ABMs Incredible Error, Says Senate Foes

ONE COLOR

Adviser

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, a key scientific adviser to Senate opponents of the Safeguard defense program, says the Nixon administration's decision to build the antiballistic missile system is an incredible mistake.

"Security just can't be achieved that way," physicist Lapp said amplifying his challenge to the proposed Safeguard ABM system.

* * *

"It seems to me that this whole business is incredible. What we're doing is building up forces that will provoke the Russians into building up unlimited forces."

ADMINISTRATION'S STAND

The administration reasons that American nuclear missiles must be protected from a Russian nuclear "first strike."

The position was laid out by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, who told Congress of reports the Soviets will deploy a new missile known as the SS9, capable of carrying one big warhead or three smaller ones.

In a report for senators opposing Safeguard, Lapp said the SS9 is not intended to give first-strike capability because even a large-scale attack would not guarantee the Soviets against retaliation.

* * *

By 1976, he said, the SS9 probably would be able to deliver 1,000 five-megaton warheads — but 4,000 would be needed to neutralize American missiles.

* * *

Lapp says the Pentagon is guilty of incredible error in "assuming that the Russians would assume that no United States missiles would be fired immediately after it was learned a nuclear attack was under way."

State Board Hits Milliken, Asks Fast OK of School Aid

LANSING (AP) — "There is a time to study and a time to act," the State Education Board told Gov. William Milliken yesterday.

"Surely this is the time to act," the board advised the governor tartly on the school aid issue.

* * *

The board was referring to Milliken's call for a new study commission on education. It said this ignores a study completed just a year ago at the cost of $200,000 — "the most comprehensive ever made."

The board declared itself "terribly concerned" that unless an adequate school aid appropriation bill is passed immediately by the Legislature "the stage will be set for a large number of teacher strikes this fall."

'MANY WON'T OPEN'

"Unless the Legislature moves rapidly on the state aid act, many schools are not going to open this fall," the board warned.

Commenting today on the education board warning on school strikes, Milliken said: "I think we'll have our share of them in the fall. I don't think it's fair or accurate to say we'll have a rash of them."

Sander Levin, minority leader in the Michigan Senate, said the Legislature must act soon.

Referring to proposals in Lansing to shift the taxation burden from property tax, Levin said: "We're talking about reform, a shift of the tax burden, not necessarily higher taxes in this area."

The education board urged legislative passage by May 1 plus at least $55 million more than the $85 million suggested for state school aid by the governor.

Milliken said he agreed the Legislature should move as soon as possible on a school aid bill. But he said the Legislature will have to move on the basis of his $85-million budget figure.

"I don't believe my budget is inadequate," he said. "Any more expectations of more money would be false."

Any basic reform in school financing, Milliken said, will have to await the report of his own study commission.

Floodwaters Threaten Dam At New Ulm, Minn.

Flood Fighters Give Up Area to Surging Big Sioux River

By The Associated Press

Flood fighters surrendered an 18-square-block area of Sioux Falls, S.D., to the surging Big Sioux River today after a night-long battle to plug a 100-foot break in a dike in the city's Riverside district.

"We dumped in more than 100 tons of rock, we threw in car bodies and anything else we could lay our hands on," said Joe Vanderloo, Minnehaha County Civil Defense director, shortly before daybreak. "But it was undermining faster than we could fill it up."

* * *

The area, which contains a meat packing plant, the Sioux Falls stockyards and about 50 homes, was evacuated and sealed off. Waters were expected to reach a depth of 25 to 30 feet before cresting.

Vanderloo said pressure of the rising river — swollen by the melting of heavy winter snows — washed away boulders in front of the dike early last evening, and the dike itself went out soon after.

The Big Sioux lapped at levees 90 miles downstream where she flows into the Missouri at Sioux City, Iowa, and residents of Cherokee, Iowa waited in emergency shelters for the Little Sioux to crest.

Twenty miles upstream from the mouth of the Big Sioux six-foot waves threatened to topple a dike at Akron, Iowa.

* * *

"It's like looking at the ocean," said one worker. "You look west and all you see is water."

In flood-hit Sioux City, Iowa, area police were on 12-hour watches after a threat was received to blow up the dike and let flood waters inundate the northern area of the city.

TOWN EVACUATED

Across the river, the population of 800 in North Sioux City, S.D. was evacuated to Sioux City and put up for the night in Red Cross emergency quarters.

Serious flooding occurred along the Des Moines River in Minnesota and northern Iowa.

About 10 homes were evacuated in Estherville in north central Iowa on the west fork of the Des Moines, which also hit in southwestern Minnesota at Windom, cutting off the northwest corner of the town of 3,691 persons.

Downstream at Jackson, Minn., all roads but one were closed.

Warrants Issued in Police Death

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit police announced today that two of the men rounded up after a midnight shoot-out at the New Bethel Baptist Church March 29 have been charged with the murder of one policeman and wounding of another.

Police Commissioner Johannes F. Spreen said federal fugitive warrants have been issued for Rafael Viera, 20, of New York City and Alfred Hibbitt, 38, of Detroit.

Related Story, Page A-5

Viera, a Puerto Rican, is charged with first-degree murder in the shooting of Patrolman Michael Czapski, 23, and Hibbitt, a Negro, with assault to commit murder in the shooting of Patrolman Richard Worobec, 28.

Spreen said "John Doe" warrants also have been issued for two unidentified persons allegedly involved in the shootings.

Hibbitt was among eight persons police wanted held for further questioning the day after the shootings.

All were ordered released, however, by Recorder's Judge George W. Crockett Jr. Crockett did set a $1,000 personal bond on Hibbitt, who was ordered to reappear whenever police wanted him for questioning.

Cole Defends Auto Industry

NEW YORK (AP) — The president of General Motors defended the auto industry last night against what he termed the "most concerted attack in its history."

COLE

Edward N. Cole of 1371 Kirkway, Bloomfield Township, told a banquet of the Society of Automotive Engineers at the Hotel Park Sheraton:

"We are concerned with the amount of unwarranted criticism that is being directed at our industry, criticism which carries the implication that we as an industry are purposely shortchanging the public.

* * *

"In an industry as large and complex as ours, it is easy for our critics to point to the exceptions to excellence and falsely portray these as the rule, rather than the exceptions which they are.

'CONVINCING PROOF'

"The growth record of our industry and the current high level of sales are convincing proof that our industry is doing a highly effective job of serving

U.S. Plans to Close Job Corps Centers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department has confirmed plans for massive cuts in the Job Corps program, an action likely to stir some bitter congressional opposition despite an apparent effort to soften the blow.

A department spokesman last night confirmed earlier reports that 65 Job Corps centers will be shut down.

* * *

He did not estimate the savings but Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said they would amount to more than $100 million, a figure also reported last week.

The Labor Department spokesman said an official announcement would be made tomorrow.

'SKILL CENTERS'

At the same time the administration will propose setting up 20 to 30 "skill centers" near city slums to provide daytime vocational training, unlike the full-time residential Job Corps centers. Dropping of the 65 centers will result in displacing about half of the current 35,000 enrollees.

President Nixon announced Feb. 20 that effective with the end of the fiscal year June 30 he was ordering the Job Corps and the preschool Head Start program transferred out of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

* * *

The closings presumably could not be made until after that date, giving Congress time to block transfer from OEO of the two showpiece programs.

Nelson's Senate antipoverty subcommittee has scheduled a hearing for April 18 and the House Education and Labor Committee plans to resume its hearings into the whole antipoverty program April 21.

OUTSPOKEN OPPONENT

Education and Labor chairman Carl Perkins is an outspoken opponent of transferring either Job Corps or Head Start into a line agency and has vowed to block the move.

* * *

"We're going to put Head Start and the Job Corps back in OEO," he said flatly in an interview March 15. "And we're going to repeal the provision giving the President authority to make transfers out of OEO without congressional approval."

* * *

The "skill centers" apparently are designed to ease congressional opposition from backers of the Job Corps program and representatives who have centers in their areas.

Fernald Plans Detroit Stagings

Oakland University's Meadow Brook Theatre will present each of its 1969-70 productions at the Detroit Institute of Arts as well as on campus. This announcement was made today by OU Chancellor D. B. Varner and John Fernald, artistic director of Meadow Brook Theatre.

Now in its third season at Oakland University, the professional repertory company will increase the number of productions next year from seven to eight, playing from Oct. 16 to May 31, 1970. Each play will run for three weeks at Meadow Brook Theatre and a fourth and final week in Detroit.

* * *

Fernald says of the plans: "I'm glad that the John Fernald Company is coming to Detroit, because towns need live theaters. They may have forgotten this, but they do, and live theaters need towns, because that's where they belong.

* * *

"New York, Paris, San Francisco and London are exciting places, not only because of bright lights and shops and restaurants, but also because the great variety of the theatrical entertainment there lifts those cities into a class of their own.

'STIMULUS SPILLS OVER'

"Those are the places where the theater is not the privilege of the rich and leisured. Those are the places where the stimulus of plays, classic and contemporary, spill into the consciousness of ordinary men and women.

"At Meadow Brook, we have found loyal support in one kind of public. At the Detroit Institute of Arts, we hope to be considered worthy of another kind —the kind for whom a 'night on the town' means the thrill of watching professional actors playing plays which

Pleasant Weather on Tap Tomorrow

Skies will become partially clear and temperatures colder tonight, with the low dropping to 35 to 40.

Pleasant weather is forecast for tomorrow with sunny skies and warmer temperatures. A high near 58 is expected.

The outlook for Saturday is sunny and a little warmer.

* * *

Morning winds southwest to west at 15 to 30 miles per hour will become northwest late this afternoon and northwest at 12 to 18 miles per hour tonight.

* * *

A dismal 49 was the low temperature before 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac. The mercury moved to 51 by 2 p.m.

WPON Exec Boosts Stadium

Pontiac's proposed professional sports stadium would draw nationwide attention to the city, Bill Morgan, vice president and manager of radio station WPON, says.

The city's bid for the domed stadium to house the Detroit Tigers baseball and Lions football teams near M59 and I-75 is being studied.

* * *

Morgan said:

"Aside from the obvious advantages to Pontiac as a result of the stadium being built here, there is another advantage readily apparent to one who has been in mass communication for a long time.

* * *

"That is the fact that most events taking place in the stadium will be either broadcast or televised and many of them over nationwide networks.

TELEVISION PUBLICITY

"We're all familiar with the football telecasts where during halftime the long-range cameras scan the city's skyline or the college campus as the case may be.

* * *

"We're all familar with the sea gulls that come swooping into Kezar Stadium (San Francisco) late in the afternoon and are seen on TV.

* * *

"A stadium in Pontiac would draw to Pontiac the attention of a nationwide audience on a regular basis. Moreover, every newspaper story on every sporting event held in the stadium would be datelined Pontiac.

"It would take unknown thousands of dollars to buy all this media promotion for our city, and yet the stadium would get it for us for nothing."

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Australian Bruce Crampton carved out a three-under-par 33 on the front nine this morning as he played some hot golf in the opening round of the 33rd Masters Golf Championship at Augusta National Golf Club.

A hint of rain prevailed earlier in the day, but gentle breezes just before noon seemed to be easing that threat. The temperature was expected to reach the 80s today.

Crampton, 33, former Australian Open champion, wrapped in putts for birdies on holes six, eight and nine for his 33. He's competing in his 12th Masters.

Dan Sikes of Jacksonville, Fla., was in with a 34.

AMATEUR CHAMP ONE UNDER

U. S. Amateur champion Bruce Fleisher, 20, of Hialeah, Fla., playing with four time Masters champion Arnold Palmer, was two-under after six holes.

Palmer was one over par for the same span.

Argentinean Roberto de Vicenzo, a runnerup last year to Bob Goalby, was two over after the first nine.

Three-time winner Jack Nicklaus and Goalby were late starters. Sam Snead, the 58-year-old West Virginian now in his 30th consecutive Masters, fashioned a 36 on the front side, picking up bogeys on two of the last three holes.

Police Break Up Harvard Protest

By United Press International

About 500 state and local police in full riot gear and brandishing nightsticks waded into more than 300 students at Harvard University early today and then cleared out the administration building which the militant Students for a Democratic Society seized yesterday.

Students who were sitting on the steps of university hall in historic Harvard Yard were chased off in seconds.

The 200 students inside the administration building were taken away by police.

Yesterday, some students marched to the home of Harvard President Nathan L. Pusey and taped a list of demands to his door. They included lower rents in university-owned housing and a promise not to destroy more homes in expanding the medical school in Boston or in building the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library.

Meanwhile, black students at Southern University of New Orleans vowed to strike today and continue flying a "black liberation" banner in place of the American flag.

The Harvard occupation came yesterday when militants forced school personnel from the building in a protest to demand abolishing the Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) on campus. About 100 students staged a similar take-over at Boston University, but abandoned it when police arrived.

Classes were to reopen at Southern University of New Orleans (SUNO) today, officials of the mostly Negro school of 1,700 students said. But leaders of a violent demonstration yesterday — in which 27 persons were arrested — said there would be a strike today and tomorrow.

Also in New Orleans yesterday, a crowd of 300 students supporting striking teachers clashed with police on the grounds of a predominantly Negro high school.

At other campuses:

New York — About 120 students at New York University staged an all-night sit-in to protest the dismissal of a popular teacher.

Earlier yesterday, about 250 shouting students broke up a faculty convocation at Queens College in New York City. The teachers had been discussing past disturbances.

New Jersey — About 1,000 students boycotted classes at Rutgers University's Newark campus for the fifth straight day in a campaign for more state aid to education.

* * *

Ohio — About 40 policemen broke up fighting which erupted at Kent State University yesterday after a rally in sympathy with suspended Students for a Democratic Society.

AFL-CIO to Answer Reuther's Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter Reuther talked a better game than he played, according to a 40,000-word "white paper" by the AFL—CIO, replying to Reuther's frequent criticisms and reporting on the ouster of his United Auto Workers.

A federation spokesman said the document, to be released tomorrow is intended to set the record straight so the "history of the trade union would not show that Reuther's charges had gone unrefuted."

* * *

Reuther, who headed the CIO before it merged with the AFL in 1955, has criticized AFL-CIO President George Meany and the labor federation for several years as complacent and a "custodian of the status quo." He has called for more action on civil rights, as well as on labor welfare.

The AFL-CIO "white paper" is being issued nearly a year after Reuther's auto union was suspended from the AFL-CIO for nonpayment of federation dues.

CHANGE POSITION

"At the time Reuther started his attacks, our executive council voted that we would not answer his charges through the press," the AFL-CIO spokesman said.

Rather, the council elected to challenge Reuther through what the official called "the regular machinery of the trade union movement" — meaning on the convention floor.

* * *

"But Walter always managed not to get to the meetings," the federation spokesman said.

He said the document, titled "To Clear the Record," was comprehensive report on the disaffiliation of the Auto Workers Union and would be made public tomorrow.

SEE REPORT

The Washington Star and the Washington Post evidently succeeded in seeing the report earlier, however, and the two newspapers revealed some of its detail ahead of publication.

The Star says Meany had written Reuther a long letter last July seriously discussing Reuther's suggestions for revitalizing the labor movement, but had received no reply.

* * *

The Post says the report hammers away at what it sees as Reuther's effort to change the structure and thrust of the federation. It charges that he bypassed open channels within the group and that as a leader in the AFL-CIO and the UAW he talked a better game than he played.

Reuther must share the blame for any changes he alleges, the report says, because as a top official of the federation, he was in a position to influence its actions.

VC Blasts U.S. on Secret Talks

PARIS (AP) — A representative of the Vietcong accused the United States today of spreading rumors about private Vietnam peace talks in an effort to calm antiwar sentiment at home.

Than Buu Kiem, spokesman for the Vietcong's National Liberation Front, told the 12th full-scale session of the Vietnam peace talks, that the reports of private meetings were part of a "perfidious maneuver" to make the public believe the Nixon administration has a program for a peaceful settlement.

The United States continued to hammer at the presence of North Vietnamese forces in the South and to seek discussions on a mutual withdrawal of forces. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge insisted that the withdrawal of the North Vietnamese "military and subversive forces" was one of the crucial issues to be dealt with.

Kiem did not specifically deny that private contacts are taking place in Paris and elsewhere. But his continued attack on secret talks dimmed the likelihood of any such discussions soon — at least as far as the Vietcong is concerned.

Fernald Plans Detroit Stagings

were really written for the denizens of cities.

* * *

"In Detroit, through friendly rivalry with our competitors, we hope to raise our standard of professionalism even higher—and to play our part in helping to make 'downtown' what it used to be and ought to be again."

* * *

In a telephone conversation today, Willis F. Woods, director of the Detroit Institute of Arts, expressed his pleasure with the new program.

'DELIGHTED IN INTEREST'

"It's certainly something that pleases us very much. We are delighted in Meadow Brook's interest in coming into Detroit. It is going to help us with our desire to present professional theater of high quality in the inner city.

* * *

"This will attract another audience that isn't attracted to the theater at Oakland University because it is too far away.

* * *

"We hope this move will be of benefit to Meadow Brook and to us in the city of Detroit."

* * *

Varner expressed his hopes that this is just the first step in making the John Fernald Company available throughout the state, so that it may become known as Michigan's own resident professional theater. The presence of the company in the inner city is just the first phase of this goal, he said.

Birmingham

City Opposes House Bill on Condemnation

BIRMINGHAM — The City Commission has endorsed City Manager Robert Kenning's proposal that the provisions in House Bill 2404 permitting one public agency to condem property owned by another public agency should be vigorously opposed.

* * *

In a letter to the commission, Kenning said the proposed legislation would make it possible for larger units of government to actually take over local functions such as public works through condemnation proceedings.

* * *

Kenning added that occasionally property is retained by a local unit of government for future needs which may not be clearly defined at the time the property is purchased.

* * *

He said much of the Birmingham's present park property was purchased by the city under tax sale provisions and held for future needs.

CURRENT NEED

"Another unit of government may have a current need which is very great and can be clearly demonstrated. As a result it can be successful in a condemnation action against a local unit of government because of the fact the future needs for that property are not fully established.

* * *

The city manager said a prime example of the problems the city might face if Bill 2404 is passed involves a condemnation suit against the City of Birmingham.

* * *

The controversy stems from the desire of the Southeast Oakland Incinerator Authority to use a 10-acre lot in Troy owned by the City of Birmingham as a site for a refuse transfer station. The site, which the city wants to retain, is located on Coolidge between 14 Mile Road and Maple.

Birmingham residents are reminded of the City Commission's public presentation of the community's Urban Design Plan scheduled for 8 tonight at the Community House. The program will feature a question and answer period.

Styling Pioneer for GM Dies at 75 in Florida City

Harley J. Earl, the man who gave style to the automobile, died today in West Palm Beach, Fla.

The 75-year-old former vice president of General Motors, once head of the corporation's styling department, was an acknowledged pioneer in industrial design.

* * *

Retiring in 1958 after 31 years with GM, Earl supervised the styling of 50 million cars and trucks, starting with the 1927 LaSalle.

The LaSalle is considered an automotive milestone because it was the first production car whose contours from headlights to rear bumper were designed by a professional stylist.

CREDITS LISTED

Earl has been credited with eliminating running boards, placing a grill in front of the radiator, blending fenders into the body and slanting the windshiled backwards.

It was Earl who first introduced the "fish-tails" on luxury cars and put "portholes" on front fenders.

* * *

In addition to automobiles, Earl directed the design of a variety of other products ranging from household appliances to futuristic trains.

A native of Los Angeles, he learned body design in the Earl Carriage Works there, a firm owned by his father, Jacob, a former Cadillac, Mich., lumber man.

STARS' DESIGNER

After obtaining his engineering degree from Stanford University in 1918, he established a reputation as a stylist by designing custom car bodies for movie stars.

He joined GM in 1927 and was elected a vice president in 1940.

A memorial service will be held 11:30 a.m. Saturday at the Bethesda by the Sea Church in West Palm Beach.

The family requests that any memorials be made to the Bethesda Church or to the Good Samaritan Hospital in West Palm Beach.

He added, however, that the industry had achieved an "outstanding record of serving the needs and desires of the American people for quality, high-value transportation."

In his speech, Cole also said:

- The industry is working on improved safety features, such as air bags and other devices to provide for cushions in an accident. Research is under way on a seat structure to contain the occupant better, as an egg crate holds an egg.
- A revolution in both metals and nonmetallic materials is starting, and the next few decades will see startling refinements in automobile materials.
- At the present state of technology, the internal combustion engine is the best all-around power source for the car, although a great amount of research concerning all types of power plants is under way.

Judge Says No to Suit Hitting Novi Cityhood

NOVI — Circuit Court Judge Frederick C. Ziem has ruled against a former Novi Township trustee, denying him leave to pursue his claim that the recent township incorporation was defective.

Charles Goers had sued the City of Novi, questioning the legality of several moves made during the incorporation process.

★ ★ ★

Village voters approved incorporation into a home-rule city in a May 1968 election. A charter for the new city was approved by voters last February.

Goers' request for permission to continue the fight in court was the latest in a three-year effort to stop the incorporation. Other cases came to court in March 1966, August 1966 and January 1967.

SAME ISSUES

The last case, which questioned the same issues presented by Goers this week, was dismissed by Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer.

Ziem said Goers' case constituted a multiplicity of issues. Furthermore, the issues contested had been ruled on in 1967 and no appeal had been made at that time, he said.

★ ★ ★

Goers claimed the maps attached to petitions were fefective and that the village council had permitted withdrawal of petitions to become a fourth class city whereas they should have allowed that election. He also said the population of the former Novi Township and village did not meet the density requirement for a home-rule city.

Donald Kratt, and Howard H. Fitzgerald II, publisher of The Pontiac Press.

Utica Council Selects Five for Parking Authority Posts

UTICA — The City Council has asked five residents to establish and serve on a parking authority as part of the city's downtown rehabilitation program.

Appointees include Robert Hurr, 45449 Sterrett; Carl Smith, 8128 New Bradford; Leopold Kolowich, 45086 Engel; Gordon Curnow, 45216 Klingkammer; Gerald Lesperance, 7790 Auburn; and Arthur Marquardt, 44851 Cass, alternate.

The council said the parking authority's primary responsibility would be to secure property for parking lots and determine assessments to downtown business establishments for financing land acquisitions.

A council spokesman said the assessments for parking lot properties would be determined according to proximity of the businesses to the parking lot.

MEETING SLATED

The parking authority will meet with the Utica Development Corp. representatives in the near future in an attempt to determine parking needs and prepare procedures for surveying downtown businesses on ideas regarding possible location of new parking facilities.

All of the parking authority's activities will be conducted in cooperation with the Utica Development Corp. and the City Council.

Councilmen said the serious need for parking facilities in the downtown area has prompted the establishment of the parking authority. City officials feel that new parking provisions have to be created before any further attempts can be made toward redeveloping the downtown shopping area.

Parking authority members will receive no compensation. Length of their terms will not be determined until the appointes indicate their acceptance to the city clerk.

Clerk Eunice Koepitz said those appointed were selected on the basis of their declared interest in the city's parking problems and the amount of time they will have available to serve the parking authority.

In other recent business, the council approved the Normandy subdivision plot plan presented by Edward Rose & Son, contractors and developers of 14900 Linwood.

Plans call for establishment of 41 single-family residences in the subdivision which is to be located east of Van Dyke near Hull Road just off M53.

West Bloomfield's Budget $999,000

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The Township Board has adopted a tentative budget of $999,000 for the fiscal year beginning April 1. The new budget allows for substantial increases in township officials' salaries.

Last year's budget was $818,000.

The supervisor's salary will be raised $3,500, to $18,500. The township clerk and treasurer will each receive an additional $3,000, bringing their salaries to $14,000. The police chief, fire chief and chief building inspector each will receive $12,500. The budget was accepted by township residents present at the recent annual meeting.

★ ★ ★

A special allowance of $14,850 was made in the budget for the renovation of the township's 35 voting machines and $11,500 was allotted for the 12 new machines purchased for last November's elections.

In other business, the board set April 23 for a public hearing of necessity for creation of the Knollwood Heights sewer assessment district.

Birmingham Group Slates Effort to Aid Negro Youths

By NED ADAMSON

BIRMINGHAM — A group of Birmingham residents is readying plans for a human relations project.

A move to bring 10 Negro students from various impoverished economic environments to Birmingham for "a look at the other side" is designed to further expand the community's social responsibilities.

★ ★ ★

Under the program, ABC (A, Better Chance); Negro youngsters would live in Birmingham and study at Birmingham high schools for two years.

The local ABC affiliate — one of five in the nation — is eying September for the program's implementation, providing suitable housing and financing can be arranged.

FAIR HOUSING NOT ENOUGH

Mayor David Breck, who is working with the ABC program in an unofficial capacity, said, "We feel that continuous development of an ABC program in Birmingham is imperative in a community of responsible people. We simple cannot stop at a fair housing ordinance and say our job is done."

The ABC program is coordinated through Dartmouth College, Hanover, N.H. Dartmouth accepts applications from under-privileged students nationally. Applicants are screened and successful candidates are referred to participating communities. Upon completing high school, the youngsters are eligible for college scholarships.

★ ★ ★

Three criteria are evaluated in determining what youngsters shall participate: (1) intellectual ability, (2) seriousness of economic need and (3) what the chances would be for the student attending college if he wasn't accepted for the ABC program.

Breck feels the latter criteria is the most important.

STUDENT HOUSING

Students would be housed in a rented or purchased house in Birmingham. A married couple will serve as resident houseparents.

Costs of the program are estimated at $30,000 for living accommodations. Approximately $20,000 is available through an anonymous benefactor in Detroit. The remainder is to be raised through public solicitation.

★ ★ ★

Breck said the immediate problems to start the program here are attaining sufficient community interest, raising the necessary $10,000 and hopefully more, and finding suitable housing and prospective houseparents.

★ ★ ★

Approximately 60 residents are now working on the groundwork for the program.

PROBLEMS EXPECTED

Phillip Moon of 1020 Brookwood said any program like ABC will have problems getting under way in a virtually all-white community like Birmingham.

"We expect opposition, but we expect to establish such a program here and see it through as a continuing situation."

★ ★ ★

Moon admitted that undoubtedly there will be legal entanglements particularly zoning-oriented in an attempt to find a suitable residence that can accommodate 12 people in a dormitory-style living situation.

★ ★ ★

He alluded to a similar type program attempted in Royal Oak in recent years which was blocked because a dormitory-style living situation allegedly didn't conform to city housing ordinances.

MAYOR OPTIMISTIC

Breck thought the program would be accepted here.

"The younger generation has proven they do not have the racial bias of their parents. High schoolers here undoubtedly will be instrumental in helping the ABC youngsters through the socialization process, aiding them in developing self identity and generally assisting the youngsters in preparing for college and a good future they probably would not ordinarily have if left in their home environments," Breck remarked.

★ ★ ★

The Board of Education has fully endorsed the program, according to Breck, however the board feels the ABC organization should be entirely responsible or developing the program here.

★ ★ ★

In return for the 10 students brought to Birmingham, Dartmouth would place 10 Negroes from Detroit and Pontiac for the same program in other areas.

Elected to one-year terms were Ed Nagy, president; Vern Sprigg, vice president; Mrs. Walter Geno, recording secretary; and Irving Fox, treasurer. Elected to two-year terms as board members were Mrs. Norman Hennessey and Don Ellwood.

PTA Fair Has Goal: Blacktop, Play Gear

LAKE ORION — Money to blacktop the Blanche Sims Intermediate School playground and to purchase equipment for it is the goal of the school fair Saturday. It will feature pony rides, a game room, general store, bazaar, white elephant sale, bake sale and a cakewalk.

Prizes will be awarded, with a portable television to the top winner. Sponsor of the 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. fair is the school PTA.

Utica Recount Bid Withdrawn

UTICA — Samuel Gambino of 8843 Goodale, a defeated candidate for City Council in Monday's election, has withdrawn his request for a vote recount in the closely contested race for three council seats.

Earl Ennis III of 46290 Custer, with 375 votes, and Gambino, with 370, finished fourth and fifth respectively, in the six-man race. Charles Stone, of 45289 Klingkammer, edged Ennis and Gambino with 381 votes. William Klein of 8921 Hahn trailed with 193.

★ ★ ★

Gambino had asked the recount on Tuesday because of the closeness of the election. He withdrew the request late yesterday, however, following a tally of the votes by the board of canvassers.

The canvass confirmed the figures as first announced.

★ ★ ★

Gambino said he felt satisfied there were no discrepancies in the voting results.

Elected to the council in addition to Stone were Henry Shepherd of 45145 Cass, who led the candidates with 575 votes, and Mrs. Helen Schwark of 45435 Cass, who had 401.

He's a One-Man Village Government

New Oxford Manager Is Multifaceted

OXFORD — Donald E. Scripter is a one-man village government — if necessary.

Scripter began his duties as village manager Monday.

For 42-year-old Scripter, saying that government service is in his background is a severe understatement.

Aside from entering his 25th year in the Army Reserves in South Bend, Ind., Scripter has been a city grease-monkey, a police officer, a carpenter of sorts — specializing in building his own offices, a munitions plant guard, an administrator of power plants, water systems, city personnel departments and a municipal engineering division, and a would-be fireman.

★ ★ ★

Most recently director of public services for Dowagiac, Scripter is a native of Rensselar, Ind., where he first entered local government. He also was director of public works and informal village manager in Constantine, south of Sturgis.

ASSUMES COMMAND

In Oxford, Scripter assumes command of 16 village employes and all departments.

"I applied for two positions in this area and turned one down. Oxford seemed to be the nicest spot, and I think it will work out just fine," Scripter assessed.

★ ★ ★

Scripter has a married daughter in Pontiac. He and his wife are househunting. He also is investigating the possibility of transferring to the Pontiac Reserve unit to avoid the monthly drive to South Bend for Reserve meetings.

A sergeant-major in the Reserves, Scripter says he "may have too much rank to step into the Pontiac unit," and might have to drop his military affiliation.

HE HAS IT GOOD

Chatting yesterday in his handsome office in Oxford's one-year-old civic center, Scripter related that he has often had to "build my own office — I mean with hammer and nails — on other jobs. I never had it so good."

★ ★ ★

It is, of course, unlikely that Oxford Village employes would all cease work on the very same day. But in that hypothetical event, Scripter could handle the load.

★ ★ ★

"I've never been a secretary, though," he said.

Monthly Job Survey

Census Takers Set to Call

A number of Pontiac area residents will be visited by U.S. Bureau of the Census interviewers next week as part of a monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Labor, according to Director Hobert A. Yerkey of the bureau's regional office in Detroit.

Area households to be visited are part of a scientifically selected sample of all U.S. households. In addition to questions about employment there will be some questions about work experience throughout 1968.

★ ★ ★

Additional supplementary questions will be asked in a small number of households to complete two surveys started last month—one to determine family and personal income levels in 1968 and the other to learn the number of Americans who have moved since a similar survey was conducted in the spring of 1968.

Information about individual households is kept confidential by law. Results of bureau surveys are published only as statistical totals.

Avon Concerned About Sewer

AVON TOWNSHIP — Township officials registered concern last night over status of the giant Clinton-Oakland Sewer Interceptor.

While Township Supervisor Cyril E. Miller is concerned that Avon hasn't yet signed the appropriate contracts with the County Department of Public Works, some Township Board members are concerned about alleged "holes" in the contracts.

An attempt to obtain answers to questions on the contracts from DPW Director R. J. Alexander will be made at a meeting Tuesday at 5 p.m. It will be a special meeting of the Township Board which may result in approval of the contracts.

At last night's regular board meeting, Miller indicated concern that the contract signing has been delayed. He said developers who have made advance payments will begin to wonder where the service is if the interceptor project and related work do not get started.

★ ★ ★

Board members indicated they wanted answers on such things as when the interceptor was going to be completed. They also want as much local control of the system as possible.

The township had received the interceptor contracts from the county, proposed changes and sent them back to the county. No action was taken on the proposed changes.

★ ★ ★

In other business last night, the Township Board agreed to send representatives to a meeting Monday in Macomb County on proposed drainage improvements to the Clinton River.

Main concern is the potential cost. The township was told its cost would amount to 5.8 per cent of the total, but no dollar figure has been given.

The board approved an $11,800 sewer outlet for the Great Oaks Development on Walton. A 12-inch line will be constructed along the north end of the property, which extends from Walton to Tienken.

The sewer line, which eventually would connect to the Paint Creek Arm Interceptor, will run east from the edge of the Great Oaks property on the south side of Tienken, under the New York Central Railroad tracks.

An ordinance amendment was approved last night to regulate storage sheds, playhouses and treehouses in subdivisions. In addition to regulations as to location, the amendment also requires a building permit for such structures.

The board also agreed to contact state legislators and urge them to vote for pending legislation to outlaw nonreturnable bottles. Two such bills are in the Legislature.

Wounded Negro Tells of Shooting

Spreen Church Story Called Lie

DETROIT (AP)—One of four black separatists wounded when police broke into an inner city church after a white policeman was killed nearly two weeks ago says Police Commissioner Johannes Spreen's version of the incident is "a lie."

James T. Dawkins, a 27-year-old Ford Motor Co. foundryman who was shot through the right shoulder and again in the right elbow, is the last of the four to remain hospitalized.

* * *

He was never charged with an offense in connection with the incident and is not a police prisoner.

Dawkins said he and another man, hearing gunfire outside, stepped up near the pulpit of the church to try to calm the people down. "Some of them got down on the floor. The others sat like we told them," Dawkins said.

HEARD GLASS BREAK

"But then we heard glass break—it must have been shots into the building—and the brother and I hit the floor.

"I saw three policemen come in, two with rifles and one with a handgun. One had a shield over his face.

* * *

"The brother and I were lying there—I was on my stomach—when I was shot for the first time, in the shoulder. Then, just seconds later, I was hit again."

Dawkins still has a bullet in his arm and says he has no sense of feeling in his right hand.

SPREEN'S VERSION

Spreen issued a statement Tuesday saying that police, fired on from the church, knocked before they broke their way in. The commissioner added that when they got inside the building was darkened and a man was firing from the pulpit.

Finally, Spreen said, the officers managed to turn on the lights and it was not until then, he said, that police discovered there were women and children inside.

* * *

"That's a lie," said Dawkins. "The lights were not off. They were on all the time."

Dawkins said that after he was shot, officers told everybody to stand up. "They wanted everybody to stand up against the wall with their hands up. I told them I was hit."

HE STOOD UP

Dawkins said he stood up against the wall with one hand in the air.

"Then one of the officers noticed I was wounded," he said, "and grabbed me by the collar and pulled me over and said, 'you lay down right there.'"

* * *

Dawkins said he asked the officer why he had been shot and got the reply:

"You didn't have no business here. I ought to shoot again."

* * *

Dawkins said that when he asked a policeman to take him to the hospital, he was told, "You ought to die."

Dawkins was arrested last year on a charge of machine-gunning a Detroit Police car the morning after the assassination of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. But, after spending seven months in jail, he was acquitted by a jury that sepnt 90 minutes deliberating after two weeks of testimony.

Sheriff May Get Helicopter

Private Donors Help; Operating Cash Eyed

The Oakland County Sheriff's Department soon may have a helicopter to aid in the search for lost children, assist in water rescues and serve general patrol duty.

The County Board of Supervisors Public Protection and Judiciary Committee has recommended to the finance committee that $5,000 a year be set aside for operation of such a craft.

* * *

The money for the helicopter is expected to come from private donations, according to Lt. Don Kratt, director of the department's water safety division. The craft is estimated to cost $43,000, Kratt said.

Kratt said the department employs a deputy who is qualified as a helicopter pilot, and it recently hired a Vietnam veteran who served as a helicopter mechanic.

'DISTINCT AID'

Kratt said he viewed the helicopter as a distinct aid in helping to patrol the county's many lakes and to aid in the search for drowning victims.

He reported that in Los Angeles (Calif.) County, helicopter patrols have effectively cut down the number of breaking and enterings.

* * *

"A helicopter can be anywhere in the county in five minutes," Kratt noted.

He said the department has had to hire helicopters several times to aid in the search for lost children.

TIME CUT DOWN

He noted that in such cases, man-hour time spent searching has been reduced, with the child located more quickly than might otherwise be expected.

"We're here to provide service," he said. "This is one way we can do it more quickly and effectively."

Driver Key to Car Theft

Crime is booming, and one of the boomingest branches of it is automobile theft.

One out of every 107 cars in the Nation was stolen last year, reports MICHAEL L. MURPHY, formerly New York City police commissioner and now president of the National Automobile Theft Bureau, an investigative network maintained by more than 400 insurance companies.

That amounted to a total of 776,000 stolen cars, an increase of 18 per cent over 1967. MURPHY predicts that more than a million cars, worth more than $1 billion, may be stolen this year.

★ ★ ★

"It is becoming more and more difficult to recover stolen cars," he says, "because thefts are now being perpetrated by car theft rings backed by organized crime."

Auto theft rings often steal cars by the dozens in one state and sell them in another, with buyers lined up before the cars are stolen. Last year, major rings were broken in California, New York, Illinois and Tennessee.

★ ★ ★

Motorists literally hold the key to curbing car thievery to a great extent—at least the casual, spur-of-the-moment kind—simply by taking the time to lock their cars whenever they park and taking the keys with them.

★ ★ ★

All 1970 model cars will be equipped with locking systems which automatically lock the steering mechanism and transmission once the ignition key is removed. Like door locks, however, they will do no good unless motorists use them.

'Papers' Keep Speech Free

Freedom of speech and freedom of press have been jealously guarded heritages of the U.S. political system. They are the foundations of representative government. Recent action by the Federal Communications Commission to ban cigarette advertising on television and radio raised the free press, free speech question in the minds of many people.

★ ★ ★

Irrespective of how one feels about cigarette smoking, the FCC action raised a point about "the communications media" that is often overlooked. The right of free speech and a free press do not have the same relationship to television and radio that they do to the Nation's newspapers.

The very fact that radio and TV stations are subject to Federal licensing sets them apart. It also points up why neither will ever take the place of the hometown newspaper.

★ ★ ★

Only the newpaper leaves a permanent record of community life. Only the newspaper is free to express its editor's personal convictions, and only the newspaper—unlicensed and unregulated—fulfills the obligation of a free press in accordance with the historical meaning of the term.

★ ★ ★

A free press is the bastion of a self-governing people. It can be supplemented, but never supplanted.

'Bombing' a Hard Decision

To bomb or not to bomb—that is the No. 1 question now facing President NIXON.

Whether North Vietnam's spring offensive, with its rocket attacks against South Vietnamese cities, did or did not constitute a violation of prenegotiation understandings between Washington and Hanoi, there has definitely been a new note of acrimony and futility injected into the unproductive Paris peace talks.

Undoubtedly the total bombing halt of North Vietnam order by President Johnson in his next-to-last month in office made things easier for the enemy in mounting his current assaults. Undoubtedly more American soldiers have been killed in the past weeks than would have been killed had the supply lines from the north not been immune to aerial interdiction.

But it is also true that four years of almost continuous bombing of the north did not prevent American battle deaths from inching up to more than 30,000. The new President is assuredly not prepared to begin trading another 30,000 lives for four more years of indecisive conflict, with or without bombing.

★ ★ ★

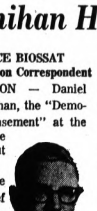
Ideally, what the United States ought to do, independent of the Paris talks and independent of the enemy's activity on the battlefield, is begin the slow, staged withdrawal of American troops, replacing them with South Vietnamese.

But if after four years this is not feasible, if after four years of massive American assistance South Vietnam cannot yet be gradually phased into shouldering more and more of the burden of the fighting, then it would seem to matter little whether we bomb or not.

Moynihan Happy in White House Role

BY BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Daniel Patick Moynihan, the "Democat in the basement" at the White House is working out well so far.



BIOSSAT

In his role as staff chief of the Urban Affairs Council, a coordinating interdepartmental organization created by President Nixon to tackle urban problems across all lines, Moynihan evidently is applying successfully his talents as a generalizer.

The Cabinet members who take part in council meetings once a week like him.

Moynihan also appears to be enjoying excellent relations with the President.

The latter obviously wants the Harvard urbanologist to stay around a long while and seems to go out of his way to make him feel at home.

For his part, Moynihan, while knowing this, is said to be careful not to presume on this or to try in any way to exert extra leverage because of it.

★ ★ ★

He has good access to the President, which is not something everyone in the White House establishment can claim.

As Urban Affairs staff director, Moynihan is able to get his own ideas thrown into the general council mix at meetings, in agenda preparations and so on. And he had a real hand in development of programs and policies.

SOMEWHAT UNSETTLED?

There may have been a time when Moynihan saw his coordinating role in the urban field as much bigger than it is.

There were suggestions from some top sources on the eve of Nixon's inauguration that the visible rise of economist Arthur Burns to preeminence as the President's chief domestic programmer had somewhat unsettled Moynihan. Whatever the truth of that, he reportedly is reasonably content with his present lot.

★ ★ ★

Even before that matter developed, liberal friends of Moynihan were busy forecasting that he would last only three to six months in the White House before disenchantment would take him away.

He himself listened to those predictions with amusement. The plain fact is he likes action close to the seat of power and may well have no difficulty in staying on until academic commitments compel his resignation at the end of two years' service.

David Lawrence Says:

N-Limit Breakthrough Possible

WASHINGTON — At last there may be a breakthrough in the 13 years of deadlock between the Soviet Union and the United States as to how an agreed limitation of nuclear materials would be inspected so as to whether the parties are adhering to their pledges

LAWRENCE

Up to now, the Soviets have objected to letting representatives of the United States participate in the policing procedures. But the new U.S. plan would leave it to a neutral organization known as the International Atomic Energy Agency, which is located in Vienna and is under the jurisdiction of the United Nations.

★ ★ ★

The Soviets have claimed that American inspectors might use their visits as a cover for espionage.

Irrespective of what Moscow's eventual attitude toward the plan may be, the fact is that the American offer may prove to be a historic milestone in finding a satisfactory way to police all kinds of armament restrictions.

A CHALLENGE

The proposal was made this week by Adrian Fisher, the American representative at the 17-nation disarmament conference at Geneva.

It is, in effect, a challenge to the signatories of any agreement to accept the same inspection procedure as now is provided for in the treaty recently ratified by our Senate which pledges the world's nonnuclear nations not to produce nuclear weapons.

★ ★ ★

Both the United States and the Soviet Union already have what are considered adequate supplies of materials for nuclear weapons, but once these are exhausted, a halt to further production would place a ceiling on weapons stockpiles in the two countries.

★ ★ ★

The theory is that, now that most nonnuclear powers have agreed to refrain from making nuclear weapons and a trustworthy system of inspection has been set up, both the United States and Russia would be in a position to apply the same rule of self-denial and give up the making of the fissionable material for more new weapons.

PEACEFUL USES

What makes the problem difficult is that uranium-processing facilities can also be operated for peaceful uses, and it becomes essential to make sure that these materials are not secretely diverted to military objective. This is why some system of effective inspection is necessary.

There is, of course, no evidence yet that the Soviets will accept the American proposal. But it certainly gives Moscow an opportunity to show the world that it is willing to make a change from its previous position.

Acceptance would indicate that the Soviets are ready to carry forward the movement for an eventual prohibition of the use of nuclear weapons by any nation.

Certainly the United States would join the other powers of the world in such a pact. It would be a step toward preventing not only nuclear war but any major conflict.

★ ★ ★

If the Soviets concur, the year 1969 will mark a progressive step forward in international relations.

Bob Considine Says:

Long Rail Labor Dispute Heating Up Once Again

NEW YORK — PEOPLE . . . PLACES . . .

One of the longest labor disputes in our history is boiling again. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen demands that the railroads hire 18,000 firemen whether they have experience or not. The railroads protest that this would cost them $200 million a year and would break some of the already shaky lines.

CONSIDINE

★ ★ ★

The firemen insist that the absence of firemen in the cabs of today's diesels is directly related to the increase in the number of rail accidents.

★ ★ ★

The railroads say balderdash, or whatever it is that railroad presidents say. They point out that the usefulness of the fireman went out when steam engines were replaced by diesels.

★ ★ ★

Since there are no more fires to stoke, or boilers to keep an eye on, no firemen are needed. But as recently as 1963 the union was able to force the roads to carry 32,500 firemen on their payrolls. They rode jump seats between the engineer and the headend brakeman, doing nothing but watch the scenery go by.

★ ★ ★

The fight, which has been taken to Congress and the courts, goes on. All it seems to have produced to date is a new word to roll on one's tongue: featherbedding.

★ ★ ★

Speaking of odd occupations, there's a bum around town who puts the arm on Toots Shor every time the saloon-keeper arrives at his establishment for a day's work.

★ ★ ★

He has not missed for more than a quarter of a century! He met Toots when Toots was day manager and part-time bouncer at Leon and Eddie's.

The moocher had money to burn at that time, and was known as the biggest tipper along the nightclub beat.

★ ★ ★

Recently, Toots fished $2 out of his pocket and dropped it into his albatross's outstretched hand.

★ ★ ★

"Hey, what's this?" the guy demanded indignantly. "I need at least $5."

Toots apologized and gave him the fin.

The Wall Street Journal reports that a bank in Miami has installed a sidewalk "credit machine" that dispenses loans around the clock. The thing is 7 feet tall and looks like a coin changer. All you do is insert a magnetized card and the machine returns $50 in cash, with a 2 per cent a month charge on the unpaid balance.

★ ★ ★

That's one way to lose interest in the machine age.

Crazy Buttons Suit All Occasions

By DICK SAUNDERS

One of the latter day crazes, if you haven't noticed, is crazy buttons.

It seems there are now buttons produced for all occasions.

SAUNDERS

Recently I ran into a slightly new twist—a do-it-yourself button kit. This is strictly for the button buff who wants to make his own.

It comes with an empty button and a book full of circular emblems on glossy paper with adhesive on the back. You select one appropriate for the occasion, then merely punch it out and stick it on the face of your blank button.

★ ★ ★

They can be worn to parties, weddings, wakes, contract negotiation sessions, civic club luncheons, city commission meetings, lodge dinners, Sunday school, etc.

Assuming your curiosity has been aroused, I offer the following random samples of do-it-yourself button-making:

"Brutus Can't Be Trusted."
"Chastity is It's Own Punishment."
"Death is Nature's Way of Telling You to Slow Down."
"Daddy Warbucks is a Dirty Old Man."

★ ★ ★

"Is There Life After Birth?"
"Nietsche is Pietzche."
"Stamp Out First Marriages."
"You'll Never Be the Man Your Mother Was."
"In Case of Accident, I Drink Gin."
"Never Trust Anyone Under 12."
"End Discrimination—Hate Everyone."

★ ★ ★

"My Button Loves Your Button."
"Shriver For Something."
"Home Rule for Wales."
"If You Can't Beat Them, Enjoin Them."
"Andrew Wyeth Paints by Numbers."
"Human: Do Not Fold, Spindle or Mutilate."
"Lower the Age of Puberty."
"Hannibal's Elephants Dirtied the Alps."
"Santa Claus is Capable of Extreme Cruelty."

★ ★ ★

"Lydia Pinkham is a Pill Head."
"New York is a Summer Vegetable."
"This Button is an Attempt to Communicate."
"Mao Plays Monopoly."
"Darwin Lied to Us."
"Do Unto Others (Before You Are Undone)."
"Spinosa Eats Bagels."

And there are more, but most of the leftovers I'm sure my editors would not feel were suitable for public print.

★ ★ ★

Maybe the best way to work one's way out of a column like this is with this last little lapel emblem:

"Don't You Feel Stupid Wasting Your Time Reading Buttons?"

Voice of the People:

'Let's Urge President to End War in Vietnam'

Rep. James Harvey of Michigan says Americans should be patient before pressuring President Nixon to end the Vietnam war. He has asked for a grace period. How much "more patient" can we Americans be? Mr. Nixon had the secret all wrapped up when he was asking us for our votes. Are our boys over there having a grace period?

Let's get behind this promise and ask the President to rush this thing along and put a stop to the slaughter of our young American boys.

Report of Pool Issue Defeat Prompts Letter

Your story regarding the reasons for the defeat of the $600,000 pool issue made reference to the fact that residents of the northern end who voted "against the bond issue were represented by board member, Mrs. Frances Leaf, who voted no when the board originally voted to put the bond issue before the public." While it is true that Mrs. Leaf did so vote, it is our judgment that there are several other reasons why the bond issue was defeated. We believe it would be unfair to imply that her personal views served as a major factor in the outcome of the vote.

Expresses Views on Parochial School Aid

Any legislation to use tax monies to assist parochial schools will undoubtedly be tested in the courts. The very concept of tax-based support of any religious institution would seem to breach state-church separatism. The proponents of parochiald seem to have lost sight of the fact that a majority of taxpayers hold religious convictions contrary to those for whom financial assistance is primarily intended. No one questions the right of private schools to incorporate religious indoctrination in their curriculum, but as an agnostic I feel my rights under the First Amendment of the Constitution would be infringed upon if I am compelled to support such indoctrination.

An application can be picked up (or they'll mail one) at the County Clerk's office in the Courthouse. Fill it out, have it endorsed by a Circuit, District or Probate Judge, send it with a $2.00 check or money order to the Executive Office in Lansing. When the Clerk's office receives your certification, they will notify you. You must then post a $1,000 bond. When you have done this, you can pick up your certificate for $1.00.

Student Power in Finland: Cash

Enterprises Have Been Richly Rewarding

HELSINKI (UPI) — Around here, student power is money.

The way the Finnish student sees it, protest demonstrations never bought a building, opened a striptease show, made a profitable investment or inaugurated a successful export drive.

Finnish students have done all this and more without demonstrations.

★ ★ ★

Shortly after World War II, when money was short in Finland, students wanted dormitories.

The government would not build them, so students staged a fund-raising campaign. They collected enough to build a seven-story building in central Helsinki which now contains student union headquarters, rooms for students and a number of shops that rent floor space.

THE BEGINNING

That was the beginning.

The Helsinki Student Union, with 24,000 members, followed suit in the late 1940s and built an 800-room student house.

In 1951 the student union at the school of economics bought a 25 per cent interest in a sagging tobacco company, and two postgraduate student unions bought the rest.

★ ★ ★

The company, Amer Tupakka, began turning out American filter cigarettes under license and now has a quarter of the Finnish tobacco market.

The company has since branched out into shipping and publishing.

BIG PROPERTY OWNER

Helsinki University's union has gained enough capital to build the city's second largest office block and to acquire enough other property to make it the largest property owner in the capital.

★ ★ ★

The union at the technical university built its own campus at Dipoli, 10 miles outside of Helsinki. The student union house has three restaurants and the area's latest — and some students consider it the best — striptease show.

★ ★ ★

In the summertime the campus is used as an international conference center and as hotel space for tourists; last year it had 15,000 paying guests.

The economics student union has also brought up 50 per cent of Satoturve Oy, which processes peat for export and is planning three new apartment houses.

EXPORT DRIVE

The students made their biggest play last summer when they launched an export drive to Britain, Finland's largest western trading partner.

For $185,750 they hired a 10,000-ton car ferry, persuaded 120 firms to put their goods aboard it, and sailed off to Britain as Finnfocus, a floating trade fair.

★ ★ ★

Although the students lost $13,900, the firms got $23.8 million in new orders and 60 new contracts between Finnish firms and British buyers.

Finnfocus was a student protest.

'BOLD, UNPREJUDICED'

"We did it to protest the inactivity of the Finnish exporter who tends to wait for the buyer to come by. We wanted to show that with bold and unprejudiced action he can do a lot," said young economist Antti Wuorenjuuri, who started the whole thing.

★ ★ ★

Although professional managers handle the running of the firms, it is up to the students to decide where to spend their money.

Blind Viet Orphan Flown to U.S. Hospital for Treatment

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A little South Vietnamese orphan started making friends today at Mount Zion Hospital.

Perhaps she can see them by the time she goes back to South Vietnam in about six weeks.

Nguyen Thi Cong, called "Julie" by the U.S. Marines who found her near Da Nang last fall, is blind—because of malnutrition, doctors say.

* * *

"We think she could see at one time," Mrs. Gordon Smith, her guardian, told newsmen Wednesday afternoon after a 20-hour flight from Saigon.

"She takes a broom and pushes it along the floor, saying in Vietnamese, 'I'm sweeping the floor.' I think she can see some light with her right eye."

Nguyen is from 3 to 5 years old—nobody is sure of her birthdate or the village she came from. Her parents were killed in the war and her relatives abandoned her, Mrs. Smith said.

"She was just skin and bones" when she came to the United World Mission's China Beach Orphanage near Da Nang last November, Mrs. Smith reported.

Mrs. Smith's husband is director of the orphanage. A native of Toronto, Canada, she now is an American citizen working for the Protestant-run United World mission, headquartered at St. Petersburg, Fla.

The girl will undergo surgery—Cornea transplants if necessary—at Mount Zion free of charge. She is the sixth Vietnamese youngster treated at the hospital. Pan American Airways flew her over at no charge.

"Vietnamese people won't donate their eyes," Mrs. Smith said.

"They fear they can't see in the next world, if they do.

"We told her she would come back with nice new eyes."

The city of Venice is made up of about 118 small islands.

Problem of Disposal of Solid Waste Eyed

LANSING (AP)—The average American community spends $6.80 a day to haul away, burn or bury the garbage — less than six pounds — that the average citizen throws out.

From that small beginning springs what the Michigan Chamber of Commerce calls a $3-billion problem in industrial and community waste disposal now facing the state.

* * *

The chamber has estimated that to get rid of the sophisticated by-products of industry and modern living may cost as much as 10 per cent of the gross national product within the next 20 years.

A chamber-sponsored meeting on the problem Wednesday drew some 250 experts, concerned government officials and industry representatives.

SOLID WASTE

Focus of the daylong conference was "solid waste," which, experts say, should be distinguished from common, household garbage. Most of that is food and can be burned or chemically decomposed.

Solid waste is the more sophisticated trash of modern technology: the thousands of gallons of paint solvent used and discarded by the auto industry; 30 million tons of paper abandoned every year, along with 26 billion bottles and 48 billion cans built to resist rust and destruction.

* * *

State efforts to deal with the problem were outlined by Fred B. Kellow, environmental engineer for the State Public Health Department.

Two bills now in legislative committees, Kellow said, would allow communities to increase taxes to treat industrial waste and also recieve federal funds to build incinerators or land fill dumps. Current state laws allow communities to tax only for garbage collection.

De Gaulle Seeking to Boost Referendum

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle makes one of his rare television appearances tonight to boost lagging interest in his referendum April 27 on constitutional reforms.

There was considerable expectation that De Gaulle would threaten to resign unless his proposals are approved.

* * *

In the referendum De Gaulle is seeking approval of his proposals to transfer some of the central government's enormous power to new regional governments and to reduce the national senate to a purely advisory role.

* * *

Raymond Tournoux, political editor of Paris Match, reported this week that the president had told an associate: "If the French refuse the referendum ... I shall not remain a day longer in the Elysee." The Elysee is the presidential palace.

Tournoux said De Gaulle takes the position that defeat of his proposals would represent a repudiation of him, and this would undermine the prestige which he feels is the base for French foreign policy.

* * *

Serge Maffert, political editor of France Soir, gave a similar report.

De Gaulle's TV appearance will be in a format he has used before, an interview with Michel Droit, editor of Le Figaro Litterraire. Droit is suing one newspaper for suggesting that his questions on previous "Meet the President" programs were supplied by the Elysee. But if past performance is any indication, the questions will be the ones De Gaulle wants to answer.

Fire Killed Wife, 5 of 6 Children

Friends Rally to Aid Father

CLARKSBURG, Mass. (AP) — Charles Mattimore can tell you: there are people who DO give a damn when a person's in trouble.

Two weeks ago, Mattimore, 33, was leaving his job on the night shift at the Sprague Electric Co., a little tired, looking forward to breakfast with his family.

* * *

At that very instant, his wife and six children were trapped in a roaring fire at the Mattimore home.

By the time he got there, Mrs. Mattimore, 32, was dead, along with five of the children ranging in age from 12 years to 16 months. The only surviving child was Frankie, 8, who had managed to scramble out through a window.

BUILDING HOME

In the days that followed, the residents of this quiet western Massachusetts town of 2,500 rallied around Mattimore and Frankie doing everything possible to ease their burden.

And now his friends are building the two a new home, furnishing without charge everything but the land and material. They would have provided that, too, but Mattimore said no. Instead, he is borrowing the cost of the material, $8,000 to $9,000 and the new house will go up on the lot where the old one stood.

The townsfolk set about their task like a corporation, forming committees and making plans.

A steering committee was selected to supervise the project. On it are a plumber, an electrician, a contractor, a heating specialist—even an interior decorator.

80 INVOLVED

In all, 80 people are involved. They expect to begin construction in about a month.

"We'll work until the house is ready to occupy," says Arthur W. Brule, a close friend of Mattimore. "Every hour of labor will be supplied by friends and other volunteers."

* * *

Brule, who is 39, is one of those best able to realize the extent of Mattimore's grief. He has eight children of his own.

"I have known him since he was 5 years old and we were both living in North Adams," Brule said. "I used to run around with his older brother.

WORKED TOGETHER

"Since he moved to Clarksburg three years ago we have been working together in parent groups, the Boy Scouts, a basketball league and a football league.

"Before all this happened we had been planning a summer camping trip to Maine."

Mattimore was not available for comment.

Brule says Mattimore was hesitant at first about letting his friends devote all their leisure time to building him a house.

"But now he's coming around and realizes that all we want to do is help," Brule said.

The women in the group of friends will have their own role in the project. When construction begins, they'll be preparing the meals for the men, and a few even say they want to help with the painting.

Word has spread to surrounding communities, and offers of assistance are coming in.

"We'll take all the help we can get," Brule says.

The quietest place in the world is said to be the "dead room" measuring 35 by 28 feet in the Bell Telephone System Laboratory at Murray Hill, N.J., that eliminates 99.98 per cent of reflected sound.

'DeBakey Asked Heart Probe'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Michael E. DeBakey personally asked the National Heart Institute to investigate whether federal guidelines were followed when his colleague Dr. Denton A. Cooley implanted the first artificial heart last week, the Washington Post said today.

The newspaper said DeBakey told officials of the institute that Cooley used an artificial heart of his design in Haskell Karp last Friday in Houston, Tex.

* * *

DeBakey and Cooley have declined to become publicly involved in the developing controversy, but the institute said Tuesday night it had asked DeBakey for a report on whether federal funds helped develop the mechanical heart Karp received and, if so, whether federal guidelines for such projects were followed.

DeBakey's artificial heart program has been supported by $1.5 million in federal money.

COOLEY'S VIEWPOINT

Cooley's aides said his device had been financed by the Texas Heart Institute and research grants from heart associations in Alice, Huntsville and Weimar, Tex. Because of this, Cooley said, federal guidelines requiring the approval of a local committee of doctors before using experimental procedures on humans do not affect him.

Cooley placed a human heart in Karp's chest after the mechanical pump had kept him alive 65 hours. He died Tuesday when rejection symptoms were complicated by pneumonia and failing kidneys.

* * *

Dr. Domingo Liotta, the Argentine native who developed the artificial heart in 1959, credited Cooley with supervising over the last four months certain extreme modifications that opened the way for its use on Karp.

He said federal funds had been used through the years to gain experience and knowledge, but the heart used on Karp was not federally financed.

Karp's widow said Wednesday she was more than satisfied with everything that had been done for him.

"My husband was dead before and he would have been nothing if they didn't try," she told a news conference in Skokie, Ill., her home. "He was breathing and talking to me with the artificial heart in him."

* * *

Cooley said Karps, a 47-year-old printing estimator, could not have lived through Friday without the mechanical heart, which gave surgeons time to find a human donor.

* * *

DeBakey and Cooley formerly worked together at Methodist Hospital in Houston. DeBakey is president of Baylor University College of Medicine and Cooley is on the faculty.

Four months ago, however, Cooley moved to St. Luke's Hospital. Both head the cardiovascular surgery staffs of their hospitals.

DeBakey installed the first partial artificial heart, called a left ventricular bypass, three years ago. Cooley has performed 19 human-to-human heart transplants since last May 3.

In an experimental station in New Zealand recently, a ewe produced a 14-pound lamb from a transplanted fertilized sheep egg she received after it had spent five days in the reproductive system of a rabbit.

Congressional Aides Probe Home Title Insurance Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators looking into the costs of buying and selling homes are converging from two directions on the title insurance industry.

They want to know if premium rates have been set in violation of antitrust laws, and how titling costs borne by buyers and sellers of real estate relate to insurers' profits, loss pay-outs and operating costs.

* * *

So far, investigators have run into a lack of industry-wide statistics and a bewildering maze of local practices. But one investigator said indications are "that the American home-buyer is being overcharged $50 million annually for title insurance . . ."

A title industry spokesman disputed that claim. He said the business is misunderstood by the public and that an investigation might be a good way to bring it into the light.

Title insurance is designed to protect financially the home owner and mortgage lender against the chance that title to their property will be contested because of old liens, back taxes or the return of missing heirs.

A preliminary inquiry into the industry's operations already is being conducted by staff members of the Senate Banking Committee and the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee.

* * *

The banking committee expects to hold public hearings in early summer. Its second-ranking Democrat, Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin, earlier asked the Federal Reserve Board to investigate title insurance premiums as part of its responsibility in administering the new truth-in-lending law. The board refused.

"The latest authoritative data we have indicates that the loss ratio for title insurance companies was about 1.7 per cent," Proxmire said. "This means for every $100 that the title insurance companies take in in premiums, they pay out only $1.70 in claims."

Aides to the antitrust and monopoly subcommittee under Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., moved into title insurance as an adjunct to their probe of auto insurance. But they are expected to leave public hearings to the Baking Committee.

Dean E. Sharp, the subcommittee's assistant counsel, told a meeting of Philadelphia underwriters this month that "preliminary studies indicate that the American home-buyer is being overcharged $50 million annually for title insurance alone."

* * *

Title insurance industry spokesmen contend it is erroneous to consider loss ratios in their business in the same way they are considered in automobile or other casualty insurance. They maintain that the bulk of titling fees actually pay for the investigative work to make certain the title is included.

The government itself is a major purchaser of title insurance.

FHA STUDIES SETUP

The Federal Housing Administration is currently studying whether it should quit buying title insurance on houses it repossesses and then resells. The study follows a General Accounting Office report that FHA could save $2.7 million this budget year simply by guaranteeing title itself rather than buying insurance.

The GAO checked title searches on one set of 9,000 properties the FHA acquired during 1966. It found that the minor defects in titles had all been corrected for a total expenditure of less than $1,000, but that FHA had paid $687,000 for title insurance on the properties.

* * *

National title insurance firms for some years have charged $3.50 per $1,000 of property sale price for an owner's policy and $2.50 per $1,000 for a mortgage lender's policy. A policy protecting both costs slightly more than an owner's policy. A one-time-only premium is paid when the policy is issued.

Many title men commonly refer to these rates as the national rates, but others, aware of antitrust implications of rate uniformity, studiously avoid terming them national rates. They acknowledge, however, that uniform rates in practice exist nationally.

NO ANTITRUST PROBE

The Department of Justice said it has never investigated title insurance rates from an antitrust standpoint. The department, however, has opposed some mergers of title firms on antitrust grounds.

Prof. John Payne of the University of Alabama Law School, a specialist in the field who is compiling figures on home-buying closing costs for the American Bar Association, wrote Proxmire's staff: "I would presume that the national rate is a violation of the antitrust laws."

* * *

"In any event," Payne said, "the national rate is not based on any rational criteria. No actuarial data as to title company operation is available, and the rate seems to have been fixed arbitrarily. The lack of information as to company operations is so far as I know, unique in the insurance industry."

The purchaser of title services normally pays one fee for the insurance risk premium and additional fees to an attorney, titling company or both for other titling services such as a legal opinion, preparation of an abstract and other documents.

Title industry officials acknowledge that the balance between rates for the insurance itself and for other services often does not accurately reflect the balance of costs to the company.

One company executive was asked how the firm's cost accounting treated such an imbalance.

"Cost accounting? My company doesn't even have a budget," he said.

America Was Garden of Eden

In 1758, Nathaniel Ames informed readers of his Almanac that the provincial horizon was not closed by the mountain barrier beyond the coastal plain of the Atlantic.

To the west of the Appalachians lay a region larger than all of France, Germany and Poland and "all provided with rivers, a very fine, wholesome air, a rich soil capable of producing food and physick, and all things necessary for the conveniency and delight of life."

Junior Editors Quiz on CENTRIFUGAL FORCE

QUESTION: Can you tell us about centrifugal force?

* * *

ANSWER: In the picture, the earth is attracted to the sun by gravitation. The rope holds the bucket to the boy; and the electron is electrically attracted to the nucleus. But the whirling movements in all these cases produce centrifugal force, which tends to make spinning things fly outward. It is this force which makes the water press outward so it doesn't spill from the bucket.

In all three cases, the force which presses out, and the force which attracts are balanced. Thus earth, bucket and electron keep on their paths as they spin around.

At the lower right, we show an electron spinning around a nucleus (upper part of small picture). It is, however, spinning much faster than this upper picture suggests.

The middle one shows more paths taken by the electron. In reality, the electron is whizzing around at the inconceivable speed of no less than 7 million billion times a second. Its paths are so fast they make a kind of shell around the nucleus. If it were not for centrifugal force, this whole structure would fall apart.

Museum in NY Celebrating Its Centennial

NEW YORK (AP) — Helmut Sommer, bone preparer for the American Museum of Natural History, hefted the jaw of a whale that once swam in the Coney Island aquarium.

"Why are its teeth black?" he was asked.

* * *

"Water pollution," replied Sommer, who was helping prepare the museum's centennial exhibition, someberly titled "Can Man Survive?"

The museum alongside Central Park, where a kid from Harlem or Brooklyn can explore the world and universe for the price of a subway ride, was 100 years old yesterday.

10-YEAR RENEWAL

In preparing for the centennial exhibit, opening in May, director James Oliver has begun a 10-year program to renew 15 of the 58 exhibition halls.

Old, pollution-free bones of dinosaurs and the like have been dysted off. New exhibits have been mounted.

* * *

The Star of India and other jewels, stolen several years ago in a sensational burglary, are back in their display cases.

Only a few of the 16 million objects collected by the museum over the years are displayed in 200 scenes, in which every animal, plant, bug, bird and person is painstakingly authentic.

ALL AGES ATTRACTED

Children and adults lose themselves in the autumn stillness of a lake in upper New York State; watch two huge male moose clash over a female in the Alashan tundra, or see a pair of lyre-horned bongos in an African bamboo grove.

The Hall of Man in Africa, which opened last year, uses color, lighting, music and graphic display in exhibits which are not only scientific, but artistic.

Another new exhibit in the old museum — a turreted Romanesque castle — has a 94-foot whale coming through the ceiling of the Hall of Ocean Life. The whale is made of light, man-made material, because, a curator said, "whale skin is just too delicate."

* * *

At one end of the museum is the Hayden Planetarium, where visitors are transported into outer space, projected on a domed ceiling.

But because so few of the museum's annual 3.2 million visitors attended night sky shows, the planetarium opens only in the afternoons.

The first of the museum's 19 buildings was opened in 1878, nine years after the charter was signed on April 9, 1869. Theodore Roosevelt, his father, financier J. P. Morgan and others helped raise money.

* * *

The original staff of two scientists — founder Albert S. Bickmore and an assistant — has grown to more than 100.

They conduct some 300 research projects at the museum and five permanent field stations — in the Caribbean, Florida and Arizona with two on Long Island.

MEDALS PRESENTED

Last night's ceremonies included the presentation of gold medals to five scientists and the crew of the Apollo 9.

The scientists are Theodosius Dobzhansky, geneticist and philosopher at Rockefeller University; Libbie Henrietta Hyman, the museum's expert on living invertebrates; orinthologist Ernst Mayr, who is director of Harvard's Museum of Comparative Zoology; anthrolpologist Margaret Mead; and George Gaylord Simpson, professor of vertebrate paleontology at Harvard and professor of geology at the University of Arizona.

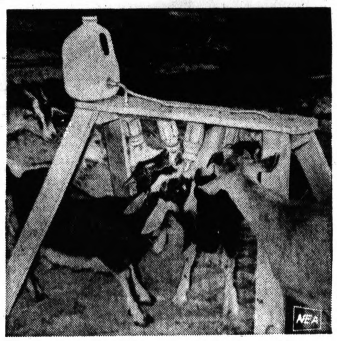
* * *

The Apollo 9 astronauts — Col. James A. McDivvitt, Col. David R. Scott, and civilian Russell L. Schweickart— were honored for "leadership among men in the search for knowledge."

Rainmaking Bill's Timing a Bit Off

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — With rivers flooding in much of Minnesota, the state house of representatives gave preliminary approval Wednesday to a rainmaking bill.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Sam Barr of Ortonville, would permit counties to levy up to $5,000 a year for contracting with cloud-seeking firms.



MECHANICAL MOM — No kidding, machines are replacing everything, it seems, even mother. The baby goats at Florida's Silver Springs find the setup efficient in everything but mother love.

TV Stars Turn to 'Moonlighting' for Extra Cash

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Television stars, it seems, do not live by TV alone. In varied "moonlighting" jobs, they're packing away a bundle of extra cash by cashing in on their television exposure to do other types of entertaining between video seasons. The stars feel it also helps remind viewers there's a real person behind the television personality.)

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK—Now that most television series have wrapped up the current season's output, actors are scurrying off in all directions to make what Irene Ryan of "Beverly Hillbillies" calls "keepin' money."

★ ★ ★

Dan Rowan and Dick Martin of "Laugh-In" will parlay their popularity by doing a movie. The western and country - style stars will be booked for state fair and rodeo appearances. Mike Landon and Dan Blocker of "Bonanza," for instance, have worked up a comedy-and-music act. So have Jim Drury and Doug McClure of "The Virginian."

★ ★ ★

Irene—Granny of the CBS country bumpkin success—found that a few warm weather appearances with some members of her TV company added several thousand dollars to her annual take-home pay.

All of a sudden, a number of performers who have been locked tightly into their TV action-adventure or situation comedy series have started busting out on the variety shows, usually doing something quite different from their customary TV characterizations—actors singing and dancing; sober heroes playing comedy.

COLLATERAL CAREERS

One of the strange developments within television has been the way performers have managed to develop important collateral careers within show business.

★ ★ ★

A perfect example is Jim Nabors, who made his first big splash playing an innocent fall guy in situation comedy and became the star of "Gomer Pyle." Then by some carefully managed moonlighting in variety specials and guest shots where he displayed his excellent singing voice, he has now reached a point where he will drop Gomer to become the star of his own weekly song-and-dance show next season.

★ ★ ★

Buddy Ebsen, who started as a Broadway song-and-dance man, was more or less stalled in character roles when he won a part in "Beverly Hillbillies." Now he makes frequent variety show appearances—usually impeccably dressed in dinner clothes—and has rebuilt his old image, part-time, of course.

★ ★ ★

The effect of appearing out of TV character serves to remind the audience that there is a performer named Buddy Ebsen under the Jed Clampett exterior. That is the prime reason Raymond Burr rarely misses a chance to clown on a variety hour. He started that to get away a little from his heroic "Perry Mason" image, and now likes to show the folks at home that he isn't really nailed into a wheelchair as his "Ironside" suggests.

MORE EXCITED

McClure, rarely seen away from his horse in "The Virginian," was more excited about a singing part in "That's Life," where he got a chance to wear a conventional business suit, than about his frequent parts in motion pictures.

"It's a chance to do something different," he said. "You can stretch your muscles—and the audience sees you in a different light."

★ ★ ★

Other unexpected side careers come along with TV popularity. Leonard Nimoy of "Star Trek" parlayed his characterization into a hit record in which he sang. He will make more. Then William Shatner, his costar and a stage actor with a fine background, followed him with a profitable excursion into the same area.

Larry Storch, who was doing well as a stand-up comedian and impressionist in nightclubs, was tapped for a comedy acting role in "F Troop." When he was booked for some variety guest shots afterwards, that public with its short memory was amazed—and he had a whole new nightclub career again.

EXCELLENT DANCER

Ken Berry, an excellent dancer, was picked for a role in the same series for his adroit footwork. As a stumbling comedy cavalry captain he proved so appealing that he now stars in the nondancing lead of "Mayberry, R.F.D."—with occasional variety show guest shots when he puts on his dancing shoes again.

Television has opened—and sometimes reopened—new entertainment avenues for many stars. Johnny Carson does comedy concerts and plays Las Vegas. Andy Williams travels the world in concerts. Joey Bishop moved from popular nightclub comic to actor with the situation comedy, "The Joey Bishop Show." Now he has moved on further, ad-libbing his way through his nightly "desk and sofa" show.

★ ★ ★

Girls who can sing and dance, like Barbara Eden, have built nightclub acts exploiting talents they use little in their television roles.

Most actors are interested in the profitable sideline of commercials. Sometimes they are anonymous salesmen, but viewers with sharp ears can readily identify such familiar voices as Jose Ferrar, Dick Cavett, Lloyd Bridges, Orson Bean. Some are indentifiable—Arthur Godrey, Eddie Albert, Joseph Cotten and Arlene Francis. The "Laugh-In" cast currently is romping all over the TV screen commercials and enjoying an extra financial harvest.

★ ★ ★

"The price is right and the exposure is fine," said one costar. "And, since you never know what will happen next in this business, all this is helpful. I still can't believe that I'd ever spend spare time for two years taking singing and dancing lessons. But it is beginning to pay off now."

U.S. Military Spending in Japan Is Up

TOKYO (AP) — U.S. military spending in Japan is increasing despite various economy moves by the U.S. Military Command.

Statistics on the Japanese balance of payments show that this country's receipts from U.S. forces in Japan for the first three months of the year totaled $144 million, up more than 10 per cent from a year earlier.

★ ★ ★

In 1968, according to the U.S. Commerce Department, direct spending in Japan by U.S. armed forces rose to $584 million from $530 million the previous year.

★ ★ ★

This amounts to more than half of Japan's 1968 balance of payments surplus which totaled $1.1 billion.

REST-RECREATION

The Commerce Department's figures include procurement of equipment and supplies from Japanese companies, repair of aircraft, vehicles and other equipment and various other expenditures, including most rest and recreation spending by U.S. soldiers who have been visiting Japan at the rate of about 500 a week.

★ ★ ★

Officials said the statistics do not include Japan's receipts from some other sources, such as subcontracts awarded to Japanese firms by U.S. defense contractors.

★ ★ ★

Part of the revenue is due to contracts and spending related to Vietnam and part from regular spending to maintain forces in Japan to defend Japan and South Korea.

★ ★ ★

Japan's total economic gain from the Vietnam war is hard to estimate because it involves indeterminable benefits, such as increased exports to countries such as Formosa, and South Korea, that are able to buy more Japanese goods because of their own foreign exchange earnings from the conflict.

★ ★ ★

Some estimates by Japanese and U.S. sources have placed Japan's annual revenue, direct and indirect, from the Vietnamese conflict at more than $1 billion.

'Outdoor Recreation Is County's Favorite'

Oakland County residents prefer to seek their recreation outdoors, a new survey shows.

A leisure-time activity report, prepared for the Oakland County's Planning and Parks and Recreation commissions by University of Michigan urban researchers, shows the outside preference ratio at four to one.

* * *

The trend toward "active" participation outside the home is especially true among those in higher-income groups, William M. Ladd, associate director of the University's Center for Urban Studies told the combined commissions in a meeting yesterday.

The report, based on 1,000 personal interviews and written by Ladd and Oleh Dug, says:

"In view of the virtual certainty that incomes will continue to rise in future years it is not unreasonable to assume that the demand for outdoor recreation will increase faster than the growth of the population."

AREA PARKS BUSIER

One indication of the trend toward outdoor activity was visitations to area parks. Almost two-thirds — 61 per cent — of the respondents mentioned they had visited at least one area park in the preceeding 12 months. Twenty-eight per cent said they had visited at least two parks during a similar period.

* * *

By a margin of about two to one, Oakland County residents believe that additional recreational facilities are needed, the survey showed. The proportion of those who favor expanded facilities decreases with the age of the family head and increases with those who have a greater propensity to engage in outdoor recreation, the study notes.

* * *

People mentioning a need for more facilities listed user's fees as the best way to expand the county's offerings. Such fees were most popular among white-collar workers other than professional and managerial, and blue-collar workers.

Data compiled in the study shows that Oakland County residents, like their counterparts in the rest of the country, most often participate in driving for relaxation, followed by picnicking and outdoor swimming.

STAYING IN COUNTY

Eighty per cent of those who listed driving for relaxation said they did so within the county. The percentages for picnicking and outdoor swimming were 81 per cent and 56 per cent, respectively.

According to the study, the three activities also rank highest in trms of family participation.

* * *

"Perhaps the popularity of these three activities derives largely from the fact that they are usually undertaken as a family affair," Ladd said.

* * *

The purpose of the study, according to Ladd, was to give the sponsors some idea of the current level of activities and residents' desires for expanded facilities and programs in Oakland County.

PGH Gives Extra Care to Employe

Hospital employes are said to receive the best hospital care when sick or injured. It must be true.

Her supervisor flew to Kentucky by private plane yesterday and brought Mrs. Birdie Blann back to recover at Pontiac General Hospital where she has worked for 18 years.

Mrs. Blann was trying to get away from the hospital when she was injured while traveling with two friends on the way to Florida for a vacation.

Miss Nancy Cates, supervisor of the emergency department went to Kentucky with the hope of bringing the 62-year-old licensed practical nurse back for a speedy recovery and return to work.

Beasly, Probate Judge Eugene A. Moore, Prosecutor Thomas E. Plunkett, Juvenile Director Jame Hunt, Attorney Lynn V. Hooe Jr., Madison Heights Constable Vernon Pebley, Police Academy Director Ralph Moxley, and citizens, Victor Woods, Robert Frye and Charles Tucker. Woods and Tucker are from Pontiac and Frye from Bloomfield Hills.

* * *

Richard Wilcox, R-Brandon Township was named to the county's personnel appeals board.

Area Man Arraigned on Assault Charge

A Waterford Township man stood mute at his arraignment yesterday on a charge of feloniously assaulting three policemen with a gun.

James A. Sammons, 47, of 3710 Ruterford was ordered to stand trial in Oakland County Circuit Court by Judge William J. Beer. A trial date was not set.

* * *

Sammons is accused of threatening two Waterford Township officers and an off-duty Pontiac officer who was serving him a divorce injunction Feb. 12. Sammons is free on $1,000 bond.

3 Face Trial in Alleged Try to Bribe Police

Three Pontiac men were ordered yesterday to stand trial in Oakland County Circuit Court on charges of conspiring to bribe two Pontiac policemen last September.

The defendants stood mute at their arraignment before Judge William J. Beer. No trial date was scheduled.

* * *

Those charged are Carmon Greene, 43, of 5 Pingree; William Moncier, 34, of 428 N. Perry; and Roy Murphy, 79, of 60 S. Marshall.

The alleged bribe, reportedly involving $800, was intended to influence a gambling case pending against Greene at the time.

* * *

The three were arrested after officers Robert H. Rood and Guy White, both of the vice squad, reported the offer to their superiors.

Court Delays Decision on Bronson Probe

The Oakland County Circuit Court bench has delayed until later this month a decision on whether a grand jury investigation will be undertaken into allegations made by an underworld informer about former Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson.

Five of the county's nine Circuit judges met briefly yesterday to discuss the petition for a grand jury but delayed taking action until all the judges could be present.

* * *

The grand jury was requested by Arthur J. Brandt Jr. of Bloomfield Hills, president of the Oakland County Conservative Club, and Orchard Lake Councilman David Bradbury.

* * *

They want the inquiry to probe statements made by Peter Lazaros of Troy concerning alleged corruption among numerous public officials, including Bronson who is now a judge on the Michigan Court of Appeals.

Team to Give Shots

Drive on Measles Set

Starting Monday, a team of doctors, nurses and technicians in three county school districts will begin an inoculation program aimed at eliminating rubella (German measles).

The school districts involved are Waterford Township, Farmington and Walled Lake. All children in kindergarten through third grade in the districts are eligible to receive the vaccine.

* * *

The program is sponsored by the Oakland County Medical Society, County Osteopathic Association, the County Department of Health and boards of education involved.

Rubella is known as a mild childhood disease, but when contracted by pregnant mothers it results in crippling damage to the unborn child.

The vaccine, a product of Parke, Davis and Co., is aimed at providing lifetime immunity. The parents of each child involved are being asked to sign authorization forms so that the program can be carried out.

Janet Odell, women's editor, (right) uses a portable tape recorder to obtain opinions of area women on the abortion law.

Poll of Pontiac Women Notes Abortion Dilemma

(Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of articles on abortion and the possible changes in the law.)

By JANET ODELL
Women's Editor, The Pontiac Press

If the 70 women who have expressed their opinions of the current abortion legislation are representative of Pontiac area women, some modified form of the bill should be passed by our state legislators.

For the past six weeks, I have been taking a tape recorder around to various group meetings. The women were promised anonymity, but gave their age and their religion.

Thirty-two are in favor of a completely liberal bill; one that would give women the right to legal abortion for any reason, including family planning.

Twenty-eight are for the alternative measure that would limit legal abortion to cases where the mother's physical or mental health is endangered; pregnancy results from rape or incest; or there is reason to believe a deformed child will be born.

AGAINST ABORTION

Ten spoke out unalterably against any change in the bill. About half of this group is Catholic and abide by the teaching they have been given; that abortion is murder and a mortal sin that one will have to answer for at the day of judgment. The other half just do not believe in abortion.

That the subject can be discussed with ease is in itself a radical change in our thinking. For years, abortion has been a hush-hush subject.

However, it has been a lot like prohibition. It is illegal, but those who want it, get it. And people are making money from another's misery. It is far more lethal than prohibition where death was not a constant threat if the law were flouted.

LEGISLATION

Someone has suggested that legalizing abortion is a bit like the fight for birth control. First, it was in the illegal state and perpetrators were prosecuted. Then it was brought out into the open and given widespread publicity.

Slowly the laws changed, responsive to the desires of the people whose lives are affected. But always it is the men who make these laws regarding women.

Finally, it is all legal and the fight to change something wrong shifts to another area.

OPINION POLL

No attempt was made to contact professionals whose work brings them into contact with the subject of abortion at times. I wanted to talk with average women of various ages and with a wide range of educational and economic backgrounds.

I had an interesting session with a group of teenagers, members of a YWCA group; these were the youngest interviewees. Some of my other groups included women in the grandmother stage, but the majority of them probably fall in the 25 to 45 range, the child bearing and rearing years.

The reaction from group to group was remarkably the same. A group of ADC mothers, on the whole, split on the issue about the same as a group of professional women.

It was interesting to note how often The Pill was mentioned. Some women were impatient about women who get pregnant when they already have large families or know that another pregnancy would be dangerous.

The acceptance of birth control is now so casual among those with whom I talked — even Catholic women — that it is just part of modern living.

Tomorrow: Many want changes in the law, but . . .

VIRGINIA KNAUER

Would Regulate Product Sizing for Consumers

By RICHARD M. ROMINIECKI
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mrs. Virginia H. Knauer, President Nixon's newly appointed special assistant on consumer affairs, says she hopes American housewives will consider her "their personal spokesman."

Mrs. Knauer, named by Nixon to succeed Betty Furness in the $28,000-a-year post, said in an interview Wednesday night she also intended to stay in her role as "an American housewife."

"I've been married 29 years, and I intend to continue shopping," she said.

As a prime target, Mrs. Knauer said she would seek greater standardization of product sizes.

"I've always said that unless a housewife wears bifocals and carries a small computer, it's almost impossible for her to figure out whether she's getting a bargain in a larger size," she said.

"The Truth-in-Packaging law provides for self-regulation by cutting down the number of sizes," Mrs. Knauer said. "I think we should go further and standardize sizes so that the housewife can find out quickly if she's getting a better buy.

Mrs. Knauer said the poor, uneducated and elderly are prime targets for unscrupulous operators, and that they would be given special attention by her office.

* * *

She said she would resign her present position as director of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Consumer Protection and establish residence in Washington.

Mrs. Knauer, 54, is married to Dr. Wilhelm F. Knauer, a Philadelphia attorney. They have two children.

Two Groups Schedule Friday Meetings

Mrs. Paul Schafer of Birmingham will discuss the appreciation of art at Friday's meeting of the University of Minnesota Women's Club at 12:15 p.m. in the Detroit home of Mrs. Douglas MacIntosh.

Assisting the hostess will be Mesdames: Gilbert Crandall, John Krupp, Lucas Miel and George Turner.

* * *

A sculpture demonstration in alabaster by Frank Highley of Franklin will highlight a meeting of the Pontiac Society of Artists Friday.

The meeting, which is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Pontiac Creative Arts Center, is open to the public.

OU Faculty Will Present 'Under Gaslight'

A 19th century melodrama will be staged at Oakland University this week with an "all-star" cast — of professors.

The play, "Under the Gaslight," will be presented at 8:30 tonight and Friday in Room 201 Dodge Hall of Engineering. The 1867 melodrama has been a popular production for the past two seasons of the American Drama Festival at Greenfield Village.

CHANCELLOR VARNER

Cast members in the OU production will include Chancellor D. B. Varner, Provost Donald D. O'Dowd and deans of all of the colleges. According to Norman Susskind, professor of French and the "villian" in the plot, this will be the first time in Oakland's 10-year history that the faculty has presented a play.

* * *

It will be directed by Alfred Lessing, associate professor of philosophy, who also has a leading role.

Others featured in the cast will be Robert Hoopes, chairman of the English department; Mrs. Harvey (Dolores) Burdick, associate professor of French; and Mrs. Alexander (Adeline) Hirschfeld, assistant professor of speech.

* * *

Proceeds will be used to feed and care for the University's deer herd, the support of which has been assumed entirely by the faculty. Any remaining funds will be contributed to the Isaac Jones Scholarship Fund, which provides financial aid for Negro students.

Displaying their Thespian talents in a 19th century melodrama, "Under the Gaslight," Oakland University faculty members rehearse for tonight's opening. From the left are Mrs. Harvey Burdick, associate professor of French; Norman Susskin, professor of French; Mrs. Janet Karpisek, instructor in Spanish; and Mrs. William White, professor of English. Curtain time in Room 201 Dodge Hall of Engineering is 8:30 p.m. with tickets available at the door.

Fellow Psychiatrists Branded 'Executioners'

DETROIT (AP) — An opponent of liberalized abortion laws Wednesday branded some of his fellow psychiatrists as "the executioners of our society."

Dr. Frank Ayd Jr., a Baltimore psychiatrist, criticized those who advocate free-wheeling sex, abortion, sterlization and mercy killings.

* * *

"The high priests of science," he declared, "have rejected traditional Judeo-Christian morality as obsolete and unworthy of adherence by men enlightened and freed by the discoveries and attainments of science."

"Ethics, they say, is situational," Ayd added. "There is a new morality which holds that every human act — even murder — is good, if it is motivated by 'love'."

America should ever be alert, he said, "to the dangers of translating scientific knowledge into public policy without carefully assessing the impact of the knowledge on human rights."

Teen Girl Gets Butterflies When She's With Older Man

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a very mature 17-year-old girl, and like a man who is 31. He has been married for eight years, but for six years he and his wife have had an understanding, and they do as they please with no questinns asked. He is a very nice person and he respects me.

I would like to talk to my mother about him, but I am sure she wouldn't understand. To me, age doesn't matter as long as we feel the same about each other. Whenever he is around, I get butterflies in my stomach. Can you advise me? BUTTERFLIES

DEAR BUTTERFLIES: What may feel like "butterflies" in your stomach could be bats in your belfry. I can't imagine bigger trouble for a 17-year-old girl than an involvement with a 31-year-old married man who has an "understanding" with his wife. He's not as "nice" as you think he is. Lose him.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Do you think there is any harm in women wrestling with each other in the privacy of a home if they are related or good friends?

My husband does.

My mother lives with us and we three get along fine. The other night my husband was asleep on the sofa and my mother and I were sitting on her bed, just talking. We were kidding around and started a playful pillow fight. It finally developed into a wrestling match. We got to laughing and screaming, and the noise woke my husband.

He was very mad at us and said two grown women should not be wrestling with each other. I honestly can't see anything wrong with it, can you? DARLENE

DEAR DARLENE: Not as long as you hold the noise down.

DEAR ABBY: We have a dear friend who is in her early 50s. She's attractive and younger looking and has been a widow for a few years. Her children are grown and married.

It seems that her boss, a twice married and twice divorced man in his 30s, has sold her a bill of goods. He wants to marry her! And she is apparently buying it!

We, her friends, have tried to convince her that it would be a mistake to marry this man — that he is looking for a mother, not a wife. What do you think? CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: I think the most useless thing in the world is unsolicited advice. Save yours.

Tartar Sauce Is Classic Blend

In the days when the wild Asiatic Tartars had captured the imagination of Frenchmen, Steak Tartare enjoyed a great vogue. The raw beef was accompanied by a condiment dish of capers, chopped onion and parsley.

When the perfect sauce for fish was sought, a genius of the kitchen added the classic tartare accompaniments — capers, chopped onion and parsley — to luxuriously smooth mayonnaise, stireed in a subtle blend of spices and herbs, and voila! the original Tartar Sauce.

Department stores first made their appearance in France, with the Bon Marche, opening in Paris in 1860 the first such store.

Conference to Help Loners

By JUNE ELERT

A conference for "People Alone" scheduled at Oakland University April 22, was described to me by Mrs. Eleanor Driver, of OU's Continuum Center, as a form of sensitivity training for the formerly-married.

Mrs. Driver said, "In our work with widows and divorcees, we have discovered a tendency on their part to withdraw from society, to hide, to lick their wounds in private.

"Though this is a part of the healing process, there comes a time when finding the courage to risk forming new and different relationships is mandatory for the survival of the individual."

★ ★ ★

Sensitivity training is being used extensively these days, though this is the first conference of this type offered at Oakland University.

It is, on the surface, a simple technique. Participants work together in small groups, learning through analysis of their experiences within the group, including their feelings, reactions, perceptions and behavior.

INTERACTIONS

Through its interaction, members learn how their own motives, feelings and strategies are seen by others. They learn to assess the degree to which their image corresponds to or deviates from their conscious intentions.

The staff person (trainer's) role is to facilitate the examination and understanding of the members' experiences.

★ ★ ★

Begun as an experiment by the National Training Laboratory Institute for Applied Behavorial Science, back in 1947, T-Group training has grown into an international movement for gaining skills of human collaboration and self-understanding.

OU's one-day conference (termed a micro-lab) will be conducted by Mildred Peters, Ph.D., and Orian Worden, PhD., both of whom have had extensive experience with this type of training.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Peters is Professor of Guidance and Couseling in the College of Education of Wayne State University.

In order to obtain the services of these two trainers, it was necessary to schedule this conference on a weekday.

Mrs. Driver suggests that working people, men and women, will find it worth their while to take a day off from their jobs to attend this Tuesday conference, which begins with registration and coffee at Oakland Center at 9 a.m.

It will continue, with a noon luncheon break, until 2:30 p.m. Cost for the complete day is $7.

Linda Ann Smothers enters court in Santa Monica, Calif., Wednesday to seek a divorce from comedian Dick Smothers. She was granted it after three minutes of testimony in which she said Smothers told her it was none of her business when she asked where he'd been until 5 or 6 in the morning.

Walnuts in Salad Add Bit of Crunch

For a new salad, combine 2 cups cooked seafood, 1 cup chopped celery, and ¼ cup sliced stuffed olives. Then add 1 cup chopped, toasted California walnuts to give the salad delightful crunch and flavor interest.

Toss with mayonnaise, which has been seasoned with curry to taste. Serve on crisp lettuce. Garnish with hard cooked eggs and tomato wedges.

Case No. J-549

Keep Track of "Week"

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE J-549: Miriam D., aged 28, is almost a nervous wreck.

"Dr. Crane," she moaned, "we have been married for six years.

DR. CRANE

But we have no children!

"Yet I had always hoped to have several babies. Our physician has checked my husband and me and says we are normal.

"Still I never get pregnant, so what could be wrong?"

PSEUDOCYESIS

Many wives grow so obsessed with their desire to have a baby that they become abnormally tense and thus disturb the smooth functioning of their internal glands.

You readers know that stage fright can thus upset the action of your stomach and kill your normal hunger.

Fear can likewise kill erotic passion.

It can also zoom your blood pressure and produce an angina attact.

But some wives can also induce swelling of the abdomen, with enlargement of the breasts, morning sickness and other bodily signs of a real preganancy, yet this is all a case of self-hypnosis.

They are not pregnant at all. We medics call this pseudocyesis or "false pregnancy."

★ ★ ★

So the subconscious mind can produce remarkable upsets in your normal physiology.

If a married couple are apparently normal, yet still do not have children, they may adopt a baby, which often relaxes the wife till soon she may get pregnant.

But here are some medico-psychological remedies that have produced hundreds of pregnancies in formerly childless couples:

● The male sperm may lose their potency even within 6 hours, so many couples miss by chance alone their likelihood of pregnancy.

The female egg (ovum) may also deteriorate so fast that it is incapable of being fertilized after 12 hours from the time it ruptures free from the ovary.

★ ★ ★

● Thus, the 6-hour viable sperm and 12-hour ovum must overlap the menstrual cycle or a normal couple may remain childless through 20 years of marriage.

So it behooves the couple to have more frequent marital relations during the "pregnancy week."

● The "pregnancy week." Is determined by marking the 15th day before the onset of the wife's next period, and then allotting an extra 3 days on both sides thereof.

Marital relations within that 7-day span will likely produce pregnancy, if the couple are otherwise normal.

● Excessive acidity of the vagina may also prevent conception, for the sperm become paralyzed in an acid environment.

To offset this condition, a wife can use one teaspoon of kitchen baking soda per quart of warm water and employ this as a preliminary douche.

★ ★ ★

Literally hundreds of wives have reported quick pregnancy after they followed these simple remedies, vet many of them had been childless for as many as 18 years, despite hormone shots and surgery to straighten a tipped womb.

Such Bible women as Sarah, Rachel and Hannah, were apparently sterile for many years until relaxation of nervous tension or an accidental overlap of those 6-hour and 12-hour spans occurred.

Bake in Rounds

Shape pie crust, mix dough into 8-inch rounds, bake, cool and layer with with a filling of prepared vanilla instant pudding, almond extract and toasted chopped almonds. You can toast the almonds in the oven while your pastry bakes.

About 180,500 people in 1967 visited Chartwell, home of Sir Winston Churchill in England.

An Aug. 16 wedding is planned by Susan Elizabeth Wiant and Thomas Francis Kearney. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Carl Metz of Karen Lane, Bloomfield Township and the late Thoburn H. Wiant. Her fiance is the son of Frank J. Kearney of Grosse Pointe and Mrs. William Gordon of West Palm Beach, Fla. The couple has attended the University of Michigan.

Help for Inventors Is Made Available

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

We've been called a nation of gimmick and gadget worshippers — and we probably are. Show the average housewife a product that'll freeze, fry and flip the pancakes and she'll go for it. And tempt the average man with a bottle opener that also drives nails and cuts wire, and he's hooked.

★ ★ ★

All of which keeps us a nation of busy inventors and idea-developers — even if many of the marvels dreamed up never make it to the marketplace.

When the letters come in saying "I have an idea I would like to patent," there's always a chance that still it is one that eventually will save us all a little money.

★ ★ ★

Dear Miss Feeley: I have an idea I would like to patent. Do I send to the U.S. Patent Office for an application, or do I just hire a patent attorney and let him handle the whole transaction?

Can you give me some idea of costs involved? And how I can protect my idea before I get a patent?

M.C., Hackensack, N.J.

Dear M. C.: The people at the U. S. Government Small Business Administration and the Dept. of Commerce, who figuratively hold the hands of you novice inventors, are all set with pamphlets and booklets you'll want to read before you take action on any idea.

These two pamphlets are for free: "Know Your Patenting Procedures" (Management Aids Publication No. 49), and "Small Business Profits from Unpatentable Ideas" (publication No. 53).

CRYSTALIZE IDEA

The pamphlets outlining procedures for applying for a patent puts emphasis on the importance of crystalizing your idea in your own mind, then analyzing it. Is it sound mechanically, is it novel, will it serve a good purpose for an existing market, is it actually patentable, no matter how good it may be?

Points of caution, problems that confront the inventor, how to apply for a patent, what happens to your application in the Patent Office, and what's not patentable are among the helpful angles discussed. You can write for these pamphlets to: Small Business Administration, Care of Publications, 26 Federal Plaza, New York, N.Y. 100007.

The Dept. of Commerce's booklet entitled "General Information Concerning Patents" — and another called "Guide for Patent Draftsmen" — cost 20 cents each. Send requests for these, plus coins, to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C. 20402.

With all this information absorbed, you'll have a pretty good idea whether it's worthwhile to apply for a patent in the first place. Then you can start thinking in terms of cost.

While you can proceed on your own, it's apt to be a lot safer to have the services of a registered patent attorney. The SBM estimates that applying for a patent would run around $100 if you do the job yourself.

If you prefer to rely on professional help, the fee might range from about $300 to $500. Keep in mind that the patent attorney's fee includes the various expenses of filing an application, plus additional expenses encountered along the way. And all the headaches, too.

An open house from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday in Four Towns Church Hall will mark the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charley W. Kelley of Pickbourne Street, Commerce Township. The pair was married in Pontiac April 12, 1919. Their five children are Charley Wallace Jr. of Berkley, Paul and Darrell, both of Clawson, Harold of Royal Oak, and Mrs. Richard Johnstone of Birmingham. They have 20 grandchildren and 9 great-grandchildren.

Miss Kandt Speaks Vows

North Branch Methodist Church was the setting Saturday for the marriage of Shirley Kandt and Bruce Walls.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Robert Tobin of Troy and Albert Kandt of Toledo, Ohio. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Walls of Second Avenue.

* * *

Attired in an A-line gown of taffeta and lace, the bride was attended by Cheryl Walls. Becky Seeley was flower girl for her aunt.

Best man for the evening nuptials was James Hutchcraft with Scott Walls, nephew of the bridegroom, as ring bearer and Mark Seeley as usher.

* * *

A reception was held in the church parlors.

The birdegroom will be returning to Jacksonville, Fla., where he is serving with the Navy as an Airman Apprentice.

Almost nine out of 10 passengers last year traveled between cities by auto or bus, with private automobiles accounting for 87.18 per cent of intercity traffic.

Tarnish Remover

Tarnish can be removed from copper kitchen utensils by making a paste of equal parts of flour, salt and vinegar. Apply and rub briskly, then wash and dry thoroughly.

Dry on Hangers

On a rainy wash day, when the family wash must be dried indoors, use wooden coat hangers for dresses, shirts, blouses and nightgowns. This saves space, and the clothes hung on them dry faster and evener, making them easier to iron.

The sales of Mercedes automobiles in the United States rose 20 per cent to almost 12,000 units in the first half of this year, compared with the 1967 period.

New Potatoes Cook in Foil

Scrub small potatoes—the red skinned variety are excellent. Peel them, leaving a band of skin around the center. Pace potatoes on a large square of heavy duty foil and season with salt and pepper. Add 2 tablespoons of water and seal the foil to make an airtight package.

Place on a pan and bake in the oven. They will take 1½ hours at 300 degrees for 2" in diameter potatoes.

Questions That Sandy Spinach Was Cause

By DR. HOWARD E. KESSLER

"Spinach ruined my teeth," writes a 69-year-old man. "When I was younger, I ate spinach all the time and the grit wore my teeth down almost to the gum line.

KESSLER

"I ate so much of it because I was told it was good for me and the iron in it would make me strong and healthy."

"By the way," his letter continued, "whatever happened to spinach? I never hear it recommended very much any more."

First of all, is this reader sure that eating sandy spinach was the main cause of the wearing down of his teeth?

True, the ancient Egyptians often abraided their teeth down to the gums by eating grain which had been incorporated tiny crystaline particles from the stone mortars that ground the meal. Skulls found along the Nile River prove this.

However, I question whether this gentleman would have eaten spinach that had enough sand particles to do so much damage to his teeth.

In addition to the normal wearing that teeth experience throughout the years, there must have been other factors involved. Constant tobacco chewing would tend to wear teeth more than spinach eating.

No, we do not hear as much about spinach as we used to years ago. The Popeye character still is around, but the nutrition experts do not seem to recommend spinach for its healthful benefits as they once did.

There is a reason given for this. As we have always been told, spinach is high in iron content. But, modern studies have demonstrated that the digestive tract does not easily pick up the form of iron found in spinach.

In this respect, there are better sources of iron, such as whole-grain cereals, meats, seeds and eggs.

This does not mean that the normal individual who likes spinach should stay away from it.

Also, it does not mean that those who eat plenty of other green vegetables but dislike spinach should force themselves to eat it.

A little book on diet and dental health can be yours free of charge by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Howard E. Kessler, THE PONTIAC PRESS, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Michigan 48056.

Own a Bathtub? Heavens to Betsy!

It seems incredible that soaking in a bathtub was almost prohibited by law in the early 1800s. An ordinance introduced in the Philadelphia Common Council, to prohibit bathing from Nov. 1 to March 15, was defeated by only two votes!

In those days, even medical experts warned against bathing during the cold months. Anybody who bought a bathtub was considered snobbish as well as foolish.

The long struggle to keep clean is a part of American history entertainingly told in "The Frugal Housewife," a little book now out of print. The author, Ruth Freeman, related stories told in her own family for generations — how they devoted Saturday night to scrubbing beside the hot kitchen stove, sometimes getting burned in tender places!

* * *

And how some families had so little water that everybody had to share the same soapy tubful. The author says that the adage, "Cleanliness is next to Godliness," came from a starved "dream of a heaven filled with oceans of warm, clean, sudsy water."

These Driving Rules Helpful to All Ages

Most senior citizens enjoy the use of their cars and many handle them with skill. There is no reason why they should not continue to drive, as long as they are in good health, have good vision, and keep abreast of traffic laws and rules of the road.

The passing years, unfortunately, take their toll of the best of us, and sometimes this happens so gradually that we are not aware of the change. Many times these changes occur in persons much younger than 65, thus it is difficult to define any "age" as a time when one reaches the "senior citizen" years of life.

Traffic conditions today demand more of every driver, regardless of age, than they did ten or twenty years ago. Following are ten points to consider if you want to make driving safer for you.

- Get your doctor's frank advice about driving — and follow his advice.
- Keep up to date on traffic laws and rules of safe driving.
- Don't obstruct fast moving traffic by unreasonably slow driving.
- Plan every trip — short or long — before you set out. Avoid heavily traveled or high speed routes and "rush" hours.
- Keep your car in good condition. Keep your windshield and headlights clean and have regular checkups on brakes, lights, tires, turn signals, etc.

New Society Focuses on Men's Rights

ANN ARBOR — The formation of the Society for the Emancipation of the American Male, which is dedicated to "restoring the American patriarchy" and returning the male to "his rightful place at the head of the family," was announced here today.

According to a spokesman, Carlton M. Brown, the new Society (S.E.A.M.) was organized in response to the proliferation of militant feminist organizations such as the recently formed National Organization for Women (N.O.W.) and the Women's Liberation Movement, which he observed, "are dissatisfied with the progress the early feminists made botching up themselves, their families and the country."

S.E.A.M. also aims to "preserve the family, to encourage a healthy polarity between the sexes, and to extol the sanctity of the male and female roles" while freeing the American male from discriminatory divorce, alimony and child custody laws."

* * *

The new Society is making a public appeal for memberships, and if it receives sufficient support, hopes to bring out a new publication called The Patriarch, which will advise men on how to regain control of their families and coach women in the art of pleasing and holding onto their husbands. The Society's address is: P. O. Box 211, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48107.

"Our Society views with great concern," Brown said, "the current epidemic of psychiatric disorders, alcoholism, drug addiction, divorce, desertions, identity crises, homosexuality, widowing, wife-murdering, child-beating, violence and juvenile delinquency. No nation afflicted with such a high incidence of these misfortunes is truly free.

"These problems are known to be far less common in patriarchies, such as Italy, Greece, Japan and India, where men still rule their homes," Brown said. "But in America, our mental institutions and prisons are full of people who come from quarrelsome families or from families where the women are put on pedestals, and we can't build hospitals and prisons fast enough and big enough to accomodate them all. Surely it is no coincidence that psychiatry has prospered and grown along side the feminist movement in the U.S."

MALE ELEVATED

America, Brown said, "has gone far astray of its spiritual heritage and its Judeo-Christian traditions, which were quite clear and to the point on the matter of male-female relations. The Holy Scriptures of all nations elevated the male while esteeming the woman who is humble, obedient and solicitous of her husband. If they agree on nothing else, the great religions, East and West, have at least agreed on this point."

Brown said that the idea for the Society was inspired by a recent tidal wave of articles, books and commentaries by eminent authors, psychiatrists, public figures and foreign observers, "all of whom seem to agree that American male-female relations are a scandal."

A few of the public figures who have addressed themselves recently to the problem include authors Norman Mailer, William Saroyan, John Steinand John Knowles; Cassius Clay, Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz, Divorce Lawyer Samuel G. Kling; British writer Malcolm Bradbury, British satirist C. Northcote Parkinson, the British psychiatrist Joshua Bierer, Italian journalist Oriana Fallaci, Italian actress Gina Lollobrigida, and Greek writer.

"The interesting thing," says Brown, "is that the American writers are beginning to agree. Stephanos Zotos, with what the foreign writers have been telling us all along." Miss Fallaci declares that "The American Woman is a man." Dr. Bierer observes that "women rule the U.S. and American men have turned over everything to their wives." Bradbury writes that "all fathers have been symbolically slaughtered" in America.

* * *

Gina Lollobrigida observes that "In Europe, the man is god, but in America, women are so important, so selfish and so powerful that they can almost live without men."

* * *

Parkinson points out that American women "began to lose control of their children when they ceased to submit to the control of their husbands." And Zotos writes that there is no feminist movement in Greece simply because the Greek women prefer to retain their feminity and are happier under male domination; while Greek men belive that American women, in winning equal rights, have lost charm of their femininity.

Of all American writers, Brown said, Norman Mailer came closest to diagnosing the problem when he wrote recently that "the womanization of America" has come about "because the men have collaborated with them" and have gotten into the habit of marrying "women who will be less good for them in the home and more good for them in the world."

The answer, Brown suggested, "is, of course, to stop collaborating with the worldly ones and to start collaborating with the homey ones."

But most inspirational of all to the new organization was an article by the distinguished Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz, who is concerned about widespread juvenile delinquency in the U.S. "The American teenager," Judge Leibowitz wrote, "has been raised in a household where 'obey' is an outlawed word, and where the mother has put herself at the head of the family.

Everytime Mother overrules Father, undermining his authority and standing in the child's eyes, she knocks a piece off the foundation on which the child stands . . . On a visit to Italy, I found the nine-word principle that I think can do more for us than all the committees, ordinances and multi-million-dollar programs combined: Put Father back at the head of the family."

And that, says Brown, is precisely what S.E.A.M. proposes to do.

* * *

"There are millions of people in America," Brown said, "who have gone through hell with their families, in one way or another, and who are waking up to the fact that there is something very wrong in a country that has nine million widows, eight million fathers who have deserted their families, 20 million mentally ill persons, six million alcoholics, and eight million homosexuals (many of them reluctant).

There's got to be something wrong in a country where half of all working-age women are employed and are away from their homes and their families much of the time, and where the average life-span of the male shrinks with each passing decade. A lot of women in America have criticized and nagged their husbands into madhouses and early graves.

"But," Brown added, "we can't blame everything on the women. We men are equally to blame for putting up with it. We've collaborated far too long. And we've spent too much time away from our homes chasing the buck and too much time away from our families watching TV. Many of us have tended to run away from our responsibilities, and when our women masculinized themselves by assuming our responsibilities, we've complained bitterly because they lost their femininity and attraction to us. We've turned a lot of once lovely and good women into masculinized and embittered neurotics simply by shirking our responsibilities as men and by not treating them like women and respecting their femininity, but by treating them like objects or like brothers."

S.E.A.M. aims to help men realize their potential and inner strength and to foster their mental and physical health. Says Brown: "It's time we got away from the TV, comic-strip boob image of the American male who exists only as a sort of servant-straight-man for a nagging wife and her smart-mouth kids."

Annual membership dues for men are $5. Membership dues in the Society's Ladies' Auxiliary are also $5. Both memberships include a subscription to The Patriarch. Memberships may be secured by writing to Box 211, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48107. "We expect," Brown said, "that a lot of ladies who feel that they could be better wives and women to their men are going to join our Ladies' Auxiliary, and we hope to encourage a good deal of discussion of the problem in our publication among both our male and female members."

* *

Brown himself is happily married and a father.

Many centuries ago, Brown said, the Hindu sage Vatsyayana advised the women of India as follows:

"A virtuous woman, who has affection for her husband, should act in conformity with his wishes as if he were a divine being. She should surpass all the women of her own rank in her manner of serving her husband."

* * *

"You can find precisely the same sentiments in the Old Testament, the New Testament and the Koran," Brown said. "But nobody pays much attention to wise men anymore."

New U.S. Suicide Goal: Find Out Why

CHEVY CHASE, Md. (UPI) — The federal government is revamping its suicide prevention program under a new director who wants to find out more about why people kill themselves.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Harvey L. P. Resnik, newly appointed chief of the Center for Studies of Suicide Prevention, a division of the National Intsitute of Mental Health, said in an interview:

"You can say that the mission under Resnik will be to change the orientation of the center from simply increasing the number of suicide prevention centers to study of self-destructive behaviors, such as 'accidental' poisonings, one-car 'accidents' and drug abuse."

RESEARCH EMPHASIS

The 38-year-old suicidologist said he wanted to bring a new training and research emphasis to the center, which in the past has been primarily involved with preventoin of suicide, and intervention and consultation for potential suicides.

These services will be continued. "This was fundamental for the inception of the program," Resnik said, but added. "Now the highlights will be moving toward training and research."

★ ★ ★

Resnik said he wants to take a close look at such questions as whether suicidal persons evaluate life and death differently from nonsuicidal persons; the extent of suicide among children and teen-agers, and whether individuals facing imminent death are suicide-prone.

"We have found that people who kill themselves are often preoccupied with death," he said. "So we need more research in death and dying, which has even more taboos than suicide."

AN OUTGROWTH

The government's suicide prevention program, headquartered in Chevy Chase just outside Washington, D. C., was established in late 1966 as an outgrowth of the Los Angeles Suicide Presentation Center, which was organized under a federal grant.

Since then, suicide prevention centers have sprung up around the nation, and now there are 109, all of them open 365 days a year.

★ ★ ★

Resnik, an internationally recognized suicidologist, is on leave of absence as professor and deputy chairman of the psychiatry department of Buffalo (N. Y.) State University

Suicide prevention, said Resnik, is an important government function.

10th COMMON CAUSE

Suicide is the 10th most common cause of death in the United States: more than 25,000 suicides are reported every year.

★ ★ ★

"We have research information that at least half again as many go unreported," Resnik declared.

★ ★ ★

The average male suicide is a 40-year-old white person, middle class, married and supporting a family, he said.

"Not only does suicide take from society his potential," said Resnik, "but he leaves behind a terrible burden on his survivors. They often may be struck down —the same way."

Dr. Calvin J. Frederick, assistant chief of the center, described some current research efforts in a separate interview:

● Suicide among youngsters —A grant has been awarded to a University of Nebraska pediatrician, Dr. Matilda S. McIntire, to find out more about suicide among children. "When they poison themselves," Frederick said, "there is some evidence to indicate this is not always accidental."

★ ★ ★

● Suicide among college students: Although data is difficult to find, "we think the student rate is 15 per 100,000 in the United States. It may be more." The national average is 11 per 100,000 he said. "That's an area we are very interested in exploring because it is going to get worse before it gets better."

● Suicide reporting: "We have found from two studies we funded that coroners don't provide reliable, accurate data in suicide deaths. We are trying to suggest standard criteria.

PREDISPOSITION EYED

Other research is trying to determine the predisposition to suicide among retarded children in a California institution, among terminal patients in a Massachusetts hospital living with the prospect of imminent death, among Negroes in a large Midwestern city and among Navajo Indians.

Another study is directed at the extent of religious belief as a deterrent. Still another is considering the possibility that some individuals commit suicide by provoking others to kill them.

★ ★ ★

Resnik said there is even research planned into why some people engage in activities with high lethality, such as driving erratically, smoking heavily with the knowledge it may be unhealthy, or drinking excessively.

Uranium King Faces Bankruptcy Action

RENO, Nev. (AP) — In a mansion high on a forested hillside, a tough, proud man talks of a mineral empire and wonders how to pay household bills.

Charlie Steen, the man who discovered a $61-million uranium deposit in the Utah canyons in 1952, is facing bankruptcy action.

★ ★ ★

And while he stews over his problems, he knocks about in a million-dollar home that costs $2,500 a month to run, borrows from friends and tries to keep things going.

Creditors claim he owes them $6 million. But he has no cash.

WORTH $19 MILLION

By his own estimate he's worth $19 million. But his assets are mostly in the ground, waiting to be pumped or mined, and the Internal Revenue Service has them frozen there because it says he owes the government $1.6 million.

The Steen establishment—house is not an adequate word—commands a hillside view over the Washoe Valley south of Reno. Five pagoda-style spires poke above the pines. The doors are giant slabs of marble.

★ ★ ★

Inside the ironies appear.

Sweeping back from a kitchen alcove is a row of cabinets that once held a $5,000 liquor stockpile. "Now we're down to the creme de menth," Steen laments.

A mobile, transparent roof over a plush indoor patio won't slide back properly because the motor needs repair.

EMPTY DRAWERS

Off the master bedroom is Steen's dressing room, with rows of shirt drawers—empty.

Seventeen years ago, Charles Augustus Steen bored into a gray-black bed of Utah ore and became the crown prince of quick wealth in uranium.

★ ★ ★

"I used to buy 12 or 15 shirts at a time, then wear them until they all wore out," he says. "They all wore out at the wrong time."

His staff of five servants has dwindled to a girl who works part-time.

His ranch manager went 14 months without a payday.

Guests can still breakfast at noon, in a formal dining room where a marble floor bridges a garden-fringed pool. But now Mrs. Steen does the cooking.

★ ★ ★

"It's frustrating as hell," says wife Minnie Lee. "We had everything. We could go to Africa or South America on a day's notice. Now we don't have enough to run the house. We do without a lot."

Steen appealed the IRS action but it triggered a flood of worried creditors and the case went to federal bankruptcy court.

CLAIMS CONSPIRACIES

Referee Russell Taylor held hearings in January and has ordered more. He has said he will give Steen considerable freedom to work needed deals.

Steen maintains he is being conspired against by people trying to cheat him of his fortune, that some are trying to portray him as irresponsible and not worth what he claims he is.

★ ★ ★

He's filed a $5-million libel suit against one group.

"I'm going to survive. After that, I'm going to get even."

There is little subtlety. An old friend recalls: "If Charlie liked you, the sky was the limit. If he didn't—forget it."

JARS IMAGE

Now 49, Steen comes on at first like a quiet high school biology teacher—5-foot-9, balding, bespectacled. He wears old trousers and a wrinkled western shirt.

But he soon jars the image. Steen does not just offer a morning cup of coffee; he rips through a kitchen cabinet, snapping: "Can't find the damned coffee. Can't find anything." and storms off to ask Minnie Lee where it is.

★ ★ ★

In 1952, Minnie Lee was cooking rabbit and deer meat for their four young sons while Steen drummed up money for prospecting in the desolate, red-rock canyons of southern Utah. They lived in a two-room shack with outdoor plumbing. Steen owed money to the grocery store and anyone else who would float a loan.

Trained in geology at the Texas College of Mines, Steen had bounced between jobs, spending much of his time in oil exploration. He married, lasted two years with the Standard Oil and Gas Co. in southwest Texas. Then "I was fired for insubordination and blacklisted." Uranium called, and Steen hauled his family to the Utah hamlet of Cisco. The tar-paper shack was a bargain at $15 a month when they found it in April 1952.

Four months of prowling dry canyons turned up nothing. But Steen was convinced uranium lay beneath a big butte that other prospectors had passed by. He got a used drill and started boring for the yellow ore carnotite.

All the drill sent up was gray-black rock.

★ ★ ★

One day the drill broke down, aand on his way to get repair gear, Steen jokingly put one of his gray core samples next to a friend's Geiger counter.

Bingo.

The gray rock was a massive deposit of the rich ore uraninite. Steen guessed his find at $1 million, but underestimated by about $60 million. It was the country's biggest uranium strike and he called it Mi Vida —"My Life." He was 32.

The Steens enjoyed instant wealth—built a mansion in the boom town of Moab, threw frequent bashes, flew friends around the hemisphere in a private air fleet, converted a British naval vessel to a yacht.

Steen won election to the Utah Senate and in 1961 tried to push through a legislature dominated by the teetotaling Mormon Church a liquor-by-the-drink bill.

Support dried up.

"I received a letter from someone who opposed my views," Steen says. "And she said: 'If you don't like to live in this state, why don't you go to Nevada?'

"I took her advice. I resigned from the Utah Senate and drove all night, so if I died that night I would die in Nevada rather than Utah."

EXPANDING EMPIRE

By 1962, Steen was expanding his business empire. Mi Vida was sold; Steen's share was $12 million.

With complex interests in oil and mining, Steen decided to diversify into "safer" businesses. He diversified into big trouble.

★ ★ ★

"When I get out of my field, and have to depend on others," he testified, "I'm a total flop."

Steen said he lost nearly $4 million on an aircraft company, more millions on a cattle ranch, and orange grove, a flying service, even a gourmet pickle made from a friend's Yugoslav recipe. The pickle, Steen says, was "wonderful," but lost $200,000.

He is convinced he will restore his kingdom. But if he lost everything now, he says, he'd go back to prospecting "and be happy as a pig on ice."

Brushing a panel of delicate marble from a mine he values at $100 million, Steen smiles:

"I know I'd make another big discovery."

Originality Lacking in U.S. Films--Huston

HELSINKI (UPI) — Director John Huston thinks the U.S. movie industry is caught in a vicious circle which prevents original movies from being made.

★ ★ ★

"In the United States it is very difficult for a man to make an original film," Huston said. "You need assurance that it will be a success before they are prepared to gamble the huge sums involved."

★ ★ ★

The story for the movie must first be a hit play or a best-selling book to get the money to pay for its making.

"That is why there are not more original films coming out of America," he said.

'KREMLIN LETTER'

Huston, with more than a quarter of century of award-winning films behind him, was in Helsinki to direct his 29th movie, "The Kremlin Letter" based on the book of that name.

He regretted that big name directors can no longer make the low budget, action to camera movies such as he made during World War II.

★ ★ ★

"It's not what is expected or wanted from us," he said. "I think this is largely our own fault.

"To go out with a camera and tell the story with the camera as the writer is a very attractive procedure. I did it during the war. Painting from the model, as it were, is a very good and refreshing practice."

★ ★ ★

Huston said young directors today had a greater chance of breaking into the movie industry in America but he would like a larger program of training.

McNamara Defense Legacy Both Glaring, Glistening

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON — One by one, some key judgments made by Robert S. McNamara during his long domination of U.S. defense policy have unraveled or come under new fire.

However, McNamara's enforcement of civilian control at the Pentagon and his landmark budgeting reforms seem likely to live on as a shining legacy of his record tenure as secretary of defense.

★ ★ ★

It is a year since McNamara left the Pentagon to become president of the World Bank, and:

● Intelligence reports indicate the Russians have just about caught up with the United States in intercontinental ballistic missiles, five years after McNamara decreed a 1,054 ceiling on U.S. ICBMs.

The former defense chief once said, "The Soviets have decided that they have lost the quantitative race, and they are not seeking to engage us in that contest."

● The House Armed Services Committee is investigating a costly Army tank project pushed by McNamara as a joint U.S.-West German development. The six-year-old project has a history of problems.

● The "McNamara Wall," a $1.6 billion scheme for laying an anti-infiltration barrier across South Vietnam, was a flop, although some of the sensors developed for it have been used to advantage to detect North Vietnamese infiltration through Laos, from Cambodia and across the Demilitarized Zone.

● The C5A Galaxy, a giant transport plane developed under a McNamara contracting innovation intended to hold down price, has escalated by at least $1.2 billion. Questioning senators are investigating. Also, first delivery of the C5A has slipped six months.

● The Air Force's F111 fighter plane still is plagued with difficulties. After being the center of a dispute since its drawing board inception as the TFX. A 13th F111 has been lost. The Pentagon, under Capitol Hill prodding, has dropped the Navy F111 version, and the Navy is developing a replacement.

● Army authorities say helicopter production has only recently recovered from the effects of a McNamara-ordered cutback in 1965. The reduction had been decreed only a few months before the United States entered the Vietnam war with its troops.

● McNamara's design for a 150,000-man Army National Guard and Reserve select force ready for deployment eight weeks after mobilization has fallen far short of expectations. Authorities say denial of funds to continue extra training and draw-off of equipment to Vietnam were responsible.

FUMBLING GIANT

Some military officers and other critics contend the passage of time and events show that McNamara was a giant who nevertheless did make some judgment errors.

But there are many in the Pentagon who counter that budgeting and reorganization reforms instituted under McNamara made his seven years as defense secretary the outstanding period in Pentagon history. They predict these reforms will last.

★ ★ ★

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, the Nixon administration's Pentagon chief, has publicly acknowledged his admiration of reorganization actions McNamara took.

Perhaps significantly, there is no sign that Laird is changing McNamara's basic budgeting approach, which discarded the old system of splitting the budget among the armed services and substituted a program under which Pentagon programs were planned on a functional basis, looking five years ahead.

CIVILIAN CONTROL

Possibly McNamara's most significant contribution—one that is generally acknowledged even by those who question his record on other grounds—was his establishment of unquestioned civilian authority.

Although the Nixon administration has promised to listen more to senior military advice, Laird has shown he intends to keep a firm hand on everything—and the McNamara precedent will help him carry it off.

ROBERT McNAMARA

Some of McNamara's military hardware decisions which caused great furor have held up well, and the controversy has died out.

★ ★ ★

Over strong Air Force and congressional objections, he persuaded President John F. Kennedy to cancel the Skybolt thousand-mile range missile in late 1962.

CONGRESS DEFIED

McNamara also defied Congress in junking the B70 bomber, a 2,000-mile-an-hour airplane.

At the time he acted, cutting the project to only two planes in 1964, the defense chief said it would be "a serious waste of the nation's resources" because, in his opinion, it would be vulnerable to sophisticated Soviet defenses.

★ ★ ★

The Vietnam war, and particularly limitations he imposed on the air war against North Vietnam, probably brought him the most bitter criticism from senior military officers and hawks in general.

Those who claim the air war could have been successful in forcing North Vietnam to the conference table earlier argue that McNamara's policy of carefully controlled application of air power permitted the North Vietnamese to adjust their defenses and national psychology to the attacks.

Navy admirals, who for years sought heavy appropriations to modernize the aging fleet, now bitterly blame McNamara for deferring adequate modernization so long that prices have climbed almost vertically.

★ ★ ★

For years, the Navy warned that the Russians were building a big and formidable fleet of advanced submarines, but McNamara held down on proposals to expand the U.S. attack submarine force.

★ ★ ★

The final Johnson administration defense budget, sent to Congress in January, acknowledged that the Navy was right and said, "More and better attack submarines may be required in the mid- and late 1970s than we have previously thought necessary."

Committee That Ran Nixon Inauguration Still in Business

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cherry blossoms are about to bloom, President Nixon is in his third month in office, and the committee that ran last January's inauguration is still in business.

What's more, it isn't sure when it will quit.

★ ★ ★

"It has been a great privilege," inaugural committee chairman J. Willard Marriott said, "but I'll admit to being anxious to put a final period to our part of inaugurating Richard Nixon as the new president."

PROFIT EXPECTED

About one dozen of an inaugural force that once numbered 2,600 are still at work, and one of their major remaining projects is to settle the committee's finances.

★ ★ ★

The inauguration usually turns a profit, after all the bills have been paid. Some surplus will probably be put aside for the 1973 inauguration, while other funds might be donated to charity.

Besides closing its books, the committee is still busy on two souvenir items—inaugural medals and a hard-cover book about the inauguration.

★ ★ ★

The committee expected to sell some 30,000 of the bronze medallions, which feature President Nixon on one side and his daughter Julie's crewelwork pattern of the presidential seal on the other.

IN THE MAIL SOON

But some 70,000 orders came in, and the committee is now being deluged with letters and phone calls from people who wonder where their medals are.

Dr. Melvin Payne, president of the National Geographic Society and chairman of the medals committee, said all medals ordered by March 15 will be in the mail by the end of April.

★ ★ ★

The committee has stopped accepting orders for the medal and refers latecomers to the Coin and Currency Institute in New York.

★ ★ ★

It also reports inquiries from book purchasers. Published by the American Heritage Publishing Co., the $10-volume entitled "The Inaugural Story" is expected to come off the presses later this month.

DEBRA WRIGHT

Teen of Week in Waterford: Get Involved

A spirited Waterford Township High School senior whose philosophy is "to get involved" is this week's Waterford Township teen of the week.

Debra Wright, daughter of Mrs. Phyllis Wright of 4862 Irwindale, was elected by her classmates as "most school-spirited."

★ ★ ★

And when she says "involved," she means it.

Her grade point average of 3.5 and her membership in the National Honor Society testify to time spent studying, but there's much more.

CHARITY, TOO

Debra is a member of the student council, a member of the a capella choir, on the staff of the yearbook and school newspaper, president of the pep club and a varsity majorette.

In addition, her work in collecting funds earned her the title of 1969 Miss March of Dimes in Oakland County.

★ ★ ★

Debra's plans for the future give no hint that she'll stop being involved. She's aiming for a stint in the Peace Corps along with enrollment at Western Michigan University.

Meeting to Hear Ex-Area Teacher

A former teacher in the Waterford Township school system who resides in the township is scheduled as a featured speaker at the annual meeting of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

William Cole of 5541 Rowley, now in a doctoral program at Wayne State University, will speak in Minneapolis during the April 23-26 meeting.

★ ★ ★

He is employed with the deferally funded Indicom computer-assisted instruction project in which the Waterford Township school district takes part.

VISTA: Sometimes Fire, Sometimes Fizzle

(EDITOR'S NOTE — In the government's war on poverty, VISTA supplies the guerrillas—young volunteers who work and live for a year in the nation's bleakest back yards. Here is a comprehensive report on their accomplishments, their failures and the controversies they stir.)

By JAMES R. POLK

WASHINGTON (AP)—VISTA, the poor man's Peace Corps, has a ragged record after four years in the front lines of the war on poverty.

Its results have been blurred and erratic, a hit-and-miss mixture of fireworks and fizzle.

* * *

In West Virginia, a quiet push from just one VISTA volunteer helped start the "black lung" movement by coal miners.

But on the vast Navajo reservation in Arizona, an Indian leader brands one of the oldest and largest VISTA programs an empty failure.

CONFLICTS PROVOKED

In Texas and elsewhere, activities of VISTA volunteers have provoked conflicts with local officials.

By VISTA's own count, one out of every seven projects across the country is rated as "deadwood."

* * *

Now, in a major revamping, VISTA has begun turning down teen-aged dropouts, weeding out weak projects and looking for more lawyers and business trainees who can bring expert help to the poor.

"The job is tougher than we thought it was. And we need tougher people," said Padraic (Pat) Kennedy, 35-year-old director of the federal program—its full name is Volunteers In Service to America—which sends out 5,000 volunteers annually to live for a year in the bleakest back yards of the nation.

WHY THE OVERHAUL

An Associated Press check of key projects, coupled with the agency's own evaluation reports, shows why the overhaul was undertaken:

- Nearly half of the volunteers have been sent out without an adequate assignment on how to help.

Sandy Harrod, 23, Berkeley, Calif., who spent a year with the Navajo tribe, said, "I didn't know where to start or what to do. I don't think I accomplished a whole lot."

- One out of four volunteers quits before finishing his full year in VISTA.
- Training has failed to prepare a majority of volunteers for the sudden plunge into the pestholes of poverty.

Bill Berends, 21, a former volunteer in Boston's South End, said, "It takes six to eight months to get accustomed to living in the ghetto and working in the conditions. You have four months of productivity. Then you're gone, leaving nothing behind."

- Three out of four VISTA projects are attached to other antipoverty programs, such as local community action offices, where some volunteers complain they are viewed as errand runners. One said, "So much of it has been holding hands with the poor."
- Not too long ago one-fifth of all volunteers were teen-agers, many of them inept and immature, coming to VISTA to try to solve their own problems rather than those of the poor.
- The most recent national checkup of the 565 VISTA projects called for closing 76. Half have been reshaped, the others shut down. Meanwhile, regional supervisors are scrapping 54 more.

* * *

By the time Kennedy winds up his first year as the acting director of the $32-million-a-year program late next month, the changes may be striking:

Fully 20 per cent of this year's volunteers will be professional specialists, such as lawyers or architects. Volunteers will get on-the-spot training in the poverty areas where they will work. All will be at least 20 years old this time. They will have more specific jobs to do, they will have more thorough supervision.

BREAKING AWAY

VISTA is trying to break away from its overlap with other antipoverty programs. It is setting up more independent projects, such as the widely hailed new effort at Palo Alto, Calif., to use university economic experts to help Negroes start their own businesses.

But, for the most part, VISTA's impact on poverty is still voiced in terms of high hopes rather than hard results.

* * *

The Navajo project is an example of both the failure and the future of VISTA.

The huge, rugged Indian reservation—long imprisoned in poverty—is caught today in cross-currents of change. At Sheep Springs, N.M., a tall TV aerial rises above a timber and mud-walled hogan. At Window Rock, Ariz., many Navajos live in ranch-style homes. But other Indians are haunted by hunger and hopelessness.

NOW THERE ARE 5

For four years VISTA has been sending volunteers to the far reaches of this beautiful, Barren land. Once there were 64. Now ther are five.

"The program was a flop. It was lousy," said Jimmy Begaye, a bronze-faced Navajo educator who now runs the VISTA project.

* * *

Volunteers had been strewn around the reservation without specific assignments on how to help. "We were virtually a bunch of young kids who didn't know how to do anything," said Sandy Harrod.

Jo-Anne Nola, now a teacher at San Jose, Calif., recalled spending her first eight months in a desolate corner of the reservation without transportation to the far-flung Navajo villages she was supposed to serve.

SOME INROADS

Except for the satisfaction of having made some inroads in the Indiana's long distrust of the white man, she said "it would have been a total waste."

The Navajos have replaced the previous program with their own plan for the eventual enlistment of young Indian leaders as local VISTA volunteers. The only white VISTA workers sent in from the outside will be specialists with needed skills.

* * *

Carpenters, business consultants and teachers head this list. But Begaye said he was disappointed with the backgrounds of several volunteer when the first group of 26 arrived for training last month.

"They were sending us people like stagecoach drivers or coin collectors or piano players," Begaye said.

WHAT THEY NEEDED?

"Maybe the thought a stagecoach driver was just what we needed out here," laughed grizzled George Young, his gold teeth showing.

In Washington, Kennedy said the Navajos were probably looking at the volunteers' pastimes, not their professions. He said Vista sent precisely the skilled specialists they asked for.

* * *

Kennedy—no relation to the fabled political family—sees the future of VISTA in volunteers who have ideas to match their ideals.

Craig Robinson, 24, from Buffalo, N.Y., became a soft-spoken crusader in West Virginia's "black lung" movement after pouring through medical books on the miners' disease.

ORGANIZED MEETINGS

Robinson helped organize the first meetings of miners in the state's ridge-wrinkled southern coal hills last autumn to hear a physician speak out against the illness. Other VISTA volunteers aided in adjoining counties.

An antipoverty lawyer working with Robinson at Mabscott, W.Va., drew up the original version of the "black lung" legislation calling for state compensation payments for miners disabled by the ailment.

* * *

With VISTA involvement, the miners' movement sprang up independently in other parts of the state. Eventually the miners walked out in a statewide strike that idled 42,000 men and crippled coal production before the legislature passed the "black lung" law last month.

J. E. (Ned) Watson, a leading state legislator, blamed VISTA for "encouraging them to walk out and go on strike." The miners denied this. And VISTA volunteer Robinson, who was out of town the day the strike began in his county, said the walkout came as a surprise.

NOT UNCOMMON

Protest, however, is not an uncommon weapon in VISTA's arsenal. And this frequently caused friction with local government.

* * *

As Apollo 9 whirled around the earth last month at the command of the space center in Houston, Tex., VISTA volunteers led low-income parents in a march around Houston's school board building.

The picketing protest was mounted after the board voted to cut 4,000 needy youngsters out of the free lunch program in the schools because of a money shortage—then approved $25,000 to fight a Justice Department desegregation suit.

In the middle of the demonstration the board backed down.

WHERE IT COUNTS'

Paul Allen, 40, supervisor of Houston's VISTA group, watched the protest and said, "What we do in other places is Band-Aids and Mercurochrome. This is where it really counts."

In Allen's cramped headquarters, with a faded green carpet so thin it looks like a desk blotter, two young VISTA lawyers criticized Houston as the nation's largest city without a housing code. They have shaped a petition demanding a city ordinance to force slum landlords to make repairs. Other volunteers have been gathering signatures as the first step in a fresh protest.

* * *

In a Washington interview, Kennedy said VISTA volunteers rarely create local issues—they help the poor articulate the injustices that already anger them.

But, because VISTA is a federal agency, activities of the volunteers often stir deep controversy.

ONE VIEW

In the Rio Grande area at the tip of Texas, one newspaper scored VISTA as "Volunteers in Strife, Turbulence and Agitation."

At Del Rio, Tex. several thousand Mexican-Americans marched in protest last month after courthouse officials called for the ouster of 20 VISTA volunteers in a dispute over political involvement. The VISTA members have been ordered to leave this month.

* * *

Other controversies in West Virginia and Kentucky have ended the Appalachian Volunteers, one of the oldest and largest VISTA programs.

At the same time, VISTA is torn internally by some members' impatience with the slow pace of progress against poverty.

SECRET MEETINGS

In recent weeks, there have been two secret meetings at Santa Fe, N.M., by volunteers to discuss a dramatic mass resignation from VISTA to set up a private group to fight poverty.

* * *

Led by a former monk and two Albuquerque volunteers, including a youth known as "Goldilocks" because of his bushy blond beard, the budding rebellion has touched about 60 volunteers scattered throughout the southwest.

* * *

But—like similar secret meetings in New York last summer—no action has been taken.

Sometimes, when VISTA volunteers stay to try to work on their own after leaving the program, the results can be volatile.

UNDER INDICTMENT

In Des Monnes, Iowa, one former volunteer who is now a black militant leader is under indictment for arson in two business blazes that flared up during "fire prevention week."

At the core of VISTA's accomplishments and controversies is its volunteers' intolerance toward poverty, an impatience they imprint on people who may have surrendered to their plight in the past.

* * *

For instance, VISTA played only a fringe role in the local drive for fair elections last fall in West Virginia's Mingo County.

When the Justice Department states put on suites, got haircuts, and drove into Mingo County on election day in government-marked cars that prompted people to mistake them for FBI men keeping an eye on honest voting.

VISTA INCENTIVE

James Washington, a former miner who led the reform movement, said, "If it hadn't been for VISTA workers, none of this would have been going on—because the same people have been around here for years without doing anything."

Fort Worth Fire Dept. Has Been 'Playing It Safe' for Decades

FORT WORTH (UPI) — The Fort Worth Fire Department has been practicing a safety technique since the horse-and-buggy days but only recently found out about it.

★ ★ ★

And the department may eventually get the credit for starting a trend.

Visitors to Fort Worth often expressed surprise — and sometimes a little ridicule after seeing that the city's fire-fighting equipment is white instead of the traditional red.

★ ★ ★

The Fort Worth fire wagons used to be red, too, until one year — now apparently lost forever — long before the days of the horseless carriage.

REJECTED ON MONEY

The firemen wanted to enter a pumper race at the State Fair of Texas in Dallas but the only wagon they could find to race was an old beat-up pumper.

They asked for fix-it money from the city council and were turned down.

They dipped into their own pockets and told the "buggy striper" — the old term for a man who painted buggies — that they did not care about the color but they wanted their wagon to be the most beautiful one at the fair.

The buggy striper came up with a white wagon with gold leaf stripes and lettering. That was the wagon that took the $250 first prize home to Fort Worth so long ago

RED HARD TO SEE

Since then Fort Worth fire engines have been white and now word comes that the City of Houston is planning to start painting its engines white.

A national safety test has proved that one of the most difficult colors to see, especially under artificial light, is red.

The International Association of Fire Chiefs prefers bright yellow for fire trucks, but most cities are expected to go with the more conservative white.

Fort Worth firemen now say they may go back to the gold leaf trim. Looks mighty sharp, they say.

Many Factors Boost Welfare Costs in Michigan

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second of two articles on Michigan's soaring welfare costs.)

By A. F. MAHAN

LANSING (AP) — Rising hospital and doctor bills are among major reasons why Michigan's welfare costs have been soaring and are expected to reach a federal-state total of $500 million in the fiscal year ending July 1.

The general increase in the cost of living, in-migration from the South and advertising also have been among factors.

★ ★

New federal regulations, effective July 1, are expected to add to the state's burden.

Medicaid, which first became available to the needy in October of 1966 — not quite three years ago — is expected to require a federal-state outlay of $176.8 million in the current fiscal year and one of $207.3 million in the next.

NUMBER IS UP

The number seeking medicaid, as well as increases in hospital and doctor fees, has been increasing.

Anyone qualified for any other catgory of relief is also qualified for medicaid, and so are the so-called "medically indigent," those whose incomes are judged insufficient to buy them needed medical treatment.

★ ★ ★

Doctors and hospitals participating in medicaid are paid their "usual and customary" fees. Nursing homes get $14 a day per patient where a registered nurse serves patients around the clock; $12 if patients merely are cared for under supervision of a registered nurse.

★ ★

Under contract with the State Social Service Department, Blue Cross pays hospital bills and Blue Shield the doctor and drug bills, collecting in turn from the state. Nursing home care is handled similarly by Travelers Insurance Co.

ADVERTISING

Advertising gets into the rising-cost picture this way: The Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), a federal agency, conducted campaigns last year to seek out the needy and explain to them how to go about obtaining assistance in whatever category they might qualify.

Migration of the South's poor to the North is hard to measure, but experts agree it has been sizable.

The average Michigan family on ADC received $186 a month last year, while in Mississippi a family of four got only $40.74 a month. With this information and rumors of good jobs to be had in the North, the poor have been flooding northward like lemmings to the sea.

Bernard Houston, director of the Michigan Department of Social Services, says at least three new federal regulations going into effect by July 1 will cost the state additional money. Congress has shown no inclination to increase federal contributions.

MUST UPDATE

States have been informed they must update their food, utility and heat allotments in aid to dependent children to more closely match 1969's cost of living index. Current allotments are based on 1961 standards, with a maximum of $25 per person — or 83 cents daily — for food.

The maximum federal contribution now is $90 monthly. The state's share for the average family is $96, plus any extras, such as for winter clothing.

★ ★ ★

Federal authorities also have advised the state that, effective July 1, mothers of dependent children will be permitted to keep the first $30 per month of earnings, plus one-third of all above $30.

Now a Michigan ADC mother is allowed to earn $20 a month in excess of expenses for such as transportation, lunch, uniforms and union dues without losing any of her allotment. The allotment is reduced by whatever her earnings exceed $20.

TO ADD MILLIONS

Houston estimates this change alone will add $10 million to $15 million a year to the state's cost.

Under another federal regulation, a recipient ordered off relief rolls automatically can forestall his or her removal by appealing to a circuit court — with their allotment continuing until the court rules.

Dr. Oaks Says:

Itching Closely Related to Pain

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is another in a series of articles issued by the Oakland County Medical Society. Dr. Oaks is the collective voice of the society.)

Why do you itch?

Excluding the proverbial "seven-year itch," which is still another problem, if some part of your body itches there may be just cause to consult a physician.

* * *

Itching is closely related to pain, and it may be even more annoying. It can have many causes — dry skin, excessive bathing, local irritation from soaps, detergents or cosmetics, ivy, skin infection, parasites or some nerve involvement.

It often is made worse by scratching. To make a diagnosis of the cause of "contact dermatitis," one of the main sources of itching, keen detective work is required. If the itch is due to a skin ditsurbance, such as that caused by poison ivy, the quickest and best way for relief is to get medical treatment.

The actual cause of the disturbance on the skin from poison ivy, is an oil produced by the plant. When the oil comes in contact with human skin it reacts with the top layer and produces blisters, redness and itching.

Normally, a person will have had to have a previous exposure to poison ivy before he develops the disturbance. In other words, he must have come in contact with it at one time and at a later date come in contact again.

* * *

There is a difference in the reaction of people to poison ivy and the disease is treated a little bit lightly today. However, as recently as 10 to 15 years ago patients died of massive exposure to poison ivy. It can be of more serious consequence than one might imagine.

The strange part about poison ivy is that it may appear as a vine, a miniature tree, a shrub or it can climb or crawl.

There seems to be no neutralizing chemical to be employed against the oily substance of poison ivy. The only method of protection is clothing or perhaps the use of a heavy oil or grease to cover the skin.

A method of immunization was sought some years ago, but doctors found that the actual protection from such immunization was not really possible.

Since the advent of cortisone drugs, medicine has a great weapon against the effects of poison ivy. These decrease the reaction of the skin.

Poison ivy, however, is not the only thing that can make you itch, particularly in these warm spring and summer months. In the later spring and early summer there is the possibility of "swimmer's itch."

The cause of this is a microscopic parasite, which is normally contacted by humans in lakes, and normally the shallow part of such lakes.

(If you have a question for Dr. Oaks, send a card or letter to Oakland County Medical Society, 346 Park, Birmingham 48009.)

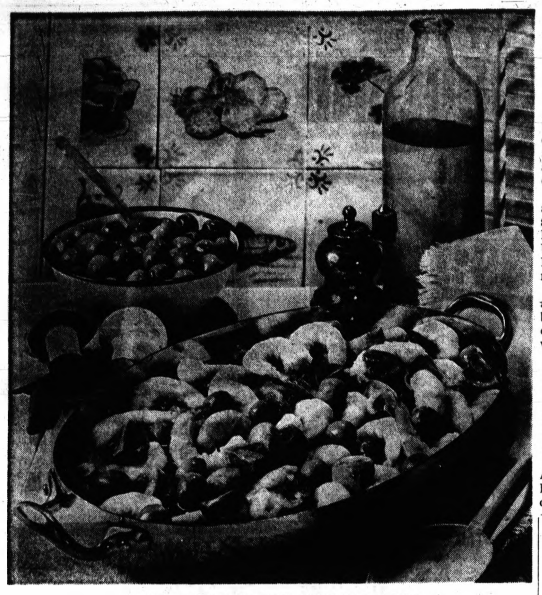
Shrimp Dishes Add Variety to Menu



MARINATED SHRIMP, MUSHROOMS AND OLIVES

Put Olives in Marinated Shrimp

Cold marinated fish or seafood is a very versatile dish, lending itself to all sorts of menus and to practically any course but dessert. It fits snugly into the buffet spread, it's an ideal cocktail nibble and it's a perfect main course for a spring lunch.

Marinated Shrimp with Mushrooms and Olives is a delightful combination in a lightly herbed marinade. You can use either fresh or frozen shrimp or you can substitute another fish.

★ ★ ★

Canned tuna is particularly good with the mushrooms and olives. Use solid pack white tuna; drain it and break into chunks before adding it to the marinade.

MARINATED SHRIMP

1 pound fresh mushrooms, quartered
1 cup water
⅓ cup olive oil
⅔ cup vinegar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cloves garlic, halved
1¼ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon each: thyme leaves, peppercorns
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
2 bay leaves
¾ cup small pimiento-stuffed olives
2 pounds medium shrimp, cleaned and cooked

Combine mushrooms, water, oil, vinegar, lemon juice and seasonings in sauce pan. Bring to a boil and cook, covered, 5 minutes. Pour into a bowl; add olives and shrimp and cool. Cover and chill 6 to 8 hours or overnight before serving. Makes 6-8 servings.

In restaurants which feature Italian dishes, shrimp prepared in garlic butter are called "scampi," although this word is actually the Italian term for "crustaceans," which includes shrimp, crayfish and small lobsters.

PARSLIED BREADED SCAMPI

½ cup olive or salad oil
6 cloves garlic, split
½ teaspoon black pepper
2 (10 ounce) packages frozen breaded shrimp
⅔ cup parsley, snipped

Heat oil, garlic and black pepper in large pan. Remove garlic. Fry shrimp, one layer deep, about 3 minutes on each side, until browned. Serve with parsley. Makes 8 servings.

Broiled Shrimp Is Low-Caloried

A low-calorie luncheon can give a lift to the spirit when nature's convenience food, shrimp and wine work together for a main dish that can be prepared in five minutes.

Weight watchers will be glad to know that shrimp are generously endowed with high-quality protein, but have fewer calories than meat. As a rule, one serving of shrimp contains a mere 116 to 154 calories. Wines enhance the flavor of this shellfish, but the alcohol evaporates when heated, leaving very few calories behind.

★ ★ ★

Since dry wines are lower in calories than sweet wines, this recipe from the International Shrimp Council calls for a delicate dry sherry. Served on unbuttered toast points with a green salad, the meal is festive, not fattening.

SHERRIED SHRIMP

2 pounds fresh or frozen shrimp or 1½ pounds peeled and deveined shrimp
½ Cup butter (¼ pound)
¼ Cup dry sherry wine
Garlic Salt
Peppercorns
Parsley sprigs
4 slices bread, toasted

If frozen, let shrimp thaw on paper towels to absorb moisture. Clean if necessary. Arrange shrimp in shallow baking dish. Melt butter in small saucepan; add sherry wine. Pour sauce over shrimp, and add garlic salt lightly to taste. Place dish in preheated broiling compartment 3 inches below flame; broil 5 minutes, or until shrimp turn pink. Remove from heat; grind peppercorns over shrimp to taste. Serve shrimp on toast, garnished with parsley sprigs. Makes 6 servings.

Baked Apples Go on Buttered Rusk

Wash and core 4 medium McIntosh apples. Starting at stem end, peel apples one-third of the way down. Place in shallow baking dish. Boil 1 cup granulated sugar and 1 cup water 5 minutes; add 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Pour over apples. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 40 to 45 minutes, basting frequently.

Five minutes before serving, butter 4 rusk; sprinkle generously with cinnamon-sugar (2 tablespoons sugar to ⅛ teaspoon ground cinnamon). Heat 4 to 5 minutes. Place well drained apples on rusk and fill the center of each with 2 tablespoons cottage cheese. Makes 4 (about 7 ounce) servings.

SHERRIED SHRIMP—For an unusual shrimp dish, broil thawed peeled and deveined shrimp with a wine and melted butter coating. Sprinkle generously with freshly ground pepper and serve on unbuttered toast for a low calorie main dish.

You'll find lots of shrimp in the frozen food cases and on the canned goods shelves. Take advantage of this abundance and plan some new shrimp dishes.

You'll notice a new tiny pink shrimp in cans now. These shrimp come from the North Pacific in beds located by the United States Department of the Interior's Bureau of Commercial Fisheries.

They're available the year around, packed in lightly salted brine. Use them for any recipe calling for cooked shrimp. Start with the following easy recipe.

CHAFING DISH SHRIMP

¼ cup butter
¼ Cup tomato catsup
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Salt
Cayenne
2 cans tiny Pacific shrimp

Melt butter in chafing dish. Add catsup and lemon juice, a little salt to taste and spec of cayenne. When hot, mix in the shrimp, heat and serve on crisp toast.

If you're planning a buffet. Let your guests serve themselves and cook shrimp kebabs on an indoor hibachi or, later on in the season, on the grill.

SHRIMP KEBABS WITH LEMON-HERB SAUCE

2¾ pounds shrimp, fresh or frozen or 2 pounds peeled and deveined jumbo shrimp
½ Cup olive or vegetable oil
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon scraped onion
1 clove garlic
¾ Teaspoon crushed thyme
½ Teaspoon salt
Dash black pepper
2 to 3 small zucchini
6 to 8 cherry tomatoes

Clean shrimp if necessary. If frozen, let shrimp thaw on paper toweling to absorb moisture.

Combine oil, lemon juice, scraped onion, garlic, thyme, salt and pepper. Pour over shrimp in shallow pan. Toss gently. Let stand in refrigerator about 30 minutes.

WITH VEGETABLES

When ready to cook, thread about five marinated shrimp on each skewer, placing a 2-inch piece of zucchini and a cherry tomato at the end of each. Brush generously with marinade.

Broil about 3 minutes on each side, or until shrimp turn pink and zucchini is tender. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

A delightful luncheon dish is a main dish tart or quiche made with shrimp. Cut into finger size servings, it becomes a most acceptable appetizer.

SHRIMP QUICHE

1 pound shrimp, fresh or frozen, or 1 (10 oz. or 12 oz.) bag peeled and deveined shrimp
¼ Pound Swiss cheese, grated
1 (6 oz.) package grated Gruyere cheese
1 tablespoon flour
3 eggs
1 cup light cream
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
¼ Teaspoon dry mustard
½ Teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash Tabasco
9-inch unbaked pastry shell

Mix cheeses together. Defrost and/or clean and d-e-v-e-i-n shrimp. Cut in small pieces. Mix together eggs, cream, salt, pepper, mustard and sauces.

★ ★ ★

Spread ¾ of cheese mixture in pastry shell. Add shrimp and cover with remaining cheese. Pour egg mixture over cheese and shrimp.

★ ★ ★

Bake at 400 degrees (hot oven) 15 minutes; reduce heat to 325 degrees (slow oven) and continue baking 40 minutes, or until silver knife inserted in center comes out clean.

Let stand 10 minutes before serving. Serve warm. Makes 8 to 10 appetizer servings, 6 luncheon or supper servings.

Apples and Nuts Mix in Hot Syrup

For a very special brunch serve Apple-Nut Syrup.

To prepare: Melt 1 tablespoon butter in saucepan. Add 3 tablespoons chopped pecans and brown lightly; then remove nuts. Blend 1 cup maple syrup, ½ teaspoon cinnamon and a dash of salt into butter in saucepan.

Add ⅓ cup thinly sliced Winesap apples, cover and simmer slowly about 10 minutes. Remove cover and simmer 3 minutes longer. Remove from heat and add nuts. Serve at once on French toast or waffles. Makes about 2 cups.

The Winesap variety is chosen for this recipe and for other cooking purposes as it retains its full-bodied flavor throughout cooking.

CAKE TOPPING—Any good plain cake worth its salt (and sugar) almost cries out for a tasty topping that will transform it from ordinary to extraordinary. Japanese Mandarin Orange Fluff is a happy addition to a chiffon, angel or sponge cake. And it stands alone too as a cream dessert surrounded by ladyfingers. Once you've tried this gorge-ous garnish you'll be convinced it's the top(ping)!

Chill Fruit Mixture and Serve on Cake

For most homemakers, getting down to basics isn't hard. They are pretty adept at baking a basic white cake, a basic sugar cookie, a basic pie dough. What usually presents more of a problem is the fancifying that has to follow. The topping is all important because where basics are concerned, it can mean the difference between merely serviceable and marvelously superior.

★ ★ ★

Consider the plain chiffon cake: served plain it has an interesting texture, but little else because it's a fairly bland white cake. What will give it distinction and a lip-smacking, let's-have-another-piece reception is the topping.

★ ★ ★

And if you make it Japanese Mandarin Orange Fluff, you're way ahead in the taste department.

★ ★ ★

Japanese Mandarin Orange Fluff is really scrumptious; the little succulent sections of canned Mandarin Oranges blend deliciously with pale yellow banana slices, little white marshmallow dots in whipped cream and accented by toasty-brown little almond slivers.

The secret of the success of this topping is the sweet flavor of the little oranges which are ready to use right out of the can and are conveniently seedless, rindless, and uniform in size.

JAPANESE MANDARIN ORANGE FLUFF

1 11-ounce can Japanese Mandarin Oranges, drained
1 egg
3 tablespoons lemon juice
3 tablespoons granulated sugar
½ cup heavy cream, whipped
1 cup miniature marshmallows
1 cup sliced bananas (optional)
½ cup slivered toasted almonds
1 angel sponge or chiffon cake

★ ★ ★

In double-boiler top, beat egg; stir in lemon juice and sugar. Cook over hot water, stirring about five minutes or until thickened. Cool. Fold in whipped heavy cream, drained Mandarin oranges, marshmallows and bananas.

★ ★ ★

Refrigerate overnight, then fold in almonds. Spoon over slices of cake. Makes about 10 servings.

For After School

Milk and honey are a wonderful team in a nutritious after school refresher. Add 2 tablespoons honey and ¼ teaspoon nutmeg to 1 quart cold milk. Shake well in jar with tight fitting cover. If a sweeter drink is desired, add additional honey. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Hearty Soup Stew Is Almost a Meal

"Bigos" is one of the oldest and best-known of Polish dishes. Made with a variety of meats, sauerkraut and vegetables, it was often served by the Polish nobility after a hunt.

Hunter's Stew is the American version of "Bigos." It's a great entree that will satisfy the robust appetites of all sports enthusiasts.

★ ★ ★

Apple, carrot and cabbage combine with beef chuck, bacon and Polish sausage in this hearty soup-stew. Long, slow cooking makes the beef delicious-ly tender. The other vegetables and meats are added as the cooking progresses, lending an increasing variety of flavor, texture and color.

COOK AHEAD

If preparation time is short, the beef and broth may be prepared ahead and refrigerated until dinner time. Then, they can be re-heated quickly and the vegetables added as indicated in the recipe.

★ ★ ★

While the vegetables are cooking, heat some crusty bread and fix a crisp salad. Dinner can be ready in half an hour.

HUNTER'S STEW

4 strips bacon, cut in 1-inch pieces
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 pound boneless lean beef chuck, cut into 1-inch cubes
2 cups chopped onion
2 cups finely chopped, peeled cooking apple
1 can (10½ oz.) beef broth
2 cups water
1½ teaspoons salt
2 cups carrot, cut into 1-inch pieces
1 pound Polish sausage, whole or cut into 1½ inch lengths
4 cups coarsely shredded cabbage (about ½ pound)

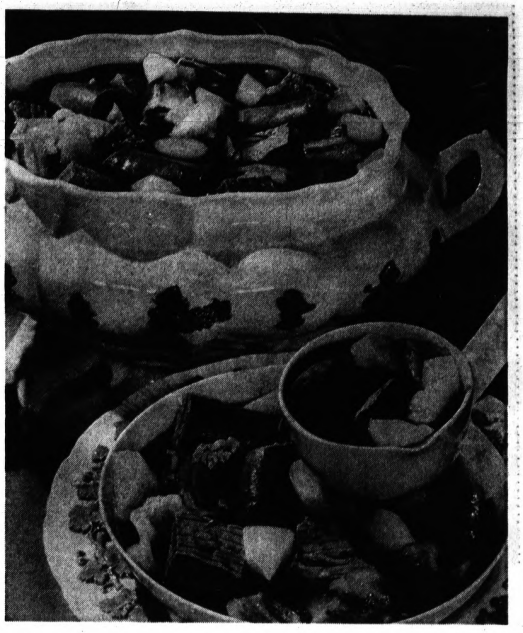
In heavy Dutch oven, pan fry bacon over moderate heat. When crisp, set aside to drain on paper toweling. Add butter or margarine to bacon drippings.

★ ★ ★

Add beef and brown well on all sides. Add onion and apple. Cook until apple is tender. Add broth, water and salt; cover and simmer until meat is tender, about 2 hours.

★ ★ ★

Thirty minutes before end of cooking time, add carrot pieces and sausage. Ten minutes before end of cooking time, add cabbage and bacon and simmer gently until cabbage is tender. Yield: About 10 cups or 6 servings.



IN THE POLISH MANNER — Hunter's stew combines beef, bacon and sausage in an American version of the Polish "Bingos."

BAKED HAM AND YAMS — Baked ham is glazed with a honey and orange sauce. Some of the sauce comes to the table for guests to help themselves. Stuffed baked yams are the right addition for this menu. It's a favorite combination in the south.

Honey Orange Sauce Glazes Ham

You might like to plan your menu around a popular favorite of the south . . . ham and yams. Florida citrus fruits have long had an affinity for ham.

A simple, yet elegant, glaze to brush on canned ham while it bakes is a zesty orange honey glaze. Made with undiluted frozen Florida orange juice concentrate and pure golden honey, it has a fresh sparkling flavor . . . tart from the orange and sweet from the honey's own natural goodness . . . that mingles well with the salty ham.

* * *

Another southern contribution is Louisiana yams . . . sweet and stringless yams that bake up smooth and moist. With herbs and onion and a little butter, these yams cannot be excelled anywhere. Mash the yam pulp, add the seasonings and pile back into the shells.

Since Florida grapefruit is excellent this year you might like to serve halves topped and broiled with honey, as an appetizer or dessert at your next company meal.

BAKED HAM WITH ORANGE HONEY SAUCE

6 to 10 pound canned ham
Whole cloves
1 can (6 ounces) frozen Florida orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted
1¾ cups water
½ cup honey
1 teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
1 cinnamon stick
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
3 tablespoons cornstarch
2 Florida oranges, sectioned

Score ham; stud with cloves. Bake in 350 degree oven 10 to 12 minutes per pound. While ham is baking, put undiluted orange concentrate, water, honey, dry mustard, salt, cinnamon stick and nutmeg in a saucepan.

* * *

Blend cornstarch with ¼ cup of the mixture and return to saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Boil 1 minute.

* * *

Remove from heat; cool. Brush ham with a small amount of the sauce two or three times during last 30 minutes baking time. Add orange sections to remaining sauce; heat. Serve with ham. Yield: 3 to 4 servings per pound of ham; about 2¼ cups sauce.

SEASONED STUFFED YAMS

8 medium Louisiana Yams
½ cup finely chopped onion
¼ cup finely chopped celery
½ cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon thyme
2 teaspoons salt
Pepper to taste

Bake yams in 350 degree oven 1 hour or until tender. Scoop out yams, leaving ¼-inch shells; reserve shells. Mash yams.

Saute onion and celery in butter until crisp-tender. Combine with seasonings and mashed yams; fill yam shells and bake in 375 degree oven 15 minutes or until heated through. Makes 8 servings.

MEAT COOKERY Quiz

Q. What's the name of this cooking method?

A. Braising.

Q. How is braising done?

A. Meat is browned first in a heavy frying-pan or Dutch oven. Drippings are then poured off. Then a braising liquid, not more than one-half cup, is added. For the veal cutlets pictured above, this braising liquid is barbecue sauce. In other cases or for other meats it can be water, tomato, fruit or pickle juice, or a combination of these. It might also be soup, bouillon or consomme. The cooking utensil is then covered tightly and the meat is allowed to cook slowly, either on range or in oven.

Q. What meats are suitable for braising?

A. Any meat classifed as less-tender should be braised. Or, if the flavor is delicate and needs to be developed as is the case with veal and pork cuts, braising is recommended. Some of the meat cuts cooked by braising are beef pot-roasts, Swiss steaks, short ribs, veal blade steak or roasts, pork shoulder, lamb neck, brisket, shanks or riblets and cubes of meat.

Slice Fresh Pears for Filling in Hot Sweet Rolls

Roll your favorite sweet biscuit dough into a rectangle, about ¼ inch thick. Spread generously with melted butter. Cover with thinly sliced fresh winter pears, about 2 cups. Dot with cinamonon and brown sugar.

Roll, jelly-roll fashion, sealing the edges carefully. Cut the roll into 9 biscuit-size slices. Place them, filling-side-up, in buttered muffin tins. Dot with butter and cinnamon.

* * *

Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees for 25 minutes.

* * *

For a fun variation, place brown sugar and a pear wedge in the bottom of each muffin tin before placing the biscuit in the pan.

* * *

When you turn the biscuits out, each will be garnished with a pear slice and a caramel-like syrup. Great for breakfast surprises.

You can pour off the oil but not the calories. Skinny tuna, packed in water, has only half the calories of the oil soaked kind. And with no oil to disguise the taste, Empress has a fresher, more natural flavor. Serve your family a tuna that tastes like tuna.

Test Your Knowledge of Eggs With Easy Quiz From Experts

Uncertain about your knowledge of eggs and egg quality? Try this true-false quiz from the U.S. Department of Agriculture and see how much you really know about buying and storing eggs.

QUESTIONS (Answer True or False)

1. A U.S. Grade A large egg is better than a U.S. Grade A Medium egg.

2. You should never use a dirty or cracked egg in an eggnog.

3. A U.S. Grade B egg will be just as nutritious as a U.S. Grade A egg.

4. For best quality, store eggs promptly and large end up in your refrigerator.

5. All eggs in a carton marked "Large" are identical in size.

6. Not all cartons marked "Grade A" have been officially graded by the Federal-State Grading Service.

7. Eggs are no good after a week in the refrigerator.

8. If you want to serve poached eggs, U.S. Grade AA or A eggs would be your best choice.

9. Shell color does not affect the nutritive value or quality of an egg.

10. Leftover egg yolks should be covered with cold water before storing in the refrigerator.

ANSWERS

1. False. A large egg is bigger than a medium egg, not better. Remember, size refers to weight of the egg; the grade refers to the quality of the egg.

2. True. Eggs eaten uncooked — as in an egg nog — should always be clean and shouldn't be cracked. This is just to insure an extra safeguard for your family against possible contamination by bacteria. Never buy cracked or dirty eggs.

If you buy USDA-graded eggs, they will be clean and sound-shelled and will be safe to use for all purposes. If one becomes cracked accidentally, use it only in thoroughly cooked dishes. Don't use dirty eggs for any purpose.

3. True. The Grade B egg may not look quite as nice as the Grade A egg if you fry or poach it, but it will be just as nutritious.

4. True. Keeping eggs large end up will keep the yolk from sticking to the shell and help them keep their natural quality longer. Keeping them in the refrigerator is essential to keep the egg's natural quality.

Get the eggs under refrigeration as soon as possible. Holding them for any length of time in a warm place can result in quality loss.

5. False. If a carton of USDA-graded eggs is labeled "Large," all the eggs together must weigh at least 24 ounces. There may be some slight variation between individual eggs, but rarely should any be smaller than the average for "Large," 2 oz. per egg.

If you find apparent disparity in egg sizes, chances are you'll have some eggs larger than the average marked, not smaller. Here are the sizes usually sold, and the minimum weight per dozen for each size:

Extra Large	27 ounces
Large	24 ounces
Medium	21 ounces
Small	18 ounces

6. True. Only egg cartons marked with the official USDA grade shield have been officially graded under the Federal-State grading service. Eggs marked simply "Grade A" are supposed to meet State or local standards for quality which usually are based on Federal standards.

7. False. Eggs will lose some quality (appearance) after a week in the refrigerator, but they will usually still be just as good in taste and in nutritive value. To prevent off-taste don't store eggs next to cheese, citrus, fish, or other aromatic foods.

8. True. U.S. Grade AA and A eggs have high standing yolks, and thick whites and won't spread out in the pan. These highest quality eggs would be best for poaching or frying.

9. True. Shell color is determined by the breed of hen. It does not affect the nutritive value or quality of an egg.

★ ★ ★

10. True. Leftover egg yolks should be covered with cold water and stored in the refrigerator in a tightly closed container. Use within a day or two.

Extra egg whites should also be refrigerated promptly in a tightly closed container and used within a day or two. Don't cover the egg whites with water.

To keep your egg knowledge score high, write for a free copy of "How to Buy Eggs" (G-144), published by USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service.

Send Along Your Cherry Recipes

The National Cherry Festival in Traverse City has a call out again for cherry recipes from around Michigan. A similar appeal in 1968 for "family favorites" brought in a large selection, many of which were used in the organization's '68 souvenir program book and '69 advance brochures and National Cherry Queen pamphlets.

A great number of the Michigan cherry recipes have been published by food editors in all parts of the country and, in each instance, the person contributing the recipe has been credited.

According to The National Cherry Festival, those sending the Michigan cherry recipes deserve a salute for their contribution toward the efforts to promote Michigan cherries.

Those wishing to share their cherry recipes should send them to The National Cherry Festival, Box 387, Traverse City, Mich., 49684. They will all be acknowledged, and festival publications in which the recipes are printed will be sent to the contributors.

Make Batch of Mix to Use for Puddings

Need an inexpensive dessert for spur-of-the-moment guests? Look no further because home economists with the U.S. Department of Agriculture recommend this Smart Shopper Recipe:

VANILLA PUDDING MIX:

Stir until well mixed 1½ cups sugar, 5 cups instant non-fat dry milk, 1¼ cups flour and 1 teaspoon salt. Store in a covered container in a cool place.

With this on hand, try —

Prune Pudding Parfait:

Put in a pan 1¼ cups vanilla pudding mix and 2½ cups warm water. Cook over low heat until mixture boils. Stir all the time. Boil 1 minute, always stirring. Remove from heat and add to pan 1 tablespoon butter or margarine and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Stir; cool in refrigerator.

Meanwhile, make 1 recipe of

Nutty Prune Butter:

Mix 1 cup cooked prune halves with 1 teaspoon salad oil. Cut prunes and combine with ¾ cup peanut butter, ¼ cup corn syrup and ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Makes about 1 cup.

★ ★ ★

When pudding has cooled, put 1 spoon of nutty prune butter in 8 serving dishes. Spoon pudding over the prune butter. Makes 8 servings.

Put Grape Jelly in Ribs' Glaze

Face the food fact that almost everybody likes the favorites — hot dogs, hamburgers, and spareribs. You eat them all with your fingers. That may have something to do with their great appeal.

Here's an unusual and easy spareribs recipe that produces tender ribs covered with a glossy glaze of grape jelly, catsup and seasonings.

To serve as an appetizer with tomato juice or cocktails, have the butcher cut the ribs in two to three inch lengths. Prepare the same way.

Spareribs With Grape Jelly Glaze

1 jar (10 ounce) grape jelly
1 cup catsup
1 tablespoon venegar
2 tablespoons water
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon curry powder
5 pounds spareribs
2 teaspoons salt

Combine first 6 ingredients in saucepan; mix. Heat slowly, stirring just until jelly is melted. Cut spareribs into 3 or 4-rib portions.

Arrange meat on rack in shallow baking pan. Sprinkle ribs with salt. Cover with aluminum foil, crimping foil to edge of pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour.

DRAIN FAT

Remove foil; drain off any excess fat. Brush ribs with sauce; return to oven until meat is very tender, 30 to 45 minutes. Brush with sauce 2 or 3 times during baking.

Serve remaining sauce with ribs. Yeild: About 6 servings.

No Eggs, Milk or Wheat in Orange Nut Bread

Unfortunately, there are many otherwise normal people who are allergic to wheat, eggs or milk. Now there are recipes for baked goods adjusted to their needs, eliminating three or one or two of these allergy-causing ingredients.

The flavors of the baked products are good. But the textures are not the same. Cakes and muffins without eggs crumble more easily. Non-wheat flours produce breads and cake less light.

Be sure to check labels of baking powders and shortening to make certain they do not contain ingredients that cause allergies.

★ ★ ★

This recipe is from the new pamphlet, "Baking for People With Food Allergies," prepared by food specialists of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It contains 17 baked goods recipes for allergic persons.

ORANGE NUT BREAD
(Without eggs, milk or wheat)

2¼ cups rolled oats, ground
4 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon baking soda
¾ teaspoon salt
¾ cup sugar
¾ cup nuts, chopped
2 tablespoons fat, melted, or oil
¾ cup orange juice
1 tablespoon orange rind, grated

Preheat oven to 350 degrees (moderate). Grease 9x5-inch loafpan. Mix dry ingredients thoroughly. Add nuts, fat, orange juice, and rind. Stir until dry ingredients are well-moistened.

Pour into pan. Bake 60 minutes or until firm to touch. To prevent the top of the loaf from cracking, cover with aluminum foil during the first 20 minutes of baking.

NOTE: Grind rolled oats fine in a food chopper.

It's Red and White

An interesting way to prepare a tomato aspic: Pour a thin layer of the tomato gelatin mixture into a mold and allow to set. Add a layer of cottage cheese mixed with minced chives and then pour on the rest of the tomato gelatin mixture. Chill until set. Unmold before serving and garnish with salad greens and pimiento-stuffed olives.

Gals Given a Crack at ROTC Training

By Jerry T. BAULCH
Associated Press News Features

WASHINGTON — The gals are being given a chance to crack another previously all-male domain, the ROTC classroom.

The Air Force is launching a toe-in-the-water test of acquiring WAF officers through this avenue at four colleges next fall.

BAULCH

If it proves popular enough the program will be expanded. And perhaps the Army and Navy will also go along with the idea, although they haven't said so.

★ ★ ★

The law barred women from the ROTC until 1964 when the door was opened by the ROTC Revitalization Act, although the Air Force had managed to circumvent the law to commission a few women under a not too popular program a few years ago. Even so, it has taken nearly five years for the services to get even a start on taking advantage of the rule change.

Most women officers in the services have been produced through all-female classes at officer training centers of the Air Force WAF, Army WAC, Navy WAVES, Women Marines, and Coast Guard SPARS.

WILL TEST IDEA

The Air Force will test the idea at Ohio State University, East Carolina in North Carolina, Arizona in Alabama and Drake in Iowa. The women students won't be in the first two years of ROTC but only in the advanced course, the last two years leading to a commission.

To qualify you have to have two years of college remaining at either the undergraduate or graduate level. And you'll have to pass qualifying physical and mental tests.

★ ★ ★

Before joining the guys in their campus classrooms next fall, participating women from the four colleges will gather this summer and train as a unit for six weeks at an Air Force base where male cadets are taking their required six weeks summer camp.

The cadettes will get the same benefits as male cadets, including the $50 monthly allowance while enrolled in ROTC.

And you clothes-conscious ladies will want to know that the ROTC cadettes will wear the regular WAF uniform, which has become quite snazzy.

Plans are to assign a WAF officer to the ROTC staffs, which will be another, probably welcome, invasion of the male domain.

Junior ROTC Booming

Another thing the 1964 ROTC Revitalization Act did was to give a healthy shot in the arm to Junior ROTC, which had been in relatively few high schools since it was founded after World War I.

The act permits the Army to build up to 650 units by 1971 and the Air Force and Navy to 275 apiece — a total of 1,200.

★ ★ ★

Each unit has to have at least 100 cadets 14 or older; the schools may offer a three- or four-year course and make it mandatory or elective, as they choose.

The Air Force, which began its program with 20 schools in 1966, has announced it will add 40 high schools next year to bring its total to 153. The Army now has 528 and the Navy 55 but they haven't announced how many they'll add next fall.

Another change in the program has been to use retired commissioned and non-commissioned officers as instructors at high schools rather than active duty personnel.

There are those who argue that the effort at this level isn't worth the expense, but others defend it stoutly. The schools and the federal government share the cost.

New Combat 'Out'

The Army has changed its rules so a soldier won't be given a second tour in Vietnam involuntarily if a member of his family died as a result of service there.

This will reduce the possibility of double tragedies for the families, although a soldier may volunteer for a second tour if he wants one.

This is added to two other rules that already were in effect:

One is that a soldier may be excused from duty in Vietnam so long as his father or brother is serving there, although many brothers and fathers and sons do voluntarily serve at the same time.

The other rule has been to defer a soldier from Vietnam duty or combat duty in Korea for at least 12 months after his father or brother has been killed as a result of duty in either place.

★ ★ ★

The new rule on second tours affects only men who enlist, since a draftee's two-year of duty is not time enough for a second tour.

Odds and Ends

A serviceman traveling on space available aboard military aircraft is no longer allowed to refuse a seat on one flight and keep his place in line in hopes of getting better accommodations on later flights. The Military Airlift Command says anybody who turns down his first chance has to return to the end of the line.

★ ★ ★

The Pentagon has lifted its 13-months-old rule banning servicemen and their dependents from traveling free overseas on military aircraft on a space available basis. The ban was imposed by then Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to help the balance of payments problem. But his successor, Melvin R. Laird, decided the boost to morale in this case was more important and he lifted the ban, noting it won't cost the military any money.

★ ★ ★

A couple of years ago I wrote about the plan for the military services to do away with traditional service or serial number and have each person use instead his Social Security number. It will finally be put into effect this July, meaning fewer numbers to remember for both service people and for the computers that handle their records. And the admonition for prisoners of war will have to changed to "give only your name, rank, date of birth and Social Security number."

Fly-Free-for-Life Winner Has Traveling Family

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (UPI) — Ever wonder what happens to those lucky people who win fabulous prizes in drawings and contests?

For some, it changes their whole lives; others take their good luck in stride.

★ ★ ★

For one winner, Arthur Burrows, an aircraft sales executive, it hasn't changed things much, but for his wife and three children it has opened a whole new world.

Two years ago, Burrows won the first annual "Fly Free For Life" sweepstakes staged by American Express' Credit Card Division.

Burrows had an option — $25,000 in cash — but he decided to accept the free-flying prize, even though he himself, in his aircraft job, has traveled just about everywhere in the world.

Burrows' prize allows him up to $5,000 in air travel each year. So far, he and his family have visited Montreal, Hawaii, Los Angeles, San Francisco, New Orleans and a few other cities.

★ ★ ★

What lies ahead? Since the prize also includes escorted tours, Burrows has in mind a trip to Florida and a Caribbean cruise; a tour of the Greek Islands, Japan, Australia and New Zealand.

"We don't really try hard to use up the $5,000 every year," he reports. "We're mostly looking for trips the whole family can enjoy."

As for this year's Fly Free For Life Contest, Burrows got his entry in early. If he wins this time, he'll take the $25,000 — "to pay taxes."

Famed Wagnerian Soprano Embroiled in Dispute With Met

NEW YORK (AP) — Birgit Nilsson, who is the world's reigning Wagnerian singer, has canceled half her 12 scheduled appearances at the Metropolitan Opera for 1970-71 and "dropped negotiations" for seven to nine performances at the Met next season.

This will leave the Swedish soprano singing the 12 performances already under contract next season and six the following season — two in Wagner's "Die Walkuere," two in "Siegfried" and two in "Gotterdammerung."

★ ★ ★

Among the cancellations is the opening night of "Gotterdammerung" in 1970, the production by conductor Herbert von Karajan in which he completes new stagings of Wagner's "Ring" cycle for the Met.

★ ★ ★

Miss Nilsson became disturbed when the Met itself planned to cut some of her "Ring" performances in 1970-71, to bring in a Von Karajan protegee, soprano Helga Dernesch. She was particularly distressed that she wasn't told why her schedule was being juggled.

Robert Herman, assistant to Met general manager Rudolf Bing, said that there had been friction between Miss Nilsson and Von Karajan for some time, but he thought that the soprano was chiefly irked because the Met "didn't specifically mention the new singer by name to her. We didn't say, 'Look, we have another soprano, named Helga Dernesch.'"

Since the whole plan for the Met's doing new productions of the "Ring" operas was based on Miss Nilsson's singing Brunnhilde in them, the blowup is considered Bing's biggest contretemps since he fired Maria Callas 10 years ago.

★ ★ ★

It also recalls previous troubles in Valhalla. The great American Wagnerian soprano, Lillian Nordica, accepted only $1,100 from the Met after the season of 1897 failed financially.

But she was then shocked to discover that Nellie Melba had been given $1,200, Emma Calve $1,400 and Jean de Reszke more than $1,200 and that Melba was scheduled to sing future Brunnhildes in "Siegfried." She walked out forever.

'UGLIEST WOMAN'

Viennese mezzo Marianne Brandt, who went to Bayreuth in 1882 to create the role of Kundry in the world premiere of Wagner's "Parsifal," at the first rehearsal overheard Wagner himself say, "She won't do. She is the ugliest woman I have ever seen walk across a stage." Miss Brandt immediately packed and left for Munich.

But that exit wasn't forever. Mrs. Wagner was sent after Miss Brandt, with pleas for her to return, and Wagner made a public apology. Miss Brandt accepted the apology and returned to Bayreuth in time to sing Kundry the second time "Parsifal" was done.

Asbestos Link to Cancer Eyed

Canadian Mining Firms Sponsor Study

MONTREAL (AP) — Canadian asbestos mining companies are sponsoring a project to gather factual information about any relationship of asbestos to lung cancer and other diseases.

The project is under the Institute of Occupational and Environmental Health, set up by the industry in 1966. Findings would be used to establish methods of avoiding diseases or reducing their dangers.

★ ★ ★

It is known that inhalation of asbestos fibers can cause some persons to develop asbestosis, in which fibers gradually replace living tissue, says Dr. Premysl Pelnar of the Institute.

★ ★ ★

Some physicians believe exposure to asbestos fibers can cause lung cancer. Dr. Irving Selikoff of Mount Sinai Hospital, New York City, reports that 4 per cent of 36,000 U.S. asbestos insulation installers could eventually die of lung cancer as a result of their occupational exposure.

LINK SUGGESTED

"So far it is not proved to our satisfaction that there is a link between asbestos and mesothelioma," a rare form of cancer occurring in the upper chest wall or stomach lining, says Dr. Pelnar. "But findings in various parts of the world in recent years that persons suffering from mesothelioma had in some cases been occupationally exposed to asbestos make careful research necessary.

★ ★ ★

"It could be," he adds, "that materials coming into contact with asbestos during the mining or milling processes are health hazards." If such causes were determined, they could be eliminated from the manufacturing process.

★ ★ ★

The Institute's most important offshoot at the moment is a three-year epidemiological survey being carried out by a McGill University research team. Part of the team's job is to examine the health history of thousands of asbestos workers and draw statistical conclusions.

Big Steel Delves in Other Industries for Greater Profits

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The country's big steel companies, their stomachs growling in the midst of plenty, have begun moving into other industries in search of greater profits.

While the giant steel makers are not hurting financially and capital expenditures have never been higher, experts say the companies want investments that will give them a bigger return than steel.

★ ★ ★

U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's No. 1 producer, now has interests in cement, titanium, chemicals, fertilizers, plastics, lumber, aluminum and air travel and air-leasing services.

National Steel recently acquired two aluminum companies, while Allegheny-Ludlum bought out a leading supplier of garden and sports equipment.

★ ★ ★

Armco Steel has joined in partnership with a computer-manufacturing company and a to the prosperity enjoyed by the rest of the economy.

PARTS OF CONGLOMERATES

And some steel producers are becoming parts of conglomerates. Crucible Steel Corp. was absorbed by Colt Industries, Inc. A majority of Jones & Laughlin stock has been bought by Ling-Tempco-Vought Inc., although the U.S. Justice Department is opposed to L-T-V's take-over of J&L.

★ ★ ★

Most analysts are hesitant to predict what impact the recent spate of acquisitions will have on the industry in the long run. But they say the largest steel makers are willing to follow whatever road will bring them tothepros peritp enjoyed by the rest of the econmy.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Reuben Slesinger, a University of Pittsburgh economist, points out that during 1967 the metal manufacturing industry's net return on capital investment was 8.8 per cent compared with 11.3 per cent for all industries.

★ ★ ★

More specifically, Slesinger says U.S. Steel had a net return of 5.4 per cent, and Bethlehem, the nation's second largest, did little better with 7.0 per cent. None of the other major steel producers, his figures show, got up to 11.3 per cent.

Some industry observers say this greater investment return from other industries has tended to draw capital away from steel.

The American Iron and Steel Institute reports the industry's outlay for capital improvements in 1969 was a record of $2.5 billion, the third consecutive year that capital improvements went over the $2-billion mark.

★ ★ ★

While steel companies generally have relied on internal capital for improvements, Slesinger notes the price of steel stocks has remained steady over the past 8 to 10 years.

Last year's figures are not yet available, but Iron and Steel Institute figures show the industry's 1967 total revenues around $17 billion. That resulted in net income of over $800 million which returned dividends of more than $490 million to some 1.5 million stockholders.

All of this has led some experts to predict the industry will sharply curtain future capital investment after 1970.

Most of the companies started diversifying last year. Industry sources attributed the move to increased labor costs, brought on by the highest United Steelworkers union contract ever negotiated, and increased foreign imports.

The industry, sources say, was caught in a squeeze between high production costs and the necessity to reduce prices.

But now analysts say the world may be on the verge of a steel boom as orders continue to roll into the mills above anticipated levels. And foreign producers have voluntarily limited imports to 11.4 million tons of steel a year. What effect this will have on future diversification remains to be seen.

Ragamuffins Crime Threat in Sao Paulo

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Authorities here fear the thousands of ragged urchins who overrun this industrial city will prove the source of a future crime wave.

It is estimated 12,000 children between the ages of 5 and 15 roam the city's streets. They come from the 25 different slums or "favelas" around town. A recent survey indicated that despite an infant mortality rate of 50 per cent in the favelas, 1,000 deprived children born every month will survive.

★ ★ ★

Many slum parents introduce their children at 4 or 5 to begging on downtown streets, according to the survey by the newspaper Folha de Sao Paulo. These children return their day's collections to elders in the beginning but soon become hardened and strike out on their own.

★ ★ ★

Dressed in rags and perpetually dirty, the youngsters wash parked cars and rush up to autos stopped at red lights to clean windshields in the hope of remuneration.

FEW CENTS AN HOUR

Others shine shoes, sell lottery tickets, peddle flowers, and labor in local market places for the equivalent of a few cents an hour.

Through these early years, they harden to the ways of the city and develop what the newspaper called a "predatory mentality" which makes them ripe for crime by their early teens.

★ ★ ★

Children 11 or 12 have been arrested for transporting narcotics for older dope pushers. Police have discovered many of the children are themselves hooked.

Hundreds of young girls, who usually sell flowers or just beg in busy sidewalk cafes, are led into prostitution at an early age, according to the Folha account. Along many of the city's central streets, 13-year-old girls in miniskirts lean in shadowy doorways waiting for potential customers to stroll by.

'Operation Skywarn' Ready to Spot Twisters in State

By the Associated Press

As shirt-sleeve weather arrives and the experts try to convince us that last winter was no colder than the one before, an awesome spring phenomenon — the tornado — visits Michigan skies.

In the 50-year period between 1917 and 1967, 145 twisters were recorded in the state during the "season" of April through June.

★ ★ ★

The Weather Bureau hasn't been asleep during the period, and this year all guns are being brought to bear in the form of "Operation Skywarn."

★ ★ ★

Exhaustive study and painstaking spotter work was delayed until 1953, when two twisters ripped through southwestern Michigan killing 125 persons and causing an estimated $19 million property damage—the worst recorded tornado catastrophe in the state.

70-MILE PATH

And back in 1917, when the state was thinly populated, an equally spectacular tornado moved along a 70-mile path near Battle Creek and destroyed everything in its path.

★ ★ ★

The first record of the fury of a tornado in Michigan goes back to 1897. The funnel slashed through Oakland County, leaving 47 dead in its wake.

★ ★ ★

The Weather Bureau estimates Michigan has averaged 4.09 tornadoes a year up to 1967, not including many minor twisters that hit in sparsely populated areas.

In other major tornadoes, two once struck the downtown Detroit area, one of them extending to Windsor, Ont. At least 16 died and damage amounted to $1.5 million.

THUMB AREA HIT

Five persons died when a twister settled in the Port Huron and Thumb area on May 21, 1953, and $10 million damage was reported.

Tornadoes in Grand Rapids and Traverse City on April 3, 1956 left 19 dead and damage totaled $11 million.

★ ★ ★

An indication of the danger to metropolitan areas in the state from a twister is the toll from the last major one, on Palm Sunday, April 11, 1965, when in spite of improved surveillance methods, 53 persons died and property damage totaled $51 million.

★ ★ ★

In the past two years, Michigan tornadoes have taken just one life, an enviable track record for weather watchers but one they hope to improve on this year with "Operation Skywarn." That term has been added to the activities of "tornado watch" and "tornado warning."

WATCH AREA LARGE

A tornado watch is issued for a large area—generally 25,000 to 30,000 square miles—and means conditions are ripe for a twister to develop.

★ ★ ★

Those conditions are the very meteorological phenomena so common to this time of year: Hot sticky days. The perfect conditions for spawning a tornado are completed when clouds begin to roll in and the rumble of thunder can be heard in the distance.

★ ★ ★

Weather experts say Skywarn adds to "watch" capability by dividing spotters into three levels but treating all reports, whether they come from volunteer or professional, in the same manner.

★ ★ ★

When either call in a tornado warning—an actual tornado sighting — the proliferating teletype services of the Weather Bureau are harnessed.

THREE LEVELS

Bob Snider, meteorologist in charge of the Weather Bureau forecast office in Detroit, said his "severe weather desk" will give general surveillance to everyone and will organize special individual spotters on three levels.

At the first level are police, firemen and other city employes with two-way radio units. Second are persons employed in certain industries or schools which have been appointed spotters as part of their duties.

★ ★ ★

Third are the general public, who are asked by Snider to first take care of themselves and then call local police to report a tornado warning.

A tornado warning issued over teletypes to radio stations and other media means a tornado has been sighted and people should seek cover.

Snider said Skywarn improves surveillance capability by putting professional observers and the general public into a single network in which it is expected more people will be enlisted to help and in which tornado spottings can be processed and distributed more rapidly.

This spring season in Michigan may bring as many twisters as the 21 recorded in 1968. Residents in the state are advised to remember basic tornado safety rules issued by the Weather Bureau:

Stay away from windows and seek shelter in interior hallways or preferably, in the basement. They say school children should avoid places in which there are large unsupported ceilings, as in auditoriums and gymnasiums. Inside any building, the corner nearest the tornado usually offers the greatest safety.

In a car or on a city street, seek shelter in a cellar, underground excavation or a reinforced concrete building.

★ ★ ★

For open country the advice is to move away from the tornado's path at a right angle, or lie flat in a ravine or open ditch.

Finally, Snider advises that a radio should be kept on during a tornado warning, and persons entering Civil Defense or other shelters should carry a portable radio.

Population Grows

In the last eight years Nevada has increased its population 59 per cent to its present 453,000, making it the fastest growing state during this period.

Mediterranean Island of Malta New 'In' Spot for Celebrities

VALETTA, Malta (UPI) — This sunny Mediterranean island has become the latest gathering place for film stars, authors and entertainers.

Some come here to settle, some are attracted by the climate, underwater sports and Maltese hospitality.

* * *

And, as a byproduct whether or not it figures in their plans, they find the taxlaws far more lenient than in Britain or the United States.

Last year Malta had a record number of tourists. This year is expected to set a new record.

'AVENGERS' STAR

Maltese date the influx from 1962 when Honor Blackman, then star of "The Avengers" television series, felt she had to get away from it all. She chose a small uninhabited islet named Comino.

Now the islet, situated between the main islands of Malta and Gozo, is the favorite resort of scores of others in show business.

* * *

And the price of property is soaring there as it is everywhere in the area.

In addition to the acting colony there are a number of famous writers in residence in and around Malta.

BOOK IS BANNED

One of them is Dr. Desmond Morris, author of the international best-seller, "The Naked Ape, who found, ironically, that Malta is the only country in the western world which does not permit public sale of his book.

Nevertheless, Morris says his stay here has given him the "thinking time" he needed and he is now at work on a sequel to "The Naked Ape" as well as a major study of predator animals such as tigers, hyenas, panthers, lions and wolves.

* * *

Morris' wife Ramona, also a writer, is producing a guide to the Maltese islands.

Their son, Jason, was born in Malta last October.

NOTED RESIDENT

Another best-selling resident is Nicholas Monsarrat, author of "The Cruel Sea" and other novels which have been filmed, including "The Story of Esther Costello."

"To live in a quiet place is my ideal," he says.

* * *

Since Malta is in the sterling area it has an additional attraction for British luminaries.

Among those who have recently set up homes here are television star Roger Moore, of "The Saint," film actor John Mills, video comedian Jimmy Edwards, jazz virtuoso Johnny Dankworth and his wife, singer Cleo Laine.

Famed Market in Paris Now Is in Suburbs

By National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON — In a major triumph of civic surgery, the "belly of Paris" has been transplanted.

The successful operation took just a weekend. After 859 years in the center of the city, Paris' market, Les Halles, has joined the flight to the suburbs.

* * *

Visitors to Paris arriving at Orly International Airport may notice it sprawling within sight of the runways near the southern suburb of Rungis.

City fathers have been trying to move the market since World War I, the National Geographic Society says.

AT MIDNIGHT

Each midnight, trucks loaded with everything Paris needs to eat snaked into the narrow streets of the city's midsection, producing a traffic jam that lasted through the morning rush hour.

Now the farmers can follow a major highway straight to the market, avoiding costly slowdowns in Paris and bypassing the traditional middlemen who long have made profitable use of hereditary privileges.

* * *

Housewives may be winners in the move, part of the government's plan to streamline France's nationwide farm marketing system.

Before the change, for instance, an artichoke might sell in a Paris grocery for 10 times the price a Normandy farmer received for it.

UNFORGETTABLE SCENE

But tourists—and many Parisians—will be the losers. For more than a hundred years they have wandered to the market just before dawn. It was a scene to remember.

In place of the market in the six-block square, modern apartments may rise, overlooked by houses built in the middle ages.

* * *

For visitors and Parisians alike one legacy remains. Most of the restaurants—with names like "The Dog That Smokes" and "The Pig's Foot"—will stay put, ringing the site of the old market.

Extent of Mafia Influence on U.S. Society Viewed as Alarming

BY THOMAS CORPORA

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first in a two-part series examining the Mafia from its gangland roots to its thrust into legitimate business.)

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eat a bagel for breakfast, go to a nightclub to hear your favorite singer, buy a hot dog at the corner stand, join a union, buy a package of cigarettes from a machine, build a house, invest in the stock market or start a bank account for your child's future and you may be helping to support organized crime.

★ ★ ★

The Mafia, Cosa Nostra, the Syndicate — they are all the same thing — is involved in all these legitimate businesses and more.

★ ★ ★

Gone are the days when criminal gangs engaged only in rackets like narcotics, gambling, prostitution, hijacking or extortion.

★ ★ ★

The big shots of crime may sit as directors of a bank today. They may be union officials. They may be owners of construction companies or trucking firms.

IT'S ALARMING

Their influence may reach into the city council of your city, or into the state legislature.

★ ★ ★

Some officials fear that if the influence of the Mafia continues to grow—and there is little reason to doubt that, under present laws, it won't—organized crime could someday reach into the highest levels of Washington.

★ ★ ★

Alarming? Yes. Alarmist? No. The history of the Mafia in the United States shows a virtually unbroken record of growth.

"Business reverses" have been few, and there has never been a depression.

YOUNG BLOOD

Old "executives" have been jailed, deported and killed, and there has always been a supply of young blood to move into their places.

★ ★ ★

Frankly, little is really known about the Mafia and its operations.

★ ★ ★

Occasionally, a leader or an underling is brought to trial, but rarely will he talk.

★ ★ ★

What is known comes from a handful of police experts who have made the Mafia their life's work, and informers—of whom the most famous and most revealing was Joseph Valachi, the Cosa Nostra "soldier" who decided to sing after the late Vito Genovese gave him the two-cheek "kiss of death" in a cell at the Atlanta Federal Prison.

300 IDENTIFIED

Valachi identified more than 300 members of the Mafia and said there were about 5,000 in the criminal organization throughout the United States. Other estimates are greater.

★ ★ ★

The Mafia originated in Sicily where it was known as the "Honorable Society."

★ ★ ★

It came to the United States with the great immigrations of Italians in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. It has never been known here as the honorable society.

★ ★ ★

At first, Mafiosi preyed on their own people, using strong-arm methods to extort money from laborers or to force small businessmen to pay for "protection." They went wherever the Italian community went.

HIRING ON DOCKS

In New Orleans, the Mafia controlled hiring on the docks. In Hillsville, Pa., armed Mafiosi waited at the pay windows of mining companies to collect their fees from the workers.

★ ★ ★

It was small in those days but then came Prohibition and with it, bootlegging, which gave the Mafia the big money it needed to move into rackets outside the Italian communities. It did not do so without bloodshed.

★ ★ ★

Jewish and Irish gangs already controlled some rackets.

★ ★ ★

Where it could, the Mafia made alliances with these ethnic gangs, like the Dutch Schultz gang, or with Longie Zwillman or Bugsy Siegel.

GANG WARFARE

In other cases, gang warfare was the result of Mafia expansion.

Between 1920 and 1930, 800 persons were killed in these wars, according to Valachi.

★ ★ ★

By 1932, Charles Lucania (Lucky Luciano) had organized the Mafia — and syndicated crime—in New York City into five gangs or "families," which still control things here.

★ ★ ★

Outside New York, territory was assigned to other top gangsters.

AFTER THE WAR

The move into legitimate business did not take hold until after the war.

★ ★ ★

True, the gangs had always operated legitimate fronts like nightclubs and bars, warehouses, vending machine companies or trucking firms.

In 1946, Vito Genovese, who, with Luciano, was "boss of the bosses," had just been returned to the United States from Italy, where he had fled in the 1930s to escape a murder charge.

★ ★ ★

The charge was dropped when the star witness died of poisoning while in police custody.

ORDER GIVEN

Luciano was in prison then and soon to be deported and Don Vitone, as he was called by underlings, gave the order for Cosa Nostra (our thing) to move into legitimate business.

That was 23 years ago. The Mafia entered new fields without giving up any of its illegal enterprises (with the possible exception of narcotics, although there is disagreement on this point. Some authorities say the Mafia decided narcotics were too hot to handle, and others say it could not resist the high profits despite the heat).

Thus, the Mafia moved into dozens of different areas in the world of legitimate business.

Mexico's Ruling Party Quietly Choosing the Next President

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico has begun its unique process of picking its next president. It's a quiet and dignified maneuvering for position among top members of the party which has ruled the country for 40 years, the PRI.

Those are the Spanish initials for the Revolutionary Institutional party. Its candidate always wins.

★ ★ ★

None of the presumed contenders for the presidency has made an impassioned speech urging radical changes in government policy. It just isn't done.

★ ★ ★

A few magazines openly speculate on the running form of the various possibilities. But newspapers and broadcasters generally confine coverage to the overt activities of the politicians. Sometimes these activities are clues to the race.

SOCIAL DEBATES

"We have ended bossism in the country," says Alfonso Martinez Dominguez, PRI president. "There is no more demagogy and political filibustering." There is plenty of debate, however, in coffee shops, cocktail parties, lunches and other social gatherings on the merits of the contenders.

★ ★ ★

The two inside terms are "tapado," meaning the "covered one" to be announced by the PRI as its candidate next September, and "quemado," or "burned one," a contender who slipped up somehow.

★ ★ ★

The mystery of the guessing game seems to be enjoyed by the man in the street. It has been going on every six years since the various parties formed during the 1910 revolution decided to bury their differences and form PRI.

★ ★ ★

There are various clues: who is closest to incumbent President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz; who has demonstrated the most administrative ability; and who has the most political skill at avoiding damaging controversaries.

SELECTION A MYSTERY

"No one who ever took part in the actual selection of the next president has ever talked about it," says one Mexican political science professor. "So it isn't generally known how the 'tapado' is picked. But it is certain that the incumbent president has the most say."

When the man is named, the real presidential campaign will be over except for the formality of the July 1970 elections.

★ ★ ★

However, the PRI candidate will give all appearances of running a race against candidates from minor parties, such as the National Action party (PAN).

Among the leading PRI contenders to succeed Diaz Ordaz are:

● Luis Echeverria, 55-year-old secretary of interior, a close friend of the president and holder of the job that Diaz Ordaz held himself when he was named "tapado." However, some observers feel he may be "quemado" because of his firm handling of the 1968 student riots in which dozens were slain. These observers say his nomination might provoke further riots.

● Antonio Carrillo Flores, secretary of foreign relations and well-known as a pro-American diplomat. Among his past posts was that of ambassador to Washington. Some say his only liability is his public pro-Americanism.

Other possibilities include Jose Gil Preciado, a professor and currently secretary of agriculture; Alfonso Morones Prieto, director of the huge Social Security Institute; and Enrique Emilio Martinez Manautou, private secretary to Diaz Ordaz.

No matter who is chosen, no major shifts are expected in a program of industrializing the country; of encouraging U.S. tourism to help finance that program; and of following a middle-of-the road policy of social progress."

3 Shun Parley on Stadium

DETROIT (AP)—Three of the most interested parties were conspicuously absent Tuesday from a meeting called by two state senators to enlist support for a new downtown sports stadium in Detroit.

Absent were Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh, who has been championing the downtown site for quite a while; John E. Fetzer, Detroit Tigers owner; and William Clay Ford, Detroit Lions owner.

★ ★ ★

The two sponsors of the meeting were Senate President Thomas Schweigert, R-Petoskey and Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley.

"I'm disappointed he (Cavanagh) didn't show up," Schweigert said. "It seems to me he could have been here."

TOO LATE

A spokesman for the mayor said Cavanagh did not learn of the meeting until Monday morning and by that time his schedule was already mapped out.

★ ★ ★

Fetzer and Ford did not send representatives but the city was represented by Councilmen Robert Tindal and Philip J. VanAntwerp.

★ ★ ★

Levin said the purpose of the meeting was to gain support of suburban communities in getting the stadium for downtown Detroit. He said he expected about 35 mayors to attend but only a handful showed up.

★ ★ ★

Schweigert is cosponsor of a Senate resolution calling for the stadium to remain in Detroit, rather than be built in the suburbs.

Inauguration Set

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Norbert Hruby will be inaugurated officially as president of Aquinas College in Grand Rapids May 3. Hruby assumed the post Feb. 1. He succeeded the Right Rev. Msgr. Arthur Bukowski, the college's first president.

Vice President Charles G. Dawes, serving under Calvin Coolidge, is the only vice president known to have refused to sit with the Cabinet.

Legitimate Drug World Having Problems With Skin Reactions

NEW YORK (UPI)—There is surface trouble in the legitimate drug world, too—where doctors apply drugs to the illness of their patients. But this troubled surface is the drug-takers' skin rather than the social fabric disrupted by heroin, LSD and pot.

★ ★ ★

Serious drug reactions in the skin are increasing both in number and in complexity, said Drs. Robert M. Adams and Eugene M. Farber who are dermatologists, that is, skin specialists. It used to be, as recently as 30 years ago, that such reactions were rare.

★ ★ ★

But now a dermatologist when confronted by a skin eruption asks what drugs the man has been taking — legitimately. It used to be most reactions were caused by compounds containing arsenic. Now there are more than 40 diseases or symptom complexes of the skin resulting from untoward reactions to a large number of properly prescribed drugs.

★ ★ ★

The increase is due to the specificity and the potency of the newer drugs, said Adams and Farber of Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif., in lecturing doctors in the technical journal, "Postgraduate Medicine."

FAR-REACHING EFFECT

"As a result of specificity, a drug's reaction may be fundamental in body chemistry, and the effect can be far-reaching and sometimes bewilderingly complex. Potency may be so great that the margin of safety is narrow."

Another troublesome factor is the quirky human one. "Some patients," they said, "may be receiving medication from four or five different physicians at one time." What it all means is that a doctor must "use the greatest care in prescribing any drug."

★ ★ ★

To dermatology these untoward skin reactions are "dermatitis mendicamentosa." Among the most common of them are reactions in the skin between a drug and light, usually direct sunlight but sometimes light filtered through a window or from overhead fluorescent tubes.

They listed 37 drugs of 12 classes—among them, antibiotics, antihistamines, tranquilizers, "sun screens," estrogenic substances in "the pill," and germicidal agents—which have been implicated in these "photo-toxic" reactions that usually take the form of "an exaggerated sunburn."

CAN PERIL LIFE

Other skin reactions can cause baldness and a few can be life-threatening, including one which mimics cancer. Fortunately these still are rare a physician may practice medicine for years before encountering any of them. Knowledge of their occurrence is nevertheless important because prompt recognition is sometimes lifesaving," they said.

But "too often, physicians dismiss early minor reactions as 'idiosyncrasy.' Until the dermatitis reaches alarming proportions, the true nature is unrecognized."

French Build Solar Furnace

By Science Service

PARIS — The Pyrenees are a bleak and sunny range of mountains between France and Spain, inhabited, according to legend, mostly by smugglers.

★ ★ ★

But for decades, it has been drawing eager scientists. It is not smugglers' rum, but the clear air, the high altitude and the strength of the sunlight that draws them. And the upshot is more than tanned backs; it is the creation of an awkward-looking array of movable mirrors stair-stepping down a rocky hillside—a solar furnace.

★ ★ ★

To go into use in April, these mirrors will focus the sun's rays to create miniature hells in which materials can be tested at temperatures up to 6,700 degrees Fahrenheit—considerably more than half the temperature of the surface of the sun itself.

★ ★ ★

Materials that can survive this inferno should come out considerably purified and ready for use in any number of interesting ways—including the building of atomic reactors and the inside coatings of rockets.

★ ★ ★

The French have been in the forefront of research in large-scale solar furnaces for some time. Since 1951 they have had an installation in the western Pyrenees at Montlouis, where the sun's rays, reflected off a movable flat mirror, are concentrated by a large focusing reflector onto the target area. The Montlouis device yields a thermal power of 50 kilowatts.

Horse Is Answer to Traffic Jam, London Business Study Says

LONDON (AP) — The next time you're stuck in a traffic jam behind the wheel of your car, fretting and fuming and wondering what to do, think about the advice of a London business study:

Get a horse.

* * *

At least one London firm estimates that in modern traffic, horses are more efficient and cheaper to run than trucks.

Other companies conclude that, cheaper or not, using a horse in a big city gives you an air of distinction you'll never get with a car.

"We have 13 lorries (trucks) and 25 horses, and the horses are more useful," says John Young, chairman of Young and Co.'s Ram Brewery.

A brewery has stood on the company's site for 294 years and when the massive Shire horses lumber through the gate pulling 17 casks of beer — with the driver in a leather apron and brown derby hat — it looks like 1675 all over again.

"We have worked it all out," says Young. "The lorries cost 3,300 pounds ($7,920) each and we write them off in 10 years. Licenses and insurance cost 350 pounds ($840) a year for each and fuel gets more expensive all the time."

Gasoline in Britain, where they call it petrol, cost six shillings (72 cents) a gallon.

* * *

The horses cost 300 pounds ($720) a pair and they last as long as the lorries, or longer. There's no tax on horses, no insurance, and we feed them for about three pounds (7.20) a week each.

"And each pair delivers nine tons of beer a day," says Young.

"There's another advantage — people like horses. If there is a traffic jam, motorists make way for them.

They look splendid, they're a wonderful advertisement, reliable," chairman argues.

Some London coal companies make house-to-house deliveries with horses.

One perfume shop in a fashionable Mayfair delivers its delicate products in a horse-drawn carriage "because it gives a certain style."

STIRRING SIGHT

Whitbreads, another brewery in the heart of the oldest part of London, also uses horses to cart its beer to neighborhood pubs, partly "because there is no more stirring sight than to see them clopping down the street," according to one employe.

The sight is impressive, all right. The brewery horses, with shaggy-topped hooves the size of wastepaper baskets — their shoes alone are 24 inches in circumference — tower over a man and weigh a ton or more.

Centuries ago they were bred as chargers to carry knights in full armor, a load that weighed as much as 520 pounds.

Young's horses have appeared in movies and in fashion magazines alongside lissome models.

* * *

Whitbread's steeds pull the lord mayor of London's golden coach in an annual parade, and they star in coronation processions whenever a new British monarch is crowned.

For efficiency, the London police force says horses are unbeatable in crowds, or in parkland where cars can't travel.

TOP-HEAVY — Actress Sophia Loren was right in style with this headdress when she attended a Monte Carlo dinner where the theme was hats.

Souvenirs Get Blast From Lord Snowdon

LONDON (UPI) — Most of the souvenirs bought by tourists on their visits to Britain are a load of old rubbish, according to that right noble arbiter of taste, the Earl of Snowdon.

As any visitor to London knows, shops in this city abound with dolls in soldiers' uniforms, ashtrays bearing pictures of Buckingham Palace or Big Ben, a multitude of ornaments, odds and ends.

* * *

Lord Snowdon, fashionable photographer husband of Princess Margaret and brother-in-law of Queen Elizabeth II, really stirred up the souvenir trade recently "Most of the souvenirs in this country are low British rubbish and not always British, but made in foreign parts and brought over here," he said.

'IGNORANT THING'

"It's the old ignorant thing. The manufacturers say they are making what people want. They wouldn't have the stuff in their own homes. This is enormously insulting to the public."

Harry Harris coordinator for one of the big souvenir manufacturers, replied: "Lord Snowdon is talking rubbish. What does he want to do, put the gift trade out of work?"

"Prince Philip and the government ask us to export more and more. Now we get Lord Snowdon making derogatory remarks about products which are being exported in very big quantities."

Merger of Military, Civilian Man-in-Space Programs at Issue

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A major decision facing the Nixon administration is whether there should be a merger of the military and civilian man-in-space programs.

The answer may come from a study now being made on what course this nation should take in space during the next 10 years, after a planned July moon landing by two astronauts.

* * *

The panel making the study, composed of representatives of the White House science office, the space agency and the Defense Department, is to report to President Nixon by Sept. 1.

* * *

Many observers believe that a meshing of the military and civilian man-in-space efforts is a necessity from an economic standpoint. Otherwise, the costs of competing hardware systems might explode out of proportion.

BEHIND THE DEBATE

The present separate courses being taken by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Defense Department are behind the debate.

Both agencies are developing small space laboratories for launching in 1971 and there have been charges, mainly by congressmen, that there is costly duplication.

* * *

NASA plans to launch from Cape Kennedy a so-called workshop—actually the burned out upper stage of a Saturn rocket—which is to be visited over a period of a year or more by three separate three-man teams.

* * *

The teams will remain in the two-story workshop for periods up to 56 days. They will conduct scientific, engineering, astronomical and other studies which will set guidelines for larger space stations of the future.

ORBITING LABS

The Defense Department plans to launch a series of five manned orbiting laboratories (MOL) from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., into north-south polar orbits which will overfly all areas of the globe as do America's unmanned military satellites. Each of the two-man crews will conduct secret experiments for up to 90 days to determine if man can execute useful military tasks in space.

With both MOL and the workshop so far advanced, there's no turning back on either.

* * *

Air Force Secretary Robert Seamans Jr., formerly No. 2 man in the space agency, said recently: "I believe that any attempt to combine the two programs would jeopardize the returns to each agency and would ultimately increase the cost."

Seamans said that although similar space technology is used in the two programs, there is no unnecessary duplication in the planned experiments.

"These activities require different equipment, different orbits and different timing," he said.

Dr. George E. Mueller, NASA associate administrator for manned space flight, reports a classified study was conducted recently to determine the capability of MOL to accomplish the NASA long-duration earth orbit objectives.

He said the study "identified the major limitations of the MOL for NASA mission objectives, such as limited crew size, limited free habitable volume, limited payload, no rendezvous and docking capability and restricted on-board and extra-vehicular capabilities.

"As a result of this study," Mueller said, "an extended MOL was considered too limited to provide a significant, cost-effective step toward achieving NASA'S long duration objective."

* * *

Many observers believe that from the two programs may emerge the technology and information for building a national space station that would house both military and civilian personnel. NASA has proposed a 100-man station for launching late in the 1970s.

Another possibility is that both agencies would use the same type rocket and spacecraft, but launch them on separate military and scientific missions. Standardization of equipment and launch facilities would provide considerable saving.

British Writer Doubts U.S. Will Turn Isolationist After Viet

LONDON (AP) — After Vietnam will the United States focus on domestic policy and become isolationist? A British writer is not so sure.

"The loss of confidence is possibly comparable to that suffered by Britain after the Boer war," wrote Louis Heren, the London Times correspondent in Washington, "but national attitudes, geography and commitments inevitably plunged her into two world wars.

"Americans now wear the modern equivalent of an imperial toga and I do not expect them to hang it up in the Smithsonian Institution next to colonial furniture and other memorabilia of a simpler past. The consequences of the Korean war at least suggest this is unlikely."

Other comment about America from abroad this week dealt with efforts of the Nixon administration to achieve peace in Vietnam.

HIGH PRICE

"The new administration does not want to intensify the war," the Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung said. "But it also does not want to give up everything."

As a result its policy is "as much of a shooting war as necessary and as many negotiations as possible," the paper continued.

"The price for this moderation, which could possibly lead to eventual peace, is a high one. The Asiatic Army of the United States pays a high blood toll for it: about 300 dead a week.

"A dictatorship may expect such high losses from its population and its high political engagement. In a democracy, however, the deadly rhythm must influence the entire political engagement."

COMING DOWN? — No, it's going up, but scaffolding on this new building in London makes it look as though it were being demolished instead of being constructed from the ground up.

Prospective Writers Have a Lot to Learn

By JOE WING

NEW YORK (AP) — A perfect stranger wrote from North Carolina the other day to make this modest proposal:

★ ★ ★

"Send me a certified check for $100,000 and you can have complete rights to my column. This is a chance in a lifetime."

★ ★ ★

It isn't often that such a straightforward proposition pops up in a letter on my desk, but I felt fairly confident nevertheless in pigeonholing it. For one thing, the AP has never authorized be to write certified checks for $100,000. For another I had a feeling that the gentleman had overestimated the literary value of his column.

★ ★ ★

An editor cannot always be that smug about his own decisions. He finds himself making the wrong ones too often. And he has plenty of chances to go wrong because a third of the adult residents of these United States have secret or overt hankerings to be newspaper columnists. That's my own estimate based on the fact that not a day passes but one or more hopeful columnist bundles up his samples and ships them off to the feature desk of the AP.

CHANCES OF LIFETIME

What an editor always hopes for, of course, is a column so well written, so original, so entertaining or so informative that he does indeed find it the chance of a lifetime.

★ ★ ★

Doctors, dentists, lawyers and insurance experts want to write columns about their specialties. There are homespun psychiatrists who are sure they can make Dear Abby or Dr. Brothers take cover. financial experts who would love to give Mary Feeley or Sylvia Porter a run for their money.

★ ★ ★

Astrologers, drama critics, book reviewers, cooks, teachers, fashion experts, beauticians and health faddists all want to get into the act.

★ ★ ★

After all, wouldn't you yourself like to try your hand at it? A columnist must live the life of Riley, writing two or six pieces a week and spending the rest of his time in nightclubs, or just lying around home, thinking.

VOLUNTEERED

That's what I thought until Hal Boyle was absent one day and I volunteered in my ignorance to write some substitute columns for him.

★ ★ ★

One lap around the course and I was winded. Three more and I had just about had it. Finally I decided that I might be able to turn out one a month.

★ ★ ★

The mere thought of a writer like Boyle producing five columns a week for 25 years brings on that old seasick feeling. So how come all you people want to write columns?

TV Beauty Not Troubled by Marriage

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Chelsea Brown, the black beauty of television's "Rowan and Martin Laugh-In," is a newlywed of seven months and untroubled by her racially mixed marriage.

Being a newlywed in a mixed marriage, she says, presents the same problems and joys of a nonmixed marriage.

She is the wife of Gary Stromberg, a publicist.

Chelsea and Gary live in a tiny red frame house squeezed in among large Mediterrean and Spanish homes in the Hollywood hills. By comparison with its neighbors, the place appears to be a doll's house.

HONEYMOON HOME

Chelsea explains: "An elderly couple bought this tiny strip of land and built the house as a honeymoon cottage. Then another pair of honeymooners bought it. Now Gary and I live here — so no one has ever live here who wasn't newly married."

* * *

The house consists of a living room, dining room, kitchen, bath, sun deck and two bedrooms, one of which the Strombergs have converted into a den.

Every morning Chelsea dutifully arises before her husband to fix a bacon and eggs breakfast which she considers the most important meal of the day.

She openly confesses to being an excellent cook, especially handy with flank steak, fried chicken — and soul food.

HOURS VARY

Singer-actress-dancer Chelsea is only five minutes from beautiful downtown Burbank where "Laugh-In" is filmed.

Her hours vary from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. or as long as from 10:45 in the morning until 3 a.m. depending on rehearsal days and the amount of time it takes to shoot the wacky show which stars Dan Rowan and Dick Martin.

Until recently Chelsea did all the housekeeping. Now she has a couple come in once a week to scrub the floor and other heavy work.

The Strombergs are the proud masters of a pair of puppies, half poodle, half cocker spaniel.

CRAZY ABOUT CLOTHES

Like all females, Chelsea is crazy about clothes, from mod and mini to evening gowns. But at home she wears capris and one of her husband's shirts or sweaters.

Chelsea is proud of the fact that she and Gary have repainted their house and have done all the decorating themselves, a hodge-podge of antiques, Spanish and modern influences.

* * *

"We've make our own scatter rugs," she says. "We get samples from various stores and then glue them on burlap to make interesting patterns. It's fun and they look terrific."

Weekends are devoted to singing, dancing and piano practice. Chelsea hopes to launch a new night club act later this year.

Chelsea's real first name is Lois, but she was given the Chelsea name by a disc jockey friend who said it fit her better.

Before joining the "Laugh-In" troupe Chelsea appeared with Ray Charles and toured the Orient with a musical trio. Soon she will be striking out on her own as a single. It will mean more traveling, but Chelsea's looking forward to it.

Blanket Seller Tried to Fleece His Customers

BUCKINGHAM, England (AP) — Salesman Martin Leonard was $96 poorer today for telling customers that a blanket he was selling was made of virgin wool.

The Buckingham magistrates were told Wednesday that someone in the crowd to which Leonard was making his pitch asked him: "What's virgin wool?"

"It comes from the sheep that run the fastest," Leonard replied.

A municipal inspector heard the sales talk, examined the blanket and found it contained only 17 per cent wool, virgin or otherwise.

"It was only a joke," Leonard told the magistrates. "All salesmen have a bit of patter to keep the crowds happy."

The magistrates fined him 40 pounds—$96—for misrepresenting an article for sale.

Frenchmen Regard Handshaking as a Way of Life

PARIS (UPI) — To Americans a handshake is a greeting. To the French it is a way of life.

Throughout Europe handshaking is much more common than in the United States. For example, women almost always shake hands with somebody when introduced.

* * *

But the French carry it to an extreme.

The first five or 10 minutes of every working morning is devoted to shaking hands. Upon arriving in the office, everybody shakes hands with everybody else. In an office of 20 or 30 persons this takes a bit of time.

NO ANSWER EXPECTED

Everybody also says "How are you?" Nobody expects an answer.

That's fine until lunchtime, when there may be a few parting handshakes. After lunch, the whole thing is repeated, along with the greeting, "Did you eat well?" Generally no answer is required.

* * *

When the day's work is over, everybody shakes hands as they march out the door.

Once in the family, or with close friends, handshaking switches to cheek kissing. It's all very formalized, and different in Paris and the rest of the country.

'DOUBLE KISS'

Sex doesn't come into this matter — male kisses male, female kisses female, everybody kisses everybody else.

In Paris, it's the "double kiss." First left cheeks together, accompanied by a loud smack by both parties, then right cheeks, complete with smack. The lips really never touch the other person—just the cheeks.

* * *

In the rest of France it is the "triple kiss" — same procedure but left-right-left.

Hand kissing is less common, and an art unto itself. One warning to Americans — don't try it unless you've had practice, it just doesn't come off.

BOWING OUT

First, you don't kiss the hand of a woman unless she is married, or at least well into middle age. Secondly, the lips are not supposed to touch the hand, just hover above it. And no loud smack, please.

Bowing is out of fashion in France, unless you are meeting a visiting king or queen. And then, as with protocol in most areas, it is up to the king or queen — if they want to shake hands they put out their hand first.

* * *

So, a typical day in the life of the working Frenchman: kiss wife and kiddies goodby; a cup of coffee at the corner cafe, shaking hands with the barman and the proprietor since he is a regular customer; to the bus stop, where shakes hands of people who regularly ride the office, where it is handshaking all around; a few handshakes while leaving for lunch; handshakes with the waiters at his favorite restaurant and a Parisian left-right kiss for the proprietor and his wife since they are old friends.

STARTS AGAIN

After lunch the whole routine starts again.

By the time the Frenchman finally gets home to greet his wife with a left-right Parisian kiss or a left-right-left non-Parisian kiss he probably has shaken hands close to hundred times.

It all contributes to being tired at the end of a workday.

Free Trade Zone Helps Ex-Rubber Capital Bounce Back

MANAUS, Brazil (AP) — Imported gourmet foods, Japanese cameras and trashy knicknacks crowd store shelves in this Amazon River port as the outward symbols of the city's greatest prosperity since the short-lived rubber boom at the start of the century.

At the edge of the jungle which embraces the city on three sides, industry is beginning to develop, and a huge climate-controlled hotel is being built. Within the city itself, four 20-story buildings are under construction and more than 10 new banks have been opened.

★ ★ ★

The boom stems from the creation of a free trade zone encompassing Manaus and its environs. The purpose is to encourage the buildup of industry, while at the same time making cheap goods available with living costs higher than in any other major Brazilian city.

"The free trade zone has brought Manaus back to the days of the rubber boom," says a retired army colonel, Floriano Pacheco, who is in charge of the zone.

UNEMPLOYMENT LOW

The Amazonas state governor, Danilo Areosa, says unemployment has hit an all-time low.

"I used to be snowed under with letters asking for jobs," he said at the ornate governor's palace here, "but now we don't get any at all."

Others take a dimmer view.

★ ★ ★

They point out that so far the boom has been mainly in the retail business, with industrial development moving very slowly. They agree that costs of food and clothing for local residents have dropped sharply, but they see a danger to the retail boom in a federal government decision to sharply reduce the duty-free allowance for returning travelers.

The cut is scheduled to apply to purchases made in Manaus as well as outside Brazil, and retailers here expect it will cut in sharply on their sales of duty-free household appliances and clothing. Some shops which sprung up with the creation of the zone to cater to visitors from the rest of Brazil have already closed, and others are planning to.

1,000 SHOPS OPEN

More than 1,000 shops and other small businesses have opened in Manaus since the free trade zone was started two years ago. Some cater mainly to local residents, while others have been specializing in sales to tourists coming in from the rest of Brazil. With the appliance market incentive turned off, they expect that the tourist flow will also dwindle.

Pacheco discounts the importance of tourist purchases and retail business in general, emphasizing that the real objective of the zone is creation of "an industrial - commercial - agricultural center" to serve as a focus for economic development through the chronically depressed Amazon region.

★ ★ ★

He says that small factories making wigs, jewelry and socks are already in operation and that feasibility studies for a seafood packing plant have been approved. Other industrial projects, many of them taking advantage of heavy tax incentives are also under study.

Scientists are studying the damaging hailstorms and severe thunderstorms that occur over the high plains in the U.S. regularly in the summertime in hopes of finding means to end them.

'Other' Congo Could Erupt

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo Republic (AP) — This former French African capital is tranquil now, but experienced observers here liken it to a pressure cooker that could explode.

Maj. Marien Ngouabi is still on top after a monthlong coup d'etat in August and September. Alphonse Massamba-Debat, president for five years until he was deposed, is under house arrest in a villa.

Maj. Felix Mouzabakani, once Ngouabi's interior minister, is in prison. He was promoted to major by Abbe Fulbert Youlou, the rightist ex-priest overthrown as president by Masamba-Debat. His ties to Youlou deepened the already murky waters of politics here.

Scores of political arrests and other mysterious moves have temporarily put away many elements of the entangled tribal-personal-regional-ideological conflict among Congo-Brazzaville leaders.

RIVALRIES GROWING

Army rivalries are growing. The tribal and other rifts continue to threaten coalition and national feeling in general. Brazzavillians, southerners, are unhappy at all the fellow northerners Ngouabi has put in top posts.

On the surface, this sleepy city of 170,000 is more peaceful than any time since the cycle of trouble started last summer.

French housewives buy cheeses and Chinese diplomats look out of Peking's three-story embassy and residence. The tallest building is still the Soviet-built Cosmos Hotel, its 116 rooms mostly empty except during visits of Soviet missions. The French community of 7,500 — still the thinly veiled superstructer of the Congo's workings — prefers the older Hotel Relais.

RUSSIANS GAINING

Neutral diplomats and observers hesitate to draw ideological conclusions, but most agree that the Russians have gained ground over the Communist Chinese since the coup. Though Ngouabi spoke of opening up to the West, there has been little action in that direction.

The American Embassy stands empty as it has for years since relations were broken over an arrested U.S. Aid officer. Official American sources indicate there is no hurry to resume diplomatic ties.

Governor's Program Is Bogged Down

(EDITOR'S NOTE — When William G. Milliken became governor of Michigan, nearly everybody expected him to work smoothly with the Legislature because of his legislative background. But after three months on the job, it appears this has not been thte case.)

By WILLIAM B. KETTER

LANSING (UPI) — As lieutenant governor, William G. Milliken's job involved presiding over the State Senate and assuring that the legislature moved along as an effective unit of government.

As governor, his first major problem is convincing lawmakers to move ahead on issues he considers important to the future well-being of Michigan.

★ ★ ★

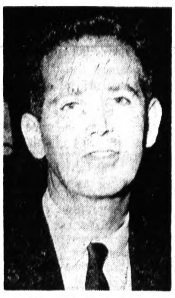
Priority items on Milliken's legislative calendar include state aid to public schools, water pollution control legislation and recreational bond funding. They face resistance from fellow Republicans as well as Democrats.

The governor's education message last week touched off swelling criticism of his proposed approach to school finance reform.

EQUAL TIME ASKED

Democratic leaders are demanding equal television time to answer.

Basically, Milliken asked the Legislature to pass his school aid budget immediately, deferring until this fall action on tax aid to parochial schools and changes in the school aid formula.



GOV. WILLIAM MILLIKEN

★ ★ ★

Chairman Lucille McCollough of the House Education Committee, which currently has the governor's school aid budget under study, said sentiment is running against Milliken's approach.

"It lacks guidelines," said the Dearborn Democrat. "We need something more substantive . . . something that provides definite relief now."

MAY COME FIRST

Rep. McCollough's committee is also considering bills to boost state aid to public schools way beyond Milliken's recommendation, and indications are these measures may go to the floor before the governor's. The committe has already acted favorably on a $45-million parochiaid proposal.

★ ★ ★

The legislative snarl over the multimillion-dollar water pollution control program could worsen, despite Senate approval of the key implementing bill just prior to the Easter recess.

★ ★ ★

The legislation was snagged in the Senate Appropriations Committee for nearly two months, and a similar delay may develop in the House making it nearly impossible for communities to utilize the money for construction projects this year.

Rep. Raymond J. Smit, R-Ann Arbor, says he will attempt to amend the Senate bill in the House to remove what he calls "serious flaws."

Democratic forces are also geared to alter the legislation to help their districts.

The $100-million recretaion plan is hopelessly locked in a wary debate over what the voters were promised when they authorized issuance of the bonds.

★ ★ ★

Milliken is searching hard for a compromise with leaders of his own party, but as yet no visible agreement has been reached.

Milliken also encountered legislative opposition to his "sacrosanct" $1.51-billion budget and the proposal to divert $1.6 million in highway funds for State patrols.

BOGGED DOWN

While Milliken's legislative program appears bogged down now, some Capitol observers look for it to move ahead before too long.

★ ★ ★

They point to cordial relations between Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood and Milliken over the governor's education program as evidence of that.

★ ★ ★

Lockwood has said he embraces Milliken' approach and pledged the support of the Senate GOP leadership to help put it across in the Senate.

Is Hughes Establishing a Beachhead?

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ever since billionaire Howard Hughes started buying up property in Las Vegas, people have been wondering what caused his sudden interest in Nevada real estate.

WEST

It was commonly assumed that he had wind of some impending development that would cause property values to rise sharply, thus enhancing his holdings.

★ ★ ★

No one could believe that a billionaire as astute as Hughes would be making these investments unless he had good reason to believe they would pay off better than the Las Vegas slot machines.

But since Hughes is almost as secretive as he is astute, outsiders could only guess at the possible source of the expected windfall.

TWO PLUS TWO

Well, recently I have been putting two and two together, which is about the limit of my mathematical ability, and I think I may have hit upon the explanation.

My theory is that Hughes envisions Las Vegas one day becoming a great seaport.

Before you start pointing out the obvious, let me say that I am fully aware that at the present time Las Vegas is a goodly distance from the ocean.

But suppose California were to fall into the sea, as numerous soothsayers have been predicting.

VALUES WOULD RISE

In that event, the western border of Nevada would become part of the Pacific shoreline. And property values would skyrocket overnight.

★ ★ ★

I can't say for certain, of course, that Hughes is guided by soothsayers in his financial transactions. But my experience has been that they are at least as reliable as stockbrokers.

★ ★ ★

April 4 was the date my soothsayers had fixed for California's plunge into the Pacific. Through benefit of hindsight, we can now recognize that they were false prophets.

Several other California doomsday dates are still outstanding, however. So there is still a chance that Nevada will become a maritime state before the year is over.

RENO NEAR OCEAN?

If I had the money, I would buy a few ocean-front lots on the outskirts of Reno.

No slight to California is intended, but in some respects Nevada would be a more convenient location for America's West Coast.

★ ★ ★

Shifting the shoreline near Reno and Las Vegas would provide gamblers who have a bad night in the casinos with a place to drown their sorrows.

Kills Weeds Not Grasses

Modern chemicals will destroy weeds without harming grasses.

★ ★ ★

Bentgrass and St. Augustine are exceptions and should receive half the lower rate recommended on the label.

Also, Zoysia and Bermuda grass tolerate chemical sprays well except when they are just beginning to green up in early spring.

Income Tax Answers

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The Internal Revenue Service provides the following answers to questions frequently asked by taxpayers.)

Q — My refund came and it was lower than I expected. How can I find out why it was reduced?

A — In cases such as these, mistakes in arithmetic account for most of the adjustments. You should receive an explanation from us shortly after your refund check arrives explaining the adjustment.

This year, many mistakes in arithmetic are being made on the surcharge. Taxpayers are either reading the surcharge tables incorrectly, making mistakes by not adding it to their tax or making a mistake when they multiply by .075 to determine the amount of the surcharge.

Q — When do I have to file my estimated tax declaration?

A — Estimated declarations and first-quarter payments are due April 15. Use the preaddressed 1040-ES voucher form you received in the mail when you file. It will assure proper crediting of payments to your account.

Q — How does the $100 limitation apply to casualty losses? We suffered damage from two different storms last year.

A — The $100 limitation applies to each separate nonbusiness casualty. Deduct the excess over $100 not reimbursed by insurance for each separate loss. See Page 9 of the Form 1040 instructions for details.

Q — Is a company pension taxable?

A — Your tax liability depends on how much you contributed to the pension fund. This is explained in the instructions for Schedule B of Form 1040. Copies of this schedule and the instructions are available at many banks and post offices as well as local offices of the IRS.

Q — Can I add the medical insurance premiums I pay for my dependent mother to my own for the purpose of tax deductions?

A — Premiums paid for medical care insurance for yourself, your spouse and your dependents are deductible. Total all of these premiums you paid last year and deduct one-half of them up to $150 without regard to the 3 per cent rule. The balance of the premiums should be included with your other medical expenses which are subject to the 3 per cent limitation.

You must itemize your deductions to use this rule.

Q — I'm due a refund. Where should I send my return?

A — Send your return to the IRS Service Center. An envelope was enclosed with Form 1040 tax packages. If you don't have one, look on page 9 of the instructions for the address of your Service Center.

Q — When does a person have to pay self-employment tax?

A — To be liable for self-employment tax, a person must have income from a business or a trade or profession which he conducts as an independent contractor or as a member of a partnership. To be subject to the tax net earnings from self-employment must be at least $400. For additional information see Schedule C-3.

Q — My wife died last year. I have not remarried, can I still file a joint return?

A — You can file a joint return for the year of death. You may also file as a "surviving spouse" using joint return rates for the two years succeeding the year of your wife's death if you meet certain requirements. Check page 3 of the 1040 instructions for details.

Q — Do you need to keep tax records after your refund comes?

A — Yes. Records should be kept as long as they are needed to substantiate information shown on Federal tax returns. Generally, this is a minimum of three years from the date the return was due to be filed.

Some records, like those on the purchase of a home or stock, may have to be kept indefinitely.

City Schools Study Busing More Students

By MARY SUNDSTROM

Free bus transportation to school for 2,500 Pontiac students not previously bused represents a complicated but not insurmountable problem, city school administrators agree.

A recent demand by the Black Student Union BSU) called for "free bus transportation to and from school for all age groups."

★ ★ ★

More than 2,500 students were found eligible to be transported by the school district within the city limits, because of the distance they live from school, according to Vernon L. Schiller, Pontiac Schools business manager, who studied the situation.

This number includes parochial school students, since by state law they must be bused if public school students are, Schiller said.

STUDENT FIGURES

There are 709 elementary students who live more than one mile from school and 630 junior high and 1,180 senior high students who live more than 1½ miles from school.

These students will be transported to and from school when the entire busing plan is implemented. Under present board policy, only students who live outside of the city limits and more than 1½ miles from school are guaranteed transportation by the school district.

★ ★ ★

It would cost the school district almost $300,000 to implement the entire in-city transportation program. Although this amount was included in a preliminary operating budget adopted by the board of education last week, it is felt that to implement the entire program would cause sacrifices in some academic programs.

On March 20, the board voted to implement a partial plan for next year and authorized Schiller to purchase three new buses for this purpose.

FOR BLACK STUDENTS

These three buses probably will be used primarily to transport black students, Schiller said. He said that in determining the routing of these buses, school officials will work with representatives of the black community.

Recently it was discovered that six students who live outside of the city limits and are thus eligible for free bus transportation, had been paying 15 cents per ride to and from school.

★ ★ ★

A new bus is expected to be put on a run next week to pick up the students, all of whom go to Central High School and live on Franklin Road, Asterwood, Fremont and Furse streets.

This bus, which originally had been ordered as a replacement for a worn-out bus, will make two runs in this south section of the city, and will pick up about 140 other students in the city who live more than an approximate 2¾ miles from school.

NO PREVIOUS SUBSIDY

The Pontiac school district never has subsidized in-city transportation for students, because it is not reimbursed by the state, as it is for transporting students who live outside of the city limits and more than 1½ miles from school.

The amount of reimbursement to a school district depends on the state aid formula which generally changes somewhat every year. The present reimbursement to Pontiac is about 50 per cent of the transportation cost, Schiller said.

★ ★ ★

There are at least two bills in the Michigan Legislature which call for the state's reimbursement for transportation of in-city students who live more than a mile from elementary schools and more than 1½ miles from secondary schools.

The passage of these bills would have a significant effect on the speed of implementing the entire in-city bus transportation program, Schiller said.

15 CENTS PER TRIP

Many students in the city now are traveling to schools via the Pontiac Transit Co. at a reduced rate for students of 15 cents a trip.

However, when presenting the demand, representatives of the BSU said that some of the city buses were unheated, undependable and in poor condition.

★ ★ ★

They said that some white students who live in the city were given free rides on school buses by those vehicles which picked up students outside of the city limits.

These buses were authorized to pick up students on their way to school if there were empty seats. This same plan is being implemented on the new bus run in the south section of the city.

PICKUP POLICY

Also, the school district for a number of years has had a policy to pick up elementary students where there are conditions of extreme hazard and existing equipment is available.

"The district has tried to alleviate most of the hazards caused by main traffic arteries and industrial plants by posting school crossing guards at intersections and crossing zones," Schiller said.

★ ★ ★

Several studies have been suggested and will be made in the attempt to implement the busing program. Consideration will be given to rearranging school hours to fit into a transportation schedule, Schiller said. Transportation schedules have always before been worked around school hours.

The Pontiac Area Planning Council (PAPC) education task force has recommended a joint transportation system, to be set up by the City Commission and the school district, to serve both the students as well as the public, Schiller said.

COMMUNITY ASSISTANCE

The transportation plan is under constant study, and assistance from the community in rounding out this plan will be sought, Schiller said.

In a breakdown of equipment and funds needed for the plan, Schiller estimated that the district would have to purchase at least 21 additional buses, at a total cost of about $151,200. Garage and parking facilities would have to be expanded to handle the additional equipment and training of the personnel, cost about $50,000, he said.

★ ★ ★

Plus the capital outlay for buses and facilities, it would cost an estimated $90,000 for additional bus drivers, gasoline, maintenance, mechanics, part-time supervisor and funds needed for the plan, Schiller said.

★ ★ ★

There are many problems to overcome in transporting all eligible in-city students in the district. However, this has become a priority project with school administrators, Schiller said.

"This is at least one thing we can work on right away to help alleviate discrimination in the district. Also, time is becoming more precious, and we feel time is probably better spent in school rather than enroute to and from school, Schiller said.

Trial Stalled Again After Year in Jail

DETROIT (AP) — It's another court delay for Fred Jackson, who's been in jail since March 18, 1968, because he couldn't post $10,000 bond on charges of stealing five boxes of cookies.

The 27-year-old Detroiter had his court appearance postponed for the fifth time Wednesday, when he demanded a jury trial on the burglary charge. However, unlike earlier lengthy delays, the trial was slated for Monday in Recorder's Court.

The previous delays were blamed by court officials on overcrowded dockets and undermanned courtrooms.

Meal Doused, Hotel Saved

DAYTON, N.Y. (AP) — Volunteer firemen in this community of 2,000 reluctantly poured water on their fourth annual dinner plans Wednesday in an effort to save the community's hotel.

Fire, caused by a faulty transformer to a neon sign, spread to the roof of the frame structure, and the hotel's tap room and dining room suffered heavy smoke and water damage just a few hours before the annual celebration.

★ ★ ★

But a grateful owner, Anthony Gostomski, promised to have the facilities ready for the rescheduled dinner one week later.

Pick Veterans in Masters

AP Wirephoto

SETTING HIS SIGHTS — Arnold Palmer may be ready to reclaim his ranking as a master of the Augusta Golf Club fairways. The four-time Masters champion intently studies the flight of a drive Wednesday while making one last tour of the course prior to the opening round this morning.

'68 Champion Goalby Sees Win for Littler

By FLETCHER SPEARS

AUGUSTA, Ga.—If the veteran swingers in this event are correct, then the youngsters and foreigners seeking the 33rd Masters golf championship might as well head for home.

"I pick Gene (Littler) to win," says defending champion Bob Goalby.

"I can't win it," says Littler at the same time putting the finger on former champion Jack Nicklaus "and I'd just as soon not be picked to win."

"Can win," replies a smiling Roberto DeVicenzo, who is playing well and counting well, also.

That was part of the light chatter of yesterday.

Today, the field of 83 — 72 professionals and 11 amateurs — went to work bidding for the lion's share of the $200,000 purse plus the prestigious Masters title that carries with it a fortune in endorsements.

★ ★ ★

Despite an ailing hip, four-time winner Arnold Palmer loomed as one of the favorites as play opened over the flowering 6,980-yard, par-72 Augusta National Golf Club.

Littler, currently the tour's leading money winner with $86,817, could be a sleeper here.

LITTLER DISAGREES

The slightly-built 38-year-old Littler winner of the 1961 U.S. open at Oakland Hills, insists, however, that it isn't so.

"Don't see how I could be picked. This just isn't my type of course, a guy like Nicklaus has just got to be favored.

★ ★ ★

"The course is wide open and the par-5's are simple for Nicklaus. He makes it easy in two strokes while I would really have to hit it to do that. You figure that over 72 holes and it's quite an edge."

Goalby, who drove down from Greensboro (where Littler won) with Littler on Monday, jumped on Gene's bandwagon.

★ ★ ★

"He has more confidence now than ever," says Goalby, who was helped along the victory trail at the '68 Masters by some advice from Littler.

"He's a sneaky golfer," says Golby, smiling at Littler, "He's just giving you guys some deadpan answers."

SCOFFS AT REPORTS

While backing Littler, Goalby also scoffed at reports yesterday that he was retiring after the Masters. "I am not quitting. I don't know where that report came from. I'm going home for a couple of weeks after this tournament and then rejoin the tour."

★ ★ ★

Winning the Masters last year was the high point of Goalby's career but he has had little but grief since then.

Goalby, 38, of Belville, Ill., admits he's in a rut. In 10 tournaments this season, his best finish was a tie for 30th last week at Greensboro.

"I'm not real confident in my game. My best scores came last week in the pro-am at Greensboro. My driver has been a real problem for me.

TO START WITH ARNIE — Bruce Fleisher of Hialeah, Fla., spins around exuberantly Wednesday while warming up for today's opening round of the Masters Golf Tournament by sinking a 25-foot birdie putt during a Par-3 Tournament at the Augusta (Ga.) National Golf Club. The U.S. Amateur champ, Fleisher will tee off with Arnold Palmer in today's round.

Can Kill LA Bid Tonight

Seals Prepare Ax

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Oakland coach Fred Glover says it will be all over tonight if his Seals play the way they did in the last game against Los Angeles.

The Seals meet the Los Angeles Kings here in the sixth game of their National Hockey League quarter-final playoff series.

★ ★ ★

The Seals took a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven West Division series with a convincing 4-1 victory over the Kings in Oakland Wednesday night on the strength of two goals by Bob Dillabough and excellent goal tending by Gary Smith.

If the Seals win tonight, they meet the St. Louis Blues for the championship in the west. If the Kings win, the seventh game will be played Sunday in Oakland.

In the East tonight, the Boston Bruins play the Canadiens in Montreal in the first game of their divisional championship set.

★ ★ ★

"This was the best forechecking effort of the series for us," said Glover after Wednesday's game. "It was a more consistent effort than we have had in a long time, not just spotty. They can win if they play the way they're capable of playing."

Los Angeles Coach Red Kelly said, "The next one now is all or nothing. It's at home at least.

They beat us at our own game. I had some guys who played their hearts out and some who played half heartedly."

Kings' forward Bob Wall suffered a back injury in the second period and his participation in tonight's game was termed "very doubtful" by Kelly, who will replace him with Bryan Campbell.

Dillabough put the Seals ahead 3-1 with his goals in the second and third periods. Mike Laughton and Norm Ferguson scored the other Oakland goals while Gary Croteau had the lone Los Angeles score.

Thieves Take Awards

Top NHL Trophies Missing

TORONTO, (AP)— The Hockey Hall of Fame was broken into overnight and some of the top trophies in the game were stolen.

★ ★ ★

Left Reid, former sports writer and curator of the hall, said Wednesday that missing are the Calder Hart and Conn Smythe trophies from the National Hockey League.

★ ★ ★

From the Sports Hall of Fame which shares the building Reid said "about 100 medals presented to Fred J. Robinson of Toronto, a famous speedskater of the 1900s, were taken along with 40 medals from a collection of Dan Bain of Winnipeg, an all-around athlete and captain of two Stanley Cup teams."

The Calder Trophy is the NHL rookie-of-the-year award. It commemorates former NHL President Frank Calder.

★ ★ ★

The Conn Smythe Trophy goes to "the most valuable player for his team in the entire Stanley Cup playoffs." It is named in honor of the former president of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

★ ★ ★

The Hart Memorial Trophy goes to "the player adjudged to be the most valuable to his team" during a season.

Derek Sanderson of Boston was the 1967-68 winner of the Calder; Glenn Hall of St. Louis won the Conn Smythe last season and The Hart went to Stan Mikita of Chicago.

Arnie Dubs Sanders With New Nickname

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Dapper Doug Sanders was given a new nickname Wednesday by Arnold Palmer when they played a practice round together on the eve of the Masters golf tournament.

Sanders was dressed in bright green, from top to bottom.

"Douglas, you look like Jack and the Greenstalk," Palmer said.

Cleveland Manager Bemoans Hitting

DETROIT (AP) — Cleveland has been known lately as a fine pitching, poor hitting team and Manager Al Dark didn't say anything to discourage that Wednesday.

Dark spoke at a sports broadcasters luncheon at the Detroit Press Club and said managers have often asked him, "How can your pitchers stand it with the few runs they get."

Evidence of the Indians weak hitting came Tuesday as they collected only three hits against Denny McLain in losing the season opener 6-2 to Detroit. Luis Tiant, who had the lowest earned-run average in the American League last year with 1.60, allowed 11 hits in an unusually bad outing.

LOLICH TODAY

World Series hero Mickey Lolich was called to mound duty for today's game against Cleveland's Sam McDowell, who Dark said arrived last year as a top rate pitcher.

Last year the 6-foot-5 southpaw had a 15-14 record for the Tribe with a fine 1.81 ERA. Other regular Cleveland starters are Sonny Siebert (12-10, 2.98 ERA), Steve Hargan (8-15, 4.15) and Stan Williams (12-10, 2.50).

★ ★ ★

Dark said the team had a good spring training record but the batters rarely faced strong pitching. Cleveland trains in Arizona and many of its games were against the expansion San Diego Padres and Seattle Pilots. The Indians 18-12-1 record was the best spring mark since 1957.

"We had a good spring as far as the record goes," Dark said, "but we didn't face real good pitching."

"We're good, but I don't know if we're good enough," he said, referring to the East Division race in the AL. Many sources rate Cleveland fourth or fifth behind Detroit, Baltimore, Boston and maybe New York in what is expected to be the tightest divisional race.

BETTER DEPTH

"Our depth is better, our bullpen is better and we have more versatility," Dark added.

"I think we'll be .500 in the first half of the season and then pick up."

Tiger Manager Mayo Smith was scheduled to appear at the luncheon with Dark but stayed away because of a nagging cold. But General Manager Jim Campbell was there.

★ ★ ★

Campbell said the new divisional setup appears imbalanced now, with the National League having weaker divisional competition.

"But this setup will probably be here for a long while," he said. "Baseball runs in cycles and the National League may find out in years to come they are imbalanced."

Williams Excited After First Win as Nats' Pilot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ted Williams' reaction to his first victory as a baseball manager was just like a little boy discovering strawberry ice cream.

"Great, great, lovely. Gosh, I wish we could winn 100 more. Oh, baby!" he exulted.

Then, after a pause and in a more subdued tone, Williams added, "Well, you got to start somewhere."

Williams, a downtrodden Washington Senators showed signs of learning their lessons from the Hall of Fame hitting master Wednesday night as they whipped the New York Yankees 6-4 with a flourish of home runs.

Runs Too Plentiful, Baseball Tilt Called

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Occidental College scored 12 runs in the second inning and 15 in the third and beat the California Institute of Technology 38-0 in a college baseball game Wednesday.

The game was called after six innings by agreement of both coaches.

Occidental had 31 hits and six home runs in the shortened game.

PCH Seeks Mansfield Repeat

The Mansfield Relays has reached the stage where the school with one or two top performers has a good shot at the team championship.

Pontiac Central had Bob Johnson last year. He scored 12 of PCH's 16 points as the Chiefs tied for the championship. Johnson is gone this spring leaving Jon Costello and Rollie Garcia as the key Central participants.

★ ★ ★

The meet will get under way tomorrow night at Mansfield, Ohio, Malabar High School with the two-mile run and four-mile relay. All other events will take place Saturday. The preliminaries start at 10 a.m. and the finals at 1:30 p.m.

Nearly 2,500 athletes from 280 schools in six states and Ontario are expected to compete. Over 130 Michigan schools plan to enter.

RETIRED TROPHY

Pontiac Central is the only Michigan school to win the title. Last year's triumph was the third and enabled Central to retire the rotating trophy. Only two other schools have done better.

Mansfield has taken seven titles and Cleveland East Tech nine in the 37 meets held to date. This event is the largest of its kind in the nation.

★ ★ ★

Costello placed second in the mile in 1968 and is rated a good chance to win this year by PCH coach Roger Shelpler. Garcia is expected to gain points in the long jump. Horace Davis also could score in this event.

This trio also will participate in other events. Costello will join Larry Moses, Ken Long and Daryl Wilcox for the mile relay. Garcia, Davis, Cary Wiley and Jerry Cato makeup the shuttle hurdles quartet.

Long will try for a placement in the top five of the 440.

STEADY IMPROVEMENT

Campy Russell is steadily improving in the high jump, but probably will have to go a couple of inches higher to over 6-4. John Ray will participate in the shot put and Roger Butler in the pole vault.

Pontiac Northern's chief threat will be hurdler Mel Reeves.

Points are divided on a 6-4-3-2-1 basis for all events and are difficult to come by. Following are some of last year's fifth place times and distances:

Two-mile, :47.5; high hurdles, 14.6; 100 dash, 9.8; mile, 4:27; long jump, 22-2½; shot put, 55-3; high jump, 6-4¾; 440 dash, 49.7; pole vault, 14-0; two-mile relay, 8:11.1; shuttle hurdle relay, 57.0; 220 dash, 21.7; 880 run, 1:57.5; 880 relay, 1:30.7; low hurdles, 19.5; and mile relay, 3:23.

The track and runways are composition material which improves individual efforts.

Monbouquette Given Yankee Farm Position

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bill Monbouquette, veteran pitcher, has been signed as a minor league manager in the New York Yankees system.

The Yankees said Monbouquette will be a scout until June when he will take over as manager at Johnson City in the rookie Appalachian League.

A'S GUN DOWN RUNNER — Third baseman Sal Bando of the Oakland A's applies the tag to over zealous baserunner Duane Josephson of the Chicago White Sox who tried to make third base from first when teammate Ken Berry singled to right field yesterday in the second inning. Reggie Jackson's throw cut down Josephson. The Chicagoans did post a 3-0 victory, however.

Southpaw John Halts Oakland

Carlos May Clouts Two Chicago HR's

OAKLAND (AP) — When it comes time to hand out the comeback of the year award, left-hander Tommy John of the Chicago White Sox has to be a candidate.

John pitched a four-hit shutout to beat the Oakland A's 3-0 Wednesday at the Oakland Coliseum.

Last Aug. 22 John suffered a shoulder separation when he was involved in a fight with Dick McAuliffe of the Detroit Tigers.

"I never really worried about my shoulder," John said. "After it happened, I checked on some courses at Indiana State University to see how much work I still had for my degree."

This spring, Tommy didn't work on control. He just threw the ball.

Twins Beaten in 17th

Kansas City Wins Again

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Umpire troubles couldn't begin to make a dent in Joe Gordon's enthusiasm.

"It's just the greatest thing that could have happened to us," bubbled Gordon after his expansionist Kansas City Royals had clipped the Minnesota Twins for the second time in a row in extra innings.

Rookie Lou Piniella lined a single to left with two out in the 17th inning Wednesday night to hand the Royals a 4-3 victory.

Kansas City nudged the Twins by the same score in 12 innings in Tuesday's season opener here.

"As far as morale and confidence-building, we couldn't have asked for anything better," Gordon said, "especially since the club we were playing supposedly is the favorite in our division.

★ ★ ★ ★

Both Gordon and Twins' Manager Billy Martin had their differences with the umpires, and both didn't mind talking about it afterward.

★ ★ ★ ★

"Some of those umpirse are sure touchy these days," said Gordon, who got thrown out of the game in the 14th inning when Royals' catcher Jim Campanis was called out at first on a close play by umpire Marty Springstead.

Opening Day Best Ever for Baseball

NEW YORK (AP)—The opening day attendance total of 401,310 for the 12 openers of major league baseball set a record according to the office of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. The previous high was 336,528 in 1960 when the majors numbered 16 teams.

The average at the Monday and Tuesday openers this year was 33,443, topped by the 53,572 that saw Detroit open at Tiger Stadium against Cleveland.

The National League games drew 213,297 and the American League 188,013 paid.

North Branch Track Winner

North Branch won a triangular meet at Imlay City. The winners had 63 points. Imlay was close behind with 60 and Memphis posted 25.

Imlay's Ron Harsen won the long jump and both dashes, and teammate Mike Dodge was timed in :16.1 and :21.3 while taking the hurdles races as they accounted for five of the six Imlay firsts.

North Branch won seven events led Bob Mabury's double in the high jump and pole vault. Memphis' lone first was by two-miler Paul Letarte.

Errors Help Angels Beat Pilots, 7-3

ANAHEIM (AP) — Two errors on the same play by Seattle outfielder Steve Whitaker keyed a four-run California rally in the fifth inning and the Angels defeated the expansionist Pilots 7-3 Wednesday night.

The Pilots were leading 3-1 when Jim Fregosi opened the fifth with a single. Then Jay Johnstone doubled and when Whitaker first bobbled the ball and then threw wild, both Fregosi and Johnstone scored, tying the game.

A walk to Rick Reichardt and then three straight singles by third. Leo Rodriguez, Tom Satriano and Bobby Knoop produced two more runs.

Knoop's leadoff single and another run-scoring double by Johnstone helped the Angels to two more runs in the eighth.

Seattle grabbed the early lead with Ray Oyler and starting pitcher Mike Marshall delivering two-out singles to drive in a pair of second inning runs.

'68 Masters Champ Picks Littler

"If I drive well I'm generally okay. When that goes bad . . . it's not that I don't practice. It seems the more I practice the worse I get."

"How about a young player winning here?" Palmer was asked.

NOT FAVORED

"Why, yes, they could. But the odds certainly aren't on their side. The more you play this course the better you play it. Of course, there are some here capable of winning it. A few are awed just by being here."

Nicklaus, the 29-year-old Ohio Stater who is a three time winner here, the youngest ever to win a Masters and the only champion to repeat, seems destined to play a perennial favorite's role.

* * *

He missed the cut two weeks ago at the National Airlines tournament in Miami and then, like Palmer, sat out last week in favor of practice and rest here at Augusta.

His problem at Miami: "putting," said Nicklaus, adding, "I've been hitting it fine here . . . no problems at all."

About the putting at Miami, Nicklaus said the greens were too slow. "I can't putt slow greens. They're fast here . . . they're going to be real good all four days."

Big Jack is confident. "I'm playing better now than I have in the past couple of years."

* * *

De Vicenzo, one of 18 foreign pros in the lineup is best remembered for his goof in the final round last year.

He and Goalby had 277's, but de Vicenzo signed an incorrect card — one showing him with a 66 instead of a 65 — so he wound up with the 66 and finished a stroke behind Goalby. Unlike Goalby, de Vincenzo has enjoyed a successful winter of golf in South America. "Won five tournaments . . . I play alone," he says laughing.

* * *

Another of the big guns here is U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino who says an ailing thumb is now okay and he's ready to go. "The foreign players can't win," says Trevino, speaking primarily of those other than Gary Player, the only foreign player to win, and de Vicenzo.

Among those who could play a big role here this week are Deane Beman of Maryland, Miller Barber of Texas, Bob Lunn of San Francisco and Bert Yancey of Pennsylvania.

There are many others — Billy Casper, Buick Open champion Tom Weiskopf, former U.S. Open champion Ken Venturi and old slammin' Sammy Snead, who is playing in his 30th consecutive Masters.

* * *

In the par-3 tournament yesterday, Lunn, Beman and Coody tied for first place with 23's and Lunn took the tropy in a playoff.

Rangers Clinch Second Trophy in Hockey Play

The Waterford Rangers reign as the league and playoff champions in the Southeast Michigan Junior Ice Hockey Association Juvenile "B" division.

* * *

The Rangers added the playoff title trophy to their collection with a 2-1 final victory over Huron Pointe. Gerry Sawchuk netted the winners' first score, and Murray Watson broke the 1-1 tie late in the last period.

Goalie Dan Sherman was outstanding all season for coach Don Lacey and the Rangers.

Hawkins' Knee Shows No Pain

Both ABA Playoffs in East Stand 1-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Connie Hawkins apparently has fully recovered from his knee operation Feb. 1 for a bad cartilage. That means the Minnesota Pipers are again in contention in the American Basketball Association playoffs.

Hawkins scored 26 points and grabbed 11 rebounds to lead the Pipers to a 106-99 victory over Miami at West Palm Beach Wednesday. That evened the best-of-7 Eastern Division semi-final series at one game each.

Indiana also drew even with Kentucky in the other Eastern semifinal by defeating the Colonels at Indianapolis 120-115. That tied the best-of-7 series at 1-1.

Roger Brown threw in 35 points to lead the Pacers. Louie Dampler topped the Colonels with 31.

Celtics Thump Chilly Knicks

BOSTON (AP) — The New York Knicks picked the wrong time to stage their poorest shooting exhibition of the National Basketball Association season, but the Boston Celtics won't mind if they try for an encore.

"That first half was the worst we ever had," Knicks' Coach Red Holzman said Wednesday night after the Celtics crushed his club 112-97 to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-7 Eastern Division final series.

Boston Player-Coach Bill Russell, who played a fantastic all-around game, agreed that he had never seen the Knicks look colder.

"But if they want to do it again tomorrow night, it's okay with me," he said of the third game scheduled for tonight in New York's Madison Square Garden.

The Celtics were running all the way, hitting the open man, getting the good shots and making them.

The Knicks, meanwhile, hit only three of 23 shots in the first period, managed only nine of 47 for the half, and were out of the game before they knew it.

"They played well, had good defense and ran well," Holzman said, "but still we had a lot of good shots at the beginning. We just missed them."

* * *

The 35-year-old Russell scored 14 points, hauled in 29 rebounds and was his usual intimidating self on defense.

"Russell is a great defensive basketball player—he's the greatest defensive center who ever lived," Holzman said.

Bailey Howell led the Celtics in scoring with 27 points, with five other players hitting in double figures.

REAL STORY

But the real story of the game was told in the ineffectiveness of the Knicks, who scored only 14 points in the opening period, 19 in the second session, and went off trailing 55-33 at intermission.

* * *

Willis Reed of the Knicks wound up leading all scorers with 28 points.

The easy Boston victories were a complete switch on the regular season, when the Knicks won six of seven games. Holzman said that record was misleading, however, since the Celtics were in several of those games right up to the end and could have won them.

"They played well for two games . . . now its up to us," Holzman said. "This might have given them a lift. But it didn't demoralize us. We'll just have to do the best we can."

HUSTLING HAVLICEK — Although he's outnumbered three-to-one during this first half action last night, Boston's John Havlicek (17) roars in to snare a rebound away from New York's Bill Bradley (24) while Dave DeBusschere (22) and Walt Frazier are unable to react in time to prevent their rival's success. The host Celtics also prevailed on the scoreboard, 112-97.

Buffalo Bills Eye Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — Owner Ralph Wilson of the Buffalo Bills was quoted by the Times Wednesday as saying via telephone from Miami that "it looks like a race to Seattle" for an American League Football franchise.

Asked if his team might join the stampede, Wilson said, "that's the way it looks but maybe I'll be too late."

Wilson was here during the winter to look over the 55,000-seat University of Washington stadium as a possible interim site while Seattle is building a $40 million domed stadium.

Buffalo, he said, has three stadium proposals but unless a plan is agreed upon by late summer or early fall he will begin looking for a new home.

The Boston Herald-Traveler reported recently the Boston Patriots would move to Seattle but club officials denied any such immediate plans. Tuesday Sam Schulman, head of the San Diego Charger organization, said he would like to move that franchise to Seattle.

AFL-NFL 'New Shape' Is Disclosed

OAKLAND (AP) — Oakland Raider boss Al Davis disclosed Wednesday the shape of the plan offered by the American Football League for its merger with the National Football League and indicated he thought it would be agreed to next month.

Davis refused comment on just what form the leagues will take. But it was learned that the plan envisions the shift of three NFL clubs to the AFL—which ones are anybody's guess — and the formation of three divisions in each league, two with four teams and one with five.

Davis, who was commissioner of the AFL at the time the merger was agreed upon in 1966, is one of four team owners who worked on the plan that the NFL is now considering. Its fate will be learned at a meeting in New York on April 29.

Essentially, the plan, as outlined by Davis in an interview, has five points:

1. Retention of the present identity of the two leagues.
2. A continuation of traditional rivalries.
3. Small divisions with home-and-home games between divisional opponents to develop a true champion.
4. A solid television package.
5. Pre-season and regular season play between interleague opponents to build up natural geographical rivalries and between intra-league foes to capitalize on existing ones.

* * *

The plan was worked out when the two leagues met at Palm Springs, Calif., last month, but were unable to agree on a merger program for 1970. Working on the plan were four AFL owners, Paul Brown of Cincinnati, Eugene Kelin of San Diego, Lamar Hunt of Kansas City and Davis.

Originally, an inter-league committee of three representatives from each league had proposed that the leagues remain as they are with some inter-league play.

The AFL turned that down and proposed a total realignment of the leagues on a mainly geographical basis.

The NFL rejected that, however, emphasizing the need for traditional rivalries, home-and-home play and small divisions. The older league then reoffered the original play on a two-year basis and the AFL rejected it again.

* * *

At that point the plan now under consideration was presented. Commissioner Peter Rozelle asked that the meeting be adjourned so the NFL could study it.

Rozelle has been quoted as saying the plan now being studied, or something like it, is have said pretty much the same thing and Davis thinks it or one the most feasible since it contains all the things most of the like it will be adopted.

Vikings Score Track Victory

Walled Lake overcame Cranbrook's field events strength by capturing 8 of the 10 races for a 66-52 track triumph yesterday afternoon.

The Vikings swept the 120-yard low hurdles, had double victories by its relay teams, hurdler Larry Siersma and dashman Bob Zaebst en route to their second straight win.

It was Cranbrook's opening dual meet. Anthony Thomas was a dual winner in the long jump and high jump for the Cranes.

Milford dominated Waterford Mott, 84-34, as the Redskins' initial dual meet resulted in the third straight defeat for Mott.

The home team captured 10 of the 14 first places. Milford swept the long jump, the pole vault, the 180-yard low hurdles and both relays.

Mott's Bob Poe won both the 100 and 220-yard dashes.

Rain Helpful to Brother Rice

Rain curtailed the Wednesday prep baseball schedule and so Birmingham Brother Rice's perfect record remains intact.

The Warriors opened their season Tuesday with a 4-0 victory over Walled Lake Central, but yesterday they were down, 6-1, after two innings at Clawson.

Then the rain came and play couldn't continue. The game may be rescheduled for tomorrow.

Geoff Bell scattered six hits and Dave Fournier cracked a two-run double in the Warriors' impressive decision over Walled Lake (1-1).

Baker, COWGER (6th, 1-0) and Snarey, O'Connor (4th), Knapp (11th); Grace, KEYSER (11th, 0-1) and Klann (11th).

Clarkston's game at Lansing Sexton also went down the drain yesterday and won't be rescheduled.

Tuesday, Lake Orion defeated Clarkston, 4-1, in 11 innings. Substitute Jim Parsons clouted a two-run double and later scored on an error to provide the deciding runs.

Earlier, Jerel Hollens singled home an unearned run for Lake Orion (1-0); but Steve Warman's single tied the game for the Wolves (1-1) in the fourth.

Toronto Plans Reception for Punch Imlach

TORONTO (AP) — George "Punch" Imlach may be gone from Maple Leaf Gardens but he's not forgotten at city hall.

The city council voted Wednesday to hold a reception and dinner in honor of Imlach, fired Sunday as manager-coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

Controller Allan Lamport said, "We should do something for Punch so that the city of Toronto will remain a great city instead of being a sourpuss just because he lost one Stanley Cup series."

Padres' Johnny Podres Blanks Houston, 2-0

Podres of the Padres! Roll dat wonderful year of 1955 when dat alliteration around your he pitched the Dodgers, Dem tongues, youse Flatbush Faith-ful of Brooklyn. T'ink back to over dose snooty Yankees. Bums, to de woild championship

Now dat ain't even his biggest t'rill no more. He wins one lousy game for some boig called San Diego, which sounds like a great name for a bullfighter, an' already he forgets us. Podres of the Padres? What's de woild comin' to, Hoiman?

"I knew in spring training that I could pitch in the big leagues but I still had to prove it tonight—and I think I did," Johnny Podres said Wednesday night after coming back from a year of semi-pro baseball and hurling the expansion San Diego Padres to a 2-0 victory over Houston.

OTHER IN NL

Elsewhere in the National League, Atlanta made it three in a row over San Francisco 4-1, Pittsburgh sent defending champion St. Louis to its second straight setback 6-1, Cincinnati edged Los Angeles 3-1 on Bobby Tolan's two-run homer, Billy Williams tied a major league record with four doubles in a nine-inning game as the Chicago Cubs walloped Philadelphia 11-3 and the New York Mets drubbed Montreal 9-5.

Podres was released by Detroit following the 1967 season after 12 years with the Dodgers and two with the Tigers. He sat out 1968, pitching semi-pro ball around his home town of Witherbee, N.Y.

Podres is scheduled to make his next start next Tuesday night—against the Dodgers in Los Angeles.

NEEDS HELP

Milt Pappas retired 14 San Francisco batters in order after allowing a first-inning run but needed relief help from Cecil Upshaw as the Braves trimmed the Giants and swept their season-opening three-game series.

Hank Aaron doubled home the tying run in the bottom of the first and then scored on Orlando Cepeda's single. The Braves got two more in the sixth on Clete Boyer's homer, Sonny Jackson's double and a single by Bob Didier.

* * *

Bob Veale scattered six hits as Pittsburgh downed St. Louis. The Pirates scored twice in the fourth on Julian Javier's two-base error, a single by Roberto Clemente, Willie Stargell's double and Bob Robertson's single.

They added three more in the fifth on Fred Patek's bunt, another Javier error, Matty Alou's double and a single by Clemente. Jerry May homered in the ninth.

Tolan's two-run homer in the seventh against Don Sutton of Los Angeles snapped a tie and gave the Reds' victory to relief ties and Williams' four doubles pitcher Wayne Granger, who matched a record shared by 29 was on base with a walk when other players. The Cubs broke Tolan connected. Jim Maloney, a 2-2 tie with two unearned runs the Cincinnati starter, left the in the fourth inning and explod-game when he pulled a hamstr- ed for seven in the seventh.

Wisconsin Debate on Lake Salmon Rages

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — While debate raged in the Wisconsin Legislature Wednesday over the impact of pesticides on man's environment, the government continued its Lake Michigan salmon seizure with officials preparing to defend their action at a meeting today in Washington, D.C.

A campaign by Wisconsin conservationists to halt the use of DDT, reflecting similar efforts by congressmen, ran into more opposition from farmers and pesticide manufacturers during a hearing before the state assembly's Agriculture Committee in Madison.

CONFISCATED

The government, meanwhile, was confiscating 6,800 pounds of Coho salmon which had been stored in a Milwaukee warehouse. The government, which also seized 3,230 pounds of Coho March 28, has acted on complaints by the Food and Drug Administration that the fish are being contaminated by pesticides accumulating in Lake Michigan.

* * *

Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare, agreed to meet today in Washington with health and conservation officials from Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois after Rep. Gerald Ford, R-Mich., accused the FDA of "pure speculation" about the extent of the health hazard.

The salmon, caught off the Michigan shore, had been destined for distribution by a Michigan firm, Blackport Packing Co. of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Wisconsin and Michigan have been planting Coho in Lake Michigan tributaries in hope of creating a new game fish population.

The FDA said DDT levels in the Coho may be high enough to harm humans who eat the fish. Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., and other congressmen are seeking a ban on use of DDT.

The federal activity is being closely watched in the state capitol where Wisconsin legislators are being asked to approve a bill prohibiting DDT in Wisconsin.

* * *

The Coho salmon issue was cited during Wednesday's hearing by proponents of the bill as an example of what they call harm to wildlife of a chemical compound which does not deteriorate.

* * *

They said the peregrine falcone, the bald eagle and other animals are vanishing from Wisconsin because they eat water creatures contaminated with DDT washed by rain into lakes from farms, and from municipalities where DDT is sprayed to fight Dutch elm disease.

* * *

A University of Wisconsin botanist, Dr. Grant Cottam, said birds have been "the first species to be affected, perhaps because they are predators."

"Man too must be classed as a predator," Cottam said, "and it is possible man will be one of the predators eliminated if DDT is used in the future."

A UW wildlife ecologist, Dr. Joseph Hickey, said DDT use has declined 85 per cent in Wisconsin in the last decade as farmers turn to more effective pest controls.

But "continued use in the eastern part of the state has contributed to the DDT in Lake Michigan," Hickey said.

Wins AAU Meet

Jim Henry 3-Meter Champ

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Jim Henry, a bronze medal winner at the Mexico City Olympics used a scintillating routine to easily win the one-meter springboard diving event Wednesday evening at the National AAU Swimming and Diving Championships.

Henry, of Dallas, Tex., scored 506.25 points to 462.51 for second place Mike Finneran of Santa Clara, Calif., and 461.49 for Chuck Knorr of Columbus Ohio

After taking second Tuesday night to Win Young in the three-meter event, Henry jumped into a commanding lead in the preliminaries and was never in trouble.

Henry, 20, who dives for Indiana University, said he performs better at the one-meter height and said he hopes to compete for the United States in the 1972 Olympics at Munich.

Favorite Bows to Australian in Net Action

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — South Africans rooted hard, but couldn't push their hero, Cliff Drysdale, into the final of their open tennis championship.

Drysdale, seeded fourth in the event, bowed to Rod Laver 6-1, 1-6, 6-1, 6-2 Wednesday in a match which saw the Australian play erratically.

Drysdale kept Laver pinned to the baseline for most of the match, but the Wimbledon champion adapted his game and offset the South African's double-handed backhand. Drysdale fought off four match points before bowingout.

* * *

Tom Okker, of the Netherlands, the defending champion but only third seeded, moved into the final when second seeded Tony Roche of Australia was forced to default because of a shoulder injury suffered during doubles action on Tuesday.

* * *

In women's doubles play, Ann Haydon Jones of Great Britain and Francoise Durr of France upset the top-seeded duo of Mrs. Billie Jean King, Long Beach, Calif., and Rosemary Casals, San Francisco, 6-3, 4-6, 8-6.

In the women's singles semifinals, Mrs. King will oppose Mrs. Jones in one match.

Midwest Hoopsters Whip South Stars

HONOLULU (AP) — Bobby Smith of Tulsa and Jo Jo White of Kansas led the favored Midwest All-Stars to a 111-89 victory over the South in the opening game of the first annual Aloha Basketball Classic Wednesday night.

* * *

Smith won scoring honors with 23 points, 17 in the second half.

White in the first half hit 14 points that enabled Midwest to gain a 48-42 intermission lead after six ties.

* * *

Bill Bunting of North Carolina was pace-setter for the South with 19 points.

Opening lead—♥K

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

Some experts play the double of an opening four-heart bid as strictly business. Others play it as takeout and still others as business but willing to play spades.

In a recent team match both sides played the double this last way. At the first table South left his partner's double in. North opened the king of clubs and shifted to the six of diamonds after the king held.

Later on he put his partner in with the ace of clubs and a diamond ruff set the contract. North was happy until he saw the result at the other table.

★ ★ ★

That South took the double out to four spades. East doubled like the crack of doom and West opened the king of hearts. South discarded a club on dummy's ace and led the singleton diamond from dummy. East went up with the ace and led another heart.

At this point South went into one of those five-minute huddles. He finally decided that East held all missing trumps and proceeded to make the hand on that assumption. He ruffed a diamond first, ran three rounds of clubs winding up in his hand and ruffed another diamond.

By now East was down to five trumps but there was no way he could make more than two tricks with them. All South had to do was to lead a heart from dummy. If East trumped low South would score his 10.

★ ★ ★

Actually East ruffed with the jack and led a trump but this put dummy on lead again. Another heart was led. East could take his king of spades then or later, but he could do no better.

South played the hand brilliantly but we have to credit East with an assist. When East got in with the dimaond ace he might have led the seven of trumps right then and beaten the hand.

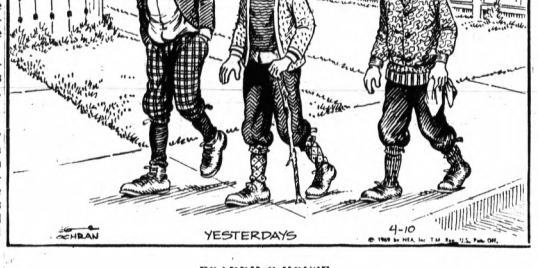
OUT OUR WAY



Three Arrested in Drug Haul

DETROIT (AP) — Two men and a woman were arrested Wednesday carrying what police said was one of the largest narcotics hauls ever made in the Midwest.

Federal narcotics agents arrested Felix Wals, 27; James Riley, 35; and Sylvia Laster, 23, all of Detroit.

★ ★ ★

They were carrying nearly nine pounds of heroin and a smaller quantity of cocaine in brown paper shopping bags, authorities said. The three were surrounded when they left Miss Laster's apartment by a squad of a dozen Detroit police and federal agents.

★ ★ ★

"We expected quite a big haul, all right," said John Evans, regional director of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs. "But not this big."

'ASTRONOMICAL'

Evans said the 8.8 pounds of heroin would bring about $25,000 in its present form, but would "be astronomical when cut down and sold at street prices."

Evans said he was not sure how the quantity of drugs—both severely addicting — were brought into the country. He said, however, that they might have been imported from Mexico.

★ ★ ★

He said none of the three arrested had a previous record and none was addicted.

They were charged with illegal possession and importation of narcotics.

A Police Matter

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Police Chief Jack Hawe's cruiser was hit Wednesday by a car backing out of the police parking lot. The driver was Leonard Peck, commander of the traffic division.

Trading Is Active

Stock Mart Continues to Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to rally in active trading early this afternoon.

The session was the third in a row the market had advanced.

* * *

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 6.04 points at 93.01.

* * *

Gains led advances by better than 400 issues.

PEACE HOPES HELP

Brokers said the market still was drawing some of its strength from Vietnam peace hopes.

* * *

"Even though the news of the Vietnam is vague and insubstantial," one said, "it has dislodged some of the money that was standing on the sidelines and resulted in a rising market, which is when many investors like to buy.

* * *

"They apparently feel that if something really solid breaks in the Vietnam situation and the market makes a good rally, they want to be in it."

* * *

Investors also apparently were drawing encouragement from indications the administration planned to follow a policy of "gradualism" in checking inflation.

AVERAGE UP

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.1 at 335.8, with industrials up 3.5, rails off .5, and utilities up .5.

* * *

Twelve of the 20 most-active stocks on the American Stock Exchange advanced, 3 declined, and 5 were unchanged.

* * *

Revenue Properties, most-active, gained ¼ to 20⅛. Loew's Theatres warrants gained 2. Resorts International Class A was off 2⅛. McCrory warrants (new) gained 1.

County Man Heard in N.Y. Car-Theft Trial

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI)— The former president of a Michigan trucking concern testified yesterday he drove five stolen autos from Detroit to Niagara Falls in 1967 and turned them over to contacts.

Walter L. Gordon, 24, of Madison Heights, Mich., offered the testimony in Buffalo Federal Court on the first day of the trial of Charles E. Hettinger, 37, of Penfield, N. Y., a former suburban Buffalo auto dealer.

* * *

Hettinger was indicted last April on five counts of receiving stolen autos and one count of conspiracy.

Gordon has pleaded guilty in the case. He testified he turned over the autos to Crandall Johnson, 27, of Lewiston. Johnson has pleaded guilty to two of the interstate auto counts.

$2,000 FOR EACH

Gordon's testimony was part of U.S. Attorney Edgar C. Nemoyer's reconstruction of the alleged conspiracy. Nemoyer told a jury of seven men and five women he intended to prove Hettinger paid an average of $2,000 for each of the stolen cars.

* * *

Nemoyer said Gordon pleaded guilty to one count of knowingly transporting a stolen car across state lines and one count of conspiracy. Each count could bring him a sentence of up to five years in jail and a $5,000 fine.

* * *

Gordon also implicated Victor Strausberg, 38, of Niagara Falls and James W. Wagner, 26, also of Niagara Falls, in the case. He testified he never met Hettinger. Strausberg has also pleaded guilty in the case. Wagner, who is serving with the U.S. armed forces in Vietnam, has pleaded innocent.

Improved Ties With Reds Aired

NATO Meeting Opens

WASHINGTON (AP) — NATO ministers opened a two-day conference today talking guardedly about something thought impossible at the alliance's formation two decades ago—East-West cooperation.

Before the 20th anniversary conference of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was a secret report on the chances of improving relations with the Soviet bloc.

* * *

Although it proposes guidelines on how to arrange for contacts with the Communist nations, it warns that it would be a grave mistake in view of the invasion of Czechoslovakia to go into any talks with the Soviets thinking detente is just around the corner.

Formal ceremonies marking the anniversary of the alliance's formation included an afternoon speech by President Nixon.

SOVIET INVITATION

The ministers will limit their scrutiny of possible new detente efforts to Europe and are expected to discuss thoroughly the Soviet bloc's recent invitation to the Western allies for a European security conference.

The Warsaw Pact nations issued their invitation March 17 in what is now known as the Budapest appeal. The invitation, American informants stressed, is nothing new, as the Communists suggested such a conference three years ago.

* * *

There are, however, two new factors which deserve consideration, high American sources indicate. One is that the appeal's tone was milder than usual, with virtually no polemics. The other that it did not exclude countries outside Europe, such as the United States and Canada as earlier invitations did.

The 20-page secret report was prepared for the NATO Council by the permanent representatives of the member nations.

CZECH INVASION

Besides weighing the chances of improving East-West relations and its expected implications for the alliance, it was learned that the report also discusses the political consequences of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968.

NATO Secretary - General Manlio Brosio made it clear at a Wednesday news conference that Czechoslovakia's continued Soviet occupation represents a major roadblock to improved relations with the East.

"Nothing would improve more the atmosphere of confidence than the end of Czechoslovakia's occupation," the Italian diplomat said.

NATO looked at the military consequences of the Czechoslovak invasion at its November 1968 meeting. The current session, sources said, will probably only touch on questions of military strategy. These will be further explored when NATO's various defense committees meet in Brussels and in London end of next month.

City Approves $2 Million in New Building

Permits for more than $2 million in new construction in Pontiac were issued by the city's building inspection division during March.

More than half the amount, $1.2 million, is represented by the value of two buildings at Pontiac Motor Division. One of the contruction jobs is the second electrical furnace at the foundry on Montcalm to cost $1 million.

* * *

The new furnace is part of a smoke-abatement and modernization program.

Permit for the research building at the Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine at Auburn and Opdyke showed the building's value at $500,000.

* * *

Eleven new family dwellings were shown in the report, and demolition of 30 existing homes also were listed.

3 Vandalism Cases Probed

Damage Is Linked to School Vacations

Increased vandalism accompanies Easter school vacations, the Oakland County Sheriff's Department said today. Several incidents were reported yesterday.

Included in the spree was about $2,500 damage to a golf course and $932 damage to a school, both in Avon Township, and $123 damage at a Pontiac school.

* * *

Six greens were torn up and several tees and marking blocks were taken at Rochester Golf and Country Club Inc., 655 Michelson, between 8 p.m. Tuesday and 6 a.m. yesterday, it was reported. Some of the markers were recovered nearby.

At Meadow Brook Elementary School, 18 windows were broken between 6 p.m. Tuesday and 7 a.m. yesterday, according to deputies. The school is at 2350 Munster.

Five of the broken windows were 56-by-67 inches and valued at $150 each, a school spokesman said.

Twenty windows were reported broken at Longfellow Elementary School, 31 N. Astor, between 3:30 p.m. Tuesday and 6:45 a.m. yesterday. The damage occurred on the west side of the school and south and west sides of the boiler room.

2 Robbers Kill Brinks Guard

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — A Brinks Inc. guard was killed today when two persons held up an armored car as its crew was making a payroll delivery, police said.

Police said the guard was shot down as he was carrying a bag of money to the second floor office of the H. P. Hood & Sons Dairy.

They said the driver of the truck chased the robbers and apparently recovered the money.

There was no immediate word on how much money was involved.

DRESSED AS WOMAN?

Officers said one of the robbers may have been dressed as a woman.

They fled in a getaway car that had been reported stolen earlier, police said.

The car was recovered later in the city's Eagle Park section.

Smoking Cited as Fire Cause

Careless smoking was listed as a possible cause of a $4,500 fire in a Pontiac basement apartment yesterday morning, fire officials said today.

They said the blaze caused extensive smoke damage to the apartment at 338 W. Huron. No one was hurt. The apartment is owned by Dorothy Lavender of the same address.

Firemen were at the scene from 10:54 to 12:43 p.m.

Grant Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Economic Opportunity has approved a $50,000 grant for a Head Start program for 225 children in Grand Traverse, Antrim, Benzie and Leelanau counties.

Prelate Sees Parochiaid as Likely in State

DETROIT (AP) — The president of the National Catholic Educational Association (NCEA) is optimistic about the prospects of parochiaid being adopted by many states, Ohio and Michigan in particular.

The Rev. C. Albert Koob of Washington, D. C., said today there are 23 states whose legislatures are moving toward some sort of public aid to nonpublic schools. Most of these are heavily populated states.

* * *

Father Koob, in Detroit for the NCEA annual convention, said Michigan and Ohio are two states where the outlook appears "very good" for the adoption of parochiaid this year.

Proposals for financial aid to nonpublic schools, he said in an interview, range from the GI Bill approach to the "purchased service" program adopted last year by Pennsylvania.

PENNSYLVANIA MODEL

The Pennsylvania law, which went into effect with the school term last fall, has served as a model for some other proposed programs. It provides for the purchase by the state of secular educational services for children in nonpublic schools, with funds coming from the proceeds of horse racing.

The money is used for payment of teachers' salaries, textbooks and instructional materials in such nonreligious subjects as mathematics, modern foreign language, physical education.

* * *

Father Koob said the Pennsylvania approach gets around the objections of those who oppose state aid on the constitutional grounds of the separation of church and state.

Happiness

We have a "House of Happiness" that stems the Generation Gap.

Happiness is different things to different people. For the children Happiness is:

In pretending the bubbling spring is a wishing well and that the drainage ditch is a whole ocean. In summer, is a "Magical Lake", it is finding crocus buds in the spring, lots of fish in Kettering Blackbird, hunting wild raspberries in summer, and gathering shagbark hickory nuts in fall, from just-overthe-hill woods and stacking the logs for Mother to make a cake. It is lapping the brown leaves and tramping through them to hear their rustling sound. It is swimming in summer changed into a Winter Wonderland by the tall of the first real snow. It is running, not walking around the huge open fire when the child for whom it is the steeled wind pecks at the window pane and the cool ultimate happiness for Children is the red and white barn with room for 2 horses and a pony or two. Also the little red and white playhouse with cupboards including dishes for the dolls with their clothes and their beds.

But, for the tense and pressured Businessman happiness is:

A place to put his feet on the ground and walk AWAY from the dog-eating competitive rat race of world and walk IN quiet paths, with a FRIEND, a dog at heel. A place to contemplate, no matter what the successes or failures or griefs of the past, from the changing seasons. He learns how it grows, how it dies, how it RENEWS, NEW GROWTH AND NEW INSPIRATION. Peace of quiet contentment. Let us show you this house of Happiness. Actually the house cannot be duplicated for $60,000 today. Price with 16 acres included $40,000. Owner moved suddenly to Detroit and has for the past 11 years. Has 3 bedrooms, about 38 miles from Detroit, Mrs. Kenny, Realtor, Call 625-3799 or 634-9825, reverse charges. Tops of Show Biz Salute the Allens on 9th Milestone

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — When they gave a party at El Morocco for Marty (Hello, Dere!) Allen and his wife Frenchy on their ninth wedding anniversary, some slob was rude enough to inquire, "But why on their ninth?"

An even ruder slob snapped, "Maybe they're afraid they won't make it to their tenth."

WILSON

Ambassador-to-India Kenneth Keating (who kept reminding you "The Senate hasn't confirmed me yet") was one of the first arrivals to salute the plumb, wild-haired comedian and his wife . . . then the Joseph E. Levines (Joe's off to Rome en route to the Hollywood Oscar, Polar route) . . .

★ ★ ★

Tom Poston celebrating a new son, Totie Fields several ounces thinner, the Harry Goulds several millions richer, Shalimar the bellydancer whose mini brought gasps, socialite Laura Johnson who'd gone home from an Easter brunch to change outfits and men.

Others were Joan Fontaine, Barry Sullivan, Virginia Graham for once not talking but with good reason, Tony Martin, Dody Goodman, Anita Gillette, the James Earl Joneses happy he's making two big movies, Ethel Merman, Maurice Woodruff the clairvoyant who told my secretary she has a very bleak future (she's going to keep working for me) . . .

The Gordon MacRaes (rushing to relieve the baby-sitter), the Joey Adamses back from Thailand where they allowed the Queen an audience with them, David Frost, Claudia McNeil, beloved Bricktop, Joan Rivers, Milton Rackmils, Herb Steinbergs, Geoffrey Holder.

★ ★ ★

The expectant Theo Bikels were there, as were Benay Venuta, Dave Garroway looking thin, Raymond St. Jacques, Peter Donald with a cane, Lou Jacoby, Louis Sobols, Carl Erbes, Susan Wilson and husband . . . the Maurice Uchitels who run El Morocco but were guests . . . and of course Marty Allen's No. 1 fan, Joan Crawford.

As Joan was leaving to see a man about a soft drink, Marty pretended to depart with her.

"Tell Frenchy I had a good time at our party!" he shouted and waved . . . but I noticed he ran right back in . . . real fast.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Dick Smothers, introduced at Shepheard's, announced to the audience, "We got fired by CBS — and that's their loss!" . . . The swank Colony, one of the last holdouts against women in pants suits, relented for one day only . . . Joey Heatherton and footballer Lance Rentzel (who'll wed Saturday) were at the Copa to see recovered Sammy Davis, who's again doing turnaway business.

Flip Wilson will be master of ceremonies at the UCLA tribute to basket-baller Lou Alcindor . . . Singer Mary Hopkins (of Apple Records) describes her hair as "almost blonde — but I help it a little."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The less men think, the more they talk."

EARL'S PEARLS: The approaching April 15 deadline recalls Goodman Ace's line about income tax returns: "Who says you can't be wounded by a blank?"

Duke Ellington, who'll be 70 this month, got a wire from Jack Benny: "Welcome to the 39 Club." "That's earl, brother.

Assemblywoman Seeking Relief From Pay Potties

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Assemblywoman March K. Fong says she will strike the first blow against pay toilets April 24 during a mass demonstration at the Capitol.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Fong, an Oakland Democrat, told newsmen Wednesday more than 1,000 persons are expected to attend the pay potty protest parade to rally support for her bill to outlaw pay toilets in public buildings.

★ ★ ★

When the marchers reach the west steps of the Capitol, Mrs. Fong said, she will use a sledge hammer to "smash the first pay potty in the history of California . . . thus striking the first blow against the pressure brought on by pay toilets."

★ ★ ★

She said one feature of the protest will be Dixieland bands playing "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime?"

A Look at TV

Cosby Childhood Glows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Child hood memories provide a rich lode for mining by comedians, as Sam Levinson, and more recently, Bill Cosby can testify. But it requires special skill, sentiment and a kind of resigned tolerance to pull them off so that the result is both funny and affectionate.

Cosby, in his NBC special last night, had one long monologue that must have had points of identification for men with sharp memories of their boyhoods, men with young sons and all mothers of little boys. That's a big audience.

The comedian took all the parts in a midnight drama involving himself at the age of 8, and 5-year-old brother and his father. The boys quarreled, fought, cried, lied and generally raised hob. Cosby carried the whole thing off beautifully, and it occupied the best part of 30 minutes.

In the second half of the hour there was another elaborate sketch in which Cosby, in wig and long beard, played the part of Noah in a contemporary version of building of the ark.

Like David Steinberg's now-controversial version of Jonah and the whale, reaction to the piece depended on the viewer's attitude and mood. Although Bible stories are big with comedians this season, it is not often one dares to introduce the voice of the Lord playing straight man in a sketch. Cosby dared and, by and large, got away with it.

The Noah sequence was also the frame for a big dance production number, and earlier there was some gospel singing by a group. But it was essentially a one-man show.

Bill Cosby is a perceptive and warm comedian who has apparently total recall of the emotions and exaggerations of childhood. It was an hour that slipped by quickly and entertainingly.

Fred Astaire, who has done several special programs and played host on an anthology series, has signed to play a recurring role in ABC's "It Takes a Thief" when it returns to the screens next fall. He will play star Robert Wagner's father, a semiretired superthief.

ABM Incredible Error, Says Senate Foes Adviser

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, a key scientific adviser to Senate opponents of the Safeguard defense program, says the Nixon administration's decision to build the antiballistic missile system is an incredible mistake.

"Security just can't be achieved that way," physicist Lapp said amplifying his challenge to the proposed Safeguard ABM system.

★ ★ ★

"It seems to me that this whole business is incredible. What we're doing is building up forces that will provoke the Russians into building up unlimited forces."

Lapp, 51, is a long-time critic of the Defense Department and has had a way of turning out to be right.

The administration reasons that American nuclear missiles must be protected from a Russian nuclear "first strike."

★ ★ ★

The position was laid out by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, who told Congress of reports the Soviets will deploy a new missile known as the SS9, capable of carrying one big warhead or three smaller ones.

In a report for senators opposing Safeguard, Lapp said the SS9 is not intended to give first-strike capability because even a large-scale attack would not guarantee the Soviets against retaliation.

By 1976, he said, the SS9 probably would be able to deliver 1,000 five-megaton warheads — but 4,000 would be needed to neutralize American missiles.

Lapp says the Pentagon is guilty of incredible error in "assuming that the Russians would assume that no United States missiles would de fired immediately after it was learned a nuclear attack was under way."

State School Board Raps Milliken, Asks Fast Aid OK

LANSING (AP) — "There is a time to study and a time to act," the State Education Board told Gov. William Milliken yesterday.

"Surely this is the time to act," the board advised the governor tartly on the school aid issue.

★ ★ ★

The board was referring to Milliken's call for a new study commission on education. It said this ignores a study completed just a year ago at the cost of $200,000 — "the most comprehensive ever made."

Many of its recommendations for a state school aid budget, the board said, were based on this study.

The board declared itself "terribly concerned" that unless an adequate school aid appropriation bill is passed immediately by the Legislature "the stage will be set for a large number of teacher strikes this fall."

In 1967, when state aid was not allocated until midsummer, more than 50 schools did not open on time, the board noted.

"Teachers and school boards didn't know how much money they would have until too late to complete their negotiations," the board said.

Last year, the board said, the school bill was signed by the governor in April and about half as many districts didn't open when scheduled.

"Unless the Legislature moves rapidly on the state aid act, many schools are not going to open this fall," the board warned.

Sander Levin, minority leader in the Michigan Senate, said the Legislature must act soon.

"The legislative session has to take up the education reform issue now," he said. "Not in the fall."

★ ★ ★

Referring to proposals in Lansing to shift the taxation burden from property tax, Levin said: "We're talking about reform, a shift of the tax burden, not necessarily higher taxes in this area."

The education board urged legislative passage by May 1 plus at least $55 million more than the $85 million suggested for state school aid by the governor.

Floodwaters Threaten Dam At New Ulm, Minn.

Flood Fighters Give Up Area to Surging Big Sioux River

By The Associated Press

Flood fighters surrendered an 18-square-block area of Sioux Falls, S.D., to the surging Big Sioux river today after a night-long battle to plug a 100-foot break in a dike in the city's Riverside district.

"We dumped in more than 100 tons of rock, we threw in car bodies and anything else we could lay our hands on," said Joe Vanderloo, Minnehaha County Civil Defense director, shortly before daybreak. "But it was undermining faster than we could fill it up."

★ ★ ★

The area, which contains a meat packing plant, the Sioux Falls stockyards and about 50 homes, was evacuated and sealed off. Waters were expected to reach a depth of 25 to 30 feet before cresting.

Vanderloo said pressure of the rising river — swollen by the melting of heavy winter snows — washed away boulders in front of the dike early last evening, and the dike itself went out soon after.

The Big Sioux lapped at levees 90 miles downstream where she flows into the Missouri at Sioux City, Iowa, and residents of Cherokee, Iowa waited in emergency shelters for the Little Sioux to crest.

Twenty miles upstream from the mouth of the Big Sioux six-foot waves threatened to topple a dike at Akron, Iowa.

★ ★ ★

"It's like looking at the ocean," said one worker. "You look west and all you see is water."

In flood-hit Sioux City, Iowa, area police were on 12-hour watches after a threat was recived to blow up the dike and let flood waters inundate the northern area of the city.

TOWN EVACUATED

Across the river, the population of 800 in North Sioux City, S.D. was evacuated to Sioux City and put up for the night in Red Cross emergency quarters.

Serious flooding occurred along the Des Moines River in Minnesota and northern Iowa.

About 10 homes were evacuated in Estherville in north central Iowa on the west fork of the Des Moines, which also hit in southwestern Minnesota at Windom, cutting off the northwest corner of the town of 3,691 persons.

Downstream at Jackson, Minn., all roads but one were closed.

Warrants Issued in Police Death

From Our News Wires

DETROIT — Two warrants have been issued in connection with the fatal shooting of a policeman in an inner-city church gun battle in Detroit March 29.

Police Commissioner Johhannes F. Spreen said this morning a first-degree murder warrant was issued naming Rafael Viera, 20, of New York City.

★ ★ ★

Another warrant charging assault with intent to murder was issued for Alfred Hibbitt, 38, Detroit, Spreen said.

The commissioner said federal warrants also were issued for the two men, charging unlawful flight across state lines.

Additional warrants were issued without naming other suspects, Spreen said.

Viera was one of 142 persons arrested by police in a ghetto area church following the slaying of Patrolman Michael Czapski, 22, and the wounding of Patrolman Richard Worobec, 28, outside the church late that Saturday night.

Hibbitt was among those police wanted held for further questioning the day following the shooting. All but two of the 142 were ordered released, however, by Recorder's Judge George W. Crockett Jr.

Crockett did set a $1,000 personal bond on Hibbitt. The others were freed without bond.

Cole Defends Auto Industry

NEW YORK (AP) — The president of General Motors defended the auto industry last night against what he termed the "most concerted attack in its history."

COLE

Edward N. Cole of 1371 Kirkway, Bloomfield Township, told a banquet of the Society of Automotive Engineers at the Hotel Park Sheraton:

"We are concerned with the amount of unwarranted criticism that is being directed at our industry, criticism which carries the implication that we as an industry are purposely shortchanging the public.

★ ★ ★

"In an industry as large and complex as ours, it is easy for our critics to point to the exceptions to excellence and falsely portray these as the rule, rather than the exceptions which they are.

'CONVINCING PROOF'

"The growth record of our industry and the current high level of sales are convincing proof that our industry is doing a highly effective job of serving

U.S. Plans to Close Job Corps Centers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department has confirmed plans for massive cuts in the Job Corps program, an action likely to stir some bitter congressional opposition despite an apparent effort to soften the blow.

A department spokesman last night confirmed earlier reports that 65 Job Corps centers will be shut down.

★ ★ ★

He did not estimate the savings but Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said they would amount to more than $100 million, a figure also reported last week.

The Labor Department spokesman said an official announcement would be made tomorrow.

'SKILL CENTERS'

At the same time the administration will propose setting up 20 to 30 "skill centers" near city slums to provide daytime vocational training, unlike the fulltime residential Job Corps centers. Dropping of the 65 centers will result in displacing about half of the current 35,000 enrollees.

President Nixon announced Feb. 20 that effective with the end of the fiscal year June 30 he was ordering the Job Corps and the preschool Head Start program transferred out of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

★ ★ ★

The closings presumably could not be made until after that date, giving Congress time to block transfer from OEO of the two showpiece programs.

Nelson's Senate antipoverty subcommittee has scheduled a hearing for April 18 and the House Education and Labor Committee plans to resume its hearings into the whole antipoverty program April 21.

OUTSPOKEN OPPONENT

Education and Labor chairman Carl Perkins is an outspoken opponent of transferring either Job Corps or Head Start into a line agency and has vowed to block the move.

★ ★ ★

"We're going to put Head Start and the Job Corps back in OEO," he said flatly in an interview March 15. "And we're going to repeal the provision giving the President authority to make transfers out of OEO without congressional approval."

★ ★ ★

The "skill centers" apparently are designed to ease congressional opposition from backers of the Job Corps program and representatives who have centers in their areas.

Rules for Probes of Judges Eyed

LANSING (AP) — Formal adoption of rules governing Judicial Tenure Commission investigations was the order of business today for the Supreme Court as officials indicated probes of several judges are being considered.

Chief Justice Thomas Brennan of the Supreme Court announced yesterday the court had tentatively approved rules for the watchdog commission.

★ ★ ★

"There are a number of instances across the state where investigation is called for," Brennan said. He called the new judicial review system necessary to determine if any particular judge is a "disgrace to the bench or if he has caused a sense of reduction in public respect for the courts."

While saying "There are overwhelming instances across the state where investigation is called for," Brennan declined to elaborate on what cases might now or soon be on the commission's docket.

DECLINES COMMENT

The chief justice also specifically declined to comment on the recent controversy surrounding Detroit Recorder's Court Judge George Crockett.

Crockett has been criticized for releasing prisoners arrested by police in a shoot-out March 31.

★ ★ ★

The nine-man Judicial Tenure Commission is empowered to investigate the personal, mental and moral activity and standards of any judge of the state, from a traffic referee to a Supreme Court justice.

By a majority vote, the commission could recommend that the Supreme Court remove a judge or court officer, suspend him temporarily, with or without pay, censure him or order him to retire.

Pleasant Weather on Tap Tomorrow

Skies will become partially clear and temperatures colder tonight, with the low dropping to 35 to 40.

Pleasant weather is forecast for tomorrow with sunny skies and warmer temperatures. A high near 58 is expected.

The outlook for Saturday is sunny and a little warmer.

★ ★ ★

Morning winds southwest to west at 15 to 30 miles per hour will become northwest late this afternoon and northwest at 12 to 18 miles per hour tonight.

★ ★ ★

A dismal 49 was the low temperatures before 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac. The mercury moved to 54 by 12:30 p.m.

WPON Exec Boosts Stadium

Pontiac's proposed professional sports stadium would draw nationwide attention to the city, Bill Morgan, vice president and manager of radio station WPON, says.

The city's bid for the domed stadium to house the Detroit Tigers baseball and Lions football teams near M59 and I-75 is being studied.

★ ★ ★

Morgan said:

"Aside from the obvious advantages to Pontiac as a result of the stadium being built here, there is another advantage readily apparent to one who has been in mass communication for a long time.

"That is the fact that most events taking place in the stadium will be either broadcast or televised and many of them over nationwide networks.

TELEVISION PUBLICITY

"We're all familiar with the football telecasts where during halftime the long-range cameras scan the city's skyline or the college campus as the case may be.

"We're all familar with the sea gulls that come swooping into Kezar Stadium (San Francisco) late in the afternoon and are seen on TV.

★ ★ ★

"A stadium in Pontiac would draw to Pontiac the attention of a nationwide audience on a regular basis. Moreover, every newspaper story on every sporting event held in the stadium would be datelined Pontiac.

"It would take unknown thousands of dollars to buy all this media promotion for our city, and yet the stadium would get it for us for nothing."

Play Begins in Masters Golf Tourney

By FLETCHER SPEARS

AUGUSTA, GA. — This normally quiet town is a hub of activity today. The center of the excitement is beautiful Augusta National Golf Club where a field of 73 professional and 11 amateur golfers began teeing off in the first round of the 33rd Masters Golf Championship.

The temperature was in the mid-60s this morning and was expected to reach 84 this afternoon.

Officials added their finishing touches to the 6,980-yard course early today, and first off the tee at 9:07 a.m. were Ray Floyd of Dallas, Tex., and Peru's Ral Travieso.

Travieso is one of 20 foreign players in the Masters' field.

Defending champion Bob Goalby of Belleville, Ill., was paired with three-time British amateur champion Michael Bonnallack of Essex, England, with a 1:12 p.m. starting time.

Four-time winner Arnold Palmer, whose game has sagged recently due to an ailing hip, looks fit. He had a 272 in his practice rounds and he is touring the course with U.S. amateur champion Bruce Fleisher of Hialeah, Fla., after a 11:41 a.m. tee-off time.

★ ★ ★

Three-time winner Jack Nicklaus was among a handful of favorites. Ohio Jack was paired with Marvin Giles III of Charlottesville, Va. with a 12:23 p.m. tee-off time.

Other top twosomes in the field include Sam Snead, playing in his 30th Masters, and Joe Carr of Ireland; Billy Casper Jr. and 1968 runner-up Roberto deVicenzo of Argentina; and U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino and South African Gary Player, the only foreign player ever to win the Masters.

Gene Littler, two-time winner on the PGA tour this year, was an early starter at 10:52 a.m. with Tony Jacklin of England.

In a guess yesterday, Palmer said, "a 280 could win here." Nicklaus set the record for the tournament with a 271 in 1965.

New Campus Unrest Erupts in U. S.

By United Press International

About 200 Harvard students remained today in an Administration Building at the Cambridge, Mass., university. Black students at Southern University of New Orleans vowed to strike today and continue flying a "black liberation" banner in place of the American flag.

The Harvard occupation came yesterday when militants forced school personnel from the building in a protest to demand abolishing the Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) on campus. About 100 students staged a similar take-over at Boston University yesterday, but abandoned it when police arrived.

★ ★ ★

Classes were to reopen at Southern University of New Orleans (SUNO) today, officials of the mostly Negro school of 1,700 students said. But leaders of a violent demonstration yesterday — in which 27 persons were arrested — said there would be a strike today and tomorrow.

The arrests at SUNO came after a group of students overpowered campus police and raised their red, green and black "flag of liberation" up a flagpole in place of the American flag. They then tried to force their way into the Administration Building.

STRIKING TEACHERS

Also in New Orleans yesterday, a crowd of 300 students supporting striking teachers clashed with police on the grounds of a predominantly Negro high school. Four students were arrested and two policemen were injured by bricks.

At other campuses:

New York — About 120 students at New York University staged an all-night sit-in to protest the dismissal of a popular teacher.

★ ★ ★

Earlier yesterday, about 250 shouting students broke up a faculty convocation at Queens College in New York City. President Joseph P. Murray adjourned the meeting and left. Other teachers left when the students shouted obscenities. The teachers had been discussing past disturbances.

New Jersey — About 1,000 students boycotted classes at Rutgers University's Newark campus for the fifth straight day in a campaign for more state aid to education. Classes had been canceled last Thursday, Friday and Monday when most of the students stayed out.

AFL-CIO to Answer Reuther's Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter Reuther talked a better game than he played, according to a 40,000-word "white paper" by the AFL—CIO, replying to Reuther's frequent criticisms and reporting on the ouster of his United Auto Workers.

A federation spokesman said the document, to be released tomorrow is intended to set the record straight so the "history of the trade union would not show that Reuther's charges had gone unrefuted."

★ ★ ★

Reuther, who headed the CIO before it merged with the AFL in 1955, has criticized AFL—CIO President George Meany and the labor federation for several years as complacent and a "custodian of the status quo." He has called for more action on civil rights, as well as on labor welfare.

The AFL-CIO "white paper" is being issued nearly a year after Reuther's auto union was suspended from the AFL-CIO for nonpayment of federation dues.

CHANGE POSITION

"At the time Reuther started his attacks, our executive council voted that we would not answer his charges through the press," the AFL—CIO spokesman said.

Rather, the council elected to challenge Reuther through what the official called "the regular machinery of the trade union movement" — meaning on the convention floor.

★ ★ ★

"But Walter always managed not to get to the meetings," the federation spokesman said.

He said the document, titled "To Clear the Record," was a comprehensive report on the disaffiliaton of the Auto Workers Union and would be made public tomorrow.

SEE REPORT

The Washington Star and the Washington Post evidently succeeded in seeing the report earlier, however, and the two newspapers revealed some of its detail ahead of publication.

The Star says Meany had written Reuther a long letter last July seriously discussing Reuther's suggestions for revitalizing the labor movement, but had received no reply.

★ ★ ★

The Post says the report hammers away at what it sees as Reuther's effort to change the structure and thrust of the federation. It charges that he bypassed open channels within the group and that as a leader in the AFL-CIO and the UAW he talked a better game than he played.

Reuther must share the blame for any changes he alleges, the report says, because as a top official of the federation, he was in a position to influence its actions.

VC Blasts U.S. on Secret Talks

PARIS (AP) — A representative of the Vietcong accused the United States today of spreading rumors about private Vietnam peace talks in an effort to calm antiwar sentiment at home.

Than Bun Kiem, spokesman for the Vietcong's National Liberation Front, told the 12th full-scale session of the Vietnam peace talks, that the reports of private meetings were part of a "perfidious maneuver" to make the public believe the Nixon administration has a program for a peaceful settlement.

The United States continued to hammer at the presence of North Vietnamese forces in the South and to seek discussions on a mutual withdrawal of forces. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge insisted that the withdrawal of the North Vietnamese "military and subversive forces" was one of the crucial issues to be dealt with.

Kiem did not specifically deny that private contacts are taking place in Paris and elsewhere. But his continued attack on secret talks dimmed the likelihood of any such discussions soon — at least as far as the Vietcong is concerned.

Styling Pioneer for GM Dies at 75 in Florida City

Harley J. Earl, the man who gave style to the automobile, died today in West Palm Beach, Fla.

The 75-year-old former vice president of General Motors, once head of the corporation's styling department, was an acknowledged pioneer in industrial design.

★ ★ ★

Retiring in 1958 after 31 years with GM, Earl supervised the styling of 50 million cars and trucks, starting with the 1927 LaSalle.

The LaSalle is considered an automotive milestone because it was the first production car whose contours from headlights to rear bumper were designed by a professional stylist.

CREDITS LISTED

Earl has been credited with eliminating running boards, placing a grill in front of the radiator, blending fenders into the body and slanting the windshiled backwards.

It was Earl who first introduced the "fish-tails" on luxury cars and put "portholes" on front fenders.

★ ★ ★

In addition to automobiles, Earl directed the design of a variety of other products ranging from household appliances to futuristic trains.

A native of Los Angeles, he learned body design in the Earl Carriage Works there, a firm owned by his father, Jacob, a former Cadillac, Mich., lumber man.

STARS' DESIGNER

After obtaining his engineering degree from Stanford University in 1918, he established a reputation as a stylist by designing custom car bodies for movie stars.

He joined GM in 1927 and was elected a vice president in 1940.

A memorial service will be held 11:30 a.m. Saturday at the Bethesda by the Sea Church in West Palm Beach.

The family requests that any memorials be made to the Bethesda Church or to the Good Samaritan Hospital in West Palm Beach.

any critcs, said the strongest attacks were centered on product quality and dealer service.

He added, however, that the industry had achieved an "outstanding record of serving the needs and desires of the American people for quality, high-value transportation."

In his speech, Cole also said:

● The industry is working on improved safety features, such as air bags and other devices to provide for cushions in an accident. Research is under way on a seat structure to contain the occupant better, as an egg crate holds an egg.

● A revolution in both metals and nonmetallic materials is starting, and the next few decades will see startling refinements in automobile materials.

● At the present state of technology, the internal combustion engine is the best all-around power source for the car, although a great amount of research concerning all types of power plants is under way.

Waterford to Discuss School Fiscal Reform

Plans for pursuit of fiscal reform in the financing of school districts will be discussed tonight at a meeting of Waterford Township school officials.

The meeting, open to the public, is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the school district administrative office, 6020 Pontiac Lake.

★ ★ ★

Pending state legislation and other reform plans will be discussed, according to Dr. Don O. Tatroe, superintendent of township schools.

Chrysler Local Back to Work at Sterling Plant

DETROIT (AP) — A wildcat walkout against a key Chrysler Sterling Heights stamping plant ended today when members of a striking United Auto Workers Union local removed pickets from plant gates and workers returned to their jobs.

The return to work by 1,425 of the 1,700 workers scheduled on today's morning shift was agreed to yesterday in a fiery union meeting called to persuade members to end the walkout.

★ ★ ★

After 2½ hours of pleading by UAW local and national officials, a majority of some 3,000 Local 1264 members attending an emergency meeting raised their arms to indicate they would return to work starting with today's day shift.

By last night, the walkout, which cut off supplies of body panels for Chrysler cars, had idled nearly 31,000 workers across the country.

Douglas Fraser, UAW Chrysler department director, told the turbulent meeting he would lead union officials into negotiations with Chrysler immediately on a safety issue that sparked the walkout and on the firm's subsequent discharge of 69 employes.

Local 1264 members, who walked out April 2, demanded a strike vote on their grievances if they returned to work.

Fraser told them they could hold a strike vote in the 4,000-member local as soon as next Monday and, if the local authorizes a strike, "I guarantee you" the international union would sanction a walkout.

Birmingham

City Opposes House Bill on Condemnation

BIRMINGHAM — The City Commission has endorsed City Manager Robert Kenning's proposal that the provisions in House Bill 2404 permitting one public agency to condem property owned by another public agency should be vigorously opposed.

★ ★ ★

In a letter to the commission, Kenning said the proposed legislation would make it possible for larger units of government to actually take over local functions such as public works through condemnation proceedings.

★ ★ ★

Kenning added that occasionally property is retained by a local unit of government for future needs which may not be clearly defined at the time the property is purchased.

★ ★ ★

He said much of the Birmingham's present park property was purchased by the city under tax sale provisions and held for future needs.

CURRENT NEED

"Another unit of government may have a current need which is very great and can be clearly demonstrated. As a result it can be successful in a condemnation action against a local unit of government because of the fact the future needs for that property are not fully established.

★ ★ ★

The city manager said a prime example of the problems the city might face if Bill 2404 is passed involves a condemnation suit against the City of Birmingham.

★ ★ ★

The controversy stems from the desire of the Southeast Oakland Incinerator Authority to use a 10-acre lot in Troy owned by the City of Birmingham as a site for a refuse transfer station. The site, which the city wants to retain, is located on Coolidge between 14 Mile Road and Maple.

Birmingham residents are reminded of the City Commission's public presentation of the community's Urban Design Plan scheduled for 8 tonight at the Community House. The program will feature a question and answer period.

Museum in NY Celebrating Its Centennial

NEW YORK (AP) — Helmut Sommer, bone preparer for the American Museum of Natural History, hefted the jaw of a whale that once swam in the Coney Island aquarium.

"Why are its teeth black?" he was asked.

* * *

"Water pollution," replied Sommer, who was helping prepare the museum's centennial exhibition, someberly titled "Can Man Survive?"

The museum alongside Central Park, where a kid from Harlem or Brooklyn can explore the world and universe for the price of a subway ride, was 100 years old yesterday.

10-YEAR RENEWAL

In preparing for the centennial exhibit, opening in May, director James Oliver has begun a 10-year program to renew 15 of the 58 exhibition halls.

Old, pollution-free bones of dinosaurs and the like have been dysted off. New exhibits have been mounted.

* * *

The Star of India and other jewels, stolen several years ago in a sensational burglary, are back in their display cases.

Only a few of the 16 million objects collected by the museum over the years are displayed in 200 scenes, in which every animal, plant, bug, bird and person is painstakingly authentic.

ALL AGES ATTRACTED

Children and adults lose themselves in the autumn stillness of a lake in upper New York State; watch two huge male moose clash over a female in the Alashan tundra, or see a pair of lyre-horned bongos in an African bamboo grove.

The Hall of Man in Africa, which opened last year, uses color, lighting, music and graphic display in exhibits which are not only scientific, but artistic.

Another new exhibit in the old museum — a turreted Romanesque castle — has a 94-foot whale coming through the ceiling of the Hall of Ocean Life. The whale is made of light, man-made material, because, a curator said, "whale skin is just too delicate."

* * *

At one end of the museum is the Hayden Planetarium, where visitors are transported into outer space, projected on a domed ceiling.

But because so few of the museum's annual 3.2 million visitors attended night sky shows, the planetarium opens only in the afternoons.

The first of the museum's 19 buildings was opened in 1878, nine years after the charter was signed on April 9, 1869. Theodore Roosevelt, his father, financier J. P. Morgan and others helped raise money.

* * *

The original staff of two scientists — founder Albert S. Bickmore and an assistant — has grown to more than 100.

They conduct some 300 research projects at the museum and five permanent field stations — in the Caribbean, Florida and Arizona with two on Long Island.

MEDALS PRESENTED

Last night's ceremonies included the presentation of gold medals to five scientists and the crew of the Apollo 9.

The scientists are Theodosius Dobzhansky, geneticist and philosopher at Rockefeller University; Libbie Henrietta Hyman, the museum's expert on living invertebrates; orinthologist Ernst Mayr, who is director of Harvard's Museum of Comparative Zoology; anthropologist Margaret Mead; and George Gaylord Simpson, professor of vertebrate paleontology at Harvard and professor of geology at the University of Arizona.

* * *

The Apollo 9 astronauts — Col. James A. McDivvitt, Col. David R. Scott, and civilian Russell L. Schwejckart— were honored for "leadership among men in the search for knowledge."

Rainmaking Bill's Timing a Bit Off

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — With rivers flooding in much of Minnesota, the state house of representatives gave preliminary approval Wednesday to a rainmaking bill.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Sam Barr of Ortonville, would permit counties to levy up to $5,000 a year for contracting with cloud-seeking firms.

PGH Gives Extra Care to Employe

Hospital employes are said to receive the best hospital care when sick or injured. It must be true.

Earlier this week an employe of Pontiac General Hospital's emergency department was injured in an auto accident near Lexington, Ky., and hospitalized.

* * *

Her supervisor flew to Kentucky by private plane yesterday and brought Mrs. Birdie Blann back to recover at Pontiac General Hospital where she has worked for 18 years.

Mrs. Blann was trying to get away from the hospital when she was injured while traveling with two friends on the way to Florida for a vacation.

* * *

Miss Nancy Cates, supervisor of the emergency department went to Kentucky with the hope of bringing the 62-year-old licensed practical nurse back for a speedy recovery and return to work.

15 Nominated to Work With COG on Crime

A 15-man body has been recommended as the county's law enforcement committee to work with the Southeast Michigan Council of Government's Public Safety Division on a regional law enforcement plan.

* * *

Board of Supervisors Chairman Charles B. Edwards Jr., with Supervisor Dennis M. Aaron, D-Huntington Woods, chairman of the public protection and judiciary committee, made recommendations to the county committee on committees yesterday. The appointments probably will be confirmed by the full board next week.

* * *

Recommended to serve were Aaron, Sheriff Frank Irons, Royal Oak Police Chief Herman Potts, Pontiac Police Chief William Hanger, Royal Oak Police Chief Howard Bibb, Circuit Judge William R. Beasly, Probate Judge Eugene A. Moore, Prosecutor Thomas E. Plunkett, Juvenile Director Jame Hunt, Attorney Lynn V. Hooe Jr., Madison Heights Constable Vernon Pebley, Police Academy Director Ralph Moxley, and citizens, Victor Woods, Robert Frye and Charles Tucker. Woods and Tucker are from Pontiac and Frye from Bloomfield Hills.

* * *

In other business yesterday the committee on committees recommended the replacement of Harry Horton, R-Royal Oak, on the public protection and judiciary committee with Wallace Gabler, R-Royal Oak. Horton resigned because of a heavy work schedule.

* *

Richard Wilcox, R-Brandon Township was named to the county's personnel appeals board.

3 Face Trial in Alleged Try to Bribe Police

Three Pontiac men were ordered yesterday to stand trial in Oakland County Circuit Court on charges of conspiring to bribe two Pontiac policemen last September.

The defendants stood mute at their arraignment before Judge William J. Beer. No trial date was scheduled.

* * *

Those charged are Carmon Greene, 43, of 5 Pingree; William Moncier, 34, of 428 N. Perry; and Roy Murphy, 79, of 60 S. Marshall.

The alleged bribe, reportedly involving $800, was intended to influence a gambling case pending against Greene at the time.

* * *

The three were arrested after officers Robert H. Rood and Guy White, both of the vice squad, reported the offer to their superiors.

Court Delays Decision on Bronson Probe

The Oakland County Circuit Court bench has delayed until later this month a decision on whether a grand jury investigation will be undertaken into allegations made by an underworld informer about former Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson.

Five of the county's nine Circuit judges met briefly yesterday to discuss the petition for a grand jury but delayed taking action until all the judges could be present.

* * *

The grand jury was requested by Arthur J. Brandt Jr. of Bloomfield Hills, president of the Oakland County Conservative Club, and Orchard Lake Councilman David Bradbury.

* * *

They want the inquiry to probe statements made by Peter Lazaros of Troy concerning alleged corruption among numerous public officials, including Bronson who is now a judge on the Michigan Court of Appeals.

'Outdoor Recreation Is County's Favorite'

Oakland County residents prefer to seek their recreation outdoors, a new survey shows.

A leisure-time activity report, prepared for the Oakland County's Planning and Parks and Recreation commissions by University of Michigan urban researchers, shows the outside preference ratio at four to one.

* * *

The trend toward "active" participation outside the home is especially true among those in higher-income groups, William M. Ladd, associate director of the University's Center for Urban Studies told the combined commissions in a meeting yesterday.

The report, based on 1,000 personal interviews and written by Ladd and Oleh Dug, says:

"In view of the virtual certainty that incomes will continue to rise in future years it is not unreasonable to assume that the demand for outdoor recreation will increase faster than the growth of the population."

AREA PARKS BUSIER

One indication of the trend toward outdoor activity was visitations to area parks. Almost two-thirds — 61 per cent — of the respondents mentioned they had visited at least one area park in the preceeding 12 months. Twenty-eight per cent said they had visited at least two parks during a similar period.

* * *

By a margin of about two to one, Oakland County residents believe that additional recreational facilities are needed, the survey showed. The proportion of those who favor expanded facilities decreases with the age of the family head and increases with those who have a greater propensity to engage in outdoor recreation, the study notes.

* * *

People mentioning a need for more facilities listed user's fees as the best way to expand the county's offerings. Such fees were most popular among white-collar workers other than professional and managerial, and blue-collar workers.

Data compiled in the study shows that Oakland County residents, like their counterparts in the rest of the country, most often participate in driving for relaxation, followed by picnicking and outdoor swimming.

STAYING IN COUNTY

Eighty per cent of those who listed driving for relaxation said they did so within the county. The percentages for picnicking and outdoor swimming were 81 per cent and 56 per cent, respectively.

According to the study, the three activities also rank highest in trms of family participation.

* * *

"Perhaps the popularity of these three activities derives largely from the fact that they are usually undertaken as a family affair," Ladd said.

* * *

The purpose of the study, according to Ladd, was to give the sponsors some idea of the current level of activities and residents' desires for expanded facilities and programs in Oakland County.

Area Man Arraigned on Assault Charge

A Waterford Township man stood mute at his arraignment yesterday on a charge of feloniously assaulting three policemen with a gun.

James A. Sammons, 47, of 3710 Ruterford was ordered to stand trial in Oakland County Circuit Court by Judge William J. Beer. A trial date was not set.

* * *

Sammons is accused of threatening two Waterford Township officers and an off-duty Pontiac officer who was serving him a divorce injunction Feb. 12. Sammons is free on $1,000 bond.

Team to Give Shots

Drive on Measles Set

Starting Monday, a team of doctors, nurses and technicians in three county school districts will begin an innoculation program aimed at eliminating rubella (German-measles).

The school districts involved are Waterford Township, Farmington and Walled Lake. All children in kindergarten through third grade in the districts are eligible to receive the vaccine.

* * *

The program is sponsored by the Oakland County Medical Society, County Osteopathic Association, the County Department of Health and boards of education involved.

Rubella is known as a mild childhood disease, but when contracted by pregnant mothers it results in crippling damage to the unborn child.

The vaccine, a product of Parke, Davis and Co., is aimed at providing lifetime immunity. The parents of each child involved are being asked to sign authorization forms so that the program can be carried out.

New Society Focuses on Men's Rights

Of all American writers, Brown said, Norman Mailer came closest to diagnosing the problem when he wrote recently that "the womanization of America" has come about "because the men have collaborated with them" and have gotten into the habit of marrying "women who will be less good for them in the home and more good for them in the world."

The answer, Brown suggested, "is, of course, to stop collaborating with the worldly ones and to start collaborating with the homey ones."

But most inspirational of all to the new organization was an article by the distinguished Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz, who is concerned about widespread juvenile delinquency in the U.S. "The American teenager," Judge Leibowitz wrote, "has been raised in a household where 'obey' is an outlawed word, and where the mother has put herself at the head of the family.

Everytime Mother overrules Father, undermining his authority and standing in the child's eyes, she knocks a piece off the foundation on which the child stands . . . On a visit to Italy, I found the nine-word principle that I think can do more for us than all the committees, ordinances and multi-million-dollar programs combined: Put Father back at the head of the family."

And that, says Brown, is precisely what S.E.A.M. proposes to do.

★ ★ ★

"There are millions of people in America," Brown said, "who have gone through hell with their families, in one way or another, and who are waking up to the fact that there is something very wrong in a country that has nine million widows, eight million fathers who have deserted their families, 20 million mentally ill persons, six million alcoholics, and eight million homosexuals (many of them reluctant).

There's got to be something wrong in a country where half of all working-age women are employed and are away from their homes and their families much of the time, and where the average life-span of the male shrinks with each passing decade. A lot of women in America have criticized and nagged their husbands into madhouses and early graves.

"But," Brown added, "we can't blame everything on the women. We men are equally to blame for putting up with it. We've collaborated far too long. And we've spent too much time away from our homes chasing the buck and too much time away from our families watching TV. Many of us have tended to run away from our responsibilities, and when our women masculinized themselves by assuming our responsibilities, we've complained bitterly because they lost their femininity and attraction to us. We've turned a lot of once lovely and good women into masculinized and embittered neurotics simply by shirking our responsibilities as men and by not treating them like women and respecting their femininity, but by treating them like objects or like brothers."

S.E.A.M. aims to help men realize their potential and inner strength and to foster their mental and physical health. Says Brown: "It's time we got away from the TV, comic-strip boob image of the American male who exists only as a sort of servant-straight-man for a nagging wife and her smart-mouth kids."

Annual membership dues for men are $5. Membership dues in the Society's Ladies' Auxiliary are also $5. Both memberships include a subscription to The Patriarch. Memberships may be secured by writing to Box 211, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48107. "We expect," Brown said, "that a lot of ladies who feel that they could be better wives and women to their men are going to join our Ladies' Auxiliary, and we hope to encourage a good deal of discussion of the problem in our publication among both our male and female members."

★ ★ ★

Brown himself is happily married and a father.

Many centuries ago, Brown said, the Hindu sage Vatsyayana advised the women of India as follows:

"A virtuous woman, who has affection for her husband, should act in conformity with his wishes as if he were a divine being. She should surpass all the women of her own rank in her manner of serving her husband."

"You can find precisely the same sentiments in the Old Testament, the New Testament and the Koran," Brown said. "But nobody pays much attention to wise men anymore."

New U.S. Suicide Goal: Find Out Why

CHEVY CHASE, Md. (UPI) — The federal government is revamping its suicide prevention program under a new director who wants to find out more about why people kill themselves.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Harvey L. P. Resnik, newly appointed chief of the Center for Studies of Suicide Prevention, a division of the National Intsitute of Mental Health, said in an interview:

"You can say that the mission under Resnik will be to change the orientation of the center from simply increasing the number of suicide prevention centers to study of self-destructive behaviors, such as 'accidental' poisonings, one-car 'accidents' and drug abuse."

RESEARCH EMPHASIS

The 38-year-old suicidologist said he wanted to bring a new training and research emphasis to the center, which in the past has been primarily involved with preventoin of suicide, and intervention and consultation for potential suicides.

These services will be continued. "This was fundamental for the inception of the program," Resnik said, but added. "Now the highlights will be moving toward training and research."

★ ★ ★

Resnik said he wants to take a close look at such questions as whether suicidal persons evaluate life and death differently from nonsuicidal persons; the extent of suicide among children and teen-agers, and whether individuals facing imminent death are suicide-prone.

"We have found that people who kill themselves are often preoccupied with death," he said. "So we need more research in death and dying, which has even more taboos than suicide."

AN OUTGROWTH

The government's suicide prevention program, headquartered in Chevy Chase just outside Washington, D. C., was established in late 1966 as an outgrowth of the Los Angeles Suicide Presentation Center, which was organized under a federal grant.

Since then, suicide prevention centers have sprung up around the nation, and now there are 109, all of them open 365 days a year.

★ ★ ★

Resnik, an internationally recognized suicidologist, is on leave of absence as professor and deputy chairman of the psychiatry department of Buffalo (N. Y.) State University.

Suicide prevention, said Resnik, is an important government function.

10th COMMON CAUSE

Suicide is the 10th most common cause of death in the United States: more than 25,000 suicides are reported every year.

★ ★ ★

"We have research information that at least half again as many go unreported," Resnik declared.

★ ★ ★

The average male suicide is a 40-year-old white person, middle class, married and supporting a family, he said.

"Not only does suicide take from society his potential," said Resnik, "but he leaves behind a terrible burden on his survivors. They often may be struck down—the same way."

Dr. Calvin J. Frederick, assistant chief of the center, described some current research efforts in a separate interview:

● Suicide among youngsters —A grant has been awarded to a University of Nebraska pediatrician, Dr. Matilda S. McIntire, to find out more about suicide among children. "When they poison themselves," Frederick said, "there is some evidence to indicate this is not always accidental."

★ ★ ★

● Suicide among college students: Although data is difficult to find, "we think the student rate is 15 per 100,000 in the United States. It may be more." The national average is 11 per 100,000 he said. "That's an area we are very interested in exploring because it is going to get worse before it gets better."

● Suicide reporting: "We have found from two studies we funded that coroners don't provide reliable, accurate data in suicide deaths. We are trying to suggest standard criteria.

PREDISPOSITION EYED

Other research is trying to determine the predisposition to suicide among retarded children in a California institution, among terminal patients in a Massachusetts hospital living with the prospect of imminent death, among Negroes in a large Midwestern city and among Navajo Indians.

Another study is directed at the extent of religious belief as a deterrent. Still another is considering the possibility that some individuals commit suicide by provoking others to kill them.

★ ★ ★

Resnik said there is even research planned into why some people engage in activities with high lethality, such as driving erratically, smoking heavily with the knowledge it may be unhealthy, or drinking excessively.

Is Hughes Establishing a Beachhead?

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ever since billionaire Howard Hughes started buying up property in Las Vegas, people have been wondering what caused his sudden interest in Nevada real estate.

WEST

It was commonly assumed that he had wind of some impending development that would cause property values to rise sharply, thus enhancing his holdings.

* * *

No one could believe that a billionaire as astute as Hughes would be making these investments unless he had good reason to believe they would pay off better than the Las Vegas slot machines.

But since Hughes is almost as secretive as he is astute, outsiders could only guess at the possible source of the expected windfall.

TWO PLUS TWO

Well, recently I have been putting two and two together, which is about the limit of my mathematical ability, and I think I may have hit upon the explanation.

My theory is that Hughes envisions Las Vegas one day becoming a great seaport.

Before you start pointing out the obvious, let me say that I am fully aware that at the present time Las Vegas is a goodly distance from the ocean.

But suppose California were to fall into the sea, as numerous soothsayers have been predicting.

VALUES WOULD RISE

In that event, the western border of Nevada would become part of the Pacific shoreline. And property values would skyrocket overnight.

* * *

I can't say for certain, of course, that Hughes is guided by soothsayers in his financial transactions. But my experience has been that they are at least as reliable as stockbrokers.

* * *

April 4 was the date my soothsayers had fixed for California's plunge into the Pacific. Through benefit of hindsight, we can now recognize that they were false prophets.

Several other California doomsday dates are still outstanding, however. So there is still a chance that Nevada will become a maritime state before the year is over.

RENO NEAR OCEAN?

If I had the money, I would buy a few ocean-front lots on the outskirts of Reno.

No slight to California is intended, but in some respects Nevada would be a more convenient location for America's West Coast.

* * *

Shifting the shoreline near Reno and Las Vegas would provide gamblers who have a bad night in the casinos with a place to drown their sorrows.

Kills Weeds Not Grasses

Modern chemicals will destroy weeds without harming grasses.

Bentgrass and St. Augustine are exceptions and should receive half the lower rate recommended on the label.

Also, Zoysia and Bermuda grass tolerate chemical sprays well except when they are just beginning to green up in early spring.

William Muller, cooperative extension director of Oakland County, will discuss "Vegetable Gardening" Friday at 1:30 p.m. at the Lawn, Garden and Flower Show in the Pontiac Mall.

Income Tax Answers

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The Internal Revenue Service provides the following answers to questions frequently asked by taxpayers.)

Q — My refund came and it was lower than I expected. How can I find out why it was reduced?

A — In cases such as these, mistakes in arithmetic account for most of the adjustments. You should receive an explanation from us shortly after your refund check arrives explaining the adjustment.

This year, many mistakes in arithmetic are being made on the surcharge. Taxpayers are either reading the surcharge tables incorrectly, making mistakes by not adding it to their tax or making a mistake when they multiply by .075 to determine the amount of the surcharge.

Q — When do I have to file my estimated tax declaration?

A — Estimated declarations and first-quarter payments are due April 15. Use the preaddressed 1040-ES voucher form you received in the mail when you file. It will assure proper crediting of payments to your account.

Q — How does the $100 limitation apply to casualty losses? We suffered damage from two different storms last year.

A — The $100 limitation applies to each separate nonbusiness casualty. Deduct the excess over $100 not reimbursed by insurance for each separate loss. See Page 9 of the Form 1040 instructions for details.

Q — Is a company pension taxable?

A — Your tax liability depends on how much you contributed to the pension fund. This is explained in the instructions for Schedule B of Form 1040. Copies of this schedule and the instructions are available at many banks and post offices as well as local offices of the IRS.

Q — Can I add the medical insurance premiums I pay for my dependent mother to my own for the purpose of tax deductions?

A — Premiums paid for medical care insurance for yourself, your spouse and your dependents are deductible. Total all of these premiums you paid last year and deduct one-half of them up to $150 without regard to the 3 per cent rule. The balance of the premiums should be included with your other medical expenses which are subject to the 3 per cent limitation.

You must itemize your deductions to use this rule.

Q — I'm due a refund. Where should I send my return?

A — Send your return to the IRS Service Center. An envelope was enclosed with Form 1040 tax packages. If you don't have one, look on page 9 of the instructions for the address of your Service Center.

Q — When does a person have to pay self-employment tax?

A — To be liable for self-employment tax, a person must have income from a business or a trade or profession which he conducts as an independent contractor or as a member of a partnership. To be subject to the tax net earnings from self-employment, must be at least $400. For additional information see Schedule C-3.

Q — My wife died last year. I have not remarried, can I still file a joint return?

A — You can file a joint return for the year of death. You may also file as a "surviving spouse" using joint return rates for the two years succeeding the year of your wife's death if you meet certain requirements. Check page 3 of the 1040 instructions for details.

Q — Do you need to keep tax records after your refund comes?

A — Yes. Records should be kept as long as they are needed to substantiate information shown on Federal tax returns. Generally, this is a minimum of three years from the date the return was due to be filed.

Some records, like those on the purchase of a home or stock, may have to be kept indefinitely.

Vikings Score Track Victory

Walled Lake overcame Cranbrook's field events strength by capturing 8 of the 10 races for a 66-52 track triumph yesterday afternoon.

The Vikings swept the 120-yard low hurdles, had double victories by its relay teams, hurdler Larry Siersma and dashman Bob Zaebst en route to their second straight win.

It was Cranbrook's opening dual meet. Anthony Thomas was a dual winner in the long jump and high jump for the Cranes.

Milford dominated Waterford Mott, 84-34, as the Redskins' initial dual meet resulted in the third straight defeat for Mott.

The home team captured 10 of the 14 first places. Milford swept the long jump, the pole vault, the 180-yard low hurdles and both relays.

Mott's Bob Poe won both the 100 and 220-yard dashes.

Toronto Plans Reception for Punch Imlach

TORONTO (AP) — George "Punch" Imlach may be gone from Maple Leaf Gardens but he's not forgotten at city hall.

The city council voted Wednesday to hold a reception and dinner in honor of Imlach, fired Sunday as manager-coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

Controller Allan Lamport said, "We should do something for Punch so that the city of Toronto will remain a great city instead of being a sourpuss just because he lost one Stanley Cup series."

Orion Varsity Has Carnival

Lake Orion Varsity Club will have the annual Spring Carnival beginning 6 p.m. tomorrow night at the senior high school gym, followed by a dance at 9 p.m.

Admission is 50 cents for the carnival and $1 for the dance.

Rain Helpful to Brother Rice

Rain curtailed the Wednesday prep baseball schedule and so Birmingham Brother Rice's perfect record remains intact.

The Warriors opened their season Tuesday with a 4-0 victory over Walled Lake Central, but yesterday they were down, 6-1, after two innings at Clawson.

Then the rain came and play couldn't continue. The game may be rescheduled for tomorrow.

Geoff Bell scattered six hits and Dave Fournier cracked a two-run double in the Warriors' impressive decision over Walled Lake (1-1).

Lake Orion	010	000	000	03—	4	7	0
Clarkston	000	100	000	00—	1	5	4

Baker, COWGER (6th, 1-0) and Snarey, O'Connor (6th), Knapp (11th); Grace, KEYSER (11th, 0-1) and Klann (11th).

Clarkston's game at Lansing Sexton also went down the drain yesterday and won't be rescheduled.

Tuesday, Lake Orion defeated Clarkston, 4-1, in 11 innings. Substitute Jim Parsons clouted a two-run double and later scored on an error to provide the deciding runs.

Earlier, Jerel Hollens singled home an unearned run for Lake Orion (1-0); but Steve Warman's single tied the game for the Wolves (1-1) in the fourth.

But Not No-Pay Millionaires

Nixon Has Tax Reform Targets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conglomerates, foundations and gentlemen farmers are expected to be targets of the Nixon administration's first tax reform proposals.

But millionaires who pay no taxes at all will escape for the time being.

★

The proposals are to be presented to the House Ways and Means Committee next Tuesday with more recommendations to be sent to Capitol Hill in succeeding months.

The Treasury Department has had to rush completion of its initial and limited package. Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., has said actual drafting of legislation will begin next Wednesday behind closed doors.

MUM ON CONTENTS

Administration spokesmen have refused to comment on what the package will contain. But it was understood that some attention would be focused on conglomerates, financial empires that evolve from gobbling up other companies.

According to Richard W. McLaren, the Justice Department's top trustbuster, 170 of the 200 biggest mergers consummated last year involved companies that could be termed conglomerates.

The Ways and Means Committee has heard considerable testimony in recent months indicating that tax laws make it easy for conglomerates to grow.

A "farm loss" proposal is expected to put curbs on wealthy people who farm as a hobby—a hobby that can provide tax loopholes.

The administration also is understood to feel that numerous hearings over the years have documented the need for reform of the tax laws applying to private foundations.

★

While the problem could be approached from many angles, the focus in the past has been mainly on bills that would prevent a wealthy person from creating a private foundation to get for himself the tax breaks open to big charitable trusts.

Sewer Charge Levy Approved

The Sylvan Lake City Council amended the sewer service ordinance last night, authorizing the city to collect service charges from residents of apartments tapped into the West Bloomfield sewer system.

In other business, council tabled an intersection visual clearance ordinance until its drafting is completed.

The proposal would set height limits on shrubs and tree limbs in areas within 25 feet of street corners.

County Man Heard in N.Y. Car-Theft Trial

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI)—The former president of a Michigan trucking concern testified yesterday he drove five stolen autos from Detroit to Niagara Falls in 1967 and turned them over to contacts.

Walter L. Gordon, 24, of Madison Heights, Mich., offered the testimony in Buffalo Federal Court on the first day of the trial of Charles E. Hettinger, 37, of Penfield, N. Y., a former suburban Buffalo auto dealer.

* * *

Hettinger was indicted last April on five counts of receiving stolen autos and one count of conspiracy.

Gordon has pleaded guilty in the case. He testified he turned over the autos to Crandall Johnson, 27, of Lewiston. Johnson has pleaded guilty to two of the interstate auto counts.

$2,000 FOR EACH

Gordon's testimony was part of U.S. Attorney Edgar C. Nemoyer's reconstruction of the alleged conspiracy. Nemoyer told a jury of seven men and five women he intended to prove Hettinger paid an average of $2,000 for each of the stolen cars.

* * *

Nemoyer said Gordon pleaded guilty to one count of knowingly transporting a stolen car across state lines and one count of conspiracy. Each count could bring him a sentence of up to five years in jail and a $5,000 fine.

* * *

Gordon also implicated Victor Strausberg, 38, of Niagara Falls and James W. Wagner, 26, also of Niagara Falls, in the case. He testified, he never met Hettinger. Strausberg has also pleaded guilty in the case. Wagner, who is serving with the U.S. armed forces in Vietnam, has pleaded innocent.

Improved Ties With Reds Aired

NATO Meeting Opens

WASHINGTON (AP) — NATO ministers opened a two-day conference today talking guardedly about something thought impossible at the alliance's formation two decades ago—East-West cooperation.

Before the 20th anniversary conference of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was a secret report on the chances of improving relations with the Soviet bloc.

* * *

Although it proposes guidelines on how to arrange for contacts with the Communist nations, it warns that it would be a grave mistake in view of the invasion of Czechoslovakia to go into any talks with the Soviets thinking detente is just around the corner.

Formal ceremonies marking the anniversary of the alliance's formation included an afternoon speech by President Nixon.

SOVIET INVITATION

The ministers will limit their scrutiny of possible new detente efforts to Europe and are expected to discuss thoroughly the Soviet bloc's recent invitation to the Western allies for a European security conference.

The Warsaw Pact nations issued their invitation March 17 in what is now known as the Budapest appeal. The invitation, American informants stressed, is nothing new, as the Communists suggested such a conference three years ago.

* * *

There are, however, two new factors which deserve consideration, high American sources indicate. One is that the appeal's tone was milder than usual, with virtually no polemics. The other that it did not exclude countries outside Europe, such as the United States and Canada as earlier invitations did.

The 20-page secret report was prepared for the NATO Council by the permanent representatives of the member nations.

CZECH INVASION

Besides weighing the chances of improving East-West relations and its expected implications for the alliance, it was learned that the report also discusses the political consequences of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968.

NATO Secretary - General Manlio Brosio made it clear at a Wednesday news conference that Czechoslovakia's continued Soviet occupation represents a major roadblock to improved relations with the East.

"Nothing would improve more the atmosphere of confidence than the end of Czechoslovakia's occupation," the Italian diplomat said.

NATO looked at the military consequences of the Czechoslovak invasion at its November 1968 meeting. The current session, sources said, will probably only touch on questions of military strategy. These will be further explored when NATO's various defense committees meet in Brussels and in London end of next month.

Hawaii Leads U.S. in Marriage Gains

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii led other states in the percentage increase of marriages in 1966 and 1967, according to the U.S. Census Bureau.

There were 13,113 marriages in Hawaii during the two-year period for a 26.4 per cent increase. Utah was runner-up with a 13.6 per cent jump.

City Approves $2 Million in New Building

Permits for more than $2 million in new construction in Pontiac were issued by the city's building inspection division during March.

More than half the amount, $1.2 million, is represented by the value of two buildings at Pontiac Motor Division. One of the contruction jobs is the second electrical furnace at the foundry on Montcalm to cost $1 million.

* * *

The new furnace is part of a smoke-abatement and modernization program.

Permit for the research building at the Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine at Auburn and Opdyke showed the building's value at $500,000.

* * *

Eleven new family dwellings were shown in the report, and demolition of 30 existing homes also were listed.

3 Vandalism Cases Probed

Damage Is Linked to School Vacations

Increased vandalism accompanies Easter school vacations, the Oakland County Sheriff's Department said today. Several incidents were reported yesterday.

Included in the spree was about $2,500 damage to a golf course and $932 damage to a school, both in Avon Township, and $123 damage at a Pontiac school.

* * *

Six greens were torn up and several tees and marking blocks were taken at Rochester Golf and Country Club Inc., 655 Michelson, between 8 p.m. Tuesday and 6 a.m. yesterday, it was reported. Some of the markers were recovered nearby.

At Meadow Brook Elementary School, 18 windows were broken between 6 p.m. Tuesday and 7 a.m. yesterday, according to deputies. The school is at 2350 Munster.

Five of the broken windows were 56-by-67 inches and valued at $150 each, a school spokesman said.

Twenty windows were reported broken at Longfellow Elementary School, 31 N. Astor, between 3:30 p.m. Tuesday and 6:45 a.m. yesterday. The damage occurred on the west side of the school and south and west sides of the boiler room.

Prelate Sees Parochiaid as Likely in State

DETROIT (AP) — The president of the National Catholic Educational Association (NCEA) is optimistic about the prospects of parochiaid being adopted by many states, Ohio and Michigan in particular.

The Rev. C. Albert Koob of Washington, D. C., said today there are 23 states whose legislatures are moving toward some sort of public aid to nonpublic schools. Most of these are heavily populated states.

* * *

Father Koob, in Detroit for the NCEA annual convention, said Michigan and Ohio are two states where the outlook appears "very good" for the adoption of parochiaid this year.

Proposals for financial aid to nonpublic schools, he said in an interview, range from the GI Bill approach to the "purchased service" program adopted last year by Pennsylvania.

PENNSYLVANIA MODEL

The Pennsylvania law, which went into effect with the school term last fall, has served as a model for some other proposed programs. It provides for the purchase by the state of secular educational services for children in nonpublic schools, with funds coming from the proceeds of horse racing.

The money is used for payment of teachers' salaries, textbooks and instructional materials in such nonreligious subjects as mathematics, modern foreign language, physical education.

* * *

Father Koob said the Pennsylvania approach gets around the objections of those who oppose state aid on the constitutional grounds of the separation of church and state.

2 Robbers Kill Brinks Guard

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — A Brinks Inc. guard was killed today when two persons held up an armored car as its crew was making a payroll delivery, police said.

Police said the guard was shot down as he was carrying a bag of money to the second floor office of the H. P. Hood & Sons Dairy.

They said the driver of the truck chased the robbers and apparently recovered the money.

There was no immediate word on how much money was involved.

DRESSED AS WOMAN?

Officers said one of the robbers may have been dressed as a woman.

They fled in a getaway car that had been reported stolen earlier, police said.

The car was recovered later in the city's Eagle Park section.

Smoking Cited as Fire Cause

Careless smoking was listed as a possible cause of a $4,500 fire in a Pontiac basement apartment yesterday morning, fire officials said today.

They said the blaze caused extensive smoke damage to the apartment at 338 W. Huron. No one was hurt. The apartment is owned by Dorothy Lavender of the same address.

About $3,000 damage was done to the building and $1,500 to its contents, according to firement.

Firemen were at the scene from 10:54 to 12:43 p.m.

Grant Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Economic Opportunity has approved a $50,000 grant for a Head Start program for 225 children in Grand Traverse, Antrim, Benzie and Leelanau counties.

Tops of Show Biz Salute the Allens on 9th Milestone

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — When they gave a party at El Morocco for Marty (Hello, Dere!) Allen and his wife Frenchy on their ninth wedding anniversary, some slob was rude enough to inquire, "But why on their ninth?"

An even ruder slob snapped, "Maybe they're afraid they won't make it to their tenth."

WILSON

Ambassador-to-India Kenneth Keating (who kept reminding you "The Senate hasn't confirmed me yet") was one of the first arrivals to salute the plumb, wild-haired comedian and his wife . . . then the Joseph E. Levines (Joe's off to Rome en route to the Hollywood Oscar, Polar route) . . .

* * *

Tom Poston celebrating a new son, Totie Fields several ounces thinner, the Harry Goulds several millions richer, Shalimar the belly dancer whose mini brought gasps, socialite Laura Johnson who'd gone home from an Easter brunch to change outfits and men.

Others were Joan Fontaine, Barry Sullivan, Virginia Graham for once not talking but with good reason, Tony Martin, Dody Goodman, Anita Gillette, the James Earl Joneses happy he's making two big movies, Ethel Merman, Maurice Woodruff the clairvoyant who told my secretary she has a very bleak future (she's going to keep working for me) . . .

The Gordon MacRaes (rushing to relieve the baby-sitter), the Joey Adamses back from Thailand where they allowed the Queen an audience with them, David Frost, Claudia McNeil, beloved Bricktop, Joan Rivers, Milton Rackmils, Herb Steinbergs, Geoffrey Holder.

* * *

The expectant Theo Bikels were there, as were Benay Venuta, Dave Garroway looking thin, Raymond St. Jacques, Peter Donald with a cane, Lou Jacoby, Louis Sobols, Carl Erbes, Susan Wilson and husband . . . the Maurice Uchitels who run El Morocco but were guests . . . and of course Marty Allen's No. 1 fan, Joan Crawford.

As Joan was leaving to see a man about a soft drink, Marty pretended to depart with her.

"Tell Frenchy I had a good time at our party!" he shouted and waved . . . but I noticed he ran right back in . . . real fast.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Dick Smothers, introduced at Shepheard's, announced to the audience, "We got fired by CBS — and that's their loss!" . . . The swank Colony, one of the last holdouts against women in pants suits, relented for one day only . . . Joey Heatherton and footballer Lance Rentzel (who'll wed Saturday) were at the Copa to see recovered Sammy Davis, who's again doing turnaway business.

Flip Wilson will be master of ceremonies at the UCLA tribute to basket-baller Lou Alcindor . . . Singer Mary Hopkins (of Apple Records) describes her hair as "almost blonde — but I help it a little."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The less men think, the more they talk."

EARL'S PEARLS: The approaching April 15 deadline recalls Goodman Ace's line about income tax returns: "Who says you can't be wounded by a blank?"

Duke Ellington, who'll be 70 this month, got a wire from Jack Benny: "Welcome to the 39 Club." That's earl, brother.

Assemblywoman Seeking Relief From Pay Potties

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Assemblywoman March K. Fong says she will strike the first blow against pay toilets April 24 during a mass demonstration at the Capitol.

* * *

Mrs. Fong, an Oakland Democrat, told newsmen Wednesday more than 1,000 persons are expected to attend the pay potty protest parade to rally support for her bill to outlaw pay toilets in public buildings.

* * *

When the marchers reach the west steps of the Capitol, Mrs. Fong said, she will use a sledge hammer to "smash the first pay potty in the history of California . . . thus striking the first blow against the pressure brought on by pay toilets."

* * *

She said one feature of the protest will be Dixieland bands playing "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime?"

Cosby Childhood Glows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Childhood memories provide a rich lode for mining by comedians, as Sam Levinson, and more recently, Bill Cosby can testify. But it requires special skill, sentiment and a kind of resigned tolerance to pull them off so that the result is both funny and affectionate.

Cosby, in his NBC special last night, had one long monologue that must have had points of identification for men with sharp memories of their boyhoods, men with young sons and all mothers of little boys. That's a big audience.

The comedian took all the parts in a midnight drama involving himself at the age of 8, and 5-year-old brother and his father. The boys quarreled, fought, cried, lied and generally raised hob. Cosby carried the whole thing off beautifully, and it occupied the best part of 30 minutes.

In the second half of the hour there was another elaborate sketch in which Cosby, in wig and long beard, played the part of Noah in a contemporary version of building of the ark.

Like David Steinberg's now-controversial version of Jonah and the whale, reaction to the piece depended on the viewer's attitude and mood. Although Bible stories are big with comedians this season, it is not often one dares to introduce the voice of the Lord playing straight man in a sketch. Cosby dared and, by and large, got away with it.

The Noah sequence was also the frame for a big dance production number, and earlier there was some gospel singing by a group. But it was essentially a one-man show.

Bill Cosby is a perceptive and warm comedian who has apparently total recall of the emotions and exaggerations of childhood. It was an hour that slipped by quickly and entertainingly.

Fred Astaire, who has done several special programs and played host on an anthology series, has signed to play a recurring role in ABC's "It Takes a Thief" when it returns to the screens next fall. He will play star Robert Wagner's father, a semiretired superthief.
