State High Court Rejects Quick Con-Con Bid

Charged With Murder

Farmington Husband Kills Wife on 'Urge'

An order for a first-degree murder warrant was issued this morning against a 22-year-old Farmington Township man who admitted he knifed his wife to death yesterday because he "had an urge."

Prosecutor George F. Taylor said he would later petition for a hearing to test Lawrence E. Rabey's sanity. He is a former mental patient.

DELORES RABEY

Taylor said Rabey made a statement in his office this morning confessing the savage killing of his wife Delores, 20, because he "wanted to become a woman."

Rabey admitted, Taylor said, attacking his wife as she slept early Wednesday morning.

According to the confession, as Taylor related it, Rabey first beat his wife into unconsciousness with a 12-inch length of steel.

The man said he then slashed her throat with a knife.

QUIZZED ON GACA CASE

He was also questioned on the unsolved 1955 murder of Barbara Gaca of Detroit.

Taylor said Rabey denied molesting "any little girls whatsoever." He said his office could continue to look into this possible connection.

Taylor said Rabey, who upon his arrest yesterday was vague on details of the brutal slaying, today gave "a complete story, remembering everything."

Rabey, with both wrists bandaged, calmly walked into the Redford State Police Post at 2 p.m. Wednesday and told troopers, "I need help . . . I've killed my wife."

Moments later troopers and detectives found the mutilated body of Mrs. Rabey in the blood-spattered living room of her home

Police Threats Cooling Crowd

Chattanooga Downtown Quieter Today After 20 Race Arrests Yesterday

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Fire hoses and the threat of police billy clubs cooled tempers of thousands of racially-tense Negroes and whites who stormed Chattanooga's downtown area for the second straight day.

Twenty persons — eleven Negroes and nine whites—were arrested Wednesday. Police said pistols were taken from three of them.

The mass of humanity was several times larger but the day's violence did not match the bitter fighting that flared Tuesday when gangs of belligerent white youths challenged Negro demonstrations for integrated lunch counter service.

Elsewhere in the South the situation was relatively quiet on the sitdown front, that spread from a demonstration in Greensboro, N.C., more than two weeks ago.

In Charlotte, N.C., a Negro boy and girl were served lunch at a department store counter reserved for whites. A store official said the couple's light skin apparently caused them to be mistaken for white because the store's segregated counter policy was unchanged.

Both houses of the Virginia Legislature quickly passed three trespass bills. The emergency measures were proposed by Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. to thwart lunch counter sitdown by Negroes.

40 Meet Death in Air Collision Over Rio

U.S. Navy Musicians Aboard One of Planes; Other Is Brazilian

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—A plane carrying U.S. Navy musicians collided over Guanabara bay here with a Brazilian commercial plane. There were indications of 40 or more deaths in the crash of the two planes.

The collision took place in sight of Sugar Loaf Mountain, in the bay area where President Eisenhower paraded yesterday. The President was in Sao Paulo, Brazil, today when the collision took place.

The Brazilian Air Force said it believed 40 men were aboard a DC4 plane carrying the Navy musicians. But in Washington the White House said the plane carried 27 Navy band and orchestra members and a crew of 7.

Several survivors were reported, but first indications were that some of these came from the commercial plane.

The Navy plane was described as a DC4 and the commercial plane as a F47 or DC3 of the Real line, a major domestic carrier in Brazil.

Reports from the Rio Yacht Club, near the scene of the collision, said some musical instruments had been pulled from the water along with nine bodies.

A U. S. Marine band came to last week and participated yesterday in the parade honoring Eisenhower. It was to have flown to Buenos Aires, Argentina, today to take part in ceremonies honoring President Eisenhower there tomorrow.

U.S. military helicopters, providing transportation at spots for President Eisenhower on his trip to four Latin American countries, are helping in rescue work.

Mrs. Anne Wheaton, associate White House press secretary, said the musicians were not assigned to the Eisenhower trip but went to South America 10 days ahead and happened to be in the area during the President's visit.

Navy band headquarters said the director of the band, commander Charles Brendler, was with the band in Brazil.

The schedule for the Navy band — including its chorus, the Sea Chanters and its dance combo — called for the group to board the cruiser Macon in the Caribbean to begin a tour of South America.

Concert schedules included appearances in Buenos Aires, Argentina, on Feb. 22 and possible some additional days. The band also was expected to give concerts in Rio de Janeiro and Montevideo, Uruguay.

Ike's Greeting . . . Damp but Warm

WATCH THOSE UMBRELLAS, FOLKS — President Eisenhower wears a raincoat as he stands to wave to the crowd along the parade route after his arrival in Sao Paulo today. It was his third stop in Brazil as he continues his South American tour. A heavy rain was falling and all those in the crowd who had them tried to stay under their umbrellas. Part of the time Ike waved his hat and went bareheaded.

Rides Through Heavy Rain in Sao Paulo

1,000 at Lunch With Ike

By STANFORD BRADSHAW

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — President Eisenhower sometimes doffed his gray felt hat and rode bareheaded in a heavy raint today to acknowledge the cheers of a half million or more fans in this industrial heart of Brazil.

Confetti and ticker tape littered drenched streets.

Later at a luncheon Eisenhower extolled the free-enterprise system and pledged continued U. S. support for Brazil's economic development.

Opportunity without discrimination is a vital aspect of democracy in both Brazil and the United States, he said, and freedom in the long run yields the most productive economic system ever devised by man.

"Our socially conscious private-enterprise system benefits all the people, owners and workers alike," he said. "It has resulted in high productivity, high consumption, high wages, and a reasonable return on investment. Balanced progress is our watchword.

"In freedom the Brazilian worker is happily demonstrating the joys of life under a democratic system."

Speaking of opportunity without discrimination, he said: "We believe fervently that no one should be denied the chance for or the fruits of self-betterment because of his race, religion, sex, class or political beliefs."

Eisenhower pledged that "within our financial and economic capacity, we shall continue to support Brazilian development." Brazil has received more than 2½ billion dollars in U. S. public and private credits.

A thousand guests attended the luncheon, sponsored by the Commercial Assn., the Industrial Assn. and the Rural Society. These big trade organizations include among their members businessmen who manage branch factories for U.S. and European companies manufacturing their products here for Brazilian distribution.

Lassiter Lawyer Claims Widow's Rights Violated

DETROIT (AP) — State police were accused today of violating the civil rights of pretty, blonde Mrs. Nelle Lassiter, accused in the slaying of her well-to-do auto dealer husband.

Her attorney, Joseph W. Louisell of Detroit, charged the woman was held incommunicado for 12 hours yesterday while police questioned her in relays.

"They had no right to question her further after they had arrested her," complained Louisell, a prominent criminal lawyer.

"She didn't want to talk to them. They should have immediately taken her before a magistrate for arrignment."

Dressed in chic beige clothes and wearing dark glasses, the 38-year-old former model pleaded innocent when finally arraigned on charges of first degree murder and conspiracy in the slaying of Parvin (Bill) Lassiter last April.

Lassiter ran a Woodward avenue car lot in Royal Oak, where he specialized in foreign autos.

Meanwhile, authorities sought the return to Michigan of a long-standing friend of the Lassiters.

In Los Angeles, Gordon Watson, a business associate of Lassiter, was arraigned on a fugitive warrant.

Michigan authorities also charge him with first degree murder and conspiracy in the slaying.

Watson was jailed pending an extradition hearing March 25. His attorney indicated Watson would fight extradition to Michigan, where he was associated with Lassiter in a car dealership in Royal Oak.

The shapely Mrs. Lassiter, sobbing and seemingly exhausted, demanded examination at her arraignment.

Dearborn Township Justice John L. Mokersky set examination for March 4. Mrs. Lassiter of 19080 Beverly Rd., Beverly Hills, was remanded to Wayne County Jail in Detroit without bail.

No bail is permitted in Michigan on first degree (premeditated) murder charges.

A warrant charging Mrs. Lassiter was issued Monday as she waited to testify as a prosecution witness against three men accused in the slaying of her husband.

Meanwhile, the state contended yesterday that Lassiter was slain prematurely in a robbery attempt, saying he was shot to death by a man who was not in on a plot to murder the car dealer.

The prosecution said the man was Charles W. Nash, 43, who pleaded guilty in Circuit Court yesterday to second degree (unplanned) murder.

Columnist Will Speak Here

Abby Coming to Town

By HAROLD A. FITZGERALD
Publisher, The Pontiac Press

CHICAGO — Dear Abby will appear in Pontiac in person next fall. This nationally known columnist is scheduled to make a public address to area people.

★ ★ ★

Long an admirer of her column in The Pontiac Press, I seized an opportunity to schedule a meeting with this charming lady at the Inland Daily Press Assn. here.

This was strictly commercial.

The fact Abby is a whale of a good looking girl in her late 30s couldn't alter the journalistic necessities of the moment. This was an assignment.

Also, the fact Dear Abby is the brunette's brunette, scales 105 pounds and stands five feet even with eyes of blue had no bearing. These are just unavoidable circumstances. There are "occupational hazards" in all callings.

Abby's looks are an extraneous factor anyway, and never figured in this grave, professional discourse. A reporter wrote in Life Magazine: "Abby has the sort of lush figure that seems designed primarily for slithering through beaded curtains." There weren't any beaded curtains at hand for Abby to slither through, but even without these dubious props you have no sense of being cheated.

ABBY VAN BUREN

Asked whether she'd like to come to Pontiac and speak to Press readers, Abby cogitated and then looked right into my weak, pale green eyes and said: "I might. I might."

We agreed tentatively on "sometime in the fall" and you'll learn the details late in the summer.

Aren't you glad this grand little feminine dynamo is coming to Pontiac? I am. I really need a lot of personal advice myself. (Echo from home: "You can say that again.")

Well, boys and girls, look forward to Dear Abby, and be sure and read her every day.

She offers special messages for teen-agers, the 20s, the newly married, the middle aged and for the doddering, old sunshine coots like me. Yep—our Abby really has it.

★ ★ ★

Her column is only a few years old but it appears in more newspapers than any similar column there is. She's the champ. The Pontiac Press gives you the best.

6 Unanimous on Bradt Plea Over '49 Ruling

Justices Souris, Black Take No Part; Backers Must Wait Till Fall

LANSING (AP) — A Bid by a Port Huron attorney to force prompt calling of a state constitutional convention was firmly rejected today by the State Supreme Court. The turndown came as no surprise.

All six justices participating in the decision rejected Peter E. Bradt's petition asking the court to overthrow a 1949 decision and direct the state board of canvassers to pave the way for a convention.

Justices Theodore Souris, seated on the high court only last month, and Eugene F. Black took no part.

Black disqualified himself after a dramatic and unprecedented episode in which he rendered his opinion in the case, obviously prepared long beforehand, immediately upon conclusion of oral arguments.

Bradt argued that the people ordered a convention to overhaul the constitution when a majority voting on the question approved the proposition in 1948, and a second time in 1958.

The canvassing board and the Supreme Court have held that approval of a constitutional convention proposition requires the favorable vote of a majority of those voting at the election, a much stiffer requirement.

'NOT QUESTION OF WISDOM'

Said Justice Talbot Smith, who wrote the decision:

"The question before us is not the wisdom of providing for a different vote. That is a question for the draftsmen of the constitution. Our study is not to draft a constitution but to uphold the one adopted by the people.

"The simple, inescapable fact," he concluded. "Is that the constitution clearly distinguishes between the vote required to approve a constitutional amendment and that required to call a constitutional convention."

The court's decision makes it necessary for backers of a constitutional convention in 1961 to put the issue before voters again next November.

The Legislature is considering resolutions and bills to put the

Hurrah!! Living Cost Dips a Bit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lower prices for clothing, new cars, eggs and most meats brought a slight decline in living costs in January.

It was the second straight monthly dip in the government's living-cost index.

Even so, the index is still just a little under its record high.

Although down from December, the January living-cost level was a record high for a January.

The Labor Department reported today the index dropped one-tenth of one per cent in January to 125.4 per cent of the 1947-49 base period. This is the lowest living-cost level since September, but it is 1.3 per cent above a year earlier.

The slight change will affect the wages of various workers whose union contracts provide for adjustments geared to the index.

Wages of about 60,000 workers in aircraft and farm machinery industries will be reduced, in most cases by one cent an hour.

About 14,000 trucking industry workers will receive a one per cent hourly raise on a different adjustment basis.

There will be no wage changes for about a million workers in the auto and related products industries.

The Labor Department also reported that spendable earnings of factory workers remained at a record high in January. This is contrary to the seasonal tendency and is despite a rise of one-half of one per cent in the Social Security tax.

Larry Rabey Held in Wife-Slaying

His Neighbors Can't Understand

By JIM LONG

Less than two hours before Mrs. Delores Rabey, 20, was brutally slain yesterday morning in her Farmington Township home, she was laughing and enjoying television at the home of a neighbor.

She had just finished baby-sitting for Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ackerman, 21639 Hancock St., while they attended a PTA meeting, and was waiting for her husband, Lawrence, to pick her up.

"We got home earlier than we expected so the three of us just sat around and talked and watched TV," Ackerman said.

"Larry arrived shortly after 11 p.m. and they left about 45 minutes later," he said.

Rabey, 22, is being held in the Oakland County Jail on a charge of first degree murder.

Employed at St. Mary's hospital in Livonia as an orderly, Rabey has a past history of mental disorders.

"When Larry left my house, I can honestly say he was all right," Ackerman said.

"Rabey has always acted strange, but there was no indication he might do this terrible thing," he said.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND

Neighbors on both sides of the three-room, gray-shingled house at 21621 Waldron St. were at a complete loss as to what happened to Rabey.

Charles Ripaldi, 21565 Waldron, said he was awake at the time the coroner set the time of death, between 1 and 2 a.m.

"I just can't understand why I didn't hear any screams or commotion," Ripaldi said. "My home is only 30 feet away.

"It's unbelievable, a terrible thing," Ripaldi said. "I always knew he was high strung and flighty, but I never expected anything like this.

"He used to come over and tell me how he was going to start a business or take up a trade, and I always told him that he wasn't cut out to meet the public.

"That's why he quit several jobs. He just couldn't express himself," Ripaldi said.

Ira J. Wing, 21521 Waldron, who is selling the small house to Rabey, said, "He was mild mannered, but the nervous type."

"He always seemed to be trying to make a go of it, but he seemed to fail in everything he did," Wing said.

"He made his monthly payments on the house as regularly as clockwork. He never missed," Wing said.

"I just can't understand why he would do such a horrible thing."

at 21621 Waldron St., Farmington Township.

So began to unfold the horror of what police and prosecutors described as the "most grotesque murder case" they had ever seen.

The victim's husband was accompanied to the post by his father, Charles Rabey, of 13910 Sussex, Detroit.

Rabey had been under treatment for a mental condition since he was 14, his father told police.

The young husband said he awoke at about 11:30 a.m. on the floor next to his bed, and saw his wife's body in the living room through the open bedroom door.

"I know I must have done it, but I don't remember anything," he sobbed, said Det. Sgt. Ray A. Whalen. Rabey saw that his wrists and one ankle were slashed.

When 14 years old, Rabey attempted to assalt a married woman who was a friend of the family, Whalen said.

His father took him to a psychiatrist who, after a series of tests, had Rabey committed to St. Josephs Retreat, a Detroit mental institution.

He stayed there for about six weeks and was released. He had been undergoing treatment ever since, police said. An Army veteran, he was given a medical discharge after six months in the service due to the mental condition.

Neighbors on either side said they heard nothing during the night of the slaying. When he woke, Rabey said, he dressed, put two bottles of milk and some diapers in a suitcase for the couples four-month-old son, Guy Joseph, bundled up the baby and drove to his parents' home.

He was covered with blood when he walked into their house carrying his son.

Rabey, dropped out of school in the 11th grade, was employed as an orderly at St. Mary's Hospital, in Livonia, said Capt. Fred Davids, commander of the State Police 2nd District Headquarters.

His parents said they thought marriage would help him. The young couple was married in October, 1958. They had only one son.

The pretty, brown-haired young wife had just recently learned she was to have another baby in October. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy LeMieux of 22226 Wyman St., Detroit.

"It was the most grotesque crime I've ever seen," said Prosecutor Taylor upon leaving Rabey's house. Rabey was taken to Pontiac General Hospital where his wrists and ankle were stifched and he was given blood.

Backs Repeal of Income Tax

State Group Requests Support of Resolution to Scrap Levy

Repeal of the federal income tax, being pushed for in Lansing by Rep. Lloyd L. Anderson (R-Waterford Township) and others, has gained support for the Michigan Committee for Economic Freedom.

Some 40 members asked support for a resolution called on Congress to propose a constitutional amendment for the tax repeal and liquidation of federal properties and facilities competing with private enterprise.

Willis E. Stone of Los Angeles, head of the National Committee for Economic Freedom, told the House committee on rules and resolutions the lost income tax would be made up by forced sale of land and facilities of federal corporate activities.

Legislature in Texas and Wyoming have endorsed this proposal. Orville F. Sherwood of Detroit, head of the Michigan group, said the organization hopes to obtain support from 34 legislatures—the required two-thirds—to compel Congress to submit the proposal to the states for ratification.

"We feel, however, that if we can get 20 states to agree, Congress will submit the proposal for ratification voluntarily," Sherwood said.

Utility Workers Threaten Strike

Williams Hopes to Avert Move Voted by Union at Consumers Power

LANSING (UPI) — Gov. G. Mennen Williams today said "everything possible" would be done to avert a strike of Consumers Power Co. workers in the state.

The Utility Workers of America Union has voted to strike the giant utility if necessary to obtain a new contract. A two-year contract is to expire at midnight Monday.

Williams said Allan Chisholm, chairman of the State Labor Mediation Board had reported on the situation to him and that meetings would be held over the weekend between the union and state and federal mediators.

Specific issues in the dispute have not been disclosed but apparently include fringe benefits and wages.

The utility operates in 63 of Michigan's 83 counties.

Final State Money Allocated for Tower

In a routine move, the State Aeronautics Commission in Lansing yesterday allocated a final $2,750 for the terminal-tower construction program under way at Pontiac Municipal Airport.

The additional funds put the total share at $91,750, or a fourth of total cost of the 1959 construction program.

The city is paying a quarter and the federal government half.

Opposes Detention of Hospital Patients

Set for final vote in Lansing today is a bill introduced by Rep. James Clarkson (D-Southfield) that would prohibit detention of patients in hospitals until they pay their bills or promise to do so.

The measure would prevent an "insidious" practice, according to Clarkson.

"I know of thousands of cases in Detroit where detention is practiced," said Rep. Frank Williams (D-Detroit).

Winter's Worst Hits Texas

Storms Rip Southwest

By The Associated Press

Wintry snow and sleet storms, dealing crippling blows as they swept across southwest sections spread into the Ohio and Lower Mississippi Valleys today.

Most of Texas was staggered by the violent weather, the worst in a series of storms this winter. Zero cold invaded the South Plains which was covered in some areas with a seven-inch snowfall.

Hundreds of families in East Texas were without heat or electricity because of power failures and natural gas line breaks. Scores of schools remained closed.

Snowstorms also belted eastern New Mexico, southern Oklahoma and Arkansas Wednesday. Falls ranged up to six inches in southern and central New Mexico and parts of Arkansas. The first snow in nine years fell in Texarkana, Ark.

Warnings of heavy snow — four inches or more — were issued by the Weather Bureau for areas in a band 100 to 200 miles wide from Arkansas northeast through southeast Missouri, most of Kentucky and southeast Ohio.

Miller Definite; Not After Office

Circumstances Against His Running for Seat in State Legislature

Robert C. Miller, former acting Pontiac postmaster, has spiked reports that he quit his job to run for political office. He said he "definitely will not be a candidate."

Miller, 32, of 194 N. Berkshire Rd., Bloomfield Township, recently went to Lansing to confer with Rep. Farrell E. Roberts (R-West Bloomfield Township), who had urged him to run for his seat. Roberts announced yesterday he will not seek re-election.

"I'd like the job in Lansing," Miller said. "I wanted it in 1956 and would like it now, but circumstances just won't permit it."

A former special investigator for the county prosecutor, Miller as Republican nominee, lost by 4,500 votes his bid tor Pontiac's District 2 legislative seat.

"If I could earn as much money up there as I can here and still keep everybody happy it would be a different story," said Miller who quit after two years as acting postmaster.

He said he was "tired of being kicked around like a political football" in that Michigan's two Democratic senators had refused to confirm him to the Senate after two years.

Miller has returned to his former sales job with Jerome Motor Sales in Pontiac.

Was in His Cabin, Says Van Rie

Admits Rendezvous With Murdered Girl

BOSTON (AP) — Willem Van Rie, Dutch ship radio operator, testified today that Lynn Kauffman was in his cabin for a three-hour period on the day he is alleged to have killed her.

This was brought out under cross-examination by Asst. Dist. Atty. John F. McAuliffe.

The 31-year-old murder trial defendant said the girl was in his cabin from 1 a. m. to 4 a. m. Sept. 18.

The state charges Van Rie beat Miss Kauffman and tossed her overboard from the Netherlands freighter Utrecht as it proceeded down Boston Harbor the night of Sept 18.

It alleges the Dutch wireless-man had a quarrel with her in her cabin.

The prosecutor prodded Van Rie for not mentioning the nocturnal visit in his direct testimony Wednesday.

McAuliffe opened his questioning by pointing out that in Vie Rie's direct testimony he mentioned the girl only as Mrs. Kauffman.

Several witnesses have referred to the 23-year-old divorcee as Mrs. Kauffman. She was divorced when she was 21. Her maiden name is Lynn Kauffman.

McAuliffe asked Van Rie if he so called her when she was his laundress.

Van Rie replied, "No, sir." He added: "She was not my laundress. She ironed my suit."

McAuliffe asked if he addressed her as Mrs. Kauffman when she returned the suit. Van Rie answered: "No, sir."

He conceded he had addressed her as Lynn.

Q. At any time yesterday did you call her Lynn?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Yesterday you told the court and jury the last time you saw the deceased alive was on the morning of Sept. 18, when the officers sent for her. How many hours before this did you see her?

A. Four.

It was then Van Rie told of her visit to his cabin.

Bloomfield Twp. Man Has Taken Petitions for Seat Being Vacated

A day after the incumbent announced he wouldn't seek re-election, a young political newcomer from Bloomfield Township has indicated his candidacy for Oakland's Third Legislative District seat on the Republican ticket.

Henry M. Hogan Jr., 27, who got his brief start in politics as township trustee, has taken out nominating petitions for the seat being vacated by Rep. Farrell E. Roberts, West Bloomfield Township Republican.

Completing his fourth year in the House, Roberts announced yesterday he was declining re-election to return to his law practice.

Hogan, too, is a lawyer. His father is general counsel of General Motors Corp.

After attending the Cranbrook School in Bloomfield Hills for several grades, the younger Hogan went to LaSalle Military Academy, Long Island, N. Y. He was graduated from there in 1950.

His later education includes a degree in political science in 1954 from Holy Cross College and a law degree from the University of Michigan in 1957. He was admitted to the Bar in Wayne County the same year. He is working on his master's degree in business administration at the U. of M.

Today he is associated with the Birmingham office of a Detroit law firm which he joined after being admitted to the Bar.

Saying he is a "political novice," with the exception of being elected as trustee for four years last April, Hogan described his campaign philosophy to date as one of believing "the state can't spend more money than you have."

His political experience also includes being township precinct captain the last 1½ years.

He lives with his wife and two daughters at 4233 W. Orchard Hill.

Reveal Teacher Salaries in Unfavorable Position

BIRMINGHAM — Two studies of the school district show that Birmingham has slipped into an unfavorable salary position in relation to other school districts in the metropolitan area.

The studies made by Superintendent Dwight B. Ireland and George Miller, head of the Birmingham Education Assn.'s salary committee, state that it is these districts Birmingham must compete with in order to secure new teachers and keep the ones it already has.

"To improve salary schedules and make them more competitive with surrounding areas an affirmative vote on the 4-mill tax proposal March 28 is needed," Bennett W. Root, Board of Education treasurer, said.

Dr. Ireland said that with the additional money from the new millage, an approximate 10 per cent increase could be granted personnel to bring salaries in line with other communities.

According to Dr. Ireland's study, Birmingham's starting salary of $4,500 ranks fortieth in the area.

Birmingham's top salary of $6,900 was twenty-eighth but it takes teachers 12 years to reach the maximum while instructors in other districts have only to teach 8 to 10 years to obtain the top salary.

Birmingham Cub Scout Pack 19 will hold its annual Blue and Gold Banquet this evening in the Hickory Grove School.

Observing scouting's golden jubilee, tables will be decorated with rainbows arching into pots of "gold." Birthday cakes will be decorated in gold.

Entertainment will feature Eddie Collins playing the banjo.

Cub awards will be presented to the boys.

Special guests will be Nathan Hargett, principal of Hickory Grove School, and Bloomfield Hills Superintendent Eugene L. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson.

The Young Adults Club of Birmingham YMCA has announced plans for a bowling tournament to be held at 8 p.m. March 4 at the "Y" alleys. Phyllis Maas is chairman.

On March 8, members will see "The Music Man" stage play at the Riviera Theater in Detroit. The group will leave in a body from the "Y" building at 7 p.m. Tickets are available now from Conrad Ekkens at the YMCA.

Dancing lessons by professionals will be given at the "Y" March 18 starting at 8 p.m. Marion Cannon is chairman, and Mary Chika is in charge of refreshments.

Mrs. Alexander R. Looney

Service for Mrs. Alexander R. (Anna Mary) Looney, 86, of 608 Purdy St., will be at 1 p.m. Saturday from Manley Bailey Funeral Home. Burial will be in White Chapel Memorial Cemetery, Troy.

Mrs. Looney died yesterday at her home after a short illness.

She was a member of the First Methodist Church of Birmingham and Rebecca Lodge in Birmingham.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Leonard Meraw of Bloomfield Hills; two sons, Lester of Yonkers, N. Y., and Howard of Silver Springs, Md.; a sister in Chicago and a brother, Dexter Salmond of Lapeer.

U-I Reaches Accord With Movie Writers

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Universal-International Pictures is the first major studio to reach a settlement with the Screen Writers Guild.

* * *

The new contract provides for payment to writers of 2 per cent of profits from release of post-1948 films sold to TV.

McDonald Wants Business-Labor Group for Ike

GRANITE CITY, Ill. (AP)—David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers Union, said Wednesday night he will ask President Eisenhower to appoint a permanent committee of 10 or 12 business and labor leaders to meet with the President at least six times a year and discuss pressing problems.

* * *

McDonald spoke at a civic banquet.

Earlier in St. Louis, he said that despite his praise of Vice President Richard M. Nixon's role in helping settle the steel strike, he would support the Democratic candidate for president. He added that he has not decided which Democrat he likes best.

'Intermarriage Not Our Goal,' Says Rev. King

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Racial intermarriage is not the goal of integrationists, says the leader of the Montgomery, Ala., Negroes' sucessful boycott against segregated buses.

"The basic aim is to be the white man's brother, not his brother-in-law," the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. told a news conference Wednesday.

However, he added, the state doesn't have the right to make laws which prevent racial intermarriage.

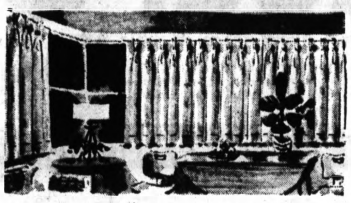

The Negro minister, here on a speaking tour, predicted Congress will pass a civil rights bill this year that is "stronger than what we have now."

Foreign Intervention Perverts Our Justice

There is a significant principle involved in the recent delay of CARYL CHESSMAN'S execution in California.

★ ★ ★

A man convicted of crimes and sentenced to death, after using up his legal remedies over an 11 year period, is given another 60 days to live because his execution might provoke angry protests in some of the South American nations President Eisenhower is now visiting.

★ ★ ★

Since when do such possibilities effectively halt the wheels of justice? The extensions of such a policy are even worse. Perhaps we'd all better drink two cups of coffee today, instead of one so none of the South American coffee growers gets sore and don't act as enthusiastic as they should when IKE rides by.

★ ★ ★

If there is a real question of security, our Secret Service advance men should be aware of it, and Ike should bypass the trouble spots. But to put off the execution as was done places the United States in the weakest possible pose of vacillation, and encourages others to see how far they can push us.

Service Manual Furor Justified but Excessive

All the furor over service manuals seems picayune and is actually pint size in importance. Lately the Pentagon has been embarrassed by some of the disclosures.

We agree they should be. As Representative CARL VINSON, Democrat of Georgia, said: "To be that stupid, you have to work at it."

A great deal of the criticism is probably true. But in defense, it is understandable when you realize the amount of this work going on. The Army index lists as many as 1,000 manuals, the Navy says it has 325 and the Air Force estimates it has around 425.

The manuals are prepared by special military staffs—sometimes with the help of outside writers. They cover largely technical problems. This type of irresponsibility in Government work demands an apology.

Investigations such as this, bringing out glaring inaccuracies, serve as a splendid check rein for the taxpayers. We might suggest that the same kind of tomfoolishness exists with some of our elected representatives in the form of world travel.

★ ★ ★

These same investigators that have found many sympathizers might well come up with a best seller on junketeering. We agree that a review of all service publications is in order.

Both Royal Births Are Happy, Unique Events

The two recent royal births were happy occasions for both the Japanese and English people. We join millions of others in wishing Queen ELIZABETH and Princess MICHIKA happiness and long life for their newborn sons.

★ ★ ★

Britons, like the Japs, were pleased and rejoiced at the news. In both cases some new royal facts came to light. In England, they had cause to rejoice because the birth of the third child of Elizabeth was the first to a reigning British monarch since Victoria bore her ninth child, Princess Beatrice, 103 years ago.

★ ★ ★

In the case of the Japanese, tradition was broken because the Princess herself is the daughter of a commoner. This young heir will become second in line of succession to the Japanese throne.

★ ★ ★

With all this intimate family news out of the way, the Britishers, along with the Japs, can now get back to normal business of world importance.

Pontiac Can Be Proud of Our Hospital's Work

Two recent news stories have indicated that Pontiac General Hospital is doing exceptionally well on one of the problems facing all hospitals, and also is trying new ideas in an attempt to improve patient care.

★ ★ ★

A hospital study group checked 112 hospitals for incidence of post-operative infections, and Pontiac had a lower incidence than 110 of them. This is even more remarkable considering the construction going on at the hospital, with all its accompanying problems.

★ ★ ★

Trying out a new idea, more intensive care for critical patients, and less for those able to help themselves, seems to be on the way to successful acceptance.

★ ★ ★

David Lawrence Claims:

Court Passes Buck on 'Good Faith'

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court of the United States has tossed out the window as unworkable the abstract phrasing of existing federal law which says that both employers and unions must bargain collectively "in good faith."

LAWRENCE

The court said, in effect, that the absence of good faith is too difficult to prove. Three justices—Frankfurter, Harlan and Whittaker—disagreed.

They contended that each case should turn on the evidence submitted, and they urged that the latest case should have gone back to the National Labor Relations Board for rehearing.

So, while the justices are unanimous in rejecting the board's conclusion in this instance, there is a significant division as to what may or may not be done generally under the law to exert "economic pressure" while collective bargaining is going on.

In the case just decided, the contract between an insurance agents' union and their employer had already expired. Also the employes had customarily received no salaries but only commissions. They chose, however, to carry on what might be called a "slow down."

They ceased for a time to solicit new business and, after resuming such work, didn't comply with the company's reporting procedures. In a sense they violated their understanding with the employer, who gave them exclusive rights to solicit business in certain areas on condition that they would perform certain duties each day.

But the language of the majority of the court is so broad that it looks as if it would cover even instances where regular wages are paid and the workers carry on a "slow down" during a contract period.

Up to now the employers of the country, while charging "bad faith" when such events happened during a collective bargaining negotiation, rarely undertook any disciplinary action in reprisal, such as firing the employes involved.

What the latest Supreme Court ruling may do is to encourage employers to dismiss employes who don't do a full day's work for specified amounts of pay.

If employers had done this before, the unions surely would have filed with the National Labor Relations Board charges of lack of "good faith" during collective bargaining.

Now it would appear that the way is open either for dismissals or for suits to be brought against unions which carry on "harassing" activities. Indeed, there might be legal redress even when work is continued in periods when contracts have already expired, provided damage to a business can be proved.

The significant thing is that the majority of the court evidently feels that the "good faith" clause is hard to rule upon because it is a vague phrase from which inferences are drawn that are speculative, and because evidence is difficult to relate to "good faith" or "bad faith."

The majority suggests that maybe Congress may wish to change the law so as to give a "more specific charter" to the labor board but declares that, until it does so, the Supreme Court is bound to regard "economic pressure" as not inconsistent with good-faith bargaining.

It is, of course, unlikely that Congress, in its present frame of mind, will pass any laws prohibiting "slow-down or "sit-down" strikes or other "economic pressure" carried on during collective-bargaining negotiations.

The minority of the court—Justices Frankfurter, Whittaker and Harlan—thinks the majority went too far and that each case should be decided on the evidence.

The minority justices declare that the instant case "should be remanded to the board for further opportunity to introduce pertinent evidence, if any there be, of respondent's (union's) lack of good faith."

Where does all this leave employer-employe relations? The majority justices say:

"Our labor policy is not presently erected on a foundation of government control of the results of negotiations. Nor does it contain a charter for the National Labor Relations Board to act at large in equalizing disparities of bargaining power between employer and union."

This plainly emphasizes that employers and unions are on an equal basis. Hereafter an employer may dismiss any employe who engages in a "slow down" or fails otherwise to do his job and the union cannot rely on the National Labor Relations Board to be sustained by the Supreme Court of the United States by merely charging a failure to bargain in "good faith."

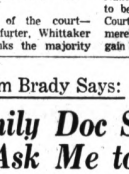

Dr. William Brady Says:

If Family Doc So Good Why Ask Me to Help?

A lady, 35, says she had always been irregular in her menses, going anywhere from three months to a year without.

"If I had gone to a specialist I imagine it would have been 'change of life.' But I went to our family doctor, about a year ago.

"Without benefit of a basal metabolism reading the doctor told me he believed my trouble was from my thyroid gland. He prescribed tablets which I took for a few months as he directed. Now I am regular for the first time in my life. (Mrs. — —)"

The lady digresses to tell me how well the family doctor has served various members of her family. "Believe me, from what I see nowadays, I am holding on to him." Then she gets back to what bothers her now: "Will I stop being regular when or if I discontinue these tablets? Is there anything I can add to my diet to regulate menstruation naturally?"

Holding on to him with a gossamer thread?

I can't understand you at all, Ma'am. You say you took the tablets for a few months, as directed by the doctor, with the benefit you had hoped for, but now you don't know whether to continue or stop taking the tablets.

Some vagrant zephyr must have broken that gossamer thread.

Wouldn't it be infinitely better to telephone, visit or write your doctor and ask him the question? To be sure, the doctor might charge a fee for his advice, but in the circumstances, even a Vermonter shouldn't mind.

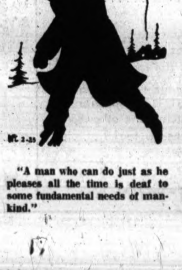

I can only surmise that the tablets are thyroid. If so, it may well be that the addition of a good daily ration of iodine to your regular diet will suffice to maintain the increased metabolism rate after you discontinue the thyroid tablets. For further particulars send me a stamped envelope bearing your address, and ask for my FREE pamphlet THE IODIN RATION.

Signed letters not more than one page or 300 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

'Rates in Country Shouldn't Go Up'

Concerning Michigan Bell's proposed raise in rates, I think it's worth it to people in Pontiac for the service you get, but I don't think it's fair in other areas mentioned,

People outside the city are paying more than $15 for a private line, over $10 for a two-party line and so on down the line. We country folks get an eight-party line for what you pay for a private line, and we're just not that far out in the country.

Also, every time it rains or gets damp our lines go out of order. The company is very good about fixing them each time, so there's no complaint in that department. I guess that's the disadvantage of not living in the city or a subdivision.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Young Men Better for Sales Jobs

Hank's case is doubly interesting to salesmen, as well as to preachers and teachers. The failure of older men can often be explained by the psychiatry outlined below. Older salesmen can coast for several years, but it takes Lew Sarett's "hell fire" to build up a successful clientele in this competitive modern age.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case D-488: Hank J., aged 57, has held several prominent jobs.

"But he is out of work," an insurance branch manager informed me, "and says he'd like to take a fling at selling life insurance.

"My company frowns on our hiring older people, but he has a lot of contacts and a brilliant brain.

"So what do you think of my giving him a try-out for six months?"

HAZARDS OF OLDER MEN

Well, I told him that the odds favored the advice of his company, for older men tend to coast on their laurels.

And if they aren't selling, they try to alibi before the younger salesmen by boasting of their former important positions.

Not all older men do this, but the odds show that most of them feel embarrassed at starting in a new field with younger co-workers, so they often start telling of the "good old days," as a means of inflating their own wounded ego.

Sure enough, after Hank had been on the job for a couple of months, his manager found him regaling the other salesmen with glowing stories of his travels and former important posts, including a government job.

But Hank didn't produce sales! And the lower his sales volume became on succeeding months, the more he tried to inflate his ego by stories of his successful past.

It is typical of all salesmen, whether of merchandise or even those sellers of ideas in classrooms or pulpits, that they tend to "coast."

★

They get lazy and attempt to get by on past work. Many an older clergyman thus tries to rely on more stained glass windows and other ornate ritual, to cover up his failure to produce better sermons.

SALESMEN, N. B.

While I was visiting in New York recently, a young sales manager of a newspaper syndicate mentioned a rival syndicate.

"Its salesmen are too old," he began. "They are past 60 and riding the coattails of their former hard work.

"They have lost their zip and fight. Now they are just genial grandfathers, so they can't compete with our crew in this rigorous field."

Knowing the men of whom he was talking, I was inclined to agree, with this younger sales manager, for salesmanship demands a lot of fire and drive.

A salesman must be sufficiently dominant and masculine to exude a lot of subconscious pressure.

Lew Sarett, former speech professor at Northwestern, used to describe this inner magnetism as "hell fire."

"A successful leader (salesman)," said Prof. Sarett "must have a lot of hell fire inside him."

Older men often lose their sex vigor, so they become platonic and placid, thus failing to show the diplomatic pugnacity needed to close deals.

And because they may lack their former physical excess energy, they often cut out the leg work or pounding the pavements that spells a topnotch salesman, reporter, doctor or even a clergyman.

An impotent man makes a poor salesman, for pugnacity correlates with sex vigor and a good salesman must have "fight," coupled with diplomacy.

All good salesmanship implies a certain amount of deft "pressure" and personality dominance. Dominance is usually based on sexual vigor.

Interest Rate Could Be Raised

Savings Bond Is Safest but Buyers Shy Away

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Savers are still in the saddle and the U.S. Treasury is coming off second best in its competition with other forms of investment for their business.

* * *

Few think that interest rates are likely to drop significantly or that easy money is likely to replace the tight for some time. So the rivalry is still unabated.

To halt the increase in redemptions of Series E and G Savings Bonds and the drop in their sales, a House committee is proposing to eliminate the legal limit on the amount of interest the Treasury can pay to holders.

But the President already has power to raise interest rates now being paid. Yet the Treasury has made no move to do so. Instead it is planning a drive to get employers to step up promotion of payroll savings plans in their plants.

'SAFEST RISK'

The argument is that, higher interest rates elsewhere or no, the Savings Bond is still the safest risk in the nation, especially for the the little investor.

The Treasury has power to lift these rates now because last year Congress raised the rate limit to 4¼ from its former 3½ per cent. The Treasury then set the present 3¾ per cent rate, hoping that would halt redemptions and increase sales.

But last month sales trailed the year-ago figure again, while redemptions topped it.

The lure to savers from other sources is just too tempting. Mutual savings banks and many commercial banks have lifted the rates they pay depositors.

Savings and loan associations have lifted their payments by varying degrees across the country. Some on the West Coast go as high as 4¼ per cent.

Many bonds yield five per cent or more and the Treasury itself went after the individual saver with a highly succesful five per cent offer.

CAUSED BY TIGHT MONEY

Yields have gone so high because money has been kept tight to discourage a new outburst of inflation, and credit often has been hard to come by.

The money market eased in the first weeks of the year, as it usually does. But there has been some stiffening of interest rates in recent days. Demand for business loans finally has begun to rise again. That helps keep money tight.

* * *

Fears of further inflation have been considerably allayed. But few expect the money managers to loosen the credit strings much unless another recession begins taking shape.

Body to Oversee Library Buying

Appointed by Willman, It Will Review Bids, Aid With Specifications

City Manager Walter K. Willman has appointed a special committee to coordinate purchase of an estimated $70,000 worth of equipment for the Pontiac Public Library.

The committee, he said, will be asked to review lists of needed equipment, aid in preparing specifications for each item and assist in the review of bids, to be sought later this year.

* * *

Equipment will be bought by the city purchasing agent, he said. Named to the committee were:

Assistant City Manager Robert A. Stierer, chairman; Marvin Alward, finance director; Frank Reed, purchasing agent; Phyllis Pope, city librarian; Mrs. Ada Evans, city clerk; and George Harris, of the architectural firm which designed the building, O'Dell, Hewlett and Luckenbach Associates of Birmingham.

The list of needed equipment is being prepared by Miss Pope and the architects.

The $600,000 library is under way in the Civic Center across South Parke street from City Hall. Construction costs are estimated at $500,000.

* * *

The building is scheduled for completion late this year or early next. About $30,000 worth of furnishings are being built in by contractors, mostly bookcases.

Construction Worker Bias End Demanded at Once

WASHINGTON (AP)—A government committee headed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon Wednesday demanded an immediate end to racial bias in hiring of workers on construction contracts for the government.

Nixon announced a new action program was adopted unanimously by President Eisenhower's committee on government contracts. He said it "has a good chance of making a breakthrough" in opening jobs to Negroes.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, a committee member, pledged full cooperation by organized labor in cracking down on local unions that restrict membership to white persons.

The committee unanimously adopted a resolution calling on the government contracting agencies to direct all contractors to comply immediately with clauses in their contracts barring discrimination because of race, color, creed, or national origin.

STORM IN CAPITAL AREA

Such compliance was insisted upon particularly on federal projects in the U. S. capital area where hiring discrimination has recently stirred up a storm.

The discrimination has come about this way: contractors, although agreeing they will not discriminate, get their workers from unions. The unions take in few Negro members.

The Nixon-headed committee called on Congress to include in pending civil rights legislation provisions to give the committee statutory status.

The group is now operating on the basis of an executive order from Eisenhower.

Those attending Wednesday's committee meeting included Nixon, Meany, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, President Walter Reuther of the Auto Workers Union, and representatives of major government contracting agencies such as the Defense Department, General Services Administration, and Atomic Energy Commission.

Nixon, Mitchell and Reuther all told newsmen the session was harmonious and constructive.

Meany repeated his recent pledge to furnish qualified nonunion Negro workers to contractors where AFL-CIO local unions refused to permit Negroes to work on federal construction jobs.

Television Chats by Fidel Castro Keep Him Going

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP)—The monthly "IPI report" of the International Press Institute today said Cuban leader Fidel Castro's introduction of "government by television" may prove as significant as the Greek invention of government by ballot.

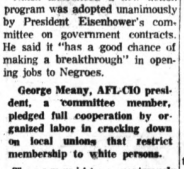

Judging from 13 months' experience, "Castro's invention" has already proved its worth, Jean Ziegler, a prominent Swiss journalist, wrote.

"For six million Cubans," Ziegler said after a visit to Cuba, "the sole expression of their government's will is the television speech twice weekly by its chief . . . opinion may be divided on this method of government, but one thing must be admitted: thanks to television Fidel Castro has succeeded in preserving the dynamic force of his revolution to the present day."

Boy Had Good Start but Police Suspicious

KETTERING, Ohio (UPI)—When the police found 12-year-old George Ray Marshall Tuesday night, they bagged the kidnaper, the kidnaped and the ransom demander all in one.

George left for school at 8 a.m. At 9:37 a.m. his mother, Mrs. Charlotte Marshall, answered the telephone and heard a voice growl, "If you want to see your son again, well, you'll have to pay 500 dollars." The caller then hung up.

Mrs. Marshall called Beaver Town School and learned that her son had not arrived there. She called the police. The police brought in the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and a 12-hour hunt began.

★ ★ ★

But Kettering Police Chief John Shryock was suspicious. Five hundred dollars was small change for a man risking a kidnaping conviction, and the boy's father, Thomas Marshall, was only a post office worker in nearby Dayton. Besides, George had run away from home four times before.

The authorities decided to wait for nightfall.

When it got dark and very cold, a shivering, hungry boy knocked on the door of Mrs. Willa Mae Shoemaker's home at Waynesville, about 20 miles south of Kettering. Mrs. Shoemaker called police.

George was waiting when Det. Sgt. John D. Murray arrived. He admitted making the ransom demand and said he hung up because he didn't know what he was supposed to say next.

His Car Has Stamp of Distinction

LOS ANGELES (AP) — You might say Frank S. Belville's 1950 sedan would stamp an indelible impression on just about anyone who saw it.

It is covered with postage stamps—75,000 to 100,000 of them.

Belville 66, a retired truck driver and amateur drummer, said he covered his drums with stamps and it made such a hit he decided to stick stamps on his car, too. He sealed the stamps, collected from all over the world, with varnish.

"What a job," he told newsmen Tuesday. "Put them on one at a time. But it was worth it. Just look at the people. They love it. Coming over here I waited for a traffic light at Hollywood and Vine. It caused a terrific traffic jam. An officer came over to see what the commotion was all about.

"He said my car was the damnedest thing he had ever seen on wheels."

It's All Water Under the Banks

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee officials issued a call for help in locating some of the city's fire hydrants.

Safety Council Director Takes Himself Off Road

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The 75-year-old director of the Florida Safety Council has termed himself "not fit to drive" and turned in his driver's license.

Asher Frank of Tampa was given a suspended sentence in Municipal Court Wednesday after Judge Bob Johnson found him guilty of careless driving. Frank was involved in a minor auto accident Feb. 17.

Frank, who had been driving for 52 years, said he sent his license to the department of public safety following the accident.

Ants are said to have the most powerful jaw grip, in proportion to their size, of any insect or animal.

Nimitz Finds Arms Posture Reassuring

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Fleet Adm. Chester Nimitz, 75, and starting today on 76, finds the United States' defense posture reassuring.

★ ★ ★

At a birthday banquet Wednesday night, the retired commander of Pacific naval forces in World War II was lauded as "the senior statesman of the sea" and praised for distinguished service.

★ ★ ★

"It is reassuring to be told by the secretary of defense that U.S. defenses are so powerful and alert that no aggressor would dare attack unless led by a madman," he told the 600 guests.

Pennsy Railroad Locals All Set for Wide Strike

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—The Transport Workers Union said Wednesday it will strike the Pennsylvania Railroad because it has been unable to reach agreement on a new contract after eight months of negotiations.

No date was set for the strike of 20,000 nonoperating employes the TWU claims to represent.

* * *

The Union said it broke off negotiations with America's largest railroad. The PRR confirmed that talks had failed and reported the Union planned to take the dispute to the railroad mediation board.

Andrew Kaelin, international vice president of the TWU in charge of the railroad division, said presidents of PRR locals will meet here today and Friday "to organize the machinery for a system-wide strike."

Kaelin said the negotiating committee will recommend the walkout.

The TWU sought a wage increase of 35 cents an hour. The PRR, in a counter proposal, claimed its costs of operation were too high and suggested the TWU members take a 15-cent-an-hour pay cut. Workers now average $2.50 an hour.

TWU employes on the Pennsy mainly are maintenance and car workers, track workers, mechanics and repairmen. The railroad describes them as maintenance of equipment employes.

Baghdad Pact Lauded by Macmillan for Peace

LONDON (UP) — Prime Minister Macmillan Wednesday sent a message to the Ankara Secretariat of CENTO declaring his belief the alliance is helping preserve world peace.

The message was sent on the fifth anniversary of the signing of the treaty setting up the Baghdad Pact Alliance, now known as the Central Treaty Organization.

U.S. Census Estimated at 179 Million on Jan. 1

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Census Bureau estimated Wednesday that there were 179,245,000 men, women and children in the United States on Jan. 1.

This was an increase of 3,654,000, or 2.1 per cent, over the estimate a year earlier.

The bureau's 1960-exact count of the population starts April 1. It is expected to show a total of about 180 million persons.

Winkelman's Reporting Warehouse Expansion

DETROIT (UP)—Winkelman stores Wednesday announced plans for a million dollar expansion of its general offices and warehouse facilities in downtown Detroit.

A spokesman for the women's apparel store said construction on a new, block-square two-story building will start immediately. Completion is expected by next fall.

Winkelman's has 34 stores in the Detroit area.

UPHELD BY COURT — An appeal by Mrs. Daisy Bates of Little Rock, Ark., above, and another by Mrs. Birdie Williams, also of Little Rock, have been upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court. The court overturned fines of $25 each levied upon them for refusing to identify members of the National Association for the Protection of Colored People in their area.

U.S. May Offer Plebiscite Idea

Herter Toys With Plan for Germany but Sure Nikita Will Say No

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States may propose to the Soviet Union that the Germans themselves settle the future status of Germany in a plebiscite.

Under the plan, Germans would be polled on whether they prefer:

* * *

1. A united Germany with a single peace settlement.

2. A divided Germany with separate peace treaties.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter reportedly favors making such a proposal to Moscow, but Soviet officials have rejected the idea several times in the past.

In effect, the plebiscite voters—from both West and East Germany—would be deciding whether they want to follow Soviet or Allied policy.

For years Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has been campaigning for separate peace treaties, which would freeze the division of Germany. On the other hand, the Western powers say they want a single treaty with a united Germany.

* * *

For some months Herter has been thinking of the plebiscite as a possible proposal for the Western leaders when they meet with Khrushchev at the East-West summit conference in Paris beginning May 16.

* * *

The idea has been tossed around by representatives of the United States, Britain, France, and West Germany in the past few weeks as they have exchanged views on summit policy.

If a plebiscite were held, Western leaders are convinced the Germans would vote for unification and a single peace treaty.

This is one reason officials believe Khrushchev would reject a plebiscite plan. Nevertheless, they feel the proposal would dramatize the Western view that the Germans should be allowed to decide the future of their country themselves.

Delve Into Florida Convention

House Payola Probers Subpoena Hotel Records

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House payola investigators reported Wednesday they have subpoenaed records of six Florida hotels where disc jockeys stayed, and played, during their 1959 convention.

An investigating subcommittee source said the panel intended to "take a good close look" at the books to see how they reflect record company spending on behalf of disc jockeys.

The subcommittee said its agents had issued subpoenas for records of the Beau Rivage, Balmoral, Bal Harbour, Shamrock Isle, and Singapore hotels in Miami Beach, and the Sir John Hotel in Miami.

Account books of Miami Beach's Americana Hotel, headquarters for the convention last May, previously were obtained by the subcommittee.

Testimony before the subcommittee two weeks ago showed record firms picked up an entertainment tab totaling $117,665 at the Americana alone during the three-day convention.

* * *

This ran the gamut, from a $12,357 cocktail party given by Capitol Records to an all-night barbecue, recording session and breakfast which cost Roulette Records $15,415, including $8,850 just for liquor.

Subcommittee members have referred to descriptions of the convention as a "booze, broads and bribes" session.

One disc jockey who attended it, however, charged the convention has been a subject of "biased" newspaper reporting. He said there were numerous serious panel discussions at which the disc jockeys thrashed out mutual problems.

* * *

The subcommittee has declined to say whether it intends to hear further public testimony on the convention after it resumes payola hearings March 3. However, signs are mounting that it will.

Besides seeking the records of the hotels, the subcommittee recently issued a subpoena for a list of everyone who attended the convention. About 3,000 disc jockeys, record industry officials and others were reported to have been on hand.

Bus Aid Bill Battle Looms

House Readies Guns on Relief Measure Approved by Senate

LANSING (AP) — Stiff opposition appeared likely today as the House got set for a vote on a Senate-approved bill to give financial relief to local bus companies.

* * *

Backers pushed the measure toward an early vote, hoping for passage before the new vehicle licensing year begins March 1.

The plan would cut license fees to $25 per bus, tapping the motor vehicle highway fund for about $105,000.

Current fees, based on weight average $300 per vehicle.

* * *

Gov. Williams last year vetoed a similar measure, which also would have exempted bus firms from gasoline taxes.

In debate yesterday, Reps. James P. Mielock (R-Whittemore) and William C. Sterling (D-Monroe), branded the bill "a raid on highway funds."

Dems' Veto Hopes Slim on Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — With little hope of success, House Democratic leaders scheduled a vote today on whether to override President Eisenhower's veto on antipollution bill.

Indications were they would fall 10 or more votes short of the two-thirds needed to enact the multi-million dollar measure into law over the President's objections.

The bill would authorize federal grants of 90 million dollars a year for 10 years to help municipalities build sewage treatment plants. Present law, not affected by the veto, sets the limit at 50 million a year.

Eisenhower objected to the proposed increased use of federal funds for the program, and said the job of clearing pollution from the nation's streams is primarily the responsibility of state and local governments. He has urged that the present program of federal grants be curtailed and eventually ended.

State's High Court Hears Senate Case

LANSING (AP) — The State Supreme Court assembled today to hand down decisions and hear arguments in a battle over the way Senate districts are drawn up.

* *

Latest to enter the dispute was the Detroit Chapter of Americans for Democratic Action which filed a terse brief yesterday contending Senate districts are not based on any "rational or reasonable" plan of representation.

* * *

The organization, which described itself as independent and non-partisan, joined August Scholle, Michigan AFL-CIO president, and the Detroit Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union in seeking to throw out the present districting system.

Japan now exports almost 700,000 cases of Mandarin oranges annually to the United States and expects this figure to rise to one million in 1960.

Seal of Quality, Aging Unit OK'd

Pass Easily in House, but Could Have More Trouble in Senate

LANSING (AP)— A seal of quality program and a commission on the aging—two of Gov. Williams' pet proposals—moved into the Republican-controlled Senate today after breezing through the House.

The seal of quality measure, approved 80-16 Tuesday, is designed to promote Michigan farm products in other states. It carries the endorsement of the Michigan Farm Bureau, Michigan Grange and other agriculture organizations.

Opponents, all Republicans, contended it would add an unnecessary cost to farming, though participation is voluntary. The State Agriculture Commission would issue seals to farmers whose products qualify for the rating.

The measure has twice passed the House and died in the Senate. Williams has plugged it for 12 straight years.

The commission on the aging, passed 80-16, would replace a temporary group headed by James E. Brophy of Detroit. The initial appropriation would be $40,000.

The commission would act as a clearing house between state and local groups dealing with problems of the aging. It also would conduct surveys, set up education programs and dispense information.

It also has cleared the House and died in the Senate.

Another Williams-endorsed measure to create a small business division in the State Economic Development Department picked up a 53-45 vote, three short of passage. It was revived for another vote next week.

The division, calling for no appropriation, would furnish technical and managerial aid to small businesses which cannot furnish it for themselves.

Switzerland has three names, one for each of its official languages. It's Schweiz in German, Suisse in French and Svizzera in Italian.

"OUSTED BY STALIN" — Earl Browder, shown in New York, says Joseph Stalin personally had him kicked out as head of the Communist Party in America. The statement, made in a magazine article by Browder, is his first public comment on the 1945 ouster. It took a speech by Nikita Khrushchev to the 20th Soviet Party Congress in 1956 condemning Stalin before Browder himself understood that it was Stalin who kicked him out.

Study Income Tax on Stock Dividends

WASHINGTON (AP)— Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va) said Wednesday the finance committee has informally instructed its staff to make a study of ways to withhold income taxes on stock dividends.

It is understood a majority of the committee has indicated support of such a plan. This would represent a switch from the previous position of the group.

The House must originate tax legislation. However, Byrd, chairman of the finance group, said his committee could add the withholding proposal to a House-passed bill.

The Virginian said he has been advised such a measure might bring in 400 million dollars annually in additional revenue.

The Treasury formerly favored such a withholding plan but lately has not recommended it.

However, the Internal Revenue Service began a drive in December to collect more taxes on both dividends and interest.

It said five billion dollars of dividend and interest reported paid by corporations and banks has not shown up on individual tax returns.

More than one and a half billion wood-cased lead pencils are used each year in the United States. That's about nine for each man, woman and child in the country, according to the American Forest Products Industries, Inc.

30 Per Cent of Employes Participate in Athletic Events

No 'Dull' Boys in GMC Recreation Program

NO DUNKERS — There are no Wilt "the Stilt" players whom Bob Cousy stars on the many GMTC basketball teams represented in area league play, but there are over 100 players on the seven teams who enjoy the court at the YMCA on various days during the week.

TRAPSHOOTERS — One of the newest additions to the GMC recreation programs has been trap shooting leagues which have 20 summer teams with a total of 120 shooters and seven winter leagues of 39 members. There are two trap ranges on the GMC acreage near South Boulevard and Opdyke roads.

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

If you adhere to the adage "All work and no joy makes John a dull boy," then there should be very few "dull" boys and girls at General Motors Truck and Coach.

The GMC recreational program, which is one of the most comprehensive in the country, has 2,800 employes listed as active participants in six current athletic activities.

This means that nearly 30 per cent of the employes are engaged in the program, which by national standards is exceptionally high.

Titles and championship performances were not the main objectives when an organized recreational program was instituted by GMC back in 1929.

Harvey Johns, who helped initiate an organized program, and who later became its first recreational director in 1934, saw a great desire on the part of the employes to have good supervision in conducting the various athletic events and teams.

When Johns presented the idea 25 years ago, the company wasted no time in putting it into effect. "Without doubt, the recreational program has been tremendous in promoting good relations among employes and also between employes and the company," said Johns.

Institution of the program was not done haphazardly or without a formulated plan. Johns studied the University of Michigan's intra-mural system as early as 1929 and he subsequently offered it as a guide. The acceptance by the employes and the company administration has proved his judgement sound.

Johns stepped down as recreation director in 1942 but the interest and participation grew steadily to new heights.

Lew FitzGerald, who took over the duties of recreation director in January of this year, noted that "better than one of every four employes is enrolled in one of the present year-round activities, and indications point to a new record in participants as plans are getting underway for the spring and summer sports."

"We hardly ever turn down a new sports suggestion. If there are enough employes interested to make it go, we add it," he said.

★ ★ ★

Presently, GMC offers employes basketball, softball, bowling, trap shooting, archery and golf. Past programs have included boxing, baseball and table tennis.

Bowling attracts the widest interest, with golf a close second. The annual GMC doubles tournament, open to employes and their families, is one of the big sports event of the year.

LEW FITZGERALD

HARVEY JOHNS

More than 475 men and 85 women are bowling in eight leagues this winter. Seven trap-shooting teams with a winter league has 39 employes. Seven basketball teams have 125 players.

Besides two trap ranges, the 57-acre athletic field boasts three softball diamonds, a hardball diamond, an archery range and the latest addition, a golf driving range.

Latest innovation to the golf interest among the employes was the "Hole-in-One" contest conducted on the grounds. Over 300 participated and a far greater number is being anticipated this year.

The driving range has maximum distance of 250 yards and is always extensively used during the golf season.

The cost of operating the recreational program runs about $12,000 annually. These are operational costs among which are included 175 trophy awards made by GMC to winning teams and members.

★ ★ ★

While organized activities comprise the greater share of the program, GMC also encourages community recreation by cooperating with the Pontiac Recreation Department in the sponsorship of teams and the use of facilities.

★ ★ ★

One of the greatest gains of athletic prestige gained by GMC was the team which walked away with the national amateur baseball title in the American Baseball Congress tournament in 1947.

★ ★ ★

Many of its employes through the years have been recognized for individual athletic honors, and while the recreational program at the Pontiac plant is accepted as one of the best among industrial programs there is one other facet to the operation at GMC which cannot be overlooked — the company and its imployes also put out a pretty good product.

STREE--IIKE — The two softball diamonds at the GMC athletic area get plenty of action during the summer months with over 200 employes involved in league play.

FORE! — Newest and one of the most popular additions to the large area of sports facilities is the 250 yard driving range right on GMTC's own grounds. The first annual "Hole in One" contest last year drew over 300 golfers, men and women, and is expected to be one of the big events this year. There are six "tee" areas on the range.

SIGN OF ACTIVITY — The extensive athletic and recreational program offered by GMTC is told in this sign which stands proudly at the entrance of the 57 acres which encompass the various facilities which employes use to enjoy the many sports.

GMC ROBINHOODS — Popular activity among employes in the GMC recreation program is the archery league which enjoyed the range facilities right on company grounds on Opdyke road. There are six targets, and there are two men's leagues and a women's league which have over 50 participants.

Firms Realize Decision Impact

Teens Influence Our Cars

By JACK VANDENBERG
UPI Automotive Editor

DETROIT—Teenagers may have trouble getting the keys to the family car as often as they would like, but they have considerable influence on the type of car that goes with the keys.

Auto companies have long suspected that junior's urge to impress his girl friend with the family car has been a factor in father's decision on when to buy a new car and what type to buy.

And they felt that daughters also played a role in a family's car-buying decision although perhaps not as much as their brothers.

The auto companies had surveys to show that the head of the household was still the dominant decision maker and that he left the interior styling and color of the car largely up to his wife.

But not until recently have they had any definite evidence to show the role children in the family played.

Now at least two surveys on the subject have been completed and both tend to support the original belief—teen-agers are actually more car conscious than their parents.

FOLLOW TREND

A survey by Scholastic Publications conducted for Dodge Division of Chrysler Corp. showed that 5,000 junior and senior high school students had the same brand-name preferences for cars as was indicated by car sales popularity in 1958.

Between 55 and 61 per cent of the teen-agers, depending on the age and sex included in the group said they felt they influenced their parents' decision on what kind of car to buy and when to buy.

Boys felt they had more influence than girls but the under-15 set thought they had almost as much sway over their parents in this respect as those in the 15-20 age group.

Ford Motor Co. took a different approach. It surveyed new and used car buyers and seperated the families into three different groups.

The survey showed a greater percentage of families having children between the ages of 10 and 17 bought new cars than either families with children under 10 or families with no children.

Of the families with children 10-17 years old, 11.6 per cent purchased new cars within the last 12 months.

PERCENTAGE DROPS

The percentage dropped to 10.6 per cent for families with children under 10 and to 9.6 per cent for families with no children under 18.

Broken down into various income groups, the same pattern prevailed—families with children between 10 and 17 bought cars more readily than other families earning generally the same income.

Robert Eggart, market research director for Ford, said some of the difference might reflect differing family needs.

But he said needs could not account or all of the difference and the influence of teen-agers on their parents definitely was responsible for part of the difference.

Eggert said teen-agers tend to show strong preference for convertibles, hardtops and two-door sedans in that order. They want more performance from a car and they prefer bright colors.

None of the car companies designs any vehicle specifically for teen-agers but the auto industry admits that "other things being equal we try to include some factors which appeal to youth."

Government authorities estimate that coal and lignite comprise about 98 per cent of the U.S. mineral fuel energy reserves, not including the atomic power elements.

Sen. Hutchinson Announces Bid for Lt. Governor

LANSING (AP) — Sen. Edward Hutchinson of Fennville, a standard bearer of the Senate's conservative Republicans announced today he would bid for the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor.

The announcement by the veteran lawmaker came moments after Sen. Frank D. Beadle (R-St. Clair), Senate majority leader, revealed he would not try for the same post.

Hutchinson's entry into the race likely will pit him against Rep. George W. Sallade (R-Ann Arbor), three-term House member and maverick Republican, and Clarence A. Reid, GOP lieutenant governor in 1954-55.

Top Hoffa Aide, 5 Others Indicted for Illegal Gifts

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Harold J. Gibbons, a vice president of the Teamsters Union and top aide to Teamster President James Hoffa, was indicted by a federal grand jury Wednesday on a charge of making illegal political contributions. Five other teamster officials also were indicted.

All were accused of violating or conspiring to violate the Taft-Hartley Act, which forbids unions and corporations from contributing funds to candidates for federal office.

The alleged offenses are misdemeanors, carrying maximum penalties of one year in jail and a $1,000 fine, or both, on each count.

Indicted with Gibbons were Sidney Zagri, legislative counsel for the union; John Naber, secretary of Local 688 in St. Louis; William Latal, president of Local 688; Philip C. Reichardt, acting secretary of taxicab driver's Local 405 in St. Louis; and Joseph Bommarito, business agent for Local 405.

The indictments also named Locals 688 and 405 as defendants.

The 22-count indictment followed a five-month investigation by U.S. Atty. Wayne H. Bigler, the FBI and the Internal Revenue Service.

In 1956 and 1958, the indictment charged, payments ranging from $250 to $5,000 were made to the campaigns of Sen. Thomas C. Hennings (D-Mo); Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore); Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif); Rep. Henry Reuss (D-Wis) and unsuccessful congressional candidates James L. Sullivan and Robert C. Dowd, both of St. Louis.

Gibbons issued a statement at Miami, Fla., where the union's executive board is meeting, claiming the indictment is part of "the policy of the Eisenhower administration and the Justice Department to harass unions in an effort to weaken them, or if possible, to destroy them."

He added, "I have violated no law. I am not guilty of doing any wrongdoing."

Two of the others, Zagri and Reichardt, indicated they felt the same way.

Lawyer Outlines Hypothetical Case

Suggests Finch Guilty, Carole Innocent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carole Tregoff's attorney has painted a hypothetical picture suggesting her surgeon lover could be guilty of murdering his wife but that Carole is innocent.

Some observers saw the lawyer's imaginary anecdote for the jury Wednesday—in which he did not mention Dr. R. Bernard Finch by name—as a last-ditch effort to save Carole even at the doctor's expense.

But defense lawyers insisted there was no break in their ranks.

The defense took over final arguments after a prosecutor declared the lovers hoped to solve their financial and romantic problems with "one shot in the back" of Mrs. Finch.

The 42-year-old society surgeon and his 23-year-old mistress are charged with murdering his wife, Barbara Jean, 36, outside the Finch estate in suburban West Covina last July 18.

Carole's counsel, Robert A Neeb, who resumes his summation today, began by citing a hypothetical example that paralleled circumstances of the slaying:

"Supposing that I — somebody perhaps I knew had a tenant in a store and he wanted me to take him there and I agree.

"And supposing I furnish the automobile. Let us suppose I furnish the gasoline. Maybe I took him to dinner.

"Maybe I lent him some money, and I drove him to the scene of the place, and when I did, I knew that he was mad at his tenant, and they were having trouble. And he told me he was going to have it out with the tenant.

"And supposing he had a paper bag somewhere in my car and he said, 'Now, here we are. Let's go in. I'm going to have trouble with this fellow.' And he says, 'Bring the paper bag in.'

"And I bring it in, and he gets into an argument — he gets into an altercation, and maybe it turns out there is a weapon in the bag, and the tenant gets shot.

"Am I guilty of murder? No, I am not, because I didn't have a knowledgeful, intentional participation in the event which was unlawful.

"You have to answer this question in this case, as far as Carole Tregoff is concerned.

★ ★ ★

"Unless you believe ... that when the car was moving from Las Vegas to West Covina ... Carole Tregoff had in her mind an intent to kill, she is entitled to an acquittal of the charge of murder in this case."

Nuclear Sub Sargo Returning to Hawaii

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Sargo is headed for a sunny homecoming in Hawaii after being under the polar ice pack for almost a month during a trip to the North Pole.

The nuclear submarine surfaced Wednesday at the southern edge of the ice cap, near St. Lawrence Island off the western coast of Alaska. This is near the point at which she submerged Jan. 25 for the polar visit.

The Sargo headed Wednesday for a meeting with the icebreaker Staten Island. She's due back in Pearl Harbor early in March.

The atomic submarines Nautilus and Skate had made earlier trips to the pole.

K Will Support Indonesian Bid

Claims He's a Backer of Its Fight to Control West New Guinea

DENPASAR, Bali (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev today pledged the Soviet Union's support to Indonesia's struggle to gain control of Dutch West New Guinea.

★ ★ ★

"The Soviet people consider it a just and legal demand," the Soviet leader told a cheering crowd of 10,000 in downtown Denpasar, capital of the Isle of Bali.

Seated atop a bamboo platform, Khrushchev and President Sukarno watched an hour-long procession of Hindu rites representing birth to marriage.

ATTACKS IMPERIALISM

The Soviet premier, wearing a pith helmet to shield his bald head from the hot sun, seemed to enjoy the entertainment. Later, in a speech of thanks, he attacked imperialism and colonialism and warned the Indonesians they will have to keep on defending the freedom they won from the Dutch.

★ ★ ★

He did not elaborate on what support the Soviet Union would give the campaign for West New Guinea.

President Sukarno responded with praise for the Soviet Union as a friend who offered the most aid and support on such issues as West New Guinea.

It is estimated that one of 10 early American colonists died of smallpox.

Sees Universal Full Year Basis for Universities

LANSING (AP) — Legislators were told Wednesday that the college or university that does not operate on a year-round basis will be the exception rather than the rule in five years.

The prediction was made by Victor C. Spathelf, president of Ferris Institute at Big Rapids, to the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Ferris has gone to a four-quarter system and Spathelf was arguing for more state support money, saying allowances now are inadequate.

"We've heard a lot of talk that if educators weren't so fuzzy-headed they would operate like a business the year around and not leave most of their plant lying idle a fourth of the year," Spathelf said in leading up to his forecast.

The institute head said his school is pinched financially partly because of a phenomenal recent growth—from an enrollment of 732 in 1951 to 3,100 at the start of the current school year, or 424 per cent.

Foreign Aid $$$ Now Revealed

France Gets Most With 4.5 Billion for Military in Past 10 Years

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Previously-secret foreign aid figures showed today that Europe received a little more than half of the $26,078,945,000 in military spending of the past 10 years.

A country-by-country breakdown published for the first time after repeated congressional prodding showed that France was by far the biggest recipient with $4,502,053,000 in military aid.

Nationalist China ranked second with $2,056,930,000, and Italy third with $1,983,008,000. Following in order were Turkey with $1,717,231,000, and Korea with $1,291,947,000.

The Defense Department published the figures with permission of the State Department. They previously had been withheld lest their publication cause ill feeling among nations receiving the aid, or prompt bigger requests from countries receiving less than their neighbors.

Montgomery to Visit Mao

LONDON (UPI)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery announced he will accept an invitation to call on Red Chinese party chief Mao Tse-tung when Montgomery visits Communist China in May. He said the Chinese embassy here told him "Mao would welcome me and be very pleased to see me."

Plenty of Reasons for It, Say Historians

Will Ike Be Godfather to New Prince?

LONDON (UPI)—Historians are hauling out the records to prove there's no reason Queen Elizabeth's baby can't be given one of President Eisenhower's names and have him for a godfather.

So far Buckingham Palace has not commented on reports the boy born last Friday will be the first child of a reigning British sovereign to have an American president "stand" for him, by proxy or otherwise, at the christening font.

But historians said there are both family reasons and precedence for the new prince to be named for the American President and have him for a godfather.

An American president was godfather to one British prince. In 1942 the late Franklin D. Roosevelt was the proxy godfather of Prince Michael of Kent.

If Eisenhower became a godfather of Queen Elizabeth's second son that would be an historic first since Michael was not in the first line of the royal family.

If this came about, it is likely one of the infant prince's names would be David — Eisenhower's middle name and a name that has historic implications in Britain.

Many kings of Wales were named David and St. David is still the patron saint of that part of Elizabeth's realm. David is one of the names of Elizabeth's uncle, the Duke of Windsor. Although he was once King Edward VIII, in family circles he is still called David.

The new prince will have several sponsors. Prince Charles, 11, the royal heir, had eight and his sister Princess Anne, 9, had five.

Whatever names the Queen chooses for the baby may surprise everyone, as both she and Prince Philip have highly individual and firm ideas about the matter.

St. Helena, Napoleon's exile island in the South Atlantic, gets much of its revenue from the sale of postage stamps to collectors. Oddly, the tiny isle has no internal mail system.

One Expiration Date Aim of Teamsters

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—A proposal for uniform expiration dates of contracts—leading toward a single nationwide contract—was atop the agenda of the Teamsters Union officers meeting Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

Harold J. Gibbons of St. Louis, Teamsters vice president, said the general executive board members would seek means of getting approval for uniform expiration dates on contracts for warehousemen and freight company workers.

Gibbons said the Union wants a single national agreement covering freight workers by 1961.

The Teamsters vice president said also that the Union will seek an election within 30 days in Los Angeles in its effort to organize employes of Sears Roebuck.

Food Price Tumble to Stop This Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Retail food prices will stop falling this year and remain about the 1959 level, the Agriculture Department forecast today.

The department predicted the price of food itself would remain about steady in 1960. But it said the cost of processing and distributing the food probably would continue to inch upward.

Food prices last year fell about 2 to 2½ per cent below the 1958 level, the department said in its publication "The National Food Situation."

This reflected lower prices paid to farmers. Food marketing charges jumped one per cent.

But increases in other prices more than offset the drop in food costs and the cost of living went up 1 per cent.

Seek Quick Approval of School Construction

The speedup was aimed at getting House action on the bill before debate starts March 10 on civil rights legislation.

Castro Reveals Industrial Plan

To Spend $152 Million; Neither Reprisals Nor Threats to Stay Fidel

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro announced today that his government will spend 152 million pesos —152 million dollars—this year on the start of a program to industrialize Cuba and make the nation economically independent.

The Prime Minister told 6,000 cheering union members that neither "economic reprisals" nor threats to stop U.S. purchases of Cuban sugar at premium prices will deter his program.

Castro announced his industrialization plan at a meeting of the Confederation of Cuban Workers (CTC). He got an immediate pledge that every worker would contribute 4 per cent of his annual pay to help finance the project.

But Right to Know Revised

AF's Church-Reds Claim Stays in Manuals for Now

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Claims Communists have infiltrated American churches are being kept in the Air Force's security training manual for the present, it was disclosed Wednesday.

But certain passages on public release of defense information are being stricken.

The Air Force said it sent a message yesterday to all major commands ordering them to delete references that have been interpreted as challenging the public's right to know what is going on in defense.

★ ★ ★

The security manual is the parent of the document for a reserve training manual which drew the ire of the National Council of Churches a week ago because it linked communism and churches.

WRITING NEW MANUAL

The Air Force withdrew the reserve training manual after the council's protests and expressed its regrets.

The service said today the basic document, "Guide for Security Indoctrination," is no longer being distributed to commands and "an entirely new manual" is now being written.

A spokesman was asked whether a section on "communism in American churches" contained in a chapter titled "How to Stop Communism in America," was being deleted from the present manual. He said it was not.

★ ★ ★

The section begins: "A while back Americans were shocked to find that Communists had infiltrated our churches."

It asks, "Are there Communist ministers?" It answers, "Sure."

★ ★ ★

Congress has started an investigation to learn the origins of the manual while at the same time Chairman Francis Walter (D-Pa) of the House Un-American Activities Committee has contended the passage is accurate.

Smeekens Will Try to Oust Lindemer

LANSING (UPI) — Sen. John P. Smeekens (R-Coldwater) said Wednesday he would try again in 1961 to overthrow liberal leadership of the Republican State Central Committee.

★ ★ ★

Smeekens was defeated, 1,324 to 163, in his conservative-backed bid to replace State Chairman Lawrence B. Lindemer at the Republican state convention a year ago.

★ ★ ★

"The man (Lindemer) has a different idea," said Smeekens. "He works from the top of the ticket. I think a grass-roots approach is needed."

★ ★ ★

There was a possibility Lindemer would not seek re-election.

Smeekens also announced he would seek re-election to his Senate seat.

Sen. Murray Will Run for 25-Year-Old Seat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James E. Murray (D-Mont) today became a candidate for renomination to the Senate seat he has held 25 years.

Murray, 83, announced that a nominating petition was being filed in his behalf at the Montana Capitol in Helena.

At least two rivals have announced they will oppose Murray for the Democratic nomination.

They are Rep. LeRoy H. Anderson (D-Mont), 54, and John W. Mahan, 36, a Helena attorney and former national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Several are expected to compete for the Republican senatorial nomination.

They're 'Noting' 1960 Campaign Already

WASHINGTON (AP)—Campaign songs are bustin' out all over.

Pros and amateurs, mostly the latter, are turning them out almost daily as if they were trying to outdo the scores of ditties that enlivened the Whig-Democratic campaign of 1840.

None has caught on nationally as yet, no doubt because the presidential tickets have not yet been named.

But for the delegate-picking primary warmups, particularly in Wisconsin, the tunes have been strummed from guitars and blared from sound trucks from one end of the state to the other.

Wisconsin is where Sens. John F. Kennedy (Mass) and Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn) are dueling in a significant Democratic presidential primary April 5.

Kennedy already has two songs going for him. Humphrey also has two, and two more are on the way by young women attached to his Washington headquarters.

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) also has had a song written about his all but declared candidacy.

None has yet showed for Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) or Vice President Richard M. Nixon, but the Republican National Committee reports it is receiving half a dozen a week plugging the GOP and Nixon.

One recording received by the Republicans from Omaha is an original tune with a football chant, "Go, Go, Go Republican."

"We are not pushing any one at the moment," says Hal Short, Republican publicity chief.

One of the Kennedy songs played last week in Wisconsin is adapted from "High Hopes" by Sammy Cahn and Jimmy Van Heusen in the movie "Hole In the Head." A couple of lines from the campaign tune by the same team:

Everyone is voting for Jack
'cause he's got what all the rest lack.

The tune has been recorded. On the flip side of the record is another by the same writers taken from their song, "All the Way:"

Kennedy is showing
That's why Kennedy is going
All the way.

To the tune of "Old Time Religion," Lt. Gov. Phileo Nash of Wisconsin, a Humphrey supporter, has been playing his guitar over that state and singing:

★ ★ ★

I'm going to vote for Hubert Humphrey
I'm going to vote for Hubert Humphrey
I'm going to vote for Hubert Humphrey
He's the man for me.

Joe Glazer, educational director of the United Rubber Workers, did the lyrics (sic) for that one. And this one, too, to the tune of "Yellow Rose of Texas":

The man from Minnesota
Is for you and you and you
He fights for all the people
And not for just a few.
He fights for all the people
And not for just a few.

One of the girls in Humphrey's headquarters here is preparing a third song tuned to "On Wisconsin." Another, who apologized for having the flu while singing it to the writer over the telephone, said her masterpiece will be used in the West Virginia primary. Part of it, based on that state's university song:

★ ★ ★

Now is the time boys
To make the big noise
No matter what the fat cats say
So vote the Hubert Humphrey way.

That Symington ditty showed up last Saturday in St. Louis. It's called "Mr. Number One," and winds up this way:

I'm for Stuart Symington
When the campaign's done
He'll be Mister Number One
Stuart Symington.

It doesn't take much of a memory jog to recall the "Sidewalks of New York," (Al Smith-1928), "Happy Days Are Here Again," (FDR-1932), "O, Susanna," (Alf Landon-1936), and "I'm Looking Over a Four-Leaf Clover" (Taft-1948-52).

Thinks of 'Others' as He Requests $3,000 at Bank

DETROIT (AP) — A man strolled into a Michigan Bank branch.

A teller, Miss Catherine Fischer, 20, said yesterday he told her:

"My name is Kirk May Hardy, I want $3,000."

Miss Fischer told Howard Cochran, 34, who pushed the alarm button.

Police rushed in with drawn guns and surrounded Hardy.

An officer quoted Hardy as saying, "I wanted the $3,000 because I wanted to help my poor fellow men."

"Which poor fellow men?" a policeman asked.

"Oh," Hardy was quoted as answering, "I would have helped anybody."

Hardy, 32, was booked for investigation of attempted unarmed robbery.

But police said they may have to let him go because he never threatened anyone . . . he just asked for money.

They Didn't Bury Latin, Just Hid It in Closet

OXFORD, England (AP)—With approving Latin murmurs of "Placet" — it pleases—Oxford University's portainment Tuesday night abolished a requirement that all entrants must know Latin. The vote was 290-111.

The Congregation, Oxford's ruling body, did not bury the dead language. Latin or Greek will still be required of arts students. But new students in other fields can enroll if they meet a certain standard in science or mathematics.

But one has to dig into the history books for "Tippecanoe and Tyler Too," one of scores of campaign ditties written for the Harrison-Van Buren race in 1840.

And not many people are living today who can say they heard the one about Horace Greeley in his 1872 campaign against President Grant. Greeley used to campaign in a white hat and linen duster, so the tune, arranged to "Yes My Darling Daughter," went this way:

Mother, may I go out to swim
Yes, my dear, go freely
Put on your white hat, and your old white coat

And vote for Horace Greeley.

Ike Sees Stirring Latin Nations

Working Toward Economic and Political Solidarity

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

Out of a history of revolutions and rampant, one-sided nationalism, a new era is dawning in Latin America.

Latin Americans have their eyes fixed on a United States of Latin America, instead of, as they have been called, the dis-united states of America.

For the American businessman operating in South America it means a fundamental change, forerunner of which was last week's seven-nation agreement in Montevideo, Uruguay, looking toward formation of a common market in South America.

William L.F. Horsey, UPI chief correspondent in Buenos Aires, reports that the day is gone when any kind of manufactured product can be shipped to Latin American countries and find an immediate and ready market. Most lines now are manufactured in the countries themselves.

The present trend toward setting up a branch factory of the parent American company already is giving way to a licensing system under which an established South American does the manufacturing and pays royalties.

An example is the current expansion of a DuPont affiliate's production capacity for nylon yarn and celophane. The new machinery was built entirely in Argentina and on a staff of 4,000, only five are North Americans.

In 1937, there were 50 U. S. foremen and technicians and 400 workers.

Heavy machinery, inventions, patent rights and general know-how are now the greatest commodities that U. S. businessmen now have to sell to their South American counterparts.

Lack of faith in Latin American stability—both political and economic—has been a factor up to now in preventing many firms from investing in the area.

South Americans say these conditions rapidly are disappearing, and they cite examples. For instance:

With U. S. help, Chile, Argentina, Uruguay, Paraguay, Peru and other Latin American nations have halted galloping inflation and started the painful road back to financial stability. Trade and private enterprise both have been given a freer hand to develop.

The Wilson Meat Packing Co. in Buenos Aires has been able to streamline its operation and rid itself of needless employes, a situation impossible without a strike or government intervention under the old dictatorship of Juan Peron.

American mining companies long have had confidence in South American business.

The common market widens the field for American businessmen and their local associates. Kaiser automobiles went into Brazil and Argentina with local interests. The Brazilian plant already is exporting to Paraguay and Chile, and the Argentine plant cannot keep up with local demand.

Ike Steps Into Lively Presidential Campaign

United Press International

President Eisenhower stepped into the middle of a lively but hardly vociferous presidential campaign in Brazil. The race between Gen. Henrique Duffles Teixeira Lott and Janio Quadros, to be climaxed in the October election, offers certain parallels to our own presidential sweepstakes, and dissimilarities, too.

War minister Gen. Lott inherited more from his Prussian forebears than from the English side of his family. Whereas Gen. Eisenhower was the friendlier candidate each time he sought office, Gen. Lott is stern and unbending and has little ability to get through to the people.

Quadros, son of a schoolteacher, is a homespun man of the people, given to wearing his glasses on the tip of his nose and looking over them at his listeners. The people laugh with him. He is governor of

Sao Paulo Is Brazil's Great Economic Hub

Latin America's Fastest Growing City Bustles With Activity

By EDWARD T. BUTLER

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—In this fastest growing city in Latin America, which President Eisenhower is visiting today, the people like to say: "We are the locomotive pulling 20 empty cars."

What they mean is that without Sao Paulo, Brazil and its 20 other states would be nothing.

Sao Paulo, where somebody starts putting up a new building every five minutes, is the heartbeat of Brazil. It is the nation's industrial and business center, its export, import and coffee center and its cultural center.

More than 50 per cent of the money flowing in Brazil's national treasury comes from Sao Paulo—pronounced to rhyme with down pow low.

★ ★ ★

On his visit here, President Eisenhower will see a Chicago or a Detroit with palm trees. He will see lighted signs advertising Coca-Cola, Ford, General Motors, International Harvester, Goodyear Tires, Willys Jeeps and others to remind him of home. All these are U. S. firms with branches here employing thousands of Brazilians flocking from the farms to the big city.

★ ★ ★

Coming here from Rio de Janeiro, an hour's flying time away, is almost like traveling to another country.

Situated in Brazil's south, or a plateau 2,400 feet above sea level about 50 miles from the coast, Sao Paulo enjoys a relatively cool, fresh climate. Its streets are clean. Its life is cosmopolitan and its restaurants are tops in the nation. Its people, called Paulistas, contrast in their seriousness with the carefree "tomorrow" attitude of the Carioca in Rio de Janeiro, the federal capital.

Not as Good as It Sounds

Uruguayans Can Retire at 50 With Full Pension

By BEN BASSETT
AP Foreign News Editor

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—This is the country where a worker can retire on full pay when he is 50 years old. Uruguay's people are well fed and literate. They enjoy the most stable history of government in Latin America.

But the key to Utopia has not been discovered in Uruguay. President Eisenhower, on his visit here is not apt to get many workable ideas for improving the U.S. Social Security System.

Not all Uruguayans retire at 50, by any means. But say you were one who did so, back in 1948. You had held two jobs, as many persons do, and the government guaranteed you a lifetime pension equal to the average of your total pay for the five years preceding your retirement. It looked as if you had it made.

The Uruguayan peso, when you retired 12 years ago, could command 55 cents in U.S. money. Today it is worth 9 cents. Your pension buys much less today than it used to. Prices have risen as your pension lost value.

That is an example of the problems Uruguay's government faces. At this stage at least, it knows that the people won't stand for a change in the system. The government has to seek new ways to stabilize the peso and get fresh sources of revenue.

The retirement system, probably the most costly in the world, has been in effect 30 years. A worker puts 7 to 12 per cent of his pay into the fund, his employer a like amount. The government must meet deficits.

OTHER PROVISIONS

The social security system doesn't stop there. Among other things it provides widows' benefits, free medical and dental care.

The chances that Uruguay can work itself out of this and other problems offer odds that would hardly appeal to the thousands of people who crowd this nation's gambling casinos.

The government has a finger in almost any activity you can name. It has a monopoly on alcohol, and on the refining and distribution of oil (all imported). It operates some of the banks, the railroads, a tire factory and even night clubs. It has a monopoly on gambling. Figures are scarce, but no one questions that millions of dollars come every month from eight casinos, from horse racing, from lotteries. Everywhere you turn in Uruguay, there is a chance to gamble and give the government its cut.

NATIONAL PASTIME

You pay 90 cents just to get into a Montevideo casino, part of an elaborate hotel setup with a restaurant and a bar seating 240 persons. The nation's great middle class crowds these places, especially on the Saturday after pay day. Gambling is a major national pastime among Uruguay's three million people who, over-all, can enjoy life in this smallest of South American republics (about the size of North Dakota).

Just now it is summer in the Southern Hemisphere, and the near-million who populate Montevideo are happy. They pour onto the broad sands of nine beaches which spread out along 10 miles of Rambla Drive, a fine shore road any nation could be proud of. Each beach is a kaleidoscope of umbrellas and bathing suits that would be equally in fashion at Malibu or Cape Cod. The women and children drink colas; the men sit sipping hot mate (matay) tea, poured from vacuum bottles, as the tide rolls in on a fresh breeze.

Opposite the beaches, across the Rambla, rise fine homes and dozens of apartment houses of 10 to 12 stories. Even in this welfare state one can attain capitalistic stature. It takes $12,000 to buy a Chevrolet, $5,000 for a Volkswagen—and there are lots of cars, all imported.

Can't Beef About Life in Uruguay

By BOB CONSIDINE
United Press International

MONTEVIDO—Uruguayans eat 262 pounds of beef per capita every year. They don't even count the number of pounds of pork and lamb they chomp. The total meat consumption in the United States, meats of all kinds, is 130 pounds per head per year.

There is complete freedom of religion in this smallest of the countries of South America, and a dash of anticlerical feeling not noticed elsewhere. The Montevideo newspaper El Dia, for example always spells god with a small g.

It refers to holy week as tourist week, Christmas as family day, Easter as fiesta time, and its name for Pope John XXIII is Senor Roncalli. But it is so anti-Communist that it wouldn't print a word about the dramatic visit of the Russian soccer team.

North Americans who shuddered at Roosevelt's four terms might be interested to know that the Colorado Party stayed in government 93 years before the Blanco Party came up with a president not long ago.

Spotlight hogging politicians everywhere might take a lesson in unselfishness from President Martin Echegoyan, whose title is actually chairman of the nine-man national council which runs the government.

President Eisenhower arrives in Montevideo on President Echegoyan's next to last day in office as chairman—a one-year stint. So Echegoyan has turned the honor of greeting him over to President-elect Benito Nardone.

The literacy rate of Uruguay is between 80 and 90 per cent, the same as the United States. The magazine with the biggest circulation is Selecciones, the Spanish language Reader's Digest.

The Russians have spent millions on Uruguay. They blanket the country with fine textbooks sold at bargain prices and make many another nice gesture. Soviet Union's legation in Montevideo is the biggest in Latin America—about 50 people.

★ ★ ★

The USSR has been recognized since 1920, but there are only two Communists in the 99-member House of Representatives, and the Commies attracted only 2.5 per cent of the votes in the last national elections.

Argentine 'Crown' Rests Easy on Frondizi's Head

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—President Eisenhower will be seeing a much more relaxed President Arturo Frondizi of Argentina on his visit here than he did a year ago in Washington.

When Frondizi visited the United States in January 1959, troubles were legion in Argentina. Frondizi had just survived one of his many government crises on the eve of his departure for Washington. There was talk in Argentina he would be overthrown any day.

But now Frondizi is on smoother ground. A man with a scorecard says Frondizi has survived 22 crises in his two years in office. But he hasn't had a government scare in months and things are relatively quiet.

There still are troubles, however. The nation is still on rocky shoals financially. The budget is far in the red; frequent strikes still molest the people and the economy; the cost of living has increased 100 per cent in a year; a government austerity program has many grumbling.

But the economics minister and czar, Alvaro Alsogaray, brought in to salvage the economy, has made progress. The cost of living rise has been slowed. Oil production, spurred by the help of U.S. companies, has soared.

The nation hopes soon to be self sufficient in oil whereas, as late as a year ago, a third of the foreign trade deficit came from importing petroleum products. Foreign private interests, including many American companies, have invested 200 million dollars in Argentine firms as a show of faith in the country.

The military, which several times threatened to topple Frondizi because it felt he was too friendly with the followers of ex-dictator Juan Peron, are no longer pressing the President. Labor, frequently a thorn in Frondizi's side, is still causing trouble but has calmed down somewhat. Many more people than a year ago give Frondizi a better chance to finish his six-year term.

Throughout all his troubles, tall, gaunt Frondizi (nicknamed "El Flaco" or Skinny" by the Argentines) has maintained an icy calm. He has slid through crisis after crisis without panicking.

His standard answer to all cries that he resign, whether from the left or right, has been: "I was elected President of Argentina and intend to serve."

He is not what anyone would call a popular president. He is never cheered in newsreels as was Peron. Powerful groups on all sides have little love for him—the military, the Peronistas, the Communists, housewives, labor, big business.

Even Frondizi's own intransigent Radical Party has lost much of its enthusiasm for him since his election Feb. 23, 1958.

Chile Least Latin Nation on Ike's Tour

By United Press International

Chile's capital city of Santiago, the third South American country on President Eisenhower's tour, is probably the least Latin of the cities on the continent.

Although most Chileans are of Spanish descent, many of the residents of Santiago are blond people who look as though they should speak English. These Spanish Changos, as they are called, are descendants of earlier Irish, German, Scottish and English immigrants to the country.

They live around Santiago in north central Chile and are scattered throughout the rich mining region of northern Chile. This warm desert area accounts for about 75 per cent of Chile's exports which are minerals.

But because of the country's length (it stretches farther than the span from New York to Los Angeles) the southern region is in complete contrast to the north.

The south is the cold, junglelike, rainy belt which is sparsely populated and has been given over to the Araucanian Indians.

The central area of the ribbon-like country running along the west coast of South America is moderate in climate and is the agricultural and allied industry center of Chile.

Senora: Denounce Those Speculators

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Here in Santiago, a plane passes overhead broadcasting a message by loudspeaker: "Senora: Denounce the speculators. Do not pay more than the value of goods. Shop around for bargains."

★ ★ ★

The broadcaster goes on to give some "official" prices for comparison. This is technically an unofficial message, but President Jorge Alessandri's government is behind the idea. Alessandri is trying to reduce profiteering and avoid the imposition of price controls in a country where the cost of living rose 33 per cent last year.

Hemisphere peace through prosperity from disarmament.

In a nutshell, this will be the politico-social atmosphere President Eisenhower will find in Chile when he arrives in Santiago on Feb. 29 for a three-day state visit with President Jorge Alessandri.

For the 63-year-old Alessandri, a businessman-president whose father was a president before him, economic stability can only come to Latin America through a peace based on prosperity and that ideal can be achieved only through continentwide disarmament.

A political conservative, Alessandri is principal architect of a bold and far-sighted program aimed at hemisphere peace through stable economies. He believes the continent will have taken a long stride in that direction when it agrees on a common and mutually beneficial arms-scrapping program.

And it is the moral and vocal support of the United States for which Alessandri will seek a commitment from Eisenhower before he leaves Santiago. The subject probably will be the key item in the agenda readied for the formal talks between the two leaders.

Chile has other problems, too. It is a great copper producer and would like to see the world market stabilized. The country has a long record of stable government but the government is constantly a target of left-wingers because of economic 'ups and downs stemming largely from copper price fluctuations.

Alessandri is not expected to ask Eisenhower for more direct economic aid. But he is expected to invite more U. S. technical assistance, particularly in the fields of mining and manufacturing.

Eisenhower will find in Chile a country putting its economic house in order. He also will find a nation that not only is sold on the United States and its way of life but one which shares wholeheartedly its politico-social philosophy of government.

He may encounter criticism of certain U. S. government fiscal policies with which Chile does not agree, such as double taxation of investment funds.

But if criticism is voiced, it will be delivered in a tone of cordiality and respect for the person of the President of the United States of America.

Chile's welcome to Eisenhower will be warm and affectionate. But the period of comparative economic prosperity the country now is enjoying has touched off a vigorous labor campaign for higher wages and better living conditions.

It is from this atmosphere of what might be termed "union effervescence", that any outward manifestations of hostility toward the United States, or Eisenhower personally, may spring.

Ike Is Sorry He Can't Stop Off in Bolivia

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower says he is sorry he cannot visit Bolivia during his trip to South America.

The President's remarks were made to Bolivian ambassador Victor Andrade who called at the White House to present his credentials.

The envoy said the President told him that Bolivia was one of the countries he especially wanted to visit on account of the programs of technical and economic assistance which the United States has in that country.

★ ★ ★

But Andrade said Eisenhower told him he could not stop off in Bolivia because of a lack of time.

Tour to Cover 15,564 Miles on Land and in Air

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower will cover 15,564 miles on his two-week good will tour to four Latin American countries.

The President will travel 15,010 miles by plane, 225 miles by helicopter, 325 by auto, and four miles by water.

Highlights of the visit to Uruguay will be an address by th. President to a joint session of the National Congress Wednesday and a dinner the same night in his honor given by Benito Nardon, president of the National Council of Government.

Ike Is Seeing Inflation in Kubitschek's Brazil

By United Press International

President Eisenhower is getting his first close look at an acute South American problem, galloping inflation, during his three-day stay in Brazil.

He is also getting his first concrete indication of what additional economic aid our hemisphere neighbors would like from their northern compatriots.

Labeled by some "an economist's nightmare," Brazil is the largest of the South American nations. Its 65 million people live in an area of over five million square miles, an area roughly the size of the entire United States.

Only the Soviet Union, Canada and China exceed Brazil in size.

Brazil baffles the economist because of the inconsistencies of its complex system.

In theory, the country should be bankrupt. The Juscelino Kubitschek regime has printed more money in its three years in office than all previous Brazilian governments combined.

Inflation is rampant. Annual cost of living increases are estimated in excess of more than 30 per cent.

The coffee crop, the world's largest and the country's biggest single export, is selling at crisis prices.

Yet, conversely, industry is booming. More than 40,000 new factories have opened up since 1950. Foreign investors are fighting to be allowed to participate in the upswing.

★ ★ ★

Gross investment has doubled in five years. The city of Sao Paulo, flanked by vast jungles and barren plains on each side, has become the industrial capital of South America.

HAVE NEW CAPITAL

The government is to inaugurate a new federal capital, Brasilia, in April. It has won world recognition as a symbol of modern Brazilean culture.

KUBITSCHEK

President Kubitschek, like Brazil, is a study in contrast. A political conservative, he is a man of daringly modern business concepts.

Meeting financial emergencies with "printing press" methods, Kubitschek shocks the economist but keeps his nation humming with industrial activity. Organized labor is strong and active.

A surgeon in private life, Kubitschek is an energetic 57 years of age. He is up for re-election in October.

He is the author and principal sponsor of what has been styled "Operation Pan American," a daringly conceived plan, praised by some and criticized by others, designed to bring economic stability to the hemisphere.

Inside information is that Brazil will seek a new and large United States loan when the presidents of the two countries meet.

The U. S. is by far—40 per cent of imports and exports—the nation's largest single customer.

One thing of which President Eisenhower may be sure—his personal safety while in Brazil.

The government has moved energetically against it Communists. A full-scale roundup of radicals and agitators has taken place.

Painting May Be Early Da Vinci

Work Presently Said to Be by Verrocchio; Experts Study Claim

LONDON (AP)—British experts today studied the sensational claim by an Italian art critic that a painting attributed to Verrocchio may instead be the work of his famous pupil, Leonardo da Vinci.

If true, it will be one of the most important art discoveries of the century. The painting's value would jump from around $200,000 to well above a million.

The painting, a Madonna adoring the infant Christ, was lent for an exhibition of Italian art at Britain's Royal Academy. For centuries it has been attributed to the Renaissance master Andrea del Verrocchio.

But when Dr. Alberto Martini, Italian magazine editor and art critic, visited the exhibition at Burlington House, he suspected at least part of it had been done by Da Vinci. The picture was taken down for minute examination.

Tuesday night the Royal Academy announced the picture "may shortly be accpeted as being in part by Leonardo da Vinci."

Said academy Secretary Humphrey Brook: "The painting has been identified by Dr. Martini as Leonardo's, painted over a sketch composition by Verrocchio, which makes it the earliest known painting by Leonardo and therefore of incalculable value."

The picture, 42 by 30 inches, has been dated as painted in 1470, when Leonardo was 18 and studying with Verrocchio in Florence.

Urban Renewal Director Takes Over in Muskegon

MUSKEGON (UPI) — William P. Wilson, 34, of Pittsburgh, Pa., is Muskegon's first urban renewal director.

The first order of business for Wilson, who has been Allegheny County, Pa., planning commissioner, will be organizing the administration of the $7,500,000 Marquette urban renewal development in Muskegon.

To Equip Polaris Subs With Two-Man Gyms

Washington (AP)—The nuclear-powered submarine that launches the Polaris missile will have a tiny gymnasium, just big enough for two men.

Its purpose will be to help keep crew members in good condition for underwater cruises that may last as long as three months.

Polaris submarines also will be equipped to provide artificial night and day, to keep the men, as nearly as possible, in a normal environment.

Certain cooking oils may be banned because of the nature of their fumes, and half the commercial paints now available will be unacceptable. Even certain aerosol shaving creams will be objectionable because of the degree of contamination they contribute to the air.

These facts about nuclear submarines were related Tuesday by Rear Adm. William F. Raborn, in a talk before the Aero Club of Washington. He is in charge of the Polaris development program.

For $1,000 Gift, Two May Go to Dem Convention

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Anyone who wants to sit in on the Democratic National Convention, starting July 15, may do so—provided he contributes $1,000 for a pair of tickets.

A spokesman for the non-partisan host committee, which is giving the Democrats $450,000 for holding the convention in Los Angeles Memorial Sports Arena, says there will be no deviation from the pricetag.

"The tickets will be $1,000 a pair," he said. "No one is going to get in for less."

The host committee points out the tickets are not for sale "but are being made available to people who want to make a contribution."

The hosts paid the Democratic party $100,000 Oct. 15, another $100,000 on Dec. 15, and are to make three more payments to bring the total to $450,000. In return, the host committee is to get 1,500 seats. Any money it receives above $450,000 has been earmarked for the Los Angeles Community Chest.

Even Chance to Lift Ceiling on Interest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chances now are better than 50-50 that Congress this year will let President Eisenhower pierce the interest ceiling of 4¼ per cent that has prevailed for 42 years on new issues of government bonds.

★ ★ ★

The odds swung in favor of a partial administration victory Tuesday when Democratic leaders rammed through the House Ways and Means Committee a bill that would give the President sweeping power to set aside the ceiling.

★ ★ ★

The measure cleared the committee by an 18 to 7 vote. All the opposition came from Democrats. But Democratic leaders, assured of overwhelming GOP help, were confident they could push it through the House.

Man Tries to Explain, but He's Choked Up

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — George Norman was arrested in connection with a $55 robbery. En route to the police station officers noted Norman was trying to talk about it, but just couldn't.

★ ★ ★

Officers took a long look at Norman's swollen cheeks, forced his mouth open and found 12 one dollar bills. The money was seized as evidence.

Tammy Grimes . . . Well! . . . She Stole the Show

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI) — As Tony Randall completed a series of exceptionally clever blackout sketches to open last night's NBC-TV special, "Four for Tonight," I felt that even if the rest of the show bombed, I had my kicks for the evening.

★ ★ ★

Then came the artful Beatrice Lillie and her songs, "Weary of It All" and "A Lesson with a Fan." Nice work, although I never seem able to appreciate fully Miss Lillie's subtleties.

Next—Cyril Ritchard in his 15-minute segment, "Around the World on 80 Pounds," which had some amusing moments, some strained ones.

An finally, in the closing spot, there was Tammy Grimes. She only stole the show.

It's a rare thing when a performer on TV delivers with such totality of talent that I find myself tingling with excitement long after the final bow. But such was Miss Grimes' impact.

She sang about a dozen songs, each in the style that was popular the day the song was introduced, going back some 200 years.

This tiny blond, whose face blends Marilyn Monroe, Marlene Dietrich and Beulah Witch, caught each mood, each nuance as she ranged from tenderness to joy to wistfulness with utter command of her warm, penetrating voice, eyes, hands and body.

In a business that can attach the adjective "fabulous" to a youngster named Fabian, what do we call Miss Grimes?

For those who missed her, I wish you all an early re-run. The production by Robert Saudek Associates, in magnificent color; rates as the sleeper of the TV season, a tasteful, exciting, very special TV special.

A play that ricocheted a number of profound questions off the French-Algerian barricades made last night's Playhouse 90 on CBS-TV one of unusual importance.

"The Cruel Day," by Reginald Rose, skillfully placed a civilized, thinking Army captain into the Algerian abattoir and asked him to order the torture of a teen-age rebel boy. The author maintained, as I saw it, that such men must be true to their own souls and refuse to use evil means for future good.

He also gave us the other side of the franc: Super-morality and moralists must yield to the brutish immorality of war when a showdown comes along.

In the play, the captain didn't order the torture. As he made his decision, he was killed. The boy was tortured. As often is the case in this imperfect world, all sides made their point.

The cast was an excellent one and included Van Heflin as the captain, Cliff Robertson as his aide, Nehemiah Persoff, Charles Bronson and two youngsters of fine ability, Thano Rama and Miko Oscard.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: Helen Hayes and Jason Robards Jr. will star in "The Bat," when the new "Dow Hour of Great Mysteries" debuts on NBC-TV Thursday, March 31. "The Bat" is a 1920 play by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood.

Latest ABC-TV tentative fall schedule has an hour-long crime series, "The Corrupters," on Monday; "Stagecoach West," 60-minute western, on Tuesday; "Naked City" and Bugs Bunny cartoons for Wednesday night; "The Islanders," another hour adventure show, for Friday. Pat Boone will have an hour on Saturday. Walt Disney moves from Friday to Sunday and the Wednesday night fight moves to Saturday night.

Unit Will Study Traffic Issues

Five to Make Decisions Formerly Handled by Vanderstempel Office

A City Hall committee has been named to study traffic engineering problems.

City Manager Walter K. Willman said the five-member group would make the policy decisions formerly made in the office of Theodore Vanderstempel, traffic engineer who quit last fall.

There are still no plans to name a successor, Willman said.

Willman named to the committee himself, Robert A. Stierer, assistant city manager; John W. Emerson, electrical superintendent; Clyde Christian, director of public works; and Sgt. Lawrence LaBair of the Police Department.

The committee will decide on any major changes in street lighting, traffic signals, parking and traffic regulations, said Willman.

Minor changes will be handled by Emerson and Christian, who have shouldered responsibility for the field work formerly under Vanderstempel's direction.

Billy Graham Sponsors Costly Movie in Jordan

NEW YORK (UPI)—Plans were announced Wednesday for filming a multimillion-dollar Biblical spectacle in Jordan under evangelist Billy Graham's sponsorship and with a cast of 500,000, including all Arab refugees in Jordan.

Dick Ross, producer of Billy Graham movies, and William Free, Parliament Pictures president, signed an agreement to co-produce "The Son of God" at New York International Airport before Ross boarded a plane to join Graham in Africa. Free will join them in Jerusalem March 12, a spokesman said.

Prince of Wales Liked Tailor's Goof

Creased Pants Royally Born

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI)—My tailor, Mister Brogan, downed his shears for a minute Wednesday in silent tribute to an event that the rest of the world, even Savile Row, seems to have forgotten.

One hundred years ago — all near as history can place it — a man drew on the first pair of creased trousers.

His name was the Prince of Wales, grandfather of the Duke of Windsor, who obviously inherited from him the royal talent which led him to invent the "Windsor knot" for neckties.

The pants pioneering Prince of Wales became King Edward VII. He was not a memorable ruler so it is remarkable that official historians have failed to give him credit for one of his few achievements, a style that changed the shape of men's trousers.

Mister Brogan says it happened like this:

* * *

The prince, who fancied himself a ladies' man, ordered one of his many new suits from his tailor. When he went for the final try-on, however, he found that because of the way the pants had been folded for storage there was a crease running down the center of each leg.

His ancestor Henry VIII might have dispatched the tailor to the chopping block at the Tower of London. But the prince mildly decided to try the trousers on as they were and have the crease ironed out later.

He liked what he saw in the mirror.

"Make me look a bit slimmer, eh?" he declared.

Everybody agreed—they didn't dare do otherwise — and the prince decided to have all his trousers creased from then on. So a new fashion was born.

John Taylor, editor of "Tailor and Cutter" and a famous authority on these matters, said he vaguely knew the centenary was somewhere around. He pointed out that prior to that time men's trousers were tubular and pressed on cylinders.

* * *

The prince's new fashion caught on everywhere, even the United States and Europe, but not in his own family. There his eldest son, later King George V, led what might be called a palace revolution.

He always had his own pants pressed with the creases running down the sides.

Emperor and Empress Visit New Grandchild

TOKYO (AP) — Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako today got their first look at their new grandchild, the 2-day-old son of Crown Prince Akihito.

The proud royal couple visited the infant and his mother, Crown Princess Michiko, at the Royal Palace Hospital. They spent 40 minutes admiring the child and cautioned their commoner-born daughter-in-law to take good care of herself.

Hare Says Tab Thefts Are Greatly Exaggerated

LANSING (UPI) — There's a false rumor that many 1960 license tabs are being lost or stolen, Secretary of State James M. Hare reported.

Actually, Hare said, only 241 license tabs have been listed as lost or stolen since Nov. 1. During the same period, 8,605 full-size license plates were reported missing.

"Punch," the English humor magazine, was not at first a success when it began publishing in 1841. But Mark Lemon, its editor, kept it alive with the rich royalities from several hit plays he had written for the London stage.

Heart Disease: Nation's No. 1 Killer

Today's Patient Given Much Hope

By OGLESBY PAUL, M.D.
President-Elect, American Heart Association
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Second in a Series

CHICAGO (NEA —Heart and circulatory disease is the foremost health enemy of our nation, but is it increasing or decreasing? To answer this question, we must look briefly at the various types of cardiovascular disease.

Rheumatic heart disease has been declining — thanks partly to improved means of treating and preventing streptococcal infections which "trigger" an attack of rheumatic fever.

With coronary heart disease (the type causing angina pectoris and "heart attack") there has been some increase.

This is due both to the fact that we are living to an older age, and to a true increase for which the reasons are not entirely clear.

High blood pressure with its complications does not appear to be lessening, and, with an older population, strokes have increased in total numbers.

Congenital heart disease would seem to be increasing. This apparent increase may simply be due to the fact that we are able to diagnose in-born heart defects more accurately.

★ ★ ★

Just where are we now in the diagnosis of cardiovascular disease?

Because of the dramatic progress made during the last 20 years, many of the patients with significant difficulty,

The patient with a serious "heart attack," the blue baby, the child or adult with rheumatic heart disease, and the man or woman with high blood pressure can almost always be diagnosed accurately.

We have newer methods of X-ray, improved understanding of the electrocardiogram, techniques permitting measurement of pressures and blood characteristics inside the heart and newer ways of analyzing blood samples.

However, we are far from perfect in our diagnosis of the beginning or early stages of some types of heart and blood vessel disorders.

HARD TO DIAGNOSE

This is particularly true of coronary heart disease where the diagnosis often is not possible until symptoms appear or a serious attack occurs. It also is usually true of blood vessel disease of the brain.

Where are we now in treatment with drugs?

In congenital heart disease, drugs are of limited value and cannot cure the basic condition. In acute rheumatic fever certain drugs, notably cortisone and similar substances, are decidedly helpful and may be life-saving, although they do not actually cure the disease or necessarily prevent heart damage.

DRUGS HELP

With penicillin and the sulfa drugs, we have wonderfully potent substances to prevent further attacks of rheumatic fever.

In high blood pressure, some patients need no treatment. For those who require medicine, several effective drugs are now available, including rauwolfia, chlorothiazide and hydralazine.

In coronary heart disease, medicines (anticoagulants) to retard blood clotting are used in treating acute heart attacks and preventing repeat attacks with definite but not 100 per cent success. For certain persons who have had impending or true strokes, anticoagulants also have been found helpful.

Where are we now in treatment with diet?

A restriction of salt (and all food substances containing much sodium) is at times of great value in those situations where the heart has become weakened and fluid accumulaes in the lungs, abdomen and legs. Occasionally, it is also useful for the patient with high blood pressure.

★ ★ ★

A reduction in fat intake has been advocated by many as one means of limiting hardening of the arteries (arteriosclerosis) which leads to strokes and coronary heart disease.

★ ★ ★

A moderate reduction appears to make good sense and has been adopted by many physicians in their own diets.

What about surgery?

Brilliant results have been obtained in correcting congenital heart disease with various surgical procedures. But surgery cannot cure all types of congenital heart conditions. Many are cured, many are greatly or moderately helped, and some cases are too complex for help at present.

In rheumatic heart disease, surgery is useful where the heart muscle is not greatly involved and the difficulty is chiefly one of damage to the valves. Wonderfully successful results have been achieved with operations on partial closure of the mitral valve.

Surgery also can be highly effective in relieving certain cases of high blood pressure which have an identifiable cause such as a tumor of the adrenal gland or a block in an artery.

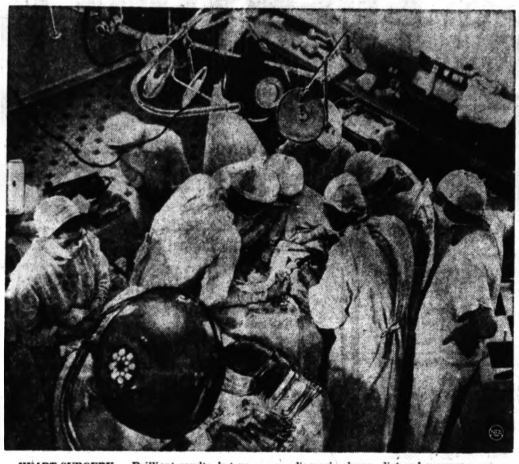

In strokes and in their prevention a few patients have been greatly benefited by an operation which replaces the diseased portion of an artery leading to the brain with a graft, or which by-passes the damaged area.

It must be emphasized that there are good grounds for optimism. The label of heart or cardiovascular disease is usually not a dread one — rather, it often only requires a modest adjustment in our way of life.

For those needing treatment, there is much that can be done today to help.

Next: The breakthroughs in prospect.

HEART SURGERY — Brilliant results, but no cure-alls are offered patients of today. The aids are diagnosis, drugs, diet and surgery.

Italian Premier Told to Resign

ROME (UPI)—Premier Antonio Segni today called on President Giovanni Gronchi, apparently to tell him in advance that he was going to resign.

★ ★ ★

Christian Democratic Party leaders in the chamber of deputies unanimously advised Segni he should resign. The new government crisis was forced Sunday when the liberal party withdrew its parliamentary support of the Christian Democrats.

★ ★ ★

No immediate announcement was issued after Segni's abrupt meeting with his cabinet, to forwas expected to return to the president's office tonight, after a meeting with Gronchi. The premier mally tender his resignation. Segni became premier only a year ago.

Bad Break Victim.

DUNCAN, Okla (AP) — The mother of Ray Liles, 10, said there is nothing physically wrong with her son, except he is over-energetic. Ray has broken his leg four times, the last time while jumping rope at school.

Wisconsin Poll Shows Adlai Leads All Dems

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Wisconsin congressman says a poll of his district showed that Adlai Stevenson commanded more presidential support than either of the two Democrats actually entered in the state's key primary April 5.

Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier (D-Wis) said Stevenson, the party's 1952 and 1956 standard-bearer, got 34.3 per cent of the votes from those who marked the Democratic side of the mock ballot.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) received 23.6 per cent of the votes, while Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) polled 26.2 per cent. Other Democrats were Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo), 4.5 per cent; Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), 4.3 per cent; and Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore), 1 per cent, as a "write in" candidate on the poll.

Humphrey and Kennedy are battling hard against each other for delegates in the Wisconsin primary. No other Democrat has entered.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon got 81 per cent of the Republican votes in the poll. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller got 18 per cent.

Plan to Send Man Into Orbit in 1961

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (UPI) — Maj. Gen. Don R. Ostrander of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said last night that NASA plans to send an astronaut 100 miles into space with a Redstone missile this year, and put a man in orbit in 1961.

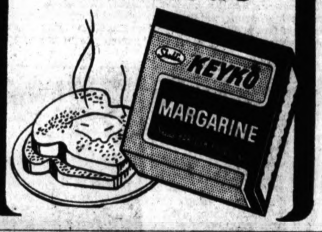

Ostrander is director of NASA's launch vehicle program.

Ostrander said by 1970, according to present plans, man will land on the moon. He said Venus and Mars will be in favorable position for space missions in 1962 and "very shortly" a Thor-Able probe will be launched toward the sun as far as Venus' orbit to test long-distance communication techniques.

To Take Bids for Hangar

City commissioners have moved to begin construction on a $60,000 hangar-office building at Pontiac Municipal Airport.

They approved advertising for construction bids to be opened March 4.

The building would provide workshop facilities for the city business space for two concerns forced to move out of Hangar 2 when it was leased last fall to Aerodynamics, Inc.

City Manager Walter K. Willman said that rentals would offset construction costs.

Unpaid bills for weed cutting last summer were ordered spread on a special assessment roll for collection. They totaled only $1,264.

Commissioners also approved a roll covering costs for a water main of Rosewood pace, west of Aster street.

An amendment was ordered to rezone three lots on the north side of Oakland avenue at Gerdon street from residential to commercial for an auto sales and service building which Cy Owens, Inc., plans.

Sent to the Planning Commission was a request for rezoning from residential to commercial of three lots at the northwest corner of Oakland and Kinney road.

Approved over the objections of Commissioners Floyd P. Miles and Wesley J. Wood was the transfer of a beer distributing license issued to Hubert Distributors from 673 S. Saginaw St. to their new warehouse at 125 E. Columbia Ave.

Also approved was transfer of the SDM liquor license at 338 Central Ave. from James A. Schlink to Rodolfo Morales.

Commissioners expressed official thanks to Community National Bank for the carillon recently installed at the bank's main office on Saginaw street.

Thoughtful Thieves Brighten the Picture

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Thieves broke into T. V. Pennington's car and stole his portable television set, which was on the blink and being taken to a repair shop.

★ ★ ★

Police arrested the thieves a short while later, and Pennington reclaimed the set. It was working fine.

Five Selected for the Circus Hall of Fame

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Five men who played important roles in the development of the circus both here and abroad have been named to the Circus Hall of Fame at Sarasota.

P. T. Barnum, the man who made famous the slogan, "The Greatest Show on Earth," heads the list selected by the national awards committee.

Others honored were Dan Rice, James A. Bailey, Fred Bradna and W. C. Coup.

Barnum entered the circus business in 1831 and was involved in several circuses before joining with Bailey to form "Barnum and Bailey's Greatest Show on Earth." The show merged with Ringling Bros. in 1907. Bailey also produced several circuses abroad.

Rice was the highest paid clown of the 19th century. He traveled with minstrel shows and at one time was part owner of a circus. He received $1,000 a week at the height of his career.

Bradna was known as one of the most popular ringmasters and equestrian directors in the world.

Coup was selected for his contribution to circus maintenance. He invented the rings on the lower corners of circus wagons for added hitches. They were often used by elephants to pull the wagons to location and in parades.

Smeekens Leads Senators Using State Aircraft

A check of State Department of Aeronautics records showed Smeekens was tops among legislators ordering special plane trips during the past year.

Smeekens also was the Senate's top long distance telephone talker and led legislators using state police transportation during the year—making 10 trips in state police cars.

★ ★ ★

Aeronautics Department records showed legislators ordered nine special plane trips since Jan. 1, 1959. Lawmakers also were carried on 16 trips not specifically ordered.

★ ★ ★

Smeekens ordered three of the nine flights, traveling alone each time from Lansing to the Detroit Willow Run Airport.

White Restaurant Case in High Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court will rule on the right of a privately operated restaurant in an interstate bus terminal, to refuse to serve Negro travelers in a section reserved for white patrons.

★ ★ ★

The court announced it would hear an appeal by Bruce Boynton, a Negro law student, who was arrested and fined $10 for refusing to leave the white restaurant in a Richmond, Va., building operated by Trailways Bus Terminal, Inc.

★ ★ ★

At the time, Boynton was traveling to his home in Selma, Ala., from Washington where he was a student at Howard University.

The high tribunal is not expected to hear the case before next fall.

Bus Terminal Restaurant of Richmond, Inc., operates separate facilities for white and Negro patrons. Boynton's appeal said he sought service in the white restaurant because the Negro facility appeared to be crowded.

Get Hep to Egg in Sandwich

March is National Egg Month, the time of year when egg supplies enter their most abundant season. Eggs are such a good buy right now many homemakers are using them morning, noon and night—and snack time, too. This protein-laden, low calorie food has appeal all three meals of the day.

Egg sandwiches are a national favorite. They appear in millions of lunch boxes every day. Here's a brand new sandwich treat that features eggs, ham and prunes. It's a new combination, the children and grownups will love it. Matter of fact, children of all ages will clamor for seconds, so be prepared.

A platter of HEP sandwiches, a tray full of crisp relishes and a pitcher of milk will provide hearty luncheon or supper fare for the whole family.

HEP Egg Sandwich

1 fried egg
4 moist pitted prunes, halved
1 slice cooked ham, heated
2 slices buttered toast

To fry egg: Heat 1 tablespoon of fat in a skillet just hot enough to sizzle a drop of water. Break and slip egg into skillet—from a saucer dish, if preferred. Cook slowly to desired doneness, 5 to 7 minutes . . . during cooking break yolk to allow it to spread. Turn egg over or cover skillet to complete cooking.

Place toast on plate. Top 1 slice with prunes and the fried egg. Place ham on other side. Serve open or closed style. Makes 1 sandwich.

Spicy Applesauce Calls for Ginger

Mandarin Applesauce

2 cups chilled applesauce
2 tablespoons (2 knobs about the size of walnuts) syrup-preserved ginger
2 medium-sized seedless oranges

Mix applesauce and ginger; spoon into 4 sherbet glasses or dessert dishes. With sharp knife pare oranges so no white membrane remains.

Cut oranges into sections; place knife on outside of orange, in center of pulp between 2 membranes, and slice to core; repeat until whole orange is sectioned. Arrange oranges over applesauce. Makes 4 servings.

If desserts are chilled a few hours or longer, ginger will permeate applesauce more than if served as soon as prepared.

Add zip to deviled ham, to be used for canapes, by mixing with coarsely ground black pepper.

Men Demonstrate New Foods

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

One day soon you're going to walk into a restaurant and see "Shrimp Steak" listed on the menu. Last week we tasted this new seafood treat and liked it.

* * *

Tiny Panamanian shrimp — no bigger than a thumb nail — are molded into a block. Power sawed into three-ounce slices, these shrimp steaks are lightly breaded, then deep-fat fried.

* * *

We ate this new fish dish at an interesting demonstration held recently for restaurant workers and caterers. Present also were hospital dieticians and some home economic teachers. The meeting was sponsored jointly by WIMCO Heating, Blue Water Seafoods and Consumers Power.

At the Press Cooking School women did the cooking while the men stood in the wings. At this last demonstration men did the cooking while an audience composed mainly of women watched; and home economists from Consumers Power stood in the wings. Richard Kunzi of the fish company was an efficient cook. He said he could fry enough food for 200 people in 18 minutes.

We were sorry to hear that the shrimp steaks aren't available in retail stores yet. But other new fish dishes are. There are four new boil-in-a-bag concoctions to be found in some stores.

FOR LENT

Two are halibut dishes, the third is crab Newburg and the fourth is shrimp curry. All you do is drop the bag of frozen food into boiling water for three minutes; open and serve.

We learned a number of things at this meeting that can be applied to home cooking.

The men had cooked a 24-pound standing rib roast and a 24-pound turkey, both at a temperature of 225 degrees. There was almost no loss of juice at this low temperature. We tried it at home over the weekend with a pork roast and were pleased with the results. Of course, you have to increase the cooking time.

We also learned that for french frying stainless steel utensils, kept scrupulously clean, are the best. Iron comes second. It seems that frying fat is temperamental and changes character when it contacts certain metals.

If you want perfect french fried potatoes, cook them for four minutes at 400 degrees. Refry them—24 hours later—for three and a half minutes. So start tomorrow's potatoes today.

THERE IT IS—Richard Kunzi (left), marketing manager of the Blue Water Fish Company, holds a box of the new shrimp steaks as Robby Robertson (center) points them out to Mrs. Veda Iman of 3912 Maybee road. Robby was master of ceremonies for a demonstration put on in the Consumers Power auditorium for members of the Restaurant and Caterers' Association recently. Mrs. Iman works in a local restaurant.

What's New in Drying Potatoes for Storage

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—Dehydrated potatoes are as old as the Incas. A major spice and herb packer says Indians of pre-Spanish Peru used a drying process that began with freezing spuds on the ground during the night.

Water was removed the next day by treading the potatoes with bare feet. Four to five tramplings on consecutive days were followed by sun-drying and storage.

Yummy Yummy Pie Is Chocolate and Coffee

Ice cream, the number one in dessert popularity, can be found in the freezer of almost every American home. Served "as is" or dressed up fancy, you can't beat this refreshing treat which is quick and easy to serve. Nourishing too, for ice cream contains the same high quality nutrients as milk.

Mocha Ice Cream Pie with Chocolate Sauce is one "dressed-up" way to serve ice cream for dessert. Rich coffee flavored ice cream with chocolate sauce drizzled over the top, all nestled in a yummy butter-rich chocolate crumb crust.

For a convenient time saver if company is coming (and this is a good company dessert), prepare ahead, all except for the chocolate sauce, and keep in the freezer. Just remember to remove from the freezer about a half-hour ahead so the pie will cut easily.

To lead up to this special dessert serve: fried chicken with mushrooms and sour cream, fluffy rice, buttered asparagus, grapefruit and orange salad, French dressing, bread, butter and milk.

Mocha Ice Cream Pie

1½ cups finely crushed chocolate wafers
⅓ cup (1 stick) butter, melted

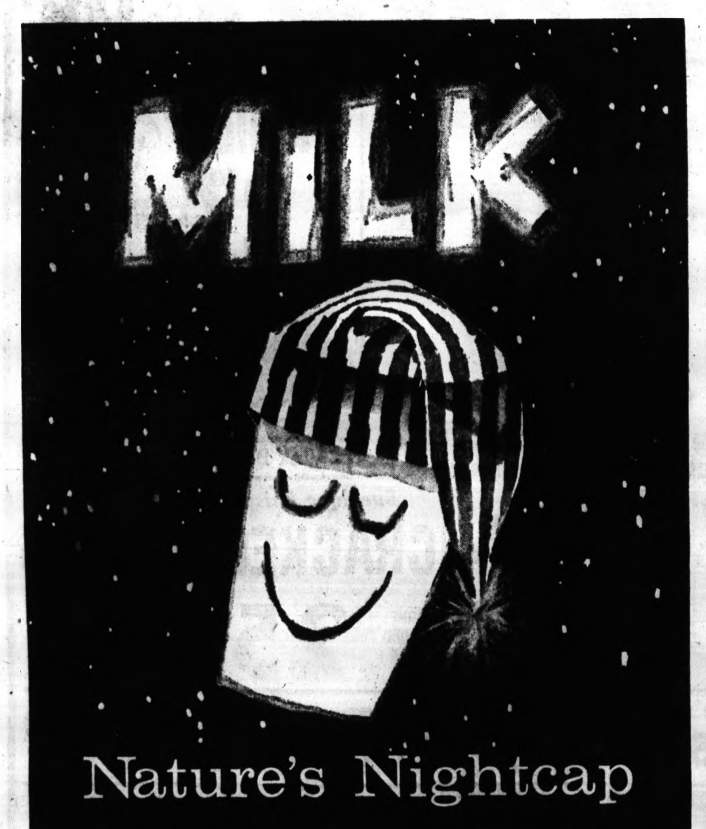

Mix thoroughly chocolate crumbs and melted butter. Press into bottom and sides of 9-inch pie pan. Chill. Spoon 1 to 1½ quarts coffee ice cream into chilled crumb crust. Drizzle chocolate sauce over top.

Chocolate Sauce

½ cup (⅛ stick) butter
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1½ cups sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup heavy cream
½ teaspoon vanilla

Melt butter and chocolate over very low heat. Add sugar gradually, blending well. Mixture will be thick and dry. Add salt; gradually stir in cream. Cook 5 to 6 minutes to dissolve sugar. Remove from heat; add vanilla. Makes about 2 cups. Note: for mocha sauce add 1 tablespoon instant coffee.

Lamb, Fruit and Carrots Offer Variety of Bargains

Last week snow-clogged roads hampered farm-to-market shipment and all livestock prices reached high levels. Most of the wholesales have remained high as retailers were forced to buy ahead because there was no trading or deliveries over Washington's birthday.

The predominant change in the fruit picture is in heavier supplies of bananas and fresh pineapples.

Wholesale lamb prices continued their steady increase through forced light supplies. Considering this situation, the many across-the-board features on lamb cuts—all roasts and chops—are excellent values this week and it would be a fine time to stock the freezer with retail cuts. The cuts are of top quality and offer the maximum of edible meat per pound.

Fish is always one of the best budget-stretchers because the cost-per-serving is low and fish still provides the same high quality protein as you find in red meat. Most fish supplies are now coming from the northern lakes and from the ocean. Whitefish, smelt, perch, halibut, cod and haddock are economical in cost in most markets, though whitefish has increased fractionally.

Heavy supplies continue to hold egg prices down to the lowest levels in several years. Production is large and storage holdings are running considerably greater than a year ago. In addition, the quality of eggs is seasonally high at this time of year.

The harvesting of avocados continues to be heavy and more of the large sizes of pineapple are coming to market at lower prices. The orange market is comparatively unchanged with the medium-small sizes of #113-138 being most plentiful in many years and those prices are quite comparable to the white varieties.

VEGETABLES: The carrot production continues to be 28 per cent more than a year ago and prices are lower than in a number of years. Supplies of cabbage from several states are also heavy and quality is steadily improving. Michigan onions are in surplus and they are the lowest priced vegetable in the stores. Cost-per-serving may be less than a penny and onions may be prepared in many interesting ways.

Many tender Florida vegetables have continued to ease off in price as supplies have become more plentiful. Green peppers are considerably down and cucumbers have decreased slightly. Although tomato shipments continue to be light, those of vine-ripes have shown a substantial increase and quality is improving each week, each week. When comparing prices, keep in mind that most tray-packs are only 14 ounces while the vine-ripes are sold by the pound.

Broccoli is still reasonable in price but fresh green beans continue to be less economical because so many of the vines were chilled during the cold weather in Florida. Although head lettuce and spinach are generally unchanged in price, there is tendency toward lower prices because of the beginning of more volume harvesting and improved weather.

Scalloped Chops Praiseworthy

If the dinner's dragging and the conversation's lagging Mrs. Homemakers, it's time to freshen up your menus—just to paraphrase one of the current commercials.

You can freshen up those menus with pork chops, if you'll put some of your creative ability and orginality to work. And you won't find a better time to experiment, because pork's one of the most plentiful foods right now and "the price is right."

Pork chops, in case you didn't know, have long been a favorite with menu planners because they lend themselves to so many different ways of preparation.

Whoever came up first with Scalloped Pork Chops, for example, certainly deserves praise. While you're waiting for an inspiration, you can use this method of preparing pork chops as a sure-fire menu refresher. And here's how—

Select center-cut, loin-end, blade or arm-bone shoulder chops, cut as thickly as you like. Brown the chops and transfer them to a greased baking dish. Add a layer of sliced potatoes and cover with a mixture of finely chopped green pepper, chopped onion, condensed cream of celery soup diluted with ½ part milk, salt, pepper and a bit of savory seasoning.

Cover casserole tightly and bake 45 minutes in a moderate oven. Remove cover and sprinkle generously with grated cheddar cheese. Return casserole to the oven and continue baking until cheese bubbles and is gently tipped with brown.

Noodle Soup Mix Is Base for Smothered Chicken

Having to cook three meals a day for approximately 365 days a year brings out the magician in Mother. Just think of all the different ways she can cook a chicken. It is baked or broiled or barbecued; served simmered or smothered or stewed in a pot.

On occasion, it will turn up Southern-fried, Maryland style, or Italian-style as chicken Cacciatore, then again, as the famous French coq au vin. And she cooks it as hash as blithely as with herbs.

Here is one more recipe for her burgeoning collection, and it is a truly delicious one for Smothered Chicken. It makes use of a package of chicken noodle soup mix in the most ingenious ways. The enriched noodles from the soup mix form the base of the casserole and the soup stock is used to make the sauce. And, as an extra dividend, the soup mix adds more chicken flavor as well as nutrition.

SMOTHERED CHICKEN

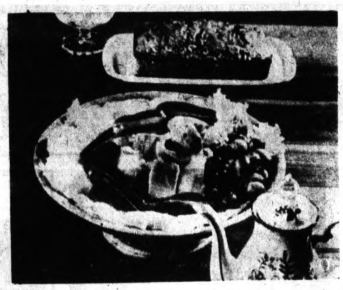

1 package chicken noodle soup mix
1½ cups boiling water
1 2½- to 3-pound chicken, cut into serving pieces
½ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
⅓ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup minced onion
4-ounce can sliced mushrooms
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
to 4 tablespoons sherry, if desired

Stir chicken noodle soup mix into boiling water and simmer 7 minutes. Strain, reserve broth. Place noodles in bottom of large shallow casserole. Combine ½ cup flour, salt and pepper. Coat chicken pieces.

In skillet, heat half of butter or margarine and brown chicken pieces. Arrange in casserole. Heat remaining butter or margarine in skillet; saute onion and mushrooms about 5 minutes. Blend in the two tablespoons flour then the soup stock and milk. Simmer, stirring, until thickened. Add sherry.

Pour sauce over the chicken. Cover and bake at 325 degrees F. for 1 hour. Makes 6 servings.

Add brandy flavoring to a fine apricot preserve and use as a filling for spongecake layers; frost with whipped cream and garnish with chocolate sprinkles.

TUNA FRUIT SALAD—Appetizing-to-look-at and delicious-to-eat describe a salad of canned tuna and fruits. Nut bread, butter and coffee are accompaniments.

Fill Lettuce-Lined Bowl With Tuna-Fruit Duet

Tuna salads enjoy year 'round popularity with young and old alike, and offer delicious eating which is nutritious and easy on the budget. Canned tuna is especially flavorful teamed with winter fruits . . . arrange tuna with orange slices, apple wedges and grapes on lettuce. Serve the salad with a dressing of mayonnaise and orange juice.

A second suggestion presents tuna with grapefruit, cucumber, chives and French dressing served in grapefruit shells. These tuna salads are just the ticket for lunch and supper menus.

Tuna Fruit Salad

1 large apple, cored and cut in wedges
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 7-ounce can tuna, drained
1 large orange, peeled and sliced
¾ cup red grapes
Crisp lettuce
¼ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons orange juice

Combine apple and lemon juice; toss lightly. Arrange apple, tuna, orange and grapes on lettuce. Combine mayonnaise and orange juice; mix well. Serve tuna-fruit salad topped with orange dressing. Makes 4 servings.

Tuna and Grapefruit Salad

2 large grapefruit, cut in half
1 7-ounce can tuna, drained
½ cup chopped cucumber
2 tablespoons chopped chives
Pepper to taste
2 tablespoons French dressing

Section grapefruit; reserve pulp. Remove membrane; reserve shells. Combine grapefruit sections, tuna, cucumber, chives, pepper and French dressing; toss lightly. Arrange tuna mixture in grapefruit shells. Chill. Serve on crisp lettuce, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

Frankfurts Need Little Cooking

The best way to heat skinless frankfurts and pre-cooked smoked sausage is to bring water to a rolling boil in a saucepan, turn off the heat add the frankfurts or sausage and cover. Let stand about eight to ten minutes, and they will be heated through and ready to serve.

Frankfurts have 800 calories to a pound, or 100 calories per Frankfurt.

Keep several pounds of smoked sausage in the refrigerator for weekends. When friends drop in, simply slice it in rounds, fry, and serve on toothpicks with mustard for a dip.

BAKED HASH 'N' EGGS — Most families get together for breakfast. In many homes it is the only meal in which everyone shares. More people are eating heartier foods for this first meal of the day, foods such as corned beef hash and eggs served on toast.

Square Meal Is Good Starter

Many families who are on-the-go from dawn through dinner are turning to the breakfast table for their get-together of the day, market researchers are discovering. These families find, too, that they need the old-fashioned square meal variety of breakfast, one that might well feature baked corned beef hash 'n eggs on toast.

Preparation of the "last-until-noon breakfast" need not be a race against the kitchen clock. Here, the bread is oven toasted, all at once. The baking of the dish is timed to match the last perk of the coffee pot.

All of the ingredients are convenience foods. The toast; canned corned beef; and eggs, which need only to be broken on the hash. So little additional effort will bring such a satisfying send-off for the family.

Baked Hash 'n Eggs on Toast

6 slices enriched bread toast
2 cups or 1 (1-pound) can corned beef hash
6 eggs
Dash of salt

Place toast on baking sheet. Spread each slice with ⅓ cup corned beef hash, making an indentation in center of each for eggs. Break one egg into each indentation and sprinkle with salt. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 25 minutes. Serve immediately. Yield: 6 servings.

Added Nutrition

Here's a quick and easy wheat germ-French pancake mix. Beat up three eggs, two cups of milk, one cup of flour, half-teaspoon of salt and four tablespoons of wheat germ. Grease skillet with olive oil or cooking oil.

Shrimp-Stuffed Rigatoni Baked in Sauce

Shrimp and spaghetti fans will applaud this novel main dish that we've dubbed Shrimp in Traps. The "traps" are rigatoni, the large, ribbed, tubular macaroni. The shrimp are cooked and cut in half, then stuffed into the pasta . . . hence the name. Actually this extra step takes but a few minutes and makes the dish a conversation piece.

The sauce is a rich, full-flavored tomato sauce, based on concentrated tomato juice, that versatile product that does a triple-play as sauce, puree or juice. Worcestershire sauce, minced parsley and celery seed add flavor interest. So does a topping of golden cheese. You can use American as called for in the recipe, or grated Swiss or Romano.

Shrimp in Traps

1½ cups rigatoni
1 pound green shrimp (1½ pound cooked, cleaned, split lengthwise)
1 can (6½ ounces) concentrated tomato juice, diluted with 1 can water
1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon celery seed
½ cup grated American cheese

Cook rigatoni in boiling, salted water; drain; rinse. Heat oven to 350 degrees F. (moderate). Stuff rigatoni with shrimp. Place in 1-quart casserole. Combine juice and next 4 ingredients; pour over rigatoni. Bake, covered, 30 minutes. Remove cover; sprinkle with cheese. Bake 15 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

With the Shrimp in Traps, serve a large salad of escarole, spinach and Bermuda onion rings, use a dressing of two parts oil to one part vinegar. Or for something a bit different try this Broccoli Salad.

Broccoli Salad

1 package (10 ounces) frozen broccoli spears
1 can (2 ounces) flat anchovy fillets
1 pimiento, cut into strips
2 tablespoons vinegar
⅓ cup salad oil
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon minced parsley
1 teaspoon minced onion
½ teaspoon celery seed

Cook broccoli according to directions on package; drain; chill. On individual lettuce-lined salad plates, arrange broccoli. Arrange anchovies and pimiento over broccoli.

For dressing, combine vinegar and remaining ingredients. Shake well. Serve over salad. Makes 4-6 servings.

Whole kernel corn; Italian bread made crispy in the oven; and a plate of ripe olives, carrot curls and dill pickle slices complete the main course. For dessert, try an open-face cherry pie.

Cheese on Hash

Corned beef hash topped with Baby Gouda cheese wedges is something special!! Heat hash in shallow baking dish in moderate oven as directed on can label. Top with a ring of thin Baby Gouda cheese wedges and return to oven 2 to 3 minutes or until cheese softens.

Custard Puddings Go Over Big as Desserts

Eggs are on the list of plentiful foods, so now is the time to try new and interesting custard recipes. Here are two, each with a gourmet touch that gives more flavor and a welcome difference.

Coffee Custard

Combine ¾ cup light brown sugar and ½ teaspoon salt. Add 3 eggs, and 1½ teaspoons pure vanilla extract. Beat lightly. Dissolve 1 teaspoon instant coffee in 2 cups milk. Heat and gradually stir into the sugar and egg mixture.

Pour into 6 lightly buttered custard cups. Place cups on a rack or jar in a 9 or 10-inch skillet with hot water coming halfway to the top of cups. Cover with a close-fitting lid. Steam over low heat until knife inserted in center comes out clean.

Serve cold in cups or turn out into dessert dishes. Top each with ½ macaroon, crumbled, and vanilla whipped cream. Six servings.

Vanilla Coconut Custard Pudding

Combine ¼ cup cold milk with 3 slightly beaten eggs. Add ¼ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons pure vanilla extract, and 1¾ cups scalded milk. Stir in ⅔ cup shredded moist coconut. Turn into a buttered 1-quart casserole. Sprinkle grated nutmeg over the top. Place in a pan of hot water.

Bake in a preheated slow oven (300 degrees F.) 1 hour or until knife inserted in the center comes out clean. Remove from water and cool on a wire cake rack. Serve topped with whipped cream, if desired.

Chicken and Ham Contribute to Soup

Using two kinds of split peas gives this soup good color.

New Split Pea Soup

1½ cups quick-cooking yellow split peas
¼ cup quick-cooking green split peas
1 ham bone (with just a little meat left on)
Chicken gizzard and heart plus wing tips
1 medium-sized onion (sliced)
1 cup chopped celery rib and leaves
2 quarts water
¼ teaspoon peppercorns
2 whole cloves
1 whole allspice
1 bay leaf
Salt
Ground pepper

Wash split peas and drain; put in soup kettle with ham bone, chicken, onion, celery, water, peppercorns, cloves, allspice and bay leaf. Bring to a gentle boil; simmer 1½ hours. Remove ham bone and chicken pieces; press the rest through a strainer.

Reheat, adding salt and pepper to taste. If soup is too thin, simmer to reduce; if too thick, add a little stock. Soup usually thickens if refrigerated overnight. Makes 2 quarts at least.

Dried Figs Vary Menus at End of Winter

As the wintry months cling stubbornly to the calendar and the bins of our grocers are bare of succulent fruit, we can be even more grateful for the sun-blessed goodness of California dried figs. These plump and tender-hearted fruits stand menu-planners in good stead the year 'round. They can be eaten "as is" without fussy planning and preparation — or they can gladden the heart of the proudest gourmet in the most imaginative culinary concoction.

However you prefer them, these golden sources of instant sunshine can brighten your menus and add valuable vitamins and minerals to your family's meals. Especially during the pre-Easter weeks, we may take a note from the pages of medieval English homemakers, who stored large supplies of "fieggs, and great rayeyngs," to be used in sweet puddings and as "Lenten meats."

The recipes we're including here were developed especially to make the most of luscious dried figs and perk up winter-weary appetites.

Salad Bowl Surprise

1 cup chopped dried figs
½ cup flaked coconut
1 cup coarsely grated carrots
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ cup mayonnaise
Lettuce
½ cup finely chopped peanuts (optional)

Combine dried figs, coconut, carrots; sprinkle with lemon juice and ginger. Blend in mayonnaise. Spoon into lettuce-lined salad bowl. Sprinkle with peanuts, if desired. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

Fisherman's Sandwich

For a different and delicious sandwich to serve for a Lenten lunch, try serving a zippy Maine Sardine Fisherman's Sandwich. Broil meaty sardines until they are heated through. Arrange on toasted whole wheat bread. Spread mustard relish over the fish. Sprinkle with a few drops of lemon juice. Top with the additional toast, and serve with cups of steaming hot coffee.

★ ★ ★

Fig Rhubarb Butter

1 pound or about 30 dried figs, finely chopped
1½ quarts rhubarb, cut into chunks
4½ cups sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon allspice

Combine figs, rhubarb, sugar and lemon juice in large kettle; let stand overnight. Bring to a boil and simmer at low heat until mixture is thick and to similar consistency of apple butter (about 50 to 60 minutes). Remove from heat; add spices. Pour into jelly glasses and cover with paraffin. Makes about 1 quart.

★ ★ ★

Figs Supreme

12 dried figs
½ cup finely chopped nuts
1 tablespoon honey
½ teaspoon finely chopped candied ginger
½ cup port wine
½ cup whipping cream (optional)

In small saucepan, cover dried figs with water. Simmer 25 to 35 minutes or until soft. Drain and cool. Combine chopped nuts, honey and ginger.

Make a slit in the side of each fig; stuff with nut mixture. Place in shallow dish. Pour wine over figs; let stand several hours. Serve plain or top with cream that has been beaten until stiff. Makes 4 servings.

Nest Berries in Light Chiffon

In the Thirteenth Century, a Scotch maid had the law on her side when she wished to propose during leap year. Authorities levied a fine of one pound on the object of her affection if her proposal was not accepted!

These ancient customs seem amusing now to the modern miss who knows there is no special day or year reserved for claiming admiration from the object of her affection. There are, however, special ways to achieve this happy state of affairs, and one of the most basic is to set tempting desserts before him at the table.

★ ★ ★

One such dessert is today's recipe for Strawberries in Chiffon Nests. The "nests" are made with strawberry chiffon pie filling shaped into rounds, then chilled.

Strawberries in Chiffon Nests

1 package strawberry chiffon pie filling mix
½ cup boiling water
½ cup cold water
½ cup sugar
6 cups sweetened fresh or frozen whole strawberries

Place pie filling mix in a large deep bowl. Add boiling water and stir well. Add cold water and beat vigorously with a sturdy egg beater or at the highest speed of electric mixer until mixture is very foamy—takes about 1 minute. Add sugar and again beat vigorously until filling stands in peaks—takes about 3 minutes. (Do not overbeat.)

Drop half cupfuls onto greased baking sheets, about 6 inches apart. Shape each into 4-inch rounds and hollow centers with back of spoon. Chill until set, about 3 hours. Fill centers with strawberries. Makes 12 servings.

Meatless Dish Like a Souffle With Corn

Substantial meatless dish!

Corn Puff

1½ cups whole-kernel corn (cut from cobs of cooked fresh corn or drained canned)
1½ cups water, 4 tablespoons instant nonfat dry milk powder
4 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoons salt
Nutmeg
¼ pound processed Swiss cheese (coarsely grated)
6 eggs (separated)

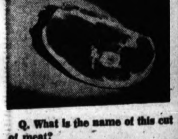

Place corn in bottom of greased baking dish (8 by 12 by 2 inches).

Pour water in top of double boiler; sprinkle nonfat dry milk powder, flour, salt and a dash of nutmeg over top of water. Beat with rotary beater until just blended. Cook over gently boiling water, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Add cheese and stir until it melts; remove from heat.

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored; stir a little of the hot mixture into the yolks. Return to remainder of hot cheese mixture; stir until blended. With clean beater, beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into cheese mixture. Pour over corn in baking dish.

Bake in slow (300 degrees) oven until puffed and golden brown, about 1½ hours. Makes 6 servings.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. Veal Arm Shoulder Steak.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?

A. It is cut from the shoulder section of the carcass. It resembles the veal arm roast but is cut much thinner. One distinguishing characteristic is a small round arm bone. There is a small amount of fat which surrounds the steak.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. It is best prepared by braising, since veal contains a very small amount of marbling.

Be Quiet to Wife About Gift

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I have received several very nice presents from my boss during this past busy year. I've stretched a point to cooperate when there was extra work to be done and I think that is why the gifts were given me. I have thanked him verbally each time and let it go at that. However, I know that his wife is responsible for picking out the gifts. I know her only on the telephone and nothing has been said about her when the gifts were handed to me. Should I thank her too when talking to her, or what could I do to acknowledge her part?

Answer: Unless your employer has told you that the gifts are from his wife as well as from himself, it would be actually lacking in good taste to mention these gifts to her, unless she happens to ask you if you liked this or that gift which she helped choose.

Dear Mrs. Post: I will soon be celebrating my 17th birthday. I had planned on giving a party and inviting my many friends to help me celebrate. I have been told that it would be in bad taste to give my own birthday party. Will you please advise me if this is true.

Answer: The best thing for you to do is to invite your friends to a party, and only tell them after they arrive that you wanted to have them with you on your birthday. In this way none of them will feel embarrassed because they have brought no presents.

Dear Mrs. Post: At a cocktail party I went to the other day, the waiter came around with a tray of hors d'oeuvres. I took two from the tray but I noticed that everyone else took only one. I felt rather embarrassed and have been wondering whether I did the wrong thing. Did I?

Answer: At cocktail parties the hors d'oeuvres are passed around again and again so that it is quite unnecessary to take two at a time, but there is nothing wrong in doing so.

Humming "Shine On My Shoes," Lois Jerry Blanchard, left, is checking last-minute details with Nilda Ormachea, right, who is zipping up luggage for the last time (she hopes) before leaving for the airport. Jerry enplaned for Miami last night; Nilda left for New York by jet. Their next meeting will be in Buenos Aires, where Jerry will study Spanish while visiting the Ormachea family for six months.

'Summer' Vacation Ahead

Flying Down to Buenos Aires

By MADELEINE DOEREN

Two young women were aboard night flights to South America Wednesday but not on the same plane. They will meet, however, in Buenos Aires within two hours of each other.

Lois Jerry Blanchard, daughter of the Frank William Blanchards of Wadsworth drive, Waterford Township, will spend six months in Argentina as the house-guest of Nilda Ormachea.

Although the trip is planned as a vacation, Jerry will study Spanish in which she will specialize on her return to the states. She has been teaching at Pierce Junior High School, Waterford.

Nilda has been teaching Spanish at University of Michigan on a scholarship. Her parents have planned a reception for Jerry in their home at Santa Fe near Buenos Aires.

The girls had previously planned a visit en route with Jerry's grandparents, the Frank Blanchards of Pioneer street, who are wintering in Largo, Fla.

According to Nilda's visa, issued to a scholarship teacher, she was required to return to Argentina by way of New York on a jet plane.

Jerry flew to Miami where she boarded a plane for South America.

Graduating with highest honors from U. of M. in June '58, Jerry was president of her dormitory in her senior year.

She was also president of three educational sororities, Kappa Delta Pi, National Honorary Education Fraternity and the Senior Woman's Society.

Featured at a bon voyage buffet supper in the home of her parents, were both American and South American dishes.

Observing their sixth wedding anniversary at the same party, were the Richard Ford Blanchards of Irwindale drive, Waterford Township.

Guests included Jerry's grandfather, Earl Struble, the Virgil Strubles and the Stanley Strubles, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Hartmann and son, Jon, and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Brooks Cavell III (Gail Blanchard) with Leslie and Edwin Brooks Cavell IV, Glenn Hartman and Betty Meyers, all of Pontiac.

The Richard Hallenbecks came from Elizabeth Lake Estates.

Among the many gifts from relatives, students and friends was a 35 millimeter camera from Jerry's parents and her sister, Kathy. Nilda was the recipient of many presents from the family and friends whom she has visited during years of friendship.

This May Interest the Mothers-in-Law

By RUTH MILLETT

"Why is it so hard for a mother-in-law to mentally put herself in her daughter-in-law's shoes, or even to remember what her own life was like when she had small children and there always seemed to be a mountain of work ahead of her?" asks one of my readers.

"My mother-in-law wouldn't think of saying, 'Honey you look worn out. Why don't you get Bob to take you out to dinner tonight? I'll fix supper for the kids and look after them.'

"Yet there must have been times in her own young married life when she felt as beat as I sometimes do, and when she was as desperate as I sometimes am to get away from it all for a carefree evening.

"Another thing she would never think of doing is to give me the morale-building boost of a nice compliment, especially one paid to me in my husband's presence. Doesn't she realize how much such a compliment would mean, coming from my husband's mother?

BRAGS ABOUT SELF

"Instead, she brags about how efficiently she runs her own home —when she hasn't a soul to do for but herself.

"Please don't think I dislike my mother-in-law. I don't dislike her and I wish she would make it easier for me to learn to love her.

"I am sure we could be really good friends if she could only unbend enough to offer me a little help and encouragement, instead of never offering a word of praise or a helping hand.

"Maybe she has read too many articles about letting your children lead their own lives. Maybe she just doesn't want to be bothered. I don't know.

"I do know I'd give anything for a little help and encouragement now and then; the kind each generation should offer the one that follows, and the kind I intend to give my own daughters and daughters-in-law."

I'm printing this letter in the hope that it will make mothers-in-law who are overdoing the "hands off our children's lives" policy see the situation from an overworked young mother's point of view.

For practical pointers on getting along with that man in your life, order your copy of Ruth Millett's new booklet, "How to Have a Happy Husband." Tells How to 'Say a Few Words'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cancer canceled Jorie Livingston's operatic career, but led her to launch another one of helping others with voice problems.

Today she teaches "productive communications" to pupils ranging from the teen-ager who stammers to the executive who is tongue-tied when called on "to say a few words."

Since this is an election year and female (as well as male) voices will be heard across the land stumping for favorite candidates, we asked the speech authority to outline some suggestions for effective platform appearances.

"Before you even get to your feet you are creating an impression," she said. "So don't sit on a dais fingering your beads or pulling at your hair or adjusting your clothes.

"Plan ahead what you wish to say, either manuscript or notes, even if you never use them.

"And talk about a subject you know.

"Listen to what those preceding you had to say and to the introduction, because you will want to relate what's gone on before to what you have to say.

"Be yourself. Don't try to make an impression . . . an image of what you think those out front want you to be. Be simple and direct.

"The voice is a musical instrument and you can sound five notes just by saying 'How do you do?' But keep to the low register. Women's voices tend to get high and shrill as they get into their speech.

"Choose your words slowly. A pause is better than rattling on because you're flustered.

PRACTICE TIMING

"Practice timing and change of pace; this sensitivity to an audience comes with experience, and you will learn whether those out front already are tired from the long drawn-out talk of another speaker. Don't hesitate to cut your own, if you notice the audience is tense or tired.

"Watch weight distribution. Feet firmly planted indicate security. Stand a little forward rather than with the body pitched backward, in the model's stance.

"Learn what to do with your arms. Let them swing free and relaxed, instead of hugging them to the body, a sure sign of shyness. And when you make a gesture for emphasis, make it with a sweep of the whole arm.

"Choose clothes to create that true image of yourself I mentioned earlier. We all know the type who is in her 50s but dresses to look in her 30s. Simplicity of dress is a good rule."

Mrs. Livingston, a native of St. Louis, is a widow and has a 13-year-old daughter, Leila. Her early training included study under Mary Garden on a scholarship. She had appeared with the Chicago symphony, toured military bases with the USO, and was appearing in Gian-Carlo Menotti's "The Medium" when she found she had breast cancer.

Radical surgery caught the cancer, but she said the post-operative treatments of X-ray and hormones "tightened" her vocal chords.

Dear Abby Says: Stop His Traveling!

Her Hubby Needs an Ultimatum

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been married to Sam for nine years. We have four children, which is the reason why I am still married to him. He started to chase the first year we were married. I told my mother and she said, "Pay no attention to it. Let him get it out of his system."

ABBY

After nine years, he still has as much in his system as ever. Does a man ever get it all out of his system?

TIRED OF WAITING

DEAR TIRED: Tell him in no uncertain terms that you love him, don't want to share him, will not put up with it — THEN see what else he has in his system.

DEAR ABBY: I am so mad the tears are blinding me as I write this. My brother Ed is marrying a girl he's gone with for a long time. They asked our older brother Paul to be best man. Paul was injured in the war and is in a wheel chair.

The wedding is a week away. All the tuxedos are rented. Yesterday the bride told Ed that she changed her mind about having Paul for best man and she wants him to ask somebody else. She says she doesn't want Paul coming down the aisle in a wheel chair because she's afraid everybody will be looking at Paul and not at her.

Ed hasn't the heart to tell Paul he can't be best man. The bride won't give in and her parents are backing her up. What should we do about this mess?

SISTER OF ED AND PAUL

DEAR SIS: This is strictly Ed's business. He alone will have to decide whether he cares enough for this girl to select another best man and break the news to his disabled brother. Perhaps the incident of the best man was the best thing that could have happened to the groom.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my married daughter. She has a nice husband. We also have a 15-year-old daughter who is in the 10th grade. She is a cheer leader and is very popular at school.

Whenever I buy my 15-year-old girl something and the married daughter sees it, she makes some remark like, "You never bought ME clothes like that!" She doesn't realize that times were not so good then. It has gotten so that whenever we know the married daughter is coming over, we hide anything we bought for the 15-year-old. It doesn't do any good though, because she snoops through all the closets and drawers and finds it anyway.

I heard that other mothers have had this trouble. Maybe you can help them and me, too, with a suitable solution.

NAMELESS

DEAR NAMELESS: Stop hiding things! You owe your married daughter no explanations or apologies. Simply tell her that you can afford more now than you could when she was fifteen.

Keep It White

Men Still Have Influence, However

Says Women Now Dress for Each Other

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Once women dressed to please men, but today, says one veteran fashion observer, they're caught in the "dilemma" of dressing for other women.

The result, says Seymour Troy: "Women all look alike. There is no individuality to dress."

Troy, a shoe designer-manufacturer of more than 35 years, this week received the industry's first annual "Mercury"—an award from the National Shoe Retailers Assn. for his contributions to the footwear field.

In an interview, Troy explained that in his opinion woman's invasion of the working world has been responsible largely for the changing emphasis on dress.

"Now," he said, "women feel they have to be competitive with other women. But the competition has gone beyond business. It extends to their social behavior."

"Obviously women once dressed for the opposite sex," he said. "Else why did they endure the whalebone corset? But today, you are caught in the dilemma of trying to impress your own sex." The designer indicated though that we still listen to the men—if they are sufficiently vociferous. Take the fate of the sack silhouette.

BEATEN BY MEN

"That was someone's effort to downgrade the figure of women," said Troy. "It didn't last because it didn't appeal to men."

In turn, he believes the skinny heel which the shoe industry gave us girls about five years ago and the pointed toe which he said is a modern version of a centuries-old shape, will remain on the style scene.

"Because they have sex appeal," he said, "and goodness knows, no matter what they say, women suffer less in today's shoes than they did in yesterday's stays."

But he advocates a shoe "wardrobe"—each pair designed for the day's activities. A pair of walking shoes, for instance, if you're on your feet all day, instead of skinny high heels and pointed toes.

Troy, member of a theatrical tailoring family, was born in Lodz, a textile city in Poland, and migrated to the United States in 1910. He helped finance his way through school by selling shoes. By 1923, he had saved enough money to open his own small factory.

WON BY TRICKERY

"But the shoe industry wasn't yet ready for an American designer," he said. "It still looked to Europe for high style." To overcome this handicap, Troy simply juggled the letters of his name to spell "Yrto."

"Then," he laughingly recalled, "I started selling.

"Later I had one of New York's top retailers tell me if I'd remained Polish and grown a goatee, I'd have been a hit overnight."

Today, the designer's creations carry his own name properly spelled, and women ante up $50 to $150 a pair for his custom designs.

Troy contributions through the years, as listed by the shoe retailers group, include the asymmetrical strap silhouette: the open sandal; the rolled top opera pump; the baby doll or short, rounded toe; the Valkyrie, a series of shoes with high-rising instep cover which in the 1930's outdid the classic opera pump in popularity; the platform sole; and use of eleasticized leathers and vinyl and lucite in shoes.

It'll Help You Feel Young

Get a Different Hairdo

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Yesterday I told you about a visit I had recently with Michelle Kazan, top hair stylist and creator of many of the hair styles which have swept the country.

His prediction for 1960 is that hair will be off the neck, that it will be lifted upward. He said, "Everything will be going up and the upswing is youthful."

Michelle believes that a hairdo must first be becoming but that it must also be up to date because otherwise it will be very aging. He is convinced by long experience that the wrong hairdo can add 20 years to a woman's appearance or to the impression she gives.

There is always a middle line, or an adaptation of the current style which will be flattering to every woman. Extremes do not have to be adopted.

AFRAID OF CHANGE

Because hair styling can make such a difference he feels that it is a shame that so many women are afraid of change. He said, "Lots of women haven't changed the way they fix their hair since they were married. That hairdo may have hooked him but it is not apt to be the way she will keep him."

There is no doubt about it, a youthful viewpoint is reflected in the wish to improve, to welcome change, to try new experiences and new fashions, to read new books and make new friends. Yet I know we are likely to cling to the same hair arrangement.

I never will forget, years ago, when they finally got that point off my forehead. You would have thought that they had amputated my leg and that hair never grows back!

AGREES

I certainly agree with Mr. Kazan that any woman who can afford to do so and has the opportunity to do so should consult a specialist or a hair stylist for advice just as she would seek a specialist for anything else. A style can be worked out which you can manage at home by yourself.

Many women take pictures to a stylist and say, "This is how I want my hair done." Often the fashion is entirely wrong for the person so let the expert decide. If you do not like it you always can change it.

I had heard that women who dye their hair sometimes have trouble with permanents. I asked Michelle about this and he assured me that with the improved permanents and dyes, there is no worry on this score. The permanent must be adapted to your individual hair, however, and you depend on an experienced operator for that.

Hair stylist Michelle Kazan says, "Lots of women haven't changed the way they fix their hair since they were married. That hairdo may have hooked him but it is not apt to be the way she will keep him."

Foot Baths Required

NEW YORK (UPI) — The open-shoe look coming up for spring calls for pretty feet. And pretty feet call for weekly pedicures and daily foot baths.

First, soak your feet at least five minutes in warm, soapy water. Wash, then tackle rough, callused skin by brushing it with a well-lathered, moderately stiff brush such as a nail or tooth brush.

★ ★ ★

Rinse your feet (but don't dry them), and rub stubborn rough spots with a pumice stone in a rotary motion. Dry well.

★ ★ ★

A pedicure should include removing old nail polish and dead cuticle, and cutting the nails. Before applying new polish, place wads of cotton between the toes so the color won't smear.

Bigger Bag for Evening New Trend

It Is No Longer Necessary to Load Escort's Pocket

NEW YORK (NEA) — One trend that every woman in this country will welcome is the new trend to larger handbags for evening.

Gone are the days when a gal had to hand half a grocery bag full of odds and ends to her escort to be stowed away in his pockets.

(This is an act guaranteed to bring howls of anguish from any male, and small wonder.)

Not only are evening bags larger; but some of them have over-the-arm handles, leaving your hands free for gesturing and lifting plate or cup.

Into these new bags you can put your glasses case, compact, lipstick, mad money, keys, cleansing tissues for repairing makeup, handkerchief, purse-size perfume and even a ham sandwich if a lean evening looms ahead of you.

There's room for your pillbox, comb, cigarette case and lighter. What more could a girl ask?

Well, she may not have asked, but the fact remains that these bags are done in magnificent leathers.

★ ★ ★

The suede leather evening pouch is typical. This comes in black, as always, but it also comes in fashion colors which include purple, brown, claret and blue plum.

Leather evening bags gain a gleaming look from use of satin calf which comes in glinting tones of amethyst, sapphire, bronze, moonstone, gunmetal and ruby.

Gold and silver kid bags are with us, of course, ready for a big evening out. There are shoes to match and, often, the beauty of the evening bags is increased by fake rubies, opals or semi-precious stones.

Replacing Tight Trousers

They're Panting for Culottes

UPI Telephoto

Culottes are making a fashion comeback this spring, replacing the tight tapered trousers that have dominated sportswear and loungewear collections in recent years. Former actress Martha Sleeper, currently showing Puerto Rico designed sportswear in New York, designed the loose-legged trousers above in a bold harlequin printed cotton, shaded in vivid blues, greens and yellows.

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Culottes have become the big breeches of pants fashions.

Three years ago they fluttered on the fashion scene, first in loungewear as a substitute or replacement for the tight, tapered trousers which some of us women found both uncomfortable and ungraceful for sitting.

Today, it's a rare collection of summer sportswear or lounge-wear without some variation of the loose-legged trouser which looks like a skirt. Even "name" designers of dresses, suits and costumes are on a pants kick.

Robert Rosenfeld, a loungewear manufacturer, claims some of the credit for resurgence of a style which was popular in the 1930s.

"I've had some culottes every season for the ast 15 years," said Rosenfeld, "but it was just about three years ago they really began to catch on."

Manufacturer Richard Cole believes the divided skirt's popularity stems from our increasingly casual way of living. "It's comfortable," he said, "and it's becoming for the patio, for poolside, for getting from boat to dock, even for the country club."

The divided skirts range from the long-flared at-home clothes in luxurious fabrics to sportswear including swim and play suits. Designer Jeanne Campbell showed sports dresses with divided skirt and harem hemline. Designer Pembroke Squires bib playsuits in checked gingham with dropped waistline, low-cut back, and giant pockets on the split skirt.

Martha Sleeper, the former actress now making sportswear in her adopted Puerto Rico, brought culottes with her for her first showing in New York. She cut them full length in bold, Harlequin print shaded in blues, greens and yellows.

Jane Derby's group included culottes in shocking pink and white polka dot silk, with sequin centers for each dot; black and white or navy and white dotted swiss with bolero jacket; and green-beige cotton with a white cotton lace overlayer, for pajamas and boxy jackets.

Adele Simpson showed knickers in pink and white printed silk; and ankle length culottes with black linen top and black and white printed cotton skirt. Most were bare back with halter front.

ORION TOWNSHIP — Area newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Aaron L. Sanford are honeymooning at Niagara Falls following their wedding in First Congregational Church, Pontiac.

The bride is the former Geraldine Barbara Case, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Odes Case of 775 Joslyn Rd. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sanford of 3555 Lake St.

The candlelight ceremony was performed by the Rev. Malcolm Burton.

The bride chose a full-length gown featuring a bouffant skirt with tiers of nylon net and chantilly lace ruffles, a Sabrina neckline and long, pointed sleeves of lace.

Outlines Needs on Rural Health

AMA Council Leader Calls for Action at the Local Level

GRAND RAPIDS—The chairman of the American Medical Assoc. Council on Rural Health today called for the appointment of medical and farm groups at the local level to disseminate health information and to spur health campaigns—such as national immunization programs.

* * *

Dr. Fred A. Humphrey told the 15th National Conference on Rural Health here:

"It is very simple for us to talk, at the national level, about various problems of rural health as we see them, but the difficulty is accomplishing the desired results.

"The actual work and organization must be done in the counties or even the communities."

* * *

Dr. Humphrey referred specifically to immunization programs in all sections of the country, "first against polio and later or even simultaneously against tetanus."

More than 500 physicians, dentists, youth leaders and farm group representatives convened here today for the opening of the Thursday conference.

Safer Milk Inspection Urged by Dr. Heustis

LANSING (UPI) — State Health Commissioner Albert Heustis said yesterday there are presently more opportunities for disease germs and harmful substances to get into milk than ever before.

Heustis urged adoption of a streamlined milk inspection program which could be put into operation under bills now in the state Senate.

He said present overlapping of inspection systems in the state is expensive for taxpayers. The proposed new program would eliminate duplication and still assure safe milk, he said.

The program would provide uniform inspection standards with much of the inspecting done by local health departments and some by the State Agriculture Department.

Population on Farms Falls Widely

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The farm population declined in all regions of the United States and in all geographic divisions during the 1950-59 decade, according to statistics compiled by the Census Bureau and the Agricultural Marketing Service.

Total farm population as of April 1, 1959, was 21,172,000, the Census Bureau said.

This was a drop of 15.5 per cent from the population in April, 1950.

In the 10-year span, the South suffered the greatest loss in farm population, both in numbers and in percentage.

DOWN 19.1 PER CENT

The South's farm population in 1959 was estimated at 10,349,000, down 19.1 per cent from the 12,793,000 in 1950.

The northeast region, with 1,914,000 farm residents, was down 8.7 per cent from 1950.

The North Central region's 6,937,000 farm residents in 1959 were 13.3 per cent smaller than in 1950.

The 1,972,000 farm residents in the West in 1959 were 8.8 per cent fewer than the 1950 farm population in that area.

Changes in farm population were the result of a natural increase of about 347,000 persons annually (excess of births over deaths) and a net annual loss through migration and change of residence classification of 805,000.

Would Add Facilities in Rochester

School Plan Due Within 30 Days

ROCHESTER — "The Board of Education will come up with a program to meet a portion of the need for additional facilities on the elementary, junior and senior high school levels within 30 days," Rochester Schools Superintendent Donald C. Baldwin said today.

"We have to take action soon in order to relieve present overcrowded conditions and to meet anticipated student growth in the district," he added.

Two committees recently have been studying school needs, one working on the proposed Howard L. McGregor Elementary School, the other on the junior high school expansion program.

The Junior High Study Committee has recommended remodeling the existing junior high to accommodate approximately 600 students and building a new junior high for 900 students by September 1961.

Committee members said there are 1,002 students in the building, which by today's standards, should have approximately 600.

THOROUGH CHECK SET

In presenting the report to the Board, Robert Chandler, committee chairman, said, "We have attempted in our studies to be as objective as possible. Our recommendations on facilities, curriculum and financing have been made only after careful study and analysis of as many facts as we could obtain pertaining to the subject in question."

Further study of the junior high report was postponed last night because all members of the Board were not present.

At forthcoming meetings the school officials expect to go over the report more thoroughly in addition to studying the recently completed report by the Elementary School Citizens Study Committee.

They also will review the study of high school facilities and present the public an analysis of the entire school program and recommendations of the Board on solving growth problems, they said today.

* * *

The Board last night officially endorsed the Guide for Parent-Teen Cooperation presented by the Youth Code Committee of the Rochester Area Youth Guidance Committee.

The school board is the third official body to endorse the guide which was prepared from answers received in a recent survey of some 1,000 teen-agers and adults in the Rochester School District.

The first was the Village Council, Monday, and the second the Rochester PTA Council, Tuesday.

The purpose of the guide is to outline areas of parent and teenage responsibilities which make for healthier family living, according to Dr. Edgar Geist, who made the presentation last night.

* * *

He said it should serve as a springboard from which family agreements may be reached on such issues as dating, entertaining, driving, smoking, drinking and other activities.

* * *

Dr. Geist emphasized, however, that the guide is not a substitute for family-made rules, but rather should serve to stimulate discussions where there are conflicting opinions.

Ex-Fire Chief Action Expected

Shelby Board Meeting Tuesday; Civil Service Orders Reinstatement

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — The Shelby Township Board is expected to take action at next Tuesday night's meeting on the Civil Service Commission's order to reinstate suspended Frie Chief Clyde Schmidt.

The Commission has ordered that Schmidt be reinstated as fire chief and that his back pay from the date of firing be restored.

Eight ouster charges were filed last September by former Township Supervisor Steve Skula after a week-long investigation of the fire department.

The Commission threw out six of the eight charges because "they were not justified."

The two remaining were concerned over the lack of fire inspections and alleged "threats" to Township Treasurer Jack Millard by the chief.

The Commission stated that a crowded work schedule rather than intended disobedience was probably responsible for lack of inspections.

On the matter of alleged "threats" the Commissoiners said that "unfortunate statements were made in the heat of anger and did not reflect calm thinking.

* * *

Skula, who resigned Jan. 1 to accept a National Guard position, had charged Schmidt with eight counts of inefficiency, insubordination, discourtesy and mismanagement.

During Schmidt's suspension, Captain Marvin Meitz has been serving as acting Fire Chief.

Madison Boy Beat Child

Sent to Detention Home

Robert Bussell, 14-year-old Madison Heights boy who admitted brutally beating a two-year-old neighbor girl with whom he was baby sitting a week ago Tuesday, has been returned to Boys Vocational School, a juvenile detention home near Lansing.

Madison Heights police said no charges were lodged against the boy or his mother who harbored him as an escapee from the school since last October. However, he will be given additional time to serve at the school, officers said.

He was first sent to the detention home after being convicted of 10 breaking and entering charges in Detroit.

The injured tot, Alice Tyson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Tyson, 1446 E. Guthrie St., Madison Heights, is still at William Beaumont Hospital, where her condition is reported as satisfactory. She suffered multiple abrasions over most of her body. Dr. Paul T. Lahti, who first attended her, said it was one of the worst cases of child beating he has ever seen.

* * *

The boy is the son of Mrs. Lucille Toombs, next-door neighbor of the Tysons. They did not know of the youth's past record, since he and his mother moved there from Detroit two months ago.

Russia's Hockey Tie Adds Zip to Olympics

Soviet Skaters Are Deadlocked by Sweden, 2-2

U.S. Coach Has Hopes of Going All the Way in Winter Games

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Sweden's resounding upset tie with Russia's defending hockey champions has restored some zip to the eighth Winter Olympics and pointed up the United States' dark horse forces and Canada's beefed-up sextet.

"With a break we could go all the way," said Jack Riley of Army, the coach of the Yank puckchasers. "We have hopes of knocking off the Russians." They beat Canada 9-1 for their second straight victory yesterday and decisively beat Sweden 6-3 in the first round of the round-robin tournament. Canada whaled Czechoslovakia 4-0 after Sweden's spirited, injury-riddled sextet held the Russians to a 2-2 draw.

It was the first time in Olympic competition that the Soviet skaters had to settle for less than a win. They went unbeaten four years ago, whipping both Canada and the U.S.A.

The host team takes on Canada at 6:30 p.m. (EST). In the other games Russia plays Germany at 4 p.m., and Sweden faces Czechoslovakia at 9 p.m. The other playoff matches of the tourney will be played Saturday, when the Yanks meet the Russians, and Sunday, when Russia and Canada collide.

A crowd of about 7,500 was in the 8,500-seat Blyth Arena for the Russian-Sweden clash and capacity crows were expected for the remaining big ones.

Bill Cleary, 25-year-old Boston insurance man and veteran of the 1956 Olympic team, scored four goals, three of them on solo dashes, and received credit for two assists in the rout of Germany. Nils Nilsson, a 23-year-old salesman, blasted the two goals that earned Sweden the tie.

Hockey has taken over as the major lure here as the Russians continue to roll up their overwhelming point score in the unofficial team race. Russia, with five gold medals, has 120 points. Germany is second with 52½ points, the U.S.A. third with 44 and Sweden fourth with 39.

In the two finals Wednesday, Russia collected its fifth gold medal on Eugeni Grishin's world-record equaling 40.3-second performance in the 500-meter speed skating, and Austria, the stronghold of Alpine skiing, finally won its first championship.

Ernst Hinterseer, a 27-year-old Austrian farmer and a last-minute replacement for one of his nation's disappointing aces, made two trips down the tricky 67-gate, KT22 Mountain course in a total of 2:08.9 to beat his countryman, 20-year-old Hias Leitner, by 1.4 seconds in the men's slalom. The 1,935-foot course dropped 708 feet.

Grishin, a 28-year-old Army lieutenant, stumbled on his last turn but still managed to equal his world record and Olympic winning time of 1956 Bill Disney, 27-year-old rug cleaner from Alhambra, Calif., was second in 40.3 seconds. Grishin's teammate, Rafael Grach, won the bronze medal in 40.4.

Terry McDermott of Essexville, Mich., was seventh in 40.9 and Eddie Radolph of Northbrook, Ill., tied for 10th in 41.2.

In the slalom, the Americans wound up this way: 9th, Tom Corcoran of Beaconsfield, Quebec, 2:14.7 and 37th, Frank Brown of McCall, Idaho, 3:01.3.—Charles Ferries of Houghton, Mich. originally finished 12th in 2:18.2, but was disqualified. Jim Barrier of Kalispell, Mont. failed to finish the second run. He had 1:13.4 for the first descent.

There was no hope at all of the Yankees in today's two championship events—the men's 40-kilometer speed skating.

Norway and Sweden were favored over Finland and Russia in the ski race.

Russia was expected to go on another point spree in the speed skating. The Russians have copped four of the five speed skating titles decided so far—three of them by the Russian girls.

David Jenkins, world champion from Colorado Springs, Colo., slightly trailed Czechoslovakia's Karl Divin, the 1958-59 European king, and Alain Giletti, France's reigning European titlist, after the completion of the first three compulsory figures of the men's figure skating championship. That was no great surprise.

The wiry, acrobatic American probably will be still behind after the final two school figures today. But on Friday he should go to town with his eye-catching, leaping triple loops and spins and make up the deficit.

At the end of three figures, Divin, not in Jenkins' free-skating class, had 415 points; Giletti 403; Jenkins 400.2; Don Jackson of Canada, a fiery free-skater, 392.0; Tim Brown of Berkeley, Calif., 389.9, and Robert Brewer of Alhambra, Calif., 389.5.

Valley Champion Chiefs Wind Up Regular Season

Saginaw 5 at PCH Friday

By BILL CORNWELL

Looking ahead to next week's Class A district tournament could be Pontiac Central's greatest problem Friday night when the Chiefs collide with Saginaw High in the Saginaw Valley Conference finale at PCH.

With their 2nd consecutive Saginaw Valley crown already in the bag, it's going to be mighty difficult for coach Art Van Ryzin to keep his warriors' attention focused on the invasion of the high-scoring Trojans.

The Chiefs wrapped up their 3rd Valley title in a four-year span last Friday by posting a showdown 72-60 victory over Flint Northern and now their thoughts are turned toward district "A" action at Livonia Bentley.

Coach Larry Laeding's Trojans have not had as prosperous a season as anticipated, but they would consider the campaign a partial success and certainly a happy ending by upsetting the Chiefs in their own back yard.

Van Ryzin's cagers played one of their finest games of the year in the 1st meeting with Saginaw and their 37-46 triumph on the Trojan court was perhaps the turning point in the SVC race since it enabled them to complete the 1st round of the league schedule in unbeaten style.

Once again Central's biggest task will be two-fold—putting a stopper on Saginaw's double-barreled scoring and rebounding punch of sophomore Ernie Thompson and junior Jerry Tillman.

Thompson and Tillman currently rank 1-2 in the Valley scoring race. Thompson has tallied 152 points in nine games for a 16.8 average while Tillman is averaging 16.3 on a 147 total.

Saginaw invades the PCH gymnasium in a tie for 2nd place with Flint Northern on a 6-3 record. The Trojans have an over-all mark of 9-5 following Tuesday's 72-68 loss to Midland.

The Chiefs did a highly creditable job of stopping Tillman in their 1st duel, limiting him to five points, but Thompson managed to collect 19.

Central, Michigan's 4th rated Class A prep cage power, stands 8-1 at the top of the Valley standings and 12-2 altogether.

George Fed, who has begun to score points at a rapid clip lately, and big Bill Pritchett will be Pontiac's backboard opposition to the Thompson-Tillman tandem and the two rangy Chiefs did a brilliant job in that department in the earlier meeting.

Fed has scored 89 points in his last five starts for an average of nearly 18 per game.

Victory is important to the Trojans tomorrow night. A loss would probably tumble them into a 3rd place tie with Arthur Hill since the Hillites (5-4) are favored to take the measure of lowly Flint Central (1-8) tomorrow on the Arthur Hill floor.

★ ★ ★

Flint Northern is a top-heavy favorite to defeat Bay City Central (1-8) Friday night at Flint in the other Valley game as the 1959-60 regular season schedule comes to an end.

Skippers Score 51-46 Triumph Over Wayne 5

Gaff Stars on Boards, Also Offensive Leader on Enemy Floor

A strong finish enabled the Waterford High School basketball team to post its 5th victory of the season Wednesday night at Wayne.

Spearheaded by Joe Gaff and Bill Bryce, the Skippers took charge in the final three minutes for a 51-46 triumph over Wayne in a nip-and-tuck contest.

It was Waterford's 2nd win over Wayne. The Skippers handed Wayne a 50-49 setback in their season opener. Waterford's overall record is now 5-9.

The game was close all the way with the lead changing hands often. It was 12-12 at the end of the 1st period with Wayne moving into a 24-23 lead at halftime.

Waterford gained a 36-35 edge entering the 4th quarter, then relinquished the lead briefly before taking command again in the late stages of the game. The score also was tied twice during the 4th stanza.

Gaff, who paced the Skipper attack with 10 points on five field goals, bagged two "clutch" fielders in the last three minutes when they gained control for keeps and Bryce netted six of his seven points during the same stretch.

Gaff also was the rebounding ace of the contest as he swept the boards for the Skippers throughout the keenly-contested scrap.

Mike Gouin and Joe Johnston led Wayne with 14 and 10 points, respectively. Waterford had better scoring balance than the Zebras. Seven Skippers scored and five of them tallied seven points or more.

It was a solid tuneup for the Skippers as they get ready to battle the Pontiac Northern Friday evening in the Inter-Lakes Conference finale at PNH.

Welden's, regular season champion, advanced to the finals of the City Basketball League's Class D 1st division playoffs with a 64-51 victory over the Jefferson Jets last night at Lincoln Junior High. It was the Jets' 1st defeat in the double-elimination tournament.

Elks No. 723 eliminated the Pledges from the tourney by handing them their 2nd straight beating 62-58 in the other Class D game. The Elks and Jets clash next Wednesday night at 8:30 on the Lincoln court with the winner meeting Welden's for the city title.

Two Class B games tonight at Pontiac Central will conclude the regular season schedule in the City League for the remaining A, B and C classes.

Yankees Unable to Sign Mantle

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Mickey Mantle is standing pat in a quiet tug of war over contract terms with the New York Yankees.

He may even be a holdout this season for the first time in his baseball career, the slugging Yankee outfielder said last night.

"I don't think I'll be signed by Monday," Mickey commented firmly.

The New York club's infielders and outfielders are due to report by next Tuesday at the Yankee spring training camp in St. Petersburg, Fla. Technically he wouldn't be considered a holdout, however, until they take to the field a day later.

While Mantle gave no hint of yielding in a dispute over his 1960 salary, his attitude nevertheless seemed to indicate he hasn't altogether abandoned hope of reaching a contract agreement.

WATCH STARTING POINT
By Billy Sixty

I cannot emphasize enough the importance of setting yourself, in exactly the same position for every first (strike) ball. Top bowlers take a lot of time getting set, as you'll notice in major meets. They know how much it means. A variation of an inch or two at the start results in a change in delivery and ball action.

Footwork follows no set pattern, some bowlers using three steps, others four (standard), and still others five or more steps. Some finish rather abruptly; others slide. Each must solve his own problem as to how much distance to cover to the foul line, and how many steps to take to do it. I suggest you pick a board, as sketch shows, or a spot, on the alley runway, at which to set yourself. Or line yourself up with the return rack, or the newel post.

Take a practice slide or two, without the ball, to find whether the runway surface is slick or slow. If you find it slick, move your stance back a few inches. If the surface is slow, on the sticky side, shorten your run an inch or two.

Sievers Takes Cut

Dodgers in Camp

By United Press International

They've taken the Dodgers out of Brooklyn but they can't take Brooklyn out of the Dodgers.

Here it is barely the opening of the spring training season—a real good fast ball has yet to be thrown—and the Dodgers are embroiled in a war of words. Their antagonist is an old pal—Charley Dressen—who left them as a coach to manage the Milwaukee Braves.

And the "needle" which got under the Dodgers' skin was a story in a national magazine in which Dressen stated, "The Dodgers can't repeat."

"What's blabber mouth got to say now?" asked outfielder Carl Furillo. He's always popping off. That's typical of him. All I can say is that it'll keep us alive."

* * *

"You can't win by talking," quipped manager Walt Alston, who then neatly sidestepped further debate with Charlie the talker.

"I've got news for Dressen," said outfielder Wally Moon who hit .302 last season. "I don't think I had such a good year last season. I think I'll hit .315 this year."

Vice president Fresco Thompson, speaking for the front office, fired back a handful of barbs at Dressen.

"Managing in the majors is a tough job but to manage two clubs is twice as tough," said Thompson. "I'm glad Charlie isn't in the Continental League because he'd have a grand time criticizing those phantom ball players. But one thing about Charlie's stories — they're good for two days because he always claims he's misquoted."

Alston was more concerned with yesterday's workout at Vero Beach, Fla., during which Furillo's ailing legs and pitcher Clem Labine's question-mark arm passed early tests. "They both looked very good," said Alston, "and they'll help us a lot if they remain sound."

* * *

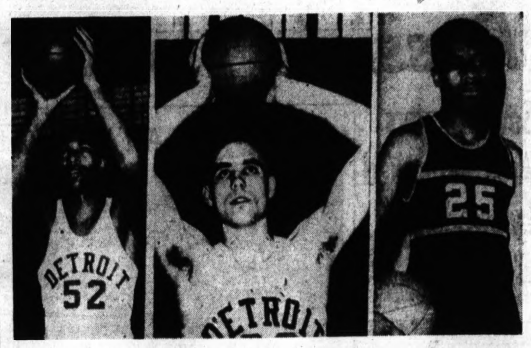

Roy Sievers surprised the Washington Senators by agreeing to a $2,000 cut to $33,000 yesterday while relief pitcher, Ryne Duren of the New York Yankees admitted he is a holdout. Sievers, who hit only 21 homers and drove in 49 runs last season, said he is confident he'll return to the .300 and 35-homer class. Duren conceded at San Antonio, Tex., that he's getting "anxious" about his status because of the prolonged negotiations.

In other signings:

Outfielder Wally Post agreed to terms, reducing the Philadelphia Phillies' unsigned list to seven; pitcher Ray Moore and infielder Joe Martin signed with the Chicago White Sox; outfielders Bill Virdon and Gino Cimoli and pitcher Don Williams, notified the Pittsburgh Pirates by telegram that they have accepted 1960 terms, and pitchers John Tsitouris and Al Grunwald agreed to Kansas City terms.

TALENTED SOPHOMORES—This year Michigan is in step with the rest of the nation in developing great sophomore talent in college basketball. Rated among the best are Charlie North (left) and Dave DeBusschere of the University of Detroit and Chet Walker of Bradley University who comes from Benton Harbor. There is a chance of all three playing in the NIT against each other this year.

Three Among National Leaders

State Has Prize Cage Sophs

By JERRY GREEN

DETROIT (AP) — This is the year of the great sophomore in college basketball and for once, Michigan is dribbling with the rest of the nation.

* * *

It's doubtful if any other state has developed such a talented sophomore trio as Detroit's Dave DeBusschere and Charlie North and Bradley's Chet Walker from Benton Harbor.

Down through the years beefy, swift and talented football players had been Michigan's trademarked athletic products. Nobody ever talked much about homegrown basketball players. They were tolerated — but rarely was one worth rave notices.

"Our trees are tall and our basketball players short," seemed to be Michigan's motto. "Let our friends down in Indiana come up with the basketball players. We'll concentrate on football and baseball stars."

* * *

But in this crop season dominated by one senior — Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson — and a bevy of sophomore beauts, Michigan reversed the trend.

* * *

The new crop of Michigan-produced cage performers undoubtedly is the best in the state's history. Never before within memory have such standouts as the brilliant 6-5½ DeBusschere, 6-5 North and 6-6 Walker burst into the national spotlight together with such ease.

At one stage or another this season, all three of these representatives from Michigan's high school class of 1958 ranked among the nation's top 10 college scorers. DeBusschere, in the first five as a rebounder, remains a ranking scorer with an average near 25 points a game. Walker and North are close to the 20-point mark, which remains a charmed figure in any league.

DeBusschere, wowed them in New York's Citadel of Basketball, Madison Square Garden, where hardened experts praised only the likes of Hank Luisetti, George Mikan, Bob Cousy and big "O" Robertson.

* * *

"DeBusschere is the best sophomore to play here since Robertson," was the praise DeBusschere returned home with from his first visit to the famous garden.

* * *

"He's a sure fire All America and will become a sensational pro," said Red Rocha, who's been around basketball four years, most recently as coach of the Detroit Pistons.

Walker has yet to play in New York, where great Bradley teams of the past had tournament championship victories and near misses.

"He's potentially the best player in Bradley history," say his coaches, "and we've had some good ones."

* * *

Walker was good enough to set a school record of 44 points in his college debut. He's the prime reason Bradley is rated No. 3 in the nation and was the only team to beat Robertson and first-ranked Cincinnati.

* * *

DeBusschere and North already have their Titans set for an encore at the garden in next month's National Invitation Tournament. It's not unlikely that DeBusschere will resume acquaintances with Walker there. Bradley is a shoo-in for an NIT bid if Cincinnati wins the Missouri Valley Conference crown and its accompanying NCAA bid.

If DeBusschere and Walker should come together, it'd be a rematch of one of the great finals of the Michigan class A state high school basketball tournament.

* * *

Just two years ago the two waged a stirring individual duel while their teams battled down to the wire for Michigan's most coveted prep crown. DeBusschere's Detroit Austin team beat Walker and Benton Harbor 71-68. They wewre one-two picks on the all-tournament team. In the finale, DeBusschere scored 32 points, Walker 25.

It's doubtful if the prep tourneys starting next week can come up with a game to duplicate the one where DeBusschere outdueled Walker — but not by much.

Bagdad, Landing Tops

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Bagdad and First Landing top a field of about a dozen expected to be formally entered today in the $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap Saturday.

Latest run-down on the probable starters included:

* * *

First Landing, Bagdad, Silver Spoon, Amerigo, How Now, Fleet Nasrullah, Nickel Boy, Linmold, Crasher and possibly Eddie Schmidt, The Searcher, King o' Turf and American Comet.

Off past performances here, the mile and one-quarter feature could be a third chapter in a hot rivalry between the high-weighted Kentucky candidates, Howard B. Keck's Bagdad and Christopher Chenery's First Landing.

* * *

Eddie Arcaro drove First Landing in to win the $100,000 added Santa Anita Maturity Jan. 30, with the combination of Bagdad and Willie Shoemaker second in a race restricted to 4-year-olds.

But in a "rematch" it was Bagdad and Shoemaker by a wide margin over First Landing and Arcaro in the $50,000 added San Antonia Handicap Feb. 13.

Wings Tie Rangers, 2-2

Sawchuk Back in Nets After Long Absence

Return to Duty Costs Terry $25 for Protest on New York Goal

By United Press International

Coach Sid Abel is satisfied today that goalie Terry Sawchuck's return to action assures the Detroit Red Wings of a berth in the Natoinal Hockey League's Stanley Cup Playoffs.

"He looked just fine and we're sure happy to have him back," said Abel after the wings took over sole possession of third place via Wednesday night's 2-2 tie with the New York Rangers. "He's just what we need to clinch a playoff spot."

Sawchuck, sidelined for nine games with an arthritic condition, made 29 saves and was tied on a controversial second-period goal by John Hanna. Sawchuck argued so vehemently that Hanna was in the crease when he scored that he was handed a 10-minute misconduct penalty and an automatic $25 fine.

Sawchuck was all smiles in the Detroit dressing room after the game but insisted he wasn't completely satisfied with his performance. He said he should have stopped the first New York goal—a 35-footer by defenseman Harry Howell that appeared to take him by surprise.

The Red Wings, who had a 2-6-1 record during Sawchuck's absence, moved one point ahead of the fourth-place Chicago Black Hawks and three ahead of the fifth-place Boston Bruins. Only the top four teams in the league are eligible to compete in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The last-place Rangers were satisfied with the tie because it marked the third straight unbeaten performance by goalie Al Rollins. Rollins has yielded seven and catchers are scheduled to retyping two after taking over for injured Lorne Worsley last week.

The Toronto Maple Leafs took a nine-point hold on second place when they scored a 3-1 victory over the first-place Montreal Canadiens in the other NHL action. Ron Stewart, Bob Pulford and Allan Stanley scored for Toronto and Andre Pronovost tallied for Montreal.

Owners, general managers and league officials will gather to talk over such problems and scheduling, TV and radio rights and a post-season game.

★ ★ ★

Another topic will be that of assisting Oakland, last entry into the league, to fill out its roster. The conference also will talk over exhibition schedules and a centralized scouting plan.

Rain Cuts Yank Workout in Half

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Rain cut the New York Yankees' first workout in half Wednesday. Manager Casey Stengel sent 26 pitchers and catchers through a morning drill, but the weather eliminated the afternoon session.

★ ★ ★

Reliever Ryne Duren was still a holdout and was missing.

George Weiss, general manager, denied that the Detroit Tigers have approached him with an offer of a pitcher, possibly Paul Foytack.

★ ★ ★

"I haven't heard from them since the winter," he said.

Bad Weather Clouds Start of Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Wintry and threatening weather raised serious doubts whether the $20,000 Texas Open, one of the oldest golf tournaments on the winter tour, would start on schedule today.

★ ★ ★

A sweeping Northern wind covered much of Texas with ice and snow yesterday and this area was promised snow or rain today.

★ ★ ★

Officials crossed their fingers and put off a decision until daylight on whether the 150 golfers will tee off today.

A Night of Charity

BOWLING GREEN (UPI) — Western Michigan won a battle of free throws, 87-85, last night over Bowling Green in a Mid-American basketball game.

The Broncos hit 19 of 26 free throws, while Bowling Green made 15 of 25. Western held an 80-79 edge with 2:38 remaining, and all but two of both teams' remaining points came on free shots.

St. Fred Jayvee Champ

Coming from behind with a 21-point third quarter, St. Frederick went on to whip Detroit Visitation 56-45 and win the Catholic League's junior varsity championship last night. Pete Vasques paced the young Rams with 29-9 in the big 3rd period. Charley Dean added 13.

Penn State beat Holy Cross five straight in football.

Arch-Rivalry Is Close

MARQUETTE (UPI) — Northern Michigan withstood a late rally by arch-rival Michigan Tech last night to win a non-conference basketball game, 65-63.

Michigan Skiers Seek Two Olympic Spots Sunday

Grid Giants to Lose Howell

Head Coach to Change Jobs With Club After 1960 Season

NEW YORK (AP)—Next season will be the last for Jim Lee Howell as head coach of the New York Giants in the National Football League.

"I'm a naturally lazy and relaxed guy," said Howell yesterday as he dropped a surprise bombshell of his resignation at a luncheon to introduce the new NFL commissioner, Pete Rozelle. "Although we lost only three games last fall, I couldn't forget the defeats. I wasn't getting any sleep. I'd study films after practice then take them home with me, not even pausing to say hello to my wife and kids. My eyes began to twitch and I'm going to have to get glasses.

"I decided then it was time for me to get out."

Howell, former star end at Arkansas and for the Giants, has led the club to three Eastern Division championships and one world championship in six years as head coach. The Giants lost the world title to Baltimore the last two years.

After next year, he'll become personnel director for the Giants —assuming the duties of scouting and selecting draft choices now held by Wellington Mara—at no cut in salary, now estimated at $22,000 a year.

Lawmen to Meet on Ski Slopes

The Oakland County Bar Association will hold its first annual ski outing Saturday at Grampian Mt. Many of the county's judges and attorneys will participate in the meet.

One of the foremost skiers entered is Circuit Judge Stanton Dondero. On the committee are Art Kollin, Jack Huston, and Joe Kosik of the bar association.

Dual With U. S.

Soviets Propose Ski Meet

LAKE TAHOE, Calif. — A prominent Russian ski official — Victor Andreev, president of the Ski Federation of the U.S.S.R. — has proposed a dual ski tournament between the United States and Russia.

Andreev suggested that the U.S.-Russian meet, in which the top skiers from both countries would compete, be held at some future date after the Olympic Winter Games. Competition between nations is being discouraged by Olympic Games officials, as the announced purpose of the Olympic event is to test the skill of individual athletes.

The Russian proposal was made, with the help of an interpreter, to Alton C. Melville, of Salt Lake City, president of the host NSA organization. Commenting on the suggestion, Melville said he will review the matter with top U.S. ski leaders, and advise Andreev of their decision. When asked how the U.S. would fare in such a ski meet, Melville said:

"I believe our skiers would have an edge in Alpine ski events, and the Russians would probably make the best showing in Nordic ski competition."

Slalom Race Tough, Says Tim Corcoran

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—"The second half of the race really separated the men from the boys," said Tom Corcoran, America's no. 1 Olympic male skier, after completing his two runs in Wednesday's slalom.

A fourth-place finisher in the giant slalom earlier in the competition, the 29-year-old Yokohama-born Harvard business school graduate was clocked in 2:14.7 for the combined 66 and 69-gate courses.

"That second course was entirely different from the first," Corcoran said as he accepted applause from friends and teammates. "I've never seen a slalom course so fast, even for practice. All of us, I think, were reacting from instinct, everything was happening so fast."

Keep Warm—Just Crawl Into a Refrigerator

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (P—Concessionnaires at the Olympic ice arena can't keep the coffee cream on the counter on these cold Sierra mornings.

Too cold out there. The cream freezes.

Waitresses with that American know-how quickly found a solution. They put the cream in the refrigerator.

U.S. Ski Coach Must Pick 2 for Last Event

Samuelstuen, Kotlarek Top Candidates for Jump Honors

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (P) — You can add Anstein Samuelstuen, a Norwegian-born American citizen, to the list of top prospects for Olympic ski jumping honors.

The 30-year-old Boulder, Colo., jumper showed top form yesterday in practice, soaring 89½ meters (293 feet) on the windy Olympic jumping hill.

That came close to or equalled leaps by such international stars as Helmut Recknagel of East Germany; Torbjorn, Yggeseth, Norwegian student at the University of Washington; Eino Kiajonen, Finland; Rolf Strandberg, Sweden, and Samuelstuen's teammate, Gene Kotlarek of Duluth, Minn.

Michigan skiers battling for the other two spots are Willie Erickson, 21, Kingsford, Mich., Dick Rahoi, 25, Iron Mountain, Mich., John St. Andre, 20, Ishpeming, Mich., and Robert C. Wedin, 19, another Iron Mountain lad.

U. S. coach Lloyd Severud refused to admit that Samuelstuen or Kotlarek would be selected Sunday to jump in the 1960 games final event, the 80-meter (262.46 feet) special jumping competition.

★ ★ ★

Severud cuts his squad of six to a four-man team Friday. All six will jump daily until then.

Despite Severud's reluctance, Kotlarek, a consistent competitor, and Samuelstuen rate as cinches for the squad.

Yesterday, Gene went 86½ meters (284 feet), 88½ meters (290 feet) and 85½ meters (280 feet).

Erickson had practice leaps of 81 (232.93 feet) and 78 (255.90 feet). Rahoi had an 82½ meter (271 feet) jump and Wedin had one of 81 meters (265.74 feet). St. Andre fell on his second jump and broke a ski. He went 75 meters (246.06 feet).

The longest jumps of the day were Otto Leodolter's 90½ (297 feet) and 91 meters (298.55 feet). Veikko Kankkonen, a Finn, stretched one to 91½ (300 feet) but fell.

Recknagel and Yggeseth also went 90½.

Severud said he felt his team "sepped up a notch" because they held their own with the top notchers in the wind.

He added, as if in mild warning, the jumpers, especially Kotlarek and Samuelstuen, do much better in competition than in practice.

Prep Cagers Set for Final Games

By CHUCK ABAIR

All but one prep basketball team in the Oakland County area will have rung down the curtain on the regular season following the completion of a final big weekend Saturday.

Cranbrook, which does not enter state tournament play, will have a March game remaining.

★ ★ ★

An afternoon contest today matching Pontiac Emmanuel and Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows at Whitfield School got things rolling. Orchard Lake St. Mary is host to Detroit St. Hedwig tonight.

A big Friday slate will be highlighted by the deciding of titles on two league fronts where play has gone right down the wire from opening night.

The top scramble has been in the Wayne-Oakland where Milford has come from far back to tie Clarenceville and Brighton for the top rung. Milford will visit the Trojan court while Brighton is host to tough Holly. The winner at Clarenceville could win an outright crown or share it with Brighton. But the latter team can get only a tie for top honors.

West Bloomfield visits Bloomfield Hills and Northville is at Clarkston to round out the final slate in the tight race.

A co-championship seems certain in the Oakland B with Troy favored to avenge an earlier upset by Lake Orion. Fitzgerald has concluded play and is sure of at least a share of the flag. Avondale plays at Clawson and Madison vs. Oak Park in other action.

Birmingham Seaholm has a good chance of winding up runnerup in the Eastern Michigan as host to weak Royal Oak Kimball. This would be the result if Ferndale downs Mt. Clemens and East Detroit trips Port Huron.

★ ★ ★

Ortonville should end up 7-1 in the South Central by whipping North Branch. Oxford tries to tie for second by downing Imlay City. The last night in the Southern Thumb will have Armada at Anchor Bay, Capac vs. Memphis, Almont at New Haven and Dryden at Brown City.

St. Frederick closes at home against Detroit Nativity.

Rounding out the schedule will be Rochester at Roseville, Romeo host to Clintondale, Lapeer at Owosso, Harper Woods at L'Anse Creuse, St. James visits Utica St. Lawrence, Birmingham Groves goes to Lamphere, Royal Oak Dondero takes on Dearborn Fordson, South Lyon plays Boyseville, Utica is at Lake Shore, and Country Day meets Maumee, Ohio.

Shue Sets Point Mark in Piston Win, 128-110

DETROIT (AP) — Gene Shue, the Detroit Pistons' mighty guard, holds a National Basketball Assn. scoring record today and the club has ended its seven-game losing streak.

Shue whipped in 37 points last night to lead the Pistons to a 128-110 victory over the Syracuse Nats in the second game of a doubleheader.

Shue's scoring ran his season total of 1,520, shattering the one-season guard scoring record of 1,504 set by Boston's Bob Couny in the 1954-55 season.

Detroit took the lead for keeps midway in the second period on baskets by Shelly McMillon and Dick McGuire. The Detroiters held a 60-53 half-time edge and went into the fial quarter leading 93-85.

The Nats made it close in the third period, pulling to within one point at one time. But a pair of baskets by Shue and two free throws by Bailey Howell gave the Pistons their eight-point margin going into the final period.

In the opener, a 20-foot shot by former Piston Phil Jordon with three seconds left gave Cincinnati a 124-122 victory over the St Louis Hawks, the Western Division champions.

Detroit plays the Hawks Saturday at St. Louis.

In last night's other NBA action, Boston clinched at least a tie for the Eastern Division title and set a league record for games won in a single seison with a 131-110 victory over Minneapolis. The victory, sparked by Frank Ramsey's 25 points, was the Celtics' 53rd this season.

PNH Swimmers Dunked

Pontiac Northern swimmers ended the regular season last night by losing a 58-38 meet to North Suburban League co-holder Fitzgerald in the PNH pool.

The Huskies took four firsts but Fitzgerald had too much superiority and depth. The loss gave PNH a 6-8 record for the season.

Huskie wins came in the 200 yard freestyle with Lee Barrie winning in a time of 2:11.7. Bill Ratliff won the diving event and both team events were taken by PNH.

Fitzgerald is 12-1 for the season and is favored in the first North Suburban Swim meet next week in its own pool.

Pontiac Central travels to Saginaw for a dual meet Friday before engaging in the SVC meet March 4-5. At Birmingham today the preliminaries begin for the Eastern Michigan League meet. They will continue through Friday. The finals will be held March 5th at Royal Oak Kimball pool.

Central Mat Darkhorse in SVC Meet Saturday

Pontiac Central looms as the darkhorse in the annual Saginaw Valley wrestling meet to be held here Saturday at the PCH gym.

The Chiefs, led by 175 king Duke Relyea, ranked 2nd behind co-winners Flint Northern and Bay City Central last winter. It will be the first meet to be held here.

New member Bay City Handy looms as a slight favorite over Northern on the basis of its victory over the Flint school in a dual. Handy and Flint Southwestern will be taking part for the first time although they do not enter the loop in other sports until 1961.

Flint Central and Bay City Central will complete the field of six teams which will start competition at 1 p.m. The finals will get under way about 7:30.

The Chiefs whipped Bay City Central and Flint Central but took a beating from Flint Northern in duals. At Southwestern, they won out 24-18 Tuesday in a good "warmup."

★ ★ ★

Three defending individual champs will be back but each in a different weight class. They are Bill Wiley (FC), Bill Dodge (BC) and Leroy Pratt (FN). The first two are now both 112 entries.

Hope Still Rolls Along

ALBION (UPI)—Hope remained unbeaten in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association basketball race last night with a come-from-behind 80-68 win over Albion.

Hope was behind, 31-25, at the half. Bob Reid of Hope was leading scorer with 20 points followed by teammate Ray Ritsema with 17. Dale Terrell was Albion's best with 16 points.

Lions to Elect Club Directors

120 Stockholders Meet Today; Odds in Favor of Status Quo

DETROIT (AP)—Whether there's to be a shake-up in the business end of the Detroit Lions will be decided today. Odds appeared to favor a status quo, with Edwin J. Anderson remaining as president.

★ ★ ★

Treasurer D. Lyle Fife, a former president, has openly expressed dissatisfactoin with Anderson's operations. But Fife is believed to have alienated some other directors in opposing Anderson for president of the National Football League at its recent meeting.

The club's 120 stockholders are slated to elect directors this afternoon. Directors, in turn, will elect officers of the Detroit Football Co.

Asked yesterday if they thought the current 13 directors, which include him and Fife, would be re-elected, Anderson replied: "It is my considered opinion that they will be."

Anderson's supporters confidently report he'll get support from more than the required majority of seven. Fife has not challenged this claim within recent days.

Despite two poor NFL seasons, the one-time champion Lions have remained prosperous.

Anderson who also is general manager and draws $40,000-a-year is expected to report to stockholders that for the eighth season in a row Lions' profits exceeded $100,000 in 1959. He also is expected to propose a five per cent dividend.

The Lions' have 16,000 shares of $50 par value common stock outstanding. Anderson is known to have solicited stockholders proxies since Fife disclosed his dissatisfaction.

Oh Dear, Not Again

OLIVET (UPI)—Kalamazoo took a 38-28 halftime lead and went on to hand Olivet its 19th straight defeat of the season, 74-53, in a Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association basketball game last night.

Both Showing Successful Sales

Imports Still Battle Our Compacts

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Imported cars are continuing to wage a strong battle for a solid chunk of the United States market despite the acknowledged sales success of the new American compact models.

Figures just published by R. L. Polk & Co., official industry statisticians, show about 600,000 foreign-built cars were sold in this country in 1959.

At least 30 per cent of these were sold after the Falcon, Corvair and Valiant appeared on the market.

The record total amounted to a strong 10 per cent of all cars sold in the United States last year. The previous high, in 1958, was 377,548 imports or 8.12 per cent of the market.

The trade publication Automotive News said a recent preliminary check showed imports taking 8.8 per cent of all car sales through the first six weeks of this year, compared with 8.9 per cent in the same period in 1959.

Since total sales volume is running about 10 per cent ahead of last year the number of imports being sold also is up from a year ago.

The same survey showed American-built compact cars taking 20.4 per cent of all 1960 sales compared with 7.3 in 1959 when Rambler and Lark were going it all alone.

Import dealers, often accused by Detroit of whistling in the dark, have steadfastly maintained the new American cars would increase interest in the imports.

"With the Big Three making smaller cars, it kind of puts the stamp of approval and respectability on them," said one import official recently.

In a further bid at pleasing American tastes the British Hillman Minx this week introduced the frst fully automatic transmission for a small foreign car. Called "Easi-drive," the transmission is different than anything currently offered on American cars and Hillman claims gas mileage will be exactly the same as with a stick shift.

The Hillman transmission contains a metal powder which is solidified when an electromagnetic current is run through it. American transmissions use oil and turbines to transfer power and generally cut gas mileage a mile or more per gallon.

Among other developmens on the automotive front this week was confirmation from Ford that it has discontinue a higher horsepower option for the Falcon.

The optional engine boosted the Falcon's 90 horsepower to 128. Ford made no annoucement when the engine was introduced and killed it off just as quietly.

Ben Mills, whose Lincoln-Mercury division of Ford will begin marketing the compact Comet on St. Patrick's Day, said at a Chicago dealer meeting the Lincoln-Continental line will be trimmed in 1961. He didn't say whether the least expensive Lincoln or the middle Premier line would be dropped.

Mills said 6,700,000 looked like a better guess for 1960 car sales than the seven million figure the industry was using several months ago. He predicted compact cars would account for 35 per cent of the total.

Chevrolet boss Ed Cole hit the dealer meeting trail with the word that Corvair is the smallest car Chevrolet intends to build.

Ford and Chrysler have admitted they are experimenting in the Volkswagen-Renault size but Cole declared: "We don't think there is a sufficient market for anything smaller." He talked much the same way when denying Corvair reports a year or so ago.

Senate to Mull Con-Con Issue

GOP Majority Anxious to Get Rid of Debate Starting Monday

LANSING (AP) — Threshing out the constitutional convention question will begin Monday in the Senate where majority Republicans want to get the touchy issue out of their hair.

Assuming the Senate wants to approve submitting something to November voters, two general approaches are available.

First, there is a skeleton resolution capable of carrying the plan advocated by the League of Women Voters, the State Junior Chamber of Commerce, Gov. Williams and Paul D. Bagwell, GOP titular head.

The resolution, which also could be made a vehicle for some modification, would require a two-thirds favorable vote in both the Senate and House to get its proposition on the ballot. Forces arrayed against it are strong.

On the other hand, a bill by Sen. L. Harvey Lodge (R-Oakland County) could be used to submit the issue on exactly the same terms as in 1958. Only a majority vote of senators and House members elected would be needed.

However, Democrats adamantly oppose the delegate apportionment of three per senatorial district which is an inescapable feature of the Lodge bill. This makes its approval unlikely in the evenly divided House.

FEAR SIDETRACKING

Spokesmen for the League of Women Voters have said legislative approval of the Lodge bill would sidetrack constitutional reform by assuring defeat via organized Democratic opposition at the polls.

Republicans would wind up with a top-heavy delegate majority in any rewrite convention whereas under the League-Jaycee plan delegate apportionment would be more nearly balanced, with the GOP probably having a slight edge.

★ ★ ★

Senate GOP leaders have indicated they will work toward rallying support for something along the general lines of the League-Jaycee proposal, but with a "compromise" on delegate apportionment and probably some other revisions.

Clothing Union Gets OK to Invest in Projects

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union may invest some of its funds in cooperative housing, if its members approve.

Jacob Potofsky, president of the Union, announced today the executive board will recommend to the Union's convention, which meets in Miami in May, that where a project is assisted by municipal and state funds, Union funds may be invested.

Potofsky said the proposal also is subject to approval by trustees of the industry and will represent only a small part of the Union's funds. The Union will continue to invest in government bonds, Potofsky said.

A single large steel mill may require as much as 500 million gallons of water a day, according to a survey by the Twentieth Century Fund, which said this would be enough to supply a city of several million persons.

Mountain Sniper Kills 4, Is Slain

Sharpshooter Also Had Hurt 5 Before Being Routed by Tank

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A sharpshooting mountaineer who picked out moving targets like ducks in a shooting gallery shot four persons to death and wounded five others Wednesday. He died under a hail of machine gun bullets.

★ ★ ★

State Police, protected by an Army tank, cut down Daniel Raymond, 42, as he fled his burning home at Chalkhill. The home had been set afire by incendiary and tear gas bombs lobbed from the tank.

The mountaineer saw a doctor only Feb. 16 because he was nervous, his wife said.

Raymond, a pipeline walker for a natural gas company, had a reputation among the mountain folk in this southwestern Pennsylvania area for being a crack shot.

He did his lethal shooting from the second story of his home, located about 50 feet from a rural road.

Before police shut off the road to traffic Raymond fired for nine hours at almost everything that moved—cars and trucks. Only once did he fail to fire at a moving vehicle. This was a school bus carrying about 50 youngsters.

★ ★ ★

Veteran state troopers hugged the tank as it opened fire. They, too, peppered the house with volley after volley. Finally, the berserk Raymond tried to make a run for it. He ran a few feet, then dropped as the machine gun bullets cut through his body.

★ ★ ★

Those killed by Raymond were: Mary Frances Sissler, 61, and Edna Maes, 53, both of Ohiopyle, Pa.; William Burd, 49-year-old highways department worker from Farmington, Pa.; and May Maust of Farmington, Pa.

Wounded were: Harry Cromwell, 31, of Ohiopyle; Lawrece Swenglish, 18, of Haddonville, Pa.; Carlus Maust, 22, husband of Mrs. Maust, and two Maust children, Mary, 3, and Eddie, 18 months.

Raymond was armed with two rifles, one with a telescopic sight.

Police said they probably never will know just what triggered the tragedy although Raymond had been "acting nervous." His wife said he set fire to their living room about 12 hours before the shooting began. She said he doused the fire but she was frightened and took her three children to stay overnight with neighbors.

Madison Heights Factory Now in Operation

William A. Johnson, general manager of the R-O Manufacturing Co., today announced the firm's new 10,000 square foot plant at 31171 Stephenson Hwy., Madison Heights, has been completed and is now in operation.

★ ★ ★

"All machining and assembly work is being performed in the new plant with continuous flow production lines capable of meeting the growing domestic and foreign demand for equipment in the metalworking industry," Johnson said.

★ ★ ★

Corn Crop Floor Is Set at $1.06 by Sec. Benson

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson has set the minimum national average support price for the 1960 corn crop at $1.06 per bushel.

The 1960 support rate, down six cents from last year, would be equal to 65 per cent of the January parity price of $1.63 a bushel. The 1959 support rate reflected 90 per cent of the preliminary average price of $1.25 received by farmers during 1956-57-58.

Stocks Move Up but Gains Small

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved slightly higher early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

Gains of most key stocks were small. A few went to a point or more. Slight losses remained in various groups.

The market was mixed at the start and gradually moved to the upside on balance. The business news background contained little, if any, news to spur prices.

Motors were active but irregular. Steels had an edge to the upside. Rails, electronics and most chemicals were higher.

Speculative interest was drawn to an assortment of specialty stocks and issues, some of which had sizable gains.

A big casualty was Underwood, which fell more than 3 points after reporting a 1959 net loss about double the loss taken in the previous year.

★ ★ ★

NAFI Corp. looked as if it would repeat its role as most active stock. It advanced about a point after disclosing the terms of its acquisition of Chris Craft. The stock had to wipe out an initial loss of 1½ before going to the upside.

★ ★ ★

Polaroid advanced about 4 as talk continued about possible early introduction of its colored picture-in-a-minute. General Time was up more than 3. Gains of more than a point were made by Western Union, Beckman Instruments and Varian Associates.

American Motors, steadying after yesterday's sharp loss, was up a fraction. General Motors made a similar gain, Ford, Chrysler and Studebaker-Packard took small losses.

Gains of about 2 by DuPont and more than a point by Eastman Kodak bolstered the average. Moderate gains by Southern Railway, New York Central, U. S. Steel and American Telephone also helped.

A block of 174,100 shares of J. I. Case 6¼ per cent preferred was unchanged at 67¾.

2 Urge U.S. Boost Defense

Made Secret Survey for Ike; Warn We May Lose Cold War

WASHINGTON (AP)— Multibillion dollar increases in United States defense efforts to meet Communist threats were urged Wednesday by two members of a panel which made a secret defense survey for President Eisenhower.

Robert C. Sprague, industrialist and banker, told a Senate subcommittee studying cold war policy, that in his opinion President Eisenhower has failed to impress the public with the dangers facing the United States.

"One of our basic problems today stems from the failure of most Americans to realize that we have actually been at war with the Communists, in their sense of the word, since 1946," Sprague testified.

"We are fighting World War III right now—and we could lose it without a shot being fired on either side," he said, adding:

"I think that Mr. Khrushchev (Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev) has a very simple view of history. It can be put into three words: power is supreme. He plans to win by being more powerful—militarily, economically, psychologically."

Sprague urged a big stepup in the present 40 billion dollar annual defense outlay and higher taxes to pay for it.

President James P. Baxter of Williams College agreed with Sprague that the Russians are allotting "25 per cent of their income to their military effort in comparison with our allocation of 9 per cent."

Baxter said the Soviets might even risk nuclear attacks on Russians, saying:

"We are talking about a nation which killed great numbers of its own people to establish its political system and millions more in order to institute its system of collective agriculture."

Bentley Explains McCarthy Loan

Says It Wasn't Repaid and That Funds Were Later Called a Gift

LANSING (AP) — Rep. Alvin M. Bentley, Owosso Republican running for the U. S. Senate, said last night $3,000 he loaned the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) in 1950 was never repaid.

Instead, Bentley said, it was agreed in a 1955 telephone conversation to consider the money a gift — after McCarthy professed "complete inability" to repay either the principal or interest.

A search of his files yielded a letter from McCarthy dated July 29, 1955, which confirmed the new understanding, the congressman said. The letter read:

"Dear Al: Just thought I'd drop you a note to express my relief that our note has been finally liquidated.

"I know it is needless for me to tell you how much I appreciate your courtesy and helpfulness in this matter. With kindest personal regards, I remain yours sincerely . . . (signed) Joe."

The matter never thereafter was discussed with the late Wisconsin Republican whose unorthodox activities relating to communism stirred passionate admiration among some citizens and enraged others.

Bentley, through a Republican press agent, distributed a 1,200-word review and explanation of what he said was his only financial transaction with McCarthy in response to Democratic criticism.

Group Named to Study Area Transportation Plan

Growing traffic jams on expressways might eventually convince officials that a single public transportation system for Southeastern Michigan could be a good thing.

Some officials of six counties, meeting in Detroit yesterday to study such a proposal, left with this feeling.

As a result, the Southeastern Michigan Metropolitan Community Research Corp. has decided to name a steering committee to look into the suggestion.

The group has termed transportation its number three metropolitan problem. The others are water and sewage needs.

Delos Hamlin, vice chairman of the group and chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, couldn't comment much further on the plan other than say "The movement of people is a future problem in the metropolitan area."

"What the answer is I don't know," Hamlin, also chairman of the six-county Supervisors Inter-County Committee, added.

★ ★ ★

One question about the single over-all system was what federal financial help, if any, would be received, Hamlin said.

★ ★ ★

Saying that most of the officials from the six counties who attended the Wednesday meeting agreed there was merit in a further look at the plan, Hamilton said Leo J. Nowicki, Detroit's DSR's general manager, noted the service now provided for the suburbs.

Manage Small Gains for Soybean Futures

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybean futures suddenly reversed their opening weakness on the board of trade today and posted small gains during the first several minutes of dealings. The grains ranged both ways from previous closes.

The initial pressure of soybeans was understood to have been connected with word that inspections of the commodity for export last week dropped to less than a half million bushels compared with more than two million in the previous week.

Old crop wheat met scattered liquidation again but the declines both there and in soybeans were limited to a half cent.

Songs, Hula Dances Spark Cub Banquet

The annual Blue and Gold banquet of Cub Scout Pack 27, Whitfield School, was held recently.

Features of the affair included group singing, and four fathers performing hula dances.

The banquet also marked the unit's observance of the 50th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America.

The evening's speaker was Cubmaster Karl Walter.

John R. Franco in Senate Race

Ex-Dem State Leader to Oppose McNamara; Dislikes Income Tax

WASHINGTON (AP)—John R. Franco, former Democratic state chairman of Michigan, says he will run for the Senate on a platform pledged to work toward abolishing the U. S. income tax.

Franco, a Detroit paper products wholesaler, said yesterday he would oppose Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich) in the state's Aug. 6 Democratic primary election.

Franco called a news conference at the National Press Club to announce his candidacy and expand on his views about the income tax which he termed "pickpocket legislation."

He said he was running for the Senate "because you have to fire a big gun" to get rid of income taxes, "and the Senate is the best place to do it."

Franco said he regards McNamara as "one of the best senators down here, but he won't push my measure."

Franco suggested that the federal revenue which would be lost if income taxes were abolished could be made up by national sales taxes. "I have the answers, but I think it's an area into which I shouldn't go right now," he added.

★ ★ ★

He also spoke critically of United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther and Michigan's AFL-CIO president, Augustus Scholle.

He said Scholle was responsible for his relinquishing the Democratic chairmanship in 1949.

He did not elaborate on how this came about. "It was too much Gus Scholle," he said.

He said he had never run for an elective office before but that the Democratic governorship nomination "was offered to me on a silver platter in 1948 and I declined it."

Cites Laboratory-Factory as Arsenal of Democracy

LOS ANGELES — The laboratory, with the support of the factory, is this country's arsenal of democracy, S. E. Skinner, General Motors executive vice president, declared today.

Speaking at the dedication here of the Advanced Concepts Research and Development Laboratory of GM's AC Spark Plug Division, Skinner said the responsibility of industry in the nation's defense has changed.

"Up to World War II and right on through the Korean War industry's principal role was to produce," he explained. "What the military now needs from industry is assistance in research and engineering development, with production support."

The new Los Angeles laboratory will be primarily a missile and space research facility.

"It will become a most important element of an expanding General Motors team of scientists, engineers and production experts specializing in military technology.

The efforts of this team will be coordinated by our recently formed Defense Systems Division."

This division, along with GM's automotive, body and assembly, and parts division, is under Skinner's general supervision.

Composed mainly of scientific and engineering personnel, it engages in research and experimentation aimed toward the design and development of weapons systems and related activities.

Industry's changing role in the defense effort means "in effect, we have a tripartite team working to expand our nation's defense capabilities," said Skinner.

"The military has the continuing responsibility for direction—setting objectives and target dates.

SHARE TASK

"Scientists have the task of expanding fundamental knowledge.

Highway Probe Called Political

Dem Minority Report Attacks Stahlin Group for Road Smears

LANSING (AP)—A Democratic minority report labels the first Stahlin highway investigation an attempted "political inquisition."

Sen. Basil W. Brown (D-Detroit), a member of the committee headed by Sen. John H. Stahlin (R-Belding), said the GOP majority's goal was votes and a smear of Michigan's best road-building effort in 15 years.

No comment was available from Stahlin, who was excused from this week's Senate sessions and reportedly was in South America on business.

The majority criticized Highway Commissioner John C. Macke, a Democrat, for indulging "political whim," for nonfeasance in pushing an Oakland County expressway project and for favoritism in employment.

Brown said the Republican report was shown to him about 10 minutes before Stahlin filed it with the Senate. He observed that no bills were offered to effect any reforms in Mackie's administrative practices.

The Democrat said the committee had an opportunity to do something beneficial but "instead they pounded the table, gagged witnesses, issued grossly misrepresented press releases and generally did all in their power to conduct a political inquisition."

100 Battle Big Fire at Detroit Refinery

DETROIT (UPI) — A five-alarm fire, triggered by two explosions, severely burned one man and wrecked a portion of the Aurora Refinery on the city's west side late Wednesday night.

More than 100 firemen battled the gasoline-fed fire for an hour and a half before bringing it under control.

Police said Oscar Gambel, 35, of Allen Park, suffered first, second and third degree burns about his head, hands and upper part of his body when a gasoline truck exploded.

Authorities said Gambel, an Aurora employe, and several other workers were loading the truck when the explosions and fire occurred shortly before 11 p.m.

Residents in the Schaefer and Dix area said their homes were shaken by the explosions. Flames and heavy smoke were visible for miles around the refinery at the height of the blaze.

Dem Senators Still Confused by CIA Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Senate Democrats say there're still confused after hearing new testimony by Allen W. Dulles on relative U.S.-Soviet missile strength.

Republicans say there's nothing to be confused about.

Dulles, director of the central Intelligence Agency, spent another five hours Wednesday testifying behind closed doors to the Senate Space and Preparedness committees.

★ ★ ★

When he appeared before the groups earlier this year, he presented what some Democrats interpreted a less optimistic view than that of some military men on the American position in the missile race. Some of the subcommittee Democrats promptly said the Dulles testimony left them confused.

City Candidates Vary in Views

Women Voters League Sponsors Meeting to Hear Contenders

City Commission candidates who appeared last night at a League of Women Voters meeting expressed pro and con views on the proposed charter changes to strengthen controls over the troubled Pontiac Police Department.

Eighteen contenders for six of the Commission seats each spoke briefly before an audience of 85 persons at a "Meet your candidate" session in City Hall.

Seven candidates were absent.

League officers were both pleased and displeased by the public attendance figure.

It's the largest audience we've had for a City Commission primary in years," said one officer. "But it's still awfully small for a city this size."

Each candidate was asked to express his views on the two proposed charter amendments which the City Commission has placed on the April 18 ballot.

Eight contenders favored the trial board proposal and nine favored eliminating the department of public safety.

Five opposed the trial board amendment and three the public safety proposal. But two others said after the meeting that they would have expressed disapproval of the latter if they had had more time to speak.

Other candidates gave no clear cut opinions.

Candidates who appeared were:

District 2 — Robert T. Flynn and incumbent Mayor Philip E. Rowston; District 3 — George D. Hicks and William H. Taylor Jr.

District 4 — Winford E. Bottom, Theodore F. Figa and incumbent Floyd P. Miles. District 5 — Incumbent John A. Dugan, L. D. McLauchlin and Edward W. McKinney.

District 6 — Theodore Carlson, J. H. Patrick Glynn, Dick Kirby, Bernard J. Stickney and incumbent Wesley J. Wood. District 7 — Cecil J. Cosgrove, incumbent Robert A. Landry and James H. Marshall.

There will be primary runoffs March 7 in Districts 4, 5, 6 and 7.

The three candidates for the two municipal judgeships also gave campaign talks. Not involved in a primary, they are incumbents Maurice E. Finnegan, Cecil McCallum and challenger Edward H. Shigley.

Accuse Playboy of Blackmail

Say Britisher Forced Barbara Warner to Let Him Steal Cash

LONDON (AP)—A British playboy was accused today of blackmailing the daughter of Hollywood movie magnate Jack Warner into standing by while he stole $70,000 of her father's money.

★ ★ ★

The allegation was made at a court hearing on a French plea for extradition of Michael "Dandy Kim" Caborn-Waterfield, 30.

The Briton was found guilty by a French court in 1956 of robbing Warner's safe in a Riviera villa, and sentenced in absentia to four years in jail.

An attorney for the French government declared the theft occurred during a party at the villa which Barbara Warner gave on Aug. 25, 1953.

Her father was in Rome at the time. The French government lawyer, Michel Koenig, introduced in evidence a statement by Miss Warner which said in part:

"About 9:30 p.m., before dinner, Kim took my arm and led me aside. He said he needed more than 100,000 francs to pay his hotel bill and leave the Riviera.

★ ★ ★

"He asked me if I knew where the key of my father's safe was and said that if I did not help him to find it he would tell my father about things that happened the previous year.

"Under this threat of blackmail we went to the first floor and in my presence he searched my father's bureau for the keys. I did not tell him where the keys were, I just stayed there.

"He found the keys and he opened the cupboard the safe was in and then the safe."

Missile Man Resigns in Order to Criticize

NEW YORK (AP) — Thomas G. Lanphier, a key figure in Atlas missile production, said Wednesday he is quitting his business post so he can criticize what he considers inadequate defense policies of the Eisenhower administration.

"I think our country is in trouble," he said.

For one thing, asserted Lanphier, the President isn't as well informed on modern weapons as he thinks he is. For another, says Lanphier, this country direly needs more and better ballistic missiles, as well as continued development of bombers.

At the same time, he feels, the Strategic Air Command or a large segment of it ought to be constantly in the air, its planes armed and ready to strike anywhere.

Lanphier commented that planes or missiles on the ground are in effect sitting ducks should the Soviet Union unleash a fusillade of missiles.

The next two years are going to be critical ones in American efforts to offset the Soviet achievements in weapons development, he added.

In order to be able to speak out, Lanphier is making a financial sacrifice.

"I just got a raise from $42,500 to $50,000 a year this month," he said. "In addition, we have incentive compensation which added another $10,000 to $15,000." Lanphier has been vice president of the Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp.

Said Lanphier:

"If I think we're going to get the h— knocked out of us I might as well say so, before we do."

Lanphier added that a lot of people agree with his views on defense matters but are in positions where they are unable to say so.

"We seem to have come to the point in our country — especially for companies doing business with the government — where it is difficult for an individual to be particularly critical of the government."

Lanphier said he has no other job in mind at the moment, but for a while will devote his time to writing and speaking.

Thurber Enjoys Show Despite His Blindness

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Speaking of handicapped people managing to stay happy (as nobody was but maybe should have been)—Humorist James Thurber can never see that new show he's written.

WILSON

"Jamie"—as Mrs. Thurber calls him — "hasn't been able to see a thing since about 1957."

Partly blind before that, he has never seen Tom Ewell, Peggy Cass, Paul Ford or others in the cast. He can only sit there, hear the actors speak lines he's framed in his mind and dictated, and enjoy the laughter around him.

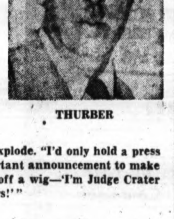

Unique though this must make him among today's playwrights, it hasn't made him melancholy. He's worked furiously, cheerfully. "The Thurber Carnival" opens tomorrow (Friday) but until now there wasn't a "final" script. "Ask him for a new line and he writes a new act," Mrs. T. explained. "Same with his books. I finally have to say, 'It's all done, dear. Let's take it to the publisher.' He likes to keep gnawing at it like a dog."

Jim himself thought touring "The Thurber country" was better than taking a new show around to New Haven, Boston and other Eastern cities. He couldn't think of much of a reason. Maybe just because he liked to go back there.

And he especially got pleasure from meeting the newspapermen, having been a reporter himself and considering he still is.

They wanted him to hold press conferences.

"Press conference!" he'd explode. "I'd only hold a press conference if I had some important announcement to make such as saying 'Look'—taking off a wig—'I'm Judge Crater who's been missing for 30 years!'"

State Senate Turns Down 4 of Williams' Appointees

LANSING (AP) — Four comparatively minor appointees of Democratic Gov. Williams were knocked out of their government posts yesterday by the Republican-controlled Senate.

One of them, David M. Moss of Detroit, had served on the State Board of Pharmacy for 11 years and was up for a new term. A Republican majority spokesman called him controversial.

All were ousted by refusal of the Senate to confirm the appointments on strictly party line votes of 12 to 19, with 18 affirmative votes needed for approval. the action followed a Republican caucus.

Sen. Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville), whose Senate Business Committee screens appointments, gave these reasons for the other three rejections:

Dr. J. Maxwell Cook of Charlotte, Eaton County health director, turned down for a berth on the State Health Council—a "controversial character" who quarreled publicly over polio vaccination policy with Rep. Carroll Newton (R-Delton). Newton actively opposed Cook's confirmation.

Hubert E. Emerick of Dearborn, a former United Auto Workers Union local chief steward, vetoed as member of the Appeal Board of the Michigan Employment Security Commission—his government work in a quasi-judicial capacity reflected bias.

Roderick Sherman, Croswell druggist, disapproved as Pharmacy Board member—he never graduated from pharmacy school and it would be poor public policy to allow him supervision over graduate pharmacists.

Sen. Harold M. Ryan (D-Detroit) called Hutchinson's reasons "weak-kneed and silly." The Senate's action, Ryan said, would discourage worthy men from stepping forward to serve in nonsalaried government positions.

Only Emerick's job was substantially full time.

Emerick's rejection came just two days short of two years after Senate disapproval of Thomas Doherty, the man Emerick was appointed to replace.

On that occasion, Hutchinson said confirmation of Doherty would amount to giving Walter P. Reuther, UAW-CIO chief, a voice on the tribunal that passes on appeals in unemployment compensation cases.

No Democrat arose to defend Emerick specifically, but Ryan apparently had him in mind when he said "apparently nothing would be wrong if these people were in the right political party."

State Parks Fee Bill Set for House Debate

LANSING (AP) — The Senate-approved state parks fee bill cleared the House Ways and Means Committee Wednesday and moved to the House floor for debate.

Attached to it was an amendment requiring legislative approval for all bond issues financing the program.

The measure authorizes a 10-million-dollar bond issue to finance expansion and improvement of the state parks system. Bonds would be retired by sale of $2 windshield stickers admitting a car to all state parks for a year. Daily admission fees of up to 50 cents also could be charged.

New bond issues could be authorized once original issues were retired, keeping the total at 10 million dollars.

Gov. Williams, who is boosting a 30-million-dollar bond issue backed by the faith and credit of the state, vetoed similar measures last year and in 1957.

Leon Trotsky, revolutionary leader in Russia, was assassinated in Mexico City in 1940.

TOPPLED — Premier Antonio Segni of Italy talks into newsmen's microphones in Rome after presenting his cabinet's resignation to President Giovanni Gronchi. Segni's government fell when he lost support of the liberal Party. Criticism of Gronchi's trip to Moscow is said to have been a major factor in the collapse.

U.S. Now Can Enter Chicago Water Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court is permitting the government to intervene in litigation in which Michigan and five other Great Lakes states seek to force Chicago to return its domestic water pumpage to Lake Michigan rather than to the Illinois waterway.

★ ★ ★

The high court returned the decision yesterday in answer to a petition by Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York. The six states want the Supreme Court to amend a 1930 decree to require Chicago to return the water to the lake after treatment.

Solicitor General J. Lee Rankin asked Dec. 18, 1959 that the United States be permitted to intervene in view of its interests in Great Lakes waters and the St. Lawrence River watershed.

The complaining states contend permanent removal of water from Lake Michigan reduces the amount available for hydroelectric projects and also endangers navigation by lowering lake levels.

The Supreme Court appointed Albert B. Maris, retired Philadelphia federal judge, June 29, 1959 as a special master to gather evidence and make a report to the tribunal.

Says GOP Will Back Ike's Sewage Veto

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Rep. Charles A. Halleck, House minority leader, said Tuesday Republicans would support President Eisenhower in his first major veto of this session of Congress.

The President vetoed a bill which would have boosted federal aid for state and local construction of sewage disposal plants from 500 million to 900 million dollars for the next 10 years.

Halleck, here to file for his 14th consecutive congressional term, said the present law is "adequate."

"The present law is not designed to shut off things that are necessary," Halleck said. "But some people want to spend, spend, spend."

FHA Industrial Plan Clears 1st Hurdle

LANSING (AP) — A proposed industrial FHA program designed to attract capital for industrial expansion has cleared its first legislative hurdle.

By unanimous vote, the House Committee on Revision and Amendment to the Constitution endorsed a resolution for a constitutional amendment to allow the state to borrow up to 100 million dollars in faith and credit bonds. Bonds would back loans made for industrial research and expansion.

"The state would not loan any money," said Rep. Frank D. Williams (D-Detroit), the sponsor. "It would only make private loans better risks for investors."

The program, endorsed by Gov. Williams, would be administered, and loans approved, by a nine-man industrial building authority.

Proposed State College 'Needs a Millionaire'

LANSING (AP)— The proposed new Grand Valley College in western Michigan needs some millionaire backers, Gov. Williams and a citizens committee agreed.

"You have a tremendous job ahead of you in planning and raising funds," the governor warned the committee which visited him to seek support.

A bill to create a four-year, state-supported college to serve the eight-county western Michigan area has been introduced by Rep. Thomas J. Whinery (R-Grand Rapids) and 13 other area lawmakers. No funds are asked the first year.

"All we are asking at first is official status," said L. William Seidman of Grand Rapids, chairman of the committee. "Then we would at least be able to accept gifts."

Pontiac Press Photo

LEAVES HOSPITAL — Lawrence E. Rabey, a 22-year-old hospital orderly from Farmington Township, was taken to Pontiac General Hospital yesterday after he attempted to slash his wrists following the discovery of the mutilated body of his 20-year-old wife in their home Wednesday morning. Being held for investigation of first-degree murder, he is shown here with Det. Sgt. Raymond Whalen of the Redford State Police Post as he leaves the hospital.

Hacked to Death in Farmington Twp.

Kills Wife on 'Urge'

An order for a first-degree murder warrant was issued this morning against a 22-year-old Farmington Township man who admitted he hacked his wife to death yesterday because he "had an urge."

★ ★ ★

Prosecutor George F. Taylor said he would later petition for a hearing to test Lawrence E. Rabey's sanity. He is a former mental patient.

Taylor said Rabey made a statement in his office this morning confessing the savage killing of his wife Delores, 20, because he "wanted to become a woman."

Rabey was expected to be arraigned in the township either today or tomorrow.

QUIZZED ON GACA CASE

He was also questioned on the unsolved 1955 murder of Barbara Gaca of Detroit.

Taylor said Rabey denied molesting "any little girls whatsoever." He said his office could continue to look into this possible connection.

Taylor said Rabey, who upon his arrest yesterday was vague on details of the brutal slaying, today gave "a complete story, remembering everything."

★ ★ ★

Rabey, with both wrists bandaged, calmly walked into the Redford State Police Post at 2 p.m.

Awaiting Extradition of Lassiter Associate

DETROIT (AP)—Authorities today awaited extradition of a man charged along with pretty blonde Mrs. Nelle Lassiter in the slaying of her well-to-do auto dealer husband.

Dressed in chic beige clothes and wearing dark glasses, the 38-year-old former model pleaded innocent yesterday to charges of first degree murder and conspiracy in the slaying of Parvin (Bill) Lassiter last April.

In Los Angeles, Gordon Watson, a business associate of Lassiter, was arraigned on a fugitive warrant.

Michigan authorities also charge him with first degree murder and conspiracy in the slaying.

Watson was jailed pending an extradition hearing March 25. His attorney indicated Watson would fight extradition to Michigan, where he was associated with Lassiter in a car dealership in Royal Oak.

★ ★ ★

The shapely Mrs. Lassiter, sobbing and seemingly exhausted, demanded examination at her arraignment.

Dearborn Township Justice John L. Mokersky set examination for March 4. Mrs. Lassiter of 19690 Beverly Rd., Beverly Hills, was remanded to Wayne County Jail in Detroit without bail.

No bail is permitted in Michigan on first degree (premeditated) murder charges.

A warrant charging Mrs. Lassiter was issued Monday as she waited to testify as a prosecution witness against three men accused in the slaying of her husband.

Meanwhile, the state contended yesterday that Lassiter was slain prematurely in a robbery attempt, saying he was shot to death by a man who was not in on a plot to murder the car dealer.

The prosecution said the man was Charles W. Nash, 43, who pleaded guilty in Circuit Court yesterday to second degree (unplanned) murder.

Cost of Living Down Slightly

Second Straight Dip, but Index Still Near Its Record High

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lower prices for clothing, new cars, eggs and most meats brought a slight decline in living costs in January.

It was the second straight monthly dip in the government's living-cost index.

Even so, the index is still just a little under its record high.

Although down from December, the January living-cost level was a record high for a January.

The Labor Department reported today the index dropped one-tenth of one per cent in January to 125.4 per cent of the 1947-49 base period. This is the lowest living-cost level since September, but it is 1.3 per cent above a year earlier.

The slight change will affect the wages of various workers whose union contracts provide for adjustments geared to the index.

Wages of about 60,000 workers in aircraft and farm machinery industries will be reduced, in most cases by one cent an hour.

About 14,000 trucking industry workers will receive a one per cent hourly raise on a different adjustment basis.

There will be no wage changes for about a million workers in the auto and related products industries.

The Labor Department also reported that spendable earnings of factory workers remained at a record high in January. This is contrary to the seasonal tendency and is despite a rise of one-half of one per cent in the Social Security tax.

President Dons Raincoat but Is Bareheaded

Brazilians Dance and Shout With Enthusiasm Despite Weather

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — President Eisenhower rode bareheaded in a heavy rain today to acknowledge the acclaim of this booming industrial metropolis.

Brazilians danced, jumped and shouted in their enthusiasm over his visit.

Eisenhower flew from Rio de Janeiro under overcast skies to spend 6½ hours in this Brazilian Chicago, 220 miles southwest of Rio. He goes to Argentina Friday.

A drizzling rain started soon after the President's motorcade left the airport.

It was a downpour by the time the procession reached the Praza Bandeira, or Flag Plaza, where thousands had gathered to see him. Some had umbrellas, most did not.

Eisenhower donned a raincoat, doffed his hat and waved.

Confetti and ticker tape rained down from buildings surrounding the valley in which the central plaza is situated.

Considering the weather, it was a big turnout.

Eisenhower on arrival reported he had heard Sao Paulo is the fastest growing city in the world. He said in a brief greeting speech it was a personal pleasure to have the chance to "witness first-hand

Columnist Will Speak Here

Abby Coming to Town

By HAROLD A. FITZGERALD
Publisher, The Pontiac Press

CHICAGO — Dear Abby will appear in Pontiac in person next fall. This nationally known columnist is scheduled to make a public address to area people.

★ ★ ★

Long an admirer of her column in The Pontiac Press, I seized an opportunity to schedule a meeting with this charming lady at the Inland Daily Press Assn. here.

This was strictly commercial.

The fact Abby is a whale of a good looking girl in her late 30s couldn't alter the journalistic necessities of the moment. This was an assignment.

Also, the fact Dear Abby is the brunette's brunette, scales 105 pounds and stands five feet even with eyes of blue had no bearing. These are just unavoidable circumstances. There are "occupational hazards" in all callings.

Abby's looks are an extraneous factor anyway, and never figured in this grave, professional discourse. A reporter wrote in Life Magazine: "Abby has the sort of lush figure that seems designed primarily for slithering through beaded curtains." There weren't any beaded curtains at hand for Abby to slither through, but even without these dubious props you have no sense of being cheated.

ABBY VAN BUREN

Asked whether she'd like to come to Pontiac and speak to Press readers, Abby cogitated and then looked right into my weak, pale green eyes and said: "I might. I might."

★ ★ ★

We agreed tentatively on "sometime in the fall" and you'll learn the details late in the summer.

Aren't you glad this grand little feminine dynamo is coming to Pontiac? I am. I really need a lot of personal advice myself. (Echo from home: "You can say that again.")

Well, boys and girls, look forward to Dear Abby, and be sure and read her every day.

She offers special messages for teen-agers, the 20s, the newly married, the middle aged and for the doddering, old sunshine coots like me. Yep—our Abby really has it.

★ ★ ★

Her column is only a few years old but it appears in more newspapers than any similar column there is. She's the champ. The Pontiac Press gives you the best.

Tank Goes After Murderer

AP Photofax

BEARING DOWN — A National Guard tank nears the Uniontown, Pa., home where Daniel Raymond, 42, held state police and county detectives at bay for several hours Wednesday. The tank set his house afire with a hail of bullets, and the sniping mountaineer was killed while fleeing. He had shot four persons to death and wounded five others.

Police Threats Cooling Crowd

Chattanooga Downtown Quieter Today After 20 Race Arrests Yesterday

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Fire hoses and the threat of police billy clubs cooled tempers of thousands of racially-tense Negroes and whites who stormed Chattanooga's downtown area for the second straight day.

Twenty persons — eleven Negroes and nine whites—were arrested Wednesday. Police said pistols were taken from three of them.

The mass of humanity was several times larger but the day's violence did not match the bitter fighting that flared Tuesday when gangs of belligerent white youths challenged Negro demonstrations for integrated lunch counter service.

Elsewhere in the South the situation was relatively quiet on the sitdown front, that spread from a demonstration in Greensboro, N.C., more than two weeks ago.

In Charlotte, N.C., a Negro boy and girl were served lunch at a department store counter reserved for whites. A store official said the couple's light skin apparently caused them to be mistaken for white because the store's segregated counter policy was unchanged.

Both houses of the Virginia Legislature quickly passed three trespass bills. The emergency measures were proposed by Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. to thwart lunch counter sitdown by Negroes.

Fleeing Sniper Killed; Had Slain 4, Wounded 5

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A sharpshooting mountaineer who picked out moving targets like ducks in a shooting gallery shot four persons to death and wounded five others Wednesday. He died under a hail of machine gun bullets.

State Police, protected by an Army tank, cut down Daniel Raymond, 42, as he fled his burning home at Chalkhill. The home had been set afire by incendiary and tear gas bombs lobbed from the tank.

The mountaineer saw a doctor only Feb. 16 because he was nervous, his wife said.

Raymond, a pipeline walker for a natural gas company, had a reputation among the mountain folk in this southwestern Pennsylvania area for being a crack shot.

He did his lethal shooting from the second story of his home, located about 50 feet from a rural road.

Before police shut off the road to traffic Raymond fired for nine hours at almost everything that moved—cars and trucks. Only once did he fail to fire at a moving vehicle. This was a school bus carrying about 50 youngsters.

Veteran state troopers hugged the tank as it opened fire. They, too, peppered the house with volley after volley. Finally, the berserk Raymond tried to make a run for it. He ran a few feet, then dropped as the machine gun bullets cut through his body.

Those killed by Raymond were: Mary Frances Sissler, 61, and Edna Maes, 53, both of Ohiopule, Pa.; William Burd, 49-year-old highways department worker from Farmington, Pa.; and May Maust of Farmington, Pa.

Wounded were: Harry Cromwell, 31, of Ohiopyle; Lawrece Swenglish, 18, of Haddonville, Pa.; Carlus Maust, 22, husband of Mrs. Maust, and two Maust children, Mary, 3, and Eddie, 18 months.

Raymond was armed with two rifles, one with a telescopic sight.

Police said they probably never will know just what triggered the tragedy although Raymond had been "acting nervous." His wife said he set fire to their living room about 12 hours before the shooting began. She said he doused the fire but she was frightened and took her three children to stay overnight with neighbors.

This was the chain of events as pieced together by police:

Burd and his helper, Robert Richey, drove their cindering truck past the Raymond home about 8 a.m. Raymond shouted at them from a second-story window, asking them to cinder his driveway. Glad to oblige, Richey jumped to the ground to spread the cinders.

★ ★ ★

Suddenly, Raymond appeared at the window again. He opened fire, hitting Burd twice. Richey dove for cover. Burd managed to start the truck but it crashed into a tree 100 yards away.

Two motorists, George Smalley, 30, and Joseph Pickens, went to Burd's aid. They were not hit by Raymond. Burd died en route to a hospital.

Swenglish was hit next as a shot pierced his windshield. A

Top Hoffa Aide, 5 Others Indicted for Illegal Gifts

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Harold J. Gibbons, a vice president of the Teamsters Union and top aide to Teamster President James Hoffa, was indicted by a federal grand jury Wednesday on a charge of making illegal political contributions. Five other teamster officials also were indicted.

All were accused of violating or conspiring to violate the Taft-Hartley Act, which forbids unions and corporations from contributing funds to candidates for federal office.

The alleged offenses are misdemeanors, carrying maximum penalties of one year in jail and a $1,000 fine, or both, on each count.

Indicted with Gibbons were Sidney Zagri, legislative counsel for the union; John Naber, secretary of Local 688 in St. Louis; William Latal, president of Local 688; Philip C. Reichardt, acting secretary of taxicab driver's Local 405 in St. Louis; and Joseph Bommarito, business agent for Local 405.

The indictments also named Locals 688 and 405 as defendants.

The 22-count indictment followed a five-month investigation by U.S. Atty. Wayne H. Bigler, the FBI and the Internal Revenue Service.

In 1956 and 1958, the indictment charged, payments ranging from $250 to $5,000 were made to the campaigns of Sen. Thomas C. Hennings (D-Mo); Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore); Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif); Rep. Henry Reuss (D-Wis) and unsuccessful congressional candidates James L. Sullivan and Robert C. Dowd, both of St. Louis.

Gibbons issued a statement at Miami, Fla., where the union's executive board is meeting, claiming the indictment is part of "the policy of the Eisenhower administration and the Justice Department to harass unions in an effort to weaken them, or if possible, to destroy them."

He added, "I have violated no law. I am not guilty of doing any wrongdoing."

Two of the others, Zagri and Reichardt, indicated they felt the same way.

Sen. Hutchinson Announces Bid for Lt. Governor

LANSING (AP) — Sen. Edward Hutchinson of Fennville, a standard bearer of the Senate's conservative Republicans announced today he would bid for the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor.

★ ★ ★

The announcement by the veteran lawmaker came moments after Sen. Frank D. Beadle (R-St. Clair), Senate majority leader, revealed he would not try for the same post.

Hutchinson's entry into the race likely will pit him against Rep. George W. Sallade (R-Ann Arbor), three-term House member and maverick Republican, and Clarence A. Reid, GOP lieutenant governor in 1954-55.

Two motorists, George Smalley, 30, and Joseph Pickens, went to Burd's aid. They were not hit by Raymond. Burd died en route to a hospital.

Larry Rabey Held in Wife-Slaying

His Neighbors Can't Understand

By JIM LONG

Less than two hours before Mrs. Delores Rabey, 20, was brutally slain yesterday morning in her Farmington Township home, she was laughing and enjoying television at the home of a neighbor.

She had just finished baby-sitting for Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ackerman, 21639 Hancock St., while they attended a PTA meeting, and was waiting for her husband, Lawrence, to pick her up.

★ ★ ★

"We got home earlier than we expected so the three of us just sat around and talked and watched TV," Ackerman said.

"Larry arrived shortly after 11 p.m. and they left about 45 minutes later," he said.

Rabey, 22, is being held today in the knife slaying of his pregnant wife. A hospital orderly at St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia, with a past history of mental disorders, Rabey has told police that he remembers nothing of the crime.

"When Larry left my house, I can honestly say he was all right," Ackerman said.

"Rabey has always acted strange, but there was no indication he might do this terrible thing," he said.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND

Neighbors on both sides of the three-room, gray-shingled house at 21621 Waldron St. were at a complete loss as to what happened to Rabey.

Charles Ripaldi, 21565 Waldron, said he was awake at the time the coroner set the time of death, between 1 and 2 a.m.

"I just can't understand why I didn't hear any screams or commotion," Ripaldi said. "My home is only 30 feet away.

"It's unbelievable, a terrible thing," Ripaldi said. "I always knew he was high strung and flighty, but I never expected anything like this.

"He used to come over and tell me how he was going to start a business or take up a trade, and I always told him that he wasn't cut out to meet the public.

"That's why he quit several jobs. He just couldn't express himself," Ripaldi said.

Ira J. Wing, 21621 Waldron, who is selling the small house to Rabey, said, "He was mild mannered, but the nervous type."

"He always seemed to be trying to make a go of it, but he seemed to fail in everything he did," Wing said.

"He made his monthly payments on the house as regularly as clockwork. He never missed," Wing said.

"I just can't understand why he would do such a horrible thing."

Wednesday and told troopers, "I need help . . . I've killed my wife."

Moments later troopers and detectives found the mutilated body of Mrs. Rabey in the blood-spattered living room of her home at 21621 Waldron St., Farmington Township.

So began to unfold the horror of what police and prosecutors described as the "most grotesque murder case" they had ever seen.

The victim's husband was accompanied to the post by his father, Charles Rabey, of 13910 Sussex, Detroit.

Rabey had been under treatment for a mental condition since he was 14, his father told police.

The young husband said he awoke at about 11:30 a.m. on the floor next to his bed, and saw his wife's body in the living room through the open bedroom door.

"I know I must have done it, but I don't remember anything," he sobbed, said Det. Sgt. Ray A. Whalen. Rabey saw that his wrists and one ankle were slashed.

When 14 years old, Rabey attempted to assait a married woman who was a friend of the family, Whalen said.

His father took him to a psychiatrist who, after a series of tests, had Rabey committed to St. Josephs Retreat, a Detroit mental institution.

He stayed there for about six weeks and was released. He had been undergoing treatment ever since, police said. An Army veteran, he was given a medical discharge after six months in the service due to the mental condition.

Neighbors on either side said they heard nothing during the night of the slaying. When he woke, Rabey said, he dressed, put two bottles of milk and some diapers in a suitcase for the couples four-month-old son, Guy Joseph, bundled up the baby and drove to his parents' home.

He was covered with blood when he walked into their house carrying his son.

Rabey, dropped out of school in the 11th grade, was employed as an orderly at St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia, said Capt. Fred Davids, commander of the State Police 2nd District Headquarters.

His parents said they thought marriage would help him. The young couple was married in October, 1958. They had only one son.

The pretty, brown-haired young wife had just recently learned she was to have another baby in October. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy LeMieux of 22226 Wyman St., Detroit.

"It was the most grotesque crime I've ever seen," said Prosecutor Taylor upon leaving Rabey's house. Rabey was taken to Pontiac General Hospital where his wrists and ankle were stitched and he was given blood.

Hogan to Seek Roberts Post

Bloomfield Twp. Man Has Taken Petitions for Seat Being Vacated

A day after the incumbent announced he wouldn't seek re-election, a young political newcomer from Bloomfield Township has indicated his candidacy for Oakland's Third Legislative District seat on the Republican ticket.

Henry M. Hogan Jr., 27, who got his brief start in politics as township trustee, has taken out nominating petitions for the seat being vacated by Rep. Farrell E. Roberts, West Bloomfield Township Republican.

Completing his fourth year in the House, Roberts announced yesterday he was declining re-election to return to his law practice.

Hogan, too, is a lawyer. His father is general counsel of General Motors Corp.

After attending the Cranbrook school in Bloomfield Hills for several grades, the younger Hogan went to LaSalle Military Academy, Long Island, N. Y. He was graduated from there in 1950.

His later education includes a degree in political science in 1954 from Holy Cross College and a law degree from the University of Michigan in 1957. He was admitted to the Bar in Wayne County the same year. He is working on his master's degree in business administration at the U. of M.

Today he is associated with the Birmingham office of a Detroit law firm which he joined after being admitted to the Bar.

Saying he is a "political novice," with the exception of being elected as trustee for four years last April, Hogan described his campaign philosophy to date as one of believing "the state can't spend more money than you have."

His political experience also includes being township precinct captain the last 1½ years.

He lives with his wife and two daughters at 4253 W. Orchard Hill.

fire truck with volunteers braved rifle fire to rescue him. He was in a Pittsburgh hospital where his left eye was removed Wednesday night.

Then along came a car driven by Harry Cromwell, 31, of Ohiopyle. He was shot and his car ground to a halt. He stayed in the car for what he said seemed an "eternity." He was in fair condition at a hospital.

Mrs. Maes and Mrs. Sissler were next. Their car apparently went off the road when it was hit by rifle fire. They were shot as they tried to run. Their bodies lay on the road until Raymond was shot to death.

Now came the car occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Maust and their two children. A shot rang out. Mrs. Maust collapsed against her husband. She was dead. Then Maust and his children were wounded.

Winter's Worst Hits Texas

Storms Rip Southwest

By The Associated Press

Wintry snow and sleet storms, dealing crippling blows as they swept across southwest sections spread into the Ohio and Lower Mississippi Valleys today.

★ ★ ★

Most of Texas was staggered by the violent weather, the worst in a series of storms this winter. Zero cold invaded the South Plains which was covered in some areas with a seven-inch snowfall.

Hundreds of families in East Texas were without heat or electricity because of power failures and natural gas line breaks. Scores of schools remained closed.

★ ★ ★

Snowstorms also belted eastern New Mexico, southern Oklahoma and Arkansas Wednesday. Falls ranged up to six inches in southern and central New Mexico and parts of Arkansas. The first snow in nine years fell in Texarkana, Ark.

★ ★ ★

Warnings of heavy snow — four inches or more — were issued by the Weather Bureau for areas in a band 100 to 200 miles wide from Arkansas northeast through southeast Missouri, most of Kentucky and southeast Ohio.

Miller Definite; Not After Office

Circumstances Against His Running for Seat in State Legislature

Robert C. Miller, former acting Pontiac postmaster, has spiked reports that he quit his job to run for political office. He said he "definitely will not be a candidate."

Miller, 32, of 194 N. Berkshire Rd., Bloomfield Township, recently went to Lansing to confer with Rep. Farrell E. Roberts (R-West Bloomfield Township, who had urged him to run for his seat. Roberts announced yesterday he will not seek re-election.

"I'd like the job in Lansing," Miller said. "I wanted it in 1956 and would like it now, but circumstances just won't permit it."

A former special investigator for the county prosecutor, Miller as Republican monimee, lost by 4,500 votes his bid for Pontiac's District 2 legislative seat.

"If I could earn as much money up there as I can here and still keep everybody happy it would be a different story," said Miller who quit after two years as acting postmaster.

He said he was "tired of being kicked around like a political football" in that Michigan's two Democratic senators had refused to confirm him to the Senate after two years.

Miller has returned to his former sales job with Jerome Motor Sales in Pontiac.

Was in His Cabin, Says Van Rie

Admits Rendezvous With Murdered Girl

BOSTON (AP) — Willem Van Rie, Dutch ship radio operator, testified today that Lynn Kauffman was in his cabin for a three-hour period on the day he is alleged to have killed her.

This was brought out under cross-examination by Asst. Dist. Atty. John F. McAuliffe.

The 31-year-old murder trial defendant said the girl was in his cabin from 1 a. m. to 4 a. m. Sept. 18.

The state charges Van Rie beat Miss Kauffman and tossed her overboard from the Netherlands freighter Utrecht as it proceeded down Boston Harbor the night of Sept. 18.

It alleges the Dutch wireless-man had a quarrel with her in her cabin.

The prosecutor prodded Van Rie for not mentioning the nocturnal visit in his direct testimony Wednesday.

McAuliffe opened his questioning by pointing out that in Vie Rie's direct testimony he mentioned the girl only as Mrs. Kauffman.

★ ★ ★

Several witnesses have referred to the 23-year-old divorcee as Mrs. Kauffman. She was divorced when she was 21. Her maiden name is Lynn Kauffman.

McAuliffe asked Van Rie if he so called her when she was his laundress.

Van Rie replied, "No, sir." He added: "She was not my laundress. She ironed my suit."

★ ★ ★

McAuliffe asked if he addressed her as Mrs. Kauffman when she returned the suit. Van Rie answered: "No, sir."

He conceded he had addressed her as Lynn.

Q. At any time yesterday did you call her Lynn?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Yesterday you told the court and jury the last time you saw the deceased alive was on the morning of Sept. 18, when the officers sent for her. How many hours before this did you see her?

A. Four.

It was then Van Rie told of her visit to his cabin.

Miss Kauffman vanished from the Utrecht sometime after 7 p. m. Sept. 18. Her body was found the next day on a harbor island.

Thousands Cheer Ike in Rain at Sao Paulo

the mighty achievement of this fabulous community."

His schedule included the placing of a wreath on a memorial to Brazilians who died as soldiers in his European command in World War II. Eisenhower termed this a "very special and, to me, deeply moving mission to perform in your city."

★ ★ ★

Eisenhower paid tribute to Brazil's partnership with other free nations in two World Wars.

★ ★ ★

"Gallant Brazilian blood, shed with ours, will ever remind us of our solemn common covenant to preserve the peace, with justice and freedom for all," he said.

The President stood in his bubble-top limousine, flown to Brazil from Washington, for the entire seven miles of the drive.

At Republic Square the motorcycle escort dropped out and was replaced by a colorfully uniformed honor guard of cavalry.

That unit fell in just behind the President's car. The rain, plus the shower of confetti and paper streamers, made the pavement slippery and the spirited horses had some trouble keeping their feet.

★ ★ ★

The crowd was big again around the Governor's Palace. Eisenhower got another big ovation as he drove into the grounds for an hour's visit with the governor and other Sao Paulo officials.

Newsmen riding directly behind Eisenhower saw no signs of any hostility to the U. S. President. However, a minor ruckus developed in front of the palace.

Brazilian radio and TV men attempted to follow Eisenhower through the iron gates and were halted by police. When the newsmen tried to break away, they were seized and hustled from the entrance.

Utility Workers Threaten Strike

Williams Hopes to Avert Move Voted by Union at Consumers Power

LANSING (UPI) — Gov. G. Mennen Williams today said "everything possible" would be done to avert a strike of Consumers Power Co. workers in the state.

The Utility Workers of America Union has voted to strike the giant utility if necessary to obtain a new contract. A two-year contract is to expire at midnight Monday.

Williams said Allan Chisholm, chairman of the State Labor Mediation Board had reported on the situation to him and that meetings would be held over the weekend between the union and state and federal mediators.

★ ★ ★

Specific issues in the dispute have not been disclosed but apparently include fringe benefits and wages.

The utility operates in 63 of Michigan's 83 counties.

Final State Money Allocated for Tower

In a routine move, the State Aeronautics Commission in Lansing yesterday allocated a final $2,750 for the terminal-tower construction program under way at Pontiac Municipal Airport.

The additional funds put the total share at $91,750, or a fourth of total cost of the 1959 construction program.

The city is paying a quarter and the federal government half.

The Day in Birmingham

Reveal Teacher Salaries in Unfavorable Position

BIRMINGHAM — Two studies of the school district show that Birmingham has slipped into an unfavorable salary position in relation to other school districts in the metropolitan area.

The studies made by Superintendent Dwight B. Ireland and George Miller, head of the Birmingham Education Assn.'s salary committee, state that it is these districts Birmingham must compete with in order to secure new teachers and keep the ones it already has.

"To improve salary schedules and make them more competitive with surrounding areas an affirmative vote on the 4-mill tax proposal March 28 is needed," Bennett W. Root, Board of Education treasurer, said.

Dr. Ireland said that with the additional money from the new millage, an approximate 10 per cent increase could be granted personnel to bring salaries in line with other communities.

★ ★ ★

According to Dr. Ireland's study, Birmingham's starting salary of $4,500 ranks fortieth in the area.

★ ★ ★

Birmingham's top salary of $6,900 was twenty-eighth but it takes teachers 12 years to reach the maximum while instructors in other districts have only to teach 8 to 10 years to obtain the top salary.

Birmingham Cub Scout Pack 19 will hold its annual Blue and Gold Banquet this evening in the Hickory Grove School.

Observing scouting's golden jubilee, tables will be decorated with rainbows arching into pots of "gold." Birthday cakes will be decorated in gold.

Entertainment will feature Eddie Collins playing the banjo.

Cub awards will be presented to the boys.

Special guests will be Nathan Hargett, principal of Hickory Grove School, and Bloomfield Hills Superintendent Eugene L. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson.

The Young Adults Club of Birmingham YMCA has announced plans for a bowling tournament to be held at 8 p.m. March 4 at the "Y" alleys. Phyllis Maas is chairman.

On March 8, members will see "The Music Man" stage play at the Riviera Theater in Detroit. The group will leave in a body from the "Y" building at 7 p.m. Tickets are available now from Conrad Ekkens of the YMCA.

Dancing lessons by professionals will be given at the "Y" March 18 starting at 8 p.m. Marion Cannon is chairman, and Mary Chika is in charge of refreshments.

★ ★ ★

Young Adults Club membership is open to single men and women from 20 to 40 years of age.

NEW YORK — "When a man is really strong," said a man who really is, "he is not afraid to be tender to a woman.

"If, like many men, a man has a kind of a shame or uneasiness about being tender to woman, then he is not manly. Not at all.

He may smash his fists into other people's faces, he may talk tough, he may act the brute —but who does he fool? Little children, perhaps; but not you, madame and not himself.

"He is weak inside, to put up such a front.

"The really strong man does not have to indulge in such nonsense. Confident of his manliness, he is. When a man is confident, he can cry.

He can kiss another man in public if he feels liking for him. He can say the devil with what people think. And of most import—he can be tender with the woman."

★ ★ ★

Jacques Bergerac paused thoughtfully in his Frenchman's eye view of virility to offer us, tenderly, a potato chip. "You do agree, surely?"

The tendency in this corner is to agree, blindly, with anything actor-bon vivant Bergerac dictates. To coin a compliment, he is slender, tender and tall, and, coming from him, even the crunch of a potato chip assumes a kind of continental accent.

"I do not thin American women are accustom to tender treatment in public,' he went on gently, "and I do not understand this. Many times I see an American woman (the once was married to Ginger Rogers, is now wed to Dorothy Malone) and she is looing beautiful, and I say 'you look lovely tonight.'"

★ ★ ★

"And you now what she says? She says 'than you,'" stressing the word heavily as if I had given her a great compliment." Bergerac sighed. "This is not a compliment. It is a passing homage to her good taste in looing beautiful. In France, a woman would not say 'than you' for such a remark — she would accept it, quietly, as if I had said 'it is a fine day.'

"So this makes me think that you American women are not confident of your attractions. I must assume the reason to be because a man doesn't tell you about them often enough."

Sues U.S. Navy for Loss of Mink Scared by Plane

BOSTON (UPI)—The U.S. Navy Department was sued for $294,038 damages Wednesday for the loss of more than 500 valuable mink whose deaths allegedly resulted from low-flying Navy planes.

Atty. Warren R. Bolton of Waltham filed the suit in U.S. District Court in behalf of Charles H. Bryant, owner of the Massachusetts state mink ranch of Hopkinton.

The complaint charged that a flight of three Navy planes made thunderous noise as they "hazardously" passed over the mink pens May 18, 1958. The planes were so low that the lead plane was identified by number.

The action charged that the noise and vibration frightened the female mink, causing them to kill their young. It also charged that the mother mink became vicious and unable to reproduce.

Dear Abby Says: Stop His Traveling!

Her Hnbby Needs an Ultimatum

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been married to Sam for nine years. We have four children, which is the reason why I am still married to him. He started to chase the first year we were married. I told my mother and she said, "Pay no attention to it. Let him get it out of his system."

ABBY

After nine years, he still has as much in his system as ever. Does a man ever get it all out of his system?

TIRED OF WAITING

DEAR TIRED: Tell him in no uncertain terms that you love him, don't want to share him, will not put up with it — THEN see what else he has in his system.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am so mad the tears are blinding me as I write this. My brother Ed is marrying a girl he's gone with for a long time. They asked our older brother Paul to be best man. Paul was injured in the war and is in a wheel chair.

The wedding is a week away. All the tuxedos are rented. Yesterday the bride told Ed that she changed her mind about having Paul for best man and she wants him to ask somebody else. She says she doesn't want Paul coming down the aisle in a wheel chair because she's afraid everybody will be looking at Paul and not at her.

Ed hasn't the heart to tell Paul he can't be best man. The bride won't give in and her parents are backing her up. What should we do about this mess?

SISTER OF ED AND PAUL

DEAR SIS.: This is strictly Ed's business. He alone will have to decide whether he cares enough for this girl to select another best man and break the news to his disabled brother. Perhaps the incident of the best man was the best thing that could have happened to the groom.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my married daughter. She has a nice husband. We also have a 15-year-old daughter who is in the 10th grade. She is a cheer leader and is very popular at school.

Whenever I buy my 15-year-old girl something and the married daughter sees it, she makes some remark like, "You never bought ME clothes like that!" She doesn't realize that times were not so good then. It has gotten so that whenever we know the married daughter is coming over, we hide anything we bought for the 15-year-old. It doesn't do any good though, because she snoops through all the closets and drawers and finds it anyway.

I heard that other mothers have had this trouble. Maybe you can help them and me, too, with a suitable solution.

NAMELESS

DEAR NAMELESS: Stop hiding things! You owe your married daughter no explanations or apologies. Simply tell her that you can afford more now than you could when she was fifteen.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JOHN DOE: A person with an emotional problem has no way of knowing how serious it is until he goes to a psychiatrist. The fact that he has the intelligence to seek help is a credit to him. Too bad so many people prefer to go through life mixed up.

Keep It White

(UPI) — To keep nylon lingerie white, always launder it in detergent plus chlorine bleach beads. Regular use of bleach beads prevents graying. Heavily soiled areas should be pretreated by thoroughly rubbing them with undiluted liquid detergent.

Men Still Have Influence, However

Says Women Now Dress for Each Other

NEW YORK (UPI)—Once women dressed to please men, but today, says one veteran fashion observer, they're caught in the "dilemma" of dressing for other women.

The result, says Seymour Troy: "Women all look alike. There is no individuality to dress."

Troy, a shoe designer-manufacturer of more than 35 years, this week received the industry's first annual "Mercury"—an award from the National Shoe Retailers Assn. for his contributions to the footwear field.

In an interview, Troy explained that in his opinion woman's invasion of the working world has been responsible largely for the changing emphasis on dress.

"Now," he said, "women feel they have to be competitive with other women. But the competition has gone beyond business. It extends to their social behavior."

"Obviously women once dressed for the opposite sex," he said. "Ise why did they endure the whalebone corset? But today, you are caught in the dilemma of trying to impress your own sex." The designer indicated though that we still listen to the men—if they are sufficiently vociferous. Take the fate of the sack silhouette.

BEATEN BY MEN

"That was someone's effort to downgrade the figure of women," said Troy. "It didn't last because it didn't appeal to men."

In turn, he believes the skinny heel which the shoe industry gave us girls about five years ago and the pointed toe which he said is a modern version of a centuries-old shape, will remain on the style scene.

"Because they have sex appeal," he said, "and goodness knows, no matter what they say, women suffer less in today's shoes than they did in yesterday's stays."

But he advocates a shoe "wardrobe"—each pair designed for the day's activities. A pair of walking shoes, for instance, if you're on your feet all day, instead of skinny high heels and pointed toes.

Troy, member of a theatrical tailoring family, was born in Lodz, a textile city in Poland, and migrated to the United States in 1910. He helped finance his way through school by selling shoes. By 1923, he had saved enough money to open his own small factory.

WON BY TRICKERY

"But the shoe industry wasn't yet ready for an American designer," he said. "It still looked to Europe for high style." To overcome this handicap, Troy simply juggled the letters of his name to spell "Tyro."

"Then," he laughingly recalled, "I started selling.

"Later I had one of New York's top retailers tell me if I'd remained Polish and grown a goatee, I'd have been a hit overnight."

Today, the designer's creations carry his own name property spelled, and women ante up $50 to $150 a pair for his custom designs.

Troy contributions through the years, as listed by the shoe retailers group, include the asymmetrical strap silhouette; the open sandal; the rolled top opera pump; the baby doll or short, rounded toe; the Valkyrie, a series of shoes with high-rising instep cover which in the 1930's outdid the classic opera pump in popularity; the platform sole; and use of elasticized leathers and vinyl and lucite in shoes.

Allen Ingle Sues Wife for Divorce

1958 GOP Candidate for State Representative Charges 'Cruelty'

Allen C. Ingle, former Farmington Township justice of the peace, attorney and 1958 Republican candidate for state representative, has sued his wife of 12 years for divorce in Oakland County Circuit Court. He charges extreme cruelty.

Ingle of 29330 Grand River Ave. said in his suit against his wife Elizabeth K. that she falsely accused him of being in love with his secretary.

They were married July 23, 1947 and separated Feb. 8 this year. They have two children, Allen C. Jr., 7, and Jill Ann, 4. He asks the court to award custody of the children to whom "the court feels will be able to provide the best home and care."

Ingle charges his wife in the divorce suit with "nagging, bickering, arguments and false accusations." He said vacations with her "have been a nightmare."

Backs Repeal of Income Tax

State Group Requests Support of Resolution to Scrap Levy

Repeal of the federal income tax, being pushed for in Lansing by Rep. Lloyd L. Anderson (R-Waterford Township) and others, has gained support in the Michigan Committee for Economic Freedom.

Some 40 members asked support for a resolution called on Congress to propose a constitutional amendment for the tax repeal and liquidation of federal properties and facilities competing with private enterprise.

Willis E. Stone of Los Angeles, head of the National Committee for Economic Freedom, told the House committee on rules and resolutions the lost income tax would be made up by forced sale of land and facilities of federal corporate activities.

★ ★ ★

Legislature in Texas and Wyoming have endorsed this proposal. Orville F. Sherwood of Detroit, head of the Michigan group, said the organization hopes to obtain support from 34 legislatures—the required two-thirds—to compel Congress to submit the proposal to the states for ratification.

"We feel, however, that if we can get 20 states to agree, Congress will submit the proposal for ratification voluntarily," Sherwood said.

Cites Laboratory-Factory as Arsenal of Democracy

LOS ANGELES — The laboratory, with the support of the factory, is this country's arsenal of democracy, S. E. Skinner, General Motors executive vice president, declared today.

Speaking at the dedication here of the Advanced Concepts Research and Development Laboratory of GM's AC Spark Plug Division, Skinner said the responsibility of industry in the nation's defense has changed.

"Up to World War II and right on through the Korean War industry's principal role was to produce," he explained. "What the military now needs from industry is assistance in research and engineering development, with production support."

The new Los Angeles laboratory will be primarily a missile and space research facility.

"It will become a most important element of an expanding General Motors team of scientists, engineers and production experts specializing in military technology.

The efforts of this team will be coordinated by our recently formed Defense Systems Division."

This division, along with GM's automotive, body and assembly, and parts division, is under Skinner's general supervision.

★ ★ ★

Composed mainly of scientific and engineering personnel, it engages in research and experimentation aimed toward the design and development of weapons systems and related activities.

Industry's changing role in the defense effort means "in effect, we have a tripartite team working to expand our nation's defense capabilities," said Skinner.

"The military has the continuing responsibility for direction—setting objectives and target dates.

SHARE TASK

"Scientists have the task of expanding fundamental knowledge.

"This task is shared more and more by scientists and engineers in industry."

Market Eneven in Early Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was uneven in moderate early trading today.

Gains and losses of most key stocks were small.

★ ★ ★

Motors were active. Ford dropped about a point. American Motors rebounded more than a point from yesterday's sharp loss. General Motors was firm and Chrysler was off a fraction.

Steels showed very little change. Bethlehem held steady. U.S. Steel took a small loss.

Underwood reported a 1959 net loss about double the loss taken the previous year and was down well over a point.

NAFI Corp., which reported the terms of its acquisition of Chris Craft, fell 1½ to 32 on an opening block of 8,000 shares then pared about a point from the loss.

Lorillard, which reported record sales and earnings for 1959, was up slightly at the start, then erased the gains and showed a small decline. Anaconda reported a big boost in annual earnings, and the stock was up a little. Phelps Dodge also rose fractionally.

Some of the electronics, aircrafts and chemicals also made small gains. Oils and rubbers showed a tendency toward the downside.

Electrical equipments were lower. General Electric and Westinghouse Electric declined slightly.

Analysts saw the market as undergoing another consolidation phase. The news background included reports of declines in construction contracts, the price of steel scrap at Pittsburgh and the price of home heating oil.

The market was mixed at the start with the ticker tape late briefly. The irregular tone continued.

Opening blocks included: Southern Railway preferred, up ¼ at 171½ on 24,400 shares; Studebaker-Packard off ½ at 16 on 15,000; and American Motors up ⅛ at 67⅝ on 5,000.

2 Urge U.S. Boost Defense

Made Secret Survey for Ike; Warn We May Lose Cold War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Multibillion dollar increases in United States defense efforts to meet Communist threats were urged Wednesday by two members of a panel which made a secret defense survey for President Eisenhower.

Robert C. Sprague, industrialist and banker, told a Senate subcommittee studying cold war policy, that in his opinion President Eisenhower has failed to impress the public with the dangers facing the United States.

"One of our basic problems today stems from the failure of most Americans to realize that we have actually been at war with the Communists, in their sense of the word, since 1946," Sprague testified.

"We are fighting World War III right now—and we could lose it without a shot being fired on either side," he said, adding:

"I think that Mr. Khrushchev (Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev) has a very simple view of history. It can be put into three words: power is supreme. He plans to win by being more powerful—militarily, economically, psychologically."

Sprague urged a big stepup in the present 40 billion dollar annual defense outlay and higher taxes to pay for it.

President James P. Baxter of Williams College agreed with Sprague that the Russians are plotting "25 per cent of their income to their military effort in comparison with our allocation of 9 per cent."

★ ★ ★

Baxter said the Soviets might even risk nuclear attacks on Russians, saying:

"We are talking about a nation which killed great numbers of its own people to establish its political system and millions more in order to institute its system of collective agriculture."

Over Telegram on Chessman

Rubottom Taking It on Chin

ROY R. RUBOTTOM

By BEN F. MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Around the State Department Roy R. (Dick) Rubottom Jr. is known as a soft-spoken, hard-working official, and an expert in his field—assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs.

In any poll, it is a safe bet he would be voted the man least likely to get into any rough and tumble situation, be it in international diplomacy or in domestic politics.

Now Rubottom finds himself in an extraordinary and unwanted spotlight because he signed a telegram to the governor of California that helped produce a 60-day reprieve for Caryl Chessman, under death sentence as a sex criminal.

Undoubtedly Rubottom's action was popular in South America, where he is now touring with President Eisenhower, and in other parts of the world where opposition had developed to Chessman's execution.

But the situation is not so good for Rubottom in this country, where the separation of state and federal powers is a lively issue, especially in an election year. His action was devounced in the Senate and elsewhere.

It is not the first time Rubottom has been in the middle of tight situations.

He was secretary of the U.S. delegation to the Inter-American Conference at Bogota in 1948 when Colombia's capital city was the center of some of the worst riots a hemisphere city ever has seen.

In 1958, Rubottom was a member of the official party on Richard M. Nixon's goodwill tour when the vice president and Mrs. Nixon were attacked by mobs in Caracas, Venezuela.

There were suggestions then that perhaps the State Department's appraisal of the situation indicated an overhauling—starting at the top. The talk in Washington was that Rubottom got the strongest possible backing from Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, who regards Rubottom as an able, conscientious official. No changes were made.

Now Rubottom is under attack in Congress for his role in the Chessman case.

DEBATE RISING

There have been increasing contentions in Congress recently that something must be wrong with U.S. policies toward Latin America. Some say this idea in administration circles was a major reason President Eisenhower decided on a personal visit to that region.

Rubottom was born Feb. 13, 1912 in Brownwood, Tex., was a salesman for a time, and became an assistant dean at the University of Texas. He served in the Navy during the war, then went into banking before joining the State Department in 1947.

★ ★ ★

Since then he has risen like a rocket to become top man on Latin American affairs.

He is a gentle, personable, studious man who works such late hours that his pretty wife once walked up to him at a Latin American social function and introduced herself.

John R. Franco in Senate Race

Ex-Dem State Leader to Oppose McNamara; Dislikes Income Tax

WASHINGTON (AP)—John R. Franco, former Democratic state chairman of Michigan, says he will run for the Senate on a platform pledged to work toward abolishing the U. S. income tax.

Franco, a Detroit paper products wholesaler, said yesterday he would oppose Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich) in the state's Aug. 6 Democratic primary election.

★ ★ ★

Franco called a news conference at the National Press Club to announce his candidacy and expand on his views about the income tax which he termed "pickpocket legislation."

He said he was running for the Senate "because you have to fire a big gun" to get rid of income taxes, "and the Senate is the best place to do it."

★ ★ ★

Franco said he regards McNamara as "one of the best senators down here, but he won't push my measure."

Franco suggested that the federal revenue which would be lost if income taxes were abolished could be made up by national sales taxes. "I have the answers, but I think it's an area into which I shouldn't go right now," he added.

★ ★ ★

He also spoke critically of United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther and Michigan's AFL-CIO president, Augustus Scholle.

He said Scholle was responsible for his relinquishing the Democratic chairmanship in 1949.

He did not elaborate on how this came about. "It was too much Gus Scholle," he said.

He said he had never run for an elective office before but that the Democratic governorship nomination "was offered to me on a silver platter in 1948 and I declined it."

Most Fabulous Success Story of Many Decades

C. S. Mott Hoards Pennies, Gives Millions

By A. F. MAHAN

FLINT (AP)—If you've never heard of Charles Stewart Mott you have missed one of the most fabulous financial success stories of your day, dad's day, or even grandad's day.

Charles Stewart Mott is 84 years of age and has more money than you probably ever dreamed of having.

This industrialist-financier-philanthropist is a stockholder in many corporations, a director in several, and his holdings in just one—General Motors—are worth roughly 150 million dollars.

Dividends from his 2,458,000 GM shares alone add up to almost five million dollars a year.

What he's worth, Mott won't say. Under the crest of his family's motto: "Spectamur Agendo." That translates, he says, into: "Known by our deeds." And with his bushy, gray eyebrows dancing merrily, he adds with a chuckle: "Not by our assets."

GM DIRECTOR

He is one of the very few remaining automotive pioneers. He started in bicycle wheels and switched to automobile wheels with the coming of the horseless carriage.

He has been a General Motors director since 1913 and was a GM vice president from 1916 to 1937. And he has experienced adversity, as well as success.

But this still-erect, mustachioed six-footer, whose craggy features remind one of the late English actor C. Aubrey Smith, never met an adversity he didn't overcome.

One of the severest came in 1929. Trusted officers in a bank of which he was chairman of the board speculated in stocks. The depression-starting market crash sent $3,592,000 in bank funds cascading down the drain.

MADE SHORTAGE GOOD

One of his proudest moments came in 1955, when, at the White House, he was presented a certificate naming him "Big Brother of the Year" for 1954 for "your humanitarianism . . . your leadership and labors in the public interest."

A man who once was Mott's office boy—Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield—introduced him to President Eisenhower.

While he has associated with tycoons of industry most of his life, this soft-spoken businessman feels as much at home with men in overalls. And, incidentally, he holds an honorary life membership in Flint Local 1052 of the AFL-CIO Painters' Union.

An awesome tornado hit Flint June 8, 1953. It killed 116 people. The debris cleared, Flint promoted "Operation Tornado." Volunteers marched into the area. In two days they rebuilt more than 50 homes.

BROUGHT HIS HAMMER

It was the middle of a sizzling hot afternoon when someone recognized a carpenter's helper under a beat-up hat as C. S. Mott. He then was 78 and had brought along his hammer and saw. He was sorely embarrassed when reporters and photographers trooped up.

"I can't understand what all the fuss is about," he protested. "I'm doing just what I figured everybody in Flint was doing today. It's what every good neighbor ought to be doing."

In his long life that has included Navy service in the Spanish-American War, Army service in World War I and war board service in World War II, Mott also has dabbled in politics.

Three times, from 1912 to 1918, he was mayor of Flint.

He entered late, but ran third in a field of nine for the Republican nomination for governor of Michigan in 1920. Alexander J. Groesbeck, who went on to win the office, led the GOP field.

Mott learned to play tennis at 50 and gave it up reluctantly at 75 on his doctor's insistence. But he still rides horseback and drives his own car. Naturally, its GM-made.

But surprisingly, it isn't a Cadillac. It's a Buick—or a little Corvair.

He lives in a 42-room house. But Harold Gerace of the Flint Journal recalls that once in an interview, Mott excused himself, walked across a room and turned out an electric light because "it was serving no useful purpose."

"I have Scotch ancestors," he told another interviewer. "I can't stand to see anything wasted."

★ ★ ★

Clothes don't make the man in Mott's estimation. At industrial conferences he'll more than likely be found talking with a man from the shops than someone from the front office, and the chances are they'll be wearing suits in the same price range, $50 to $75. Mott gets most of his off the rack at a department store—one of four which he owns.

What does Charles Stewart Mott do at 84? Count his money?

Not on your life. He's a busy man. He arises at 7:30 p.m., breakfasts at 8, reading the morning newspaper, and listening to newscasts simultaneously. He greets his "home secretary" in the library at 9 and dictates until 10, then he re-packs the brief case he brought home the night before and heads for his downtown office. He leave for home at 4 p.m.

WHAT DOES HE DO?

What's he doing all that time?

He's making more money through investments and giving away big hunks of what he's got, through the Mott Foundation.

Most foundation grants are channeled toward education. Each project must sell itself—and foundation associates say no business investment gets closer scrutiny regarding ultimate value.

So if you're on the prowl for an easy buck, don't put C. S. Mott on your list. His foundation isn't a welfare agency.

Some friends, behind his back, refer to Mott as "the world's most generous penny-pincher." Here is why:

Flint planned a big celebration for his 75th birthday. He wanted to do something in return, so he proposed to give a million dollars for a new Flint Community College building.

When educators got the final plans, the cost added up to approximately half a million more. There was concern that maybe they'd gone too far.

As one recalls, Mott looked over the plans carefully, raised his eyebrows and asked:

★ ★ ★

"You fellows think it's big enough?"

"Yes, we'd be more than happy with that," came the answer in a chorus.

"OK, build it," and with that Mott ended the conversation.

But the day after, the wife of one of those who had been there met Mrs. Mott and remarked: "My, but that was a wonderful thing your husband did yesterday."

"What was that?" Mrs. Mott asked.

After the woman explained, Mrs. Mott chuckled and said:

"Isn't that just like him! He didn't mention a word about it to me. When I came home I had a couple of loaves of bread under my arm and he asked me how much I had paid for them. I'd bought the bread along with some other things and I couldn't say for sure.

"Then he said, 'You mean to tell me you bought two loaves of bread and didn't know how much it cost? That's certainly no way of doing business.'"

Mott was born in Newark, N.J., June 2, 1875, the son of an English father and an Irish mother, whom he has described as descendants of "a long line of sod-busters." He estimates that his father, who later turned from farm to industry, never made more than $4,000 a year.

Mott is the father of six children. The oldest is 57; the youngest 17. He is an Episcopalian, and he is a Mason.

His first wife was Ethel Culbert Fisher, since 1942; and Harlowe H. Curtice, since 1940. Mott became a director in 1913 and at 84 is the board's oldest in service.

His foundation has been a source of wealth for Flint and Genesee County. Mott has given the city a park system, a hospital, a school of nursing, a junior college, a center for the arts, a boys' club, a camp for underprivileged children, a center for the mentally retarded, and a center for the blind.

He was married Oct. 13, 1904, to Ruth Rawlings of El Paso, Tex. They also have three children.

He was married in 1900. She died in 1924. They had three children.

Harding of New York, to whom he was married in 1900. She died in 1924. They had three children.

Thurber Enjoys Show Despite His Blindness

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Speaking of handicapped people managing to stay happy (as nobody was but maybe should have been)—Humorist James Thurber can never see that new show he's written.

WILSON

"Jamie"—as Mrs. Thurber calls him—"hasn't been able to see a thing since about 1957."

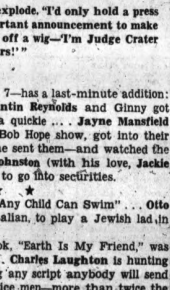

Partly blind before that, he has never seen Tom Ewell, Peggy Cass, Paul Ford or others in the cast. He can only sit there, hear the actors speak lines he's framed in his mind and dictated, and enjoy the laughter around him.

Unique though this must make him among today's playwrights, it hasn't made him melancholy. He's worked furiously, cheerfully. "The Thurber Carnival" opens tomorrow (Friday) but until now there wasn't a "final" script. "Ask him for a new line and he writes a new act," Mrs. T. explained. "Same with his books. I finally have to say, 'It's all done, dear. Let's take it to the publisher.' He likes to keep gnawing at it like a dog."

Jim himself thought touring "The Thurber country" was better than taking a new show around to New Haven, Boston and other Eastern cities. He couldn't think of much of a reason. Maybe just because he liked to go back there.

And he especially got pleasure from meeting the newspapermen, having been a reporter himself and considering he still is.

They wanted him to hold press conferences.

THURBER

"Press conference!" he'd explode. "I'd only hold a press conference if I had some important announcement to make such as saying 'Look'—taking off a wig—'I'm Judge Crater who's been missing for 30 years!'"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Jack Paar's book—due April 7—has a last-minute addition: his now-famous joke . . . Quentin Reynolds and Ginny got quietly unglued via an Alabama quickie . . . Jayne Mansfield and Mickey flew here for the Bob Hope show, got into their negligees, opened the champagne sent them—and watched the Late Late show . . . Johnny Johnston (with his love, Jackie Ungar) said he's quit show biz to go into securities.

Eleanor Holm's authoring "Any Child Can Swim" . . . Otto Preminger signed Sal Mineo, Italian, to play a Jewish lad in "Exodus" . . .

Capt. Peter Townsend's book, "Earth Is My Friend," was blasted by London reviewers . . . Charles Laughton is hunting a B'way show, and "I'm reading any script anybody will send me" . . . A hundred Secret Service men—more than twice the number on his Europe-Asia jaunt—checked through South America before Ike's jaunt . . .

EARL'S PEARLS: A well-adjusted person is one who can play golf and bridge as though they were games.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: These days you go to a friend's house to watch TV—and pay a baby sitter to watch it in your house.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Voters have one consolation. Most of the terrible things one candidate predicts will happen if the other's elected, won't . . . That's earl, brother.

Must Stay Out of Death Debate

Dept. of Justice Has No Basis for Interfering in Punishment Laws

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department has informed Congress that it has "no basis" for supporting legislation to abolish the death penalty in federal criminal cases.

The department's position was made public in a letter from Deputy Attorney General Lawrence E. Walsh to Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-NY) of the House Judiciary Committee.

The Federal Prisons Bureau reported that 49 executions were carried out by civil authorities in this country last year. This was one more than the low reached in 1958.

All of those executed were men. Forty-one were convicted of murder and eight were sentenced to death for rape. The executions took place in 16 of the 41 states which have the death penalty.

★ ★ ★

Florida had the most executions—10. Arkansas and California had six each and Georgia had four.

In addition, the report said, 167 prisoners were awaiting execution at the end of 1959. These included 25 in California, 12 in Arkansas, 10 each in New York and South Carolina, eight in Georgia, and seven each in Colorado, New Jersey and Ohio.

★ ★ ★

Walsh's letter was in response to a congressional request for Justice Department views on a bill by Rep. Abraham Multer (D-NY) to substitute life imprisonment for the death penalty in federal cases.

Walsh noted that "capital punishment has been a controversial subject for many years" and said the question is "obviously a matter of legislative policy to which Congress may wish to give further study."

But, he said, "from the information at hand the department has no basis for urging a change in the law."
