GOP Change Loses in Health Care Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate started its second session of voting on the Social Security health care bill today by turning back a Republican amendment to provide automatic Social Security increases tied to the cost of living.

Democratic leaders were pushing for final action on the measure today after disposing of 14 amendments yesterday.

The amendment rejected by today's first vote, 64 to 21,

LBJ Press Aide to Be Sidelined by Foot Disease

WASHINGTON (AP)—George E. Reedy, President Johnson's press secretary, announced today he is suffering from a painful foot disease and is bowing out of his White House post—at least for some months.

Reedy, reported that doctors tell him he may face a series of operations that could sideline him for at least six months.

He said the duties of press secretary will be performed in his absence by Bill D. Moyers, one of Johnson's top special assistants.

There was considerable doubt among newsmen at the White House whether Reedy would return to his $28,500-a-year job as press secretary.

Reedy increased such speculation by saying Moyers "will act in my place and we will determine down the road where we go from there."

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Un-touched by the controversy surrounding her, "Diana of the Woods" stands smiling in the mail of the new multimillion-dollar Maricopa County government complex.

Dedicated yesterday the stone sculpture gave pause to countless admirers, belying the charges that as the huntress of Greek mythology, she was "a cruel goddess" and a killer.

Mrs. Gilbert Hall donated the Italian-made sculpture placed in the complex's fountain and dedicated it to the Arizona Huntress Society.

The animal crusaders of Arizona opposed the gesture from the start.

"Humane societies have always opposed cruelty, including blood sports," said Betty B. Eilers, the group's executive secretary.

"Not even the human side of Diana is pleasant," she said.

"When the son of a king surprised her bathing, she

Romney Set to Sign State Budget Bills

Just One Sizable Veto Expected; Total Near His Recommendation

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney said today he is signing the legislative-approved 1965-66 state budget with only one sizable veto — that of a $1.2-million higher education enrollment contingency fund.

Romney signed five bills worth $32.3 million today and indicated that when he signs the remainder shortly, the budget will total about $819 million.

The Democratic-dominated legislature approved an $820.4-million spending plan.

That was $31.9 million above the governor's recommended $788.5 million.

"But the end result of action coupled with revised revenue estimates left us in pretty much the same position I had recommended," Romney told a news conference today.

He called the budget package "a recognition of the need to continue the efforts launched in 1963 to put Michigan back into the forefront of the states in meeting the basic public service needs of the people."

He vetoed, however, the establishment of the $1.2-million fund which would have been available for the state's seven smaller colleges and universities in event their enrollments exceeded current estimates.

He said such a fund would merely "be an incentive for schools to build enrollment."

The Republican governor called it a "new and untried . . . not essential" program.

He said that if enrollments rise faster than predicted, the legislature can follow its traditional procedure of appropriating additional money next winter or spring.

Romney said that he will in "a very few instances" exercise his right of line item veto but he said no other veto will be of any sizable amount of money.

The five bills Romney signed are $1.2 million or three-tenths of one per cent above his recommendations.

The bulk of the legislative increase over the governor's budget recommendations is in school aid, a bill the governor has yet to sign.

In the fields of higher education, mental health and the state building program," said Romney, "they (the bills) continue and accelerate the massive program of improved public services initiated two years ago. In the case of public health, the bill includes many new and important programs."

Lema Is Tied in British Open

Devlin Shores Lead; Palmer, Player Trail

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Defending champion Tony Lema and Australia's Bruce Devlin tied for the second round lead at 140 today as Arnold Palmer hung on and Gary Player rallied in the British Open Golf Championship.

The suave, confident Lema from San Leandro, Calif., posted a 73.

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Jack Nicklaus posted a 71 today in the British Open golf championship for a 36-hole total of 144, four strokes behind the leaders.

Huggert, member of the British Ryder Cup team, had a 36-hole score of 141 to tie Palmer for second place. The Latrobe, Pa., pro, seeking his third British Open title, scrambled to a 71 with an eagle at the 17th but complained, "My game's not right yet."

Liquor Issue Vote Is Favored

The informal suggestion that Pontiac's liquor controversy be submitted to a citywide vote got a somewhat favorable reaction today from those on both sides of the issue. There was one dissenter.

Debate over the liquor issue — how many bars and where they should be located — highlighted the City Commission's meeting Tuesday.

Commissioner John A. Dugan offered the suggestion to put the whole issue to a vote of the people to "see just what we are to do."

Dugan pointed out liquor license transfers are a problem. There is also the question of upgrading of tavern licenses to Class C status, permitting the sale of liquor by the glass.

Attorney Mitchell L. Bacow, 34 Cherokee, who has represented a tavern owner, thought the election idea was excellent. He is a former member of the special committee appointed to study the upgrading question.

"Maybe the tavern owners can make the public recognize the fairness of the over-all proposal," said Bacow, "and take it away from the realm of politics."

Philip Sauer of Griff's Grill, 49 N. Saginaw, and chairman of the upgrading study committee, was against an election. He thought the commission should make the decision.

"I can't see a vote at all," he said, "they're (the commission) bypassing their job if they do."

SUPPORTS IDEA

Dr. Milton H. Bank, pastor of Central Methodist Church and also a committee member, supported the idea of an election. He said the vote, however, should come at a regular election to get the greatest number of people to the polls.

"I'm certain that the voice of the people of Pontiac at such an election would endorse and support the action of our City Commission in degrading any increase in liquor licenses for the city, forbidding transfers of existing liquor licenses to factory locations, and granting such transfers of existing licenses only if they meet the most rigid building code regulations and if there are no objections from the neighborhood," said Dr. Bank.

Floyd Miles, former City Commissioner who opposed the expansion of liquor licenses in the city, said that he could see no objection to a vote of the people.

However, he added that the question to be voted on should be specific.

Miles said that under the law the responsibility of licensing liquor establishments was in the hands of the City Commission.

In Jungle Clashes

Cong Hammered by Yanks

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. paratroopers have scored heavily in a series of clashes with the Viet Cong 25 miles northeast of Saigon in the D-Zone jungle, American authorities reported today.

They said 25 of the guerrillas were known dead and it was estimated Red casualties yesterday totaled more than 100.

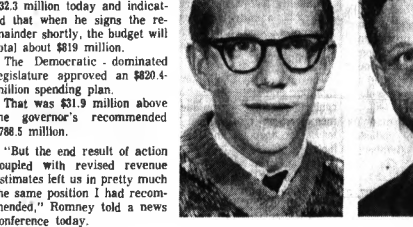

On the other side, the Viet Cong ambushed a Vietnamese government battalion 37 miles northwest of Saigon today and a U.S. spokesman said most of the battalion apparently was wiped out.

'Train Robber' Flees Jail

LONDON (UPI) — One of Britain's "great train robbers" escaped from a London prison today with three other convicts after a fight with guards and the capture of a hostage. The fugitives fled in a fleet of getaway cars.

The escape apparently centered around Ronald A. Biggs, serving a 30-year sentence for his part in robbing the Glasgow-to-London Royal mail train of $7.3 million in bank notes Aug. 8, 1963. The escape was as well planned and executed as the robbery itself.

Because another of the great train robbers had escaped in an equally intricate fashion, special guards had been posted for Biggs. But he fled the prison today in this series of events:

An accomplice threw a rope ladder and a tubular steel ladder into the prison exercise yard.

The prisoners fought off guards and scurried over the wall onto the top of a waiting furniture van.

After the train robbery, police arrested 12 men who were sentenced to terms ranging from a few months to 30 years.

Last summer, one of the convicted robbers, Charles Wilson, managed to escape from Birmingham's Winslow Green Prison. Police are still searching for him in Britain and abroad.

The ambush was sprung as the battalion was rushing to relieve a besieged outpost at Xom Dus in Binh Duong Province.

The relief battalion was sent from the nearby district capital of Tri Tam. The Communists apparently were lying in wait for the reinforcements.

As the Viet Cong sprang the trap, Communist 81mm mortars began a barrage of Tri Tam.

Results were not immediately reported.

The action in the Communist-controlled jungle near Saigon was the biggest engagement U.S. paratroopers have fought since their arrival in Viet Nam in May.

U.S. casualties were "substantially less" than the estimated enemy casualties, a U.S. spokesman said.

He refused to give the number, saying the operation was

GM Will Add 6 Safety Items

Standard Equipment on '66 Automobiles

DETROIT (UPI) — A package of six safety items will be standard equipment on General Motors passenger cars next year.

GM said yesterday each of its 1966 models will be equipped with rear seat belts, a padded instrument panel and sun visor, back-up lights, an outside left-hand rear view mirror, and a two-speed windshield wiper and washer.

All the auto firms had announced earlier this year that rear seat safety belts would be standard on next year's cars.

But the GM announcement of a six-item package caught American Motors, Chrysler and Ford by surprise. They did not reveal their plans but it was expected they would follow GM's lead.

Chrysler did say it "will have a number of additional safety items as standard features on 1966 models and will also offer certain safety features as optional for the '66 models."

CAR PRICES

There was no word from GM on whether the cost of the six safety items would be added to the retail price of the new cars.

A spokesman said the firm traditionally doesn't announce prices until new models are introduced in the fall.

But in the past when certain items like heaters and front seat belts were made standard equipment, the extra cost has been passed on to customers.

Green allegedly drove the car which transported Pearson to and from the murder site.

WAS CULMINATION

The stabbing was the culmination of several weeks of feuding between Talbot and Pearson over a 15-year-old girl, according to Paige.

Nearly 20 witnesses, including Talbot's father, viewed the slaying.

The youth and his friends were playing volleyball in the front yard prior to the incident, which occurred about 9:30 p.m.

Pearson and Green drove up to the front of the house and Talbot and several friends rushed over to the car.

FELL TO GROUND

Police said an argument developed and then Talbot fell to the ground. He was rushed to the hospital, but died on the operating table about 2 a.m. June 28 at Pontiac General Hospital.

According to Paige, the stabbing was not the first physical contact the two youths had had over the girl.

If Pearson should be convicted of first-degree murder, a life sentence would be mandatory.

K Proteges on Way Out?

Strain Signs Point to Soviet Shake-Up

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Signs of strain between reformers and conservative Communists in the Soviet Union suggest that Khrushchev officials may be in for a new round of musical chairs.

Some of the signs: —The Communist leadership apparently has decided to put off the party congress. Theoretically the congress is the ruling body for nearly 12 million party members and meets every four years. The last congress was October 1961.

—Four high-ranking government and Communist party leaders have been missing for five or six weeks from important official gatherings. All rose to prominence under Nikita S. Khrushchev.

—The absence of these persons may be connected with the downfall earlier this year of two other Khrushchev proteges. It could mean that powerful forces have undertaken a determined campaign to rid the party leadership of "the Ukrainians" and economic reformers who came up under Khrushchev's wing.

HINTS OF CLASH

Almost from the day of Khrushchev's fall last October, there have been hints of a clash between the two who divided his powers: Party Chief Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. The clash seems to stem from differences on economic reforms, the effect of such reforms on party leadership and the extent of party authority, which, in conservative opinion, should dominate every aspect of Soviet life even if it interferes with production.

Conservatives — those who distrust anything suggesting loosened central authority — have been restive in recent years.

The intrusion of other factors besides the division over economics makes it difficult to single out the members of the contending camps. But it seems likely that Brezhnev, despite his position as party chief, may be in the reformer group and Kosygin may represent the conservatives.

Identities of the four missing leaders bolsters a theory that "the Ukrainians" are in difficulties not necessarily connected with the troubles afflicting the younger reformers. Perhaps the leadership of Brezhnev himself will be questioned.

MISSING MEN

The missing men are:

1. Nikolai N. Podgorny, former Ukraine party chief who became a top secretary of the Soviet party under Khrushchev.

2. Pyotr Y. Shelest, metallurgical engineer, also Ukraine party chief under Khrushchev. He is to be candidate member of the ruling party presidium, achieving full membership after Khrushchev fell.

3. Gennady I. Voronov, whom Khrushchev made premier of the biggest Soviet state, the Russian republic, and a member of the top party presidium.

4. Pyotr N. Demichiev, one of Khrushchev's bright young men. At 46 he represented the leadership's young element. A party secretary since 1961, he was its bureau chairman for chemicals and light industry. He is a candidate member of the top presidium.

This spring, Vitily N. Tilov, a Ukrainian, was removed from the top secretariat and shipped to Kazakhstan as second secretary. He had a role in police and party organization affairs. Another who lost a secretariat job was Vasily I. Poloyakov, a Khrushchev agricultural specialist.

This seems to reflect a continuing process of rooting out remnants of the Khrushchev era and dumping "the Ukrainians." Since Khrushchev once was party czar in the Ukraine, those who served under him fared well. Among them was the present party chief, Brezhnev.

UNEASINESS

The evident decision to post pone the party congress may have been caused by uneasiness at the top and a general jockeying for position and allies.

The Soviet military brass, who have been flexing political muscle lately, may play an important role in the outcome. Significantly, Brezhnev, in a speech July 3 to officer graduates, promised more stress on "military command."

Word from Moscow now is that rocket troop commanders are being pushed into the background. They flourished under Khrushchev, who sought to ease military expenses by stressing reliance on missile defense. Today, the conventional forces commanders are more and more in the forefront.

Basically, however, the conflict is economic. Discussion of economic problems in the press at times is sharp and even acrimonious. Some of the comments could be viewed as veiled shots against Brezhnev.

The reformers might expect widespread public support, but the conservatives have much political power behind them.

Song Star Vanishes; Mystery Deepens

CHICAGO (AP)—The disappearance of singer Bob Eberle last night 20 minutes before he was to have appeared for a supper club performance deepened into a mystery today.

The popular song star, who made his name with big bands in the swing era, was sought by police of suburban Lyons after he failed to appear for two shows at Mangum's Chateau in the suburb, and had not returned to his motel room today.

'GLAD IT'S OVER' — Mrs. David Corbin of Springfield, Ore., and her son, Clinton, talk with newsmen in Woodland, Calif., today after being released by two Oregon gunmen.

6 Kidnap Victims Freed Unharmed by 2 Gunmen

WOODLAND, Calif. (AP)—Six kidnap victims — taken by two gunmen in Oregon — were released unharmed last night by their ex-convict abductors.

Police and the FBI hunted the pair today as suspects in a Portland bank holdup and the killing of an Oregon deputy sheriff.

A three-state manhunt was continuing for Wilbur Marion Grey, 30, a native of Brunswick, Ga., and Karl Cletus Bowles, 24, originally from Amarillo, Tex.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said the search was centering around nearby Sacramento, where the gunmen released the hostages and fled on foot.

The hostages were Mrs. David Corbin, 33, and her son by a previous marriage, Clinton Clark, 12; Mr. and Mrs. Udo Rieksins of Seattle, their son and their son's friend.

QUESTIONED FAMILY

FBI agents questioned Rieksins' most of the night at a Woodland motel where the six spent the night.

The three adults and the boys left at 6 a.m. saying they were driving directly back to Oregon.

Grey and Bowles, who completed terms at Oregon State Prison last week — Grey for robbery and Bowles for breaking and entering — also are suspected of robbing an Oregon bank Tuesday of about $14,000, the FBI said.

Confronted by newsmen after slipping out of motel windows, Mrs. Corbin reluctantly talked briefly.

'HATE THEM'

"It wasn't bad on us at all," the slightly built woman said.

"I just hate them for killing that policeman. I just hope they get the same thing."

Asked if she was frightened by the ordeal, she said: "Was I frightened? Yes, they killed that policeman."

She said her son "was a little scared at first, but he had a big smile and they liked him. They let him do anything reasonable."

'TOO SHY TO TALK'

The freed Clinton was too shy to talk with newsmen.

Mrs. Corbin described the gunmen's weapons as "short and long" — a shotgun and a pistol.

"They were so confused all the time," she said. "I had to show them how to get out of town. They talked about everything under the sun. They told me a lot of stories."

She said the six hostages made no attempt to escape.

"They would have plugged shot someone, anyway," she remarked.

Rieksins said they would drive to Oregon, "with no stops anywhere, unless we have a need."

FBI agents said details of the kidnapping and slaying were still sketchy this morning.

will in progress and casualty reports would endanger security.

The American paratroopers and an Australian battalion spent the second day of their operation fighting through one Viet Cong hamlet after another.

Vietnamese units established a blocking force outside the sweep.

WOMEN FIGHT

The enemy fought hard in places. Women were seen throwing grenades at the advancing Americans, a U.S. spokesman said.

As the Viet Cong withdrew from each town, American and Australian troops burned down the houses, but the Viet Cong managed to drag off practically all of their dead and wounded through the network of tunnels that lace the area, the spokesman said.

The Viet Cong kept up its pressure in the central highlands with a mortar attack early today on the district headquarters at Kontum, a provincial capital 260 miles north of Saigon.

Spokesmen said a number of shells hit the headquarters but there was no immediate word that the guerrillas followed up with an assault.

DISTRICT CAPITAL

Kontum is 20 miles from Dak To, a district capital overrun by the Viet Cong Tuesday and apparently still in Red hands.

Spokesmen said there had been no contact with Dak To, manned by about 150 government troops, or with the town of Dak Su, about 10 miles to the north. The military posts in both towns have been frequent targets of the Viet Cong.

School Official Has Two Jobs

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Erwin M. Johnson, former superintendent of the Huron Valley School District, has accepted a dual-capacity role in the Bloomfield Hills system.

Johnson has been appointed director of lunchrooms and director of transportation for the district.

His resignation from his post in Millford became effective July 1.

Bloomfield Hills Schools Supt. Eugene L. Johnson said the dual appointment was made to take advantage of the appointee's specialties.

Johnson's salary in his new job has not yet been determined.

He will supervise the operation of cafeterias in the system's 11 schools and of a fleet of 50 buses.

Johnson next year will teach mathematics at East Hills Junior High School.

Mrs. Clinton Cook has been named as director of lunchrooms, giving no indication of her plans.

Johnson, 57, had been connected with the Huron Valley district for 17 years, serving as its superintendent for five.

In connection with the current Award.

A film entitled "Land of the Long Day" will be shown at 8 and 9 p.m., with the doors of the science museum opening at 7:30 p.m.

Produced by the National Film Board of Canada, the 38-minute color movie has won the Golden Reel Award from the Film Council of America and the Robert J. Flaherty Film Award.

Mrs. Hall admits the tempest was something of an ordeal before it blew over.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said today he is encountering inertia — but no turnaround — in a personal drive to raise $250,000 to help finance Rep. John V. Lindsay's campaign for mayor of New York.

Javits expressed confidence in an interview that he not only will raise his personal quota but that additional funds will be forthcoming to meet the expected $1.5 million cost of the Republican representative's bid for office.

Associates of Lindsay, who has the New York Liberal party endorsement and is running as a fusion candidate, reported this week they have raised only $210,000. Lindsay denied a report that New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller had pledged $500,000.

U.S., French Officials Will Confer in Paris

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undersecretary of State George W. Ball leaves Friday for a meeting next Monday in Paris with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville.

Ball also will attend the regular meeting of the North Atlantic council the following day, the State Department announced Wednesday.

Encountering Inertia in Response to Lindsay Fund Drive—Javits in contributions for his campaign.

Javits said it was understandable that donations have been slow. Contrary to reports that some wealthy conservative Republicans are shying away from contributing to a fusion candidate, the senator said he had had no refusals from businessmen he has solicited.

WORKING HARD

"I am working very hard on raising money," he said. "Because of my Senate duties, however, most of my contacts have had to be made by telephone. Frankly, I am encountering inertia. So many people say, 'Well, he doesn't need the money until September.'"

"I'm trying to impress them that he needs the money now. I haven't had a turnaround. But it's a case of getting on the bicycle and seeing these people personally."

The senator said Lindsay wanted some assurances before he entered the race that his campaign would be financed properly and to get these "I exposed him to some people of means who indicated they would contribute substantial amounts."

Javits said he has no information on whether the Rockefeller family has agreed to contribute to Lindsay's campaign, but he said he hopes the family will do so.

Laborites Come to Defense of Prince Philip on Rhodesia Stand

LONDON (AP) — Left-wing Labor members of Parliament attacked Prince Philip last weekend for counseling patience in the dispute over Rhodesian independence. Today, another group of Laborites came to the defense of the queen's husband.

Philip had told a student meeting he believes African rule in Rhodesia is inevitable but it should come gradually rather than risk a bloodbath.

The speech brought protests from African nationalists campaigning for speedy transfer of power from the colony's white minority to the African majority. Thirty-two Laborites signed a motion in the House of Commons in effect urging members of the royal family to keep quiet on political issues.

Rejecting this view, the new motion calls on the house to "reaffirm its belief in the principles of democracy, the liberty of the individual and the right of free speech."

Five Laborites have signed the second motion.

A group of Conservatives also has introduced a motion supporting the prince, but none of the motions will come to a debate or a vote, and they are significant only as expressions of the signers' opinions.

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — The Burma-America Institute of language classes will close this weekend at the request of the Burmese government, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said today.

The Foreign Office requested all embassies Wednesday to close their foreign language classes for Burmese students. The note said that since a government language school has opened, there is no need for the other language schools.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government has asked the public to help track down three men linked to a $3-million swindle in black market knit wear.

In an unusual move, Pravda published pictures of the trio Wednesday.

All three have Jewish names, as does another suspect Pravda said was captured after hiding for more than a year.

The Communist party paper said those at large were Yuri A. Yevgenyev, former chief of a knit goods factory; Boris V. Reidel, the deputy director, and Aron Kozlovsky, a worker at the factory. The arrested man is F. G. Shcharber, Pravda said.

The case broke in February 1964.

'Bench' Frowns on Increase

If a legislative bill now on Gov. Romney's desk is signed, which is most likely, Oakland County will be on the receiving end of an unwanted Circuit Court judgeship.

This is a startling reversal of the familiar routine of legislative denial of governmental augmentation sought by local administrative agencies.

Under the new constitution, Courts of Justice (Circuit Courts) are subject to regulation by the supreme court of the state. Inherent in such control is the power to determine the number of judges each county bench shall seat.

The formula for such determination is vaguely compounded of case load, population of area served and proximity to population centers conducive to demand on court resources.

Exercising its power, the Michigan Supreme Court, without consulting the local judiciary, recommended that the legislature allocate another judge to the Oakland County Circuit Court.

This action came to light when it was discussed earlier in the year during a session of the annual Judicial Conference in Lansing, attended by the local bench.

Thereupon, Circuit Judge PHILIP PRATT, expressing the unanimous attitude of the county bench and concurred in by the county board of supervisors, indicated opposition to the addition of another judge at this time.

It happened, however, that THOMAS M. KAVANAGH, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, was present, and brusquely brushed aside the negative sentiment voiced by Judge PRATT.

Opposition to the enlargement of the county court rests on these sound considerations:

When the county courthouse was built, provision was made for six judges. When a seventh judge was subsequently added, court facilities had to be improvised and are quite inadequate. Where quarters could be found for the eighth judge now proposed is indeed a head-scratcher.

The new constitution provides that within five years from date of adoption the State's primary court system be restructured. The Justice of the Peace and the Municipal Court concepts with their $100 to $1,000 case limits would give way to a county court system with jurisdiction up to $3,000. Such upgrading would automatically relieve the higher (circuit)

People Make Business in U.S. Their Business

The idea that ownership of corporate shares is confined solely to individuals vaguely classified as "plush plutocrats" is as outmoded as multiple petticoats.

Today 20 million Americans are shareholders, a gain of 3 million in three years. One out of nine Michiganders holds stock certificates.

Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said in commendatory vein that during the period of increase "there have been repeated challenges to investor confidence—a series of events that might have shaken the economic convictions of a more impressionable, less informed people."

The impressive proportion of the populace which has made itself partners of business is a fine indication of the confidence Americans repose in the Nation's commerce.

To provide quarters for and meet the expense of another judge would cost county taxpayers an estimated $100,000 a year.

The present case load of the Oakland County Circuit Court is being effectively adjudicated.

In sum, our judges feel that enlarging the court could well await the outcome of the reshaping of the court system noted and the likelihood that another wing will in due course be added to the courthouse that would provide proper quarters for another judge when and if needed.

The PRESS heartily commends the local judiciary on its sound position and conscientious regard for taxpayers' money. On that note, we rest our case.

Busy Congress Is Overlooked

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — At another time, what Congress is doing now would be wrapped in breathless attention and conflict. But success feeds itself and in these peculiar days what seemed impossible now seems routine.

This is a busy Congress and, before this session is over, will have been a highly productive one. However, public interest has been distracted by the war in Viet Nam and the personality of President Johnson.

In getting Congress to trot along with him, Johnson has had two things working for him: his own endless pressure on the men in the Capitol and the fact that his own Democrats thoroughly outnumber the Republicans.

And there is not now in Congress a controversial figure — like Sens. Joseph McCarthy, Robert A. Taft or Barry Goldwater — who splits public thinking and, while getting attention himself, draws attention to Congress.

From a presidential standpoint, this probably is an ideal Congress: legislators who for the most part stick to their knitting, don't fuss much and grind out the legislation.

HARD FIGHTS
Besides all this, some of the most important legislation moving through Congress this year was fought over wildly or loudly so many times before it lost its edge.

Two examples: federal aid to grade and high schools, passed earlier this year, and Medicare which will almost certainly go through.

There was hardly a ripple when Congress only Tuesday completed what no Congress in history ever managed to do before: This was approval, by the House last week and the Senate Tuesday, of a proposed constitutional amendment spelling out procedures to deal with presidential disability and keep the vice presidency stable.

STATE APPROVAL
This won't become part of the Constitution until at least 38 state legislatures also approve but they're expected to without any trouble, although not before 1967. Action on this was a major achievement in itself.

Before Congress took its Fourth of July vacation it already had passed — in addition to the school aid bill — two other top Johnson programs: reduction in federal excise taxes and aid to the Appalachia area.

As soon as it returned Tuesday, after clearing the proposed amendment, the Senate went to work on the Social Security health care bill.

The House got down to work in a hurry, too. It opened debate on the 1965 civil rights bill — to protect Negroes' voting rights — although on this there will be some struggle.

David Lawrence Says:

Need New 'Presidential System'

WASHINGTON — There's a good deal wrong with the operation of the government nowadays — but President Johnson isn't alone to blame.

It's primarily the fault of what might be called the presidential system, whose defects have been a handicap also to other presidents in the last 30 years as the problems of government have multiplied.

Sooner or later it will be recognized that the executive system of today has outlived its usefulness and needs a few of those mature minds from the business world to formulate a system of operation that will not only be efficient in administration but effective in making policy.

For one thing, "the president's Cabinet" is a misnomer.

It is, in fact, a group of managers of departments, every one of which could be supervised by career executives so as to leave the secretary in each case free to give virtually his entire time to the task of advising the president on all manner of subjects.

DAILY MEETINGS

This would make possible daily meetings of the Cabinet, at which everything from Viet Nam to the balance-of-payments problem could be discussed before decisions were made by the chief executive.

No president can know all the answers to all public questions, and he is necessarily dependent on advisers of some kind. But it is this very phase of the present system which is weak.

The unofficial advisers to a president today are handicapped as a sort of personal entourage, responsible only to the man who can fire them overnight.

There is no sense of responsibility to the public such as is vested in a Cabinet officer who is confirmed by the Senate.

Many of these personal advisers — as, for instance, McGeorge Bundy — are capable of holding Cabinet posts. But there can hardly be two secretaries of state.

MANY ADVISERS

It would be much better if Secretary Rusk had the services of as many personal advisers as he wished and could give to the President and the entire Cabinet the "consensus" which he found in the reports from abroad and from the interpretation of such reports by experienced men around him.

A new operating formula for the departments in the national capital is essential, together with the establishment of a Cabinet in which each member would give his entire time to the president and occupy offices in a building along with him.

Such a group of advisers would be much more likely to help steer a resolute and steady course in foreign policy than is possible under the hit-or-miss system of today which results in so many improvised and spur-of-the-moment decisions.

Certainly it is time that the weakness in the present system of presidential operations was remedied.

Poor in U.S. About to Get the Computer Treatment

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON — The poor we won't have with us always, if President Johnson can perform miracles, but America's poor are about to become the most "analyzed" social strata ever to tangle with a computer.

Dr. Joseph A. Kershaw, Sargent Shriver's MONTGOMERY new assistant director for research and evaluations, intends to put the antipoverty program under "a scientist's microscope."

The nearly six-million poor currently being assisted will become a "living laboratory" while psychologists, sociologists and economists probe the effect of the poverty program on community ills, slums and economics.

Dr. Kershaw says he will introduce scientific measurements of performance similar to Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's cost benefit analysis, "except that he's working with hardware and we're working with people."

Dr. Kershaw is setting up "control groups," but unlike the cavity tests in the toothpaste ads, his will seek to establish by frequent checks whether the new "Head Start" summer study program gives "the slum kids who attended classes a better chance than matched youngsters who didn't, to hold their own with schoolmates from better environments."

JUST ONE PART

But that's just one part of the laboratory.

Universities are being paid to analyze test cities and ferret out the effect of the anti-poverty program on income, unemployment, divorce rates, church attendance, drug addiction, school dropouts, juvenile delinquency and the like.

Further, the Census Bureau has agreed to conduct regular samplings of certain geographical areas, to determine how much the poverty program is aiding with better incomes, education and housing.

Other scientific probes will stack various poverty projects against each other. For instance, it tests reveal that the neighborhood Youth Corps is having a greater impact on poverty than the more expensive Job Corps. money could thereafter be channeled from one to the other.

Few can argue with the basic common sense behind this hopeful approach to a poverty cure. Whether the scientific testing can succeed is a moot point, however, for sociologists who have worked in the ghettos report that the thing slum people hate most is to be asked questions. They don't like the quizzers.

In Washington:

U.S. Is Focus of World Criticism

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — In world politics, how a prime minister reacts depends on whose ox is being gored.

India's Lal Bahadur Shastri criticizes U.S. aid to Saigon. He asserts a Communist takeover in South Viet Nam would not endanger the security of India or other Asian countries.

The spirit of Vietnamese nationalism, he would protect Vietnamese people from Red China.

But when Mao Tse-tung's Communist Chinese armies invaded India, New Delhi demanded quick U.S. military help. The Indians didn't count on the spirit of nationalism to protect them from the Chinese.

Shastri knows nationalism doesn't keep Lithuania, Latvia or Estonia from being ruled by Russian invaders. It doesn't prevent Tibet or North Korea from being ruled by the Chinese or a large part of Kashmir from being ruled by the Indians. It did not prevent Formosa or Korea from being ruled by the Japanese before World War II. The Indians didn't depend on nationalism to get Goa from Portugal; they marched troops in.

As for the Chinese invasion of India, Mao didn't stop until the United States came in with heavy aid and until the United States made it clear we might fight if necessary.

'Which Schools Plan Use of New Reading Method?'

Would the board of education please publish a list of schools that will be using the new alphabet to teach reading next fall? I have a child starting school and I'd like to know if she will be in one of the test groups, as I'm sure a lot of other parents would.

Comments on Photographer Competition

A capable local photographer makes a bid, beats his out-of-town competitor, but doesn't get the work. This out-of-town studio comes into Pontiac, uses our school and public facilities, takes our money and leaves. The money that you spend on your children's senior photographs is not returned to businessmen in the City of Pontiac.

This local photographer is fighting to keep his business in a downtown location. I thought the motto of this city was "Keep business in Pontiac." Residents of Pontiac should be awakened to these facts.

'Grocery Thief Should Seek Employment'

To the man and child seen taking groceries from a white Buick in a parking lot on Auburn near Paddock on July 1, I hope you needed the groceries more than we did.

I think this was very low for a man with a child to force his way into a car and steal. With many jobs available for men in factories and other places, it seems you should seek employment instead of stealing.

MOTHER OF TWO

Reader States His Opinion on Modern Art

Modern art, wrapped in psychological propaganda, has become the most successful scheme of deceit that I know of. One magazine wrote that people who like modern art were found to be more intelligent than those who don't. Another magazine had a test for imagination, listing neat geometrical designs and disorderly ones. They claimed that the people with imagination picked the disorderly designs. Someone with imagination might try to make something orderly from the disorderly, but the same could be done with any blotches, scratches or even dirt, and shouldn't be called art.

These flatteries of deceit are one of the devil's tricks to teach falsehood. By using the same methods he will try to make good look evil and evil look good.

The Better Half

"Your plot falls down here where the cowboy private eye can't identify the Martian's topcoat button found clutched in the slain blonde chorus girl's hand."

This is not to say the United States never makes mistakes and that other countries are always wrong when they criticize our actions. It doesn't mean the advice and counsel of neutrals, friends or allies must be of the "yes sir" variety.

But it is evident each country thinks of its own immediate problems:

Some countries believe the Reds will leave them alone at home if we give in to them elsewhere — say in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

Some don't want the United States to get so involved in another end of the world, we won't be able to come to their aid.

Some find criticizing the United States a convenient political crutch in dealing with their own domestic crises.

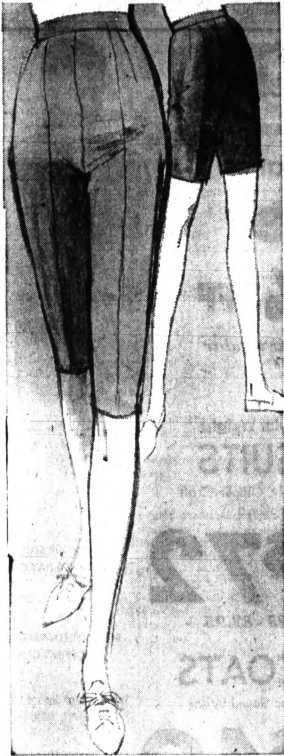

The moral is that the United States can't get off on the facts it can. The United States will have to chart its own course with humility, firmness and vigor. It will be impossible to please everyone. Sometimes it may be impossible to please anyone.

Losing Battle?

Beatty Battling Cancer

VENTURA, Calif. (UPI) — Clyde Beatty, America's most famous animal trainer, today was fighting what appeared to be a losing fight against cancer.

Beatty, 62, was reported in "poor" condition in Memorial Community Hospital. His wife, Jane, said he was in critical condition when he entered the hospital Tuesday night.

Attendants reported Beatty was suffering from pulmonary embolism, but Mrs. Beatty said it was cancer.

"He is fighting against a fatal enemy," she told newsmen, "with a courage he showed throughout his life."

A resident of this coastal city 60 miles north of Los Angeles, Beatty underwent stomach surgery last year. He resumed his career last April on Long Island, but had a hemorrhage and returned home.

HOSPITALIZED 60 TIMES

Several years ago, Beatty estimated that he had been hospitalized about 60 times for injuries caused by cats he said could be trained but never tamed.

Many times he escaped death narrowly, particularly in 1952 when two animals attacked him.

In 1932, Beatty almost lost his leg when Nero, his most trusted lion, turned on him.

NEW YORK (AP) — New confusion, compounded by seemingly contradictory government pronouncements, has grown up around the U.S. balance of payments and gold problems.

The confusion may have hit a high point a few days ago when: —Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler indicated the voluntary program to trim the U.S. balance of payments deficit is working so well he is worried about overoptimism.

—The Federal Reserve announced the greatest weekly outflow of gold in six years, $359 million.

LATEST VIEWS

The statements were the latest zigzags in the government's on-again, off-again enthusiasm about its efforts to preserve the United States' dwindling gold stock.

Here are some basic questions and answers on the current U.S. gold and balance of payments situations:

Q: What is the status of the U.S. gold stock now?

A: The U.S. monetary gold stock now is worth $13,534,000,000. It has declined $1,454,000,000 since Jan. 1. The outflow in six months of 1965 is exceeded only by the total yearly losses in 1958 and 1960. The present supply of gold is now back to the level it was in 1938 before the nation built up its vast gold pile during World War II.

LIKE TOURNIQUET

The voluntary program is like a first-aid tourniquet — a temporary device that preserves the patient until there can be surgery to repair the injury.

At this stage, the voluntary tourniquet chafes. But the bankers and industrialists who complain about it are unlikely to loosen it until doctor government gives the word.

Q: Why has the gold stock declined?

A: Because the United States has had a balance of payments deficit every year since 1949 (except 1957). A deficit results when the nation spends more overseas than foreign nations spend in the United States. Since we have a deficit, it signifies that some other nation will have a surplus. Some foreign governments convert their surplus dollars into gold. The United States guarantees it will buy or sell gold at the fixed price of $35 a troy ounce.

Q: What is the so-called voluntary program and how does it fit into the picture?

A: A little of both. It is good because it shows the voluntary program is working. It is bad because there is still a deficit.

Q: What kind of permanent treatment has been proposed?

A: That's one of the problems. So far, government and the private sector seem to agree only that there is a problem to be taken care of. No program has been worked out. Treasury Secretary Fowler says the voluntary program must hold tight for at least a year.

WHAT NEXT?

Q: What happens next?

A: Probably the United States will lose more of its gold stock.

since foreign governments still hold billions of dollars convertible into gold. But some economists feel the gold loss will taper off for three reasons: The voluntary program has limited dollars going overseas; the United States is still the world's number one department store and purchases are made with dollars; and many governments prefer to keep their dollar holdings in dollars or interest-bearing U.S. dollar securities rather than in bullion.

Q: Why is gold so important?

A: Many economists say gold is important only because so many people think it is important. Actually, gold has little useful value. Its value as money is mostly psychological. The mystique surrounding gold is rooted deep in history. But whatever the psychological or historical reasons, gold is readily convertible into currency, goods, or services in almost any part of the world.

ECONOMY FACTOR

Q: What has that got to do with the U.S. economy?

A: Because of the psychological importance of gold, many individuals and some nations regard the level of gold backing currency as a barometer of the true value of the currency. That view prevails in many European countries, particularly France and Germany, where disastrous inflations in the past have wrecked the economies of the countries. France and Germany in recent years have been the largest buyers of U.S. gold.

Q: Does the U.S. government regard gold highly as a reserve?

A: No. The United States position is that a currency is only as strong as the economy behind it. The government contends that as long as the U.S. economy is strong, the dollar is strong.

WORLD REGARD

Q: What is a sign of world regard for the dollar and what does it show?

A: Possibly the clearest sign of the world attitude is the price of gold in dollars on the London market where prices are bid up or down each day. When confidence in the dollar slips for some reason, the price of gold goes up. When confidence in the dollar is strong, the price hovers near the U.S. fixed price level (plus an 8 1/2 cents an ounce service charge). Currently, the London price of gold has been ranging between $35.09 and $35.11 a troy ounce.

Jailed Teen's Advice

'Take Troubles to Dad'

DETROIT (AP)—"When you write your story," the 18-year-old high school dropout said through the bars of his jail cell, "put this in as a note to all youths:

"If they have any problems, go to their father. If it doesn't work, at least they won't be in doubt about whether it will. Maybe it won't, but give it a try anyway."

"I tried to discuss things with Bud," said his father in the living room of the family's suburban Southgate home. "But I couldn't. The harder I tried, the worse he got."

The youth, Albert P. (Buddy) Scoble, was serving 15 days in the Wayne County Jail as a disorderly person. A teen-age party in his back yard Saturday night erupted in a riot in which four policemen were hurt.

The father, also named Albert, a 44-year-old supervisor in an experimental sheet metal shop, had publicly—before a group of newsmen—disowned his son the next night, after returning from a weekend trip.

Tuesday, he changed his mind. He said Buddy could return home when he was released—although he still refused to pay the boy's fine.

"Bud's got a lot of stuff," his father had said after changing his mind. "Turn him on the right road and you'll really have something."

Father and son agreed on this family history:

Buddy was a model boy until he was about 15 years old.

WAS DISGUSTED

What happened to Buddy at age 15 that changed him, in his father's eyes, from a "model boy" into a "hoodlum" and a "punk?"

"I was disgusted," Buddy said, apologizing because he couldn't find the words to say what he felt.

"I thought people were trying to mold my life for me, and I wanted to mold my own life."

"I see now my teachers and my parents were only trying to help me," he said.

MY FAULT

"The problem was, I couldn't talk to him (the father) about my problems. This was my fault, not his."

What will happen after next week, when Buddy returns home? Neither father nor son can say for sure.

"It changed me a lot, this last deal," said Buddy, "because this time I dragged my family into it."

"I'm going to try to get along," he added, "and I know he'll try."

"This incident may be the maximum, the turning point," his father said. "I can see just a little hope—just a glimpse of hope."

"Buddy is a very intelligent boy, but he's started down the wrong road. If he can get started on the right road, I defy anybody to stop him."

City Woman Is Cleared in Man's Death

The charge of involuntary manslaughter against a Pontiac woman was dismissed yesterday by Pontiac Municipal Court Judge Cecil McCallum.

Cleared in the dismissal was Donna Jean Bell, 20, of 57 Utah, who was charged in connection with the June 23 death of L. C. Jackson, 33, of 303 Ferry.

Jackson was shot with a 32-caliber revolver as he handed the gun to Miss Bell, who was sitting in a car parked in Beaudette Park, near Orchard Lake Avenue.

Miss Bell told police the weapon had discharged accidentally. Five witnesses agreed with this description of the shooting.

Charges were dismissed during the preliminary examination of the woman. McCallum ruled the shooting accidental and said there was no crime committed.

Dominican Hearings to Begin Next Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—Closed hearings on the U. S. involvement in the Dominican Republic will start next Wednesday before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said Wednesday the first witness will be Undersecretary of State Thomas C. Mann, President Johnson's top adviser on Latin-American affairs.

Accused Rights Leader Free on Bond

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A civil rights leader, the Rev. Frederick D. Reese, is free on bond today, while the investigation of his alleged embezzlement of funds continues.

Reese was released on $5,000 bond late Wednesday, after spending more than 24 hours in the Dallas County Jail. He had been arrested and indicted by a special grand jury on charges of embezzling $1,650 from the Dallas County Voters League, of which he is president.

Reese, supported by civil rights leaders during his brief sojourn in jail and enthusiastically cheered by supporters on his release, was freed after attorneys arranged bond with a private bonding company.

Neither of the attorneys—Orzell Billingsley of Birmingham nor J. L. Chestnutt of Selma—indicated why no attempt was made to arrange a cash bond for the Negro minister. The Rev. Ralph Abernathy, vice president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference had said Tuesday night that he could raise $1,000 a minute if he desired.

EARLIER MOVE

There was one earlier attempt to post bond for Reese Wednesday, but it fell through. The property offered as surety lacked sufficient tax evaluation. The tax ex-schoolteacher, who worked closely with Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and the SCLC during the Selma civil rights drive, appeared at a mass meeting at Brown's Chapel AME Church a few hours after his release. He repeated claims made by other civil rights leaders about the three indictments against him—that the charges were an effort to discredit him and the entire civil rights effort in Selma.

Wilson Baker, Selma public safety director, was reported to have left for the North in his investigation of Reese's alleged misdeeds.

A city official said Baker would visit New Jersey and other states which he did not name.

'Unworldly' Teacher May Be Best Answer to Amish Education Problem

LANSING (U) — A kindly old "unworldly" schoolteacher somewhere may be able to do more for Michigan's tiny Amish community than the state's 138-member legislature, was able to do after long hours of debate and committee work.

An Amish settlement at Canden near the Michigan-Ohio Indiana border is in trouble with the state's teacher certification laws — or rather, it was during the past school year, and will be again in September when school resumes.

The Amish believe an eighth-grade education is all their children need or should have, and prefer to have their one-room school conducted by a member of their own faith — or at least by someone "suitable."

As a result, young Amish women with eighth-grade educations themselves have been teaching classes. The teachers, of course, do not meet the state teacher certification laws.

DELATED ACTION

Dr. Lynn Bartlett, former superintendent of public instruction, delayed compelling the children to attend other schools to see what the legislature would do about changing state laws.

The legislature shelved three bills and two amendments that would have granted an exemption to religious schools taught by members of a "recognized religious faith" exclusively for members of that faith.

Any time the subject came up, it resulted in heated debate over "driving these good, God-fearing people out of Michigan," over the rights of parents — whether they can decide what is good for their children or whether there was an unjustifiable stunting of their educational growth — and over preservation of state educational standards.

But, it did not result in any legislation.

STILL ALIVE

"Technically, the bill to which the Senate tacked an Amish amendment is still in conference and still alive," said Assistant State Atty. Eugene Krasicky, "but there's not really much hope for it."

The House, whose education committee buried three bills, struck the Senate amendment — which had been adopted with the bare minimum of 21 votes after 24 hours of emotional debate in the upper chamber.

Thomas Brennan, president of the six-month-old State Board of Education, said, "We hope to sit down with these people over the summer and work out some solution within the framework of the law."

"We don't want these people to leave Michigan, but we are required to uphold state law," he added.

TOO WORLDLY

Krasicky, who is assigned to work with the State Department

Room Definitely Cooler

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Jerry Lynn House, 16, seeking relief from the heat, moved from his bedroom to a cooler guest room Tuesday night. Sometime later, fire swept through the vacated bedroom, inflicting heavy damage.

of Education, said, "These people have tried to hire certified teachers but always found they were 'too worldly.'"

"We might try to find a kindly old lady who loves children to teach the subjects that require a certified teacher, leaving the rest to one of their own teachers."

A retired teacher might fill the bill, Brennan said. "I don't think it is workable, but we should try to solve their problems," he added.

Krasicky said he did not believe the Amish were leaving Michigan for educational reasons, but because of economic factors — such as farm markets, productivity and land values.

COULD NOT AGREE

"I saw a group of schoolchildren touring the Capitol recently, and many of the children were dressed like Amish," Krasicky said.

"I met the teacher and found they were from Notawana near the Indiana border," he added. "The teacher told me that half the students in the school were Amish, because the Amish leaders in the community could not agree on how their own school should be run."

"So, the problem seems to center around this one small community with about 28 students," he added.

OK Contracts for Crittenton

ROCHESTER—Contracts have been awarded for construction of the Rochester Unit of the Crittenton General Hospital, despite the fact that the original bids came in about $1 million higher than anticipated.

A. Riley Allen, hospital administrator, said some cuts were Original bids ranged from $2,000,000 to $2,300,000.

OTHER CONTRACTS

The mechanical contracts in the amount of $1,797,000 went to Sylvan Plumbing and Heating, Inc. of Pontiac. Bids ranging from $1,836,000 to $2,197,000 were about $900,000 high, Allen said.

The electrical contract was given to Reid Electric Co. of Detroit for $579,900. Bids originally ranged from $580,000 to $700,000.

The kitchen equipment contract was awarded to Great Lakes Hotel Supply Co. of Detroit for $95,240, a reduction in the bids which ranged from $114,178 to $119,541.

The elevator contract went to Haughton Elevator Co. of Detroit for $84,600.

FUND PLEDGES

Pledges toward the hospital fund include the $1.8 million from the Hill-Burton Fund, a commitment for a $2-million mortgage loan from the B. C. Ziegler Co. of West Bend, Wis., $125 million pledged by the community and industry of the area, and a $150,000 grant from the Ford Motor Co. Fund.

The fund-raising campaign is being continued to help make up the deficit.

The board of trustees of Crittenton Hospital has approved the use of $300,000 in working capital which is over and above the construction cost.

Ground breaking for the hospital, to be located at Walton Boulevard just east of Livernois, will be 2 p.m. Sunday. Rep. William S. Broomfield, R-14th Dist. will be the guest speaker.

ON PROGRAM

Others participating in the program will be Howard J. McGregor Jr., vice president of the board of trustees, Crittenton Hospital; and Ormond S. Wesels, president of the board of trustees.

D. B. Varner, trustee of the hospital board, will speak as will John Lowes, president of the village of Rochester and Cyril E. Miller, supervisor of Avon Township.

Allen said construction of the hospital will take about two years. When completed, the six-story, 307-bed hospital will be equipped to employ the latest in medical procedures and surgical techniques.

Keego Project for Youngsters Starts Monday

KEEGO HARBOR — A six-week summer recreation program for youngsters 7 through 13 years old will begin Monday at the Roosevelt Elementary School playground.

Fred Milliron, a Roosevelt teacher, will serve as director of the program. Hours will be 9 a.m.-noon and 1-3 p.m.

Organized by the local Child Protection and Youth Assistance Committee, the program has received financial backing from the city council, local organizations, merchants and individuals.

There will be a crossing guard on Cass Lake Road. Each child will be insured while participating in the program.

Rapids, will be in charge of the program.

The story-telling periods will be about 45 minutes long.

REGISTRATION

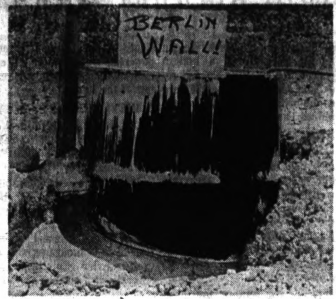

Because the sessions are limited to 20 youngsters, registration is requested.

Parents can enroll their children by visiting or telephoning the library before Tuesday. The facility is open from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

KEEP OUT! — Residents on Rockcroft in Lakeland Vale Subdivision, Independence Township, have made it clear they don't want nonresidents using their street as an exit, specifically those living on Marvin, which dead-ends at Rockcroft. Rockcroft families claim speeders from neighboring Marvin Subdivision are endangering the lives of their children and have erected barriers to keep them out. Marvin residents say Rockcroft is the only suitable exit from their street and have removed the barriers. The latest barricade is this concrete "Berlin wall." Rockcroft residents have filed charges against those on Marvin for allegedly tearing out the original barricade.

Official Quits Rochester Post

ROCHESTER — George R. Howell, village assessor and urban renewal director, has resigned his post, effective July 15, to accept the post of urban renewal director in Marquette.

Village Manager Richard N. Don said a replacement has not been considered. He said Howell submitted his letter of resignation to him Tuesday.

Howell was hired by the village council in January to replace Ernest Reschke, who took a similar post in Troy.

Prior to coming to Rochester,

Howell was a member of Pontiac's urban renewal staff. He has been employed for about six years in urban renewal in Mount Clemens, Royal Oak Township, Pontiac and Rochester.

It is evident that it is the extra supply of oxygen in nitrate fertilizer that provides wheat seedlings with a fast start in the spring when the soil temperature is still around 40 degrees. An ammonia source of nitrogen does not work.

County Group Set for Annual 4-H Week

More than 30 Oakland County 4-H club members will participate in the 47th annual 4-H Club Week July 13-16 at Michigan State University.

"Destination—Leadership" will be the general theme of the event, which will be attended by more than 1,000 outstanding 4-H members from throughout the state.

Keynote speaker at the opening session will be Sen. Guy Vander Jagt (R-34th District) of Cadillac, who will challenge the youths to seek active leadership roles at all levels throughout life.

A "group action project," a new feature of 4-H Club Week, is geared to providing delegates with a better understanding of the United States.

The youngsters will also be trained in involving other teenagers and adults in programs to increase their working knowledge of the United Nations.

Mrs. Polly Johnson Hanst, a former teen-age magazine columnist, will discuss such topics as dating etiquette, parent cooperation, teen-age values and boy-girl relationships.

A human relations session will use television to help the delegates in learning to deal with their own feelings and behavior toward persons of different race and faith. Some 30 discussion groups will explore discrimination, prejudice and other social problems.

The annual four-day session is sponsored by the Michigan 4-H Club Program, a segment of the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service.

Attending from Oakland County will be L. C. Seramlin, Lenn Dalaba, Suzanne Brooks and Sue Vascasemna of Oakhill Club; Dan Medlan, Carol Taylor and Sandra Tilton of Seymour Lake Club; Ralph Shultz and Chris Swartz of Ro-Hi Club; Bill Mackela, Nancy Neilson, Cheryl Fogg and Barbara Beaty of Bloomfield Club.

Others will be John Spencer, Steve Krantz, Gwen Hamilton, Connie Leece, Virginia Palsman and Diana Krantz of the Orionville Club; Mark Smith of Holly Tractor Club; Robert McFadden of Nu-Ly-Wix Club; Lester Lawrence of Northwest Oakland Club.

Others will be Dave Rathburg, Greg Donovan, Janice Donovan, Lenora Johnson and Terry Mathews of Orion Club; Jan Priebe, Linda Stelter, Carol Andrews, Ella Neuhous and Pam Cane of Los Caballeros Club and Janet Casper of Clarkston Happy Helpers.

Mrs. C. Dulzo, one of the leaders of the Orionville Club, will accompany the group and serve as adult adviser.

All-Day Horse Show Is Sunday

The Horseshoe Saddle Club of Michigan, Inc., will present its seventh annual all-day horse show Sunday at the Oakland County 4-H Fair grounds on North Perry road at Walton in Pontiac.

Starting at 9 a.m., the 21 events will include Western horsemanship, jumping class, pony class, junior and senior barrel bending, clover leaf and rope race.

An exhibition drill will be presented by the Lapeer County Sheriff's Department mounted posse.

Contestants will compete for cash prizes, trophies and ribbons. First-place awards will be $15 in non-trophy classes.

No Longer Licensing Drivers in Oxford

OXFORD — After today, driver's licenses will no longer be issued in Oxford.

Because of a new state law requiring color photographs on all newly issued drivers' licenses, village residents must now get their licenses in Pontiac. Oxford was not designated as a site for a camera.

Board Agrees to Purchase Site for School

Farmington District Parcel of 42 Acres Will Cost $198,350

FARMINGTON — The board of education has agreed to purchase another high school site, this one carrying a $198,350 price tag.

The property will cost the district more than twice the amount to be paid for the high school site which the board decided to buy last week.

The purchase agreement negotiated this week is for a parcel of about 42 acres in the rapidly growing northeast portion of Farmington Township.

To be the site of the district's third high school, the property is on the south side of 12 Mile less than one-fourth of a mile west of Middle Belt.

The agreement was reached subject to a survey by the current owners, the heirs of Harry Sucher.

TOTAL PRICE The total price is based on a rate of $4,350 an acre.

Now operating two high schools, the board of education last week agreed to buy a 40-acre site for its fourth high school on the southwest corner of 12 Mile and Drake.

That area is not yet experiencing the heavy development expected for it.

The board will buy the property there for $94,000, or $2,350 an acre.

Schools Dept. Gerald V. Harrison noted that the prices of the two parcels reflect the differences in land values in high-ly developed and undeveloped areas.

Trustee Is Named for Oxford School

OXFORD — Ben M. Snyder, assistant headmaster of Cranbrook School, Bloomfield Hills, has been elected to the board of trustees of Kingsbury School, Oxford.

Snyder has been with Cranbrook since 1940 and is a master in United States history.

He is directing Cranbrook's newly created Horizons Program, an experiment to provide private school training for 50 students from Detroit.

Snyder is a graduate of the University of North Carolina. He received his master's degree in history from Harvard and has done graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania, Leiden University in the Netherlands and the University of Edinburgh.

Breakthroughs Commonplace

Reactor Farm Rearing Atomic Age Developments

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

NATIONAL REACTOR TESTING STATION, Idaho. — Three new and potentially revolutionary atomic age developments are progressing well at Uncle Sam's "reactor farm" where scientific and engineering breakthroughs are almost old hat.

Here, on an isolated, 800-square-mile area of sagebrush and basalt fields on the Snake River plains, Atomic Energy Commission scientists believe they've struck new kinds of nuclear pay-dirt from these developments:

—Achievement of "the country's first major breakthrough" in treating potentially deadly radioactive wastes from atomic power and research reactors — the so-called "garbage" of the atomic era. The process, which reduces the dangerous liquid wastes to a much safer form having only one-tenth the volume previously stored, uses equipment which works something like a popcorn machine.

—Promising results with a new type of experimental "breeder" reactor system — actually, a kind of controlled atomic bomb. Like other experimental breeders, it is designed to create more nuclear fuel than it actually consumes in producing power. But its unique feature consists of a built-in process for cleaning up and recycling partly used fuel. It dishes the fuel back into the furnace almost like loaves of bread.

NEAR COMPLETION

—Near-completion for military field use of compact, mobile nuclear power reactors which can be flown intact in a cargo airplane to any corner of the world — ready to begin generating power for field hospitals, radar equipment and other uses, within 12 hours after arrival.

Those are among the most exciting new ventures at this $300-million station — site of the world's largest and most varied collection of nuclear reactors, or "furnaces" for research, testing, electric power production, and propulsion. The area — in southeastern Idaho, 30 miles from Idaho Falls — is three-fourths the size of the State of Rhode Island.

None of the reactor structures, operational or otherwise, would rate any beauty prizes. From the outside, most of them are huge, boxlike affairs which look like warehouses.

But they house some of the world's most ingenious and complicated machinery and hidden, heavily shielded pots of controlled nuclear fury — designed to help produce more powerful, safer and more efficient civilian and military reactors of the future.

ACHIEVEMENTS

And, some of them are devices which, since 1951, already have achieved these "firsts" in the atomic race:

—Proof-testing the feasibility of nuclear propulsion for both submarines and surface ships — thus paving the way for the United States' present nuclear fleet of 51 submarines, the aircraft carrier Enterprise and several other surface warships.

—Production of the world's first usable quantities of electricity from the atom — including the test-lighting of the city of Arco, seven miles from the site.

—Powering of a turbojet engine exclusively from nuclear heat.

A VITAL ROLE

And engineers here say that one of their reactors — called the "materials testing reactor" (MTR) — has played a vital role in aiding the development of every nuclear power reactor in the world, "including those of the Russians." This is because virtually all results achieved at the station are published in scientific and popular literature. The AEC says more than 1½ million American homes now are powered by atom-produced electricity — and forecasts that at least seven million will be so powered by 1980.

AP Photo

FLAW IN JAW — Patrolman James Porter, 25, of Toledo, Ohio, yawned while walking his beat yesterday and his jaw locked open. Hospital treatment closed it, but, upon his return to duty, the same thing happened. Doctors taped his mouth shut and sent him home with orders to report back for treatment. He shows the note he gave at the hospital.

The only secret, closed-off area of the "reactor farm" here is one housing reactors developed or still under development by the Navy in cooperation with the AEC.

Up until around 1958, reporters sometimes were allowed in, but the unofficial word is that Vice Adm. Hyman Rickover, who heads the program for the Navy, put the curtain down after making a trip to the Soviet Union and reportedly finding the Russians were not as far advanced in the maritime nuclear propulsion field as had previously been thought.

STILL IN VIEW

But, still in view from beyond the guarded fence is the reactor structure housing the still-operating prototype of the pioneer nuclear submarine Nautilus.

Close by the Nautilus prototype in the Navy's sagebrush port is the "large ship reactor" which paved the way for the carrier Enterprise and other surface craft.

And, still under construction, is a new type of naval propulsion reactor. The latter is designed to be quieter, simpler and even safer to operate than present models. The test version will even be designed to simulate the pitching motions a reactor would experience at sea.

Solons Hit King's Viet Peace Plan

Major Red Thrust Possible

Hike Marine Force as Viet Safeguard

WASHINGTON (AP) — The landing of 8,000 more Marines in South Viet Nam was a move to "play it safe" and strengthen U.S. forces against a possible major thrust by beelined Communist troops, military sources said today.

The action was not prompted by any specific emergency situation, the sources said.

Intensive Communist activity in the central highlands of Viet Nam, coupled with indications

Ex-Dow Employee Fined in Theft of Blueprints

MIDLAND (AP) — Stanley S. Tabol, 41, former research development engineer for the Dow Chemical Co., pleaded guilty Wednesday to a reduced charge of simple larceny in the theft last year of Dow books and blueprints. He was fined $100.

Tabol, a Dow employee for more than 10 years, originally was charged with felonious theft.

that the equivalent of a North Vietnamese army division may be spread through the area, has caused concern.

If the Reds should mount an assault with seven to 10 battalions against one of the U.S. enclaves along the South China Sea coast, the sources said, they might cause considerable havoc.

TOP COMMANDER

It was learned that Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the top U.S. commander in Viet Nam, asked for the additional Marines from Okinawa because they could be brought in quickly. He said Wednesday that more "substantial confrontations" could be expected before long.

More Army troops are on their way to Viet Nam from the United States but are not due for a while yet.

Both military and civilian officials pointed to Westmoreland's current visit to Hawaii as an indicator that no imminent crisis is expected in Viet Nam. They claimed there is no hidden significance to the general's trip — that it is mainly for the rest and a few days with his family in Honolulu.

U.S. BUILDUP

As the U.S. buildup in Viet Nam continued, House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said Wednesday the United States should bomb Soviet-built missile sites in North Viet Nam.

Ford told a news conference: "Sites designed for firing surface to air missiles should be knocked out by United States air superiority before the enemy uses the weapons against the side of freedom."

George E. Reedy, White House press secretary, asked about Ford's call for hitting the bases, said "Of course, the congressman is speaking as a member of Congress, an equal and coordinate branch of government."

Reedy added that the administration has the responsibility for conducting operations in Viet Nam and will conduct them according to the plans it has laid out.

FULBRIGHT COMMENTS

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told newsmen he has made it clear "I am not in favor of a major escalation of war."

Asked whether he thinks Ford's statement is part of any Republican effort to make Viet Nam a political issue, Fulbright said, "At the present, it would appear to be."

Ford said he was speaking for himself and not for House Republicans generally. He said he still supports President Johnson's "stand-firm policy against Communist aggression in Southeast Asia."

So far, the Communist monsoon offensive has not been as serious as U.S. officials had feared it would be.

U.S. leaders consider the next two months as critical — if the Red activity can be held in check for that period, they said, there may be reason to start feeling optimistic.

Hubbard Case Ruling Aug. 27

Decision Is Promised on 'Biased' Clippings

DETROIT (AP) — A decision on whether or not the Michigan Civil Rights Commission has the power to force suburban Dearborn Mayor Orville L. Hubbard to remove allegedly objectionable clippings from city bulletin boards will be made Aug. 27.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Edward S. Piggins said Wednesday he would hand down a decision by that date.

The commission wants the court to enforce its order directing Hubbard and Dearborn Public Works Director James Dick to remove what the commission calls objectionable articles from city bulletin boards.

Hubbard and two police aides were acquitted in U.S. District Court two weeks ago of charges of depriving a Dearborn resident of equal protection in a racially inspired crowd incident.

NOT IN COURT
Neither Hubbard nor Dick was in court Wednesday. Their attendance was not required. Dearborn City Attorney Ralph B. Guy Jr. moved for dismissal of the case, arguing the issue is moot because all objectionable clippings have been taken down.

Assistant state attorney general Carl Levin, speaking for the commission, agreed that the clippings, which allegedly contained material ridiculing the Negro race, were removed. But he argued the City of Dearborn in its formal answer claimed the commission has no jurisdiction and that the city has a right to post the material.

Piggins gave attorneys time to file briefs. He said the Constitution and statute spelling out the authority of the commission "leaves considerable to be desired."

"It's unfair that the commission has been charged with so much responsibility but must grope its way. It is unfortunate a more precise spelling out of its authority was not done," the judge commented.

Guy said the proceedings constitute "another effort to make Dearborn officials the whipping boys for the commission and to showcase their activities."

"The commission is saying, in effect, 'they (city officials) are not doing anything wrong, but give us a club to hit them with in case they do.'"

Man Who Wrote to 'Light Bulb' Is Ruled Insane

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Maryland man who sent letters addressed only to "Light Bulb, 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.," was found innocent by reason of insanity yesterday on a charge of threatening the life of President Johnson.

U.S. District Court Judge Richmond B. Keech made the finding after a nonjury trial. He ordered William Lee Dillard, 55, of Rockville committed to a mental institution.

According to post office and Secret Service witnesses, obscene and threatening letters and cards addressed to "Light Bulb" were traced to Dillard.

At one point, defense attorney Myron Ehrlich contended that "Light Bulb" did not specify President Johnson.

Keech interjected: "Come now, Mr. Ehrlich, you are a Washingtonian and you know that light bulb has been synonymous with President Johnson."

Youngsters in W. Oregon Take to Fields in Drove to Harvest Berry Crops

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Kid stuff — Work in Oregon and kid stuff — play — in Massachusetts. A musical note from Chicago and a canine note from Pennsylvania are among glimpses of U.S. life this week.)

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Kids start popping out of their doors at dawn and head down the streets.

They cluster on the corners. They troop, in bunches of 50 or so, to a waiting bus. Most are 12- to 15-year-old. Some are 10 or 11.

There are 50,000 or more of these children on any summer day heading for the strawberry fields. They are western Oregon's great farm labor force.

"There aren't many states where this sort of thing happens," says Robert Keilbach, Oregon State Employment Service area manager. But it happens in Oregon's rich Willamette Valley because a crop that can be harvested by young people ripens during school vacation and is concentrated near population centers.

The youngsters harvest 75 per cent of Oregon's multimillion-dollar strawberry crop. Soon they will begin on the $5-million raspberry crop. Then they will turn to other canberry crops and finally, as summer wanes, to the pole bean harvest.

Good workers count on $4 to $5 a day from their pay of 4 or 5 cents a pound.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Businessmen and law enforcement officials in this southern Massachusetts city of 10,000 are baffled by a teen-age phenomenon.

Every Thursday night, shopping night downtown, up to 3,000 youngsters of both sexes pour into the downtown area and promenade along the main streets.

There's no disorder. Police officials say youngsters just walk aimlessly up and down the sidewalks.

Boys look at girls. Girls look at boys. Everybody smiles, laughs, giggles, jokes and there's no trouble.

Nobody can figure out why the kids choose Thursday night or the purpose of the promenade. Some youngsters say simply "We like to meet people." A boy offers another explanation, "to try to pick up girls, what else?"

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Eight Pekingese have something that most Pekingese — or other dogs, for that matter — don't have: an inheritance.

The Pekingese receive $340 a month from the estate of their late mistress, Ethel Winder of Erie.

When Mrs. Winder died on June 14 at the age of 87, she specified that $30 a month be used for each pet to enable them "to continue to live in luxury the rest of their normal lives."

The Security Peoples Trust Co. of Erie is in charge of the funds, and the pets have been placed with Ann Smith of Erie, who received a separate bequest of $1,000.

Dearborn Vote Slated on Pay Hike for Mayor

DEARBORN (UPI) — The city council has agreed to place a proposal calling for a pay increase for the mayor on the Sept. 14 primary ballot.

The request is for the mayor's $17,500 yearly salary to be increased to $23,500 effective in 1968.

Mrs. Winder's will, filed for probate recently, granted substantial portions of her $150,000 estate to relatives, friends and organizations.

She was the widow of Navy Adm. William A. Winder, a nephew of Adm. George Dewey of Spanish-American War fame.

CHICAGO (AP) — About a year ago, James Cannon, Cambridge, Mass., noting the revival of interest in baroque music, decided to produce a harpsichord with modern engineering methods.

The result was an instrument of 20 basic parts that has a welded aluminum frame, wood sounding board, plastic keys and comes in a kit priced at $485. It can be assembled in 15 to 20 hours, Cannon said, and "most of that time is used to string and tune the instrument."

Cannon hopes "to raise a generation of harpsichordists" because the instrument "is relatively easy to play, to buy and to put together." The buyer needs only a wrench, screwdriver and pliers to produce a 49-string instrument with four string groups, or choirs.

Crash Fatal to Driver.

Camera Angles

A Revolution in Home Movies

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

There's nothing like finding out for yourself, so here's a report on the new Kodak Super 8mm home movie system from personal experience.

I've projected the results of my first three rolls of film and the Super 8 system proved conclusively to me its advantages in fumble-free loading, uninterrupted shooting and improved image quality.

First, let's repeat for the benefit of those whose attention has been elsewhere in recent months: There's been an atomic explosion in the 8mm home movie field.

Movie makers now have available an entirely new 8mm system: New cameras, new films, new projectors... the Super 8 system.

It features three important advantages: Quick and easy slip-in film cartridge loading; continuous shooting of the entire 50 feet of film with no need to stop and turn it over at midpoint; a 50 per cent larger image area for each individual frame.

SYSTEM OBSOLETE

To put it briefly, the new Super 8 system makes our present 8mm home movie system obsolete.

The new film can not be used in present cameras nor shown on the projectors we have. Nor can our library of accumulated 8mm movies be shown on the new projectors.

Because there are about eight million owners of present 8mm movie equipment, "old style" cameras, film and projectors will continue to be manufactured for many years to come.

It is also likely that projectors in the near future will be ingeniously designed so that they can accommodate both the old 8 and the new Super 8 format.

OUTDOOR TEST

But back to my Super 8 movies. I used the electric-eye, fixed-focus Instamatic M4 camera with f1.8 lens and tested it outdoors and indoors.

Loading it with film couldn't be easier — just a matter of slipping in a cartridge.

After that it was a case of sight the subject and shoot, since there was no focusing, no lens adjustment or any winding. It was electrically powered with four penlight batteries.

I had qualms only about the indoor shooting. The subject was my daughter's high school senior show photographed only by natural stage lighting.

By inserting a special key into the camera, a filter for daylight shooting was swung aside and the film's ASA speed of 40 for artificial light was utilized.

The electric eye took care of proper exposure while I concentrated only on selecting the show's highlights.

Says Civil Disobedience Harmful to U.S. Society

CHICAGO (AP) — The concept of "righteous civil disobedience" to achieve civil rights or other goals is "incompatible with the American legal system and society," says an American Bar Association official.

Morris I. Leibman, chairman of the organization's Committee on Education Against Communism, said in an article published in the current issue of the American Bar Association Journal: "I cannot accept the right to disobey when the law is not static and effective channels for change are constantly available."

The journal is the official journal for the bar association's 220,000 member-lawyers.

A leader in the civil rights movement, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., is an advocate of passive civil disobedience. Such demonstrations, King said Wednesday in Chicago, become "a weapon dramatizing the evils of injustice." He was here to confer with leaders of a continuing demonstration protesting alleged de facto racial segregation in the city's public schools.

SEMANTIC TRAPS

Leibman, a Chicago lawyer argued that the concepts of "freedom now" and "righteous civil disobedience" are "semantic traps and only add heat to the problems of freedom and justice for all."

Man, 2 Girls Killed in Crash

MONROE (AP)—A young man and two teen-age girls died Wednesday when two trucks collided near Dundee in Monroe County.

The victims were Phil Carleton, 24, Karen Borland, 14, and Colleen Riley, 15, all of Wayne. Carleton's truck and the other vehicle collided as Carleton was leaving the ramp off U.S. 23, sheriff's men said. Carleton and the girls were thrown from the truck.

The population of Hawaii has grown to 701,000 persons, of which only about 1.7 per cent are pure Hawaiian and some 15 per cent part Hawaiian.

News From Washington

'Food Aid to Egypt a Mistake'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd said today the United States is making a tragic mistake in resuming surplus food shipments to Egypt without demanding a halt to what Dodd called President Gamal Abdel Nasser's anti-Jewish hate campaign.

Dodd, who helped prosecute Nazi war criminals at Nuremberg, said in a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate that the Egyptian propaganda campaign against the Jews is the most malevolent since the Hitler years.

The Connecticut Democrat added: "I believe that it was a tragic mistake to give this aid to Nasser without conditions of any kind."

President Johnson recently lifted a ban to permit fulfillment of a 1963 contract with Egypt for delivery of the remaining $37 million in surplus foods to enable Nasser to cope with grave domestic shortages.

Dodd said it would strongly improve U.S. posture throughout the world to make any further aid to Nasser contingent on his behaving peacefully.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington said today that Communist China's two atomic explosions were a dangerous development that "have gone a long way toward changing the power structure of the world."

Many experts believe Red China will have ballistic missiles with nuclear warheads by 1970, the Missouri Democrat said in a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate.

They also believe that, because of the sophistication of these original explosions, the Red Chinese are only a few years away from production of hydrogen bombs," Symington added.

Symington, a former Air Force secretary, said he did not know what should be done about "this dangerous development."

TEXAS VISITORS—President Johnson is surrounded by a group of youngsters as he returned to the White House after a stroll around the grounds. The touring group broke out in song: "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon

Ohio House OKs Disability Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio, "the mother of presidents" — including the assassinated William McKinley — is close to becoming the first state to decide whether an acting president should replace a disabled chief executive.

Just one day after Congress gave final approval, the Ohio House overwhelmingly endorsed a proposal to install the vice president as acting president if the president is too sick or injured to do his job.

The proposal — which would become the 25th Amendment to the U. S. Constitution if finally approved by 38 states — is designed to avoid the kind of lapse in presidential command that occurred when McKinley was shot in Buffalo, N.Y., in 1901.

McKinley — one of the eight presidents Ohio sent to the White House — lingered for 10 days after anarchist Leon F. Czolgosz pumped two bullets into him from a pistol concealed in a handkerchief.

ON SPEAKING TOUR

McKinley was on a speaking tour in Buffalo, N.Y.

Vice President Theodore Roosevelt, on a vacation trip in the Adirondacks, didn't arrive in Buffalo until after McKinley died and was then sworn in as president.

While there were no dire consequences in 1901, federal officials fear a similar occurrence in the nuclear age could be disastrous.

"We have neither perfected the provisions for orderly continuity in the executive direction of our system nor, as yet, paid the price our continuing inaction so clearly invites and so recklessly risks," said President Johnson last January in proposing a constitutional amendment.

HEADED FOR HEARING

Although the Ohio House acted quickly with a 119-7 vote of approval Wednesday, the proposed amendment appeared headed for hearing in the state Senate before final action which is not expected before next week.

In Colorado, Gov. John A. Love said that state's legislature — meeting next week on other matters — would also have a chance to act on the presidential disability amendment.

The proposed amendment provides that the vice president would become acting chief executive if the president advises Congress he is unable to discharge his duties.

When the president sent word to Congress that he was able to resume his powers of office, the vice president would step down again.

WRITTEN DECLARATION

If a president refused or was too ill to declare himself disabled, a majority of the Cabinet or such other body as Congress might later set up could send a written declaration to Congress that he was disabled. The vice president would then become acting president.

This provision caused some expressions of concern in the Senate that an unscrupulous vice president some day might use the amendment to grasp the presidency. Sponsors of the measure argued that was highly unlikely. In a case where a president was involuntarily declared disabled, he could regain his powers by advising Congress his disability was ended. But this could be challenged within four days by the vice president and a majority of the Cabinet or other designated body.

Six-City Study Set on Public Welfare

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study of public welfare programs in six big cities will start July 12.

The study, announced Wednesday by the Welfare Department, will be conducted in Philadelphia, Atlanta, Cleveland, Minneapolis, New Orleans and Los Angeles.

It will deal with how the big city departments of public welfare are handling the problems of the poor.

Little Men in Flying Saucers Are Back, and the Loch Ness Monster Is Prowling Again

LONDON (AP)—The flying saucer season has opened. So has the Loch Ness monster season.

Within the last few days, strange objects have been reported from France, Argentina and Warrminster in England's County Wiltshire.

The Loch Ness monster, reported seen by two Scottish brothers, is so familiar to residents around Loch Ness that it's affectionately known as Nessie.

At least five persons saw the thing at Warrminster. They agreed it was a "fiery object" glowing in the southern sky after a heavy rain.

SPOTTED BY PAIR

Last night Harold Horlock and his wife, Dora, spotted the thing. "It was very frightening," said Mrs. Horlock. It sharpened into focus high up and looked just like two red-hot poker—ones on top of the other."

"It was as plain as could be," said her husband. "It stopped still in the sky for at least 10 minutes.

Colin Hampton, 18, and his friend Michael Fraser, 20, also said they saw the thing.

LOUD NOISES

Others reported hearing loud high-pitched noises overhead. From Argentina yesterday came a report of a mysterious flying object seen in the Antarctic during the weekend.

Gendarmes in Valensole, France, said they were investigating a farmer's report that he saw a mysterious aircraft taking off from one of his fields. Maurice Masse, 42, the farmer, said the object resembled a large football with four metal legs.

Masse said the metal legs left marks in his field. He also told the gendarmes he saw a small human form near the object. "Suddenly," Masse said, "the craft took off and disappeared in the sky. I couldn't believe my eyes."

"We don't think it was a gag," a gendarme said.

Destination Moon — III

Future Projects Hatching in Space Center

By AL ROSSITER JR.
SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Inside building No. 30, a group of men and machines controlled America's greatest space drama, the four-day voyage of Gemini 4.

In this same building four years from now, it also goes as planned, another group will be keeping track of the first U.S. manned landing on the moon.

Here, about 15 miles southeast of downtown Houston, is the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Manned Spacecraft Center.

It is one of five impressive space bases reaching across the Southern tier of states to Cape Kennedy by way of New Orleans, Hancock County, Miss., and Huntsville, Ala.

All play a major role in the fantastic Apollo mission initiated by President Kennedy in 1961.

PROJECT HEART
But the heart of Project Apollo, and the forerunning Gemini program, lies behind the ultramodern concrete and glass walls of the campus-like manned spacecraft center (MSC) here.

It is here the vast American manned spaceflight program is coordinated, its astronauts live and are trained, and the sophisticated spacecraft that will carry man deep into space are tested.

Four years ago, the area was flat grazing land populated by cattle, deer and rattlesnake. Land that only a few years ago was selling for $300 an acre as being priced recently as high as $10,000 an acre.

NASA accepted 1,000 acres donated by Rice University, purchased another 620 acres and moved here in 1961. Its original staff of 700 was temporarily housed in makeshift quarters in Houston and at nearby Ellington Air Force Base.

WORKERS SETTLED
Construction is still under way, but most of the sprawling center is completed and its 5,000-man work force settled.

The Gemini 4 flight of astronauts James McDivitt and Edward White last month brought worldwide attention to MSC, or "NASA" as it is known locally. It was the first time an American manned space shot had been controlled away from Cape Kennedy.

But just as important is the quieter work going on preparing for the biggest mission of them all, the first Apollo moonshot.

Many of the center's futuristic buildings are devoted to training America's 34 astronauts for upcoming flights and to development and testing of the Apollo ship and its components.

EXHAUSTIVE TESTS
The entire eight-year Apollo program is keyed to an exhaustive series of ground tests, item by item, under conditions as close as possible to those found in space. No longer are rockets and payloads shot into basin.

"We believe that the space age has advanced to the point where the designs can be accomplished and tested almost entirely on the ground," said Dr. Joseph F. Shea, Apollo program manager.

"We expect the problems encountered in flight to be significantly fewer than in the recent past when we were learning how to design for the rigors of the space environment."

"The work is hard, demanding, detailed and very often mundane," he said.

GIANT MACHINE
The most impressive of all the testing equipment at the complex is a giant vacuum chamber that is big enough to swallow the entire 50-foot tall three-section Apollo spacecraft.

The stainless steel chamber, 128 feet high and 65 feet in diameter, has sun lamps that will reproduce the 280-degree heat moonships will feel from the sun in space.

And the chamber will be able to chill a spacecraft at the 280-degree below zero temperatures it will encounter in the sun's shadow.

In another building nearby, engineers are assembling a whirling gondola that will rotate as fast as 42 times a minute to produce gravity forces up to 28 to 30 times that of earth.

SPACE CONDITIONS
The gondola, mounted on the end of a 56-foot arm, will have room for three men, Apollo-style couches and an Apollo instrument panel. Astronauts will be able to manipulate the cabin as they would during launch and reentry and feel the same accelerations.

Since the first manned spacecraft Center are trying to duplicate the effects as much as possible on earth.

They even have constructed a piece of lunar-like real estate for practice. This mock moon-scape, sitting in the middle of a grass field, consists of a football field-sized mound of jagged volcanic rock molded to produce a crater about 40 feet wide and 15 feet deep with several smaller craters nearby.

With the help of specially rigged cables, engineers wearing space suits are able to move about the area weighing about what they would be on the moon where gravity is one-sixth that of earth.

OTHER BUILDINGS
Other building on the "campus" contain various laboratories, computer centers and offices. One large structure holds a fully equipped shop where craftsmen build spacecraft mockups and produce special equipment, such as the jet gun astronaut White used during his famous walk in space June 3.

Shea, the Apollo chief, predicts that all the ground testing and development will pay off with the United States landing two men on the moon "comfortably before the end of the decade."

He said after the successful completion of the McDivitt-White mission that there are "no outstanding problems" facing Project Apollo and that the original $20-billion estimated cost of the program "still holds."

NASA's present schedule calls for the first full-scale unmanned flight of an Apollo spacecraft early next year atop a Saturn-IB rocket launched at Cape Kennedy.

3-MAN MISSION
The first three-man earth orbital Apollo mission, using a Saturn-IB, is scheduled for early 1967.

The first flight of an unmanned Apollo spacecraft atop a 7.5-million pound thrust Saturn-5, the giant booster that will make the manned moon flights, is scheduled for 1967 with a manned flight with a Saturn-5 set for 1968.

The first manned Apollo flights in earth orbit will be aimed at developing the techniques needed for a lunar voyage — particularly meeting and hooking up the bug-like craft that will land on the moon and return its two lunar explorers to the mother ship for the flight back to earth.

Rays to Probe Egypt Pyramid

Electronic Instruments Will Study Interior

CAIRO (AP) — By means of cosmic rays, scientists hope to find out if the Cheops pyramid contains passages or chambers not yet discovered by archeologists.

Prof. Pathi Bedewi of El-Shams University is collaborating by mail with Dr. Luis W. Alvarez of California's Lawrence Radiation Laboratory to set up electronic instruments inside the pyramid that is 481 feet high.

The project is designed to measure cosmic rays falling on the huge structure, said Bedewi, and "by simple computation, we will be able to determine whether the pyramid contains any cavities or passages not known to us."

Cosmic rays, Bedewi said, are strong enough to penetrate the limestone blocks of the pyramid, and computing machines measuring the rays will reveal its structure.

POSSIBLE FINDS
"We may not find anything, but at least we will make it definite that the pyramid contains no more than is already known," he said. "Or we may discover the original entrance of the great monument."

Bedewi, a British-trained nuclear physicist with a Ph.D. from Liverpool University, is 42 years old. The Great Pyramid is 4,500.

"I have no knowledge of archeology, but we are placing science in its service," he said. "Simply, our technique is analogous to the X-ray system, but with one difference. Strong cosmic rays will take the place of X rays, which would not be at all effective with huge stone blocks."

Two chambers — the burial rooms of Cheops and his queen — are known, and some archeologists believe there may be others inside the pyramid.

State Water Levels Higher Than 1964

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's ground water levels, which took a customary summer drop last month, were higher than a year ago but still below average during June, the U.S. Geological Survey reports.

Of 17 key wells, only the one in Roscommon County was above average level during June. Only two wells continued their spring rise — in Mason and Marquette counties.

The survey said no further rises are expected until the end of the growing season next fall.

Junior Editors Quiz on HARMONICAS

Question: Can you tell me how to play the harmonica?

Answer: All we can do is to give you the general idea, so that with a bit of persistence you should be able to teach yourself to play. Harmonicas have a set of square openings; inside are metal reeds which make one sound as you blow in, and another as you suck out.

The great trick is to be able to blow in or suck out through only one opening at a time. To do this, cover holes to left with your tongue and have the edge of your mouth cover those to the right, so only one square hole remains open.

Move machine back and forth getting right opening for each note needed. To get chord accompaniment, lift up tongue with regular beat, allowing chord reeds at left to sound.

It helps to make a cardboard mask, as shown, with opening cut out. Put this over the front of the harmonica, blowing through or sucking back to find which opening gives which note.

First, find out where the scale is, such as lower C, then D, E, F, G, A, B and higher C. Become expert playing this scale in clear single notes and then you can pick out the ones you need to play tunes with.

Players often arch their two hands around the back of the harmonica to get a deeper, more musical sound. Holding the harmonica over a glass also helps.

FOR YOU TO DO: Stick with your harmonica until you've learned the location of each note—then suddenly you'll be playing tunes. You'll find it fun.

Works Hard for Present

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Fellow workers of Dean Harrel, employee of a cabinetmaking firm here, used their professional talents in wrapping a gift for Harrel and Wilma Bickland, his bride-to-be.

They constructed the package of wood, sealed with woodworking glue and fastened with extra-heavy nails and screws.

The prospective groom spent most of the evening at a pre-wedding gathering whacking away with hammer and chisel before he finally got it open. The hard-earned present was an electric mixer.

Average life expectancy in the United States is now 69.9 years, according to the government's National Center for Health Statistics. The life expectancy for females is 73.4 years; for males, 66.6 years.

Mishap Fatal to Stunt Man

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) — Veteran stunt flier Paul Mantz was killed today in the crash of a makeshift airplane, built — according to the movie script — from wreckage of a real plane that crashed in the desert.

Another oldtime stunt man, Wally Rose, 64, was injured seriously.

The filming of "The Flight of the Phoenix" was under way when the aircraft, actually little more than a flying wing, suddenly nosed over in a low third pass before the cameras and ploughed into the white sand.

The crash took place in Buttercup Valley, Calif., 17 miles west of Yuma.

Mantz, 61, test flew the craft yesterday and said later: "It flies well but it's a little nose heavy."

Rose, who once was a "wing walker" in Tex Rankin air shows, was standing beside Mantz, giving advice in piloting the craft.

A spokesman at Parkview Baptist Hospital in Yuma, where Rose was taken, said he suffered head injuries and possibly internal injuries.

The movie stars James Stewart, Richard Attenborough, Peter Finch, Ernest Borgnine and Hardy Kruger, but none was present.

Lake Erie Highway Proposed to Connect Ohio and Canada

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The first step in Gov. James A. Rhodes' proposal to build a highway across Lake Erie will be a study to determine whether there would be enough traffic to justify the great expense.

Rhodes had barely announced his idea Wednesday before criticism and skepticism arose.

A. G. Lencione, Ohio House Democratic leader and an announced candidate for governor, accused Rhodes of operating "a haphazard highway program by press release." He contended the Lake Erie highway idea was "proposed as a cover-up for existing highway failures" and questioned the feasibility of such a road.

Across the lake in Ontario, highway officials seemed surprised they hadn't been contacted before any announcement.

"I would have thought anyone seriously considering a project like this would consult people who are 50 per cent interested in it," said A. T. C. McNab, deputy minister of the Highway Department in Ontario Province.

But Rhodes' announcement caught even Ohio highway planners by surprise. One top engineer learned of it from a news broadcaster.

Apparently, only Highway Director P. E. Masheter had been forewarned. Rhodes ordered Masheter's department to study the feasibility of a causeway connecting Ohio and Canada and the possibility of Canada and United States government help in paying for it.

Johnson Tells Choice for Development Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Albert H. Moesman is slated to be assistant administrator in the Agency for International Development.

Lifer's Sentence Is Commuted by the Governor

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney Wednesday commuted the life sentence of 36-year-old Roosevelt Williams, who has spent more than half of his life in prison.

Williams was sentenced Dec. 20, 1945, in Detroit Recorder's Court for the fatal shooting of a woman during an armed robbery. He will be eligible immediately for parole.

Williams was convicted for the holdup slaying of Mrs. Victoria Len, 63.

Another man, Willie Galloway, had been convicted earlier in the death of Mrs. Len. Galloway later was freed from prison following a new trial.

Truce Gained in State-U.S. Sign Riff

WASHINGTON (AP)—A stop-gap arrangement was worked out Wednesday to permit the ending of some new highway construction contracts in Michigan.

It was the outgrowth of a meeting by Michigan state legislators and other state leaders with officials of the Bureau of Public Roads on the question of banning commercial signs on rights-of-way in Michigan.

As a result of the controversy, the Michigan Highway Department has stopped awarding some new contracts in case federal funds would not be available to pay for part of the work.

It grew out of a ruling in the spring by the Michigan Supreme Court which overturned a 1925 state anti-sign law.

million in highway work which had been halted because of the controversy will be resumed as a result of the meeting. Rex M. Whitton, federal highway administrator, explained that federal law requires all states receiving highway funds to have laws prohibiting commercial signs on actual rights-of-way. This does not involve signs on farm or other land beyond the rights-of-way.

THE MAKING OF THE PRESIDENT 1964. By Theodore H. White. Atheneum. $4.95.

White has written a book about the 1964 campaign that matches the quality of his impressive, popular, prize-winning volume of the 1960 race.

It is interesting that only the final quarter of the book is concerned with the actual Johnson-Goldwater race. The real meaning of the campaign has been reached at the point of Goldwater's nomination.

White begins with a brief but vivid account of the Kennedy assassination; and although the story has been told and retold, seldom has it been recorded with such moving eloquence.

The author goes deeply into the divisions of the Republican party, the nature of Goldwater's early strategy, the bitterness of the primary struggles in New Hampshire, Oregon and California, the role of "The Eastern Establishment" and the frustrations which plagued the late efforts of the Republican governors.

SPECIAL AGENT. By Frank J. Wilson and Beth Day. Holt, Rinehart. $4.95.

Wilson's career began as a tax agent and ended with his presiding over the U.S. Secret Service from 1936 to 1946. His most famous headlines of the memoir covers some of the period.

He began at the time of World War I, searching out the bigger operators of the black market in food.

Some of the most interesting passages in the book describe how he led a crew of agents that closed in on Scarface Al Capone and on mob lawyer Huey (Kingfish) Long.

Wilson helped in the Lindbergh kidnapping affair and helped a tax case against Louisiana's Huey (Kingfish) Long.

If Wilson had been more articulate, the book would have been more dramatic and impactful. The writing plods through a great deal of small detail that slows up the more significant aspects of Wilson's career.

INTERIM. By Doctor X. Harper. $5.95.

This is the first-person documentary record of the crucial year in a doctor of medicine's training. It reveals, far behind the scenes, some things that are frightening to a layman.

But it also depicts the rugged courage with which a freshly graduated medical student can go through his baptism of fire as a hospital intern.

The author poured into a recorder the running record of his internship. It happened "some years ago" at an unidentified hospital, and all the private identities have been disguised.

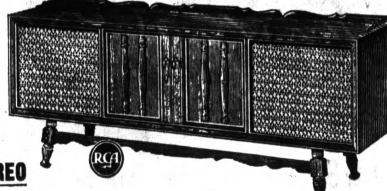

He pours out a whole torrent of examples and case histories that he saw in medicine, surgery, obstetrics, orthopedics, pediatrics and the emergency room. There are a few examples of really serious blunders, and others less serious; but there are also some cases of adroit rescue.

It is a book with a wallop. Possibly it is disturbing. As a revelatory document of a little-known world, it is highly welcome.

Traveling Makes People Hungry

BY JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor
The Fourth is behind us, but there are still two months of vacation left. How many times in the coming weeks will you pack the family in the car for a day's drive?

Going to Grandma's; a trip to the vacation spot; or just a day's jaunt for the family—for any one, the problem of food must be settled.

It's expensive to take the whole family into a restaurant for lunch. And, let's face it; sometimes, no one is dressed for this kind of stop. It's much easier to take food along and eat at a roadside stop.

If you have a picnic icebox, use it for foods that must be kept cold.

A plastic bag full of celery, carrot and cucumber sticks is easy to prepare before your departure and furnishes nibble food for everyone while you're getting the meal ready.

Plan for as much finger food as possible and keep away from anything drippy. Pack large size paper napkins and-or a roll of paper toweling.

If you have even a small bottle of water, you can see that hands are washed before eating and hands and face after the lunch.

There is little limit to your choice of foods if you carry ice. You can make meat or meat sandwiches and keep them chilled; deviled eggs will travel safely with ice. So will milk.

If you don't want to bother with the refrigerator, or don't have one, there are many lunch foods to take.

If your family likes quick breads, make a loaf of this pineapple bread the day before you leave.

Either make sandwiches with just butter in them or take the loaf along and cut and butter each slice when you stop for lunch. Peanut butter will taste good with this bread too.

Pineapple Island Bread
2½ cups sifted flour
¾ cup sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt

¾ cup wheat germ
1 (8½-ounce) can crushed pineapple
1 beaten egg
¾ cup butter
¾ cup milk

Resift flour with sugar, baking powder and salt. Stir in wheat germ. Add undrained crushed pineapple and all remaining ingredients. Mix until thoroughly blended; batter will be stiff.

Turn into greased and floured 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Let stand 15 minutes. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 55 to 60 minutes until loaf tests done.

Cool in pan 10 minutes then turn out on rack. Makes 1 loaf.

CHICKEN

You can fry chicken at home—even days before your trip—and freeze it. By noon time the drumsticks, etc. should thaw and be ready for eating. There is no danger in carrying it this way. Plain buttered rolls go well with chicken.

Cheese sandwiches are safe to carry without refrigeration. Cream cheese will last a morning. Perhaps this version will delight your family.

Golden Gate Delight
3-oz. package cream cheese
1 tablespoon top milk or cream
1 medium orange, ground
½ cup shredded coconut
Soften cheese with milk or cream. Add orange and coconut and mix until well blended. Makes enough filling for six sandwiches.

If you can't carry milk, take along canned drinks or cold drink mix. A gallon vacuum bottle full of ice water is all you need for on-the-spot mixing.

Popcorn lollipops are fine for snacks or for dessert.

Why not let the youngsters make these themselves the day before your trip? Of course, if they eat them all the first day, they'll have to make another batch or go without.

Popcorn Lollipops
¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ lb. marshmallows
¼ teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon cinnamon few drops red food coloring

1 pkg. ready-to-pop corn
12 candy sticks
Put butter and marshmallows in pan over hot water. Cover. Heat until marshmallows are melted. Add vanilla, spices, food coloring.

Prepare popcorn according to directions on package. Put popped corn into greased bowl. Pour over marshmallow mixture.

Shape into 12, 3" rounds, about 1" thick. Insert candy stick in each popcorn pattie.

Booklet Tells How to Fix Lake Fish

New methods of achieving culinary magic in preparing fish from the Great Lakes are offered in a publication just released by the Department of the Interior's Bureau of Commercial Fisheries.

The publication, Fish Recipes from the Great Lakes, Circular 201, is available for 25 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C. 20540.

Bureau home economists developed 24 new recipes and serving ideas for yellow perch, catfish, whitefish, pickerel, smelt, buffalo and other species from the Great Lakes. Illustrations are in color.

Punches Are Cooling

Tall tinkling glasses of fruit drinks are now in season. So enjoy them in good health.

Fresh Orange-Pineapple Punch
Peelings from 1 medium pineapple
Peelings from 1 fresh orange
8 whole cloves
¼ cup sugar
1 quart boiling water
½ cup fresh orange juice
½ cup fresh lemon juice
Fresh mint
Fresh orange wedges

Wash pineapple peeling thoroughly. Place in a container with orange peel, cloves and sugar. Add boiling water. Cover.

Let stand overnight. Strain and add orange and lemon juices. Serve over ice garnished with fresh mint and orange wedges. Makes 5 cups.

Cranberry Rose
2 cups cranberry juice cocktail, chilled
1 can (6 ounces) frozen pink lemonade, undiluted
½ teaspoon almond extract
Cranberry ice cubes and lemon slices

Mix cranberry juice with pink lemonade and almond extract. When ready to serve add club soda and cranberry ice cubes. Garnish with lemon slices. (To make ice cubes, pour equal amounts of cranberry juice and water into cube tray and freeze until firm.) Serves 4 to 6.

POPCORN LOLLIPOPS—Here's a sweet that travels well, doesn't get messy and appeals to the young. Popcorn lollipops on flav-

Mexican-American

Tortillas Hold Kraut, Hot Dogs

Mexican cuisine, like that of most countries, has been influenced by history. Contrary to popular belief, it is not always searingly hot and overly spicy.

The Indians lived on dishes prepared from corn, beans, peppers and a few other plants native to Mexico, along with fish and game. Later the Spanish conquerors introduced rice, wine and olive oil, which were quickly adopted by Mexican cooks.

Other European food eventually appeared and was integrated, producing a truly cosmopolitan cuisine.

Skilful blending of flavors is characteristic of tasty South-of-the-Border foods.

Although distinctive in their own right, they harmonize successfully with our foods and serving even one Mexican dish can turn a dull meal into an interesting and appealing one.

Mexican Kraut Round Dogs combine two favorite American foods, kraut and frankfurters, with three favorite Mexican ones, tortillas, corn and peppers, to form a delicious and delightfully different dish.

Mexican Kraut Round Dogs
1 medium onion, chopped
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
4 cups drained sauerkraut
1 can (10½-ounces) Marinara sauce
8 canned or frozen tortillas
Sauté oil
8 green pepper rings
8 frankfurters
1 can (8 ounces) whole kernel corn, heated and drained
In saucepan, sauté onion in butter until golden. Add kraut and marinara sauce; mix well. Cover and cook over low heat 30 minutes.

Fry tortillas in 1-inch hot oil until crisp; drain on paper towels. Fry green pepper rings 1 minute and drain.

Make 10 slits in each frankfurter taking care not to cut all the way through. Brown on both sides.

Top each tortilla with kraut, round dog, then green pepper ring. Fill center of round dog with corn.

Note: To reheat round dogs, place on baking sheet and set in 350 degree (moderate) oven 10 minutes.

Skillet Cook Corn, Squash and Tomatoes

Beautiful colors and delicious flavors make an attractive vegetable dish to serve during the summer. Western fresh vegetables filled with flavor are important for best results.

The subtle touch of herbs adds highlights to the "Quick Symphony of Vegetables." It is an excellent barbecue dish made in the electric skillet and takes about 8-10 minutes to cook.

Quick Symphony of Vegetables
¼ cup butter or oil
1 small onion, diced
2 ears fresh corn
3 zucchini
2 medium tomatoes
¼ teaspoon ground coriander
¼ teaspoon dried oregano
salt and pepper to taste

Wash vegetables. Melt butter over medium heat, or 365 degrees in an electric skillet. Add diced onion and sauté.

Remove husk and silk from corn and cut kernels off the cob. Scrap the cob to get all the milk from the kernels. Add to onion. Cut zucchini in thin slices; add to mixture.

Cut tomatoes into quarters and add to the mixture along with coriander, crushed oregano, salt and pepper. Cook only about 8 minutes, or until the raw taste has disappeared from the zucchini. Makes 4 servings.

Grape Cherry Drink Cools, Refreshes

Thirst-quenching and jiffy-quick to make, sparkling Cherry Grape Refresher will be a welcome beverage. It's festive when served over cracked ice and garnished with cherries and lime slices.

Cherry Grape Refresher
1 can (6 ounces) frozen grape juice concentrate, thawed
¼ cup maraschino cherry syrup
¼ cup lime juice
3 bottles (7 ounces each) ginger ale
Whole red maraschino cherries
Lime slices

Prepare grape juice according to can directions. Combine grape juice, cherry syrup, lime juice and ginger ale. Serve over cracked ice, garnished with cherries and lime slices. Makes about 1½ quarts.

MEXICAN KRAUT DOGS—An increase in food from Mexico prompted these Mexican Kraut Round Dogs. Made from crisp tortillas, crunchy kraut, juicy curled frankfurters, corn and green pepper, they offer a delightful new dish.

CHEESEBURGER HEROES—Teens will enjoy making this sandwich as much as they will like eating this party treat which combines ground beef, spices and velvety evaporated milk.

Teens Enjoy Enormous Heroes

Shouts of, "No more pencils and no more books..." mean that teen parties will be held more often while school is recessed and homework forgotten for a few months. Indoors or out, nowadays when young people get together chances are there will be lots of guitar music and singing and good food to eat.

If a teen party is scheduled for your home during summer vacation, you may find this refreshment suggestion helpful when planning what to serve. It is called Teen Velvet Cheeseburger Heroes—a long name for two long sandwiches that serve six.

Boys and girls especially like this type sandwich because they can share in the fun of making it. Strips of bacon, tomato and onion slices and pickles should be provided so that the guests can add whatever they want.

Naturally, what goes into the hamburger is just as important as what goes on top.

In this recipe the ground beef is combined with an assortment of seasonings, bread crumbs and velvety evaporated milk to make the patties juicy yet firm-textured.

Besides making hamburgers more delicious, convenient-to-use evaporated milk is an economical basis for punches, sauces, ice cream and other recipes where milk or cream is an ingredient.

Teen Velvet Cheeseburger Heroes

1 pound ground beef
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
½ cup undiluted velvety evaporated milk
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon Worcestershire
½ teaspoon oregano
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon garlic powder
6 slices American cheese
2 loaves Italian bread, about 15-inches long
Sweet onion rings
Tomato slices
12 slices cooked bacon

Mix together beef, bread crumbs, evaporated milk, lemon juice, Worcestershire, oregano, salt, pepper and garlic powder; form into 6 patties.

Broil 4 inches from heat source, 5 minutes on each side, or until desired doneness. Place slice of cheese on each patty and broil until cheese has melted.

Meanwhile, slice bread loaves in half lengthwise. Allow three hamburgers per loaf.

Build sandwich with onion rings, tomato slices, then hamburgers with cheese. Top with bacon. Put tops of loaves back on and press firmly. Insert picks to hold heroes together. Slice each hero into thirds. Garnish with cherry tomatoes and gherkins on picks, or as desired. Makes 6 servings.

Using Egg Yolks

When egg yolks are leftover—after using the whites in a recipe—you can simmer them in hot water until they are firm. After cooking the yolks may be used in a salad dressing or as a sandwich filling, or they may be sieved and used as a garnish.

ture or food for a good closure to be made.

Packages should be labeled with: (1) the food; (2) the date packed; (3) type of pack; and (4) number of servings.

Melon Has Crown of Rich Salad

Designed mainly for bridge club luncheons and engagement parties, this cantaloupe, grape and chicken salad recipe could be served for dinner on a hot evening.

Despite its frilly looks it carries enough protein to make a light main course.

Fresh Grape, Cantaloupe and Chicken Salad

1 small fully-ripe cantaloupe
Iceberg lettuce
¼ cups Thompson seedless grapes
4 slices cold, cooked chicken or turkey (light or dark meat)
1 pkg. (3 oz.) cream cheese
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
½ teaspoon grated fresh lemon peel
1/16 teaspoon salt

Wash cantaloupe and cut in half crosswise. Remove seeds and stringy portion. Cut in crosswise slices 1-inch thick and cut off the rind.

Cut each slice in 1-inch wedges for easy eating. Arrange each slice in a ring on individual salad plates on lettuce.

Fill each center with ¼ cup washed and drained Thompson seedless grapes, over which arrange a slice of cold cooked chicken or turkey.

Combine cream cheese, mayonnaise, lemon juice, lemon peel and salt. Mix until fluffy. Cut ¼ cup of the grapes in half and add to the cheese mixture. Spoon over the chicken or turkey.

Top with remaining grapes. Serve as a main dish salad. Serves 4.

Fill Celery for Nibbling

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sweet mixed pickles add spice to stuffed celery for a party menu. Combine 1 (3 ounce) package of cream cheese, 1 (4½ ounce) can of deviled ham, ¼ teaspoon of prepared mustard and ½ cup of chopped sweet mixed pickles.

Cut 8 medium stalks of celery in short lengths. Fill each with pickles mixture and chill. Dust with paprika if desired. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Zippy Mayonnaise Made Quickly

These additions to mayonnaise perk it up.

Savory Mayonnaise
1 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons chili sauce
4 teaspoons prepared horseradish
2 teaspoons chives, fresh or freeze-dried
1 teaspoon paprika

Thoroughly mix together all the ingredients; refrigerate for 1 hour or longer to allow flavors to blend.

Garlic Powder Put in Batter Bread

Built-in garlic flavor distinguishes this Garlic Casserole Bread from others to which the garlic is added after baking in the form of a flavored spread.

This simple batter bread requires neither kneading nor shaping, and is baked in an ordinary casserole or — for extra glamour — in a tube pan.

Serve it warm, wrapped in a gay towel, and brush each slice with melted margarine or butter. An excellent accompaniment for salad meals.

Garlic Casserole Bread
1 cup milk

3 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons margarine
1 cup warm water (105-115 degrees)

2 packages or cakes yeast, active dry or compressed
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
4 cups unfluffed flour

Scald milk; stir in sugar, salt and margarine; cool to lukewarm. Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture.

Add garlic powder and flour; stir to blend, then beat until well blended, about 5 minutes. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, about 40 minutes or until more than doubled in bulk.

Stir down. Beat vigorously, about ½ minute. Turn into greased 8-inch tube pan. Bake immediately in moderate oven (375 degrees) about 1 hour or until done.

Serve warm, with melted margarine to be brushed on if desired. Makes one large loaf.

Black-Out Pilot Tells of Crash

Hypnosis Used in Copter Quiz

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The pilot was blameless but he thought it was his fault—that's why he lost all memory of the accident."

So says the psychologist the Civil Aeronautics Board credits with solving a recent helicopter crash and opening a new way to get the facts from accident survivors through hypnosis.

"Investigation showed the aircraft fell because of structural failure—not anything the pilot did or failed to do," Chaytor Mason of the University of Southern California said Wednesday in an interview.

"The pilot, however, subconsciously believed that he somehow was responsible. To protect him from a feeling of guilt his mind refused to remember anything about the accident. It was a form of amnesia."

WAS COOPERATIVE

Mason said the pilot, whose name and employer were withheld by the CAB, agreed to hypnosis and was cooperative.

"Under hypnosis he recalled every detail, even to remembering the engine speeded up wildly — indicating it had somehow become disconnected from the rotor-blade driving mechanism — before the helicopter crashed."

Three other persons were in the crash, date and location of which were not disclosed. They and the pilot suffered serious, but not fatal, back injuries on impact.

"Normally people are too dazed to recall such details but this pilot was able to do so under hypnosis," said Mason.

NEW SOURCE

"This means that aviation safety investigators have a rich new source of information from crash survivors — information which could help prevent similar accidents in the future."

Mason, a former Marine Corps fighter pilot who holds a master's degree in psychology from George Washington University in Washington, D.C., is a lecturer in aviation and missile psychology at USC.

He was approached by the CAB because of recent, secret military research involving pilots and hypnosis.

"Previous attempts to question survivors under the influence of the so-called truth serums have failed because drugs reduce a person's capacity to focus attention," he said.

Mason said the CAB had never used hypnosis before in crash investigations but probably will in the future. He says it has been tried experimentally in Air Force investigations and once revealed that one flight instructor's inability to remember anything about a crash was due to the fact that he had gone to sleep.

Missile Removal May Stir W. Germans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department plans to withdraw 90 nuclear armed Mace-A missiles from Europe in the coming year, it was learned today.

Dispersed in central Germany, the U.S. Air Force winged missiles have been aimed at military targets beyond the Iron Curtain on a round-the-clock alert for several years.

They have figured importantly in the war-detering strategy of the Allied Command in Europe.

Though they may be obsolete, their removal could cause controversy in Europe, where the Germans are sensitive about any reduction in American strength and the French tend to adopt an "I told you so" attitude about any cuts.

Pentagon leaders apparently reason now, however, that the missions of these "pitiless" bombers can be performed by the smaller but growing numbers of U.S. Army Pershing ballistic missiles in Europe.

LESS VULNERABLE

The Pershing is less vulnerable, and is shorter-ranged, but there has been thought of developing an extended range version.

Five Mace-A squadrons with 18 missiles each are involved in the pullout. They have headquarters at West Germany's Hahn and Sembach air bases.

A sixth squadron, equipped with the advanced and much longer-ranged Mace-B, is to stay in Germany. It has headquarters at Bittsburg Air Base and its missiles, unlike those being pulled out, are protected from enemy bombing by concrete shelters.

The Mace-A is a 650-mile-an-hour missile with a range of about 650 miles. The somewhat fast Mace-B, with a jam-proof inertial guidance system, has a range of more than 1,300 miles.

PREDECESSOR

The predecessor missile, called Matador, was first deployed in Germany in 1954 and replaced by the Mace during the last five years.

Whereas the Pershing ballistic missile is a descendant of the World War II German V2, the Mace is related to the German V1 winged "buzz bomb" used to bombard London.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara made no mention of the Mace in the published version of his annual defense statement to Congress this year.

The chief exports of Costa Rica are coffee, bananas and cacao. Major domestic crops for consumption are corn, beans and rice.

NY Hit With New Water Curbs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — New York City, in the grip of a severe drought, has been ordered to cut its use of Delaware River water and also release water from its dams as part of a four-state water emergency declaration.

At a meeting here Wednesday, the Delaware River Basin Commission declared the 30-day water emergency immediately for the states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware. The commission directed New York City to reduce its consumption of Delaware water by 75 million gallons a day.

The commission, made up of representatives of the four states and of the United States Department of the Interior, also ordered New York to release 200 million gallons of water daily from its dams in the western Catskills.

The action was to help maintain the flow of fresh water in the Delaware estuary in efforts to save the Philadelphia and Camden, N.J., water supplies from the imminent threat of salt contamination.

The water supply in the Delaware River Basin serving more than 20 million persons is extremely short for the fourth

Youth Arrested in Blast Attempt Pleads Guilty

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A 17-year-old youth, who police say tried to rig a teacher's automobile to explode, has pleaded guilty as a youthful offender and has been placed on probation.

Parke Reeves of Guilfordland was indicted on a charge of attempted first-degree assault but County Court Judge Martin Schenck allowed him to plead guilty to the lesser charge.

Reeves was arrested last March after John T. Ryan, a driver-training teacher, discovered a detonating device in the gasoline tank of his automobile. It had malfunctioned.

Reeves told police he resented a remark Ryan had made about his driving ability.

straight year of far-below-normal rainfall. The state of emergency runs to Aug. 10, but can be extended, and, if necessary, tightened.

The emergency action was the first by the commission since its creation in 1961 under the Delaware River Compact, a joint venture of the four states and the federal government aimed at developing the area's water resources.

New York City has been diverting an average of 410 million gallons a day from its reservoirs in the upper basin.

The commission directed that, effective Friday, the total diversion must not exceed 335 million gallons a day on the average over the next 30 days.

MORE STRINGENT

Armand D'Angelo, New York City water commissioner who angrily insisted that the city had not stolen any Delaware River water, said the city could live with the new restrictions. He said they were basically what the city had proposed after rejecting what he termed a far more stringent plan submitted by the commission in Trenton, N.J. last week.

The commission, acting to stem the upstream creep of salt from the sea, also ordered the release of water from reservoirs in upper Pennsylvania.

New York City gets about half its water from the Delaware.

Under a 1954 U.S. Supreme Court ruling, New York City was allowed to draw 400 million gallons a day from the Delaware River basin, but was to return enough water to maintain a flow of 1,525 cubic feet per second at Montague, N.J. Downstream critics charged that New York was not releasing enough water to maintain the minimum river level required by the ruling. The level at Montague on July 6 was down to 590 cubic feet a second.

Pilot's Tale: Bombing... Bail-Out... Rescue

By HAL BOYLE

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — It all happened in 18 terrible minutes.

In that incredible fraction of an hour, a U.S. Air Force pilot napalm-bombed a target, his plane caught fire, he bailed out, landed in enemy territory and was plucked to safety by a passing Army helicopter.

BOYLE

"That's the only real emergency I've had in more than 4,000 hours in the air," said Capt. Edward F. Gallardo, 33, of Armstrong Creek, Wis.

F100 PILOT

Ed is a dark-haired, F100 pilot who stands 5 feet 5, and weighs only 137 pounds. His wife, Pat, and their five children — none of whom is more than 5 years old — live in Hampton, Va.

"We started with twins," said the captain. "Then our next two were born on Sept. 21, a year apart, so with our first four kids we only had to celebrate two birthdays."

"That's what you call real family planning."

The fighter pilot's battle ordeal came on a recent Sunday when he had to skip morning religious services because of an early mission.

35TH MISSION

The mission was his 35th in some 40 days.

"I was first of our flight in on the target, some Viet Cong emplacements 42 miles south of here," said Gallardo. "I came in fast at 50 to 100 feet above the ground."

"I pushed what we call the pickle button to release the napalm cans. Immediately, there was a loud explosion, and the cockpit filled with smoke. I didn't know whether I had been hit by ground fire, or something had gone wrong with the napalm."

"But I couldn't see out. My plane was on fire."

STARTS TO CLIMB

Instinctively, he put the plane into a climb.

"The smoke began to clear, but my plane was burning badly. I didn't know whether it would blow up or not. But you don't bail out over a target area if you can help it, and I headed toward the sea."

"I got up to 5,000 feet. At 8,000 feet, the speed began to bleed down. The plane started to roll. The controls had burned away. I had become just a passenger. I had to go."

The captain jettisoned his canopy, pulled his triggers and ejected.

FLOATS DOWN

"There was a big blast, and the next thing I knew I was floating down about 12 miles from the target area. It was a great view and I had plenty of time to think, but all I thought about was landing in a clear space."

Gallardo landed standing up between two houses in a native hamlet.

"I hit about 20 feet from a small boy," he said. "His eyes got big, he made a 180-degree turn and ran. I ran in the opposite direction toward a rice paddy, scattering dogs and chickens. I could be picked up there, but hide in the shrubbery around it if necessary."

Five planes circled protectively around his position and a parascout team scrambled at the base here to get him. But an Army helicopter crew, apprised of his plight, picked him up.

"I wasn't on the ground more than five minutes," said the captain.

That afternoon at 5 o'clock, the captain knelt at Mass in a chapel here.

Women Voters Dig for Facts, Write Book

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Women's Editor it's only 50 pages long and it will never make the best seller list. But to the women who worked for two years to get it into print, it is one of the most important books ever published.

"Know Your Oakland County Government," published by The League of Women Voters in Oakland County, is a factual description of "county government structure, duties, services and methods of performance."

Leagues in Pontiac, Birmingham, Bloomfield, Farmington, Pleasant Ridge, Rochester, Oak Park-Huntington Woods and Southfield cooperated to get the material and write the book.

TWO-YEAR TASK
It took two years of interviewing and writing. Funds came from the League and from some area businesses.

Mrs. Donald Hildrum, a member of the steering committee, says it is the only thing of its kind about the county and only one of two such books in the state; Wayne County leagues did a similar book.

LWV has been active in promoting home rule, and the organization's rules state that a study of government must be made before any league can study home rule.

Someone in every department in the county was interviewed for material in the book. What few publications are available were used.

LAWS, LAWS, LAWS

One of the biggest problems, says Mrs. Hildrum, was looking up all the laws governing a county.

The book is on sale for 50 cents, but the League has given a copy to all local governing bodies, to library and school boards and to junior and senior high schools.

The county board of Supervisors has ordered copies to give to teachers who take groups to the county building.

AUTHORS

Some 20 women helped the steering committee, but the ones who have seen the project through are Mrs. Robert Ankeny of Pontiac, Mrs. Hildrum, Rochester; Mrs. James Atkinson and Mrs. John Rumsey of Birmingham; Mrs. Robert Chambers of Pleasant Ridge; Mrs. John Frechling of Southfield and Mrs. Donald Roe of Huntington Woods.

Readers may obtain books by contacting Mrs. George Gray, East Yale Street, or Miss Lillian Davidson, Camley Street.

Mrs. Carl Black to Open Home
for Garden Club

Mrs. Carl B. Black of Bloomfield Hills will open her home for the July 19 luncheon meeting of the Little Garden Club of Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills.

Her assistants at the 11 a.m. gathering will be Mrs. P. N. Askounes and Mrs. L. C. Sherwood.

Members of this group recently toured the Grose Pointe gardens of Dr. Hugh Stalker, Mrs. Karl G. Behr, Mrs. George Villorot and those of the "Alger House."

For the Ewings

Country Club Fete
Followed Recent Rites

A reception and luncheon in Orchard Lake Country Club followed the recent marriage of Susan Elizabeth Adair to Stephen Ellsworth Ewing in the First Presbyterian Church, Birmingham.

Their parents are Dr. and Mrs. Robin Adair of Birmingham and the Rev. and Mrs. Ellsworth S. Ewing of St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. W. Glen Harris, who married the bride's parents, performed the noon ceremony, assisted by the bridegroom's father.

SISTER'S ATTENDANT

Ellen Adair was maid of honor for her sister who appeared in a chapel-length Empire gown of embroidered white silk organza.

A Swedish tiara of pearls cradled the bride's tiered veil of French illusion. She carried Stephanotis and ivy.

With Nancy Adair, her sister's bridesmaid, were Katherine Ewing, Alice Wesels, and Sharon Latham.

KATHLEEN ANN GOTHAM

County League of Women Voters members correct proofs on their recently published book, "Know Your Oakland County Government." From the left are Mrs. John Rumsey, Wing Lake Road; Mrs. James Atkinson, Mount Vernon Drive; Mrs. Robert Ankeny, Sylvan Lake; and Mrs. Donald Hildrum, Rochester. All worked on the committee that gathered material and wrote the book.

Doesn't Like Newsletter
From Would-Be Reporter

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A relative of mine has been sending me carbon copies of letters she sends to about five other people.

The letters all begin with a general greeting like, "Howdy, stranger," or "Hi, all!" When I write to her I write personal letters containing news that I think would interest her. But in return I get these "form letters," full of references to people I don't even know.

It's more like a newsletter or a diary. She has no children so she can't use that as an excuse for her carbon copies. She always closes with, "Why doesn't a nybody write to me?" Apparently the others on her mailing list are about as fed up with her carbon copies as I am. Should I tell her off or let it go? I'm holding off writing to her until I hear from you.

DEAR FED: Sit down and write this relative a letter telling her exactly what you think of her carbon copy "newsletters." Then tear it up.

The momentary satisfaction derived from "telling her off" would probably not be worth the regrets you'd have later. If her letters bore and irritate you, discard them unread. And don't bother to answer.

DEAR ABBY: We have always enjoyed a good reputation in town and now we are worried about what people will think and say.

Our 26-year-old son, a college graduate, is now employed by a large firm. He has a bright future.

He met and fell in love with a girl from another state, and he brought her home last weekend for us to meet as they plan to marry. She is 22, a pretty little thing, and so quiet and polite. We all fell in love with her.

Last evening our son told us there was "something" he wanted us to know. It seems the girl has a 4-year-old illegitimate son.

She made a mistake when she was younger and decided to keep the baby and raise it herself. With the help of her mother, she finished college.

Poconos Trip for Couple

Aboard a flight to a Pocono Mountain resort after recent candlelight vows and reception in the Gloria Dei Lutheran Church were Gilbert Ray Deckers (Christina Lynne Ratliff).

Their parents are the William D. Ratliff, Stowell Street and the Raymond E. Deckers, East Tennyson Avenue.

The bride's gown of appliqued nylon net featured a train of beehive lace. The couple will reside in the Grand Prix Apartments.

worked, and managed to do this.

When she and my son marry he wants to adopt the boy, and they will live in this town. My husband was horrified. I was shocked, but being a woman, I am more understanding. What should we tell people when she comes here with her child?

AFRAID TO TALK

DEAR ABBY: You owe the townspeople no explanations. They'll probably assume that the child is hers from a previous marriage. Let them assume it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO AP-PAILED IN APPLETON: Don't blame the children. It's practically impossible for youngsters to learn good manners when they rarely see any.

Her Name Is Susan

A daughter, Susan Lori, was born recently to the Murray Cohens (Rachel Thorne) of Rochester, New York.

Grandparents are Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Thorne of James K Boulevard and the Philip Cohens also of Rochester, N.Y.

A late-day costume contained in cardinal red and black brocade from Mollie Parnis' Fall 1965 collection. Its ring collar and side jet button closing are new "of this moment" features. It encloses a dress with side wrapped bodice above a skirt with tiny gathers.

Johnson Edward Januszko, son of the Edward J. Januszko of Biscayne Drive, White Lake Township, was graduated recently from Michigan State University school of hotel, restaurant and institutional management. He is a member of Sigma Pi Eta fraternity and is working as assistant to the director of food service at Oakland University.

Son Arrives

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence T. Leach (Gail Pearce) of Oxford announce the birth of a son, Scott Lawrence, on July 6. Grandparents are the Roy W. Pearce of Wenonah Drive and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Leach of Indianwood Road, Orion Township.

Select Simple Lines for High Pile Knits

If you choose a high pile knit for sewing, select a pattern with simple lines. Avoid patterns with set-in sleeves, collars or buttonholes. Eliminate as many seams as possible. For example, a jacket with a straight center seam back can be cut in one piece.

Settle Money Problems as They Arise

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

When husbands and wives tell me about the many and varied problems that have led up to the breaking point — the point when they say "our marriage is just about over" — they invariably blame money as the cause of it all. Either lack of money or mismanagement of money.

If it were this simple of course, all the MARY FEELEY families with a million dollars or more would live happily ever after. But you can pick up your newspaper any old day and discover that the wealthy also quarrel, call each other names, separate, or get divorced.

So there must be some reasons more basic than money alone.

One of them, I'm convinced, is the failure to face up to, and handle, each problem as it comes up. Many of these family problems are like small brush fires. They could, perhaps, be taken care of one at a time.

But if they continue to burn, and other brush fires flare up, there comes a day when the whole framework of family existence is aflame and it takes more than a bucket brigade to save it.

Here's the sort of situation I'm talking about: a woman who writes me a detailed story of family clashes, recounts that some years ago the children all needed glasses they couldn't afford.

Then she needed dental care, and there wasn't any money. Then her elderly in-law, in poor health, became a burden at a time when their income was entirely inadequate to cope with the extra expense.

Each new problem, piled on top of the earlier ones, added up to so much frustration that any hope of family harmony went by the board.

Another case may involve alcoholism, day care needed for children, vocational rehabilitation for a family member with physical or mental handicaps. Employment counseling or legal help may be the needs that go unmet and lay the basis for continuing family troubles.

In many communities these days there is help to be had, if people only realized it and knew where to go to ask for it. A booklet put out by a large voluntary city-wide association of welfare and health services lists 32 pages of help available in various fields.

Not all of this help is completely free of charge, of course.

But in some instances, a family can make arrangements with the agency involved for a small cost. Other agencies are set up under city or state or federal or county auspices.

If you live in a small community, the welfare, health, or other services may be located elsewhere in your state. But maybe a bus trip is all the expense involved in applying for aid.

Some people let their troubles pile up because they don't know where to go for help. In this case, start asking around. Ask the local police, the County Agent, the County Nurse, your minister, doctor, or priest. Or look in the yellow pages of the telephone directory.

Perhaps you've moved to a new community. The same helpful services that may have been available in your old community may be listed here under another name. By asking around you can locate them. In a study made by the Family Service Association of America, it was shown that the highest number of people who applied for help among the agencies represented in this organization came through the suggestion of friends or neighbors.

It's not smart to keep your troubles to yourself, when they can multiply month after month and cause such bitterness that not only family health but family love is destroyed. You may not have much money, but you can at least find out what that little can accomplish.

(For Mary Feeley's new booklet, "Make Every Dollar Count," send $1 to Dollar Book in care of The Pontiac Press.)

Now at Home

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Barnett have moved from Huntington Woods to their new home on Rolling Rock Drive. The Barnetts returned recently from a trip to New York City.

Wait! Did You Check Everything?

If your family is like most others at this time of year, you'll all hop into the family car and hit the beckoning road. Before you do, though, there are some things you ought to check.

Charles O'Donnell, vice president of Universal C.I.T. Credit Corporation, offers this list of suggestions that should be helpful to the woman of the household:

Mrs. Donald Stellmach
C. R. HASKILL STUDIO
1 Mt. Clemens St. FE 4-0553

Remember to have your car lubricated and oil changed when due.
See that the brakes, light and steering mechanism are checked. This is most important. It could save your life.
Keep a set of flares or other form of light in the car for use in warning oncoming vehicles of danger should you have to stop by the roadside at night.
Carry a clean cloth, paper and pencil in the glove compartment. You'll use these items many times before hitting home port again.

Fasten a set of duplicate car keys some place on the outside of the car. Then you'll have an emergency set in case you lose the originals, or lock them in the car.
Go over your insurance policies; make sure that all of them are in order and paid up to date. (Be sure to carry in your glove compartment the name of your insurance company, your policy number and the name and phone number of your agent.)
And then there are some things the housewife should do on the home front, in addition to such obvious ones as stopping the milk delivery and arranging for someone to take care of household pets. Others:
Turn off, inside the house, the water flow to outside faucets. (The neighbors' little children will love you if you don't, but think of the water bill!)
Also, advise the local police of your absence and when you expect to return. While you're away they will check your house.
Have a good time!

This Danish-inspired revolving stool with contoured wood seat and backrest is new from Hamilton Cosco, Inc. Material is real hardwood finished with clear lacquer. The seat revolves on ball bearings. Footrest is chrome finished and legs are plastic-tipped. About $15.

Parts of the booklet appeared in the May issue of "Christian Herald."

Schmidt covers every phase of mobile home living for retirees who are considering a move from conventional housing. Included are sections on: Rent or Buy a Site, Where to Live, Mobile Home Park Costs, A Mobile Home as a Second Home, Seasonal Employment, and A New Life.

"A New Way of Life — Retirement in a Mobile Home" was prepared under the direction of D. F. Whitney, Director of the Publications Division of MHMA. It is available at 10 cents per copy from Association headquarters, 20 North Wacker Drive, Chicago 60606.

Polly's Pointers

Removes Ink Stains

DEAR POLLY — Try cuticle remover for getting rid of ink stains (including ballpoint ink) from fingers.—SHIRLEY

DEAR POLLY — With warm weather here, the youngsters will be wanting to help water the lawn and shrubbery.

I use the wickets to my croquet set to route the hose around the house and prevent damage to my flowers.

To prevent wrinkles in my bedspread I fold it by starting at the top and folding in half to the foot and then fold from each side to the center to make a triangle.

Fold this point over the foot board or if there is none, over the back of a chair. This will keep the spread from dragging on the floor and also prevent more wrinkles.

This may be only a drop in the bucket, but a faucet that drips one drop per second means a loss of seven hundred gallons of water a year, so repair that leak — Mrs. G.W.D.

DEAR POLLY — I have a sightless friend who has discovered some ways to help her find things she wants.

She ties knots along the length of stockings that she uses for pull strings on lights. She puts tapes cut in different designs on the tops of cans so as to distinguish one from the other. On salt shakers she puts rubber bands so as to keep from getting them mixed up with pepper shakers.

Perhaps some of these would be helpful for other blind people or those who do not see well.—JANE

DEAR POLLY — Since the strawberry season is right at hand in many areas, I would like to say that I think the pointed end of a vegetable peeler makes a better berry huller than a beer can opener as suggested by Mrs. E. K. — MRS. W.H.M.

GIRLS — It would be a dull world if we all liked the same things and the same ways. One of us might have one thing on hand to use while another person would have something else. — So each has her own good idea.—POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — The daily chore of straightening the house can be made easier by borrowing Sis' doll buggy to haul the things that are being returned to their proper places.

As you push the buggy from room to room, it makes it possible to straighten and put things in order in just one trip.—

BLANCHE

GIRLS — Let Sis push the buggy and she will be kept busy and feel she is helping, too.—POLLY.

New Dress Designer Striking It Rich at 21

BY DORIS KLEIN
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD — Curled up in the big, leather restaurant booth, a mane of dark hair shading her face, Vicki Tiel looked like any starlet working the publicity route to stardom. Only her reaction was different.

"Me, an actress?" she giggled. "Heavens, no. I'll leave that to those who can act."
Yet in less than a year, Vicki, without acting a line, has become the toast of Paris, snubbed by Yves St. Laurent, gotten screen credit in "What's New Pussycat?" rented a house in Malibu, bought a motorcycle and a sports car, acquired a five-figure income and dropped her first fiancé.

"I've got another film now, with Kim Novak," she said. "And someone's talked to me about filming my life story."

DESIGNS DRESSES
But Vicki, at 21, isn't an actress, she's a dress designer. The youngest in town, she's rivaling such veterans as Edith Head, Jean Louis and James Galanos.
Just a year ago last month, Vicki was graduated from Parsons School of Design in New York.

With $1,000 apiece, Vicki and classmate Mia Fossagives, then 22, headed for Paris to invade the Haute Couture.
"There are two ways to do Paris," says Vicki. "You can live on the Left Bank — and take poor students to dinner every night."

SAVE MONEY
"Or you can live it up in a chic apartment. That's what we did. You save money on dinners — someone bought us dinner every night for four months. And you meet the small 'in' group, because they think you have as much money as they do."

A few weeks after they arrived, the girls took their sketches to Louis Feraud, a successful young designer.

Their clothes appealed to the younger set — wild, flower-printed stockings, above-the-knee skirts, necklines slit to the navel, in fabrics ranging from upholstery to snakeskin.

MODELED CLOTHES
"We modeled our own clothes at Chez Castel, the Paris discotheque where all the young group goes — like Geraldine Chaplin," says Vicki.

"One night Yves St. Laurent came in with all those mannish models of his. I stopped dancing and said in my best French, 'I'm a designer like you are.' He gave me a cold fish stare and turned his nose up."

But customers didn't. The girls got a contract to sell their clothes to a big United States manufacturer, "for about $40,000 a collection, plus a percentage. That's just for 20 dresses."

Just as their $2,000 was running out, Seven Arts Productions signed them up to do Paula Prentiss' clothes in "Pussycat."
"We had to dress a strip tease number, so we learned how to strip lease at the Crazy Horse," said Vicki. "Then we invented stripper's costumes of armor, and a wedding gown with three patches of flowers. We wanted to do a Maltese cross — it covers in all the right places — but they wouldn't let us."

Ex-GI Seeks $5 Million for Bad Eyes

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — James P. Speights of Raleigh is suing the government for $5 million, claiming clerical duties in the Army ruined his eyes.

In a suit filed in federal court, he blames the Army for his "inability to read at length or to view TV or motion pictures without discomfort (which) has disturbed me emotionally."

The suit said Speights began having eye trouble in January 1963, after working as clerk for four months. He said his efforts to be transferred were "fruitless."

"Finally," that suit adds, "because of my eye condition, I was given a medical discharge... saying I had a nervous breakdown."

Litterbug Draws Fine for Dead Horse in Ditch

CLOVIS, N.M. (AP) — Sonny Coleman, 30, has been fined for violating New Mexico's highway anti-litter law.

War Barely Touches Viet Cultural Center

HUE, South Viet Nam (AP) — Barely touched by the war, ancient Hue remains one of the calmest and most beautiful spots in South Viet Nam, although only 55 miles from the North Vietnamese border.

As the former imperial capital of Viet Nam, Hue still is the nation's intellectual and cultural center. While fighting goes on in the nearby jungles, it retains its placid charm.

A city with palaces, royal

tombs and lush lotus ponds, Hue lies along the banks of the gently flowing River of Perfumes. It is clean and well-kept. Many of the 2,000 U.S. servicemen in Hue believe it is the most pleasant city in South Viet Nam.

Hue has so far resisted the commercialization and quickness of life in Saigon and Da Nang. As more Americans pour into the area — some 2,000 U.S. Marines have established a beachhead only 13 miles south of Hue at Phu Bai — this may change.

AN ODITY
But the face of an American still is pretty much an oddity to many of Hue's 120,000 inhabitants.

A highlight of Hue's beauty is the walled Imperial City. Other wars and time, however, have ravaged many of the ornate monuments first erected in the early 19th century under the reign of Emperor Gia Long.

Although its days as an imperial court ended when Emperor Bao-Dai was deposed by congress in 1955, Hue remained in the spotlight when Ngo Dinh Diem became president of the newly created Republic of Viet Nam that year.

Two of Diem's brothers held control over central Viet Nam

As a religious center of power, Hue also is the home of the venerable Trich Tri Quang, the leading Buddhist spokesman. The city has an estimated 35,000 Catholics, setting the stage for religious rivalry.

Pontiac Rolladium added a first and several other placements as the Great Lakes Regional roller skating championships came to a close yesterday, one day longer than scheduled, at Euclid, Ohio.

John Halpin teamed with Barbara Schultz to win the novice pairs. David Downing and Diane Schofield were second. Rolladium posted 13 wins in the meet.

Gerry McNeive and Sandy Consovo were second in senior dance followed by Jim Bell and Carol White. Miss Consovo was third in senior ladies figures.

Dennis Horrell placed second in senior men's singles and joined Diane Downing for a third in intermediate dance.

Diane Grassi was second in senior ladies singles and Michael Leincke was third in intermediate men's singles. Miss Downing also passed her Gold Medal proficiency test in skate dancing.

All qualified for the North American championships later this month in Lincoln, Neb.

"FREEZING" OR BEING OVERBENT HIGHLY STARTING THE SWING IS USUALLY THE RESULT OF AN INEFFECTIVE MOTION DURING THE LINING-UP PROCESS.

MANY FINE GOLFERS EMIT A FEARFUL PRESS TO KEEP THE MOTION GOING AND PREVENT TENSION.

MY METHOD IS TO HOLD THE CLUB LOOSELY AS I ADDRESS THE BALL AND WAGGLE MY HEAD AND WRIST. THEN JUST STARTING THE BACKSWING WITH MY LEFT ARM.

Editor Describes Title Bout End

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was no smoky hangout of the fight crowd. It was in the big airy hearing room of the House Commerce Committee. But Nat Fleischer, the editor of Ring Magazine, told once again about the final crazy seconds of the Lister-Jay fight.

Chairman Oren Harris, a lean Arkansas Democrat, grinned down from his chair as the little aging man who had spent a lifetime in the rosin and sweat atmosphere of boxing hopped up and down in the witness chair explaining how it was.

After refereeing more than a 1,000 fights and devoting 62 years to athletics, "I never saw such a confused affair" as the one in Lewiston, Maine, said Fleischer with indignation.

How was it that it was Fleischer and not one of the officials who had yelled to referee Jersey Joe Walcott that it was all over — that Lister had been counted out.

10TH TIME

Fleischer drew himself up to tell it for the 100th time. When he arrived at his ringside seat, he found there was no table to write on, so the official knockdown timer squeezed over to make room for him.

When Lister was knocked down by Clay in the first round, the knockdown timer was supposed to jump up — and Fleischer jumped up from the witness chair to show how it should be done — and start counting off the seconds with a sweep of his arm.

RING CIRCLES

"But we were wedged in there so tight he couldn't stand up ...

he counted up to 20 ... finally he asked me to try to get Walcott's attention."

And that's how Jersey Joe got the word the fight was over. In the angry backwash from the fight came a handful of bills for the committee to consider, aimed at cleaning up boxing by establishing a federal boxing commission.

But Cus D'Amato, famed in ring circles for his lifting at the establishment and for being the former manager of Floyd Patterson, told the committee, "There was nothing wrong with the Clay-Lister bout."

Stocky, fast-talking D'Amato said that the ringside television camera bearing the fight to theater spectators around the country wasn't in position to catch the knockout punch.

Local Girl Beaten in Ohio Net Action

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Emily Fisher of Bloomfield Hills was ousted from the Western Girls Tennis Tournament here yesterday, 3-6, 10-8, 6-1, by third seeded Martha Downing of Decatur, Ill.

Miss Fisher competed in the under-16 class.

Mary Davis, 17, of St. Paul, Minn., upset top-seeded Susan Dukes of Hamtramck, 6-4, 6-4, in the under 18 division quarter-finals.

The No. 1 seed in the under 16 class, Ginger Pfeiffer of Springfield, won her match with Vicki Gilbert of Detroit, 6-0, 6-0.

Top Rated Players Win at Western Open

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Dennis Ralston and Nancy Richey, the nation's top ranked amateur tennis players, scored easy victories Wednesday in their opening rounds of the Western Open tournament, but upsides claimed two other rated stars.

Ralston overpowered Upton Giles, Covington, La., 6-0, 6-1, and Les Sack, Clarkdale, Miss., 6-3, 6-4.

Arthur Ashe of Los Angeles, seeded second, made his first appearance of the 80th annual Western with a 6-3, 6-3 win over Gary Rose of Arizona, Calif., and then beat Brohan Summers, South Africa, 6-2, 9-7.

Yanks Tapping Pitching Corps of Toledo Club

DETROIT (UPI) — Manager Johnny Keane, attempting to add some spark to the faltering New York Yankee pitching staff, spent Wednesday afternoon greeting some new faces and bidding farewell to others.

The Yankee skipper, practicing a sort of revolving door policy, shipped off knuckleballer Bob Tiefenauer to Toledo of the International League and recalled Pete Mikkelsen and Jim Breneman from the same club.

The Yankees, floundering around the top of the second division, also announced that starting pitcher Bill Stafford was placed on the disabled list and Jim Bouton has been pulled from the starting rotation.

Yankee Killer Returns: Lary Traded to Chisox

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets sent veteran right-handed pitcher Frank Lary to the Chicago White Sox Thursday in return for a player to be designated later.

In order to ship the former Detroit star to the American League, the Mets had to get waivers on him from the other National League clubs.

The 34-year-old Lary was noted as a Yankee killer when he was with the Tigers. He has a 28-13 record against the perennial American League champions.

Slight Increase in Fire Alarms

Pontiac firemen made 225 runs during the month of June, 22 more than the same month during 1964.

However, the total for the first six months of this year is only 1,276 runs, compared to a 1,304 figure for the first half of 1964.

Monetary loss for June was $12,885. In June of 1964 the loss was $17,800.

During the first six months of this year, fires have caused an estimated $273,806 in damage. During the same period last year, fire damage was estimated at $423,665.

Three persons were injured in fires last month, compared to two injuries during June 1964.

Mariner Feels Gravitational Pull of Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mariner 4 is feeling the pull of Mars.

Scientists Wednesday noted a slight change in the speed of the 375-pound spacecraft indicating it has reached the point — 1,721,770 miles from Mars — where it is under the planet's gravitational pull.

The pull will speed Mariner's pace from Wednesday's 9,979 miles per hour to 11,514 m.p.h. (relative to Mars) by July 14, when the tiny craft is to race past the planet on a picture-taking mission.

The 21 photographs scientists hope will be taken will be taped, then relayed slowly to earth by radio. If the pictures are good, first copies are expected to be released July 15 or 16.

Mariner 4 was launched from Cape Kennedy, Fla., Nov. 28.

GOP Bill Tied to Dixie Dems

Urged to Back Voting Measure Substitute

WASHINGTON (AP) — Southern Democrats held the key today for House Republicans who want to substitute their voting rights bill for the administration's.

If enough Southerners heed the advice of some of their leaders to vote for the GOP substitute, which they consider a lesser evil, it could be a nip-and-tuck vote, possibly late today.

House leaders think they have the votes to turn back the GOP challenge. They put the maximum strength of the Republican-Southern Democratic coalition at 200, short of the 218 majority needed. That would include about 70 Southern Democrats.

An unknown factor, however, is the impact of a speech Wednesday by Rep. William M. Tucker, D-La., at an anti-federal voting legislation. He pleaded with Southerners to support the Republican bill, which is cosponsored by House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford and Rep. William M. McCulloch of Ohio.

RELATIVELY MODERATE

Tuck, a former governor of Virginia, said the Ford-McCulloch bill was "relatively moderate" compared to the administration bill sponsored by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y.

"If we are to have any federal legislation on the subject of voting rights," Tuck said, "the McCulloch bill is far more preferable than the Celler bill, although I am opposed to both."

Then, speaking what he called "the plain, unvarnished truth," Tuck said "a vote against the McCulloch substitute will be, in effect, a vote for the Celler bill."

That, I hope every member opposed to these so-called voting rights bills will vote for the McCulloch substitute."

The major difference between the two bills is that the GOP bill would apply in any locality, but only after 25 persons have claimed they were denied the right to vote. The Celler bill would take effect automatically in seven Southern states where less than 50 per cent of the adult population voted or was registered in the last election.

Both bills, with their different approaches, would provide federal examiners to register qualified Negroes.

House Fire Kills 6 in West Virginia

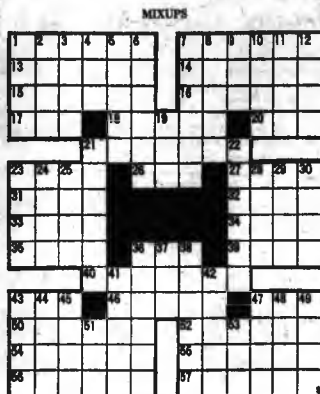

WAR, W. Va. (AP) — A fire early today at the tiny West Virginia coalfield community of Hartwell claimed the lives of six persons, five of them children.

Authorities said the victims were Peggy Wilson, 24, her brother Hubert Wilson, 14, and her children: Annette, 5; Sharon, 4; Jeanette, 3; and James, 2.

They all apparently were asleep in Mrs. Wilson's home when the blaze broke out just after midnight, McDowell County sheriff's deputies said.

College Head Named

EAST LANSING (AP) — The Rev. Douglas Trout, an official of Michigan State University's College of Education, will become president of Tusculum College in Greenville, Tenn., Aug. 1. The Presbyterian clergyman, formerly of Marshall, will succeed retiring Tusculum College President Dr. Raymond C. Rankin.

Nothing Wrong With Nancy a Little Son Won't Cure

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Something terribly ugly and morose but rather humorous happened up in the luxury suite of singer Nancy Wilson at the Americana.

When I arrived, her husband, Kenneth Dennis, a gifted drummer, said to me: "Are you the doctor?"

While belting out songs at the Royal Box, Nancy's been seeing doctors. It was assumed that she was overworked, due to her rising popularity. But there'd been a little mystery about it.

But Doctor Wilson here noticed that her health suddenly improved. Her eyes shone. That was when she spoke of a vacation she's having soon with her son, Kenneth Carl Dennis, 24, who she's been separated from for several weeks. He's been with a nurse in California. "I'm going to pick up my pride and joy, my baby, and take him to the Riviera in Las Vegas, where I work next."

"I'm going to spend days and days with him in the pool." Nancy appeared to be the picture of vigor and vitality now. "He's too much, that baby of mine." Her laughter rang through the suite. "He looks so much like his father, the first time I saw him, I said, 'Oh, NO! Couldn't there be one little thing about him to show that he's mine?'"

"He's very clothes conscious already," the ecstatic mother proclaimed. "He prefers long pants suits to short pants suits. He told me recently he wanted to wear his blue long pants, not a short pants suit. I'm not going out to play, I'm going out, he said."

There's much more that could be written about Nancy... she's 28... the movies want her because she's got an acting flair with her singing.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

Frank Sinatra dropped in at Jilly's with ex-wife Nancy and their two daughters... Bob Hope'll entertain GIs in Santo Domingo next week. Martha Raye is reading another Viet Nam jaunt... Sybil Burton's groom Jordan Christopher brings his music group back to the Arthur discotheque July 13 (where his bride'll be his boss).

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Genius is one per cent inspiration and 99 per cent perspiration." —Thomas A. Edison.

EARL'S PEARLS: The way restaurant prices are rising, it won't be long before a $100-a-plate dinner will sound reasonable.

"If the Beatles made the Queen's honor list," claims a fan, "shouldn't Elvis Presley at least be invited to an LBJ barbecue?"... That's earl, brotchie.

2 Banks Are Held Up

DETROIT (AP) — Two armed bandits held up a branch of the Detroit Bank and Trust Co., in northwest Detroit, and another robber held up a branch of the City National Bank of Detroit Wednesday. The bandit duo escaped with about $10,000. The amount taken in the other robbery was $1,170.

Uruguay Forced to 'Pawn' Gold to Get Fiscal Breathing Spell

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — This little cattle and wool country, just one step ahead of the bill collector, is pawning the family gold to get a breathing spell.

Uruguay will send about $80 million in gold bars abroad. With this bid, it will try to get loans from private banks totaling about $110 million.

It's a big blow to the national pride. For 30 years Uruguay has prided itself on being, in certain measure, the South American banker because it had such a stable economy.

They called Uruguay "The Switzerland of South America," because it has a Swiss-style council-type government and because money flowed to its banks for the same reasons that money has flowed to Switzerland for many decades. The were stable.

Now that's history.

Behind the scenes, many economists are fairly optimistic. But the country has $171 million in assets and $330-$50 million in debts. It needs help fast.

The government has been more than one month behind in payments of salaries and is showing signs of slipping farther behind.

Most of the loans Uruguayan leaders hope to get from the banks will go to pay for past and future imports, with some for servicing the national debt.

While the nine government council members talk over what to do next, the country's financial structure is shivering under a scandal in the country's central bank and the peso is going down.

A few months ago, the Uruguayan peso was in the 20s on the free market, while the official rate was 16 to the dollar. A few weeks ago, the peso was in the 30s on the free market. A few days ago, the peso hit 70 to the dollar.

This means rising prices. Leading hotels and restaurants change prices once a month. Importing of anything but essentials is barred for three months.

The only way Uruguay can come up with the cash is by selling wool and mola.

UNREAL LEVEL.

Wool is moving at about two-thirds the normal rate, principally, some experts say, because of an unreal peso level.

The official rate now is 34 to the dollar. The word is that the government probably will devalue it to 35-40. Where it will go on the free market is anyone's guess.

Meat, the other major Uruguayan export, is in short domestic supply just from the attempt to export as much as possible.

Drought is raising the threat that breeding herds must be slaughtered for lack of pastures.

SIL0 MISSILE TEST — A dummy 160-ton ballistic missile is successfully tested by the cold launch method at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. The test proves the ICBM can be launched from underground silos without first firing the engines. The missile is ejected from the silo by gas pressure, then the first-stage engine is ignited. This dummy was held on a tether.

Bill on Health Care Nears Senate Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leaders pushed for final action today on the Social Security-health care bill after disposing of 14 amendments yesterday in a burst of speed.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the bill's floor manager, told newsmen "I see no reason why we cannot finish this bill tonight unless its opponents want to string it out, and there is no good reason for them to do so."

However, two Republican senators announced they would offer a number of amendments to the bill, which is one of President Johnson's most important legislative proposals.

Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., said he would propose at least three changes affecting the benefits in the present Social Security system.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., a strong foe of the new health care for the aged program in the bill, told a reporter he would make a sweeping recommitment motion to send the legislation back to the finance committee.

CURTIS MOTION

Under the Curtis motion, the committee would be directed to return the bill to the Senate by March 1 next year with a new health program patterned on the one now available to federal employees.

This would allow a choice of private insurance firms.

Arraign Area Teen on Murder Charge

Stated for trial as an adult, a 16-year-old Waterford Township boy was arraigned last night in Waterford Justice Court on a charge of first-degree murder.

Ross Pearson was charged with the June 27 fatal stabbing of Jeffrey Talbot, 17, son of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Talbot, 2045 Watkins Lake, Waterford Township.

Pearson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Pearson, 1127 Alhi, stood mute before Justice Patrick K. Daly. Examination was set for July 14. He is being held at the Oakland County Jail without bond.

Pearson was arraigned on the murder charge shortly after Probate Judge Norman Barnard waived jurisdiction over the juvenile.

Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor Bernard Paige said this morning that there would be no charges filed against a second Waterford youth, Robert Green, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Green, 1512 Eason.

Green allegedly drove the car which transported Pearson to and from the murder site.

WAS CULMINATION

The stabbing was the culmination of several weeks of feuding between Talbot and Pearson over a 15-year-old girl, according to Paige.

Nearly 20 witnesses, including Talbot's father, viewed the slaying.

The youth and his friends were playing volleyball in the front yard prior to the incident, which occurred about 9:30 p.m.

Pearson and Green drove up to the front of the house and Talbot and several friends rushed over to the car.

FELL TO GROUND

Police said an argument developed and then Talbot fell to the ground. He was rushed to the hospital, but died on the operating table about 2 a.m. June 28 at Pontiac General Hospital.

According to Paige, the stabbing was not the first physical contact the two youths had had over the girl.

If Pearson should be convicted of first-degree murder, a life sentence would be mandatory.

25 Guerrillas Are Killed in Jungle Battles

Viet Government Unit Is Ambushed; Heavy Casualties Feared

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. paratroopers have scored heavily in a series of clashes with the Viet Cong 25 miles northeast of Saigon in the D-Zone jungle, American authorities reported today.

They said 25 of the guerrillas were known dead and it was estimated Red casualties yesterday totaled more than 100.

On the other side, the Viet Cong ambushed a Vietnamese government battalion 37 miles northwest of Saigon today and a U.S. spokesman said most of the battalion apparently was wiped out.

Casualties in the ambush were not immediately known, but a survivor said they were heavy.

The battalion was reported under strength and probably numbered about 300 men.

U.S. ADVISERS

Four U.S. advisers were with the battalion, the spokesman said. Their fate was not known.

The ambush was sprung as the battalion was rushing to relieve a besieged outpost at Xom Duu in Binh Duong Province.

BIGGEST BATTLE

The action in the Communist-controlled jungle near Saigon was the biggest engagement U.S. paratroopers have fought since their arrival in Viet Nam in May.

U.S. casualties were "substantially less" than the estimated enemy casualties, a U.S. spokesman said.

LBJ Press Aide to Be Sidelined by Foot Disease

WASHINGTON (AP)—George E. Reedy, President Johnson's press secretary, announced today he is suffering from a painful foot disease and is bowing out of his White House post—at least for some months.

Reedy, reported that doctors tell him he may face a series of operations that could sideline him for at least six months.

He said the duties of press secretary will be performed in his absence by Bill D. Moyers, one of Johnson's top special assistants.

There was considerable doubt among newsmen at the White House whether Reedy would return to his $38,560-a-year job as press secretary.

Reedy increased such speculation by saying Moyers "will act in my place and we will determine down the road where we go from there."

GM Will Add 6 Safety Items

Standard Equipment on '66 Automobiles

DETROIT (UPI) — A package of six safety items will be standard equipment on General Motors passenger cars next year.

GM said yesterday each of its 1966 models will be equipped with rear seat belts, a padded instrument panel and sun visor, back-up lights, an outside left-hand rear view mirror, and a two-speed windshield wiper and washer.

All the auto firms had announced earlier this year that rear seat safety belts would be standard on next year's cars.

But the GM announcement of a six-item package caught American Motors, Chrysler and Ford by surprise. They did not reveal their plans but it was expected they would follow GM's lead.

Chrysler did say it "will have a number of additional safety items as standard features on 1966 models and will also offer certain safety features as optional for the '66 models."

CAR PRICES

There was no word from GM on whether the cost of the six safety items would be added to the retail price of the new cars.

A spokesman said the firm traditionally doesn't announce prices until new models are introduced in the fall.

But in the past when certain items like heaters and front seat belts were made standard equipment, the extra cost has been passed on to customers.

2 Sides in City Favor Bar Issue Vote Idea

The informal suggestion that Pontiac's liquor controversy be submitted to a citywide vote got a favorable reaction today from those on both sides of the issue.

Debate over the liquor issue — how many bars and where they should be located — highlighted the City Commission's meeting Tuesday.

Commissioner John A. Dugan offered the suggestion to put the whole issue to a vote of the people to "see just what we are to do."

Dugan pointed out liquor license transfers are a problem. There is also the question of upgrading of tavern licenses to Class C status, permitting the sale of liquor by the glass.

Attorney Mitchell L. Bacow, 34 Cherokee, who has represented a tavern owner, thought the election idea was excellent. He is a former member of the special committee appointed to study the upgrading question.

"Maybe the tavern owners can make the public recognize the fairness of the over-all proposal," said Bacow. "and take it away from the realm of politics."

SUPPORTS IDEA

Dr. Milton H. Bank, pastor of Central Methodist Church and also a committee member, supported the idea of an election. He said the vote, however, should come at a regular election. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Showers Possible Tonight, Friday

There's a chance of scattered showers tonight and tomorrow with showers ending by late afternoon.

The weatherman predicts showers may drench the Pontiac area again Saturday.

Temperatures will become warmer — lows tonight expected to be near 57 to 64, highs to reach 76 to 83 tomorrow.

Today's west to southwesterly winds at 8 to 15 miles per hour will become light and variable tonight.

Safety was the low temperature in downtown Pontiac today at 8 a.m. The mercury had soared to 86 by 1 p.m.

Statue Stirs Controversy

Diana: Kind or Cruel Figure?

Goddess Reigns Serenely Over Fountain

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Untroubled by the controversy surrounding her, "Diana of the Woods" stands smiling in the mall of the new multimillion-dollar Maricopa County government complex.

Dedicated yesterday the stone sculpture gave pause to countless admirers, belying the charges that as the huntress of Greek mythology, she was "a cruel goddess" and a killer.

Mrs. Gilbert Hall donated the Italian-made sculpture placed in the complex's fountain and dedicated it to the Arizona Humane Society.

The animal crusaders of Arizona opposed the gesture from the start.

"Humane societies have always opposed cruelty, including blood sports," said Betty B. Ellis, the group's executive secretary.

"Not even the human side of Diana is pleasant," she said.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Signs of strain between reformers and conservative Communists in the Soviet Union suggest that Khrushchev officials may be in for a new round of musical chairs.

Some of the signs:

- The Communist leadership apparently has decided to put off the party congress. Theoretically the congress is the ruling body for nearly 12 million party members and meets every four years. The last congress was October 1961.
- Four high-ranking government and Communist party leaders have been missing for five or six weeks from important official gatherings. All rose to prominence under Nikita S. Khrushchev.
- The absence of these persons may be connected with the downfall earlier this year of two other Khrushchev proteges. It could mean that powerful forces have undertaken a determined campaign to rid the party leadership of "the Ukrainians" and economic reformers who came up under Khrushchev's wing.

HUNTS OF CLASH

Almost from the day of Khrushchev's fall last October, there have been hints of a clash between the two who divided his powers: Party Chief Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. The clash seems to stem from differences on economic reforms, the effect of such reforms on party leadership and the extent of party authority, which, in conservative opinion, should dominate every aspect of Soviet life even if it interferes with production.

Conservatives — those who distrust anything suggesting lessened central authority — have been restive in recent years.

The intrusion of other factors besides the division over economics makes it difficult to single out the members of the contending camps. But it seems likely that Brezhnev, despite his position as party chief, may be in the reformer group and Kosygin may represent the conservatives.

Identities of the four missing leaders bolsters a theory that "the Ukrainians" are in difficulties not necessarily connected with the troubles affecting the younger reformers. Perhaps the leadership of Brezhnev himself will be questioned.

Never a Candidate in 1964—Romney

LANSING (AP)—The hashed and rebashed question of how close George Romney came to being talked into a 1964 presidential bid has been reopened by the publication of Theodore H. White's book, "The Making of The President, 1964."

White says Romney was on the brink of challenging Sen. Barry Goldwater for the Republican nomination, but Romney, after reading the book, sticks to his declaration that he "never put myself in a candidate position."

Differences between Romney and former Vice President Richard Nixon over what Nixon said to Romney at the June 1964 governor's conference in Cleveland are perpetuated in White's book. As he said following the election, Romney maintains that Nixon urged him to content against Goldwater. Nixon had said he only urged Romney to barnstorm across the country for moderate principles.

"TRAP OF HISTORY"

White himself says in his sequel to his report of the 1960 election that it is a "trap of history" to expect eyewitnesses to an event to remember it as happening the same way.

The question of how close Romney came to making a presidential bid stumbles over semantics.

Romney says there was "no question at any time" that he would honor his earlier commitment to Michigan voters not to enter into national politics in 1964.

Some might say that unless he firmly said he would run, then there was no question of the commitment being fulfilled. Others could say that the flicker of a thought about running for president raised the question of whether his pledge would be kept.

turned him into a stag and he wasn't satisfied or revenge until his own bounds ran him down and tore him to bits," Mrs. Eilers said.

Undaunted, Mrs. Hall didn't budge an inch.

"Good art not only gives pleasure," Mrs. Hall said, "but it also stimulates an appreciation for the beautiful."

OPPOSITE VIEW

Not so, said Mrs. Eilers, who made her group's view known to the county supervisors.

The supervisors sided with Mrs. Hall, agreeing that Diana would give pleasure to visitors to the recently dedicated complex.

Mrs. Hall admits the tempest was something of an ordeal before it blew over.

"A hideous experience and one I don't want to go through again," she said. "They claimed Diana was a killer. Why, in Italy, Diana is known as a protectress and there is a festival each year in her name."

2 Gunmen Free Hostages

boys left at 6 a.m. saying they were driving directly back to Oregon.

Grey and Bowles, who completed terms in Oregon State Prison last week — Grey for robbery and Bowles for breaking and entering—also are suspected of robbing an Oregon bank Tuesday of about $14,000, the FBI said.

Confronted by newsmen after slipping out of motel windows, Mrs. Corbin reluctantly talked briefly.

"HATE THEM"

"It wasn't bad on us at all," the slightly built woman said. "I just hate them for killing that policeman. I just hope they get the same thing."

Asked if she was frightened by the ordeal, she said: "Was I frightened? Yes, they killed that policeman."

She said her son "was a little scared at first, but he had a big smile and they liked him. They let him do anything reasonable."

"TOO SHY TO TALK"

The freed Clinton was too shy to talk with newsmen.

Mrs. Corbin described the gunmen's weapons as "short and long"—a shotgun and a pistol.

"They were so confused all the time," she said. "I had to show them how to get out of town. They talked about everything under the sun. They told me a lot of stories."

She said the six hostages made no attempt to escape.

"They would have plucked shot someone, anyway," she remarked.

Riekens said they would drive to Oregon, "with no stops anywhere, unless we have to." FBI agents said details of the kidnapping and slaying were still sketchy this morning.

'Bench' Frowns on Increase

If a legislative bill now on Gov. ROMNEY's desk is signed, which is most likely, Oakland County will be on the receiving end of an unwanted Circuit Court judgeship.

This is a startling reversal of the familiar routine of legislative denial of governmental augmentation sought by local administrative agencies.

Under the new constitution, Courts of Justice (Circuit Courts) are subject to regulation by the supreme court of the state. Inherent in such control is the power to determine the number of judges each county bench shall seat.

The formula for such determination is vaguely compounded of case load, population of area served and proximity to population centers conducive to demand on court resources.

Exercising its power, the Michigan Supreme Court, without consulting the local judiciary, recommended that the legislature allocate another judge to the Oakland County Circuit Court.

This action came to light when it was discussed earlier in the year during a session of the annual Judicial Conference in Lansing, attended by the local bench.

Thereupon, Circuit Judge PHILIP PRATT, expressing the unanimous attitude of the county bench and concurred in by the county board of supervisors, indicated opposition to the addition of another judge at this time.

It happened, however, that THOMAS M. KAVANAUGH, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, was present, and brusquely brushed aside the negative sentiment voiced by Judge PRATT.

Opposition to the enlargement of the county court rests on these sound considerations:

When the county courthouse was built, provision was made for six judges. When a seventh judge was subsequently added, court facilities had to be improved and are quite inadequate. Where quarters could be found for the eighth judge now proposed is indeed a head-scratcher.

The new constitution provides that within five years from date of adoption the State's primary court system be restructured. The Justice of the Peace and the Municipal Court concepts with their $100 to $1,000 case limits would give way to a county court system with jurisdiction up to $3,000. Such upgrading would automatically relieve the higher (circuit) courts of an appreciable volume of their present low-bracket case load.

To provide quarters for and meet the expense of another judge would cost county taxpayers an estimated $100,000 a year.

The present case load of the Oakland County Circuit Court is being effectively adjudicated.

In sum, our judges feel that enlarging the court could well await the outcome of the reshaping of the court system noted and the likelihood that another wing will in due course be added to the courthouse that would provide proper quarters for another judge when and if needed.

The Press heartily commends the local judiciary on its sound position and conscientious regard for taxpayers' money. On that note, we rest our case.

Busy Congress Is Overlooked

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press New Analyst
WASHINGTON — At another time, what Congress is doing now would be wrapped in breathless attention and conflict. But success feeds itself and in these peculiar days what seemed impossible now seems routine.

This is a busy Congress and, before this session is over, will have been a highly productive one. However, public interest has been distracted by the war in Viet Nam and the personality of President Johnson.

In getting Congress to trot along with him, Johnson has had two things working for him: his own endless pressure on the men in the Capitol and the fact that his own Democrats thoroughly outnumber the Republicans.

And there is not now in Congress a controversial figure. The Sen. Joseph McCarthy, Robert A. Taft or Barry Goldwater—who splits public thinking and, while getting attention himself, draws attention to Congress.

From a presidential standpoint, this probably is an ideal Congress: legislators who for the most part stick to their knitting, don't fuss much and grind out the legislation.

HARD FIGHTS

Besides all this, some of the most important legislation moving through Congress this year was fought over wildly or loudly so many times before it lost its edge.

Two examples: federal aid to grade and high schools, passed earlier this year, and Medicare which will almost certainly go through.

There was hardly a ripple when Congress only Tuesday completed what no Congress in history ever managed to do before:

This was approval, by the House last week and the Senate Tuesday, of a proposed constitutional amendment spelling out procedures to deal with presidential disability and keep the vice presidency filled.

STATE APPROVAL

This won't be completed by the Constitution until at least 38 state legislatures also approve but they're expected to without any trouble, although not before 1967. Action on this was a major achievement in itself.

Before Congress took its Fourth of July vacation it already had passed—in addition to the school aid bill—two other top Johnson programs: reduction in federal excise taxes and aid to the Appalachians area.

As soon as it returned Tuesday, after clearing the proposed amendment, the Senate went to work on the Social Security health care bill.

The House got down to work in a hurry, too. It opened debate on 1965 civil rights bill — to protect Negroes' voting rights — although on this there will be some struggle.

Need New 'Presidential System'

WASHINGTON — There's a good deal wrong with the operation of the government now adays — but President Johnson isn't alone to blame.

It's primarily the fault of what might be called the presidential system, whose defects have been a handicap also to other presidents in the last 30 years as the problems of government have multiplied.

Sooner or later it will be recognized that the executive system of today has outlived its usefulness and needs a few of these mature minds from the business world to form into a system of operation that will not only be efficient in administration but effective in making policy.

For one thing, "the president's Cabinet" is a misnomer.

It is, in fact, a group of managers of departments, every one of which could be supervised by career executives so as to leave the secretary in each case free to give virtually his entire time to the task of advising the president on all manner of subjects.

DAILY MEETINGS

This would make possible daily meetings of the Cabinet, at which everything from Viet Nam to the balance-of-payments problem could be discussed before decisions were made by the chief executive.

No president can know all the answers to all public questions, and he is necessarily dependent on advisers of some kind. But it is this very phase of the present system which is weak.

The unofficial advisers to a president today are handicapped as a sort of personal entourage, responsible only to the man who can fire them overnight.

There is no sense of responsibility to the public such as is vested in a Cabinet officer who is confirmed by the Senate.

Many of these personal advisers — as, for instance, McGeorge Bundy — are capable of holding Cabinet posts. But there can hardly be two secretaries of state.

MANY ADVISERS

It would be much better if Secretary Rusk had the services of as many personal advisers as he wished and could give to the President and the entire Cabinet the "consensus" which he found in the reports from abroad and from the interpretation of such reports by experienced men around him.

A new operating formula for the departments in the national capital is essential, together with the establishment of a Cabinet in which each member would give his entire time to the president and occupy offices in a building along with him.

Such a group of advisers would be much more likely to help steer a resolute and steady course in foreign policy than is possible under the hit-or-miss system of today which results in so many improvised and spur-of-the-moment decisions.

Certainly it is time that the weakness in the present system of presidential operations was remedied.

Poor in U.S. About to Get the Computer Treatment

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — The poor we won't have with us always, if President Johnson can perform miracles, but America's poor are about to become the most "analyzed" social strata ever to tangle with a computer.

Dr. Joseph A. RUTH

Shriver's new MONTGOMERY assistant director for research and evaluations, intends to put the antipoverty program under "a scientist's microscope."

The nearly six-million poor currently being assisted will become a "living laboratory" while psychologists, sociologists and economists probe the effect of the poverty program on community life, slums and economics.

Dr. Kershaw says he will introduce scientific measurements of performance similar to Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's cost benefit analysis, "except that he's working with hardware and we're working with people."

Dr. Kershaw is setting up "study groups," but unlike the cavity tests in the toothpaste ads, his will seek to establish by frequent checks whether the new "Head Start" summer study program gives "the slum kids who attended classes a better chance than matched youngsters who didn't, to hold their own with schoolmates from better environments."

JUST ONE PART

But that's just one part of the laboratory.

Universities are being paid to analyze test cities and report on the effect of the antipoverty program on income, unemployment, divorce rates, church attendance, drug addiction, school dropouts, juvenile delinquency and the like.

Further, the Census Bureau has agreed to conduct regular samplings of certain geographical areas, to determine how much the poverty program is aiding with better incomes, education and housing.

Other scientific probes will track various poverty projects against each other. For instance, it tests reveal that the neighborhood Youth Corps is having a greater impact on poverty than the more expensive Job Corps, money could thereafter be channeled from one to the other.

Few can argue with the basic common sense behind this hopeful approach to a poverty cure. Whether the scientific testing can succeed is a moot point, however, for sociologists who have worked in the ghettos report that the thing slum people hate most is to be asked questions. They don't like the quizzes. (Distributed by King Features Syndicate)

U.S. Is Focus of World Criticism

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In world politics, how a prime minister reacts depends on whose ox is being gored.

India's Lal Bahadur Shastri criticizes U.S. aid to Saigon.

asserts a Communist take-over in South Viet Nam would not endanger the security of India or other Asian countries. The spirit of Vietnamese nationalism, he says, would protect Vietnamese people from Red China.

But when Mao Tse-tung's Communist Chinese armies invaded India, New Delhi demanded quick U.S. military help. The Indians didn't count on the spirit of nationalism to protect them from the Chinese.

Shastri knows nationalism doesn't keep Lithuania, Latvia or Estonia from being ruled by Russian invaders. It doesn't prevent Tibet or North Korea from being ruled by the Chinese or a large part of Kashmir from being ruled by the Indians. It did not prevent Formosa or Korea from being ruled by the Japanese before World War II. The Indians didn't depend on nationalism to get Goa from Portugal; they marched troops in.

As for the Chinese invasion of India, Mao didn't stop until the United States came in with heavy aid until the United States made it clear we might fight if necessary.

MOTHER OF TWO

Reader States His Opinion on Modern Art

Modern art, wrapped in psychological propaganda, has become the most successful scheme of deceit that I know of. One magazine wrote that people who like modern art were found to be more intelligent than those who don't. Another magazine had a test for imagination, listing neat geometrical designs and disorderly ones. They claimed that the people with imagination picked the disorderly designs. Someone with imagination might try to make something orderly from the disorderly, but the same could be done with any blotches, scratches or even dirt, and shouldn't be called art.

These flatteries of deceit are one of the devil's tricks to teach falsehood. By using the same methods he will try to make good look evil and evil look good.

People Make Business in U.S. Their Business

The idea that ownership of corporate shares is confined solely to individuals vaguely classified as "plush plutocrats" is as outmoded as multiple petticoats.

Today 20 million Americans are shareholders, a gain of 3 million in three years. One out of nine Michiganders holds stock certificates.

Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said in commendatory vein that during the period of increase "there have been repeated challenges to investor confidence—a series of events that might have shaken the economic convictions of a more impressionable, less informed people."

The impressive proportion of the populace which has made itself partners of business is a fine indication of the confidence Americans repose in the Nation's commerce.

Pentagon Kills Army Project

Aimed at Probing Red Gains in Poor Nations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department announced cancellation today of the controversial Army Project Camelot which aimed at determining how Communists capitalize on revolutionary change in underdeveloped countries.

It said in a terse, four-line statement that after a reevaluation "it has been concluded that the project as currently designed will not produce the desired information and the project is therefore being terminated."

The project which the Pentagon said has cost $300,000, drew attention several weeks ago when appearance of a Camelot reference in Chile caused a public flare-up there.

Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., demanded that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee probe the project.

Questions were raised about the propriety of a military move into an area so close to foreign relations.

PROJECT OBJECTIVE
McCarthy, in a letter to Chairman J. F. Fulbright of the foreign relations committee said the objective of the project was to "determine the feasibility of developing a general social systems model which would make it possible to predict and influence politically significant aspects of social change in the developing nations of the world."

Prior to the Chile incident, McCarthy said, it was reported an attempt had been made to investigate French Canadians for possible insurgent activity.

In answering questions about what was wrong with Camelot, a Pentagon spokesman said:

"One of the most difficult problems implicit in the research plan was that of doing research in foreign countries."

"However, the sensitivity of the problem... was demonstrated by the reaction to the possibility... that Camelot research would be done" in Chile.

Treasury Position

The Pentagon spokesman said no such research was ever actually started in Chile.

"This problem had been under discussion for several months during the Camelot plan evaluation when the Chile incident confirmed the fears that such an approach was not practical," a Pentagon spokesman said.

ANPA Hits Double Pay for Overtime

WASHINGTON (AP)—Double pay for overtime was opposed Wednesday by the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

James T. Dorris, business manager of the Detroit News, said the proposal by the Johnson administration would not achieve its stated goal of spreading work because there is no unemployment in the industry.

"There is no continuing unemployment problem, hard-core or otherwise," Dorris told a House Labor subcommittee.

"Actually, a chronic shortage of skilled craftsmen has existed for over two decades."

Dorris appeared in support of the ANPA's position as outlined in a letter to the subcommittee from M. W. Armstrong III, chairman of the association's Federal Laws Committee. Armstrong is president and publisher of the Roanoke (Va.) Times and News-Week.

News in Brief

Dorris said the association also opposed the suggested legislation because newspapers cannot adjust work schedules to the unpredictable flow of news.

"You can store bolts and nuts, pills or shoes," he said, "but there is nothing older than yesterday's newspaper. Newspapers either come out at the proper time with their information and advertisements or they go out by themselves."

James T. Dorris, business manager of the Detroit News, said the proposal by the Johnson administration would not achieve its stated goal of spreading work because there is no unemployment in the industry.

"There is no continuing unemployment problem, hard-core or otherwise," Dorris told a House Labor subcommittee.

"Actually, a chronic shortage of skilled craftsmen has existed for over two decades."

Dorris appeared in support of the ANPA's position as outlined in a letter to the subcommittee from M. W. Armstrong III, chairman of the association's Federal Laws Committee. Armstrong is president and publisher of the Roanoke (Va.) Times and News-Week.

News in Brief

Dorris said the association also opposed the suggested legislation because newspapers cannot adjust work schedules to the unpredictable flow of news.

"You can store bolts and nuts, pills or shoes," he said, "but there is nothing older than yesterday's newspaper. Newspapers either come out at the proper time with their information and advertisements or they go out by themselves."
