PICKS PEACEFUL SPOT — If Russia's lunar rocket landed in the moon area predicted for it, things should be quite cozy, with the Seas of Serenity and Tranquility possible resting places. A foghorn might be handy, however, with the Sea of Vapors nearby.

Ike and Top Officials Map Nikita Strategy

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower and other top government officials today discussed all aspects of the historic talks Eisenhower will start tomorrow with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

The President conferred for 75 minutes at the White House with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson and Llewellyn Thompson, U. S. ambassador to the Soviet Union. Several other State Department officials also sat in.

Meeting about 24 hours in advance of Khrushchev's scheduled arrival in Washington, the group thoroughly explored strategy for the Eisenhower talks with the Kremlin leader.

Khrushchev will take off for the United States at 7 a.m. (11 tonight Pontiac time), the government press office in Moscow announced today.

No details of the flight were announced. Khrushchev is expected in Washington at 10:30 a.m. (Pontiac time) Tuesday.

Eisenhower and Khrushchev are scheduled to meet at the White House tomorrow afternoon for their first discussion, for which 90 minutes has been set aside.

That will be shortly after the Communist chieftain arrives, packing the prestige of Russia's new scientific achievement, the weekend bullseye shoot to the moon.

In response to questions, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty described today's meeting as a general type of session "that the President and the people in the government have prior to the visit of any foreign official."

Hagerty added that the discussion "included all aspects of the upcoming visit, not only preced-

BUSY 2 DAYS

He returned three months later to announce that the stores disposed of $1,000,000 worth of merchandise on the two opening days.

Lyndall had been with Sears and Roebuck for 35 years. He worked in the company's chain stores throughout the country.

Nixon Claims They Failed 3 Other Times

Says Ill-Fated Tries Made During Past 2 Weeks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviets failed three times in the past two weeks in attempts to hit the moon with a rocket, Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today. The fourth try this weekend apparently succeeded.

Nixon told newsmen early today in New York there still was no official proof that the Soviet rocket hit the moon Sunday as the Soviets announced.

They congratulated the Soviets but discounted any military significance of the shoot. One said it would be easier for the Soviets to hit the moon than to hit New York.

Nixon said he could not reveal the sources of his information on the three recent failures.

'DON'T GET HYSTERICAL'

It was the first word from any source the Soviets had attempted recent moon shots, although there had been speculation some space venture was likely. Nixon added the new venture was "nothing to get hysterical about."

★ ★ ★

There was no immediate reaction from President Eisenhower.

Later this morning Nixon said that Americans while being courteous and polite to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, should speak out to him on major controversial issues.

Nixon, addressing the centennial session of the American Dental Assn., devoted his talk to Khrushchev's visit to the United States, which starts tomorrow.

"Courtesy and politeness do not and should not mean any hesitancy on our part in keeping the record straight where controversial issues are concerned," Nixon said.

★ ★ ★

Friendly Pet Is Dead

RUDY'S DEAD — "Rudolph" the tame deer that preferred people to animals, and lived at the Victor Betts home near Clarkston is dead. This was revealed today by conservation officers at Lansing who administered an anesthetic to the animal Sept. 1. This is an earlier picture of "Rudy" taken this spring when his friendly curiosity of the photographer revealed his tame nature.

Chilly Weather Here to Stay for Awhile

Brisk fall weather will continue in the Pontiac area, reports the U.S. Weather Bureau. Fair with little change in temperature is the prediction for tonight and tomorrow.

The low tonight will be 48 degrees and the high tomorrow will be 74.

The outlook for Wednesday is partly cloudy and generally a little cooler.

The five day forecast is for temperatures to average about five degrees below the normal high of 74 and normal low of 55. It will be a little cooler Wednesday with little change Thursday and Friday but warmer Saturday. Little or no precipitation is indicated.

At 1:15 the winds in downtown Pontiac registered 8 miles per hour southwest. The lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac recorded preceding 8 a.m. was 48. The reading at 2 p.m. was 72.

Rudy, the Tame Deer, Will Cavort No More

"Rudolph," the pet deer removed from the Clarkston area as a potential menace to children, is not frisking in the woods of northern Michigan.

He never made it. Death came minutes after he was drugged here by Conservation Department officials, it was revealed today. Because of the complaints of irate citizens of the area, State Senator L. Harvey Lodge is investigating the death.

"Rudy," as he came to be known, was found as an injured fawn by Victor Betts, of 6310 Shappie Rd., a year ago. Nursed back to health from his mowing-machine injuries, the deer became a pet, and close companion of the four Betts youngsters and their friends.

When the school bus came to take his young friends away each day, Rudy would show his disdain for higher education with a few nips at the tires. He made himself at home in the Betts household, relaxing on the sofa and looking out the window.

Two weeks ago Conservation Department officials said they would have to take him away. He was reaching the age when he might get mean and injure some of his small friends, they said.

One fed him a cigarette while the other jabbed with a sedative-containing needle. One shot in the flank and another in the neck, brought Rudy stumbling toward Betts. The animal fell at his feet, and died then, but everyone thought the drug had just taken its tranquilizing effect.

★ ★ ★

Conservation men claim there had been complaints about the animal, asking for its removal. Betts says he has canvassed the area, and no one wanted the pet removed, much less destroyed.

DEATH DISCOVERED

The animal's death was discovered by Mrs. Grace Christie of 3621 Hatfield St., Waterford Township, who checked into the animal's disposal after reading articles in The Pontiac Press.

R. A. MacMullan, director of research for the game division of the Conservation Department in Lansing, confirmed today by telephone that the cause of the Historic Space Venture Heralds Nikita's Arrival

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today hoisted a spectacular backdrop for Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to the United States with the announcement it has landed a historic rocket on the moon.

Timed on the eve of the Soviet chief's trip, the announcement by the Soviet press and radio said the 860-pound capsule crashed into the moon's surface at 2 minutes after midnight Moscow time.

That was 4:02 p.m. EST Sunday — only one minute behind Soviet calculations.

The Soviets did not disclose the exact time or site of the rocket launching, but newsmen estimated that it took off sometime early Saturday. They reckoned the capsule soared 236,160 miles to the moon in about 35 hours.

The rocket carried pennants bearing the Soviet hammer-and-sickle emblem and an inscription "Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, September 1959."

Khrushchev said today he will present Eisenhower a duplicate of the Soviet pennants which the Russians say their lunar rocket landed on the moon.

The Soviet news agency Tass said special measures had been taken to make sure the pennants bearing the emblem remained intact despite the terrific impact of the moon landing.

The United States served notice today that Russia's landing of a flag on the moon does not give the earth satellite to the Soviets.

In fact, the State Department said, there's a question whether any heavenly body can become the property of a nation here on earth.

The dramatic shot, sure to give Khrushchev's visit a sharp prestige boost, marked the first time man has lobbed a missile through space to hit a celestial target.

News of the flight was hailed on both sides of the Iron Curtain as a major scientific achievement.

In Jodrell Bank, England, Prof. Alfred Lovell, in charge of the world's biggest radio telescope, termed the moon rocket "a brilliant demonstration of the advanced state of Russian technology."

It was Jordell Bank that flashed first word that the Soviets had been successful in their moon shot.

American scientists congratulated the Soviet Union on her feat and expressed hope information gleaned from the rocket would be shared with the world.

Evidence obtained by Western world instruments backs up Russia's announcement that the Soviet moon rocket actually hit the moon, American space officials said today in Washington.

"We're satisfied," said a spokes-

2 Men Dead in Auto Crashes

Livonia Resident Dies in Lyon Twp.; Lapeer Collision Fatal

A Livonia man was killed in an auto accident in Lyon Township late Sunday night and one man died in a two-car collision in Lapeer County Saturday.

Dead are: Albert G. Kroetsch, 29, of 18376 Floral St., Livonia; and Ralph E. Van Brunt, 32, of 4899 Columbiaville Rd., Columbiaville.

Kroetsch was driving a motorcycle east on the U.S. 16 Expressway when he collided with two cars at about 11:15 p.m. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Vann Hospital in Brighton.

Also riding on the motorcycle was Lemoine Dodd, 35, of 12128 Laverne, Detroit. She was admitted to McPherson Hospital, in Howell, with leg and head injuries and is in fair condition.

Brighton Post Troopers said Kroetsch pulled out to pass a car driven by Boyd Sullivan, 31, of 7545 Pontiac Trail Walled Lake and struck the rear of Sullivan's car.

CRASH ON M24

Van Brunt was killed in a two-car collision Saturday night on M24 in Mayfield Township, five miles north of Lapeer.

Lapeer County sheriff's deputies said the driver of the other car was Orla Chase Jr., 29, of Grass Lake. He suffered head, chest and leg injuries in the mishap and was taken to Lapeer County General Hospital.

Officers said that Chase apparently drove off his side of the road, swerved back on and crossed the center line into the path of Van Brunt's car. He was too badly hurt to be questioned at the hospital, police said.

Courthouse Bids Okayed

Start Building Monday

Ground breaking ceremonies for the long-awaited county courthouse have been set for next Monday afternoon, after the Board of Supervisors today gave unanimous approval of new construction bids.

At the same time, indifference marked supervisors' acceptance of a social welfare investigation report which said "few inadequacies" were found in the operation of the county department.

According to Maurice J. Croteau, Pontiac supervisor who conducted the study, 30 families of some 200 cases he personally investigated for possible 'chiseling' were removed from the rolls as being ineligible for aid.

Supervisors dismissed the two-page report—which took months to prepare — without a single question being raised as to the department which puts the biggest drain on county funds.

However, a brief old-timer vs new supervisor feud developed as the 83 supervisors postponed de-

Western Europe Says:

Shot Only Slight Aid to Science

LONDON (UPI) — Experts in Western Europe said today Russia's rocket to the moon represented a great propaganda triumph of limited scientific value.

★ ★ ★

Leading figures in Asia, where the Communists have conquered two nations and partitioned one in the past 10 years and are now attacking two more, acknowledged the Soviet achievement with marked coolness.

Scientists in Britain were warm in their praise of the guidance system which enabled the rocket to hit a bulls-eye only 2,160 miles across at a range of about 230,000 miles.

Prof. A.C.B. Lovell, whose "radio telescope" at Jodrell Bank received the Russian rocket's signals up to the last moment, hailed it as a "brilliant demonstration of the advanced state of Russian science and technology."

Lovell expressed some curiosity about the exact means used to guide the rocket. He said the signals convinced his staff that it did not use late-firing retro-rockets of the type carried by similar U.S. space probes. These rockets correct the course of the missile in its last stage of flight.

"One can only assume that the Russians managed to guide the rocket in the middle course, earlier in its flight . . ," he said. "If it was guided in mid-course, this is something completely new. No one has even conceived of it as a possibility in this sort of experiment."

He noted that satellites like America's "paddlewheel" are probably of more scientific value than the Russian rocket, even though they are less impressive as a "demonstration of extraordinarily advanced technology."

Prof. Harrie Massey, chairman of Britain's National Committee on Space Research, also praised Russia's "remarkable success" but expressed regret that the time was only two days.

British officialdom was less impressed.

"I don't think many people are terribly interested," said Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd who left for New York to attend the U.N. General Assembly session about the time the rocket hit.

There was general agreement, however, that the rocket feat was a great boost for Soviet propaganda, coming as it did less than two days before Premier Nikita Khrushchev's arrival in the United States.

West German diplomats said the timing was meant to be "just another full-blast propaganda effort" rather than the occasion for serious negotiation on East-West differences.

Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru, whose country's borders are threatened by the Communists, raised the question of Russia's intentions toward the moon.

"A great achievement . . . great news, no doubt," Nehru said. "I hope the moon will survive."

The Dalai Lama, god-king of Communist-conquered Tibet, said the Russian achievement was "wonderful," but added that "it will be still more wonderful if that knowledge were to be used for the benefit of human beings."

Communists in Europe were jubilant about the Russian achievement, but in Asia even the Red reaction was mixed.

Other comments:

Humanitarian Albert Schweitzer —"Until now, the moon has given me only poetic dreams. I don't think humanity will become much happier when it has taken charge of the moon."

The Sydney (Australia) Sun— "It is easier to reach the moon these days than to reach international agreement."

Court Ground Breaking Will Take Place Monday

Indications were today that some freshmen supervisors would not let the record-high budget be approved without questions on employes' raises — a part of the budget — and other appropriations.

By a roll call vote of 75 to 0 this morning, the board voted to award the general construction contract for the more than $3 million courthouse to the O. W. Burke Co. of Detroit. Burke submitted a low bid of $2,061,000.

Today's vote was a far cry from the first one in June when the board tossed itself into a legal battle by accepting other than the low bidder. The vote then was 70 to 4 to award the largest of the three contracts to a local firm, with bringing more work to the area's unemployed as the reason.

The low bidder, in the first batch of bids originally taken in April, A. Z. Shmina & Sons of Detroit, objected and filed suit.

NO SUIT

This later was dropped upon the stipulation that new bids would be taken in the general and mechanican construction fields. Shmina did not submit a new bid among those opened last Wednesday.

David Levinson, Birmingham supervisor and chairman of the courthouse planning committee, today was careful to point out before the vote that Burke and Spitzley were the low bidders in their respective fields.

In sharp contrast to the flurry of questions raised in June, only two came from the floor this time.

One wanted to know the difference in the total of the three bids compared with the first set, and the other questioned how soon construction could begin.

The county has been in and out of court for more than four years in attempts to get a new courthouse to replace the 55-year-old downtown building.

After saying a change in specifications made it difficult to determine the exact spread between the first and second batch of bids, Levinson, on the other hand, gleefully had no trouble in replying to the second question.

"God willing," he said, "we will turn the first shovel of dirt next Monday at 2 p.m." Plans for a festive occasion immediately were pushed into action.

Following the announcement, a scattering of applause broke out from the floor. Earlier, as Levinson strolled to the rostrum, one supervisor remarked, "Here we go again."

Supervisors learned from a report from the Ways and Means Committee that there will be $3,036,892 in available funds to meet courthouse costs.

However, Levinson's resolution approving the Burke and Spitzley bids specified that the county had but $2,044,599 of these funds available as of Sept. 8.

MANY SOURCES

The balance, the committee's report showed, will come from the annual levying of a tenth of a mill the next two years, interest on funds invested, contracts receivable, and the sale of the downtown courthouse, land and other county-owned properties.

How these funds are to be raised has been a thorn in the county's side as a protesting group of taxpayers, which stalled the building plans in the first place, charged the county with "padding" budgets to accumulate surpluses. The Supreme Court this year cleared the county of this allegation.

"As a matter of policy, we never free a buck deer that has lost its fear of man. He is too dangerous, potentially, and might kill a child."

"Our men try to make it as painless for the persons emotionally involved," MacMullan continued. "If there was anything wrong in this case, it was the original act of taming the deer, and encouraging him to live in an unnatural state. I realize the animal was injured."

"There were complaints from parents in the area. If the buck had become mean and injured or killed a child, people would be on us for not doing our duty," MacMullan concluded.

Lodge, who is a member of the State Conservation Committee said "The incident of the death of this pet deer, and similar complaints make it mandatory that we make a full investigation into this matter with possible changes in the department as well as promoting new legislation."

But for Betts, even an investigation holds little solace. "It was like seeing one of my own children killed right in front of my eyes," he said.

HOW HIGH THE MOON? — Not so high anymore, according to Russia. This is the path the Soviets say their rocket took to become the first man-made object to land on a heavenly body. man for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

NASA at the same time said it had no information on any Soviet moon rocket failures preceding the successful attempt.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon in New York had told newsmen there were three such failures. He also commented that there was no official proof that the Soviet rocket hit the moon as Moscow announced.

Pravda, official Communist party newspaper, said "the second Soviet space rocket has reaffirmed the leading role of the U.S.S.R. in the highly important spheres of science and technology, in fathoming the mysteries of the universe."

Acclaiming the "latest remarkable successes of the Soviet Union," Pravda added "world public opinion emphasizes the tremendous importance" of Khrushchev's visit to the United States.

In Moscow, Soviet citizens stood tensely by their radios as step-by-step reports were broadcast of the trail-blazing flight.

Shortly before midnight, the Moscow radio announcer began counting "now just five minutes." "Now three minutes" and finally down to seconds.

At the stroke of midnight the chimes tolled from the Kremlin and the radio began blaring the national anthem.

Minutes after the deadline the radio began broadcasting concert music.

Finally at 12:35 a.m., the music ceased and the historic announcement was made—33 minutes after the rocket's reported landing.

Traffic Safety Meetings Begin

Series Seeks Causes for Michigan's Poorer Traffic Fatality Mark

The first of five regional traffic safety conferences, one of which will take place later this month in Royal Oak, began today in Grand Rapids.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams opened the initial conference to seek causes and cures for Michigan's deteriorating traffic death record.

The final meeting of the series will be in Royal Oak on Sept. 23. The conferences are sponsored jointly by the Michigan Citizens Highway Safety Action Committee, Grand Rapids Safety Council and State Saftey Commission.

The Royal Oak meeting may supply some answers to state traffic problems as Oakland County traffic deaths continue to remain substantially below the 1958 pace, while the state toll is soaring.

This is an outstanding record in view of the fact that the county traffic toll of 96 last year was the first in 10 years to fall below 100.

Speakers include Secretary of State James M. Hare and John Burge of Grand Rapids, chairman of the Citizens Action Committee.

A new feature will be a discussion by a panel of teenagers of attitudes of youth to the traffic problem.

Other regional meetings will be held at Midland, Sept. 16, Sault Ste. Marie Sept. 18, and Coldwater Sept. 21.

Net of Security Grips Capital

Washington Is Clamped Into Record Precautions for Nikita's Visit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Federal agents, trained military teams and metropolitan police spread a huge protective network here today in the tightest security screen ever erected in the nation's capital.

★ ★ ★

The grim purpose was to protect Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev who arrives tomorrow.

The far-flung precautions for Khrushchev's safety reached from the rooftops to the sewers. The most elaborate traffic restrictions in the history of Washington were ordered.

The principal fear of the security agents was that some aggrieved refugee from the Iron Curtain or irrational crank might try to bring physical harm to Khrushchev or create a mob scene to embarrass the Soviet leader and his host, President Eisenhower.

Security agents have visited every hotel, store and office building along the route that Khrushchev will take from Andrews Air Force Base to Blair House.

SPECIAL SQUAD

They have asked responsible officials in each building to make sure no stranger gains access to a roof or a window facing the parade route.

A special flying squad of security agents has been detailed to precede the official motorcade by a few blocks, ealing every manhole along the way so that no would-be trouble-maker can pop up out of the sewers.

The metropolitan police force has cancelled all leaves and days off. Its entire 2,500-man force will be available for duty. A police spokesman estimated that about 2,000 policemen actually will be stationed along or near the parade route.

★ ★ ★

About 500 National Guardsmen also will line the streets to help control crowds.

Hundreds of plainclothesmen will mingle with the spectators to watch out for any suspicious persons.

★ ★ ★

They have been instructed to be particularly alert for out-of-town cars and for persons bearing packages.

Communists Lose San Marino Election

SAN MARINO (AP) — The Christian Democrats and their Democratic Socialist allies held control of San Marino's Legislature today, beating the Communists in an election for the first time since World War II.

★ ★ ★

Crash Hospitalizes Pontiac Housewife

An 18-year-old Pontiac housewife is in satisfactory condition today at Pontiac General Hospital with neck injuries suffered in a two-car smashup Sunday on Auburn Ave. at S. Jessie St.

★ ★ ★

Esther Kline of 48 Green St. was a passenger in the car driven by her husband, Donald, 20, who told Pontiac Police he was waiting to make a left turn when struck from behind by a car driven by Perry L. Hammett, 24, of 112 Oakhill St.

Neither driver was injured, said officers.

The Day in Birmingham

Vandal Damage Placed in Thousands at Seaholm

BIRMINGHAM — Several thousand dollars worth of damage was wrought by vandals at Seaholm High School over the weekend, according to Birmingham Police Lt. Merlin Holmquist.

★ ★ ★

He reported that vandals broke into the school and literally wrecked the school library and home economics rooms.

Much of the damage to the home economics room was caused by water turned on in a sink and left to flood the room.

It appeared that rugs in the room were ruined by the water. Foodstuffs, including flour and macaroni, had been hurled all over.

In the library, paste and ink bottles had been smashed on tables, file cards scattered and piles of music records dashed to the floor.

Elsewhere in the school, the hands of a large wall clock had been bent out of shape, teachers' mail and othe rpapers scattered and virtually anything loose thrown from the closets.

Two of the marauders evidently returned to the scene of their havoc later. They left a note on one of the teacher's desks. It read:

"We didn't do it all, but two of us came back to straighten things up. We're sorry.
Signed:
the two of us.

It read: "This is what we think of Seaholm."

It looked like they tried to put the school out of business," said Holmquist. If that was the vandals' purpose, they failed. Classes were resumed as usual this morning.

Birmingham Police are continuing their investigation.

Birmingham will be required to take on a greater share of the cost of maintaining traffic lights on U.S. 10 within the city limits, but not until the next fiscal year starting July 1, 1960.

City commissioners at tonight's meeting will discuss a letter from the State Highway Department explaining that the state's share of the traffic light maintenance costs "has been greater than the percentage allowable under our standard formula which is applicable and now in effect in all other areas in the state."

He was able to forestall the increased cost to the city on the grounds that it had not been budgeted for during the current fiscal year.

But Gare's objection to the change on the grounds that U.S. 10 is a special case because it is an eight-lane highway was not accepted by highway officials.

The Birmingham Democratic Club will hold its first fall meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Community House, according to an announcement made by Mrs. John H. McVay, president.

The public is invited to attend the general membership meeting she said.

"Dollars for Democrats" will be the main topic of discussion.

Omar Hansen

The rosary will be recited at 9 p.m. tomorrow at William Vasu Funeral Home, Royal Oak.

Mr. Hansen suffered a heart attack while teaching at the Walsh Institute in Detroit Saturday. He was pronouced dead at Receiving Hospital, Detroit.

Surviving are his wife, Constance; two daughters, Barbara and Debbie; three sons, Omar Jr., John and Richard; and three sisters in New York. The children are all at home.

ural, but topics to be discussed by our side."

Meanwhile, members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee were working on their own preparations for entertaining Khrushchev at an hour-long tea party Wednesday afternoon.

They want to find out "what kind of man he is," said Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark), and they want to ask him some tough questions about Soviet behavior in world affairs.

About 60 members of Khrushchev's party of 100 already have arrived here, including most of the visiting Soviet newsmen and a few of the minor Soviet officials.

Khrushchev's U.S. trip will be covered more thoroughly by the Soviet press than any previous similar event.

HIS SON-IN-LAW

Two famous Soviet writers, Mikhail Sholohkov, author of the international best seller "Quiet Flows the Don," and Alexander Tvardovsky, poet and editor of the leading literary magazine "New World," also are in Washington.

Most of the Russian newsmen started writing stories yesterday. One went to the naval observatory to seek U.S. reaction to the Soviet moon rocket.

Another collected material for a dispatch on Eisenhower's personality and popularity.

Military men and nuclear experts were notably absent from the Khrushchev delegation.

This apparently was in keeping with the Russian's statement that he was coming on a peaceful mission and did not want to see U.S. military installations.

Will Also Elect 9 Potential City Officials

Novi to Vote on Incorporation Tomorrow

By DICK HANSON
Suburban News Editor

NOVI — Should the Village of Novi be incorporated as a home-rule city?

If the issue is approved at the polls, the city would take in the present village area, and a commission of nine duly elected members would draw up a charter for voters' approval.

The names of 17 candidates for the charter commission posts will appear on tomorrow's ballot. The nine candidates polling the most votes at this time will take office if incorporation is decided upon.

Supporters of incorporation claim that it will save tax dollars by eliminating township taxes and the duplication of offices filled by both village and township officials.

They also claim that as a city, Novi could offer more efficient services, and have a louder voice in county affairs.

Opponents to incorporation claim that increased services provided by a city would cost more, necessitating higher taxes instead of less for area residents.

As explained in a talk here Friday night by incorporation expert, William R. Gable of the University of Michigan Lecture Bureau, a city would not necessarily cost taxpayers more than the present form of local government. It would depend, he said, on the services provided. Regardless of whether a city or a village provides the service, the cost is the same, he explained.

The advantage to incorporation, according to Gable, is that the city form of government could better control the future of the area through proper zoning now. This would prevent a hodge-podge growth that would cause problems should incorporation be decided upon later.

Speaking very generally, Gable said that incorporation for the sake of limiting growth of surrounding communities by annexation would not work for the general good of the area.

He noted that "it a spirit of togetherness exists in Novi at this time and is expressed at hte polls, then incorporation will be approved by residents."

THIRD ISSUE ON BALLOT

Also to be voted on in tomorrow's election is whether zoning of 114 acres, owned by Arthur Heslip, bordering on both sides of the Chesopeake & Ohio Railroad track and north of Nine-Mile road be changed from agricultural (AG) to M3 which would permit general manufacturing on the site.

'59 State Fair in the Black

Fourth Largest With Attendance, Piles Up $26,000 Profit

DETROIT (AP)—The giant tent city that housed the Michigan State Fair was a ghost town today as officials happily added up figures and announced that the fair operated in the black.

General Manager Donald L. Swanson estimated a profit of $26,000, making 1959 the fourth year in the last five in which the annual event has made money.

The 10-day attendance total was 796,915, fourth largest of the fair's 110-year history. The record was set in 1956 when 821,656 went through the turnstiles.

An expected record attendance, predicted when daily marks were shattered twice in the first four days, failed to materialize because of unseasonal hot weather and the three-day Detroit newspaper strike, Swanson said.

Fair officials said the estimated $26,000 profit will go back to the state's general fund. The state appropriated $765,000 for the fair's operation this year.

The fair paid out a record $125,000 in premiums to exhibitors.

Nab Driver Who Fled Not Paying for Gas

ROMEO — A speeding driver, who had his car filled with gas here and fled without paying for it, lost his race with a Romeo State Police officer early yesterday when his motor failed at about 120 miles per hour in the center of Almont, eight miles away.

James R. McDonald, 20, of St. Clair Shores, had his tank filled with gasoline and drove off leaving the attendant with the gas cap in his hand. Cpl. Henry DeLooff of the local state police post was summoned and took off after the speedster.

In the center of Almont, McDonald's car threw out a cloud of smoke, sputtered and then missed the curve at the north end of town. Cpl. DeLooff caught up with McDonald and he was lodged in Macomb County Jail on a charge of reckless driving. He was to be arraigned today.

McDonald paid for the gasoline.

Rev. Auchard Officiates at Wilkins-Slais Ceremony

ORCHARD LAKE — An altar decked in white gladioli and mums was the setting for the Saturday afternoon wedding of Judith Carol Wilkins and Robert J. Slais.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred W. Wilkins of 4402 Pine Tree Rd. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Slais of 6730 Meadowfield Rd.

MRS. ROBERT J. SLAIS

A gown of pure silk organza with a fitted bodice, lavaliere neckline trimmed in alencon lace, and short sleeves was worn by the bride. The princess lines of her alencon lace appliqued skirt ended in a chapel sweep. A large bow was fastened to the back of the waistline.

Her headpiece was a crown of alencon lace and pearls securing a fingertip veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and roses.

Assisting the bride as maid of honor was Joanne Fairman of Orchard Lake. Bridesmaids were Kaye Wilkins, a cousin of the bride, of Caro, Sue Ann Thompson of Orchard Lake, also a cousin of the bride, and Sylvia Dal Pian of Detroit. The bride's cousin, Beth Marie Baldwin of Tawas City, was flower girl.

Duties as best man were performed by the bridegroom's brother, Thomas. Ushers were James Wells and William Grames, both of Pontiac, and the bride's brothers, Fred.

Garage Destroyed by Gas Spark Blast

LAPEER — A man who had been washing his motorcycle with gasoline cranked the motor causing an explosion and fire which destroyed a two-car garage here Saturday night. It also damaged the house to which it was attached.

Allen Smith, 25, was cleaning his motorcycle in the garage of a house at 714 Liberty St. When he tried to start the motor a spark set fire to the gasoline. The blaze spread to the gas tank which blew up.

Smith, unhurt, ran to the fire hall about a block and a half away while a neighbor played a garden hose on the flaming building. Local firemen brought the blaze under control.

The back wall and attic of the house were damaged, firemen said. Two apartments in the house, owned by Russell Smith, also were damaged by water in the fire which destroyed the garage.

No estimate of loss was immediately available.

Eden's Book Explains 1956 Invasion of Suez

LONDON (UPI)—Former Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden has written a book telling his side of the Anglo-French invasion of the Suez Canal in 1956, it was reported today.

Eden headed the Conservative government which sent British troops into the canal zone. International criticism of the act forced Eden's premature retirement.

What Every Woman Knows

She Paints Curvy Pin-Ups Better

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Joyce Ballantyne is a painter of pin-up girls. This is an art form that most women look down upon, and most men leer up to.

Unlike Joyce Kilmer, who wrote "Trees" and was male, Joyce Ballantyne writes her own ticket and is all girl. Rounded, blonde and pretty as the top of a Yale boy's calendar.

It seems incongruous that she, a girl, should draw pin-ups. And a little sacrilegious.

"Sacrilegious, maybe. Incongruous — never!" said Joyce emphatically. "A woman recognizes what makes another woman sexy the moment she looks at her. A man isn't so quick to spot sex appeal. He idealizes a woman first, and visualizes her in a swim suit later.

"I can paint a pin-up girl faster than a male artist can, for the simple reason that when a model stands for me, I can see immediately what makes her physically appealing to a man — and paint it.

"A man sketches her first as he idealizes her. Then he has to paint out the halo."

PREFER TO BE SKINNY

The funny thing about women is this. Although they know at a quick glance what makes another woman attractive to men, they refuse to follow their own insight.

"Most women prefer to be skinny, like fashion models, than hourglass shaped, like pin-up girls.

"Why?" she shrugged. "It's an old story, but true. Women are more concerned about looking chic to other women, than looking sexy to men. I have never understood it. I don't approve of it. But I'd bet my last pay-check that it's true.

"For instance, did you ever notice the proportions of the genuine pin-up? She always has rather large, rounded thighs. Yet every girl I know with large thighs — even the models for the paintings — wouldn't be caught dead in a bathing suit.

"Her boyfriend or husband likes her shape, but the models in Harper's Bazaar are thin. Men are great, but Harper's is bigger than all of us."

REDUCING TABLETS

Because of the accent on fashion, most models for this phase of Joyce's calendar and billboard art come from Chicago, rather than New York City ("midwest girls are not quite so style-scrawnied"); but pin-up models are getting more difficult to find anywhere ("pride, ulcers or reducing tablets — it's always something.")

Besides her paintings of pretty girls, Joyce has worked for 16 years as illustrator for "Sports Afield." For that magazine, she takes rigorous bear-hunting expeditions, spear-fishing voyages, dog trial sojourns, painting bears, fish and trying dogs. Although she is not exactly the outdoorsy type, and still requests a stepladder when mounting a horse, Joyce finds this a refreshing change from pin-up art work.

She also has a husband, TV M. C. Jack Brand, two daughters, a German shepherd, Mexican parrot, Cappuchian monkey and parakeet. And a part interest in an art gallery-gift shop called "Jonathan Winter's Tree House," with the famed comedian.

All these — the sports job, the family, the pets, the shop — are the delights of her life. But pin-up girls are the Ballantyne bread and butter. Because "long after we are all of us gone, men will still be looking at pin-ups and wondering, where are the girls with form divine. . ."

China Claims India Entered Red Land

TOKYO (AP)—Red China accused India Sunday of sending troops into an area which even Indian maps show as Chinese.

Radio Peiping said Foreign Minister and Deputy Premier Chen Yi made the charge before the closing session of the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress.

★ ★ ★

Chen said India was using "two-faced tactics" in her border dispute with China. He rejected an Indian proposal that Red troops withdraw from Longju, a disputed border post on the Tibetan frontier, but added that China was willing to discuss Longju.

★ ★ ★

The outpost was overrun by Red Chinese troops Aug. 26 after a skirmish with an Indian border patrol. In a note to Peiping last Thursday, the Indian government proposed that Longju be made a temporary no-man's land while its status is discussed.

Red Boss to See Henry Wallace's Corn Company

DES MOINES (AP) — A company founded by former Vice President Henry A. Wallace will provide a brief stop-off for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev Sept. 23.

Khrushchev plans to visit the Pioneer Hi-Bred Corn Co. plant, founded in 1926 by Wallace at Johnston, Iowa, just northwest of Des Moines.

The stop at Pioneer was a last-minute addition to Khrushchev's Iowa schedule.

James Wallace, 63, Henry's brother and president of Pioneer, has told Washington officials, however, that because of the shortness of the visit "the stop will accomplish very little. But he will try to show him what he wants to see in the time he has."

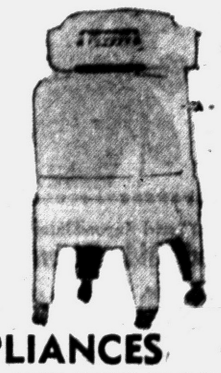

Pioneer, one of the biggest hybrid seed corn producers in the world, was founded on Henry Wallace's own experiments.

South America has a grasshopper which lives, lays its eggs and feeds in water. Scientists believe that the insect is in the evolutionary process of changing from a land to a water creature.

Politics and Finance in Suez Canal Loan

There is more to Egypt's arranging a loan from the World Bank for improving the Suez Canal than the mere formality. There are political aspects. The Canal is an international thoroughfare owned by Egypt but closed to Israeli shipping by order of President NASSER.

★ ★ ★

Back in September, 1951, the Security Council of the United Nations adopted a resolution calling on Egypt "to terminate the restrictions on the passage of commercial shipping and goods through the Suez Canal wherever bound, and to cease all interference with such shipping beyond that essential to the safety of shipping in the canal itself."

★ ★ ★

Another point is that a loan would not be needed if the Egyptian government used canal revenue for its improvement instead of taking large sums for projects having no connection with it. Admittedly the canal itself is as well run, if not better, than before nationalization and improvements are ahead of schedule.

★ ★ ★

Officially a state of war exists between Israel and Egypt which NASSER claims gives him the right to bar Israeli shipping from Egyptian territorial waters. Israel counters with a 1951 U.N. resolution which declares that neither Israeli nor Egypt "can reasonably assert it is actively a belligerent" and that Egypt has no right to bar Israeli shipping on the ground of self-defense.

★ ★ ★

Israel is a member of the World Bank and there are also other members who would not want to see the bank's money invested in this restricted waterway. The case may be brought before the U.N. Security Council again where, if it comes to a showdown, the Western nations would have to stand for freedom of navigation.

Reflect Past History About Clinton River

It was here that the Indian trail forded a stream that offered great possibilities in water power, then the foundation of all industry.

An initial action of our city's first settlers in 1818 was to build dams to impound the waters of that stream, so they could drive the wheels of the first saw and grist mills.

In this manner the primeval forest was converted into lumber to build houses. The wheat and corn that our pioneers raised on the forest clearings was thus turned into flour for their principal sustenance.

At one time three of these mill ponds were within our limits.

Steam power was in its infancy, and electric power yet to be discovered, so without this river there would have been no Pontiac here.

First called the Huron River in honor of the Indian tribe, the name was changed to Clinton out of respect to the founder of the Erie Canal, on which most of our early settlers made part of their trip here after 1825. The name Huron was then transferred to another Oakland County river.

The Clinton also served as the outlet for our sewage, from the time when outhouses dotted its banks, to the present—in a modernized way.

It has usually disposed of our flood waters in a manner that has been quite satisfactory. Without it, where would we dispose of this surplus?

When a deluge forces it to go on a rampage, don't blame the Clinton. Just reflect on what it has done, and is doing, for Pontiac.

ALTHOUGH they aren't being advertised as traveling the smoke farther, as being equipped with a thinking man's filter, as being minted or mentholated or as being markedly mild, cigars are being bought in increasing quantities.

"TIRED blood" is being woefully neglected. There is no campaign to raise funds to try to do something about it.

"Come, See and Forget About Conquering"

David Lawrence Says:

Red Boss Still Playing His Game

WASHINGTON — The American people are entitled to know the game Soviet Premier Khrushchev is playing.

LAWRENCE

It is a game of diversion — rockets to the moon, protracted conferences on disarmament and nuclear tests and "summit" talks that, if carried on for years, are intended to make the American people grow weary of international tension and finally to accept the unmoral and unlawful conquests of millions of peoples now enslaved.

There are two instruments of power in the world today that can affect the peace of mankind. One is military, and it is designed to act as a deterrent to physical aggression. The other is moral force which when developed to full strength can influence whole nations and cause them to rise up against their oppressors.

Khrushchev's game is to deader the moral force that has made liberty-loving nations so articulate in world history in behalf of human freedom.

Khrushchev's game is to make it appear that, by exchanges of visits, by expansion of trade, by constant talk of "peaceful coexistence," Americans are abandoning their dedication to moral force. This is expected to discourage revolt behind the Iron Curtain. For, if America becomes indifferent, the captive nations, it is presumed, will lose all hope.

Khrushchev's game is based on a belief that Americans are influenced only by selfishness and materialism—solely by the desire of businessmen for more trade—and that such idealism as remains can be anesthetized by wearisome and exhausting "negotiations," or by implied threats of war through emphasis on missile and rocket development.

Khrushchev's game reaches a climax in propaganda intensity this week as he visits the United States. The dispatches and radio reports from America telling of "enthusiasm" for him, official honors paid and courtesies extended, together with news pictures of high American officials fraternizing with Khrushchev, will be displayed throughout Eastern Europe and behind the Iron Curtain, generally, as meaning approval of Communist policies by the people of the United States and their government.

What can the American people do about it all? Various types of protests have been planned for the next two weeks and will be publicized widely. These devices are effective psychologically to some extent abroad, but it is here in Washington that the biggest opportunity has been missed.

Congress speaks for the American people. It should have decided to stay in session throughout the Khrushchev visit to allow for an extensive debate on the "cold war" issues. This would have told the world in unequivocal terms that the American people have not forgotten what happened in Hungary and East Germany. It would have furnished an opportunity to ask Khrushchev openly what has become of the millions of persons exiled to concentration camps behind the Iron Curtain, and to expose to full view the operations of his autocratic government.

For moral force is potent when it effectively expresses a nation's ideals, and when it seeks by debate and discussion to underline and emphasize the basic principles of human freedom.

Actually there is only one issue. It is the self-determination of peoples everywhere—the right of the people to vote in free elections and choose their rulers. In the Soviet Union, only one party can vote and military duress is applied to suppress free speech and debate.

The Country Parson

Dr. William Brady Says:

Banana for the Baby Will Help Digestion

In Little Lesson No. 3, "So You Have Indigestion?," I say: "For years I have recommended (in the New Brady Baby Book) feeding the baby bananas daily from the age of four months, especially the baby who has not thrived well and perhaps suffers from so-called chronic intestinal indigestion.

DR. BRADY

"A distressing retardation of growth and development in infancy and early childhood is known as celiac disease (celiac means abdominal). Another name for it is chronic intestinal indigestion, and when it is very bad it is called marasmus, which means wasting. Today a more familiar name for the condition is malnutrition!"

Some years ago, Dr. Sidney V. Haas published in the American Journal of Disease of Children a paper titled "The Value of the Banana in the Treatment of Celiac Disease."

Dr. Haas didn't mention vitamins, although most physicians at that time not only knew about vitamins but could spell and pronounce the word correctly and autocratically assert that "you get all the vitamins you need from a well balanced diet."

Dr. Haas's contribution, I think, revolutionized infant feeding, eliminated the algebra and brought common sense into the business.

★ ★ ★

"My first child, a girl, was started on banana at the age of four weeks," writes an Illinois mother. "She loved it. The second, a boy, was started at the age of three weeks. He had, and still has, a big appetite. Both children, now four and two years old, eat a banana for lunch six days out of seven. Neither has ever had any bowel trouble, although mother-in-law insists bananas are binding. The children do not care much for sweets and seldom get them."

★ ★ ★

"I started feeding my three children a spoonful of ripe banana daily at the age or two or three weeks," writes a Minnesota mother, "and gradually increased the daily amount until they ate from one-half to a whole banana daily at the age of two or three months. My children never had colic and never had a suppository, enema or physic of any kind. They never needed such interference."

About the time Dr. Haas published his monograph Robert McCarrison, M.D., D.Sc., published his famous Studies in Deficiency disease. He said: "One of the most constant results of food deficient in vitamins is colitis. It is so frequent that it may rank as a cardinal sign of vitaminic deficiency."

The British nutrition authority emphasized the "absence of vitamin B alone" although there are usually other deficiences along with B deficiency.

Ripe banana or dried banana powder contains some vitamin A, C, D and E, but its remarkable remedial and preventive value is probably due chiefly to its vitamin B content.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Voice of the People

Several Protest Transport of Tame Deer to Wild Area

The Betts family has my sympathy for the loss of their pet deer, Rudy. We hope this is investigated by the head of the department.

Mrs. E. R.

Ortonville

I extend my heartfelt sympathy to the family that had its pet deer taken from them. The Conservation Officers did what they thought was right, but why wasn't it put in a zoo or sanctuary, so it wouldn't be such a drastic change for the pet and solace to the family?

Lover of God's Creatures

I'm sorry for the Betts family that took in the fawn, kept it a year and had it taken away. The Conservation Department must have little to do to spend time and money transporting a deer that is well and happy in an area where there's so much cold and starvation of wild life. The deer was free to come and go as he chose. If nothing else, it could have been kept around here in its own territory.

J. Downes

Milford

A fawn that couldn't have survived without the care it received from the Betts family is taken to an area where winter is the worst and feed the scarcest. How ridiculous.

Why wasn't he released closer to his own environment where he'd have more chance for survival. Allowances should be made in our inadequate laws to protect citizens' rights when they befriend injured wildlife.

M. Bruce

1270 Malcolm

Since when has the Conservation Department had the right to invade a person's property and sanctity of his home? Mr. Betts' deer was so tame it came to the house and played with the children, it could run over the countryside when it wanted to, and wasn't confined in any way.

Now the great State of Michigan decides it needs another deer to add to its population in the Upper Peninsula. I understand there are so many now this year is open season on both male and female. Wild deer are running loose in this area, but a tame one must be taken and turned loose in the wilds to be shot.

Readers Disagree About the Tigers

I agree with Hillington Hartick and if the Tigers had a real good manager they would be where Chicago is.

★ ★ ★

Hartick spoke about the 'okers that play first base for Detroit and this Dykes kept them batting second which was another joke as their batting averages are .246, .210, .190 and all the time he had Bolling who hits .265 and does not run like he was in the three-legged race.

★ ★ ★

The three of them killed more rallies than any three in the big leagues and everyone found it out but Dykes.

Also Pained

In answer to Hillington Hartick, the Tigers don't need a new manager. If they had not had Bill Norman for a manager at the first of the season, they would be in first place.

What do you mean they need a first baseman? Gail Harris and Gus Zernial are two of the best. They don't need a new shortstop. Rocky Bridges was on the lineup for the All-Star team.

Ex-Southerner Backs Integration

I was reading in The Press what the South is doing and it floors me. I don't understand why they don't let the Negroes go to their schools and ride their buses. Color only goes skin deep and, besides, whites don't have to associate with them.

★ ★ ★

I came from Kentucky myself. My husband is a Yankee. I always said my child would never go to school with a Negro, but when she went there were two in her room and I adjusted myself to the situation and told her not to ignore them and if no one would play with them, she was to be nice to them anyway. So far it has worked out.

★ ★ ★

The Negro has a right to be educated, too, and if the white Southern people can have them cook, wash, iron, scrub and do all their dirty work, they should have some feelings for them, also. If they would think it over, it would be a more equal South.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Signature Gives Column Authority

Orien Fifer is typical of progressive editors who sign their columns to add the extra authority that the "head man" offers. Readers prefer such "branded" merchandise. And they also like to have a brief course under their college Prexy, for it inflates their ego to boast about having studied under the president.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

★ ★ ★

He writes a snappy signed column each day which is topnotch. For he uses a clever "change of pace" in his literary style, thus alternates a longer paragraph with a terse single line of copy.

DR. CRANE

Many other editors also write a signed column for their newspapers and I think this is not only desirable but wanted by the readers.

For the editor is really the Prexy of the vast educational "Print University" which is what a newspaper actually amounts to.

Back in 1922-23, I covered the five Great Lakes States as an organizer for the alumni of Northwestern University.

It was my job to set up state and county committees in preparation for our drive for funds by which our Chicago branch campus was to be constructed.

So I called on professional men, like surgeons, dentists, judges and engineers, as well as teachers and business executives.

"Dr Crane," was their common lament, "I wish I could have studied under President Walter Dill Scott.

"I heard him give a few chapel talks, but I would like to be able to boast that I had actually been a classroom student of his, for he was such a famous man."

Well, you newspaper and magazine editors are likewise top men at the helm of your "Print University." We readers repose extra belief in what you say, so we relish your signed columns and signed editorials.

If you write an editorial but don't sign it, then most of us may not know who is the author thereof, so we don't pay as much attention.

★ ★ ★

READERS WANT AUTHORITY

For example, during the past 20 years I have also written a quiz column called "Test Your Horse Sense."

A number of large newspapers run both this "Worry Clinic" feature as well as my "Horse Sense" column.

In a few cases, they have then left my name off the latter. Note what happens:

"Dr. Crane," began the superintendent of a large school system in Pennsylvania. "I didn't realize you authored the 'Horse Sense' quiz feature.

"Why, I thought it was just some filler concocted by a cub reporter. If I had known it was written by a double doctor like yourself, I'd have assigned it long ago to the students in our high schools."

Several times other school executives have made that very same comment after learning who authored the "Horse Sense" test.

So I mention this fact to show that the American public prefers branded goods, for the manufacturer's name creates confidence.

It's like using the Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval and similar evidences of authority. It is regarded as a guarantee.

So won't more of you editors please give us signed columns?

And students still bemoan the fact they can't study under their college prexy for even a single term, so won't you prexies teach a freshman course?

Moldmakers Strike Enters Second Day

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The nationwide strike of some 2,000 moldmakers against 26 companies and seven subsidiary firms of the glass container manufacturing industry went into its second day today with no further negotiations in sight.

★ ★ ★

The strike got under way Sunday at noon. The moldmakers are members of the American Flint Glass Workers Union. Picket activity was reported at most of the industry's plants.

Federal mediator William Rose said negotiations "were discontinued indefinitely."

★ ★ ★

Rose said the main issue was an industry demand that grievances not settled at the local level should be submitted to binding arbitration.

Another stumbling block was the industry's rejection of a union proposal for an 13½ cents an hour wage increase. Under the old contract, moldmakers averaged $2.80 an hour.

Curtiss-Wright Air-Car Suddenly Soars From Blueprint Into Reality

(Sometime this fall or early winter, sleek futuristic machines with no wheels will begin floating off a production line in South Bend, Ind. Here's a report on the Curtiss-Wright Air-Car, which has suddenly skipped off the dreamer's drawing board into reality.)

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

WOODRIDGE, N.J. (AP) — "The economy car of the future."

That's how officials of Curtiss-Wright Corp. describe the Air-Car —a hybrid vehicle that floats on a cushion of air and skims with the greatest of ease across mud flats, ice, swamps or open water.

★ ★ ★

But don't go out and sell the family car in anticipation.

The Curtiss-Wright Air-Cars that will come off the production line at South Bend, Ind., late this year are not designed for use on the highway.

The company hopes they'll whisk petroleum geologists across desert sands, transport ranchers across huge western farms and carry sportsmen to remote hunting and fishing spots.

MULE SUBSTITUTE?

They may deliver the mail in swamp areas where today only a mule can get through.

The people at Curtiss-Wright admit it will be a long time before the American family takes to the road in an Air-Car, although they insist that day eventually will come.

Right now, you couldn't register one for travel on a public highway and there is some dispute about whether an aircraft pilot's or a driver's license is required for operation.

But the principle of air cushion support works, and the company has a prototype Air-Car to prove it. It looks like a cross between a World War II landing craft and a World War I tank and is put through its paces at the Curtiss-Wright airport here.

Two 185-horsepower aircraft engines spin aircraft propellers in two wells fore and aft of the cabin. The powerful blast downward builds up an air cushion which lifts the vehicle 6 to 12 inches off the ground.

Deflecting some of the airstream to the rear produces forward speeds as high as 60 m.p.h.

Motors and the whirling propellors beating the air make a tremendous racket. During demonstration for a reporter, a test pilot thundered up and down a runway, bringing traffic on a nearby highway to a stop as curious drivers pulled off to watch the monster in action.

SEATS FOUR PEOPLE

The prototype seats four people abreast in a wide cabin. Controls look like those in an airplane. Air escaping from rear vents propels it forward; air blasts from side louvers steer it to the right or left. Front louvers provide effective braking action.

The Air-Car can move sideways like a crab and is just as efficient over water, mud or sand as it is above hard ground. But it can't jump boulders rising higher than a foot or any similar obstruction.

While the prototype has a heavy ponderous look, the first production models will have the sleek streamlining of a speedboat—with style features suggesting Europe's expensive sports cars.

★ ★ ★

How much will the Air-Car cost? Probably quite a bit more than an automobile—at least at the start. But, say Curtiss-Wright officials, when and if a small, family-sized vehicle is mass produced, it should cost less than the lowest-priced conventional auto.

Prices of the Air-Cars to be built this year have not been made public.

One big item in keeping costs down is the car's simplicity—it has no springs, axles, brakes, wheels, tires, transmission, shock absorbers or complicated steering mechanism.

FIRST BIG PRODUCER

Curtiss-Wright is the first big manufacturer in the United States to schedule production of airborne cars on a commercial scale.

Several other major U.S. manufacturers — notably Ford and Chrysler — are experimenting with vehicles of the Air-Car type and a few small firms plan limited production.

An airborne vehicle called the "Hovercar" is being produced commercially by Saunders-Roe Ltd., British aircraft manufacturer.

Dr. Minard W. Stout, vice president and research chief of Curtiss-Wright, says potential uses are so vast they stagger the imagination.

If Air-Cars became common, one spectacular result would be their effect on highway construction cost. No hard surface would be required, just a flat sod or other dust-free right-of-way that Curtiss-Wright says could be built for $500 a mile. That compares with $150,000 per mile for current hard-surface highway.

Ottawa County to Laud State's Chief Justice

GRAND HAVEN (UPI) — Chief Justice John R. Dethmers of the Michigan Supreme Court will be honored in Ottawa County with a day-long celebration Oct. 28, county officials said today.

The Ottawa County Board of Supervisors has approved a request to hang a portrait of Justice Dethmers in the circuit court room where portraits of former circuit judges now hang.

Dethmers, who is a former Ottawa County prosecutor, will be honored at a "koffee klatsch" in Zeeland in the morning, at a luncheon in Holland at noon, a coffee hour in the county building here in the afternoon and a dinner at the Spring Lake Country Club that night.

★ ★ ★

Dethmers' portrait will be unveiled at the dinner. The "John R. Dethmers Day" celebration is being sponsored by the Ottawa County Bar Assn.

FDR's Crib Gets Use in Summer Cottage

CAMPOBELLO, New Brunswick (UPI) — A heavy wooden crib once used by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt as an infant was put back in use this summer.

Christopher C. Smith, 18-month-old son of the head of the National Arts Foundation of New York, Dr. Carlton Smith, slept in the crib at the Roosevelts' summer cottage on this island.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called *Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Rural Women Just Walk Out

Divorce Rate Bad for City Wives

NEW YORK (AP)— Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Here's a marital oddity: More rural wives than city wives desert their husbands in bad times, but far more city wives than country wives generally seek divorces.

Charge Israeli Planes Fired on Egyptian Liner

CAIRO (AP)—The Cairo press and radio charged Israeli planes fired warning shots at an Egyptian airliner over the Gulf of Aqaba Sunday, and said Arab officials are taking steps to prevent such incidents.

An Israeli spkesman in Tel Aviv denied Israeli planes had fired on the airliner. He said the plane was in Israeli air space and Israeli planes flew to the area but did not fire.

Moon Rocket Dust Reported by Reds

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Radio Budapest said today scientists of the Hungarian Observatory in Budapest spotted a dust cloud raised on the moon when the Soviet rocket landed.

★ ★ ★

The broadcast added that a black ring was visible for more than an hour after radio signals stopped on impact. Hungarian scientists expressed belief this was a new crater cut by the rocket into the loose surface of sand and rock on the moon.

★ ★ ★

Next Step Says Red

Plan Moon Observatory

LONDON (AP)—A leading Soviet astronomer said today the next step in the preparation for landing people on the moon is to set up a robot observatory there.

Aleksandr Mikhailov, director of the Pulkovo Astronomical Observatory was quoted by Moscow radio as saying: "landing of the Soviet Lunik has proved experimentally it is possible to set up an automatic station on the moon which will record physical and astronomical observations and transmit them to the earth.

Prof. Markov of the Pulkovo Observatory said Lunik II should yield important information on the makeup of the moon.

"Science can draw some basic conclusions about the nature of the moon and its structure when instruments of the rocket have answered the highly important question as to whether the moon has a magnetic field," Markov said in an interview on Moscow radio.

Another scientist, Prof. Boris Danilin, told the radio interviewer the moon rocket would help determine the intensity of cosmic rays "and perhaps even answer the question as to where these mysterious messengers of the universe spring into being."

Schmidts Use Family Plan

Save Money at College

The first to snap up Portland University's new family plan, they are getting this education bargain: Four tuitions for the price of two. It's such a bargain the two brothers and two sisters could afford to buy a house.

For the school year beginning this week, the university decided to slash its rates for members of the same family who attend at the same time.

The first member of the family to enroll pays full tuition of $600, the second pays two-thirds of that, and the third only one-third. Any other member gets free tuition.

Their father is Richard Schmidt, a department manager at a Salem, Ore., finance company, who said he had a hand in the decision of the four children to buy a house near the campus.

The four students now are remodeling the house, will live and eat there, and further will cut expenses by renting rooms to other students.

The family plan — and the house — probably will come in handy for Schmidt for a long time.

He and his wife have seven other children, ages ranging from 5 to 17. Schmidt said he plans for them all to attend the university.

Isaac Newton Wins Election as 'Immortal'

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (UPI) — A worldwide election has been won by Sir Isaac Newton.

The balloting was conducted by the University of Bridgeport among 1,116 persons in 50 countries to choose 25 "immortals of science" whose names will be inscribed on the university's new Hall of Science.

★ ★ ★

Newton polled the most votes, followed closely by Pasteur, Galileo, Darwin, M. Curie, Archimedes, Copernicus, Faraday, Mendel and Aristotle.

One name will be added annually for the next 25 years. Scientists qualify 10 years after their deaths so the late Albert Einstein soon will be a candidate.

The government's concerned over reports showing that half of us live beyond our means. A cynic adds: "Look who's talking!" . . . Safety slogan: "Isn't it better to come to a dead stop — than to come to a stop, dead" —Earl Wilson.

Defendant Wins Case With Special Evidence

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (UPI)—It cost him almost $50 to do it, but Stefan Lorant, 58, of Lenox, got himself acquitted on a charge that he had gone through a stop sign. If he lost the case, it would have cost him $3.

The professional author and amateur photographer submitted pictures which he said set him back nearly $50 to prove that the sign was obscured by a tree.

Rebel Troops on Move in Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Large - scale Communist troop movements were reported today between the North Viet Nam border and the northern Laos defense headquarters at Sam Neua.

A military communique said government patrols had discovered a large movement of guerrillas of the Laotian Communist Pathet Lao party in a wedge-shaped area 30 to 35 miles north and east of Sam Neua.

The communique said there had been no fighting, indicating that patrols withdrew as soon as the rebels were spotted.

There was speculation here that units involving only Pathet Lao guerrillas may be regrouping for another drive toward Sam Neua.

One purpose of such a rebel-only drive could be to try to convince U. N. observers that fighting in the north of the tiny Asian kingdom was purely a civil war and that Communist North Viet Nam was not involved.

★ ★ ★

Previous reports from Sam Neua headquarters said North Viet Nam troops allegedly fighting alongside the rebels began withdrawing to North Viet Nam as soon as the U. N. announced it was sending a fact-finding committee to Laos.

★ ★ ★

The committee, appointed by the Security Council at an emergency meeting in New York last week, consists of observers from Japan, Italy, Argentina and Tunisia.

★ ★ ★

Anti-U.S. Party in Britain to Run 35 This Election

LONDON (AP) — A new political party whose aim is the expulsion of American forces from Britain announced today it will put up 35 candidates for the 630-seat House of Commons at the British general election Oct. 8.

★ ★ ★

The Elizabethan Party said in an election platform announcement it also favors withdrawal of British troops from West Germany, and added in a footnote:

"Let the Americans do the fighting for a change."

The party said it also will campaign for a reduction of income tax, gradual elimination of sales taxes on consumer goods and an increase in old age pensions.

Red Chief Will Miss Americana

He won't get to meet Toots Shor, Marilyn Monroe, Dizzy Dean, Willie Mays, Miss Rheingold, Gov. Earl Long or Dracula. He won't see the Yankees the year they last, hear a college football coach address his captive crew, beat a drum late at night at the Round-table, get a traffic ticket, pay a tax, cadge a single autograph from Frank Sinatra.

The poor square won't every hear of Steak Row in New York's '40's, or know the heady scents of New Orleans' classic restaurants. He won't be able to slip away from the starch and pomp of his receiptions to find a little place in the Village or a night on the town in San Francisio.

If he flies over Detroit and Chicago, en route West, how will he ever understand or envision the incredible auto plants that changed the habits, moods, economy and attitudes of a great nation and stretched great arteries across its bulk? How will he comprehend when and if someone tries to tell him about The Loop, Boul' Mich, or The White Sox?

He'll never know Fulton Sheen, Shirley Povich and Jackie Robinson, or Emmett Kelly, Harry Turman, or Douglas MacArthur. Jack Dempsey will be busy in his joint the days Khrushchev is in New York, and Gene Tunney and Joe Dimaggio will be engaged, too. He won't have time for "A Raisin in the Sun." He'll have to skip Ethel Merman in "Gypsy," "My Fair Lady," Gertrude Berg and Cedric Hardwicke in "A Majority of One," and "Porgy and Bess," "Ice Capades," Joe E. Lewis at the Copa, the fireworks at Coney and the nags at new zillion-dollar Aqueduct.

The poor slob will never see Texas, won't wake up to a desert dawn, will never gasp at the majesty of Niagara. For him, the Mississippi will be a gash in bas-relief, from 30,000 feet, and he'll not know what it has meant.

The great and wonderful southland of the nation will remain a mystery to him, except for use in the future by his propagandists. He won't see the stirring northwest, the crashing Columbia, shimmering Puget Sound—or the Boeing air plane works whose products have kept him and his immediate predecessor in line.

★ ★ ★

He won't know the mighty wound called Grand Canyon, the fish-laden brooks and game-laden land of awakening Alaska, the soft ease of Hawaii. He'll not see a Chicago stockyard, eat an Omaha steak, fly over the dazzling lakeland of Upper Wisconsin, roll down Palm Beach and Miami Way.

Poor misguided fellow. He'll see as little of the U.S. of A. as a Parisian-bound American college boy sees of France.

GOVERNMENT BY TV

An American businessman I know, fresh back from Cuba, gives us another word picture of Fidel Castro. He swears Castro is the first dictator in history to set up a government by television ukase. Every public square in every Cuban town of any size is now equipped with TV sets, turned on whenever the Master speaks. Castro talks to his people almost nightly and sometimes for as long as four hours, or even longer.

When he speaks, all work in Cuba shuts down. People listen. But whether they listen out of fear or out of loyalty, my friend couldn't say.

Castro is the compleat idealist, my man feels. He is sure the dictator is not a Communist, but is equally sure his brother Paul could be one. He feels Castro's ambition is to demolish the long-entrenched little Cuban upper class, create a middle class, improve the living standards of the poor.

Castro is virtually confiscating huge estates and businesses, denouncing their owners—if Cubans—as expatriates and playboys. In this, of course, he has a certain amount of truth on his side.

★ ★ ★

All new laws, rules and regulations are announced by Castro over TV. The constitution, as such, changes from night to night.

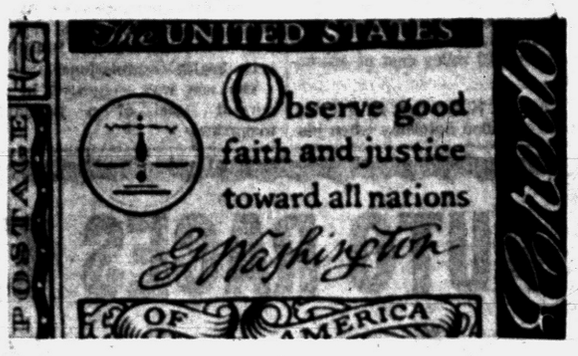

His harangues against the U.S. and his real and imagined enemies in Latin America are interspersed with such announcements as the fact that no native Cuban can gamble in the fancier casinos unless he can show he has an income of $50,000 a year. Then he is promptly taxed on that income.

Somebody must be disgruntled, I suggested to the returned traveler. The Cuban barbers, for example. Everybody in Cuba today without a beard is a suspect.

"Ah, that's where you're wong," he said. "The barbers are the happiest Cubans of them all. They get 50 cents more for timming a beard than for a haircut and shave."

Sudden Thot: Wonder how dictator Khrushchev, who is as bald as an egg, would get along with Dictator Castro, who is as hairy as a matfress?

State Fruit Crop Third Over Average

LANSING (UPI) — Michigan's anticipated 1959 fruit crop of 580,000 tons would be nearly one-third above the 1953-57 average, the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said today.

Peach and plum crops were reported about the same as last year.

Apples, sweet cherries and grapes showed moderate increases from last year while the sour cherry crop was nearly three-fourths larger.

The service said high temperatures during August advanced maturity further to more than a week ahead of normal.

Group OKs Amendment Giving D.C. the Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate constitution amendments subcommittee Friday approevd 5 to 1 a proposed constitutional amendment to let District of Columbia residents vote for president and vice president.

The measure also would give the district as many delegates to the Touse as it would have House members if it were a state. The House would decide what rights and powers the delegates would have.

Two electric motors with capacities of 65,000 horsepower have been installed in the Grand Coulee Dam in Washington for the purpose of pumping for irrigation projects.

Imagine a truck ride so smooth and cushioned that fragile loads can travel the worst "washboard" roads with ease. Imagine a truck ride that virtually eliminates shimmy and wheel fight, cuts side sway on curves, makes steering far steadier and easier, keeps drivers far fresher. Imagine a truck ride that permits higher safe cruising speeds, more trips per day with all kinds of cargo over every type of road surface. Imagine a ride that keeps up to 78% of all objectionable road shock and vibration from ever reaching the driver and cargo, a design that sharply reduces twisting and fatigue forces on chassis, cabs and bodies, that keeps trucks young for extra thousands of miles. / Soon you won't have to just imagine such a ride. You can try it for yourself in the trucks that do the next best thing to paving every road in America—new Chevrolet trucks for 1960. You'll see what happens when Chevy's truck engineers design a whole new line of trucks around a whole new kind of torsion-spring suspension. These trucks are new from the ride on up—with wonderfully roomier cabs, brawnier frames, style that's fresh as sixty and more! Don't decide on any new truck till you see the newest of all.

Blame It on Good Weather

Increased Traffic Boosts State Highway Toll to 14

By United Press International

Pleasant fall weather, moving into Michigan about a week ahead of the calendar, attracted heavy traffic to Michigan highways during the weekend and helped boost the state's traffic toll to 14.

The state also recorded a death by fire, a type of miscellaneous accidental death which usually increases in the fall and winter months.

Mrs. Frances O'Neal, 80, Bliss, died when fire swept through her Emmet County home Sunday.

There was only one multiple death accident among those recorded during the weekend.

John K. Suggs, 52, Bowling Green, Fla., was killed Saturday night when a car driven by Elmer Campbell, 34, Little Rock, Ark., went out of control on a county road 10 miles northeast of South Haven in Van Buren Atlanta, Ga., another passenger in the car, died in South Haven Hospital yesterday from injuries suffered in the crash.

Paul Vernon was killed in a similar accident on the same road, only a quarter of a mile away, Sunday. He was a passenger in a car driven by Richard Vaughn, Breedsville, which left the road and overturned.

The death toll also included four children and a teenager.

James L. Miller, 13, Lakewood, was killed and nine others injured in a crash involving two autos and a Luna Pier Fire Department rescue truck on US-24A at Erie Road.

Karen Walker, 8, Wayne, died five hours after she was struck by a car riven by Roger E. Vashaw, 19, Garden City, who said the girl stepped in front of his car from behind a parked truck on Wayne Road in Nankin Township, Wayne County.

Gwen Jehncen, 7, Rodney, was killed when she jumped off a wagon as her father, driving a tractor towing the wagon, slowed down to let her off. She fell beneath the wheels of the wagon on a rural road in Martini Township, Mecosta County, and was dead on arrival at Big Rapids Hospital.

Carl L. Schian, 10, Reese, was killed when a car driven by his cousin, Leo Schian, 20, hit a tractor from the rear on Bradley Road near Reese.

Eugene P. Madej, 17, Romulus Township, Wayne County, was killed Sunday in a two-car accident at the intersection of Wix and Wayne Roads in Wayne County.

Perhaps the most unusual accident of the weekend claimed the life of Albert G. Kroetsch, 29, Livonia. Kroetsch struck the rear of a car he was trying to pass with his motorcycle. He bounced back onto another car he had just —passed on the Grand River Expressway near Brighton and was dead on arrival at Vann Hospital in Brighton.

★ ★ ★

Other victims inclued:

William N. Kelly, 30, Dearborn — killed Saturday when his car struck a car about to make a left turn, careened off and struck a tree in Detroit.

Lloyd Riley, 17, rural Ravenna — died in St. Mary's Hospital in Grand Rapids Saturday night of injuries suffered earlier in the day when a car driven by his brother, William, 21, crashed over an embankment 20 miles east of Muskegon.

Leonard K. Levine, 44, Toledo, Ohio — killed Saturday when his car overturned while he was traveling at high speed on a rural road in Columbia Township in Jackson County.

Ralph E. Van Brunt, 31, Columbiaville—killed in a two-car head-on crash Saturday on M-24 in Lapeer County.

Warns Against Using Carbon Tet on Scalp

LANSING (UPI) — The Michigan Health Department today warned against the use of carbon tetrachloride to clean greasy scalp or skin.

"Swabbing the skin with carbon tet is one of the more recent dangerous uses we have heard for this poisonous chemical," Dr. Albert E. Heustis, state health commissioner, said.

State's Polio Case Load Is Far Behind Last Year

Seven new cases were reported during the past week, bringing the case load to 58 for the year. This compares with 45 cases during the same week and 225 during the same period last year.

Two new cases were reported from Oakland County and one each from Detroit and Chippewa, Genese, Macomb and Ogemaw counties.

Yes sir! When it came time for me to install a new furnace last year I had a heck of a time trying to make up my mind what type to install. After a lot of checking, I finally decided on oil—and that's the smartest thing I ever did.

Do you know—I discovered that you can heat your home more economically with oil than with any other type of fuel. As a matter of fact—oil is the safest and cleanest method of home heating yet devised. That's mighty important, and something many people don't know. Yes sir, Jim, if I were you I'd look very carefully into the matter, and I'd check with a member of the Oakland Oil Heat Council for some good, sound advice, too.

This Comes as a Blow

Whammo...Another Wife Is Belted

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You asked women to write in and tell from their own experiences if a wife could ever make a go of her marriage after her husband hit her. The first year of my marriage, my husband used to beat me up so bad I was ashamed to be seen in public. I would have left him but I was pregnant. We have been married nine years and he still beats me up. We have five children now. I can tell you this much: It would have been a lot easier to run with one than with five.

ABBY

LEARNED TOO LATE

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Can a woman stay happily married to a man who has hit her? I say yes! Like all married people, my husband and I have had our battles. Sometimes he loses his temper and socks me. But he has never hit me in the face or any place where the bruises will show. Also he has never hit me in front of the kids. I think this is very nice of him. I really can't complain because I know when he takes a poke at me, I usually have it coming.

STILL MARRIED

DEAR ABBY: I got the surprise of my life when my husband ended an argument by slapping my face. I picked up the first thing I could find which happened to be a milk bottle. I hit him over the head with it. Then I drove him to the emergency hospital so the doc could put twelve stitches in his head. That was 28 years ago and he has never raised a hand to me since. I thank you.

LILY

DEAR ABBY: The first time my husband struck me, I left him. He crawled back to me on his hands and knees, begging for just one more chance. I gave him that chance. He behaved himself for a few months, but his promise didn't mean anything because he hit me again. He came back. His mother begged me. His sisters begged me. I gave him another chance for another promise. In the past 22 years he has had more chances and I have had more promises than I can count. Put me down for saying that a man who would hit his wife once would hit her again. They never change. Sign me—

"STUPID"

DEAR ABBY; I've been married to a lovable hot-headed Irishman for 16 years. He's slapped me around some, but he has his good points. Why should a wife throw out a perfectly good husband just because he belts her a few times? I wouldn't trade my guy for one of those sweet-talking chislers who kills you with kisses and then chases around behind your back. Sure, I've had my lip sewed up and my nose broke more than once, but true love never runs smooth.

GERTIE

DEAR ABBY: Why should a wife stand there like an idiot and let a big bully of a husband hit her? I am 5 ft. tall, weigh 100 pounds and my husband is six feet two and weighs over 200. My husband hit me once, and I taught him a lesson. I knocked the wind out of him with my left and finished him off with a quick uppercut to the jaw. The bigger they are the harder they fall.

"TIGER"

DEAR ABBY: I don't approve of physical violence. But I would one hundred times more have preferred physical punishment to the mental beatings I've taken over the years. "Covering up" for his frequent absences from home so the children wouldn't know what was going on; pretending not to know of his affairs in order to keep my family together.

BROKEN-HEARTED

DEAR ABBY: Once, just once, my husband threatened to hit me I said "Go ahead—hit me!" He didn't do it because I picked up a frying pan and showed him I could take care of myself. I know this is not very lady-like, but a man who would hit a woman is no gentleman.

Can Stave Off Age

Plugs Optimum Nutrition

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Thousands of you know Dr. Calrton Fredericks through his radio program "Living Should Be Fun," and also through his books and articles. He is teacher, lecturer and nutrition consultant. Most of all he is a crusader for optimum nutrition for everyone.

Doctor Fredericks received his Masters degree in Public Health Education from New York University and later his Ph.D., in nutrition from the same college. He has been attached to New York University's School of Education and Department of Physical Education and Recreation and is currently associate professor at Fairleigh - Dickinson college. At present he is also supervising the diet of the Kansas City Athletics.

MEN ARE DIFFICULT

In a recent interview I asked Doctor Fredericks if he has found that men are as interested in diet as women and if they are as faithful to a dietary routine. He seems to feel that it is much more difficult to motivate men in such a direction. He said, "Many men think that they must assert their masculinity by going to work when they are sick, rejecting diets and playing more golf than is good for them."

However, when a man is ill he becomes a remarkably helpless individual! He is entirely amenable after a scare such as a heart attack or some other disability which frightens him. Doctor Fredericks calls these times a man's "teachable moments," and said, "At such times a man will eat caviar or butterfly wings if told to do so."

Doctor Fredericks believes as do other nutritionists that we should get as many as possible of the elements essential to good health from our daily menus, but he also believes in vitamin and mineral supplements.

Many factors play a part in the vitamin and mineral intake — the soil, the time in storage, the loss in cooking and so forth. Then, also, as he pointed out, some folks cannot utilize certain vitamins as well as others can and may need more massive doses.

I asked Doctor Fredericks if he believes that a young person today can be as young at 70 as the average person of 50 is now if he or she would take advantage of what is known about nutrition.

He replied, "Indeed I do! I will go even further and say genetics (inheritance) aside, that I think the life span can be tripled by correct nutrition and certainly the aging processes can be delayed."

So, what we eat is of much greater importance than most of us admit. What a shame it is to miss BEST nutrition and settle for HALF-BEST!

Dr. Carlton Fredericks, teacher, lecturer and nutrition consultant, believes, as do other nutritionists, that we should get as many as possible of the elements essential to good health from our daily menus, but he also believes in vitamin and mineral supplements.

Have You Tried This?

Seven Days Preparation Needed for Pickles

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

We've had a couple of pickle recipes this summer. Today's suggestion is for Sweet Pickles. Mrs. James V. Sayers says they are wonderfully crisp.

Mrs. Sayers lives at Loon Lake. Her beautiful flowers show the result of the hours she spends in her garden. She is active in her church guild. Traveling and entertaining friends are two of the things the Sayers' like best to do.

SWEET PICKLES
By Mrs. James V. Sayers

2 gallons pickles, 3-4 inches long
1 cup uniodized salt
1 gallon water

Wash pickles and split lengthwise. Soak in brine (salt plus water) for 3 days. Drain off brine and soak pickles for 3 more days in clear water.

Drain and bring to a boil in a mixture of one quart vinegar and one quart water and 2 tablespoons alum. Boil for 30 minutes.

Syrup

5 pounds sugar
1 quart vinegar
2 tablespoons mixed spices

Getting Own Way Can Build Resentment

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

It was late afternoon. In the park, mothers were gathering children, toys, stollers and tricycles for the homebound parade. Putting down her magazine, Tommy's mother got up from her bench, walked over to where he squatted on the playground sand pile and said, "Empty the pail now, honey. It's time to go home."

★ ★ ★

For an answer he scrambled to his feet and ran over to the slide. His mother called, "No! No sliding!"—but he was halfway up the ladder when she reached him. Instead of lifting him off she backed away from the kick he direct at her, and then tried to disguise her anger at his defiance by pretending to accept it. "All right," she said, "just this one slide."

★ ★ ★

But Tommy knew she was angry.

So pleasure in his victory over the slide was mixed up with his knowlege of her resentment. As she often permits him to do what she doesn't want him to, he's getting used to begrudged satisfaction and has little experience of the kind of joy we feel in our successes when other people share it with us.

If he's going to be allowed to go on sliding, delaying bedtime and grabbing cookies against his mother's wishes, he's bound to get the idea that all satisfaction is begrudged satisfaction—and pursue it as the only kind available.

There's the business man who must always boast of outwitting his competitors as though his lonely triumph over them were a source of delight to him. There are the golddigers and Don Juans for whom dalliance always means, the lonely pleasure of conquest instead of shared joy.

There are the people who derive satisfaction from "putting one over" on somebody else whether their lonely satisfaction consists of evading a traffic regulation or falsifying an expense account.

To train little boys and girls to believe that these forms of exclusive and vindictive pleasure are the only kind available is pretty cruel.

So if we cannot share their delight in their triumphs, it is better to deny them the triumphs than to to let them do as they please—and resent them for it. Protecting them against such resentment is one of the reasons why we require obedience.

Waterford Girl Wed in Candlelight Rites

At a candlelight ceremony in Central Christian Church Saturday evening Sandra Louise Haskell and Ernest Jay Mason were married. The Rev. G. W. Gibson officiated at the ceremony before 125 guests.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard R. Haskell of Waterford Township and Mr. and Mrs. John Mason of Traverse City.

The bride wore a white silk organza gown appliqued with lace. The bodice was accented with lace and seed pearls and the gown featured a detachable train. A matching cap held her fingertip veil and she wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Joanne Johnson of Pontiac was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Janet Killiker and Barbara Johnson. They were dressed in ballerina length gowns of pink, lavender and turquoise respectively.

Philip Fisher of Traverse City was best man. Ushers were the bridegroom's brother, Daniel Mason of Traverse City; and James Haskell, the bride's brother of Pontiac.

A reception was held at Fellowship Hall.

Before leaving for a honeymoon to New York and Niagara Falls, the bride changed to a black and white checked two-piece suit with matching accessories and the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will live in Traverse City where the bridegroom is attending Northwestern Michigan College. The bride attended Pontiac Business Institute.

Mrs. Haskell wore an emerald green sheath dress with a jacket and matching accessories and Mrs. Mason was dressed in a champagne colored sheath with jacket and matching accessories. Both had pink rose corsages.

Square Dance Classes to Start

The Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department's beginners' square dance class will begin Sept. 17 at the multi-purpose room at McCarroll School. Classes will be held Thursdays from 8 to 10 p. m.

Instruction will include the basic fundamentals of square dancing, some well-known and popular old quadrilles and the latest combinations of music and dance figures.

A small charge per couple is made in order to defray operation expenses. For further information call the Parks and Recreation Department.

Beauty Hint

Now is the time to pamper your complexion for the coming months. Summer wind and sun do their own damage — a special kind of damage that only care can repair. Start with nightly applications of a lubricating cream or lotion. You may want to substitute a cleaning lotion rather than soap and water to remove makeup during the day.

He Probably Enjoyed Your Share

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: The other evening while visiting neighbors, the hostess served ice cream and cookies. The portion I received was much more than I could eat. As my husband is a great ice cream eater, I put some of my ice cream on his plate. My husband criticized me later for having done this and said that if I couldn't eat it, I should have left it on my plate. Will you please tell me if I was wrong?"

Answer: You were not wrong to avoid waste by giving some of your ice cream to your husband at the informal visit you describe.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am 17 years old and would like to give a lawn party for my friends. I would like to invite an even number of boys and girls. However, this is my problem: Several of the boys I know are going 'steady' with girls who I do not know too well and as I have enough girls already I do not want to invite them. Would it be proper to ask the boys to come alone and not invite their steady girl friends?"

Answer: I am afraid if you invite the boys without the girls they are going "steady" with, none of them will come to your party.

"Dear Mrs. Post: At the present time my fiance-to-be is unable financially to buy me an engagement ring. Under the circumstances, would it be proper to make a formal announcement of our engagement? If this is permissible, what can I say to friends and relatives who ask to see my ring?"

Answer: An engagement ring is not a necessity. Thousands of married women have never had engagement rings. You simply say, "I haven't one. John's putting what money he has into furniture for the house" or something similar.

HAS SMART, MODERN AIR — Leather covered furniture and marble topped tables lend a smart, modern air to lobby of new Pontiac Motor Division Administration Building. Note picture panel with lighting from rear on wall above model. Colored glass and a profusion of plants in simple containers take away any barren look. One wall in the lobby is made of three dimensional, ribbed teakwood. The lobby was designed and fabricated by H. F. Stubbs Co. of Detroit.

CHANGES WITH THE SEASON — One of the most attractive features of the lobby of the new Pontiac Motor Division Administration Building is this giant translite behind model. There will be four changes in the design of the wall mural, each depicting a different season of the year. The motif here is autumn. The next will be winter. The building is located at 196 Oakland Ave.

THEY'RE TEACHERS NOW — Former Navy lieutenants Joseph Caletri (left) and David Christensen are making some big adjustments these days. After serving in England as Navy officers, they have joined the faculty of Waterford Township High School. And as it says on the blackboard, "The Navy was never like this."

2 Former Navy Officers Order Students Now

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

Two young ex-Navy officers, almost run aground by the rush of hundreds of Waterford Township High School students, are striving to keep an even keel as newly hired teachers.

★ ★ ★

After six years of having their commands promtply obeyed without question, former Lieutenants David Christensen, 28, of 5911 Rowley St. and Joseph Caletri, 29, of 1838 Birchcrest Rd. are slowly coming back to earth, and it's rough, they admit.

Caletri and Christensen now have to use calm psychology on their young charges rather than snapping out curt orders.

No one salutes the two men as they walk down the high school corridors and the jumbled up shuffling of multitudes of teenagers changing classes is a far cry from the rigid straight marching lines of Navy men.

SYRACUSE GRAD

Caletri is especially confused. He was discharged from the Navy in mid-August and came directly from service with the U.S. Military Sea Transportation system stationed in London, England.

Prior to his stint in the Navy, he had been a studious college man, graduating from Syracuse University with honors and a master's degree in social studies. Later he attended officers training school.

He and Christensen seemed to hit it off at the very first meeting in England.

Each of their wives had a baby while they were stationed there and the friendships continued to flourish in the orderly life of Navy officers.

It was a sad day for the group last fall when Christensen was released from Navy duty to return home. He had been assigned to the Department of Naval Intelligence.

Before that, Christensen had graduated from Western Michigan University, where he majored in English.

TAUGHT SIX MONTHS

He taught this course in the Waterford Township High School just six months before being called into the service.

After signing last year's teaching contract here, Christensen decided that it would be a good idea for his friend to join the Waterford school system, too, and he went to work on the project.

All the school curriculum literature on teaching in the Waterford Township school system that Christensen could get was sent to Caletri.

Enlarged pictures of the 15 new schools built in the district within the last 10 years were shipped "air mail special" to Caletri.

"I was bombarded with all types of school literature and became practically brainwashed on the subject of teaching in Waterford," Caletri says.

Although they have had to take pay cuts and alter some of their military ways, both men say they have no intentions of scuttling their new professions.

Eight-Year-Old Drives Dad's Car 58 Miles, Alone

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UPI)—An eight-year-old boy hopped into his father's car at Washington, Ind., today and drove 58 miles — alone.

When he got to Evansville, the boy took a wrong turn and backed into another car while trying to get back on course, causing minor damage.

"I forgot to look back," the youngster told police.

The boy, whose name was withheld by police, could hardly see over the windshield and he had to drive through several towns, all crowded with weekend traffic.

Evansville police said he told them he drove to Evansville to look around the city.

"I waved at everyone I passed because I was having such a good time," He said.

The boy's father, who had reported his car stolen, went to Evansville to claim his son and auto.

Boston Mailman Has Street Name Problem

Says Moon Shot Proves Reds Can Hit U.S. Cities

BOSTON (AP) — The Soviet moon shot proves they have "a guidance system capable of guiding an intercontinental ballistic missile directly to its target," a Boston rocket scientist says.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Arthur Kantrowitz, head of Avco Research Laboratory, Everett, told a newsman, "you don't hit the moon accidentally."

★ ★ ★

The Moscow announcement Sunday night evoked applauding comment from New England scientists tempered with dismay that the Soviets had beaten Americans again in the space race.

SAYS WE CAN'T BEAT 'EM

"In view of this I don't think that we have a prayer of launching a man around the earth and recovering before Russia does," said Frederick C. Durant 3rd of Concord, former president of the American Rocket Society.

★ ★ ★

Durant, a former president of the International Astronautical Federation, added: "We probably stand a chance of being the first with a man on the moon, but we'd better get busy."

DEEP CONCERN

Dr. Murray Zelikiff, former head of the Air Force Cambridge Research Center Laboratory, now vice president of Geophysics Corp. of America, Boston, said he views the Soviet accomplishment with deep concern.

"I think we were behind them two years ago and we're further behind them now," he said.

Dr. Kantrowitz, an expert in the problem of missile reentry into the atmosphere, urged a more realistic American approach to space research.

"I regard our position as unrealistic. We could have done it (hit the moon) too."

The Soviets didn't need "any spectacular new fuel," he said.

★ ★ ★

"There are several known fuels which are not commonly used. We, for example, haven't developed rocketry to the point where we can use the most powerful fuels known."

Pontiac Drill Team Cops State Laurels

The Pontiac Star Chiefs, a drum and majorette drill team, won the state championship in competition Saturday at the Michigan State Fair, according to Director Roy G. Hess.

Formerly the Land O'Lakes twirlers, the unit recently has been augmented to include drummers. Eighteen members of the corps took part in the state competition.

Truman Doesn't Want to See Khrushchev

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said today he would not see Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev "If I can help it."

Truman, who arrived here by train, was asked by newsmen at Pennsylvania station if he would see Khrushchev while the latter is in the city Thursday and Friday.

"I have no desire to see him," replied Truman. "I don't want to see him."

The former chief executive added, however, he hoped the exchange of visits between Khrushchev and President Eisenhower would help ease world tensions.

Asked to comment about a Russian rocket hitting the moon, Truman said: "It's a wonderful thing if they did. But I never believe the Russians unless I can see it."

New Plan Would Give State Dems Vote Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new plan proposed Saturday by Democratic Party Chairman Paul Butler would give Michigan 52 votes, a gain of eight, at the party's 1960 national convention.

Butler's proposal to abolish the bonus system would give Michigan a flat 52. In the 1956 convention, Michigan had 40 basic votes and four bonus votes, a total of 44.

Await Bids on Library

City Officials Hoping Ceiling Price Is High Enough This Time

City officials today anxiously awaited construction bids on Pontica's new library, hoping no repeat performance is in store after Friday's opening of bids for the new airport terminal building.

Bids then ran some $44,000 more than available construction funds.

Today at 2 p.m. prospective contractors for the much-needed $500,000 library will gather in the City Hall commission chambers to submit their bids.

City commissioners won't be too surprised should bids run over earlier estimates, because a member of the architectural firm — O'Dell, Hewlett and Luckenbach Associates of Birmingham — had forewarned them that costs might slightly exceed the half million dollars ceiling.

Bids will be taken on a one-story glass, brick and limestone office slated to go up in the Civic Center plot across from the City Hall and Public Safety Building.

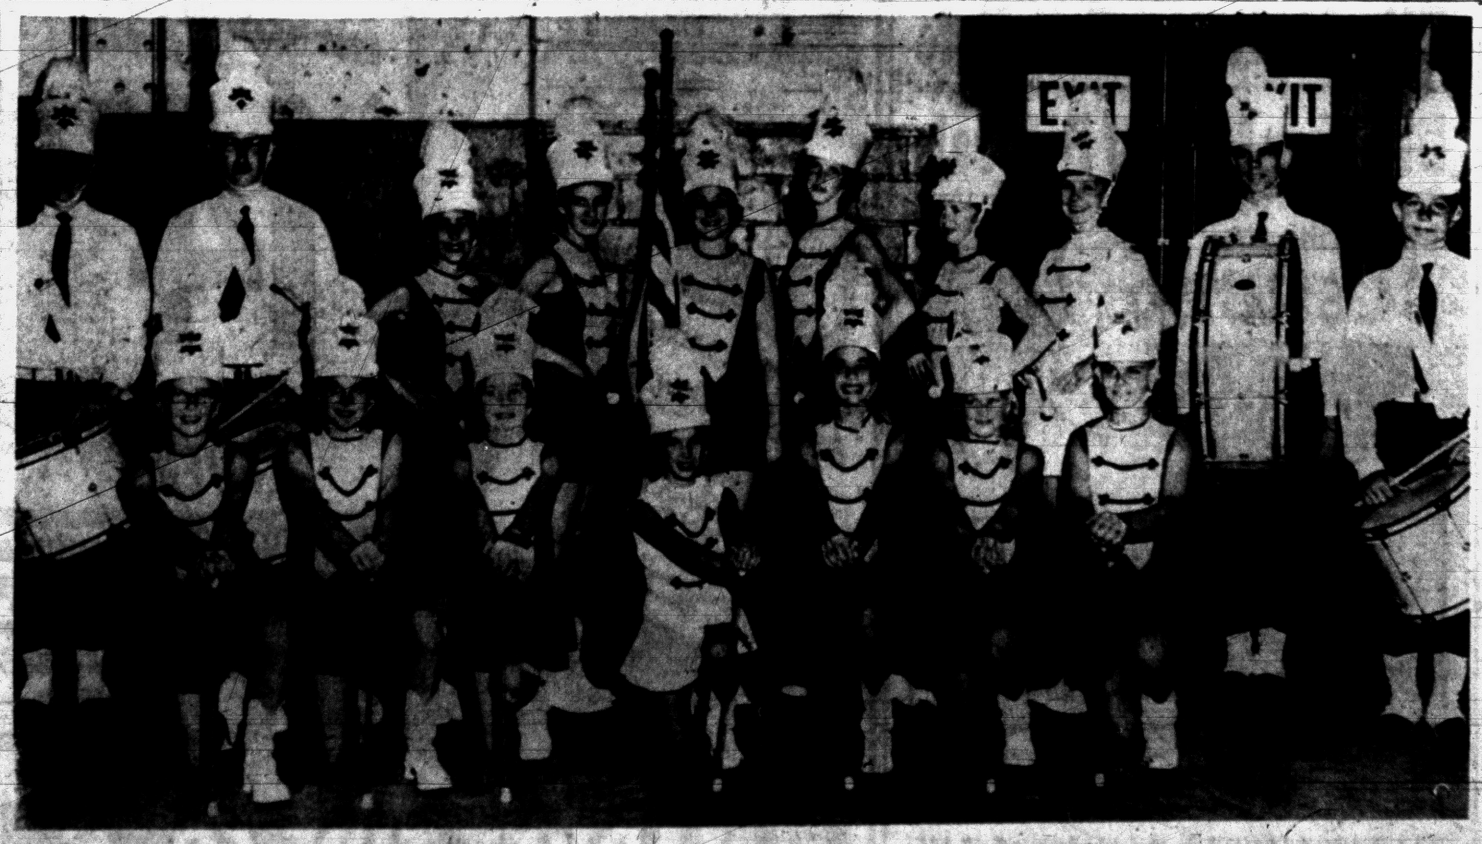

City Manager Walter K. Willman said that if bids are favorable, contracts may be awarded this month and the building completed by the fall of next year, in time for dedication during the 1961 observation of Pontiac's centennial as a city.

Lausche, Langer Victims of Joke on Party Swap

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa) jokingly suggests a trade between the Democrats and the Republicans—Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio) for Sen. William Langer (R-ND).

On a television program Sunday, Clark asked Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa) if he would accept the swap with no cash involved. But Scott ignored the question.

EAST LANSING (AP)—Plans to reactivate a state chamber of commerce were drafted behind closed doors Friday at Kellogg Center on the Michigan State University campus.

On hand were more than 30 officials of manufacturing firms, public utilities and local chamber of commerce groups.

The meeting was closed to the press but one executive in attendance said, "The framework is now complete for a Michigan chamber of commerce."

Based on Haber Report

State Begins Growth Bill

LANSING (UPI)—Gov. G. Mennen Williams and his aides today began preparing a state economic growth bill similar to the federal government's Full Employment Act.

The governor said he was preparing the bill as the first step in carrying out the recommendations of the Haber Report on Michigan's economic future.

The bill will be ready for presentation to the Legislature when it convenes for its 1960 session in January.

A Michigan economic growth act patterned after the federal Full Employment Act of 1946 was one of the recommendations made Saturday by a committee headed by William Haber, a University of Michigan economist, which studied Michigan's economic problems.

The report said Michigan needed 100,000 new jobs a year for the next 11 years to restore the state to full employment. It said Michigan has lost 130,000 jobs since 1953, principally through automation in the auto industry.

★ ★ ★

"The report appears to provide an excellent basis for a program of action aimed at restoring Michigan's economy," Williams said. "Perhaps this report, revealing as it does the gravity of our economic problem, will have a sobering effect on those who have treated the problem as a mere opportunity to win votes or influence tax legislation."

THE RECOMMENDATIONS

The report recommended studies be made by the committee on Michigan's economic future appointed last year by Williams.

★ ★ ★

It also suggested the economic growth act, which would require the governor to make annual reports on the state's economic condition to the Legislature, provide for a joint committee of the Legislature to keep a pulse on the state's economic condition, and create a state council of economic advisers.

The third suggestion included in the report called for an early revision of Michigan's constitution as the first step toward solving the state's economic problems.

George Romney, chairman of the Citizens for Michigan, an independent group working on state problems, ordered 1,200 copies of the report for distribution to his group before a state meeting in Lansing Sept. 21.

Poll State GOP on Problems

Tax Reform, Business Climate Run 1-2 Among Michigan Republicans

LANSING (AP)—A Republican poll shows tax reform and the state's business climate run one-two as Michigan's top problems.

A first peek at results of the continuing sentiment sampling of party members and from GOP booths at county fairs came at the Republican State Central Committee meeting over the weekend.

The business session was devoted mainly to preliminary planning for the 1960 campaign, said to be well along.

Many of the more than 100 committeemen talked hopefully that Paul D. Bagwell, Michigan State University faculty member, would emerge as a repeat party choice for governor.

Lawrence B. Lindemer, state chairman, said about 500 responses had been received to questionnaires seeking to assay dominant issues of the moment.

Eighty seven per cent of those replying to a question on a need for overhauling state tax laws answered in the affirmative.

Asked to name the most important public problem, 42 per cent chose the business climate, 27 per cent the tax situation and 17 per cent named generating more jobs in the state.

Forty two per cent picked keeping world peace as the No. 1 national issue. Thirty two per cent pointed to inflation.

The committee was told that party finances are sagging, with $6,000 accumulated in unpaid bills. Difficulties were expected to be straightened out without too much trouble.

Drayton Plains Man Is Found Dead in Car

Manley D. Rice, 20, of 3215 Warren Dr., Drayton Plains, was found dead in Bloomfield Township yesterday afternoon.

The body was found in a car parked at the rear of a cabin at 2178 Klingensmith Rd., Bloomfield Township. Death was attributed to monoxide poisoning.

A hose had been attached to the car's exhaust pipe and run through a partially opened window of the vehicle.

Tigers Fail to Get Wertz From Red Sox

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers have lost an attempt to claim slugger Vic Wertz from the Boston Red Sox on waiver. The Tigers said Boston had removed the first baseman from the waiver list.

Detroit had hoped to use Wertz, a former Tiger and Cleveland Indian, at first base for the remainder of the season.

The outdoor poster or billboard advertising came into use in the United States in 1850 when P. T. Barnum announced the Jenny Lind concert series.

Man in the Moon to Smile Despite Sock From Reds

NEW YORK (UPI)—The man in the moon won't get a black eye from the smack in the face he took yesterday from the Russian space rocket. He won't even lose his smile.

Nor will the crash of the Red rocket spoil the green cheese that every child knows the moon is made of.

The moon will look the same from Earth tonight as it always has. Even those inveterate moon-watchers, the spooning lovers and sighing poets, should notice no change.

The 230,000-mile distance of the moon from the earth when the 854.4-pound Russian space capsule and its 3,234-pound last stage rocket crashed into it was so great that it was impossible for anyone on earth to see the collision even with powerful telescopes. Nor was any mark visible after the crash.

Congress Near to Adjournment

Appraisal of Session Starts; Southern Foes Delay Windup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress edges its way toward possible adjournment today with friends and foes already appraising its legislative record.

If Southern opponents halt their attack on a rider extending the life of the Civil Rights Commission, the Senate may be able to complete action on a $3,281,813,000 foreign aid bill it approved in substance Saturday.

But there was no terminal hour on the Dixie> verbal onslaught against the commission, nor on the potential counter-threat that Northerners might push for stronger civil rights legislation this year.

The House, standing by, was ready for efforts to compromise the bill with its own $3,186,500,000 version of overseas assistance. Once this was done the weary legislators could go home.

Money items for foreign aid and for miscellaneous unrelated items already have been tentatively decided by the Senate. It rejected Saturday night all efforts to change the appropriations recommended by its committee.

Hare Foresees Reflector Snags

Might Have Trouble Collecting 35 Cents for '60 Tab Addition

LANSING (AP)—The state auto license plate division may have trouble making motorists pay an authorized 35 cents for reflectorized plates, Secretary of State James M. Hare admitted Saturday.

Nov. 1 is the start of the new license plate year — this making it possible for motorists to get 1960 plates for their new cars.

But the law doesn't become effective until 90 days after final legislative adjournment. Hare said this could push the effective collection date to around Christmas, Valentine's Day or Easter.

If the Legislature continues in session until December, most motorists registering before the March 1 deadline won't pay the 35 cents added fee.

Those assessed the extra fee later are likely to complain, Hare said.

Hare said he expected complaints anyway. Motorists won't get reflectorized plates next year — only tabs with a green 1960 on a golden yellow background. The decision not to change plates was made late as an economy measure.

He said the Legislature might reconsider the reflectorized plate law, pass a new law, taking it off the statute books and give it immediate effect.

Sunday's Result Was: Lions 31, Browns 28

Johnson Gets 2 Touchdowns in 22 Seconds

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

DETROIT — Saturday's headline on the sports page of the Press read: "Lions Handle Browns Like They Own Them."

Sunday, it almost looked like a different story. It seemed almost certain that the Browns would finally break the Detroit jinx at Briggs Stadium.

But as it happened, Saturday's headline proved to be the truth on Sunday. The Lions scored two rapid fire touchdowns in 22 seconds to beat the Browns, 31-28.

Cleveland coach Paul Brown was flabbergasted to see his 28-17 lead disappear with only 1:33 left in the game.

"I'd like to play the Lions once more an that's in the one big game after the regular season," Brown said dejectedly. The two teams do not meet again this season.

It was the 17th time in 23 games, including one tie, that the Lions defeated the Browns. The tie was at Briggs stadium in an exhibition game couple years ago. The Browns have never won in Detroit.

An alert John Henry Johnson was the hero of the two last minute touchdowns. Tobin Rote's pass meant for Jim Gibbons was tipped by Lowe Wren. The ball bounced into Johnson's hands on the five and he walked into the end zone for the touchdown.

That made the score 28-25 with Jerry Perry's conversion and there was only 1:33 showing on the clock.

Everyone figured the Lions would try an onside kick but instead Jim Martin booted the ball to Leroy Bolden on the eight yard line. Bolden got to the 29 and he was swarmed all over by a host of Lions. He fumbled and Dave Whitsell recovered.

On the first play from scrimmage Rote had Gibbons and Perry Richards moving down both sidelines. As the Browns' defenders followed the two, Johnson went straight down the middle, grabbed Rote's pass on the eight and went over. There was no one one within 15 yards of him.

The clock showed on 1:11 remaining in the game as the Lions kicked off for the second time in 22 seconds.

Milt Plum passed from his own 22 to the Lion 45 for 33 yards on the first play. But after a 5 yard penalty, Bill Glass dropped Plum for an 8-yard loss to his own 42.

This killed the Browns as it appeared they were trying to get into field goal range and settle for at least a tie. One more play and they may have, but the game ended as Plum passed 17 yards to Farrell Funston.

The Browns were shackled on the opening series of the game and had to punt. This started the Lions first march of 45 yards with Rote pitching wide to Danny Lewis for a 10 yard TD.

Cleveland came back in the second quarter with Bobby Mitchell going five, 12 and then 59 yards for a touchdown. The drive covered 75 yards in five plays. The Browns were penalized 15 yards for clipping but the officials ruled that the clip took place after Mitchell went over. It was 7-7 with 9:56 to play in the half.

Hopalong Cassady returned the kickoff 33 yards to midfield. Rote than passed to Gibbons 36 yards and a moment later with rookie Mike Rabold opening the hole Nick Pietrosante scored.

The 14-7 lead almost disappeared when Mitchell took Martin's kick on the four and raced 91 yards before Cassady caught him on the five. Hoppy got away from three blockers to get to Mitchell and his determination paid off because a moment later Holden fumbled and Wayne Walker picked up the ball and went 59 yards to the Browns' 40 where he fumbled.

The Browns had the ball again but it was on the 44 instead of the five. Plum's pass was intercepted by Gary Lowe and again the Lions had the ball with timing running. With 23 seconds in the half Martin kicked a 30 yard field goal and it was 17-7.

The Browns recovered Yale Lary's fumble of Dale Sholtner's punt on the Lions' 42 and midway in the third quarter on the first

Eagles Wallop Colts, 35-13

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Norman Van Brocklin pitched three touchdownpasses to Tommy McDonald Sunday and it was all the Philadelphia Eagles needed to hand the National Football League champion Baltimore Colts a 35-13 loss.

The Colts, in losing their first exhibition game of the season after four victories, played without first string quarterback Johnny Unitas. Coach Weeb Ewbank went all the way with Ray Brown in attempting to develop suitable relief for Unitas.

Van Brocklin and McDonald were brilliant. The Eagles quarterback gained 290 yards with aerials, McDonald on the receiving end of five for 158 yards.

His last catch settled the issue in the fourth quarter after the Colts had narrowed the margin to 21-13. Van Brocklin, seemingly trapped, threw to the little flanker who grabbed the ball away from Colt defender Carl Taseff on a sensational catch and romped into the end zone on a 55-yard play.

In other weekend games, Los Angeles showed a powerful attack in walloping San Francisco 48-14; Detroit defeated Cleveland 31-28, and Green Bay knocked off Washington 20-13.

The Eagles led from midway in the second quarter when Van Brocklin threw 26 yards to McDonald for the first TD. Rookie Theron Sapp added another Eagle touchdown on a seven-yard dash before Brown connected on a four-yard scoring pass to Jerry Richardson just before the half ended.

Near the end of the third quarter the Van Brocklin-McDonald combination clicked on a 34-yard scoring play. Baltimore came back on a one-yard plunge by Alan Ameche. Then came the 55-yard clincher.

Jon Arnett, who scored twice, raced 81 yards and Joe Marconi 67 for touchdowns in the first five minutes as the Rams 2-2-1 established themselves as a definite threat in the West to the Colts and Chicago's Bears 5-0.

By halftime the 49ers 2-3 trailed 41-7 and despite Y. A. Tittle's passing could not get back into the contest.

Paul Hornung accounted for all the Packer points with two short TD runs, two field goals and a air of conversions. Eddie LeBaron brought the Redskins 1-4 to the Green Bay 5-yard line late in the final quarter in a bid for a tie, but three successive passes were battered down.

Pistons Open Training Camp With 9 Rookies

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Pistons opened their training camp today with nine rookies and three veterans in attendance.

Piston coach Red Rocha was particularly impressed by the size of two young hopefuls who will be battling for the pivot spot.

Gary Alcorn and Harry Marske drew comment from Rocha.

"Those guys have the ideal size for this league," he said. "They also have the power that is needed under the backboards."

Alcorn is 6-feet, 10 inches tall and about 240 pounds while Marske is 6-feet-8 and tips the scales at about 230.

Rocha said they both could be standouts if they have speed, quick reactions under the boards, shooting ability and desire.

He said he hoped to determine these qualities in the practice sessions.

"One of the big reasons for having this rookie camp is to get them prepared to meet the veterans," Rocha said. "There is a lot more contact in pro-ball than in college. And those veterans will give the youngsters a going-over early.

"Maybe we can get them used to that stuff by the time we head for Camp Michigama next Saturday."

★ ★ ★

Dees came to the Pistons this spring in a deal that sent Phil Jordan to Cincinnati.

Cable was sidelined most of last year and will be fighting for a spot on the team.

Sunday Setback Leaves Tigers 2 Games From 3rd

Bunning Victim of Late Washington Barrage in 5-1 Loss

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charlie (Paw Paw) Maxwell's Sunday punch was missing and Jim Bunning threw a gopher ball that set off a Washington rally.

As a result, the Detroit Tigers had only a precarious hold today on first division in the American League after yesterday's 5-1 loss to the Senators.

They are in fourth spot, sandwiched between the resurgent New York Yankees and the faltering Baltimore Orioles.

In the battle for third place, the Yankees went two games ahead of the Tigers by sweeping a doubleheader from the slipping second place Cleveland Indians.

The Orioles stayed two games behind the Tigers by losing a doubleheader to Kansas City.

Ol' Paw Paw, who has been in the habit of getting at least one homer on Sunday, struck out with the bases loaded in the eighth inning in the game with Washington yesterday. The score was tied 1-1 with two out.

After reliefer Hal Woodeshick got rid of Maxwell, he disposed of the Tigers in the ninth, giving Washington the decision.

Julio Becquer tripled and scored on Clint Courtney's single. That was all for Bunning.

Coming on in relief, Tom Morgan yielded a triple to rookie Dan Dobbek from Western Michigan, scoring pinch runner Pedro Ramos. Then Bob Allison hit a fly, scoring Dobbek.

Bunning held the lead until the seventh inning when singles by Faye Throneberry and rookie John Schaive and Lennie Green's infield grounder tied it.

Boros, Gustin Share Lead

DALLAS (AP) — John Gustin scenting a big pay day at last along the weary golf tour, and plodding Julius Boros, who's had many but not recently, were tied for the lead today as the $25,000 Dallas Open entered its final round.

Gustin, 27-year-old Birmingham, Ala., native playing out of Gladwyne, Pa., shot his third sub-par round yesterday—a 3-under 67—to tie the faltering Boros, the veteran from Mid-Pines, N. C., at 54 holes with 204.

The tall young man, who has won a total of $913.50 in four years of spasdomic trying along the tour but now is a regular of one month because he has a private sponsor, said it all came about because he bought himself a new putter.

Retief Waltman of Johannesburg, South Africa, had a putter Gustin liked. So he found out one could be purchased, used it Tuesday and proceeded to shoot four straight sub-par rounds — 65 in practice, and 69-68-67 in the tournament.

Boros, who started the third round yesterday leading the field by two strokes with 134 for 36 holes, sailed through the front nine in 3-under-par 32. But his putting went sour on the first four holes of the second nine and he had trouble finishing with a par 70.

The round finished in a drizzle of rain over the 6,744-yard Oak Cliff Country Club course but there were 18 sub par scores. It was the best round of the tournament.

Bo Winninger of Odessa, Tex., had a 71 to stand alone in third place with 207 while Don January of Denver shot one of the three 67's of the day for 208 and fourth place. Tied at 210 were Gardner Dickinson of West Palm Beach, Fla.; Marty Furgol of Cog Hill, Ill., and Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla. Dickinson had one of the 67's.

Wings Whip Edmonton

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Red Wings were optimistic about their chances of coming back in the National Hockey League this year today because of a 9-0 shellacking of the Edmonton farm team.

★ ★ ★

A make-shift Red Wing squad had little trouble with the beefed-up farm team yesterday as the veteran Wing stars carried most of the work load.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

The Edmonton defense also included many familiar names, including Warren Godfrey and Lou Marcon.

In addition to Ullman, goalgetters for Detroit included Alex Delvecchio, Red Kelly, Gordie Howe (2), Len Lunde and Jim Morrison, a new addition who came to Detroit in a trade with Boston during the off season.

Wertz to Detroit Deal Labeled 'Ridiculous'

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox General Manager Bucky Harris Sunday had a terse reaction to a rumor he would deal Vic Wertz to Detroit — "Absolutely ridiculous."

★ ★ ★

"There is nothing to such a story," Harris added when asked to comment on his future plans for the slugging first baseman who has been relegated to pinch hitting roles due to an assortment of ailments this season.

Sliding Injury Sends Landis to Hospital Bed

By The Associated Press

Jim Landis, the Chicago White Sox' fleet centerfielder, will be lost to the American League leaders indefinitely. But Manager Al Lopez, for one, his hoping that "indifinitely" doesn't mean for the remainder of the season and perhaps the World Series.

Landis, the man Lopez calls the key to the White Sox recent success, was one of four players injured Sunday. He was hospitalized with a ruptured blood vessel in his right leg after a 3-1 victory over Boston, coupled with two Cleveland defeats, had stretched Chicago's lead to 5½ games.

A White Sox spokesman said Landis would remain in a Boston hospital at least 48 hours for treatment and observation. Landis originally injured the leg in a recent series at Cleveland. The injury was aggravated yesterday when he took a diving slide into a base.

The skaters will be sponsored by the Detroit Stamping Company.

Decided Long After Finish

Delayed Champ at Race

ELKHART LAKE, Wis. (AP) — A high-powered Lister Jaguar that crawled over the finish line at five miles per hour won the 500-mile Road America sports car race yesterday, but not officially until until nearly five hours after the race was over.

The car is owned by veteran car builder Briggs Cunningham of Green Farms, Conn., who joined Phil Forno of New York City in driving another Lister Jag to fourth place.

The winning car was driven by Ed Crawford of Northfield, Ill., and Walt Hansgen of Westfield, N. J., who led from the 23rd lap until the car broke a rear axle two laps, or eight miles from the finish.

A record crowd, estimated at 37,000 saw the race, but went home without knowing the winner. Officials were unable to determine immediately whether Hansgen, who drove the last 266 miles, led by one lap or two. After a lap-by-lap check of 7,000 positions, it was determined that he was in front by two at the time of the breakdown and thus the winner.

Air Force Too Good for Chips

Bolling Gridders Roll in 2nd Half for 19-13 Win Over Central

SAGINAW—Bolling Air Force Base displayed the punch hat has made it one of the nation's top service teams in a 19-13 football victory over Central Michigan University.

A second half rally gave George Markis' team the decision before a crowd of 10,500 at Arthur Hill High Memorial Stadium Saturday night. Under Markis, a former assistant at Michigan State, the Ar Force team has won 40 games, lost two and tied one.

The crowd was the largest ever to attend the annual Red Feather game, staged for the benefit of the United Foundation Fund.

Central scored its touchdowns in the first period. Halfback Jerry O'Neil raced 72 yards through the middle for the first. In the closing seconds of the period, halfback Walt Beach of Pontiac went two yards around right end for a touchdown.

Widings End Season With Third Victory

Albert and LeRoy Widing, Holly's canoe-racing brother team closed their 1959 racing campaign yesterday. They figure they now have broken a "two-win season jinx," because they won the 25-mile Columbiaville-to-Genesseeville Flint River event, beating out Steve Kolonich and Ed Kendell just a few minutes from the finish. The time was 2-hours, 32 seconds.

This was their third win for 1959. They previously won the Raisin River and the Pere Marquette (Ludington) races. It was the first time they had won three events in one year.

Lopez Anxious for Clinching and Some Rest

Rare Goodman Homer Features Big Victory at Boston

BOSTON (AP)—Cautious Al Lopez, as close-mouthed as ever about winning the American League pennant, at least concedes he's making plans about what he's going to do if his White Sox take it.

★ ★ ★

"Rest," the White Sox manager said yesterday. "That's what I'm going to do. Just rest."

"Now don't go saying I said we've got it won. Not at all. That's just what I'm going to do if we win it in time to do any good before the series."

The White Sox hustled out to a 5½ game lead over staggering Cleveland yesterday, and reduced the magic number to six. That is, any combination of Chicago victories and Cleveland losses totaling six will secure the White Sox their first flag in 40 years. Chicago has 10 games remaining and Cleveland has 11.

★ ★ ★

The White Sox moved out to the margin on the strength of their 3-1 triumph over Boston and Cleveland's loss of a doubleheader to the Yankees.

Lopez was asked after the game if he would rest any players if the White Sox clinch the pennant before the end of the season.

"I sure will," he replied. "I'll rest Nellie Fox and Luis Aparicio. They've been going pretty hard and can use it. And I'll rest Jim Landis, too," he added, before he was informed that Landis will be lost for several days due to an infection on his right leg.

In the meantime, he said, the White Sox will continue "just playing them one at a time."

That was the key yesterday when his ace left-hander Billy Pierce was called on for relief duty for the first time this season.

Pierce came on in the eighth when starter Bob Shaw weakened and allowed Boston's only run. Boston had two on and one out when Pierce came in, but he got out of it without trouble. In the 9th he struck out the first man he faced, then allowed a single to Jackie Jensen.

"I'd have left him in if Jensen hadn't got that hit," Lopez said. "But he scares you that guy Frank Malzone," Boston's next batter. Turk Lown made the lead stand up.

Scrappy Billy Goodman provided the punch for the victory, flashing a 400-foot, two-run homer into the Chicago bullpen. It was his first homer in two years.

"Oh, I've hit homers here before," Goodman said. Then he smiled and added, "I just can't remember when."

Goodman said the Chicago players don't feel they have the pennant in their pockets.

★ ★ ★

"We know we've got a ways to go yet," he said. "But we've got a 5½ game lead over Cleveland. I'd rather be where we are than where they are."

Tribe Up Against Wall Following Sweep by Yanks

In fact, you have to hold a mirror real close to catch a faint breath of life.

"Come on in and join the wake," said Manager Joe Gordon last night in the clubhouse after Cleveland dropped a doubleheader to the New York Yankees, 2-1 in 11 innings, and 1-0.

"I'll concede when we run out of numbers," he said with a sad smile. "How many have we got left? Eleven? There have been 11-game winning streaks before."

But there was no conviction in his voice. It had been a long tough Sunday for the Indians."

"We still have a faint shot," he said. "Faint, but still a shot. If we could get the kind of pitching we got today. But somebody would have to hit."

★ ★ ★

Gordon shook his head wearily. "What a shame to waste that kind of pitching complete games by Jack Harshman and Jim Perry who allowed the Yanks only three runs. But we couldn't hit. We didn't even get the pleasure of clinching second place."

Asked to pinpoint the spot where the race swung definitely in favor of Chicago, Gordon had a quick answer.

"That weekend in Cleveland Aug. 28-29-30 when they beat us four straight."

"The big factor was our bad play against the White Sox, the mechanical errors we made. They cost us four of five games to Chicago."

Gordon gave credit to the Yanks' Bobby Richardson for a fine cutoff and relay of Mickey Mantle's toss to nip Rocky Colavito trying to score from second base in the 11th inning of the opener. Tito Francona already had scored the first run of the game on Woody Held's hit and Colavito also was waved in by third base coach Jo Jo White.

"If Richardson hadn't made the cutoff Rocky could have walked in," said Gordon.

White, who has done a fine coaching job for the Indians all season, blamed himself.

"I sent him in but I shouldn't have," he said. "There was nobody out at the time and the bases would have been loaded if Colavito had been held on third." As it was the side was retired by Eli Grba without further scoring.

With time running out, the Indians now have to win all 11 games while Chicago wins five of 10 to get a tie. No wonder the folks at the wake were talking about "a faint shot."

Iowa Speedster Wins Fair Title

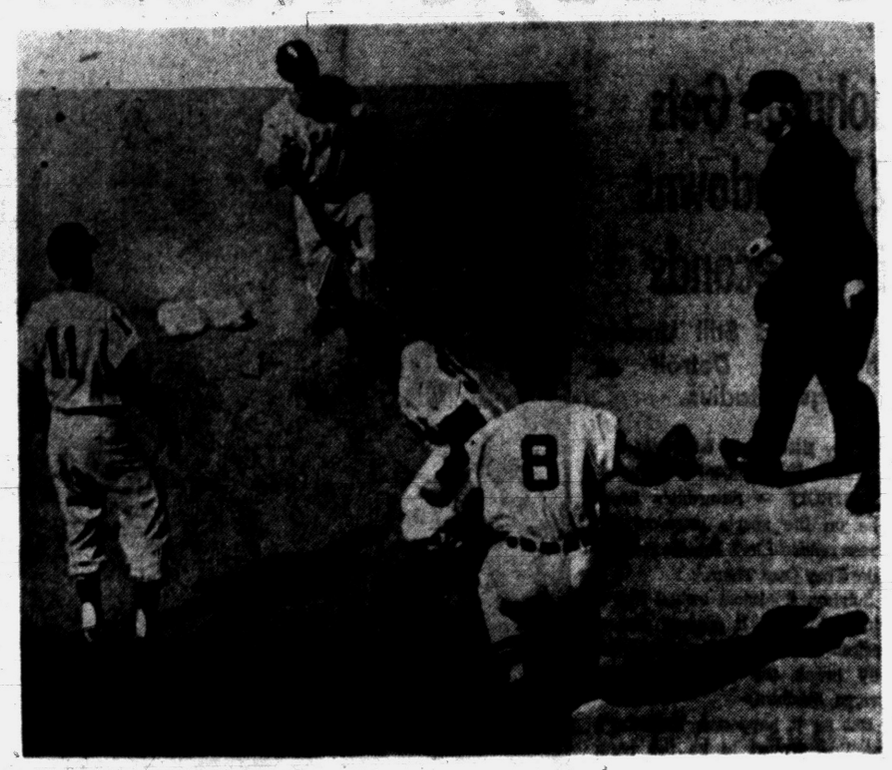

DETROIT (AP) — A new track record was set yesterday at the Michigan Fairgrounds' one-mile course as Don White of Keokuk, Iowa, won the 250-mile stock car race at an average speed of 79.97 miles per hour.

White had the pole with the fastest qualifying time of 8.95 m.p.h., also a record.

Driving a 1959 Ford, White finished 2½ laps ahead of Norman Nelson of Milwaukee in a Mercury. White's elapsed time was 3 hours 8 minutes and 18 seconds.

Rebuild NL Lead to Two Games

Giants Continue to Bounce Back

By The Associated Press

Bill Rigney's San Francisco Giants continue to bounce back after every seemingly fatal knockdown.

For the first time since they leaped past Milwaukee into first place a little over two months ago, the Giants appeared ready for the knockout punch. And for the fifth time they came back yesterday to win "a big one" and open more daylight between themselves and their relentless pursuers.

Their once four-game lead reduced to a mere half-game, the Giants had only to lose to Philadelphia Saturday to set the stage for a three-way tie for first place, provided Milwaukee won. The Dodgers were idle.

Just as they had done on so many previous occasions, the Giants bounced back with a victory Saturday and yesterday for a 1-0 squeaker over the Phillies to boost their first place margin to two games over the Dodgers, who bowed 4-3 to Pittsburgh, and the Braves, who were beaten 3-2 by Cincinnati.

★ ★ ★

Yesterday, the Giants won their second straight while the Dodgers had their five-game winning streak broken and the Braves had their unbeaten string snapped at seven.

Chicago's White Sox opened up a 5½ game bulge on Cleveland in the American League, defeating Boston 3-1 as New York was taking two from the Indians 2-1 in 11 innings and 1-0. Washington whipped Detroit 5-1 and Kansas City swept a doubleheader from Baltimore 9-5 and 4-1.

Jack Sanford pitched the Giant victory, limiting the Phillies to five hits. But he needed help from Mike McCormick in the ninth. There were two out and Harry Anderson on second, via a double, when McCormick took over and got Ed Bouchee to end the game with a fly to Willie Mays.

The lone run, off loser Don Cardwell, came in the second and was driven in by pinch hitter Dusty Rhodes with a sacrifice fly.

Four Pittsburgh home runs ruined the Dodgers. The last was hit by Hank Foiles in the eighth, off reliever Chuck Churn, snapping a 3-3 tie. The others were hit by Ray Mejias, Bob Skinner and Dick Stuart off starter Johnny Podres. Ronnie Kline went all the way for his 10th victory.

Eddie Kasko's fourth hit, a seventh-inning single, scored Frank Robinson and enabled the Reds to break a 3-3 deadlock with Milwaukee. Bob Purkey yielded nine hits for his 12th triumph. The loser was Warren Spahn, who was attempting to register 20 victories for the 10th time. He lost his 14th. Eddie Mathews hit his 38th homer for the Braves.

Roger Maris' two-run single with the bases loaded featured a five-run 10th inning, enabling the Athletics to snap a 4-4 tie in the opener with Baltimore. Bud Daley, after five straight failures, finally won his 16th for the A's, doling out six hits in the nightcap. It was his sixth victory in seven decisions with Baltimore this season.

Area's Skiers Dominate Meet

Cass Lake's water skiers slipped off with the lion's share of honors in yesterday's first annual jumping meet, put on by Cass Lake Water Ski club.

Paul Boel of Cass Lake jumped 102 feet for top honor. Another Cass Laker, Tony Mitchell, was second, with 92. Third place went to 12-year old Randy McCullough, state junior champion, with a leap of 80 feet.

Trick riding by national champion Henry Holmes of Miami, Fla., and Mitchell's barefoot exhibition were extra features of the meet, which attracted skiers from Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, as well as Michigan. Some 50 took part.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A Kansas redhead, Marilynn Smith of Wichita, fired a 3-under-par 70 yesterday to win the $7,500 Memphis women's open golf tournament.

She opened the final round in fourth place but her 33-37—70 over the 6,675-yard, 36-37—73 Ridgeway Country Club course jumped her to the title.

Marilynn's 72-hole total was 76-77-72-70—295. Her share of the pot was $1,247.35.

VICTOR'S RETURN — U. S. National tennis champion Neale Fraser volleys a low shot across the net at Forest Hills as he defeated Alex Olmedo easily, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4 for the title. Foreign players swept the singles titles as Maria Bueno of Brazil won the women's championship.

Coe Rated Edge in Defense of His 1958 Title

Billy Patton, Ward, Westland, Chapman, Figure in Title Test

The entries include six former champions and numerous others capable of going all the way in the six-day grind. But the toll on so-called hot shots could be terrific early on the Broadmoor Course that rests at the foot of the Rocky Mountains 6,500 feet above sea level.

Defending champion Charley Coe of Oklahoma City was among the entries being given a good chance to win. The lanky, extra-lean Coe has won several tourneys on the hilly 7,010-yard par 36-35 course here, among them the Trans-Mississippi.

Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C., a sensation in such tournaments as the U.S. Open and the Masters, could be ready to make a charge for this one. Patton is a smooth putter, and that figures to help him considerably on greens that are hard to read, because of the mountain backgrounds and shadows.

While it's another token appearance for ageless Charles (Chick) Evans of Chicago, who won the crown back in 1916 and 1920, four other former champs figure very much in the running.

They include Harvie Ward Jr. of San Francisco, 1955 and 1956; Congressman Jack Westland, of Everett, Wash., 1952; and Dick Chapman of Osterville, Mass., 1940.

Among the numerous other outstanding players shuffled in the deck was Dean Beman of Bethesda, Md., who won the recent British amateur and has been playing well.

The field will be whittled to 64 players by tomorrow night. Two rounds will be played Wednesday and Thursday, with the 36-hole semifinals Friday and the championship match Saturday.

Voting on Pre-Season Poll

Writers Pick LSU

By The Associated Press

Sportswriters and sportscasters trying to pick the national champion college football team in the 1959 pre-season poll inadvertently also picked the champions of the major conferences.

Louisiana State, not too surprisingly, was picked to defend successfully its national championship. The Bengals wound up with 60 first place votes and 1,440 points to 48 first place votes and 1,370 points for second-place Oklahoma.

The voters were asked to name 10 teams in the order in which they believed the schools would finish in the national ranking. By checking to find the team that finished highest of the teams in any one conference it was easy to figure how the voters believed the campaign in that particular conference would end.

Here's the way the conference champs were more or less accidentally picked:

SEC — Louisiana State, 1,440 points; Big Ten — Wisconsin, 645 points; Big Eight—Oklahoma, 1,370 points; Independents — Army, 696 points; Southern — West Virginia, 1 point; Missouri Valley — N. Tex. State, 1 point; Far West Five — USC, 228 points; Atlantic Coast—North Carolina, 288 points; Border — Arizona State U., 2 points; Skyline—Wyoming & Utah tied, 4 points each; Southwest — SMU, 720 points; Ivy—Dartmouth, 14 points; Rocky Mountain—Colorado State U., 1 point.

From the national standpoint, defense-minded Auburn with 17 first place votes and 1,047 points finished in third place behind LSU and Oklahoma, with Southern Methodist a rather distant fourth.

Others in the top 10 were, in order, Army, Wisconsin, Ohio State, Mississippi, Iowa and Northwestern. The voters rated four big 10 teams in the top 10 of the nation, with two more—Purdue and Michigan State—in the second 10.

Twenty-two teams received one or more first-place votes, with four of them—Penn State, Maryland, UCLA and Indiana—failing to make the top 20.

AFL Has Ample Capital

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Backers of the new American Professional Football League say they won't need to bank on revenue from telecasts of their games, even though they expect some.

In a two-day meeting ending here Sunday, they made it clear the new league can "very definitely" get along on gate receipts and capital.

At least two of the backers, Lamar Hunt of Dallas and Barron Hilton of Los Angeles, are sons of multi-millionaires.

None of the league officials would say which networks are bidding for television rights to league games. The Columbia Broadcasting System has a monopoly on National Football League telecasts.

Harry Wismer, president of the AFL's New York franchise and still a stockholder in the NFL's Washington Redskins, said there is no intention of engaging in a salary war with the older league.

"But you can bet we won't pay any less than they do in the National Football League," he said.

League officials meet again Sept. 27 in New York when they are expected to announce two more cities to make up the eight team conference. They will also detail their draft policy, expected to be about the same as the NFL.

The game of fumbles continued when Steve Junker took a 13 yard pass from Rote and then fumbled on his own 34. But Lary ended the Cleveland threat by intercepting Plum's pass.

But again the Lions couldn't get a drive started. Ken Webb fumbled and the Browns had the ball on the Detroit 40. This time the 60 yard march ended with Ed "Big Mo' " Modzelewski hitting from the one yard line on the 10th play. This made it 21-17.

The 5th Lion fumble, this time by Lewis on his own 23, started the Browns on their way again. Bob Ptacek, ex-Michigan star saw his first action and he went 24 yards to the three from where Mitchell carried over.

The line star of the game was Bill Glass, who played both ways at center when Charley Ane was in the final quarter. He took over ejected from the game and defensively he smeared Plum for a couple of losses, plus a recovery of a fumble.

Rookie guard Bob Grottkau was again a prime factor in giving Rote the protection he needed. Rote completed 13 of 29 passes in going the distance for the second straight game. The win gave the Lions a 3-2-1 exhibition mark with one to play.

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (UPI) — After more than 30 years, the bunny hug and the shimmy are legal again in Jamestown.

Little Rock 'Bombers' Pray With Graham

"Young men, I could very well be here instead of you except for the grace of Jesus Christ," said evangelist Billy Graham. "Maybe this happened to bring you to Jesus."

"They were very remorseful and two accepted Jesus on the spot," said James T. Karam, clothier and Baptist church leader who accompanied Graham on the Sunday visit.

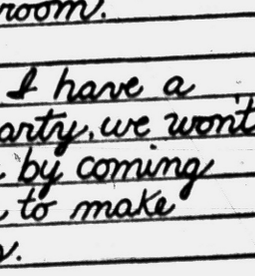

It was Graham's own idea to visit the men, Karam said. Graham was in Little Rock for a religious rally.

The accused men are J. D. Sims, 35, and Jesse Raymond Perry, 24, both truck drivers; Samuel Beavers, 42, a carpenter, and John T. Coggins, 39, car salesman. Also charged in the three bombings is E. A. Lauderdale Sr. 48, lumber dealer and a leader of the segregationist Capital Citizens Council. He is free on bond.

Social Outcast No More, Spain Bolsters Economy

(Until recently, Spain had spent the 20 years since the end of its Civil War as a virtual outcast from the society of nations. Today, though, it is assuming an increasingly important role in world affairs. This is the first of four dispatches on Spain today, describing its re-emergence as a recognized power, its economic health and the future course of its government.)

By HENRY F. SCHULTE

MADRID (UPI) — It was once popular to exclude Spain geographically and politically from the Western world.

"Europe ends at the Pyrenees," was a favorite judgment of historians and politicians, surveying a country that for seven centuries was a Moorish outpost and which had missed many of the influences that shaped the modern states.

During the dark days following Spain's 1936-39 Civil War, that was truer than ever. The Spain of Generalisimo Francisco Franco — a "Fascist dictatorship" accused of having aided the Axis powers — was a social and economic outcast.

Today, however, that has changed.

The strategic importance of the nation in the fight to contain Communism was responsible. It is a member of the United Nations and other top political and economic international organizations, a recipient of large quantities of foreign aid and a key link in the West's chain of defense.

Spain, which saw only about 80,000 visitors cross its borders in 1946, is now a major tourist attraction. About four million strangers are expected to jam its museums and crowd its sunny beaches this year.

In 1946, the United Nations agreed to bar Spain from membership and suggested the withdrawal of foreign diplomatic recognition. All embassies were reduced in status or close, except for the Argentinian and Portuguese.

In 1950, the situation was reversed. The diplomatic missions came back. In 1953, the "Pact of Madrid" saw Spain and the United States joined by a Mutual Defense Agreenment. In 1956, Spain was admitted to the United Nations.

20,000 AMERICANS

Today, an estimated 20,000 Americans live in Spain in official capacities, including 7,000 airmen who maintain a series of key Strategic Air Command bases, from which atom bombers operate.

The rest are Navy personnel, civilians involved in constructing Air Force and Navy bases and members of various U.S. aid and diplomatic groups.

In July, Spain took a major step toward economic integration with the rest of the world, especially Europe. It was admitted to full membership in the Organization for European Economic Cooperation and the International Monetary Fund, which made 51 international groups that had embraced the one-time outcast.

ELIGIBLE FOR AID

Its admittance to OEEC and IMF made Spain eligible for aid and loans of about 400 million dollars, enough, it was hoped, to help it out of a financial crisis that was caused at least in part by the destruction of the Civil War and the international boycott that followed World War II.

Admission to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, so far withheld because of the objections by some NATO members to the Franco regime, now appears to be a good possibility.

When that happens, as political observers believe it surely will, then the last vestiges of a time when "Europe ended at the Pyrenees" will be dead.

Earlier this year, anti-Fascists had talked of impending economic catastrophe that might topple the Caudillo.

But this summer, he instituted a program of economic modernization backed by foreign capital which was given a good chance of putting the national economy back on an even keel. Even Franco's opponents conceded that this strengthened his position considerably.

(Next: Spain's fight for economic stability.)

Approve Late Report of 1958 UAW Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rackets Committee got the Senate's consent Friday to file a report on its 1958 investigation of the United Auto Workers Union after Congress adjourns.

Members said privately they doubted that they ever could agree, and that rival reports might be filed. No one would guess how soon that might be. The report was due last Jan. 31.

Capitol Columns Won't Be Cut Up for Premiums

WASHINGTON (AP) — A company has abandoned plans to give away chunks of the Capitol's old columns as soap premiums.

* * *

The 24 historic columns were dismantled to make way for an extension of the Capitol's east front, and officials are trying to figure out what to do with them.

But, Lachner said, the Capitol architect, J. George Stewart, discouraged the company. "We abandoned the idea reluctantly," he said.

Could Have Hit Moon Long Ago

If U.S. Had Emphasized Project We Would Be There Now

FORT MONMOUTH, N. J. — (UPI) — The United States could "easily" have hit the moon with a space rocket five years ago if more emphasis had been placed on the project, a leading scientist said today.

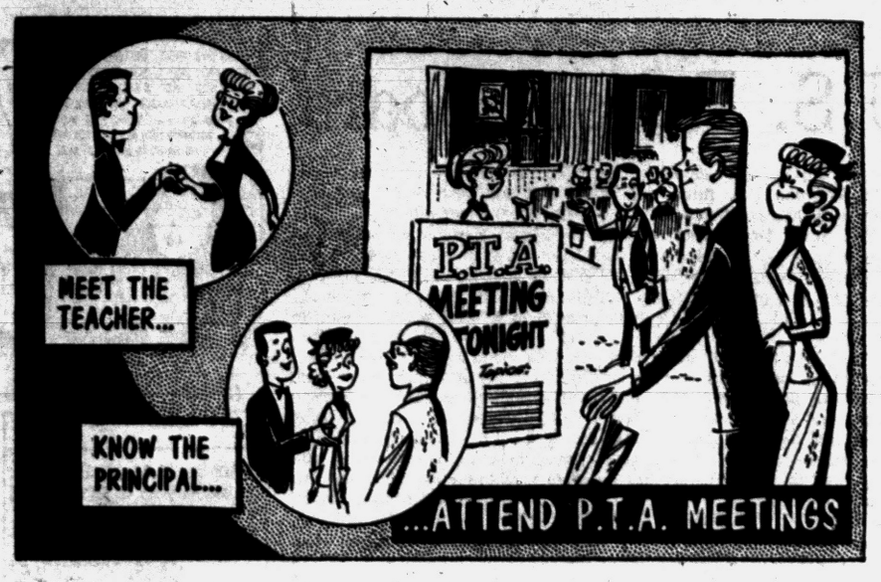

Dr. Harold Zahl, director of research at the U.S. Signal Corps research and development laboratories here, commented that "probably the United States was a little bit derelect in not appreciating the international aspects of that sensational experiment."

"Now it seems as though we are lagging, but it is only because we were not playing for headlines," he said.

Zahl said the Soviet Union's success in landing a rocket on the moon was based on 10 years of "very hard work."

He added, "The Russians have put more emphasis on this particular experiment than we have over the last 10 years. We have been stressing it only in recent years."

"If we had decided we wanted to reach the moon 10 years ago, we could easily have been there five years ago. It is only a question of what is considered important," he said.

For Best Education

Know the Teachers to Help Your Child

By DR. BENJAMIN FINE and LILLIAN FINE

Parents who limit themselves to interest in homework are like people who read of politics in newspapers and don't vote.

★ ★ ★

If you make an active effort to enable the school staff to know and take an interest in your child, you are doing your duty and performing a service for the school as well. In the main the schools welcome your interest.

Occasionally you will find a principal or teacher who is opposed to "interference." If so, you can usually show the school your interest is genuine.

An invitation to dinner or to a social gathering may break the ice so you can phone the teacher once in a while to learn how things are going.

Sooner than anyone else, the homeroom teacher is likely to know if Junior is cutting algebra or fooling around in study hall. And having met you, she is more likely to take an interest in your child's progress.

A GUIDANCE STAFF

You will find that most high schools now have a guidance staff whose primary job is to help youngsters choose their courses, keep out of trouble, and meet scholastic requirements.

Sometimes these people are called counselors, sometimes advisors, sometimes guidance teachers. Whatever their title, they are people you ought to know.

Don't neglect the principal. His recommendations may have the decisive effect in opening doors to college or a job. It is probably preferable to meet the principal in a social or extracurricular way if you can.

A PROBLEM TEACHER

Sometimes parents may find their youngster under the control of a menacing teacher. What can you do about it? The answer is not a simple one at all.

In one case a kindergarten teacher had been in a school system for 20 years. Much evidence had accumulated showing that she was actually a hazard for little children.

She would not permit 5-year-olds to play or dance or sing. Some were locked in dark closets for minor infractions. Face slappings were not uncommon.

A group of parents went to the school board to complain. "Why don't you see the superintendent?" they were told.

They saw the superintendent. "Sorry, there's nothing I can do," he said. "She has tenure. She has her rights."

The parents went to the state education commissioner. "There's nothing I can do," the commissioner said. "The teacher has tenure. If you bring charges against her, we can act."

The parents soon learned that "incompetence" is not enough to dislodge a teacher with tenure. Finally the PTA joined forces. The pressure became too great for the superintendent. He transferred the teacher to another school. The parents were only partly happy. Their children would no longer suffer, but what about the children at the other school?

It should be the aim of every parent to see his child in a classroom that does not have more than 25 children. And if your child is on double session, or threatened with it, you should attend the first parent-teacher Association and board of education meeting in your community and find out what is happening to your school building program.

But the parent must go far deeper into the situation than attending school meetings.

If we were to give but one piece of advice to parents of high school age, it would be, "join your PTA and become active in it."

But as a rule the PTA has little power in the control or changing of a school system for the better. Too many PTAs are tied too closely to the school superintendent or principal.

If parents wish to join together for the general good of their public schools they must have an organization with alert, well informed leaders.

In some localities, civic organizations such as the League of Women Voters and various college and professional groups have been able to bring about educational reforms.

The National Citizens' Council for Better Schools, 9 East 40th St., New York City, is well known. Or consult with your own state committee—some 38 states now have them.

How do you organize a school committee? There are two types of committees—those appointed by the board of education, and those independently formed. We have found that the appointed committees are usually of little more effect than the PTAs. On the other hand, committees that spring up from the grass roots are usually effective.

There are some 12,000 such committees in the nation today. And their number is growing.

PARENTS HAVE POWER

Despite limitations, parents have far more power than they realize. Too many citizens are apathetic when it comes to school elections.

Parents should learn the difference between a bond issue and an operating burget, between an elected and an appointed board official, between an open and an executive session.

Delve into your own school districts; find out if they should be consolidated or centralized. Check on the salaries your teachers get, and see how they compare with neighboring communities. But for facts and for action, parents should be properly organized.

Some Ask: Will It Cause a Panic

Rising Interest Rates Add to Debt Ills

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—New increases in the cost of borrowed money are adding to Uncle Sam's woes in managing the record national debt of 290 billion dollars. He's in a box and sees no easy way out.

The problem is a critical one because what happens to federal finances affects the entire economy. A few observers even foresee a possible money panic that would shake the nation like nothing since the great depression.

Government money managers say the word "panic" isn't in their vocabulary. They don't believe disaster is in the offing. Even so, they concede the scope of the problems they face.

Interest rates are higher than they have been in a generation. The odds are that they'll go still higher in the months ahead. Now the big question is: will they climb to the point where they'll hurt the economy and perhaps contribute to a new recession?

All interest rates have risen sharply the past month. Uncle Sam now pays 4 per cent when he borrows money for just three months.

In early August he paid about 3 per cent.

There are two basic reasons for the climb in rates:

1. The demand for loans is increasing faster than the supply of money available for lending. With the economy prospering, businessmen and consumers are borrowing and spending as never before.

2. Growth in the supply of credit is being restricted by the Federal Reserve Board. The central bank wants to keep a check on borrowings, lest they finance an inflationary boom that would end up as a bust.

The treasury's money managers are in sympathy with the policies of the reserve board. Nevertheless, credit restraints inevitably contribute to the high interest rates which are a big part of the treasury's problem.

At present, Uncle Sam would have to pay about 5 per cent interest to borrow money for five years or longer. However, the law forbids him to pay more than 4¼ per cent. This means all his loans must be for less than five years, where no ceiling applies.

President Eisenhower asked Congress to remove the 4¼ per cent lid. Congress shelved the proposal. There has been talk that Eisenhower will call a special session in the fall to renew his request. Now it seems more likely he'll wait until Congress reconvenes in January.

Since Uncle Sam will have to borrow, or reborrow, about 85 billion dollars in the next year, the ceiling will force him to pile up more and more debts that will come due in less than five years. An ever-samaller proportion of the national debt will be in long-term loans.

Borrowings to pay off maturing debts will come more often, and in larger amounts.

This burgeoning of government demand for short term money is putting tremendous upward pressure on interest rates in this sector of the money market. It could add to a credit crisis, should one develop.

Lovable Latins Lacking in London—Gina Likes It

LONDON (AP)—Visiting actress Gina Lollobrigida says she loves London because: 1. Nobody pesters here; 2. It's restful; 3. There are no pappagalli about.

With More to Come

Travel Between U.S. Russia Soars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans and Russians have been visiting back and forth this year at a rate unequalled since the cold war began.

State Department officials estimate that about 10,000 Americans, including Vice President Richard M. Nixon, have visited the Soviet Union so far in 1959. A good many more Americans, including President Eisenhower, plan to take a look at the Kremlin before the year is out.

Traffic in the other direction has not been quite so heavy, but it has far surpassed any previous year since the Communists took over in Russia. Close to 1,000 Russians, including two deputy premiers and 150 ballet dancers, have come to America since last Jan. 1.

Still to come, following Premier Nikita Khrushchev, are assorted other delegations, including eight experts on quantum electronics and a basketball team.

President Eisenhower regards this rising tide of "person to person contacts" as a hopeful omen for world peace. He believes that much of the suspicion and hostility plaguing U.S.-Russian relationships can be eliminated by the simple process of getting to know one another better.

The President discussed this idea with Khrushchev at the 1955 Geneva summit conference, and suggested that the two countries arrange reciprocal exchanges of visits by educators, scientists and "cultural representatives."

Although some exchanges were made under the agreement last year, the program didn't get into high gear until early 1959. Since then, scarcely a week has gone by without the arrival of a big American delegation in Moscow and a Russian delegation in New York.

PLENTY OF VARIETY

Russia sent its famous Bolshoi Ballet troupe to perform in several U.S. cities last spring; the United States sent the New York Philharmonic Orchestra to tour the Soviet Union.

A U.S. variety show, organized by television emcee Ed Sullivan, was recently in Russia. A "Russian Festival" featuring the Pyatnitsky chorus and several folk dance groups was recently in the United States.

The Harlem Globetrotters professional basketball team played exhibition games in Moscow during July. A 65-man Russian track team came to Philadelphia at the same time to compete against U.S. athletes.

SCIENCE STRESSED

Exchanges of visits in scientific and technical fields have ranged over the entire spectrum. The State Department report lists two-way visits by experts in electronics, nuclear power, polio vaccines, oceanography, nervous disorders, pharmacology, endocrinology, petroleum chemistry, computer systems, antibiotics, astronomy, soil mechanics, horticulture, and crystallography.

Harvard arranged a five-man temporary faculty swap with the University of Leningrad, and Columbia University made a similar three-professor trade with Moscow University.

The U.S.-Soviet agreement provides for exchanges of "cultural exhibits" as well as human representatives.

EXHIBITION OPENS

The Russians opened their exhibition in New York June 29, and the United States put its wares and way of life on display in a Moscow exhibition beginning July 25.

* * *

Arrangements have also been worked out for an exchange of motion pictures. Seven Soviet films are to be shown in the United States during the remainder of 1959, and ten U.S. films will be offered in Russian theaters.

The State Department reports "some progress" in talks with the Russians about an exchange of television and radio programs, but no firm deals have been made as yet.

The exchange agreement signed in early 1958 was for a two-year period. But U.S. officials are hopeful that an extension will be negotiated this fall.

If Russia agrees to keep swinging doors in the Iron Curtain, the Exchange program will doubtless be expanded considerably in future years.

"I wouldn't be surprised to see 20,000 American tourists visit the Soviet Union next year," said one State Department official.

President Eisenhower would like to see an even greater expansion. One of his ideas—which he has discussed with high government officials on several occasions—is to invite about 10,000 Russian students to spend a year in the United States, living in American homes and attending American schools.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has assured the President that such a mass importation of Russian students wouldn't create any special security problems for his agency. But other government officials have been lukewarm about the project.

Moon Shot Ups Space Issues

NEW YORK (AP) — The "science fiction" issues suprted in a mixed stock market early today in response to news that the Russians had landed a rocket on the moon.

The electronics - missile - rocket fuel stocks gained fractions to more than 2 points on the theory that the United States will step up its space age efforts in view of the Soviet triumph.

Most of the key stocks showed gains or losses going from fractions to about a point. Motors were actively lower except for Studebaker-Packard regular and when-issued stock which continued to advance fractionally in heavy turnover.

General Tire, which has a rocket subsidiary, and Thiokol, also in rocket fuel, advanced about 2 apiece. Texas Instruments rose about 3.

American Motors dropped back about a point and Ford was down more than that. Chrysler and General Motors lost fractions.

Rubbers were higher, Goodyear adding more than a point. Oils were narrowly mixed. Most leading rails dropped fractions.

Gains of about 2 were posted for General Dynamics and Du Pont. U. S. Gypsum was down a point. Eastman Kodak picked up a point or so.

Grain Futures Steady to Weak

CHICAGO (AP) — The grain futures market started off steady to weak today with all new crop corn contracts again slipping to new low prices for the season although setbacks were in small fractions.

★ ★ ★

September corn and all soybean contracts were under fairly stiff pressure and lost about a cent within a few minutes. The weakness appeared to be a carryover of trade opinion that a good volume of both corn and soybeans will be moving into commercial channels at least for a while when harvest of the new crops become more general.

Wheat held within a steady range on further reports of meager producer selling but commercial demand was light and no export business was reported over the weekend.

Wheat was ⅛ to ½ cent a bushel higher near the end of the first hour, September $1.91⅛; corn unchanged to 1⅜ lower, September $1.15⅜; oats unchanged to ⅜ lower, September new type contract 65⅞; rye ¼ to ¾ lower, September $1.30¾; soybeans 1⅛ to 1¼ lower, September $2.06⅜.

Two Sets of Officers

Midwest's Democratic Harmony Talks Are Split

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The 14-state Midwest Democratic Conference has split into two factions, dissolving the harmony sought at a weekend meeting here.

Each group elected officers and accused the other of holding a rump meeting Sunday.

Both factions said party issues and potential presidential candidates were not affected by the split.

Heading the rival groups are James More of Harlan, Iowa, and Frank Theis of Arkansas City, Kan.

More, as conference chairman, opened the business meeting by ruling that a constitution adopted six months ago at Milwaukee was illegal. He said there wasn't a quorum at Milwaukee and no prior notice was given of the proposed constitutional change.

When he announced his ruling, party officers from 11 states walked out and held a separate meeting. They represented Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Dakota, West Virginia and Wisconsin, and claimed 37 of the 54 votes in the conference.

More, who was retained as chairman of his faction, said his group included representatives from Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, South Dakota and Oklahoma. Most of them appeared to be former party officers.

Both sides said it would be up to the National Democratic Committee to decide which represents the conference.

The Theis faction scheduled a meeting next March 20 in Detroit. More's group was invited to hold its next meeting in the fall of 1960 at Lincoln, Neb.

More said Paul Butler, national committee chairman, was behind the walkout and wants to control the conference.

"I don't know why Butler wants me removed." More told newsmen. "Nobody can control this conference except its members."

Marguerite R. Benson of Milwaukee, conference vice chairman, and Ruby Harris of Wichita, Kan., conference secretary, walked out with Theis and were re-elected by his group.

Ready to Hike UAW's Dues?

Proposal Expected at Convention Next Month in Atlantic City

DETROIT (AP)—A proposal to raise United Auto Workers dues probably will be made at the Union's international convention in Atlantic City, N.J., next month.

★ ★ ★

UAW Secretary-Treasurer Emil Mazey, in a statement Sautrday night, said that Executive Board members agreed at a meeting here last week that "both the general fund of the Union, from which is paid salaries and operating expennes, and the strike fund are in need of strengthening."

★ ★ ★

Mazey said the board reached no decision on a recommendation to be presented to the convention "either in the terms of a suggested amount or on the allocation of any increase."

★ ★ ★

Wanted by Air Force: City Electronics Men

The Pontiac Air Force Recruiting Station is accepting men between the ages of 17-34 for aptitude testing for immediate enlistment in the field of electronics, it was announced today by T./Sgt. Charles A. Ahnen, commanding officer at the local station.

The tests are given at the station twice each month. Those who qualify may enlist with the understanding that they will be placed in one of the fields requiring electronics adaptability such as guided missiles, radar repair, atomic weapons and many others.

'My Duty to Set Example,' Says New Miss America

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—The new Miss America says she thinks it is her duty to "educate herself, to make herself as wholesome as possible so as to set an example for the women of America."

So spoke Lynda Lee Mead, 20, of Natchez, Miss., Sunday. She won the title Saturday night, along with a $10,000 scholarship and the possibility of earning about $75,000 from personal appearances.

Miss Mead, a junior at the University of Mississippi, intends to return to school after her year as Miss America is over, then go to get a master's degree in English.

"I like to read and listen to music," she said. She added that music did not include rock 'n' roll. "I just haven't been able to catch on to it."

Boy friend? "There is no one terribly serious in my life."

Eventual goal? "Ultimately, marriage and a family but it'll be years from now, I'm sure. I'm not ready for that yet."

Miss Mead says she'd like to meet Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev during his American visit. She added that meeting President Eisenhower "would be the thrill of a lifetime."

Miss Mead is the second girl in a row from Mississippi to win the title. Mary Ann Mobley of Brandon, Miss., Miss America 1959, also is a University of Mississippi student. This happened once before — Miss Pennsylvanias won in 1935 and 1936.

Miss Mead is 5 feet 7, has brown hair and green eyes and measures 36-24-36. She did not win any preliminary awards. She has just a trace of a Southern accent.

"This is a challenge to any girl, especially so for me because of the fine example Mary Ann and my other predecessors have set," said Miss Mead.

"I don't know when I'll get back to Natchez, but it will be as soon as possible. I'll never forget what the people of Natchez have done for me."

Second in the contest was Miss Wisconsin, Mary Alice Fox, 20, of Sheboygan, Wis. She won a $3,000 scholarship.

In third place was Miss Washington, Sharon Joyce Vaughn, 21, of Seattle, who won a $2,500 scholarship. Miss California, 19-year-old Susan Diane Bronson of San Lorenzo, Calif., was fourth and won a $2,000 scholarship. Fifth place and a $1,500 scholarship was taken by Miss Arizona, Patricia Anne Allebrand, 18, of Yuma, Ariz.

He Hips a 7-Shooter in New Fall Western

By JOE FINNIGAN
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Television's Western shows all resort to "gimmicks" as audience grabbers but a new fall oater goes one step further when the cowboy saunters down Main street armed with a seven shooter.

★ ★ ★

"Most of the other cowboys have six shooters or rifles but our 'Johnny Ringo' has a seven shooter," producer-writer Aaron Spelling said.

"We just subtracted three shots so the odds wouldn't be completely in his favor," Spelling laughed.

Describing the unique weapon, Spelling said it has six regular shots like other pistols but contains a hidden second barrel which fires a shotgun shell for good measure.

TO SELL PISTOL

Aaron hopes to sell the pistol to kiddies once the show gets under way. Spelling and his wife, actress Carolyn Jones, are a rags-to-riches couple who rose from filmland obscurity to the high income tax bracket.

"Granted, the problems of a Western are simple," Aaron said. "The rancher needs a sack of salt or some water but along with that you can treat other problems that faced the Old West—problems that we face today, in fact.

"There are many subjects which are subtly portrayed in a Western," he revealed. "For instance, in one of our shows we discuss Russian tyranny.

"Remember the World War II bomber that was found in the Libyan Desert some time back," Aaron asked. "Will, in one 'Ringo' segment we're doing a story based on that but we'll use a deserted Civil War coach that's discovered.

"Of course, the characterization is different but the bomber story gave us the idea."

Like many successful TV writers, Spelling moved on to films after initial success. But he's returned to video.

"There's not as much excitment in movie writing for me," he claimed. "Too many people are making too few decisions in movie production.

"If my show is not a success it will be my fault because I'll be making the decisions," Spelling said firmly.

Steel Talks Full Again

But McDonald Warns Union Won't Budge on Its Demands

NEW YORK (AP) — Full-scale negotiations in the nation's longest steel strike resume today in the shadow of a warning from the union that it will not budge.

United Steelworkers Union President David J. McDonald made the statement while appearing on a television program (WPIX-TV) Sunday.

He said the union does not intend to back down on its demand for higher wages and its refusal to accept changes in current work practices. Prestrike wages averaged $3.11 an hour.

★ ★ ★

Accusing the steel companies of trying to "turn back the clock," McDonald said the union would not retreat no matter how long the strike lasts.

Negotiations have been stepped up since President Eisenhower told both sides to begin bargaining in earnest, but on Friday a federal mediator had reported "no progress on any basic consideration."

Freighters Still Use Coal

DULUTH — A growing number of Great Lakes freighters are now powered by oil, but coal still is generally used.

5 New Weekend Shows Omen of Lousy Season?

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI) — The scorecard, based on five new shows that turned up on the TV tube during the weekend, indicates this highly touted 1959-60 season will not distinguish itself through its filmed series.

★ ★ ★

Last night, the one-hour adventure series, Riverboat, came around the bend on NBC-TV and hove into view with her decks awash with old plots and jetsam, shabby sub plots and still more sub plots.

Maverick began its third season on ABC-TV last night—partly opposite Riverboat. There were signs that the effort to maintain freshness, with and deft satirical touch is starting to wear it down. Jack Garner and Jack Kelly played dual and duel rolls in an episode filled with tired, irrelevant gags and ludicrous situations.

Another NBC-TV western that arrived Saturday came up with an interesting premier. Henry Fonda, the star of Deputy, plays the role of an unshaven, rougish chief marshal. In the words of his costar, Allen Case, he "thinks like a crook." This personality quirk made for some wild scenes. While it was generally entertaining I felt the gags should cease when the killings commence. Killing ain't that funny, Hank.

The Man and the Challenge, another NBC-TV show that began life Saturday, stars George Nader in a commercialized pseudo scientific setting (complete with girl). As an example of this fast buck approach to science, I offer this line, spoken by a so-called scientist during a balloon ascent: "Take 'em up to 100,000 feet — very slowly."

On Friday, the Keenan Wynn-Bob Mathias series, Troubleshooters, rolled onto NBC-TV. Despite a contrived story about a sweaty bunch of construction workers fighting Indians in Venezuela, the unpretentious look of the show had a disarming effect.

★ ★ ★

Saturday night, CBS-TV offered a two-hour look at Miss America Pageant, a tasteless "interview" with the winner by Marilyn van Debur struck a blatantly commercial note, otherwise the show was undistinguished during its first 110 minutes. I understand that if Mississippi makes it three wins in a row next year they win permanent possession of Bert Parks.

Henry Fonda Explains His Shift to Westerns

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—We were at the London Airport a few hours ago when we saw Henry Fonda reading a book, so naturally we interrupted him.

★ ★ ★

"Vacation?" we said. Removing his glasses and putting his book aside unhappily, Hank said:

WILSON

"No, I came over to sell my new western TV series called 'Deputy.' I had a press conference for about 75 British reporters."

"Oh, jolly good!" we exclaimed. The Pan-Am Jet was about to load us on for a fast flight of 8 hours and 5 minutes, including a gas-up at Gander. But we wanted to hear about those British reporters who are known for their . . . shall we say? . . . directness.

★ ★ ★

"How did they treat you?" we asked.

Hank looked down into the beer he was slowly drinking. He recalled that one reporter said to him, "Mr. Fonda, you're 53 years old . . ."

"I said to him, 'No, 54.'

"He said, 'Aren't you a little old to be playing a cowboy?'

"I said, 'I'm not playing a cowboy. I'm playing a middle-aged marshal'."

★ ★ ★

Another one called out. "We expected more out of you after 'Ox-Bow Incident' and '12 Angry Men'."

Fonda retorted to the interrogator:

"I have my shelf full of trophies for those pictures, but no money on my shelf. On this series, which I will produce and appear in part of the time, I hope to make some money."

FONDA

"So the headline read: 'FONDA BROKE'."

"Do you know what it was?" Hank said. "Wagon Train'."

Danny Thomas Gets New TV Daughter

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

Sherry Jackson, Danny's TV daughter who grew up with the series, no longer is in the famous family. A spokesman for Thomas says that Sherry wanted to concentrate on her education and other acting.

★ ★ ★

"We're not explaining the new daughter," says Thomas. "Just a routine change of casting." Then he turned to Penney.

"Maybe we should show you some of the early films so you can see what you did as a child," he told her.

★ ★ ★

By coincidence, Miss Parker once played Miss Lord's daughter a few seasons back in the stage hit, "Anniversary Waltz."

Thomas is constantly amazed by the impact of television. Before his top-rated series, he was one of the top night club comedians and had appeared in movies, television and other media as Danny Thomas.

★ ★ ★

In his CBS-TV series, he portrays a night club entertainer by the name of Danny Williams. On a recent 33-day tour for his pet project, the St. Jude Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., he was recognized every place he went.

"But," says Danny, "nine out of ten people—in stores, gas stations or on the street—would ask me: 'Aren't you Danny Williams?'"

May Ban Trips Paid by Taxes

House Leaders Against Congressional Junkets During Sessions

WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders may ban junkets next year while Congress is in session.

Junkets are those taxpayer-paid trips abroad so dear to the heart of so many congressmen.

Fewer than half the House members were present for Saturday's session. Many of them have been abroad for some time. Others had gone home for the weekend.

That meant Saturday's session lacked a quorum—the attendance of at least half the members. If one member had objected, the House would have had to adjourn until enough of the wanderers were called back. No one objected, so some routine business was taken care of.

Under consideration is a proposed rule that would bar use of public funds for congressional travel overseas while Congress is in session. Any member going abroad at that time would have to pay his own way.

Absenteeism has been a vital factor several times in recent weeks. Some Democrats believe the first veto of a public works bill could have been overriden if absent members had been on hand.

WHO'S THE BEST? — In this modern show biz era, the debate can go on until morning as to which male is the best singer. It usually boils down to two: Bing Crosby (left) and Frank Sinatra. Going back 25 years, Bing certainly must be considered in the running. His 'White Christmas' platter has passed the 10 million mark. But Sinatra's album is the all-time seller. Take your choice between the two.

Algeria Plan Backed by French Officers

De Gaulle has secretly prepared a new approach to settling the costly nationalist rebellion. He is to disclose his plan in a nationwide radio and television broadcast Wednesday. Officially, all that is known is that it will "affirm the principle of self-determination" for the Algerians.

But two days before the expected announcement the hard core of the French army appears to be lined up solidly behind De Gaulle.

De Gaulle is the only man who can solve the Algerian problem and we have all reason to believe his solution will be compatible with the nation's honor and interests," a staff officer said.

C and O Railroad Hopes to Resume Halted Run

LANSING (UPI)—The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad hoped to reopen its Lansing-Grand Rapids line today after repairing the track damage caused in a 13-car freight train derailment yesterday.

A hot journal box was blamed for derailing the 13 cars of the 80-car train. Damage was estimated at $50,000. C&O traffic was halted between Grand Rapids-Lansing-and-Detroit.

Says Romney Will Accept Nod for Governorship

LANSING (UPI)—A member of the movement to draft American Motors President George Romney as a candidate for governor showed up at a meeting of GOP party workers here Friday.

★ ★ ★

But Brown, who also stopped into the state elections office to get statistics for use in the movement, declined to say if he had any indication from Romney that the auto executive would accept.

Brown, 21, predicted "the majority" of Republicans were opposed to Paul D. Bagwell, GOP candidate in 1958, as the 1960 candidate.

"He is shopworn merchandise," Brown, who said he will run for the state Senate, said.

Guard Units Vary

Ingrid Is Here to Start First Television Show

She will appear in a TV version of Henry James' "The Turn of the Screw," due for release next month.

School Election Check Is Sought

State Officials Are Set to Discuss Direction of Mechanical Aspects

LANSING (AP)—Elections officials are getting set for a series of meetings across the state aimed at smoothing the way for state supervision of school elections.

The authority will fall to the secretary of state's office 90 days after the legislature adjourns.

Until now, the state has played a "hands off" role.

"We want local school officials to realize that we are concerned only with the mechanical process of elections," said Robert M. Montgomery, state election director.

"We have nothing to do with subject matters of elections or any other phase of school activity," he said.

Montgomery said meetings to be held across the state before the end of the year would give county school superintendents, school board members and others a chance to discuss school elections problems with state elections supervisors.

"We want to learn how we can help out the most," he said. "We believe it's cheaper to educate now than investigate later."

ILA Split on Return to Arms of AFL-CIO

NEW YORK (AP)—A faction in the International Longshoremen's Assn. has demanded a postponement of a union-wide referendum on the question of reaffiliating with the AFL-CIO.

The ILA was ousted from the old AFL in 1953 on grounds it was gangster controlled. Damaging evidence against some members of the ILA led to formation of the New York-New Jersey Waterfront Commission that same year.

The AFL-CIO, on the basis of a union subcommittee report that the ILA has sufficiently cleaned house, is expected to extend a formal invitation to the dock union to join the combined labor group at its San Francisco convention next Thursday.

Eaton County to Vote on Taxes to Build Jail

CHARLOTTE (UPI) — Eaton County voters will ballot Tuesday on a proposal to increase taxes for two years to finance construction of a new jail.

Two proposals designed to increase taxes 1½ mills this year and ~~one mill next~~ year to raise an estimated $250,000 will be on the ballot.

The jail, which would have a capacity of 60 prisoners, would cost about $400,000. About $150,000 in existing funds would be used to make up the difference.

The new jail would replace the present 87-year-old Eaton County jail which has been condemned by the state corrections commission. It originally was ordered closed last July 1 but the deadline has been extended to Nov. 1
