Street Project Hearing Raises Few Objections

Views of Public Aired on Proposed Widening, Paving of Perry

Only minor objections were aired yesterday during a public hearing conducted by the State Highway Dept. on the proposed widening-paving project on Perry street in Pontiac.

City Manager Walter K. Willman expressed amazement when but one question was raised involving the financing of the $1,300,000 job.

That came on a right-of-way agreement price, and was asked for by a Perry street resident.

STUDY PROBLEMS

The objections raised were over what the city intended to do with the increased "bottlenecks" at the Perry-Mt. Clemens and Huron intersections when the road is widened.

Willman answered the questions by telling the 50 persons in the City Commission chambers that Pontiac was undertaking a study of this and other "transport problems" in the city.

The highway department has planned widening Perry to four lanes divided from Huron to Opdyke road, a distance of 3.8 miles.

FEDERAL ASSISTANCE

It will be a federal assistance project with the government carrying 50 per cent of the costs, with the city and state splitting the balance.

Willman said the city's share, $321,250, would be paid from gas tax receipts. He added that this total does not include Pontiac's share of the right-of-way costs, estimated to run near $75,000.

Although not officially confirmed by the City Commission, the manager mentioned that about 26,000 feet of frontage on Perry would be assessed $4 a front foot for the work. This is estimated to return $104,000 to the city, he said.

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Eisenhower has decided not to make any direct televised rebuttal to Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev's TV interview of last Sunday.

Officials Want Evidence

Commissioners Criticize Police

Two Pontiac city commissioners last night called for a group seeking the ouster of Police Chief Herbert W. Straley "to put up or shut up" with allegations against the chief.

The unexpected ultimatum followed an attack on the City Commission and a police organization by a former member of the now defunct Police Trial Board.

"It's about time that you got up on your hind legs and took some action," challenged James F. Flanary, 47, of 37 S. Anderson St.

"If this whole thing takes a grand jury investigation, let's have one," Flanary said.

He was referring to removal attempts against Straley by the Police Officers Assn. The group of 95 officers have asked also for an investigation of the police department's activities and records.

Commissioner John A. Dugan led off a parade of attacks on the police association by demanding that "they better come forth and prove what they charge."

'PUT UP EVIDENCE'

This feeling was echoed by Commissioner Floyd P. Miles. "If anybody has any evidence against Straley they better put up or shut up and do it quick."

The entire City Commission, with the exception of Gilbert W. Long, criticized the insurgent officers for filing alleged grievances with the press before submission to a Civil Service Commission here.

No members of the association were present last evening. Chief Straley sat on the edge of his chair during the discussion, flanked by two veteran officers.

A suggestion that officers behind this ouster movement be discharged from the force, was made by Pontiac attorney and Commissioner Philip E. Rowston. "This should happen if these men are making unfounded and irresponsible statements," Rowston said.

Most commissioners agreed that

Ziem Stays Out of Police Fight

Refutes Printed Reports of Alleged Numbers Testimony

Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem yesterday announced he, "is not going to take part in any strife" between the Pontiac Police Officers Association and Chief Herbert W. Straley.

Ziem spoke after refuting weekend reports that three members of the association had alleged to him in secret Friday that a $4,500,000-a-year numbers racket is rampant in Pontiac because Straley "hamstrings" the vice squad's activities.

Yesterday Ziem had a 90-minute interview with the officers and said their complaints were almost entirely about conditions two years ago.

"I will always be glad to talk with anyone—private citizen or policeman—who has any knowledge of vice in Pontiac," Ziem said.

"But the present quarrel in the Police Department is the city's business, not the Oakland County Prosecutor's."

Ziem said he will call in the present vice squad for questioning about Pontiac's current vice situation, including numbers.

"So far," he said, "there's only been talk about the past

MRS. ANNE THORPE

State's $75,000 Used to Buy Hotel, Autos

St. Clair Shores Pair, Daughter, 10, Have Less Than $200 Left

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—A three-country search for a St. Clair Shores, Mich., couple sought in the embezzlement of some $75,000 in state funds ended yesterday in a quiet Corpus Christi cocktail lounge.

FBI agents arrested Mrs. Anne V. Thorpe, 43, and her husband, Floyd, 58, ending a 15-month search in Canada, Mexico and the United States.

With the Thorpes was their daughter, Kay, 10.

Mrs. Thorpe was a branch manager of the Michigan Secretary of State's office in St. Clair Shores when she and her husband disappeared March 2, 1956.

An investigation showed her accounts were short $75,166, mostly in receipts from rush period auto license sales.

The Thorpes were arraigned yesterday on federal flight warrants. They waived extradition and were sent to jail. The couple was unable to post bonds of $17,500 each set by the U.S. Commissioner Alston Terry.

"We couldn't raise $1,000 now," Thorpe said.

The daughter was flown to Detroit arriving at Willow Run Airport last night at 11:48 p.m. Relatives met the child at the airport.

Macomb County Prosecutor Cecil A. Byres said he would send deputies to Corpus Christi to return the Thorpes to Michigan.

The disappearance of the Thorpes, coming early in an election year, had widespread political reverberations in Michigan. It resulted in a legislative probe of the secretary of state's office.

Federal agents here said Mrs. Thorpe told them she closed the office and left with "a week's receipts — give or take a few thousand."

Mrs. Thorpe faces a Michigan charge of embezzling state funds. Her husband is accused of aiding and abetting in the embezzlement.

A Detroit newspaper, in a telephone interview with Thorpe last night, quoted him as saying it was his idea to leave town.

The day of their disappearance, Mrs. Thorpe told an assistant she was taking her husband to Ann Arbor for treatment of a heart ailment.

Detroit police then learned the family had gone to Windsor, Ont.,

DETROIT (AP) — Mrs. Anna Thorpe and her husband, Floyd, gave state officials this accounting of how they spent more than $75,000 in embezzled funds: Plane fare from Windsor to Mexico; a 1949 Buick purchased in Mexico city; a new station wagon; private schooling for their daughter; about $65,000 for a resort hotel in Mazatlan, Mexico; another auto; expense of flight to the United States and $4,000 to lease a bar in Corpus Christi; a gift of $5,000 to a brother-in-law. The couple said they had less than $200 left.

Hike Bay City Fares, Bus Service Slashed

BAG CITY (AP) — Bus fares in Bay City will be boosted a nickel and service will be curtailed next week.

The Balcer Brothers Motor Coach Co. told the city commission last night it would continue operating buses here, but with a fare increase and a cutdown in service.

The new fares, going into effect next week, are 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children. Fares formerly were 20 cents and 10 cents.

Balcer also told the city commission that there would be no buses running after 6:30 p.m. except on Fridays and service would be discontinued on Sundays and holidays.

Senate Probes Decision to Let Japan Try American Soldier

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. decision to let Japan try an American soldier on homicide charges brought on a Senate investigation today along with promise of more to come.

Chairman Ervin (D-NC) summoned the Defense Department counsel, Robert Dechert, before a closed meeting of an Armed Services subcommittee to determine "if the facts justified the action taken."

And Sen. Flanders (R-Vt), his colleague on the two-member subcommittee, said that "we propose to find out who is responsible for this blunder."

Specialist 3.C. William C. Girard, of Ottawa-LaSalle, Ill., faces a Japanese trial on a charge of killing a Japanese woman, Mrs. Naka Sakai, 46, last Jan. 30. Girard was charged with shooting her while attempting to chase scavengers away from an Army firing range.

The decision to let Japanese courts try Girard was announced jointly yesterday by Secretary of State Dulles and Secretary of Defense Wilson.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said that "certainly" President Eisenhower had approved of the decision.

In addition to the two-man Senate subcommittee, the House Foreign Affairs Committee set a June 13 meeting to look into the Girard case.

And a Senate Constitutional Rights subcommittee under Sen. Hennings (D-Mo) let it be known that it has been looking quietly at the whole matter of the rights of servicemen, It has called no hearings, however.

Involved in the squabble is the general policy of "status of forces" treaties under which this government has granted many foreign nations the right to try U. S. servicemen for offenses committed while off duty, or not "done in the performance of official duty."

Such treaties in Europe as well as the Far East have come under frequent attack in Congress on the ground that members of the armed forces stationed abroad should be assured the right of trial under U. S. law.

The Japanese contended that Girard was off duty at the time of the incident and said that gave them jurisdiction over the case.

But senators pointed to a Defense Department statement that Girard and another soldier "were ordered" by a platoon leader to guard a machine gun and other equipment as evidence he was on duty status.

A Japanese Foreign Office statement also promised "a fair trial in accordance with the laws of the land." It called the U.S. decision to let Japan try Girard "a manifestation of the sincerity of the United States."

Since the shooting of the woman, Girard has been in Army custody at Camp Whittington, his post 50 miles north of Tokyo. The Japanese presiding judge said he could remain in American custody as long as he appeared at trial sessions, the usual practice when Japanese courts try Americans.

Maggie Is Proud Mother of Healthy 6½-Pound Son

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Clifton Daniel, the former Margaret Truman, gave birth to a 6-pound, 8-ounce boy today. Mother and son were reported "doing fine."

"Margaret is very happy," said Daniel, "and I'm tired but happy." The baby is their first.

Former President Harry Truman and his wife Bess said they too were "very happy" about their first grandchild. Margaret is their only child.

The Trumans plan to leave their Independence, Mo., home for New York today.

Margaret, 33, and Daniel, 44, went to Doctors Hospital yesterday at 2:30 p.m. The baby was born at 12:11 a.m.

Dr. Louise Dantuono, the attending physician, described the delivery as normal.

Daniel, a member of the staff of the New York Times, phoned the news to the Trumans and to his mother Mrs. E. Clifton Daniel at her Zebulon, N. C., home.

Daniel and Margaret were married in Independence April 21, 1956.

Daniel, handsome and prematurely gray, was a foreign correspondent during and after World War II.

Daniel was asked whether he or Margaret had a preference as to a boy or a girl.

"We are happy with what we got," he replied.

He said no name has been chosen yet.

A reporter then asked whether the boy was going to be a journalist like his father or a politician like his grandfather. Daniel answered, with a laugh: "We'll leave that to him."

The Daniels live in Manhattan.

On a visit to New York in April, the former President told newsmen if Margaret had a boy he did not want it named for him.

"It would be a handicap all his life," he said. "The worst thing in the world is to have a president in the family."

Nix Water Combine

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Grand Rapids voters yesterday turned down a proposal that the city join with seven other area communities in forming a water authority to build a new water pipeline to Lake Michigan.

No Socialism for Truman's Grandson—Ike

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Eisenhower said today that former president Harry S. Truman's new grandson will not grow up under a socialist system if he has anything to do with it.

A reporter provoked a roar of laughter at Eisenhower's news conference by putting the question to the President. The reference was to the statement by Soviet boss Nikita Khrushchev in a television interview Sunday that the grandchildren of Americans will live in a socialist economy.

Eisenhower, who joined in the laughter, assured the newsman that any attempt to install socialism in the U.S. would be in for a terrible battle during his remaining three and one-half years in the White House.

Frenchman Gives Up

PARIS (INS) — Piere Pflimlin, a popular Republican party (MRP) leader, gave up today in his efforts to form a new government. President Rene Coty immediately asked Socialist Guy Mollet, the outgoing premier, to head another cabinet.

Best for 1957 Models

Pontiac Has Record 10 Days

Pontiac's sales of 12,760 new cars for the last 10 days of May were the highest for any 10-day period since the introduction of the 1957 models, S. E. Knudsen, general manager of Pontiac, announced today.

The sales figure reflects a 45 per cent gain over the previous 10-day report and is the highest period since March of 1956, Knudsen said.

Pontiac's sales for the month of May were the second highest for the 1957 models, exceeded only by March.

"Our big increase in '57 car sales is an indication that buyers of medium to high priced cars are turning more and more to Pontiac as their best motoring value," asserted Knudsen, "and we feel our sales will continue to show an increase over 1956."

No Errors — Congressmen Don't Make Mistakes

Dems Edge GOP in Baseball

WASHINGTON (INS) — The annual congressional baseball game last night was preceded by a flight demonstration of model airplanes. Only the planes got down to earth.

For the sports fans, the final line score was Democrats—10 runs, 7 hits, no errors; Republicans—9 runs, 10 hits, no errors.

NO MISTAKES

There were no errors because congressmen don't make any mistakes. But a lot of lawmakers—as opposed to baseball players—got on base through fielders' choices, meaning the fielders elected to permit balls to roll between their legs or drop through their hands or throw over the first baseman's head.

The game started off with two wild pitches by 89-year-old Sen. Theodore F. Green (D-RI), who threw out the first balls. This set the mood for the entire five-inning contest.

The Republicans set out to make a rout of the affair by grabbing both first balls. Reps. Elford A. Cederberg (Mich) and Harold R. Collier (Ill) made the catches.

Then the GOP put together a couple of hits, a couple of walks and a lot of other things to score eight runs in the very first inning.

The inning started off sanely enough with Rep. William H. Ayres (Ohio) bounding out to short. But then Collier started fouling off the pitches of Democrat Stewart Udall (Ariz) and this caused no end of trouble. First baseman Eugene J. McCarthy (Minn) fell down trying to catch one of them. Then catcher Frank M. Clark (Pa) tripped over a photographer, who was accused of being a Republican, trying to catch another. So the Democrats gave up and walked Collier.

That started the parade, which was highlighted by a grand - slam home run by big Gerald R. Ford Jr. (Mich) which carried some 360 feet.

Before the inning was over, the crowd was treated to the biggest laugh of the evening. Collier, hitting for the second time in the inning, bunted down the third base line and streaked for first. Simultaneously, Collier fell flat on his face and the third baseman, Robert E. Jones (Ala) fumbled the ball. Collier got up and Jones got the ball at about the same time, but Collier was faster than Jones' throw and was safe at first.

BOMBARD PITCHER

The Democrats, fearful of the voter effect the GOP show might have, bombarded the Republican pitcher with two solid hits good for seven runs to get back in the game. Mixed among the hits were walks, "fielders' choices," and many stolen bases.

Three runs came home when New Jersey's Alfred Sieminski powdered one to the Republican shortstop Bruce Alger of Texas, who had trouble shortstopping it.

In the second, the Democrats wrapped up the game by scoring three more runs, Clark contributing his second hit to the rally. Rep. Hugh Alexander (NC) scored one of the runs and immediately stepped up to the plate to hit again, he liked it so much. That's the way it went.

A disappointing crowd of only about 300 persons attended the game. Proceeds went to the Washington Evening Star's fund to send underprivileged children to summer camp.

Weather Outlook: Wet, Warm, Noisy

Threw Pal Overboard, Demands Examination in Justice Court

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — John Herdegen, 30-year-old scion of a prominent Grosse Pointe family, demanded examination today when arraigned in Justice Court on a charge of murdering a companion on a Lake St. Clair boat ride.

Justice Francis A. Castellucci set no examination date.

THROWN IN LAKE

Prosecutor Cecil A. Byers said Herdegen told in a statement of throwing Robert J. Hyde, 32, a former Grosse Pointe Woods policeman, overboard into the lake after Hyde made improper advances.

Hyde's nude body was found floating in Lake St. Clair Saturday off St. Clair Shores.

Byers quoted Herdegen as saying in his statement that he met Hyde Friday night in a Veterans of Foreign Wars post and the two went on a boat ride in a 27-foot cabin cruiser Hyde had rented for an office party the following day. Hyde was a salesman at a fire equipment manufacturing company.

IMPROPER ADVANCES

Herdegen said in the statement that Hyde made improper advances while on the boat. "I became mad at him," Byers quoted Herdegen as saying. "Then I dropped him over the side."

Herdegen said he headed the boat back for shore. He heard Hyde crying for help, he said, circled around, then became panicky and steered toward the dock.

James C. Daner, Herdegen's attorney, accused police of using what he termed "Gestapo tactics" in obtaining the confession. He said Herdegen was questioned "almost constantly" for 36 hours after his arrest at midnight Sunday and that during the questioning Herdegen was refused permission to see his lawyer.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

Why does the altitude of an airport affect the length of a runway required to take-off and land commercial airliners? Does the season of the year also affect the length of the runway needed?

The altitude of an airport is all-important in determining how much runway a fully-loaded aircraft requires for take-off. The air is thinner as elevation rises and an aircraft taking off in Denver, for example, needs a longer take-off run than one taking off in Washington, D. C. (elevation near sea level).

Not only is the thin air harder to "bite" into with propellors, to gain thrust, but the density of it also affects the lift above the airfoil (wing). The wing of an aircraft gets most of its lift from the vacuum created above it, not from the bottom surface gliding upward on the air.

In summer, when the air is sometimes very thin, take-off requires a longer runway than in heavier air at other times of the year. Therefore, if you find yourself at an airport, five or six thousand feet above sea level, in the dead of summer, expect a long take-off run, especially if there is little wind.

'No Room for Tax Cuts'

Experts Predict Increase in Federal Spending Rate

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of experts told a Senate-House Economic subcommittee yesterday that the prospects in the next few years were for steadily increasing federal spending, with no margin for tax cuts.

One expert estimated the federal spending budget would reach $75,300,000,000 in fiscal 1959, or 3½ billions more than President Eisenhower's 1958 prediction for the year ahead.

The estimate came from Dr. Gerhard Colm, chief economist for the National Planning Assn., who said it was prepared after "fullest cooperation of the Budget Bureau." He took sole responsibility for it, however.

The figure was a shock to economy-minded lawmakers.

For 1958, Colm forecast spending of $72,800,000,000, exactly a billion more than the President's estimate in his January budget message.

He said he would raise his prediction to 73½ billions unless Congress passes a postal rate increase bill.

Edwin B. George, director of the economics department of Dun and Bradstreet, said his own calculations on fiscal 1958 reached about the same conclusions as Colm.

The economists also said that they could see nothing at this time in the five-year period ahead to indicate any downturn in federal outlays.

All members of the panel cited defense spending as the main reason for the steady upward pressure on the federal budget.

Commissioners Hit Actions of Policemen

they had no power in the dispute because of voters approving the Civil Service Commission for jurisdiction over police matters.

NO COMPLAINT

City Manager Walter K. Willman informed commissioners he had received no formal complaints against Straley by the group.

William A. Ewart, city attorney, was asked to submit an opinion on where the commission stood in the matter.

Flanary earlier angrily accused the police association of "dreaming up the same things that they threw at the trial board."

During the association's move earlier this year, for civil service, supporters charged that Straley exercised "undue influence" over the trial board.

Commissioners reaffirmed their trust in the old board by emphasizing to Flanary that they had rejected an association request to form the new commission.

Flanary asked for action saying the dispute cast shadows over the seven former members of the trial board.

"I'm not speaking in defense of Chief Straley, or for him or against him," he added.

Commissioner John E. Carry said the whole matter "was a bunch of ballyhoo so the newspapers could sell more papers."

Commenting on a report that rackets flourish in Pontiac, Dugan remarked: "As far as I'm concerned, I don't know of a racket going on in the city."

Accuse Man of Getting Beer for Teenagers

Kenneth K. Hill, 23, of 70 Summitt St., who allegedly furnished beer to two teenage couples May 18, was freed on a $300 bond Monday after he pleaded innocent to the charge.

Pontiac Police vice detail officers report 17 bottles of beer were found on the back seat floor of the youth's auto. Hill is accused of buying the beer and then furnishing it to the youths in front of the Wisner Stadium on Oakland Ave.

He was ordered by Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum to appear for trial June 13.

Driver Pleads Innocent

Kenneth E. Love, 31, of 731 Young St., pleaded innocent to a drunk driving charge yesterday and was freed on a prsonal bond by Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan until trial June 13.

of our costs by assessing residents," he stated.

City Engineer Lewis M. Wrenn commented that the usual charge for concrete paving in the city would be $8 a front foot.

The need for the widening, Joseph Wilbur, assistant to the chief engineer of the highway department, said, was based on a forecast of 30,000 vehicles per day using Perry in 1975. He said in 1955 this figure was 9,000.

Wilbur told the residents it was hoped the work could be completed this year.

A transcript of the hearing will be forwarded to the Federal Bureau of Public Roads. Advertisements for bids are due in about 90 days, Willman said.

The city's final share of the work, he added, will be based on awarded contracts.

Oak Park Firm Loses Land Suit

Judge Rules Sale of West Bloomfield Sites Not Misrepresented

A suit for nearly $175,000 over building sites in West Bloomfield Township was lost by the plaintiffs today.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Horace W. Gilmore handed down an opinion in which he dismissed the bill of complaint of A. and M. Land Development Co., of Oak Park, in which the firm claimed it had been sold lots in Bloomfield Knolls Subdivision which were not suitable for home construction.

A. and M. alleged that soil conditions made septic tanks unworkable on many of the 91 lots they purchased from Samuel A. Miller and his wife, Bernice, of Detroit.

Judge Gilmore said that A. and M. had built 44 homes at which the septic tank systems are working and there is a "good possibility" they could utilize the remaining lots some time in the future.

REJECTED PERMITS

The Oakland County Health Dept. indirectly precipitated the suit for $100,100 plus $74,761.85 in damages, by rejecting 14 septic tank permit applications from A. and M.

The firm then sued asking the nullification of its land contracts with the Millers and the additional amount for damages.

In testimony, a sanitation expert from the Health Dept. said the 47 remaining lots had a different soil than the 44 which were built upon and did not seem suitable for septic tanks.

The judge said the soil typography was changed by the subdivision engineers after the lots were sold, and the seller, the Millers, could not be held responsible.

He added the Millers were not misrepresenting the property when they advertised it as "suitable for building."

The entire subdivision has had a hectic history. The original subdivider, Township Building Co. of Detroit, which erected 49 homes before selling the remaining lots to the Millers, are presently in a hassle with the Health Dept., Veterans Administration and several home buyers because of septic tank difficulties.

Act Depends on Disarmament

Russians Must Agree Before Outlawing Use, Says President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he would favor a complete ban on testing of atomic weapons—if there could be total and complete disarmament.

Eisenhower said he would like to allay worldwide anxiety over fallout radiation.

But Eisenhower went on to say at a news conference that the United States never could join in any ban on testing unless there also were an agreement with Russia against use of atomic weapons.

The President did express doubt that this country ever again will test such tremendously devastating hydrogen bombs as it has in the Pacific on two occasions.

Eisenhower's remarks were in response to questions about the testimony before a congressional committee.

Geneticists and other scientists have said there that fallout radiation from nuclear weapons tests will damage hundreds of thousands—and perhaps millions— of the yet unborn, in terms of physical deformities and shortened life spans.

Eisenhower first said that some of the scientists giving views on the subject appear to have gotten out of their field of competence. He added that it seemed to be an organized sort of thing.

Asked why he felt that way, Eisenhower said he did not mean organization in any evil kind of way. Personally, he went on, he prefers to base his judgment on a study of the situation put out last October by the National Academy of Scientists.

Eisenhower said of course he is concerned about the possibility of fallout danger to future generations, but that he also is concerned with defense of the United States.

He said further that the United States has succeeded in reducing fallout in its nuclear tests by nine-tenths of what it previously was.

Later in the news conference, Eisenhower said he personally would like to allay all anxiety in the world regarding fallout by a ban on all nuclear testing—a ban based on total and complete disarmament.

Eisenhower also declared today that the U.S. has the responsibility of seeing that justice is done in the case of William S. Girard, the American soldier who is being handed over to Japan for trial on manslaughter charges.

Boy, 4, Watches Cowboys, Tries to Hang Himself

LANSING (AP) — Four-year-old Michael McDonald, who is crazy about western television shows, tried to hang himself yesterday the way cowboys string up rustlers on TV.

He almost succeeded.

Firemen said the youngster apparently tied one end of a rope around a guy wire attached to a telephone pole, then made a noose around his neck while standing on the seat of his tricycle.

The tricycle toppled over, leaving Michael hanging by the neck.

An unidentified woman driving by saw the boy's predicament, hurried over and lowered him to the ground.

Firemen revived him with an inhalator. At St. Lawrence Hospital he was treated for rope burns, neck bruises and broken blood vessels.

"He must have been imitating a western TV show," said his mother, Mrs. Lucille McDonald. "He watches them all the time."

Driver Pays $50 Fine

FBI Nabs Thorpes in Corpus Christi Bar

FLED TO MEXICO

The FBI said the Thorpes stayed in Mexico City for a month. They were seen attending a bullfight. They left the Mexican capital a jump ahead of police.

They went to Mazatlan, a fashionable winter resort on Mexico's Pacific Coast where they bought an interest in a $65,000 25-room hotel and bar.

Federal agents reported the family stayed at Mazatlan until six weeks ago when they began driving to Chicago. In Lincoln, Neb., they ran into cold weather and headed back South, arriving by chance at Corpus Christi.

Soon after their arrival here they began negotiations to buy the cocktail lounge where they were arrested.

Nothing was known of their whereabouts for a long time after police missed them in Mexico City.

POLITICAL HUBBUB

But while the Thorpes were reported living high south of the border, a development occurred which raised a political hubbub in Michigan.

Mrs. Thorpe's son, Frank, reported receiving a letter from his mother. The letter was postmarked Edwardsville, Ill.

In it Mrs. Thorpe blamed her plight on having to pay political patronage to the Democratic Party.

"Between the raft of tickets we had to buy, raffle, rally, dinner, membership, etc., anywhere from 50 cents to $35 and from kicking in 10 per cent of our gross income under the threat of losing office there wasn't enough left to pay honest overhead expenses," she wrote.

The published letter launched an investigation, ending after the November election.

Mrs. Thorpe's boss, Democratic Secretary of State James M. Hare told legislative investigators neither he nor members of his staff ever had sought or received political contributions from the woman. For that matter, he did not receive contributions from the patronage holders of 220 similar offices, Hare added.

Hare acknowledged some branch managers contributed to Democratic party coffers, but they "certainly were not compelled to do so." He won re-election easily.

For a time it appeared the account shortage might cost Hare about $17,000 from his pocket. He spoke of selling his house and car.

A blanket bond for department employes failed to cover the entire loss. Hare said he felt obliged to make up the difference.

HARE ABSOLVED

However, the just-ended legislative session passed a resolution, at the behest of the group which had conducted the probe, absolving the Secretary of State from responsibility.

"I'm certainly happy to hear they've been caught and I hope they're brought to justice quickly," Hare said yesterday.

The Thorpes traveled to Mexico with Richard and Josephine Radwill of Chicago. Mrs. Radwill is Mrs. Thorpe's sister.

The Radwills were arrested there. They were returned to Detroit where lie detector tests supported their contention they knew nothing of the embezzlement. They were released last April.

"I'm glad it's finally over, glad we got caught," Thorpe said at the arraignment.

"It was like a hound after a rabbit."

Hare said that from information available, it appears that more than half the stolen funds will be recovered. The rest, he said, likely was spent in 15 months of running and hiding in Mexico.

The Day in Birmingham

Select Phyllis Jackson for Recreational Award

BIRMINGHAM—For her interest in recreation and her efforts toward developing an adequate recreational program for the city of Birmingham, Mrs. Phyllis Jackson, has been selected to receive the National Recreational Assn. award.

The honor goes annually to the person in each community who in the opinion of the association has contributed most of her time and energies and assisted in the development of a recreation program.

A Birmingham resident most of her life, Mrs. Jackson, has been a member of the recreation board for ten years and its chairman for two years. During this time a full-time recreation director has been engaged, the ice-rink at Eton Park completed and many other recreational facilities launched for residents here of all ages.

Wing Lake Elementary School annual open air festival is being held this afternoon planned around the theme, "America Celebrates."

Children in costume traced the nation's history from early settlers to today.

Settlers by nationality groups were portrayed by second graders while fifth grade pupils took their audience through the expansion of the west. Another fifth grade group also gave a view of baseball "the great American sport."

Third and sixth graders took a musical tour from the popular songs of the revolutionary day to our modern rock 'n roll. Legendary characters from childhood were brought to life by third graders. The forth grade portrayed national heroes and the meaning of our holidays.

From the second grade came sketches of the international relationship maintained with our neighbors, Canada and Mexico. The excitement of the circus was given by first graders while a fifth grade group put on the annual Mardi Gras. The program closed with a truly American feature, the Showboat.

With the arrival of warmer weather, the Birmingham Police Dept. reports the annual season of "open windows" in full swing again.

They ask all merchants to designate some one person whose responsibility it will be to check all windows especially those opening on rear alleys before closing for the day.

Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley reminds all that an open window is an invitation to robbery. "Closed and locked windows," he said "will do much to discourage night entry into business places. We know and admit they are not a positive guarantee against robbery by the professional, but we honestly feel that making closed windows a habit will do much to curtail the effort of the amateur thief, and also will serve as a brake in the field of juvenile crime." and no facts about the present," he said.

The prosecutor yesterday took statements from Det. Herbert C. Cooley, association president; Sgt. Ray Meggitt and Det. Richard Evans, who had visited his home privately Friday afternoon, Ziem said.

He also interviewed Lt. Donny Ashley, vice squad head until August, 1955.

Meggitt also had been on the vice squad until that time; Cooley until June, 1956, and Evans had participated in raids only on a special duty basis, Ziem said.

The chief complaints were that working hours and manpower had been restricted.

There were no criticisms of the activities of the present vice squad nor of the department policies regulating it, Ziem said.

Officers said they had no personal knowledge of the vice squad other than during the time they worked on it.

Ashley said that his squad had ranged in strength from two to three men. The present squad has four officers.

Ziem said that the only mention Friday which he could recall of a $4,500,000 numbers racket was from a private individual, who had reportedly heard it from a gambler.

Britain Gets Ready for Diseases Invasion

LONDON (AP)—The British Medical Research Council said today "it is likely" the new form of influenza sweeping the Far East will spread to Britain and Continental Europe.

"How soon it gets here, I cannot say," an official added.

British specialists were working around the clock at the world influenza center in London to find a vaccine capable of fighting the disease — a new strain of influenza virus A.

There are two main types of influenza — viruses A and B — of which the former generally gives rise to epidemics.

Singer Got Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Finding her husband washing his shirt at 3 a.m. made her suspicious, admits singer Darla Hood. And having him tell her he was getting red ink off his collar didn't help.

"I told him that was ridiculous," said the 24-year-old singer in court yesterday. "It was lipstick — and it wasn't mine." Her testimony won her a divorce from insurance salesman Robert W. Decker, 33, on grounds of cruelty.

Britons Can Go Abroad Again

Ban on Travel Funds Eased

LONDON (AP) — Big headlines in London newspapers today welcomed the lifting of the dollar curtain which has blocked British tourist travel to America since 1947.

"New York Here We Come!" was the Daily Sketch's banner line on its story of the treasury decision to let Britons take $280 a year each out of the country to spend in the United States or Canada.

The ban on dollars for tourists had been imposed to conserve the hard currency needed to buy vital imports.

Concessions were made only to persons traveling on business and visiting close relatives.

The Sketch said it would run a competition offering a free holiday in New York to two British couples. The Daily Express announced a similar competition with a free trip for a whole family as the prize.

The Express and the Daily Mail warned their readers however, that a tourist can't have much of a ball in New York on $280.

"There is rampant inflation in America and the cost of living goes higher and higher each week," wrote Don Iddon, the Mail's New York correspondent.

Mounting Prize in Pot-O-Gold Now at $1,100

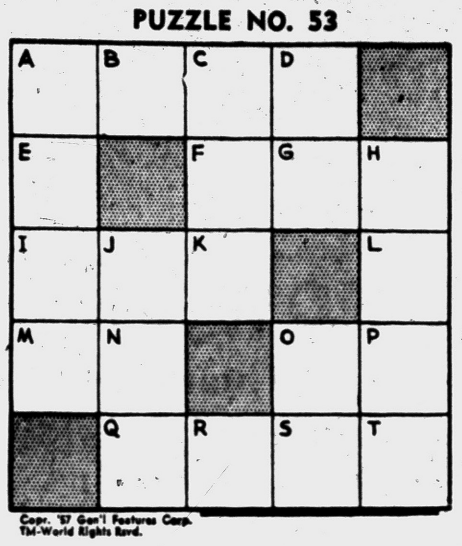

Think what you could do with $1,100. It's not a bad thought, is it? Well, your thoughts could become a reality if you're the one who picks the right numbers to form a correct solution for this week's Pot-O-Gold contest. Read the rules and clues carefully and see what you can come up with — besides having fun, you just might win the money.

The new puzzle contains a series of squares which are alphabetically lettered and a corresponding list of sentences with two clue words. Each of the words is numbered. The object is to select the word which you think best fits the clue sentence. You then place the number of that word in the square which has the same letter as the clue sentence.

In other words, you will read the clue labeled A and decide which of the two words makes the most sense in the sentence. You then write the number of that word in the puzzle square marked A.

Do the same with all other squares. Read all the clues carefully and be sure the right numbers are in the right squares.

INDIAN QUIZ

QUESTION: How did the Indians confirm their treaties?

ANSWER: Modern nations confirm treaties by having their diplomats sign important looking documents. The Indians could not read or write but they had an important ceremony for making their treaties official.

After agreement was reached, one of the chiefs would unwrap carefully his Calumet or peace pipe. Its long stem was handsomely decorated and its bowl often was made of a red stone found in a certain quarry in South Dakota. Soft when first taken from the earth, this stone got quite hard on exposure to the air.

This peace pipe was puffed by each of the chiefs in turn to confirm the agreement they had made. To refuse to smoke a peace pipe was considered an insult that might lead to war.

FOR YOU TO DO: Color the picture of this Indian chief and his peace pipe, paste it on cardboard, and save for an Indian collection.

Williams Must OK or Veto
Loading Dock Bill Fought by Tawas Bay Residents

LANSING (AP) — Confronted by protests of lakeshore residents, Gov. Williams today faced the decision of halting or expediting plans of the National Gypsum Co. to build a six-million-dollar loading dock in Tawas Bay off Lake Huron.

More than 120 persons converged on the capital Monday for a hearing called by Williams in connection with a bill which would authorize the state to sell submerged land needed for the project.

The bill won overwhelming approval in the legislature and now awaits the governor's signature.

Wells F. Anderson, National Gypsum vice president in charge of operations, told Williams the loading dock would extend 800 feet into Tawas Bay and was needed for shipping gypsum from newly developed quarries seven miles inland.

ANNUAL PAYROLL

He said the quarries would produce up to 100 million tons of gypsum a year. The annual payroll for the 100 additional employes needed for the operation, he said, would amount to as much as $350,000.

Sen. Charles T. Prescott (R-Prescott) and Reps. Walter Nakkula (R-Gladwin), James P. Mielock (R-Whittemore) and Emil A Peltz (R-Rogers City), all from East Michigan, added their voices in support of the project.

But the Rev. Father Robert Neuman, pastor of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church in Tawas City and a Bay area rdsident, assiled company men for what he called "the low-down, dirty methods that were used" in acquiring the needed land.

Maurice Brown, spokesman for the lakeshore residents, contended the loading dock would destroy the area's recreation value and greatly lessen property values.

Noise and dust would pose additional problems, he said, and the constant dredging needed to clear a channel for ships using the dock would create a "death trap" of shingling sand for swimmers.

Brown and others urged the governor to veto the bill, forcing the company to build its dock elsewhere on the bay.

Anderson said some 350,000 tons of gypsum extracted from the new quarries will be processed at its plant in National City, 18 miles inland from the bay. The rest, he said, will be shipped to New plants at Lorraine, Ohio, and Waukegan, Ill.

Month's Report Shows Decrease in Employment

Pontiac area employment is declining according to a monthly report of the Pontiac office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Frederick A. Hanses, acting branch manager, said employment here dropped 1,100 during the 30-day period preceding May 15. This resulted from a 1,400 employment decline in manufacturing, offset by a 300 increase in non-manufacturing fields.

Hanses reported unemployment at mid-May was 5,300, or 800 more than in mid-April "as the result of industrial layoffs."

Unemployed represent 6.8 per cent of the total labor force of 81,000, the offical said.

This is considerably lower than a year ago, he added, when 7,200 unemployed made up 8.6 per cent of the labor force.

Issuance of unemployment insurance checks from the Pontiac MESC office continued to mount also. During May, the office issued 11,287 checks worth $395,130. This compares to 9,175 checks totaling $316,805 granted in April.

1960 to Bring Big New Buying Unit–Teenagers

A big wave of teenagers is just over the horizon.

It's due in 1960.

In that one year, the number of 13-year-olds leaps suddenly from 2.75 million to 3.8 million.

This is 40 per cent.

James J. Nance, vice president of Ford Motor Company, told an editor of The Press recently that he anticipated a noticeable increase in business during the early years of the 1960's.

NANCE

"In addition to the teenage arrivals," said Mr. Nance, "we will have a large number of marriageable young men and women forming new families and that means increased purchasing all along the line. Here's a new market for a car," said he, "and they'll subscribe to a newspaper. They're a completely new buying unit and they want to purchase a good sized dash of everything."

The number of teenagers has been reasonably static in the United States for the past 30 years. Those that left at the upper end were just about replaced by the youngsters who "graduated" from the age of 12.

Now there's a sharp shift.

Suddenly we swing upward.

Marriages in the early and middle forties, plus the factor of larger families, is producing these sudden increases. Viewed from the standpoint of the national economy, this will be a healthy and constructive influence for the years lying just beyond 1959.

A ten-year-old eats approximately 50 per cent as much as an adult. An 18-year-old eats 120 per cent as much. With no increase in the actual population count, the economic demands will be stepped up appreciably. Teenagers suddenly want more of everything.

And they get it.

This includes food, milk, soft drinks, clothes, entertainment, travel, home facilities and what have you.

Thus, the teenagers, plus the new marriages, promise that the sales of the nation will move forward on a sound and positive basis. There will be no elements of "temporary inflation."

And—don't forget—both groups begin to figure on an automobile.

Our Living Forest a Great Treasure

Michigan faces the possibility of big forest fires such as that which destroyed at least 750 acres of timber near Lake Huron early in May.

Prof. Kenneth P. Davis of the School of Natural Resources, University of Michigan, says that paradoxically this is the result of progress in forestry. "As more acres are planted or are naturally seeded, forest stock is improved and protection becomes more successful. There is also more to burn."

From 1870 to 1900 Michigan led all other states in lumber output and reached peak production of 5.5 billion board feet in 1889 and held above one billion feet annually until 1917. Enlightened forest management and new uses for the tree species once judged worthless give the State a promising forest future. Saw timber growth and cutting are about in balance.

Michigan's record of fire protection and suppression on its forested acres is among the best in the Nation. With vacation time approaching we must be alert to the things which start forest fires. Nine out of 10 are caused by careless people who think of themselves as law-abiding citizens.

The State Conservation Department reports that 4,200 acres have been burned over so far this year compared with 3,420 acres for the entire season of 1956.

The forest is full of living things — birds, animals, trees, flowers, ferns. It's a pleasant and happy place. Help keep it that way. When a forest burns, everybody loses.

When you go into a forest to fish, hike or picnic, always be careful with fire. Crush out that cigaret or pipe ashes! Break your match! Put out your campfire!

Local Council Gives Award to Three Men in the Work

Off-election year: The one when life seems more worth living.

Awarded the highest honor, the Silver Beaver, that can be granted by a Boy Scout Council upon a worker, the 1957 distinction goes to three men, who thus are recognized by the 15,000 in local contact with the work. These include the Cubs, Scouts and Explorers in and those who are otherwise directly connected with Scouting. These men are of Utica, many years a scoutmaster, committeeman, post advisor and chairman of the council organization committee;

Clinton Valley Council

John Ostrander

of Pontiac, for his extensive work as sea scout skipper, Pontiac district chairman and much other work with the Explorers, and of Warren, for his ten years' work as Scoutmaster, and chairman of the Macomb district committee.

The local council comprises most of the area of Oakland and Macomb Counties, and in its entire history has awarded only 50 Silver Beavers.

"I was a farm boy near Ortonville, and went through that cyclone of 61 years ago, when over 40 Oakland County people were killed," writes from his present home in Lansing. He says the most gruesome sight was six bodies piled in an outside cellarway where they had sought refuge, but were killed.

A clump of peonies with 130 blooms and buds is reported by

Mrs. Harry Batchelder

of Pontiac Lake. They are in three colors.

Porcupines are becoming so numerous in the Pontiac area that they hardly are news. The latest was found by who saw it trying to drive a pair of woodchucks out of their underground home in the hills near the Raynale home just north of Rochester.

Harvey Raynale,

My Utica scout sends word that a new street in our neighboring city is to be named in honor of the home town boy who's chasing the Detroit Tigers to a pennant.

Duke Maas

"We think it has been a wet spring," phones of Birmingham, "but our inland lakes do not know it, neither do the Great Lakes, whose water level is very low."

Harrison Carman

Sure proof that this is a late spring, according to

of Auburn Heights, is found in the fact that most of the spirea bushes were not in bloom Memorial Day.

Verbal Orchids to—

of 1075 Union Lake Road; eighty-second birthday.

of Birmingham; eighty-fourth birthday.

"I'll Leave, Fellas—But Let Me Use the Elevator"

David Lawrence Says:

Senate Judiciary Unit Acts Wisely

WASHINGTON — It was a wise move on the part of the Senate Judiciary Committee this week to recommend that jury trials be provided by law in contempt cases arising out of the enforcement of "civil rights." It will do more to help the cause of public understanding on the integration - segregation issue and similar questions than anything the Congress or the courts have done thus far.

LAWRENCE

This is because the action by the Senate committee comes at a time when emotion has been substituted for reason in many parts of both the North and the South in dealing with matters of law and constitutional rights.

DRAMATIC EXAMPLE

A dramatic example was the case last week in Montgomery, Ala., when a white jury acquitted two white men who were defendants in a case involving the dynamiting of a Negro church. No one was injured, but property was damaged. It was apparent from the way the case was summed up by the prosecuting attorney and defense counsel that the issues were presented in the background of current antagonisms.

Although the defendants had signed a confession, the claim was made later that if had been irregularly processed—that it wasn't made at police headquarters but in a hotel room under circumstances which led to the expression of many doubts.

This correspondent spent the weekend in Alabama and talked to many people about the integration question. Notwithstanding the individual beliefs of citizens generally, it is fair to say that many people who are on the anti-integration side were shocked by the verdict of the jury at Montgomery.

NOT SURPRISING

Yet in some respects the verdict wasn't surprising. As one man in the South put it, "Why should not 12 men in Alabama express their feelings in a verdict, when nine sociologists on the Supreme Court do the same thing?"

Reference was made specifically to some of the recent cases of rape committed by Negroes against white women—cases in which confessions were duly recorded and guilt plainly established, only to have the Supreme Court of the United States reverse such verdicts on technicalities and allow the defendants to go free.

Emotionalism has brought a state of tension that is not going to be cured by any provision of law denying jury trials merely because the privilege has been or might be abused. While contempt committed inside a courtroom has always been punishable by a judge without a jury trial, and attempts to violate directly the terms of an injunction are ordinarily within the power of a judge alone to punish, the real issue is whether the judge's injunctions can be stretched to cover crimes committed outside the courtroom itself that normally are tried by juries.

BE CAUTIOUS

It is better, therefore, for Congress to err on the side of caution and to put faith and trust in the people in all sections of the country, rather than to assume in advance that they cannot be trusted in the jury box. To apply such faith is to follow the path of reason as against emotionalism.

For the racial questions are far from settled, and those persons who think that by the order of any court, the people of the South or of any other section will approve an edict which they honestly believe is not constitutional just do not understand the workings of human nature.

It's a condition rather than a theory which confronts the nation in dealing with the racial question which now has begun to present problems in all parts of the country, and not just in the South. Violence will not solve it, nor will coercion by broad injunctive orders of the courts. An adjusted society has to come voluntarily out of the processes of reason.

The amendment to the law which would grant jury trials in contempt cases involving alleged crimes is bound to assist the cause of reason. It puts the responsibility squarely upon the people to see to it that jury trials are fairly conducted and fairly resolved.

There are, of course, extremists on both sides. Their number will diminish, however, only as a sense of fairness develops through the application of reason instead of violence. That's why the grant of a jury trial in criminal contempt cases would be a progressive step toward a better understanding of the responsibilities of citizenship.

But if Congress, on the other hand, does deny jury trials, far more ground will be lost than gained in the emotionally complicated, if not presently unsolvable, problem of sociology and government.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Many Readers Believe Iodin Ration Cuts Colds

A reader writes from Kittery, Maine:

"I am 44 and have been troubled for several winters with severe colds and a run-down condition. But last October, I began taking the iodin ration. Now I feel fine and have had no trouble with colds all winter. I thank you and hope you will keep the articles going in the paper."

DR. BRADY

In the first place, I haven't the least idea what ails a person purporting to have a severe cold or a slight cold.

From the letter, one might infer that I (Brady) advised or suggested iodin as a remedy for any of the common respiratory infections which are so frequently spread via conversation spray—such ailments as measles, scarlet fever, diphtheria, infantile paralysis, meningitis, mumps, pneumonia, influenza, acute sore throat, and tonsillitis.

In the pamphlet, The Iodin Ration, for which send stamped, self-addressed envelope, I say nothing about prevention of CRI (common respiratory infections), although I do give many reasons why every one should get a wee bit of iodin every day.

READERS REPORT

I must admit, however, that for years readers have been reporting, as this Kittery man does, that, since they began taking the Iodin Ration, they have become less susceptible to (please excuse the word "colds.")

It is beyond my ken to affirm or deny this. I just don't know whether iodin deficiency makes one more susceptible to any or all respiratory infections or whether an adequate intake of iodin has any specific influence on natural immunity.

All I can say about it is that an adequate daily iodin ration, as described in the pamphlet, can do no harm in any circumstances. At the same time, I advise you never to take a medicinal dose of iodin or iodid except by direction of your own physician.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac Michigan.

LI'L ONES

"Need somebody to take care of the store while you're out to lunch, Mr. Kane?"

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Stalking a Man? Here Are Tricks

Nancy says the romance with Hank is brewing but he still evades the final act of "popping the question". Although he now is in love with her and has talked about marriage, he doesn't set any date. So she wants further advice. Scrapbook this Case Record, for it may come in handy in the future.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case V-303: Nancy M., aged 29, is the young widow whom I introduced to Hank, the bachelor described earlier this week.

CRANE

"Dr. Crane, I think Hank is falling in love with me," she said with shining eyes.

"And I like it, too," she added, with a blush, "for I am falling in love with him.

"But I know the difficulty in getting an old bachelor to propose. So what should I do?"

MINOR DECISION

It so happened that Hank's mother was planning to visit a sister in a distant state the following week and would thus be away for two weeks.

Hank had tipped me off about that fact as an incidental bit of his conversation with me a few days earlier.

"Wait until Hank's mother leaves," I cautioned Nancy, "for then Hank will be in a most receptive mood.

"At present, he leans upon you and his mother for emotional support. You two now serve in lieu of psychological crutches for his ego and general happiness.

"But when his mother leaves, he'll tend to place more weight on you, as the single remaining crutch. So he will lean upon you more heavily.

"That means he will be more devastated if we figuratively threaten to take the final crutch away from him.

"But meanwhile, employ the 'minor decision' technique. Don't ask him bluntly if he'd like to have a home of his own.

"Instead, get him into the habit of assenting to minor elements. The vacuum sweeper salesman does this when he inquires if the housewife would rather have delivery on Saturday or Monday.

"The salesman thus assumes the customer wants his merchandise but gets her to assent to minor decisions and soon she has nodded her head until the habit has started, so he hands her his pen for the dotted-line stage.

"Well, Nancy, you employ this same method on Hank. Ask him if he'd prefer a formal church wedding or an elopement."

CRUTCHLESS HANK

Sure enough, when Hank's mother left for the two-weeks' visit, Hank subconsciously leaned upon Nancy for all his emotional support.

And Nancy played her cards very deftly. She employed the "minor decision" method on Hank, and he preferred the elopement, he said.

But still he delayed. He admitted by now that he loved her and wanted her for his wife. But he didn't say when!

So Nancy came back for more advice.

"His mother has been gone for a week, and still no action," she confessed forlornly. "Do you think Hank is a hopeless case, Dr. Crane?"

Shaking my head, I suggested a radical final measure.

"We must knock the final crutch completely out from under him," I said. "You must leave him alone for a couple of days till he realizes how much he needs you.

"Could you be called out of town suddenly, as by a telegram we might hatch up?

"Or what about importing some other man for a couple of days whom you'd feel obligated to entertain, as an old friend? This 'old friend' could be a cousin or other male relative who would date you heavily for 48 hours, and thus shock Hank out of his smug complacency."

See tomorrow's follow-up.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Congratulates Committee on Memorial Day Parade

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

Just want to congratulate members of the planning committee who did such a beautiful job on the Memorial Day parade. Even God planned a beautiful day for it. Fifty years ago I stood on the same Saginaw street and watched the parade pass, veterans and their wives riding by in carriages drawn by the finest horses. How proud I was to see my grandfather, a Civil War veteran, and my grandmother, a D.A.R., among them.

Flags were flying everywhere. In those days, people didn't have to be asked to display our beautiful flag nor pay to belong to an organization to be in the parade. They were proud just to be alive so they could do it.

I do hope everyone will take time out to hang the freedom flag, our own American flag, on June 14. We owe it to all those who fought so proudly for it. It will show we haven't forgotten their sacrifice and suffering nor the homes with gold stars.

'Graham's Great Business Man'

Billy Graham, the evangelist, is one of America's greatest business men. How many performers can pack Madison Square Garden with 17,000 listeners! It costs nearly a million dollars to stage his appearance in New York. His "take" must be terrific. He has figured out one of the surest fire ways of collecting the heavy sugar that I know about. My hat's off to a great promoter and a great business man.

'I'd Smile, Too — Look at His Wife'

I saw a picture of Sam Hanks having breakfast the day after he won the 500 mile race. There was a big smile on his face and the newspaper said he was smiling as he thought of his victory. If I'd been there having breakfast, I'd have smiled, too, even if I'd finished last. Did you see Mrs. Hanks?

Prejudiced Letters Annoy Woman

I'm getting a little sick of those who write letters that are prejudiced toward Mexicans, hillbillies and Negroes. God created man in his own image, and it wasn't just Northerners or white people. Whether we live in the North or South, we're all human. In the second place, Mexican means mixture and all Mexicans don't come from Mexico. In the third place, it was a colored man who saved little Benny Hooper in the well, along with a lot of prayers from everyone the world over. God heard all their players. Why don't we all wake up and quit worrying about color, nationality and where our neighbors come from. Let's thank God we live in the U.S., a free country to all who live here.

Would Replace Board Members

Did the City Commission ever think that one reason the hospital bond issue didn't pass was because people of Pontiac wouldn't give a vote of confidence to a hospital board that had just made a $1.5 million mistake in estimates of what it would cost to build and finish the hospital? Prices have gone up and it was necessary to build a bigger hospital than was first planned, but people still wonder why they haven't enough money.

Now that a few on the board have succeeded in getting the rest to fire Lauretta Paul, who has worked 10 years for betterment of the hospital, maybe their work is finished and can be replaced, or do they have plans for her job, too?

I'm sure, if the Commission would replace some of the board members, we could get people who are interested in the hospital and the good of Pontiac instead of playing politics and fighting with personalities. Then we could finish the hospital.

Discover Forged Notes

BEDFORD, England —A forged $28 note was cashed in a store in Bedford, England, by Hungarian refugees buying clothes. Detectives believe the note, dated 1936, was one of thousands made by the Germans during the war. Some $14 notes forged by the Germans have turned up.

He Visits a Hair Clinic

Before-After Ads Have Elmer Curious

BY ELMER WHEELER

The hair tonic bottle and the comb had become Elmer's phobia. My barber was giving me another one; he had a full head of hair. So I have him up.

Then I decided maybe a visit to one of those advertised hair clinics would solve my problem. I picked out a leading one in town and sneaked into its second-floor office.

Those "before" and "after" ads really got me.

I told the man I wasn't worried much, but I'd been in the building and thought since I had a few minutes, I'd see what he had to say. Then I tried to pretend a lack of interest.

But his every movement interested me. I watched him like a country boy watches a water melon grow.

He took toothpicks. Put on pieces of cotton. He parted my hair ever so carefully. He treated my hair with great care, almost kindness. He surely showed his appreciation of the hair I had left.

He put the cotton under a microscope. He did many things that looked real scientific to me, sometimes nodding in approval, then again scowling as though he had discovered something with legs on it.

I tried to be bored about the whole thing, little knowing that a year from that day I'd be in a real panic and would be openly inviting advice, help, succor.

Finally he stopped all the testing. Took off his lenses, wiped them professionally, and after a tantalizing time, coughed and said: "Young man, within a year you'll be as bald as I am!"

Yipes — I hadn't noticed the guy was bald.

"That is," he went on, "unless you are smarter than I was and catch the trouble before it catches up with you."

I signed up for 12 treatments. Week after week I'd sneak into his office, feeling like a bookkeeper who was afraid they'd soon catch up to his embezzling.

I now became a clinic addict.

I kept it up for six months and everything was going fine, including my hair. At times hope came to me when he told me mine might be one of the cases that was curable by treatments, "expensive ones."

I became self-satisfied with myself. I was whipping baldness as I had whipped calories.

I'd perhaps consent now to let the vet give my dog the haircut.

Up until now I just coundn't see myself standing by and watching the dog's long hair fall to the floor of the vet's place.

Life was really being good to me. I was smarter than most bald boys.

STARTS BRAGGIN

Then one night, in a bragging mood, I told the wife how I was doing something that would go down in history. I had solved the baldness problem.

"Seen the back of your head lately?" she asked.

I hadn't. She advised me I had better take a good look. I did. Wow! I had a hole in the back end of my hair.

A hole in my hair.

I was so mad, I kicked the dog. He'd never get to that vet now.

Wife Resents Grilling by TV Producer Hubby

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Being married to television producer Arthur Stander was something like having a prosecuting attorney putting her on the witness stand, says actress Janis Paige.

"He was uncontrollably jealous. I was subject to hours and days of cross-examination about my past life," the auburn-haired actress testified yesterday in winning a divorce from Stander.

"And the questions were completely unjustified," she added.

Miss Paige, 33, and Stander, 40, were married Jan. 18, 1956, both for the second time.

Wife Plunges to Death From 38th Floor

CHICAGO (AP) — An estranged wife plunged to her death last night from a 38th-floor office window of the Board of Trade building, one of Chicago's tallest skyscrapers.

Police identified the woman as Mrs. Marie Devaney, 29, a secretary for a barge company with offices in the building.

They said Mrs. Devaney, mother of a 7-year-old son, had been separated from her husband John for two years.

"We Were Amazed"

Says CAR LIFE, The Family Auto Magazine

We were amazed as we drove the Special four-door hardtop, to find that an automobile could be completely changed yet retain so much of its former appearance and character. The 1957 models have all the familiar, solid Buick virtues.

THE ABOVE brief clipping tells you worlds about the '57 Buick.

It tells you we went all out to make this car completely new—yet we didn't sacrifice a single Buick virtue.

So you still get that unmistakable Buick styling.

You still get that big-car room and comfort and that solid Buick quality.

But you also get so complete a change in the vitals of this car that the driving of it is a wondrous new experience.

You get a brilliant brand of performance that's different from anything else that goes on four wheels.

Words won't describe it. Telling you there's an all-new engine, an instant new Dynaflow,* a completely new power train—none of that will convey this news to you.

What you have to do is get in this car and drive it. Drive it around the block, through town, out on the highway. Actually feel what happens when you press the gas pedal, turn the steering wheel, touch those powerful new brakes.

Then—and not till then—will you know why folks call this "the dream car to drive."

The best advice we can give you, by far, is this? Ask your dealer for a trial run today.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special. Safety-Buzzer is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

No Other Car Has All These New Features

Vertical-valve V8 engine with the "power-pack" built right in at no extra cost

Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow gives unsurpassed smoothness plus new instant response even without switching the pitch

Powerful new brakes give surer, quicker, straight-line stops to match Buick's new performance

Cradled bodies with sleek new lowness and full headroom and legroom

Low-sweep styling has flair without freakishness

Wide-frame chassis with new rigidity, new low gravity-center, gives superb roadability and full road clearance

Full-length drop-center torque tube drive braces rear-end assembly, imparts ride stability, enables use of soft coil springs at rear wheels

Ball-joint front suspension provides easier steering, surer cornering, levelized stops

Super-panoramic windshield has up to 200 square inches added for safer vision

New "nested" ride—never before so smooth, soft, buoyant

—PLUS Over 150 Other Sparkling New Features

Exclusive With Buick SAFETY-BUZZER* —the "built-in conscience" that buzzes when you reach the miles-per-hour you want to stay under, keeps silent when you drop below that pace.

5 Eye Senate in Wisconsin

GOP Hopefuls Increase as Dems Also Covet McCarthy's Seat

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—The ranks of Republican candidates for the unexpired U.S. Senate term of the late Joseph McCarthy swelled to five after Gov. Vernon Thomson's announcement yesterday that the vacancy will be filled in a special election.

There were no positive commitments from possible Democratic candidates, but at least two of them are expected to enter the race, and several more have said they are interested.

Thomson, like McCarthy a Republican, ended more than a month of speculation with the announcement that the question of a successor in the term ending Jan. 1, 1959, will be settled by the voters. McCarthy died May 2 of a liver ailment.

Those who announced plans earlier were former Gov. Walter Kohler Jr., of Kohler, who did not seek re-election after the end of his third term last year; Lt. Gov. Warren Knowles, New Richmond, serving his first term in the office; and former Rep. Glenn Davis, Waukesha, who bid for the nomination against Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis) last year.

Joining them in the race last night were Rep. Alvin O'Konski, Mercer, who had said before McCarthy's death that he was considering entering the 1959 race, and former Wisconsin Supreme Court Justice Henry P. Hughes, Oshkosh.

Bob Considine Says:

Reds Are Just Wild About Henry

NEW YORK (INS) — Wildest presumption in recent history was made by Nikita Khrushchev during his CBS television interview.

He began a sentence: "God knows . . ."

If it's pay-TV that will lure the Dodgers and Giants to California, couldn't they achieve the same where they now are? Pay-TV works even better in areas where more people live, Calvin Coolidge once wrote.

The latest copy of U.S.S.R., the Soviet Union's slick-pic magazine, confirms the Reds' strange love affair with, of all people, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

They've found "Song of Hiawatha" the biggest thing since bottled vodka. It has sold 2,493,000 copies in 15 Russian editions. Vladimir Lugovskoy, Soviet poet, chose these lines to keynote his recent address on Longfellow:

Wash the war paint from your faces,
Wash the bloodstains from your fingers,
Bury your war clubs and your weapons,
Break the red stone from this quarry,
Mold and make it into peace pipes,
Take the reeds that grow beside you,
Deck them with your brightest feathers
Smoke the calumet together,
And as brothers live henceforward!

What's that whirring noise?

COLOSSAL CYCLE

Handout from the Atomic Energy Commission notes that it has issued a license to the Intercontinental Chemical Corp. of New York for export of an atomic reactor to Germany.

Thus is a colossal cycle completed. The atomic age dawned dimly 18 years ago in the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute in Berlin, where Hahn, Strassman and Meitner isolated the one fissionable material occurring in nature — the isotope U-235.

Lise Meitner, expelled by Himmler, took the fantastic news to Bohr in Copenhagen. He brought it here. Einstein wrote the historic letter to Roosevelt which produced the $2,000,000,000 A-bomb.

Throughout almost the entire war, we went all out to beat Hitler to the A-bomb, only to learn in the final days that his best people had long since been assigned to other work—such as the V1 and V2. The remaining German physicists were still puttering around with the atom as a source of steam engine power.

Now, an eternity later, as the atom flies, Germany becomes a customer of our atomic wares.

TRANQUIL STEAKS?

You may be taking tranquilizers without realizing it. The Pfizer Agriculture Research and Development Center near Terre Haute, Ind., has been feeding the don't-give-a-damn pills to livestock. The beasts have shown notable gains in weight.

Some dog owners now pop a pill into a pooch's mouth before giving it a bath.

Charles A. Eaton Jr., president of the New Jersey Bankers Assn., says, "We bankers must face it. Despite all the progress we have made in public relations, the change in banking has not been sufficiently communicated. The ghost of the 19th Century banking image still prowls to haunt our modern industry."

With that and other admonitions in mind, the American Express Co., as an institutional promotion for its Travelers Cheque Department, has made a film proving rather conclusively that bankers really are people, and that they are not cold, are not austere, and not uninterested in the average guy with no dough.

Pretty daring stuff.

Couldn't Take Silence

SYDNEY, Australia — Locomotive engineer Tom Collins, "sent to Coventry" because he refused to join the 1955 rail strike in England, has arrived in Australia with his family. He emigrated with his wife and 13-year-old twin daughters. On arrival in Sydney, 50-year-old Collins said: "I couldn't take it any more. The silence was getting me down."

Mother Locates Her 4 Children

18-Month Search Took Parent Over Big Part of United States

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—Mrs. Virgie Wyss, 26, Lewisville, Ark., found her four children here yesterday after an 18-month search over much of the nation.

She told Dist. Judge O. Q. Claflin III she last saw them the night of Dec. 15, 1955, at Piggott, Ark., where the family then lived.

She went to church, she related, and when she returned home her husband Walter Wyss, 33, and the children were gone.

Her search led to Michigan, Illinois, Tennessee, Louisiana and California. Mrs. Wyss finally went to live with her parents in Lewisville.

Recently, she said, she was told the motor number of a black, 1949 model car her husband owned. She wrote to officials of the 48 states asking if such a car had been registered.

"I had received replies from all but six states," she testified, "when I got a letter from Topeka, Kan., the other day saying such a car had been registered here."

She came to Kansas City and hired two lawyers. They obtained a habeas corpus order from Judge Claflin yesterday. An officer took Mrs. Wyss to the address shown on the car's registration and found the children there. Her husband was at work at a junk yard.

The mother was recognized by the three older children, Phillip, 7; Rhonda, 6; and Michael, 4. But the baby, Arthur, not quite 3, couldn't remember her.

Judge Claflin said the father must appear in court and tell his side of the story or "I will have no hesitancy, and feel I will have every justification, in giving this mother her children."

Finally Earns Degree, First Enrolled in 1940

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Seventeen years after enrolling, Mrs. Adrienne LaValle, 34, Woonsocket, R. I., received her bachelor's degree from the Providence College School of Adult Education yesterday.

She enrolled in 1940. In the meantime, her schooling was interrupted at various times because of marriage, motherhood and household cares.

It's Best to Be Considerate of Lady Who Heads House

When in England, Ask About Queen

BY PHYLLIS BATTELLE

LONDON (INS)—The first thing any sensible American should do upon arrival in London — after donning his sweater, of course, and laying out his long reds for the evening — is to check over his hotel rooms and make certain everything's up to (if not including) snuff.

First off, the key to the bedroom must be heavier than the mattress on the featherbed or you're being cheated on tradition.

The bathroom should be at least the size of a 2½-room apartment in Chicago, and the tub as long as a pre-fab kiddies' wading pool and deep enough for an adult to drown in.

If there is no telephone within easy reach of the suds, so business and body can be cleaned up simultaneously, turn in the room for an older model.

Other requirements of first-class hotel accommodations are that the ceilings be high as a giraffe's eye; the temperature 10 degrees colder than the air over the Thames; the furniture so fluffily stuffy that it is difficult to arise from, and the closets spacious enough for a lady to hide in when the waiter strolls in, unannounced, with the tea and biscuits.

AMUSEDLY ALOOF

At all times, even when they find you cached in the closets as aforementioned, the waiters and valets should be amusedly aloof, not precisely condoning your peculiarly inhibited behavior, but appearing always to understand it because you did, after all, descend from a band of Puritans.

Unless all these standard appointments are appropriately present in the London hotel room, the tourist in England may as well go home to Hilton — where the towels are never heated, but the waiters are warm, where the ceilings are rarely high, but the tips are; for abandoning functional modernism for outmoded extravagance is one of the great rewards of travel to the old ancestral homeland.

After inspecting the rooms, the next step is to lug your key down to the desk, exchange your dollars for English pounds and shillings — the value of which may become plain to you after a few weeks' practice — and retire to the lobby for a sip, nip or nap among the tweeds and walking sticks.

Making friends is not to be rushed, as the English have a traditional reserve with strangers, and a new reservation with Americans.

Since Suez and the China trade fuss, a certain preponderance of the thoughtful lounge-sitting type British gentlemen may look amiss at you. They apparently do not blame President Eisenhower for the U. S. attitude, because he was a good general and often wears homburgs and plays golf.

But until you indicate you are not related to, indeed have never taken tea with, John Foster Dulles — you are a caution.

HOW IS SHE?

The recommended way to strike up a chat with the person in the neighboring overstuffed is to say something like, "Beg pardon, sir, but how is her royal highness today?"

This is possibly the only question you can ask in the United Kingdom that absolutely DEMANDS an answer, and cannot possibly be misunderstood. (Owing to language differences between American and English, you can ask for a rest room and be directed hurriedly to the nearest lying-in hospital.)

Upon being asked the condition of the Queen, a man will usually be courteous and will advise you, insofar as the papers have told him, what the royal family has been doing with its day.

Even if he has a beastly "chill" and can scarcely talk for sneezing, he will respond by giving you his morning tabloid, so you can read the royal running itinerary for yourself.

So when visiting, chaps, (whatever your other problems) it always is best to be solicitous and considerate of the lady who heads the house.

A-Tests Will Hurt Thousands, Say Medics

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three noted geneticists told Congress Monday radiation from nuclear weapons tests can be measured in shortened, damaged lives for thousands or perhaps millions of people in coming generations.

Radioactive fall-out at the present rate will add only a fraction to the total of human death and misery, they said. But irreparable harm has been done to hereditary materials which constitute the mold in which the human race is cast, they said.

Any increase in fall-out, the scientists agreed, will increase the damage proportionately because from the standpoint of genetics there is no "safe dose" of radiation.

In statement prepared for a Senate-House Atomic Energy subcommittee exploring fall-out hazards, these views were unfolded by Dr. James F. Crow of the University of Wisconsin, Dr. Bentley Glass of the Johns Hopkins University and Dr. Hermann J. Muller of the University of Indiana.

Summing up his conclusions, Crow said: "With the present levels of fall-out, the amount of genetic damage in the future generations from this cause will be a very small fraction of the total human death, disease and misery.

"On the other hand the number of persons exposed to fall-out is as large as the world population, and therefore we can be sure that several thousands, or perhaps more persons will be diseased, or deformed, or will die prematurely, or be otherwise impaired as a consequence of fall-out if the present rates of testing continue."

Muller said the number of lives that will be "seriously curtailed or injured" over the world in future generations as a result of tests already held "is in all probability in the hundreds of thousands, or millions, and is therefore enormous."

But since the injured will be scattered over the entire earth for hundreds of years, he said, they would be relatively few in comparison to those damaged from other causes, including natural changes in human genes and chromosomes which pass on traits from one generation to another.

There has been a curious official silence, he said, on findings that the main damage to individuals exposed to moderate radiation "consists of an insidious weakening of the body's resistance to the onset of infirmities and diseases of all kinds, expressing itself in a shortening of life, and also in a long-delayed production of certain specific disorders, such as leukemia."

Grow told the committee that persons now exposed to fall-out may be expected to produce two billion children — and 80,000 of them, by crude estimates, will be born with "some gross mental or physical defect of genetic origin."

He said 8,000 would be born in the first generation.

"This would be about four per million births," he said, "as compared with perhaps 50,000 from other causes."

The children would be born, Crow said, with such impairments as feeble minds, physical abnormalities, poorly clotting blood and mental disease.

In addition, he estimated that the first generation would show some 20,000 still births and infant and childhood deaths due to radiation — a rate of one child in 100,000 — plus 40,000 embryonic deaths, or two per 100,000 embryos.

"These," Crow said, "are first generation effects; the total for later generations, or the effects of continued radiation over many generations, would be much greater. Also these do not include many smaller or less tangible effects, which collectively are probably of even greater importance."

Believe Millions on Wrecked Ship

Locate Sunken Treasure

DURBAN, South Africa (AP)—A fabulous treasure ship, wrecked off South Africa's Ranskei coast 175 years ago, today was claimed located by the leader of a skin diving expedition.

The leader, Graham Reed of Capetown, said divers operating from the 100-ton motor yacht Martinetta discovered cannons and coins "positively identifying" a hulk in Lady's Bay as the East India Co. ship Grosvenor.

Reed, a wealthy retired businessman, has been described as South Africa's foremost authority on wrecks off the coast.

The Grosvenor was reported carrying a gem-encrusted peacock throne said to be worth six million pounds — then more than 30 million dollars — and other treasure valued at five million pounds when it was wrecked in 1782, en route from India to Britain.

Those figures represent the reported intrinsic value of the treasure. But if it is located, the historical worth would probably increase the figure greatly.

Divers reportedly located the wreck 100 yards off shore Saturday.

Over the years, many Spanish doubloons found lying on Ranskei beaches have lent credence to stories the Grosvenor was carrying treasure.

The divers' finds were brought up from 25 feet of water. Poor weather conditions hampered operations. Capt. P. A. Ingebriktsen, master of the Martinetta, said the seas got so bad the hunt had to be suspended.

Many attempts have been made to locate the Grosvenor hulk. Several years ago an expedition operating in the same area as the Martinetta also discovered cannon. Financial troubles forced that expedition to discontinue the search.

CONSTIPATED?

New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be remoistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE it to action; to a normal urge to purge.

And, of all laxatives, only COLONAID, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONAID'S great moisturizing capacity, plus COLONAID'S stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONAID is yet so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy.

Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONAID neither gags, bloats nor gripes; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions.

It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONAID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONAID, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! Only 98c for the 60 tablet package, brings positive relief at less than 2c per tablet.

B and K to Spend 'Pleasant Week' Visiting Finland

HELSINKI, Finland (AP)—B and K are rolling in tomorrow for what the Finns expect to develop into a Soviet show of sweetness and light toward a Western neighbor. They are bringing a first-rank delegation.

Those old globetrotters — Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev—have as their officially announced purpose discussions of Finnish-Soviet trade and relations.

But Soviet Ambassador Victor Z. Lebedev has this comment: "No outstanding problems at all exist between Finland and the Soviet Union. What we are going to discuss with the Finns is in no way unpleasant. We just look forward to a pleasant week with our Finnish friends."

The Finns expect the Russians to touch upon most topics of current interest in world affairs, such as Western plans to supply all NATO countries, including Norway and Denmark, with facilities for atomic warfare. They also believe the Russians may try to use Finnish territory as a sounding board for appeals to neutralist tendencies in Scandinavia.

The two nations signed a 10-year mutual friendship and assistance pact in 1948, and it has already been extended another 25 years.

Eight presidents of the United States were born in Ohio.

More Recollections of Early Pontiac

New Industrial Revolution Centered in Michigan

(Continuing the recollections of early days in Pontiac, by Author Pound. Reprinted from the current issue of the University of Michigan Alumnus Quarterly.)

By ARTHUR POUND

This region (Southeastern Michigan) has passed in industrial concentration all the old champions—Manchester in England, the German Ruhr, our own Pittsburgh and Chicago. Part of that remarkable change occurred right here.

Let me summarize Pontiac's contribution to that world-shaking change which is part and parcel of America's advance in worldly power and influence.

Durant's excellent history of Oakland County, published in 1877, a few years before I was born, contains only a small section on manufactures. Then the liveliest enterprise in town was a knitting mill whose product was finished off at home by women working at low piece-rates.

Great things were expected from two carriage factories and various small shops supplying them with parts, and verily that prophecy has come to pass.

One of the carriage factories is described by Durant as in direct line of descent from Pontiac's first vehicle builder, Martin Lowry, via his successor, W. D. King. The other resulted from a successful invasion by a Canadian, Robert D. Scott, or as he was usually called, "R. D."

I know a good deal about R. D. Scott because I married into a family which was kin to him and whose members still speak of him as "Uncle Scott." Born in Scotland, R. D. learned his trade at the famous Armstrong Works in Guelph, Ontario.

When our Civil War ended he cut loose from Canada, came to Pontiac, and worked for Lowry. In 1866 he set up for himself in Detroit, stuck it out two years there, then returned to Pontiac and located on West Lawrence street near the river, later moving off toward the old depot when more room was needed.

In his early years, he built buggies and spring wagons, then concentrated on road carts after 1888, while others took over buggy and light-wagon manufacture, among them C. V. Taylor, H. M. Linabury, A. G. North and Harry Hamilton.

Scott was a tremendous worker and driver, religious, a rigid old skinflint and yet a power for civic righteousness. It was sensational to hear him coach the preacher from his pew in the old Methodist Church.

His little white beard shaking in holy zeal, R. D. would shout, "Glory, glory be to God, hallelujah," whenever he thought the preacher deserved a cheer. As a business teacher and counselor of younger men, he became a force for growth not only here but also in Flint, which he recommended to two of his young workmen, W. A. Paterson and W. F. Stewart, who went there and prospered. Paterson built Flint's first carriage factory, Stewart its first body works. First and last, R. D. Scott taught a good many young fellows how to get on in life. One of his daughters married David Ward's son, Henry, but that is another story, and too long for these pages.

CARRIAGE CENTERS

The local carriage trade gained as the West became settled and America's wealth expanded. For years Pontiac and Flint were tops in the Western carriage trade. Both cities doubled their population between 1870 and 1900, when the automobile began to show itself statistically, with 74,000 working on carriages and wagons, and only 2,200 on automobiles, that is, in the whole nation.

Flint and Pontiac never liked each other, somehow—they even raced their fire teams against each other when Pontiac was the home of the State Fair—spectacles worthy of the Roman Coliseum in cruel and desperate strife.

When I went to work for The Pontiac Press at the age of 17, I discovered, as an inquisitive reporter should, that things were not always quite what they seemed in this best of all small cities, and ever since I have been a little cynical about goings-on this side of the year 1900.

My first boss, Harry Coleman, publisher, taught me not to be discouraged by human error, and instead to take long and hopeful, but not too hopeful, views. He was a most forgiving man.

When he went to Europe in 1902 or '03 he took B. J. ("Beany") Kelly off the editorial desk and put me there, at the tender age of 18, his idea being that Beany could bring in the needful with one hand, while controlling me with the other.

Beany couldn't do the impossible and, left to myself, I came out strong for primary reform and the popular election of United States Senators, then the big issue of the day.

Our State Senator, from around White Lake or somewhere off there, took the opposite side and we skinned him alive.

But to what good? When the boss came home he told me primary reform was like a barrel—sounded big when you kicked it but there was nothing inside.

"From now on," he prophesied, "we will have worse United States Senators at more election expense."

I didn't exactly lose my job right then, because circulation had been climbing all through that campaign, but pretty soon the boss and I agreed that I ought to go to college and learn a little more about politics and journalism.

Of course, Editor Coleman had grown well acquainted with Ed Murphy, Edward M. Murphy that is, the driving force in the Pontiac Buggy Company. Realizing what new manufacturing products would do for the town, Mr. Coleman contributed keen interest and helpful publicity to the moves by which Ed Murphy brought General Motors into Pontiac

Doctors to Discuss High Blood Pressure

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Scientists stildying the cuses of high blood pressure will meet at the University of Michigan here Friday and Saturday.

Their meeting will mark the 25th anniversary of Dr. Harry Goldblatt's historic discovery of how to cause hypertension — high blood pressure — in a dog.

The University of Michigan is one of several universities conducting heart research financed by the national heart institute and the Michigan Heart Assn. Five members of the University of Michigan medical -school, members of a heart research team, will present papers at the meeting.

Dr. Goldblatt found that by clamping off an artery leading to one of the kidneys of a dog, he caused the kidney to release an enzyme that speeded the breakdown of a protein in the blood and released the substance directly responsible for raising blood pressure.

Mother, Son to Get Degree at Same Time

EAST LANSING (AP) — A mother and her son enrolled in Michigan State University 35 years apart but fill graduate together.

Among the more than 2,000 graduates Sunday will be Mrs. Grace Sill Hunn of Gaines and her son, Ralph H. Sill of East Lansing.

Mrs. Hunn, in her 20th year as an elementary school teacher, has taught the past eight years at Durand. Her son will be a high school vocational agriculture instructor in Byron, Shiawassee County.

Married and a veteran of two years in the Air Force, it took him only three years to earn his bachelor of science degree.

Mrs. Hunn started at Michigan State in 1919 along with her husband, Ralph H. Sill Sr.

She interrupted her studies to raise three sons and a daughter, and after the death of her husband in 1933, she was married in 1942 to Lewis Hunn.

Mrs. Hunn started teaching regularly again after World War II. She took MSU extension courses, attended summer school and made weekly drives from Gaines to the East Lansing campus for night classes to earn her degree.

Lettering on Marquee Causes Wonderment

BISBEE, Ariz. (AP) — The man who set up the marquee lettering on the Lyric Theater for a double feature was unable to fit the title of the picture "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing" on one line, so he left it looking like this:

Love is a Many Splendored
Edge of Hell Thing.

The oldest Quaker Meeting Hou is now a city community cent in the United States, built in 1699, for children in Newport, R. I.

Senators to Quiz Defense Official

Ask Quarles, Douglas About Wilson's Brake on U.S. Contracts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators called two Defense Department officials today to discuss Secretary Wilson's brake on spending and his request that the Senate restore $1,220,000,000 of funds cut by the House.

Chairman Chavez (D-NM) of the Defense Appropriations subcommittee called Donald A. Quarles, new deputy secretary of defense, and James H. Douglas, who succeeded Quarles as secretary of the Air Force.

The subcommittee is considering the defense money bill.

Wilfred J. McNeil, assistant secretary of defense who has been Pentagon "business manager" since 1949, spent hours yesterday explaining the complicated controls over the multibillion-dollar defense programs.

Sen. Symington (D-Mo), former secretary of the Air Force who has been critical of administration policies, engaged in several exchanges with McNeil, mostly about two directives last month by Wilson.

One directive ordered the Air Force, Army and Navy to cut back contracts this month by half a billion dollars. The other banned new contracts for equipment, with some exceptions, unless the agencies had funds on hand to pay the complete costs.

Symington contends this might cut Air Force programs by as much as 3½ billion dollars.

But McNeil insisted that total was much too high. He added that Secretary Douglas already had asked Wilson to exempt some programs.

The blazer, an increasing popular item of sports attire, takes its name from the British warship Blazer. Over 100 years ago, before naval uniforms became common, the Blazer's fashion-conscious captain outfitted his crew in blue jackets with brass buttons, according to the National Geographic Society.

AEC Head Defends 'Small Risk' of A-Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atomic Energy Commissioner Willard F. Libby told Congress today nuclear bomb testing is a "small risk" that must be measured against "the risk of annihilation . . . if we surrendered the weapons."

Libby's testimony was prepared for a Senate-House Atomic Energy subcommittee investigating effects of radiation and fallout. Other scientists have testified that excessive man-made radiation from bomb tests and other sources can cause cancers and damage to future generations.

"It is not contended that there is no risk," said Libby, an atomic physicist, but he contended there are risks in many human activities.

He mentioned the 40,000 annual highway deaths, risk of drowning at beaches and "accidents in the home."

"Here our choice seems much clearer," he said. "Are we willing to take this very small and rigidly controlled risk, or would we prefer to run the risk of annihilation which might result if we surrendered the weapons which are so essential to our freedom and actual survival?"

"Massive use" of nuclear weapons in war, he said, not only would cause widespread cancers and leukemia but would produce abnormalities in future generations far beyond what might be caused by fallout from weapons testing.

He struck out also, without mentioning it specifically, at criticism of the Atomic Energy Commission by those who say it has kept under wraps information about the danger of fallout.

Libby said the commission has made public all information from its Project Sunshine, designed to measure the effect of fallout from weapons tests, with the exception of "certain facts which would reveal information concerning intelligence and weapon design."

He said the information still kept secret "is not vital in the understanding of fallout, its effects and its hazards."

The ultimate decision as to whether to seek an end to weapons tests, Libby said, "calls for a political or sociological—rather than a scientific—judgment."

School Budget 'Tragic Error': Williams Hits Legislative Decision

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — The 1957-58 school budget approved by the Legislature was assailed by Gov. Williams last night as "a tragic error."

Williams laid the blame on "an unbelievably myopic legislative leadership which made 'hold the line' a sacred theme for the 1957 session."

Addressing the state convention of the Blue Star Mothers, the Democratic governor criticized the Republican-dominated Legislature for a "no progress" policy toward education.

"In the face of all evidence to the contrary," he said, "it was decided that no further progress was needed in the development of Michigan's education system."

As a result, he said, "there will be no preparation for the coming hordes of students, no taking up of the blacklog of needs."

Williams singled out for attack the state school aid bill, which retains the $190 per pupil state aid formula but raises the deductible milliage rate from 2½ to 2¼ mills.

This, he said, provides for less money than schools got this year.

State supported colleges and universities also suffered when the Legislature "forced" them to raise tuition rates 25 per cent, Williams declared.

Foreign Aid Bill Nearly Complete

Senator Says Revision May Include Big Cut, Authorizations Curb

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) said today the Senate Foreign Relations Committee probably will complete action this weekend on a new foreign aid bill.

Mansfield, a committee member and assistant Democratic floor leader, predicted President Eisenhower's request for $3,855,000,000 in new spending authority would be cut by "several hundred million dollars."

He and other members of the committee forecast a "rewriting" of the administration-drafted foreign aid bill to keep both authorizations and appropriations "subject to the usual annual review by congressional committees."

John B. Hollister, director of the International Cooperation Administration, which supervises both military and economic aid, made his final plea to a closed session of the committee yesterday for long-range flexible authority for the President.

He urged the committee to make future appropriations for both military weapons and defense supports a part of the regular Defense Department budget. He asked also that authority for appropriations for both be provided on a permanent basis.

French Hotels to Ask for Less Information

PARIS (AP)—Tourists staying in French hotels will have fewer questions to answer in the future.

A government order published today says the police forms which every hotel guest is supposed to fill out will no longer ask from where the traveler came, where ie is going, or the object of his journey.

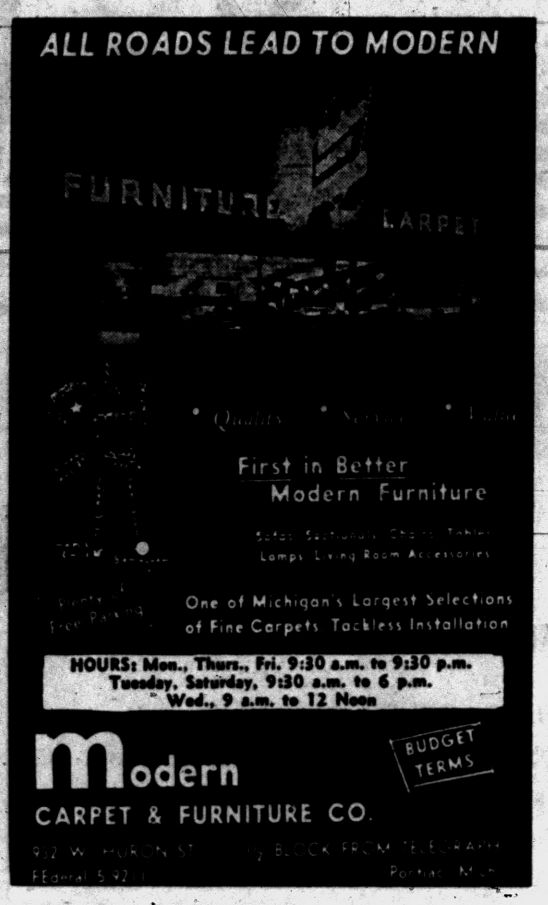

All the visitor has to tell now is his name, date and place of birth, profession, nationality, passport number and usual residence.

McClellan May Ask Corrective Action

Hits 5th Amendment Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) said today he will propose a "corrective" constitutional amendment if the courts uphold the right of witnesses to make frivolous use of the Fifth Amendment.

McClellan said he doubts the Senate will hesitate about ordering contempt of Congress prosecution of Dave Beck Jr., son of the Teamsters Union president.

That would be a test case seeking a court definition of just when a witness gets off base in invoking his Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination.

McClellan, presiding at a Senate Rackets Committee hearing yesterday, ordered steps to cite Beck and Joseph McEvoy, another witness, for contempt. He said a formal citation should be ready within 10 days.

He said they had made "frivolous and capricious" use of the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer many questions about their alleged profits from dealings with the Teamsters Union. McEvoy married a niece of the senior Mrs. Beck.

The younger Beck invoked the Fifth Amendment 130 times in 40 minutes yesterday. He refused even to acknowledge kinship to his father, who previously had declined to tell the committee whether he misappropriated union funds. McClellan said the committee may cite the elder Beck too.

The committee starts hearings tomorrow on allegations of misuse of funds raised by some officials of the 160-member Bakers Union.

Political Maneuver

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—After Oklahoma Football Coach Bud Wilkinson narrated the film of the OU victory over Notre Dame to the State House of Representatives, the solons decided to honor him.

They voted to make Wilkinson an honorary page, and then made Dr. George L. Cross, president of OU, honorary head page "so we can ride herd on Bud and not let him get away to some other school."

What Is Happening

Will Beeson is telling the story. His home has been the Box P ranch in Easter Valley in frontier Colorado ever since Joe and Sarah Pardee took him in, a homeless, hungry kid, seven years back. Will, having the deepest affection for the Pardees, was distressed by the bitterness between Joe and his wife, Sarah, who has lived in a wheel chair since an accident.

One morning Will rode with Joe Pardee and Gene Dillingham, another of Joe's cowhands, to meet Al Beam, who has challenged Pardee's domination of Easter Valley. When Joe cornered Beam, he was the loser in the duel. Dillingham killed Beam in a rage of grief. Dying of his wounds, Joe told Beeson: "Take care of Kathy Morgan," referring to a young woman who had attracted Joe's interest.

Sarah, taking charge of the ranch, names Beeson as foreman. This makes him an enemy, for Gene Dillingham has expected to get the job. Going further, Sarah gives Beeson 49 per cent ownership of the Box P, to make him eligible to be a member and assert authority in the Easter Valley Cattlemen's association. Joe Pardee had been its president. The new president, Alec Dodson, is not the fighter for the ranchers' rights that Joe was. Will wants to maintain Joe Pardee's iron-fisted policy of keeping the valley free of homesteaders, but Sarah opposes violence "to protect grass we don't own." When two newcomers, John Mathers and Al Romig, come to Box P to inquire about land in the valley, her new ranch partner's hostility to them angers Sarah. Will's own anger is greater when, later, he learns from Kathy Morgan that Mathers and Romig are preparing to bring a colony of fifty families to live in the valley, aided by Merle Turner, an Easter Valley man. Turner is a crony of Dillingham's and an enemy of everyone else in the valley. Will goes to Mathers to warn him to give up his colonization scheme. . . .

Chapter 9

I hadn't touched Mathers. He was a dreamer, and a stupid one at that, with no notion whatever of what life in Easter Valley would be for a bunch of greenhorn farmers.

I rode back to Alton's Trading Post, thinking hard. Mathers had been warned. If he came again in the spring, the death of his people would be on his head. I knew what I had to do. I'd stop him. No matter what Sarah said, I'd stop him.

I tied my horse at the rail in front of the trading post and stood there a moment, thinking about what Alec Dodson had said that morning: "I won't fight for the Box P and you won't fight for Anchor."

But we couldn't wait to see who had to fight. Once those fifty families were in the valley, they'd stay; but if we could stop them in the canyon . . .

I went into Alton's place and closed the door behind me. In the summertime I could stand it because the door was always open, but now, in the cold weather, the smell was so bad I wouldn't have come in if I could have helped it.

Alton was about sixty, a stringy man with all his front teeth gone and long hair that he continually brushed back from his forehead. He never took a bath, seldom shaved, and as far as I knew he was wearing the same suit of buckskin he'd worn when I'd come to the country seven years ago.

Alton was not entirely to blame for the smell. The big room was filthy. He bought furs and hides, and often stored them at one end of the room. He kept supplies there, and sometimes his meat spoiled long before he got around to throwing it out.

He lived alone except for a Mexican kid who did the chores and slept in the barn. He had no family, but he was the greediest man I had ever met. He was a coward, and crafty, and his word meant nothing, but I thought I could get him to do what I wanted if I handled him right.

When Alton saw me, he got up from where he had been sitting by a window patching a pair of pants.

"Coley," I said, "you know the two greenhorns who just drove downriver?"

"Why, I wouldn't say I know them, Mr. Beeson," he said cautiously. "They stopped on their way into the valley, and stopped again just now."

"They tell you they'd be back in the spring?"

A crafty expression worked into his faded eyes. He wasn't sure what I was getting at, but the possibility of making a dollar was never absent from his mind.

"Well, now, Mr. Beeson, I don't just recollect."

"All right, Coley," I said. "This is worth $100 to me if you do what I want you to."

He didn't say anything until he cut off a chew of tobacco from a worn plug and stuffed it into his mouth. He worked on it, eying me; then he said: "I'd like to help out, Mr. Beeson. I truly would. But if it ain't legal . . . "

I was angry then. The formality of being legal had never bothered him. "I figure to shoot a few settlers," I said, "but if you don't have the stomach for it you're not my man."

I had started to turn, when he said hastily: "Now don't get your tail up, Mr. Beeson. It's just that I have to be careful."

I laid five gold eagles on the bar. "Coley, if you agree to my proposition, you get this now and the rest in the spring." I waited while he studied the money. Then I took my knife out of my pocket. "I've cut a lot of calves with this knife, Coley. If you double-cross me, I'll do the same with you."

He jumped back, his gaze on the knife, then on me, and finally on the money. He whispered: "Mr. Beeson, I wouldn't sell you out. I'm deeply hurt by—"

"Then it's a deal?"

He nodded, and pocketed the money.

"When will Mathers and his bunch be back?"

"The middle of April."

"It's a good day's pull to the valley from here," I said, "so they'll camp on the river. As soon as you see them roll in, you saddle up and get word to me. Not Mrs. Pardee or Dillingham. Me! Savvy?"

"I can't ride that far," he said unhappily.

"Send Pablo then."

He nodded, relieved. "I'll do that."

I fingered the blade of my knife. "If you tell Mathers or any of his outfit that you sent word to me . . . "

"I won't tell them," he said. "I truly promise that I won't."

I closed my knife slowly and slipped it into my pocket, looking at Alton all the while. I turned and walked out into the cold, sweet air and mounted and rode up the creek.

It was long after dark when I got home. Curly King heard me and came out of the bunkhouse, carrying a lantern. A few snowflakes whirled between us as he approached.

"Say, you made a day of it, Will," he said. "Mrs. Pardee is some worried."

"I'll go see her."

"I'll put your horse up. You best get into the house. She's sure fretful."

"Curly," I said, "suppose a lot of settlers hit the valley next spring. Not just a half dozen like we've had, but say fifty or more. What will your dad and your neighbors do?"

In the thin light that came through the smoke - blackened chimney of the lantern, I saw the worry that tightened his boyish face. Finally he said: "I'll help you fight, Will. You can count on me."

I grabbed his arm. "What about your dad and the others?"

He shook his head. "They won't fight. They know they won't have no trouble in their end of the valley. The trouble will be here where there's enough water for irrigation. You know how it is where Dad lives. Not even enough stock water sometimes."

I let him go, then, and turned toward the house. I told myself I'd known all the time I couldn't count on much help.

When I went into the house, Sarah looked up from her sewing, relief a sudden light in her face. "Will, what have you been doing? I've been worried."

"What could happen to me?" I asked. "Worrying is a bad habit."

"I know," she said. "I'm selfish, I guess. I just don't want to think of what would happen to me if you —" She stopped, biting her lips; then she called, "Maria, Will's back. Dish up his supper."

I walked past Sarah into the kitchen. I couldn't tell her where I had been and what I had done. The die was cast. I couldn't back away from the job I had assumed. I had made it too plain to Mathers. And I had made a deal with Coley Alton.

Predicts Curb Parking Ban Within Ten Years

DETROIT (INS) — The executive director of the National Parking Association predicts American cities will be forced to ban all curb parking within the next 10 years.

William G. Barr, speaking to 500 delegates at the Association's sixth annual convention in Detroit, said:

"There are now 61 million cars. By 1965, there will be 85 million. They must have room to operate."

The experts say:

PLYMOUTH—"YOUR OVER-ALL BEST BUY"

The experts have seen 'em all, driven 'em all, tested 'em all, and they agree—the pick of the field is Plymouth. So don't spend a penny on any car until you've read the documented Plymouth facts right here, right now—and driven the years-ahead Plymouth.

VALUE WINNER

CAR LIFE, the family auto magazine, sums up its Mid-Year Report with these words: "CAR LIFE chooses Plymouth as today's Over-all Best Buy because we feel that it offers more and better transportation value than any other 1957 car regardless of price."

ECONOMY WINNER

Plymouth swept its field in the Mobilgas Economy Run . . . won first place for economy in "Class A"—the division that included all the well-known low-priced cars! Plymouth is proved the big economy car of the low-price field!

HANDLING WINNER

The 1957 MOTOR TREND Award for "significant engineering advancement" went to Chrysler Corporation cars—and Plymouth is the No. 1 car of Chrysler Corporation. As the award stated, it is for "Superior Handling and Roadability Qualities," made possible by Torsion-Aire suspension.

STYLING WINNER

Dell's 1957 CARS ANNUAL gives PLYMOUTH the "Style Leader of the Year Award," as . . . "Style Leader of the American Automotive Industry." Recognition from the experts of Plymouth's superb styling, which has helped make it the world's most wanted car.

Enjoy great TV entertainment from Plymouth! The laugh and love hit of the year, "DATE WITH THE ANGELS," starring BETTY WHITE, and LAWRENCE WELK'S "TOP TUNES AND NEW TALENT." See TV section for time and station.

Oldsters Can Be Stylish, Too

Youth Has No Corner on Fashion

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

One of the most interesting programs during New York City's Senior Citizens' Month was the all-day fashion show and grooming demonstration for older people.

This was sponsored by the Federation of Protestant Welfare Agencies and was held at Christ Church, Park avenue. For the first time professional fashion and grooming experts paid attention to the needs of the older person.

Following are a few quotations from the address of Albert J. Abrams, director of the New York State Joint Legislative Committee on Problems of Aging. Mr. Abrams said, "America's older people need to throw off the black garb of defeatism and despair into which a youth-geared civilization has cast them.

Also, "Grandma should not dress like Marilyn Monroe but the new look for senior citizens must call for dignity, not despair, or optimism, not retreat. A new wardrobe at 60 will make one feel like 40 and a sparkling dress or hair style will act like one of the new miracle energizers."

It seems to me that those are ringing inspirational and fundamental words which need to be said over and over again. People think themselves into old age and adopt the black dreary attire to match it.

I have been harassing my readers for years to get out of the black habit. Many mature women wear it like a uniform. Colors do wonders not only for your skin and hair but for your spirit.

PUBLIC INTEREST

On the second day of Senior Citizens' Month, A. Bernice Quimby, federation executive editor, said that the purpose of the meeting was "to stimulate public interest in the clothing and grooming needs of a dramatically expanding older age population, and to emphasize to older people themselves that attractiveness and charm are not attributes of the young alone."

Miss Quimby called attention to the fact that there are now 14½ million people past 65 in the United States and that it is estimated that this number will increase to 21 million by 1970.

It seems to me that the future certainly belongs to age as well as to youth especially in light of current medical strides to make middle and older age more vital, to prolong the youthful portion of life.

Tomorrow: "New York's Senior Citizen Project Aided Older Folks."

". . . Attractiveness and charm are not the attributes of the young alone."

Asks Rule About Gifts for Hostess

Reader Wondering if It's Necessary to Take Presents

By EMILY POST

A reader writes: "There seems to be a disagreement about the necessity for taking presents to one's hostess when going to spend a weekend. So to set us straight, will you please tell us just what is customary according to etiquette among well-mannered guests?"

Answer: Etiquette does not exact that anyone take a gift to his (or her) hostess or even that anything be sent afterwards—except a thank-you note. On the other hand, to take a box of candy or a book is a courteous gesture that many people like to make.

Where there are young children, guests almost always bring them toys. Often these are no more than trifles. But children are always so pleased with a present — and this naturally pleases their mother, too.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I go to a junior high school. We have a recreation period twice a week when the boys and girls are allowed to dance to a record player.

"Most of the girls dance among themselves and sometimes a boy asks a girl to dance with him. Most of the boys, however, stand idly by and do not ask the girls to dance. Would it be wrong for the girls to ask the boys to dance during these school recreation periods?"

Answer: Ordinarily the girls are not supposed to ask the boys to dance. But at your age it is well to remember that the boys are often shy and therefore it will be understood if the girls help the boys to overcome their shyness by asking them to dance.

By and by the boys will find out that they like to dance with certain girls and will start asking them themselves.

"Dear Mrs. Post: We have our living quarters over our store. Visitors must go through the store to enter our house. When leaving, is it proper to escort our visitors all the way down to the outside door, or may we say our goodbyes at the door upstairs?"

Answer: It would be more gracious if you saw them all the way to the outside door.

Matinee Musicale Concludes Season

Twenty-five members of the Matinee Musicale Club gathered Sunday afternoon for their final meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. David Eicher on Winterberry drive.

Don't Ask Child to OK Punishment

BY MURIEL LAWRENCE

A mother writes: "Several days ago our 12-year-old girl was invited to the movies by a friend's parents. Soon after, I discovered that she'd left the iron on, scorching a hole in my ironingboard cover. I made her break the date. Since then she's hardly spoken to me. All her life she's held this kind of grudge after punishment."

Maybe she knows how much her mother wants her to say, "I'm sorry. You were right to punish my carelessness."

Eagerness for a punished child's remorse is usually eagerness for his reassurance. It's then he can't feel remorse. He senses our uncertainty of the punishment's rightness. And what he resents is not the punishment but our pretense that we're sure we've done the right thing.

In the case cited, she knows that we're seeking comfort for ourselves, not her realization of the danger of forgetting to switch off the iron.

If we're uncertain that we have punished justly, it's wise to acknowledge this to ourselves — and release the child from the obligation to reassure us by saying "I'm sorry."

WORDS UNNECESSARY

It's not necessary to give him this release in words. It can be done within ourselves through the realization that we have been romantic to look to the child for moral support.

The moment we see this, resentment of this daughter's refusal of it will disappear and her mother's reduced expectations of her will enable her to treat her kindly again.

No parent can always be sure he's given the right punishment.

Sooner or later, we all have to learn to tolerate the possibility that we've done the wrong thing —and surrender our idea of ourselves as a person who must always do the perfect thing.

Until this kind of self-acceptance is gained, we remain as intolerant of children's mistakes as we are of our own. As we must have only perfect responsibility toward electric irons from our daughter, so we must have only perfect decisions from ourselves.

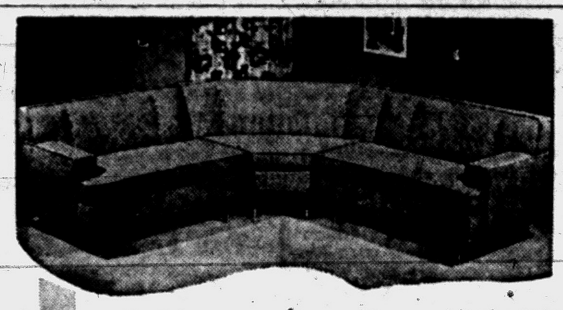

It's been deficiency in our own training that makes it necessary to seek a youngster's "I'm sorry" after we've punished him.

Our need of it tells us we have some growing up to do. A 12-year-old daughter is not our parent. It is not her business to judge goodness and badness for us.

We only ask her to make it her business becuase we have not had enough experience in entrusting these judgments to our own conscience.

Self-exoneration is a discipline required of us all.

Chicken Tetrazzini sounds impressive and difficult. It may be the former, but it certainly isn't the latter, if you use Mrs. Harry Flood's recipe.

Mrs. Flood enjoys church work, is vice president of the women's association of her church. She likes to play bridge.

CHICKEN TETRAZZINI
By Mrs. Harry Flood

1 package macaroni and cheese (ready-to-fix)
1 small glass jar boned chicken
1 small can mushrooms
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
¼ pound blanched almonds
2 tablespoons sherry wine
½ cup grated American cheese

Prepare package of macaroni and cheese as directed. Place in buttered casserole. Cover with layer of chicken. Add layer of drained mushrooms.

Mix soup and wine with enough liquid from mushrooms to make a cream sauce consistency. Pour over ingredients in casserole. Cover with cheese.

Top with slivered almonds. Bake about 30 minutes in 350-degree oven, or until cheese is melted and lightly browned. Serves 6-8.

CONSIDER YOUR HAIR

With the proper care your hair can be your most attractive asset . . . systematic attention is the secret . . . especially in summer months. Sun is the most damaging weather condition we have to deal with.

The hair root is alive but the shaft is not. When the hairshaft is damaged by the sun it is difficult to do much for it. Treatments help to keep the hair manageable until a new hairshaft is grown out but the best treatment is one of prevention. Protect the hair from the sun by scarf or hat whenever possible. Apply a good hair creme every few days and brush well. Have a professional hair treatment once a month in summer. This will save you many discouraging weeks in the fall. Be sure your shampoo is not too strong, ask your beautician about it.

Barbara Boncher Wears Tulle Gown for Wedding

A bridal gown of nylon tulle accented with lace was worn by Barbara Boncher for her marriage Saturday to Donald Morrissey.

The gown was fashioned with a Queen Anne collar, long tapered sleeves and a bouffant floor-length skirt worn over a hoop. Alternate side tiers of lace and tulle were featured on the skirt.

Red roses and white carnations comprised the bridal bouquet arranged in a cascade. A crown of seed pearls secured her veil of fingertip length.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Boncher of Rochester are parents of the bride, and Donald's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Morrissey of Pontiac Lake road.

The 10 o'clock ceremony was solemnized at St. Vincent de Paul Church by the Rev. Fabian Webber. Two-hundred guests attended the service.

GOWNED IN GREEN

Mrs. Robert Boncher, matron of honor, wore a light green dress with darker green accents. She carried a cascade arrangement of red roses and daisies.

Bridesmaids Donna Scholtz and Monica Maloney were dressed identically to the matron of honor. Linda Boncher, niece of the bride, wore white embroidered nylon frock for her duties as flower girl.

Michael Morrissey, twin brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Thomas Flannigan and Robert Boncher.

For the reception held at a hall on West Pike street, Mrs. Boncher wore a blue sheath dress with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Mrs. Morrissey wore an avocado green dress sheath with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

For traveling to northern Michigan, the bride changed to a beige sheath with red accessories and a corsage from her bridal bouquet. The newlyweds will reside on Auburn road on their return.

Don't Shrug Off Others' Problems

By ANNE HEYWOOD

As a rule, most of us are very sympathetic to people who have the same problems we have, but we are very unsympathetic to people who have different problems from ours.

"He's got nothing to worry about," a friend of mine said, "he's got a job he loves."

But the "he" in question had poor health and a miserable marriage! He had, in short, plenty to worry about.

My friend, however, has good health and a good marriage, but because he has a job he hates, he thinks the other man hasn't a care in the world.

We're all that way to some extent. It pays to watch it—if we want to keep our personal relationships in good repair.

EARNING BY PHONE

Some time back, for example, I wrote a piece about making money by telephone.

I told about a woman who was an invalid. She was lonely, isolated and in need of extra income.

Selling by phone brought her extra income, a sense of participation in the world, and a really sociable time with her telephone "friends."

As a result of that article, hundreds of readers wrote saying they would be interested in the same kind of work; but one or two wrote letters of a very different kind.

"It's a nuisance," one of them said, "to be bothered by people telephoning like that.

PEACE AND QUIET

"I work hard all day. When I come home, I want to be alone and have peace and quiet. Then the phone rings, and it's one of those people trying to make a sale."

She didn't care that "one of those people" might be a lonely, isolated cripple, who had virtually no other contact with the world. This woman had plenty of contact with the world—too much, in fact, and she wanted only peace.

Actually, it can be a little irritating to have somebody solicit your order on the phone.

However, it doesn't happen often—not many people care for that kind of work—but when it does, you can say "No thanks" and hang up.

Remember that the person calling you may need the job badly. The least you can do is put up with it.

USE AS EXERCISE

In fact, if you have the will power, you can even use it as an exercise in developing empathy—the capacity for seeing things through the other person's eyes.

It can be practiced on simple telephone calls. Once developed, it can speed your success and enrich your life more than anything I know.

If you want to develop this point of view, a good first step is to send for my pamphlet, "Pointers Toward an Open Mind." A stamped, self-addressed envelope sent care of The Pontiac Press will bring it to you.

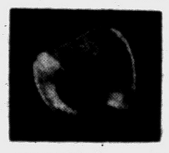

After you've opened your mind, you'll be able to see the other fellow's point of view. And after that, you'll move onward and upward, for sure!

Both Teams Lead League Hurling

Pitching Carries Sox, Phils

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Just how much does pitching count these days in the majors?

To the Chicago White Sox it means a five-game American League lead. And to the Philadelphia Phillies it means a sudden and surprising surge that now has carried to within 1½ games of first place in the national.

The weak-hitting White Sox lead the majors with 19 complete games from their pitching staff. The Phillies' staff tops the National with 18.

Last night offered a pretty fair example of how the two clubs have been getting the job done. Little Billy Pierce, the winningest pitcher in either league, won his ninth with a two-hitter that beat the Boston Red Sox 1-0 in 10 innings. It was Pierce's seventh complete game, fifth in a row, for the top AL total.

The Phillies edged up on first place Cincinnati by defeating the Redlegs 3-1 on the three-hit pitching of Harvey Haddix, who won his fourth and collected his second complete game although weakened by a month-long bout with a virus.

With Pierce at work, the second place New York Yankees gained no ground with their 7-4 victory over Cleveland that pushed the third place Tribe 6½ games back. Baltimore moved to within a half-game of sixth place Kansas City, beating the A's 9-7; and Washington knocked off Detroit 4-3.

While the Phillies, who like the White Sox have won seven of their last nine games, were dumping the Redlegs, the Brooklyn Dodgers claimed a full share of third place, two games behind, with a 7-5 success over the Chicago Cubs.

Milwaukee's Braves slipped into fourth, three games back, with an 8-7 13-inning defeat by the New York Giants. Pittsburgh quit the celler with a 5-4 verdict over St. Louis.

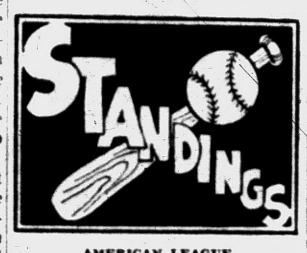

The White Sox have gotten complete games in six of their last seven victories and Pierce chipped in his second in that span with a seven-strikeout job. He walked none while giving up a double to Billy Klaus in the third and single to Norm Zauchin in the eighth. The Sox finally got around to backing him up when Nellie Fox lined a one-out, bases-loaded single off reliever Ike Delock.

Pierce, 30, southpaw who has lost two, has permitted one earned run in 38 innings. He leads the majors with 64 strikeouts.

The Yankees slammed 12 hits, one a ninth-inning home run by Hank Bauer, and wrapped it up with three-run bursts in the first and third for Tom Sturdivant's fourth victory. Mickey Mantle (3-for-4), Yogi Berra (2-for-4) and Bauer (1-for-4)—fined $1,000 along with Billy Martin and pitcher Whitey Ford Monday for their nightclub scrap — had half the Yankee hits off loser Bud Daley and two relievers.

The Phillies sent Brook Lawrence to his third defeat with a pair of runs in second on an error, a triple by Chico Fernandez and a sacrifice fly by Haddix, 31. The lefty struck out nine, walked two and got out of a two-on, none-out jam in the ninth.

Nats' Catcher Hits Home Run to Beat Tigers

Maas Victim of 4-3 Loss; Tighe Angry at Reno Bertoia

DETROIT (AP)—Early this season, Clint Courtney worked his way into the Washington Senator's doghouse for reasons that never have been fully explained.

He worked his way back into the Nat's lineup last night only because the starting catcher, Lou Berberet, caught a foul tip with the wrong hand.

Courtney, the little man they call "Scrap Iron" made the infrequent appearance pay off, striking his second home run of the season for the payoff blow in a 4-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers before 15,568 spectators.

Courtney relieved Berberet in the second inning and cracked his homer in the seventh. It was the last of three Washington home runs. The others, also solo drives, were by Jim Lemon and Rocky Bridges.

All of them came off Duke Maas, the club's leading winner and also its chief home-run-giver-upper. Maas now has yielded eight round-trippers.

Maas, who fanned eight batters, wild pitched the other Washington run across in the fifth inning.

His mates were near-helpless in the clutch against Truman Clevenger, a young righthander making only his second Major League start, and Bud Byerly, who hurled the final inning after Clevenger tired.

Tiger manager Jack Tighe was especially put out at 22-year-old Reno Bertoia, who took a third strike on a 3-2 pitch in the eighth inning. The Tigers had runners at first and third with one away when Bertoia was called out. Courtney threw to third base to Eddie Yost, who tagged pinch runner Jim Small trying to steal the base.

"We had to run," Tighe explained. "We had to get the winning run in scoring position."

The Tigers were trailing 4-3 when all this happened. Tighe criticized Bertoia, first for taking the pitch, and second for turning away from the plate giving the catcher a clear shot at third base.

He said he wasn't sure whether Bertoia would be at third base when the Senators and Tigers met today.

Frank Lary was scheduled to pitch today against Russ Kemmerer (0-0). Lary has a 2-7 record, and has finished only four of 10 starts.

May Start for All-Stars

Pierce Is Casey's Pick

NEW YORK (INS) — Billy "the kid" Pierce may have the novel distinction of being Casey Stengel's starting pitcher in this year's All-Star game and the opening game pitcher for Al Lopez in the world series.

Pierce, southpaw whiz of the Sox, lengthened his majors-leading pitching mark to 9-2 last night with a masterful, 1-to-0, two-hit shutout in ten innings over the Boston Red Sox.

The victory, achieved via a bases-loaded single by Chisox clutch man Nellie Fox, kept Chicago five games up front in the race.

And the steel-nerved Pierce who has been the American League's starting pitcher three times in the last four All-Star games, got some high praise from manager Lopez, an astute judge of pitching talent.

"I would have to say he is one of five best pitchers in the league," Lopez declared. Al, the former Indian chieftain, listed the 30-year-old southpaw with Early Wynn, Bob Lemon, Whitey Ford and Herb Score.

And, continued Lopez, "Pierce rates better than Score because he has better control."

Sports fans in the Pontiac area can take part in this year's game at St. Louis July 9th by voting for their favorite players in either the American or National Leagues.

Just mail the ballot in today to the Press Sports Department.

Patterson's 1st Defense July 29

NEW YORK — Emil "The Giant Killer" Lence, an avowed independent promoter, has $175,000 for radio-TV rights and a definite date, Monday July 29 for Floyd Patterson's first heavyweight title defense at the Polo Grounds.

Although Tommy "Hurricane" Jackson, the challenger, told newsmen he would like to fight for nothing "to make the world happy", his manager, Lippe Breidbart, already had assured him of 20 per cent. Patterson will get 40 per cent for his rematch of a June 8, 1956 fight that he won on a split decision.

Lence announced his deal with the NBC television network and sponsor — General Motors — at a press luncheon yesterday and revealed New York and a surrounding 75-mile area would be blacked out on TV.

Bahama, Turner Collide

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Yama Bahama, a middleweight known as a fancy workman, seeks a second victory tonight over Gil Turner of Philadelphia.

Bahama, who had to go North to become a main event fighter, opposes Turner in his first featured 10-rounder. The fight will be on ABC television starting at 9 p.m., EST.

Hurling Shines at Waterford

Sparkling pitching featured Waterford League softball action Tuesday night as Gidley Electric and Emmanuel Baptist triumphed on the Drayton Plains diamond.

Jim Cuthrell bested Wayne Janks in a tight mound duel as Gidley scored a 1-0 victory over Weldon-Thrifty. A 6th-inning single, sacrifice and two-base error accounted for the game's only run. The winners were outhit, 4-3.

Harlan (Fat) Keith hurled his 2nd one-hitter of the season as Emmanuel defeated Drayton Drug 6-1. Gene Shell's double in the 6th stanza was Drayton's lone safety. A walk-passed ball-stolen base-infield out sequence scored Drug's only run in the 1st inning.

Three hits by Pittman, including a two-run single in the 2nd and a triple in the 4th, paced Emmanuel's attack. Springer chipped in with two blows.

A's Send Boyer to Yankee Club

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Cletis Boyer, 20, Kansas City Athletics bonus player, has been sent to the New York Yankees, completing an eight-player trade which started during spring training.

The Yankees optioned him to Binghamton, N.Y., in the class A Eastern League.

To replace him, the Athletics recalled Gene Host, lefthanded pitcher, who had been on 24-hour recall with Little Rock, Ark., of the AA Southern Assn.

Victor at Silver Lake

Mrs. Mildred Gegoux won Tuesday's low net honors in the women's Silver Lake Golf League with 30. Mrs. Donna Richardson and Mrs. Peg Dorman tied for 2nd place with 32 apiece.

Five women tied for 1st in the "blind hole" event on Silver Lake's par five 2nd hole. Each golfer carded a six.

McHale, Weiss Confer This Weekend

DETROIT (AP) — Manager Jack Tighe would like to see the Detroit Tigers swing a major player deal or two—but admits the chances of that happening are only fair.

"You don't win unless you make a few changes now and then," said Tighe after his club absorbed a 4-3 licking from the last-place Washington Senators.

Asked if he would suggest some deals to the Tiger front office, namely general manager John McHale, Tighe said:

"It's not an easy job to trade. A lot of clubs think they have a chance and are pretty cautious. That makes it tough. I'm willing to trade, though, but I don't have anything to say about it."

The New York Yankees will be in town this weekend and McHale will huddle with Yankee "GM" George Weiss, who plans to make the trip West. The Tigers will make a pitch for Hank Bauer, the veteran outfielder involved in the Copacabana squabble, and will try to secure pitching help from the world champions.

"There are no deals on the fire," said McHale. "We're just talking—but we would be very much interested in Bauer."

McHale and Weiss talked by long distance telephone yesterday and agreed to resume their talks this weekend.

McHale refuses to mention names, but it is known the Tigers would be willing to part with a front-line outfielder and one of their catchers. The Tiger demands on another club would be strong, though, and might be so strong that a major trade would be impossible.

Tighe said he feels "the club is good as it stands." At the same time he looked at the hitting failures and said:

"I felt a long time ago that this club would go as far as its pitching would carry it. Things have twisted all around now, and our pitching is much better than we anticipated and the hitting is terrible. I can't explain why Harvey Kuenn, Ray Boone, Frank Bolling and these other fellows aren't hitting.

"It's just one of those things, I suppose, that happens every once in a while."

But Tiger fans, who haven't seen the club finish in the first division since 1950, were wondering "why does it always happen to us?"

League Opens June 11

6 Teams in Legion Loop

When school is out for the summer, the area's Junior American Legion baseball circuit will pick up the slack for many high school ball players.

CLOONAN

Most of the Junior Legion clubs are composed of schoolboy athletes, with the Pontiac representative drawn mainly from the good PHS nine, playing as the Boys' Club team. Boys' Club was a top team in last year's league action.

Season opens June 11 (this date is not yet official, but in all probability will be the starter). Herb Kelly of the Birmingham Legion post is again league director. Schedule was to be completed this week.

Loop members will include, besides Pontiac and Birmingham, Milford, Rochester, Berkley, and Royal Oak.

Birmingham's all-star pitcher, Dick Cloonan, only returning pitcher from last year's squad has been lost for the season. Dick suffered a broken elbow last week in a fielding mishap during practice. did not realize the arm was broken until he was examined in a hospital later in the day.

Packers' Coach Waiting Word From Kramer

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)— Michigans' backfield star, Ron Kramer, probably will decide this week whether he wants to play with Green Bay Packers, coach Lisle Blackbourn said yesterday.

Blackbourn said, "Ron has promised to let me know by the end of the week whether he'll play for us. The only thing I can do now is wait for that phone call."

Blackbourn failed to get Kramer to sign a contract after almost a week of negotiations with the Wolverines' All-America player at Ann Arbor.

Hamlin, who bats and throws righthanded, will report to the Pirates next week upon graduation. Messner, who also is a righthander all-the-way, will report to the Pacific Coast League club.

Hamlin is 5-10 and weighs 170 pounds; Messner is 6 feet and weighs 190 pounds.

GETS 2,000th HIT—George Kell, Baltimore Orioles third baseman, rapped out three hits, one a homer, last night to reach the 2,000th hit mark in his baseball career. He helped Baltimore to a 9-6 victory in the opening of a three-game series in Kansas City.

Dodgers, Giants Slipping Away

Hope of Teams Staying in NY Grows Thinner

Clubs Bound for Coast if City Doesn't Allot Park Sites by Oct. 1

NEW YORK (AP) — The outlook appeared dimmer than ever today for the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants remaining in New York.

The heralded "showdown" meeting between Brooklyn president Walter O'Malley and New York head Horace Stoneham with Mayor Robert F. Wagner at City Hall yesterday gave rise to one belief. Unless the city fathers produce suitable new park sites before Oct. 1, the Dodgers will move to Los Angeles and the Giants to San Francisco.

Adding to the local gloom, there appeared no immediate prospect for a new site for the Dodgers or Giants. The mayor poured cold water on any thought that the city might build or subsidize a park for either club when he stated:

"Mr. O'Malley and Mr. Stoneham has assured us they have made no committments to move to the West Coast. Therefore, we will continue to do everything within reason to try to keep them in New York. Under no circumstances, however, will the city build a stadium for either the Giants or Dodgers."

The city's chief executive also informed a huge press gathering that neither O'Malley nor Stoneham had made any committments to stay in New York either.

The two club heads refused to give the city any guarantees. O'Malley, in fact, expressed extreme pessimism and said he would continue to negotiate with Los Angeles officials while the New York officials are trying to make up their minds.

"I have always wanted to stay in Brooklyn," he said. "I had hoped we could invest our money to build in Brooklyn a fine modern stadium that will give the fans the comfort they deserve. But so far we have received no encouraging word regarding a suitable site.

"I have been trying to get a new ball park for 10 years. I have been very patient. But my patience is wearing thin. Needless to say, I am greatly discouraged."

O'Malley recalled that he offered to put up 5 million dollars toward construction of a ball park and pay $500,000 a year rental and added:

"We made that offer last January, and it shows how sincere we were about staying here. Mind you, at no time did we ask the city to build us a park. We wanted to build it ourselves — with our own money.

Montreal Signs 18 U. S. Gridders

Bankroll Wows 'Em!

MONTREAL (AP) — It takes psychology, connections, a thick bankroll and some slick talking to convince U. S. college football stars to play in Canada, said Doug (Peahead) Walker, coach of the Montreal Alouettes.

"A man's gotta be pretty slick," Peahead said today after signing 18 new American college players for his Big Four Football Union team. "There's a real campaign against Canadian football among U. S. coaches. They've thought up a lot of things aimed at preventing their players from leaving the country.

"You take now at Mobile, where they played that Senior game. All the best college players get into that game because they get $400 or $500 each and at college all they get is hearty hand-shakes.

"Well, the player being there, there were about 100 coaches around, watching each other like hawks and all watching me. Hardly any of the coaches would even speak to me.

"I had several talks with some players and I had a sort of an understanding with them. But I had to smuggle them up to my room by the back stairs and lock the door when I signed them. Even then I was afraid some of those other coaches might come a-bustin' in and carry the players off with my pen in their hands and no signature on the contract. They'd do it, too."

Walker, who coached at Wake Forest College before coming to Montreal, said American college players ask for about $1,500 more apiece to come to Canada than they would ask a U. S. team.

"Some of the things that make it tough to sign them is their worry over dual income tax, fear of higher rents in Canada and the weather. All these things are drilled into them like real propaganda by professional coaches. They tell them too that once they come to Canada they're lost in a football way.

Walker does most of his talent hunting in the South, where he still retains coaching connections. But he admits the breaks figure in obtaining good players at times.

"Take the case of Johnny Majors, the Tennessee boy. Oddly enough, the National Football League threw him right into my lap. Majors was furious when he wasn't drafted by the professionals in the first four drafts. He took this as a personal slight, so it was easy enough to persuade him to come to Canada.

IOC Seeking TV Games Sponsor

Olympic Body Talking Over Hopes for 1960 Event in Rome

EVIAN, France (AP)—The International Olympic Committee, which insists its athletes be amateurs but its operations businesslike, today was waiting hopefully for a commercial television sponsor.

The 1956 Games in Melbourne were almost completely blacked out on television because of a dispute between organizers and TV film distributors.

As far as American television was concerned, the same thing could happen when in 1960 at the Rome Games.

The committee executive board is meeting here this week and television question is on agenda for discussion with representatives of various international sports federations.

No final disposition can be taken now on TV rights but Otto Mayer, Olympic chancellor, says the committee's position was firmly fixed as far as American TV concerned.

Americans in Monza '500' Despite European Boycott

MILAN Italy (AP)—There may be another reason besides the dangers of the track which helped prompt Europe's crack auto drivers to boycott the American type Monza 500 miler.

One of the world's best known pilots said today European aces figure American drivers entering for first time will win the race anyway.

Organizers of the Indianapolis speedway type race scheduled for the bank-curved Monza autodrome June 29 announced last night they are going ahead despite the boycott.

The newly formed International Professional Pilots Union (UPPI) called the fast Monza track "too dangerous" and said its members would not drive there.

The members include such racers as world champion Juan Manuel Fangio of Argentina, Britain's Mike Hawthorn and Peter Collins, Jean Behra of France and most Italian aces.

"American pilots already have agreed to enter the race and have their tickets in their pockets," a spokesman for the organizers said.

"We still hope to have some of the best European racers in the event, but in any case, the daredevil Americans will give the public a race worth seeing."

Lake Angelus Yields 14-Inch Long Crappie

Oakland County lakes have produced big bluegills, calico bass (often called black crappie) and the crappie (pomoxis) for many years, but one of the biggest in some time was the 14-inch, two-pounder taken a few days ago by Bryan French, 351 Nelson.

Fishing Class at 4 a.m. Attracts Many Students

ALL OUTDOORS (INS) — Catching fish is the easiest and most enjoyable part of a fishing trip — finding them is the hard part.

The news bureau of an outboard motor company, has compiled a list of tips for locating fish when out in strange waters. Contrary to popular belief game fish are not evenly distributed in any given body of water. You must "hunt them out."

The experts, after gathering information over the years, said:

"When in doubt — troll!

"Although fish habitat varies according to species and particular waters, most game fish seek similar and familiar places to stake out a claim. All fish want two things in life — cover to hide from their enemies, and food. Since this food, whether it be shad, crawdads, or frogs, also needs the protection of some type of cover, the angler's problem is simplified.

"Fishing around rocks, weed beds and stumps usually pays off. And if you can find these fishing hot spots, you can usually catch fish."

They suggested using the unproductive hours of the day looking for "fish diners" — places where food is likely to be. When the weather is hot, look for deep water near natural feeding spots.

"Troll close to the boat. Again, contrary to popular thought, evidence proves the prop of an idling outboard attracts more fish than it scares. Yes, fish are attracted to moving water of a prop wash in the same way that they are attracted to a ripple spilling into a pool.

"Don't forget, moving water usually means food — to a fish, that is."

Grimy Weapon Turns Out to Be Beautiful Rifle

A chance visit to a gun shop in Great Falls Montana brought a real treasure to a young Pontiac sportsman and lover of fine weapons.

LIEUT. ABBOTT

About a year ago Dick Abbott 1st lieutenant in the U.S. Air Corps was stationed at Great Falls. He walked into this gun shop one day. Looking about he discovered a dusty begrimed piece standing in a corner. Examination revealed the weapon as a 30-06 Springfield. Lieut. Abbott bought it.

Later, when the gun had been cleaned and polished, it became a thing of beauty to the lover of fine weapons. An intricately carved walnut stock bore scenes of the forest and mountains, with figures of a rampant bear, a moose, bighorn sheep and mountain goat. It was carved in high relief, probably by one of the skilled German artists. Breech-block and breech portion of the barrel also were engraved beautifully.

Last Fall, in Montana, Lieut. Abbott downed his legal kill of deer with the weapon. He has been interested in guns since 15 years of age. He is just now at a west coast base after being moved from the SAC to TAC. He is a PHS graduate, a fighter pilot and has been in the Air Corps for three and a half years. It is expected he will soon be in Korea.

Lieut. Abbott is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Vernon C. Abbott.

Bob Lemon, Cleveland pitching ace, hit 21 home runs in 1943 for Baltimore when the Orioles were in the International League. Lemon played 148 games that year as a third baseman and shortstop.

Month of the Trouter

June's the Time for Easy Fishing

BY JACK PATTERSON

Despite attempts by song writers, marriage counsellors and other, to make it seem otherwise, June - particularly June in Michigan - belongs to the trout fisherman. This is the month of easy and good fishing. Proper anglers begrudge each moment spent on jobs, families and other non-essentials.

PATTERSON

Only trouble with June is (except maybe that it's too short,) is the weird variety of weather to be expected; Variations scarcely noted by the indoorsman are of immediate concern to the stream fisherman. Not so much because they affect the quality of the fishing—which they do—but because they affect his creature comfort.

Trout fishing at best is a semi-uncomfortable occupation. The happy fisherman does what he can to be as comfortable as possible.

In the matter of clothing there's one rule we stick by; too little is better than too much. We've yet to see a fishing jacket, sleeveless or otherwise, that contributed anything to the comfort of the wearer on a warm day. In temperatures above the mid-seventies we find a "T" shirt and shorts clothing enough. With the steam-heating effect of waders it's often more than enough.

We carry a long-sleeved sweater—cashmere because it's light and rolls up small—in the wader pocket for cooling air at sundown and to help keep mosquitoes at bay.

All the casual impediments that usually lives in the fishing jacket can be carried quite handily in the creel. Thus equipped we're ready for anything but heavy rains and in such an event what were trees made for if not to get out from under, under?

We despise hats but usually wear one while fishing for one reason only: to shade our eyes for better underwater vision. This is particularly important when wearing polaroid or other glare-inhibiting glasses. And, of course, we'd as soon fish without a line as without glasses. Variable-density glasses, with tops and bottoms practically opaque, work very well for this sort of thing.

One of the simplest measures the fisherman can take to make wading more pleasant is to leave his wader tops open, drawstring untied. This slows down condensation inside the waders, a process which, if left unchecked, will leave the waders just about as wet inside as out.

It has been a good many years since we spent most of the golden days of a long summer wading "wet" in the Two-Hearted. Wearing swimming trunks and canvas shoes as wading gear we could put in eight hours a day without discomfort.

We've thought about it many times, though. Enough so that sometimes when things got too blamed hot we just hung our gear on a handy bush and submerged in the closest deep hole. Lying there, kicking gently against the current, hoping what just brushed against us wasn't a smake, we had to admit that maybe trout fishing isn't too tough after all.

Conservation Men Attend Conferences

Area conservation officers this week are attending annual "policy conferences" at the Higgins Lake headquarters.

Howard Johnson, Warren Kendall, Harold Stoll, Cyril Adams are taking part in these confabs, on a staggered basis. Several were at the conference first of the week, others go today for a two-day stay.

HUSKY HOPPER — Larry (left above), Floyd (right) display one of the biggest, if not THE huskiest bullfrog captured in this area in many a year. The boys, 10 and 11-year-old sons of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Curtis, 9196 Little Farms, near Oxbow lake, hold a very lively 13-inch specimen, which they have named "Spot" for obvious reasons. The amphibian looks more like one of the big Louisiana marsh croakers than the ordinary Michigan kind. It was captured on the Curtis lawn, after its booming voice disturbed the sleep of the boys "camping out" in a little tent. They feed it flies and other tidbits.

Baseball Men Subpoenaed by Judiciary Body

Ford Frick, Other Big League Moguls Called Before Committee

NEW YORK (AP) — A full complement of baseball officials and player representatives, headed by Commissioner Ford Frick, has been subpoenaed to appear before the House Judiciary Committee investigating professional sports.

J. Norman Lewis, the players' attorney, revealed yesterday the committee, headed by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-NY), has subpoenaed himself, Frick, National League President Warren Giles, American League head Will Harridge and player representatives Robin Roberts and Eddie Yost for the hearings beginning June 17.

The committee is expected to probe baseball to determine whether it should be made subject to the anti-trust laws. The Supreme Court, in 1953, ruled the sport is a "unique business" and thus does not fall under the anti-trust statutes.

It was also learned the Celler committee has quietly been doing research, obtaining testimony from baseball people during the past few weeks.

Lewis told The Associated Press "we've been having some talks with Mr. Celler's lawyer for the past few days. I know that in addition to Roberts, Yost and myself, Bob Feller, Stan Musial and Jerry Coleman have been asked to testify at the hearing on June 24-25."

Lewis also disclosed that attorney for the Committee, Sam Pierce, had already spoken with some of the player representatives and Junian Singman, another congressional lawyer, had talked with Coleman on the New York Yankees' last trip to Washington.

Walter O'Malley, Brooklyn Dodger president, and league attorneys Lou Carroll and Ben Fiery have also been asked to appear June 18-19.

Toledo Pro After Coveted Title

Stranahan Sees Putter Key to Open

By BILL CORNWELL

Although Frank Stranahan has qualified for every National Open golf tournament since he first entered the event in 1946, he still doubts his ability to win it.

The Toledo muscleman, whose 70-69—139 took medalist honors in Monday's U.S. Open qualifiers at Franklin Hills and Oakland Hills, doesn't think he can putt well enough to win America's most coveted golf title.

"I don't think my putting is good enough to win the tourney," Stranahan said. "There are too many handy fellows with a putter in that tournament," he added.

Whatever doubts Frank may have about his putting, it still remains a cold fact that it was his deadly work on the greens, plus some excellent use of his approach irons, that enabled him to top Monday's giant field.

One of the most powerful hitters off the tee in the game today, Stranahan's long, booming wood shots occasionally strayed into trouble Monday. But he scrambled to perfection with his irons and putter.

Now in his 3rd year as a pro, Stranahan was once the nation's top amateur golfer, winning nearly every major tourney. Ironically, the only big event he failed to win was the U.S. Amateur. He has yet to win a major professional tournament.

If his home course doesn't jinx him, Frank can be expected to make a serious bid for the National Open crown June 13-15 at the familiar Inverness Club in Toledo.

Meadowbrook's popular Chick Harbert was his usual jovial self from tee to green. He was deadly serious on each shot, but tossed around conversational patter between times.

Asked why he frequently teed off with a spoon during his 18-hole round at Oakland, Harbert replied, "I hoped to miss the fairway sand traps that way. I can't hit straight enough with a driver to miss them."

Herb Marcussen, Redford Golf Club's ambitious young pro, fared miserably at Oakland and didn't even turn in a scorecard. His woes continued at Franklin where he shot a 79. Marcussen burned up Orchard Lake's layout with a 66 in last year's qualifying trials before falling apart at Pine Lake.

Ed Ervasti and Sam Kocsis, two of Michigan's finest amateurs, withdrew from Monday's qualifying rounds. Ervasti is a former state amateur champion while Kocsis won the National Public Links title in 1955.

Four amateurs — Chuck Kocsis, Bob Babbish, Gene Woodard and Harold Brink — made the qualifying grade this year compared to only one a year ago. The lone qualifier in 1956 was Ervasti.

Addis limited the Giants to five hits and struck out 12 while walking none. Edide Jefferson, the loser, and Chet Woodmore pitched for the Giants.

Library Group Starts Calendar Sales

CLARKSTON — A kickoff breakfast initiating the drive for funds for the Independence Township library was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Donald Stackable.

William Richards, pastor of the Clarkston Methodist Church, was the guest speaker and stated, "A community calendar gives a ready reference which will have the tendency to cement a community together correlating the various activities. The calendar not only brings a community closer together but it serves the purpose of raising money for the library fund." He also stated that the library is the leading institution of the community.

Final plans for the fund raising campaign were completed. The library which was opened in February 1955 is supported by the efforts of the members of the Women's Club. The Michigan State Lending Library also lends supplies books to the group. Mrs. Donald Stackable is president of the club; Mrs. Arthur Rose is chairman of the calendar sales committee.

ORCHARD LAKE — The Orchard Lake Presbyterian Church was the setting for the Saturday wedding of Eleanor Mehrkamper and Frank Saam. The 7 p.m. candlelight ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edward Auchard in the presence of 150 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Mehrkamper of Willow Beach and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Clara Saam of Wade Street, Detroit and Frank Saam, also of Detroit.

Dressed in a gown of three-tiered nylon lace over taffeta, the bride wore a tiara crown and fingertip veil of illusion net. The bouquet was composed of Calla lillies and Cymbidium orchids.

Carol Oerkfitz was the maid of honor with Mrs. Dorthoy Weaver, Margaret Dula, cousin of the bride, and Donna Mehrkamper, sister of the bride, as bridesmaids. Joanne Machesky, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Her brother, Joe, was the ring bearer.

Serving as best man was Edward Korkegian and ushers Babriel Szitas Emile Simonel and Joseph Machesky, brother-in-law of the groom.

A reception for 200 guests was held, following the ceremony, at the VFW hall.

Hollywood Headlines

Hitchcock to Direct Kim in 'Bell, Book and Candle'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Just learned the reason Alfred Hitchcock was able to borrow Kim Novak, the pride and joy of Columbia, for "From Amongst the Dead," from Harry Cohn. In return, Hitchy will direct Kim in "Bell, Book and Candle" for Columbia.

And listen to this! Jimmy Stewart will co-star with Kim. What happened to Rex Harrison? Well, apparently Rex is out, and this couldn't help but upset Kay Kendall's honeymoon plans.

The reason she will be affected is that she had signed with MGM to be here this summer while Sexy-Rexy was doing "Bell, Book and Candle." In fact, her wedding to Harrison was planned for July, just before they were supposed to honeymoon here.

There's more than meets the eye in Noel Coward's bid to Marie McDonald to co-star in his projected screen production next fall based on his play, "Nude With Violin."

And as the customers at Marie's engagement at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas can testify, what meets the eye in her act is really something, plus her really good voice.

Coward's offer comes to Marie because he already has Michael Wilding signed for his play. If he can get the McDonald-Wilding names on the marquee, that's sure box-office.

I think Marie will accept since she is already headed for London this summer for an engagement at the Cafe de Paris there. At the same time her first LP album, "The Body Sings," gets released. Quel title!

JAYNE THE ARTIST

Jayne Mansfield at Carnegie Hall—that's what you'll be reading on the marquee the last of August when Jayne takes her violin into the hallowed halls of the famous New York institution and does another Jack Benny.

Felix Gerstman, who arranged Jack Benny's concert here, heard Jayne on Ed Sullivan's show and immediately contacted her to see if she would play with one of the nationally known impresarios.

"I've always wanted to appear on the Carnegie Hall stage," said Jayne, "and I'm going to be in New York the latter part of August to exploit 'Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?' so I am going to say 'yes' to the offer."

A jubilant Mario Lanza writes from Italy to say that he has signed Marisa Allasio for the top role opposite him in "Seven Hills of Rome."

Says Mario, "Both David Selznick and MGM wanted Marisa, but she does not want to leave Italy until she becomes better known.

"I was lucky to get her," says Mario, "and to get her name on a contract for two more pictures. Her last picture was 'Poor But Handsome,' and while she is not yet known in the United States, I'm sure she will be a big hit."

HE WON'T LEAVE

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Jacques Bergerac says that he will never leave Hollywood; he is only visiting Paris.

Tall, statuesque, well-proportioned Monique Van Vooren, who appears briefly in "10,000 Bedrooms" and sang at the Mocambo, cables me from Paris that Arthur Freed has signed her for "Gigi."

A big break for a talented boy. Dean Jones sings on Dinah Shore's spectacular June 14.

Elaine Stricht, who plays Jennifer Jones' girl friend in "A Farewell to Arms," will stay on in Rome until late July. She and her fiance, Ben Gazzaro, who is there, will confer with the Vatican about an annulment.

Ramon Navarro is quietly living in Rome, devoting his time to helping the church.

In Rome, Jane Wyman's gray hair provoked comment from people sipping their espresso on the Via Veneto.

At Jack's at the Beach, Margaret O'Brien was dining with Dick Kallman, the young singer who has a couple of hit records out.

Official Tells Town to Segregate Area

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa (AP)—Minister of Native Affairs H. F. Verwoerd has ordered the small Orange Free State town of Ficksburg, on the Basutoland border, to set up a segregated shopping district outside the town.

Verwoerd ordered the town council to create separate shopping districts for customers of the native Basuto tribe after receiving a petition from 1,600 whites in the town protesting the daily passage of Basutos through the town.

Ficksburg's economy is dependent largely on trade with the Basutos, who spend 30,000 pounds ($84,000) a month in the town. Basutoland is a British protectorate, surrounded by South African provinces, on which the South provinces, on which the South African government has long had dealings.

Ficksburg merchants not only objected to the cost of setting up duplicate business premises. They feared the Basutos, already highly critical of South Africa's apartheid (white supremacy) policy, would withdraw their business.

Verwoerd told a delegation from the town council that zoning would be enforced despite the objections.

Dorothy Lamour Does Act From Wheel Chair

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Dorothy Lamour gave her night club show last night from a wheel chair.

The movie actress fractured her right ankle yesterday and was unable to stand. She was wheeled into the room with her leg in a plaster cast to fulfill her promise to perform "even if it kills me."

Her physician reportedly said she may be able to stand in a few days.

Did you ever notice that the thing a woman tries hardest to hide is what she doesn't have?... No wonder some of the bride's mothers want to go along on the honeymoon. After the struggle they had to get the daughter married off, they deserve a vacation, too. —Earl Wilson.

Young people of this area will be given a chance to serve as apprentices with the professional company for the entire summer.

Music Circle is scheduled to open June 17 with "Plain and Fancy," musical that played for nearly a year on Broadway to packed houses. Stars are Julia Meade and Jon Cypher.

Lawmakers Dress Up Nude Bathing Ordinance

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (AP) — From now on undressed swimming definitely is illegal here because the City Council has dressed up a nude bathing ordinance.

The half-century-old law said it was unlawful to swim in any canal, river or pond between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m., except in a proper swimming suit. This suggested that nude bathing was proper during other hours.

The council deleted the phrase "between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m."

Can't Remodel Warship

PARIS (AP) — The French navy has retired one of its two battleships, the Jean Bart, because it hasn't the money to bring her up to date. A navy spokesman announced last night that the "painful" action was all that could be done with French government finances the way they are.

Britain to Cut Short H-Tests in Pacific

LONDON (AP)—Two London newspapers said that Britain will cut short her current hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific after her next and third blast. It had been understood the government planned to touch off four explosions.

Government officials refused to confirm or deny the reports by the Liberal News Chronicle and the Laborite Daily Herald in dispatches from the test center at Christmas Island.

These reports said the tests will be curtailed because of:

1. Pressure brought by the Laborite opposition in Parliament to keep radioactive fall-out to a minimum.

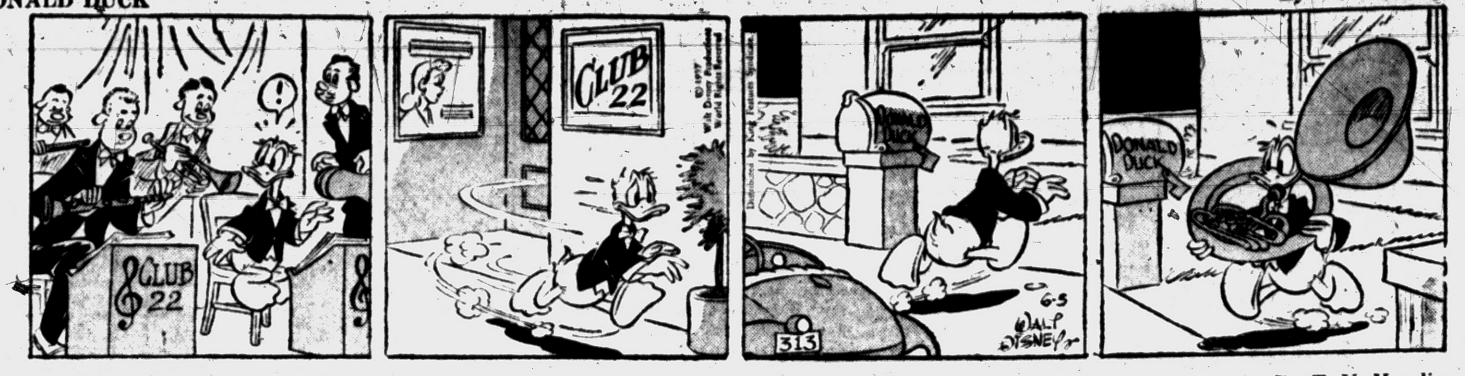

2. Success of the two tests held thus far and the opinion of experts that one more test will provide the information they need at this time.

Soybeans Lead Price Downturn

CHICAGO (AP) — An early decline in soybean oil and soybean futures led to a general price downturn on the board of trade today.

Soybean oil dipped sharply at the start in selling which traders said was influenced by house postponement of action on legislation to extend Public Law 480, which would permit disposal of agricultural surpluses aboard and accept payment in foreign currency.

Selling in beans caused some liquidation in wheat. Corn was weak again because of general favorable weather in the corn belt, and indications of more good planting weather for the next few days. Traders said it appeared the crop would get into the ground this week.

Near the end of the first hour old style wheat was ⅛ to ⅝ lower, July $2.02⅞, new style wheat was unchanged to ⅝ lower, July $2.03⅜, corn was ¼ to ⅝ lower, July $1.27½, oats were unchanged to ⅜ lower, July 64¼, rye was ¾ lower to ¼ higher, July $1.13¾, soybeans were ⅞ to 1¼ lower, July $2.33½, and lard was 5 to 8 cents a hundred pounds lower, July $12.82.

Tobacco Drops in Dull Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—Tobacco shares took losses in early trading today as the stock market was mixed. Turnover was dull.

Leading issues rose or fell in a narrow range, mostly within a point.

The tobaccos reacted only slightly yesterday to the new report by the American Cancer Society linking cigarette smoking with lung cancer, heart disease and premature death from other causes; but today there was obvious selling.

In an unusual turnover of opening blocks in the tobaccos, Liggett & Myers, dropped ¾ at 63½ on 1,200 shares; American tobacco was off ½ at 71⅝ on 1,500; and Reynolds tobacco "B" slipped ⅜ at 55⅜ on 1,000. Philip Morris was off a fraction.

Du Pont dropped a small fraction as doubt still prevailed on how the Supreme Court decision would be implemented in regard to the firm's holdings of General Motors stock, GM, meanwhile, was steady.

New City Park to Go Nameless

Pontiac's new 110-acre park on the northwest side will officially be left nameless at the suggestion of Mayor William W. Donaldson.

Donaldson also told his fellow commissioners last night that all city parks should remain unofficially named pending possible naming after "certain civic minded citizens who may appear on the horizon in the future."

City Manager Walter K. Willman, upon the recommendation of the Parks and Recreation Dept., had suggested calling the new park near Hawthorne School, "Hawthorne Park."

Commissioners John E. Carry and Floyd P. Miles argued against any long delays in waiting for spirited citizens to come along so the parks could be named.

Willman remarked that the park should be called "delinquent tax park." "That's the way we got it," he explained.

MSU Ceremony to Commission 200 ROTC Men

EAST LANSING (AP) — A colorful commencement week tradition will be revived at Michigan State University Saturday as nearly 200 graduating seniors in the Army and Air Force ROTC units receive commissions as second lieutenants.

The entire military detachment, some 3,500 cadets, will participate in the annual spring commissioning parade, the first public commissioning at MSU since before World War II.

The main talk will be delivered by Lt. Gen Emmett (Rosy) O'Donnell Jr., deputy chief of staff for personnel of the USAF. O'Donnell also will hand out the commissions.

The university announced today that because of construction work in progress, the regular commencement exercises Sunday will be held at the south end of Macklin Stadium.

The stadium currently is being enlarged to a seating capacity of 76,000 with the work expected to be completed by the start of the football season.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon will give the commencement address. More than 2,000 students will receive diplomas at the exercises.

2 Men Plead Innocent of Illegal Liquor Sales

Two Pontiac men, accused of being involved in illegal liquor sales, pleaded innocent Monday and were freed on bonds until trial June 13.

Taxicab driver Lawrence Graham, 33, of 123 Center St., is accused of aiding and abetting the sale allegedly made by David H. Campbell, 49, of 83 Jackson St. at the corner of Wessen and Bagley streets.

Graham furnished a $200 bond and Campbell was freed on a $300 bond by Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum after they had been arrested by detectives Eugene Hendren and James H. LaPonsie, of the vice squad.

Rains, Floods Batter 3 States

No Hope for Fast Relief Held Out for Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More rain and more floods harassed storm-battered areas of three Southwestern states today and no immediate relief from the downpours and overflows was indicated.

Many rivers and streams in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas were causing floods in wide areas, with more sections threatened after four days of heavy rainfall. Biggest damage came from the Red River, the 1,200-mile-long tributary of the Mississippi which runs through the three states.

The big stream carried a huge overflow from the flood control dam at Lake Texoma, which is along the Texas-Oklahoma border north of Dallas.

Sections of Louisiana also battled floods. Overflows from previous flooding of the Red River covered some low areas near Alexandria. The Red River joins the Mississippi about 350 miles from Shreveport. The Mississippi also was nearing flood stage from Greenville, Miss., to New Orleans.

This morning's rain belt extended from the Southern Plains eastward across the lower Mississippi Valley into the South Atlantic Coast region as far as Baltimore. Rainfall in most areas was light but some locally heavy downpours were reported. Nearly 2.50 inches of rain drenched the Fort Worth area in a six-hour period and amounts up to about an inch fell at Shreveport.

Fair weather was the outlook in the Northeastern section.

Oxford University Presents Degree to Robert Frost

OXFORD, England (AP) — Robert Frost, 82-year old dean of American poets, has been awarded the honorary degree of doctor of letters from Oxford University.

The white-haired New Englander was presented to University Vice Chancellor J. C. Masterman by J. T. Christie, principal of Jesus College, who said: "We hope he will enjoy the honor which we so gladly bestow upon a great poet. Perhaps he will appreciate even more that assurance which I make ... today, amid the clash of arms and the mounting terror of our new instruments of war, that his poetry has brought and will continue to bring unfailing consolation to a suffering world."

Frost, who has been lecturing at several English universities under the sponsorship of the U.S. State Department, also will receive an honorary doctorate from Cambridge University later this month.

Battle Begins on Civil Rights

Week's Debate Ahead Before House Makes Final Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House starts today its long-postponed showdown battle over President Eisenhower's proposals to strengthen federal enforcement of voting and other constitutional guarantees.

At least a week of debate and maneuvering appeared to lie ahead before final House action.

Supporters of the civil rights legislation faced a dogged Southern opposition now encouraged by a Senate committee vote to require jury trials of persons accused of violating federal injunctions in civil rights cases.

The Southerners have at hand in the House the two weapons they have been using throughout — delay and amendment. They were prepared to push a jury trial amendment as well as a variety of others, including one to outlaw the union shop.

Supporters of the legislation were counting heavily on Eisenhower's influence to hold Republicans in line, and on support from Northern and Western Democrats.

Warner Bros. to Film 'James Dean Story'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Warner Brothers Studios announced today that it has acquired rights to distribute "The James Dean Story," a picture based on the life of the heralded young actor who was killed in an auto crash in 1955.

The studio said it plans to supplement the screen story with previously unshown film of Dean's screen tests and unused scenes from his pictures.

The distribution agreement was negotiated by the studio with George W. George and Robert Altman, producers of the picture.

Supreme Court's Ruling Lends to Soul-Searching

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The Du Pont-General Motors ruling by the Supreme Court could put a new aspect on the question of Big Business — already much to the fore these days.

And many another corporation today is looking into its own stock portfolio and wondering if the ruling may soon stretch to cover it, too.

In the great wave of mergers and diversification in the last few years many corporations have gotten large blocks or controlling interest in the stocks of others or have bought them out completely.

The result has been to make Big Business bigger — and to bring howls from Small Business which says it's hard to compete with the giants, and from those who fear bigness in business no matter how it grew.

SIZE IS A POINT

The Supreme Court ruling doesn't strike at the bigness of the two companies involved. But many business leaders feel that the size of the pair is very much in point. If, as the court holds, Du Pont controls GM, it means two of the largest industrial empires in the world are under one control.

Big Business — and many a small businessman, too — is quick to deny that mere size is dangerous, or that it necessarily spells monopoly or hurts competition. Most big corporations have many small business suppliers and often many small business customers — and couldn't do without either.

Businessmen argue that the very size of the industrial job to be done in a rapidly growing United States economy calls for and breeds the efficiency and coordination that Big Business alone can provide. In short, that business grew big because of the task, rather than from the urge to dominate.

Growth has been the aim of almost every American enterprise right from the start.

Counting out the banks and insurance companies, General Motors is third in size and Du Pont ninth among all nonfinancial corporations in the nation. GM's assets of 7½ billion dollars are surpassed only by the Bell Telephone System and Jersey Standard Oil. After U.S. Steel, Ford, Gulf Oil and Socony Mobil comes Du Pont with 2½ billion.

IMPRESSIVE PROFIT-MAKERS

As profit-makers they are even more impressive. General Motors leads the nation with nearly 850 million dollars last year. The year before it topped a billion. Du Pont is fourth with 383 million. In between are Jersey Standard and the Bell System. A sizable share of Du Pont's earnings come from dividends on its GM stock holdings.

The men who run these two companies command some of the highest salaries and bonuses. Four GM officials and four Du Pont executives are included in the top 16.

Airplane Makes Crash Landing in Woman's Yard

DETROIT (AP) — A 44-year-old Detroit housewife was chased out of her yard yesterday when a single engine light plane made a successful crash landing on the small lot. There were no injuries.

Mrs. Harry Skierski was hanging clothes in the yard at the side of her house when she saw the plane coming in for a landing. "I ran like a bird," she said.

The pilot, Janusz Dudzinski, 37, of Detroit, stepped out of the damaged plane with minor scratches and bruises. A former RAF flier, he walked two blocks to his own home to tell his wife he had crashed.

Dudzinski said he was flying from Big Beaver airport at Pontiac to the Detroit city airport when the engine began sputtering and he began losing altitude.

Dudzinski said he started looking for a place to set the plane down. "I saw a playground, but it was full of kids so I had to look again," he said. "There were some vacant fields in the area, but I couldn't make them and I had to pick out the yard next to this house."

The yard the pilot selected is not more than 35 feet wide. The wingtips missed houses on either side of the lot by about 10 feet.

Location Won Tank Contract

Army Spokesman Says Delaware Got Job for Geographical Reason

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Army spokesman says geographical location, not the Michigan tax situation, was the major factor in placing a tank contract in Newark, Del., rather than Detroit.

And in reply to a charge by Michigan's Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams that the Army was "obviously playing politics," the spokesman said politics did not enter into the matter at all.

Courtney Johnson, assistant deputy secretary of the Army for logistics, explained at a Pentagon news conference yesterday that the Army's reasoning in assigning the lion's share of a 119 million dollar contract for the Chrysler Corp. to the Delaware location. The contract is for 900 M48 medium tanks to be built over a two-year period.

Johnson said law prevented the Army from taking Detroit area unemployment into consideration when it made its decision, announced last Friday.

LESSOR'S TAX

In listing a $1,878,000 differential between the cost of making the tanks at the Detroit and Newark sites, the army last week said a $300,000 factor has Michigan's lessors use tax.

Reference to the tax was criticized by both Williams and Sen. Potter (R-Mich). Michigan's tax situation has been a hot item of debate there for the past two months, with Republicans charging that taxes are driving industry out of the state.

Johnson told newsmen it would cost $865,924 more to transport from Detroit than from Newark, enough to put the contract in Delaware without consideration of the tax item. He said he could not reveal the final destinations for security reasons.

The evangelist told a crowd of 17,500 at Madison Square Garden last night that beginning Sunday, a succession of these individuals will take the platform with him each night to tell their stories.

"They will tell you of the revolution and change that Christ has brought in their lives," he said.

Graham tonight starts the fourth week of his New York crusade, now scheduled to run six more weeks. He said the opening phase has been "wonderful, glorious."

"We've seen God move here as we've never seen him move in our ministry," Graham said. He urged Christians to get their nonreligious friends to the services.

So far, attendance has totaled 374,500, with 12,684 of them responding to Graham's plea to "accept Christ." This is an average of 604 each night—the largest response Graham has ever had.

A British churchman, the Rev. Stephen Olford, who has been helping Graham in the crusade and who also aided in Graham's 1954 London crusade, said the effects here have been much greater.

"The Holy Spirit seems to be moving in a way we never felt in London," he said.

In his sermon, the last in a series on the Ten Commandments, Graham preached on the subject, "Thou Shalt Not Covet." He said Americans are flouting the commandment by their grasping materialism.

"It is the spirit of this age," he said, "the spirit of materialism. Things of this world crowd in and take over our lives."

He said obsession with money was just one of the common offenses. Women's voracity for fancy clothes, he said, and gluttonous eating habits are among modern pursuits that push God out of people's lives.

"A man who spends all his time on things of this world, and little time on his soul's development, little time on his spiritual welfare, that man, God calls a fool," Graham said.

Pflimlin Doomed as French Premier

The Socialist National Committee voted 73-21 this morning against taking part in a Pflimlin government.

Friends of Socialist Premier Guy Mollet, who lost a confidence vote two weeks ago, would like to see the premiership go to Mollet's defense minister, Maurice Bourges-Maunoury.

Penguin to Bite Ribbon Opening New Aquarium

NEW YORK (AP)—A male penguin misnamed Annie will help dedicate New York's new 1½-million-dollar aquarium today when he bites a ribbon wrapped around a smelt.

Annie is a former tenant of the city's old aquarium at the Battery on the lower tip of Manhattan. That one closed in 1941.

The new aquarium of concrete, glass and gray brick is on the boardwalk at Coney Island.

Facilities for residents include a huge 100,000-gallon marine pool. An affable walrus called Olaf is the most spectacular denizen of the pool. Olaf is said to be the only Walrus in captivity in North America.

There are hundreds of other exhibits, including tropical fish, electric eels, sharks, turtles—and Annie.

Navy Guided Missile Goes Out of Control

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—A Navy Regulus guided missile went out of control yesterday and crashed on the Mojave Desert with a tremendous explosion, sending up what observers called "a miniature atomic cloud."

The 33-foot supersonic missile, designed to be fired from submarines and warships, did not carry a warhead, a Navy spokesman said.

No one was hurt and no facilities were damaged. The missile, launched from here, crashed on a test range about 70 miles away.

Residents at the town of Ridgecrest said a mushroom-type cloud rose from the blast. The Navy said the explosion was caused when the jet fuel ignited.

The missile was under radio control but the Navy said the control failed.

MSU to Give Award to Okinawan Woman

EAST LANSING (AP)— Mrs. Kimiyo Onaga, a professor of home economics at the University of the Ryukyus, Okinawa, will be honored at the Michigan State University annual commencement on Sunday.

Nearing the end of a year's study at MSU, Mrs. Onaga will receive an award for distinguished service.

She will be cited for outstanding contributions in home economics and leadership in the elevation of the position of women in the home, the community of Okinawa and the Far East, the school announced.

Sen. Wiley Probes Essence of Khrushchev's TV Talk

(Russian Boss Nikita Khrushchev's remark's on an American television program Sunday drew worldwide attention, particularly his prediction that the U. S. eventually would become a socialist state. In the following article, Sen. Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, senior Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, gives his critical analysis of Khrushchev's comments.)

By SEN. ALEXANDER WILEY

WASHINGTON (INS)—Two basic facts emerge from the interview with the first secretary of the Soviet Communist Party:

—The United States is up against a particularly clever, resourceful, and determined foe in Nikita Khrushchev.

—We had best keep doubly alert against every sort of "mouse trap" into which he and his cohorts might try to lure us.

As a prime example of such a Soviet "mouse trap," consider Khrushchev's suggestion for "mutual withdrawal" — the United States to remove its forces all the way from Western Europe, while the Soviet forces would only go back a few hundred miles from their present advanced bases in Eastern Europe.

'STEP' IS TRAP

Obviously, the U.S. could not possibly accept such a phony "first step" toward alleged disarmament.

But this is the type of trap which we may continuously expect in the disarmament and other negotiations with the Soviets.

At the same time, Khrushchev's own willingness to meet American newsmen in a frank, unrehearshed fashion indicates that we are up against a foe who can be twice as dangerous as Joseph Stalin ever was.

For now, we are up against a man who is more flexible than Stalin, more ingenious in the use of propaganda, more self-confident, even though he lacks Stalin's ruthless, single-handed ability to control the whole Soviet works.

Of course, the fact that the Iron Curtain has lifted slightly, as witnessed by the Khrushchev interview itself, is a development which we welcome.

The more frank East-West discussion around the interview table or the conference table the better—provided, we do not allow ourselves to be lulled into a false sense of security. We must not be deceived into thinking that the Soviet' intentions to dominate the world have really changed one iota.

Another unfortunate aspect brought out by the Khrushchev interview is his notion that, in the event of World War III, only capitalism would be destroyed.

Khrushchev did say that only a madman would unleash a war "that would bring tremendous calamity to the whole mankind." But, apparently, there still lingers in the Soviet mind the possibility that a surprise attack might ravage the United States, alone, while leaving the Soviet Union relatively immune.

If this is what the Soviets are really thinking, then we have no alternative but to be doubly on our guard against the possibility of a Pearl Harbor-type attack.

Khrushchev's prediction that the United States eventually would go Socialist is typical of the egotism of the Soviet hierarchy.

His comment confirms the fact that they are utterly convinced that history is on their side, and they are determined to help history along in the process.

BE ON GUARD

All in all, the Khrushchev interview gives no reason for America to let down her guard in the slightest—her military, psychological, political, or economic guard.

At the same time, we ourselves must be still more resourceful. We must now allow fear or distrust to paralyze our ability to capitalize on the chinks which have now opened in the Iron Curtain.

If there are more cultural exchanges, for example, such as Khrushchev says he has in mind, then it is we and not the Soviet Union who we have a right to expect will gain the most. Russian visitors to the United States cannot help but be impressed with the fact that they have been previously misinformed by Soviet propaganda organs.

So far as the great goal of working out an enforceable system of disarmament is concerned, Khrushchev's statements unfortunately do not give cause for much, if any, encouragement.

He has paid lip service to the concept of a "first step," leading toward broader steps. But in this instance, as in so many other instances, he has utterly failed to come forth with an ironclad, enforceable, quid pro quo—the only type which any sensible American would accept.

We will not, however, abandon our hope and our faith that we can work successfully, so as to banish that awful danger of a hydrogen bomb world war.

We hope that Governor Stassen (Harold E. Stassen, the U.S. disarmament delegate) will be given continued encouragement by the American government and the American people in trying to work out a safe, sound, and reasonable series of steps.

In any event, we must remain confident that the one key element omitted from Khrushchev's plans—the power of spiritual force—is working with us toward the goal of peace and freedom for mankind.

Buffalo Mayor Defeats Challenge of Women

BUFFALO, W. Va. (AP)—Vernon D. Pigg, who admits there hadn't been a "real election" in Buffalo for some 10 years until yesterday, remained firmly in the driver's seat as mayor.

Pigg, a male recorder and all-male Council easily withstood the challenge of an all-woman slate headed by Mrs. Norma Warner in the town election.

The vote for mayor was 90 to 36.

"It's a relief to know we won't have all the responsibility," said Mrs. Warner. She said, however, that the women, who ran because of what they regarded as a "do nothing" attitude by the men, will be "looking over their shoulders."

A COUPLE OF EDDIES — Albert (left) and Bracken are only vaguely similar, but they confuse the public. Both are stars of stage, screen and television.

Eddies Follow Similar Paths

Started on Broadway Together, Have Played Same Roles

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — A panel show employe with a happy story to relate is Eddie Bracken, currently the emcee of "Masquerade Party."

He's also doubling in the Broadway show, "Shinbone Alley," with Eartha Kitt. He's also making records. He's also president of an electronics company in Chicago.

What with one thing and another and another and another, Eddie Bracken cheerfully reports that 1957 is a good year.

"It's the best year I've ever had," he says. "No, it's double the best year I've ever had.

"I can tell when things are good—people stop calling me Eddie Albert. When things are bad, they start calling HIM Eddie Bracken."

PARALLEL CAREERS

They started on Broadway together in "Brother Rat." And they both jumped to Hollywood after appearing in George Abbott musicals.

They've played the same roles in several shows, and both played in "Teahouse of the August Moon," although different roles. Time after time, they've followed one another in parts.

And they're always being confused. Once, the two Eddies and their wives were dining in a restaurant. A woman approached Bracken and asked, "Mr. Albert, may I have your autograph?"

Bracken graciously signed and said, "Wouldn't you like Mr. Bracken's, too?" and pointed to Albert. She said she would and Albert signed.

DIDN'T SUSPECT

But today, Eddie Bracken is Eddie Bracken. His weekly appearances on "Masquerade Party" have been good for him—and vice versa, judging by the climbing ratings—and he's establishing himself as a top TV emcee.

And there's the financial thing. Eddie, as he says, is having the most remunerative year he's had. That's helpful, because he has five kids.

Recreation Month Proclaimed

Waterford Ready for Play

National Recreation Month has been proclaimed in Waterford Township by supervisor Elmer Johnson as more than 5,000 communities and 80,000 leaders all ove the country prepare events geared for American recreation.

A summer activity program has been scheduled for area residents by Tom Belton, recreation director, which will include Little and Junior softball leagues, a camera group, a Ladies Diet Club and a men's horseshoe league.

"Participation in recreation activities in Waterford Township has been at an all time high," Belton said. "Last year more than 8,000 people took part in one or more of the 20 different activities conducted by this department."

Swimming instruction will begin June 17 at designated beaches throughout the township. On June 24 playground programs will get under way at eight elementary schools, while the day camp will run the last five weeks of the summer vacation.

ACTIVITIES PLANNED

All activities are planned with the purpose of helping children and adults realize the most possible from their leisure time in terms of fun and growth, Belton said.

Recreation staff members are thoroughly qualified for their positions, and Waterford Township residents have an opportunity for participation in all of these programs during the summer at little or no cost, Belton added.

Recreation booklets describing the activities in detail are being distributed through the schools and other organizations this week. Additional booklets may be obtained at the office of the Community Activities building on Williams Lake road.

Beware of Certain Drivers

Pinpoint Accident Causes

The rear of the car and the front end of another are smashed up. The reason? "The guy behind was right on my tail."

Two cars are damaged slightly when one switches lanes. Other motorists stop on the expressway to watch the excitement. Result? Sixteen cars pile up.

TICKET DRIVER

Police ticket a motorist for "following too closely." He claims the driver ahead "stopped with no warning."

The tail-gater, the highway-halter, the abrupt-stopper — they're three of a kind, the National Safety Council said today.

They're the motorists who account for most rear-end collisions of motor vehicles, the council pointed out.

Rear-end collisions make up about 3 per cent of all fatal two motor vehicle nonintersection accidents — which account for nearly a fourth of all traffic fatalities.

URBAN ACCIDENTS

Rear-end collisions account for 8 per cent of urban accidents, and 9 per cent of rural accidents.

They can be prevented, the Council said, if all drivers will:

1. Stay about a car length for every 10 miles an hour speed behind the preceding car.

2. pull off roadways in an emergency.

ALWAYS SIGNAL

3. Signal before slowing or stopping.

4. Set up flares or turn on directional signals if it's impossible to leave the roadway.

5. Keep an eye on traffic lights and begin braking well before an intersection instead of slamming on brakes at the last minute.

Many motor vehicle mishaps would never happen, the council noted, if more motorists would drive defensively. Defensively, the council said, means alertly, intelligently, thinking and looking ahead to what might happen. "Keep your eye on the other guy," the council said, outlining these ways to offset bad driving habits of others:

1. Drive at a safe speed so you can stop in time to avoid another guy's boners.

2. Obey traffic rules and regulations.

3. Scan the road ahead. The sooner you see danger the more time you'll have to avoid it.

4. Keep watching your rear-view mirror. It'll show what the fellow behind is doing.

5. Keep a safe distance from the car ahead. Then you'll be able to stop suddenly if necessary.

6. Yield right-of-way. Better to "lose" your rights — and save your life.

3 Dredging Firms Submit Low Bids

DETROIT (AP) — Three dredging companies submitted apparent low bids totaling more than 19 million dollars for deepening 14 miles of channel in the St. Mary's River, connecting Lakes Huron and Superior, the Army Corps of Engineers said yesterday.

The work is part of a 136-million-dollar channel deepening project in the Great Lakes' connecting channels. The project will open western lake ports to the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The engineers said following investigation of equipment of the three firms the bids will be submitted for final authorization by division headquarters at Chicago.

Great Lakes Dredge and Dock Co. of Chicago submitted a bid of $10,816,330 for drilling and blasting sandstone and ledgerock in the channel. Dunbar and Sullivan bid $7,259,260 for drilling hard limestone ledge and Price Bros. of Dayton, Ohio, bid $1,199,470 for sand sucking.

Railroad to Pay $18,600 to City

Commission OKs Sum in Compromise for 3 Acres of Land

A compromise price of $18,600 was settled upon last night as the price of three acres of land Grand Trunk Western Railroad needs from Pontiac for its proposed switch yard in the north end.

The price, approved earlier by the railroad, was agreed upon by city commissioners by a 4 to 2 vote. Commissioners Floyd P. Miles and Gilbert W. Long cast "no" votes.

Both have steadfastly dissented during negotiations between the city and the railroad for the $700,000 yard. It is slated for an area south of Walton boulevard and west of Baldwin avenue.

The city had appraised the parcel at $20,600, while Grand Trunk had figured on $16,600.

City Manager Walter K. Willman told commissioners the compromise "would have been the price a neutral appraiser would arrive at."

Under a 14-point agreement approved May 21 for the yard, both parties agreed to call in such an appraisr if no settlement could be reached.

Cuts Improvements

SAGINAW (AP) — The Saginaw city council said despite a tax increase of $2.33 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, a proposed program of public improvements must be curtailed. It cut out a planned street lighting program, a new fire station and fieldhouse. Higher tax revenues will be needed to cover current operating expenses.

7-Inch Thickness on Columbia

City OKs Concrete Pavement

Pontiac city commissioners last night authorized new plans be made by the city engineer which will provide seven-inch concrete paving of Columbia avenue from Baldwin to Stanley, and for Featherstone avenue from East boulevard to the eastern city limits.

The action followed a recommendation of City Manager Walter K. Willman who reported last Tuesday that bids for the customary eight-inch concrete pavement and related work proved "too high."

The commission turned down a previously discussed alternative of blacktopping the two arterials to save the city a little more than $100,000 for the work.

Willman said the one-inch-less concrete pavement, plus curbs which will be poured as a portion of the road, most likely would still save the money "and bring the project closer to our estimates."

OTHER BUSINESS

Most other business facing commissioners last evening on a short eight-point slate involved public improvement projects.

They decided to proceed with the construction of a sewer on Kennett road despite objections of Commissioner Floyd P. Miles and several residents facing assessments for the work.

Miles claimed they should be given credit for a former sewer installation in their area.

This resulted in an immediate objection of the city manager who said the city's assessment formula doesn't permit credit for major and lateral sewer installations.

Public hearings were set for next Tuesday on intention to construct two-inch blacktopping on Gillespie and Diston streets from Bagley to the east line of lot 4 in the Lakeside Homes Subdivision.

Total cost for the job will be $5,725, with $1,971 assessable to residents and with the city carrying $3,754. Cost for a 30-foot lot will be $69.

DEBATE ROAD OIL

Another hearing will be aired on intention of the city to treat West Brooklyn avenue from Baldwin to Stanley with road oil. Cost for the work will be 50 cents a front foot.

Two more hearings will be heard June 11 on special assessment rolls to finance curb, gutter, and related work on New York avenue from Baldwin to University, and for a combined sewer on the south side of Columbia avenue from Baldwin to Hollywood.

In final action last evening, commissioners approved a request for a July 4 fireworks display at the Pontiac State Hospital.

Man Seeks New Trial

Revive Inquiry on Drug Prices

Government Wants to Know About High Tab for 'Wonder' Items

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government inquiry into the prices of "wonder drugs" has been revised and broadened—and scheduled for completion in August.

The Federal Trade Commission, after meeting with drug manufacturers and sending economists into their plants, has mailed new questionnaires to 18 producers of antibiotics.

Government sources said the FTC wants to know what cost problems justify the price tags on many drugs, why some well-established antibiotics have not dropped in price since they came on the market, and why some bids on competitive government contracts have been identical.

An FTC spokesman told a reporter the investigation "is a disinterested one—we're not carrying a hatchet, at least at this point."

The FTC voted to investigate antibiotic prices in 1953, then delayed to pursue more urgent matters.

FTC officials conceded that unusual problems complicate the pricing of wonder drugs. Large investments in exploration, research and development are necessary, with the returns highly uncertain.

Hear Defense in Court-Martial

Board Acquits Airman of Serious Charges in Mistreatment

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A court-martial hears pleas of extenuating and mitigating circumstances today before sentencing drill instructor A. 2. C. William Roberts Jr., convicted of mistreating a basic trainee.

Roberts was convicted yesterday of pulling trainee Robert Dinsenbacher, 20, New York City, out of his bunk to the floor.

It acquitted him of striking Dinsenbacher "about the head and body with his hands and shoving his head and body against the wall."

Roberts, 22, who weighs 110 pounds, was also acquitted of kicking another basic trainee, George E. Walker, 18, Springfield, Mo.

Roberts, of Key West, Fla., faced a maximum penalty of six months in prison, a fine of two thirds of his pay for six months and a dishonorable discharge. The minimum was a reprimand or restriction to quarters for a time specified by the court.

"Considering we had an uphill fight I feel we were victorious," Roberts said. He told a reporter he would appeal.

Previously, Roberts had asserted he was being made a scapegoat and that Air Force basic training is too soft.

Vanderbilt Tells Court He's Close to Being Broke

NEW YORK (AP)—Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. says that despite his gold-plated name he is barely keeping the wolf away from his penthouse door.

Vanderbilt filed an affidavit in State Supreme Court yesterday asking for $26,000 from an alimony fund held for his fifth wife Patricia Wallace Vanderbilt.

"Despite the name which I bear," he said, "I have no significant capital or property and must support myself and pay all of my bills out of my income."

The author-traveler receives $60,000 yearly from three trust funds. But half the amount goes to a receiver to guarantee $250 weekly alimony payments to Mrs. Vanderbilt.

Vanderbilt claimed that the receiver now holds a total of $80,000. He asked that $26,000 of that be released to him.

"My financial situation is very precarious," he said. "My outside income as an author and lecturer has been greatly reduced. During the past three years, I have had large medical and legal expenditures.

"I owe substantial amounts for rent, restaurant bills and travel expenses. I have been unable to pay my secretary her salary for several months."

Justice Walter A. Lynch reserved decision.

Hal Boyle Says:

This Gal Gets Both Beauty, Breaks

NEW YORK (AP) — At 21, Lee Remick, who looks like a vanilla ice cream cone topped with taffy, is a real "fortune's darling."

Almost every season now director Elia Kazan taps a new unknown for stardom, and Lee is his discovery this year.

She has made her film debut in "A Face in the Crowd," and Kazan was so impressed with her work he took for him the unusual step of signing her up for five more pictures.

Lee, a girl with a golden touch, may not have everything in life yet —but if her luck holds out she will have.

This lassie hasn't had a disaster since she lost her baby teeth. She is tall, memorably proportioned, and breathtakingly beautiful. She not only was born on the right side of the railroad tracks, but picked a father who owned a department store. She was educated at an exclusive Manhattan finishing school.

"Sure, I've been hungry in my life," she said, smiling. "But there was always plenty of food in the refrigerator."

Some girls get beauty but never get the breaks, Lee is a girl who got both.

She was sitting in Sardi's restaurant when a playwright, drawn by her visible charm, asked her if she could act.

"Sure," said Lee, who had studied ballet dancing but had never taken an acting lesson in her life.

The writer put her in his play. It lasted only two weeks, but long enough for television producers to notice her. And Kazan, after spotting her on a TV show, decided at first glance the girl had the makings of a star.

In her first movie role Lee plays a naive young Arkansas drum majorette who falls in love with an entertainment world idol (Andy Griffith) who busts her little happy heart, the big heel.

Lee spent several months learning the art of baton twirling.

"It isn't as easy as it looks," she said. "I picked up some interesting bruises."

She spent some weeks living with an Arkansas family, and picked up a few phrases she had never heard in Park Ave. circles.

"I love their expressions," she said. "Such as, 'It tickled me so I liked to died.' And do you know what they call parties? They call them 'drop ins.'"

Having successfully launched her career as a professional actress, Lee now has only one big immediate problem.

"I'm looking for a good teacher," she said frankly. "I want to learn how to act."

Cartoonist Partch Sued for $500,000

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP)—Cartoonist Virgil Partch, known as VIP, and his 16-year-old son are being sued for half a million dollars in damages. The suit stems from a traffic accident that killed one teen-ager and injured another.

The action was brought yesterday by William Whitehouse II of Los Angeles, who sued for $150,000 in the death of his 16-year-old son William III and J. Orville Wilkins of Colton, Calif., who asked for $350,000 for what he termed permanent injuries to his son John, 17.

The plaintiffs said the two boys were riding with young Nicholas Partch when his car collided with another vehicle near Laguna Beach, Calif., Feb. 10.
