Drayton Slates Tests Monday

Tots Aged 3-5 to Get Free Examinations at 3 Final Screening Sites

A vision screening program to test the eyesight of pre-school age children will move to Drayton Plains, Waterford Township and West Bloomfield Township this week.

Free sight tests will be given to all children between three and five from 9:30 to 4:30 Monday and Tuesday at the Community United Presbyterian Church, Sashabaw Rd. and Monroe St., Drayton Plains.

Wednesday the center will be located at Christ Lutheran Church, Airport and Williams Lake Rds., Waterford Township.

Friday will wind up the program for the season with a clinic at the West Bloomfield Town Hall, 4460 Orchard Lake Rd.

Every parent with children in the three-to-five age group is urged to bring them in. No appointment is needed and the tests take only a few moments.

Residence is not a requirement, and those who missed the program in their own areas are urged to bring their children to one of these three final clinics.

Sponsored by the Junior League of Birmingham in cooperation with city, Oakland County and Michigan health and education departments, and assisted by an advisory board of established physicians, the program is aimed at discovering vision defects before school work begins.

Previous testing shows that over 10 per cent of the children in this age group have vision defects of which the parents are unaware. Of 319 children tested in Pontiac this week, 47 had faulty vision — well over 14 per cent.

The examination, conducted by trained Junior League volunteers, consists of the Snellen section of the Massachusetts Vision Test. No attempt is made to diagnose, but where eyesight is poor the children are referred to an eye doctor for treatment.

"We are bringing this program into the county for the convenience of mothers with young children," Mrs. Gene A. White, of the Junior League, co-chairman with Mrs. Harvey Kresge Jr., said today.

"We hope those with cars will arrange to transport others, so that every child in the area may receive his vision examination. We hope, too, that those who were unable to meet the Pontiac and Birmingham schedule will bring their children in to one of these three final programs."

After a honeymoon in the Smoky Mountains, the new Mr. and Mrs. Hakola will be at home for their friends in Calumet, where the bridegroom is stationed with the Air Force.

ROY ROGERS WITH SONS SANDY AND DUSTY
They spend hours together in their workshop

Roy Rogers' Sons Enjoy Woodworking with Father

By STEVE ELLINGSON
It isn't polite to eavesdrop, but on a plane coming home from Columbus, Ohio, the other day, I couldn't help but overhear an interesting conversation between two men who were sitting behind me. They were so enthusiastic about the topic they were discussing that I listened.

It seems they had visited Father Flanagan's Boys Town and were planning to start a similar institution in their city.

One of the first things that had impressed them as they entered the famous Boys Town in Nebraska was a simple inspiring plaque which has become the symbol of the spirit and work being carried on in that little town.

The plaque pictures a sturdy young boy carrying a crippled little boy in his arms. Beneath this is written, "He ain't heavy, Father. He's my brother."

One of the gentlemen said, "If only everyone would stand before his God, helping another, and say, 'He ain't heavy, Father. He's my brother.'"

I thought to myself, "Mister, it would be awfully hard for anyone to find fault with that statement."

One of them went on to say, "Some men are more interested in bowling than they are in their boy. Some women are more interested in clothes than they are in preserving their home. The home is the basic unit of society. If the home goes, so goes the nation."

"Where do boys get their ideas?" one of the old gentlemen went on. Certainly not from skid row! They get their ideas from smooth suave, classy men. The classier the man, the more his misdeeds appeal to the boy. Men of distinction stuff. What a lot of baloney that is!

Finally one of the gentlemen said, and by this time they had quite an audience, "Every father is a hero to his boy. The boy watches him closely. He studies his life. He mimics his dad and wants to grow up like him. One good father is worth more than 100 school teachers."

The more I thought of the conversation between those two old men, the more I was determined to find a real honest-to-gosh father to picture in today's column. After thinking about it, I decided upon Roy Rogers who has a family that's his pride and joy.

I visited Roy's home and found him and his sons Dusty and Sandy building bird houses.

They spend hour after hour together in their little workshop. The boys think their Dad is the greatest guy ever. And Roy wouldn't do anything to lose that respect.

Since spring is just around the corner, you too may wish to help your boy build a bird house. The one you see pictured here is designed just the way the birds like it.

It is easy to build from the full-size pattern. Simply trace the pattern on wood, then saw it out and finally put it together. You needn't be skilled or have an elaborate set of tools; a few hand tools are all that are required.

Police Clear Up Breakin' Wave

Burglaries in Oak Park Laid to Gang of Youths; 2 Waive Hearing

Oak Park Police said today that a three-month wave of breakins has been cleared up with the arrest of six juveniles and two 17-year-old Oakley Park boys.

Safety Director Glenn S. Leonard said that Shelton Cannon, of 21391 Conover Lane, and Willie Green, of 21554 Glenfield Ct., have admitted participating in 22 breakins in the Capitol avenue industrial area.

Both youths waived examination on charges of breaking and entering in the night time Friday before Oak Park Justice William F. Nera, and were bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court for arraignment May 17.

Both youths were taken to the Oakland County Jail where they were unable to furnish $1,000 bond each.

Three of the six juveniles implicated are still in custody, Leonard said, and three others are in custody of their parents pending further investigation.

Detective Sgt. Steve Pisk, Detective Paul Jones, and Patrolman James Scrivo, have been working on the cases since a company policeman arrested Cannon at the Dial Manufacturing Co., 10161 Capitol Ave., April 27.

Vehicle Output Set at 120,104

Little Opportunity Seen for New Car Depletion Before July

This week's U. S. motor vehicle output will consist of 120,104 cars and 22,075 trucks, Ward's Automotive Reports said today.

The agency's revised estimate for last week counted 122,572 cars and 21,861 trucks. In the comparable week last year 141,905 cars and 23,706 trucks were assembled.

Ward's puts Canadian output this week at 8,509 cars and 1,709 trucks compared with 8,145 cars and 1,962 trucks last week. In the comparable 1953 week Dominion factories built 8,455 cars and 3,329 trucks.

The industry's used car problem, Ward's said, "has been successfully checked," but "factory production plus the selling rate leave little room for new car stock depletion before July and possibly beyond that month."

It added that unless May-June sales show unexpected improvement, "the automotive industry faces sharp production readjustments beyond mid-year."
