Shiny '57 Models Call Hundreds to City Auto Show

By JAMES BINDER
News Editor, Pontiac Press

A chrome and enamel maze of glittering new cars, sleek lines silhouetted against the gowns of pretty hostesses, drew hundreds of area residents to a building in southwest Pontiac last night for the opening evening of the 1957 Auto Show.

They arrived in such numbers, in fact, that show planners revised earlier predictions over expected crowds and estimated today that total attendance will be above the 15,000 foreseen at starting time yesterday morning.

While searchlight beams danced across the sky, spectators roamed through Oliver Motor Sales' new service building, 40 Walnut St., touching, comparing and asking questions about the more than 30 new models on display.

There were the "dream cars"—the Pontiac Parisienne and Bonneville, and the Buick Wildcat—to exclaim over.

★ ★ ★

Two sports models — a Ford Thunderbird and Chevrolet Corvette—were occupied from dusk to closing time by admiring swarms of gadget-happy kids.

Discussions on fine mechanical points arose from an ever-present crowd around a cutaway, operating model of a Chevrolet Bel-Air.

Oldsters chuckled happily over a 1903 Model A Ford while five feet away a chromed Thunderbird V8 engine attracted a procession of serious teenagers.

★ ★ ★

Only for a brief time did the roaming stop — when the crowds clustered at one end of the hall to watch a precision dance demonstration by the "Rayettes," a local

Collision Kills City Teachers

2 Women Instructors at Longfellow Die in Crash With Truck

Two Longfellow Elementary School teachers were killed last night when their car collided head-on with a haulaway truck on M60 four miles east of Homer, in Calhoun County.

Dead are Mrs. Stella Lou Zell, 55, of 68 Mathews St., and Mrs. Charlotte Harpham, 41, of 668 N. Perry St. Both were killed instantly, according to the Albion Sheriff's Department. The two women were en route to Lawton, just east of Niles, to visit friends.

Driver of the truck, Roland Nelson, 32, of 20345 Greenway Ave., Birmingham, told Sheriff's deputies the women's car skidded off the shoulder of the road and swung into the path of his vehicle.

Nelson was returning to Birmingham after delivering a load of five cars on his double deck haulaway. He was not injured.

Deputies said the dirt shoulder of M60 at that point is six inches lower than road level. Mrs. Zell must have lost control on the slick pavement, they said, in an effort to straighten the car out.

The Sheriff's Department this morning had not yet located Mrs. Zell's husband, John, who according to neighbors left for a trip to northern Michigan yesterday.

Mrs. Harpham had been a first grade teacher at Longfellow School for six years. Mrs. Zell was a vocal music teacher.

City to Get Hearing on Airline Service

Pontiac was informed Friday that its request for additional airline service will get a hearing April 27 from the Civil Aeronautics Board in Lansing.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac was among a number of Michigan cities represented at a meeting of the Michigan Airline Service Committee in Lansing yesterday where John W. Dregge, chief of the CAB's routes and carrier relations division, made the announcement.

★ ★ ★

The Airline Committee represents outstate cities which have asked CAB to approve requests for passenger and air freight service for their communities.

Dregge cautioned the committee that not all interested cities would get airline service, and that some must lend support to others.

Increase in Benefits Sought by AFL-CIO

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The AFL-CIO today set its sights on a federal guarantee of two-thirds normal pay for a worker when unemployed—a plan already in effect in some private industries.

A policy statement adopted by the AFL-CIO Executive Council at its winter meetings here urged Congress to require states to provide unemployment compensation benefits amounting to "at least 65 per cent" of a worker's past fulltime earnings.

The proposed maximum benefit would be limited to two-thirds of workers' average weekly earnings. This average is now about $80 a week.

The plan thus proposes weekly unemployment benefits of about $55 compared with payments now averaging about $30.

Under supplemental unemployment benefit plans already negotiated by unions with the auto, steel and other industries, employers augment state jobless payments to a maximum of 65 per cent of a worker's normal take-home pay.

BENEFITS TO 39 WEEKS?

The labor group also proposed extending to 39 weeks the period state benefits are payable.

In its policy statement yesterday the council said state unemployment insurance laws "continue to be woefully inadequate." The statement was drafted by a committee headed by President Walter Reuther of the Auto Workers Union.

The council was in recess until Monday, but George Meany, the federation's president, continued a round of meetings aimed at ironing out union jurisdictional disputes. The feud may come to a head at council sessions next week.

The Navy brought aircraft carrier Antietam, plus a half dozen destroyer escorts, here for a mock war games demonstration today for the visiting labor leaders.

Saud to Stay for More Talks

Meetings Going Well, Assure U. S. Officials Amid Speculation

WASHINGTON (AP) — King Saud of Saudi Arabia has decided to extend his stay in Washington, evidently for further talks with top U.S. officials on Middle Eastern problems.

There was immediate speculation that some difficulties might have arisen in Saud's conferences with President Eisenhower.

But American officials said they were certain this was not true, that the talks had been going extremely well. A spokesman for the King said the meetings have been held "in an atmosphere of warm cordiality."

Such an atmosphere was present last night at a dinner Saud gave for Eisenhower at a downtown hotel.

Saud praised the United States for supporting the principles of the United Nations in sponsoring "peace in the world and self-determination" for peoples under colonial rule.

Freezing Drizzle May Come Tonight

The U.S. Weather Bureau forecasts cloudy, light snow, and little temperature change tonight and tomorrow, with the possibility of occasional freezing drizzle mixed with snow late this afternoon or evening.

The low tonight will be 14 to 18, while the high tomorrow will reach 24 to 28 degrees.

Preceding 8 a.m. the lowest temperature recorded in downtown Pontiac was 16.

The mercury reading was 28 at 2 p.m.

Detroit Was Cold Spot

DETROIT (AP)—Last month was the coldest January in Detroit since 1945 and nearly eight inches more snow than normal fell. The weather bureau reported temperatures 5.1 degrees below normal, compared with 6.3 in January, 1945. Snow for the month measured 17.9 inches, compared with a normal 10.

Friends Rush to N. Y.; FBI Joins Probes

MIAMI (INS)—A "mercy plane" left Miami for New York early today loaded with friends and relatives of persons aboard the Northeast airliner which crashed late yesterday on Rikers Island.

The airline refused to disclose the number of persons who took advantage of its offer to fly friends and relatives to the scene free of charge, but said the plane was due at New York's LaGuardia this afternoon.

New York police early today accepted the offer of FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover to join the mushrooming investigation into the air tragedy. The FBI thus joins six other separate investigations under way.

6 Weeks of Winter Ahead!

Shadow Routs Groundhog Back to Cozy Cubbyhole

Promptly at noon today, the telephone rang at the suburban residence of Glen Groundhog, peerless weather forecaster and shadow caster extraordinary.

Rubbing four months of accumulated sleep from his eyes, Glen groped for the instrument and mumbled, "Hello."

It was a Press reporter calling to remind Glen that the day had arrived. "Millions of snow shovel-weary readers are waiting to know your forecast Glen," the reporter barked through the phone.

"All right, all right," Mr. Groundhog snapped, "I guess I'll have to dig out my woolies and raccoon coat and get outside for a few minutes. But for the life of me, I don't understand why they pick on me.

"For years I've been telling everybody that this seeing your shadow business only works with a true European groundhog, and I'm not even distantly related.

"I'm really a marmot, an underground squirrel. But no, every Feb. 2, they wake me out of a sound winter's sleep and want a forecast. My mother warned me, I should have gone south for the winter."

So, while his shivering admirers huddled around, Glen came out of his burrow today suitable attired and wearing sunglasses just in case. He glanced around, spotted his shadow, omen of six more weeks of winter, then dived back into his subterranean ranch home, turned up the thermostat and climbed into bed.

He was heard to murmur as he dozed off, "There must be an easier way to make a living than predicting weather in Michigan."

Worker Killed in Factory Accident

A 34-year-old Pontiac Motor foundry division laborer was accidentally killed early this morning when he struck his head on a bar he was using to clean foundry sand from a machine, police report.

John C. Thomas, 21366 Creston Lane, Ferndale, was pronounced dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital by Dr. H. Riggs, coronor, about 3 a.m.

Thomas was found lying in a pool of blood from the cut on his head alongside the machine, according to DePauw.

He said the victim was killed when the bar caught in one of the fingers of the cylinder located on a conveyor belt which picks up sand.

Thomas apparently tried to hold the bar in his left hand and turn the switch to move the conveyor belt, with his right at the same time, DePauw added.

GM Employes Share $216,255 for Ideas

Employes of three city General Motors plants shared a total of $216,255.09 in suggestion awards during 1956, GM spokesmen said today.

The cash prizes were part of more than $3 million paid to corporation employes last year for ideas to improve their jobs and company operations.

Six employes of local plants received maximum awards of $2,500 while another 17 were paid prizes of $1,000 or more. A total of 3,264 suggestions were accepted.

Louis G. Seaton, vice president in charge of the personnel staff, says total payments for worker ideas since 1942 amount to more than $20 million.

U.N. Broaches New Plan to Remove Israeli Troops

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. General Assembly moved into a special weekend session today to push a plan to get Israeli troops out of Egypt and maintain peace in that shaky part of the Middle East.

★ ★ ★

But as the 80-nation body took up the two-part proposal there was no public sign of acceptance from either Israel or Egypt. Both nations must concur before the plan could be put in operation, even if it gets the expected Assembly support. The plan's main points are:

1. Deplores Israel's noncompliance with previous Assembly resolutions and calls for immediate withdrawal of Israeli forces behind the 1949 Palestine armistice line.

2. Requests both Israel and Egypt to observe terms of the armistice and endorses recommendations of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold for use of U.N. emergency force units to keep the peace along the demarcation line.

The resolution says that after Israel pulls out of the disputed centers of Sharm El Sheikh and the Gaza Strip, observance of the armistice requires the posting of UNEF forces "on the Egyptian-Israeli demarcation line."

The plan was sponsored by the United States, India, Brazil, Colombia, Indonesia, Norway and Yugoslavia. Disagreement with the United States caused Canada to withdraw from the list of sponsors. Canadian delegates said the plan should contain more specific instructions for use of U. N. forces in the disputed areas.

The proposal was announced last night in an atmosphere of tension as delegates received word of a shooting clash between Israeli troops and Swedish soldiers of the UNEF.

An official U. N. announcement from Cairo said the Israelis opened fire on the Swedes and the U. N. unit returned the fire. It said there were no casualties.

An Israeli army spokesman said later in Jerusalem an Israeli patrol had mistakenly crossed into U.N.-held Egyptian territory and was fired on by a U.N. patrol. He said the Israelis fired back and returned to their own soil.

60 Families Left Homeless

But Tennessee River Danger Lessens; Other Flood Areas Dig Out

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (INS) —At least 60 families were homeless in the Chattanooga area today where the Tennessee river spilled over and flooded low sections.

★ ★ ★

However, authorities reported the river had crested at 31.8 feet and that barring a heavy downpour, the most serious danger was over.

Other parts of Tennessee also were hit by floodwaters which earlier in the week caused 13 deaths in Kentucky, West Virginia and Virginia and forced thousands to flee their homes.

Residents of Sevierville were evacuated when the swollen Pigeon River inundated major portions of the town, while homes and business establishments at Fayetteville, Tenn., isolated by the surging Elk River.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, residents of hard-hit Kentucky and West Virginia dug out from the mud and slime left by a flood termed the "worst in the history of the area."

Mistake in Ballots Forces Reprint Job

Due to an error in the rotation of candidates' names on the absent voters' ballots for the Feb. 18 primary some 200 absentee ballots for Waterford Township will be discarded and reprinted today, according to Louis Barry, clerk.

Barry conferred with Robert Montgomery, state director of elections, yesterday regarding an error made at the printing company. The error was made in the assembling of ballots after the necessary rotating of the names had been made.

Kenneth Tracy, owner of the printing firm, said: "It was a minor error made during the assembling of the ballots before the definite number had been printed."

Barry said that proofs of the ballots are being prepared to be sent to each candidate in the township for his inspection.

Your Income Tax

This is one of a series of articles prepared by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service to help you prepare your Income Tax Return.

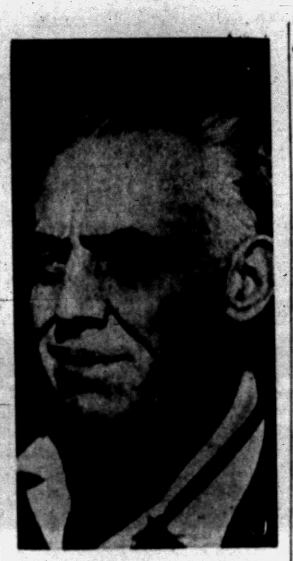

TO YOUR CREDIT

In most cases you are allowed a credit against your tax of 4 per cent of the dividends included in your income. Subtract 4 per cent of the dividend income (after exclusion) from the total tax as shown on page 1 of the tax return.

You may be entitled to a credit for an excess of social security taxes paid by you. Ususily, this situation will arise when an individual has received wages or salary from more than one employer.

If this be the case, add the excess paid in over $84 to your income tax withheld — as shown in the tax withheld column. If a joint return is filed, each spouse must compute the credit separately.

(Further information on income tax problems is available without charge at the Internal Revenue Service office, 531 W. Huron St. Phone FE 2-0208.)

The Day in Birmingham

City Manager Studies Fire Volunteer Group

BIRMINGHAM — City Manager Harold K. Schone is making a study for the revaluation of a 16-man volunteer section of the Birmingham Fire Department. The job is being done at the request of commissioners here.

One problem that faces the department is an attempt to arrange the volunteer group for assistant coverage both day and night.

It is possible that two divisions will be organized; one composed of men who live or work in the city and are available for daylight calls, the other to be depended upon in nighttime emergency.

Schone also has to decide whether or not the voluntary unit is too large or too small, and how it should be fitted into civil defense programs.

He will also go over minor changes in the department's overall operation including leave days, work uniforms and whether to continue required membership in two firemen's associations.

Commissioners from Birmingham and Troy are planning a joint meeting for Thursday, Feb. 7, for the discussion of mutual governmental problems.

Among the issues is the paving of Derby road east of Adams; Troy's purchase of water from the Birmingham well on East Maple road; widening Adams road north from Madison avenue to the railroad viaduct, and zoning problems of several border properties.

A special children's day program was scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. with the first of two marksmanship exhibitions by Lt. Lester Coykendall, Michigan State Police pistol champion.

"Gallagher's Accordion Band" was to appear at 3 p.m., followed by the senior group of the "Land-O-Lakes Drum Majorettes" at 4 p.m. The accordion unit's senior group is scheduled to appear at 5 p.m.

Lt. Coykendall will appear on the stage again at 7 p.m., followed by the dancing "Rayettes."

Doors will open at 1 p.m. tomorrow afternoon; first scheduled event of the day will be a 3 p.m. fashion show sponsored and conducted by the Bloomfield Fashion Shop.

★ ★ ★

The show's final major event, the coronation of "Miss 1957 Auto Show," will take place at 7 p.m., against a background of orchestral music furnished between 6 and 10 p.m. by the "Kimtones."

VOTE FOR NOMINEES

The winner, selected from a trio of candidates, will be chosen on the basis of the number of votes she wins at a special voting booth maintained at one end of the building by the Women's Auxiliary of Pontiac General Hospital.

The 10-cents-a-ballot charge levied to each voter will be given to the hospital to aid in financing its new wing, as will be net proceeds of admission sales at the door.

Candidates for the title, each of whom will appear at various times in the crowds, are Jo Giroux, 8306 Cascade Rd.; Judith Wood, 2701 W. Huron St., and Margaret Heddon, 4607 Baldwin Ave.

Doors will be open to spectators until 11 o'clock tonight and tomorrow night.

The show, the first of its kind held in Pontiac in 25 years, is sponsored by eight auto dealerships belonging to the Pontiac Retail Trades Assn.

Don't Walk Away; Just Doesn't Pay — Not From Jail

"It doesn't pay to walk away from the Oakland County Jail," said Undersheriff Elmer McQuern, "and Jimmy Schuh is a man who can tell you so."

Schuh, 22, of 27375 Northwestern Hwy., Birmingham, was sentenced to 90 days in jail July 20, after being convicted of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The odd jobs a trusty is assigned allows him to wander over a good part of the jail.

Schuh was dumping garbage from the gray brick building on Wayne street on Oct. 31 when he decided he "didn't like the place anymore." He simply walked away.

Yesterday, Schuh was arrested in Jonesboro, Ga. A check with the teletype lists of wanted criminals brought extradition back to his former home.

Report $800 Damage to Truck by Vandals

Pontiac Police today are investigating a malicious property destruction report concerning the $800 damage of a truck engine this week.

LeLand Hunt, manager of the F. J. Boutel Company, 245 E. Walton Blvd., told officers someone put abrasive material into a truck oil inlet which mixed with the oil. The malicious prank happened between 4 p.m. Monday and 8 a.m. Friday.

Waterford Lions Club Hears Oakland Deputy

Deputy Sheriff Stephen Navarre, Oakland County safety director and head of the Oakland County Law Enforcement Assn., was the principal speaker at the Thursday meeting of the Waterford Lions Club.

His topic was "Traffic Safety."

At the same meeting, John Maddoux, former president of the Pontiac Lions Club, inducted four members into the Waterford club.

Bad Axe Father of Six Dies in M25 Accident

BAD AXE (AP) — A 34-year-old father of six, James W. Quinn of Caseville, was killed today when his car hit a railroad crossing sign on M25, one mile south of Bayport.

Quinn, a brother of Huron County Deputy Sheriff Robert Quinn, was returning from his truck-driving job in Bay City when he lost control of his car while passing another auto.

Wage Price War: Chicken 2c a Pound

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Two Mobile grocery stores engaged in a chicken price war yesterday and housewives wound up with fryers at two cents a pound.

Serda's started selling fryers at 23 cents a pound. Greer's, directly across the street, set its price at 22 cents. Serda's cut to 21 and Greer's to 20. And on it went.

Greer's reported selling 18,000 birds, 7,200 at two cents a pound. Serda's said it sold about 950 fryers, 190 at the lowest price.

Family Makes Certain Rise's No Primadonna

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Rise Stevens came downstairs one recent morning in a 10-year-old robe. Her heir, Nicky, who's the same age as the robe, looked at her with sonly distaste.

★ ★ ★

"If your public could see the great primadonna now!" he said.

His father, Walter Surovy, coached him. Miss Stevens knew she was being heckled. "Primadonna" is practically a dirty word in their duplex in the East 60s, says the so-called Queen of the Met, TV star and glamour gal whom Harry Conover picked as one of the five most beautiful women in the world. And when somebody implies she isn't a primadonna—she's flattered.

"You think of somebody extremely unreasonable . . . diamonds up to her elbows when she plays 'Carmen' . . . a big paid claque . . ."

Miss Stevens was counting the primadonna traits off on her fingers the other afternoon.

Rise enjoys having flowers thrown at her at the Met, but she doesn't prearrange it," her husband said.

Another thing about the primadonnas: they didn't bother rehearsing.

"Today you do, because you want to be good. People know so much more about music now, thanks to music appreciation classes and television.

RISE

When Miss Stevens filmed "The Chocolate Soldier" at MGM some seasons ago, they wanted her—for glamour publicity—to be shown sleeping on pink satin sheets, in the supposed primadonna manner.

"Who could sleep on satin to begin with?" she asked.

★ ★ ★

Harry Conover's assertion on Ed Murrow's "Person to Person" that "Rise Stevens is the epitome of a real female" and that he'd like to have her as a model for his agency, has cost her some kidding at their apartment—and also at their home at Westhampton, L. I.

Her husband purchased in Europe a figurine of a primadonna.

This primadonna is short and plump with a waist like a tub and cheeks like pumpkins.

"If I find this on the table at breakfast, I know that Nicky or Walter thinks my temperament's been showing," she said.

Witness Cross-Eyed in Cross-Examination

DETROIT (AP) — One of the five women who sat down in Traffic Court was Mrs. Margaret Rice — and they all looked like Mrs. Rice.

She's the defendant in a traffic case in which she is accused of running a stop sign with her car and striking another auto in which a woman was hurt.

Which of the five women was Mrs. Rice, the defense asked prosecution witness James Champion. He picked the wrong one.

The prosecutor's office asked and got a week's adjournment to find new witnesses.

6 European Nations Agree on Tariffs

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Representatives of six West European countries trying to establish a common market have agreed on a tariff policy toward other nations. They did not disclose details.

★ ★ ★

Delegates from France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg ended talks on this phase of the problem last night. They were trying to reach a compromise between a French demand for a high tariff on goods entering the common market from the outside and a Dutch demand for a low tariff, mainly on raw materials.

★ ★ ★

Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, a leader in the move to set up the common market and to form an atomic pool, said "it seems now everyone is satisfied" with the tariff policy.

Find Prisoner Innocent in Alcatraz Escape

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Floyd Wilson, serving a life term for murder, disappeared on Alcatraz Prison island last July.

Twelve hours later he was found hiding behind rocks near the shore.

He was charged with attempting to escape.

Yesterday, a federal jury found him innocent.

Wilson had pleaded:

"It's impossible to escape from there. I can't swim, anyway."

He said he was just trying to attract attention to his plea for parole.

Revival Meetings Slated Feb. 6-17 at Baldwin EUB

The Rev. Byron E. Chapman will speak each evening except Saturday at revival services to be held at 7:30 p.m. from Feb. 6-17 in the Baldwin Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Director of youth work in the field of Missionary Church Extension in suburban areas, he is currently engaged as a missionary for the Michigan Conference and is building a new congregation in the Farmington area.

His suggested sermon subjects include, "Preparing the Way of the Lord." "What Shall the Harvest Be?" "'A Gospel That Cares,' 'Our Supreme Offering,' 'A Religion That's Divine'" and "The Marks of Christian Discipleship."

The Youth Choir will sing "God of Our Fathers" and Sharon Troxwell, Gary Miller and Karen Beam will be heard as a cornet trio Sunday morning.

British Defense Minister Ends Visit With Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) —British Defense Minister Duncan Sandys ended nearly a week of wide-ranging talks with U. S. military officials yesterday. He planned to leave for London today.

Sandys had a private chat with President Eisenhower yesterday. There was no disclosure of what they discussed.

During the week, he met with Defense Department officials for talks on such subjects as long-term strategy, military situations around the globe and possible co-operation aimed at helping Britain modernize its defense weapons.

Mundt Defends Wilson Stand

Senator Calls Remark 'Mistaken,' Lauds Work of Defense Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said today Secretary of Defense Wilson is "doing a good job" and should be judged on his performance—not by what Mundt called his "mistaken" remarks.

Mundt's defense of Wilson came after the cabinet member denied any intention of reflecting on individuals when he said last Monday there was a "sort of scandal" involved when some young men enlisted in the National Guard during the Korean War and avoided combat service.

The defense secretary said "our criticism is not of the guardsmen" but of a training system which he said is inadequate.

Wilson said in a statement last night "it cannot be denied that the lot of those who entered the National Guard and were not mobilized was easier than that of the young men who were inducted by Selective Service or who volunteered for the active forces" during the Korean fighting.

At the same time, he acknowledged the "great contribution" he said had been made by National Guard units which were called up and fought in the Korean War.

Wilson and his wife planned to fly to Florida today to begin a two-week vacation. When he returns, he may undergo rigorous questioning on his views about the Guard. Chairman Brooks (D-La) of a House Armed Services subcommittee said yesterday he had been informed Wilson would accept an invitation to testify before the group at that time.

Wilson wants all new Guard enlistees to take six months of active basic training. The National Guard favors an 11-week course of training that could be fitted into school vacations.

Mundt said in an interview he agrees with Eisenhower that Wilson's remarks were unwise "because he indicted a whole organization and not just some elements of it."

★ ★ ★

"But Wilson ought to be judged on his performance at the Pentagon, rather than on what he says on Capitol Hill," Mundt said. "Wilson is doing a good job in his own bailiwick."

Scot Traces Eerie Voices to Hearing Aid

PRESTWICK, Scotland (AP) — Strange voices kept hounding Allan Orr in the still of the night as he sat alone in his hotel room.

He brought friends in to listen. They heard nothing but Orr, who is partly deaf, insisted he did. He said some of the voices had American accents and some of the babble included such phrases as "Roger and out." The friends smiled tolerantly.

Last night Orr met a U.S. Air Force man at the hotel bar and told him the story. The American had an idea. He asked Orr for his hearing aid, plugged it in his own ear and waited. Sure enough he heard a splutter of words and "Roger and out."

The hearing aid was picking up messages from the control tower at nearby Prestwick Airport. Orr said he will trade in the hearing device.

Truck-Pushing Auto Didn't Have Driver

ALTOONA, Pa. (AP)—Ray Fleck was having a little difficulty with his light truck on a slippery grade the wheels spinning furiously as he slowly made his way up the hill.

Fleck glanced in his rear-view mirror and noticed a car immediately behind him. He remarked to his wife that it was "swell of that guy to push me."

Three blocks away, Fleck pulled into a service station. Another motorist pulled in beside him and said:

"Say, buddy, that car you were towing broke away."

It was then that Fleck discovered his bumper had hooked onto a parked car a half mile away.

Allison Leaves Tokyo

Fun While it Lasted

Pierre Poujade, the ranting agitator whose party a year ago won 52 seats out of 596 in France's National Assembly, was soundly beaten when he himself ran in a by-election last week.

★ ★ ★

Poujade came in last in a field of four, getting only 6.4 per cent of the 319,000 votes. The extent of his defeat shows the rapid decline in public appeal of his crackpot movement. A Moderate, Julien Tardieu, was an easy victor.

★ ★ ★

Even more significant was the small Communist turnout, only half as many voted as a year ago in the general election. This could be attributed to Red actions in Hungary and Algeria.

★ ★ ★

Only a year ago Poujadists won two million votes on a "don't pay any taxes" platform. His followers quarreled among themselves and only 35 of his deputies are now in the Assembly. It will be surprising and disappointing if the Poujadists stage a comeback.

"If all diseases were wiped out, people would live forever," says a writer. Oh, no, they wouldn't. In the course of time they'd become bored to death with one another and with themselves.

The countries of the Middle East are high fortunate in having all that oil, and consequently in having the major world powers competing for the privilege of "protecting their interests."

Refugees and Emigrants

The "Egyptianization" of Egypt goes on apace. Some 7,000 British subjects have been ordered out of Egypt, 3,000 of whom already have reached Britain.

★ ★ ★

They are in almost as dire need as the Hungarian refugees. Most of them have lived in Egypt all their lives, notably Maltese, and many do not even speak English. All have lost their homes and property as did the French and the Jews who also were expelled.

The few engineers and technicians among them, mostly native Britons, will have little trouble making an adjustment. But to many, Britain is a strange land. They are being housed in government hostels and processed in an effort to find jobs for them.

The Labor Ministry pointed out that whereas the Hungarians "are a problem of the whole free world," these British subjects are the problem of Britain alone and are in addition to Britain's quota of Hungarians and others.

★ ★ ★

On the other hand there is a huge increase in the number of Britons leaving the Old Country for Canada, Australia and New Zealand. High taxes, housing shortages, controls and lack of opportunity have spurred emigration.

★ ★ ★

After World War II, Prime Minister Churchill urged that a quarter of Britain's population move to Canada. The United Kingdom has a population of 50 million, but grows only enough to feed 30 million; the rest has to be imported.

★ ★ ★

Paradoxically enough, the refugees from Egypt and, to a lesser extent, the sudden increase in emigration from Britain can be attributed to the Suez venture.

Eat supper (dinner) early and don't take on any nourishment between then and bedtime, and you'll be hungry enough next morning to want to get up.

Even granted that "It takes all kinds of people to make a world," why is there so large a surplus of the least-needed kinds?

"Glaciers are moving southward at the rate of one inch a year."

It is somehow comforting to learn that speed mania hasn't quite become universal.

The People's Business:

Closed Records

U. of M. and MSC Refuse to Reveal Salary Data

By ROGER LANE

LANSING—A distinguished newspaper executive who appeared on the Michigan State University campus last weekend talked to the Michigan Press Association on the subject "Your Newspapers Are Watchdogs."

★ ★ ★

To make his point, Basil L. Walters, executive editor of the Knight newspapers, spoke at some length of how the Chicago Daily News cracked the Hodge case in Illinois, and drew some conclusions.

The Hodge case involved exposure of of huge thefts of public funds by Orville E. Hodge, then state auditor. Estimates of his take have ranged from 1 to 2½ million dollars.

The Daily News uncovered the stealing last summer. One of its reporters found the evidence that started Hodge on the way to prison in a persual of vouchers in Hodge's own files.

Said Walters:

"One of the big lessons in the Hodge case to us is that as the eyes and ears of the American public, we must question every appropriation of public funds and follow through to make certain these funds are expended for the sole purpose for which they are intended.

LOCAL VIGILANCE

"And it is just as important that each of us in our own communities keep vigilance over the expenditure of county, city and school funds as it is for all of us to share in watching state and national government.

★ ★ ★

"A very wise man told me once that if you watch the pennies, the dollars will takes care of themselves," he added.

In broad terms, Walters' talk raised the question for his listeners of whether a newsman in Michigan can readily get access to payroll and vouchers records to follow the Walters' prescription for keeping tab on spending of public funds.

Certainly, it's an easy matter in the executive department of government on the state level. The auditor general, who writes the checks for most agencies of government from vouchers they submit, keeps his files open.

★ ★ ★

However, the auditor has nothing to do with expenditures made by the state's two largest educational institutions, Michigan State and the University of Michigan, which follows more restrictive policies.

'DIRECTION, CONTROL'

The State Constitution says that the elective governing boards of the universities shall have "direction and control" of all publicly appropriated and other institutional funds.

★ ★ ★

The U. of M. and MSU for 1956-57 received a combined total of about 72 million dollars from the state treasury.

Regarding disclosure of salary information, a high-ranking executive of Michigan State said this week that university administrators "as a matter of long-standing policy consider that as a matter of courtesy to the individual the institution should not reveal the individual's salary."

A legislator from Ann Arbor reports that the U. of M. long has held a similar attitude, but will make partial disclosures on the pay of employes, indicating within a range what staff member receives in salary from public funds.

★ ★ ★

The MSU official said competition among institutions for teaching talent figures in the restrictive policies there.

He said the school feels it is helped in holding onto personnel who might be lured away if competitors are kept in the dark as to their pay.

By Faith in Him

Days of All Faiths

Honor Courageous Chaplains

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

On Feb. 3 in 1943 there happened one of the greatest examples of combined faith, sacrifice and bravery in all the annals of American military history. Bound for Europe, the troop ship Dorchester was struck by a torpedo from a German submarine and sunk in the North Atlantic.

In the evacuation of the craft, four chaplains gave their life jackets to four soldiers who had none. The chaplains—two Protestant, one Roman Catholic, one Jewish—linked hands and went down with the ship, praying together for the safety of the men who were leaving them.

★ ★ ★

These four men have already become a permanent part of American tradition. They have not, of course, attained the status of saints, and it is hardly possible that they ever will, but their names will be remembered in many churches and synagogues Sunday and on every Feb. 3. They were George L. Fox, Methodist; Clark V. Poling, Dutch Reformed; John P. Washington, Roman Catholic, and Alexander D. Goode, Jewish.

ANNUAL AWARDS

The B'nai B'rith, a Jewish men's organization, has honored their memory by establishing three annual $500 awards to be given to a chaplain selected from each of the three branches of the armed forces "who best exemplifies, by his personality and religious stewardship, the spirit in which the four immortal chaplains died."

TROUBLE SHOOTER

The trouble with being a good secretary is that the better you are at the job the more obscure and self-effacing you remain while the boss gets all the glory. That is the way it was with St. Titus, secretary to the great St. Paul.

Titus went with Paul on many trips and it was not long before Titus knew enough about the work to be sent on some important missions by himself. Apparently Paul gave him only the most troublesome spots to look after.

Once when there was a particularly bad scandal in the church at Corinth—a flagrant case of incest—Titus got the assignment, and according to the record he was completely successful in straightening things out.

★ ★ ★

On the island of Crete, where Paul put Titus as bishop, the whole situation was bad. Titus' task was to find and train local leaders, and when he complained to Paul by letter that leadership material was very scarce in Crete, all Paul did was to write back, "Cretans are evil beasts, idle gluttons. For this cause left I thee in Crete." Here again Titus did his work so well that the church he developed has stood through the centuries, even when the Christians in neighboring localities were giving in to the influence of Mohammedanism.

RULES FOR BISHOPS

One important matter that will always be connected with the name of Titus—though, as usual, Paul wrote it—is the list of qualifications to which a bishop must measure up. It is found in the Epistle to Titus, Chapter 1, verses 5 to 9.

★ ★ ★

Here the Apostle states, in part, that a bishop must have only one wife, and no unruly children who are likely to get into trouble; he must not be self-willed or hot tempered; not given to drinking or fighting, or to "filthy lucre." He must be hospitable, just, holy, temperate, "holding fast the faithful word as he hath been taught." This enumeration of traits and qualities has become the standard by which candidates for the office of bishop are universally judged even today.

LI'L ONES

"I like you, Laurie—you're not my type."

Dr. William Brady's Mailbag:

Nitroglycerin Will Put End to Jerk

"Husband, 69, cannot sleep nights because his legs keep him awake jerking. Please send pamphlet, Adult Tetany." (Mrs. T. W. M.)

Answer — You're welcome to the pamphlet, but what your husband needs, I think, is a supply of nitroglycerin tablets, to use as I advise in the CVD booklet about heart and artery troubles, under the heading "Restless Legs." For the booklet send 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope. The pamphlet Adult Tetany tells how to prevent painful cramps that wake one from sleep or seize the victim along toward dawn.

"Nocturnal itching driving me mad — dermatologists' prescriptions give little or no relief. Two months without tobacco, three without alcohol gave no change . . ." (D. G. L.)

Answer — Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet on Pruritus.

"I have been told that I have cataracts forming on my eyes. What can I do to clear up this condition or prevent them from growing so fast? Please do not disclose my identity." (J. S.)

Answer — Cataracts do not grow on the eyes. Cataract is a clouding of the crystalline lens which is IN the eyeball. You can consult a physician. Or if you are very credulous and not much concerned about your eyesight, you can fool around with eye drops or other monkeyshines. I promise to pay $1,000 to you or anyone else who can show that I have ever disclosed the identity or published the name of a correspondent without his or her written consent. Evidently you did not read the report of the man who had just had cataracts removed, which was published, or at least released for publication here. I'm sorry now that I didn't have reprints made. Maybe the man who gave such a good description of his experience will write another report of the results when he catches up with his work — as an accountant and tax consultant; he is as busy as a one-armed paper hanger with a kind of pruritus this time of year.

"So practical and understandable to the ordinary layman . . . particularly your articles on arthritis or rheumatiz, as you call it." (G. H. S.)

Answer—Are you amused? I'm not. However, you may yet get the idea, when you read the pamphlet Calcium and Rheumatiz, which is free to anyone who asks for it and provides stamped, self addressed envelope.

"Please send me your pamphlet on the Menopause in the stamped, self-addressed envelope enclosed. Want to report that my husband has been completely relieved of the pain and lameness in his knees since he began following the nutritional regimen given in your booklet Chronic Joint Disability. For a while he feared he'd have to quit his job . . ." (S. L.)

"Watching my neighbor limp around after having warts burned off the sole of his foot made me decide to keep mine even though they hurt. Then I found your column . . . now no more warts. Bless you!" (Mrs. J. R.)

Answer — What did you do — soak the column in hot vinegar and bathe your feet with it? In the booklet Cosmetic Blemishes (35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope) I suggest several remedies for plantar (on the sole) warts.

"A year ago I wrote to you about my nails. They were soft and brittle wouldn't grow . . . Thanks to the advice in the pamphlet you sent me my nails are now simply beautiful — I get many compliments on them and I recommend . . ." (Mrs. N. W.)

Answer — The poor condition of the nails is generally due to long-continued nutritional deficiency (narrow, namby-pamby, ultra-refined diet) and habitual application of solvents for so-called nail polish Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet Young Folks and Old Folks.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

"Dr. Crane, everything seems to be strange and unreal to me," she confessed. "I wonder at times if my name is really Susan and if I am really alive.

★ ★ ★

"My mind gets in such a whirl. The houses around me seem fanciful and dreamlike. I can almost believe I am on a different planet.

"Sometimes I feel as if I were just floating aimlessly in space. It makes me panicky and afraid. Dr. Crane, do you think I am losing my mind?"

DISGUISED WORLD

No, Susan is not losing her mind, and the peculiar feeling of unreality which troubles her is a rather common reaction among people who are not happily adjusted to their environment.

In their late teens, girls will often get into this phantasy stage where they gloss over the stark reality with an "aircastle" veneer.

As you readers can guess, these girls are not the life-of-the-party type, who have many friends and at least one date per week.

Instead, it is usually the wallflower or shy, introvert who gets into this dreamy state of mind, and then subconsciously modifies the external world so that it appears strange.

★ ★ ★

Another time for this "phantasy of unreality" to show itself is at the menopause, when women again wish to disguise the cold, cruel world into a more tolerable place.

"UNREALITY PHANTASY"

This reaction is not limited to women, however, for it is also frequent among men. A journalist friend of mine writes me every few weeks to report that he is troubled by this same feeling of unreality.

He flew here by airplane recently because he thought he was going to lose his mind. His trouble was simply the fact that death had taken away his mother and idolized sister, leaving him an orphan.

Moreover, he had no sweetheart upon whom he could transfer his affection and from whom he could daily receive solace and love.

★ ★ ★

Like a coddled little boy who has suddenly been sent off to kindergarden among strangers, with whose ways and manners he is unfamiliar, this journalist thus feels alone in a cold, forbidding environment.

So he, too, subconsciously has developed this "Phantasy of Unreality" as a method by which he tries to dress up or camouflage his unpleasant situation.

Some people, however, do their fleeing by means of achohol or dope, and attain temporary unconsciousness thereby.

★ ★ ★

Others become vagabonds or hoboes. Some actually check out by suicide, while others draw within their social shells to such an extreme degree as to be labeled insane.

TINTED GLASSES

If timid people are morally educated to refrain from such unwise escape mechanisms as those just cited, but are still dissatisfied with their situation in life, they try to "dress up" their world, albeit in a subconscious manner.

So they psychologically flee from their unpleasant environment by tinting it, so to speak, until it no longer reminds them of the painful world in which they were unhappily adjusted.

Carried to an extreme degree, this reaction may lead to complete introversion and loss of sanity.

The best antidote, however, is resolutely to develop better habits of adjustment to the world around us. By all means, tactfully encourage such persons to enroll in the Compliment Club. Get them into group activities.

★ ★ ★

Give them affection and objects on which to expend love, whether sweethearts, children, Sunday school pupils, or cats, canaries and goldfish.

Send for my booklet "How To Prevent Nervous Breakdowns" enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

'Crackdown on Speeders Violates No One's Rights'

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

I see an "outstanding citizen" of Flint with three driving convictions thinks he has cause to complain about the Waterford Police Department. The record speaks for itself. Since the department was organized in 1954, traffic deaths in the township have been cut in half.

I have met several officers and I believe they are of indisputable character. Officers do not stop anyone unless at least 10 miles over the limit. The officer is much more qualified to tell a person how fast she or he is going, as the ordinary driver does not watch the speedometer at all times. It is usually one of these times that an officer reminds you of the speed limit.

The use of unmarked police cars is common practice in all better departments in Michigan and several other states. I can see no use for marked police cars if the drivers speed up as soon as patrol cars are out of sight.

I believe the only rights being violated are those of innocent drivers, trying to obey the law, who are hit by these homicidal speeders. I say Van Atta and his men deserve a lot of praise.

He is 100 per cent right and I think every safety-minded driver agrees he would rather hear someone moan about getting a traffic ticket than hear the moans of some mangled body along the road or sobs from a person over the traffic death of a relative or dear friend.

Cites Contributions of Ex-President

Our present generation of American citizens is becoming increasingly aware of the unique contributions made by President Woodrow Wilson. We recognize the power of his high idealism, admire his staunch advocacy of a new morality in international life and honor his unquenchable faith in the ultimate triumph of the principles of collective security with which he fired the hope and imagination of the people of the world. His was the prophetic belief that he had articulated the needs and the conscience of humanity and that America was destined to lead the way on a new high road of peace and brotherhood.

Those of the Baha'i World Faith regard as matchless the position which Woodrow Wilson achieved in the history of this age and honor him as the first world statesman to advocate many principles akin to those revealed by Baha'u'llah, founder of the faith. Wilson's efforts, culminating in the boldest and noblest peace program that had so far been devised for the well-being and protection of all mankind. Baha'is believe, signalled the dawn of that enduring peace toward which the world, step by step and through trail and suffering is swiftly moving.

'Is Trunk Content Standard on Car?'

In your automobile section Wednesday you had a picture of the rear trunk of a Dodge automobile on page 24. If the contents of the trunk are standard equipment, this letter is a firm order for a new Dodge like that one for myself and four of my friends.

We'll split the cost of the new Dodge and divide the contents of the trunk. I'd even give my friends first pick and this is the first time in my life I'd ever be satisfied with last choice.

Exercises Are Splendid for Health

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Here is another letter from my mail bag:

"Dear Mrs. Lowman:

"I wish you would discuss the theory of exercise some time in your column. How does a woman know how much to take if she just wants to maintain her good figure? How rapidly should she do them? Which ones should she take for reduction or for building up?

"For instance, it is my understanding that the same exercise will either reduce or build up the bust, depending on how fast or slowly it is done.'

way to increase the bust measurement is to build up the chest muscles which lie underneath the bust. The only way to do that is through exercise which contracts these muscles.

* * *

The stretch is an important part of reducing exercises. These should be done slowly, giving plenty of time for the pull. Exercises which are done too rapidly are apt to build bulging muscles.

TO KEEP FIGURE

If you simply wish to exercise in order to keep your good figure and to retain firmness, you should select about two waist exercises, three abdominal exercises and a couple for the hips. These are the three spots where the middle-age spread hits fastest.

* * *

These corrective exercises are splendid for health too. To these you might add one for the shoulder blades, and one leg and one neck exercise. Begin doing the first six exercises five times and gradually build up to 30 or 35 times each.

You should not feel tired after exercise but refreshed. You may feel relaxed but not weary. This should guide you in the amount which is best for you. Individuals differ in this matter.

Another letter says, "Please help me keep my skin youthful. I am 48 and my complexion is fairly normal, not dry and not oily except just around the nose. I use a hormone cream at night and do not know whether to stroke it on or pat it on.

"Also I have a little fullness under my chin. Should I do exercises for it or pat it? Does smiling, singing and laughing a lot improve facial contour?"

* * *

I do not believe in stroking or massaging cream into the face. I think it is much better to pat it on. For the chin, exercise and pat, too, very vigorously.

Singing and laughing and smiling do lift the contours of the face and also give health a boost. This, in turn, has an effect on the way we look.

This is a good exercise for the abdomen. Touch the hand to the toes — lower both at same time. Continue, alternating left and right.

Girl Claims Candlelight Hurts Eyes

She's Scolded for Blowing Out Flame in Restaurant

By EMILY POST

The first letter in today's mail explains: "Last evening my boy friend and I and another couple had dinner in a well-known restaurant. The table at which we were seated had two candles on it and as we were seated, the waiter lighted them.

"After a while the flickering of the candlelight bothered my eyes and so I blew them out. I was criticized for doing this. Will you please tell me, was I wrong?"

Answer: It was definitely not correct, but if the light was really hurting your eyes, you doing so was excusable at a restaurant table. It would have been unthinkable in a private house. The correct thing for you to have done was to have asked the waiter to remove the candles.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me if it is customary for the bride to give the bridegroom a wedding present, and if so, what is customary? Also, when is the most appropriate time for the bride and bridegroom to give the members of the bridal party their presents?"

Answer: It is not exacted that the bride give a present to the bridegroom but she usually does if she can. Generally it is something permanent and personal—ranging from cuff links to a watch.

If there is a bridesmaids' and ushers' dinner, the attendants are given their presents at this time; otherwise at the rehearsal.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it affected to sit in a restaurant wearing one's fur piece? As a rule I slip off my coat and throw it over the back of my chair but keep the furs on because they are likely to be caught by someone passing, or slide to the floor if I put them over my lap. My husband thinks it looks silly to keep them on. Your opinion on this will be much appreciated."

Answer: Your husband is mistaken. The great majority of us always keep fur pieces on—unless they are very large.

Coming Events

39-40 Proficiency group OES will meet with Mrs. Ronald West, 2331 Edinburgh Rd., tonight at 7:30.

DAV Auxiliary, 16, will hold a card party tonight at 8 at 199 Auburn Ave.

Daughters of Pontiac, 186 will meet Monday at 8 p.m. for a Valentine party.

Pontiac Federation of WCTU will meet Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. at Central Methodist Church. Mrs. Glen Ford Leonard, state WCTU director of armed services will speak.

Susanna Moon, Richard G. Tate Exchange Vows

BLOOMFIELD — Mr. and Mrs. James S. Moon of Bloomfield Hills announce the marriage of their daughter, Susanna, to Richard G. Tate Jr. of Dearborn Friday in St. James Episcopal Church.

* * *

For her wedding the bride chose a navy sheer wool suit with a navy hat, and she carried a white prayerbook and a white orchid.

Attending the couple were Marilyn Shroyer of Birmingham, Virginia Parker of Royal Oak, James Tisdale and James Mazaras.

A buffet supper at the bride's home for relatives and close friends followed.

Vaporize on Coat Lining, Wardrobe Closets

Experts Use Perfume Subtly, Lightly

By NORA W. MARTIN

PARIS (INS) — Marilyn Monroe may "wear" Chanel No. 5 to bed, but here is the advice of some top Parisian experts on how to use the perfume successfully.

Female designers, such as Genevieve Fath, Elsa Schiaparelli and Madame Jacques Revillon have their personal, secret ways they use perfume on themselves. Said Genevieve Fath:

"I never use perfume during the day. I would feel 'overdressed.' I use the toilet water of my favorite perfume brand for a rub-down in the morning and switch to the perfume extract only after six o'clock."

Besides using perfume on herself, in the classic manner with a vaporizer, Madame Schiaparelli has a personal trick with scent.

"I always vaporize perfume on the sheets of my bed. It gives such a luxurious feeling." According to her this allows the skin to absorb the scent and retain the fragrance even after the morning shower.

SPECIAL PERFUME FOR FURS

Madame Revillon, head of the luxurious fur house, is naturally concerned about perfume in connection with furs.

"There is a special perfume particularly studied to be teamed with fur," Revillon says. "But it is preferable never to vaporize any perfume directly on the pelts."

Revillon advises: Vaporize the perfume on the fur-coat lining. After wearing the coat or fur-piece for a while, the warmth of the body develops the scent and penetrates the clothes. This will create a delicate aura of fragrance around you when you remove your coat.

At the fashion house of Jean Patou it was Marion McNight, better known as "Miss America," who was taught how to use the most expensive perfume in Paris "a la Francaise." She was told that French gals dab with their fingertips a touch of perfume on their eyebrows. This is said to be particularly effective when dancing.

Besides this new French way, she adopted in Paris, "Miss America" used her perfume in the good old Southern manner by dabbing it at the back of the ears.

The beautiful and sophisticated mannequins in Dior's famous fashion center, are taught a simple trick by the "maestro." They spray their favorite perfume on the lining of their wardrobe closets. The dresses as well as the accessories take on the scent to give it off in a feminine and discrete, rather than in a provocative and vulgar manner.

Sally L. Vedder Becomes Bride of John A. Moffat

A waltz-length gown of satin and tulle was worn by Sally Lou Vedder for her marriage Friday afternoon to John Alexander Moffat. The fitted bodice of the gown was fashioned with a V-neckline and short sleeves. She wore French imported hand-clipped lace mitts.

An edging of scalloped French lace accented the redingote type overskirt, which also was appliqued with lace.

A crown of pearls and sequins secured the bride's fingertip veil of French illusion, and she carried a heart-shaped bouquet of white orchids and hyacinth bells.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Vedder of Hillsdale are parents of the bride, and John's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Moffat of Boston avenue.

200 ATTEND

Two hundred guests witnessed the ceremony, held at the Alexander Stock home in Hillsdale. Dr. Windsor H. Roberts of Hillsdale College officiated at the service.

Baskets of palms, ferns, white gladioli and pompons with candelabra decorated the living room of the Stock home for the occasion. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Carol Meinert of Toledo was maid of honor, wearing a dress of blue silk shantung. The gown was styled with cap sleeves and princess waistline, waltz-length.

Carol carried a heart - shaped bouquet of pink amling roses and hyacinth bells.

Best man for the ceremony was Edward St. Clair of Detroit. Seating the guests were Jerry Towns of Hillsdale and Alan Williams of North Adams.

For the reception immediately following the ceremony, the mother of the bride wore a pink silk and lace dress with pink accessories and a corsage of violets and pink roses.

Mrs. Moffat chose a beige silk gown with beige accessories and a corsage of violets and garnet roses.

* * *

For traveling east, the bride changed to a blue suit dress with navy accessories. An orchid corsage completed her ensemble.

The newlyweds will reside in Hillsdale, where both are students at Hillsdale College.

'Simple Charm' Is Skillful Design

NEW YORK (NEA)—Clothes that are charmingly simple are always the best fashion buy for any woman. And they're seen in the collections of many top American designers this spring.

For simple clothes usually are created by the art of a great deceptive. It depends on beautiful fabrics knowingly handled, on impeccable tailoring, on imaginative use of coloring.

It offers surprises: A flaming chiffon top under the jacket of a black-and-white costume. Or a shapely jacket that's companion to a high-rising skirt and so creates a one-piece look. Or again, there's a glowing silk print, violet against black, in a dress intended for wear from now on into summer.

There are long evening dresses this spring, to be sure, but most designers seem ot feel that the majority of American women will not want to wear their gowns long.

MRS. JOHN ALEXANDER MOFFAT

Sally Lou Vedder became the bride of John Alexander Moffat Friday afternoon. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Vedder of Hillsdale and John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Moffat of Boston avenue.

To Keep Insecticides:

Chemical insecticides can be held over for use without losing their killing power if stored properly. Keep liquid insecticides where temperatures stay above freezing. Powdered insecticides should be kept dry.

Janet E. Adams Speaks Vows in Candlelight Rite

Janet Elaine Adams became the bride of Duane Donald Barkeley Friday evening in a candlelight ceremony.

* * *

She is the daughter of Judge and Mrs. Clark J. Adams of West Walton Boulevard, and Duane is the son of Mrs. George W. Barkeley of Lenox avenue.

Performing the 8 o'clock ceremony was the Rev. Malcolm K. Burton. Seventy-five guests witnessed the rite held at First Congregational Church.

For her wedding Janet chose a powder blue lace dress. The princess style street-length dress featured a very full skirt. She wore a matching hat made of tiny flowers with a blue veil and a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

* * *

Her bridal bouquet consisted of a white orchid and stephanotis on a white prayerbook.

ATTENDS BRIDE

Beverly Barkeley, the bridegroom's sister, was maid of honor. She wore a dusty pink crystallette sheath dress with a matching headband. Pink carnations formed her bouquet.

* * *

Alan Barkeley of Kalamazoo, a brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and ushers were Norman Barkeley of Grand Rapids, another brother, and Vernon Burris of Drayton Plains.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Adams chose a royal blue dress with which she wore white accessories and a white orchid. Mrs. Barkeley's choice was a maroon dress with pink accessories and a white orchid.

Following a reception at the home of the bride's parents, the new Mrs. Barkeley changed to a beige tweed suit with brown accessories and the orchid from the bridal corsage.

* * *

When the newlyweds return from a brief honeymoon in Chicago, they will reside in Center Line.

Janet is a graduate of Central Michigan College and Duane attended Michigan State University.

SHIRLEY OATES

Mrs. Jo Reba Oates of Exchange street announces the engagement of her daughter, Shirley, to Wayne O'Shaughnessy. Wayne, son of Mrs. Laural O'Shaughnessy of Detroit and Carl O'Shaughnessy of Keego Harbor, is a junior at Hillsdale College. An August wedding is planned.

Don't Take Men's Word About Feminine Behavior

Women Are Individuals, It's Impossible to Generalize Their Characteristics

By RUTH MILLETT

Any man will tell you —

That women are all alike.

That no woman can keep a checkbook straight.

That what women really like is a he-man who has the gumption to "let 'em know who's boss."

★ ★ ★

That women gossip much, much more than men do.

That women are always late for appointments.

That women have more vanity than men.

That a woman can't keep her head in an emergency as well as a man can.

That no woman can keep a secret.

That women don't really understand politics.

That clothes are more important to women than to men.

That women are more extravagant than men.

★ ★ ★

That women have no head for business.

That women just don't understand machinery.

That women aren't as good drivers as men.

NATURALLY CATTY

That women are naturally catty about any attractive woman.

That two women can't maintain a true and lasting friendship.

That a woman can't resist a bargain whether it is something she needs or not.

That women are the social climbers, and that men are above such conniving.

That women do far more than their share of talking.

That women like clubs better than men do and that they are natural "joiners."

That women hate growing old more than men do.

That there's no use trying to understand the workings of a woman's mind.

★ ★ ★

Men will tell you these things, but don't you believe them. Women are individuals and you just can't generalize about them.

Mature Women Retain Beauty With Discipline

The story of every charming mature woman who has retained her good looks can be told in one word: discipline. It's self-discipline that makes it possible to refuse a rich dessert, to get to bed on time, to include a walk in fresh air in the daily program, to map out exercises that take care of those lumps and bumps that develop in the mid-thirties.

Discipline in diet and skin care, hair care and exercise has made it possible for the mature woman to keep her trim figure, shining hair and clear skin.

If these things are sufficiently important to you, you can have them, too. But to have them, and to keep them, you must be willing to put in boring hours of work. Exercise, hair drill and diet are not fun. But the results are.

Theater Quote

Wilfrid Hyde White of "The Reluctant Debutante," astounded at director Cyril Ritchard's request that he speak slowly because American audiences might have trouble catching on to his accent: "My accent, old boy, my accent! It's they who have accents!"

At Sun Valley, a poplin parka is modeled by this ski enthusiast. The white material is heightened by smart black stripes around the arms, black knit wristlets, and a high black knit collar. The top-to-bottom front zipper assures easy in-and-out convenience.

Resort Togs Go Feminine

Resort clothes usher in a new era of softness, yet maintain the character of sportswear. The elegance and feminity associated with the early 1900s finds expression in a general softening of silhouette, a luxurious fabric story and a lovely color palette.

★ ★ ★

The overall feeling is elegant, yet none of the changes are blatant or flamboyant. The mood is set by clothes that can be worn easily.

Softness takes form in front or back fulness, draped necklines or gentle roundness in the shaping of slim lines.

★ ★ ★

The starkly tailored dress and classic functional design are going out of the picture. Soft pleats, increased use of silk, sashes and bows do much to alter the character of casual styling that has long been associated with sports dresses.

Even trimmings are changing. Pretty jeweled buttons and lovely embroideries bring a fresh charm to dresses and separates for resort and cruise wear.

Teach Boy Neatness

One way to teach junior to take care of his belongings is to provide his bike with a portable bicycle "garage." It's a vinyl plastic cover he can slip over his two-wheeler to protect it while not in use. The cover, which folds into a compact pouch, is tubbable in soap or detergent suds.

Abide by Rules When Seeking Job

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Periodically I get complaints from employment agencies, both private and state, about how the applicant behaves. And just as frequently I get complaints from applicants about the employment agencies.

★ ★ ★

So here, again, is a checklist of pointers for the applicant:

1. Remember that the interviewers have probably seen dozens of people during the day.

They haven't time or energy for the kind of warm personal attention which you would like to have, and which they would give if they only saw a few people a day.

2. Remember that the agency has rules which are important to them, no matter how stupid the rules may seem to you.

★ ★ ★

If they insist that you fill out a card before they will talk to you, fill out the card. To raise a fuss about it is to give them the idea that you are too "difficult" to be trusted on an interview with any of their clients.

BE DEFINITE

3. Have a good idea of what kind of job you want so as not to seem vague. Their job is not to diagnose your needs, just to send you on jobs.

On the other hand, don't have so rigid an idea of the one and only job you will touch that you refuse to go on anything that doesn't sound 100 per cent perfect.

Show an open-mindedness in going on the job they recommend to you. You can always say No, if the employer actually offers you the job and it's wrong for you.

4. Fill out your application card neatly and accurately. After you've left, you may be judged by the appearance of the card.

★ ★ ★

5. Telephone back promptly to let them know what happened during the interview. If you take a job, notify them immediately, so they won't continue to send applicants who will only be wasting their time.

ACCEPT ADVICE

6. If the agency interviewer tells you frankly she has no job for you, and suggests, for example, that you learn how to type, take the suggestion politely. It is the interviewer's hope that you will be hired and suggestions she makes are geared to that idea.

★ ★ ★

Listen to them, and if you're wise, follow them. But don't give her an argument about why learning to type is a terrible idea!

Keep an open mind. It will make you look younger and much easier to place.

If you're having trouble in this respect, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelop and I'll send you my pamphlet, Pointers Toward an Open Mind.

Shampoo Hair Twice Weekly

A once-a-week visit to your beauty salon for shampoo and set is not sufficient hair care. In between you should brush your hair vigorously, morning and night, and you should learn to set it yourself.

If necessary, give yourself an oil treatment or shampoo in the mid-week.

Shampoo your hair twice at each operation and follow this up by three thorough rinses. Towel your hair partially dry and then finish up with a brushing. When your hair is quite dry, from scalp to ends, dampen it lightly and set it with bobby pins or metal clips. Copy as closely as you can the procedure your hairdresser uses.

Avoid Sloppiness

A great deal of emphasis is placed by teenagers on being comfortable and natural. This is admirable, but not when the kind of naturalness and comfort they insist on would be more accurately termed "sloppy."

Worry is a process by which people put today's sun under tomorrow's clouds.

Spring Hats in '20s Mood

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

New York's top millinery designers have varying ideas about what will be the most popular hat in the Easter parade, but they are agreed on one point—it will be in the mood of the 1920's.

Three famous milliners — Lilly Dache, John Frederics and Sally Victor—were asked to pick one hat each from their current collections as the most important trend-setter for spring. Here are the results:

★ ★ ★

Lilly Dache picked a casual lemon yellow linen straw hat with squared crushed crown and brim turned up in front, because:

"I have a feeling about simplicity in the new hats. They are big, so they should not be too busy. I think a woman likes a hat which does not overpower her, and yet which looks important.

This is the kind of a hat I think women all over the country are going to like this spring because it is easy to wear, it does not look self-conscious and it has that thing you call a certain flair."

John Frederics chose a "triple-ripple brimmed cloche" in undersea tones" of pale blue, sea green and gray, somewhat mushroom-shaped. Says he:

"This hat is going to be seen all over the world. I think it is right for Easter, because I think women are tired of flower hats. This is colorful but unadorned.

LOOKS LARGE

"It's not too large, but it looks that way. It has that 1920 look which is going to be important all year. One thing is certain about the new hats—you can see them."

Sally Victor picked a small, close-fitting cloche in violet straw perched over one eyebrow.

"Girls want hats that will cover up their hair this spring," says Sally. "They're all either letting their hair grow out or cutting it shorter, or changing it in some way. So they need cover while the hair gets used to its new state. This is the kind of little, head-hugging cloche that everybody wore 20 or 30 years ago, and I still think it was one of the most satisfactory hat styles ever thought up. This kind of hat stays on in a high wind, it doesn't need hatpins or clips or elastic bands. Its young and simple—and easy to wear whether you think so or not. Besides, I think violets are going to be the flower of the year—everybody's crazy about violets this spring."

So there you have the selections of three top millinery experts on the Easter fashion race. You pay your money and you take your choice.

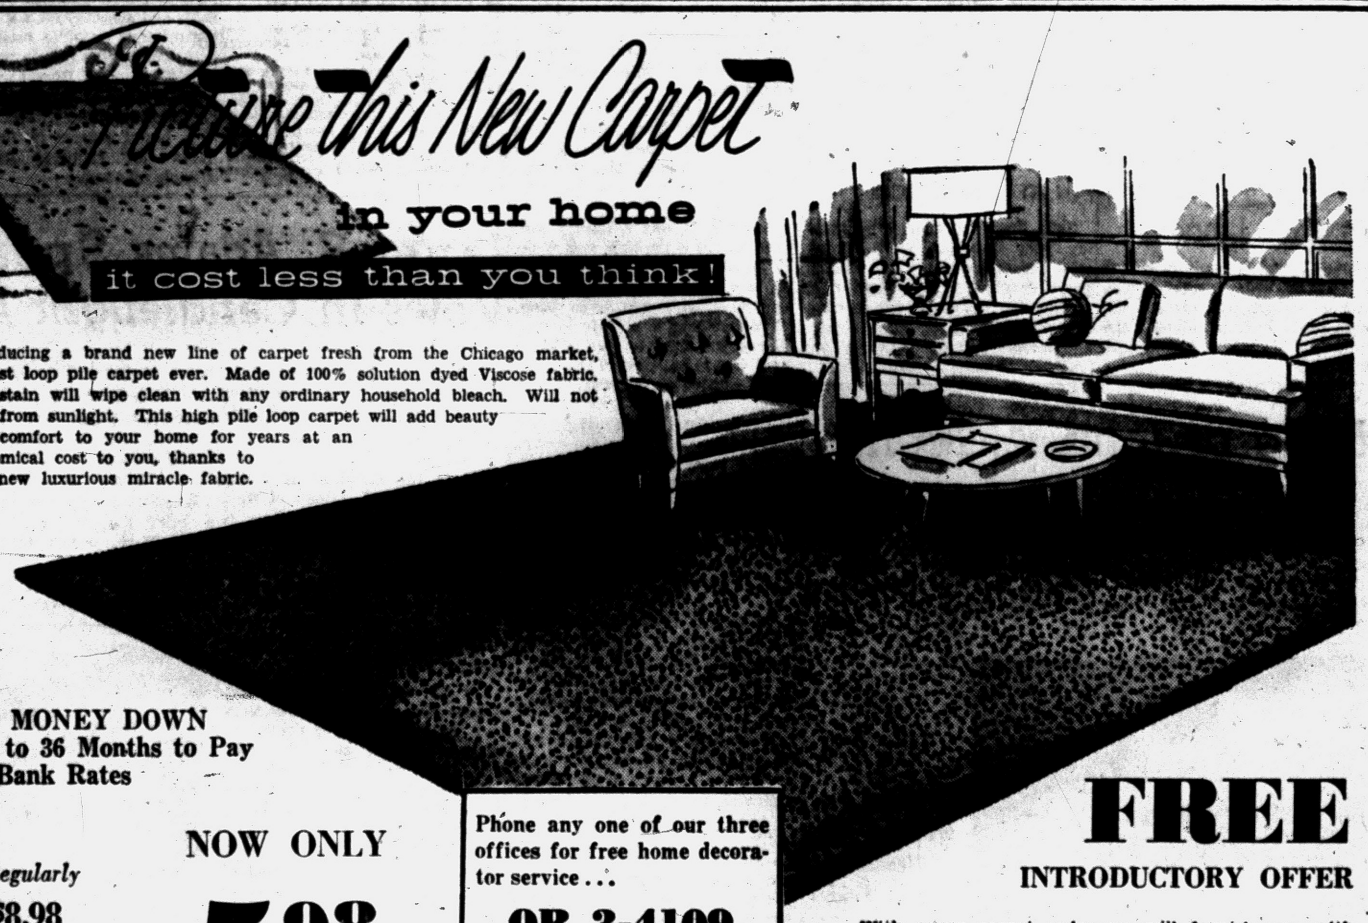

What you wear influences your pleasure and if you want to try a radical new fashion change, just take a critical view of your figure and then understand how you can adapt the new fashion so it is exactly right for you.

Easy-Clean Aprons

Practical pretties for pretty hostesses are aprons made of plastic, ornamented with rubber butterflies and rhinestones. They are so easy to swab clean and bright with a sudsy sponge, so reliable as protection for party clothes — yet they don't look practical!

Double-breasted navy blue blazer and white skirt (left) are both in lightweight doeskin flannel. Both can see wear with other skirts and jackets, thereby stretching a travel wardrobe. The cashmere sweater (right) is worn belted with straight skirt of lightweight British doeskin flannel. The gray of the cashmere is trimmed with the white of the skirt.

'57 Silhouette Is Slim, Softly Feminine

Slim is still the major silhouette. Newness appears in rounded hips that stress modified peg-top effects and tapered lines.

Controlled fulness is also incoming. Designers endorse soft folds, pleats and panels that cling rather than billow out, thus keeping the general look narrow.

As far as lengths go, top fashion sources are dropping hems about one inch for daytime and showing a few patio and cocktail dresses 10 inches off the floor.

Silks and linens hold the spotlight. Raw silk types, washable novelties, linen effects, jacquards and prints in sprawling florals do much to enhance the silk picture.

Linens, too, have a fresh story to tell. Besides feather-lightweight patterned effects are developed in different ways.

For example, there are lovely lacy tapestry types, lattice effects, damask looks as well as delicate embroidered styles. Chiffon and satin touches added to linens create a completely feminine look.

Cottons have fresh appeal in the soft silky character of fabrics shown. Impressive, too, are bold plaids that are soft in color values.

The cotton-plus group, the plus being the synthetics and new finishes which add new properties, receives stronger endorsement than ever.

Minutes, Money Saved With Soap

Did you know that one of Benjamin Franklin's earliest activities was making soap? He began his soap career at the age of ten, working for his father.

While Franklin left soap-making to learn printing, he certainly had an opportunity to appreciate the thrifty advantages of being able to wash what you own. Maybe the philosophy that "a penny saved is a penny earned" occurred to Ben much earlier in life than anybody realized.

The rest of us agree heartily that thrift and soap go together. That's why we keep on insisting that our clothes be washable, our home furnishings be washable, our automobile seat covers be washable, our houses be washable.

How else can we keep down the cost of home and wardrobe upkeep? Canny American homemakers surely want to "save a penny and earn a penny," too!

Select Perfume Right for You

Picking a perfume that's right for you is largely a matter of experimentation. Most department stores have perfume samples at hand for you to try. Once you've found a perfume you like, make sure that your skin reaction to it is good.

It's not necessary to settle down to one perfume for a lifetime. Most women have several different scents on hand and use them for various occasions.

Finally, make sure that your perfumes are those that please you, as well as other people. That's half the fun of wearing perfume.

Barabra Jane Bertling Becomes Bride

Barabra Jane Bertling walked up the aisle of St. Hugo of the Hills this noon to become the bride of Harry C. Zimmer Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Zimmer of Jersey City, N. J. The bride's parents are the Lee A. Bertlings of Ardmoor drive.

★ ★ ★

The Rev. Francis T. Stack officiated at the ceremony, which was followed by a reception at Orchard Lake Country Club.

Barabra Jane chose a princess-style gown of candlelight peau de soie for her wedding. The portrait neckline, bodice and three-quarter sleeves were accented by Brussels lace which she had brought back from Belgium. The same exquisite lace fashioned her veil, which extended beyond the court train of her gown. Her flowers were white roses and bouvardia.

Jane Moore Bertling was her sister's maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Mary Jane Wiggins of Grosse Pointe, Patricia Robinson of Hamilton, Ont., Mary Josephine Wiesler and Mrs. Lee A. Bertling Jr. of Ann Arbor.

The girls were all dressed identically in peacock blue peau de soie ballerina frocks, distinguished by portrait necklines, three-quarter sleeves and bouffant skirts which formed modified bustles at the back.

They wore tiny sailor hats of yellow chenille straw, and carried miniature baskets filled with roses and bouvardia.

Lee A. Bertling Jr. was best man, and seating the guests were another brother of the bride, William M. Bertling; Charles W. Dare, Gerard Volt of Philadelphia, Pa., and Cecil Rutledge of Summit, N. J.

Mrs. Bertling chose for her daughter's wedding a cinnamon brown satin and Alencon lace sheath, with which she wore yellow orchids and a lighter tone flowered hat. Mrs. Zimmer was in brown and beige, and her flowers were cymbidium orchids.

★ ★ ★

Following a wedding trip to Sea Island, Ga., the newlyweds will be at home in Milburn, N. J. The bride wore for traveling a beige suit topped by a fur stole, a matching beige straw hat and alligator accessories.

Alaska Seal, Beavers, Too, Mink Threat

Length of Cape Suited to Height Must Be Considered

NEW YORK (NEA)—Mink is the fur that most women want. But few of them will quibble at beaver or Alaska sealskin or Russian broadtail.

The length of the fur wrap you choose depends on several things: Your bank account, your wardrobe needs and your height. If you are very small, you'll probably take your fur in the form of a bloused jacket rather than a full-length coat.

★ ★ ★

But if you are tall and willowy, the drama of the full-length cape or coat is for you. So is the barrel silhouette. You can wear the great coat in its full glory, too, while the shorter girl looks her best in the short great coat worn over a stem-like skirt.

The cape influence shows itself in both full-length and three-quarter length capes for daytime and evening wear. These are done in mink and Alaska sealskin and are made snug through the use of bloused fronts.

The notable thing about all of these new designs in fur is fluidity. They are supple as silk and lightweight in the bargain. They're warm without being weighty, and as a bonus they offer linings in lush and dramatic fabrics and colors.

Shoes Require Care to Keep Shapely

Your shoes, as soon as you take them off, should get either shoe trees or little wads of tissue paper stuffed into the toes. It's this care that helps them to keep their shape and therefore last longer.

Suede shoes should have a professional cleaning by a shoe expert about once a month if they're to keep their velvety look.

You'll complete this simple daytimer in almost no time, it's sew-easy. A special design for the woman who wears a half-size.

No. 8382 with Patt-O-Rama included is in sizes 12½, 14½, 16½, 18½, 20½, 22½, 24½. Size 14½, (33 bust), 4 yards of 35-inch.

For this pattern, send 35c in coins, your name, address, size desired, and the pattern number to Sue Burnett, The Pontiac Press, 372 W. Quincy Street, Chicago 6, Illinois.

Basic Fashion, Spring and Summer '57 will delight you with its wealth of smart, easy to sew styles; special features; gift pattern printed inside the book. Send for it now—just 25 cents.

Use Clear Lotion to Wash Away Embedded Dirt

Does your skin feel really clean after you've washed off or creamed away make-up?

Chances are it's not. Because while both soap and cream do a good job, they're not 100 per cent effective. This doesn't mean that you should abandon either. It does mean that you should help them along with a clear cleansing lotion especially devised to reach the embedded dirt that's responsible for pimples, blackheads, enlarged pores and grayish skin.

★ ★ ★

The best way to test for yourself the effectiveness of this clear lotion is to wash or cream your face free of all make-up. Then saturate a cotton square with the cleansing lotion and watch the dirt roll off. You'll probably be surprised, even a little shocked.

Baby's Sweaters Elegantly Trimmed

Baby's sweaters now come as elegantly decorated as anything mother owns. Grosgrain ribbon, colored rhinestones, and pearls give the grown-up touch to cardigans and pullovers.

Such trimmings don't interfere with the necessary frequent sudsings. Just squeeze these sweaters gently in soap or detergent suds, and they'll wash as well as crib sheets.

JANE GAIL FISHER

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Fisher of Royal Oak announce the engagement of their daughter, Jane Gail, to Erik Bergishagen. He is the son of Mrs. Erik Bergishagen of North Adams road, Birmingham, and the late Mr. Bergishagen. A September wedding is being planned by the couple.

Fix Clever New Hats From Old

URBANA, Ill. (INS) — Change the look of last year's felt hat with a few scraps of matching material.

A fluted brim can change the appearance of an old hat and here is how she suggests doing it: Remove the brim, soak it in lukewarm water. Wring in a towel, but leave quite a bit of moisture in it. Press pleats along the edge and hold in place with pinch clothes pins.

★ ★ ★

Another idea is to make a feather design by cutting two feather shapes from an old piece of brim.

Put a wire down the middle of the design and stitch on both sides. This makes a spine for the feather. Slash diagonally at about one-eighth inch intervals along the edges of the feather.

If you want an interesting band to wrap around a hat, cut a hat brim into a continuous narrow strip about one-eighth inch wide. Milliners refer to this felt strip as "spaghetti." You can twist, braid or loop it around the hat.

Lutherans Make Film on Religion

Wholly New Feature on Stewardship Theme; to Star Walter Brennan

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Hollywood's Walter Brennan is under contract to star in a Cinemascope remake of a film produced in 1951 by The Lutheran Church — Missouri Synod and intended this time for distribut9on to neighborhood theaters.

The film, made to promote good stewardship among Christians and issued under the name "All That I Have," received saturation coverage in the churches of the Missouri Synod and was widely used in other Protestant communions.

Dr. Herman W. Gockel, religious director for the Missouri Synod's "This Is the Life" television series, has been given a brief leave to serve as technical consultant.

Dr. Gockel worked in a similar capacity on the original version. He empasizes that "not one foot" of the first film will be used in the forth-coming remake.

"William Claxton, "This Is the Life" director, will direct on a two-week shooting schedule at Twentieth Century-Fox and Family Films studios, set to start February 12.

Confident Living

Always Take a Good Book on a Trip—or to the Dentist

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

A friend of mine once had an unusual job. He spent most of his time in a quiet office reading the books his chief wanted to read. Then, when he finished a particular book, he would type out a neat one-page summary of what he had read and give it to his chief's secretary, who would carefully lay it on that important executive's desk.

DR. PEALE

This man had no time to read. Someone else had to do it for him!

I write books and often recommend reading various kinds of books, starting with the Bible, in this column. I wonder how many of my readers find time to read.

★ ★ ★

So many millions of Bibles have been sold in America that it is hard to believe that there is a family without one. Yet often people tell me that they've never been able to find time to read the whole Book through. Why, each year some enterprising publisher puts out a condensed Bible of one kind or another for such people. Yet many Americans never even finish a condensed version.

And there is no more disconcerting feeling for a best-selling author, who looks at his sales figures and is quite sure everyone must have read his book, than to have someone step up, shake his hand and say, "I've heard so much about your book; I wish I had time to read it."

A New York firm of management consultants, in their house organ, "Management Briefs," have come up with some suggestions which I offer you in an adapted form:

1. Talk less and be more selective in watching TV; you don't have to watch the dull programs.

★ ★ ★

2. Always carry a book in your bag, brief case or coat pocket.
3. Put a book under your pillow at night; if you can't sleep, read.
4. Wake up fifteen minutes earlier every morning, and read.

KEEP BOOK HANDY

5. Keep a book handy to pick up and read snatches while waiting for dinner at home or for appointments in the office.
6. Have a book with you when you're waiting for unpunctual people or for meetings to start.
7. Take along your own book to the doctor's or dentist's; why be satisfied with out-of-date magazines?

★ ★ ★

8. Keep a book in the glove compartment of your car in case of traffic jams, repairs or just waiting for someone; a New York doctor has read the Bible over and over just this way.
9. Never go on a trip by train, bus, plane or subway without a book.

10. Never forget that a book in your hand when you want it is worth a whole row of bookcases back home.

That interesting magazine called "The Freeman" points out that one man read all of Gibbon's immortal "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" in the intervals of waiting for his wife to dress to go out for dinner.

In a little more than a week we celebrate Abraham Lincoln's birthday. Books were few and precious when he grew up; he had to walk miles to borrow one. Yet Abe Lincoln found time to read. You can, too.

Recollection Day for Men Slated at Duns Scotus

On Saturday, Feb. 9. Rev. Father Aubuert Grieser, O.F.M. will conduct a Day of Recollection for men, sponsored by the St. Elizabeth Chapter of the Third Order of St. Francis, at Duns Scotus College, W. Nine Mile and Evergreen.

Starting at 2 p.m. this one-day retreat consists of spiritual talks, meditation and supper, followed by an open-forum and a Holy Hour. Activities are concluded at 8:30 p.m.

The season's eight sessions are dedicated to the theme: "To restore all things in Christ.' They are held on the Saturday before the second Sunday of each month from October to May.

Joseph D. Crumlish, 2580 Pine Lake Rd. states there is no set fee; and men of all denominations are invited.

Send Cuban to Work in Latin America

A new Protestant evangelism program in Latin America in response to "a surge of religious interest" there is the mission of a young Cuban minister and evangelist, the Rev. Cecilio Arrastia.

His appointment was announced this week by Dr. Howard Yoder, secretary of the National Council's Committee on Cooperation in Latin America. The Committee is a unit of the Division of Foreign Missions.

As field leader of the new program, Mr. Arrastia will preach and train other evangelists in almost all of Central and South America and the Caribbean area, Dr. Yoder said. He has speaking assignments in mission schools, colleges and universities and labor centers as well as pastors' training schools.

Radio and television preaching techniques will be a principal subject of interest to ministers and laymen in Protestant churches in the Latin American countries.

Pastor Installs 1957 Leaders

Rev. V. L. Luther Plans to Present Program for Year, Wednesday

The Rev. V. L. Luther installed leaders of the church and Sunday School at the 7:45 service Sunday evening in St. James Missionary Baptist Church.

The following were named: Rev. Leroy Fard, religious director; Otis Hinson, chairman of Board of Trustees; Reedie Anthony, chairman of Board of Deacons and superintendent of the Sunday School; Thomas Russell, president of the Usher Board and G. M. Moses, junior officer.

Others were A. B Davis, junior officer; Mrs. Barbara Burton, president of Missionary Society; Mrs. Mary Anthony, president of Pastor's Aid Club, and assistant church secretary; Mrs. Ella Mae Thompson, church clerk; Mrs. Mary Vinegar, pianist and Mrs. Matilda Hinson, choir director.

Rename Bishop as Head of Church in Philippines

Bishop Jose L. Valencia has been re-elected to head the Methodist Church in the Philippines by the Philippines Central Conference. Bishop Valencia's re-election, for a four-year term, came on the first ballot. He was first elected in 1948, to succeed the Rev. D. D. Alejandro, the first Filipino bishop, who served a four-year term.

Bishop Valencia studied law at Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, but decided to enter the ministry, and took his seminary training at Drew University, receiving a B.D. degree. After his return to the Philippines, he was ordained and admitted into the Northern Philippines Annual Conference.

SERVICE IN SANCTUARY — A clear view of the altar may be had from all of the 500 seats in the new sanctuary of the First Free Methodist Church, 501 Mt. Clemens St. The pink mist walls and cathedral windows give an atmosphere of reverence. The baptistry is behind the antique ivory traverse curtains. Additional seats for 200 are in the overflow area.

First Free Methodist to Serve All Ages

Nearly half a century ago, members of the First Free Methodist Church began worship services at 87 Lafayete St.

Growth of both Sunday School and congregation required remodeling at various times until a decision was made to relocate and build the present church at 501 Mt. Clemens St. The first services were held in the new building this week.

★ ★ ★

The church of red brick with white trim is located on nearly two acres of ground with ample room for parking.

The interior of the sanctuary is of exposed cinder blocks with laminated fir arches and red cedar ceiling. The pink mist walls blend softly with the light toned, limed oak pulpit and pews.

The dossal curtain of antique ivory has an interwoven thread of gold. A mural is planned for the wall of the baptistry behind the curtain.

TONES OF ROSE

The aisles and rostrum of the 50'x90' sanctuary are covered with deep rose carpeting. The windows are of cathedral glass in a light rose tone.

A nursery and mother's room with robin's egg blue walls are on the level with the sanctuary and equipped with a speaker so the sermon and music may be heard. The overflow room and sanctuary will accommodate 700.

The periwinkle blue walled room with white drop ceiling in the basement belongs to the beginners of the Sunday School. Tables and benches are yellow and charcoal with a coral and charcoal vinyl plastic floor.

JUNIORS ENJOY COLOR

The assembly room of the first, second and third grades is done in mint green and white with a gray and green floor. The Junior Department, which includes fourth, fifth and sixth grades, meets in a pink and turquoise room before going to the 9x10 class rooms.

The Junior Highs have chosen pink and dubonnet to brighten their gathering place. The Junior and Junior High rooms will both have altars. All Sunday School rooms are in the basement. More than 500 attended Sunday school last week.

The men of First Free Methodist under the direction of Clarence Chambers have built, shellacked and varnished the assembly room pews, tables and pulpit.

They have also done the decorating.

★ ★ ★

The pastor's office in green is on the first floor just inside the main doorway. As soon as possible the church will be heated by natural gas. At present, bottled gas is being used. The exterior is not yet completed.

Formal dedication services will be announced at a later date.

'Israel and Middle East' Subject of Adult Institute

LEON KAY

Leon Kay, president of the Michigan Region of the Zionist Organization of America, will speak on "Israel and the Middle East" at the Adult Institute in Congregation B'nai Israel Monday at 9 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Active in Jewish and American affairs most of his life, Mr. Kay was elected a member of the Board of Directors of the Zionist Organization in Detroit in 1937 and headed the Detroit section of the American Jewish Congress in 1938.

A Detroit industrialist, Mr. Kay helped to establish the State of Israel and to support her political, social and economic development.

He served as a national vice president of the American Technion Society to help develop Israel's Institue of Technology. Under his guidance, a group of investors was assembled for the establishment of an industrial enterprise in Israel.

Mr. Kay has visited Israel many times and has made a study of the country. At present he helps to shape policies of the Zionist Organization of America as a member of its National Executive Committee.

★ ★ ★

Rabbi Israel Goodman extends an invitation to members of all faiths to attend the lecture. A discussion period with refreshments will follow Mr. Kay's speech.

Youth Will Conduct Morning Worship

Don Seal will introduce the theme and speakers will be Dick Lantz, Norman Mallory and Carol Venner. Sandra Lougheed will speak on the subject of "Youth Week and Work" and Vivian Cascaddan on behalf of the National Youth project.

The Call to Worship and prayer will be given by Bill Hoisington; the invocation by Loretta Storey; Scripture reading, Norma Passage; responsive reading, Gary Oak; prayer, Wayne Kline and announcements, Pat Lantz.

Judith Kline will be at the organ with Phebe Henderson leading the Junior Choir and Sandra Lougheed leading the Senior Choir. Judy Dunham will sing a solo.

★ ★ ★

Receptionists and ushers will be Eugene Meeks, Bon Harrison, Don Dayner and Larry Watkins.

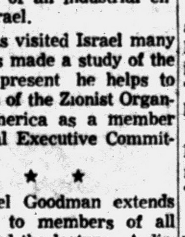

Church Presents World Premiere of New Oratorio

The world premiere of a new oratorio, composed by Normand Lockwood on a commission from the National Council of Churches and Berea College will take place in Cincinnati, Ohio, today.

On the theme of the brotherhood of man, the choral work, "Children of God", will be performed by the Berea College Oratorio Choir and the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra under the direction of Dr. Thor Johnson.

"This is the first step," said Dr. Johnson, "in a long-range plan to bring the church's voice to the concert hall. By the churches assuming the role of music patron they can reach the widest possible audience in auditoriums and on the air."

Twenty Fourth in a Series by Don Whitehead

Communist Party New Major Target of FBI

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article is the twenty-fourth in a series of highlights from "The FBI Story," a book about the Federal Bureau of Investigation by Don Whitehead, Pulitzer Prizewinner.)

By DON WHITEHEAD

The fight against communism has been by all odds the strangest chapter in the history of the FBI—and the least understood.

The FBI's role cannot be understood unless there is an understanding of the FBI approach to the problem under the leadership of J. Edgar Hoover and the men around him.

First, Hoover looked on communism as an international conspiracy from the time Lenin exulted in November, 1917, that at last the world revolution of communism had begun.

The Communist Party was no "fraternal society" espousing the ideals of liberalism and it was not a political party in the accepted sense.

This was a dangerous mechanism organized on an interlocking worldwide basis to wreck the existing social system and in so doing to overthrow the government of the United States by force and violence after it had been weakened by subversion.

Second, the men in command at the FBI had no illusion that the 'Communist Manifesto' and the writings of Lenin and then Stalin and then Malenkov and then Khrushchev were intellectual exercises to be classified only as opinion.

They saw in these writings what they saw in 'Mein Kampf'—the battle plan for conquest. The tactics might change and shift, but the grand strategy of world conquest had never changed. The FBI leadership accepted the Soviet Red chiefs at their word.

Third, communism threatened to destroy the freedoms and the government which these men were sworn to defend. This threat had to be fought just as the gangster threat was fought in the early 1930s.

Not with the same methods and weapons, of course, but by every legal means and just as relentlessly.

Fourth, those who were members of the Communist Party, and those who followed the party line consistently, willingly and knowingly, were nothing more than pawns of Soviet Russia.

And being the willing tools of Russia they were a potential menace to the security of the United States. As guardians of the nation's internal security, it was the legal moral duty of the FBI to combat this menace and checkmate it where possible.

VIEW STILL SOUND

This was the basic outlook toward communism which the FBI carried into the task of keeping a check on Communist activities as requested by President Roosevelt in 1936.

★ ★ ★

The viewpoint remained unchanged over the years because the estimate made by Hoover of the menace of communism was as sound in 1956 as it had been in 1919, when he wrote the lawyer's brief against the Communist Party. Time had only confirmed the estimate.

Until international communism succeeded in convincing some Americans that they owed their allegiance to the cause of Soviet Russia, a citizen's loyalty to the United States was conceded in the normal course of events.

Loyalty was a quiet love of country and a pride in its ideals which all men were presumed to carry in their hearts. The government didn't question it.

But communism sowed the seeds of suspicion and distrust. The followers of communism, by their own disloyalty, by espionage and subversion and deception, created doubts that should never have been injected into the stream of American political life.

At last the federal government had to face the hard facts of life. And the facts were that there had been some employes in government who were disloyal.

President Harry S. Truman in November, 1946, appointed a temporary commission to study the problem of employe loyalty and how best to bar the disloyal from the federal service.

The commission recommended in the first roughdraft report that each department and agency be responsible for its own loyalty procedures.

After a study of this report, the FBI suggested that there be a Loyalty Review Board which would act as an appeals board with the power to approve or overrule actions taken against employes by the department and agency heads and which would give directions and guidance to the program.

On March 21, 1947, President Truman issued Executive Order 9835 establishing the Federal Employes Loyalty Program.

The primary responsibility for employe investigations was given to the Civil Service Commission, except in cases where agencies had their own investigative staffs.

★ ★ ★

A Loyalty Review Board was established, and it was ordered that the investigative agencies could refuse to disclose the names of confidential informants.

This was the beginning of the first broad-scale effort of the federal government to protect itself from subversion in the ranks of government workers.

But as the months passed, the impression was lodged in the minds of many people that the FBI was investigating each employe in government and each job applicant; that the FBI was tapping employes' telephones and that surveillance was kept on thousands of employes.

Actually, the FBI had nothing to do with the great majority of the investigations of employes and applicants except to run a name check against the bureau's files to determine whether the files reflected any background information indicating disloyalty.

The FBI's responsibility ended with the name check unless somewhere along the line of checks the FBI or another agency received information or found something which raised a question of disloyalty. In all such cases, the FBI's duty was one of gathering as completely and accurately as possible facts to be presented to the various agencies where the power of decision rested. The FBI report never carried a recommendation for or against an employe or applicant. It is not the FBI's job to be investigator, judge and jury.

★ ★ ★

Frequently a phrase was heard that someone had been "cleared by the FBI." This, of course, was not true, because the FBI had not been given that authority, nor did it seek it. Nor did the FBI "make charges" against anyone.

World-Wide Strike Scheduled by Pilots

CHICAGO (UP) — A world-wide strike by 1,536 pilots for Pan American World Airways has been called for Feb. 8 by the Air Line Pilots Assn. in a dispute over a new contract.

The strike call for midnight, local time, announced yesterday by Clarence N. Sayen, president of ALPA, climaxed a contract dispute between the airline and pilots' union which has been in negotiation for six months.

The ALPA said principal issues in the dispute are increases in pay for pilots, rules and working conditions, particularly dealing with "excess time on duty and time away from home," and duration of the contract.

Sayen said the pilots average about $13,000 a year and have not had a wage increase since 1952.

In New York, the company said that the pay scale for pilots is more than $18,000 a year and that for co-pilots more than $12,000.

Chinese to Hear Blast but It'll Be Second Hand

PETALUMA, Calif. (UP) — Petaluma Chinese will enjoy the roar of 10,000 firecrackers in their Chinese New Year's celebration tonight, although its against the law to explode them.

Supermarket operator Harry Chan set of $50 worth in Kenilworth Park yesterday with police permission, and recorded the sound on tape. Noise from the tape will supply the traditional firecracker trimmings.

The completed Trans-Canada highway will extend for a length of 4,161 miles.

STRANGE CREATURES — 6
The Groundhog

Today we will meet a strange little creature called the groundhog. Although there is much legend connected with him, the groundhog is a real animal. And, as many of you know, today is Groundhog Day.

People used to say that the groundhog had an important bearing on the weather. They thought that if the groundhog, which sleeps all winter, came out of his hole and saw his shadow he would scurry back, and that six more weeks of winter would follow. If he didn't see his shadow, he stayed out and the weather would be fine.

Paste this picture on cardboard and color with crayons. Cut out the picture carefully and fold back the easel ends as shown in the small drawing on the left flap. Stand it up in a sunny window first thing in the morning. Let the groundhog face you with his back to the sun. If the shadow falls on the window sill he will be ready to hibernate for another six weeks. If it is a cloudy day with no shadows, Mr. Groundhog will stay up for fine weather to come.

Ike Lauds Support of Youth in Election

NEW YORK (UP) — President Eisenhower attributes his re-election largely to the support of owmen and young people.

In a message read yesterday to the annual conference of the Federation of Women's Republican Clubs of New York state, Eisenhower said:

★ ★ ★

"In all the sincerity that I posses, I think ew owe the success of our election to the women of this country and to our young people.

"The Republican party has never had such support from these two groups as in the last election."

Reds Rule Out Payment for Would Be Refugee

BUDAPEST (UP) — A Communist court has ruled a would-be Hungarian refugee cannot get back the money he paid to a guide who failed to take him across the border.

The court's decision, published in the newspaper Esti Hirlap, said Laszlo Nemeth could not collect $900 he paid in 1950 to a guide who was caught before the trip out could be made.

Evidence indicated chances of getting the money back would have been pretty slim anyway. The guide was released from jail after 4½ years and now has fled Hungary.

Army Mule Plods On as Helicopter Falters

LONDON, Ky. (UP) — Modern Army transportation may have its limits—but not the mule.

★ ★ ★

This was proven when bad weather forced an Army helicopter to set down on a mountain top. The craft was sent here from Ft. Benning, Ga., to aid in flood rescue work.

★ ★ ★

Warrant officer William Snyder borrowed a mule from farmer George Barnett and rode down the mountainside to find transportation for his crew.

17 Whiz Through College Math in Colorado School

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP)—Seventeen freshmen at Colorado School of Mines are whisking through their mathematics texts almost as if these were comic books.

* * *

By Dec. 5, after less than three months in school, they had completed a semester's work in college algebra and plane and spherical trigonometry. They also had begun courses in analytic geometry and calculus.

By May 24 they will have completed two semesters of work in those departments. Prof. Ivan L. Hebel, head of the school's math department, said if the 17 continue their fast work, they will polish off the remaining calculus and differential equations by Jan. 24 next year.

* * *

Hebel decided to form an accelerated math class after learning 30 freshmen scored 100 per cent in a mathematics place-test examination last fall.

Take Heart, Taxpayers! Be Out of Debt by 2017

WASHINGTON (INS) — Uncle Sam's budget chief says it would take 60 years at the present rate to pay off the national debt.

The present rate, or at least the one planned for the coming fiscal year, is $9,113,000,000. Of this, only $1,831,000,000 goes toward the debt itself and the rest is interest payment on what is left.

In testimony made public today by the House Appropriations Committee, Budget Director Percival Brundage said payments every year of $9,113,000,000 would mean that the debt would be wiped out by the year 2017.

TO THE PUBLIC:

While news of a great motion picture travels fast, I have had the pleasure of seeing "The SILENT WORLD," and was so impressed by the film's excellence, I want to make sure you know about it too.

Here is the answer to a movie-goer's plea for something new, something different, something original in entertainment. When you see pictures as I do, not as a hobby, but as a business, you develop a hard-boiled attitude toward them and it takes something unusual to lift you to the point where you want to cheer.

Such a picture is "THE SILENT WORLD." Here is a true adventure of indescribable awe and thrills that captures the feel and excitement of brave and bold achievement. It is the story of the "space men of the sea," who for the first time reveal all the dangers and wonders of the unprobed depths of the oceans, to bring you sights unknown to human eyes until now, exactly as they lived it.

This prize-winning movie has been acclaimed throughout the world. It is something I believe you will want to see, so I urge you not to miss it.

Chiefs Gain 9th Victory Against Catholic Central

Skinner Collects 25 Points as Both Teams Hit 41 Per Cent

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

DETROIT—Those fortunate enough to have a head full of hair are probably checking their losses today, but the hairless must have sprouted a few if they were among the standing-room-only fans who saw Pontiac score a thrilling 63-62 victory over Detroit Catholic Central last night.

It was a nip and tuck affair with the widest margin at any time being Pontiac's 12-5 lead in the first few minutes. From there on, it was asclosecasthis throughout.

★ ★ ★

Both teams put on a spectacular shooting display, each hitting 41 per cent from the floor. Pontiac took 60 shots, making 25, and Central hitting on 26 of 62 attempts.

Jim Skinner, 6-feet-2 junior forward had the best night of his basketball career for the Chiefs, but a bad ankle injury forced him out of the game in the final two minutes.

Skinner poured through 10 points in the first period and finished with 25 including 10 fielders in 14 attempts.

★ ★ ★

Hud Ray, who moved into a double post with Skinner, hit for 17 with Dave Diehm getting 16.

Four Shamrocks hit in double figures, led by forward Tom Kramer who bucketed 26 points before fouling out with 10 seconds remaining.

After an 18-12 first quarter, the Shamrocks got hot and with four minutes to play in the half it was 26-26. PHS led 35-34 at the half.

The lead changed hands seven times and was tied five times until Diehm hit a field goal and free throw to make it 54-50 after three periods.

Pontiac then kept the lead, but Central stayed within one point up to the three minute mark. Ray then bucketed twice and Pontiac led 63-58 with two minutes left.

★ ★ ★

With the injured Skinner floored up court, Kramer went all the way in to make it 63-60, and with 15 seconds remaining Kramer hit again to make it 63-62.

Kramer then fouled out trying to get possession, but when Terry Zellhart missed the free throw, Pontiac got control and fought off the Shamrocks.

"Both teams played great ball," said coach Art Van Ryzin, "we're just happy for that one point margin."

★ ★ ★

The victory was Pontiac's 9th straight, best streak since 1933.

The extent of Skinner's injury is not yet known, but the ankle was swollen badly in a check after the game.

A great following of Pontiac fans, themselves filling almost all of the 1,000 seats on the westside, were on hand for the game.

In the reserve game, Jerry Williams and Harrison Munson each hit 18 as Pontiac won 62-35.

MOMENT OF GLORY — Waterford High School basketball fans had a few moments of glory early in the game against a strong Berkley team but all was in vain as the Skippers tumbled, 59-34, in an Inter-Lakes game last night.

Smooth Berkley Squad Polishes Off Waterford

Viking Quintet Keeps I-L Lead by Blasting Southfield, 92-48

By BILL CORNWELL

It's the same old story today in the Inter-Lakes Conference basketball race. Walled Lake's leading and Berkley's chasing.

★ ★ ★

The two high school powerhouses continue to demonstrate why they're the class of the conference—last night's overwhelming victories, for example.

A rangy, smooth-functioning Berkley quintet outclassed Waterford in every respect to win as it pleased, 59-34, thus setting the stage for next Friday's showdown with the Vikings at Berkley.

Walled Lake tuned up for the Bears by heaping a 92-48 landslide on Southfield in the Walled Lake gymnasium as center Larry Hughs tied the school's single game scoring record.

Farmington's Don McDonald broke two point-making records as the Falcons whipped Van Dyke, 73-57, for their 4th league win in six starts. McDonald fired 36 points, a new mark at Farmington and an all-time high in the Van Dyke gym.

A magnificent Berkley defense completely throttled Waterford's high-scoring Chuck Gillis. The Skipper center attempted a total of two shots, one in each half. He sunk the 1st, had his 2nd try blocked and hit once from the foul line to wind up the evening with a meager three points.

After adjusting themselves to the Waterford court, the Bears methodically ground out a 29-17 halftime edge and steadily increased the margin in the final two quarters.

Hughes rained 11 field goals and 10 free throws into the bucket for 32 points, matching the number tallied by Walled Lake's Merle Taulbee in 1955.

SKIPPER AND HIS CREW — Coach Don Beedle of Waterford calls his Waterford basketball crew into a huddle, but the Skippers were unable to stop a tough Berkley quintet.

Clarkston, 69-49 Winner Against W. Bloomfield

Holly Bows in Extra Period, 71-68, While Northville Rolls

By CHUCK ABAIR

A 14-point 2nd period scoring spree paced Clarkston to a big lead it never relinquished in slamming West Bloomfield by a 69-49 score last night, but the victory only served to give the Wolves a firmer grip on the runner-up slot in the Wayne-Oakland League.

Front-running Northville downed Clarenceville with a big last period to remain ahead of the pack while Brighton was nipping Holly in overtime.

Clarkstog was stunned by some amazing West Bloomfield shooting in the opening quarter and trailed at one point 16-7. But the Lakers, who hit 9 of 14 shots and scored 12 consecutive points in one stretch, cooled off from then on.

Bill Noles, playing his 1st game with the Wolves since leaving Oxford, helped spark a rally that evened the count and later sent the victors ahead to stay. His four digits and some fine rebounding launched the clinching spree early in the 2nd stanza.

★ ★ ★

Clarkston coasted in the last half as both coaches emptied their benches. George Lang tallied 21, Noles and speedy Leroy Parks added 17 each for the Blue. Jump shot artist John Lucadem rung up 22 for West Bloomfield.

Clarenceville played unbeaten Northville on even terms for three quarters before bowing, 62-50. The Mustangs broke a 42-42 tie with a 29-point last stanza for their 8th straight. But Beil and 6-7 Jeff Goodrich sparked the winning rally and scoring with 20 and 17 respectively. Steady Larry Andrews caged 17 in a losing cause.

Holly blew several chances to triumph in its 71-68 loss to Brighton including a three-point advantage in the overtime. Key hoops by sophomores Ross Hudson and Jim Paddock iced the verdict after a see-saw evening of basketball.

★ ★ ★

Brian Watson rung up 25 and Paddock 19 as the Bulldogs took over 3rd place breaking a tie with Holly. Center George McDaniels topped the Broncos with 32.

St. Fred Triumphs; Eaglets Romp

St. Frederick regained a share of 3rd place and runner-up Orchard Lake St. Mary stayed on the heels of pace-setting Highland Park St. Benedict in the Suburban Catholic League title chase last night.

St. Fred splurged in the 3rd quarter to defeat Ferndale St. James, 56-48, at the southside gymnasium. The triumph moved the Rams into a tie for 3rd with crosstown rival St. Michael on a 6-3 record.

Pontiac's two parochial schools will fight for undisputed control of the position next Friday at Pontiac High.

St. Mary leisurely rolled to its 8th victory in nine games on the Orchard Lake floor. The Eaglets pummeled Hazel Park St. Rita, 67-35.

Larry Gacki poured in 21 points to sparkplug unbeaten St. Benedict's 63-44 rout of Royal Oak St. Mary at Royal Oak. It was the 9th SCL win for the Ravens.

Ed Kast, who scored 12 points for St. Fred, meshed 10 of them in the 3rd period when the Rams iced their decision over St. James. St. Fred held a skimpy 22-21 lead at halftime.

Tom Derocher grabbed point-making honors for the Rams and the game with 16. Ray Rieti topped the Dales with 15 points.

Eight Eaglet players broke into the scoring column, with forward Pete Madelans hauling down the laurels on a 23-point spree. Jim Jacobs rang up 14 points for St. Rita.

Romeo Trims Oxford

Rochester Beaten, 78-77

Tom Wilson and his Lapeer mates are in the driver's seat among area independents today after nipping highly-rated Rochester 78-77 in overtime at the small Lapeer gym.

Wilson, who had another big night with 37 giving him 118 for the last three games, took charge in the overtime session by scoring all 10 Panther points.

In other games of local interest, Romeo romped over Oxford, 70-54, and Mariette belted Caro, 89-46.

That Lapeer-Rochester contest was a see-saw affair most of the way. The Falcons held a nine-point lead at the half only to have it deadlocked by the 3rd period.

★ ★ ★

Rochester got back in front by four with just a minute to play in regulation time only to have Wilson send it into overtime with two driving layups.

It was a bitter pill for 8th ranked Rochester to swallow. The setback snapped a win streak at seven although the Falcons made three more field goals. An excellent 18-for-27 on foul conversions was a tremendous factor in Lapeer's 5th success in a row and 8th win all season.

Five Falcons hit double numbers. Dave Eldred led with 19, seven in the overtime, and "Peanuts" Montross had 18. Dave Peters fouled out in the 3rd canto after scoring 10.

Combining for 46 points in the middle quarters, Romeo had little trouble getting back in the win column as 10 different players took part in the point-getting. John Fowler headed the group with 15. Carl Roland meshed 20 for Oxford.

Marlette took a big step towards improving in state ranks with its 11th straight triumph in a Thumb B League contest.

Lake Orion Upset

Avondale Win Streak at 6

An Avondale team which has been improving consistently since early season posted its 6th straight victory and 7th in nine Oakland B starts with 54-46 verdict over Madison last night.

The triumph enabled the Yellow Jackets to gain more ground on the loop-leading Troy quintet. The Colts were idle from loop play but walloped Oak Park by a 63-29 tally in a warmup for future league action.

In other Oakland B contests, Fitzgerald came up with a 33-point last quarter to whip Lake Orion in an upset, 74-63, while Clawson was whipping Roseville, 74-58.

Seven different boys took part in a balanced attack in Avondale's win with Steve Saunders topping the group with 12. Madison's Hal Perkins led all the scoring with 19.

The Jackets led all the way after a close 1st period.

A reserve center named George Ceglarek was the big gun in the last period rally which sparked Fitzgerald to its 2nd win. He hit 10 of his 15 digits in the final minutes. Lake Orion went into the 4th quarter with a six-point lead but the Spartans took complete charge of things.

Bob Rush hit 18, all in the 1st half, and Ralph Brunk matched Ceglarek's 15 for the victors. Jim Drake and Ralph MacLachlan hit 17 apiece in the Orion attack. The Dragons are now 4-5 in loop games.

Thirteen players took part in Troy's scoring as the Colts romped from the opening whistle. Don Killewald and Don Harned, playing his 1st varsity game, had 10 each for Troy.

Maples Victimized, 52-36

East Detroit's wounded pride and Bob Isbell's absence from the Birmingham lineup joined forces to victimize the Maples last night.

The Shamrocks, handed their 1st loss of the season this week by Hamtramck, took out their vengeance on the Maples with a 52-36 Eastern Michigan League victory at Birmingham.

Isbell, one of Oakland County's leading scorers, was not in uniform and the Maples attack suffered considerably. East Detroit piled up a 31-12 halftime margin and coasted to its 5th league triumph.

In remaining EML action, runner-up Ferndale stayed on East Detroit's heels with a 61-43 win over Hazel Park as Earl McNeal bagged 15 points while Rich Robins clicked for 23 to spark Port Huron's 62-55 conquest of Mt. Clemens.

Pontiac Wrestlers Show Improvement

PHS mat squad gave Flint Northern a good run in Friday's 9th match of the season at Flint, but dropped its 8th meet 36-18. Big gain in points over the 58-5 count in the 1st match here shows a fine improvement, says Coach Bill Willson.

Duke Relyea (175) scored an upset pin over Vikings' star gridder and sprinter John Sharpe at 175 pounds, for the match feature. The pin took just 48 seconds. On the other side Mel Nozenchuk lost by a pin to Sam Evans in the same time. Mel pinned Evans in the meet here several weeks ago.

Imlay City Wallops Ortonville Quintet

Winless Ortonville gave unbeaten Imlay City some anxious moments for two periods but faltered in the last half to drop its 4th straight in the South Central Conference last night.

The Blackhawks trailed only 28-26 at halftime but that count rose steadily to a final verdict of 69-45 in the next 16 minutes.

Larry Dorow split the nets for 28 points, 12 in the deciding third canto, to lead the scoring as Imlay made its record 4-0 in loop games. Bob Hutchings was the best the losers could offer. He hit for 16.

North Branch defeated Millington in the other league game, 62-42.

Maple Tankers Upset Plymouth

Capturing seven 1st places, but still trailing late in the meet at the home pool, Birmingham High's tankers yesterday pulled a 50-46 upset on hitherto once - beaten Plymouth.

John Overgard's win in the 100-yard freestyle tied the count and Klaus Partsch (European import) took the 100-yard breaststroke to nail the victory.

Saginaw Quint Wins SVC Tilt

Muskegon Heights, Top 'A' Team in State, Scores Romp

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In a pair of Saginaw Valley contests, Saginaw kept alive its title hopes with a 74-59 win over Flint Northern and Bay City Central did likewise by trimming Flint Central 58-51.

Five Saginaw starters hit for all but two of their team's points, with Deb Blondin's 21 the high mark. The Saginaw team struck for 16 of 21 free throws.

The Bay City-Flint Central game was tied nine times before the Wolves pulled away late in the final period. Don Kanicki scored 17 points to pace Bay City while Tom Bell and Felix Miller each tallied 16 for Flint Central.

Muskegon Heights was supposed to have a "major test" against Benton Harbor, but the final score was 67-44 for the Heights with Ed Burton, 6-6 center, scoring 24 points. Willie McCarty was close behind with 22 as the Heights—defending state class A champion—rolled to its 16th straight conquest.

3 Pool Records Fall but Chiefs Lose Meet

Three pool records were set for the new Arthur Hill swim site last night, with PHS Chiefs' Dennis Simonson hanging up one mark and Chauncy Johnson and Ron Gage, both of Arthur Hill, accounting for the others.

Simonson was the only two-event winner, taking the 100-yard breast and 150-yard individual medley. His 1:39.5 in the latter was his season's best, and was an AH pool record.

The results:

50-yard freestyle — Won by Garcia (AH); 2nd, West (AH); 3rd, Doefr (P); 4th, Roberts (P). Time 26.1

100-yard breaststroke — Won by Simonson (P); 2nd, Day (AH); 3rd, Krogman (AH); 4th, Powers (P). Time 1:06

200-yard freestyle — Won by Johnson (AH); 2nd, Dewell (AH); 3rd, LaMotte (P); 4th, May (P). Time 2:02.7 (pool record)

100-yard backstroke — Won by Gage (AH); 2nd, Hohler (AH); 3rd, Gibbs (P). Times 1:02.3 (pool record)

100-yard freestyle—Won by Bear (AH); 2nd, Williams (AH); 3rd-4th, Colsch and Tollefson (P). Time 58.2

150-yard individual medley — Won by Simonson (P); 2nd, Garcia (AH); 3rd, Schact (AH); 4th, Rose (P). Time 1:39.5 (pool record)

Diving — Won by Cox (AH); 2nd, Williams (AH); 3rd, LaMotte (P).

200-yard medley relay—Won by Arthur Hill. Time 2:03.4

200-yard freestyle relay—Won by AH. Time 1:42.9

100-yard orthodox breaststroke — Won by Stinson (P); 2nd, Hale (AH); 3rd, Braun (AH); 4th, Walker (P). Time 1:16.5

'M' Icers Romp, 7-3

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Eddie Switzer, Michigan's mighty-mite on skates, punched home two goals in the first 7½ minutes to lead the Wolverines to a 7-3 conquest over the University of Montreal last night in a non-league hockey game.

The same sextets play here tonight.

Fouls Give Fraser 63-54 Win Over Bloomfield Hills

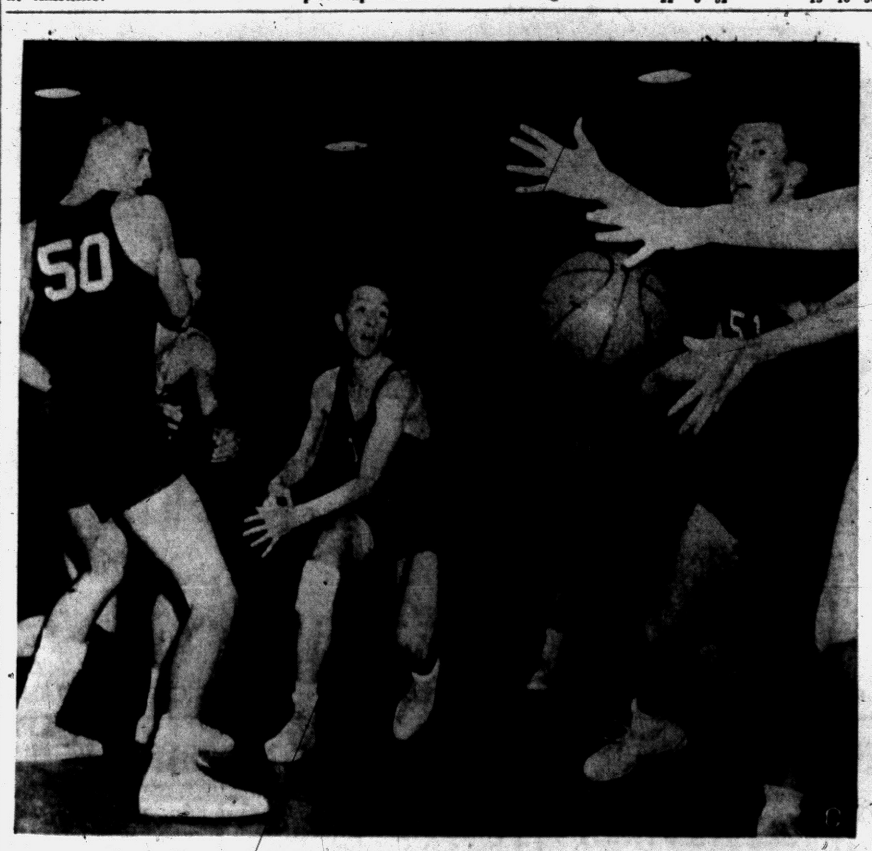

Five successive foul shots broke up a late Bloomfield Hills rally that had narrowed a deficit to two points as the Barons dropped a 63-54 Southeast Suburban League tilt to Fraser last night.

The victors made 12 of their 16 final period points on free tosses to wrap up the victory after Bloomfield had cut the margin down with only 2:05 left to play.

Bob Elstan hooped 12, Randy Barrett 11, and Dave Drury 10 as the Barons dropped their 5th game against two loop wins. Ron Burke hit the cords for 18 for Fraser.

South Lyon Triumphs

Dave Wren netted 18 points to lead South Lyon's basketball team to a 42-38 triumph over Hartland in a League of the Lakes game Friday night at South Lyon. The winners held a 26-11 advantage at halftime.

ARMS AWAY — An unidentified pair of arms appear to reach out of nowhere to grab the ball away from Berkley's Jim Zelinski on the Waterford court last night, while Berkley players Lance Gentile (center) and Dave Neiger attempt to intercept. Waterford lost to the Bears, 59-34.

Almont, Armada in Finals

Almont will clash with Armada tonight in the Armada gymnasium for the championship of the Southern Thumb League basketball tournament.

This pairing was determined Friday night at New Haven when the Raiders thwarted the challenge of New Haven and Armada turned back Memphis in the semi-finals.

Almont, undefeated in regular league play and a strong tourney favorite, overcame a 32-30 halftime deficit to trounce New Haven, 63-51. Lanky Larry Kersten meshed 28 points for the Raiders while New Haven's Stan Gleason potted 22.

The rest provided by a 1st round bye didn't benefit Memphis at all as Armada chalked up a 46-38 triumph in yesterday's opening game.

Tonight's Almont-Armada title battle gets under way at 9 o'clock. Memphis meets New Haven at 7:30 in a consolation contest.

Shrine Quintet Beaten

Shrine's basketball team dropped its 7th decision in 11 games last night at Royal Oak, a 54-39 loss to Holy Redeemer. Shrine was handicapped by the absence of Tom Geil, who is out for the rest of the season with a leg injury. Tom Ropers led the Knights with 16 points while Barry Swiss scored 18 for Holy Redeemer.

Tribe Rewards Pitcher Score With Pay Raise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Herb Score, brilliant young lefthander of the Cleveland Indians, and veterans Bobby Thomson and Millard Howell have joined the growing number of players signed sealed and ready to try to deliver in the 1957 major league baseball season.

Score, who fanned 263 batters while winning 20 games and losing nine in his sophomore season, got a substantial, but undisclosed, raise from the Indians. In two years with Cleveland, the 23-year-old fastballer has struck out 508 batters.

Marshall Wins NFL's Plaudits

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — National Football League owners tackle two controversial problems today, the players' assn. and whether or not to expand to 14 clubs in 1958.

★ ★ ★

The owners fumbled through a long, arduous session last night in which numerous rule changes were proposed and after much debate, defeated. The result, in brief, of the rules discussions was, the game remains the same.

★ ★ ★

A resolution praising George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, as "the greatest asset sports has ever known," was the only other news coming out of the night session.

The resolution, sponsored by Commissioner Bert Bell, apparently was a vote of confidence for Marshall in his squabble with the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. The NAACP has charged the Redskins' boss with discriminating against Negro players.

Actually, the owners shunted aside the important business of this three day annual meeting to get rid of minor problems. Today, they come face-to-face with subjects which will have a large bearing on the future of the league. Bell said the players' assn. proposals will be the first order of business.

The commissioner will present to the owners the proposals of the players as laid down by representatives Kyle Rote and Norman Van Brocklin, assisted by Atty. Creighton Miller. Briefly, the players want a $5,000 minimum salary, an injury clause guaranteeing a full season's wages, certain expenses and a shorter training season.

★ ★ ★

Most of the owners are inclined to approve the assn. The six clubs definitely on the record as in favor are almost unanimous in the opinion that the players already are receiving most of the things they want. The attitude is, "If they want an official assn., let them have it."

Yesterday, the city of Buffalo, represented by Patrick J. McGroder Jr., presented its case for an NFL franchise.

★ ★ ★

Seven other cities reportedly are interested in professional football. Bell identified them as Minneapolis, Kansas City, Miami, Louisville, Denver and Houston. The league would provide players for new franchises by giving them top draft choices at the annual player selection meeting.

Lions Up Ticket Prices

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Detroit Lions have announced their first ticket price increase since 1948.

Nick Kerbawy, general manager, said yesterday the Lions were increasing 36,535 upper and lower deck reserved seats from $4 to $4.50, and lower deck seats from $3 to $3.50.

★ ★ ★

Kerbawy said upper deck box seats, most of which he pointed out were held by owners of the team, would be increased from $5 to $6. Another 800 upper deck box seats will be increased from $4 to $5.

★ ★ ★

The bleacher seat price of $2 remains unchanged.

Kerbawy said the price increase was the result of a two-year survey which showed the Lions' ticket prices rated fourth from the bottom in the National Football League. He said only Cleveland, Los Angeles and the Chicago Cardinals had lower prices than Detroit.

Pension Boost Gets OK

NEW YORK (AP)—Major league baseball today has a benefit-packed pension plan described by officials as unequalled anywhere.

★ ★ ★

And having met player demands for increased benefits—which include a whopping 75 per cent boost in monthly pension checks—it wouldn't be surprising if the American and National leagues shelved a request for a raise in minimum salaries during their joint winter meeting today.

The players have asked that the present $6,000 minimum be increased to $7,500.

The pros and cons of that controversy, however, were secondary to the sweeping advance in pension benefits unanimously approved by the owners of the 16 major league clubs in separate meetings yesterday.

★ ★ ★

The two leagues granted a minimum monthly pension of $88 and upped the maximum monthly check to $550. The new plan, awaiting a federal tax ruling before it goes into effect April 1, also includes a 50 per cent increase in insurance benefits and new disability and hospitalization benefits.

★ ★ ★

The retirement benefits are available to players, coaches and trainers with at least five years service, who contribute to the plan, at age 50. They also may postpone collection of the pension checks until age 60 or 65, with additional bonuses.

★ ★ ★

Here's the way the old and new benefit scales compare (at age 50):

Years of Service	New	Old
5	$88	$50
10	$175	$100
20	$275	$100

A 10-year man can collect $275 a month by waiting until he's 60 to draw his benefits, and $350 a month if he wants until he's 65. A 20-year man can collect $450 at 60, or $550 at 65.

Only the first 10 years of major league service previously were considered in pension benefits, with no provision for a delay in collecting the monthly payments. Now a player receives $17.50 a month for each year in the majors up to 10, and $10 a month for each additional year up to 20.

Spartan Sextet Dumps Gophers

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State for the first time in 31 years has defeated Minnesota in a Western Intercollegiate Hockey game.

Joe Polamo and Bob Jasson tallied in the final stanza to give the Spartans a 2-1 victory over the Gophers last night.

MSU has a record of 29 losses and one tie in a hockey series with the Gophers dating to 1926.

Contributions Lag for Joe's Tax Fund

CHICAGO (AP) — Contributions to the Joe Louis fund, a campaign to help the former heavyweight champion clear up his $1,200,000 back income tax, are lagging

John Youngheim of Norfolk, Neb., one of the originators of the fund, yesterday announced some $3,000 has been raised since the campaign started about two weeks ago.

Youngheim said there has been response from all 48 states, but "at a buck a ride, it's going to be a long ride to get Joe out of hock."

BC Preps Chalk Up Eighth Cage Victory

Pontiac Boys' Club Prep Basketball team Friday rolled to its 8th victory in nine games, 57-24 over Keego Harbor Boys' Club.

Glenn Ray led Pontiac with 19 points. Del Green had 10 points.

Preps have defeated such teams as the Philadelphia Boys' Club of Detroit, Ypsilanti Boys' Club and the Sarver Boys' Club of Detroit.

The Pontiac team travels to Highland Park Boys' Club next Tuesday. All games are a lead up to the Gold Medal Tournament to be held sometime in March.

Unused to Spotlight

Marusic Leads at Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Milon Marusic is a professional golfer unused to the spotlight which dwelt on him today.

★ ★ ★

For most of his many years as a pro he has concentrated on the problems of country club members as a resident club teacher.

But today he was the top man going into the third round of the $15,000 Phoenix Open tournament at the Arizona Country Club.

Marusic, 40, tall, slender and friendly, has never won a major tournament. The best he did was a fourth in a Savannah, Ga., open one year.

His four-under-par 66 yesterday, coupled with a 69 in the first round, gave him a score of 135, five under for the distance, and a precarious one-stroke lead over his nearest challengers.

★ ★ ★

Deadlocked at 136 teeing off this morning were five players. They were Gene Littler of San Diego, ex-amateur champion and now a pro, Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., Don January, Lampasas, Tex., North Dakota's Paul O'Leary from Bismarck and Al Balding of Erindale, Canadian PGA champion.

Rounding out a golfing gallery of comparative new faces in the 137 bracket were Bob Inman of Detroit, and another former United States amateur titlist and now a pro, Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N.Y.

★ ★ ★

Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., who shared the first round lead with Palmer, had an unhappy 73 for 139 and a tie with a select group. It included Jimmy Demaret of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., Mike Souchak, Grossinger, N.Y., Paul Harney, a comer from Worcester, Mass., Canada's skilled Stan Leonard and Billy Casper, Jr., of Bonita, Calif.

Jets Hold to Tie; Henry Tops Scorers

Jets of the Boys' Club Biddy Basketball League yesterday won a 50-22 game from Rough Riders to hang on to their share of top place, with Trojans. At the same time Dick Henry took over loop scoring lead with 24 points against Riders.

Royals defeated Flying Aces 28-21; in a last-minute surge, with Jim Bland getting two one-handers and Jim Farmer a goal and two gift shots. Bland had 18 for the game.

Standings are: Trojans 10-3; Jets 6-3; Warriors 6-4; Flying Aces 7-6; Royals 7-5; Globetrotters 5-5; Rough Riders 4-7; Hawks 4-8; Celtics 2-10. Games for Monday are: Globetrotters vs. Trojans; Rough Riders vs. Hawks.

Baltimore Has More Depth

Year of Growth for Orioles

(Another of a series of managerial views of the pennant races, written under the managers' own bylines—Baltimore Orioles.)

By PAUL RICHARDS

Waxahachie, Tex. (AP)—We view 1957 as another year of growth for our Baltimore Orioles.

We will begin our spring training this year with the best assemblage of talent since Baltimore returned to the American League four years ago and I feel we are stronger in depth throughout our farm system than at any time during the same period.

We are realistic enough to know, however, that we have a long way to go and it will take much energy and industry to move us up higher in the league.

On the pitching front, I'm confident that we have one of the finest staffs in the league. Our biggest problem is to develop a strong offensive punch so we can score enough runs to give our pitching staff a chance.

★ ★ ★

We will have pitchers worth watching throughout the season such as Connie Johnson, Ray Moore, Bill Wight, Hector Brown, Mike Fornieles, Don Ferrarese, Charlie Beamon and Billy Loes as well as George Zuverink and Billy O'Dell for relief and special duty.

Also we have great prospects in Charley Locke, Bob Harrison and Fitzgerald who could make it this year.

We are hoping the addition of Al Pilarcik to our outfield will strengthen us both defensively and offensively. With Bob Nieman, Dick Williams, Tito Francona, Pilarcik and Jim Pyburn in the outfield, there is no doubt we have a stronger group there than a year ago.

★ ★ ★

Our infield also looks improved. George Kell believes he will be able to play more than 100 games at third base this year and we continue to look to Willie Miranda at shortstop and Billy Gardner at second base for excellent defensive work.

Bob Boyd's position at first seems secure for all of the doctors report that his arm will soon be back to normal.

Behind the plate we have the second best catcher in the American League in Gus Triandos and I feel that Gus will demonstrate considerably more power at the plate this year than last when he hit 21 home runs.

Without going too far out on the limb, I am confident that the Baltimore Orioles will be one of the improved clubs in the AL in 1957.

Logart Moves Up a Step

NEW YORK (AP)—Isaac Logart, a Cuban with a burning desire to wear the welterweight title robes once worn by his fellow countryman, Kid Gavilan, has sped past another opponent.

★ ★ ★

Last night it was Yama Bahama a 153-pounder from Bimini in the Bahamas, who is neither a full fledged welter or middleweight. The decision for Logart was unanimous at Madison Square Garden after 10 rounds.

Every ranked fighter who wins a bout wants the champion soon. Logart is no exception. But first he has some unfinished business with Gaspar Ortega, the Mexican who twice upset ex-champ Tony DeMarco.

★ ★ ★

Eddie Mafus, Logart's manager, still raves about the split decision his fighter lost to Ortega at Boston Oct. 17. That victory for the Mexican and two straight over DeMarco have moved him up fast in the 147-pound class.

Red Wings Aim to Keep Edge

NEW YORK (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings lead the National Hockey League while the New York Rangers are in fifth place, but both teams will have a lot at stake in their nationally-televised game today.

The powerful Red Wings, paced as usual by veterans Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay, hold only a one-point lead over Montreal's defending champion Canadiens in the battle for first place. The Rangers are involved in a fight with Toronto for fourth place — the winner of which will get the last berth in the post-season Stanley Cup playoffs. Toronto currently leads New York by one point.

An added incentive for New York is its showing in previous appearances on national TV. The Rangers have appeared three times in the new Saturday afternoon series and have won each time, including one over Detroit three weeks ago.

Olympic Stars Run in Spartan Relays

EAST LANSING (AP) — A field studded with Olympic athletes and national champions will compete this afternoon and tonight in the 34th annual running of the Michigan State Relays.

Individual performances will be stressed as there is no team winner in the 18-event meet, generally regarded as the first big indoor track event of the Midwestern season.

Top hurdlers competing will include Glen Davis of Ohio State, Olympic champ and world record holder in the 400-meter hurdles, Aubrey Lewis of Notre Dame, NCAA title holder in the event and Dave Lean of MSU who ran fifth in the event in the Olympics when competing for Australia.

Also Predicts '58 Tax Cut

OK Civil Rights Bill by June: Martin

WASHINGTON (INS) — House Republican leader Joseph W. Martin risked his towering reputation as a political prophet yesterday by flatly predicting that the Senate also will pass President Eisenhower's civil rights legislation and before June 1.

He also prophesied an income tax cut next year.

The rotund, dimpled bachelor from Massachusetts who periodically trades the title of "Mr. Speaker" with Democratic Sam Rayburn or Texas, first earned his spurs as a prognosticator back in 1938.

In April of that year, a national news magazine asked Martin and other outstanding political leaders to predict the make-up of the new Congress to be elected in November. Joe evoked amused smiles by declaring firmly: "We Republicans will pick up 80 House seats and eight Senate seats."

★ ★ ★

Came the election, and Joe hit it exactly on the nose. The astonished magazine thereupon presented the politico with a formal diploma as a "Prophet."

The Senate action early this month in beating back a move to outlaw the filibuster failed to discourage Martin, who is willing to bet his political shirt that both houses will enact civi. rights legislation within the next four months.

The House voted 279 to 126 last July to create a special division in the Justice Department to protect Negroes' civil rights, including voting, and to prosecute individuals alleged to have violated those rights. It also provided for a Presidential commission, with subpoena power, to probe civil rights violations and recommend remedial action.

The measure, however, died in the Senate and will now have to be passed by both houses before becoming law.

An optimist by nature, Martin believes that international tensions will be lessened to such an extent that Congress can vote an income tax slash next year. The most that he foresees for this session, however, is some minor adjustments of excise taxes.

He further thinks that although "the boys will do a lot o' talkin' this session," Congress will function "pretty smoothly," and most of the President's program will be enacted.

'QUIT' POLITICS

Martin, who publishes a couple of small dailies in North Attleboro and Franklin, Mass., quit politics "for good" nearly 40 years ago, after serving three terms in the toughest re-election fight of his state legislature and three in the state senate.

In 1922, however, the late Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge was facing the stormy career, and Joe was literally drafted by three squabbling factions to manage his last campaign.

★ ★ ★

Thanks in large measure to Martin's talents as a peacemaker, Lodge won. In 1924 Joe ran for Congress and has been there ever since, with an unbroken record of 23 campaigns for public office, and 23 victories.

The shy, beloved bachelor is the unfailing escort of glamorous former ambassador Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce whenever she comes to Washington.

Never a month goes by that some ambitious widow does not propose to Joe by mail, but the politician who is wedded to the House professes no regrets for his single state. Asked if he's ever been "in love," Joe replies solemnly: "I wouldn't want to say that, but not too deeply, I guess."

Martin, who is the House speaker whenever Republicans capture congressional control, is devoted to his Democratic rival, "Mr. Sam."

"There's never any keen remorse or regrets when Rayburn takes over," he mused, "because I know the House is in good hands. He's a fine and fair speaker."

Joe's greatest objective for the current session is to "keep the country out of war, lick inflation, and put the country on a sound financial basis." That's enough to keep any legislator busy this year.

Alcorn Begins Task of Rebuilding Party

WASHINGTON (AP) — H. Meade Alcorn Jr., a champion of President Eisenhower's "modern Republicanism," formally assumes today the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee.

★ ★ ★

The new chairman, successor to Leonard W. Hall who resigned, faces many problems. Perhaps the most important is how to unite the party behind candidates who can win back control of Congress from the Democrats in 1958.

Some Republicans in Congress still contend the national party organization paid too little attention to the congressional races in 1956.

Some problems facing Alcorn:

Preparing for special elections to fill a Senate vacancy in Texas and House vacancies in New Mexico and New Jersey.

★ ★ ★

Naming a 5-man committee to press Republican organization in the South.

She Gets Kiddies; He Gets 'Caddy'; Both Get: Apart

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Maurice Duke, 46, film and television producer, agreed to let his wife have custody of their two children pending a divorce or separate maintenance suit.

But he waged — and won — a court battle over temporary custody of a 1956 Cadillac convertible.

Mrs. Evelyn Duke, 27-year-old interior decorator and former model, contended in court that the rust-colored convertible was hers alone. "He gave it to me on my birthday last May," she said. "Why, it even matches my hair."

Duke's attorney finally got a stipulation that when Duke is in town, he can also drive the car. When he's out of town, it's all hers.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Duke is to stay in the family's $50,000 Beverly Hills home, and Duke is to pay $100 a week temporary alimony and support for Alan, 5, and Frederica, 3.

Sales Tax Collections Far Under Anticipation

LANSING (AP)—A revenue department official said today sales tax revenues appear to be falling far short of the amount anticipated for this fiscal year in Gov. Williams' budget.

Clarence W. Lock, deputy state revenue commissioner, said after a look at January collections that receipts for the year ending June 30 probably will not come within 13 million dollars of the Williams estimate.

Matthew Mark Luke John Vosloo was convicted of housebreaking and theft in East London, South Africa.

"I Can Sell It to You for Less"

Every smart buyer likes to save money! But smart buyers do not always buy at the cheapest price.

An unscrupulous operator will often quote the lowest price. But when he delivers the merchandise or does the work, you will find that he has "cut corners." He will give you shoddy workmanship and materials. He will not give the service you have a right to expect.

So, before you make a purchase or sign a contract, at what appears to be a saving to you, know with whom you are dealing. Remember, when a man says, "I can sell it to you for less," he is not always telling the whole truth.

SIDE VIEW — This view of the Wright home on Scotch Lake drive shows the bedroom wing at the left. The carport is behind it. The large brick structure in the foreground is an incinerator and a cache for tin cans until they are hauled away. Mrs. Wright, the gardener of the family, keeps the yard in bloom all summer.

LADY AND HER DOG — Mrs. Maxwell Wright poses with her German shepherd, Fleet, in front of the living room fireplace. She is sorting records that are stored with the hi-fi behind pegboard doors. Cupboards above are bleached walnut. The table next to the woven chaise longue is glass topped. Mrs. Wright did the floral arrangement on the stone mantel.

Modern Home Built on Scotch Lake

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Lakes attract people as magnets attract iron. Since Oakland County is the playground for Detroit, it is understandable that many city people would seek a lake site on which to build a permanent home.

Twelve years ago the Maxwell Wrights and their four-year-old daughter, Linda, settled in a small year-round home on Scotch Lake in Waterford Township. For the uninformed, Scotch Lake is a minute body of water, so far as lakes go, east of Union Lake. You approach it via Cooley Lake road and Petrolia street. One of its best features is that it's too small for motorboats.

Linda is now sixteen a junior at Waterford High School. Mr. Wright, an architect and an artist, has an office right next to his home, but commutes to Detroit. Mrs. Wright, a former model, keeps the home fires burning in a delightful modern home.

* * *

All but two rooms of the original house have gone; the kitchen and Linda's room bear little resemblance to what they once were. The rest of the house built on the old foundation is completely new. Designed by Mr. Wright, it is set on three lots in a manner that will best avoid the north winds.

* * *

Wide overhangs keep the hot sun of summer out, while permitting any winter sun to enter. The exterior is red brick and cedar with stone trim. Down the hill a ways and to the west of the house there is a summer barbecue house and an office.

Future plans call for a studio and a gallery to be built. Like so many others, the Wrights have been building for some time and still want to improve and add on. Of the new buildings the barbecue house was the first to be built.

There is an entrance from the graveled carport, but the main entrance is around the side. Here you step directly into the living room. The floor is slate so your snowy boots don't matter.

This slate floor continues in a triangular shape around the corner in front of the fireplace. The rest of the floor is cork with a scarlet rug recessed into the floor. The hand-loomed rug was made to fit this space. It is the favorite seating place for all the teenagers who come. Fleet, the magnificent German shepherd likes to stretch out on it too.

The front wall is made entirely of glass. One large pane is set in the end wall at the corner. Architect Wright is exceptionally proud of setting these windows in such narrow frames. During the time of the Flint tornado, several years ago, the wind broke the seal of the large center window so that it now looks a trifle cloudy. Small sections of the side windows open for ventilation.

An ardent gardener—of the organic type—Mrs. Wright keeps a slat top bench in front of the windows filled with plants. Another of her hobbies is flower arranging and a number of winter bouquets around the house testify to this fact.

Framed in stone that makes both the mantel and a hearth seat, the contemporary fireplace is set into a red brick wall. To the left of the fireplace there are storage cabinets made of bleached walnut. The hi-fi system is hidden behind pegboard doors.

All construction was planned to make upkeep simple. Much of the furniture is built in. There is not a bit of plaster in the entire house, and all window sills are made of marble. Walls in the living room are cedar paneling; so is the ceiling.

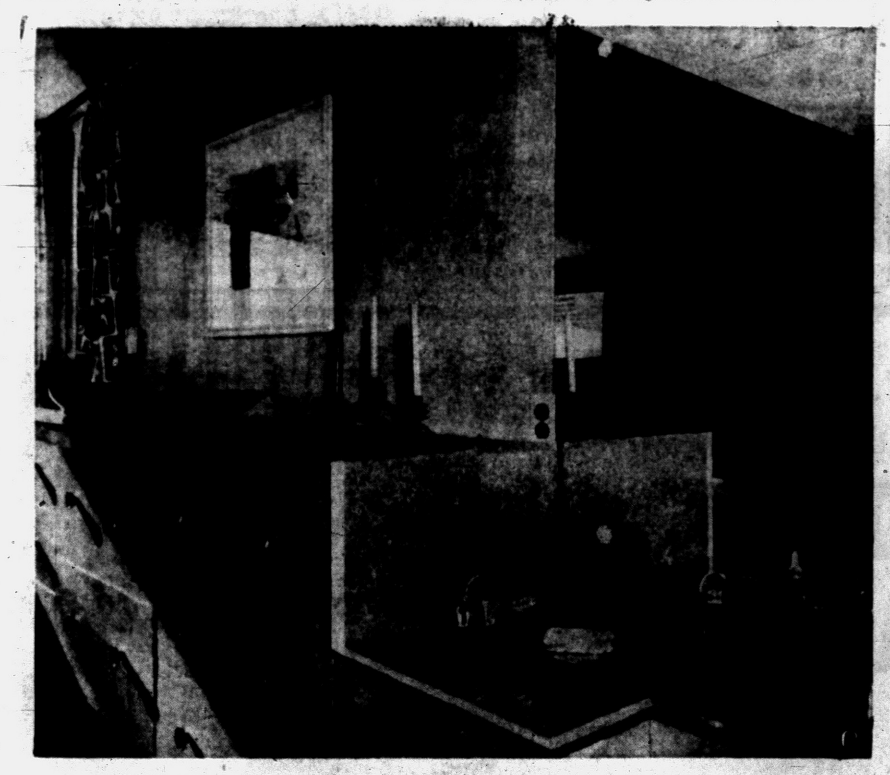

Around the inner corner of the room there is a long L-shaped sofa. A corner table and bookcases fill the corner itself. The sofa is upholstered in yellow tweed. Back cushions swing down to reveal storage space for camera equipment. Another smaller bookcase connects the sofa and a tiny cork-topped desk.

With the exception of one upholstered armchair the chairs in the living room have woven seats. In front of the sofa an L-shaped coffee table with a marble top and blonde wood legs repeats the design of the sofa.

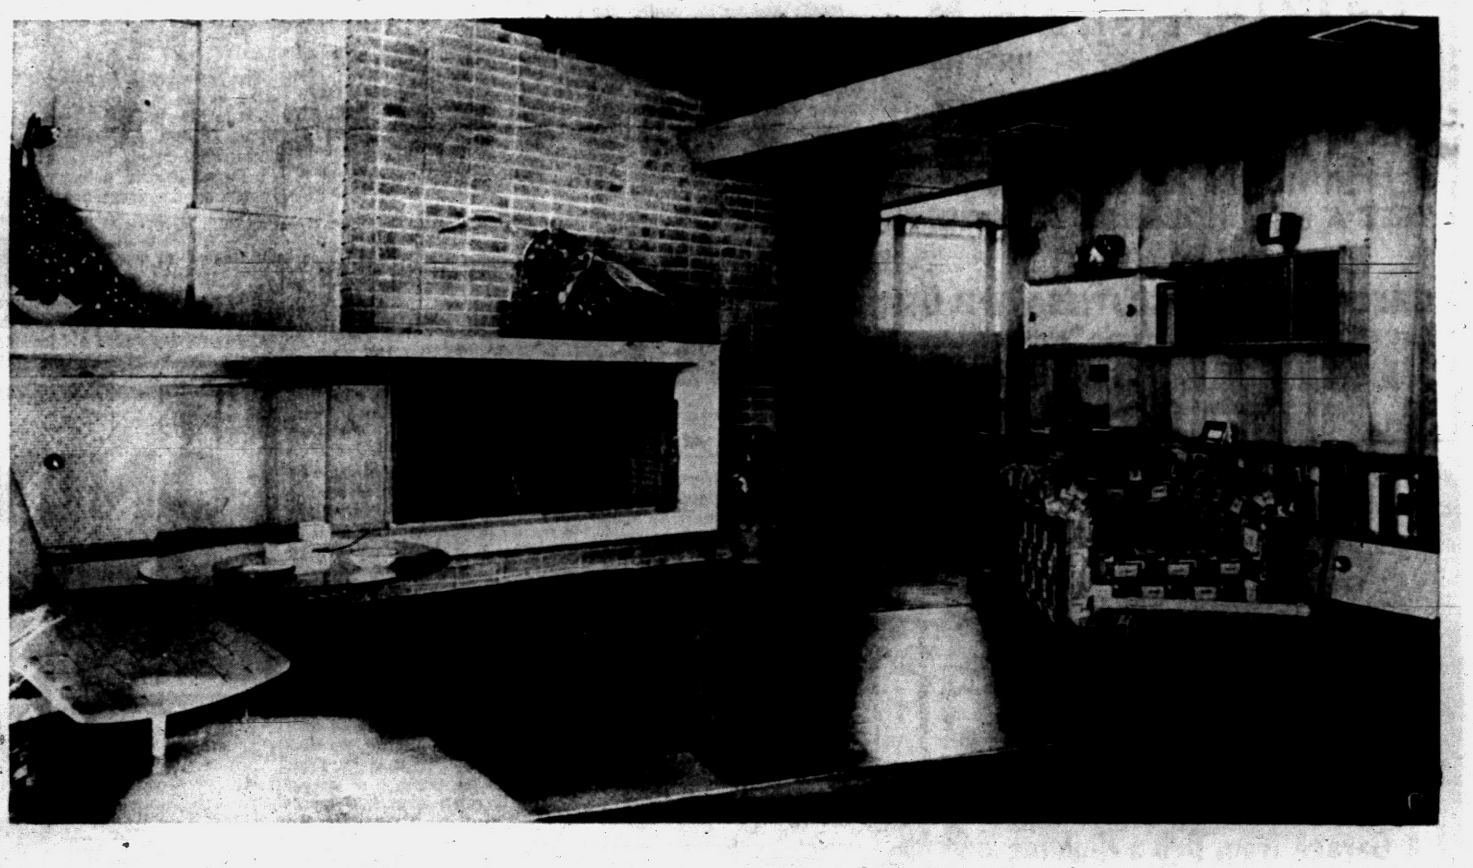

Above the sofa a pressed cork enclosure hides the indirect lighting. Next to the wall ribbed glass has been set in to direct the light downward on the pictures hung below. The paneling behind the sofa is not set flush, but looks like a giant Venetian blind turned on its side and closed. It gives a louvered effect that is repeated in part of the ceiling paneling.

The house has no dining room, but a family room separates the living room and kitchen.

BUILT-IN BEDROOM — Taken from the narrow hallway that leads into the master bedroom, this picture shows the maple chests, part of the cork topped vanity and a mirror view of the bed. Walls, furniture and ceiling are all maple. Hardware is brass. Mr. Wright has painted most of the pictures that hang in the house.

CONTRAST IN MATERIALS — This view of the Wright living room shows the contrast in materials used. The fireplace wall is red brick. The floor, outside of the door and hearth areas which are slate, is cork. Walls throughout the house are wood, as are most of the ceilings. A corner of the built-in couch in the family room can be seen in this picture. To the left of that just the top of the little desk is visible. A red plywood chair serves that space. Note the interesting louvered effect of the ceiling near the fireplace.

LAKE LIVING — The Maxwell Wright house is at the right in this picture. The photographer was standing down the hill almost at lake level. Note the wide overhangs on the house. The buildings at the left are the barbecue summer house (upper center) and just a portion of Mr. Wright's office at the left. The hill has been terraced and gardens are planted everywhere. This house is located on Scotch Lake.

INGENIOUS SOFA—Almost everything in this picture is interesting in some detail. The yellow tweed sofa is built in, as are the bookcases and the corner table. The back cushions swing down to reveal storage space for photographic equipment. In front of the sofa is a marble topped coffee table. The louver type wall behind the sofa is cedar. Indirect lighting is hidden in the cork enclosure above the sofa.

Consider Hobbies When Building

Here there is a drop leaf table that takes up only about a foot of space when closed, but opens to ten feet. It is Swedish.

A couch on brass legs has been built in under the high fixed windows. Next to one end there is a window that opens. Through this one Mrs. Wright can identify visitors from the kitchen and can talk with them without opening the door. She can also see the lake. The couch has a striped covering in gold, rust, brown and beige. It too looks hand loomed.

Built in storage for magazines and books—the TV set—and a coat closet complete the conveniences of the family room. The floor is cork, as is the ceiling. Walls are cedar. Above the table there is a pass-through to the kitchen, with ribbed glass cupboards overhead.

The kitchen windows face the road. While she washes dishes Mrs. Wright can look out on a raised garden below the windows. This bricked area has its own sprinkler system for dry weather. Dark green matchstick bamboo blinds hang at the windows.

Tile is used for the ceiling, the walls and the counter tops. The ceiling is beige, the counter pale yellow. The floor is a deeper beige with bits of color in it. The divider wall is topped with Formica. At the end there are storage cabinets and drawers. On the kitchen side a recess holds the toaster.

There is space for a small tan plastic breakfast table on this wall. Plywood chairs painted deep green are arranged around the table. All cabinets are birch. A big maple cutting board is built in.

The hallway to the bedrooms is papered on one side, with cedar paneling on the other and on the ceiling. The house has two bedrooms and a utility room on this floor. There is a full basement underneath.

A skylight framed in bright yellow tile guarantees an abundance of light for the bathroom. Walls and floors are gray tile. Fixtures are gray. The wall around the corner tub is covered with marble. A built-in vanity and a glassed-in shower fill the opposite wall. Rust color towels provide the accent color.

Because it was one of the two rooms of the original house, Linda's room is smaller than the family would like. But it's big enough for a double bed to be pushed into one corner. Her furniture is blonde. Walls and ceilings are made of striated plywood with the plywood making a sunburst design on the ceiling. Matchstick bamboo drapes assure privacy.

Three steps down from the hall, the master bedroom is paneled in maple. The ceiling is maple. The built-in furniture is maple. This includes a row of chests, a vanity table and a double bed with a bookcase headboard. Mrs. Wright has separate cabinets for purses, hats and shoes. The only movable piece of furniture in the room is a chartreuse plastic chair.

Rugs are scatter type, Indian in design. The draperies and bedspread are orange with pronounced black and white figures. One window opens into the carport, the other gives a view of the lake and the garden.

The utility room is also three steps down from the hallway. One complete wall has built-in birch cabinets and a recess for the ironer. Piano hinges have been used on all cabinets to prevent warping. One section of the wall is cork to be used as a bulletin board.

Against the stair wall the washer and dryer are set. Behind them is a counter with a marble top. A cork topped sewing table takes up most of the remaining space. Here Mrs. Wright can cut out patterns and can block hats. Her sewing machine and the ironing board are close at hand.

The Wrights have achieved just the house they want. They did very little of the work themselves, outside of the planning. They have provided places in which they can indulge in their various hobbies and a house that's simple to keep. They are satisfied.

Remedy Seen Near for Tank Problem

EAST LANSING—A solution to overflowing septic tanks and other sewage disposal problems facing many suburbanites may not be too far away.

Such hope that "package sewage treatment plants" might provide the answer was expressed by a county health official at a Michigan State University conference recently.

That contention was made at the Michigan Home Sewage Disposal Conference, by Edward L. Stockton, director, sanitation division, Calhoun County Health Department.

"If preliminary reports on their effectiveness are reliable, we have on the horizon a much-improved answer to the problem of sewage treatment where municipal sewers are not available," predicted Mr. Stockton.

"While many of these package sewage treatments plants and other processes utilizing the aeration method of sewage are still in the experimental stage, they do offer promise," reported Mr. Stockton in his address. He lauded the research and study now being advanced by manufacturers of the mechanical aerators, public health and sanitary officials, government agencies, engineers, and others. Mr. Stockton expressed the belief that the problem is being approached in a proper, unbiased method.

Seek Aid for Homes in Middle Brackets

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate report says an upward trend in the prices of new homes has "brought the housing industry to a point where it is serving primarily the upper income groups."

★ ★ ★

The report, prepared by the staff of the Senate Housing subcommittee, said yesterday families in the middle income bracket are being squeezed out of the housing market.

Low-income families also were described as suffering from housing shortages said by the report to be plaguing most of the nation's cities. However, poorer families are eligible for low-rent public housing, the study noted.

The subcommittee staff said the building industry "is concerned with the question of whether it is pricing itself out of the market." The report cited figures showing that housing production had dropped by 200,000 units last year in the face of a rising need. And it said a "further falling off" from the 1,100,000-unit total last year is probable this year.

★ ★ ★

The report said factors contributing to the upward price movement include increased land costs, higher zoning requirements and preferential prices for mortgages on larger homes, among others. It said the "current tight money market" appears to have played a major role in the reduction in the number of housing units built.

★ ★ ★

Mayors of 131 cities cooperated in the study. The report said the mayors recommended aid for middle income families in the form of more favorable mortgage terms, direct government loans and more effective help to non-profit rental and sales cooperatives.

Modern Homes Feature Light

Walls of Thermopane Cut Winter Fuel Bills and Bar Summer Heat

The American home owner has indicated that he wants his home well daylighted, with plenty of window areas.

That was apparent to visitors to the annual mid-winter show of the National Association of Home Builders in Chicago who studied new and significant trends in home building.

"It's no longer unusual to see new homes constructed with entire walls of double-pane insulating glass. It's a big departure from the style of older homes with large solid wall areas and small windows that admitted little daylight."

The use of Thermopane in home building has tripled in the last five years.

"At the present time we estimate there are 7,000,000 in use," Ives said, "and most of them are in private homes.

★ ★ ★

"Home owners have found that they can cut their winter heating bills in winter and still be comfortable in summer by plugging 'holes' in their insulation through the use of double-paned insulated window glass."

Thermopane was developed before World War II, but did not come into widespread use until 1946. Since that time, the factory has redoubled its capacity to produce double-paned insulating glass.

The double-paned windows are actually glass "sandwiches," two pieces of glass with an air space hermetically sealed in between. It is the dead air space which acts as a barrier to cold air in winter and to heat during the summer months.

Old Tubs Still Do Double Duty for Housewives

The majority of housewives still want double laundry tubs because of their convenience beyond washday functions even though they own an automatic washing machine and even though they rate an eyesore. The average handyman can cover them with a neat-looking functional cabinet, at small expense.

An excellent plan, available free, incorporates a laundry tub cabinet and an adjoining cabinet of drawers which may be free-standing or permanently attached.

The main cabinet consists of a lumber framework covered with hardboard that is resistant to moisture and wear. It is splinter-free, too, an advantage where feminine fingers and delicate fabrics are concerned.

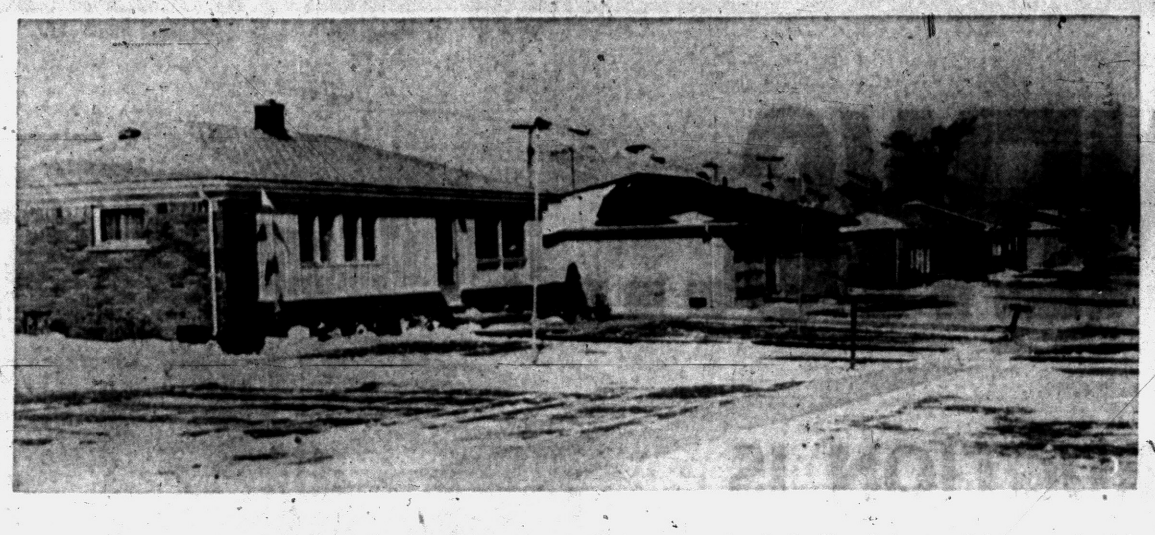

★ ★ ★

A feature of particular interest to homemakers is the removable workbench top, which is made by fastening a piece of the Presdwood to a wood core with waterproof glue. This working surface may be used for sorting laundry and miscellaneous tasks, even including home workshop projects and hobby pursuits.

For a free copy of this plan, write the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 West Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill., and ask for Drawing No. AE-270.

2 Ways to Apply Paint

The drying of finishes applied to small objects during manufacture is usually done with the aid of a moving track that carries them through a baking oven after the finish has been sprayed on in stationary booths. When applying finishes to Diesel engines through, it's a different story. In this case the engine does not travel through the spray booths and drying ovens, but the locomotive stands still and the booths and infra-red units do the traveling.

LAKE OAKLAND HEIGHTS—Sidewalks and paved streets are already in, and a number of the houses in Lake Oakland Heights are occupied. Located north of Walton boulevard, these three bedroom brick homes are built on 80 foot lots. Among the special features are colored plumbing fixtures and large country-style kitchens. There is a private beach for the subdivision. Models of these ranch homes are open daily on Walton boulevard.

Style Homes for The Wife

CHICAGO (INS) — New homes for 1957 are geared to giving women what they want — more privacy, living space and storage.

Features previously available only in luxury-priced homes are being put into low or moderate-cost housing, according to builders surveyed at the National Association of Home Builders annual convention in Chicago.

And builders of both conventionally-built and prefabricated houses admit the new designs reflect demands made by American housewives at a special government-sponsored congress on housing last April.

Five model homes were set up in Chicago's loop for the convention's 44,000 delegates to tour. All re-routed interior traffic so people could reach bedrooms as well as the kitchen without plowing through the living-dining area. Bedrooms were religned to be accessible from the rear door.

Even houses which sell for $7,500 plus lot featured a "mud room" adjacent to the rear entrance. This is the old utility room, revamped to include not only laundry appliances but an extra, half-bath. Women at the housing congress asked for the "mud room" so children can be washed and muddy apparel removed before they go trailing through the rest of the house.

Although open-room planning prevails in the new models, builders have hidden the kitchen work area from view of the front entrance and living room so arriving guests won't see a woman caught in the rush of cleaning up after a meal.

TWO ROOM CHOICE

James Price, president of the National Homes Corp., of Lafayette, Ind., the nation's largest manufacturer of prefabricated houses, is offering women a choice of either a family or dining room. He said:

"A wall can separate the dining area from the adjacent kitchen, making it a more formal place to eat, or the wall can separate the cooking-eating area from the living room, to serve as a family room."

★ ★ ★

By adding four feet to the length of the latest models, both Price and H. D. Moulton of Harrisburg, Penna., president of U.S. Steel Homes, reported they have achieved more footage in living rooms and bedrooms. Also, closets and other storage areas have been increased by 25 per cent over the old models.

For example, in a three-bedroom house which sells for under $11,000 without land, the living room is 16 by 20 feet, as compared with 16 by 18 feet in the house it replaces. The master bedroom is 16 by 12 feet, big enough to provide for conversation corner seating in addition to other furniture. In the old model, the room was 12 by 12 feet.

Most builders at the convention had mixed views about where to put the so-called picture window, which housewives at the housing congress complained was in the wrong part of the house.

Many said they were retaining the window wall in the front of the house. But others compromised by adding large floor-to-ceiling windows or sliding glass door panels off the dining area or the family room so women can keep up with meal preparations and watch their children playing outside.

Book Answers Queries on Converting Basement

The average man's answer to making his basement livable and functional lies in "The Complete Book of Basement Improvement," a book by Ralph Treves, expert home craftsman. Available at book stores, the book is in its third printing. It gives the reader plans and data on the newest building materials for basement projects, as well as the established standbys such as wallboard.

New Households Up by 872,000 Annually

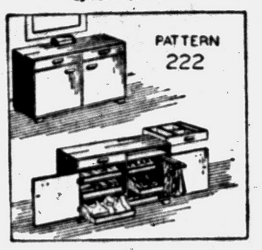

Some people see the number of households in the country reaching 50,000,000 by mid-year. This would mean an annual rate of around 900,000. Back in 1940 the number of households (occupied dwelling units) was 35,000,000. By 1950 these had increased to 43½ millions. The net growth in the past five years has averaged 872,000, according to the Department of Commerce.

Reasons for this growth are the obvious ones. Population is increasing at the rate of 2,800,000 annually. Marriages are now on the rise; were up four per cent in 1956 over the previous year. A million and a half people said "I do" last year. Prosperity—and we've never had it so good—is the third factor behind the growth of households.

The Census Bureau isn't as optimistic about new household growth. They feel it will be 1970 before households are being formed at the rate of between 900,000 and 1,200,000 a year. It's pointed out that new home demand, of course, isn't dependent on new household formation. After all, housing starts have averaged 1.2 millions a year in the past decade; new households have averaged 872,000.

Hotel Colors Vary

In the big new Marriott Motor Hotel, on U.S. Route 1 near the National Airport, the Pentagon and the Washington Monument, designers used interior colors according to the exposure of the rooms. Northern exposure rooms are painted in warm browns, yellows and greens; those on the south are in cool blues and grays.

Homes Use More Automatic Heat Units

This winter more than 28 million homes or dwelling units have central heating. A report by Minneapolis-Honeywell indicates that in 18,600,000 of these homes the heating equipment is doing this automatically.

The statistics indicate what a tremendous growth has taken place in this field in the last 10 years. In 1946 there were only 7,1350,000 automatically operated heating systems. Six years ago the figure was 10,435,000.

★ ★ ★

Today's householder's case in coping with the weather is accomplished by a wide variety of thermostat types and systems. These range from a single, simple, manually adjusted model to deluxe electronic thermostats. They may vary from one thermostat for the entire house to whole teams of controls either working inside-and-outside combinations, or comprising three or more thermostats in different zones inside the house.

Good for Nerves

Home owners find painting actually relieves tension after a full day on the regular job. Furthermore, painting can add as much as 10 or 15 per cent to the value of property.

Pays to Give Yard Tools Sensible Care, Storage

It's common practice to put yard and garden implements away at the summer's end with a lick and a promise to "clean them up later," on some rainy day. The promise is almost always forgotten.

By the next spring, rust and corrosion have gotten in a few licks of their own. And while the damage may seem light, two or three seasons of neglect take a heavy toll.

Parts and whole tools can be replaced but the expense is needless, considering that it takes only a few minutes to put garden tools in shape for winter storage.

If you don't want your lawn mower to get old before its time, give it a thorough going-over with steel wool and a wire brush, if necessary, to remove tangled grass and loose clippings. these moisture traps let rust take hold quickly.

Look for oil holes around the body of the mower and shoot a few drops of oil into each one. Remove the wheels and apply grease to the gears and oil the bearings.

Go over the whole mower with an oily rag, paying particular attention to cutting edges of the blades. Tighten all bolts and screws.

A good hose is a worthwhile investment and well worth taking care of. Uncouple the hose and drain the water out of each section, then lay it out straight on a sunny slope to dry. Check the coupling washers and replace any worn ones. Clean the couplings.

The next order of hose maintenance is the repair of leaks, if any. Specially - designed hose splicers may be needed to get rid of a bad leak, but small ones can be patched with liquid rubber or rubber cement. Wrap rubber tape over the repair, and coat this, in turn, with liquid rubber.

When dry, the hose can be rolled up and stored in an old tire casing, a bushel basket, or a hose reel.

Hose nozzles need special attention, too. Take them apart and clean each piece with fine steel wool until the metal shines. Coat the parts with oil and reassemble.

Moving sprinklers should be accorded the same treatment. In addition, apply waterproof grease to internal bushings and bearings.

Hand tools should require a minimum of prewinter care if treated properly during the busy season. Tools such as shovels, rakes, hoes, pruners and shears should always be wiped clean after each use.

★ ★ ★

If that ritual hasn't been faithfully observed, fall cleanup of hand It may involve scraping and heavy garden tools is a bit of a chore. wirebrushing to remove built-up layers of dirt and oil.

The rust almost certainly to be found under this grimy crust may or may not bow to liquid rust remover.

Sharpen cutting edges with file or grindstone, stroking toward the edge and following the original bevel. Loosen tension on springs, if possible, then coat all metal parts with an oily film.

Wooden handles should be smoothed with sandpaper and treated to several brushed-on coatings of linseed oil.

'56 Building Deals Near Record High

DETROIT — The year 1956 had the second highest dollar volume of contract awards for future construction on record in Southern Michigan, Marvin J. Brokaw, district manager of F. W. Dodge Corp., construction news and marketing specialists, reported today. At $1,278,232,000 the awards were two per cent lower than the 1955 total.

December 1956 awards for total construction amounted to $70,471,000, a decrease of 37 per cent compared to December 1955.

The cumulative total of awards for 1956 also established records in dollar volume in the major construction categories. Total building, the second highest in Dodge history, at $1,056,806,000 was nine per cent below 1955, and heavy engineering at $221,426,000 showed a 49 per cent increase, and was an all-time high.

December awards by major construction categories show: a new dollar volume record in heavy engineering of $25,036,000, up 88 per cent compared to December 1955; and total building at $45,135,000, down 54 per cent.

Trace Paint Brushes

The first paint brushes were made from reeds which grew profusely along the Nile. Early Egyptians cut and shredded these reed ends into fibers. Similar brushes were made from the stems of palm leaves. Remains of such brushes are on display in the British Museum.

Apply New Shingles Over Old Roofing

When a house needs a new roof, one way to save money on the job is to have asphalt shingles applied directly over the old roofing.

This not only saves time and labor, but avoids an unsightly mess as well. The new roofing, in one of many colors available, will perk up the looks of the house and give it years of protection from all kinds of weather.

Modern Bathroom Needs More Space, Good Light

DALLAS, Tex. (INS)—Cramped, noisy, dark and outdated is the description two young Dallas builders gave of today's bathroom.

Harry E. Marlow and E. Dow Davidson, builders of modern homes, believe bathrooms have been neglected so long that people have warped ideas on what they should look like.

"The bathroom should be a place of beauty and relaxation. Instead, it is unimaginative and inconvenient," Marlow said.

At the top of the two young builders' list of complaints is the small size of the average bath.

"The use of ceramic tile shoots up the price and it's only really important around the splash areas of the tub, showers and lavatory," Marlow explain.

There are many new wall and floor materials that can be substituted for tile to keep the cost down. These include new wood paneling, sealed to make it water and steam proof, and floors made of marble chips in white cement and certain latex materials that can be sanded down into what looks like terrazo tile. These new materials add beauty and individuality and make possible a room twice the size for the same money, he said.

LIGHT NEEDED

Another Marlow miff is that bathrooms are too dark.

"Bathrooms need all the natural light they can get. Better use should be made of artificial light," he said.

"An ideal size window for the bath is three feet wide and six feet high. It should start at the floor.

"Sky-lights also help bring in the natural light.

★ ★ ★

"A small solid fence can be erected outside the door-height window to give complete privacy along with an indoor-outdoor feeling.

"The best artificial light is from fixtures flush with a furred down ceiling over the vanity area," he said, and added:

"Another too-often forgotten convenience are lights, flush in the ceiling in the shower stalls.

Marlow was caustic about the average bath accessories.

"One of the biggest disgraces is the feeble effort of the manufacturer to give you something to put your soap down on," he complained.

He advocated a chrome multi-soap holder that flips back into the wall. Also necessary, for sanitation as well as good looks, is a flip-back toothbrush holder.

★ ★ ★

Ten years ago, the kitchen was the most neglected room in the house. But women complained so loud that the builders began doing something about them. Now it's the bathroom's turn.

NEWS VIEWS

By Realtor Partridge

I've been reminded by the calendar on the wall that Abe Lincoln was born February 12, 1809. And I got to thinking how times have changed. Most of us who cry about our lack of opportunities have already ignored more opportunities than Honest Abe ever had. His schooling was a catch-as-catch-can affair . . . but what he caught he held onto.

Lincoln grew up in poverty in the backwoods of the U.S. . . . yet in spite of his handicaps, he was able to say, "With malice toward none, with charity for all . . ." Perhaps the greatest lesson we can draw from Abe Lincoln is tolarence for each other's shortcomings. It would be great if we could overlook the other fellow's faults as easily as we forgive our own.

Seems like every day we hear something about our continuously improving transportation methods. However, I began to wonder about this when the main speaker for the Annual Pontiac Real Estate Board Banquet, held this week told me his experience. To get to Pontiac from Indianapolis, he first had to go to Columbus, Ohio and from there he took a taxicab to Toledo. Jim Clarkson of Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan drove to Toledo to pick him up and bring him back to Pontiac. Sounds to me that it would have been just as easy to have come by boat.

See where somebody posted a sign in Miami that reads: "Keep Florida green . . . bring money." Apparently they'd like to make the state more colorful . . . We don't want to knock the Florida Chamber of Commerce, but it's our pride and pleasure to promote the good green State of Michigan. There are wonderful Michigan properties available for your purchase right now . . . and, whether the "green" you're after is in profits on your investment or whether you just want the satisfaction of ownership, "Realtor Partridge is the Bird to See." Tuck Away Linens in Shallow Drawer

Linen storage is handier when shallow drawers are used. Sheets and pillow cases, hand towels and other items may be kept segregated and in small stacks to eliminate wrinkling.

The average home handyman can build a closet of linen drawers in a weekend if he follows a free plan for such an installation. All available space in a closet without wings is utilized, and space is left next to the hamper for storage of a vacuum cleaner.

Built of lumber, the linen closet is economical and easy to make. Write the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 West Washington, St., Chicago 2, Ill., for plan No. AE-278.

Jefferson Introduced Parquetry Floors in U.S.

Parquetry, the most elaborate of hardwood flooring styles, first appeared in America in Thomas Jefferson's home, Monticello, at Charlottesville, Va. Jefferson brought artisans from France to install the floor.

The economical strip style is the predominant residential flooring today. Oak is the most popular species, with hard maple, beech, birch and pecan following in that order.

Italian Styles Hand Finished

Today's most popular designers have borrowed from the cultures of many lands to create the home furnishings now arriving in retail stores.

A typical and highly popular example is illustrated in Italian Provincial furniture, with its classically formal lines, accented by handsomely grained wood and careful detailing. Suited to modern living, it provides the ample storage space and simple, elegant lines demanded by homemakers today.

Since Italian Provincial can be either contemporary or traditional, depending on the color scheme, accessories and treatment used with it, it is the current favorite among all furniture designs.

An example of this style is the "Cremona" collection designed by Sanford Wallack for Basic-Witz. Executed in rich-grained mahogany, the pumice finish is hand glazed and hand rubbed to enhance its beauty.

Decorative features of the "Cremona" group include scored lines across the top of each piece, a sculptured foot and satiny, washed copper hardware. The top drawers, which are unusually spacious, have cut out hand-holds underneath the top molding instead of pulls. Framed mirrors come with the double and triple dressers.

Well-proportioned to fit even a modest sized bedroom, the "Cremona" is also designed to fit the modest sized budget.

Wall-to-Wall Rug Keeps Floor Warmer for Tots

Wall-to-wall covering of your floor is strongly advised because it makes the room look larger, minimizes color discordance and makes it easier to achieve a simple, attractive color scheme in the room. It often can obviate the necessity for refinishing the floor itself.

Furthermore, such carpeting is warmer in the winter and is more healthful, the year 'round, for children playing on the floor. Frequent vacuum-cleaning will keep your floor covering free of dust and dirt, thus making it safe for the small fry to romp and roll as much as they like.

Use Light for Drama

Specific applications of off-center fixture lighting include the use of fixtures to provide dramatic downlight on sofas, chairs, and tables, and to provide spotlighting on pictures, art objects, and knick-knacks.

Ways to Check Septic System

Make sure your back-to-nature move is, literally, a "pipe dream," with no after-the-move headaches.

In quest of bucolic pleasures, families often run the risk of losing important municipal services. It's true that homes with such refinements as ceramic tile kitchens and baths can be built practically anywhere, but special measures may have to be taken for waste disposal.

The septic stank system (a good pipe dream, if it's properly installed) is a satisfactory and inexpensive method of carrying off waste from suburban and rural homes. Here are the five essential parts and operations of a modern, accepted septic tank disposal system:

1. House sewer. This is the pipeline that carries wastes from kitchen, laundry, bathrooms and powder rooms to the spetic tank itself.

2. Septic tank. The watertight container in which sewage disintegrates through action of bacteria that reduces solid matter to gases, mineral particles and liquids.

3. Outlet sewer line. Connection between the septic tank and the disposal area. It conveys the liquefied by-products of decomposition from the tank to the disposal area where it is absorbed by the soil.

4. Distribution box. A small receptacle with outlets for discharging equal amounts of the liquid wastes simultaneously into several final disposal lines. The box also permits inspection of the quality of the liquid discharged from the septic tank.

5. Disposal lines. Pipes allowing liquid wastes to seep into the soil through open joints.

Divide, Conquer Storage Problem

Extra Shelves, Dividers Can Add to Efficiency of Closets, Cabinets

The technique of "divide and conquer" can be de-fused of its warlike implications and applied in the home to overcome a common problem—lack of useful storage space.

Look in any closet, any shelf, any cabinet and you will see from 40 to 50 per cent of the space unoccupied because it isn't convenient to pile dishes, clothing or other items to the full cubic space available.

★ ★ ★

The trick in making use of this waste space is to "divide and conquer."

For example, take a closet shelf. You can pile it perhaps 18" high with storage items, leaving an additional 18" to 24" vacant area above. Solve this dilemma by making a pigeonhole file, or group of compartments, completely filling the space over the shelf.

Make the device of hardboard, slotting the edges so the pieces will fit together in egg-crate construction.

★ ★ ★

A base kitchen cabinet may be a hodge-podge of pots and pans unless it is divided with panels, placed vertically and held by small quarter-round wood molding attached to top and bottom.

HANG A SHELF

A wall cabinet may be divided by hanging a small ¼" shelf from the shelf above by means of L-hooks placed through drilled holes in the hardboard.

Cups, saucers and odd-shaped dishes may be stored there.

A good way of putting a wall closet to work is to line it with "peg-board" paneling, over spacers, and using hooks and brackets to store numerous items.

Lumber dealers have panels and fixtures. A "peg-board" panel on the inside of a closet door is another way to bring alive wasted space.

The percentage of owner occupied dwelling units has risen from 41.1 per cent in 1940 to 59 per cent in 1955.

PLANTER BOX—Home design experts agree that the planter box is rapidly becoming one of the most popular items of modern home furnishings. Here is one that can be used either as a room divider or as an independent item of functional furniture. It is simple and economical to build. Any home craftsman can make one over a week-end. A series of light, wood frames, screwed together, lined and covered with panels of rot-proof, durable asbestos-cement board, are the materials used in its construction. The liner, when caulked, forms a permanent box in which to make the planting, without fear of deterioration. The asbestos-cement board is the same material used by many professional nurserymen to line their planting boxes. When trimmed at the corners with standard modern door casing, the planter has a modern Chippendale appearance. Apply two coats of dull black lacquer and a dramatic decal in the center of the panel and you have the luxurious planter pictured above.

Winter's Ideal Repair Time for Fixing Home's Interior

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A good cure for that after-the-holidays letdown is a vigorously renewed interest in all the little details that combine to make your home the pleasant, well ordered place you want it to be. You'll be surprised how many small things need attention when you really look for them. Every month or so all floors, ceilings, stairs, window sills and doors should be given the once-over.

★ ★ ★

In fact, not only the room's foundation but everything in the room should be sized up with the strictest attention for signs of wear, for breaks—or even for lost fragments which may be replaced or for which substitutes should be found. It's more than wise to take that well known stitch-in-time.

Perhaps you have noticed that window sills often become worn and need re-touching before the rest of the room shows wear. This happens frequently above radiators. Thresholds, too, seem to catch the brunt of wear quicker than other parts of the floor, and kitchen or cupboard shelves are likely to show spots or marred places before the rest of the woodwork.

★ ★ ★

The interiors of bureau drawers will look twice as spic and span if coated with enamel. And, while you're at it, sand the top edges of the drawers with fine sandpaper from snagging delicate fabrics.

EASY CLEANING

You won't believe the difference it makes to the interiors of drawers in the kitchen when they have a glossy coating. Sticky spots or spilled grease may be readily removed with a damp cloth before they become absorbed by the wood. The same rule applies to kitchen shelves, as well.

And while we're in the kitchen—if your linoleum is badly worn in spots, or if you wish to change its coloring, you can take care of both these items very simply. A base coat of floor enamel dries quickly and is easily applied.

★ ★ ★

To preserve the surface of the linoleum, it should be kept varnish-coated or lacquered. A final coating of wax will aid greatly not only in keeping the surface clean but in protecting against blemishes and other signs of wear.

Look at the hinges of your doors, too, on your monthly check-up. Usually they are painted the same color as the door and sometimes become chipped. A new coat of color will benefit them greatly.

★ ★ ★

While your attention is on the doors, apply a coating of paint to the top edge of the door itself—also to the top of the trim above it. This makes it easier to dust.

★ ★ ★

These stitches-in-time are all little jobs, each requiring only a short while to complete but sometimes forgotten. So the point is, regulate your schedule so that touch-up days won't come too far apart and these items will be taken care of automatically. A good attitude to take when you notice surfaces in your home that need a new protective coating is —"don't put it off, put in on!"

Shiver 'n' Shake When You Shave? Don't Have To!

Today's trend toward suburban living has made many changes in the way of life of the family breadwinner.

As families have moved further from the centers of America's great cities, the working man has been faced with having to arise earlier to get to work on time.

Many men now get up an hour or even two hours earlier than other members of their families. Often they must get ready for work before the home heating system has had a chance to warm rooms to the normal day-time temperature. As a result, many a man has had to shiver through his morning shower and shave.

However, increasing numbers of men are finding a way to keep themselves comfortable during this "critical" time of day — installation of a portable electric heater. This facilitates quick warming of the bathroom without having to turn up the furnace and heat other rooms in the home.

Equipped with their own thermostats to insure economical operation, the heaters come in all sizes, for small, medium or large rooms. Many are equipped with fans which assure faster, more even heating of a room.

The thermostat turns off the heater at a pre-determined room temperature, preventing rooms from getting too warm, as often happens when a heater without an automatic type switch is used.

5 ROOMS OPEN TO TERRACE — Garden terraces surround this house. In five of the rooms sliding glass doors can be opened to let in air and sunlight. In the wintertime they lock tightly, defying the worst storms.

Sliding Glass Doors Give Indoor-Outdoor Living

An ideal plan for indoor-outdoor living is featured in Design HW-23 for The House of the Week.

Garden terraces surround this house. Broad sliding glass doors open five rooms to breezes and sunshine.

Kitchen and family room merge into a spacious informal living area, with a barbecue fireplace in the kitchen. This arrangement spares the big living room and formal dining room from everyday wear and tear.

A gracious entrance foyer, three generously proportioned bedrooms, two bathrooms—one a split bath—complete this unusual layout.

All this and low costs, too, are made possible by expert planning, which keeps this house within 1,449 square feet and saves $1,500 or more by substituting a crawl space for a basement.

★ ★ ★

However, this is a flexible plan. You can build a basement if you prefer. The oversize garage provides ample space for a basement stairway and service vestibule between the garage and the family room.

FEATURES OPEN RAFTERS

A distinctive feature of the exterior styling of this house is the open rafters above the terrace and the two sliding glass doors of the bedrooms. A variety of treatment is suggested by this detail. You could leave these rafters open for shadow effect. You could cover them with corrigated fiber glass sheets in a pastel color. You could grow vines over the terrace. Or you colld roof it over conventionally for a covered porch.

★ ★ ★

Herman H. York, architect who specializes in suburban and country homes, designed HW-23 with a weather eye on the building dollar throughout. Room dimensions indicate the extent to which this house is planned for the use of standard lengths of lumber without the expense of cutting on the job.

Room widths of 13 feet 4 inches show the use of standard 14-foot joists with 4 inches allowed at each end for bearing and wall construction. Widths of 15 feet 4 inches show the use of 16-foot joists—lumber being available in multiples of 2 feet.

This not only saves money but results in good room sizes.

The architect carries this prudence into the exterior design, too. He has pitched the roof just enough to permit the use of economical asphalt shingles. He suggests the use of brick veneer for an accent to the front end of the garage. This could be eliminated for economy although it provides a pleasant touch with its extension of a pierced brick wall partly screening the garage doors. Either shingles or hand split shakes could be used to side the main front wall, depending on the building budget, and the rest of the house can be finished with plain clapboard siding.

Numerous niceties of planning characterize this house. Closets are large—many of them planned with sliding doors. A private dressing room with a built-in vanity table links the master bedroom with its private bathroom. Sliding doors also open from the foyer into the powder room section of the split bathroom as well as between the two compartments of this bathroom.

A breakfast bar between the kitchen and family room is a smart provision for children's snacks as well as for informal entertaining when the family room is used for evening recreation.

The kitchen is well arranged for cabinets and appliances, with space alloted for a modern raised oven separate from countertop burners. The barbecue is convenient for serving either in the dining room or family room. Between the barbecue and refrigerator are a broom closet and a pantry closet.

By locating the foyer as a center hall, every room in the house becomes accessible from the front door without passage through another room—the dining room, of course, is accepted as an exception to this rule because of its periods of disuse.

★ ★ ★

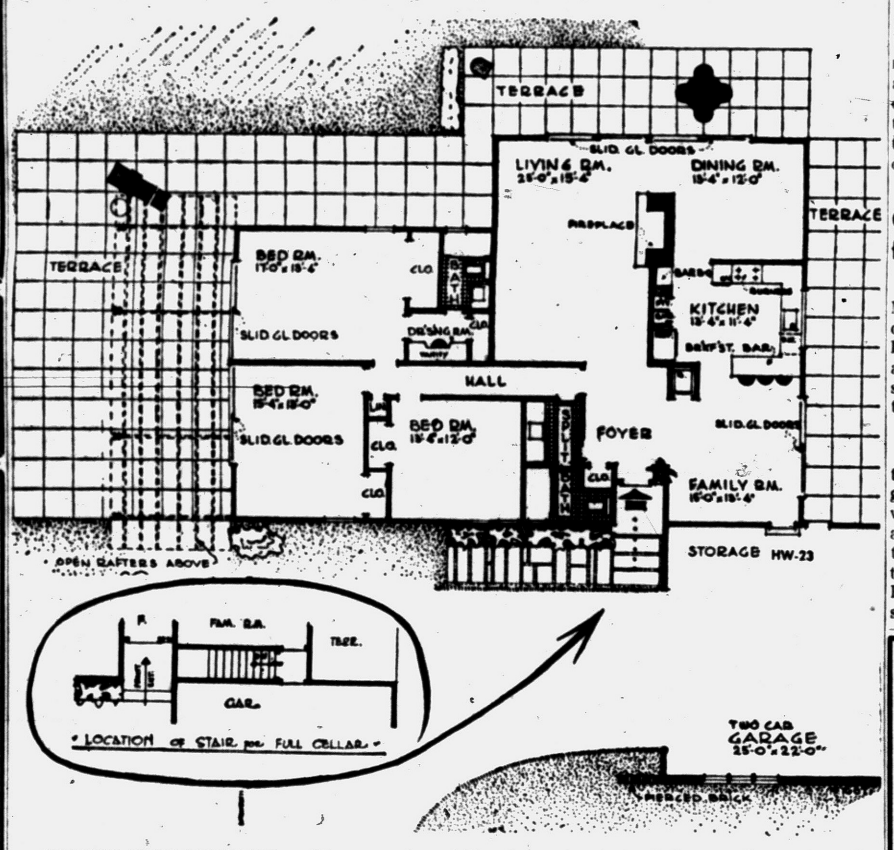

The most glamorous feature of this house is the way its walls of glass open to let you enjoy the best of the outdoors from family room, dining room, living room and the two major bedrooms—or close weathertight to give you spectacular views of any storm from the snug and cozy security of your own home.

Use Insulating Glass for Comfort at Any Time

Sliding glass doors are one of the most glamorous and successful of modern building accessories. Their sturdy aluminum frames lock as securely as modern office building and store doors. Weatherstripped as thoroughly as any window or door, they defy the worst of storms.

Glazed with single sheets of heavy plate glass, or with double insulating glass, they can be as comfortable in any climate as picture windows or window walls.

Standard height is 6 feet 10 inches, with widths of openings ranging from 6 to 16 feet.

GLAMOR PLUS ECONOMY — It's an exciting house, but it's an economical one too. Open rafters over the terrace and sliding glass doors add distinctive note to this smart ranch house. Shingles or handsplit shakes can be used to side the front, while the rest of the house can have plain clapboard siding.

FAMILY ROOM AND KITCHEN — This twenty-six foot space is divided by a breakfast bar into a kitchen and a family room. The kitchen has a built-in barbecue.

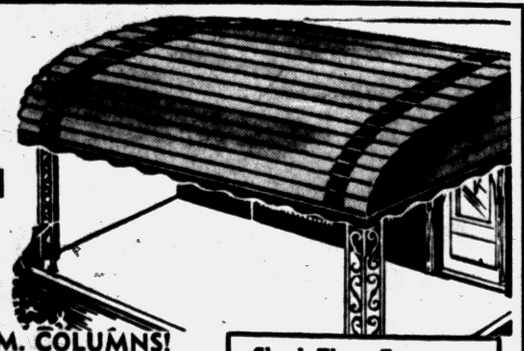

Chicago Site of Shows for Furniture Design

CHICAGO — The Merchandise Mart announced recently an endorsement of a National Furniture Design Show to take place in April and October of this year. The first show is scheduled for April 22 through April 27.

★ ★ ★

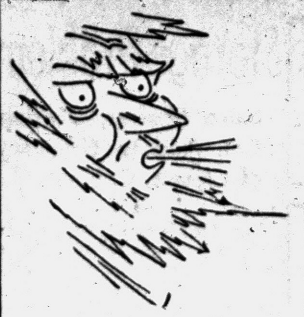

This program was instituted at the request of a representative group of furniture tenants, who will introduce their new designs at these events in accordance with the wishes and desires of their retailers. The June International Home Furnishings Market, as now scheduled, will continue.

Architect Donates Design Plans for Romeo Center

Louis Rossetti Designed Arch

Did 'Triumphal' Entry, Also Village School Planning

ROMEO — Internationally known architect Louis Rossetti, of the Detroit architectural engineering firm of Giffels Vallet and Rossetti, has offered to design plans for the proposed Romeo Civic Center, community leaders learned last night at an open meeting here.

★ ★ ★

Rossetti, whose home is located on Fisher road, northwest of the village, has long been interested in local projects.

About a decade ago he designed the triumphal arch leading to Memorial Stadium and has also drawn school plans for the village.

Representatives of 24 local civic groups attending the meeting in the village hall also offered to support the project.

Some announced they had already scheduled special money-raising events — while others planned to address their respective clubs, seeking active endorsement for the center.

Members of the Community Building Authority conducting the session described tentative plans for the building.

The main portion will be 90 by 40 feet with a 14 by 42 foot wing. The wing will house an entrance hall or lobby, kitchen, utility room and lavatories.

The building proper will be usable as an auditorium large enough to seat about a 1000 persons, or may be divided into three separate meeting rooms through use of folding doors.

Rossetti has promised preliminary sketches of the building within a week, directors said.

The building authority board has said $15,000 is the minimum amount needed to start construction—possibly by April 1.

Treasurer Dr. Sherman M. Harding reported a balance of over $5,200 on hand to date. He listed 101 ways to raise money for the project for the assembly last night.

A local landscape architect, Richard B. Manahan, offered to coordinate the efforts of all his fellow nurserymen in the beautification portion of the program.

The newly appointed 12-man financial committee will meet next Tuesday evening in the village hall to map out its fund-raising campaign.

The 4.3 acre building site is located on Morton street, across from Memorial Stadium.

Lapeer-Hadley Assn. Sets Annual Meeting

METAMORA — Annual meeting of the Lapeer-Hadley Artificial Breeding Assn. will be held Tuesday at the Hunters Creek Community Hall, starting at 7 p.m. when dinner will be served by the Thursday Social & Study Club.

Southfield Voters to Try for Drain Project Again

SOUTHFIELD — Twice in the past, Southfield has tried at the polls to get the Evergreen drain project underway, but were tied up with legal technicalities even though voters approved.

The third "try" will come up on April 1 when voters again go to the polls and to be sure that no more legal snags come up, Supervisor Eugene Swem says he will enlist all available legal aid in drafting the ballot proposal.

Since Royal Oak has thrown her hat in the ring as a candidate for the relocation of the county seat, there has been much controversy in and around South Oakland County as to whether it would be more convenient to have it situated there or in Pontiac where it is presently located.

Southfield Trustee, Donald L. Swanson thinks that Southfield is "more centrally located than Royal Oak, so "maybe we ought to build it here." However, the Southfield Board agreed that Pontiac was the best site.

Barbara Bice Wed in Metamora Rites

METAMORA — Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bice of Lapeer, formerly of Metamora, announce the marriage of their daughter, Barbara Beverly, to Kenneth Elmer Holmen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Holmen, LeRoy, Minn. HATS OFF TO SCOUTING

I. L. VOORHEES

Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz said: "Forty per cent of the men I commanded in the Pacific had been Boy Scouts. But that 40% won 60% of the awards of valor." More than 16 million boys have been associated with U.S. Scouting since 1910; go into a Juvenile Court and listen to the boys, one after another one, tell the Judge, "I was lonesome."

M. E. SIPLE

A lonely boy will respond to leadership in gang or Scout Group. Scout leadership is constructive and teaches that boy to be self-reliant, to be honest, honorable and dependable. He is taught the art of self-preservation and First Aid to others. He is taught the gracious art of "getting along with others" and the give and take as it is applied to freedom, civic responsibility, to respect the rights of others and to obey the laws of his country. "In every boy there is a Divine spark—it only needs kindling—" is an expression of F. Hayden Dimmock, Boy Scout Commission, London England.

Hats off to Scouting—February 6th to 12th.

This deposit will be returned promptly upon inspection and approval by the Michigan State Highway Department.

Successful bidder must be prepared to pay the balance in full upon notification of acceptance of bid, and to have the items completely removed from the property within the period of time indicated on the Item Sheet.

Buildings must be removed at the risk and expense of the successful bidder and in conformity with the ordinances, rules and regulations and zoning restrictions of the City or Township in which the buildings are located. The obtaining of all permits necessary is the responsibility of the bidder.

It is the responsibility of the bidder to inspect the buildings as the Michigan State Highway Department makes no warranties or representations as to the state or condition of the buildings or their contents.

DEMOLITION BIDS

A deposit of $200.00 for each item bid must accompany all bids for salvage or demolition payment by the State. Successful bidders for demolition are considered Independent Contractors and will be required to agree to save harmless the State of Michigan and the Michigan State Highway Department from any damages resulting from demolition operations. Deposits will be returned with demolition payments when site is cleared to specifications recited in this Notice. Deposits will be promptly returned if bid is not accepted.

Right is reserved to reject any or all bids and to waive defects in the bidding.

Asks OK to Sell Hodge's Hotel

Illinois Has $550,000 Bid on Florida Property of Convicted Ex-Auditor

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)— The state yesterday asked court approval to sell former auditor Orville E. Hodge's plush St. Petersburg, Fla., apartment-hotel to a Detroit firm for $550,000.

Lloyd Morey, appointed trustee of the estate of the now-imprisoned Hodge, asked the Sangamon County Circuit Court to permit sale of the structure to the Michigan Typesetting Co.

The Michigan firm some time ago submitted a $550,000 bid for the hotel, with notice that the bid will expire Feb. 9. Morey's petition stated that at two public auctions other bidders did not match the $550,000 figure presented by the Detroit firm.

Morey also asked permission to sell three cars formerly owned by Hodge, which are stored in Chicago, and 160 shares of common stock in the Paramount Insurance Co., owned jointly by Hodge and his wife, Margaret. The petition said the state has an offer of $7,200 for the cars. Worth of the stock was not assessed.

The hotel, the cars and the stock were among items turned over to the state by Hodge and his wife in partial restitution for Hodge's 1½ million dollar raid on the state treasury.

Easy Payment Debts Reach $31 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans owed a record $31,552,000,000 in easy payment debts at the end of last year. But the figure was climbing at a slower rate.

The Federal Reserve Board reported yesterday that the new figure was about 2½ billion dollars higher than at the end of 1955. It said the December, 1956, gain was 528 million dollars, compared to a hike of 571 millions in December, 1955.

Total consumer credit, including single - payment charge accounts and loans, reached $41,863,000,000 at the end of 1956. This was $3,215,000,000 more than a year earlier.

Pontiac Fire Captain Suffers Facial Burns

Captain Charles Evans, Pontiac fireman, was treated for first degree facial burns and then released from Pontiac General Hospital Thursday after a fuel oil furnace had exploded.

Firemen were called to investigate a faulty safety device on the furnace of 324 W. Wilson, home of Willie Franklin, when the injury occurred. Firemen used dry powder and no damage to the building or contents was reported.

Youths Bound to Court for School Breakin

Two Walled Lake youths, who pleaded guilty yesterday before Walled Lake Justice George E. Feldman to breaking into the Wixom School Wednesday night, were bound over to circuit court on $2,000 bond each.

Oakland County Sheriff's detectives said Donald Daughterty, 17, of 2018 W. Maple Rd., and Ronald Noland, 18, of 1225 E. Lake Dr., confessed to the incident after being arrested Thursday.

Set April Election for Peoples' Vote on Incorporation

A slate of nine candidates has been put forward for Southfield Township's April 1 charter commission election by opponents of incorporation.

★ ★ ★

The Citizens for Southfield Township Committee named the slate in the hope of winning enough seats on the Charter Commission to delay action past the June 6 deadline.

If Southfield does not adopt a city charter by June 6, it reverts to township status under law. Two proposed charters have already been defeated at the polls.

★ ★ ★

Opponents of city status, living mainly in the northern part of the township, are seeking a village incorporation. They say they moved to Southfield to escape city life.

Supporters of the city named a nine-member slate last week.

More Than 30 Dead in Four Air Crashes

plane's six-member crew, suffered serious injuries.

The heavily loaded Northeast Airlines DC6A, less than two minutes after it left the field, smashed into the ground of Rikers Island in the East River.

The island, site of a city prison, is three-quarters of a mile from LaGuardia.

Angel Gorbea, confined in the penitentiary on the tiny island, gave a vivid account of the resounding crash of the four-engine plane.

Two explosions; the second louder than the first, announced the crash, Corbea said. Watching from his vantage point in a prison window, Corbea related this scene:

ONE CHILD DIES

"The whole sky, even through the snow, was lighted. We (the prisoners) stood at the windows. We saw people tumbling out of that ship — they were all lighted, too, by the flames. We saw them and their shadows. We saw them stumble.

"We saw some fall, we saw some just jump out, land on their hands and knees and then get up and run. They beat at themselves because maybe their clothes were burning. Some just ran a few feet from the plane and rolled in the snow, as if they were trying to smother the fire on their clothes."

Six children were aboard and at least one died. One survivor told of kicking a hole in the fuselage to escape. He turned towards the plane for a second and saw a child thrown at him. He caught it and ran to safety.

A prison trusty told of retrieving a mother and her 18-months-old infant from foot-deep snow that covered the crash scene, a field used by the prison to raise garden vegetables.

Near-blizzard conditions prevented the plane from taking off for three hours and 15 minutes. At one point, the plane was towed back into a hanger to clear the wings of ice and snow.

Rolled back on the runway, it received clearance at 6 p.m.

At the controls was Capt. Alva V. Marsh, 49, a veteran of 19 years with the airline.

FIGHTS FOR ALTITUDE

Marsh said the plane was off the ground for about a minute when it started to flatten. He fought for altitude vainly.

Suddenly it heeled over sharply on its left side and plummeted earthward. Marsh and his co-pilot, George Basil Dixwell of Stratham, N. H., said they thought their plane struck a pole on Rikers Island.

★ ★ ★

The impact of the crash tore off the plane's left wing and knocked its outboard engine from its mounting. The engine crunched into the ground, ripping off the left side of the aircraft, and burst into flames.

TO BE INVESTIGATED

Cause of the crash is the object of a four-pronged investigation: By the city Police and Fire Departments, the Bronx district attorney's office, in whose domain Rikers Island lies, and the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Government sources said the plane was not overloaded according to the number of passengers. Such type planes have been allowed aloft with 100 persons.

The crash might have turned into a far greater tragedy if the faltering airplane had veered in almost any direction other than it did.

It hit one of the few sparsely settled sections of Rikers Island, narrowly missing a row of five wings of the penitentiary. A bit shorter and it would have dropped into the river. A bit longer and it would have smashed into the heavily populated Bronx borough of homes and apartment buildings.

RESCUE HAMPERED

The island's inaccessibility hampered rescue operations. Doctors, nurses, firemen and police had to use ferry boats to get to the island, the only means of reaching it. There was a long delay in returning survivors from the island to the Manhattan shore.

Police planned removing the bodies of victims from the island today.

As soon as prison officials heard the crash, 50 trusties were turned loose as rescue workers. Wardens turned on huge searchlights to light up the blackened crash scene.

PRISONERS HELP

The prisoners, working without outdoor clothing, pulled survivors from the plane and helped them across the snow-covered field to temporary first aid shelters.

Survivors huddled around the crash scene, stunned and shocked by the suddenness of the disaster. Many cried uncontrollably, seeking husbands, wives, children, relatives and friends.

Many survivors escaped through the huge gash torn in the plane's left side. They told of an immediate outbreak of fire within the passenger cabin.

★ ★ ★

"It's a miracle we got out alive," said Charles Naylor, a concert pianist from Roslyn Heights, Long Island. "It burst into flames so fast. We got out through a hole in the plane."

Jules Wollock, 45, of Brooklyn, a set scenery manufacturer, said he kicked a hole in the plane's fuselage and jumped out.

Marsh had been in two other air crashes since 1952. Neither involved fatalities.

News in Brief

Raymond Flinchum, 26, of Orchard Lake Rd., Farmington, was sentenced to 90 days in jail yesterday after pleading guilty to drunk driving before Farmington Justice Allen C. Ingle.

Frederick Mitchell, 17, of 15670 Ryland, Detroit, was bound over to circuit court on $1,000 bond yesterday after pleading not guilty before West Bloomfield Justice Elmer Dieterle to a charge of indecent liberties.

Harry Bedwell, 53, of 74 Myra Ave., pleaded innocent to a drunk driving charge today in municipal court before Judge Cecil McCallum involving a three car property damage accident Friday at Auburn and S. Shirley Aves., and was freed on a $200 bond pending trial February 14.

Quads' Mother Says 'No Birthday Party!'

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — The Badgett quadruplets of Galveston celebrate their 18th birthday today but without a fancy party.

★ ★ ★

"I gave them a party when they were 16 and promised myself 'never again,'" says their mother, Mrs. W. Ellis Badgett. At that time, their parents hired a hall and invited 75 guests.

The quads, now high school seniors, may not get together for their next birthday. Two plan to be away at college next year, although they haven't decided where. All four have scholarships to Baylor University. The other two have made no postgraduate plans.

'What's My Line' Panel to Become Family Affair

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK (INS)—This is getting to be a family affair: Not only will Arlene Francis' husband, Martin Gabel, be part of the What's My Line panel Sunday, but Dorothy Kilgallen's spouse, Dick Kollmar, also will sit in for Bennett Cerf.

An ill wind, or singer, blows good for Polly Bergen, who replaces virus-ridden Teresa Brewer on tonight's Perry Como Show.

Seventy - five - dollar - an-hour ($1,000 a week) model Suzy Parker has been signed for Mayerling" Monday (with Audrey Hepburn) and gives up all that modeling cash for exactly one line of dialogue on TV—the line: "Drunk? He's mad!"

Nat King Cole's creamy Monday evening TV sessions will originate in Miami Beach Feb. 4 and 11 . . .

Gisele MacKenzie has an infection in her inner ear which throws her off balance and affects her pretty stomach, too . . . No dancing plans for Gisele tonight on Hit Parade.

WHAT'S $65,000?

The $122,000 of "21" makes the $64,000 philanthropies seem terribly piddling . . . All that publicity and "21" hasn't yet actually given Charles Van Doren any money. We suspect Van Doren will go for more Monday just to help keep "21" creeping up on "Lucy."

The difference in Godfrey '53 and Godfrey '57: "Whatever you do I'm with you all the way," he add'ng:

"Take my advice and think a long, long time before you sign any long-term contracts" . . . Such as Godfrey's current 12-year corporate multi-million-dollar CBS security? . . . (In the words of the immortal Damon Runyon, Pat: "Get the money.")

"Tonight" or "America After Dark" or "105 Minutes of Silliness" or whatever NBC chooses to call it—perhaps "America in the Dark"—has shifted its mood from hysteria to dullness.

The late Arturo Toscanini's great-grandson was born this week at Doctor's Hospital, an 8-pound son to the Duke and Duchess Filippe D'Acquarone.

Leo Durocher on "Monitor" picked the Yanks and the Braves for next fall's World Series, ignoring all his alma maters—except of course his current employer, NBC, which will carry the Series whichever teams win.

Janet Leigh's on Film Despite Broken Arm

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Janet Leigh didn't let a broken arm keep her from finishing her role in a TV film.

She did the last day's work yesterday on a comedy with her left arm broken at the elbow.

The blonde actress and Jess White fell Thursday while filming of a comedy sequence. A cast, which would have ruined the previous footage, wasn't applied until last night. Miss Leigh will wear it about six weeks.

U.S. Vodka Sales Soar

NEW YORK—Total vodka sales in the United States amounted to almost 32,500,000 bottles in 1956 compared with 108,000 bottles made in 1946 by the world's largest producer of the liquor in this country.

INTERNATIONAL AWARD FILM — Divers on the "Calypso" prepare to submerge in this take from "The Silent World," showing Sunday through Wednesday at the Oakland Theater. The breath-taking color, gripping drama and strangely poetic quality of this unique adventure film won for it the Golden Palm of the Cannes Film Festival, international filmdom's highest award.

Work, Draw Benefits, Still Must Pay Tax

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

From Mrs. A. E. of New York City: "I've been drawing Social Security payments ever since my husband died in 1953. Recently, I got a part-time job working in a grocery store earning about $20 a week. The owner of the store takes Social Security tax out of my pay. Should he be doing this?"

As long as you continue to work and earn money in a job covered by the Social Security law, your employer is required to take Social Security tax out of your pay. The fact that you're drawing Social Security payments has no bearing on this requirement.

From Mrs. K. S. of Mitchell, S. Dak.: "My husband died a year ago and I've been getting a Social Security check for myself and our two children. Now I'm planning on remarrying. I feel my deceased husband would want me to and I'm only 38. If I should remarry, will the Social Security checks stop?"

That portion of the Social Security check which is being paid to you as a widow will stop if you remarry. However, that portion of the check which was being paid to you for the children will continue until they reach 18 or marry.

★ ★ ★

From T. L. R. of San Bernardino, Calif.: "What is the maximum amount my wife can receive as a lump sum under Social Security if I should die?"

$255.

From M. N. of Parsons, Kans.: "I worked for the railroad until 1947, I'd put in 22 years. Since then, I've been working in a job covered by Social Security. Will it be possible for me to draw both Railroad Retirement payments and Social Security payments when I reach 65?"

Yes. A retired worker who has at least 10 years of railroad work and who has done enough work under Social Security to qualify for Social Security payments may receive payments under both systems.

★ ★ ★

From P. L. J. of Orlando, Fla.: "After reading your column, I believe I'll meet the requirements you talked about to be eligible for disability payments. Will my payments be any less because I start drawing them at 57, rather than drawing payments at age 65?"

No. The payments will be the same for which you would be eligible if you were 65 on the date of your disability.

From J. F. of St. Petersburg, Fla.: "Because I'm nearing 65 and will soon be eligible for Social Security, please explain something that's been puzzling me. I keep hearing people talk about "quarters of coverage" under Social Security. What is a "quarter of coverage?"

A quarter of coverage is a period of time which roughly corresponds to a calendar quarter or three month period. Eligibility to Social Security payments is based on the number of quarters of coverage a person has worked under the Social Security system.

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan stopped for one with the boys last night and got his picture in the newspapers.

"Politics from a new angle," beamed the Daily Express alongside its picture showing the Prime Minister drinking a pint with friends at an ordinary pub after the annual dinner of the Bromley Conservative Assn. Macmillan has represented suburban Bromley in Parliament since 1945.

He chatted with others at the bar in the Bull's Head, downed two beers, shook hands all around and went home.
