

Federal Judge Orders End to Railroad Strike

Lack of Area Planning Cited UF Survey Unveiled

By L. GARY THORNE

Long-term planning was cited as the big need in an inventory of Pontiac Area United Fund health, welfare and youth-serving agencies unveiled today.

A lengthy list of hard-hitting recommendations, some potentially controversial, were offered by Prof. Russell W. Leedy in his findings after a comprehensive six-month survey begun last June.

Leedy, visiting professor of social work, Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C., presented the completed report to the 19-member survey committee at an 8 a.m. breakfast meeting.

Charged with studying Leedy's recommendations, the survey committee is headed by William B. Hartman, chairman. Leedy was assisted in his analysis by a team of consultants from a variety of fields of study.

Hartman commented that the report "is presented only for what it is — an analysis from an outside, independent viewpoint — not as the final, unalterable opinion of the committee."

The $15,000 study attempted to isolate instances of overlapping, duplication, program gaps, unmet needs and other recommendations to solve such problems.

Emphasizing that the survey was not intended to be a one-shot affair, Leedy told the committee that the process of planning and adjustment of agency services must be a continuing one.

Hartman said it was understood that some of the recommendations warranted further study. He added:

"Any adoption or implementation of the recommendations will be the responsibility of the local community or of the agencies themselves if they deem it appropriate."

Leedy's survey of public and private health, welfare and youth services resulted in recommendations for program changes, modifications and, in some instances, eliminations.

The Leedy survey examined not only the United Fund itself, but also the 46 major agencies providing the bulk of community services to the Pontiac area.

Excluded from the survey were the extracurricular programs.

Recommendation List

Here, in capsule form, are specific recommendations aimed at individual groups or agencies in the Leedy Survey of Health, Welfare and Youth Services in the Pontiac area:

- Steps to merge the County Department of Social Welfare and the Bureau of Social Aid should be continued.
- There should be clarification of the function and program of the Oakland Child Guidance Clinic (North Oakland).
- Child welfare services provided by the Oakland County Branch of the Michigan Children's Aid Society should be modified. If this is not done, the survey recommends Pontiac Area United Fund monies be shifted to Family Service of Oakland County toward development of appropriate services.
- Big Brothers of Oakland County, Inc., should be given low priority by the Pontiac Area United Fund in terms of its present program until various recommended studies are carried out.

SALVATION ARMY

- The Salvation Army Citadel Corps should investigate providing suitable living units for emergency shelter.
- The city's Youth Assistance Department should, if it is to serve a referral function, handle a larger volume of cases.

- There is an overemphasis on recreation services for boys in the Pontiac UF area, there is not enough flexibility in recreation programs and less-populated townships lack recreation services.
- There is a great need for community parks in Waterford Township.

COOPERATIVE ARRANGEMENT

- Townships in proximity to the city should seek a co-operative arrangement with the Pontiac Department of Parks and Recreation.
- UF financial support of limited recreation programs is not appropriate.
- The Boys' Club of Waterford Township should suspend operations to enable the community to give support to other agencies.
- The Northern Oakland Girl Scout Council did not participate in the survey. This was deplored by Leedy.

HEALTH SERVICES

- High priority should be given to development of community health services. The lack of full participation in the survey by the National Foundation, Oakland County Chapter and the Oakland County Society for Crippled Children and Adults was cited by Leedy.
- The Pontiac Area Urban League is overinvolved in service to specific individuals and neither wants to, nor should serve as principal spokesman for area Negroes.
- There is a need for research by the UF, and annual goals have not been fixed on the basis of needs established through the budgeting process.
- There appears to be no need for the continued operation of the Community Chest of Pontiac.

Some of the changes called for by the Leedy survey have already been implemented or are in the process of being implemented.

Plants in City Slowed; Area Travel Affected

Some Shift Workers on Reduced Schedule as Supplies Are Cut

Curtailed production at two local auto plants and no commuter rail service were the immediate effects of the railroad strike that halted traffic today on the Grand Trunk Western Railroad.

First-shift production workers at the Pontiac Motor Division and the Fisher Body plants were sent home shortly after 10 a.m.

Production workers on second shift were also expected to work only four hours.

A total of 19,200 production employees at Pontiac Motor and Fisher Body were to work abbreviated shifts.

GMC Truck & Coach Division appeared to have adequate supplies to continue "at this time," according to a spokesman.

LOCAL EFFECT

A lengthy rail strike was expected to cripple local industries receiving materials and supplies by rail, although shipping was to be carried out by shifting to highway carriers.

Train No. 22, which picks up commuters in Pontiac, Birmingham and points south on its way from Chicago to Detroit, was the last today to travel local rails.

All passenger and freight trains of the Grand Trunk Western Railroad were idled by the strike against eight major railroads.

Commuters to Detroit were hard-hit by the halt of railroad transportation.

LAST TRAIN

Grand Trunk spokesman Hugh MacLeod said an extra half-dozen cars were added to train No. 22, the last train to run from Pontiac to Detroit this morning.

Two other trains normally serving Detroit-bound commuters were not in operation, MacLeod said.

Although assembly and manufacturing operations at Pontiac Motor were curtailed, some departments were fully operating, including offices, the foundry, parts warehouse and a few special departments.

Recall announcements will be made over local radio and area newspapers, a Pontiac Motor spokesman said.

GOING HOME—Some of the 3,200 Fisher Body plant production workers sent home work half-day shifts today and tonight as a result of a railroad strike.

$1-Million Loss in Jewel Theft

Four Gunmen Careful to Sidestep Alarms

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Four gunmen, carefully sidestepping a dozen burglar alarms, ransacked 64 safe deposit boxes at a posh health resort early today and escaped with "over a million dollars worth of jewelry."

The bandits, two of them masked, walked into the lobby of the Harbour Isle Spa Hotel shortly after 4 a.m., handcuffed three employees before they could get to burglar alarms to the police station next door, and began systematically cracking the jewelry-stuffed safe deposit boxes.

"They got well over a million dollars in jewels," said hotel owner Larry Paskow, "but they didn't get much cash."

North Bay village police said the robbers used a metal punch and hammer to break into the safe deposit boxes—which were also rigged to a burglary alarm to the police station.

SIMILAR HEIST

The entire operation—similar to one at another Miami Beach hotel last year that netted burglars $100,000—took less than 40 minutes, police said.

LBJ Warns of Moves to Restrain Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today "prices are moving up much too fast for comfort" and, if necessary, he will call for new restraints on the economy—"election year notwithstanding."

Presumably he was talking about a tax increase among other moves.

At the same time, Johnson argued "the American economy is not shooting off into outer space" at the moment. But he cautioned that the recent rate of price increases "could not long be tolerated."

In an address prepared for a meeting of the National League of Cities, Johnson said it is too soon to determine whether anti-inflation actions already taken will curb rising prices.

While holding out the possibility of more drastic measures later, the President described the current situation as one demanding caution rather than more strenuous measures.

"We are touching the brakes, not clamping them on, not risking a skid into recession or depression," he said.

He said his administration doesn't know yet whether past actions could not long be tolerated.

PRICES RISING

Over the last five months wholesale prices have been rising at the rate of 5% per cent. Year increases at these rates could not long be tolerated.

Trains Halted by Walkout in Many States

Shutdown Believed 100 Pct. Effective; Includes Grand Trunk

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge ordered today a halt to strikes and picketing against eight railroads including Grand Trunk Western by the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)

Nearly 8,000 firemen struck early today on eight major railroads including Grand Trunk Western, and within nine hours one carrier shut down and another said there was "not a train running."

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen headquarters here announced at 9 a.m. that its first check showed the strike "100 per cent effective" and that "there has been no question of the other crafts honoring our lines."

The Missouri Pacific Railroad said at St. Louis it was shutting down its 12-state, 12,000-mile operation. A spokesman said the strike "would have a serious effect on national defense."

A spokesman for Union Pacific Railroad, the nation's longest, said in Omaha, Neb., there was "not a train running." Later, however, he said he learned supervisory crews had manned three passenger trains. He said 70 other trains were idle between the Missouri River and Ogden, Utah.

H. E. Gilbert, president of the operating rail union, called the strike "authorized and legal" and is keeping with our rights under the Railway Labor Act.

But the chief negotiator for the railroad industry, J. E. Wolfe, said in New York the strike was "completely illegal" and he would seek an injunction in Federal District Court in Washington immediately to halt it. Wolfe flew to Washington early today.

Gilbert said the basic issue of the walkout was the railroad industry's "using the courts for delay and an outright refusal to meet any issue, including a training program for firemen, at the bargaining table."

Heath said any training program for firemen would be mainly as apprentice engineers and therefore in the jurisdiction of his engineers' union, not Gilbert's firemen.

Six MSU Students Still on Food Strike

EAST LANSING (AP) — A daughter of Michigan's Selective Service chief and five companions, all on a hunger strike, picketed into a second day today in protest over the jailing of four young Viet Nam war critics.

The picket line, on duty overnight, marched at the home of Michigan State University President John A. Hannah and also included Jane Munn, 22, daughter of MSU Athletic Director Clarence (Biggie) Munn.

"We'll stay here until they (the four war critics) get out of jail," said Louise Holmes, 20, daughter of Clarence Holmes, the Michigan draft boss.

The third picketing food is Leslie Heimstad of Birmingham.

Bronson Fires Aide-Hopeful

Dismissal Follows Entrance in Race

Asst. Prosecutor Walter D. Schmier was fired yesterday after announcing he had entered the circuit judge race.

His boss, Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson, is also a candidate.

Schmier, given an hour's notice of his noon dismissal, said he had no ill feelings about the move.

"I'm sorry things worked out the way they did," said Schmier, "but Jerry just feels this will detract from him."

Bronson said the conflict was too great.

AIDES' DUTIES

"The men are here to serve the public, law enforcement and Jerry Bronson," said Bronson, "and surely they can't help by campaigning against me."

Bronson said he had given Schmier, a member of the staff since Bronson took office in January 1965, a choice of either resigning or taking a leave of absence.

Schmier, 58, of 8577 Hendrie, Huntingtown Woods, said that he had turned down the offer.

"I don't need the job," he explained, "but I enjoy my work and I didn't want to leave."

CORPORATION EXEC

Before joining the staff, Schmier was president of the National Mortgage Corp. in Detroit.

Bronson termed his dismissal of Schmier as "distasteful."

"It would have been needless and unnecessary if Walter had quit or left the office on leave," said Bronson.

The prosecutor said he had outlined a policy in December to members of his staff about running for political office.

NO COUNTY POST

"I told them at the time that they could run for their school boards or local office, but that they could not run for any county-wide position."

Bronson and Schmier are among 10 announced candidates seeking two possible three-vacancies on the bench this fall.

While Bronson has announced his intention, it is still uncertain if he is eligible because a state law prohibits an elected official involved in a grand jury to run for any other office while the one he is holding.

Bronson, who is taking part in the Royal Oak Township investigation, has challenged the constitutionality of the statute in a suit filed in Oakland County Circuit Court.

grams of the several school districts.

Offering provocative comment on some specific programs or organizations, Leedy singled out "planning" as the top need.

"There is not now, nor has there been, effective planning of the community social services."

Strike Vote Date Set at GMC Truck

A strike vote has been set for April 13 at UAW Local 594, GMC Truck & Coach Division.

The action was taken last night after a wildcat strike yesterday morning idled about 7,000 hourly workers, temporarily halting production.

Production was back to normal today. Workers returned after a day-long meeting between labor and management officials yesterday in an effort to settle the dispute.

The meeting broke up about 4:30 p.m. and workers were reportedly back at their jobs by 5 p.m. No settlement was reached and further meetings are slated today and tomorrow.

Robert White, president of the local, said about 250 issues are at stake. Chief among them are alleged speed-ups, health hazards, and work standards.

Involved are the skilled workers, who have shown signs of unrest for some time, White said.

Division officials refused to comment.

ices," Leedy said in his report.

Leedy noted that steps are under way to develop a planning program.

Urging a vigorous and influential planning program, the survey director said the planning should not be autocratic, but should be strong and persistent.

NEW AGENCIES

He said there has been an overemphasis on development of new agencies, rather than upgrading and adjusting existing services to changing needs.

"This has resulted in spreading money and other resources too thinly and in the existence of duplicative and competitive services," said Leedy.

Citing the major lack of research, the college professor said in the planning and development of services and testing their effectiveness:

"Decisions have been based too much on prestige and influence of sponsors, intuition, accident and personal preference."

Among other over-all suggestions, Leedy said, steps should be taken to provide employee salaries and benefits comparable with those offered in the community.

SMALL COST

Also on UF operations, Leedy reported that the $79,528 budgeted last year as administration costs was "modest" and could be increased.

He said the amount budgeted represented 9 percent of the funds raised in the UF campaign.

If desired research and planning were carried out, it would not be uncommon for administration costs to reach 12 percent, he said.

Related to the "more planning" recommended by the Leedy report is a future UF operations here.

DIVIDED SERVICE

Leedy said fund raising, budgeting and planning of community welfare services had been a "house divided" in the Metropolitan Detroit area.

He said some of those interviewed during the survey indicated the Pontiac area will be merged with the Metropolitan complex within 25 years or sooner.

Thus, UF planning should be done, if at all possible, on a countywide basis with a close link to Metropolitan operations.

Pontiac and the six townships served by the Pontiac Area United Fund do not constitute a "natural community," according to Leedy. He said seven area UF agencies serve all of Oakland County.

FUND APPEALS

In still another over-all observation, the Leedy report recommended reduction of public fund raising appeals. Local cities and townships can do this through their police powers.

Unmet needs outlined in the survey included special programming to serve older persons, emergency housing for low income persons, improved care through neighborhood facilities for those with special needs and problems—emotionally disturbed, mentally retarded and ill and handicapped persons.

Also, sheltered workshop opportunities and improved services for the treatment of persons suffering from alcoholism were cited as unmet needs.

Cited as a notable deficiency outside of Pontiac and Waterford Township was the almost complete lack of government-operated recreation programs.

Leedy told members of the survey committee that as northern Oakland County became increasingly urban, problems would probably increase.

The survey director said the problems of the future will not be poverty or physical suffering, but problems of the mind, the spirit and social relationships.

"These are the things we must get ready to cope with," he added.

Leedy concluded by pointing out that his recommendations were not self-implementing.

"People and institutions are not easily changed."

He also said that it was recognized that not every person would agree with all the recommendations contained in the survey report.

Leedy urged that the recommendations be considered on their merit, not on the basis of whether the director or consultant were biased, unbiased, competent or incompetent.

MILO J. CROSS

Bank Chief Chairman of Building Unit

Milo Cross, president of Pontiac State Bank, yesterday was named chairman of Oakland County's newly established 3-member building authority.

Robert M. Critchfield, former GM vice president, will serve as vice chairman, and Harry L. Lapham, assistant vice president of National Bank of Detroit, was named secretary-treasurer.

The building authority held its organizational meeting yesterday with members of the County Board of Auditors and Corporation Counsel Robert Allen.

Besides reviewing the function of the authority and regulations governing it, the second Tuesday of each month was established as a regular meeting date.

The building authority was authorized by the County Board of Supervisors Feb. 8 to govern financing of future county construction projects.

Its three members were appointed by the board of supervisors two weeks ago.

Area Legislator Will Run Again

State Rep. Raymond L. Baker, R-Farmington, announced today he will seek reelection.

Baker represents the 64th District, which includes the cities of Farmington and Lathrup Village and that part of Southfield which lies west of Lahser and north of 12 Mile Road, plus Farmington and West Bloomfield townships.

Serving his third term, Baker is a member of the judiciary, liquor, insurance and metropolitan affairs committees.

He is a registered pharmacist and a former owner of a drug store. Since his retirement from that profession, Baker has devoted full time to his elected office.

Baker had been an active GOP worker, having served in the county executive committee and as a legislative liaison with the Republican State Central Committee.

He and his wife, June, are the parents of four grown children.

Check Went a Long Way

GRAND RAPIDS UP—Pay checks can be made to go a long way, though not necessarily the right way, according to Anthony Baculy of Grand Rapids.

A division manager for a New York publishing firm, his check is sent airmail special delivery on Thursday and he receives it the following day.

His check for March 4 failed to arrive and he inquired at the post office.

It couldn't be found there, either, and his company sent a duplicate.

A bedraggled envelope with the original check showed up Tuesday.

Baculy was unable to decipher all its travel stickers in the form of postal cancellations, but it had one postmark from Cheshire, England, plus two 7-pence stamps.

Man Is Plenty Snippy Over Teens' Talking

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — For 40 minutes, the unidentified man waited yesterday outside two telephone booths in which two teen-agers were talking.

He left, came back 30 minutes later to find the youths still talking. He took a pair of wire cutters from his car, returned to the booths and snipped the phone lines. Police said he drove away smiling.

House Unit Plans $90-Million Hike in School Aid

LANSING (AP)—A $90-million hike in state school aid overshadowed the state treasury surplus today.

The House Education Committee planned to report out the aid bill Friday—"and in the form it leaves our committee it probably would increase our expenditures in this area by $90 million to $100 million," said Vice Chairman Bobby Crim, D-Davison.

Gov. George Romney's recommended $945 million budget for the coming fiscal year includes a $127-million hike in spending that Romney said would eat up half the estimated $135 million surplus.

A combination of Romney's program and the contemplated hike in school aid could relieve the state of the entire amount.

BUDGET SHELVED

Democrats have shelved Romney's budget in a technical maneuver and are putting together their own. Past experience indicates their recommendations probably would come out a little higher than Romney's.

Rep. Lucille McCollough, D-Dearborn, chairman of the committee, said she remained undecided whether to let the elementary and secondary education bill reach the $90-million or $100-million level, or to recommend only a $68-million increase.

Much of this difference would be accounted for by dropping a $17-million capitol outlay program and a $5.7-million nursing care program—designed to fit in with the federal "Operation Head Start" program.

Either figure is in striking contrast to Romney's recommended $26.6-million hike over the present $524-million aid expenditure.

Other causes of the spiraling education outlay, Crim said, were proposed increases in the non-pupil aid and a required

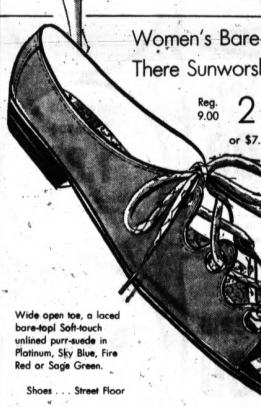

The bill will be subject to review by the House Ways and Means Committee and the full House membership before it is sent to the Senate—where it is sure to be pared.

U.S. Winning Its Gamble on Buildup of Viet Forces

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration took a calculated risk in deciding, at a perilous point in the Viet Nam war last summer, that it had time to build the regular armed forces gradually instead of mustering thousands of Reservists.

Top officials scanned the intelligence evaluations and reckoned then that:

1. The situation in Viet Nam could be stabilized without a massive and swift mobilization of national resources.

2. The country would not be confronted by a second major crisis elsewhere — a threat that would tax U.S. military resources burdened by the vaulting demands of Viet Nam.

ROOKIE TRAINING

Part of the gamble involved reducing temporarily the combat effectiveness of Army divisions based in the United States so they could undertake the training of thousands of rookies who could not be squeezed into the crowded basic training centers.

So far, at least, the gamble has paid off.

U.S. forces in Viet Nam, swollen from 75,000 last summer to about three times that number, have turned what appeared to be impending defeat into at least a standstill.

And the Communist world has made no attempt to create any serious military diversion elsewhere.

DANGER PERIOD

The danger period is not yet past. Restoration of the Army divisions in the United States to full combat readiness is still months away.

But even as strong a critic as Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, conceded Wednesday that the administration plan has worked — although Stennis clearly still opposes the course followed and obviously favored at least a selective callup of Reservists.

"To a large extent, time has rescued us in this matter," Stennis said.

"We have had the time to gear up our production facilities, to let contracts and obtain deliveries of vitally needed equipment, repair parts and supplies, to recruit and train additional manpower."

REPORT LEAKED

Stennis spoke out after the contents of a secret subcommittee report on readiness leaked and the Defense Department admitted that the only four complete Army divisions in the United States are below full combat readiness because they are handling training.

The Mississippi senator said that last Aug. 4 Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara assured a Senate Appropriations subcommittee that "all divisions are ready to go to combat."

At that time, Stennis said, his subcommittee's investigation showed that one of the four U.S. Army divisions was barely 55 per cent of its authorized strength of nearly 16,000 men and another division barely more than 70 per cent of strength.

An estimated 57 million children and adults ride bicycles in the U. S. today, the Bicycle Manufacturers Association estimate.

Give Boy Scouts and Yourself a Lift

About to get under way is a public campaign in support of a dazzling expansion of the physical facilities of the Clinton Valley Council of Boy Scouts of America.

The Council that has been based at the 115-acre Camp Agawam near Lake Orion since its inception in 1925 with 385 scouts has grown to a membership of 11,242. Projected enrollment for 1975 is 20,000.

"Clinton Valley" embraces a 1,150-square mile two-county area whose 36 townships represent a steadily growing population of 450,000.

To relieve present constricted accommodations and provide for growth, the Council has acquired a 2,300-acre tract near Clare the scope of which is breathtaking for the future of area scouting.

Within 2½ hours of Pontiac, wooded "Lost Lake Reservation" encompasses three lakes, which will amply provide resources for a comprehensive water training and recreational program.

To underwrite this dream concept for the development of our youth, Clinton Valley Council has committed itself to a $715,000 program to cover the cost of purchase and development of the land and erection of a complex of buildings.

The project has been wholeheartedly approved by Scouting's National Engineering Service, the Pontiac Area United Fund and the Detroit United Foundation.

Now it is up to you. The Scouts' upcoming appeal for financial support is the first local solicitation ever made. And to lessen its impact on individuals, contributions can be made in the form of pledges covering three years.

Our Boy Scouts need and merit the interest and generosity of all good scouts.

Will Lunar Landing Lead to Space Lunacy?

In the minds of many thoughtful people, the Cloud Nine space planners excepted, is where do we go in space after our first stop—the moon.

The lunar landing project was initiated by President Kennedy mainly as a propaganda objective in our cosmic war with Russia, who at that time seemed to be about 10 years ahead of us.

But once Apollo astronauts have made a landing, or series of landings, on the moon and scientists have gleaned knowledge from what increasingly appears a skimpy potential—what then?

Indications of a certain lunar apathy among astronomers is seen in a recent report by the National Academy of Science. It reflects a body of scientific sentiment that while thinking a big telescope on the moon would be just peachy, an orbiting telescope would be peachier—and cheaper and easier to maintain in the bargain.

The current estimate of the fare for our round trip to the moon is $23 billion (don't bet that it won't go higher). The next stop on the cosmos run would be Mars. But we shudder to think of the cost of duplicating in reverse ORSON WELLES' hoax that put Martians on Earth.

Best guess of the amount of the chit for that 35-million mile trip and return is $100 billion; for the ready time, 35 years. Whew.

Drug-Addicted Mothers Doom Their Offspring

New York's commissioner of hospitals reports that 800 babies born in the state's hospitals last year were dope addicts at birth.

The commissioner told a medical conference on drug addiction that the infants became addicted because their mothers were addicts and the narcotics were fed into their mothers' blood.

Twenty per cent of the infant addicts receive no treatment and 50 per cent die because they have insufficient reserve strength to withstand curative treatment.

These are shocking statistics covering but one of America's 50 states and another attestation of the deep responsibility that devolves on human beings in bringing children into the world.

Inflation Putting LBJ in a Box

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is in a box. Last January he laid down guidelines for business and labor to prevent inflation. He wanted wage raises limited to 3.2 per cent with no price increases. This was his guideline for both sides.

But prices have gone up. February showed the steepest rise in living costs since the Korean war, with food prices leading the upswing.

Although the rise was only half of 1 per cent it was part of a fairly steady climb for living costs now are 2.5 per cent above a year ago, the biggest annual increase since 1958.

In the past few days he has telephoned over 25 leaders to ask them to go easy on any spending that might produce inflation.

He'll no doubt burn up businessmen who, if they see a chance to make big profits, won't be happy to have Johnson bending their ear about going easy.

Meanwhile, labor is publicly burned up at him for insisting wage increases, when living costs and business profits are going up, must be held to a 2.2 per cent limit.

LABOR IS IMPORTANT

Labor, which has consistently backed the Democrats, is crucially important to Johnson's party which faces the voters next November in the congressional election, particularly when politician Johnson remembers that the party with a majority in Congress, such as the Democrats have now, traditionally loses seats in an election year when the presidency is not at stake.

No one knows better than Johnson that a tax boost can be poison in an election year.

Slowly and steadily, Johnson has been saying he would propose a tax boost — on individual and corporate income — if he found it necessary to fight inflation.

And while Johnson was warning against inflation and the possible need for a tax boost, the House, at Johnson's request, approved $12 million to provide rent subsidies for poor families — although Johnson had asked more—and $10 million for a Teachers Corps program. Both are part of Johnson's "Great Society" plan.

TAX CUT ANNIVERSARY
It was just two years ago that Congress, at Johnson's urging, voted a $19.2 billion tax cut for individuals and corporations extending over 1964 and 1965.

It came out at about an average 19 per cent reduction for individuals and 9 per cent for corporations. When he signed that tax-cut bill in 1964 Johnson said it was the "single most important step we have taken to strengthen our economy since World War II."

Until he actually asks Congress for a tax boost, it's possible Johnson is using the threat of a boost to persuade business and labor to stick to his guidelines.

Baby-Sitting Can Be So Discouraging!

David Lawrence Asks:

WASHINGTON — Just why did President Johnson announce that sometime in April he might recommend an increase in income taxes, both corporate and personal?

What was the purpose of leaving the question open while the whole country wonders what the President's decision ultimately will be?

These two questions are being answered in different ways. Some people believe that the President really hasn't made up his mind and that he is feeling the pulse of the country. But other observers think it's a kind of political game.

It is suggested that the President is still larger segment of the electorate will certainly vote against the party in power as well as against those Republicans who have joined the spending spree.

What's happening, of course, is that the concept of a "Great Society" has ushered in a period of government extravagance unparalleled in history.

As long as conditions are good, protests against excessive spending are ignored. But when interest rates begin to be pushed upward and the various indexes that measure prices and wages begin to reveal the shocking truth — as has happened lately — public confidence in the maintenance of prosperity is shaken.

The President has only one practical course available to him — to cut expenses and move toward a balanced budget. There are many well-known projects that can wait at least a year or two.

What is puzzling is that he seems reluctant to decide between more spending, which increases inflation, and the necessary economizing which alone can slow down the hitherto uninterrupted flow of funds that has been responsible for the artificial conditions of today.

Bob Considine Says:

Ride on Zephyr Proves Pretty Racy Experience

NEW YORK — It's a pretty racy experience for a confirmed airline passenger to ride a train.

I had an adventure of this nature in the course of the blizzard that cloberbed Minneapolis.

The only thing that answered a telephone in the town that day CONSIDINE turned out to be the railroad station.

"Was it actually true, as reported, that the Burlington Zephyr intended to leave for Chicago at 3:30 that afternoon?" I asked incredulously. The town was locked so tight that room service at the Sheraton-Ritz had an unlisted number.

"Certainly," the railroad man said with a trace of impatience. "Why not? You want a seat, Mac? You got it — Seat 10 in Car P24."

Got there with the aid of a police patrol car and, sure enough, the Zephyr was waiting encased in ice but snug and warm inside.

NO SEAT BELTS
No seat belts on the big comfortable chairs. Nice night. Good view of the ground. The witching hour of 3:30 came and went, and so did 4:30.

Suddenly we began to roll, ever so sweetly. I had forgotten how smooth is the beginning of a journey by train, now caressingly comforting.

It couldn't have taken us much more than half an hour to get to St. Paul. But it certainly was worth waiting for. For there we zigged, zagged, bumped into a well-stocked diner-car, effected a successful rendezvous, and went on our way.

Boy, wow, zow, whee! The passengers on the Zephyr hit diner-winner with a 1-2 punch — coming from fore and aft.

OCEANS OF BEER

A distinguished-looking steward and waitress with the dignity of Halle Selassie, assisted by two beefsteaks who roamed up and down the car bearing trays of bottled goodies, sizzling steaks, oceans of beer, $500-calorie desserts.

tor's hat and was just so hilarious the car shook with laughter.

The occasional arrival and departure of a passenger with a cane caused loud and affectionate ovations, for no discernible reason, but I found myself joining in.

The treasury of Scotch lasted 69 miles, Bourbon 72½, and the party was down to beer by the time — around midnight — the diesel began snuffling the ground to pick up the spoor of Chicago.

But who cared? By that time it seemed that everyone on that long and lovely streamliner had known one another for years.

Perhaps it was because we were all orphans from a storm. But I prefer to think that this always happens on trains, and that those of us who are always in such a hurry to get somewhere, often do nothing but wait, are missing gentle joys, and rare adventures we presumed had disappeared with our youth.

Soviet Plans Posing Problems

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Some top Russian scientists have come up with a "distressing" thought.

Their calculations show: "That unless progress in the automation of the national forecasting and planning can match the current pace of industrial automation, it is estimated that by 1980 the entire adult population of the Soviet Union will be obliged to work full-time to keep up with the problems of economic and industrial planning."

The author of that statement is V. M. Glushko, vice president of the Academy of Sciences of the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic and an academicien of the Soviet Union.

His conclusions are the result of lengthy scientific studies at his academy.

'Grand Juries Are Good for Cleaning Up Politics'

We need more one-man grand juries like Judge Piggins' to investigate all politicians. All the facts should be made public, so the people will know what's going on. Then, maybe the elected officials will do the things that they promised when they were campaigning. Besides, the people will know who to vote out of office at election time.

'Bill Would Provide for Forced Medication'

I wish to protest House Bill No. 3948 now under discussion in Lansing. Fluoridation is not the issue here. The issue is forced medication under government control. No government, except maybe communism, has dared to medicate its citizens without individual consent. Other desirable medications, such as small-pox vaccine, etc., are urged but not forced. Why fluoride? KORINE REAS

Offers Solution for Nation's Draft Problem

The solution to the draft problem would be to draft everyone of military age and fitness. If it is in the national interest that some go to college or work, let them be assigned to those places at the same pay as those who fight. It is unfair for the man who makes the material to be paid much more than the man who uses the material. Also, the maker works about 40 hours a week in safety whereas the user is on duty 24 hours a day in dire peril.

Agrees Jail Not Answer for Boys Under 21

Hurrah for Judge McCallum who's going to give boys, too young to be men, a break. Jail under the best of circumstances is not the solution to these problems. Instead of helping them, it is turning them into criminals.

Juveniles they try to help, and when you become 21, you're treated with respect. But for those three years in between, they try to break them. They ticket them for minor violations that they wouldn't stop adults for. If they stop at a party and have a drink, they are treated like hardened criminals, tried and even jailed. Yet this same boy is expected to marry, have children, pay income taxes and bills, support his family, and act like a man.

Let's have more judges that understand that jail isn't the only answer. If they're under 21, treat them as juveniles; if over 21, as adults.

Why don't we sentence these boys, who may take a drink, to church every Sunday, to hospitals to see what happens while you drink and drive, to AA meetings, to YMCA or boys clubs to work with the younger boys, or to talk with a pastor? But not jail! CHARLENE GILLET

'Utopian Quality Hindered School Proposal'

Now Citizens Advisory Board of Waterford, let's have another expensive election and present a reasonable, not Utopian, plan for our schools.

Most persons would pick a new high school and one more needed grade school. But let's continue to use the Lambert and Waterford Central Schools, as well as the present board of education offices. Even though they aren't the latest creations, the latter two have had additions. Sure, multipurpose rooms are nice, but I hardly feel each child must have one, nor go to a new school as was stated by one speaker. (I heard four.)

We've had enough of big debt jammed down our throats for the nice-but-not-vital things, to the point where it is getting difficult for many to remain in their present homes.

Pontiac Board Comments on City Elections

I agree with Mr. Irwin. We, the majority, don't want the City of Pontiac to shove Hudson down Dist. No. 4's throat.

In answer to "Interested": They should check how many people voted in 1964 and make sure that city elections are fair. It sounds like someone from "Mr. Echo Chambers" Dist. No. 5. My personal comment is: "Let George do it!" — Grba that is: BOB GRIMMETT

State Dems Hit Riot Slide-Tape

Article Says Watts
Narrative Is Racist

LANSING (UPI) — Michigan Democrats today charged that a Lansing police officer had "distributed" a politically slanted slide-tape presentation on the Watts, Calif., riots.

An article in "The Michigan Democrat," a newsletter published by the Democratic State Central Committee, said a narrative accompanying slide pictures of the riot is "racist in tone and language."

"The taped narrative implied that Nobel Prize recipient Dr. Martin Luther King is a Communist."

"It is implied also that Bayard Rustin, organizer of the 1963 March on Washington, is a Communist," the newsletter said.

The presentation was acquired for police use by Col. Wesley Hoes after it was shown in Lansing under the auspices of the Conservative Federation of Michigan.

COMMUNIST BACKGROUND

O. R. Bramble, secretary of the federation, said purpose of the presentation is to illustrate the "background of communism in the civil rights movement."

Hoes denied that he distributed the film, and said he had no idea what its political implications are, if any.

According to Lansing Police Chief Charles Stragier, the slide-tape presentation was used in police recruit school to show "what might happen" during a Watts-type uprising.

He denied, however, that the slide-tape was "anything political."

RETURNED TO OWNERS

He added that the presentation has since been returned to its owners.

Asked by newsmen what benefit the film had, Stragier replied, "I don't think it had any benefit either way."

"Just seeing the Watts riot on television . . . you got just as much out of it—nothing."

The presentation, Stragier said, was shown in department headquarters to two members of the Democratic State Central Committee and was taken for showing on one occasion to a school.

However, the film burned on the reel during the showing and the students did not see the entire feature, he said.

East Lansing and Ingham County Sheriff's Department had expressed interest in the presentation, he said.

Some People Just Don't Believe Signs

MILWAUKEE (U) — A lighted sign atop a disabled elevator in the Milwaukee County courthouse said: "Not In Service."

But within several hours, workmen were called to the elevators three times to free passengers. They included a county judge, the court chaplain, a bailiff escorting two prisoners, a bail bondsman and three women clerks.

Form New Unit at Art Center

By SIGNE KARLSTROM
Wednesday at the Galleries of Cranbrook Academy of Art an announcement was made to the Press that a women's committee had been formed for the purpose of planning, and promoting many of the social activities sponsored by the Galleries.

The initial organization of this committee took place in the home of Mrs. George Russell on Feb. 11. At this meeting, attended by some 30 members, Mrs. Russell was elected chairman; Mrs. J. Denton Anderson, vice chairman; Mrs. Hilbert H. DeLawter, secretary and Mrs. Edward A. Schirmer, treasurer.

Honorary members are Mrs. Eilii Saarinen and Mrs. Zoltan Sepeshy. By-laws were adopted which will guide the committee in its future work. In order to become a member of the women's committee, it is necessary to first become a Friend or Patron of Cranbrook Academy of Art.

At the press meeting yesterday a box luncheon was served. A most attractive photograph of the Galleries was on the cover of the luncheon box. At the entrance to the Galleries was a huge arrangement of Calla lilies from the Cranbrook greenhouse.

Hostesses for the luncheon were Mrs. Robert H. Taylor, chairman and members of the newly appointed publicity committee — Mrs. Kenneth Mammel (chairman), Mrs. Anthony DeLorenzo and Mrs. Gumar Karlstrom.

The first activity of the committee will be an invitational preview for Zoltan Sepeshy's one-man exhibition on April 17. Mrs. Ernest Jones is chairman for this event, assisted by Mrs. Theodore Yntema.

Chairman, Mrs. Russell — what a busy life she leads — returned a few days ago from a week's trip to London, England. Next week she leaves with daughter, Mary-Love, to visit with Dr. and Mrs. Luther R. Leader in Florida.

She was well prepared, however, to inform the group at the luncheon about the enthusiastic response she has received concerning the work for the Cranbrook Galleries. Mrs. Russell serves also as a member of the Cranbrook Academy Board of Trustees.

Among the members are Mesdames: Henry S. Booth; Robert B. Bender; Noel Buckner; Martin Butzell; Milton F. Coulson Jr.; Richard T. Hartz; William E. Hoglund; LeRoy E. Keller; Semon Knudsen; Oscar Lundin; Francis W. Misch; Benjamin Micou; W. C. Newberg; James M. Roche; Edward Roller; Graham Shinnick; J. Robert F. Swanson; Wright Tisdale; W. Ogden Vogt; Robert Woodruff.

WOMEN'S SECTION

A box luncheon was featured at Wednesday's meeting of the newly formed women's committee of Cranbrook Academy of Art. Mrs. Anthony DeLorenzo, Bloomfield Village (left) and Mrs. Robert Taylor, Pembroke Drive pass them out. In the lower picture, Mrs. Hilbert H. DeLawter and Mrs. George Russell, both of Bloomfield Hills, join Wallace Mitchell, director of Cranbrook Galleries, at the meeting there.

'No Substitute for Truth' Says Abby to Girl's Mother

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We don't exactly need advice but we do need your help. My daughter, (I'll call her Maureen) became engaged to a very nice man she'd gone thru college with. He gave her a diamond and we announced their engagement at a lovely dinner party:

ABBY

We started making the wedding plans when Maureen told us that the young man had asked for more time to think about it because he wasn't "sure."

Maureen says she has good reason to believe there is another girl in the picture, so she returned his ring. Here's where you come in.

I told Maureen not to worry, that I would write to you, and good old Abigail would help us make up a convincing story to tell people. Will you?

MAUREEN'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: "Good old Abigail" quit making up stories years ago when she learned there is no substitute for the truth. Tell people the engagement is off and don't volunteer any details.

DEAR ABBY: Last night my husband and I went to a housewarming party for some friends. The invitations read, "From 7 until 9." About 9 a couple of guests began moving the furniture so they could dance. My husband wanted to leave, but I thought it would be okay to stay and dance a while since a few others were dancing.

The party lasted a lot longer than we thought it would. Were we wrong to stay and dance?

BEAMONT

DEAR BEAMONT: Yes. At 9 p.m. promptly, you should have thanked your host and hostess and "danced" out the door.

DEAR ABBY: I see so many letters in your column from people complaining because some of their friends or relatives don't have good table manners. I once read that when Albert Einstein wanted a good laugh, he'd curl up in a comfy chair with an etiquette book and go into hysterics.

He thought the "rules of etiquette" were the funniest things ever written. So do I.

Why should there be only one "proper" way to eat a spear of asparagus? How ridiculous to judge a person on his table manners.

My husband is the kindest, most gentle man in all this world, and if he wants to cut up all the meat on his plate at once, and butter a whole slice of bread and shovel it in, God bless him. He paid for it himself, which is more than you can say for a lot of society moochers.

SAID MY SAY

CONFIDENTIAL TO RUTH: All men do not cheat on their wives. But it's a pretty safe bet that the man who says they do, cheats on his!

Troubled? Write to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

OU Slates Easter Day Musicale

Oakland University's award winning Meadow Brook Chamber Orchestra will perform on Easter Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in the Gold Room at Oakland Center.

Soloists under the direction of Albert Tipton, will include Mary Norris, piano; Arno Mariotti, oboe; Alfred Belknap, trumpet; and Italo Bahini, cello.

The program will include Barber's Capricorn Concerto for Flute, Oboe, Trumpet and Strings; Boccherini's Concerto for Cello and Strings; Albinoni's Concerto for Oboe and Strings; and Shostakovich's Concerto for Piano, Trumpet and Strings.

With the exception of the Shostakovich work, all are first performances for Detroit. The Boccherini Concerto, rediscovered recently in Paris, will be given its first performance in the United States in this version.

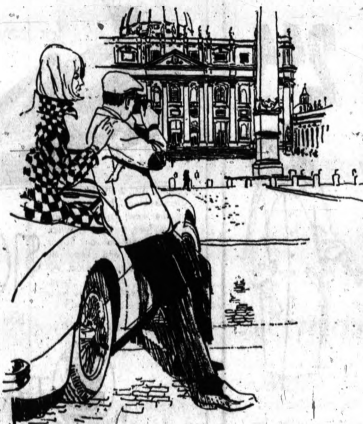

Single tickets are available through the Meadow Brook Festival office at the university.

To Present Recital

Linda Cumminskey Briod, violin teacher in Oakland University's continuing education department, will present a recital for her Master's degree on Saturday. The concert will take place at 8:30 p.m. in Recital Hall, University of Michigan School of Music on North Campus in Ann Arbor. A reception will follow.

Pal Dads Deprive Sons of Maturity

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

It's an exclusive, exuberant community on New York's Long Island with wide lawns, station wagons, golf courses, tennis courts — and delinquent boys ranging in ages from 13 to 17.

One of them, 14, under group treatment for his "antisocial" behavior became so unruly, so brutal and defiant that the therapist arranged to see him in private session where the child was asked to explain his outrageous conduct.

Leaning forward, the boy said, "Why the hell didn't you tell me to quit acting up? Why didn't you say 'Stop that!' to me? That's all I want from you."

"Does your father ever say 'Stop that!' to you?" asked the therapist.

"No," said the boy. "He never stops me. When he was my age, he had a ball, too."

This story was included in a report on his work to the annual meeting of the American Group

Psychotherapy Association by therapist Norman Epstein. He made the point that the "pal" fathers of these boys had not only deprived their sons of adult male standards but had actually encouraged delinquency by competitive boasting about their own youthful defiance and their current triumphs in beating The Other Fellow to it in business deals.

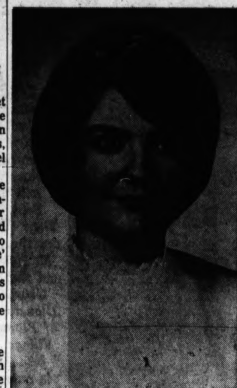

"As to the mothers of the boys," said Epstein, "They were usually seen by their children as all — dominating ogres."

This is what we women get for trying to be the "man of the house" when there isn't one in it. Under these circumstances, in the absence of a real one, we feel obliged to think:

"Oh well, as what I have here is a roistering prep school dormitory instead of a home, I better speak up in behalf of law and order. I guess it's up to me. So I will be the 'man of the house' in the hope that I can keep this house together long enough to see the kids through to college without serving jail terms."

I'm not a bit sure it's a wise decision. If our effort to turn ourselves into the "man of the house" ends only in our children's contempt for us all dominating ogres, then the kids are given two parental contempt: to deal with: contempt for us and contempt for fathers who can't say "Stop that!"

Polly's Pointers

Make This Board

DEAR POLLY — I wanted a bulletin board for such a long time and finally thought up a way I could make one myself. I know how to sew so I took some leftover homespun material and made a window shade. It is not a real one but just looks like one.

I hemmed all the raw edges and sewed fringe across the bottom. The top seam has a stick of wood slipped through it so the fabric hangs straight. A string was tied at the top so it could hang on a hook. A window shade pull was put at the bottom. Articles, papers and so on may be pinned to the "shade" which can be made out of material that goes with a room's color scheme.—PAULA

DEAR POLLY — I am an amateur seamstress. After having to remove machine stitching several times and finding frayed edges, I started to cut out EVERY pattern with my pinky shears. This eliminates frayed material and, after the garment is finished, the seams do not have to be pinked.—BETTYE

DEAR POLLY — Wash the bottoms of toddlers' shoes before having their pictures made and they will look much nicer in the finished prints.—PEGGY

GIRLS—I had never thought of that before but the soles of toddlers' shoes usually do show in photographs.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — The Pointers are the first thing I read in the paper. Mothers, did you know that when the elastic gives way in your half-slips you can make pretty slips for your little girls? Remove the old elastic, fold the slip through the middle and cut out the neck and armholes. Their size will depend on the size of the child. Trim the armholes and neckline with narrow lace and you have a very pretty slip.—FLOSSIE

DEAR POLLY — I use different sizes of hair rollers when I set my own hair. I had an extra set of kitchen canisters and found that they made excellent containers for rollers. I separated the rollers as to size and then put the different sizes in different canisters. This works wonders when I am struggling with wet hair as I can now reach for the proper sized without groping around.—MRS. G. R.

DEAR POLLY — I polish my stainless steel stove and sink with an old nylon stocking and find it does a wonderful job.—AGNES

'A New You' by Emily Wilkens

Getting Down to Bare Skin Facts

CHAPTER 10

You used to be a beautiful baby, but baby, look at you now! What happened to that rose-petal softness, the clear, glowing skin that made you the femme fatale of the playpen set?

Don't despair — whatever your complexion looks like at the moment, that soft clear glow you had as a baby is still there! It's just hidden by problem surface layers, and you can bring it up to the top again by following a few simple rules.

Beautiful skin and hair are an important part of the total pattern that make up a lovely you. And the condition of your scalp has a lot to do with the state of your complexion. Dandruff and other scalp problems help cause blemishes, blackheads and all the nasty little things that make your skin a mess instead of a marvel.

Proper diet, coupled with enough sleep and exercise, have a lot to do with the condition of your skin. Get plenty of vitamins A and D — sunshine is a good friend. (That's sunshine, not sunburn.)

Sleep is important to keep blemishes at a minimum.

Outdoor exercise tones and firms your skin, and helps bring the bloom of natural roses to your cheeks.

Good elimination is reflected in a healthy, clear complexion. Drink four glasses (six to eight cups) of liquids (noncarbonated) every day, and be sure you're eating enough of the kind of foods that provide roughage — potatoes, apples, whole orange and grapefruit pulp. Pears, dried prunes and figs are helpful, too.

Try to keep calm, cool and collected. Tension has a way of showing up in angry-looking blemishes, as if your skin knew you were angry inside.

If you know you'll soon be going through an anxious period try to pay more attention to the needs of your skin. Give it an extra once-over at night, watch your diet carefully, and don't ever let your worried hands come into contact with your worried face.

Any girl with an obviously budding acne condition (or any troublesome scalp of skin problem) should waste no time in making an appointment with a dermatologist for professional advice and help.

Don't sit around wishfully thinking you'll wake up one morning and find that your problems have miraculously disappeared — get help.

A dermatologist can deep-cleanse your skin antiseptically. Some believe in using hot compresses to open the pores, and this facilitates removal of the matter clogging an infected area. Some treat blemishes with dry ice or ether. Many prescribe special soaps and lotions that help relieve excessive oiliness and keep skin bacteria in check.

Only a dermatologist is equipped to administer treatment for serious cases, possibly with vitamin A therapy. And if you've let the condition go unchecked, he may remove scars by one of several methods.

Be on guard against troublesome blemishes — they're always lurking around the corner, and have an uncanny way of popping out just when you want to look your best.

Keep your face scrupulously clean, whether or not you use makeup. Never, never go to bed without removing the last traces of foundation and powder, even if you've been wearing the medicated kind, or washing your skin carefully if you go about "bare-faced."

Ideally, you should cleanse your face three times a day. But if you can't, be sure to set up a regular morning and night routine. Once you master the method best suited to your skin, it shouldn't take more than a few minutes to get your face really clean.

Always use the purest possible cleanser (again according to your own skin type) for removing makeup. Smooth it on and tissue off twice. Then splash plenty of water on your face.

I think it's better to use your fingertips for lathering with your special soap; a washcloth or sponge has a tendency to hold and spread germs. Massage the suds thoroughly into your skin with your fingertips, rinse well with warm water and finish with a splash of cold water.

Pat your skin dry with a soft towel and use witch hazel or a special astringent in the areas that tend to be oily. Dot single blemishes with a calamine-type solution, or whatever medicated formula has been prescribed for you, before making up or going to bed.

TOMORROW: Sunshine is good — but don't tan your hide.

Post-Easter Annual 'Do' Is Slated

The annual Easter Monday luncheon and card party of the Rosary Altar Society of Our Lady of the Lakes Catholic Church will begin at noon, April 11.

Mrs. Lawrence Pope is chairman of the event which will take place in the high school.

Assisting on committees are Mrs. James Demski, Mrs. John Sibel, Mrs. James Saue, Mrs. Bruce Bradley, Mrs. James St. Louis, Mrs. Joseph Lorenz, Mrs. Ben Soave, Mrs. John Gregor, Mrs. A. J. Lavergne, Mrs. Joseph Baxter, Mrs. Leo Halpinny, Mrs. Leo Castagna, Mrs. Harry Fahrner and Mrs. Joseph Guzak.

All guild units will also assist.

Ribbon, Napkin
for This Bunny

Who's that guarding the Easter-morning baskets? Why the Easter bunny, of course. And all he takes to make is paper's handkerchief or a dinner napkin plus a length of ribbon.

Surprise all the family with a bunny for each placed on the breakfast table or let him stand guard at a special basket hiding place.

First, spray a handkerchief or napkin with spray starch and press it crisp and perfectly square. Then tie up the bunny. Fold the square across to form a triangle.

Draw the two folded corners up to form ears. Hold the ears with one hand about four inches from the top and draw up the pointed end. Fold it downward to form a face.

Tie a ribbon bow around bunny's neck and place a tiny Easter surprise on the back. Gather up the bag, gift and all, and fasten it with a safety pin.

Why Grow Old?
by JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I receive many letters like the following one.

"Please write about the care of wigs and wiglets. So many women are buying them."

"I have a human-hair machine-made wiglet, which I set myself with excellent results. I would like to avoid the inconvenience and expense of always having the wig professionally cleaned. I would like to know what product to use in home cleaning, how to do it, and whether anything must be used on it after cleaning it in order to reset it."

"Up to now I have used only a special wig hairspray while arranging it on my head and I dampen it slightly when I set it on rollers. It will soon need cleaning."

I asked Mr. Philip, my favorite New York hairdresser, to comment. This is what he told me.

NOT SHAMPOOED

Wigs and other hair accessories must be cleaned, not shampooed. Special cleaning fluid is used. There is one which is a favorite of many of the salons and can be purchased at most drugstores. You simply twist the wig around in the liquid so that the dirt and dust are removed. When drying it, do not rub it. Place it on a towel and let it dry.

When it is still just barely damp you can set it if it need be or add a curl here or there. Nothing else need be used before setting the hair. The cleaning fluid will not disturb the coil like a shampoo would. Therefore a setting is not always necessary. For a full wig you should have a head block. If you have a small hair piece, pin it to the edge of the bed while you work on it.

How often the hair addition must be cleaned depends of course on how often you have worn it and it it was in dusty weather. As a general rule this artificial hairdo does not require as frequent cleaning as your own hair does shampooing.

NEW LINE

There is a comparatively new line of hair pieces which can be washed. These are made of a recently developed synthetic fiber. I call it my dry-dry wig but this is an exception.

I also asked Mr. Philip about straightening hair. It seems that this requires as much, if not more, skill than curling it. There is a product on the market for use in straightening the hair at home. He told me that this works, but he feels that it does not last as long as when done professionally.

If you are worried because your hair is thinning you may want my booklet "Is Your Hair Thinning?" This gives you the latest information. If you would like to have it, send 15 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

AFS Week Is Proclaimed

The Metropolitan Detroit American Field Service Board has just received word that Gov. George Romney has proclaimed the week of April 17-23 as "American Field Service Week."

This coincides with the date that has been set for the group's fund raising event, at the Masonic Temple Auditorium on April 23, at 8:30 p.m.

NOTED BAND

The program will feature Guy Lombardo and His Royal Canadians, Bud and Cece Robinson, a dance team, and the creative balladist, Steve De Paso.

Edgar A. Guest III will be master of ceremonies. These women have been sponsoring fund raising events since 1969 when Stephen Gallati, founder of the American Field Service, requested that a pilot group be formed to raise supplementary money to assist the program of sponsoring foreign students for a school year in American high schools in International Scholarships.

The undertaking has proven so successful that additional groups like it are being formed all across the United States.

STUDENTS INVITED

This year 80 foreign students from 37 countries are residing with Michigan host families, while attending the 12th grade. They have all been invited to attend the concert in their native dress and be introduced to the audience.

Tickets for the event are available from Grinnells Downtown and Birmingham, J. L. Hudson Co., Downtown, Northland, Eastland and Westland, the Masonic Temple Box Office, and board members.

Mrs. Bennett Receives Pin

Mrs. Walter Bennett received the Ideal Weight pin from Mrs. John Reichert at Tuesday's meeting of the Fashionette Club in the Adah Shelly Library.

A cosmetic demonstration was provided by Mrs. Harry Ault.

Plans for the next meeting will include the making and modeling of hats by members. This club is open to all interested women in the area.

They'll Wed Soon

Former Pontiac residents, the Stephen Bowns of Jackson, announce the engagement of their daughter Sandra to George Clemons, son of Floyd A. Clemons of Jackson and the late Mrs. Clemons.

A Sept. 10 wedding-date has been set.

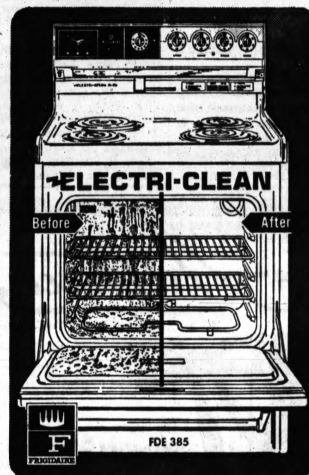

Honorary chairmen are: Mrs. George Romney, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Guest Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Martin Butzel, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Ehrig Jr., Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson, Rev. Canon and Mrs. Charles C. Jatho, Mrs. Joseph Schlotman, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Frazer Clark.

The American Field Service is dedicated to peace and world understanding. Their motto is "Walk Together, Talk Together, O Ye Peoples of the Earth: Then and only Then Shall Ye Have Peace."

Mrs. Wilbur Crawford is the board representative from Pontiac. There are no local students this year.

Does She Pay Postdance Food, Drink?

By The Emily Post Institute

Question: Our high school is having a dance soon to which the girls ask the boys. Many of us would like to know what to do about eating out afterward.

Is it obligatory, and if so, does the girl pay or the boy? If the girl pays, does she give the boy the money in advance or does she just pay the check when it is brought?

Answer: It certainly isn't obligatory to go out to eat afterward, but if most of the group want to, you will all probably decide to go.

The boys should pay — that's the nicest way they can thank the girls for asking them in the first place.

If a boy really can't afford it, and his date knows it, she should plan ahead, and either ask him back to her house for a snack, or remind him that this particular evening is "on her" and give him some money to pay their check with before they go to the restaurant.

If you use teflon-lined cooking utensils, be careful not to overheat them or subject them to sudden and extreme temperature changes.

Art Institute Remodels Galleries; Tells Program

In anticipation of the June opening of the Detroit Institute of Arts South Wing, the Arts Commission will renovate all galleries in the present building.

To accomplish the undertaking, all permanent galleries of the institute will be closed, starting Friday.

The museum this year will begin summer hours — 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays — effective Friday (instead of July 1) through Labor Day. The museum will be closed Mondays and holidays.

APRIL CALENDAR

The institute's April calendar opens with Great Stories in Film Saturday, "Angel in a Taxi" with Vittorio de Sica is slated at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. with no admission fee.

Tuesday's offerings also will be free of charge. At 8:05 p.m. the "Film as an Art" series will show Renoir's "Grand Illusion" in the auditorium.

An 8 p.m. archaeological program in the lecture hall will concern "King Midas and the Land of Phrygia" by Prof. Emilie Haspels, University of Amsterdam, The Netherlands, and Charles Elliot Norton, lecturer of the Archaeological Institute of America, 1966.

April 12-16 Children's Holiday Theatre is planned with the production "Magic in King Arthur's Court" from New York City. Shows will be daily at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the auditorium.

Court Theatre will present "Harry, the Rat with Womankind," a return engagement, April 13-15 at 8:30 p.m. in Kresge Court.

Also on the institute's agenda are: "Peter Paul Rubens," a lecture, 8:15 p.m., April 14; "The Art of Children," 8 p.m., April 19; and Detroit Puppet Theatre with "Hansel and Gretel," 10 a.m., 1 p.m. and 3 p.m., April 23.

Concluding the list are "An Evening with Jack Tworkov," noted contemporary American painter, 8 p.m., April 26 and "Little Kidnappers" for Great Stories in Film series, 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., April 30.

NEW PAINTING

The institute's new acquisition is "Eros and Psyche" by Italian painter Niccolò dell'Abbate (1512-1571).

The ironing of Turkish towels flattens the loops and makes them less absorbent.

Educators Talk Before Moms, Dads

Speakers for the Tuesday evening meeting of the Parents of Temple Beth Jacob Nursery School Children were Mrs. Pearlina Butler and Mrs. Annamaria Hayes.

The Occola Street home of the Harry J. Reeds was the setting for the gathering.

Mrs. Butler, principal of Bagley School and supervisor for Project Head Start, talked about the methods and goals of this program along with the achievements in Pontiac this year and the expectations for the future.

Mrs. Hayes, her assistant in this project, summarized pertinent statistical reports.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Isaac Grabelsky, Mrs. Marvin Jaffee and Mrs. Dean Wilson.

Party Patterns

For those parties the children will have in the game room, cover the tables with a roll of wall paper, patterned to suit the occasion.

Pair Arraigned on Tree Charge

Both Plead Innocent in Dutch Elm Case

Two more Pontiac residents were served with arrest warrants and arraigned in Municipal Court yesterday on charges of failing to remove Dutch Elm-diseased trees from their property.

William Garling of 502 Bloomfield and Magnolia Jones of 297 Fisher each entered a plea of not-guilty and will be tried April 6, the same date as four other persons previously arraigned on the charge.

All have been released on $100 personal bond.

The warrants were issued last Friday and are signed by James Brozovich, a field inspector for the State Department of Agriculture.

The law, enacted by the state in 1945, provides for up to 90 days imprisonment and fine of $100 for persons "refusing and neglecting to destroy" trees afflicted with Dutch Elm disease.

Was a Good Day for Singing Blues

LOS ANGELES (U) — It was a busy day for singing the romantic blues in Los Angeles: Singer Jack Jones, 27, was divorced yesterday from his 30-year-old wife, Lee Jones, who alleged that she neglected her household duties, was ordered to pay alimony and child support totaling $1,500 monthly.

Singer Jaye P. Morgan filed suit for divorce from musician Artie M. Kane, charging extreme cruelty. She asked for support for her two children.

Actress Sandra Giles was granted an interlocutory divorce decree from builder Paul Robertson.

LBJ Has D.C. Society Jitters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Protocol-conscious Washington is biting its oyster forks in consternation over President Johnson's latest spurge of spontaneous informality.

The President now is known as the "man who stayed for dinner," in — of all things — a business suit. He wasn't exactly invited in the first place.

It's a diplomatic version of "set another place at the table, mom — Lyndon's here." For Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, man in the black tie, it's another version of being upstaged by the boss without one.

The occasion was the formal dinner at the Indian Embassy Tuesday night for Indira Gandhi, prime minister of India. Humphrey and Chief Justice Earl Warren were to be ranking guests at the 8:30 meal for 40.

At 9 p.m., Mrs. Raj Kumar Nehru, wife of the ambassador, announced that the President had accepted an invitation to stay for dinner. This meant frantically reshuffling place-cards and bumping the lowest ranking guest, a member of the prime minister's party.

"I imagine his knifol never thought it any trouble at all just to pull up another chair," Mrs.

Gladstone Williams said, speaking in defense of the President. "I think we should remember that the President was brought up in a small town atmosphere. Texas is more informal."

TAUGHT LYNDIA

Mrs. Williams, known as the "high priestess of protocol" because she teaches social know-how to many government and diplomatic officers, has taught Johnson's elder daughter, Lyndia.

She said she's aware matrons all over town are howling over the President's breach of protocol, but added: "The President sets the pace. By virtue of his office he is a super P.D. Regardless of the accepted social usage, he's privileged to do what he pleases."

"He is free to exercise the prerogative of his office. 'This is the sort of thing that would endear him to people all over the country, except Washington hostesses. On the other hand, could any refuse?'"

National Group to Fete Top Cotton Ginner

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The nation's outstanding cotton ginner will be honored next Sunday by the National Cotton Ginners' Association.

The association said Jack Funk of Harlingen, Tex., is part owner of a gin that has processed an average 10,000 bales of cotton each year for several years.

Michigan Bell Hits Pay High

$4.1 Million Is Paid to Pontiac Employees

Michigan Bell Telephone Co. reports it paid an all-time high of $4,138,979 in wages to its 748 employees who worked in Pontiac during 1965, according to Charles Woodhead, manager for the firm.

He said the company's entire wage bill of $167.6 million, which went to 23,486 employees throughout the state, set a company record.

In addition to Michigan Bell's payroll, the Western Electric Co., manufacturing and supply arm of the Bell System, paid $12.5 million to its 1,400 employees who worked in Michigan, and AT&T's Long Lines department paid $3.9 million to its 545 employees in the state.

Total wages of these three Bell System units in Michigan reached $185 million last year.

Areas in which Michigan Bell's 1965 payroll topped the five-million-dollar mark include Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids, Lansing, Saginaw and Southfield.

MILLION MARK

Areas surpassing the one-million-dollar mark were Ann Arbor, Battle Creek, Bay City, Benton Harbor, Clawson, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Livonia, Marquette, Mt. Clemens, Plymouth, Pontiac, Port Huron, Roseville, Royal Oak, Traverse City, Warren, Wayne and Wyandotte.

Michigan Bell began distribution of its 1966 directory this week in the metropolitan area.

Included in the distribution of more than 3.5 million directories are 417,000 North area books for 49 Oakland County communities.

Telephone customers who need one or both of the other two area white pages directories — East and West-Downriver — may obtain them by calling the local Michigan Bell business office.

COLOR MAPS

For the first time, a page of individualized maps in color has been included to help the telephone user determine if he's making a local, message unit or long distance call.

FESTIVE TABLE — The Passover table, resplendent with the traditional appointments of the Seder. Being served, from a Farberware Dutch Oven, is Gefilte Fish, one of the most popular and delectable of Hebrew Holiday dishes.

Jewish Cooks Preparing for Passover

Because it is celebrated in the home, and brings with it a traditional unity of the family, the Spring festival of Passover is said to be the favorite of Jewish holidays.

The traditional Seder table, resplendent with snowy cloth, silverware and candles, holds a number of symbolic foods.

A roasted shank bone, roasted egg, bitter herbs, haroset (a mixture of apples, nuts and wine), parsley, and salt water are placed together on a platter in front of the person leading the ceremony.

During the eight days of Passover, meals vary from those of the rest of the year.

The same foods are used with these exceptions: all of heaven is omitted — this is in memory of the fact that the Jews hastening from Egypt had no time to leaven their bread.

Dried beans and peas, legumes and grain may not be used; baking, powder, baking soda and yeast are not permitted.

The customary flour for baking and cooking is replaced by matzo meal, potato flour, and matzo meal cake flour (finely ground matzo meal).

Meats, poultry, fish, fresh fruits and vegetables are used extensively for Passover meals — and one of the favorite foods at holiday time is Gefilte Fish.

Gefilte Fish may have originated in Germany or Holland sometime after the expulsion of Jews from Spain in 1492. Or, it may have been invented in Russia or Poland.

Perhaps, it was only the culinary ingenuity of a housefrau-on-a-budget in need of a food stretch. One thing is certain, Gefilte Fish is delicious.

Gefilte Fish
3 pounds fish (pike and whitefish or pike and carp)
2 onions
1 egg
¼ cup water (approximate)
2 tablespoons matzo meal or bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 stalk celery
1 carrot
1 potato (if desired)

Clean and wash the fish thoroughly, salt and place in refrigerator until ready to prepare. Skin and bone the fish, reserving the skin, head, tail and bones. Put the fish and one onion through a food chopper and then into a wooden bowl.

Add the egg, matzo meal, seasoning and enough water to make a soft, light mixture. Chop until smooth and thoroughly blended. Wet hands with cold water, form oval cakes out of the mixture and set aside.

Place bones on the bottom of a heavy dutch oven. Since the onion, the carrot, the potato and celery. Place them on the bones and season all with a dash of salt, pepper and cinnamon. On these place the fish and cover with cold water.

Cover pot, bring to a quick boil, remove cover and turn down heat, keeping the fish at a slow boil 1½ to 2 hours. The liquid should be reduced by half. If the sauce has boiled down completely add a little water.

Allow the fish to cool somewhat before removing from the pot. Serve warm or cold, garnished with a sliced carrot, and, if cold, also with the jelly sauce. Serve with horseradish. Serves 4 to 6.

Six types of poultry are graded by the United States Department of Agriculture: turkey, chicken, duck, goose, guinea and squab.

Any Food Is OK at Breakfast

One symbol of present day teen-ager rebellion is the passion for off-beat foods. But Dr. Ruth Leverton, prominent nutritionist and author of several accredited books on teen-age nutrition, cautions perplexed parents:

"Food that is eaten for breakfast doesn't have to conform to a conventional pattern to be nourishing."

Therefore, if your youngsters will condescend to eat breakfast only if they can have what they want, give it to them.

You may get gray hairs but they will get some solid food before dashing off.

If they demand a "Go-Go Breakfast," give them bean and bacon soup, a tomato sandwich, a piece of fruit they can eat on the run and a glass of milk. Or a Hullabaloo Combo.

Don't be alarmed. It means canned split pea and ham soup, a chopped egg sandwich, a bunch of grapes and a glass of chocolate milk.

Not what grandma thought a well-raised boy or girl should eat for breakfast, admittedly. But it's good nutrition. So why fret? Just don't tell grandma.

"Mug It" is another shocker. They drink it — quick. But it provides some of the protein, cereal and milk they need. So "Mug It," mother.

MUG IT

1 can (10½ ounce) cream of chicken or tomato soup, as desired
¼ cup instant hot whole wheat cereal
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon curry powder, optional

Stir milk into soup; heat to boiling point. Add cereal and cook as directed for cereal on package. Stir in salt and curry powder, if desired. Serve hot in mugs with cereal muffin or toast as desired. About 4 servings.

Cream Cheese Makes Pastry

It's worth the trouble of making, because these pastry cookies taste so good.

Pastry Cookies

¼ pound butter
4 ounces cream cheese
¼ cup sugar
1 large egg
1½ cups sifted regular flour

Filling
Cream together the butter, cream cheese and sugar; beat in the egg; stir in flour. Cover and chill overnight.

Divide into 4 equal portions; shape each into a ball. Roll out one portion at a time, on a pastry cloth with a stockinet-covered rolling pin to a 3-inch round—it will be thin. Sprinkle with one-fourth of the filling.

Cut into 8 wedges; roll up each from wide end; press down edges (to seal in filling as much as possible) and curve into crescents.

Place 1-inch apart on lightly greased cookie sheets and bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven until bottoms are golden-brown—about 20 minutes. Remove at once to wire rack to cool.

It's Old-Fashioned

A "comfit" is not a misspelled word meaning "comfort" though both can give strength and hope. A "comfit" is a confection — a fruit, seed, or root — preserved with sugar and dried. The preservative ingredient — sugar — is comfortably digested and is the quickest source of body energy.

Underground Hotel for Cats Cares for NY Subway Strays

NEW YORK (A) — Down in Manhattan's subway maze, beneath a spiffy hotel neighborhood, there is a subterranean way station for cats.

Some tough lions, and an equally tough mom, have found refuge under Grand Central Station where the subway shuttle comes in. Lost cats and dogs—and even pigeons—turn up frequently in the tunnels.

Andrew B. West started taking in the strays three years ago and has taken on the title of the subway's caretaker of cats.

"Animals are nice to have around. They're not too much trouble," said West, 55, an assistant train dispatcher who mans the Transit Authority information booth at Grand Central Station.

The menagerie usually has five or six guests, but the population changes with litters and as one woman commuter, Carreen Carroll, finds homes for the kittens.

FIRST GUEST

The first guest, and more or less a permanent fixture, is Musty, a tiger-striped tabby. She wandered down the tracks at Times Square one day three years ago, obviously in the family way.

Helping West with the cats' menu is Edward Marsh, 66, a subway maintenance man of Bayside, Queens, brings food to the cats.

Rookie Outfielders Lead Tigers' Hit Parade

Swift Handles Team in Win Over Braves

Key Hits by Stanley, Northrup; Dessen Out With Bronchitis

LAKE LAND, Fla. (AP)—Some days it doesn't pay for a pitcher to have his good pitches working for him.

That was Mickey Lolich's problem Wednesday as the Atlanta Braves worked him out for eight hits and four runs in four innings.

The Tigers, behind the hitting of rookie outfielders Jim Northrup and Mickey Stanley, rallied to win, 11-7, after scoring five unearned runs in the sixth inning.

"Lolich had more stuff on the ball today than he had all spring," said coach Bob Swift.

SWIFT SUBS
Swift was subbing for manager Charlie Dessen who decided to take a couple extra days to recover from an attack of bronchitis.

"When I was catching, I remember games where our pitcher really had the ball jumping, and yet everything the batter swung he hit a line drive," Swift said. "There's nothing wrong with Lolich."

The Braves collected 18 hits off three Detroit hurlers, the most given up in the spring camp in two years.

Billy Cowan and Joe Torre touched Lolich for solo homers in the first inning, and Norm Cash hit one for the Tigers in the fifth.

Billy Graham, second of the three Detroit pitchers who worked his way out of a tight jam in the sixth, then reaped the rewards of the Tigers' big inning.

The Braves loaded the bases off Graham in the sixth but the right-handed struck out Frank Bolling and Denis Menke and got Woody Woodward on an infield fly.

"Getting out of the inning had to help Graham's confidence," Swift said. "That's what we need, someone who can come in and mow 'em down in the clutch."

Stanley doubled home the first run in Detroit's big inning, and Dick Tracewski's sacrifice fly scored another before Northrup delivered a bases-loaded triple to cap the inning.

Losers Billy O'Dell gave the Tigers a break when he threw the ball away after fielding Ray Oyler's bunt.

The Tigers went on the road for the first time in six days to play, the Pittsburgh Pirates at Fort Myers.

ATLANTA (AP) — Detroit's Alou of the Braves, who hit a home run off Detroit's pitcher, Mickey Lolich, in the first inning, was the only player to hit a home run in the game.

Don, Sandy Agree to Terms With LA

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An hour after the long holdout siege had ended, pitchers Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale had one more request of the general manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"Where can we find a catcher to practice with?" inquired Drysdale.

"One with a left handed catcher's glove," added southpaw Sandy, joking.

The scene was the office of General Manager E.J. (Buzze) Bavasi, and today the two hurlers were back in baseball, limbering up their famed arms for the approaching National League season.

NO HINTS
Neither principal would even hint at the final terms except for Bavasi's disclosure that it was "more than $210,000" for one year.

This $210,000 was the sum revealed in the club's supposed final offer Tuesday — $119,500 to Sandy and $97,500 to Drysdale.

The speculation is that 29-game winner Koufax, the 1963 and 1965 Cy Young award winner, got $150,000 and his right-handed teammate, who had 23 victories, $105,000, which maintains the $15,000 difference quoted all along by the Dodgers themselves.

Whatever the figure, it is certain the Dodgers have the first and only $100,000-a-year pitcher in the history of baseball.

The Dodgers duo ended their 32-day holdout all smiles. Pressed for financial details, Sandy spoke for both when he said:

"Let's put it this way. Don and I are both happy."

The pair plan to join the Dodgers this weekend in Phoenix, and Drysdale, who has been working out the past week or more, said:

"I'd like to get in a couple of innings this weekend."

SURE OF CONDITION
Koufax said he felt sure they could pitch during the first week of the season, which opens here April 12 against the Houston Astros.

Koufax said he weighs 197, seven or eight pounds under the fighting weight; his legs feel good and his valuable arm "feels even better than it did this year ago."

That included the left elbow, noted for a swelling eccentricity which threatened his career last spring.

The Dodgers are due in Phoenix tonight and have an off day Friday. They play the San Francisco Giants at Mesa and Phoenix Saturday and Sunday.

Youngsters in Spotlight

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—A pair of collegians stole the limelight Wednesday in the 63rd American Bowling Congress tournament.

Pint-sized 19-year-old Bobby Menendez of St. Louis stered his sharp hook for series of 714-625-622-191 for the lead in the regular all-events.

A 20-year-old Knoxville, Tenn., lad, James Bevin, bowled a 260 game in the team event and went on to compile 14 straight strikes and 697 series.

Menendez, a mathematics major at the University of Missouri, replaced Rich Martin of Batavia, N.Y., who was on top with 1938.

Jerry Schlech of St. Louis pounded out an 1,899 classic all-events score, built mainly on a 711 doubles series, for second place in the nine-game standings.

He teamed with Jerome Whitey Harris in the doubles.

76er Garners Cage Award

Dolph Led Quintet to Division Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Dolph Schayes, whose Philadelphia 76ers ended the nine year reign of the Boston Celtics as Eastern Division champions, was named the Coach of the Year in the National Basketball Association today.

Schayes, who played 16 years in the NBA and scored 19,249 points after starting at New York University, beat out Red Auerbach, the Boston coach, in the voting of a 27-man committee of selected writers covering NBA games.

WINS BY FOUR
Schayes received 13 votes and Auerbach nine. Paul Seymour, who recently resigned as coach of the Baltimore Bullets, received two votes as did Fred Schaus, coach of the Los Angeles Lakers, the Western Division champs.

Jack McMahon, coach of the Cincinnati Royals, received one vote.

Schayes, whose three year coaching record shows 126 games won against 111 lost, gave full credit to his players, especially to "Wilt Chamberlain for his leadership. His great desire to win penetrated through the ranks."

Walter Kennedy, president of the NBA, will present Schayes with the award at a forthcoming playoff game.

Dick Weber Second

Arizona Kegler in PBA Lead

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Dave Davis of Phoenix, Ariz., held the lead Wednesday night after the second round of the $100,000 Firestone PBA Tournament of Champions. He had a 16-game total of 3518.

Davis, 33, the Professional Bowlers Association champion last year, and Dick Weber of St. Louis, Mo., were tied at 3504.

TOP WINNER
Weber, leading money winner on the PBA tour and the favorite to take the $25,000 first prize here, had a high game of 367 in the second round Wednesday night.

Jim S. John of San Jose, Calif., the first-round leader with a 1788, finished the second round with a total of 3423.

Another eight-game qualifying round is scheduled Thursday afternoon before the 65-man field is cut to the top 24 for the final round.

Tax Keeps Clay's Fight Purse Tied

TORONTO (AP)—The Canadian government has attached revenue to the live gate and the Canadian TV in 10 Canadian cities was closed-circuit television revenue.

Clay retained his share of the world title with an easy 15-round decision over the Canadian heavyweight champion from Toronto.

Harold Ballard, executive vice-president of Maple Leaf Gardens which promoted the fight with Toronto's Frank Tunney, confirmed the move and said Wednesday night it was not out of the ordinary.

He said the Canadian government simply wants to hold Clay's purse until the income tax is deducted.

He was not sure how long this would take. He said it will depend on how soon officials can determine Clay's share of the TV revenue.

Ballard said the live gate amounted to about $150,000 after provincial amusement tax was deducted. Clay gets 50 per cent of the live gate, or about $75,000.

Revenue from closed-circuit TV in 10 Canadian cities was estimated at $53,000 before expenses. Clay gets 50 per cent of the amount, after Main Bout Inc., which squandered ancillary rights, deducts expenses.

Total revenue from all sources is estimated at about $309,000 with Clay's share amounting to $175,000.

Chuvilo collects 30 per cent of the live gate and 50 per cent of ancillary revenue, and his earnings are placed at $70,000. His share of the live gate is expected to be about $35,000.

There was no evidence that the government does not expect to get its money from Clay.

The money is to remain in trust until the matter is settled.

Pocket Rocket Paces 3-1 Win
Canadians Are Closer to NHL Championship

By the Associated Press
The Montreal Canadiens have the National Hockey League's regular season title all but in their hip pocket, and they can thank the Pocket Rocket, Henri Richard, for it.

Henri, younger brother of Montreal's famed Rocket Richard, scored the winning goal midway in the third period Wednesday night as the Canadiens defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs, 3-1, in the circuit's only game.

The triumph increased the Canadiens' lead over second-place Chicago to four points. The teams meet in Montreal Saturday night and a victory or tie will give the Canadiens the title.

With the score tied 1-1 in the Leafs-Canadiens game, Pocket Rocket Richard uncorked a hard drive from 15 feet out that went through the legs of Toronto goalie Johnny Bower at 8:16 of the final period.

Cager Cazzie a Hit in Lansing

LANSING (AP)—The House and Senate chambers could have been mistaken for basketball arenas Wednesday.

Both gave standing ovations and tremendous applause for University of Michigan basketball star Cazzie Russell, the All-American college player for the year pick of The Associated Press.

A resolution, introduced by Sen. Basil Brown, D-Highland Park, hailed Russell for his "phenomenal career as a college basketball player and as 'the best college basketball player in the country.'"

Russell also received congratulations from Gov. George Romney in his triumphant tour of the capitol.

The 6-6 Russell showed the same poise on the House and Senate rostrums as he does on the court.

After a losing game, Russell said, he bumped into a little old lady and apologized, "no offense."

"No defense either," she told me," he related.

Coaches in Agreement

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of articles in which Press sportswriters will size up league races among the area high school baseball teams.)

The baseball coaches in the Inter-Lakes League have found a subject on which they all agree: Pontiac Northern should win the loop championship.

Winning is nothing new for the PNH Huskies. They captured the title last year with a 5-1 record and went on to post a 15-3 mark.

TOP PITCHER—How well Pontiac Northern does in the Inter-Lakes League baseball race this season will depend, to a great deal, on how well Larry Frye performs. Frye, a 6-4 right-hander, is rated the top pitcher in the league, and his presence makes the Huskies the team to beat in the loop race.

Team Tryout Scheduled
by M. G. Collision '9'

Players interested in trying for a spot on the M. G. Collision Class A baseball team are invited to attend a practice session Saturday at 4 p.m. on the Pontiac Northern High School field.

Team manager Truman Lamphere said all newcomers should bring gloves and spikes and report to him on arrival at the field.

league, Walled Lake is expected to be so-so at the start, with Waterford and Farmington strictly in the rebuilding stage.

A newcomer to the league—Livonia Stevenson—will field a team of sophomores, a squad that'll be a surprise if it finishes anywhere but last.

There are a lot of good reasons why the coaches like PNH's chances.

BIG REASON

The biggest reason is pitcher Larry Frye, a 6-4, 210-pound right-hander who posted a 3-1 record last year and batted .310.

PNH coach Arnie Wilson can stock the batting order with some potent hitters, who along with the pitching of Frye, make the Huskies a formidable baseball foe.

Among the 11 lettermen on the PNH nine are Keith Deaton, a first baseman who batted .400 last year, and shortstop Tony DeLarosa, a junior who posted a .450 mark with the stick last year.

Senior catcher Tom Myers batted an even .500 and junior Art Jackson (pitcher-third base) and senior Ken Mazur (outfield) batted .300.

Jackson, 1-3 on the mound last year, will have to help Frye with the pitching chores along with newcomer Denny Messer.

NEW COACH

Waterford, 6-12, last year, has only four veterans returning, so new coach Boyd M. Thomason has his work cut out for him.

Returning are Gary Western and Larry St. Dennis, both outfielders, along with second sacker Dave Roemseny and shortstop Joe Durso.

So, Thomason is going to have to come up with some pitching, along with infield and outfield help.

On the brighter side for Thomason is last year's junior varsity team that posted a 12-4 record. He'll get a few of those players.

Among the newcomers is Ron Moore, a senior who can pitch and play first base. He batted .500 (18 for 36) last year.

FILL GAPS

Others Thomason is counting on to fill some of the holes are Bill Hill (pitcher-third base), Dennis Galbraith (catcher) and Bob Aldrich (outfield).

Farmington has one of the county's top players back in Wayne Johnston, an All-County selection last year.

Johnston, a pitcher and infielder, batted .387 last season and coach Bill Mistele is counting on the big guy to give the team a lift in '66.

Farmington also has a mound problem, which the team'll have to correct if it hopes to be a contender.

Mistele is also counting on second baseman Rick Perry to supply some hitting power. Other returnees include Doug LeFevre (outfield) and pitcher Mike Thompson, a southpaw junior who can "really hum the ball" according to Mistele.

A TRANSFER

Among the newcomers is Ed Rice, an infielder, who transferred from Detroit Cooley where he made the varsity as a sophomore and batted over .300 last year.

Walled Lake coach Al Rokek is faced with a number of questionmarks as he and the Vikings prepare for the '66 season.

NEED PITCHING

The big one, of course, for Rokek is pitching.

"If you have a good pitcher and catcher, you're in good shape," says Rokek.

He has the catcher in senior Fred Ferguson, a solid defensive standstill who batted .200 last season.

Now, Rokek is looking for pitchers.

The only one with any experience back from last year is Stan Tuckwell, a senior who posted a 1-1 mark.

Defensively, the Vikings should be okay. In the hitting department, they have shortstop Terry Lehman who stroked the ball at a .400 pace last year.

Spartan Nine Breaks Even

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Mike Martin rapped a single to cap a four-run fifth inning rally as Florida State nipped Michigan State 5-4 in the second game of a college baseball doubleheader Wednesday.

The Spartans beat Rutgers 7-6 in the opener and now stand 5-7-1 for the spring season.

Bob Speer, who had three hits in the second game, a two-run double in the ninth inning of the opener, to drive in the tying and winning runs. Bob Biedenbach hit a homer in the first game along with two other hits and banged out a triple in the nightcap.

Refers 121 002 000-4 12 Michigan State U. 215 100 100-4 11 R. Karmel, White (3), Ott (1) and Dickman; Phelps, Walcott (4) and Stecker.

PRIMING THE PITCHER—Pontiac Northern baseball coach Arnie Wilson puts a little ammunition into the pitching machine which the Huskies are using for indoor batting practice in the PNH gym. The Huskies, defending champions in the Inter-Lakes League, are expected to get a jump on the other loop teams by sharpening their batting eyes off the slants of the iron pitcher.

Wings Recall Five Players

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings have recalled five players from their Memphis farm club in the Central Professional Hockey League to stretch its winning streak to place on their Stanley Cup play-eight games in a row in the off roster. They include Doug Roberts, former Michigan State player, Jimmy Peters Jr., Irv Spencer, Bryan Campbell and Warren Godfrey.

Dodger Ace Osteen Goes Route in Blanking Reds

By the Associated Press
Just when Claude Osteen was getting comfortable as the Los Angeles Dodgers' No. 1 pitcher, he lost the job.

Now you'd think a pitcher who had just hurled a two-hit shutout and lowered his spring earned run average to 2.17 wouldn't be in line for a demotion. But moments after Osteen had blanked the Cincinnati Reds 4-0 Wednesday, he learned he was no longer No. 1.

There was this little matter of two guys named Koufax and Drysdale signing their contracts at just about the time that Osteen was retiring the last Red Wednesday.

Osteen, who has allowed just six earned runs in 27 2-3 spring training innings, did a Koufax-like job on Cincinnati. He retired the first 18 batters he faced before Tommy Harper beat out an infield hit leading off the seventh.

Osteen then allowed a ninth inning single to Don Pavletich before finishing the Reds off. He walked only one and struck out eight.

PACES ATTACK
Jim Lefebvre's two-run homer paced the Dodger attack.

U.S. Ski Ace Kidd to Undergo Surgery

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — U.S. ski ace Billy Kidd of Snow, Vt., was scheduled to undergo surgery today for removal of a bone chip from his left ankle.

Kidd was told there's a strong possibility he will be ready to ski in the World Ski Championships at Portillo, Chile, Aug. 4-14.

Philadelphia's Jim Bunning also hurled a complete game Wednesday and two other pitchers, San Francisco's Gaylord Perry and Cleveland's Sam McDowell came close.

Bunning limited Kansas City to four hits including Larry Stahl's ninth inning homer as the Phillies downed the Athletics 4-1. Bill White and Rich Allen homered for Philadelphia.

Perry worked eight innings and pounded one of three San Francisco homers as the Giants walloped California 15-5. Perry's stint was the longest by any Giant pitcher this spring. McCovey and Jim Ray Hart also homered and McCovey, Willie Mays and Tom Haller had three hits each.

McDowell was in a 5-5 tie against the Chicago Cubs and started the seventh inning rally with a single, stole home on the front end of a double steal in the eighth.

Minnesota pushed across a run in the ninth to edge Houston. Don Mincher singled and then came around on a walk, a passed ball and an infield out. Houston's Joe Morgan and Minnesota's Jimmie Hall homered.

John Romano singled home the tying and winning runs for the White Sox. Al Weis homered for Chicago and Frank Robinson led the Baltimore attack with two singles and a homer.

Curt Flood's two-run homer in the 10th inning beat Boston for the Cardinals. The Red Sox had rallied to tie on George Scott's two-out pinch homer in the bottom of the ninth, setting the stage for Flood.

Welcome for Holdouts

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "They're five weeks behind the rest of the pitchers in training," said Manager Walt Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers. "The thing I have to worry about is to keep them from hurting their arms."

Houston Golf Team Pacing Tournament

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The University of Houston led three categories and was tied for the top in a fourth today in the second round of the annual All-America Intercollegiate Invitational Golf Tournament.

Mike Mitchell and teammate Hal Underwood of Houston along with Oklahoma State's Bob Dickson fired three-under-par 69s Wednesday to tie for individual medal honors.

Defending champion Jim Grant of Houston was close behind with a first day 70 over the 6,890-yard, par 36-38-72 Pine Forest Country Club course.

"If they progress the way pitchers usually do in the spring, it will be 10 days before they're ready to go three innings," Alston said.

Observers at this spring training site estimated the team would be two weeks into the new season before either would be ready to pitch a full game.

Alston said Koufax probably would take longer to get back in throwing shape than Drysdale because Don has been working out in Los Angeles.

Slalom Victory Best of U.S. Skiers

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Wendy Allen concludes this weekend with the High Sierra Cup Races at Heavenly Valley, Calif. U.S. Alpine head coach, Bob Beattie is nevertheless encouraged by the over-all performance of his American racers in the U.S.-National Championships, at Stowe, Vt., and the American International team races at Sun Valley.

Beattie and the U.S. Ski Association are trying furiously to build American skiing to the level of the long-established European powers.

"We're still not anywhere near such Alpine powers as Austria and France," Beattie said Wednesday. "But the results from the past two week-ends of competition indicate we're starting to make some progress. Building our program is like the formation of an iceberg. A lot of material has to gather below the surface before it starts showing up above."

Despite not having their top male racer, Billy Kidd and two other leading alpinists, Rick Chaffee and Sandra Shalloworth, all currently sidelined by injuries, 18 different Americans finished among the top 10 during the eight different races at Stowe and Sun Valley.

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Here are the top 10 at recent U.S. National Ski Championships at Stowe, Vt., and Sun Valley, Idaho:

- U.S. Nationals at Stowe
Downhill — 1. Karen Kortus, 21, Pine-Clay, Wyo.; 2. Cathy Naegele, 17, Enumclaw, Wash.
Slalom — 1. Wendy Allen, 21, San Francisco; 2. Cathy Allen, 19, San Francisco; 3. Cathy Allen, 19, San Francisco; 4. Cathy Allen, 19, San Francisco.

Palmer Sharp in Greensboro Pro-Am Play

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — The Greater Greensboro Open got under way today with Arnold Palmer already marked as the major threat to defending champion Sam Snead in the $100,000 event.

Palmer, golf's golden boy from Latrobe, Pa., tore apart the Sedgfield County Club course with an eight-under-par 63 in Wednesday's pro-am preliminary. His 30-33 round included six birdies and an eagle.

Palmer's low score Wednesday, his second best round of the year, was a surprise in that he had never won this tournament and has not played particularly well here in the past.

FAST START
But he got off to a fast winter start with a victory in the Los Angeles Open and is always considered a threat in any tournament he enters.

But Snead supporters can still be found, mostly on the strength of the 53-year-old veteran's eight previous wins here and his savvy of the par 71, 7,025-yard course.

He won last year after the tournament had been dedicated in honor of his 25th appearance in the GGO.

But it was by no means a two-man race. A total of 141 golfers, including five amateurs, are entered in the 72-hole, four-day event that will mean $20,000 to the first place finisher.

JAMMED UP — Boston's Bill Russell (6) knocks away the ball from Cincinnati's Wayne Embury and he also made a little contact with Embury's head during second-period action of their NBA semifinal playoff game last night in Cincinnati. Other Celtics are K. C. Jones (25) and Larry Siegfried (20). Boston won, 120-103, to tie the series at two games apiece. The final game is slated for Boston tomorrow night.

Bolton Takes College Post

Former Walled Lake Coach in Illinois

Former Walled Lake basketball coach Bob Bolton, 27, has been named athletic director at Judson College in Elgin, Illinois.

The announcement was made today by Dr. Benjamin P. Brown, president of Judson, who said that BOLTON Bolton would also serve as co-trainer of the college's basketball team.

Bolton, who garnered All-Mid American honors while playing at Western Michigan University, took over the Walled Lake team in 1964 and led the team to the quarter-finals of the state tournament last year.

The 6-10 Bolton also played professional basketball briefly, and he served as a player-coach of the Pontiac (now Holland) entry in the North American Basketball League.

After leaving Walled Lake, Bolton moved to Kankakee (Ill.) as basketball coach. He and his wife, Barbara, and two children plan to move to Elgin after this school year.

Celtics Trim Royals; Hawks Oust Bullets

By the Associated Press

The Boston Celtics "ain't out of danger yet" in the words of their coach, Red Auerbach.

Backed against the wall, the Celtics whipped the Cincinnati Royals 120-103 Wednesday night and kept alive their hopes for an eighth straight National Basketball Association championship.

The victory tied the Eastern Division best-of-five semifinal playoff at 2-2 with the deciding game scheduled Friday night at Boston.

Meantime, the St. Louis Hawks completed a three-game sweep of their Western Division semifinals by defeating the Baltimore Bullets 121-112.

The Hawks thus qualified to meet the Los Angeles Lakers in the first game of the best-of-seven Western Division finals at Los Angeles Friday night.

NO HOME WIN
A crowd of 12,107 turned out at Cincinnati expecting the Royals to whip the Celtics and gain the division final against the Philadelphia 76ers. But the Celtics, led by Sam Jones and Tom Sanders, maintained the record of this series in which no home team has won.

Jones threw in 32 points, including six of eight field goals attempts in a third quarter Boston spurge that gave the Celtics a 15-point lead at 87-72. Sanders finished with 28 points, including 14 points in the first quarter when the Celtics led 31-27.

The 60 points by Jones and Sanders offset the 56-point scoring of Oscar Robertson and Jerry Lucas for the Royals. Robertson got 34 points and Lucas 22.

St. Louis, playing at home for the first time in the series, took the lead for good against Baltimore 65-64 on Joe Caldwell's basket early in the second half, opened a 17-point lead at 97-80 then withstood a late rally by the Bullets.

Don Ohl, who got 32 points for Baltimore, threw in nine straight points to pull the Bullets to within 106-103, but two baskets by Bill Bridges, one by Caldwell and a free throw by

Young Rockne Missed Father's Stirring Talks

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Those shown on the football field between halves in the 1920's held more fascination for the 11-year-old boy than going down into the dressing room and hearing his father deliver one of his famous pep talks.

"Now, I wish I had gone down to hear them," said the 47-year-old man in a reminiscent mood.

He is Knute Rockne Jr., who is in the insurance business in New Buffalo, Mich., about 35 miles north of Notre Dame where his father created a football dynasty.

Rockne said it was not always easy to be the son of a famous man.

"It can be both an advantage and disadvantage," he said.

"Very often when I walk into a place for the first time, and give my name I get that 'Oh, yeah' treatment. They'll say 'So you're Knute Rockne. Well, I'm Lyndon B. Johnson.'"

"But it's quite an honor to be remembered as Knute Rockne's son. I meet so many people who remember my dad and those Notre Dame teams."

The elder Rockne was killed 33 years ago today in a plane crash near Bazaar, Kan.

"My brother, Bill, and I were returning to prep school at Pembroke near Kansas City, Kan. when we were told of the tragedy by Dr. D. M. Nigro, an old family friend," Knute Jr. said.

Knute Jr. and Jack, his younger brother who is 40, will be on the Notre Dame campus this Sunday to attend an anniversary Mass for their father and the annual visit to the cemetery.

Jack, who manages a natatorium in South Bend, Ind., has only fleeting recollections of his father.

"I was only five or so when my dad died," he said. "When Knute Jr. and I get together we run off the old movies of dad and hear him giving the pep talks to the team. We're always thrilled to hear his voice again."

Grand Jury Continues Pro Boxing Probe

CHICAGO (AP)—A federal grand jury investigating gangster influence in boxing was to begin its second day of taking testimony today after a confusing first-day session in which the hearing site was changed.

Seven witnesses went before the grand jury Wednesday in a session closed to the press.

Testifying were Julius Isaacson, former manager of Ernie Terrell; Harry Markson, director of boxing at New York's Madison Square Garden; John Novick, pretzel machine manufacturer and reputed New York gambler; Joe Glaser, New York theatrical agent and former manager of Sugar Ray Robinson; Teddy Brenner, New York fight promoter; Gus Alex, reputed Chicago gambling overlord; and Gus Zapas, an ex-combat and aide to James Hoffa, Teamsters Union president.

A federal spokesman told The Associated Press late Wednesday night he could not reveal whether Bernard Glickman, 31, former Chicago fight manager and star witness of the probe, would testify at today's session. Nothing was learned about the testimony in Wednesday's five-hour session as federal officials and witnesses refused to comment on the proceedings.

The session got off to a confusing start as the hearing was shifted from the U.S. Court-house, usual hearing site, to the U.S. Customs Building.

Federal officials were quoted as saying the proceedings were moved to avoid newsmen and television reporters. A court order authorizing the shift dis-

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jockey Bobby Ussery was left at the starting gate Wednesday while his horse galloped on to victory at Aqueduct.

Ussery, one of the top Thoroughbred riders, took himself off Opera Club before the start of the second race "because I did not feel secure with the horse."

Angel Cordero, who said all he knew about Opera Club was what he read in a racing paper, accepted the ride aboard the MacConn Farm horse and won by three lengths. The 7-1 shot returned $17.60.

"That was the first time I was wrong and the first time I took off a horse at the gate," said the embarrassed Ussery.

Ussery, the leading jockey at this Aqueduct meeting, told track stewards he made his decision because "the horse had lacerations under the shoulder and he was walking kinda funny. I didn't think I would be doing justice to the public if I rode him."

Rocky, Indians Eying AL Flag

TUCSON, Ariz. (U) — Cleveland slugger Rocky Colavito goes into his 11th full major league baseball season with high hopes of playing on his first pennant winner.

"Look at our record against Minnesota last year and that will show you we can win this time," he declares with the 1966 American League season fast approaching.

Stamping the Indians again as pennant challengers are power speed and two of the best pitchers around — Sam McDowell and Sonny Siebert. Last year the Indians led from June 29 to July 4 and then sagged to fifth 15 games behind.

BEAT LEADERS

A year ago, Cleveland whipped Minnesota's league champions 11 times while losing only seven. Paradoxically against last place Kansas City, the Tribe wound up only 9-4. No team was better at home than Cleveland yet five clubs posted better road marks.

"Just how far we go is how far our pitching takes us," declared Manager Birdie Tebbetts with full realization other skippers find themselves in the same position.

Southpaw McDowell and right-hander Siebert were 17-11 and 16-4 a year ago. Among American League starters they had the best earned-run averages with 2.18 and 2.43 respectively.

McDowell, 23, became only the fifth pitcher in the majors since 1900 to strike out more than 300 batters in a single season when he fanned 325.

Rochester Jaycees Lists Winners

Six winners, three boys and three girls, were crowned champions of the Rochester Jaycees Junior Bowling Tournament completed last weekend at North Hill Lanes.

A total of 161 entries from Jaycee tournaments in Rochester, Holly, Auburn Heights and Waterford competed in the finals of the 18th District tourney.

Winners in the various age brackets among the boys included Gerald Lauffer, Rochester, (8-10), Brad Boylon, Rochester (11-13) and Steve Hunter (14-15) of Rochester.

Girls winners were Kay Fuchs (8-10) of Holly, Beth Seavey (11-13) Holly and Carol Williams (14-15) Auburn Heights.

Winners and runners received trophies.

Economy Loss Discussed in Braves' Suit

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — If Milwaukee fans can't spend their money at the baseball park, they simply will spend it somewhere else, a management consultant says.

Dr. John Clark Jr. of New York City testified Wednesday night in the trial of Wisconsin's antitrust suit against baseball that the Braves' transfer to Atlanta would not inflict a great economic loss on Milwaukee.

"The money would be spent elsewhere such as in clothing et cetera," Clark said.

Clark said under cross-examination that he had made no specific study of the economic effect on Milwaukee of money spent by baseball fans.

Brush With Death Proved God Was Near

By BENNIE SHIPP
Gas Station Operator

My wife and I always went fishing Mondays.

I'd shut down my filling station and we'd head out on board to Lake Chickamauga. This particular Monday was gray and raw.

When we reached the beach, there wasn't a car or boat in sight.

We were off, without so much as a frown over the fact that Vivian couldn't swim a stroke and wasn't wearing a life jacket.

SHIPP
Funny how you figure some things just won't happen to you.

BROUGHT COAT
Vivian had brought a coat for me to put on, but I couldn't take time before starting.

Out on the water, though, it was a lot colder. We were moving along pretty good, maybe 18 miles per hour, and the wind was fresh.

Well, I reached for the coat, and I guess I gave the tiller a twist, because that boat gave a terrific lurch. I was holding on so I didn't fall. But Vivian was thrown into the water.

I choked the motor down, never taking my eyes off the spot where she went under. Then I dived in.

STRAIGHT DOWN
I swam straight down, looking for her through the brown water. I saw her, got my arm around her and started kicking for the surface. We broke water just when I thought my lungs would burst.

I couldn't see the boat. I made a complete circle in the water. There was no boat.

Then I saw it. It was 200 yards from us and moving away fast. In my hurry to get in the water, I hadn't shut down the motor all the way; the boat was gone and so were we.

I saw Vivian had seen it now, too, but she just whispered, "God's going to take care of us, Bennie."

DISTANT SHORE
Well, I knew I couldn't take care of us much longer, that was sure. The shore looked a million miles away.

It was the weight of our clothes, plus the ice-cold water, that made it so bad.

I knew we had to get Vivian's coat off. I got my arms under her shoulders and she wiggled and tugged at the heavy, clinging thing, and we both swallowed a lot of water.

LENTEN GUIDEPOSTS

But at last she broke free of it. She wasn't scared, though, not even now. "God's going to help us," she said, over and over.

SANK BELOW
I was too tired to hold my head out of the water all the time. I sank down below the surface holding Vivian up above me.

Every little while, I climbed up and got a swallow of air. Each time it seemed like I wouldn't make it.

And then I knew I was dying, because I could see my whole past life. And it wasn't much to look at. Not until two years ago, anyway.

I saw the years I'd spent stock car racing, the money I'd wasted, the heavy drinking.

KEPT PRAYING
And I saw Vivian, the way she'd been all those years. She'd never given up on me, she'd just kept praying for me.

No matter how late or how drunk I'd come home, she'd have dinner hot and waiting. And no cross words either, just:

"God loves you, Bennie. He's waiting for you."

Then one night, two years ago, I'd come home at 2 a.m. when the bars closed, and there was Vivian just sitting and waiting like she always was.

REALIZATION
And suddenly I knew she was right about God because no one could be as good as Vivian without His help. I got down on my knees then and there and gave my life to Him.

Well, it was God's life now and it was all right for Him to take it anytime. I was too tired to keep struggling. I thought I could sleep — except that Vivian was pulling at me, tugging my arm. She was shouting:

"The boat! The boat!"

Now I saw something moving on the lake.

BOAT RETURNS
It couldn't be. But it was, our own empty boat, somehow turned around and headed straight for us. I knew it couldn't happen. But I was seeing it.

I watched it come, moving straight as if a sure hand were on the tiller. And suddenly I knew — sure as I'd ever known anything — that that boat was coming right to us.

I just lifted up my hand and my fingers closed over the side. It was the last strength I had.

Vivian had more strength than I had by then. She climbed aboard and shut the motor down and for a long time I just hung on. Then, when I was rested a bit, I climbed in too.

SANG FOR JOY
Well, we sat there, water streaming off us, and we just sang for joy. Then we prayed for joy and just magnified God in every way we knew. Vivian said:

"Bennie, it wasn't God alone. You held me up till He could come."

But I shook my head. "You've held me up too, Viv. I was thinking in the water how you prayed for me all those years when I couldn't. Well, I was just swimming for you, when you couldn't."

And I guess that's about all we can do for each other, just hold one another up, until God provides the help we need.

Met — *Continued Foster, Large, Florida newspaper, tells how she learned that God always listens, though our prayers may not be answered as we would wish. Delinquency Forecast Not Pleasant

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Welfare Department's Children's Bureau. It is based on a thorough review of 1964 juvenile court statistics. Perhaps the most startling aspect of the prediction is that it from the Health, Education and excludes all traffic violations except hit and run, driving without a license and driving while intoxicated.

In 1964, 686,000 juvenile delinquency cases were handled by the country's juvenile courts, an increase of 14 per cent over 1963.

4 PER CENT RISE

Significantly, the teen-ager (10 through 17) population rose only four per cent during the same year. The Census Bureau estimates there were some 29.1 million teen-agers in 1964.

Using the court statistics as a performance chart, it is possible to come up with a pretty fair betting line on the juvenile delinquent of 1966.

This line could read: • 4-1 odds that the offender is a boy.

• 9-1 odds that he comes from an urban or suburban area.

• 4-1 odds that he's either 16 or 17 years old.

• Better than even money that he's charged with a felony (larceny, auto theft, burglary, robbery, homicide, assault, rape, etc.) rather than a misdemeanor (drunkenness, disorderly conduct, etc.) or offense applicable to a juvenile only (running away, ungovernable, truancy, etc.).

There's also one chance out of three that he's a repeater, or at least has previously come to the court's attention.

NOT COMMITTED

Again based on 1964 statistics, the odds are 4-1 that he will not be committed to the care and custody of a corrective agency or institution.

Three out of 10 delinquents in 1964 were dismissed with a warning. Five out of 10 were put on probation.

The fact that boys get referred to juvenile courts for times as often as girls prompts the Children's Bureau to predict that one out of every six boys in the country today will be referred before he turns 18. For girls, the probability is only 1 in 23.

The most frequent offenses for boys in 1964 were larceny, burglary and auto theft. Girls were most frequently referred for running away, being ungovernable, larceny and sex offenses.

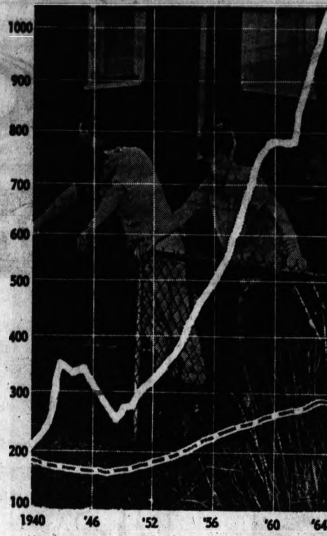

TRAFFIC CASES

In addition to the 686,000 delinquency cases, the juvenile courts handled some 442,000 traffic cases involving teen-agers in 1964, an increase of 21 per cent from 1963.

Officials at the Children's Bureau point out that the increase in delinquency may be attributed to the fact that children born in the high-birth-rate years of the late 1940s are now swelling the ranks of the 16- and 17-year-olds — the peak ages for juvenile delinquency.

In many states, compulsory school attendance ends at these ages.

"The prediction that one out of every nine children will be referred to a juvenile court for delinquency points out how urgent it is to speed up efforts to meet the needs of our growing child population," says Mrs. Katherine Ottenger, chief of the Children's Bureau. "We are paying an enormous juvenile delinquency."

Of Fish 'n' Strips

Aquarium, Burlesque?

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A few years ago, Rep. Michael J. Kirwan sponsored legislation to provide $10 million for construction of a "national aquarium here."

WEST

Many observers assumed at the time that Kirwan had suddenly developed an affection for fish and wanted to see the finny creatures provided with a fine home.

But, as he made clear in a volume of testimony released yesterday by a House appropriations subcommittee, such is not the case.

He was seeking to head off a new type of crisis that is developing in the nation's capital.

Urging that work on the aquarium be started as soon as possible, he pointed out that the situation is rapidly reaching the point where there won't be enough tourist attractions to accommodate all the tourists.

"In 1975, 10 years from now, we will probably have 25 million or more visitors coming to Washington," Kirwan said. "We do not now have adequate facilities for that many visitors here."

MANY TOURISTS

Already, he noted, many tourists "spend most of the day standing in lines waiting to get into the various shrines."

Actually the situation is even more critical than Kirwan indicated.

If I am not mistaken, 1975 is only nine years away.

Anyway, Kirwan said the need for the aquarium first became clear to him when he was told that many young visitors were attending burlesque theaters because government buildings were closed at night.

LACK OF FACILITIES

"That is the No. 1 effect the lack of visitor facilities is having on the youth," he said.

Kirwan apparently feels, and I agree, that when the aquarium has been completed it will virtually put burlesque shows out of business.

In the spring of the year, Washington is filled with high school students who come here from all over the country on senior class trips.

It has been a good many years since my own senior class trip, but I remember it very well. Its purpose was strictly education.

ALL ARE EAGER

We were all eager to take one more deep draught from the fountain of knowledge before our graduation.

Nothing could have swerved us from the path of scholarship. At least not until the chapone, a notorious rat fink, went to bed.

I am certain that the youths of today are similarly motivated. They would never buy a ticket to see a stripper in action if they could spend the evening observing rare fish in glass tanks.

Tuesday Event Open to Public

OU Confab to Hear Astronaut

Astronaut William A. Anders will speak at Oakland University Tuesday in a special public conference open to both adults and students in the area.

The "Mankind in Space" program will be held from 10:30 a.m. until noon in the Gold Room of Oakland Center on the university campus.

Appointed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in October 1963 to the third group of astronauts in training for the manned Gemini and Apollo space flights, Capt. Anders had logged over 2,200 hours flying time before being assigned to special duties as a nuclear engineer and instructor-pilot at Kirtland Air Base.

In active astronaut training at the present time, he specializes in environmental control systems, radiation shields and thermal control.

His talk on the U. S. space program will be presented by OU, Michigan State University and the University Center for Adult Education in cooperation with NASA.

The program is free of charge.

Those planning to attend should contact the conference department, Host Center, Division of Continuing Education, Oakland University, so that seating arrangements may be assured.

The final phase of this two-session program is scheduled for April 19 when Dr. Richard Lesher, deputy administrator for technology utilization at NASA will discuss "The Impact of Space on U. S. Industry."

Piles Of Trash Growing

Garbage Burying U.S.

NEW YORK (NEA) — As if the American housewife didn't have enough worries, there now looms another problem to test her household management skills — a growing garbage pile.

Don't rush out and buy another garbage can immediately, but it could become a necessity about the "garbage gap" come to the kitchen.

It will be in the form of disposable boxes, throwaway bottles, and fancy packaged conveniences — all stop your normal daily trash disposal of tin cans, potato peels, meat scraps, coffee grounds, and a d d the like.

The garbage gap stems from the nation's growing population and growing prosperity.

Twenty years ago, the average American discarded about two pounds of refuse daily, according to the U.S. Public Health Service. Today, there are more Americans and each discards about five pounds of trash daily.

Every minute of the day, the agency reports, some 251 tons of garbage and rubbish are produced.

A little arithmetic shows that piled together at day's end it amounts to 362,000 tons. By year's end it is a whopping 136-million-ton mountain of trash.

Further, health and sanitation officials predict that each American will be producing a ton of garbage per year by 1980. As a result, the nation's garbage problem is becoming a "housewife's nightmare." Perhaps, but not to the housewives, garbage men, community officials, and health agencies across the land already being plagued by the growing rubbish heap.

In a nutshell, the problem is too much garbage, not enough collectors, and difficulty in disposing of that which is collected.

KNOWN CAPACITY

"The well-known capacity of the modern city to dump its sewage is more than matched by its talent for smothering under a blanket of garbage and refuse," reports the journal of the U.S. Public Health Service.

"The volume of solid waste has grown more rapidly than the population. At the same time, available economic space for waste disposal has declined."

"The consequence is that the garbage can, refuse pile and junk heap have moved out of the individual back yard, garbage or attic into the public arena. The private nuisance has become a major public charge."

The nuisance has already become a major charge in some of our largest cities. Atlanta, for example, had its hands full last summer. Its million residents seemed to be tossing away trash faster than the city's 1,000 collectors could haul it off.

DAILY DISCARD

The daily discard amounted to 1,350 tons of garbage and 500 truckloads of trash.

To help combat the problem, the city sanitary department began using prisoners and hiring college and high school students to work as garbage-men.

The biggest problem seems to be in finding a place for the rubbish once it has been collected.

CURRENT DISPOSAL METHODS

In many communities, garbage is being pushed to the limit and show indications of being unable to handle the increased volume expected.

DUMPING SPACE

Two West Coast cities, Seattle and San Francisco, are but two of those looking for more

San Francisco got the bad news more recently when nearby Brisbane decided to renew the city's dumping rights off Brisbane shores.

A national conference seeking means to handle the garbage problem was told last year that San Francisco would discard so much rubbish by the year 2000 that it could cover 50 square miles and stand 20 feet high. The city, obviously, has troubles.

Communities are presently using three basic techniques to play ahead of the rising waste-pile. They are incineration, sanitary landfill and composting.

HANDLING METHOD

The first involves burning the refuse in closed containers. A sanitary landfill is merely buried garbage. Composting is a process quickening natural decomposition by artificial means.

Yet none of these, say the experts, can topple the growing mountain of trash.

There are still other problems in the garbage gap and they are political. They include getting smaller communities together to establish joint disposal systems, convincing politicians in some communities that they must charge their taxpayers for refuse collection, and convincing the taxpayers themselves that the "free" collection they now get actually is financed by their general taxes in most cases.

The cost to rid homes and communities of garbage is considerable. It is based on the type of service the community provides, the type disposal equipment in use and the mileage to disposal sites.

Annual cost to some communities is as low as $2.50 a ton for garbage and refuse disposal. It costs others as high as $18 a ton. Collection and transportation account for 85 per cent of the tab.

ANNUAL OUTLAY

"The annual outlay by our communities for public collection and disposal services in 1964," reports the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, "was over $1.5 billion — exceeded only by community expenditures for schools and roads. In addition, it has been estimated that annual expenditures for private sanitation services (industry and the like) are over $1 billion."

That's the problem posed by the "garbage gap." What's the solution? There does not seem to be one at present, but health and sanitation men propose extensive research and broader education for engineers to help find an answer.

ROMNEY BACKS BILL ON MIGRANTS' CAMP

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney asked the Legislature Wednesday to approve a measure which could lead to a federally financed construction of a migrant laborers' rest camp and reception center near Niles.

A Romney aide said the government's antipover program is studying results from a $750,000 such camp built in Ohio to determine if it should finance others.

Romney wants the Legislature to authorize acceptance of federal money if the government decides to move ahead with more migrants' camps.

People in the News

By The Associated Press

No one would ever know that 17-year-old Janice Ottenbacher lay near death only two years ago.

After a bout with pneumonia, her kidneys failed and she was kept alive by an artificial kidney.

To her rescue came her identical twin, Joan, who permitted doctors to transfer one of her kidneys to her sister.

"It was a tremendous risk for Joan," said a spokesman at the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor.

But yesterday both girls were in fine shape as they celebrated the second anniversary of the kidney transplant at a quiet party in Detroit.

They decided they want to become nurses.

"You both have jobs with us anytime you want to come back," said a university hospital official.

Father Slain, Son Must Carry On

Agripino Bonillo worked as a $71-a-week restaurant porter to support his 10 children, but it was his wish that even the eldest son, Jose, should stay in school.

That was before Bonillo was beaten to death on a Brooklyn street Monday night.

The loss left 20-year-old Jose at the head of a family of 11. Yesterday Jose went to see William Normand, the owner of the restaurant. He told him the family had no money and asked for his father's job.

"I told him he could start any time he wanted," Normand said.

Ready for Fire, Police Work

Farmington Safety Unit on Alert

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Farmington Public Safety Director Maurice D. Foltz begins his duties as police commissioner of Sterling Township tomorrow. Following is a description of the outstanding public safety department he has headed for the past 13 months.)

By PHIL LORANGER
FARMINGTON — Night has long ago dropped its quilt of darkness on the sleeping city. The still night air hangs fresh and quiet except for the sound of a patrol car moving slowly down the streets.

By day and by night, the 23-member staff of the city's Department of Public Safety is on the alert for any situation detrimental to the safety and well-being of local residents.

A patrol car roaming the city streets is only one of the many examples of public protection guaranteed by Farmington's efficient safety officials.

Chief Maurice D. Foltz, 35, director of the Department of Public Safety, is head of an organization whose members perform not only the duties of policemen but also carry out the functions of firemen.

Foltz points out that no division exists between fire and police work in the department. Members are not classified as policemen or firemen but are called public safety officers.

"We are able to respond to any call, fire or police," said Foltz. "The officers are trained for any emergency."

SERIES OF TESTS

The road to winning the badge of public safety officer is marked by many hours of intense study and practical application. After a thorough background screening, candidates are subjected to a series of oral and written examinations.

Those candidates selected to appointment as public safety officers then begin their "basic training" under the direction of Foltz and his veteran staff.

Many young officers attend the Southeastern Michigan basic police training course in Royal Oak where they receive over 140 hours of training.

Training never really ceases for the officers. They receive two hours of instruction weekly in police and fire work, as well as advanced first aid.

When conditions allow an officer to attend a school, he is sent.

Another facet of the city's training program is the appointment of auxiliaries and cadets. Both groups undergo the same screening and tests prior to appointment. But until their appointment as actual officers, they train under the regular members of the force.

Foltz has divided his staff into six divisions — four platoons, consisting of a shift commander, two patrol officers and a police cadet; a detective division, which has a detective sergeant and a detective; and a traffic and safety division, including three police clerks and a sergeant.

Each shift commander has a special assignment ranging from the maintenance of personnel records to the maintenance of the department's vehicles.

WOMEN OFFICERS
One of the most interesting features of the local department is the presence of three full-time women public safety officers.

"The women officers play an important role in operation of this force," said Foltz. "They do many jobs that men handle in other departments."

Foltz noted that the women officers issue drivers' licenses, take photographs and act as matrons for women prisoners.

The women also are in charge of administering road tests for the issuance of drivers' licenses.

BIG HELP
"This helps us out to a great degree because it enables us to keep the men on the streets," Foltz said.

The use of cadets also frees more veterans for duty in the streets, insuring maximum public protection, according to Foltz.

"I have always felt that a community must show it wants a good department of public safety," said Foltz. "This community has shown it wants a good department by providing it with all necessary and modern equipment."

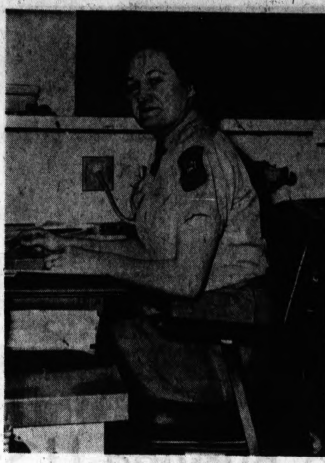

Foltz noted that the department has a complete photolab, including a processing section which enables complete reporting on incidents and immediate pinpointing of problems.

EQUIPMENT
The department also has two modern fire trucks, five patrol cars and a unique emergency truck.

This emergency vehicle is equipped with devices to handle any situation, including a lighting generator, a self-contained breathing device and a tear-gas dispenser.

"Basically, this is a young department," said Foltz. "The officers are very dedicated and possess a keen desire to serve the community."

"Morale is high and this keeps incidents at a minimum because the morale leads to good enforcement," Foltz said.

JC Officers Elected at Regional Confab

CLARKSTON — Three state vice presidents and a national director were elected last night at a regional Jaycee conference at Pine Knob Resort.

State vice presidents elected included Lewis Wint, past president of the Clarkston chapter, who will also be a candidate for state president at the state convention May 6-7 in Lansing.

Others were Carl Braun of Madison Heights and Charles Sparks of the Milford chapter.

Howard Baker of the Plymouth chapter was named national director for Region G, which includes all of Oakland County.

Over 300 representatives of 23 chapters throughout the county attended last night's meeting, according to Robert Newlin, president of the host Clarkston chapter.

STATE PRESIDENT

All four candidates for state president were present, including Ron Rogers of the Waterford chapter.

State President Jack Skriden of Berkley was one of the principal speakers.

The national Jaycee convention will be held in Detroit the week of June 19.

It is estimated that about one school child in 15 in the U.S. is handicapped by some degree of hearing loss.

The Rev. Father James Hayes, pastor of St. Michael's, Pontiac, will be guest speaker.

School Study Report Is Due

Citizens Unit to Make Suggestions Monday

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Final recommendations of a school district citizens advisory committee will be presented Monday to the board of education.

The committee held its final meeting last night.

"The purpose of the committee was to study the curriculum and financial requirements of the district," said Dr. Joseph Davenport, head of the committee. "We are now prepared to submit our final report."

The over-all committee was divided into three subcommittees, financial, curriculum and a steering committee.

The curriculum subcommittee suggested an overall increase of school counselors, a special program for noncollege-bound students, provisions for professional growth among teachers and a competitive salary schedule.

FINANCIAL REQUEST

Although the financial subcommittee did not list a specific financial request for future operations, it did specify that monies would be needed for an additional 130 classrooms in the district in the next five years.

The steering subcommittee guided the group in the plans and schedules, prepared the agenda and will compile the final report for the board.

Parent-Teacher Guild Will Meet Tonight

The Parent-Teacher Guild of Sacred Heart Parish, Auburn Heights, will hold its third and final general meeting of the school year at 8:15 tonight.

The Rev. Father James Hayes, pastor of St. Michael's, Pontiac, will be guest speaker.

Must File by April 15

Wheat, Grain Subsidy Deadline Near

Filing deadline for this year's wheat and feed grain subsidy programs is April 15, Alfred Haack, chairman of the Oakland County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee announced today.

Farmers who carry out provisions of the 1966 voluntary wheat program will be able to get domestic marketing certificates in addition to price support loans and purchases for their wheat crop, Haack noted.

On the "domestic" part of the projected production, support available through loans and certificates will be 160 per cent of parity as of the beginning of the marketing year — July 1, 1966. (The Feb. 4, 1966 wheat parity was $2.53 per bushel.)

In view of the famine conditions in various parts of the world, the 1966 wheat program has been amended. It no longer offers spring wheat growers payments on additional voluntary production below allotments, Haack said.

While the payments will still be available for winter wheat growers who had already planted crops with the provision in mind, these growers are encouraged wherever possible not to reduce their acreage below the farm allotment during the present sign-up period.

WHEAT FARMERS

Instead, such wheat farmers who are also eligible as feed grain growers are encouraged to participate fully in the feed grain program. Feed grain stocks continue to be more than sufficient.

Only growers who participate in the program will be eligible for price support on their 1966 crops of corn, barley, and grain sorghums. As last year, this support is made available through loans, purchases and price-support payments.

Besides qualifying for price support loans, purchases and payments; the participating grower also earns a diversion payment for shifting part of his feed grain base to a conserving use. The payment does not apply to the first 20 per cent diversion except on farms with small bases.

The price support payment may be earned on the projected production from an acreage up to 50 per cent of the total feed grain base for the farm by planting one or more to the feed grains, corn, grain sorghums, or barley, or by planting soybeans in lieu of a feed grain.

The chairman urged farmers who are interested in taking part in this year's feed grain program to call at the County ASC Office, 4515 Highland, Waterford Township, as soon as possible.

Last Friday, 430 growers in the county had signed up to divert 6,720 acres for payment under the 1966 feed grain program.

Applications may be filed at the office from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. The office is also open Wednesday from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

On Reorganization

School Election Monday

LAPEER — A plan to reorganize the Lapeer County Intermediate School District will be submitted to voters Monday.

The proposal as recommended by the County School Reorganization Committee would combine Lapeer Public Schools with Metamora; Imlay City Community Schools with Folsom, Flansburg and Shepherd. If the plan is approved, it will become effective July 1.

Proposed Avon Budget

ANNUAL MEETING TOPIC
AVON TOWNSHIP — The proposed 1966-67 budget will be discussed at the township's annual meeting at 1 p.m. Saturday at the township hall.

Also on the agenda are establishing the millage authorization, setting the time for the regular monthly meetings and publication of the annual report.

Bandit Gets $5,000

FLINT (AP)—A lone, armed man robbed a Flint Federal Savings and Loan Association office of $5,000 Wednesday. He entered when no patrons were in the establishment and forced two women tellers to lie on the floor.

Village Seal Contest Is Under Way

ROCHESTER — A contest to design an official crest for the village is being conducted by the Rochester Area Beautification Council.

The contest is on now and will continue through April 30.

The purpose of the competition is to obtain an official seal for use on village correspondence and municipal vehicles. It will also be adopted for use as a seal on official documents.

The winning entrance will receive a $50 U.S. Savings Bond to be awarded by the Village Council.

The contest is open to all residents of the Rochester area with the exception of members of the Village Council and the Rochester Area Beautification Council and their families.

HISTORICAL ASPECTS

Members of the Beautification Council say it is desirable but not mandatory that the design depict historical aspects of the Rochester area.

They suggest several historical points:

- The first permanent Oakland County house built in Rochester in 1817.
- Original platting of the village in 1826.
- The first church founded in Rochester in 1827.
- Village incorporation on April 12, 1869.
- First biological research station in Michigan established in 1906.
- Three colleges or universities near the village.

Entries are to be submitted on 8 1/2" x 11" paper and must be mailed to Rochester-Village Crest Contest, P.O. Box 22, Rochester.

SEPARATE ENTRIES

More than one design may be submitted but each must be mailed with a separate entry blank.

Entry blanks may be obtained from Green's Artists Supplies and the House of Custom Colors.

Time for Nothing—but Death

By TOM TIEDE

CU CHI, Viet Nam (NEA)—The boy was new in the outfit. A replacement. He had no friends here, no confidants. He was not in on the game, he did not share in the trifles and the traditions.

He knew no one and no one knew him. He was, simply, the new guy.

He had been with the 25th Division only 72 hours before his company pushed off into Viet Cong country. A bad place it was, too . . . full of booby traps and blind mines and the sniper fire which burst tree branches overhead.

They couldn't see the enemy but they knew he was there . . . beneath the ground, in clumps of brush, behind hills. Watching. Waiting.

One moment it was all quiet.

Then the next it was all horrible noise.

The shooting began shortly before noon. From everywhere. The men took what cover was available and began to return fire at the still-hidden enemy. Their position was poor and the cloudburst smoke and shocking singlare added to the misery of a hasty, inadequate defense.

He Gave In Quietly

Thus trapped, the unit took a dozen quick casualties.

And one of them was the boy . . . the new guy in the outfit.

He had been lying prone against the earth when it happened. A bullet struck him through his helmet, above the eyes. Then, probably as he slumped forward, another caught him at the base of his skull.

In effect, they killed him twice.

He had given only the slightest attention to the first slug. It brushed back his helmet and entered his brain, but he paid it only a quiet and quick mutter of recognition.

Then, although mortally wounded and supposedly beyond thinking, he shoved his steel pot back over his eyes in a deliberate movement, crouched forward and began to fire his weapon once again.

"Damndest thing I ever saw," a man said later.

"How long did he fire?" another asked.

"I'd say three minutes."

"Lord."

"You think it was reflexes?" a GI wondered.

"I think it was courage," somebody answered.

They talked afterward of how the blood was spouting from the new guy in all directions, how he never uttered a cry of pain, and how, when he finally gave in, he did it quietly, his head dropping over his arms and his rifle finally stopping.

They wondered then who he was and where he was from.

What he was like and why he was here. But no one had the answers.

"We didn't even have orders on him yet."

"I never knew his first name."

"I thought he was from another company."

"Anybody know what state he came from?"

"Michigan, wasn't it?"

"No, Wisconsin."

"I think he said North Carolina."

"God, isn't anybody sure?"

"Not me."

"Me neither."

"I only knew him cause his name was stenciled on his shirt."

They guessed his age as between 18 and 22 but some figured he might have been older. A few thought he was tallish . . . others insisted he was short and muscular. Blond hair, brown? Short, long?

Nobody knew for certain.

He had only been there 72 hours, the new guy. Not enough time to get acquainted. Not enough time to talk of home. Not enough time to shake hands, slap backs or borrow cigarettes.

There was only enough time to die.

Dies of Heart Attack

WARREN (UPI) — Warren City Councilman Lewis Kingsley died of a heart attack last night at his home. He was 59.

Kingsley, one of two senior councilmen, was in his fifth two-year term.

They wondered then who he was and where he was from.

State May Nix Time Change

LANSING (UPI) — The Legislature may be forced to reaffirm its traditional stand against daylight saving time if President Johnson signs a bill passed by Congress yesterday.

The bill would make daylight saving time mandatory in every state starting next year unless the individual state legislatures decide against it. Any state which does not act will automatically come under the "fast time."

Michigan has retained standard time during the summer in order to avoid problems created by two geographical time zones.

By remaining on standard time it allowed the state to be on the same time by the clock as neighboring states such as Wisconsin and part of Indiana which were on Central Daylight time.

House Republican leader Gerald Ford of Michigan made a protest in Washington yesterday when the bill was passed. He said the measure could force his state onto two time standards if it became law.

Military Leaders Agree

No Flying Saucers, Says Defense Chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Flying saucer fans, the word from the top at the Pentagon is that there aren't any — either ours or somebody else's.

That's what Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara told congressmen yesterday. Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said he agreed. He said all the service chiefs did, too.

Their statements were reported by members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee after McNamara and Wheeler testified in support of President Johnson's $3.5-billion foreign aid bill.

Rep. Cornelius E. Gallagher, D-N.J., was reported to have brought up the recent reports of saucer sightings when he asked McNamara if he thought potential new foreign aid clients had been trying to make contact with earth.

McNamara said he was sure this wasn't the case.

UFO POSSIBILITY
Gallagher then asked McNamara if he could "categorically deny" the possibility that unidentified flying objects (UFO) reported seen in Michigan and elsewhere had extraterrestrial implications.

McNamara, who used to make his home at Ann Arbor where some sightings have been reported, replied that he could deny this categorically.

Members quoted him as saying the Defense Department would have an intense interest in any such manifestation because of its security aspects.

The defense chief said all reported UFO sightings had been investigated by the military and there was no evidence to support the theory they might be controlled vehicles from outer space or anywhere else.

SECRET DEVICE
Gallagher asked if perhaps the United States itself had some secret device in the air, and if some of the sightings could have resulted from this.

According to committee sources, McNamara said no. And Wheeler, pressed for his view, said he and the other service chiefs concurred in all the boss said.

Despite McNamara's disclaimers, Rep. James G. Fulton, R-Pa., believes the Air Force's UFO investigation is "like the kid who says he doesn't believe in ghosts and pulls the covers over his head but still keeps an eye open."

Fulton said the Air Force and the Pentagon keep explaining away UFO sightings as "illusions."

"But yet they keep telling us that they are keeping a strong lookout for themselves," he added.

Detroit Asks Exam on Federal Charge

DETROIT (AP)—Ray Buccaleto, 40, of Detroit, demanded examination Wednesday on a federal charge of possessing stolen property. United States District Judge Fred Kaess set bond at $250 and a hearing for April 29. Buccaleto was arrested by FBI agents in connection with a hijacking of $100,000 in cigarettes from American Tobacco Co.

Red Unity Urged to Aid Hanoi in War

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet and foreign Communist leaders called today for international Communist unity to help North Viet Nam fight its war against the United States.

Soviet President Nikolai S. Podgorny told the third session of the 23rd Soviet Communist Party Congress that Russia is giving "economic assistance and weapons" to Hanoi.

Without mentioning past rejections by Communist China of unity pleas, Podgorny demanded "unity and cohesion of the internationalist Communist movement."

The chief of the Soviet Far Eastern party organization Vasily Chernyshev, said that the Soviet people on the Sino-Soviet border "warmly support the party's political line and practical steps in the relations with the Communist party of China."

The 5,000-mile border between Russia and China running through Central Asia and the Far Eastern Siberian provinces has been the scene of recent incidents between the two Communist giants.

2 FOREIGN LEADERS

Two foreign communist leaders — Czechoslovakia's Antonin Novotny and Romania's Nicolae Ceausescu — both addressed the congress today. Novotny advocated the rallying of "the international Communist movement — the basis of all forces of peace and progress."

Past Communist aid to Hanoi, Novotny said, "must be multiplied by means of common joint action of all the socialist countries, of the entire world Communist movement."

The call for increased Communist support for North Viet Nam was apparently in response to an appeal for more aid yesterday by Le Duan, Ho

Chi Minh's right-hand man, at the congress.

He appealed to the Soviet Union and other Communist nations to give North Viet Nam "every support" to defeat "American aggressors" in South Viet Nam.

SECOND 'FATHERLAND'

Calling Russia his second "fatherland," the head of Hanoi's Communist party hailed the "huge and many-sided aid" that Moscow has given his country, but asked for even more help.

"We appeal to the socialist countries, the fraternal parties, the working class of all countries, to all the peoples fighting for independence and to all the forces of peace and progress in the whole world to render us every support," he told delegates to the congress.

The Russians have already promised the North Vietnamese more support if the tempo of the anti-Communist war in Viet Nam increases.

At the opening session of the congress Tuesday, party chief Leonid Brezhnev said Russia would give Hanoi "ever-increasing support" if America escalates its war effort.

Le Duan, No. 2 man to the North Vietnamese president, won a standing ovation from the 5,000 Soviet delegates and invited guests from foreign Communist parties when he rose to speak.

The presence of such a high-ranking North Vietnamese official at the conclave gave the Soviets a major triumph in their ideological feud with Red China who scornfully rejected an invitation to attend the congress.

State governments alone expended more than $4.9 billion for public welfare last year.

Scientists' Panel Is Suggested for Eying UFO Data

WASHINGTON (AP)—A suggestion that a panel of scientists be appointed by Congress to re-examine all recent unidentified flying object data held by the Air Force was made Wednesday by Rep. Weston E. Vivian, D-Mich.

Under his proposal, the scientists would review the Air Force's procedures for interpreting the data and make a public report of their findings.

Vivian proposed this course as an alternative to investigation by a congressional committee.

"Thank You Mrs. Dixon, for Always Paying Me On My First Call"

* HE MAY not say so very often, but your friendly newspaper carrier deeply appreciates the fact that most of his route customers always pay him the very first time he calls to collect.

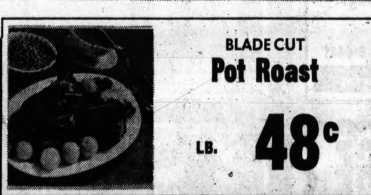

HE'S GRATEFUL for their cooperation because prompt collections mean so much to him as a young businessman. They give him full profits from his efforts, enable him to pay his route bill when due, and minimize call-backs — thus leaving him more time free for school work, sports, and other activities in a busy boy's life.

ALSO, they enable him to keep the other half of his bargain with you — provide on time delivery of your newspaper every day! You see how many ways it pays to have the change ready for him on collection days!

Upgrading Is Big Need

Negro Colleges Fight Built-In Barriers

WASHINGTON, D.C. (NEA)—Amid the chanted strains of "We Shall Overcome," the Negro educator battles a century of apathy and mediocrity.

He knows that the Southern Negro colleges may represent a formidable obstacle in the way of revolution for his people.

Branches of Northern emancipators, the Negro colleges were originally founded in order to prepare teachers and ministers for four million newly freed slaves.

There are now 123 of the schools, with 180,000 students in them.

Though some colleges have managed to upgrade themselves, and some students beat the system, things for the most part have not changed.

IMMEDIATE NEED

With college enrollment already at the bursting point, the immediate need is for upgrading the existing Negro schools.

As integration among white and Negro colleges proceeds, the "Negro college," as such will disappear.

Meanwhile, there are Negro youths to be served.

"I was born in the South and have lived there all my life," says one junior at a Negro college.

'ALL I'VE KNOWN'

"All I have ever known is the supposedly separate but equal facilities of the South.

"I am not prepared for participation in society — and I am forced to blame my faults on society.

"It is not due to a lack of potential. I consider myself one of the angry young men of the Negro generation."

For the Southern Negro child, educational patterns are rigidly established and difficult to overturn.

INFERIOR SCHOOLING

Coming as he often does from an inferior high school, he arrives as a college freshman minus some basic skills.

His creativity may have been stifled. Some have already learned to "make peace with mediocrity."

Money is the primary difficulty, but it is not the only one.

Often there are no student organizations, no bookstores or cultural events on campus. Spirit may be lacking.

SAPPED OF DESIRE

Said one student, "This college has sapped me of my desire to learn. Everyone seems to feel this way."

One reason may be that the student is rarely exposed to a stimulating teacher.

His instructor is probably a Negro who has attended the same or a similar college and has been forced into teaching as a profession.

Fifty per cent of Negro college graduates become teachers because opportunities in professional schools, graduate schools and jobs are limited.

UNDERPAID

He is underpaid, and he lacks physical equipment, laboratories and textbooks.

If he is something special, he has probably been grabbed by an Eastern or Western college.

In addition, the campus has probably been refused accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, which puts them out of the mainstream of academic thought and activity and relates them to a position of isolation.

With limited libraries, occupational rather than liberal arts curriculum, and the paternalistic attitudes of administrators, the system becomes self-perpetuating.

WIDE RANGE

In a report on "The Predominantly Negro Colleges and Universities in Transition," Dr. Earl McGrath, an executive officer of the Institute of Higher Education, suggested that the Negro colleges cover the range from the first-rate schools (like Howard University here and Fisk in Nashville, Tenn.) to the weak and struggling, and that collectively they form a national asset which must be preserved and strengthened.

Dr. McGrath made these recommendations:

- Establishment of a national center in at least one university where expert advice is available to Negro colleges.
- Reform of curriculum; switch from outdated vocational courses to programs leading to employment in business, industry and government.
- The creation of a special corps of volunteers from other colleges to provide remedial instruction and tutoring for Negro students.

Like other remnants of Reconstruction thinking, Negro educators cling to the hope that allows inferior Negro education will eventually be replaced by 20th century understanding and action.

San Francisco ranks third in the United States, after New York and Chicago, in its bank resources.

Negotiations Due on Vets' Bill

LANSHING (AP) — House Republicans appointed a team of negotiators Wednesday to win Democratic agreement on veterans property tax exemptions.

Their instructions to the negotiators amounted to: "25-30 or fight," a caucus spokesman said.

Reps. James Folks of Horton, Roy Spencer of Attica, Harry Demaso of Battle Creek and Arpell Engstrom of Traverse City were told to hold out for Gov. George Romney's 1966 program. It would increase exemptions for widows and men on active duty to $2,500 a year. The exemption for disabled veterans would be increased to $3,000. Both now stand at $2,000.

Following Democrats' failure to override Romney's veto of a new long-range program Tuesday, Speaker Joseph W. Kowalski, D-Detroit, proposed a temporary relief by granting widows and servicemen a $3,000 exemption and disabled veterans $3,500.

UNTOUCHABLE?

They put their proposal where they said Romney could not touch it—in the middle of a $9 million supplemental appropriations bill intended to meet unexpected state agency expenses in the current fiscal year.

Minority Leader Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, argues that the veterans provision is not germane to the bill—and is therefore unconstitutional.

The Republican negotiators were told not to accept any compromises without first reporting back to the full caucus.

General Idea of New Games Is to Win the War

By TOM NOLAN

BALTIMORE (NEA) — The American invasion of Guadalcanal had a smashing beginning.

Two battalions of the First Marines hit the beach and quickly swept in behind the Japanese defenders, while the 27th Infantry rolled up the flank. With no retreat, the Japanese were wiped out.

A tank platoon, a Ranger company and a few squads of engineers mopped up a Japanese labor detachment and took over Henderson Field, the 1928 the most valuable piece of property in the Pacific.

As Japanese reinforcements landed up the island, the Marines and the 27th moved out to engage them.

Then, disaster. Two more Japanese regiments surged ashore from troop transports between the Marines and the airstrip. Cut off from their supplies, the five U.S. battalions soon were eliminated.

SAVE AIRSTRIPE

The Second and Fifth Marines reached the island in time to save the airstrip, but the powerful Japanese Senda Division suddenly appeared on the ridges behind the field.

Loss of the high ground left Henderson Field untenable.

As the American forces were slowly pushed into the ocean, their commander — we — conceded defeat and offered to buy the Japanese commander, a Johns Hopkins University graduate student, a beer.

This battle for Guadalcanal took place in a small room in the Baltimore warehouse of the Avalon Hill Co., one of the many manufacturers of the new "adult" games.

HOT ITEMS

In a country which is growing more recreation-conscious every day, these games have suddenly become the hottest-selling items to hit toy stores in a long time. Virtually all of them stress realism.

Pro Quarterback, for example, gives participants nearly every pro football thrill except a forearm in the chops.

National Football League statistics were thoroughly analyzed so that, for example, a draw (red) between the Naval Hospital here March 11 for treatment of the clot from which complications resulted.

Johny Unitas had called it against the Green Bay Packers.

Marine Col. Donald Dickson, who, as a Ranger captain, was one of the first to hit the island in August 1942, acted as a special consultant to provide accuracy to Guadalcanal, which will be released in April.

KNEW BETTER

(Both Dickson and his superior, Marine Gen. Archer Vandegrift, fortunately knew better than to split their forces in the real invasion. I didn't.)

Most of the "adult" games are time-consuming.

Diplomacy, put out by Games Research Inc. of Boston, can eat up the better part of a week-end, I discovered.

A game of Pro Quarterback can take as long as an NFL affair, traffic jams and all.

10 BASIC PLAYS

In Pro Quarterback, the offense chooses from among five basic running plays and five passes, run to either the strong or weak side. Then defender selects one of nine defenses, including six blitzes.

Five dice are rolled (three by the offense) to partially determine the outcome.

The idea is that perfect execution will often beat a prepared defense, while poor execution can ruin the best-called play.

DIPLOMACY

Diplomacy, played on a large mapboard representing Europe in 1906, lasts until one of seven countries (which means you need seven players) controls a majority of the continent's 31 "supply centers."

"DIPLOMACY PERIOD"

There is a 15-minute "diplomacy" period (for forming new alliances or shoring up existing ones) between each move.

I drew Germany and formed an alliance with England to gobble up France.

All went well until Austria-Hungary violated a nonaggression pact and invaded Germany.

The Royal Navy was not much help in defending Munich.

"Nuts!" I said.

Some of the military strategy games were even worse for me.

In the Battle of the Bulge, I lost Bastogne even before my opponent's 101st Airborne Division could reach the town to get surrounded.

"Nuts!" I said.

GALLERY SHOT—This circus memorabilia of 1905 stopped the action of a tight wire act during rehearsal. It is one of nearly 100 circus photos on exhibit at the Hallmark Gallery in New York City.

Camera Angles

Nothing Like a Circus

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newfeatures

The circus, a glamorous annual experience that heralds the arrival of spring, brings photography back into action for countless shutterbugs.

Cameras come down from shelves and out of closets as children spread the contagious excitement of a visit to see the clowns, wild animals and daring aerial artists on the flying trapeze.

This year in New York City, the circus came one month earlier than the traditional Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey opening in April at Madison Square Garden.

It stopped first to unfurl its banners on New York's fashionable Fifth Avenue via a circus exhibition at the Hallmark Gallery.

On view were authentic memorabilia from the circus museum in Sarasota, Fla., including costumes, a circus wagon and circus train interiors, props, slides and movies, glass photo plates from the 1870s, posters and a collection of photographs by Fred W. Glasier that pictured circus life spanning the years from 1900 to the 1930s.

A CIRCUS BUFF

Glasier, a lifetime circus buff who has been called the "Matthew Brady of the Big Top," maintained a photo studio in Brockton, Mass., until he retired in 1942.

His interest in photography had started early and, being part Indian, he visited the Western frontier lands in the 1890s, photographing Indian tribes and settlements.

This led to a fascination with Wild West shows and he started to dress like his hero, Buffalo Bill Cody, in fringed leather jacket, Stetson hat and even grew a similar mustache and goatee.

CIRCUS SWING

From the turn of the century until 1935, he photographed virtually every traveling circus in America and became their official photographer.

Fortunately for the records, he pictured not only the performing personalities but back-stage life such as unloading a circus train, putting up the big top, rehearsals and pay day.

His equipment consisted of three 8x10 King cameras, a SA Kodak and a 357 Graflex.

As a pioneer in the technique of speed photography, he had special camera shutters constructed which could shoot as fast as 1/3000 of a second.

QUITE NOISY

Crudely made, they were quite noisy and on one occasion nearly proved his undoing. He was photographing a high-strung circus horse when the shutter's sudden loud vibration caused it to rear up and come down on the camera, narrowly missing him.

Fred Whitman Glasier died in 1956 but his extensive collection of circus photographs is a legacy which gives his name a small but unique niche in photographic history.

Today, the circus is one of the few areas of show business where a spectator's camera is welcome.

It is an arena in which an amateur photographer can compete with professionals to see whether he can capture the climactic highlight of an acrobatic feat, the split-second of momentary balance for a high-wire artist suspended in the central beam of many spotlights or the wild animals lined up in formation.

MOVIE CAMERAS

These dramatic highlights can be pictured with still and movie cameras in color as well as black-and-white film.

This is the time to experiment with telephoto and zoom lenses and to keep a record of light meter readings and exposure calculations.

By using the fastest films, your steadiest hand and a tripod or railing to lean on, the circus in pictures could play your home circuit all year 'round.

State Colleges' Enrollment Tops Average in U.S.

LANSING (UPI) — Enrollment in Michigan colleges and universities is increasing at a rate 3.8 per cent faster than the national average, the Michigan Department of Education said yesterday.

The total enrollment in Michigan's 88 public and private colleges and universities increased by 15 per cent to 271,000 students last year, the board said. This compares with a national increase of 12.2 per cent over 1964.

Freshmen enrollments in Michigan schools jumped 27.2 per cent in 1965 over the previous year, compared with a 17.7 per cent average national increase.

The biggest enrollment advances came in the state's community and junior colleges, which report a 26.9 per cent increase to 80,931 students.

Calcutta: City of Crisis, Impending Disaster

By JOE MCGOWAN JR.

CALCUTTA, India (AP)—This is one of the world's largest cities and it is a city in crisis—overwhelmed by runaway population, poverty, hunger, disease and illiteracy.

A third of its people live in conditions which by Western standards are unfit for human habitation.

"We're really in a race with time," one official admits. If the race is lost, all of India sense of crisis in the city and state administration.

"The problems are so chronic and the people so long-suffering that you can't arouse a development effort."

BURST PORT

Under British rule, Calcutta developed into one of the world's busiest ports. It was India's capital until 1912, the site of palatial British residences and government buildings.

Calcutta's real problems came with India's independence and partition of the subcontinent. About a million of the 4.2 million Hindi refugees who left East Pakistan swarmed into Calcutta, straining facilities.

The result is a metropolitan city of about seven million persons, gaining 200,000 a year. The Hooghly River on one side and saltwater swamps on the other keep Calcutta from spreading out, so the population density goes up and up.

Calcutta is estimated to have 102,000 people per square mile, compared with 27,000 for New York City.

ONE-STORY BUILDING

An official at the Calcutta Metropolitan Planning Organization pointed out that "in New York you achieve density by building skyscrapers. Here we have one-story busters (slums). We have no room for schools, parks or hospitals."

It is estimated that three-fourths of Calcutta's people live in overcrowded tenement and slum quarters, ridden with flies and rats. About 50 per cent of multimember families are jammed into one-room quarters—many without running water. Thousands live on the sidewalks.

The lack of safe water supply, sewage facilities and proper housing has made Calcutta an endemic source of cholera and other diseases. The World Health Organization calls the city an international health hazard.

Five years ago, the Ford Foundation sent a team of international specialists in urban planning. As a result a planning

COMMON SCENE—Overpopulated and underdeveloped Calcutta, India, is overwhelmed by many problems—one of which is the sacred cattle that wander freely through the unsanitary, open-air market stalls.

The city of about seven million is growing at a rate of 200,000 a year while the growth of facilities for housing, education and health is nearly at a standstill.

organization came into being and today the foreign experts work alongside Indian planners, turning out programs aimed at preventing catastrophe here.

CHIEF CONSULTANT

John P. Robin, former chairman of the Pennsylvania Planning Board, is chief consultant. Others in the group include Arthur How, on leave from Yale University where he is chairman of the Department of City Planning.

The foreign experts decline to be quoted on Calcutta's problems because of possible resentment at interference by outsiders. Indian officials similarly decline, fearing they would become targets of leftist agitators.

But interviews with planners and city, state and port officials produce this summary of Calcutta's problems:

—Not only is Calcutta grossly overpopulated, but so is its trade area—the states of West Bengal, Bihar, Orissa and Assam. Calcutta is the only city over 300,000 in this great rural area. The states have a total population of about 146 million people, equal to that in all the European Common Market countries.

—Calcutta is the most backward city and area in India in terms of educational facilities. No school is available for a half-million children. At the present rate of population growth, Calcutta would have to build 100 schools a year for 20 years and these would have to operate double shifts. Calcutta has not opened a single school in the past 10 years.

—Hospitals are so overcrowded that patients pronounced incurably ill must leave. The city has 3.8 hospital beds per 1,000 people, a fairly good figure for India. But people come from all over eastern India for treatment. The city is building one hospital every 10 years.

—It would take about 200,000 new houses to clear the present busters. The present rate of building would take 100 more years just to clear the present slums.

—Calcutta's existence is based on its port, which handles 42 per cent of India's exports and 25 per cent of its imports. But the port is dying and plans are under way to build a new port nearer the open sea, at Haldia, 60 miles south of Calcutta.

WATER IS SHIFTING

Through a natural diversion process, the Ganges River has been shifting the main volume of its water to its mouths in East Pakistan. Water flowing into the Hooghly is so silt-laden that dredges are unable to keep up with it. The river today is limited to ships of about 26-foot draft and 10,000 tons.

Reduced water flow has caused three other problems. It tremendous concealed unemployment, including the sidewalk sleepers who don't apply for jobs or get counted.

The influx of men has made Calcutta "the most male city in the world." The 1961 census showed 450 women for every 1,000 men. This increases sex crimes, prostitution, and venereal disease.

The men send whatever money they can scrape together home to their wives and children and this gives Calcutta a high volume of postal money order business.

Presleep Talk May Influence Your Dreams

By Science Service

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—What you dream about could be related to what you talk about before you go to sleep.

At the State University of New York Downstate Medical Center here Dr. Frederick Baskland, instructor in psychiatry, reports the presleep talk of a number of volunteers influenced their dreams to a surprising extent.

The volunteers were asked to "free associate"—speak on any subject—for a half hour before going to sleep.

Taped to their ears were earphones through which a restful, waterfalls-like sound was beamed.

This is known as "white" noise—a mixture of all frequencies in the audible range—which is intended to facilitate free association.

The eyes of the volunteers were covered by ping-pong balls separated into halves, and shining on the eye-covers was a soft red light supposed to promote visual imagery.

After noting rapid eye movement (REM), which is associated with dreaming, the psychiatrist woke each volunteer to ask what he was dreaming about. Then he compared the dream content to previously tape-recorded conversation.

Monroe Man Is Killed

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Paul B. Webb, 60, of Monroe was killed yesterday when his car left I-94, 10 miles west of Ann Arbor, crashed through several reflector markers, struck a bridge, leaped a 30-foot creek and rolled over.

will face a serious threat, experts here agree. Repercussions could be felt throughout Asia.

FOOD SHORTAGES

Bloody rioting broke out in mid-March, ostensibly over food shortages. Before the army regained control, about 30 lives had been lost, and millions of dollars worth of property—mostly government—had been burned or otherwise destroyed. The violence was inspired by leftists, who are capitalizing on the deteriorating situation.

Even nature is working against Calcutta. The harbor, major trade link between East and West, is silted up; and the flow of fresh water into the Hooghly River is diverting into other branches of the mighty Ganges.

"Given the resources of the area, the city is faced with a hopeless task," was the grim resume of one qualified observer.

RESOURCES INSUFFICIENT

"Local resources such as tax revenue are insufficient; administrative ability is skimpy."

"There is a great upsurge of hopelessness, despair and cynicism."

"We don't have citizen good will. We have a crisis but no

Ghana Taken for Millions

ACCRA, GHANA (UPI)—Kwame (The Redeemer) Nkrumah sailed away more than $16.8 million in European banks before he was ousted as president of Ghana—but he had special expenses.

A commission was told yesterday he paid $4,200 to a witch doctor to protect him and keep him in power indefinitely.

These and other reports about the deposed president's finances were disclosed by a parade of witnesses before a special commission appointed by the military government which ousted Nkrumah Feb. 24.

Krobo Edusei, chief of protocol in the Nkrumah regime, said Nkrumah once received a commission of $2.5 million when his government bought seven airliners, and he later received $940,000 as part of a commission on eight cargo ships bought for Ghana's Black Star line.

Most of the funds were funneled into the National Development Insurance Co., which Nkrumah owned, said Edusei and Ayeche Kumi, Nkrumah's onetime economic adviser.

William Baidoo Ansaah, Ghana's former ambassador to Japan, said Nkrumah was frequently visited by witch doctor Alhaji Sekou, alias Kankan Nyame, and gave him an expensive automobile and other gifts.

S. African Whites Reelect Party With Strong Apartheid Policy

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Premier Hendrik Verwoerd's Nationalist party held a lead of more than 2 to 1 today in returns from South Africa's general election. It promised another overwhelming endorsement by the country's white voters for the party's apartheid policy of rigid racial segregation.

Returns for 121 of the 166 seats to be filled in the House of Assembly gave 84 seats to the Nationalists, 36 to the United party and one to the Progressive party.

Helen Suzman, an outspoken critic of apartheid, was the successful Progressive. She won re-

'65 Licensing Act for Builders Stalled

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney Wednesday signed into law a bill delaying the effective date of a new code for state licensing of residential builders until Sept. 1.

The 1965 licensing act was scheduled to take effect Friday. The Legislature voted for the extra five months delay as a result of problems of bonding and state administration which had developed since the law was passed last year.

Junior Editors Quiz on EYEGLASSES

QUESTION: Why do some people have to wear glasses?

ANSWER: In the little picture with the black background, you are looking at two cross sections of the human eye. The light comes into the eyeball through a lens, shown at the bottom.

Light rays from what is seen are bent toward each other by the lens and throw a bright little picture on the back of the eyeball, where there is a light sensitive area called the retina.

The picture, falling on the retina, is passed by the optic nerve into the person's brain.

If a person has a defectively-shaped eyeball, the light rays may not be able to come together sharply, or focus, on the retina.

The dotted line in the eyeball in our picture shows where the image is focusing, and you can see this is in front of the retina, not on it.

This person, therefore, will not see sharply; things will look blurred. When he puts on the right glasses, (B), he can see everything sharply.

The curving lenses have changed the direction of light rays passing into the eyeball, and the image is now focused on the retina, just where it is supposed to be.

Eyeglasses, only perfected since the 1700's, have proved to be one of man's most useful and appreciated inventions.

FOR YOU TO DO: Try this eyesight stunt. Draw a circle about an inch across on white paper and fill it with black ink or crayon. Stare at this steadily for about 30 seconds, then shift your view to an empty piece of white paper. Stare at this awhile. You will see something interesting.

election by a majority of 711 votes over her United party opponent in a Johannesburg district. Her majority in 1961 was 564.

The only member of her party in the previous Parliament, Mrs. Suzman, 49, made more than 100 major speeches charging that Verwoerd's policy of separate development for the black majority will lead to disaster for South Africa.

Only white persons voted Wednesday in the elections for another all-white Assembly to serve for five years. Persons of mixed blood (called coloreds) had already voted separately for four white persons to represent them.

There are about two million coloreds out of the total non-white population of 14,138,000. The whites number 3,335,000, and about 1.7 million were eligible to vote.

Verwoerd, who has been premier for 7 years, easily won reelection from his Heidelberg constituency in Transvaal Province with a majority of 5,516 against a United party opponent. He was unopposed in the previous election.

Under the parliamentary system, the party with the most seats forms the government and the party leader becomes premier.

In the old Parliament, which had only 160 seats, the Nationalists held 106 seats, the United party 49, the Progressives one, and four represented the coloreds.

The Nationalists have been in power for 17 years.

The Nationalists plan to create independent black states, white-controlled areas.

The United party, led by Sir de Villiers Graf, contended this would allow Communist infiltration into Parliament.

of a white-ruled South Africa through the black states. The United party called for continued white rule with limited white representation of non-whites in Parliament.

Policy Eyed on Errant Space Landings

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — What would have happened if U.S. astronauts Neil Armstrong and David Scott had made their emergency landing of their Gemini 8 spaceship in Russia instead of the Pacific Ocean?

A special committee of the United Nations has been working for three years to come up with an answer.

Austria, chairman of the U.N. Outer Space Committee, said agreement on this aspect of space travel may be reached within a year.

So far, both the United States and Russia have been able to bring their astronauts and space vehicles down in prearranged recovery areas. Gemini 8 was no exception.

But the emergency procedures Armstrong and Scott were forced to use to terminate their flight early raised the possibility of a situation in which space voyages would land in foreign and perhaps unfriendly lands.

IN AGREEMENT

Both the United States and Russia are in agreement that all states should be required immediately to help the crew of any space vehicle which might land on their territory or within their territorial waters by accident or through necessity.

They also agree that the craft should be returned to its owners "without delay," and that joint search and rescue operations should be instituted at the request of the launching nations for spacecraft that become lost.

"There has been quite a lot of agreement in this area and only a few questions of a political nature remain," said an official of the committee.

A legal subcommittee of the Outer Space Committee is expected to meet later this year to hammer out a final draft of an international convention that would cover the subjects of rescue and repatriation of spacemen and their vehicles.

DISAGREEMENT

The Austrians said disagreement exists on the following points:

- The Soviets insist that the rescue and return provisions of the agreement should apply only in cases where a space vehicle has been launched within provisions of existing international agreements controlling space exploration.

This is designed to remove any obligation to return either crews or capsules engaged in "spy missions," or in testing some secret military apparatus.

The United States disagrees. U.S. officials think this stipulation would leave the agreements open to interpretation and any country could claim it was under no obligation to assist the astronauts because of some imagined failure to comply with regulations.

ARBITRATION

- The United States would like some machinery of international arbitration in cases where disputes arise about the return of space crews and vehicles. The Soviets oppose this.

- There is disagreement between the two chief space powers on which countries should become signatories to the agreements.

This is a cold war problem. Would, for example, East Germany, which is not recognized by the United States, become a party to it?

There also is a minor legal squabble on the question of compensation for damages to property caused by crash landing spacecrafts.

The committee is expected to complete its draft of the rescue-return agreement sometime before the fall session of the U.N. General Assembly.

Pits Nostalgia vs. Logic

Demise of Opera House Near

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) — The Metropolitan Opera is a company of singers surrounded by an orchestra, dancers and a variety of production and administrative people. It is one of the best opera companies in the world and should have the best, most modern fully equipped house in which to perform.

That is the sensible view.

The Metropolitan Opera is a building just south of Times Square, where second and third act scenery is stacked outside on the sidewalk leaning against the back wall while the first act is going on, where the acoustics are wonderful, where it's nearly always too hot for audience comfort and where Caruso sang. It's a building soon to be torn down and a lot of people love it and hate to see it go.

That is the nostalgic view.

The sensible view is prevailing. On Sept. 16, the Met will open its 1966-67 season in a new $42.7-million building at Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts. It will be cooled, it will have 3,800 seats, 175 more than the Met has now, it will have storage space and rehearsal space and two orchestra pit elevators.

CONTEMPORARY LIMITS

Rudolf Bing, Met general manager since 1950, says: "It won't look like the old house at all. You cannot expect in 1966 to build a 19th century building, but it will be traditional within contemporary limits. It will have tiers of boxes, beautiful redwood, gold leafing in the ceiling, red chairs and a crystal chandelier. It will be very elegant. It will have nothing of the mixture of antiseptic hospital and airplane terminal style you see in Europe today.

"You can't tell about acoustics now — not all the chairs are in yet. But Justino Diaz and Leontyne Price — who will open the next season in Samuel Barber's new 'Antony and Cleopatra' — just sang the national anthem from the stage without accompaniment and it sounded very well."

The present house, soon to be torn down to make room for a skyscraper, opened Oct. 22, 1883, with Charles Gounod's "Faust." It cost $2 million, including the land.

The Met is selling everything it can — light fixtures, seats, even tassels from the gold curtain for $5 each. Some people are just taking things — a big heavy bust of John McCormack is missing from its pedestal. Pocket knives have gouged pieces from the faded upholstery. At least two sopranos have requested pieces of the floor.

SOLD OUT

Nostalgia will prevail on the last night of this season, April 16, at 39th St. and Broadway. The last night — sold out long ago — won't be an opera. Too many stars want to sing and each person in the audience wants to hear his favorites.

More than 50 stars will be able to say, "Oh, yes, I sang at the last night in the old house."

This is the old wooden stage where great music, and some that wasn't, has been created for 82 years;

Where the star system reigns supreme and Farrar had the last word even with Arturo Toscanini.

Lightning Usually Seen Going Up, Says Scientist

SOCORRO, N. M. (AP) — Does lightning go-up or down?

Both, says a scientist at New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology. But what you are likely to see is the lightning going up.

Dr. Walter H. Evans also said that lightning gives off the same type of light as X rays, emitted by nuclear blasts, a phenomenon which can trigger the so-called black boxes for nuclear detection.

The college's laboratory is atop a 10,640-foot mountain.

Dr. Evans said that anything such as lightning which cannot be isolated in a laboratory requires that the laboratory be moved to it.

Railroad Excursion Can Prove Nostalgic

LIVONIA, N. Y. (AP) — Railroad fans nostalgic for the old days of the steam engine can ride in a passenger coach behind a steam-powered 1920 locomotive just put back into running order by the Livonia, Avon and Lakeville Railroad.

The railroad is offering Saturday and Sunday excursion trips from Livonia to Avon, N. Y., and back over its 13-mile line.

at a departing mechanical swan pulling a raft on which he, as Lohengrin, should have been standing, and loudly inquired, "What time does the next swan leave?"

Where Russian bass Feodor Chaliapin, under cover of a language his audience didn't understand, once sang to his valet in the wings, "Go home and get me a suit of underwear." Where the great duo, Flagstad and Melchior, sang naughty stories to each other in German, performance after Wagnerian performance, and the music critics never caught on.

INCONVENIENT

However, the old house is an extremely inconvenient place in which to work. There's only one dressing room on each side of the stage so everybody except one male and one female star of the opera has to dash up and down tall flights of steep stairs to "attic" dressing rooms.

It is a house where the orchestra conductor in in the pit is chestra conductor in the pit is the side of the golden proscenium arch by an assistant conductor. The assistant conductor waves his hands in time with the conductor. He is observed from the wings by the chorus-master who waves his hands in time with the assistant conductor.

The new house will take care of those problems, and others. The present lighting system — just what can be beamed inconspicuously from the front of the chandelier — will be augmented. No longer will members of Local 1 of the Theatrical Protective Union stamp around outside throwing canvas blankets over the interior of Madame Butterfly's second-act Japanese house to protect it from a New York snowstorm and then truck her cherry tree back to a warehouse as soon as the first act is over.

By the end of this year, an estimated 3 1/4 million houses and apartments will have year-round air-conditioning units. Another 10 million buildings will be equipped with one or more room air conditioners.

War Against Hunger—3

U. S. Sets Big Task

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The United States is mobilizing for a war that may be even more critical than the one in Viet Nam — the worldwide war against hunger. This article, last of three, reports proposals now before Congress to revamp U.S. farm and foreign aid programs to help stave off mass starvation in scores of undeveloped countries.)

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — During the past 10 years, the United States has shipped more than 140 million tons of food to undeveloped countries.

In spite of this massive aid program, President Johnson said recently, "the problem of world hunger is more serious today than ever before."

Close to 2 billion people in Asia, Africa and Latin America are being subjected to what the late Mahatma Gandhi called "the eternal compulsory fast."

Moreover, population is increasing much faster than food production in undeveloped countries. If this continues, there will be mass starvation in many parts of the world within the next 10 to 15 years.

To avert this disaster, President Johnson has proposed a major shift in U.S. foreign aid and farm programs.

The new policies would be aimed at giving undeveloped countries both the incentive and the means to achieve a sharp boost in food production.

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT

In the Past, U.S. economic aid was concentrated mainly on industrial development. The undeveloped countries showed little interest in improving their primitive agricultural practices.

U.S. food aid shipments were essentially a matter of distributing the huge surpluses which had piled up in U.S. government warehouses under the domestic farm price support program.

The new "food for freedom" program now before Congress has two highly significant features:

1. To qualify for U.S. food aid in the future, a company must show that it is taking "effective measures" to increase its own agricultural output.

Since the United States cannot possibly feed the whole world, officials say, it would be cruel to encourage developing nations to depend on American handouts instead of doing the things they must do to increase their own production.

But this country can help to fill a food gap during the years when a developing nation is building up its own production.

2. U.S. food shipments abroad will be governed in the future by the needs of a hungry world rather than by the desire to get rid of our own farm "surpluses."

The surplus stocks which once seemed too vast have already dwindled in some cases to a level barely adequate for domestic reserves.

Under the administration program, the government will ask American farmers to increase their production of certain needed foods (such as milk, rice and soybeans) instead of paying them not to produce.

The legislation before Congress authorizes the Agriculture Department to buy up to $3.3 billion worth of food and fiber from American farmers each year.

Most of it would be sold to developing nations on long-term, easy credit terms.

About $800 million worth of food would be given away, through voluntary agencies or directly by the government, in countries that have suffered floods, earthquakes, droughts or other disasters, or to particularly needy individuals.

This would include the 70 million children who now are receiving American food through school lunch and family feeding programs.

Closely tied in with these food shipments are new economic aid projects aimed at enlarging agricultural output. The agency for International Development (AID) proposes to increase its outlays for this purpose by 50 per cent next year, to around $450 million.

AID Administrator David E. Bell says the money will go for such purposes as financing imports of U.S. fertilizer; construction of fertilizer plants in the undeveloped nations; establishing agricultural schools and extension services; digging wells and building irrigation systems; improving farm-to-market roads and other transportation facilities.

Court Hears 8-Pound Alibi

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Mrs. Norma Jean Knight had an eight-pound alibi when she appeared in court to answer a traffic ticket.

Mrs. Knight, 18, was charged with sideswiping a car.

"The pains kept getting worse every block," she said. "I put on my lights, sped up and started honking the horn."

Then came the accident. She wasn't hurt, but was sped to a hospital where her eight-pound baby girl was born.

He Lost His Head When Trophy Stolen

CANTON, Kan. (AP)—"Head-hunters" are running loose in this area of the Sunflower State. Larry Klinkerman of Canton reported that he had killed a large buffalo from the herd at the Maxwell game preserve and was awarded the head, as a trophy.

He put it on a post near the road close to his home for motorists to admire. Someone stole it.

AID funds also will be used to send more American agricultural specialists to undeveloped countries as technical advisers. At present, about 1,000 such technicians are serving abroad.

The United States is not the only advanced nation that is in a position to help undeveloped countries improve their farming methods. Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman points out that Canada, France, Australia, Argentina and many other countries can contribute to the worldwide war against hunger.

"If they do not have food to spare," Freeman says, "they can contribute fertilizer and other agricultural chemicals, farm machinery, or shipping. So far the contribution of the rest of the world has been limited. It is important that other well-fed nations do their part."

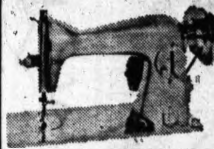

But the agriculture secretary adds that "if we are to avoid world famine, the major effort must come from the United States . . . and their is no time to lose."

It will be an expensive, long-pull task, he says. "But we can undertake it in the knowledge that never before have we had so great an opportunity to launch a program that can mean so much to so many."

Price of Quinine Soars; Shortage Said Worldwide

WASHINGTON — The price of one of man's earliest miracle drugs — quinine — has soared. The medical need in Viet Nam and a worldwide shortage have combined to skyrocket the cost.

Shortage of quinine has been traced to Indonesia. Before World War II Indonesia had 42,000 acres planted in cinchona trees. These produced 85 to 90 per cent of the world's supply of quinine.

But the groves were neglected during the Japanese occupation and Indonesia's subsequent struggle for independence. By 1959 only 14,000 acres were productive, the National Geographic Society says.

To prevent smuggling, Indonesia put an embargo on the cinchona bark from which quinine is extracted.

After World War II, research developed several synthetics to battle malaria, the dread tropical disease that quinine had long controlled so effectively. The bitter drug was abandoned as an exclusive cure.

United States troops in Viet Nam have been stricken, however, with new strains of malaria resistant to the synthetics. Thus quinine is as essential nowadays as it was in World War I and the early stages of World War II.

Quinine is also used as a traditional cold and influenza remedy. It is found in hair tonics and cooking bitters. "Tonic water," containing quinine, is a favorite warm weather beverage.

Medicine from the cinchona bark was first used to treat malaria victims in northern Peru and Ecuador about 1630. The disease, known under many names — ague, marsh fever, jungle fever — took a heavy toll of early colonists.

Impressed by quinine's curative powers, Jesuit missionaries returning from the New World introduced cinchona bark to Spain and Italy about 1641.

The drug became indispensable throughout Europe. Continuing heavy demand for quinine almost caused the destruction of all cinchona trees within reasonable reach of civilized areas.

Botanists, merchants, and national leaders became alarmed at the depletion of the valuable forests, and sought to save the cinchona tree by transplanting.

Elaborately equipped expeditions scoured the Andes for seeds and plants. A high-altitude tree, the cinchona thrives on slopes 3,000 to 9,000 feet above sea level with ample rainfall.

A supply of seeds finally was smuggled out of Peru about 100 years ago and planted on the Indonesian island of Java, when it was Dutch owned.

Steel Skeleton Is Devised to Mimic Man

Walking Vehicles Near

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) —A walking truck and a striding steel skeleton may help man explore the moon or underseas and carry heavy loads across rough, trackless ground on earth.

Both vehicles, now in the model stage at General Electric Co., will be operated as though they are extensions of the men who operate them.

General Electric has been awarded Army and Navy contracts to build prototypes of the machines at a cost exceeding a million dollars.

"The walking machines may represent a solution for the problem of moving across off-road terrain," says Ralph W. Mosher, projects engineer at GE's research and development center here.

LUNAR EXPLORATION

"The principles involved could well be adapted to extra-terrestrial exploration, such as on the moon," Mosher said in an interview.

The vehicles will be powered by internal combustion engines and will have self-regulating systems of hydraulics, similar to your automobile's power steering.

Using the power of the operator's own arms and legs, amplified by the machine, the truck or steel man will plod through swamps, up and down steep embankments, and carry heavy burdens up mountains. Or the skeleton may pull saplings up by their roots.

"The machines' arms and legs will mimic essential movements of the easily trained man in puppet like fashion," Mosher explained.

"When the man moves a foot forward, the machine will do likewise. As the man raises his foot slightly to step over a fallen tree, so will the vehicle. If the man leans over, the machine will.

"If the operator wants something lifted, he will go through grasping-lifting motions with his own hands and arms."

The operator will feel only a small proportion of the force exerted. If an object to be lifted weighs 500 pounds, the man could adjust the force ratio so that he would feel the weight of only 50 pounds.

Every movement of the machines will be reflected back to the operator. This is called "force feedback."

WOULD KNOW

Thus, the man would know the general contour of the ground beneath the metal feet or the heft of the load he is ordering lifted by the steel arms.

The 500-pound steel skeleton, called Hardi-man — its official name is Powered Exo-skeleton — will be five feet tall and the operator will be strapped to it. This Army-Navy item is designed to handle materials. It will walk as fast or as slowly as man and take whatever strides man may take.

The 1,600-pound Army truck will take up to a six-foot stride. It will have no brakes, wheels, shock absorbers, transmission or gas pedal. The truck will be 10 feet tall 10 feet long, 3½ feet wide and travel at top speed of five miles an hour with a payload of 500 pounds. The pilot model will cost $600,000.

Mosher describes the project as "master and slave linkage, with the slave carrying the heavy load, doing the bidding of the operator."

Mosher said it probably would be impossible to build a machine versatile enough by itself to travel through sand, mud, rocks, swamp or forest without knowing what was coming next.

"But a man can do this," he added. "And if you join man and machine, using the best capabilities of each — the man's brain and nervous system and the machine's great strength — then the machine can do it."

Blazing Car Saved by a Cup of Coffee

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (U) — A longtime habit of fireman Robert Pettijohn of hanging around the fire station for a cup of coffee after he went off duty was helpful to Harry Morgan.

Morgan drove up to the fire station with the motor of his 1965 car afire. The rest of the firemen were out on a call. Pettijohn quickly put out the blaze.

Pro-Peking Mood in Pakistan Again

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In Pakistan, nominal ally of the United States, the pro-Peking hawks again are flying high.

It can be taken as coincidence that at the same time the United States extended its welcome to Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi; Pakistan rolled out the red carpet

NEWSOM for Red Chinese President Liu Shao-chi and his foreign minister, Chen Yi.

Not to be taken as a coincidence are the anti-U.S. overtones of the reception in Pakistan, nor will it be overlooked in Washington that it comes only weeks after announcement of a new $50 million U.S. loan to Pakistan and the relaxation of the ban on shipment of military equipment.

It will lend weight to Mrs. Gandhi's request for resumed military aid to India, partly on the grounds that a flow of Red Chinese tanks and planes into Pakistan is placing her at a disadvantage in their smouldering quarrel over Kashmir.

The United States cut off all aid to both Pakistan and India during their war of last September, but lately permitted sale of "nonlethal" military equipment.

REVEAL LOANS

Announcement of a $50 million loan to Pakistan and $100 million to India followed a February visit to both by Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

The twists and turns of history which brought the United States to its present position between the two countries go back to 1962 with Red China's attack across India's northern borders.

India, a champion of nonalignment, turned to both the United States and the Soviet Union for military aid.

Pakistan, a nominal ally of the United States in two anti-Communist military pacts, thereupon turned more and more toward friendship with Red China.

MILITARY AID

In the years since 1954, Pakistan had received from the United States $1.5 billion in military aid, including all of her warplanes and military transport plus most of her combat tanks and artillery.

U.S. military aid to India since 1962 totaled about $75 million.

Relations between the United States and Pakistan hit bottom during last September's 30-day India-Pakistan war.

A thaw seemed to be setting in after last December's visit to Washington by Pakistan President Ayub Khan and to be continuing with Humphrey's visit to Pakistan in February.

COLD WEATHER

This week, it was apparent that cold diplomatic weather had returned.

As President Liu's triumphal procession moved through Rawalpindi streets, there were familiar sounds:

"Death to American imperialists: Long live Chinese-Pakistan friendship."

For Pakistan's anti-American foreign minister, Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, it marked a personal triumph.

FULL ADVANTAGE

Bhutto never has missed a chance to sneer at the American effort in Viet Nam, and he took full advantage of an apparent slip-up in Humphrey's public relations.

A U.S. Information Service dispatch quoted Humphrey as saying he believed that Pakistan, like India, was "fully aware of the threat of Red China."

Humphrey disclaimed the quote but not before Bhutto had jumped in with a denial and a statement Pakistan would reject aid with strings.

Bhutto, once believed on the skids, was back in the saddle.

Success Plays Main Role in Actor Kirk Douglas' Life

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — All of his life, Kirk Douglas has believed in the cult of the champion, whose only success lies in constant victory.

Lately, however, the actor confesses to having some second thoughts.

"Something happens in this quest for success. Sometimes you can lose yourself along the way," he said.

"I'd like to be able to afford the luxury of failure. You have to feel free to do what you want to do, although this is hard to attain in any field.

"But I feel most people can come pretty close to getting what they want out of life—if they are really ready to pay the price."

40 PICTURES

After acting in some 40 pictures, Kirk would like to gamble, win or lose, on becoming a screen and Broadway director.

The drive to win has been a part of his nature ever since, as the son of immigrant parents from Russia, he worked his way through college.

He became a top debater, president of the student body, and a champion intercollegiate wrestler. He chalked up only one loss.

"I really wanted to be a poet," he said. "I even went around with shirt collar open as a Byronic gesture. But I gave it up — I couldn't stand my own poetry."

After slinging hash part-time here and appearing in several Broadway plays. He did a war-time Navy hitch, then went to Hollywood and quickly became a star.

GREATEST CITY

"To me, New York is the greatest city in the world because it has a kind of frightening power, an indifference to everybody except the winner that makes it awesome," Kirk said.

"From my youth I also remember the throb of it, your ability to get lost in it."

Kurick also remembers as a chief turning point in his life—an English class taught by Louise Livingstone at the high school in Amsterdam, N. Y.

"She exposed me to things I had never known—poetry and plays. I came from a tough part of town. She convinced me I should get an education.

KEEP IN TOUCH

"She's still living. We've kept in touch through the years.

Here are a few of the things Kirk Douglas likes:

"Excellence, the ballet grace of pro athletes, being alone and surrounded by music, peasant food of almost any country but particularly plain spaghetti with butter; yellow, because it's supposed to be the color of friendship; contrasts, such as sunny and rainy days; big storms, because they make me think there's somebody up there really running things; the feeling of cleanliness, walking at night, swimming, hitting a long ball off the tee, reaching for something out of reach, seeing the American flag wave in a breeze."

These are his dislikes: "Mediocrity in myself or anybody else, the taste of turnips; exercise, which I do as a form of penance; critics, because they can make me feel so good or so lousy; shopping, double-breasted suits, pompous people, and those who think patriotism is corny."

"I also hate doing homework for my kids. To me, making a new movie is easier than solving problems in the new math. There life has rumbled on by me."

The 671 Tree Farms in the state of Maine, together with the rest of the forest industry-owned woodlands, provide jobs for 30,000 persons and an annual payroll of $154 million.

Britons Victims of Russian Plot

By TOM A. CULLEN
LONDON (NEA) — In Moscow, a London schoolmaster is being tortured by starvation in a Soviet prison as part of a complicated cold war plot.

In London, a member of Parliament is being smeared as a "moral leper" in a scurrilous leaflet which the Russians are stuffing into letterboxes.

The connecting link between these two seemingly isolated events is the K.G.B., the Soviet intelligence service, which has grown bolder in its operations in recent months.

That torture, blackmail and poison pen letters were standard weapons in the K.G.B. arsenal has long been known here.

What is new is that they are being used with impunity against innocent British subjects.

SCHOOL TEACHER
Take Gerald Brooke, the 27-year-old London schoolteacher who was arrested while on holiday in Moscow last Easter, and sentenced to five years for "anti-Soviet activities."

When his wife Barbara visited him recently at Moscow's Lubyanka prison, she hardly recognized him, he had become so emaciated.

His prison diet, he told her, consists mainly of fishheads, bread and gruel, with very little meat or fruit.

As a result, he has lost over 28 pounds and his clothes now hang loosely on him. Moreover, he has developed colitis, a stomach complaint, and is receiving injections for low blood pressure.

Why are the Russians deliberately starving him? Because they hope to swap him for Peter and Helen Kroger (alias Cohen), the American master spies whom the British have locked up for 20 years for their part in the Portland naval spy ring.

The Russians calculated that, as Brooke's health worsens, the British will be willing to exchange the Krogers for him on "humanitarian" grounds.

That pattern is a familiar one. In 1964, the Russians reduced the food rations of Grenville Wynne, the British businessman whom the Soviets had convicted as a spy courier.

POOR HEALTH
They allowed Wynne's health to deteriorate until the British agreed to exchange Gordon Lonsdale, the Soviet master spy, for him. Wynne is still recovering from this ordeal.

The K.G.B.'s efforts at blackmail are directed not only at governments, but at individuals as well, as is evident from the case of Commander Anthony Courtney, Conservative member of Parliament for Harrow.

Since last August, Courtney, 57, has been the victim of a smear campaign quite obviously directed by remote control from Moscow.

Specifically, the mails have been flooded by a scurrilous leaflet with a photograph of Courtney and a woman taken in a Moscow hotel room.

MORAL CHARGE
Why are the Russians trying to destroy Courtney's moral reputation? The fact that after the war Commander Courtney headed the Russian Section of Naval Intelligence may have something to do with it.

More important, following his election in 1959 as Member of Parliament for Harrow, Courtney became a parliamentary expert on security affairs.

Last July, he tabled a motion in the House of Commons attacking the "habitual abuse of diplomatic privilege for espionage purposes" by the Russian and other Iron Curtain embassies.

It is small wonder, therefore, that the K.G.B. wants to eliminate him as a political opponent. What alarms many Britons is that the smear campaign nearly succeeded. Courtney's colleagues in the House of Commons, fearful that scandal might rub off on them, were slow in coming to the commander's aid.

The business which Courtney had built up as export consultant to firms dealing behind the Iron Curtain now lies in ruins, and he has been forced to close his Vienna office.

Thanks to the poison pen campaign, his parliamentary career came near to being wrecked, as did his marriage. His wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Courtney, filed suit for divorce in August.

However, the former naval intelligence officer is now slowly making a comeback. For one thing, his wife has withdrawn the divorce proceedings.

For another, Courtney has just been given an overwhelming vote of confidence by Harrow Conservatives at a general membership meeting.

Trading Slackens

Market Recovers Moderately

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market recovered moderately early this afternoon but trading slackened considerably. First-hour volume was a million shares less than yesterday's.

Wall Street seemed to be getting accustomed to President Johnson's frequent references to the possibility of a tax increase and some analysts said that the market's decline has already discounted.

Blue chips and glamour stocks made good recoveries.

RAIL STOCKS

Stalls shrugged off the news of a strike against eight major 922.43.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.87 at 922.43.

Chrysler also rose about a point and Ford a fraction as the Big Three auto stocks made their best showing in some time.

Prices rose in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Solitron Devices rose 12 points and its when-issued 7. Alcoa Unlimited gained 4. Williams Brothers, National Video and Statham Instruments 3 each, Baker Industries 2. Gain of a point or better were made by Walter Kidde, R. Hoe & Co., Conduction, Syntex, Flying Co., California Computer, Filmways and Atlas Consolidated Mining.

Corporate bonds were generally lower. U.S. Treasury bonds were unchanged.

Klan Wizard Gives Self Up

Sought in Connection With Negro's Death

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP)—Imperial Wizard Sam Hollie Bowers Jr., of the Mississippi white knights of the Ku Klux Klan, surrendered today to face charges growing out of the firebombing of a Negro civil rights leader.

Bowers, 41-year-old Laurel, lauded machine operator, had been sought since Monday when 13 others, identified by the FBI as klan members, were arrested on federal charges of violating the rights of the civil rights leader, Vernon Dahmer, who died after the firebombing of his home near here in January.

Bowers, accompanied by his attorneys, surrendered to State Highway Patrol Inspector Ernie Ray at a patrol district substation here.

NEW YORK — The nation's economy grew bigger—but not always better—in the first quarter of 1966. Records tumbled in almost all sectors. Often, the growth in the three months ending today was more than the most optimistic dream at the start of the year.

Personal income came total soaring—but so did the cost of living.

Corporate profits added more muscle—but so did the threat of a return to higher income taxes.

Employment rose faster than expected at this time of year—but labor shortages in some industries and more overtime pay in others sent production costs up and added pressure for price increases.

SPENT MORE

Consumers and business firms spent more than ever and planned still larger outlays—but this helped push up the cost of borrowing, whether for a car, a new home, or a new factory.

The Gross National Product, spurred to an annual rate of about $712 billion in the January-March quarter from $697-billion rate in the final three months of 1965—but as this measure of the total output of goods and services picked up speed, so did the clamor for the brakes.

Merchants saw their sales mount in January to a record $25 billion, up 1 per cent from the whopping December figure.

And the final weeks of March foreshadowed record Easter retail sales.

Construction spending at $75 billion for the year was running

Fulbright: Hearing Spurred U.S. on China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright said today hearings by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which he heads may have provided "a first step toward developing a rational policy" toward Red China.

The Arkansas Democrat told a reporter that free and frank testimony by experts on Asia "has removed the taboo" on discussion of the China issue.

If the administration should decide ultimately to recognize the Peking regime and drop its opposition to its admission to the United Nations, he said, the preponderance of the testimony was unusually clear of ice.

"would give it a little more leeway" in which to operate. A majority of the witnesses urged a policy of continued military containment around the periphery of China, combined with efforts to draw Peking into the United Nations and other international groups.

Seaway Opens Friday, Earliest Starting Date

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP) — The St. Lawrence Seaway opens its eighth full season Friday — the earliest starting date in the history of the inland waterway. Officials said the waterway was unusually clear of ice.

Fulbright voiced his views following the conclusion Wednesday of the committee's initial hearings on China. There is no indication when further hearings will be held. Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said in a separate interview he agreed the hearings have done some good in making the American people "realize there is a Red China of some 700 million people." But he added he doubted they would change the sharp division within the committee over recognition of the Peking regime.

Aiken said the main problem is "how are you going to recognize Red China when Red China doesn't want to recognize us." Aiken said should Red China want to comply with the requirements of United Nations membership and engage in legitimate trade, he would go along with its admission. "But we could not abandon Formosa, as Peking seems to be insisting, to meet China's price for better relations," Aiken said. "It would be a black mark against us if we went back on them."

Standard time zones were adopted in the U.S. in 1883.

Big Viet Battle Looming Close to Cambodia

2 Brigades of Yanks Challenge Large Red Force Across Frontier

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two brigades of U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division ranged over the rugged hills on the Cambodian frontier today, challenging a large North Vietnamese force across the border to battle.

U.S. officers said a major fight may be in the making on the scale of the 1st Cavalry's nine-day stand last fall in the Ia Drang Valley only a few miles away.

One report said two more helicopters were last in new fighting this morning, bringing the number downed by the Communists to six. There was no confirmation of this in Saigon, however.

The fighting in the highlands came in the midst of new anti-government demonstrations in Saigon, Da Nang and Hue with more anti-American overtones.

The U.S. military command announced a tripling of enemy casualties last week and a lesser rise in U.S., Vietnamese and other allied losses.

50-MAN UNIT

The 1st Cavalry troops in the highlands spotted Communist elements at noon yesterday.

A 50-man unit flew by helicopter into the wooded mountains 13 miles west of the enemy encampment at Plei Me to take the enemy on.

The battle raged heavily and a full company was called in to help. Then a second company joined in. Four helicopters were shot down.

Flashes

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today launched an apparently unmanned rocket in an attempt to put an artificial satellite in near orbit around the moon, Tass reported.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today the economy "is not shooting off into outer space" but if inflation gets rolling, he won't hesitate to ask for a tax hike or other fiscal restraints — "election year notwithstanding."

SPRING SHORT-CIRCUITED—Mary Mawhorter of 4119 Quillan, Waterford Township, was dressed to suit the calendar but not the weather when she went downtown yesterday. Visibility was reduced to zero when frequent snow squalls came and went through the Pontiac area during the afternoon.

Suits Filed in County Over Outbreak of TB

Eleven lawsuits were filed yesterday in Oakland County Circuit Court asking a total of $2.2 million in damages as a result of a tuberculosis epidemic in a Garden City nursery earlier this year.

A Farmington Township hospital was named among the defendants.

The suits followed two earlier court actions in which a total of $325,000 in damages was sought. These suits are pending.

Attorney Gilbert Metry of Detroit brought yesterday's suits in behalf of 11 Wayne County children alleged to have been infected with TB, and their parents.

The suits, each asking $200,000 damages, charge negligence to four defendants. The suits ask $150,000 damages for each child and $50,000 damages to the parents in each instance.

Named defendants were Mrs. Marie Gaylord, operator of Hansel & Gretel nursery of suburban Garden City; Ziegler Osteopathic Hospital of Detroit, operator of Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Township; Dr. John E. Paver, identified as physician to a nursery woman employee to whom the disease was traced; and Dr. Leo Sheiner, radiologist at Botsford General.

Seventeen children were hospitalized after an outbreak of TB at the nursery.

He indicated that Health Director Dr. Bernard D. Berman may state the health department's position when he returns from Lansing late today. Owners of the four businesses damaged by fire Jan. 31 had been using cesspool for sewage disposal.

Blend of Showers, Flurries Is Forecast

Showers mixed with snow flurries forecast for tonight are expected to end early tomorrow but the showers will make a return visit during the afternoon.

Temperatures with lows of 28 to 35 tonight will aim for highs of 46 to 52 tomorrow.

According to the weatherman there's a chance of showers or snow flurries Saturday.

Twenty-four was the recording in downtown Pontiac at 7 a.m. today. The mercury had climbed to 42 by 1 p.m.

City Plants Affected; Travel Cut

Curtailed production at two local auto plants and no commuter rail service were the immediate effects of the railroad strike that halted traffic today on the Grand Trunk Western Railroad.

First-shift production workers at the Pontiac Motor Division and the Fisher Body plants were sent home shortly after 10 a.m.

Production workers on second shift were also expected to work only four hours.

A total of 19,200 production employees at Pontiac Motor and Fisher Body were to work abbreviated shifts.

GMC Truck & Coach Division appeared to have adequate supplies to continue "at this time," according to a spokesman.

LOCAL EFFECT

A lengthy rail strike was expected to cripple local industries receiving materials and supplies by rail, although shipping was to be carried out by shifting to highway carriers.

Train No. 22, which picks up commuters in Pontiac, Birmingham and points south on its way from Chicago to Detroit, was the last today to travel late rail.

All passenger and freight trains of the Grand Trunk Western Railroad were idled by the strike against eight major railroads.

Commuters to Detroit were hard-hit by the halt of railroad transportation.

LAST TRAIN

Grand Trunk spokesman Hugh MacLeod said an extra half-dozen cars were added to Train No. 22, the last train to run from Pontiac to Detroit this morning.

Two other trains normally serving Detroit-bound commuters were not in operation, MacLeod said.

Although assembly and manufacturing operations at Pontiac Motor were curtailed, some departments were fully operating, including offices, the foundry, parts warehouse and a few special departments.

Recall announcements will be made over local radio and area newspapers, a Pontiac Motor spokesman said.

8,000 Leave Jobs; Walkout Is a Surprise

Shutdown Believed 100 Pct. Effective; Includes Grand Trunk

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Nearly 8,000 firemen struck early today on eight major railroads including Grand Trunk Western, and within nine hours one carrier shut down and another said there was "not a train running."

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen headquarters here announced at 9 a.m. that its first check showed the strike "100 per cent effective" and that "there has been no question of the other crafts honoring our lines."

The Missouri Pacific Railroad said at St. Louis it was shutting down its 12-state, 12,000-mile operation. A spokesman said the strike "would have a serious effect on national defense."

In Omaha a spokesman for Union Pacific Railroad, the nation's largest, said it had "not a train running," and that 70 trains were idle between the Missouri River and Ogden, Utah.

The Union Pacific employs 1,626 firemen and MOPAC 1,177, the BLF&E said. The brotherhood listed the other lines struck, with number of firemen union members employed as:

Pennsylvania Railroad 3,619; Illinois Central 557; Central of Georgia 76; Seaboard Airline 465; Grand Trunk Western 164; and Boston & Maine 188.

Transit authorities in both places made arrangements for emergency service with extra buses to affected areas.

H. E. Gilbert, president of the operating rail union, called the strike "authorized and legal and in keeping with our rights under the Railway Labor Act."

But the chief negotiator for the railroad industry, J. E. Wolfe, said in New York the strike was "completely illegal" and he would seek an injunction in Federal District Court in Washington immediately to halt it. Wolfe flew to Washington early today.

Gilbert said the basic issue of the walkout was the railroad industry's "using the courts for delay and an outright refusal to meet any issue, including a training program for firemen, at the bargaining table."

Heath said any training program for firemen would be mainly as apprentice engineers and therefore in the jurisdiction of his engineers' union, not Gilbert's firemen.

Lack of Area Planning Cited

UF Survey Unveiled

By L. GARY THORNE

Long-term planning was cited as the big need in an inventory of Pontiac Area United Fund health, welfare and youth-serving agencies unveiled today.

A lengthy list of hard-hitting recommendations, some potentially controversial, were offered by Prof. Russell W. Leedy in his findings after a comprehensive six-month survey begun last June.

Leedy, visiting professor of social work, Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C., presented the completed report to the 19-member survey committee at an 8 a.m. breakfast meeting.

Charged with studying Leedy's recommendations, the survey committee is headed by William B. Hartman, chairman.

Leedy was assisted in his analysis by a team of consultants from a variety of fields of study.

Hartman commented that the report "is presented only for what it is — an analysis from an outside, independent viewpoint — not as the final untimely opinion of the committee."

The $15,000 study attempted to isolate instances of overlapping, duplication, program gaps, unmet needs and offer recommendations to solve such problems.

Emphasizing that the survey was not intended to be a one-shot affair, Leedy told the committee that the process of planning and adjustment of agency services must be a continuing one.

Hartman said it was understood that some of the recommendations warranted further study. He added: "Any adoption or implementation of the recommendations will be the responsibility of the local community or of the agencies themselves if they deem it appropriate."

Leedy's survey of public and private health, welfare and youth services resulted in recommendations for program changes, modifications and, in some instances, eliminations.

The Leedy survey examined not only the United Fund itself, but also the 46 major agencies providing the bulk of community services to the Pontiac area.

Excluded from the survey were the extracurricular pro-

Recommendation List

Here, in capsule form, are specific recommendations aimed at individual groups or agencies in the Leedy Survey of Health, Welfare and Youth Services in the Pontiac area:

- Steps to merge the County Department of Social Welfare and the Bureau of Social Aid should be continued.
- There should be clarification of the function and program of the Oakland Child Guidance Clinic (North Oakland).

• Child welfare services provided by the Oakland County Branch of the Michigan Children's Aid Society should be modified. If this is not done, the survey recommends Pontiac Area United Fund monies be shifted to Family Service of Oakland County toward development of appropriate services.

• Big Brothers of Oakland County, Inc., should be given low priority by the Pontiac Area United Fund in terms of its present program until various recommended studies are carried out.

SALVATION ARMY

• The Salvation Army Citadel Corps should investigate providing suitable living units for emergency shelter.

• The city's Youth Assistance Department should, if it is to serve a referral function, handle a larger volume of cases.

• There is an overemphasis on recreation services for boys in the Pontiac UF area, there is not enough flexibility in recreation programs and less-populated townships lack recreation services.

• There is a great need for community parks in Waterford Township.

COOPERATIVE ARRANGEMENT

• Townships in proximity to the city should seek a cooperative arrangement with the Pontiac Department of Parks and Recreation.

• UF financial support of limited recreation programs is not appropriate.

• The Boys' Club of Waterford Township should suspend operations to enable the community to give support to other agencies.

• The Northern Oakland Girl Scout Council did not participate in the survey. This was deplored by Leedy.

HEALTH SERVICES

• High priority should be given to development of community health services. The lack of full participation in the survey by the National Foundation, Oakland County Chapter and the Oakland County Society for Crippled Children and Adults was cited by Leedy.

• The Pontiac Area Urban League is overinvolved in service to specific individuals and neither wants to, nor should serve as principal spokesman for area Negroes.

• There is a need for research by the UF, and annual goals have not been fixed on the basis of needs established through the budgeting process.

• There appears to be no need for the continued operation of the Community Chest of Pontiac.

Some of the changes called for by the Leedy survey have already been implemented or are in the process of being implemented.

AP Book Souvenir of '65

Bronson Fires Aide-Hopeful

Dismissal Follows
Entrance in Race

Asst. Prosecutor Walter D. Schmier was fired yesterday after announcing he had entered the circuit judge race.

His boss, Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson, is also a candidate.

Schmier, given an hour's notice of his noon dismissal, said he had no ill feelings about the move.

"I'm sorry things worked out the way they did," said Schmier, "but Jerry just feels this will detract from him."

Bronson said the conflict was too great.

AIDES' DUTIES

"The men are here to serve the public, law enforcement and Jerry Bronson," said Bronson, "and surely they can't help by campaigning against me."

Bronson said he had given Schmier, a member of the staff since Bronson took office in January 1965, a choice of either resigning or taking a leave of absence.

Schmier, 58, of 8577 Hendrie, Huntington Woods, said that he had turned down the offer.

"I don't need the job," he explained, "but I enjoy my work and I didn't want to leave."

CORPORATION EXEC

Before joining the staff, Schmier was president of the National Mortgage Corp. in Detroit.

Bronson termed his dismissal of Schmier as "distasteful."

"It would have been needless and unnecessary if Walter had quit or left the office on leave," said Bronson.

The prosecutor said he had outlined a policy in December to members of his staff about running for political office.

NO-COUNTY POST

"I told them at the time that they could run for their school boards or local office, but that they could not run for any county-wide position."

Bronson and Schmier are among 10 announced candidates seeking two—and possibly three—vacancies on the bench this fall.

While Bronson has announced his intention, it is still uncertain if he is eligible because a state law prohibits an elected official involved in a grand jury to run for any other office than the one he is holding.

Bronson, who is taking part in the Royal Oak Township investigation, has challenged the constitutionality of the statute in a suit filed in Oakland County Circuit Court.

award presented annually to the Negro businessman making the most progress in the promotion of community and race relations in the State of Michigan. Frayer is at the right. The award was made at the state NAACP conference in Lansing yesterday.

Strike Vote Date Set at GMC Truck

A strike vote has been set for April 13 at UAW Local 594, GMC Truck & Coach Division.

The action was taken last night after a wildcat strike yesterday morning idled about 7,000 hourly workers, temporarily halting production.

Production was back to normal today. Workers returned after a day-long meeting between labor and management officials yesterday in an effort to settle the dispute.

The meeting broke up at 4:30 p.m. and workers were reportedly back at their jobs by 5. No settlement was reached and further meetings are slated today and tomorrow.

Robert White, president of the local, said about 550 issues are at stake. Chief among them are alleged speed-ups, health hazards, and work standards.

SKILLED WORKERS

Involved are the skilled workers, who have shown signs of unrest for some time. White said.

"Machinery is now in action to resolve the issues, but unless the company makes some adjustments between now and a week from Wednesday, the strike vote will be taken," White concluded.

Division officials refused to comment.

COMMENT OFFERED

Offering provocative comment on some specific programs or organizations, Leedy singled out "planning" as the top need.

"There is not now, nor has there been, effective planning of the community social services," Leedy said in his report.

Leedy noted that steps are under way to develop a planning program.

Urging a vigorous and influential planning program, the survey director said the planning should not be autocratic, but should be strong and persistent.

NEW AGENCIES

He said there has been an over-emphasis on development of new agencies, rather than upgrading and adjusting existing services to changing needs.

ing money and other resources too thinly and in the existence of duplicative and competitive services," said Leedy.

City the major lack of research, the college professor said in the planning and developing of services and testing their effectiveness.

"Decisions have been based too much on prestige and influence of sponsors, intuition, accident and personal preference."

SMALL COST

Also on UF operations, Leedy reported that the $79,528 budgeted last year as administration costs was "modest" and could be increased.

He said the amount budgeted represented 9 percent of the funds raised in the UF campaign.

If desired research and planning were carried out, it would not be uncommon for administration costs to reach 12 percent, he said.

Related to the "more planning"

Leedy's report is a second over-all suggestion for future UF operations here.

DIVIDED SERVICE

Leedy said fund raising, budgeting and planning of community welfare services had been a "house divided" in the Metropolitan Detroit area.

He said some of those interviewed during the survey indicated the Pontiac area will be merged with the Metropolitan complex within 25 years or sooner.

FUND APPEALS

Thus, UF planning should be done, if at all possible, on a countywide basis with a close link to Metropolitan operations.

Pontiac and the six townships served by the Pontiac Area United Fund do not constitute a "natural community," according to Leedy. He said seven area UF agencies serve all of Oakland County.

In still another over-all observation, the Leedy report recommended regulation of public fund raising appeals. Local cities and townships can do this through their police powers.

Unmet needs outlined in the survey included special programing to serve older persons, emergency housing for low income persons, improved care through neighborhood facilities for those with special needs and problems—emotionally disturbed, mentally retarded and ill and handicapped persons.

Also, sheltered workshop opportunities and improved services for the treatment of persons suffering from alcoholism were cited as unmet needs.

Cited as a notable deficiency outside of Pontiac and Waterford Township was the almost complete lack of government-operated recreation programs.

Leedy told members of the survey committee that as northern Oakland County became increasingly urban, problems would probably increase.

The survey director said the problems of the future will not be poverty or physical suffering, but problems of the mind, the spirit and social relationships.

"These are the things we must get ready to cope with," he added.

Leedy concluded by pointing out that his recommendations were not self-implementing.

MILO J. CROSS

Bank Chief Chairman of Building Unit

Milo Cross, president of Pontiac State Bank, yesterday was named chairman of Oakland County's newly established 3-member building authority.

Robert M. Critchfield, former GM vice president, will serve as vice chairman, and Harry L. Lapham, assistant vice president of National Bank of Detroit, was named secretary-treasurer.

The building authority held its organizational meeting yesterday with members of the County Board of Auditors and Corporation Counsel Robert Allen.

Besides reviewing the function of the authority and regulations governing it, the second Tuesday of each month was established as a regular meeting date.

The building authority was authorized by the County Board of Supervisors Feb. 8 to govern financing of future county construction projects.

Its three members were appointed by the board of supervisors two weeks ago.

Board Announces Start of Sign-Up for Activities

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The both brush-up and advanced, board of education has announced that registration for the spring session of adult and youth activities and classes is now under way.

Registration is open to all local residents, and the deadline has been set for the second night of classes.

Included in the list of adult activities beginning next week of April 18 are dog obedience, first aid, folk-singing, golf, interior decoration, language, typing and simlastics and sports.

Dog obedience will be a nine-week course for dogs over six months old. The classes will be held at the high school gym, novice class, 7-8 p.m. and advanced class, 8-9 p.m., each Monday.

The first adult classes will follow the American Red Cross program and will be held at the high school each Tuesday, beginning April 19, from 7:30-9:30 p.m.

USE OF GUITAR

Folk-singing will be a six-week course featuring use of the guitar and five-string banjo. Classes will be at the high school each Tuesday from 8-10 p.m.

The golfing classes will be held in the high school gymnasium each Wednesday beginning April 20, from 8-9 and 9-10 p.m. The final two weeks of the six-week course will be held outdoors at Carl's Golf.

Interior decoration begins April 19 and meets each Tuesday from 7:30-9:30 p.m. at the high school for six weeks.

Conversational Spanish will be taught at the high school each Tuesday from 7:30-9:30 p.m. It is a six-week course.

The typing class, including

Area Legislator Will Run Again

State Rep. Raymond L. Baker, R-Farmington, announced today he will seek reelection.

Baker represents the 64th District, which includes the cities of Farmington and Lathrup Village and that part of Southfield which lies west of Lathrup and north of 12 Mile Road, plus Farmington and West Bloomfield townships.

Serving his third term, Baker is a member of the judiciary, liquor, insurance and metropolitan affairs committees.

He is a registered pharmacist and a former owner of a drug store. Since his retirement from that profession, Baker has devoted full time to his elected office.

Baker had been an active GOP worker, having served in the county executive committee and as a legislative liaison with the Republican State Central Committee.

He and his wife, June, are the parents of four grown children.

The typing class, including

Deprive Sons of Adult Male Standards

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
It's an exclusive, exuberant community on New York's Long Island with wide lawns, station wagons, golf courses, tennis courts — and delinquent boys ranging in ages from 13 to 17. One of them, 14, under group treatment for his "antisocial" behavior became so unruly, so brutal and defiant that the therapist arranged to see him in private session where the child was asked to explain his outrageous conduct.

Leaning forward, the boy said, "Why the hell didn't you tell me to quit acting up? Why didn't you say 'Stop that!' to me? That's all I want from you."

"Does your father ever say 'Stop that!' to you?" asked the therapist.

"No," said the boy. "He never stops me. When he was my age, he had a ball, too."

This story was included in a report on his work to the annual meeting of the American Group

Psychotherapy Association by therapist Norman Epstein. He made the point that the "pal" fathers of these boys had not only deprived their sons of adult male standards but had actually encouraged delinquency by competitive boasting about their own youthful defiance and their current triumphs in beating The Other Fellow to it in business deals.

"As to the mothers of the boys," said Epstein, "They were usually seen by their children as all-dominating ogres."

What is what women get for trying to be the "man of the house" when there isn't one in the house? Under these circumstances, we "all-dominating ogres" feel obliged to think:

"Oh well, as what I have here is a roistering prep school dormitory instead of a home, I better speak up in behalf of law and order. I guess it's up to me. So I will be the 'man of the house' in the absence of a real one in the hope that I can keep this house together long enough to see the kids through to college without serving jail terms."

I'm not a bit sure it's a wise decision. If our effort to turn ourselves into the "man of the house" ends only in our children's contempt for us all-dominating ogres, then the kids are given two parental contempt to deal with: contempt for us and contempt for fathers who can't say "Stop that!"

Polly's Pointers

Make This Board

DEAR POLLY — I wanted a bulletin board for such a long time and finally thought up a way I could make one myself. I know how to sew so I took some leftover homespun material and made a window shade. It is not a real one but just looks like one.

I hemmed all the raw edges and sewed fringe across the bottom. The top seam has a stick of wood slipped through it so the fabric hangs straight. A string was tied at the top so it could hang on a hook. A window shade pull was put at the bottom. Articles, papers and so on may be pinned to the "shade" which can be made out of material that goes with a room's color scheme.—PAULA stitching several times, I started to cut out EVERY pattern with my pinky shears. This eliminates frayed material and, after the garment is finished, the seams do not have to be pinned.—BETTYE

DEAR POLLY — Wash the bottoms of toddlers' shoes before having their pictures made and they will look much nicer in the finished prints.—PEGGY

GIRLS—I had never thought of that before but the soles of toddlers' shoes usually do show in photographs.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — The Pointers are the first thing I read in the paper. Mothers, did you know that when the elastic gives way in your half-slips you can make pretty slips for your little girls? Remove the old elastic, fold the slip through the middle and cut out the neck and armholes. Their size will depend on the size of the child. Trim the armholes and neckline with narrow lace and you have a very pretty slip.—FLOSSIE

DEAR POLLY — I use different sizes of hair rollers when I set my own hair. I had an extra set of kitchen canisters and found that they made excellent containers for rollers. I separated the rollers as to size and then put the different sizes in different canisters. This works wonders when I am struggling with wet hair as I can now reach for the proper size without groping around.—MRS. G. R.

DEAR POLLY — I polish my stainless steel stove and sink with an old nylon stocking and find it does a wonderful job.—AGNES

Coaches in Agreement

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of articles in which Press sportswriters will size up league races among the area high school baseball teams.)

The baseball coaches in the Inter-Lakes League have found a subject on which they all agree: Pontiac Northern should win the loop championship.

Winning is nothing new for the PNH Huskies. They captured the title last year with a 5-1 record and went on to post a 15-3 mark.

Looking over the rest of the league, Walled Lake is expected to be so at the start, with Waterford and Farmington strictly in the rebuilding stage.

A newcomer to the league—Livonia Stevenson—will field a team of sophomores, a squad that'll be a surprise if it finishes anywhere but last.

There are a lot of good reasons why the coaches like PNH's chances.

BIG REASON

The biggest reason is pitcher Larry Frye, a 64, 210-pound right-hander who posted a 3-1 record last year and batted .310.

PNH coach Arnie Wilson can stock the batting order with some potent hitters, who along with the pitching of Frye, make the Huskies a formidable baseball force.

Among the 11 lettermen on the PNH nine are Keith Deaton, a first baseman who batted .400 last year, and shortstop Tony Delarosa, a junior who posted a .450 mark with the stick last year.

Senior catcher Tom Myers batted an even .500 and junior Art Jackson (pitcher-third base) and senior Ken Mazur (outfield) batted .300.

NEW COACH

Waterford, 6-12 last year, has only four veterans returning, so new coach Boyd M. Thomason has his work cut out for him.

Returning are Gary Western and Larry St. Dennis, both outfielders, along with second sacker Dave Roemsky and shortstop Joe Durso.

So, Thomason is going to have to come up with some pitching, along with infield and outfield help.

On the brighter side for Thomason is last year's junior varsity team that posted a 12-4 record. He'll get a few of those players.

Among the newcomers is Ron Moore, a senior who can pitch

FILL GAPS

Others Thomason is counting on to fill some of the holes are Bill Hill (pitcher-third base), Dennis Galbraith (catcher) and Bob Aldrich (outfield).

Farmington has one of the county's top players back in Wayne Johnston, an All-County selection last year.

Johnston, a pitcher and infielder, batted .357 last season and coach Bill Mistle is counting on the big guy to give the team a lift in '66.

Farmington also has a mound problem, which the team'll have to correct if it hopes to be a contender.

Mistle is also counting on second baseman Rick Perry to supply some hitting power. Other returnees include Doug LeFevre (outfield) and pitcher Mike Thompson, a southpaw junior, who can "really hum the ball" according to Mistle.

A TRANSFER

Among the newcomers is Ed Rice, an infielder, who transferred from Detroit Cooley where he made the varsity as a sophomore and batted over .300 last year.

Walled Lake coach Al Roepke is faced with a number of question marks as he and the Vikings prepare for the '66 season.

NEED PITCHING

The big one, of course, for Roepke is pitching.

"If you have a good pitcher and catcher, you're in good shape," says Roepke.

He has the catcher in senior Fred Ferguson, a solid defensive standout who batted .200 last season.

Now, Roepke is looking for pitchers.

The only one with any experience back from last year is Stan Tuckwell, a senior who posted a 1-1 mark.

Defensively, the Vikings should be okay. In the hitting department, they have shortstop Terry Lehman who stroked the ball at a .400 pace last year.

TOP PITCHER — How well Pontiac Northern does in the Inter-Lakes League baseball race this season will depend, to a great deal, on how well Larry Frye performs. Frye, a 64 right-hander, is rated the top pitcher in the league, and his presence makes the Huskies the team to beat in the loop race.

Team Tryout Scheduled by M. G. Collision '9'

Players interested in trying for a spot on the M. G. Collision Class A baseball team are invited to attend a practice session Saturday at 4 p. m. on the Pontiac Northern High School field.

Team manager Truman Lamphere said all newcomers should bring gloves and spikes and report to him on arrival at the field.

Spartan Nine Breaks Even

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Mike Martin rapped a single to cap a four-run, fifth inning rally as Florida State improved its record to 5-4 in the second game of a college baseball doubleheader Wednesday.

The Spartans beat Rutgers 7-6 in the opener and now stand 5-7-1 for the spring season.

Bob Speer, who had three hits in the second game, a two-run double in the ninth inning of the opener to drive in the tying and winning runs, Bob Biedenbach hit a homer in the first game along with two other hits and batted out a triple in the nightcap.

PRIMING THE PITCHER — Pontiac Northern baseball coach Arnie Wilson puts a little ammunition into the pitching machine which the Huskies are using for indoor batting practice in the PNH gym. The Huskies, defending champions in the Inter-Lakes League, are expected to get a jump on the other loop teams by sharpening their batting eyes off the slants of the iron pitcher.

Wings Recall Wins 1, Loses 2 Five Players 'M' Belted in 'Triple' Bill

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings have recalled five players from their Memphis farm club in the Central Professional Hockey League to place on their Stanley Cup play-off roster. They include Doug Roberts, former Michigan State player, Jimmy Peters Jr., Irv Spencer, Bryan Campbell and Warren Godfrey.

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP)—Michigan by scores of 10-6 and 3-2. Reggie Jackson's tape-measure three-run homer and four RBIs powered the Sun Devils in the first game.

In the nightcap, ASU pitcher Ted Robinson had Michigan bled until two were out in the ninth inning. Chan Simonds' triple produced two runs, but he was thrown out while trying to score.

Ready for Fire, Police Work

Farmington Safety Unit on Alert

CHIEF FOLTZ
By PHIL LORANGER

FARMINGTON — Night has long ago dropped its quilt of darkness on the sleeping city. The still night air hangs fresh and quiet except for the sound of a patrol car moving slowly down the streets.

By day and by night, the 23 member staff of the city's Department of Public Safety is on the alert for any situation detrimental to the safety and well-being of local residents. A patrol car roaming the city streets is only one of the many examples of public protection guaranteed by Farmington's efficient safety officials.

Chief Maurice D. Foltz, 38, director of the Department of Public Safety, is head of an organization whose members perform not only the duties of policemen but also carry out the functions of firemen.

Foltz points out that no division exists between fire and police work in the department. Members are not classified as policemen or firemen but are called public safety officers.

"We are able to respond to any call, fire or police," said Foltz. "The officers are trained for any emergency."

SERIES OF TESTS

The road to winning the badge of public safety officer is marked by many hours of intense study and practical application. After a thorough background screening, candidates are subjected to a series of oral and written examinations.

Those candidates selected to appointment as public safety officers then begin their "basic training" under the direction of Foltz and his veteran staff.

Many young officers attend the Southeastern Michigan basic police training course in Royal Oak where they receive over 140 hours of training.

Training never really ceases for the officers. They receive two hours of instruction weekly in police and fire work, as well as advanced first aid.

When conditions allow an officer to attend a school, he is sent.

Another facet of the city's training program is the appointment of auxiliaries and cadets. Both groups undergo the same screening and tests prior to appointment. But until their appointment as actual officers, they train under the regular members of the force.

Foltz has divided his staff into six divisions — four platoons, consisting of a shift commander, two patrol officers and a police cadet; a detective division, which has a detective sergeant and a detective; and a traffic and safety division, including three police clerks and a sergeant.

Each shift commander has an important role in the maintenance of personnel records to the maintenance of the department's vehicles.

WOMEN OFFICERS

One of the most interesting features of the local department is the presence of three full-time women public safety officers.

"The women officers play an important role in operation of this force," said Foltz. "They do many jobs that men handle in other departments."

Foltz noted that the women officers issue drivers' licenses, take photographs and act as matrons for women prisoners.

The women also are in charge of administering road tests for the issuance of drivers' licenses. BIG HELP

"This helps us out to a great degree because it enables us to keep the men on the streets," Foltz said.

The use of cadets also frees more veterans for duty in the streets, insuring maximum public protection, according to Foltz.

"I have always felt that a community must show it wants a good department of public safety," said Foltz. "This community has shown it wants a good department by providing it with all necessary and modern equipment."

EQUIPMENT

The department also has two modern fire trucks, five patrol cars and a unique emergency truck.

"This emergency vehicle is equipped with devices to handle any situation, including a lighting generator, a self-contained breathing device and a tear-gas dispenser.

"Basically, this is a young department," said Foltz. "The officers are very dedicated and possess a keen desire to serve the community."

"Morale is high and this keeps incidents at a minimum because the morale leads to good enforcement," Foltz said.

School Study Report Is Due

Citizens Unit to Make Suggestions Monday

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Final recommendations of a school district citizens advisory committee will be presented Monday to the board of education.

The committee held its final meeting last night.

"The purpose of the committee was to study the curriculum and financial requirements of the district," said Dr. Joseph Davenport, head of the committee. "We are now prepared to submit our final report."

The over-all committee was divided into three subcommittees, financial, curriculum and steering.

The curriculum subcommittee suggested an over-all increase of school counselors, a special program for noncollege-bound students, provisions for professional growth among teachers and a competitive salary schedule.

FINANCIAL REQUEST

Although the financial subcommittee did not list a specific financial request for future operations, it did specify that monies would be needed for an additional 139 classrooms in the district in the next five years.

The steering subcommittee guided the group in the plans and schedules, prepared the agenda and will compile the final report for the board.

Parent-Teacher Guild

Will Meet Tonight

The Parent-Teacher Guild of Sacred Heart Parish, Auburn Heights, will hold its third and final general meeting of the school year at 8:15 tonight.

The Rev. Father James Hayes, pastor of St. Michael's, Pontiac, will be guest speaker.

JC Officers Elected at Regional Confab

CLARKSTON — Three state vice presidents and a national director were elected last night at a regional Jaycee conference at Pine Knob Resort.

State vice presidents elected included Lewis Wint, past president of the Clarkston chapter, who will also be a candidate for state president at the state convention May 6-7 in Lansing.

Others were Carl Braun of Madison Heights and Charles Sparks of the Milford chapter.

Howard Baker of the Plymouth chapter was named national director for Region G, which includes all of Oakland County.

Over 300 representatives of 23

chapters throughout the county attended last night's meeting, according to Robert Newlin, president of the host Clarkston chapter.

STATE PRESIDENT
All four candidates for state president were present, including Ron Rogers of the Waterford chapter.

State President Jack Skriden of Berkley was one of the principal speakers. The national Jaycee convention will be held in Detroit the week of June 19.

It is estimated that about one school child in 15 in the U.S. is handicapped by some degree of permanent or temporary hearing difficulty.

Must File by April 15

Wheat, Grain Subsidy Deadline Near

Filing deadline for this year's wheat and feed grain subsidy programs is April 15, Alfred Haack, chairman of the Oakland County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee announced today.

Farmers who carry out provisions of the 1966 voluntary wheat program will be able to get domestic marketing certificates in addition to price support loans and purchases for their wheat crop, Haack noted.

On the "domestic" part of the projected production, support available through loans and certificates will be 100 per cent of parity as of the beginning of the marketing year — July 1, 1966. (The Feb. 4, 1966 wheat parity was $2.53 per bushel.)

In view of the famine conditions in various parts of the world, the 1966 wheat program has been amended. It no longer offers spring wheat growers payments on additional voluntary diversion below allments. Haack said.

While the payments will still be available for winter wheat growers who have already planted crops with the provision in mind, these growers are encouraged to reduce their acreage below the farm allotment during the present sign-up period.

WHEAT FARMERS
Instead, such wheat farmers who are also eligible as feed grain growers are encouraged to participate fully in the feed grain program. Feed grain stocks continue to be more than sufficient.

Only growers who participate in the program will be eligible for price support for their 1966 crops of corn, barley, and grain sorghums. As last year, the support is made available through loans, purchases and price-support payments.

Besides qualifying for price support loans, purchases and payments, the participating grower also earns a diversion payment for shifting part of his feed grain base to a conserving use. The payment does not apply to the first 20 per cent diversion except on farms with small bases.

The price support payment may be earned on the projected production from an acreage up to 50 per cent of the total feed grain base for the farm by planting one or more to the feed grains, corn, grain sorghums, or barley, or by planting soybeans in lieu of a feed grain.

The chairman urged farmers who are interested in taking part in this year's feed grain program to call at the County ASC Office, 4515 Highland, Waterford Township, as soon as possible.

Last Friday, 430 growers in the county had signed up to divert 6,720 acres for payment under the 1966 feed grain program.

Applications may be filed at the office from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. The office is also open Wednesday from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

On Reorganization

School Election Monday

LAPEER — A plan to reorganize the Lapeer County Intermediate School District will be submitted to voters Monday.

The proposal as recommended by the County School Reorganization Committee would combine Lapeer Public Schools with Metamora; Imlay City Community Schools with Folsom, Flansburg and Shepherd schools; and Alden Community Schools with Dryden Community Schools, Rethersford and Dryden Center Schools.

The K-12 school reorganization program is set up by a state law which rules that all school districts must have a high school.

Voting precincts will be set up in all school districts involved in the election. The 20 precincts will include Imlay City High School, all schools in the Lapeer Public School District, I.T. Almost and Dryden High schools and schools in Metamora, Dryden Center, Rethers-

Village Seal Contest Is Under Way

ROCHESTER — A contest to design an official crest for the village is being conducted by the Rochester Area Beautification Council.

The contest is on now and will continue through April 30.

The purpose of the competition is to obtain an official seal for use on village correspondence and municipal vehicles. It will also be adopted for use as a seal on official documents.

The winning entrant will receive a $50 U.S. Savings Bond to be awarded by the Village Council.

The contest is open to all residents of the Rochester area with the exception of members of the Village Council and the Rochester Area Beautification Council and their families.

HISTORICAL ASPECTS

Members of the Beautification Council say it is desirable but not mandatory that the design depict historical aspects of the Rochester area.

They suggest several historical points:

- The first permanent Oakland County house built in Rochester in 1817.
- Original platting of the village in 1826.
- The first church founded in Rochester in 1827.
- Village incorporation on April 12, 1869.
- First biological research station in Michigan established in 1906.
- Three colleges or universities near the village.

Entries are to be submitted on 8 1/2" x 11" paper and must be mailed to Rochester Village Crest Contest, P.O. Box 22, Rochester.

SEPARATE ENTRIES

More than one design may be submitted but each must be mailed with a separate entry blank.

Entry blanks may be obtained at Green's Artists Supplies and the House of Custom Colors.

Proposed Avon Budget Annual Meeting Topic

AVON TOWNSHIP — The proposed 1966-67 budget will be discussed at the township's annual meeting at 1 p.m. Saturday at the township hall.

Also on the agenda are establishing the millage authorization, setting the time for the regular monthly meetings and publication of the annual report.

Bandit Gets $5,000

FLINT (AP)—A lone, armed man robbed a Flint Federal Savings and Loan Association office of $5,000 Wednesday. He entered when no patrons were in the establishment and forced two women tellers to lie on the floor.

Time for Nothing---but Death

By TOM TIEDE
CU CHI, Viet Nam (NEA)—The boy was new in the outfit. A replacement. He had no friends here, no confidants. He was not in on the gags, he did not share in the trifles and the traditions.

He knew no one and no one knew him.

He was, simply, the new guy.

He had been with the 25th Division only 72 hours before his company pushed off into Viet Cong country. A bad place it was, too... full of booby traps and blind mines and the sniper fire which busted tree branches overhead.

They couldn't see the enemy but they knew he was there... beneath the ground, in clumps of brush, behind hills. Watching. Waiting.

One moment it was all quiet.

Then the next it was all horrible noise.

The shooting began shortly before noon. From everywhere. The men took what cover was available and began to return fire at the still-hidden enemy. Their position was poor and the cloudburst and shocking sunfire added to the miseries of a hasty, inadequate defense.

He Gave In Quietly

Thus trapped, the unit took a dozen quick casualties. And one of them was the boy... the new guy in the outfit.

He had been lying prone against the earth when it happened. A bullet struck him through his helmet, above the eyes. Then, probably as he slumped forward, another caught him at the base of his skull.

In effect, they killed him twice.

He had given only the slightest attention to the first slug. It brushed back his helmet and entered his brain, but he paid it only a quiet and quick mutter of recognition.

Then, although mortally wounded and supposedly beyond thinking, he shoved his steel pot back over his eyes in a deliberate movement, crouched forward and began to fire his weapon once again.

"Damndest thing I ever saw," a man said later.

"How long did he fire?" another asked.

"I'd say three minutes."

"Lord."

"You think it was reflexes?" a GI wondered.

"I think it was courage," somebody answered.

They talked afterward of how the blood was spouting from the new guy in all directions, how he never uttered a cry of pain, and how, when he finally gave in, he did it quietly, his head dropping over his arms and his rifle finally stopping.

They wondered then who he was and where he was from.

What he was like and why he was here. But no one had the answers.

"We didn't even have orders on him yet."

"I never knew his first name."

"I thought he was from another company."

"Anybody know what state he came from?"

"Michigan, wasn't it?"

"No, Wisconsin."

"I think he said North Carolina."

"God, isn't anybody sure?"

"Not me."

"Me neither."

"I only knew him cause his name was stenciled on his shirt."

They guessed his age as between 18 and 22 but some figured he might have been older. A few thought he was tallish... others insisted he was short and muscular. Blond hair, brown? Short, long?

Nobody knew for certain.

He had only been there 72 hours, the new guy. Not enough time to get acquainted. Not enough time to talk of home. Not enough time to shake hands, slap backs or borrow cigarettes.

There was only enough time to die.

Councilman in Warren Dies of Heart Attack

WARREN (UPI) — Warren City Councilman Lewis Kingsley died of a heart attack last night at his home. He was 59.

Kingsley, one of two senior councilmen, was in his fifth two-year term.

State May Nix Time Change

LANSING (UPI) — The Legislature may be forced to reaffirm its traditional stand against daylight saving time if President Johnson signs a bill passed by Congress yesterday.

The bill would make daylight saving time mandatory in every state starting next year unless the individual state legislatures decide against it. Any state which does not act will automatically come under the "fast time."

Michigan has retained standard time during the summer in order to avoid problems created by two geographical time zones.

By remaining on standard time the allowed the state to be on the same time by the clock as neighboring states such as Wisconsin and part of Indiana which were on Central Daylight time.

House Republican Leader Gerald Ford of Michigan made a protest in Washington yesterday when the bill was passed. He said the measure could force his state onto two time standards if it became law.

Red Chinese and Pakistan Mum on Viet

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Pakistan today reaffirmed its support for seating Communist China in the United Nations.

But a joint communique issued by Presidents Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan and Liu Shao-chi of Communist China made no mention of the Viet Nam war.

Liu, who left for home today after a six-day tour of Pakistan, was believed to have come primarily to elicit a statement from Ayub denouncing American involvement in Viet Nam.

The communique contained a vaguely worded pledge that the people of the two nations "support each other in the struggle against aggression."

It also reasserted China's support of Pakistan in its quarrel with India over the Himalayan state of Kashmir.

CAREFULLY WORDED

But it appeared that the communique was carefully worded, at Pakistan's insistence, to avoid offending the United States.

The United States is Pakistan's long-time military ally and its greatest potential source of economic and military aid.

Ayub was reported to have asked Liu for a munitions plant during their two-day talks in Rawalpindi last week, but the tone of the communique indicated China would not provide it.

COLD WAR VICTIM—Gerald Brooke, a British subject, listens during his Moscow trial for "anti-Soviet activities." Sentenced to five years, Brooke is reportedly failing in health in Moscow's Lubyanka prison.

Britons Victims of Russian Plot

By TOM A. CULLEN
LONDON (NEA) — In Moscow, a London schoolmaster is being tortured by starvation in a Soviet prison as part of a complicated cold war plot.

In London, a member of Parliament is being smeared as a "moral leper" in a scurrilous leaflet which the Russians are stuffing into letterboxes.

The connecting link between these two seemingly isolated events is the K.G.B., the Soviet intelligence service, which has grown bolder in its operations in recent months.

That torture, blackmail and poison pen letters were standard weapons in the K.G.B. arsenal has long been known here.

What is new is that they are being used with impunity against innocent British subjects.

SCHOOL TEACHER
Take Gerald Brooke, the 27-year-old London schoolteacher who was arrested while on holiday in Moscow last Easter, and sentenced to five years for "anti-Soviet activities."

When his wife Barbara visited him recently at Moscow's Lubyanka prison, she hardly recognized him, he had become so emaciated.

His prison diet, he told her, consists mainly of fishheads, bread and gruel, with very little meat or fruit.

As a result, he has lost over 28 pounds and his clothes now hang loosely on him. Moreover, he has developed colitis, a stomach complaint, and is receiving injections for low blood pressure.

Why are the Russians deliberately starving him? Because they hope to swap him for Peter and Helen Kroger (alias Cohen), the American-born master spies whom the British have locked up for 20 years for their part in the Portland naval spy ring.

The Russians calculated that, as Brooke's health worsens, the British will be willing to exchange the Krogers for him on "humanitarian" grounds.

That pattern is a familiar one. In 1964, the Russians reduced the food rations of Greville Wynne, the British businessman whom the Soviets had convicted as a spy courier.

POOR HEALTH
They allowed Wynne's health to deteriorate until the British agreed to exchange Gordon Lonsdale, the Soviet master spy, for him. Wynne is still recovering from this ordeal.

The K.G.B.'s efforts at blackmail are directed not only at governments, but at individuals as well, as is evident from the case of Commander Anthony Courtney, Conservative member of Parliament for Harrow.

Since last August, Courtney, 57, has been the victim of a smear campaign quite obviously directed by remote control from Moscow.

MORAL CHARGE
Why are the Russians trying to destroy Courtney's moral reputation? The fact that after the war Commander Courtney headed the Russian Section of Naval Intelligence may have something to do with it.

More important, following his election in 1959 as Member of Parliament for Harrow, Courtney became a parliamentary expert on security affairs.

Last July, he tabled a motion

Trading Is Active

Market Is Narrowly Mixed

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was narrowly mixed at the opening today. Trading was active.

Most changes were fractional. Ralls showed scant change in reaction to news of a strike against eight major railroads. Fractional changes were shown by New York Central, Southern Railway and Southern Pacific.

Opening blocks included: Boeing, off 1/4 at 150 on 5,000 shares; Chrysler, up 1/4 at 49 1/2 on 3,000; and Texaco, off 1/4 at 72 on 3,000.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) gained 3/4, at 73 1/2 on 1,700 shares.

Woodworth was unchanged at 1,800 shares.

Wednesday the Associated Press Average of 60 Stocks fell 3 1/2 to 340.5.

Prices declined on the American Stock Exchange.

Klan Wizard Gives Self Up

Sought in Connection With Negro's Death

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP)—Imperial Wizard Sam Hopkins Bowers Jr., of the Mississippi white knights of the Ku Klux Klan, surrendered today to face charges growing out of the fire bomb slaying of a Negro civil rights leader.

Bowers, 41-year-old Laurel vending machine operator, had been sought since Monday when 13 others, identified by the FBI as klansmen, were arrested on federal charges of violating the rights of the civil rights leader.

Vendor Dahmer, who died after the fire bombing of his home near here in January.

Spent More

Consumers and business firms spent more than ever and planned still larger outlays — but this helped push high the price of borrowing, whether for a home car, a new home, or a new factory.

Fingerpointed

Ray brought Bowers to the FBI office here where he was fingerprinted before being taken to the office of U.S. Commissioner Jack Pittman for assignment.

State Rep. Charles Blackwell of Laurel, an attorney, told newsmen in Jackson Wednesday that he and Bay Springs attorney Travis Buckley would sue the Klansmen for this morning in Hattiesburg.

He isn't far away, said Blackwell, who with Buckley is representing others arrested Monday in connection with the death of Vernon Dahmer on the slip Sunday night at Laurel.

Dozens more from the Laurel are arrested by the FBI Monday. Another man, formerly from Laurel, was nabbed in Houston, Texas. The 13 are from on bonds ranging from $10,000 to $15,000.

Bowers and the others are charged with violating a century-old federal law which prohibits interference with any individual or group seeking constitutional rights and also with violating a section of the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

Branch Manager Named for GMAC

Harvard W. Sanders of Detroit has been appointed branch manager of the Pontiac office of General Motors Acceptance Corp. (GMAC).

It was announced today that Sanders, formerly assistant branch manager in Detroit, succeeds Victor J. Stachler, who is retiring after 38 years with GMAC.

Stachler served as Pontiac branch manager in 1945 and again starting in 1963. Sanders managed the Pontiac office previously from 1957-59.

15 Boats Lost in $200,000 Fire at State Marina

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP)—Fire today destroyed 15 pleasure boats and a covered boat well and damaged another boat at the Midway Marina in nearby Harrison Township.

No injuries were reported

Damage was estimated at $200,000. The blaze was discovered about 4 a. m. and nearly 70 firemen from nine fire departments rushed to the marina, on the Clinton River.

Firemen said the destroyed boats, ranging from 22 to 29 feet in length, were all in the reasonable yard in received. In that event, being bonds, they offered a hedge against decline which is not present in the market to which they are related. I advise you to convert.

The cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

Economy's Bigger, Not Always Better

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK—The nation's economy grew bigger—but not always better—in the first quarter of 1966. Records tumbled in almost all sectors. Often, the growth in the three months ending today was more than the most optimistic dream at the start of the year.

Personal income totals soared—but so did the cost of living.

Corporate profits added more muscle—but so did the threat of a return to higher income taxes.

Employment rose faster than expected at this time of year but labor shortages in some industries and more overtime pay in others sent production costs up and added pressure for price increases.

SPENT MORE

Consumers and business firms spent more than ever and planned still larger outlays—but this helped push high the price of borrowing, whether for a home car, a new home, or a new factory.

The Gross National Product

surged to an annual rate of $497 billion in the January-March quarter from the $487-billion rate in the final quarter of 1965—but as leaders last night to cut back spending on new plants and equipment, but the same group registered disapproval of any anti-inflation tax increase.

Johnston, entertaining nearly 150 industrialists and financiers

at a White House dinner, asked that they review, and curtail where possible, plans for new capital investments. Many in his audience rose to pledge support.

However, when Johnston asked those who would approve a tax increase to raise their hands, not a single hand went up.

The President once again emphasized he has not decided whether a tax boost will eventually be necessary as a brake on rising prices.

It is understood he gave the impression that if private business will cut back projected outlays for plant and equipment by $6 billion, the possibility for higher taxes will be reduced.

At 60, today, it is down to 40. When I see you again, I will advise you of this decline? Would you advise declining and if so, to what? I am aware of a 50 per cent stock dividend in 1964," G. R.

(A) I commend you on holding a strong and growing public utility. Although you are aware of the 1964 stock dividend, you did not revise your cost price downward to account for this decline? Should you do this by dividing your cost price (60) by 150, which gives you an adjusted cost price of 40.

You have, in my opinion, not the slightest reason to be concerned about Northern Illinois Gas, which supplies natural gas to a large area outside of Chicago. The company has a long record of expanding earnings and has just raised its dividend for the eighth time in 10 years.

Your shares sold at 53 1/2 last year but the recent trend toward higher money rates has hurt this issue and all the utilities.

Many conservative investors and institutions tend to shift from utilities to bonds when interest rates turn up. By all means, hold your stock, which has quadrupled in value over the last decade.

(Q) Is there any advantage in converting my Pan American World Airways 4 1/2 per cent bonds into common stock? J. M.

(A) The only advantage in doing so is to prevent a forced conversion at the company's option. The bonds are redeemable at any time at the declining rates. At present, your bonds—selling at around $4,000 apiece—pretty thoroughly reflect the conversion value and your 1.18 per cent current yield is little more than you would receive on the common.

A major advantage in holding convertible debt is that, when a bond is converted into stock, that event, being bonds, they offered a hedge against decline which is not present in the market to which they are related. I advise you to convert.

Economy's Bigger, Not Always Better

DISAPPOINTMENT

Housing starts were a disappointment. The February annual rate of 1,318,000 units was 17 per cent below the January rate.

The Federal Housing Administration's mortgage rate was boosted to 5 1/2 per cent from 5 1/4 per cent.

Defense spending was rising rapidly, and outlays by state and local governments were too.

Business firms were selling out for new plants and equipment at an annual rate of $72 billion in the 1966 first quarter, up nearly $2 billion from the rate in the preceding quarter.

PUSH BACKLOG

All this spending, consumer, government and business, helped push the backlog of orders for durable goods to 3 1/2 months.

It's a big three months you're facing goodbye to today—in figures, big in activity, big in problems.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson was personal agreement from some of the nation's most prominent business leaders last night to cut back spending on new plants and equipment, but the same group registered disapproval of any anti-inflation tax increase.

(A) The only advantage in doing so is to prevent a forced conversion at the company's option. The bonds are redeemable at any time at the declining rates. At present, your bonds—selling at around $4,000 apiece—pretty thoroughly reflect the conversion value and your 1.18 per cent current yield is little more than you would receive on the common.

A major advantage in holding convertible debt is that, when a bond is converted into stock, that event, being bonds, they offered a hedge against decline which is not present in the market to which they are related. I advise you to convert.

Economy's Bigger, Not Always Better

DISAPPOINTMENT

Housing starts were a disappointment. The February annual rate of 1,318,000 units was 17 per cent below the January rate.

The Federal Housing Administration's mortgage rate was boosted to 5 1/2 per cent from 5 1/4 per cent.

Defense spending was rising rapidly, and outlays by state and local governments were too.

Business firms were selling out for new plants and equipment at an annual rate of $72 billion in the 1966 first quarter, up nearly $2 billion from the rate in the preceding quarter.

PUSH BACKLOG

All this spending, consumer, government and business, helped push the backlog of orders for durable goods to 3 1/2 months.

It's a big three months you're facing goodbye to today—in figures, big in activity, big in problems.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson was personal agreement from some of the nation's most prominent business leaders last night to cut back spending on new plants and equipment, but the same group registered disapproval of any anti-inflation tax increase.

Johnston, entertaining nearly 150 industrialists and financiers

at a White House dinner, asked that they review, and curtail where possible, plans for new capital investments. Many in his audience rose to pledge support.

However, when Johnston asked those who would approve a tax increase to raise their hands, not a single hand went up.

The President once again emphasized he has not decided whether a tax boost will eventually be necessary as a brake on rising prices.

It is understood he gave the impression that if private business will cut back projected outlays for plant and equipment by $6 billion, the possibility for higher taxes will be reduced.

At 60, today, it is down to 40. When I see you again, I will advise you of this decline? Would you advise declining and if so, to what? I am aware of a 50 per cent stock dividend in 1964," G. R.

(A) I commend you on holding a strong and growing public utility. Although you are aware of the 1964 stock dividend, you did not revise your cost price downward to account for this decline? Should you do this by dividing your cost price (60) by 150, which gives you an adjusted cost price of 40.

You have, in my opinion, not the slightest reason to be concerned about Northern Illinois Gas, which supplies natural gas to a large area outside of Chicago. The company has a long record of expanding earnings and has just raised its dividend for the eighth time in 10 years.

Your shares sold at 53 1/2 last year but the recent trend toward higher money rates has hurt this issue and all the utilities.

Many conservative investors and institutions tend to shift from utilities to bonds when interest rates turn up. By all means, hold your stock, which has quadrupled in value over the last decade.

(Q) Is there any advantage in converting my Pan American World Airways 4 1/2 per cent bonds into common stock? J. M.

(A) The only advantage in doing so is to prevent a forced conversion at the company's option. The bonds are redeemable at any time at the declining rates. At present, your bonds—selling at around $4,000 apiece—pretty thoroughly reflect the conversion value and your 1.18 per cent current yield is little more than you would receive on the common.

Real Estate Agent Curbs Are Opposed

LANSING (UPI)—A pending fair neighborhood practices bill could make "liars and scoundrels" of real estate agents, the Michigan Senate State Affairs Committee was warned yesterday.

Kenyon, representing the Michigan Real Estate Association, said agents have a "moral obligation" to advise clients of factors that may affect investments.

In addition, many agents are bound by "addendums" which property owners list qualifications for a prospective buyer, he said.

The U.S. Supreme Court has recognized the distinction between discrimination and "right of choice," Kenyon said, by holding a property owner's right to sell to whom and when he chooses.

SUPPORTS BILL

Among those supporting the bill were Horace Rodgers of the Detroit Real Estate Brokers Association, and Irving S. Katcher of the Independent Real Estate Brokers Association, an inter-racial group.

Laborite Landslide Expected Today

LONDON (AP) — Britons voted for a new House of Commons today with Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party a runaway favorite to continue in control of the government with a healthy majority in the lower house of Parliament.

Pollsters and bookmakers rated a Labor landslide a certainty. As the voting booths opened, bookmakers reported a flood of money on Wilson's party. The three leading public opinion polls gave Labor an average lead of 11.8 percentage points — enough to boost the government's majority in Commons from the three seats it had in the last Parliament to more than 100.

The polls close at 3 p.m. EST and by 8 p.m. EST the trend should be clear. A large turnout was forecast — perhaps 80 per cent of the 36 million voters. But predicted cold weather, with hail and showers, could cut this down.

DOMESTIC ISSUES
The election campaign has been fought mainly on domestic issues. The main argument has been whether Wilson, 50, a pipe-smoking economist, or Edward Heath, 49, the leader of the Conservative party, is better equipped to run a nation in need of drastic industrial reform.

Wilson and his Laborites received a boost on election eve with news from the Treasury that Britain pulled its international trade balance $70 million in the black during the last quarter of 1965.

For the year as a whole, Britain spent $991 million more abroad than it earned. But this was less than half the deficit piled up in 1964, most of which was under a Conservative administration.

About 1,700 candidates are contesting the 630 Commons seats. The party that wins the largest number forms the government. In the outgoing Parliament, Labor held 314 seats, the Conservatives 303, the Liberals 10, the nonvoting speaker one and two were vacant.

SEATS OPPOSED
The Conservatives are running candidates for all seats except the speaker's Labor is fighting 518, the Liberals in 31, and the Communists in 53. No Communist has won a seat in 16 years.

A number of independents, some representing Irish, Welsh and Scottish nationalist groups,

Wasn't the Best in Driving Test

Pontiac policeman Kenneth Davidson administered a 10-second road test to a 17-year-old driver yesterday and then conceded he "had to flunk him."

Davidson said the youth placed the transmission in "drive" instead of "reverse," causing the car to leap a barrier, mow down a sign post and crash into a parked police car.

Both Davidson and the youth escaped injury.

Draft Card Burning

Ignites Boston Fight

BOSTON (AP) — An angry, jeering crowd today beat up six persons on a street after they burned their draft cards on the courthouse steps of South Boston District Court.

Four were knocked down and pounced upon on the courthouse steps. Two were attacked inside the court building.

FBI agents and Boston police saved the six from the shouting crowd estimated by police at 200 men and women.

The six said they burned their draft cards to protest U.S. participation in the Viet Nam war.

The crowd shouted such comments as "Kill them," and "Put them in the front lines."

GIRL SLAPPED
One girl, Susan Williams, 17, of Amherst, Mass., was slapped but not seriously injured.

The seven were part of a group of 11 who were scheduled to appear in District Court on charges stemming from a peace demonstration in front of the Boston Army base last Friday.

Their arrests came after they flopped down on the street. Several of them were dragged off by police and charged with loitering and obstructing traffic.

Peter Gregonis, 40, of Volunton, Conn., one of those attacked today, suffered a cut over his eye and facial bruises after his bicycle.

CUTS, BRUISES
John A. Phillips, 22, of Boston, had to be taken to Boston City Hospital to be treated for cuts and bruises.

The others who claimed injuries were David P. O'Brien, 19, of Boston; David Benson, 18, and David E. Reed, 19, both of Volunton, Conn., and Robert Sickgald, 20, a Harvard senior, of Wilmette, Ill.

They had held their draft cards together and set them aflame with a small, portable gas burner with a flame that resisted the wind.

Police said many of the jeering crowd were teenagers. Among them were older men and about a dozen women.

URGES CALM
State Rep. James F. Condon, D-Boston, had pleaded with the crowd to refrain from violence.

"These youths do not realize the seriousness of what they're doing," Condon said. "You must treat them as gentlemen even if neither you nor I agree with what they're doing."

"Let's have no violence," Condon pleaded.
