

County Figure Up

Pay Budget Proposed

The Oakland County supervisors' salaries committee has recommended a $7,654,867 salaries budget for county employees in 1964. It includes 32 new positions.

The recommendation was received by the board of supervisors' ways and means committee yesterday.

Ways and means will consider the recommendation in preparing a tentative budget for submission to the board April 5.

The present salaries recommendation is $283,194, or 4 percent, higher than was budgeted for this year's salaries.

It allows for no pay raise beyond normal increments and merit increases totaling less than 2 percent of the total figure.

With 32 new positions recommended, the figure would be much higher except that the county budget will no longer include salaries of 26 County Board of Education employees.

Under a new statute, the school district will submit its own budget to the Tax Allocation Board.

Furthermore, the salaries recommendation doesn't include emergency salaries for Social Welfare Relief Administration which planned for its work load to be reduced by federal aid to the dependent children of unemployed parents next year.

Such emergency salaries total $61,000 for this year.

AREAS OF EXPANSION

Major areas where increases in personnel have been recommended by the salaries committee are the Probate-Juvenile Court Division, the health department and the Friend of the Court's office.

Recommended staff additions in the court division include a research analyst to evaluate the effectiveness of its programs, a part-time clinical psychologist, a psychiatric social worker and a psychological trainee, at a combined cost of $22,500.

These plus a juvenile court referee and two more child welfare workers were requested by the division on the basis of increased work loads and to do more work in the social field.

Where the health department had asked for 10 more public health nurses to meet the demands of an increased population, only five more have been recommended by the committee at an annual cost of $24,250. None have been hired for the past five years.

The friend of the court's request for two more attorneys and three domestic relations investigators was sliced by one attorney in the committee's recommendation.

The investigators would be paid $5,100 and the attorney $5,900.

Friend of the Court W. Cadman Prout said the staff additions are needed to carry out a recent ruling of the State Supreme Court that divorce cases involving children be followed up regularly to assure adequate care of the children.

The recommendation also calls for additions to the staff at the Children's Center and at Camp Oakland, which fall under the court's jurisdiction.

County Districting Bill

county area west of that line plus Pontiac in a 19th District with Lapeer and Livingston counties, leaving the rest of Oakland County in the 18th.

The new proposal is based on suggestions by U.S. Rep. James Harvey, R-Saginaw, who did not want St. Clair County in his district.

Robert's committee also reported out bills giving Washtenaw County one new circuit judge (it now has only one) and adding four circuit judgeships in Wayne County.

The House bill was sponsored by Rep. Lloyd L. Anderson, R-Waterford Township.

Adams is campaigning on his record in government. He was Michigan's attorney general prior to his appointment to the high court in 1962. He was a U. of M. regent before becoming attorney general in 1958.

The contracts would cover the entire project except the stretch from West Huron Street along Cass Avenue to Washtenaw Street.

They would be for construction of a five-lane highway from South Saginaw north along the route of Parke Street to East Huron Street, northwest to School Street, west to North Saginaw Street, and southwest to West Huron Street at Cass Avenue.

Total cost is estimated at $3.5 million. Mackie said it was hoped that traffic would be on the perimeter road by the summer of 1964. Traffic will be one way, counterclockwise.

The city will be responsible for modernizing Cass Avenue from West Huron Street to Washtenaw Street.

Other candidates nominated for state offices by Democrats also campaigned in Pontiac yesterday.

They were Eugene Power, seeking re-election to the University of Michigan Board of Regents; Paul L. Adams, campaigning to regain the State Supreme Court seat he lost in the November election.

Power said yesterday that Democrats and Republicans differ on higher education in that Republicans want to spend less on it now when the need for more university education is greatest, while Democrats recognize the need and want to meet it.

Michigan policy, he said, has been to "not plunge in right away" in any federal aid program. This makes for a sounder state financial picture, he said.

Romney said his version of the bill would not deprive anyone of aid. "The people who would not be covered under ADCU would be covered by general assistance welfare," he said.

Romney, at a nearly hour-long morning news conference devoted to the subject, kept hammering away at his contention that it is the right of the state to determine eligibility for aid, citing various sections of the federal law on the subject.

"The law states that the definition of eligibility can be defined as broadly or as restrictively as is consistent with the conditions existing in the state," he said.

Unless the federal agency can convince him he is wrong, Romney said, it is still his intention to sign the bill. The governor said no date has been set as yet for the appeal to the federal agency.

Birmingham Area News

Fallout Shelters Stocked With Special Provisions

BIRMINGHAM — Seven of this city's eight public fallout shelters have been stocked with emergency provisions, according to John F. Saeck, administrative aide to the city manager.

In addition, the city is working to qualify six other shelters on a lowered qualification basis; he said.

Under the federal fallout shelter program, shelters must now qualify if they have a capacity of 50 persons and a "protection factor" of 40.

The protection factor of 40 means that people inside a shelter will receive 40 times less radiation than those outside, Saeck explained.

The seven shelters provided with rations by the Army Corps of Engineers have a protection factor of 100, he noted.

Reduced federal criteria will permit the city to "license many areas heretofore unacceptable to the program," he said.

This will broaden the basis of protection in Birmingham, he added.

The city now has stocked fallout shelter spaces for 816 persons.

A linen demonstration will highlight tomorrow's meeting of Birmingham Chapter No. 220, Order of the Eastern Star.

A large assortment of goods, including curtains, blankets, rugs and baby items, will be displayed.

The 7:30 p.m. session will be held at the home of Mrs. M. G. Hillman, 1212 E. Lincoln Ave.

The best sequences from six miles of colored movie film taken during a 30,000-mile tour of Africa will be shown tomorrow and Saturday at the Community House.

The film, taken by Julien Bryan, will feature a close look at North African cities and other er African areas in today's headlines.

Tickets for the 8 p.m. showings will be available at the Community House on both days.

A dinner from 6 to 8 p.m. will precede the movie.

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra's string ensemble will accompany the St. James Episcopal Church senior choir in presenting "A Service of Music for Lent" Sunday at the church.

The concert will include a choir rendition of Schubert's "Mass in G Major" and Bech's "Christ Lay in Death's Dark Prison."

The program will start at 8 p.m.

Guest preacher at the church's Sunday morning services will be the Rev. John J. Weaver, dean of the Cathedral Church of St. Paul in Detroit.

Services are at 9:15 and 11 a.m.

JFK to Tell of Talks With Six Leaders

claim and agreement on a detailed statement of policy to guide the United States in its dealings with Panama, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Nicaragua and Honduras.

Hoping to attract a large television audience for the news conference, Kennedy postponed for two hours the 4 p.m. starting time of the session originally announced more than a week ago.

Kennedy, who left Washington last Friday for a weekend in Palm Beach, Fla., before going to San Jose Monday, related to the capital late Wednesday night.

JACKIE WAITING

Mrs. Kennedy was waiting and she went aboard the presidential jet transport for a private reunion when the big plane came to a stop at nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md.

The Kennedys emerged from the craft arms in arm and went to a helicopter which took them to the White House.

Before leaving San Jose, Kennedy told a cheering crowd of university students that Cuba is an example of communism's failure to provide for its people.

Contrasting the progress of Costa Rica with that of the Communist-controlled Caribbean island, Kennedy said Cuba now produces 25 percent less food than it did five years ago.

As he did throughout his stay in Costa Rica, the President emphasized the theme that the hemisphere nations must cooperate to achieve stronger economies and a larger measure of social justice through "peaceful revolution."

Still Puzzled on Food Deaths

Say Answer to Tuna Riddle Days Away

DETROIT (AP)—Health authorities still seek positive answers today to whether contaminated tuna caused two food poisoning deaths and, if so, how many cases from the same batch still are in pantry shelves.

If any of the 5,700 cans shipped to Detroit area A&P food stores were contaminated, was there more than one? Were there others among the 26,400 cans of Japanese tuna packed the same day by the same West Coast packer?

Experts say the answers may be several days away.

Two Detroit women died of food poisoning tentatively diagnosed as "type E botulism," a rare type generally associated with marine life from extreme cold waters.

George T. Daughters, Detroit chief of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, said today:

"There seems little doubt that type E is the organism involved. It was isolated from the lid of the can in question and from the intestinal contents of the first victim."

From animal experiments there seems little doubt that the organism was type E."

Dr. Robert J. Solomon, who treated the second victim, said he and a pathologist attributed her death to "botulism" and that "everything points to type E."

Daughters said "the chances of finding another contaminated can appear slight. It may be that we'll never know how only one can was involved," he added.

PROVE NEGATIVE

About a dozen cans from the suspected shipment, taken from store and pantry shelves proved negative in FDA tests.

Unmanned Satellite Launched by Russ

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union launched an unmanned satellite today.

The satellite was named Cosmos 13, the Soviet news agency Tass announced.

The Soviets began launching the series a year ago and said they were measuring radiation and other phenomena. Cosmos 12 was launched Dec. 22.

Tass said Cosmos 13 had been placed in orbit with an initial time to circle the earth of 89.77 minutes.

The equipment installed on board the satellite is functioning smoothly, Tass said.

Banker Resigns Position in Conflict of Interest

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Banker Dillon Rose resigned yesterday as general chairman for the Democratic nominee for president of the St. Louis Board of Aldermen.

Rose is the father-in-law of Wayne Millspaugh, Republican opponent of Donald Gum in the April 2 election.

Official Denies Irregularities

SOUTHFIELD — City administrator Donald V. Smith today denied alleged irregularities in city government.

The charges were leveled in a petition filed Tuesday in Oakland County Circuit Court by James Wells, a candidate for a seat on the city council in the April 1 general election.

In a press release, Smith said "this statement is issued with full knowledge that candidates for elective public office are traditionally fair game for unwarranted and unfounded attacks from their opponents."

"As a society we have witnessed such personal attacks in the past and regrettably shall witness such attacks in the future," he continued.

"However, when some candidates in their zeal to obtain elective office seek to destroy the government they would supposedly serve, it is imperative that responsible administrative officials set the record straight."

HITS 5 OFFICIALS

Wells, who submitted the petition bearing 44 signatures, has charged five city councilmen with misappropriation of public funds, irregularity in accounting procedures, and gambling operations being conducted without police interference.

The five are John J. Hollywood, Clarence A. Durbin, Thomas C. Rowley, C. Hugh Dohany and Philip B. Peterson.

In response to the first and second charges, Smith noted that Southfield records are reviewed quarterly by Reive & Kent, a firm of 35 public accountants.

"This firm also prepares the certified annual audit of the financial transactions of the city of Southfield, he added.

AUDIT ON FILE

Smith noted that their quarterly statements and annual audits are on file for review by the public at either the city hall or public library.

In response to the last charge, Smith observed that Southfield police have investigated all reported cases of gambling and have taken all necessary steps to correct them.

Since incorporation in 1958, Smith said the police department has received five reports of gambling. One involved juveniles in school, two involved juveniles at a local establishment and one involved an alleged numbers runner.

The last one, Smith noted, was investigated and the charge was determined to be unfounded.

"On behalf of the administrative officials of the City of Southfield, I wish to reaffirm our determination to provide sound, clean and effective government for the benefit of all citizens," Smith stated. "We shall continue to build the groundwork for a solid community which welcomes residents and business alike and which seeks to serve all citizens consciously and effectively," he added.

Detroit Woman Dies in Hospital After Car Crash

MADISON HEIGHTS — A 24-year-old Detroit woman died early today in New Grace Hospital, Detroit, three hours after being injured when her car sideswiped another on Dequindre Road, north of 10-Mile Road.

Miss Joyce O. Yombor was driving north on Dequindre and had passed a car. Then, in attempting to get back in her own lane, her car sideswiped another vehicle driven by Joseph Walters, 32, 45374 Kenmore St., Utica.

Miss Yombor suffered internal injuries in the accident which occurred about 8:45 last night. She died just before 6 a. m. today. Walters was only slightly injured in the mishap.

Farmington Zoning Slated for Hearing

FARMINGTON — An April 8 public hearing on the requested rezoning of a 3½ acre parcel of property adjacent to the city park has been scheduled by the City Council.

The rezoning request was made by Thomas Dukes, owner of the 80-unit River Glen apartments in the same vicinity.

Dukes planned to construct a series of multiple dwellings totaling 56 units on the property which is north of Grand River Avenue and west of Powers Road.

The area is currently zoned single-family residential.

At a previous hearing last month the city planning commission 'voted' unanimously to deny Dukes' request.

The commission noted that ac-

Avondale Club Sets Sunday Jamboree

Avondale Metropolitan Club, Spirit No. 83, will sponsor a "Country Jamboree" Sunday at Bill's Barn on Dequindre Road, north of Auburn avenue.

Continuous entertainment and dancing will be featured from 2 p. m. to midnight. A different band will play every half hour.

Proceeds from the event will be used for Little League baseball in the Avondale District and to underwrite costs of other community activities undertaken by the club.

Oxford Board OKs Pay Hikes

Teacher Salary Levels Raised $150

OXFORD — A $150 across-the-board pay hike for district teachers has been approved by the board of education here.

The board has also set aside $1,000 of the 1963-64 budget for a special "in-service training" fund for teachers, to be dispersed at the discretion of Schools Supt. Roger Oberg.

Under terms of the new schedule starting pay for teachers with bachelor's degrees is increased from $4,500 to $4,650. The high, paid to those with 12 years of service, is boosted from $6,300 to $6,450.

Minimum for teachers with master's degrees is hiked from $4,800 to $4,950 and top pay jumps from $6,600 to $6,750.

Both the old and the new pay rates are based on annual $150 increments, for teachers with either degree, over a period of 12 years.

Approximately $10,000 will have to be added to next year's budget to cover the cost of the increased salaries.

Youths Injured as Car Flips

WIXOM — Two Grosse Pointe youths were injured, one seriously, when the car in which they were riding turned over on I 96 near the Wixom Road exit early today.

Charles B. McClure III, 20, suffered a broken back and is paralyzed.

Police Chief Frank Jadzinski said McClure was unable to move his arms or legs.

Michael Farrell, 22, suffered lacerations. Both were admitted to St. Mary's Hospital of Livonia.

McClure is listed as in serious condition while Farrell received emergency treatment and was scheduled to be released this morning.

Witnesses claim the car was being driven too fast for road conditions. The accident occurred about 2 a. m.

Fatalities Increase
EAST LANSING — Traffic accidents have killed 280 persons in Michigan so far this year, provisional figures compiled by State Police showed today. The toll at this date last year was 233.

Avondale Board Action

Raise Principal Salaries

Principals in the Avondale School District will receive salary increases in the 1963-64 school year, as the result of a new pay schedule adopted by the board of education.

Formerly beginning at $6,900, elementary school principals will start at $7,665 under the new schedule adopted by the board of education.

Five annual hikes of $290, under the old system, will be replaced by yearly increments of $250 for the same period.

The maximum pay attainable for elementary school principals under the new salary schedule is boosted to $9,915, as compared with the previous high of $9,350.

To Dedicate Postal Branch

Ceremony Saturday in Auburn Heights

AUBURN HEIGHTS — Dedication ceremonies for the new Auburn Heights branch of the Pontiac Post Office are scheduled for 3 p. m. Saturday. Donald F. Swanson will be featured speaker.

Swanson is regional director of the Post Office Department.

Former mayor of Southfield, he served as secretary-general manager of the Michigan State Fair from 1955 to 1961.

The new post office is a one-story brick structure of basically modern design. It was built by Horton-Dorris Building Co., of Royal Oak.

The building, at 2900 Auburn Road, has been in use since Dec. 1, when employees moved in for the rush of Christmas mail. It serves as headquarters for nine carriers and four clerks.

Mrs. Marian Decker is branch superintendent.

Housed in a converted store at 3329 Auburn Road for the past year, Auburn's postal facilities were located at 3310 Auburn Road prior to that.

The new branch office has five times more floor space than the old one, according to Pontiac Postmaster William W. Donaldson.

Mystery to Be Staged at Clarkston

CLARKSTON — Students of Clarkston Junior High School will present a play, "The Mystery at the Old Fort," tomorrow and Saturday at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium.

Written by Rosemary Musil, the production is a mystery with a sprinkling of comedy.

The cast, which has been rehearsing since early last month, includes Christine Wilhelm, Nancy Henry, Al Ventimiglia, Joette Schmitz, Neil Stalker, Mark Adams, Leslie and Lynn Surre, Mike Dougherty and Terry Dutcher.

Directing the show is Mrs. Edwin Beattie. Mrs. Walter Wilberg is in charge of make-up and costumes, and Ken Wolven supervised the building of the set.

Elwyn Eggert will direct the junior high band in "mood music" to introduce the play. The band also will play between acts.

Civic Group Elects Board of Directors

TROY — Five members of the Glen-Moor Civic Association have been elected to the organization's board of directors.

Incumbents chosen for additional two-year terms are Frank Bedard, Fred Rounds and James Sandison.

Also elected at the general membership meeting were Joseph Pallick and Roy Barrett.

Installation of the new officers will be conducted at the association's annual spring banquet April 27 at the Rochester Golf and Country Club.

Raise Principal Salaries

Principals in the Avondale School District will receive salary increases in the 1963-64 school year, as the result of a new pay schedule adopted by the board of education.

Formerly beginning at $6,900, elementary school principals will start at $7,665 under the new schedule adopted by the board of education.

Five annual hikes of $290, under the old system, will be replaced by yearly increments of $250 for the same period.

The maximum pay attainable for elementary school principals under the new salary schedule is boosted to $9,915, as compared with the previous high of $9,350.

District Favors School Parley

Survey in Rochester Reveals Big Margin

ROCHESTER — The Citizen's School Study Group today revealed that 80 per cent of the persons polled in its recent district-wide survey are in favor of an annual open meeting of school officials and local citizenry.

The citizen's committee recently completed its examination of the school district. One phase of the study was distributing questionnaires to 450 area residents, chosen at random.

About 25 per cent of the questionnaires were returned. Some 75 per cent of the respondents indicated opposition to operating schools on a two-shift basis, even if it would save taxpayers money.

However, only 52 per cent were in favor of raising millage to update equipment and improve the school program, while 58 per cent were for raising school taxes to increase teachers' pay.

Answers to another portion of the questionnaire revealed that the majority of those returning the majority felt that the number of students in a class should not exceed 25.

Sale Permits Purchase of $400 in Books

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A result of a used-book sale last fall, approximately $400 in new books has been secured for the township library.

The purchase was announced at the monthly meeting of W. Bloomfield Township Friends of the Library, sponsors of the sale.

The group's board of directors also agreed to donate a needed piece of equipment to the library as a part of their program to strengthen library service.

Since the inception of the "Friends," they have performed more than 2,600 hours of voluntary assistance to the library, organization officials noted.

Travelogue Saturday

ROCHESTER — The Rochester Lions Club will present a travelogue on Hong Kong at 8 p. m. Saturday at St. John Lutheran Church.

REHEARSE FOR PLAY—Judy DeRycke (left) and Bonita Lipar go through a comic scene from the play to be staged by students of the Dominican Academy at Oxford High School Sunday evening. Curtain time is 6 p. m.

'Complaining Angel' Set by Dominican Academy

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — Students of the Dominican Academy here will present their first stage production, "The Complaining Angel," Sunday at 6 p. m. in the Oxford High School auditorium.

Because of the limited number of students in the academy, the cast has been drawn not only from the drama group but from the entire student body of about 80 members.

The nine-member cast is supported by various ballet and choral groups necessary to the staging of the two-act farce set to music.

Story line deals with the plight of a guardian angel who is reassigned from a deceased Hollywood actress to a nun.

The angel feels that finally her opportunity has come and she gets settled for an easy and peaceful assignment. The peace

Communists Meeting Next Week in Rio

Fidel, Reds Plan Fast Reply to JFK Hemisphere Deal

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent

The Castro-Communist alliance in Latin America plans a swift retort to the challenge of a new deal for the Western Hemisphere, laid down at San Jose, Costa Rica, by President Kennedy.

Communists of the hemisphere gather next Thursday in Rio de Janeiro, in what will be called "The Continental Congress in Defense of Cuba."

The principal aim will be to plot more aggressive strategy to step up the pace of revolutionary activities, and to rekindle mass sympathy for Fidel Castro's regime.

Moscow propaganda has been paying much attention to this congress. It claims that "hundreds of organizations, political and social personalities, and plain people of Latin America" are rallying to the Castro banner.

In one respect, Moscow's support of the congress is an answer to the Red Chinese, who have been accusing Premier Khrushchev's party of timidity in pushing revolutionary violence in underdeveloped areas. It also can serve the Soviet party as a weapon for countering Peking's influence in Latin America.

TO INVENTORY PROSPECTS

The Communists and Castroists—the terms are virtually synonymous—will use the congress to inventory their assets and prospects. Positions of the parties and revolutionary situations, country by country, will be under microscopic analysis in the back-room meetings, while the oratory in the congress hall lays down a smoke-screen.

The Rio meeting is expected to come up with some sort of blueprint for action.

If the congress follows Moscow's general directives for such enterprises, with what the Kremlin calls "the new logic of scientific communism," it will map out those areas where violence will pay off and those areas where struggles for electoral and economic power offer the prospects of better dividends.

A hemisphere Communist meeting held in Mexico in 1961 resulted in refinements in plans and methods of attack. These probably included the combination of terrorism and political conflict adopted in Venezuela, which is considered a prime target.

After that meeting, Moscow explained the problem to Communists in this way:

"The working class of some countries can seize the power by peaceful means, as through the parliamentary system or other democratic systems. Therefore force politically, the working class headed by the Communist party should unite the people.

"The working class and its (Communist) vanguard depend on the revolutionary struggle carried out by the masses, as well as on spiritual and ideological support from socialist (Communist) countries, to counterattack opportunities and defeat the imperialist force politically.

"The Communist party program (of October, 1961) pointed out that all this can be realized through continuous development of the economic struggle by the laboring people."

That means that where the opportunity arises, the weapon of strikes and economic violence must be employed to the fullest extent while the party works with the political framework of the power to the workers (Communists). This means an attempt to seize power short of revolution and civil war.

REVOLUTION

This is not the only way, Moscow points out. The other way is by open revolution, "establishing a dictatorship of the proletariat, eliminating the exploiters' rule and transferring all property and win by means short of that.

In backward countries, where armies and police forces are not too strong, the nonpeaceful means is highly recommended. If the situation is right, Communists should "call upon the masses to carry arms." But the Communists should not resort to armed rebellion if there is a good chance to win by means short of that.

Drivers Get Spring Tips for Car Check

With the arrival of spring it is time for car owners to check and correct the effect of winter driving on their automobiles and prepare for the warm weather ahead.

John C. Bates, general service manager for Pontiac Motor Division, makes the following recommendations that will assure trouble-free motoring:

1. Replace fuel and oil filters.
2. Change to summer grade oil.
3. Clean and test the battery connections.
4. Inspect spark plugs and ignition points and replace if necessary.
5. Check ignition timing.
6. Check engine drive belts and adjust to specifications.
7. Check the choke and adjust the carburetor, if necessary.
8. Check exhaust manifold heat valve, free up if necessary.
9. Inspect tires for proper inflation, balance and rotate if irregular wear is observed. Check front end alignment.
10. Check brakes for operation and fluid level in master cylinder.
11. Drain and flush radiator (except on 1963 GM cars that have two-year coolant installed) and add three ounces of corrosion inhibitor. Inspect all hoses, adjust accessory belts and check for engine coolant leaks.
12. Adjust steering gear on non-power steering equipped cars.

Will Give Lessons on School Lunches

Oakland County school lunchroom directors will give lessons in making a school lunch as appetizing as it is nutritious at the convention in Detroit Friday and Saturday of the Michigan School Food Service Association.

Mrs. Margaret Cahoon, lunchroom supervisor for Huron Valley Schools, will direct three presentations of colored slides.

Mrs. Cahoon will be assisted by luncheon directors from Troy, Rochester, Pontiac, Farmington and Bloomfield Hills school systems and the Oakland County Board of Education.

Mrs. Cahoon is president of the Oakland County School Food Service Association.

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY

"At age 60," R.M.E. reports, "I finally broke down and tried your 'candy' (Ca & D, that is calcium and vitamin D). For years, buritis and aching joints had bothered me. I feel young again. Buritis and joint aches all gone. Now not a twinge. Many thanks." (R.M.E.)

Now I wonder how long before R.E.M. will have his buritis and aching joints again.

It will depend on whether he regards Ca & D as medicine or nutrition. If he regards it as medicine, he will probably discontinue it, lest he get the habit. If he can get it through his head that it is nutrition, he may keep on taking it indefinitely and so prevent recurrence of the trouble.

He may not need the full daily ration I advise people with such trouble to take, especially if he gets an adequate daily ration of calcium from milk, not less than 1 1/2 pints, better a quart of milk every day, and his daily ration of vitamin D from exposure to sunlight.

The vitamin D is essential for normal utilization of calcium.

I am sure the full daily ration of vitamin D and calcium I advise people with R.M.E.'s trouble to take can do no harm in any circumstance. If I were not sure, I wouldn't recommend it. The amount of calcium and D one gets in six calcium capsules daily is not more than a healthy person should get from food and sufficient exposure to sunlight.

Readers of this column should be well aware of my din view of medicines, new or old, for chronic ailments or for the every-day complaints of people who "try" one nostrum after another until insidiously increasing disability compels them to seek medical or hospital care.

ERRATIC COURSE

Whenever I speak of the popular habit of "trying" the latest or most extravagantly touted medicines for what they think ails them, I hear some cogent reasons why these people follow such an erratic course rather than follow the family physician's advice.

Family physician? A quaint conception, they say. Furthermore, where can they find family physicians today?

There, I interrupt to say they can't see the wood for the trees. Like typical Yankee wisecracks, when they want medical advice they don't consult "ordinary" doctors, general practitioners.

They go straight to a specialist or perhaps the best advertised "Clinic," where everything is impressively scientific and business-like, especially the superfluous items tacked on the bill.

Once having "gone through" the "clinic" (as directed by the clerk on duty at the moment) the poor geeks, who think doctors in the employ of the institution can do no wrong, will be a little too smart to rely on "doctors around here" when they get back home.

Some of these people have a valid complaint about physicians today. They don't complain about the physicians' fees, but they do complain about the outrageous prices they have to pay for the medicines physicians prescribe.

Perhaps most of the doctors who prescribe these would rather not do so, but medicine being a business and not a profession, they feel they must.

As one trick specialist explained, if he doesn't give patients a shot of penicillin or a prescription for the latest wonder drug, the patients will decide he is behind the times and transfer their patronage to an eager beaver competitor who cheerfully shoots 'em full of whatever they want.

One doesn't get far telling these smartypants customers they should have a family physician and leave the treatment entirely to the physician's judgment.

If one is entirely honest, it is not difficult to trust one's physician fully.

My daughter's family has a family physician who has gained my admiration although I have never met him. My secretary's family has one of the same admirable character.

Both families live in Los Angeles, where trick specialists and "clinic" racketeers far outnumber general practitioners, but they consult only the specialist the family physician recommends if or when he wants the counsel of a specialist.

Thus both families are entirely satisfied with their medical care, and that's the way it should be with all Americans.

Signed letters, not more than one page of 10 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan. (Copyright, 1968)

Cuba Cardinal Rites Tomorrow

HAVANA (UPI) — Leaders of the Roman Catholic Church in Cuba gathered today for the burial of Manuel Cardinal Arceaga Betancourt, archbishop of Havana who once was denounced by the Cuban government.

The 83-year-old prelate, Cuba's first and only cardinal, died yesterday at the San Rafael Hospital for the aged where he had been a patient for more than a year after being moved there from refuge in the Argentine embassy.

All Cuba's bishops were expected to attend mass today at Havana cathedral, where the cardinal's body was to lie in state before burial this afternoon in Colon Cemetery.

Ribs 'Advance' Recruiters

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., in a report to constituents, noted today that applications are being received for the domestic peace corps, although Congress hasn't passed the youth employment program. He said it reminds him of that ditty:

"The other day upon the stair,
I saw a man who wasn't there.
He wasn't there again today,
I hope that man will go away."

Adlai Starts Tour of Europe in Paris

PARIS (AP) — Adlai Stevenson, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, arrived in Paris today at the start of a European tour. Stevenson said he will give a lecture at the NATO defense college and confer with French and American officials.

He will see Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville tomorrow and will meet Information Minister Alain Peyrefitte. He will go to London Wednesday and will also visit Brussels, Bonn, West Berlin, Madrid and Rabat.

A medieval religious drama has been performed every year since the 13th century, on and just before the Feast of the Assumption in August in the town of Elche in Spain.

California Bill Tightens College Speaker Reins

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — A bill was introduced in the assembly yesterday which would make it a felony for any person to commit a subversive act on public school campuses.

It was viewed as a means of closer control over speakers on campuses of the state colleges and University of California.

To Unveil Controversial Foreign Aid Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—Total U.S. foreign aid since World War II will climb above the $100 billion mark this year.

How well the giant overseas assistance program promotes U.S. security—and how it could be refashioned to do a better job—is the subject of a controversial report by a presidential advisory committee headed by Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

Aides said a final version of the Clay report was made available to President Kennedy today. The report is expected to be made public this weekend.

Figures furnished by the Agency for International Development, which administers U.S. aid, list $97.7 billion worth of military and economic help to 111 countries and foreign groups from July 1, 1945 through mid-1962.

Though detailed statistics for the current fiscal year have not yet been worked out, the over-all

FRANCE NO. 1

France, with $9.4 billion, and Britain, with $8.7 billion, still rank 1-2 as the largest total recipients of postwar American aid. The Western allies got the bulk of their U.S. financial help in the early postwar years when the Marshall Plan focused on European recovery.

Today the aid pattern is different. With Europeans now prospering and dispensing aid themselves, U.S. aid now focuses on underdeveloped countries and poorer economic help to 111 countries and foreign groups from July 1, 1945 through mid-1962.

Thus, far more American assistance has gone to nations like India, Korea, South Viet Nam and Turkey since the end of the Marshall Plan in 1962 than to West European countries. In 1962, India was the biggest aid recipient with $639 million, nearly $4 billion, Pakistan was next highest in 1962 with $439 million, making a $1.9 billion total.

Turkey got $356 million for a $3.9 billion total while Korea received $346 million, pushing her total to $5.4 billion.

France, with $51 million, and Britain, with $25 million, are still listed as U.S. aid receivers in 1962—but this is all in arms assistance connected with the common North Atlantic defense effort.

CHANGES
American aid has undergone other changes too. In the 1949-53 Marshall Plan years, all but $3 billion of the $13 billion in U.S. overseas economic help went out as grants, or gifts. By 1962 the emphasis had changed to easy term loans aimed at stimulating economic development.

Of the $52.3 billion in U.S. economic aid dispensed in 1962, $2.3 billion was in loans and $2.3 billion in grants. The $1.5 billion in arms aid, however, remained almost entirely grants as before.

Of the $97.7-billion cumulative total, $66.5 billion has been in economic aid of which $42.7 billion was grants. Military assistance totaled $31 billion, all except $27 million in grants.

The American aid program also has used a wider variety of measures in recent years, ranging from food-for-peace disposals of

Caesarean Births

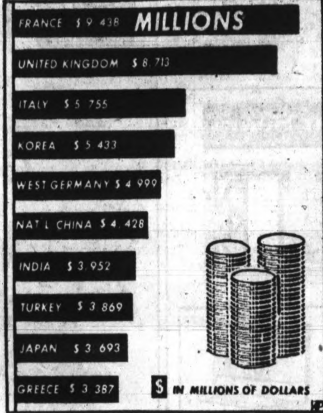

Shown on BBC

LONDON (AP)—Films of births by Caesarean section were shown on British television Wednesday night in full detail. Squeamish viewers were advised in advance not to watch, and the BBC said it received no complaints.

The operations, one for a normal head-first delivery and the other for a breech-positioned baby, were filmed in January at a London hospital.

They showed the mother's abdomen opened and the baby being extracted by the surgeon, a woman. She spoke through a portable chest microphone as she worked, explaining the operation.

Pearls should be restrung, preferably on silk thread, every 18 months.

'Grab Initiative From Soviets'

Ex-Bonn VIP Says Time Ripe for U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano is understood to have told two congressional committees that the time is ripe for the United States to grab the initiative from the Soviet Union on all issues—including Berlin.

He also told them yesterday: —That Washington's concern over the recently concluded Franco-German treaty is unfounded.

—That French President Charles de Gaulle has raised some points which should not be dismissed easily, even though he was wrong in vetoing membership for Great Britain in the European Common Market.

Von Brentano, majority leader of the German Bundestag and one of the most influential political figures in Bonn, outlined his views in meetings with the House Foreign Affairs Committee and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

He also had a talk with former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, whose outspoken speeches sharply criticizing Britain and de Gaulle's policy have baffled Europe.

Acheson, sources close to Brentano said, was one of those who had misgivings about the de Gaulle-Adenauer pact which he considered an attempt by France and Germany to dominate Europe and exclude Great Britain and the United States from European affairs.

Brentano, informants said, was extremely satisfied with his talks with Acheson and believes he dispelled Acheson's concern.

Brentano arrived here Tuesday night. He will call on President Kennedy on Friday.

Ex-College Prexy Dies

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Dr. John H. Kingley, 83, president of Vermont Junior College at Montpelier from 1937 to 1961, died Wednesday.

Canadian Totem Stands in Hall in Mexico City

VICTORIA, B. C. (AP)—The last totem executed by one of the last of British Columbia's great carvers stands near the Halls of Montezuma in Chapultepec Park, Mexico City.

In the 37-foot Kwakiutl Indian pole, Chief Mungo Martin traced cultural parallels between his people and the Aztecs of Mexico.

The four main figures are the crests of clans of four Kwakiutl tribes to which Chief Martin was related — Kkunkwunkwagii, the Thunderbird; Khassa, the Sea Otter; Sisiutl, the Double-Headed Serpent; and Tseakami, the Man of the Cedar Tree.

Both the Thunderbird and the Double-Headed Serpent have counterparts in Mexican art and tradition.

The pole was presented to the people of Mexico last October.

16-Year-Old Gets Jail Term for Area Break-In

A 16-year-old youth formerly of Keego Harbor was sentenced to two to five years in Jackson Prison Tuesday for the Nov. 21 burglary of a Waterford Township gas station.

DeWayne D. Weaver was sentenced by Circuit Judge William J. Beer. The youth pleaded guilty March 7 to daytime breaking and entering.

He was charged with breaking into Boles Service Station, 3861 Elizabeth Lake Road, and taking a .38-caliber pistol, four cigarette lighters and $6 in cash.

He appeared in Circuit Court on the charge after the Juvenile Court granted a waiver of jurisdiction.

Sunday Closing Law Tabled in Kazoo

KALAMAZOO (U) — A supervisors' roll call vote of 25-5 yesterday tabled action on exempting Kalamazoo county from observing the Saturday or Sunday closing law.

A resolution explaining the move said it would be premature to take a local stand "in view of current law suits testing the law... and because the State Legislature is considering a bill to repeal the law."

The repeal bill died in committee last night. The act takes effect March 28.

Tabling action on the matter follows a pattern adopted earlier this week by Wexford County supervisors.

Colorado has 50 mountain peaks more than 14,000 feet in height.

Pontiac Man Sentenced

Timothy Pittingill, 21, of 296 Leola St., got $37.20 in change when he broke into a Pontiac gas station Feb. 21. Tuesday he got two to 15 years in Jackson Prison.

Pittingill was sentenced by Circuit Judge William J. Beer. Pittingill pleaded guilty March 4 to nighttime burglary in the break-in of the Huron Golf Service, 688 W. Huron St.

Waterford Parks Dept. Eyes Weather

Tools Ready for Spring; but Is Nature?

BY JOE MULLEN

The long cold winter has been particularly distressing to Ray Graessle, superintendent of Waterford Township cemetery and parks department.

"We have a lot of work to do," he said, looking alternately at a calendar, and then out the window.

Graessle's main concern now is putting the township's five cemeteries and three parks into tip-top condition by Memorial Day.

"Weather conditions usually permit us to start on our outside clean-up work April 1," he said. "I hope we can begin that early this year."

Graessle will head a crew of five full-time employees in the annual spring clean-up campaign.

In addition to parking leaves and brush in all parks and cemeteries, the clean-up program entails removing all winter cemetery decorations and burning them.

Then, there are the tasks of filling and sodding after winter burials, and seeding and sodding where required at both the cemeteries and parks.

MOWING, TRIMMING
After completing the basic groundwork, the spring and summer mowing and trimming maintenance program will get underway either in late April or early May. This extends into the latter part of October.

"We've tried to upgrade our cemeteries each year," Graessle said. He pointed out that two of the cemeteries, Drayton Plains and Waterford Center, now have their own water systems, enabling better maintenance.

"We've also done a considerable amount of planting," he added.

Other township-owned cemeteries are Crescent Hills, Four Towns and Waterford Village. The three parks maintained by the department are Drayton Park, Donelson Park and Optimist Park. The township recreation department assists in maintaining the lake park.

The parks total an area of seven acres, while the cemeteries are situated on 23 acres of township land.

Graessle pointed out that improvements in the township cemeteries are up 75 per cent over three years ago. He predicts the present figure will double in ten years.

"A lot of people still don't realize that we have a nonprofit municipal cemetery," Graessle said. "Several persons outside the township know about it, and many own lots here," he added.

During the summer, when park and cemetery maintenance requirements reach a peak, Graessle will call upon off-duty firemen to supplement his regular staff.

Rainy days during the maintenance season provide an opportunity for the crew to bring paper work up to date to clean and repair equipment.

The cemetery and parks department functions with three trucks, a cement mixer for laying grave-marker foundations, a tractor and an assortment of lawn maintenance equipment. It lacks mechanical grave-digging equipment.

Little boys thought about baseball and flying kites. Little girls thought about hopscotch and dolly pretties flowers.

But Finance Director Marvin M. Alward worried, juggled accounts and wondered if winter would ever end.

This just isn't his season. Spring comes to the finance director in July—in the form of tax revenue.

With 35 years behind him in the finance department, Alward has an intimate knowledge of this city's money problems.

He has been finance director since 1958 and is also a director of the Michigan Chapter of the Municipal Finance Officers Association.

"This is a bad time of year," he says, "and it gets worse every year."

"The problem lies in our City Charter. It's set up so we collect taxes in July and run the city on a calendar-year budget."

This means the city must operate for six months before it gets any operating income.

The situation can only be changed by a favorable vote of the general public for a charter amendment that would realign budget and tax collection chronology.

"As much as I'd like it, I doubt if anyone would ever vote for it," Alward admits. His opinion is shared by other administrators.

In effect, it would mean paying 18 months worth of taxes for 12 months of operation.

City budgets are set up to leave as much cash as possible in reserve as of Dec. 31.

But because operating costs have increased steadily in recent years, the cash position from Jan. 1 until tax bills are mailed around July 1 tightens increasingly.

JULY PAYDAY
When the city's coffers are filled in July, Alward pays debts incurred during the first six months and has the funds to operate on a cash basis in the final six months of the year.

Come July, he can breathe easy. "Right now we're just borrowing from various funds and holding up suppliers' invoices until taxes come in," he explains.

"There may come a time when we'll have to sell tax anticipation notes to make it through. Many cities do this, but we'd prefer to sweat it out and try to save the interest cost of borrowing from an outside agency."

As an example of the headaches created by increased operating costs under the present system, Alward points to the city payroll.

"A city can try to allow some surplus areas in its 1962 budget to help pay bills the first half of 1963, based on prevailing cost patterns."

"What's difficult is anticipating what cost increases we'll actually have."

"The 1963 budget went into effect Jan. 1, and calls for a 1 per cent pay hike for city employees. That adds up to meeting a payroll increase now with money we won't have until this summer."

The city is still meeting all its payroll obligations under Alward, even though a "depression" of sorts hampers financial management this year.

The days are getting longer, but Alward won't be out of the dark until after they start getting shorter.

DETROIT MAYOR
Becomes Father for Seventh Time

DETROIT (UPI)—Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanaugh was a proud father today, for the seventh time.

The mayor's wife Mary gave birth yesterday to their seventh child, a sixth boy, in Providence Hospital. The baby weighed 8 1/2 pounds.

The baby was named Jerome Celestin, in honor of the mayor's father and the Very Rev. Celestin J. Steiner, S. J., chancellor of the University of Detroit.

A hospital spokesman said "The baby and mother are both fine."

CALL IT NEW AMSTERDAM
NEW YORK (UPI)—There will be tulips on Fifth Avenue to mark the first day of spring. Ten pretty Dutch girls will distribute 10,000 tulips to pedestrians.

At about this point, Alward pulls out a little black book he has carried with him for many years.

In it are a series of formulas for figuring out the monthly pay of employees, with basic wages ranging from 20 to 65 cents an hour.

He worked out the system in the bleak depression days of the early 1930s.

"It always makes me feel a little better to get this out and look through it," he says. "Reminds me of a time when things were worse."

Actually, Alward had a baptism in city financing that many men wouldn't live through.

He came to Pontiac in 1928 and was hired by the finance department in March 1929. Then the market collapsed.

"CHARACTER BUILDER"
"It was a real character builder," he says with a smile. "At one time the entire city budget was smaller than the police department budget alone is today."

"We had to cut out a lot of equipment costs. In many cases we used horses instead of trucks."

"The DPW picked up rubbish and cleaned streets and gutters, with a horse-driven wagon. Then the white wings (men with shovels and pushcarts) would come along and clean up after the horses."

At best, the city never had more than 400 employees then. Today that number is nearly doubled.

"During the bank holiday, we paid our employees in cash," Alward recalls, "but we never missed a pay day."

The city is still meeting all its payroll obligations under Alward, even though a "depression" of sorts hampers financial management this year.

Bell Reveals Wage Figures

Paid Out $3 Million in Pontiac Last Year

Michigan Bell Telephone Co. announced today that it paid $3,197,377 to some 550 employees in Pontiac last year.

The Pontiac figure was included in $4,735,029 paid to the company's 5,449 employees in Oakland County in 1962.

Michigan Bell's payroll topped the $5-million mark in the Southfield area.

The company paid $232,188 to 31 employees in Waterford Township and $146,398 to 20 employees in the Commerce Township-Walled Lake area.

To its 21,878 employees throughout the state, Michigan-Bell paid more than $143 million in wages last year the company reported.

Some 7,831 employees in Detroit were paid $52,966,956 in wages and salaries.

Other areas topping the $5-million payroll mark were Flint, Saginaw, and Grand Rapids.

Pontiac was one of 18 cities where the company payroll exceeded $1 million. Others were Ann Arbor, Battle Creek, Bay City, Benton Harbor, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Lansing, Livonia, Marquette, Mount Clemens, Plymouth, Port Huron, Roseville, Royal Oak, Traverse City, Wayne and Wyandotte.

Michigan Bell's supplier, Western Electric Co., paid $9.9 million to its 1,310 Michigan employees, and the AT&T's long lines department paid $5 million to 560 employees in the state.

Peace Corps to Give Tests This Saturday

Placement tests for Peace Corps volunteers will be given at 2:30 a.m. Saturday in Detroit and Flint, according to Peace Corps headquarters in Washington, D.C.

The tests will be given in Room 123 of the Federal Building, 231 Lafayette Blvd., Detroit, and in Room 208 of the Federal Building, 200 N. Main St., Flint.

Those who have not yet completed Peace Corps questionnaires can take the test on a space-available basis and fill out the questionnaire later.

Tests also are scheduled for April 27 and June 3, but officials said applicants can be considered for more projects if they qualify for training in June by taking the March 23 test.

Two types of tests will be given. One is for applicants who would like to teach at the high school or college level. A bachelor's degree is required for this test, but not a teaching certificate.

Applicants taking this test also may take the general examination covering all other Peace Corps assignments.

Those who are undergoing on-the-job training in such practical fields as motor vehicle maintenance.

Murphy proposed using peace corpsmen to expand the program at the request of Hamlin.

County officials here generally agree that the program at Camp Oakland should be expanded to train many more youths in becoming useful citizens.

The fault in urban renewal, according to Murphy, is that it tends to remove blighted living conditions in one area of the city but to carry the blight into other areas.

This usually results because the people being relocated or forced to move elsewhere aren't any better educated than they were before, he said. He added that it is only a very short time before they are again living in squalor, only in different neighborhoods.

Courtsmen, because of their training and background, could teach these people to improve their living conditions, Murphy said.

Resolution Hails Work on Murder

The Oakland County Law Enforcement Association Tuesday night adopted a resolution praising the excellent work of four departments in solving the murder of Robert A. Greene.

"Without a doubt it was one of the speediest operations in a long time," said Novi Police Chief Les Begole, president.

"And it's due to the fine cooperation between police."

The sheriff's department, Waterford Township, joint and Pontiac police joined forces in the investigation.

Greene, assistant manager of the Pontiac Mail Kroger's store was killed Saturday night. His murderers were apprehended Tuesday.

The resolution adopted the resolution at its monthly meeting at Kingsley Inn.

Detroit Auto Companies Consider Using Disc Brakes

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT — Disc brakes, long associated with racing and European cars, are undergoing serious tests by domestic auto companies and may well appear on several additional 1964 models.

At present, only the Studebaker Avanti among American-made cars uses discs as standard equipment.

They are optional on other Studebaker lines. In Europe 47 makes, 29 of them British, use discs as standard or optional equipment.

American cars use drum brakes. The drum is a section of the inside rim of the wheel. In braking, two brake shoes press against the drum.

The resulting friction stops the drum from turning. The amount of friction applied is limited by the amount of heat developed and dispersed, since the energy of motion is being converted into heat.

Heat tends to make the brake drum expand. This means more pressure must be exerted to cause the brake shoes to make contact. And this results in brake fade—a loss of braking power.

Excessive heat also can cause the brake fluid in the hydraulic cylinders which operate the brakes to boil. Water can cause a sudden, dramatic loss of braking power.

HOW DISCS WORK

Instead of a drum, disc brakes use a flat, phonograph record shaped disc. A set of calipers is mounted so as to grab the disc when braking pressure is applied, much as you would grab a plate between your fingers and the palm of your hand. These calipers contain brake pads, just as drum brakes are lined.

The Budd Co. and Bendix both have disc brake systems. Studebaker uses Bendix, combined with power assists. Budd says its system can be used without power assists. Both are simpler when used with 15-inch wheels, since this provides more room for mounting.

Ford will return to 15-inch wheels on some of its cars in 1964.

Earlier this week Hans Mathias, chief engineer for Ford Division, commented that in the past disc brakes have meant considerable pedal effort, excessive noise and unsuitably short life.

"In spite of its advantages of good directional and good high speed braking ability, the disc brake was therefore unacceptable for regular passenger cars," Mathias said.

"However," he continued, "it appears that these problems are now being resolved, with the result that this development may soon find application to U.S. passenger cars."

Ford uses disc brakes for all of its English makes and for the German Taunus M17.

Budd says disc brakes practically eliminate fade because they expand to ward the lining, instead of away from it, and thus are cooled from it.

Additionally, the discs are said to provide better durability (Budd says in tests its brakes have run 40,000 miles without changing) are virtually unaffected by water (in their open position the pads dry the disc almost at once), and are simple and inexpensive to service.

Raps Gam-orous Fashions

SYDNEY, Australia (U) — Gen. Wilfred Kitching, the Briton who heads the Salvation Army, says women show far too much leg.

"Nowadays, skirts are much too immodest," he said in an interview today.

"How long would you like to see our skirts?" asked a girl reporter in a knee-length skirt.

"Better ask my wife," answered the general, smiling. "But I would say a skirt which came halfway between the knee and ankle would seem modest enough."

The general is visiting Australia for three weeks.

President John F. Gordon of General Motors.

The following is from the verbatim transcript of their recent Detroit news conference:

Donner: We think that our brakes today are pretty good even though they aren't disc brakes. Gordon: We think our brakes today are excellent.

Donner: Which affects I think to some degree the pressure and need for disc brakes.

Gordon: Yes. I might say this, too, that disc brakes happen to be one of those devices which have had far more favorable publicity . . . than they deserve to have."

Constitution Hit by UAW Exec

Says New Document Will Create Confusion

GRAND RAPIDS (UP) — A United Auto Workers union official, disagreeing with Gov. George Romney, says the proposed new state constitution will not reverse the concentration of power in the federal government.

Leonard Woodcock, a UAW vice president and Democratic candidate for re-election to the Wayne State University Board of Governors, believes the new document "will create confusion because it mixes up the powers of the executive and legislative branches of state government."

Woodcock campaigned in Kent County yesterday, telling audiences that the new constitution "would strain Michigan's resources" if adopted on April 1.

"There is no way to raise added revenues which we'll need in the years ahead. We can't reverse the trend without more financing at home," Woodcock said.

He said he was finding "an awareness" of the forthcoming constitutional election in his travels across the state. "The interest is building up but people's understanding of the proposal is another question," he added.

The Grosse Pointe resident who is seeking a six-year term to the Wayne board said he hopes to retain his post because "I'm deeply convinced that education is vital to the jobs in Michigan."

Poultryman Scrambles to Reach Golden Moment

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — We all have our golden moments. Harold Weisberg's golden moment came this week when he arrived at the U.S. Capitol with 700 dozen double-yolk eggs in tow.

Somewhere in this great land of ours there may be a few jaded, cloyed types who would not appreciate Weisberg's accomplishment. They might regard his moment as more white and yellow than golden.

Well, I am here to tell you that gathering 700 double-yolk eggs is an impressive feat. You can't just walk out to the henhouse and pick up a double-yolk egg anytime you want one.

A double yolk is a thousand-to-one shot. In order to find 700 dozen, members of the Northeast Poultry Council (NEPPCO) had to inspect something on the magnitude of 270 million eggs, give or take a couple of omelets.

That figure represents a full week's production by 73 million hens. If all of those eggs were laid end-to-end, it would be rather unusual because hens don't ordinarily lay eggs that way.

Weisberg, a Hyattstown, Md.,

egg farmer, dreamed up the idea of collecting the double yolkers and taking them to the capitol for presentation to members of Congress.

In gratitude, the council appointed him "vice chairman of the Coordinating Committee for Congressional Double-Yolk Egg Promotion in Support of Egg Month," which is March.

The vice chairman and his fellow coordinators arranged to haul the eggs up Capitol Hill on a tractor-drawn wagon with a banner reading "double yolk energy for Congress." The "NEPPCO" poultry princesses was on hand for extra decoration.

The program was somewhat hampered by rainy weather, but egg men are not easily discouraged.

"How do you think we did?" Weisberg asked me when the ceremony was over.

"The schedule was scrambled but it panned out pretty well," I replied, throwing myself into the spirit of the occasion.

NOT CHERISHED

Despite its rarity, an egg with a bonus yolk is not cherished by commercial producers. Weisberg explained that some double yolkers are twice the size of ordinary eggs. This makes them harder to handle and breakage is rampant.

Poultry geneticists are trying to "breed out" the double-yolk trait in commercial flocks, he said.

I asked if double-yolk eggs ever produce twin chickens. Weisberg said twins might be conceived but they couldn't hatch. That is of no concern to

NEPPCO, he added, because all of its eggs are infertile. "A rooster is totally unnecessary in egg production," he said. "I don't have a rooster on my entire farm."

Ex-Korea Chief Appeals to JFK

Wants Junta to Honor Pledge on Ending Rule

SEOUL, Korea (UP) — Former Premier Huh Chung appealed to President Kennedy today to ask South Korea's military rulers to honor their promise to end South Korea's military rule this summer.

Huh's appeal, in an interview, was part of a campaign by civilian political leaders against the proposal by Gen. Chung Hae Park, chief of the military junta, to prolong military rule for another four years.

Despite a new ban on political activity, the junta refrained from a forceful crackdown that might provoke a violent reaction.

Huh, leader of a major civilian political party, urged Kennedy to ask Park to fulfill a pledge he made in Washington in November 1961, that the military regime would transfer power to civilians in the summer of 1963.

The State Department has refused to comment on developments in South Korea since Park on Saturday proposed a plebiscite to keep the junta in office. Huh said he had tried to see U.S. Ambassador Samuel Berger on Monday to get clarification of the American position but was told Berger was busy.

Washington has made plain, however, that it wants a return to a civilian administration through national elections as promised by Park. The United States has poured $3.5 billion in aid into South Korea.

Today Huh and 300 supporters barricaded themselves in a downtown meeting hall and for an hour resisted police attempts to clear them out. A loudspeaker carried speeches against the military regime to thousands of persons outside the building.

More than 100 national policemen finally broke into the meeting hall. The demonstrators agreed to leave peacefully and not to march through the streets after the police agreed not to arrest.

Jackie to Get Gold Charms

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy is getting a gold charm bracelet from President Francisco Orlich of Costa Rica.

The host at a conference of President Kennedy and the chief executives of six Central American nations, Orlich gave the bracelet to Kennedy for her yesterday. The charms are ancient Indian work.

Kennedy gave Orlich a leather portfolio. This contained a photograph of Kennedy on one side and a letter to Orlich on the other.

To Help the Blind

Lions Club Joins Eye Project

The Pontiac Lions Club has entered a project to give sight to the blind.

The organization yesterday became a member of the Michigan Eye Collection Center, a nonprofit agency that distributes still-living eye tissue to hospitals where a cornea is needed for grafting or transplantation.

The local Lions Club, one of 18 in Michigan now taking part in the program, will provide information to those persons interested in donating their eyes after death.

It also will make arrangements with Pontiac General and St. Joseph Mercy hospitals for the removal of the eyes.

"Actually, the program is a cooperative one between the Lions, local eye specialists and the hospitals," said Dr. William Wilkinson, ophthalmologist and a Lion.

Dr. John Henderson, chairman of the State Eye Collection Center in Ann Arbor, told Lion members at a luncheon yesterday that the project is a "bargain in sight conservation."

6,500 PLEDGES
The Michigan Eye Collection Center was established in 1967, in association with the Ann Arbor Lions Club and the University of Michigan, where Henderson is professor in the eye department.

Henderson said that there are more than 6,500 pledges on file at the center from persons who want to make a gift of their eyes.

Half the number of pledges were obtained in the last 18 months, according to Henderson.

He explained that even though Henderson said, and they cannot a person pledges his eyes, the next of kin must be notified prior to the operation.

The entire eye is removed in the operation but only the cornea is used. The operation must take place within two hours after death. There is no disfigurement.

The eyes are then placed in an ice-packed canister and sent to Ann Arbor for distribution. The cornea must then be used within 48 hours. Otherwise, the tissue will deteriorate.

If a donated eye is diseased or cannot be used for grafting, it is studied in research to help find causes and cures for blindness.

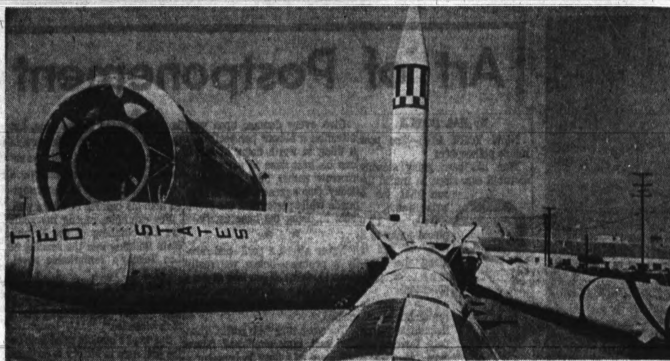

Eyes are never bought or sold.

DON'T WILL EYES

Henderson pointed out that eyes should not be willed as they must be removed shortly after death, before the will is read.

The Michigan Collection Center has helped some 200 blind persons since the program started.

The Pontiac station is the second in the county. Lathrup Village is the other.

WIND-BLOWN ROCKETS — Full-scale space vehicle mock-ups lie crumpled at NASA-Marshall Space Flight Center, at Redstone Arsenal, Ala., after high winds toppled them near the

Labor Trouble at Low Ebb Over Nation

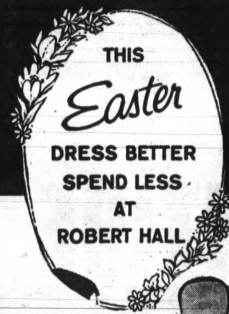

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the continuing New York and Cleveland newspaper strikes, the labor scene is cooling off, says the man who is the chief government watchdog in this field.

William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, told a reporter Wednesday that his agency was working for settlements in 84 strikes at the end of last week, "the lowest weekly total we've had in some time."

Simkin said that on the average last year his service was in on about 130 strikes at a given time. Beginning in January the number began to decline.

"But we've got our fingers crossed," Simkin said. "We've got some big ones coming up."

U.S., Russ May Probe the Planets

ROME (UPI) — A space collaboration agreement between the United States and Russia could lead to a joint launching of probes to Venus and Mars, scientific experts said today.

The two powers, in a major space breakthrough, announced agreement yesterday on details of their first cooperative project in satellite communications.

The accord culminated a week of secret talks here between delegations headed by Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, vice-director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), and Soviet academician Anatoly A. Blagoravov.

The two groups of top scientists spelled out the first steps for implementing a broad agreement on space cooperation reached last year after an exchange of letters between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Participating experts said "the hypothesis" of jointly launching a space probe to Mars or Venus had come up during the talks here.

"Such venture could involve direct cooperation in the preparation and launching to avoid unnecessary duplication of experiments," an official communique said.

Wants Rights Restored to Robert E. Lee

WASHINGTON (AP) — If it's good for Winston Churchill then it should be good for Robert E. Lee, says Rep. James H. Quillen, R-Tenn.

U.S. citizenship, that is. Or more specifically in Lee's case, full citizenship rights.

Quillen offered a bill in the House today to restore full citizenship rights to the Confederate commander who somehow never got his citizenship back after the Civil War.

"Congress, by a two-third vote, can right a long-standing wrong and make Robert E. Lee posthumously a citizen in good grace once again," Quillen said.

The House voted recently to make Churchill an honorary U.S. citizen. Quillen's bill provides that "in tribute to the virtues of courage, patriotism, integrity and selfless devotion to duty so amply displayed during his lifetime by the late Gen. Robert E. Lee of Virginia... he is posthumously restored to full rights of United States citizenship... as of June 13, 1865."

Art of Postponement Brings Peace

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The poor man's philosopher:

Man has been going steadily downhill ever since he traded the sun dial for a wrist watch.

One of the placid paths to a ripe old age is along the pavement of postponement.

It is better to remember or anticipate a joy or duty than to endure it. Life isn't an insurmountable mountain. It is a clutter of climbed molehills.

Some people make living a continual emergency, as if they were always on the way to a four-alarm fire. They always feel they have more to do than they can cope with, and their reward is the merit badge of the uneasy—an ulcer.

BEST PLAN
Existence becomes a blossoming glade rather than a heap of if you learn the pleasant art of postponement. The best philosophy of survival is to live few uncrowded hours.

Give every demand upon your attention a 24-hour perspective. If a thing is worth doing at all, it can be best done in the vast tomorrow rather than the hurried today. One's greatest error is often made while performing the avoidable in doing the unnecessary.

Never attack a peril—and rarely a promise—unless you really have to. Often, if you look at them steadily, they will evaporate. They will go away and leave you undisturbed.

Tot your time with trifles. Then the vast unaccomplished future will loom as a finer treasure trove than your achieved past.

LARGE PLEASURE
There is considerable pleasure in getting some things done, but there is also a large pleasure in enjoying the prospect of things undone. Everyone should have a larger list of things to be attempted than his catalog of things won.

For example, among my goals are the climbing of the Empire State Building and the reading of Leo Tolstoy's remarkable novel, "War and Peace."

I have met a number of people who have done these things separately, and they all brag about their victories.

But what I have in mind is to be the first man in history to do them at the same time—to go up the Empire State Building and through "War and Peace" step by step.

That is my secret scheme. But why rush into it? It is more fun to think about climbing the Empire State Building while reading "War and Peace" than it is actually to do it.

I feel the same way about learning to drive a motor car. For 35 years I have planned to learn how to drive an automobile, and never quite gotten around to doing it. You know, and I know, any number of people who can drive an automobile. They pay liability insurance. I don't.

The best way to travel is along the road of dream. Then life ceases to be a walking nightmare.

Industry Awaits Fate of Company Suit to Silence Ex-Employee

DONALD WOHLGEMUTH

By DARDEN CHAMBLISS
AP Business New Writer

NEW YORK — What's in a man's head, can belong to someone else.

His knowledge, courts have held, is not necessarily his to sell.

The proposition is being tested anew in a conflict involving a tire company, a girdle maker and a bright young chemical engineer.

The outcome could have broad implications for industry and workers.

At issue is the principle, rooted in English common law, that trade secrets — a man learns on the job — belong to whoever was paying him at the time.

Knowledge of ingredients and of ways of putting things together or working materials is not the property of the discoverer but belong to his employer, this principle has held.

The new legal action tries to find out exactly how this operates.

GOODRICH VS. PLATYEX

The tire company, B. F. Goodrich, is seeking to prevent a former employee, Donald Wohlgemuth, 30, from working in a certain operation of International Latex Corp., the firm that makes Playtex products.

Goodrich says it fears the loss of confidential information about space suits, the field in which Wohlgemuth had worked for Goodrich.

Goodrich said it is pressing the case "in view of the importance to American industry of the legal question involved."

The problem has mushroomed in recent years. Some $15 billion a year is spent on research. Products and processes depend upon complex and intricate information.

Corporations worry that ideas that cost millions might pass out the door into a competitor's plant in the person of a departing employee.

As a result, an increasing number of firms require technical people to sign an agreement not to reveal secrets to a future employer, usually for a stated period of time — six months to two years in most cases.

Many firms also write into employment contracts agreements that employees will not work for competitive firms for a given period.

INTELLECTUAL SERVITUDE

Increasingly, men who switch jobs find that their old boss has written their new boss a letter. The letter tells what kind of information the employee had that the former employer thinks should be kept secret.

Watching these efforts, the employee may conclude that knowing too many company secrets could bind him to a firm in a kind of intellectual servitude.

There are broader considerations. The free interchange of men and ideas, said one chemical-company executive, is what makes a competitive society perk most effectively.

"Ten years ago, there were only two companies making polyethylene," he said. "Now there are a dozen. Who started up these new plants? They weren't all college kids, you can be sure of that."

But others argue that without secrecy safeguards, research funds would dry up. No one will spend money learning what someone else could steal.

Also, said a corporation attorney, secret-keeping doesn't have to reduce mobility or hamper cross-fertilization of ideas. Restrictions are placed only on very specific information about very specific things, he said.

DIFFICULT DISTINCTION

The line where general information stops and specific, secret information begins is not always easy to draw, however.

The Goodrich case attracts interests for this reason, among others. It involves trying to spell out the secret areas in advance, then prevent the newly hired employee from working in it.

This emphasis on restricting before there has been any actual disclosure makes the case somewhat of a bellwether, some legal experts think.

Wohlgemuth, a graduate engineer from the University of Michigan, had been technical manager of space suit development engineering for Goodrich. The firm has been a leader in the field, providing the suits for astronauts in Project Mercury.

International Latex, based at Dover, Del., is a relative newcomer in the field with a new $15.5-million contract for Apollo moon flight outfits. It hired Wohlgemuth, topping his $10,600 a year salary at Goodrich with pay of $13,700.

Goodrich went to court and got an injunction stopping Wohlgemuth from doing any work for Latex.

"Until the hiring of Mr. Wohlgemuth," said Goodrich, "it had been the uniform practice of companies in the industry to train their own space suit scientists."

Latex replied that Wohlgemuth had a right to advance his career, said Goodrich was underpaying him for the job he was doing and that Latex merely paid him average rates for his kind of skills.

Further, Latex said its space suit technology was different from — in fact, was further advanced than — Goodrich's.

Common Pleas Court Judge Frank H. Harvey in Akron, Ohio, where Goodrich is based, ruled after a trial that "the mere fact that a former employee who possesses a trade secret has accepted employment from a rival manufacturer isn't sufficient to warrant an injunction against the employee" unless evil intent is shown.

Wohlgemuth, who lives with his wife and child in a new house he bought near the Dover plant, could return to work, the judge said. Goodrich appealed.

What it seeks is a permanent injunction in a case involving the Du Pont Co. and American Potash and Chemical Co., Los Angeles.

Du Pont has so far prevented Donald E. Hirsch, 38, a father of four who has a doctorate in chemical engineering, from working for American Potash on a process he helped Du Pont develop.

This order is merely a preliminary injunction, however. There has been no trial on the merits.

The Goodrich case is the forerunner because it has been to trial — the court decision, which Goodrich lost. Now Goodrich hopes to win its point on appeal. Attorneys from Du Pont and the many other firms with similar cases brewing will watch carefully the Goodrich appeal hearings in Akron April 11.

So will thoughtful members of technical staffs throughout American industry.

SKATES, THEN WALKS — Tamara Shamp, 11-month-old Battle Creek tot, was clipping along on special roller skates before she could walk. She had an underdeveloped leg muscle and wasn't expected to walk until she was 1 1/4 years old. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Shamp, decided to order special skates to help develop the muscle. Now Tamara can skate better than she can walk.

Enough Is Enough

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP) — Newspapers in Von Slomski's yard Joseph Von Slomski wishes he'd and he, too, was pressed into duty. Every night last week he drove 15-year-old son, Bob, said recently: to neighboring communities to collect papers.

"Dad, they're offering free classified ads to kids."

"Please help me," the father pleaded to a newsman Wednesday. "I am almost dead. Please sell folks we have reached the saturation point. I've spent more on gas than the paper is worth."

The teen-ager asked and received permission to solicit papers for a junior high school paper drive, listing the Von Slomski home telephone. The advertisement appeared in the San Pedro News-Pilot, which offered the free ads to youngsters.

SIX TONS PLUS

But it isn't over yet. March 28 Von Slomski must deliver the accumulated papers to the school. He has lined up a friend's dump truck. Soon there were six tons of truck for the chore.

Volcano Kills 400 Indonesians

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Bali Island's rampaging Agung volcano has killed at least 400 persons, a spokesman for the Indonesian civil defense organization said today.

The spokesman said there was an increasing threat of more violent eruptions from the 10,350-foot volcano in northeast Bali and President Sukarno has declared the tourist attraction a disaster zone.

It was not clear immediately whether the increased death toll was due to new eruptions. Previously, officials had put the death toll at 150 or more.

A Red Cross source said latest reports listed 125 known injured. However, in view of the jump in the death toll, the number of injured also was expected to rise sharply.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — The PTA of Atlantic City High School would like to see less hair on the heads of this community's teenagers.

A code, compiled by the PTA and distributed yesterday after a 15-month study, criticized boys whose "hairdos cry for a barber" and who wear levis, boots and T-shirts.

It listed as taboo for girls, "Eiffel Tower" hairdos, wigs and V-neck sweaters worn without blouses.

GOP Urges Delay on Minimum Wage Bill

LANSING (AP) — House Republican leaders indicated today that Gov. George Romney should wait another year before pressing for passage of a state minimum wage law.

Hours ahead of the legislative deadline for reporting bills out in the house of origin yesterday, the Senate Labor Committee sent forth a proposal calling for a $1.15 minimum wage.

The bill appeared marked for death, however.

House GOP leaders made it clear the proposal stood virtually no chance of getting through their chamber even if passed by the Senate.

House Speaker Allison Green, R-Kingston, said any such bill certainly would be referred to the House Labor Committee, which already has given the ax to four other minimum wage measures. Any minimum wage bill arriving from the Senate would be given similar consideration, said Rep. Riemer Van Til, R-Holland, chairman of the House Labor Committee.

WRONG TIME. "We don't feel this is the right time for a minimum wage," Van Til said.

Green said he believes Romney should wait until the 1964 session before putting on pressure for a minimum wage bill, so a thorough study of the proposal can be made.

A resolution will be introduced to set up an interim legislative study committee on the minimum wage this summer, the House leader said.

"The governor should be waiting to go along with us on this," he added. "He's gotten pretty good cooperation from the legislature on other things he's asked for."

Van Til stood firm when House Democrats, led by Rep. Albert Horrigan, D-Flint, demanded that the labor committee surrender a wage bill or be discharged from further consideration.

"You Republicans either are not following orders from the front office or you don't really believe the man in the front office means it," said Horrigan in a reference to the fact that Romney had called for a minimum wage law to be enacted.

"I don't know whether he really means what he says, but I'd like to give all of us a chance to find out."

"Please don't give us excuses this year. Give us a handful of votes. The working people of Michigan need them."

The Democratic motion missed passage by five votes, 51-49.

Van Til said Horrigan's demand was premature because the labor committee still had one meeting left. But no wage bill was forthcoming when the committee finally broke up later in the day.

Other Democrats carried Horrigan's remarks further by contending Romney wasn't serious when he asked for the minimum wage bill in his "State of the State" message.

"If he's so eager to have this, why doesn't he put the heat on

Presidents Get Annual Facial

Repairs Halt Fissures on Mt. Rushmore

WASHINGTON—When a smile threatens to crack George Washington's stony face or Lincoln gets crows' feet, Mount Rushmore guardians stand ready to repair.

Rain beating against the massive faces of Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson and Theodore Roosevelt freezes in crevices that expand, into gaping fissures. Thus the sculptures in granite require yearly facials by National Park Service specialists.

To keep the presidents' features smooth and agelessly handsome for the more than a million tourists who come to look at them in South Dakota's Black Hills each year, repairmen dangle over the 5,725-foot mountain inside in box-type chairs.

They seal the "wrinkles" with a special blend of granite dust, white lead and linseed oil.

NOSES OUT SPINX

The Mount Rushmore sculptures are probably the most colossal ever made by man, says the National Geographic Society. Visible for 60 miles, the faces are 60 feet high. The nose of Lincoln is longer than the entire face of Egypt's Sphinx.

When the memorial to four key presidents was first proposed in 1924, some people thought it might set a monumentally bad precedent. They shuddered to think of America's majestic peaks being turned into an all-too-human pantheon of noses, chins and whiskers.

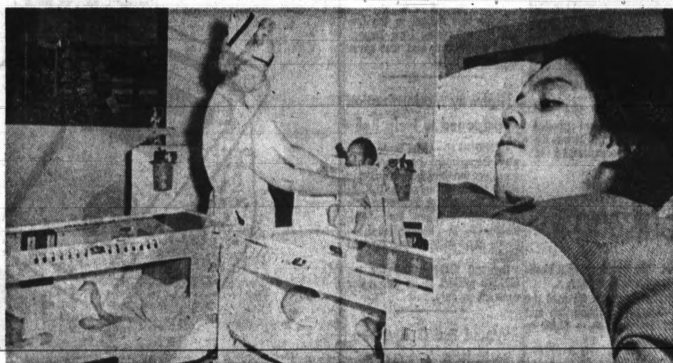

"Man makes statues but God made the mountain. Let it alone," editorialized a South Dakota newspaper.

But Gutzon Borglum, the late Idaho-born sculptor who worked for 13 years on the monument, and his crew of former miners began dynamiting Rushmore's surface rock to expose the granite in 1927.

Drills and jack hammers roughed out the Presidential features following measurements from a scale model. Pneumatic chisels smoothed the faces.

Borglum made changes in studio measurements directly on the irregularities and natural lighting effects.

Except on grain farms in the corn belt where it is a cash crop, corn is generally considered a feed crop.

Open Door Policy Ends in Ruin for Customer

SOUTHEND, England (AP) — Mrs. Annie Grimwood, 50, said she ran up a $2,520 debt in buying from a door-to-door salesman because he never asked questions and never refused to let her make a purchase.

She was put on three years probation yesterday after pleading guilty to obtaining goods on false pretenses.

Comedian Is Expected to Leave Hospital Soon

CANOGA PARK, Calif. (UPI) — Famed deadpan comedian Buster Keaton, 66, remained in a hospital today, but doctors said they expected him to be released in "another day or two."

Keaton was admitted to West Hills Doctors Hospital last Sunday suffering from a minor respiratory ailment.

Museum Gets Mineral Types

BERGENFIELD, N. J. (AP) — A collection of 900 specimens of New Jersey minerals gathered by the late Hubert G. Seaman over a 37-year period are on exhibit at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

Seaman, who died a year ago, had recommended in his will that the collection go to the Smithsonian.

Officials at the institution described the minerals as "an outstanding addition to the museum's collections."

Form of Executive Branch Changes in New Constitution

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the fourth of eight articles on Michigan's proposed constitution.

By GENE SCHROEDER

LANSING (AP)—There was little disagreement at the constitutional convention that Michigan governors should be handed the key and a four-year rent-free lease to a house in Lansing when they are sworn into office.

But the question of what kind of executive department structure the governor should have to work with kindled lengthy debate among the convention delegates, and the arguments have continued since.

The Democratic party, officially opposed to adoption of the proposed new constitution, contends that among other things the document weakens the executive branch by taking away the right of the people to elect a state treasurer, auditor general, superintendent of public instruction and highway commissioner.

But Republicans and other proponents insist that the revised constitution is intended to strengthen the executive.

"We have tried to reduce the highly fractionated, dispersed and divided character of Michigan's present governmental structure by providing appointive rather than elective positions which can be filled by the most competent people who can be found," says John Martin, GOP national committeeman who was chairman of the convention's Executive Branch Committee.

Both supporters and opponents of the document generally agree that the governor should be provided with a suitably furnished executive residence and that his term and that of other elective executive officers should be extended from two to four years.

Because of the controversy raging over many of the other features of the revised constitution, the Inter-University Faculty Committee on Constitutional Revision was created to present a "balanced" viewpoint to the Michigan voter.

The committee is composed of 35 professors from six Michigan colleges and universities.

"The question before the Michigan voter is so fundamental to our lives that a reasoned analysis and careful deliberation is imperative," they declared.

DEPLORE PAT STANDS

The professors, mostly political scientists, deplored what they described as the unequivocal and categorical positions taken by the leadership of the political parties.

These positions, they said, are "supported by unsound and one-sided reasoning" and are "virtually blind to opposing points of view."

The educators added: "It is our feeling that the new constitution is neither the ideal document the proponents would wish to persuade the voter to believe, nor is it the reactionary document its detractors claim."

Explaining the committee's role, Professor Samuel Eldersveld of the University of Michigan, who acted as coordinator, said there was general agreement among the participants on the conclusions reached.

But he added that not all the educators necessarily subscribed to the individual interpretations developed in each position paper.

Examining the executive article of the proposed constitution, the faculty committee found that it adopts a great many—but by no means all—of the doctrines of an ideal, or model, article.

For example, the committee said, the change of language from "chief executive" to "executive power is vested in the governor" makes it clear that the constitutional intent is to make the governor THE executive officer of the state.

The committee report also praised a feature expanding the governor's powers of enforcement so that he has authority to inquire into the condition and administration of any public office and to remove any state officer for cause regardless of whether the legislature is in session or not.

HODGE-PODGE

But the report described as "something of a hodge-podge" the selection procedure for other administrative board members. It added:

"The governing board-executive director arrangements for highways and education are likely to place any governor at a disadvantage, and it is apparent that this was the intent of the authors of these plans."

"Furthermore, unless the legislature abolishes or amends its structure, the ad board will include three members—superintendent of public instruction, highway director and auditor—whose selection is neither by the governor nor by the electorate."

"It seems probable therefore that any future governor will have less control over the ad board than is presently the case. It appears that the more policy making the offices are the less control the governor will have over them."

In the area of integration of administrative agencies, the committee felt the document takes "an enormous step forward."

The revised constitution places a limit of 20 on the number of principal state departments and most economists that we not curtail expenditures in periods of recession or depression."

2 YEARS TO ACT

The legislature is given two years to act under the proposed document, with failure of the lawmakers to carry out the program transferring the assignment to the governor.

On budget matters, the committee report frowned on a feature which requires a balanced budget and expenditure reduction by the governor with the approval of the appropriation committees when revenue falls short of appropriations.

"These requirements limit the discretion of the governor and in so doing are restrictive in terms of the usefulness of the budget as a device for assuring a strong responsible executive," the educators stated.

"Furthermore, this provision flies in the face of the advice of most economists that we not curtail expenditures in periods of recession or depression."

Senatorial confirmation of executive appointments—the "advise and consent" doctrine—was changed from the current system which, in effect, has appointees serving at the pleasure of the Senate.

Under the new provision, failure by the Senate to disapprove gubernatorial appointments within 60 days carries with it confirmation.

FAILED ACTION

In the past five years, the Senate has failed to take any action on nearly one-third of the names submitted to it for confirmation.

"The effect of this," said the faculty committee, "is to reduce the potential interference with the activities of gubernatorial appointees by the Senate."

"On the other hand, although few appointees in the past have actually been rejected, the new provision might increase the tendency of the Senate to reject appointments."

In summing up their views on the executive branch provisions, the professors said the proposed constitution introduces a number of features which should aid the executive in providing state leadership.

"On the other hand," they concluded, "a few features such as selection of the ad board and the budget provision are retrogressive."

What is most important, however, a number of key changes such as the reduction of the number of principal departments, the confirmation procedure, and several others will require responsibility.

American Crew Falls Under Spell of Pacific Isles

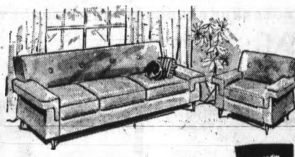

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Eight months ago the yacht Monsoon left San Diego with an all-American crew of six aboard.

When the 47-foot former salmon trawler sailed into Sydney Harbor today, skipper Kerb Hope, 31, a Los Angeles engineer, was the only American aboard. The other five had been replaced by an Australian, an Englishman and three New Zealanders.

"Tahiti was the worst," said Hope. "I lost three of my men there. The Pacific islands are so great I was tempted to jump ship myself."

Where These Coeds Go

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (U.P.)—Those males who consider the attractiveness of coeds when applying for college could do worse than reflect on Bowling Green State University.

Both Jacqueline Mayer, Miss America of 1963, and Bonnie Gawronski, Miss Ohio of 1963, were Bowling Green State students at the time of their succession to their titles.

Williams pleaded guilty to the violation March 1. He was sentenced by Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem.

Williams was arrested while sitting in a parked car at Miracle Mile shopping center. Bloomfield Township and state police detectives said he had narcotics when they arrested him.

Drop Antitrust Suit Against Chrysler

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—The Justice Department has dropped its antitrust suit against Chrysler Corp. with assurances that Chrysler will let its dealers sell other lines of cars too.

Chrysler was charged in April, 1961, with threatening to withdraw franchises from dealers unless they stopped selling Studebaker Larks after Chrysler's compact Valiant was introduced.

But a stipulation filed yesterday by U.S. Attorney Alfred M. Moellering said Chrysler had "reaffirmed its interest in continuing a policy of allowing dealers to sell and service other makes of cars."

Rockefeller Record Not Enough to Win New Frontier Negro

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller must come up with something more persuasive than the record if he is to pry substantial numbers of Negro voters away from the Kennedy New Frontier.

Rockefeller is talking and acting like a candidate for next year's Republican presidential nomination. He insists that he has not made up his mind to be or not to be a candidate.

But Rocky is stumping the country in search of political support.

One of Rockefeller's most important political appearances was in Albany, N.Y., before the New York State Conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

The Republican party desperately needs to regain the support of Negro voters. That is precisely what Rockefeller undertook to do in his March 5 Albany speech.

He called the roll of civil rights accomplishments in New York State. It is impressive. Then Rockefeller analyzed the Kennedy administration record.

The governor said President Kennedy's 1963 civil rights proposals were too little and too late. He compared Kennedy's 1960 campaign promises with the administration's civil rights performance.

"The President's legislative recommendations," Rockefeller said, "ignore three of his most important campaign promises. They are two years too late. His recommendations cover only five out of 28 legislative recommendations of the federal civil rights commission."

"They ignore 23 proposals of the commission in the fields of housing, employment, education, voting rights and administration of justice."

"Legislation to implement the entire civil rights section of the Republican platform has been introduced in the House of Representatives by Republicans and the measure has the support of the entire Republican leadership in the House."

"Thus it is plain that there is constant Republican pressure for action and no dearth of opportunity for the Democratic majorities in the House and Senate to keep the promises of 1960 or meet the recommendations of the civil rights commission if the necessary leadership were forthcoming."

THAT'S THE PROMISE

That was the burden of Rockefeller's appeal for Negro votes — that the Republicans had done well and would do better, whereas the Kennedy administration was refusing to honor its campaign promises.

It is a fact, of course, that the Kennedy administration has dragged its heels on civil rights campaign pledges.

But it is equally true that the Kennedy administration has starred in some civil rights spectacles, such as James Meredith's matriculation at the University of Mississippi.

The Kennedys also have opened to Negroes a new field of big and important federal jobs. And Negroes have with the Kennedy administration a greater social acceptance than with any preceding administration, including FDR's.

That is what confronts the Republican party and Republican candidates when they bid for Negro support at the polls.

Rockefeller is an acknowledged civil rights leader. NAACP executive secretary Roy Wilkins was interviewed after Rocky's Albany speech.

"Rockefeller's record on civil rights is a good record," Wilkins said. "But, you know, he is running against President Kennedy!"

The cotton belt, the world's largest cotton-producing region, embraces all or large parts of nine southern states. But cotton is grown also in irrigated areas of California, Arizona and New Mexico.

Ex-Texan Likes UP

By JIM TRETHEWEY

The Marquette Mining Journal
Written For The Associated Press

HULBERT — A onetime engineer and jewelry store owner who planned to retire and operate "just a few small boats" in Michigan's Upper Peninsula is one of the foremost authorities on Indian lore in the entire state.

Ken Slater, a young-looking 62 with progressive ideas about the tourist industry in this Land of Hiawatha, is a transplanted Texan who fell in love with the Upper Peninsula generally and the Tahquamenon River particularly.

He's found the history of this north country so fascinating that he spends almost as much time building up his collection of tape recordings of interviews with old-timers as he does in operation of his passenger sight-seeing vessels on the "Tah-qu-me-naw."

And not the least of his year-round activities is serving as president of the Upper Michigan Tourist Association, an organization which grew out of the ashes of the old Upper Peninsula development bureau and which is engaged in promotion of an industry that many persons believe will serve as the foundation for an upsurge in the area's economy.

Probably more than any other person, Slater practices what he preaches in hospitality and service to visitors.

It isn't generally known—Slater would be the last to admit it—but in a survey of persons catering to summer visitors in 1962, the Tahquamenon boat operator was rated the "ultimate host" by "tourist shoppers" who were strangers to Slater.

Since he was ineligible because of his UMTA position, a $1,500 in prizes went to other tourist and resort operators.

Slater, a 1922 graduate of the University of Michigan, spent nine years as an engineer along the Mexican border, then operated a jewelry store in Dallas, Tex., until 1940. That year, after several hunting and fishing trips to this area, he sold out his Dallas business and came to the UP to live.

RUNS 3 BOATS

He's in the tourist trade today because, as he puts it, "operation of those boats proved more than a one-man proposition."

In 1947 he launched the Tahquamenon boat service, which takes visitors down the river to the big falls that annually attract tens of thousands of persons.

Available for his service are three revamped LCM's which he bought at Norfolk, Va., using the Hudson River and other waterways to reach the Great Lakes. The all-steel hull vessels were brought overland from Sault Ste. Marie to the Tahquamenon.

The Tahquamenon boat landing north of Hulbert is two miles off highway M28.

Those who make the 4½ hour boat trip to Tahquamenon Falls—largest except for Niagara east of the Mississippi River—will be able to acquire considerable knowledge about the region as well as enjoying the natural scenic beauty along the river's banks.

"I quickly found that people are hungry for information about this area," Slater said.

He spends about a full hour of each trip using a public address system to acquaint his passengers with the lore of Hiawatha land.

A fountain of information, not only on the Tahquamenon but on all of Upper Michigan, he's able to answer almost any questions about the region.

Humorously, he revealed that the question most often asked by tourists is, "What do you do with your winters?"

Briefly, he tells them that—unlike the average authors of books about the Peninsula who spend a comparatively short time here to get the "color" of the region—he gathers accurate information in the off-season so that he can improve on his historical lectures.

"I'm busy interviewing old-timers a good part of the winter, when they have plenty of opportunity to reminisce," he declared.

The result is an extensive library of tape recordings telling about the busy lumbering and mining days of the 19th century.

Medical Men Urge Use of Safety Seat Belts in Cars

Seat belts in your automobile can save lives and prevent or reduce injuries, the American Medical Association (AMA) advises.

Many autos today are equipped with seat belts, but many more are not.

An immense amount of scientific research, including actual collisions under controlled conditions, proves that the seat belt is one of the single most effective items of protective equipment now available to reduce the toll of traffic injuries and deaths, the AMA says.

Thousands of lives are lost each year because people are thrown against windshields or out of car doors in crashes. The seat belt helps keep you in your seat and in your car.

Most accidents occur close to home and at moderate speeds. Thus seat belts are important even for short trips to school or the neighborhood grocery.

QUICK RELEASE

The belt buckle can be unfastened in an instant with one hand, so motorists can get clear of a burning or submerged car.

Many motorists who have installed seat belts in the past year or two have them only in the front seat. People in the back seat also are entitled to this protection, continues the AMA.

Others who have installed seat belts have become careless in using them. The belt won't protect if it isn't buckled in place.

Safe-driving habits by all can reduce accidents. Seat belts help provide greater safety for driver and passengers, the AMA concluded.

The driver has some protection in minor crashes by being able to

Navy Task Force Phantom of China Sea

By CONRAD FINK

WITH TASK GROUP 77.5 (N) — Primed for nuclear or conventional war, this U.S. Navy task group prowls the South China Sea, cocking its electronic ears for trouble in Southeast Asia.

The course of South Viet Nam's war against communism or even seemingly minor shifts in political winds along Red China's borders means much to the 3,720 men aboard 77.5's aircraft carrier and four destroyers.

With two other U.S. 7th Fleet strike forces on patrol in the Far East, 77.5 offers the means to retaliate against a Communist attack in Asia. One brief coded message from fleet headquarters in Hawaii could send the group heading for the mainland.

If it has to shoot, 77.5 can bring to bear a destructive power greater than any ever before used in war. Its aircraft in one sortie can deliver nuclear bombloads far surpassing in destructive potential all conventional bombs dropped in World War II and both atomic attacks on Japan.

HARD TO FIND

If 77.5 itself becomes a target, it will be a tough one to find.

Moving rapidly and without transmitting messages or otherwise creating "electronic emissions," the task group for long periods can lose itself in the wide expanse of water it calls home. Its men learn how to go to war in the shortest time possible.

Urged on by the voices of their commanders rasping out over loudspeakers, crewmen put in 18-hour days eating on the run, sleeping when they can. There is a constant demand for speed.

Officers and men learn to refuel aircraft two seconds faster than the day before, raise missiles faster, man battle positions faster, think faster.

Seconds saved draw praise. Seconds lost draw blistering commentaries from the task group's commander, Capt. James Ganson Daniels III, 48, of Coronado, Calif.

TWO PURPOSES

At sea, Daniels is possessed by two thoughts: he must maintain 77.5's ability to launch aircraft within minutes to deliver the big punch, and he must lose the task group in the vast South China Sea.

"Our best defense is getting lost," Daniels said, adding his men are fully aware the Soviet Union, like the United States, tries to maintain precise charts on movements of all opposing forces. Daniels said one of 77.5's greatest achievements was running silently for 10 days and being off the Soviet Union's plotting charts the entire time.

"The Russians didn't know where we were and were going crazy trying to find us," he said. "How we know this I can't tell you." New, secret electronic gear plays a large role but Daniels' ships gain much of their mobility by taking on fuel and provisions while under way at sea. Oilers and store ships suddenly appear over the horizon, run alongside quickly and transfer tons of airplane fuel, food and ammunition. Radios are silent but fluttering flags and blinking lights transmit messages. Swift courier planes swoop down with written orders. Then task group 77.5 darts away to continue its watch.

Walls of Ancient Pompei Scratched With Love

POMPEI, Italy (N) — Every other thought scratched on the walls of Pompei and preserved by volcanic action through 19 centuries has to do with love, its ecstasies and tribulations.

Before Vesuvius blew its top, one disgruntled lover at some unknown date wrote, "Quisquis amat veniat veneri volo frangere costas," which translates roughly to, "Whoever is in love come hither. I intend to break Venus' ribs."

The heart and arrow motif is briefer, if not so flamboyant.

Plants produce most of the chlorophyll but some is also found in animals.

Defends Extended Lube Interval

BY JAMES STICKFORD
UPI Automotive Editor

DETROIT — Exhaustive testing has proved the extended lubrication interval (ELI) of new cars is not detrimental to the vehicle, Ford Motor Co. said yesterday.

Ford, which introduced ELI with its 1961 models, contends that testing before ELI was made standard and continuing tests discount the theory that serious accidents and automotive breakdowns can result from the intervals.

J. W. Lane, program division manager of Socony Mobil Oil Co., Inc., told a symposium sponsored by the American Society of Lubrication Engineers in New York last week that the extended interval was not all it was advertised to be.

Fleet experience with 1961 model ELI taxicabs has shown that ball joints and tie rods, especially the latter, have become loose and noisy, and then failed at 30,000 to 35,000 miles," he said.

Lane said, however, at least another year's driving was needed before it could be determined if ELI is a success or failure.

"The claimed convenience and economy to the owner must be balanced against possibility of rapid loss of investment value, higher repair charges and greater risk of safety due to undetected defects in the auto through lack of frequent observation and checks," he said.

TO SPOT TROUBLE

But a Ford spokesman said the auto maker "encourages owners to take their cars in for an inspection every 6,000 miles or at least twice a year for inspection." If that is done, he said, any budding mechanical breakdown can be quickly spotted.

Currently Ford specifies a lubrication interval of 36,000 miles for its line except the Continental, which is 30,000 miles and the Thunderbird, which is 100,000 miles.

mends lubrication at 6,000 except for Pontiac and Tempest which recommends 35,000-mile intervals.

Chrysler Corp. established the interval at 32,000 miles and American Motors Corp. has a lubrication interval of 33,000 miles for its Classic and Ambassador and 2,000 for the American.

At its Romeo, Mich., testing grounds, Ford subjects autos to "torture chamber" tests that would equal at least 125,000 miles of actual driving under the worst conditions.

These and other tests were conducted, exhaustively before the ELI was made standard, a Ford spokesman said.

Raymond I. Potter, supervisor of fuels and lubricants, said only one claim of $3 was paid for ball joint failure under warranties of 265,000 standard sized 1962 model Fords.

A spokesman for the Automobile Manufacturers Association also took exception to Lane's remarks. He said that ELI was adopted following improvements in lubricants and seals and after testing at proving grounds and laboratories.

Mule Has Colt in Rare Hybrid Animal Birth

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Mules don't have babies.

But rancher Ted Reeves, owner of Maud, never explained to her that she is a mule and mules are hybrid crosses between horses and donkeys and are therefore sterile.

So Maud had a colt. The youngster, which looks somewhat like a Mexican burro, is the grandson of a Shetland pony and a jenny (female jackass). Reeves didn't say what the colt's father is.

R.M. M. Carter, veterinarian, told Reeves two months ago that Maud looked like she was pregnant.

"It looks to me," Carter said, "like we have one of the rare things in animals—pregnancy in a hybrid. It's very, very unusual. Hybrids are almost always sterile."

Hard Winter Is Ended (Officially)

By The Associated Press

One of Michigan's roughest winters ended today. Officially, at least, spring got here at 3:20 A.M.

The Detroit Weather Bureau, which uses December, January and February, in averaging out winter weather, says the Motor City's was the fourth coldest since it began keeping tabs in 1871.

West Michigan got its second coldest and ran up new snowfall records, according to the Muskegon Weather Bureau.

Pellston, at the top of the Lower Peninsula, copped the below-zero "honors" for 1962-63 with -35.

It even got 17-below in Hell and down to a bone-chilling -34 in Paradise. Hell is 15 miles northwest of Ann Arbor and Paradise on Whitefish Bay, about 50 miles northwest of Sault Ste. Marie in the Upper Peninsula.

Most of Michigan found its weather, like a meteorologist explained things at Muskegon: "We never have had a winter of such sustained cold. There have been colder individual months, but never consecutively."

Lake Superior, never known to have frozen over, almost made it. A Canadian airlines pilot reported in late February that he'd found only a few open patches of water, none of them more than an acre or two in size, in flying from Sault Ste. Marie to Fort William, Ont., at the other end.

2 FEET THICK

On last Monday, managing editor Eugene Sundstrom of the Sault Ste. Marie Evening News said his scouts found ice 2 feet thick a mile from shore in Whitefish Bay, through which Lake Superior empties into the St. Marys River and thus into Lake Huron via the Soo locks.

The December-January-February temperatures averaged 20.7 degrees in Detroit, against a normal of 28.0 and a 1903-04 record of 18.7. There were seven below-zero days over the past winter, compared with 10 in 1903-04.

Houghton, on the Keweenaw Peninsula jutting into Lake Superior, got 172.7 inches of snow, slightly above normal, up to March 15, but there was some complaint about some too-far-below-zero temperatures from this area more prone to brag than complain about its weather. Houghton's season low was -24.

Muskegon registered 152.8 inches of snow — a new record. The old one of 146.8 inches was set in the 1961-62 winter.

PARALLEL MUSKEGON

The experience of most of the rest of west Michigan paralleled that of Muskegon.

Menominee, on the Wisconsin border in the western Upper Peninsula, even had a weather beef. The freeze got so deep in the ground it began cracking water pipes.

Over the state as a whole an estimated 25 deaths could be attributed to winter, including those of persons who collapsed of heart attacks or exhaustion while shoveling snow, but not counting those who died in weather-caused traffic accidents.

Dahling, WHERE Did You Get That Stunning Dress?

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK—In her reactions to fashion, there is nothing more baffling than a woman... with the possible exception of chameleons, which change color at the drop of a leaf, and oysters, which change sex according to whim.

Women are noted for following the "herd instinct" when a BATTELLE new fashion trend turns up. In a season of black, padded shoulders and kneecap hems, women incline to wear black, padded shoulders and kneecap hems.

Yet, women are beset with another inherent urge, which runs directly contrary to the "herd" instinct. This urge — call it the "antitwin twinge" — dictates that a woman must leave the room, mortified, if she discovers another member of the herd wearing a costume exactly like hers.

From her hairdo to her pointed toe shoes, a lady wants to look like every other lady—but not exactly. Her attitude is reminiscent of the mother of Billy Brown.

Billy is starting school with the neighbor's son, Johnny. Johnny got all As last year, so Mrs. Brown's advice to Billy is, "Now you do just like Johnny does—only better."

Men have been intrigued for generations about this phobia which upsets virtually all women, poor and rich, stupid and intelligent.

The oddest part of it is that the more intelligent the woman, the more certain she is to be upset by seeing her image across a crowded room.

She may hide it, but you can bet she's suffering.

SELF-IDENTITY

This phenomena probably relates to the intelligent woman's more profound sense of self-identity; when she loses a portion of it, by way of observing an identical identity in the form of a brocaded gown, she loses some of her self-confidence and is hurt to be thus robbed of an iota of importance.

Amateur psychologists in the study of the "same-dress dilemma" observe that various women are affected in various ways:

The more costly the costume, the more infuriated the two ladies wearing it.

The plumper of the two women wearing the same dress is usually the one to depart the scene first.

The larger the gathering, the harder the blow.

Husbands can do nothing to ease the situation and should kindly keep quiet about it. So kindly should everybody else.

Since it is impossible for dress designers of even high-priced gowns to make one-of-a-kind costumes without being copied to the last belt buckle, almost every woman faces this "humiliation" at one time or other.

Regardless of her poise, her position, she can't seem to take it.

Some years ago in St. Joseph, Mo., for instance, an attorney requested continuance of her client's case after she'd walked into the courtroom and discovered the judge was wearing "her" dress.

The magistrate complied immediately and went home to change.

Probably the best possible advice to women caught in this embarrassing fashion position is: Be calm, and remember that things could be worse...

With the increased interest in plastic surgery, a number of women are having their noses redesigned. In New York City last year, observers reported the ex-crutiating mortification of two women who entered a party wearing the same nose!

You simply cannot conform all the way.

K Eyes Thaw in Winter of Discontent

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON—Although President Kennedy denies that this is the winter of his discontent, the same can probably not be said by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

RUTH MONTGOMERY writes the heart of the doughtiest capitalist.

Blasted in Red China, double-crossed in the Middle East, and humiliated in Cuba, Khrushchev has also been forced to make some shifts on the home front that could scarcely be to his liking.

The wily Russian insists that all he wants to do is live in peace with the rest of the world, while surpassing us in the race for plenty.

Sadly enough, only the Red Chinese seem to believe him, and they call that philosophy treason.

Psychologists tell us that every man likes the sound of his own name.

If so, it must be a rather frustrating experience for Khrushchev to know that he's the fellow they mean every time his erstwhile cronies in China exhortate Togliatti or Tito as revisionists.

Khrushchev needed a few bold successes to prove his detractors wrong. This may have explained his abortive attempt to turn Red Cuba into an offensive missile base.

His ignoble retreat subsequently unleashed an increased torrent of Red Chinese invective, however, and his humiliation seemed complete last week when his largest ally replied to his invitation for a Sino-Soviet meeting with an arrogant demand that Khrushchev personally come to Peking for that purpose.

ARABESQUE REVERSES

Equally cruel is the way Khrushchev's carefully wooed Arab pals have been biting the hand that fed them. Taking a leaf from the American book, Nikita had been trying to outdo us in foreign aid to the developing nations.

When the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, deciding that Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser could not be trusted, turned down his request for Aswan Dam aid, Khrushchev eagerly moved into the breach.

Since then he has supplied Egypt with nearly $2 billion worth of military and economic aid, and has poured another third of a billion dollars worth of military aid into Iraq.

Even those chickens are now coming home to roost. Nasser, instead of gratefully turning the Arab world into a Communist bastion, has devoted his considerable talents to master-minding coup d'etats in Iraq, Syria and Yemen.

The pro-Communist government of Iraq, which earlier had overthrown a pro-Western government, has consequently gone down the drain, and the new rulers are jailing and executing Communists with fervor.

Likewise, the new Syrian government has outlawed the Communist party, as Nasser himself did in Egypt. Over 20,000 of the Egyptian troops which Khrushchev generously equipped with modern planes and armament are now tied down in Yemen, to keep the shaky new ruler in power, while Syria, Iraq and Egypt talk of Arab unification.

This news can scarcely tickle the fancy of the conniving Khrushchev, whose subversive tactics work best in an atmosphere of divide-and-conquer.

The Communist boss still has a few aces up his sleeve in Cuba, and each time that he removes a trickle of troops he sends a few hundred more "technicians" into Castro's island, but he has at least lost the propaganda advantage in Latin America by his retreat.

During this long winter of his discontent, he has had to replace his agricultural boss because of crop failures, reshuffle some of his high command, and promote his arms production chief to head of the entire industrial complex. This may set back his vaunted drive for more consumer goods. Khrushchev has better reason than most of us to hope that spring — with its more favorable climate — is just around the corner.

ORGANIZED IN 1958

The Oakland County Sheriff's Water Patrol was organized in 1958. In that year they had a total of 26 drownings with a staff of 22 men. Since 1958 the number of drownings has decreased, last year being the lowest with 19.

Oakland County has the largest organized Water Patrol in the United States, with 19 experienced divers all equipped. Any Civic organization or school wishing to participate in this safety program, contact Lt. Kratt at the Sheriff's Dept. for a demonstration.

Deputy Jim Boys proudly stands by the most popular safety exhibit in any show in Michigan. Deputy Boys in charge of this unit takes it all over the state for exhibits in the interest of safety.

Camera Shows Display Latest Equipment for Fans

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

What's ahead for this country's camera fans is revealed at two major photographic shows which are separated by one week in time and the Atlantic Ocean.

American photographic manufacturers recently displayed their upcoming wares to camera dealers at Atlantic City, N. J. It was followed shortly by the biggest display of all, Photokina, in Cologne, West Germany.

Top sensations of the American show were the new line of Kodak Instamatic cartridge cameras for still pictures and the new Polaroid color film for 50-second color prints. These have been described previously in these columns.

The cartridge idea was introduced also in a new 8mm movie camera by Bell & Howell. It combines the convenience of film magazine loading and handling with the economy of roll film photography.

Their model 418 Autoload camera does the trick. It comes with a cartridge which the movie fan loads in advance with standard 8mm roll film.

The cartridge slips into the camera, side number 1 up, and when 25 feet of film has been shot, the camera stops automatically.

The cartridge is turned over to side number 2 and finished—or it can be removed and exchanged for another cartridge containing a different type of film.

EASIER LOADING

It is easier to load the cartridge with roll film than it is to load roll film in a camera in the usual way.

Several cartridges can be bought as accessories ($5 each) and preloaded, thereby assuring the movie maker only slight interruptions when special occasions are to be filmed in full.

Other features of the camera are: an f/1.8 zoom lens with a range from 9mm to 27mm; reflex through-the-lens viewing; a behind-the-lens cadmium sulphide photocell which reads only the light coming through the lens; the ability to shift smoothly in a continuous run from normal 16-frames-per-second speed to slow motion (48 frames-per-second) with the inner electric eye automatically compensating for the difference in light values.

Another attention-getter at Atlantic City was the Sawyer Rotomatic slide projector. This offers four different methods of handling plastic mounts.

ding 35mm and Super-Slides in assorted cardboard, glass or which holds 100 slides and looks like a water wheel sticking up out of the projector.

Old-Timer Recalls Sighting Specter

Phantom Skater Drives Young Indoors

ST. JOSEPH (AP) — Parents in the fashionable neighborhood growing up along Hickory Creek have no problem at all in getting junior and sister to drop their play and come in before dark.

With the first whisper of twilight, even the big 'uns come without being called.

Most of them have heard the story of "The Phantom Skater of Hickory Creek" — straight from a man who hopes-to-die if he didn't see him or second-hand from the Benton Harbor News-Palladium's interviews with Harvey Seasongood.

The skater hasn't been seen for quite a spell, but the 84-year-old Seasongood spins a yarn about him that make Little Red Riding hood's grandma-eating wolf sound like a slinking coward.

Seasongood, a retired farm implement dealer, has lived all his 84 years along the creek that flows from a swamp through pastoral fruitlands and into the St. Joseph River south of here. He knows its history, and its for sure no one ever got more eerie color into the telling of any history than does Seasongood.

Here's the story of the Phantom Skater.

Seasongood was only nine 75 years ago last January when he says he saw the Phantom Skater — and he remembers it "as though it happened last night."

Little Harvey and some chums were skating after school on Hickory Creek near an old wooden bridge. Because a bright, full moon had come out early there was no deepening twilight to warn them of waiting suppers.

Suddenly from more than a mile downstream came a loud sound of scraping blades. Shouts and laughter died out among the lads. Time seemed to stand still as the echo of scraping blades hung on the creek banks.

Children scrambled up the banks and through knee-deep snow with their skates on, leaving shoes and boots behind. Not the last to leave was little Harvey.

CAUGHT IN FENCE

The big boys jumped a barbed wire fence at the top of the bank. The little ones crawled under. But in-between Harvey tried to dive through and his clothes got caught on the barbs. Thrashing about only tangled him hopelessly in the fence. That's why Harvey was around when the Phantom skated by.

The Phantom's scraping blades grew louder after each silent glide and it sounded like he was rushing on with express train speed. Gasping, Harvey twisted around in his sheepskin jacket.

Green sparks and blue flames flashed from enormous blades as the Phantom Skater came around a bend. He was at least 18 feet tall, Harvey says, wearing black tights and a black skull cap, and he cast no shadow, despite the full moon.

As the huge black figure approached the old timber bridge, the Phantom went into a crouch and picked up speed. Then with an eerie laugh that froze little Harvey's tears, the Phantom leaped high and hurdled the bridge.

As he came down on the other side, Harvey saw in the moonlight one blade was bonded to a cloven hoof. Alighting with a roar of sparks that melted snow in a half-acre circle, the Phantom sped on down Hickory Creek.

The Phantom hadn't noticed little Harvey caught in the fence. And the only person to ever report seeing the Phantom doesn't remember how long he was caught in the fence or how he got home — but he remembers and blue flame receding up-seeing a glow from green sparks stream.

Numeral Plan Good on Phone

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — A University of Michigan psychologist had good news for telephone companies harassed by customers who object violently to the switch to all-number dialing.

Dr. J. D. Birch said, antidigit dialing committees to the contrary, studies indicate the all-numeral system is not only more efficient, but easier than the old letter-numeral system.

He said research supports the conclusion that all-digit dialing produces fewer errors than the letter-numeral dialing.

Birch said he has been studying the dial system for several years. Once an all-digit number is memorized, its performance excels that of the letter-digit number, Birch said.

He said experiments with college students showed that about eight numbers can be memorized without difficulty.

Rivers Stopped by TVA in Fight Against Flood

KOXSVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Rain—which spits forth averages and beats monotonously against a house in northern Alabama, on a tobacco field in southern Kentucky and down a gully in Tennessee.

From the farmer to the salaried man to the independent operator in the sand-hauling business along the Tennessee River, the questions are about the same—

How much is it going to rain? When is it going to quit?

What is the Tennessee Valley Authority doing about it?

No one can answer the first two with certainty. That complicates the answer to the third, which involves hours of tedious paperwork, split-second figuring by man and computer, perhaps hurried messages by microwave radio during the night, and juggling of waters behind more than two dozen dams.

The TVA that swirled with political controversy in the '30s today in the face of floods can shut off completely the Tennessee River where it enters the Ohio River at Paducah, Ky.

'FIGHT TIME'

One of its decision-makers is Alfred Cooper, chief of TVA's river control branch, who sums up his job? "We fight time."

If conditions call for it, white-haired, bespectacled Cooper twists the technical faucets that turn off the Tennessee.

The Tennessee was stopped dead in 1958, 1960 and 1961 to control flooding on the lower Ohio and down the Mississippi. TVA figures it has averted about $31.5 million damages along those areas by regulating the Tennessee's flow.

At Chattanooga, Tenn., TVA estimates it has prevented $148 million losses from 31 potentially damaging floods.

If Cooper has any simple formula for controlling a runaway river, it is this: Clear the mainstream of as much water as possible ahead of an expected flood crest, and hold back waters from the tributaries until the crest passes.

The hitch is deciding which of TVA's nine mainstream dams to open and which of its five major tributary dams to close, how much and for how long.

DETERMINE ANSWERS

The answers are determined at TVA's 25-man flood control office beginning about 7:30 a.m., when a reproduction machine begins reeling out sheets filled with data on rainfall, reservoir elevations and discharges at each dam.

Minutes later, a teletype begins spelling out forecasts from the Weather Bureau, where TVA pays the salaries of three meteorologists.

About 8:05 a.m., information begins pouring in from 10 area offices where field engineers have received reports from 200 rainfall stations and 43 stream gauges throughout the valley.

With other data, the rainfall measurements are fed into a computer—rented for $1,500 a month such technical information as "runoff indexes."

Armed with computations, Cooper and other experts huddle in the seventh floor of a TVA building in Knoxville to discuss where the critical flood points are.

EMPTY MAINSTREAM

After brief discussions, they decide to begin preliminary discharges to empty the mainstream for storage capacity. Orders go out to various dams to step up discharges by carefully calculated amounts.

With a new flood crest coming down the Ohio, TVA Tuesday curtailed the Tennessee flow from 350,000 cubic feet per second—160 million gallons a minute—to 250,000 CFS. It may be cut to 200,000 CFS.

The idea is to slice the Tennessee flow to a minimum when the Ohio flood crest passes Paducah—about Wednesday—and then allow the Tennessee's pent-up waters to flow in behind.

Cockroaches? in Capital?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., sympathized yesterday with dairymen, commenting that their barns and equipment must undergo sanitation inspections as rigid as those for a hospital.

At a Senate Agriculture Committee hearing on dairy industry problems, he read from a list of sanitation requirements for dairy barns, then added:

"I don't believe the U.S. Capitol could qualify for a place to produce milk. For instance, you can't have any cockroaches around the place."

Dies as Car Hits Truck

JACKSON (AP)—Richard C. Moorman, 27, of Fenton, was killed yesterday when the car he was driving struck a parked semi-trailer on I-94 about 10 miles east of Jackson.

The agreement which established the McMahon line as the India-Tibet boundary was initiated by representatives, including Chen Yi-fan for China, but he thought his initials would not commit China to the agreements. When Chen's government heard what he had done, it recalled and summarily dismissed him.

Eye Changes in Vote Setup

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Immense-ly encouraged by a Supreme Court decision, Sen. Karl E. Mundt has struck a blow for "political equality" for identical twins.

Such twins remain amazingly similar in IQ and other traits through life—even if separated at birth and reared far distant from each other.

But they may not remain equal in voting power. Mundt says the vote of a twin living in one state may be 15 times more potent in a presidential election than the vote of his brother residing elsewhere.

That is one reason why Mundt, South Dakota Republican, and other Congress members want to reform the Electoral College system.

Mundt and others said they were heartened in their fight by Monday's "one-person, one-vote" decision of the Supreme Court. This did not apply to the Electoral College, but it knocked on the head an old Georgia voting system somewhat similar to the college.

UNIT-VOTE SYSTEM

Under the Georgia unit voting rule, a candidate for governor, for example, who carried a county got the county's entire unit vote. And the system was so arranged that a farmer's vote might be worth 99 times that of a city fellow.

Under the Electoral College system, each state has an electoral vote equal to the number of its House members plus its two senators. If a presidential candidate wins, he gets the state's whole jackpot of electoral votes.

Now it is not to be supposed that Mundt favors equality for twins only. He just uses twins as a graphic example.

"Look," he said today, "take identical twin boys born, say, in Kansas. They went through college there with identical honors. Then they were graduated from Harvard Law School summa cum laude.

"One opened a law office in New York; the other in Wilmington, Del. Each rose to be chief justice of his state.

"They remained equal in everything, except one respect. When the New York twin voted for president last time, his vote was 15 times more powerful than his Delaware brother."

This was a reference to the fact that in 1960 each New Yorker who went to the polls voted for 45 electors, while each Delaware voter voted for 3.

COULD CONTINUE

There is another way of looking at this, of course. If you divide New York's 1960 population by 45 you get about 373,000, while Delaware's population divided by 3 comes out to about 149,000. In this light, it would seem the Delaware twin's vote was more than twice as potent as his brother's. The argument could continue indefinitely.

Anyway, Mundt is also bothered deeply by the winner-takes-all system of chalking up a state's electoral vote.

Mundt said that with high hopes he would push for Senate action on his proposed constitutional amendment. This provides that two of each state's electors shall be elected at large; the rest by districts, which would be compact and as nearly equal in population as possible.

ANOTHER SYSTEM

Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., advocate of a different system of electoral reform, said he too would press forward, optimistic about reaching a Congress vote this year.

Under his system, the office of presidential elector would be abolished, and each state's electoral vote would be divided in proportion to its popular vote.

"I certainly believe the Supreme Court decision will give impetus to electoral reform," Kefauver said. "It will make people think; will make them realize they are entitled to have their vote count."

His plan, Kefauver added, would save people from the "danger of having to vote in the dark"—not knowing for sure whether electors would follow their wishes. Electors most always vote for their party's presidential candidate, but not invariably.

Solon Hits IRS for Film on 'Expense Account Living'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, wants the Internal Revenue Service to explain to Congress about a television film featuring a businessman, drink in hand and blonde on lap, doing the town on the expense account.

Ayres made his complaint Tuesday, calling the film "vicious" and a "scare program" to back up the tight new rules on expense account tax deductions. He said IRS Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin should be called in to explain.

The IRS responded quickly, with word that the movie had been withdrawn three weeks ago because some businessmen and others had misunderstood it. A spokesman said the 20-second production was one of a series of "public service" reminders on tax regulations and was prepared last summer before the 1962 tax law and accompanying regulations on expense accounts set off fireworks in some business circles.

'IS THIS LIVING?'

Ayres said he had obtained a script of the film, which had been used by at least one network. In part, it went like this:

Army Cancels
Dixie Band Tour; Wants No Bias

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army said yesterday planned appearances by the Army Field Band in nine Southern cities have been canceled because there was no assurance the audiences would be integrated.

The cities are Greenville, Charleston and Columbia, S. C., Savannah, Ga., Montgomery, Ala., and Hattiesburg, Vicksburg, Jackson and Meridian, Miss.

"Army policy requires that the U.S. Army field band perform in public before audiences that are seated on a desegregated basis," the Army said.

Man, with blonde on lap: "Baby, is this living!"
Narrator: "Excuse me sir, how can you afford all this?"
Man: "Expense account living."

Got my own company. Just write account deductions are for bona-fide business-incurred expense." Ayres said it was a "real production" with a background of night club music.

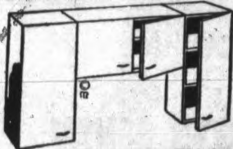

Art Student Appreciates the Finer Things in Life

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — A young man was observed at the opening of an art gallery, gazing around intently as he walked from room to room.

The gallery manager finally asked if the young man was interested in any particular painting.

"Nope," was the reply. "I'm just interested in all the beautiful women who are interested in paintings."

Euromart More Than U.S. Bargained For

By CARL HARTMAN

BRUSSELS (AP)—Western Europe's Common Market, fostered by Uncle Sam, has grown into a self-assertive teen-ager who has the old man worried.

The Common Market's system of customs duties threatens the market for American farm products in Western Europe. Its members, especially France, want to produce more of these products instead of buying them abroad.

In 1961 the United States shipped $1.6 billion worth of farm goods to the Common Market countries—France, W. Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

BACKGROUND
SPECIAL REPORT OF THE NEWS

Preliminary figures indicate the total was even higher in 1962.

Present plans of the Common Market authorities could up this by a third or more.

Sales of American cotton and tobacco are not much threatened. Common Market members produce little of these.

Sales of American poultry have been hard-hit, and grain may be next on the list.

After World War II Americans were saying that Europe could get out of its vicious circle of poverty and war only if it broke down old trade barriers at national frontiers. Europeans, it was argued, should be brought into one big market so European businessmen could give the consumer mass-produced goods at low prices. It would be economical for European countries, with their smaller farm area and many tiny plots of ground, to concentrate on dairy and meat production. Grains could be bought much more cheaply abroad.

APPEALED TO EUROPE

These ideas appealed to many Europeans, and the Common Market is now formed and moving toward unity in many ways. But when it comes to farming, things are not working out as the United States might have liked.

Farmers in Western Europe pull a lot of political weight. In the United States only 8 per cent of the working population is engaged in farming. In West Germany the figure is 15 per cent and in France 23 per cent. France, West Germany and Italy—dominant countries in the Common Market—are ruled by conservative parties which make a strong appeal to the farmer.

The Common Market authorities have figured out an over-all system to protect their farmers.

A series of variable levies can make any farm import sell a little higher—or, if desired, a whole lot higher—than the home-grown variety.

Chicken used to be a luxury in Europe. Ordinary folk ate it rarely, and with the feeling that they were doing something festive—the way Americans used to feel a generation or so ago. Then in 1958 the West German government began to allow the spending of foreign currency for poultry.

Within four years, the United States was selling 155 million pounds of chicken a year to West Germany. The price was well below red meat, despite a duty of five cents a pound.

German domestic producers and exporters in Denmark and Holland also stepped up sales. Chicken became a common item on the German workingman's table.

Last summer the new Common Market levies went into effect on chicken. Entrance fees for American poultry shot up 250 per cent, to 12.5 cents a pound. American exports dropped off.

West German housewives now pay about 44 cents a pound for chicken. The American product could be sold for 25 per cent less if it were not for the levies.

European consumers are being denied a bargain but the Common Market chicken farmers are cleaning up. American chicken farmers face the loss of $50 million of business a year.

Even more money is involved in U.S. exports of grain and grain products to the Common Market—$389 million in 1961. Here too the levies have begun to be felt. Eggs and pork are also affected.

The most recent figures of the U.S. Department of Agriculture show a 26 per cent decline in exports of these products to the Common Market in the four-month period after the levies went into effect. The decline is in comparison with the same four-month period in 1961.

The Common Market aims to set up uniform prices throughout the six countries for wheat and other grains. If the price is set that substantial imports won't be needed.

Van's Back on Job After Cancer Surgery

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — "I'm lucky," said Van Johnson on his first day back at work after his operation for skin cancer. "I've always been lucky."

As proof, he offered this evidence: "I didn't want to come west, but I did. If I had stayed in New York, where I don't have a doctor, I probably would have done nothing about my condition. The doctors tell me now if I had waited three more months, I would have been too late."

His doctors have pronounced the operation successful. Van looked his usual picture of health as he returned to work on "Wives and Lovers," a mere 10 days after surgery.

I watched him as he rattled through a rehearsal for the next day's scene with Janet Leigh, then walked across the studio street to another stage to film a cafe scene with Martha Hyer. He had already shot a full day's work that morning, pushing the movie ahead of schedule.

"I'm pooped," he admitted after the scene. "I'm going home to bed, I feel fine, but I get a little tired when I do too much. I've been taking walks to get my strength back."

"I'd better get it back. I'm scheduled to open in 'Bye Bye Birdie' at the Palace Hotel in San Francisco April 2. I've never done the show. I don't even know a line of dialogue. I must be crazy."

TRUST TO LUCK

Again he trusts the Johnson luck, and no wonder. It has done well by him over the years.

Twenty years ago, his budding career was almost snuffed out in an auto crash during the filming of "A Guy Named Joe." MGM waited for him to recover and he completed the film that made him a star. His forehead still bears the scar where he was patched together.

Van said that his latest brush with the fates had a simple beginning.

"It started with a freckle," he remarked. "I'm an expert on freckles, as you can imagine. Only this one started to grow. I decided to see my doctor, who didn't like the looks of it. He took me to a surgeon, who put me into the hospital the next day."

News of his operation brought a flood of messages from his friends and fans. I glanced at some of the names on the telegrams: Noel Coward, Joan Crawford, Richard Rodgers, Gene Kelly, Jerry Lewis, Wendy Hiller, Lauritz Melchior, Lucille Ball, Arlene Dahl, Spencer Tracy, plus the entire staffs of Delmonico's, where Van stays in New York, and Fortnum and Mason, his favorite store in London. Also the 40 Aquamaids from Cyprus Gardens, Fla., and the entire Western Union office in Beverly Hills.

"The messages were fantastic," Van commented. "They got me well faster than anything."

Authorize AF Plan for Housing in State

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has been authorized to proceed with construction of 800 family housing units at three Michigan air bases, Sens. Pat McNamara and Philip A. Hart of Michigan announced yesterday.

Bids will be sought for construction of housing and its estimated cost, as following:

K. I. Sawyer Base, 300 units, $4.9 million; Kincheloe Base, 200 units, $3 million; and Wurtsmith Base, 300 units, $4.5 million.

'Harmful Drugs Okayed for Sale Despite Warning'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A medical officer of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) said yesterday the agency has permitted the sale of new drugs "imminently hazardous to the public health" by overruling expert medical opinion.

This testimony came from Dr. John O. Nestor, an expert in the FDA's new drug division, at a Senate subcommittee hearing into safety procedures for drug marketing.

Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, himself a medical doctor, told Nestor that if even part of his testimony is correct, "it is a shocking indictment of the Food and Drug Administration."

"Any doubt about a drug must be resolved in favor of the user, not the producer," Gruening declared.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., the subcommittee chairman, called Nestor's story

"shocking and most distressing" and said FDA officials will be called on for explanations.

Nestor, a pediatrician whose job is to evaluate new drug applications, said medical opinions which challenged past FDA policies or commitments to the pharmaceutical industry, encountered "indifference, disapproval, or even hostility, frequently so when they dealt with drugs for pediatric use."

Pediatrics is the branch of medicine which is concerned especially with the care of children and treatment of their diseases.

ANOTHER 5 MONTHS

In a lengthy statement, Nestor said the public was exposed to the drug MER-29 (triparanol) for an additional five months after he urged its sale be stopped until "at least the possibility it was causing cataracts could be resolved."

He said the view of John L. Harvey, FDA deputy commissioner, prevailed and the drug was permitted to remain on the market with the medical profession alerted to look for eye damage.

But, Nestor testified, more evidence accumulated and the firm which sold it withdrew it from the market last April.

Nestor quoted Harvey as having said in a talk to the American Bar Association Aug. 3, 1962, that "in retrospect, it is apparent that the drug should not have gone on the market in the first place."

GM Plans Busy Days for Plants

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors' continuing dominance of the automobile market is reflected in the advance production plans of the giant corporation.

Present schedules call for GM to build upwards of 1.1 million cars in the April-June quarter, or probably 100,000 more than in the quarter which ends this month.

The Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac divisions will obviously share in the increase since plans already have been announced to add a second shift at three B-O-P assembly plants. The second shift will go to work at Wilmington, Del., April 1, and at Atlanta and Arlington, Tex., May 1. Arlington builds Chevrolets as well as the B-O-P models.

Eight of GM's 11 cars are head of last year's production figures. The only laggards are Corvair, Oldsmobile and the Pontiac Tempest and none of these is seriously behind.

Buick division, which gained a new entry in the Riviera, shows the most improvement within the corporation. Its output is up 20 per cent from 1962.

March sales started strong, as expected, and may well top 600,000 cars. Ward's reports suggested a sales total of 650,000 would not be unreasonable. This is 150,000 more than were sold in February.

Strong sales provide the necessary push for continued high production, since inventory figures also are high. Best estimates are that there are upwards of one million unsold cars in dealers hands, or in transit to dealers from the factories.

Pontiac Camp Fire Girls Celebrate 53rd Birthday

Service is part of the program of the Horizon Clubs. Here, Rita Colburn, Michigan Avenue, works with Blue Bird Lesley Chaney, LeGrande Street.

Geraldine Hollis, Central Street, and Susan Verkerke look over catalogs of equipment with Lloyd S. Smith, president of the Civitan Club, the group that donated $1,000 recently to the Camp Fire Girls for their camp.

Focus on New Program in Scheduled Sessions

Pontiac Council of Camp Fire Girls is celebrating the organization's 53rd birthday this week with group and district programs every evening.

The theme of this year's celebrations, "Today's Program for Today's Girl," focuses on the updated program Camp Fire Girls has launched this year.

According to President Eldon Gardner, "The traditional values remain, but age levels have been changed to better serve the needs and interests of the faster maturing girls of today."

SPECIAL GROUP

A special new Junior Hi Camp Fire group has been added for the 12- and 13-year-old girls. These girls will concentrate on group-centered activities geared to teen-age interests.

The Blue Bird creative play program is available for seven- and 8-year-old girls. The 9-year-olds, formerly Blue Birds, are now "flying up" a year earlier to join the 10- and 11-year-old groups of Camp Fire Girls in their ranks and crafts program.

The Horizon Club program of coed activities, service and social skills still is available for high school girls. Besides their weekly group activities, Mr. Gardner said, a local Camp Fire girl participates in district and council-wide activities.

These include the yearly candy sale, annual council fire to recognize girls' achievements, the birthday program and camp outings.

RESPONSIBILITY

"As she progresses in the program, she assumes more responsibility for its planning. On the junior high school level, a girls' cabinet plans intergroup activities."

"We hold day camp on our own Camp Oweki near Clarkston so we are able to offer waterfront activities."

SUPPORT

"Besides day camp, we have group camping year-round and an inexpensive primitive resident camp for older girls which concentrates on building skills, self-reliance, confidence and initiative."

"Our local council enjoys fine community support," Mr. Gardner concluded.

SUPPORT

"We are supported by the community through its contributions to the Pontiac Area United Fund, except for our camp which is backed by the girls' annual candy sale, service clubs and organizations interested in youth."

Coordinating the efforts of the Pontiac Area Council is a 25-member volunteer board of directors, assisted by a three-woman staff headed by executive director Mrs. Donald Beck.

The council's office is in the Community Services Building on Franklin Boulevard.

Gives Talk on Chinese Music

Mrs. John Hsu spoke on Chinese music and illustrated with drawings and tape recordings to the Women's Association of Joslyn Avenue United Presbyterian Church at their Tuesday luncheon meeting in the Fellowship Hall.

Devotions were given by Mrs. Eugene Hoisington. Mrs. Charles Esraian presented a "Journey into Understanding."

Members served refreshments in the occupational therapy ward of Pontiac State Hospital Wednesday.

Islands Call Pillar Club

A travelogue on the South Pacific, given by Mrs. Jack Rammes, highlighted the Tuesday meeting of the Pillar Club. Mrs. Phillip Variech gave an Easter meditation.

Assisting hostess Mrs. Frank Kirby of Cherokee Road were Mrs. Claude Shoup, Mrs. Guy Sensibaugh and Mrs. Vireich.

By Parliamentarians

Officers Elected

Election of officers for 1963-64 was held at the Wednesday luncheon meeting of the Parliamentary Study Club at Devon Gables.

President Mrs. I. J. Gouin will be assisted by Mrs. Lew Swartz, first vice president; Mrs. Fred Goines, second vice president; Mrs. E. M. Malone, recording secretary; Mrs. Vivian Tubbs, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles H. Crawford, treasurer; Mrs. Robert MacLaren, auditor; and Mrs. Joseph Panter, parliamentary emeritus.

Mrs. E. M. Malone introduced guest speaker Janice Aniona, citizenship teacher of the Pontiac Board of Education. Miss Aniona has represented Pontiac for the past 10 years at the National Citizenship Conference in Washington. She spoke on her citizenship classes.

Over 3,000 applicants for citizenship have gone through her classes with no failure to receive naturalization.

Committee for the day included Mrs. John McNeely, Mrs. Lester Oles and Mrs. Lee Hill, who paid tribute to Miss Aniona.

The summer board meeting will be held Aug. 21.

Talk on Indonesia to Church Groups

Alden Group and the Mary Lyon Group held a joint lecture meeting on Indonesia Wednesday evening in the First Congregational Church parlors. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boggs presented the illustrated talk.

Mrs. I. J. Gouin (left), takes her place at the Parliamentary Study Club's annual luncheon Wednesday with Mrs. William Pfahler, Sylvia Lake (outgoing president) and Janice Aniona, West Ann Arbor Street, the day's speaker. The event at Devon Gables concluded the year's program.

scholar); Pamela Watkins, Lake Street; and Jayne Norris, Parkinson Street.

Advice to Young Lovers

Don't Be Affectionate in Public

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We are unable to convince our teenage daughter that it is bad taste to show affection in public. I'm talking about the sickening behavior one sees today between young people going steady.

She thinks it's all right to hang on to a boy and put her arm around his waist while he does the same when they walk down the street.

Also, because "everyone else does it" she sees nothing wrong with sitting practically on his lap while he drives the car. If we tell her it looks bad, she says we are living in the dark ages.

She'll take your word for it, Abby, so please enlighten her, along with a few million others.

EXASPERATED

DEAR EXASPERATED: This is for all the vulnerable parties: Please, young lovers, wherever you are, believe me, it IS in the poorest taste to act lovey-dovey in public.

A boy who respects a girl will not initiate it, and a girl who respects herself will not encourage it. So hands off. And I mean 100 per cent off.

DEAR ABBY: Last fall, a distant relative of ours started sending us a religious paper. Our family is not of that religion and we do not enjoy reading it.

I know this relative meant well, but we are not interested in being "converted" and this paper seems to have that as its purpose. Should we let this relative continue sending it?

The paper must cost something and I'm sure the postage does. We just throw it away without even looking at it. Or should we write and let him to quit sending it?

MINNIE-APPOLIS

DEAR MINNIE-APPOLIS: Write to your relative and tell him you appreciate his thoughtfulness—but you and your family are not interested in the paper so he shouldn't waste the time and money to send it.

DEAR ABBY: The item in your column about how to tell an "eight-year-old blabbermouth" that he was going to have a little brother or sister brought back memories. When our little boy was eight, I was expecting a baby, and it was quite apparent. So I told him a new arrival was on the way. He said, "Let me tell Daddy about it when he comes home from work." He was so disappointed when I told him that Daddy already knew.

MIRIAM

Song Story Blended at Town Hall

By MADELINE DOEREN

Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall closed its fourth season Wednesday morning in the Huron Theater with Katherine Williams' program "It Started with a Song."

Because of a very special interest in American history, the lovely young American soprano, who has sung in grand opera and light opera, developed a program intimate in format. Songs dovetailed the speaking portions.

With a superb sense of theater, Miss Williams projected the flavor of each historical era in colorful song. Between numbers, she commented entertainingly on the passing parade... its manners and modes. "History," she says, "is what actually happened; folklore is what people want to believe happened."

Her accompanist, Judith Somogi of Limbrook, N.Y., who holds a master's degree from the Juilliard School of Music, illustrated musicality (and humorously) both the temper and tempo of the times portrayed by Miss Williams.

Introduced by Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall President Mrs. Joseph E. Walker at the celebrity luncheon in Devon Gables, Miss Williams photographed programs for an enthusiastic audience and she hopes to come "this far north" again some time.

Church Units Set Elections for April 11

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist Church will elect officers following a brunch at the general meeting April 11 in the First Methodist Church.

Mrs. James Van Cleave of Crescent Lake Road was hostess to the Marion Shaw Circle this week. Ellen Hamel presented both program and announcements.

The Irene Hesselgesser Circle gathered in the Dixie Highway home of Mrs. John Lambeth. Mrs. John Clark gave devotions and a program with Mrs. Norman Todd and Mrs. William Barton participating.

Mrs. Fred L. Ward of West Huron Street served dessert to the Grace Otto Circle. Mrs. Harry J. Rice gave the program and Mrs. John Hall led devotions.

The Jean Bagnall and the Helen Desjardins circles held luncheon meetings in the church.

Marion Simons Circle members were served dessert by Mrs. Ernest Everett of Oceola Drive. Mrs. Harry Going led devotions and Mrs. Clayton Rule gave the program.

Several circles joined the Vivian Otto group at a housewares demonstration in Mrs. Dale Olsen's home on Lakewind Drive.

Mrs. Carl G. Adams has opened her home on East Iroquois Road for those attending the study class on prayer, conducted by Mrs. Fred Mares.

To Start Series of Discussions on Family Life

A free series of group discussions on family living will begin March 27 at the Lake-side Community Building on Branch Street.

Sponsored by the Oakland County Department of Health, any mother who has a child under four is invited to attend. The series will be held on Wednesdays, 1 to 3 p.m. Baby sitting facilities will be provided.

Mrs. Donna Cavenee, a public health nurse, will lead the first discussion on the new baby and what it means to the family. Future discussions will be geared to the interests of the group.

Area Collegians Take Time Out for Activity

By BARBARA GRIFFIN

Not even fast-approaching midterm examinations slowed activities of Pontiac area students at the University of Michigan this week.

Spring fever is beginning to take hold on the campus, and activities such as pledge forums and Spring Weekend are starting to take definite form in students' spare moments.

Student Government Council election posters are still on display, reminding students of last Tuesday's all-campus balloting.

Seven members were elected to SGC in one of the hottest political races the campus has known in recent years.

Fred Rhines of Devonshire Drive was one of the victorious candidates and won a half-year term on SGC.

Fred, a junior, is affiliated with Sigma Chi fraternity.

As a welcome break from studies, many fraternity men participate in intramural sports. Phi Gamma Delta has recently been declared winner of the intramural swimming competition and will proudly display the trophy until meets resume again next winter.

Swimming for the Phi Gams on their victorious team is junior Ted Gaensbauer of North Hammond Lake Drive.

BARN DANCE

Last weekend the Kappa Gammas and Alpha Phi held their annual barn dance in the American Legion hall.

Alpha Phi Linda Underhill of Joy Road was among the girls working on decorations for this affair.

Bush House of Markley Hall and Alpha Chi Omega have chosen this weekend to honor their mothers. Mothers' Weekend, an annual event for most housing units, gives mothers a chance to participate in a typical college weekend.

Among those taking part for Bush House will be freshman Mary Lou McLaughlin and her mother, Mrs. Charles McLaughlin of Mohawk Road.

The Alpha Chi-Omega's have planned a weekend of events with their mothers, including dinner at a nearby restaurant and the "Sounds from the Summit" concert Saturday evening in Hill Auditorium.

Among students attending the Dave Brubeck concert Saturday evening was freshman Chris Lauckner of Telegraph Road.

Pianist David Wilson of Grayton Street is one of many music students preparing for their spring performances in Hill Auditorium. He will present his senior recital Sunday afternoon.

Many sororities plan open houses to honor their new pledge classes. Sunday afternoon Collegiate Sorosis will open its newly remodeled chapter house.

Greeting visitors will be active Julie Fitzgerald of Cranbrook Court and Barbara Shadley of Ottawa Drive. Also present will be new Sorosis pledges Barbara James of Percy King Drive and Mary-Love Russell of Lone Pine Road.

Barbara Ann Cole was one of 60 coeds tapped for Circle Honorary, women's honorary for residence hall activities, leadership and good citizenship at Michigan State University.

Daughter of the Raymond L. Coles of Lincolnshire Drive Barbara is majoring in elementary education and is resident adviser and social chairman of her dormitory. She is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority.

Conscious of Worldly Goods

Today's Teens Are Most Materialistic

BY EUGENE GILBERT
Gilbert Youth Research Co.
Young people today do give importance to worldly goods. They think a great deal about the things they want such as cars, baby equipment, clothes, which comes as no great revelation. The big news is that they feel this view is entirely justified.

They're materialistic, as their elders say. And they are quite conscious of it.

And, a mere 14 per cent feel any qualms about their outlook.

"Today it is natural to want luxuries and many people have them," says Ronald Freeman, 15, of South Euclid, Ohio.

In our latest nationwide teenage opinion poll, 51 per cent of the boys and 63 per cent of the girls admit their dreams generally concern things they want.

eagerness to work for your dream."

To back up her feeling that material goals are important, Patricia Brandt, 15, of Corry, Pa., says: "You have to look out for yourself; nobody is going to do it for you when you're an adult."

Such dreams of things they want give Stuart Kaufman, 17, of Oradell, N. J., "something to work for and make the dull days bearable."

Speaking up for the minority is Robert Steuernagel, 16, of River Edge, N. J. who says "its brought about by envy and desire for what one does not have."

REFLECT PROSPEROUS TIMES

Some 69 per cent of the girls and 74 per cent of the boys agree young people are more materialistic today than a generation ago.

Thom Freer, 16, of Cleveland says the reason is teen-agers "weren't around during the depression and World War II."

"Today, most teen-agers 'go along with the crowd' and show only materialistic ideals as important, but alone most teens contemplate deep and good thoughts," declares Nancy Cleveland, 15, of San Leandro, Calif.

Annette Cola, 16, of West Covina, Calif. says: "It seems more important to have a car than good grades."

When it comes down to listing the most important things in life to a teen-ager, it appears that Miss Cleveland's opinion is upheld.

A happy home, prosperity for all, education, health and religion are the top-ranking selections. And many of their comments show another side to the acquisitive teen-ager.

"Being honest with yourself and using your abilities to the utmost" is the most important goal to John Barwis, 16, of Richboro, Pa.

John Slatter, 16, of Churchville, Pa. gives friends a high place on his list.

"Our society is based on people and unless one can get along with others, one cannot and will not succeed," he adds.

"Education," says Linda Klausling, 17, of Louisville, Ky. "A person without education nowadays is a lost ball in high weeds."

THINK OF THEMSELVES

But in all honesty, nearly four-fifths of the girls and boys report they think mostly about their own futures. About 20 per cent consider the future of the next world.

Rather far down in their consideration is the future of our country.

As John G. Kennedy, 15, of Corry, Pa. puts it: "I'm not too worried about the future of the U.S. because it is the most powerful country in the world."

Girls place marriage very high when asked what they desire most in life. But no boys who replied placed marriage on their lists of desires.

Thirty per cent of the boys rate prosperity as their greatest goal.

However, that indefinable something called "happiness" is agreed upon by the majority of girls and boys as the one thing they want above all else. In this they show they're not much different from the rest of the human race.

Average life expectancy of industrial workers in the U.S. is 70 years.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Eunice,

"Please tell us your favorite way of making a waistband for a skirt!" Mrs. T. M.

Dear Mrs. T. M.: This method of making a waistband will work in most fabrics without using an interfacing.

If the skirt is gathered or pleated, the extra weight would require more firmness in the waistband.

(a) Cut a strip of fabric four inches longer than waist measurement, 2 1/2 inches wide, using the selvage for one edge.

(b) Turn under 1/2 inch of the cut edge, baste and press.

(c) Fold waistband in half, right sides together, and stitch a triangle on the left end. Trim, turn and press.

(d) When applying to skirt, either pin folded edge over the seamline and topstitch, or stitch the waistband to the skirt from the inside so the stitching won't show from the right side. A two-inch extension should be left on the under side. In either case, the selvage is hand-washed to the inside of the skirt. (See sketch for correct application.)

COURTURIER TOUCHES

Top designers use imaginative and creative ideas for their clothes which catch your eye because they are outstanding. One of my favorites from the current spring collections, was the use of large printed silk scarfs for the linings of blouses and suits.

Since most scarfs have a border, this can be used to best advantage on the front and lower edge of the lining. If you don't care to use the entire scarf for your blouse, the border could be attractively used on the lower edge of a plain colored over-blouse. Your suit can be an exclusive "one of a kind." Just think of the compliments you will get.

ACCURATE HEM MARKER

To mark hems without assistance, stand next to a table or desk (which should hit you about the largest part of your hips) and carefully mark your dress at this height with white chalk. Next, measure the desired finished length from this point to hem line and, presto, the hem is even. Mrs. Helen Lawrence, Vancouver, B.C., wins a Tailor Trix pressing board for being first in with this helpful tip.

"Dear Eunice,

"I received a pair of silk slacks for Christmas. They are unlined. Could you please tell me how to go about lining these now?" Mrs. F. W. M.

Dear Mrs. F. W. M.: This is virtually impossible at this stage without completely remaking the slacks. If you care to do this, carefully rip them apart and cut the lining exactly like each section, baste together and treat as one piece of fabric. Complete the slacks as they were done originally.

Don't Be Trapped

Live on Husband's Pay

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE 048: Jane J., aged 38, is a worried wife.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "when we got married my husband made only $65 a week."

"So my mother thought we couldn't exist on that small sum, for my parents are fairly wealthy."

"Thus, mother insisted on sending us $50 a week, to apply on our household expenses."

"We hadn't expected that generous gift, for we had figured for weeks on how we would pinch and save and make out on my husband's $65 pay check."

"Well, the extra $50 made things much easier for us. But it killed much of our fun in skimping."

"And I noticed in later months that my husband grew somewhat sullen."

"One time, when we quarreled, he angrily told me he didn't like to be a remittance man."

"Slowly, we drifted apart. I wanted a baby but he said he couldn't afford it yet and he refused to take any more handouts from my mother."

"Well, I finally tried to solve our problem by getting a job. But we immediately began to live at a higher standard, so my pay and my husband's were still gobbled up."

"We joined a country club and my husband took up golf in summer, plus bowling in winter."

FURTHER DELAY

"Well, I delayed a couple of years more but still he put off our having a family."

"Now I find that he is running around with a younger girl who works in his office. "And his excuse is that he wants a family and he feels I am too old to begin one."

"Dr. Crane, I feel that we started off on the wrong foot by ever accepting that $50 per week subsidy for our living expenses."

"My mother meant well but we should have refused her generous aid."

"For it robbed my husband of his self-respect and encouraged us to live beyond our own means."

"Now I am threatened with a break-up of our marriage. So please warn young brides about accepting money to apply on their current budget for living expenses."

Brides, heed Jane's tragic story, for Jane and her husband succumbed to a gilded trap at the outset.

And this is an all too common occurrence in America.

So stand on your own feet after marriage. Don't try to keep up with the Joneses.

Eat off packing crates for tables and use hamburger, hot dogs and beans as your early menu, but live on your husband's pay check.

In-laws may make a down payment on a new house for the newweds, for that is a capital investment that doesn't upset their budget.

For they simply pay off the balance in monthly installments in lieu of their usual rent check.

Fish Variety Offers Menu Change

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Now that we're into the fourth week of Lent, you may be running out of ideas for meatless meals. Hold everything! We're coming to your rescue.

Fish sticks have become an important item in any frozen food department. If you're tired of the package, why not turn them into kabobs? Your children will be intrigued with this innovation.

"Glamour on a Stick"

For each kabob, cut three frozen breaded fish sticks in half. On a 9-inch wooden skewer thread ingredients in this order: 1 medium stuffed olive, 1/2 breaded fish stick, 1 lemon wedge (8 to 10 minutes until tomato softens bread is toasted and kabob is cooked through. Lift carefully onto oval platter with broad spatula. Serve with a salad.

Cut 1 slice white bread with half diagonally. Spread with butter. Place on greased pan.

Cut 1 medium tomato in half. Remove stem end. Place the two tomato halves one on each half of the bread.

Lay the kabob across the two tomato halves. Drizzle down with melted butter. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika.

Bake at 375 degrees for 5 to 10 minutes until tomato softens bread is toasted and kabob is cooked through. Lift carefully onto oval platter with broad spatula. Serve with a salad.

Get out your electric skillet for a shrimp and rice dish. This is the sort of main course you can prepare easily, even if you don't get home until after five.

Skillet Shrimp and Rice

2 pounds shrimp, fresh or frozen
1 teaspoon pickling spices
1/4 cup salad oil
1/2 clove garlic, minced
1 cup diced celery
1 onion, chopped
1 bay leaf, crumbled
1 (5 or 10) box pre-cooked rice
1 chicken bouillon cube
1/4 cup (optional) stuffed olives, chopped
1/2 teaspoon thyme

1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
Sliced stuffed olives for garnish (optional)

If shrimp are raw, clean and cook them 2 to 5 minutes in 1 1/2 quarts of water to which pickling spices have been added. Drain shrimp and set aside. (If shrimp are frozen cooked, let thaw and dry on paper toweling.)

Heat salad oil in very large skillet, or electric fry pan. Add garlic, celery, onion and bay leaf; cook until vegetables are tender and slightly browned. Add rice and cook, stirring constantly, until browned.

Dissolve bouillon cube in 1 1/4 cups boiling water. Add bouillon with olives, thyme, salt and pepper to rice mixture. Bring quickly to boil. Cover and simmer 10 minutes.

Stir in shrimp, reserving some for garnish if desired. Let cook until shrimp are heated through. Garnish with reserved shrimp and sliced stuffed olives. Makes 6 servings.

Salmon steaks make such a colorful meal. You can usually find them on the fish counter, all cut into individual serving portions. Lemon butter does nice things for salmon.

Salmon Steaks Columbia

4 salmon steaks (1 1/2 to 2 pounds)
Salt and pepper
1/4 cup minced onion
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
3 tablespoons chopped parsley
California lemon quarters

Season salmon with salt and pepper. Place in a well-greased baking dish. Combine onion, oregano, melted butter, grated lemon peel, lemon juice and parsley; spoon over the salmon steaks.

Bake, uncovered, at 375 degrees, 35 to 40 minutes, or until fish flakes easily with a fork. Serve with lemon quarters. Garnish with parsley. Makes 4 servings.

Almonds Coat Fish Before Frying

Want to ring a change in the way you prepare fish filets? This recipe may appeal to you.

French Flounder

1 1/2 pounds flounder (or similar thin fish) filets
1/4 cup flour
1/2 cup minced blanched almonds
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon white pepper
2 tablespoons paprika
Clarified butter or other fat for frying

Wash and drain filets but do not dry. Mix together the flour, almonds, salt, pepper and paprika; coat filets with mixture. Fry filets, one layer at a time, without crowding in hot butter, turning to have both sides golden brown; add butter as needed. Makes 4 servings.

SHRIMP AND RICE

Tried and True Way With Fruit

There's a "secret" ingredient mixed with the assortment of fruits in "Old-Fashioned Fruit Salad" that adds a distinctive touch to this party-pretty treat. The ingredient: Toasted slivered almonds, providing a delightful crunch and nut flavor.

Besides being so tasty in salads, desserts and fish and meat sauces, almonds are real energy-boosters. Tuck whole almonds in to lunch boxes during Lent to revive lagging spirits.

Old-Fashioned Fruit Salad

2 oranges
1 can (8 1/2 oz.) pineapple tidbits
2 red apples, diced
2 bananas, sliced
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/4 cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons sugar
Dash salt
1/4 cup toasted slivered almonds
Lettuce

Pare and section oranges into bowl. Drain and add pineapple. Add apple and banana; sprinkle with lemon juice.

Whip cream with sugar and salt until stiff. Fold into fruits along with almonds. Serve at once on crisp lettuce. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Pale Brown Sponge Cake Is Different

Our tasters say this cake has a delightful taffy flavor. The recipe is an old one, well worth reviving.

Nut-Brown Sponge Cake

1 1/4 cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 large eggs (separated)
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup light molasses
1/2 cup sugar

Sift together the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Beat egg yolks until thick and pale colored; beat in vanilla, then gradually the molasses.

With a clean beater, beat the egg whites until stiff; gradually beat in the sugar; fold in egg-yolk mixture, then gradually the sifted dry ingredients.

Turn into two 8-inch layer cake pans having exactly the same amount of batter in each. Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Remove cakes to wire rack to cool; fill and frost as desired.

Dill, fresh or dried, gives zest to boiled potatoes.

Lean Pork in Sauce for Chinese Shrimp

An easy-to-cook Chinese-type dish with authentic flavor. All our tasters enjoyed it!

Phyl's Shrimp in Delicious Sauce

2 tablespoons salad oil
1/2 pound lean pork (ground)
1/4 cup finely diced carrot
1/4 cup finely diced celery
2 cloves garlic (minced)
1 tablespoon chopped scallion
2 1/4 cups chicken bouillon
1 teaspoon sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1/4 cup cold water
1 pound medium shrimp (cooked, shelled and deveined)

In a large skillet saute the pork in the oil; add the carrot, celery, garlic, scallion, bouillon and sugar; cover tightly and simmer 10 minutes. Blend cornstarch, soy sauce and water until smooth; add to skillet; cook and stir until thickened and clear. Add shrimp; heat thoroughly.

Can of Sardines Adds Zest to Little Omelet

Here's an appetizing new omelet variation your family will applaud for its zesty flavor. Try sardines from Norway add a certain new tang to the popular omelet. It is ideal on meatless menu days as a hot luncheon or quick, easy to prepare supper dish.

Sardine Omelet

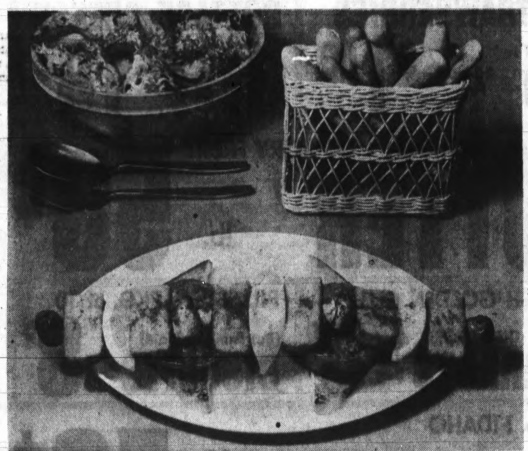

6 eggs
1 (3 1/2 oz.) can Norway sardines
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon salt
1 sprig parsley, finely chopped
1/4 peeled lemon, sliced
1 canned red pimiento, cut into circles

Mix the eggs with a fork (not too stiffly) and add the salt. Place butter in the skillet and let it become brown to make the eggs coagulate quickly. Place the eggs in the butter and stir briskly with a fork.

When cooked, roll the omelet into an elliptical shape — it should be creamy inside, unless desired well done. Arrange on a platter or small baking dish with half can of drained Norway sardines at each end. Pour over a little melted butter on the sardines.

Garnish with slices of peeled lemon, chopped parsley and circles of red pimiento. Serve hot. Yield 2 portions.

If the apples you're using for a pie aren't tart, be sure to add lemon juice; a little grated lemon rind won't hurt either.

FISH KABOBS — Bring "Glamour on a Stick" with fish sticks to your family's meals. These intriguing kabobs are made by stringing halved frozen fish sticks along a wooden skewer, alternated with canned mushroom caps, lemon wedges, and tipped with green olives. The skewer is then propped on tomato halves stop a bread slice and baked for about 10 minutes.

One Jar of Caviar Garnishes 6 Salads

Not the usual type of egg salad at all.

Egg Salad Special

6 eggs
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
2 teaspoons prepared yellow mustard
White pepper to taste
1 jar (4 ounces) red caviar
Green pepper strips
Cultured sour cream
Hard-cook eggs; shell; cut in half lengthwise. Remove yolks; mash and blend with mayonnaise, mustard and pepper; spoon back into white cavities. Make a small depression in center of each yolk mixture; fill with caviar.
Arrange stuffed eggs on romaine; garnish with green pepper. Top sour cream with remaining caviar and serve as a dressing with salad. Makes 4 to 6 servings.
No salt is added to yolk mixture because caviar supplies it.

Soup of French Origin Can Be on Your Menu

Despite the recent Florida and California freezes, and the corresponding high citrus prices, you still can use lemon juice inexpensively in cooking.

The bottled variety costs one-fourth as much as fresh lemons. What's more, you're sure of consistency and uniformity of strength when you use bottled lemon juice.

This is good news, particularly

Chocolate and Bananas Go in Chiffon Cake

This recipe makes a large cake so there'll be plenty for company and the family.

Chocolate Banana Chiffon Cake

2 1/4 cups sifted cake flour
1 1/4 cups sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup corn oil
6 eggs (separated)
1 cup mashed ripe banana (2 to 3 bananas)
1 square (1 ounce) unsweetened chocolate (coarsely grated)
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
Sift together the cake flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into a mixing bowl. Make well in center and add oil, egg yolks, banana, and chocolate in order given; beat with spoon until smooth.
Beat cream of tartar with egg whites until mixture forms very stiff straight peaks. Gently fold banana mixture into whites, blending well; do not stir.
Turn into an ungreased 10 by 4 inch tube pan. Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven until cake springs back when lightly touched with finger — 1 hour and 10 to 15 minutes. At once invert pan over funnel or bottle to cool. Remove cold cake from pan by loosening sides with spatula.

Cheese Soup in Can Sauces Vegetable

Broccoli with Cheese Sauce

2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen broccoli spears
1 can (11 ounces) cheddar cheese soup
Paprika
Cook the broccoli according to package directions but omitting the salt. Drain broccoli and keep warm; reserve cooking liquid.
Empty the undiluted soup into a saucepan; gradually stir in 1/4 cup of the reserved broccoli liquid. Heat slowly, stirring occasionally. Pour the hot cheese sauce over the broccoli spears; sprinkle with paprika. Makes 6 generous servings, about 1/4 cup sauce for each portion of broccoli.

If you like to use a kitchen scissors for snipping dates into small pieces, have a glass of water handy and dip the scissors into it frequently.

Frozen Foods Can Stand Out in Kitchen

Frozen foods are giving a whole generation of women new freedom, time, and leisure to live and enjoy fuller, more worthwhile lives away from the narrow orbit of the kitchen. Frozen foods are also providing another important freedom—in menu planning, that is.

No longer limited to seasonal and local produce, homemakers find the year-round selection of fruits and vegetables in the frozen food cabinet add sparkle and variety to every meal.

Contrary to popular belief, frozen foods do not suffer appreciably from exposure, for short periods of time, to room temperatures. In fact, the National Association of Frozen Food Packers tells us that frozen foods may be exposed to room temperatures for three or four hours with little deterioration.

The Association suggests that if you doubt the acceptability of any frozen product, a good rule of thumb is to feel the package. If it is still firm and very cold to the touch, it may be used or refrozen without noticeable loss of quality.

If, however, the package no longer feels cold, or you suspect its contents to be above 40 degrees F. (average refrigerator temperature), the food may still be eaten, but there might be off-flavors and general loss of freshness.

Naturally, proper handling of frozen foods is always to be preferred. Ideally, frozen foods should be your last purchase before checking out of the store, although this is not always convenient and should not be considered a cardinal rule.

Smaller Ones Are Fine

Save money when cooking with pimiento-stuffed olives by buying the smaller size, or manzanillas. Size doesn't matter when they're sliced for casseroles, and the manzanillas do have a higher oil content, therefore a less briny flavor than the huge queens, which are meant for party snacks and garnishes, where you nibble only two or three.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. Sirloin Lamb Chop.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?

A. It comes from the fore section of the lamb leg and corresponds to beef sirloin steak.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. By broiling, panbroiling or pan-frying. For broiling, place chops on broiler rack. Insert broiler pan and rack so the top of 1-inch chops is 2 to 3 inches from the heat and 2-inch chops, 3 to 5 inches. When one side is browned, season, turn and finish cooking on the second side. Season chops, cut 1-inch thick require a total of 10 to 12 minutes, 1½ inches thick require 18 to 20 minutes, 2 inches thick 20 to 22 minutes. Chops cut less than 1 inch thick should be pan-broiled or pan-fried.

Aw, It's Just Olives

When you see "la Mirabeau" on a recipe, it means garnished with pimiento-stuffed olives, whether it's steak or fish. Now, during Lenten season, is a good time to give fish a "mirabeau" treatment. Surround it with whole, pimiento-stuffed olives on lemon slices. You'll be delighted with how pretty it looks. Tastes good, too.

Peanut Butter Idea

Peanut butter and bacon is an hors d'oeuvre favorite. Blend ¼ cup peanut butter, ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 to 3 tablespoons chili sauce and 4 slices cooked and crumbled bacon. Spread on crackers.

Simple Lemon Sauces Add Zest to Fish

With Lent here, the problems of planning "meals with a difference" becomes foremost in many households. Some of last year's meals may bear repeating, particularly the favorites. But still, there may be many gaps in your menu plans.

When filling those empty spaces, you need not search your gourmet cook books for fancy dishes, requiring many ingredients and exotic spices. The simplest of fish dishes, broiled or baked fillets, fried shrimp or fish sticks, for example, may be dressed up with a tasty sauce, or with just a dash of lemon juice from that handy plastic squeeze lemon container which has become a pantry staple in millions of American homes.

Here are two recipes for "Saucy Sauces," which are perfect for dressing up seafood. The first of these sauces, Calico Caper Sauce, uses sour cream as its base. The other, Jiffy Red Sauce, uses chili sauce.

Calico Caper Sauce

Combine the following ingredients:

- 1 cup mayonnaise
- ¼ cup sour cream
- ¼ cup bottled lemon juice
- 1-3 cup chopped capers
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped green onions or chives
- 2 tablespoons minced parsley
- Dash of cayenne
- Salt to taste

This will yield about one and one-half cups.

Jiffy Red Sauce

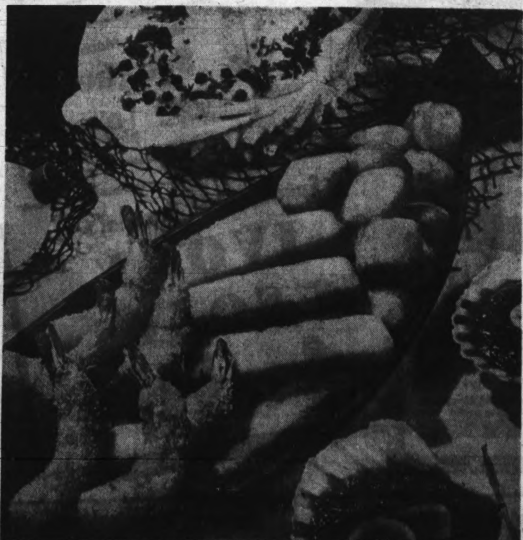

1 cup chili sauce

¼ cup bottled lemon juice.

1 tablespoon instant minced onion

1 teaspoon horseradish

Combine these ingredients and cook over a low heat about 10 minutes. This yields about one cup.

MADE WITH LEMON—These Saucy Sauces are perfect for dressing up seafood. Calico Caper Sauce uses sour cream as its

EGGPLANT AND LAMB DINNER—Pump meat patties top slices of eggplant in this appetizing eggplant and lamb dinner dish. The lamb mixture is lightly seasoned with rosemary, then has tomato sauce poured over after the patties are partially baked. Buttered peas with sliced mushrooms mixed in make a delicious vegetable accompaniment.

Cap Slice of Eggplant With a Lamb Patty

When you have a vegetable and meat combined in one dish, you have a good part of your menu all taken care of. For instance, this eggplant and lamb dish with lamb patties baked atop slices of eggplant needs very little in the way of accompaniments to make a hearty meal.

The lamb patties get a delightful flavor lift from the teaspoon of rosemary that's added to the meat mixture and, made with evaporated milk, they bake plump and juicy. The eggplant slices are cooked a few minutes in boiling water to get a head start on cooking before joining forces with the meat patties in the baking pan.

This flavorful main dish becomes colorful as well when tomato sauce is poured over the meat part way through the baking period. Hot green peas, buttered and tossed with sautéed mushrooms, can complete the main course.

Eggplant and Lamb Dinner
1 medium size eggplant
1½ pounds ground lamb
1½ teaspoons instant minced onion
1½ teaspoons salt
Dash of pepper
1 teaspoon rosemary
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 cup evaporated milk
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce

Wash eggplant and cut off stem and blossom end. Cut crosswise into six slices. Cook in boiling water about 5 minutes to soften slightly, then drain and arrange

Vary the Tune

Peanut butter and jelly sandwiches are part and parcel of growing up. For a change, try these combinations: Peanut butter and grated raw carrot; peanut butter and ketchup; peanut butter and grated cheddar cheese; peanut butter and applesauce; peanut butter and marshmallow creme.

Diced Ham Fills Eggs for Salad

If you had ham over the weekend, you can use a little of the leftovers in this salad.

Sarah's Salad

6 eggs
2 tablespoons chili sauce
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
2 tablespoons minced green pepper
1 cup finely diced cooked ham
Salt, pepper and paprika
Salad greens
Hard-cook the eggs; shell; cut into halves lengthwise. Remove yolks and mash fine; mix in chili sauce, mayonnaise, green pepper, ham and salt and pepper to taste. Spoon yolk mixture back into egg-white cavities; sprinkle with paprika. Serve on salad greens. Makes 4 servings, 1½ eggs per portion.

Good, Nutritious, Easy to Make

Isn't it pleasant that a dessert as delightful as this custard is so nutritious?

Baked Custard

2 large eggs
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
2 cups milk (scalded)
¼ teaspoon vanilla
Nutmeg

Beat eggs just enough to combine yolks and whites. Add salt and sugar and stir to blend. Stir in scalded milk gradually but briskly and vanilla. Pour into 4 large (6 ounces each) ovenproof custard cups. Sprinkle with nutmeg.

Set cups in a shallow pan of hot water and bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven just until a knife inserted in center comes out clean—about 25 minutes. Remove from hot water, partially cool and chill. Makes 4 servings.

Hawaiian Miss Wins Contest With New Pie

CHICAGO—An attractive Hawaiian high school senior, Miss Myrna Yee, from the island of Oahu, Hawaii, walked off with top honors in the 1963 National Tart Red Cherry Recipe Contest announced here in the Pump Room of the Ambassador East Hotel.

Miss Yee won out over thousands of other contestants entered from high schools coast-to-coast.

Her entry, Tropical Cherry Pie, combined the tart-flavor of America's traditional pie fruit with the exotic flavor of flaked coconut from her island home in America's newest state.

Miss Yee, representing the contest's Western division, will use her top prize of a $1000 scholarship to pursue a college career in the field of home economics.

The 4 top winners and their chaperones were guests of the National Red Cherry Institute at the Ambassador East Hotel. The following is Miss Yee's winning recipe:

Tropical Cherry Pie
1 1-pound can (2 cups) water packed tart red cherries
½ cup sugar
2½ tablespoons cornstarch
Dash salt
Few drops red food coloring
¼ teaspoon almond extract
1 3½-ounce can (1½ cups) flaked coconut
1 9-inch baked pie shell
3 egg whites
Dash salt
6 tablespoons sugar

Drain cherries thoroughly, reserving liquid; add water to make 1 cup. Combine ½ cup sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add reserved cherry liquid. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick and clear. Remove from heat; add coloring, extract and cherries; cool to room temperature. Add 1 cup coconut. Spoon into baked crust.

Beat egg whites and salt to form soft peaks; add 6 tablespoons sugar gradually, beating until stiff peaks form. Spread meringue over filling, sealing to edges. Sprinkle with remaining coconut. Bake at 350 degrees 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Yield 1-8-inch pie.

Fizzy Prune Float Appeals to Children

Lives there a youngster—or grown-up either, for that matter—who doesn't enjoy ice cream floats! This one is a meld of dark, tart-sweet prune juice, the fizzy bubble of gingerale, topped by velvet float of ice cream.

Prune Juice Float
1 quart chilled prune juice
1 quart chilled gingerale
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Vanilla ice cream
Combine prune juice, gingerale, and lemon juice. Pour into tall glasses. Top each with a large scoop of vanilla ice cream. Makes 6 servings.

CHOCOLATE BREAD—Here are the makings of that world-wide success story, the kaffeeklatch. A chance to talk over ideas, the delicious coffee itself, and a homemade loaf like Lilli's Nut-Chocolate Bread are three big reasons why coffee parties are such popular entertainment.

Chocolate Loaf Big Sensation

Women are imaginative creatures, no doubt about that. Furthermore, there's hardly a woman alive who doesn't enjoy airing her own ideas, whether she goes to an office or stays home to care for her children. That's why kaffeeklatches began—and why they're such a booming success.

Talk is the only entertainment a kaffeeklatch demands. The refreshments can be nothing more than cups of coffee. But the kaffeeklatch becomes more of a party, and thus more fun, when there's a delicious home made treat, too.

An eye-catching loaf of bread isn't hard to make when you use a little ingenuity and a quick-mix. For example, there's our favorite, Lilli's Nut-Chocolate Bread. It's a simple, sensational combination of biscuit mix, bits of chocolate and chopped walnuts with orange juice for flavor accent. And it's wonderful with coffee!

Lilli's Nut-Chocolate Bread
3 cups prepared biscuit mix
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
¼ cups orange juice
¼ cup chopped walnuts
1 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate pieces.

Measure biscuit mix into mixing bowl and stir in sugar. Combine egg and orange juice, and add to flour mixture. Beat hard 30 seconds. Stir in nuts and ¼ cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces. Turn into well-greased loaf pan 9x5x3 inches or 11x4½x3 inches. Sprinkle remaining chocolate pieces on top of batter.

Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 55 to 60 minutes. Cool thoroughly before slicing. Serve with parsley-garnished cream cheese or whipped butter or margarine.

Sponge Cake Uses Yolks and Whites

Here's a really moist and delectable sponge cake, easy to make.

Heavenly Sponge Cake
5 large eggs (separated)
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cup cold water
1 cup superfine granulated sugar
1 cup sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat egg whites until foamy; add cream of tartar and salt; beat rapidly until whites hold and sugar to yolks; without wash-straight stiff peaks. Add water, beat rapidly until pale yellow and thickened.

Add flour and vanilla to yolks; beat gently, running spatula around sides of bowl a few times if necessary, just until blended. Fold in beaten whites.

Turn into a 9 by 3-inch ungreased angelfood cake (tube) pan. Cut once through batter with a knife to get rid of large air pockets. Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven for 1 hour. Invert pan and allow cake to hang until cool. Loosen with spatula and ease out.
Cut cake in half crosswise; fill and frost as desired.

Most Cooks Hit Spring Slump

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK — Like most American housewives, I annually go through a cooking slump. The cooking slump generally comes about now, midway between winter and spring, between chicken - in - the pot days and the lobster - sautéed days.

During this unpalatable period, when nothing titillates the taste buds, it becomes an enormous chore to imagine what might be good for dinner. Beef, veal, fish, lamb, fowl, liver — all are equally ugly. Even the thought of roast goose, which literally gurgled my stomach in December, is a drag.

Of course, it's my fault, I always think; I am weary from a winter of hot stoves and cold freezer packages; I am on the verge of the easy cold-cuts and barbecued (by husband) steak days, and it has made me restless.

Another opinion, however, was offered me a while ago by Mrs. Hilda Howard, who presided over the kitchen of the world-famed "Rainbow Room," 65 floors above Rockefeller Plaza. Mrs. Howard, who'd served meals to four U.S. presidents, many of the great diplomats and movie stars and planned a daily menu for 1,900 men, was inclined to blame kitchen ennui on the male sex...

"Years ago, men were imaginative in their love of food, and it was fun to cook then," she said. "But today they're calorie conscious and they want everything boiled and broiled. For dessert, the six-to-one favorite is stewed fruit."

"Cooking for men can be a frustrating, boring and expensive proposition."

Either they're calorie-counting, which means they want steak. Or they're unimaginative and narrow-minded, which means they still want steak.

In any case, if a housewife becomes bored, it is understandable.

Mrs. Howard gave us a few rules for housewives who must plan daily meals for men:

1. Don't be fancy.
2. Unless your husband is the unusual man — a gourmet — stick to lamb and beef stews, chicken pie, chopped steak, unchopped steak, roast beef or roast beef hash.

3. Don't repeat the same dish within four weeks.

4. Make salads interesting. Try aspics and unusual dressings, because men like salads better than you think.

5. Watch the calories. Somehow remembering all this advice still doesn't rouse me from the cooking slump. Perhaps it's because I was aware that Mrs. Howard had 37 chefs under her direction — which tended to remove her from the realm of empathy with my problem.

Mrs. Howard may THINK she understands the problem of the tired housewife like me.

But if I had 37 chefs under me, ready to make suggestions when I said gee-what'll-we-have-for-dinner? I don't think I'd understand me at all. I have a tough enough time understanding me, being me. But that's beside the point. The point is, it's time to fix dinner again. What'll it be? Ho hum.

Banana Fudge Has Delicate Flavor

Here's a brand new fudge recipe.

ELYSIAN BANANA FUDGE
2 cups mashed banana (about 4 medium bananas, fully ripe)
4 cups sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup light or heavy cream
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla

In deep saucepan, mix together mashed banana, sugar, salt and cream. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Boil, stirring up from bottom of pan, until mixture forms a soft ball in cold water (235 degrees).

Remove from heat; add butter and cool to lukewarm. Add vanilla and beat just until mixture begins to hold its shape when dropped from spoon. Turn immediately into buttered 8-inch square pan. Cool until firm. Cut in squares. Makes about 2 pounds.

To Coat Jelly Roll

Baking a sponge cake for a jelly roll? You'll find that two tablespoons of confectioners' sugar are just about right for spreading over the clean dish, towel on which the cake will be turned out.

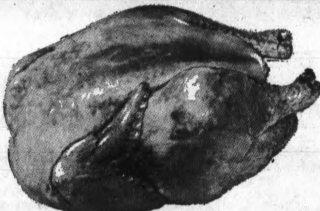

Foamy Fruit Drink Is Natural for a Blender

Children will "flip" over this one... and so it's called Fruit Flip. Put one package fruit-flavored gelatin and one 6-ounce can of frozen concentrate for fruit punch into an electric blender. Blend for a few seconds to dissolve gelatin. Add one quart chilled ice. Blend until contents are snowy. Use rubber spatula to aid in mixing. Makes 4 servings.

You can dissolve gelatin in liquid over direct heat, but keep the heat low and stir constantly until the gelatin is dissolved.

Fresh Pears Fine Garnish

For a tasty garnish to serve with baked ham, slice unpared pears crosswise and remove the core. Place rings in a buttered casserole. Sprinkle with a mixture of sugar, cinnamon and lemon juice. Bake alongside the ham until tender, about 30 minutes.

Curried pears are also an elegant meat accompaniment. Place cored, pared pear halves in a greased baking dish, cut side up. Fill cavity with a crumbly mixture of melted butter, brown sugar, curry powder and salt. Bake about 30 minutes, until tender, in a 350 degree F. oven.

Buttermilk Substitute

No buttermilk in the house and you want to try a quick bread recipe calling for it? Add a tablespoon of strained lemon juice to a cup of milk, stirring well. Let the mixture stand about half an hour before substituting it for the buttermilk called for.

Beef and Pork Prices Are Lowest in Years

Abundant supplies and less consumer use of beef and pork during Lent is resulting in reasonable retail prices for these meats, advises the Consumer Marketing Information Agency, Mrs. Josephine Lawler.

Last week at the large Chicago market, prices for live hogs were the lowest in three years and prices for live cattle were the lowest in one and one-half years. The supply-price situation for these meats is to the consumers' advantage and will continue until late spring.

March 1 estimates by the U. S. Department of Agriculture again reduce this year's citrus fruit production. The citrus output is now predicted at 25 per cent below the 1962 crop.

Orange production is now estimated at 105.3 million boxes compared to 138.1 million boxes last year. Grapefruit output is now estimated at 35.4 million boxes compared to 42.9 million boxes last season.

Reports from Florida indicate that few, if any, fresh valencia oranges will be shipped from there after March 25. This is one of the shortest fresh orange seasons in the state's history.

LOSS
The December freeze resulted in loss of juice in oranges as well as a proportionate loss in sugar or solids. Until now about 60 per cent of the Florida fresh orange shipments have been No. 1 fruit.

There is a large supply of tomato products available at very reasonable prices. California's farmers produced 3.2 million tons of tomatoes for processing in 1962 compared to 2.3 million tons in 1961. Canned tomatoes, tomato juice, catsup, tomato sauce and paste will likely continue at economical prices this spring.

Although fresh tomato supplies have been about 10 per cent smaller than last year, shoppers will notice increasing supplies in the weeks ahead. Though Florida's winter tomato crop is estimated at 21 per cent below year ago, it is 31 per cent above average. Florida, California and Mexico ship fresh tomatoes at this season.

Carrot supplies from Texas and California are 16 per cent larger than last year. The acreage for spring harvest in Arizona is a third more than last year and light harvest is under way. This vitamin A packed vegetable adds color and fine flavor for pennies per serving.

Mint glazed carrots is a vegetable favorite for many families. Combine one-half cup mint jelly, a tablespoon butter or margarine, and one-fourth cup of liquid from cooked carrots. Simmer until the jelly is melted. Then add one-pound of cooked carrots, and simmer until carrots are glazed.

Dairy cases prominently display cheese during the current season. If you are looking for the most cheese per pound consider a natural or process cheese. If it's a specialty item you seek — one that is milder, easy to spread and quick to melt, look for a cheese food or a cheese spread. The label or carton will identify the type of cheese.

If your monthly food bill seems large, remember that it is bought with fewer hours of labor than ten years ago. The average factory worker in the U. S. today can purchase his family monthly food needs with 37 hours of work. Ten years ago it took 51 hours of work to purchase the same amount of food.

Stack Cheese and Slices of Apple for a Salad

Apple 'n' cheese addicts will applaud individual salads of bright red apple slices and cheese. To prepare, core Delicious or Wine-sap apples and slice into quarter-inch rings. Spread apple slices with Roquefort or cream cheese softened with French dressing. Stack 2 to 3 apple rings, carefully cut through once or twice and place on a crisp lettuce leaf for each serving.

In Longest Day of Current Sessions

State Legislative Committees Send 156 Bills to Floor

LANSING (UPI) — The Michigan legislature, putting in its longest day of the current sessions, tolled through hours of committee work yesterday to keep alive the passage chances of 156 bills.

The House of Representatives sent 87 bills to the floor, and Senate committees okayed 69 bills as the deadline passed for reporting out bills in their house of origin.

Included in the long list were key measures of Gov. George Romney's legislative program and a number of highly controversial issues.

Sen. Stanley Thayer, R-An Arbor, the Senate majority leader, said the legislature had kept alive virtually all of Gov. Romney's major requests. "We did a good job for the governor, I think," said Thayer.

Romney-asked bills reported out by Senate committees included:

—An immediate-effect appropriation of $1 million for planning of construction at state facilities.

—A set of budget bills closely adhering to the governor's expenditure recommendations. The only major change was the $600,000 the Appropriations Committee lacked on to the public health appropriation for the Crippled Children's Commission.

—Repealer of the $2-a-day supplemental pay provided by the state for National Guardsmen at summer camp training. The program costs approximately $300,000 annually.

—And a minimum wage act which would establish a base hourly pay scale of $1.15. The pay bill was not as Romney had asked but does give the legislature a vehicle measure to manipulate.

The House Labor Committee returned to the floor an amended version of Romney's proposal to amend the Ford-Canton section of the unemployment compensation laws. A version completely in-line with recommendations had been returned to the Senate earlier this week by that chamber's labor committee.

Among the other significant bills made eligible for further consideration were these:

—Marriage and divorce actions must be preceded by six hours of counseling.

—Two congressional apportionment plans.

—An omnibus civil rights bill that would seek to prohibit discrimination in all vital public areas.

—A requirement that public school districts furnish bus transportation for private and parochial school pupils.

—Increase in the number of Wayne County circuit judges from 16 to 24.

—Creation of a two-year senior-level college under state operation to operate in conjunction with the present Delta Junior College.

—Control of billboard advertising on state highways.

—Auto manufacturers required to install seat belts in cars manufactured after Jan. 1, 1965.

But for every item reported to many more were left in committee to die.

The pigeon-hole legislation ranged from a proposal to grant medical assistance for the aged under care in licensed nursing homes to a bill to allow the loaning of up to $1,200 in state funds to college students who could repay the money after graduation.

The medical assistance measure made it to the Senate floor once but was then referred to the Appropriations Committee, where it was kept, when the committee chairman, Sen. Frank Beale, R-St. Clair, noted "this could cost the state $8 to $9 million a year." Beale said enactment of such legislation should be preceded by a study committee's investigation.

Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley suffered a double loss when two of his pet proposals—one to regulate trading stamp companies and the other to place stricter controls on lobbyists—were killed.

Virtually all legislation dealing with the alcoholic beverage industry—particularly moves that would liberalize controls—died. Dog racing was also relegated to the heap of things that might have been.

East Germans Reinforce Berlin Wall Stretch

BERLIN (AP)—East German border guards are adding concrete slabs to the steel barriers and barbed wire fences along 1.5 miles between the Western and Communist checkpoints at the West Berlin end of the autobahn from West Germany.

A bus carrying eight refugees crashed through steel barriers there last Christmas and made it safely to West Berlin.

GINA POSES — Gina Lollobrigida poses for Soviet painter Ilya Glazunov at her villa in Rome. The Italian actress requested Glazunov to come to Rome to paint the portrait after she saw a sketch he made of her.

House OKs Romney Bill for Program

LANSING (AP) — The third of four bills in Gov. George Romney's proposed economic expansion program got through the House by a 101-3 vote yesterday. Approved and sent to the Senate was the bill calling for small business investment corporations, organized under the Federal Small Business Administration, to be exempted from the five-million state corporation franchise fee.

The House earlier passed bills to permit cities to issue revenue bonds for industrial site development, and set up industrial business corporations to make loans to high-risk business firms.

Still pending a vote in the House is the basic bill in the package, introduced by Rep. Gilbert Bursley, R-An Arbor, to reorganize the State Department of Economic Development.

Also passed by the House yesterday was a bill to permit truck, taxicab and other commercial carrier drivers an extra six points on their driving record.

The bill, passed by a 57-47 edge, would enable such drivers to accumulate 18 points instead of the standard 12 for moving violations before facing possible license restriction or revocation.

Chinese Report on Attackers in Communist Rift

TOKYO — Communist China reported today that in the past five months 44 of the world's 81 Communist parties have attacked Chinese communism with epithets ranging from "warlike" to "Trotskyite."

It was the first time an exact figure has been given of the number of Communist antagonists publicly ranged against Peking in the great debate over how to bury Western capitalism.

State Ship Builders Get Navy Contract

WASHINGTON — The Navy Bureau of Ships has awarded a contract to Defoe Ship Building Co., Bay City, Mich., for construction of three escort ships at a total cost of $28,679,365. Sen. Patrick McNamara and Philip A. Hart, Michigan Democrats, announced yesterday.

The contract was awarded under the Navy's ship-building program for 1963.

The three escort ships will be designed to destroy enemy submarines, the senators said they were informed.

Unproven Drugs Off Market

WASHINGTON (AP)—Food and Drug Commissioner George P. Larrick says three drugs which an FDA medical officer claimed had not been proven for safety "have been off the market for a long time."

And Larrick said in a statement Wednesday, the drug law passed by Congress last year will enable his agency to deal with such cases more effectively in the future.

Dr. John O. Nestor, medical officer for FDA Bureau of Medicine, told the Senate Government Operations subcommittee Wednesday that the agency had permitted sale of at least three drugs—Entoquel, Mer-29 and Allafur—although preliminary data on them did not substantiate their safety.

Larrick in his statement conceded that the original drug applications criticized by Nestor "could have been done better." But he noted that the FDA is bound by laws passed by Congress, and the cases cited by Nestor occurred before Congress last fall passed a stricter law for handling and licensing new drugs.

An FDA spokesman said Wednesday night that some of the provisions of the new drug law are in effect and "most will become operative early in May."

Nestor, 50, a Washington pediatrician who joined the bureau two years ago as a specialist on pediatric drugs, declined comment Wednesday night when asked if he thought the new regulations would preclude cases such as he cited.

He claimed Wednesday that "nonmedical men, including laymen, have been making medical decisions" on new drug applications. He said any questions he raised about past decisions or "past commitments to the pharmaceutical industry would be challenged with indifference, disapproval or even hostility."

De Gaulle Pursues the Bomb

French Tests in Sahara Grate Algeria

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle's go-it-alone ambitions to make France a nuclear power have landed him once again in deep trouble. They are the main cause of the long-standing coldness in relations between France and the United States.

Now the resumption of French nuclear testing in the Sahara threatens a major crisis between France and newly independent Algeria.

It also is likely to damage relations between France and other African nations bordering on the Sahara, including Morocco, Tunisia, Senegal and Mali.

Presumably, de Gaulle must have taken these risks into consideration when he ordered a resumption of French underground testing in fact.

What is at stake is a short cut to the first all-French H-bomb device which the de Gaulle government hopes to explode in the Pacific in 1964.

The atomic devices being tested in granite caves in the Sahara are said to constitute the trigger for the planned French H-bomb.

The French feel they are on strong legal ground in using the Sahara for nuclear testing.

The Evian peace settlement with Algeria a year ago granted France the use of three Sahara bases for the next five years.

True, the agreement contained no specific mention of nuclear testing.

MUST HAVE KNOWN

But the French say the Algerians must have been fully aware of the purpose of the bases when they signed the pact.

in general to denounce the Evian agreements as a whole.

De Gaulle obviously considered this possibility and must have decided to take the calculated risk that in the end Ben Bella would not push things to that point.

Denunciation of the Evian pact could in fact spell economic disaster for Algeria.

Under it, France gives Algeria nearly $300 million in financial aid this year. It has promised a minimum of $200 million a year for the two following years.

Without that aid, Algeria can hardly hope to survive. That was de Gaulle's ace-in-the-hole when he ordered resumption of Sahara nuclear tests.

Here Is Baseball Quiz for Today

PHOENIX, Ariz. (U) — Hour baseball quiz for today.

Q—How can a team collect 21 hits in one contest, including five home runs, and lose the game when the opposition leaves 21 men on base?

A—The opposition gets 33 hits—28 singles, two doubles, a pair of triples and a two-run homer in the 13th inning that wins the game.

Q—What Little League game was that?

A—These were big leaguers, the San Francisco Giants and the Houston Colts of the National League playing a spring exhibition here Wednesday. There were 123 official batters, not to mention 10 who walked and one who got hit with a pitch. Houston won, 16-12.

Q—How many players were used? How many were pitchers? Were any of the latter effective?

A—An estimated 30 players saw action. Ten of those were identified as pitchers, five for each side. The winner, Connie Grob, stopped the Giants on 10 hits in the four innings he worked, and choked off the losers with only two home runs. Bob Bishop took the defeat.

Q—Who hit home runs for San Francisco?

A—Willie McCovey, Willie Mays, Ernie Bowman and Cap Peterson each hit two-run homers while Orlando Cepeda hit one with the bases empty. Houston's Carroll Hardy hit a two-run shot in the top of the 13th when the Colts scored six times.

Q—Were there any other big hitters?

A—Yes. Houston's Carl Warwick picked up seven hits in nine trips and batted in six runs.

Q—Didn't the B squads play earlier?

A—Correct. Houston won that also, 2-1.

Q—Only 2-1. Wasn't that boring.

A—No. That was baseball.

Tree Blocks Homer as Mets Edge Dodgers

Skowron's Shot Held to Triple; Saves Exhibition Victory

By The Associated Press
The Los Angeles Dodgers used big bats, but then the New York Mets used a tree.

The tree turned in a sparkling defensive play for the Mets in the ninth inning Wednesday, holding Bill Skowron's out-of-the-park shot to a triple and saving New York's 4-3 exhibition baseball victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers at Vero Beach.

While the tree played carom with Skowron's blast, Houston and the New York Yankees played ricochet, and Curt Flood played Superman as St. Louis snapped Baltimore's 10-game winning streak—on an unusual day, even for the often-amusing spring training ring.

The Colts got seven hits from Carl Warwick and 33—that's right 33—in all against 21 for San Francisco at Phoenix and managed to outlast the National League champion Giants 16-12 in what might be termed a loosely played 13-inning marathon.

YANKS BLAST OFF

The Yankees, barreling into ninth place in the American league standings, managed to get by with only 27 hits—including homers by Roger Maris and Joe Pepitone—for an 18-3 triumph over Washington at Fort Lauderdale.

And Flood hit his third homer and played thief on two drives to center field as the Cardinals dumped the Orioles 4-3 at St. Petersburg. Baltimore was the last undefeated team in exhibition play.

Elsewhere, Pittsburgh blanked Detroit 4-0 in a six-inning game at Lakeland, Cincinnati edged Minnesota 6-4 at Tampa, the Chicago White Sox defeated Philadelphia 7-5 at Clearwater, Boston whipped Cleveland 5-3 at Scottsdale and the Los Angeles Angels nipped the Chicago Cubs 2-1 at Palm Springs.

Skowron lost his decision with the tree that grew at Vero Beach when his blast with one man on and the Dodgers trailing 4-3 cleared the bank surrounding the outfield but struck the tree and rebounded onto the playing field. Skowron had to settle for a triple.

Skowron, who's been having a torrid spring, drove in all three Dodgers runs, but the Los Angeles fielders continued to play give-away. Three unearned runs helped the Mets as the Dodgers lost their fourth straight and seventh in 12 games.

TWO-HITTER
Pirates pitchers Don Schwall and rookie Tommie Sisk combined for a two-hitter in the rain-shortened game against the Tigers. Two homers by Johnny Edwards and one by Wally Post carried the Reds to their triumph over the Twins. Dave Nicholson's two-run homer was the big blow as the White Sox defeated the Phillies.

Dick Stuart and Roman Mejias, the Red Sox' new 1-3 punch, got the job done against the Indians, Stuart hitting a homer and sacrifice fly and Mejias connecting for a homer and two singles. Rookie first baseman Charlie Dees drove in both runs with a homer and single as Angels made it six victories in a row by beating the Cubs.

Dispute Is Settled

College Ski Runs Begin

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The NCAA Ski Championships were ready to open as scheduled today after a dispute over condition of the downhill course apparently was settled to everyone's satisfaction.

The dispute arose Wednesday over a large and well-known bump about midway down the course at the Solitude ski area near here where the three-day meet is being held. Willie Schaeffer, coach of the defending champion Denver University team, threatened to withdraw his team.

"This isn't a height and distance contest, it's a downhill course," he said. "Those skiers are going straight into that bump at about 70 miles per hour. They can't possibly pre-jump it."

FAVORED TO WIN
However, the bump didn't bother Bob Beattie, coach of the Colorado University team which is favored to win the NCAA title this year. "It doesn't make much difference," he said, "we're all going to run through the same gates," he said.

Because of complaints from Schaeffer and other coaches, however, course officials placed two gates in the steep run which are expected to keep competitors from taking a straight run at the bump.

Two slalom runs opened the competition. The downhill and slalom runs were scheduled for Saturday and Sunday.

Sebring Grand Prix May Show New Trend

SEBRING, Fla. (AP)—Will European manufacturers continue to dominate international automobile racing, or will U.S. car builders give them a run for their money?

This is the question under discussion by many of the drivers, mechanics and owners entered in the 12-hour Sebring Grand Prix endurance race which starts Saturday.

The question marks have been generated principally by the Shelby AC Cobra, an English chassis and body powered by an American-made Ford engine and modified in this country. Cobras streaked around the track during practice session Wednesday, causing many skeptics to give it an odds-on chance of winning this grueling test—if it holds together for the more than 1,000 miles it will take to win.

American automobile manufacturers declared officially they were getting out of active racing competition a number of years ago when criticism over the horsepower race and highway fatalities became too severe.

However, Ford Motor Co. recently announced a turnaround in its policy, but did not give any specifics.

They're providing engines for the manufacturing of the Cobra by Shelby American Inc., of Venice, Calif., is considered by those in racing circles to be possibly the first step in developing some real competition for European builders.

The Ford company sent an engine specialist to Sebring for consultation of the six Cobras entered in the event.

A source close to the Shelby organization said "We couldn't produce these cars (Cobras) without the cooperation of Ford."

However, at least one European manufacturer, Ferrari, is confident of keeping its undeniably superior record intact through what is considered one of the toughest road races in the world.

A Ferrari car has won the over-all championship at Sebring five times in the last seven years. This year the Ferrari factory at Modena, Italy, has entered some yet-untried V12 rear-engine prototype cars.

VERY FAST
"They are fantastically fast," said a Ferrari factory representative.

But in case they fall, Ferrari has a number of other already-proven cars entered as a back-up. One is a four-liter speedster, piloted by Pedro Rodriguez.

of Mexico and Graham Hill of Great Britain.

Preliminary competition starts today with a one-hour formula Friday's schedule calls for an junior race. Cars are miniature versions of the all-out single-seater pure racing cars designed der way at 10 a.m., EST.

Tars Quickly Rescue Lass

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Rear Adm. Hugh C. Haysworth Jr., planning officer at the Oakland Navy Supply Center, heard that the 15-year-old daughter of one of his workers was a fast runner.

The admiral decided to run a little speed test of his own. He got on the center's inter-communications system and asked for money to send Linda Bradshaw to the National Women's AAU Track Championships this week-end at Columbus, Ohio.

The money didn't come in as fast as Linda, who has run 100 yards in 10.9 seconds. But in 14 days the center raised $750. Linda needed only $500.

Eyes Cost Hike in Circuit Courts

Supervisor Asks Study of Reasons for Rise

David Levinson, chairman of the committee that controls the purse strings of Oakland County government, is alarmed at the rising cost to operate circuit courts.

At yesterday's meeting of his ways and means committee of the County Board of Supervisors, Levinson asked for a study of the reasons for the rising cost.

"I'm not concerned about the addition of a sixth and seventh judge here — which we'll get," he said, "But I am concerned about the seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth that will follow."

Levinson blamed the revised Judiciary Act of 1961 — under which pretrial hearings must be held in each Circuit Court case — as a major cause of rising cost in the administration of justice here.

The hearings aren't reducing the case load of judges and subsequent costs as the law intended, he said.

He asked his committee to recommend that the Oakland County Bar Association conduct a study to determine why this is so.

When committee members hesitated, Levinson withdrew his request, saying "We'll have to study this further ourselves."

Two Photographers Receive Awards

Two area photographers won awards at the annual convention this week of the Professional Photographers of Michigan in Lansing.

Dimitri LaZareff, 124 W. Huron St., was cited for submitting the best direct color photo and the best portrait of a woman. He placed third in total points in the photography show held in conjunction with the convention.

LaZareff was elected to a three-year term on the organization's board of directors.

Alice Seyles, 481 Dixie Hwy., Waterford Township, received a plaque for placing among the top ten contestants in total points. All six of her photo entries were accepted for competition and three earned ribbons.

Circuit Court to Try 2 in Gaming Case

Two Pontiac men charged with gambling and possession of gambling equipment were bound over to Circuit Court yesterday by Waterford Township Justice Patrick K. Daly following a preliminary examination.

Rene Campanaro, 29, of 294 E. Blvd. and Arthur Sabourin, 404 E. Blvd., were arrested March 11 for allegedly conducting a dice game behind Scrib's Bar and Restaurant, 130 S. Telegraph Road. Police said the two men had met $22 at the game.

Both stood mute at their Justice Court arraignment. The Circuit Court arraignment is scheduled April 2 at 1:30 p.m. Both are free on $500 bond.

Solinger Will Deliver 1,000th News Briefing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, holds his 1,000th briefing for newsmen today.

The genial aide to President Kennedy first briefed newsmen on Jan. 21, 1961, a day after the inauguration of the chief executive.

SCIENCE SYMBOL — New statue in Giessen, Germany, honors Wilhelm Konrad Roentgen, discoverer of X-rays. It represents rays shooting through a human bone.

Supreme Court Police Put '9 Men' at Ease

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the smallest police forces in the world operates quietly and efficiently in the nation's capital. It is a 33-man detail which stands round the clock security duty at the palatial U.S. Supreme Court building.

The President may have his White House police and congress its special Capitol Police force. But the Supreme Court is not jealous.

Chief Justice Earl Warren and his eight associates feel their men match any in professional caliber and service to the public.

In 1949 Congress elevated the Court's force from government building guards to regular police, with status similar to that of police at the Capitol and White House.

TAILOR QUALIFICATIONS

Since then, the qualifications of recruits have been tailored to meet those of most metropolitan police forces. The unit undergoes continual training in police tactics, with special emphasis on handling of visitors and crowds.

Crowds descend on the court, especially in the tourist season. Visitors from April to September total about 10,000 a day. The record is 17,000.

The court policeman's duty is not confined to the building interior.

"There's no fence around the grounds to prevent an officer from doing his duty if police action is needed or he sees a crime being committed on adjacent streets," Capt. Thomas W. Stominski, who took over command last October, said.

The average officer has taken extra training at the Washington, D. C., Metropolitan Police Academy. He can shoot from the hip, even lefthanded, or apply a judo hold.

He also is educated in such diverse matters as the law of evidence, firefighting, emergency first aid, flag etiquette, mental illnesses and human relations.

Most of the policeman's time is given to visitors, however.

He must greet with unruffled calm such questions as "how much does the building weigh?" (This was one of the few inquiries that went unanswered).

Some tourists arrive with consuming desire to see an alive justice at work on an opinion. These must be tactfully routed away from the justices' chambers.

NO JURY PRESENT

Many don't understand that almost all Supreme Court cases are appeals from lower courts — that in any event there is no jury, nor are convicted persons usually present.

A sizable detail of police are in the court room, some in plain clothes, when the justices are on the bench. But disturbances have been rare.

One of the officers' lesser duties is to see that visiting lawyers, who sit in the bar section, maintain their dignity.

Occasionally a careless attorney will find a note thrust into his hand reading, "please button your coat."

Women lawyers who make the mistake of wearing a hat in the barriester's section, also are corrected.

The mayor and his wife have begun Spanish lessons because many of the expected 1,000 visitors will be from South America.

The mayor is the organization's president and will take office during the Louisville meeting.

Why Not Ape Zoo Denizens?

British Need a Lesson in Central Heating

BIRMINGHAM, England (UPI) — Britons who have virtually vetoed central heating, first introduced centuries ago by Julius Caesar's invading Romans, pointed with pride recently to an $84,000 modern building — and allotted it to apes.

The latest addition to the Dudley Zoo here is the new ape house. People should have it so good.

Unlike 95 per cent of human residents in two England, the four gorillas, two orangutans and four chimpanzees who live in this pastel-painted pent, penthouse enjoy central heating.

The heating and overhead infrared unit keep the temperature at an even 65-70 degrees — nice weather for a jungle denizen.

The house was designed by architects who studied zoo houses in Basle, Zurich, Berlin, Hamburg and Antwerp. It cost 30,000 pounds ($84,000), or about three times what a better English home goes for these days.

Most of the people of Birmingham peer at the world outside their homes through tiny leaded panes. But the Dudley anthropoids have a view from an ar-m-pla-te glass picture window.

This bit of monkey business boasts ever modern convenience, including a brand-new kitchen unit where vitamin-enriched ape food is prepared.

If the food doesn't agree with a chimp, he can tatter off to a special hospital and welfare center where zoo staffers tend to his medicinal needs.

The huge picture window replaces the old, degrading bars which are standard equipment for most apes living in less luxurious captivity.

Outside the house, however, a mat and an electric fence separate the apes from their public. Zoo officials, not surprisingly, explained that this protection is meant primarily for the apes. It's true, they said, that a gorilla may try to lurch on a child.

But, on the other hand, children carry germs, and an ape who can swing through a jungle is not necessarily immune to such human diseases as bronchitis — a common ailment among the unculturally heated people of Birmingham.

Bray Over Spilled Milk to a Fellow in Need

MARSTON MORETTEYNE, England (UPI) — Milkman William Fradley got so many complaints about milk disappearing from doorsteps that he called in police.

3 Teens Learn It's Better to Be Cold Than Sorry

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — They who only stand and wait are better off than they who light a bonfire of newspapers to keep warm while waiting, three teen-age boys have learned.

Fire Prevention Bureau officials said the trio started the fire in an entryway to a temporarily closed school to warm their hands while waiting for their girls friends.

No flagrant violation was noted, but a juvenile court judge ordered each to write a 1,000-word theme on "The Danger of Fires."

They learned their waiting was all in vain, too. They were at the wrong bus stop to meet the girls.

HIG GUNS—Resembling long-range military pieces, these "big guns" are really loading tubes for passengers at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport. Ramps were raised to this "firing" position in preparation for a plane's arrival.

Hospital Nightgown Requires Patience

NEW YORK (UPI)—One article of men's wear that doesn't seem to have changed since the days of Florence Nightingale is a mortifying little garment the nurses call a "johnny coat," a sort of shorty nightgown.

It is white and probably made sackcloth to make the patient realize the helplessness of his predicament and the futility of flight should he change his mind about going through what the doctor calls "minor" surgery.

For the record, it has short, raglan sleeves and what is called a crew collar or maybe a T-square neckline.

There it drops any pretense at style unless one is fond of a plunging back neckline—one that plunges all the way.

It is fastened with two ties, one at the back of the neck, the other on the level of the shoulder blades.

From there it falls gracefully in what the ladies call an "A" line in an ever-increasing split which means the nether regions are never quite covered.

Embarrassingly, it is impossible to do one of these nighties without aid—the ties cannot be reached no matter how desperately one tries and in the end one is forced to slide backwards toward a waiting and unblushing nurse who ties things up.

FASHIONABLY SHORT — The length is more fashionably short than the new raincoats which come above the knees and are all right if you don't mind wet legs. These come well above the knees.

Wearing such an abomination with any degree of modesty is an art.

By taking tiny steps, staying out of drafts and reaching around and clutching it together behind you you can close most of the gaps.

This was in St. Clare's Hospital where they take injured rodeo riders and hockey players from nearby Madison Square Garden.

So next time you read of one of them in trouble give them your sympathy. They'll be in Johnny coats—and a lot of the players are better than six feet tall.

A few tips on what to take with you to a hospital: a mirror so you can lie back in bed and shave in luxury... several sets of drip dry pajamas which can be rinsed out overnight and substituted for Johnny coats... backless house slippers (mules) so you can reach down from the astronomical height of your bed and stick your toes into them without having to bend over... a washable bathrobe, since people spill a lot of things in hospitals... and leave your modesty behind.

Another facet of hospital life is the Ben Casey neckline, which is featured in many men's sweaters and sportswear.

They are believed to be worn by many surgeons but surgeons only stare in horror if you ask.

Nurses say some do and some don't.

No Students Badly Hurt as School Buses Crash

AMHERST, Va. (UPI)—Nearly 100 students escaped serious injury yesterday when a school bus ran into the rear of another school bus on a highway. Five children were hospitalized with cuts and bruises.

State trooper H. L. Newman said driver James Henry Hartless, 37, reported he slammed into the other bus because his brakes failed.

Not far from the intersection of the two highways, Newman said, the bus was traveling at 40 miles an hour when it struck the rear of the other bus. The impact was so great that the bus was thrown into the air and landed on its side. The driver, Newman said, was not hurt. The bus was carrying 95 children and two adults. Five children were hospitalized with cuts and bruises. The other 90 children escaped serious injury. The bus was carrying 95 children and two adults. Jagels is executive director of Catholic Social Services of Oakland County.

Blossoms Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP)—A capital parks official predicts Washington's famed cherry trees, delight of tourists and residents alike, will bloom between April 6 and 10.

George W. Robey, assistant chief horticulturist for the National Capital Park Service, said Wednesday the trees should burst into their annual pink and white glory about the time of the annual Cherry Blossom Festival scheduled for April 27.

Revere Church at Tarrytown

Washington Irving Site Under Park Protection

WASHINGTON — The Old Dutch Church of Sleepy Hollow, favorite haunt of the Headless Horseman, is now a national historic site.

The 281-year-old stone sanctuary stands in the wooded valley of Pocantico Creek just north of Tarrytown, N. Y. It has been placed under the protection of the National Park Service.

Virtually unchanged since the days when Ichabod Crane sang in its choir, the church was described by Washington Irving in "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow."

"It stands on a knoll surrounded by locust trees and lofty elms from among which its decent, white-washed walls show modestly, like Christian purity beaming through the shades of retirement. To look upon its grass-grown yard, where the sublimed sense to sleep so quietly, one would think that there at the dead might rest in peace."

But Ichabod Crane, the gawky schoolteacher who sought the hand of lovely Katrina, did not find the churchyard conducive to peace and quiet.

According to local legend, the Headless Horseman nightly tethered his horse in the graveyard. One dismal evening, Ichabod encountered the fearful apparition — or possibly Brons Hones, his rival suitor, dressed very much like the famed ghost.

Ichabod's fearful flight across the bridge into oblivion took place just a stone's throw south of the church.

The Sleepy Hollow Church, which probably was completed in 1685, is one of the oldest and most distinctively Dutch Colonial churches in the United States.

The main structure was put up by Frederick Philipse, a carpenter and lord of the Philipse Manor across from the church.

Windows were built seven feet apart, and the steeple was iron bars to guard against Indian attacks. The original bell, cast in Holland in 1685, and a narrow eight-spoke pulpit are still in use.

Junior Editors Quiz on THE MONA LISA

QUESTION: Why is the Mona Lisa so valuable?

ANSWER: The Mona Lisa is extremely valuable because it is so famous; it is considered the most celebrated picture in the world.

But why? Other pictures have been just as realistic and just as beautifully painted. But the Mona Lisa seems to appeal to everyone. Some say it is the sense of mystery given by her faint smile.

Others say that she seems to have serenity of spirit as if she had had troubles and yet had found the way to meet them. There are as many explanations as the number of people who like the Mona Lisa.

One is that in this portrait the eyes seem to be looking into your own as if Mona Lisa was more interested in you than in herself. The impression she gives is that she knows what you are thinking about and is sympathetic toward you, that she and you are sharing some marvelous secret.

Well, what's the secret? Perhaps that's why she's smiling. She knows your secret, but she is smiling serenely at you to tell you that whatever happens, she won't give your secret away.

FOR YOU TO DO: Look in a mirror and practice giving a Mona Lisa smile. The face in the mirror won't give away your secret either.

Missile Works at Sea Level

Weed Control Topic Tonight

SAN NICOLAS ISLAND, Calif. (AP) — The new medium-range Sergeant missile was tested 21 times high in the New Mexico desert but what the Army wanted to know was whether it would also work at sea level.

Wednesday, the Army said, worked fine.

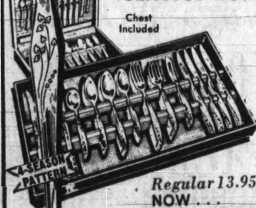

The Sergeant was lobbed 70 miles to a target on San Miguel Island in its first public firing at sea level. This was the second in a series of three test shots being conducted to see how the Sergeant withstands the corrosive salt-laden air and behaves in the more dense atmosphere at sea level. The New Mexico tests were conducted at White Sands 4,000 feet above sea level.

The Sergeant, a 34-foot single-stage missile that operates on solid fuel, already is being deployed in Europe. It has a range of about 75 miles and is capable of carrying nuclear warheads.

San Nicolas is 55 miles southwest of Los Angeles.

'State Bill Falls Short'

U.S. Rejects Child-Aid Plan

REVIEW ROAD PLANS — State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie (right) and Waterford Township Clerk James E. Seeterlin discuss plans for the widening to five lanes of M59 from Elizabeth Lake Road to Airport Road as they view the highway near Elizabeth Lake Road. The project is scheduled for completion next year.

Mackie 'to Quit' if New-Con OK'd

BY JIM DYGERT

John C. Mackie is so firmly convinced of the wrongness of the proposed new state constitution that he would refuse another term as Michigan's highway builder if the document is approved.

Mackie said last night that he

JFK to Tell of Talks With Six Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy reports to the nation tonight on the Costa Rica conference which produced a seven-nation agreement to speed economic development of the hemisphere and curb Cuba-based subversion.

Shortly before Kennedy left the Costa Rican capital of San Jose late Wednesday, he announced he would open a 6 p.m. Washington news conference with a statement on his Monday through Wednesday talks with the chief executives of Panama and the five Central American republics.

The President was certain to express satisfaction with the outcome of the San Jose meetings.

They brought him personal ac-

Olympics Can Mean $140 Million to State

DETROIT (UPI)—It's not only prestige at stake this fall when Detroit makes its bid for the 1968 Olympic games with the blessing of the United States Olympic Committee.

A University of Michigan report yesterday estimated that the Olympics would have an economic impact of $140 million dollars on Detroit and Michigan.

A preliminary report by the university's bureau of business research stated that figure could be the value of the preparation and staging of the games over the next five years.

However, Director Alfred W. Swinyard and Associate James N. Vedder said that the stimulus to Michigan's economy wouldn't be over when the games ended.

The report was requested by Walter A. Goodman, general manager of the Michigan State Fair Authority. The request was made before the renewed bidding Monday that turned out to be a lopsided victory for the Motor City.

The report arrives at a figure of $139.4 million by applying the "multiplier effect" and projecting the statistics from the 1956 games at Melbourne and the 1960 games at Rome to the Detroit situation.

TO SPEND $87 MILLION

Swinyard says that $40.1 million will be spent for Olympic facilities and $47 million will be "consumption expenditures" spent directly or indirectly on the games.

This means that a total of $87.1 million will be spent, of which only $22.5 million will go directly into local business places for items like hotels and motels and food and drink.

However, by using the "multiplier effect" the report gets the $140-million figure.

Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanaugh yesterday sent Detroit's formal application for the 1968 Olympics to the International Olympic Committee in Lausanne, Switzerland.

Bidding against Detroit will be Lyons, France, Buenos Aires and Mexico City with Lyons and Detroit the two serious candidates.

Welfare Chief Disagrees With Romney Stand

Michigan Republicans Are Losing Ground in Washington Battle

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney today declared, in a fighting mood, that he will fight a federal contention that the ADCU bill passed by the Michigan Legislature is illegal.

LANSING (AP) — A wire from Washington saying the federal government won't allow benefits under the ADCU bill asked for and pressured through the Michigan legislature by Gov. Romney was the latest item in the political battle over the issue today.

The telegram, from Anthony Celebrezze, secretary of health, education and welfare, told Romney he bill as now written does not conform with federal standards.

Republicans have been carrying on a long distance fight with Democrats in Washington, claiming the bill is legal.

The measure would bring Michigan under the federal program for aid to dependent children of the unemployed.

Celebrezze said in his telegram that the Michigan bill would not make the state eligible for federal funds because it excludes persons who had not had coverage under a state unemployment insurance law since Jan. 1, 1958.

"The general counsel," he said, "believes this classification is arbitrary and cannot be accepted as the valid definition for unemployment."

Sen. Philip Rahal, D-Iron Mountain, leader of the Democrats trying to liberalize the bill, asked at a Senate session last night that the measure be pulled back from the governor's desk and either be amended or substituted.

COLD IS FORECAST

Temperatures will drop to 25 tonight and rise to 42 tomorrow.

The low recording prior to 8 a.m. was 26, and at 1 p.m. the reading was 29.

January and February were fierce," said Charles F. Brown, manager of the local division. "They averaged 15 to 20 per cent colder than a year ago."

Consumers' records show it has been 45 years since this part of the country had it so cold.

Since the turn of the century, only the winters of 1904-05 and 1917-18 brought lower overall temperatures to the Great Lakes Region.

FROSTY STATISTICS

In January, The Press weather station recorded 10 days of zero or below zero weather this year compared to only four last year.

There were seven below-zero days in February, compared to one a year ago.

A breakdown for this winter shows 12 days of 1 through -5 degrees, one day of 6 through -10 weather and two days when it was colder than 10 below. The thermometer dropped to an even zero on four days.

In January only six days saw temperatures rise above the freezing mark, and only eight such days were recorded in February.

SPRING'S HERE? — Unlikely as it seems, this snowman is standing on its head to celebrate the end of winter and first day of spring. Sitting atop the crazy, mixed-up snowman is 4-year-old Elizabeth Michaud, in Waterville, Maine.

Spring Is Waylaid (You Get the Drift?)

Hey, it's Spring! Somebody tell the weatherman. The frigid blasts of one of the coldest winters in recent years were still turning on when spring officially arrived at 3:20 this morning.

Since Dec. 1, the thermometer in Pontiac has dropped to zero or below on 19 days. In the same period a year ago, only seven days got that cold.

A quick check of daily weather statistics reveals that winter a year ago heaped about 38 inches of snow on Pontiac.

This winter, snowfall was a little lighter, totaling 28 inches, but the season's low temperature was 15 below zero.

Last year the low was a more normal, 8 below zero.

According to Consumers Power Co., which keeps exact temperature records during the winter, Pontiac residents have just passed through a winter that was 10 per cent colder than normal.

Temperatures will drop to 25 tonight and rise to 42 tomorrow.

Begin New Building at Mall and Eugene J. Arnfield, own the new building.

Steel for the new building has been rising since Monday. One is the anticipated completion date. Designed by Detroit architect

The operation of the new building will be by the A.A.W. Management Co., which has selected R. L. Witbold as resident manager. He also is manager of The Mall.

The new bank branch, to be managed by L. Jay Clark, will cover 2,480 square feet at the south end of The Mall.

It will have special banking hours, to be announced later, as well as drive-in service, safe deposit boxes and a night depository.

Owners and major tenant officials yesterday formally opened construction of a two-story office and professional building at the Pontiac Mall.

The Community National Bank will be the initial tenants. The branch, the 14th for the Pontiac branch, will occupy quarters on the first floor early in July.

Lengthy Wait for Trial Should Be Remedied

One of our constitutional guarantees as citizens is the right to a speedy and public trial.

We do not feel that a one-year wait is "speedy" enough. One year is the average length of time before a civil case is heard in our circuit courts.

Criminal cases are handled more quickly, with preference given to cases in which the accused is not free on bond. Six months is the estimated wait on criminal cases in which parties are free on bond.

We feel justice delayed that long is inferior justice.

Oakland County's growth in the last few years has been rapid. Our court system has grown, too, from three circuit judges to five. It appears that the judicial growth has not kept pace with the increase in the number of cases.

Our five judges have called for relief. Bills have been introduced in the State Legislature to create two additional judgeships to help carry the load. The Oakland County Bar Association favors the move.

This is legislation that is extremely important to our residents. We hope it will receive attention and speedy action to repair an imbalance in the scales of local justice.

Federal Commission Fair in AT&T Denial

It was refreshing to note a sense of fairness toward business in the decision returned by the Federal Communications Commission when it turned down AT&T on its request for higher rates.

The hooker in the woodpile was the fact that the request was discriminatory because it lowered the rates for service to the Federal Government while raising charges to private business.

If the Administration is so bent on asking industries like steel to hold the line on prices, it seems only fair in the matter of AT&T. The commission acted wisely.

Will New Strike Zone Benefit Pitchers?

It's probably too early to tell, but the Grapefruit League baseball games so far haven't provided convincing evidence that the new strike zone is the boon to pitchers it was intended to be.

The ball is still going out of the park with almost monotonous regularity (for everyone except our Tigers), and bases on balls are still the occupational hazards they always have been.

In what was supposed to be charitable concern for the hurriers, baseball's rules committee in January voted unanimously to increase the batter's strike zone vertically by nearly a foot.

It actually was a move back to the pre-1950 zone extending from the top of the shoulders to the knees instead of from the armpits to the top of the knees. In the National League it was only half a change; umpires in the senior circuit have long been accustomed to giving pitchers the knee strike.

CAL HUBBARD, supervisor of the American League umpiring staff and a member of the nine-man rules committee, says the change could make as much as 12 inches difference. HUBBARD is in Florida now checking on AL umpires' compliance with the new zone rule.

Most pitchers, in any event, try to keep between the knees and the hips. They say umpires actually only call strikes between the thighs and the solar plexus. And they suspect that the new rule may be treated like a law that's on the books but has no observance in police courts.

Plenty of hurriers, particularly the speed merchants, will rear back and fire that high, hard one. But, in general, the high strike zone is passed over by the pitchers. It's just the kind of pitch that may turn out to be not a strike at all but over the fence for a home run.

At any rate, baseball talk is good. It's a harbinger of spring.

Batter Race On In Press Rally of Wits Win's on Tally of Hits

"Play Ball!"
The Press' 16th annual baseball contest begins today.

TAKE ME OUT TO THE BALL GAME

All fans and fanettes, except employees of this newspaper or the immediate members of their families, are eligible to play.

This year's event is a double-header. That is, the usual price of $250 in U.S. Savings bonds is doubled—with a $500 bond now awaiting the winner.

The ground rules are simple. All you have to do is pick a player who, having batted at least 25 times, will lead the American League on the night of Friday, May 10, and predict his batting average at that time.

Note your prediction on a postal card, or similar-size card, with name and address, and send to this column. Each entry must be on a separate card.

All entries must be received by noon on Monday, April 8.

To date $3,750 have been awarded to contest winners, with the ladies, running true to form, winning up with the major share of the money.

Last year's winner was Mrs. Geneva Howe of Rochester, with her 357 call on Al Kaline's actual .338.

Good luck and good picking.

Recently there appeared here the report of a young lady who had written the occupant of 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., Washington, D.C. and had had back a reply with a photograph from JFK.

But from Rochester comes word that 12-year-old

Daniel Harriman wrote her one better. Not only did he write the President, but dashed off a note to Queen Elizabeth

c/o Buckingham Palace, London, requesting picture and "a history of England."

Well, our writer batted .500—doing all right on the domestic front, sort of striking out on the overseas correspondence. He did hear, however, from a Lady in Waiting that she would have to await the return of Her Majesty, who was absent, to grant his request.

Anyway, now we know what Ladies in Waiting do... They wait for the Queen to come home.

Wildowl bulletin just in from Mrs. William Verner of Lakeville, that a flock of 18 Canada geese just landed on the ice of Lakeville Lake. This is contrary to all established goose behavior—since we've never heard of one setting down on ice, seem to get cold feet over the idea.

Looks as though we'll have to give the flock a goose-egg for tactical procedure, or just assume it was a forced landing.

David Lawrence Asks:

Is U.S. Halting Latin Red Export?

WASHINGTON—The United States Government spends billions of dollars to get intelligence information from foreign countries.

It has concentrated particularly in trying to find out how much subversion and "infiltration" by the Communists have been going on in Central and South America.

At last the facts are coming out authoritatively. John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, now has told Congress what Castro is doing to "export" communism from Cuba.

President Kennedy has said that it is the firm intention of the United States to prevent such "export" from becoming effective. Mr. McCone said in his statement to a House committee:

"The public pronouncements of Cuban leaders, the daily record of events in Latin America and reports from our intelligence sources within Communist and other left-extremist elements throughout this hemisphere all agree on one salient conclusion:

"That Fidel Castro is spurring and supporting the efforts of Communists and other revolutionary elements to overthrow and seize control of the governments in Latin America."

SUPPLIES INSPIRATION

"Cuban support takes many different forms, but its main thrust is in the supply of the inspiration, the guidance, the training, the communications and technical assistance that revolutionary groups in Latin America require."

"Cuba has given guerrilla training to more nationals from Venezuela than from any other country. Our best estimate now is that more than 200 Venezuelans received such training in 1962."

"Leaders of the militant groups in Venezuela, Brazil and Peru who have gone to Cuba seeking assistance have been told by the Cuban leaders that Cuba is willing to furnish funds, training and technical assistance."

Members of Congress are wondering whether, in view of these authentic reports, the United States is fulfilling its promise to prevent the "export" of communism and the sending of Soviet-trained personnel from Cuba to infiltrate the governments and subvert the economy of the various countries in Latin America.

Testifying recently before a House subcommittee on Foreign Affairs, Edwin M. Martin, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, made the following statement when asked about the failure of policy of the United States:

"I would suppose lastly we are determined in the spirit of the Punta del Este resolution which declared that a Communist regime is incompatible with the inter-American system, to see to it, in association if possible, but alone if it becomes necessary, that no further Communist regimes get established in Latin America."

Rep. Gross, Republican, of Iowa then engaged in this colloquy with Mr. Martin:

"Mr. Gross: When you have no timetable for the surgery necessary to remove this cancer?"

"Mr. Martin: No, sir."

"Mr. Gross: Aren't you disturbed by the fact that the cancer can overcome the Central and South American area before the government falls in Cuba?"

"Mr. Martin: No; I think we feel we are making progress in this regard. It is a matter of concern, but we think the operation might well worsen the condition of the patient and it would also raise global problems which would worsen the position of the United States from a world security standpoint."

Bob Considine Says:

Red Cross Assists Many in Humanitarian Endeavor

By BOB CONSIDINE
NEW YORK—There is hardly a field of humanitarian endeavor that is not touched or directly affected by the Red Cross.

We see its gentle hand at every catastrophe, see it serving men of all shades in all lands at all times. Its quality of mercy is never strained.

In recent years, its image has undergone changes which may have surprised those who formed it in a century ago just a century ago.

Today its people are elche against the backdrop of epidemic and disaster, nurseries and homes for the aged.

It grew out of a startling philosophy that had been foggy taking shape in Europe for centuries before: the notion that a conqueror need not necessarily turn his back on a wounded victim, or kill him.

"Your majesty, how shall we treat the enemy wounded?" Louis XV was asked.

"But like our own," the king answered.

In 1743, as the armies of the Earl of Stair and the Duc de Noailles prepared to do battle at Dettingen, the matter of sanctuary—later the special province of the Red Cross—was brought up by the Englishman.

His doctor, the great Sir John Pringle, wrote about it later:

"It has been the custom until now to remove the sick on the approach of the enemy to a place of safety, a great distance from the camp. Many perished as a result before there was time even to give them treatment."

But the Earl of Stair, my illustrious chief, who was filled with pity for these unfortunate, proposed to the Duc de Noailles (whose humane feelings were well known to him), whilst the army was in camp at Aschaffenburg, that the hospitals of both sides should be considered as sanctuaries and be mutually protected. This proposal was accepted at once by the French general, who kept his word."

On Dec. 2, 1799, the French general Clement, besieged in Coni, wrote to Prince Liechtenstein: "I have had black flags placed on all the hospitals and infirmaries of the town and I call on your humane feeling to give due respect to them..."

Florence Nightingale walked into the pages of history because a correspondent of the London Times wrote so vividly of the pitiable condition of the wounded and sick of the Crimean War that a wave of feeling for the war-wounded of both sides swept England.

U.S. Needs Cold War News Policy

By PETER EDSON
WASHINGTON (NEA)—"News Management!" now has become a kind of derivative political slogan or cuss word which is tossed at the Kennedy administration like the other catch-all phrases of government spending, deficit financing, antibusiness policy, military muzzling and the no-win policy.

Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester is credited with recent revival of the "news management" term, although its origin is attributed to New York Times correspondent

Edward R. Roybal, who in 1955, criticizing Eisenhower policy, said: "The current implication is that the government now has a hard and fast news management or censorship policy which is carrying out to suppress news the public ought to know."

It is now suggested, however, that a more accurate definition would be that the administration has no information policy at all. It is operating on a day-to-day, crisis-to-crisis basis of improvisation that has no plan at all.

After the Bay of Pigs fiasco, an Office of Emergency Planning censorship code prepared during the Eisenhower administration was dragged out and given a look. It was found to be completely inadequate to deal with existing or future emergencies, but little has been done to bring it up-to-date.

The sad attempts to manage the news during the second Cuba crisis were the result of

Voice of the People:

'Michigan Certainly Needs Capital Punishment Now'

If there was ever a time that Michigan needed capital punishment it certainly is now.

But as long as we don't seem to get it, let's put these "murderers" away for life in solitary confinement on bread and water.

Let's have a capital punishment ballot on our next election.

What Voters Think About Constitution

The following covers my very serious reservations with respect to the education and taxation provisions of the proposed constitution. Historically dedicated exclusively for schools, the Primary School Interest Fund ($60 million annually) vanishes completely in the new document.

Further, two cents of the sales tax under our present constitution is allocated solely for local school and teacher retirement. Under the new proposal, higher education is included as being eligible for funds from this currently dedicated source.

In effect, the public schools will have to compete with higher education for appropriation; the dedicated Primary Fund is lost; and schools must place reliance for appropriations upon the legislature.

I urge a no vote on the proposed constitution.

Carl Brablie
Superintendent of Schools
Roseville

Too long a term of office is a danger to all constitutional limitations. We know of no limitations on the number of terms for the governor to compensate for the proposed longer term of office. The appointive power and shortened ballot makes the governor all-powerful. He will be in fluenced only by the great pressure groups.

No wonder the educators favor the new constitution. The Michigan Education Association is said by some of our legislators to be more powerful than the requirement that officials report to the public their expense accounts.

Vincent Richmond,
Vice President
Independent Farmers of Marcellus, Michigan

The new constitution in its present form is a mixture of the good and the evil. It is wise to know so much that is wrong to get so little that is good? Let's not let our democracy be undermined. Keep democracy and you can't have it.

Perhaps "Concerned" is bothered about Russian churchmen touring the U.S. What kind of twisted thinking is it that can turn an invitation from the National Council of Churches into a trick of the Communists when the Communists had nothing to do with it?

I find this attitude of "Concerned" and the reception of the Russian churchmen deplorable. This is the treatment we, supposedly a Christian nation, give fellow Christians who are struggling against the greatest threat the Church has ever faced.

Let's take the new constitution. It will not make any difference. What did the old one ever mean, or, in fact, the one referred to as the American Constitution? They refer to a lot of laws, etc., but do not say who does and who does not have to abide by them. The proposed new constitution is creating a lot of publicity, so let's vote for it. It won't cost us much more now and George is a good fellow, so let's help.

Varied Sentences Concern Another

I agree with "Troubled Negro" Why should Sheldy Topp be given a term at Jackson Prison while Douglas Godfrey is sent to the state hospital?

I am convinced that here in the U.S. you have to be white, have a $40,000 home and know the right people to get off the rap. Is not one murder just as great and bad as another? The only difference is that the one boy was 15 and white and the other was Negro and 17. Something should be done about the whole dirty mess.

I am very proud to be a Negro and all others have a lot to be proud of, too.

hasty decisions by top public affairs officers in the White House, State and Defense Departments. That they backfired is no surprise.

Examples are the 12-point directive on what not to print, the requirement that officials report their talks with reporters, first refusals to let reporters go aboard the blockade ships or visit Guantanamo, the final failure to release aerial survey photos of Cuba during the intelligence gap in early October.

But what is now considered far more important than these is the fact that if the United States got into a third Cuban crisis, which is entirely possible, there would be no good news management policy to guide either government or press.

The House government information subcommittee under Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., has been trying to do something about this situation for eight years. It hasn't had too much success, but it is making another try in current hearings.

Discussion by a panel of top newspaper publishers, editors and broadcasting officials was intended to find out what kind of news management controls the news media would accept in a hypothetical Cuba III situation or in any other old war crisis that might develop.

This is a follow-up on President Kennedy's request to the American Society of Newspaper Editors two years ago when they were asked to get together and figure out an acceptable voluntary security censorship. The editors would have none of it.

Family Physician No Quaint Conception

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY

"At age 60," R.M.E. reports, "I finally broke down and tried your 'candy' (Ca & D, that is calcium and vitamin D). For years, burritis and aching joints had bothered me. I feel young again. Burritis and joint aches all gone. Now not a twinge. Many thanks." (R.M.E.)

DR. BRADY

Now I wonder how long before R.E.M. will have his burritis and aching joints again.

It will depend on whether he regards Ca & D as medicine or nutrition. If he regards it as medicine, he will probably discontinue it, lest he get the habit. If he can get it through his head that it is nutrition, he may keep on taking it indefinitely and so prevent recurrence of the trouble.

He may not need the full daily ration I advise people with such trouble to take, especially if he gets an adequate daily ration of calcium from milk, not less than 1 1/4 pints, better a quart of milk every day, and his daily ration of vitamin D from exposure to sunlight.

The vitamin D is essential for normal utilization of calcium.

I am sure the full daily ration of vitamin D and calcium I advise people with R.M.E.'s trouble

ble to take can do no harm in any circumstance. If I were not sure, I wouldn't recommend it. The amount of calcium and D one gets in six calcium capsules daily is not more than a healthy person should get from food and sufficient exposure to sunlight.

Readers of this column should be well aware of my dim view of medicines, new or old, for chronic ailments or for the every-day complaints of people who "try" one nostrum after another until insidiously increasing disability compels them to seek medical or hospital care.

ERRATIC COURSE

Whenever I speak of the popular habit of "trying" the latest or most extravagantly touted medicines for what they think ails them, I hear some cogent reasons why these people follow such an erratic course rather than follow the family physician's advice.

Family physician? A quaint conception, they say. Furthermore, where can they find family physicians today?

There, I interrupt to say they can't see the wood for the trees. Like typical Yankee wisecracks, when they want medical advice they don't consult "ordinary" doctors, general practitioners.

They go straight to a specialist or perhaps the best advertised "Clinic," where everything is impressively scientific and business-like, especially the superfluous items tacked on the bill.

Once having "gone through" family has one of the same ad-mirable character.

Both families live in Los Angeles, where trick specialists and "clinic" racketeers far outnumber general practitioners, but they consult only the specialists the family physician recommends, if or when he wants the counsel of a specialist.

Thus both families are entirely satisfied with their medical care, and that's the way it should be with all Americans.

Signed letters, no more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, but disease diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if it is accompanied by a self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pacific Press, Pontiac, Michigan (Copyright, 1963)

If a person weighed 120 pounds on earth, it is estimated he would weigh 19 pounds on the moon, 102 on Venus and 217 on Jupiter.

Some of these people have a valid complaint about physicians today. They don't complain about the physicians' fees, but they do complain about the outrageous prices they have to pay for the medicines physicians prescribe.

Perhaps most of the doctors who prescribe these would rather not do so, but, medicine being a business and not a profession, they feel they must.

As one trick specialist explained, if he doesn't give patients a shot of penicillin or a prescription for the latest wonder drug, the patients will decide he is behind the times and transfer their patronage to an eager beaver competitor who cheerfully shoots 'em full of whatever they want.

One doesn't get far telling these smartypants custom-ers they should have a family physician and leave the treatment entirely to the physician's judgment.

If one is entirely honest, it is not difficult to trust one's physician fully.

My daughter's family has a family physician who has gained my admiration although I have never met him. My secretary's

Cuba Cardinal Rites Tomorrow

HAVANA (UPI) — Leaders of the Roman Catholic Church in Cuba gathered today for the burial of Manuel Cardinal Arceaga y Betancourt, archbishop of Havana who once was denounced by the Cuban government.

The 82-year-old prelate, Cuba's first and only cardinal, died yesterday at the San Rafael Hospital for the Aged where he had been a patient for more than a year after being moved there from refuge in the Argentine embassy.

All Cuba's bishops were expected to attend mass today at Havana cathedral, where the cardinal's body was to lie in state before burial this afternoon in Colon Cemetery.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., in a report to constituents, noted today that applications are being received for the domestic peace corps, although Congress hasn't passed the youth employment program. He said it reminds him of that ditty:

"The other day upon the stair,
I saw a man who wasn't there.
He wasn't there again today.
I hope that man will go away."

PARIS (AP) — Adlai Stevenson, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, arrived in Paris today at the start of a European tour. Stevenson said he will give a lecture at the NATO defense college and confer with French and American officials.

He will see Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville tomorrow and will meet Information Minister Alain Peyrefitte. He will go to London Wednesday and will also visit Brussels, Bonn, West Berlin, Madrid and Rabat.

California Bill Tightens College Speaker Reins

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — A bill was introduced in the assembly yesterday which would make it a felony for any person to commit a subversive act on public school campuses.

It was viewed as a means of closer control over speakers on campuses of the state colleges and University of California.

To Unveil Controversial Foreign Aid Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—Total U.S. aid since World War II will climb above the $100 billion mark this year.

How well the giant overseas assistance program promotes U.S. security—and how it could be re-fashioned to do a better job—is the subject of a controversial report by a presidential advisory committee headed by Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

Aides said a final version of the Clay report was made available early postwar years when the President Kennedy today. The Marshall Plan focused on Europe; report is expected to be made a recovery.

Figures furnished by the Agency for International Development, which administers U.S. aid, list $97.7 billion worth of military and economic help to 111 countries and foreign groups from July 1, 1945 through mid-1962.

Though detailed statistics for the current fiscal year have not yet been worked out, the over-all Turkey since the end of the Marshall Plan in 1952 than to West. In 1962, India was the biggest U.S. aid recipient with $638 million, bringing her over-all total to nearly $4 billion. Pakistan was next highest in 1962 with $439 million, making a $1.9 billion total. Turkey got $356 million for a $3.9 billion total while Korea received $345 million, pushing her total to $5.4 billion.

France, with $51 million, and Britain, with $25 million are still listed as U.S. aid receivers in 1962—but this is all in arms assistance connected with the common North Atlantic defense effort.

Caesarean Births Shown on BBC

London (AP)—Films of births by Caesarean section were shown on British television Wednesday night in full detail. Squeamish viewers were advised in advance not to watch, and the BBC said it received no complaints.

The operations, one for a normal head-first delivery and the other for a breech-positioned baby, were filmed in January at a London hospital.

They showed the mother's abdomen opened and the baby being extracted by the surgeon, a woman. She spoke through a portable chest microphone as she worked, explaining the operation.

Pearls should be restringed, preferably on silk thread, every 18 months.

The American aid program also has used a wider variety of measures in recent years, ranging from food-for-peace disposals of

'Grab Initiative From Soviets'

Ex-Bonn VIP Says Time Ripe for U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano is understood to have told two congressional committees that the time is ripe for the United States to grab the initiative from the Soviet Union on all issues—including Berlin.

He also told them yesterday: —That Washington's concern over the recently concluded Franco-German treaty is unfounded.

—That French President Charles de Gaulle has raised some points which should not be dismissed easily, even though he was wrong in vetoing membership for Great Britain in the European Common Market.

Von Brentano, majority leader of the German Bundestag and one of the most influential political figures in Bonn, outlined his views in meetings with the House Foreign Affairs Committee and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

He also had a talk with former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, whose outspoken speeches sharply criticizing Britain and de Gaulle's policy have baffled Europe.

Acheson, sources close to Brentano said, was one of those who had misgivings about the de Gaulle-Adenauer pact which he considered an attempt by France and Germany to dominate Europe and exclude Great Britain and the United States from European affairs.

Brentano, informants said, was extremely satisfied with his talks with Acheson and believes he dispelled Acheson's concern.

Canadian Totem Stands in Hall in Mexico City

VICTORIA, B. C. (U.P.)—The last totem executed by one of the last of British Columbia's great carvers stands near the Halls of Montezuma in Chapultepec Park, Mexico City.

In the 37-foot Kwakiutl Indian pole, Chief Mungo Martin traced cultural parallels between his people and the natives of Mexico.

The four main figures are the crests of clans of four Kwakiutl tribes to which Chief Martin was related — Kkunkwukwigi, the Thunderbird; Khassa, the Sea Otter; Sissutl, the Double-Headed Serpent, and Tseakami, the Man of the Cedar Tree.

Both the Thunderbird and the Double-Headed Serpent have counterparts in Mexican art and tradition.

Says New Document Will Create Confusion

GRAND RAPIDS (UP) — A United Auto Workers union official, disagreeing with Gov. George Romney, says the proposed new state constitution will not reverse the concentration of power in the federal government. Leonard Woodcock, a UAW vice president and Democratic candidate for re-election to the Wayne State University Board of Governors, believes the new document "will create confusion because it mixes up the powers of the executive and legislative branches of state government."

Woodcock campaigned in Kent County yesterday, telling audiences that the new constitution "would strain Michigan's resources" if adopted on April 1.

"There is no way to raise added revenues which we'll need in the years ahead. We can't reverse the trend without more financing at home," Woodcock said.

He said he was finding "an awareness" of the forthcoming constitutional election in his travels across the state. "The interest is building up but peoples' understanding of the proposal is another question," he added.

The Grosse Pointe resident who is seeking a six-year term to the Wayne board said he hopes to retain his post because "I'm deeply convinced that education is vital to the jobs in Michigan."

Poultryman Scrambles to Reach Golden Moment

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — We all have our golden moments. Harold Weisberg's golden moment came this week when he arrived at the U.S. Capitol with 700 dozen double-yolk eggs in tow.

Somewhere in this great land of ours there may be a few fabled, clutched types who would not appreciate Weisberg's accomplishment. They might regard his moment as more white and yellow than golden.

Well, I am here to tell you that gathering 700 double-yolk eggs is an impressive feat. You can't just walk out to the henhouse and pick up a double-yolk egg anytime you want one.

A double-yolk egg is a thousand-to-one shot. In order to find 700 dozen, members of the Northeast Poultry Council (NEPPCO) had to inspect something on the magnitude of 270 million eggs, give or take a couple of omelets.

That figure represents a full week's production by 73 million hens. If all of those eggs were laid end-to-end, it would be rather unusual because hens don't ordinarily lay eggs that way.

WEST
Weisberg, a Hyattstown, Md.,

egg farmer, dreamed up the idea of collecting the double Weisberg asked me when the ceremony was over.

"The schedule was scrambled but it panned out pretty well," I replied, throwing myself into the spirit of the occasion.

NOT CHERISHED

Despite its rarity, an egg with a bonus yolk is not cherished by commercial producers. Weisberg explained that some double-yolkers are twice the size of ordinary eggs. This makes them harder to handle and breakage is rampant.

Poultry geneticists are trying to "breed out" the double-yolk trait in commercial flocks, he said.

I asked if double-yolk eggs jolters and taking them to the capitol for presentation to members of Congress.

In gratitude, the council appointed him "vice chairman of the Coordinating Committee for Congressional Double-Yolk Egg Promotion in Support of Egg Month," which is March.

The vice chairman and his fellow coordinators arranged to haul the eggs up Capitol Hill on a tractor-drawn wagon with a banner reading "double-yolk energy for Congress." The "NEPPCO poultry princess" was on hand for extra decoration.

The program was somewhat hampered by rainy weather, but egg men are not easily discouraged.

"How do you think we did?" ever produce twin chickens. Weisberg said twins might be conceived but they couldn't hatch. That is of no concern to

NEPPCO, he added, because all of its eggs are infertile. "A rooster is totally unnecessary in egg production," he said. "I don't have a rooster on my entire farm."

Ex-Korea Chief Appeals to JFK

Wants Junta to Honor Pledge on Ending Rule

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Former Premier Huh Chung appealed to President Kennedy today to ask South Korea's military rulers to honor their promise to end South Korea's military rule this summer.

Huh's appeal, in an interview, was part of a campaign by civilian political leaders against the proposal by Gen. Chung Hee Park, chief of the military junta, to prolong military rule for another four years.

Despite a new ban on political activity, the junta refrained from a forceful crackdown that might provoke a violent reaction.

Huh, leader of a major civilian political party, urged Kennedy to ask Park to fulfill a pledge he made in Washington in November 1961, that the military regime would transfer power to civilians in the summer of 1963.

The State Department has refused to comment on developments in South Korea since Park on Saturday proposed a plebiscite to keep the junta in office. Huh said he had tried to see U. S. Ambassador Samuel Berger on Monday to get clarification of the American position but was told Berger was busy.

Washington has made plain, however, that it wants a return to a civilian administration through national elections as promised by Park. The United States has poured $3.5 billion in aid into South Korea.

Today Huh and 300 supporters barricaded themselves in a downtown meeting hall and for an hour resisted police attempts to clear them out. A loudspeaker carried speeches against the military regime to thousands of persons outside the building.

More than 100 national policemen finally broke into the meeting hall. The demonstrators agreed to leave peacefully and not to march through the streets after the police agreed not to arrest them.

Jackie to Get Gold Charms

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy is getting a gold charm bracelet from President Francisco Orlich of Costa Rica.

The host at a conference of President Kennedy's chief executives of six Central American nations, Orlich gave the bracelet to Kennedy for her yesterday. The charms are ancient Indian work.

Kennedy gave Orlich a leather portfolio. This contained a photograph of Kennedy on one side and a letter to Orlich on the other.

Modern Missile Maker Drives Ancient Auto

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Horace Lowers, chief engineer at the Army Missile Command, works daily with modern tools to build the fastest, most modern missiles.

He drives to and from work in a 35-year-old Buick which he recently acquired by trading in a 34-year-old Dodge.
