Fifth Escapes, 'Playing Dead' After Shooting

Sparta Man Is Found Slumped in Car After Family Strife

From Our Wire Services

SPARTA — A crazed father, enraged because his wife tried to divorce him a second time, climaxed a drinking bout and violent argument with her last night by grabbing three shotguns, killing four of their five children and setting fire to their rural home.

The blasts struck three of the children in their heads.

A fifth child escaped death by playing dead after the father, Orland McMillan, fired a shell at him but missed, and then bashed his head with the butt-end of the shotgun, breaking the stock.

Orland Duncan McMillan, 45, told Sheriff Arnold Pigorsh: "I can only take so much. I got shot up in the war and my nerves act up."

Found dead in their home, 15 miles northwest of Grand Rapids, were McMillan's children, Ronald, 7; Bonnie, 6; Richard, 22 months; and Michael Yvonne, 10 months.

The fifth child, 8-year-old Orland Benjamin, suffered a head cut. Dep. Sheriff Eli Roberts, first on the scene in answer to a routine family argument call, said he found the boy sitting up in a blood-spattered bed.

"Hey, cops! Daddy did this. I played dead. He thought he killed me, too," the boy said.

Prosecutor Stuart Hoffius said the boy told of witnessing two of the deaths. He said his father placed the shotgun against the children's heads as they slept, and fired.

McMillan, a part-time farmer drawing temporary relief and working as a painter and paper-hanger, was found slumped in his battered 1950 auto about a quarter of a mile from the home. Roberts, along with state police and Sparta officers, said he offered no resistance.

Officers found a loaded 20-gauge shotgun in the car.

A 12-gauge shotgun was found smashed in an upper bedroom at the death site.

McMillan and his wife were wed twice. They remarried in 1950 after divorcing in 1946. Recently Mrs. McMillan filed suit for separate maintenance.

Mrs. McMillan told police her husband broke through a screen door last night and attacked her. She said she ran to a neighbor to call for police help and waited there until Roberts arrived.

Mrs. McMillan told police her husband was incensed over her plans to move to Chicago with the children.

Sheriff Pigorsh said McMillan will be formally charged later.

McMillan, a factory worker who was laid off his job in April last year and has done only odd jobs since, was hoeing potatoes in his yard Tuesday morning when he was served with divorce papers and an injunction to stay away from his home.

He went to Grand Rapids, and talked with Circuit Court Judge Dale Souter, who wouldn't change the papers he signed earlier.

McMillan then drove to his brother's home and during the afternoon he and his brother, Archie McMillan, drank some whisky.

Archie said he and his wife didn't know when McMillan left their home.

McMillan's wife, Edith, later told police her husband, whom she divorced and re-married eight years ago, beat her severely.

She said she escaped and ran to the home of a neighbor, Raymond Bittely, to call police.

McMillan told sheriff's men he had served 37 months in the Army in World War II, 14 months overseas in the European Theater, and had been wounded in the back. He was discharged a private first class.

Willman Gives Report on Gambling Raids

A report on the recent raids on an alleged bookie ring in Pontiac and on connections between Chief of Police Herbert W. Straley and the parole of one of the ring members was made last night by City Manager Walter K. Willman to the City Commission.

Willman, who had been ordered to make the report by the commission drew no conclusions and presented only a summary of the reports made to him by the officers involved and the chief.

Straley's report said that he was fully aware of the matter all along and had discussed the bookie ring with state police and his own officers who were working on the case.

He also said that he had passed on information about a Basil Burke to the State Parole Board at the request of Burke's wife.

He said that Mrs. Burke had called him and asked for his assistance in getting her husband paroled. He said he visited Burke at Jackson Prison while there on other business and informed the parole board of Burke's parole status and health.

Burke was arrested in the Aug. 29 raids on the bookie ring which he allegedly headed.

Capt. Oliver H. Lemeaux and Lt. William F. Nesbitt told Willman in their reports that they

Dem's Butler Gets In Act, Raps Adams' Broadcast

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower was reported preparing today to name an above-reproach successor to Sherman Adams as his chief White House assistant.

But even Republican National Chairman Meade Adams, who played an active role in events leading to Adams' decision to retire, said he hasn't a glimmering of the presidential choice.

As an indication of how closely Eisenhower was guarding his decision, Secretary of the Interior Seaton said in Vallejo, Calif., he doesn't know whether he is being considered for the job.

"The matter of who succeeds to the post of presidential assistant is a particularly personal one with President Eisenhower," Seaton told a news conference last night.

Seaton, a former senator, left the Harold E. Stassen camp at a critical point to support Eisenhower's bid for the GOP presidential nomination in 1952. He is by all odds the choice of congressional

Pontiac '59 Prices Lower

DETROIT (UPI)—Four General Motors Divisions announced their 1959 car prices today and a rough generalization shows:

Pontiacs are lower; Chevy, Olds up; Cadillac, about the same

Last week, Buick division announced its 1959 car prices showing mostly increases on comparative models.

Pontiac, the only division to buck the higher price trend, also eliminated its lowest priced series, the Chieftain. Chevrolet increases were slight on most models—$4 on its Biscayne series two- and four-door sedans, and $9 on the Bel Air series. Oldsmobile prices were up from $40 to $75. Cadillac held most price lines the same, reduced two by $33 and raised its cheapest model, the series 62 coupe, by $100.

Following is a rundown of 1959 prices on the most popular series: Chevrolet: Biscayne 2-door sedan $2,041; 4-door sedan $2,091—both up

Small Car Talk Revived in GM

Cole Dodges Questions on Tooling as Chevy Shows 1959 Models

By DAVID J. WILKIE
DETROIT (AP)—General Motors' frequently rumored smaller car may be closer to the production line than is generally believed.

Edward N. Cole, general manager of GM's Chevrolet Division, generally understood to have completed development work for a small car, told newsmen at a preview Tuesday that "we have not bought a pound of material for a small car."

He declined, however, to give a direct answer to a question as to whether any tooling commitment has been made for a smaller automobile.

There has been much industry gossip about the industry's small car planning. L. L. Colbert, Chrysler president, recently disclosed Chrysler has a small model unit in its engineering department.

Industry gossip has been that Chevrolet's small car will have its engine in the rear. It also has been rumored that the engine may be of aluminum construction. This, however, has been discounted because of the higher cost of an aluminum engine at this time.

Cole told newsmen that Chevrolet will aim at approximately 1,652,000 car sales in a market that next year may require up to 5,900,000 cars.

He counted about 400,000 imported cars in this figure. The predicted Chevrolet share would compare with about 1,400,000 sales indicated for this year and the more than 1,800,000 Chevrolets sold in 1955, the industry's record year.

Cole also said Chevrolet is continuing its work on fuel injection, hopeful that it may be possible to reduce sharply the present high cost of the device.

The Chevrolet general manager said he expected broad acceptance of a new truck called El Camino to be offered in 1959. The vehicle combines passenger car styling with pickup truck features.

Reuther With GM Friday

Chrysler Bargaining Fails After 20-Hour Session

DETROIT (AP)—Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union failed today to reach contract agreement in a 20-hour marathon bargaining session in which the company charged the union's demands were "unreasonable."

Both Chrysler and UAW officials appeared bitter when they emerged from the conference room at the Chrysler personnel headquarters shortly after 6 a.m.

Their talks had been interrupted only for brief meals and separate caucuses.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther had told Chrysler it must settle by noon today or "be put on the back burner" while he turned his entire attention to General Motors negotiations.

"We are apart on many major issues," Reuther said.

"It would be useless to stay here and talk until the noon deadline for we are not even close to an agreement," Reuther said. "I am greatly disappointed in Chrysler's failure to bargain with us on the contract, but we have no intention of calling a strike and we still hope we can settle with Chrysler without a strike."

Reuther told newsmen he would carry out his announced plan to take charge of the union's talks with GM next.

But he won't make the full switch until Friday. He will rest today and meet with the national UAW Ford Council tomorrow.

John D. Leary, Chrysler vice president, termed the breakdown in the negotiations needless and accused the union of "trying to whip-saw Chrysler into accepting terms that are neither sound nor equitable."

"Chrysler has offered the UAW higher wages and improved employee benefits that match the Ford-UAW settlement," Leary said.

Unauthorized work stoppages idled more than 50,000 workers at Ford, General Motors and Chrysler plants across the nation today. In most incidents, the United Auto workers blamed local grievances. But General Motors saw some walkouts as designed to force a new wage pact.

Ford estimated it had 18,000 idled by walkouts or sent home because of them today, despite the return of 20,000 to its gigantic Rouge plant in suburban Dearborn.

Ford workers also returned to benches at Highland Park, St. Louis and at the Cleveland, Ohio, stamping plant.

Chrysler had 1,700 return to two Detroit plants today, but said 12,000 still were idle in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio. Latest Chrysler walkout was at Twinsburg, Ohio, where 1,600 quit in protest of the firing of a sweeper.

PHILIP E. ROWSTON

Rowston Picked to Head Pontiac City Commission

Business and Personal Reasons for Retiring Given by Official

Announcing his intention to resign Oct. 1 for business and personal reasons, Pontiac's Mayor William W. Donaldson last night was replaced by Commissioner Philip E. Rowston.

The city hall veteran, who has been elected commissioner five times and has served as mayor since 1954, said he would continue to represent District 3 on the commission "for the time being, at least," but did not have enough time to devote to the more demanding office of mayor.

Accepting the announcement with regrets, the commission voted Rowston into the top job on Donaldson's nomination. Mayor pro tem John A. Dugan, who seconded Rowston's nomination, said he did not desire the post himself and would not have time for it.

Donaldson, 52, of 153 W. Lawrence St., was first elected to the commission in 1944 and served two 2-year terms as mayor pro tem. He dropped out of politics until 1945, when he returned to the commission and was selected mayor three times.

Rowston, 37, of 532 W. Freeland Rd., is the youngest member of the present commission. An attorney, he was appointed District 2 commissioner in 1955 to fill a vacancy, and went on to win elections in 1956 and again this spring. The term of mayor he fills will expire in 1960.

Donaldson's four years as mayor were marked by the teamwork which he consistently strived to achieve within the ranks of the seven-member commission.

In his farewell address last night, the retiring mayor felt that the spirit of unity and amiable give-and-take he fostered had contributed to Pontiac's recent progress.

"MOST PRODUCTIVE YEARS" "I think these years have been among the most productive in Pontiac's history. Without the teamwork and cooperation which my fellow commissioners have given me, I do not think we could have accomplished as much."

Accomplishments such as the new city hall and public safety building; extensive neighborhood improvement programs; downtown municipal parking lots; and well-laid plans for future developments all took place while Donaldson was at the helm of city government.

A native of Pontiac, Donaldson put his knowledge of the city and its citizens to use while he was mayor. He was notably receptive to suggestions from the public and had as his avowed policy that the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

9,000 to 10,000 Idled in City After Local 653 Calls General Strike

As the result of a general strike ordered by Pontiac Local 653, production at Pontiac Motor and Fisher Body division plants here was halted today, idling an estimated 9,000 to 10,000 UAW workers.

Pickets were posted at the Pontiac plants early this morning as morning shifts failed to report to work. As a result, Fisher Body halted production of Pontiac automobile bodies at approximately 10:30 a.m.

Pontiac Motor Division interpreted the strike as a spread of what it called a jurisdictional dispute that began with a walkout Monday at plant 16, affecting 100 workers.

Pontiac Local 653 and Fisher Body Local 596 said the dispute was not between the two locals, but between the Pontiac local and the company. Charles A. Beach, Local 653 president, said all the local's grievances were involved in the strike, which he said was approved at a membership meeting this morning.

Justice Courts Under Fire:

Even JPs Not Satisfied

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of three articles on justice courts and justices of the peace.)

By HAROLD S. COHEN

Justice courts throughout Michigan are being severely criticized. Even the justices themselves are not satisfied with the way all of their colleagues operate, nor with the laws that govern their courts.

The major criticisms by the public boil down to these:

1. Many justices are not attorneys and are inadequately informed to follow due process of law and safeguard the rights of defendants.
2. The multitude of justices in a county like Oakland, all with county-wide jurisdiction, give law enforcement officials a chance to play one off against the other. By threatening to "take their business to another justice," the police can induce some justices to "see things their way."
3. The fee system under which the justices operate not only encourages them to play ball with the police agencies but to process cases as rapidly as possible to secure a larger income.
4. Justices are the judicial agents with whom most citizens come in contact if they ever go to court in their lifetimes, and they grow contemptuous of justice if they see some uninformed person holding court informally on his back porch and handing out sentences in rough and ready fashion.

Many of these criticisms have at least a kernel of truth in some counties and with some justices—but none fit all justices. The justices themselves have these complaints:

1. The circuit courts and the State Supreme Court are ducking their Constitutional duties to supervise the justice courts.
 2. The Legislature is often indifferent to pleas by the justices for reform legislation.
 3. The public, the bar associations and law enforcement agencies are quick to condemn, but slow to aid the JP courts.
 4. In the last session of the Legislature some of the first action in many years was taken to change and improve justice courts.
 5. A joint special committee of the Senate and House reported after an investigation of the situation that seven actions were needed to improve the justice courts.
 6. Reduce the number of justices from two to one per town.

Prices for '59 Pontiacs Show Substantial Cuts

Factory list prices for the new 1959 Pontiac were announced today by S. E. Knudsen, general manager of Pontiac Motor Division, and vice president of General Motors.

The new models, incorporating entirely new styling and exclusive engineering developments, go on display in dealers' showrooms across the country early in October.

"The completely new Catalina series is priced between the 1958 Super Chief and Chieftain series which it replaces," Knudsen said. "The new Bonneville and the Star Chief series will be priced lower than the 1958 series."

Comparison of 1958 and 1959 list prices, where comparable models are in both year's lines, show these reductions for the '59 cars: Bonneville sports coupe, down $208.

Bonneville convertible, down $102.

Star Chief 4-door, down $62.

Star Chief vista sedan, down $68.

The popular Bonneville series, which was introduced in 1958, has been expanded to a complete line to include a Vista sedan and Custom Safari in addition to the sports and convertible coupes. The wheelbase has been increased from 122 inches to 124 inches.

Prices remain the same on the new improved Hydra-Matic as well as power options which add to driving safety and comfort.

The figures announced today are the factory list prices exclusive of federal excise tax, state and local taxes, destination charges, and dealer delivery and handling charges.

Light Snow Hits Rockies as Rain Spatters Florida

By The Associated Press

Snow filtered into the nation's weather picture today.

Light falls were limited to the northern and central Rockies—a result of a cool trend that prevailed from the northern Plains to the southern Plateau.

The chilly zone was part of a larger low pressure area that scattered showers from the upper Great Lakes to the Panhandle of Texas.

Mostly fair weather was the rule elsewhere.

A heavy thunderstorm dumped more than an inch of rain on Palm Beach, Fla., during the night.

Other rains yesterday wet parts of Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Temperatures in the 30s prevailed in northern Nevada northward to Idaho and eastern Oregon and western Montana. Butte, Mont., reported a low of 31 degrees and light snow. A mixture of snow and rain cut visibility to half a mile at Ely, Nev.

Miami reports tropical storm Helene, generating winds up to 60 m.p.h., whirled toward the west-northwest today but posed no immediate threat to the U. S. mainland.

Getting Savings Into Bank Can Be Weighty Problem

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Eyes bulged at the Evans Savings Assn. here when a depositor notified a guard that he needed help to carry his money inside.

It turned out to be Brian Ulrich, 11. With the help of his father, S. J. Ulrich, and the guard, he hauled in a huge display-type beer bottle stuffed with coins and a few bills. It weighed 175 pounds.

It took two tellers three hours and 14 minutes to count the money — $308.51, Ulrich said he has been saving his pocket change for five years as a down payment on a college education for Brian.

"I'm going to start all over," the father added as they left. "See you in another five years."

the season's greatest political rhabd.

Adams was assailed last night by Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler as an official who held "power and authority equal to that exercised by some presidents of the United States" and who quit only to satisfy political expediency.

Adams announced on a nationwide broadcast Monday night he was quitting. He said he had done no wrong in inquiring of government agencies about cases pending against textile industrialist Bernard Goldfine.

Goldfine, who showered expensive favors on Adams, said in Boston he believed Adams had quit "out of regard for President Eisenhower, whom he so loyally and ably served."

Butler insisted in a broadcast, however, that Adams "did not live up to the standards of conduct which he and the President have publicly prescribed for all in public life from the humblest to the highest."

"But perhaps the greatest tragedy of all," Butler said, "is that Sherman Adams is not leaving the White House as a result of a stern but fair moral judgment by his superior, President Eisenhower. Sherman Adams is leaving the White House because of a decision based on political expediency."

"He was not forced out by men who are out to destroy the Republican party. It was not the still voice of conscience which brought the departure of Sherman Adams."

To this Alcorn replied in a statement which his Democratic opponent was indulging in "a new technique of character assassination."

"After planning and executing a political lynching, he insisted on free television time to be seen in the front row of mourners," Alcorn said.

This seemed at variance with Alcorn's own explanation that Adams had taken the initiative in resigning. Alcorn said Adams made the decision without any nudging from Eisenhower, on the basis of a poll of Republican National Committee members. The chairman said the canvass showed "reasonably acute concern" that Adams' continuance in office would damage the chances of GOP candidates.

Citing this, Butler insisted, "There was no Democratic plot to vilify Mr. Adams or to destroy him."

It was, under both, the Democratic landslide in Maine which served notice that the people recognized the improprieties of conduct which neither Mr. Eisenhower nor Mr. Adams could perceive."

Alcorn said the Goldfine-Adams relationship was only a subordinate issue in the defeat in Maine of GOP Sen. Frederick G. Payne. Payne also received favors from Goldfine.

The close working relationship between Eisenhower and Adams was of such personal evolution that no new "the assistant" can be expected, according to some authorities, to take over the tremendously broad areas controlled for the past six years by the silver-haired New Englander.

Quick told Ziem and Straley he was asked by Johnson, a neighbor, to try and bribe an officer for protection. Quick said he approached Officer Richard Navarre and was told to try Richard's brother, Officer Gerald Navarre, a member of the vice squad.

Both Navarres had secretly been working under Chief Straley on an investigation of corruption in the police department since last spring.

Quick told the prosecutor he made contact with Gerald Navarre on May 30 and talked him into taking Johnson's money. He said he transmitted about $100 intermittently to Navarre for Johnson. He denied taking any money himself.

Navarre turned the payments over to his superiors and helped work up the case against Quick and Johnson. Ziem today called Gerald Navarre's work on the case "outstanding."

Also arrested yesterday as a material witness in the case was Lester S. Karnes, 64, of 822½ Baldwin Ave.

Karnes' home was raided Friday night by Gerald Navarre and 11 persons, including Karnes, were arrested for loitering in an illegal gambling place. All pleaded guilty Saturday in municipal court.

Quick was also questioned last night about a visit he made to the home of Leann Harrelson, president of Pontiac Teamsters' Local 614.

He said, according to Ziem, that he was selling an advertisement in the Metropolitan Club magazine to the local and visited Harrelson to discuss copy for the ad.

Chief Straley said today that Quick had a good record with the department. He has been a patrolman for 14 years. Last night Straley suspended him indefinitely.

Quick worked about 10 years ago in the vice detail and for many years served traffic warrants.

He was named an acting sergeant by Straley in 1957, but was reduced to patrolman by the Civil Service Commission after the Civil Service law went into effect in May of 1957.

Quick has been active in the Metropolitan Club and served as president from 1948 to 1951. He also was president of the Pontiac Police Officers Assn. in 1951-52. Married, he has three children.

Johnson told officers he was an unemployed factory worker. He is married, but has no children.

3. Authorize JPs to appoint a court clerk.

4. Set up a state JP association like the bar association under Supreme Court regulation.

5. Provide a court administrator to oversee JP and municipal courts.

6. Allow JPs to issue warrants without authorization from the prosecutor.

7. Raise the civil jurisdiction of JP courts to $500.

A minority report was also submitted by Sens. L. Harvey Lodge and Haskell L. Nichols which disagreed with a statement in the majority report that "the prestige of the justice of the peace system was at an all time low," but supported many of the major recommendations.

The committee's report stemmed from a study of the situation in Ohio, Missouri and New York. It was supported by the executive board of the Michigan Justices Assn.

However, only two pieces of legislation got through the Legislature and neither embodied the committee's key points.

CAN MAIL PLEA
The new laws permit pleas of guilty to be mailed to a justice, so that persons can be arraigned without a personal appearance.

The other law permits justices in state law cases to charge up to $15 in additional costs to reimburse counties for the time of the prosecutor, sheriff and other county officials.

This latter act, effective Sept. 13 followed an Attorney-General's opinion that a justice could only levy the actual cost of prosecution which means practically only his own costs since other county officials concerned are on salaries, not fees.

But, basically there has been little legislative progress. An attempt to introduce legislation in the last Legislature to abolish justice courts was withdrawn after a meeting with a group of justices.

However, the threat of setting up district courts in lieu of the JPs had the virtue of forcing some serious thinking on the subject in many quarters.

(Tomorrow's article will list abuses admitted by justices themselves and tell what the Oakland County justices are doing about them.)

good of the entire community came first with him.

LED CALMLY
Donaldson led the commission meetings calmly and with an easy air of informality. He made it a point to let everyone voice his opinion, both commissioners and citizens.

Donaldson spent many extra hours working for his city.

He was an almost daily visitor at city hall, appeared willingly at any event which involved Pontiac, lent his official presence to innumerable civic enterprises, and made many trips to conventions and meetings that promised in any way to benefit his hometown.

His personal support and interest in the American Municipal Assn. and the Michigan Municipal League led to his election as vice chairman of the latter and appointment to the Civil Defense Committee of the former.

Among Donaldson's proudest accomplishments was his establishment of the Pontiac Foundation in 1953 to raise funds for a civic auditorium. He served as its president until last year.

Always willing to contribute his time or personal funds to worthy enterprises, Donaldson initiated many charitable drives and actively supported others.

His city hall salary over the years has often been passed along to such ventures as the Pontiac Foundation and the Pontiac General Hospital expansion program.

EXPRESSES REGRET
"Although it is with a sincere feeling of regret," Donaldson said last night, "I now find it imperative that I devote considerably more time to my family and to my business."

"I have thoroughly enjoyed every moment of the time that I have been able to serve my city as mayor. I want to thank you, my fellow commissioners, from the bottom of my heart for the confidence which you have expressed in me."

"It has been a great honor and I only hope that I have fulfilled your expectations."

The news did not come completely unexpected. Donaldson had hinted as early as this spring that he might relinquish the post of mayor.

He said that he had desired to continue in that capacity through this summer, however, in order to make an official trip to Israel under the auspices of the Pontiac Chapter of B'nai B'rith. He returned from the trip a week ago.

MANY TRIBUTES
There were many tributes to the retiring mayor last night, with the final one coming from Rowston, who said:

"I will sincerely endeavor to carry out the great responsibilities of the office of mayor as well as you have. If I can accomplish that much, I will be satisfied."

Bored With Life, Kills Brother, 14

Nothing Exciting Ever Happens, Says Girl, 16, After Fatal Shooting

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The routine of everyday living closed in on Diana Daye Humphries yesterday, and to escape the boredom she ambushed and killed her 14-year-old brother, Robert D. Humphries Jr.

"I did it because nothing exciting ever happens around here," the pretty, blonde 16-year-old girl sobbed hysterically to police.

She said she also planned to kill her father, mother and herself, but weakened when she saw her mother.

"I did it because everything was so routine," said Diana. "My mother goes to work every day and comes home tired. So does my father, and he is sick with ulcers."

"Everyone was always tired. Robert was tired of school. It seemed we were always getting up, going to work or school, coming home, cooking meals, eating, washing dishes, going to bed and getting up again."

"I couldn't stand it! I wanted to kill everyone quick so we wouldn't have to suffer anymore."

Robert didn't suffer, said police. He was shot through the forehead with an ancient single-shot, 22 caliber rifle as he walked into the den of the Humphries home.

He was an almost daily visitor at city hall, appeared willingly at any event which involved Pontiac, lent his official presence to innumerable civic enterprises, and made many trips to conventions and meetings that promised in any way to benefit his hometown.

His personal support and interest in the American Municipal Assn. and the Michigan Municipal League led to his election as vice chairman of the latter and appointment to the Civil Defense Committee of the former.

Among Donaldson's proudest accomplishments was his establishment of the Pontiac Foundation in 1953 to raise funds for a civic auditorium. He served as its president until last year.

Always willing to contribute his time or personal funds to worthy enterprises, Donaldson initiated many charitable drives and actively supported others.

His city hall salary over the years has often been passed along to such ventures as the Pontiac Foundation and the Pontiac General Hospital expansion program.

The Day in Birmingham Will Hold Grand Opening at League's New Store

BIRMINGHAM — The Detroit League for the Handicapped store in Birmingham will hold grand opening ceremonies tomorrow at its new location at 165 Pierce St.

Highlighting the event will be the ribbon-cutting by Mayor Carl F. Ingram at 10 a. m. There will be open house at the store for two days, and refreshments will be served.

The Birmingham store, which has been in operation for four years, is the only retail outlet for articles made by handicapped people in Detroit as well as other Michigan areas. It is in this way that they are given the opportunity to help themselves.

The store, managed by Mrs. Frederic S. Ward, is open from 9:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. daily, and until 9 p. m. on Fridays.

Dr. Lowell Eklund, director of continuing education at Michigan State University Oakland, will be the guest speaker at the first meeting of the season of the Hickory Grove Elementary School in Bloomfield Hills.

The meeting is scheduled for Oct. 9 in the multi-purpose room of the school. The next board meeting of the organization will be at 8 p. m. next Tuesday.

Milo Bladden of Milo's Custom Furs, Pontiac, will be the guest speaker tonight when the Graefield Homemaking Extension group meets.

The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Reilly Mead, 17988 Birwood St., beginning at 8:30 p. m.

Mrs. Herbert Morgan Service for Mrs. Herbert (Miriam A.) Morgan, 82, of 1335 Holland St., Birmingham, will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at Manley Bailey Funeral Home. Cremation will be at White Chapel Cemetery.

Mrs. Morgan died this morning following a long illness.

She was a graduate of Ithaca, N. Y., Junior College, and was a member of the First Presbyterian Church in Boneville, N. Y., and the Salma Chapter 193, OES, in Boneville.

Mrs. Morgan was born in Wales, England, and moved to Birmingham from Highland Park in 1948.

May Not Be Able to Stop Future Debate on Seating Red Nation

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Diplomats speculated today that the United States may have succeeded for the last time in sweeping aside a U. N. discussion of the Red China seating issue.

The U. S. proposal to sidetrack the thorny question for another year cleared the General Assembly 44-28 with 9 abstentions. It was the narrowest margin of victory on record for opponents of the move to seat the Chinese Communists in the United Nations.

The Assembly vote automatically canceled India's request that the Assembly stage a full debate on the question.

In contrast to previous years, the United States kept officially silent on the outcome. The American view was understood to be that the vote was satisfactory but no cause for rejoicing.

The United States, which battled almost singlehandedly for its proposal, managed to hold the support of slightly more than 54 percent of the U. N. members. Without the solid backing of the 20-nation Latin-American block, it could have lost.

ier Local said 1,350 who quit three days ago in protest of the Disciplinary layoff of a Union shop committeeman, would return at 3 p. m. today.

General Motors, biggest of the Big Three with 250,000 UAW employees, reported 25,900 idle today in seven plants. It said new walkouts had idled 7,400 in its Pontiac Motor Division in Pontiac and 1,700 in its Southgate, Calif. factory.

GM's most serious strike is at Saginaw, where four steering gear division plants are down. They make all steering gears for all GM cars. It was at this key location that GM said the UAW was attempting to force a new contract. Local union officials said this wasn't so, that their 3,000 members were protesting grievance procedures and working conditions.

Other GM employees were idle in Detroit, Kansas City, Atlanta and Oakland, Calif.

spring air in that office," Republican workers were told.

Also receiving the plaudits of their party chieftain were Raymond A. Plank, secretary of state hospital, Allan G. Westerman, state treasurer candidate, and John V. Clements, for auditor general.

The Michigan State University professor tossed out a barrage of figures to illustrate what he called "the most serious problem confronting Michigan, the exodus of industries and tax dollars from the state."

He accused the Democrats of manipulating listings of manufacturing plants throughout the state in an effort to show new industries are moving in and not out of Michigan as Republicans contend.

County party leaders heard this promise from their candidate who spent an hour telling why Michigan's industrial climate must be improved, and why the state must be cleared of racketeers.

He jumped back into his running feud with Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams who, he said, "bungled" the Frank Kierdorf case by asking for a grand jury investigation in Oakland County, rather than in Genesee County where authorities believe the Teamsters official suffered fatal burns trying to burn a cleaning establishment.

"Adams, I believe, deliberately whitewashed this case fearing the present administration might be embarrassed during this election year if the matter was exposed further," Bagwell said.

He denied claims of Adams that he had "impured the honesty and integrity" of the county circuit court judges by his criticism of the handling of the case.

"One of the pledges with highest priority that I have made in my campaign has been to bring about a swift ending to the burnings, bombings and beatings that have blackened the reputation of our state outside its borders," Bagwell remarked.

I HAVE A VITAL MESSAGE TO YOU WHO SUFFER FROM ARTHRITIS

"I will be happy to talk to anyone interested in learning about how O-JIB-WA BITTERS helped my arthritis. Just call me at HU 2-4566," says Mrs. E. Jacobson, 219 N. Huron Street, Ypsilanti, Michigan.

"I suffered with arthritis for strong that part of the time I about five years. It was all wouldn't know what I was over my body, but mostly in doing. Then I read where O-JIB-WA BITTERS had helped my arms and legs. My finger and toes went there to talk to her and began to curl. I have one finger and one toe that are deformed, but she convinced me that I should try O-JIB-WA so I started in the right way. It took several weeks before the pains went away, but soon I was all better. I have one finger and one toe that were that way before I started taking O-JIB-WA. I feel that they would all be deformed by now if it wasn't for this wonderful medicine. I'm so glad that I found out about it in time. I urge every sufferer from rheumatism and arthritis to try O-JIB-WA BITTERS, and the quicker the better."

Little Rock TV Classes Fail to Satisfy

Students Can't Talk to the Teachers

By BRYCE MILLER
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — The main trouble with lessons by television is that you can't talk to the teacher. The best thing about it is that you don't have to dress for class.

As Johnny Poolman, 16, in the 11th grade, said: "They've got a lot of teachers and they give us the facts. The only bad thing about it is that I can't ask questions."

Jackie and Herbie are both in the 10th grade. They look at TV together.

"I kind of like it because we can look in on advanced subjects we are going to be taking later on," Herbie said. "For instance, I am looking in on trigonometry, chemistry and biology, which I won't take until my senior year."

"That's right," Jackie said. "We can take notes on this stuff and it will help us later when we get into it. But neither of us would want to go to school all year like this."

"I certainly wouldn't because it's impossible for a teacher to explain to an individual student," Herbie said. "On TV, she makes up her lesson plans for a group and if an individual has trouble, she can't help him."

The 15 white teachers in TV classes have their troubles. They are mostly nervousness.

But Douglas Wells, a production manager for one station (KTHV), noticed that before the teachers went on the air they wrote assignments and drew diagrams on the blackboard.

So many students complained that teachers are now writing on blackboards while they are on the air and while they teach, so students will have a chance to copy what they write.

In a real classroom, such as the teachers are used to, the blackboard is always before a student and he has plenty of time to copy what is on it.

In a TV classroom, the camera only occasionally touches the blackboard, so there isn't much opportunity for a student to copy.

The TV stations are using green a teacher at Horace Mann (Negro) School, also miss personal contact with the teacher.

Jackie's mother gets him up at 4:30 a.m., so he can deliver newspapers. He returns home by 7 a.m., so he can look at junior and senior lessons, although his 10th grade lessons don't start until 9 a.m.

"It's not the same, but it will help until we get back into school," Gail Peck, 16, a junior, said. "I had hoped to take shorthand, but I can't since that is not being taught on TV. I may change my mind and take chemistry."

That isn't offered on television, and she said that besides she would rather be in a classroom.

This does not make girls like Anne Spears, 17, a senior, happy. She wants to get married as soon as she graduates, and would like to learn something about home management.

De Gaulle Calls for His Cabinet

To Prepare for First Elections Under Fifth Republic of France

PARIS (AP)—Counting on voter approval of his new constitution, Premier de Gaulle summoned his Cabinet today to prepare for the first elections under the Fifth Republic.

The balloting for a new Parliament shorn of many of its old powers is expected to be set for Sunday, Nov. 16. Political observers say runoffs would be held the following Sunday.

Gen. de Gaulle, who virtually dictated the proposed constitution to be voted on this Sunday, still has given no indication how he wants the election law written.

Its form will strongly influence the political complexion of Parliament. Some non-Communist leftist parties fear de Gaulle will weight the law to favor conservatives.

Whatever the leaning of the new Parliament, its election will clear the way for the naming of a new president. De Gaulle himself is expected to take the job.

Observers expect the presidential election to be held the last half of December. The new constitution leaves the choice up to Parliament and electors representing the towns, most of whose officials are conservatives.

None of the election decisions to be taken today was expected to become public.

With the referendum only four days away, Algerian nationalists redoubled their campaign of terrorism intended to force France into negotiating with them. The rebels object that the proposed constitution does not promise independence to Algeria.

Police are fighting back. In two attacks on police cars in the Paris area during the last 24 hours, six Algerians were killed and two policemen slightly wounded.

The most daring nationalist attempt at sabotage was discovered yesterday. A frightened French woman tourist found a crude five-pound dynamite bomb in a toilet on the top level of the famed Eiffel Tower.

The bomb was powerful enough to blow off the top of the 984-foot landmark. But its timing clock had stopped.

Discover Fourth Wife of Author John McPartland

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The latest count indicates the late best-selling author John McPartland had four wives, including one located here yesterday.

Mrs. Tanya Glick, 48, said she met the writer of "No Down Payment" when he was a 17-year-old clerk in a plumbing-supply store.

"It was in Chicago," she related. "I met him at the home of a girl friend Jan. 1, 1928—the first day of Leap Year. I said, 'Will you marry me?' He accepted."

A daughter, Cynthia, was born of the six-year marriage, Mrs. Glick said.

She said she divorced the author when he began keeping company with another woman.

Mrs. Glick, divorced from her second husband, is unemployed and lives in a Los Angeles apartment.

McPartland, 47, died 10 days ago of a heart attack in Monterey, Calif. Legal maneuvers over his estate have disclosed he had seven children by at least three wives.

Thieves Sneer at Law

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP)—Crime appears to have paid modestly here almost under the noses of lawmen. Bold safe crackers took more than $300 from a safe in the City Finance Co. office. The FBI office is four doors down the street and the Police Dept. is across the street.

3 Sentenced for Life

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Three persons have been sentenced to life imprisonment and six others to lesser terms on charges of smuggling narcotics into Formosa. The three given life included Sze Yui-pl, 29, a weightlifting coach with the Chinese Nationalist team to recent Asian Games in Tokyo.

Eddy Gilmore Writing for Hal Boyle:

First-Class London Tailor Is Great Snob

LONDON (AP)—The really first-class London tailor is a monumental snob and one of the world's best makers of men's clothes.

He is superior, smooty, opinionated, condescending, self-centered and dwells mentally, spiritually and physically in a tight little section of London's West End, between Regent St. and Piccadilly, dissected by Saville Row.

Some tailors are so elegant they will concern themselves only with measuring jackets and waistcoats.

They wouldn't think of dealing with a pair of trousers, loftily leaving such mundane commerce to underlings.

One of these is Mr. Featherstonehaugh.

"Anybody," he said, "can build a pair of trousers. It takes an artist to do a jacket."

In his haute monde only the vulgar, a few Burmese and untraveled Americans, refer to trousers as pants and waistcoats as vests.

He shudders at what he considers this un-British and monstrous misuse of nouns.

Terrific English Featherstonehaugh pronounces his name "fane-shaw."

The most striking example of his outlook on life, the trials, dangers and burdens that man has to bear, concerns an American named William Brassert, long resident in Geneva.

Almost since childhood Brassert has had his clothes made by Featherstonehaugh. But, World War II rudely interrupted his years of happy and impeccable tailoring.

Featherstonehaugh was in war-racked London and Brassert beside placid Lake Geneva, with half the German army and its air force separating tailor and client.

Tailoring—or even contact—was impossible.

For four years there was no communication. And then, a month after the war, Brassert journeyed to London to replenish his by now threadbare wardrobe.

"I hoped and prayed," said Brassert as he related the story, "that Featherstonehaugh survived the rigors of war and that his premises stood up to the bombing. Frankly, I had misgivings."

On his first morning in London, Brassert set out for the tailor shop familiar to him since youth.

Bomb damage was intense, but there—like a single tooth in an old man's mouth—stood the shop of Featherstonehaugh. All about it the buildings were in ruins.

He entered the dimly lit front room and there stood the tailor himself, a tape measure dangling from his stooped shoulders.

For what seemed an eternity, the old tailor stared at his customer of by-gone days.

To have shown surprise would, of course, have been to show emotion, a characteristic impossible in his well-ordered world.

So, without a change of expression, Featherstonehaugh, who had gone through the rockets, clothes rationing, food rationing, Spanish flu, the loss of a son at sea, looked over his gold-rimmed spectacles and said with a relieved sigh:

"Ah, Mr. Brassert, we've been worrying about you."

Parking Tickets Add Up

DETROIT (AP)—A Wayne State University law school senior was accused of having 104 unpaid parking tickets with fines totaling almost $500. Leonard N. Townsend, 23, told traffic judge George T. Murphy he held a high scholastic ranking. The judge told him, "You may be leading your law class but you're also leading the city in parking tickets." A hearing was set for Oct. 8.

Coffee Pot Tempest Stirs Firm, Workers

CANAJOHARIE, N. Y. (AP)—It's a tempest in a coffee pot. Should employees of Beech-Nut Life Savers Inc., a major coffee roaster, pay for the coffee they drink at work?

Yes, the company told workers at its baby-food plant here, and tossed the traditional free cup down the drain. Coffee will be a nickel, to cover rising cafeteria costs, the company said.

No, argued the Beech-Nut Employees Assn., which represents the 1,200 workers. Free coffee is a fringe benefit, the union claimed. The association sought arbitration.

Dean Andrew Clements of Albany Law School, a member of the State Mediation Board, is pondering the problem.

She's Convinced of Husband's Greatness

Knowland's Wife Hits Campaign Trail

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Helen Knowland, vigorously campaigning for husband William F. Knowland in the hardest fight of his political career, is armed with a conviction she has held since their courting days.

"I have always known there was greatness in him," declares Helen Knowland.

She is completely outgoing and unabashed in her high estimate of the capabilities of the blunt, strapping mate she calls Billy, who chose to retire as the U.S. Senate's Republican leader to run for governor of California.

With Knowland, busy in Washington as Senate minority leader, Mrs. Knowland carried the campaign ball in California up to the June primary. She led a 5,000-mile "Rollin' for Knowland" bus tour by the "Knowland girls"—herself, two daughters and a daughter-in-law.

The primary result confronted the Knowlands with unmistakable evidence they were in for the first uphill battle of their political careers in the 1953 general election race.

Republican Knowland and Democrat Pat Brown, state attorney general, were unopposed for their parties' governor nominations. Each cross-filed on the other party's ballot, however, and Brown outstripped Knowland in the total popularity test by 662,000 votes.

Helen Herrick started politicking with Bill Knowland when they were Alameda high school seniors. He was elected president and she, his best girl, vice president. They eloped on New Year's Eve in 1926. She was 19 and he was 18. They went back to sophomore classes at the University of California after their honeymoon.

From the time he was elected to the California Assembly at 24, Knowland's climb to political leadership was rapid, and relatively easy.

He was an Army major in Europe when then Gov. Earl Warren appointed him in August, 1945, to serve the unexpired Senate term of the late Hiram W. Johnson.

In 1946 Knowland won election to a full Senate term over Democrat Will Rogers Jr. The Knowland vote margin was 1,428,067 to 1,167,161. Mrs. Knowland, busy raising a family of two daughters and a son, took little part in that campaign.

No campaigning effort was necessary for Knowland's reelection six years later. He won both Republican and Democratic nominations in the cross-filed June primary by the biggest vote for any candidate in California history—3,962,448 to 569,992.

But Knowland's 1953 race with Brown for the governorship has a far different setting.

Brown is riding a tide of growing Democratic registration and a national Democratic trend evidenced in the Maine election and in the California and Wisconsin primaries.

Knowland's decision to run for governor created an amount of bitterness among Republicans. It forced Gov. Goodwin J. Knight's reluctant agreement to step out of the governor race and run instead for Knowland's Senate seat.

On right-to-work legislation, the campaign's hottest issue, Knowland is standing apart with firm independence. Knight and other statewide Republican candidates oppose the ballot measure for a right-to-work law which Knowland wholeheartedly supports.

On the need for what the Knowlands call union democracy, Mrs. Knowland's ardor more than matches her husband's. The Knowland campaign line against Brown contends Brown is dominated by labor bosses.

Roused by Brown statements seeking to exploit a report that she had circulated pamphlet attacks on Walter Reuther by Joseph P. Kamp, she countered with a charge that Reuther and Brown were employing a massive intimidation technique.

She declared the "massive intimidation" would not stop her from "seeking to learn all the facts about their intention and activity to liquidate Senator Knowland."

Brown pointed out that Kamp, who served a sentence for contempt of Congress for refusing to disclose names of financial contributors, also had published pamphlet attacks on President Eisenhower and Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Mrs. Knowland said she had been unaware of Kamp's record. She said he had distributed about 500 of the pamphlets on Reuther. But she said the distribution was stopped on her husband's order.

A proud grandmother of five grandchildren, Mrs. Knowland is a youthful-looking, attractive brunette. Friends say her easy social grace has been of great value in her husband's career. The Senator has not shown real taste for the glad handing required in politics.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, hospitalized for what his office called a routine examination, will be released in a day or two, a spokesman for Latter-Day Saints Hospital said today.

Benson's office said he was undergoing a checkup for a mild infection. Neither the hospital spokesman nor the office spokesman would elaborate.

Benson cancelled a scheduled appearance at a GOP rally in San Jose, Calif., to enter the hospital.

Charging Bribery in Television Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators set out today to clarify contradictory stories that bribes were offered and solicited in a Pittsburgh television case.

They may name the persons allegedly involved. The stories, without names, were narrated yesterday by staff investigator Oliver Eastland to the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee, which recalled him as a witness.

Subcommittee Chairman Owen Harris (D-Ark) said the bribery allegations were in the hands of a federal grand jury.

Eastland testified that a former Federal Communications Commission chairman told investigators he had been offered a bribe, while two others involved in the case said he tried to solicit one.

He referred only to a former FCC chairman who had appeared before the subcommittee, and two representatives of one of the applicants in the case.

The former chairman appeared to be George C. McConaughy, who left the commission June 30, 1957, but there was no corresponding indication of just who the other alleged parties to any bribe discussions might be.

Church-Schools and Racial Integration

Oddly enough there are schools functioning in the state of Arkansas and Virginia without the threat of closure. They are the established private institutions, principally the parochial schools of the Roman Catholic churches.

This seems a little hard to understand since in many instances the state and parochial schools would be operating almost side by side. But for some unknown reason it seems to be working without any undue fuss.

As a matter of record, it is really not new in Virginia, since the Catholic schools were integrated in 1954, shortly before racial segregation in public schools was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

Figures show that in the Richmond diocese, which is about as true South as you can get, ten per cent of the pupils in the 68 parochial schools are Negroes.

Msgr. J. L. FLAHERTY, school superintendent of the diocese, said that although some parents of the white students had not liked the change, there had been no massive resistance. These schools do not receive financial support from the state and consequently are free from state control.

This means they do not fall under the jurisdiction of any state governor or legislature. Perhaps this is good, since it does not place the unfortunate children in the position of being a political football.

Citizens of Little Rock in Arkansas go to the polls this Saturday to decide whether their four public schools, closed by order of Gov. ORVAL E. FAUBUS, shall be reopened on an integrated basis. An affirmative answer will require "yes" votes by a majority of the qualified electors. In Virginia where some schools are closed, there is no provision for such a referendum.

Where political power is unimportant, the problem is negligible.

Mystery Fans Will Miss Mary Roberts Rinehart

Strong-hearted MARY ROBERTS RINEHART has closed the last chapter of a long and eventful career as a writer. She survived four heart attacks and underwent surgery 15 times during her illustrious 32 years.

Over her life span she personally penned 60 full length novels and oddly enough it was her first, "The Circular Staircase," that proved to be her biggest success.

Mrs. RINEHART's novels and hundreds of short stories were enjoyed by millions of readers. For many years she was in the habit of writing a novel a year, which kept many of her fans awaiting word from her publisher that the new book was out.

Her readers had intense admiration for her unique style of mystery writing. She was a demon for work and maintained a daily schedule which produced some five or six thousand words a day.

The majority of her books and stories differed from other authors, since they did not deal with the sordid side of life. Her style was mainly suspense, which did not require seamy characters in compromising positions.

Mrs. RINEHART's works will be missed by the millions who appreciate her special competence in writing a good, clean mystery story.

Football Is Sports King in Overlapping Schedule

King football is taking over and has pushed baseball from the No. 1 spot on the nation's sport pages. This is as it should be, since fall is here and most of the nation's leading colleges open the season Saturday.

Dragging the baseball season out is nothing new. Apparently the club owners and leagues feel that the overlapping of two major sports is warranted. Naturally, they are thinking of the turnstile count.

After Labor Day, and the first few crisp fall days most of us commence thinking in the terms of the pigskin rather than "who's on first."

Baseball is not alone in extending its season well into the start of another major sport. Hockey, football and basketball are all equally guilty.

It's the clamor for the almighty dollar that pressures the various sports into running past the season's normal climax. How nice it would be if our major sports cooperated with the general thinking of the paying customers.

Currently the baseball finish is a humdrum affair with the league pennants comfortably stashed away. Until the series opener, all eyes will be following their favorite gridiron heroes.

Jurist Proposes New Court

WASHINGTON—Judge Norman F. Arterburn of the Supreme Court of Indiana has come forward with a novel solution to the controversy that has arisen as a result of recent decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States. The Indiana jurist, who has served a term as chief justice under the rotating system in Indiana, was responsible for the resolution, presented a year ago at the conference of state chief justices, which resulted in a comprehensive report approved last month by 38 of the state chief justices, criticizing decisions of the nation's highest court.

He recommends now that there should be a new court set up by constitutional amendment which would be known as the "court of constitutional definition."

In a letter to this correspondent, Judge Arterburn presents a plan which, if it had been in effect in 1954, would have prevented the present dispute on the legality of the segregation question from developing at all. His letter makes no mention of this issue but is confined solely to recent reversals of its own rulings by the Supreme Court of the United States in cases concerning federal-state relationships.

"The framers of our Constitution did not conceive of the organic structure of our government as a piece of putty that could be molded and shaped as times changed until it no longer resembled the original framework."

"They felt they were building a structure of solid permanency with the opportunity to remodel or make additions through the amending clause only. There has, however, developed in this country a legal theory that the Constitution should be stretched to meet any contingency resulting from changes in economic and social progress."

"The United States Constitution does not say the 'Constitution and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof; and all treaties . . . shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every state shall be bound thereby . . ."

"It does not say the decisions of the United States Supreme Court on such questions shall be the supreme law of the land. The exercise of such a power is one usurped by the court and, in effect, gives to the judiciary a veto power over the acts and functions of all other departments and agencies of the government."

"Although the right to be the final arbiter of what the Constitution means, is without any expressed grant in the Constitution, it is, nevertheless, a constitutional principle now so firmly imbedded in our legal and political thinking that its permanency cannot at this time be seriously questioned, regardless of its merits."

"I contend that the United States Supreme Court has usurped a right to amend the Constitution by changing its established interpretation and this is done in violation of the constitutional provision for amending the same set up for the protection of the states and the citizens thereof."

Judge Arterburn feels that the membership of such a new court should consist of a judge or former judge of a United States court, a member or former member of Congress, a governor or former governor of a state, a judge or former judge of the highest court of appellate jurisdiction of a state, and one person who, within 10 years, has not held any office in the federal or any state government and who would be chosen by a majority vote of the other members and be made chief justice of the court.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Just Can't Hide Iodine Behind a Smoke Screen

For many years I followed your recommendation to "use a few drops of iodine in a glass of water," and I clearly remember your ridiculing the practice of labeling iodine "poison."

Now you can't hide behind a smoke screen of name-calling. Iodine is iodine, whether it is "organic" or — what other kind is there?

You owe your readers an explanation as to why you now try to distinguish nutritional from medicinal iodine . . . (M.A.)

Frankly, sir, iodine is iodine (or spell it iodine if you wish), no matter what its source or its strength may be.

You do not mention the purpose for which "a few drops of iodine in a glass of water" is to be used.

It is not so much a change in my recommendations. It is rather the changes that have been made in the Pharmacopoeia since I began teaching that every man, woman and child needs a suitable daily ration of iodine.

Another reader complains that when he asked the druggist for a vial of iodine the druggist asked which kind of iodine he wanted and said he had six or seven kinds . . .

The druggist is probably right, though I can think of only four kinds, namely, Tincture of Iodine, Tincture of Iodides, Stronger Tincture of Iodine (Churchill's Tincture), Mild Tincture of Iodine. So-called "colorless" tincture of iodine (tincture of iodides) is not iodine at all, so far as external use is concerned. Internally it has the same effects as any other kind of iodine or iodide.

The only kind of iodine I advise people to use as a first aid disinfectant for minor wounds is Mild Tincture of Iodine, U.S.P. This is approximately 2 per cent strength, whereas regular Tincture of Iodine, U.S.P., is three times as strong, and should be used only under the physician's supervision.

For personal use I prefer Mild Tincture of Iodine, and immediate application, to any other antiseptic or germicidal agent. To be sure, iodine bites momentarily when it is applied to a raw surface, but anyone who has used daily application of it to a canker sore knows that the bite is soon followed by a considerable period of comfort and the sore heals promptly if the mouth is washed gently before and after food with warm boric acid solution.

I still ridicule the use of a "poison" label on tincture of iodine. It serves to keep the sale of iodine in the hands of the druggist. A news item sent by a New Jersey reader says a supermarket has been fined on a charge of selling such "drugs" as citrate of magnesia, oil of wintergreen, spirits of camphor, spirits of ammonia, glycerin suppositories and boric acid with no pharmacist on duty at the time!

Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for the FREE pamphlet, THE IODINE RATION, which will clarify the distinction I draw nutritional and medicinal iodine.

Iodine is iodine, whether it is "organic" or — what other kind is there? Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan. Case Records of a Psychologist:

Fever Is One of Body's Defenses

Unless your fever goes above 105, don't try to "break" it artificially by ice packs or drugs. For fever is one of the body's greatest defensive weapons. Yet millions of Americans try to break their child's fever, when such action may actually kill the youngster! Save this Case Record and tomorrow's follow-up.

CASE Z-327: Homer J., aged 35, is a high school science teacher.

"Dr. Crane, I've heard a lot of advertising on TV," he began, "in which the manufacturers of certain drugs urge people to buy them to help reduce fever."

"Yet I recall one of your talks wherein you mentioned that fever is a great boon to mankind."

"Is it a good idea, therefore, to suggest that parents artificially try to lower the temperature of their youngsters when the latter are ill?"

MEDICAL SUPERSTITIONS
Before answering Homer, may I remind you that the ancients believed the blood was the "fire" of life.

So they reasoned that when you had a fever, you had too much hot blood pouring through your veins. "Just take out a pint or so," was the old idea. And that still hadn't gone

'Going Underground Won't Solve Problem of Fallout'

Before anyone rushes to a lumber yard to buy material for a cozy little "survival hut," built underground, could I present a fact or two? They'll save the price of bricks or wood.

What are you going to do about the fallout after it has fallen out? A noted scientist states the nasty stuff does have a tendency to settle on the roof and unless it's shoveled off like snow, it will seep right down where the family is huddled underground.

Let's not go underground. Have the men of Civil Defense no imagination? Have they thought ahead to what the earth, soil and air will be after a bomb goes boom? There just won't be any earth, soil or air to speak of which will be worth breathing, working or walking upon.

One island in the Pacific, years after they tested bombs, still refused to act normal even though the top soil has been pushed, dragged and scraped into the ocean. It's still alive with dribbles of ash from the bomb and will be for years.

Humans must remember that they are humans, not moles. We've just got to pray and think and figure on something else.

'Conibear Should Be Ashamed'

George L. Conibear Jr., you should hang your head in shame. So all should be burned at the stake that want a whole loaf of bread? Let me tell you Walter Reuther is so far superior to you it's pitiful.

He's fighting for the fellow that makes the money for the rich. The day may come when you will have to live on the social security. We get a seven per cent raise. The rich get $35,000. Why do the ones that toil and slave to make the money for the rich have to be kept a slave? I thought Lincoln freed the slaves. Why should General Motors have it all and the worker be his slave?

I hope God will remember your words and they will boomerang back to you. Is something wrong that you can't belong to the union?

'Press Suggestion Saves Me Time'

I want to thank The Press for the time it has saved me through a suggestion. You said you threw away the junk mail—all mail now that doesn't have first-class postage. I started that the next day and have saved myself many, many hours since. "If it isn't important enough for someone to send first class, it isn't important enough to read."

'Saginaw Lights Lose Us Friends'

Those Raeburn and Rapid street lights are set to stop all south-bound traffic at both ends unless you sneak close to 50 miles an hour. They must be timed for about 48 miles an hour.

Is that what the city traffic bureau wants?

And everyone is caught again at the Grand Trunk tracks unless you keep it up. Pontiac's traffic squad is losing friends and among visitors and home folks alike. That Raeburn light is a joke anyway. A blinker would be plenty too much.

Portraits

By JAMES J. METCALFE

You are most fortunate indeed . . . If you have peace of mind . . . For that is something which can be . . . Most difficult to find . . . Not that tranquility when free . . . From serious bodily ills . . . Or having money in the bank . . . With which to pay your bills . . . Or being happy in your work . . . And carefree in your play . . . With friends who really care for you . . . And help you on your way . . . But that important peace of mind . . . When you have not concealed . . . Some wrongful deed that shames you and . . . You do not want revealed . . . That calmness in your heart when there . . . Is nothing you need fear . . . Because you know without a doubt . . . You have a conscience clear. (Copyright, 1958)

Smiles

A man who was married to three women at the same time claimed insanity. Either he has a rare sense of humor or he's right.

When you can't control the idea of not worrying, you've really got something to worry about.

As soon as you get back from vacation, we dare you to try to figure out where all that money went.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY
And the scripture was fulfilled which saith, Abraham believed in God, and it was imputed unto him for righteousness: and he was called the Friend of God. — James 2:23.

The truths of the Scriptures are so marked and inimitable, that the inventor would be more of a miraculous character than the hero. — Rousseau.

Conversely, it slows down the rate of multiplication of the enemy (germs).

When the body itself has produced enough white corpuscles to whip the invading germs, then your temperature begins to drop. But if you artificially lower that fever by ice packs, alcohol rubs or drugs, beware!

Despite your good intentions, you may be sabotaging the body's own resistance. You may thus be playing into the hands of the enemy.

If the fever goes above 105 degrees, then you should watch closely, for too high a temperature may "cook" the proteins in nerve cells and thus lower your I. Q.

But few fevers go above 105 degrees. However, you should have your doctor on the case to steer a modern scientific course. Scrubbook this Case Record, with tomorrow's follow-up, for they will help you handle sick patients more intelligently.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long stamped, self-addressed envelope and two to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets. (Copyright, 1958)

Sherman-Adams Story Unique in U. S. History

By ARTHUR EDSON
AP Features Writer

WASHINGTON — In all U. S. history, there is no exact parallel to the Sherman Adams story—simply because never before has there been a job like his.

Pick up a "Congressional Directory" for 1933, for example. Immediately after the biography of Franklin D. Roosevelt, with no fanfare, come short notes on his secretaries, Louis McHenry Howe, Marvin McIntyre and Steve Early.

But a sharp change was made in the directory after Eisenhower took over.

Now, after the President's biography comes this special heading in bold face type: "Executive office of the president," and heading that executive office is the assistant to the president, Sherman Adams.

From the very start, then, Adams has been a man set apart.

When he told a national radio and television audience Monday night: "I . . . tendered my resignation," he may have been making unwittingly and unhappily—political history.

For, since no president ever has resigned, it could be argued that never in our strictly political history has any man stepped down from so high up.

As an old military man, Eisenhower naturally turned to the idea of having a chief of staff for the White House. This chief of staff, who was to be Adams, was to help with the endless paper work, see many of the people who needed seeing, say that word that often comes so hard for a politician, "no."

Looking at it with hindsight, the remarkable part of the Adams story is this:

He must have known from the start what a natural target he was. How each move would be watched. How any misdeed, or anything that could be labeled a misdeed, would be eagerly seized.

And, although he bitterly referred to "irresponsible testimony . . . innuendo, and even unsubstantiated gossip" in his resignation speech, Adams knew all along the danger in being a man set apart.

Political science may be the most improbable of all the sciences, but you can back on this as being almost invariably true: If we're harsh with our presidents from time to time, we're even more harsh with those we suspect of having some influence over them.

History is full of examples.

Truman with his friends, or, as they were often described, his cronies. (In politics, if you don't like a man, his friends become cronies.) Franklin Roosevelt and his brain trusters, Wilson and Col. E. M. House. Jackson and his "kitchen cabinet."

For some reason, Adams always has been excessively modest about his job, claiming that, really, there wasn't much to it.

An example came when he appeared before the House legislative oversight subcommittee in June, to explain his relations with his old friend, Bernard Goldfine, who had been in business difficulties with the government.

Repeatedly Adams acted as if he had no influence at all. "Routine," he would say when congressmen wondered about White House calls. "It was a routine call."

When he quit, all he needed to do was to tell his boss, Eisenhower, and slip quietly away. Instead, he called for radio and TV time, possibly the most eloquent testimony of all that, deep down, Sherman Adams thought this was such a big job that merely quitting it deserved a special report to the American people.

New Trip Into Space Planned by Air Force

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—The Air Force plans to send another manned balloon into the stratosphere in its effort to learn what qualifications a space pilot needs.

The flight also will continue a study of how to build a capsule capable of carrying a man safely into space, the Air Force said.

First Lt. Clifton M. McClure, 26, of the Air Force Missile Development Center near Alamogordo has been chosen to make the third Project Man High balloon ascension, possibly late next week. McClure was born in Anderson, S.C., is married and has a year-old son.

Dinosaurs ruled the earth for about 120 million years, says the National Geographic Society. Some of them reached a length of 80 feet and weighed about 50 tons.

Reds to Surrender Bodies of 6 Airmen

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—A U.S. Air Force representative left for the Turkish-Soviet border today to claim the bodies of six American airmen killed in a crash of an Air Force transport plane inside Soviet Armenia.

Seventeen crewmen were aboard the C130 transport when it disappeared near the Soviet border Sept. 2. The Russians later announced the plane had crashed in Soviet Armenia.

With the advent of autumn, local clubs and organizations swinging into another active season, members of Les Filles Club are busy with plans for a number of social functions throughout the school year.

By EMILY POST
"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it possible to refuse to take part in a wedding? If so, how can this be done gracefully? A girl I know, but who is not an intimate friend, is going to be married in the not-too-distant future and I have heard indirectly that she is planning to ask me to be her maid of honor."

Answer: The only thing you can do is to tell her that much as you would like to take part in her wedding, you really can't afford to buy bridesmaids' clothes at this time and regret that you have to refuse.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Can it be considered impolite not to include a grown son in an invitation sent to his mother, with whom he lives? I sent my friend an invitation to a reception and did not include her son whom I know slightly. Somebody thinks that I should have asked him out of respect for her."

Answer: The word "reception" suggests a large party which generally includes at least a few persons who are not well known by the hosts. If this describes your reception, then the son should have been invited. If the "reception" was an informal and small gathering for intimate friends, it was not necessary to ask him.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My boy friend is nineteen. We have been going together for a year now and his birthday is coming up next week. I want to buy him a shirt and tie, but my mother disapproves of this type of gift. Isn't such a gift acceptable in the present day?"

Answer: The tie is perfectly all right but not the shirt. A tie is considered an accessory whereas a shirt is wearing apparel.

Dear Abby...

Children May Be Nosy!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think my problem is too silly to bother with. I am a girl, 19 years old, and I have a very large nose. I considered having plastic surgery once but when I went to the doctor he told me himself that if he were I he would leave it alone as it went with my face.

"I fell in love with a man who has a nose that is really BIG. Everyone calls him 'Schnoz' and he doesn't seem to mind at all. He is one swell fellow. I keep thinking if he and I were to marry, our children would have noses to end all noses. Is this worth worrying about or am I being silly to consider it?"

NOSE CONSCIOUS

DEAR NOSE: If you love each other go ahead and get married and let the next generation take care of itself. They might win by a nose.

"DEAR ABBY: I am nine years old. I saw your ad in the paper where you answer people's problems and I have one that I wish you would give me advice on. My Mother and Daddy are divorced and the kids at school laugh at me and call me 'Orphan' and say I haven't got a Mother and Daddy. What should I tell them?"

BROKEN-HEARTED

DEAR BROKEN-HEARTED: The kids are wrong. Pay no attention to them. Divorced or not, they are still your Mother and Daddy.

"DEAR ABBY: Why is it that when a woman loses her husband and becomes a widow her former women friends take great pleasure in throwing her a bone? The widow becomes a 'lady sitter' and is invited to 'come over and play cards' when their husbands are on the road.

"No one ever thinks of inviting a lone widow to join a group of men and women. How are we expected to meet someone and repair our broken lives? Please print this, Abby, and you'll find out if I am exaggerating."

TYPICAL WIDOW

DEAR TYPICAL: You can't expect married women to invite a widow (especially an attractive one) to come over and share their husbands. When there is an unattached man in the party, widows are invited and are more than welcome.

"DEAR ABBY: My husband says I'm narrow-minded, and I say he's no gentleman! I hurt and embarrass me in a public place. We went to a cocktail bar for a drink one evening. We had hardly been served when he was invited to another table for a drink. He didn't ask me to go along, he just left and said he'd be right back.

"He stayed for 50 minutes, while I sat alone fighting to hold back the tears. I say he should either have taken me to join them or stayed with me. Am I narrow-minded?"

SHEILA

DEAR SHEILA: You are NOT narrow-minded. A gentleman never leaves a lady alone to "join" others.

"DEAR ABBY: I just moved to this town and I wasn't here three days when I fell in love with a married man. We went around together for six months and then his wife found out about me and waited outside my rooming house to talk to me. She is pregnant and so am I. We had a nice talk and she said she wouldn't give him up as she loved him.

"I love him, too, Abby, and he promised to marry me as soon as he could. I feel bad because his wife seems like a nice person and not at all crazy and unreasonable like he said she was. I know I shouldn't see him again but we have some unfinished business (the baby) so I don't know what to do. Help me, please?"

MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED: Include this man OUT of your plans, and complete your "unfinished business" through a lawyer. If you can't afford one, see your Legal Aid Society.

"DEAR ABBY: To the party who wanted to know how to keep the cat from chewing up the furniture: Any pet shop will sell you a 'clawing board,' which is just a board about two feet tall with a piece of carpet tacked onto it. It has catnip inside to attract the cat. When the cat claws the furniture, take her to the board with a sharp command and show her what it is for."

CAT'S FRIEND

CONFIDENTIAL TO CHUBBY: He who indulges-bulges!

Two Families No Trick for Jane Wyatt

By DOROTHY ROE

AP Women's Editor

Most women have trouble raising one family, but unruffled Jane Wyatt, of New York and Hollywood, manages two with the greatest of ease.

"It's confusing only to the public," says the youthful-looking, blue-eyed Jane, who plays the mother in the TV series "Father Knows Best." In private life she is the wife of investment banker Edgar B. Ward and mother of two sons, Chris, 21, a student at MIT, and Michael, 15, who attends prep school in Rhode Island.

For five years Jane's screen husband has been Robert Young, and the other members of the TV Anderson family have been her three make-believe children: Betty, the college daughter, played by Elinor Donahue; Bud, the high school son, played by Billy Gray; and little Kathy, played by Lauren Chapin.

GROWS WITH THEM

"We've had the same children in the cast from the beginning," says Jane, "and of course all three are five years older now. We planned it that way. If the series goes on and on, as seems likely, we can start having grandchildren

Watch Your Waistline

As summer activities are replaced with a fast setting fall pace we will still find it necessary to watch our waistline as well as the scales!

This is true because summer fun was apt to give us more exercise, swimming, golfing, walking, etc. Fall activities tend to activate our minds but slow down our body. Sit-down bridge games, committee and club meetings... all followed by delicious dessert!

Watch first our muscles that are no longer kept firm by outside exercise and then the scale for creeping pounds.

Responsibility Comes From Inside Child

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Ben wouldn't put his toys away at night.

His mother did everything she could think of to make him more responsible. Twenty minutes before his bedtime, she'd remind him of his approach and tell him to take his paint glass out to the kitchen. Ben's response would be to sprawl out more comfortably on the living room floor — and start another picture in his coloring book.

Then his mother would say, "Did you hear me, Ben? You don't want to leave your coloring things all over the floor like a baby, do you? Come on, now — let Mother help you get these paint tubes back in their box..."

It didn't work.

One evening when Ben's mother was anxiously exhorting him to put his train away, his father exploded. "Stop it, Grace!" he shouted. "That train isn't yours, it's Ben's. If he wants to leave its tracks all over the floor for the rest of us to walk on, that's his hard luck. Let him take it!"

WORRIED

Defiantly Ben left them all over the floor. But upstairs in his bedroom he couldn't sleep. He got so worried about his tracks exposed to the stomping of his family's feet that he reappeared in his pajamas an hour later to secure the safety of his property.

No parent can make his child responsible. Responsibility is something that happens inside of us and cannot be imposed from outside.

When we anxiously urge Ben to put his train away, we are taking responsibility from him. He likes nothing better than to get us to assume his worry for the safety of his belongings. He has a fine time pretending to be absorbed in his new picture and train caboose while we stupid adults experience all the worry over the safety of his possessions that he should be feeling himself.

His father got results because he refused to feel concern for Ben's train tracks — and left the boy alone to develop concern of his own.

Responsibility toward things develops in children as they begin to realize their own investment in protecting the things. The trouble is, we are so interested in our own investment in the things that we don't give them a chance to realize theirs.

Other elementary librarians participating are Evelyn Davis, Lulu McGregor and Doris Haynes.

Following the program, a tour was conducted of display booths set up by Longfellow teachers, Isabelle Spring and Ilga Almas head the committee.

Correct jewelry rounds out the well dressed man's ensemble. This Fall's selections include both medium and small pieces in cuff links and tie bars crafted of silver and gold colored metals.

Elegantly new for fall is this slim lined satin evening dress with tapered fullness at the back. Notice, too, the detail of the bow accenting the Empire waistline.

Vertical Exercises

Space Needn't Cramp Your Style

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

In the past the large family house was common. It was no trouble at all for a woman to find a large enough area in which to do her figure-molding exercises without skimming her ankle or bumping her head on a nearby divan, chair or chest. The trend today is away from the large house, and some of the exercises which are taken lying down do require quite a number of square feet.

I continue to receive many letters asking for exercises which can be done in a small space. Today I will give you some of the most effective ones.

Jo Ann Geitz, John R. Goggin Speak Vows

A floor-length ivory silk taffeta gown was worn by Jo Ann Luane Geitz for her marriage to John R. Goggin of Birmingham at St. Hugo of the Hills Church Saturday.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. D'Onofrio of Bloomfield Hills, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Edward J. Goggin of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Alencon lace appliques accentuated the scoop neckline of the bodice, tapered sleeves and skirt of the bride's gown, which also featured a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was caught by a crown of smocking Alencon lace and seed pearls. White roses comprised the bouquet.

Darlene Dunker was maid of honor, and Beverly Watson was bridesmaid.

Best man was John Tarkington. Ushers were David Kennedy and Edward Goggin Jr.

A breakfast held at Rotunda Inn followed the ceremony.

The bride selected a black and white tuxedo suit with black accessories for a trip to Boca Raton, Fla.

The couple will reside in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Easiest sewing—two main pattern parts! Smartest styling—shaped to narrow the shorter, fuller figure. Note flattery of diagonal V-neck. Choose fall cotton, shadowy black crepe, wool.

Printed Pattern 4850: Half sizes 14½, 16½, 18½, 20½, 22½, 24½. Size 16½ takes 4¼ yards 35-inch fabric.

Printed directions on each pattern part. Easier, accurate.

Send 35 cents in coins for this pattern—add 10 cents for each pattern if you wish 1st-class mail. Send to Anne Adams, care of The Pontiac Press, 137 Pattern Dept., 243 West 17th St., New York 11, N.Y. Print plainly name, address with zone, size and style number.

FOR ABDOMEN

2. The following is an abdominal exercise, which can be taken standing up. Place your hands on your hips, bend the left knee up in front of you until the upper leg is at right angles to the body and the lower leg is at right angles to the upper leg. Return to starting position. Then lift the right leg up in the same way. Return to starting position. Continue, alternating left and right.

3. Now let us get down on our knees. This is an excellent waist-slimming exercise. We are now kneeling on both knees. Raise trunk to the left as you push the hips out to the right and sit on the heels. Straighten the trunk and stretch upward, lifting the hips from the heels. Now bend to the right, pushing the hips out to the left and sitting on the heels. Return to former position and continue, alternating.

The important thing to remember about this exercise, if it is to be effective, is to keep the arms close to the head and bend from the waist. Often beginners simply move the arms to the left or right rather than bend the trunk.

4. For the hips: Stand with the left side toward the wall, the left hand on the wall. Raise the right leg forward-upward as high as possible—until you feel the pull in the hipline. Return to place. Continue. After a while turn the right side to the wall and do the same thing with the left leg. This is also a good abdominal exercise.

If you would like to have my leaflet on "Exercises for Small Space" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 30 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper. Tomorrow: "You Can Avoid Excessive Vitamin Losses in Foods."

The trapeze shape is even showing up in the younger set's fashions this fall. This young lady is modeling a corduroy trapeze-shaped jumper accented with a lace-edged blouse. The swinging skirt is easy to play in too.

Grandma Didn't Fuss About Any Calories

By RUTH MILLETT

Let's face it. Cooking just isn't the fun it was in great-grandmother's day.

When great-grandmother held forth in the kitchen, winning her reputation as a cook whose flaky-crustured pies, five-layer cakes and homemade bread would melt in your month, food only had to meet one requirement—one helping had to make you want a second.

Never mind that great-grandmother used butter and thick cream with a lavish hand. When her family and friends got a whiff of the

He said that an unidentified man food she was about to serve them they were ready to sit down and unselfishly eat everything in sight.

When they finished they weren't reproachful for being tempted into eating all that rich, fattening food. They were content and happy, ready to sing great-grandmother's praises as a natural-born cook.

It's not like that any more in the American home.

Sis is so diet-conscious she picks at her food.

Junior has been taught at school that rich desserts are to be shunned by the adolescent who doesn't want bumps on his face.

Papa is so concerned with staying fit he doesn't want to be tempted by creamy mashed potatoes and rich gravies. Just broil his lean meat and give him a salad if you don't want reproachful looks from him.

As for Mama, even if the rest of the family weren't so calorie-conscious, how could she enjoy cooking the kind of meals that would just put on more weight for her to take off at her reducing salon?

So Mama is bored with cooking. Being a calorie-counting cook doesn't offer any challenge or any rich rewards in praise.

We may all be better off for our calorie-counting—but it certainly has taken the satisfaction out of standing over a hot stove.

Early records show the price of gasoline before 1900 was often less than one cent per gallon in the United States.

Rid Home of Chaos in Closet

Is your closet afflicted with 'continuous chaos'?

Here are tips on how to get rid of the disease:

Shed some light on the subject with a ceiling fixture, nearby fixed light source, or—if necessary—a handy flashlight.

Let fresh air in at regular intervals.

Notch the clothes bar so hangers will be spaced wide enough apart to keep clothes from touching.

Install a shoe rack to the back of the closet door.

For heavy coats, use wooden hangers or tape several wire hangers together to increase their strength.

For storage of clothes out of season, use a zippered garment bag.

For moth protection, hang a strip of tape in the closet with moth balls stuck to the gummy side. This will make it easy to tell when they need to be replaced.

To keep ties on a door-mounted rack from swinging wildly every time door is moved, tack rubber band across door about a foot below rack. With ties behind band, they can't swing.

Pontiac City Affairs

Consider New Campaign to Help Ailing Bus Lines

A new campaign to help financially shaky public bus lines was eyed last night by the city commission, but a decision on the line of attack the city will take was put off.

At stake is the accomplishment of legislation in Lansing that will bolster the finances of ailing bus companies, such as Pontiac City Lines, Inc.

Commissioners decided to wait awhile before deciding what type legislation to back. If the Michigan Municipal League takes a stand on the problem at its meeting in Detroit tomorrow, Pontiac may want to throw its support in that direction, City Manager Walter K. Willman said.

At issue is whether state tax relief for bus companies should go hand in hand with municipal leasing agreements.

The Michigan Motor Bus Assn. has asked the city to support tax relief without leasing agreements. Pontiac City Lines belongs to the association.

Whatever stand the city finally takes, in the background lies the fact that relief legislation floundered this spring on the question of leasing agreements.

Commissioners, in other business, held public hearings in which three street name changes won approval. To be changed are Lakeside drive and Lake avenue. They will be called S. Merrimac street.

Another proposed change was referred back to the Planning Commission for more study. Residents of Maines street between N. East boulevard and Astor street said they had wanted the name changed to Craven street, but the plan commission had recommended the name Riverside, which they don't like.

Two hearings on other proposed changes were scheduled for Oct. 28. One covers rezoning of three vacant lots on the northeast corner of South boulevard at Motor street from residential 1 to personal service. The owner, Dr. Roy V. Cooley Jr., said he wants to build a clinic there.

The other is on a proposal to vacate the alley running from Sanford to Ardmore streets between Pike and Lois streets.

Scheduled for hearings next Tuesday are cost estimates on two proposed winter projects. They cover combined sewers on both sides of E. Walton boulevard from Baldwin to the Pontiac, Oxford & Northern Railroad; assessed cost, $12,564; city cost, $8,540; cost for a 40 by 120 foot lot, $288; and extension of the Featherstone road water main from Kenilworth road to the Jordan road line; assessed cost, $816; city cost, $1,019; cost per front foot, $2.25.

Following Planning Commission recommendations, commissioners turned down requests to rezone the lot at 368 W. Huron St. from personal service to commercial 1 and the lot at the southeast corner of Mt. Clemens and Maxwell streets from residential to commercial 1.

The first request was refused on grounds that there was no provision for an alleyway, the second because of the city's policy that frowns on spot commercial zoning.

Are 'Private Schools' Legal?

To Test Segregation Move

By The Associated Press
Southern plans to maintain segregation by changing public schools to private status face an early test in federal court.

The Little Rock School Board asked U.S. District Court yesterday to say whether the board can legally permit a corporation to lease four high school buildings in the Arkansas capital.

A segregationist spokesman criticized the move as unnecessary. Amis Guthridge, a Little Rock Citizens Council leader, also said the board "is more interested in seeing the mixing of the races in our schools than seeing them operate."

The board asked the court for a quick answer. It said it is willing to lease the school buildings if the court will insure the board against contempt action.

Several Southern states besides Arkansas have private school plans as anti-integration weapons.

FACE SHUTDOWN

Six white secondary schools in Norfolk, Va., faced a gubernatorial shutdown order in the wake of a federal judge's refusal yesterday to permit any further delay in their integration.

Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. said he would probably order them closed after conferring with Norfolk city officials. About 10,000 students would be affected, more than three times the enrollment at Front Royal and Charlottesville, where the governor has closed three schools under Virginia's massive resistance laws.

The Little Rock School Board action could delay plans of Gov. Orval E. Faubus to reopen the four high schools next week on a private, segregated basis.

Citizens of the Little Rock school district will vote Saturday on whether they want segregated or integrated schools, and Faubus has predicted an overwhelming vote for segregation.

Little Rock's three television stations are providing six hours of daily instruction by the regular teachers. First classes went on the air Monday.

At Van Buren, Ark., twin white boys were suspended yesterday from the integrated high school. A school official said they refused to leave the school yard and return to classes after a reported spitting incident involving a Negro student. One of the twins said the Negro spat in his face. The Negro denied it.

The South's first private school system opens today for white pupils locked out of public schools in the integration battle at Charlottesville, Va.

About 240 pupils of Venable Elementary School, shut down by Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. when a federal judge ordered 10 Negroes admitted, were expected to show up for make-shift classes.

Assigned to instruct them were 15 regular teachers from Venable. But their quarters little resembled school rooms. They were hastily-chosen freshly-painted recreation rooms and basements in 15 private homes scattered throughout this university city of 27,000.

Reporter Recalls 'Healthy' Ike's Heart Attack 3 Years Ago Today

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON (AP) — The big garrison flag wasn't flying that gloomy Saturday morning three years ago today. We didn't know it then but it meant President Eisenhower had suffered a heart attack.

Today, his 68th birthday less than a month away, the President is ruddy and apparently much refreshed after 3½ weeks of a lot of golf by the windwept sea at Newport, R.I.

Today most folks never would guess just by looking at Eisenhower that since the heart seizure in Denver exactly three years ago he also had brushed close to death with leitis in June 1956.

They wouldn't guess, either, that last November he was hit by a slight stroke which affected his speech for a while.

But if you are a reporter who has covered Eisenhower's activities since he was nominated for the presidency in July 1952, then you know that this man's appearance means little—indeed, it can be most deceiving—so far as the state of his health is concerned. Take, for example, that Saturday morning in Denver—Sept. 24, 1955—when the big garrison flag wasn't flying in front of the President's vacation office at Lowry Air Force Base.

To sleepy-eyed newsmen arriving at the base at 7:30 a.m. from a downtown hotel, that at the moment was good news. It meant they were on hand ahead of the early-rising Eisenhower—and that takes some doing—to see him arrive from the Lafayette Street home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. John S. Doud.

A medium-size American flag fluttered from the staff in the murky early autumn weather. But a much larger garrison banner always was run up in its place the minute the President arrived, and it had not been hoisted yet.

Time passed, and still no word the President was on his way.

The newsmen pondered the possibilities, but the delay wasn't disturbing. Apparently the President, for once, was coming to the office a bit later. Or maybe he had decided to skip the office and go directly to the golf course.

Not until mid-afternoon did they learn the real reason the garrison flag wasn't run up.

No thought the President might be ill crossed the minds of the waiting newsmen. And there was good reason for that.

The day before, Eisenhower had returned to Denver after several days of trout fishing high in the Rocky Mountains at Fraser, Colo. He had looked wonderful.

He had stopped by the office President himself a few weeks earlier after his annual physical checkup.

"But in the night all that had changed. He had suffered what the doctors later diagnosed as a moderate heart attack.

It would put him in the hospital for seven weeks. It would keep him away from his White House desk 3½ months. It would curtail his activities to some extent the rest of his life.

But it would not keep him from running for re-election—something that seemed incredible that day three years ago—and winning.

Ills Diagnosed Via Telephone

New Method Can Take Specialists' Training to Country Patients

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer
BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Navy researchers today envisioned a time when country doctors can have big-city specialists diagnose their patients' ailments by flanking the patient's body to a long distance telephone line.

The first demonstration of such a technique was made yesterday in a telephone transmission from the naval hospital at Bethesda to Kansas City, Mo., 1,000 miles away.

Doctors attending a Kansas City convention successfully diagnosed—sight unseen two heart cases, and another involving bad kidneys.

The far-away doctors got their information from electronic signals transmitted over the telephone line, after being picked up by special apparatus attached to the patient. A brief history of the patients' symptoms was also transmitted vocally by Navy Lt. John D. Kern, a member of the cardiology section at Bethesda.

Each remote-control diagnosis took only about 10 minutes.

The special equipment was developed by Capt. Norman L. Barr, director of aviation medicine research for the Navy. It is designed to pick up for teletimed transmission a patient's electrocardiogram, pulse, respiratory rate, respiratory volume and breath sounds.

Kern said radio could be employed instead of telephone wires to transmit the physiological information.

"Why, just the other day," added a technician, "we received a radio transmission from Naples, Italy, here in Bethesda, using similar equipment."

The same set-up could be used, said Kern, in transmitting physiological data from an animal or human in a satellite or space ship.

Cites Nudist Ruling as Constitutional

LANSING (UPI) — The Michigan Supreme Court's widely-heralded decision reversing an indecent exposure charge against four nudists was an application of a principle of the Bill of Rights, Justice George Edwards said yesterday.

"After all the hullabaloo, (the decision) stands only for the simple legal principle that a conviction based upon an unconstitutional search and seizure must fall," Edwards told Ingham County Democrats.

The Sept. 9 decision got widespread attention because of the literary touch provided by Justice John D. Voelker, a best-selling author, who said police treated the nudists like "plucked chickens."

Edwards said the decision was one of several in the past several years that reflected significant legal interpretations.

"In short," Edwards said, "this court has made the 20th century welcome in Michigan courtrooms."

Alf Landon Returns to Political Arena

JUNCTION CITY, Kan. (UPI) — Crusty-voiced Alf Landon took to the stump yesterday for the first time since he was defeated as Republican candidate for president in 1936.

Landon, now 71, made the first of six scheduled speeches in opposition to proposed constitutional amendments in Kansas to be voted on Nov. 4.

Landon said he was paying his own expenses and nobody asked him to make the tour.

Said the two-time former governor, "It's just because of my deep seated convictions on the issues. My wife thinks I'm foolish to do it at my age."

Landon lives in Topeka, Kan., where he owns a radio station and has interests in oil production. He retired from active politics after his 1936 defeat.

Issuing Last Call for CD Trainees in Waterford

A "last call" has been issued for trainees in Waterford Township's Medical Auxiliary classes for Civil Defense, being held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays in the John D. Pierce School on Hatchery Rd.

Interested residents who are unable to attend the Wednesday classes, which will continue through Dec. 10, may enroll in similar classes in Lake Orion or Pontiac, according to assistant director Lloyd Gidley.

So far, more than 400 Waterford Township people have completed training courses in various phases of Civil Defense, Gidley said. However, many more are needed should disaster strike the Pontiac area, he added.

He explained that other classes are being organized in Welfare care, to help feed the hungry, shelter the homeless and reunite families who may become separated.

Mrs. F. E. Green and Mrs. Alex Kuzak are co-directors.

A class of auxiliary firemen is now training, and another class is in the process of organizing to begin in October under the leadership of retired assistant chief of the Pontiac Fire Department, Max Wells.

Three Civil Defense Auxiliary police courses have been completed and another one will be started in October. Enrollees have been asked to register with Eldean Chew.

New Archbishop Named by Pope

Selects Successor to Late Cardinal Stritch in Chicago Archdiocese

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pope Pius XII today named Archbishop Albert G. Meyer of Milwaukee to succeed the late Samuel Cardinal Stritch as archbishop of Chicago.

The Chicago archdiocese, with 1,942,000 Catholics, is the largest of the 138 archdioceses and dioceses in the United States.

Announcement of the appointment was made by Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States.

Archbishop Meyer, a native of Milwaukee, is 53.

He attended St. Francis Seminary in Wisconsin, of which he later became rector; and the North American College in Rome. He was ordained in Rome in 1926.

After serving as curate at St. Joseph's church in Waukegan, Wis., he was appointed to the faculty of St. Francis Seminary in 1931 and became its rector in 1937.

Pope Pius named him bishop of Superior, Wis., in 1946. In 1953, Bishop Meyer was transferred to Milwaukee and elevated to archbishop.

Peiping Cancels Japan's Trade

Voids Business Plans, Right to Fish in Waters Along China Coast

TOKYO (UPI) — The freeze is on between Japan and Communist China. How long it may last no one knows, but before it is over, some Japanese are apt to wind up in Communist jails.

It was a freeze of China's making, set off when Japan, which has no diplomatic relations with the Communist regime, refused to allow a Red trade mission in Japan the "right" to fly its national flag.

First came suspension of trade talks between China and private Japanese firms. Plans for trade fairs were abandoned, commercial contracts cancelled, entertainment troupes called home by the Reds.

Then came the clincher. For the past three years, Japan and Red China had a fishery agreement. Among other things, it gave Japanese the right to fish in certain waters adjacent to the Red mainland and to seek refuge in Chinese ports in event of emergencies.

NO EXTENSION
The agreement expired June 12, and the Red Chinese fishery commission notified Japan it would not be extended. The Chinese warned that they would not be "duty bound" by any past agreements.

That means that Japanese fishermen can be restricted from waters ranging from the mouth of the Yalu River in the Yellow Sea south to the Tai Shan Islands north of Taiwan. In 1956, Japanese trawlers took 280,000 tons of fish from that area and dragnet boats took 21,976 tons.

The Japanese, with their fishing grounds already restricted by Korea and Russia, are certain to gamble and keep on fishing in the area, and chances are good that Chinese patrol boats will capture some.

The Reds may have tipped their hand in May when, just prior to Japanese general elections, they captured several Japanese boats and accused them of ramming Red and Chinese boats, cutting Chinese nets and other interference.

In the weeks preceding Japan's elections, there was a flood of anti-Japanese material from Red Chinese propaganda outlets hitting the person and government of Premier Nobusuke Kishi.

POLICY CHANGE?
It was seen by some Japanese experts on Japan-China affairs as an attempt to influence the election in favor of the leftist-leaning opposition Socialist party. But Kishi's conservative Liberal-Democratic party ended with a strong majority in the House of Representatives.

Some observers feel the situation is not merely the result of incidents, however, but represents a deliberate change in Communist policy toward Japan. The Chinese thinking now, according to this line of reasoning, is: "we can get along without Japan. Japan doesn't matter."

Quinine was the first important drug found to be effective against malaria, once one of the world's great scourges.

STOP LEAKS in basement walls

AT ONCE

DIKE is the hydraulic cement that waterproofing contractors and public utilities use to seal holes and cracks in masonry walls. It will give YOU the same speedy, effective protection. Simply mix DIKE with water to form a putty-like paste, and plug it into leaking cracks, brick or concrete basement walls. This makes a firm barrier that holds back even heavy water pressure AT ONCE. Follow with PEERLESS CEMENT PAINT for additional protection and beauty.

Autumn Breathes New Life Into Big City

By PHYLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — The first days of autumn—like the first days of spring, love, a new job, a new house—are always the finest. A freshness comes up from the ground to push away the tired dampness of summer, and a spicy wind razors out of the north to breathe life into last week's laziness.

PLAYFUL SERPENT — This 10-foot high serpent in Munich, Germany, seems to be playfully squirting water over the two boys as they play in a fountain in front of the veterinary building of the University of Munich. The snake is a symbol of the medical building.

Autumn is the time when nothing seems impossible and success is up for grabs. The morning air injects strength into the muscles and blows cobwebs from the mind.

It seems feasible, in the autumn, to ask for a raise, to build a home, to be the most glamorous woman in town after one brisk shopping episode.

And if none of these sparkling ambitions come to pass, the disappointment fades more quickly than in other seasons; for nature has fashioned fall evenings for crackling and singing and elder-swinging noises that must be enjoyed right now, this moment, and tomorrow's vague fancies will take care of themselves.

A fantastic season: Renewed, churning life in the day, and deep, warm comfort at night, under a moon so clean and orange that it shames the pallid white summer moon that only children in love could make a case for.

For some nostalgic elderlies, and middle-aged halfbacks, autumn is a sad time. Seeing the fiery leaves, they claim to observe the corpse of a year's foliage. Feeling the cool new air that brushes the tan from their faces, they say they can already smell snow. Show them a chrysanthemum, the eternal romantic symbol of autumn, and the expression is that of one ready to be shoved into the earth. . . . It is autumn, and he is too old to play football. Autumn, and she is too old for hayrides. It isn't nature dying, it is they.

I am prejudiced, but I think New York City is the finest of all the fine places for an autumnal rejuvenation. Here, there are not so many bonfires or jeweled trees; you sometimes must use a periscope to find above the towers, the orange globe in the sky. The air's freshness is dulled by carbon monoxide, and to rustle your feet through leaves in the gutter you must be out early, before the city sweepers have made away with the pitifully few pastoral touches left by trees.

But the city doesn't need nature's fireworks to celebrate autumn. It has its own.

The great crowds, which withered through the streets all summer, now become a wriggling mass, suddenly revived and beautiful—if you don't look too closely at each face—with colorful clothes that compete magnificently with the maples of other towns.

Times Square, and the sparkling byways of the theater district on all sides of it, light up their mar-quees for a new theater season. The silver minks and the scarlet moles have come out of stores and storage to add gaiety to Park Avenue and the shop windows on Fifth Avenue are festooned with paper mache foliage dotted with rhinestones to simulate rain—showing what nature could do, as they say, if it had money.

But most of all, autumn in New York is in the spirit. Here, in the most ambitious and competitive city in the world, ambitions and competitions wake up from the summer and become razor sharp. Business and people bristle with activity, and are happy. Because this is what they came to New York for.

There is no pausing for childish nostalgia in autumn.

The lights are on and the year has begun fresh and you live for today—lest, in New York, you be as dead-as last summer.

Little Boy Cries as Neighbors Pray for Him

By ROBERT MARKOWITZ

BOSTON, Mass. (AP) — What went on in the mind of 10-year-old Richard Garvin during those few minutes he clung to the phone became evident when the tears broke from his eyes.

He sat in his green and white striped pajamas. His parents were kneeling beside him, at the Children's Medical Center here, some 300 miles from his home town of Wagener, S.C. He listened while 600 people at the other end of the line in Wagener prayed for him to get well.

Richard is suffering from a condition which is causing both his liver and spleen to enlarge. Doctors are now trying to determine why.

The people of Wagener gathered once before when Mr. and Mrs. Fern Garvin were sacrificing everything they owned to pay for their son's medical expenses. Some $3,100 was collected that time.

Last night the townsfolk added another $700. A special benefit show was held in Richard's honor—with a ten-minute telephone call to him as the high point. The call was piped in over a loudspeaker for all at the South Carolina end to hear.

Two ministers spoke to Richard, telling him that everyone at his home was there praying for him. George Peters at St. Petersburg, Fla., sang "I Walk with God." Richard sat motionless and looked at his parents.

When a nurse walked by and asked him what was happening at the other end of the phone, he said, "They're singing to me." Richard was asked if there was anything he would like to say to them.

"Yes, I would," he said, his milk-white skin pale even against the whiteness of his eyes. "I would like to thank you all for everything you all done for me."

"I would like to thank you all," he repeated. "I appreciate it. And I do hope I can get better." And on those words the tears streamed from his eyes.

Hoffa Denies Plans for National Union

CHICAGO (UPI) — Teamster President James R. Hoffa denied yesterday he plans to organize a nationwide union of transportation workers on grounds "it would be bad for organized labor and the country."

He said, however, that formation of a council made up of representatives from unions "closely related to transportation" was given serious thought and would be decided at a New York meeting within the next few months.

Everybody Stops Doing It

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — At times, the playground of Park Road Elementary School here looked like a halftime show. Everybody had a hula hoop, practically. After awhile it got confusing about which hula hoop was whose. Now the hoops are banned at the school. Officials say none of the 500 pupils seems to object.

U.S. Nears Climax in Warsaw Talks

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Indications mounted here today that the Far East cease-fire talks between the United States and Communist China are rapidly approaching a climax.

U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam studied new instructions for his fourth conference tomorrow with Red China's Wang Ping-nan.

Informed sources said this meeting was likely to be the definitive one—either way or another—because President Eisenhower plans to issue a formal Far East policy statement in Washington Friday.

To Discuss MSUO Plans at Dinner-Meeting Here

Durward B. Votner, vice president of Michigan State University, will discuss "MSUO, Plans and Progress" tonight when he speaks at the annual meeting of the Advisory Council for the Marketing Information Program for Consumers.

The dinner meeting, held at the All Saints Episcopal Church, will include an election of officers for the 1958-59 year, according to Josephine H. Lawyer, county extension agent.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The world's largest umbrella-shaped, steel-ribbed roof — almost as big as Yankee Stadium — will shelter travelers in the new Pan American World Airways terminal to be completed this year at New York's International Airport. The four-acre roof will be supported by 32 rib girders that will radiate from the center core of the $8,000,000 structure. The girders, the longest of which is 224 feet, will weigh around 75 tons each.

SAILING INTO LONDON — The three-masted, square-rigged Norwegian training ship Christian Radich sails slowly up the received basic training at San Diego, Calif.

Former Pontiac resident Pfc. Harold L. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson of Atlanta, has re-enlisted in the U.S. Marines for four years. Pfc. Killed by Backing Truck OSCODA — Harold P. Bradley, 53, of Alpena, a civilian worker, was killed at Wurtsmith Air Force Base when struck by a backing truck Monday.

Witnesses said Brady, foreman of a construction crew, walked into the rear of the truck with his head bowed while lighting a cigarette.

Probe Gun Blasts Into Negroes' Room

WILMORE, Ky. (AP) — Police today were investigating shotgun blasts which shattered a window and peppered a door of a building housing Asbury Theological Seminary's first Negro students. No one was injured.

The unidentified gunman fired five times, apparently from a passing automobile about 3 a.m. yesterday.

W. D. Turkington, the school's dean, declined to comment on the incident. He said state police told him not to discuss the matter.

The Methodist-supported school in central Kentucky approved integration several years ago but this was the first year any Negroes enrolled.

The Negroes said they recently were chased home from a soft drink stand. Later two white men reportedly stood outside the dormitory and shouted for them to come out. They refused. The whites left.

2 Newspapers Banned

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Army authorities have banned two daily newspapers in Makassar, capital of south Celebes, for publishing articles alleged to be detrimental to Indonesia's interests. The newspapers were Bara and Tjahaja Timur.

Dispute Over Crew of Jets Has Airlines in Union Battle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The "Third Man Theme" is plaguing the airlines as they prepare to roar into the commercial jet age.

The problem: Should the third crew member in jetliner cockpits be a specialized flight engineer or an engineer who also is qualified pilot?

The airlines are caught smack in the middle of a bitter battle between two labor unions—the Airline Pilots Association (ALPA), representing the captains and co-pilots, and the Flight Engineers International Association (FEIA), representing the specialists who handle the complicated fuel, power and ignition settings on airliners.

Both unions are busy negotiating jet-age contracts with airlines planning to operate jet equipment. The pilots are demanding that the third flight crew member be a qualified pilot as well as an engineer. The engineers claim this is feather-bedding and an ALPA attempt to absorb FEIA into the pilots' union. (This is a point readily conceded by ALPA, which contends that flight crews should belong to the same union.)

THEIR ARGUMENTS:

Pilots—the faster speeds and higher altitudes of the jets demand greater crew coordination than in piston aircraft. Such coordination can be achieved only if the third member is a qualified pilot. Also, the average age of pilots is increasing, leaving them more prone to incapacitation from such menaces as heart attacks; a qualified third pilot is a needed safety factor.

There is less need for flight engineers on jets because the engines and instruments are simpler. And when the flight engineers contend that theirs is a separate craft or occupation, they are challenging the legal and traditional authority of the pilot in command.

Flight engineers — Because jet fuel consumption is so great, requiring meticulous planning and monitoring, the flight engineer is needed as much in jets as in piston aircraft.

A flight engineer also is trained in preventive maintenance and such training is not possible if a man also must qualify as a pilot. The jets are specialized aircraft demanding the specialized services of a trained flight engineer.

NO OFFICIAL STAND

The airlines themselves have taken no official stand on the dispute. Some have signed contracts providing that a flight engineer be the third flight crew member. But others are busy training their engineers to be pilots. In every case, their decision is being challenged by either pilot-engineers as the "third man," American, TWA, Pan American and Eastern require flight engineers. United and Continental are converting to pilot-engineers.

There have been two government decisions in the dispute:

A special presidential emergency board, convened to settle a jurisdictional dispute between Eastern's pilots and engineers, decided in favor of the pilots.

Another emergency board, trying to settle a similar fight involving TWA crews issued a recommendation that both unions claimed as a victory. The board said TWA's "third men" should be engineers for the present, but added that possible new government regulations concerning engineer qualifications might result in the engineers having to take pilot training.

English Athlete Plans to Follow Eton Tradition

ETON, England (AP) — Thirteen-year-old Arthur Charles Vallerian Wellesley is a good athlete and a family traditionalist.

He entered Eton College yesterday, just as the males of his family have done for generations. Among the first things he looked over were the playing fields.

Young Wellesley's great, great, great grandfather was the Duke of Wellington, who whipped Napoleon and said, "The Battle of Waterloo was won on the playing field of Eton."

The human skin is subject to more than 2,100 diseases.

Free Polio Shots for Youngsters

Clinic Will Be Set Up for Next Week in Two School Districts

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — A free polio clinic, sponsored by the Pontiac Township Business Men's Assn. and the Pontiac Township Volunteer Firemen's Assn., station 2, will be held next week for all pre-school and elementary school children in the Will Rogers and Willis School districts.

Tomorrow morning is the deadline to return all waiver forms to these two schools so that sufficient vaccine can be ordered for next week's clinic.

Parents of pre-school children may pick up these waivers at the Arnold Pharmacy 2026 N. Opdyke Rd. or the Opdyke Market, 2485 N. Opdyke Rd., and then return them there by tomorrow morning.

The clinic will be held Oct. 2 from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Pontiac Township Hall. Children must be accompanied by their parents to receive the shots.

It is the plan of the two associations who are providing this community service to take these children through a series of three shots, the second in a month and the third in June of 1959. According to plans, the second and third shots also will be free but, in case the response is too great, the last two shots will be given at a charge not to exceed 50 cents each.

Dr. Floyd Klouw and Dr. Walter Haduck will supervise the clinic and registered nurses Adelaide Harrison, Norma Rockwell, Elaine Boldizar and Beth Butler will assist, all free of charge.

The Parke Davis serum will be furnished, at cost, to the sponsors by the Arnold Pharmacy. The needles and syringes will be furnished by the National Foundation. Parents may call FE 5-5766 for further information.

Higgins Backs Hudson in Bid

Denies Bolting GOP; News Taken Lightly by Broomfield

George N. Higgins, former Republican state representative and senator, confirmed reports today that he would support Democrat Leslie H. Hudson in his bid for Congress, but denied he had bolted the Republican party.

Higgins' decision to support Hudson stirred many comments at a meeting of Oakland County party leaders last night.

William S. Broomfield, incumbent congressman who Hudson opposes, took the news lightly saying, "If George feels my opponent is a better man for the job he has that right to support him."

Broomfield beat Higgins, 58, Ferndale auto dealer, by 1,482 votes for the 1956 primary nomination which led to Broomfield's election to the U. S. House of Representatives that year.

When reached by this morning, Higgins said his endorsement of Hudson did not stem from what party leaders considered a major upset.

He said he switched to Hudson because Broomfield "didn't keep his word" back in 1954 when Higgins said he had an agreement with Broomfield that he would try for former Congressman George A. Dondero's seat and that Broomfield would seek another term in the State Senate.

Broomfield, out campaigning in his mobile trailer office, could not be reached to comment on Higgins' statement.

City Buys 7th Home for Parking Space

City Commissioners last night picked up a $17,500 option on property sought for a Pontiac General Hospital parking lot, bringing purchase of needed land near completion.

The latest acquisition is a three-family home at S. Johnson Ave., owned by Mrs. Louise C. Zimmerman.

Its purchase means the city has now bought seven of the ten homes it wants to remove to make room for a $200,000, 214-stall lot. Three of the homes were purchased from private owners and three from the hospital.

Although progress towards the lot is being made, City Manager Walter K. Willman said that it will be finished and parking meters installed until springtime. He hoped that the land will be cleared and usable for limited parking this winter.

Difficulties in arriving at a purchase price with the private owners have caused the delay, Willman said.

Whether Pontiac will adopt the new state school bus law may be decided at a meeting of city, school and police officials.

City Commissioners called for such a meeting last night, after the advisability of adopting the law locally was questioned.

City Attorney William A. Ewart said it might do more harm than good.

"It is questionable how many stops school buses make on Pontiac streets," Ewart said, "and at the same time it might be dangerous to require our heavy traffic to halt every time a school bus stops."

Taking a neutral position, Ewart said that it might be favorable to incorporate the law here for the sake of uniformity.

The new law is mandatory in unincorporated areas, but not in villages or cities such as Pontiac. However, villages and cities are permitted to adopt its regulations if they want to.

Pontiac has not done this, nor did it adopt the provisions of the old law, which was replaced when the new one went into effect this month.

The old law required motorists following buses to halt whenever the bus halted to discharge or take on passengers. The new law says that drivers approaching a halted school bus also have to stop until the children have safely crossed the street.

United States marshals appeared at Stangland's farm yesterday afternoon and carted away the tractor as a penalty for the farmer's overproduction of wheat in 1954.

Stangland owes the government about $600, including interest, for producing 30 acres of wheat when his quota was 14 acres.

Stangland, 54, said he intended to fight the seizure. His attorney, Clifford E. Simon Jr., Fort Wayne, said he would file a motion to quash the seizure of the tractor.

Federal authorities seized two of Stangland's tractors once before to satisfy the penalty, but the government was forced to give them back because of an irregularity in the writ of execution.

Stangland said the marshals failed in an attempt to store his tractor at nearby Merriam.

"I think that showed a lack of intelligence when they tried to get my neighbors to do that," Stangland said. He said his neighbors "have all been on my side through the whole thing."

Bride and Groom Repeat Vows in White Lake Rite

MILFORD — White Lake Presbyterian Church was the scene Saturday evening of the marriage of Constance Beverly Himes to Jack D. Brasher.

The reception was held at White Lake Township Hall.

Following their honeymoon in Pennsylvania, the new Mr. and Mrs. Brasher will make their home in Holly.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Himes of 450 Elkford Dr., Milford, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. John W. Brasher of 12065 Dixie Hwy., Holly.

Her fingertip veil with lace appliques fell from a Juliet cap. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations, stephanotis and ivy.

Maid of honor was Maxine Buchanan of Milford and bridesmaids were Miss Jerry Blumenschen of Holly, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Gary Himes of Orchard Lake, sister-in-law of the bride.

One of the highlights of the convention will be talks Friday noon on financing local government by Gov. G. Mennen Williams and his Republican opponent for governor, Paul D. Bagwell.

"Revitalizing Our Downtown Areas" will be the subject of discussion Friday morning featuring prominent authorities on rebuilding urban centers.

Helping draft a policy on highways to be incorporated as part of a league platform will be Walter K. Willman, Pontiac city manager.

Other local officials scheduled to take part in the convention are: Herman Stephens, of the Oakland County Equalization Dept.; E. M. Shafter, Royal Oak manager; George A. Shaw, manager of Walpole Lake; Herbert Herzberg, Birmingham city planner; Oscar Eckman, director of finance for Pontiac; and George L. Nampa, Royal Oak director of public works.

The lowest base bid of $236,953 was submitted by the Smith and Andrews Construction Co. of Detroit, with the Bundy Construction Co.'s second low bid of $237,500.

The Haviland school will be located on an 11-acre site in the Cass-Elizabeth, Cooley Lake Rds. area, and is the last school scheduled for construction in the $3½-million school bond issue approved by voters in 1956, according to superintendent William Shunk.

In other business of the board, additional consideration will be given to another elementary school site in the Jayno Adams attendance area, and also a site for a second senior high school.

At the present time, there is approximately 700 more pupils enrolled in Waterford Township schools this year than last, bringing the total to 11,135 pupils.

119 Attend East Oakland Workshop

PTAs Challenged to Keep Informed

"Do you believe all children in Michigan have equal educational opportunities? Do you know what happened to appropriations to colleges in this year's state budget? Do you feel your district could share a greater burden of the price of education?"

Parent-Teacher Associations ought to be informed on these matters, Mrs. Charles Neldred, president of the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers, told 119 parents, educators and students attending the East Oakland Area workshop yesterday at St. Mary's in the Hills Church in Orion Township.

"We must have well-informed citizens who'll talk to their legislators concerning school problems," the speaker said.

"The 400,000 PTA members in Michigan cannot be effective alone. Other clubs and professional groups also should assume responsibility for the well being of their schools."

Presiding over the workshops were: For PTA presidents—Mrs. Neldred and Mrs. William Porter of Auburn Heights, president of the East Oakland Council.

Program chairman — Mrs. William Wright of Pontiac, state program chairman, and Mrs. Martin L. Parker of Lake Orion, vice president of the East Oakland Council.

Council delegates—Mrs. Charles Cox of Ferndale, director of District 7, Michigan Congress, and Mrs. Walter Huff of Troy, past president of the East Oakland Council.

Treasurers—Mrs. William Mahalek of Pontiac, past president of the Pontiac PTA Council and presently a member of the Pontiac Board of Education, and Mrs. Andrew Hotten of Troy, East Oakland Council treasurer.

Hospitality and membership—Mrs. Charles Curtis, president of the Southfield PTA Council, and Mrs. G. A. Goforth, past president of the East Oakland Council.

Homeroom representatives—Mrs. Louis Niriiani, president of the Ferndale PTA Council, and Mrs. Robert Sanford, past president of the East Oakland Council.

Troops Isolate Algerian Towns

French Strive to Keep Arabs in Communities for Constitution Vote

TIZI-OUZOU, Algeria (AP) — French army soldiers barred all roads around this Algerian mountain town yesterday, imposing a virtual 24-hour daily curfew before France's important constitutional referendum.

Steel-helmeted troops manned roadblocks on the outskirts of every fortified town and village in the Grande Kabylie area, one of the strongholds of the rebellion against French rule.

Gen. Jacques Faure, a ramrod-straight, bespectacled officer who commands the zone, said he issued the order to prevent the population from carrying out rebel orders to desert the villages in order to avoid voting. The referendum begins Friday in Algeria and continues for three days.

Informed sources said the authorities also feared a rebel movement toward the cities to carry out terror attacks during the voting.

Muslim abstention from the vote would be regarded as favoring the nationalist rebellion, now entering its fifth year.

Faure, in his office overlooking this barricaded, predominantly Muslim town, said: "The rebels rule by fear. Our only chance is to be here in great numbers to prevent the rebels from terrorizing the population."

Members of a special control commission, installed here eight days ago to watch over the army's handling of the referendum, asserted: "No one will force the Muslims to vote. We are here to see to that."

According to information from Algiers, a savage battle near the city of Setif took the lives of 20 rebels.

Australian to Protest
CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Trade Minister John McEwen is expected to make an emergency visit to Washington to protest U.S. lead and zinc import restrictions.

Bob Considine Says:

Famous Photographer Back in Harness

NEW YORK — This is a piece about my friend Sammy Schulman, sole owner, chief stockholder and complete working force of a new photographic service named Prestige Photos. Sammy worked for the late, lamented International News Photos for 38 years. He looks about half that old.

INP was what made Sammy run all those years. He felt lost for the first time in his life when the word came that the company was no more.

"I went fishing for a time," he told us today. "But there's no future in that. So I went back to work."

Among Sammy's new accounts is one in behalf of Nelson Rockefeller, who is running for governor of New York against the incumbent, a rich but honest lad named Ave Harriman.

"That's the full circle for me," Sammy said. "I used to draw the assignment to cover his grandfather when he lived in Lakewood, N. J. We'd get old John D. coming out of church, or teeing off on his golf course, or meeting with Will Rogers or somebody like that. The old man had his own personal photographer, fellow named Englebrecht. He'd always arrange for Mr. Rockefeller to present a dime to somebody — usually a little girl — and we'd all fire away."

Sammy shook his happy head as the old scene buzzed inside. Then he came back to September, 1938. "His grandson pays better," he signed.

We wrote a book for Bennett Cerf about Sammy during the war, called "Where's Sammy?" The answer to that title-question has never been easy. The title came from a query often asked by Sammy's friend Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who'd look around as the photographers would move in on him, grin and ask, "Where's Sammy?"

Sammy was usually there, being crushed under foot. Sammy usually was anywhere when the news broke. The evening in Miami when a befuddled crackpot named Zangara took a potshot at F. D. R. and hit Mayor Cermak, standing next to the president-elect, Sammy was only a couple of feet away. For one of the few times in his life he was uncertain. Should he help pick up Cermak or take his picture? Sammy didn't hesitate for long. He took the picture.

Sammy knows such things as the location of secret side doors to the Vatican (out of which he piously spirited pictures of Pope Pius XII's ascension to the throne of Peter.) He managed to get into the first cabinet meeting of the Decepedes government after it overthrew the Machado group in Cuba years ago, rushed out a door he thought was an exit, and found himself in Machado's private bathroom. There was a phone there. He picked it up, hoping he could make the operator understand that he wanted to speak to the Havana office of International News Service. But a cool voice answered in perfect English. It was a direct line to a New York bank.

In rickety Jennies, Sammy flew out to sea taking shots of some of the early desperados of ocean flying, notably Chamberlin and Levin, Byrd and Bert Acosta, Ruth Elder and George Haldeman. In a Farnam 199 he gave chase to the Graf Zeppelin when it broke loose from its moorings and wandered over the Alps. Intra-plane communications were somewhat primitive on the Farnam. The pilot sat in an open cockpit ahead of and above Sammy and INS man Fred Abbott. They had strings attached to the pilot's shoulders, like reins, to indicate such change of courses as they deemed best.

Sammy held up General Eisenhower's invasion of North Africa for ten minutes, getting down the rope ladder of an attack transport carrying all of his equipment. Some months later he looked up, while sipping at a Casablanca wheat-germ parlor, and his eyes bugged at what he saw. It was Mike Reilly, head of the White House secret service. Mike held up a warning finger, then beckoned Sammy to come with him. Sammy took him to an apartment he had scrounged. Mike asked him for the key. Then Mike tore the telephone off the wall, went to the door, grinned and said, "Be a good boy for the next 36 hours and I'll come and get you," then locked the door from the outside.

F. D. R.'s impending arrival for the Casablanca conference had to be kept the No. 1 Allied secret.

Then there was the time Sammy mixed the biggest martini in history, in his battle helmet . . . but those are things that memoirs are made of, and have no place in his life, or connection with his taste buds, today. Today there is Prestige Photos "available for work anywhere on earth or in space."

Overseas import-export cargo handled at the Port of Toledo in 1937 increased by more than 80 per cent over 1936. It exceeded 34,000,000 tons.

Mail Transporters Turn Down Raise

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Officers of the National Postal Transport Assn. yesterday rejected a proposal to increase their salaries.

A resolution proposing a 10 per cent increase was introduced by William F. Jennings of Lynn, Mass., at the association's convention. He said it was justified because all postal employees had received a 10 per cent hike.

But Paul A. Nagle, president, and Wallace A. Legge, industrial secretary, both of Washington, asked that the proposal be shelved. They said the higher salaries would force an increase in union dues.

Nagle's salary is $11,500 a year. Other national officers get $10,000.

Delegates voted to raise the $2.50 a month dues to $3 anyway, but the extra money will go into the union's benefit funds. The association represents 30,000 postal employees.

DEEP UNDER MINNESOTA — Resembling a modern tunnel under construction, this impressive cavern is part of an 11-mile system of caves recently explored for the first time at Spring Valley, Minn. The cavern is more than 3,700 feet long, 30 to 40 feet wide, and 60 feet high. The entire cave system was formed thousands of years ago by streams of rushing water carving through the softer sections of rock. The photo is a time exposure, as seven flashbulbs were fired off singly at distances of 25 to about 200 yards to illuminate the cavern.

40,000 Left Homeless

38 Drown in Mexico Floods

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Some highways have been washed out in almost all parts of Mexico by the heaviest rains in 51 years. More than 40,000 are homeless and at least 38 persons have drowned. The final toll may be much higher.

After almost two weeks of heavy rain, the Communications Ministry said last night numerous washouts cut the nation's major highways.

Serious flooding was reported in seven states—Sinaloa, Nayarit and Jalisco on the Pacific Coast; Guanajuato, northwest of Mexico City; and Nuevo Leon, Coahuila and Chihuahua on the Texas border. Rain has caused damage in other areas.

President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines was directing rescue and aid work by army troops and civilian agencies.

The paralysis of ground transportation hampered work. Basic necessities are being flown into Guanajuato and Sinaloa. Boats are relaying food, clothing and medicine where trains are unable to penetrate into flood-ravaged mountain country.

After communications had been cut by seven days of rain, word of disaster arrived yesterday from the port of Mazatlan in Sinaloa.

Some 8,500 persons are homeless in Mazatlan and other Sinaloa towns along streams at the foot of the Sierra Madre Occidental. Eight bodies have been recovered and seven persons are missing. Relief boats penetrated 12 miles inland over flooded coastal areas.

Nasty Diplomacy They Should Switch!

Not Best Way to Woo U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The mysterious language of diplomacy has been described in many ways, but rarely as neatly as in this couplet by Isaac Goldberg:

"Diplomacy is to do and say
Nastiest things in the nicest way."

Possibly that's true much of the time. But, maybe because neither is a diplomat by trade, it hasn't been true of the correspondence between Nikita S. Khrushchev of Russia and Dwight D. Eisenhower of the United States.

That correspondence, which had been blunt by almost any standards, came to an abrupt turn Saturday when Eisenhower rejected Khrushchev's long letter, and ordered the U.S. Embassy in Moscow to hand it back to the Russians.

Now how about that? Can a country simply refuse to accept its diplomatic mail?

It certainly can, if it thinks remarks made in it are uncalled for.

In 1901, Thomas A. Edison patented the nickel-iron-alkaline storage battery. This type of battery is still used today by railway and shipping lines.

Messages Pave Dr. King's Road to Recovery

NEW YORK (AP)—The road to recovery for the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. is being paved with hundreds of well-wishing telegrams and letters.

King, recuperating in Harlem Hospital from a stab wound, received a letter from Vice President Nixon yesterday. It said: "I was terribly distressed to learn of the attack that was made on you in New York Saturday...."

"I can only say that the Christian spirit of tolerance which you invariably displayed in the face of your opponents and detractors will in the end contribute immeasurably in winning the support of the great majority of Americans for the cause of equality and human dignity to which we are dedicated."

The 29-year-old Negro minister, leader of the 1956 Negro bus boycott in Montgomery, Ala., took his first steps since entering the hospital Saturday. Doctors said his condition was satisfactory.

King was stabbed with a steel letter opener by Mrs. Isola Ware Curry Saturday in a Harlem department store.

The woman, a 42-year-old Negro, is in Bellevue Hospital for mental tests.

Pilgrims Reach Italy

PALERMO, Sicily (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, arrived here today with nearly 700 American pilgrims. The pilgrimage has been visiting Roman Catholic shrines, including the famous grotto of Lourdes. It is traveling aboard the Greek liner Olympia.

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Conn. (UPI)—The Fish and Game Club here scheduled a chicken barbecue while the Rod and Gun Club planned a clambake.

Movers Lift House

25 Ft. to Clear Roofs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Raymond Marquez family bought a three-bedroom house in Long Beach, where it had been condemned for a freeway project. Movers hauled the house to the Marquez lot in the Lawndale district. To get it to the rear of the lot, they had to jack it up 25 feet and wheel it over the rooftops of two other residences along a driveway that separates them. The house reached its foundation without incident, if soaring over two other houses isn't an incident.

Lamb Stays at School

LOUISVILLE (AP)—Mary's little lamb is waiting inside the gate each morning when 25 youngsters arrive at Maryanna Nursery School. Mrs. Raymond Shircliffe got the animal by accident. "The mother was on the way to the slaughterhouse when friends of ours discovered she was about to give birth. We got the baby as a gift."

No Soft Living in Soviet Play-Camp

Even Vacation Is Regimented in U.S.S.R.

By BEVERLY DEEPE
Second in series
Written for The Associated Press

Yes, there is a vacation-land in the U.S.S.R. But most Americans might think it easier to just keep working than to play the Soviet way.

While touring the Soviet Union as a member of an American student group, I visited a typical vacation camp: the Gorenlik tourist base in the mountains outside the Central Asian city of Alma-Ata.

At 7 a.m., the Soviet national anthem blared from loud-speakers, blasting snoozers out of the sleeping bags for 10 minutes of directed calisthenics outdoors.

Campers whipped their beds into shape and dashed to the mountain stream for a quick wash before reporting at 8 a.m. for a break.

fast of rice, chicken, bread, butter and tea.

Then campers hustled out for a morning hike into the mountains, returning at 2 p.m. for a lunch of potatoes, beefsteak, soup, rolls, butter, fruit compote and tea.

Not everybody went on the hike. Some were already on other hikes of two to seven days into the high glacier peaks.

There was time out for a three-hour rest in the afternoon, "baths" in dishpans of water in the so-called "shower house," and then table tennis, pool, dominoes or volleyball before dinner.

Dancing and a movie followed dinner. Lights went out at 11 p.m. and exhausted vacationers tumbled into their sleeping bags.

No alcoholic beverages are allowed. The round of hiking and relaxation sparked excitement only when a group came back from a long mountain hike.

Then the group commander saluted the camp director with a report and the welcoming party enlisted for the occasion whooped a rousing cheer to "physical-cul."

Sanitary conditions in the tourist camp were primitive. There were four lavatories for women—one had a broken faucet, one a broken basin, the third had a clogged drain and the fourth worked but had a continually running faucet.

Other toilet facilities were primitive and unimaginably fouled. Dishes were washed in small kettles of cold water; hot water was available only for tea and coffee.

Gorenlik is one of a string of vacation places stretching from the northern waters of the Baltic to the luxurious "Russian Riviera" on the Black Sea.

Here, Russians play as hard during vacations as they work the rest of the year. The picture is completely different from the free-moving, easy-going vacations of the American family.

Both husband and wife in the Soviet family often work and must frequently spend their vacations in separate places at different times. Children go to country summer camps or daylong programs in city Palaces of Cul-

An air of military discipline prevails in the children's camps.

Observers who have seen both the Soviet youth program and the Nazi youth camps in Hitler Germany say there are remarkable similarities.

Vacations don't cost much in the Soviet Union. Campers at Gorenlik pay 30 rubles a day ($3 at tourist exchange rate), but the government and trade unions pay part of the money.

6 Die as Violence Flares in Beirut

Phalangists Spark Wave of Terror as New Chief Moves Into Office

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Shootings, heavy explosions, burning of automobiles and other violence erupted in Beirut today as President Fawzi Chehab moved into his first day in office.

By midmorning official sources said six persons had been killed and a score wounded.

Under ex-President Camille Chamoun, a pro-Westerner, it was Moslems who sparked unrest and manned roadblocks. Today it was members of the Phalange—an extremist Christian party that was causing a bloody ruckus.

Security forces had orders to shoot on sight anyone illegally carrying arms on the streets. This was the toughest order given to security forces since the Lebanese crisis began in early May.

The Phalangists ordered a general shutdown of shops and services in the predominant Christian area of Beirut which includes the beachfront hotel district, the business district and residential districts.

Last May it was rebel Moslems who attempted to enforce a general strike.

The announced purpose of today's wave of terror was to gain revenge for last week's kidnapping of a Phalangist journalist, Fawzi Haddad, by unknown persons. Those who led the rebellion against the Chamoun regime disclaimed responsibility for the kidnapping.

A day and night curfew, imposed Monday and maintained through the inauguration of Chehab Tuesday, was lifted at midnight. Shortly thereafter Phalangists began manning roadblocks in various parts of Beirut and trouble began.

Army Renames County's Three Nike Batteries

Oakland County's three Nike antiaircraft batteries have been renamed as part of a branch-wide change creating a Combat Arms Regimental System (CARS).

The three local batteries, located in Southfield, Commerce Lake and Auburn Heights, have been made a part of the 4th AAA Missile Battalion of the 3rd Artillery Regiment.

They formerly were assigned to the 18th AAA Missile Battalion.

A total of 109 air defense units, including 67 missile battalions, have been reassigned under CARS to 24 Regular Army artillery regiments, an Army spokesman said.

Purpose behind the change is to provide historical lineage continuity for and to preserve the colors and traditions of the old artillery units, he said.

Tourist Group to Hold Meeting

West Michigan Assn. Will Ask for Evaluation of Industry

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Requests for evaluation of the state's multi-million dollar tourist industry and a lifting of a legislative ban on publication of state road maps are among nine resolutions to be considered by the West Michigan Tourist and Resort Assn.

About 300 members from 31 West Michigan counties are expected Sept. 30 in Grand Rapids for the organization's 11th annual membership meeting.

Aurey Strohman, association secretary-manager, says it is asking the Michigan Tourist Council to study Michigan's tourist industry to obtain a true picture of the annual income it produces.

"We have needed the survey for some time," Strohman says, "to prove the tremendous importance of the industry not only to private resort operators, but . . . particularly to the state itself, which receives an estimated $30,000,000 annually in direct tax revenue from the tourist industry."

Another WMTRA resolution calls for repeal of the 1956-59 legislative prohibition against further publication of state road maps by the Highway Department.

Others ask expansion of state park facilities, information stations and roadside parks; use of directional markers and color identifications on state and national highway signs; resumption of the historical marker program, and consideration of catwalks on new bridges for fishermen and pedestrians.

A-Sub Seawolf Submerged for Month and Half

BOSTON, Mass. (AP) — The nuclear submarine Seawolf has remained submerged more than a month and a half.

Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover says Seawolf submerged Aug. 5 and by Monday had set a record of 48 days under water, surpassing the submerged records of two other atomic subs, Skate's 31 days and Nautilus' 28 days.

Rickover, speaking yesterday at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon, left the impression Seawolf was still under water. He spoke of the 48-day record and predicted Seawolf would surpass that mark. He did not say where Seawolf is or what her mission is.

Rickover later told a news conference that 33 nuclear subs are either in operation, under construction or authorized.

He said 18 will be attack subs. Nine will be equipped to fire the Polaris missile, which has a 1,500-mile range, and five will be regular missile craft.

The world's largest undersea craft, the 8,000-ton Triton, is a radar picket craft.

Disaster Aid Requested for Van Buren Village

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams reported today he has requested disaster assistance from the federal government for the village of Hartford, Van Buren County.

The village was hit by a sudden and severe windstorm Sept. 9 which caused damage estimated at $75,000. The governor's office said the village, with an annual budget of about $65,000, already has spent more than $10,000 for debris and tree removal.

UPSTART ART — Upstaging the famed Eiffel Tower in background, the newest Paris landmark holds the attention of a passer-by. The strange work of art, which moves in the wind, is a mobile called "Modern Times" created by famed sculptor Alexander Calder for the new UNESCO (United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization) Palace.

Hollywood Headlines

Add Tony Perkins to List of Stars in 'On the Beach'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
HOLLYWOOD — The platinum cast Stanley Kramer has assembled for "On the Beach" sounds like a producer's dream come true. He has now added Tony Perkins to the imposing list which boasts of such box office names as Gregory Peck, Ava Gardner and Fred Astaire. Tony plays the young Australian naval officer also doomed to die.

Neville Shute's "On the Beach," a terrifying novel, shows the end of mankind after the atomic bombing of every country. Stanley says he hopes to show what could actually happen if atomic bombs become a part of worldwide warfare.

Now that Kathryn Grayson has come out of her shell she has been bombarded with offers. The one that interests her the most is the musical version of "Gone With the Wind" which is being prepared for Broadway production.

She said her representatives had talked with the David Selznick representatives and that Dimitri Tiomkin had also talked to her about the songs.

She came home from Montreal with a bad virus and has been sick ever since she returned from her night club engagements. She's very excited about playing Scarlett O'Hara and she really has the voice for what is planned as an operetta.

Frank Sinatra will accompany Edie and Bill Goetz when she goes to London for the premiere of "Me and the Colonel" and he'll be presented to the queen whom he met when she was Princess Elizabeth. He has agreed to represent Danny Kaye who will be deep in preparation for his picture "Bamboozle" on Oct. 24, the day they leave.

This must be a real disappointment to Danny who was looking forward to the premiere of his picture, although it's nothing new for him to meet the queen and the royal family. He's a great favorite with all of them.

for him to meet the queen and the royal family. He's a great favorite with all of them.

The blonde hair of Anna Maria Alberghe that attracted so much attention in Bob Hope's show is being discarded, temporarily at least. Anna Maria goes into "Wagon Train" with Ward Bond and Bob Horton immediately and since she plays a Spanish senorita, the blonde hair would hardly be in keeping.

Anna Maria says the best dramatic chance she has ever had is in "Wagon Train" and she doesn't even mind not having a rest.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

$76,000 Home or Not, Jayne Sleeps on Floor

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How's that? Glamorous Jayne Mansfield forced to sleep on the floor of her $76,000 mansion?

"It's true," sighed the actress, who expects a baby in December. Then she dropped another bomb: she spends only $71 a month on her young daughter in a town where movie mothers think nothing of asking hundreds of dollars monthly for child support.

Why this low cost-of-living? Jayne said she and her musician husband Mickey Hargitay are spending most of their money redecorating their two-story Spanish home.

"We could afford to buy furniture," says Mickey, "but we don't have time to shop and buy exactly what we want—and we can't afford to make any mistakes."

The Hargitays' plight came to light yesterday when Mickey appeared in court to answer a child support plea from his ex-wife Mary. She wants his monthly support for their daughter Tina increased from $250 to $415. The matter was postponed until tomorrow.

Jayne and Mickey later showed newsmen how they managed to live a spartan life in plush Beverly Hills. Their home has no rugs, no furniture, no luxuries.

Cooking is done on an old-fashioned gas stove in the basement furnace room.

"This is Hollywood glamour?" pouted Jayne.

A reporter estimated it cost him $67.50 a month for bare essentials for his 6-year-old. And he didn't even live in Hollywood. So how does Jayne do it?

Jayne had an answer: she said Jayne Marie, her 7-year-old daughter by a previous marriage, goes to public school.

"We spend about $45 to $50 a month on food and $15 a month for her clothing."

"This also includes two dental and two physical checkups a year."

Does Jayne Marie sleep on the floor too?

"Oh, my goodness, no," cried the actress. "She sleeps in a nice big bed."

"Mickey and I sleep on a couple of mattresses on a floor upstairs." She squeezed Hargitay's hand. "Don't worry about us, Mickey. I and I are happy—we have each other."

Richard Tucker, the Metropolitan Opera tenor star, was an errand boy in Wall Street before he became a singer.

Southern Cal Boasts
Win Over Coast Choice
Oregon State

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The figures point to a Michigan victory over Southern California Saturday.

The Wolverines have been victorious in 12 of 14 games with West coast rivals. Their successes date back to the 1902 Rose Bowl when they beat Stanford 49-0.

Michigan hasn't lost an opening game since 1952 when Michigan State achieved the feat. And the Wolverines beat Southern California the only two times they met. The Trojans had a 1-9 record last season.

The oddsmakers rate Michigan a 10-point choice over coach Don Clark's Trojans.

The figures foretell a happy story for Michigan.

But coach Bennie Oosterbaan doesn't have faith in numerology — the study of the hidden meaning of numbers.

He points to another set of numbers that can only spell trouble for Michigan: Southern California 21, Oregon State 0.

Last season Michigan also opened with Southern Cal and won 16-6. The Trojans' easy conquest of Oregon State illustrates just how far they've come back in one year.

Oregon State generally was felt to be the Pacific Coast's strongest in the pre-season pick.

"Our first team is O.K.," Oosterbaan said, "but these injuries have held up progress. They don't have security at their positions."

Yesterday he scrimmaged his units offensively in a change of plans. Some new plays were installed from both the Single Wing and T formations.

"His knee doesn't seem to be getting any better," Oosterbaan said. "And if we lose Myers, we're hurt."

Center Dick Syring missed the workout, but his bruised hip didn't prevent him from running to keep his legs in shape. Oosterbaan is counting on Syring's availability Saturday.

Oosterbaan also learned Jim Byers might be able to play the second half of this season. The ex-fallback was scheduled to be first team center until he hurt his knee. Byers was operated on last week and doctors report he is making rapid improvement.

Bags 212-Yard Ace

One of the rarest of aces for the Pontiac Municipal Golf Course was chalked up this week by a spare-time golfer. Playing with Bob Stasiak, 5521 Oster, Tom Klein, 5930 Tubbs Rd., fired a No. 3 wood shot to No. 10 green. He didn't see the ball land, but it was found in the cup.

The hole is a 212-yarder. Ace was Klein's first in about 7-8 years at the game, he says. He had a 34 for the 9-hole round. Klein is a real estate salesman.

NFL Rosters Trimmed

Lions Obtain Rookie End

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions today acquired rookie end Jim Gibbons in a trade with the Cleveland Browns.

The Lions gave up a high but undisclosed 1959 draft choice for the former Iowa star.

The Lions have been desperate for help at the end position, with Jerry Reichow out for the season with a leg injury and Steve Junker also sidelined by injuries.

Gibbons, a 6-foot-3, 210-pounder, "Ten" selection last season, caught 36 passes for 587 yards and four touchdowns in his final year at Iowa. He was a member of the East team in the Shrine game and played against the Lions in last month's college All-Star game at Chicago.

His acquisition puts the Lions one over the 35-player limit and the club will make another move within the next 24 hours to trim the roster.

Padilla's sharper punching and constant aggressiveness won a 99-44 decision of the lone official, Referee Vern Bybee.

3 Games to Draw 160,000

Big Grid Weekend

DETROIT (AP) — The state's three major football games this weekend — including the Michigan and Michigan state schedule openers — are expected to attract nearly 160,000 spectators.

Michigan expects 72,000 for its clash with Southern California, Michigan State anticipates 60,000 as the Spartans take on California and the University of Detroit-Air Force Academy game is expected to draw a capacity of 22,000.

A clash between two of Michigan's smaller grid powers, Hillsdale and Central Michigan, is also expected to draw a full house of 10,000 at Arthur Hill Stadium Saturday night in the annual Red Feather game.

Hillsdale will be out to boost its regular season winning streak to 36 games. The only defeat for the Dales since 1954 was the 27-26 post-season loss to Pittsburgh, Kansas in the Holiday Bowl at St. Petersburg last year.

Both teams are unbeaten thus far this year. Hillsdale with a 1-0 mark and Central Michigan with a 2-0 record.

The Air Force Academy, like the University of Detroit heading toward big time football, meets the Titans here Friday night. Three Michigan boys will be making their home debut as collegians with the Air Force team.

Captain of the Air Force team is Brock Strom, a 217-pound senior tackle from Ironwood. Strom was a guard and center as a freshman, moved to center as a sophomore and played tackle last year.

The leading pass receiver on the Air Force team for the past two seasons is Tom Jozwiak, a senior end from Detroit Catholic Central. He caught 33 for 532 yards last year, and led the club in playing time with 426 minutes.

Jozwiak caught three passes for 43 yards when the Academy beat Detroit 19-12 last season at Denver.

The MIAA has some important games on tap, opening up league play with three games. Albion is at Kalamazoo in a day game while Olivet visits Adrian and Alma goes to Hope in night events.

In the Interstate Conference, Eastern Michigan tries to bounce back against league opponent Illinois Normal after dropping its opener 19-7 to Hope of the MIAA.

Other games find St. Norbert at Michigan Tech in a night game and Taylor at Northern Michigan, Illinois extension at Ferris and Western Michigan at Miami in day games. This will be the Mid-American opener for both teams, with Miami heavily favored in both this game and in the title chase.

Willie Mays Leads Richie Ashburn by .0003

Hot Race for NL Bat Title

Willie Mays and Richie Ashburn are so close in their run for the National League batting title you couldn't push a punt between them.

At the moment, Willie's ahead by .0003 of a percentage point with a streaking .520 spurt for his last 14 games. Ashburn, batting a mere .424 for the same span, has a .3439 average to Mays' .3442.

A pair of flyers, both picked up leg hits last night. Mays was 3-for-5 against Chicago as the Cubs defeated the San Francisco Giants 3-2 in 10 innings. Ashburn was 2-for-4 against Milwaukee as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the champion Braves 6-5.

St. Louis defeated Los Angeles 5-1 in another near-miss at a no-hitter by Sad Sam Jones in the only other NL game scheduled.

Mays, who won the bat title, was 3-45 in 1954 on the last day, and Ashburn, who picked up his only championship in 1955 with 338, oddly enough began their big moves for 1958's silver bat on the same day—Sept. 10. Willie had been hitless in five games, slumping to .328, before then, but has been 26-for-50 since (.520). Ashburn had only two hits in five games before Sept. 10, but has had hit safely in 25 of 59 at bats since (.424).

Stan Musial of the Cards, who was the leader with .338 on September 10, has slipped to .334 after being killed by injury. He was 1-for-4 last night.

Mays, getting 200 hits for the first time in his career (Ashburn got his 200th hit Monday), beat out a dribbler in front of the plate, and a slow roller toward third last night. His other hit was a solid single in the eighth inning—when he went to second on Leon Wagner's single, stole third and gave the Giants a 2-1 lead on an infield out.

Walt Morin's 26th home run gave the Cubs a tie in the ninth against Los Angeles (6-9), and Ernie Banks then blooped an RBI double that won it in the 10th.

Mays' stolen base was his 31st, retaining his slim edge over Ashburn, who stole his 30th, for the league lead.

Ashburn, who leads Mays in hits 207 to 201 but has only three games remaining to Willie's four, beat out a punt that loaded the bases in the eighth and set up Ed Bouchee's winning two-run single off lefty Juan Pizarro (6-4). Bouchee also rapped a first-inning homer, his ninth.

Rookie Jim Owens, released from the Army Friday, won his first, giving up only four hits before needing relief in the eighth. Ed Matthews' 31st homer gave the Braves a 2-1 lead in the first.

Jones (14-12), who was within six-outs of his second major league no-hitter when he had to settle for a 9-1 victory over Philadelphia a month ago, was within four outs of getting the job done last night at Los Angeles. Then Junior Gilliam singled off Sam's glove, Bob Lillis followed with a sharp single and rookie Ron Fairly junked the shutout with a double. That was all the hitting the Dodgers did, although Jones needed relief in the ninth when he gave up his sixth and seventh walks. He struck out four for a 2-20 total.

Johnny Podres (13-15) lost it. The Cards scored two unearned runs in the first, and didn't get any earned runs until Musial's two-run double in the ninth.

AP to List 'B' Ratings

DETROIT (AP) — Ten Michigan sports writers have been named to the Associated Press panel to select the top 10 class B high school football teams in the state each week.

The panel represents every sector of the lower peninsula and its members will send votes each week to Detroit, where the ratings will be compiled by the AP.

Named to the panel were: Bob Hoerner of the Lansing State Journal, Jim Shamahan of the Benton Harbor News-Palladium, Jim Higginbottom of the Detroit News, Paul Peterson of the Ludington Daily News, Doug Mintline of the Flint Journal, Jack Moss of the Kalamazoo Gazette, Bill Cornwell of the Pontiac Press, Don Badon of the Grand Haven Tribune, Don Vogel of the Adrian Telegram and Mike Sturm of the Bay City Times.

Spartan Coach Warns Players About Bears

California Has Good Offense Despite Upset Last Week

EAST LANSING (UPI) — More defensive drills against California's tricky split-T offense were on tap today as highly favored Michigan State prepared for its Saturday opener against California.

California was upset 24-20 by College of the Pacific last Saturday, but coaches warned the MSU players California will be dangerous.

"They did not lose any prestige in my book," line coach Burt Smith said.

Smith said California gained 20 first downs and 434 yards in losing. Michigan State will be trying for its 11th straight win over a Pacific Coast Conference rival.

In 61 previous opening games, Michigan State won 44, lost 16 and tied one.

The Spartans stressed pass defense in a light workout last night. Drills will be late in starting this week because of registration for fall classes.

California is proudest of three backs, quarterback Joe Kapp, left half Hank Olguin and fullback Billy Patton.

Kapp, who operates on an option of pass or run, carried 16 times for an 8.3 yard average. Olguin had seven carries for a 9.8 yard average and Patton carried 13 times and averaged 4.6 yards.

The California system is more of a multiple-T than a split-T, as it also incorporates some straight-T and some option plays.

California will bring in 10 players who saw action in the 19-0 defeat by Michigan State last year. The 37-man squad will fly in late Thursday, in time for an afternoon workout in Spartan Stadium.

Williams rapped a double and single in addition to his 23rd home run and received a standing ovation from the fans when he left for a pinch runner in the winning eighth. He drove in three runs, picked up three points for a .317 batting average and apparently made up for that bat flinging incident Sunday.

Teammate Pete Runnels' (2-for-4) upped his AL-leading average to .325 for a seven-point edge over Detroit's Harvey Kuenn who is a point ahead of Williams at .318.

Kuenn was 1-for-5, losing a point as the Tigers defeated the Chicago White Sox 3-1. Cleveland retained a third place tie with Boston and Detroit by beating Kansas City 7-5, and Baltimore defeated Washington 3-2 in the other AL games.

Johnny Kucks (8-8) was the Yankee loser as Williams tied the score 8-all with an RBI double and Jackie Jensen singled home the winner in a two-run eighth.

Bowfield, who was 3-0 against New York, was rapped for four runs on four hits in his 1-2-3 innings as the Yankees, getting three runs on a pair of Mickey Mantle singles, took a 7-5 lead. Murray Wall (8-9) won it.

Randy Jackson's three-run homer in the ninth gave it to the Indians after the A's had scored 6-1, 6-4.

LONDON (AP) — America's Pancho Gonzales, playing at half speed, crushed Bill Moss of Britain 6-2, 6-4 Tuesday night to enter the semifinals of the London Indoor Professional Tennis Championships.

Australia's Ken Rosewall, expected to meet Gonzales in the final for the $2,800 top prize, scored an easy second round win over fellow countryman Peter Cawthron, 6-3, 6-4.

Jack Arkinstall of Australia lost his first round match to fellow Australian Frank Sedgeman 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

When it comes to turning out consistently good high school football teams, Oakland County coaches can hold their own with grid mentors from any other sector in Michigan.

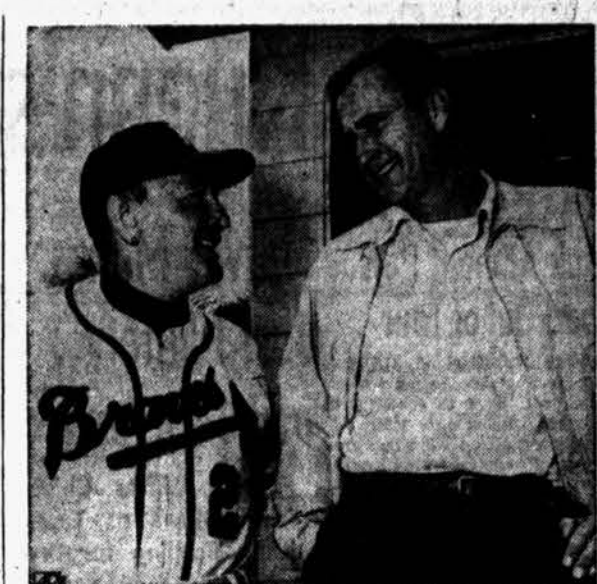

This fact is indicated strongly in a check of records which shows that five of the 23 coaches with two or more years at their respective posts have been winning regularly.

Ferndale's Ted Meister is the dean of the county's successful coaches with a record of 97 wins, 51 losses and 11 ties for 19 years, which gave him a percentage of .625 prior to his opening victory last Friday.

Meister leads all Oakland skipper in total wins and can better 100 by winning three of his remaining eight games this season.

Second in years and victories and also near the top in percentage is partly Gene Konley at Rochester. He started this year with a mark of 88-26-2 for .772 in 14 seasons.

Yankees Winless Since Clinching AL Pennant

By The Associated Press

In case you haven't noticed, the New York Yankees haven't won a game since the day they clinched the American League pennant more than a week ago.

They've lost six in a row since, their longest losing string in more than two years.

That's not exactly a rip-roaring way to move into the World Series — which opens a week from today at Milwaukee — but you can't say it has Manager Casey Stengel worried. His pitching staff has regrouped in that span, and his Yankees at least got rid of Ted Bowfield, the pesky rookie southpaw who had beaten them three times, before they lost 9-8 at Boston last night.

But if there's one Yankee who isn't feeling chipper these days, it has to be Bob Turley—the AL's leading winner who now has failed in two shots at his 22nd victory. The big right-hander may get one more chance, against Baltimore this weekend in the windup of the regular season.

Turley escaped the defeat as the Yankees lost six in a row for the first time since early August, 1956, but he was battered for five runs in the first inning and was through after Ted Williams hit a two-run homer in the fourth for a 7-7 tie.

Williams rapped a double and single in addition to his 23rd home run and received a standing ovation from the fans when he left for a pinch runner in the winning eighth. He drove in three runs, picked up three points for a .317 batting average and apparently made up for that bat flinging incident Sunday.

Soviet Cagers Seek Delay for U. S. Trip

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — G. Russell Lyons, national AAU basketball chairman, said Monday the Russian basketball team wants to delay its visit to this country in the fall of 1959.

The Soviet cagers are scheduled to play several industrial basketball league teams next February after meeting a league all-star team at New York Feb. 4.

Lyons said he received a cable from the Soviets asking for the delay so their team might play in an international tournament at Santiago, Chile, Jan. 19-31.

"I cabled back that all arrangements have been made and schedules set for the tour," Lyons said. "Now we'll just have to wait until they answer."

SHOCKING — That's exactly what Edward E. Schultz, Inst. of Fish Research man was doing (above) in the Shiawassee river inlet to Ratalee Lake, near Holly, yesterday. He was shocking (electrically) the recently discovered weatherfish to the surface in a check of streams, to ascertain just how far this undesirable creature has extended its range from the site where first found.

Little Stories About Outdoors

That pesky little "rough fish", the seldom seen (until this fall) weatherfish is being run down through a number of Oakland county watercourses. A team of biologists from the conservation department's Institute of Fisheries Research has been working in the Ratalee lake inlet streams near Holly in an effort to trace the possible source of the ugly little Japanese import.

Edward E. Schultz of the institute staff is in charge of the work, using a shocking device to bring up specimens of the creature that he describes as "an ugly little thing, but not such a threat to ordinary fish life as many another."

As a matter of fact, is not a threat at all, in the sense of preying on fish. It merely spoils fish habitats by rolling the water and disturbing nests.

Schultz and Clarence Taube of the institute took some of the fish from the Shiawassee river inlet to Ratalee lake, will continue their checks in the Trenton (Genesee county) area today.

Annual fall field trial for Michigan Shorthair Pointer club is set for Saturday and Sunday of this week at Highland Recreation area, where the big national trials for the breed are scheduled for the near future. Puppy, derby stakes are open to the breed only, but the gun dog, open all-age and limited all-age stakes are open to all pointing breeds. Handler-gunners must shoot over their own dogs in the Gundog event. A new silver trophy goes to the top amateur handler. Spectators are welcome.

Some of the rattle snakes in this area come big, this fall, says Gary Cox, 18, of A-8 Arcadia court. Gary and Joe Nave, 40 West Colgate were driving on a dirt road east of Oxford, first of the week, when a 31-inch long "buzzer" started across in front of their car. They promptly dispatched the reptile which carried six rattles.

UNWANTED — This the ugly little (specimen above was 3 1/2 inches long) barbel-equipped weatherfish, which has stirred up considerable comment in the area because it had never before been found in a Michigan stream. It was taken yesterday in a continuing check on the undesirable Japanese aquarium import, first discovered this summer in a pond near Holly.

Area Foxhounds Win in Show and Field

Three foxhounds owned by Ferndale residents took top honors in a bench show at Lapeer last weekend, when the 12th annual 4-day show and field trial were held. An Indiana hound ran off with the leading award in the field event.

Many fine hounds were entered from Michigan, Ontario, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Indiana. The entry totaled about 100 for the field event alone.

Ralph Canada's hound, from Williams Park Ind., won the Michigan State championship in the all-age. Hard Rock, owned by Marshall Buckhannon of Royal Oak, was derby winner.

Best-in-show went to Sam, owned by Jimmy Coalson of Ferndale, while another Ferndale dog, Hope (John Alston) was best of opposite sex. Best natural carriage (high-tail) was the dog owned by Shirley Maynard, Detroit. Best pack of hounds was that owned by James Eadie of Byron, Ont.

All-Breed Show, Set for Oct. 5

The Progressive Dog Club of Wayne County will hold an all-breed dog show and obedience trial in the dairy cattle building at the State Fair Grounds, on Sunday, Oct. 5. This will be their annual fall bench show, and the club is working hard to make it their most outstanding show from the standpoint of the number of dogs entered, and spectators attracted to the show.

The club offers a fine premium list, which calls for many trophies and prizes for exhibitors who qualify. Entries closed Monday.

Still Time Left for Entering Dogs

There's still time to register dogs for the three area obedience training classes that get under way this week and first of next week.

Southern Michigan Obedience Training Club officials say registrations will be taken during the next two weeks at Daniel Whitfield School (Reg Armstrong, FE 2-7749), which starts Thursday; at Waterford CAI (Jim Richmond, OR 3-3810), starts tonight, and Bloomfield Hills HS (Henry Thorn-

These Birds Hard to Locate Taking 40 Rails Daily Is Not Easy Shooting

By JACK PATTERSON
Brooding over the recently arrived Game Digest supplement and its harsh limitations on wildfowl, our eye was suddenly arrested by the notation under "Bag limits" of the figure "25." Following the line to the left it was discovered that this referred to the legal daily grab of soras.

Immediately below was noted that "other PATTERSON rails" can be aggregated to the tune of a daily 15. Any way this adds up it comes out 40 birds per day. That, buster, in these late days figures up to some shooting. Can it be that almost every Michigan shotgunner is passing up a mighty good thing? Well, let's see.

We're familiar with rail shooting as it is practiced on the littoral marshes of the east, where it is a tradition, and a highly specialized one at that, and the shooting is done during the two hours or so of high tide.

All very interesting, but hardly applicable to a mid-continental location.

MI 7-0155), starts next Monday.

SMOTC open class, at Clara Barton School, Royal Oak, for CD (or 2-legs on CD) dogs starts Thursday. Call Mrs. Mary Larson, FE 5-3721, or John Eichler, FE 2-4867 for information.

So maybe we're not passing up too much of a good thing. At any rate, the guy that says he can overcome all these obstacles and still shoot 40 rails a day is a rail himself — spelled backward.

A snipe bog is a bowling green compared to good rail territory. And the birds can run through the thick stuff like deer, can traverse goo that wouldn't support a thistle-down. Besides, a good sharp frost is apt to send them south before the season opens on Oct. first.

Dip in U. S. Gold May Be Ending

Decrease Slows Down After Setting Record for Any One Year

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The sharp drop in the U. S. gold supply may be ending. It is slowing down after setting a record for any one year.

But today the conditions that led other nations to build up their gold reserves at our expense seem to be going into reverse.

Part of the outflow of gold has been due to a sharper drop in U. S. exports than in its imports, enabling foreign lands to build up their reserves as Americans paid for what they bought abroad.

Another factor is the large investment of American corporations abroad, amounting to about four billion dollars last year and bringing the total to 37 billion dollars.

Other nations are also selling their holdings of U. S. securities and putting the money into gold.

The net result is that so far this year the U. S. gold supply has shrunk by about 1 1/2 billion dollars. This is slightly more than the outflow of gold for the entire year of 1956, the previous record, when the Korean War caused the United States to buy heavily from other lands.

The gold supply here now is just under 21 billion dollars — more than ample as legal backing for the volume of currency outstanding.

Something is Missing From Primary Ballot

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (U. S. Gov. Cecil H. Underwood found something missing on the ballot in the recent West Virginia primary election: His name. Underwood, 35, was elected to the House of Delegates when 22, and he served successive terms there until he ran for governor two years ago.

The primary marked the first time since he came of voting age that he didn't have an opportunity to vote for himself. He's not a candidate in this election.

Grain Futures Steady to Firm

CHICAGO (U. S. — The grain futures market was steady to firm throughout the list today in early transactions on the Board of Trade.

Dealings were light, however, with commission houses generally on the buying side. Some traders said the demand appeared to be related to the Far East tension, but some of it also was hooked to word that Europe had bought parcels of soybeans overnight and that West Germany will be in the market Friday for about 1 1/2 million bushels of wheat.

Wheat was 3/4 cent a bushel higher near the end of the first hour, December $1.92 1/2; corn 1/4 cent higher, December $1.33 1/2; soybeans 1/4 cent higher, November $2.21 1/2.

Congregation Finds Him Good

Mr. Cliburn Plays Piano

By HENRIETTA LEITH

NEW YORK (AP)—The Calvary Baptist Church on West 57th Street had a little social and musical program last night, and everyone agreed that the music, especially, was quite good.

First Mr. Gbur led everyone in some gospel singing, with Mr. Spong, the substitute organist, at the piano.

Mrs. Cuckley, a handsome young soprano, offered two numbers.

Then Mr. Cliburn played. Of course, most of the people there didn't think of him as "Mr. Cliburn." To most of them he was just "Van," tall, skinny boy from Texas who applied for membership at Calvary in 1951, when he was 16.

The pastor, the Rev. Richard Hamilton, recalled that Van's application listed his musical qualifications, along with the fact that his conversion had taken place nine years earlier, at the First Baptist Church in Kilgore, Tex.

The Rev. Mr. Hamilton also recalled how several years ago when the old church organ gave up the ghost, Van ran downstairs and played on the piano "the most beautiful offertory I ever heard."

After Mrs. Buckley sang, Harvey Scharman, one of the trustees and master of ceremonies, showed some films he had taken during the year.

Of course, as the master of ceremonies wanted to make clear, they hadn't asked him there to play, but just to tell him how proud they were of him.

But, he added, they thought he "might want to respond by playing a little, as well as speaking."

So Mr. Cliburn played. He played Liszt's 12th Rhapsody, then an encore, then another encore. Everyone agreed it was quite good. And not a bit too long.

Diapers Correct for Dining in India's Hotels

NEW DELHI, India (UPI)—The government took the stand today that it is all right for persons wearing Gandhi-style diapers to eat in Indian hotels, but that they should wear trousers if they want to dance.

"Un-Indian!" snorted opposition members of parliament.

The question arose when it was reported that an Indian wearing a loin cloth like that sported by the late Mohandas K. Gandhi, pioneer crusader for Indian independence, had been refused admission to the luxurious, government-managed Ashoka hotel here.

Deputy Housing Minister A. K. Chanda explained that the man was told he could wear the loin cloth to dinner, but that he would have to put on more formal clothes if he wanted to dance.

"Is it becoming to an Indian government to bar persons wearing traditional Indian dress from a government hotel?" one opposition legislator demanded.

Even the most ardent members of both major parties agreed that keeping TV cameras on both conventions continuously in '58 resulted in some mighty dull viewing.

Sig Mickelson, general manager of CBS, said: "I'd prefer to edit the conventions and use video tape for the less vital parts of the proceedings in 1960. We would, of course, go live for balloting and other highlights. You never can overlook the importance, the sense of actuality, in live coverage of events as they happen."

CBS news was the first network to make use of the unique advantages of tape in covering the United Nations sessions at the height of the recent Mideast crisis.

One example was the day President Eisenhower addressed the General Assembly. The President's speech was carried live and also taped; the speech by Andrei Gromyko, the Soviet representative, was taped only. At 7:30 p. m. that evening CBS-TV presented a special half-hour program of the highlights of both speeches with interpretive interjections by network commentators.

Although tape has the advantage of a better image than film and does not require its lengthy processing, tape still cannot be spliced. This breaks made in the continuity of a taped program must be bridged by live camera shots. It is expected that it will be technically possible to splice tape within two years.

Although it's much too early to determine exactly how television will cover the 1960 conventions, Mickelson pointed out the networks established a pattern of saturation coverage in 1952 that it may be difficult to break. In that year, because of the number of single station markets and single cable lines which had to be shared, the networks compromised by all covering the entire proceedings.

Video tape, as CBS News used it in recent U. N. coverage, would appear to be the means of eliminating such tediousness in TV's coverage of the 1960 conventions.

No Film Needed in New System

Will Help Solve Some of Major Problems at Past Conventions

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Video tape, the system that enables moving pictures to be recorded and instantly played back without the use of film, is improving television news coverage.

Looking ahead to the 1960 presidential conventions one can see that tape might help solve some of the problems involved in TV coverage of the 1952 and 1956 conventions.

Even the most ardent members of both major parties agreed that keeping TV cameras on both conventions continuously in '58 resulted in some mighty dull viewing.

Sig Mickelson, general manager of CBS, said: "I'd prefer to edit the conventions and use video tape for the less vital parts of the proceedings in 1960. We would, of course, go live for balloting and other highlights. You never can overlook the importance, the sense of actuality, in live coverage of events as they happen."

CBS news was the first network to make use of the unique advantages of tape in covering the United Nations sessions at the height of the recent Mideast crisis.

One example was the day President Eisenhower addressed the General Assembly. The President's speech was carried live and also taped; the speech by Andrei Gromyko, the Soviet representative, was taped only. At 7:30 p. m. that evening CBS-TV presented a special half-hour program of the highlights of both speeches with interpretive interjections by network commentators.
