Troy Board to Meet Tonight on Track Deal

Treasurer of Township Repeats Offer to Sell Esroh Stock

DETROIT — Troy Township Councilman J. Wesley Smith said here today the board will meet tonight to consider taking action against the township's treasurer who was in a corporation standing to make nearly $170,000 on a race track option deal.

He was questioned at hearings before the State Racing Commission.

The treasurer, Fred W. Hildebrandt, formed the corporation with attorneys Malcom M. Heber and Harry N. Dell.

"We must take some action to clear the rest of us," said Smith.

"I'm so mad I've got butterflies in my stomach," said another board member.

Both Heber and Dell were scheduled to testify today. Their firm handles legal counsel for the township, although Heber is considered the Troy attorney.

Hildebrandt said yesterday the corporation was in line to make $117,000 on one transaction alone.

He said the profit, which amounted to 100 per cent, would be made on a deal for 78 acres of the 200-acre track site at 14-Mile road and John R.

The land was optioned from Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brace for $1,500 an acre, Hildebrandt said, and would be turned over to the Michigan Thoroughbred Turf Club for $3,000 an acre.

David Lebenbom, an investigator for the attorney general's office, said a check of the option papers showed the corporation would pay $430,697 for the 200 acres.

SEE $169,303 PROFIT

A conditional option to the turf club, which depended on issuance of a racing license, he said, provided for turning the land over to the syndicate for $600,000—a profit of $169,303.

The current hearing is one of a series held since the turf club announced plans for the track and obtained approval of the township board last May 23 by a 4-3 vote.

Israeli Troops Kill 10 Egyptians

Army Unit Raids Base 5 Miles Behind Lines in Retaliatory Action

JERUSALEM (AP) — An Israeli army unit stormed the Egyptian army unit stormed the Egyptian ern Sinai Peninsula and ten Egyptian soldiers were killed and 20 taken prisioner, an Israeli army spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the Israelis successfully carried out the attack last night and later returned to their base. Israeli losses were four soldiers wounded, he added.

The clash followed an Egyptian attack Tuesday on an Israeli police check post at Beerotayim in the demilitarized El Auja-Nizana border zone, the spokesman said.

An Israeli foreign ministry spokesman said the "purpose of the Israeli counteraction last night was to emphasize what should have been clear to Egypt — that their attack on Israel would be met by counterattack."

A few hours before last night's newest attack, Israeli Premier Moshe Sharett arrived at the scene of the Big Four conference in Geneva to protest shipment of Communist arms to Egypt and to seek new security guarantees from the West to counteract the growing Arab arsenal.

Asked if Israel would launch a preventive war, Sharett told reporters: "I hope to God that Israel will not be driven to this . . . It should be the interest of civilized nations everywhere to see that Israel does not have to fight again —as she will fight if she has to."

UF $165,521 Short of Goal Heading Into Final Week

The Pontiac Area United Fund drive entered its final week today with $396,654 collected, or 70.5 per cent of its $562,175 goal.

An increased effort will be made during the next few days to obtain the $165,521 needed to reach the top, said Campaign Manager Robert M. Critchfield.

"This final week is a crucial one," Critchfield stated. "Remember that our goal is a conservative one. Every cent is needed so that each of the 55 agencies can receive its full share in order to carry on work vital to this community."

The drive is running ahead of the same point last year when 67.8 per cent of goal was collected.

Figures compiled last night showed 86 per cent of the Industrial Division's quota in. The Residential Division has advanced from 39 per cent of goal to 45 per cent during the last two days. The Commercial Division climbed from 42 to 47 per cent.

The Jewelry Unit was first to reach its goal in the Commercial Division. This helped Retail Group 2 jump its percentage of quota from 36.5 to 69.4.

Largest single increase Thursday was reported by Progress Pattern Co. in the Industrial Division. The firm contributed $500 this year, compared with $100 in 1954. Employes gave $237.

Another $500 was pledged by Darin & Armstrong. Jacob Kovinsky gave $500. Whitfield, Walter and Dawson contributed $400 and its employes $330.

The financial statement is the only one filed by the company, owned wholly by the Ford family. Cash, receivables and securities totaled $512,918,000 at the end of 1954 compared with $461,171,000 at the end of 1953.

Owner Reports $80,000 Loss; Woman Burned in Dash for Purse

The Lake Theater at Walled Lake was gutted by fire shortly before noon today. Total loss was estimated at $80,000 by the owner, Bud Harris, of Sylvan Lake.

The blaze was discovered behind the screen in the stage area by Mrs. Geraldine Graham, employed as a janitress.

Mrs. Graham escaped uninjured and sounded an alarm, then returned for her purse which she left in the building. She suffered severe burns on the return trip and was taken to a physician's office nearby for treatment.

Origin of the blaze was not determined. No one is known to have been in the building since close of the last show Thursday night.

The theater seats 660 persons and was housed in a cement block building 73 by 130 feet, located on Pontiac Trail. Included in the loss was a new $12,000 Cinemascope screen.

Walled Lake Fire Department battled the blaze two hours and succeeded in saving the shell of the building, although the interior is gutted.

The owner reported that the loss is covered by insurance.

Governor Proposes Lower Speeds

Solons Receive Early Message From Williams

State Chief Executive Drops Hare Plan for Driver Licensing

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Williams, in an unprecedented advance message to the Legislature, today asked Michigan lawmakers to impose a speed limit on the highways and backed away from the Hare plan to take driver licensing examinations away from local officials.

In both actions, the governor, reversed his earlier intentions.

Where he once proposed a commission to study the idea of a speed limit, Williams now said that there was so much public approval of speed controls he was recommending a 65-mile an hour limit daytimes and a 55-mile limit at night.

Where he once advocated the state take licensing away from police and sheriffs departments and give it to 500 state civil service examiners, Williams now advocated that the state set up standards to guide local examiners and put them through a training course.

Williams conceded that he was breaking tradition by sending lawmakers his message before they convene Tuesday in special session.

But he said he thought this would aid in a harmonious session and implied a hope that it would speed the session.

The total bill for the governor's proposals on highway safety, mental health and teacher pay raises was estimated at close to 16 million dollars.

ADVOCATES RAISE

Williams advocated giving teachers a $200 a year pay raise out of unexpected surpluses in state school funds.

He asked for $2,158,000 to take 1,221 mentally retarded children off state hospital waiting lists.

In this program, the governor

County Gains 145,999 in 5 Years

Third More Now Live Here

More than a third more people now make their homes in fast-growing Oakland County than lived here a little more than five years ago.

The county's population had risen to 542,000 on July 1 of this year, a gain of 145,999 people, or 36.9 per cent. This is a greater gain in people than for the ten years between 1940 and 1950, when the population gain was 141,333.

The new population estimates are compiled by the Regional Planning Commission for the Detroit Metropolitan Area, consisting of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb Counties and a portion of Washtenaw.

Most of the gain in the past five years has been around the city of Pontiac and in the southeastern corner of the county, the report released today reveals.

Pontiac city gained 5,819 or 7.9 per cent in the period. The city's July 1 population is estimated in the survey at 79,500.

Since 1950, five new cities and villages have been incorporated in the county. Southfield Township, from which the village of Franklin and the city of Lathrup Village were carved, still showed a population gain of 12,801 for an 84.8 per cent increase.

Commerce Township which "mothered" Walled Lake City and Wolverine Lake Village, was able to make a population gain of 2,429 or 54.3 per cent increase.

West Bloomfield Township which lost Keego Harbor village, registered a population gain of 2,980 for a 48.7 per cent increase from 1950 to 1955.

The city of Oak Park, with a population increase of 21,933 for a 416.4 per cent gain, led the county during the period.

Percentagewise, Bloomfield Township with 170.1 per cent increase stood second, though its numerical gain was only 6,549. Royal Oak City stood second in number gained with a population increase of 18,602 persons.

In addition to Southfield, other township areas with outstanding gains were: Waterford Township, 9,725; Royal Oak Township, 8,734 and Troy Township, 4,113. Two fast-growing cities were Farmington and Clawson with 84.9 per cent and 98.2 per cent increases, respectively. (See table, page 2.)

Pinay Flying to Geneva

Soviet Offered Assurance of Curb Over Germany

GENEVA (AP)—The second session of the Big Four foreign ministers' conference opened today at 4 p.m.

Roland de Margerie, director of political affairs in the French foreign ministry, was sitting in Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay's chair as the session opened.

Pinay, flying back from the confidence vote in the French Assembly, was expected to resume leadership of the French delegation later in the afternoon.

The United States, Britain and France offered Russia a nine-point "treaty of assurance against German aggression.

It would create a radar-equipped East-West buffer zone along a reunited Germany's borders with Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The aim of the treaty proposal is to induce Russia to agree to reunification of Germany and its membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance.

The treaty would become fully effective only if united Germany became a NATO member as West Germany now is.

Together with the security offer Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Pinay proposed to Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov all over again a plan for unifying Germany through free elections under Big Four supervision.

Virtually the same plan was presented 20 months ago at the Berlin Big Four conference.

A fast maneuver yesterday by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov prevented the Western Big Three from getting out ahead with their major policy proposals on Germany and European security.

The move fitted into the developing pattern of diplomatic contest rather than give-and-take negotiation.

Molotov looked quickly over a copy of the Western document and said he had not agreed to discuss at once the subject there — Item 1 on the agenda — and would not do so. Presentation of the proposals was then put over until today.

Confidence Vote Won by Faure

271 to 259 Ballot Keeps French Representative at Geneva Conference

PARIS (INS)—French Premier Edgar Faure won a vote of confidence in the National Assembly today, e

The Assembly was voting on a motion expressing approval of the general policies of the Faure government.

Nearly 100 deputies abstained or were absent.

It was the government's second victory in a confidence vote in the last eight days.

Pinay had flown to Paris early this morning from the Swiss conference city to take part in the voting.

The Premier's victory was not completely unexpected after the Popular Republican Party (MRP) announced before the balloting that they would support the government, and the Independents said they would abstain rather than vote against.

The narrow margin of today's victory for France's 21st postwar government contrasted with the 308 to 254 tally when Faure was supported on a question of confidence involving his Algerian reform plan.

Showers, Cold Front Predicted for County

The U. S. Weather Bureau said showers and a cold front from the west would end the city's Indian summer weather tonight. The mercury will dip to a low of 44 to 48 degrees.

Tomorrow will be mostly cloudy and much cooler with scattered showers. The expected high will range from 50 to 54 degrees.

The lowest temperature shortly before 8 a.m. was 49 degrees. The thermometer registered 66 at 1 p.m.

Football Forecast

The Weather Bureau today predicted showers and thundershowers would hit the Pontiac-area tonight, followed by scattered showers tomorrow which may dampen the Michigan-Iowa football game in Ann Arbor.

Democrats of County Opening Drive to Defeat George Dondero Next Year

By BURDETT C. STODDARD

First step was taken last night in what appears to be an all-out drive by Oakland County Democrats to win next year the congressional seat now held by U. S. Rep. George A. Dondero (R-Royal Oak).

The main speaker at their first annual congressional dinner was a Democratic congressman from New Jersey who assailed Dondero as having a record "often opposed to the best interests of the people."

U. S. Rep. Harrison J. Williams Jr. (D-NJ) spoke before about 400 county Dems assembled at Northwood Inn, Berkley.

His listeners included Sen. Patrick V. McNamara (D-Mich), Gov. G. Mennen Williams and other top state, county and municipal Democratic officials.

Congressman Williams, a member of the House Foreign Affairs Commitee, said, "Our freedom depends on the strength and freedom of other countries.

"Continued military strength is still necessary, but our security also lies in helping free countries remain prosperous and free by supplying them through economic and technical assistance.

"The Republican administration did take that idea and try to carry it forward by backing the Mutual Security Act of 1955. The representative from this district (Dondero) voted against that program."

Williams charged that Dondero voted for tax relief in the upper income brackets while opposing an "equitable" tax cutting program.

"We hope if there is a tax cut made during the next session it will be just—not aimed to aid one group as the GOP wants."

The Democrats hoped last year to raise the minimum hourly wage from 75 cents to $1.25, Williams declared, "but few Republicans wanted even $1 and Dondero was among them. We managed to get $1."

Williams also criticized Dondero's position when bills were under consideration during the last session to increase federal aid to highway building.

Two plans were submitted and both rejected. President Eisenhower's plan called for highways financed by long-term bonds, while a Democratic program asked that roads be financed with new taxes.

"Both would supply a good road system," said Williams. "But

Michigan Man Wins Confidence of Associates

By HAROLD A. FITZGERALD
Pontiac Press Publisher

Michigan can well be proud of her newest representative in the President's official family.

Former Michigan Governor, Wilber M. Brucker, is slipping into the tremendously important position of Secretary of the Army easily and is inspiring the confidence of those around him. It was my pleasure to have dinner with him in Washington along with Walter Gehrke of Pleasant Ridge and subsequently, he addressed our group informally and made a very favorable impression.

Brucker said few people in the country realize the long hours put in by the top brass in the Defense Department. Most of the executives are at work by 8 a.m. and it isn't unusual for them to be there until 9 or 10 o'clock at night.

Secretary Brucker declared that the Defense Department has a tremendous regard for C. E. Wilson and his outstanding ability. "His decision on important things involving large numbers of people and production are uncanny," said Secretary Brucker. "We have a private saying in the Department that covers especially difficult matters. When the rest have worked over a difficult idea and baffling situation at length, someone always says: 'well, take it to Moses.' That means Defense Secretary Wilson and he always comes up with the best solution and most accurate answer."

WILBER M. BRUCKER

* * *

Secretary Brucker spoke in glowing terms of the new military weapons that the Army is producing. Recently he saw one of our guns bring down an airplane in full flight three miles high and 20 miles away. "It's done by radar," said the Michigan man, "and we scored a direct hit."

* * *

The Secretary related an amusing incident involving himself and the Russian Commander of East Germany when he was in Europe. A big, formal event had been planned in West Germany with the Commanding Russian General of East Germany in attendance.

"They let me know that I was expected to be there for sure," said Secretary Brucker, "and of course I was. The top Russian knew no English and I don't speak Russian, so we talked through an interpreter.

"During the conversation, the Russian suggested that I had probably been a high ranking General in the U.S. Army. To test his sense of humor, I said back to the interpreter, 'tell him I was a corporal.'

"The Russian received this in astonished silence at first and then turned to the interpreter and with lots of emphasis pawed the air as he spoke. When he finished the interpreter turned to me and said, 'The General say if you do not have inferiority complex and if you persevere you can still amount to something in this life.'"

* * *

As a matter of fact, Secretary Brucker has a fine war record and was a major in a combat division that saw plenty of action.

* * *

"You hear about possible surprise attacks from the North Pole," said Brucker, "and I can assure you we will be prepared. Our system of alarms is worked out. No matter from what direction an enemy comes, he won't find the U.S. napping." Secretary Brucker is tremendously proud of the American Army and the people who are working for our safety and defense. After World War I, American military might vanished. We had to re-do the job. After World War II, practically the same thing happened again; then along came the Korean incident. Once more the United States had to start almost from the beginning.

* * *

The current Department of Defense plans to keep the military strength sufficient to serve as protection to this nation at all times.

Taylor Attends Track Hearings

— Interested spectators at the Racing Commission hearings on a proposed Troy Township race course are representatives of the Oakland County prosecutor's office and the state attorney general's office.

They are studying possible criminal charges in the optioning of land by the township treasurer and the township's legal counsel.

Representing the prosecutor's office is George F. Taylor, chief assistant prosecutor. He said he would have no comment until the state concludes its case.

From the state were Irving Beattie, assistant attorney general assigned to the criminal division; Ray Pincomb, investigator for the attorney general's staff, and Detective-Sgt. Conrad Konetski, of the State Police special investigation bureau.

Western Movies Sent to Hospital to Entertain Ike

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower found much about which to cheer today as he approached the end of his fifth week of hospitalization from a heart attack.

* * *

A whole series of gun-fighting Western movies—he saw his first one yesterday—have been brought to Fitzsimons Army Hospital for his viewing during the long hours of convalescence.

And every day brings new word of increasing physical activity which doctors say he is taking in stride—a slow stride now of a few steps at a time — but heartening steps that are being increased in number as time goes by.

There was cheering news too in Russia's approval of a Western-sponsored resolution providing for a series of steps for creation of an international atom-for-peace agency.

Six Southeastern Areas to Back Water Authority

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — First steps toward forming and financing a water authority for six southeastern Michigan counties was taken yesterday by the Inter-County Committee of Supervisors.

The Committee unanimously adopted five resolutions for presentation to the full boards of supervisors in the six counties it represents: Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Monroe, Washtenaw and St. Clair.

The first resolution called for alloting among member counties the expense of hiring a legal staff to draft detailed plans for a metropolitan water authority, which also would have control over drainage.

Apportionment of the cost was left to the executive committee of the Inter-County group.

In a second resolution, the Committee called on each member county to appoint a specific agency or agencies to handle overall water and drainage problems and work with the proposed authority.

The counties also were asked to support legislation which might provide state and federal loans to help meet costs of surveys, expected to run $3,000,000 to $5,000,000.

Another resolution suggested legislation which would place state and federal guarantees behind bonds needed to finance a pipeline network that would bring water from Lake Huron.

The Detroit Regional Planning Commission presented a study forecasting 5,679,700 population in the metropolitan area by 1980 and said this would be 1,301,650 more people than present facilities could supply with water.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams, meanwhile, invited 135 municipal and township officials to attend an East Lansing conference Nov. 7 on Michigan's water and drainage needs.

Sylvan Lake Adds New Police Officer

Sylvan Lake Police Chief George W. Purdy has announced the appointment of James Stragea as patrolman on the Sylvan Lake force.

Officer Stragea is a World War II veteran, and lives with his wife and two sons at 372 Pittsfield, Pontiac.

Williams Proposes State Speed Limit

urged the purchase of the Farmington Children's Hospital and the use of the Ft. Custer Station Hospital at Battle Creek. He said negotiations for purchasing the Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium, once proposed, had produced "no concrete results."

The Farmington hospital would cost $910,000 to buy and $250,000 to rehabilitate, he said.

Williams asked for $2,326,257 to put his highway safety program in effect for the remaining six months of the fiscal year.

* * *

He said he still thought the "ideal" method of examining motorists for driver licenses would be by a system of state examiners. Local officials have condemned this plan.

Williams said he found this so controversial that he was recommending a second-best program.

CALLS FOR TRAINING

He advocated that the secretary of State set training standards for examiners and approve their examining equipment, that all local examiners be required to attend a three-day course of instruction conducted by the State Department with expenses paid by the state, and that examiners be forced to obtain a passing grade before they could assume their duties.

* * *

The only addition to the original 14-point safety program he suggested on advice of Secretary of State James M. Hare was a proposal for a $20,000-a-year coordinator for the municipal and justice courts. This official would attempt to stiffen and standardize handling of traffic violations cases.

The governor's safety program included:

$723,480 for six months to put 200 more state policemen on the payroll.

$269,499 to enable the secretary of state to crack down on more drivers with bad records.

$750,000 to start a program of driver training in the public schools, with a requirement that all new drivers pass the courses after a certain date.

$177,500 to start a traffic safety center at Michigan State University.

Stiffer physical standards for school bus drivers and a requirement that motorists stop when meeting or passing a stopped school bus.

Legislation to legalize the use of chemical tests for drunk drivers.

A $15,000 study of ways to regulate roadside vendors.

$30,645 to expand the State Safety Commission, including research into traffic accidents, the relationship between accidents and licensing procedures and greater use of safety publicity.

Cranbrook Man Decorated Again for His Service

Harry M. Bell, of 308 Central Ave., has worked at the Academy since its construction in 1928—in fact, worked on the construction gang that built it.

Bell endeared himself to students, Cranbrook officials say, by his "gentleness and amiability," and by his enthusiasm for his work. He was especially proud of his window-cleaning abilities.

It was the window cleaning that led to his first medals. Worked in brass, they were presented ten years ago by students in the metal shop.

For his retirement today, a competition in medals was held. First prize for the official medal went to Vernon McNeil, and two additional medals which won second and third prizes were also presented mounted on a plaque.

Doctor Starts 4 Year Term for Tax Fraud

CINCINATTI (AP) — The Circuit Court of Appeals, Sixth Circuit, today sent a mandate to the U.S. District Court of Detroit in the case of Dr. Louis J. Gariepy.

The action means the physician will be taken into custody to begin a four-year sentence on an income tax fraud conviction. He also was fined $10,000.

The mandate followed word from the U. S. Supreme Court that it has rejected Dr. Gariepy's petition for a hearing.

Dr. Gariepy was charged in an indictment with paying $18,912.15 income tax in 1945 on a reported income of $39,069.36, whereas he actually owed $40,261.46 on an income of $65,057.36.

Dr. Gariepy was sentenced and fined on Jan. 29, 1953, by U.S. District Judge Arthur F. Lederle in Detroit.

Police Find Clue in Boys' Murder

Trace Abandoned Auto to Ex-Mental Patient; Shirt Fragment Found

CHICAGO (AP) — Investigators seeking to solve the ghastly murder of three young boys checked today on what they called the most promising lead yet.

* * *

Such a car was seen by several witnesses in Robinson Woods a few hours before the nude bodies of Robert Peterson, 14; John Schuessler, 13; and his brother Anton, 11, were found in a ditch there Oct. 18.

All three boys were wearing blue jeans when they disappeared on Chicago's Northwest Side Sunday night, Oct. 16. Anton Schuessler was wearing a white flannel shirt. However, the victims' parents said the clothing in the car was not that worn by the boys.

Police said they had traced ownership of the abandoned car through the license plate but had not located the owner for questioning. Police said the owner was a former patient of a mental hospital.

Also being traced as a possible clue was a fragment of shirt found about 150 feet from the ditch in Robinson Woods, just northwest of the city limits.

Democrats Seeking to Unseat Dondero

the Republican plan would have provided $22 billion to build interstate highways and $11 billion to pave one street—Wall Street. Your representative (Dondero) sponsored that bill.

"For each dollar spent on highways, 50 cents would have gone to the bonding houses. The Democrats felt we should get one dollar for one dollar, and supported a pay-as-you-go program leaving out bond issues."

"There is a Democratic trend over the country at all levels," he stated. "During the last two years we've gained 500 seats in state assemblies."

Gov. Williams called on both parties to "band together in a non-partisan effort" to get state highway-safety and mentally-retarded legislation worked out during the special legislative session starting next week.

Sen. McNamara said he had been disappointed in work accomplished by the last Congress. "We northern Democrats hope to nudge our Southern party members into doing something for the people during the coming months," he declared.

Toastmaster for the dinner was Lt. Gov. Philip A. Hart. Among persons from the Pontiac area introduced by Hart were, Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams, State Rep. Leslie H. Hudson, County Democrat Chairman Carlos G. Richardson and City Commissioner John A. Dugan.

Also attending were Secretary of State James M. Hare, State Treasurer Sanford A. Brown, Auditor General Victor C. Targonski and State Democratic Chairman Neil Staebler.

World production of whale and sperm oils in the 1955 season reached 4150,000 and 85,000 tons, respectively, compared with 445,000 and 75,000 tons in 1954.

FRED THOMPSON

Thompson to Attend Circulation Seminar

Fred Thompson, assistant circulation manager for the Pontiac Press, will attend an American Press Institute seminar at Columbia University, New York Monday through Friday.

The main purpose of the seminar is to produce facts and ideas which will increase circulation of daily newspapers through clinical analysis sessions. During the sessions circulation executives will interchange and compare operations, methods, ideas and comments. Each clinical session will be preceded by five minutes of conference talks.

Discussions covering city and suburban distributions, carrier delivery, and circulation policies will be some of the main topics dealt with. Brief reports will be made from the clinical studies and surveys will be discussed before the final session closes.

Attorneys to Testify on Troy Dealings

questioning by Wilbur DeYoung, assistant attorney general, that he agreed to split "50-50" with Heber any profits made in obtaining the options and then turning them over to the turf club.

3 SPLIT STOCK

He said the agreement was made before the corporation, named Esroh, which is horse spelled backwards, was formed. When the three-man firm was established, he said, he bought 500 shares at $1 each and Heber and Dell each purchased 250 shares at the same price.

Hildebrandt, treasurer for 4½ years, testified he had first been approached in the land transactions by Dr. Benjamin J. Bratt, a Royal Oak optometrist.

Bratt, a stockholder in the syndicate, asked him if he could assemble 200 acres as the site of a track, he said.

"I was interested," said Hildebrandt. "I had been talking to other board members about a race track for Troy Township."

DeYoung interjected:

"What was your real reason. What was your intention?"

"I don't know," Hildebrandt replied. "Nobody works for nothing. But exactly what my intentions were I didn't know."

WANTED TAX BASE

He later reiterated statements made to the newspapers Wednesday that he was interested in the track for the tax income it would bring the township.

He also repeated his offer to sell his shares of stock in the corporation.

DeYoung caustically remarked, "That's very nice of you. But why didn't you make the offer before? The reason is that if you could get away with it, you would have."

The attorney also raked Hildebrandt for not telling anyone in the township government about his connections with the deal prior to the vote of May 23.

TRUSTEES TESTIFY

Two board trustees who voted along with Hildebrandt, who has a seat on the board as treasurer, testified he had not told them of his connections and that he had not attempted to pressure them into voting for approval of the track plan.

The two were Elmer Lowe and J. Wesley Smith.

Township Supervisor Norman Barnard, one of the three who voted against the move, because of the speed with which it was offered, testified that he had come to DeYoung's office last week concerning rumors that the attorneys held options on the race track site.

Confirmation of the rumors plus learning that Hildebrandt also was involved shocked him so much it caused butterflies in his stomach, Barnard recalled.

"The matter should go back before the township board," he said.

Racing Commissioner James H. Inglis, before whom the hearing was held, commented to Hildebrandt:

"If there is any man who has done more to wreck this race track, I don't know who it is."

Commission Meet Solves Eton Park Rink Operation

BIRMINGHAM—At a joint session last night, the City Commission and Recreation Board resolved their differences over operation of the Eton Park ice skating rink, when discussion boiled down to closer cooperation with and clarification of the responsibilities of each body involved.

Final accord came with Mayor Charles Renfrew's summing-up of the total ideas which had been presented during the evening. "The physical operation of the skating rink will be executed in the same way as the Birmingham school facilities," said Renfrew.

"However, the use of the rink will be defined and determined by the Recreation Board," he continued. "This utilization program will include hours of operation, special uses, supplementary service and fees."

Renfrew added that the Recreation Board would carry on with the rest of its recreation program as before. The board will also keep a watchful eye over the performance of all city facilities, recommending any personnel changes to the City Commission which would make for a higher standard of operation and utilization.

Meanwhile, the board will meet again on Thursday to complete its programing plan for the rink and continue discussion on the hiring of a city recreation director, a job for which 17 applications have thus far been received.

His salary, when determined, will be shared by the Board of Education and City Commission, parent bodies over the Recreation Board. The new coordinator will serve as liaison between the two, receiving his direction from the Recreation Board.

A request for annexation from Southfield Township residents residing in the area bounded by 14 Mile road, Pierce, Southfield and Kinross, prompted the City Commission to this week refer the general problem of annexation to the Planning Board for study.

The board was asked to take particular note of natural boundaries and to determine what, if any, properties bordering the city are particularly desirable.

Knight Sees Serious Pinch on Newspapers

CHICAGO — John S. Knight sent the following telegram to the presidents of several companies which supply the Chicago Daily News with newsprint:

"The $5 a ton price increase announced by the St. Lawrence Corp., if followed by similar increases by other companies, would impose a back breaking burden upon newspapers.

"My own view is that such an increase has no economic justification since the earnings of newsprint manufacturers are universally satisfactory."

A Pontiac man, Philip Ewald, 65, of 302 Raeburn St. is in Lapeer County General Hospital today, with a broken left hip and lacerations suffered in an accident Wednesday afternoon at M-24 and Columbiaville Roads near Lapeer.

The driver of the other car, Benjamin Owen, 71, Millington, died last night of injuries received and his wife is reportedly in poor condition at the Lapeer hospital, with a fractured left leg and multiple lacerations.

Police said Ewald had slowed down for a car making a left turn off the pavement. In so doing, his brakes locked, throwing the auto into the path of the Owen car, traveling in the opposite direction.

Local Union Votes for Strike Approval

Members of Fisher Body Division Local 596 yesterday voted to request strike approval from the International UAW-CIO in Detroit, according to Archie Grant, local president.

The local is protesting some 160 grievances, said Grant, most involving alleged production speedups.

While the exact number of members voting is not yet known, Grant said between 65 and 75 per cent balloted and 98.8 per cent favored striking. There are about 4,800 men in the local.

Approval or disapproval of a walkout probably will not come from the international for three to four weeks, he added. Strike notice to plant officials would be handled at the international level, he explained.

Rare Silver Dollars Turn Up in Montana

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP)—One thousand rare silver dollars, which coin collectors have valued as high as $65 each as collectors' items, were placed in circulation this week at $1 a throw.

The money, minted in Carson City, Nev., in 1893, was received by a local bank in a routine shipment from the federal reserve bank at Minneapolis.

The coins were distributed at tellers' windows in daily banking operations. Later, a "run" was made on the local bank, officials said, when value of the silver pieces was learned by coin collectors. But most already had disappeared.

The stormy marriage of the actress and wealthy John C. Howard ended in divorce in 1925. For the past 15 years, Miss Carewe had operated a cosmetics shop in Hollywood.

Puppies Provide Second Graders Heated Holiday

HARLAN, Ky. (AP)—Man's best friend turned out to be child's best friend yesterday.

* * *

The pups whined, the mother barked.

Then County Dog Warden Charles Morrow chopped gaping holes in classroom floor to remove the cause of the disturbance.

* * *

Principal John Ellis said the holes cause a draft and the room can't be heated, so he dismissed classes until further notice.

Canada's Building Soars

OTTAWA — The value of construction to be put in place in Canada this year is estimated at $5,059,000,000, an increase of $369,000,000, or about 8 per cent, in both value and volume over 1954. New work will cost $4,063,000,000.

Twins to Change Life Now That Father Is Gone

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP)—The 28-year-old twins, Marjorie and Mildred Hall told a coroner their life with father was "rather pelliar."

They said their father Frederick, 70, never in their lives had let them stay up at night later than 6:30, use makeup, see a movie, have boy friends or wear anything on their feet but boys' shoes and socks.

He was found gassed Wednesday in the kitchen where he slept on a pile of newspapers. The coroner returned a verdict of accidental death.

* * *

"We are going to find life quite a change without father," said Mildred. "I think he was disappointed because we were not boys."

Temperance League Looks Out for Solons

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Temperance League of Kentucky will invite state legislators to a series of "prayer - fellowship" breakfasts during the 1956 General Assembly.

* * *

The Rev. Walter C. House, executive director of the League, said yesterday: "Occasionally we hear of evil and selfish forces that try to compromise our legislators and public officials with questionable social functions."

* * *

For that reason, he said, moral and spiritual forces should provide opportunities for fellowship among the "God-called men in public office."

Pinay Leaves Geneva

There also will be a greeting and citation from Gov. McKeldin.

Wrecking Slot Machines

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Lawbreakers became slot machine smashers yesterday as city jail prisoners started destroying 660 slot machines worth about $200,000.

* * *

The machines were ordered destroyed after being used in court as gambling evidence.

* * *

Prisoners, armed with sledge hammers, battered the machines into a mass of junk, which will be sold to a salvage firm.

Officials say the operation will take about three weeks.

Truman Says Nation's Military Forces Vital

OLATHE, Kan. (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman says all three branches of this country's military services are equally vital and must cooperate to keep the nation strong.

Speaking at a Navy Day dinner last night at the Olathe Naval Air Station, Truman said:

"The reason we were able to meet the situation in Korea was because we controlled the seas of the world. We must maintain that control, not because we want conquest but because we want the people of the world to have the freedom we do.

"But if cooperation among the services is not there, we can't win another war. If there is cooperation, there is no need for another war."

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Driver Harold G. Orwig, 44, made a grab for a package about to totter out of his delivery truck. But it was too late. The package fell out, followed by Orwig.

The driverless truck kept going and crashed into a parked car. Orwig and the package were unhurt yesterday but the car wasn't so lucky.

Dewey Says Red Bloc 'Difficult Challenge'

NEW YORK (AP) — Thomas E. Dewey, recently returned from a world tour, says the West might be facing another crisis in its relationship with the Communist bloc.

The former New York governor and twice a Republican presidential candidate told a dinner audience last night:

"The relaxation of tensions carries more subtle and more difficult challenges than we have ever faced before. The Soviet leaders believe that they can make greater progress in advancing the cause of communism by giving the world a breathing spell from direct threats of actual aggression."

Dewey praised the military strength of the United States, saying, "It is almost impossible to realize the change that has occurred in our position in just the past three years."

"We are no longer in peril of being whipped by a third-rate power in Korea or even by the military might of Communist China thrown into balance," he declared.

Dewey spoke at the 34th annual award dinner of the Theodore Roosevelt Assn. He and atomic scientist Dr. Arthur Holly Compton received the association's 1955 distinguished service medals.

Winner of Auto Race Becomes Bigger Loser

Police said Sanders was ahead in the race at 80 miles an hour, with Todd doing between 70 and 75.

Husband Wants $25,000 Dowry but Gets Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Before they were married, Julius Stein just wanted "someone to call his own" but after the ceremony he demanded a $25,000 dowry, Mrs. Stein charged in her suit for divorce on cruelty grounds.

"We were married in San Francisco on July 27, 1954," Mrs. Stein, 29, said yesterday. "Before that time he had mentioned no dowry."

Stein, 46, a wholesale handkerchief salesman, said a dowry was the custom in his native Czechoslovakia and he would not consider the marriage ties binding without one, Mrs. Stein testified.

Saarland Vote Blow to Europe's Future

When German speaking Saarlanders voted two to one against a plan to "Europeanize" that small coal rich territory, they set in motion forces whose effect is difficult to forecast.

Perhaps the easiest way to analyze the vote is to think of the results if it had been favorable. A "yes" majority would have meant a step toward true Franco-German reconciliation and European unity. A favorable vote also would have meant that Europe's ancient quarrels would have been nearer settlement and that a new era of hope and reason had dawned.

The vote not only was a defeat for West German Chancellor ADENAUER who helped draft the proposal, but for the Saar's Premier, JOHANNES HOFFMAN. The latter had no choice but to resign the office he had held since 1947 and in which he worked diligently for the plan.

The decision at the polls is the more ominous because the opposition campaign was directed by a former Nazi, HEINRICH SCHNEIDER.

Rejection was a blow to France, preventing as it does the removal of the Saar issue from the Franco-German contention. It weakens the French position in advance of the Geneva conference of foreign ministers and blocks fulfillment of a basic French requirement for agreement to the rearming of Germany.

Beyond doubt the result is unfortunate. Only the Russians, who are holding out for their version of German unification, can benefit from this new rift in Western relations.

Turk Riot Censorship

A letter in our Voice of the People column illustrates perfectly why newspapers ceaselessly fight all restrictions on press freedom.

Signed "Terrified and Bewildered Citizen," the letter chides us and all other American newspapers for failure to publish detailed reports of anti-Greek riots in Turkish cities.

As the editor's note following the letter points out, slowness of the riot news in reaching American readers was due entirely to censorship imposed by the Turkish government. Due to this same censorship, articles about the riot published in our issue of September 7 and 8 were far from complete.

Neither this nor any other newspaper in this country had any part in the withholding of this news. In fact the press of the United States previously had criticized Turkish censorship in editorials.

Over the years, also, our Government has made clear in world councils the importance of sweeping aside all barriers to the free flow of international information.

Because the world figuratively is continuing to shrink, elimination of censorship becomes increasingly desirable. No matter what happens anywhere, it is of interest to millions of people in the United States and everywhere else.

Censorship is fundamentally wrong because it interferes with everybody's right to know. It is dangerous because it can be and often has been used to cloak the activities of those who would destroy all freedoms.

Many persons wonder at the continued emphasis given this subject by American newspapers. Yet here is a specific instance in which interested Pontiac citizens were denied the full facts because of the Turkish government's determination to keep them from the rest of the world.

Curb Service on Bills

For two years Phoenix, Ariz. has tested and found satisfactory a self service method of paying municipal bills at the curb.

In front of the city hall is a box in which residents can deposit payments for such debts to the city as water bills, privilege licenses, municipal taxes and even traffic tickets.

The box opens on two sides so it can be used by pedestrians as well as motorists. Envelopes in which to enclose the payment are provided and all the payer has to do is check the type of payment being made and enclose the right amount with his bill. Receipts are mailed if requested.

During the last two years, according to U. S. Municipal News, the self service box has been used mainly for payment of water bills. Money for an average of 500 water bills monthly has been deposited there.

The city treasurer reports, however, that from June 16 through July 26, a total of 269 parking tickets, 664 water bills and three privilege license tax payments have been received through the box.

One can't help wondering why other cities don't provide this convenient method of bill payment for their citizens. The system has all the earmarks of an inevitable development of this automotive age.

Some of the umbrella-shaped fungi are OK—but if you're satisfied with life you'd better leave them all alone.

David Lawrence Says:

Parliamentary System as Used in Canada Insures Best Men for Top Federal Jobs

WASHINGTON — Many people who saw a television program the other evening which ridiculed the methods by which a vice president is chosen must have wondered why the same criticism couldn't be leveled at the way presidents are chosen.

Quite a lot of the conversation by the speakers over the "See It Now" program of the Columbia Broadcasting System made the point that the national conventions of the political parties do not give much consideration to the qualifications of a vice-presidential nominee and instead usually satisfy some factor of internal expediency in a political party.

That's true in a historical sense about vice-presidential nominees, but it is also true sometimes of the process by which a presidential nominee is selected.

Looking at recent history, it was in a "smoke-filled room" that the Republican Party "Bigwigs" in 1920 selected Sen. Warren Harding of Ohio, despite the fact that he had not entered a single one of the presidential-preference primaries. He was elected by an overwhelming vote of the people, but made a poor president.

ADLAI EXAMPLE

It was a combination of party organization leaders also that selected Adlai Stevenson in 1952 to be the Democratic presidential nominee, though he had not entered the presidential-preference primaries in any state. The voting strength of Sen. Kefauver of Tennessee, who had figured prominently in victory after victory in the presidential primaries of 1952, was disregarded by the convention.

* * *

The presidential-preference-primary system, however, is not considered desirable today for a variety of reasons. Sen. Barkley who, because of his term as vice president, was on the television program, said the primary system is theoretically ideal. Former President Truman, who appeared on the same program, pointed out that it would cost too much money for a prospective nominee for the vice presidency to enter all the primaries and make a nation-wide campaign. He would be faced with a big expense twice in a single year.

Ed Murrow, who conducted the program, remarked at the end that is was a matter more of standards than methods in selecting a vice-presidential nominee. He was really implying that the whole nominating system today doesn't provide America with the best qualified man for the vice presidency. He might well have added that it doesn't provide the country every time with good presidential nominees either.

Looking back at the last 100 years of presidential history, it will be found that few of the men who have occupied the White House — either as a vice president succeeding a president or by election as president in the first instance—had experience that qualified them for the presidency.

MAN VS. EXPERIENCE

Some of those with governmental experience, on the other hand, didn't measure up to other presidents who had little or none. It's the man rather than the experience.

The question of what is the best way to pick a vice president is not any different from the problem of how to pick a president. The primary system was introduced in many states because of a popular reaction against the backstage methods of a party convention. But the primary system has serious weaknesses and some states like New York have gone back to the convention method in picking nominees for governor.

The best method of all wasn't mentioned on the television program. It is to require party responsibility in the national government as they do in Canada. The people elect or defeat a party in Parliament and the party itself picks its leader and the chief executive. The people then can show their approval or disapproval at any time — not just every two or four years.

It was the party's strength, plus the strength of the man, which gave Canada a government under which she made her greatest strides. Maybe the parliamentary system will also come in for some study on television, not merely because the system provides a good way to pick a vice president but a president, too.

Jan Sterling Joins Ranks of Natural Birth Advocates

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

I was present, without benefit of anesthetic, for my biggest role. Besides I wanted my baby to be with his father and mother from the very start, not with a lot of strangers making queer noises. Who wants the most important event in her life to occur in an operating room with the Not-As-A-Stranger routine Ugh!

* * *

So says movie star Jan Sterling (Mrs. Paul Douglas) who gave birth to a baby boy, Adams, Oct. 20. The physician who attended Coleen Gray, another movie star, whose first baby was born in hospital in the ordinary way, her second at home the natural way, is attending Miss Sterling. The physician prefers that his patients have their babies at home.

What do you poor Mrs. Milquetoast characters think of that? Your trick specialists will be indignant if they hear about it. It is not so easy to make a federal case of childbirth at home.

In reference to the use of an anesthetic, Coleen Gray says that when her first child was born, in a hospital, the "regular way," they gave her "a shot of something towards the end of the first stage of labor, and the next thing I knew I had a baby.

* * *

They told me I should have been grateful. I wasn't. They had put me out against my wishes. I had wanted to know what having a baby was like. So, when Bruce was going to be born, I decided I would have . . . natural childbirth."

ANESTHETIC READY

In other words, childbirth without fear.

Now, now, Mrs. Milquetoast, please don't start screaming, till you get this fact through your head: In natural childbirth an anesthetic is always ready and the patient can have it whenever she wants it.

"Knowing that you can have the anesthetic at any time you want it —you don't want it. At least I didn't," says Miss Gray.

I do hope you potential mothers who are unfutored or more likely wrongly educated about childbirth will remember this fact if or when the neighbors and the operating - room people tell you it is not for refined, civilized women to endure natural childbirth and the hospital is the only safe place to have a baby.

When I say home is the safest place to have a baby I am sincere. From long observation and the available statistics I am convinced that both maternal and infant morbidity and mortality are lower in the home than in the hospital.

* * *

If prospective parents are not already hypnotized by the hospital obstetricians who are eager to stage the major operation routine for every paying customer, here is some reading for them to study together:

'Release Sane Patients; Use Space for Perverts'

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

I know a man who was committed to an institution because a daughter-in-law wanted his money before he was through with it himself. But because he had friends, he was finally released after miles of red tape, which included proving to a court that he was as sane as the judge.

Now what I would like to know is, why didn't that first court that committed him say, "I'm sorry, madam, my heart bleeds for you, but we just don't have room for this man at this time"? That's what they say to the parents of feeble-minded children who really need care.

Seems to me if they were more careful about confining those who aren't crazy, there would be more room for those who are.

What happens every time there is a crime committed? The police round up hundreds of suspects that are roaming the streets instead of being in institutions where they belong. They may all be innocent in the particular instance, but the fact remains that the streets are full of potential killers, and nothing is done about it.

As father of the latest little victim said, "What kind of country is this we are living in?" We spend billions to make instruments of death, or as we call it, progress, while we as a nation are losing our faith, and with it our lives and our sanity.

Market Slump May Cast Shadow Over '56 Election

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
INS Economic Commentator

The $14 billion stock price slump on Sept. 26, the first market session after news of President Eisenhower's heart attack became known, may cast its shadow over the 1956 national election.

* * *

To headline skimmers, at least, it tends to identify the President as "Mr. Prosperity," and to support the thesis of Dr. Gabriel Hauge, the President's economic consultant, to the effect that "a deep faith in economic decision-making by individuals, and an abiding conviction that it is the only way to a better and stronger America, are foundation stones which undergird and pervade the economic philosophy of the President."

If, next year, the political opposition to Eisenhower and the Republican Party takes the other side, they may argue themselves into a psychologically unattractive position.

This will be especially true if the national economy and employment remain on a high plateau. For under circumstances of widely diffused material well-being, it is unpopular to hack away the foundation stones of good times.

* * *

Accordingly, it would be fraught with practical risks for the top candidates of the President's opposition to accept uncritically the aspersions on Eisenhower and his group by "radical" labor leaders and dissident pressure groups.

EMBRACE MARXISM

Such critics—consciously or unwittingly—are by implication turning their backs on the essential spirit of the American free-choice economic society, and instead are embracing the tenets of Marxism.

* * *

If confronted with the indictment, they would be quick to deny the charge, and would, as evidence of good faith, profess, with tongue in cheek, their preference for "free enterprise."

Up to now, much of the criticism of the Eisenhower team on economic grounds adds up to lack of enthusiasm by critics for the American competitive system.

This takes the form of attacks on Eisenhower "giveaway" schemes in connection with off-shore oil assets and water power resources. The same frame of mind is evident in attacks on alleged "favoritism for big business." It also is expressed in dislike for alleged "tax favoritism for rich."

Many of these phrases have been borrowed from leftist groups. It is reported that without committing itself or the party, the technical leadership of the opposition is using 20 such points in a questionnaire to determine rank and file reaction to them.

WISE MAXIM

If next year's campaign is to rise above the level of a contest in confusion, then it is to be hoped that the maxim of an eminent Democrat, the late Sen. Gore of Oklahoma, to the effect that the function of statesmanship is to see not only the immediate effects of a policy but also of the secondary and tertiary results, won't be forgotten.

* * *

Thus, in auditing so complicated a subject as tax revision, it should not be beyond the IQ of the voter to recognize that tax changes which encourage investors to modernize the machinery and equipment of a corporation may help workers by enlarging job opportunities at rising pay.

Notwithstanding any demagoguery to the contrary, a big corporation may be owned by tens of thousands of moderate and little stockholders and may indeed be getting its income to pay taxes and meet other costs from the sale of goods and services to hundreds of thousands of average folks.

Thus, instead of shadow boxing, the President and his group would do well to plead guilty to any charge of trying to create circumstances and conditions favorable to a rise in the living standards of upwards of 42 million American families.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Eliminate Children's Playtime Feuds by Giving Them 'Officer Test' Daily

Donnie always wants to be "Captain" when playing with his pals. So feuds develop, for the other kids also insist on being the leader. Utilize the test shown below to teach your child that an officer must earn his rank by diligence to duty. Many mothers employ this test as the basis of neighborhood "Clubs" for children.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case P-377: Donnie, aged 7, quarrels a great deal with his playmates, for they all wish to be Captain.

"Dr. Crane, can you give us a solution to this incessant feuding between our youngsters?" Donnie's mother asked.

* * *

MERIT TESTS

Tell your children that officers in military service must pass rigid tests, whether they are in the Navy, Army or Air Corps.

Then explain the following tests to your youngsters. Their score thereon will determine their officer's rating from day to day.

At bedtime, you mothers and fathers can go over these simple tests with your child and thus assign him his ranking of corporal or lieutenant or captain for the following day.

If a child rates no more than a private soldier tonight, encourage him by pointing out how he can raise his ranking the next day.

Let your child place an "X" in front of each one of these 10 major items which has applied to himself today.

Then tally his total score on all 10 items, and consult the norms under the "Officer Rating."

Many mothers have found this a very profitable scoring device not only for their own youngsters but as the basis for organizing a little local club among the neighborhood boys and girls.

It has the added advantage of showing a child specific points by which he can raise his ranking, even if he falls down on any given day.

OFFICER TEST

- ☐ I have brushed my teeth twice today.
- ☐ I have made my own bed today. (Remember, real soldiers make their own beds, too, in their barracks).
- ☐ I hung up my clothes tonight after I undressed for bed.
- ☐ I went to the store today or did some other errand for my parents.
- ☐ I washed my hands and face and neck and ears so well today that Mother didn't send me back to do it over again.
- ☐ I paid somebody a compliment today. (Compliments mean sincere praise.)
- ☐ I have done at least one of the tasks below which real soldiers must perform when they are on KP (Kitchen Police) duty:
- ☐ I set the table today.
- ☐ I helped get a meal today, as by peeling potatoes, etc.
- ☐ I helped clear the dishes off the table after a meal.
- ☐ I helped wash the dishes.
- ☐ I helped dry the dishes.
- ☐ I helped put the dishes away.
- ☐ I earned some money today by doing some special job, such as washing windows, sweeping, polishing Daddy's shoes, running errands, etc.
- ☐ I have said my prayers tonight before going to bed.
- ☐ I went to Sunday school or church last Sunday.

Scores	Officer Rating
10	Captain
9	1st. Lieutenant
8	2nd Lieutenant
6 or 7	Sergeant
4 or 5	Corporal
2 or 3	Private, 1-c
0 or 1	Private

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane, in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Mr. and Mrs. Hopalong Live in 4-Room House

Wish I'd Said That: "She's the type of girl who makes men jump in rivers and climb mountains—a woman driver"—Johnny Lockwood.

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—If you want to be an actor, young fellow, be one of them lariatin', broncho-bustin', cowboyin' kind.

★ ★ ★ ★

I got Hopalong Cassidy (Bill Boyd) to admit that he, Gene Autry and Roy Rogers have the biggest incomes of any Hollywood actors.

"You can't ever retire," Hopalong remarked, "but I don't know that I'll ever make another film."

"But you're an actor—don't you feel a compulsion to act?" I asked.

"No!" The white-haired, slickly-dressed Hoppy looked contentedly across the table at his befurred, attractive wife, Grace. "I started working when I was six . . . driving cattle in Ohio. I've been working a long time.

"This is not work that I'm doing now . . . this is gratitude," he said.

Hoppy has 106 cowboy films—54 of which were made as movies between 1935 and 1943—the rest made just for TV in '52 and '53—and as long as parents keep turning out millions of new children every year, Hopalong has an ever-changing audience . . . even a growing one.

HOPALONG

"My films are making more money now than they did three years ago," Hoppy confessed.

Hoppy hops around doing charity shows or meeting sponsors. He's surrendered all but 8½% of his gross income to his "associates"—he doesn't call them employes.

"We still live in a 4-room house and Grace still does the housework and we still do the dishes," Hoppy added.

"You mean four bedrooms?" I said.

★ ★ ★ ★

"Four rooms!" he asserted. "What more do we need? We're only two people!"

He is building a new house at Palm Desert, near Palm Springs, Calif.

Hoppy's films are already shown all over South America, soon they'll be seen in Japan and Australia. Last year Hoppy and Grace toured the world and, says Hoppy, "For the first time I had time to analyze things, where I was going and what I was going to do.

"The sum of it was to keep on what we're doing. I haven't made a paid appearance since '51.

"You feel you should give back something."

-CLEO MOORE

Here in New York Hoppy's seen an hour a day on ABC and a half-hour a day on NBC.

There was a time when "the big actors, the Class A actors," would ask, "Whatever happened to Bill Boyd?"

Oh, nothin'? Bill just became a western actor and got rich. The funny part is that Hoppy and Roy Rogers both come from wild and woolly Ohio. Me, too, but I didn't learn to punch cows. Like a darned fool, I milked 'em.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Rocky Marciano'll avoid traveling and stick around Brockton getting reacquainted with his wife and daughter . . . Dagmar'll have to leave "Masquerade Party" on TV when she plays boss lady of some Atlantic City convention playgals in Anita Loos' "Amazing Adele" . . . Winthrop Rockefeller and gal friend Jeannette Edris revived marriage rumors at El Morocco.

Oh-oh, those Trendex ratings: Gobel, 23.7, Coward-Mary Martin, 17; Gleason, 23.8, Como 21.5; Como, 24.8, Stage Show, 16.5; Como hour 23.2, Stage Show-Gleason hour, 20.1 . . . Long Kiss Gal Cleo Moore gets only one smooch from John Agar in U-I's "Hold Back Tomorrow."

Is it true that Meg insists on being called Princess and Her Royal Highness, and that THAT'S a stumbling block? . . . The Freddy Bartholomews are expecting.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "I have declined an invitation to join the Drink-of-the-Month Club. That's too long between drinks"—Ima Washout.

"They should've called that hotel 'Stardivarius,'" alleges Art Moger of Boston, "it was such an old Vile Inn" . . . That's earl, brother.

Lockheed Gets Order for More Jet Trainers

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—Lockheed Aircraft Corp. said today it is extending produciton of T33 jet trainers into 1957 on the basis of a new 25 million dollar Air Force order.

The order includes additional T33s plus new all-weather "navigational noses" for places in service and on order.

Lockheed said this equipment will qualify the T33 as a jet trainer fully instrumented for all-weather operation, including landings in total darkness.

Halloween Contest Open Only to Stay-at-Homes

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—Halloween just isn't what it used to be.

The Ashland Optimist Club is going to sponsor a stay-at-home contest for school children in a move aimed at curbing pre-Halloween vandalism.

Larry Miller, chairman, said club members will call at homes of children selected at random school files tonight, Saturday night and Sunday night.

He said the children will receive prizes if they're home.

84 Cadillac Salesmen Begin Walkout Over Job Security Issue

* * *

Eighty-four Cadillac salesmen, with an average income of $17,000 a year—and some making as much as $40,000—struck General Motors Corp., which will probably net a billion dollars this year—a record figure for any business e record figure for any business enterprise.

* * *

The issue in the walkout is job security. The salesmen recently joined to AFL Brotherhood of Teamsters and the union promptly opened negotiations with the Cadillac Division of General Motors.

A firm spokesman said only a portion of the total sales force went on strike, affecting showrooms in Manhattan, the Bronx, Brooklyn and New Rochelle, N. Y.

Take Police Pistol, Pants

DALLAS (AP)—Sgt. Thomas Ellis reported that somebody pried open his police station locker and took a .38-caliber revolver. Then officer P. G. McGagrhen found two pairs of police trousers missing. There were no clues to the thief.

Coal consumption in the United States during the first six months of 1955 climbed to nearly 200,000,000 tons, 6.6 per cent above usage during the first half of 1954.

Three Kentucky Counties Offering Prizes to Voters

BARBOURVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Three Kentucky counties are offering chances on prizes to get people out to vote in the Nov. 8 general election.

Knox County voters in 50 precincts were told yesterday they'd be given a chance on 50 turkeys when they cast their ballots.

A 1956 car ha sbeen promised to the holder of the lucky ticket among Henderson County voters. And in Woodford County, voters were told they'd get a chance on a $460 food freezer if they turned out.

Engineer Sees Need for Two-Way Craft

GAYLORD (AP)—Lew Morehouse, 67-year-old industrial engineer, has fixed up a set of wheels for his 20 foot cruiser that rolls it from land to water and back again.

Boats with wheels are nothing new — military craft have been so equipped for years. But Morehouse says his practical retractable wheels operate without the expensive hydraulic mechanism that most such devices require.

He's convinced that his device is just the thing to put more motorists aboard boats, and more boats on wheels.

Molten Metal by Rail?

PARIS, France—Molten steel is being shipped by rail four miles from a steel plant at Hussigny, France, to a rolling mill. This saves production costs. Special tank cars lined with insulating material carry the molten metal. The steel stays molten during the trip and is unloaded by tipping the cars.

Pumpkins Aplenty Listed With Weekend Bargains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Plenty of pumpkins and apples for Halloween; an impressive array of bargain specials in beef, ham and pork. That's the outlook for the missus who goes a-shopping in the nation's food stores and supermarkets this weekend.

There's an abundant supply of pumpkins at moderate prices. Sizes range from the big "face" pumpkins that leer ominously from front porches when the ghosts and witches are about, down to the midget "sugar" pumpkins whose innards make tasty pumpkin pies. The small pumpkins are the best for eating; the big ones are better suited for Halloween decorating.

For hearty October appetites, roast pork once again is the outstanding buy in the meat department. The price of pork on the hoof sank to its lowest level in nearly 15 years this week as hogs streamed into the big Midwest livestock markets in record volume, and further reductions in retail prices should be in prospect.

Lamb is featured more frequently this week, although retail price trends are erratic — up in some cities and down in others. Lamb prices at wholesale are firming up. Beef supplies continue abundant.

GOOD BUYS

Boneless chuck roast is a good buy, and some excellent bargains are available in smoked and cooked hams. Frying chickens are a little lower in price in some areas; roasting turkeys are appearing on chain stores' lists of weekend specials with increasing frequency.

Potatoes head the list of outstanding buys on produce counters. The Department of Agriculture has singled out the lowly spud as its "food headliner of the week." Potatoes, the department says, are a cheap energy food; penny for penny they have more energy value than almost any other vegetable, and they're not fattening unless you load them up with gravy and butter.

The West Coast continues to provide many of the week's best buys in produce—onions from Idaho and Washington; broccoli, carrots, celery, and western iceberg lettuce from California.

Promises of Closing

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — For a year, an East Dallas store has plastered its windows with a big sign: "Going out of business." The other night someone lettered under it: "Promises! Promises! Promises!"

American per capita consumption of lettuce, tomatoes, and other salad vegetables has risen about 20 per cent in the past 30 years.

Uruguay's 1954 wheat production totaled 29,000,000 bushels, a drop of 1,000,000 bushels from the record 1953 crop.

Hal Boyle Says:

Army Inherits Legend From General Dean

NEW YORK (AP)— The United States Army will lose a hero next week but keep a legend.

* * *

The legend this holder of the first Medal of Honor won in Korea leaves behind him is the epic story of the valor he showed on the battlefield and his fortitude during more than three years as a prisoner of war.

At 56, Gen. Dean, a onetime streetcar conductor and policeman, is winding up a brilliant 32-year military career. He will retire Monday as deputy commander of the 6th Army after a final troop review in his honor at the historic Presidio of San Francisco.

* * *

No man has better earned retirement, but thousands of veterans will hate to see him go. He has been truly "the soldier's soldier," exemplifying in both deed and manner the best that is taught at West Point, a school Gen. Dean never attended himself.

Although some of his men revered him almost as if he were a 49th star in the flag, the general shrank from being publicly labeled a hero.

"I'm just a dog-faced soldier," he always insisted.

He was, too. His men liked him for that. But he was something more also. He was a general of the old type, a commander who, when the going got really tough, liked to go up front and lead his men in combat personally.

That style of leadership presumably went out of style after the Civil War, but it never went out of style with Dean. Where his troops needed him most, there he was.

* * *

In World War II he won the distinguished Service Cross, the nation's second highest award for valor, for leading his men on foot through a continuous artillery barrage to knock out an enemy battery.

It was the same brand of courage that gained him the Medal of Honor in Korea. He became separated from his men while helping them fight a Red tank with hand grenades and bazookas during a desperate holding action.

* * *

As commander of the 24th Division Gen. Dean had been given the all-but-impossible mission to blunt the force of the entire North Korean advance until America could rush reinforcements from Japan and home ports and form a real battleline. That mission was accomplished.

Dean hid for more than a month behind enemy lines—most of the time without food—until a Korean civilian betrayed him to the enemy.

* * *

The enemy kept word of his capture secret. Most of his men thought him dead. But the example of his courage lived on and inspired them.

Soldiers rarely care much one way or another for a general officer. He is ordinarily remote from them. I came to Korea as a reporter shortly after Dean disappeared, and I was amazed at the depth of feeling his men had for him. Some even broke into tears when they spoke of him. They felt as if somehow they had let him down.

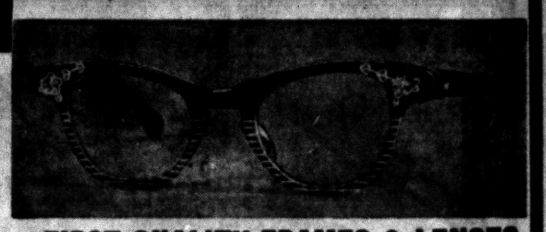

During his long ordeal as a prisoner, kept in solitary confinement, Dean's reddish hair turned gray. He counted flies and worked mathematical problems in his head to keep from going crazy. Once, fearing he would lose his mind or break under torture and reveal the secret of America's plan for the defense of Japan, he even plotted suicide.

Since his release, Dean has shown a remarkable sympathy and understanding of the problems of American war prisoners. With a rectitude painful to behold he has resisted attempts to lionize him, even implied he was a darn fool ever to let himself get caught.

All to no avail. He has proved himself a hero on many battlefronts, and whether he likes the idea or not, he will live as a top hero in his nation's annals. It is difficult for any honest man with a sense of humor to regard himself as a hero, but heroes are as necessary to the human race as food and water.

One thing about Gen. Dean is certain: He never liked being a desk soldier, and nobody is likely to give him a swivel chair as a going-away present.

GOP 'Hopefuls' List Growing

Senator Case of Jersey Latest Name Mentioned for Presidency

WASHINGTON (AP)—Friends are urging Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-NJ) to bid for New Jersey's 38 GOP presidential nominating votes as part of a burgeoning "favorite son" movement in both major political parties.

* * *

The Case instance parallels that of some other staunch supporters of President Eisenhower who probably wouldn't have given a thought to any "favorite son" maneuvers if a heart attack hadn't cast doubt on whether the President will run again.

There is a growing belief among Republican strategists that if the President declines to run in 1956 he may give his blessing to a half dozen or more younger Republicans he might consider fit for top place on the ticket.

IKE MAY PICK

The general assumption is that any designation of this sort would include close associates like Vice President Nixon, Presidential Assistant Harold E. Stassen, U. N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. and Secretary of Labor Mitchell.

But leaders agree no such listing could ignore governors and members of Congress the President might feel share actively his philosophy of government and support his policies.

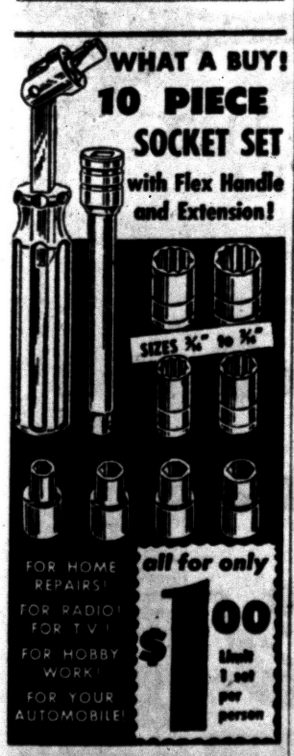

* * *

Among these, Case has carved himself a niche in the Senate, along with some GOP colleagues from less politically powerful states such as Senators Allott of Colorado, Carlson of Kansas and Payne of Maine. Rep. Halleck (R-Ind) has been spoken of as a presidential favorite in the House.

Among Republican governors, some strategists feel the President might like to designate Walter J. Kohler of Wisconsin and George N. Craig of Indiana. Craig has said he won't be a candidate, thus clearing the way for a possible bid by Halleck for Indiana's votes.

Even if there is no presidential nod, Republicans seem likely to produce a bumper crop of favorite son candidates next year.

Among already indicated possibilities are Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California, Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts, Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois, Gov. Fred Hall of Kansas and Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland.

Pull Budget Switch

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — The City Commission at its budget meeting did a switch: It asked the park commission to request more money. It said more park development was needed.

LT. LAWRENCE D. GRAVES — Returning from duty with the U. S. Air Force in Japan was Lt. Lawrence D. Graves with his wife, the former Beth Day, whom he met and married in Japan. He is the son of the Rev. Lawrence D. Graves, associate minister of the First Congregational Church and she is the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Harry Day of the U. S. Air Force. Lt. Graves spent 31 months in Japan and was a jet pilot in the 40th Fighter Intercepter Squadron. After a month's visit with his parents, he will be stationed in Charleston, S. C. to continue his service in the 44th Squadron.

'56 Outlook Bright, Steel Official Says

"Beyond that, I don't know," Charles R. Hook, chairman of the board of Aramco Steel Corp., said in an interview.

Hook credited the Eisenhower administration with the nation's current sound economy.

"This administration has followed a fiscal policy that has kept the cost of living down, thus broadening the market," he said. "A change in this policy in Washington might frighten business and change our prosperity. We're safe through this year and next year."

Loan Defaults Mean Restraints

Attorney General Says Guilty School Districts to Be Denied State Aid

LANSING (AP)—Atty. Gen. Thomas M. Kavanagh has held that the state may withhold primary school money and state school aid from school districts which default on state construction loans.

* * *

Kavanagh said that such withholding would not be unconstitutional despite the fact that both the primary money and state school aid are required by the Constitution.

The Legislature provided for the withholding in setting up machinery for loaning schools construction money from a 100 million dollar state bond issue authorized by the voters last April.

The opinion also appeared to reply to a recent request by Dr. Clair L. Taylor, state superintendent of public instruction, that he be allowed to issue short term notes rather than bonds. Dr. Taylor said he was unable to estimate the amount of bond money needed to start the program.

* * *

Kavanagh holds that a specific amount of bonds must be issued but that the state administrative board has wide authority to make successive bond issuances as needed.

Bank Offers Reward for Paul Revere's Bell

CONCORD, N. H. (AP)—A Concord bank is offering a $25 reward for information leading to the location of the city's first town bell, made by Paul Revere.

The 479 pound bell was bought by Concord city fathers in 1809 and hung in the tower of the town meeting-house.

The bell was replaced by a second Revere bell in 1826 and was destroyed in a church fire 47 years later. The first bell, the bank's advertisement said, "disappeared."

2 Fail to Show Up at Red China Gate

HONG KONG (AP)—Hong Kong's Red China border gate closed today with no sign of two Americans who were expected to be released today from Chinese prisons.

U. S. government officials and representatives of the Red Cross waited almost five hours for Miss Harriet Mills of New York City, a student, and the Rev. Armand Proulx of Lowell, Mass.

* * *

Officials said they would travel to the Red China border again Saturday and wait for any arivals.

Two British Quakers today reported Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai as saying U. S. insistence on repatriation of all Americans from China before talking on other matters "could prolong the cold war forever."

The premier was quoted as saying he hoped the U.S.-China negotiations in Geneva would lead to higher level talks "particularly on the Formosan question."

* * *

The Quakers, who arrived here from Red China today were Gerald Bailey and Mrs. G. Reynolds. They attended a reception of Chou's in Peiping Wednesday and reported Chou as stating in a two-hour interview that it was "still China's policy to strive for Formosa's peaceful liberation."

Tree-Eating Bear Faces Fatal Dish in California

EUREKA, Calif. (INS) — The tree-eating black bears of Humboldt County, which often have a sheep for a side dish, today face a change of diet that Redwood Empire lumber and stock men hope will result in lethal indigestion.

The ever-increasing crop of bears according to investigators for Northern California's lumber industry, have come to regard redwoods and other species of trees as sylvan lollipops.

A single bear, lumbermen report, can destroy as many as 20 trees in a 24-hour period by ripping off bark in search of sweet and juicy sapwood.

As a result of depredations by the bears, Governor Goodwin J. Knight recently signed into a law a bill permitting owners of livestock or timber, or their agents, to kill, by any methods or means, bears threatening lumber or livestock.

FHA to Ease Curbs if Construction Dips

WASHINGTON (AP) — FHA Commissioner Norman Mason has promised to loosen the curbs on mortgage credit if new home building dips sharply.

Last month housing volume dropped below 1954 levels for the first time this year. Mason told the National Conference of Business Paper Editors yesterday he does not look for a housing slump.

* * *

Mason cited a "very low" rental vacancy rate of 2.3 per cent as indicating a strong housing demand. He said he expects this demand to increase.

Last July the government, in an anti-inflationary step, boosted down payment requirements for home loans it insures by 2 per cent and reduced the maximum mortgage period from 30 to 25 years.

* * *

Mason said "you can be sure that if there is a decline in the volume of business, these restrictions will be lifted."

He said the first move in this direction probably would be to restore the 30-year mortgage period.

High Flying Monkeys

The Washington zoo has a monkey that has flown twice as high as any man. Together with another macaque monkey, it rode an Aerobee to an altitude of 36 miles before being parachuted down in the rocket's nose section. Both animals recovered in excellent health and spirits.

Ex-Detroit Banker Dies at 90, Native of Howell

DETROIT (AP) — Charles F. Lawson, 90-year-old former Detroit banker, died yesterday. He long had been ill.

Lawson, a native of Howell, was a graduate of both Michigan State University and the University of Michigan. He and his wife, the former Anna Noble of Detroit, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1945. She survives him.

Homecomings Make Headline News in Area High Schools

Homecoming festivities — past, present and future—were headline news in Oakland County high schools this week.

Waterford Township High is holding its big two-day homecoming today and tomorrow. Rochester and Walled Lake both held celebrations last weekend. And next Friday and Saturday West Bloomfield Township High will have its gala two-day event.

AT WATERFORD

The Waterford-Southfield game was scheduled to spark homecoming activities at Waterford Township High this afternoon, according to Press correspondent Jean Lilmatta.

Fireworks will light the sky over the school tonight, as the big celebration is set off with a bang during the Bonfire Rally at 7:30 p.m. Both old and new Wa-to-hians will be seen cheering their alma mater.

At 8:30 p.m. tonight, a Variety Show and the crowning of the queen will take place. Climax of the homecoming will be the big dance, from 9 p.m. to midnight tomorrow, in the gym.

* * *

No regular classes were held Wednesday, when Waterford had its first Career Day. Students went to classes instructed by business leaders, who informed them about career opportunities in the various fields.

Fifteen seniors took part in the Merit Scholarship examinations Wednesday. These scholarships, which cover four years' college education in the school preferred by the winner, will be awarded to 350 seniors in the nation.

AT ROCHESTER

Rochester High School is still humming with spirit and enthusiasm following the homecoming last Friday, according to reports from Evelynn Thompson, school reporter. The gala affair was the result of weeks of preparation.

Highlight of the homecoming was the crowning of Jim Purdon and Myrna Maass as king and queen.

The coronation ceremony, said to be one of the most colorful in the history of the school, was witnessed by the student body. Following it, a vigorous pep assembly was presented by the school dramatics class.

Even the loss of the football game to the Lapeer Panthers failed to spoil the fun. The king and queen reigned at a successful homecoming dance that capped the festivities.

RHS students are starting now to look forward to Nov. 17 and 18, when the senior play, "Time Out for Ginger," will be staged. Rehearsals already are in full swing. The play will be presented at 8 p.m. on the two succeessive nights.

AT WALLED LAKE

The second annual homecoming was also a festive occasion for students at Walled Lake High School last Friday, reporter Ruth Sappington announced.

Highlight of the celebration was the crowning of the queen, Carole Lee Moyer, and the presentation of her attendants, Joan Andrews, Barbara Gilbert, and Kay Armstrong.

The queen and her court made their appearance on the field in new 1955 convertibles just before the game. They were escorted to special seats by Ronnie Dion, mascot of the Varsity team.

AT WEST BLOOMFIELD

Nov. 4 and 5 is the weekend that Bloomfield Township High School will hold its homecoming. A queen is yet to be elected, but candidates already have been chosen on a basis of personality, scholarship ability, participation in school activities and appearance.

Vying for the honor of ruling over the two-day event are Gloria McKim, Sue Zimmerman, Pat Knapp, seniors, and Pat Dunaway and Carolyn Rabel, juniors. The candidates were picked by the Student Council.

Homecoming will include a game with Clarenceville on Friday, and a big dance on the last day. The queen will be crowned during half time at the game, and will reign over the dance Saturday.

Juniors lost the magazine sales contest and have to give a banquet for the seniors Wednesday night. It will be held from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, in the cafeteria, with dancing afterward in the gym.

After tryouts, the girls in Triple Trio picked Pat Dunaway to be the new alto member of their group. Pat, a junior, will have two years to sing, although in choosing her the harmony singers lost a fine accompanist. Pat had been playing the piano for them.

HERALD HOMECOMING — Signs and posters herald the two-day Homecoming being held at Waterford Township High School today and tomorrow. Above, students Patty O'Brien and "Chuck" Cowie perch on a ledge and call attention of their schoolmates to some of the activities scheduled for the big event.

Dancing Tonight at St. Michael

Sophomores Will Spin Disks for Halloween 'Broomstick Boogie'

By JANET ENGLISH

Witches, goblins, and pumpkins will overshadow the disks which St. Michael High sophies will be spinning tonight at their dance, the "Broomstick Boogie." It is being held at St. Michael's Hall from 9 until midnight.

According to reports given by co-chairmen of the ticket committee Ron Andrews and Willie Fitzgerald, their associates Helen Franzel, Frances Goulet, Mary Lou Gallo, and Frances Ford still have available tickets for tonight's event.

Kathleen Heitjan, Rosemarie Flanigan, Jackie Hoover, Mary Ann Johnson, Bob Birchmeirer, Mike Biallas, Pat Harbert, Betty Cronan, Chuck English, and Bob Haak make up the committee under Larry De Milner and Tom Chapdalaine who will be checking any broomsticks that happen to come flying in.

All week cochairmen Frances Goulet and Joyce Dropps have been working with Bob Haak, Chuck English, Mary Lou Gallo, France Ford, Jaquelyn Hoover, Mary Degg, Danny Donahue and Patrick Cronan first planning and then decorating the hall.

CLASS RINGS ARRIVE

Arrival of their class rings Thursday caused an excited stir among the members of the senior class. Room one, literally burst with anticipation as seniors accepted these long waited-for items.

Jan Allen has the honor of owning the smallest ring, a 4½, while Jim Fitzgerald got "the most for his money" with a size 10.

The ruling body of Room 11 consists of Elizabeth Klinck as president; Connie Shindorf, vice president; and Phyllis Raymond and Mary Lou Kramer, secretary and treasurer, respectively.

List Honor Students at Brandon High

The honor roll for the first marking period at Brandon Township High School has been announced.

DANCE IS TONIGHT — At St. Frederick High School, John Bradley, newly elected treasurer of the Junior Class, puts up a last-minute poster in preparation for a school dance tonight, sponsored by the juniors. The dance, called Autumn Leaves, will be held from 8:30 p.m. to midnight in St. Vincent's Hall at the school.

St. Fred Juniors to Give First Fall Dance Tonight

By ANN SCHACHERN

"Autumn Leaves," first fall dance sponsored by the junior class at St. Frederick High School, will be held from 3:30 to midnight tonight iin St. Vincent Hall.

Students will dance to the music of Russell Garcia and his orchestra, and an autumn motif will prevail in the hall decorations.

The juniors are hoping for the support of the whole school on this, their first big project, Michael Malloy, general chairman, said. Hard at work for the last few weeks have been committee chairmen Betty Jo Fitzpatrick, Jim Mayworm, Ed Kast, Beverly Malinowski, Karen Kergen and Sammy Mandalari.

Parents and students alike report they enjoyed meeting with the faculty Monday night. The parents had many words of praise for the program which the students put on explaining the functions of all the clubs here at St. fred's.

Students who thought they heard an explosion in the lab last week learned it was merely the chemistry class performing one of its experiments. The class had made and collected bottles of hydrogen and was exploding them to test for purity.

Pick Yel-O-Jac Staff Members

Final selections for the Avondale High paper, the "Yel-O-Jac," have been announced by William Lyle, adviser.

Betty Goodell is editor-in-chief. Assisting her are Alice Klein, news editor; Jerry Paul, sports editor; and Lois Paulson, makeup editor.

Other staff appointments include Don Evilsizer, Rowena Gaff, Janet Poynter, and Ida Mae Woodhull as news reporters. Sports writers are Jackie McHaney, Ken Sheehy, and Dave Titherage.

Business manager is Daretha Parker, who is assisted by Marna Hazelett in advertising and Mary Van Glider on circulation.

Over 1,000 people are expected to attend Avondale's first home game in three weeks tonight. Clawson High School will provide the opposition, and a large student cheering section will be assisting the Yellow Jacket gridders.

Student members of the Avondale PTSA were particularly impressed by Pontiac Police Department's Lieut. Krause when he discussed juvenile problems at last night's meeting.

Principals Meeting Held

A city wide Principals Meeting was held Monday in the homemaking room at Eastern Junior High. The fourth hour foods class served the 32 principals who attended.

PHS Rehearsing for Vocal Clinic

By VICKY MICU

News at Pontiac High School this week centers around the Pontiac-Royal Oak football game tonight at Royal Oak, last minute plans and rehearsals for the fall vocal clinic, and Halloween.

A number of students were busy, too, rehearsing for their part in the "High Fever Follies," a benefit to be staged by the Pontiac General Hospital Auxiliary Wednesday and Thursday nights in PHS auditorium. Approximately 85 talented people from all parts of Pontiac will take part in the show, proceeds of which will furnish a nursery at the hospital.

In addition to dancing and singing, PHS students will handle the stage management under the direction of dramatic coach Mary Parrish. The school Ushers Club and Girls Y-Teen Service Club will also help at the event.

All this week and all of next, the entire vocal department, made up of about one-third of the student body, is holding sectional and massed rehearsals for the vocal clinic to be given Nov. 7. Tickets are being sold by vocal students for this annual informal concert.

GET TREAT TICKETS

Along with other schools in the Pontiac school system, PHS issued mystery treat tickets to the student body. The tickets will serve to keep students off the streets and home at a reasonable hour Halloween.

If a student receives a telephone call from contest headquarters at 11 p.m., he may receive a wrist watch, pen and pencil set, or five silver dollars.

Retailers will hold their Halloween party and hayride tomorrow night. The Y-Teens celebrated Halloween at a party Tuesday evening. Garb for the affair was an original paper bag mask by each girl!

BROADCASTS START

Broadcasting for the Pontiac High School Workshop has officially begun, and the first week broadcasts have actually been given over the air.

The Workshoppers have long been at work casting and rehearsing. Last week tape-recordings for the Workshop's three weekly programs, presented Monday, Wednesday, and Friday over Pontiac radio station WCAR, were made.

All work, including characters, sound, and engineering is done by the Workshoppers themselves, with the aid of adviser, Miss Vera Mae Adams.

Seniors comprising the upper 5 per cent of the June and January classes took competitive exams Wednesday for Merit Scholarships, competing for scholarship awards on the national level.

At Wever Junior High, students, parents and faculty have been working hard on the annual Fall Festival, to be held tonight in the school gym.

The affair, sponsored by the PTSA, will include hayrides and dancing, as well as booths for baked goods, gifts, candy, toys, games and other items.

Tuesday, Student Council officers Tom Hoisington, and Sandra Lilliquist with their adviser Mel Staebler, attended a meeting in Ann Arbor and learned much about the role of the Student Council.

DANCE AT EASTERN

A Sock Hop in the girls' gym this afternoon at Eastern Junior High is being sponsored by Homeroom 202. Judy Crist, Ken Vipperman and Edna Runyon will present musical numbers at the record dance, which ends at 5 p. m.

Homeroom basketball begins tomorrow morning in the gymnasiums for Eastern students. Games will be played between grade homeroom teams.

Candy sales by rooms 218 and 306 were reported sell-outs. The homerooms are busy trying to build up their treasuries. Room 114 has a new angle—selling school pennants for notebooks, three for a nickel.

PARTIES AT WASHINGTON

Halloween parties are providing fun for Washington Junior High students. The first one, held last Friday, was in the form of a hayride for Janet Haswell's homeroom.

Yesterday, Ruth Dennis' homeroom had a masquerade party in the gym, with records and square dancing adding to the fun for the masked students and teachers. Kay Justin's Home Economics class had a series of parties.

Mrs. Charles Heimke and her Boosters Club have come up with pompons to wear at football games. They are blue and white, the colors of the Braves. Students are still patting shoulders over the team's 27-0 victory over Wever last Wednesday.

PREPARING FOR FESTIVAL — Yard and Garden Club members do some last-minute outdoor work at Wever Junior High School, in preparation for the big school festival tonight. Working among the colorful fall flowers are, left to right, George Berendt and Ted Monroe. Students, teachers and parents have combined their efforts to provide what they believe will be the finest fair the school has yet had.

Lincoln Students to Give Assemblies

There's plenty of interest around school for the two Thanksgiving assemblies Mildred Wiersema's class will give Wednesday and Thursday. The pageants, "Harvest Festivals Around the World," were written by the students, who will also dramatize and produce them.

Eighth graders will have a roller skating party at the Rolladium after school Tuesday, sponsored by Room 110.

The two new milk dispensing machines made a big hit. Long before the end of the first day, the entire supply was used up. At five cents a carton, the chocolate milk continues to be very popular.

Bloomfield Hills Juniors Set 1st Fall Dance Friday

Bloomfield Hills High School will climax the 1955 football season next Friday with an all-school dance, "Autumn Leaves," sponsored by the junior class. The first dance of the year, it will be held in the gym and students from all grades will be invited to attend.

Losing team in the annual senior class magazine contest gave a pizza party for the winning team at the home of Andy Anderson Wednesday. The contest is held to raise the necessary funds for the seniors' annual class trip to Washington, D. C. in the spring.

The junior class is planning a bake sale to be held at the Bloomfield Hills PTO meeting, Nov. 7 at 8 p. m. Among the members of the bake sale committee are Carole Brodie, Judy Saunders, Judy Bromley, Cindy Scott, Loretta Pape, and Betty Hamilton.

The bake sale is one of the many junior class activities to raise money for the senior prom and the junior-senior banquet in the future.

Counselor Will Tour Military Installations

Merritt will visit Camp Carson, Colo.; Lowery Field, Colo.; and Great Lakes Naval Training Base, Ill. At Camp Carson, he will observe the Army training dogs and the ski troops. At Lowery Field, he will study the Air Force induction procedure.

Pontiac High to Produce 'Ow n Town' as Next Play

With the footlights from the first Pontiac High School play production barely burned out, plans are under way for the second play of the season, "Our Town." Tryouts for this Thornton Wilder comedy were held this week, and work will begin immediately.

One of the busiest clubs at school lately has been the Future Teachers Club. Its members have been assisting and ushering at education meetings, attending an area conference, visiting the Waterford chapter of Future Teachers, and sending four students to the monthly dinner program of the Pontiac Education Association.

Dakota Wheat Growers Criticize Farm Policies

By OVID MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Writer

MINOT, N. D. (AP)—The Senate Agriculture Committee found today that North Dakota farmers think their wheat—valued highly for its bread-making qualities—is getting a bad deal under farm programs.

In statements prepared for a committee hearing on declining farm income, several farmers complained that crop control limitations are too tight on wheat grown in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Montana.

Dean Glenn C. Holm of the North Dakota Agricultural College said that the hard red spring and durum classes grown in these states are the kinds that milling trade will use.

"That apparently is not true with regard to other classes and varieties grown in many other parts of the country," he said.

Federal production controls apply the same restrictions to all grades.

* * *

"Is it logical," he asked, "that the same acreage reductions be applied to all classes of wheat when we consider the final use of those wheat classes? Shouldn't production be geared to the use and need?"

A similar complaint was made by George Mikkelson, operator of a 1,170-acre farm in Ramsey County. He said that price supports—whether they be of the Eisenhower administration flexible system or the high, rigid type of the Truman regime—do not work successfully because they fail to take into account market demands for the different kinds of wheat.

* * *

Another wheat grower, Henry Bloom of near Taylor, said that because of the sharp acreage cutbacks of low acre yields of wheat, North Dakota grain farms of less than 640 acres are no longer economical and efficient.

Statements of a number of farmers told of migrations from farms because of declining incomes. Reports of such migration came principally from members of the North Dakota Farmers Union, the dominant farm organization in this state.

Gottlieb Hartman, president of the Dickey County Farmers Union, said the "flow of farmers forced to leave the land, swelling the lines of the unemployed, is dangerously affecting the small towns of our state as well as the larger industrial areas elsewhere."

Boy Who Helped Union in Civil War Dies at 103

MAYSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Henry Luman, a man who once said he regretted being too young to fight for the Union in Civil War, died yesterday at nearby Tollesboro at the age of 103.

Luman, a retired farmer, said he aided the war effort by hiding Union cavalry forces when they passed by his home.

About 15,000 gallons of water are used in the manufacture of one automobile, 160 gallons in making a pound of aluminum, and 23 gallons in producing one gallon of gasoline.

Housewifely Duties Displaced by Comedy

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — There's something wonderfully fascinating about women who remain docilely married for years, then suddenly wash their dishpan hands of housework and take up careers.

Sometimes they do it in self-defense. Their husbands have begun taking them for granted.

Sometimes they emancipate because they've always wanted jobs and, now that the family urchins know right from wrong, what's to stop them.

Most often, I think, they do it because they're stone cold bored with the day-in-day-outrage of bossing a big operation like a house and home without getting a salary.

Joyce Grenfell, a happily wed English lady until not teddibly long ago, is a case in pertinent point. After 25 years of brewing her husband's tea, she finds herself a brilliant comedienne, with all Broadway at her feet—and a good part of London on its knees, begging her to come back home.

What made her do it, anyway? Couldn't she stand any more housewifely duties?

NO QUIZ SHOWS

"I didn't exactly not stand it. But the exchequer looked so slim. There are no $64,000 shows at home, absolutely not a single one at all, y'know. So the frightfully smart thing to do, if one wants money, is to go to work."

Miss Grenfell, described by U.S. critics as "The toothsome symbol of mirth," is a niece of acid-tongued Lady Nancy Astor and naturally was invited to many of the better dinner potties in London. And one night, at one of them, she made a delightful spectacle of herself.

"I was one of those awfully good Chelsea housewives," she remembers, "I gardened eagerly, and I was president of the local Women's Institute, which had regular talks on how to make marmalade, improve our darning, keep goldfish, collect butterflies and how to make something out of nothing."

It was immediately after a meeting of the institute that Joyce attended the dinner and, during a lull after the fish, advised the guests of what she had learned that day—"How to make a boutonniere out of empty beechnut husk clusters."

Not a soul learned a thing from this lecture. Except that Joyce Grenfell's devastatingly funny voice should be heard abroad in the land. And thereafter, it was.

TELLS 'HOW TO'

She has made many British movies, the type that are seen in art theaters here, and is well known for her TV monologues (a British Benchley) on "How To"—"How to be good at Christmas," "How to blow your own trumpet," and so forth.

The success of her one-woman show on Broadway, titled "Joyce Grenfell Requests the Pleasure . . .," is of course the climax of her split with domesticity, her marriage with the arts.

"I had no idea where the laughs would be," she says, "and to my insane delight, they were in the same place in America as they are in England."

She is very happy here, being a Broadway toast and all, but she has a question:

"I don't quite know where everybody's rushing. Do you?"

No A-Monopoly Says President

Ike Claims Government Seeking Peaceful Use of Atomic Potentials

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower says the government wants no monopoly—in fact seeks wide participation—in developing the peaceful potentials of atomic energy.

"There is no monopoly—and we seek no monopoly—in harnessing of the atom for man's benefit," the President said in a message read last night at a meeting of the National Industrial Conference Board.

* * *

"Rather we seek to encourage participation in that task," he said. "In particular, we want the maximum participation of American industry."

The President's message was read by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

* * *

Eisenhower said the "tools and techniques" of Americah industry, which have produced the nation's high standard of living, make possible an "immeasurable" return when applied to the field of atomic energy.

"Beyond that," he said, "there are loftier implications of the potential uses of atomic energy. The book of history reflects mankind's unceasing quest for peace. What more effective contribution could be made toward true world peace than the worldwide supplanting of want with plenty?"

* * *

The President, looking forward to further cooperation with other nations in the atomic field, said:

"The establishment of an international atomic energy agency now seems reasonably assured. Agreements for cooperation in the civil uses of atomic energy have been negotiated with 28 countries, and we have made available 200 kilograms of the rare isotope of uranium for use by those friendly countries in research reactors."

Yodeling Carolina Cotton Born in Cash, Arkansas

"I've been Carolina Cotton for the past 10 years," she told a judge yesterday.

But she admitted she was born in Cash, Ark., and has never been to the Carolinas.

Police Changing Policy on Inebriates' Free Coffee

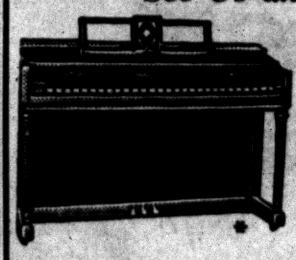

SCITUATE, Mass. (AP) — Police chiefs in Massachusetts have changed their minds about free coffee for imbiding motorists on holiday eves.

The switch came yesterday after State Registrar of Motor Vehicles Rudolph F. King told the Police Chief's Association he favored the slogan: "If you drive, don't drink and if you drink, don't drive."

HALLOWEEN — 2
Old Legends

The lights are very dim. Weird masks and decorations are all around you.

At such a Halloween party you can almost believe in witches and ghosts. Our ancestors really did believe in them.

They thought witches rode through the air on broomsticks that bucked like broncos. They believed black cats turned into big galloping horses for a night, and elves and goblins played tricks on people.

Timid folks stayed indoors on Halloween. Bolder ones climbed the hilltops and built big bonfires to chase away the evil spirits.

Here is a witch riding on her bridled broomstick. Her wise old owl Too Hoo is already aboard. Grimalkin, her cat, is clinging to her skirts as he climbs up.

Paste this on cereal box cardboard and color with crayons. Cut out carefully. Fold the ends of the base forward on the dotted lines. Fasten the witch behind the fence of jack-o-lanterns with a brass fastener or a bent pin through the two holes.

Now the witch will bob up and down behind the fence. She is probably going to alight and tie her broomstick to the fence.

First 4 Years Hardest, Bad Luck Johnny Hopes

In the last 48 months he's been to the hospital with a siege of pneumonia; injuries suffered in a fall from a porch; a double hernia operation; injuries from being hit on the head with a milk bottle and twice for dog bites.

In fact life has seemed one long hospital visit. John is only four years old.

Lack of Science Teachers Brings 60 Scholarships

Because of an acute shortage in high school science teachers, Shell Companies Foundation Inc. has instituted a broad program of merit fellowships for high school teachers of science and mathematics, it was announced today.

Shell will underwrite summer seminars at Stanford and Cornell Universities for 60 teachers yearly. The fellowship recipients, chosen on a basis of merit and leadership qualities, will receive travel allowances, all tuition and fees, living expenses on the university campus and $500 in cash to make up for the loss of potential summer earnings.

Basically, according to J. W. Southworth, Michigan Division manager of Shell Oil Company, the program seeks to inspire those science teachers who, in turn, can best inspire the scientists and science teachers of tomorrow.

Last year, according to surveys, American colleges turned out 57 per cent fewer high school science teachers and 51 per cent fewer mathematics teachers than in 1950. Because of this acute science teacher shortage, Southworth said, more than half the high schools in the country now have no classes in physics or chemistry.

Mathematics, physics or chemistry teachers with five years' experience and known leadership ability will be eligible for the fellowships.

Industrial department heads with background in mathematics, chemistry teachers with five years' exing experience also will be eligible. Final selection of the 60 will rest with Stanford and Cornell Universities.

Oil Blaze Hurts Four Firemen in Muskegon

MUSKEGON (AP) — Blazing oil was sprayed over a 20-foot area when an oil preheater pipe burst at the Aurora Refining Co. two miles east of here last night.

Automatic fire safety devices checked the blaze and kept it from spreading to gasoline storage tanks 200 feet away.

Four Muskegon Township firemen suffered injuries in the blaze. Roy McElfish was overcome by smoke. Theo Shaw Jr., son of the chief of the Township Fire Department, suffered a wrenched shoulder. Firemen Cy Brakenfeldt and Austin Clark suffered slight burns.

'56 Chevrolet smashes Pikes Peak record!

Ever seen that road up Pikes Peak out in Colorado? Loose dirt with 170 turns and no guardrail. Expert drivers call it "one long slide"! You'd probably call it the most challenging road in the world. Chevrolet made automotive history on that road a few weeks ago. Broke the record with its new '56 in an unheard-of, top-secret run supervised and certified by NASCAR*. It's the first and only time a new model ever proved itself such a great road car before public introduction! Everybody knows that safety on the road begins with top performance in power and stability. You build safety in; you prove it where power and cornering are the two things that mean more security and more pleasure in the going! It won't be long now. Wait for the Big Performer, drive it and feel the greatest combination of safety and excitement on the road today.

*National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing whose officials timed and certified the performance of this preproduction model.

Bob Considine Says:

President Tackles U.S. School Problems

NEW YORK (INS)—Six thousand children are born every day in the U. S. That's about 2,200,000 a year. The nation's population soon will soar to 200,000,000.

* * *

To provide adequate schooling for our tidal wave of youngsters in the next five years alone the country's 45,000 school districts must spend $14,000,000,000. Yes, that's billions.

These are a few of the hard facts which will confront the White House Conference on Education which Chairman Neil McElroy, president of Procter and Gamble, will call to order next month.

The 2,000 delegates to the conference have been asked to study in advance such stumpers as:

What should our schools accomplish? . . . In what ways can we organize our school systems more efficiently and economically? What are our school building needs?

* * *

How can we get enough good teachers and keep them? How can we finance our schools—build and operate them? How can we keep the public interested in the whole complex problem?

FIRST OF ITS KIND

The conferees won't come up with all the answers, but they'll give it a good college try. This is the first conference of its kind ever sponsored by a President—an appalling fact in itself.

Our school construction, teacher recruitment and to some extent our method of instructing just hasn't kept pace with the expanding times. The drastic drop in the birth rate during the depression years now reflects itself in fewer young teachers.

The tremendous increase in the birth rate during and immediately after the war produced a 33 per cent rise in school population between 1945 and this year and it'll jump another third in the next 10 years.

McElroy doesn't seem dismayed by the task ahead. He believes the public will understand that money—the public's money—must be spent to provide more schools.

His worry is finding enough teachers. And paying them enough to keep them. The principal of a U. S. high school resigned not long ago to take a job as a truck driver . . . so he could properly educate his own children.

* * *

McElroy, 2,000 other interested parties, and the President of the United States are out to see that things like that will not occur again.

TRAGIC COMEDY

Joe E. Lewis, a good egg who has made a million tired buyers laugh, lights a corner of the world of show business as nobody else can. How he does it, you'll find hard to understand—if you curl up some night with his biography, "The Joker Is Wild," written by Art Cohn.

* * *

". . . The speech center in his brain had been destroyed. He remembered lyrics of 'Macushala,' but did not know the name of the bed or table. He wanted a pencil, but did not know what it was called.

"His right hand was useless and his left hand could not form a letter any better than his lips. He could not read. Joe's greatest fear was the thought of being crippled mentally as well as physically. The doctors felt he had given up the will to live.

* * *

"The sister of Father Heitzer, English teacher at Notre Dame University, was in the same hospital and she told him about Joe. The priest wandered into his room.

"He said, 'What has happened to you has happened to thousands of people after accidents.' That Sunday morning he began to teach Joe how to read again, starting with the letter A.

'BASS' FOR 'BATH'

"Father Heitzer came down from South Bend every Sunday. He brought along large cards with letters printed on them. The letter 'T' was most difficult. It always came out as 'S.' For 10 years Joe would lisp 'bass' when he meant 'bath.'

"He would never be able to pronounce 'district attorney.' Once the fastest-talking comedian in Chicago, he now struggled with 'cat' and 'dog.' The priest assured him he'd speak and sing again.

"A man who could not move his right hand, who had a hole the size of a dollar on top of his head and was stitched from his left ear to his jugular vein, his memory obliterated by vast expanses of darkness, Joe nonetheless came to be at peace with the world and grateful.

"For the rest of his life he would say, on rising each day, 'What do you know? I made it again'."

Don't Send Birth Card to Ex-Boss

This Action Might Be Interpreted as Bid for Present

By EMILY POST

"In preparing the list of names of those to whom I want to send announcements of the birth of my second baby, I have run into a problem: I would like to know if it would be proper to send an announcement to my former employer, who is a rather important person.

"I was his secretary for five years. He is a stickler for propriety and I know he thinks some of us Americans are much too informal and familiar.

"He always has seemed interested in hearing any news of me and my family through a friend of mine who still works there. When the first baby was born I sent one announcement to the whole department, but since then the personnel has changed and I will send individual announcements to the ones I know. Will you please tell me what I should do?"

Answer: Sending an announcement to the one former co-worker whom you know best will be sufficient. If his present secretary is this one, she will undoubtedly tell him. A direct announcement to him would be too suggestive of "would you like to give me. . .?

"Dear Mrs. Post: I have applied for a position with a large company here in town. On the application that I am to fill out, I am asked to give three references. I would like to know if it is necessary to ask permission of the persons whom I give as references before using their names?"

Answer: Ordinarily, yes. But if it is a member of your own family or an intimate friend, you can quite properly give their names and then tell them that you have done so.

"Dear Mrs. Post: What is the usual return when taking back a card table or a dish or whatever was borrowed from a friend? Should a gift be taken with it or is thank you enough?"

Answer: Thank you is sufficient. The only requirements are that you return it clean, and undamaged, and promptly.

Photogapher Employs Psychology

By ANNE HEYWOOD

In this day and age, we, too, often credit psychiatrists and psychologists with having a corner on the knowledge of human behavior.

We forgot that many people in other fields have developed this knowledge, too. In fact, beauty operators and salesgirls can tell you just as much about what makes people tick, in many ways, as a psychologist could.

* * *

This was brought home to me recently, when I was guest at a Naval Reserve meeting and met an official Navy photographer.

PHOTOGRAPHED BRASS

He is a civilian photographer now, but during World War II he took many magnificent portrait shots of all the top brass.

* * *

Men, Constant declares, always want to look verile, very masculine, very huntin'-shootin'-fishin' type. They don't worry too much about what age they look, as long as they appear sufficiently rugged.

Women, of course, want to look glamorous and at least 10 years younger than they are. This causes a good deal of trouble for the photographer, but Constant is enough of a psychologist to handle that, too.

The biggest problem, he tells me, is the person who is pleased with the picture himself but then gets all kinds of advice from kith and kin—particularly his spouse.

WIFE OBJECTS

"I'll do an excellent portrait of a man," he told me, "and the subject will be pleased. But then his wife comes along and says, letting out a shriek, 'Oh, Henry doesn't look as old as that, you'll have to redo it.'

"But that's only natural," Constant explained. "She's in love with him, so she idealizes him, and she does honestly see him as younger than the camera sees him."

I asked his advice on having a good photograph taken—particularly one to be attached to a resume for job-hunting purposes.

"First," he replied, "don't take any special pains—new haircut, or anything like that. Look as you usually do.

"Then, have confidence in your photographer. Don't dictate what poses you want.

"Finally, make the decision yourself—don't show proofs to friends or relatives. They don't see you as you are and will only confuse you!"

Corduroy Fine for Decorating Children's Room

NEW YORK (INS) — Washable corduroy is a wonderful fabric for use in youngsters' rooms—whether the room is at home or in a dormitory.

Easy to keep clean, and hard to wear, it will be available this fall in some gay colors and designs.

Corduroy has mix-and-match possibilities — perhaps using a new harlequin turquoise, grey, white and black pattern for drapes, with a turquoise or grey bedspread.

Other ideas include patterns like a pink, charcoal and white striped affair or else a "tweed" look for the textured effect so popular in home decoration these days.

If your youngster wants a really bizarre look to his or her room, there's a new corduroy tiger skin drape in appropriate orange, black and white.

PTA Plans Education Conference

The Pontiac PTA Council, in conjunction with the school administration, is sponsoring the Pontiac White House Conference on Education.

This conference will be held Nov. 8 at 7:30 p.m. at Pontiac High School for the purpose of discussing the educational problems of our community. Discussion leaders and resource personnel will be local people.

It is hoped that constructive recommendations may come from these discussion groups and that greater understanding will promote the theme of this conference, "When Citizens Understand—Children Always Win."

The solution of the many problems facing public education requires the best judgment of a well-informed public.

* * *

The shortage of classrooms and other facilities and how to encourage citizens to understand the educational program are among the problems to be discussed at this Pontiac White House Conference.

Oakland County is the first county in Michigan and the nation in which the people vote a special fund for use in the education of handicapped children.

There are the blind, partially blind, deaf, hard of hearing, speech defective, physically crippled and mentally handicapped youngsters.

Recommendations for increasing community interest in counseling service and educational programs for these students are hoped to be received at this conference.

Calls Some Fashions 'Really Terrible'

Cassini Scolds Copying Colleagues

* * *

In a statement received by the Pontiac Press women's department, Mr. Cassini has this to say about his colleagues — those who have gone to Europe for inspiration in dress design:

"As a designer who investigates the female anatomy and appreciates it thoroughly, I must say that these amorphous clothes they are trying to put over on the poor defenseless women are really terrible.

"This year I went to a Fashion Group showing of fall imports. The dresses were beautiful, but I went primarily to see what it was that my colleagues felt compelled to bring back and reproduce here.

"I have always deplored this custom. A man goes to Europe and sees collections. He brings back 10 good dresses and begins to adapt. He will take a sleeve from one dress, a collar from another, a skirt from a third, and so on.

"Naturally, when he finishes building his line of 40 to 50 dresses he loses what he started out to do in the first place. The whole thing is ridiculous.

"We have produced a group of designers here who are talented and original, and if we play our cards right, they should come over and start copying us.

"I noted with particular interest during the Fashion Group show that a great deal of emphasis was placed on the empire line.

"The empire line is one of my favorite silhouettes. It slenderizes, creates a supremely feminine look, and I have been working with this feeling for several years. This long unbroken line is marvelous for a woman's figure.

"Many knitted fabrics were shown too, and then I really sat up and took notice. The fashion world looks upon this introduction of urbane knitwear as something brand new. This amuses me, for there has never been a necessity to relegate knitted suits and dresses to maiden school teachers or sporting events.

"Knits make wonderful town clothes, this I know. We've included knits in each collection ever since I've been in business and done extremely well with them.

* * *

"They are wearable and smart; they pack easily for travel, and if produced correctly they bring out a women's finer points to perfection. When you hold up one of my knits, it is not a shapeless bag. We have actually built the shape into the dress.

"Now that the haute couture has discovered the knitted dress too, I feel gratified. After all, I've always maintained that I'm a liberal in the dress business."

OLEG CASSINI

During rehearsals for "High Fever Follies," Ralph Merkovitz of Menominee road demonstrates what happens when you "go against the light." Getting into the act are Shirley Dovre of Dwight avenue and Grey Mooney, director of the shows to be staged Nov. 1 and 2 by the Auxiliary to Pontiac General Hospital.

Witches Fly Over Party for Children

Halloween Decor Doubles as Game for Little Goblins

Planning a Halloween party for your children? If they're very young, it's especially important to plan everything carefully. Have all the decorations and games ready a day early so you can concentrate on refreshments and other details the day of the party.

* * *

Here's an original idea for room decorations that will also double as a game. It's the modern version of bobbing for apples. Suspend the apples from witches' broomsticks hung across the room and let the children bite into them as shown in the accompanying photograph.

The witch's broomstick is a thin wooden dowel or stick. Fringe orange and black tissue paper and attach it to one end of the stick with cellophane tape for the broom.

The witch is made by covering a small rectangular box with construction paper and cellophane tape. Her arms, hair and hat are cut from colored construction paper and taped to the side of the box.

To hold the witch on the broomstick, tape a clothespin to the back of the box and place it over the stick. Tie strings to both ends of the broomstick for hanging.

Tape a half moon cutout to another string and hang it near the witch for added decoration. Make one for each child to take home.

If you want a table centerpiece, make a large witch in the same way as described above. Use a shoe box for the body and decorate with paper and cellophane tape as described above.

The modern way of dunking for apples is to suspend them on strings and let youngsters bite into the apples. The one shown here is attached to a broomstick with a witch made out of construction paper and cellophane tape.

Don't Drag Ex-Husband Into Court

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

A year ago, Mr. D.'s wife left him. Renting space in her parents' house, she put her son in their care and went to work. At no time since has Mr. D. willingly cooperated on their child's support.

* * *

Recently, when she pressed for more regular payments, he responded by threatening to discontinue them entirely—and leave the state. "My parents want me to take him to court," she writes. "Do you advise this?"

Taking your husband to court will not guarantee your child support. No judge, no court can order fatherhood into your husband if it isn't in him.

Nor will their legal machinery be of much benefit to your motherhood. For usually it keeps our bitter, punishing, retaliatory feelings toward a husband so steamed up that gentle and relaxed ones toward his child become increasingly hard to come by.

* * *

So, if we can possibly avoid taking husbands to court, I think we should try. Fighting the men who fathered our children is unnatural war for women. In the tension of your situation, Mrs. D., just realizing this as true can become a calming influence.

GAIN PEACE

You may see the wisdom of foregoing battle for Mr. D.'s money for the effort to get by on your own. You may agree with me that if we have to lose money to gain peace, there's only one choice to make.

* * *

Sometimes, of course, we just can't get by on what we earn. But even then, before we take a defaulting father into court, I think it's a good idea to talk over other alternatives with the helpful people in your local Family Service Association.

A father who denies support to his child takes unmanly action, doesn't he? This is always pretty clear to everyone. But what isn't always clear is how this unmanly action demands the unwomanly kind from us.

Just listen to your husband! Doesn't he sound as though he wanted to force angry, aggressive action from you? Of course he does. But knowing what his unwholesome desire is, we can refuse to cater to it. We can reject the unmanly man's wish to turn us into a fighter—and refusing to join in unnatural battle with him, preserve ourselves against the confused feelings such battle rouses.

* * *

Someday soon, we're going to have to look more squarely at this evil of defaulting fathers.

As it is now, their numbers increase every year. Every year, more mothers have to make their damaging, legal, personal assaults on the men who fathered their children.

It's time we figured out some remedy for masculine failure other than turning mothers into fighters.

Overblouses are the answer to the clothes problems of career girl and college student alike. They are designed this season to complement slim skirts. This long torso sweater overblouse has an open, notched collar faced with white ribbing.

Help His Good Taste

Help him ensemble his clothes correctly, both in the buying and in the wearing. You do your own shopping on the basis of "what goes with what." With your experience, you can help him with the sometimes tricky job of combining colored shirts with the right ties to give him and his suit the correct note of good taste.

Barbequed Spareribs Delicious

Mrs. Eaglen Adds Carrots 'n' Potatoes for One Dish-Meal

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Cool weather calls for hearty meat dishes like barbequed spareribs. Mrs. Charles Eaglen gives us her favorite version of this popular food. Her recipe is unusual in that she sometimes adds vegetables while the spareribs are cooking.

Until recently Mrs. Eaglen worked outside of her home. She finds plenty to keep her busy there, with four school age children. She is active in Emerson PTA, is the chairman of the homeroom mothers. She also belongs to the Mothers Club of the Boys Club.

BARBEQUED SPARERIBS
By Mrs. Charles Eaglen

4 pounds spareribs
1 onion chopped
1 cup catsup
2 cups water
¼ cup vinegar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon black pepper
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper

Mix and pour ingredients over spareribs. Bake one hour in a moderate (350 degrees) oven with lid off. Baste with the sauce from time to time. Carrots and potatoes may be added to make this a one dish meal.

City Will Be Represented at Hadassah Convention

Mrs. Reuben Berzon will be the delegate representing the Pontiac Chapter of Hadassah at the 41st annual convention of Hadassah to be held at Hotel Morrison in Chicago Oct. 30 through Nov. 2.

More than 3,000 delegates representing Hadassah's 1,200 chapters and groups in every section of the United States, Alaska and Puerto Rico will attend the four-day assembly.

The responsibility of blueprinting the organization's programs in Israel and in the United States for the next year is on the agenda of the meeting.

* * *

The sessions will be dedicated to advancing Hadassah's $9 million program of medical aid, social welfare, child rescue and rehabilitation, vocational education and land redemption in Israel, to fostering a creative Jewish life in the United States through Jewish education, and to interpreting the goals and aspirations of the Israel people to the American people.

Among those who will address the sessions are Abba Evan, Israeli ambassador to the United States, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Bruce McDaniel, former director of U. S. operations in Israel, and Dr. Buell Gallagher, president of City College of New York.

Others will be Herman Wouk, distinguished American author and Dr. Kalman J. Mann, director general of the Hadassah medical organization in Israel.

Were You Stubborn and Pig-Headed Too?

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: I went steady with him for nearly four months, then broke off because of his wanting his own way all of the time. Now he's in the Navy, and I received a letter from him saying that he's grown up a lot and he wants me to go with him again.

"I like him very much, and I know he likes me, but I don't want the same thing to happen again. What do you think I should do?"

Answer: The picture has changed considerably since you went with him. He's now away—not exactly in a position to date you every Saturday night and twice in between. Going steady with him now would put you on a high, high shelf. You couldn't date anybody.

He writes you that he has changed considerably. The Navy does make a boy grow up. And, of course, he's not exactly having his own way these days. He's taking orders aplenty, and having to like it.

So perraps with a girl he wouldn't insist on throwing his own weight around quite so much.

* * *

But you've changed, too. Or haven't you? Are you still insisting on having your own way all the time? Obviously, if you rebelled at having to give in to him, it was because you wanted to do something else every time, and wanted it so badly you had to fight over it.

You may not have suspected it, but maybe all the time you were going together, he considered you a stubborn, pig-headed, domineering female. And the weight he threw was his effort to win out in the battle with your ego.

But maybe you've changed now. Maybe you realize that compromise is essential between two people who see a lot of each other. Maybe you now know that it's not a sign of weakness to give in gracefully and graciously. Maybe you've learned that alternatives can be mutually satisfying.

If he's learned a few things, and if you have, too, chances are good that you'd get along better if you had another chance. But the chance to put it to the test is hardly right now while he's away.

The logical solution, it seems to me, is to resume your friendship with enthusiasm; write to him frequently; let him consider you one of his very best and closest friends.

But gently suggest that the going-steady part should wait until he gets back for good. You like each other, so why not enjoy keeping in touch?

It would have to stop, of course, if dating around starts you going steady with somebody. You can't write one thing, and do another.

Tablecloth Dress Latest in Resort Fashion Apparel

NEW YORK (INS)—The latest in resort wear is the dress you can dine in . . . or on.

The familiar woven tablecloth check in yellow, blue, green and red that mother used to spread on the kitchen table now is being used for some pretty fancy $40 dresses.

This isn't really expensive, says Chauncey Stone of Miami, who thought it up. He points out that when you get tired of a tablecloth frock you can always turn it into a bridge cloth or two. The full skirts provide all the fabric you'd need.

Stone's novelty cotton dresses, now being shown in New York, have modest high necks in front, but plunge in back. They're made with detachable black taffeta sash bows at the back and the rest of the dresses are completely washable—just like tablecloths.

The tablecloth dress idea, which started as a novelty, has apparently caught on in the trade. Already another manufacturer has whipped up tablecloth skirts—and there's word that home sewers are getting interested.

Homemakers Meet With Mrs. Klein

A movie on furniture selections was presented by Mrs. Kenneth Anderson when members of the Modern Homemakers Club met at the home of Mrs. Raymond Klein on Felix drive. Mrs. H. L. Stein gave an informative talk on market tours at the Tuesday evening meeting.

In the business session the group voted a contribution to the Tommy Greer Fund and to the boys' ward at the Pontiac State Hospital.

Members of the Newcomers Club voted to contribute to the American Red Cross project "Christmas on the High Seas," when the group met Wednesday.

Mrs. Reginald Edwards opened her home on Anders street for the dessert luncheon and meeting.

Navy Plans Two-Atom Engine Subs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Navy plans to power its new, giant submarine with two atomic engines, giving the boat a speed equal to the fastest surface ships in a task force.

* * *

Rear Adm. H. G. Rickover, the government's top atomic submarine expert, included some new details on the projected supersize submersible and other A-subs in an address prepared for the local council of the Navy League, the Chamber of Commerce and the Commercial Club.

He also predicted that by the 1960s all projected Navy ships will be atomic powered.

Rickover said Congress has authorized the building of six nuclear powered submarines in addition to the original Nautilus and the second, the Seawolf.

"Four of these," said Rickover, "will be smaller than the Nautilus and Seawolf. Preparations to build one of them is going on at Mare Island naval shipyard, here in California. Another has already been started at the Electric Boat Co. in New London, Conn., and the other two will be built at the Portsmouth, N. H., naval shipyard.

"One of the remaining two nuclear powered submarines will be a new attack type with a speed even greater than that of the Nautilus.

"The other will be our largest submarine, and the first one powered by two reactors. It is being designed to be fast enough to operate in conjunction with a fast carrier task force and to provide it with radar information."

TELLS RECORD

Rickover said the Newport News, Va., Shipbuilding & Drydock Co. has been at work for several years on a design for an A-powered surface ship and work on another design has been started by the shipbuilding division of Bethelehem Steel at Quincy, Mass.

He disclosed some details on the accomplishments of the pioneering Nautilus:

* * *

1. She traveled totally submerged from New London, Conn., to San Juan, Puerto Rico, 1,300 miles in 84 hours. He said this "was the greatest distance, by a factor of ten, ever steamed completely submerged, by any submarine."

2. Average speed for the entire trip was about 16 knots—"the first time any submerged combatant submarine maintained such a high speed for more than one hour."

Boy's Faith in Policemen Rewarded With Bicycles

HUMBLE, Tex. (AP) — Two little boys and their sister are getting shiny new bicycles and their baby sister a tricycle because one of them has faith in policemen.

They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Brown — Jerry Wayne, 9; Charles, 12; Janet, 13; and Janie, 3.

* * *

Jerry Wayne read that the Roanoke, Va., police warehouse was stacked with unclaimed bikes. He wrote Detective Capt. Kermit E. Allman couldn't he please have one so big brother Charles could carry newspapers and add to the family income. He also told Allman about his sisters.

Illness prevents the father, a disabled veteran, from driving a truck more than part time. Mrs. Brown can't work. They live in a rural community near this south Texas town.

* * *

Mrs. Brown has been entering contests for years trying to win money for a bicycle. Jerry Wayne and Charles picked up bottles along the highway to get money for the postage.

Allman wrote Jerry Wayne that he was shipping not one unclaimed bicycle but three new ones and a tricycle for baby Janie this week. They are gifts of the Roanoke Fraternal Order of Police and others.

* * *

Allman said he still remembers how badly he wanted a bicycle that his parents were too poor to buy when he was a boy. He finally paid for one at 14 out of a $4-a-week newspaper route.

The night after the letter came, Mrs. Brown said her boy woke her several times to ask if he had been dreaming about it. She's having trouble getting him to go to school because he wants to be home when the bicycles arrive.

* * *

Jerry Wayne said he never had any doubts about hearing from Allman "because he's a policeman."

That's what he wrote Allman he wants to be when he grows up.

All Judges, Justices to Examine Form

All Oakland County municipal judges and justices of the peace have been invited to attend a meeting at the county jail in Pontiac Nov. 8 at 2:30 p.m. to discuss a new "return to Circuit Court" form.

The form was drafted by Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem and Gerald A. Terrien of the Board of Auditors.

The "return" is the paper signed by the justice stating he has bound a person charged with a felony over to Circuit Court for arraignment and giving data as to what happened in the lower court, Ziem explained.

The assembled judges will be asked to make suggestions, said Ziem, after examing a rough draft already prepared.

"The aim is to simplify the form by avoiding repetition found in the one now used and reduce work necessary to fill it out. We hope to do this and still get more information than is currently included," Ziem added.

Hot Squad Car Cools Off With Help of Firemen

QUINCY, Ill. (AP) — Patrolman Don Boden and Clarence Wear were caught with a hot car on their hands when the squad car they were driving caught fire. Firemen of engine company No. 2 put out the fire and followed them just in case.

Sure enough, the car caught fire again because of a short circuit in the wiring system and the fire lads extinguished the blaze a second time.

Hollywood Headlines:

Busy Actor Jeff Chandler Will Star in 'Toy Tiger'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Jeff is so happy in his private life these days that he's doing everything the studio wants, and Ed Muhl wants him for "Toy Tiger," an original by Ted Sherdiman.

That cute Tim Hovey, the 9-year-old in "The Private War of Major Benson," will be Jeff's chief supporting player. The story is about a child in boarding school who pretends Jeff is his father, his own father having died.

Handsome, 6-foot British war hero Bill Travers arrived in Hollywood Tuesday night to test both for "Ben Hur" and for the role of Robert Browning in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street."

The boys at MGM are very high about Travers, who they believe will be their next big star.

While Travers is in town he'll work with director George Cukor in preparing Hindustani dialogue for the narration in "Bhowani Junction," which he made in Pakistan with Ava Gardner.

In "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," Travers will have Grace Kelly opposite him—and that isn't bad!

Glynis Johns, who recently surprised the world by telling friends that she and her husband of many years had decided to end their marriage, is the next lucky girl to get hearthrob Rossano Brazzi.

Rossano, who suddenly has developed into the Gina Lollobrigida of the male sex, will star with Glynis in Graham Greene's "Winner Take All," which goes into production in London immediately.

Whenever I hear Rossano mentioned in a romantic way, I think of his happily married, plump little wife in Rome, who adores him and loves it whenever she hears that he makes the femme hearts go pit-a-pat.

Cameron Mitchell is surely one of the best actors in our town. I hope he isn't going to throw it all out the window by letting his nerves get the best of him.

He's plain wonderful as the Southern boy from the wrong side of the tracks in the few reels I saw of "View From Pompey's Head." Sidney Blackmer, as the unhappy writer, and Marjorie Rambeau as his wife also will be discussed.

Dana Wynter is very pretty and Richard Egan very handsome in the young leads. The title may be confusing to those who didn't read the book. "Pompey's Head" is a small Southern town.

Snaps: Dorothy Dandridge is getting long distance calls from New York from Gilbert Becaud, the French singer. They met when he was at the Beverly Hilton.

Bob Wagner came out of hiding to host a small dinner party for his parents on their 32nd wedding anniversary.

Atlas Reveals Amount of Earth in One Acre

CHICAGO (INS)—The new Rand McNally Cosmopolitan World Atlas contains this choice bit of information — if you own an acre of land you also own 52,363,000,000 tons of earth.

The atlas assumes that the owner of an acre also owns that acre all the way down to the core of globe.

Vocabulary of a Worker Leaves Wife in Kitchen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Traditionally, a dutiful wife is expected to ask her husband, "Well, how did it go at work today?"

Yet all over the nation thousands of wives have this problem: The husband's work is so technical and complicated he couldn't explain it to her even if he tried.

* * *

This marital reflection arose while thumbing through a program for the first annual technical meeting on electron devices, held here this week. To the unscientific mind the titles alone are more frightening than a halloween mask.

Yet a couple in such a spot, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Liimatainen, says things can be worked out satisfactorily.

"We develop new types of proximity fuses for bombs, rockets and mortars, that sort of thing," Liimatainen said. "Not only is some of the work too technical for my wife to understand, but it's secret, so I couldn't say anything anyway."

* * *

"When technical talk starts," Mrs. L. said, "I listen and do the best I can."

"You know," Liimatainen said, "the wives aren't the only ones in trouble. It has reached the place where if one of us—even with our training — goes into a meeting that's a little out of our line, we can get lost in no time."

Before her marriage, Mrs. Liimatainen was an interior decorator in Schenectady, N.Y., and she still goes back there to take care of old customers.

"The family has a furniture store there," Liimatainen explained. "She's the gyroscope around which it revolved."

Difficulties arise even here.

"My wife is interested in the psychology of colors," Liimatainen said, "whereas to me color is a different thing. It's a lot of different wave lengths."

* * *

But Liimatainen laments the trend toward becoming too technical.

He thinks that now the average person, and presumably the average wife, assumes he or she can't understand basic principles and doesn't even try. Nor does the technical man bother to explain what he's doing in simple English.

"We should explain how things work so that everyone can understand," Liimatainen said. "Why, right now, I'll bet I can explain how the vacuum tube works so that you could understand it easily."

* * *

Finds Nail Polish Use

CHICAGO (AP)—A Miami physician has found a new use for nail polish sealer. Dr. Hollis F. Garrard said today he has used it successfully to treat fungal infection of the fingers and nails. He said the sealer acts as an "artificial cuticle." It keeps water and foreign material from getting under the loose skin around the nail.

Flooded Areas Hurt Financially

Estimates $1.5 Billion in Losses Protected by Little Insurance

CHICAGO (AP)—An insurance executive said today that insurance covered only 5 to 10 per cent of the estimated 1½ billion dollars in losses in the August floods in the Northeast.

Alexander Ellis Jr., partner in the insurance firm of Fairfield & Ellis of Boston, made the estimate in a prepared address to the American Management Assn.'s fall insurance conference.

* * *

Ellis reported that most of the insurance claims resulting from the flood will involve personal property.

"Fixed property, that is, buildings, machinery and equipment, is the most susceptible to water damage and to this day remains practically uninsurable with respect to flood loss," Ellis said.

He added that insurance rates for such coverage is "prohibitive."

* * *

"Even if the cost of flood insurance were reasonable," he said, "experience has indicated that only those whose properties are exposed to the possibility of flood damage would buy it. There is no way by which the total risk may be reduced by spreading it over a large number of properties."

Ellis advocated government flood control as the "most feasible and logical method of meeting flood problems."

Committees Fix Questionnaire

Farmington Groups to Give Property Owners Revision

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — The Farmington Township Water Development Committee and Water Supply Committee held a joint meeting last night at the home of Mrs. Phillip J. Newberg, 20805 Cass in an effort to revise the questionnaire previously drawn by the Water Supply Committee.

The purpose of the questionnaire is to obtain statistical data necessary to interest a bonding company in financing a proposed water system. The Water Development Committee objected to questions on the form as it was first presented, questions were too personal, unnecessary and would only serve to antagonize the public.

To their objection to the figures used for property assessment and quarterly water service rates, Judge Arthur E. Moore, legal adviser to the committees, pointed out that it would be wiser to start with a figure which could be lowered rather than one too low in the beginning.

After a revision of many of the questions, a questionnaire was drawn up which the Water Development Committee will present to property owners in the dry areas of the township, probably within the next two weeks. Residents of these areas are requested to cooperate fully with the committee.

The Water Supply Committee is composed of two members of the development committee, two members of the township board, and Judge Arthur E. Moore. Mrs. Newberg serves on both committees.

Halloween Parade, Dance to Climax

Expect 2,000 at Annual Milford Party

WHAT IS HALLOWEEN? — Hey, I think I'll take a tiny peek — see if the answer lies within this freak.

SAINTS PRESERVE US — What a creep! I'd best be on my way if I'd make that Milford Parade Day.

ON TO THE PARADE! — Spottie is one of many pets expected to march in the Halloween festivities Saturday at Milford, along with about 2,000 children.

By REBA HEINTZELMAN
Milford Press Correspondent

MILFORD—One of the biggest Halloween celebrations in the state will be held in Milford Saturday night, according to planning officials.

* * *

An estimated 2,000 children in the Huron Valley area will participate in a project started by the Milford PTA six years ago.

Since that time, more than 20 clubs and organizations have continued the Halloween celebration, making many added improvements.

The project has grown from a small gathering in the Presbyterian Church to the one event of the year when residents, businessmen and most all clubs in the town work as one unit to provide fun for teenagers as well as the very young. Planning officials have been laying plans for more than six weeks, preparing for Saturday night.

On Wednesday, the town closes shop and that's when the youngsters take over. Main street is closed to traffic and two students from each grade are selected to paint their original sketch on every store window on the street. This eliminates the soaping and waxing that is so obnoxious to merchants.

JUDGE ART SATURDAY

Judging of the pictures will take place Saturday afternoon, and as the children work in pairs, two duplicate prizes will be awarded for the funniest, the most original, and the most grotesque.

A parade, headed by the 52-piece Milford High School band, will begin festivities at 7 Saturday evening.

At least ten elaborate floats representing the 4-H club, PTA, the Lions, and several business men. The Huron Valley Saddle Club, dressed in full regalia, will bring up the rear of the parade and will be riding 25 of their best mounts.

There will be pie-eating contests, races, prize awarding and free cider and doughnuts for all. Concluding the festivities, a band will play in the Teen-Canteen from 9 to 12 o'clock, with no charge for dancing.

Edward Nealer, who is general chairman this year says, "Milford has practically no delinquent problem on Halloween night due to the organized efforts of businessmen and townspeople. The children are just too tired out after the celebration to do any real damage to the town."

Flare Sales Aid Halloween Party

AUBURN HEIGHTS — The Auburn Heights Lions Club is presenting its eighth annual flare night Monday. They are selling flares now for householders to light when the siren sounds at 7 p.m.

Proceeds of the flare sales enable the Lions Club to sponsor a Halloween party for the children of Auburn Heights.

This year's plans will include a parade of youngsters in costume, plus bands and floats to start at the park on Auburn at Grey Roads at 7:45 p.m. Awarding of prizes will take place on the school grounds.

A community dance will climax the evening at the American Legion Hall. Everyone is invited to attend.

About 30 of the prizes to be given will be gift certificates which can be redeemed at any Union Lake Business Assn. store.

Following the judging, a street dance will be held.

The Union Lake Fire department will handle traffic in the area and the entire party will be conducted by the local merchants.

The sites are the Hansard property on Grange Hall Road and just outside the north village limits; the Stanley property on the south side of Academy Road and opposite the Adelphian Academy grounds, just outside the west village limits; and the baseball field out East Baird Street at the east village limits.

8 Persons Escape Flames in Night Blaze at Wixom

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — Faulty wiring was believed the cause of a $9,000 fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gordon of 3945 West Maple Rd., near Wixom, early this morning, according to Fire Chief Ray Price of the Commerce Township Fire Department.

The Gordons and their five small children fled to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Parvu in their night clothes. Neighbors assisted Gordon in carrying his 98-year-old mother, who had recently broken her hip, out of the flaming building.

Gordon, who is employed by the Pontiac Motor Co., had just returned from work and had retired when Mrs. Gordon was awakened by the smell of smoke.

Four squad cars answered the call and roped off an area around two large fuel tanks that were next to the building and were expected to blow up momentarily. Constant effort on the part of the firemen prevented the explosion.

CONTENTS DESTROYED

All of the contents of the home were burned, including new electrical appliances and a great deal of new lumber, as the Gordons were in the process of remodeling the old farmhouse.

After over three hours the Commerce Township Fire Department and its eleven volunteers and two trucks managed to extinguish the blaze. The firemen put the hose in a nearby creek but had to place the hose under the railroad tracks to avoid a water cut off by a passing train.

Chief Price said that the two floor, eight room, frame home was a total loss.

OK 'Harassing' Union Tactics

Court Passes on Work Slowdowns by Unions in Labor Negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Court of Appeals ruled Thursday that a labor union may use "harassing tactics" during negotiations with an employer—including work slowdowns — without being guilty of failure to bargain in good faith.

* * *

The court's 2-1 decision struck down a ruling by the National Labor Relations board that the CIO-Textile Workers Union failed to bargain in good faith with the Personal Products Co.

Judge Henry W. Edgerton, speaking for himself and Judge David L. Bazelon, said labor law does not forbid use of economic pressure in support of lawful demands.

The NLRB said the union engaged in slowdowns and unauthorized extensions of rest periods, walkouts or partial strikes and similar tactics, the concern is a New Jersey corporation and has one of its plants in Chicago. Its products include surgical dressings.

Judge John A. Danaher, who dissented, said the union did not challenge the board's finding that it engaged in "harassing tactics."

* * *

The union contested only that part of the NLRB's order holding it had failed to bargain in good faith.

Other parts of the order forbade the union threatening employes with reprisals for working overtime and for giving testimony in the proceeding before the board; blocking plant entrances so as to prevent employes coming and going and to coercing employes in any other manner.

U.S. Flag Flies on Bridge Tower Above Mackinac

ST. IGNACE (AP) — Workers broke out the U. S. flag on the south suspension tower of the Mackinac Straits Bridge Wednesday to signal completion of all but the last section of the 540-foot east leg of the tower.

The remaining 12-foot section will complete the east leg. Flying of the flag is traditional with bridge builders when they reach the last section of a tower.

The west leg of the south tower is only a section below that of the east. The north tower (toward St Ignace) is going up, and workmen say they expect to complete both towers and cap them with cable saddles before they stop work for the winter.

Catwalks between the high towers also are scheduled to go up before weather closes construction on the 100 million dollar bridge that will link Michigan's two peninsulas when it is completed in 1957.

Official Recalled in House Probe

Public Buildings Chief to Answer Questions on Outside Interests

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Judiciary subcommittee recalled Peter A. Strobel today in its investigation of a possible clash of interest between his position as public buildings commissioner and his continuing partnership in a New York engineering consultant firm.

In his previous appearance Wednesday, Strobel testified he in no way "used or sought to use my official position to further the interests" of the firm of Strobel & Salzman in which he said he retains a 90 per cent profit interest.

* * *

As public buildings commissioner Strobel overseas far-flung federal real estate properties. He also selects architects and contractors for new structures and negotiates government lease-purchase contracts for buildings erected privately.

Strobel testified two of his firm's 32 clients had received architectural contracts from the Public Buildings Service. He asserted neither he nor his firm profited as a result.

Baseball's 'Old Fox', Clark Griffith, Dies at 85

* * *

"The old man lived an exciting life and he loved every minute of it . . . he had a wonderful life and a peaceful death. No man could ask for more."

* * *

Calvin, one of seven youngsters raised by Griffith and his wife, is now heir-apparent to the Washington Senators, the club of which the elder Griffith had been president since 1919.

Few men have had as significant a role in the development of the national sport. Griffith helped organize the American League at the turn of the century and gave it added stature by luring the President of the United States to throw out the first pitch as far back as 1912.

* * *

They called Griff "The Old Fox" because of his cute antics as a pitcher before the turn of the century. The name stuck through a series of maneuvers and deals that earned the Senators a prominent role in the American League for many years despite a dearth of big money.

* * *

Ironically, the Senators finished last in the season just completed. It was only the third time Washington had finished in the basement during Griff's long tenure with the club.

* * *

A lifelong friend of Connie Mack, now 92 and onetime owner-manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, Griffith had a high place in the hearts of baseball men. Griffith and Mack stood as the last big figures linking the sport with its early days before the turn of the century.

* * *

Baseball Comissioner Ford Frick, on a good-will tour of Japan, said that Griff "will be long remembered for the contributions he has made to baseball."

Griffith entered Georgetown University Hospital a week ago suffering from neuritis. Later he contracted stomach hemorrhages and lung congestion. After a week of apparently steady improvement, he suffered a relapse and died at 8:40 p.m. (EST) last night.

With him at his bedside were Calvin Griffith and the elderly gentleman's wife, Ann Robertson Griffith.

* * *

Funeral arrangements are to be announced today.

The Griffiths had no children, but raised seven youngsters, all children of Mrs. Griffith's relatives. The key figures in the new organization will be Calvin and his sister, Mrs. Thelma Griffith Haynes, wife of Joe Haynes, the Washington pitching coach.

Griff—no one called him Griffith—had been masterminding the club up to his last days. Every deal engineered by Calvin or Manager Chuck Dressen had to have Griff's final approval, and the "Old Fox" had been looking forward eagerly to the 1956 season.

* * *

* * *

But Griff could be a tough monkey on the baseball field. He fought more than his share of umpires during his career as player, manager and clubowner.

One of the finest tributes ever given him came from Harry S. Truman, the nation's 33rd President. Truman called Griff "Washington's great citizen . . . a shining example of what this country can produce."

Born in a log cabin in Vernon County, Mo., on Nov. 20, 1869, Griff became interested in baseball at the age of 13, later pitching for sandlot teams in the Midwest.

He hit the majors playing for the old St. Louis Browns in the American Assn. in the 1880s and later pitched for the Chicago White Sox and the Senators.

* * *

Among the players who worked for Griff are some of the greatest names in baseball. First on Griff's list was Walter Johnson, whom Griff always considered the best pitcher in the history of the game.

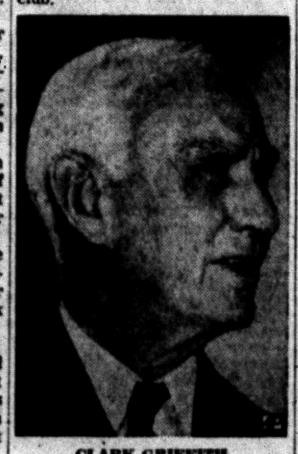

Among others were Joe Cronin, who is now general manager of the Boston Red Sox, and Bucky Harris, the Detroit Tiger manager. Both Cronin and Harris won pennants for Washington as boy managers.

Griff, of course, was a member of baseball's Hall of Fame.

But if you ever could pin him down on what he considered his greatest single contribution to baseball, Griff would always say it was getting the nation's presidents to throw out the first pitch of the season.

Griff was regarded by many as a tightwad, who refused to pay good salaries and wouldn't build up an elaborate farm system.

Yet when a Congressional committee examined baseball a half dozen years ago, it learned that the Senators' pay scale compared favorably with those of any other club.

Eureka! My zillions of readers are rejoicing with me these days because at last I have emerged in my true colors—the purple and gold of success—har-rumph!

As you know it is not in my nature to crow, but I must modestly cite some predictions as being par excellence and without equal. "Bien trovato" as my Italian friends would say.

* * *

Remember? I gave you Colgate over Princeton (and Colgate did, the 1st time in 30 years). There was Auburn over Georgia Tech (1st win over Tech in 15 years). And Florida over LSU, a 1st timer.

* * *

For this week here are several juicy ones:

* * *

Iowa over Michigan 14-7; Gophers over USC (14-7) and Navy to sink Irish (14-6).

Irish Favored to Snap Navy's Winning Skein

Grid Attention Swings Towards South Bend for Traditional Battle

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame's fighting Irish, who had an 11-game winning streak snapped two weeks ago, are favored to shatter Navy's 9-game string in an intriguing intersectional football clash tomorrow.

* * *

As far as most of Notre Dame's curbstone alumni are concerned, this is the nation's "game of the day" and for bona fide Irish alumni it further is enhanced by being the Knute K. Rockne Memorial Game.

* * *

Terry Brennan's Irish were spilled by Michigan State, 21-7, on Oct. 15 to snap a skein of 11 victories started after Brennan's only other defeat as head coach, a 27-14 loss to Purdue on Oct. 2, 1954.

* * *

Now Navy, ranked No. 4 in the national Associated Press poll, brings to South Bend a chain of nine triumphs forged, ironically, after Notre Dame out-slushed the Middies in the mud at Baltimore, 6-0, on Oct. 30 last year.

* * *

* * *

Navy's defense is the nation's best, according to official NCAA statistics, yielding an average of 119.6 yards per game. It should be, Irish partisans contend, in view of the Middie schedule thus far and the talent they have.

That talent is headed, of course by quarterback George Welsh, who has completed 40 of 61 passes for 635 yards and 5 touchdowns, and All-America end Ron Beagle, who has caught 13 passes for 228 yards and 2 TD's.

* * *

Notre Dame's starting lineup will include quarterback Paul Hornung, a 205-pounder, who figures to give the 165-pound Welsh quite a signal-calling duel.

* * *

Hornung, hobbled by an injured thigh most of the week, would much rather run with the ball than throw it. It's the other way around for Welsh.

The Navy squad was scheduled to arrive from Baltimore around noon (EST) and have a light mid-afternoon workout at Notre Dame Stadium. The Middies will spend the night at nearby Elkhart, Ind.

* * *

Notre Dame's old-coaching guard began assembling with the early birds of an expected 57,000 capacity crowd. First of the ex-Irish mentors to arrive was Jesse Harper, who coached Rockne and was succeeded by him at the Irish helm. Others who will participate in half time ceremonies honoring the famed Rock will be Frank Leahy, Hunk Anderson, Elmer Layden and Ed McKeever.

Campbell Sure He Can Break Speed Record

Waits for Conditions to Level Off, Before Making New Test

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — England's Donald M. Campbell is confident he can break his own water speed mark of 202.32 m.p.h. but he says he won't try again until his jet speedboat, Bluebird, and the waters of Lake Mead in Nevada are both in tip-top shape.

* * *

Campbell told a newsman yesterday the Bluebird is being fitted with a new jet engine and he expects to have the boat back in the water next week. Campbell said the date for the record try will depend on water surface conditions and how the craft performs in test runs.

* * *

The Bluebird sank while being towed to the dock after an unsuccessful record run on the Lake Oct. 16. Campbell said the lake was rough and he was forced to rush preparations because of a national television commitment.

Hurricane Faces Slade Tonight

Must Win for Tommy as Heavyweight Eyes Bout With Rocky

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Young Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson finds himself in a "little to gain and a lot to lose" situation tonight as he meets spoiler Jimmy Slade in a scheduled 10-round, heavyweight bout at Cleveland Arena.

Lippy Breitbardt, Jackson's manager, is rolling happily along contending a match with champion Rocky Marciano is virtually in the bag.

* * *

He says James D. Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, promised him a 'championship match, providing Jackson "wins from Slade and either Nino Valdes or Bob Barker." However, a loss could push him entirely out of the heavyweight picture.

* * *

The crowd-pleasing Hurricane, crowding into the "I want Marciano" group on the merits of two straight decisions over ex-heavyweight king Ezzard Charles, has split two close decisions with the 180-pound Slade. He dropped the first bout in April of last year, but reversed the order of finish in a return bout last June.

Revived Black Hawks Tie Rangers for 2nd in NHL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The "new look" Chicago Black Hawks, usually at the bottom of the standings in the National Hockey League, have blasted their way into a tie for 2nd place.

The re-built Hawks moved into a deadlock with the New York Rangers by giving a 4-1 trouncing to the league leading Montreal Canadiens last night.

The Hawks, who only last Saturday took a 6-0 pasting at the hands of the Canadiens, breezed to a 2-0 lead in the 1st period, on goals by Eddie Litzenberger and Johnny Wilson.

But, the big Chicago gun of the evening was Ed Sanford, acquired from the Detroit Red Wings last week in a trade. Sanford centered the line of Harry Watson and Litzenberger which worried Montreal all night. Sanford had his stick on one goal and two assists. He fed Litzenberger for the 1st goal and set up a neat relay from Benny Woit for Watson's tally in the final period before counting himself on a pass from Watson for the Hawks final effort.

Wildfowl Hunting Good for Weekend

LANSING (AP)—Fair to good hunting for upland game birds in northern Michigan was reported to pick up substantially this weekend.

The department said most foliage was gone but the woods were noisy.

The department said many flights of northern ducks and geese were settling in marshes along Lakes Michigan and Huron and that large duck flights were reported on Houghton Lake.

Very little rabbit hunting was noted. Squirrel hunting was fair to good. Raccoon hunting was generally good, with conditions very good.

Lions Missing Only 3 Sunday

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Detroit Lions, slowed down with key player injuries this season, will have only three men sidelined against the San Francisco 49ers Sunday.

Lions have started games this year with as many as seven top men nursing injuries.

Still out of action will be end Dorn Dibble and guard Jim Martin, both with ankle injuries; and Jack Christiansen, a defensive back who hurt his knee last Sunday against the Los Angeles Rams.

Quarterback Bobby Lane who missed last week's game because of a knee injury will be back against the 49ers. Guard Dick Stanfel also will see action. Stanfel missed four games this season when he reinjured his back.

Parker's assistants said Doak Walker was scheduled to see plenty of action Sunday.

Race for Total Offense

Hamline's Jerry Foley Perils Omaha's Englehardt for Small College Honors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Englehardt, who piled up a total of 1,645 yards for the Omaha University football team last year as a freshman, is making a bid to repeat. But his principal rival for small colege ground-gaining honors is one of the 1955 freshmen, Hamline's Jerry Foey.

* * *

Englehardt won the small college total offense title last season with a strong finish. He was hampered by an early season injury this year, but in his last two games he gathered 385 yards to move into fourth place with an 844-yard total.

* * *

Ahead of him are passer Foley with just 1,000 yards, Joe Ortiz of the College of Emporia with 883 and Bill Hamilton of Florence (Ala.) State with 846. Foley, who enjoyed Hamline's open date last Saturday, has two games to play and the others three.

* * *

Only one player, Bob Heimerdinger of Northern Illinois State, ever won the small college total offense title two years in succession. He did it in 1950-51.

* * *

Last week's idleness didn't threaten Foley's passing lead. He has thrown the greatest number of passes, 187, completed the most, 87, and has gained the most passing yardage, 1,040. Rushing losses bring down his total offense figure.

* * *

Foley's best target, Dick Donlin of Hamline, also retained the pass receiving lead with 29 catches for 308 yards. Rudy Visvich of Muskingum, making nine catches in two weeks, moved into second place with 21 receptions to 20 each for Hamline's Dick Dahl and Bob Price of Geneva. Hamline also holds the team passing lead with an average of 223.6 aerial yards per game.

* * *

The hardest-working small college player is fullback Phil Bucalo of Northeastern, who has carried the ball 152 times for 687 yards to top the rushing list. Second with 653 yards is the highest scorer in all college football, Nate Clark of Hillsdale. Clark scored three touchdowns last week to lift his total to 84 points. He's six points ahead of Walt Livingston of Heidelberg, who made five touchdowns against Baldwin-Wallace.

* * *

Other top scorers are Ken Lutterbach, Evansville, Marv Raab, Alma, and Bernie Raterink, Central Michigan, 66 points each; Bucalo, 63; and Donn Voss, Carleton, and Joe Walden, West Texas, 60 each.

Dixie Fullback Revives Kicking

'Back of Week' Boots Field Goal, 'Ol Miss' Defeats Arkansas

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP)—Fullback Paige Cothren, the Associated Press' "Back of the Week" for his performance against Arkansas, 'revived the art of kicking field goals for the University of Mississippi.

Cothren set a Southeastern Conference record, where field goals are almost out of date, by booting two against Georgia. Those two also were the first field goals kicked by a Mississippi player since 1931.

The junior booted one field goal against Arkansas, in addition to scoring a touchown, kicking two extra points, intercepting a pass, and blocking viciously for his teammates.

A penalty prevented Cothren from scoring all Mississippi points in its 17-7 victory over Arkansas Saturday.

Cothren is keeping alive the Poole tradition—despite a different name—at Mississippi. The three famous Poole brothers, Ray, Buster, and Barney, are his uncles.

A Jackson sports writer recalls that Cothren, fresh out of high school and headed for Mississippi, was talking to Buster Poole, a coach at Mississippi.

Poole said he was on his way to Louisiana to look at a top-flight high school prospect.

"But," Cothren pleaded, "you've got a fullback."

NO PRESSURE — Ed Danowski, physical education teacher, gives last-minute advice to the East Meadow, Long Island, Junior High squad. Danowski, happy with no alumni trouble, has no intention of returning to the big-time college game. The old professional resigned as Fordham's head coach before that institution dropped football. It's much nicer and more fun this way.

National Horse Show Dominated by Mexicans

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The Mexican team, led by Brig. Gen. Humberto Mariles, continues to dominate international competition in the Pennsylvania National Horse Show.

* * *

Mariles took his second event, the fourth for the Mexicans, last night in a ride-off against four other horsemen who had also completed a 10-jump course faultlessly.

* * *

The second twirl around the course was a race against time and Mariles finished in 35 seconds, 5.8 seconds better than the United States' Hugh Wiley. Billy Steinkraus, the American team leader was third and Lt. Roberto Vinals of Mexico was fourth.

* * *

* * *

Earlier Charles Dennehy, Jr., of Lake Forest, Ill., won in a class where a single fault meant elimination on a 15-jump course. He edged Mariles who failed on the 14th jump.

Entering today's finals of the international competition, Mexico has won 4 events, the United States 2 and Canada and Ireland 1 each.

Maples Battle Jinx Tonight in Quest of League Crown

The 1955 Eastern Michigan League championship will be at stake tonight when football teams from Birmingham and Port Huron high schools collide on the Birmingham High School gridiron.

Carl Lemle's title-hungry warriors will be fighting a jinx in their encounter with the visitors from Lake Huron. Only twice since the Eastern Michigan League was founded in 1945 have the Maples garnered a win over Port Huron.

They edged the Big Reds, 7-0, in 1945, and posted an 18-7 triumph in 1948. Since that time the Maples have dropped six straight decisions to Bob Hayes' gridders, one of those losses costing them an EML crown.

Perennially-strong Port Huron handed the Maples a 13-0 setback in 1951 during their strongest bid for the diadem they have yet to gain, forcing them to settle for 2nd place and spoiling an undefeated season.

Birmingham boasts a perfect 6-0 slate on the eve of this engagement. Victory will give the Maples an undisputed championship, the 1st in the school's history. Defeat would force them to share the title with Port Huron and East Detroit, both once-beaten.

Maples are physically sound and mentally keyed for all-out effort in tonight's important clash. They are favoried to win and wrap up the crown. Game time is 8 p.m.

Ferndale and Hazel Park meet on the latter's field and Mt. Clemens invades East Detroit, in two other Eastern loop games tonight. The Cranbrook Cranes face University School Saturday at Cleveland in an Inter-State Prep League contest.

Baseball Leaders Pay Warm Tribute to Clark Griffith

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baseball leaders, scattered throughout the world, paid tribute today to Clark Griffith, the "Old Fox" whose death in Washington removed from the sport one of the last links with the early days of the game.

* * *

Men associated with the 85-year-old owner of the Washington Senators as players, managers, owners and league officials joined in declaring that the passing of Griffith last night was baseball's loss.

* * *

"Mr. Griffith will be long remembered for the contributions he made to baseball," said Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick in Tokyo, where he is touring Japan with the New York Yankees.

"I have lost a long time friend," said President Will Harridge of the American League. "Mr. Griffith's first connection with the Washington club came in 1912, my first season with the American League. A great player and manager on the field, he was even more outstanding as a league executive whose ability over the years helped build and develop the American League and added to baseball's stature everywhere. He truly was one of the game's all-time great figures."

* * *

"Griff was a stalwart of the old school with the perpetuation and integrity of baseball foremost in his mind always. He made a great contribution to our national game and will be missed greatly." That was the comment of President Warran Giles of the National League on hearing of the death of Griffith, who was elected to baseball's Hall of Fame in 1946.

Connie Mack, who at 92 is convalescing from a broken hip in his Philadelphia home, was not immediately advised of Griffith's death. Mack, along with Griffith, played baseball before the turn of the century.

"Griffith's death is baseball's loss," said Eddie Brannick, secretary of the New York Giants whose own baseball career dates back more than 50 years. "He was all baseball—born in the game and died in the game."

"There was no greater man in the game," said Owner Horace Stoneham of the Giants.

Del Webb, co-owner of the Yankees with the club in Japan, joined with Dan Topping, the other owner, in expressing regrets.

* * *

"As all will testify, baseball has lost a great man but I have lost both a friend and an adviser, one to whom I took many a problem when I started in baseball," said President Walter O. (Spike) Briggs of Detroit.

Offensive Decline Traced to Use of Single Platoon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Offense is down, defense is up in college football this season and the coaches have an answer—the return (for the better or for the worse) of the single platoon.

"One-way football" was most cited by a group of coaches polled today by The Associated Press after statistics showed scoring and passing on the decline.

Scoring is at its lowest mid-season ebb since 1943. Passing hasn't played such a minor role since 1941.

* * *

Only two of the coaches polled admitted knowing of no reason for the change in emphasis from offense to defense. Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma, the most successful of the active mentors, doesn't see any reason at all. Michigan's Bennie Oosterbaan hasn't "the least idea—but I don't think it's a trend."

Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech, however, saw it coming.

In the Big 7, Missouri's Don Faurot, Kansas' Chuck Mather and Colorado's Dallas Ward agreed in the one-platform explanation.

"Definitely the single platoon," said Mather. "Nobody has time to adequately prepare defense and offense. We're working like made on defense."

The demise of the specialist worried Dodd, and also helped explain the lack of passing. "You can't win on passing without specialists . . . and when you do away with specialist you lose a lot of the color in football."

Michigan State's Duffy Dougherty also indicated favoring a return to the two-way system: "(Now) you have to sacrifice offensive ability to get the defensive job done—a further liberalization of the substitution rule is needed to once again put the emphasis on offense."

Frustrated Hawks' Seniors Get Last Chance

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Iowa's frustrated football coach Forest Evashevski brings 14 desperate Hawkeye seniors to Michigan Stadium tomorrow for the last chance at smashing a two-year, one-point Michigan jinx.

Iowa takes on Michigan at 1:30 p. m. (EST) Saturday before 80,000 fans and a national television audience.

But third-rated Michigan, riding a five-game winning streak, may have to call on its injury list for help in defending its historical edge over the Hawkeyes.

It's been 31 years since Iowa beat Michigan. The Wolverines have won 13 and been tied only once while losing two to Iowa, in 1900 and 1924.

They were the pride of the Corn State, destined, Iowa partisans believed, to carry Iowa out of their football doldrums to a Big Ten championship and a Rose Bowl bid.

But Michigan was one of three teams that beat Iowa that year, the score: 14-13.

Last year, the 14 Hawkeyes tried again. Against them Michigan jelled into the team that fought Ohio State for the conference championship. Iowa lost again—14-13.

So this is the last chance for the Iowa seniors. Many of them are injured, including Iowa's All-American guard Cal Jones and husky end Frank Gillam.

Jones, who injured a knee two weeks ago, didn't play last week when Iowa pushed UCLA all over the field but finally lost to the Pacific Coast conference favorite.

Michigan expects Jones and Gilliam to play anyway, but coach Evashevski said he won't know until game time.

Michigan is using its injury list as an ace in the hole, too.

Michigan's outstanding end, Ron Kramer, recovering from fractured ribs, may come off the bench after a 2½ game absence. Despite missing half of the expired season, Kramer still leads Wolverine scorers with 25 points.

* * *

And Michigan's injury list, which has hampered the Wolverines for the last four games, is shortening. Fullbacks Lou Baldacci and Dave Hill have apparently recovered from damaged ankles although 1st string center Jim Bates is still on the indefinite list with a troublesome leg.

Two Atlantic Coast Conference Teams Fined for Violation of Regulations

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Commissioner Jim Weaver of the Atlantic Coast Conference announced today that he had fined Clemson College and Wake Forest for violation of conference regulations.

* * *

Clemson was fined $500 for a case involving unsportsmanlike conduct. Wake Forest, the school whose athletic directorship Weaver resigned to become ACC commissioner in May of last year, was fined $250 for violating the policies and rules governing the relations between coaches and game officials. Actually, the fine was levied for undue fraternization with an official. Wake Forest gave an official an airlift homeward after its Oct. 1 game at West Virginia.

* * *

Weaver attended the Clemson home game with Georgia of the Southeastern Conference last Oct. 1. In the closing minutes two player fights marred the contest, won by Clemson, 26-7. Both benches were cleared as substitutes joined the milling participants and sideline spectators for the second short-lived fracas. The Clemson band played the national anthem and a dozen policemen quickly broke up the brawl.

* * *

The ACC booking office committee policies governing relationships between conference coaches and officials were violated by Wake Forest's act.

Weaver made the announcements today in accordance with conference bylaws after the appeal period had passed and neither school filing an appeal with the executive committee.

Weaver yesterday spiked a Durham, N.C., Morning Herald report of a rumor that the University of South Carolina had been fined for alleged recruiting irregularities.

Terming the rumor "a gross injustice," Weaver said "there is absolutely no truth in or foundation for the report," adding that South Carolina had not been fined for "recruiting irregularities or any other reason."

Citadel Player Ruled Eligible

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The Southern Conference Executive Committee ruled today The Citadel's leading punter, quarterback Robert Schwarze, is eligible for varsity competition even though he played with the Army plebes in 1954.

The committee, by a 4-1 vote, upheld an earlier ruling by Conference Commissioner Wallace Wade after an appeal by one of the league's 10 member institutions.

* * *

Ivy Praises Spartans

Williamson, figuring the Spartans ought to be at least a one-touchdown favorite, called Michigan State "better than any team we've met this year with the possible exception of Southern California."

* * *

He credited State's No. 5 ranking in the AP poll to a greatly improved defense and quarterback Earl Morrall. Williamson had special words for Morrall, typing him as the best quarterback in the Big 10 and that put him above Ivy's own pretty-fair T formation engineers, Jim Haluska and Jim Miller.

The Wisconsin coach said the Spartans have great balance and recalled that he watched via television as Michigan State used it to whip Notre Dame.

But Ivy declared that his Badgers "always have a chance to win," and went on to spell out some of the ifs that could make it possible.

"We'll have to play better on defense than we have in the last two games," Williamson said. His statement followed a week in which the Badgers used up a big share of their practice time tuning up the defense that permitted nine touchdowns in losing its last two games.

"But we're not that bad," he went on after offering that his team is not strong defensively. He said his starting line, which will be going without the services of ace pass catchng and strong defense end Dave Howard, will be playing as long as needed.

* * *

The Spartans also face the task of kicking through a couple of nevers for Williamson-coached Wisin teams. Under Ivy's direction the Badgers have never lost a Homecoming—and Saturday's the date this year—and they've never lost three games in a row.

Michigan State Freshmen Gridders Emphasize Beef

Looking over some of the yearlings tearing up the turf on the frosh practice field, you'd think it was a pro camp. Linesmen weighing 225 and 230 pounds on the hoof are common. There's also some likely-looking backs and ends among the prospects.

When freshman drill opened, 198 candidates reported for suits. There was the usual dropoff for scholastic and other reasons and because some of the players realized they couldn't make the grade. As of now, 134 are still out knocking each other around.

Name Field for Louis

DETROIT (AP) — City council gave informal approval yesterday to a proposal to name a playfield for Joe Louis, Detroit's former heavyweight boxing champion of the world.

'New' Perez Meets Gonsalves Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—The "new" Lulu Perez, stronger at 135 pounds, boxes Johnny Gosalves tonight at Madison Square Garden in his first important test as a lightweight.

As a featherweight, Perez flunked all his final examinations. First it was Percy Bassett who knocked him out in 1954 when the winner was to get a shot at champion Sandy Saddler. Next it was Saddler himself in an over-the-weight bout at Boston. Finally it was Carmelo Costa who outpointed him in 10 rounds last May in another elimination contest.

Detroit, currently holding down 2nd place in the Missouri Valley Conference with a 2-1 record, dropped a 21-13 squeaker to the Bearcats last year in the Motor City.

Air Force Facility to Cost 3½ Millions; to Be Built at Denver

DENVER (AP)—A 3½ million dollar aerie for the football Falcons of the U.S. Air Force Academy is planned by a Colorado group, the Air Force Academy Foundation.

Plans for a 40,000-seat stadium at Colorado Springs, permanent site of the academy, were disclosed today in a copyrighted article by the Rocky Mountain News.

* * *

Chester Nelson, sports editor of the Denver newspaper, said preliminary plans call for the foundation to issue and sell bonds to finance construction of the bowl-shaped arena. A nationwide public contribution program also was suggested.

* * *

An architect's drawing of the proposed stadium, prepared by the air force construction agency at the direction of Air Secretary Quarles, was shown yesterday at a meeting of the foundation here.

By H. GUY MOATS

The squad was hopeful of a win, although rated as underdog to the Royal Oak High eleven, host for tonight's contest in Royal Oak. Game time is 8 o'clock.

For the 1st time this season Coach Ed Graybiel will not be with the team. He will be waiting, however, in Pontiac General Hospital, for word of the outcome. Graybiel was hospitalized following a virus attack 1st of the week.

After tonight's contest Pontiac has only two Valley games, with Saginaw (there) and at home against Flint Northern.

While Chiefs play outside the SVC, Flint Central and Saginaw tangle at Saginaw. The "big" Valley tilt is set for Saturday, when favored Bay City meets Arthur Hill on the 'Jacks' field. Both are unbeaten in loop play. Hills is the defending champion, and Wolves are "heirs presumptive."

Comparison of PHS and Royal Oak records show the Acorns to have scored fewer points thus far in five games, than Chiefs did in six. RO also allowed fewer points to opponents. PHS collected 89 points, gave up 114. Acorns counted 78 and allowed 53.

Aragon Returns, Drops Winslow by KO in 10th

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Art Aragon, 151, of Los Angeles, returned to ring action last night with a final-round knockout of Woody Winslow, 149½, of Oakland, in a scheduled 10 round main event at the Olympic Auditorium.

The California Golden Boy, making his first appearance since suffering an ankle injury while taking a pasting from Joe Miceli last August, had the fight all his way.

Winslow was a 1-8 underdog at ring time. Aragon was stung at times by Winslow's hard right but was never in trouble. A total of 4,420 spectators paid $6,532 to see the scrap.

Eight Pacers Set to Go

Canadian-owned Leta Lee, with two victories on the Jackson track, is given a slight edge over Spotless and Eric Vic.

The 30-day meeting will end tomorrow night.

Van Dyke Shoots for I-L Title

Inter-Lakes League champion will be crowned tonight.

And it looks as though the Van Dyke Abes are on the threshold of the throne. Only barrier blocking their march is a Walled Lake Viking eleven that hosts head coach Charlie Saxton and company in what looms as the top prep entertainment in tonight's 7th week of Oakland County high school activity.

Winner of a not-to-be-overlooked I-L battle between Southfield and Waterford (kickoff at 3:30 this afternoon) can only hope for a share of the honors if Walled Lake pulls an unexpected upset over favored Abes. Scheduled for a 3:30 kick-off also is a contest featuring Berkley at Farmington.

WASH-OUT SPARE—Know your angles and build up your average. Every spare has a scoring value of 10 points. One of the most difficult spares is called the "wash-out"—the result of missing the head pin and leaving up the Nos. 1-2-4-7-10 pins. On this one proper angle pays off.

The wash-out offers a three-way choice of angles, as sketch shows, but the ball, in each case, must be fitted between the Nos. 1-2 pins so that the head pin slides over to get the No. 10. With the normal hook delivery a slight change in stance is made. Face the head pin straight on.

I suggest, though, that you use the angle from the left side of the alley, because it's a more direct route to the 1-2 pocket and assures better coverage on the entire left-wall pins. The wash-out is one of the tougher spares, and practice will give you the pay-off angle. Stick to whatever angle you pick!

HOMECOMING QUEEN — Dimpled Duck Choo Oh, 21, whose home is in Seoul, Korea, is homecoming queen at the University of Illinois. A senior, majoring in sociology, she was elected by a student vote. Her father, We Young Oh, now retired, is a former member of the Korean National Assembly and former president of the Korea Trust Bank. She will be crowned at the Purdue-Illinois game Saturday.

Highest Losing Scores

Highest scoring losing football teams in the Ivy League have been Princeton and Yale. Princeton bowed to Penn in 1940 by 46-28 while Yale in 1948 lost to Columbia, 34-28.

Edwin J. Anderson, president of the Detroit Lions, played college football at Beloit (Wis.) College.

Duffy, Spartans Feel Confident of Big 10 Win

Daugherty Sure State Will Beat Wisconsin in Clash at Madison

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Coach Duffy Daugherty is smilingly optimistic as Michigan State prepares to met Wisconsin Saturday in a vital Big Ten football game for both schools.

Wisconsin and Michigan State are tied for 3rd in conference standings and the loser can kiss goodby to any long-shot title or Rose Bowl hopes.

"We'd never beaten Illinois before," commented Daugherty. (Michigan State played Illinois for the 1st time last week and won 21-7).

It's not that Daugherty is cocky, it's just his nature to be cheerful. He was last year while trying to explain a 3-6 won and lost season.

"I have," said Daugherty. "Last year Notre Dame, Purdue and Minnesota — want to know the scores?"

The coach reflects the attitude of the team, an outfit that seems sure of victory.

Quarterback Earl Morrall has attracted national attention for his passing against Illinois. Fullback Jerry Planutis, the week earlier, was a one-man gang against Notre Dame. Michigan State won both games by 21-7 scores and the Spartans feel they can keep on going.

There was only one element of doubt today as the MSU team, flown in last night, assembled for an afternoon workout in the Wisconsin stadium.

Clarence Peaks, the running, kicking, passing left half, is still nursing a sore ankle. He's alternated practice workouts with sessions in a whirlpool bath.

Daugherty said Jerry Musetti probably would start in place of Peaks.

"Peaks will definitely see action," he said. "He's not in top form and the amount will be determined by his physical condition."

Dixie Golf Test in Semi-Finals

Medalist and Other Favorites Eliminated From Seniors' Match

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—The annual North and South Seniors Golf Tournament moved into its semi-final round here today with all of the favorites sidelined.

Matches today over the No. 2 Pinehurst Country Club Course pitted Fred Schultz, 55, of Evanston, Ill., against J. W. Roberts of Columbus, Ohio, and C. J. Farley of Grand Rapids, Mich., against B. J. Kraffert Jr., of Titusville, Pa.

Only golfers over 50 are eligible and the course has been shortened to 4,902 yards.

The latest favorite to be eliminated was medalist C. D. McAllister, a retired Air Force colonel of Orlando, Fla., who bowed to Schultz, 1-up on the 21st hole yesterday.

* * *

Other results yesterday saw Kraffert defeat E. F. Quittner of Jenkinstown, Pa., 3 and 1; Farley eliminate Paul A. Dunkel of Ridgewood, N.J., 2 and 1, and Roberts stop Eugene Pittman of Washington, D.C., 3 and 2.

Lou Creekmur, Detroit Lions tackle from William and Mary, has been a starter in five consecutive Pro Bowl All-Star games.

Twenty-four different Detroit Lions players have been named to All-league teams since 1934.

In the Oakland-B conference, Madison moves a step closer to its 1st loop championship tonight at 8 when the Eagles tackle invading Roseville. Cawson journeys to Avondale and Lake Orion opens its gates to a winless troy contingent.

Rich Garden State Purse Calls 14 Horses to Post

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—This is the day money counts—when horse owners step forward and plunk down $1,000 to enter the $100,000-added Garden State Stakes. At least 14 2-year-olds are expected to be named for the big shindig tomorrow at Garden State Park, and if all go to the post they must divvy up another $1,000.

The race probably will produce a 2-year-old champion and winter book Kentucky Derby favorite, as well as drop a small fortune into the lap of the lucky owner.

* * *

Florida-bred Needles, owned by D&H Stable of Bonnie Heath and Jack Dudley, rules a slight 3-1 favorite in the mile and one sixteenth test over C. V. Whitney's Career Boy. Mrs. Anson A. Bigelow's Nail, Belmont Futurity winner, and the Brookmeade Stable's Lawless, full brother to Preakness winner Bold, are next at 6-1.

* * *

The Far West's hope is Bold Bazooka, a California colt owned by comedian Lou Costello. Others are the Maine Chance Farm's Gun Shot, Barcley Stable's Polly's Jet, Montpelier Farm's Nahoda, Mrs. J. R. H. Thouron's Happy New Year, Aba L. Rice's Call Me Lucky, Elmendorf Farm's Prince John, Jaclyn Stable's Espea, Natalie Lynch's Nan's Mink, and The Rivern owned by the estate of M. M. Gettinger.

* * *

With 14 going in the race, to be broadcast and televised nationally (CBS) 3:30-4 p.m., (EST) the booty would total a world record $286,370. For any of 12, a victory would bring home $160,218.50. Needles and Bold Bazooka were last minute supplementary nominees at $10,000 apiece, and would net a paltry $150,503.50 if one of them should get back first to the judges.

Dad's Day Inspires Shamrocks

North Side 11 Aims to Boost Current Mark

Faces Ritas Sunday in Traditional Contest at Wisner Stadium

With their sights set on finishing the season above the .500 mark, St. Michael's Shamrocks tangle with Hazel Park St. Rita in their annual Dad's Day football game Sunday afternoon at Wisner Stadium. Starting time is 3 p. m.

* * *

Dad's Day, a traditional autumn affair, will find the Mikes favored to down their Suburban Catholic League opponent. A victory over the Ritas would boost the Shamrocks' record to 4-3. St. Rita's won-lost figure stands at 1-4.

Injuries continue to hamper Bob Mineweaser's squad. Latest casualty was tackle Gerald Kucera, a senior, who fractured a bone in his leg during scrimmage. Kucera is out for the season and joins Paul Amman, who was permanently sidelined earlier in the year. Ailing halfback Chuck Brown will miss his 3rd straight week.

Victory over the Ritas is almost a necessity if the Mikes hope to wind up their schedule on the respectable side of the ledger. Defeating Highland Park St. Benedict and Oxford in their two concluding games will be no easy task.

Dick Doyon and teammates at St. Frederick will journey to Ferndale Sunday night for an SCL clash with St. James. Winless in their last 22 games, Gene Wright's Rams will be underdogs again in the 8 o'clock encounter.

Orchard Lake St. Mary's title-minded Eaglets, boasting a spotless 5-0 record, tackle St. Benedict in their last major test as they head for the SCL prize. Game, which begins at 3 p. m., is scheduled at Ives Field in Highland Park.

* * *

Sunday's remaining Suburban loop contest pits Royal Oak St. Mary against St. Clement of Center Line at Royal Oak. Kickoff time is 3 p. m.

SCHOOLBOY KOUFAX — Sandy Koufax, the bonus baby who pitched two shutouts for the Dodgers, is taking courses in architecture, graphics and physics at Columbia University during off-season.

Tulyar's Purchase Upsets the British

DUBLIN (AP)—The British horse breeding industry today bemoaned the sale of Tulyar, 1952 Epsom Derby winner, to an American syndicate for 240,000 pounds ($672,000).

The 6-year-old stallion, subject of a political controversy ever since the Irish National Stud paid the Aga Khan 250,000 pounds ($700,000) for him more than two years ago, was purchased yesterday by Arthur Hancock, owner of the Claiborne Stud of Kentucky.

Tommy Heath in Line

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Tommy Heath probably will succeed Manager Tony Freitas of the Sacramento Solons in the Pacific Coast baseball league, it was predicted today.

Freitas and Coach Dolph Camilli were fired by the 1955 cellar-bottom Solons yesterday. Heath resigned yesterday as manager of the San Francisco Seals.

Bowls Highest Series

Highest Women's International Bowling Congress three-game score turned in for the year through Oct. 8 was bowled by Mary Cappo of Philadelphia. She rolled a three-game series of 720. Hattie Wooster of Los Angeles was next with a 705 series.

BC Lions Oust Stukus as Coach in WIFU Loop

President Don Mackenzie said: "Stukus will be offered a position with the organization. But I don't feel this is the time to talk about it.

"Applications now are open for head coach."

Mackenzie said he had no one in mind and that no applications had been received.

Huge Public Debt Handled by Banks

NEW YORK—The biggest single owner of public debt during 1954 was the commercial bank, which took over the role from the American individual.

Commercial banks increased their holdings some five billion dollars to bring their total to about 69 billion, their biggest holdings of United States securities since 1947.

Individuals had been in first place since 1950. Their public-debt holdings at the start of 1955 totaled 63.8 billion dollars, a decline of 1.2 billion from the year before.

Gains and losses spread over a range of around a point. Trading was fast at the opening and then slowed almost to a standstill at times.

Motors held steady, aircrafts were a little lower, coppers mixed, chemicals mostly lower, rails steady, and the oils were generally higher.

Among advancing stocks were Allegheny Ludlum, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Chrysler, United Aircraft, American Telephone, American Cyanamid, Santa Fe Railroad, Standard Oil (NJ), Houston Oil, and Pan Handle Oil.

Grains Easier in Routine Deals

CHICAGO (AP) — Grains had a slightly easier tone in routine dealings on the Board of Trade today.

* * *

There was some bullish news around, notably the fact the Commodity Credit Corp. had halted sales of corn to exporters, but demand was held in check by the prospect of fairly heavy receipts of cash grain Monday.

A little export business developed over night in wheat and soybeans but Italy postponed contemplated purchases of two million bushels of corn.

Designer Files $150,000 Damage Suit Against GM

DETROIT (AP)—Edward J. Matusak, a Royal Oak designer and inventor, filed a $150,000 damage suit against General Motors Corp. in Wayne County Circuit Court yesterday. He charges the firm used a "three-dimensional" plastic car model of his without consent.

Matusak said he took his model, intended for dealer display purposes, to the company for approval and left it for 30 days at GM's request.

Later Matusak charged, he learned that the model was being manufactured for GM by another company without his permission. He described it as a "bas relief educational plastic plaque" inside a 10-inch frame.

Public Will Feel Price Upswings

BY SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Prices continue their slow rise in many lines as manufacturers adjust to higher costs. But nowadays retail prices don't necessarily follow wholesale prices as they tended to a generation or so ago.

* * *

Price increases were announced this week in many fields—from newsprint to tin cans, from tires to corduroy, from plywood to prunes.

Consumers may feel some of this increase in the weeks ahead. The newsprint hike, for example, brought a quick prediction that the price of papers and of the ads in them may have to go up, too.

The rise in tin can prices will be felt by the canners preserving next year's foodstuffs. Whether they pass it along to the grocer, and he to you, will be determined then.

Most rubber companies have hiked the factory price of inner tubes and tube-type car and truck tires. For the average passenger car tire the price rise comes to 35 cents. Again, it will be the retail tire seller who must make the decision as far as the motorist is concerned.

As the new models of cars continue to make their debuts, factory list price increases over last year are usually announced. They average around 5 per cent. But the dealer has the final say.

* * *

But the Federal Reserve Board sees inflation pressures generally held in check. It reports: "Credit restraint in all major industrial nations, including the United States, has helped to maintain general price stability and so to moderate the swings in the value of world trade."

Finished goods that the merchants buy have changed little in price, as a whole, in the last three years.

But retail prices in the last year have tended to sag more often than to climb. The reason is competition in styling and quality has counted as much with the public as has the competition in price.

LuAnn Simms Joins Roster of Ex-Godfreys

NEW YORK (INS)—TV's Arthur Godfrey and CBS have fired LuAnn Simms, petite girl singer who had been a member of the Godfrey troupe.

She was ready to resume as a member of the show after a six-months maternity leave when the bad news came to her in New York.

* * *

LuAnn was informed by letter from CBS that her contract was being terminated as of Dec. 2.

She was stunned by the news and informed her parents, who live in Rochester, N.Y., that she hadn't expected such action.

According to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aldridge Ciminella of Rochester, she could offer no reason why she was fired. She had expected to be back on the Godfrey show next week. Her parents said she told them:

"I feel bad. There was no reason to expect this. I don't know of any reason why I should be fired."

NO PLANS FOR LU ANN

Her husband, Loring Buzzell, a New York music publishing executive, said in Rochester that both he and LuAnn were "shocked and still sort of dizzy at the news." He reported that LuAnn has no immediate plans and added.

"All LuAnn did was to have a baby."

CIO Official Named to Organize Merger

DETROIT (AP) — John W. Livingston, vice president of the CIO United Auto Workers union, today had the assignment of organizing the merger of the AFL and CIO.

Livingston is a long-time lieutenant of CIO President Walter Reuther in the auto union. He was one of the leaders in organizing the auto industry for the CIO.

In announcing Livingston's appointment at a news conference yesterday, Reuther, who also heads the UAW, said Livingston was "unanimously recommended" for the job by the CIO's Executive Committee.

Livingston said he plans to start taking over the new job almost immediately so as to be ready to push nationwide organizing plans of the new organization as soon as the merger between the AFL and CIO is completed in New York City Dec. 5.

Livingston, who lives in Detroit, said he will transfer to Washington, D. C., in December. His departure from the UAW will leave one of the four vice presidents jobs in the auto union vacant.

Dealers Condemn Action Taken by GMC

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Automobile Dealers Association went on record today as "strongly condemning the disgracefully shabby treatment" of J. E. Travis, Jr., of St. Charles by the General Motors Corp.

* * *

The association's directors made public a resolution protesting General Motors' action in stripping Travis of his franchiese as a Buick, Pontiac and G.M.C. Truck dealer, effective next Monday.

James A. Gorman, Secretary of the State Association, said Travis, who formerly lived at Tarkio, had been a Buick and G.M.C. dealer at St. Charles since 1920 and a Pontiac dealer since 1933. But his franchises were canceled suddenly because he failed to sell as many cars as the manufacturer thought he should.

* * *

"This is apparently the start of a nationwide move to end dual dealerships," Gorman said.

* * *

It is the first case in Missouri but there are 50 similar cases in the nation, he reported.

* * *

Two years ago today the Dealers' Association condemned what it called the high pressure coercion of dealers to sell more than the market could absorb.

* * *

General Motors spokesmen were not immediately available for comment in Detroit.

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Whereas your Buildings and Grounds Committee, pursuant to the authority given by this Board in Miscellaneous Resolution No. 3040 on May 24, 1955, advertised for bids to be sold the following described property:

and

Whereas all bids were rejected by your Committee inasmuch as none of the bids submitted were in compliance with the bidding requirements and two of said bids were on a "term basis" rather than a cash basis, and

In re: Report of Buildings and Grounds Committee Annual Report
To the Honorable Board of Supervisors
Ladies and Gentlemen:

In accordance with the requirements of the By-Laws of the Board of Supervisors, the Buildings and Grounds Committee is charged with making an annual inspection of the public buildings and grounds owned and under the control of the County of Oakland.

Your Committee has just recently completed this required annual inspection by touring the various buildings under the jurisdiction of this Board. It is with a great deal of satisfaction that your Committee is able to report the excellent conditions existing in these several buildings included in our tour.

The grounds themselves have been kept up excellently by our well-trained grounds crews under the direct supervision of Mr. Glen Arthur and the Board of Auditors.

The Buildings were found to be in a clean and sanitary condition. Notes of minor repairs necessary in several of the buildings were taken by members of the Board of Auditors, who accompanied the Committee on its tour. These repairs will be made by the Maintenance Department which is now operating on a full time basis.

Your Committee has noted the popularity of the new Pontiac Market which is enjoying a steadily increasing use by the public. In accordance with the recommendation of the architect, blacktopping of the parking area has been delayed to allow the gravel fills to completely settle. Little or no landscaping has been attempted at this time but, undoubtedly will be installed by the time of our next report. The building is otherwise complete.

Your Committee again wishes to draw attention of the Board to the overcrowded conditions existing in the South Oakland County Health Center building located at Stephenson Highway and Fourth Streets, Royal Oak, Michigan. This matter was drawn to the attention of the Board two years ago, with the recommendation that additional administrative space be constructed immediately. Your Committee is still of the opinion that this addition should be constructed just as quickly as additional funds become available.

Your Architect Committee has advised the Buildings and Grounds Committee of the need for additional parking facilities as well as additional renovations necessary to the Royal Oak Market, to-wit: the blacktopping of the area on the north side of the Market building, some sidewalk construction, etc. It is recommended by your Committee that the lot immediately east of the Market be cleared, graded and graveled to furnish additional parking facilities for this market.

Your Buildings and Grounds Committee, during the past few years, has come to the conclusion that our present methods of financing public buildings is inadequate and antiquated and that a thorough study should be made as to other possible means of financing, such as the revenue bonds method now used by several of our township and city governments here in our county and in surrounding counties. The demands of our present population for service is outstripping our ability to house personnel and departments to furnish such service.

In re: Acting Medical Director- T.B. Sanatorium

Ladies and Gentlemen:

The Board of Trustees of the Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium hired a doctor who is to become Acting Medical Director of the Sanatorium, effective July 15, 1955.

This doctor was selected from a group of nine applicants and was also interviewed, and his medical competency is a serious menace to livestock production and said disease has been determined among cattle in Oakland County, and

Whereas the State and Federal Departments of Agriculture, cooperating, have set up a program for the control and eradication of Brucellosis (Bang's Disease) in cattle which does involve a county-wide test of all herds in the County as provided for in Act No. 181 of the Public Acts of Michigan, 1919, as amended; and

Whereas the program as presently adopted by said Departments, provides for indemnity payments in herds in which reactor cattle are found, as long as funds are available, provided the owner disposes of said reactor cattle within a period not to exceed fifteen (15) days, or the owner of said reactor cattle may be privileged to retain on his premises, under quarantine restrictions, said reactor cattle and thereby delay or defer removal and slaughter of such animals for a period not to exceed three (3) years, although by printed instructions to herd owners, this has not been recommended as a safe procedure, nor one without hazard in spread of the disease; and

Whereas the State Bureau of Animal Industry and the Federal Agricultural Research Service, under the direction of the Director of Agriculture, provide calf vaccination in all herds in which reactor cattle are found until such time as the herd is established diseased-free, and without cost to the herd owner whose herds were found to contain reactors, will be provided after disposal of the reactor animals, and further, that such vaccination and retest be continued until the owner of such herd has received two (2) or more consecutive negative tests;

Therefore be it resolved that the Oakland County Board of Supervisors requests the Director of Agriculture to conduct a county-wide test for Brucellosis on all the breeding cattle in Oakland County, and

Be it further resolved that the Oakland County Board of Supervisors will give support and assistance to the Director of Agriculture and his authorized assistants to secure the full and proper cooperation from cattle owners and especially owners who have infected herds to cause reactor cattle to be moved to slaughter.

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Your Buildings and Grounds Committee wishes to report the letting of a contract on July 13, 1955 for the construction of an addition to the Board of Education Building, formerly the Contagious Hospital Street Building, in pursuance of the authority granted this Committee by the adoption of Miscellaneous Resolution No. 3010 at a meeting held by this Board on June 27, 1955.

The contract was awarded to the Petku Construction Company for the total sum of $21,843.60 which included the low electrical and mechanical bids of Harry W. MacDonald Company and F. J. Temple and Sons Company, respectively.

The funds required to complete the construction were furnished by the County Board of Education, partly from recaptured Board of Education funds and partly from earmarked Board of Education tax receipts and are now on deposit in a Special Building Fund from which the entire cost of construction will be paid.

In re: Sale of Property in Royal Oak City

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors
Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Miscellaneous Resolution No. 3007, submitted by your Buildings and Grounds Committee and adopted by this Board on June 27, 1955, authorized the Buildings and Grounds Committee to sell several parcels of county-owned lands as provided in the By-Laws of this Board.

No mention was made in said resolution of offering these parcels on a term basis. However, the By-Laws provide that all sales shall be for cash unless otherwise approved by the Board of Supervisors.

Your Buildings and Grounds Committee believes it may be advantageous to the County if terms could be considered in selling the property which was listed in said Resolution No. 3007, to-wit:

House No. 118 North Laurel Street, Royal Oak, Michigan, described as Lot 142 of Edgewood Park Subdivision, City of Royal Oak.

Therefore we respectfully request that this Board approve the selling of the above described property on a term basis if, in the opinion of this Committee, such term price would financially benefit the County.

In re: Improvement of State Highways in Oakland County.

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

At the June 27, 1955 meeting of the Board of Supervisors, the resolution was passed requesting the Road Committee and the Road Commission "to look into the needs" of the County to improve state highways and appraise the State Highway Commissioner of the County needs.

On August 26, 1955, a meeting of the Road Commission and Mr. Belknap, Engineer Manager, acting in a dual capacity representing the Planning Commission, was held. At this meeting, the Road Commission and the Engineer Manager unanimously went on record as approving the construction of the Toll Road. Six other projects in relation to highway extension widening and improvement, all within Oakland County, were approved for immediate action to relieve the acute congestion of traffic in our county caused not only by our own vehicles but, to a greater extent, by the mass of vehicles being dumped across our borders from the adjacent metropolitan areas. The traffic entering Oakland County from the north, northwest, northeast and from the east is an important factor in the present traffic load and all indications are that this load will increase tremendously in the future.

Moved by Reasnick supported by Clawson that when we adjourn, we adjourn subject to the call of the Chair.

A majority of the members having voted for the motion, the motion carried.

Mr. Levinson gave notice that an amendment to the By-Laws will be offered relative to the number of members on committees and chairmen of committees.

Moved by Barnard supported by Kelley that the Road Committee, in conjunction with the Planning Commission and Road Commission, look into the needs of the County to improve state highways and apprise the State Highway Commissioner of the County's needs.

A majority of the members having voted for the motion, the motion carried.

Moved by Levinson supported by Brewer a telegram be sent to our two Senators urging their help in passing the Visa Bill, S. 1030.

A majority of the members having voted for the motion, the motion carried.

Mr. Chairman nominated Harry Hoberton to fill the vacancy on the Oakland County Planning Commission.

Moved by Ewart supported by Waterhouse the Board adjourn.

In re: Board of Education Building Contract

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Your Buildings and Grounds Committee wishes to report the letting of a contract on July 13, 1955 for the construction of an addition to the Board of Education Building, formerly the Contagious Hospital Street Building, in pursuance of the authority granted this Committee by the adoption of Miscellaneous Resolution No. 3010 at a meeting held by this Board on June 27, 1955.

The contract was awarded to the Petku Construction Company for the total sum of $21,843.60 which included the low electrical and mechanical bids of Harry W. MacDonald Company and F. J. Temple and Sons Company, respectively.

The funds required to complete the construction were furnished by the County Board of Education, partly from recaptured Board of Education funds and partly from earmarked Board of Education tax receipts and are now on deposit in a Special Building Fund from which the entire cost of construction will be paid.

This report is furnished as a matter of information and requires no action of this Board.

In re: Sale of Property in Royal Oak City

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors
Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Miscellaneous Resolution No. 3007, submitted by your Buildings and Grounds Committee and adopted by this Board on June 27, 1955, authorized the Buildings and Grounds Committee to sell several parcels of county-owned lands as provided in the By-Laws of this Board.

No mention was made in said resolution of offering these parcels on a term basis. However, the By-Laws provide that all sales shall be for cash unless otherwise approved by the Board of Supervisors.

Your Buildings and Grounds Committee believes it may be advantageous to the County if terms could be considered in selling the property which was listed in said Resolution No. 3007, to-wit:

House No. 118 North Laurel Street, Royal Oak, Michigan, described as Lot 142 of Edgewood Park Subdivision, City of Royal Oak.

Therefore we respectfully request that this Board approve the selling of the above described property on a term basis if, in the opinion of this Committee, such term price would financially benefit the County.

Now, therefore be it resolved that, upon recommendation of the Buildings and Grounds Committee, terms may be accepted in lieu of cash on the above property, such terms to be prescribed by the Buildings and Grounds Committee.

In re: Improvement of State Highways in Oakland County.

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

At the June 27, 1955 meeting of the Board of Supervisors, the resolution was passed requesting the Road Committee and the Road Commission "to look into the needs" of the County to improve state highways and appraise the State Highway Commissioner of the County needs.

On August 26, 1955, a meeting of the Road Commission and Mr. Belknap, Engineer Manager, acting in a dual capacity representing the Planning Commission, was held. At this meeting, the Road Commission and the Engineer Manager unanimously went on record as approving the construction of the Toll Road. Six other projects in relation to highway extension widening and improvement, all within Oakland County, were approved for immediate action to relieve the acute congestion of traffic in our county caused not only by our own vehicles but, to a greater extent, by the mass of vehicles being dumped across our borders from the adjacent metropolitan areas. The traffic entering Oakland County from the north, northwest, northeast and from the east is an important factor in the present traffic load and all indications are that this load will increase tremendously in the future.

This area has long been labeled "the arsenal of democracy." The Federal Government has seen fit to establish Nike Bases in the vicinity. The truck and motor car and affiliated industries represent the economy of the nation. There is no substitute for hard-surfaced highways to handle the essentials required to maintain these automotive activities, get the manpower to and from their place of employment and provide adequate roads to the recreational areas so well-known and advertised in our county. The capacity of the expressways and other highways in Detroit and Wayne County to empty traffic into Oakland County, is staggering and Wayne County and the City of Detroit are still planning to increase the capacity.

Traffic surveys by different authorities and planning by the various commissions are a fine thing but, they do not build highways. The demand for adequate highways in Oakland County is here today, not two years from now. How we can get them soon is a sixty-four dollar question.

Mr. Ziegler was very courteous. In attendance at the meeting in his office at Lansing was Mr. Webber, Assistant Chief Engineer, and Mr. McMongale, Director of Traffic and Planning, of the state Highway Department. Mr. Brooks, Mr. Lamerson and Mr. Belknap of the Oakland County Road Commission and Mr. Lloyd Anderson and Mr. Don MacDonald from the Roads and Bridges Committee, attended the meeting. Mr. Ziegler was advised that the Oakland County Road Commission and Road Committee had gone on record approving the Toll Road and his opinion on this matter was requested. His reply was not too definite for or against but he did emphasize the intention of the State Highway Department of continuing their plans for new freeways. The six major improvements are construction projects, as agreed upon by the Road Commission and the Road Committee. Mr. Brooks will outline them in detail and give the reaction of Mr. Ziegler regarding them.

ROAD COMMITTEE
DON R. MACDONALD, Chairman

Mr. Lee O. Brooks, Chairman of the Oakland County Road Commission, explained the recommendations made to the State Highway Commissioner.

Moved by MacDonald supported by Reid the report be placed on file.

Atoms for Peace Passed by U.N.

Political Group Favors President's A-Agency by 53-0 Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS) —U. N. diplomats hailed today the 53-0 vote of the Political Committee on an 18-power Western resolution for launching the Eisenhower Atoms-for-Peace Agency.

* * *

The committee approved the resolution last night in a show of unanimity which encouraged further prospects for global cooperation in development of the atom for peaceful purposes.

The six-nation Arab bloc abstained in the vote on the resolution because Israel was a co-sponsor.

Russia supported the Western proposal even though Soviet plans for including Red China in the atomic agency were overwhelmingly rejected.

The adopted resolution calls for the convening of an 84-nation conference to discuss the final statute incorporating the agency. The 84 nations are the same group invited to the U. N. Atomic Conference in Geneva last August.

The resolution also provides for the summoning of a second nuclear party in two to three years.

The Political Committee is expected to take up today the question of atomic radiation and its threat to human beings.

Miner is about 5-feet, 7-inches tall, with white hair, blue eyes and of average weight. Some 15 neighbors and law officers are conducting the search.

Another Paper Opposes Meg Marrying Peter

LONDON (INS)—Another powerful and influential voice of the British press joined today the growing opposition to Princess Margaret's desire to marry Peter Townsend.

The Weekly Economist, which circulates in every important sphere of Britain and the Commonwealth, bluntly said that the Queen's advisers "deserve commendation" for making Margaret "struggle past every obstacle before she reaches her decision."

The independent liberal periodical weighed the dilemma with which the young princess has been wrestling for two weeks and declared it would be "a great pity" if she decided, she must go ahead and marry the divorced commoner.

The belief was growing in London, meanwhile, that Margaret could not put off much longer making her final decision known.

The Church of England primate must have told her she should forget the handsome war hero and follow her church's tenets and her duty to the crown rather than her heart.

Despite the two weeks of hard thinking, the meetings with Townsend and her official engagements, the tiny princess showed none of the strain last night when she attended a Convent Garden opera performance.

She looked every inch the glamorous and regal princess whom Britons hold so dear.

Detroit Doctor Given Party by His 'Children'

DETROIT (AP) — Dr. Maurice M. Wilde got a call Wednesday night to hurry over to Warren Village high school; that a faculty member had fainted.

He hurried over, and almost fainted when he got there.

Ushered into the auditorium, Dr. Wilde was greeted by 200 brate the 25th anniversary of their village townfolk there to celebrate "country doctor" among them. His wife Elsie, and their six children were there, and a big turkey banquet was ready in his honor.

Henry Fisher Jr. and Frank Domagalski capered across the auditorium stage — wearing baby clothes. They were the first two children Dr. Wilde delivered upon going to suburban Warren in October, 1930. Since then he has delivered 1,221 others.

Church Rite Explodes Mob Riots in Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Church services marking the anniversary of the Greek entry into World War II sparked violence in strife-torn Cyprus today.

* * *

A crowd of several hundred Cypriots of Greek origin formed after a service conducted in Nicosia's biggest church by Archbishop Makarios—leader of the Union-with-Greece movement in this British colony. The mob tried to smash through barbed wire barricades held by police and British troops. Three British commandos were hurt.

* * *

The jeering crowd hurled stones at the soldiers. The troops used fear gas to disperse it. No civilian casualties were reported.

In Famagusta, a crowd of several thousand people gathered after the local service and a bomb exploded. Police charged the crowd with batons and troops fired tear gas shells.

In Limassol, where the service was canceled on orders of the bishop, three British commandos were hurt after a mob formed and began stoning them.

Sees No Need for Explanation

Arthur's Acts Deemed Unimportant in World of Radio and TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Few incidents in television have moved me less than the news the other day that Arthur Godfrey had fired three more of his hired help.

* * *

It's true that you feel sorry for anybody who gets fired. But it's also true that if you or I get fired the event will hardly make the news—unless we shoot the boss or abscond with the treasury.

When Godfrey first began firing members of what used to be called his radio and television family, the public was enchanted by the mystery of why he did it. Godfrey explained that he was trying to improve his shows. A lot of people refused to accept his explanation.

* * *

On this round, when cornered by a reporter in Harrisburg, Pa., he said:

"Do I have to give reasons? I'm running this job and if I can't fire and hire people to suit myself, I'm going to quit myself. It's my show and when I see it's time to make changes, I make them."

* * *

In his asking, "Do I have to give reasons?" I choose to believe that Godfrey was questioning the point of further explanation. In the past he fired Julius La Rosa on the air and was bitterly criticized. He tried firing people privately and was criticized for that. He explained that he was trying to improve his shows—and many didn't believe him. He tried offering no explanation—and was cricitized for that.

Personally I'm not much of a fan of Godfrey's programs. As several people suggested by mail after I panned one of his shows, maybe I have a hole in the head. But, hole in the head or not, I think he's within his rights in firing anybody he desires without explanation to the public.

* * *

There was a time—back in the days when Godfrey maintained the theme that he and his employes were one big happy family—when it was necessary for him to explain why he'd changed his tune and kicked somebody out.

But by this time it's obvious that Godfrey's entertainment empire is not just one big happy family. So what's all the excitement about?

* * *

There are many important things happening in the world of television and radio today. But the relationship of Arthur Godfrey with his employes is not one of them.

Kuwait is producing more than 1,100,000 barrels of oil a day, an increase of 168,000 barrels a day over the 1954 average.

Wireless Phone, TV Predicted to Span From Coast to Coast in Near Future

WASHINGTON (INS)—Tens of thousands of telephone calls and "hundreds" of television programs may soon be transmitted simultaneously from coast to coast without using wires or coaxial cables.

* * *

This development in communications was disclosed by Clifton W. Phalen, president of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, in testimony before a Congressional subcommittee studying the impact of automation on American industry.

"Our scientists tell us they believe that one day a single one of thes wave guides will carry simultaneously tens of thousands of cross-country telephone conversations as well as hundreds of television channels," he said.

"Unlike wires and coaxial cables, these tubes possess the unique property of diminishing transmission losses as frequency rises, thus permitting use of much higher and a consequently wider range of frequencies," he added.

He also mentioned the Bell system's new solar battery, which was tried out in Americus, Ga., Oct. 4. "It is the first device. Oct. 4. "It is the first device efficiently to convert energy from the sun directly into electrical power.

"Undergoing tests at the same time, is a new 'rural carrier' system using various frequencies to carry five telephone conversations on the same wire at the same time."

* * *

Phalen's look into the future included a prediction that "ultimately" almost every telephone user in the country will be able to dial his own station-to-station long distance calls. That's now possible in only about one quarter of all calls outside local areas.

Phalen also foresaw installation of a special underseas cable to Europe, Alaska, and Hawaii.

However, Phalen insisted that "none of the improvements now being made and none of the developments that we foresee is of a nature that will revolutionize the (telephone) business or substantially change its present character."

There will soon be "fluctuations in employment" and a need for the "adjustment and retraining of workers."

But he pointed out that despite all the changes of the past 35 years, including a growing reliance on automatic machinery, Bell System employment since 1920 has risen from 229,000 to more than 612,000. The number of operators has nearly doubled in that time.

Excluding automobile sets, 2,429,018 radio receivers were sold at retail in the United States during the first six months of 1955 compared with 2,410,893 in the comparable period of 1954.

Youthful Vigor and Anti-Nazi Reputation Guarantees Polish Men Better Jobs

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Communist Poland is a young man's country today, and not all the women are happy about the way things are run.

Men 30 to 45 hold almost all jobs the party controls. Prime Minister Josef Cyrankiewicz, 45, has held top office seven years. Chief editors are in their 30s. Thaddeus Krachowsky, 36, supervises Orbis Corp., the state's version of the American Express Co. he operates night clubs, hotels, ticket agencies—and travels to the West frequently to pick up new ideas.

To hold an important job two things are important: youthful vigor and a record of having resisted the Nazis. Party membership helps but is not necessary; there are only 1,600,000 members in the 27 million population.

BUYS NECKTIE

The young party member differs from the Communist one sees in East Germany. He spends his first earnings buying a good necktie. The East German Red feels that he has to show his social leanings by throwing away his necktie.

The Pole, be he Communist or anything else, is finicky about his appearance. He understands the blue suit technique and at New Year's time much of Warsaw trots around in dinner jackets.

"The Polish man today thinks he is an almighty. He thinks it is enough to kiss our hand publicly when we start to dance and when the dance ends. That's as far as his etiquette goes.

"All this talk of the emancipation of women is nonsense. Surely, we can work in jobs but unless we are married, we cannot get a decent place to live and certainly no place where we can entertain a caller.

"Do the men do anything about that? They are busy strutting around and getting drunk. Every time we see an American, or an Englishman or a Frenchman, we discover that the Polish man of today has lost his manners."

* * *

A young party official countered:

"The women expect us to get everything done at once. We've been busy and we haven't any time for fancy things. The women blame us because there are not so many good dresses and coats and shoes in the shops. They forget that not long ago there weren't even any shops."

* * *

However, the battle of the sexes is going politically and socially, the cities and villages are teeming with kids. Somebody is getting along with somebody else.
