

Coup Splits U. S., Argentina

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States formally suspended diplomatic relations with Argentina today and voiced public regrets over the military coup that ousted President Arturo Illia.

Press officer Marshall Wright made the announcement at the State Department, amid evidence of deep concern by U.S. officials over the upheaval in Buenos Aires.

The text of his statement: "The United States regrets the break in continuity of democratic constitution government in Argentina. We are following developments there carefully.

"Diplomatic relations are suspended in keeping with the international practice in such cases and officials of the U.S. Embassy in Buenos Aires will have no formal contact with the new Argentine government until further notice.

"Consultations will be undertaken with other members of the Organization of American States in accordance with the provisions of Article 25 of the 1965 Rio conference."

Under the 1965 Rio conference proviso, the nations of this hemisphere agreed to consult before deciding on their respective recognition policies in the event of a coup in one of the American countries.

U.S. officials obviously disappointed at the turn of events in Argentina, apparently had worked most of the night at the State Department as the crisis developed.

STATEMENT
The U.S. Embassy in Argentina, on instructions of the State Department, issued a statement only a few days ago emphasizing that the Washington government supports constitutional processes.

Observers said there have been obvious efforts by both the United States and the OAS to help stabilize the position of the shaky Illia government.

On his recent trip to Mexico City, President Johnson gave strong support to a recent proposal by Illia that the chief executives of the hemisphere nations hold a summit meeting to speed the economic and social development program under the Alliance for Progress.

Nixon Sounds a Warning on Long Viet War

by 1968, Says Ex-VP in Speech at Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today the United States will be in a dangerous position if the Vietnamese war is not concluded by 1968.

Nixon told a news conference prior to his speech at the national convention of the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce that "We cannot tolerate a long ground war."

"We must press for a conclusion before 1968 when the Chinese will have something they do not have now, that is, nuclear capability and the machinery to deliver it."

Nixon expressed support of President Johnson's over-all aims in Viet Nam and was critical of Democratic congressmen who have differed with the President.

"As far as foreign policy is concerned, I think our main problem is not Viet Nam but rather the growing isolationism of the United States as we lose friends overseas," Nixon said.

Nixon said "We must guard against any future unilateral actions such as Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic."

CITES TRADE
Nixon said things stand now, some of our friends in Europe not only are not helping us in Viet Nam but they are even trading with the enemy."

Nixon had kind words for President Johnson, whom he described as the "hardest working president of this century," and for Vice President Hubert Humphrey, who speaks to the Jaycees tomorrow.

"I have noted Humphrey has been criticized by some members of his own party because of his support of the President in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic," Nixon said.

"I think history will be kinder to Humphrey than his contemporaries are."

HOME FRONT
On the domestic front, Nixon said the administration's major failing has been inability to control inflation.

Hearings on Dodd Recessed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Ethics Committee has recessed after hearing Sen. Thomas J. Dodd testify he went to West Germany in 1964 on official Senate business — not in behalf of a lobbyist friend.

The committee's hearings into charges against Dodd of misconduct in office are expected to resume after July 15.

The white-haired Connecticut Democrat told the committee yesterday he made the 1964 trip "for the sole purpose of looking into the Stashinsky case"—the case of a Soviet agent imprisoned in West Germany for the killings of two Ukrainians.

But Dodd also said he was "perfectly willing" to help his friend Julius Klein just as he would anyone else he felt had been treated unfairly.

Klein, a Chicago public relations man, is a registered agent for West German firms.

CLIMAXES SESSIONS
Dodd's testimony climaxed four days of public hearings about his relations with Klein, the first phase of the committee's investigation of misconduct charges against him by columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson.

No date was set for a resumption of the hearings, when Klein is to testify. But chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said it would not be before July 15, about the time Klein is expected to return from a trip to West Germany.

Walkout Halts Area Projects

County Drain Work
Stopped by Laborers

A new walkout which hit the construction industry in southeastern Michigan yesterday halted work on two major Oakland County drain projects in the Pontiac area.

Also affected was work on the Waterford Township water system.

Two laborers' local unions representing about 1,200 workers went on strike against the Associated Underground Contractors, Inc., halting work on projects throughout Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

Workmen quit Oakland's foremost drain project — the $1.75-million Pontiac-Clinton No. 2 Project.

One-third completed, the project consists of a new channel for the Clinton River from Union Street to Opdyke Road in the city.

RELIEF DRAIN
Work also was stopped on the Devonshire Relief Drain Project on Square Lake Road, just west of Woodward in Bloomfield Township.

The $154,000 undertaking is near completion, according to county drain officials.

In Waterford Township, 18 employees of Sinacola Contracting Co., Inc., of Livonia, walked off the job where they have been engaged in a cleanup operation for the township's new water system.

In addition, Oakland County Department of Public Works officials believe other scattered water and sewer projects may be affected by the strike.

Gilbert Rice, executive secretary of the contractors' association, said all open-cut work involving sewers, drains, gas and water lines and rerouting of utility lines and pipes in the path (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Ex-UF President Honored

Glenn H. Griffin who recently completed his term of office as president of the Pontiac Area United Fund Board of Trustees was honored yesterday by members of the board.

Bruce J. Annett, elected in May to succeed Griffin, presented Griffin with an engraved silver pitcher as a personal gift from board members.

Annett stated that "Griffin has served in a period of transition and growth. His leadership and wisdom have been instrumental in the Pontiac Area United Fund becoming a major fund among United Funds through the United States and Canada."

"An areawide survey of health, welfare and youth serving agencies, revision of the budgeting procedure and formulation of the UF planning committee was accomplished during his presidency," Annett said.

"The increasing role of the United Fund in the community has necessitated countless hours of time and innumerable meetings along with his very active civic leadership role in other endeavors."

Total Raised 16 Per Cent Over Last Year

Record Figure Said
'a Real Challenge
to Civic Pride, Spirit'

A goal of $1,042,000 for the 1966 Pontiac Area United Fund (PAUF) was set yesterday by the UF Board of Trustees.

"The goal is 16 per cent or $167,000 higher than last year," said Don O. Tatroe, 1966 campaign general manager.

"It is the largest goal in the fund's history and represents a real challenge to the civic spirit and responsibility of each individual."

"Last year," said Tatroe, "United Fund, through its agencies, served 30,000 families; more than three out of five persons in the Pontiac area."

"After careful evaluation," added Donald J. Frey, executive director of PAUF, "the PAUF Budget Steering committee recognized that to keep our agencies operating at full capacities throughout the coming year, this goal must be met."

Housing Provision Kept in Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee narrowly rejected today an attempt to strike an open housing provision from the administration's civil rights bill.

By a reported vote of 17 to 15 in a closed session, the committee kept intact, at least temporarily, the controversial proposal to ban racial discrimination in the sale and rental of housing.

It also defeated several amendments that would have exempted owner-occupied housing from the proposed law, but scheduled another session to deal with more such amendments.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Commerce Committee refused today to accept a Senate-passed auto safety bill as a substitute for a measure of its own. Instead, the committee voted to continue drafting a separate bill.

Ramirez had been in Viet Nam since June 3.

The sergeant, a career soldier, was a paratrooper attached to the 7th Cavalry.

He enlisted in the service when he was 18 years old. His 10 years in service included tours of duty in Korea and Germany.

Ramirez attended Pontiac Central High School and worked at General Motors Corp. before signing up.

His wife, Lydia, has been living with her father at 75 Bloomfield, Bloomfield Township.

Commission to Get Termination Report

A report on the termination of service by North Central Airlines (NCA) at Pontiac Municipal Airport will be received by the city commission at its meeting tonight.

City administrators have been informed that the U.S. District Court of Appeals in Cincinnati has upheld the airline's plan to discontinue operations at the city facility.

Legal action was started by the city in order to retain the service.

State Attorney General Frank Kelley had intervened on behalf of the city last January, asking the court to act in the interests of the Michigan Aeronautics Commission in fighting CAB's approval of the move.

The court decision gives NCA the green light to pull its passenger and air mail service out of both Pontiac and Reed City.

'DEFINITE NEED'

Acting Airport Manager J. David Vanderveen said the airport management felt "a definite need" exists for regularly scheduled service to the Pontiac area.

"If North Central can't do the job, we're certainly going to try and find someone who will," Vanderveen said.

Pontiac Postmaster William W. Donaldson said the loss of North Central's air mail service (averaging about 1,600 pounds a month) would have "slight effect" on deliveries in the Pontiac area.

"We'll simply track that part of the mail directly to Metropolitan Airport," Donaldson said.

"The great majority of our air delivery is already handled by that route."

Boys' Wavy Locks Must Be Covered Up

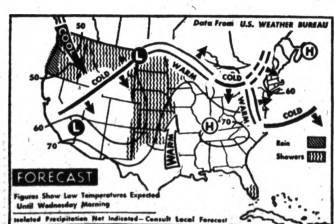

BATAVIA, N.Y. (AP) — A rule that girls must wear bathing caps in the municipal pool has been extended to boys with long hair.

Officials said they decided to expand the rule after noticing an increasing number of boys were allowing their hair to grow long. They said accumulation of hair in the water clogs the pool filtering system.

Hunt 'Sex Deviate' After Child Found

A husky 220-pound man described as a "sexual deviate" became the object of a police search throughout western Oakland County this afternoon after a 6-year-old Wikom girl told police she had been molested in a six-hour automobile ride yesterday.

Car Rams Bus; No One Injured

Twenty Port Huron youngsters on a school bus and three Pontiac area men in an automobile escaped serious injury yesterday when the two vehicles collided at an Addison Township intersection.

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Roy Lewis said the automobile, driven by 24-year-old Lloyd G. Messer of 37 1/2 Burdick, Oxford, failed to observe a stop sign on Shoup before colliding with the bus, north-bound on Curtis.

Two passengers in Messer's car, as well as Patty Everett, 15, of Port Huron were treated at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital for injuries and released.

The bus, driven by Laureld R. Leonard, 50, of Port Huron, was en route to a Salvation Army summer camp on Army Road at the north end of Lakeville Lake.

The suspect, described as white, 36, about 5-foot-4, with brown hair and blue eyes, allegedly picked up Patricia Lakner of 4700 W. Little near her home and took her for what she said was a "long . . . silent ride."

She was found in Novi late yesterday by a woman who saw the girl wandering along a rural road. The woman called the girl's father from a nearby store.

The girl had first been reported missing around noon yesterday.

Discovery of her abandoned bicycle near railroad tracks behind her home had spurred the police search some three hours later.

SUDDEN STOP

She told Wikom police the man drove around for most of the afternoon before suddenly stopping the car and ordering her to "get out, now."

Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson said the victim's testimony indicated she had been molested.

Bronson said authorities were attempting to piece together an artist's rendering of the suspect as part of an "intensive search."

According to preliminary information given law enforcement officers, the suspect had been staying at the Proud Lake Recreation Area in western Commerce Township.

Zolton Tells Willingness to Debate

LANSING (AP)—Zolton Ferency, the Democratic candidate for governor, has said he is willing to debate Gov. George Romney anywhere, any time.

Ferency said he would be happy to debate the Republican challenger before the fall convention of the Michigan AFL-CIO. August Scholle, state AFL-CIO president, invited the two to debate during the union convention at Detroit in September.

A Romney aide had said it was too early to determine if the governor would accept the invitation.

Ferency said he thought such a debate "would be an excellent way to point up the important issues and to explore the many vital problems that will have to be tackled during the next four years by the next governor of Michigan."

ADDITIONAL DEBATES

However, said Ferency, "since my candidacy has already been endorsed by the Michigan AFL-CIO, I would be in favor of scheduling additional debates before convenes more friendly" to George Romney, such as the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, the Automotive Manufacturers' Association and the Michigan Manufacturers' Association."

Romney was away from Lansing and not immediately available for comment on the Ferency proposals.

freeway projects were affected.

Negotiations broke off Thursday between the underground contractors and Local 1191 and Local 1076 of the International Laborers Union of North America. The main block reportedly was over wages.

The old contract expired June 1 but had been extended on a day-to-day basis.

A strike by laborers involved in underground construction earlier this year delayed work on about $100 million in construction projects for 42 days.

U.S. Battalion Boards Ships

Follows OAS Motion Ordering Withdrawal

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — A battalion of U.S. paratroopers begins boarding ships at daybreak today to start the withdrawal of the 8,000-man Inter-American Peace Force from the Dominican Republic.

The artillery battalion from the 82nd Airborne Division—about 1,100 men—is expected to take two days to embark. The Organization of American States voted last week to withdraw the entire six-nation contingent with 90 days.

The force was created by the OAS to help restore stability and constitutional government in the wake of a Dominican civil war that began in April 1965. The vote for withdrawal followed the election of Joaquin Balaguer as president in the June 1 general election. Balaguer is to be inaugurated Friday.

The United States has 6,000 men in the force. The rest are from Paraguay, Nicaragua, Honduras, Costa Rica and Brazil.

LANDING SITE

The evacuation was to begin from Red Beach, a palm fringed cove about 10 miles west of Santo Domingo where 400 U.S. Marines made the first U.S. landing after the outbreak of the fighting April 28, 1965.

President Johnson ordered the Marines in to protect American lives and property. He later charged Communists had taken over the revolt and ordered the Marines reinforced "to help prevent another Communist state in this hemisphere."

U.S. troop strength reached its peak May 15, 1965, when 22,000 men were stationed on Dominican soil and another 8,000 in Navy craft offshore.

The force later was put under the OAS flag, and U.S. strength was reduced gradually as contingents from other countries arrived. The force kept the two warring factions in check while OAS mediators helped negotiate the installation of a provisional government.

Savings Firms Get Okay to Pay 5 Pct.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Home Loan Bank Board today authorized savings and loan associations throughout the country to pay up to 5 per cent interest on some types of time deposits.

The action followed by one day a move by the Federal Reserve Board to ease the hot interest rate war between commercial banks and savings and loan associations by placing moderate restrictions on certificates of deposit issued by banks.

But Chairman John E. Home of the Home Loan Bank Board said this "minimal action" by the Federal Reserve was a determining factor in his agency's move.

Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., of the House Banking Committee and officials of the U.S. Savings and Loan League also had criticized the Reserve Board action as inadequate.

Horne said his board acted following a two-day meeting with the presidents of the 12 Home Loan banks.

6-MONTH CERTIFICATES

Beginning July 1, the board said, savings and loan associations will be permitted to issue six-month savings certificates in minimum denomination of $1,000 at an annual dividend of 5 per cent without any loss in their right to borrow from the Home Loan bank system.

The House Banking Committee was busy on another front today. It approved President Johnson's plan for massive housing and renewal programs in about 60 cities.

This group sent to the House a far-ranging housing bill that includes authorization, without dollar limit, for appropriations in future years to carry out the demonstration cities program.

New Soviet Demands Said Hampering N-Ban Talks

GENEVA (AP) — The United States accused the Soviet Union today of deliberately placing new obstacles in the way of an agreement to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

Chief U.S. delegate William C. Foster told the 17-nation disarmament conference that, last September, the Soviets claimed the proposed North Atlantic Treaty Organization's multilateral nuclear force was the only obstacle to agreement.

But now the Soviet draft of a nonproliferation treaty is so broadly worded, he said, that it has added two additional obstacles in the forms of demands which are "clearly unreasonable."

Foster said the Soviets now want to ban even consultation between the NATO allies in preparation for their defense against possible nuclear attack.

The Soviet draft treaty also indicates that they seek a ban on the deployment of U.S. nuclear weapons.

New Griffin Bill Break for Teachers

Teachers and college professors who broaden their education by investing in additional academic training would be eligible for more liberal tax deductions under a bill introduced by U.S. Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich.

Griffin said his bill would encourage and assist full-time and part-time teachers attending classes "on their own initiative."

It would permit tax deductions for expenses of tuition and fees, travel away from home and up to $100 a year for books and related materials, he said.

Under current Internal Revenue Service rulings, a teacher who attends summer school or college on a part-time basis can deduct such expenses only if the training is specifically required in order to keep his job.

GOP Hawks 'Toning Down'

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Republican leaders appear to be backing away from their previous hard line of advocating a step-up in the war in Viet Nam.

Their latest approach of accusing President Johnson of not telling the American public the whole truth about what is happening in Southeast Asia could reflect the mixed opinion campaign of both parties have found among the voters.

Several senators who have been out on the hustings recently have come back with the general opinion that their people are greatly disturbed about the war, but don't want it broadened and don't want the United States to get out.

Their findings do not seem to support the view attributed to Johnson that the hawks — those who want the war accelerated — are growing in number.

New Firemen's Contract OK'd by Commission

BIRMINGHAM — City Commissioners last night approved a labor contract which will add nearly $40,000 to the fire department's budget for 1966-67.

The contract, calling for wage and benefit increases of more than $100 per man, was ratified by the Birmingham Fire Fighters Association June 16.

To cover the cost of the contract, city commissioners transferred $39,545 from the capital improvement reserve into the fire department's direct labor account and uniform allowance.

Representing some 40 hours of collective bargaining, the contract raises the maximum salary for fire fighters from $6,917 to $7,704 after three years. The minimum pay in this category was boosted from $5,943 to $6,430.

Top salary for lieutenants will be $7,246 to $8,490 and for captains from $7,679 to $8,844.

Ex-Leader of UF Is Honored

1957, Griffin, of 106 Ogdenway, was elected to the presidency in 1963 and reelected in '64 and '65.

He will remain active on the present board.

Griffin was elected to the board in 1967 after serving as a member and president of the former Community Church of Pontiac.

He was appointed to the building committee in 1958; executive board, 1963; survey committee, 1965-66; and served as ex-officio member of the planning committee.

An active campaigner, he was general chairman of the 1962 United Fund drive, advance gifts captain in 1959 and 1963 and a United Fund solicitor since 1949.

"BOSS OF YEAR" — Other civic achievements include past president of the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce, outstanding Jaycee "Boss of the Year" in 1956, past president of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, past chairman of trustees of First Congregational Church and Pontiac chairman of the University of Michigan Phoenix Project in 1951.

He served five years as president of the Board of Education during his 14-year membership on the board.

He is currently vice president of the Pontiac Symphony Association and member of St. Joseph's Hospital Lay Advisory board.

His prior board affiliations include YMCA, Salvation Army, Boys' Club and American Red Cross.

His professional affiliations include past president Michigan Funeral Directors Association. He recently completed his term of office as president of National Funeral Directors Association and is a past president of the Mortuary Science Foundation.

Griffin was born in Lake Orion in 1913 and came to Pontiac in 1919.

He is a graduate of Pontiac Central High School, attended the University of Michigan and graduated from Washburn's College of Embalming, Chicago, in 1936.

In 1940, he went into business as a partner in the Sparks-Griffin Funeral Home and became its owner in 1952.

Griffin is married to the former Doris Blynn and the father of four children.

Ironically, it is the MEA's rival teacher organizing group, the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, which is the bargaining agent for the Ecorse teachers.

The Ecorse School Board has refused to negotiate contract terms with the teachers while they are still on strike, leading to an impasse.

Nor did the committee go along with the recent advocacy by Gov. George Romney of Michigan for bombing of oil depots in the Halphong area. Romney perhaps would become a contender for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination if he wins reelection in Michigan.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, who generally has supported Johnson's Viet Nam course, announced the coordinating committee finding that "it is time that the President and the administration tell the American people the whole truth" about Viet Nam.

Dirksen said he had heard some things during a recent White House briefing of leaders of both parties that he thought could be told to the public. But he wouldn't tell what they were because he said he couldn't violate a pledge of secrecy.

On the military front, waves of American bombers again pounded North Viet Nam's fuel depots and for the first time in a month struck the important Yen Bai rail yards, the U.S. military command announced today.

The ruling generals appeared unworried by Tri Quang's stubborn persistence. Having overcome the last pockets of militant Buddhist resistance in Saigon and the northern provinces, they were confident the monk's defiant gesture would not rekindle the dying embers of Buddhist rebellion.

The order to end the fast came from the patriarch of the Unified Buddhist Church, Thich Tinh Khiet, 80, a scholar, widely figure whose seat is in the northern Buddhist center of Hue.

Friday Is Zero Hour for Medicare

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's hospitals are as ready as they can be for the start of the Medicare program on Friday, officials say.

Federal, state and local officials concerned with Medicare held news conferences throughout the nation Monday to discuss the state of readiness of the program to provide hospital care under Social Security for those 65 and older.

For the most part, they predicted a smooth start for Medicare. But a few said they expected hospital facilities to be severely taxed by an influx of aged persons who have put off needed care.

Others admitted they weren't quite sure what to expect on Friday and declined to speculate whether there would be a rush to the hospitals by the elderly.

SEEN EQUIPPED

"Hospitals will be able to handle the situation in cooperation with patients," said Donald Dunn, executive director of the Minnesota Hospital Association.

Although many of the nation's physicians, through the American Medical Association and other doctors' groups, vigorously opposed enactment of Medicare, officials said Monday they expected the doctors to cooperate. Physicians were counted on to help forestall any rush, because patients need their doctors' approval for hospital admission.

If trouble comes, the consensus was, it will come in those areas already short of medical facilities.

"Medicare will highlight shortages," said W. D. Zerby, a regional director of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the federal agency handling Medicare. But Zerby, speaking in Trenton, N.J., said the shortages were there before Medicare and "only time and money" will alleviate them.

SOME PROBLEMS?

"If there is a rush, we could have some problems," said Hamilton Reid, administrator of Baptist Hospital in Kansas City. Dr. Caesar Fortin, president of the Illinois Medical Society, said, "We do not have enough doctors, nurses or beds. The hospitals in Chicago are full."

By and large, however, the officials said they expected the shortages to be local and temporary.

Millions of elderly persons also are covered by private health plans, some of which pay the initial $40 in hospital bills not covered by Medicare. Medicare recipients also are required to pay costs over $10 a day after a 60-day period in any one illness. Benefits expire after 90 days in a single illness.

NEBRASKA VIEW

Outside of Chicago and Kansas City, the most widely held view was the one expressed by Stuart Mount of the Nebraska Hospital Association, who said, "We don't expect anything the hospitals can't handle."

In Los Angeles, while warning that the impact of Medicare is difficult to predict, officials saw no stampede to hospitals in the nation's most populous state, despite a possible 8-12 per cent rise in hospital occupancy.

A complicating factor in some

Southern states was a provision of the Medicare legislation barring participation by hospitals which practice racial discrimination in admissions.

This was the reason many Southern hospitals still lacked certification, officials said, but they reported at least half the hospital beds in Southern states were included in the program, with more approvals expected.

Typical was the situation in South Carolina, where W. N. Nixon, Columbia district manager of Social Security Administration, said every resident of the state was within 50 miles of a hospital certified to accept Medicare patients, although only about half the state's hospitals had been approved.

Incorporation Election for Rochester Sept. 20

ROCHESTER — Village residents will decide Sept. 20 whether they want Rochester to become an incorporated city or remain a village.

The council last night set that date for the special referendum election on incorporation of the area within the village limits as a home rule city to be known as Rochester.

Voters also will select nine persons to serve as a charter commission if incorporation is approved. The Commission would be charged with the responsibility of drawing up a charter for the new city.

Councilmen unanimously approved the vote after Village attorney Arthur Cox advised them to table the motion if they thought there was any possibility they might rescind their action at a later date.

The possibility was raised when a member of the audience noted that Avon Township officials said last week that the council could rescind its action after setting a date. A study committee in the township has recommended that the village and the township be incorporated as one city.

ASSUME POWER

If incorporation of the village is approved, the new city would take over several functions now handled by the township including property tax assessing, collecting taxes for the school and county and conducting national, state and county elections.

It would also take over Avon Cemetery and Woodward Memorial Library.

This is the third move for incorporation. The first plan, passed in 1955, included portions of Avon Township within one-quarter to one-half mile outside the village limits.

The second proposal, turned down in 1963, extended the area further east to Dequindre and left the southern and western borders to coincide with village limits.

LATEST ATTEMPT

The latest attempt to incorporate only the 1.6 square miles within the village limits was recommended by a seven-man Citizen City Study Committee. Petitions signed by 143 residents requested the vote.

Candidates for the charter commission have until 4 p.m. Aug. 8 to file nominating petitions with the village clerk. Petitions are now available in the clerk's office.

In other action last night, the council approved the appointment of George Wilhelm as the new urban renewal director.

Wilhelm, 39, has been assistant urban renewal director for the city of Pontiac since 1964. He was with the Pontiac Urban Renewal Department for a year prior to that.

3-YEAR DUTY

A graduate civil engineer from the University of Detroit,

he was with the Wayne County Road Commission for nine years.

Wilhelm, his wife and two children live at 2664 Pennsylvania, Pontiac.

In other council action, July 25 was set as the date for a public hearing on the rezoning of land on the north side of University from Madison to the village limits from multiple dwellings to office use.

A second request to rezone land on Wilcox from single family to multiple dwelling was referred to the planning commission.

CREST CONTEST

Ansal, Avon Township and O. L. Hooper, 8135 Tippecanoe, Holly.

A composite will be made of their designs to serve as the official seal. Mrs. Bishop and Hooper will each receive a $25 savings bond.

The council discussed the possibility of adopting a bad check ordinance to help protect merchants.

The matter will be brought up again at a later meeting.

NEW CAMP FACILITY—The new Joseph A. Beattie Activity Center at the Franklin Settlement Camp in Lake Orion was dedicated Saturday. Named for the retired director of Franklin Settlement, the building will house food service facilities for the summer camp. It also contains a residence for the camp director.

Salary Study Is Authorized

FARMINGTON — The board of education authorized a group of 31 administrators and supervisors seeking to form a bargaining unit to proceed with its salary study.

Any salary improvements that might be agreed to by the board will be retroactive from July 1, said Schools Supt. Gerald V. Harrison.

Administrators now receive salaries based on those of teachers, corresponding to their degrees and years of experience.

The administrators believe their salaries should not be dependent upon teacher salaries, according to spokesman James Geiger, Farmington High School principal. They believe that administrators should be recognized as a separate bargaining unit, he said.

The bargaining unit, excluding the school superintendent, is being formed under the same act which gave teachers the right to negotiate.

The new building at the 100-acre camp on Long Lake is named for the retired director of the camp.

Designed by O'Dell, Hewlett and Luckenbach, Inc., of Birmingham, the center will house food service facilities for the summer camp.

It also will be available to other community organizations during the winter months.

Sewerage Pact OK'd by Board

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — The Township Board agreed last night to participate in the proposed Clinton-Oakland Sewerage Disposal System.

Through the board's action, the township became the fourth of the six involved in the system to approve the agreement with the Oakland County Department of Public Works.

The plan has also been approved by the townships of Orion, West Bloomfield and Waterford.

Independence Township is awaiting the results of a financial study by Stratton Associates, Inc. The study is being made to determine if the township can afford to participate.

Avon Township officials want to reduce their share of the cost of the sewer before entering into the agreement.

Waterford Township is to pay about 40 per cent of the $28,827,500 cost of the sewer, Avon Township's share is about 26 per cent and Pontiac and Independence townships will each pay about 10 per cent.

West Bloomfield's share will be 6.1 per cent, Orion Township, 4.7 per cent and Orchard Lake 1.4 per cent.

The system is to connect to the Dequindre interceptor which the city of Detroit will extend from 14 Mile to 23½ Mile.

White Lake Justice of Peace Resigns

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Joseph F. Hines, justice of the peace since 1958, has resigned.

Hines, 65, of 725 Lake View was appointed to his position following the death of another justice. He is planning to retire to Margate, Fla.

A Union Lake realtor, Hines organized the first justice of the peace court in the township. He also organized the township fire department in 1948 and was the first fire chief of the volunteer fire department.

The Soft Whiskey proving ground.

In this day and age of proving products scientifically, we have an unscientific suggestion. Taste ours.

One sip and you'll know why we couldn't possibly call it anything but Soft Whiskey.

You see, Soft Whiskey is soft. It goes down just like the name says.

After that, it acts like any other 86 proof whiskey. It's just that getting there is a whole lot easier.

But how to prove that to you?

That was the problem.

After all, Soft Whiskey looks like any other whiskey. And it acts like any other whiskey. So what's left is what we're selling, the way Soft Whiskey goes down.

At which point someone said: "Why not just ask people to try it?"

Our first reaction was that that was a bad idea. It wasn't scientific.

Our second reaction was that that was a good idea.

Wilson, Commonwealth Chiefs to Confer

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson has called a Commonwealth prime ministers' conference for Sept. 6-15 to discuss tightening the economic sanctions against the rebel white minority regime in Rhodesia, officials reported Monday night.

The conference originally had been scheduled for July but Wilson postponed it hoping to reach a settlement with Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith.

In five weeks of talks Rhodesian officials have failed to bow to British demands that the country's 4 million black Africans be given an increasing voice in the government and that Rhodesia repeal its racial segregation laws. There are 250,000 whites in Rhodesia.

Despite the lack of progress, the British Cabinet decided Monday to continue the talks.

Poor George --- 'She' Died

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Now that George, the gorilla at Pittsburgh's Highland Park Zoo, is dead, zoo officials have discovered why he wasn't enthusiastic about the male they obtained for him.

George was a girl.

That fact was discovered by an autopsy yesterday, which showed George's death Sunday was caused by colitis and peritonitis.

George gained fame when Pittsburgh residents recently donated $5,000 worth of trading stamps to buy him a male.

Zoo officials weren't too concerned when George showed little interest in Ginger, his trading stamp bride.

Gorillas don't usually mate until they're at least 10, and George was only four. Ginger is a youthful three.

GUATEMALA (AP)—Guatemalan rebels have kidnapped another wealthy man to bolster their treasury. They want $100,000 in ransom.

Friends of Roberto Serrano Alacran, 44, said the lawyer has been missing since Friday night and his family had received a ransom note signed "armed rebel forces." It said Serrano was well.

Antigovernment leftist guerrillas kidnapped several wealthy men last year, and one estimate said they raised $4 million.

HONG KONG (AP)—The Chinese Communists reopened the border at Lowu today and train service between Hong Kong and the Communist city of Canton returned to normal.

The Communists closed the border Thursday after rainstorms damaged the railroad on the Communist side of the frontier.

ON THE BEAM—Workmen hoist a steel beam to the fourth floor of the Capital in Lansing yesterday where they are adding more offices for state government's expanding needs. It was at the work site that a welder's torch set fire to a tarpaulin around the remodeling project last Thursday, disrupting a Senate session. Quick-thinking senators put the fire out.

Nedzi Among Them

Congressmen Air Draft Views

WASHINGTON (AP)—Several congressional members are scheduled to give their views on the draft today as the House Armed Services Committee opens its second week of hearings into the Selective Service system.

Many of those who will testify already have called for some revision in the draft law.

Some have suggested exploring the possibility of universal service for youths, with alternatives to military duty in such programs as the Peace Corps and domestic social service.

Previous statements by some committee members indicate the major controversy centers around the method of calling men, who is among those who on and deferment policies of the bill will testify, has advocated a national draft advisory commission to study the whole problem.

Two committee members, Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., and Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski, R-Wis., have called for national uniform standards on which to base deferments.

They also suggest putting 1-A classified men into a national pool from which monthly draft quotas would be filled rather than from individual board reservoirs.

They claim this would avoid a practice of some boards dipping into other categories after exhausting their first priority while other boards have a surplus of top-rated men.

Rep. William E. Minshall, R-Iowa, who is among those who will testify, has advocated a national draft advisory commission to study the whole problem.

Auto Sales Pace Set by Pontiac

Although industrywide auto sales for 1966 are below those of a year ago, they promise to add up to the fifth eye-popping year in succession. In making year-to-year comparisons of the car industry, there can be confusion between totals for "calendar" as against "model" years. For example, a current model year can be running ahead of a year earlier while trailing in the current calendar year.

Pontiac Motor Division has released glowing figures on its 1966 model year that began last October 1. As of May 31, the Division reports sales of 581,337 units — exceeding those of any other comparable period in its history and 11.1 per cent above a year ago.

Pacing the model year sales performance is the Division's share of the total automobile market. Its current penetration stands at 9.64 per cent compared with 9.30 per cent a year ago.

Moreover, for the first four months of 1966, Pontiac has widened the sales gap between its entrenched third place in the industry and the fourth-place make, increasing its 33.1 per cent lead in 1965 to the current 39.2 per cent.

Such uninterrupted progress is indeed noteworthy. The Press congratulates the Division's executive and sales leadership and the cooperative spirit of the plant personnel responsible for it.

Power of Cuba's Bearded Ruler Seen Shaved

Political leaders make news when in the glare of the global spotlight — and, paradoxically, when it shifts and leaves them in darkness.

Currently, FIDEL CASTRO, the Cuban conundrum, is newsworthy because a baffling blackout has enveloped his once flamboyant and glaring image.

Observers read this as a portent that Castro's days as the Cuba Strongman are numbered, and point out that he has not been in evidence in governmental circles since May 1. Indeed, one embassy in Havana reports flatly that he has been removed from office, and a Western Hemisphere government has found it was dealing not with CASTRO but with Cuba President OSVALDO DORTICOS.

There are two theories regarding Castro's oblivion: That he may have suffered a mental breakdown or, the more likely one, that Russia has dumped him.

It is well known that the Kremlin has been uneasy about the bearded brigand for a long time. It has poured more than $1.2 billion of economic support — plus massive military aid — into Cuba, and has nothing to show for it.

Castro has failed to stop the downhill slide of the Cuban economy and his assigned task of spreading communism through Latin America has been an utter flop.

Dissatisfaction among the Cuban populace has been intense. Nearly 4,000 Cubans have been leaving the island monthly, and it is estimated a million more want out.

It is a fair assumption, however, that the Russians want to keep Cuba Communist. It would be as humiliating for them to pull out of their Caribbean foothold as for the U. S. to pull out of Viet Nam.

But substituting another puppet for CASTRO will not solve the Soviet's problems, so far as the United States is concerned. Washington has made clear that it will never accept a Communist Cuba nor do business with it — which is something the Russians would now like in order to help get the island's economy back on the track.

Tourists in Germany to Live Like Kings

When is a motel a motel? When it's a castle in Germany that accepts overnight guests, of course.

At least two 17th-century moated mansions are being restored and refurbished by the Federal Republic to accommodate tourists. The water-filled ditches surrounding the castles, originally designed to discourage unwanted visitors, now serve as unique tourist attractions.

And no doubt the drawbridges will draw a lot of interest too.

Chaos, Confusion Rife in World

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — The war in Viet Nam is like a blind puppy, it scampers, skips, but its head, barks in pain. With this year almost half over, the end is still no more in sight than at the start of 1966.

There was chaos in Viet Nam, criticism at home, confusion elsewhere among Communists and non-Communists in the first half of 1966. In Indonesia the Reds suffered disaster without any war at all.

Near the end of 1965 the United States stepped bombing North Viet Nam while President Johnson sent his emissaries scouting around overseas, talking peace, seeking signs of it. There were none. Hanoi stood firm.

So did Johnson. The bombing was resumed. The ground fighting continued. More deaths on both sides, more U.S. troops in Viet Nam. At home the critics learned up on Johnson, in and out of Congress.

Johnson ordered a restrained war, wary of the critics, concerned about the dangers, perhaps with Red China, if he stepped it up too much. And as the routine war continued chaos engulfed South Viet Nam.

Public opinion polls showed dwindling confidence in Johnson's handling of the fighting. In America youths paraded, performed and protested against the war. This was a mixed picture, too.

While some of the protesters must be credited with earnest convictions thoughtfully arrived at, for others the motivations probably ranged from a simple desire to assert themselves to discontent with things in general.

But they made noise. So did the Buddhists in Viet Nam. Right in the midst of the murky war they grieved through the streets of Da Nang, Hue and Saigon, demanding civilian government.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and his government of generals agreed to oblige, set in motion the machinery for civilian government. Rendered ridiculous by success, the Buddhists then demanded a quick exit by the generals.

Looking back on it, their whole performance looked irresponsible for they never made clear how they would run a government or even that they could. But they performed.

WRECKING JOB

In Europe, French President Charles de Gaulle, with reports indicating he never even discussed the momentous step with his cabinet, decided to do a wrecking job on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Tensions, however, were off the United States only because tensions between the Soviet Union and Red China increased. While they fussed and fumbled, communism encountered a disaster where unexpected and without battle.

The pro-Red Indonesian government of President Sukarno was taken over by the military. Indonesian Communists by the thousands were reported slaughtered, and the country now will probably turn pro-West.

Permanent Monument?

David Lawrence Says:

Rights Leaders' Split Significant

WASHINGTON — Dissension among civil rights leaders has been revealed.

This takes on significance because within the groups there has been for some time different schools of thought — those who believe progress for Negroes in America will LAWRENCE be made by more and more demonstrations, and those who feel that public opinion will be won untriedly if there is incitement to violence and recurring riots in American cities.

The general impression conveyed heretofore has been that only the South is at fault and that ill-treatment of the Negro is sectional.

Disturbances in Northern cities, however, have increased in intensity. It is evident that many Negroes in the North are as poorly informed about the inevitable currents of public opinion as are the Klansmen in the South.

Difficulties are being created that are hurting the efforts of thoughtful and sensible Negroes who have been striving hard to overcome by proper methods the handicaps suffered in the past.

Riots are not confined to any one part of the country. They have happened not only in Los Angeles, but in New York and Chicago and other parts of the country.

CREATE IMPRESSION
Unquestionably reports of violence and disturbances create an impression on citizens generally. Many are beginning to wonder whether the Negro leaders may not have overreached themselves by preaching, in effect, that almost any kind of action is justified to redress wrongs of the past.

More and more the feeling is growing that a mob spirit is arising in this country and that physical violence may erupt at almost any place where there are racial differences of any kind.

Instead of waiting for laws to be enforced or action to be taken by the courts, the tendency now is to engage in mob demonstrations which frighten the peaceful citizenry in many a community.

It is evident here that members of Congress are watching carefully to see what's happening back home. The undercurrents of dissatisfaction and discontent are rising. Many people will not disclose to other persons their gripes or their grievances but will make their protests known at the polls. They will watch, for instance, to see how Congress handles the "fair housing" legislation.

Bob Considine Says:

Probe Critic, JFK Friend Find a Common Ground

NEW YORK — Introduced Edward J. Epstein, author of "Inquest" to Daniel Patrick Moynihan.

Epstein had a momentary reservation. He is the somewhat startled young intellectual whose scholarly master's thesis at Cornell, on the Warren Commission's handling of the inquiry into the Kennedy assassination, has become a controversial best seller.

Moynihan, friend of JFK, edited former Justice Goldberg's book. It is a compilation of Goldberg's no-nonsense speeches and decisions delivered as secretary of labor, member of the Supreme Court and voice of our conscience in U. N.

"I don't think Justice Goldberg would want to meet me," young Epstein said unhappily, as we stood in the sophisticated Babel of the reception at the Rizzoli International Bookstore, a regal addition to the Fifth Avenue scene.

"He's such a good friend of Chief Justice Warren . . . and I don't think he would want to meet me," young Epstein said unhappily, as we stood in the sophisticated Babel of the reception at the Rizzoli International Bookstore, a regal addition to the Fifth Avenue scene.

Moynihan reached a great hamlike hand out to Epstein.

"Your book is just great!" he enthused. You could see Epstein grow two inches. "Just great!" We've got to take to the truth of the assassination, not the gossip, the mud-slinging, but the truth. If we don't, we'll have legends develop that will be with us forever.

"I just finished reading a book which says that Lincoln's assassination was ordered by the Jesuits!"

"I read that, too," Epstein said gratefully. The two were now oblivious to the crowded room.

Epstein, now doing post-graduate work at Harvard, will take a special course under Moynihan, thanks to this chance meeting.

Bobby's Pals Wary of Liberals

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A Democratic party professional very much interested in the future political welfare of the two Kennedy's is troubled over the rising support New York Sen. Robert F. Kennedy seems to be drawing from liberal intellectuals.

Sitting in his office on a quiet weekend afternoon, this politician said he views such support as mercurial — and hence not to be trusted.

During most of his tenure as U. S. attorney general and throughout his 1964 campaign for the Senate, Bob Kennedy was seen by much of the intellectual community as a mortal adversary.

Now, for a variety of reasons, he is pleasing these people. But wary political pragmatists believe that just one major departure from the liberal enthusiasm on Viet Nam or any other subject will expose the senator to the charge that "the old Kennedy is back."

If it were not for the public attention the articulate intellectuals constantly command, many party professionals would be inclined to dismiss their political grations as merely comical.

At this moment, some liberals are busy writing that Kennedy in earlier years was "misunderstood." One even

Hold Elderly Blameless in Holiday Road Deaths

There has been a lot of comment about depriving elderly citizens of their right to drive, but statistics are not compatible with this idea.

An analysis of Memorial Day weekend fatalities shows that most of the 35 drivers killed were under 25 years of age; over 6.1 of them had several moving violations, and at least 10 and perhaps 27 of them had been drinking. No mechanical defect appeared to be the cause of any of these accidents.

Perhaps a new approach to traffic fatalities should be considered and young drivers taught that speed is the greatest waste of time there is.

'Our Enemy Benefits From Foreign Aid'

Channeling U.S. aid through foreign agencies, especially in time of war, is dangerous. Secretary of State Rusk holds that "foreign aid is basic to our security." But because U.S. aid comes to our security if foreign agencies share our wealth and the enemy benefits from it? American taxpayers face a momentous decision. Shall bureaucrats, foreign and domestic, be permitted to make global socialist redistribution of our taxpayers' wealth; or, shall American and foreign mutual interests be served by the genius of free enterprise?

CITIZENS FOREIGN AID COMMITTEE
WASHINGTON, D. C.

'Vote Should Decide U.N. Participation'

If the Prohibition Act required ratification by all the states to decide if the people were going to have beer and whisky, it would seem that when the laws of American youth are at stake, the people would demand a vote by all of the people to determine their participation in the United Nations!

A. M. D.

Says Anti-Strike Law Should Be Revised

It appears to me that J. Brown and others are making too much over teachers striking. If they are breaking a law, it is antiquated and should be revised to accommodate today's living standard. These teachers are not Communists nor hoodlums. Dedication is a fine and noble virtue for teachers. However, as a mother of four children and a teacher's wife, I fail to perceive how this virtue alone can support a family.

In all fairness, fringe benefits and salary raises should be given without question. My children's teachers and my husband deserve it!

A. J. KAGE

(Editor's Note: Apparently, a word is necessary to set A. J. Kage straight. J. Brown's letter said specifically "ladies and gentlemen—as well as hoodlums and Communists." That clearly meant that we don't just obey the laws we like personally. What a mess would result. We obey them all—and change them when the majority so wills.)

Question and Answer

How does one go about receiving an answer from appropriate officials of the Department of State concerning the United Nations?

WILLIAM REID

REPLY

Why not send us your question and let us see what luck we have?

dent Johnson's positions, tends rather consistently to land considerably to his left.

Actually, for the critical Democratic politician there is almost nowhere else to land. Outside the Old South and here and there in the West, Democrats anxious to stand distinct from the middle road preempted by the President have no choice but the left.

The liberals who are presently gobbling up Kennedy's views seem oblivious of this.

His utterances on the Viet Nam war are mostly pleas for flexibility of approach, not calls for a "cut-and-run" policy. His domestic appeals for more money and attention to antipollution and other social programs are largely a thing of emphasis.

So he is not for a powerful champion, a man of real weight and influence, that many liberal intellectuals are implying views and attitudes to Kennedy — especially on the war — which he does not have.

When this is driven home to them, as it may well be one of these days, the senator's new-found activist friends may desert him as if he were a carrier of cholera. Even now, large numbers of intellectuals remain unswayed on him. Old enemies are strong.

But, whether Robert Kennedy is deliberately seeking the people or not, the fact is he has some of them today. That is what worries the friendly party professional, who sees their vote help very small but their hostile noise very big.

N.Y. Race in Spotlight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Due to intervention by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy that has put his prestige on the line, a contest for a New York Democratic primary. New York judgeship has developed as the race of top interest in voting today in the state's primary.

This also would have been primary election day in Manhattan if runoff elections were necessary. But the lack of close challenges eliminated any need for runoffs.

Along with hundreds of lesser offices, nominations for 41 House seats in the new Congress to be elected next fall are at stake in the New York primary.

But statewide offices are not involved. Nominations for these, including governor, will be made by party conventions in September.

BOBBY VS. TAMMANY

It is Kennedy vs. Tammany Hall in the struggle over the judgeship, he contest is for the Democratic nominations to one of the two judgeships on the Manhattan Surrogate Court.

J. Raymond Jones, Negro head of Tammany, the regular Democratic organization, endorsed Supreme Court Justice Arthur G. Klein for the post. Klein also has the endorsement of the Republican organization.

Kennedy is backing Supreme Court Justice Samuel J. Silverman who also has support from Reform Democrats and the Liberal Party.

Some observers view Ken-

尼迪's clash with Tammany as above it, and winning the surrogate's post would not be a step down for a Supreme Court justice.

The Surrogate Court handles estates, and in Manhattan may deal with a billion dollars of assets in a year. It is known as a patronage-rich post because of fees it can deal out to attorneys called on the help with the court's work.

Negroes Have Good Chances for South Carolina Nominations

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Negro candidates in two rural counties have a good chance to win nomination to the South Carolina Legislature in today's runoff Democratic primary.

A heavy vote was expected in adjoining Williamsburg and Clarendon counties where the four Negro candidates oppose white candidates. The number of registered voters in the two counties is about evenly divided between whites and Negroes.

The Negro races overhauled statewide balloting for comptroller general and superintendent of education. Light voting was predicted for the two statewide races.

Nominations for four State Senate seats and 13 House places were to be decided in today's runoff. The first Democratic primary was held June 14. Voting hours generally are 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. EST.

If the four Negro candidates win the Democratic nominations all again will face white opposition in the Nov. 8 general election.

A Negro last served in the South Carolina Legislature in 1901. He was Rep. John W. Bolts of Georgetown County, a Republican, who was elected in 1888.

Seeking Williamsburg County's three legislative seats are Virgil Dimery, a Kingsree undertaker running for the Senate, and House candidates Purvis Easley and J. E. Lawrence. Their white opponents are LaNue Floyd, for the Senate, and Ernest W. Carter and incumbent Rep. Henry Stuckey.

On Living Costs

Union Hears Cavanagh

Political Roundup
By the Associated Press
Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, seeking the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate, says "cost-of-living" raises should be included in unemployment compensation, in welfare payments and in Social Security payments.

The mayor also said that "the same escalation clauses should be included in minimum wage laws to protect those whose income depends on federally and state guaranteed minimums."

This program was laid down by Cavanagh in a speech Monday before a state convention of the Hotel, Motel and Restaurant Employees Union in Detroit.

The union presented Cavanagh with a resolution commending him for refusing to cross a union picket line at a Traverse City motel last February.

Saying that the pinch caused by rising prices has been felt hardest by those on fixed incomes and that wider use of cost-of-living raises should be made to meet the problem, the mayor added:

"As prices rise, as they have since the stepped-up war in Viet Nam, the poor, the retired and those on fixed incomes are all hurt."

Cavanagh, who declined debate with his opponent in winning reelection as mayor last fall, renewed criticism of his Democratic senatorial opponent, former Gov. G. Mennen Williams, for in Cavanagh's words, "avoiding a debate on the issues in the election."

He cited a 1961 quotation from Williams, declaring that "the hammer of debate is necessary to produce decisions on the anvil of democracy."

NO DEBATE
The six-time governor has ignored other Cavanagh debate proposals.

In Grand Rapids today, Williams said in a speech prepared for a labor leader's breakfast that he favors the Johnson Administration's bill to set minimum standards for state unemployment payments and to extend the length of time an unemployed worker is covered.

Williams criticized in his prepared text what he termed "the watered-down substitute bill passed by the House last week."

He said it omitted minimum standards and limited extended federal unemployment compensation to 13 weeks and this only in times of recession.

Chou's Romania Junket Was Fruitless

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

For Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, the long trip to Bucharest had been a waste of time.

The Romanians had refused to budge from their position of neutrality between the Soviet Union and Red China and further more had denied him any opportunity to denounce the Soviet Union from Romanian soil, presumably the main purpose of his trip.

There were other reasons for Chou's dissatisfaction.

Informed Bucharest sources said that among them were Romania's support of the nuclear test ban and its increasingly close trade ties with the West, including the United States.

These sources said China opposed any easing of tensions in Europe which might enable Russia or the United States to shift forces to the Far East.

ASSUMES INTEREST

The mention of Russia in this context assumes special interest in the light of other recent developments in Sino-Soviet relations in Asia.

Among them has been the increasingly vituperative nature of Red Chinese protests against the "unjust treaties" imposed on a weak imperial China by the powers of Europe during the opium wars of 1841-42 and 1857-58.

On May 28, 1958, China ceded to Russia a part of the Amur River district linking Siberia with Vladivostok.

Altogether, these "unjust treaties" cost pre-revolutionary China nearly one million square miles of territory.

In April of this year, the Super Washer

Cleans, Irons
in 45 Seconds

By Science Service

LONDON — A super washing machine that can launder a bath towel, pillowcase, or bed sheet in 45 seconds is to be shown at an exhibition here next month and will then go into public service at Watford.

Siled and crumpled linen put in at one end comes out washed, dried and ironed in hardly more time than it takes the operator to walk to the other end to receive it.

Yet so carefully does the machine treat the things put into it that they survive many more washes than usual.

Unfortunately, it is not for household use. To start with, it is almost as big as a railroad locomotive and costs about $85,000.

It has been developed for commercial laundry work and represents the biggest break from traditional laundering methods for nearly a hundred years.

Chinese suddenly imposed sweeping new controls on Amur River traffic to "safeguard" national sovereignty.

Red Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi followed this with an interview granted to Scandinavian journalists in which he recalled past aggression against China by Czarist Russia and accused the Soviets of going beyond the treaties to what they call "a line formed by history."

Soviet maps show the Amur and its tributary, the Argun, to be the firm border line between Red China and Siberia.

Chinese maps show the border to be undefined.

LEADERS RESTATE CLAIMS

Out of this in late May and early June came trips by two of Russia's top leaders to the Soviet Far East to restate their claims.

Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorniy warned in the industrial city of Khabarovsk on the Amur that the Soviets would protect their Far Eastern territories against any invader. Party leader Leonid Brezhnev delivered a similar warning in Vladivostok.

As relations between Red China and the Soviets have worsened, border incidents have increased and there have been reports of an extensive buildup of Soviet forces in the Far East.

Incidents have been frequent also along the Soviet Union's tense frontier with Red China's Sinkiang Province.

Approximately one-third of the Red Chinese army has been reported deployed along the Soviet frontier.

Government Saved by Troops

SANTO DOMINGO, Domini- its own peace-keeping force to make policy really effective. Without the 8,000-man six-na- tion Inter-American Peace Force, the Dominican provision- al government would not have survived.

The opposite corner, 150 yards away, was dark. This meant the military chiefs were out.

By itself this circumstance wasn't altogether uncommon. But for days the atmosphere had been alive with rumors and signs of a budding military coup against the provisional government, and for that reason the palace situation appeared alarmingly significant.

The date was Oct. 25, 1965. It was to mark the climax of another of many crises that nearly destroyed the provisional regime, the vehicle through which the Organization of American States restored constitutional government to this revolt-shattered country.

OAS SUCCESS

The elections last June 1 and next Friday's inauguration of Dr. Jaquin Balaguer as president crown the 15-month Dominican pacification effort by the OAS and the equally important task of the nine-month-old provisional government.

The achievement demonstrated that, at least in a situation like the Dominican Republic's, collective hemispheric political action must be supplemented by its own peace-keeping force to make policy really effective.

Equally essential to its survival were the determination and personal courage of the provisional president, Hector Garcia-Godoy, a mild-mannered lawyer-diplomat who took a job no Dominican wanted.

This became evident most dramatically on that October night.

In the palace, the bald, mustached president sat with a few members of his cabinet—awaiting remained behind and had just what. When the president sought to leave the building, a member of the palace guard turned him back with a friendly warning: "Mr. President, please do not leave. There are superior orders to shoot you."

Garcia-Godoy did not question the source of the "superior" order. The military bosses were angry at the executive. They wanted authority to launch a cleanup of civilian snipers attacking army regulars in the downtown area, once the stronghold of a rebel movement.

The president has refused. Weeks of negotiating had reunited the divided capital through the removal of physical barriers and the evacuation of rebel troops from downtown. Die-hards who opposed the negotia-tion remained behind and had been attacking an army bat-talion.

The president would not allow a massive military movement into the heart of Santo Domingo. He feared a renewal of the vicious fighting.

Knowing they'd have to confront the hemisphere force—pledged to support the government — if they moved against the president, the military lead-ers waited. Nothing happened. After a few days the peace force entered the downtown area and restored calm. Another crisis was over.

This and other accomplish-ments have given Garcia-Godoy and his collaborators — mostly nonpolitical professionals — con-siderable stature among Do-minicans. Many believe the job has earned Garcia-Godoy con-sideration as a presidential can-didate in 1970.

Mercury Has Magnetic Field

By Science Service

MINNEAPOLIS — The planet Mercury has a magnetic field but it is only about one-sixtieth as strong as that of earth.

Statistical evidence for the existence of a magnetic field on the tiny planet closest to the sun was reported to the American Physical Society meeting here.

Dr. Robert C. Good Jr. of General Electric Co.'s Space Sciences Laboratory in Valley Forge, Pa., has calculated that Mercury has a magnetic field of eight-thousandths of a gauss. The earth's magnetic field is about half a gauss, which is a unit for measuring magnetism.

Chou to Stop in Pakistan

'Correct' Reception Awaits China Leader

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — Pakistan's government planned a correct — but not too correct — welcome today for Communist China's No. 1 traveling salesman, Premier Chou En-lai.

The Chinese leader is stopping for three days of talks with President Ayub Khan while en route home following visits to Romania and Albania. It appeared Chou would get nothing of substance to add to Peking's propaganda war against the United States and the Soviet Union.

There have been indications in recent months Ayub may be having second thoughts about his foreign policy swing away from the Western camp toward cooperation with China.

This was reflected in an almost complete lack of preparations for Chou's visit.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Though the visit had been rumored for weeks, the government did not announce it until Monday night. This left protocol officials little time to drum up the usual welcoming crowds. The usual small flags and banners proclaiming Pakistani-Chinese solidarity were missing from the streets this morning. Chinese diplomats were reported to have expressed uneasiness over the lack of preparations.

MAKING GAINS

The Chinese, for example, requested a change in the official program that would have whisked Chou off to Murree, a hill resort 30 miles outside Rawalpindi, soon after his arrival. Pakistan counts China among its diplomatic supporters, especially in its feud with neighboring India, and has received valuable military assistance from Peking. So the government does not want to offend Chou with too cool a reception.

But neither can Pakistan afford to offend the United States, which, despite a strain in relations, still is the only nation able to give Pakistan the large-scale economic aid it needs.

De Gaulle and Kosygin End Visit to Kiev

KIEV, U.S.S.R. (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle of France and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin ended today a 19-hour visit to this ancient capital of Russia. They left for the city where the battle of Stalingrad turned the tide of World War II on the Russian front.

A special plane took them to Volgograd, as the city has been renamed from Stalingrad.

After less than 24 hours there, de Gaulle will go back to Moscow for the final part of his Soviet visit.

De Gaulle met in Kiev with Ukrainian regional leaders and told them his talks in the Soviet Union have been "necessary and agreeable."

As the end of his 11-day state visit neared, informed sources reported Monday night that de Gaulle and his Soviet hosts so far have been unable to agree on a joint statement on Germany.

A communique to be issued when de Gaulle leaves Friday will contain expressions of friendship between the two nations, indicate a very broad agreement on space research cooperation and possibly including the launching of a French satellite by a Soviet rocket and may open the way for a consular agreement, the sources said. But the section on European security has not yet been agreed upon as drafters searched for a wording on Germany acceptable to both sides, they added.

TO BE OMITTED?

There was a possibility the communique would omit any direct mention of Germany, they said.

In Kiev, de Gaulle called on Dmytro Korotchenko, president of the Ukrainian Republic, and told him his meetings in the Soviet Union have been "necessary and agreeable."

Later, de Gaulle and Premier

Alexei N. Kosygin placed wreaths at a monument to World War II dead. De Gaulle's son, French Navy Cmdr. Philippe de Gaulle, and other aides carried the French wreath. Soviet officials gathered at Communist party.

Will Do Little to Help

Antismog Device Law Labeled a Hoax

DETROIT (AP) — The trade publication Automotive News Monday described as "a monstrous hoax" a new federal law requiring that antismog devices be installed on all cars starting in 1968.

Joseph M. Callahan, the paper's engineering editor, claimed the exhaust emission control devices will "do little to help" air pollution problems.

He estimated the devices will average about $45 a car.

"Assuming that as many cars are sold in 1968 as were sold in 1965, the total basic cost of these exhaust control devices would be $417 million each year," he wrote.

'RIDICULOUS'

Callahan wrote: "The American people will find these devices will be victimized in a multi-billion dollar smog hoax—a hoax that will be perpetrated on every future car buyer beginning with 1968 models, under a new U.S. law.

"This hoax is so monstrous that it is so ridiculous that most intelligent people will just not believe that it will happen.

"But it will happen because of the Clean Air Bill of 1965, passed largely through the efforts of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, with the vigorous backing of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare."

Callahan, generally recognized as one of the auto industry's top technical writers, said:

"The auto makers despise their protests, are now being compelled to spend millions to tool up and prepare to install these exhaust controls on the 1968 and all future cars."

SERIOUS PROBLEM

Callahan conceded that California, which put into effect last year a law requiring installation of antismog devices on all new cars, has a serious smog problem.

He said that Senate hearings had not produced any evidence that the smog problem was a national one. He questioned the wisdom of installing the control devices on cars in areas which had no smog problem.

Callahan wrote, "Health Department officials recently called a secret meeting of several auto executives in Washington to discuss ways of selling their antismog campaign to the great majority of Americans who have never seen smog."

Callahan said the auto industry has sought ways of reducing the amount of unburned hydrocarbons which pour out of auto exhaust systems.

MAKING GAINS

"The big gains in the reduction of noxious emissions from car engines are being made by redesigning combustion chambers. But other gains are coming from changes in timing, improved carburetors, changes in valve and changes in the bore-stroke relationships," he said.

Callahan questioned whether addition of hang-on devices, as now contemplated for 1968 models, would solve California's auto smog problem.

He said his paper was "not dominated by the auto industry in this or any other area."

Birth Control Report to Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today received the long awaited report of his birth control study commission. Vatican sources said he probably would study it all summer and issue a major encyclical in the fall announcing whether the Roman Catholic Church ban on artificial methods of contraception is to be modified.

The length of the report confirmed earlier reports that instead of giving the Pope specific recommendations, the commission gave him a summary of the various points of view.

The 73-man group — 55 religious and lay specialists working under 16 cardinals and bishops with the help of two canon law experts — ended Sunday two years of research and debate.

The decision on any modifications in the Church teaching on contraception is left to the Pope.

Rusk Affirms Pledge to Defend Thais

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk warned the Communists today that United States is as firmly committed to the defense of Thailand as it is to that of South Viet Nam.

Rusk was the first speaker on the second day of the foreign ministers' conference of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

He spoke against a background of increased Communist guerrilla activities in northeast Thailand, which furnishes bases for U.S. planes bombing North Viet Nam and Communist-controlled areas of Laos. Red China has warned the Thais they are risking a Viet Cong-type insurgency by giving the Americans bases.

Most of Rusk's speech dealt with Viet Nam. U.S. sources said he told the closed meeting Hanoi had shown no interest in a peaceful settlement and was continuing its effort to seize South Viet Nam by force.

A SEATO spokesman said the secretary of state reminded the British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart told the ministers

Britain would honor its regional commitments but found it difficult to accept new ones, sources reported. He said Britain would carefully reconsider the deployment of British forces after Indonesia's confrontation against Malaysia ends.

Yank Visits Abroad at a Record Level

WASHINGTON (AP)—Foreigners are flocking to the United States in record numbers this year but it won't be enough to reverse or even improve the travel gap in the U.S. dollar drain.

The reason is all too simple: Americans are traveling abroad in record numbers and continuing to spend more money in other lands than foreigners spend here.

The U.S. Travel Service, a branch of the Commerce Department, said today that 379,386 foreigners—not including Canadians and Mexicans—came to the United States during the first five months of this year for business or pleasure trips.

This represented a 14.3 per cent increase over foreign visitors for the same period of 1965, an increase which Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor has called a tremendous upsurge.

EVEN HIGHER?
The department reported Monday that Americans traveling overseas totaled 2.62 million last year—18 per cent above 1964—and officials expect the total to rise even higher this year.

During the first three months of this year, the State Department issued or renewed 364,701 passports for travel abroad, 14.3 per cent above the same three-month period of 1965. And American tourists to Mexico and Canada, two favorite vacation spots, need no passports.

The travel service's only responsibility is to promote foreign travel to the United States—not to encourage Americans to travel in their own country. Officials say it's impossible to tell how large the travel deficit would be without the agency's efforts.

One official noted that since the service was established in 1961, the number of overseas visitors to the United States has doubled.

Stubborn Husband Sits in Jail

STATESVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Coyt Benfield is a stubborn man who sits calmly in Irredell County Jail chewing gum. The 36-year-old Mooresville man was jailed Feb. 11, 1965, on a contempt of court citation charging failure to provide $26 weekly support for two children in the custody of his divorced wife.

For the last 16 months Benfield has refused to pay and remained in jail. His lawyers argue he is not the father of the youngest child.

"I will not support the one that's not mine," Benfield says. Judge F. M. Armstrong disagrees.

"You can't deny paternity ordinarily if you are married to the mother," the judge said. "If he'd comply with the terms of the court we'd free him."

Benfield is not allowed to post bond since there is no criminal charge involved. So he just sits in jail.

"I'll stay in jail the rest of my life rather than pay for a child that is not mine," Benfield says.

House Unit Is Sharply Divided on Controversial Antibias Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Judiciary Committee appears sharply divided today as it takes up President Johnson's controversial proposal to ban discrimination in the sale or rental of residential housing.

The committee has almost completed work on the rest of the 1968 Civil Rights Act including a prohibition of bias in jury selection, protection for civil rights workers, and increased power for the attorney general to move against segregation in education and public facilities.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said he hopes a consensus can be achieved today. But indications are that a good deal of bargaining remains and the matter may be put over until after the House's 10-day July 4th recess which starts Thursday.

Celler publicly favors the President's proposals. But observers say the housing provision probably will get no more than half a dozen votes from the 35-member committee.

STRONG SENTIMENT
With strong sentiment evident against any housing provision, at least two committee members are seeking to save the provision even if it has to be watered down substantially.

Rep. James C. Corman, D-Calif., has drawn up an amendment to exempt sales by owners of their own houses and rental housing with four units or less where one unit is inhabited by the owner.

The exemption would cover only persons engaging in less than three transactions per year, thus bringing under the bill sales by developers of large residential subdivisions.

Corman's proposal would, however, contain strict language against discrimination or encouragement of bias by realtors, thus leaving to the owner the initiative in restricting potential buyers of his home.

The committee completed work Monday on the rest of the bill by voting 18 to 16 to restrict protection for persons involved in activities while engaging in voter registration, desegregation or other civil rights activities.

Civil rights leaders said the amendment, sponsored by Rep. George W. Grider, D-Tenn., would have the effect of permitting violence aimed at civil rights workers if a judge decides their activities were not lawful.

National consumption of cigarettes in 1965 reached a record of 532 billion, or 4 per cent more than the year before.

AVOID THIS—Will you return from vacation to be greeted by a scene like this? Thieves and vandals prey on unoccupied houses during summer months, according to police. Law enforcers warn residents that some simple precautions taken prior to going on vacation, can often avoid this sort of unhappy homecoming.

They'll Help Themselves

Your Empty House May Have Visitors

Your house burglarized? Maybe—if you don't try to prevent it. More than 280 houses in Pontiac were targets for burglars or vandals last year, many during the summer months when their occupants were on vacation.

Pontiac Police are urging home owners to utilize burglar preventive procedures before leaving for that long awaited vacation this summer.

"You can't 'burglar proof' a house," said Pontiac Police Chief William K. Hanger, "but you can make it so risky to enter that most thieves won't want to try."

"A house must look lived in," explained Hanger. "Most burglars case a neighborhood for days picking out unoccupied houses."

"They rarely enter occupied homes because the danger of being caught is so great."

Police recommend the following:

- Cancel all daily deliveries of milk, papers, and mail until you return.
- Have lawn cut regularly.
- Leave shades and blinds partly open.
- Have a neighbor stop by to switch lights and radio on and off. (Or installing an electric timer.)

"Even though a house looks lived in," Chief Hanger adds, "it must also be securely locked."

"Fifty per cent of home burglaries begin at an unlocked door."

Police suggest:

- Lock all doors and screens.
- Use pin tumbler locks on outside doors.
- Use double cylinder locks with inside keys for glass-paneled doors.
- Use special window locks to prevent openings over four inches.
- Lock garage doors.
- Remove all hidden keys.

Besides offering suggestions, police offer security checks. Some owners may call the police station before leaving town and tell the clerk their name, address, and length of absence.

A police patrol will check the home periodically.

Keeping a record of every item in your house is also recommended.

Police suggest you list all articles with serial numbers, put valuables and money in a safety deposit box, and use private identification marks on all other items.

If you should come home to a burglarized house, don't touch anything. Let the police see it first.

The Waterford Township Board last night awarded contracts for installation of an air-conditioning system in the main library on Tubbs Road and for workmen's compensation insurance for all township employees.

The air-conditioning unit will be installed by the Chandler Heating Co. of Waterford Township which submitted the low bid of $2,780, outbidding one other firm.

Estimated cost for the project was $3,000, according to township officials. The project is expected to get under way immediately.

Sentry Insurance of Detroit, part of the Hardware Mutuals

Organization, was awarded the contract for workmen's compensation insurance.

Estimated net premium was set at $7,905, almost $800 less than offered by the other bidding company. There are presently about 90 township employees.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, the board discussed at length a residents' complaint regarding a 20-foot-wide strip of property lying between Josephine Avenue and Carpenter Court.

Residents, whose property borders the strip of land, contend that a township supervisor in 1927 dedicated the private alley to property owners.

They seek title to what they claim is their share of the "alley" and want the township to petition the court for a rehearing to avoid paying "high" court costs.

REPORTED OWNER

Most of the so-called alley reportedly is owned by Manley Young, 196 Cherokee.

"We have access now," said spokesman Lawrence Milliken of 36 Carpenter, "but next week if he backfills it and builds a fence, what do we do then?"

Milliken claims that all interested property owners weren't notified prior to the court hearing, which he contends is required by law.

However, Township Attorney Paul Mandel said he knows of no such requirement for cases of this nature.

STREETS NEXT

Milliken said that if they can take our alleys, they can take our streets.

The board took no action on the complaint.

Also last night, the board adopted an amendment to a township ordinance, establishing increases in electrical permit fees.

Rates, in general, will be increased by 30 cents to $1 for the various types of inspections. The minimum fee for a single family home will be raised from $4 to $5.

BOARD POLICY

Action was tabled pending a report by Mandel on acceptance of policies and procedures of the Waterford Community School and Recreation Advisory Board.

The board approved a lot split request of Dean Greenhoe, 7097 Banks, and granted a soft drink permit to Harry Clotte, 4311 Wendale.

July 4 fireworks applications were approved for Lakewood Drive Association, Oakland Beach Civic Association and Lake Oakland Beach.

Sentencing in 2 Deaths Is Delayed

The sentencing of a young Milliford woman for the traffic deaths of two teen-age sisters in January was delayed yesterday for six months.

In postponing the matter until Dec. 19, Circuit Judge William J. Beer warned Mrs. Kenneth Ostin, 335 N. Main, that he could recall her for sentencing anytime before then if her conduct did not meet with his approval.

Mrs. Ostin, 22, pleaded guilty June 13 to negligent homicide in connection with the deaths of Mary Ann Wilson, 14, and her sister, Lynette, 12, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Wilson, 250 Wise, Commerce Township.

The girls were fatally injured Jan. 3 when Mrs. Ostin's car hurtled into a group of children waiting for a school bus at Carroll Lake and Wise roads in Commerce Township.

Charged with manslaughter, Mrs. Ostin was allowed to plead guilty to the less serious offense, which carries a maximum prison term of two years.

A manslaughter conviction is punishable with a prison term of up to 15 years.

While not officially placing her on probation at this time, Beer, did, however, set an 11 p.m. curfew for Mrs. Ostin and ordered her off the road.

"The probation department recommends jail," said Beer. "I'm not certain."

In reference to Mrs. Ostin's past driving record, Beer said: "It could have been predicted that sooner or later you were going to do what you did—kill somebody."

Talks to Start on New Office

The Oakland County Board of Auditors was authorized yesterday to enter into negotiations to lease 20 acres in the county service center for a new $3-million Oakland Board of Education office building.

The Board of Supervisors approved the discussions, but opposition was voiced by several of its members. The vote on the question was 55-18.

Leading the objectors was Royal Oak Supervisor Harry W. Horton, a member of the Ways and Means Committee.

Horton noted that County School Superintendent William J. Emerson, as a member of the county tax allocation Board, blocked the county's effort to get additional tax money recently.

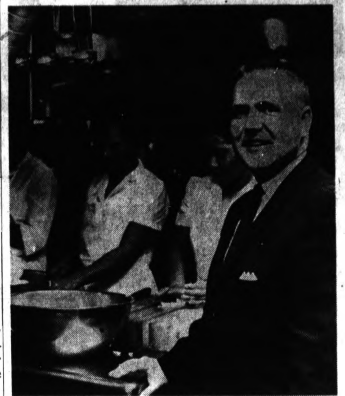

"Now, three months later, he comes to us and asks for the choicest site in the service center," said Horton.

The property being eyed by the board of education for its new facility is on the northwest corner of Pontiac Lake and Telegraph roads.

Ways and Means Chairman David Levinson pointed out, however, that "the county is not just going to hand over the property," and that any agreement is subject to the approval of the supervisors.

Horton also expressed dissatisfaction over the use of the service center by nongovernmental units, and added that already there are five exceptions, including the existing board of education facility.

The new facility would replace the present 30,000 square foot building, which the county would take over and use for much-needed office space in the service center.

OU's Edward Goodwin Tours Kitchen

Food Service Chief Has Mom to Thank

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

A mother who likes to cook and a junior high school teacher whose name has been forgotten, set the career course of Edward Goodwin, Oakland University food service director.

"Watching and helping my mother cook," said Goodwin, "developed my interest in food preparation."

"And a teacher's suggestion that I enroll in the commercial foods department of Detroit's Chadey High School put that interest to work."

A native Detroit, Goodwin graduated from Chadey in 1955 and Michigan State University in restaurant management in 1959.

After a year as food service director at Defiance College, Defiance, Ohio, he moved to Michigan State University Oakland in the fall of 1960.

BACK TO MICHIGAN

"It was the challenge of affiliating with a new and growing institution that brought me back to Michigan," said Goodwin.

And how that institution has grown.

In six years, Goodwin's staff has increased from 10 full-time employees assisted by 20 students to 50 full-time employees assisted by 100 students.

"I will need to hire 12 to 18 more full-time people before the university's twin-tower dormitory opens in the fall," he added.

NEW FACILITIES

New food service facilities in the dormitory will seat an additional 1,000.

Renewing Goodwin's challenge daily are over 1,500 patrons.

"We serve three meals a day to 750 contract resident students," said Goodwin, "plus meals to faculty, staff and commuter students in the Oakland and Sunset Rooms."

"Over and above these are the 2,300 sales a day in the grill cafeteria which include everything from a single cup of coffee to a complete luncheon."

ATTRACTION

"It was this opportunity to serve people that attracted me to the field."

"The service industry," he continued, "of which food service is only a part, is really the growing business of the future."

"I feel it should be thought of as fulfilling a need rather than performing a menial task. Serving others is a good and honorable profession."

"It's a demanding business," added Goodwin matter-of-factly, "run on a tight time schedule."

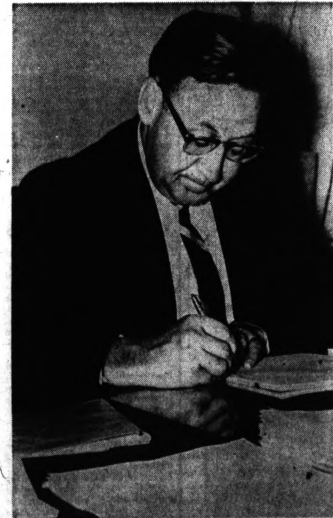

HAS REWARDS

"Hungry people want appetizing food and they don't want to wait too long for it. But I'm not sorry I chose it as a profession. It has its rewards."

Parents of three children—Eileen, 7, Andy, 5, and Kay, 4, Goodwin and his wife, Jane, live at 738 Cambridge, Avon Township.

He is a member of the National Association of College and University Food Service Directors, attending its national and regional conventions each year.

City Engineer: Crusader With a Slide Rule

Joseph E. Neippling: Sewers Can Be Exciting

By L. GARY THORNE

Inclined not at all toward gynecastic high jinks like the comic Caped Crusader, Batman, Pontiac's clear thinking city engineer nevertheless qualifies as a crusader of sorts.

Joseph Elmer Neippling, who thinks like the U.S. Air Force reserve major that he is, serves a variety of roles as city engineer.

City engineering with its lack of romance is not a normal device—like say a political soapbox, Batmobile or even a white horse—for a crusader.

Despite this and some frustration, Neippling has crusaded.

Pontiac's city engineer since 1962, Neippling has in four years managed to be:

- An understanding friend of Wide Track Drive when everyone else was complaining about it.
- Almost the lone voice in opposition to a move that he claims has resulted in a two-year delay in M50 construction within the city.
- A private advocate of a complete revision of the city's special assessment rates, which he claims are obsolete.

As a city spokesman, Neippling prefers logic over emotion and tends to speak in certainties.

For example:

- "The city can control its own destiny."
- "The public works official has to be the realist."
- "The administrator's job is to create the crisis so the politician can act."
- "The public works official must look to the future, recognize community needs, and store those needs until the community wants or discovers them."

An uncommon engineer, the 43-year-old Neippling credits any crusader tendencies to an acute case of "social awareness" instilled in his schoolboy days during the Depression.

Neippling said it appeared as a family trait. One sister is a missionary in central Africa and another is a schoolteacher.

Native of Highland Park, Neippling grew up in the 1930 Depression. Indirectly, he was a victim of automation "30 years before my time."

His father, the actual victim, was a glass blower, but the advent of highly efficient machinery forced him into a $5-a-day job at Ford Motor Co.

FIRST CONTACT

Nineteen-year-old Joe Neippling joined him at the auto plant as a tool and die apprentice, which furnished his first contact with any form of engineering.

He also managed his first contact with grown-up "society"—the struggle of the United Automobile Workers to unionize Ford's. Neippling's father was a minor union official.

Neippling was swept up in World War II, serving in the Air Force as airplane navigator.

Schooling at Wayne State University followed the war stint. He married in 1949. He was recalled to active Air Force duty in 1951 before obtaining his degree.

ENGINEER DEGREE

In 1952, after finishing college on a part-time basis, he received his bachelor's degree in civil engineering.

Mastered out of the service on the West Coast in 1953, Neippling joined the Oregon State Highway Department. He held the job for one year.

"Let's just say it was a mistake," he mused. "It didn't work out."

He joined the Michigan State Highway Department and spent a year in the department's extensive training program.

JOINS PONTIAC

After four years as an expressway planner with the Wayne County Road Commission, he joined the service of the City of Pontiac in 1960 as assistant city engineer.

Along the way, Neippling has worked as a taxicab driver, furnace cleaner and salesman and has been to electronics school.

Neippling said the position of city engineer involves him in a broad range of duties.

"Putting a sewer in the ground has limited appeal for me," he explains. "I'm concerned with all the other things that come before."

CONCENTRATION

In some places like in Detroit, a city engineer is more concerned with execution than planning.

However, the city engineer is a city the size of Pontiac is a general practitioner. The job isn't as specialized.

Perhaps identifying with his father's experience, Neippling appears to take delight in the malfunction of machinery, for example, a vending machine that mistakenly dispenses free goodies or delivers frozen globs of milk instead of properly tempered pints.

While Neippling deals with a broad range of problems, one which seemingly defies solution is his golf score.

Neippling bears the distinction of being one of the poorest golfers in the municipal employees golf league.

He finishes among the last three annually.

Police Officer Mute at Trial in Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—A Detroit police lieutenant stood mute Monday at the beginning of his police board trial for conduct unbecoming an officer.

A plea of innocent was entered for Lt. James Thomas. Thomas' admission that he lied in the bribery trial of Anthony (Tony Jack) Giacalone scuttled the trial.

Thomas testified that he typed daily notes on his investigation of Giacalone at the McGraw Station and the Criminal Investigation Bureau.

Later, after five days of intensive cross-examination, Thomas stated that some of the notes had been typed at home.

BUTTONS AND BOWS—South Vietnamese Montagnard girls, in their native mountain dress and carrying bows and arrows, stand in formation at Pleiku last week to welcome heroes of 2nd Corps Area fighting who received decorations. Among those honored were Army Capt. Bill Carpenter of West Point "lonesome end" fame and Spec. 5 Charles Lese, both of whom received Viet Nam's highest decoration and recommendation for the U.S. Medal of Honor.

Antipolice Protesters

Dutch Tie Troubles to 'Provos'

AMSTERDAM (UPI)—Twice in four months a city most of the world regarded as staid and sober erupted in riots.

Behind both riots was a group of youths battling what their leader calls "our natural enemy, the police."

The city is Amsterdam. The youths call themselves "Provos." Their leader is Roel van Duyn.

"You might call us a kind of desperado," he says. "We aim at a sharpening of the conflict between the law—or the authorities, or whatever you call it—and us."

Foreign observers have placed the blame for Amsterdam's double riots on everything from a declining faith in the royal family to incompetence at the municipal level. Dutchmen blame the Provos.

The name was coined a year ago by a Dutch sociologist. He abbreviated the word "provocateur" to a label applying to all youth groups which "are at odds with present society."

But in Amsterdam, a small group of young people led by bearded philosophy student van Duyn, 23, took the name as their own.

Their general purpose is "to protest against most forms of authority."

They first surfaced late in 1965, taunting and provoking Amsterdam police. Soon they began meeting at midnight every Saturday around the statue of a little boy in central Amsterdam, chalking slogans on its base and discussing their anarchistlike philosophy.

They have organized to the point where they publish a monthly news letter, called "Provo."

Van Duyn runs the group as a full-time job, living by means of the Provos' own small printing shop and giving lectures around the country advocating common property ownership.

They bought dozens of bicycles, painted them white and left them in the streets, free for anyone to ride as far as they liked and then leave the bikes for others to use. Police confiscated all the bicycles.

AIR POLLUTION

The Provos also deplore air pollution and traffic congestion.

But the Provos really came to prominence with their smoke-bomb demonstrations at the March 10 wedding of Crown Princess Beatrix and a German-born diplomat, Claus von Amsberg.

"We were not against Claus himself," van Duyn told UPI in an interview. Von Amsberg was simply "an object about whom we could agitate."

"We saw in him a man who helped sustain the House of Orange—that is, the monarchy, which for us, apart from the fact that we are Republicans, is the symbol of the world and the meaning of authority," van Duyn said.

National Praise for Nu-Sash Inspires New Branch In Pontiac

Nu-Sash, a unique window designed to replace old and drafty outdated house windows, is now for the first time, available to Pontiac and area homeowners.

This home improvement product has been sold in over 100 cities in the Midwest and eastern states but never before has it been available in the Oakland County area.

Nu-Sash windows have been installed in thousands of homes, saving each homeowner hundreds of dollars in remodeling costs and hours of labor.

Nu-Sash replacement windows are distributed locally through a new branch of Weather-Seal, Inc., 1004 Joslyn, in Pontiac. In addition to the new Pontiac outlet, other branches in Michigan for Nu-Sash are located in Saginaw, Flint, Adrian, Grand Rapids and Detroit with some other major cities of Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago, Buffalo, Nashville, Rochester and Philadelphia. All these cities have experienced sizable economical growth and development in urban renewal and modernization programs.

SAVE 40% ON INSTALLATION

One of the outstanding cost-saving features of Nu-Sash is that it can be installed without interior home alterations. Woodwork and plaster are never disturbed. The average window can be replaced in about 20 minutes. Moreover, installation can save approximately 40% over any other method of remodeling. Nu-Sash is a division of Weather-Seal, Inc., which has executive offices and factories in Barberton, O. In 1934, Weather-Seal founded the combination window industry. In these 31 years, the corporation has become one of the largest manufacturers of combination storm-screen windows and doors and other home building products. Weather-Seal developed Nu-Sash 5 years ago when the firm realized homeowners, decorators, and architects were faced with expensive major remodeling problems in replacing old deteriorated wood windows. Nu-Sash paved the way for the most scientific way to replace old windows. Weather-Seal also realized that an important factor in high heat loss was due to inferior inside house windows.

ANY TYPE WINDOW REPLACED

Sherman J. Williams, manager of the new Pontiac branch, has been with Weather-Seal 3 years as a national field representative. Williams relates that most any type window can be replaced with Nu-Sash. Installation, by expert Nu-Sash mechanics, can be made in any season or weather without disturbing storm window charges. Also, a year round sliding storm-coverage for patio doors is being marketed. Free literature and information from the manufacturer regarding Nu-Sash and all other products is available from the Pontiac office by a phone request.

Here's One Skunk With Close Friends

UTICA (AP) — Here's a story about a real low-down skunk who has a lawyer and the sympathy of everybody who knows him or her.

The name is Honey Bun and he or she, no one's sure which yet, is a real live skunk. And about as low down as a skunk can get, too — only a month old.

Honey Bun belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Modzelewski, their son, Shawn, 4, daughter, Kimberly Ann, 3, and a German Shepherd, Shik, age unknown, all of 43471 Vivian, Sterling Township.

Honey Bun and four brothers and sisters were orphaned by a speeding car.

TROUBLE STARTS

Gerald, knowing his wife has wanted such a pet for years, brought one home.

Then the trouble began. An inquiry to a veterinarian about getting the skunk deslunked got the reply that it's unlawful.

"That's right," a conservation officer confirmed, "it's against the law in Michigan to keep wild animals as pets."

"What about skunks for sale in pet stores?" Nancy asked.

They are brought in from out of state and, presumably having been bred in captivity, have been immunized against rabies, she was told.

SPREADS GOOD WILL

Frederick K. Steuwer, a State Conservation Department official in charge of special permits for mammals, said the maximum penalty for keeping a wild animal is a $100 fine and 30 days in jail.

But Honey Bun hasn't been idle since joining the Modzelewski household.

He or she has been out spreading good will among the neighbors who have come to his or her defense.

One of them went to the conservation people in Pontiac and got a reprieve.

Meanwhile, the Modzelewskis got a lawyer. Other neighbors are busy. They've started a petition in favor of keeping Honey Bun.

And little Shawn Modzelewski is hard at work, too. He has told his mother to "tell the conservation man that Honey Bun wants to stay with us."

WANTED: SKUNK PERMIT—Shawn Modzelewski, 4, and his sister, Kimberly Ann, 3, of 43471 Vivian, Sterling Township, hold Honey Bun, a month-old orphaned skunk who has become a neighborhood pet. Keeping wild animals as pets is unlawful in Michigan but the Modzelewskis have hired a lawyer and neighbors started a petition in favor of keeping the little animal.

Strong Auto Safety Laws Gain Lawmakers' Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the House Commerce Committee reported increasing sentiment in their group today for strong auto safety legislation to deal with the rising highway death toll.

As the committee prepared to launch its third week of closed sessions on the bill, Chairman Harley O. Staggers said he hopes it will approve "strong legislation" before the House starts a 10-day July 4th recess Thursday.

The West Virginia Democrat met privately with committee members yesterday to stress the need for early action.

Two committee Democrats, meanwhile, said the trend in the committee is now clearly for enactment of strong legislation similar to that approved by the Senate last week.

CONSENSUS

"I think there is a committee consensus for a strong bill," said Rep. John E. Moss of California.

"We're going to have a bill every bit as strong as the Senate's," added Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, also of California, in a separate interview.

The committee has yet to reach key decisions on the nature of federal auto safety standards and when they should take effect, and on such things as tire legislation, requirements that auto companies notify buyers of defects, and the type of penalties to be provided in the bill.

Mao: a Thinking Man's Thinker

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Joseph Stalin, in the words of his idolators, may have been "the genius leader of all mankind," but he was a piker alongside Mao Tse-tung when it came to thinking.

Mao's thinking, to cite just one Chinese Communist assess-

would say in the past. "Chairman Mao is the radiant sunlight in our minds."

WORDS, THOUGHTS

Now it's all about Mao's words and thought.

Some examples: "Each one of Chairman Mao's words is worth 10,000 words."

"Chairman Mao's thought is the greatest truth since time immemorial."

"The theory and practice of Mao Tse-tung may be likened to the ceaseless movement in the skies of the sun and moon and the endless flow of the rivers and streams on earth."

"Mao Tse-tung's thought is an incontrovertible truth. It is irresistible. Nobody can prevent it from going from one victory to another, just as nobody can prevent the sun from rising in the east."

Mao's thought has done things Stalin never dreamed of.

The Peking People's Daily said a Chinese ping pong team won a championship because it "placed emphasis on the decisive role of Mao Tse-tung's thought in winning victories in table tennis tournaments."

CREATIVE STUDY

A factory assigned to produce seamless oxygen cylinders announced "the process of producing oxygen cylinders is a process of creatively studying Mao Tse-tung's thinking."

Li Su-wen's grocery shop in Shenyang was doing poorly until she studied Mao Tse-tung's thought. She then, said the People's Daily, became beloved of the workers of Shenyang who now call her "our Red housekeeper."

And there was the celebrated case of the watermelons which would not sell in summertime until, said the People's Daily, the fruit company manager in Shanghai read Mao Tse-tung's work "on contradictions." Things changed, and said the manager, "the reason for our

The mountain climber's reason for climbing a mountain is because it is there is a noteworthy example of the adventurous spirit. But the bridge player's desire to rebid a five-card suit is cause for concern. There, certainly is not an example of good bridge.

The fact that a good five-card suit is described as rebiddable means that it may be rebid if there is a reason to rebid and no better bid can be found.

South has no reason to rebid in response to his partner's one no-trump. With 14 high card points he has no reason to get to game and his hand is likely to play just as well in no-trump as in spades.

the queen of trumps and South managed to make his contract without any trouble. The game was duplicate and South was very pleased with his score of plus 110. There is a 50-point bonus for making a pair score in a duplicate game.

He was pleased only until he looked at the results and found that his score of plus 110 was tied for bottom with a couple of other players who had made the same rebid.

At all other tables North was allowed to play one no-trump. The play for two no-trump was just as easy as the play for two spades. In fact a couple of no-trump declarers managed to make three.

The three of clubs was opened against them and the nine-spot returned. In each instance East held back his king and never managed to make a trick with it.

Stay-at-Home Vacations Can Be Exciting Too

By MARGARET BROWN

Vacation travel is exhilarating, but have you ever thought of "getting away from it all" just staying home?

If your free time outweighs the bank balance, an at-home vacation can be a relaxing time for those things you've always wanted to do, but never had the time.

One word of caution. Avoid the temptation to spend your days "catching up" about the house. Let the cluttered attic and basement go. Reorganize closets another day.

If "I've hardly time to think" at times has been your lament, you may choose to while away some solitary hours in meditation at the lake shore. If ever you've felt the urge to write, this is the time to capture those flashes of enlightenment on paper.

Perhaps you'll want to spend a nostalgic afternoon simply reminiscing over old family snap shots, albums and year books.

STUDY A BIT

You say you've always been intrigued with Greek mythology? Egyptology? Old Testament geography? Why not haunt the Pontiac City Library and further pursue your interests? It needn't be an onerous study session.

Incidentally, Pontiac City Library plans a supervised summer children's reading program early in July. And at Waterford Township Library Story Hours for children are being conducted Wednesday mornings through Aug. 10 by the Waterford Jayettes.

Pleasurable pastimes are innumerable for vacation's lady of leisure. Days may be spent organizing and testing tantalizing recipes you've been saving all year — those with the gourmet ingredients.

You might even go to Detroit's open air market to buy some leeks or spend a wholesome Saturday morning at the county farmers' market on Telegraph Road.

BE DARING

Why not experiment with that dramatic new coiffure you've been fancying? It's unflattering to conservative you, it's immaterial. You've unlimited time to suds and reset.

How often during the year

Joan Whims, R. G. Taylor Are Wed

Off on a honeymoon to Cape Cod and the eastern states are the Richard Grant Taylors (Joan Marie Whims) after their vows and reception, Saturday, in the First Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie H. Whims, Owego Drive and the James H. Taylors, Port Credit, Ont. are parents of the couple who will live on Salmer Street.

Alecon lace motifs highlighted the bride's Empire gown and train of white silk organza over tulle, complemented by an illusion veil. She held white orchids, roses and Stephanotis.

Patricia Brief was honor attendant at the double-ring ceremony performed by Rev. Robert Shelton. Bridesmaids were Diane Norkus, Grosse Ile, Patricia Wesley, Detroit, and Darlene Taylor, junior maid.

Best man was James B. Shreck of the RCAF Station, Germany, with ushers Robert Murry, Toronto, Robert Lovell, Mariette, and John Taylor, Port Credit.

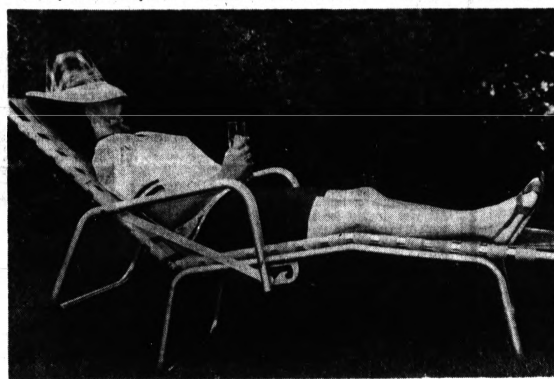

MRS. RICHARD GRANT TAYLOR

does a harried homemaker fret, "I really should spend more time with the children?"

The at-home vacation affords perfect opportunity for parents to lend whole-hearted interest for games or fantasy-filled play sessions — that is, if minds can be unfettered from crying household tasks.

If family outings are planned, Oakland County has much to offer.

At Stony Creek Metropolitan

Seek happiness and relaxation back in your own back yard—that's the way to enjoy an at-home vacation. Snappy straw bonnet shading her resting eyes, Carol Nye, 18, shows how she "gets away from it all" without leaving town. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Nye, Sylvan Shores Drive.

Self-Respect Doesn't Flourish When Lying Becomes Way Out

By ARIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Your column is held in great esteem by many young people, but one of your recent answers has caused some of us to reconsider.

In your reply to a cocktail waitress who wanted to know how to keep the wolves in line with losing tips, you said: "Tell them the huskiest bartender in the place is your husband."

Abby, to advise her to be deceitful contradicts the high moral standards which in the past you have always upheld. Honesty is honesty, and should be a constant habit. And even though the waitress may lose some tips, she should not compromise her self-respect. Thank you.

Park near Rochester, the Nature Center offers several new wildlife exhibits. The trails and center are open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. except Mondays.

Free guided tours begin 2 p.m. July 5 at Cranbrook Institute of Science, continuing weekday afternoons through July and August.

Art buffs may want to visit Cranbrook's galleries where the summer student show runs through mid-September. Hours are 2 to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and 1 to 5 p.m. weekends. There is a small admission charge.

Soothing strolls among splashing fountains and statuary are open to all in the verdant gardens of Cranbrook House. Hours are 2 to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekends.

And a few miles down Woodward Avenue, the Detroit Institute of Arts, where construction of a futuristic new wing has been completed, also offers travelogue films and puppet shows.

CHILDREN'S PLAYS
The little ones surely will enjoy a children's theater experience at Will-O-Way Apprentice Theater.

Performances of "Repunzel and the Witch" are being staged on Saturdays through July 9 with additional plays planned throughout the summer.

Whatever your plans, keep them simple and unburied.

Picnics, trips to the zoo or Bob-Lo Island can become dismal if the family arrives vexed from meeting too tight a schedule.

Let "Take it Easy" be your Anvil Chorus.

Open Home to Visitors From Foreign Lands

By SIGNE KARLSTROM
The R. H. Hansen residence has been named the International Club by friends.

Visitors from various parts of the world are coming and going, it seems, constantly and Mr. and Mrs. Hansen receive them all with their usual warm hospitality.

The past weekend Mr. and Mrs. Allan Cameron and their young daughter Ruth-Ann have been the Hansens' house guests.

The Camerons have been stationed in Singapore and after a visit with their parents in Chicago and with the Hansens, they are now on their way to their new home in Darwin, Australia.

They are friends of the junior R. H. Hansens who presently are also making their home in Singapore.

Last year when the senior Mrs. Hansen visited with her son and his family, their oldest son, Douglas, accompanied his grandmother on a tour through many of the countries in the East.

Last winter, Douglas was at Columbia Military Academy in Tennessee. That's where his father also has been a student. Presently, Douglas is enjoying a longer visit with his grandparents.

The Paul S. Bowers family are all together again this summer. Henry is home from Mercersburg Academy, as well as John, who is a student at University of Michigan.

And Mrs. Albert Thorndike Jr. (the former Della Bowers) and their little son, Albert III, of Cambridge, Mass. are occupying the Fredrick Robinsons' home on Pilgrim for the summer.

Prior to the presidents' ball at Orchard Lake Country Club last Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Philip G. Moon entertained some 60 friends for cocktails in Mrs. T. T. Callaghan has returned to her Colonial Court apartment after spending some months in Ann Arbor and in Florida.

Off on a honeymoon in Spain and Portugal are the junior Richard Carlisle Jacksons (Carol Virginia Booth) who were married Saturday in Christ Church Cranbrook.

Her parents, the John M. Booths were hosts at a reception in their Bloomfield Village home following the four o'clock ceremony.

The bride's Empire gown and train of white organza was banded with applied self-fabric, a matching bow held her veil of silk illusion.

Nancy Ellen Booth was her sister's honor maid along with Rosemary Schuneman, Susan Jackson, of Rochester, N. Y., Elizabeth Harris of Riverside, Conn. and Dee Ann Dangler of Palos Verdes Estates, Calif. as bridesmaids.

German Girl Comes to Camp

Hurricane Alma made the first part of her trip rough. A 24-hour bus ride made the end of it fatiguing.

Ulrike Strubel of Kunselsau, Germany, arrived Sunday night in Lapeer to spend the summer as a counselor at the Girl Scout camp, Camp Sherwood.

This fresh-faced, soft spoken miss of 21 comes to this area through the International Camp Counselors Program.

With her on the ship were 199 other young men and women, representing 28 nations. They are all sponsored by the Council on Student Travel in Paris.

Ulrike (they call her Ricky at camp) has just finished her training as a primary school teacher.

She will work mainly with the youngest girls at Camp Sherwood, although she will be in demand by all the units.

FAMILY CAMPER

Her camping experience has been with her family. She says they chose to visit different countries each year.

Ulrike is enthusiastic about being in America. She is interested in everything about Pontiac and looks forward to taking a tour of the automobile factories.

The cars look big to her, but Wide Track Drive didn't faze her at all.

Ulrike Strubel of Germany who arrived in Michigan late Sunday does a little sightseeing in downtown Pontiac. She will spend the summer as a counselor at Camp Sherwood near Lapeer, the camp owned by Northern Oakland County Girl Scout Council.

He'll Learn Caution in Trusting Others

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: My brother's ex-wife (they are recently divorced) is a very attractive girl. Our 10-year-old son has always had a case on her which she encouraged.

I've heard her tell him many times that she would have married him instead of his uncle if she had met him first. Mrs. Lawrence, the child must have taken this seriously. Since he learned that she is going to re-marry, he has been very moody and upset.

Is he oversexed? We can't understand this reaction in a 10-year-old child.

ANSWER: Poor lamb. No.

Lemons For Beauty

To keep your skin clear and fair you need the natural cleansing and bleaching properties of lemon. Ask your druggist for a bottle of lemon Jelvyn, the latest type skin freshener that beautiful women throughout the world are now using. Lemon Jelvyn braces and conditions the skin to a beautiful new clarity. Lemon Jelvyn is ideal for quick complexion cleansing and two capsules in your final shampoo rinse will give a sparkling shine to your hair. Lemon Jelvyn is a must for complexion beauty.

he's not oversexed. He's hurt—hurt by his discovery that trusted people are not always trustworthy. That's a painful discovery.

However, let's rejoice that he made it at the age of 10 instead of 40. It's easier to realize at 10 that your attractive aunt didn't really want to marry you than it is to realize at age 40 that your wife didn't want to.

At 10 we're not equipped to put in the kind of heavy emotional investment in other people's affection that we put into it at 40. So the discovery that their affection isn't as reliable as it pretended to be doesn't drive us into alcoholism, nervous breakdowns or cynicism to ward all human affection.

At the age of 10, we still have mother and daddy to reassure us that all human relationships are not lost without relationship to us, pretty, but unreliable. We still have the sense to remember that birthdays, Christmases, and other compensating joys are available to us.

Unlike the 40-year-old person who thinks he has to end with the ending of one human relationship, we can not only survive our disillusion—but use it.

We can use it to begin to develop that most essential thing—caution in handing out trust over to anyone who flatters us. That is, we can use it if our parents are wise enough to make this point to us by saying, "It is a very hard thing to know that aunt Lynn didn't mean what she said about wanting to marry you. But lots of people don't mean what they say."

"They just half-mean it. So we have to wait to see what they do before we really believe them."

"You haven't always meant what you said, either. Only last week you said you would remember to empty the wastebaskets for me. You didn't really mean it. But I haven't got hurt because you didn't do it."

"I didn't get mad because I know that people don't always mean the nice things they say."

Stop Stains

If you use your washing machine for dyeing materials, put a plastic bag over the lid of the washer to keep the splash from staining it.

Purse Thief Has Change of Heart

MOUNT STERLING, Ky. (AP)

A purse snatcher here attempted to snatch a pocketbook from Minnie Newman on a Mount Sterling street. They struggled, and she fell to the ground still holding on to her purse.

As she fell, she broke a finger. The would-be thief helped Miss Newman to her feet, handed over the parcels she had dropped and hurriedly left the scene, minus the purse.

Why Grow Old?

by JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. "I've been on your nine day diet for nine days now and have lost seven pounds. I am delighted. Had plenty to eat. I feel great. Now I would like to put my husband on your 'Tubby' Diet."

He has a large bay window. What exercise would benefit him most?

A. Congratulations! The bay window will diminish because of counting calories but special exercise will surely speed the process and produce better results. Ask him to do this one regularly.

Lie on his back, legs straight and arms resting on the floor. Raise the legs and trunk from the floor at the same time. Try to touch the fingers to the legs (or toes if he can reach that far). Return legs and trunk and arms to the floor. If he can't touch at first, practice will improve his performance.

Q. I am 12 and have a nice figure except that my cheeks and thighs and hips are too fat. I hardly eat anything for breakfast and I buy my lunch at school. I eat a regular dinner. I do snack between meals a little.

Should I cut out all starchy foods and desserts? Or what? Please hurry. Bathing suit time will be here soon and I'm going to look like a slob.

A. In the first place, if you admit that you snack some it is most likely that your snacks count up to more than you think. You MUST keep track of the calorie count of your snacks.

Then too, you make a mistake to skip breakfast. You may injure your looks as well as your health. The most successful reducers do not miss a meal. Eat a well balanced diet divided between three meals a day and then cut out the snacking unless it is fresh fruit or fruit juice or some similar item.

Q. I am five feet one inch tall and weight 105 pounds with a near perfect figure. I would like to purchase a two piece swim suit but since I am short and short waisted I don't know whether this would suit me or not.

It is not a bikini suit I am considering but a regular two piece where the parts completely cover the navel and the top has a round neck with one-inch straps. I would not consider a bikini with all the stretch marks I have but I do like the less extremes ones. I have been told that when one is short waisted it is not wise to call attention to this fact.

A. This is true. The longer the distance between the waist and the bust the lovelier the figure. Since you are short waisted it is better to minimize that appearance. The division at the midpoint of the body and the white strip of skin would tend to make you look shorter waisted and broader.

A one-piece form-fitting suit would be better.

If any of you missed my Nine Day Diet this spring and would like to lose from 5 to 10 pounds in nine days send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the diet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Lodge Talks to GOP Unit

Harvey L. Lodge, former state senator, spoke at the Monday meeting of the Pontiac Republican Women's Club. Mrs. Harry Henderson of Franklin was hostess.

Mrs. Paul Gorman introduced several candidates for Oakland County Circuit Court who spoke briefly.

Mrs. Frederick Ziem, Mrs. Lynn D. Allen, and Mrs. Frank McGregor assisted the hostess.

Youth Decide World's Size

NEW YORK (UPI) — Young couples aged 20 to 30 years are deciding whether, in another 35 years, the U.S. population will reach 300 to 400 million. This total would compare to less than 200 million now.

Economic factors will help influence their decision on family size, says Robert C. Cook, president of the Population Reference Bureau. He cited a report saying it costs $23,835 — for today's average family with an income of $6,600 to rear a child to age 18, or college age.

MRS. J. R. FLANIGAN

Miss Holzer Marries at St. Michael

Attending their brother James Robert Flanigan at his marriage to Therese Marie Holzer of Spence Street, Saturday, in St. Michael's Church were John, Mortimer, Thomas and Robert Flanigan.

They are the sons of Mrs. John T. Flanigan of Edison Street and the late Mr. Flanigan.

Butt luncheon in Maurice's followed the nuptial Mass offered by Rev. Jerome Delory, O.S.B. for the daughter of the Josef Holzers of South Haven and the bridegroom.

Re-embroidered Alencon lace motifs enhanced the A-line Empire gown and train of white peau de sole worn with silk illusion veil. Her bouquet was white carnations.

Barbara Ann Holzer was honor maid with bridesmaids Barbara Flanigan, Marjory Barker and Marilyn Lewandowski.

After a honeymoon in Rocky Mountain National Park the couple will live on Voorbels Road.

She is a graduate of Loyola University.

Kids Flip Lids

For a different theme for your little daughter's next birthday party try a "hat-making" party. Write the invitations on a hat made of paper, stating that hats will be a feature of the party and the child who arrives with the funniest one on will receive a prize.

Mrs. Niemi Wed in Home Rites

In the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Bone on Shelton Way was the setting for the recent marriage of her mother, Mrs. Peter A. Niemi of Canal Drive to Joseph Dziuban of Pontiac.

Attendants at the ceremony performed by Rev. Lola P. Marion were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Dziuban of Standish, the bridegroom's brother and sister-in-law.

Soap Chips

Save all the leftover scraps of soap. When you accumulate a number of pieces, place them in a muslin bag with a drawstring top.

Use the soap bag when washing dishes. Swish it through the hot water until you have sufficient suds.

Or give it to the children to use when taking their own baths. They will love this soap bag, for it is easier to hold onto than a slick bar of soap. It helps stretch the budget.

Bright Ideal Broken Lights Won't Shine

ST. JOSEPH (AP) — Ever want to stop and do something about that guy who keeps following and following, his bright lights ablaze?

Well, Berrien County sheriff's deputies say John Tischerhart of nearby Coloma did.

Deputies said Tischerhart finally stopped and flagged down bright lights, asking him to please dim. Bright lights said no, whereupon Tischerhart applied an automatic dimmer—miles brick — to all four headlights.

Bright-lights complained. Tischerhart told deputies to forget it, he'd pay for his dimming damage.

Batlunch Wins New Baffan

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — What happens when an 8-year-old girl has lunch with Batman? The results can be as unpredictable as when the girl is a sprightly 8-year-old named Dina Burke.

Dina — pronounced "Deena" — is the daughter of Paul Burke, star of "12 O'Clock High." The THOMAS

Amid the fur coats and jewelry, auctioneer Dean Martin offered up another item: "What am I bid for Batman?"

"I thought I had just been asked to donate a cape or something like that," crime fighter Adam West explained later.

BATMAN SOLD

"I didn't quite realize what was going on until I visited the Burkes' table afterward. I noticed they were kind of looking me over; I felt as if I were in a slave block. I found out later that they had bought me."

Indeed Burke offered a $1,000 donation if Batman would have lunch with his daughter. "Sold," said Martin, and West was committed.

The thousand-dollar lunch took place at a cafe opposite Pathe Studios, where "Batman" has begun filming its second

A record entry list of 49 beauties competed for $10,000 in prizes and the title of Miss Michigan of 1966.

The week-long event opened Monday night with a two-hour parade featuring the entrants riding atop convertibles, bands, marching units and floats. Grand Marshall was Donna Axum of Eldorado, Ark, Miss America of 1964.

Three nights of preliminaries will be climaxed Friday night with selection of the winner and her court. Judging will be based on talent, plus appearances in swimsuits and evening gowns.

MORE BRAINS

A survey of the entries indicates that this year's crop has more brains than the average of beauties in the past. Of the 49 girls, 48 are or will be enrolled in college this fall.

The winner will receive approximately $7,000 in prizes, including a scholarship and wardrobe, and travel to Atlantic City to compete in the Miss America contest.

Police Find Body of Girl in a Trunk

GRAND HAVEN (AP) — State Police of the Grand Haven post today are investigating the death of a three-year-old Crocker Township girl.

The body of Helen Marie Hunzinger was found in a trunk last night at her mother's home in Crocker Township, eight miles northeast of here, police said.

State police said they went to the home after the girl's mother, Mrs. Doris Hunzinger, 25, came to the post and requested an investigation.

Detective Steve Cloonan of the Grand Haven post said the girl was found lying on her side in a trunk, clad in blue denim shorts and a white blouse.

Dr. Eugene Land, an Ottawa County medical examiner ordered an autopsy performed today.

BLUEBERRY PICKER—A mechanical blueberry picker, manufactured in Grand Haven, is tested on beach sand along Lake Michigan. The driver sits 12 feet up and rides on swamp buggy tires at 6 miles an hour. The 11,000-pound vehicle shakes berries off bushes and catches them for mechanical harvesting. John Harvey, president of the machine company, said the vehicle can operate on any kind of blueberry land and is capable of picking two tons an hour.

Red China Echoes Stalinist-Type Purge

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON—There is a deadly parallel between the current purge of leading Communists in China and the purges in Russia during the last months of Stalin's rule.

In Peking today, as in Moscow in the 1950's, the dictator's closest collaborators are obviously anticipating his early departure—because of death or illness—from the political scene.

They are jockeying for power and organizing conspiracies to destroy potential rivals for chairman Mao Tse-tung's job who are not of the inner circle. The struggle for power in Communist countries usually is disguised as an ideological dispute over the Marxist-Leninist doctrine.

Peking is true to form. The closer the day of Mao's disappearance draws, the noisier the ideological quarrels become.

SPECULATION
Speculation as to possible successors for a Red dictator is one of the hazardous aspects of Communist studies.

In the case of Mao Tse-tung's potential heir, the picture is further blurred by the rivalry and enmity between Peking and Moscow.

It was because he ostensibly conspired with the Russian "revisionists" that Peking's popular mayor, Peng Chen, recently lost his key post in the Chinese Communist party.

With Peng out of the way, the leading contenders for Mao's job are "President" Liu Shao-chi, Marshal Lin Biao, the defense minister, and Teng Hsiao-ping, secretary general of the Communist party.

ASIAN VIEWPOINT
In the view of Asian diplomats, President Liu Shao-chi is at present the foremost candidate for the succession. He is a dogmatic Communist and fierce foe of Russian revisionism and is believed to be Mao's personal choice.

But Teng Hsiao-ping, the youngest of the contenders, is also the shrewdest and most ambitious. As secretary general of the Communist party, he already wields enormous power in China.

With Mao gone, he may well outmaneuver and outwit his rivals.

For the free world, of course, the crucial question is whether Mao's successor is likely to change China's foreign policy significantly.

LIBERAL TOUCH
Some of President Johnson's advisers apparently believe that more liberal leaders will follow the present regime in Peking. But in the view of specialists on China, this is wishful thinking.

No matter who of the leading contenders steps into Mao's shoes, he is bound to be a member of the dictator's old guard.

His best interests will lie in identifying himself as closely as possible with Mao's image and his doctrine of revolutionary brinkmanship.

No doubt in China, as in all Communist countries, the death of the charismatic infallible leader is bound to unleash a permanent struggle for power.

Formosa Papers View U.S. Policy as Appeasement

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Nationalist China disagrees strongly with any American efforts to build bridges to Communist China.

Editorials obviously reflecting the views of the political high command depict these efforts as appeasement. One paper denounced appeasement as a poisonous concept that would "produce serious setbacks in the Free World's anti-Communist struggle."

This is the background against which U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk will meet President Chiang Kai-shek.

Rusk is due in Taipei Sunday for an overnight visit before going to Japan and South Korea.

If the Chinese Nationalists had their way, the United States would provide moral and material support, but no combat units, for an attempted comeback by Chiang Kai-shek's forces.

CAREFUL HEARING
The China Daily News, published by the Kuomintang,

Chiang's ruling party, has urged the United States to listen carefully to Chiang's views on how to win against communism in Asia.

Chiang has expressed himself in favor of destruction of the nuclear installations the Communists have built on the mainland.

The Chung Hsin Daily News, which calls itself an independent paper, says no wishful thinking can change "the hellish nature of the Chinese Communist and their threat to world peace."

The United Daily News, largest in Formosa, says there is no way to secure peace and security in Asia except by crushing that regime.

The Shin Sheng Daily News, published by the Formosa provincial government, has urged the West to "consider wiping out the nuclear installations on the China mainland before the Chinese Communists develop nuclear weapons to attack the Free World."

McLain Ready to Hit Road

Mickey Lolich Cut by Denny's Dolphins; Aguirre Bows Out

NEW YORK (NEA) — Perhaps at the end of the baseball season Mickey Lolich will be sorry he didn't heed Denny McLain's pleas to practice. Because, at the end of the season, the Detroit Tigers may be the new American League champions or even the world champions.

This not only would make the Tigers and the city of Detroit happy, it would make McLain a genius.

And Lolich sorry. McLain figures the Tigers are pennant bound. As an accomplished musician and a promising young business man, as well as a most promising young major league pitcher, McLain wants to cash in on the publicity a pennant brings.

So earlier this season he suggested to three other members of the Detroit pitching staff who also play musical instruments that they form a quartet and go on the road to make some extra money this winter.

QUARTET "I play the organ," McLain said. "Joe Sparna plays the clarinet. Hank Aguirre plays saxophone.

And Mickey plays bass guitar. "We were going to be called Denny's Dolphins, a jazz and pop quartet. But now we're down to a trio.

"Mickey just wouldn't practice, so I had to let him go. And Hank, well, he hadn't picked up a sax in 15 years, so he bowed out."

Sparna, however, is a budding Benny Goodman.

McLain has been playing organ since he was eight and even gives lessons part time to 45 youngsters in Detroit. The trio will be filled out by a non-baseball drummer type McLain has hired.

"Why not?" says McLain, 22, the first pitcher in the American League to win 10 games this year. "Mudcat Grant formed a nightclub act last year after the Twins won and he made a mint. So did Maury Wills. "To some extent we'll be helped by our names, especially if we win. But I think people who come to see us will be surprised."

CAN READ

Without actually saying it, McLain hinted that he has forgotten more music than Grant and Wills know. "At least I can read it," he said.

McLain, married to the daughter of Lou Boudreau, began playing the organ on a dare from his father, who bet him he couldn't stick to it.

"It was a big lesson for me," he said. "By the time I was a teen-ager I had learned to play pretty well, and I had learned that ambition doesn't mean much if you don't have fortitude to go with it.

McLain speaks of his only regret — that his father couldn't live to see him pitch in the majors.

"We always talked about my playing for the White Sox someday. I grew up in Chicago so it was a dream. My dad died when I was 15. He was on his way to see me pitch and had a heart attack in the car while driving past Comiskey Park."

Bengals' McAuliffe on All-Star Team

B. Robinson Leads Voting for Infielders

2nd Straight Contest as Starter for Tiger at Shortstop

NEW YORK (AP) — Third baseman Brooks Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles, the top vote getter with 237, and shortstop Dick McAuliffe of the Detroit Tigers were the only repeaters on the two starting lineups named for the July 12 All-Star baseball game at St. Louis.

Robinson and McAuliffe were joined by rookie first baseman George Scott of the Boston Red Sox and second baseman Bobby Knoop of the California Angels on the American League infield. Robinson got all but two votes of those eligible to pick him. The Orioles could not vote for their teammates.

Willie McCovey, first baseman of the San Francisco Giants, led the National League voting with 214. Joe Morgan, Houston second baseman, and Ron Santo, Chicago Cubs' third baseman, both were picked to the team although they were injured over the weekend. Leo Cardenas, Cincinnati shortstop, was the fourth member of the National League infield.

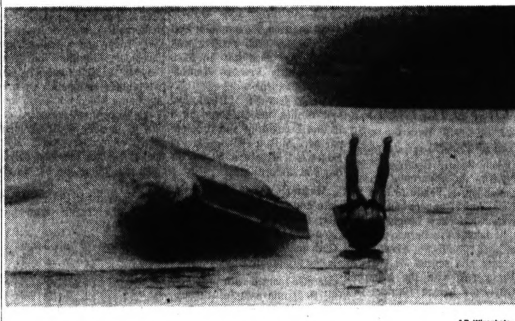

OUT OF ACTION

Morgan suffered a broken right knee cap in batting practice before Saturday's game and will be out of action for at least three weeks. Santo received a fractured cheek bone when hit by a pitched ball in Sunday's game with the New York Mets and underwent surgery Monday. Presumably, substitution will be made if they are unable to play. It will be up to Manager Walter Alston to ask Sam Rice of Minnesota to replace Morgan.

The two starting infielders were announced by Commissioner William D. Eckert's office in a change from the usual procedure. Normally, the entire starting line-up, except for the pitchers, is released at the same time.

Eckert's office will release the names of the starting outfielders Thursday and catchers Sunday. The pitching staffs and the rest of the 25-man squads will be named later.

Three Hydros in Cup Race

Roostertail Averages 108.252 M.P.H.

DETROIT (AP) — Gale's Roostertail, with Jerry Schoenheit driving, turned in an average speed of 108.252 miles per hour Monday for three hydroplanes qualified for next Sunday's running of the Gold Cup Race on the Detroit River.

Miss Madison, driven by Jim McCormick, qualified with an average of 103.514 for its three laps over the three-mile course.

Miss Lapeer, driven by William Gardner, qualified with an average of 102.272.

Seventeen powerboats are expected to attempt to qualify. The requirement is 100 miles an hour or better on three consecutive laps.

TROUBLE SPOT

Miss Chrysler turned up 104.212 miles an hour over one lap, but then withdrew for the day because of mechanical trouble.

Schoenheit's laps in Gale's Roostertail were 107.569, 108.108 and 108.095 miles an hour. Gardner shot Miss Lapeer up to 111.340, after dropping to 90.075 on his second lap.

State PGA Action Opens Tomorrow

A field of 80 professionals will start gunning for Michigan's PGA Championship tomorrow at Bob O'Link Golf Club near Novi.

Returning to defend his 1965 crown is Brian Charter of Jackson.

The pros will play 18 holes tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

Pontiac's Gene Bone, the 1965 Michigan Open champion, will be on hand along with Walter Burkero of Detroit Golf Club and Ted Kroll of Franklin Hills.

GARY PLAYER'S GOLF CLASS:

Youngsters Dominate U.S. Track Team

NEW YORK (AP) — If the United States regains the superiority in track it lost to the Russians in Kiev last year, much of the credit will belong to youngsters.

Scattered throughout the list of the competitors who will face the Russian team in a dual meet at Los Angeles July 23-24 — and the Polish team the week before at Berkeley, Calif. — are a stack of teen-agers and near-teens.

The list, released Monday by the men's track and field committee of the Amateur Athletic Union, contained the top performers in last weekend's AAU championships. Added were Tommie Smith, the sprinter from San Jose State, and Gerry Lindgren, the long-distance star from Washington State. Both missed the meet because of various ailments.

Lindgren is the elder statesman of the young stars — he's all of 20. The frail youth was named to the team at 10,000 meters, the event that thrust him into prominence two years ago when he beat the highly favored Russians in the dual meet.

Top performer among the teen-agers is Jim Ryun, 19, who is America's best at the mile. He will run the 1,500 meters and will be heavily favored. In the AAU meet, he ran the mile in 3:38.6.

Another youngster named to the long-distance crew is Riley, who has been breaking most of Lindgren's high-school records in Spokane, Wash. Riley, who is also named at 10,000 meters.

Lee Evans, also 19, from San Jose City College, will run the 400 meters against the Russians off the strength of his 45.9 victory in the 440 at the AAU meet.

There then are the pole vaulters. Bob Seegen, 19, of the Southern California Striders, holds the pending world's record of 17-5 1/2 and Paul Wilson, a Strider teammate, holds the national high-school mark of 16-3 3/4 set only last year.

How can we sell a 10¢ cigar for 6¢?

It's no secret. We make more cigars of one brand than anyone and spend only a fraction for advertising. Still, sometimes we wish we could spend more advertising this fine cigar value. But, we'd have to raise our price or cut our quality. Thus, we might not sell as many. What do you think?

Fights Terrell Tonight in Houston

Jones Makes 2nd Try for Ring Title

HOUSTON (AP) — Embattled Doug Jones makes his second attempt at a championship tonight when he pits his speed and strength against the decision won by Ernie Terrell, who holds the World's Boxing Association heavyweight title.

Jones tried for the light heavyweight crown in 1962 and to Harold Johnson in 15 rounds.

Since then, he has fought the best heavyweights he could find, including Cassius Clay, the generally recognized champion, who was just coming up then, and Ernie Terrell, who holds the World's Boxing Association heavyweight title.

So now, Jones goes against the fellow who thinks he should be the recognized champion since he represents the only world's association but realizes that Clay, although suspended while he was WBA champion, still is regarded as the big man of the game.

PREDICTS KAYO

Each predicts victory, and Jones bravely forecasts that he will knock out the taller and stronger Terrell, whose superior height and reach have made him a 6 to 5 favorite.

Terrell only says he will "beat him bad, maybe knock him out."

The two come together in a match scheduled for 15 rounds and expected to start about 11 p.m., EDT. A crowd approaching 10,000 and paying $130,000 is expected to be in Sam Houston Coliseum.

Bad Night for Mayor, but Ford Looks Sharp

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a bad night for New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, but Whitey Ford had himself a ball.

Ford, just four days off the disabled list, appeared to have regained the master's touch as he pitched three flawless innings in an exhibition game between the New York Yankees and New York Mets Monday night. The Yanks won 5-2.

Ford's last start was on May 24, but he was bothered by tendonitis and didn't last. On June 1, he was placed on the disabled list. The star Yankee left-hander returned to action last Saturday against Chicago, but did poorly. In two innings, he gave up four hits including a homer.

But Monday night it was a different story.

"I was able to keep the ball down," the 37-year-old pitcher said after the game.

Church League in 3-Way Tie

A pair of two-run homers by Wayne Morenz helped power Union Lake Baptist past Judah Lake Baptist and into a three-way tie for first place in the Waterford Church Softball League last night.

Union Lake, Judah Lake and Christ Lutheran, a 6-0 winner over Elizabeth Lake Church of Christ (4-3), all have 5-2 records.

Jim Sanders also clipped a two-run homer for Union Lake. Bob Moore pitched a two-hitter for Christ and contributed three singles.

Crescent Lake RLDS (4-3) downed Stringham (2-5) United Missionary, 11-5, as Jim Stuenkel hit a three-run homer and Dave Mellerdorf powered a circuit blow with one mate aboard.

Jim Washburn cracked a three-run homer to lead Donelson Baptist into the win column for the first time after six losses with a 13-0 triumph over St. Stephen Lutheran (3-4).

First Church of God (4-3) edged St. Paul Methodist (3-4) as Chuck Sanders provided the winning margin with a grand slam homer.

Received One Vote

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Stuart, the high-priced first baseman who was given his unconditional release by the New York Mets earlier this month, received one vote for the National League All-Star team.

Modern Johnny Appleseed

Nearly everyone is familiar with the true story of Johnny Appleseed, a pioneer of conservation, reforestation and beautification. But few are aware of the extensive reforestation program being carried on right here in Michigan!

Back in the twenties, Consumers Power started a reforestation program. Today, we plant about 750,000 trees a year. As a result, 23,000,000 additional trees are growing along Michigan's beautiful streams and rivers. These millions of trees are valuable not only as a practical conservation program, but provide wooded beauty, a haven for wildlife and add to the pleasure of hunters, tourists and vacationers.

It's another nice thing about having Consumers Power as a neighbor.

PERFUME

QUESTION: What materials are used for making perfumes?

ANSWER: One would naturally think of flowers as being very important among perfume materials. While this is true, and perfume makers extract from blossoms by various processes, flowers are not the only sources of perfume.

Various animal substances are also used, such as castor, which comes from the beaver, civet from the civet cat, and musk from the musk deer.

Ambergris from the sperm whale helps to make the odor last a long time. Synthetic materials, many made from coal tar, are also extremely useful to the modern perfumer.

It is possible to make odors from which closely resemble the fragrance of actual flowers.

The odors of jasmine and rose, for example, are often made using coal tar as a base. Rather than being made from a single source material, many perfumes are blends using a number of materials. New and unusual fragrances can be created in this way.

FOR YOU TO DO: We all have noses, but how rarely we use them to enjoy the many fragrances of nature! As examples of rare, delicate perfume, sniff an apple, then a lemon. There is a subtle difference between them. You will detect it.

Boyle Hands Out Some Free Advice on How to Be Happy

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — A columnist counts that year lost in which he doesn't write at least one article telling young people how to live.

The trouble with most advice of this kind is that it consists of high-sounding platitudes. It isn't specific enough.

So, as my good deed for 1966, here are a series of down-to-earth suggestions that should help any young man live a longer and happier life:

Never marry a girl for her money unless she signs half of it over to you before the ceremony.

Try to associate with people who have qualities you admire. But also keep one bum as a friend, too. Seeing the mistakes he makes should help keep you from making them yourself.

Always keep your seat belt buckled while riding in airplanes, or automobiles.

If you're not a "take-charge" type, don't go into business for yourself. You'll do better working for others.

GOOD BREAKFAST

Eat a good breakfast, a light lunch and a light dinner.

Don't put up with bad meals. Insist that your wife learn to be a really good cook. It'll make you both happier.

Don't go skiing after 30, or play tennis after 40, unless you can run a mile without exhaustion.

Buy shoes and shirts a half size larger than you need. You may be choking your mind and feet to death without knowing it.

CHANGE YOUR WAYS

If you have to take aspirin more than once a month, change your way of living.

Make your vacations real adventures. Avoid going to the same place more than two years in a row.

If your boss or your job make you desperately unhappy, change them both — but better do it before you are 35.

Ask for a raise in pay once a year, whether you need it or not. Unless you yourself think you are worth more to the firm, the firm won't either.

OFFICE PHONE

Don't use the office phone to place racetrack bets.

Whenever a stranger tries to sell you the Brooklyn Bridge, insist on making the down payment as small as possible.

Never brag or use a gold toothpick in public. It'll only make others envious.

Rarely drink a martini alone with your own wife — and never with another man's.

DON'T INHALE

Smoke if you want to — so long as you don't inhale.

The worst of all habits is drinking at lunch. If you simply have to have one before lunch, wait to do it until the day you retire.

Never hold another man's coat in a quarrel. It ties up your hands, and you may be the one who winds up with the black eye.

Don't argue with the income tax man. Why make a federal case out of it?

INSIDE TIPS

Listen carefully when anyone offers to give you an inside tip on the stock market, and write it down. Then tear up the paper, and forget it.

Walk three miles every day it isn't raining, and two miles when it is.

See a sunrise and read a poem at least once every week as long as you live.

If you can't tell your wife you love her when you come home tired from the office, tell her at breakfast the next morning. Sometimes that takes even more character.

Never buy more than three things at one time on the installment plan.

Avoid patting yourself on the back. It may give you buritis. Whenever you feel like suing someone — don't.

This advice, faithfully followed, may not make a young man a millionaire. But at least it should help keep him out of jail or the poorhouse. That's about all you can expect from free advice.

Polar Bear Research Boosted

By Science Service

WASHINGTON—The great white bear of the Arctic will be better protected and perhaps saved from extinction by a research grant given by the Conservation Foundation.

The grant will be used this summer by Dr. Richard A. Cooley of the University of Washington in an effort to accelerate research on the polar bear and promote international cooperation to halt the population from declining.

The polar bear inhabits five nations in the frigid regions around the Arctic—the United States, Canada, Denmark, Norway and the Soviet Union. In recent years, the bear's numbers have been declining because of the increasing number of hunters, and conservationists fear that the species might become extinct.

Teen-Ager Saved by 'Drip-In'

HOBOKEN, N.J. (AP)—About 30 mothers, fathers and babies had a drip-in at police headquarters Monday night to rescue a 17-year-old youth. The youth had turned on a fire hydrant to seek relief from one of the warmest nights on record. Immediately, dozens of nearby residents rushed out to frolic in the spray. Police arrested the youth for illegally turning on the hydrant. Angry residents, some with babies in their arms and most sopping wet, marched to the police station and demanded the boy's release. They maintained they had all turned on the hydrant. The desk sergeant let the youth go.

U.S. Jets Blast Hanoi, Haiphong Oil Depots

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. jets set raging fires with bombs and rockets today in previously immune fuel depots of Hanoi and Haiphong, representing about 60 per cent of North Viet Nam's strategic oil supply.

World reaction boiled up while smoke still soared above the flames.

One target area of the raids, which pilots described as highly successful, was three miles from the center of Hanoi, the capital.

The other was in the dock area of Haiphong, two miles from the heart of that major port.

The Russians, first of the Communist bloc to react, denounced the attacks, which were closer by several miles than any previous raids in the area of the two cities.

'DANGEROUS STEP'

Radio Moscow called it a "new and dangerous step by the U.S. ruling circles in expanding aggression against the Vietnamese people."

British Prime Minister

Harold Wilson, who has been backing American operations in Viet Nam over some parliamentary opposition, expressed regret at the raids and said, "We have made it clear on many occasions that we cannot support an extension of the bombings to such areas."

In Washington, a Pentagon officer remarked: "The price of the war has gone up. I don't know what you would call this besides an escalation."

The Senate Democratic majority leader, Mike Mansfield of Montana, said the bombing of the oil depots indicated a new stage of the war and "will make the road to the negotiating table that much more difficult."

'GREATER AID'

He told newsmen he believed "it will bring about greater amounts of aid from the Soviet Union and Peking" and the end result might be increased infiltration.

A Saigon spokesman said smoke rose 25,000 feet from the complex of fuel tanks near Hanoi and 20,000 feet from the Haiphong tanks.

The Hanoi target "was covered like a blanket," he reported.

The U.S. Command said no planes were lost in either strike, but Radio Hanoi claimed four were shot down near Hanoi and three in the Haiphong area.

CLAIM PILOTS CAPTURED

The broadcast said several U.S. pilots were captured.

The air offensive in the Communist north, now in its 16th month, completely dominated the U.S. Command's daily war report.

In South Viet Nam, where thousands of U.S. troops are in the field searching for the Communists, "only very light and scattered, minor contacts" were reported.

On the political front, the threat of a Buddhist boycott of South Viet Nam's September elections diminished as more monks rallied behind the conciliatory policy espoused by the moderate chairman of the Buddhist Institute.

The growing support in the Buddhist hierarchy for Thich Tam Chau left his militant rival, Thich Tri Quang, increasingly isolated, but Quang showed no signs of abandoning his hunger strike.

Six flights of Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs struck the petroleum complex three miles across the Red River from the center of Hanoi, using 750-pound bombs during the 25-minute attack, the U.S. spokesman said.

Four flights of Navy jets from the 7th Fleet carriers Constellation and Ranger raided the oil facilities at Haiphong, two miles from the center of the city.

City Commission Rejects Apartment Project Plan

Plans for a $3 million apartment development on Pontiac's far east side were upset last night when the City Commission rejected a planning commission recommendation and turned down a request to rezone the property.

Harsh criticism was leveled at commissioners following the 5-2 vote against the proposal.

Pact Averts Bus Driver Strike in City

A Pontiac bus strike scheduled for Friday has been averted with the acceptance of a new contract by union members at Pontiac Transit Co.

The two-year agreement, which provides a 15 cents an hour wage increase the first year, and 10 cents the second, creates new financial problems for the city, which subsidizes the operation of the firm.

Presently the city's subsidy amounts to $20,500 annually.

As a result of the new union contract, and a company proposal for the city to meet all operational costs above fare revenue and provide a 5 per cent margin of profit, the city may have to increase its subsidy to between $32,000 and $35,000 a year.

Officials of the transit company are scheduled to meet with city officials early next month to discuss a new agreement.

REPORT COMING

City Manager Joseph Warren said he would probably report the matter to the commission in mid-July.

Marvin Hillton, manager of the Pontiac Transit Co., said the contract with Local 1303 of Amalgamated Bus Drivers, AFL-CIO, raises the hourly pay rate from $2.02 to $2.17 the first year and to $2.27 the next.

Romney, Nixon Stir JC Clamor

DETROIT (AP) — The scene in Detroit's Cobo Hall yesterday could well have been a preview of the 1968 Republican convention.

More than 10,000 delegates and guests to the National Jaycees Convention whooped it up in the mammoth, pennant-decorated hall.

An organist played as first Michigan Gov. George Romney and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon strode into the spotlight.

They have been mentioned frequently as possible Republican presidential nominees in 1968.

Both wasted little time in teasing off on President Johnson's Democratic administration and its domestic policies.

Nixon had some kind words and some critical words on foreign policy, notably Viet Nam.

Political observers kept close tabs on the reactions that the two Republican leaders got.

Romney got a 62-second ovation when he was introduced. Nixon topped that with 75.

Nixon was in the more advantageous position as he was the keynote speaker for the Jaycees.

WELCOMING SPEECH

Romney's main role was to deliver a message of welcome to Michigan.

Nixon, a former member of the Jaycees and a frequent speaker at its annual meetings, was on a familiar ground and he appeared to enjoy every minute of it.

Three times he brought the audience up for a standing ovation as he took strong stands on many issues.

On domestic matters, his biggest applause came when he said, "The federal government should not help those who are not willing to help themselves."

On foreign affairs, he hit a responsive note with the delegates.

Move Explained by McNamara

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today bombing of oil installations in the Haiphong-Hanoi areas was a response to a Communist shift "from a small arms guerrilla action against South Viet Nam to a quasi-conventional military action."

At a broadcast and televised news conference McNamara treated the operation as highly successful.

"There's no question but that these attacks will make infiltration far more costly for North Viet Nam," he said in response to a question.

And he said infiltration "is the foundation of its aggression against South Viet Nam."

McNamara relayed to newsmen a report from the strike force that 80 per cent of the facilities near the port city of Haiphong had been destroyed, and damage was "heavy" at the facilities near the capital of Haiphong at a smaller facility near Do Son.

CAREFULLY RESTRICTED

He emphasized throughout that the strikes were carefully restricted to military targets and limited objectives — "not aimed to destroy the Communist government of North Viet Nam or destroy or damage the people of North Viet Nam."

Big Contract to GMC Truck

A $5,449,202 contract was awarded today to GMC Truck & Coach Division by the Army Automotive Center, Warren, to build 46,141 components and replacement parts for 2½ ton cargo trucks.

The award was made in Washington, and announced by Congressman Billie S. Farner.

In all, 15 different pieces of equipment will be produced.

FBI Is Probing 'Leak' on Raids

Checking if Officials Tipped Off Newsmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI, on President Johnson's orders, has launched an intensive inquiry into whether U.S. officials tipped off newsmen about the decision to expand bombing in North Viet Nam oil facilities. It was learned today. Both the FBI and administration sources declined comment. But other sources said the investigation was under way, spurred by a concern at the highest levels over the possibility that word of today's bombing had been given out in advance.

The general rule within the administration is to refuse comment on any specific future military operation.

The stated reason is to avoid giving advance plans to the enemy and thus endangering the lives of U.S. servicemen.

It was understood that a prime purpose of the current inquiry is to guard against future "leaks."

COST OF AGGRESSION

Johnson told a news conference June 18 that in attacking North Viet Nam military targets "we must continue to raise the cost of aggression at its source."

The following week a number of news stories pointed toward bombing of the oil depots outside Hanoi and Haiphong.

Seamen Strike in Britain Ends

LONDON (AP) — Britain's 45-day seamen's strike was settled today.

The Executive Committee of the National Seamen's Union voted 29 to 15 to call off the strike after meeting all morning at their South London headquarters.

The decision followed by less than 24 hours a charge in the House of Commons by Prime Minister Harold Wilson that Communists were pressuring the seamen to prolong the dispute for political motives.

The vote of the union leadership indicated that militants still were holding out for better terms but were beaten down by the moderate element.

The ship owners, in meetings yesterday with union chiefs, were adamant.

Their final offer was an immediate cut in the working week at sea from 58 hours to 48 with a further eight-hour cut next June, plus 48 days annual vacation.

Area Parks Brace: Humans Are Coming

By DON VOGEL, Outdoor Editor, The Pontiac Press

State park personnel, still reeling from last Sunday's record-breaking surge of humanity, are bracing for another major shock this weekend.

"I've never seen anything like Sunday," said Alfred Masini, park supervisor for the Conservation Department's Pontiac Lake district that includes Oakland, Wayne, Macomb and part of St. Clair counties.

"If the weather stays hot over the July 4th weekend, the situation is going to be worse."

Masini said that "all existing records were broken" at state parks in Oakland County Sunday.

The crush was so great at

CALL OF THE WATER—Parked cars lined both sides of Gale Road in the Pontiac Lake recreation area Sunday, and traffic was backed up nearly to Williams Lake Road. For the first time in the park's history, the gates had to be closed because the parking lot was full. The same situation existed at other parks in the area.

HIS MAN WON—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy stands behind State Supreme Court Justice Samuel J. Silverman at the latter's campaign headquarters in New York today as Silverman thanks voters after an upset victory for nomination for Manhattan Surrogate court in yesterday's primary. Kennedy backed Silverman in the election.

Bob Kennedy Big Winner in New York Power Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has won a power test with Tammany Hall that has strengthened his control over the New York State Democratic party.

But at the same time yesterday, Sen. Jacob K. Javits—a possible Republican candidate for vice president in 1968—saw a GOP moderate he supported for Congress defeated by a Goldwater Republican in the New York primary.

And four Negro candidates for the South Carolina General Assembly, who had led the Democratic ticket in the June 14 primary, were defeated in a runoff election.

If they had won yesterday and in November's general election, they would have become the first members of their race in the Legislature since 1901.

Kennedy had backed the regular party organization in Manhattan by supporting State Supreme Court Justice Samuel J. Silverman as judge of the patronage-rich Surrogate Probate Court.

HAD GOP SUPPORT

Silverman won the nomination, defeating another State Supreme Court Justice, Arthur G. Klein, who was backed by Tammany Hall leader J. Raymond Jones as well as the Republican party.

Since Silverman also was supported by the Liberal party and reform Democrats, his victory also enhanced Kennedy's liberal image.

Kennedy said Silverman's victory was "of great significance to the people of New York and to the Democratic party."

Complete unofficial returns gave Silverman 70,771 votes, Klein 47,825 and a third candidate, Criminal Court Judge Thomas E. Rohan, 8,084.

'PAWNS'

Kennedy had denied trying to force Jones from his political post, saying he became involved because he felt strongly about the race and the judiciary. But Klein had described himself and Silverman as "pawns."

Javits, New York's other senator, had supported William J. Casey, who was defeated by former Rep. Steven B. Dromonin for the GOP nomination to a U. S. House seat from Long Island.

Dromonin, who supported the presidential candidacy of Barry M. Goldwater in 1964, had represented a Nassau County district until his defeat in the Johnson landslide. He won nomination yesterday by a 20,492-15,956 vote.

Dromonin will face the man who beat him in 1964, Democrat Lester Wolf, in the November election.

State Budget Bills Snagged

Road, Park Compromises Are Sought

LANSING (AP)—Lawmakers try again today to find a compromise somewhere between an Upper Peninsula "Copper Country" road and a southern Lake Michigan wilderness park.

The two remaining bills implementing the 1966-67 state budget snagged on these two issues in a heated session that lasted into the early hours Saturday. Both houses adjourned until August after failing to reach agreement — technically killing the $71-million capital outlay bill.

But they were called back into an open-ended session, starting today, by House and Senate majority leaders. Speaker Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit, and Senate Majority Leader Raymond Dezelic, D-Detroit, say they are optimistic that the bills can be passed before the beginning of the new fiscal year Friday.

There were indications, however, that the House and Senate were no closer to agreement today than they were when they adjourned in a huff Saturday.

Rep. Floyd Mattheussen, D-Benton Harbor, is the chief backer of the proposed Grand Mere State Park near Benton Harbor. He argues that the state has less than six months to acquire 1,200 acres of wilderness, including more than a mile of Lake Michigan beach and sand dunes, before it is turned into a commercial development.

Still awaiting action is the $314.5 million restricted funds bill, containing the road.

He appeared to have won the backing of a large number of House members. They refused Saturday to go along with Senate restrictions on the land acquisition.

Under these restrictions, the state would have to pay out a maximum of $500,000, to be matched by an equal amount in federal funds. The money would have to be spent before next December 31, the state could commit itself to no further financial obligation and the state could not use condemnation proceedings to acquire any of the land.

The restrictions made the property almost impossible to acquire, backers said.

The 14-mile road in Ontonagon County leads to holdings of the White Pine Copper Co. The restricted funds bill, as amended in the Senate, would direct that $500,000 be spent in the coming fiscal year to improve the road. It expresses legislative intent that the state spend another half-million in the following year and $400,000 the year after that. The money for improvement of the road would be matched by similar amounts of federal money — for a total of $2.8 million, or $300,000 per mile.

Married Men Facing Draft

State May Call Some to Fill August Quota

Previously deferred married men may have to be called to fill the August draft call for Michigan, State Selective Service Director Col. Arthur Holmes said yesterday.

The August call of 2,900 is the third highest of the year and includes 254 men from Oakland County.

Holmes said some men married before Aug. 28, 1965, will be included in the draft, which so far has been filled with volunteers, single men, and registrants married less than a year.

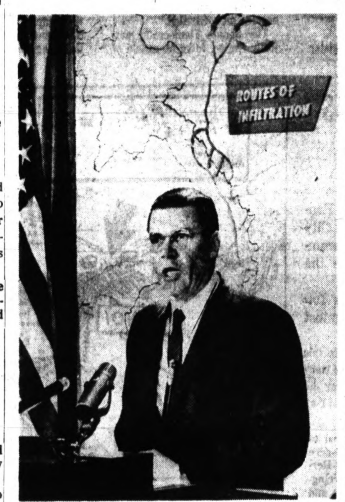

The August quota is exceeded only by the 3,629 drafted in May and the 3,301 in January.

Of the county total, 126 are to be called from Pontiac's three boards, 39 from Farmington Board 328, and 59 from the three Royal Oak boards.

RANKS THIRD

Oakland County's quota of 254 ranks third highest in the state. The quota for Washtenaw County is 260.

Wayne County, as usual, accounted for the largest call by far with a total of 918.

Beautification Unit After Better Communications

BIRMINGHAM — Stepped-up communications is No. 1 on the Beautification Birmingham Committee's list of goals.

City Commissioner Mrs. Ruth McKinney, a member of the committee, said educational campaigns through schools and young people's groups, property owners' associations and other existing organizations are going to be main features of the program.

Information on litter, conservation and maintenance of homes and property will be increased in the on-going campaign.

The committee also plans to increase the number of flowers and trees in residential and downtown areas.

One of the committee's accomplishments is the "conversation corner" behind the Municipal Building. A small area with benches, evergreens, flowers and a tree, the spot is proving to be popular with area residents.

MORE PLANNED

Mrs. McKinney said more of these corners are planned for appropriate locations in the city.

Plans were also discussed at yesterday's meeting for the Beautification Council of Southeastern Michigan conference to be held at the Community House Oct. 20.

Over 400 representatives are expected to attend.

The director of the council is Thomas Bryon of the Birmingham Department of Public Works.

Eight students from six Birmingham-Bloomfield area high schools were among 79 Michigan seniors honored Monday night at a Chrysler Corp. scholarship awards dinner in Detroit.

Groves High School students honored are: Marjorie E. Alvin, 5500 Inkster, Bloomfield Township; Janet A. Ball, 17198 Buckingham, Beverly Hills; and Gail S. Lanard, 2115 Sunset, Beverly Hills.

Others are Cicely R. Guenther, 1141 Lake Park, Birmingham; Robert W. Lotz, 885 Kenneway, Birmingham; Seanholm High School; and James F. Mitchell, 2071 Birchland, West Bloomfield Township, Brother Rich High School.

Also attending were Kathleen M. Heinen, 4595 Burnley, Marian High School; and Kathleen McKinney, 3701 Franklin, Bloomfield Hills High School, both of Bloomfield Township.

SELECTION SETUP

Scholarship recipients, all sons and daughters of Chrysler employees, were selected by the National Merit Scholarship Corp.

The 79 Michigan students received a total of $55,000 in stipends.

Bomb Threat Made at Nixon's Hotel

BAY CITY (AP)—There was a bomb scare at a Bay City hotel where former Vice President Richard Nixon spoke at a dinner Tuesday night.

A telephone operator said she got a call at 8:05 p.m. A male voice, she told police, said a bomb was set to go off in the Winona Hotel at 8:20 p.m.

Police and firemen searched the hotel, scene of a $100-a-plate Republican dinner. No bomb was found and the dinner was held as scheduled with extra police surveillance.

2 From Area Hurt in Dixie Plane Crash

Two Pontiac area men were injured yesterday when their single-engine plane crashed near Blairsville, in northern Georgia.

Walter H. Krueger of 5848 Jerome, Waterford Township, who received back injuries, was placed under intensive care in Atlanta's Crawford W. Long Memorial Hospital.

The other man, Ronald McDougall, 159 Whittemore, was reported to be in satisfactory condition after suffering bruises in the crash. He is at Union County General Hospital, Ga.

The plane crashed in an attempt to land at the county airport according to Union County Sheriff W. C. Bowling.

Aussie Prime Minister Backs LBJ Viet Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Australian Prime Minister Harold Holt told President Johnson today that as Johnson makes "heavy and lonely" decisions on the Viet Nam war, he can count on the Aussies being at his side.

Speaking after an impressive 19-gun salute on the White House lawn to formally welcome Holt to Washington, neither Johnson nor Holt made direct mention of the new U. S. bombing raids on North Viet Nam's two principal cities, Hanoi and Haiphong.

They took control Tuesday after the army overthrew the civilian government of President Arturo Illia in a bloodless overnight coup.

The military gave no indication how long it intends to remain in power. Veteran observers predicted it will be several years before it permits election of another civilian regime.

He said that North Viet Nam's military units in the South had almost doubled in the first five months of 1966 despite heavy losses.

McNamara sidestepped all questions about reaction to the new U. S. move to make the war more costly, but that reaction came fast.

And in a simultaneous strike at a surface-to-air missile site 20 miles from the North Vietnamese capital one challenging Communist MIG was "probably destroyed," he reported.

In recent days, he said, North Viet Nam has been trying to disperse and redistribute its petroleum facilities and supplies.

Presumably this was prompted because U. S. planes in the past month have made a concerted effort to knock out what might be considered secondary fuel sites.

McNamara said the truck movements southward had doubled in the first five months of this year over the comparable period last year.

He said there had been an increase of 10 per cent in the amount of supplies delivered over the same period in 1965.

GREAT RELIANCE

Both of these factors had led to greater reliance on petroleum supplies and products by North Viet Nam.

Junta General Given Control of Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Lt. Gen. Juan Carlos Onganía, a former army chief, was sworn in today as head of a new military regime that hopes to win over some of the masses still loyal to Juan D. Peron.

The ceremony at government house was brief.

Onganía, 52, was picked by a three-man military junta made up of the present commanders of the army, navy and air force.

They took control Tuesday after the army overthrew the civilian government of President Arturo Illia in a bloodless overnight coup.

Their chief concern, emphasized Wayne Babcock, spokesman for the home owners association, was an increase in the amount of traffic that the development would generate.

As did others, Babcock pointed out that traffic would be congested because the only entrance and exit to the development would be from Bay Street.

Fears were also expressed that home values in the area would be downgraded if the property wasn't developed properly.

NO DRIVEWAY LAND

Dresner said that many attempts had been made to purchase property fronting on Mount Clemens to provide another driveway into the development, but he was only able to obtain one option, and the width of the single parcel made it unsuitable.

Georgia Whites, Negroes in Gunfight

CORDELE, Ga. (AP) — Armed whites and Negroes exchanged dozens of shots today in a furious gun battle which erupted at two neighboring service stations.

Police said no injuries were reported. But a hail of gunfire was exchanged before the arrival of police and state troopers quelled the violence, leaving an uneasy quiet in this South Georgia city which has witnessed sporadic racial violence during the last three days.

Officers said shots from pistols, rifles and shotguns ripped into several cars and buildings during the nearly 30 minutes gunfire.

Police said the gunmen, scattered around the two service stations, broke into small groups and fled when officers, supplemented by more than 30 state troopers, moved in.

POLICE HOLD FIRE
Officers said no shots were fired at police. The police did not have to fire a shot to break up the battle.

There was no immediate indication of how the hostilities started, how many persons were involved, or which side fired the first shots.

No arrests were made immediately, police said.

Officers said about 12 shotguns and rifles were stolen from a store burglarized earlier in the night.

State Cleric Heads Lutheran District

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Eastern District of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod elected Tuesday the Rev. Herman Frincke of Williamsville, N.Y., as its first full-time president.

Mr. Frincke has been executive director of the district.

Mr. Frincke, a native of Royal Oak, Mich., is the fourth generation of his family to serve as a clergyman in the Missouri Synod.

One of the service stations is operated by a white man who said earlier he had been threatened by a Negro because he let a white motorist use his telephone to call police and report a damage. Officers said several bands of Negro youths were reported in the southwest section before the gun battle erupted.

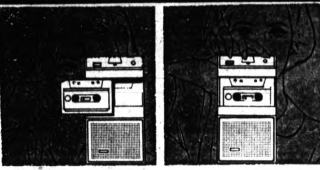

The operator, Dewitt Brown, said an unidentified Negro had threatened to burn the station.

Police said Tuesday night some white persons apparently had armed themselves and were spending the night at their businesses in an attempt to discourage window breaking and other damage. Officers said several bands of Negro youths were reported in the southwest section before the gun battle erupted.

White Lake Board Slates Study

Delay on Gravel Pit

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — The Township Board last night delayed action on a request for operation of a gravel pit on Ormond Road.

The board will study area gravel pit operations to determine the best solution for cleaning up the area, on the east side of the road one mile north of M59.

Township Supervisor Edward Cheyz said the abandoned gravel pit is an eyesore to the community and has obstructed any development of the area.

Attorney Joseph Kosik, representing an anonymous client, requested a permit for a suction mining operation on the 82 acres. Plans are to work and improve the area and to build a subdivision on the property in the future.

A township ordinance prohibits mining more than 10 acres of the land at a time and specifies that it must be restored before operations continue.

SET TO POST BOND — Kosik said his client is prepared to post a security bond large enough to cover any possible bankruptcy or failure to comply with the agreement.

Residents of the area were concerned about the amount of noise, dust and traffic that the operation would produce. But, said Cheyz, they were most concerned whether the operation would affect the water level of White Lake.

Cheyz said that township engineers had determined that the gravel pit pond was four feet lower than the level of White Lake and that they were not in the same water pocket.

Boring tests were recommended, however, to make sure the White Lake water table would not be disturbed by the operation.

The board expects to complete its study in a month, at which time it hopes to be able to decide on the permit, said Cheyz.

Utica Will Rent Rooms for Pupils

UTICA — The board of education is going to have to rent outside rooms next year to take care of the overflow of pupils at Sterling Elementary School.

Schools Supt. Philip E. Runkel said there will be enough children at the school next year to fill 10 rooms more than the building contains.

Last year the overflow was housed in Sterling Junior High School but all rooms there will be filled next year, he said.

To temporarily solve its problem, the board of education will rent four classrooms from St. Matthias Catholic School, across the street from Sterling Elementary, and one from Christ Lutheran Church.

Rearrangements, which include putting three classes in the multipurpose room, will be made within the building.

ABOUT A YEAR — Runkel said the situation is expected to last about a year until four new elementary schools, now under construction, are completed.

In other action Monday night, the board appointed James King, presently head of the high school business cooperative program, to the new position of vocational director.

King will be responsible for upgrading the vocational education program and for applying for government funds for vocational education.

The board also set Aug. 22, as the date for a public hearing on the 1966-67 school budget.

OFFICIAL CREST — A composite of two designs will make up Rochester's village seal. To be used on village correspondence and official documents, the seal represents industry, education, religion and beautification. Winners of the design contest sponsored by the Rochester Area Beautification Council were Mrs. Donald Bishop, 1816 Ansal, Avon Township, and O. L. Hooper, 8135 Tipisco, Holly.

Library Tax Proposal Is Delayed in Troy

TROY — A plan to seek additional millage to finance a new library has been delayed until representatives of the City Commission meet with the library board July 11.

The commission has been considering submitting a half-mill tax proposal to a vote of the residents.

A portion of the money raised by the tax increase would be used for building and the remainder for operating expenses.

The library now is housed in a store on Livernois and East Square Lake Road.

In other commission action, the city manager was authorized to restrict the use of water in the southwest corner of the city if it becomes necessary.

REDUCED PRESSURE

City Clerk J. Lawson Lockhart said the engineering department is trying to determine the cause of, and a solution to, reduced water pressure in that area.

If it becomes necessary, lawn sprinkling will be prohibited between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Sprinkling will be allowed at odd-numbered days of the month.

Those with even numbers will be permitted to sprinkle only on even days of the month.

The commission was informed that the police department's driver licensing services will be discontinued on July 31. The Secretary of State's office is to inform the police department where drivers licenses can be obtained after that date.

BURDEN ON TROY

Police Chief Forest O. Fisher Jr. said surrounding communities are discontinuing their licensing services and it would place a burden on Troy to service residents from those communities.

The commission was also told that its proposed study of a future hospital in Troy is unnecessary at this time.

Prof Named Top Dairyman

CORVALLIS, Ore. — Donald L. Murray, a Michigan State University professor, received a $1,000 award last night as the nation's outstanding extension dairyman.

The American Dairy Science Association presented the award to Murray, who was active in campaigning for the recently enacted uniform dairy inspection code in Michigan.

Festival Work Is Under Way

ROCHESTER — Work has already begun on the 1967 Art in Apples Festival to be held Sept. 14-17.

Dr. and Mrs. John Solverson, 310 W. University have been appointed co-chairmen of next year's community-wide event.

Reappointed to serve with them on the Arts Commission, the governing board of the biennial festival, are Elizabeth Hinkel, Eugene Maistret and Mrs. Edward Howe.

New members of the commission are Mrs. Donald Bishop, Neil Hartwig and Robert J. Janski. They will fill positions vacated by retiring commission members Mrs. James Saile,

Management of the four-day event will be under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vernia.

IMPROVED GRADING

Preliminary plans call for improved grading on the site behind the municipal building, enlarging the concession area, better interior decorations of the tents and two or three more exhibits than were in the 1965 Festival.

The first festival, held last year, was attended by more than 20,000 persons.

Holly School Officials Study How to Get Out the Vote

HOLLY — Booths, banners and sound trucks are among the methods being considered to promote the July 25 school millage election here.

Board of education trustees and members of the citizens advisory committee are putting their heads together to devise ways of getting out the vote.

On the ballot July 25 will be a proposed 5-mill levy. The new tax, which would be levied for four years, would boost school taxes to $27.70 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

The same proposal failed by one vote, 364-363, on the June 13 ballot.

Voter turnout for that election represented 20 per cent of the district's registered electorate.

CANT PROMOTE

The board of education cannot legally spend its money on promoting a favorable millage vote, Schools Supt. Russell B. Haddon explained.

But the board can explain the issue and urge people to vote.

Suggestions for the approaching campaign include publishing a list of the registered voters in the district and reminders of the small group of people who made the millage decision June 13, Haddon said.

Other ideas are to use a sound truck sponsored by a service organization, to hang banners across the main streets, to telephone voters, to mail letters and to send notes home with school children.

VILLAGE BOOTH

Also suggested was the opening of a booth in the village where voters could talk with school officials about the proposal.

The additional levy is proposed to help offset a budget deficit, to improve curriculum and to hire 11 teachers, one clerk, one custodian and one vacation guidance director.

The current levy includes $100 for debt retirement, $75 for operations and a 7-mill extra-voted levy due to expire next year.

Haddon said that if the vote is not passed, the board may be forced to reduce the district's staff and to close the Patterson Elementary School addition.

FIRM BANKRUPT — The board also was informed at Monday's meeting that the Bersche Construction Co. of Pontiac, which held the construction contract for an addition to Devensburg Elementary School, has gone into involuntary bankruptcy.

Haddon said that it will take two weeks for bonds to be released before the contract can be given to the Tandy Construction Co., the next lowest bidder.

Although the addition will not be completed by fall, Haddon said the delay will not affect the opening of school since no classrooms are included in the plans.

Bunyan Festival to Be Big

Plans are being made on a grand scale for this year's Paul Bunyan Festival in Union Lake, August 7, 8 and 9.

Floata and numerous bands will highlight the opening parade Aug. 7. Approximately 50 representatives of the nearby Nike Missile base will take part in the festivities.

The Oakland County sheriff's posse will be riding high as their horses grace down the avenue. Area fire departments also will be represented in the colorful pageant.

Last year's parade was one and one-half miles long and festival officials are hoping to match or exceed that achievement.

Other activities include a water show with skiing and boating tricks, helicopter and pony rides, a trout pond and a pep parade.

PENNY A VOTE

Schools and civic organizations will sponsor a king and queen contest. Votes for the contestants will cost one cent.

Fifty per cent of the proceeds

Troy Principal Is Named

TROY — The board of education has appointed William Jacka, assistant high school principal, as the new principal of Baker Junior High School.

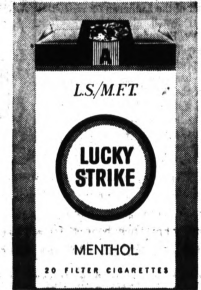

Jacka will succeed John Diebner who has been made administrative assistant for the district.

Prior to his present position, he was assistant principal at the junior high school for six years.

In other action last night, the board named Clyde Peterson as principal-designate of the new Rex B. Smith Junior High School, now under construction. He is now principal of Big Beaver and Colerain elementary schools.

Peterson's position will become effective July 1, 1967. The school is scheduled for completion in September, 1967.

"Head Start" Needs Helping Hand

One activity administered by Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity that meets unqualified approval of the community is the national "Head Start" concept. Its purpose is to give disadvantaged pre-kindergartners exposure to cultural and educational fundamentals their home environment has denied them.

The summer program that began Monday is expected to enroll 850 youngsters in the county's five school systems that have adopted it. This is the second year of participation by Pontiac schools.

The apparatus of the program is entirely supported by Federal funds in the formation of study groups of about 15 children presided over by a professional or semi-professional instructor. But volunteers provide the physical and supervisory needs of the tots.

Currently, there is local need for volunteers. They may be adult women or teen-agers. The only specification is that they must be interested in and like children.

We can think of no finer contribution—it need be no more than one day a week—toward strengthening the fiber of deprived American children than voluntary service under the banner of this worthy cause.

Highland Park Solon Seen Running True to Form

As a maker of laws, Democrat, State Senator BASIL W. BROWN of Highland Park has shown marked inability to observe them.

Last spring, the five-term solon was in the toils of the Internal Revenue Service because of income tax evasion, after many years' involvement with the police over assorted traffic violations.

Now, as he prepares for a sixth-term bid for the Michigan Senate, he has sold his car and turned in his driver's license until, in his own words, he can win his battle with alcoholism. As the outgrowth of two drunken-driving charges, Brown Monday pleaded guilty to one of them and was fined in a Lansing court.

We would be a bit more impressed with the senator's transition into rectitude had he refrained from introducing a touch of hanky panky into his forthcoming campaign—even though it's legal.

In girding himself for the August 2 Democratic primary, Brown induced his wife to submit her name as a candidate in a political felt, her name to be withdrawn at the last minute.

Then, further to dilute his opposition, there appear four other names on the ballot. One of them is also named BROWN and another, PATRICK WALSH ("PADDY"), turns out to be a former Democratic senator now 74 and currently serving as a night watchman in the Senate.

When asked how such an unlikely candidate got on the ballot, Brown replied, "I'll take the fifth."

All in all, we think the lawmaker would be doing his constituency a service if, in addition to his driver's license, he'd turn in his Senate seat.

Most Americans Work Part-Time for Uncle Sam

Representative EDWARD J. GURNER, R-Fla., has introduced a resolution in Congress which would designate May 1 as a day of celebration. But, the odds are that government leaders would rather not call the significance of this date to the public's attention.

Regardless, Rep. GURNER's resolution has merit. It would hail May 1 as "National Tax Freedom Day." It is the first day of the year that people begin working for themselves!

From January 1 until April 30, every dollar the taxpayer earns belongs to the government; he must pay it out in Federal, state or local taxes. In the words of the Congressman, "This is simply another way of saying that the average American's tax load is costing him one-third of his income, or 33 cents out of every dollar he earns."

As Congress votes more billions to further the ideology of the welfare state, National Tax Freedom Day will move forward on the calendar. When it reaches July 4, there will no longer be any reason to celebrate American independence.

—There won't be any.

He Won the Case, but Not Freedom

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — At 26 Ernesto Miranda is in a box — one of the strangest in American history.

He won a landmark decision from the Supreme Court, but, as a by-product of his victory, faces 20 years in jail. He will stay there unless the court can be persuaded to consider his case again.

But, if it does, this will be the first time the court ever encountered a problem like Miranda's. His is not a pretty story but here it is step by step.

In 1963 he was arrested in MARLOW his Phoenix, Ariz., home, taken to a police lineup and there identified as the man who had committed two crimes eight months apart, a rape and a robbery.

Police then questioned him in a private room for about two hours. In that time he made written confessions of both crimes. They were used against him at his trials on both charges. He was convicted of both.

The police admitted he had not been told he could have a lawyer before they questioned him at all. And had the police clearly told him he didn't have to answer any question?

The American Civil Liberties Union got interested and enlisted the help of a distinguished Arizona constitutional lawyer, John P. Frank, who, with his associates and for special legal reasons, made this decision:

They would appeal Miranda's conviction in the rape case, instead of the robbery case. The case went to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The court handled the problem in one bundle: The case of Miranda and three other men, all convicted of robbery elsewhere and all with the same basic complaint — that their confessions had not really been voluntary.

On June 13 the court overturned all four convictions and laid down this order for the future:

Before police question a prisoner they must tell him clearly he does not have to answer, that he is entitled to have a lawyer with him, and if he can't afford one, that the state will supply him with a lawyer.

IT SEEMS LOGICAL

So Miranda won — on the rape case. It might have seemed logical to assume that now his lawyers could appeal his robbery conviction and expect the court automatically to throw that one out, too, and for the same reason.

But when the court gave its June 13 decision, it knew this action would spark a deluge of appeals from all over the country from men who, already convicted of crimes, would argue their confessions had not been voluntary.

To head off this enormous rush, the court on June 20 said that its June 13 ruling would not apply to convictions before then but only to those whose trials occurred after June 13.

But where did that leave Miranda, still serving a 20-25 year robbery sentence?

Can't Seem To Break Up The Sit-In

David Lawrence Says:

Rights Protection Suit Debatable

WASHINGTON — An unusual issue in American government has just been raised. For, in effect, the federal government is demanding that the mayor of a city and his police chief provide "reasonable" protection for demonstrators who receive punishment for negligence.

LAWRENCE

But just how can a federal court tell a local government that is "reasonable" protection? What are the standards of measurement? Must a mayor put a specific number of police on duty and must they be given instructions to arrest everybody who engages in a riot so as to prevent further disturbances?

The administration now has intervened in a federal court and demanded that proper protection be given to Negroes.

The suit charges that, when Negro marchers led by Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King were engaged in a stone-throwing and fist-swinging battle with local whites which later resulted in gunfire in and outside Philadelphia, Miss., the authorities did not do their duty.

The Justice Department names as defendants the mayor, the police chief and the board of aldermen and alleges that they failed to provide protection for the Negroes even though there was advance notice of the march.

If there is a legal justification for imposing penalties on the mayor and police chief and other officials of a city, then presumably the federal judiciary now can order the removal of all such officers, even up to the governor of a state.

The attorney general asked the court to order the local authorities to "give and enforce instructions that law enforcement officers take steps which are reasonably necessary to protect officers from assault, harassment or intimidation that discourages the exercise of federally protected rights" and to "discipline law enforcement officers who have failed to perform assigned duties concerning the protection of persons engaged in the exercise of federally protected rights."

If the federal government has the power to intervene and to determine the efficiency of local police forces, then Northern cities, too, may soon expect a similar procedure through complaints filed in the federal courts by the Department of Justice.

The responsibility for the management of a police force rests primarily with the mayor of the city and the police chief.

If the Federal government has the right to intervene and if the courts uphold such demands, the inevitable result is to put in the hands of the federal government the power to remove the mayor and the police chief and to pass judgment on whether their successors are competent and can carry out the edicts of the Department of Justice.

Capital Letter:

Scranton Abdication Plan Had No Strings Attached

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON — Gov. William Scranton's Sherburne renunciation of further political ambitions has now passed into the history books.

Less well known is the fact that at a quiet meeting several weeks ago he also made another Montgomery declaration of abdication.

Without any strings attached he named Sen. Hugh Scott the "national spokesman" for Pennsylvania Republicans, and passed the mantle of state leadership to Lieut. Gov. Ray Shaffer, who is running for governor this fall.

Scranton is expected to accept the chairmanship of the state committee's platform committee that will draft the "progressive" planks on which Pennsylvania Republican candidates will run this fall.

Sen. Scott, the new national spokesman, is a former Republican national chairman and general counsel for the Grand Old Party.

A real "pro," he also served as chairman of Eisenhower national headquarters during the '52 campaign, and at a Nixon campaign aide in 1960.

AHEAD OF TICKET

Reelected in 1964, Scott ran a million-and-a-half votes ahead of the ticket in Pennsylvania, while President Johnson simultaneously carried the state by 1,458,000 against Barry Goldwater.

A member of the GOP's liberal wing in the Senate, Scott is vice chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, and is expected to become chairman next January unless freshman Sen. George Murphy, marshals unexpected strength.

The outcome of such a contest could have a decided impact on senatorial races in '68, since Murphy is a conservative, and the chairman has a major voice in distributing campaign funds to senatorial candidates.

Scott's moderate views were dramatized at a Republican National Committee meeting last week, when he took the lead in expelling the ultra-right-wing "rat finks" of New Jersey for "bigotry."

Under Scott's prodding, the Young Republican Federation was further ordered to remove any national officer found to have participated in such racist or anti-semitic activities.

It looks like Gen. Eisenhower's adopted state of Pennsylvania is determined to carry on his "crusade" for a revitalized Republican party.

Unwanted Advice

Chicago Tribune

In our guest editorial column today we reprint a piece from the New York Times advising Congress on the pending bill to establish a national park in the Indiana Dunes area. The Times is unhappy because a House subcommittee, in redrafting the measure, took several small areas out of the proposed park.

The Dunes park problem is not a simple one, and those who comment on it ought to know what they are talking about. There are many other problems, closer to home, on which the Times is far better informed. Among them are New York City's tragic financial condition, the successive of ruinous strikes, the loss of thousands of jobs, the water shortage, the soaring cost of welfare, and the problem of an overcrowded city.

The Times might well devote itself to these matters and cease giving gratuitous advice to distant communities. The people and legislators of Indiana are qualified to deal with the Dunes question without any assistance from New York.

Voice of the People:

Says Sewers Cost Less Than Disease and Death

Some people are "penny wise and pound foolish." This certainly applies to the letter-writer who suggested a study of residents' finances before determining whether sewers should be constructed. To subject your families, friends and neighbors to the possibility of disease and death because of unsanitary sewage conditions is certainly pretty cheap thinking and could be more costly than the price of sewers.

Septic tanks are a temporary stop gap for sewage disposal. Sooner or later the overflow floats in the ditches and gutters on its way to contaminate the streams, lakes and the world.

Think it over and weight the cost against results. REALLY CONCERNED

'O'Brien Elected Through Ticket Voting'

I had to laugh at the write-up on Senator Carl O'Brien's accomplishments and how he "single-handedly" won the race for Senator. He got in only on the Democratic ticket with Johnson.

I personally would not vote for a man who has had an arrest record with the police department.

Horse Lover Asks Cooperation of Public

Horse lovers and owners would like to request a few things that would make it safer for children to ride their horses this summer:

1. Do not throw empty bottles alongside the roads.
2. Do not lean out your car window, yell, honk your horn, etc., when approaching or passing a horse.
3. Stay as far from a horse as you can when passing it on the road.

A horse can jump in front of a car before the rider can stop it, especially if a young or inexperienced rider.

Question and Answer

If I wanted to put on a half-hour TV show at a good viewing hour, how much would it cost?

DAY DREAMER

REPLY

According to a spokesman for one national advertising agency, it would cost approximately $32,000 for half an hour of prime time. That is for a one-time arrangement. If you buy several half hours, you might be able to bargain for a little lower price. But don't get excited if you have that much to spend—that's just the beginning. All the talent and production costs are extra and the range of those costs is enormous, depending on whom and what you want on your show.

today is more than enough proof.

Anyone who follows developments in Latin American countries has to recall the plan that was approved at Havana. The resources required for this first stage can only come from Moscow and Prague and, without their help, Cuba's export of Castroism wouldn't be worth bothering about.

This phase is handled by leftist students who promote conflict throughout our hemisphere. And student groups here in Argentina have answered with posters in the streets that they are mobilizing to carry out the objectives of the Tri-Continental Conference.

But this is not limited to more or less authentic student activities. Already in Peru and Guatemala there have occurred acts that look toward future stages. Lima denounces the discovery of an arsenal that was intended to arm and revive the rural guerrillas.

The program of the Havana Tri-Continental Conference is already in operation. There is not a single country that has been spared some manifestation.

And all of this works through Moscow. Yet Russia's government — while it refuses every offer looking toward peace and disarmament — continues to proclaim itself the champion of the solidarity of the people.

Of all the people that they manage to enslave, naturally.

Junior Editors Quiz on LLAMAS

QUESTION: Where did the llamas of South America come from?

ANSWER: We are all familiar with big, clumsy Old World camel (1). But it will surprise many to find out that the camel's ancestors did not come from the Old World but from North America.

About 38 million years ago, animals about the size of a sheep, with long neck and legs, appeared in North America.

Some of these wandered to Asia and North Africa America and Asia being connected at that time) and became the ancestors of the camel, which grew very large. Others migrated to South America. These were the ancestors of the llamas of today.

The vicuna (2) is small but has a valuable fleece. The guanaco (3) is larger.

Both of these are wild animals; it is thought the two other forms have been domesticated from the guanaco. The alpaca (4) is raised for its valuable wool and the llama (5) for its meat, hide and value in transportation.

Like all camels, llamas are haughty and stubborn. When given too heavy a load, they lie down.

FOR YOU TO DO: Look up an article on geology and see if you can find a map showing how America and Asia were once connected.

Lakes Sailor Quits After 65 Years of Boating

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — Jim Kelson has moored his boat for the final time. The 77-year-old mariner ended his 65-year boating career this season. He sold his 26-foot gray launch—which was probably the best known craft on Lake St. Clair.

"I just got sick of it," Kelson said, lamenting the reason for his retirement. "All of my old friends are gone now . . . and when you fish and hunt with people this long, you miss them."

There are other reasons, too. "The lake is too congested nowadays," explained Ray Trombley, Kelson's son-in-law. CROWDED WATER

And for a man who will be 78 in August, navigating on crowded waterways has become a chore.

Kelson started sailing in the Detroit River when he was 13 and a few years later guided hunting parties from the river to Strawberry Island in Lake St. Clair.

"We used sailboats in those days," Kelson recalled. "And I built a 75-foot houseboat which we sailed to Lake Erie for duck hunting.

The houseboat was subsequently converted into a house which is now located near Kelson's home at the end of North River Road.

FIRST DUCKBOAT

And it was Kelson who introduced the duckboat to hunters on the lake. He built the first prototypes when he was 17.

"I made a lot of mistakes with the first ones," Kelson reminisced. "But the old-time French boat builders helped me with the duckboats."

Kelson later worked for the American Boat Co. in Detroit. He has stockpiled a lot of memories from his years on the Great Lakes.

BOOTLEG DAYS

For instance, there was the Doughtboy, a 38-foot speedboat.

"We'd run liquor from Canada to Milwaukee and Buffalo which is a trip of several hundred miles on open water," Kelson said. He added:

"You might as well print that. Everyone knows about it." "It's a funny thing," Kelson continued. "The Mounted Police knew I was running liquor, yet I was the only one they'd hire for fishing trips."

NO IMMUNITY

Despite his camaraderie with the Canadian police, Kelson did not have immunity on his run-running trips.

One moonless night, Kelson's Doughtboy was loaded down with booze when the FBI sighted his speedboat.

"The Federals started chasing me," Kelson recalled. "Well, they didn't know the lake as good as I did and I lured them onto a sand bar."

The Doughtboy was eventually sold to the state of Michigan.

MANY RESCUES

Countless numbers of boats owe their lives to Kelson. Because of his proximity to the lake, and the absence of a sheriff's patrol or Coast Guard in bygone years, Kelson made numerous rescues. "You should have lived down here," he said. "I could tell you of some of the damndest things these boats pull."

"One day . . . it was in the early spring . . . I was looking at the boats out on the lake when all of a sudden a white squall moved in. You don't see white squalls very often and the wind is terrific," Kelson said.

"All I could see out there was hands waving. I went out with my boat and the first people I picked up were three fellows who had been in the Navy. I didn't realize how bad it was until then, and then I got worried."

"I told the three sailors to grab anyone they saw as we went by. We just kept pulling people out of the lake and the last three we saved were young boys in a duckboat. When we got to them they were on their knees, praying."

State Electric Group

DETROIT (AP) — C. L. Fleming of Houghton, secretary-treasurer of the Upper Peninsula Power Co., has been elected president of the Michigan Electric Association. The MEA is a trade organization of the electric power companies throughout Michigan.

"All together, we had 24 people aboard my boat . . . and the murky, polluted body of water. Only ones who sent me a letter of thanks was the three kids in the duckboat."

Kelson has seen Lake St. Clair change from a crystal-clear lake, filled with burfishes, to a murky, polluted body of water. "I warned them about pollution 30 years ago," Kelson said. "But they wouldn't listen. They're starting now to clean it up, but it might be too late."

Suicides by Youth Eyed

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — Suicide is on the increase among children and young adolescents as it is among older teen-agers, but the causes are somewhat different.

Chronic depression — which includes feelings of helplessness, hopelessness and guilt — was not a major factor in the suicidal attempts of a group of children studied here.

Dr. Reginald S. Lourie, well-known child psychiatrist and director of the psychiatry department at Children's Hospital here, said, "depressive thinking does not appear as an important cause until mid or late adolescence, some time after the age of 14."

In the younger years, suicide seems to be largely the result of an impulse.

Most of the 40 children Dr. Lourie studied had poor control over their impulses and the pressures of the moment.

Except for four psychotic children, none was preoccupied with self-destruction, he noted.

Since all but eight of the 40 children came from deprived backgrounds, their impulsiveness may have had cultural roots, but Dr. Lourie believes it transcends social class.

Another important factor in the attempts was identification. Several younger children tried to kill themselves after a parent had either tried it himself or talked about it at length.

Momentary pressure and imitation, however, were only two important triggers acting in the presence of personality distortions that arose very early in life, said Dr. Lourie.

A principal problem of these children was that their aggressions did not become diluted over their impulses and the through love of mother, nor suicidal attempts derived from where they displaced into games and play.

The Book of Jazz, by Leonard Feather (Horizon $5.95): Jazz, now recognized as one of the greatest developments in music, has not only become respectable but bids fair to attain equal status with classical music as a means of artistic expression.

The synopsized "folk music" of the early part of the century has graduated into a true art form.

Feather comes as close as anyone else in this story of jazz' beginning, its famous practitioners with an instrument - by - instrument exposition and a section showing in musical notation the improvisations used by some of the more famous jazzmen.

It's a book for anyone interested in jazz, whether beginner or expert.

HUMAN SEXUAL RESPONSE, Masters and Johnson

Shame, Shame on the Johnson Boys! By Joel Orlansky. (Dutton, $4.95.)

The strange world of professional folk singers is the setting for this racy, games comic novel.

Orlansky takes you right into the scene with an episode in which impresario Willard McAllister hauls Half-Dead Hawkins, an old-time Negro street singer, in and out of a Texas jail, and off to New York for a promotional buildup.

The early part of the narrative is keyed to a hootenanny, and in this scene the comedy is mild and almost sympathetic.

It becomes more bitter when the author lampoons many of the industry's odd faces - the arty pretensions, the scheming of the agents, the publicity tricks, the fancy stunts in the recording business, the phony hangers-on.

Octopussy, By Ian Fleming (New American Library, $3.50). Here are two magazine pieces of the James Bond genre, published in a small book as probably the last creations of the late author.

In the title story, Bond comes to Jamaica as a messenger of doom for the central character, a Major Smythe.

The major had been a British secret agent during the late war, but had gone wrong.

But of course Bond shows up with evidence of the major's old treachery, and there is a gruesome finish.

The other story, called "The Living Daylights," has Bond as the assigned killer in an episode that might have formed a few chapters in a full-length Fleming thriller.

It's all very dashing, only moderately convincing and characteristically entertaining.

Moon Camera Fails to Revive

More Tries Slated; Cold Damage Feared

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor I, the nation's camera spacecraft on the moon, did not respond to the first attempt to revive it after the two-week lunar night, but further attempts will be made tonight and Thursday night.

Jet Propulsion Laboratory sent its first commands during a 3½-hour period Tuesday night by way of the Goldstone, Calif., transmitter.

A spokesman said, "before the launch we thought Surveyor wouldn't survive the lunar night. But after it set down and was going so well, the chances were four to one it would survive."

The 600-pound spacecraft, which began sending photographs June 1 after a soft landing on the moon, transmitted more than 10,000 pictures before it was engulfed June 14 in minus 260-degree temperatures.

Spokesmen gave three possible reasons for failing to reactivate Surveyor: The craft's batteries and receivers may have been inoperative; the extreme cold may have hampered the command frequencies; or, since the first attempt was shortly before lunar sunrise, it may have been too cold for Surveyor to answer.

Chances Better Than Ever

U.S. May See Red Space Site

By ALVIN B. WEBB JR.

United Press International

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON — The chances appear better than ever that Americans someday soon may pay their first visit to Russia's version of Cape Kennedy.

This is the massive, mystery-shrouded Cosmodrome at Baikonur — the jumping-off spot for the six Vostok and two Voskhod spaceflights that have propelled 10 Russian men and one woman into orbit around earth.

There, 30 miles east of the Aral Sea, in the southern Republic of Kazakhstan, are the launching pads, rockets, spacehips, blockhouses and electronic gear that make up the heart of Russia's counter-part of the U.S. man-to-the-moon Apollo program.

Until now, the only Western eyes that have peered behind the tight security guarding Baikonur have been those of America's spy-in-the-sky satellites — and French President Charles de Gaulle.

In something of a surprise, de Gaulle accepted an invitation last week to journey to the Cosmodrome — and saw the launching of two rockets, one military and the other carrying a Cosmos satellite.

HOPEFUL SIGN

De Gaulle's precedent-making trip was interpreted by U.S. experts as a hopeful sign that the Russians may soon relax the restrictions affecting Western representatives seeking to visit Baikonur.

Simultaneously, an American newsmen recently returned from a three-week visit to the Soviet Union said that, of a number of Russian scientists with whom he spoke, "most thought that visits by Americans to Baikonur will come about some time in the near future."

William Shelton, a freelance writer who has covered the U.S. space program since its inception nearly nine years ago, added that he didn't have a chance to see the firing center this trip.

"They volunteered that I couldn't go to see a rocket shot," he said, "but they said privately that it would probably be opened up reasonably soon."

BIG MYSTERY

Just why the Russians have maintained such a strict ban on visits to Baikonur remains a mystery within itself.

As anyone who has ever seen a rocket shot from Cape Kennedy well knows, it is well nigh impossible to distinguish much in detail about the machine even from a distance of a few thousand feet.

In addition, according to Shelton, the Soviets have freely shown documentary movies of launchings at Baikonur that "are every bit as full" in detail as similar footage provided by the U.S. Civilian Space Agency. Shelton has his own "private hunch" that part of the reason is that the Soviet "star city" at Baikonur — unlike the lavish commercial establishments adjoining America's Cape Ken-

Romney Is Hit for Veto of Bill

Bar Owners Wanted Law on Fake ID Use

LANSING (UPI) — A top spokesman for Michigan bar owners today accused Gov. George Romney of "contributing to drinking of alcoholic beverages by persons under 21 years of age" through his veto of an anti-false identification bill.

Eddie Shepherd, coordinator of activities for the Michigan Licensed Beverage Association, said Romney's veto of the bill a week ago would "continue the widespread use of false identification by minors purchasing alcohol beverages."

"We have worked for years to curb drinking by persons under 21 years of age in accordance with state law," Shepherd said in a prepared statement.

"This bill would have aided materially in our efforts, but the governor, who has little knowledge or interest in our business, apparently prefers to let the minors continue their use of false credentials at the expense of licensees."

The bill would have allowed a liquor licensee charged with selling liquor to a minor to offer proof he was shown identification alleging the person to be 21 — whether false or not — as evidence of his innocence.

SERIOUS HARM

Romney said in his veto message he felt the bill would "seriously weaken control over sales to minors and consequently would not be in the public interest."

His argument was that knowledge any identification presented could be used to prove innocence in case of prosecution should not relieve bar owners of responsibility of enforcing the drinking laws on 21-year-olds.

U.S. Gold Shows a Big Drop in May

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. gold stocks declined $96 million in May, the biggest drop in 11 months.

France was the major purchaser, as she had been for many months. She accounted for about $78 million of the decline.

The Federal Reserve Board reported today that the May loss increased the drain for the first five months of this year only to $224 million, a far cry from the more than $1.1 billion lost during the same period of 1965.

As of May 31, U.S. gold stocks totaled $13.58 billion, the board said.

The Treasury usually sells $10 million to $15 million worth of gold monthly for domestic industrial use.

Officials said the Treasury also purchased some gold during May. But they declined at this time to say how much and from whom.

Crane Cuts Off Power Supply

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — A boom of a construction crane touched a 46,000-volt main transmission line, leaving 10,000 homes and factories in the south east Grand Rapids area without power for more than an hour today, and causing injury to two workers.

Bernard Dykstra, 42, the crane operator, was treated in Bldgett Memorial Hospital for shock and W. J. Waters, 39, another workman, who was standing 5 feet from the crane, was treated for shock. Both were released after treatment.

The area affected involved numerous factories, the Kent County airport and Calvin College.

The failure also interrupted production at the Lear Siegler, Inc., and Steelcase, Inc., plants where about 5,000 workers are employed.

U. S. Suspends Relations With Argentina

Latin Regime Is Overthrown by the Military

Area United Fund Goal Is Set

American Officials Are Concerned Over Government Ouster

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has suspended diplomatic relations with Argentina because of the ouster of that country's elected government, officials said today.

A formal announcement was expected later.

U.S. officials expressed concern at the displacement of a democratic government and the rupture of constitutional processes in a member nation of the Organization of American States.

Argentine Ambassador Roberto M. Barrenechea resigned today in protest at the ouster of the constitutional president of the nation.

The ambassador cabled his resignation to Buenos Aires.

GIVES SUPPORT
The ambassador said that he is solidly with President Arturo Illia, who was thrown out in a military coup, and "identified with his work of government."

Diplomatic sources said that the overthrow of Illia places in doubt the holding of an inter-American conference in Buenos Aires starting Aug. 28.

Only Monday, the council of the Organization of American States picked that date for the meeting, one purpose of which would be shoring up constitutional government in the hemisphere.

Military sources said the army commander in chief, Lt. Gen. Pascual A. Pistarini, who led the coup, and the commanders of the navy and air force would form a governing junta later this morning and then would install Lt. Gen. Juan Carlos Onganía, the former army commander in chief, as interim president.

U.S. officials obviously disappointed at the turn of events in Argentina, apparently had worked most of the night at the State Department as the crisis developed.

STATEMENT
The U.S. Embassy in Argentina, on instructions of the State Department, issued a statement only a few days ago emphasizing that the Washington government supports constitutional processes.

Observers said there have been obvious efforts by both the United States and the OAS to help stabilize the position of the shaky Illia government.

On his recent trip to Mexico City, President Johnson gave strong support to a recent proposal by Illia that the chief executives of the hemisphere nations hold a summit meeting to speed the economic and social development program under the Alliance for Progress.

Walkout Halts Area Projects

County Drain Work
Stopped by Laborers

A new walkout which hit the construction industry in southeastern Michigan yesterday halted work on two major Oakland County drain projects in the Pontiac area.

Also affected was work on the Waterford Township water system.

Two laborers' local unions representing about 1,200 workers went on strike against the Associated Underground Contractors, Inc., halting work on projects throughout Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

Workmen quit Oakland's foremost drain project — the $1.75-million Pontiac-Clinton No. 2 Project.

Buddhist Spurns Superior's Order to End Fasting

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Buddhist extremist leader Thich Tri Quang defied an order today from South Viet Nam's supreme Buddhist patriarch to end his 21-day hunger strike.

Under arrest in a Saigon clinic, the enlightenment monk clung to his diet of sugary liquids, vowing to fast unto death unless Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime resigned. He was reported growing increasingly weaker.

The ruling generals appeared unnerved by Tri Quang's stubborn persistence. Having overcome the last pockets of militant Buddhist resistance in Saigon and the northern provinces, they were confident the monk's defiant gesture would not rekindle the dying embers of Buddhist rebellion.

The order to end the fast came from the patriarch of the United Buddhist Church, Thich Tri Quang, 80, a scholar, who (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Hearings on Dodd Recessed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Ethics Committee has recessed after hearing Sen. Thomas J. Dodd testify he went to West Germany in 1964 on official Senate business — not in behalf of a lobbyist friend.

The committee's hearings into charges against Dodd of misconduct in office are expected to resume after July 15.

The white-haired Connecticut Democrat told the committee Monday he made the 1964 trip "for the sole purpose of looking into the Stashinsky case"—the case of a Soviet agent imprisoned in West Germany for the killings of two Ukrainians.

But Dodd also said he was "perfectly willing" to help his friend Julius Klein just as he would anyone else he felt had been treated unfairly.

Klein, a Chicago public relations man, is a registered agent for West German firms.

CLIMAXES SESSIONS
Dodd's testimony climaxed four days of public hearings about his relations with Klein — the first phase of the committee's investigation of misconduct charges against him by columnist Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson.

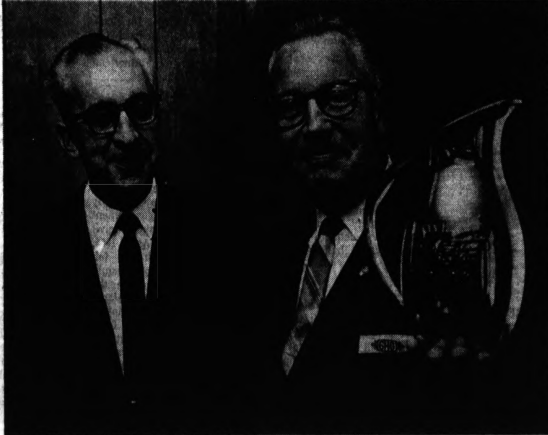

No date was set for a resumption of the hearings, when Klein is to testify. Test chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said it would not be before July 15, about the time Klein is expected to return from a trip to West Germany.

The purpose of Dodd's 1964 trip to Germany developed into the central issue as the testimony unfolded in the first case the Ethics Committee has heard since its creation.

Dodd testified that as vice chairman of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee he made the six-day trip in April 1964 to gather more information about the case of Bogdan Stashinsky because of his long and deep interest in "the Soviet terror apparatus."

CHARGES COVER UP
Earlier in the hearings James P. Boyd Jr., Dodd's former administrative assistant, said he regarded this "as a cover up and no more."

Boyd swore that Dodd has told him his purpose was to help Klein, that "Julius has been pressing me to go."

Abducted Girl Safe; Hunt On for Suspect

Wixom police today were searching for a man who took a young girl for a six-hour automobile ride yesterday but apparently did not harm her.

Eight-year-old Patricia Lakner of 4700 W. Little was picked up only 300 feet from her home by a man who took her for a "long . . . silent ride," she told Wixom police.

Police said the girl was seen before noon riding her bike toward railroad tracks less than 100 yards from her home. The bike was found next to the tracks by police after she had been missing for several hours.

She was found in Novi late in the afternoon. Police said a woman who found her wandering along a road took her to a store and called her father, who came and took her to a doctor.

After an ordeal of more than six hours, police said the girl seemed unharmed and calm.

SAID NOTHING
The girl told police that the man drove her around saying nothing when he suddenly stopped the car and ordered her to "get out, now."

Variable morning winds at 5 to 15 miles per hour will become southeast to south at 10 to 18 miles.

A low of 67 was recorded in downtown Pontiac at 6 a.m. The mercury had climbed to 85 by 1 p.m.

Ex-President of UF Honored

Silver Pitcher Gift for Outgoing Official

Glenn H. Griffin who recently completed his term of office as president of the Pontiac Area United Fund Board of Trustees was honored yesterday by members of the board.

Bruce J. Annett, elected in May to succeed Griffin, presented Griffin with an engraved silver pitcher as a personal gift from board members.

In making the presentation Annett stated that "Griffin has served in a period of transition and growth. His leadership and wisdom have been instrumental in the Pontiac Area United Fund becoming a major fund among United Funds through the United States and Canada."

"An arduous survey of health, welfare and youth serving agencies, revision of the budgeting procedure and formulation of the UF planning committee was accomplished during his presidency," Annett said.

"The increasing role of the United Fund in the community has necessitated countless hours (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

$1.04 Million Is the Target for 1966 Drive

Total Is 16 Per Cent
Over Last Year; Said
'a Real Challenge'

A goal of $1,042,000 for the 1966 Pontiac Area United Fund (PAUF) was set yesterday by the UF Board of Trustees.

"The goal is 16 per cent or $167,000 higher than last year," said Don O. Tatroe, 1966 campaign general manager.

"It is the largest goal in the fund's history and represents a real challenge to the civic spirit and responsibility of each individual."

"Last year," said Tatroe, "United Fund, through its agencies, served 36,000 families; more than three out of five persons in the Pontiac area."

"After careful evaluation," added Donald J. Frey, executive director of PAUF, "the PAUF Budget Steering committee recognized that to keep our agencies operating at full capacities throughout the coming year, this goal must be met."

"This one fund-raising effort is the area's largest charitable event of the year and I feel confident that the people of Metropolitan Pontiac do care and will rise to the challenge," said Frey.

ANNUAL REPORT
In yesterday's annual report presented to the agencies by the PAUF Board, it was revealed that $78,804.45 was available for agency spending.

This was 55.36 per cent of the total monies collected.

Campaign and administrative expenses were $85,189.76—about 92.2 per cent of the total.

The national average for administrative expenses is 10.4 per cent (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

He enlisted in the service when he was 18 years old. His 10 years in service included tours of duty in Korea and Germany.

Ramirez attended Pontiac High School and worked at General Motors before signing up. His wife, Lydia, has been living with her father at 75 Bloomfield, Bloomfield Township.

A report on the termination of service by North Central Airlines (NCA) at Pontiac Municipal Airport will be received by the City Commission at its meeting tonight.

City administrators have been informed that the U.S. District Court of Appeals in Cincinnati has upheld the airline's plan to discontinue operations at the city facility.

Legal action was started by the city in order to retain the service.

State Attorney General Frank Kelley had intervened on behalf of the city last January, asking the court to act in the interests of the Michigan Aeronautics Commission in fighting CAB's approval of the move.

The court decision gives NCA the green light to pull its passenger and air mail service out of both Pontiac and Reed City.

'DEFINITE NEED'

Acting Airport Manager J. David Vanderventer said a "definite need" exists for regularly scheduled service to the Pontiac area.

"If North Central can't do the job, we're certainly going to try and find someone who will," Vanderventer said.

Pontiac Postmaster William W. Donaldson said the loss of North Central's air mail service (averaging about 1,000 pounds a month) would have "slight effect" on deliveries in the Pontiac area.

"We'll simply truck that part of the mail directly to Metropolitan Airport," Donaldson said.

Boys' Wavy Locks

Must Be Covered Up

BATAVIA, N.Y. — A rule that girls must wear bathing caps in the municipal pool has been extended to boys with long hair.

Officials said they decided to expand the rule after noticing an increasing number of boys were allowing their hair to grow long. They said accumulation of hair in the water clogs the pool filtering system.

Ecorse District Hit by MEA Sanctions

Commission to Get Termination Report

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Education Association today announced sanctions against the Ecorse School District, where teachers have been on strike since early this month.

The strike itself was not mentioned in the statement in which the association urged educators not to seek employment in the school district.

Ironically, it is the MEA's rival teachers' organizing group, the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, which is the bargaining agent for the Ecorse teachers.

The Ecorse School Board has refused to negotiate contract terms with the teachers while they are still on strike, leading to an impasse.

MAIN REASONS
"A marginal educational program" and failure to build a new junior high school were cited by the MEA as the main reasons for announcing sanctions against the district.

The MEA said the sanctions were imposed because the district, "although among the wealthiest in the state, has imposed a marginal educational program upon the children of the community through its refusal to levy adequate tax monies for school building facilities."

The MEA said the professional staff of the school district supports its findings. It said until the problems identified are solved it will "continue to urge educators not to seek employment in the school district."

Car Rams Bus; No One Injured

Twenty Port Huron youngsters on a school bus and three Pontiac area men in an automobile escaped serious injury yesterday when the two vehicles collided at an Addison Township intersection.

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Roy Lewis said the automobile, driven by 24-year-old Lloyd G. Messer of 374 Burdick, Oxford, failed to observe a stop sign on Shoup before colliding with the bus, north-bound on Curtis.

Two passengers in Messer's car were not injured. The bus, driven by Laurenda R. Leonard, 50, of Port Huron, was en route to a Salvation Army summer camp on Army Road at the north end of Lakeville Lake.

Follows OAS Motion

Ordering Withdrawal

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — A battalion of U.S. paratroopers begins boarding ships at daybreak today to start the withdrawal of the 4,000-man Inter-American Peace Force from the Dominican Republic.

The artillery battalion from the 82nd Airborne Division—about 1,100 men—is expected to take two days to embark. The rest of the force will follow.

Related Story, Page C-10

States voted last week to withdraw the entire situation continent with 90 days.

The force was created by the OAS to help restore stability and constitutional government in the wake of a Dominican civil war that began in April 1965.

The vote for withdrawal followed the election of Joaquin Balaguer as president in the June 1 general election. Balaguer is to be inaugurated Friday.

The United States has 6,000 men in the force. The rest are from Paraguay, Nicaragua, Honduras, Costa Rica and Brazil.

LANDING SITE

The evacuation was to begin from Red Beach, a palm fringed cove about 10 miles west of Santo Domingo where 400 U.S. Marines made the first U.S. landing after the outbreak of the fighting April 28, 1965.

President Johnson ordered the Marines in to protect American lives and property. He later charged Communists had taken over the revolt and ordered the Marines reinforced "to help prevent another Communist state in this hemisphere."

U.S. troop strength reached its peak May 15, 1965, when 22,000 troops were in Santo Domingo. The force was reduced to 4,000 by the time of the withdrawal.

The force later was put under the OAS flag, and U.S. strength was reduced gradually as contingents from other countries arrived.

The force was to help the warring factions in check while OAS mediators helped negotiate the installation of a provisional government.

Additional Debates

However, said Ferency, "since my candidacy has already been endorsed by the Michigan AFL-CIO, I would be in favor of scheduling additional debates before audiences more friendly to George Romney, such as the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, the Automotive Manufacturers' Association and the Michigan Manufacturers' Association."

Romney was away from Lansing and not immediately available for comment on the Ferency proposals.

County Drain Work Halted by Walkout

The Board of Supervisors voted 42 to 27 to table action on the basis that too many questions were unanswered in regard to the merger and its effect on county residents and finances.

Had the merger been approved, it would have gone into effect July 1 and the savings to the county made retroactive to April 1.

NOT KNOWN

It was not immediately known when the proposal would be considered by the Board of Supervisors again, but there is a possibility that the board will meet before its next scheduled meeting in September.

The board would have to act on the proposal by October to receive the retroactive benefits to July 1.

Murphy noted that the county cannot receive the retroactive benefits for the April-June quarter as had been anticipated.

The merger had been recommended by the Board of Auditors, the Ways and Means Committee of the Board of Supervisors, and reluctantly by the Supervisors' Social Welfare Committee and the County Welfare Board.

New Soviet Demands Said Hampering N-Ban Talks

GENEVA (AP) — The United States accused the Soviet Union today of deliberately placing new obstacles in the way of an agreement to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

Chief U.S. delegate William C. Foster told the 17-nation disarmament conference that, last September, the Soviets claimed the proposed North Atlantic Treaty Organization's multilateral nuclear force was the only obstacle to agreement.

But now the Soviet draft of a nonproliferation treaty is so broadly worded, he said, that it has added two additional obstacles in the forms of demands which are "clearly unreasonable."

Foster expressed doubt that the Communist Warsaw Pact sticks to the demands made in the Soviet draft.

WEAPONS SEEN
"We know that Soviet-built delivery vehicles capable of using nuclear weapons have been seen with the armed forces of certain Soviet allies," he said.

Foster dismissed Soviet charges that it would be easy for America's allies to get control of U.S. nuclear weapons.

GOP Hawks 'Toning Down'

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Republican leaders appear to be backing away from their previous hard line of advocating a step-up in the war in Viet Nam.

Their latest approach of accusing President Johnson of not telling the American public the whole truth about what is happening in Southeast Asia could reflect the mixed opinion campaigns of both parties have found among the voters.

Several senators who have been out on the hushings recently have come back with the general opinion that their people are greatly disturbed about the war, but don't want it broadened and don't want the United States to get out.

Their findings do not seem to support the view attributed to Johnson that the hawks — those who want the war accelerated — are growing in number.

New Firemen's Contract OK'd by Commission

BIRMINGHAM — City Commissioners last night approved a labor contract which will add nearly $400,000 to the fire department's budget for 1966-67.

The contract, calling for wage and benefit increases of more than $1,000 per man, was ratified by the Birmingham Fire Fighters Association June 18.

To cover the cost of the contract, city commissioners transferred $39,845 from the capital improvement reserve fund, the fire department's direct labor account and uniform allowance.

Representing some 40 hours of collective bargaining, the contract raises the maximum salary for fire fighters from $6,917 to $7,704 after three years. The minimum pay in this category was boosted from $5,943 to $6,430.

SHORTER HOURS
Under the contract, the firemen's workweek will be cut from 53 to 56 hours as of Jan. 1, 1967, according to personnel director George L. Rickey.

A four week vacation was provided for the first time to those with 25 years of service.

Also provided are increased sick and hospitalization coverage at no additional cost to the employee. Each also will be allowed one personal leave day a year.

Longevity bonuses are to be paid, probably in December, and hospitalization coverage at no additional cost to the employee. Each also will be allowed one personal leave day a year.

The bonuses will range from $150 to $770 this year, he said.

Freedom Fete Plans Are Told

DETROIT (AP) — The eighth annual Detroit-Windsor International Freedom Festival will start with a parade and end with a bang this year.

In between, during the six-day celebration, will be artists' street fairs, band concerts, boat parades, the Golden Cup race, mammoth service, fashion shows, drum and bugle company, a square dance, sports events and a special symphony.

There will even be an international field lacrosse game between Canadian and American teams.

Nor did the committee go along with the recent advocacy by Gov. George Romney of Michigan for bombing of air depots in the Haiphong area. Romney perhaps would become a contender for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination if he wins reelection in Michigan.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, who generally has supported Johnson's Viet Nam course, announced the coordinating group's finding that "it is time that the President and the administration tell the American people the whole truth" about Viet Nam.

Dirksen said he had heard some things during a recent White House briefing of leaders of both parties that he thought "should be told to the public. But he wouldn't tell what they were because he said he couldn't violate a pledge of secrecy."

On the military front, waves of American bombers again pounded North Viet Nam's fuel depots and for the first time in a month struck the important Yen Bay rail yards, the U.S. military command announced today.

Incorporation Election for Rochester Sept. 20

ROCHESTER — Village residents will decide Sept. 20 whether they want Rochester to become an incorporated city or remain a village.

The council last night set that date for the special referendum election on incorporation of the area within the village limits as a home rule city to be known as Rochester.

Voters also will select nine persons to serve as a charter commission. If incorporation is approved, the commission would be charged with the responsibility of drawing up a charter for the new city.

Councilmen unanimously approved the vote after Village attorney Arthur Cox advised them to table the motion if they thought there was any possibility they might rescind their action at a later date.

The possibility was raised when a member of the audience noted that Avon Township officials said last week that the council could rescind its action after setting a date. A study committee in the township has recommended that the village and the township be incorporated as one city.

ASSUME POWER

If incorporation of the village is approved, the new city would take over several functions now handled by the township including property tax assessing, collecting taxes for the school and county and conducting national, state and county elections.

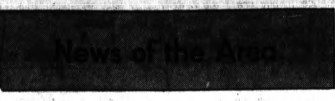

It would also take over Avon Cemetery and Woodward Memorial Library.

This is the third move for incorporation. The first plan, defeated in 1955, included portions of Avon Township within one-quarter to one-half mile outside the village limits.

The second proposal, turned down in 1963, extended the area further east to Dequindre and left the southern and western borders to coincide with village limits.

LATEST ATTEMPT

The latest attempt to incorporate only the 1.6 square miles within the village limits was recommended by a seven-man Citizen City Study Committee. Petitions signed by 143 residents requested the vote.

Candidates for the charter commission have until 4 p.m. Aug. 8 to file nominating petitions with the village clerk. Petitions are now available in the clerk's office.

In other action last night, the council approved the appointment of George Wilhelm as the new urban renewal director.

Wilhelm, 39, has been assistant urban renewal director for the city of Pontiac since 1964. He was with the Pontiac Urban Renewal Department for a year prior to that.

4-YEAR DUTY

A graduate civil engineer from the University of Detroit,

he was with the Wayne County Road Commission for nine years.

Wilhelm, his wife and two children live at 2664 Pennsylvania, Pontiac.

In other council action, July 25 was set as the date for a public hearing on the rezoning of land on the north side of University from Madison to the village limits from multiple dwellings to office use.

A second request to rezone land on Wilcox from single family to multiple dwelling was referred to the planning commission.

CREST CONTEST

Two winners were named in the village crest contest. They are Mrs. Donald Bishop, 1816

Ansall, Avon Township and O. L. Hooper, 8135 Tippecanoe, Holly.

A composite will be made of their designs to serve as the official seal. Mrs. Bishop and Hooper will each receive a $25 savings bond.

The council discussed the possibility of adopting a bad check ordinance to help protect merchants.

The matter will be brought up again at a later meeting.

Salary Study Is Authorized

FARMINGTON — The board of education authorized a group of 31 administrators and supervisors seeking to form a bargaining unit to proceed with its salary study.

Any salary improvements that might be agreed to by the board will be retroactive from July 1, said Schools Supt. Gerald V. Harrison.

Administrators now receive salaries indexed on those of teachers, corresponding to their degrees and years of experience.

The administrators believe their salaries should not be dependent upon teacher salaries, according to spokesman James Geiger, Farmington High School principal. They believe that administrators should be recognized as a separate bargaining unit, he said.

The bargaining unit, excluding the school superintendent, is being formed under the same act which gave teachers the right to negotiate.

Sewerage Pact OK'd by Board

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — The Township Board agreed last night to participate in the proposed Clinton-Oakland Sewerage Disposal System.

Through the board's action, the township became the fourth of the six involved in the system to approve the agreement with the Oakland County Department of Public Works. The plan has also been approved by the townships of Orion, West Bloomfield and Waterford.

Independence Township is awaiting the results of a financial study by Stratton Associates, Inc. The study is being made to determine if the township can afford to participate.

Avon Township officials want to reduce their share of the cost of the sewer before entering into the agreement.

Waterford Township is to pay about 40 per cent of the $28-

$27,500 cost of the sewer. Avon Township's share is about 26 per cent and Pontiac and Independence townships will each pay about 10 per cent.

West Bloomfield's share will be 6.1 per cent, Orion Township, 4.7 per cent and Orchard Lake 1.4 per cent.

The system is to connect to the Dequindre interceptor which the city of Detroit will extend from 14 Mile to 23 1/2 Mile.

In this day and age of proving products scientifically, we have an unscientific suggestion. Taste ours. One sip and you'll know why we couldn't possibly call it anything but Soft Whiskey.

You see, Soft Whiskey is soft. It goes down just like the name says. After that, it acts like any other 86 proof whiskey. It's just that getting there is a whole lot easier. But how to prove that to you? That was the problem.

After all, Soft Whiskey looks like any other whiskey. And it acts like any other whiskey. So what's left is what we're selling, the way Soft Whiskey goes down.

At which point someone said: "Why not just ask people to try it?" Our first reaction was that that was a bad idea. It wasn't scientific. Our second reaction was that that was a good idea.

Auto Sales Pace Set by Pontiac

Although industrywide auto sales for 1966 are below those of a year ago, they promise to add up to the fifth eye-popping year in succession. In making year-to-year comparisons of the car industry, there can be confusion between totals for "calendar" as against "model" years. For example, a current model year can be running ahead of a year earlier while trailing in the current calendar year.

Pontiac Motor Division has released glowing figures on its 1966 model year that began last October 1. As of May 31, the Division reports sales of 581,337 units — exceeding those of any other comparable period in its history and 11.1 per cent above a year ago.

Pacing the model year sales performance is the Division's share of the total automobile market. Its current penetration stands at 9.64 per cent compared with 9.30 per cent a year ago.

Moreover, for the first four months of 1966, Pontiac has widened the sales gap between its entrenched third place in the industry and the fourth-place make, increasing its 33.1 per cent lead in 1965 to the current 39.2 per cent.

Such unstarred progress is indeed noteworthy. The Press congratulates the Division's executive and sales leadership and the cooperative spirit of the plant personnel responsible for it.

Power of Cuba's Bearded Ruler Seen Shaved

Political leaders make news when in the glare of the global spotlight — and, paradoxically, when it shifts and leaves them in darkness.

Currently, Fidel Castro, the Cuban conundrum, is newsworthy because a baffling blackout has enveloped his once flamboyant and a glaring image.

Observers read this as a portent that Castro's days as the Cuba Strongman are numbered, and point out that he has not been in evidence in governmental circles since May 1. Indeed, one embassy in Havana reports flatly that he has been removed from office, and a Western Hemisphere government has found it was dealing not with CASTRO but with Cuba President Osvaldo Dorticos.

There are two theories regarding Castro's oblivion: That he may have suffered a mental breakdown or, the more likely one, that Russia has dumped him.

It is well known that the Kremlin has been uneasy about the bearded brigand for a long time. It has poured more than $1.2 billion of economic support — plus massive military aid — into Cuba, and has nothing to show for it.

Castro has failed to stop the downhill slide of the Cuban economy and his assigned task of spreading communism through Latin America has been an utter flop.

Dissatisfaction among the Cuban populace has been intense. Nearly 4,000 Cubans have been leaving the island monthly, and it is estimated a million more want out.

It is a fair assumption, however, that the Russians want to keep Cuba Communist. It would be as humiliating for them to pull out of their Caribbean foothold as for the U.S. to pull out of Viet Nam.

But substituting another puppet for CASTRO will not solve the Soviet's problems, so far as the United States is concerned. Washington has made clear that it will never accept a Communist Cuba nor do business with it — which is something the Russians would now like in order to help get the island's economy back on the track.

Tourists in Germany to Live Like Kings

When is a motel a moatel? When it's a castle in Germany that accepts overnight guests, of course.

At least 20 17th-century moated mansions are being restored and refurbished by the Federal Republic to accommodate tourists. The water-filled ditches surrounding the castles, originally designed to discourage unwanted visitors, now serve as unique tourist attractions.

And no doubt the drawbridges will draw a lot of interest too.

Chaos, Confusion Rife in World

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — The war in Viet Nam is like a blind puppy. It scampers, skips, butts its head, barks in pain. With this year almost half over, the end is still no more in sight than at the start of 1966.

There was chaos in Viet Nam, criticism at home, confusion elsewhere among Communists and non-Communists in the first half of 1966. In Indonesia the Reds suffered disaster without any war at all.

Near the end of 1965 the United States stopped bombing North Viet Nam while President Johnson sent his emissaries scuttling around overseas, talking peace, seeking signs of it. There were none. Hanoi stood firm.

So did Johnson. The bombing was resumed. The ground fighting continued. More deaths on both sides, more U.S. troops to Viet Nam. At home the critics learned up on Johnson, in and out of Congress.

Johnson ordered a restrained war, wary of the critics, concerned about the dangers, perhaps with Red China, if he stepped it up too much. And as the routine war continued engulfed South Viet Nam.

Public opinion polls showed dwindling confidence in Johnson's handling of the fighting. In America youth paraded, performed and protested against the war. This was a mixed picture, too.

While some of the protesters must be credited with earnest convictions thoughtfully arrived at, for others the motivations probably ranged from a simple desire to assert themselves to discontent with things in general.

But they made noise. So did the Buddhists in Viet Nam. Right in the midst of the murky war they gyrated through the streets of Da Nang, Hue and Saigon, demanding civilian government.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and his government of generals agreed to oblige, set in motion the machinery for civilian government. Rendered ridiculous by success, the Buddhists then demanded a quick exit by the generals.

Looking back on it, their whole performance looked irresponsible for they never made clear how they would run a government or even that they could. But they performed.

WRECKING JOB

In Europe, French President Charles de Gaulle, with reports indicating he never even discussed the momentous step with his cabinet, decided to do a wrecking job on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Tensions, however, were up the United States if only because tensions between the Soviet Union and Red China increased. While they fussed and fumbled, communism encountered a disaster where unexpected and without battle.

The pro-Red Indonesian government of President Sukarno was taken over by the military, Indonesian Communists by the thousands were reported slaughtered, and the country now will probably turn West.

Permanent Monument?

Rights Leaders' Split Significant

WASHINGTON — Dissension among civil rights leaders has been revealed.

This takes on significance because within the groups there has been for some time different schools of thought — those who believe progress for Negroes in America will come by more and more demonstrations, and those who feel that public opinion will be more effective in bringing about change.

Many people will not disclose to other persons their gripes or their grievances but will make their protests known at the polls. They will watch, for instance, to see how Congress handles the "fair housing" legislation.

It seems probable that there will be movements to defeat representatives and senators who vote to take away from the private citizen the right to dispose of his property as he pleases.

If all the home owners in the United States expressed their feelings in this matter, it would add up to a very sizable vote of protest.

Bob Considine Says:

Probe Critic, JFK Friend Find a Common Ground

NEW YORK — Introduced Edward J. Epstein, author of "Inquest," to Daniel Patrick Moynihan, the newest of the national lion eagles, at the reception marking the publication of Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg's new book, "The Defense of Freedom."

Epstein had momentary reservations. He is the somewhat startled young intellectual whose scholarly master's thesis at Cornell, on the Warren Commission's handling of the inquiry into the Kennedy assassination, has become a controversial best seller.

Moynihan, friend of JFK, edited former Justice Goldberg's book. It is a compilation of Goldberg's no-nonsense speeches and decisions delivered as secretary of labor, member of the Supreme Court and voice of our conscience in U. N.

"I don't think Justice Goldberg would want to meet me," young Epstein said unhesitatingly as he stood in the sophisticated Babel of the reception at the Rizzoli International Bookstore, a regal addition to the Fifth Avenue scene.

"He's such a good friend of Chief Justice Warren ... and my book isn't very complimentary to the chief justice."

So, instead, and still with some trepidation, I introduced him to Justice Goldberg's towering friend, Moynihan, who was an assistant secretary of labor under JFK and President Johnson and is the newly appointed director of the Joint Center for Urban Studies at Harvard and MIT.

Moynihan reached a great hamlike hand out to Epstein.

"Your book is just great!" he enthused. "You could see Epstein grow two inches. 'Just great.' We've got to get to the truth of the assassination, not the gossip, the nut-fingered hearsay, but the truth. If we don't, we'll have legends develop that will be with us forever."

"I just finished reading a book which says that Lincoln's assassination was ordered by the Jesuits!"

"I read that, too," Epstein said gratefully. The two were now oblivious to the crowded room.

Epstein, now doing post-graduate work at Harvard, will take a special course under Moynihan, thanks to this chance meeting.

Bobby's Pals Wary of Liberals

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) — A Democratic professional very much interested in the future of the country is a bit wary of the liberals who are rising up around him.

New York Sen. Robert F. Kennedy seems to be drawing from 17th century intellectuals.

Sitting in his office on a quiet weekend afternoon, this politician said he views such support as mercurial — and hence not to be trusted.

During most of his tenure as U.S. attorney general and throughout his 1964 campaign for the Senate, Bob Kennedy was seen by much of the intellectual community as a mortal adversary.

Now, for a variety of reasons, he is pleasing these people. But wary political pragmatists believe that just one major departure from the liberal catechism on Viet Nam or any other subject will expose the senator to the charge that "the old Kennedy is back."

If it were not for the public attention the articulate intellectuals constantly demand, many party professionals would be inclined to dismiss their political gyrations as merely comical.

At this moment, some liberals are busy writing that Kennedy in earlier years was "misunderstood." One even

Hold Elderly Blameless in Holiday Road Deaths

There has been a lot of comment about depriving elderly citizens of their right to drive, but statistics are not compatible with this idea.

An analysis of Memorial Day weekend fatalities shows that most of the 35 drivers killed were under 25 years of age; over 6.1 of them had several moving violations, and at least 10 and perhaps 27 of them had been drinking. No mechanical defect appeared to be the cause of any of these accidents.

Perhaps a new approach to traffic fatalities should be considered and young drivers taught that speed is the greatest waste of time there is.

'Our Enemy Benefits From Foreign Aid'

Channeling U.S. aid through foreign agencies, especially in time of war, is dangerous. Secretary of State Rusk holds that "foreign aid is basic to our security." But how can U.S. aid contribute to our security if foreign agencies disburse our wealth and the enemy benefits from it? American taxpayers face a momentous decision. Shall bureaucrats, foreign and domestic, be permitted to make global socialist redistribution of our taxpayers' wealth; or, shall American and foreign mutual interests be served by the genius of free enterprise?

'Vote Should Decide U.N. Participation'

If the Prohibition Act required ratification by all the states to decide if the people were going to have beer and whisky, would seem that when the lives of our American youth are at stake, the people would demand a vote by all of the people to determine their participation in the United Nations!

Says Anti-Strike Law Should Be Revised

It appears to me that J. Brown and others are making too much over teachers striking. If they are breaking a law, it is antiquated and should be revised to accommodate today's living standard. These teachers are not Communists nor hoodlums. Dedication is a fine and noble virtue for teachers. However, as a mother of four children and a teacher's wife, I fail to perceive how this virtue alone can support a family.

Rusk Affirms Pledge to Defend Thais

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk warned the Communists today that United States is as firmly committed to the defense of Thailand as it is to that of South Vietnam.

Rusk was the first speaker on the second day of the foreign ministers' conference of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

He spoke against a background of increased Communist guerrilla activities in northeast Thailand, which furnishes bases for U.S. planes bombing North Viet Nam and Communist-controlled areas of Laos. Red China has warned the Thais they are risking a Viet Cong-type insurgency by giving the Americans bases.

Most of Rusk's speech dealt with Viet Nam. U.S. sources said he told the closed meeting Hanoi had shown no interest in a peaceful settlement and was continuing its effort to seize South Viet Nam by force.

A SEATO spokesman said the secretary of state reminded the ministers the U.S. embassy in Saigon had been bombed but the United States had not bombed embassies in Hanoi.

British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart told the ministers Britain would honor its regional commitments but found it difficult to accept new ones, sources reported. He said Britain would carefully reconsider the deployment of British forces after Indonesia's confrontation against Malaysia ends.

Yanks Visits Abroad at a Record Level

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the first time in the history of the United States record numbers this year but it won't be enough to reverse or even improve the travel gap in the U.S. dollar drain.

The reason is all too simple. Americans are traveling abroad in record numbers and continuing to spend more money in other lands than foreigners spend here.

Stubborn Husband Sits in Jail

STATESVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Coyt Benfield is a stubborn man who sits calmly in Iredell County Jail chewing gum.

The 36-year-old Mooresville man was jailed Feb. 11, 1965, on a contempt of court citation charging failure to provide $26 weekly support for three children in the custody of his divorced wife.

For the last 10 months Benfield has refused to pay and remained in jail. His lawyers argue he is not the father of the youngest child.

"I will not support the one that's not mine," Benfield says. Judge F. M. Armstrong disagrees.

"You can't deny paternity ordinarily if you are married to the mother," the judge said. "If he'd comply with the terms of the court we'd free him."

Benfield is not allowed to post bond since there is no criminal charge involved. So he just sits in jail.

"If I don't fight for my rights, who will?"

"I'll stay in jail the rest of my life rather than pay for a child that is not mine," Benfield says.

House Unit Is Sharply Divided on Controversial Antibias Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Judiciary Committee split sharply today as it takes up President Johnson's controversial proposal to ban discrimination in the sale or rental of residential housing.

The committee has almost completed work on the rest of the 1966 Civil Rights Act including a prohibition of bias in jury selection, protection for civil rights workers, and increased power for the attorney general to move against segregation in education and public facilities.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said he hopes a consensus can be achieved today. But indications are that a good deal of bargaining remains and the matter may be put over until after the House's 10-day July 4th recess which starts Thursday.

Cells publicly favors the President's proposals. But observers say the housing provision probably will get no more than half a dozen votes from the 35-member committee.

STRONG SENTIMENT

With strong sentiment evident against any housing provision, at least two committee members are seeking to save the provision even if it has to be watered down substantially.

Rep. James C. Corman, D-Calif., has drawn up an amendment to exempt sales by owners of their own houses and rental housing with four units or less where one unit is inhabited by the owner.

The exemption would cover only persons engaging in less than three transactions per year, thus bringing under the bill sales by developers of large residential subdivisions.

Corman's proposal would, however, contain strict language against discrimination or encouragement of bias by realtors, thus leaving to the owner the initiative in restricting potential buyers of his home.

The committee completed work Monday on the rest of the bill by voting 18 to 16 to restrict protection for persons involved in activities while engaging in voter registration, desegregation or other civil rights activities.

Civil rights leaders said the amendment, sponsored by Rep. George W. Grider, D-Tenn., would have the effect of permitting violence aimed at civil rights workers if a judge decides their activities were not lawful.

National consumption of cigarettes in 1965 reached a record of $32 billion, or 4 per cent more than the year before.

Heres' One Skunk With Close Friends

UTICA (AP) — Here's a story about a real low-down skunk who has a lawyer and the sympathy of everybody who knows him or her.

The name is Honey Bun and he or she, no one's sure which yet, is a real live skunk. And about as low down as a skunk can get, too — only a month old.

Honey Bun belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Modzelewski, their son, Shawn, 4, daughter, Kimberly Ann, 3, and a German Shepherd, Sheli, age unknown, all of 43471 Vivian, Sterling Township.

Honey Bun and four brothers and sisters were orphaned by a speeding car.

TROUBLE STARTS

Gerald, knowing his wife has wanted such a pet for years, brought one home.

Then the trouble began. An inquiry to a veterinarian about getting the skunk deslunked got the reply that it's unlawful.

"That's right," a conservation officer confirmed, "it's against the law in Michigan to keep wild animals as pets."

"What about skunks for sale in pet stores?" Nancy asked. They are brought in from out of state and, presumably having been bred in captivity, have been immunized against rabies, she was told.

SPREADS GOOD WILL

Frederick K. Steurer, a State Conservation Department official in charge of special permits for mammals, said the maximum penalty for keeping a wild animal is a $100 fine and 30 days in jail.

But Honey Bun hasn't been idle since joining the Modzelewski household.

He or she has been out spreading good will among the neighbors who have come to his or her defense.

One of them went to the conservation police in Pontiac and got a reprieve.

Meanwhile, the Modzelewskis got a lawyer. Other neighbors are busy. They've started a petition in favor of keeping Honey Bun.

And little Shawn Modzelewski is hard at work, too. He has told his mother to "tell the conservation man that Honey Bun wants to stay with us."

WANTED: SKUNK PERMIT—Shawn Modzelewski, 4, and his sister, Kimberly Ann, 3, of 43471 Vivian, Sterling Township, hold Honey Bun, a month-old orphaned skunk who has become a neighborhood pet. Keeping wild animals as pets is unlawful in Michigan but the Modzelewskis have hired a lawyer and neighbors started a petition in favor of keeping the little animal.

Strong Auto Safety Laws Gain Lawmakers' Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mem-similar to that approved by the Senate last week.

Committee reported increasing sentiment in their group today for strong auto safety legislation to deal with the rising highway death toll.

As the committee prepared to launch its third week of closed sessions on the bill, Chairman Harley O. Staggers said he hopes it will approve "strong legislation" before the House starts a 10-day July 4 recess Thursday.

The West Virginia Democrat met privately with committee members yesterday to stress the need for early action.

Two committee Democrats, meanwhile, said the trend in the committee is now clearly for the enactment of strong legislation.

The committee has yet to reach key decisions on the nature of federal auto safety standards and when they should take effect, and on such things as tire legislation, requirements that auto companies notify buyers of defects, and the type of penalties to be provided in the bill.

Mao: a Thinking Man's Thinker

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Joseph Stalin, in the words of his idolaters, may have been "the genius leader of all mankind," but he was a piker alongside Mao Tse-tung when it came to thinking.

Mao's thinking, to cite just one Chinese Communist assessment, is "the greatest truth since time immemorial."

The Chinese Communists, who like to make great leaps forward, took a big jump in the past year in the field of the personality cult. Their performance promises to put Stalin's cult to shame.

Stalin was called: "Great leader and teacher and invincible fighter for all mankind."

"Father of all mankind."

"Leader of the great army of struggle for the cause of peace and socialism."

'DEMONSTRATION OF LOVE' On his 70th birthday in December 1949, while Communists around the world lavished adoration upon him, Pravda said of him: "The celebration of comrade J.V. Stalin's birthday was a mighty demonstration of the devotion and love of the Soviet people and the working people of the whole world for the leader and teacher of all mankind, the inspirer and organizer of the victory of communism."

Now it's Mao's turn.

But there is one curious thing about the Mao cult which sets it apart from Stalin's. Although some time ago the obsequies often went to Mao himself, now it is invariably to his "thinking."

As if Mao's body had been snatched away, leaving a legacy to be administered by some sort of collective leadership.

"Chairman Mao is the red sun in our hearts," the party said would say in the past. "Chairman Mao is the radiant sunlight in our minds."

WORDS, THOUGHTS

Now it's all about Mao's words and thoughts.

Some examples: "Each one of Chairman Mao's words is worth 10,000 words."

"Chairman Mao's thought is the greatest truth since time immemorial."

"The theory and practice of Mao Tse-tung may be likened to the ceaseless movement in the skies of the sun and moon and the endless flow of the rivers and streams on earth."

"Mao Tse-tung's thought is an incontrovertible truth. It is irresistible. Nobody can prevent it from going from one victory to another, just as nobody can prevent the sun from rising in the east."

Mao's thought has done things Stalin never dreamed of.

The Peking People's Daily said a Chinese ping pong team won a championship because it "placed emphasis on the decisive role of Mao Tse-tung's thought in winning victories in table tennis tournaments."

CREATIVE STUDY

A factory assigned to produce seamless oxygen cylinders announced "the process of producing oxygen cylinders is a process of creatively studying Mao Tse-tung's thinking."

Li Su-wen's grocery shop in Shenyang was doing poorly until she studied Mao Tse-tung's thought. She then, said the People's Daily, became beloved of the workers of Shenyang who now call her "our Red housekeeper."

And there was the celebrated case of the watermelons which would not sell in summertime until, said the People's Daily, the fruit company manager in Shanghai read Mao Tse-tung's work. "On contradictions."

Things changed, and said the manager, "the reason for our success in selling watermelons invincible might of Mao Tse-tung was completely attributed to the Tung's thinking."

Stay-at-Home Vacations Can Be Exciting Too

By MARGARET BROWN
Vacation travel is exhilarating, but have you ever thought of "getting away from it all" just staying home?

If your free time outweighs the bank balance, an at-home vacation can be a relaxing time for those things you've always wanted to do, but never had the time.

One word of caution. Avoid the temptation to spend your days "catching up" about the house. Let the cluttered attic and basement go. Reorganize closets another day.

If "I've hardly time to think" at times has been your lament, you may choose to while away some solitary hours in meditation at the lake shore. If ever you've felt the urge to write, this is the time to capture those flashes of enlightenment on paper.

Perhaps you'll want to spend a nostalgic afternoon simply reminiscing over old family snap shots, albums and year books.

STUDY A BIT

You say you've always been intrigued with Greek mythology? Egyptology? Old Testament geography? Why not haunt the Pontiac City Library and further pursue your interests? It needn't be an onerous study session.

Incidentally, Pontiac City Library plans a supervised summer children's reading program early in July. And at Waterford Township Library Story Hours for children are being conducted Wednesday mornings through Aug. 10 by the Waterford Jaycettes.

Pleasurable pastimes are innumerable for vacation's lady of leisure. Days may be spent organizing and testing tantalizing recipes you've been saving all year — those with the gourmet ingredients.

You might even go to Detroit's open air market to buy some leeks or spend a wholesome Saturday morning at the county farmers' market on Telegraph Road.

BE DARING

Why not experiment with that dramatic new coiffure you've been fancying? If unflattering to conservative you, it's immaterial. You've unlimited time to suds and reset.

does a harried homemaker fret, "I really should spend more time with the children?"

The at-home vacation affords perfect opportunity for parents to lend whole-hearted interest for games or fantasy-filled play sessions — that is, if minds can be unfettered from crying household tasks.

If family outings are planned, Oakland County has much to offer.

Self-Respect Doesn't Flourish When Lying Becomes Way Out

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Your column is held in great esteem by many young people, but one of your recent answers has caused some of us to reconsider.

In your reply to a cocktail waitress who wanted to know how to keep the wolves in line with out losing tips, you said: "Tell them the huskiest bartender in the place is your husband."

Abby, to advise her to be deceitful contradicts the high moral standards which in the past you have always upheld. Honesty is honesty, and should be a constant habit. And even though the waitress may lose some tips, she should not compromise her self-respect. Thank you.

DEAR STUDENTS AND MR. ROGERS: Thank you for your fine letter. I agree with your criticism and appreciate having had this called to my attention. Let's substitute the following answer: "Tell the wolves that you are not that kind of girl."

"And if they tip only because they expect to see you later, they had better save their money."

DEAR ABBY: Every Sunday for many years my husband and I and our son (who is now 15) have eaten dinner at a downtown cafeteria. For the last year, our son has always managed to finish his dinner first, and while we are still eating, he says, "Dad, would you let me have the keys to the car?"

My husband puts down his fork, digs into his pocket and hands over the keys. Then the boy goes and sits in the car and listens to the radio until we join him.

Sometimes it is only a matter of 10 minutes, but it burns me up to go through this ritual every Sunday. Incidentally, this happens when others are eating with us. When I mention this to my husband he says, "Oh, it's a petty matter." I would like your opinion.

OLD FASHIONED
DEAR O. F.: Waiting until everyone at the table has finished eating before leaving is a simple exercise in courtesy, consideration, and patience. Your son should be gently but firmly corrected.

Open Home to Visitors From Foreign Lands

By SIGNE KARLSTROM

The R. H. Hansen residence has been named the International Club by friends.

Visitors from various parts of the world are coming and going, it seems, constantly, and Mr. and Mrs. Hansen receive them all with their usual warm hospitality.

The past weekend Mr. and Mrs. Allan Cameron and their young daughter Ruth-Ann have been the Hansens' house guests. The Camerons have been stationed in Singapore and after a visit with their parents in Chicago and with the Hansens, they are now on their way to their new home in Darwin, Australia.

They are friends of the junior R. H. Hansens who presently are also making their home in Singapore.

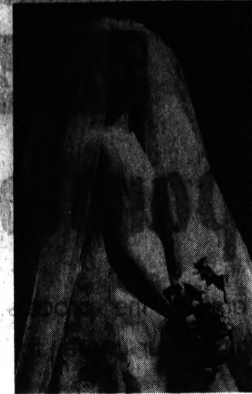

Last year when the senior Mrs. Hansen visited with her son and his family, their oldest son, Douglas, accompanied his grandmother on a tour through many of the countries in the East.

Last winter, Douglas was at Columbia Military Academy in Tennessee. Also that's where his father also has been a student. Presently, Douglas is enjoying a longer visit with his grandparents.

The Paul S. Bowers family are all together again this summer. Henry is home from Mercersburg Academy, as well as John, who is a student at University of Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Thordike Jr. (the former Della Bowers) and their little son, Albert III, of Cambridge, Mass. are occupying the Fredrick Robinson home on Pilgrim for the summer.

Prior to the presidents' ball at Orchard Lake Country Club last Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Philip G. Moon entertained some 60 friends for cocktails in

German Girl Comes to Camp

Hurricane Alma made the first part of her trip rough. A 24-hour bus ride made the end of it fatiguing.

Ulrike Strubel of Kunselsau, Germany, arrived Sunday night in Lapeer, spent the summer as a counselor at the Girl Scout camp, Camp Sherwood.

This fresh-faced, soft spoken miss of 21 comes to this area through the International Camp Counselors Program.

With her on the ship were 199 other young men and women, representing 28 nations. They are all sponsored by the Council on Student Travel in Paris.

Ulrike (they call her Ricky at camp) has just finished her training as a primary school teacher.

She will work mainly with the youngest girls at Camp Sherwood, although she will be in demand by all the units.

FAMILY CAMPER

Her camping experience has been with her family. She says they chose to visit different countries each year.

Ulrike is enthusiastic about being in America. She is interested in everything about Pontiac and looks forward to taking a tour of the automobile factories.

The cars look big to her, but Wide Track Drive didn't faze her at all.

Ulrike Strubel of Germany who arrived in Michigan late Sunday does a little sightseeing in downtown Pontiac. She will spend the summer as a counselor at Camp Sherwood near Lapeer, the camp owned by Northern Oakland County Girl Scout Council.

GARY PLAYER'S GOLF CLASS:

Youngsters Dominate U.S. Track Team

NEW YORK (AP) — If the United States regains the supremacy in track it lost to the Russians in Kiev last year, much of the credit will belong to youngsters.

Scattered throughout the list of the competitors who will face the Russian team in a dual meet at Los Angeles July 23-24 — and the Polish team the week before at Berkeley, Calif. — are a stack of teen-agers and near-teens.

The list, released Monday by the men's track and field committee of the Amateur Athletic Union, contained the top performers in last weekend's AAU championships. Added were Tommie Smith, the sprinter from San Jose State, and Gerry Lindgren, the long-distance star from Washington State. Both missed the meet because of various ailments.

Lindgren is the elder statesman of the young stars — he's all of 30. The trail youth was named to the team at 10,000 meters, the event last thrust upon him in prominence two years ago when he beat the highly favored Russians in the dual meet.

Top performer among the teen-agers is Jim Ryan, 19, who is America's best at the mile. He will run the 1,500 meters and will be heavily favored. In the AAU meet, he ran the mile in 3:58.6.

Another youngster named to the long-distance crew is Riley Lindgren's high-school records from Spokane, Wash. Riley, who is not much bigger than Lindgren, also was named at 10,000 meters.

Lee Evans, also 19, from San Jose City College, will run the 400 meters against the Russians off the strength of his 45.9 victory in the 440 at the AAU meet. Then there are the pole vaulters. Bob Seagren, 19, of the Southern California Striders, holds the pending record of 17-4 1/2 and Paul Wilton, a Strider teammate, holds the national high-school mark of 16-5 1/2 set only last year.

Fights Terrell Tonight in Houston

Jones Makes 2nd Try for Ring Title

HOUSTON (AP) — Embattled Doug Jones makes his second attempt at a championship tonight when he pits his speed and strength against the big man, Ernie Terrell, who holds the World's Boxing Association heavyweight title.

Jones tried for the light heavyweight crown in 1962 and lost to Harold Johnson in 15 rounds.

Since then, he has fought the best heavyweights he could find, including Cassius Clay, the generally recognized champion, who was just coming up and Clay outpointed him, but many claimed the decision went the wrong way.

So now, Jones goes against the fellow who thinks he should be the recognized champion since he represents the only world's association but realizes that Clay, although suspended while he was WBA champion, still is regarded as the big man of the game.

PREDICTS KAYO

Each predicts victory, and Jones bravely forecasts that he will knock out the taller and stronger Terrell, whose superior height and reach have made him a 6 to 5 favorite.

Terrell only says he will "beat him bad, maybe knock him out."

The two come together in a match scheduled for 15 rounds and expected to start about 11 p.m., EDT. A crowd approaching 10,000 and paying $130,000 is expected to be in San Houston Coliseum.

Whoever wins, he has two offers of future fights.

Irving Ungerman, manager of George Chuvalo, who was beaten by Terrell in November, made a bid of $75,000 to the winner of the Terrell-Jones fight.

Hugh Benbow, manager of Cleveland Williams, the only fighter to knock out Terrell — in 1962 — made an offer of $50,000. Benbow plans to put the fight on in Houston's famed Astrodome if he gets it.

Bad Night for Mayor, but Ford Looks Sharp

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a bad night for New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, but Whitey Ford had himself a ball.

Ford, just four days off the disabled list, appeared to have regained the master's touch as he pitched three flawless innings in an exhibition game between the New York Yankees and New York Mets Monday night. The Yanks won 5-2.

Ford's last start was on May 24, but he was bothered by tendonitis and didn't last. On June 6, he was placed on the disabled list. The star Yankee left-hander returned to action last Saturday against Chicago, but did poorly. In two innings, he gave up four hits including a homer.

But Monday night it was a different story.

"I was able to keep the ball down," the 37-year-old pitcher said after the game.

FELT GOOD

Asked if he thought the Mets were a fair test, he said, "I don't care who it was. The fact that I got the ball where I wanted it and felt good makes it a fair test."

Ralph Houk said Whitey would start one of the games the Yankees will play in Washington this weekend.

But while Whitey was feeling pleased, Mayor Lindsay was considering the at-times brutal reception he got from many of the 56,367 fans who jammed Shea Stadium.

Lindsay left the stadium after the eighth inning.

Houmers by Joe Pepitone, Ray Barker and Bill Bryan, newly acquired from Kansas City, powered the Yanks to their victory.

Said Houk after the game: "If we played here, we'd hit 300 homers."

Church League in 3-Way Tie

A pair of two-run homers by Wayne Morenz helped power Union Lake Baptist past Judah Lake Baptist and into a three-way tie for first place in the Waterford Church Softball League last night.

Union Lake, Judah Lake and Price Lutheran, a 6-0 winner over Elizabeth Lake Church of Christ (4-3), all have 5-2 records.

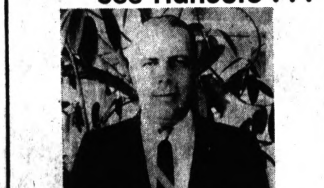

Jim Sanders also clipped a two-run homer for Union Lake. Bob Moore pitched a two-hitter for Price and contributed three singles.

Crescent Lake RLDS (4-3) downed Stringham (2-5) United Missionary, 11-5, as Jim Stuenkel hit a three-run homer and Dave Mellenfort powered a circuit blow with one mate aboard.

Jim Washburn cracked a three-run homer to lead Donelson Baptist into the win column for the first time after six losses with a 13-9 triumph over St. Stephen Lutheran (3-4).

First Church of God (4-3) edged St. Paul Methodist (3-4) as Chuck Sanders provided the winning margin with a grand slam homer.

Modern Johnny Appleseed

Nearly everyone is familiar with the true story of Johnny Appleseed, a pioneer of conservation, reforestation and beautification. But few are aware of the extensive reforestation program being carried on right here in Michigan!

Back in the twenties, Consumers Power started a reforestation program. Today, we plant about 750,000 trees a year. As a result, 23,000,000 additional trees are growing along Michigan's beautiful streams and rivers. These millions of trees are valuable not only as a practical conservation program, but provide wooded beauty, a haven for wildlife and add to the pleasure of hunters, tourists and vacationers.

It's another nice thing about having Consumers Power as a neighbor.
