Hospital Sues Over Sales Deal

Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, faced with losing its Blue Cross sanction because it does not own the hospital, filed suit against the owner yesterday to complete a sales agreement.

Blue Cross (Michigan Hospital Service) has informed the hospital that it will rescind its contract with the hospital unless it purchases the property.

If this is done, it will make it almost impossible for the hospital to operate since many of its patients are Blue Cross members.

Hospital Board President John A. Riley said that the owner, Harold Sargo of Detroit, agreed to sell the property for $4,785,000, but now refuses to finalize the contract.

A partial down payment of $25,000 already has been received by Sargo, according to the suit.

DID NOT COMPLY

An evaluation committee of Blue Cross visited the hospital in September 1964 and later advised officials that the hospital did not comply with its established qualifications.

The hospital, the suit says, immediately began to reorganize and started negotiating with Sargo.

Blue Cross was informed that the sale had been consummated with the exception of the formal documents, according to the suit, and the threat was lifted.

Due to the failure to complete the deal, Blue Cross has again informed the hospital that it is about to terminate its contract as a participating member.

ASK COURT ORDER

The suit asks the court to order Sargo to perform the agreement and that if the performance cannot be granted, that the hospital be awarded $2.5 million in damages.

Sargo has been ordered into circuit court before Judge William J. Beer Monday to show cause why the monthly rentals now paid to him by the hospital should not be held in escrow while the law suit is pending.

Will Not Run Again, Says Pat McNamara

Battle Could Bring Most Serious Breach Since Primary of '60

By DICK BARNES

LANSING (AP) — Sen. Patrick McNamara's decision to retire from the U.S. Senate opens the way for what could be a party-splitting battle for the Democratic nomination.

If Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh and former six-term Gov. G. Mennen Williams both seek the nomination it could bring the most serious Democratic split in Michigan since the 1960 gubernatorial primary.

McNamara, 71, announced in Washington yesterday that he would not seek reelection this year.

Michigan's senior senator, hospitalized off and on in recent years, blamed "relatively minor ailments" for his expected decision to quit. He now is completing his second term as a senator.

Williams, 55, and Cavanagh, 37, elected to a second term as Detroit's mayor last fall, both followed up with statements they would take a look at the situation before making decisions whether to try for the nomination.

NONPARTISAN

Detroit's mayorality is nonpartisan. Cavanagh is a Democrat in politics.

Williams, 55, and Cavanagh, 37, elected to a second term as Detroit's mayor last fall, both followed up with statements they would take a look at the situation before making decisions whether to try for the nomination.

DEATH CAR—Being towed by a wrecker, this car was involved in an accident yesterday on North Telegraph at Pontiac Lake Road in Waterford Township. A passenger in the car, Carl R. Alger, 76, of 63 N. Marshall, was killed.

Crash Is Fatal on Telegraph

Several Hurt as Car, Ambulance Collide

A Pontiac man was killed yesterday afternoon when a car and an ambulance transporting an accident victim to a hospital collided on North Telegraph at Pontiac Lake Road in Waterford Township.

Dead is Carl R. Alger, 76, of 63 N. Marshall.

He was a passenger in a car driven by Raymond Turnell, 66, of Owosso.

Injured seriously in the crash was George L. Danforth, 59, of 601 Saginaw, Holly.

Slightly hurt moments before in an accident at Dixie Highway and Waterford Road, Danforth was being taken to Pontiac General Hospital.

He also was a passenger in the earlier mishap.

The driver of the ambulance, Robert L. Connelly Jr., 29, of 7760 Biscayne, White Lake Township, was treated and released from the hospital.

Turnell and ambulance attendant Arlo Fleischer, 34, of 4350 Monroe, Waterford Township, are listed in satisfactory condition by Pontiac General Hospital officials.

According to State Police, the ambulance was traveling south on Telegraph and Turnell's car west on Pontiac Lake Road when the crash occurred at about 5.

The Pontiac branch office of the Secretary of State at 56 E. Huron will be open until 5 p.m. tomorrow to accommodate motorists who have yet to obtain 1966 license plates.

Willis M. Brewer, branch office manager, said the Pontiac office as well as the Waterford outlet would remain open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday as well as Monday, the last day 1965 plates may be legally used.

"On both Saturday and Monday we'll take care of everybody who's in line," Brewer said.

Public Housing Plan Gets Backing of Senior Citizens

Support for proposed public housing in Pontiac for senior citizens is enthusiastic from the elder citizens themselves, but elsewhere some reservations are expressed.

Representatives of retiree groups from the city's three auto plants readily support the low-cost housing proposal.

The City Commission Monday proposed such housing for an unidentified site on downtown urban renewal land.

H. G. Lockwood, chairman of the UAW Local 504 Retirees Club, backed the senior citizen housing idea.

"There are a lot of people living on just Social Security," he explained. "I feel sorry for some people who have to live on $69 a month."

Lowell Wilkinson, pension committee chairman for UAW Local 653 retirees, said the housing proposal had been discussed in the past and received his support.

Wilkinson also favored the downtown location tentatively proposed for the senior citizen units.

"There'll be no problem in filling it," commented Donald Johnson, president of Fisher Body Plant UAW Local 596.

He said retirees wanted the downtown location, close to churches, stores and other facilities, to eliminate problems of transportation.

The response to the senior citizen housing idea, however, is not unanimously favorable.

First, the idea is advanced that such low-cost housing might better be built by private enterprise.

Secondly, some residents question the wisdom of erecting further public housing.

These critics of the housing proposal feel a different approach — duplex units or single units — ought to be tried.

Despite the reservations, there is unanimous agreement that senior citizen housing of some variety be provided to fill the need, if there is one, although this is generally conceded.

Howard Nelson, manager of the Pontiac Sears store, said, "It (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3) certainly seems it would be an aid to senior citizens."

Charles M. Tucker Jr., president of the Oakland County Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), expressed a similar view.

Tucker said: "We all know there is a need for housing for our elderly."

It is regrettable that private enterprise, the builders and real estate brokers in the city were not given the opportunity to become involved in providing such low-cost housing... which could have been done under federal programs.

Max Adams, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, favored the proposed location for the housing units, but he was against duplication of housing like the city's present public housing project.

E. Eugene Russell, district manager of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., backed Adams' view. Added public housing would have to be properly administered, he said. He thought there should be some restriction on the number.

One variety of public housing — the high-rise apartment project — is to be viewed Monday when a contingent of city officials and local retirees visit Dearborn's Townsend Towers.

Public Housing Need Studied by City Hall

Amendment of a city ordinance to permit development of public housing for Pontiac's senior citizens is worthy of deep consideration.

The 11-year-old act that banned government-sponsored housing, after an original 400-unit project had been completed in the late '40s, was passed because of strong contention in connection with two other proposals in the northerly sections of the City.

But with the housing shortage in Pontiac now acute, compounded by the growing population of senior citizens of substandard income, the prohibition against Federal housing may have become outmoded.

Although many communities have availed themselves of the benefits of government housing, the project in Dearborn stands out as a most laudable venture, and is being eyed by the Pontiac City Commission with respect to local action on public housing now being studied.

The Press commends the City Fathers on their progressive attitude in the important area of adequate housing for our elderly.

John K. Irwin

The death of JOHN K. IRWIN at 71 saddened a host of friends and professional associates.

A native of Michigan, Mr. Irwin had engaged in the real estate business in Pontiac for 40 years and founded the firm of JOHN K. IRWIN and Sons.

He was active in many facets of business, civil and fraternal life and was a past president of Pontiac Board of Realtors and a former member of the County Board of Supervisors.

Always an ardent supporter of community betterment, no call on his participation in any worthy cause went unanswered. A congenial personality made him a welcome member of any social gathering.

Mr. IRWIN will be deeply missed by all privileged to know him.

Tug of War Foreseen for LBJ 'Guidelines'

Indications are that President JOHNSON's guidelines for permissible rises in wage scales and basic commodity prices are guiding him to an imminent showdown.

The guideline concept is that wage and price hikes be held to the 3.2 per cent rate that government economists call noninflationary. The concept may have been sound, but the implementation of it hasn't.

While the Administration has effectively cracked down on the steel, aluminum and copper industries who sought moderate price increases, it was looking the other way when many labor contracts were negotiated whose wage increases exceeded the implied ceiling.

The President looked less than noble when he kept silent during the paralyzing transit strike in New York City but indicated disapproval after settlement of the 4 per cent-plus pay increase granted.

While it may be argued that to date the guideline has been stretched but little in favor of labor, there looms a tug that could snap it. The threat to the stability of the national economy lies in a pending wage settlement between the Associated General Contractors of New Jersey and Local 825 of the International Union of Operating Engineers.

Under negotiation is the engineers' demand for an increase of 65 cents per hour (or 17.7 per cent), though it is reported that the union's president subsequently upped it to 85 cents.

Settlement of this wage negotiation with its powerful national ramifications gives JOHNSON a prime opening to wield the same restraining influence he exerted against the metal industries. His power rests in the vast amount of government construction affected by this issue which could be held up until settlement terms either squared with or were rolled back to meet the guidelines.

"The President is back in the White House, and Washington is normal," says a commentator via radio. If the capital city is normal, it's the first time.

When the conversation turned to a certain high quality orange, Morons asked, "Isn't there an Army orange, too?"

Judges' Tenure Not So Secure

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The colonists registered a lot of beefs against George III in the Declaration of Independence. Among them: "He has made judges on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices and the amount and payment of their salaries."

Such was not to be in the new United States they were setting up.

Once appointed by the President with the Senate's consent, federal judges were to sit "during good behavior" — in effect, for life. They were to be removed only through impeachment by the House and conviction by the Senate.

So was the process laid out in the U.S. Constitution, and so it has been to this day.

Judges have been pressured to quit and some have taken the hint. But only four federal judges have been removed from office, all after impeachment.

ESSENTIALLY INDEPENDENT
The federal judiciary remains essentially independent and there the matter would rest except the problem of the occasional federal inept, inept or senile judge won't go away.

Several states have experimented with easier removal methods and one, California, with apparently notable success. A special commission investigates charges against judges and recommends to the State Supreme Court that they be removed.

Now the experimenting has spread to the federal system. The appellate judges in the 10th Circuit are trying to nudge U.S. Dist. Judge Stephen S. Chandler from the bench by not letting him hear new cases.

They are using as a vehicle a federal law that gave the Circuit Courts' Judicial Councils the power to issue "orders for the effective and expeditious administration" of the District Courts.

DECISION APPEALED
Chandler, who is 65 and could have retired at full pay, is fighting back and has appealed to the Supreme Court. There the matter still hangs.

Meanwhile, a Senate subcommittee headed by Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., has held hearings on ways to get rid of unfit judges.

"I suggest that we will be at this job for some time," Tydings said.

So will the American Bar Association, which opened a comprehensive study last August.

NEW PROCEDURES
Off in the distance, if enough judges and congressmen become exercised about the problem, could be a law — or even a constitutional amendment — setting up new procedures for examining a judge's fitness.

But even if unintentional, could the result be a weakening of the judiciary's independence? Could this amount to throwing out the baby with the bath?

'There's Gotta Be A Needle Around Here Somewhere!'

David Lawrence Says:

Senate Terms Warrant Scrutiny

WASHINGTON — There has been talk about a proposed constitutional amendment to provide a four-year term instead of a two-year term for members of the House of Representatives, but it is beginning to look now as if the country might perhaps prefer to see the present system retained.

LAWRENCE for House members and the six-year term of senators reduced to four or possibly two years. The current controversy over Viet Nam has illustrated the point. Many senators may be acting directly contrary to the wishes of the majority of the people of their states, but there is no way by which the electorate can immediately register its protest and replace the senators.

It is significant that some of the recent petitions demanding, in effect, that the president curtail military operations in Viet Nam emanated from senators almost all of whom are not up for reelection this year.

At present, only one-third of the members of the Senate come up for election every two years, so two-thirds are immune at this time from any possible penalty for their views.

Under the parliamentary system of government in many countries, the people have a virtually instantaneous check on the members of the national legislature. This results in a sense of responsibility to the voters, instead of the irresponsibility which apparently develops in the case of Congress when members do not have to answer for their views for a relatively long time afterwards.

FAVOR FIRM STAND
Every public-opinion poll taken in 1965 indicates that the majority of the American people want to see a firm stand in the Viet Nam situation.

While everybody wishfully hopes that the way may be ended soon, there is no substantial support for withdrawal or retreat or surrender.

It is significant, too, that the members of the House of Representatives—all of whom come up for election every two years —have expressed little dissent from the administration's policy in the Viet Nam war, and, in fact, have been critical of those senators they regard as "soft-liners."

While it is true that some members of the House favor a four-year term instead of a two-year term, sentiment is growing against the idea.

Members of Congress usually recognize that they must reflect correctly the views of their constituents back home, but on the Viet Nam controversy it is apparent that mistaken interpretations have been made in some instances.

This may be because all wars are unpopular and there is an underlying sentiment of opposition to any conflict involving loss of human life.

When, however, the citizens are told all the facts and the first is brought home that failure to stand up in a small war can only lead to a larger one in which the sacrifices would be greater, they promptly recognize the difference between the opposing viewpoints and become anxious to see proper steps taken that will prevent larger wars.

He noted that, while probably few senators would agree with him, "all the reasons for a six-year term in the Senate have long since disappeared" and the tenure now is "entirely too long."

Rep. Otis Pike, D-N.Y., said this week, for instance, that the four-year term for House members was "nothing more than an effort to cut the voting power of the average citizen in half."

Rep. Bert Bandstra, D-Iowa, who was elected for the first time to the House of Representatives in 1964 with only 53.4 per cent of the vote, opposed the longer term and declared: "What we ought to be thinking of is reducing the terms of some of our elected officials."

'Zoot-Suiters of 1940s May Offer Some Advice'

In going over clippings from the June 1943 Pontiac Daily Press, it occurred that the "Zoot-Suiters" who gave our country so many headaches in the early and mid-1940s were now men in their middle forties with teen-agers of their own. Wouldn't these "Zoot-Suiters" be the ones to give us some advice or comfort?

What do they think of the young men in skinny pants and with long hair roaming about our country making weird noises and calling themselves musicians; or short-skirted females twanging guitars and calling themselves ballad and folk singers; the draft-card burners, etc.?

Would some Zoot-Suiter tell us whether we should go on fussing, fretting, feuding and worrying about this generation, or will this pass, too?

'Increasing Costs Show Need for Deflation'

Where does mercy begin and end? Public figures show hospital costs have risen 273 per cent while the cost of living rose only 53 per cent in the same period. Many companies are increasing rates for hospitalization plans. Utility rates climbed, outstripping the fabulous profits of the big three automobile giants. And they keep plugging for unnecessary income tax in the State capital.

We need deflation, not more inflation. If we don't get smart we will all be flat on our faces.

'Let's Take Active Part in Voicing Opinions'

The most important phase of human development is communication. Man must have a method of expressing his impressions, especially those that seem to relate to human progress.

We have a community, state and national duty to make our views felt, whether they are minor or major in scope. A combination of all opinions is the motivation of self-government. We cannot utilize the American conception of government without all taking an active part and voicing all our various opinions.

Our most urgent need is a greater participation in the affairs of government in every level.

What is the time limit for a train to block a crossing? I thought it was six minutes. But it can't be twenty-six minutes. On February 17 at 8:03 a.m. a train started to go across the crossing at Columbia by the factory. At exactly 8:29 we were able to proceed on our way to school. We were late. So were about twenty-five other kids, not to mention factory workers, teachers, and numbers of other people of different occupations. If someone were dying, what could they do? Just wait, I guess.

Can't this be enforced?

CITY DRIVER

REPLY

Five minutes is the limit. The Traffic Bureau tries to enforce this, although there is trouble at a few locations. In the event of violation, a ticket is written out to the guardmaster, who is responsible to the railroad. The fine is set by a municipal judge.

Viet Cong Lose 89 Men in Mine Field Assault

SAIGON, South-Viet Nam (AP) — A Viet Cong battalion slashed across a mine field early today and attacked elements of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division in one of the heaviest Communist assaults against the GIs.

The Americans beat off the Viet Cong regiments since Mon attackers with a barrage of mortar and artillery fire, killing at least 89 Reds and wounding 11, according to reports from the scene. U.S. casualties overall were described as light but some small units took moderate losses.

The 3½-hour battle took place near Tan Binh in the jungles 30 miles north of Saigon, where thousands of infantrymen on Operation Mastiff have been looking for several hard-core Chu Lai and called in howitzers to fire on them. The Marines spotted only six fleeing the scene and presumed the rest were either killed or wounded.

Despite heavy rain, American jets hit North Viet Nam again Wednesday, using radar in some cases to get on target, spokesmen reported. Navy carrier planes flew six missions at altitudes of 500 to 2,000 feet, pounding a highway 35 miles southwest of Vinh and a river outside Quang Ngai City in a less rifle fire, but details of the burst of guerrilla activity 30

Some Tips for a 'Boyled' Cocktail Party

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — It is too late in the winter season to sing Christmas carols and too early to have backyard cookouts. About all that leaves on the social calendar is cocktail parties. America's chief contribution to the decline and fall of civilization. There are some people who think it is easy to throw a successful cocktail party. Actually, however, there is quite a knack to it. Whether your party is a dud or a memorable masterpiece depends on your taste and judgment. * * * Some hostesses merely call in a caterer and phone up a dozen close friends they wish to entertain. The caterer's man sedately serves the drinks and passes the food. * * * SIP AND NIBBLE The guests sedately sip and nibble and discuss the weather and modern art and the latest book none of them have really read. By a quarter to eight at the latest, they have left, yawning. On the way home, they make derogatory remarks about the host and hostess, and put them both down as prize duffers. * * * This is exactly the wrong way to throw a cocktail party. People don't go to such affairs to be bored. They go to shake off their inhibitions and have a good time. The more like an orgy you can make it, the better they'll like it. * * *

In planning a successful party the first step is to take out a big insurance policy. It should cover medical expenses of injured guests, punitive suits by annoyed neighbors, and damage to furniture.

Now it is time to make out the guest list. No matter how small your home or apartment, invite no fewer than 50. Sixty or 70 is even better. Make the party look as much like a crowded football game as possible.

COZY CLIMATE Then, if more than a third of them want to sit down at any one time, they'll have to sit in each other's laps, which helps create a cozy, chummy atmosphere.

Whom to invite? It is wiser to invite people who don't know each other. That way in case they can't remember later what they said or did they will at least know, they didn't insult a friend. And naturally they won't bother to apologize to someone who is a total stranger. * * *

Now about food. Many hostesses like to prepare steamy casserole dishes. This is a mistake. Plates of it usually are found days later hidden under sofas or poured uneaten into the laundry hamper. * * *

Anyone who expects a good meal doesn't go to a cocktail party. He stays home. All that is necessary is to fix up a few trays of canapés. They can be made of anything handy — such as small bits of wallboard covered with old cheese or library paste and chopped-up eggs. The main thing is to leave the trays standing for a couple of hours in the rain to make them properly soggy. * * *

CHEAP BOTTLES

As to the liquor, don't bother to learn your guests' preference. Just buy an assortment of cheap bottles and put them on the kitchen drainboard along with some buckets of ice cubes. After two rounds, most guests don't know what they are drinking or care what it tastes like. * * *

The best time to launch a cocktail party is at 6 o'clock Friday evening. After getting the canapés circulating, the smart host and hostess will tip-toe out of the place, leaving an off-duty fireman on guard to put out any small blazes started by careless smokers. It also might be helpful to scatter around a few first aid kits. * * *

After spending two evenings in a hotel, you and your husband can probably return safely home. After having a good cry — and throwing out the last guest sleeping under the living room rug — you can start cleaning up the wreckage. * * *

But all next week you'll be getting phone calls from guests telling you what a perfectly delightful cocktail party you threw. Then you and your husband will be invited to their parties, and you'll feel completely free to wreck their homes.

Junior Editors Quiz on LAPLANDERS

QUESTION: How can Laplanders get along, living so far north?

ANSWER: Lapland, although it is spoken of as the place where the Lapps live, is actually not a separate country, but consists of certain northern parts of Russia, Finland, Sweden and Norway.

Conditions there are very difficult. It is so far north that the winters are nine months long.

The growing season is too short for regular plants. All that can survive are a few stunted trees and mosses and lichens.

In spite of these rugged conditions, the Lapps love their country and are a particularly cheerful and contented people.

They survive by making the most of their assets — one of these being reindeer.

These hardy animals manage to live by eating the lichens and mosses. Some roam wild, but many are herded by the people and are milked and raised as we do cattle.

Reindeer give meat, milk and hides to the Lapps and so are of great importance. There also are fisheries and mines producing valuable nickel and iron.

Lapps work hard and are very healthy. But the greatest asset of these little people (a grown Lapp is only 5 feet high) is their happy temperament.

Our artist symbolizes this with his picture of Lapp youngsters in their colorful costumes, having a wonderful time playing in the snow.

FOR YOU TO DO: Locate Lapland in a larger map, in an atlas. Look for the Arctic Circle, where the Arctic begins. You will be surprised how much further to the north the Lapps live—and will understand why it is so cold.

Dem Asks 'Food for All' Study

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chairman Harold D. Cooley of the House Agriculture Committee said today the United States could produce enough food to end hunger all over the world at a net cost of less than $1 billion a year.

Cooley, D-N.C., said the real problem is getting the food to those who need it.

He proposed the delivery problem be attacked "on a very large and grand scale."

The congressman's remarks closely paralleled suggestions by Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman, who called on Congress to go "all-out" in its implementation of President Johnson's proposed $3.3-billion "world war on hunger."

"Victory in this war will save more lives than have been lost in all the wars of history," Freeman said.

He spoke yesterday before Cooley's committee, which is considering the Johnson plan. Cooley said today 12,000 persons die of starvation each day and that two-thirds of the world gets too little food. He said U.S. farmers are ready, willing and able to produce all the food that is needed.

This could be done, Cooley said, simply by putting back into production the 60 million acres of farm land now retired in return for government payments. He would use the land to grow wheat, soybeans and feed grains.

RETIREMENT PAYMENTS Retirement payments now

total $1.6 billion a year, Cooley said. He added that the government could let farmers return these lands to production and buy all their output for about $2.5 billion, he said.

Cooley made his remarks at a meeting of the Freedom From Hunger Foundation.

Johnson's plan, outlined in a special message to Congress, urged that steps be taken to encourage increased farm production for the first time in 12 years to help feed hungry mouths around the world.

Water Pollution Plan Proposed

By LOU G. VAN WAGONER Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — A bold attempt for water pollution control at the local level is being made by Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Me. In an amendment to the Water Quality Control Act of 1965, he seeks expansion of funds to local communities for the construction of waste treatment facilities to $6 billion spread over a six-year period.

Both Michigan Democratic senators, Pat McNamara and Philip Hart, have asked to be cosponsors.

The funds will be made available to the states and local communities for an amount equal to 30 per cent of the total construction cost of the projects and where the states provide an amount equal to the local communities, the federal government will provide an additional 10 per cent.

With such federal, state and local participation, the total program could exceed $30 billion over the 6 years.

INCREASED AWARENESS

Sen. Muskie sees evidence of an increased awareness by both government officials and the public of the critical nature of the problem and its magnitude.

He's disturbed with the delay of the administration in organizing the Water Pollution Control Administration in the Department of the Health, Education and Welfare and the appointment of a water pollution control administrator.

Muskie favors switch of the new water control administration to the Department of the Interior and it is reported that HEW is agreeable. Meanwhile it is still supposed that the administration will come forward with a program of air and water pollution control that will be much larger and comprehensive than any yet proposed.

It is expected that the administration's proposal will be on a scale greater and more costly than the interstate highway program, which when completed will cost $60 billion.

Russian Premier Kosygin Accepts Invitation From Wilson to Visit Britain in Future

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexi N. Kosygin has accepted an invitation from British Prime Minister Harold Wilson to visit Britain, it was learned today.

The date of the visit is being worked out.

It was understood that an agreement to continue personal contacts between the two governments at high levels was the major accord to come out of Wilson's three-day stay in Moscow.

A communique to be issued after Wilson's return to London was expected to contain no dramatic signs of agreement on world affairs.

PEACE CONFAB

British officials said Wednesday they hoped a meeting between the British disarmament minister, Lord Chalfont, and the head of Hanoi's diplomatic mission in Moscow would spark a dialogue between their two countries on a Viet Nam peace conference.

Qualified sources said North Viet Nam envoy Lee Chang promised to clarify some of Hanoi's conditions for peace talks at the surprise four-hour meeting with Chalfont Wednesday.

British sources said the next step hinges on North Viet Nam's reply.

Some British authorities think Hanoi may relax one of its conditions — that the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, serve as the sole representative of South Viet Nam at any peace parley. The point has been rejected by the U.S. and South Vietnamese governments.

Wilson ordered Chalfont to meet with Lee after he reportedly made no headway in trying to persuade Soviet leaders to help sponsor peace talks.

Britain and the Soviet Union were co-chairmen of the 1964

Geneva Peace Conference that divided France's former Indochina empire, of which Viet Nam was a part.

There is a critical shortage of doctors in India, where the ratio is one physician for each 60,000 inhabitants.

After Asian-Pacific Mission

VP Optimistic on Viet Victory

(EDITOR'S NOTE — What is Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's sharpened concern and in what factors does he base his optimism about the future of Viet Nam? Fred S. Hoffman, who covers the vice president's nine-nation tour, covers these points in this report and tells how foreign leaders reacted to Humphrey.)

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has returned from his Asian-Pacific mission with growing optimism about prospects for winning ultimately in Viet Nam.

But at the same time, he came away from his nine-nation tour with sharpened concern over the threat posed by Red China all across Southeast Asia, South Asia and throughout the Western Pacific region.

Humphrey might be expected to speak confidently in public. But he expresses guarded optimism in private as well.

Asked to cite specific reasons, he acknowledges it is more a feeling that anything that can be documented.

HARD TALKS

This feeling set in after conversations with U.S. military and civilian officials at various levels in Viet Nam, from admirals to the lowest levels. Humphrey's observations, and from hard talks with Viet Nam's leaders, chiefly Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky.

The vice president, it is known, set out for Viet Nam not knowing what he would find — even though he had had the benefit of regular U.S. briefings and had been current on intelligence reports and evaluations.

His intensified apprehension about Red China grew out of a series of cards-on-the-table discussions with government chiefs, particularly those of Thailand, Laos, India, Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines.

In a way, the trip was an education for Humphrey, despite his long familiarity with world problems from years as a U.S. senator.

DRUM BEATING

The mission started out appearing to be a sort of drum beating exercise, merchandising the new emphasis on social and economic reform measures which emerged from the Honolulu conference between President Johnson and South Vietnamese leaders.

But it soon became evident that Humphrey's aims were broader than that.

In Viet Nam, he sought to gauge the sincerity of Ky and others in the Saigon government and the practicality of their plans for "rural reconstruction" and similar uplift measures.

Humphrey convinced himself that Ky means what he says and that the plans are generally sound. But the vice president is under no illusions that the execution of those plans will be easy, particularly because South Viet Nam is short on trained technicians and specialists.

BLACK MARKETEERING

The vice president did not hesitate to talk to Ky about curbing black marketeering and corruption, which undermine public confidence in the Saigon government. Ky assured him he intended to act — and he did so, shortly after Humphrey left.

Moving on to other countries in the critical Asian area, Humphrey sought to plant the idea that these nations must work in harness in facing the common menace of Red China.

He told leaders in Bangkok, Vientiane, Karachi, New Delhi and elsewhere that they must take the lead, that they must try to mobilize support and help from other non-Communist nations and not rely wholly on the United States.

Over and over, Humphrey stressed that the military facet should not overshadow the long-range aspect involving programs to eradicate the economic inequities, the poverty, the injustices on which the Communists feed in promoting subversion.

SPOKE FIRMLY

He spoke firmly to the Indians and the Pakistanis, telling them the United States expects them to come up with the deeds to back up the words of the Tashkent Agreement. That agreement is regarded as a start toward resolving the long-standing feuding between the two neighbors in the South Asian subcontinent.

In Australia and New Zealand, the vice president sought to encourage the trend in those countries toward identification with the interests of the Asian area. In the past those nations have been oriented more toward Britain and the British Commonwealth.

A couple of his stops were booked in part to soothe ruffled feelings or to avoid bruising the pride of some important leaders.

The Humphrey party was well aware that the Australians and New Zealanders were miffed at having been left out of the Honolulu conference, since both have committed some troops to Viet Nam.

AUSSIE STOP

At one point, the plan was to spend only about 16 hours in Australia. But the U.S. Embassy sent word this would not be enough to assuage the feelings of the Aussies. So the stay was about doubled.

Since Humphrey was ticketed to go to Thailand, it was felt he had to journey up to Laos, lest Laotian Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma feel slighted.

And, since he was roving around the Pacific area, Humphrey was of the opinion he could not bypass the Philippines or South Korea without risking offense.

As it turned out, the Philippine visit yielded a sort of bonus in a strong statement by President Ferdinand E. Marcos making clear his unequivocal intention to send engineer troops to Viet Nam, and his desire to follow these up with combat elements.

ACTIVE ROLE

While in Manila, Humphrey heard from Marcos that the Communist Huk are on the rise again. This is pushing Marcos toward a more active role in Viet Nam, since he regards the aggression there as part of a general Communist thrust menacing the Philippines, too.

Humphrey was sort of a revelation to the Asian leaders who watched him in action. Asian government officials normally stand aloof. Humphrey took every opportunity to meet the people, to chat with those who spoke English.

After seeing the reaction Humphrey received from Vietnamese villagers and city folk the vice president met, Prime Minister Ky was seen to plunge into American-style handshaking and patting of baby heads.

In Karachi, protocol officials finally gave up smilingly when Humphrey fell behind schedule because he insisted on striding through a hospital complex, greeting patients, nurses and doctors.

LANGUAGE BARRIER

Humphrey seemed to have the knack of breaking through the language barrier, particularly with children. They returned his smiles, and evidently caught the friendliness in his tone, even if he spoke in a tongue they didn't understand.

PLANNING DANCE — Members of the newly formed SCOT Club of the Boys' Club of Auburn Heights go over final arrangements for the SCOT Club A-Go-Go dance to be held Friday night. The members and their

New Club for Boys Follows Lions' Path

Thirty members of the Boys' Club of Auburn Heights are learning the principles of self-government, self-discipline and good citizenship through a newly formed SCOT Club.

The organization, whose initials stand for Solid Citizens of Tomorrow, is patterned after the Lions Club, a major sponsor of the local Boys' Club.

The boys, in grades eight to 10, gather once a month for a dinner meeting. The boys have elected their own officers and committees and plan their own social activities and service projects.

Present officers are Randy Polasek, 30 S. Squirrel, Pontiac

Township, president; Patrick Manion, 3159 Martell, Avon Township, vice president; Larry Davis, 204 Juniper, Pontiac Township, treasurer; and Mike Robinson, 59 Cherryland, Pontiac Township, secretary.

Through the operation of a snack bar at the club headquarters, 220 S. Squirrel, the boys hope to raise about $2,000.

TAKE TURNS

Members also take turns umpiring ball games, maintaining the playing fields, supervising game room activities and keeping score at basketball games.

A trip to a dude ranch is being planned for early April.

The members are now looking forward to the arrival of their official SCOT Club vests, which are to be worn at all club functions.

Group to Eye Alternative to Cityhood

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — Members of the citizens committee studying Farmington Township's incorporation proposal will form a special unit to consider the most prominently discussed alternative to cityhood.

The men will take a closer look at the possibility of consolidating Farmington Township and the City of Farmington.

The idea has been mentioned by several persons who have attended the study committee's four meetings.

Committee Chairman Joseph T. Brennan this week named Richard Cui, Thomas Duke and Clifford Moorhead to work with him on further study of the idea.

The subcommittee will determine "what might, or possibly ought, to be done," Brennan said.

MEETING PENDING — He noted that the subcommittee would not meet with city officials "unless it feels it's appropriate."

Main purpose of the subcommittee's study will be "to determine if the original judgment (to incorporate) was a proper one," he said.

"We're still waiting for someone to tell us why we should not incorporate," Brennan said. "We have no adverse facts — just adverse opinions."

Foes of Taxes on Nonresidents Seek to Amend Bill in House

LANSING (AP) — Suburban legislators are lying in wait to day for a city income tax bill. They hope to amend it to ban income taxes on suburbanites who work in the cities.

The bill would require a popular vote before any city could impose an income tax. The 1964 local income tax law allows a vote if citizens petition for it after the tax has been approved by the city government.

Reps. Bruce Monks, D-Mount Clemens; Robert Slingerland, D-Lake Orion; and William Hayward, R-Royal Oak, introduced amendments earlier to ban the nonresident tax.

They withdrew the amendments yesterday but said they would try to tack them on the bill when it came up for a final vote.

Social Set for Retirees

ORION TOWNSHIP — Oakland County retirees are invited to attend a social get-together at the Gingsville Community Club, 3575 Baldwin, A nonprofit, nonpolitical club will be organized.

In Walled Lake District

Student Teacher Program Is Planned

WALLED LAKE — The word "classroom" will take on a double meaning in the Walled Lake School System next year.

Not only will it denote a place for youngsters to learn their three R's and such — it also will be a training ground for prospective teachers.

Cooperating with Michigan State University, the district will establish its first full-fledged student teacher program.

To earn a degree in education, an MSU student must spend 10 weeks of his senior year practice teaching.

For a portion of that time, he watches a veteran teacher at work. Then he takes over study units to apply what he has learned.

PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE

The Walled Lake district will provide this practical experience for some 25 student teachers at a time.

A full-time coordinator for the program here will be appointed by MSU in the fall. He will spend one term getting acquainted with the staff and developing the program in preparation for the arrival of winter term student teachers.

Schools Supt. George G. Garver said he expects both Walled Lake students and teachers to gain from the experience.

"With 25 student teachers among our 300 classrooms, we will not be overburdened," he said. "We don't want to have so many that the idea loses its impact."

EXTRA HAND

The student teachers will provide an extra hand for the supervising teachers and a new face for the pupils.

"The youth, vitality and enthusiasm these people bring can be very contagious to our staff," Garver said.

He noted that critic teachers will be chosen on a voluntary basis.

Those choosing to participate will be helped monetarily in their professional growth. For each student teacher, the district will be paid $35 by MSU. This money is to go into a professional activities fund for the critic teachers.

"It could be used to help pay for tuition for graduate work of the critic teachers, or for special books, or attendance at professional conferences," Garver said.

While increasing the personnel available in the classroom, the program also will supplement extracurricular supervision.

The student teachers not only will be getting an idea of what they face in classroom situations but will be trying their hands in the fields of coaching, club activities and the like.

As a fringe benefit, the student teaching program also affords an opportunity for a teacher recruitment, Garver said.

"We can get a closer look at the prospects," he said.

The prospective teachers will have a 10-week get-acquainted period, preferable to a few short interviews with administrators.

Garver said MSU estimates that one-third of its education graduates are hired by the school districts in which they did their student teaching.

U.N. Group Picks Officers

ROCHESTER — Robert C. Rowison Jr., 158 Linwood, recently was named president of the Rochester chapter of the United Nations Association.

Other new officers include Rev. Robert Jacobson, first vice president; Mrs. Wood Geist, membership vice president; William Dorn, program vice president; Evelyn Cunningham, recording secretary; Mrs. Donald Halpin, corresponding secretary and Donald L. R. Hansen, treasurer.

The organization now is conducting a membership drive. Further information can be obtained from Mrs. Geist, 63360 Dequindre, Romeo.

Former Priest to Speak at Community Church

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Rev. John Zanon, a former Roman Catholic priest, will be the guest speaker Sunday at the 11 a.m. worship service of Mandon Lake Community Church, 915 Round Lake.

Rev. Zanon was born in Italy. Following 12 years of seminary training, he was ordained and sent to the United States in 1935.

DAVID O. LAIDLAW

Millford Twp. Man Heads Forestry Unit

Kensington Metropolitan Park superintendent David O. Laidlaw has been named president of the Michigan Forestry and Parks Association.

Laidlaw, 2130 W. Buno, Millford Township, succeeds in office Jerome E. Knight, 6565 Sandy Crest, White Lake Township.

In White Lake Twp.

Board Approves 2 of 3 Rezoning Bids

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Applications for rezoning topped the agenda at the Township Board meeting last week.

The board acted upon three applications, approving two and rejecting a third.

Mrs. Stella Dawson, 3950 Ormond, requested that 48 acres located in the north part of the township be rezoned from agricultural to residential for the construction of five 10-unit apartments. The request was denied.

The Oakland County Coordinating, Zoning and Planning Committee submitted a letter to the board indicating its disapproval of the proposed rezoning.

The committee stated that first, the rezoning does not conform with the township's comprehensive development plan, second, the site is not presently served by a public water or sanitary sewage system; and a third, this proposal constitutes spot zoning.

Citizens of the area have objected to the rezoning.

Arline Hess, president of the White Lake Citizens League, said that if the property was rezoned, the apartment dwellers would undoubtedly be using White Lake. He said the lake is presently overcrowded.

Richard Kelly, a Farmington land developer, presented two applications for rezoning, both of which were approved by the board.

One parcel of land, 33 acres located north of the Twin Lakes Subdivision, was rezoned from agricultural and commercial to residential for single-family dwellings. Kelly plans 100 units on this parcel.

85 APARTMENTS

The second, 20 acres east of the subdivision on M59, will be rezoned from its present commercial and single-family classification to apartment dwellings. Kelly plans to construct 85 apartments on this land.

In other action the board unanimously voted to request the township engineers, Johnson and Anderson, Inc., to submit a preliminary water and sewer master plan.

Supervisor Edward Cheyz said this action does not mean the township will have water or sewers this year or next. If and when the need arises, however, the township would be ready and would not have to wait for plans, Cheyz said.

Geologists from the Michigan State Conservation Department and Johnson and Anderson told the board there is sufficient water available to the township to serve the community for an indefinite number of years, and they do not feel that it will be necessary to buy water from the City of Detroit.

The water and sewer project will not cost the citizens of the township any money until they would actually be making use of the program, according to Cheyz.

Affluent Suburb's 16-Year-Olds 'Engaged in Ulcer Derby'

WEBSTER GROVES, Mo. (AP) — The 16-year-olds in this typical upper-middle-class suburb are engaged in an "academic ulcer derby," poring over their books mainly because they see a dollar sign on every page, a sociologist says.

Dr. Arthur Barron, who, with the University of Chicago conducted a six-month survey of all the 16-year-olds in Webster Groves—688 of them. He said they are "too good for their own good" and that they have an overriding fear of losing their families' financial security.

Barron says the youngsters in grades, he said, noting that 86 per cent of the 16-year-olds had signed an honor code not to cheat and to report any cheating. Most are high school juniors.

The results of Barron's survey, which began last September, will be used in a special network television program.

Barron presented the results yielded by his questionnaires and interviews to school officials, teachers and students Wednesday.

The president of the student body agreed that the analysis of his schoolmates was accurate. Barron reported that the main goal in life for 7 per cent of the 16-year-olds he studied is "a good-paying job, money, success." In virtually every category of the study, knowledge is considered at best a by-product of education, only vaguely necessary for success in life.

When asked what worried them most, the majority listed good grades. But when asked what went into the makeup of a campus leader, scholarship ranked last.

One youngster told Barron: "Learning isn't fun. I learn because the end justifies the means."

And when asked what is essential to success in adult life, the pupils ranked "getting along with people first and intelligence last, even below "compromising your principles."

INTELLECTUALITY DYING
"I fear that genuine intellectuality is being lost in the shuffle," Barron told the school administrators. "Despite some of the most remarkable teachers I have ever seen."

The materialism of the youngsters, Barron said, is due to "pressure to achieve a 'grades ticket' to the kind of life their parents want for them."

"These kids believe they have bought an insurance policy on life and that the premiums are grades and good behavior," Barron said.

Barron contends that the general concept of the teen-ager does not apply to the Webster Groves 16-year-olds. He said they are not rebellious, very few have been in trouble, homework takes by far the greatest amount of their out-of-school time, and they have very conventional attitudes about drinking and sex.

'GOOD KIDS'
"These are good kids," he said, "committed to the values of middle-class society, oriented to success, materialistic, but faintly anti-intellectual.

"And they're living for the future," Barron said. "There is very little idealism. They think happiness is a big house, two cars and a lot of money."

Barron, who holds a doctor's degree in sociology from Columbia University, chose 16-year-olds for his study because that is the age at which youngsters can drive, drop out of school, and the age at which many are passionately concerned with themselves."

The study was made in Webster Groves, which has a population of 30,000, because Barron and the University of Chicago's National Opinion Research Center felt it to be typical of the upper-middle-class suburb which is becoming so numerous in this country.

The city has a median income of $8,700 compared with the national average of $5,060, and almost 74 per cent of the workers have white-collar jobs, compared with 32 per cent nationally.

"These kids to a certain extent have lost their youthfulness," Barron said. "They are pathetically concerned with their careers. They are pathetically eager to please their parents, to make their parents proud of them. One wonders if they have not been molded too much in our image at this tender age."

4 in State to Check School Segregation

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's Board of Education decided Wednesday to assign special staff workers to work toward elimination of any de facto segregation in the state's public schools.

The board also said in a policy statement it would seek a meeting with the Michigan Civil Rights Commission to discuss de facto segregation.

The term refers to racial disparities resulting from nearly all white or all-Negro neighborhoods.

Philadelphia Outlines Laws in 2 Languages
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Local laws and customs are explained in a booklet printed in English and Spanish that is being distributed to the city's Spanish-speaking residents by the police department.

Officials said many non-English speaking persons sometimes get into trouble with the law only because they do not know what the laws are.

CASTLE IS A HOME—For Roy Tryon of Fenton, his home is his castle—and a castle is his home. The medieval-style structure was constructed almost singlehandedly by Tryon, who is 71. Tryon has fixed up one livable room after a fire swept the interior three years ago.

Michigan Man Builds His Own Castle

FENTON (AP)—For 71-year-old Roy Tryon his home is his castle and his castle is his home.

The medieval-style structure is complete with tall spires and half-compelled towers that echo a startling silhouette against the skyline of this south central Michigan town.

Tryon, frail but alert and youthful looking, has been building the castle for 30 years, mostly by himself.

"I try to keep working on it. But I had the flu last May, so the work slowed up," he says.

The castle is surrounded by a water-filled moat on a three-acre tract beside the village millpond. A short gravel road leads to the entrance. A television antenna adds an extra touch of the unusual.

INSIDE BURNED

The structure is big enough for about 15 rooms, but a fire gutted the inside three years ago, leaving just a shell.

Tryon has fixed up one room where he stays with his wife and a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Tryon.

Another son and four grandchildren died in the fire.

Built of a native stone and cement block, the castle was started in 1936. Tryon used to live in a trailer nearby but had to move into the castle when a town ordinance outlawed trailers.

FATHER BUILT CASTLE

Tryon started his castle because his father had built one in another part of the village years ago.

"A gravel pit was dug under it and undermined it," Tryon says of that castle.

Tryon worked at a number of jobs. He once worked for a chemical company and he says he holds two patents.

He doesn't know how much his castle has cost. He has done most of the work himself although for a while he was helped by another man and his children.

SON INTERIOR DECORATOR

Tryon's son works as an interior decorator.

Tryon seems to like castle life, with a few exceptions.

"The roof leaks and the cement doesn't hold up too good in this Michigan weather—and it's cold," he says.

Purdue Expert to Lead Area Educational Symposium

Some 150 Pontiac area educators tomorrow will begin a two-day symposium led by a Purdue University expert in the field of "Perceptual Motor Activities."

Featured speaker at the symposium, to be held in the intramural building at Oakland University, is Mrs. Clara M. Chaney, director of parent education at Purdue University's Achievement Center for Children.

Mrs. Chaney will head a series of workshop discussions on perceptual motor activities, a field which ties basic physical skills to development of reading and learning aptitudes.

Local discussion leaders include Mrs. Mary T. Sax, speech consultant, and Sally Parent, physical education coordinator, both of the Waterford public schools; and Mrs. Elaine Roe and William McKinney, physical education specialists for the Pontiac public schools.

Jean Lukens, coordinator of the Oakland County perceptual development program, will be one of the conference speakers tomorrow night.

"They've had some marvelous success in this field," said Dr. Lee W. Haslinger, chairman of the conference.

Haslinger, director of physical education for the Pontiac public schools, described the meeting as a "team approach" to the perceptual-learning problem.

Mrs. Chaney and others have found that physical coordination and planned manipulation of objects can promote and accelerate growth in reading," Haslinger said.

He said cooperative efforts of physical education teachers, reading specialists and doctors through development in higher stages and patterning their responses, these children have been found to have improved visual and perceptual responses.

"In the case of normal youngsters, in our own schools we feel that a sound motor-skill approach in early grades will accelerate progress in reading and learning."

affirmed the contribution of motor skills to mental development. CRAY "G" STAGE "In some cases, perceptually handicapped youngsters have been put back through the crawling stage of physical development," he said. "Then, gradually working up

What's Four Roses doing with a Fifth?

Plenty. First we took our fifth size bottle and redesigned it. (All other sizes, too.) Gave it a clean, elegant, handsome look, right? But most important is what we're doing inside the fifth. We've added a Fifth Rose—the great new taste in Four Roses. The honestly good taste of Four Roses. The kind of whiskey taste you don't just say you like, but you really do like. (A bonus note: see how surprisingly reasonable a good-tasting whiskey can be. The fact is, Four Roses doesn't cost any more any more.) So now there's no reason in the world why you shouldn't buy Four Roses. Agreed?

Report Sharks Don't See Red

Possible Protection for Man Discovered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharks may seem to go berserk at times, but they never see red. Not certain deep shades of red, anyway, and in this fact lies hope that man at long last may be able to protect himself against sharks, the American Institute of Biological Sciences (AIBS) suggested.

The AIBS issued a report on a week-long symposium held recently at Bimini in the Bahamas by a lot of scientists who have been studying sharks to find out such things as how hard they can bite and why they appear to be immune to certain maladies.

The discovery that sharks are blind to some shades of red was made by Dr. Robert F. Mathewson of the Lerner Marine Laboratory at Bimini and Dr. Kenneth O'Gower of Australia.

"A cloud of red dye around a man in the sea," Mathewson said, "might hide him from sharks much as the alarmed octopus is hidden by the ink-cloud it ejects."

400 MILLION YEARS

Octopus ink, the scientist noted, "contains a dark red pigment."

Sharks have been tearing up such human beings as they had access to ever since human beings came into existence.

They have been slashing through the seas for about 400 million years, according to Dr. Bobb Schaeffer of the American Museum of Natural History, whereas man is a relative newcomer.

So if man can now take advantage of sharks' "red blindness" to save himself, it is high time he did so.

The AIBS noted that this new protective possibility "may prove to be useful to astronauts awaiting recovery and all others in similar situations at sea."

An aerial photograph of a small town in the Adirondacks. The image shows several wooden buildings, including a large two-story house with a porch on the right, a smaller house in the center, and another building on the left. A winding road or path is visible in the foreground, and there are trees and a body of water in the background. The photograph is in black and white and has a slightly grainy texture.

AP Photofax
and a boat sits ready on top of the ice, awaiting the thaw. The condition was caused by an ice jam further down the river.

Snow Covers Several States

Four inches of snow piled up in a six-hour period at Asheville, N.C., as the storm moved eastward. Accumulations at Cape Girardeau, Mo., totaled three inches. Heavy snow covered areas in Arkansas, with four to six inches in western sections. Today's horse racing program at Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs was called off because of snow on the track. The snow covering at Little Rock totaled nine inches and it was 10 inches at Crystal Valley.

Light snow and sleet pelted areas in northeastern Georgia but generally clear skies were reported in most other parts of the state.

Tough Viet Vet Kept His Promise

By TOM TIEDE

LAI KHE, Viet Nam (NEA) — His name was Ed Ference, a sergeant, and he was killed here the other day next to a rubber tree.

How he must have cursed at the end, for he was wonderfully irrevocable.

Shortly before he left on the mission, they say, a youngster in his unit pulled him aside and admitted he was terribly afraid of combat.

"Don't worry, kid," the sergeant told him, "you'll be O.K."

"But what if I get hit?" the boy persisted.

"Then I'll come back and pull ya out, that's what."

"Thanks, Sarge."

"It'll cost ya a bottle of beer."

OLD VETERAN

An unparliamentary, good time, damn - the tomorrow veteran of three wars, he was, at 43, probably the oldest fire team leader in the 1st Infantry Division. Twenty-one years in the Army and only three chevrons, which he counted daily to make sure.

He had earned twice that many stripes in his time, for he was supremely competent, but it was part of his mischievous make-up to rise and fall in rank like a yo-yo on a short string.

They say one night he'd be promoted and sew one on. And the next night he'd be potted and rip one off.

HELD HIS OWN

His pals joked that he was becoming the best seamstress in the infantry but he countered that he was at least holding his own.

"Sergeant," an officer once asked, "you in trouble again?"

"Yes, sir."

"You know I ought to throw the book at you."

"Yes, sir."

His Third War Was His Last

"But it wouldn't do any good."

"Yes, sir."

"You'd just be back again next week."

"Yes, sir."

"Then get the hell out of here before I change my mind."

"Yes, SIR!"

Ed Ference, tall, slender, from Riverside, Calif. He talked as if he were trying to be heard above a storm. He drank as if prohibition was coming back.

Sober he was sometimes surly; drunk he came on like a wounded shark. They say his language would frost a shot glass.

He tried leaving the Army once but found out civilians weren't organized so he reenlisted. Anyway, his father and mother were dead and when he divorced his wife, well, the Army was all he had.

AT THE FRONT

He was at the fore the last time out, as usual, a member of a patrol which broke from the main body to probe for Viet Cong. They were searching for a small band, but ran into a regiment.

The fighting was brief. The patrol was mauled.

"Let's get out of here," the senior man shouted.

"O.K., get back, move it back," Ference yelled to his men.

At once the men turned. Several got it in the back. Automatic weapons fire was broken only by the occasional grunt of a grenade burst.

"My God," somebody yelled, "I'm hit."

VOICE FROM REAR

Ference stopped. The voice was from the rear. He looked around.

"Help me, somebody please help me."

The sergeant was only yards from safety. But he knew the voice.

"Hold on," he yelled, "I'm coming back."

No one saw the rescue scene, but it must have been something. Tootpick-thin Ed Ference trying to drag out a wounded buddy who weighed twice as much.

Both men crawling and falling. And the Cong suddenly turning every gun in the area on them.

Ed Ference. How he must have cursed at the end.

Bus Complaint Bears Fruit

DETROIT (P) — A woman secretary who complained her city bus was "a decrepit piece of junk" will get a free ride to work on a brand new bus tomorrow.

Eleanor C. Schudlich, secretary to Detroit Fire Chief Glenn Thom, complained in a letter to Lucas Miel, DSR general manager of the Detroit Street Railway Department. She didn't identify her employment in the letter.

Miel said the letter helped him convince the City Council to buy 20 new buses.

"It's only fair that we show her the fruits of her complaint," said Miel. "We're going to send out one of the new buses to bring her to work tomorrow morning."

BLAST KILLS FIVE — Rescue workers probe the ruins of the Keystone Fireworks explosion killed five persons and injured Co. near Dunbar, Pa., yesterday after an several others.

Says Candace Framed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A wiry, thin-faced convict claims he was told of a deal to try and frame Candace Mossler and her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, 29, in the slaying of her multimillionaire husband.

He is Virgil Nelson Halford, 29, serving a life term in Texas for raping a 9-year-old girl. He returns to the stand today for cross-examination.

Sixteen days ago, the state put Mulvey, 35, on the stand. He related a chilling tale of a four-day-for-hire proposition he said was put to him by Mrs. Mossler while he was between prison stretches in 1962. He said she gave him a $7,000 down payment to kill her husband, but the deal never went through.

IN SAME JAIL

Mulvey also testified that he found himself two years later in the same Houston jail with Powers, after Powers had been arrested in the 1964 Mossler slaying.

"He told me he killed Jacques Mossler," Mulvey said. Mulvey still has five years to go on a theft conviction.

Halford said early in 1965, while he and Mulvey were working in the penitentiary canteen, the subject of the Mossler slaying came up.

"We were discussing the case," Halford continued, "and I asked him what he knew about it. He told me he would have to come to Miami to testify. I asked him about it. He told me he was going to testify to whatever people wanted him to testify about. He said he didn't know anything about the case."

TOLD OF DEAL

"He told me he had made a deal to get a habitual indictment off him if he would help get a conviction of Melvin Lane Powers."

The "habitual" was a charge that could have imprisoned Mulvey for life for repeated felonies. Mulvey's wife, testifying for the defense earlier this week, said it wasn't clear to her how her husband had gotten off with only a six-year rap.

Know Court, Not Sport

LILLESHELL, England (UPI) — Prison guards from all over England are taking a course here in how to coach prisoners to improve their cricket. "Cricket in prisons is rather haphazardly organized," it was explained.

Detroit Negro Union Official Claims 'Night Rider' Attacks

DETROIT (AP) — The only Negro member of the United Auto Workers Union's international executive board said in an interview Wednesday his family has been under attack by "night riders" since moving into a previously all-white Detroit neighborhood last October.

Nelson Jack Edwards, 59, who also is a member of the Detroit Commission on Community Relations, says his home has been spattered with eggs, that tires on his automobile have been slashed, and that signs saying "Niggers live here" and "Niggers get out or we'll burn you out" have been left at his house.

He said he has reported each incident to police and attempts have been made to give "special surveillance" to his home.

He said he decided to disclose the alleged harassment because "if things of this sort are publicized it might assist in some way either in the apprehension of the night riders or a decision by them to stop."

NO DIFFICULTY

Edwards said he had no difficulty purchasing the home in October. The home is in a northwest section of the city.

"We have had some very warm treatment from many of our neighbors," he said. "We've exchanged visits and, for the most part, you'd think nothing had changed in the neighborhood—except when you examine the incidents."

He said the incidents "do not represent the attitude of our neighbors. I assume it must be men or boys—or maybe just one demented person."

Elected to the UAW international executive board in 1962, Edwards still is the only Negro to become a ranking UAW policy maker.

ON COMMISSION

He is a vice president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and was appointed to the Community Relations Commission by Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh in 1964.

He said his family will remain in the home despite the troubles.

"What has happened has not been pleasant," he said, "but we intend to stay."

Sloan Leaves $10 Million to 3 Institutions

NEW YORK (UPI) — The late Alfred P. Sloan Jr., former president of General Motors Corp., left $10 million each to three institutions, his will showed yesterday. Sloan died Feb. 17 at the age of 90.

Named as beneficiaries of the bequests are the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, C. A. M. Bridge, Mass., and the Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research and the Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases, both in New York.

The will, which was offered for probate yesterday in Manhattan Surrogate's Court, did not provide for Sloan's surviving sister and three brothers.

He noted, "no provision is made in this will for members of my immediate family and of various of my relatives and friends because I have made provision for them through the establishment during my life of a substantial trust for their benefit."

The three bequests were contained in a one-page, four-paragraph codicil dated Feb. 15, 1966—two days before Sloan died.

Luci's Wedding Day Promises to Be Sentimental

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lady Bird Johnson wants her daughter Luci to have a wedding to remember always as "a dream come true."

The first lady spoke sentimentally and nostalgically in an exclusive interview Wednesday night about the forthcoming marriage of Luci, 18, and Airman Patrick J. Nugent, 22, of Waukegan, Ill.

SENTIMENTAL
"I want it to be as personal and as sentimental and as real as her and the family's as our life permits," the President's wife said feelingly.

The wedding has been set for high noon, Aug. 6, at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, the nation's largest Roman Catholic church.

Because the church can hold thousands it has been assumed that the Johnson-Nugent nuptials will be a huge, very public event in social Washington.

GUEST LIST
The guest list, Mrs. Johnson said, is yet to be compiled, but it will include only "strictly friends."

Mrs. Johnson explained that the church had been picked by Luci "because it was a church she and Pat have gone to a lot and she has an attachment for it."

The mother of the bride-to-be was asked how she felt about her daughter marrying so young.

"I think any parent would prefer a child to finish her education," she replied, "but on the other hand, I think a year of planning it and a year of being sure about it is a very reasonable approach and I do think Luci is a very feminine, domestic sort of girl for whom this will be right."

Luci has been busily planning already for her wedding and there has been much speculation about her wedding party, which is sure to include her older sister, Lynda, 21, and best friend, Beth Jenkins, daughter of former presidential adviser Walter Jenkins.

A student at Marquette University, Beth introduced Pat and Luci last June.

Mrs. Johnson says she plans to clear her official calendar for June and July so she can devote all the time "to my personal life — to try to put together a lovely day to remember — the dream of every girl."

In those two months, Mrs. Johnson said, the guest list will be compiled and plans made, with the help of White House social secretary Bess Abell, for the White House wedding reception honoring the newweds.

Mrs. Johnson seemed a little sad as she commented "I've always been impressed when a bride wore a dress worn by three generations in her family — what a feeling of continuity and roots."

MARRIED QUIETLY

When she and Lyndon B. Johnson were married 31 years ago in St. Mark's Episcopal Church in San Antonio, Tex., Lady Bird had no time to dwell much on a formal wedding gown.

Lyndon was in such a rush that he even forgot to buy a wedding ring and a friend had to run across the street to buy one in a mail order house.

The first lady obviously wished she had a wedding gown to hand down to her daughter on this historic occasion.

"The dress," she maintained, "will have to be Luci's dream come true."

Luci, according to her mother, is "happy as a lark" with the big event now scheduled. And Mrs. Johnson described her younger daughter as "a sprit and a delight."

"If we have any troubles, she comes in and cheers you up," Nugent, now on active duty with the Air National Guard, was described by the first lady as having "a very good leaving influence on Luci. He gets her back to her studies and to places on time. A good solid person."

Mrs. Johnson hopes the two can manage to get away on a honeymoon that will be really private.

STILL A QUESTION

Luci is now a freshman in Georgetown University's school of nursing and Mrs. Johnson said both she and the President "want very much for Luci to continue her education and I really think she will, though maybe not at the pace she would have if she were living at home or in a dormitory."

"She's a determined little girl," said Mrs. Johnson, "a soft exterior belies a pretty strong character and she has the strength and ability to cope with life."

Hospital Unit Names New Directors

By SIGNE KARLSTROM

George Washington's birthday was remembered by the members of the women's service committee of William Beaumont Hospital as they met Tuesday evening in the MacKinnon Room of the hospital to elect five new directors: Mesdames Don K. Harness, Henry H. McCallie and James Nichols of Birmingham, and Mrs. Russell Syers and Mrs. Merrill White of Royal Oak.

The program was planned by Mrs. Charles Ervin who was assisted by Mesdames Robert Goodyear, A.G. MacCredie and Thomas Murray.

After Owen Pinkerman, administrator, spoke of the hospital's expansion, a humorous movie was shown depicting the nightmarish expectations of a patient to "enjoy" his first stay in the hospital.

Climaxing the film was the parade of models across stage, wearing all original hats, designed and executed by the volunteers to represent the 21 areas within the hospital where volunteers are serving.

The refreshment table was decorated in red, white, and blue in honor of the day.

LET'S CRUISE

Mrs. Lillian Spaulding of Birmingham, now nearing her 82nd birthday, decided that this was the time to invite her daughter, Mary, her son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Spaulding, on a Caribbean cruise, come March.

It's not the first cruise for Mrs. Spaulding, but it is the first time together with the family.

The Charles Spauldings will motor to Fort Lauderdale and there meet Mrs. Spaulding and Mary. They will all board the Cunard Line's CARMANIA stopping at Nassau, St. Thomas, Barbados, San Juan and Montego Bay.

Elaine Nagel Schedules Talk

Elaine Nagel, owner of the Village Book Shelf, will be the speaker at the salad luncheon meeting of the University of Minnesota Women's club on March 4.

Mrs. Robert Hetty will host the 12:15 p.m. event in her Birmingham home with assistance from Mrs. Howard Baer, Mrs. Lucas S. Meil, Mrs. Donald Constans and Mrs. William Wood.

More information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Nicholas Kenjosi of Birmingham.

Oakland University professor Dr. Charles Forton was a little embarrassed, but obliged smilingly when asked to display the cover of his new organ album for our photographer. Dr. Forton is an instructor of French on the university's modern language and literature staff.

OU's Prof. Forton

Records Organ Selections

By MARGARET BROWN

Area classical composition devotees undoubtedly soon will be talking about a notable local contribution to music.

Dr. Charles Forton, 39, an intense, talented Oakland University professor of French who holds a music doctorate and philosophy degree, has recorded a long-play stereophonic album of organ selections.

Entitled "Charles Forton at the Kanzler Memorial Organ," it features the works of Johann Sebastian Bach, Cesar Franck and Felix Peeters.

"I've tried to give a sampling of three periods: Baroque, Romantic and Contemporary," said Dr. Forton, full-time modern language and literature department faculty member at OU.

How did Dr. Forton come to record this, his first album? "I had given recitals at the Ford Auditorium. The press reports were favorable and people seemed impressed. The organ there is seldom used, and it is a shame — the range of this gigantic concert instrument!" he sighed.

The Aeolian-Skinner organ specifically designed for the Henry and Edgel Ford Auditorium, was specially built in Boston, with 120 craftsmen spending 14 months on its construction.

STUDIED IN BELGIUM
Son of an architect, Dr. Forton was born in Amiens, France, but studied primarily in Belgium where he was an honor graduate of the famed Lemmens Institute at Malines.

He was a master pupil of composer Peeters who he says was responsible for his coming to America.

"This album is sort of a tribute to his teaching. He comes to this country every year," said Forton who began playing professionally as a church organist in France.

"Actually, I have two deep interests: language and music," he explained. "You will find that linguists frequently are musically inclined. There is a connection between the two. The hearing must be well-tuned for both. It's a matter of learning sounds — a 'written feeling.'"

Dr. Forton, who is "pleased and proud to be with OU," told of his three-day recording session.

"So many tasks! I was quite nervous at first. There are always imperfections during recitals, but they pass quickly and no one notices. In a recording, however, mistakes heard over and over become annoying."

An emphatic "None whatsoever!" was his reply when asked if his musical tastes extended beyond the classical.

Bach's works are his passion. "He was king! Some may not like nor appreciate him, but it's an indisputable fact; he's the central figure in music history."

Asked if he plans additional recordings, the instructor answered, "I'm very well satisfied with this one. I'll have to wait and see if there's any hope of pleasing the public. It will take months of evaluation. If I'm successful, I'll consider full-time recital work."

Dr. Forton has done some composing, although none of his works has been published. "I'm sure posterity won't miss them," he chuckled modestly. Currently he is concentrating on a choral-instrumental composition.

Dr. Forton's album will be released next week.

Since When Is Wedding Gift a Ticket to Reception Gala?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My son was recently married. The bride's people went all out and put on a beautiful wedding and reception.

My uncle Adolph and his family were sent an invitation. Uncle Adolph did not show up, but his wife and six children attended the wedding and reception.

Toward the end of the reception, I asked the wife, "Where is ABBY Adolph?" She replied, "That is a good question." I was floored.

Abby, this family did not give the bride and groom so much as a wedding card, yet the wife and six children came, ate and drank along with guests who had given the couple expensive gifts and cash.

These people are in as good circumstances as any of the others. I think they had a nerve going to the festivities without sending a gift. What do you think?

BEING FRANK
DEAR BEING: A gift should not be an admission ticket to a wedding and reception. And if you think it is, why not be completely frank and send uncle Adolph's family a bill?

DEAR ABBY: A woman I know who is 62 years old married a boy of 25! Yes, you are seeing correctly. This woman has married children. Her family and friends are so shocked and embarrassed they hardly know what to say or do.

This woman was a highly respected widow for 14 years! She takes this child husband of hers all over introducing him so proudly to everyone. Can that boy be all there? Or do you suppose something could be the matter with her?

SHOCKED
DEAR SHOCKED: Not knowing either the woman or the young man, I couldn't say. But whatever the deal is, if both are happy and contented, it's nobody else's business.

DEAR ABBY: I don't want to seem petty, but when my husband and I invite a widowed lady friend out to dinner, shouldn't my husband help me remove my wrap and get seated at the table before he helps her?

SMALL MATTER
DEAR SMALL: It would be both sagacious and gracious if you staid just long enough to let your husband first help the guest and then you.

DEAR ABBY: Recently a letter writer in your column complained that she had had a death in the family and several hungry car-loads of relatives arrived for her to feed. Seven hungry car-loads!

No bereaved woman exhausted by emotional stress should have to worry about providing meals for company. Or changing beds either. What she needs most is privacy. Out-of-towners who come for funerals should stay in hotels or motels unless they are VERY CLOSE to the bereaved.

And since many will consider themselves "very close," let me spell it out. Mother, father, sisters, brothers, sons, daughters and their spouses, but without their young. (Friends and relatives who ask, "May I do something?" should be told, "Yes, look after the children.") To impose in the name of sympathy is mockery.

"Troubled?" Write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dr. John Cey Claims Bride in Lakeview

At Shanty Creek Lodge, Bell-Aire, for a honeymoon are Dr. and Mrs. John W. Cey (Joan Mary Johnson) both of Grand Rapids, who were wed recently in St. Francis de Sales Church, Lakeview.

A veil of ivory illusion and bouquet of pale pink Sweetheart roses completed her ensemble for the ceremony and church reception.

With Caroline Cloud, honor maid, were bridesmaids Pamela Suschil and Bonnie Thomas; Julie and Christian Cantwell, flower girl and ring-bearer. Dr. Harmon Krall of Grand Rapids was best man. Thomas Davies, Richard Weber, Philip Wozniak and Hugh Johnson Jr. ushered.

The bride is an alumna of Butterworth Hospital School of Nursing, Grand Rapids. Dr. Cey was graduated from Wayne State University School of Medicine.

County Group to Name Heads

Reports and an election will highlight the coffee at 10 a.m. March 4 for members of the Oakland County Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Royal Oak Woman's Club will be the setting for the event with the Junior Woman's Club acting as hostesses.

Those giving reports will include Mrs. Otis Tewksbury, Mrs. James Dorsey, Mrs. Arthur Dewey and Mrs. William Gilbert.

Following the 12:30 p.m. luncheon, James K. Flack who will be introduced by Mrs. George Minner, will speak on "The Religion of Abraham Lincoln." Luncheon reservations may be obtained by reaching Mrs. Adrian Van Oss and Mrs. H. E. Field.

MRS. JOHN W. CEY

August vows are planned by University of Michigan seniors, Helen Marie Ramsdell and Patrick John McParland, son of the John McParlands of Grand Rapids. She is the daughter of W. B. Ramsdell of Draper Avenue and the late Mrs. Ramsdell.

HELEN MARIE RAMSDELL

Jaycettes Host Junior Miss

Waterford's "Junior Miss," Gayanne Mansfield, and her mother Mrs. Arthur Mansfield were guests at the Waterford Jaycettes dinner meeting in the Canopy Restaurant recently.

Mrs. Richard Copeland, Mrs. Ronald Rogers, Mrs. William Merritt, Mrs. William Weber and Mrs. Ted McCullough.

The group will conduct a "Pixie King and Queen" contest and a bake sale in connection with the Home and Sport Show the Waterford Jaycettes are sponsoring in the CAI Building.

Projects coming up include getting Easter Seals ready for mailing and plans for a party. The Rochester group has issued an invitation to attend its spring district meeting on March 14.

New color combination for the new season—pewter gray with white. It shows in dresses, suits and costumes.

Polly's Pointers

Fake Flowers Bloom

DEAR POLLY—I live in a second floor apartment and for a long time I wanted a window box to brighten up the view. I finally decided to have green styrofoam cut to fit between the combination screen and storm windows and the inside window. Into this I inserted artificial flowers and foliage.

The result is a window box that can be enjoyed from both the inside and the outside. Colors and flowers can be changed as one desires.—MRS. R.M.N.

DEAR POLLY—Those inexpensive metal plastic-coated racks are perfect for drying wet mittens. Just stretch the mittens over the rounded prongs and move the portable rack near the heat. This is also a handy way to dry and store overshoes.—M. H.

DEAR POLLY—I was about to toss out a small metal compact because the mirror was broken. I decided to keep it to use for a handbag ash tray. The loose powder was removed, it was cleaned and is now nesting among all the other things that are in a woman's handbag.

Again and again I looked with disapproval at a throw rug that needed fresh sew-on binding. Instead of ripping off this tape and running out to buy new material I used a length of decorative braid that blended well with the rug colors. Cement was applied to the old tape and the new braid secured on top of it.

An ample piece was left at each end to be turned under, glued and reinforced with adhesive tape. The result is most satisfying.—A DAILY READER

DEAR POLLY—I have a rural mailbox that is quite a way from the house. I put a bright piece of cardboard under the lid of the box so it will fall out when the box is opened.

The cardboard is fastened to the box with a short string so it will be there to put back when I get the mail. This enables me to look out the window and know if the mailman has come by.

I am saved unnecessary trips to the box to get the mail or to take something out to be mailed if the mailman has already passed by.—G. L. M.

DEAR POLLY—When knitting children's sweaters with machine-washable yarn I also make a nylon net bag to wash along with the sweater. The size is suitable for the size of the sweater. A drawstring for the bag is made of the yarn used for the sweater.

The sweater can be put in the bag before it goes in the machine to be washed and this prevents snags and pulls. When yarn is needed for mending the sweater, the drawstring can be used and another substituted.—MRS. H. M. C.

First Round of NCAA Title Play Set

KANSAS CITY (AP) — First round pairings for the national basketball championships were announced Wednesday by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

First-round games will be played March 7-8 at VPI, Philadelphia, Kent State and Wichita State. Regional semifinals and finals are scheduled for March 11-12 at North Carolina State, the University of Iowa, Texas Tech and UCLA.

The national semifinals and finals are ticketed for March 19 at the University of Maryland. The Southwest and Western athletic conferences drew first-round byes, and went into the regional semifinals as champions of the Atlantic Coast, Southeastern, Big Ten, Missouri Valley, Big Eight, AAWU and West Coast conferences.

Eight at-large tournament participants also were announced Wednesday. They are: Western Colorado State University, Loyola of Chicago, Providence, Syracuse, Dayton, Houston and Oklahoma City. Texas Western is ranked third in the Associated Press poll, Loyola fourth.

Lakers in Key League Contest

The game crowd may not reflect it tomorrow night, but West Bloomfield's Wayne-Oakland League clash with Northville could have the most attention in the county.

Both Bloomfield Hills and Clarkson fans will be pulling for the slumping Lakers of West Bloomfield who can salvage a rather disastrous second half of the season with an upset.

Hills can't win the W-O title outright by beating Brighton unless Northville, with whom the Barons share first place, loses at West Bloomfield.

Clarkson, which will entertain Milford, must win and hope both Hills and the Mustangs are upended in order to gain a share of the laurels.

West Bloomfield's Lakers

Kettering Eyes Record of 15-1

Waterford, Captains in Cage Finals

Kettering will close its second best basketball season at home Friday night while surging Waterford will visit Port Huron Central eyeing its first winning mark of the decade.

Kettering will try to extend its new winning streak to four and up its mark to 15-1 in a return engagement with L'Anse Creuse.

The visitors will be hoping to clinch a share of second place in the Tri-County League behind the already champion Kettering combine. Laper, tied for second, will be host to Romeo.

The Captains won their first 11 games before losing and will settle for nothing less than 10 in a row now — that meaning a state championship.

SURGE
Township's Skippers have captured five of their last seven for an 8-7 mark entering Friday's encounter at Port Huron Central (1-14).

This Waterford mark approaches any previous record at this time, though the 1961-62 team finished 8-9 over-all including tournament games.

However, coach Bob Taylor and the Skippers only split the season series with Pontiac Northern; and Port Huron, despite its record, carried the Huskies into overtime last week at PNH before losing. The Big Reds will have the home-court advantage this week.

Walled Lake will bid to end its 15-game losing streak at Port Huron Northern (5-9).

City 'A' Final Set; Spencer Has Scare

IT will be the Amigos' Club Irv Gingrich of the Packers took vs. Booth Homes Monday night game honors with 16.

SURPRISES

Waterford Township's Class A League action last night had two surprises.

Unbeaten Spencer Floor Covering got a big last-quarter scare from Whites' Unbeatable, eliminating the latter. Booth, Tuesday, drew the bye in the final round.

Fred Davis' 10 points and Bob (Cy) Green's eight paced a big fourth-period outburst by the Amigos that settled the issue. They trailed by one entering the period.

The winners erupted for 24 points in the stanza, the most in any quarter by either team in the tilt. Davis finished with 20 and Green 16.

UAW 653 reached the title round in the Class B playoffs by dropping the Packers into the losers' bracket, 81-58. A well-balanced attack by the union was led by Jerry Williams and Charley Johnson, 15 each.

Colorado Lass After Ice Title

DAVOS, Switzerland (AP) — Pretty Peggy Fleming carried American hopes today as women's singles competition got underway in the world figure skating championships.

The Colorado Springs, Colo., teen-ager hoped for a better fate than Scott Allen of Smoke Rise, N.J. Allen, considered the top U.S. hope in the men's singles, stood fourth after completion of compulsory figures Wednesday.

Two Austrians, Emmerich Danzer and Wolfgang Schwarz, held the 1-2 spots in the men's competition with Gary Visconti of Detroit third.

Danzer totaled 1,194.9 points for his compulsory figures which counts for 60 per cent of the title. Free style skating in which the Americans excel, will start Friday and counts 40 per cent.

Cage Tilt Scheduled

The faculty at Waterford Our Lady of Lakes will duel a team of disc jockeys from Flint Radio Station WTRX on the WOLLI floor tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Lakeland Hawks Share Ice Lead

The Lakeland Hawks grabbed a share of the lead in the Southeast Michigan Hockey Association's Midget Class with a tense 2-1 win over St. Clair last night at Cranbrook.

All the scoring came in the final period. Dan Reich scored on a setup by Randy Sutt, then Robbie Hall converted Chuck Graham's assist into a 2-0 Lakeland (3-1) lead.

Goalie Larry Schneider lost his shutout in the closing minutes on a screen shot off the post. Lakeland will tangle with Port Huron at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in Port Huron.

Seattle Bowler 15 Pins Ahead in Rich Tourney

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Johnny Gunther of Seattle, Wash., held a 15-pin lead after two rounds Wednesday in the Professional Bowlers Association $30,000 Las Vegas Open.

Gunther put together six-game blocks of 1408 and 1286 for a 2708 total.

Don Glover of Bakersfield, Calif., was second at 2681.

Gunther's 1408 series was the high set of the day. The high game of the day was rolled by Jim St. John of San Jose, Calif., a 299. St. John strung 11 strikes before the seven-pin stayed up on his 12th pitch.

Other leaders at the midway point:

Harry O'Neale, Charleston, N.C., 2682; Harry Smith, Redwood City, Calif., 2629; Bob Colatos, Santa Monica, Calif., 2599.

Area Resorts Said Good

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Skiing conditions in Michigan, as reported Wednesday by the state's tourist associations, ranged from excellent at most Upper Peninsula areas to fair at several east Michigan resorts.

The weather forecast for today and Friday showed snow flurries and high temperatures in the low 30s in the Upper Peninsula. Highs in the low 30s, with a slight chance of snow flurries in the north, were predicted for lower Michigan.

All Pontiac area resorts report at least good skiing. Most have completely covered their not-too-long ago bare spots with manufactured snow.

Several events are slated on the activity calendar. The annual Mount Holly Prep Ski League's season-ending 13-team meet will begin 2:30 p.m. tomorrow.

This is a change from the original Saturday date due to the students taking college board examinations this weekend. Mount Holly also will have the Genesee County Open Meet Sunday afternoon.

Mt. Grampian's annual Snow Carnival will be all day Sunday. Several other areas will announce their festival plans soon.

Smith Sisters Merit Berths in Divisionals

Sisters Cheryl and Vikki Smith were the only Oakland County prep skiers to qualify last weekend at Boyne Mountain Ski Resort for the Central Division Junior Alpine championships this weekend in Lutsen, Minn.

The Bloomfield Hills teen-agers accumulated enough points over-all in Region III meets this winter to earn berths among the 16 class A girl skiers.

Cheryl, also, along with Ann Cunningham of Plymouth is an alternate to the two girls in the Open class.

Skiers from the northern part of the Lower Peninsula filled most of the Region III berths. From the divisionals, a team is selected to compete next month in the national Junior Alpine championships out West.

Area skiers did fare well in last weekend's final regional competition, although lacking the necessary over-all point totals to qualify.

Cheryl had a sixth in the Class A girls' giant slalom. Miss Cunningham took second in the open event and Cheryl was sixth.

Tom Carter of West Bloomfield placed first in the Class B boys downhill, and Clarkson's Tom Bullard had a first in the Open downhill and a second in the giant slalom. Carter was fifth in the "B" giant slalom.

Bloomfield Hills' Scott Thornley was tied for third in the "B" downhill. Jim Silcock of Birmingham finished eighth in the Open giant slalom and 12th in the downhill.

Larry Walter and Rick Walton of Pontiac took seventh and 10th in the "B" giant slalom.

Electronics Age at IRS—2

The Secret Is Out

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second in a three-part series on "The Revolution in Internal Revenue." It is written by tax expert Ray De Crane, who writes "How to Save on Your Taxes" for The Press earlier this year. These articles deal with how the government handles returns in the Electronic Age.)

By RAY DE CRANE

WASHINGTON (NEA) — One of Internal Revenue Service's best kept secrets can now be told.

As recently as two years ago, IRS was warning taxpayers that all dividend payment slips sent in by corporations and all interest payment slips returned by financial institutions were matched against income tax returns.

The threat was obvious: These amounts had better appear on your tax return or you were in trouble.

Through numerous contacts in IRS, the writer knew otherwise. Most of these report slips remained in their packing cartons in revenue offices. The facilities simply were not available to do the matching.

Because of the real danger of upsetting the nation's tax collection machinery, the story was never printed. And millions of extra tax dollars were paid on those dividends and savings interest figures.

USE CAUTION

The story can be reported now with this real word of caution from this writer:

IRS today can match all your payment slips with your tax returns and will be doing it this year.

This does not necessarily mean that IRS has abandoned the old-fashioned honor system in the collection and reporting of taxes.

It does mean that today's modern computer equipment makes it possible to perform many operations impossible until now.

"FOOL'S PARADISE"

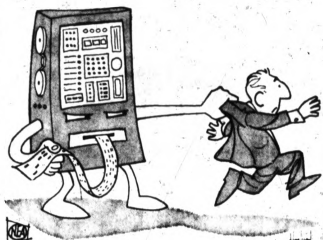

"The taxpayer who continues to use his previous year's tax return as a reference simply because he was never questioned before is living in a fool's paradise."

The speaker was John P. McKay, assistant director of the latest IRS service center now going into operation in Cincinnati, Ohio.

This center will computer-audit all individual income tax returns originating in Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia and Kentucky. It is one of several such installations around the country.

Here's what happens to your return in a service center:

Key-punch operators transfer all the pertinent information from your return—including salary or wages, extra income, dividends, interest, plus all your deductions and your claimed exemptions — on to coded cards. These cards are fed at the rate of 10,000 an hour into the computers.

Mathematical errors are no problem. The computers, which have a vast memory for all tax rates and tax tables, can correct your mistakes.

But the stumbling blocks are incorrect Social Security numbers, failure to report all items of income, failure to check the appropriate blocks on your return, claiming a $600 exemption for more persons than you have listed.

The equipment refuses to digest incorrect or garbled information.

Your return will go onto an error tape and you will receive a letter from IRS.

This may advise you to supply the missing data, correct the misinformation or to come to the IRS office for a consultation.

"Bear in mind," said McKay, "that the punch card operator can code only what she reads on your return. If you write or print your H's like S's on your return, she will start you last name with S instead of an H."

WRONG NUMBER

If your figure 3 looks like the figure 8, she will record the wrong Social Security number for you.

"If you print the names of three dependent children and then record 2 dependents in the appropriate margin, she will have to copy that identical information on your card. This is what throws a monkey wrench into the machinery."

"Formerly, our examiners could detect and change such obvious errors. That is why I advise ignoring your previous year's returns and starting from scratch each year."

"Don't copy your Social Security number from last year's return. Maybe it didn't make any difference last year if you had the wrong number because we were not matching yet."

"Look at your Social Security card first and report the number from that."

Hypnosis Cuts Childbirth Pain

By Science Service
NEW YORK — Hypnosis has been used successfully in the delivery of 78 unwed mothers in Green Bay, Wis.

Hypnosis radically reduced the pain and tension of childbirth and did not require an unusual amount of the doctor's time and effort as had previously been feared, Dr. W. J. Schibly and G. A. Anoussen, nurse of St. Mary's Hospital reported.

The experiment was undertaken at St. Mary's where all patients from the home were admitted for delivery. These patients usually experienced long and difficult labor.

Originally the intention was to use hypnosis only during labor to reduce tension and therefore pain.

However, on the basis of initial successes, the hospital decided to test a medical belief that childbirth under hypnosis is too time-consuming.

VOLUNTARY PROGRAM

All 93 women who entered the home during the year-long study participated voluntarily.

Out of a total of 93 deliveries, 15 were removed from the experiment and delivered under anesthesia for various reasons.

One woman required a cesarean operation, another convulsed on the delivery table and several had not had enough prior exposure to hypnosis training.

Accord Ends Threat of Syria Civil War

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — including commanders of the Aleppo District and the Air Force Academy.

Earlier the radio said the rebels also had the support of the National Guard and key units in central Syria and along the Israeli frontier.

Northern military leaders earlier had denounced Wednesday's pre-dawn coup and threatened to fight to restore the government of Gen. Amin Hafez. But the threats never materialized.

Radio Damascus said today the rebel regime, which dissolved Parliament and arrested leaders of the Baath Socialist party, now had the support of northern Syria military leaders Wednesday for the counterrevolutionary threat.

Negro Lays 2nd Claim on Georgia House Seat

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Civil rights leader Julian Bond has laid a second claim on a seat in the Georgia House, and oppositionists were ready with a countermove.

Bond, 26, went through the formality of a special election Wednesday unopposed on the ballot for the same Atlanta legislative post he denied himself earlier this year because he ended a statement accusing the United States of aggression in Vietnam.

He also urged men to seek alternatives to military service and professed admiration for the courage of draft card burners.

Bond drew 682 of the 695 votes cast in contrast to the 2,305 he polled when he defeated Malcolm J. Dean, who got 486. The other 11 ballots in Wednesday's election were voided because they were improperly marked.

HAS APPEARED
The House refusal to seat Bond was upheld by a federal court panel in Atlanta and he has appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

His right to hold the office and his loyalty again will be challenged under a rule adopted by the House on the closing night of the 1966 session.

Sweeps Winner on Welfare

NASHUA, N.H. — Charles Kranefuss, 72, rocked in his chair in a nursing home and told how he went from wealth to welfare.

Kranefuss went on welfare after spending the last penny from the $150,000 he and his brother won on the Irish Sweepstakes in 1935.

He said: "I was working in a gas station and living in Quincy, Mass., when my brother, Frank, and I split a $2.50 ticket on the Irish Sweepstakes.

"When an American horse named Dan Bulger was matched to our ticket, a stranger came to us and offered $10,000 in cash for half our ticket."

"Boy," Kranefuss said, "in the depression of 1935, $10,000 was a barrel of money. We were sure of that. We couldn't be sure we were going to get anything on our ticket. What if the horse ran out?"

Their horse won. Mistake No. 1 was the sale of half their sweeps ticket.

The Kranefuss brothers committed their second blunder when the stranger came to collect his $75,000 and they gave it to him in neat round figures.

The Kranefusses thus were stuck with the taxes on the full $150,000. The tax bite in those days was easier so Kranefuss wound up with about $33,000.

HIDDEN MORTGAGE

Only later did Kranefuss discover a hidden $6,000 mortgage, which he had to pay. He also sank another $8,000 into the business for improvements and additions.

Then World War II broke out and the investment in roadside cabins proved to be mistake No. 3.

People just weren't traveling the highways in those years of gasoline rationing and in 1944 Kranefuss filed for bankruptcy.

All this in less than 10 years from the day Dan Bulger crossed the finish line to make a rich man of a grease monkey in Quincy, Mass.

'GOT A JOB'

"The money loss didn't throw me too much," Kranefuss said. "I always was a bachelor and responsible for no one. I just went out and got a job."

When his health broke down in 1960, he went on the welfare roll.

1966 May Be Crucial Year for Michigan Traffic Safety

By BERNARD F. LYONS
Managing Editor,
Port Huron Times Herald

EAST LANSING — The year 1966 may well decide whether Michigan's traffic toll will continue to rise or whether it will begin a downturn.

That, at least, is the considered opinion of many safety experts — and of many laymen who have expressed deep concern over the deaths, injuries and property damage caused by traffic accidents.

Many feel that 1966 is a crucial year because perhaps never before has the state taken greater safety action on our highways so clearly marked, and probably never before, they add, have so many citizens been more ready to take drastic action to save lives.

The Highway Traffic Safety Center, a unit of Michigan State University's Continuing Education Service, has found unexpectedly broad agreement between what the safety experts say should be done . . . and what the general public is willing and ready to see done.

A public opinion survey conducted by the MSU Department of Communication in cooperation with the Highway Traffic Safety Center not only revealed intense public concern over traffic safety (second only to crime as a state problem), but also showed a surprising public demand for safety measures the experts felt might be hard to sell.

SAFETY MEASURES
Among these were stricter driver licensing, tougher traffic law enforcement, compulsory vehicle inspection and enactment of legislation giving police greater authority to determine when chemical tests for intoxication should be administered to drivers.

Traffic experts, searching for ways to cut down Michigan's more than 2,000 traffic fatalities a year, admit more answers will be needed in the future.

Yet the experts, right now, do have enough answers to virtually guarantee that many lives can be saved — and that many injuries can be avoided — if Michigan adopts an up-to-date traffic program.

(A bonus, if one is needed, is expected to be an eventual reduction in insurance rates, stemming from possible reductions in traffic accident costs.)

Current traffic safety proposals in Michigan, as recommended by the Highway Traffic Safety Center, cover various elements of the triangle of traffic safety — the driver, the highway, and the vehicle. Most of them were incorporated in the governor's traffic safety program to the Legislature this year.

SAFETY PROPOSALS

They include:
• A comprehensive new driver licensing program, reflecting the fact that driving is a privilege, not a right, which should be extended only to those qualified to exercise it . . . and only so long as they DO exercise the driving privilege properly.

• Better — and stricter — traffic law enforcement, with the added manpower that it entails; giving law enforcement officers increased authority to test drivers suspected of being under the influence of intoxicants.

• Compulsory vehicle inspection, to help remove unsafe cars and trucks from the highway before their unsafe mechanical condition can cause accidents.

• Greater cooperation between law enforcement officials and highway design engineers in pinpointing and eliminating hazardous highway elements.

• Broader driver education, requiring every driver, regardless of age, to complete a driver training course.

By The Associated Press

Business in India's Parliament in New Delhi, was held up for a few minutes while some of the members discussed a monumental issue—Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's looks.

It all started when a member of the opposition Praja Socialist party, H. V. Kamath, remarked that Mrs. Gandhi "is the world's most beautiful prime minister."

Sahdra Mukherjee, a member of Mrs. Gandhi's Congress party, thought she detected discourtesy to the prime minister in the remarks. She called on the speaker, Hukam Singh, to halt "this kind of talk."

Singh then cautioned Kamath not to make any more personal remarks from the floor.

The discussion was then taken up by Hem Barua, a Praja Socialist. He asked the speaker:

"If I say you are handsome, would you object?"
Amid laughter, Singh replied, "I will not."

Actor Aboard Viet Air Strike

AGANA, Guam (UPI) — Actor James Stewart disclosed yesterday he flew as an official observer on a bombing mission over Viet Nam Monday.

The actor, a brigadier general in the Air Force Reserve, said he piloted the giant B52 bomber on the return flight to its Strategic Air Command (SAC) base here.

He said he took no active part in the bombing raid.

He praised the SAC crews as efficient and alert and said he was "tremendously impressed" by this base.

Stewart's tour was part of his two-week active duty demanded of all reserve officers annually. He spent the time on an inspection tour of Military Airlift Command and SAC facilities.

Cherries Are Old

Recorded evidence does not go back far enough to say when wild cherries first came under cultivation. The early Romans were familiar with eight cherry varieties. And cherry stones have been found in the lake dwellings of Switzerland.

Homemade Mix Cuts Baking Time

The busy homemaker and the working woman will both agree that "Make-Your-Own" Mix is a time saver. The most important step to successful baking is in the selection of the shortening that outperforms all others.

It will provide flavor-baked foods that are tender, flaky and good to eat every time.

All the measuring is done in the beginning to save hours of preparation time later. The shortening is cut into the sifted ingredients and stored in a handy covered container on the kitchen shelf.

"Make-Your-Own" Mix is ready to be used as needed to bake the wonderful variety of recipes now available.

In addition to the recipes given below, readers may obtain others and directions for a pastry mix too. Free booklets are available by writing to: Martha Logan, Home Economist, PO Box 2021, Chicago, Ill. 60609.

Make-Your-Own Mix

2 cups shortening
9 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon salt
1/4 cup (4 tablespoons) double-acting baking powder
Combine sifted flour, salt, and baking powder. Stir well. Sift into a large bowl or pan. Add shortening. Use fingertips or pastry blender to distribute shortening throughout dry ingredients until the mixture resembles coarse cornmeal.

The Make-Your-Own Mix is now ready to use or store in a closed canister on your pantry shelf. Makes about 13 cups.

Gingerbread

2 cups Make-Your-Own Mix (do not pack)
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon vinegar
1/2 cup sweet milk
1/2 cup dark molasses
1 egg
Blend together Mix, sugar, soda, and spices. Add vinegar to milk to make sour milk. Combine sour milk, molasses, and egg. Add to dry mixture. Beat until well blended.

Pour into 8 by 8 by 2 inch pan, bottom rubbed with shortening. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 40 minutes.

Tiny Hot Beef Biscuits

1 cup Make-Your-Own Mix (do not pack)

1/2 cup finely chopped dried beef
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup milk

Blend the dried beef, mustard, and Worcestershire sauce. Stir into the Mix. Add the milk all at once. Stir until just blended.

Drop penny-sized mounds of dough from a teaspoon onto a baking sheet. Bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees) about 7 minutes. Serve hot.

To keep hot for buffet service, place in bowl or basket on a heated tray or in a napkin-lined chafing dish without cover. Makes 32.

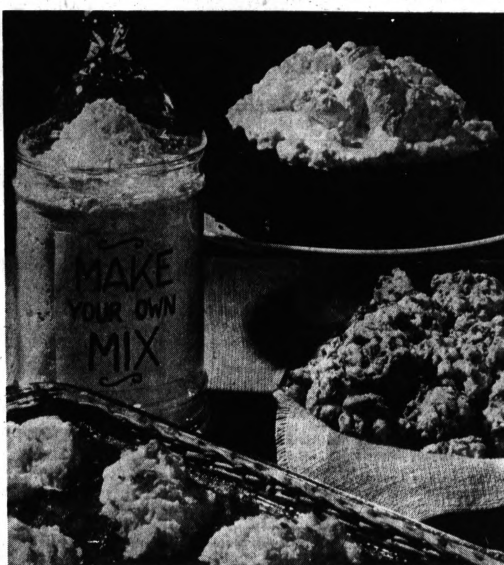

Shepherd's Beef Stew Pie
1 cup Make-Your-Own Mix (do not pack)
1/4 cup milk
24 ounce can beef stew
Spoon beef stew into a 1 1/2 quart baking dish. Place in a very hot oven (450 degrees) about 10 minutes. Add milk to mix and stir to form a soft dough. Drop by spoonfuls onto the heated beef stew. Return baking dish to very hot oven. Bake 12 to 15 minutes longer. Makes 4 servings.

Kidneys Are Delicate Food

Kidneys, considered gourmet food by the English and French, are too often overlooked by American homemakers. The highly nutritious meats make economical main dishes and offer an excellent way of introducing new flavor in meals.

Beef kidneys are the largest and least expensive; veal and lamb kidneys are the most delicate in flavor. Veal and lamb kidneys may be broiled; beef and pork kidneys should be braised.

To prepare kidneys for cooking, wash thoroughly, remove outer membrane. Split veal and lamb kidneys and remove fat and white tubes; then broil or pan-fry. For pork and beef kidneys, dice or slice, brown in hot fat, add small amount of liquid, and cook, covered, until meat is tender, 45 to 60 minutes.

HOMEMADE MIX — "Make-Your-Own" Mix has all the ingredients for more than a baker's dozen of tempting baked goods. This all purpose mixture puts the fun into baking. It is so easy to use that the whole family will want to try their talents in the kitchen.

Baked Pudding Is Winter Fare

Ever serve pudding for a party snack?

Hot Fruit Pudding

4 to 6 apples, 1 1/2 to 2 pounds
1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 can (8 ounces) halved Bartlett pears, drained
8 maraschino cherries, halved
2 tablespoons maraschino cherry syrup
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup granulated sugar
Dash of salt
1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted

Pare and slice apples into a buttered ovenproof glass baking dish (12 by 8 by 2 inches); sprinkle with brown sugar. Top with sliced pear halves, cherries and cherry syrup.

Stir together the flour, granulated sugar and salt; with a fork stir in melted butter; sprinkle over fruit. Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven 30 to 40 minutes or until apples are tender. Topping will not brown.

Serve warm with whipped cream or vanilla ice cream. Makes 8 servings.

APPLE-FIG BARS — Little cookies bars have a yummy filling of figs and apples. They'll disappear fast if you offer them with milk for an after-school snack.

Cook Figs, Grated Apple to Fill Cookie Dough

Serve them for tea, too, or with coffee, or with ice cream, or a tall glass of frosted chocolate. A new and unusually good cookie. The recipe makes four dozen.

Apple-Fig Bars
2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt, divided
½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar, divided
½ cup firmly-packed dark brown sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups (1-lb.) dried figs, ground or finely cut
½ cup grated apple
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup water
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
2 Sift flour with ¼ teaspoon salt.
Cream butter or margarine in mixer bowl. Gradually add ½ cup each granulated and brown about 4 dozen.

Combine figs, apple, ½ cup sugar, cinnamon, water, lemon peel, lemon juice and ¼ teaspoon salt. Bring to boil. Stir, stirring until mixture is thick. Let cool.

Roll out dough, ½ at a time, on floured surface to a 16 by 9-inch rectangle. Cut into three 16 by 3-inch strips. Spread 1/8 of filling down center of each strip. Fold lengthwise sides of dough, over filling, so that edges just meet. Press together lightly.

Cut into 2-inch bars. Place, seam side down, on ungreased cookie sheets. Repeat with remaining dough.

Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) for 12 to 15 minutes, until lightly browned. Makes 4 dozen.

Wrap Celery in Beef Slice as Starter

Are you tired of the same first course to start a special company dinner? Try this simple but different braised celery. It is served cold along with a delicious sauce that needs time to mellow for best results.

A sharp knife should be at the place setting for ease of cutting the cooked celery heart. The ingredients are few but the results are great.

Celery Wrapped With Beef

2 tablespoons beef stock base
2 cups water
2 hearts of celery
1 2½ oz. jar dried beef wine vinegar

Remove beef gently from jar, unroll slices and soak in hot water ten minutes. Drain. Sprinkle slices with wine vinegar. Let stand while preparing celery.

Bring beef base and water to a boil in skillet (electric skillet set at 300 degrees). Wash celery hearts, cut in half, lengthwise; tie at top with string or thread to hold together. Put in boiling bouillon.

Cook gently, covered, until tender, about 15-20 minutes. Leave string on while wrapping slices of beef around the stalk but don't forget to remove it before serving.

Serve on individual celery or salad plates. Sprinkle with coarse, seasoned salt or pepper. Serve with a bowl of Horseradish Sauce. Serve 4.

Horseradish Sauce
1 cup sour cream
1 to 2 tablespoons horseradish
¼ teaspoon salt
Mix together. Let it mellow for at least an hour. Serves 4.

Wheat Germ Malt to Help Cookies

To add wheat germ to biscuit, pancake or waffle mixes, use ¼ cup wheat germ and ¼ cup mix for each cup of mix normally used.

For cake mixes, add ¼ cup wheat germ and ¼ cup additional liquid to each 1 pound, 3 ounce (2-layer) cake mix. Divide ingredients in half for 1-layer mix.

Who Needs Meat for a Pizza?

Teen-agers seem to have taken over in the pizza department, serving this savory tomato pie at coke parties and the like. Did someone say "teen-agers don't know what's good"? Pizza is a great dish for Mom and Dad too, so why not serve a mushroom pizza the next time you have friends in for bridge or Dad has the boys for an evening of poker.

There seem to be as many variations of the pizza as there are cooks making it. The version given here has a cheese-flavored biscuit crust which is easy to prepare. Or, you might like to use your own recipe for a yeast dough crust or use one of the excellent package pizzas now on the market.

Whichever recipe you choose, don't forget the mushrooms, they add taste and eye appeal to any pizza.

MUSHROOM PIZZA WITH CHEESE CRUST

Sauce
¼ cup finely chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
½ teaspoon basil, crushed
¼ teaspoon oregano, crushed
1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste
1 teaspoon brown sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 can (3 oz.) sliced or chopped broiled mushrooms

Crust
1¼ cups biscuit mix
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

½ teaspoon oregano, crushed
½ to ½ cup milk

In a saucepan, cook onion and garlic in oil until tender. Stir in herbs, then tomato paste, brown sugar, salt, pepper and mushrooms including broth. Heat, stirring now and then.

Meanwhile, combine biscuit mix, ¼ cup Parmesan and oregano. Add enough milk to form a soft dough. With floured fingers, press dough into a 12-inch circle on a greased pizza pan or a cookie sheet; edge of dough should stand up slightly.

Spread tomato-mushroom mixture evenly over dough, leaving raised edge showing. Sprinkle with remaining Parmesan. Bake in a preheated 400 degree oven until edge of dough is brown, about 20 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

JUMBO CONTAINER—This 10-quart home milk dispenser, completely disposable, is delivered right into the home by the milkman. Its self-contained spigot serves milk whether the user wants a pitch full or merely an ounce or two. Developed by the Liqui-Box Corporation of Columbus, Ohio, it is available for home delivery through dairies everywhere. Because the container is not removed from the refrigerator, the new dispenser assures fresher and cooler milk for a much longer time. Now available from local dairies.

Mint Jelly and Milk Frozen for Dessert

With just three ingredients you can whip up a frozen mint dessert.

First place contents of a 10-ounce jar (about 1 cup) mint jelly in a small bowl and beat until smooth. Chill 1 cup evaporated milk in an ice cube tray until partially frozen, turn into a chilled bowl and whip until it is stiff and will hold a peak. Blend in ¼ cup lemon juice and beat until smooth. Fold in mint jelly.

Turn into a 1-quart freezer tray and freeze. Makes 6 to 8 smoothly refreshing servings.

Cottage Cheese Pastry Is Prize Winning Goodie

Mrs. Clint Davis, 19431 Avon Road, Detroit, Michigan, is the winner of a grand prize in the Cooking With Karo Contest. It was announced recently by Best Foods, Division of Corn Products Company, sponsors of the contest.

Mrs. Davis' recipe for Goodies as adapted in the Karo Kitchen is given here.

Goodies
1 cup margarine
1 cup cottage cheese, cream style
2 cups sifted flour
1 cup ground pecans
¼ cup all purpose corn syrup
Pecan halves

2 tablespoons all purpose corn syrup
Blend margarine and cottage cheese; mix in flour and form into ball. Store in refrigerator for 1 hour or overnight. Divide into thirds and roll out into rectangle, ¾-inch thick. Cut into 3-inch squares.

Mix the ground pecans and ¼ cup corn syrup together and place 1 teaspoon on, overlapping in center. Dip a half pecan nut in syrup and place in center. Place on ungreased cookie sheet.

Bake in a 350 degrees F. (moderate) oven about 25 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 3 dozen.

Use Citrus Fruit With Meat, Fish

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor
Winter meals might be dull, weren't it not for citrus fruits. Isn't it nice that something so good for us has such a delicious taste?

Many cooks fail to realize that lemon and orange flavors are natural for meat and fish. This week might be a good time to change your mind by trying one of these recipes.

The entire meat and vegetable course is contained in foil packets in our first recipe. Assemble the ingredients, wrap securely and let bake by themselves.

This dinner is especially designed for those on a fat or sodium restricted diet. The recipe comes from the new edition of "The Fat and Sodium Control Cookbook" by Payne and Callahan (Little Brown & Co.).

For a Sunbelt Growers special edition, send $3 to Sunbelt Growers, Section 30CS, Box 2706, Terminal Annex, Los Angeles, Calif. 90054.

SKILLET PORKERS

Lamb-in-Foil Dinner

1 pound lean boneless lamb
1 medium onion
2 medium potatoes
1 zucchini squash, or 2 summer squashes
1/2 clove garlic, minced
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/2 teaspoon sweet basil
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
4 slices lemon, 1/4-inch thick
Cut meat into 1-inch cubes; cut each of the vegetables diagonally into 4 slices. Sprinkle meat and vegetables with seasonings and divide equally into 4 portions.
Pile or layer in center of four foil rectangles (9x15 inch). Top with lemon slice.

Bring up lengthwise sides of foil. Seal together by making 2 folds toward center of package. At each end make 2 folds toward the center. (Be sure packages are airtight to avoid loss of steam and juices.)
Lay them in shallow baking pan; bake in 450 degree (hot) oven for 1 hour or until meat is tender when pierced with a fork. Makes 4 servings.

Blue Lake Beans a Good Variety

Hot soups are another cold-weather "reliable" whether for lunch or dinner. Add a new color and unmistakable heartiness to canned condensed tomato soup by heating it with drained cut Blue Lake green beans.

When making stew, use the liquid from Blue Lakes for a bonus flavor.

Blue Lake is not a brand name. It's the name that was bestowed upon a distinct variety of green bean years ago. These pole beans are packed under numerous different brand names but are always flavor identified by the words "Blue Lake" on the label. Grown in Oregon and Washington under ideal climatic conditions, they are true aristocrats in the green bean family.

Toasted Filberts

Add toasted chopped filberts to the brown sugar-butter topping for apple crisp, apple brown Betty, coffee cakes and stressless pies. You'll be delighted with the delicate flavor and interesting texture added by the nuts.

What a Dip!
Here's an idea for parties: Soften cream cheese to dip consistency with 1/4 cup (400 degree oven for 10 to 15 minutes) chopped filberts, cream and a little vermouth. Then stir in chopped pimiento.

Down in Florida they serve pork chops with oranges and sauerkraut. Pork and fruit are always a happy combination.

Skillet Porkers With Florida Sauerkraut

- 1 onion, sliced
- 6 pork chops
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 cup water
- 1 cup Florida orange juice
- 1/4 teaspoon orange rind
- 1 teaspoon cornstarch
- 1 1/2 pounds sauerkraut, drained
- 1/4 teaspoon caraway seed
- 2 Florida oranges, sectioned
- 1/4 teaspoon orange rind

In large skillet, saute onion in a little fat until onion is tender. Add pork chops and sprinkle with salt. Saute chops on both sides until golden brown.

Cover; add water; continue cooking until tender, about 1 hour. Remove chops from skillet to platter.

Add orange juice and rind to skillet and blend well with juice in pan. Mix cornstarch with a little water and add to skillet. Bring just to boil, stirring constantly. Serve other chops.

Put sauerkraut in saucepan; sprinkle with caraway seeds. Cover; cook about 15 minutes, tossing occasionally until thoroughly blended. Add orange sections and rind. Cover and heat about 10 minutes. Serve with skillet porkers. Yield: 4-6 servings.

Start With Mix for Super Soup

When your teen-age athlete and his teammates return from a rugged basketball practice, anticipate the "Hey, Mom, what's to eat?" with this "training-table" lunch or supper. Here's a substantial soup-and-sandwich eating, the kind that proves that you know how much energy calisthenics and scrimmages require.

Serve big bowls of a hearty soup made with new canned noodle with real beef stock dry soup mix. You can prepare this convenient new soup at the drop of a basketball; just zip open the can, add water to the contents, and simmer.

- Noodle-Vegetable Soup
- 1 can (2 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme, crushed
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1 can (2 ounces) noodle with real beef stock dry soup mix
- 7 cans (4 cups) water
- 1/2 cup cooked green beans

In saucepan, brown mushrooms with thyme in butter. Add soup mix and water. Bring to boil; simmer 4 minutes; stir now and then. Add beans; heat. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

SCALLOPS WITH LEMON-AVOCADO SAUCE

Buttery brown scallops are good eating for Lent or any time of the year. Served with a lemon-avocado sauce and wedges of fresh lemon, they are even better.

Scallops With Lemon Avocado Sauce

- 1 1/2 pounds scallops, fresh or frozen
- 1/4 cup flour
- 2 teaspoons paprika
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 3 to 4 tablespoons salad oil

Thaw scallops if frozen. Wash well to remove sand and shell. Drain thoroughly. Combine flour, paprika, salt and grated peel. Coat scallops in flour mixture.

Heat oil in skillet; add scallops and saute until brown and tender, about 8 to 10 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve accompanied with Lemon-Avocado Sauce and juicy lemon quarters. Makes 4 servings.

LEMON-AVOCADO SAUCE

- 1 large avocado, peeled and seeded
- 1/4 cup dairy sour cream
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
- 1 to 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon marjoram leaves, crushed
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Cut avocado into pieces; place in electric blender with remaining ingredients. Cover and blend for 2 to 3 minutes or until very smooth. Or press avocado through fine sieve; combine with remaining ingredients and beat with rotary beater until smooth.

Cold Was Unbearable

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—It was so cold in San Antonio yesterday not even the polar bears would come out. They kept inside their dens at the zoo and ignored the city's rare three-inch snowfall and readings in the 30s.

Spirit of Rebellion Within Movie Maker Held Out Until His Last Year

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD—"I'm living on borrowed time," said Robert Rossen. "From now on, I'm going to do only the things I want to do."

We were lunching last fall in Sardi's, just off Shubert Alley in New York. The writer-director-producer had endured a serious illness in previous months, and three distinct brushes with death had altered his outlook.

THOMAS

"I think I'll teach," he remarked. "New York University has offered me a lecturer's post, and that appeals to me. There are some things I'd like to say about picture-making, and I sides 'The Hustler.' Among them: 'All the King's Men,' 'Body and Soul' and 'The Brave Bulls." Rossen was always a rebel. The son of a New York rabbi, he drew his training from the radical theater of the depression thirties. Hollywood called him to write such protest films as "They Won't Forget," "Dust be My Destiny" and "Blues in the Night."

MANHANDLED SCRIPTS
Like many top-flight screenwriters, Rossen grumbled over the way directors manhandled his scripts and he sought to direct himself. Harry Cohn of Columbia gave him the chance with "Johnny O'Clock," staring Dick Powell. Rossen left the lot for the high-voltage fee with whisky. Cohn copied Mankiewicz' "A Letter to Three Wives."

Rossen returned to Columbia for "All the King's Men." "I was greatly influenced by the picture on location with un-known faces. Spencer Tracy was up for the role of Willie Stark, but I held out for Brod Crawford, whom I had seen do 'Of Mice and Men' on Broadway."

Rossen shot the film entirely in Stockton, Calif., and the vital, documentary quality of the Huey Long-like saga was recognized by Cohn. When an under-ling complained that Rossen (McCambridge), but Rossen lost called his own shots. "If I can't do it my way, I won't do it," he declared.

"All the King's Men" won the 1949 Oscars for best picture, best actor (Crawford) and best supporting actress (Mercedes)

Rossen took the Fifth Amendment during the Red hunt of 1950, but he recanted and was restored to favor. To the end he

Russian Shipping Called Challenge

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—The growing maritime power of the Soviet Union represents a "startling challenge" to the United States, says Capt. Clifton R. Largess of the Naval War College here.

Capt. Largess told a meeting of the Sons of the American Revolution that the Russians intend to outdistance America in total shipping tonnage within the next few years building 225 ships a year. He said the United States was building only 65 ships annually.

Photography Expert Dies

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures
Photography lost a potent voice, a constructive critic and the discerning judgment of an editorial eye with the death recently of Bruce Downes, 66, editorial chairman of Popular Photography.

"He Served Photography to the End" might well be his epitaph for Downes was stricken during a photography lecture in Korea at the start of a tour of the Far East for the U.S. State Department.

The debonair figure, articulate voice and probing pen of Bruce Downes have been an important part of photography for more than a quarter of a century as a writer, editor, publisher and nationally recognized judge of photographers and their work.

In 1964 a need to relax was noted and he gave up some of the more arduous duties as editor or publisher.

25 YEARS AGO
"Bruce Downes was born 25 years ago," he said. "He was rather heavy for a newborn—weighing 140 pounds. And he was certainly not premature since he was already in his late 30's."

"It sounds puzzling," Halsman acknowledged, "but it's true. Actually, Bruce Downes started life as Arthur Busch."

He became a journalist, writing columns on the arts, drama and literature for the Jacksonville Times, Brooklyn Times and the Brooklyn Citizen.

While managing editor of the paper, he used a variety of pen names for the different columns.

PHOTOGRAPHY COLUMNS
"In 1939 he started a photography column and conceived a new pen name . . . Bruce Downes. His interest in photography grew and grew and absorbed everything else."

Today the photographic world knows him only as Bruce Downes and only his charming wife, Helen, may call him 'Arthur' now and then.

1958: Pictures begin in the minds of men with vision, sensitivity and understanding. They may equip cameras with electronic brains, but minds . . . never!

that assumes the nature of the man who uses it.

It can be a horror camera or a humorous camera, a glamor camera or a gossip camera, it can be cruel or compassionate according to the hands into which it falls and the moods or attitudes of the men to whom the hands belong.

1959: As in wine-making, there are good and bad vintage years in photography. There are years of draught and bumper crops.

This was a moderate year, the crop substantial but the standouts few.

And this was another year in which the research labs and manufacturers grabbed the spotlight with a spectacular array of products.

But is equipment assuming more importance than imagination and vision? And are new products generating more excitement than new photographers.

1960: What of the Sixties?
Will it be another decade of such progress for photography?

Of course! It will be a decade of fulfillment during which photographers will begin to catch up with the ingenuity and skill of camera designers, optical engineers and chemists.

It is safe to say that the revolutionary Polaroid will introduce its long-awaited color material to broaden still further the impact of color photography on the American scene.

BACK TO DARKROOM
Color itself may be expected to lead photographers back to the darkroom for a new era of creative enchantment through the negative-positive color system.

By the decade's end, black-and-white will be largely overshadowed by the magic of color. It was a great decade but the Sixties will be greater.

It's sad to lose a warm, knowledgeable friend but photography's loss is far greater. In consolation, however, the words and ideas of Bruce Downes will always remain as permanent contributions to photography's welfare.

Four More Hungarians Ask Asylum in Italy

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—Four more Hungarians have asked for political asylum in Italy.

Police said that four tourists visiting this alpine resort with a group from Hungary had shown up Wednesday at the police headquarters and asked for asylum. On Monday, two young Hungarians abandoned another group and sought political asylum in Milan.

DEATH CAR—Being towed by a wrecker, this car was involved in an accident yesterday on North Telegraph at Pontiac Lake Road in Waterford Township. A passenger in the car, Carl R. Alger, 76, of 83 N. Marshall, was killed.

Public Housing Plan Gets Backing of Senior Citizens

Support for proposed public housing in Pontiac for senior citizens is enthusiastic from the elder citizens themselves, but elsewhere some reservations are expressed.

Representatives of retiree groups from the city's three auto plants readily support the low cost housing proposal.

The City Commission Monday proposed such housing for an unidentified site on downtown urban renewal land.

H. G. Lockwood, chairman of the UAW Local 504 Retirees Club, backed the senior citizen housing idea.

"There are a lot of people living on just Social Security," he explained. "I feel sorry for some people who have to live on $69 a month."

7 New Posts Proposed in School Budget Plans

The creation of seven new administrative positions, one at the assistant superintendent level, was proposed last night to the Pontiac Board of Education by Supt. of Schools Dr. Dana P. Whitmer.

Establishment of the new posts was included in presentation of a $12.9-million preliminary operating budget for the Pontiac public schools in 1966-67.

The preliminary budget is $447,500 above the current budget.

Whitmer said the increased budget for 1966-67 is projected on a hike in the school district's tax base of about $12 million.

No hike in property taxes would be necessary if the tax base increases as anticipated.

Chiefly responsible for the rise, Whitmer said, are an anticipated enrollment increase of 203 pupils and proposed addition of the new administrative positions.

REORGANIZATION

Whitmer also outlined to board members a proposed reorganization of present central administration assignments.

Most important of the planned positions was that of business manager, whose responsibilities would include financial management for the school system as well as direction of purchasing and supplies.

The position would be ranked with an assistant superintendent post.

Other new posts would be a coordinator of school-community and human relations, supervisor of noninstructional personnel, coordinator of evaluation and research, and assistant director of elementary education.

GROWING RESPONSIBILITIES

Whitmer cited growing administrative responsibilities in the fields of civil rights, collective bargaining with school employees and increased federal and state programs as warranting the new positions.

The two other administrative posts asked for are a third assistant principal at Pontiac Central High School and a full-time administrative assistant at Pontiac Northern.

Shirley Temple's Happiest Moment Is Now

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second in a series of 40 articles written by famous and unknown persons on how faith in God made a difference in their lives.

By ARTHUR GORDON
Written for Guideposts Associates, Inc.

When we drove away from the house on the hill, we left her standing in the California sunshine, a pretty woman in her mid-thirties with blue eyes and chestnut hair and a kind of cheerful serenity about her. Ahead of us, on the horizon, we could see the soaring San Francisco Bay Bridge.

"What are you frowning about?" my wife asked.

"That was a wonderful visit. And she's so friendly and relaxed and . . . and normal."

"Yes," I said, "Completely. That's the trouble."

"Trouble? I think it's marvelous. She was a great movie star and could easily be spoiled and selfish and vain and neurotic. But she's none of those things. She's a good wife and mother. She's a happy person. And not just because she's a celebrity. In spite of it."

TOUGH TO WRITE ABOUT

"I agree," I said. "But as a writer I have a problem. Happiness is tough to write about. It's like describing a sunset. Once you've said it's beautiful, you've said it."

"There's a little three-letter word," my wife said, "that you can apply to anything: why."

"Why is a sunset? Why is happiness? Why, specifically, is Mrs. Charles Black, formerly the famous Shirley Temple, now a completely balanced and fulfilled human being? Why?"

"She didn't tell us," I said glumly.

"Ah," said my wife, "but she did. She told us, and her house told us, and the pictures of her family told us, and her flowers and her books told us, and her child's lavender bedroom told us, and her bright sparkling kitchen told us . . . oh, hundreds of things! If you'd just stop being difficult and think back, you'd see . . ."

FIRST IMPRESSIONS

To a writer interviewing a celebrity — or anyone, for that matter — first impressions are important. And they're not arrived at consciously.

You see your subject; you're aware of the background; you hear the first conventional phrases. But all the time you are listening on a kind of psychic level, groping for the essence of the person.

This woman: friendly, outgoing, not shy, self-consciousness, no wariness. This house: comfortable, but not pretentious. Neatness and quietness. A warm center with a feeling of distance surrounding it, perhaps because it's a hill-top home with a far-reaching view . . .

"I've been terribly lucky," Shirley Temple said. "I've had such a wonderful life that the few mishaps or misfortunes seem very small."

"Think of all the things I've had! Parents who were strong

Hubert to Brief Viet Disputants on Asian Tour

President Seeks to Pour Oil on Trouble Over War Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, seeking to pour some oil on troubled congressional seas, brought partisans of the Viet Nam debate together today to hear from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, just back from his whirlwind Asian trip.

Humphrey and what Johnson described as his "mission of peace" to nine countries has also been pulled into the debate with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee seeking to Troy police are still trying to determine the cause of a fire which killed four little girls and gutted a two-family home at 6729 John R. in Troy, Tuesday.

The fire in which four of the five children of Mr. and Mrs. David Kirby died is believed to have started in the living room near an oil-fed space heater.

Police Chief Forrest O. Fisher said he plans to question the owner of the house, Mrs. Dewey Bennett, of 2875 Alfred, Troy.

She was apparently in the unoccupied portion of the partitioned home when the fire was discovered, but was unable to enter the Kirby's side of the house.

Fred Stanley, Troy's chief building inspector, said today that the owner was cited for a code violation in 1963 concerning the chimney."

HAD BEEN CORRECTED

The situation had been corrected and the house approved for occupancy, Stanley said.

Neighbors of the family are staring a fund-raising drive to day to aid the Kirbys. In charge of contributions are Alex. Holt, 2188 Jarman, and Mrs. Calvin Blankenship, 2165 Chancery, both of Troy.

question the vice president about the commitments he made, specifically in foreign aid.

Thus Humphrey, who returned last night, barely had time to shake the dust of the Orient from his shoes before stepping back into the center of things with his briefing of congressional leaders and Congress members most deeply involved in Viet Nam legislation.

From them have come the most vocal of the hawks and doves in the argument over the United States is doing too much or too little in Viet Nam.

Johnson sought to ease worries of some of the doves last night when he declared in a New York speech that the United States is not caught up in "a blind escalation of force" inching toward a broader war.

Army Overthrows President of Ghana

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI) — The army today announced the overthrow of Ghana President Kwame Nkrumah who was in Peking trying to settle the Viet Nam war.

The coup was announced over Accra radio.

Hours after the broadcast, the Soviet-trained presidential guard was reported defying a rebel ultimatum to surrender and holding out in Nkrumah's fortress-like residence on Accra's Independence Avenue.

Diplomatic dispatches reported gun fire.

The motive for the coup was not announced. But the West African state of Ghana was symptomatic of increased discontent with the one-man rule of Nkrumah, who enjoyed being addressed as "the redeemer."

CORRUPTION CHARGES

There had been charges of corruption in high places while the country itself has long suffered from economic inefficiencies.

The American-educated Nkrumah, 56, who attended University of Pennsylvania in the 1930s, ruled Ghana and its 7.2 million population virtually as a dictator since 1947.

But he lived in fear of assassination. There were at least two attempts on his life in recent years.

At the time the coup was revealed, Nkrumah was aboard a Chinese Communist airliner which landed today in Peking after a flight from Rangoon, Burma.

21-GUN SALUTE

He was welcomed with a 21-gun salute. Nkrumah left Ghana Monday on an independent Viet Nam peace mission.

The first announcement of the pre-dawn takeover came in a broadcast by radio Ghana. It announced that "the armed forces in cooperation with Ghana police have overthrown the former government led by Kwame Nkrumah. The president has accordingly been dismissed, together with his ministers."

McNamara, 71, Decides Not to Run Again

Soapy-Cavanagh Bid for Nomination May Divide State Party

By DICK BARNES LANSING (AP) — Sen. Patrick McNamara's decision to retire from the U.S. Senate opens the way for what could be a party-splitting battle for the Democratic nomination.

If Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh and former six-term Gov. G. Mennen Williams both seek the nomination it could bring the most serious Democratic split in Michigan since the 1960 gubernatorial primary.

McNamara, 71, announced in Washington yesterday that he would not seek reelection this year.

Michigan's senior senator, hospitalized off and on in recent years, blamed "relatively minor ailments" for his expected decision to quit. He now is completing his second term as a senator.

Williams, 55, and Cavanagh, 37, elected to a second term as Detroit's mayor last fall, both followed up with statements they would take a look at the situation before making decisions whether to try for the nomination.

NONPARTISAN

Detroit's mayorality is nonpartisan. Cavanagh is a Democrat in politics.

Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, had indicated earlier the would run if McNamara retired.

Though stationed in Washington for more than five years, Williams has kept close contact with Michigan politics.

Cavanagh said he would be (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

House Clears Planners' Bill

County Audit Board Would Get Control

Legislation that would place the Oakland County Planning Commission under direct jurisdiction of the County Board of Auditors cleared the House of Representatives yesterday.

The measure, sponsored by Clifford H. Smart, R-Walled Lake, was approved 104-1.

Bringing the planning commission under the board of auditors has been a goal of county officials and was part of the county's 1965 slate of legislative goals.

Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the board of auditors, said that final passage of the measure would contribute to a smoother planning operation.

He pointed out that, presently, the planning department is directly responsible to the 14-member planning commission.

RESULTS IN DELAY

This sometimes results in a delay when the board of auditors requests a study by the planning department. Murphy said, because the study must first be approved by the commission.

County Planning Director George N. Skrubbs, as well as some members of the commission, have been advocating direct jurisdiction by the board of auditors.

A presentation by Skrubbs to the legislative committee of the board of supervisors led to the proposal's inclusion in the 1965 county legislative program.

Smart's measure specifies board of auditor jurisdiction in counties with populations between 650,000 and one million.

Oakland is the only county that fits this specification. Present population is about 800,000.

BARRY M. GRANT

Lawyer Seeks Post as Judge

Trustee on Southfield Board Is Candidate

Southfield attorney and Trustee on the Southfield Board of Education Barry M. Grant announced today that he will be a candidate for probate judge in the fall election.

Grant was an assistant prosecutor from July 1961 through December 1964, before entering private law practice.

Prior to joining the prosecutor's staff, Grant, 30, 20975 Potomac, was the probate court clerk and legal investigator for the court's mental health division.

In announcing his candidacy for the newly created third probate judgeship, Grant said the most urgent problems of the office relate to juvenile delinquency, mental health, emotional disturbance and mentally handicapped persons.

"The key to many of these problems lies in parent responsibility, particularly in the area of juvenile delinquency and a youth crime," he said.

OTHER SERVICE

Grant is a designee to the Oakland County Board of Education, and is a member of the Oakland County chapter of the Michigan Society for Mental Health.

A graduate of Michigan State University, Grant obtained his law degree from Wayne State University.

Retiree Units Back Public Housing Plan

He supported the proposed location as logical.

SIMILAR VIEW

Charles M. Tucker Jr., president of the Oakland County Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), expressed a similar view.

Tucker said: "We all know there is a need for housing for our elderly."

"It is regrettable that private enterprise, the builders and real estate brokers in the city were not given the opportunity to become involved in providing such low-cost housing... which could have been done under federal programs."

Max Adams, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, favored the proposed location for the housing units, but he was against duplication of housing like the city's present public housing project.

SOME RESTRICTION

E. Eugene Russell, district manager of the Michigan Bell telephone Co., backed Adams' view. Added public housing would have to be properly administered, he said. He thought there should be some restriction on the number.

Generally, most of those quizzed favored meeting the need, but some had reservations on specific points.

One variety of public housing — the high-rise apartment project — is to be viewed Monday when a contingent of city officials and local retirees visit Dearborn's Townsend Towers.

Assistant City Manager John F. Reineck has urged those planning to take the 12:30 p.m. tour to call him at City Hall so he will know the number planning to go.

Order Woman Sent Back to Ionia State

An Addison Township woman charged with first-degree murder will be returned to Ionia State Hospital for the Criminally Insane.

Hospital authorities in January released Mrs. Jane Kendall, 45, of 1480 Noble, saying she was capable of standing trial.

Yesterday, Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn ruled that she was still insane and ordered she be recommitted.

She was first committed in October after her ex-husband, Glen, 45, and his wife, Lucille, 46, of Detroit, were found shot to death in front of her home.

Two of three psychiatrists who examined Mrs. Kendall following her discharge last month told Thorburn that she does not understand the charge against her and would probably break down under the ordeal of a trial.

THIRD DOCTOR

The third doctor testified that while Mrs. Kendall is "still very sick," her condition has improved and she may enough presence of mind to assist her defense counsel.

Testimony revealed that Mrs. Kendall has an aversion to using the word murder when the killings are discussed. She says her action was justified because she was acting in self-defense.

Her attorney, James M. Skillman, joined in the petition for the sanity hearing with Assistant Prosecutor Timothy E. Dinan and didn't object to the findings.

EXPRESSED INTEREST

He has expressed interest in the Senate race but reportedly also has been under pressure to consider running for governor against Republican George Romney.

With the bulk of congressional and legislative support plus significant union backing for Williams, there has been talk that Cavanagh's forces are reevaluating the senatorial primary.

Gov. Romney is favored to win a third term, though he hasn't officially said he'll run.

Many Democrats regard Cavanagh as their best gubernatorial candidate at least strong enough to dim chances of any Romney landslide that could cost Democrats control of the State Senate and up to four U.S. House seats.

CITY, FEDERAL WORK

Cavanagh so far has said he's more interested in city or federal work than being governor.

Last week, however, he met with Leonard Woodcock, United Auto Workers vice president, whose union reportedly would favor Williams for senator but would welcome Cavanagh against Romney.

Teamster President James R. Hoffa is in Cavanagh's camp, but August Schuler, state AFL-CIO president, said he's for Williams.

School Building Plans Depend on Bond Vote

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Present planning of the board of education depends on a favorable vote in the $11-million bond issue April 4, according to schools superintendent, Eugene L. Johnson.

The board reviewed preliminary plans by Linn Smith Associates, architects, for a one-unit school on the Merrill property, W. Long Lake near Telegraph, at this week's meeting.

Johnson pointed out the need for 18 new elementary classrooms by the fall of 1967. The one-unit school would provide only six.

If the bond issue is approved, funds would be available, and a three-unit structure would be constructed he said.

In the interim the school board approved the preliminary plans for the one-unit building and instructed the architects to proceed with planning for a larger school.

CONTRACT AWARD

Contracts for an addition at the Traub School are scheduled to be awarded at the March 22 meeting.

The new wing, programmed for use next fall, will include six classrooms, two special education rooms and a music room.

In other business, the board was informed by attorney Lawrence King that 120-day options have been obtained on three parcels of land.

Alleged Sniper to Stand Trial

Gary Addison Taylor, Oakland County's alleged "phantom sniper" of nine years ago, yesterday was ordered to stand trial on a charge of assault with intent to murder.

The charge has been pending since February 1957 when he was arrested and accused of terrorizing women in south Oakland County.

Taylor, then 20, was committed to Ionia State Hospital, for the Criminally Insane. He was never tried for the shooting incidents.

He is specifically charged with wounding a Bloomfield Hills woman.

Circuit Judge Philip Pratt denied a motion by Taylor's attorney to reduce bond. Taylor is in the Oakland County Jail in lieu of a $50,000 cash bond or $100,000 in two surety bonds.

nary budget was the first step in a four-month process which leads to final allocation of school system funds some time in June.

"Far and away the major item in the budget estimate was instructional costs totaling an estimated $9.60 million, of which about $9 million goes for teacher salaries."

NEXT BIGGEST

The next biggest expenditure was for plant operation and maintenance personnel at $1.52 million.

Staff studies of additional needs will be presented at the March 9 board meeting and are expected to increase the budget estimate.

The figure reached following that meeting goes to the board April 13 for adoption and transmittal to the Oakland County Tax Allocation Board.

Final adoption of the budget is scheduled for June, when revenues are determined and possible adjustments in salary and wage schedules have been made.

Max Adams, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, favored the proposed location for the housing units, but he was against duplication of housing like the city's present public housing project.

SOME RESTRICTION

E. Eugene Russell, district manager of the Michigan Bell telephone Co., backed Adams' view. Added public housing would have to be properly administered, he said. He thought there should be some restriction on the number.

Generally, most of those quizzed favored meeting the need, but some had reservations on specific points.

One variety of public housing — the high-rise apartment project — is to be viewed Monday when a contingent of city officials and local retirees visit Dearborn's Townsend Towers.

Assistant City Manager John F. Reineck has urged those planning to take the 12:30 p.m. tour to call him at City Hall so he will know the number planning to go.

The Secret Is Out

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second in a three-part series on "The Revolution in Internal Revenue." It is written by tax expert Ray De Crane, who writes "How to Save on Your Taxes" for The Press earlier this year. These articles deal with how the government handles returns in the Electronic Age.)

By RAY DE CRANE
WASHINGTON (NEA) — One of Internal Revenue Service's best kept secrets can now be told.

As recently as two years ago, IRS was warning taxpayers that all dividend payment slips sent in by corporations and all interest payment slips returned by financial institutions were matched against income tax returns.

The threat was "obvious: These amounts had better appear on your tax return or you were in trouble."

Through numerous contacts in IRS, the writer knew otherwise. Most of these report slips remained in their packing cartons in revenue offices. The facilities simply were not available to do the matching.

Because of the real danger of upsetting the nation's tax collection machinery, the story was never printed. And millions of extra tax dollars were paid on those dividends and savings interest figures.

USE CAUTION
The story can be reported now with this real word of caution from this writer:

IRS today can match all your payment slips, with your tax returns and will be doing it this year.

This does not necessarily mean that IRS has abandoned the old-fashioned honor system in the collection and reporting of taxes.

It does mean that today's modern computer equipment makes it possible to perform many operations impossible until now. "FOOL'S PARADISE"

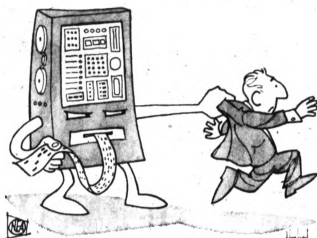

"The taxpayer who continues to use his previous year's tax return as a reference simply because he was never questioned before is living in a fool's paradise."

The speaker was John P. McKay, assistant director of the latest IRS service center now going into operation in Cincinnati, Ohio.

This center will computer-audit all individual income tax returns originating in Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia and Kentucky. It is one of several such installations around the country.

Here's what happens to your return in a service center:

Key-punch operators transfer all the pertinent information from your return — including salary or wages, extra income, dividends, interest, plus all your

These cards are fed at the rate of 10,000 an hour into the computers.

Mathematical errors are no problem. The computers, which have a vast memory for all tax rates and tax tables, can correct your mistakes.

But the stumbling blocks are incorrect Social Security numbers, failure to report all items of income, failure to check the appropriate blocks on your return, claiming a $600 exemption for more persons than you have listed.

The equipment refuses to digest incorrect or garbled information.

Your return will go onto an error tape and you will receive a letter from IRS.

This may advise you to supply the missing data, correct the misinformation or to come to the IRS office for a consultation.

"Bear in mind," said McKay, "that the punch card operator can code only what she reads on your return. If you write or print your H's like S's on your return, she will start you last name with S instead of an H."

WRONG NUMBER
If your figure 3 looks like the figure 8, she will record the wrong Social Security number for you.

"If you print the names of three dependent children and then record 2 dependents in the appropriate margin, she will have to copy that identical information on your card. This is what throws a monkey wrench into the machinery."

"Formerly, our examiners could detect and change such obvious errors. That is why I advise ignoring your previous year's returns and starting from scratch each year."

"Don't copy your Social Security number from last year's return. Maybe it didn't make any difference last year if you had the wrong number because we were not matching yet."

"Look at your Social Security card first and report the number from that."

Hypnosis Cuts Childbirth Pain

By Science Service
NEW YORK — Hypnosis has been used successfully in the delivery of 78 unwed mothers in Green Bay, Wis.

Hypnosis radically reduced the pain and tension of childbirth and did not require an unusual amount of the doctor's time and effort as had previously been feared, Dr. W. J. Schibly and G. A. Anoussen, nurse of St. Mary's Hospital reported.

The experiment was undertaken at St. Mary's where all patients from the home were admitted for delivery. These patients usually experienced long and difficult labor.

Originally the intention was to use hypnosis only during labor to reduce tension and therefore pain.

However, on the basis of initial successes, the hospital decided to test a medical benefit that childbirth under hypnosis is too time-consuming.

VOLUNTARY PROGRAM
All 93 women who entered the home during the year-long study participated voluntarily.

Out of a total of 93 deliveries, 15 were removed from the experiment and delivered under anesthesia for various reasons. One woman required a cesarean operation, another convulsed on the delivery table and several had not had enough prior exposure to hypnosis training.

MRS. WALLACE

Wallace to Put Wife in Race

To Run as 'Stand-In' in Alabama Primary

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Gov. George Wallace, barred by the state constitution from seeking reelection, was expected to put his wife in the race today as a "stand-in" candidate. Wallace, whose term expires next January, made known his political intentions at a news conference today. It was a foregone conclusion that he would say his wife, Lurleen, 39, will seek the gubernatorial nomination in the May 3 Democratic primary.

Mrs. Wallace, an attractive honey blonde mother of four children and an avid fisherman and flying enthusiast, was expected to accompany her husband when the promised announcement is made at the state capitol. INVITES FOLLOWERS The governor, one of the South's most ardent segregationists, invited his followers from throughout the state to attend the conference in the House of Representatives chamber.

Both Wallace and his wife have made it clear that if she is elected, she would be governor in name only and that Wallace would run the show. The governor last fall tried to get the state constitution amended so he could run for a second term. But Senate opponents defeated the measure. Others seeking the gubernatorial nomination are former Govs. John Patterson of Montgomery and James E. Folsom of Cullman, a W. Todd, state agriculture commissioner, of Russellville; former congressman Carl Elliott of Jasper; Sherman Powell of Decatur; Charles Woods of Dothan; C. Rex Scott of Cordova; and Mrs. Ralph Price, the first of her sex in the state's history to qualify as candidate for governor.

PROMISE OPPOSITION The Republicans elected five congressmen and numerous county officials two years ago and have promised determined opposition in the November general election. James D. Martin of Gadsden, the Republican's best vote-getter and one of those elected to Congress, has said he will seek his party's gubernatorial nomination when the GOP picks its candidates at a July convention in Montgomery.

OF SOUTHEASTERN FUND DRIVE

OVER THE TOP—Martin Rummel (left), division chairman of the Pontiac Junior Achievement Council, points out to Wallace Wilson, general J.A. fund chairman for Southeastern Michigan, that Pontiac has surpassed its goal of $10,141. Pontiac's J.A. fund teams have collected $12,700 toward the Unit goal of $72,300. Funds solicited in Pontiac will be used solely to operate and expand the local J.A. center at 20th E. Pike.

75 Businessmen Attend C. of C. Legislative Parley

By L. GARY THORNE

The trumpets were sounded yesterday for Pontiac area businessmen to participate in 1966 legislative sessions. Some 75 industrial and business leaders attended a morning legislative conference at the Pontiac Civic Temple.

The conference was cosponsored by the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce and the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce. L. W. Spokesman for the state chamber reviewed 1966 state and federal legislation affecting business and presented some of the legislative proposals under consideration.

Both cited two federal legislative proposals alone that could hike individual business costs by 14 to 28 percent. These were the proposed hike in the minimum wage and the bill to require double time for overtime.

Harry R. Hall, state chamber president, called on local businessmen to join the chamber's legislative action network, a system whereby legislation can be influenced at the state and local level. CONSTITUENT APATHY He said the apathy of a legislator's constituents is more often an influence than their concern.

Hall added that the state chamber's legislative action network has 800 members across the state. INSURANCE BUSINESS In addition, the business of insurance is likely to receive some consideration by the legislature, he said.

Among the specific bills for legislative attention, Sneed expected every effort to be made to establish a State Labor Relations Board and make some changes in annexation laws. In addition, four-year terms for House members and increased legislator pay or expense allowance are anticipated in 1966. Donald A. Booth, manager of the state chamber's public affairs department, told the 75 businessmen at the breakfast meeting that the trend toward an all-powerful federal government is growing. FEDERAL EXPENDITURES Booth said that in the next five years federal expenditures are expected to grow by $30 billion in five specific areas: Medicare, antipollution, regional development, education and training and urban renewal.

Home Building Seen Trailing Pace of '65

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst NEW YORK — Shoppers for new homes may have more trouble this year finding some of the financing they need to finance their mortgage. So government agencies think home building will trail last year's pace, according to a continuing bond. The big issue here is how high will construction workers' wages go. And the government is finding it tough going as it tries to hold the unions within its guidelines.

Construction of other types of buildings is being run at a record pace, however. And most signs point to a continuing boom. The big issue here is how high will construction workers' wages go. And the government is finding it tough going as it tries to hold the unions within its guidelines.
