it accidentally. No good purpose would be served in revealing the ugly fact that his father had an illicit affair and he descended from a long line his mother once listened to. But, if the boy's real father's name appears on the birth certificate, he had better be told who his real father is. Period.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a very lovely young lady. She flies for an airline. She meets a lot of attractive men in her work. I am serious about this girl and she says she is serious about me. I trust her, but I'd rather not have her in that line of work. She says I am foolish to feel the way I do. Am I wrong?

THE BOYFRIEND

DEAR BOYFRIEND: You are. A girl who "flies" will have no trouble keeping her feet on the ground if she's really in love.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law called me up and asked me to please not come for dinner (my husband and me) because she had some unexpected company and she didn't want to have 13 at her table. Bad luck, you know. She invited us a week ago. We got our sitter and were all set to go when this call came about four in the afternoon. I was never so hurt in all my life. My husband said to forget it (it is his sister) but I can't forget it. He says their whole family is superstitious that way. Do you think this was a good enough excuse ot call and disinvite us? HURT

DEAR HURT: Your sister-in-law is not only superstitious — she is thoughtless, inconsiderate and lacking in imagination. If she really wanted you, she could have invited another person and had FOURTEEN at her table!

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I have a fairly close friend whom I haven't seen in over six months as she lives out of town. I knew she was expecting a baby but heard nothing more about it. Then I heard the shocking news that her baby had been a Mongoloid. I don't know whether to write to her expressing my sorrow, write and congratulate her as though it were a normal child, to send a gift or ignore the whole thing. I feel terrible about this and don't know how to handle the situation.

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Acknowledge the birth of the baby with a gift. It isn't necessary to make any reference to the unfortunate fact that the baby was abnormal.

Final plans for the August retreat to be held at the cabin of Mrs. R. E. Johnston near Luzerne were completed.

Dark Clouds Mark Close of Girl Scout Roundup

Editors Note: Sue Latendresse was among five correspondents selected to represent each of the five districts in Northern Oakland County Girl Scout Council at the Senior Girl Scout Roundup held July 3-12 at Colorado Springs, Col.

★ ★ ★

By SUE ANN LATENDRESSE

Tears and dark clouds covered the Roundup site as the campers left Monday. Each camper was sad because she had to leave the wonderful times and friends she had found at the 1959 Girl Scout Senior Roundup. Each girl left a part of herself as they boarded the trains at Colorado Springs and were sped away to their respective homes.

The large tent city was torn down almost as quickly as it had been built. The homes of the 10,000 campers disappeared in two days. The army will remove the remaining tents and within a month, where a large city once stood, there will be a vast stretch of plains.

The heavens were even sad as the girls left, for gentle rains covered the area.

These girls will fill the hearts of other Scouts with hope that they too may someday build such a city for themselves.

Insurance Women Plan August Outing

Members of the Insurance Women of Pontiac held their regular meeting Wednesday at the Waldron Hotel.

Plans were made at the luncheon to order holiday candy and to arrange preparations for the August outing.

Members and friends will attend a dinner and play at Northland Aug. 18. The next regular meeting of the group is scheduled for Sept. 15.

Make Plans for Guests' Amusement

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I invited friends to come and spend their vacation with us. They plan to arrive in two weeks. In this morning's mail, we received an invitation to the wedding and reception of the daughter of very dear friends of ours. It so happens that the wedding will take place during their visit. I would like very much to go to the wedding, but I am wondering if it would be proper to leave them, or must we decline the invitation?"

Answer: If, as it seems from your letter, these friends are to stay with you for a week or more, it will be entirely proper for you to go to the wedding. You of course should try to see that your guests will have something else to do while you are away.

"Dear Mrs. Post: In figuring a tip for a waiter, should it be a certain per cent of the dinner bill before the tax has been added, or on the total amount? Now that the new dinner tax has gone into effect, this can make a considerable difference—especially on a large check.

"This question has come up among some of my friends and there were divided opinions on it, so will you please set us straight. Also, should a tip be figured on the entire bill—including drinks, or on food only?"

Answer: The tip should be figured before the tax is added, but on the entire bill including drinks. If you have wine and it is served by a sommelier or wine steward, you tip him a percentage of its cost and you may reduce what you give the waiter by a like amount.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it in bad taste for the women members of the deceased's family to wear make-up at the funeral service?"

Answer: A little make-up is not in bad taste, but enough to be noticeable most certainly would be.

Barentzen Shows Second Collection

By SUE CARDOZO

ROME (AP) — Last season's most controversial figure in Italian fashion, Patrick de Barentzen, showed a fall and winter collection Thursday night featuring sail fullness across the back, sleeves slipping forward low on the forearm and slim skirts.

Fath-trained De Barentzen's second Rome collection was the feature of the first day of the Italian showings.

De Barentzen's suit jackets are generally hip length, the skirts slim or even slight. Broad suede belts wrapped low, accented wool dresses cut in a form-fitting, slipped-sleeve motif.

Peaked pilgrim hats, velvet helmets or small tippling caps with beak-like visors topped the ensembles.

The French designer's predominant colors are black, gray and brown with splashes of orange and white.

Silk and velvet theater suits, some with low slung, billow-backed flight jackets, are featured for afternoon and evening wear.

A turtle-back trench coat, with sleeves easing forward low on the forearm, will be a vogue in 1960. It has a wide-collared neckline, and a loosely tied belt slips down to the hip.

Fall suits have easy lines and longer jackets this year. This sapphire British tweed collarless jacket suit has a matching blouse in silk crepe; a Davidow design.

A little housecleaning each day means less work at the end of the week. When washing the dishes, sponge grease splatters and crumbs from appliances, the cooking eating area. It takes little time or effort to do this, but the end result is worthwhile.

Poor Fitting

Shoes Start Corns, Calluses

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
(The Question Box)

Q. "Will you please tell me what causes corns and calluses on the feet?"

A. These are usually the result of wearing shoes which were not right for your feet. Your toes probably were crowded by shoes which were too short or too narrow. Sometimes weak arches lead to this. However, in the majority of cases the trouble can be blamed on the shoes a person has worn.

Q. "Is there any way to reduce the bust when one is 49 years old? I am some overweight but my bust is out of proportion to my other measurements."

A. The best and easiest way to reduce the bust is to lose your overweight. Age has nothing to do with it. If you have to be a bit large in some measurements, it seems to me that it is a happier situation to have a bust which is too large rather than hips which are too big.

Q. "I am 45 years old and have very dry skin. What kind of cream should I use?"

A. Any cream which is oily enough to lubricate your skin. Hormone creams are very helpful but it would be wise to have your doctor's advice about this. There is no doubt about it, the hormone creams plump up the cells and make a woman look younger.

Of course this is temporary and must be repeated every 24 hours. However, the trouble of applying it is well worthwhile. In special cases when a woman has had cancer or demonstrates a tendency toward tumors, she should consult her physician before using these. For other women there seems to be no reason for not using the hormone creams and every reason for using them.

Q. "Is there any harm in using mineral oil to cleanse my skin?"

A. No, this can be used as a cleanser.

Q. "I am the mother of four children and while carrying my last I gained tremendously, and to my astonishment have not been able to budge these pounds. My hips are large and my stomach very very prominent. Please give me advice needed to get myself in shape."

A. You must count your calorie intake daily. Hold it to not more than 1200 a day. Concentrate on hip and abdominal exercises as soon as your doctor says you can exercise.

Tomorrow: "Sun Toasting Speeds Loss of the Skin's Natural Oils."

November Group Meets for Brunch

The November group of First Presbyterian Church met at the Woodbine drive home of Mrs. Robert Newill for a brunch recently.

Members and their children enjoyed swimming and refreshments for the last meeting of the summer.

It's important to have extremely fresh eggs when poaching them.

Bubbling, Puffing Sleeves Mark Fall Fashions

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK (UPI)—The tame lines of fall fashions must have prompted designers to go on a spree with sleeves.

The sleeves this season balloon into bells, squares, puffs, and double puffs anywhere from the shoulder to below the elbow. They turn up on everything from daytime dresses to elaborate ball gowns.

The most exaggerated group of sleeves seen so far in the New York couture group's showing of 60 fall collections came in Harvey Berin's line. His designer, Karen Stark, did sleeves in fancy shapes with even fancier names — "double-bubble," and "windmill,' and "window."

The "window sleeve" is cut in one piece with the dress bodice and flared out like an upside-down funnel.

The "windmill" juts out straight from the natural shoulder. It is brief or near-elbow length.

A bell-shaped sleeve, with unpressed pleats falling from the shoulder, is tagged the "butterfly." I stops above the elbow.

Another sleeve, the "Elizabethan," is a modified leg o'mutton used on short dinner shirtwaist dresses.

The "double bubble" is a sleeve with two puffs. One puff is drawn in and held in place by a band about ¾ inch wide, and the other puff falls below it.

Berin also showed lots of printed silks, some belled skirts in cocktail dresses, and the straight, narrow look for daytime which Miss Stark formerly called the "walking stick dress."

CORD TIES

Adele Simpson showed a leg o'mutton sleeve on the jacket of one blonde brocade cocktail dress and jacket. Most other shoulders were rounded. The swagger look was popular for daytime suits and costumes. Some suit jackets were belted with matching rope or cord ties.

A group of afternoon dresses were done in crepe. Mrs. Simpson said she was unable to think of any other designation for the fabric, until reading her newspaper, she decided to call it "crepe canaveral."

Highlights of other collections: Patullo-Jo Copeland — Tunic dresses and ankle-length evening gowns were the specialties of this house. Lots of fur showed — mink collars on satin evening gowns, a rabbit-dyed civet lining on a black wool cape, and beaver lining a costume.

Davidow — This suit house showed slightly longer jackets, straight skirts, bracelet sleeves, natural waistlines, and optional narrow self-belts. Coats were full-length or seven-eighths length and often demi-fitted at the middle like a military coat. The cardigan suit turned up in three-toned checks with straight skirt and semi-fitted longer jacket that extended in a deep V to the waist and closed with one brass button.

Cassini — The designer showed his usual saucy collection of form-fitting sheaths and low-cut shirtwaists. Evening gowns were both slim and full.

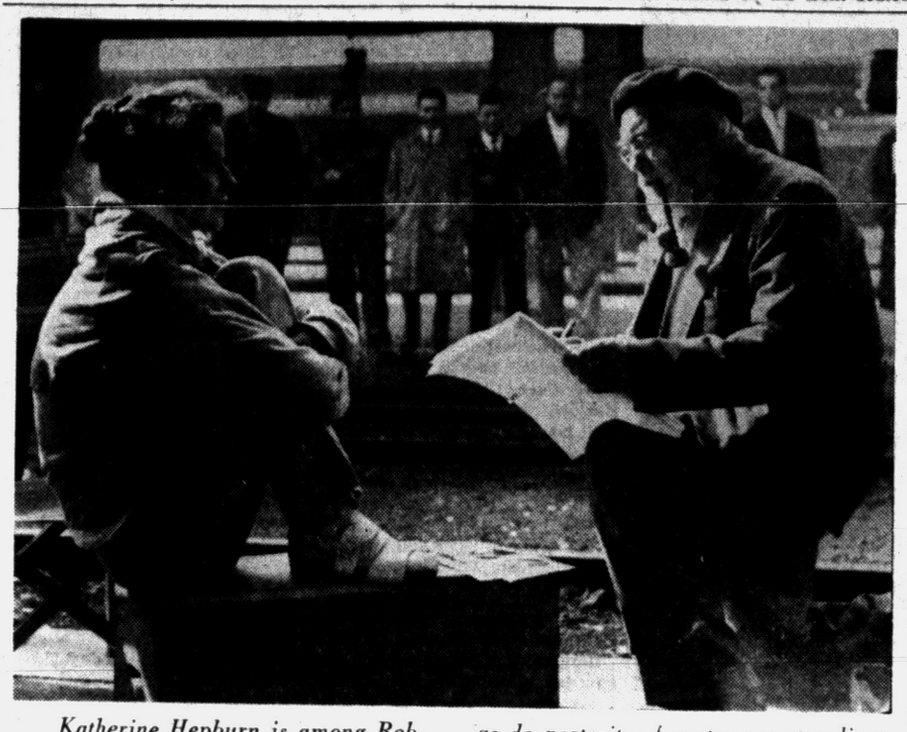

Cummerbund waists, lace insets from neck to waist, cardigan jackets, double-breasted jackets, and black and white combinations were staples. Necklines on evening and cocktail clothes were cut below the models' suntans. Most daring — a black dress with a vertical diamond cut-out on the front bodice.

Talmack — John Moore, designer for this firm and favorite dressmaker of Marilyn Monroe, showed simple, elegant clothes in elaborate fabrics. Silhouettes included the tunic and half-tunic, shirtwaists, peplums, princess dresses, and unbelted sheaths. Siren fabric of the collection was nude silk appliqued with black velvet leaves, shown in long, slinky evening suits and gowns.

★ ★ ★

Ben Zuckerman — This suit house went in for a new shoulder treatment: the military epaulette, a flat fold of material jutting out over the shoulders. The double sleeve effect — a short jacket sleeve over a longer dress sleeve — was another touch of this designer, who won the American Fashion Critics Award in 1952 and again in 1958. Suit silhouettes included the belted and unbelted (but still fitted) tunic.

A "Carole Lombard coat" harking from the 1930's was a casual, wrapped clutch with silver fox shawl collar. For luxury, Zuckerman showed a gold damask, French brocade short dinner suit with jacket lined in sable.

Katherine Hepburn is among Robert Herzberg's friends and models. This picture was taken while he was in Venice. Mr. Herzberg, Birmingham artist, will exhibit his collection as well as do portraits of customers attending the Country Fair at St. Mary's in the Hills. The fair is being held from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. July 25 at the church in Lake Orion.

Church Plans Affair in Orion

Fair Will Feature Local Artist

Robert Herzberg, well known Birmingham artist will be the feature attraction at the annual midsummer Country Fair being put on by Angelus and St. Mary's Guilds of St. Marys in the Hills Church. The Fair will be held from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. July 25 at the grounds of the church in Lake Orion.

Herzberg will exhibit and have on sale paintings from his collection. Many were done of circus people during his winters in Florida. Herzberg's paintings also decorate Adrian Cotters Tavern in Royal Oak.

At the fair he will set up his easel and do portraits of fairgoers.

Other features of the fair will be games, pony rides, merry-go-rounds and prizes.

There will be a display of Early American Antiques at reasonable prices, supervised play for children from six to 11 years old and a "Next-to-new" booth with clothes, hats and jewelry.

A "Teenage" booth will have records and there will be baked goods, gifts and ice cream and hot dogs and coffee will be served all day with a ham dinner from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. in the undercroft.

There will be prizes for the Cub Scout and Brownie Troops bringing the most parents.

Plan Reunion for Class of '53

Pontiac Central High School Class of June '53 is starting preparations for a class reunion. All summer school 1953 graduates are also invited.

In order to mail later information, the present names and addresses of all graduates are needed. Anyone interested please call or write, Mrs. Keith Traver of Briggs street, Mrs. Wallace Knowles of Upland avenue, Mrs. Donald Harrison of James street or Mrs. John Christoff of Drayton Plains.

New patent leather shoes are a boon to the budget-minded as well as the fashion-conscious. These feature the temperamental leather in a year-round condition. The new "luxury patent" resists cracking and keeps its luster through hot or cold weather.

Teeners Reveal No Qualm About Mentally Ill

Today's teenagers often display surprising insight into psychological problems, says Edward Linzer, educational director for the National Assn. for Mental Health.

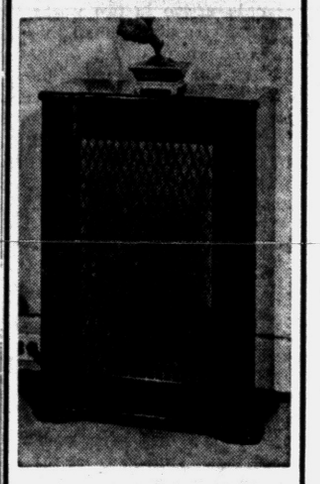

Recently high school boys and girls tried out for parts in a one-act play, "Which Way Out?", designed to explain the problems of mental illness to young people. Says Linzer:

"The youngsters met the subject head-on. There was little real embarrassment and they seemed eager to learn the facts. We were extremely pleased, and frankly surprised, at the teenagers' attitudes. They showed a degree of sympathy that was really quite touching and at the same time they were very positive in condemning the shame and ridicule that adults frequently show toward this disorder."

The association hopes to use the play as an instructional tool in classrooms and before young people's groups all over country.

Fresh Raspberries Make Delicious Ice Cream

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Mrs. George Wilson of Waterford called us recently to give us the recipe for a refrigerator ice cream that never gets crystallized or icy. She remembers her grandmother making this ice cream when she was a little girl.

★ ★ ★

There are two small boys in the Wilson home. Mrs. Wilson loves to read and likes all sports.

GRANDMA'S PURPLE ICE CREAM
By Mrs. George Wilson

1½ cups milk
½ cup (scant) evaporated milk
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup milk
1¼ cups sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs, well beaten
1⅞ cups sugar
1½ cups cream
2 cups raspberries, strained

In a saucepan mix first milk and evaporated milk. Bring to a boil and remove from heat. Mix cornstarch, 1¼ cups sugar and salt with the ¼ cup milk. Add to first milk mixture. Bring to a full boil and cook until thick.

Add beaten eggs and second batch of sugar. Boil one minute, stirring constantly. Add cream and strained berries.

Pour into 2 ice cube trays and freeze firm. Scrape out of trays into large bowl and beat until thick and almost melted. Freeze again until firm, about 3-4 hours.

Boom in Antiques Sweeps Area

By LYDIA ROTHMAN

Do your neighbors and friends act more like big game hunters or "private eyes" than the sedate TV watchers they used to be?

Do they ask permission to search through your dusty attic or rummage through your cluttered garage? Are relatives eyeing family possessions with wicked glints?

★ ★ ★

If this is happening to you—don't worry about a thing. It's all part of the normal behavior pattern of those engaged in the latest boom.

Not a gold or uranium boom, but one dealing with something almost as valuable—it's the boom in antiques and it's sweeping the Pontiac area as well as the rest of the country.

LIKE WARMTH, CHEERINESS

Why all the excitement at ye olde antique shoppe? George Richman of Wiggs was the first to give us a clue.

He says, "People seem to be tired of the stark and sterile modern furnishings that have been enjoying such a vogue.

"The warmth and cheeriness of early classical type furnishings such as Early American have a terrific appeal and it mixes well with modern furnishings too."

Surprisingly enough, it's the young married set that's doing the biggest buying in the way of antiques.

The Trading Post in Birmingham, commenting on the growing demand for antiques, feels one reason is that young people are moving into homes of their own.

They also have the money to spend as well as the place to put antiques. And antiques remind them of their family ties and history.

'FUN TO SHOP'

Mrs. Delphine Michaels of Curiosity Shoppe on Telegraph road which deals in valuable antiques says, "It's fun to shop for them and of course shopping and bargain hunting are natural to women.

"As there is no set price on any antique, there's the fun of bargaining for a long-sought-after item or unearthing a prize in some obscure, out of the way place."

Antiques are a good and sound investment too. An item becomes an antique when it's 100 years old.

★ ★ ★

After that, the value increases about 20 per cent every 10 to 15 years. Scarcity and condition of an article also determine its value.

Just watch an antique fancier's eyes light up when the subject is brought up and when two or more get together—there's often some sharp horse trading.

EXPRESS PERSONALITY

Antiques express the owner's individuality and personality. People are traveling more than ever before and have been exposed to the value of handmade items and craftsmanship as well as a taste for the exotic items from other lands.

Within the past 10 years, the antique statistics have taken on a new look—dealers, shows and publications dealing with antiques now number in the thousands and a national magazine states that $250,000,000 (conservative estimate) a year is now being spent on antiques.

Designer Stresses Elegance

Praise Trigere's Fashions

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—The French have a word for it — elegante.

That's the way women should look at all times, says Pauline Trigere, Parisian-born designer who previewed her fall collection for 240 members of the fashion press Wednesday, drawing an ovation which stopped the show.

The slender, chic Trigere, who always wears her own clothes and loves them, shows a group of clothes for day and night, town and country, which would make any woman look like a queen traveling incognito.

Highlights of the collection are her "conquistador" capes — great, swashbuckling wraps shown for both day and evening, with huge cape collars which can be drawn up to cover the head. They are shown in velvets, in brocades and in wools, and are thrown back to reveal slim shafts of dresses, often in matching fabric.

Trigere also features many full skirts in suavely cut black silk dresses, the backbone of any Frenchwoman's wardrobe. Among these is the eight-pointed skirt, the points being in evidence at the hemline, umbrella fashion.

★ ★ ★

There is much width at the top in her gracefully draped afternoon dresses and also in the new suits, many of which are fur-bearing. Trigere favors the "ellipse" armhole, a graceful, elongated line, and shows also the "blossom" sleeve, tight on the forearm, and full above the elbow.

With slender evening dresses she shows many shoulder capelets of various furs such as broadtail, white mink or a newcomer, cheeta, first cousin to a leopard.

A series of theater suits have tailored jackets, slender ankle-length skirts and blouses. One such is of a muted green plaid tweed, with white satin blouse.

Other New York designers who showed their fall collections Wednesday include: George Carmel, known for distinguished coats and suits; Paul Parnes, a specialist in wearable, ladylike clothes, and Originala, maker of fabulous coats for upper-income brackets.

Trigeres remark as she commented on her fashions could be echoed by all designers:

"It's wonderful to make beautiful clothes, but it's also nice to sell them — and these are selling like what you call the hot cakes."

Attendants Give Shower to Fete Barbara Sahr

Barbara Sahr, bride-elect of Larry Scott, was honored at a miscellaneous shower Wednesday evening, given by her attendants at the home of Mrs. Gustav Falk on Joslyn avenue.

Helga Falk, Pat Sahr and Mrs. James Hudson will attend Barbara for her marrage in August.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sahr of Cameron street. The prospective bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Huffman of North Anderson street.

★ ★ ★

Guests attending included Mrs. Thomas Amoss, Mrs. Herman Dunn, Mrs. Daniel McDonald, Mrs. Benjamin Santana, Mrs. Robert Gowan, Mrs. Stephen Kives, Mrs. Palmer Stenson, Mrs. Huffman, Mrs. Donald Williams, Mrs. Donald Koontz, Mrs. Sahr and Mrs. Falk. Also present for the affair were Jeanette Ganje, Georgia Goyer and Eve Palaian.

Garden Club Hears Talks

The Better Home and Garden Club met Thursday afternoon for a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Louis Livingston on Woodbine drive.

Following a short business meeting, Mrs. Irl Williams spoke on flower arrangements. Also participating in the program were Mrs. Roberta Roberts of Birmingham, assisted by Mrs. Marguerite Grinnell, who spoke on home decorating.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Clyde Anderson served as chairman of the committee for the day, with Mrs. Harriet Seaks, Mrs. Joseph Phillips, Mrs. Dewey Allen and Mrs. Howard Luther assisting her.

An average housewife spends one-third of her day in planning, buying and preparing the family's meals.

'Far Less Racial Discrimination Today Than When I Was a Teenager'---Bunche

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Ralph J. Bunche, center of a controversy involving the attitude of a New York tennis club toward Negroes, believes there is a lot less racial discrimination today than when he was a teenager.

★ ★ ★

He calls this "an expression of the maturity of the society" in the United States.

He cites the case of his son and namesake—that he was 15 before race discrimination touched him in the refusal of the tennis club, at one period, to consider him for membership.

The elder Bunche is a United Nations undersecretary for special political affairs and a right-hand man to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. He won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1950 for working out the Arab-Israeli armistice agreements for Palestine.

DR. RALPH BUNCHE

MANY TASTES OF DISCRIMINATION

He told an acquaintance the other day he himself had had plenty of experiences with race discrimination.

"I couldn't be 54 years a Negro and not have—unless I sat at home," he said. "I've had many.

"But things change. Whereas I have had many, my daughters, who are older than my son, have had some. My son has had none.

"This tennis thing is the first thing of its kind he's encountered.

"Well, it's a sign of the changing times . . . even in New York City, when I was my son's age, there would have been incidents.

"Things have changed. I think it's an expression of the maturity of the society."

He gave these reasons for the change: The Negro's efforts "to eradicate these practices," led by such organizations as the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People and the Urban League; support from "white citizens who are fair minded."

"Progress was greatly accelerated," he said, "during the war."

LONG-TIME DIRECTOR

Bunche has been a director of the NAACP for years. He fights discrimination.

"I oppose it whenever I encounter it," he declared, "and speak against it in principle."

Bunche, light brown of complexion and fine featured, obviously has white blood. But never to his knowledge has he been taken for a white man.

"I don't recall," he once told a friend, "when anyone's taken my complexion for a sunburn."

It has been written that he is the grandson of a slave but he says: "I never had any slave ancestry. I wouldn't be ashamed of it at all if I did have. But I didn't."

His father's father was an Ohio farmer, his mother's father a teacher who studied at Shurtleff College, Decatur, Ill., and later taught in Negro schools in the Indian territory and Waco, Tex.

Bunche's own father, Fred Bunche, was a barber from Columbus, Ohio, and his mother, Olive Agnes Johnson, a Topeka, Kan., girl.

Ralph Bunche was born in Detroit. His mother developed inflammatory rheumatism, and the family moved to Albuquerque, N.M., for her health. She died when Ralph was 14.

He went out for basketball, baseball and football in high school, and won an athletic scholarship at the University of California at Los Angeles.

At UCLA, he was on three basketball teams that won Southern California Conference championships. He chose political science as his major interest.

6-DAY WEEK

He works six days a week, sometimes Sunday. He lives in Kew Gardens, New York, with his wife and their elder daughter Joan, a Vassar graduate who works at Look Magazine.

A younger daughter, Jane, a Radcliffe girl, is married to Burton Pierce, a General Foods executive. They have two children.

Ralph Bunche Jr. is spending the summer in Choate School, Wallingford, Conn. He likes baseball and basketball. He took tennis lessons last spring from George Agutter, instructor at the West Side Tennis Club, near the Bunche home.

Agutter advised him to get a junior membership so he could play at the club this summer.

★ ★ ★

Later the elder Bunche reported he had asked the club president, Wilfred Burglund, about this and had been told the club barred Negroes or Jews.

State's Rose Plants Are Plagued by Black Spot

Maneb, captan or ferbam helps to control black spot, one of the state's most bothersome diseases on rose plants, according to H. Spencer Potter, plant pathologist at Michigan State University.

"Black or brown spots up to one-half inch in diameter may appear at any time during the summer," says Potter. "Most of these round spots appear on the upper leaf surface. A few spots may develop on lower leaf surfaces and on stems."

"Affected leaves usually turn yellowish," says the pathologist. "Diseased plants lose vigor. Also, the disease may cause greater sensitivity to winter-killing."

Potter recommends spraying or dusting every seven to 10 days in summer. He says it's very important to put on the fungicide soon after a rain, as wet leaves help the disease become established.

The fungicide must cover both the upper and lower leaf surfaces, Potter points out.

EASY DUSTING

"Dusting is easy and fast, but proper spraying usually gives better control," he says. "Gardeners can spray with captan, ferbam, or maneb at the rate of two tablespoons of spray material per gallon of water.

"Rose leaves are waxy, so many gardeners use a substance called a spreader to make each application last longer," says Potter. "Spreaders now on the market can be mixed with the regular spray materials."

★ ★ ★

Potter says gardeners should dispose of infected stems at pruning time. The specialist also recommends destroying old leaves in the fall, as spores of the disease-causing fungus over-winter in leaves on the ground.

"Wind and splashing spring rains help carry the spores to new spring plant growth," according to Potter. "In summer, high humidity and 70- to 80-degree temperatures favor the disease."

Powdery mildew may accompany black spot, according to the specialist. In that case, he advises mixing sulfur or mildex with the fungicide.

County extension offices have complete details on disease and insect control in roses, according to Potter.

Trees, Shrubs Are Victims of Vacation Neglect

Vacation time is the happiest time for youngsters, except those left home, forgotten or overlooked.

Those children of the landscape —newly transplanted trees and shrubs—are the prize victims of America on the move to vacation paradises.

Even more than other residents of the home grounds, they need care and attention and at least someone at hand to make sure they get enough water to meet their above-normal thirst. Arrangements for a "tree sitter" should be made by every vacationing home owner with new landscape pets.

Most people make sure somebody mows the lawn and that newspaper, milk delivery and telephone services are suspended while they're away. However, few arrange with neighbors to give the transplants a thorough weekly watering. These newest landscape prizes haven't had time since spring to send roots into the cool depths of earth or to reach out into a wide area.

While it's a good idea to saturate the soil before the family takes off on its trip, this can't take the place of the regular watering schedule. Only a few kinds of trees native to more arid areas, such as Chinese elms, ailanthus, Carolina poplar and some others usually considered weed trees, have camel-like abilities to get along with a minimum of water.

Predicts Home Planting Will Set 12-Year Record

It is almost a foregone conclusion says the American Association of Nurserymen that planting of trees and shrubs in 1959 by America's home owners in an unprecedented wave of home beautification projects will reach a 12-year peak, an all-time record.

The vast army of home gardeners is growing at an estimated one to two million per year and now totals over 50 million strong.

For the first time, during the past year, home beautification plantings have taken the lead in home improvement projects as people "start with the land" in bettering their home living.

New trends, like "Garden Living," in which home owners live and play and entertain outdoors amidst lovely trees, shrubs and plants in general has made vast strides, the association states.

ALL SEASON

All-season planting due to the technical advances of growing nursery stock in containers, from which it may be transplanted at any season, often when in bloom, makes anytime a good time to plant.

★ ★ ★

"Home planting grew right through the recession of 1957-8," the association states, "and much more added vigor is expected as consumer demand rises with the greater prosperity now at hand."

Offer Common Sense Tips for Tree Pruning

Ornamental and fruit trees should be pruned by this weekend. Most trees — except for hard maple, birch and certain other "heavy bleeders" — will heal faster if pruned before the leaves reach full growth.

Here's advice that will help you prune trees right:

1. Use sharp tools. Pole pruners, saws and knives are good tools, but they should be in top condition to do an effective job. Sawing and hacking with dull equipment is a sure way to kill off a healthy tree.

2. Avoid stripping the bark. The weight of a halfpruned tree can rip the bark of the main trunk right off of the wood. Prevent stripping by making a small cut from the bottom of the branch, a foot or two from the trunk. Then cut down from the top to meet the incision, and repeat the process flush with the trunk.

3. Leave no stubs. A branch stub can't strengthen itself or heal the wound because it has no foliage. If one leaves even a short stub, it can attract diseases or rots that work their way into the main trunk.

4. Trim the wound. Nature will close the scar faster if one enlarges it slightly and changes its circular shape into a vertical ellipse. It's best to use a sharp pruning knife to trim the bark away. This "surgery" allows new bark cells to grow more easily.

5. Dress the wound. Every stem cut one-half inch or more runs the risk of rotting before it heals. A handy aerosol spray, a wound dressing, prevents the flow of sap and seals against moisture and decay.

Following these basic tips, together with one's own common sense, will protect trees from their most dangerous enemy—the pruning saw.

Pour Suds on Plants

Experienced gardeners often pour cool soapsuds over indoor plants to remove aphids or plant lice. They let some of the soapy water trickle into the soil in each flowerpot.

Farmers in Michigan as well as other states have snapped up the idea of minimum tillage since its development by Michigan State soil scientists. It cuts crop production costs because farmers work land fewer times.

DOUBLE DUTY — American handcrafted glassware can perform double duty in the home. This handsomely shaped crystal flower container brightens up a living room. It is also an ashtray! There probably are many containers of various sorts in your home that can be functional in displaying flowers from your garden. Try displaying flower and leafy plants in copper bowls, too.

50 Per Cent of Men Allergic

Ivy Causes Vacation-Time Misery

A three-leafed weed called toxicodendron by botanists, poison ivy by those Americans not allergic to it, and a variety of unprintable names by those who are, probably causes more vacation-time misery than most other allergic ills combined.

Poison ivy is found in every section of the United States. It grows in the form of clinging vines, trailing shrubs and upright shrubs, and can usually be found just where you've set down the picnic basket; in the woods to the left of the fairway if you hook, or to the right if you slice; and on the bank of the stream where you've just caught a three pound trout.

The leaves of toxicodendron vary in length from one to four inches. They are green and glossy in summertime, red or russet in spring and fall. The fruit is white and waxy looking and resembles mistletoe.

Although ivy poisoning has long been a basis for humor, it is not really a laughing matter. Approximately 50 per cent of white adult males are allergic to one or more of the members of the poison ivy family . . . ivy, poison oak, or poison sumac. Each year more than 350,000 cases of skin poisoning are reported, ranging from mild itching to severe inflamation and large blisters.

Although most cases of ivy poisoning are due to direct contact with the plant, some are caused by handling clothing, garden implements, and even pets which have touched poison ivy. Some individuals are so sensitive to its allergy-causing oils that exposure to a brush fire containing stalks or leaves of the plant will cause inflamation of the skin.

TAKES WEEKS TO HEAL

Ivy poisoning is usually characterized by a burning or itching sensation. In some cases it is followed by blisters, pustules, oozing sores and scaling . . . all attended by constant itching. A severe attack can take weeks to heal. Symptoms may occur any time from a few hours to a week after contact.

Luckily, pharmaceutical manufacturers have developed a wide variety of products for prevention and treatment of poison ivy. Before going on vacation, ask your local pharmacist for information about these products.

If you do accidentally contract ivy poisoning and break out with large blisters or severe inflamation, or develop a rash on your face or other sensitive body area, you should see a physician. He will be able to relieve the discomfort and guard against secondary infections.

★ ★ ★

But the best treatment of all is to avoid poison ivy like poison. In the words of the old jingle, "leaflets three, let it be."

Trellis Planter Easy Job

By VIVIAN BROWN

If you like plants but can't quite keep them under control, consider making a trellis planter. There are several advantages to the planter: (1) it will offer your plants a leaning post to encourage growth and (2) keep them in a neat arrangement. It may be an ideal screen for the summer fireplace, or an addition to a window sill, picture window or porch.

Start with a wooden flower box, the required length for the area you wish to decorate, making frame and planter of redwood, fir, pine or what have you. If it is to be used indoors, give the box several coats of thinned shellac or paint it.

After the box area is set, make uprights for the side of the box, depending on the height you want, using a frame of 1 by 3 inch wood, and joining it by a bar across the top, placing eyelets about 6 inches apart across the bar.

USE ROPE

Place the eyelets the same distance apart on the length of one side of the box. Rope or nylon clothesline may be laced in an X design along the flower box from the top row of eyelets to the row along the rim of the box. You may open the eyelets with pliers for easier lacing.

Line the box with tinfoil and set the plants in it right in their own clay pots, adding more soil to bring the planter to a level to conceal the pots.

A pretty arrangement may combine variegated ivy that climbs up the trellis with geraniums. Begonias and philodendron make another attractive combination.

A background of ivy may be cultivated to massive display with plants in the foreground changed to suit seasonal moods. African violets, dwarf marigold, dwarf zinnias, ageratum, petunias and bleeding hearts may offer variety with climbing plants for handsome displays.

Moisture Kills Seeds

In seeds as well as in people, "It ain't the heat — it's the humidity!" The higher the moisture content of the seed the quicker it dies, and with this fact well known at least one major flower seed grower is now drying and packing seed in moisture-proof packages on the wholesale level. The day is coming when even retail packets will contain not only seed but desert-dry air as well.

Farm Population Low

NEW YORK (UPI)—Only one out of eight persons today lives on a farm compared with one in three in 1910. But farmers will spend $17 billion this year on machinery, fertilizer, seeds and other non-consumer items, or twice the expenditures of just 20 years ago, economists estimate.

In purebred dairy herds, calves vaccinated for Bang's disease sell for $75 to $150 more than unvaccinated ones, according to Michigan State University dairy extension specialists.

Flowers Aren't Always Prettier in Other Yards

The flowers are not always prettier in the other fellow's yard.

This was the conclusion of a Michigan State University researcher as he discussed with participants to the annual "Michigan State Florists Day in College" the results of a six-months study in California designed to provide answers for Michigan florists on how to compete with the current influx of California flowers.

"California offers a wonderful year-round growing climate with lots of sunlight and sufficient irrigation," said Dr. W. J. Haney, of the M.S.U. department of horticulture.

"Michigan, however, is faced with long, dark, cold winters and short growing seasons," he contrasted. "Here, growers must build glass roofs over the ground and burn fuel to warm the air inside to grow flowers."

★ ★ ★

Typical of the California floral competition on local markets are carnations, chrysanthemums, geraniums and stocks. There flowers are produced by the acre and shipped all over the nation.

LONGER LASTING

"Michigan residents should realize," he reminded, "that local flowers are fresher, more fragrant and will last longer than the imported blooms. This is especially true with carnations."

We are also making progress with chrysanthemums and stocks, Haney explained. "In season, we can produce better blooms than our west coast competitors can deliver here."

★ ★ ★

Although geraniums abound in the fields in California, they may be infested with parasites which lower the heat resistance to plants in home gardens. Michigan geranium growers are now successfully competing with California by offering hardy, disease-free plants.

In closing, Dr. Haney mentioned that California residents seem more "flower conscious" and that floral decorations are an important part of most west coast landscapes.

"Michigan would be more attractive if we made more use of flowers in and out of our homes," he suggested.

More than 200 growers, wholesalers and retailers of cut flowers from Michigan and surrounding states participated in the conference at the Kellogg Center for Continuing Education July 14.

Testing Your Garden Sense

Q—Do you believe that earthworms are necessary in the soil to make it fertile?

A—Earthworms have many arguments in their favor. Actually scientists do not know whether earthworms are any more beneficial in decomposing organic matter in the soil than are the other organisms present, such as bacteria. We do know that many soils do not have earthworms and still produce good crops.

★ ★ ★

Q—Our gladiolus blooms were spoiled by thrips. What should be done to prevent infestation next year?

A—Dust gladiolus bulbs with DDT after digging them and again before planting next spring. Spray plants weekly with DDT next season, starting when growth appears and stopping when flower buds show color.

Leading Lady Swimmer Advises Exercise

Don't Be Afraid of Muscles, Gals

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Greta Anderson said it, flexing her muscles beguilingly as she spoke.

"Women in America are afraid to develop muscles because it's supposed to be unfeminine. So what do they do? They spend most of their time sitting on their fat behinds."

Greta's husband flinched slightly.

"But they do," she went on. "They sit there while the dishes wash themselves and the clothes dry by the drip, and watch television. This assures them that even their minds won't get too big. Only their ——."

"It's the culture, honey," said her husband.

Miss Anderson nodded philosophically, and went on. "It's a shame there aren't more women athletes here, though. Exercise keeps a woman's body toned up. Besides, athletic competition keeps one alert—makes like fun, instead of humdrum."

No one could say that this heroically shaped hourglass of a young woman has a humdrum life, certainly. She is currently the leading lady swimmer in distance meets — swam the English Channel, all 22 miles of it, i.. 13 hours, 53 minutes, in 1957; and went on the following year to do it again. Just this week, she won the world's professional championship swim, women's division, at Atlantic City for the fourth time.

Before she began knocking off American competition, Greta won 35 Copenhagen championships, 24 Danish national titles, eight Scandinavian records, and four all-Europe championships.

"Oh well," she says when asked how she did it, "it's easy if you like to swim."

Born in Denmark and now a U.S. citizen, Greta's chief ambition now is to swim the Channel both ways — a feat that's never been done. She thinks she can do it because last year she was the first person to complete a successful two-way crossing of California's Catalina Channel, approximately the same distance as the English channel as the shark goes.

"The water's colder in the English Channel, of course, and the tides are rougher. But—well, for pete's sake—if anybody's going to do it, I guess it'll be a woman."

This curious (to us) philosophy has nothing to do with feminist instincts. It is purely a question of physiology, says the champ. "In endurance swimming, a woman has a definite edge on a man. She's more buoyant, and she has more fat so she can stand cold water; it doesn't get through to her muscles and bones, as it does on a man.

"My husband, for instance, is a football coach (Johnny Sonnichsen, of San Pedro, Calif., High School). He has a fat tissue content of three per cent. Mine's 26 per cent. He could walk away from me in any sport on land. But in the channel he'd freeze purple before he got really started."

When she's not swimming in competition, the remarkably shapely (muscles can be curvaceous too) Miss Anderson teaches Danish toning-up exercises to women around Long Beach, Calif., where they live.

"It makes them feel better," she says. "Gets them off their ——."

"TV hassocks," said Johnny.

NORMAN D. DUNN

Publicity Head Picked for UF

Norman Dunn Named Promotion Man for Pontiac Area Drive

Appointment of Norman D. Dunn, 4172 Waterloo St., Waterford Township, as publicity and promotion chairman of the 1959 Pontiac Area United Fund campaign was announced today by Robert R. Eldred, 1959 campaign chairman.

Dunn, a public relations representative of the Pontiac Motor Division, has been active in the Pontiac Area United Fund since joining Pontiac Motor in 1955.

He has served as arrangements chairman for the past two years. Dunn is member of the Pontiac Industrial Affairs Committee, the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce and the city's Centennial Committee.

He will supervise and coordinate the preparation of promotion materials such as newspaper releases, radio announcements and campaign advertising to be used during the forthcoming fall UF campaign.

Dunn attended the University of Arkansas and has seen service as a Navy pilot and a newspaper reporter.

Birth of Son Saves Father From Expulsion

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—Earl Belle, "boy financial wizard" who is under indictment for his financial manipulations in the United States, became a father last night, thus becoming immune to expulsion from Brazil under Brazilian law.

A son, Clint, weighing seven pounds, five ounces, was born to Belle's wife, Neoma, by caesarian section. A child born in Brazil automatically becomes a citizen of this country, and the Brazilian constitution prohibits the ouster of a parent of a dependent citizen.

Expulsion moves against Belle of Pittsburgh, have been under consideration for some time. Brazil does not have an extradition treaty with the United States.

Dean of British Art Sir Munnings Dies

DEDHAM, England (AP) — Sir Alfred Munnings, 80, dean of British art, died at his home here today.

A former president of Britain's Royal Academy, Sir Alfred was a fierce opponent of modern art and campaigned vigorously against art schools, saying "Art teachers are people who can't make a success of painting."

Dem Senator Backs Criticism of Party

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis) has backed Democratic National Chairman Paul D. Butler's criticism of the party's congressional leadership.

"I think Paul Butler was absolutely right in calling on Congress to keep our platform promises," Proxmire said Thursday. "Quite a few Democrats around the country are unhappy about the progress that has been made in the current session."

Proxmire was the first Democratic senator to openly criticize Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) this year. Butler has kept his criticism general and so far has named no names.

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI)—Newly-inaugurated mayor James E. Fitzpatrick turned his first major problem over to the ordinance committee for investigation. A woman had complained that too many other women were wearing "short shorts" on the city streets.

But He'll Keep Construction Job

Bob Mathias to Attempt Acting Career After All

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bob Mathias is going to try for an acting career after all.

THOMAS

Six months ago, the Olympic great gave up after waiting for Hollywood to use him as an actor. He took a job with a big construction firm and began a course that would train him in all phases of building.

Now he's co-starring with Keenan Wynn in a television series called The Troubleshooters. Oddly enough, it's about a pair of adventuring construction workers. But though the series is backed by United Artists and sold to a cigarette firm, Bob is coolly holding on to his nonacting job. He's on leave from the firm.

★ ★ ★

Cool is the word for Mathias. That's the way he trained for and won the decathlon at London (1948) and Helsinki (1952). And that's how he has approached this business of being an actor.

"It'll either happen or it won't," he philosophizes.

Bob never had any great yen to be an actor. After graduating from Stanford, he was approached with an idea for a TV series.

"But I had only six months before I was to go into the Marine Corps," he said. "That wasn't enough time to get a series going. So instead, we formed a company and made a feature, The Bob Mathias Story, with my wife and I playing outselves."

★ ★ ★

The film was a creditable job, if no great moneymaker. Ward Bond had played in it and he brought Bob to the attention of his great pal John Wayne. When the athlete got out of the service in 1956, Wayne signed him to an exclusive contract.

But Wayne's company wasn't making movies. For a year and a half, Bob played in only one film, "China Doll." Most actors would flip their lids over such inactivity. Not Bob.

"Why should I have complained?" he said. "I was collecting a good salary, and I was allowed to do outside things."

7-Year-Olds Learn Lesson in Free Enterprise

PHARR, Tex. (AP) — A lesson in free enterprise:

Bruce Kolberg, 7, opened a 5-cents-a-glass lemonade stand this week.

★ ★ ★

Then Kenneth Walter Jr., 7, opened a competing stand, pricing his lemonade at 3 cents a glass.

Sharp words were exchanged, then blows.

Deciding that was no way for civilized businessmen to act (and it's too hot here in south Texas to fight anyway), the two decided to merge. They added ice cream cones and second-hand toys.

The next step was membership in the Chamber of Commerce. A letter of application asked if the "Chamber Commers" had any 25-cent memberships.

★ ★ ★

Chamber directors decided they did. A special directors meeting approved the application and Chamber President Lloyd Glover delivered the membership card to the pair.

Wonder if It Will Run

BENNINGTON, Vt. (UPI) — It took the Ben-Mont Paper Co. only a few minutes to erect a new building. The 120-foot-long structure was made of heavy gauge nylon and was blown up with a powerful fan.

In an average day in 1958, 86,300,000 Americans talked about something they had read in the newspapers according to a study by Sidlinger & Co., business analysts.

6,000 Cherry Pickers Needed to Harvest Crop

DETROIT (UPI) — The Michigan Employment Security Commission today issued another appeal for cherry pickers in western Michigan.

MESC Director Max M. Horton said "more than 6,000 cherry pickers are urgently needed, today, divided evenly between the Traverse City area and the Hart, Shelby, Bear Lake area."

Horton also said some 300 to 400 cherry pickers were needed in the Benton Harbor South, South Haven-Holland area, and that there was an urgent need in addition for 1,000 blueberry pickers there.

He said experienced pickers were averaging about $12 a day, with inexperienced workers earning less.

Public Apathy Fed Polio Epidemic

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Epidemic polio came to Des Moines this summer because too many people thought science had the disease beaten.

And the same thing could happen to practically any city in the country."

These were the conclusions today of the men who have battled the nation's first polio epidemic of 1959.

At last count, Iowa counted 107 polio cases and three deaths. Seventy-nine of the victims were residents of Polk County, which encompasses the state capital city of Des Moines.

Des Moines city and county officials hoped the epidemic was trailing off in the city, but feared that it might just be getting started elsewhere in the rich farm state of Iowa.

"Iowa has a very poor vaccination record," explained Des Moines city-county health director James F. Speers.

Too many Iowans believed that the Salk polio vaccine protected them against the disease — even if they hadn't been inoculated with the vaccine themselves, Speers said.

Following a 1952 epidemic when Des Moines counted more than 400 polio cases, there was only one polio victim in the city in 1957 and a scant 10 last year.

PUT OFF INOCULATIONS

Reassured by the rareness of the disease, Speers said, many adults who should have know better came to regard polio as something that couldnt' happen to them. Getting an anti-polio inoculation became something which could always be put off until tomorrow.

When the polio epidemic came this summer, some of the victims had received Salk vaccine. But far too many had not taken the trouble to get the full series of three inoculations and a lot more had no vaccinations at all.

"It's true Des Moines was apathetic before the epidemic," Speers said, "but no more so than the rest of the nation. It could happen to other cities."

Des Moines and Iowa have paid heavily for this apathy. They have also received assistance from all parts of the country.

Iron lungs from Boston, Denver and Cleveland, "hot pack" machines from Omaha and Chicago, and technicians from West Virginia and Missouri have flowed into the state.

★ ★ ★

As the epidemic mounted, health officials issued pleas for every available piece of polio-fighting equipment. The Iowa cities of Ames, Sioux City, and Iowa City sent iron lungs to Des Moines.

"But," Keith Peterson of the National Foundation said, "with the growth in the number of cases in the rest of the state, we couldn't rob them any longer."

Salk inoculations were stepped up following the start of the epidemic in early June. The Des Moines health clinic alone administered 25,000 shots, and individual doctors gave thousands more.

The epidemic had done its work, however. Even if the outbreak is subsiding, health officials said, hospitals will be crowded with its victims for months to come.

Canada Unchanged on Water Diversion

OTTAWA (UPI) — Changes in the controversial Chicago water diversion bill suggested recently in the U. S. Congress have in no way lessened Canada's opposition to the measure, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker said Thursday.

Questioned in the Commons on possible changes in Canadian policy on the matter, Diefenbaker repeated the strong language of previous occasions in outlining the country's opposition to the proposal to divert 1,000 cubic feet per second from Lake Michigan at Chicago.

"I can say unequivocably that there has been no change in Canadian policy on this matter," he said.

There was a general feeling among Canadians that diversion of even 1,000 cubic feet per second could not but damage Canadian power and navigation interests, he said.

★ ★ ★

He said he could not agree at the moment to a proposal referring the whole matter to the International Joint Commission.

Jimmie Stewart Gets Committee OK on Promotion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nomination of movie star James Stewart to be an Air Force Reserve brigadier general was approved Thursday by the Senate Armed Services Committee, ending a two-year-old controversy.

Stewart's promotion from his present rank of reserve colonel had been blocked since 1957 mainly by the objections of Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me).

While applauding his acting ability and World War II record as a combat pilot, she complained about the amount of time Stewart devoted to Air Force Reserve activities.

While approving the new rank for Stewart, Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) said there was a question about the propriety of assigning him as chief of staff of the 15th Air Force.

Instead, Stewart's assignment was changed to public information section, Russell said.

Among other Air Force Reserve nominations approved, all still subject to Senate confirmation, was that of Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz) from colonel to brigadier general.

Willys Slates Production of Jeeps at Windsor

TORONTO (AP) — Willys of Canada Ltd. Thursday announced it will start Canadian production of its Jeep vehicles at Windsor, Ont., in August.

Production is planned for about 1,000 vehicles annually.

The announcement said that the present development is expected to lead later to production of other vehicles of the Willys line, which includes trucks, station wagons and sedan delivery vehicles.

Guy Campbell, who has been import and marketing manager for Canada of Ford Motor Co., will head the Windsor operation as general manager.

The beginning of the American school system was in Boston where in 1635 a schoolmaster was employed to give instruction to children who lived in the pioneer settlement.

Might Force Legislators to Account for Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House administration subcommittee has approved a bill to require each member of Congress and every administration official to account publicly for any federal funds spent on junkets abroad.

The subcommittee voted to require such travelers to submit financial reports to Congress within 60 days after they return home. The reports would list the spending of government-owned dollars and foreign currencies and would identify all relatives in the travel party.

Controversy Blisters London

Man Fights Car for Park Slot

LONDON (AP)—British traffic authorities were trying today to decide if a man can legally park himself at a parking meter for automobiles.

★ ★ ★

The son of the late H. G. Wells is one of principals involved in this neat little issue of English ethics. What happened was this:

Prof. George Philip Wells, who will be 58 tomorrow, is professor of zoology at London University. Driving to the Savile Club for lunch, the professor sighted a parking space. Just as he was about to back his car into it, he saw a man standing in the street in front of a ticking meter.

"Excuse me," Wells called out from the driver's seat, "but I'd like to park where you're standing."

"Sorry," said the man, "but I'm parked here."

★ ★ ★

"You can't park there," replied the professor with considerable logic, "You're a man, not an automobile."

"I'm well aware of that," rejoined the man, "but I'm parked here until my brother arrives in his car."

"Nonsense," muttered the professor to himself as he slowly, but firmly, backed his vehicle into the space.

"Sir," said the man, "that's unethical." Unethical or ethical, the professor parked. Who was right?

★ ★ ★

"The man was right," said the Official Automobile Assn. "We can see no reason why a man should not reserve a space for a reasonable time. But it would not do for everyone to do it."

★ ★ ★

"The man was wrong," said the Westminster City Council. The parking meters are our responsibility and we say that no one has the right to reserve a parking space by this method."

★ ★ ★

"We don't honestly know," said the Ministry of Transport. "There does not appear to be any provision in the road traffic act to cover reservation of parking spaces."

★ ★ ★

And there hangs the issue.

Quite incidentally, Prof. Well's novelist father once write a story called "The Time Machine."

David Niven, Wife Part After 11 Years

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor David Niven and his wife Hjordis, former Swedish model, have separated after 11 years of marriage.

British-born Niven issued a statement Thursday saying: "We have been living apart for several weeks. No divorce is contemplated. We are trying to work out our very personal problem as quietly and privately as possible."

Niven left immediately for Honolulu with his sons David, 16, and Jamie, 13. He said he would return in August to begin a picture.

Will Escort Nixon to Moscow

707 After Red Jet Record

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A giant jet airliner accompanying Vice President Richard M. Nixon to Russia next week is expected to try to better the New York-to-Moscow flight time of Soviet First Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov.

★ ★ ★

A Soviet TU-114 jet-prop last Monday returned Kozlov to Moscow non-stop in 9 hours and 48 minutes.

Nixon's plane is not likely to be aiming for any records.

That effort, it was learned today, will be left to a Boeing 707 intercontinental jet which will carry Nixon's press group nonstop from New York city's Idlewilde Airport to Moscow.

The vice president himself is to leave Baltimore's Friendship Airport in a different type of Boeing airliner — a military version of the standard 707 now making daily transatlantic commercial flights. Nixon's plane is expected to make a refueling stop at Keflavik, Iceland.

★ ★ ★

Both the press plane, which will have at least 56 passengers plus crew, and the vice president's craft probably will depart next Wednesday evening.

Nixon is going to Russia to open the American exhibit in Moscow and tour the Soviet Union.

Nixon announced last night that Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, "father" of U.S. nuclear submarine development, would accompany him on the forthcoming trip.

The vice president explained that he expected to have a chance in Russia to inspect Soviet atomic developments in both commercial power and ship propulsion.

★ ★ ★

The unorthodox admiral may have won the trip by his verbal prowess during several pointed exchanges with Kozlov last week at the Shippingport, Pa., atomic power station. Rickover told the Soviet official, through an interpreter: "It's all right to talk about peace. Now you go home and do something about it."

Calls Meeting About Tension

New York Mayor Plans to Consider Flareups of Whites, Negroes

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner has called a meeting of Negro and white leaders for next Tuesday to consider the causes of such flareups as the one in Harlem earlier this week.

"I don't like to see these tensions, but they do crop up in many areas," Wagner told a news conference Thursday.

"We have worked closely with the Harlem community and many other communities on their problems, such as the need for more schools, more hospitals, etc.

"Perhaps we can work even more closely. That will be one matter to be discussed at the meeting Tuesday. Perhaps we can do more."

When two white policeman arrested an unruly woman of Puerto Rican and Italian descent in Harlem Monday night, an angry crowd of Negroes gathered. The crowd apparently thought the woman was a Negro.

★ ★ ★

A pistol carried by one of the policemen accidentally discharged and slightly wounded both policemen. The crowd apparently reacted to rumors of police brutality. The woman who was arrested later said there was no brutality involved in her case.

Since then police reinforcements have been moved into Harlem and other predominately Negro areas of the city.

★ ★ ★

Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy told the mayor that tensions had eased somewhat in Harlem since the Monday night incident. He said assignment of reinforcements was "a normal procedure."

Pontiac Man to Be Arraigned on Theft Charge

A Pontiac man accused of stealing $240 last week from an unlocked strong box in the home of Ernst Alvrez, 644 North View Ct., will be arraigned in Oakland County Circuit Court Monday.

Munipal Judge Cecil McCallum set bond at $500 for James Gibson, 27, of 644 Northfield Ave.

Gibson is being held in the Oakland County Jail.

The theft occurred on July 8 when someone walked into the home and took the cash from the unlocked box.

Gibson will be arraigned on a grand larceny charge.

GM Argentine Expansion of $20 Million Proposed

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. said today it has proposed a 20 million dollar expansion of GM facilities in Argentina to provide eventually for an annual volume of 20,000 vehicles.

The proposal was made to the Argentine government under an Argentine regulation covering manufacture of automotive products.

Battle Wagon Maryland Goes to Scrap Heap

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The scrapper's torch is going to deal the "Fighting Mary" the death blow the Japanese never could.

In two or three weeks, five tugs will tow the 31,500-ton battleship Maryland from Bremerton, Wash., to Oakland to be reduced to scrap by the Learner Co.

Eight months will be required to cut up the old warrior that survived attack at Pearl Harbor and carried the war to the shores of Okinawa.

The Maryland was taken out of service in April 1947.

Turnabout Surprises Democrats

GOP Adds $10 Million to State School Aid Bill

LANSING (AP) — An abrupt turnabout by Republican senators that raised the ante by 10 million dollars has taken the heat out of the legislative scrap over state school aid for 1959-60.

Even so, a conference to adjust Senate-House differences still was in the cards today.

The Senate move yesterday had other important effects:

1. It boosted the general fund budget beyond 425 million dollars, assuming a minimum of 11 million dollars is provided for deficit retirement.

2. It added appreciably to pressure for a tax settlement at least of the proportions urged by Gov. Williams in January but then spurned by GOP solons.

A school aid bill providing a 10 million dollar enrichment factor sped through the Senate by a 25 to 6 vote after majority Republicans caved in on a demand for a "hold the line" program.

It called for a help formula based on $200 a pupil, with three mills deductible. This compared with a $210, 3½ mills deductible formula voted by the House and the existing $190 a pupil and 2¾ mills.

★ ★ ★

Deductible millage is an equalization feature of the program. It is designed to recognize variations in local property valuations in such a way as to give proportionately more state aid to "poor" districts. The higher the deductible millage, the greater the benefit to these districts.

The quick switch from a previous stand for continuation of the existing aid level another year came after word spread that seven or more GOP senators were ready to desert in favor of the House position.

Unless the hold-the-liners had backed up, it meant probable Senate approval of the bill as it came over from the house.

Sen. Frank D. Beadle (R-St. Clair) estimated the bill, as it passed the Senate, would put a 36 million dollar bite on the state general fund in supplementation of earmarked school aid revenues.

Asks Parents to Fight Smut

Many Pontiac Children Exposed to Lewd Mail, Says Postmaster

More Pontiac children are being exposed to lewd and lascivious material through the mails than is evidenced by registered complaints.

Acting Postmaster Robert C. Miller issued the warning along with a plea that parents step forward in the fight against "smut traffic."

"The first reaction of parents who receive obscene material in the mail," says Miller, "is to throw it away before the kids get a look at it, or get rid of it quickly after they find it already in the youngster's possession.

"It is a natural impulse, but it won't solve the problem. The only way we can stop the purveyors of mail-order obscenity is to bring the instances to light as they occur."

★ ★ ★

Miller said a number of Pontiac youngsters unwittingly have been placed on mailing lists of dealers in the smut traffic. Most of the material comes from California, New York and Chicago, he said.

A law passed last year, however, enables prosecution to start in the city where the material in question is received. Previously, such action could be taken only at the site of origin.

According to the postmaster, a national study shows that 700,000 to 1,000,000 minor children will be solicited this year through the mails for the sale of obscene materials. The racket nets more than half a billion dollars a year.

Carolina Father Guilty of Rape

Gets Life in Prison for Attack on 11-Year-Old Negro Girl

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Ralph Lee Betts, 36, white father of four children, was sentenced to life imprisonment Thursday for the rape of an 11-year-old Negro girl.

A Superior Court jury of 12 white men spared him the maximum penalty of death by recommending mercy. The jury was out 2½ hours.

★ ★ ★

Judge Malcolm Paul pronounced the mandatory life sentence in a courtroom crowded with spectators, nearly half of them Negroes.

Mary Lois McDougal testified Betts came to her rural home and ordered her to enter his car. She said the attack occurred in a wooded area after he threatened her with a pistol.

Betts was arrested by officers who gave chase when they saw the girl leave a car at a crossroads near her home.

Will H. Yarborough, named by the court to defend Betts, said no appeal was planned. Under North Carolina law Betts must serve 10 years before he can be considered for parole. He had served a previous term for attempted rape of a minor white girl.

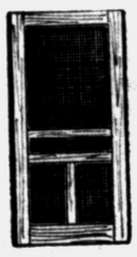

Only about 10 per cent of all the land in Switzerland is said to be suitable for agricultural purposes.

YANKS COLLIDE — Yankee outfielder Tony Kubek and shortstop Gil McDougald (12) rammed into each other yesterday chasing Rocky Colavito's pop fly at Yankee Stadium. In the top right, Kubek then tries to pull away from McDougald but both hit the ground and watch the ball bounce away. Kubek was taken to the hospital with a slight concussion. The Yanks beat Cleveland twice.

Split at Boston Does It As Yanks Sweep Tribe

Hose Top Jumbled AL Race

By The Associated Press

All you can say about the American League pennant race at the moment is IF.

IF the Chicago White Sox can do no worse than split the four-game series they open in New York tonight against the Yankees, they might be able to do something with their newly reacquired lead.

IF the Cleveland Indians can rebound quickly they might bounce right back into first place in a four-game series at Boston opening tonight.

IF the Yankees can sweep the White Sox, or at worse lose no more than one of the four, then it might be all over.

The White Sox slipped back into first place while splitting a doubleheader at Boston yesterday, losing 5-4 after pushing their winning streak to five games with a 4-3 decision in the opener. The Indians were jolted to second, a game behind after a month's stay on top, when they dropped a doubleheader to the Yankees, 7-5 in 10 innings and 3-0.

Kansas City defeated third place Baltimore 4-3.

The White Sox, who lost their last lead in a mid-June three-game sweep by the Yankees, beat Boston on Sherm Lollar's tie-breaking double in the seventh inning against loser Tom Brewer (7-6). Dick Donovan won it. He allowed only four hits, but needed Gerry Staley's hitless two-inning save for a 6-5 record.

★ ★ ★

Ted Williams' pinch single in the sixth gave the Red Sox a 4-4 tie in the second game, and Vic Wertz, who drove in an early run with one of two doubles, then beat reliever Ray Moore (2-6) with a seventh-inning single. Mike Fornieles gained his first victory by blanking the White Sox on four hits in three innings of relief.

Bobby Shantz (4-3) pitched a five-hitter, walking two, striking out seven, for his fourth straight victory, first complete game and first shutout since 1957 in the nightcap for the Yankees. Home runs by Enos Slaughter and Hank Bauer backed the little lefty as the champs swept the three-game series after losing five in a row.

★ ★ ★

The fourth place Yanks, 5½ games behind, gained a 5-5 tie on Yogi Berra's 11th homer in the ninth inning of the opener, then put it away on Mickey Mantle's two-run, two-out homer off losing reliever Gary Bell (8-9). It was Mantle's 19th homer, first since June 23, and his first RBI since June 25. Duke Maas (7-5) won it in relief.

'Businessman' Rocky Ready to Talk Shop

MONTREAL (AP) — Rocky Marciano, retired unbeaten heavyweight champion, said Thursday that as a businessman he is ready to consider fighting again.

★ ★ ★

"I retired more than three years ago," said Marciano. "But I'm a businessman. I will listen to any business proposition about a fight."

★ ★ ★

Marciano was in Montreal to referee a wrestling match.

★ ★ ★

"I weight about 220 pounds now," he said. "I would want to weigh about 190 to fight again."

★ ★ ★

Marciano said, if he did decide to fight again, he would want several bouts before he would feel ready to take on Ingemar Johansson, the current champion.

Nothing Goes Right as Nats Win Again, 5-2

Slumping Bengals Face Orioles After Dropping 4th Straight Decision

BALTIMORE (AP) — The badly slumping Detroit Tigers moved into town today, grimly hoping for a fresh start following a third straight defeat, 5-2, at Washington last night.

Just about everything went wrong as the Tigers, now losers in 11 of their last 13 games, permitted the Senators to mop up the series by parlaying the breaks with seven hits for an easy triumph.

Five pitchers and five pinch-hitters failed to pull the Tigers out of their rut. Starter Ray Narleski, who lasted less than two innings, went down to his 10th defeat against four victories. It was Detroit's fourth straight setback, miring the team tighter in sixth place.

The Tigers and Orioles open a four-game series tonight. A twi-night doubleheader is billed tomorrow and a single game Sunday to conclude Detroit's road trip. and a single game Sunday to conclude Detroit's road trip.

Manager Jimmy Dykes benched the still ailing Al Kaline last night, using Johnny Groth in center field.

However, nothing seemed to help. The Tigers outhit the Senators, 9-7, but failed to match the Senators in making use of opportunities.

Homer-minded Washington was in form. Faye Throneberry hit his seventh of the year in leading off the second. A walk, a single and a sacrifice scored another run to start Narleski to the showers. He gave up another single and a walk before being waved out.

★ ★ ★

The Senators then had a 3-0 lead after scoring in the first on an error, stolen base and a single. They made it 5-0 with two in the fourth, aided by loose Tiger play.

Harvey Kuenn tripled behind Eddie Yost's single and came home himself on Charley Maxwell's single in the Detroit fifth when the Tigers made their only substantial attack.

Wright Defeats Pontiac Golfer; Defending King Also Loses at Denver

Special to The Pontiac Press

DENVER — Don Essig III, the 1957 champion from Indianapolis, plays Bill Wright, Seattle collegian, and Bill McCool, San Francisco policeman, meets Frank Campbell, Jacksonville, Fla., insurance agent, in today's 36-hole semi-finals of the National Public Links golf tournament.

They are shooting for the crown knocked off the head of defending champion Dan Sikes Jr., University of Florida law student, by Leonard Pietras, 25, Toledo, Ohio, factory foreman, in a third round 2-up upset yesterday. Pietras shot 67 over the 6,617-yard par 71 Wellshire course.

Wright, 23, a 6-foot-2 Negro senior at Western Washington University, has caught the eye of many gallerites with his balanced play and confidence. He scored the most decisive victories yesterday by beating Pontiac's Wally Smith, 3 and 2 in the third round and crushing Don Kristofitz, Fargo, N. D., 5 and 4 in the quarter-finals.

Smith ran into putter trouble on the front nine where lost the 3rd, 5th and 7th holes on bogey fives.

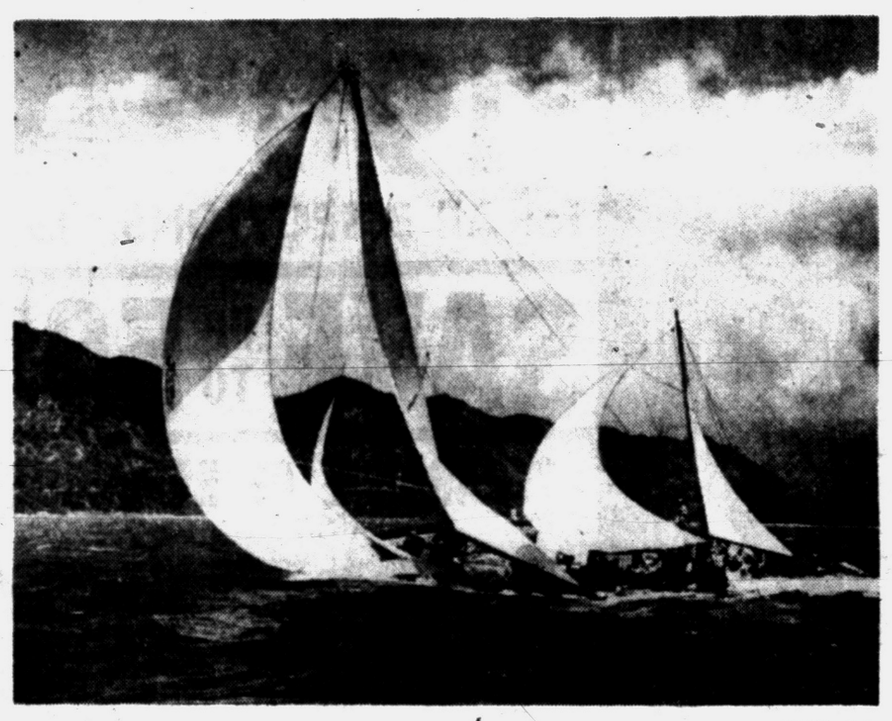

Two down at the turn, Smith won 12 when Wright overshot the green with a 7-iron. However, Smith's putter continued to give him trouble on 13 and 14 where he took bogey fives as Wright took pars.

McCool, 39, disposed of Hugh Farmer 2 up in the second round and conquered Jack Zimmerman, Dayton, Ohio, 2 and 1 in the quarter-finals.

Campbell, Sikes' teammate from Jacksonville, defeated Pietras in the afternoon quarterfinal 3 and 1.

Essig, 20, senior at Louisiana State, moved into the favorite's role with Sikes' departure.

YAWL SWINGS ABOUT — The 67-foot yawl Maruffa, owned by John Graham of Seattle, swings about as she crosses Diamond Head finish line off Honolulu yesterday in the trans-Pacific yacht race. The Maruffa crossed the line 4th in the fleet of 41 starters. She covered the 2,225 nautical miles from Los Angeles to Honolulu in 11 days, two hours and 50 minutes.

Birmingham Housewife, Ann Arborite in Finale

JACKSON (AP)—Two housewives who play golf when they find time from their children met today for the Women's Michigan Amateur Championship.

Matched in the 36-hole finals, were Mrs. Charles U. (Betty) Wilson of Ann Arbor, 1951 champion, and Mrs. Lew Goddard of Birmingham, a debutante in this tourney.

Teenager Sharon Miller is out of it. The 18-year-old Marshall girl, sensation of the early rounds was victim of a "mother knows best" situation yesterday. She lost in the semi-finals to Mrs. Goddard, 3 and 2.

Mrs. Wilson, daughter of Ray Courtright, one-time University of Michigan golf coach, defeated Mrs. Dwight Anneaux of St. Joseph, 6 and 5, in the other semi-final.

Today's two finalists, both the mothers of three children, viewed the prospect of their 36 hole duel with concern.

Mrs. Goddard, a former star in Ohio and Nebraska in younger days, had not played that much golf in 20 years. Nor had Mrs. Wilson since she won this title eight years ago.

A steady Mrs. Goddard took Sharon's measure when the red-haired youngster lost her touch under the tension and began spraying her shots.

Matching par, Mrs. Goddard closed out Sharon's last chance at the 16th after the latter had won only one hole, the 13th. Mrs. Goddard had taken a 3-up lead by winning the 5th, 8th and 12th holes with pars.

The 509-yard second hole might have been the turning point. Sharon had a birdie 4 in the bag when Mrs. Goddard holed a 60-yard iron shot out of the rough for a birdie of her own.

Mrs. Wilson sailed through her match with Mrs. Anneaux, never losing a hole.

By the eighth hole Mrs. Wilson was three up. She finished it off with winning pars on the 10th, 12th and 13th.

Combine Hurling, Pinch-Hit for 1-0 Victory

Antonelli, Rhodes Work Old Tricks

By The Associated Press

When the Giants last won the National League pennant, 1954, southpaw Johnny Antonelli led the league in winning percentage and earned run average. And a guy named Dusty Rhodes kept thrillin' the Giants home by drilling clutch hits.

It was that way again last night. Antonelli pitched a three-hit shutout and Rhodes came through with a run scoring pinch single in the ninth for a 1-0 victory at Philadelphia. That retained San Francisco's one-game lead over idle Los Angeles after the Phillies had won the opener of the twi-night doubleheader 6-4.

It was Antonelli's 14th victory, once more tying him with Pittsburgh's relief ace, Roy Face, as the winningest pitcher in the majors. It also was Antonelli's third shutout, all in his last four starts, and gave him the ERA lead in the National League at 2.49.

The split also pushed the Giants two games ahead of the Milwaukee Braves, who lost their third in a row to the Chicago Cubs 4-2. Cincinnati defeated St. Louis 7-5.

Antonelli, who has lost four, now has won eight in a row from the Phillies since Aug. 11, 1957. This one stopped the Giants' slump at three games and stretched his shutout streak over the Phillies to 26 innings as he outdueled Gene Conley.

Conley (7-6) gave up eight hits, finally giving in when Jackie Brandt singled, went to second on Rhodes' single. The big right-an error and came home on hander has lost four games by one run, another by two runs, and twice has been beaten by shutouts.

Ernie Banks' solo 25th home run gave the Cubs a 3-1 lead in the fourth inning and beat Lew Burdette (12-9). Dave Hillman (5-7) went all the way, allowing nine hits, as the Braves matched their worst slump while being swept in a three-game series for the first time.

Third baseman Al Dark was credited with an unassisted double play in the second inning, although he never touched the ball. Base runner Stan Lopata ran into Dark as he attempted to field a ground ball. Umpire Ed Sudol called Lopata out for interference then called out Johnny Logan, who was running from first to second, because Lopata barred a possible play by Dark.

Jerry Lynch drove in four runs for the Reds with a single and homer, then set up another run with a single. Johnny Temple's single broke a 5-5 tie in the sixth against losing reliever Marshall Bridges (3-1). Willard Schmidt (2-2) was the winner in relief.

Nonne's Nearly Ices Pennant at Drayton

Nonne's Restaurant just about wrapped up the American division title of the Waterford Softball League last night with a 6-0 victory over runnerup Spencer Floor Covering in their showdown battle at Drayton Plains.

★ ★ ★

Nonne's opened up a full two-game lead over Speneer behind the sharp one-hit shutout pitching of Jim Christie, who fanned nine and walked six. Tony Hiller's single in the 6th was Spencer's only hit. Nonne's iced the verdict in the 1st inning, scoring four times with the big blow a two-run homer by Harry Dearborn.

Andonian Duo in Top Flight

Triple Medal at Birmingham

By BILL CORNWELL

Mike Andonian had every intention of playing in the National Public Links golf tournament this week at Denver, Colo.

But the Pontiac Central High School mathematics teacher couldn't get away from his summer educational work so he decided to stick close to home and play in Birmingham Country Club's 15th annual Invitational Best Ball tourney.

Eighteen-hole qualifying rounds were completed Thursday with Andonian and his partner, Jack Andrews of Birmingham, combining their talents for a five-under-par 67 to easily land a spot in the Championship Flight.

Birmingham's par of 36-36—72 really took a beating yesterday as all 16 teams in the top flight posted sub-par totals. Five tandems tied at 70 and a draw was conducted for the final berth with Birmingham's Ed Grabowski and Joe Savarino of Jackson drawing the high card to win the position.

★ ★ ★

Three teams fired scores of 66 to divide medal honors. The triple medalists were Jack Geiss-Duke Yager, Tim Baldwin-John Larkins and Dave MacHarg-Carl Landgerbe.

It was strictly a one-man show in the case of Geiss and Yager. Geiss, who shot a course record 63 at Birmingham last summer, recorded their 66 qualifying score with his own ball. A year ago Geiss and Yager won the Pine Lake event and placed 2nd in the Birmingham outing.

The Andonian-Andrews tandem shared runnerup laurels at 67 with Rollie and Rich Weyand and Tom Newell and Dr. Eldon Erickson. Andonian, three-time State Publinx champ, ended his round in blazing style by sinking an eight-foot putt for an eagle three on the 585-yard 18th hole.

Match play competition got under way today with a total of 140 teams competing in nine flights. Single matches are scheduled today and tomorrow with the semifinals and final set for Sunday, all on an 18-hole basis.

★ ★ ★

The team of Charlie Gehringer, all-time Detroit Tiger great, and Dr. John Sigler will offer the first round opposition for Andonian and Andrews. Sigler and Gehringer qualified with a 69.

Today's first round pairings in the Championship Flight with qualifying scores in parenthesis:

Jack Geiss, Birmingham, and Duke Yager, Richmond, Va. (66) vs. A. V. Lotti, Birmingham, and Perry Byard, Red Run, (69).

Mike Andonian, Pontiac, and Jack Andrews, Birmingham (67) vs. Dr. John Sigler, Birmingham, and Charlie Gehringer, Bloomfield Hills (69).

Dave MacHarg, Dearborn, and Carl Landgerbe, Chattanooga, Tenn. (66) vs. Ben Smith, DGC, and Dr. Frits Adams, Orchard Lake (69).

Ralph Ellstrom, Dearborn, and Elmer Ellstrom, Dearborn (68) vs. Tommy Sheehan, Oakland Hills, and Frank Liebert, Chicago (69).

John Larkins, Birmingham, and Tim Baldwin, MSU (66) vs. Ed Dayton, Gowanie, and Tommy Skover, Meadowbrook (69).

Rollie Weyand, Birmingham, and Rich Weyand, Birmingham (67) vs. Art Olfs, Lansing, and Seth Jacobson, Franklin Hills (69).

Tom Newell, Grosse Ile, and Dr. Eldon Erickson, Grosse Ile (67) vs. Mace Brown, Plum Hollow, and Dr. Dick Wibel, Bloomfield Hills (69).

Dr. Frank Lovel, Birmingham, and Ray Lovell, Birmingham (68) vs. Ed Grabowski, Birmingham, and Joe Savarino, Jackson (70).

Doctoring Your Golf

By DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF

PATIENT'S COMPLAINT: Consistent underclubbing.

DIAGNOSIS: Wrong concept.

TREATMENT: If you're one of those golfers — and they are many — who frequently wind up short of the green because of using the wrong club, let me recommend a new way of thinking to you.

Do not choose your clubs with the idea of taking the most lofted club with which you can POSSIBLY reach the green. That's the boob's way. Rather, take a club with which you can comfortably reach the green. That's the expert's basis of club choice.

Too many golfers seem to think there is something heroic about hitting a green with an iron when an opponent takes a wood for the same shot. Or they feel pleased with themselves if they hit a six iron, say, for the same distance that another player uses a five iron to cover. Nonsense.

The idea in golf is to hit the proper shot. Use a club that best suits YOU for the purpose.

NEW YORK — Since the NIT began in Madison Square Garden 21 years ago, average night crowd has been 15,575 fans.

Hurling and Home Runs Mark Junior Baseball Play

Some stalwart pitching and a home run barrage featured Thursday's action in the Pontiac Junior Baseball Leagues.

On the Class D front, Dan Buckley pitched one-hit ball and received 12-hit support as Union Lake routed St. Mike, 12-1. Bob Christian and Jerry Meyers each blasted a two-run homer for the winners.

Jim Gerhard hurled a two-hitter and teammates Tom Levely and Tom Nichols made two hits apiece to highlight West Bloomfield Boys Club's 6-1 victory over Ritter's Market in the other "D" contest.

Gary Stirch and Doug Cole clouted homers to lead Lake Orion to a 14-10 win over Lake Orion and Our Lady of Refuge tallied an unearned run in the 8th for an extra-inning 3-2 decision over J & R Auto Store in Class E activity.

State Farm stayed unbeaten in the Class F morning loop with a 21-1 massacre of the American Leaguers, featuring a homer by Howard. Nichols slugged a homer to spotlight Uhan Variety's 20-11 conquest of the Mets.

Dave Phelps, Don Weyer and Doug Ingamells all socked home runs for the Tigers in their 23-8 slaughter of the Eastside Dodgers and Malkim gained a forfeit win from the Little Eagles.

Russ Hickson's homer and triple in a losing cause headlined the Yankees' 5-2 success against Keigley's Market and the Warriors downed the Firefighters, 9-2.

In the Widget division, Dave Popa whacked a three-run homer to spark the Webfeet Mets to a 12-3 triumph over the Blue Racers and Dave Mason homered, tripled and singled to highlight the Wild Dogs' 10-4 verdict over the Fighting 69ers

Ultra-Stone shut out the Auburn Heights Boys Club, 1-0, behind the four-hit hurling of Ricky Lyons. Phil Poponea pitched four-hit ball and fanned 10 as the Moose defeated Atlas, 5-1. Mike McBride homered and tripled in defeat as the Hall Aces whipped the Hudson Hornets, 10-5.

Knights Rally for 3-2 Victory

3-Run 5th Nips Bucs; Grill Is 8-2 Winner Over Lumbermen

The front-running Knights of Columbus spotted the Pirates a two-run advantage in the 2nd inning, then tallied three times in the 5th to beat the Bucaneers, 3-2, in a Class A City League baseball game Thursday at Wisner Field.

Six of the Knights' nine hits came during the three-run 5th, all singles, as they drove starting pitcher Mel Alldredge from the mound in favor of John York. An error by Alldredge let in the 1st run of the stanza and set up another.

A walk, sacrifice and single and triple gave the Pirates their two runs in the 2nd off starter Jerry Taylor. Don Picmann relieved for the K. of C. club in the 6th, but Taylor received credit for the win. Alldredge was the losing hurler.

League-leading Griff's Grill was outhit by Talbott Lumber, 8 to 6, but the Grill capitalized on six walks, five errors and some timely hitting for an 8-2 vicory in yesterday's Class B action at Jaycee Park.

Jerry Pointer pitched the distance for Griff's while John Warner and Bob Pickett shared mound duties for the Lumbermen with Warner the starter and loser.

Pontiac Pilot Wins Regional '48' Title

Pontiac area speedboat racer Hank Ball might as well have renamed his Class C inboard (48 class) boat the "I'll Wait For You" for the recent Regional 6 championships at Columbus, Ohio.

Hank's 65-mph-plus speedster won the "48" title over a fast field of nine boats. His craft is named "Wait-4-Me."

The victory in the spectacular annual regatta on Griggs Dam of the Sciota river in the heart of Columbus, provided the fourth win of the season for Ball, who plans to race next at Salina, Ohio, on Lake St. Mary, a "point" event sanctioned by APBA. Ball has about 1,500 points at this time, had the satisfaction of beating the current leader (Paul Bauer of Ohio) who has 2,400 from a half-dozen or more regattas.

Ball received a fine silver trophy, a propeller and $125 in cash, for his win.

Big Field in Michigan Open

Tourney Starts at Green Ridge in Grand Rapids

Barnum Defends Crown in 3-Day Medal Play Tournament

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—A massive field of 160 golfers teed off today in the annual Michigan Open, being played for the first time in history at the Green Ridge Country Club.

Top prize in the $5,000 event is $750.

Defending champion in the 72-hole medal play tournament is John Barnum, long-hitting 46-year-old professional from the Blythefield Club in Grand Rapids.

Barnum won both the State Open and PGA titles last year, but recently faltered badly in defense of his PGA crown.

★ ★ ★

Among his opponents here in this three-day affair will be such outstanding state golfers as Chick Harbert, Walter Burkemo, Max Evans, Bob Inman, Horton Smith, Jim Barfield, 1958 state amateur king Glenn Johnson, Al Watrous, Gene Bone, Eldon Briggs and Joe Zakarian.

★ ★ ★

The field will play 18 holes today and tomorrow before the lineup is trimmed to the low 60 scorers and ties. The survivors will play 36 holes in Sunday's showdown.

Green Ridge is a wide open course that stretches 6,374 yards. Par is 36-36—72 and the host pro is Bob Lavacek.

The wind is a great factor at Green Ridge, a hilly layout with greens that are elevated and lightning fast.

There are four extremely tough par-4 holes but as many comparatively easy par-4 holes. Each of these is 300 yards or less from tee to green.

Blue Star Lead Slim After Loss

Blue Star Drive-In's hold on 1st place in the National division of the City Softball League was a little bit shakier today following last night's 7-2 defeat by their nearest rival, Harrison's Grill, at Northside Park.

The runnerup Harrison team pinned the setback on Blue Star pitching ace Lloyd Harper while hurler Roger Voorheis was setting down the Drive-In squad on just three hits. Voorheis had a shutout until the 5th inning when Harper slammed a home run.

Autos of Europe entered the victory column for the 2nd time this year with a 5-1 success over Huron Bowl behind the four-hit pitching of Ed Rondo.

In the only contest at Beaudette Park, Dwight Butler pitched a four-hitter as Langdon's Boat Livery whipped Griff's Grill, 7-2. The losing hurler was Grill ace Algie Black.

Detroit Boats Miss Diamond Cup Race

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (AP)—A committed field of 18 was trimmed by two Thursday, just two days before the start of the second annual Diamond Cup race for unlimited hydroplanes.

Race officials said Detroit's Gail V and VI were still in the Motor City "and despite no formal withdrawal won't be on hand at race time Saturday."

"Not unless they fly here," said one official, "and that's practically out of the question."

The Detroit entries apparently decided to forsake the Diamond Cup and tune up for the Gold Cup race to be held in Seattle next month, officials stated.

Oldtimer Game Saturday

The Pontiac Oldtimers will meet the Detroit Oldtimers here Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock in a baseball game at Wisner Field. Danny Shell, who had been taking a fling in pro ball until sidelined by a shoulder injury, has returned home and will play for the Pontiac club.

The Dodgers' 1959 roster shows 20 new names from last season.

The Yankees have not led the AL in base stealing since 1938.

South African Wallops Alex as Crowd Boos

U. S. Davis Cup Champ Blasted for Outburst and Poor Play

RIVER FOREST, Ill. (UPI)—The U.S. Lawn Tennis Association today considered disciplinary action against Alex Olmedo who was kicked out of the National Clay Courts tournament for not trying.

Segal said Olmedo told him he "threw the match."

"I came here to play tennis. I don't like to win that way," Segal said.

Olmedo and his partner, Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, Mo., were dropped by officials from doubles.

Olmedo's burst of temperament threw the tournament into an uproar. The Peruvian walked off the court and hurried from the dressing room to his hotel room, refusing to speak to anyone.

Later Perry Jones, captain of the Davis Cup team, quoted Olmedo as saying he was "sorry about the whole thing."

Olmedo, Jones said, would "talk to everybody later" to explain his actions.

George Barnes, first vice president of the USLTA, said that a protest had been received from the tournament committee.

"It will likely consider disciplinary action," he said, "what it will be, I don't know."

Olmedo's outburst appeared to set the stage for a rash of upsets in the annual clay courts affair.

Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode, the top-seeded Forest Hills, N.Y. queen who was seeking her fourth clay title, was eliminated by Rene Schuurman of South Africa, 7-5, 8-6, and Larry Nagler, a 19-year-old unknown from Hollywood, Calif. defeated eighth-seeded Grant Golden, Evanston, Ill., 6-4, 6-0, 0-6, 6-3, in a men's quarterfinal tilt.

GLOOMY WINNER — South African tennis star Abe Segal, facing the camera, doesn't appear very happy as he shakes hands with Alex Olmedo following his easy 6-2, 6-1 and 6-0 victory over the Peruvian star who won the Davis Cup for the U.S. The crowd booed and angry officials disqualified Olmedo from further play for his bad performance.

Mackinac Sail Race Attracts 80 Fast Yachts

CHICAGO (AP)—Swift sailing craft clustered off Chicago's front yard today for one of the Midwest's most picturesque sports events — the annual race to Mackinac Island.

Crews checked weather maps indicating showers will precede the arrival of cooler weather for the start of the competition tomorrow.

About 80 boats are expected to set out on the 330-mile trip from Chicago to Mackinac Island.

Among the entries are the 1958 winner, Clayton Ewing's 58-foot yawl, Dyna, flying the colors of the Green Bay, Wis., Yacht club.

Aussie Cuppers in Critical Test at Mexico City

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Australia is banking on its left-handers and Mexico is relying on its tricky mile-high air tomorrow in the critical opening round match of the American Zone Davis Cup tennis competition.

This is a tough hurdle for the Aussies in their bid to recapture the trophy lost to Alex Olmedo and the United States last year. It's no cinch they'll make it.

Australia's top-ranked Neale Fraser, whose agitated appendix makes his performance uncertain goes against Antonio Palafox, the Mexican national champion, in the opening singles match at 2 p.m. (EST).

Named Seattle Manager

SEATTLE (AP)—Alan Strange, a coach for the Seattle Rainiers of the Pacific Coast League, Thursday was named manager of the club.

Littler Leader on 7-Under 64

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP)—Gene Littler, one of the nation's top professional golfers, appears to have regained his putting touch.

He had it at the Tucson and Phoenix, Ariz., Open golf tournaments last February, and it was the magic wand that brought him back to back victories.

★ ★ ★

He showed it yesterday when he took charge of the first round in the $25,000 Insurance City Open with a sparkling seven-under-par 64.

★ ★ ★

He was on all 18 of the Wethersfield Country Club's greens in regulation, used only 29 putts, scored seven birdies, and climaxed a spectacular round by canning a 40-foot birdie on the final hole.

Entries Up for Boat Race

CHEBOYGAN (AP)—Commodore Jack Staffan of the Top O'Michigan Marathon Assn. said today he believes the number of entries in Sunday's 11th annual running of the Top O'Michigan Marathon will equal or surpass the 190 boats entered last year.

Entries are pouring in, and will be accepted up to the day of the race. Among entries are many nationally famous drivers. The defending champions are John Ellenberger of Petoskey, Class A; Gene Hawthorne of Royal Oak, Class B; Robert Smith of Dayton, Ohio, Class C; and Ted Moberg of Wawatosa, Wis., Class D.

A race will also be held in the 36 class.

First boats will start at noon. Starting and finish line will be at Conway, on Crooked Lake.

The chain of waters in the 87-mile course in Emmet and Cheboygan counties includes Crooked Lake, Crooked River, Burt Lake, and Indian River.

Wilson Wins Feature

Bud Wilson of Dexter won the feature at the Metropolitan Speedway last night in 9:46.10. Don Irish of Clarkston won the semi-final and Don Porter of Flint won the pursuit race.

Bob Considine Says:

Freedom Fund Fights With Words

NEW YORK — Freedom Fund, Inc., of 52 Vanderbilt Ave., New York City, is an organization embarked on a program of trying to reach the Russian people with the seeds and ideas of freedom. Its ultimate aim is to force the Communist regime out of power.

The organization has translated into Russian such books as Russell Davenport's "The Dignity of Man," "The Secret Army," a story of Polish resistance during World War II, statements by prominent American and a number of others —including a pamphlet which we'll soon take up.

The books and tracts are distributed to Russians throughout the world in the hope that they may find ways and means of bringing them to the attention of Russians inside Russia; or, more realistically, to Russians visiting these other countries. It is a good cause, but one that has had insufficient popular backing.

One effort to overcome the Kremlin leaders by words, not force, is a guidebook of New York City, which has been attractively printed in Russian and which the Fund hopes to distribute to Russians visiting the American exhibition in Moscow which opens July 25. The booklet contains no incendiary propaganda. Its impact lies in some breathtaking statistics and a few calmly stated facts. These may come as a surprise to Americans who have been able to receive a translation of what the group which would replace dictatorship with democracy will tell Ivan about the big town:

We are 8,000,000 strong in New York City, and almost 200,000 immigrants come through our door every year. Nearly 2,000,000 of us were born abroad—in Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Greece, Italy, Germany, France, Ireland and Asia—and you name it.

"Americans have long been proud of their religious heritage," the guide book says right off, "and of the fact that any American may worship as he chooses . . . there are 462 Roman Catholic churches in New York, 20 Greek Orthodox, 13 Russian, 1,589 Protestant, 1,112 synagogues and 18 others."

The big burg has 10,103 grocery stores, 5,368 meat markets, 728 fish markets and 1,996 bakeries. A visitor can eat at any of 9,574 places, or drink at 5,834 saloons, taverns, etc. We have 31 department stores, 4,711 family clothing stores, 3,733 furniture stores and 1,325 places where you can buy a TV, a radio or household appliances.

We're got 403 passenger car dealers, 410 used car dealers, and 2,532 gasoline stations—all of them at arm's length except if you've run out of gas. The drinker who can't find his brand in a liquor store has 1,950 more to shop in (as opposed to 334 bookstores).

New York men must be vainer than women: We have 3,955 beauty parlors as against 5,004 barber shops—and 12 diaper service places. You can buy yourself a turkish bath and a rub at 322 places, and get your TV set repaired by any (or all) of 1,173 repair stores.

Then there are 852 movies, 224 pool halls, 16 bathing beaches, 23 riding academies and 100 dancehalls.

We eat 146 million pounds of butter a year, 60 million pounds of cheese, 143 million dozen eggs, a billion quarts of milk, 35 million quarts of cream, 167 million pounds of fish, 1½ billion pounds of meat (17 pounds per person per month!), 350 million pounds of poultry, and a colossal 4½ billion pounds of fresh fruit and vegetables—or 60 pounds per person per month.

★ ★ ★

We live in 2,433,465 dwelling units, averaging 3.2 to a unit. We have 2,263,066 bathtubs or showers, and only 62,788 of us share a bath. A total of 50,255 of us have no bathroom or shower. Some 31,454 of us have nine rooms or more in our living unit. All but 5,840 of our dwelling units have electric lights. Ah, yes, and 200 art galleries, 9 museums, 88,073 phone booths, 4,307,257 telephones, 548,556 registered Republicans and 1,677,308 registered Democrats.

That ought to start the revolt.

Historic Airfield Soon to Be Just a Subdivision

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)—The historic airfield where Will Rogers and Wiley Post began their ill-fated flight to Alaska is soon to be just another subdivision.

Aviation pioneers such as Charles Lindbergh, Douglas (Wrong Way) Corrigan and Howard Hughes used the 2,700-foot runway for the Grand Central Air Terminal, which was dedicated in 1929.

★ ★ ★

Perhaps the most photographed of all airports, it was the backdrop for hundreds of motion pictures for three decades.

Bulldozers will move in this week and begin cutting up the field, which is being subdivided by the Grand Central Industrial Center.

Thompson has been with Briggs since 1947, beginning as a sales correspondent. He became a regional manager in 1949.

Surgeon Warns Polio Is on Upward March

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney warned today that crippling polio is on the upward march this summer—particularly among the unvaccinated.

★ ★ ★

The nation's health chief said that about nine out of 10 of the cases have been reported among persons who have not had anti-polio shots.

Burney also said the number of cases of paralytic polio this year is more than double the toll at this time last year.

The public health service said there were 681 cases of paralytic polio reported through the first 26 weeks of 1959. This compares with 329 victims during the same period last year and "reflects the consistently upward trend of polio cases since April."

Khrushchev Visits Polish Seaport City

SZCZECZIN, Poland (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev arrived today at this former German seaport of Stettin. His visit was designed to dramatize the Communist bloc's determination to keep the city in Polish hands.

★ ★ ★

He flew from Katowice to begin the fourth day of a friendship tour of Poland.

★ ★ ★

In contrast to the pale and tired expression he wore when he arrived in Warsaw, Khrushchev appeared fit. He had acquired a healthy tan during hundreds of miles traveling in open cars around the countryside.

Today he made the swing through Szczeczin standing up in back of a 1948 U. S.-made convertible.

Bunche Puts 'Finis' on Tennis Tilt

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Ralph Bunche said today that as far as he is personally concerned, a declaration by the West Side Tennis Club that it has no racial or religious bias winds up the story.

The U.N. undersecretary, a Negro, said he intends to so inform the New York City Commission on Intergroup Relations at a closed meeting here.

In a statement issued at the U.N. Bunche said he had agreed to give the commission an account of his recent experience, in which he was told that neither he nor his son, Ralph Jr., 15, was eligible for membership because the club barred Negroes and Jews.

In Meriden, Conn., young Bunche was quoted as saying he will make no decision now about reapplying for membership in the club. He is taking summer courses at Choate School in nearby Wallingford.

In New York, however, Kivie Kaplan, the life membership chairman of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, said young Bunche had decided against applying for membership in the club.

"He took out a $500 life membership in the NAACP instead," Kaplan said.

Senate Passes Boat Safety Bill

House Expected to OK Amended Measure as Water Deaths Mount

LANSING (UPI) — A House-approved bill to tighten motorboat safety laws was amended and passed by the Senate yesterday—the same day State Police released some startling figures on boating deaths.

The bill, which will extend state control to the Great Lakes, was sent to the House, where concurrence in Senate amendments was expected.

The Senate action came at about the time State Police announced at least 126 persons have drowned in Michigan waters so far this year.

Seventeen of the drowning victims were boat operators and 31 were boat passengers.

"Our waterways are getting as dangerous as our highways," said Sen. L. Harvey Lodge (Oakland County), who led the Senate fight for the bill that brings Michigan law in conformity with federal law.

Over the Fourth of July weekend, 15 persons drowned in water mishaps while 13 died in traffic accidents.

Lodge predicted the bill, which would require motorboat owners to renumber their boats and renew licenses every three years, would become effective in time to strengthen enforcement this boating season.

The bill was amended by the Senate to put fee money in the general fund rather than earmarking it for waterways use.

"The important thing here is that we're extending enforcement control," Lodge said.

Now, only the Coast Guard has control over waters of the Great Lakes.

Royal Oak Woman Dies in Auto Crash

A Royal Oak woman was one of two people who died as the result of injuries received in a two-car collision near Norwich, Ont., yesterday.

★ ★ ★

The victims were Mrs. Dorothy Tennis, 47, of 612 S. Dorchester Rd., Royal Oak, and Emerson Ryckman, 49, of Norwich, driver of the car in which Mrs. Tennis was riding.

Mrs. Tennis' son, Bobby, 8, and Mrs. Ryckman, wife of the driver, suffered head injuries, while Carol Tennis, 11, a daughter, suffered a back injury.

Statistics reported by a drug company show that the mortality rate is 75 per cent higher for single men than for married men and 50 per cent higher for single women than for wives.

Stock Prices Continue Drop

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to back away in fairly active early trading today.

★ ★ ★

The market was irregular at the opening with the ticker tape late briefly in the initial rush. Trading slackened thereafter as an irregular downtrend developed.

★ ★ ★

Steels and motors were the most active group. The leading issues in these groups were down uniformly.

W. T. Grant Store Reveals High Sales

The W. T. Grant Store in the Miracle Mile Shopping Center, along with 759 other stores in the company chain, has experienced an all-time high in sales for the month of June, it was announced today.

The company's total reached $39,091,702, an increase of 19.2 per cent over sales of $32,598,265 in June, 1958.

It is the greatest dollar increase for any June in the company's history. Sales for the first six months of the calendar year were $193,250,373. This is an increase of 15.12 per cent over sales of $167,873,935 during the same period last year.

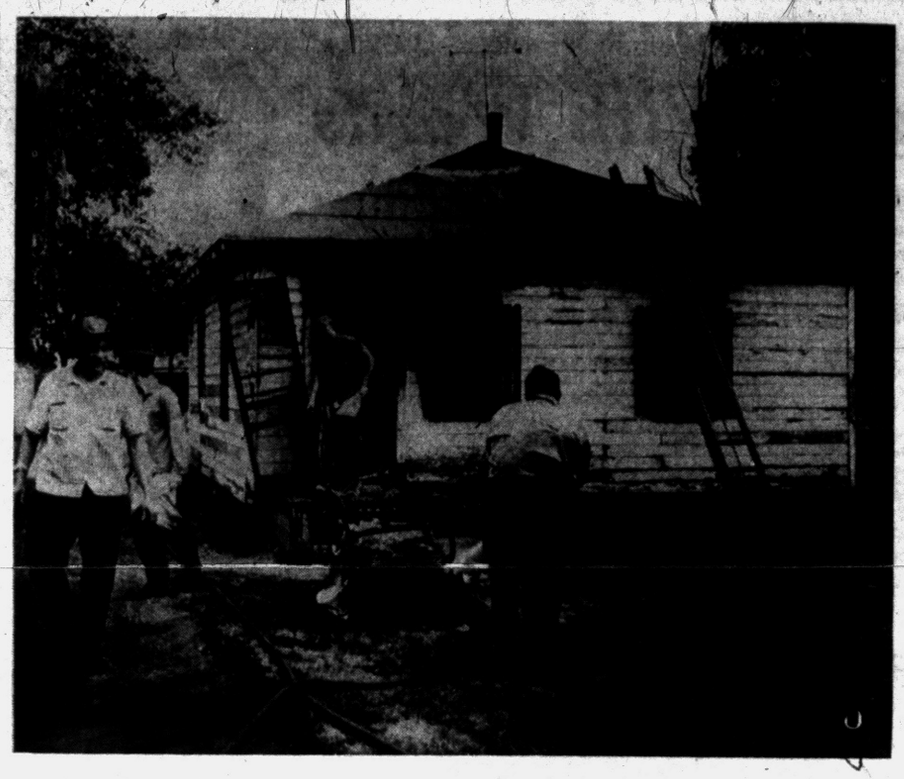

Treasury Will Offer Securities at 4¾ Pct.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Treasury plans to offer 14 billion dollars of securities carrying 4¾ per cent interest — the highest interest paid by the government since 1929.

★ ★ ★

The securities will be offered in two issues, only to holders of maturing issues.

The issues will be in 12½-month Treasury notes to be dated Aug. 1; and notes running 4 years and 9 months, to be dated July 20th.

Tax Plan Mess Sends Solons Home

LANSING (AP) — Wrangling legislators hotfooted it home for another long weekend today after a promising chance for cracking a six-month stalemate on taxes suddenly blew sky high.

★ ★ ★

Long-awaited House decisions on rival use (sales) and flat rate income tax proposals were put off again, at least until the middle of next week.

Unexpected Democratic absenteeism and a third tax program unveiled after a hastily-called midnight conference touched off another scene of legislative turmoil yesterday.

Leaders in both parties conceded enactment of a long-range tax program — main issue in the record-breaking 1959 session, now in its 119th working day — was unlikely before the last week of July at the earliest.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Allison Green (R-Kingston), House GOP floor leader, set an Aug. 1. target date for a new tax program to go into operation. Republicans and Democrats generally agreed it must produce about 140 million dollars in new revenue to pay for a record 1959-60 budget now nearly completed.

LITTLE ELSE TO DO

When lawmakers come back next Tuesday, they will have little to do but fight over taxes. They've disposed of most other issues.

Green joined hands with Rep. T. John Lesinski (D-Detroit) to drum up support for their new four-bill tax package based on a use tax boost and a revised business activities tax. By their estimates, it would yield about 148½ million dollars a year.

Green and Lesinski each managed to round up 28 supporters from their respective parties, enough to assure house passage Green, however, had to call a GOP caucus to do it.

★ ★ ★

"We had to beat a few people on the head to get them to sign it," he admitted. "But the time has come for a few of the guys who are authorizing all these big spending bills to realize that we have to have the taxes to pay for them—even if we have to hold our noses a little while we pass them."

SQUAWKS LOUD

The loudest squawk came from Rep. Harry J. Phillips (R-Port Huron), who assailed it as "wickedly" damaging to many business firms.

"This is a cunning Democratic trick to make that lousy income tax look good," he said. "I congratulate the Democrats for faking our leaders out of position."

Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton), House taxation chairman and mainspring of the drive for an income tax, called it an "incredible concoction."

★ ★ ★

"By comparison, my bill smells like ambrosia," he said. "I don't know whether that was the intent but this will help pass an income tax when people learn about it."

Waterford Family of Seven Escapes From Blaze

A Waterford Township family of seven narrowly escaped from its flaming home at 9 a.m. today as fire swept through and destroyed the tiny, one-story home of the Earl W. Wards, 2591 Williams Dr.

The Wards' four-year-old son, Richard, said he set fire to a waste paper basket in the back of the house. Within minutes the frame home was completely enveloped in flames.

Ward, a part-time night watchman at the Federal Department Store, and his wife, Anna, who works nights at a restaurant, were aroused by frantic neighbors beating on the bedroom windows.

The parents awakened three of the seven children, Douglas, 16, Fred, 15 and Patricia, 14, who smashed a west window and jumped four feet to the ground. The Wards fled through the front door. All were clad in their nightclothes.

The other children were away at the time. They are Cecil, 11, Joe, 11 and Waneta, 9.

A next-door neighbor, Lee Tripp, said he smelled smoke and looked out a window to see the roof and back part of the Ward house completely enveloped in flames. He called the Waterford Township Fire Department and roused the sleeping family.

Ward said that his son was fascinated by playing with matches and had been warned repeatedly about the danger. After the boy set fire to the papers, he ran and sat in the family car parked in the driveway.

Three township fire trucks and 12 firemen battled the blaze, which caused $5,000 damage to the house and $3,000 to its contents.

Adams Bridge Assured

2 Road Contracts Awarded

Construction of a new bridge and road surfacing was assured today in Oakland County with the awarding of two separate contracts to low bidders by the County Road Commission.

The new bridge will replace an existing structure carrying Adams road over the Clinton River, four miles southwest of Rochester. The contract was let to Fry, Boyd & Barnes Co. of Dearborn at $37,980.

Completion date on the job is July 1, 1960. The bridge will be 36-feet long and will carry a 30-foot wide roadway and two 1½-foot safety walks.

The other contract is for two miles of 22-foot bituminous concrete surfacing on Cass Elizabeth road, north of Orchard Lake going east, and for 2.2 miles of similar construction on Adams road from M59 east to Auburn Heights.

The contract was let jointly to the Ann Arbor Construction Co., Ann Arbor, and Lake & Howell Co., at $138,481. Completion date on the job is Oct. 15.

Detroit Motorist Hurt in Crash on Telegraph

Arnold Ostrowski, 23, of Detroit, was injured in a two-car head-on collision at Telegraph and Menominee roads early this morning.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said the other driver, Thomas D. Spragle, 35, of St. Charles, Mo., was uninjured. Ostrowski was treated at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and released.

The Grand Canyon was formed by wind and erosion.

Angry Long Blasts Aides, Hotel Door

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — Gov. Earl Long, fighting mad because his aides went to sleep while he toured Juarez night spots, stormed into the Hilton Hotel early today and tried to kick down a door.

Capt. Douglas Durrett of the Louisiana State Police tried to restrain the enraged governor but Long cursed and kicked at the door of his room until a bellboy rushed down for a key.

"G—— D—— you wake up in there," Long shouted as he beat and kicked at the door in a vain attempt to wake his sleeping associates.

Durrent gave up his struggle to restrain the belligerent governor. "And they say he's sick," Durrett said as he watched Long's door-kicking. "Why right now that man could whip any 50 men in Texas."

He stopped kicking and beating at the door when a bellboy produced a key. Then he rushed into the room, woke his associates and rebuked them for not being up to let him in.

Long, hatless, tieless, and rumpled, turned up at the hotel at about 7 a.m. today after making the rounds in Juarez, Mexico, all night. His associates, apparently unable to match the governor's festive pace, dropped out and returned to El Paso to sleep early this morning.

The door-kicking at the hotel capped a night of revelry for the Long entourage. The revelry ended when Long's colleagues restrained him from starting a fight in a Mexican cafe and when they themselves threatened a brawl in the streets of Juarez.

Long spouted an obscene tirade of curses and threatened to shoot newsmen following him into the cafe.

Long's colleagues followed this incident up by threatening a brawl in the streets if the governor wasn't left alone.

At one time, Long lay on the floorboards of his car to keep from being photographed as he and his party ducked back and forth across the border trying to ditch reporters.

"I'm going to shoot them. —— —— —— I'm going to shoot them," Long screamed in the Cafe Charmont, a plush Mexican nightspot. The cafe was filled with curious from both sides of the border who had heard the governor planned to dine there.

Change Site of Marine Corps League Picnic

The site has been changed for the Marine Corps League picnic to be held Sunday afternoon.

It had previously been scheduled to take place at Lake Oakland Heights Park. The new picnic site will be Kelly's Beach, on Kelly's Lake, Orion Township.

The starting time will be noon. Anthony Renne, league commandant, announced the change in plans today. All Marine veterans in the Oakland County area are invited to attend, whether or not members of the league.

Kelly's Beach is located approximately three miles directly west of Lake Orion.

The average motorist drives approximately 8,070 miles each year. The average person in the United States reads a newspaper every day of the year.

Softhearted Gal Is in Trouble

Detroit Woman Forges Checks to Give Money to 3 Boyfriends

DETROIT (AP) — "I knew I'd get caught, but they needed the money and I am softhearted," Jacqueline Goldstein, 22, explained when charged with forging $12,763.92 in checks and giving the money to three boyfriends.

Miss Goldstein and the men were arrested and jailed yesterday.

Detective George Hallett of the bad check squad said the Detroit woman told him she gave the money to Harold S. Barden, 27, of suburban Oak Park; and Herman Fink, 24, and Murray Saraquse, 24, both of Detroit.

Hallett said she admitted forging the checks while working as a bookkeeper for the Chase Cleaners and Shirt Launderers of Detroit from June 1 to July 10.

No Headway on Berlin Truce

Big 4 Ministers Fail to Reach Agreements in 3-Hour Secret Talks

GENEVA (AP) — The foreign ministers of the Soviet Union and the Western powers failed today to make any progress in narrowing their differences over a possible Berlin truce agreement.

U. S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko debated the terms of a Berlin standstill deal in a three-hour luncheon meeting at Couve de Murville's villa.

★ ★ ★

The session was covered by a secrecy agreement and Western officials would say afterward only that no progress was achieved.

The four agreed to another secret luncheon meeting with Lloyd on Monday and arranged a formal session—at Gromyko's request—at the Palace of Nations Tuesday afternoon.

The three Western ministers and Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano of West Germany will hold a strategy session Saturday. Secretary and Mrs. Herter will lunch with Gromyko and his wife.

Herter, Lloyd and Couve de Murville were understood to have made a new effort at today's meeting to get Gromyko to break the link between the proposal for an 18-month truce in the Berlin crisis and his proposal for an all-German committee to negotiate on German reunification and a peace treaty. Apparently they failed again, as they had in public sessions earlier this week.

3 Children Among Victims

5 Drown in State Waters

By United Press International

Five persons drowned in Michigan waters yesterday as temperatures inched toward the 90's.

A boating accident on the Tittibawassee River near Gladwin took workers, Albert Lee Martin, 30, the lives of two conservation Sanford, and Walter E. Davidson, 59, Midland.

Evan Williams, Beaverton, told sheriff's officers he was working at a nearby cabin when he saw the victims' metal rowboat overturn. He went out in a boat and rescued Martin's wife, Louella, 38. The bodies of the two men were recovered later.

Five-year-old Michael Edward Jones, R.R. 1, Columbus, Ohio, drowned yesterday in Monroe Creek near Charlevoix.

Police said Michael was wading in the creek and apparently strayed into deep water.

William R. Tesner, 11, Farmington, drowned at the Kensington Recreation Area.

A search for six-year-old Christopher De Busk of Detroit ended early today when police dragged his body from the Detroit River.

Goldfine Pleas No Contest

Could Get Year in Jail, $1,000 Fine by Court for Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP)— Bernard Goldfine has left himself open to a sentence of up to one year in jail and a $1,000 fine by placing himself at the mercy of the court on a contempt of Congress indictment.

★ ★ ★

The Boston industrialist Thursday withdrew his earlier plea innocent and entered a plea of no contest.

U.S. Dist. Judge James W. Morris referred the case to the probation office for presentence investigation.

The judge indicated he intends to be lenient. He commented the no contest plea "implies the existence of mitigating circumstances in punishment."

The judge could suspend any jail sentence.

Asst. U.S. Atty. William Hitz objected to the new plea.

Goldfine's favors to political figures, including former presidential assistant Sherman Adams, were investigated last year by the House subcommittee on legislative oversight. The 68-year-old industrialist was indicted for refusing to answer questions about the financial affairs of the Boston Port Development Co.

He said they were not relevant to the inquiry into operations of government regulatory agencies. Some of his companies had been in difficulty with some of the agencies.

Goldfine already is under a three-month contempt of court sentence in Boston for failing to produce records sought by the Internal Revenue Service. His secretary Mildred Paperman received a 10-day sentence in the same proceeding. Both are free on bail pending appeals.

Upjohn Co. Net Income Up 5 Pct. in 6 Months

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Upjohn Co., an ethical drug manufacturer, reports its net income for the first six months this year rose 5 per cent to $9,814,000, equal to 70 cents a share on sales of $72,270,000.

This compared with $9,297,000 or 66 cents a share on sales of $67,120,000 in the first half of 1958.

Second-quarter profits rose 15 per cent to $4,764,000 or 34 cents a share, from $4,145,000 or 29 cents a share in the June quarter a year ago. Sales were $35,487,000 vs. $32,466,000.

More Teachers Certified

LANSING (AP)—Teaching certificates issued by the State Board of Education in the 1957-58 school year were 1,643 above the figure for the previous year, the Michigan Education Assn. reports.

Thomas J. Northey, MEA researcher, said 14 types of certificates totaling 27,425 were issued. Figures for the 1958-59 school year are not yet available.

Shun 'Egghead' Label

CHICAGO (AP) — Scholastic magazine polled 5,000 youngsters across the country and said that three times as many objected to the label "egghead" than to the runner-up "spendthrift." After "spendthrift" came "huckster," "reactionary," and "proletarian." "Millionaire" and "wall streeter" drew only faint objections.

School Meeting Bill Progresses

Right-to-Know Measure at Passage Stage in State Senate

LANSING (AP)—The "right-to-know" bill for school boards rested at passage stage in the Senate today.

It was pushed ahead yesterday for a decisive vote, probably next week, leaving behind a proposed Education Committee amendment that sponsors said would gut the bill.

The key language in the bill as it now stands reads:

"Meetings of the (school) Board shall be public meetings and no person shall be excluded therefrom. The Board may hold executive meetings, but no final action shall be taken at any executive meeting."

Sen. Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennsville) had sought to change the second sentence to make it read:

"The Board may hold executive sessions whenever the public interest shall require."

★ ★ ★

Under Hutchinson's amendment, not adopted, the bill would have lacked prohibition against "final action" on a question at a Board meeting closed to the pubic.

'Phantom' Session for Senate

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's Senate was to meet today—or so the Journal, the official record of proceedings, will show.

But a "phantom" session was on tap this 119th day of the 1959 Legislature, since 14 of the 34 senators were formally excused from attending and others were informally advised it was unnecessary.

A handful was expected to be present.

About the only gain from such a meeting is to save a day in measuring up to certain procedural requirements in processing bills.

There were 32 bills, mostly of little account, left on the calendar after yesterday's activity, a slightly larger workload than confronts the House.

Sen. Charles Feenstra (R-Grand Rapids) in mid-afternoon urged hacking away until all measures were disposed of, leaving a clear field for work on the overshadowing tax question.

But Sen. Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville) had contrary counsel after hearing that chances of a tax showdown in the House had blown up.

"We've got to have something to do while we're here," Hutchinson said. "There's no need to clear the calendar. If we do that, what would we do next week, senator?"

Feenstra conceded the point upon observing that seven or eight senators already had ducked out for home.

Passes Health Insurance for Federal Employes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed and sent to the House a bill to set up a health insurance program for federal employes, including congressmen and their families.

Half the insurance premiums would be paid by the government and half by the employes who elect to participate.

The Senate Civil Service Committee estimated it would cost the government more than 145 million dollars a year.

Navy Officials Before House

To Explain Overcharge of $12 Million Two Years' Contracts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Navy officials went before House investigators today to explain whether they were "incompetent" in negotiating defense contracts which overcharged the government more than 12 million dollars.

The charge was voiced earlier this week during hearings by a House armed services subcommittee led by Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La).

The group is investigating alleged mistakes and waste in defense contracting.

General Accounting Office (GAO) officials had testified that the overcharges were disclosed in a series of audits extending back over the last two years.

A subcommittee member, Rep. Porter Hardy Jr. (D-Va), accused Navy officials of being "incompetent or deliberately careless" in negotiating the contracts with big defense industries.

He said House investigators "could draw no other conclusion" because the Navy insisted its procurement regulations were "adequate" and needed no change.

"It is a reflection all the way up to the Secretary of the Navy," he said.

Hebert charged yesterday that a Defense Department directive issued last year was blocking his subcommittee's inquiry. He said the Pentagon had refused to provide the GAO with certain reports and records.

"The only conclusion I can draw is that they don't want us to find out where the bodies are buried," Hebert declared. "If there is nothing wrong, why cover up?"

Deputies Search for Youth Who Vanished at Lake

Oakland County sheriff's deputies today were searching for a 19-year-old Detroit youth who disappeared at White Lake Thursday.

Deputies are checking on the whereabouts of Carl D. Libkuman. The youth was involved in a fight on Dawson Island, in White Lake.

A companion, William McDowell, 16, of 4291 Private Dr., Commerce Township, told deputies he, Libkuman, and another youth rowed a boat to the island.

They found six other boys camping there. Deputies said the two groups got into an argument which broke out into a gang fight. Libkuman was struck by a tent pole and fled.

His friends said they saw him jump into the water and start swimming toward shore. He had not been accounted for by 10 a.m. today. Deputies plan to check his home and the island before starting dragging operations on the lake.

Libkuman was described by companions as an excellent swimmer.

LANSING (AP)—The Senate has confirmed the reappointments of Louis G. Jarboe of Rogers City and Kenneth J. Daniles of Jackson to three-year terms on the State Liquor Control Commission.

28,000 Would-Be Campers Out of Luck

LANSING (UPI) — More than 28,000 would-be park users won't be able to camp this summer, conservation department officials said today.

A record 134,500 camping permits were issued last year but over-used facilities caused dangerous unsanitary conditions, the department said.

With no funds available for expanding facilities, a reduction in usable campsites was made throughout the state.

Police Assn. Merges

EAST LANSING (AP)—The Michigan State Police Assn. has been incorporated with the State Corporation and Securities Commission as a nonprofit organization to help employes in financial distress because of illness or other misfortune.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR son, LeRoy Crow, who passed away 2 yrs. ago today, July 17, 1957.
Loving memories never die
As years roll on and days pass by;
In our hearts a memory is kept,
Of our loved one, we'll never forget.

TV Restriction Hits Humphrey

Equal-Time Rule Cuts Scheduled Appearance on 'Face the Nation'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A partial blackout from one of his favorite media — television — brought a demand from Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) today for speedy congressional revision of the radio-TV equal time rule.

Because his friends put him into the race for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination this week, Humphrey said his scheduled appearance on CBS' Face the Nation next Sunday had been canceled.

★ ★ ★

Humphrey said CBS attorneys had ruled he was officially a candidate and that the network would have to give other aspirants equal time on news programs on which he appeared.

On the other hand he was invited and promptly accepted an invitation to appear today on NBC's Today show.

In New York, Sig Mickelson CBS vice president in charge of news, confirmed that the network's attorneys had advised that the invitation to Humphrey be withdrawn.

Mickelson said in a statement, "This decision is impelled by the danger that we would be required, if Sen. Humphrey appeared, to devote Face the Nation to insignificant or obscure or now unknown aspirants for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"Such a requirement would destroy Face the Nation as an important informational program."

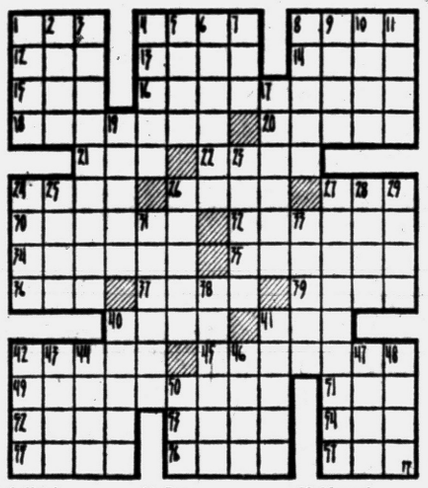

Humphrey contended that he is no more an official candidate than Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and other hopefuls, despite the fanfare of an announcement Tuesday by Gov. Orville Freeman of Minnesota and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy (D-Minn) they were putting him up for the nomination.

Humphrey at first said he was "pleased and gratified." He announced he would open his campaign in September.

But a few hours later, when the first intimations arrived that the equal-time rule might be brought into the picture, he issued a statement saying he would decide on the basis of later developments whether to enter the race.

Nudes Glut the Market for Las Vegas Shows

By EARL WILSON

ON THE LAS VEGAS "STRIP"—I'm 'way out west where men are men and women are naked.

Semi-nudity (that's when a lady doesn't wear anything north of her hips) was started years back by Gypsy Rose Lee and is spreading out this-away. Besides the fabulous Paris Lido show about 15 nudes, and Harold Minsky's show with another 15 bare-topped beauties, Bill Miller will present nine Japanese nudes in a revue and "Ecstasy On Ice" will feature ten nudes on ice skates.

WILSON

"Las Vegas is chest one of those towns," you might say.

As a small-town Middle-Western Methodist who can remember when a chest was something you put clothes into instead of taking clothes off of, I'm still a little shocked.

But on looking over the new Lido show, I realized that some Middle-Westerners brought about the European attitude which now prevails.

★ ★ ★

The guy who lined up the Paris gals is one-time Clevelander Frank Sennes, now of Los Angeles, and their "housemother" is Tommy McDonnell, of Scranton and Chicago, who was given a testimonial in a Chicago church recently.

Tommy gallops around the lobby blowing a whistle to summon the European gals. "Call that one over," I asked Tommy.

He blew the whistle — and the girl who spun around and came to us (fully dressed to have dinner) was Irene Mayhew, of Irish descent and from Capetown, South Africa.

"I used to be a mannequin," she said. "I've got two children and I went into this to support them."

★ ★ ★

A beautiful Los Angeles singer, Beverly Richards, who rehearsed in Paris with the girls told me that the French females' contempt for clothes surprised her. "You take Marion Conrad." Beverly referred to the leading French girl in the hour-and-a-half extravaganza. "She would rather walk down the streets here nude than with clothes on."

"She came into the Casino one day in a bikini. I had to chase her out," Tommy McDonnell said. "She broke up a crap game."

★ ★ ★

The show plays to about 1750 customers a night — which is historic. Incidentally, the star of the show is not a nude gal—but Alfredo Alaria, a French boy dancer.

Rock 'n' Roll, British Style Has Hard-to-Define Beat

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI) — I caught up with the state of teenage music in England last night, courtesy of ABC-TV and a filmed-in-London half-hour called "Oh Boy!" (Some critics suggest it be called "Help ! ! !")

This show is aimed squarely at lively teenagers and I won't knock it because I'm one old fogy who has seen too many TV shows aimed squarely at lively grown-ups.

The British cats play electric guitars, saxophones, drums, wiggle their hips and snap their fingers just as our greatest teenage rock 'n rollers do. They even say "lu-huh-huv" for "love" and sing puppy-lu-huh-huv songs with lyrics like, "Welluh, welluh, welluh, I'm a-waitin' for the belluh, belluh, belluh."

They ask that musical teenage question: "Who are they to say we're much too young?" For a novelty effect, someone uttered the rollicking refrain: "Hoot mon! There's a loose moose about the hoose."

★ ★ ★

I think the sound balance of the British film was off whack, because their music had a strangely ill-defined beat. If that isn't the case, then I'd say our home-grown rock 'n rollers are much better than the British kids when it comes to working up a beat. (Now, there's a proud boast!)

Nevertheless, the British have a few things that Dick Clark might have noticed, too. The boys don't sport over-fluffed hairdos and their clothing seemed of the world.

But the strongest — the only — innovation was in the use of girls, girls, girls.

SHORT SHOTS: If 21 Beacon Street on NBC-TV keeps going the way it has, we may start calling it masquerade party . . . Accepting Applications for State Police School

EAST LANSING (AP)—Applications are being accepted for the first recruit school held by state police since 1957.

State police said applications will be accepted until July 29 to fill a limited number of vacancies. Forms can be obtained from any state police post.

The recruit school will open in October and graduates will be sworn in seven weeks later. After five months of field experience, they will return for four weeks of advanced training.

U. S.-Red Track Meet, Menotti Opera Slated This Sunday

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Italy and a bunch of Soviet athletes will highlight television's network programs during the next seven days. Both will turn up on Sunday.

First, NBC will provide live and tape coverage of the international track meet between the Soviet Union and the United States from Franklin Field, Philadelphia, Sunday afternoon.

★ ★ ★

Later, Ed Sullivan on CBS will show filmed highlights of Gian Carlo Menotti's "Festival of Two Worlds," which recently took place in Spoleto. On the Sullivan show will be Sir John Gielgud, doing Shakespeare, and American soprano Eileen Farrell doing not only classical songs but swinging "Sunny Side of the Street."

Saturday, Peggy King will plug the hole left by Teresa Brewer's departure from the Perry Presents show. At the same time on ABC, Jubilee U.S.A. will present, among others, folk singer Jimmie Davis, once governor of Louisiana

★ ★ ★

Sunday, Meet the Press will start a series of interviews with state governors by questioning New York's Nelson A. Rockefeller. ABC's Maverick will repeat its interesting revised version of Sheridan's classic, "The Rivals." And if you don't mind reruns, General Electric Theater is putting on that incredible half-hour boil-down of Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra" with Maurice Evans and Piper Laurie.

★ ★ ★

Monday is generally a day of repeats but next week Arlene Francis will be a one-night substitute for Jack Paar on NBC. Andy Williams' guests on Tuesday evening (CBS) will be Destry star Andy Griffith, singer June Valli and a choral group called The Bohemians.

ABC's "Music for a Summer Night" Wednesday will be a tribute to the waltz while Dave King's guest on NBC will be singer Anita Darien.

U.S. to Orbit Chimpanzee This Fall?

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — One or more chimpanzees will be put in orbit around the earth this fall as the next step in the United States space program, says the Alamogordo News.

★ ★ ★

Quoting unnamed missile experts the News outlined a detailed space program Thursday in a copyrighted story by reporter Hal Wills.

After orbiting the chimpanzees, the next step will be the firing of the first moon rocket, the Saturn, in 1962 or 1963, the newspaper said.

In 1965 or 1966, the News said the United States will fire the Nova if the Saturn rocket project is successful. The News described the Nova as a seven-stage space ship designed to land on the moon and return to earth.

A successful space flight of the X15 rocket plane will be a sideline to the actual program, significant only because it will be the first time man will have left the earth's atmosphere under rocket power, the News said.

★ ★ ★

"..The first true step toward placing man on another planet will be the huge and dramatic Vega rocket, America's maiden man-carrying space vehicle," it said. It described the Vega as a three-stage vehicle, with the Atlas rocket as its first stage.

Merchant Marine Academy Spots Are Available

WASHINGTON — Youths interested in becoming cadets in the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy may contact Congressman William S. Broomfield (R-Oakland County), his office has announced.

The Academy at Kings Point, Long Island, offers a four-year course leading to a license as an officer in the U. S. Merchant Marine, a commission as ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve and a bachelor of science degree.

The sophomore year is spent as a cadet on ships of the U.S. Merchant Marine.

Tuition, room and board, required uniform and textbooks as well as medical and dental care are furnished by the federal government.

A candidate must be single, in excellent health, must have reached his 17th but not his 22nd birthday by July 1, 1960, be a high school graduate or now in his senior year.

Broomfield will appoint 10 candidates to the Merchant Marine Academy. These candidates will then compete for entrance to the Academy in nationwide tests to be given in March 1960.

Entrance to the Academy will be in Aug. 1960.

Those interested should write to Congressman Broomfield, Room 142, New House Office Building, Washington 25, D. C.

Court OKs Contract of Singer Dodie Stevens

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Dodie Stevens, 13, won court approval Thursday for her new five-year contract with Dot Records, Inc.

Judge Ray P. Brockman ordered the young singer, whose "Pink Shoe Laces" is a current juke box favorite, to purchase a $100 Savings Bond monthly from her $500 monthly minimum. The contract also contains provisions for royalties.

Retiring at Age 10

LAWRENCE, Mass. (AP)—Firemen attended a special fish dinner Thursday to honor a "member" leaving after a decade of service. Gent, about 10 years old, came to the department as a kitten. She's retiring and will join other old cats at the animal rest farm in nearby Methuen.

The 13 largest cities in the United States represent 19 per cent of the nation's non-farm population and provide 23 per cent of its non-agricultural employment.

South African Says U. S. Today Can't Lead World

MACKINAC ISLAND (UPI) — A revolutionary leader from South Africa said here, "America as she is today has no chance to lead Africa and the world."

"When trouble breaks out in places like Little Rock," said P. Q. Vundla, "all non-whites around the world are affected. It becomes a color issue. When a Negro is kicked there, the blow is felt by every African."

Vundla addressed delegates at the Moral Re-armament summit strategy conference.

In response to Vundla's challenge, Atlanta, Ga., newsman Al Kuettner said, "I want to close ranks with men like you all over the world and fight for what is right."

Kuettner, head of the United Press International bureau in Atlanta, was born, educated and has lived his whole life in the south

Cuban Government to Tax All Salaries

HAVANA (UP) — Finance Minister Rufo Lopez Fresquet announced the government is going to collect a blanket 3 per cent income tax from all salaries, large and small, to help finance work for the nation's 700,000 unemployed.

★ ★ ★

The new levy was contained in a tax program approved by the cabinet Tuesday. The previous income tax law provided for a 1 per cent assessment on salaries in the lower ranges and on a sliding scale for higher ones. There was no information available on whether the new tax would be atop the old one, or a substitute for it.

Williams Slams Washington Policies

Enters Economic Dispute

MACKINAC ISLAND (UP) — Democratic Gov. Williams today nosed his political boat into the storm-tossed waters of dispute over national economic policies shaped in Washington.

Soon to be at his side as he huddled with a group of widely known economists at this world famous summer vacation retreat was Gov. Orville L. Freeman of Minnesota.

It was inevitable that pronouncements of Williams and Freeman would be tinged by aspirations of two hopefuls for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960.

One of the White House aspirants was Williams himself, lately embattled at home but still the first governor in the nation's history to win six consecutive terms at the polls.

The other was Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (R-Minn), an ally of Williams in past political battles but now cast in the role of a likely rival at next year's national convention.

Freeman, a protege and ardent backer of Humphrey, helped break the news a few days ago of Humphrey's formal entry into next year's political lists.

The Michigan governor organized the three-day conference ending Sunday, observing that the Republican Eisenhower administration "appears to be doing nothing" to foster what he considers a satisfactory rate of economic growth.

He said he wanted a first-hand brief from economists of standing.

In a 13-year period the bones of about 31 million buffaloes were gathered from the plains of Kansas and sold to dealers for about $2,500,000.

Begin Michigan Week Plans for Next Year

LANSING (UPI) — With Michigan Week for this year just completed, plans are already under way for the 1960 celebration.

Don Taylor, Flint, head of a special committee, will select dates for next year's Michigan Week. Taylor was named immediately after the close of this year's week-long affair.

★ ★ ★

It was expected the celebration next year would come about the third week in May instead of the usual first week of the month to take advantage of better weather.
