'Flying Saucers' Are Birds, Lights

WASHINGTON (AP)—They might have been birds, balloons, hoaxes or unusual sky lights—but not spacecraft from other planets.

That is the word from the Air Force today after 15 years of investigating flying saucer reports.

It said there was no evidence that any of the 7,369 unidentified flying objects checked on were spacecraft sweeping in from distant planets.

To date, no unidentified flying object—UFO has given any indication of threat to the national security, the Air Force concluded in summing up investigations from 1947 through last year.

FIND NO EVIDENCE

It said its "Project Blue Book" has turned up no evidence that any of the unidentified sightings represented technological advances "beyond the range of our present day scientific knowledge," or that any of the UFO's were "extraterrestrial vehicles under intelligent control."

During 1961, the Air Force's office of aerial phenomena probed into 488 UFO reports—26 fewer than the year before.

At year's end, only 10 of the 1961 sightings still were classified as unidentified. Most of the rest were traced to aircraft, balloons, satellites, astronomical phenomena, birds, lights, hoaxes and other causes.

THOUGHT TO BE UFO

The report disclosed that a new experimental beacon designed to prevent airliner collisions has been mistaken by some persons as an unidentified flying object. The beacon is intense and flashes for a fraction of a second.

"It has been seen as much as 50 miles away and at that distance only the light could be seen, thereby producing a rather startling sight," the Air Force said.

Recently, too, there were widespread reports to the Air Force of flashing objects in the sky. Investigation revealed that these were caused by the earth's passing through meteor showers, the report said.

Collector Reports Theft

$20,000 in Coins Stolen

Coins worth nearly $20,000 from the collection of a Waterford Township resident were stolen Tuesday when the home of Donald P. McLain, 1851 Redwood, was ransacked.

The break-in occurred between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. while McLain was at work at GMC Truck and Coach Division, where he is a supervisor.

His wife discovered the break-in when she returned home at 2 p.m. after taking her mother to the hospital.

McLain, after a preliminary inventory of the loss, told Waterford state police it would amount to at least $18,000. He reported this morning, after a more thorough check, that the loss was near $20,000, only partially covered by insurance.

McLain stated that thousands of coins were taken including a special collection of biblical coins dating back to 350 B.C. and valued at $1,500.

Two pistols also were taken by the intruders he reported to police. Entry was gained by breaking the window in the rear door and forcing the door open. Police believed more than one thief was involved.

A few of the stolen coins were found on the back porch and in the yard after apparently being spilled while the intruders were making their getaway. McLain said he believes they used the sheets and pillow cases that were torn from the beds during the ransacking of the house to carry the stolen coins.

REP. LLOYD L. ANDERSON

Waterford's Anderson Criticizes 'Too Much Spending,' No Cuts

Gov. Swainson's proposed budget, which revolves around an income tax for the state, came under fire today from Rep. Lloyd L. Anderson, R-Waterford Township.

In a message to his constituents, Anderson assailed the governor's 1962-63 budget-tax message for containing "nothing but more and more spending" without any personnel or salary cuts for any state departments, despite the state's continued financial plight.

"His tax message left me cold," Anderson said.

"He proposes to give to the people tax relief of some $85 million on one hand and for this they have the privilege of paying $40 million in a new income tax program," the legislator said.

To collect the new tax, Anderson said, the state would have to hire as many as 500 additional employees.

"I find half of the $85 million he proposes to repeal, or $42.5 million, is money that now goes to support our schools. How would we make up this loss? Another one-half per cent of the income tax?" Anderson asked.

"In his message he is exempting from personal property the tax on manufacturing machinery and equipment, a relief of $75 million. Again, I must bring to you the fact that this is a tax on the state's income."

Romney to Quit at AMC if He Decides to Run

Tells Stockholders His Position Still Uncertain on Governor's Race

DETROIT (AP)—George Romney indicated today if he runs for the Republican nomination for governor of Michigan he will resign as both president and chairman of American Motors Corp.

Speaking to AMC's annual stockholders meeting Romney said at one point:

"The only reason I have seriously entertained the suggestion that I might devote my full time to public service is that I know American Motors is in a leadership position."

"If I should decide to leave, the company will be managed competently, wisely and imaginatively. It will not be lacking in leadership."

A few minutes earlier a stockholder, Harry Korba of Yonkers, N.Y., had told Romney he would move later in the meeting that stockholders on hand vote to ask Romney to stay as chairman and president and not run for governor.

Meanwhile in Washington, Rep. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., removed himself today as a possibility for the GOP nomination for governor of Michigan and said he "expects and hopes" Romney will seek the bid.

Griffin, asserting he wished to "clear the air" of continued speculation that he might become a candidate for statewide office, said he will seek re-election this fall to a fourth House term.

Romney told newspapermen before addressing stockholders that "I have not, absolutely have not" made a decision on whether to run for the Republican nomination for Governor.

"He told both newsmen and stockholders he will not announce a decision until a previously announced news conference he has called for 9:30 a.m. Saturday."

Regarding his political future, Romney told stockholders:

"Ever since I began to express concern as a private citizen about the physical and other plights of the state of Michigan, both friends and critics have suggested that my intention was to run for some political office, and I have been flabbergasted by some of the offices whose doors they seem to want to shove me into."

"I haven't been at all successful in quelling the rumors. In fact, in the discharge of my responsibilities as a delegate and officer at the Michigan constitutional convention, I have been caught up in a flurry of press reports followed by some limited organizational effort by well-wishers, that make it apparent that I could gain some public support for the Michigan gubernatorial campaign if I decided to run for Michigan's highest political office."

News a Surprise in Pontiac

Leaders Optimistic Over Airport

By Dick Saunders

Plans for a $25-million-plus major international airport north of Pontiac were received with surprise and optimism by business, industrial and civic leaders in Pontiac today.

The plans were revealed Tuesday by Pontiac Mayor Philip E. Rowston, chairman of the Aviation Committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

At last night's City Commission meeting, Rowston apologized to "GTV's" congested "Zur" "keeping the plans a well guarded secret."

Although commissioners knew a jet airport had been considered, none knew a site had been chosen or plans formulated.

"I assure you the city has no intention to abandon Pontiac Municipal Airport," Rowston said. "Nor does the county intend to ignore service there."

"The best estimates currently available are that the proposed airport could be handling jet aircraft in four to five years."

Commissioner Milton B. Henry felt the new airport "will bring many things into this area such as hotels, restaurants and shopping."

"There will be a great need for these services. We are faced with great opportunity and it might be wise to get downtown Pontiac modernized as soon as possible. Let's not lose this potential to the township."

A possible speedup in urban renewal and central business district programs was suggested by Commissioner William H. Taylor Jr.

"This puts a new light on downtown redevelopment and suburban areas growth predictions in studies made for our redevelopment program."

Commissioner John A. Dugan said, "I was shocked when I saw the plan. I'm sure it's the best thing for the entire city, but I can see some real opposition coming from some areas."

Commissioner Wesley J. Wood said, "I feel both airports will serve a real need to the city and county."

Wood said the other commissioners stressed a need for the city to work closely with the county to carefully evaluate all future money spent on Pontiac airport improvements.

"It just goes to show we're getting up. We're finally going to get some long pants and I'm tickled to death," said Commissioner Robert Landry.

"With something like this coming, we'll be out looking for new shopping centers."

Comment was not limited to the commission meeting, however. City Manager Robert A. Stier said the airport "will have great implications on Pontiac's future commercial and industrial development."

"Such an airport would affect the entire area."

not only our own airport, but almost every phase of Pontiac development and will become a major consideration in respect to our future plans.

Homer D. Hoskins, Pontiac Municipal Airport manager, was optimistic about the new airport.

"It's a long haul but a big step in the right direction and something that is needed in this area."

Officials Claim 85 Men Injured and 124 Missing

200 Workers Reported to Have Escaped After Tremendous Shock

SAARBRUECKEN, Germany (AP)—A giant explosion ripped through a coal mine today, killing 59 and leaving 124 more trapped in caved-in tunnels. Another 85 miners were injured in one of the worst mine disasters in German history.

Authorities said more than 200 workers at the big Saarland Lusatian mine, hitherto famed for its safety records, had been rescued or managed to escape. They expressed fears that most of those still trapped are dead.

The explosion came about 9 a.m. at a depth of 1,500 feet in the so-called Alsbach layer of the mine at nearby Voelklingen. There was an unexplained flash of flame in the main mine shaft, and firemen ignited with extinguishing force, the Saar's state mining office said.

Men were hurled against tunnel walls and killed. Some died under the crumbling tunnel ceilings. Others perished in the flames.

RUSH TO AID

One miner came out of the smoking mine telling of being hurt against a tunnel wall by the concussion wave of the explosion.

Rescue workers by the hundreds, including some U.S. soldiers stationed in Germany, struggled to reach those sealed off by the debris.

They feared the force of the blast that caved-in was reported on several levels.

About 50 miners were just about to descend into the mine when the explosion occurred. Many died in panic, but returned later to help with rescue operations.

At the muddy, rain-soaked approach to the mine about 2,000 persons, including many young women, stood with anxious faces.

Rescue workers descended into the various shafts every few minutes, while others returned.

WORK IN SHAFTS

They can only stay below a short time, one official explained. "The fires are out, but there is still some gas below."

Returning with black smeared clothes, rescue crews now and then brought a stretcher with a dead or injured miner.

Ambulances, fire brigades and rescue crews from the entire coal-rich Saar Basin raced to the area. Screaming sirens alerted the entire region and families of men employed at the mine began clustering at the entrance to the mine.

A rescue crew from the U.S. Army in Kaiserslautern was sent to the area to assist.

Direction of rescue operations was taken over by the Saarland minister of labor, Paul Simonis. Helicopters assisted in taking the injured to hospitals.

The mine has won several prizes for safety.

The explosion occurred shortly after the miners had reported for work this morning.

Cars Derailed in Wayland

TRAIN WRECK — A railroad depot and a grain and feed mill were virtually demolished this morning in Wayland when 13 cars of a 78-car Pennsylvania Railroad freight train left the tracks, several of them plowing into the two buildings. No injuries were reported.

Shares in Space Company Should Be Open, Says JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy urged Congress today to clarify a huge corporation—with shares to be sold to the public and communications firms—into a building and run a worldwide space network for radio, television and telephone.

More than $1 billion in first-class voting stock in the "Communications Satellite Corporation" would be made available to the public and communications carriers at not less than $100 a share.

Other secondary shares could be purchased only by companies in the communications field.

The corporation would be designed to make a profit—initially from the rental of satellite channels to firms such as telephone and telegraph companies and to other authorized organizations, foreign and domestic.

The satellites, as relay stations in space, would open innumerable channels for international communications and make possible ocean-spanning telecasts.

Kennedy set forth the plan in a letter to the speaker of the Senate.

The letter accompanied proposed legislation, "The Communications Satellite Act of 1962," that spelled out the details.

There has been controversy and hearings over who should own the projected satellite communication system—the government, a monopoly by one firm or group of firms, or open to all comers.

Kennedy urged today that both the public and the communications carriers be let in on the act.

House Republicans Urge 'Nuisance' Tax Renewal

LANSING—In a move to shore up the ailing state treasury, 29 Republican House members called today for re-enactment of $32 million of a $50-million package of "nuisance" taxes that expired last June.

Similar measures were being readied in the Senate for introduction by Sen. Clyde H. Geerlings, R-Holland, with the help of Farrel E. Roberts, R-Oakland County.

"Michigan is facing a screaming cash crisis," Roberts said. "We hope to get these taxes back on the books by July 1 so that we can get some new money into the treasury before the trouble gets out of hand."

The taxes would:

- Raise the beer tax from $1.25 to $2.50 a barrel and increase the excise tax on liquor by 4 percent.
- Impose a 4 percent use tax on telephone and telegraph services, bringing in $8 million.

BOOST CIGARET TAX

Add a penny to the five-cent-per-pack cigarette tax, producing $10 million.

Missing from the expired package were a 20 percent tax on cigars and other tobacco products and a one-half percent increase in the corporation franchise fee.

Sen. Carlton H. Morris, R-Kalamazoo, has introduced measures to revive the cigarette and telephone and telegraph levies and earmark the revenue for a college building program supervised by a state building authority.

State Conservation Commissioners have indicated they will ask the legislature to re-enact the cigarette tax and use proceeds for an expanded parks and recreation program.

"Under our bills the revenue will go directly to the state's general fund to help retire the growing state deficit and meet the needs for increased revenue," said Rep. Gilbert E. Burns.

Unit OKs Plan to Redistrict

Sen. Morris' Proposal Passed Despite Charges of Political Ambition

LANSING (AP) — Despite charges of personal political ambition, the Senate Judiciary Committee has cleared a plan by Sen. Carlton H. Morris, R-Kalamazoo, to make room for Michigan's 19th congressional district.

Opponents said the entire plan was fixed by Morris so he would be able to run for Congress in the Fourth district where he has the most strength.

"Let's call this the Morris-for-Congress plan," said Sen. Harry Litwack, R-Benton Harbor, one of the more outspoken opponents of the proposal.

Morris tried to set himself up a district," said Rep. Don R. Pears, R-Buchanan, speaker of the House and himself a candidate for the House in Washington from the Fourth Michigan Congressional District.

Freezing Cold Has Firm Grip on Deep South

By The Associated Press

A huge mass of cold air held a firm grip across most of the nation from the Rockies eastward to New England today. The freezing line extended deep into Dixie.

Below zero weather again chilled most of the north central region. The raw northerly wind spread the biting cold into the Northeast and below zero temperatures stung sections of New England and upstate New York.

The South felt the effects of the fast-moving cold mass. Readings in the 20s cooled the eastern Gulf Coast and northern Florida. It was below freezing, 31, in Mobile, Ala. Temperatures were in the teens in Tennessee and edged to near zero in parts of Kentucky. They were in the 20s in Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina and Arkansas.

Touchy Topics Given Priority

LANSING (AP) — A reshuffling of the constitutional convention calendar — with hotly controversial subjects moving to the top of the list — was planned today in an effort to meet the March 31 adjournment deadline.

President Stephen S. Chabot, R-Fremont, and other convention officers have tentatively agreed to try to schedule debate on local government, legislative reapportionment and appointment of the administrative board before moving on to less touchy matters.

Nisbet said he hoped to clear up the local government provisions Thursday and Friday of this week. There is no agreement on placing a time limit on debate as yet, he said.

Whether the convention can speed up its deliberative proceedings and wind up its work by the end of next month was a matter of speculation.

PUBLIC LIBRARIES

Delegates devoted about two hours of debate Tuesday to the subject of public libraries and the use of court fees to support them. Except for some minor amendments, they virtually left things the way they are in the present constitution.

Under an attorney general's ruling, the convention must wind up its work by April 1 if the proposed new constitution is to appear on this November's ballot.

U.S. and Britain to 'Swap' Sites

Nuclear Test Facilities in Pacific and Nevada to Be Exchanged

LONDON (AP) — Diplomatic sources said today the United States and Britain will open nuclear testing sites to each other under an exchange arrangement beneficial to both.

Prime Minister Macmillan is expected to make an announcement in the House of Commons Thursday.

This is the plan: Britain will make Christmas Island in the central Pacific available to the Americans for atmospheric tests in exchange for the right to fire underground shots in the caverns of the Nevada desert.

Both countries will simplify their planning problems by making these facilities available to each other.

The informants stressed that this arrangement does not of itself mean that any specific types of tests will be conducted. The decision to set off explosions is a separate one taken at the highest level of each government.

President Kennedy, for example, may not make a final decision until a new series of atmospheric tests until after the general disarmament talks opening in Geneva March 14 have given some indication of whether the Russians are serious to limit the arms race.

CHELSEA, England (UPI) — A U.S. Air Force RB66 Douglas bomber crashed today while landing at the local Royal Air Force base, killing four crewmen.

It was believed that four of the seven men aboard were killed. The spokesman said the four crewmen were killed when they bailed out at "extremely low altitude" and fell to the runway.

He proposed that those placed on shorter weeks receive their full wage, the difference to come from a "national work-week adjustment fund" fed by a payroll tax on employers.

County Sells Bonds to Banks

Chase Manhattan Low Bidder at 3.09 Per Cent for Road Projects

Oakland County bonds totaling $6 million totaling $11 million of proposed primary road improvements were purchased yesterday by the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York, low bidder.

The bank has agreed to purchase the bonds at an average rate of 3.09 per cent over the next 20 years.

Second low bidder was Bankers Trust Co., also in New York. Its bid was figured at 3.1 per cent interest.

The difference in net interest costs between the two lowest bids netted the county a savings of $4,985. Net interest cost of the winning bid amounts to $2,282.32.

Chase Manhattan Bank also won the recent $35.5-million bond issue to finance the 12-Township Relief Fund, now under construction in Southfield Township.

The bank's bid on the drain last November constituted the first time any bank entered into competition with bonding houses in seeking to purchase municipal bonds.

MEN APPLAUDED

This breakthrough into the bond-bidding field by banks was largely accomplished through the efforts of Louis H. Schimmmer, finance consultant for the county, and Claude H. Stevens, the county's bond attorney.

Both men were applauded by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors yesterday for paving the way for banks.

The board took the final action of approving the sale unanimously.

Following yesterday's board meeting, the committee was heard that bonding houses, which exist for the sole purpose of buying bonds, "will have to sharpen their pencils" to remain in bidding competition successfully.

The lowest bid made on the road bonds by a bonding house was that of First of Michigan. Its bid, offering to buy the bonds at 3.16 per cent interest.

Altogether seven bonding houses submitted bids in competition with the two banks.

The highest bid submitted was 3.25 per cent interest.

Sell Space Stock . . . JFK

Kennedy said it must be realized that the satellite system will be a government-created monopoly — and that we cannot in good conscience limit its ownership to a few existing companies and exclude automatically all other potential investors who have equal rights to own a part of this federally developed enterprise."

Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Oklahoma, said the measure would limit participation to communications companies.

Several measures introduced in the House provide, on the other hand, for complete government ownership.

Kennedy included a number of provisions designed to guard against domination by any one stockholder.

Kennedy said he planned to establish, and rely heavily upon, a director of telecommunication management in the Office of Emergency Planning, and also look to the National Aeronautics and Space Council for help in the program.

He said enactment of the proposed legislation and the operation of a satellite communications system would provide a dramatic demonstration of leadership space and intent to share space benefits for peaceful use.

Milton R. Henry Files 3rd Time for Commission

District 1 City Commissioner Milton R. Henry filed a second petition last Tuesday for reelection in the spring general election.

This leaves Mayor Philip E. Rowland as the only incumbent commissioner who has not yet filed, according to City Clerk Olo Barkeley.

continue serving definite needs, such as short-run service and corporate affairs."

He said he didn't think the city would lose much corporate activity to the new airport. "Jobs will always go priority and this would always get stimulating business."

"The location is excellent," said J. O. Edwards, North Central Air Lines station manager at the city airport.

"The big airport is needed and, contrary to most popular belief, it should help the city airport a great deal by stimulating business."

Charles F. Brown, manager of the Consumers Power Co. Pontiac Division, envisioned Pontiac as the center of a vast industrial corridor from Detroit to Flint.

"GREAT POTENTIAL"

"There is great potential for this and the airport site is perfectly located for it. It's one more step in the ultimate long-term growth of this area."

Other civic and business leaders expressed the same optimism. Some of the comments were:

James Clarkson, president of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Pontiac and member of the Waterford Township planning commission: "We've taken a back seat to Detroit too long."

"The new airport should bring new jobs and new industries into the area. It's a great boost for the county and the supervisors are to be commended for their foresight."

Howard Nelson, manager, Sears Roebuck Co. Pontiac Store: "I think it's tremendous. It's a shame the city airport can't be expanded after the many years of work there by local people, but this new airport could bring a sharp increase in business and commercial activity in Pontiac."

Reaction was mixed outside Pontiac in the immediate vicinity of the city airport site.

Orion Township Supervisor John Lessner knew about the proposed airport about two weeks ago. He is cautious about its effect on the township.

"People who live in that area are worried about it," he said. "There are some 300 homes within a half mile of the site. They don't want to have to move and they aren't going to like the noise, he said."

"It's pretty hard to tell right now whether the airport would aid or hurt the local industry."

Margaret Stephen, Orion Township clerk was against the idea. "Nobody likes to live near an airport and I don't think it would help our growth," she said.

"People have called in here saying 'I want to build a house out there, should I wait?'"

Unless there are assured business and property to offset the loss of taxable land, it probably won't help the township's tax base, she said. "It might help attract industry, . . .

The Day in Birmingham

Reduced Cost Plan Works for the Baldwin Library

BIRMINGHAM—The first phase of the Baldwin Public Library's long-range plan to provide service to neighboring communities at reduced cost so far has proved successful, according to head librarian Jeanne Lloyd.

About 120 more Beverly Hills residents are taking advantage of the library than before a contract was signed with the village that provides families with lower library rates, she said.

When the agreement was reached in late November there were 100 families using the library. Now the figure stands at 220. The agreement calls for $3.50 to the residents holding the old family permit cards have been made.

Now to be eligible for the city library service, Beverly Hills residents can obtain a family permit for $3.50 to the residents holding the old family permit cards have been made.

FIRST TO AGREE

Beverly Hills, which already has a fee of $4.75 for its library service, was the first area community to agree to the consolidated service of the library.

Other communities still to be contacted to join the program are Bloomfield Township, Bloomfield Hills and Franklin Village.

By July, 1964, the library hopes to have reached agreements with these communities because by then the nonresident fees will have been discontinued.

"We have no desire to exclude any community," said Lloyd.

Magazines Told to Quit Quarrels

Some Elements of Area Ad Firm Says Publications Must Stop Fighting

CHICAGO — Members of the Magazine Publishers Association were warned today that circulation wars conducted among competing living rooms — by some publications could result in a loss of credibility for all magazines.

Speaking to the publishers was Ernest A. Jones, president of MacManis, Jones & Adams, Inc., Bloomfield Hills.

The advertising agency executive suggested that magazines stop fighting and get together. "Some elements of the magazine industry," he said, "are carrying their infamously hickering to a public which has neither the time, knowledge nor desire to determine what the brawling is all about."

"Full page advertisements give the lie to each other: Name calling, finger-pointing, and sharp-shooting — hair pulling matches in the public square."

The public is interested only in your end product . . . magazines when the public is interested that is likely to be the end of your product."

"I must presume that the goal of this brawling is to convince advertisers and their agencies of the merits in dispute, one way or another. When the public is interested in a price, calm voice, and let us decide. Or set up an arbitration group within the Magazine Publishers Association to judge the dispute."

Glenn Shot Delayed to Feb. 14 . . . at Least

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The attempt to launch astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. into orbit around the earth has been delayed at least another day, until Feb. 14, to allow more time to get his Atlas booster rocket ready.

Further problems developed in the big booster, but officials decided to take an extra day to prepare the Atlas for the new attempt. This included a full scale factory test for the vehicle Tuesday.

Engineers performed a major surgery on the rocket last week. The repairs were completed Sunday and checkouts started, with the Atlas reportedly responding well.

The firing has been postponed seven times for various reasons since Dec. 20.

Queen Pregnant? Rumor Circulates as Philip Departs

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Philip left Tuesday night for a two-month tour of South America as reports circulated in palace circles that a Queen Elizabeth might be expecting another child.

The Buckingham Palace press office refused to comment on the reports. Sir John Peel, the Queen's eynecologist, also had nothing to say about his frequent visits to Elizabeth in recent weeks.

The Queen has three children: Prince Charles, Princess Anne and Prince Andrew.

Look Twice for Echo I

The Echo I satellite will make two early evening flights over the Pontiac area tonight.

The first will be at 6:24 p.m. from the north 70 to 14 degrees above the horizon, moving to the northeast.

Echo will reappear at 8:23 p.m. in the north, 73 to 77 degrees above the horizon, heading to the southeast this time.

He headed a special committee of private businessmen which co-ordinated the county in securing initial options on the proposed 3,000-acre site.

your attention that between 60 and 70 per cent of this money is money that will go to our schools."

"Now instead of 3 1/2 per cent in come tax we have 4 1/2 per cent just to balance his budget," Anderson said. "Nothing for the reduction of the debt. Should we have another one-half per cent to apply to our debt and to give relief to the cities like Detroit who have already said that the governor's suggestion of one-half per cent of his proposed 3 1/2 per cent is not enough?"

Anderson urged voters to insist on a drive for economy "and remove the shackles of both federal and state control and return the power of government from both Washington and Lansing back to the people, where it belongs."

Pierre to Be Broadened or Flattened on His Soviet Trip

By MERRIMAN SMITH
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Back stairs at the White House, President Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, is well aware of certain pockets of doubt here concerning his forthcoming mission to Moscow.

By now, the 36-year-old Salinger is hardened to criticism of youth in the Kennedy administration, particularly his own youth.

Salinger realizes, however, that youth and experience are relative terms, and that productivity and end results are more reliable indicators of performance quality.

Generally, criticism of Salinger planned spring trip to Russia runs along these lines, and some of it obviously motivated by politics:

Thieves Lacked Muscle; So They Steal Barbell

By The Associated Press
Some thieves tried and tried to break into the Reading (Pa.) Barbell Co., but they just didn't have enough muscle. So, they apparently decided to get in better shape for their next robbery attempt.

They gashed down the company sign outside and made off with the 175-pound barbell that had been attached to it.

He is a comparatively inexperienced man stepping into the field of diplomacy, up against some hard-headed Soviet experts; experts at blandishment, conviviality and stern diplomatic dealing.

Also, there are some here who question the wisdom of a press secretary becoming involved in rather extensive operations outside what has been the more or less expected area of the job.

These hazardous times will be very useful, so we are glad for them. Kennedy and those around him also have some other ideas. For one thing, Salinger is going to Russia to explore and encourage a freer exchange of information between the two countries.

What this really means is greater distribution within Russia.

Sign Exchange Treaty

MOSCOW (UPI)—The official Tass news agency announced Tuesday that the Soviet Union and Indonesia have signed an agreement on a program for cultural, scientific and sports exchanges.

via undoctored versions of American policy and action.

The White House inner circle has no idea that Salinger will concern himself with such basic issues as Berlin and nuclear testing. In a direct sense, negotiating in these sensitive areas is none of his business. This is the province of professional diplomats.

But if Salinger can produce any sort of better communications climate between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R., those in high places reason that this will contribute to improved conditions for tackling more serious problems.

As for youth and inexperience in the international arena, the White House thinking runs counter to more or less conventional criticism.

Members of the Kennedy staff make this point: Younger officials also are rising in the Soviet establishment. There's also a feeling that we cannot forever reject Soviet gestures of hospitality and expressions of desire for greater understanding.

15 Are Lost at Sea

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI)—The Indonesian news agency PIA said Tuesday that 15 crew members were lost when a violent storm capsize their vessel off the Indonesian island coast Jan. 26.

understanding as entirely devious. The current theory seems to be to explore each opportunity, determine whether it's on the level and proceed accordingly.

There have been these sunbursts of Soviet friendliness before.

Witness Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's attitude when he was here in 1959. But also, witness his shoe-pounding at the United Nations in 1960.

Salinger does not seem likely to forget that.

Should there be an unlikely unfortunate lapse of memory, however, Pierre may find that travel is not only broadening, but flattening, too.

Everything Set for Auction but House to Be Sold

BOSTON (AP) — The auctioneer's red flag was flapping briskly in the breeze.

The city auctioneer and his assistants were there.

At least one prospective bidder was there.

All that was missing Tuesday was the three-family house which Boston officials had ordered sold for taxes.

It seems the building department razed the South Boston building last October and forgot to tell the real property department.

The auctioneer furled his flag and went away.

Ex-Bandleader Les Hite Dies of Heart Attack

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — A heart attack has claimed the life of former bandleader Les Hite, 58.

Hite, who died Tuesday, was a partner in the Hite-Pain Artist Agency in recent years. He was a bandleader from 1928 to 1945 and his musicians at one time included such widely known instrumentalists as Louis Armstrong and Lionel Hampton.

Pontiac City Affairs Assessment Rolls Ordered

Resolutions were passed at last night's City Commission meeting authorizing the city assessor to prepare special assessment rolls for four proposed sewer projects.

No objections were voiced at public hearings last night on plans for construction of combined sewers on Cherrydown, Cloverdown and Meadowdown drives north of Kennett Road, and on Stanley Avenue, Kennett to Strathmore.

New Achievement Award Set for Michigan Week

A new state achievement award available to community organizations and business firms will be presented during this year's observance of Michigan Week May 20-26.

It is being offered this year in addition to the annual product of the year award. The achievement honor will go to a business, community or civic group that has made an outstanding contribution to mankind's welfare, substantially increased employment opportunities or brought about development of a new industry.

Ban on Cuba Means End for Firm in State

LANSING (AP) — The only American importer of Cuban honey closed up shop today after 28 years of processing the world famed El Aguinaldo honey.

The economic stranglehold President Kennedy clamped on Fidel Castro's Communist Cuba today virtually put the American firm out of business.

An 8-ounce jar of Cuban honey sold for $1 in leading department stores in such cities as Chicago, New York, Detroit, St. Louis, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Philadelphia.

J. Harold Sessions, 66, owner of Cuban Honey, Inc., said the ban shut off the last dribble of his honey shipments.

From 1930 through 1956, Sessions said, his firm achieved its most prosperous position, pulling in profits of between $20,000 and $25,000 annually.

Railway Express Moving to Main Royal Oak Depot

REA Express, formerly the Railway Express Agency, will close its depots in Pontiac and Birmingham March 1 to centralize its Oakland County operations in Royal Oak.

The switch will result in faster service and lower costs for many customers in the county, according to F. L. Hoover, sales representative for the Pontiac-Birmingham area.

The 16 REA employees at the Pontiac office, 37 N. Cass Ave., and six at the Birmingham branch, 548 S. Eton St., will be transferred to Royal Oak, Hoover said.

However, the Pontiac office will remain open as an "on hand" point where customers living outside the service area may leave packages for delivery, he explained. The Birmingham office will be closed permanently.

Civil Defense Given 'Center'

County Control Offices in Basement of Former Contagious Hospital

Oakland County civil defense is getting a bargain basement control center.

The county board of supervisors yesterday approved a $7,500 appropriation to prepare and equip a temporary CD operations center in the basement of the former county contagious hospital.

County CD Director John Madole already has his office in the basement of the hospital on Telegraph Road.

A three-room area will be remodeled to make it more fallout proof and habitable. Telephones and other emergency operating equipment also will be provided.

Birmingham Supervisor David Levinson, as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, recommended the expenditure "in order to provide the county with a communications center which would be operational in the event of an emergency."

Plans to build a half-million-dollar permanent county CD control center have been shelved pending a definite program by the federal government.

County Joins Aviation Boom With New Airport Proposal

With aviation booming mightily the world around, Oakland County finds her own spot in this picture through the proposal of a $25 million airport a mile north of the City.

The suggested site allows for runways up to 14,000 feet (nearly three miles) and the ground and soil seem unusually well adapted to the demands of modern airplanes. Surveys show that this constitutes the greatest acreage in the County which is relatively little used in comparison to other spots. Cities all over the Nation are building larger and larger airports as the traffic in the air mounts steadily.

The cost to Oakland County taxpayers would be approximately one-fourth, with the State of Michigan facing another quarter and the Federal Government handling the remaining 50 per cent.

Experts have studied the situation in Southeastern Michigan and concluded that the designated spot is the most desirable for many reasons. Enlarging the current Pontiac airport entails several major problems. The lakes, roads and homes offer stumbling blocks which could be overcome but the ultimate cost would be great.

Oakland, Macomb Counties and the balance of Southeastern Michigan are probably the fastest growing areas in the State and one of the most expanding sectors in the Middle West. Any airport developments must be based upon the expected use of the future instead of the demand today. Authorities unite in the belief that this spot is the best solution.

Plans are still nebulous and indefinite but it has been suggested that the Pontiac City Airport be reserved for private flying and the proposed airport become commercial. With the area growing as rapidly as it is, plans must be made now if sufficient space is realized. And each year finds steadily advancing prices.

The Board of Supervisors has no intention of rushing into this proposal with a crash program.

Three Petitioned Issues Will Be on Spring Ballot

When Pontiac voters pull the voting booth curtain behind them in the Spring election, April 16, they'll face three issues placed on the ballot by means of petitions.

Two of them concern a change in the pension plan for police and firemen, and the third is about requiring rabies shots for dogs.

Few residents realize that it is possible to bring issues before the people on the ballot by the initiative method.

In the case of the rabies shots, the commission voted 4-3 against an ordinance requiring them. Supporters of the measure circulated the petitions, acquiring the necessary number of signatures, and the issue was placed on the ballot in compliance with the provisions of the city charter.

The two proposals about the pension plan arrived on the ballot similarly. Commissioners never formally voted on the requested pension plan, but did not meet the request, and the petitions followed.

Between now and election time, the public will be informed on both sides of the questions involved, enabling knowledgeable decisions.

Rather, the intent would be determined first and then the balance of the work would proceed in an orderly fashion. Certainly a huge development like this should prove of enormous advantage to the entire area. The total employment could ultimately be a consequential figure and the number of new jobs very heartening. There would be restaurants, motels, taxi services, buses, ticket offices, maintenance crews and the myriad activities associated with the venture.

Options have been secured on sufficient acreage to establish a going price to restrain a soaring market. The whole move has been carefully handled and the committee has done its work efficiently and well.

David Lawrence Says:

Romney Looks at Basic Issues

WASHINGTON—Is the American electorate as fickle and superficial as it is sometimes said to be? Is a national election won because of something as vague as an "image" of the candidate or an "image" of his party? These questions arise now because of remarks made the other day by George Romney.

The same idea has been expressed by LAWRENCE others. There seems to be a feeling that 60 million to 70 million voters are readily hoodwinked into accepting some spectacular personality or program when they vote for a presidential nominee and that basic issues and their true impact on the people are of incidental importance.

In answering a question as to whether, if he decides to run for the governorship of Michigan, he is a Republican or an independent, Romney said:

"I announce, I will announce as a Republican who recognizes that the Republican image does improve."

Lately Romney has been spoken of as a possible presidential nominee on the Republican ticket in 1964. Since he became president of the American Motors Corp. in 1954, he has revitalized that company, and is the man who helped put over the "compact" car.

It is being assumed today that ready some members of the press are suggesting that maybe Romney will be "another Willkie."

WENDELL WILLKIE

It will be recalled that in 1940 Wendell Willkie, who was president of a big public utility company, won the Republican nomination for the presidency over all opponents, including Sen. Taft.

Today, when he became president of the American Motors Corp. in 1954, he has revitalized that company, and is the man who helped put over the "compact" car.

It is being assumed today that ready some members of the press are suggesting that maybe Romney will be "another Willkie."

and the other laws have not been modernized to reflect current conditions. The same is true of the antitrust laws.

"I am greatly concerned about the excess concentration of power in collective bargaining, both on the part of employers and on the part of unions, and I think the conflict between our labor laws and our antitrust laws—the labor laws being premised on the principle of monopoly, and the antitrust laws being premised on the principle of competition—that conflict in national economic policy must be resolved before we can again resume the type of economic progress of which we are capable."

This is well phrased, but it doesn't come to grips with the fundamental issues that touch human liberty.

Elections are won because economic conditions or discontent influences the vast majority of the voters. Party loyalties are temporary and coincide only with the accomplishment of a state of economic prosperity on the domestic side or peace on the international front.

Depressions and recessions operate against the party in power, irrespective of the personal popularity of a party's candidate.

There's nothing wrong with the Republican party that a few mistakes on the economic side by the Democrats wouldn't cure. This could bring the Republicans the same kind of triumphs that Democrats have won under similar circumstances in the past.

Surgery Looks for Ways to Defeat Parkinsonism

Shaking palsy was known in Biblical times. But it was not until 1817 that Dr. Parkinson wrote his historic essay on the disease that now bears his name (Parkinsonism—also known as paralysis agitans).

Today, we may have a population of over a million victims of Parkinsonism and what is even more disturbing, the numbers appear to be increasing at an annual rate of perhaps 25,000 to 45,000 persons.

Perhaps you've seen the patient with Parkinsonism, for the appearance is quite characteristic.

The masklike face. The bent spine. The pill-rolling tremor of the hands. The small, tottering steps that suddenly increase to a dazed, (festinating). The tendency to fall forward (propulsion) or backward (retropulsion) unless supported.

Yet, without, normal intelligence and a general state of well-being that permits the affliction to go on indefinitely.

EXPLANATIONS

Until recently, only two explanations were forthcoming with regard to the cause of Parkinsonism. The one was a localized hardening of the arteries that nourish a small area at the base of the brain.

The other, damage to this same area (basal ganglia) by the virus that causes epidemics of what is called "sleeping sickness" (encephalitis).

Within the course of the past few years, a third cause has been added and that third cause may be responsible for the growing population of sufferers from Parkinsonism.

And this cause, I regret to say, is treatment inflicted (iatrogenic), meaning that it is due to drugs correctly prescribed and administered by physicians.

Prominent among these drugs are certain tranquilizers and blood pressure reducing agents (antihypertensives).

Now in most instances of drug-produced or iatrogenic Parkinsonism, the condition is reversible. That is to say, the symptoms disappear shortly after discontinuance of the drug.

MORE PERSISTENT

But in other instances, the manifestations are more persistent.

As is usual in situations of this kind, manufacturers point out that statistically the chances are slim, perhaps in the second or third decimal place. But that's poor consolation to the individual victim of Parkinsonism.

However, there is a bright note in the picture.

For pioneering surgeons, such as O'Connell of Edinburgh and Irving Cooper of New York, have been attacking the problem of Parkinsonism by operative methods aimed at destruction of the brain area that causes both tremor and rigidity.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Follow 'Fire Analogy' for Results

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE L-47; Laura L., aged 39, is the worried wife whose husband had developed mankind's typical "platonic panic."

"I try to debate the matter," I warned her, "for emotion is not subject to logic."

"Human ardor reacts much like a fire in the fireplace. If it is smoldering or almost dying out, you can't make it burn."

"You simply must fan the weak sparks and add more fuel."

"Well, do the same regarding your husband, Quig nagging. Adopt a new hairdo and use a different brand of perfume."

"Remember, for when you wives look like a waddling walrus or a baby hippo, you lose much of your seductive allure."

"Few then appear motherly or maternal, but men don't grow erotic over a woman whose waistline exceeds her bust line."

"And quit being so indifferent or passive. When a husband reaches twin beds, he must step up your active allure."

LAURA'S CAMPAIGN

Laura was the type of student all teachers relish, for she followed orders to the letter.

"She studied off the matter of ordering twin beds. Incidentally, twin beds are often the death knell to a wife's chances of holding her husband, especially after 40."

Love depends on proximity, plus the sense of touch, even though it is difficult for even a seductive wife to stimulate her mate at long range.

Most divorce court litigants have used twin beds for a long time prior to legal action.

Laura had also gone downtown and purchased some diaphanous nightgowns.

Fortunately, she wasn't much overweight, so she was able to launch her erotic counteroffensive quickly.

At the outset her husband acted passive and indifferent, so she awoke her husband and grew more actively seductive.

And her husband began to respond, for no normal male, even though hamstrung by his platonic panic, can long withstand the allure of an ardent wife who knows how to banish a man's depressed ardor.

Within a few weeks, her husband was literally a new man.

"Why, I'm happier than when we were first married," he exclaimed one night, and Laura pursued contentedly.

BANISH DIVORCE

Most divorces start in the bedroom. And they are at least 50 per cent the fault of wives, even though many of you women truly feel that you are 100 per cent innocent of any error.

It is your "sins of omission" that drive men into alcoholism

Voice of the People:

State Podiatry Association Says Dr. Hyman Is Wrong

In one of Dr. Hyman's columns reference is made to the profession of podiatry. The reference is inaccurate and misleading and may be damaging. The most serious inaccuracy is the statement that, "... your particular podiatrist ought to know that he is neither trained nor licensed to deal with infections or to prescribe medication."

Podiatrists are educated, trained and licensed to provide medical and surgical care within their scope of practice. Licenses for podiatrists in Michigan dates to 1915. Graduation from an accredited college of podiatry was required before licensure. But a number of additional educational requirements are now in effect. Each podiatrist must have at least one or two years of pre-medical training at a recognized college of arts and science. And today's podiatry college is a full four years rather than the one year of half a century ago. Students must also complete a year of internship in order to be licensed.

The podiatrist may consult with or refer the patient to the family doctor or indicated specialist. But the podiatrist is licensed to use such drugs and medications and surgical procedures as may alleviate the foot condition.

'Place for Meetings Would Be Great'

I agree that it would be splendid if the old courthouse could be made into a club house. The women of the county would be pleased to have the fine, stately old structure. How very pleasant was the big room where the ladies could rest while shopping in the old days. That old landmark whose ground was donated by early pioneers could have its dignity and memories preserved for new generations. Oakland County merchants and club folks would profit, so why not move forward and preserve it, tax free?

Doesn't Want Phone, Cigarettes Taxed

I would like to know if those two senators smoke? The telephone is like everything else the taxpayer pays. Why should I pay tax on my telephone and cigarettes because I don't have any hopes of my kids going to college? I pay a city tax and they haven't put any phone on their street. It may be a dirt road, but it's in the city. If this phone-tax passes, more is coming out and I will start smoking rabbit tobacco.

Says Lincoln Had Socialistic Views

Speeches and articles commemorating Lincoln fail to underscore his greatness. Lincoln had the courage to speak against the privileged few and for the oppressed. He placed human rights above property. Lincoln did not fear revolution. He said: "This country belongs to the people. Whenever they shall grow weary of the existing government, they can exercise their constitutional right of amending it, or their revolutionary right to dismember or overthrow it."

Lincoln spoke the language of the Declaration of Independence, and his views form a connecting link with the Socialist-Labor Party's program for a peaceful change from capitalism to the Socialist Industrial Republic of Labor.

Churches Must Inject Influences'

If we are to have real justice in all sense of the word, then the churches and its followers have to inject their influences into the affairs of the world.

Inflation and higher taxes will not solve it, too good common sense will, those handling our tax dollars, however, are interested enough to save tax dollars, but squander them and cry for more. We would be shocked if we had the real accounting of where our tax dollars actually go. Let honesty prevail.

For Hangovers, Hangnails, Halitosis

His Pill Bill Enough to Make Him Sick

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The on-ward and upward march of man has been rather loosely divided into "ages" that mark certain periods of development.

Among them are the Stone Age, the Bronze Age, the Iron Age, the Jazz Age, the Age of Reason, the Age of Consent, etc.

The two most recent epochs are the Atomic Age and the Space Age. But I doubt that either of these will be recognized 100 years from now.

What historians of the future write of the current era, say, seems to me that they will refer to it as the Pill Age.

This conjecture is based in part on the drug investigation being conducted by Sen. Estes Kefauver. Tuesday, for instance, the Tennessee Democrat accused someone of "selling drugs like apples and bananas."

HIS PILL BILL

Although the allegation was denied, I am convinced that pills, at least, have been selling like hot cakes, if not like fruit.

Evidence of this can be found in my family's 1961 pharmaceutical expenditures, which I have just finished adding up as part of a bid to petition the government for an income tax rebate.

The number and variety of pills purchased by just this one small group for the treatment of only minor maladies was enough to make me sick.

During the 12-month span covered by Form 1040, we bought pills to make us sleepy and pills to keep us awake. (Take one of each at bedtime and let them fight it out.)

We bought pills to pep us up when our energies were flagging. We bought pills to calm us down when worries began nagging.

We bought pills to make us eat more, and pills to curb our appetites. We bought pills to make us quit smoking, although they didn't work.

We bought pills to prevent car sickness, seasickness and airsickness. We bought pills to combat hangovers, hangnails and halitosis.

Even so, we didn't begin to cover the field. We could have bought pills to make us virile and pills to make us sterile.

I might be more disturbed about this than I am if it weren't for the fact that a lot of other healthy people bought more pills than we did.

Mass pill-taking has become so commonplace that one couple I know make a little ritual of it. Just before they retire for the night, she requests him to bring her a pill.

"What kind?" he asks. "Surprise me," she replies.

Students Stage 'Peace Pause'

Professors, Townsman Will Join in 53 Minute Campus Demonstration

IOWA CITY (AP)—A group of University of Iowa students and professors—and some Iowa City townspeople—plan to halt their daily occupations today in a 53-minute "Peace Pause."

The pause was scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. CST—just 2½ hours after the university begins its spring semester classes.

After it's all over, a telegram signed by nearly 1,000 persons will be sent to President Kennedy informing him of what is described as a community demonstration in favor of peace.

Sponsors of the movement say that nobody knows whether it will be a success or not, but it has been a chief topic of conversation in this town of 30,000 for the past several days.

There's symbolism in the 53-minute duration of the pause—one minute for each billion dollars in the nation's new defense budget.

The "Pause for Peace" has the backing of several university faculty members and large numbers of students. Mayor Dorr Hudson of Iowa City issued a proclamation endorsing it.

Youth Denies Teens Are Heavy Drinkers

LANSING (AP)—Teen-agers aren't heavy drinkers, a spokesman for the young people told the State Society Commission.

Tom Wilkes of Detroit, a freshman at the University of Michigan and a member of the youth advisory committee to the commission, said he thought all teen-agers would have been alerted at a recent meeting on the problem of the drinking driver.

"This doctor," Wilkes said, "claimed all youths at the age of 16 or more had been drunk at least once. Many young people do drink—an experimental thing—but I think his statement is completely wrong."

He was referring to a statement made by Dr. Richard Bates of Lansing, chairman of the alcoholism clinic at the Edward W. Sparrow Hospital.

The commission received a final report from the Michigan Citizens Highway Safety Action Committee on a recent survey.

FULL ON PROBLEMS
The committee reported that according to 15,000 answers, Michigan citizens placed education first as the problem they are most concerned about, traffic deaths second, crime and prevention of a third, public health fourth and unemployment fifth.

The commission said it would start a new campaign this year to encourage car safety checks. Last year more than 185 communities sponsored the program and checked more than half a million cars.

The checks are sponsored by local groups during April and May. Drivers are asked, but not ordered, to have their cars overhauled if the check shows a defect.

State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs reported that highway death toll in Michigan for January was 19 below last year. If the trend continues, he said, Michigan can hope to cut its count of 1,567 killed on the highways in 1961.

Shuttlin' Sam Finally Forced to Go to Jail

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Shuttlin' Sam Thompson, who convinced the U.S. Supreme Court he got a fast shuffle on a loitering charge, is leaving his latest case at a lower level.

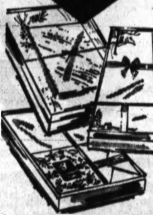

Thompson, 42, a Negro handyman, appeared in police court Tuesday and was fined $25 on charges of disorderly conduct, amended from malicious striking. The matter stemmed from an argument with a neighbor, in which both were accused of hitting each other with a hammer. The neighbor also was fined.

The Supreme Court ruled in Sam's favor 21 months ago when he appealed the two $10 fines on the loitering arrest. Police said he was dancing in a tavern, Sam said he was just "shuttlin'" his feet to keep warm.

Sam failed to pay his fine Tuesday and was taken to jail.

JOHN W. WALTER
WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — John W. Walter, 58, of 558 Littlefield St., died unexpectedly last night at Pontiac General Hospital. His body is at the C. J. Godhart Funeral Home, Kewego Harbor.

Surviving are his wife Lois; three sons, Billy, Jimmy and Ricky, all at home; and his mother, Mrs. Helen B. Walter of Miami, Fla.

Fire Damages Home; Furnace Is Blamed

A fire apparently caused by an improperly installed furnace caused an estimated $4,000 damage to the interior of a two-story home at 40 Parkhurst St. early this morning.

Firemen, called out at 3:20 a.m. when temperatures hovered near zero, said flames burned through portions of the first and second floor of the cement block home.

Firemen had the blaze extinguished in two hours. Fire Marshal Charles Metz said the fire apparently started because the heating unit in the gas-fired hot air furnace had been built too close to wooden beams in the basement.

Flames burned up through the ceilings in the two floors above the furnace. Metz estimated damage to the contents at $1,500 in addition to the $4,000 loss of the building.

The home is occupied by the Svenn Helle family.

Escapes Harm in Crash Because of Safety Belt

ROCKLAND, Maine (AP) — Recently Vernon Y. Leach crashed a light plane between two apple trees in an orchard here when he was spraying. He walked away, uninjured.

Two days later, he swerved his car and jammed on the brakes to avert an accident. His car tipped over onto the roof. Again, Leach crawled out uninjured.

What's the secret? Leach says in each instance he was using his seat belt.

Almost Stopped by Supervisors

Eye Jury Commission Bill

Efforts to submit a proposed jury commission bill for Oakland County in the state legislature (this session were nearly defeated yesterday by the County Board of Supervisors.

A motion to table carried 46 to 31.

Following the motion it was pointed out that a draft of the proposed bill would have to be submitted at Lansing by Feb. 14, and that the board would not be able to consider it further before two days after that.

The supervisors then approved submitting the bill recommended by the board's legislative committee, but made it subject to withdrawal before Feb. 21, when it would go to the floor of the House.

The legislative committee sought the board's immediate approval of three recommendations and authorization to draft legislation accordingly.

NEED MORE STUDY

The majority of supervisors had not seen the recommendations prior to their presentation at yesterday's board meeting. They wanted to table the recommendations for further consideration.

However, if they had done this and thus failed to meet the deadline for submitting bills at Lansing, the county jury commission legislation would be dead until next year.

LIST RECOMMENDATIONS
The committee's recommendations are:

1. A three-member jury commission be appointed by the circuit judges with the consent and approval of the board of supervisors.

2. Selection of jurors be made from a duplicate registration record or voters within the office of the county clerk.

3. The county clerk be the clerk of the jury commission and vested with the responsibility to administer the jury system.

Several of the supervisors objected to the proposed jury commission system of selecting jurors outright.

"We would be creating positions we don't need," declared Springfield Township Supervisor John LeCurey. He stated that the circuit judges have admitted the present system is reasonably good and could be perfected further.

"Supervisors have been doing a good job" in the selection of jurors under the present system, he added.

Commerce Township Supervisor Thomas C. Tiley was another vocal opponent of any change. "I feel a commission can make as many mistakes as supervisors," he said. "I think that if severe penalties were imposed for any change of the present system, it would be closed-up," he stated.

Avon Township Supervisor Cyril Miller said "of 400 names one township submitted some were blind, which isn't too bad, others were deaf, which is worse, and others were imbeciles."

Board to Decide Police Wrangle

Wilson-Watkins Dispute Over Job Awaits Next Royal Oak Twp. Date

Any action to oust Edward I. Watkins from his job as Royal Oak Township police chief apparently will be delayed until the Township Board meets Feb. 17.

Watkins had a vote of confidence today from Township Supervisor Elwood Dickens who promised "to stand behind Watkins" in a job dispute with Township Trustee Ernest Wilson.

Wilson, in a letter posted in police headquarters Monday night, ordered Sgt. Annush Butin to replace Watkins as chief.

Watkins called on the Oakland County Sheriff's Department to investigate the matter yesterday. Watkins also said he would hand control of his department over to Sheriff Frank W. Irons until the matter was "straightened out."

Wilson told sheriff's deputies yesterday his letter was "legal" and that Watkins was "guilty of insubordination."

DON'T HAVE AUTHORITY
Watkins said the letter was not signed by the township supervisor or clerk and did not have the seal of the township on it. As such, Watkins said the letter has no value and he claims a single trustee does not have the authority to suspend him.

Dickens agreed with Watkins. The supervisor told deputies he knew nothing about the letter until Monday night.

Watkins said things are back to normal in the township today. Township officials expect Wilson to take no further action until the next regularly scheduled board meeting Feb. 17, unless a special meeting is called before that date.

Unlike many of his rodent cousins, the ground hog does not hibernate for the winter. Instead, he batters on green all summer and autumn. Then he sleeps through the cold months, resting up for another war on spring vegetation.

2 Men, Woman Found Guilty of Burglary

Sentence will be passed Feb. 27 on two men and one woman, all from Detroit, after they were found guilty yesterday by Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams of burglarizing a Commerce Township appliance shop Oct. 11.

Convicted of taking two television sets, a TV stand and a floor polisher were Willie Hickson, 46, James E. Clark, 30, and his estranged wife, Mary E. Clark, 28.

Shrubs, Trees Grace Expressway Slopes

CINCINNATI (AP) — Slopes beside the city's expressways are being planted with rambling flowers, shrubs and trees which reduce roadside maintenance, curb erosion, muffle traffic noise and reduce headlights glare.

William Conrad, roadside development engineer, says the planting effort also is tied directly to the psychological makeup of motorists: "If you let a highway look brawny, people throw all their litter on it. But if it looks like a park, they respect it."

About 75 gallons of water are used to make one pound of rayon.

Book Finds Way Back From Italy in 15 Years

MIAMI (U) — In 1946, Ippolito Haigler was a Red Cross hospital recreation worker in Italy. Before she left the country, she gave the hospital some books with her name on the flyleaves.

The other day, her next door neighbor bought a book at a store in a Miami suburb. It was one Mrs. Haigler had left in Italy 15 years earlier. No one knows how it got to Florida.

Dr. Carl C. Byers of Cleveland, Ohio (center), noted humorist and orator, held an enrapt audience at Tuesday's Pontiac Parent-Teacher Association Council founders day banquet in Pontiac Northern High School. Getting acquainted with the guest speaker

Pontiac's PTA Council Has Founders Day Fete

Pontiac's Parent-Teacher Association Council celebrated its annual founders day banquet at Pontiac Northern High School Tuesday evening.

Some 120 attended the affair to hear Dr. Carl Byers, well known orator and humorist, explore the subject "What's Shining Through Your Window", employing anecdotes, inspirational thoughts and "common sense," according to the council's publicity chairman Mrs. Earl Olesvig.

Dr. Byers, at 55, was a high school principal in Gallipolis, Ohio. He became superintendent of schools in Parma, Ohio, at 31. Fifteen years later he joined the lecture circuit and became a newspaper columnist, often appearing on radio and television.

PTA units throughout the nation are observing founders day during February in commemoration of a movement which began Feb. 17, 1897 when Alice McLellan Blum and Phoebe Apperson Hearst organized the national PTA. The association has grown from a membership of less than 2,000 in 1897 to 12,074,239 in 1961.

ORGANIZED IN 1923

Pontiac PTA Council, now composed of 33 local units, was organized in 1923 with Mrs. Kate Brown as president. Presiding throughout the years have been 22 presidents including the group's present leader Mrs. George Gray.

Mrs. Gray introduced special guests and expressed appreciation to Malkin, Herrington, Franklin and Wimer Schools for program covers and to Jefferson Junior High School for printing the inserts. Philip J. Wargelin, principal; Donald McCracken, assistant administrator; and Melvin Larimer, music instructor, all of Pontiac Northern High, also assisted with the program.

Greetings from the Michigan Congress of PTAs were brought by Mrs. William Wright, state association program chairman. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent of Pontiac Public Schools, also addressed the group.

Also on the program was the presentation of a distinguished service award to Mrs. Lyle Dusenbury of Edwood Avenue from the MCPT for many years of service in Pontiac PTA work.

Mrs. Thomas Henson was banquet general chairman, assisted by Mrs. Howard McConnell, program; Mrs. Russell Bell and Mrs. Robert Trachette, reservations; Mrs. William White, invitations; and Mrs. Fred Goines, guest table. Decorations were by Mrs. Thomas Bartle and Mrs. Melvin Norberg. Hospitality chairmen were Mrs. William Anderson, Mrs. Herbert Mullen and Mrs. James Hartcock.

Denounce Cheater or Quit Club

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: What can one do when one discovers that someone is cheating at cards? This is the situation. My husband and I belong to a poker club. There are six of us in all and we play every other week.

I have been suspicious of one man in the group for some time; the last time we played I watched him very closely and there is no doubt that he does cheat. I don't know that the others in the group are aware of this, but, now that I know, I feel most uncomfortable playing with him.

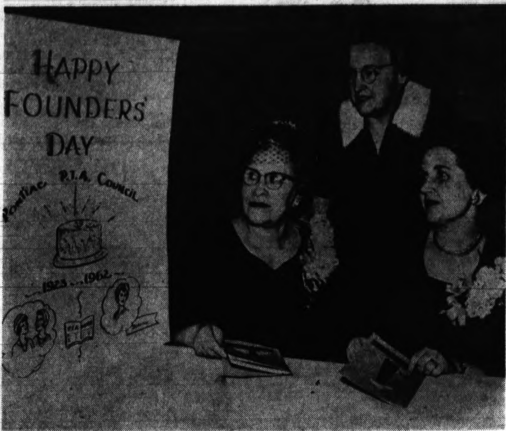

This is a most distressing situation and I don't know what to do about it. I am hoping you can offer a tactful solution to this problem.

A: You hardly need be tactful to a man who cheats at cards; but, if you do not wish to be the one to denounce him, you and your husband will have to find some plausible excuse, other than your real reason for resigning from the club.

Q: I was divorced many years ago and, at that time, discarded my wedding and engagement rings as I wanted no part of them. My engagement ring was a very beautiful one and has been in my safety deposit box all this time.

My son is soon to become engaged and I would like to know if it would be proper for him to give this ring to his fiancée, instead of having to buy another.

A: It is not a question of propriety but of the personal feelings of the bride-to-be. If she is willing to accept this ring with its past unhappy history, then it is up to her why he may not give it to her.

Pontiac's PTA Council was organized in 1923, and since then 22 presidents have conducted the group's meetings, including Mrs. George W. Gray of East

Jackie Invites Youths to Opera

By HELEN THOMAS

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy invited about 20 guests to the White House today to hear a Mozart opera and eat cookies and milk.

The invitation went to teenage children of members of Washington's diplomatic corps. They will hear (at 4 p.m. Pontiac time) Mozart's comic opera, Così fan tutti, performed by the Metropolitan Opera Studio in the old east room on a red-carpeted stage.

TO BE IN COSTUME

The performers will be in costume, but they will have no orchestra. A piano will provide the accompaniment.

Mozart will be following hard on the heels of Shakespeare, cellist Pablo Casals and composer Igor Stravinsky. Stravinsky was the last noted man of arts at the White House, when he was given a small private dinner last month in honor of his birthday.

Casals gave a concert and Shakespeare was performed after state dinners.

After today's performance the youthful guests will go to the state dining room for ice cream, cookies, fruit punch and milk.

TO CATCH FINALE

Although the President will be holding a news conference

when the performance begins, he is expected to get back in time to catch the finale.

It will be the second of Mrs. Kennedy's series of musical programs for the young. The first was a concert performed by the Transylvania Symphony Orchestra of Brevard, N.C., last Aug. 22 on the White House lawn. That audience was made up of handicapped children from the Washington area.

Mrs. Kennedy and her children, 4-year-old Caroline and 1-year-old John, returned to the White House Tuesday from their Virginia estate.

From 75 Cents to $1.5 Million

Local Woman Buys, Sells Used Cars

By MADEIRA DOEREN

A local used car business that netted 75 cents profit on its first transaction closed its books last year showing gross sales of about $1.5 million.

Situated at the busy intersection of Dixie Highway and Kennett Road in a former demonstration model quarter, the Averill Auto Sales is said to be the only used car lot with a Dun and Bradstreet rating, owned and operated by a woman.

According to Mrs. Charles Averill, proprietor, some 500 to 600 cars leave the lot during the year. Most of these are late-model Cadillacs, Buicks, Oldsmobiles and Pontiacs. Ninety-eight per cent of the sales are made through dealers by long-distance telephone.

In the small car field, Tempests and Corvairs outsell all other makes, said Mrs. Averill.

While our Press photographer was persuading Mrs. Averill to pose in the car lot between snow storms Monday noon, her toy French poodle "Hoagy Carmichael II" eyed him suspiciously, sniffed at our nylon, then curled up in his basket for a dog nap.

SEE HANDLED THE DEAL

During World War II, Mr. Averill was a carburetor engineer with General Motors in Chicago. He was transferred to Pontiac with General Motors Truck. The family Buick had about "had it" through the war years so it was taken to Flint for a motor rebuild.

During its reconditioning, the Averills decided to sell or trade it for a newer, low-mileage model. This took a bit of doing, but Mrs. Averill handled the arrangements so well that a dealer suggested she buy cars for him to resell.

Working from an apartment on Dwight Avenue, Mrs. Averill rounded up three cars equipped for amputees. After considerable advertising and several hundred telephone calls later, she had made a profit of 75 cents on the sale of the business venture was born!

The present sales office was opened in 1946. Buyers, referred by dealers, came from Texas and the West Coast, and on one memorable Monday morning, a driving instructor with two bars left the lot with 32 used cars to be resold in Texas.

From 1948 to 1953, the bulk of sales were to dealers in San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego and in Texas. Neither obsolete nor "lemon" cars were sold on the Averill lot. Every automobile taken in must be clean and sharp, with a no-accident record.

Roger Hansen has designed a contemporary office building for Mrs. Averill, to be built of red brick on the lot occupied by the little quonset building. It will feature a studio roof, floor-to-ceiling lobby fireplace of Georgian marble and a complete kitchen.

Mrs. Averill likes to cook, play the electric organ when home and drive a motorboat with a water skier in tow. When expecting guests for luncheon, it is not unusual to find her up at 4 a.m. putting homemade bread and pecan rolls to rise.

Sharing her new home on Loon Lake Shores, Drayton Plains, for six months of the year is her sister Faith Fitzpatrick, invalided by a train mishap since early childhood. Faith lives in Millersburg with their mother, Mrs. George Fitzpatrick.

The new office building will have extra wide doors to accommodate her wheelchair maneuverings, as she gives an "assist" to her sister when office details pile up.

Mrs. Averill finds relaxation at the wheel of... you guessed it, her Pontiac Bonneville convertible.

Mr. Averill is presently in business in California.

LAUGHTON PROGRAM

Reset for April

MSUO Community Arts Council announced Tuesday that the Charles Laughton program scheduled for Monday at Pontiac Northern High School is postponed because of the untimely death of the actor. The program was scheduled for Monday at Pontiac Northern High School. Arrangements are being made for Laughton to appear here the first week in April. The program will be co-chaired by Norman Chas and Dr. Walter Collins.

Mrs. Charles Averill takes an inventory of late model cars in her lot at Dixie Highway and Kennett Road. She enjoys the distinction of being the only woman in the country owning and operating a used car lot which has achieved a Dun and Bradstreet rating.

You Too, Abby Says

Bathless Mate Needs Aid

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 37 years and in all that time my husband hasn't taken a bath.

It's the truth, Abby.

I just can't get him to take a bath. He takes a bath just before the lot with 32 used cars to be resold in Texas.

My husband gives him spending money as though he were a child. The only place he sleeps in is our little 3-year-old girl's room. I would like to get him out of her bedroom and out of the house. Just my luck, my husband is an "only child," so what would you do in my place?

In me, she always asks me if she can use it. I am not a selfish person but I hate to let her use my lines because her clothes never look clean and I don't want people to think they are mine. What should I do?

I guess he must think me of the doctor who examines him than he does of me. Do you think he could use a mental checkup next time?

DEAR IN: I'd tell my husband that supporting a man who refuses to work, but who is well enough to bowl, is not up my alley. And add that it is time he and his father had a frank "father and son" talk. The father needs to know a few facts of life.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LT. "HP" AT HIGHAM: Let her keep the "wings." She is obviously for the birds.

DEAR ABBY: If you are poor, and live in a run-down house, and a popular boy, who lives in the best section of town, asks you a prom, what would you do about your house?

Should you have him pick you up some place else? I am afraid if he sees the dump I live in he won't like me any more.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 20 cents to Abby, The Pontiac Press.

DEAR ONLY: I believe that any woman who would live for 37 years with a man who bathes only once a year needs a "mental checkup" as much as her water-shy mate.

DEAR ABBY: My father-in-law has been staying with us for the last two years. He is 60 and in very good health. Good enough to go bowling three times a week. He has no job and says he can't find one, although he isn't looking too hard because I doubt that he wants to work. He has no insurance and not one cent coming in.

ASHAMED —

DEAR ASHAMED: If he is the right kind of boy, he won't care how shabby your house is, as long as it's clean. Have him pick you up at home.

DEAR ABBY: I live in a project and the young woman who lives one apartment over from me is my problem.

Shouldn't Stop Child's Tears; They Help

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When a persistent insomnia began to threaten her work's efficiency, a young woman placed herself under psychoanalytic treatment.

During one of her early sessions with her doctor she found herself recalling a childhood episode. A playmate had given a Halloween party to which she had not been invited.

"When I heard the other kids talking about the costume they were going to wear, it never dawned on me that I wasn't going to be invited," she said.

"So I went right ahead, bought crepe paper, made myself a witch's costume — the hat, the old broom, everything. Then the afternoon of the party another girl told me that Betty's mother wouldn't let her ask me. I never knew why. My father gave me a quarter for not crying."

"How lonely and hurt you must have felt," her doctor said.

Shocked, his patient stared at him. Then, as his quiet insistence on the unremembered pain touched it, she flung her hands over her face — and burst into the tears that should have been encouraged 15 years before.

The comforting of children, contrary to general belief, is not

"There, there, little girl, don't cry." The child guidance books are all ways very eager for us to permit children to feel their resentments at us, carefully explaining that the "repression" of anger booms crashes back upon them. In the form of self-accusation. But for some reason they are less insistent on the danger of denying them their hurts.

They do not explain that forbidding a child his tears either by impatience, ridicule, or anxious hovering makes it impossible for him to discover that he has survived the hurt.

They do not tell us children who are not allowed to discover that they can live past it develop shyness — fear of mere hurt. So true comfort is not, "There, there, little child, don't cry." In adolescence we pay for the impatience, ridicule or anxious hovering that has made tears and hurt shamed things. The Johnny who was deprived of his right to crumble into tears at a playmate's anger who hides his hurts from us. He becomes the irritable child who says:

"I'm all right. I tell you. Just go away and leave me alone. Can't you leave me alone for a minute?"

If we have not been bullied out of feeling our own hurts through to their end, we are not afraid to encourage tears. We know that they are as good to shed when we are sad as laughter is good to shed when we are happy.

Women Aren't Able to Give Directions

By RUTH MILLET
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Let's face it, there are some things that the average woman just can't do as well as the average man. Among them—

Giving directions. A man will tell you to turn right at the third traffic light — but a woman is likely to tell you that on the corner where you turn there is a house with green shutters or maybe they're blue, anyway, bluish-green.

Ordering a meal in a restaurant. When a man gives an order for a meal he simply orders. But a woman wants to know if the beef stew is good, and if it is possible to substitute some other vegetable for green peas.

The man even discuss her reducing diet with the waitress and if she doesn't change at least one item on her order after the waitress has written it down — she is unusual.

Parking a car. No matter how good a driver a woman is she's one in a hundred if she can back into a small parking space as expertly as a man.

Driving a nail. Even when a woman is the handy man for the family she usually can't drive a nail with authority, the way a man can.

Understanding and following complicated directions. Maybe women could do this if they were willing to concentrate — but most women don't bother to read directions all the way through.

Paying compliments. Maybe it is because so many women tend to gush that a man's compliment — simply given — usually seems to carry more weight.

But one thing the average man can't do as well as a woman is find his way when he is lost. That's because a woman doesn't mind asking directions — but a man always has to try and prove he isn't lost at all.

Men: Contentment is what you make it. See Ruth Millet's book, "Happier Wives (Hints for husbands)." Just send 25 cents to Ruth Millet Reader Service, care of The Pontiac Press, P.O. Box 488, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 13, N.Y.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

Winner of the Tailor Trix pressing board this week is Mrs. John Kolano, Ludlow, Mass., who sends this suggestion:

"After making corduroy dusters for my daughter, I got disgusted with the frayed looking edges, so decided to bind the raw edges on all parts of the garment with light-weight cotton bias binding.

"I was so thrilled with the looks of the finished garment that I wanted to pass this tip along to others. It is much easier to bind the seams before assembling the garment.

READ DIRECTIONS

"Dear Eunice:

"Being on the short side, I always cut some of the pattern off at the lower edge, or simply shorten it after it was completed. I recently had a sad experience by trying to shorten a skirt in this manner.

"My garment had quite a bit of fullness at the waistline and then tapered down to a very narrow hemline. When I shortened my skirt from the bottom, the facing didn't fit."

Mrs. M.B.

With any kind of shaped skirt, you must shorten the skirt in the place that is marked on your pattern, usually about 10 inches above the lower edge. This would be especially important when you have a shaped facing for the hem.

Many of you may wonder why it is necessary to have a separate facing. If the hemline was curved or shaped in at the lower edge, it would be impossible to turn the hem up as we usually do.

TO STOP CLANGING

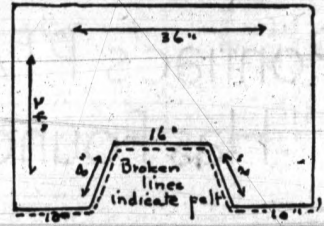

"Dear Eunice,

"I just finished a wool dress and the fabric has a tendency to cling to my legs at the hem. I didn't know what else to do except use a bias strip of matching cotton and apply this over the wool at the hemline. Was this the correct way to solve this problem?"

Mrs. V.O.

The wool clinging to your legs is often a static condition that is caused by certain types of fabrics, usually with nylon content. Cold weather is also a cause of this. I think you were very clever to think of the bias to match the fabric, it won't show and will solve your problems.

I have had so many requests for a repeat of the column about constructing a "lap board." One of the most important points to remember in working on any garment, is to work on a flat surface. This is important when pinning or assembling any parts of your garment. Often a table isn't too convenient, so we find ourselves using our lap or some cramped space. A perfect solution to this is the use of a lap board

To me, it is indispensable because it can be kept close to your sewing machine and when you need a flat surface, you merely push yourself back from the sewing machine and place the board on your lap. Since these are not available on the commercial market, I am giving you complete instructions for making one.

The lap board should be cut out of thin hardboard so it won't be too heavy. If you make a paper pattern from the sketch given above, you may be able to get a lumber company to cut it out for you—or maybe you have a handy husband.

For added convenience, cover the board on one side only, with felt. I use a green felt because it doesn't show the soil and is easy on the eyes. The felt will keep the fabric from slipping while you are working on it. It should be cut about 1 inch larger than the board. Glue it on with household glue.

You will have to clip the felt in at all the inner edges, and notch out the excess at all the outer curves. Now glue these outer edges of the felt to the other side of the board.

Once you get used to a "lap board" you won't be able to get along without one.

Please send all questions to Sew Simple, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Comic Valentines Popular for 100 Years

By GAY PAULEY
NEW YORK — The complimentary and the comic run about even in the new crop of valentines. But contemporary comics have a long way to go to match the apparently unintentional humor which shows in an antique card the museum of the City of New York currently is exhibiting.

The valentine, stamped 1845, still get their insulting message across. HUMOROUS CARDS
Some examples from the Greeting Card Association, which represents the industry:
"Now that I've met you, do you know what I'm going to shout from the rooftops, valentine?"
"The turn of the century, but they JUMP!"

Or, "Valentine, your most outstanding characteristic is your even disposition. You're ALWAYS moody."
Or, "Valentine, I've finally figured out your weakness. You're stupid."
Or, in the same vein, "You're not the only man I could ask to be my valentine, but you're the only one I know who's stupid enough to accept."

Steve Shannon, director of the association, said that the funny-type cards, where puns, gimmicks and slams dominate, make up about half of all valentines sold.

The division between the humorous and the romantic has been about the same for the more than 100 years they've been printed in the United States.

The association estimated that 600 million missives will be exchanged on February 14, some 10 million more than in 1961. Shannon didn't want to estimate how many millions of dollars would be spent.

SECOND IN SALES

He said valentine sales run second to Christmas cards, with Easter and Mother's Day cards in third and fourth place. Valentines make up from eight to 10 per cent of all card sales; Christmas, 50 per cent.

All of which means that the expression of love, or other sentiment, has become big business since the first paper valentines appeared abroad around 1400. In those days, the association said, St. Valentine's Day was a controversial subject, for its origin was linked to a pagan feast. Valentines then were delivered surreptitiously. But as the custom grew, and the connection to the pagan feast dimmed, the daring of the senders also increased. Bachelors once tossed valentines tied to red apples to their sweethearts through open windows.

By the 18th and early 19th centuries, valentines were considered a serious proposal of marriage. Rival suitors frequently were judged by the ingenuity of their valentines.

With enough foolproof makings for everybody, the do-it-yourself craze was on.

Music Club Hears Talk on Spirituals

In keeping with Matinee Music Club's February Americana theme, Mrs. C. Donald Beall of Detroit, Jefferson Junior High School music and English instructor, presented a talk about Negro spirituals in the Cherokee Road home of Patricia Prout.

Mrs. Aubrey C. Roberts, club counselor, introduced the lyric soprano who has studied voice with Virginia Mac Waters of the Metropolitan Opera Company. Recipient of a master's degree from Indiana University, Mrs. Beall has concertized in the South.

Outlining the composition, harmonies and texts of Negro folk songs, Mrs. Beall, who plans to continue her voice and career study, demonstrated her points by selecting three numbers from a collection of spirituals, "American Negro Songs," compiled by John Work. A concertized arrangement of "His Name So Sweet," by Hall Johnson, accompanied Mrs. Beall. Margaret Heidenbrand.

Continuing the Sunday program with the National Federation of Music Clubs theme, "Let the World Rejoice With Music," Mrs. Roberts discussed and played recordings of African music.

Members participating in the program were Greta Murphy, Miss Proud, Kathy Brown, Valarian Simpson, Tom Putnam, Kristin Lindquist, Amy Stillman, Robert Ralston and Julie Bird, piano solos; William and Lee Chessel, baritone and cornet duet; and Jodie Rosenbhal, clarinet solo.

Mrs. Heidenbrand, Mrs. Everett Peterson and Mr. Beall were the club's guests.

New members welcomed were Christine Thams, Susan Nelson, Nancy Brown and Kathy Crew.

For her television appearance Mrs. John F. Kennedy will wear this two-piece red nubby wool dress as she conducts a nationwide audience on the White House tour.

Jackie to Wear Famed Red Dress for TV Tour

One dress in the First Lady's wardrobe seems destined for repeated public attention.

When Mrs. John F. Kennedy conducts a television audience on a tour of the redecorated White House Feb. 14, she'll be wearing a dark red nubby wool two-piece dress by Chas. Niman.

Chas. Niman, a New York custom dress maker, has made other apparel for Mrs. Kennedy, says it's the same dress she quickly changed a couple of months ago to avoid one of those embarrassing fashion incidents all women dread.

That was when Mrs. William S. Paley, wife of the chairman of the board of the Columbia Broadcasting System, showed up for tea at the White House in an outfit almost exactly like the one Mrs. Kennedy was about to wear to receive her.

SLIGHT DIFFERENCE
The only difference was a more pronounced ruffled neckline on Mrs. Paley's dress. The First Lady wore a two-piece black velvet to tea.

The red wool has a slim A-line, basen neckline, side-buttoned overskirt and a short skirt. She's worn it on several public occasions.

Mrs. Kennedy's accessories for the taped TV presentation consist of a triple strand of pearls, which she tucks inside the neckline, and gold earrings. Black lizard pumps with a low and medium heel complete her costume.

The tour, which she's accompanied by CBS news correspondent Charles Collingwood, covers the principal rooms on the ground floor and the first and second floors of the White House.

Group Holds Family Night

Family Night for the Wayside Gleaners was held at the First Baptist Church with Mrs. Edith McKee, hostess for the evening.

Mrs. William Carls, led the group in song. Also participating in the program were Mrs. John Cowe, Mrs. McKee, and Mrs. Albert Leighton. Ardit Watts, and Phillip Summer Jr. played a piano duet, after which Mr. Summer spoke to the group about the significance of the "Love of God."

Mrs. Ted Sloman gave two vocal selections accompanied by Mildred Barnett at the piano. Following the Friday program Mrs. Walter De Nio and her assistants served refreshments to the group.

Garment Union Offering Style Pamphlets

NEW YORK — The 650,000 people who literally make American fashion (they cut, sew it, and distribute it within the ranks of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union) are now helping banish the hazards of shopping for the average American woman with new clothes on her mind.

Through a series of free seasonal fashion films and handbooks on various aspects of wardrobe selection, the two-year-old ILGWU label department is acting as a practical guide to women in the ticklish matter of adding the right and new clothes to wardrobes each year.

A SERVICE PROGRAM

With funds contributed from their wages by the nearly half-million men and women who make women's and girls' clothes from bathingsuits and lingerie to coats, suits and evening dresses, the Union set up a consumer service program of fashion information and educational material directed by Eleanor Lambert, well-known fashion authority.

Using a grass-roots approach and modeled after the direct, down-to-earth language of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and other government agencies in its booklets on subjects of helpful interest to homemakers, a series of small illustrated handbooks has been published, and more than a million have been sent to individuals who have written in for them.

Seven have been issued: "How to Be Well Dressed," a general fashion guide; "Travel in Style," a helpful booklet for travel wardrobe-planners; three booklets on school wardrobes covering preschool to college; a bride-to-be trousseau guide; and a fashion book for teen-agers.

A capsule history of fashion with a miniature dictionary of fashion terms is now in preparation, Miss Lambert said.

The second phase of the ILGWU fashion education program is the production and distribution of semiannual 30-minute color fashion films.

The fourth of these films, covering style trends from high fashion to budget-priced and for all ages and types of feminine America, is being circulated in theaters and TV stations, women's clubs, conventions, and other meetings of women throughout America.

NEED-TO-KNOW GUIDE

"There is a pronounced need for basic, brass-tack flow of educational and self-help material from a central source which covers both outerwear and underwear for women, young women, girls and children," said Julius Hochman, director of the ILGWU union label division, which handles the distribution of the new, small labels now inserted into every one of the more than one-billion fashion garments produced by ILGWU workers in America.

Square Dancers Call New Members

Style Steppers Dance Club is welcoming new members to its semi-monthly dances every first and third Saturday in Pontiac Township Hall.

Half-hour workshops beginning 8 p.m. will precede the regular dance. Edwin Farr is caller.

For further details, Carl Seiser may be contacted.

"The ILGWU has nothing to sell but service and the reminder that the 450,000 workers in the garment industries take pride in high standards of workmanship under the right kind of working conditions.

"I believe we can fill a real need and that by helping women to appreciate fashion and buy wisely, we will help the manufacturers, the designers, and the retailers," he added.

"Every woman knows that fashion is an integral part of her life, and we aim to lessen the timidity and confusion that many women feel toward style changes," said Miss Lambert.

The film follows fashion through the various activities of country and city life and includes a segment on lingerie, lounge and sleepwear. As in each preceding film, this one devotes a detailed sequence to the fascinating processes by which a garment is made under the skilled hands of ILGWU members (a large percentage of them are women).

It traces a smart skirt and blouse from the showing of a sample to the cutting of the fabric and on to the shipping room, all photographed in a well-known separates manufacturing house.

Pork Chop Casserole Is Good for Church Supper

By JANET ODELL
 Pontiac Press Home Editor
 The mail is still bringing us recipes from Pontiac area women who attended the cooking school. Do keep it up.
 Mrs. Joseph B. Fish who lives in Elizabeth Lake Estates sends us her favorite pot-luck dinner casserole. She says to make it in the oven, or if you have an electric skillet, in that.
 From her letter we would say that Mrs. Fish is active in church work.
PORK CHOP CASSEROLE
 By Mrs. Joseph B. Fish
 54 pork chops or pieces of pork steak
 1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
 1 soup can of milk
 4 medium potatoes
 Salt and pepper
 1 package frozen peas or green beans
 Brown pork chops or pork steak slowly on both sides. Remove from skillet. To browned fryings in pan add can of soup and the milk. Stir until well mixed. Add sliced potatoes. Season with salt and pepper. (The liquid should almost cover the potatoes) add more milk if necessary.
 Arrange browned meat on top of potatoes. Add frozen vegetables a round-edge of pan. Simmer in covered skillet or bake in 350-degree oven until potatoes and vegetables are done, about 1 hour. Serves 4-6.

If you're one of those at the midway point in Marathon, exercising should be easier for you because your muscles now are accustomed to it. In this Marathon exercise the model touches hand to leg.

The End Is in Sight

Stay With Your Marathon

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
 Many of you who joined my 5-Week Self-Improvement Marathon last month are at the midway point or close to it.
 If you have been faithful to the routines outlined for you in the booklet and in daily columns, you are beginning to feel pretty proud of yourself. In fact, your appearance probably has improved so much already that you may be tempted to become a little careless.

Don't give in to this tendency! It will be too bad if you come this far and are this successful and do not reach your goal. I hope that you will not give in to this perfectly human and understandable reaction.

By now it should be easier for you. Your muscles will have become accustomed to the exercises and you should be enjoying them. You're also reaping the by-products of decreasing inches and more energy. Your calorie counting is easier now, too, I know, since your stomach has become used to less food. You are over the hump and can sail along happily for another four weeks.

When the loss of pounds slows down, don't worry about this. It is an expected and natural part of a reducing routine. Keep counting calories and you soon will begin to lose again.
 Continue keeping a record of your progress at the end of each week, and give yourself the thrill of taking to the seams of your clothes, even if you will have to take them in again later on.
 If you did not begin Marathon when you meant to, start now. You have lots of company. Thousands of women are in there working along with you, even though you do not know and cannot see them.

For any new readers unacquainted with Marathon, it is an eight-week program during which you see how much you can improve your appearance with my help.

If you would like to join, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet, which gives you the information you need. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

'McNamara Better Get Busy About It'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Hon. Timothy Tugbataon came storming into the office today yelling for blood or, anyway, a court martial.

Tugbataon's rage had been boiling up for nearly a week since he had read in his hometown paper, the Alton, Kan., Empire, that some Navy knuckthead, an admiral no doubt, had been wasting the taxpayers' dollars.

"Three million, two hundred thousand bucks," the old man shouted. "They oughta behead that varmint! He'd a better be an admiral, anyway!"

"Maybe he wasn't an admiral, Tim."

"Of course he was an admiral," Tugbataon insisted. "They don't let lieutenants, captains and such spend that kind of money."

"This fellow McNamara, what's he going to do about these generals and admirals? Nothing, most likely. That wasn't the way he ran the Ford Motor Co., I betcha. And if he had, young Henry would have given him the sack."

"That's what President Kennedy ought to do, too, if this McNamara can't make his generals and admirals take better care of the people's money. Can him and get another boy!"

Tugbataon spread his copy of the Empire on the news desk and indicated the paragraph that had enraged him, as follows:

NUY NEW PARTS
The general accounting office charged Tuesday that the Navy wasted $3.2 million buying new aircraft engine parts during a recent 18-month period when it had plenty of excess aircraft engines in storage from which the parts could have been obtained."

Tugbataon said he had had his eye on the Navy for a long time and that the spare parts incident was not the first such case.

"Things like that happen all the time," the old man shouted. "And I'll tell you something else and don't forget it, the Army and the Air Force are just as bad, maybe worse."

THE END OF IT

"This fellow Campbell (Joseph Campbell, comptroller general of the United States) has been turning 'em up for years. This Campbell checks all of the spending and the contracts made by the government."

His checkers look for deals in which the government gets gypped or, gyps itself and mighty often they find 'em. Then this Campbell reports to Congress, and that's the end of it."

"Congress ought to be ashamed of itself. They don't pay any more attention to these reports than if they were talking."

You Will Be Feature on Television 'Show'

YOU—whenever you are—are featured in a downtown Pontiac department store window display this week alongside one of Pontiac's newest additions.

With sure fire personal appeal, a window display at Walter's Department Store shows a scale model of Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital exactly as it will look when its new $1.5-million addition is opened in September.

The personal touch is you. A closed-circuit television camera in the window takes pictures of you and, if you haven't guessed, that's you staring back at yourself out of a TV set next to the model.

So, get the same happy relief millions have enjoyed for over 60 years. Large economy size 50¢ money. Get Doan's Pills today!

Doan's

about Confederate money. Look, maybe. I'm gonna vote against my congressman from here on out and everybody ought to do the same.

It would be a shocker if Congress or this Campbell would just take these reports for one year and add up all the wasted money. Everybody ought to write to their congressman and demand to know how much money the Army, Navy and Air Force have wasted in the last 12 months on these spare parts and other sucker deals."

Tugbataon was building up a head of steam. He banged his cane on the news desk, kicked over a basket of teletype tape and swept the paste pot to the floor.

Military Boycotts Frondizi's Banquet

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentine military leaders boycotted a banquet given by President Frondizi Tuesday night in honor of the visiting Belgian ex-King Leopold. The move was linked to continued strife between Frondizi and the military over Argentina's Cuban policy.

None of the 24 top military officers or the three armed forces secretaries showed up at the banquet. Instead, they held a meeting reportedly to discuss the government's attitude to their demands for an immediate break in of a mutual which is to open in relations with Prime Minister Frondizi's regime.

Comedian Atwell Dies
NEW YORK (AP)—Roy Atwell, 83, the stuttering comedian at vaudeville, musical comedy and radio, died Tuesday after an illness of six weeks. He started his stage career at the age of 10 and last month was added to the cast of a musical which is to open in New York May 3. He was born in Syracuse, N.Y.

Honey Listed as Pentiful Food Adds Delicate Flavor

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

If you are interested in economy, you buy food in season and clothing out of season. You also buy what is in abundance to get a good price.

You can buy honey in three forms—liquid, in the comb and crystallized. If you like it on toast or hot breads, keep comb or crystallized honey on hand. Liquid honey is best for baking purposes, and may be used for hot cakes, waffles and the aforementioned hot breads.

Keep honey at room temperature. If it does granulate, restore it to its liquid state by placing the container in moderately hot water.

You can make a delicately flavored candy with liquid honey,

Make it with red candied cherries for Valentine's Day.

Honey Nougat
1/2 cup liquid honey
3 cups sugar
2/3 cup boiling water
2 egg whites, beaten
2/3 cup chopped nuts
2/3 cup chopped citron or candied cherries

Boil the honey, sugar and water to a softball state (230 degrees F.).

Remove 2/3 cup of the syrup and pour into the stiffly beaten egg whites, beating while pouring. Cook the remaining syrup to the hard-crack stage (365 degrees F.). Pour into the egg mixture, beating well.

Continue heating until sandy begins to thicken. Add nuts and candied fruit. Pour into a deep pan lined with waxed paper or aluminum foil. Cut into oblong pieces. Makes about 44 pieces, 1 1/4 by 1 by 1/4 inches.

Anyone in your house like milk toast? Here's a sweetened version of it.

Honey Milk Toast
2 cups hot milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
6 slices buttered toast

Spread each slice of buttered hot toast with honey. Heat milk just to boiling point, add salt and butter. Keep hot until ready to serve and then pour over the honey spread toast. Serve at once before toast loses its crispness.

Some of you may wonder about substituting honey for other sweeteners. Here is what a USDA bulletin has to say:

"Honey may be used, measure for measure, in place of the sugar in preparing puddings, custard, pie fillings, baked apples, candied and 'sweet-sour' vegetables, salads and cinnamon toast.

"For cakes and cookies made with honey, you'll get best results if you use recipes developed especially with honey as an ingredient.

In cakes, honey can replace as much as 1/4 of the sugar without making it necessary to change the proportions of the ingredients in the recipe.

In both cakes and cookies the honey should be mixed thoroughly with other ingredients to prevent a soggy layer from being formed on top. Combine honey with either the shortening or the liquid."

Honey Peanut Butter Custard
1 1/2 cups skim milk
1/2 cup peanut butter
2 eggs
3 tablespoons liquid honey
3/4 teaspoon salt

Add milk gradually to the peanut butter, stirring until smooth. Beat eggs slightly; add honey and salt and stir to mix.

Combine the two mixtures. Pour into a small baking dish. Set in pan of hot water and bake at 325 degrees about 30 minutes, or until custard is set. Makes 4 servings.

House Version Doesn't Provide for Scholarships

College Aid Bill Faces Uncertain Fate in Joint Unit

By JOE HALL.
WASHINGTON (AP)—An uncertain fate in a Senate-House conference committee awaits President Kennedy's college education bill.

The vote came a few hours after the President sent to the Capitol his education message asking for the funds for higher education institutions as well as a broad range of other aids.

ONLY LAW SEEN

Some members of Congress believe that the college bill is the only one likely to become law this year.

The key Senate question was if administration lieutenants could hold the scholarship section in the bill. They did so by a 50-37 margin after a determined fight.

Forty-five Democrats and five Republicans joined to defeat the amendment of Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, to knock out the scholarships. It was supported by 26 Republicans and 11 Democrats.

LACKS SCHOLARSHIPS

The House version of the legislation, however, contains only the $1.5 billion asked by the President for classroom construction. Democratic leaders in that branch ate delegation said they would do everything possible to save the principle of scholarships in the final version.

SENATE MEASURE

As it passed the Senate, the bill contains:

$1.5 billion in loan funds for construction of classrooms, laboratories, and libraries at public and private colleges. This might produce 40,000 new classrooms or other units.

$204 million in four-year scholarships for 212,500 students to be selected by state commissions on the basis of competitions. The maximum amount would be $1,000 a year; the student could attend any college and study the course he chose.

$250 million in matching grants to help in construction of public community junior colleges. Each of these programs would run for five years.

The sponsors pointed out that college enrollments, now totaling about 3,600,000, have been increasing at the rate of 300,000 a year. More than 800,000 U.S. children suffer some form of heart disease.

Foundrymen at Parley to Visit Pontiac Motor

The Pontiac Motor Division is one of several plants that will be open to visiting foundrymen when the International Foundry Congress is held in Detroit May 7-11.

Members of the American Foundrymen's Society will tour engineering laboratories, wood, metal and plastic pattern shops, an engine plant and several manufacturers of castings in Oakland Wayne and Macomb counties.

JFK's London Schooling Changed Ideas

Joe Kennedy May Have Outsmarted Self

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — Former Ambassador to Britain Joseph P. Kennedy, one of the world's most successful fathers, is said to feel that he may have outsmarted himself in sending his second son to the London School of Economics.

The British school which the future U.S. President attended in 1935-36 was controlled by devotees of the Fabian Society, a socialist group founded in England in 1884, and devoted to the gradual spread of socialism by peaceful means.

John Fitzgerald Kennedy was a sensitive, impressionable 18 when he enrolled at the famed school in London.

His homeland was just beginning to emerge from a near-devastating depression, and although his multimillionaire father's personal fortune was not adversely affected, the highly intelligent Boston lad could not have failed to observe the shortcomings of the capitalist system in the '30s.

SURPRISED BY MOVE

Friends who knew the elder Kennedy as a firm believer in the free enterprise system were surprised that he sent his son to an economics school so obviously dominated by socialist thought.

The easy financier and devotee of father reportedly explained: "I wanted Jack to know what those fellows were up to, so he could have the answers for them."

After John F. Kennedy became

TEA FOR TWO — U.S. Attorney General Robert Kennedy tries to drink Japanese green tea as smiling Mrs. Kennedy watches at a reception given by a welcoming committee for the Kennedys' visit at a Tokyo hotel. The Kennedys are in Japan as part of a goodwill tour of the Far East.

President of the United States, his father proudly chuckled that he could scarcely agree less with his son's foreign policy, and that he had ceased to talk about it to spare the inevitable arguments.

The first year of the Kennedy administration was dominated by foreign policy, but most of the congressional battles which loom largest in this session concern vital domestic issues. It is in this category that the convalescent father and son have some truly basic philosophical disagreements over economics.

The most controversial measure to come before Congress this year will be the administration's "mass" bill for medical care for the aged, a proposal which its opponents damn as "a first step toward socialized medicine."

The most important piece of legislation to be considered, however, will be the liberalized trade bill in which JFK seeks the power to negotiate tariff concessions directly with the European Common Market, without congressional okay.

WANTS CHANGE

The Constitution vests this power exclusively with Congress, by granting it the authority to set taxes, duties and tariffs.

The President wants Congress to surrender that power to the executive branch, in the belief that we could then better compete in the world market with the burgeoning Common Market.

The administration admits that many American industries would be seriously hurt by the resulting reduction in tariffs, that unemployment would occur, and that whole sections of our economy would be dislocated.

It suggests that the problem might be dealt with by expanding jobless benefits and federal aid to unemployment; by tax credits for business; and subsidies to some industries to compensate for their loss.

Protective U.S. tariffs have been built up over the years to compensate for the higher wages paid in prosperous America.

Opponents of the President's trade proposal fear that foreign goods produced by cheaply paid European workmen would flood our markets, forcing U.S. industries into bankruptcy and creating havoc in the labor market.

FREE MOVEMENT

Sir Howard Beale, Australian ambassador to the U.S., pointed out recently that in the Common Market "there is to be free movement of workers among member states, and individuals or companies are to be free to establish themselves in the territory of any member state."

That might conceivably work out well between the six member nations of France, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, Italy and West Germany; perhaps even with the addition of Britain.

Given 20 to 50 Years in Fatal Stabbing of Wife

WHITE CLOUD (AP) — Willard Stevens, 19, was sentenced at Stevens County Circuit Court to 20 to 50 years in prison on a charge of second-degree murder in the Christmas night fatal stabbing of his estranged wife Doris, 18.

The killing occurred at the victim's apartment near Fremont and state police say Stevens admitted it followed a quarrel over custody of the couple's infant son.

U.S. Wheat Shipment Arrives in Polish Port

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The first shipment of 23,000 tons of American wheat bought by Poland under provisions of the U.S.-Polish agreement signed last December has arrived at the Baltic port of Gdynia, the Polish press agency reported Tuesday.

The agreement provides for the sale of $44.8 million worth of farm commodities to Poland under the Food for Peace program.

Castro's Ranting Speech Tells Blow to His Prestige

By PHIL NEWSON
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Fidel Castro himself has made public confession of the blow to Communist Cuba's prestige suffered at the Punta del Este conference of American states.

It is probable that the United States would have preferred another time and more favorable circumstances in which to hold the meeting known in advance to be incapable of total agreement on the key issue of Castro's expulsion from the inter-American system.

Nonetheless, as a result of Punta del Este, the Castro regime finds itself isolated as at no time in its three-year history.

And, for the first time, the family of American nations clearly has linked Cuba with the threat of direct and indirect Communist aggression against the American hemisphere.

At Punta del Este, the Cubans had high hopes that the move to expel them from the Organization of American States (OAS) would fail.

Their rage, then, became the greater when it succeeded. Shot Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos.

"We may not be in the OAS, but socialist Cuba will be in the Americas."

He denounced the OAS as "political and military bloc."

Then on Sunday came a typical Castro performance.

Into Havana's Plaza Civica poured hundreds of thousands of workers, many of them transported at government expense from surrounding provinces.

In the square, a burning coffin bore the label "Rest in Peace, OAS."

At Punta del Este, the 13 Latin American nations voting to expel Castro all were geographically hostile. Some already had had experience in stamping out Castro-type uprisings.

But these were only wordy evidences of Castro's wrath and his confession of the blow struck against his prestige.

These, Castro tagged U. S. colonies. For the United States, he had a familiar epithet: Imperialist.

In the end, he said, nothing could prevent the masses of Latin America from rising in revolt.

But these were only wordy evidences of Castro's wrath and his confession of the blow struck against his prestige.

There were other, concrete developments stemming from Punta del Este, and another which bore directly on communism's hemisphere threat.

At Punta del Este, the American foreign ministers learned that Communist bloc nations now may be shipping bombers and short-range rockets to Cuba to add to Castro's $100-million arsenal built with Soviet aid.

It gave additional importance to the Punta del Este conference decision to establish a watchdog committee which would function as a warning system to any American nation threatened by direct or indirect Communist aggression.

In Brazil there were reports that Communist railway unions would strike in protest against OAS action expelling Castro.

In Argentina, heads of the armed services forced from President Arturo Frondizi a promise that he would reverse his "soft" stand on Cuba and join the majority.

In Washington, President Kennedy banned the import of Cuban tobacco worth about $35 million a year. Castro said it would deprive his people of medicine. The United States believed it would cut off dollars which might be used to export revolution.

Asked to Insure U.S. Astronaut

Lloyds of London Gets Request From American Firm on $95,200 Policy

LONDON — Lloyds of London insurance brokers have been asked to insure the life of American astronaut Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., a Lloyds spokesman disclosed Tuesday.

He said the policy, for around 34,000 pounds ($95,200) was taken out with an American insurance company which asked Lloyds underwriters last month to reinsure part of the risk.

The policy covered preparations for Glenn's flight, the flight itself, and the recovery of his space capsule.

The American company was understood to have quoted a rate of 2 1/2 per cent of the value of the policy.

Lloyds underwriters offered a quotation on the reinsurance but it is not known whether the American insurance company has yet placed the business with them.

The beneficiaries of the policy were not known here but the Lloyds spokesman said it was a safe assumption that it was a close relative.

This is the first time Lloyds have been asked to insure a man in space.

Con-Con Publicist, Chuck Ferry, Quits

LANSING — Resignation of Charles (Chuck) Ferry, 35, as a publicist for the constitutional convention was announced Tuesday, effective immediately.

Ferry said he would work on the campaign of Sen. John Stahlin, R-Belding, who is seeking the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor.

Ferry once was the target of Democratic delegates' criticism as being too closely identified with the Republican party.

Civil Service Board Approves Dismissal of Parole Unit Member

DETROIT (U)—The State Civil Service hearing board Tuesday upheld dismissal of John A. MacLellan from the State Parole Board for refusing to resign outside employment.

MacLellan, dismissed last December, is a special counsel to the Michigan Hospital Association (MHA). He formerly served as legislative agent for the group—a position he resigned when appointed to the $12,000-a-year post on the board.

The State Corrections Department said it asked MacLellan to resign as lobbyist and gave tentative approval to his remaining on as special counsel for the MHA.

It was later determined, the department said, that the outside post was not compatible with the parole board position. MacLellan was asked to resign from the MHA post or the board. He did not comply, spokesmen said.

DENIES VIOLATION
MacLellan said he had not violated his agreement with the department, since he had permission to maintain the outside post.

He was not lobbying, he said, and to resign the post would have amounted to a public admission that he had been.

There were no allegations of misconduct in his parole board duties, the department said.

Department officials said they felt MacLellan's outside connections were publicly misunderstood, and conceivably might conflict with "sensitive" areas of his parole board membership.

Proper British Cashier Loses All but Modesty

LONDON (U)—Two robbers held up a travel bureau cashier at busy Victoria Railway Station and relieved him of 6,600 pounds ($13,020)—and his trousers.

The robbers fled in a car while the embarrassed cashier, Geoffrey Drake, 37, stood modestly inside his office shouting for help.

Typhus Hits S. Africa

CAPE TOWN (U)—Health Minister Albert Hofstadter informed parliament Tuesday that typhus has broken out in eight areas in South Africa. So far, nine persons have died. Affected areas are all in Cape Province of the south.

Sentenced for Rifle Shot
MUSKEGON (U)—Ronald Wells, 38, of Route 2 Whitehall was placed on probation for six months and ordered to pay nearly $60 in fines and costs on his municipal court plea of guilty to reckless use of firearms. Wells admitted taking a pot shot Jan. 27 with a nine-millimeter rifle at a passing freight train.

Vote on School Millage
WHITEHALL (U)—School district voters were at the polls Tuesday to decide on a proposed four-mill levy for the Whitehall school system general operating fund. The ballot also carries a proposal to eliminate a token $600 salary for the seven-member school board. A lot of fellows who say what they think don't do enough thinking.

Spend 18 Hours in Car

Family Survives Blizzard

CROOKSTON, Minn. (UPI)—The weather was pleasant and mild when the Art Senke family drove to church Sunday.

It was only a 15-mile drive from their farm. Senke, 58, his wife, and their daughters, Linda, 18, and Gail, 13, didn't bother to take along heavy clothes or an auto robe.

But while the Senkes were in church, a blizzard struck. The snow was piling up, lashed by icy winds, as they started home. They got only nine miles before blowing snow whipped through the grill and killed their motor.

And there the Senkes stayed for 18 frozen hours. Each hour threatened to be their last.

MAKE-SHIFT COVER
First Senke went to the car trunk, hanging onto the car so the wind wouldn't blow him away. He brought back a fabric spare tire cover and some burlap bags.

"I thought we might be able to get to a farm house about 300 yards away but the storm didn't let up and when it got dark I knew we would have to spend the night," Senke said.

"I was afraid my wife and daughters might not make it through the night," he said. "They weren't dressed quite as heavy as I was. I thought we were close to the end of the line."

"I had the girls take their shoes off and put their feet under my coat against my body to keep them from freezing. All we had to put over us was the tire cover and burlap bags. I wrapped newspapers around my wife's and daughters' legs."

"Somehow we made it through the night. By early morning the storm had let up and we were thinking about walking to that farm house, although we were stiff and sore from the cold and it would have been a hard trip through the snow."

"Then a snowplow and a sheriff's car showed up about 6 a.m. and got us out."

Senke's father and brothers, worried when the family didn't return home, had notified the sheriff's office and prompted the rescue trip.

Tuesday the Senkes were all in good conditions with no frost bite, and Linda was back in school. No one even had a cold. "I can't understand how we made it," Senke said.

16 Killed in Attack on Mexican Village

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Sixteen persons were killed in a mass attack by 500 armed men on the remote mountain village of Amatlan, in the southern state of Chiapas, a delayed dispatch to the newspaper Excelsior reported Tuesday.

State authorities were said to be investigating the reports of the attack which took place last weekend. The village, which borders Tabasco state, can be reached only by horseback or afoot.

There was no immediate explanation of the reason for the pitched battle.

S. Viet Nam Train Trip Wilder Than U.S. Early West

(Editor's Note — AP Correspondent Malcolm W. Browne traveled most of the target of Viet Cong Communist guerrillas.)

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE
SAIGON, South Viet Nam — Vietnamese railway workers sometimes compare a full train in South Viet Nam with 19th century travel in the United States, when Indians and bandits attacked trains.

Actually the raids of the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas on the South Viet Nam arterial railroad, which runs for 670 miles from Saigon to the frontier of Communist North Viet Nam, make some of those early-day American attacks look pretty tame.

The Viet Cong slips out of the jungle and leaps up track in sections where trains could plunge over bridges or off cliffs.

Trains are fired on by machine guns in the black mountains through which the line runs on the way down the coast of the China Sea. Casualties are sometimes heavy.

From time to time, the train is forced to stop by Viet Cong bands who check the identity papers of all aboard. Government soldiers aboard are taken away into the hills.

But despite the hazard, trains were packed for the recent lunar New Year holiday. Families squatted on station platforms for hours on the way to spend the holiday with relatives.

They were surrounded by live fowl tied in bundles by the legs, a speed.

So the single train each day running the entire length of the line rarely travels faster than 25 miles an hour. The entire trip takes more than 24 hours.

In the third class carriage, little more luxurious than freight cars, many passengers, especially students returning home, had to sit on the windows' ledges, their feet dangling out.

In the dining car, paper bunting had been hung and good food and wine were available. But the seats were occupied by quiet men and women. Some slept. Others pretended to drink coffee.

NOT IN UNIFORM

Many were soldiers dressed in civilian clothes. Soldiers never travel in uniform on the train for fear of recognition by the Viet Cong.

Whenever the train slowed, most of the first looking soldiers nervously reached for their identity papers, ready to throw them out the windows or hide them.

In three areas, all conversation subsided to a murmur, and travelers took cover on the floor under seats. The areas, each about 30 miles long, are spread along the coast in mountainous regions almost completely controlled by the Communists from 160 to 280 miles from Saigon.

Meaning each area, the train slowed to walking speed, and passengers grimly waited for trouble.

One laughed and said: "But the Viet Cong are Vietnamese too. They wouldn't shoot us."

Another answered: "Don't be too sure."

From time to time, the train slowly passed columns of troops after night fell. Passengers called out greetings and asked about security conditions up ahead.

Near Qui Nhon, a town at which a company of U.S. helicopters is based, heavy fighting in the nearby mountains was reported, but the truck was said to be fairly safe. A few passengers began eating their packaged dinners.

Government forces have so far found it impossible to sweep the Viet Cong out of the mountains of Central Viet Nam, which are almost inaccessible.

As the train moved south on to a coastal plain, many passengers went to sleep, feeling reasonably secure. The next danger zone would not come until dawn.

When the sun rose, most travelers already were awake and fearful of the dangers of the Phan Thiet area, 130 miles east of Saigon. Breakfast was delayed until the train was safely through.

Some 20 miles from Saigon, a holiday mood returned to passengers, and a few said: "We made it."

Arriving at the station, many broke into song and shook hands with railroad officials.

Auto Production Will Be Shaved

Makers to Keep Output in Line With Sales as Inventories Are High

By BEN FLEIGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT — With dealer inventories hovering near the million mark, auto production this month will be held more closely to the sales rate than at any time previously in the 1962 model year.

Until now, factories have regularly been producing at a higher rate than dealers have been selling cars. This is viewed as a necessity by the manufacturers in the early stages of the model year in order to give all dealers an ample assortment of cars. And with the increasing variety of models, even higher inventories have been regarded as reasonable.

Total sales would mark early this month, the first time since last March. On Feb. 1 last year dealers had 1,622,845 cars while sales were at their lowest ebb since 1952.

The daily sales rate, while not extraordinary, is much better than a year ago. Thus, the factories reason, the inventory can climb without becoming a burden.

Ward's Reports predicts a production total this month of 570,000 cars. Other sources suggest this is considerably on the high side unless a sudden surge in sales appears, something not customary in February.

The big sales rise in a normal year appears with the advent of spring, still several months away.

In January the industry turned out 629,000 cars despite a strike which killed Studebaker-Packard the entire month. Last week the total was 139,380, off slightly from 141,689 the previous week. Over-time has been dropped at virtually all plants, indicating weekly totals this month more in the neighborhood of 135,000 units.

Elected to the executive committee were Dr. John Fridmore, Dr. Michael Kozonis, Dr. Robert Lyons, Dr. Donald McCandless and Dr. Donald Smith, all of Pontiac; Oakland County Agricultural Extension Service agent Mary Hardy, County Health-Educator William Harmon and Pontiac School Health Service Coordinator Josephine Seelye.

Allowed to Handle Ancient Scrolls

LONDON (8-A) — A 22-year-old English actress is one of the few people ever allowed to handle part of the famed Dead Sea Scrolls.

It happened during filming of one of 39 episodes of "Journey of a Lifetime," a British TV series in which Anne Lamm plays the wife of a U.N. irrigation expert.

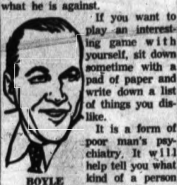

The young couple is depicted discovering the Holy Land and visiting various Biblical scenes in Israel and Jordan.

The dried, brittle roll of parchment, more than 2,000 years old, was placed in Miss Lamm's hands by Yusuf Saad, a director of the Jordanian Archaeological Museum near the city of Jordan.

NEW YORK (AP)—Who are you?

You can tell a person not only by what he is for but also by what he is against.

BOYLE

If the list is too long, maybe you're wishy-washy.

LIST OF 'AGAINST'

Here is an off-hand catalog of things I've found distasteful in my first 50 years of living—things that rile me up, annoy me, or make me wish I were somewhere else:

People who argue religion, or try to sell you their own short cut to God.

Bus drivers who, when you give them a dollar bill, hand you back 20 nickels in change.

Lamb, mutton, Brussels sprouts, peas, and cauliflower.

"SO MUCH IN COMMON"

Housewives who introduce you to another guest with the remark, "You two should get along famously—you have so much in common."

Shipboard costume parties at which fat ladies show up as underdressed Cleopatras with a giant rhinestone on their navel.

Millionaires who tell you disarrangingly, "I'm just a poor little country boy trying to get along."

Middle-aged lovers with a passion for necking in public.

DOG GRIEPES

Chihuahua dogs. German shepherd dogs that growl. Great Dane dogs that want to sit in your lap, and that dogs that aren't all beef.

Military officers who try to put civilians in their place by ostentatiously addressing them as "sir."

Husbands named Smith or Brown who always speak of their wives as "Mrs. Smith" or "Mrs. Brown" instead of "my wife."

Underdone eggs, overdone steak, watercress, spinach, grits, garlic and cold pork gravy.

"POOR COUNTRY BOYS"

Millionaires who tell you disarrangingly, "I'm just a poor little country boy trying to get along."

More effective than a plain green or a plain white capsule?

People who wouldn't donate a dime to feed a starving bum but brag about how much blood they have given to the Red Cross.

Women who automatically think any man who wears a beard is trying to cover up an inferiority complex.

"BRIGHT" CHILDREN

Kindergarten children who can recite or sing 27 television commercials blindfolded—but can't remember the last two lines of "Little Bo Peep."

Skinny neckties, skinny slacks, and junior executives in Ivy League-type suits so tight they look like skin divers.

People whose idea of how to be a winning conversationalist is to ask you cooly, "Now tell me about yourself."

People who hold on to your lapels and start every sentence with either, "Do you know?" or "Do you get me?"

"UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY"

Letters that begin, "As a recognized leader in your community, you have been chosen among a select few for this unusual opportunity."

Women who talk about baseball and politics as if they knew more about them than I do—and it turns out they do.

People at cocktail parties who, after only one martini, want to poll everyone else on the moral issues involved in building a private fallout shelter. Anybody who drinks martini needs any shelter he can crawl to.

People who—

But enough about me. "Now tell me about yourself." What's on your list of favorite dislikes?

'World's Greatest Gate Crasher' to Be Busy Thursday

NEW YORK (AP) — Stan Herman notified his employer that he will be unable to report for duty Thursday.

Stan is going to Washington to attend a nation's picture week premiere with some of President Kennedy's Cabinet members and their wives and friends.

He hasn't really been invited to the top-level shindig—a mere formality that never seems to stand in his way of a good time.

Stan is a 33-year-old Brooklyn bachelor who pushes a cab around Manhattan when he isn't busy flitting around the country crashing parties, baseball games, prize fights, diplomatic receptions and social events.

"I'm the world's greatest gate crasher and I have police, FBI, Secret Service and even Scotland Yard records to prove it," he claims.

Last year the cable managed to end up in the presidential box at the inaugural ball sandwiched between Kennedy's father and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's wife. The President sat only a few seats away.

"I put on my full dress suit, acted as though I was a member of the official gang and before the Secret Service knew what was doing, I was slumped down on a seat right in the middle of Kennedy's family," he recalled.

The presidential gendarmes soon caught on, however, and the impostor was ejected and then questioned thoroughly.

Stan began gate-crashing at the age of 24 when, in pursuit of autographs, he found himself sneaking into all sorts of functions to get first crack at the celebrities.

Soon the autograph seeking he came secondary to the challenge of gate-crashing and Stan was off on an avocation that has taken him across the country several times.

"I get a charge out of rubbing elbows with society folks and big wheels and millionaires just to prove to myself that a humble, little cable can hobnob with the greats," Stan explained.

"Some people save coins or stamps. Some build things in their cellars. Some drink for a hobby. Me, I get my kicks crashing gates," he said. "I have a cultural side that takes me to high society windings and stuff like that."

They show him "rubbing elbows" with governors, movie stars, society leaders and even a president or two.

Several years ago he barged in on a Waldorf-Astoria Hotel ball given in honor of Britain's Queen Elizabeth.

"This was my greatest crash," Stan admits. "I put on a full dress suit, walked around the ball room like I was a head waiter and then walked up to the queen when I got the chance."

"I shoved a piece of paper to her and asked for her autograph," he recalled, "and she took it, said 'right' and handed it to Gov. Harriman who was standing next to her."

Seconds later Stan was being ushered into a side room for another round of interrogation—this time by Scotland Yard men. He was cleared and ordered from the hotel.

Stan was on hand at a San Francisco airport in 1961 when Gen. Douglas MacArthur returned from Japan. A photograph shows him reaching over the shoulders of official greeters and slipping a piece of paper into the general's tunic pocket.

"On the paper I wrote 'MacArthur for President,'" Stan giggled.

A few years ago he went to Augusta, Ga., to join President Eisenhower in a round of golf. He managed to get a few feet from the President and shot a greeting but the foursome teed off without him.

He went to Yankee Stadium often to crash sports events and once jumped in the ring while officials were adding up points to determine who had won a fight between Carmen Basilio and Ray Robinson.

"I held up a sign saying Robinson won, and before I was tossed from the ring, the referee announced the decision," Stan said. "It was Basilio."

In order to accomplish his feats of interloping, Stan spends considerable money on formal and other necessary clothing, travel expenses and loses about $30 of his normal $400 a month salary because of time off the job.

Just last month, Stan crashed his way onto the official platform and stood a few inches away from Richard Hughes who was reciting the oath that made him governor of New Jersey.

MOST AMUSING
But Stan says the most amusing crash of his career came recently when he elbowed his way into the church for actress Lucille Ball's wedding in New York.

"I palmed myself off as a full-dress bodyguard to get into the church," he explained. "Then I saw Miss Ball standing in the back, and I walked over and told her I was an usher."

"She leaned over and said, 'Be sure you check that guest list close. I don't want any crashers in here.'"

Cuban Regulations Tighten Control of Monetary Deals

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government enacted new regulations Tuesday night to give it tighter control over monetary transactions and aid it in "the cardinal task of reaching in a short time the Socialist ordering" of production.

The new law will make cash practically obsolete in transactions between business organizations.

It specifies that most of the few remaining private businesses and all government enterprises shall make "all payments and collections through the agencies of the National Bank."

All business transactions must be accompanied by invoices and official bank transfer forms. Cash payments may be made only after obtaining special permission from the National Bank, Cuba's sole banking institution.

EXEMPTIONS
The new banking law, coupled with recently announced income taxes on gross income without any allowances for deductions, seems sure to strangle most of what is left of private enterprise.

Only the very smallest businesses—and personal checking accounts—were exempted from the regulations.

In other decrees the Council of Ministers headed by President Osvaldo Dorticos and Prime Minister Fidel Castro:

1. Froze prices for "commercial transactions" at their level last Nov. 15.

2. Banned private insurance companies from doing any further business in labor accident and sickness insurance. Such coverage will be taken over by the state.

The government said private insurance companies were inspired by the profit motive and their protection lacked "an authentic economic-social sense."

Report 80 Arrested by Ghana Officials

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — Reliable sources said Tuesday 80 persons have been arrested by the Ghana government since last Thursday. An opposition member of Parliament, Daniel Apedoh, was said to be among those detained.

Group Asks 2nd Chance at Levy for Schools

Walled Lake Citizens Unit Urges 2-Mill Tax Ballot

WALLED LAKE — The Citizens Committee on School Needs, recovering from the defeat of its three proposals last month, has asked the board of education to request additional operating funds in June.

The citizens group has recommended that a two-mill levy for the operation of schools be proposed in the June 11 school board election.

The organization also has asked that the board consider placing before voters in the fall a proposal for a bond issue to be used for the construction of schools. No recommendation as to the amount of the bond issue was made.

The school board will study the committee's proposals at its 8 p.m. meeting Monday.

The millage proposal is identical to the one submitted to voters Jan. 22 and rejected by the narrow margin of four votes. It would have provided the school district with about $140,000 annually for school operations.

OTHERS DEFEATED
Along with the tax question, proposals for a $2.1 million building program and a new $400,000 auditorium were turned down.

The bond issue lost by only 24 votes, but the auditorium plan was defeated by a margin of almost 5 to 1.

A decision on what services will be curtailed because of the defeat of additional operating revenue last month is expected to be made by the board at Monday's meeting. The board announced a week after the election defeat, it would be forced to "make some arrangements for the 1962-63 school year which will be detrimental to present educational standards."

Father's Night at Proper PTA to Be Monday

ORION TOWNSHIP — The Parent-Teacher Association of the Proper Elementary School will sponsor an open house for its "Father's Night" at 7 p.m. Monday, giving parents an opportunity to visit classrooms and see their children's work.

Rev. David Lleschke, pastor of the Goodwin and Western Methodist churches, will speak to the fathers on "Men's Responsibilities in the Home," following the hour-long open house.

The group will observe PTA "Founders Day," and will honor past presidents of the local organization with presentations.

LAPEER (AP) — The 75 mourners John T. Root, 68, died last December are to get $100 each for having been present.

Root, former University of Michigan law professor, made the request "as a slight token of my appreciation for their friendship."

Root died at 53 last Dec. 23 of burns suffered in a fire that destroyed his palatial home at 8 Saginaw St. Most of his half-million dollar estate was left to a trust fund.

Group to Pass Petitions Seeks to Join Utica

UTICA — A group of about 100 Shelby Township residents voted last night to circulate petitions asking for an election date to annex their five-subdivision area to the city.

The meeting last night was called by the Shelby Manor Civic Association Council, which represents most of the homeowners.

The area involved in the proposed annexation extends north from Hall Road to Messmore St. along the city's eastern limits. The 250-300 homes cover an area about three-fourths the size of the city.

According to Robert M. Hirt, council vice-president, the residents seek to solve their water problem through the merger. Hirt said the property owners now get water from shallow wells, many of which have been condemned.

GIVE OTHER REASONS
Other reasons given for the merger were that it would make possible more complete and faster police and fire protection than the township is able to provide and that the drain needs of the community could be solved faster as part of the city.

Residents who spoke against the move contended that they would be forced to give away from the city and that annexation would be a loss.

Calls for Bids on School Jobs

Avondale Board Plans Renovation of Four Elementary Buildings

The Avondale Board of Education has taken a major step toward complying with the state fire marshal's demands for repairs and renovations to school buildings in the district. Superintendent Leroy R. Watt said today.

The board has instructed the administration to ask for bids on renovation of all four of the elementary schools.

Projects outlined were a fire escape and the enclosure of stairways for the second floor at the Niles School, enclosure of stairways and additional basement exit at the Elmwood School, fire partitions and fire doors at the Auburn Heights School and an additional room exit at the Stone School.

Board members were assured by the Birmingham architectural firm of O'Dell, Hewlett and Luckenbach Associates that the planned repairs were approved and meet the requirements of the state fire marshal's office.

Many of the other fire marshal's demands have been completed during the school year, but the items just approved were major in nature, and required architectural drawings and competitive bids, Watt said.

The board decided to dispense with the special meeting of Feb. 9 and will meet again in regular session on March 5 at 8 p.m. in the Avondale Senior High School building.

Four Locals Asking Hoffa Answer Quiz

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four Cincinnati locals which deserted the Teamsters Union last summer asked Tuesday that Teamster President James R. Hoffa be directed to answer questions about his financial relations with a number of trucking firms.

The petition, filed in U. S. District Court here, said this is a key issue in defense against a Teamster suit which demanded that the four locals give up their books to the Teamster-appointed trustee.

The four locals, the Brewery and Soft Drink Drivers, Dairy and Ice Cream Drivers, Taxi and Chauffeurs and Funeral Drivers and Chauffeurs, voted to leave the Teamsters last August.

Hoffa immediately named Teamster Vice President Harold J. Gibbons temporary trustee and Gibbons filed suit in Cincinnati to take possession of the locals' books.

EARLY MORNING LISTENING — One of Milford's most avid amateur radio operators, Dr. Ben Bragg, O.D., likes to spend the early morning hours listening and talking to other "hams" from "way out." This is the time when almost any spot in the world can be heard.

Milford Man Likes Radio

BY RERA HEINTZELMAN.

After a busy day fixing broken bones, stitching up wounds and administering hundreds of antibiotic shots, Dr. Ben Bragg closes his little clinic on General Motors Road and goes next door to relax by "hamming it up" with other amateur radio operators all over the world.

In a small back room of the Bragg home is radio equipment capable of reaching from the North to the South poles and from Russia, New Zealand and Australia to Japan, China and South America.

"Almost every operator in the world speaks the English language, making the ham radio a universal country tie-up," the doctor said.

It uprooted Bragg's big windmill which served as the radio's antenna. Since then the doctor has installed two more antennas and located another old windmill for additional power output.

His modern, single side-band home station runs a full kilowatt of power which has eight times more talk-power than the old type of amplitude modulation. All this adds up to the fact the good doctor can converse with other hams at a greater distance away.

When a vicious tornado ripped through Milford some years ago, it was at a public meeting in the Highland School that Dr. Bragg said, "All right, let's get the ball rolling on this project. All those in favor of the proposition say 'aye' and let's go" and they did!

Today Milford has one of the finest high schools in the country.

Until just recently, the doctor headed minstrel and variety shows for the local Rotary Club. For years, he was Milford's Santa Claus in the annual Christmas parade.

However, a heart attack has slowed down the energetic doctor somewhat, and this is what led to his full-time hobby of ham radio.

Dr. Bragg's car is fully equipped with an Elmac mobile transmitter for relaxed listening when making routine house calls.

Although he likes to "jack back and forth with others, occasionally the doctor claims it's a lot more fun just hearing what the rest of the world has to say."

ABOUT FIVE YEARS AGO, Dr. Bragg—then the Huron Valley School Board president—set the wheels in motion to pass on the bond issue to build the Milford High School and several other elementary schools, residents recall.

Also on the program from the Conservation Department will be Edward M. Ray, superintendent of the Higgins Lake Conservation School; Edward H. Bacon, district fisheries supervisor from Jackson; Russell Patterson, professor of outdoor education at Michigan State University; Ethel Mueger of Walled Lake; and Russ Patterson.

A panel discussion will conclude the program. Panelists will be Alfred Masini, director of the Proud Lake recreation area; Ruth DeCout of Bloomfield Hills; Charles Welsh of Waterford; Dr. Julian Smith, professor of outdoor education at Michigan State University; Ethel Mueger of Walled Lake; and Russ Patterson.

The primary purpose of the workshop is to provide an opportunity for teachers to see and work with natural materials that will help make educational experiences more meaningful.

The workshop, to be conducted from 1:30 to 3 p.m., is being sponsored by the Department of Public Instruction, the Michigan Department of Conservation, and the Huron Valley School System.

Group Created for Village Study

Lake Orion Unit to Look Into Government and Recommend Changes

LAKE ORION — The Village Council has created a nine-member commission to study the present form of village government and come up with recommendations for changing it.

The new commission, whose members will be selected by the council, will be asked to study three forms of village government for a year and then to report its findings and recommendations back to the council.

In addition to pinpointing the problems in the present type of village government, the commission will consider the advisability of putting the village under a home-rule charter with the government run by a village manager and council.

The new group also will check into the possibilities of incorporating the village into a city, run by a mayor and common council.

ADOPTS $100 BUDGET
The Village Council adopted a figure of $100 for the study group's budget. Village President Irvine J. Unger said he wanted to make it clear that the commission would have to be chosen from village voters and could not include anyone connected with the council.

The Chamber of Commerce has completed a study of the village's financial problems using information from the study group. Councilman David Erdlandson said. Their recommendations and findings have proved useful to the council, he added.

The council will draw up the qualifications for members of the study group and then will pick the men.

"This may be the best $100 the council ever invested," said Unger.

A FAMILY DOCTOR
Dr. Bragg is not only a ham radio operator of world fame, but is an old-fashioned type family doctor, avid sportsman and community leader. He was also a licensed airplane pilot at one time.

He added that practically all amateurs in the United States are correlated with the civil defense programs and have auxiliary power supplies for communication in case of disaster.

It was at a public meeting in the Highland School that Dr. Bragg said, "All right, let's get the ball rolling on this project. All those in favor of the proposition say 'aye' and let's go" and they did!

Meyer-McVean Vows Told Couple Weds in City

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — The altar of Bethany Baptist Church, Pontiac, was backed with bundles of white gladiolus and palms for the wedding Saturday evening of Karen Joan McVean and Donald E. Meyer. Dr. Emil Kontz performed the candlelight ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. McVean, of 2336 Pontiac Road. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. D. Blair Meyer of East Lansing.

A floor length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle which swept back into a chapel train was chosen by the bride for her wedding. The bodice which featured a high Sabrina neckline, and the ruffles of the skirt were etched with sequins.

Her lace trimmed veil was held in place by a double crown of crystals and pearls. The carriage was a cascade arrangement of white carnations and butterfly roses, streamers of alphonsias and lovers' knots centered with a cascade of red sweetheart roses.

ATTEND THE BRIDE
Attending the bride as matron of honor was her aunt, Mrs. Raymond Willis of Pontiac. Bridemaid was Mrs. Donald Conon of Imlay City, cousin of the bride; Jean Meyer of Lansing, sister of the bridegroom; and Dolores Cloutier and Mary Currah, both of Pontiac.

Mary Jo Weaver of Lake Orion was flower girl with Gary Smith of Pontiac serving as ring bearer.

The groom's brother-in-law, Robert Achteberg of East Lansing, assisted him as best man. The 300 guests were seated by Raymond Willis of Pontiac, uncle of the bride; Walter E. Greene, also of Pontiac; Hugh Hillerink of Pontiac.

RECEPTION
The reception was held in the church parlors immediately following the nuptials. Upon their return from a brief honeymoon in the South, the newlyweds will live in Lake Orion.

SCHOOL UNIT OKs 4 Appointments
Rochester Board Gives Approval Naming of 3 to Junior High Posts

ROCHESTER — Three administrative appointments on the junior high school level in the district have been approved by the Rochester Board of Education.

New principal of West Junior High School, now under construction, will be Frank Richardson, 36, present principal of Central Junior High. His assistant principal will be Harold Hetherly, 37, now a civics teacher and counselor at Central.

All appointments become effective July 1.

Another appointment approved by the board was that of George Stringer, 48, the post of coordinator and director of counseling for all secondary schools. He has been in the counseling department at the high school for about 17 years.

Olson has been a teacher and counselor in the local school system for eight years. He has taught science in both the junior and senior high schools.

Married and the father of four children, Olson lives at 327 Maywood Road.

To Offer Course in Rochester on Cake Decoration

SCHOOL UNIT OKs 4 Appointments
Rochester Board Gives Approval Naming of 3 to Junior High Posts

ROCHESTER — Three administrative appointments on the junior high school level in the district have been approved by the Rochester Board of Education.

Richard Olson, 37, a member of the counseling staff in the senior high school, has been appointed principal of Central Junior High School.

All appointments become effective July 1.

Another appointment approved by the board was that of George Stringer, 48, the post of coordinator and director of counseling for all secondary schools. He has been in the counseling department at the high school for about 17 years.

Olson has been a teacher and counselor in the local school system for eight years. He has taught science in both the junior and senior high schools.

Business Success Doesn't "Just Happen"

There is no "short cut" to personal and financial success. Leading businessmen throughout the world attribute their success to opportunities gained through the knowledge of bookkeeping office machines, business law, math, English and related business training.

Successful secretaries, who enjoy highest incomes with the best working conditions, are quick to point out that "half-training" is not enough. Only those who are well trained can command the better positions.

We should like to tell you about our program. There is no obligation to you.

Bobo Rockefeller Is Engaged to Hotel Man

NEW YORK (AP) — Barbara (Bobo) Rockefeller today announced her engagement to hotelman Charles W. Mapes Jr. with the laughing quip: "I hope the engagement doesn't last as long as the thinking period."

Bobo, 45, divorced wife of Winthrop Rockefeller, said she met Mapes in 1954 and "we bought the engagement ring and put it in a safe deposit box."

"Now we've taken it out," she said at the El Morocco night club where she and Mapes were celebrating.

Bobo emphasized that no date had been set. First word of the engagement came from Walter Ramage, manager of the Mapes Hotel in Reno, Nev., who said Mapes had called him last night telling of the engagement.

Ramage said the couple probably would be married in a few days and would live in Reno. Mapes, 43, is the son of a pioneer Nevada cattle baron.

Ferndale Attorney Heads Legal Aid Unit

Ferndale attorney William R. Beasley has been elected president of the Oakland County Legal Aid Society. He succeeds Carl F. Ingraham, Birmingham attorney and first president of the society.

Other officers elected by the 15-member board of directors include Philip Pratt, Pontiac, vice president; Mrs. Sidney Smith, Birmingham, associated with the Junior League of Birmingham, one of the society's sponsors; and Franklin C. Fieker, Birmingham, executive with the Ethel Corp.

Beasley, 43, of 330 W. Drayton St., was president of the Oakland County Bar Association in 1957-58. He was elected president of the society for a one-year term.

The society is the administrative governing body over the Pontiac office of the society which offers legal advice to those persons who otherwise cannot afford an attorney.

Science Vs. 'Natural Health'

Battle Swells Over Insecticides

By PHYLIS BAYTELLE

NEW YORK — "I taught communism back in 1937 when I was thought to be a fanatic," said Gloria Swanson. "I screamed and yelled then, and I'm screaming and yelling now."

"What I'm angry about now are our antiquated food laws. Americans are eating some foods that if you gave them to a dog would save him with fits."

"We're sick because we're eating dead food, covered with insecticides. The cattle are sick too, because the soil is sick, from synthetic fertilizers. It's all so ghastly, but why don't I just shut my mouth? You won't print any of this anyway."

Miss Swanson is one of the more eloquent captains in the growing army of Americans who are concerned and outspoken about modern agricultural methods which give us bigger, better-looking food products through the use of chemicals.

There is a great fear, particularly on the health-conscious West Coast, for natural organic foods from farms which use "old-fashioned" techniques and refuse to employ chemicals on their crops, poultry or cattle.

Speaking for the defense, an agricultural chemist from American Cyanamid named Dr. Robert H. White-Stevens says that "the insect is man's greatest enemy" and by far his most formidable foe. "The bomb doesn't approach the bug in potential danger to life and health."

He claims, and other scientists concur, that the current U.S. pest control programs have increased our national food supply by an amount sufficient to feed 10 million people.

Without these programs, there would be no worm-free apples, peaches or corn on the market; potatoes would be virtually nonexistent, and other foods could be grown in only one-tenth the quantity they are now produced.

If THAT is not enough to tone down the outraged antipesticide people, Dr. White-Stevens adds, "and proof on the resulting foods probably would increase 10-fold."

Not only that, Miss Swanson: "The mosquito, the fly, the house, the flea, and a host of other creatures would once again convey the almost forgotten scourges of plague, yellow fever, malaria, sleeping sickness, typhus, to name but a few, into an undernourished population and hurt it back into the misery and debilitated existence from which science has emancipated man."

"MORE ADVANCED" It's difficult for man to conceive why the bug — so tiny and seemingly fragile — should be "incredibly powerful than man himself."

But the fact is that, biologically speaking, insects are vastly superior to even the most herculean human specimen. "They have four major and significant advantages over us:

"Their skeletons are on the outside, in most species, providing protection for virtually all their soft body parts. This gives them prodigious strength and stamina in carrying loads, climbing, jumping and other athletic feats."

"They have six legs, and can lose one or even two and still retain remarkable mobility."

"Their ability to reproduce is unbelievable — virtually any species of insect surmises man by a million to a billion to one."

"And a final big advantage is that insects have instinct rather than intelligence," claims the scientist. "They are, in fact, born educated from the standpoint of racial preservation. Each little bug knows exactly what to do in life and how to do it and asks no questions."

"This is a great advantage over man — if only because the bug is free of psychiatric problems."

Dr. White-Stevens final observation was that the bug preceded man. They were here on earth at least 40-million years before Adam and Eve fooled around with that undoubtedly better apple.

After hearing all the arguments, I'm inclined to pitch in on Miss Swanson's side. Not because I'm worried about the natural health, but because I'm worried about the bug. Like the American Indian, he deserves a better shake.

Bullock Strikes, Made Member of Meat Union

By The Associated Press
George, a saddled bullock at Melbourne Abattoirs in Australia, has been acting as decoy for 16 years and has led many thousands of fellow cattle to their death.

Recently, George decided he wouldn't do it any more. He refused to lead the way to the slaughter pens.

The management considered turning George into sausages, but the meat industry employees union saved him. They saw that if he would be put out to graze and made him an honorary member of the union.

Said a union official: "We appreciate his belated militant action in striking."

Meat in Chinese Dish Is Cut Into Bite-Size Pieces

Customs the world over vary—in dress, manners, home decoration and very definitely in food preparation. For instance, an authentic Italian tomato sauce is never thickened with flour. It is cooked down to the right proportion of tomato solids to liquid or thickened by adding tomato paste.

Chinese sauces are limited in quantity to just enough to hold the ingredients together, are thickened with corn starch and are, therefore, transparent. Chinese main courses do not consist of separate items but combine meat or fish or poultry in the proportion of about one part of these to two parts of vegetables. And the use of a knife and fork is considered uncivilized—the food is carefully and artistically cut into bite-size portions before cooking. It's sometimes sliced diagonally—sometimes diced.

In this recipe for Beef Oriental, we have used small pieces of chopped beef, combined with string beans, which might be quick-frozen French-style string beans. Serve with hot cooked rice.

Beef Oriental

2 tablespoons cooking oil
 1/4 cup sliced onion
 1 small clove garlic, minced
 1 teaspoon kitchen bouquet
 1/2 lb. chopped beef
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 2 cups water
 1 cube beef bouillon
 1/2 lb. green beans
 1 can (3 oz.) chopped broiled mushrooms
 2 tablespoons cornstarch
 3 tablespoons sherry (optional)
 1 1/2 cups packaged, pre-cooked rice.

Place oil in skillet over moderate heat. Add onion and garlic and cook about 2 minutes. Stir in kitchen bouquet. Add meat, pulled into small pieces. Cook, stirring frequently, until meat is lightly browned.

Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add water and bouillon cube. Bring to a boil. Add green beans, cut diagonally in 1 inch lengths. Drain and add mushrooms, reserving broth.

Combine cornstarch with mushroom broth and stir into meat and mixture, then cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens. Stir in sherry and serve immediately over hot rice, which has been cooked according to package directions. Makes 4 servings.

Winter No Bar to Social With Barbecued Chicken

Want to enjoy a full evening at the fireplace with family and friends? Try a "barbecue social." A grill can be placed in the fireplace, or the grate can be mounted with a cooking rack and filled with wood charcoal briquets. The host barbecues chicken to order.

Each guest brings a contribution of salad, rolls, relishes or desserts to be set up on a serving table near the hearth. After the meal, it's pleasant to replenish the briquets to make coffee or cocoa, and linger around the cozy fire for talk or story telling.

For Invalids

The short, tender muscle fibers in fish render it easy to digest. For this reason fish may be used to advantage in the diet of the invalid who can tolerate solid foods. Raw oysters are used more than any other because of their digestibility and flavor.

Ever add ripe olives to that to-diced pitted olives. Nice when with a fork to break up—and add a quick lunch or supper dish. Each to His Own Ability

Physical Fitness Takes Time and Effort

By LESLIE J. NASON, E.D.D.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California

To attain the physical fitness goal set for youth by President Kennedy, it's going to be necessary for parents and teachers as well as young people to take action.

You don't have to be a tower of strength to win success in modern society but health certainly is an advantage. And health depends to a considerable extent, of course, on over-all fitness.

Physical fitness can't be attained by passing a wall. We already have compulsory physical education classes, but our children are still too often out of shape.

It is easy to achieve in the modern city where there are few trees to climb, or streams and trails to follow.

So other ways must be sought. Here are some guiding principles discovered by physical therapists and physical education teachers:

4-POINT PROGRAM

1. Strength is developed by working against resistance. Repetition alone will not necessarily develop muscles — otherwise a typist's hands would be as large as a truckman's. But running hard, doing standard exercises until you are tired, or pushing or pulling objects that don't push or pull easily will make a difference.

2. Coordination is achieved by striving consciously for it during a repeated activity. To gain coordination in swimming, diving, golf or throwing a ball you must concentrate on the proper form.

3. Speed and endurance will be developed more easily after muscles have been established and trained.

4. For best results, each child must have confidence in his ability to improve and be interested in his own physical development. If you can show him and encourage him effectively, the problem will be solved.

But let me sound one cautionary note. Parents and teachers should watch closely for such things as defective vision or a serious lack of muscular coordination. In such cases you may need to consult an optician or physical therapist. Also, an overweight child has a serious problem to overcome.

Each student paced his activity according to his own strength. Each kept a record of his own progress. The enthusiasm of the students and the gains in strength and coordination in comparison to groups given the usual physical education course left no doubt as to the value of this individualized approach.

Although the problem of physical fitness is individual, enthusiasm is better developed and maintained when several individuals work on physical fitness simultaneously. Schools can be ideal for that.

A high school instructor in Whittier, Calif., put each student in a class of 50 to work on his own problem of acquiring strength and coordination. Each used various equipment including weights designed to develop strength through overcoming resistance.

Each student paced his activity according to his own strength. Each kept a record of his own progress. The enthusiasm of the students and the gains in strength and coordination in comparison to groups given the usual physical education course left no doubt as to the value of this individualized approach.

Although the problem of physical fitness is individual, enthusiasm is better developed and maintained when several individuals work on physical fitness simultaneously. Schools can be ideal for that.

To correct the situation the teacher had each child try to climb the jungle gym. She also had them practice other things like catching and hitting balls.

By the end of the school year every child could do the exercises and every child was chosen for the games. There was not a single inmate one left in the group.

Warners Spends $5.5 Million for 'My Fair Lady'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After nearly five months of negotiation, Warner Bros. has bought the screen rights to the Broadway musical "My Fair Lady." It cost the studio a record $5.5 million.

The transaction was made public Tuesday in a joint announcement by Jack L. Warner, studio president, and William S. Paley, chairman of the board of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

MAJORITY OWNERS

CBS is the majority owner of the Alan Jay Lerner-Fredrick Loewe musical, based on George Bernard Shaw's play "Pygmalion."

Warner Bros. also agreed to pay 47 1/2 per cent of the film's gross over $20 million and five per cent of the distributors' gross to Shaw's estate.

Industry said the previous record price for movie rights to a play was the $2.7-million that 20th Century-Fox paid for "South Pacific."

Nine states supply 50 per cent of the nation's nurses.

Dominicans to Stop Strikes, Mob Action

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The ruling state council announced Tuesday it will take action to stop a wave of strikes and the widespread seizure of property by mobs.

Calling strikes antipatriotic, the council said in a statement the government will step in and operate companies or utilities where strikes affect public services or harm the national interest.

In other strikes, it said, it will watch closely to see that both workers and management observe the law.

Reiterating its intention to prevent the destruction or seizure of public or private property, it said "the right of property is sacred" and law will be enforced.

Long-Time AP Man Dies

OCEAN CITY, N.J. (AP) — Herold W. Egan, 67, who worked for The Associated Press in New York City and Philadelphia for 16 years before retiring in 1938, died Tuesday, apparently of a heart attack. Before joining the AP he worked for the Chicago Tribune in Paris for 12 years.

Winter Deer Yard Field Tips Set

Start Feb. 18
at Harrison

Shape of Deer Ranges
Main Objective; Three Other Surveys

A series of guided deer yard tours will be held in February and March in the northern Lower Peninsula by the Conservation Department to acquaint the public with wintering conditions for whitetails.

Patterned after last year's tours, the upcoming field trips will be held out to show the shape of the winter deer range and, where possible, whitetail activity. None of the tours will be directed at counting deer, either dead or alive.

Dates and starting points for these field trips are Feb. 18, Harrison field office; Feb. 25, Atlanta field office, Marquette and Mio district headquarters; March 18, Mio, Gladwin and Baldwin district headquarters; and March 25, Gaylord district headquarters and Kalkaska field office.

Each tour will begin at 10:30 a.m. and is expected to last from three to four hours.

No reservations are necessary for the public tours. Transportation will be left to each person or his party. Any group wanting to take a special trip on a date other than mentioned should contact the district game supervisor for the area in which it is interested.

District game supervisors heading up the field trips will point out natural food supplies available to deer during the winter, singling out tree species which bear carry deer through this season, those which provide second-choice food, and those which are known as "stuffer" or "starvation" foods.

Copies of a department deer-feeding folder will be handed out to people in the touring groups to help them identify these different types of browse.

Game men will also show "browse lines" and explain how these signs of food shortages will affect the deer-range picture in future winters.

Florida Meeting Set

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI)—The Outdoor Writers Association of America will hold its annual convention at Sarasota, June 5-8, the State Department Commission said yesterday.

Canadian Conservation Official Speaks

Women Could Help

By DON VOGEL

A Canadian visitor said last weekend that he would "like to see more women interested in the conservation movement."

Phil Rhymas, operations director of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests told members of the Michigan Outdoor Writers Association:

"This would give women a better understanding of why their husbands attend sportsmen's club meetings, and also, many may become interested in club work."

"The new knowledge would probably make it easier for the husband when he wanted to go hunting or fishing with 'the boys'."

Rhymas said he felt conservation education was the big need in both Canada and the United States.

"Women can play a vital role in the conservation education program," he asserted. "They can work with youth groups, not just youth groups involved in outdoor activities, but all young people's organizations."

"Outstanding contributions toward a better understanding of conservation by young people have been made by women in Canada. And I know the same would be true in the United States."

"Women also seem to work a little better with youngsters," he commented.

NO INDICATION

In answer to a question, Rhymas reported nonresident hunting and fishing licenses in Ontario have increased the last few years, but no big jump has been noted for any one year.

The question was asked in hopes of possibly attributing the decline in license sales in Michigan, and other states bordering Canada, to sportsmen heading across the border instead of hunting and fishing in their home states.

The general feeling among writers attending the Higgins Lake meeting was that other reasons far more important would have to be uncovered.

WINTER WORK

Conservation Department field men are keeping their fingers crossed over the heavy snowfall in Northern Michigan. One officer who wished to remain anonymous, said he felt 40,000 whitetails would perish before the heavy snow in the Grayling area has caused deer to yard in small range areas. While much of the snow melted in Southern Michigan Sunday, the one to three feet in the central Lower Peninsula hardly softened.

BOAT ELECTIONS

Officers were elected at the 45th annual meeting of the Bloomfield Open Hunt.

John C. Emery Jr. is the new president. Don O'Madigan Jr. is re-elected vice president; Stanley M. Humphrey, re-elected treasurer; R. L. Kohlmeier, elected secretary.

New board members include Edward J. Cram, Colin John and Robert S. Wilbers. O'Madigan was re-elected. Other members of the board are M. B. Andrews, Ernest A. Jones, Walter C. Johnson, A. H. Macdonald and Ed Smith.

The Bass Trophy for the outstanding single day's angling was won by John L. Wood, Prince Anne, Va., for whipping and releasing seven fish in one day on 20-pound test line. The trophy is presented by Phyllis and George Bass of Birmingham.

Auto Archers Pulling Away at Watford

Auto Electric shot out Lake Land Pharmacy, 60, to take a five-minute lead after three weeks of action in the Watford Community Recreation Department's winter archery league at the CAI Building.

The pacemakers, in upping their season record to 17-3, were led by father-and-son Ed and Ron Shaw and Jim Flak. Ed posted the league's best men's treble score for the second straight week (240) while son Ron hit the top juniors score with 187. Flak was the best in men's ineffective with 229.

The Tomahawks held on to the runner-up spot (124) with a 5-1 victory over the Chiefs; Dreyton Deuss beat Watford Post & Supply, 5-1; and the Five Feathers bested the Straight Arrows, 4-1 to 14, the Feather's Dorey Bentley leading the top women's in effective score of the night—74.

Department Nurseries Start Pine Tree Sale

Approximately 9,000,000 of the Conservation Department's young pine trees are now on sale to private landowners as reforestation planting stock for this spring.

Available from the department's nurseries are red and white pine seedlings and transplants, white spruce transplants, Austrian pine, jack pine seedlings, and Norway spruce transplants.

Red pine, the most productive species in Northern Michigan makes up about two-thirds of the stock being offered.

CANADIAN RABBIT HUNT — Five Pontiac hunters dined snowed out to hunt jack rabbits near Stratford, Ont., last weekend. They are (left to right) Jerry Woolver, Frank Slaybaugh, John Elkins, Mack White and John Ridgway, former mayor of Pontiac.

The shooting was done on three to four feet of snow behind small bushes that were light enough to stay on the crust. Stakes big jacks were bagged. Ridgway's brother-in-law, Groden Krug, was the host.

ICEY SCENE — Icicles reach from the roof to the ground on the administration building at the Conservation Department's training school on Higgins Lake. All buildings on the grounds had the same decoration.

Progress Being Made on Conservation Camps

LANING (AP) — After several abortive starts, plans for a system of youth conservation camps in Michigan appear to be making real headway this year.

Gov. Swainson gave the program a shot in the arm in a special message to the legislature on juvenile delinquency and unemployment among the state's young people.

The next day, Rep. Harry A. DeMaas, R-Battle Creek, who has been promoting the idea for several years, joined 27 other house members, Republicans and Democrats, on a bill to get the program rolling.

Then Rep. Arnell Engstrom, R-Traverse City, chairman of the powerful house ways and means committee, indicated that house budgetmakers probably would look kindly on the proposal this year.

"Of course, we're not going to go for the $2 million dollar appropriation that the bill calls for," Engstrom said, "but I think we might do something this year to get the program started."

SEMI-TOO COO

The camps would be a throwback to the old Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) of the 1930's when the Roosevelt administration set up a nationwide system of camps to put young men of the depression era to work.

Michigan's system would offer a six-month training program for jobless youths 17 to 20 years old who are no longer attending school. They would work not only on conservation projects supported by the State Conservation Department but also receive classroom instruction and vocational training as well.

The idea is not merely to keep them occupied and out of trouble but to prepare them for a job when they leave the camp. Each would get $60 a month plus board and room.

A separate phase of the Delmar program, also endorsed by the governor, calls for establishment of a separate detention camp for wayward youths whose violations do not require confinement at boys' training school or Jonia reformitory. They would work chiefly on conservation projects — flood control, reforestation and the like.

Expedition Feb. 25

The annual Oakland County Ice Fishing Expedition will be Feb. 25 on Lake Oakland.

Chief Pontiac Post of the American Legion, located on the shore of the lake, is sponsoring the all-day program.

Hilbert Heads Conservation Committee Freshman Senator in Key Post

LANING (AP) — The child is the father of the man, so the saying goes, and Fred Hilbert's boyhood passion for the out-of-doors has carried into his adult years.

Today, Sen. Frederick Hilbert, Republican from Wayland, is the chairman of the state senate conservation committee and, as such, plays a leading role in the enactment of every conservation bill that comes before the legislature.

Hilbert, a freshman lawmaker, stepped last month into the shoes of the late Sen. Charles T. Prescott, who held the post for most of his 12 years in the senate.

His counter part in the house still is Rep. Hans C. Rasmussen, R-Dixington, now beginning his fourth year as conservation committee chairman.

State conservation authorities and Michigan United Conservation Clubs officials are pleased with Hilbert's appointment. MUCC leaders, in fact, campaigned for him, knowing from experience that his outlook on conservation matters generally runs along the same channels as policies adopted by their organization.

WON'T RUBBER-STAMP

"I have great respect for the men in the State Conservation Department, but that doesn't mean that I'm going to rubber-stamp every one of their proposals that comes over here," said Hilbert.

"I'm going to make them prove the need for every one of them. And I'm also of the opinion that they are over-stuffed at the administrative level."

LIKES CAMPING

"In more recent years, my main interest has been in camping in our state and national parks," he said.

Almost annually, Hilbert, his wife, Laverne and his four sons, Mike, Kenneth, John and Scott, hike the family trailer to the car and set out on a camping trip.

"I guess we've visited about every state park in Michigan at one time or another and a good many of our national parks as well," he said. "I've come to the conclusion that it's vitally important to provide an adequate public park system and to preserve our natural wonders for future generations to enjoy."

Hilbert, longtime member of the Wayland Rod and Gun Club, was a leader in MUCC activities for a number of years and at one time was chairman of its inland fish committee.

"I regard my appointment as chairman of the senate conservation committee as the greatest opportunity I've ever had in a field where I've always sought opportunity," he said.

State Sailor Wins Close Thistle Race

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Skip Boston of Mount Carmel made a last second maneuver and took the first heat by four feet in the 8th annual National Winter Thistle Sailing championships yesterday.

A stiff northeasterly wind accompanied a cold front moving across Tampa Bay resulted in victory for Boston, son of a sail maker, but sank six of the 40 starting sailboats and damaged several others.

Boston, 25, appeared to be on a collision course with Jim Miller of Cleveland, Ohio, when he dodged his spinnaker, sailed behind Miller and caught a stiff puff of wind to cross the line a few feet in front of the Ohio entrant.

Bruce Goldsmith of Racine, Wis., former national champion, was a third. He formerly lived in Ad-

While "Mo" Moore is dazzling the bowling world as national sparemaster, Pontiac area establishments keep coming up with outstanding youngsters who may go on to great heights themselves some day if they work as hard as the game as he has.

Several good boys and a few girls have been mentioned in this column in the past as top future prospects. Most of the area houses have sound programs for the teen-agers.

The latest standout who comes to mind is John Casper, a 15-year-old junior at Pontiac Central. He rolled a big 710 actual in the Huron "A" League the other night on games of 100-250-250, pacing the Super Chicks to season highs of 2,964 and 1,027. There were 22 other loop 200s.

He was on the champion team in the 1st half and had high individual scores of 233-265 in Mike Anderson's PCH loop at West Side.

Casper also took part in the Montclair Junior League. For the three o'clock game, he carried a fine 175 average.

Jack Chambers, already a member of the Pontiac 700 Chapter and a steady performer, and B-11 Crawford are the other central stars.

Chambers, the 1st of his girls, averaged 185-185 on the top unit were Don Blocker and Dick Starnes.

Dick Addison, 14, of Royal Oak, rolled 687 featuring 227 in Bowler's specialty.

Officials at 300 Bowl working on plans for Captain-Spaulson tournament Feb. 24. Deadline for entries is week before. Several trophies will be up for grabs and entry fee will include dinner for two. Other area meets going along well.

Miss Mulholland of Gary, Ind., won 100 silver dollars at 225-245 in the 1st half of the 2nd half and is averaging 218. Big night was 267-268-279. Crawford had 223-60.

Stephanie Bennett teamed with Casper to pace the 1st half of the 2nd half. She rolled 185-185 on the top unit were Don Blocker and Dick Starnes.

Duke Ambushed, 71-55, by 'Spoiler' Wolfpack

By The Associated Press

North Carolina State, a one-time basketball power in the Atlantic Coast Conference, suffered its first defeat in the role of "spoiler" today after losing nationally rated Duke for the second time this season.

Couch Everett's Wolfpack, despite a 10-1 record, was held to a 71-55 loss, a schedule reversal because of last year's fix scandal, temporarily dashed the five-ranked Blue Devils' hopes of a 20-0 record Tuesday night, posting a 71-55 upset victory.

The loss gave Duke a 7-2 ACC record and 143 overall. The Blue Devils lead Wake Forest by a half game. The Wolfpack moved into championship contention, climbing past North Carolina into third place with a 6-3 slate.

North Carolina, which had bowed to Duke Saturday, was stunned by underdog Maryland 79-60. The setback dropped the Tar Heels into fourth with a 5-3 mark.

Duke's reversal came with its high-scoring junior, Art Heyman, on the sidelines with a sprained ankle. Heyman played only in the first meeting between the teams at Durham, a month ago, and N.C. State squeaked past the Blue Devils 61-60.

Heyman injured the ankle near a week ago against South Carolina and his foot was placed in a cast. The cast was removed Saturday night and the Duke dandy was held to nine points—his lowest output of the season—in the Blue Devils' 79-57 thumping of North Carolina. The cast went back on again after the game. Coach Vic Buback and team doctor Jerry Heyman was not fit to play against State Tuesday night.

N.C. State, which had four men in double scoring figures, led at the end and increased its margin to 20 points after the intermission. Russ Marvel headed the Wolfpack scoring, parading with 22 points and Ken Rollins added 18. Jeff Mullins' 13 points were eighth for Duke.

Ted Marshall, an unheralded star, supplied the impetus in Maryland's conquest of favored North Carolina. Marshall, who entered the game with a 2.7 scoring average, clicked for 18 points in a 45-minute span in the first half.

Marshall's first basket broke a 13-11 tie and the 6-7 senior reserve range for the Tar Heels' national experience. Stanley 14 points as Maryland opened up played last season with Detroit's Decatur and Duluth farm clubs in the deep minors.

Several other Tigers—Don Most, Terry Fox and Bill Freshman—are expected to report during the early camp.

The Tigers' camp will open Feb. 24 with pitchers and catchers reporting. Four days later the full squad will be on hand.

Texas A&M moved into a tie for first place with Texas Tech by thrashing Rice 63-71, while the Longhorns' 63-55 victory over Arkansas 79-60.

Texas Tech and Texas A&M are tied for the lead with 5-5 records, each. Rice and SMU share the runner-up spot at 4-3 and Texas is 3-3.

TCU, on the 24, overcame a 17-point deficit against Texas Tech. Phil Reynolds' basket at the buzzer, giving him 30 points, was the game-winner. Roy White netted 30 points as Baylor won its first league game after six losses at the expense of Arkansas, Nov. 24.

All states led at the quarter 35-4, at the half 71-11, and at the third quarter 119-15.

John Tobin led the winners with 45 points. Andy Horvath scored 25 and Brian O'Leary 23.

The national high school scoring record is believed in the 1960s.

Badminton Champ Lary Signs Pact

DETROIT (AP)—Imagine the giggles when Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris and the other New York Yankees Frank Lary took with such disrespect have this:

The Detroit Tigers' ace right hander has become a badminton champion this winter in Alabama.

Lary, previously a stubborn skeptic about badminton, has been playing since he was a five-year-old.

Hank Angrier, meanwhile, announced his candidacy for a starting pitcher's job. The southpaw reliever hasn't started a game since 1959.

"I hear there's an opening and I want to be a starter," said the left-hander. "I'm leaving here for Florida Friday."

Angrier, who had a 4-4 record exclusively in relief last season, will join a few players on the Detroit roster and a thick of minor leaguers at the early camp.

Among those listed officially as Tigers at today's opening of the Tigertron camp are Don Most, Johnny Soto and Mickey Stanley.

Only Wertz, third baseman who reported early to learn second hand and shortstop, is given a good chance of sticking with Detroit this season. He was the American Association's batting champion with a .338 average for Denver last year.

Seale, a pitcher up from Birmingham, and Stanley, a 19-year-old outfielder from Grand Rapids, probably will be farmed out for additional experience.

Only Wertz, third baseman who reported early to learn second hand and shortstop, is given a good chance of sticking with Detroit this season. He was the American Association's batting champion with a .338 average for Denver last year.

Seale, a pitcher up from Birmingham, and Stanley, a 19-year-old outfielder from Grand Rapids, probably will be farmed out for additional experience.

Several other Tigers—Don Most, Terry Fox and Bill Freshman—are expected to report during the early camp.

The Tigers' camp will open Feb. 24 with pitchers and catchers reporting. Four days later the full squad will be on hand.

Texas A&M moved into a tie for first place with Texas Tech by thrashing Rice 63-71, while the Longhorns' 63-55 victory over Arkansas 79-60.

Texas Tech and Texas A&M are tied for the lead with 5-5 records, each. Rice and SMU share the runner-up spot at 4-3 and Texas is 3-3.

TCU, on the 24, overcame a 17-point deficit against Texas Tech. Phil Reynolds' basket at the buzzer, giving him 30 points, was the game-winner. Roy White netted 30 points as Baylor won its first league game after six losses at the expense of Arkansas, Nov. 24.

Couple Sues City and Railroad for $5,000 Damages

A Birmingham couple is suing the City of Pontiac and Grand Trunk Western Railroad for $5,000.

The suit has been filed in Oakland County Circuit Court by Andrew E. and Ellen Foster of 680 Viewwood St. The Fosters are suing for damages to their car and injuries to their son allegedly suffered in an accident at a railroad crossing on Rapid Street last March.

In the suit they charge that improper grading caused the undercarriage of the car, driven by the son, to catch on a track, damaging the auto and throwing the son against the windshield.

6,435 Seized for Revolt

BEDRUT (UPI)—Lombard Justice Minister Paul Bourdieu said Tuesday that 6,435 arrests have been made in the abortive and government revolt of Dec. 31. Suspects still detained total 2,437.

AP Photo—The French liner Ville de Bône, docked at a pier in Algiers, was the scene of a violent riot Tuesday.

SHAKEN BY EXPLOSION—An explosion aboard the 6,541-ton French liner steamship Ville de Bône, in Algiers, killed at least four persons as the European secret army reacted violently to President De Gaulle's promise of Algerian peace.

The blast occurred as the vessel, which has a capacity of 1,000 passengers, was about to leave its dock at Bône with a company of riot police being returned to France. A bomb apparently had been hidden in a car loaded on the ship.

ALGERIA (AP)—The Secret Army Organization promised to resist the French government's attempt to impose a settlement on the Algerian people.

The resistance of patriots in Algeria will be intensified and progressive mobilization of all Algerians will be accelerated, the underground organization of Algerians said.

"The fight will continue until the elimination of the traitor De Gaulle and until victory of the cause of French Algeria, the only one which can guarantee a lasting peace."

"You will see that we are not preparing a putch, but a massive, progressive and methodical rising of the whole population. The rightist terror organization told its followers in its newspaper, 'The Call of France'."

The statement said secret army field units are being slowly organized and stockpiling of food, medicine and gold by the European population has been ordered.

CALL ON PATRIOTS—"In the second phase of the revolutionary war, all patriots will have a role to play," the instructions said. "Everybody will receive an order of mobilization and the necessary instructions."

The announcement appeared to confirm the general belief among French officials that the secret army is taking a long-range view of its campaign against De Gaulle's plans for an independence agreement with the Algerian Moslem rebels.

But French officials looked for no letup in spectacular hit and run attacks on military bases and government installations.

The terrorist attacks continued amid government reports of some success in hunting down secret army members.

A series of attacks in Algiers between nightfall Tuesday left 10 persons dead and six wounded. In Bône a bomb exploded aboard the French liner Ville de Bône, killing four persons and wounding several others. Three Europeans and three Moslems were killed in Oran, and secret army raiders escaped with about $20,000 in francs from two banks.

40 CAPTURED—French security forces reported the capture of 40 armed men of the secret army's crack Bonaparte commando unit 15 miles southeast of Philippeville.

It was the first time the government had captured an organized, uniformed secret army unit.

Amid the violence, the Moslem month of Ramadan—a holy month of prayer, abstinence and charity—began. The devout among Algerians' nine million Moslems prayed for peace.

McNamara took the position that elementary and secondary schools would be as important as those of higher education.

Last year the Senate passed a $2.5 billion bill for grade and high schools but the legislation was stopped in the House in a fight over parochial and private school interests.

Wants Statue of Mule Put on Capitol Lawn

ATLANTA (AP)—A South Georgia lawmaker wants the state to place a statue of a mule on the Capitol lawn "so that future generations will be able to view the mode of travel and motive power of their forebears."

The resolution introduced Tuesday by Rep. William Kimmons, 72, said in this jet and space age "it is only right that we make this contribution to the memory of the Georgia mule."

Woman Yells, Police Dash—9-Lb. Baby

By The Associated Press.
A man jumped out of a car in Brooklyn and carrying a screaming woman into a nearby house. A passerby flagged a cruising police car and excitedly told the officers: "A woman was just dragged into that house there screaming."
The patrolmen could hear a woman's cries. With hands of revolvers, they burst into the house—only to help deliver Mrs. Kyrlon "Tsapolis" 9-pound, 12-ounce son.

The father later explained that he had realized they would not reach the hospital in time and had carried his wife into the home of a stranger.
Pemba, an island off the East coast of Africa near Zanzibar, produces clovers. Before 1872 the plantation of Pemba were devoted to coconut production.

Ask Congress to End Killing of Gold Eagle

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Interior Department Tuesday asked Congress to outlaw killing of the golden eagle in order to preserve the bald eagle.
The trouble is, according to department spokesmen, that hunters can seldom tell the difference between a bald eagle and a golden eagle until the bald eagle is 4 years old.

When it reaches that age, it develops the characteristic white head and tail feathers.
It is illegal to kill the bald eagle, the national emblem. But hunters, the department said, often shoot bald eagles thinking they are golden eagles.
Proportion of United States residents over age 65 has more than doubled since 1900 and amounts to about 10 per cent of the total population.

'Flying Saucers' Are Birds, Lights

WASHINGTON (AP)—They might have been birds, balloons, hoaxes or unusual sky lights—but no spacecraft from other planets.

That is the word from the Air Force today after 15 years of investigating flying saucer reports.

It said there was no evidence that any of the 7,269 unidentified flying objects checked on were spacecrafts sweeping in from distant planets.

To date, no unidentified flying object—UFO has given any indication of threat to the national security, the Air Force concluded in summing up investigations from 1947 through last year.

FIND NO EVIDENCE

It said its "Project Blue Book" has turned up no evidence that any of the unidentified sightings represented technological advances "beyond the range of our present day scientific knowledge," or that any of the UFO's were "Extraterrestrial vehicles under intelligent controls."

During 1961, the Air Force's office of aerial phenomena probed into 488 UFO reports—25 fewer than the year before.

At year's end, only 10 of the 1961 sightings still were classified as unidentified. Most of the rest were traced to aircraft, balloons, satellites, astronomical phenomena, birds, lights, hoaxes and other causes.

THOUGHT TO BE UFO

The report disclosed that a new experimental beacon designed to prevent airliner collisions has been mistaken by some persons as an unidentified flying object. The beacon is intense and flashes for a fraction of a second.

It has been seen as much as 50 miles away and at that distance only the light could be seen, thereby producing a rather startling sight, the Air Force said.

Recently, too, there were widespread reports that the Air Force of flashing objects in the sky. Investigation revealed that these were caused by the earth's passing through meteor showers, the report said.

Pontiac Leaders Optimistic Over News of Airport

Plans for a $25-million-plus major international airport north of Pontiac were received with surprise and optimism by business, industrial and civic leaders in Pontiac today.

The plans were revealed Tuesday by Pontiac Mayor Philip E. Rowston, chairman of the Aviation Committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

At last night's City Commission meeting, Rowston apologized to fellow commissioners for "keeping the plans a well guarded secret."

Although commissioners knew a jet airport had been considered, none knew a site had been chosen or plans formulated.

"I assure you the city has no intention to abandon Pontiac Municipal Airport," Rowston said. "Nor does the county intend to ignore service there."

TO CONTINUE IMPROVEMENTS
"Pontiac Municipal Airport will continue to offer a needed service in freight and private flights and will continue to be improved over the years," he explained.

"The best estimates currently available are that the proposed airport could be handling jet aircraft in four to five years."

Commissioner Milton R. Henry left the new airport "will bring many things into this area such as motels, hotels and restaurants."

There will be a great need for these services. We are faced with great opportunity and it might be wise to get downtown Pontiac modernized as soon as possible. Let's not lose this potential to the townships."

A possible speedup in urban renewal and central business district programs was suggested by Commissioner William H. Taylor Jr. "This puts a new light on downtown redevelopment and substantial area growth predictions in studies made for our redevelopment program."

SEES OPPOSITION
Commissioner John A. Dugan said, "I'm sure it's the best thing for the entire city, but I can see some real opposition coming from some areas."

Commissioner Wesley J. Wood said, "I feel both airports will serve a real need to the city and county."

Wood and the other commissioners stressed a need for the city to work closely with the county to carefully evaluate all future money spent on Pontiac airport improvements.

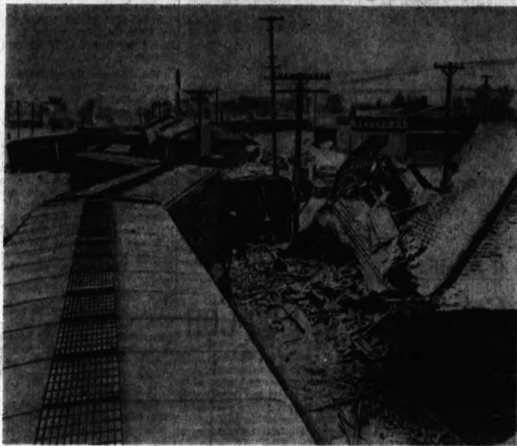

"It just goes to show we're growing up. We're finally going to get some long pants, and I'm tickled to death," said Commissioner Robert J. Landy.

"With something like this coming, we'll be out looking for new shopping centers."

Comment was not limited to the commission meeting, however. City Manager Robert A. Stier said the airport "will have great implications on Pontiac's future commercial and industrial development."

44 Known Killed in German Coal Field Explosion

Officials Report 216 Were Able to Reach Safety, Many Injured

SAARBRUECKEN, Germany (AP) — A fiery explosion caved in large areas of the Luiseenthal coal mine near here today and officials reported 44 miners were killed and 220 are missing.

The Coal Mine Office of the State of Saarland announced 216 miners in the workings at the time were able to reach safety or were rescued.

Many of those saved suffered severe injuries.

The explosion occurred about 9 a.m. at a depth of 1,500 feet in the so-called Alsbach layer of the mine. The Mining Office blamed the blast on coal dust gas.

RUSH TO AID

The mine is at nearby Voelklingen.

Germany's worst postwar disaster was in 1946 in the Ruhr when 602 men lost their lives.

The most disastrous mining accident in the Saar, a rich coal and steel basin, was in 1947 when 148 miners lost their lives at the Roder mine near Saarbrücken.

In the 1960 decade at least 267 miners died in accidents in West and East Germany.

Ambulances, fire brigades and rescue crews from the entire coal-rich Saar Basin raced to the area. Screaming sirens alerted the entire region and families of men employed at the mine began clustering at the entrance to the mine.

A rescue crew from the U.S. Army in Kaiserslautern was sent to the area to assist.

Direction of rescue operations was taken over by the Saarland minister of labor, Paul Simon. Helicopters assisted in taking the injured to hospitals.

The mine has won several prizes for safety.

DESCRIPTS BLAST

The explosion occurred shortly after the miners had reported for work this morning.

"I was thrown back against the walls of the pit by a huge air pressure wave," said a young miner who escaped from the disaster.

"A huge 100-yard long sheet of flame shot from the second level to the fourth down the main shaft," he said. "When it hit the fourth level, there was a gigantic explosion. Most of the men on the fourth level were young kids, learning the mining trade."

A police officer said there was a report that 200 of the miners had been extricated, either dead, injured or unhurt, "but I can't tell you for sure."

"I understand the fire is still burning this afternoon, six hours after the explosion," he added. "They are supposedly sandbagging up adjacent shafts to keep the fire restricted, but how many men may be behind the sandbags I don't know."

A promise of this sort—that there would be no strike when present steel contracts expire on June 30—certainly would substantially discourage steel customers from overstocking.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Wage Policy Committee of the United Steelworkers Union gives final consideration today to proposals for a new contract with the steel industry.

The 170-member committee was expected to give speedy approval to the proposals. Officials then would make public general terms the USW will seek in bargaining talks with the industry.

ROMNEY NOT DECIDED YET
Romney told newsmen before addressing stockholders that "I have not, absolutely have not" made a decision on whether to run for the Republican nomination for Governor.

He told both newsmen and stockholders he will not announce a decision until a previously announced news conference he has called for 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

The meeting with reporters will be the President's fourth in as many weeks.

JFK Would Use Power to Prevent Steel Strike

By NORMAN WALKER
Associated Press Labor Writer

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy reportedly wants a steel labor settlement in a matter of weeks. If there is delay, he has full power to head off a midyear strike and a disruptive steel inventory buildup as well.

The reason is that the 80-day cooling-off procedures of the Taft-Hartley Act can't be invoked to prevent a strike from occurring as well as to stop one that has already started.

With both the President and Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg saying repeatedly that a steel strike at this stage of developed economic recovery is unthinkable, it's logical to assume the administration wouldn't let a steel walkout occur if threatened.

But besides not wanting a strike the administration wants to avoid the usual overstocking of steel in the wake of a strike threat. Both Kennedy and Goldberg have said this should be avoided as economically disruptive—a production level inevitably following a production buildup.

That if the industry and Steelworkers' Union fail to head the administration's advice it came up with an early settlement, it should surprise no one if the President let it be known publicly, he intends to trigger the Taft-Hartley procedures into effect early.

A promise of this sort—that there would be no strike when present steel contracts expire on June 30—certainly would substantially discourage steel customers from overstocking.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Technical troubles with the Thor-Delta booster rocket forced a second straight postponement of the Tiro IV weather satellite today.

Shares in Space Company Should Be Open, Says JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy urged Congress today to charter a huge corporation—with shares to be sold to the public and communications firms—to build and run a worldwide space network for radio, television and telephone.

More than $1 billion in first-class voting stock in the "Communications Satellite Corporation" would be made available to the public and communications carriers at not less than $1,000 a share.

Other secondary shares could be purchased by companies in the communications field.

The corporation would be designed to make a profit—ultimately a good one—from the rental of satellite channels to firms such as telephone and telegraph companies and to other authorized organizations, foreign and domestic.

RELY STATIONS
The satellites, as relay stations in space, would open impenetrable channels for international communications and make possible ocean-spanning telecasts.

Kennedy set forth the plan in a letter to the speaker of the House and the president of the Senate.

The letter accompanied proposed legislation, the "Communications Satellite Act of 1962," that spelled out the details.

There has been controversy and hearings over who should own the projected satellite communication system—the government, a monopoly by one firm or group of firms, or open to all comers.

Kennedy urged today that both the public and the communications carriers be let in on the deal. Last July he announced he was in favor of private ownership.

The proposal called for the issue of a million shares of Class A voting stock. While these shares would be eligible for dividends, the payoff might be a long time coming.

Government officials warned that the initial costs of a satellite communications system will be so great that earnings in the first years will be small.

LONG RANGE STOCK
Estimates of the costs of such a system range upward from $500 million and it is unlikely to be continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Slams Swainson for Tax, Budget

Waterford's Anderson Criticizes Too Much Spending, No Cuts

Gov. Swainson's proposed budget, which revolves around an income tax for the state, came under fire today from Rep. Lloyd L. Anderson, R-Waterford Township.

In a message to his constituents, Anderson assailed the governor's 1962-63 budget-tax message for containing "nothing but more and more spending" without any personnel or salary cuts for any state departments, despite the state's continued financial plight.

"His tax message left me cold, Anderson said.

"He proposes to give to the people tax relief of some $85 million on one hand and for this they have the privilege of paying $240 million in a new income tax program," the legislator said.

To collect the new tax, Anderson said the state would have to hire as many as 500 additional employees.

"I find half of the $85 million he proposes to repeal, or $47.5 million, is money that now goes to support our schools. How would we make up this loss? Another one-half per cent of the income tax?" Anderson asked.

"In his message he is exempting from personal property the tax on manufacturing machinery and equipment, a relief of $70 million. Again, I must bring to your attention that between 60 and 70 per cent of this money is money that will go to our schools."

"Now instead of 3 1/2 per cent income tax we have 4 1/2 per cent just to balance his budget," Anderson said. "Nothing for the reduction of taxes." (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Spend 18 Hours in Car

Family Survives Blizzard

CROOKSTON, Minn. (UPI)—The weather was pleasant and mild when the Art Senke family drove to church Sunday.

It was only a 15-mile drive from their farm. Senke, 59, his wife, and their daughters, Linda, 18, and Gail, 13, didn't bother to take along heavy clothes or an auto robe.

But while the Senkes' were in church, a blizzard struck. The snow was piling up, lashed by icy winds, as they started home. They got only nine miles before snow whipped through the grill and killed their motor.

And there the Senkes stayed for 18 frozen hours. Each hour threatened to be their last.

MAKE-SHIFT COVER

First Senke went to the car trunk, hanging onto the car so the wind wouldn't blow him away. He brought back a fabric spare tire cover and some burlap bags.

"I thought we might be able to get to a farm house about 500 yards away but the storm didn't let up and when it got dark I knew we would have to spend the night," Senke said.

"I was afraid my wife and daughters might not make it through the night," he said. "They weren't dressed quite as heavy as I was. I thought we were close to the end of the line."

"I had the girls take their shoes off and put their feet under my coat against my body to keep them from freezing. All we had to put over us was the tire cover and burlap bags. I wrapped newspapers around my wife's and daughters' legs."

"Somehow we made it through the night. By early morning the storm had let up and we were thinking about walking to that farm house, although we were stiff and sore from the cold and it would have been a hard trip through the snow."

"Then a snowplow and a sheriff's car showed up about 6 a.m. and got us out."

Senke's father and brothers, worried when the family didn't return home, had notified the sheriff's office and prompted the rescue trip.

Tuesday the Senkes were all in good condition, with no frost bite, and Linda was back in school. No one even had a cold.

"I can't understand how we made it," Senke said.

16 Killed in Attack on Mexican Village

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Sixteen persons were killed in a mass attack by 500 armed men on the remote mountain village of Amatlan, in the southern state of Chiapas, a delayed dispatch to the newspaper Excelsior reported Tuesday.

State authorities were said to be investigating the reports of the attack which took place last weekend. The village, which borders Tabasco state, can be reached only by horseback or afloat.

There was no immediate explanation of the reason for the pitched battle.

Upholds Ruling on MacLellan

Civil Service Board Approves Dismissal of Parole Unit Member

DETROIT (AP)—The State Civil Service hearing board Tuesday upheld dismissal of John A. MacLellan from the State Parole Board for refusing to resign outside employment.

MacLellan, dismissed last December, is a special counsel to the Michigan Hospital Association (MHA). He formerly served as legislative agent for the group—a position he resigned when appointed to the $12,900-a-year post on the board.

The State Corrections Department said it asked MacLellan to resign as lobbyist and gave tentative approval to his re-nominating as a special counsel for the MHA.

It was later determined, the department said, that the outside post was not compatible with the parole board position. MacLellan was asked to resign from the MHA post or the board. He did not comply, spokesmen said.

DENIES VIOLATION

MacLellan said he had not violated his agreement with the department, since he had permission to maintain the outside post.

He was not lobbying, he said, and to resign the post would have amounted to a public admission that he had been.

There were no allegations of misconduct in his parole board duties, the department said.

Department officials said they felt MacLellan's outside connections were publicly misunderstood, and conceivably might conflict with "sensitive" areas of his parole board membership.

S. Viet Nam Train Trip Wilder Than U.S. Early West

(Editor's Note — AP Correspondent Malcolm W. Browne traveled most of the length of Viet Cong Communist railway line, frequent target of Viet Cong Communist guerrillas.)

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Vietnamese railway workers sometimes compare rail travel in South Viet Nam with 19th century travel in the United States, when Indians and bandits attacked trains.

Actually the raids of the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas on the South Viet Nam arterial railroad, which runs for 670 miles from Saigon to the frontier of Communist North Viet Nam, make some of those early-day American attacks look pretty tame.

The Viet Cong slips out of the jungle and tears up track in sections where trains could plunge over bridges or off cliffs.

Trains are fired on by machine guns in the black mountains through which the line runs on its way down the coast of the China Sea. Casualties are sometimes heavy.

From time to time, the train is forced to stop by Viet Cong bands who check the identity papers of all aboard. Government soldiers aboard are taken away into the hills.

But despite the hazard, trains were packed for the recent lunar New Year holiday. Families squatted on station platforms for hours on the way to spend the holiday with relatives.

They were surrounded by live fowl tied in bundles by the legs, a speed.

So the single train each day running the entire length of the line rarely travels faster than 25 miles an hour. The entire trip takes more than 24 hours.

In the third class carriages, little more luxurious than freight cars, many passengers, especially students returning home, had to sit on the window ledges, their feet dangling out.

In the dining car, paper bunting had been hung and good food and wine were available. But the seats were occupied by quiet men and women. Some slept. Others pretended to drink coffee.

NOT IN UNIFORM

Many were soldiers dressed in civilian clothes. Soldiers never travel in uniform on the train for fear of recognition by the Viet Cong.

Whenever the train slowed, most of the tired looking soldiers nervously reached for their identity papers, ready to throw them out the windows or hide them.

In three areas, all conversation subsided to a murmur, and travelers took cover on the floor under seats. The areas, each about 20 miles long, are spaced along the coast in mountainous regions all completely controlled by the Communists from 160 to 380 miles from Saigon.

Nearing each area, the train slowed to walking speed, and passengers grimly waited for trouble.

One laughed and said: "But the Viet Cong are Vietnamese too. They wouldn't shoot us." Another answered: "Don't be too sure."

From time to time, the train slowly passed columns of troops after night fell. Passengers called out greetings and asked about security conditions up ahead.

Near Qui Nhon, a town at which a company of U. S. helicopters is based, heavy fighting in the near-by mountains was reported, but the track was said to be fairly safe. A few passengers began eating their packaged dinners.

Government forces have so far found it impossible to sweep the Viet Cong out of the mountains of Central Viet Nam, which are almost inaccessible.

As the train moved south on a coastal plain, many passengers went to sleep, feeling reasonably secure. The next danger zone would not come until dawn.

When the sun rose, most travelers already were awake and fearful of the dangers of the Phan Thiet area, 130 miles east of Saigon. Breakfast was delayed until the train was safely through.

Some 20 miles from Saigon, a holiday mood returned to passengers, and a few said: "We made it."

Arriving at the station, many broke into song and shook hands with railroad officials.

Reporters in S. Viet Nam Told: No More Missions

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. military authorities in Saigon Tuesday banned Western correspondents from accompanying future U. S. helicopter combat missions against the Communist guerrilla forces in South Viet Nam.

U. S. Army and Air Force spokesmen said the ban was ordered by Adm. Harry D. Felt, commander in chief Pacific, based in Pearl Harbor.

Case for the ban, they said, was an Associated Press eyewitness report on a U. S. helicopter mission which drew Vietnamese troops into action Sunday.

Several U.S. military men here said they considered the report accurate and responsible. "This is the kind of reporting we need from here," one said. They declined use of their names.

A GRAPHIC ACCOUNT

The eyewitness account was by Roy Essoyan, a longtime AP correspondent. It gave a graphic account of the operation. It said the U. S. helicopter lift went off with clockwork precision. An American military adviser on the mission said the operation failed due to faulty communications and shortage of U. S. helicopters and Vietnamese troops. One U. S. helicopter was shot down.

It was believed U. S. authorities—in Pearl Harbor or Washington—felt the report pinpointed the U. S. military role in South Viet Nam's civil war. So far this role is technically noncombant, with U.S. advisers and support forces prohibited from firing on the Communists unless they are fired at first.

U.S. military pilots fly the helicopters. U.S. military personnel man the guns at the helicopter's doors in case of attack. U.S. military advisers accompany Vietnamese units into battle.

The U.S. military advisers' hands seemed tied in Sunday's operation, correspondent Essoyan said. They could not tell their Vietnamese army counterparts to call on Air Force or follow up the advantage of the original assault. They could only ask to be informed on what their Vietnamese counterparts were doing and policy-wise what they might do. The advice, the correspondent reported, was not always followed.

Top American military and diplomatic officials in Saigon explain they don't want to publicize the U. S. role for fear of ruffling the feelings of the government of South Viet Nam and for fear of feeding Communist propaganda.

Wirt, was arrested by state police after his home burned Jan. 5 and officers said he admitted setting the fire to collect insurance.

Dislikes Give Big Clue to Who You Are

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Who are you?

You can tell a person not only by what he is for but also by what he is against.

If you want to play an interesting game with yourself, sit down sometime with a kind of paper and write down a list of things you dislike.

It is a form of poor man's psychiatry. It will help tell you what kind of a person you really are.

If the list is too long, maybe you're finicky. If it is too short, maybe you're wishy-washy.

LAST OF 'AGAINST'

things I've found distasteful in my first 30 years of living—things that rile me up, annoy me, or make me wish I were somewhere else.

People who argue religion, or try to sell you their own shortcut to God.

Bus drivers who, when you give them a dollar bill, hand you back 20 nickels in change.

Lamb, mutton, Brussels sprouts, venison and caviar.

"SO MUCH IN COMMON"

Hostesses who introduce you to another guest with the remark: "You two should get along famously—you have so much in common."

Shipboard costume parties at which fat ladies show up as underdressed Cleopatras with a giant rhinestone on their navel.

Middle-aged lovers with a passion for necking in public.

People who try to top your last funny story—and do.

DOG GREIFS

Chihuahuas, dogs that growl, Great Danes that want to sit in your lap, and hot dogs that aren't all beef.

Military officers who try to put civilians in their place by ostentatiously addressing them as "sir."

Husbands named Smith or Brown who always speak of their wives as "Mrs. Smith" or "Mrs. Brown" instead of "my wife."

Underdone eggs, overdone steak, watercrest, spinach, grits, garlic and cold pork gravy.

"POOR COUNTRY BOYS"

Millionaires who tell you dismally, "I'm just a poor little country boy trying to get along."

Doctors who invariably treat you with two-color capsules. Why is a pink-and-brown capsule any more effective than a plain green or a plain white capsule?

People who wouldn't donate a dime to feed a starving bum but brag about how much blood they have given to the Red Cross.

Women who automatically think any man who wears a beard is trying to cover up an inferiority complex.

"BRIGHT" CHILDREN

Kindergarten children who can recite or sing 27 television commercials blindfolded—but can't remember the last two lines of "Little Bo Peep."

People whose idea of how to be a winning conversationalist is to ask you cooly, "Now tell me about yourself."

People who hold on to your lapels and start every sentence with either, "D'ya know?" or "D'ya get me?"

"UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY"

Letters that begin, "As a recognized leader in your community, you have been chosen among a select few for this unusual opportunity to—"

Women who talk about baseball and politics as if they know more about them than I do—and it turns out they do.

People at cocktail parties who, after only one martini, want to poll everyone else on the moral issues involved in building a private fallout shelter. Anybody who drinks martinis needs any shelter he can crawl to.

People who—

But enough about me. "Now tell me about yourself." What's on your list of favorite dislikes?

The latter four plans all have been rejected by the legislature before. This is the first time the governor has proposed the civil defense merger under his executive reorganization powers.

The reorganizations can save the state as much as $22,000 a year, Swainson said. Each, he said, would be a logical transfer of functions between agencies and would promote efficiency in government operations.

All the reorganizations would take effect by next Jan. 1. Each was developed by a citizen advisory committee on reorganization of state government, headed by Circuit Judge Clark Adams of Oakland County.

Under the governor's plan, the civil defense operation would function as a separate unit in the state police organization.

The merger, he said, would give the civil defense operation "a secure relationship with a stable, experienced agency already possessing a familiarity with many phases of civil defense."

Civil defense, he said, could utilize the statewide facilities of state police as well as their staff services.

Group Asks 2nd Chance at Levy for Schools

Walled Lake Citizens Unit Urges 2-Mill Tax Ballot

WALLED LAKE — The Citizens Committee on School Needs, recovering from the defeat of its three proposals last month, has asked the board of education to request additional operating funds in June.

The citizens group has recommended that a two-mill levy for the operation of schools be proposed in the June 11 school board election.

Calls for Bids on School Jobs

Avondale Board Plans Renovation of Four Elementary Buildings

The Avondale Board of Education has taken a major step forward to comply with the state fire marshal's demands for repairs and renovations to school buildings in the district. Supt. Leroy R. Watt said today.

The board has instructed the administration to ask for bids on renovation of all four of the elementary schools.

Projects outlined were a fire escape and the enclosure of stairways for the second floor at the Stiles School, enclosure of stairways and additional basement exit at the Elmwood School, fire partitions and fire doors at the Auburn Heights School and an additional room exit at the Stone School.

Board members were assured by the Birmingham architectural firm of O'Dell, Hewlett and Luckenbach Associates that the planned repairs were approved and meet the requirements of the state fire marshal's office.

Many of the other fire marshal's demands have been completed during the school year, but the items just approved were major in nature and required architectural drawings and competitive bids, Watt said.

The board decided to dispense with the special meeting of Feb. 19 and will meet again in regular session on March 5 at 8 p.m. in the Avondale Senior High School building.

Man Is Sentenced for Killing Father of 4

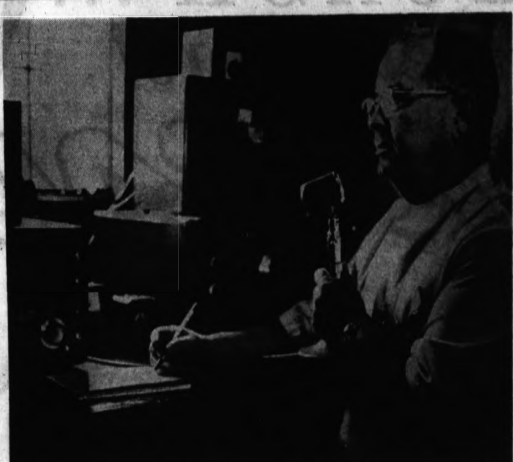

ROYAL OAK TOWNSHIP—Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams yesterday sentenced James Johnson of the township to 5 years in Jackson Prison for killing a 42-year-old father of four children last October.

A jury on Jan. 34 found Johnson guilty as charged of murdering a concealed 38-caliber pistol which shot and killed Victoria J. Owens, 1975 Alcott St., Royal Oak Township.

Police said the fatal shooting occurred during a dice game. Officers said Johnson, 42, 2410 Wyoming St., became angry when Owens pulled a threat out of his hat resulting in Owens slashing Johnson with a straight razor. Then Johnson yanked out the pistol and fired twice at Owens.

LAKE ORION — The Village Council has created a nine-member commission to study the present form of village government and come up with recommendations for changing it.

Group Created for Village Study

LAKE ORION — The Village Council has created a nine-member commission to study the present form of village government and come up with recommendations for changing it.

The new commission, whose members will be selected by the council, will be asked to study three forms of village government for a year and then to report its findings and recommendations back to the council.

In addition to pinpointing the problems in the present type of village government, the commission will consider the advisability of putting the village under a home-rule charter with the government run by a village manager and council.

The new group also will look into the possibilities of incorporating the village into a city, run by a mayor and common council.

ADOPTS $100 BUDGET

The Village Council adopted a figure of $100 for the study group's budget. Village President Irvine J. Unger said he wanted to make it clear that the commission would have to be chosen from village voters and could not include anyone connected with the council.

The Chamber of Commerce has completed a study of the village's financial problems using an informal consultation of this type. Councilman David E. Hanson said. Their recommendations and findings have proved useful to the council, he added.

EARLY MORNING LISTENING

One of Milford's most avid amateur radio operators, Dr. Ben Bragg, O.D., likes to spend the early morning hours listening and talking to other "hams" from "way out." This is the time when almost any spot in the world can be heard.

Milford Man Likes Radio

BY REBA HEINTZELMAN — After a busy day fixing broken bones, stitching up wounds and administering hundreds of antibiotic shots, Dr. Ben Bragg closes his little clinic on General Motors Road and goes next door to relax by "hamming it up" with other amateur radio operators all over the world.

In a small back room of the Bragg home is radio equipment capable of reaching from the North to the South poles and from Russia, New Zealand and Australia to Japan, China and lower Argentina.

When a vicious tornado ripped through Milford some years ago, it uprooted Bragg's big windmill which served as the radio's antenna. Since then the doctor has installed two more antennas and located another old windmill for additional power output.

His modern, single side-band home station runs a full kilowatt of power which has eight times more talk-power than the older type of amplitude modulation. All this adds up to the fact the good doctor can converse with other hams at a greater distance away.

"Almost every operator in the world speaks the English language, making the ham radio a universal country tie-up," the doctor said.

Plan Nature Workshop for Instructors in Area

An in-service workshop for teachers and administrators interested in school camping and outdoor education will be held Feb. 16 at the Proulx Lake Outdoor Education Center near Milford.

The workshop, to be conducted from 1:30 to 5 p.m., is being sponsored by the Department of Public Instruction, the Michigan Department of Conservation, and the Huron Valley School System.

The primary purpose of the workshop is to provide an opportunity for teachers to see and work with natural materials that will help make educational experiences more meaningful.

Dr. William Forbes, science consultant in the Birmingham School District, will discuss how teachers can capitalize on these natural materials through preparation, experience in camp, and follow-up in the classroom.

Also on the program from the Conservation Department will be Edward M. Ray, superintendent of the Higgins Lake Conservancy; Edward B. Bacon, district fisheries supervisor from Jackson; Russell Patterson and Donald Richards of the educational division.

A panel discussion will conclude the program. Panelists will be Alfreed Masini, director of the Proulx Lake recreation area; Ruth DeCoo of Bloomfield Hills; Charles Welch of Waterford; Dr. Julian Smith, professor of outdoor education at Michigan State University; Ethel Mader of Walled Lake; and Russell Patterson.

Dr. Bragg's car is fully equipped with an Elmac mobile transmitter for relaxed listening when making routine house calls.

Couple Weds in City

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — The altar of Bethany Baptist Church, Pontiac, was banked with baskets of white gladioli and palms for the wedding Saturday evening of Karen Joan McVean and Donald E. Meyer. Dr. Emil Kontz performed the candlelight ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. McVean, of 2326 Pontiac Road. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. D. Blaire Meyer of East Lansing.

A show length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle which swept back into a chapel train was chosen by the bride for her wedding. The bodice which featured a high fabric neckline and the ruffles of the skirt were etched with sequins.

Her lace trimmed veil was held in place by a double crown of crystals and pearls. She carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations and butterfly roses, streamers of stephanotis and lavender knots centered with a corsage of red sweetheart roses.

The reception was held in the church parlors immediately following the nuptials. Upon their return from a brief honeymoon in the South, the newlyweds will live in Lake Orion.

School Unit OKs 4 Appointments

ROCHESTER — Three administrative appointments on the Junior High School level in the district have been approved by the Rochester Board of Education.

New principal of West Junior High School, now under construction, will be Frank Richardson, 34, present principal of Central Junior High. His assistant principal will be Harold Matherly, 27, now a civics teacher and counselor at Central.

All appointments become effective July 1.

Another appointment approved by the board was that of George Stringer, 48, to the post of coordinator and director of counseling for all secondary schools. He has been in the counseling department at the high school for about 17 years.

Olson has been a teacher and counselor in the local school system for eight years. He has taught science in both the junior and senior high schools.

Married and the father of four daughters, Olson lives at 377 Maywood Road.

Flint Central Bolts FH Little Hopes, 58-56

By CHUCK ARAI

An aggressive and good-looking Flint Central team virtually ruined any hopes Pontiac Central might have had for a share of the Saginaw Valley cage crown with a 58-56 upset win at PCH Tuesday night.

Unbeaten Saginaw High moved closer to the championship by demolishing hapless Bay City Central 104-36, Saginaw Arthur Hill blasted Bay City Hardy 61-43 and Flint Northern took Midland, 30-44.

Arthur Hill moved into 4th place with the Chiles for 2nd place. The Saginaw schools each have three league games remaining while Pontiac has only two.

Local fans were treated to their third thriller in five nights but they didn't see very much good basketball played in the battle of Central.

Each team was ragged most of the way. The officials were kept busy calling fouls and four violations.

One big gun carried the load for each side, but center Bob Barrett poured in 23 points including the two big field goals of the night and he had good help at times.

Steady Rudy Hanson garnered 26 for the home club but Coach Art Van Ryn had little else going for him. Clarence Douglas added 16 but his useless play on both offense and defense hurt the cause considerably. Ed Williams played well in reserve in the last period scoring seven.

Barrett mapped a 50-50 tie with 1:15 to go after a missed foul shot by Williams and added another with 39 seconds left for a four-point advantage. Douglas got two back on the foul line 13 seconds later but Flint was in the 57-54 with clock showing 31 seconds.

Williams swished a corner shot with just 19 to go. Indian ace Jim Folsom, who set out a good part of the 5th with four personal, made a free throw with four seconds left to tie the score. Pontiac failed to control the rebound on a last-second attempt. A jump ball set up the last seconds preventing a final shot try for a deadlock.

The visitors were in front 14-13 at the end of the opening quarter but PCH finished the 2nd period strong to take a five-point advantage to the dressing room. It looked like the Chiles were on their way, but the Indians had other ideas.

They clicked on their first three floor tries of the 3rd period — two by Barrett — and were right back in it. That quarter ended at 41-41.

Three points by Douglas put the Chiles ahead by that much early in the 4th but Flint fought right back to stay even for the remainder of the game.

Barrett took charge for PCH. Coach Joe Dowdy's winners,

Saginaw had five boys in double figures including a sub. Ernie Thompson was high at 23, and Brian Best hit 22, 23 and 25-7 after the last 100 periods. Arthur Hill bounced back from a seven-point first quarter deficit with 41 points in 18 minutes. Donald Schumacher and Keith Kunderling led the way with 17 apiece.

Birmingham Seaborn rose to give leader East Detroit trouble in the Eastern Michigan feature. The Shamrocks remained unbeaten in the loop with a 65-58 victory holding off a late threat after leading 30-18 and 40-35.

Low Ferry rang up 17, Ben Zarnes 17 and Dave Maynard 14 for EDM. Grant Coney's 14 topped the Maples. John Slater gaining sweet revenge for a 23-point lacing at home, shot 43.3 per cent despite missing several easy tosses in close. They swished 13-of-24 in the last half and had a 30 per cent mark for three periods. The locals had 39.5, including a 4-of-21 3rd session.

Barrett hit 10-of-21 although missing seven straight. Random made 5-of-19 and 10 of 11 fouls. Douglas 4-of-23. Otto Kennedy, 44, was a fair rebounder but had a bad 1st half on defense and could score only three digits.

Van Ryn gave his charge a deserved dressing down after the contest. He said he thought the boys might have taken the game too lightly because of the earlier romp at Flint.

chipped in with 12 and Jay Scholt 14.

Port Huron apparently fell out of the running for a title hopeful in a 70-39 smothering by Ferndale. Bob Michaux sparred the romp with 22. Don Brooks hit 16, Bob Woodard got 12 and 23 rebounds. Hazel Park came from behind to lead by one with six minutes left but bowed 58-52 at Mt. Clemens. Larry Perton and Del Reese tallied 18 and 10th place by 57-39. Bruce Sigman hit 12 in defeat.

L'Anse au Loup were beaten by outsiders.

Behind most of the way, Lapeer went in front by two in the 4th quarter but wound up on the short end at Owosso, 75-60. Tom Canner named 20 and Bud Duckwell 10 for the Panthers. Harper Woods landed L'Anse in 6th successfully and 10th all year by 57-39. Bruce Sigman hit 12 in defeat.

St. Michael Helps OL St. Mary Tie for Lead

Orchard Lake St. Mary came through when the chips were down and got a big assist from St. Michael as the Suburban Catholic hoop race was thrown into a three-way tie place deadlock last night.

Regular league play ends Friday with English and co-leaders Royal Oak St. Mary and St. Benedict tied at 11-11.

The Rev. John Rahoney's OLSM gang needed an overtime period to get by upset-minded St. Michael, 55-51. The Shamrocks, meanwhile, were dropping Royal Oak out of sole possession of the top spot in a 46-41 triumph at PCH. St. Mary, St. Benedict 31, BHS 40 and St. James 37-44 completed a full SCL slate.

Rochester nipped Avondale 49-48 and Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows took a league triumph in two more overtime affairs.

Lamphre added Cranbrook to its list of victims, Ortonville was a 55-54 loser to league foe Genesee, Country Day put up a good battle before falling to host St. Michael 55-48 and North Branch learned why Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port is highly ranked suffering a 69-23 walloping in some of last night's other games.

Little used sophomore Carl Krausz scored his last basket of the season with 46 seconds to go in overtime and Al Miller added a foul to break a tie and win it for the Eagles.

St. Fred led at the end of a tight 1st half 27-26 but opened up strong after the intermission with St. Mary rapped to go ahead 39-30. The Rams were up 10 early in the 4th period but Miller and Stan Sawicki fired in two goals each to make the score 42-40. The visitors finally got ahead by one and then overcame a 15-11 deficit to 45-45 with 55 seconds to go in regulation play. Miller earned an apparent clincher with just 12 seconds left but Pete Vasquez matched that on a drive from mid-court at the final whistle.

Vasquez twice equalized turned by Sawicki in the extra session before Krausz hit the big one.

Miller finished with 19 and Sawicki 14. Vasquez totaled 34. The lead changed hands 18 times and the score was tied five times in the opening half. It was the 4th straight win for OL St.

Fred completed its regular schedule with that number of losses in a row.

Clutch points by top scorers Jim Hurren and Charles Dault sparked St. Mike to its reversal of an earlier beating. Hurren and Bill Harding hit big baskets and Dault swished 5-for-6 free throws to put on ice in a close 4th period.

HUSTLE PAYS OFF

The hustling Shamrocks, who won their 3rd in succession, got off to a 17-4 start and were breezing 30-15 at halftime. But the Irish roared back with a 17-point quarter of their own to even the count at the 3rd period. The visitors went ahead for the 1st time early in the final round but not for long.

Hurren rung up 16 and Dault 14. Michael hit 10 in 40 minutes. The loss of star Bob Durr on fouls in the 2nd quarter was a severe blow to Royal Oak.

Talented Tim Mulcaister pulled a little further away from the field in Oakland County scoring with a 37-point night. Wayne Patillon had 16 for St. Clement.

Ken Hummel, who had done little this year, was the Rochester hero. His field goal with 30 seconds to play forced the local dud into overtime and his two free throws with six seconds left wrapped up the decision.

Underdog Avondale had held a slight edge most of the last half after leading 25-25 at the intermission. Roger Van Cunst hit a goal and Lynn Thorpe a foul to give Avon a 48-45 lead in the 4th. Mark Dible 13 but the Rams lost their 3rd straight.

Olsen totaled 15, Hummel 12 and Van Cunst 10. Dale Yarver had 15 in defeat holding company an 18-for-22 team foul record.

NBA game at Cincinnati. Gesturing in the background is Royal coach Charlie Wolf. The Pistons came from behind to win a thriller, 119-118.

Repeated Rallies Pay Off for Pistons

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Detroit Pistons carried on with a series of rallies and nipped the Cincinnati Royals in their National Basketball Association game last night, 119-118.

Detroit's victory enabled the Pistons to come within four games of second place Cincinnati in the Western Division. Cincinnati lost its fifth straight.

A duel of Detroit's Bailey Howell and Gene Shue against Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson ended up in the Pistons' favor despite 47 points by the Royals' ace.

The Detroit pair totaled 80 points with two critical baskets by Howell in the final 41 seconds counterbalancing one by Robertson in a tense finish.

A jump shot by Howell gave Detroit a 117-115 lead with 41 seconds to go and he tossed in another in the last 10 seconds. Robertson dropped one with 10 seconds left but time then ran out on the Royals.

Beforehand, Detroit trailed consistently. The Pistons were behind 97-89 at the end of the third quarter after lagging 67-58 at the half.

Shue got 27 points and Howell 23. Howell and Don Scott of Cincinnati played the last quarter with five fouls each but both survived.

In other games, Syracuse defeated Chicago 127-123, New York beat Los Angeles 118-112 and Boston whipped St. Louis 129-114.

The new Chicago team has yet to beat Syracuse this season. Hal Greer lifted 33 points to lead the Nets to their 7th straight conquest of the Packers. Chicago rookie Walt Bellamy collected 25.

New York conquered the Lakers for the first time this season after three failures. The Knicks won the battle in the final 15 seconds with rookie Al Butler netting five points.

The skidding St. Louis Hawks dropped their 5th straight defeat as the racehorse Celtics, defending NBA champions and current Eastern Division leaders, piled up a 64-43 half-time edge and coasted to victory.
