

This Is How It Felt

FEEL FIRST MICHIGAN WINTER — The bottom really didn't drop out of the thermometer last night, but Mariene Hampshire illustrates how the -1 degree weather felt to one not accustomed to Michigan winters. Mariene, a Pontiac Press employee who lives at 2005 Dexter Rd., is a war bride and only 4 months from her home in High Wycombe, England. She says temperatures are not usually so low there as in Michigan.

If you shivered in South Pole-like temperatures this morning, be of good cheer — they are about due to leave the Pontiac area, the U.S. Weather Bureau reports.

Tonight will be partly cloudy and cold with a low near 10 degrees, but tomorrow's prediction is for warmer with a high near 24-28.

The mercury recorded one below zero at Pontiac State Hospital between 7 and 8 this morning, making it the coldest reading this winter.

Three above was the lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. At 1 p.m. the reading was 18.

Southern and Central Michigan spots were colder than the Upper Peninsula early today.

Flint was the state's coldest spot with the mercury registering 11 below zero. It was only 10 below at Pellston, and a -6 at Grand Rapids.

Sault Ste. Marie reported 17 below yesterday morning, but today reported a reading of 13 above.

Ex-Editor of Confidential Slays Wife, Self in Taxi

NEW YORK (AP)—Howard Rushmore, former editor of Confidential magazine and anti-Communist crusader, shot and killed his estranged wife last night and then killed himself, climaxing an argument in a taxicab.

Police listed identifications of both as tentative pending formal identification by next of kin. But newsmen and neighbors of the Rushmores at the scene said they were certain it was the writer and his pretty blonde wife, a former from the Rushmore residence. They were arguing then, Pearlman said. He said the woman jumped into the taxi and tried to keep the man from entering. But the man shoved his way into the cab, telling the driver: "I'm her husband, don't worry about it."

Pearlman said the woman shouted, "If he's going to ride in this taxi, I don't want to. Drive me to the station house."

The driver said the couple con-

Rushmore's testimony was featured during the Hollywood criminal libel trial of Confidential last year. He said he joined the magazine in 1953 to expose communism but was assigned to do stories mostly involving the private lives of movie stars. He said he left the magazine after a dispute with publisher Robert Harrison over the type of material he was to write.

Rushmore had worked for the New York Journal American for 15 years as a top anti-Red writer until he was fired in 1954 for economy reasons. Rushmore said he was discharged partly because he criticized Roy Cohn, then an aide to the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

WOMAN'S EDITOR

Mrs. Rushmore was at one time a woman's editor of the Journal American.

Recently, Rushmore worked for "True War" magazine. Mrs. Rushmore left the Journal American in 1954 to become an account executive with the publicity firm of Klingman and Spencer in Manhattan.

Says Reds Hit Snag in Firing Sputnik III

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vanguard chief John P. Hagen said today the Russians probably have run into difficulties trying to shoot a new Sputnik into orbit around the earth.

At the same time, Dr. Hagen cautioned that the next attempted launching of a Vanguard rocket still may not result in placing a U. S. satellite in space.

Severe Winter Storm Hits Florida

Damages Heavy in Winds' Wake, Residents Say

At Least Twenty Shrimp Boats Missing; No Word on Fate of Crews

MIAMI, Fla., (INS) — Residents of the lower east coast of south Florida reported heavy damage today in the wake of the worst winter storm in 50 years.

At least 20 shrimp boats were reported missing. There was no immediate word on the fate of their crew members.

The Italian tanker the Globe reported from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., that one crewman was killed and another seriously injured when the 465-foot ship, enroute from Port Arthur, Tex., to Rotterdam, Holland, encountered heavy seas during a gale off the east Florida coast.

The tanker, whose home port is Palermo, Sicily, listed the dead crewman as Napoli Giuseppe, 36, of Catania, Sicily. The injured seaman was D'Arrigo Salvatore, 44, also from Catania. The two men were battered during the storm while trying to secure a hatch. Salvatore was taken to North Broward General Hospital in Fort Lauderdale.

Damage from winds that reached 73 miles an hour in gusts was reported heavy through south Florida. Trees were toppled, plate glass windows blown out and signs wrenched from moorings.

Unless sunny weather comes to the rescue, crop damage from the steady rain which came with the storm may run into the millions of dollars.

At Elsie, Fla., flames fed by strong winds destroyed five frame buildings and left 67 persons homeless but no one was injured.

At Port Isabel, Tex., a storm that churned up western waters of the Gulf of Mexico for the last two days moved eastward toward Cuba, leaving one fishing vessel missing.

Getting Full Facts, Johnson Assures

WASHINGTON (INS) — Demands for release of the Gaither Report were expected to continue today despite assurance by Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson that Congress will get all of the "facts" in the controversial study—but not the Report itself.

One senator said the "important" information in the White House report is not the facts on U.S.-Soviet military strength but what the authors of the survey "thought about the facts."

An aide said the "information," which Johnson claimed his Preparedness subcommittee already has or expects to obtain through testimony, does not include the recommendations or conclusions of the Gaither group.

The White House report is understood to have concluded that the U. S. faces the greatest peril

Polish Scientist to Stay in U. S.

Wife, Daughter to Join Refugee Now Teaching at Johns Hopkins

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dr. Jerzy Leon Nowinski, one of Poland's top theoretical scientists, says he defected to this country to escape "political, moral and religious conditions" in his native land.

"It is this feeling of freedom we feel so strongly in the United States that compares with the difficult problem of living in Poland," the 52-year-old mathematical wizard told a news conference yesterday.

Nowinski arrived here Oct. 16 as a guest professor at Johns Hopkins University. He applied to the FBI for refuge shortly after learning his wife and 7-year-old daughter had reached safety in England.

The 5-foot, 6-inch scientist who holds a doctorate from the Warsaw Technical University is internationally known as a specialist in thermoelectricity—the study

Pontiac Man Has Top Missiles Job

A former Pontiac boy who got his start in scientific education at Pontiac High School, holds an important post in the nation's missile program. He is Frank F. Rand Jr., manager of nose cone engineering for General Electric.

Rand feels particularly indebted to his mathematics teacher Samuel Dudley with whom he studied advanced, elective math courses such as analytical geometry and trigonometry.

His early life was in an atmosphere of scientific inquiry. His father, Frank F. Rand Sr., of 4224 Lanette Dr., Waterford Twp., made some 24 prospecting trips to the Labrador.

"Young Rand was an extremely curious pupil, as well as an A-student," said Dudley.

This curiosity, according to Rand was the chief reason he became interested in science and engineering, a curiosity which he feels, a scientist much have. Dudley was instrumental in Rand's enrolling at the University of Michigan. At Michigan, he received his Bachelor of Science degree in aeronautical engineering in 1947, and later received his Master of Science degree in engineering mechanics.

After serving in the NROTC at Michigan, Rand served in World War II, as an Ensign in the U. S. Navy.

He received top honors in his six weeks training course at St. Mary's College, Calif., and as a PBM pilot saw action in two Jima, Okinawa, Saipan and China.

For his war service, he was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, Air Medal and Combat Star.

At present, he is a technical

Chrysler Firm Tight-Lipped on Jupiter IRBM

'Full-Scale' Production Soon, Gen Barclay Tells Newsmen in Chicago

DETROIT (INS) — Spokesmen for Chrysler Corp. remained tight-lipped today regarding an announcement from Chicago by an Army official that the IRBM Jupiter missile will go into full-scale production soon at Warren.

Brig. Gen. J. A. Barclay told newsmen at the Chicago Auto Show that the Jupiter, a 1,500-mile range missile capable of delivering a nuclear warhead, "will go into mass production soon and be shipped to European launching sites by this fall."

In Chicago, a Chrysler spokesman was quoted as saying the missiles will be built at the government-owned, Chrysler-operated missile plant at Warren. The plant is a one-story structure large enough to cover 40 football fields.

Several weeks ago Rep. Gerald Ford (R-Mich.) said employment at the plant would go up from the current 4,500 to approximately 9,000.

Corporation representatives refused to confirm or deny this saying only that the Army would make the official announcement about the production work at the proper time.

General Barclay told an INS reporter that component parts of the Jupiter, which has a speed of roughly 10,000 miles per hour, already are being built. But he added that the production line still has not been set up.

Asked about the actual date the Jupiter will be sent to Europe, the general replied:

"We expect to have the Jupiter ready for the deployment date set by Defense Secretary Neil McElroy—in the latter part of 1958."

The Jupiter is a "step-up" model of Chrysler's Redstone, a guided missile with a range of 275 miles. The Jupiter was developed at Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville, Ala., under the direction of Werner Von Braun, the former German rocket wizard.

member of Naval Bureau of Aeronautics Lt. (j.g.).

With his schooling and wartime experience, Rand was well qualified for his present position. As manager of the nose cone engineering with the Missile and Ordnance Systems Dept., he is engaged in one of America's most crucial defense projects.

The Air Force ballistic missile program, the largest military development program undertaken by the country in peacetime, has been assigned the highest priority in the nation.

The nose cones, on which Rand is working, are the most forward part of a missile, and are being used in the intercontinental ballistic missile Atlas, and the intermediate range ballistic missile Thor.

On training of future scientists, Rand says: "Not only should students receive more training in technical subjects, but they should receive training in expression and English so they can communicate creative scientific ideas to others."

At present Rand, his wife and three children are living in Devon, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Bell and daughter Char-Ann of Baltimore, Md., left Friday after spending several days with her sister, Mrs. Clarence Smith of Cass Lake road.

Dr. and Mrs. George Harkless of Mark avenue have just returned from a trip to Florida and New Jersey. In Florida they visited Mrs. Harkless' father at Lakeland.

On their way north the two spent four days in Pennsauken, N.J., where they visited Rev. and Mrs. George Garver and family.

The Garvers are former Pontiac residents, the Rev. Mr. Garver having been pastor of the Ascension Lutheran Church. He is now pastoring the Temple Lutheran Church in Pennsauken.

Ending a two week stay in the city on Sunday will be Barbara Mercer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Mercer of Ottawa drive. Barbara will return to San Bernardino, Calif., by plane to resume her duties teaching school.

Jean Butler, daughter of the Clarence Butlers of Lake Angelus, will return Sunday to University of Michigan where she is a sophomore. She is a member of Sorosis.

Arthur H. Scott II, son of the Collis A. Scotts of Franklin boulevard, returned to Michigan State University to resume his studies.

Elinor Christa Schutt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin A. Schutt of Auburn avenue, will return to Sienna Heights College in Adrain Sunday after spending the holidays in the city. Mr. Schutt's mother, Mrs. August Schutt of St. Clair returned to her home Friday after spending the holidays in the Schutt home.

Back to his studies at Michigan State University is junior Jack B. Porritt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Porritt of Cherokee road. He is majoring in hotel management.

When the Women's Association of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra meets Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. H. Purdy on Mary Day avenue, a review of the symphony concert to be presented Jan. 21 will be given by Mrs. Paul Eliason.

To leave Monday for Ann Arbor is Barbara

Blackwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Blackwood of Ottawa drive. Barbara, a sophomore at the University of Michigan, is majoring in English.

Back home on Osceola drive after a trip to Sarasota, Fla. are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dawe and their two daughters, Susan and Priscilla, who were guests of Mr. Dawe's mother, Mrs. Gracie Dawe at Sarasota.

The Fred Steinbaughs and son Frederick Jr., of North Johnson avenue, have returned to their home after spending the holidays at Miami Beach, Florida.

Spending the past week in Chelsea and Grand Rapids was Lola Stokoe of Oneida road. She visited friends and relatives in the two cities.

Spending the holidays at Fort Knox, Ky., were Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Holmes of Oneida road. They were the guests of their son and daughter-in-law, Capt. and Mrs. Charles Holmes and children, Steven and Susan.

Pontiac Woman Sings Thursday

Birmingham Musicale will present two new members in a program Thursday at 2 p.m. in Birmingham Community House. Mrs. Richard C. Royal of Valencia drive, Pontiac, soprano, accompanied by Robert Bates at the piano, will present songs from the works of Handel, Debussy and Samuel Barber.

Arthur R. Welton of Birmingham, who plays solo flute with Pontiac Symphony Orchestra, will be accompanied by his wife, Martha Sisney Welton, in the "Sonata for Flute and Piano" by Hindemith. Mrs. Welton will offer a group of piano solos from the repertoire of Rameau, Scarlatti, Debussy and Prokofiev.

MUCH EXPERIENCE

Mr. and Mrs. Welton received their music degrees from Michigan State University and Indiana University and have had extensive experience in solo and duo recitals, as well as having participated in chamber music programs, civic opera productions and symphony orchestras.

In charge of the tea following the musical program are Mrs. Robert D. Lynd, Mrs. John D. Maynard, Mrs. Glenn A. Kyker and Mrs. Francis A. McGuire. Mrs. James J. Hogan is chairman of the meeting.

They Resent Being Typed Oldsters Are Individuals

By BEULAH STOWE

"Thank you for writing about older people as though they are still alive and individual," says a Blue Earth, Minn., reader.

"My husband is 67 and I am 62, and we both feel like we are human beings worthy of being treated with dignity, not just as part of a lump of 'oldsters' who are a growing problem to the country. We resent the superior attitude which some experts on aging seem to display."

THEY OBJECT

Older people have far more resistance to being "lumped" sociologically than do kindergarten children. And any teacher knows she can't convince a 5 year-old that he is exactly like everyone else.

In defense of those who make a study of old age, the gerontologists, let it be said that they are fully aware of the vast range of individual differences which exist in this age group. But their mission is not to throw up their hands in despair because the differences are so great, or to cater to a few individuals. Their job is to create

Dance Presented by Promenaders

Promenaders Square Dance Club held its third annual New Year's Eve dance in the Waterford CAI Building. Heading the decorations committee was Mrs. Lawrence Sierama.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cram and Mrs. Everett Parker became members of the club. Callers for the event were Fred Neumann, Walter Koenig, Bob Longe and Warren Allen, with Hal Brown as guest caller. James Schell was master of ceremonies.

MRS. RICHARD E. VANDEWARKER

Patricia Heathcott Weds Richard E. Vandewarker

Vases of white pompon chrysanthemums flanked the altar of Our Lady of the Lakes Catholic Church, Waterford, for the 11 a.m. wedding today of Patricia Lee Heathcott and Richard E. Vandewarker. The Rev. Frederick J. Delaney performed the ceremony before 200 guests.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. James D. Heathcott of Waterford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Vandewarker of Normande drive.

GOWNED IN VELVET

The bride wore a gown of chiffon velvet, fashioned on princess lines with a Sabrina neckline and long fitted sleeves re-embroidered with lace and seed pearls. Her headpiece of re-embroidered Alencon lace held a fingertip-length veil of silk illusion. The bridal bouquet was of stephanotis and white orchids on a prayer book.

Honor-maid Mary Jane Flynn of Merrill and bridesmaids Sharon Vandewarker, a sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Gerald Bauer, Mrs. Thomas Healey and Hilda Schrubba were gownned alike in red velvet sheath dresses fashioned with red satin cummerbunds and panels. Each wore a headpiece of red feathers and carried red and white poinsettias on white fur muffs.

ATTEND BRIDEGROOM

Kenneth Shelton of Minneapolis, was the best man. Charles Heathcott, brother of the bride; Gerald Bauer, Leslie Hartzman and Thomas Jacobson acted as guests.

Group Addressed by Rev. Bersche

"Spiritual Hunger" was the subject of the Rev. G. J. Bersche of Pontiac Christian and Missionary Church, when he spoke in Barnett Chapel of First Baptist Church Friday afternoon. He addressed members and guests of Wayside Gleaners Society of the church.

Mrs. T. N. Slosson sang to the piano accompaniment of Mrs. William E. Hakes. Mrs. Betty Coleman was received as a new member.

Women Important in Business World

Women are becoming more and more important in the man's world of business.

The U. S. Bureau of Census predicts that 32,529,000 women will be working by 1975, a third of the total working force predicted for that year.

Patricia L. Heathcott and Richard E. Vandewarker were united in marriage today at 11 a.m. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. James D. Heathcott, and the bridegroom is the son of the Kenneth E. Vandewarkers.

Geography Knowledge Is Helpful College Courses Valued by Wife of Explorer

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Studying geography at college comes in handy when you become the wife of an explorer, says Tay Thomas, wife of Lowell Thomas Jr.

The junior Thomases are following in the footsteps of Lowell's famous father, exploring the far corners of the earth together and helping out on production and filming of the current Lowell Thomas TV series, "High Adventure."

"Tay's a great traveler," says Lowell Jr. "We plan to take as many trips together as possible as soon as the children are a little older. Right now our little girl, Anne, is 2 and Lowell III is 6 months."

LONG TRIP IN '54

"We took our greatest trip in 1954 — sort of delayed honeymoon. We took a whole year and traveled all over Africa and the Middle East in our own airplane. We did a little work too filming a TV series called 'Our Flight to Adventure.'"

"We carried sleeping bags and four day's food supply on each leg of the trip. We used the plane for big jumps and then set off on foot to explore the country."

"We took some chances during part of the trip, flying over the Himalaya Mountains, on a course where there were no airports, no radio and no weather reporting in a single-engine plane. But we were lucky, and Tay said she didn't mind if I didn't."

Lowell Jr. is a former instructor in the Air Force, and still flies his own private plane on lecture tours around the country. He has been well schooled by his adventurous father, having started his globe-trotting career at the age of 15, when Lowell Sr. arranged for him to accompany a movie camera man on a trip to South America with the U.S. Navy in 1939.

Dear Abby

If Retired Hubby Goes on Warpath Find Him a Far Cause to Fight For

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: My husband got retired on a pension last spring and so help me, I wish he was back at work. He just sits around the house and tells me how to do things."

"In 42 years of married life he never lifted a finger to help me so much as empty the trash can and now he criticizes my method of cleaning, doing the laundry and even cooking. He's got such an ugly disposition that when he offered to walk the neighbor's dog, the dog wouldn't go with him."

"Now will you please tell me, Abby, what am I going to do with him? Is there a club he can join? He is in good health."

MRS. F. J. H.

DEAR MRS. H.: Interest your husband in some volunteer organization. There are Church groups, Red Cross, Salvation Army, to name a few. Keep him too busy to criticize the home-front.

"DEAR ABBY: I am 13 years old and like this boy Barry. I am Jewish and he is half-and-half. My mother isn't very happy about my seeing him. We are not very religious people because we ride on Saturday and eat bacon and pizza."

"I tell her that I like Barry a lot but do not think I am going to marry him. He was not bar mitzvahed but is getting confirmed in the Temple. My mother still says he is half-and-half. What should I do?"

SHARON

DEAR SHARON: Some "half and half" is pure cream, but at age 13 you had better listen to your mother.

"DEAR ABBY: I don't want to contradict you, but recently you said you never heard of a shower given for a person who didn't attend the shower. Well I have. They are called "Parcel Post" showers and we had them for girls who were away with their husbands in service."

"We all brought our presents, unwrapped. We had a lot of fun wrapping them and all put in a big box and sent to the guest of honor. I hope you don't mind my telling you, Abby."

MARCELLA JACOBS

DEAR MARCELLA: Thank you for your letter. Abby made a boo-boo. Forgive me?

"DEAR ABBY: Next month is our silver wedding anniversary. I have overheard that our intimate friends are giving us a surprise party. Since we know all about it, I don't know how we should act when we get there."

NOT SURPRISED

DEAR NOT: Act surprised! How else?

CONFIDENTIAL TO CON- NIE: If you want to crash the movies remember it takes (a) a little brains, (b) a little talent — with the emphasis on the latter.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of this paper. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped-addressed envelope.
