Commission Gives Willman Confidence Vote

Only 8 of 73 Survive Airliner Crash

'Mommy Held Me... the Water Was Cold'

NEW YORK (AP)—Robert Sullivan, 8, was sitting in the seat of the big airliner next to his mother. Nearby were his father and two sisters.

They had been on a happy excursion to visit relatives in Chicago, as they often did, and were almost back home again.

Then came the nightmare. From a hospital bed, young Robert told about it in halting phrases.

"I was sitting in the seat next to Mommy," he said.

"I don't know what happened but all of a sudden I began to slide and we went under the seat.

"Then I was on something in the water.

"Mommy was holding me."

"Then in the water we couldn't stay up.

"I tried to hold my breath. I was cold. My arms felt frozen."

Robert could speak no further.

But somehow he knew of the tragedy that had befallen him. His murmurs to attendants made it plain he knew his parents and sisters were dead.

Robert and his mother were rescued from the icy waters and rushed to the hospital. His mother died in the hospital.

His father, Joseph, and sisters, Patricia, 13, and Joan, 5, were listed among those missing.

Deckhands on a tugboat reported seeing a man, holding a little blonde girl, swept under the surface of the water as the plane was sinking.

They were believed to be Robert's father and one of his sisters.

For Mrs. Estelle Kemach, 33, mother of two, it was the first word that a plane carrying her husband home from Chicago had crashed into the East River.

She grabbed for a telephone. It was too early for American Airlines to confirm that her husband was aboard and that he was a survivor.

Max Sonshin, Mrs. Kemach's father, who lives with her, sped with the worried woman to La Guardia Airport. There they learned some survivors had been taken to Flushing Hospital.

Father and daughter raced to the hospital, where their hopes were confirmed. Seymour Kemach was stunned but alive.

"He didn't know where he was," Mrs. Kemach said.

Later he said he owed his life to leaving his seat just before the crash to go to the lounge in the rear of the plane.

After the crash, he said, he helped two stewardesses and a little boy out of the plane. Next he recalled swimming toward a tug in the East River.

In his own words:

"How did I get out of the plane? I don't know.

"Then we went down and I thought I was going to die, but I helped pull out two hostesses and a little boy.

"That water was cold. I thought I'd never see my wife again. You don't know. I came close to giving up.

"I swam in the water to a tugboat. I swear to God I gave up twice. You just don't know how lucky I was. Now I know I'll live to be 60.

"I'm in good shape, only my ankle. But oh! my back, my leg, my head. And I'm still freezing. That water—it was so cold!"

New Jet Plane Plunges Into Icy New York River

Falls Short of Runway; Find 20 Bodies, Search for Other 45 Victims

NEW YORK (AP)—Swarms of harbor craft scoured the dark, icy water near La Guardia Airport today for bodies of 45 persons missing after the crash of a big new jet-powered American Airlines plane Tuesday night.

Twenty bodies were recovered during the night.

There were only eight known survivors among the 73 persons aboard the four-engine Lockheed Electra turboprop airliner, which mysteriously plunged into the fog-clouded East River only seconds away from a safe landing just before midnight.

Numerous investigations were launched into the tragedy. The Civil Aeronautics Board alone sped 26 men to the scene.

Many floating pieces of wreckage, including a portion of the main landing gear and pieces of sheet metal, were recovered and taken ashore to see if they might yield any clues to the cause of the crash.

VETERAN OF 30 YEARS

The plane's pilot was Capt. Albert H. DeWitt, 59, of Decatur, Mich., a veteran of 30 years and seven million miles of flying with American.

He radioed no indication of trouble before the plane's violent plunge.

The glistening big airliner hit the water with such a shattering crash it seemed miraculous that any of those aboard it survived despite the feverish rescue efforts of nearby boats.

The plane's pilot, using instruments because of the murky weather conditions, was feeling his way toward a runway at La Guardia Airport on a nonstop flight from Chicago.

But for some undetermined reason, the big four-engine turboprop craft smacked into the water and burst apart about half a mile from the shore end of the runway.

Some of the passengers and crew were flung from, or floated out of, the wreckage before it sank to the river bottom 30 to 36 feet below.

A tugboat chugging along a few hundred feet away cut loose two barges it was towing here from Connecticut and raced to the crash site. Crewmen leaped into the water or used boat hooks to pull out the eight persons known to

Rejects Eastman Ouster; Asks Straley Arbitration

City Manager Walter R. Willman won a sudden vote of confidence last night after city commissioners refused to oust the city's new public safety director and called for a citizens committee to arbitrate troubles between him and Police Chief Herbert W. Straley.

For the first time in his nine years in Pontiac, the manager's reputation was put to a test and he passed it by a 5 to 0 vote.

One commissioner, Milton R. Henry, abstained from the vote, saying: "The present police situation is a mess and indicates something is wrong within the administration."

Obviously shaken because a vote of confidence was even being considered, Willman told commissioners before the vote, "If I didn't believe I had your confidence, I wouldn't be here.

"I didn't ask for the vote," he said afterwards, "and I never expected one to take place."

Commissioner Floyd P. Miles called for the vote, observing that the manager's reputation "had been kicked around" during the present battle between Straley and Public Safety Director George D. Eastman.

"I have the utmost confidence in the city manager," said Miles.

Voting for Willman besides Miles were Mayor Philip E. Rowston and Commissioners William W. Donaldson, John A. Dugan and Robert A. Landry.

Landry had just tried unsuccessfully to oust Eastman, and hinted he believed the vote of confidence was brought up "to embarrass" his fight in behalf of Straley.

"The manager has done a tremendous job," Landry said angrily. "He doesn't need any vote of confidence."

Absent from the meeting was Commissioner Wesley J. Wood. Ill at home with pleurisy, Wood said he also would have given Willman his vote of confidence.

Landry and Henry voted for Eastman's removal but the four other commissioners present voted against it.

The District 7 commissioner then threatened to bring charges against Eastman of violating the State Civil Service Act on grounds that Eastman illegally stripped Straley of powers last Nov. 12.

Calling for a legal opinion from the city attorney by next week, Landry demanded that Straley be restored to power today "or else."

By another 4 to 2 vote, commissioners approved Donaldson's motion for a citizens committee. Rowston said he would make the appointments in a few days.

Whether the action would delay filing of charges against Straley was a question that depended on Willman and on the speed with which the arbitration committee takes action.

Rowston said there was no attempt at "procrastination," and planned to have the committee formed in time for it to meet before next Tuesday's Commission meeting.

"If at that time, all attempts

Dismisses Jury in Alyea Case

Judge Sets Feb. 17 for Hearing on New Motion to Drop Charges

Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer today dismissed seven women and four men jurors who for a week have been unable to reach a verdict in the first-degree murder trial of Raymond L. Alyea.

At the same time, Judge Beer set Feb. 17 for arguments in a new motion made today by Alyea's court-appointed attorney, William R. Beasley, that the 35-year-old Detroit gardner be released.

Jury foreman George T. Jeffers of Birmingham said jurors have been "split right down the middle" between conviction or acquittal since deliberations began last Wednesday.

Judge Beer declared the "hung jury" after Jeffers for the second time told the judge by note that "it is impossible to reconcile our differences."

Last Friday the judge refused to dismiss the jury for the same circumstances saying "you haven't begun to be long enough in deliberation."

Alyea, an ex-convict and combat Marine Corps veteran, is charged with the July 1 slaying of Anthony Jasinski, 51-year-old caretaker for the Ilgenfritz Nurseries, Inc., 22951 Northwestern Highway, Southfield.

The Detroiter took the stand in his own defense and denied he killed Jasinski. He admitted finding Jasinski's body when he returned to the nursery looking for a poker game.

It was Beasley's contention that his client stumbled upon the stabbed and beaten body, and then fled in fear he would be implicated and returned to prison.

Jeffers, who at first refused to talk to a reporter, later said about 40 ballots were taken without a verdict being reached.

Alyea was returned to the county jail to await the outcome of the Feb. 17 hearing.

Opponents at State Hearing 'Kill' Home-Rule for County

The fatal blow was dealt yesterday in Lansing at a public hearing conducted by the Senate Judiciary Committee, where opponents far outweighed proponents in the fight to give counties basically the same type governments like cities.

"The thing is dead if I'm any judge," declared John G. Semann, Berkley supervisor, who was preparing a home-rule resolution to present Monday to the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

"It will be a useless gesture, but I'm going ahead anyway," said Semann, who as head of Oakland's Legislative Committee, attended yesterday's Senate hearing.

Although the Senate committee has not officially voted on the joint resolution calling for an April 6 home-rule constitutional amendment, all indications are that because of the numerous protests lodged yesterday the resolution will die in committee.

Besides, the resolution would have had to pass the Senate, the House of Representatives and receive Gov. Williams' signature by Friday to get on the April 6 ballot.

"It's alive," declared Oakland State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge, "but as far as success of hitting the ballot, it will need many pulmotors."

Yesterday's setback is the first time since 1932 that home-rule has met defeat. In 1932, 1934, 1942, 1944 it was put to a vote, but lost.

FEARED FOR JOBS

Opposition was voiced yesterday by representatives of townships sheriffs, prosecutors and other county officials who feared they might lose their jobs under home-rule.

Favoring it were the Wayne County Board of Supervisors, the Detroit Citizens League and the Citizens Research Council of Michigan.

After a previous referral to have a first home-rule proposal studied further, Oakland supervisors are scheduled to vote Monday on a revamped resolution. This came after a group of south end mayors insisted that a safeguard to protect city home-rule be included.

Trombly Offers to Take Checkup, Quit If Necessary

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

MOUNT CLEMENS — Macomb County Probate Judge Joseph V. Trombly has volunteered to submit to a medical examination and resign from the bench if doctors find any ailment which might impair his judicial duties.

Trombly, who has been carrying on a running feud with the Macomb County Board of Supervisors, made his offer to County Bar Association President Frank E. Jeanette.

The judge, who has served on the bench for 18 years, is eligible for retirement with an annual pension of $6,000.

He said he would submit a report of his physical condition on or before Feb. 10, when the Board of Supervisors is scheduled to meet to discuss a recommendation by its judiciary committee that Trombly's actions in Juvenile Court be thoroughly investigated.

In the meantime, James P. Rosso has been reinstated as superintendent of the Macomb County Youth Home by the judge.

Rosso was fired Sunday by Judge Trombly, who charged that a division of authority existed at the home. The home is operated by Probate Court under Michigan law.

The firing aroused county officials, lawyers and residents.

Health Official Hits State's Lag in Fluoridation

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan's slow progress in fluoridating its public water supplies as a weapon against tooth decay was deplored today by State Health Commissioner Dr. Albert E. Heustis.

In opening Greater Detroit's children's dental health day, Dr. Heustis said only one of seven Michigan residents served by public water supplies has the advantage of fluoridation. The national average is one of three.

Dr. Heustis cited beautiful teeth for children and lower dental bills as the rewards of fluoridation. He said nearly 35 million Americans in 1,772 communities now receive the benefits of fluoridation, which diminishes tooth decay by about two-thirds.

"The need for fluoridation is painfully obvious when you see Michigan youngsters blighted with needless tooth decay, Michigan families struggling with needless monumental dental repairs to be made and dentists booked for months in advance trying to keep holes in teeth filled, bad teeth extracted and spaces bridged," Dr. Heustis said.

'Hot Rod' Atlas Winds Up Cape's ICBM Spectacle

The fiery Atlas shoot came 10½ hours after the new Titan ICBM sputtered out on the ground for the second time, split seconds before its launching debut.

"Hot rod" is the missile man's term for an ICBM that is pushed close to intercontinental range.

The Air Force apparently hoped to come close to duplicating the Nov. 28 feat which saw a "Big A" crack the 6,325-mile inter-continental range barrier for the first time.

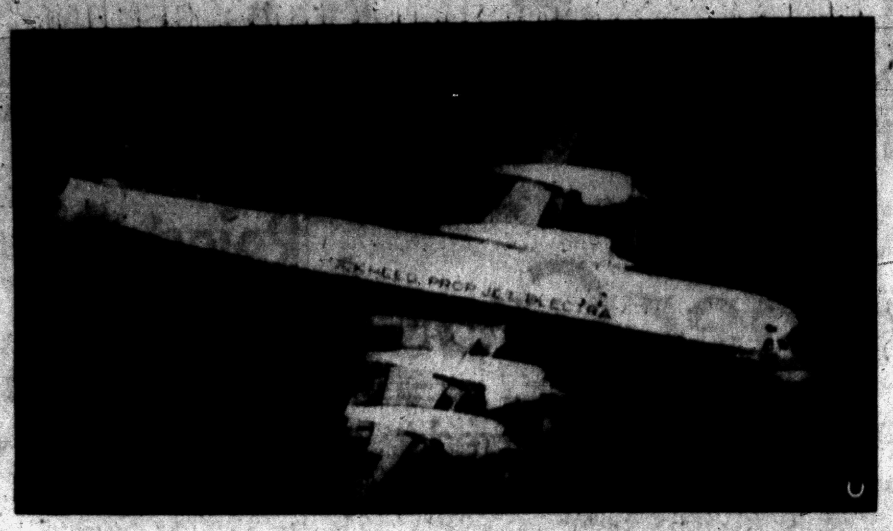

On the last attempt to push Atlas to the hilt on Jan. 15 a malfunction developed shortly after launch and the huge rocket wound up in the Atlantic less than 200 miles from the launching site.

The Air Force reported only that today's launching was "another in the Atlas research and development test flight program."

Today's shoot was No. 20 for Atlas which is expected to play a key role in U.S. space experiments by next summer.

The 120-ton rocket rumbled up from a bed of white flame, its three engines blazing at 3:01 a.m. It remained in sight for more than three and a half minutes.

at settlement have been exhausted without success, we won't attempt to interfere with the filing of charges," he promised.

Charges have been drafted by Eastman and were placed in the hands of the city attorney today for delivery to the city manager for filing with the Civil Service Commission.

Not given any specific instructions by the Commission to delay the charges, Willman said that if he gets them today, "I haven't the slightest idea what I would do with them."

The manager, who gave Eastman the go-ahead signal two weeks ago to draw up charges against the police chief, is faced with a 90-day-statute of limitations, which in Straley's case runs out Feb. 12. After that, Straley cannot be charged before the Civil Service Commission with anything that occurred while he still enjoyed his full powers.

Rowston said the committee would number about 15 persons, including top city officials and leading citizens of all walks of life.

Saying that public airing of charges and possible counter-charges between Eastman and Straley would bring "untold harm" to the community, Donaldson saw the arbitration committee as a means to "settle the differences out of court."

The committee could function in the same way that marriage counselors function in a divorce suit, the former mayor said.

"Maybe the two parties can patch up their quarrel this way. Even if the attempt fails, we won't have lost much time.

"It is our public duty to try any means to reach a compromise," said Rowston in support of the committee.

Donaldson's list of suggested candidates for the committee drew fire from Charles M. Tucker, president of the Pontiac NAACP chapter.

"I noticed there is not one Negro on your list. Your plea for community spirit of cooperation on the police question has a ring of false sincerity about it."

Donaldson replied that omission of a Negro from the list was an oversight that could be corrected by Rowston.

Henry asserted that commissioners voting for the committee were "shirking their duty" and attempting to stall the charges.

"This Commission failed to face the realities of the problem and come to grips with it long ago," he said. "Now we're just going all around Robin Hood's barn some more."

Gerald W. Kehoe, president of Fisher Body Local 596, UAW, sided with Landry and Henry.

"You spend $10,000 for a study (the PAS study) of the police department to find out what's wrong," he told the Commission. "Now you are trying to duck the issue by calling in a citizens committee. If you can't make up your own minds, you should step out."

Landry described the controversy between the two police officials as "a battle of principles," and claimed it had gone "far beyond the point of compromise."

"The police chief has been gagged, literally gagged, to prevent him from defending himself since Nov. 12. What kind of one-sided battle is that?" Landry angrily demanded.

"Eastman has not fulfilled the requirements of a top-notch personnel director," Landry charged. "He was brought here as a coordinator but he couldn't coordinate the differences between himself and one man — Straley."

Hired last October to bring about improvements in the department recommended by the Public Administration Service report, Eastman stripped Straley of everything but rank and power a month later, saying the chief was a stumbling block in the path of progress.

Landry believed that under Civil Service Straley's powers could not be taken from him without a hearing. City Attorney William A. Ewart promised a legal opinion on the question by next Tuesday.

Theodore Carlson, former chairman of the Civil Service Commission, said Straley was offered a hearing at the time his powers were trimmed, but turned it down.

Landry said the Commission should take action to fire Eastman from his $12,000-a-year post, since he believed the Commission hired him in the first place.

But Rowston and Willman claimed this was not so.

"I asked for the Commission's opinion of Eastman before I made the appointment," Willman conceded. "I didn't want to bring in somebody you would disapprove of.

"But let's keep the record straight: I made the appointment and under the City Charter no one else could legally have done it."

It was after this statement by Willman that Miles called for the vote of confidence.

Commissioners said nothing about Willman's decision to press charges against Straley, although it was this decision that brought the latest crisis to a head.

Winter-Weary Areas Pelted by Freezing Rain

By The Associated Press

Snow, freezing rain and rain dampened broad areas across northern regions and in most of the eastern half of the country today as colder air spread into the Midwest.

Southerly winds fanned considerably warmer air into eastern sections. With it came rain, freezing rain and snow. The rain belt extended from the central Gulf Coast northward through the Ohio Valley. There was a mixture of rain, freezing rain or snow from the Virginias northward into northern New England.

Snow, with occasional freezing rain, slicked highways and streets in the Great Lakes region. Light rain or drizzle sprayed Southeast sections from the Carolinas southward to extreme northern Florida.

Dulles Confident of United Front

Lands in London, Says West Allies Can Agree on Berlin Policy

LONDON (UPI) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said on his arrival here today that he was confident a series of cold war talks with west European leaders would lead to the establishment of a united front on the Berlin crisis.

He said it would be "premature" for him to comment on reports British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is planning to fly to Moscow on a "go-it-alone" mission.

Dulles' plane from Washington landed at 12:22 p.m. (7:22 a.m. EST).

Macmillan was expected to consult with Dulles and other Western leaders on the plan and if the other leaders approved, informed sources said, he would announce plans for the trip soon —possibly tomorrow.

Political sources said that if Macmillan goes to Moscow he might combine talks with Kremlin leaders with a Mikoyan-type "meet the people" tour of different parts of the Soviet Union.

Dulles said at London Airport that he had no new proposals on the Berlin crisis but he felt a need to talk with Western leaders.

"It is vitally important we understand each other," Dulles said. "I intend to do more listening than I do talking."

The remark appeared to confirm reports the Western Allies do not see eye-to-eye on the settlement of the German issue.

have survived. One was an 8-year-old boy.

A member of the tug's crew said the sights and sounds were something never to be forgotten.

"There seemed to be bodies all around, and there were continual screams for help," he said.

All through the night and into a doleful gray, rainy dawn a huge array of boats searched the river for bodies. By noon only 20 had been recovered, leaving 45 still missing. The eight survivors were in hospitals.

MOTHER DIES

The mother of the rescued boy had been pulled from the water alive but died afterward. The boy said his mother swam and held his head above water before he was rescued.

Swirling river currents, plus rain and wind up to 40 m.p.h., hampered the search for other bodies, and gave rise to fears that some of them might be swept miles out into Long Island Sound.

The site of the crash was marked by a few floating pieces of the $1,700,000 Lockheed Electra airliner—a type put into service only a few weeks ago.

There also were some other heartbreaking reminders of the tragedy—such as a baby's glove, a woman's shoe, a package of letters a knapsack and a woman's dress, in the water.

It was an irony of fate that the tugboat happened to be near the crash. New York harbor tugs, ordinarily scurrying busily up and down the river, are now tied up by a strike of crewmen.

The tug which raced to the rescue, however, was not affected by the tieup since it is based in Connecticut.

Among the missing plane passengers presumed dead were Beulah Zachary, producer of the Kukla, Fran and Ollie television program; and Richard Winn, director of facility planning for American Airlines.

The new airliners were designed to combine jet power with the advantage of the propeller. The engines operate on the turbine principle.

Adams Decides Proposal Legal

Attorney General Says Plan Doesn't Conflict With Constitution

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams today proposed a novel plan for lightening the impact of his 140 million dollar tax program on business by 30 million dollars starting in 1960-1961. Basically, it would allow business to subtract 15 per cent of local personal property tax payments from state tax bills.

LANSING (AP)—A graduated tax in individual incomes was held today by Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams not to conflict with Michigan's constitution.

In an opinion issued to Gov. Williams, Adams concluded that "as long as the legislature treats uniformly each person in a particular income status, the graduated feature will not otherwise impair its validity."

He said the fact that four times in the past the people had failed to approve proposed constitutional amendments specifically authorizing the levy of an income tax was not controlling.

Various propositions along this line went on the ballot in 1922, 1924, 1944 and 1956.

Each proposal "inexplicably involved other considerations" than the narrow issue of the legislature's power to impose the tax, he said.

"It is thus apparent the electorate has never been given the opportunity to vote on the single question of whether or not it would approve an income tax amendment," he said.

Accordingly, he added, the referenda established neither the validity of the legislature's power nor the lack of it.

Adams noted that Atty. Gen. Voorhies in 1931 and Atty. Gen. O'Brien in 1933 before him had reached similar conclusions.

The attorney general acknowledged that court decisions have split on the issue of whether a net income tax is an ad valorem tax on property.

But he said the "better and well-reasoned" view was that it is not, since an income tax "is not imposed upon or measured by property."

For this reason, it would not fall within the uniformity rule of taxation laid down by Sec. 3 of Article X of the constitution, but rather that of Sec. 4 of Article X.

Sec. 4 permits the legislature to "impose specific taxes, which shall be uniform upon the classes on which they operate."

Adams said the graduated feature of an income tax would not offend its classification requirements.

Safely past its first legislative hurdle, Williams' plan to mortgage the 50-million-dollar Veterans Trust Fund bore down on another today as Republicans tried to smoke out the governor on a four-cent sales tax.

Rep. Arnell Engstrom (R-Traverse City) chairman, said he hoped his House Ways and Means Committee would quickly clear the four bills in the mortgage package for floor action later in the day.

However, he acknowledged there was resistance within the committee.

Williams warned again that without temporary use of fund securities "we just can't hope to keep things going."

House Republicans, after a caucus, pushed yesterday for an immediate commitment from Williams on adding a penny to the three cent sales tax to meet the state's long run need for new revenue.

The Democratic governor planned sometime today to outline in detail his plan to raise 140 million dollars in new taxes, principally through a graduated income tax and a five per cent levy on corporation profits.

Any new tax money, however, would not start coming in till the start of the new fiscal year in July, Williams said. Meanwhile, he said, the need for quick cash is imperative.

"Despite advance tax payments by industry, the Veterans Trust Fund holds our only hope," he said. "Just about everybody's going to run out of money otherwise."

Some political wags jested at what they viewed as the irony of corporate giants throwing a lifeline to the Democratic governor their top commanders have fought consistently in election campaigns.

To Discuss Jobless Pay

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan State AFL-CIO legislative conference will discuss labor's proposal for state jobless benefits of unlimited duration at Lansing's civic center Friday and Saturday. Michigan AFL-CIO President August Scholle is backing the proposal.

Matthaei Seeks Regent's Post

Announces Candidacy for Vacant U. of M. Position

Frederick C. Matthaei, widely known Detroit industrialist, sportsman and humanitarian, will be a candidate for nomination to the University of Michigan Board of Regents on the Republican ticket.

He hopes to be nominated by the Republican State Convention on Feb. 14 to fill one of the vacancies created by the retirement of Regents Roscoe Bonisteel of Ann Arbor and Leland Doan of Midland.

Matthaei was born and raised in Detroit. He worked his way through the University of Michigan, graduating in 1914.

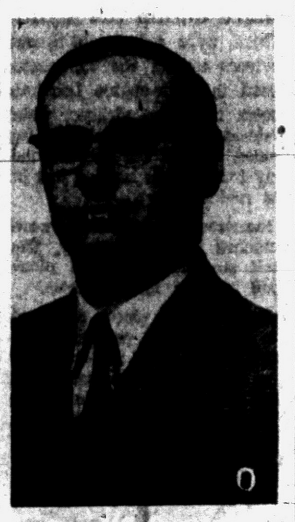

In 1917, at the age of 25, he founded the American Metal Products Company in Detroit and remained its president until 1954.

Matthaei is widely known for his charitable and civic activities. He established the Evangelical Home for Orphans and Old People.

As chairman of the Capital Gifts Committee of Detroit, he has been instrumental in raising many millions of dollars for city projects and Wayne State University.

For many years he has also headed the Detroit Olympic Committee in an effort to bring the Olympic games to Detroit.

Matthaei holds an honorary doctor of laws degree from Wayne State University and an honorary doctor of business administration degree from the University of Michigan.

DAVID E. FIRESTONE

Manager Hired at Sylvan Lake

Firestone Takes Post; Held Similar Position at Imlay City

The former village manager of Imlay City has been hired as city manager of Sylvan Lake.

David E. Firestone will take over as the city's new manager on Monday, Mayor William B. Taylor announced today.

Firestone will succeed Louis G. Barry who resigned early in December to take another position.

Firestone, 38, served for three years as manager at Imlay City.

He will accept the $6,500 a year job on a contract that can be terminated only by his resignation or removal by the City Council.

He was named village manager of Imlay City in December 1955, when a new village charter was adopted, creating a council form of government with a full time village manager.

Under his leadership the village organized its government. Firestone's accomplishments included the establishing of a building code, zoning code and the codifying of existing ordinances.

The village also constructed its first sewage treatment plant and interceptor sewers under Firestone.

Before that he was a civil engineer employed by the public works department in Battle Creek for more than five years. He is a graduate of Michigan Tech at Houghton.

A native of Port Huron, Firestone served as a meteorologist in the Air Force during World War II and was stationed in India for three years.

He is married and the father of two boys and one girl. He plans to move his family to Sylvan Lake in the near future.

Ask 25 M.P.H. Speed

LANSING (AP) — Parent-teacher groups are urging a 25 M.P.H. speed limit on highways near Michigan schools. Lynn M. Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction, reported to the State Safety Commission yesterday he has received several requests for a hearing on the proposal.

The Day in Birmingham

Oleg Cassini, Designer, to Address Town Hall

BIRMINGHAM — The Town Hall series will continue this Thursday and Friday morning at the Birmingham Theater with the noted fashion designer, Oleg Cassini, as speaker.

One of the country's outstanding designers of women's apparel, he will discuss how trends develop and the reactions which influence the continuance and alteration of design.

The newer fabrics and how they are used also will be included in Cassini's talks.

Mrs. George H. Cary, president of Town Hall, said this will be one of the most interesting programs the group has had this season.

Both talks will be followed by the customary luncheon at the Birmingham Country Club. Some of Cassini's creations will be modeled there.

Bloomfield Hills police said that two persons were injured in two separate Woodward avenue accidents yesterday afternoon.

Duan D. Ehrlich, 47, of 227 Marshall St., Pontiac, suffered back injuries when a truck driven by Larry Marsch, 57, of 3020 Garden Ct., Waterford Township, skidded into Ehrlich's car.

Ehrlich will be taken from William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac today for X-rays and further treatment.

Francis L. Vanaves, 37, of 6770 Halyard St., Birmingham, received lacerations on the face when his car was struck by another driven by Ann M. Moulton, 23, of 224 Pioneer St., Pontiac.

Both accidents occurred on Woodward avenue south of Long Lake road.

Birmingham chapter 220, OES, will meet at 8 p.m. tonight in the Masonic Temple. During the business session, plans will be made for a card party later this month.

The chapter recently celebrated its 61st anniversary. The special program honored the matrons and patrons of the order.

Mrs. Viola Minks, grand representative to Arizona, cut the three tiered birthday cake.

Meeting at 6:45 p.m. in the church, the Supper Club of the Congregational Church of Birmingham will hear a talk Friday night by Andrew Helela of the field audit section of the Internal Revenue Service.

His topic will be "Little Known Facts About Income Tax."

Shoe-for-a-Shoe Trade Actually Slip-Shod Affair

Some people believe in "an eye for an eye" but in Waterford Township two teenagers believe a shoe for a shoe is fair exchange.

One put on a new pair of shoes, and when the clerk wasn't looking the boys fled, leaving the old pair behind.

So they quickly left, grabbing another pair of shoes on the way out.

Rushing to the front of the store, Mrs. Bubmes started to jot down the car's license number. For good measure, one of the youths hopped out of the car and grabbed the slip of paper.

The case is being investigated by Waterford Township police.

Pack of Dogs Keeps Boy, 5, Out of School

Little Rickie Toncray didn't go to school today and he won't go tomorrow or the day after, his mother said—"just so long as the pack of dogs continues to haunt our neighborhood."

Mrs. Richard Toncray says a band of from 10 to 12 stray dogs are roaming in the vicinity of her home, 3629 Ashview St., West Bloomfield Township, posing a threat to passersby, especially small children.

Her son Rickie, 5, attends kindergarten at the Scotch Elementary School. Each morning he has to walk three blocks to board the school bus, returning by the same route later in the day.

"He has been attacked by these dogs and chased home or to a neighbor's home on three different occasions," Mrs. Toncray said. "And twice the hounds have knocked him to the ground. Once he was rescued by a neighbor who went at the dogs with a stick. The other time Rickie managed to pick himself up and run home," she added.

Her pleas to the Oakland County dog warden and the township police have received the reply in both instances that nothing can be done about the dogs until the boy or somebody else is bitten, Mrs. Toncray said.

"Our hands are tied, with no township jurisdiction in these cases," said one local police officer who declined to give his name. "It's up to the county to take action," he added.

The officer said people with stray dogs on their property can hold the animals and have the county dog warden pick them up.

County Home-Rule Appears Doomed

said he was inclined to favor no vote at this time as home-rule "needs much more study to protect the rights of people to elect their local governing body."

The one-time Oakland County prosecutor said he sides with those who believe the resolution is too broad and might eventually abolish such elected offices as prosecutor and sheriff.

Lodge was vice chairman of Sen. Frank Andrews' (R-Hillman) interim Senate committee which had studied, supported and introduced the home-rule resolution.

"We found out at the hearing that much more study is required, Lodge remarked.

This not only will be done in Lansing but also in Oakland County, according to Springfield Township Supervisor John L. Carey. Carey's Special County Government Study Committee had urged Oakland supervisors in December to adopt a resolution favoring a constitutional amendment which would have paved the way for home-rule.

HOW IT WORKS

Simply, home-rule provides that counties that wish it could frame and adopt their own county charters to fit their area's individual needs.

Not only would Michigan voters have had to approve the constitutional amendment, but then the Legislature would have had to set up the framework for county home-rule. Then the electors of counties desiring home-rule would vote on a suggested charter drafted by a charter commission.

Carey, somewhat discouraged when he heard of results of the hearing, promised weaknesses pointed out yesterday would be studied further.

"Eventually it is going to be home-rule in Oakland County," Carey predicted.

He scoffed at criticisms that boards of supervisors, prosecutors and sheriffs stood to lose their present jobs under home-rule. "That's nonsense, and had no part in our picture at all," he said.

However, he and Lodge agreed that this fear was the big reason behind the majority opposition.

"There is still hope for home-rule in the future after proper study and when these safeguards to ease these fears are incorporated," declared Lodge.

Hart Refutes Charge of Needless Arrests

DETROIT (AP) — Police Commissioner Herbert W. Hart has released crime statistics which he said refuted a Detroit Bar Assn. complaint that thousands of arrests are made in Detroit every year without cause.

Hart disclosed the figures at a meeting attended by top police officials and bar association civil rights committee members.

He said of 73,827 arrests made here in 1956, 26,696 persons were held for investigation and subsequently released without charge.

A Michigan Supreme Court decision, he said, declares that interrogation is "not inherently coercive" and that it does have value in solving crimes.

Find Mathews Guilty on Parking Violation

A jury of six women in Birmingham Municipal Court this morning found Fenton R. Mathews of 5800 N. Adams Rd., Troy, guilty of parking in an expired meter zone in Birmingham.

Judge John C. Emery fined Mathews $6 plus $27 court costs. The judge added that Mathews has 10 days in which to file an appeal if he so desires.

Representing the city, Attorney Dean Beier told the jurors they should reach their decision on evidence presented and disregard the defendant's pleas of loyalty to his community and country.

Mathews argued his own case.

Only Lent Can Dampen Their Christmas Spirit

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Mrs. Hugh McDonald says her family soon will dispose of the 10 Christmas trees they have had since Christmas.

She said Tuesday night her family has been keeping the trees because of a feeling that "Christmas isn't over until Lent begins" (Feb. 11 this year).

Weather Slows Bridge Traffic

Travel Down 10 Pct. but Truck Crossings Keep Revenue Up

ST. IGNACE (UPI) — Michigan's exceptionally cold weather dropped traffic over the Mackinac Straits bridge by 10.6 per cent during January as compared to the same month of 1958, Bridge Authority Chairman Prentiss M. Brown said today.

Brown said 22,298 vehicles crossed the bridge during the past month, compared with 24,929 crossing during the same month a year ago.

But continued heavy truck travel held revenues derived from the bridge to within 1.7 per cent of collections for January 1958, Brown said. He said the bridge authority collected $105,982 last month, compared with $107,845 during January 1958.

The bridge authority chairman said 5,166 trucks of all kinds crossed the bridge last month, a 21.1 per cent increase over the 4,265 truck crossings in January 1958. He said 3,523 truck combinations (trailer trucks) crossed the bridge in January, 32.3 per cent more than the 2,665 similar crossing in January 1958.

"Heavy truck combinations pay higher tolls than passenger cars," Brown said. "That is why our revenues for this January were down only 1.7 per cent from a year ago despite the weather."

Brown said a total of 1,553,206 vehicles have crossed the bridge since it opened Nov. 1, 1957.

Bishop Blasts Shortcomings of Preachers

Bishop William C. Martin, resident Methodist bishop for the Dallas-Fort Worth area, lashed at whining voices, infalted vocabularies and a variety of other pulpit sins.

"People do not stop listening to a preacher deliberately or spitefully," insisted the bishop. "After all, they bother coming to church because they want to hear. They stop when something raises a barrier between them and the minister."

The bishop spoke Tuesday to about 1,000 attending Minister's Week at Southern Methodist University.

"The man who puts tears in his voice when there is no need for weeping is recognized for his insincerity and cuts himself off from his congregation," he said. Conversely, he added, many ministers have become afraid of showing their emotions, which is equally ineffective.

The bishop urged ministers to plan and prepare their sermons with care and not to use too many big words.

Deny Motion to Upset Carl Renda's Award

DETROIT (AP)—A United Auto Workers' motion seeking to upset a $400,000 jury award to Carl Renda in the Walter Reuther shooting case was denied by Circuit Judge Edward T. Kane yesterday.

The union then said it would ask a new trial. Judge Kane set May 20 for arguments.

Find Criminal Dead in Truck in Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—Robert C. Foster, 44, who had a criminal record dating back to 1931, was found dead yesterday in a parked panel truck on Detroit's east side.

He was stabbed to death, said Detentive Lt. John Morin. Foster's body had six wounds.

Morin said he apparently had been killed and then his body was stuffed into the truck.

Assistant Medical Examiner Dr. Harold Wasserman said there was no indication Foster had put up a fight.

Car Crash Kills Pioneer Flier

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Jack Frye, 54, pioneer flier who helped build one of the world's largest air transport firms, died in a traffic accident Tuesday night.

A pilot with a flying record of 7,000 hours, Frye died when his car smashed into the side of a car that pulled into the road in front of him.

Sheriff's deputies said the impact hurled his body 40 feet. The other driver, identified as Rosabell M. Wright, 42, Tucson, escaped with minor injuries.

Frye was president of Standard Airlines of Los Angeles in 1927 when the firm pioneered airline service to the East. He also was a pilot for the company and flew the first commercial airliners into Phoenix and Tucson.

In 1930, Standard merged into the Western Air Express Corp., and later that year into Transcontinental and Western Airlines, now Trans World Airlines.

He became president of TWA in 1934 when it had a payroll of 600. When he left 13 years later, the firm was a 70-million-dollar operation with more than 17,000 employes.

After leaving TWA, he became president of General Aniline and Film Corp. of New York and later chairman of its board.

Later he became associated with Helio Aircraft Co., and came to Tucson eight months ago to negotiate transfer of the company plant to Tucson from Pittsburg, Kan. The firm specializes in aircraft requiring smaller-than-usual landing fields.

Frye's widow, Nevada, was visiting a brother in Las Vegas, Nev.

Deaths Elsewhere

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Mrs. Clara P. Mature, mother of movie actor Victor Mature, died Tuesday. She had been ill for five years.

Report Break-In of Waterford Filling Station

The Sinclair Service Station at 5009 Pontiac Lake Rd., Waterford Township, was broken into sometime last night and approximately $75 in change was taken from vending machines, according to Waterford Township Police.

A milk truck driver, Warren Webberman, discovered the theft at 5:30 a.m. when he arrived to get his truck which was parked at the station.

Entrance was gained by breaking a window in the building, according to police.

Committee in House Passes Hawaii Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Interior Committee today approved a bill to make Hawaii the 50th state.

Rep. Leo W. O'Brien (D-NY), acting committee chairman, said the 25-4 vote reflected overwhelming congressional sentiment in favor of admitting Hawaii this year.

The bill now goes to the House Rules Committee, after a one-week delay for filing of formal reports.

It is up to the rules group to schedule House action.

O'Brien said he believes there is an excellent chance the rules committee will clear the legislation for House consideration, although it did not act on Alaska statehood last year.

The bill that brought Alaska into the Union was taken up in the face ofr ules committee inaction.

3 Local Issues on April Ballot

Sewage, Tavern Hours, Repeal of Civil Service for Police on List

Pontiac voters will have three local issues before them on the April 6 ballot.

City commissioners last night formally approved putting the third issue up to a vote—the proposed $3,300,000 bond issue to build a new sewage treatment plant and expand the old one.

It asks property owners to approve by a three-fifths majority a general obligation bond issue to run 30 years at an interest rate of not more than six per cent, repayable out of the city's tax collections.

There is no provision for a special tax to pay off the bonds.

A similar proposition was turned down by voters in 1957 and again last fall.

The two other election issues won a place on the ballot during the past week.

A proposition to repeal civil service for police and replace it with the old trial board was placed on the ballot by commissioners a week ago.

Another proposition, calling for repeal of an ordnance that has Pontiac taverns opening at 2 p.m. on Sundays, instead of at noon as provided for in state law, got on the ballot Monday through petitions circulated by the Oakland County Table Toppers Association.

Italy's Socialist Party Wrecks Government

It is curious to note that a quarrel within the left wing Italian Socialist Party caused the downfall of the right wing Christian Democratic Fanfani Government which had ruled through coalition for seven months.

At a four day convention in Naples the Nenni Socialists by a 3 to 2 vote again proclaimed complete autonomy from Communists, affirmed two years ago after Russia's brutal actions in Hungary and Poland. Since then, however, the "autonomy" was nullified by Communist agents within the party. The convention shut out pro-Communists from the directorate and they "will have neither voice nor ears inside the party's governing body."

This is a setback for the Communists, of course, but it led to withdrawal of a Democratic Socialist minister of the Fanfani Government and to an opening for right wing opponents of the Premier in his own Christian Democratic Party.

Lacking a majority, Fanfani had the backing of Saragat's small anti-Communist Socialist group. But this caused trouble with right wing members of his own party. Precipitating the collapse was the resignation of anti-Communist Social Democrat Minister Vigorelli, who thought it possible to work with Nenni's "reformed" Socialists. Saragat thought otherwise. Vigorelli resigned and the Premier found his position untenable.

We can hope that the Nenni Socialist's break with the Communists may be a first step toward a stronger and more democratic government in Italy.

India's Congress Party Decrees Land Reforms

Prime Minister NEHRU's Congress Party has ordered India's 14 states to fix definite ceilings on compensations for land holdings by the end of the year. This is part of a program to change that country's 612,000 villages into farming co-operatives.

Out of a total population of 370 million, 83 per cent is rural, most of it landless. Large holdings are a thing of the past so that this courageous decree by the Congress Party will affect its strongest supporters, the smaller landowners of today. On the other hand the government can't ignore the land hunger of the country's poverty-stricken peasantry.

Another matter which is giving Prime Minister NEHRU a lot of trouble is the exalted place of the cow in the Hindu community. They are everywhere, holding up traffic, eating everything in sight and giving no milk. He charges that while worshiping cows, the Indians let them starve to death.

It would be more humane and sensible, says PANDIT NEHRU, to care for them properly, get milk and other uses and forget the religious angle. Many Hindus are more concerned when a cow is hit by a car than when a child starves to death in the streets.

While land reform can be decreed, the discouraging problem of the sacred cow will take much longer to solve because of religious feelings.

McClellan Wants No Part of Union's Plan

According to the latest reports from Washington, the labor union leaders who are engaged in various rackets as a side issue—or as a number one job—lost out in their attempt to emasculate the MCCLELLAN Committee.

It was rumored all over Washington that these unions had told the House Committee they wanted the group loaded with Democrats so that the unions could call the shots through their faithful puppets. In the past, the committee has been composed of an equal number of Democrats and Republicans. The change would have given Democrats a majority.

The HOFFAS and the BECKS would have been heartened and cheered no end at a great break like this. But Senator MCCLELLAN, himself a Democrat, saw the hand writing on the wall and refused to be a party to scuttling the ship of state like this.

The investigations will continue.

Governor's Tax Plan Stirs Pen of Many Area Citizens

So Gov. Williams wants $424,000,000 to pay state bills, supplement an already "oversupplemented" school program and meet the pressing welfare need in this state. He proposed getting $140 million of it in new or hiked taxes.

Unless he has a plan for taxing unemployment checks and welfare orders, he had better take off those rose-colored glasses he's looking into the future with.

He calls his budget "rigid and severe economy." If he would visit the welfare or unemployment offices he'd find many of his taxpayers have been living rigid and severe economy for two years. While he and the Legislature were neglecting yesterday's bills, we've had to pay ours out of greatly reduced income or lose our homes, cars, and other possessions, and just plain do without.

Louise Adams

I'm addressing this to the author of "Sales Tax Increase Is Sensible Solution." All thoughtful judgments are based on criteria. If I interpret right, the criterion here is that it's easy to administer. Do not other criteria rate much higher in importance?

Many of us are just beginning to study the tax problem. We need enlightenment from the best thinkers with the highest motives. I've read that the sales tax rests heaviest on those of low income who are hard-pressed to provide the barest necessities of food, clothing and shelter. Is this correct?

Marjorie Mathes

2674 Sylvan Shores Dr.

Why doesn't this state do what some of the southern states do to save money? They take their criminals out and make them work on the highways and they have a lot better roads than Michigan. I'm a General Motors worker and I pay my taxes here in Michigan. For what? I voted for Williams and what is he trying to do?

Henry Palmer

Lake Orion

If Reuther favors pouring all the taxes on business and those with higher incomes, then the unions should be taxed for millions and millions for they have the money to pay it and they should recognize their obligation to their State and to their personal governor.

C. B.

We want to express our approval of Gov. Williams' speech. We feel it's indeed a very fair and equitable plan as well as the Veterans' Fund. Incidentally my son and husband are both vetearns.

MCK

While sealing this letter and putting a four-cent stamp on it, I hope it'll help balance the budget or give someone a heart attack reaching for it. The old adage about the rich getting richer and the poor getting poorer enters the picture.

Let's get behind the man we elected and the party that feels the wants of Michigan and its citizens. He's fighting for you and me and not for Mikoyan and his coherts. (Where was his name on the roll call of the million-dollar welcome for Mikoyan?)

Williams' personal income tax is very simple and it's going to hit the millionaire hard, but can't he afford it?

Bird Watcher

Ohio is starting a campaign for new industries and showing what a favorable climate Ohio has for business. Their campaign is well timed for it comes right when Williams is trying to drive more business out of Michigan and adding to our unemployment. Ohio figured this one out good.

'Would 100 Years Suit You More?"

I read in The Press that the teachers now want to accumulate up to 100 days sick leave. They get 60 already. I'm surprised they didn't want 100 years. I'm sure the taxpayers will be delighted at the prospect. How many of those who would have to foot the bill ever get any such free ride?

I write this with pleasure to tell about boys like the one who helped me, a member of the Timers of Pontiac. God bless them all.

The Man About Town

It's Old Fashioned

Winter Has Proportions Mindful of 50 Years Ago

The opening days of this week removed the few doubts that remained with my long-time weather watchers—this is an old fashioned winter.

While the mercury has not plummeted as low as it did a half century or more ago, its flirting with the zero mark has been more consistent than in most of the horse and buggy days.

However, any drastic thermometer readings must be taken with at least two grains of salt. They're mindful of my boyhood days, when I stuck a thermometer into boiling water to see what it would do. It did.

The mercury ran over the top of the tube, and after that it never got above zero in midsummer. Some thermometers get too close to teakettles.

"I had my thermometer put in proper focus by an expert," phones

Gregory Antwerp

The Old Farmer's Almanac

predicted for this week: "Easterly storm; hide where it's warm;" for next week: "Windows are pelted; snow's almost melted."

This column is in quite agreement with the sentiments of

of Rochester, who phones that Flint is trying to steal the thunder of Pellston as a mercury liar.

My champion moon watcher finds that we're making lunar history this month, which has only three moon changes—no last quarter. She asks the astronomical experts to tell us how many centuries it will be until it happens again.

David Lawrence Says:

Something's Wrong Inside Russia

WASHINGTON — This writer spent two hours last night reading a complete English translation of the 50,000-word speech delivered a week ago by Nikita Khrushchev before the 21st Communist Party Congress in Moscow.

LAWRENCE

It is a startling revelation of the weaknesses of the Soviet Union. It was designed, of course, to show the strength and progress of the Soviets in their competition with the West.

But it betrays the anxieties, the worries—indeed, the fears—of the Kremlin that the people any day may take things into their own hands and sweep the present "czar" from his post.

Numerous passages—more than would seem to be necessary—stress how eager the Soviet Union is for world peace. Surely there must be grave doubts in the minds of the people, for again and again the Communist Party chief assures his listeners that the Moscow government is sincerely intent on peace.

Significant also is the constant repetition of another theme—that a Communist society is an ultimate deal and that the present "Socialist" ideology is just a transition affair.

Promises of Utopia run through the document and give a feeling that something is wrong inside the Soviet Union or else it wouldn't be so necessary to paint such rosy pictures of what the future will bring.

It's now a "seven-year plan" which the Soviet chief outlines, but, since the revolution of 1917, there have been all kinds of "five-year plans." It is a way evidently to try to placate the discontented by pleading for more and more time in which to achieve reforms.

It may be doubted whether the members of the Communist Party who sat through seven to eight hours of speechmaking could possibly have absorbed all that was said.

There is a boring repetition and a labored attempt to be convincing. Frequent references are made to the United States, especially its economic progress.

These are followed by boastful promises that America is to be overtaken in the contest for bigger and bigger production not only of machinery but of all kinds of goods and food products.

Every now and then it is apparent, from a reading of the Khrushchev speech, that the people aren't as responsive as they might be expected to be if the published reports of their attitude are taken at face value.

Naturally, a speech by any chief figure in Moscow takes into account foreign as well as domestic consumption. The excerpts which deal with foreign policy have been reported widely in the press.

They reveal little change in the position of the Soviets, which is that the West must "negotiate" its own surrender and will get nothing by way of concession.

It is interesting to note how much fuss Khrushchev makes about the "Sputniks" and the rocket sent toward the moon. One sees clearly, by reading the speech, why the Soviets are making such a fantastic effort.

It is hoped to take the minds of the people way from their worries and the shortages of food, clothing and lodging. The boasting is overdone. It is an artificial device intended to convince the Soviet people that they should be proud of what has been achieved.

Perhaps the most impressive thing about the speech is that it relies so strongly on a miraculous change in human nature yet to come. The Soviet citizen is expected to give up family life, to venture into far-off areas and sleep under canvas, and to undergo all sorts of privations to attain the questionable goals of the perfect Communist society.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Here Are Tips to Follow If You Want Good Coffee

In a recent column, I said: "Good coffee lets you sleep." By good coffee I meant not this or that brand of coffee but coffee properly brewed. In the piece I revealed the secret of making good coffee:

DR. BRADY

(1) Grind your own coffee—just enough for each brew.

(2) Let the coffee stand in cold water in a cool or cold place for an hour or two or overnight.

(3) Put the spot on the fire just before time to serve, bring the coffee nearly but not quite to boiling, then douse the fire and serve the coffee immediately.

In the red book, What to Eat and Why (35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope), I devote a chapter to coffee and another to comparison of the health and medical aspects of chocolate, cocoa, coffee and tea. And I devote two chapters to the most nearly perfect food—the most healthful beverage for young persons or those who want to stay young—milk.

Since the coffee piece was printed, I have received a dozen or more letters from coffee importers, processors or promoters of coffee products—or rather letters from their assistants, department executives, secretaries and the like—informing me that the great man wants me to cite authorities for my statements or references to recognized authorities who advance. . .

STUFF!

Stuffed shirts. They belong in the category of the near-tycoons who have their secretaries call you to the telephone and ask you to hold the 'phone until the shirt can spare time to talk to you.

Even a cup of good coffee doesn't help me to endure these vexations.

As I said in the December piece, coffee (caffeine) acts on the cerebrum for 2½ to as long as 3½ hours. In four hours the drug is entirely oxidized, destroyed or eliminated. So one may enjoy a cup or two of good coffee at dinner time or early in the evening, without fear of being kept awake if one does not go to bed within four hours after drinking the coffee.

The notion that coffee at breakfast time will make one "nervous" or keep one awake at night is for the birds.

Two or three cups of good coffee daily is good for any adult with heart trouble, particularly coronary aretry trouble. Its physiological action is dilation of the coronary arterioles. Thus the heart muscle receives a greater amount of blood oxygen, nutriment.

I'm the authority for any statement I make here. If you have any doubts of this, try to find an authority who will contradict my statement:

I can't stomach stuffed shirts.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

The Country Parson

Case Records of a Psychologist:

He's Master Psychologist at Two

Scrapbook this case of Tommy and the preacher. For it is a gem of Child Psychology and will show you that human infants do far more reasoning than we dream of. Tommy is already a deft Applied Psychologist. I'd relish having him as a college student some years hence. Star salesmen use his method to lead their prospects to the "dotted line" stage.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE A-445: Tommy Huffman, aged 2½, is the son of the publisher of the TRIBUNE at Wisconsin Rapids, Wisconsin.

CRANE

Tommy lives beside the parsonage occupied by Rev. E. Duane Hulse and his family, and Tommy likes to call on the clergyman, partly because the latter kept a dish of candy on the table and always offered Tommy a piece.

But Tommy's mother had vetoed the idea of candy before meals, so the parson placed the dish on a shelf.

One morning thereafter, Tommy entered the parsonage and walked on into the pastor's study.

"Hello, Buster," came the parson's jovial greeting.

"My name's not Buster. I'm Tommy," said the visitor, primly.

"I've had my breakfast, have you?" Tommy continued, apparently in all simplicity.

"Yes, I've had my breakfast, too," added Rev. Hulse.

"I had eggs for breakfast, did you?" Tommy went on.

"Yes, I had eggs," added the parson.

"We had pancakes for breakfast," Tommy persisted. "Do you like pancakes?"

"Yes, I like them," the clergyman replied.

"I had syrup on my pancakes Tommy continued. "It is sweet and I like syrup, don't you?"

"Yes, I do," the pastor added.

Then, having led up to his main objective in this diplomatic fashion, Tommy said, "I see the new place where you've put the candy dish."

DIPLOMATIC TOMMY

Later, Rev. Hulse was visiting my Bible Class at the skyscraper Chicago Temple, so I invited him to take 15 minutes to address the group.

"You can see what a diplomat Tommy really is, even at the tender age of only 2½," the pastor added, after telling us the foregoing story.

"He used some of the clever psychology of salesmanship which Dr. Crane taught for so many years at Northwestern University. For he got me into a 'Yessing' mood. You will notice that he asked me four questions, to which I answered with a 'Yes.'

"Thus, he got me habituated to agree with him, as star salesmen usually do.

"And he removed the possible 'objection' from the prospect by politely informing me at the outset that he had already eaten his breakfast. Hence, his mother's veto of candy just before meals was not applicable.

"And he led me, the unsuspecting 'customer', around to the subject of sweetness, ending up with his query about whether I liked syrup on my pancakes.

"Then he left to suggestion the final 'dotted line' stage by simply adding that he saw the new place where we kept the candy dish.

"What could I do after that? He had 'sold' me a bill of goods without my even realizing what was happening until the final O'Henry conclusion.

"Yet Tommy was only 2½ years of age and I'm supposed to be an experienced adult! It shows that smart youngsters do far more thinking than we often give them credit for, don't you agree?"

TRUE CASES

In this column I offer you true cases that present what in science we call the "raw data" from the field of psychology.

You can thus scrapbook this column and soon compile your own textbook of practical psychology.

I salute Tommy as a deft Applied Psychologist and hope to have him as a reader in a few years!

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Hal Boyle Says:

Money Talks but Has Developed Laryngitis

Men invariably grow feebler with age. So, often, does their money.

Time waters down most currencies. This is happening in our own lives to the American dollar.

There is an old slang saying that "money talks," and it still does. But there was a time when the U.S. dollar didn't merely talk. It shouted in a voice admired—and feared—around the globe.

This is no longer quite so true. The "almighty dollar" no longer is almighty. It has developed laryngitis. While other currencies have been building up muscle—such as the Swiss franc, the German mark—the dollar has been losing weight.

If a man had lost as much weight, comparatively, as the dollar has, he would be in a hospital bed calling for blood transfusions and an oxygen tent.

Postwar inflation has swept all countries to varying degrees. The creeping inflation in the United States has gone on so steadily that it is only occasionally we are sharply reminded that, while we have more money in our pockets now, it doesn't have the same value.

Here are four recent examples that made me sharply nostalgic for the dollar that was a dollar.

1. A lady in our office casually remarked that it now cost her $2.25 merely to park her car in a midtown Manhattan lot during working hours. Remember when a traveling man could get a good hotel room for $2 a night—and they parked the car free?

2. A panhandler hit me up. Scratching in my pockets, I found only 23 cents in change—and gave it to him with an apology. "Don't you have a buck you can spare?" he demanded.

3. A friend of mine who is 50 years old and in poor health said he'd like to quit but he could only get $200,000 for his business if he sold out. Asked if he didn't think he could live the rest of his life on $200,000, he said, "today, yes. But in 10 years, if money keeps falling, I might be broke. This inflation might speed up."

4. Another friend who had scrimped for 30 years so he could retire at 55—"not to quit but to try something new"—has given up his plan. "The money I've saved simply won't get me by now," he said ruefully. "I'll have to stay where I am until I'm 60, and at 60 who wants to take a chance on another line of work? Who'd hire me then ayway?"

Slowly, remorselessly, the declining value of the dollar is forcing millions of AMERICANS TO CHANGE LIFELONG PLANS. The change lifelong plans. The things they had hoped to do are no longer possible because inflation has priced them beyond the realm of possibility.

Inflation waters down not only a people's currency; it also waters down their dreams. Its terrible cost is paid least by the shiftless grasshopper, most by the thrifty ant—and thereby it violates the morality behind all sensible living.

Inflation doesn't wait for posterity to present its bill. It presents its bill now, too, and the hard-earned dollar a man saved yesterday to buy himself comfort tomorrow is spent to keep himself afloat in the high-priced world of today.

It doesn't make sense, but inflation never does. It makes misery.

Actions Not Policy, Bone of Contention

Fulbright a Thorn in Dulles' Side

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles differ not so much on basic policy as on how to carry it out.

But that difference over the years has been enough to cause one Fulbright attack on Dulles after another.

All that Fulbright said—nettlesome as it may have been—had less force when he was speaking as just another member of the Foreign Relations Committee. But his position and his power have both changed.

Last week Sen. Theodore F. Green (D-RI), with diminished sight and hearing at 91, stepped down as chairman of the committee. Fulbright is moving up into his spot.

While the new job carries more power, it also carries more responsibility. That may have a restraining effect on Fulbright's criticism. It's hardly likely, as he indicated after taking over the new job. But he said after talking with Dulles Monday that he expects their relations to be satisfactory.

In a Senate speech in 1956 Fulbright accused Dulles of withholding the truth about "our present peril from Soviet Russia" and said the secretary "misleads public opinion, confuses it, feeds it pap. . . . "What we want and what we will support is a secretary of state who will not treat us as children, ready to clap in delight at every fairy story, however fanciful."

Last August Fulbright attacked the Eisenhower-Dulles handling of foreign policy as "inadequte, outmoded, and misdirected."

He said that when the present U.S. leadership "is not weak and desultory," it "tends to be impetuous and arbitrary."

The indication that Fulbright is unlikely to follow a softer line, now that he is committee chairman, came from the senator himself when he held a news conference after Green's resignation.

He said he stands on his statement of last August that administration policy is "inadequate, outmoded and misdirected."

Fulbright, like Dulles, is against recognition of Red China. But he thinks "we ought to explore the possibilities of some kind of overall settlement which would include Korea and Formosa."

Fulbright approves the administration's proposals for ending nuclear testing but recognizes there is disagreement among his colleagues and experts over the matter.

He said he thinks the administration has stalled on dead center in dealing with the Soviet demand to make West Berlin a free city.

He said: "Personally, I think it is important to move toward the withdrawal of foreign troops. It would be a good thing if Russia withdrew its occupation troops from East Germany, Hungary and Romania."

Practically everybody in the United States would like to see such a withdrawal. The question is: how to get the Soviets to do it? And the Western powers have been strongly opposed to withdrawing from West Berlin.

From the Fulbright positions mentioned here, it's clear he hasn't provided answers so much as needles.

But, then, as he said himself last week: "I don't have a blueprint for the solution of any of these problems." But he added that "we ought to have the attitude of trying to move off dead center."

Birds Possess Clue for Control of TB

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unique wax-eating birds in Africa have provided a clue which eventually may help control tuberculosis, the National Science Foundation says.

In its annual report, the NSF said some of its contract scientists had found in the intestines of such birds a hitherto unidentified bacterium that produces a certain protein fraction.

This protein inhibits the growth of tuberculosis germs in test tubes. Moreover, in preliminary experiments, it appears to protect guinea pigs against the TB germ.

The bird is called the "honey guide" because it guides certain mammals, including man, to the vicinity of wild bees' nests. After the mammals forage such nests, the tiny birds feed on the waxy honeycomb, their chief source of food.

While studying the digestion and nutrition of these birds, NSF scientists found a "wax-splitting bacterium" in the intestinal tract which apparently helps the birds digest their waxy diet.

The scientists, knowing that the causative germ of tuberculosis has a waxy envelope, tested the effect of the protein fraction on TB germs.

Now Used in Tracking Missiles

New Infrared 'Eyes' Can See Miles in the Dark

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—In the dark of night you now can see a man light a cigarette over five miles away — even if the light of his match is too weak to carry that distance.

In pitch dark, you now can see the tip of a finger more than half the length of a football field.

This strange ability to see in the dark is ours because science has given us a new set of eyes that can see heat.

They are so precise that they can detect temperature differences of a few hundredths of a degree some five miles away.

A set of these infra-red or heat-sensitive eyes rides in the nose of the lethal U.S. Navy Sidewinder missile. Fired from one plane at another, it seeks out the heat of its target's engine and homes in on it, hardly ever missing.

Along the Atlantic missile test range, huge missile nose cones burning their way back into the earth's atmosphere can be spotted and tracked by infra-red eyes in the dark of night.

Actually, infra-red devices operate fairly simply in principle. As a light meter registers the amount of light coming from a source, the infra-red device measures the amount of heat.

There are essentially two ways to do this, explains Henry Blackstone, president of Servo Corp. of America, one of the pioneer firms in the infra-red field.

The oldest and simplest way is to allow the incoming heat to heat up something — like a fly-speck of platinum.

When you do this you change the electrical qualities of the platinum and can measure this change by passing electricity through the tiny platinum sample.

Another method rests on the similarities between heat rays and light rays in action on some unusual minerals or chemicals.

Heat rays from even great distances are focused on a mineral in an infra-red device. The heat has the ability to knock loose electrons from the mineral. These free electrons generate a signal which is measured.

These devices are heat detectors sensitive enough to spot a man by the warmth of his body from as far away as 5 or 10 miles if the background is right and nothing stands between the target and the device.

Devices carried by drone aircraft will be able to scout over enemy lines. These devices will read where vehicles and men are concentrated and will be a valuable aid in stripping away enemy camouflage.

At night, they can tell whether the sun was blocked from an area for a long period because the heat radiated from that area will be less than the surrounding area. Theoretically it would be possible, after the sun goes down, to see the sunbather's silhouette on the sand, even though the sunbather had left.

Devices will be able to locate artillery batteries from the heat of the blast.

The first time infrared successfully detected an approaching ballistic missile on the U.S. range was on May 18, 1958, when the army using Aerojet-General Corp. equipment spotted a Jupiter test missile.

After that Aerojet scientists tracked the Soviet's Sputnik III in its orbit with an infrared detector.

Slates Special School Election

Walled Lake Voters to Decide on Two-Mill Addition to Fund

WALLED LAKE — The Walled Lake Board of Education has scheduled a special school election Mar. 9 for registered voters to decide on a two-mill addition to the school operating fund for a period of four years.

The election was announced today by the school board. The decision was reached at a meeting Monday night with the presidents and representatives of most of the civic organizations in the school district. They unanimously approved holding the election.

If the measure is passed the school tax rate of $20.48 per thousand of assessed valuation will not change, according to School Superintendant Clifford H. Smart.

"This will be possible because if the issue is approved by the voters, the board will then be able to reduce the levy for debt by two mills," he explained.

Presently, $11.98 is being levied for operational expenses of the schools and $8.50 for debt. If the measure passes, the operational fund will receive $13.98 per thousand and the debt fund $6.50, Smart said.

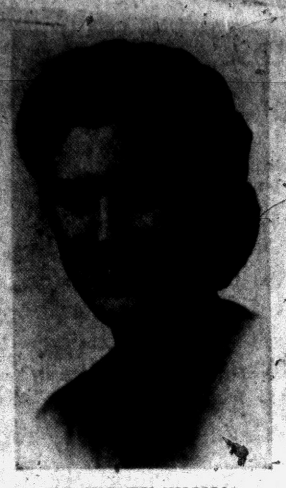

Passage of the proposal will bring in an estimated $93,500 next year, most of which will be used to improve salary schedules and to cover the extra expenses to be incurred with the opening of the new junior high school in September, he added.

Smart and the board urged passage of the proposal "in order to keep the district's high rating and because there will be an estimated increase of 400 in the fall semester enrollment of students. The present enrollment is about 5,800.

Rochester Blood Bank Accepts 235 Donors

ROCHESTER — The Red Cross Blood Bank held yesterday in the basement of St. Andrew Catholic Church here processed 320 would-be donors and accepted 235 pints of blood, it was reported today by Mrs. Russell Nowels, chairman and Oakland County Red Cross coordinator for the Rochester area.

Would be donors with colds or other minor afflictions were unable to give blood to the bank, Mrs. Nowels said.

Favors Repeal of Amendments

Walled Lake Council Wants to End Heating, Electrical Measures

WALLED LAKE — The City Council last night introduced a resolution to repeal electrical and heating amendments with final action scheduled to be taken at the next meeting Feb. 17.

The city attorney, Albert Herzog, was asked to investigate what action the city can take to get rid of unlicensed dogs running loose in the city.

Meanwhile dog owners are advised to keep their pets tied up, as the police may pick them up at any time.

The matter of parallel parking on E. Walled Lake drive has been tabled indefinitely.

The council made the following appointments: Everett McRae was named journeyman on the electrical board; William Wagers, named contractor on the same board.

Reappointed to the City Planning Commission were Norman Smith, Ben Schneider and L. R. Rourke; and William Staman to the Board of Review; Pat Chaplow and Charles Riffenburg to the Board of Appeals.

From 1935 to 1940 about five per cent of the population of the U.S. moved to other states, but between 1940-47 the trend had increased to more than 10 per cent.

Avondale Clubs to Sponsor Show

Plan Aid for Stricken Boy

AVON TOWNSHIP — A number of area organizations have banded together to sponsor a benefit show Friday, Feb. 13 for little Johnny Castor, five-year-old victim of leukemia (cancer of the blood).

The group, in cooperation with Curtain Call Theater members, will present "Abie's Irish Rose," a three-act comedy in Avondale High School.

Representatives planning the event include Ben Douglas of the Auburn Heights Lions Club and Civic Council, Harold Miller of the Avondale Fire Department and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Goodchild of the Rochester VFW, Post 3908 and auxiliary.

Others are Lloyd F. Carlton and Mrs. Erwin Sheldon of Avondale Metropolitan Club, Spirit 83, Max Main of the Avondale Community Forum and Mrs. Bonnie J. Norman, visiting teacher in the Avondale School District.

A representative of the Rochester Metropolitan Club, Spirit 61 was also included in the group.

Members of each of these organizations have pledged themselves to sell a minimum of 1,000 tickets to the play. All profits will go into the Johnny Castor Leukemia Fund set up in the Auburn Heights Branch of the Pontiac State Bank.

Johnny was a kindergartner in the Avondale School when he was stricken with the dread disease in December.

His family, the Louis W. Castors of 2965 Heartline St. are faced with mounting medical expenses to provide treatment for their youngster.

The benefit show is one of the major events being staged in Johnny Castor's behalf.

Any funds which might remain unused in Johnny's cause will go into a permanent fund for future use by the area organizations for similar emergencies.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the fund may mail donations to the Avondale Metropolitan Club, in care of Lloyd F. Carlton, president, 2137 Auburn Rd., Pontiac.

Avondale High School is located on Auburn road between Crooks and Livernois roads. Tickets to the play may be purchased from members of the sponsoring organizations or at the door.

Thomas Proctor and Bride Honeymooning in Florida

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—Newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wright Proctor are on their honeymoon trip to Miami, Fla., following their Saturday marriage at North Congregational Church, Detroit.

The bride is the former Elaine Jean Burgess and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Burgess of 8016 Flagstaff Rd. here. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Proctor of 1530 Second Ave., Howell.

For her wedding, the bride chose a bouquet taffeta gown fashioned with a Sabrina neckline, long sleeves and a full skirt, enriched with hand-clipped lace appliques and ending in a chapel train.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Carole Irene Burgess. Bridesmaids were Mrs. David Heaton of Detroit, Mrs. Terry Guttrich of Jackson, Bernadine King of Mt. Pleasant and Mary Lou Washatka of Ludington.

Richard Proctor of Allen Park served his brother as best man. Seating the guests were another brother, William, of Dearborn; Paul Pappas of Midland, Richard McCloskey of Howell and Jerry Voight of Owosso.

Flower girl was Debra Garwood and ringbearer was Richard Proctor, nephew of the bridegroom.

A reception was held at Forest Lake Country Club after the nuptials. The young couple will reside in Midland after they return from their honeymoon trip.

The six-man committee will go out of existence when Lathrup's storm water problems have been settled, Administrator Jerald Stone said.

Ike Presents Award to Briton, Vivian Fuchs

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today presented the National Geographic Society's Hubbard Medal to Sir Vivian Fuchs, British explorer who made history's first overland crossing of Antarctica.

Eisenhower also presented a Hubbard Medal to the U.S. Navy for its 1955-59 antarctic expeditions. It recognized more than 10,000 personnel who built and manned outposts of civilization from which the unknown continent has now been surveyed.

Leaders Are Named to Help Handicapped

Another step toward organizing a group to provide training and employment for physically handicapped county residents was taken yesterday afternoon when a board of directors and officers were elected by the group.

The organization, yet to be named, is made up of Pontiac area business and professional people. It held its third meeting yesterday in an effort to establish a workshop center and planned training program for the handicapped so they may get back into the labor market.

The group also approved a set of bylaws.

The 18-member board elected George H. Williams, Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium business manager, as president. Other officers elected were John W. Hirlinger, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, first vice president; and Harold Brady, business manager of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, second vice president.

Norman Dunn, public relations representative of the Pontiac Motor Division, was named secretary, and Donald Carros, assistant to the administrator of Pontiac General Hospital, treasurer.

The group is still undecided whether to be an independent governing body in the county or to become an agency of a national organization.

A committee of five was appointed by Williams to meet with P. J. Trevethan, executive vice president of Goodwill Industries of America, on Feb. 16. Trevethan is coming from Washington, D. C., to discuss the possibility of the new group's becoming a separate agency of the national organization.

The non-profit organization's purpose, as stated in the bylaws, is to provide for the occupational rehabilitation of handicapped people of Oakland County. The facilities of the organization will be available to all handicapped people "regardless of race, religion, nationality, color or sex," who have been county residents for at least one year.

Elected to the board for three-year terms were Dunn; Hirlinger, Dr. Harold Bassey, Pontiac optometrist; Lewis Smart of Fisher Body Division; William Wright, principal of Mark Twain Elementary School in Pontiac, and John Henaglio, personnel director of Baldwin Rubber Company.

Two-year term board members will be Williams, Brady, Leslie H. Dean, chairman of the 5-year-old Mayor's Committee on Rehabilitation in Pontiac; Fred Haggard, president of the Oakland County AFL-CIO Council; Ralph Norvell of the Austin Norvell Insurance Agency, and Sylvia Cole, Pontiac Press reporter.

One-year board members will be Oakland County Circuit Court Judge John J. Beer; Carros; Henry Francisco, manager of the Goodwill Industries Retail Store in Pontiac operated by the Detroit agency; Larry Payne, WPON newscaster; Horace Lodge, vice president of Pontiac Community National Bank, and Father Fabian Weber, a priest at St. Vincent de Paul Church.

Three more board members are to be elected later from the southern portion of the county.

World population has increased about 25 per cent in the past 20 years and at the same time the food supply has increased five per cent.

To Crack Down on Scavenging at Pontiac Dump

A more stringent policy against scavengers at the city's Kennett road dump will go into effect Monday, the Department of Public Works announced today.

"Attempts to salvage any waste material will not be permitted," said Clyde Christian, assistant DPW superintendent.

The DPW learned through past experiences, he said, that if this rule is relaxed, the dump becomes "flooded with scavengers and the situation gets out of hand."

The DPW also announced new hours and a crackdown on use of the dump by non-city residents and businesses. Hours effective Monday will be from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., every day of the week, including holidays, Christian said.

Commercial refuse haulers centered in Pontiac will be issued permits to use the dump, Christian said, after showing that the material being hauled originated within the city.

Permits will be issued by the refuse superintendent on guard at the dump, he said.

Christian said drivers of automobiles will be asked to show operator's licenses as proof of their Pontiac residence.

He said stumps, tree limbs and brush are to be dumped separately from other trash and that signs on the dumping grounds indicate where the spot is.

Lonely-Heart Romeo May Get 5 Years

ITHACA (AP)—Thomas Smith, 54, who found would-be wives through "lonely hearts" lists, was found guilty of larceny by conversion in Circuit Court here today. He faces a sentence of up to five years in prison.

Three elderly women testified that Smith made promises of marriage to them and then took off with their savings.

Mrs. Amanda Parcher, 73, of St. Louis, testified she never saw Smith again until the trial after she deposited $4,000 in their joint bank account for a Florida honeymoon.

Mrs. Anna Presley of Midland testified Smith left her after she gave him a $5,000 cashier's check.

Smith was arrested last August while on his way to Florida with Mrs. Sarah Meyers of Bad Axe, who had put $8,000 in drafts and cashier's checks in his briefcase for safekeeping.

Former Area Father Waits Sentencing in Robbery Try

A former West Bloomfield Township resident and unemployed father of five today is awaiting sentence for an attempted bank robbery.

He is Edgar J. Woodcum, 32, who had moved with his wife and family in August to York Township near Milan. The Woodcums had lived at 7646 Jewell St., West Bloomfield Township.

Woodcum pleaded guilty in the U.S. District Court in Detroit yesterday to attempting to hold up the Citizens Bank of Saline Saturday.

Mounting debts was the reason given by the unemployed well digger for trying to rob the bank. His efforts were halted by the Saline bank teller who disregarded his gun and told him her cash drawer was empty.

Woodcum walked into the Ypsilanti police station Monday, handed over an unloaded 25-caliber revolver, and told police he had attempted the Saline hold-up. He said he had just gone to the Ypsilanti Savings Bank to try a robbery again but became conscience stricken and decided to turn himself in to police.

Federal Judge Theodore Levin deferred sentencing, pending a probation department report. The would-be robber, who could be sentenced to 25 years, was ordered held without bail.

His wife, Ruth, said the self-employed well digger hadn't received any pay for work since Dec. 19.

"He borrowed $500 from a bank on his car. . .but we still are behind in the rent, bank payments and other bills," she explained.

"He got so that he couldn't eat or sleep. . .and would pace the floor all night wondering where he was going to get enough to pay our bills."

She said she had worked as a supermarket bookkeeper in Walled Lake until November. She quit when her husband, then doing well, said it was unnecessary.

She added that she couldn't believe he would try to rob a bank since he "is a wonderful father and a wonderful husband."

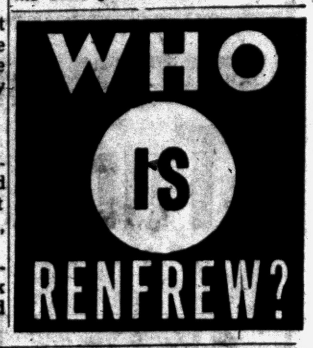

Twelve Oldsters Escape as Snow Caves In Roof

SAGINAW (UPI)—Twelve elderly residents of a rest home escaped injury today when snow caved in part of the rest home roof.

Five ambulances rushed to the rest home but all 12 persons residing in the section of the building where the roof collapsed were able to flee into the street in their night clothes.

More Money for Ex-Cons

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—The Wyoming House of Representatives Tuesday approved a bill increasing from $15 to $35 the cash given a man on his release from the state penitentiary.

CHAPTER XLIV

"And all the time, you were with me, making love to me, talking to me about our future, holding me in your arms — and saying nothing whatsoever about the thing that was going on all round us, the thing that was to change my father's life, and my mother's life, and my brother's, and mine. You didn't say a single word.

"You behaved as though nothing was happening — nothing that could affect us — you and me — at all. You could do that — to me!"

"Angela—" he began.

"What my father does in a matter of this kind," she went on, unheeding, "is principall between himself and my mother. But you—" Her voice became strangled, and tears poured down her cheeks — "you were different. You and I. . . You had said that you loved me, wanted to marry me — but if you had really loved me, you would have trusted me.

"You would have told me. But you said nothing. I might have been a child . . . or an idiot. Everybody knew . . . everybody —but I didn't know because — you didn't trust me enough to tell the truth."

"Angela"—Angus took a step forward. "Angela, will you please listen?"

"No." Her voice was quiet. "No, I won't listen — not any more. What you do — what you both do . . . I don't care any more. I want to — to get away. I'm not going to sit watching us get nearer and nearer, as you've done. I'm not . . ."

She turned and went swiftly to the door. Her father's voice, sharp and angry, rang out.

"Angela — come back!"

She did not pause. She went to the door, opened it, and then turned to say a last quiet sentence to Angus.

"I—I hope you'll be very happy, wherever you are. In England, or in . . . in Canada. But I don't . . . I don't want to see you again."

"One moment."

Angus turned.

"I don't understand," said Lord Lorrimer. "She said . . . she said everybody knew. What did she mean?"

Angus told him.

Standing there, he related exactly what had occurred since Miss Seton received the call from her mother. He told of her distress and her first foolish reaction, which was to delay the coach. He spoke of her ill-advised attempt, and Maurice Tarrant's subsequent actions. He described the attempts to enter the garage, the loss of the dispatch case and the luggage, and their recovery.

He spoke of Mr. Holt and his interest in Miss Seton and discovery of Tarrant's activities. He spoke as briefly as he could.

He gave nothing but the bare facts, touching on the departure of the Zollers and the suspicions of the Admiral. He ended by relating his conversation with Mr. Holt, and the latter's decision to persuade Miss Seton to leave the coach.

When he had finished, he found himself wandering to the window and staring out, as Lord Lorrimer had stared.

After one glance, he felt unable to face the other man's white, stricken face, with its look of sick realization. He did not want to meet his defeated eyes. Lord Lorrimer was no longer looking at the past or at the future. He was staring, with shocked anguish, at the present.

Angus did not know how long he stood at the window. When at last the other man spoke, he turned.

"I'm sorry," Lord Lorrimer was saying, in a quiet voice. "I'm sorry to have been the cause of so much trouble to you . . . and to everybody." He passed a hand wearily across his face. "I suppose you've been through hell, wondering how Angela would feel when I . . . when I told her."

"I knew that you must tell her soon. I came in here this evening to ask your permission to tell her myself."

"When did Tarrant tell Yule?" Lord Lorrimer asked Angus.

"There was a telegram for him. I sent it in just before I came in here to see you. It was from Tarrant, I suppose."

"How did . . . how did Miss Seton come to be on the coach?"

"It was a last-minute decision. She was going to surprise her sister."

"And day after day," said Lord Lorrimer, "I sat there without a thought of what was going on all round me. Day after day, I sat there thinking that this was a matter between three people: my wife and myself — and . . ."

COULDN'T HELP IT

"Perhaps I ought to be sorry that you brought Angela with you — but if you hadn't brought her, I wouldn't have met her again."

"What else could I do, in God's name, but bring her? I got the letter exactly eighteen hours before the time we were due to leave. When I left Italy, it was with no thought that we would ever meet again. All I wanted to do was forget. I'd tried in a hundred different ways to tell my wife — and I couldn't. So I had decided to put it all behind me. When the letter came . . ."

He stopped. When he spoke again his voice was quiet.

"Go and bring Angela back," he said. "She can't be allowed to go away without speaking to me — or to you. Go and bring her to me."

Angus went in search of her. She was not in her room. She was not, he found at last, in the hotel. Ferdy, his eyes warm with sympathy, broke the news, she had driven away with Yule. They had taken their luggage and they had gone in the direction of Guarda.

He went back to Lord Lorrimer and told him, in one quiet sentence, what had happened. They looked at one another, measuring the extent of the damage. Then the older man gave a brief, mirthless laugh.

"Odd, isn't it? You walk into something without warning. It hits you, and you go down. You look to the world like an old man snatching greedily at youth and romance, and instead, what are you? A man fighting a losing battle, trying to hold on to everything he's built up, and seeing it go to pieces — and seeing the ruin spreading . . . and spreading. To her sister, to those others, to Angela — and now to you."

He stopped. Leaning his hands upon the table, he stared unseeingly at the brightly polished surface. Then he straightened and looked at Angus.

"Can't we get out of here? Can't we . . . get on? Can't we go, move, leave this place?"

"Now, sir?"

"Why not? We're due in Lisbon tomorrow evening. If we go now, and drive all night, we'll get there in the morning. The date would be the same, and I don't suppose the Company would quibble if the coach arrived a few hours earlier than scheduled. Do you want to spend the night here?"

"No."

Liz and Debbie Will Play in Films With Glenn Ford

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD — To Glen Ford falls the interesting experience of playing opposite both Debbie Reynolds and Elizabeth Taylor—at different times, of course! Glenn leaves Thursday for New York on his way to Madrid where he will costar with Debbie in "It Started with a Kiss."

Later, he'll share star billing with Elizabeth in "Two For the Seesaw." While in New York en route to Spain, he'll take a look at the Broadway version of "Seesaw."

Meanwhile, movies are lined up for Debbie Reynolds until 1960. I surely hope she gets a chance to rest in between because I don't want her to get any thinner, although she looks like a doll and is as pretty as a picture.

"Can-Can," for which Jack Cummings is paging Frank Sinatra, cannot be made until the first of October, when Frank is free. Jack also wants Marilyn Monroe and by that time she should be ready to return to work.

I have always been curious about Marilyn's contract with 20th Century-Fox. Seems under this contract she has director approval and has submitted a list of 17 top names with whom she will work.

Among the directors with Marilyn's stamp of approval are Willie Wyler, Billy Wilder, Joseph Mankiewicz, Josh Logan, George Stevens, Fred Zinnemann, Alfred Hitchcock and John Huston.

I've just heard the inside of Gene Tierney's return to the Menninger Clinic and I'm sure, after hearing the story, that she soon will be all right. In fact, the doctors say her visit there will be of short duration.

Gene had sent her clothes out to 20th Century-Fox for her role in "Holiday for Lovers" and she put in a call to Lew Schreiber. Unfortunately Lew was out. Her mother called later and said that Gene had decided to stop by the Menninger Clinic on her way West. She paid her visit, and after talking to the doctors decided she wasn't quite ready to return to motion pictures and that she should have some additional treatment. The fact that she, herself, made this decision is encouraging.

Sammy Davis Jr. would be very good in the title role of "The Henry Armstrong Story." The prizefight tale about the amazing little Negro fighter who simultaneously held three world championships — lightweight, welterweight and middleweight.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

All those who love Bob Hope are worried about him and are begging him to curtail a few of his extra activities, such as benefits, for a time.

Eleanor Donahue, Robert Young's teenage daughter in "Father Knows Best," and Jack Jones, son of Irene Hervey and Allan Jones, are engaged but they won't marry until St. Valentine's day of 1960.

"Evening Rain," Earl Grant's new Decca record, sold over 100,000 the first month. This record is coming up fast, fast, fast!

Guests from New York, other points east and from Hollywood—over 300—will be among those present at the Dimitri Tiomkin's party Thursday night.

Walcott Gives Advice

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Fred G. Walcott, professor of education at University of Michigan, says educators should quit bickering over the comparative merits of science and the humanities. He believes, "the two are really one in spirit. They offer two roads for man to the same cultural goal — 'to know himself and the world.'"

Plan for Registration

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Election Commission has agreed to open special registration centers for the spring election April 16. Fifteen neighborhood police precinct stations will be set up to handle registrations from noon to 8 p.m. on Monday, March 9, the deadline for registering.

Show Goes On After Death of 3

Rock 'n' Roll Troupe Performs; Grieve for Stars Dead in Crash

MOORHEAD, Minn. (AP) — A group of young entertainers, saddened by the deaths of three singing stars of their troupe who were killed in a plane crash, staged a rock 'n' roll show Tuesday night to the delight of more than 2,000 screaming, whistling teenagers.

The three recording stars were killed early Tuesday when their four-place chartered plane crashed in a snow-covered farm field near Mason City, Iowa. They had just completed an engagement in Clear Lake, Iowa, and were headed for Fargo, N.D. Others in the troupe took a chartered bus.

Dead in the crash were singers Buddy Holly, 22, of Lubbock, Tex.; Ritchie Valens, 17, of Los Angeles, and Jiles P. (Big Bopper) Richardson, 28, of Beaumont, Tex., and the pilot, Roger Peterson, 21, of Clear Lake.

The show at Moorhead had been cancelled after other members of the troupe heard of the plane crash but later they decided to appear in the show-must-go-on tradition.

Two shows had been scheduled but only one was held. Members paid tribute to the victims during the performance. The crowd of teenagers screamed, clapped and whistled as the rock 'n' roll groups sang their best selling numbers.

Valens quit high school in San Fernando, Calif., last year for a rock 'n' roll singing career and was an overnight sensation. One of his records became a top seller and he recently finished his first movie. Holly, singing star of "The Cricketts," had among his records two that reportedly sold more than a million and a half copies each. Richardson also had recorded several hit songs.

Flagpole Girl Hopes Stunt Will Aid Career

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—"I don't know why in the world I climbed up here," Mauri Rose Kirby, 17, said today from her cubicle atop a 71-foot flagpole.

"But now that I've sat on a flagpole longer than anybody else, I hope the publicity will help me with some kind of entertainment career."

"I just drove in one night, saw some men digging a hole in the parking lot, and asked what they were doing," she recalled. "When I learned they were getting ready for a flagpole sitting stunt, I knew right then I wanted to do it."

"Maybe I'm trying to prove something to myself," Miss Kirby mused. "I think I was upset because somebody called me a juvenile delinquent after I called somebody else a bad name."

About a possible entertainment career, Mauri Rose said she doesn't know how much talent she has but she likes to sing and act. She has spent part of her 171 days on the pole practicing on a guitar.

Symphony Concert Spans 4 Centuries

By WILLIAM WALROD

Music from Frescobaldi to Stravinsky was presented at the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra's third concert of the season Wednesday, under the direction of Francesco Di Blasi.

The orchestra opened the concert with an orchestral transcription of Frescobaldi's "Toccata and Fugue." This 17th Century composition originally was written for the organ; Frescobaldi developed the toccata, or "touch piece," to demonstrate the possibilities of this magnificent instrument, as much as was feasible by the musical practices of his era.

Kindler's orchestral transcription of this work assumes proportions which were most certainly never imagined by Frescobaldi. Nevertheless, this dynamic orchestration has a certain appeal to an audience which is not accustomed to listening to music written over 300 years ago.

RUTH MECKLER AT PIANO

Miss Meckler did a superb performance of interpreting the delicate nuances and infinite shadings which are so representative of this gifted composer of the 18th Century. The orchestral accompaniment was artistically representative of the true Mozartian spirit.

Following the intermission, Mr. Di Blasi and the orchestra jumped from the classic 18th to the dynamic 20th Century, presenting compositions by Richard Strauss, Barber and Stravinsky.

When we speak of Strauss waltzes, we usually refer to those of the "Viennese Waltz King," Johann Strauss Jr., or possibly his father or one of his brothers. The famous exception to this general rule are the waltzes from "Der Rosenkavalier," Richard Strauss' great "comedy of manners."

Unlike much of Richard Strauss' music, these waltzes are light, gay and charming—music to be enjoyed for its own sake. They do, however, utilize the full orchestra in the manner which is characteristic only of Richard Strauss, one of our greatest 20th Century composers.

ADAGIO FOR STRINGS

Samuel Barber's "Adagio for Strings" originally was written as the second movement for a string quartet (1936), but has since been enlarged for full string orchestra. It is undoubtedly one of our finest contemporary compositions. It is so lyrical and sublime that the listener would hardly guess its true date of composition until the famous dissonance is introduced.

The "Adagio" was an ambitious undertaking for the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra's newly reorganized string section, but they performed it with grace and dignity.

Igor Stravinsky, composer of "The Rite of Spring," also wrote ballet music to "The Firebird," based upon an old Russian folk tale, which has become widely known in a suite of excerpts taken from the ballet. The orchestra presented two of these excerpts last night. The "Berceuse," or "Lullaby," utilized the oboe and bassoon as solo instruments, accompanied by the strings. The grand finale provided victorious music which utilizes the full strength of any symphony orchestra and provided a fitting climax to a very enjoyable concert.

James Hunt to Address Alumnae

James W. Hunt, director of child services for Oakland County Juvenile Court, will be guest speaker at the meeting of Birmingham alumnae chapter of Alpha Xi Delta.

The meeting is to be at 8 p.m. Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Bruce Roach of Birmingham.

Mr. Hunt's topic will be "What we as a group can do to help prevent juvenile delinquency."

Guest for the evening will be Mrs. David Streed, vice president of Phi Province, which is made up of chapters in Michigan and Indiana.

Mrs. Wedel Speaks at Christ Church

By MARY ANGLEMIER

Mrs. Theodore O. Wedel of Washington, D. C., discussed her favorite subject, "One Family in Christ," at the Woman's Auxiliary program in Christ Church Cranbrook Tuesday afternoon.

The speaker said she was keen on the growing ecumenical movement of Christian churches uniting as one household — perhaps worshiping in different ways but not competing with each other.

CHURCH IS 'FAMILY'

"So often we think primarily of the church as an institution with constitution, rules and requirements. We ought to be thinking of it as a family full of love and concern and responsibility for one another," said Mrs. Wedel.

"Our Christian faith teaches us that God made everything and everybody. If we are His children, we should have deep concern for everyone in the world.

"If ever there was a time for Christian people to have worldwide love for one another, now is the time," she added.

She urged her listeners to branch out and get acquainted with Christians of other denominations and races.

"When questions or problems arise in your own church, don't think of what you want but ask yourself 'What Would God Want?'" said the guest speaker.

Could Girls Have Been Bit Envious?

No Wrongdoing in Staying On With Boys

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Recently I went to a church dance with two other girls. At the dance I met a very nice boy. We danced a lot with each other and had a wonderful time. At about eleven o'clock my friends decided to leave and wanted me to go home with them.

"The boy with whom I had been dancing asked me to stay and said that he would walk home with me. I accepted.

"My friends haven't spoken to me since and I have learned from others that they are very much put out with me for "leaving them flat." Will you please tell me if I was wrong not to leave with them?"

Answer: If instead of three, you had been two girls going to the dance together, you would most certainly have "left your friend flat" if you had made her walk home alone. As it was though, unless you three had made plans to have supper together after the dance, it was not inconsiderate of you to stay on after they left.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it considered proper etiquette for me (a young woman) to return a young man's telephone call, if I was not at home when he called?"

Answer: It would depend upon how well you know him or whether he left word for you to call him—in either case it would be all right to call. But if you merely received a message that John Jones had called and he is not someone you are in the habit of talking with a great deal, you would wait for him to call again.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me how the name of a deceased married woman should be printed in a church bulletin? Her husband wishes to put flowers in her memory in the church chancel. Should it be, 'In loving memory of Mrs. John Doe,' 'Mrs. Mary Jane Doe' or "Mary Maiden-name Doe?"

Answer: "Mrs. John Doe" is correct.

And what in the world is more thrilling when you're 6 years old than to zip around the ice with your daddy. Here William H. Leokie and Linda take off to practice a few intricate figures on the rink at Cranbrook. Both are regular and avid skaters.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: We are two old-timers in the credit department and we have a typist in our office who thinks she is hot stuff. She started to work here in 1956 and was pleasant enough, but she came to work every day dressed up like a circus horse. Her work was poor and she misfiled everything so the boss fired her. She ignored it and came to work anyhow.

ABBY

"She worked for nothing for a month and then he put her back on the payroll because we were short-handed around Christmas. He fired her again just before Easter but she kept right on coming to work, and now she's back on the payroll again. What is going on here? If you can solve this you're a genius." BAFFLED

DEAR BAFFLED: It looks like "Hot Stuff" is fire-proof. Don't regard this as a personal problem. It's between her and the boss.

"DEAR ABBY: I don't think that lady heard right when she said her doctor told her to have all her teeth pulled if she wanted a baby. I am sure the doctor said for her HUSBAND to have HIS teeth pulled. My husband was only 24 and his teeth were perfect but he had pyorrhea of the gums and that kept me from getting pregnant. After his teeth were pulled I became pregnant."

HAPPY NOW

DEAR HAPPY: A person's physical condition is an individual matter. Before doing anything so drastic (and permanent) as pulling one's teeth, it is wise to consult a medical doctor as well as a dentist.

"DEAR ABBY: To people who have neighbors who borrow and never pay back, here's a sure cure: I once had a neighbor like that. She'd borrow 3 slices of bread, a cube of butter and two cigarettes, but she never paid anything back. A day never passed but what she didn't borrow something.

"Finally the only way I could get even was to borrow back two of everything she borrowed. If she owed me 3 slices of bread, I'd borrow six. When she owed me two cigarettes, I'd ask for four. Finally she caught on faster than you could say Jack R." NO FOOL

"DEAR ABBY: I can't name the place because it might be embarrassing, but a certain place of business where I go frequently employs a pretty young woman of about 25 years old. I notice that she has been wearing the same checked dress with a washable white collar every day for almost a year. (Not a uniform.) The collar is immaculate, so I imagine she takes it off at night and washes it.

"I have some nice dresses I would like to give her. They belonged to my daughter who has joined a convent. Would I be out of line to offer them to her? I don't even know her name." STRANGER

DEAR STRANGER: Get acquainted with her by telling her your name and asking hers. When you know her a little better, by all means make the offer.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CORBETT: You are in orbit! If she wants brotherly love, tell her to give you back your ring and go to Philadelphia.

Keep Exercising

Don't Slip Midway in Marathon

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Some of you are now in your fifth week of my Self-Improvement Marathon, others started a little later. Most of you now have indulged in this beauty routine long enough to begin to feel encouraged. By now your clothes are looser and you can begin to see your figure emerging from pads of fat. If you have been exercising, you now should have the increased feeling of litheness and youthfulness which it gives you.

Just because you already have greatly improved in appearance do not begin to take liberties with your diet and exercise. This would be easy to do. Once the pressure is off the seams, you may tend to be a little less strict with yourself.

Do not do this! Stick to it for a short while longer and reach your goal. What a shame it would be to stop just a few inches or a few pounds away from your ideal.

EFFECTIVE EXERCISES

There are literally dozens of exercises for every figure fault, but through years of experience in teaching I have found that some are much more effective than others. Therefore, today, I want to point out an especially fine one for the waist, the abdomen and lower back hipline.

FOR ABDOMEN

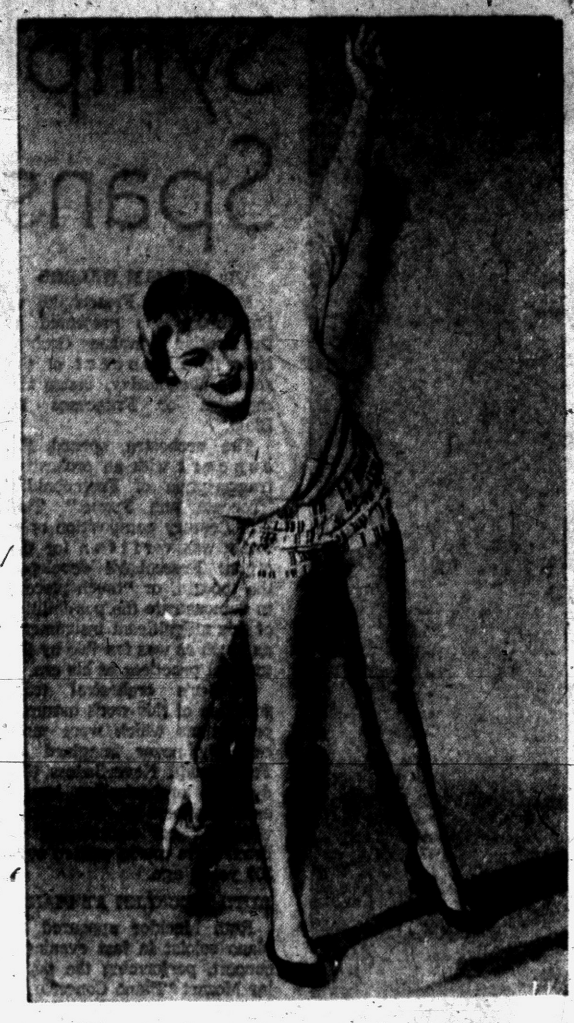

Abdominal slimming. Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor overhead. Bend both knees up close to the abdomen and grasp the knees with the hands. Stretch the legs toward the ceiling and slowly lower them to the floor (stiff knees) as you return arms to overhead position. Do this exercise slowly, stretching out on the floor in between times.

Hip slimming. Sit on the floor with your legs straight, one hand on the floor on each side of you. Lift the legs until your body weight rests on the largest part of your hips. Keep the legs in this position as you roll over onto the left hip, catching yourself with both hands. Push off with the hands and roll over onto the right hip, catching yourself with both hands. Push off with the hands and continue rolling from side to side.

If you failed to join Marathon and would like to do so now, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

This exercise, trying to touch your fingers to the floor, is slimming to the waist. You can do this exercise while on the 8-Week Self-Improvement Marathon.

Sugar Nut Mixtures Fills Rich Pastry Squares

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Dessert need not be elaborate. Sometimes just a fancy cookie or little pastry is all you want. Try Mrs. O. H. Fargher's Butter Kipfelin recipe. She got it from a little old Czechoslovakian woman.

Mrs. Fargher likes to collect silver and dishes. Her hobbies are reading and watching television.

BUTTER KIPFELIN
By Mrs. O. H. Fargher

1 pound butter
3 cups flour
6 eggs, separated

Mix flour, butter and egg yolks, plus enough sweet cream to make a dough like pastry. Chill overnight or at least 2 hours. Roll thin and cut into squares about 2 inches across.

Spoon on nut filling, not quite to edges. Fold two corners to the center. Bake about 10 minutes at 400 degrees. Watch them as they burn easily. Sprinkle with confectioners sugar while still warm.

Filling

1¼ pounds nuts, ground
6 egg whites
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon almond extract

Interest in Sports Catches, Holds Man

By RUTH MILLETT

Learning a sport is a good way for a girl to catch a fellow, the director of physical education at a Southern university tells the girls in her classes.

Those aren't the teacher's exact words, of course. But that's the idea she conveys to the girls.

It's the truth, girls, but that's not even the half of it. Sharing a husband's interest in a sport is an excellent way of staying companionable with him through the years.

If you look around you, you may be surprised at the number of women in their forties, fifties, and sixties who are every bit as enthusiastic about hunting, fishing, boating, golf, tennis or whatever as are their husbands.

Instead of sitting alone weekend after weekend while their husbands go out for sport these up-and-coming wives go right along and sometimes land bigger fish, shoot more game, or bring in smaller golf scores than their husbands.

When they do, thanks to the gallantry of men, it is usually the husband who does the bragging about his wife's skill.

So the sports a girl learns today will not only help to make her popular while she is dating around. Her interest in sports will give her happy hours through the years of shared enjoyment with the man she marries.

Of course, there will probably always be some men who take to sports to escape from women and live for a while in a completely masculine world. But those men are getting fewer.

Most husbands these days want their wives to get out and enjoy the kind of rugged outdoors life that appeals to them. And the man who buys his wife a gun or a rod and reel for her birthday is likely to be a happy man.

PLAN AHEAD . . . FOR SPRING

Take time out now to plan your spring wardrobe.

Since Easter comes early (March 29th) perhaps it would be wise to plan accessories to span the seasons. Perk up your winter greys, and blacks with splashes of bright colors.

Make sure these accessories (gloves, scarfs, shoes and handbags) will go on into the glorious season, too! Bright lemon, tangerine and hot red can be used very effectively with winter fabrics, spring prints and stay fashion—right until summer white takes over.

Your reward will come when someone mistakes your "new bright look" as a whole new outfit!

She Wants What She Wants Right Now

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

The front doorbell chimes, and the mother calls from the kitchen, "Dave, there's the door. Answer it."

But the obedient rush of footsteps from upstairs doesn't come and she calls again.

When the bell chimes once more, she jams her paring knife into a potato, walks into the hall, calling angrily, "Dave, didn't you hear?"

From half way downstairs, skates in hand, the child says sullenly, "It's just Stubby, Mom. It's just Stubby ringing for me."

As he closes the door behind him, he doesn't look at her.

Is Dave's dawdling the problem. No, dear reader. The lady's need for immediate gratification of her wishes is the problem.

Yesterday, driving downtown, she felt the same irritation at a red traffic light that she felt toward Dave just now. She feels it whenever she has to wait for her turn in a queue at the bakery store.

If the telephone is busy when she calls she'll slam down the receiver with the same impatience that drove the knife into the potato. She's the lady who must have everything she wants the instant she wants it, including the obedience of her child.

So getting his instant obedience won't solve her problem. The traffic lights will continue to interfere, and other bakery store customers and telephone callers will get in the way.

Parents should always examine themselves for this shortcoming.

Usually we develop this need in childhood by association with people who break promises. We learned the hard way that waiting for gratification of our wishes always ended in disappointment.

Without knowing it, we began to distrust all waiting as disappointments, and trust only wishes that were instantly fulfilled.

This distrust is our impatience with the dwadler. Because he delays the immediate obedience we want, we immediately conclude that we're never going to get it. And attack him with our old anger at expected disappointment.

Quaint Finish, Washing Ease in Bedspread

For those not uncommon split personalities who revere the heirloom look, but demand mid-20th-century practicality, there is a bedspread to please both characters.

These cotton lace spreads, in designs which are modern versions of favorite Colonial patterns, have hand-knotted fringe edges and come in a full spectrum of clear, lovely colors.

Best of all, each and every one of these classic spreads washes as easily as a sheet, requires no ironing.

Razor Thin Brow Gives Hard Look

Northern Gives Chiefs a Fight in 1st Period

By BILL CORNWELL

When superior height and experience are pitted against fight and sheer determination on the basketball court, it usually takes some kind of a miracle for the latter qualities to succeed.

Miracles were not in order for the "green" Pontiac Northern cagers last night when they met unbeaten Pontiac Central on Northern's new floor.

A near-capacity audience in the PNH gym watched the Huskies give Central a stiff battle for eight minutes, then yield to greater know-how, far better firepower and superior rebounding.

The Chiefs shifted into high gear in the 2nd quarter and soon left Northern a long way behind as they rolled to a 78-40 victory for their 9th consecutive win of the season.

Michigan's No. 1 Class A quintet was held to a four-point lead at the end of the 1st period before pure basketball class prevailed in the 1st meeting on the hardwoods of the two intra-city rivals.

Keyed-up Northern started out like a house afire, but coach Dick Hall's forces spent themselves in one quarter and the Chiefs ran the game as they pleased the rest of the way.

A combination of outright scrap and good shooting enabled the Huskies to make the contest interesting in the 1st period.

The spunky Huskies actually held 11-10 and 13-12 leads in the opening stanza on buckets by Mike Fedynik and Jim Dempsey as they made a brief success of matching baskets with Central.

George Fed, Central's 6-foot-2 sophomore center, deposited a free throw to even the score at 13-13, then Amos Bailey, the graduated Charlie Barge's replacement, clicked twice on jump shots to give PCH a 17-13 edge and the Chiefs were off and running.

To all intents and purposes, the game was finished at halftime. The Chiefs doubled Northern's scoring efforts in the 2nd quarter for a commanding 41-25 lead and after that it was simply a case of playing it out.

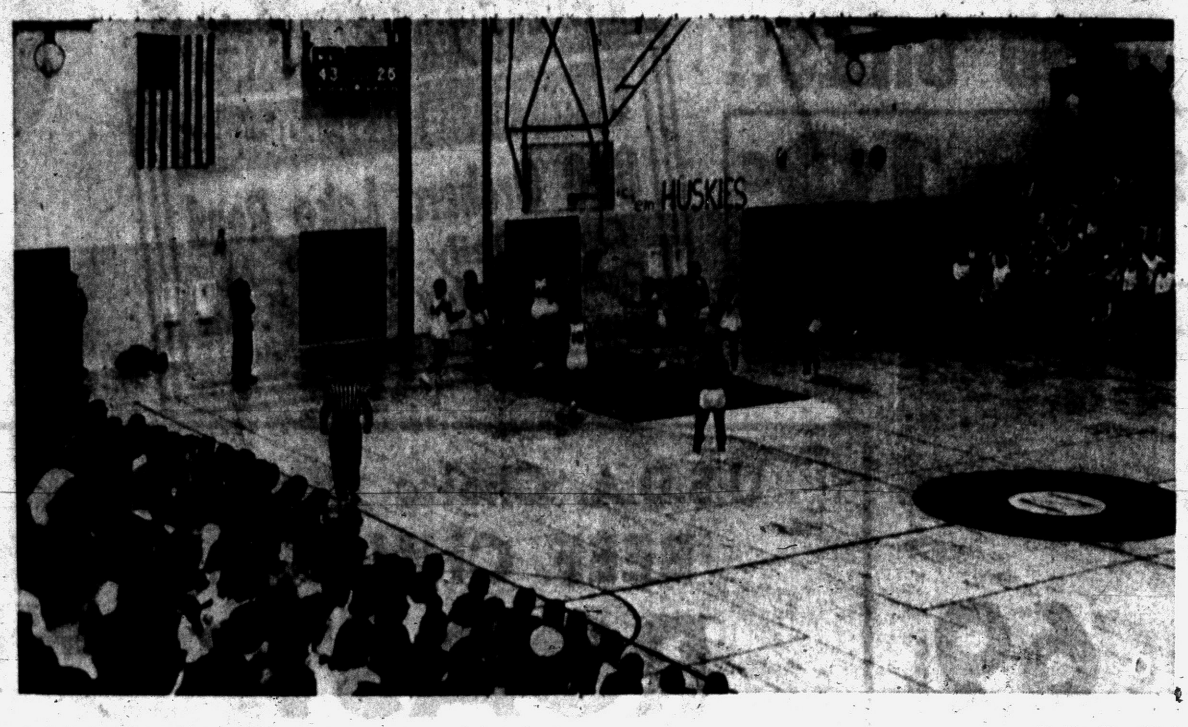

Northern failed to make a field goal in the 3rd period as Central's margin swelled to 57-29. Central coach Art Van Ryzin began substituting late in the 3rd period and he cleared the bench early in the finale.

Eleven Chiefs saw action and everyone scored. John Bandy sparked the Central siege guns with 22 points, 10 of them coming in the productive 2nd quarter. Fed, who was the big reason for Central's complete control of the backboards, added 12.

Fedynik tallied a dozen points to pace Northern, followed by Dempsey with 11, as the outmanned Huskies suffered their 7th loss in nine games.

NORTHERN COURT — A standing room crowd filled Pontiac Northern's shining new gym last night, but the host Huskies fell at the hands of city rival Pontiac Central, 78-40. It was the first basketball meeting between the two schools and the spirit was high despite the wide margin of the score. The scoreboard at this point of the game shows PCH holding a commanding lead, 43-25, in the third period.

Foster Rolls 735 in Top Huron Loop

Huron Bowl Classic keglers continue to assault the pins with a fury. Nearly half the league bettered 600 in individual series, and exactly half of the teams shot sets of better than 3,000 recently.

Joe Foster paced his Calbi Music teammates to a three and a half point victory over Spartan Air Conditioning with a 735 on games of 225, 231 and 279. Calbi thus increased its league lead to a full game as Humphries Real Estate took three from Roth Lumber. Bill Leigh posted 675 and Don Martell 662 for Humphries.

West Side Mobil edged past Stroh's into third spot as Monroe Moore fired a 685. A fine 682 by Ron Rothbarth and Frank Spadafore with 600 were other top performers.

Latest averages show Moore leading with 217, a nose in front of Bill Bull and John Nickell, who are tied at 216. Don Martell has 215, George Chicovsky 213, and tied at 211 are Les Rothbarth and Joe Foster.

Detroit Boxing Shows Dying Away

Promoter Quits Twice-Monthly Fight Program

26 Promotions Fail to Show Single Profit in Motor City

DETROIT (AP)—Promoter C. W. (Larry) Smith is quitting the boxing game.

"I've had it," said the millionaire Detroit sportsman today.

Smith has put on 26 boxing promotions in Detroit in an effort to revive the once-great sport in this area. All have lost money.

Once Smith thought one of his shows turned out with a profit. But then late bills for advertising and promotion came in. He ended up losing $160. It was his best night as a boxing promoter.

Smith's four-bout program staged last night in the comparative privacy of the Graystone Ballroom lost $624.13. A crowd of 670 paid $975 to watch what veteran observers called an exciting evening of good boxing.

Smith has lost at least $75,000 on boxing in Detroit.

"I've given it my best shot," said the man who owns racing's newest Cinderella horse, Hillsdale.

"I thought I could make it really go, but I can't see a constant outpour of money and no return. I'm enough of a businessman to know a bad investment when I see one.

"It's a real shame, too. I have four good fighters who have really come along since we started boxing here. Wilf Greaves, Gene Gresham, Billy Collins and Leroy Jeffrey are ready to step into real fast competition, or will be shortly. For their sake, I wish I could go on."

Two of them, Jeffrey and Collins, gained impressive victories last night. Collins knocked out Willie Mennifield of Youngstown at 2:12 of the fifth round in a scheduled six-round preliminary bout.

Jeffrey won a unanimous 10-round decision in a co-feature bout against Tommy Johnson of Muskegon. Jeffrey, one-quarter pound heavier than his opponent who weighed 134¾, stunned Johnson in the first round, started a steady stream of fast combinations and won the vote of the referee and the two judges.

UD May Hire Jack Simmons

Name Ex-Maryland Ace Idzik Backfield Coach

DETROIT (AP)—Jack Simmons, coach at Detroit Holy Redeemer High School, reportedly will become an assistant football coach at the University of Detroit.

But the addition to coach Jim Miller's Titan staff won't be made until the end of basketball season.

Miller today named former Maryland star John Idzik backfield coach. He had served the Torrapins in the same capacity since 1956.

Simmons currently is coaching Holy Redeemer's basketball team. His team has clinched the Detroit Catholic League West Side title by going unbeaten in its first 11 games. Simmons hinted he would leave Holy Redeemer after the state high school basketball tournament.

Derocher Hits Winning Goal in Last Second

Fired-Up Shamrocks Lead in Final Minute; Eaglets Win, 56-27

By H. GUY MOATS

Outplayed practically every step of the way, except for part of the third period and the last 45 seconds, St. Frederick Rams snatched a last-second victory from the grasp of cross-town rivals, St. Michael, last night, 37-36.

Less than a minute from the end of the contest in PCH gymnasium, Jim Niebauer's Shamrocks held to a 35-29 margin over Gene Wright's club. It looked like the North Siders were going to break the Rams' string of wins in the city series.

Tom Derocher, Ram senior captain, who couldn't buy a field goal all night, exploded suddenly with the first of three baskets, that eventually won the contest and elevated him to the stature of a hero.

Derocher's first bucket made the count 35-31. Steve Pocs, who also had a tough night hitting the hoops, came through with a basket in a wild under-the-hoops scramble.

Rams got an outside ball, Phil Bieri passed to Joe Keller who rifled the ball to Derocher under the nets. Tom didn't miss, then snatched a loose ball and lifted a one-hander into the hoop as the horn ended the game.

Win was Rams 8th against two defeats, their 22nd in the city series.

Mikemen turned in their finest performance of the season, in defeat. They were the better club most of the way, last night. George Drake on the boards, along with hard-driving Pat Campbell, and top scorer Tom Dabbs (10 points), led the alert Shamrock outfit. Chuck Steinhelper's timely counters helped keep Shamrocks rolling in the first half.

Phil Bieri's 10 points paced the winners, with Keller proving a big help in the 3rd period spurt that broke a 10 point deficit.

While the Rams were defending their city rivalry, Orchard Lake St. Mary prepped for its SCL finale, on Thursday at St. Clement, with an easy 56-27 romp over Detroit St. Stanislaus. Eaglets' win was their 9th against one loss, in overall play.

Three players hit in double figures for Eaglets, led by Chet Wlodkowski's 16. Mike Witkor had 14, Glenn Hass 12.

Harris' Knockout Victory Disputed by Hunt's Pilot

Harris hit Hunt in the fifth round and the Tyler boxer went down. Young Amado, the referee, counted to eight and Hunt got up at the referee's count of nine. But Saul Paredes, timekeeper, had counted 10.

Amado wiped off the fighters' gloves and they exchanged a couple more blows before Paredes rang the bell and stopped the fight, saying Hunt had been knocked out at 2 minutes and 35 seconds of the fifth.

Record NBA Crowd Sees New York Doubleheader

By The Associated Press

Who said New York is on the wane as a sports town?

Lured by a preview of the likely playoff series for the championship—a meeting between the Boston Celtics and the St. Louis Hawks—the largest crowd ever to see a National Basketball game anywhere, 18,496, turned out last night at Madison Square Garden.

The fact that the New York Knicks played the Syracuse Nationals in the second game of the NBA doubleheader helped to erase the previous attendance mark for professional basketball, the 18,336 at the garden Christmas night.

The folks saw the Celtics win their sixth in a row, 104-97 over the Hawks, and the Knicks grab an exciting 115-114 victory over the Nats, the eighth straight time this year they have beaten Syracuse.

Boston came from a 19-point first quarter deficit and were further aided when the Hawks' Bob Pettit fouled out with 10:21 remaining in the game. Boston, behind ten at the half, tied it at 67-67 late in the third quarter and went ahead to stay three minutes later on Frank Ramsey's layup basket.

The Royals broke a three-game losing streak as Twyman scored 31 points. Cincinnati also kept alive its playoff hopes by moving to 6½ games behind third place Minneapolis and 7 behind the second place Detroit Pistons.

Terry Brennan Will Condition Redlegs

General manager Gabe Paul, who made the announcement, called the hiring of Brennan "an unprecedented move in Major League baseball—the inclusion of a football coach in a team's conditioning plans."

Saginaw Valley Expands to 9 Teams

3 New Schools Added by Vote of Principals

Athletic Schedules Go Into Effect by Grid Season 1961

The Saginaw Valley Conference, long regarded as Michigan's strongest athletic prep conference, has expanded from a 6-team circuit to 9 members.

At a meeting of school principals yesterday in Flint it was announced that Midland, Bay City Handy and Flint Southwestern would become members of the league.

Currently the league consists of Pontiac Central, Flint Central, Flint Northern, Saginaw, Saginaw Arthur Hill and Bay City Central.

Athletic directors of all nine schools are expected to meet shortly to set up a schedule of all sports starting in 1961. This will mean each school will play eight league football games and have only one non-league game on the schedule.

It was also decided that 12 league basketball games would be played, allowing for three outside the loop.

Owosso quit the SVC after the 1950-1951 season.

Flint Southwestern is presently Flint Tech, a Class B school, however the enrollment will go up to 1,800 next year when a portion of the Flint Central area student body enters the school.

The enrollment of all three new members will range from 1,800 to 2,200.

Before the opening of Pontiac Northern, Pontiac Central had largest enrollment in the SVC. Flint Central is the largest school by enrollment currently in the league.

The addition of Midland brings one of the state's top football powers in the conference. For the past several seasons, Midland has been one of the top ranked prep teams in Michigan.

Romeo Downs Orion; Lakers, Barons Bow

Avon Spanks 'Stale' Oxford

Avondale spanked Oxford, Romeo outdistanced Lake Orion and West Bloomfield dropped a hard-luck decision at Inkster last night to share some of the prep basketball spotlight in the Oakland County area.

The weather won at Milford where the scheduled game between Walled Lake and Milford was postponed until Feb. 24 due to slippery highway conditions.

Some impressive shooting by lanky Walt Arnold, stubby Dick Smith and jumping Darryl Thorpe enabled host Avon to match its best point total of the season and win its 4th straight in a 66-49 trouncing of Oxford.

The Yellowjackets broke away from a tight 1st period to lead 40-29 at halftime. It was never close the rest of the way as the losers, idle since Jan. 16, looked extremely stale.

Even Oakland County scoring leader Doug Stott was off form for the Wildcats. He finished with 17 aided by five free throws. The blonde sharpshooter was hindered by some early fouls and then left the game with five in the opening minute of the final period.

Some good Avondale defensive work combined with a "cold" night to hold him to six field goals. Oxford only had seven other baskets while converting 23 charity tosses.

The Arnold-Smith-Thorpe trio started hitting the hoop early. They combined for 31 in the 1st half led by Arnold's 13. The big guy and Smith each hit four of five floor shots in separate streaks.

Arnold finished with 17, Smith 14 and Thorpe 12 in the good tune-up for an invasion by Fitzgerald Friday. The Jackets are now 5-4 overall. Oxford, 2-7, had beaten Avon earlier but could hit only 20 per cent on field goal attempts to 31 for the victors.

After a nip-and-tuck 1st half, Romeo gradually pulled away from the Dragons for a 73-60 triumph on the Orion court. The rangy Bulldogs held a slim 34-32 halftime edge.

Ray Ritter was the big thorn in Orion's side with 22 points while teammates Chuck Peterson and Reid Olszak made 15 apiece. Lanky Bob Shuler fired 18 for Orion and Dean Callison chipped in with 10.

West Bloomfield made a surprisingly strong showing against Inkster before bowing in the waning minutes, 57-55. The underdog Lakers held a steady lead from halfway through the 1st quarter until midway through the finale and early in the 3rd period their margin reached 10 points.

Ed Smiley caged Inkster's final eight points, the last two at the foul line, to sink the Laker cause. Barry Johnson and John Lucadam paced the Keego offense with 20 points each.

A big 4th quarter rally by Memphis fell one point shy as Brown City took a 48-47 Southern Thumb League decision at Memphis. Brown City's Bob Hayes and Pete Likens of Memphis divided scoring honors with 16 points each.

Oak Park spurted in the 4th period to chalk up a 57-38 victory over Bloomfield Hills on the latter's floor. Point-making laurels went to Oak Park's Bill Bailey with 13 and Doug Danziger of the Barons who had 11.

Ortonville led by two points at halftime, but Millington eked out a 48-46 victory in a South Central Conference contest at Ortonville. The loser's Earl Richardson topped all scorers with 27 points.

Two foul shots by Ralph Deshetsky in the last three seconds brought lowly North Branch a 61-60 upset win over Kingston, the state's 5th ranked "D" quintet. Deshetsky took point-getting laurels with 15.

Big John Meadows tallied 17 points to feature Royal Oak Dondero's 66-62 conquest of stubborn Hazel Park and Pat McLaughlin scored 15 points in a losing cause as Shrine received a 65-33 thumping from Detroit Holy Redeemer.

Wings-Ranger Rematch Thursday

In That Corner--Louie, and Here--Howe

DETROIT (AP)—The fist fight between Gordie Howe and Lou Fontinato at Madison Square Garden last Sunday night may have accomplished two things.

First, it may have taught the New York Ranger badman that Howe is one of the toughest players in the National Hockey League, in addition to being one of hockey's all-time greats as a player.

The Rangers and the Red Wings will clash in a rematch but Howe promises there will be no fisticuffs, despite general manager Jack Adams' statement that "the handcuffs are off."

Adams said "I'm sick and tired of these guys tugging and mauling and holding him and the officials letting them get by with it. The big guy will just have to get them off his back."

Adams has insisted that Howe refrain from fighting since the big star was almost fatally injured several years ago in a jam-up at Olympia Stadium.

Fontinato got the worst of Sunday night's bout, the climax of a few exchanges that began last season. The two players had a mild flurry at the garden last year and a couple of bumps at Olympia later on.

Red Wing partisans cite many instances when the New York player has gone out of his way to get at Howe. But few players deliberately try to get Howe into a fist fight.

"He has a pretty good punch," conceded Fontinato after spending the better part of two days in a hospital getting his nose mended. "But if he fools around again, we will go at it again."

It all started when Howe's stick came down on Ranger rookie Eddie Shack's head. Before the next face-off Fontinato skated over to Howe.

" 'Keep your stick to yourself,' I tells him," said Louie. Next thing, the two are at it. The referees stand prudently by as do the members of both teams.

This gives the fight time to come to a decision, a rarity in the annals of hockey fights.

When it's all over, Louie has a broken nose and is blood from head to toe. He also is an ex-champ, Howe is unscathed.

"It's been broken four times before," he observed, "and there's hardly any bone there. It's very easy to push out of place."

Nonetheless, Louie's nose and pride were well-shattered.

"This seems a lot worse than it is," he said ruefully. "If one of my punches had hit him. . . ah, well. . .forget it."

"Howe hit him with a lucky punch," snorted Watson. "Furthermore, I don't see anyone else in the league challenging Howe. Louie's all right with me."

Maybe Louie will be gunning for Howe?

"Nah," he grunted as he left the hospital arm-in-arm with Watson, "but he better keep looking for me."

Waterford Leaders Victims of Upset

Waterford Recreation basketball leaders, Drayton Drugs, fell victims last night to an alert Johnson & Anderson club, 52-49. Loss was the Drugs first and leaves them sharing top place with White Swan, which won over Lakeland Pharmacy, 59-44. Lytell-Colegrove smothered Rocco's, 81-47 in the other loop contest.

Drugs led most of the way, but J & A's Ron Guyette hit for a 8-point final period spree that sent his club out front to win. Guyette had 21. Bob Pickett had 13 for losers.

Joe Umphrey led Lytells with 30 points. Chuck Gillis had 22. Rocco's Dave Ross had 13.

Robinson, Basilio Title Go in Chicago

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The long-discussed middleweight championship rematch between Sugar Ray Robinson and Carmen Basilio will be held in Chicago Stadium, probably in April, Basilio's co-manager said last night.

Red Cochran Joins Packers

The 36-year-old former Chicago Cardinal back was let go recently by the Detroit Lions after three seasons as backfield coach. He was replaced in Detroit by Ray (Scooter) McLean, who quit as Green Bay's head coach to join his old Chicago Bear teammate, George Wilson, in Detroit.

Vince Lombardi resigned last week as backfield coach of the New York Giants to become Green Bay head coach. He contacted Cochran this week and an agreement closed.

Cochran played for the Cardinals from 1947 through 1950, then accepted the backfield coaching job at his alma mater, Wake Forest. He left Wake Forest after the 1955 season to join Buddy Parker's staff in Detroit. He stayed on here when Wilson succeeded Parker in 1957.

Bimini Welter Beats Crawford

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Gomeo Brennan, 20-year-old welterweight contender from Bimini in the Bahamas, scored a unanimous 10-round decision Tuesday night over 10th ranked Mickey Crawford of Saginaw, Mich.

Brennan floored Crawford in the third round with a left uppercut and right hand combination. Crawford, who went into the fight an 8-5 favorite, ran into another flurry of fists in the seventh when three right hands by Brennan almost put him away.

Bonus, Long-Term Contract for Ewbank

The little coach who led the Baltimore Colts to their first National Football League title last year was rewarded last night with a $25,000 bonus and a new three-year contract calling for $30,000 annually.

Carroll Rosenbloom, principal owner of the Colts, said the contract will be renegotiated each year. That means Ewbank will receive at least two years' salary in the event he is fired.

"I hope our contract is forever," Rosenbloom said at the team's annual press party. "A better man we do not believe we can find. If he fouls up, I'll buy up his contract first thing."

Williams Seeks Rare Animals, Birds

Tropic Jungles Lure Hunter

This time, to the jungles of South America where he hopes to photograph and hunt rare and exotic animals and birds including red deer that weigh as much as 400 pounds.

Williams went to Little Rock, Ark, where he joined hunting companions Harry Hastings Sr., his son, Harry Jr., and outdoor writer Bill Apple. He plans on a month-long trip and will be back in Michigan March 1.

He said they want to hunt the Magdalina River jungle area of Columbia where no white man has ever set foot. All in the party agreed to try for a jaguar and were promised "good shots" by their outfitter if they would travel 700 to 800 miles along the river.

"We think our trip will open up a virgin hunting and fishing area for the average sportsman," Williams said.

"This kind of trip is not out of reach for the average guy," he said, "I drive a Chevy."

Williams is also cramming in a little business with the testing of some new equipment manufactured by his family. He is using a 12-gauge Winchester shotgun equipped with a new receiver sight that is supposed to give extreme accuracy with rifled slugs, yet allows fast shooting on winged game with birdshot.

Movies of the hunt in sound and color wil be aldded to the Williams Gun Sight Co. library and color will be added to the Scouts, sportsmen's groups, and other organizations upon request.

"Things are getting pretty crowded in the states," the camera-gun hunter said. "We've got to find new territory and that's the real purpose of the trip.

"By using our new sight in the worst possible kind of field test, we hope to show its value to the hunter back home. Fifteen states at least have gun regulations that permit nothing but shotguns with rifled slugs for deer."

The explorers will visit Mexico, Nicaragua, El Salvador, Honduras, Guatemala, Costa Rica and Peru. Other trips by the Williams family have taken them to Alaska, most sections of Canada, twice to Africa, Mexico and 25 of the 49 states.

String, Bit of Bacon Takes 5-Pound Bass

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Two young sons of a fishing lure manufacturer and their equally young companion caught a 5-pound bass from a private lake to the disgust of the brothers' dad.

Carl Porter said his boys, Tim and Russ, and Bill Garringer, caught the fish on a string and a piece of bacon. Porter said he takes special lures hundreds of miles to fish and doesn't do as

What's February Good For?

Hunter Can 'Bell' Foxes, Shoot Crows

By JACK PATTERSON

Did somebody turn off the sun, or what? This February jazz is just like January, December and November, which is far back enough to remember. If sleighbells hadn't gone out of style one would be mighty tired of their jingling by now, if you get what we mean. Talking to Curt Matthews on a windy corner the other day it was mentioned that this brisk weather is probably good for the constitution, and a person is undoubtedly fortunate to be able to enjoy so much of it. Curt found this an interesting theory and said he'd like to kick it around awhile, preferably in Puerto Rico.

PATTERSON

While February hasn't much to recommend it as a month of distinction it has accomplished something the other cold months couldn't. It's got Vic Hoerath wearing a topcoat to lunch. Like the late Allan Booth, Vic doesn't hold with bundling up in temperatures above zero. He'd make a good ice fisherman if we could get him away from business long enough.

Now, apart from hibernating in Fotis Takis' spa on north Woodward avenue, what is February really good for? Well, two things come to mind. One is belling foxes and the other shooting crows.

Plenty of foxes around waiting to be belled. We've explained this two-man job before but will do it again for late-comers. The two hunters walk along together for 15 minutes or so, ringing a handbell. Then one drops behind, concealing himself, and the bell-ringer keeps on walking and ringing. Presently the curious fox appears along the bellman's trail, giving the other guy a shot. See?

Success in February crow shooting largely depends on locating a roost and setting up not too far away. There are lots of crows but they scatter widely during the day in this scarce food season.

Snow on the ground makes a white nightshirt or bedsheet camouflage necessary. Once located on a flyway, properly hidden, the rest is up to the shooter. A case of shells can melt away in a hurry when birds are winging back to their roost.

There are several big roosts in the St. Johns-Alma areas, near Midland, and not far from Pinconning. A little scouting around in those regions should find precise locations and some fast and furious scattergunning.

Oh yeah, one more February activity comes to mind. Griping about the weather.

Tag-Bearing Doe Back in Showup

The deer was first recorded on the station's trapping register in 1951. At that time, it weighed 133 pounds.

After being tagged, the doe was released and its whereabouts was unknown until several weeks ago when it was again trapped, six miles from the original site of capture.

Visibly none the worse for wear, it weighed 152.

Giant Grouper Sets Record in Florida Tourney

During a vacation at Marathon on the Florida Keys, Spencer Gates and Mrs. Gates of Birmingham took a deep-sea angling trip with Capt. Fred Allen. They had good luck, taking a wide variety of fish, including bonito, ling, amberjacks, cobia, and others.

The big thrill, however, was the 46-pound grouper taken by Gates on a 25-pound test line, far lighter than it should have been. The tough sea battler fought for 25 minutes before being gaffed.

The big fish is rated as a record for its division in the tourney, won a citation for the lucky angler.

38 Dogs Take Part in Warmup Trials

Fast fields marked the warmup field trial last weekend at Dixon Kennels, New Haven, with an entry of 38 dogs in the three events. Trial was conducted by the German Shorthaired Pointer Club of Michigan.

Derby stakes: (10 entries) — Gretta Gardshaven (Ben Luce); Mac's Sue (Leonard McIntosh); Sheeter (Don Cargill).

Open all-age stake (shoot over live targets): (14 entries)—Kay Star (Frank Summers); Pepper von Schnellberg (Ralph Terrill); Dixon's Skid-Do (Russ Dixon, handler).

Little Stories About Outdoors

Growing concern is being felt in state conservation circles and among sportsmen over the possibility of heavy deer starvation losses, if current weather conditions continue during February. However, says Ilo Bartlett, specialist on deer for the department, game experts will wait several weeks more before arriving at any statement on the situation.

Nevertheless, say many observers, including Dr. C. S. Whitlock, assistant chief of the department's field division, this looks like one of the roughest winters in years. Last tough one was in 1955-56, when some 50,000 deer were lost from starvation. Last winter was mild and the loss was comparatively slight.

One lure for any kind of fishing is what the makers of Heddon's "Sonar" fishing gadget call the new lure they have just announced. It's a new way to find fish and catch them, say the Dowagiac, Mich., people. "Actually," says a firm representative, with the Sonar you can fish in six inches of water, or 60 feet." Three "magic holes" that cause the lure to run on the surface, go at medium depths and as deep as necessary to bump the bottom. Just shift the line connection to get what you want!

Drayton Fishermen Lucky, at Hillman

A weekend fishing trip to Hillman proved a productive event for Drayton Plains ice-anglers Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hine and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Long.

Mrs. Long speared the biggest northern pike, a 10½-pounder. Mr. Hine took a 7½-pounder and Mabel Hine landed a 4½-pound fish.

Teaches Figure Skating 75 Years

Skater, 104, Still Good

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Dr. Hugh A. Whytock claims he was 104 years old today. Some of his ice skating friends say he's several years short of that figure.

He skates every day and says he has spent more than 75 years teaching others the intricacies of figure skating.

"As far as anybody knows, Dr. Whytock is right around 100," says Mrs. Dolly Baker, secretary of the Utah Figure Skating Club. The club will help Doc Whytock celebrate his birthday today and also is setting up a memorial fund in his name to buy trophies for special events.

Dr. Whytock, a retired dentist, medical doctor and anaesthesia specialist, can't prove his age because he lost his birth certificate.

"And I'm glad I did," he happily admits. "I don't like to be so old. When you get as old as I am and you're not sitting around in a chair, you get to be a freak."

When there is no ice, he takes to rollers.

"I don't believe in a man sitting in a rocking chair after he retires," he says.

Ex-Packer Star Top Shotgunner

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Dan Orlich of Reno, Nev., former University of Nevada and Green Bay Packer football star, was America's high trapshooter for 1958 at 16 yards—but only by one ten-thousandth of a percentage point.

Amateur Trapshooting Assn. averages just released had Orlich on top with a .9925 average on 5,200 targets. Ned Lilly, a lumberman from Stanton, Mich., was second with .9924 on 2,500 targets.

Victor Reinders of Waukesha, Wis., a University of Wisconsin professor, had the third-high average of .9893 on 4,500 targets and Jim McCole, a game warden from Gering, Nebr., was fourth with .9892 on 2,500 targets. McCole lost a shootoff for the Grand American Handicap crown last August at Vandalia, Ohio.

Iva Jarvis, Phillipsburg, Kans., school teacher, was the top American woman trapshooter at 16 yards with an average of .9815 on 3,250 targets. She won the Kansas State singles championship for both sexes with a 199x200 score.

Western Millionaire Travels Through Russia, - - - Finds Only Curious Stares

Nubar Gulbenkian, a cigar-smoking, monocle-wearing Western millionaire, decided to find out just that during a recent trip to the Soviet Union.

"I had expected the Muscovites to glower or snigger as I strolled down the streets," said Gulbenkian whose curled mustachios and broad beard are even more impressive than his cigar and monocle.

"But I found only a few curious stares."

Gulbenkian's father was the late C. S. ("Mr. Five Per Cent") Gulbenkian, reputedly the world's richest man until his death.

In Soviet Armenia, where Nubar attended ceremonies marking the third anniversary of the coronation of the Armenian Orthodox Church's Catholicos (chief bishop), he found "no resentment at all" over his very obvious wealth.

THEY GREETED HIM

"In fact," he said, sipping his Armenian brandy and puffing on a Havana cigar in his luxurious suite at the Ritz, "hundreds of Armenians gathered outside my hotel to greet me."

Gulbenkian was one of hundreds of Armenians living outside Soviet Armenia who were invited to Russia by the Catholicos, Vazgen I, to help him celebrate his 50th birthday and the third anniversary of his coronation.

The Western millionaire said there was "every evidence' of complete religious freedom in Armenia.

He pointed out that the government had helped restore the 1500-year-old cathedral of Edtchmaidzine, cradle of Christianity in Armenia, (Gulbenkian's late father donated almost half a million dollars to the project.)

Gulbenkian also said that every Armenian churchman he spoke to stressed that church-state relations were "more than cordial."

He said that Armenian churchmen could not be accused of servility to the state. In support of this statement he pointed out that the Catholics publicly urged the foreigners who attended his festivities to be loyal to their adopted homelands.

He said the banquets "lasted five or six hours and 20 or 30 speeches and that there was "plenty to eat and drink, and plenty to listen to."

Gulbenkian said he was allowed perfect liberty to travel wherever he wanted to while in Russia.

"I was even given permission to visit the militarized zone along the Turkish border," he said. "I traveled about 200 miles by car in the neighborhood of Erenan, and went to see Mount Ararat as well as the River Alex, sacred in the memory of Armenians."

He said that during a visit of less than three weeks, he "could not form an opinion of Soviet Russia, but only an impression."

"I was impressed by all that I saw in Moscow," Gulbenkian said. "True, I saw only the finer parts of the city. But the streets were broad and there was plenty of construction going on."

He said the Muscovites struck him as "earnest, dedicated and almost dour."

"They seemed to have a slight pity for the Western way of life," he observed.

"I was most struck by the absence of the profit motive. People do things for you not because you pay them but because you are entitled to these things. Taxi drivers were courteous to me whether I tipped them three rubles, 30 rubles, or not at all."

Gulbenkian said that of the nearly 200 Armenians who spoke with him ("I counted up to 150, then I lost count") only one asked him for a handout.

"He said he was cold in the winter and needed a coat. But the very next person I spoke to warned me that he was a sponger."

Reds Won't Let Convoy Proceed

Deadlock Continues as U.S. Rejects Demand to Search Trucks

HELMSTEDT, Germany (AP) —The Soviet army stood pat today on its refusal to grant passage to a U.S. Army truck convoy held up for two days at West Germany's frontier. The Soviets searched a British truck on the same Berlin highway.

A Soviet spokesman charged that the convoy's refusal to bow to Red army inspection controls at the West German frontier was "a deliberate and prepared maneuver."

A rapid-fire series of U. S. protests and demands was made that the four-truck convoy with its five-soldier guard be allowed to proceed immediately.

The Red army spokesman at East Berlin headquarters said: "It is now up to the Americans to put this affair in order."

The Soviets are insisting that the convoy either allow search or return to West Berlin.

The Americans refused to allow Soviet border guards to search the convoy when it rolled up Monday from Berlin at the Soviet checkpoint in Marienborn, just over the line from this West German border point. The trucks carried Jeeps.

An American and Soviet army officer conferred here this morning in an apparent effort to settle the dispute.

Skiers Touch Off Avalanche Fatal to One of Them

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Three young skiers ventured onto a posted trail Tuesday and touched off a thundering avalanche of snow and rock. One of them was killed.

The body of Gary MacGivern, 21, Seattle, was dug from 10 feet of snow by his companion, Richard Walker, and other rescuers.

Walker, also 21 and from Seattle, his wife, and MacGivern apparently were in search of powder snow favored by expert skiers.

They ventured into the area known as Walch's Gulch, near the 10,000 foot level on Bell Mountain, south of here.

Then came the avalanche.

Seek Protection for Auto Dealers

Bill to Safeguard Pacts With Manufacturers Due for Close Attention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation aimed at providing franchise protection for automobile dealers is expected to get new scrutiny at this session of Congress.

Such a bill was offered in the last Congress by former Sen. Charles Potter (R-Mich). The Senate Commerce Committee held hearings on the measure but it failed to reach the Senate floor.

It would permit a system of incentive payments by manufacturers to dealers for cars sold within the dealer's franchise territory. It also would require dealers to provide specified services for which they would be compensated.

Staff members of the commerce committee said today no similar legislation has reached it yet. But Dean Chaffain of Bozeman, Mont., president of the Automobile Dealers Assn., said yesterday the dealers have no alternative other than to take their case to Congress again this year with a request for legislation to preserve the franchise system.

The Potter bill was designed to permit manufacturers to compensate dealers for providing service facilities for new cars sold and delivered in their franchise areas and to withhold this incentive compensation on cars sold by the dealer outside his franchise area.

Also unharmed in the landing were Sherrod E. Skinner, vice president of GM's accessory group, and the pilot, O. A. White of St. Clair Shores.

Grains Fall Back to Slow Pace

CHICAGO (AP)—There was no sign in the grain futures market today of the general strength that took all contracts well ahead yesterday.

Prices in early transactions were mostly narrowly mixed with trade back to the very slow pace that has been the rule recently.

Yugoslavia, which has been a daily buyer of wheat for a week, took another 350,000 bushels of red today for shipment this month but other consumer demand was almost absent.

Near the end of the first hour wheat was ¼ cent a bushel lower to ⅛ higher, March $1.97¾; corn unchanged to ¼ lower, March $1.13¾; oats unchanged to ⅛ lower, March 66⅝; rye unchanged to ⅝ higher, March $1.36⅝; soybeans ⅛ to ¾ lower, March $2.18.

Succeeds Peek as Car Makers Assistant in Purchasing

Appointment of Milton L. Prashaw as assistant purchasing agent in charge of nonproductive buying and procurement has been announced by Martin F. Rummel, purchasing agent for Pontiac Motor Division.

PRASHAW

Prashaw succeeds H. J. Peek who retired Feb. 1 after 24 years with the division.

A native of Massena, N. Y., Prashaw joined Pontiac in 1947 with the production followup section of purchasing. In 1951 he was named outside expediter for defense tooling and, in 1954, was appointed divisional buyer — dies and plant construction. He assumed the duties of superintendent of the Salvage Department in 1957 —the position he held prior to his new appointment.

Prashaw graduated from Michigan State University and received a master's degree in industrial relations and personnel management from the University of Michigan. He played one year of professional football with the Buffalo Bills before joining Pontiac.

Married, he is the father of three children and resides in Bloomfield Hills.

PEEK

Peek devoted all 24 years of his division service to duties in the Purchasing Department. Joining the production followup section in 1935, he held various positions of responsibility before being named assistant purchasing agent in 1946.

Born in Detroit, Peek was a student of the University of Detroit. He and his wife reside in Birmingham.

Wants More Time in Lakes Diversion

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan Attorney General Paul L. Adams says he plans to petition the U.S. Supreme Court to give opponents of Lake Michigan water diversion more time to file briefs answering Illinois' claim it needs more water for the Chicago drainage district.

"This year, for the first time, we have reason to fell confident the Chicago water diversion bill will be defeated in Congress," Adams said.

"Chicago is finally realizing its importance as a port and is spending tens of millions on port expansion.

"Chicago must recognize, as other lake ports do, that the benefits of having a deep waterway reaching unbroken to the ocean far outweigh the expense of providing adequate treatment for its sewage."

Rage-Shot Kills Wrong Man

Area Resident Says Jealous Detroit Husband Was After Him

A Waterford Township man escaped death when a jealous husband barged into a Detroit home early today and killed the wrong man.

Robert K. Dine, 27, of Detroit crashed through the back door of the east-side Detroit home and shot to death Fred McKinney, 36, according to Detective Charles Perry of the Detroit Homicide Bureau.

Dine was being held today for investigation of murder.

Edgar Jacobs, 32, of 5272 Pontiac Lake Rd., told police, "I was the man he was after."

Also in the house were Dine's wife, Marguerite, 26, and their three children, and Mrs. Jean Kopec, 34, and her three children.

Mrs. Kopec told police that Dine had talked to her on the phone an hour before and told her to tell his wife, "I'm mad and I'm not going to let her get away with anything."

Mrs. Dine had moved in with Mrs. Kopec after separating from Dine two weeks ago.

Sgt. Perry said McKinney was visiting Mrs. Kopec, who has been separated from her husband one year.

Legislator Irate at Attack on GM

Chamberlain Refutes Charge of Preference in Defense Contracts

Chamberlain also objected specifically to the terms "hog" and "fat cats" which Rep. Ray J. Madden (D-Ind) used to describe General Motors.

Madden charged last month that smaller concerns such as Indiana's Studebaker-Packard Corp. had been squeezed out of the defense contract market by GM.

Chamberlain disputed this in remarks prepared for House delivery. He said GM actually has tumbled to 17th place in percentage of prime defense contracts received, compared to the first place it occupied during the Korean War.

Chamberlain said that as of June 1958, GM had 1.3 per cent of the prime contracts awarded by the Defense Department, compared to 6.8 per cent at the height of the Korean War emergency.

Christiansen Fills GM Styling Post

G. Thomas Christiansen has been appointed manager of staff activities for General Motors Styling, it was announced today by William L. Mitchell, GM vice president in charge of styling.

CHRISTIANSEN

Christiansen, whose appointment is effective immediately, has been executive in charge of administration for GM styling since 1957. He first joined GM in 1946 as a staff assistant at GM styling and was promoted to administrative assistant to the director of styling in 1955.

Born in Norwood, Mass., in 1919, he graduated from Culver Military Academy at Culver, Ind., and the University of Michigan where he received a bachelor of science in mechanical engineering in 1941.

From 1941 to 1946, he served in the ordnance section of the U.S. Army, attaining the rank of major. He served two years overseas in the China-Burma-India theater.

He and his wife, Marnie, and three daughters, Karen, Peggy and Sally, live at 425 Fairfax St., Birmingham.

Rowston Appoints 6 Men to Strengthen Trial Board

Mayor Philip E. Rowston today announced appointment of a six-member citizens committee "to strengthen" the old Police Trial Board in case voters decided to repeal civil service for police.

Appointed to the advisory committee were Glenn C. Gillespie, R. Verne Todd, Harvey M. Johns, Cecil Mullinax, Warren Fowler and I. J. Davis Jr.

Gillespie is an attorney who has given the city legal advice on many occasions; Todd is former chairman of the trial board; Johns is head of Pontiac Motor Division plant protection; and Mullinax and Fowler were appointed to the old trial board a few months before voters placed police under civil service in April, 1957. Davis is an insurance adjustor.

"The committee should recommend procedures and rules that would meet the objections police officers had against the trial board," said Commissioner William W. Donaldson, who called for the committee last night.

"Policemen should feel assured that their welfare will be protected if civil service is repealed."

If voters repeal civil service at the April 6 election, the trial board would automatically go back into effect under provisions in the City Charter.

Commissioners, who have steadfastly opposed civil service since its adoption, placed a proposition to repeal it on the spring ballot last Tuesday.

The night after, the Pontiac Police Officers Association, which fought to get civil service on the ballot two years ago, went on record unanimously opposing repeal and announced plans to campaign to keep civil service.

R. T. Jennings Succeeds DeHart at GMC Truck

Appointment of Richard T. Jennings to succeed Henry T. DeHart as truck merchandising manager for GMC Truck and Coach Division of General Motors Corporation was announced today by R.C. Woodhouse, general truck sales manager.

His promotion follows the retirement of DeHart, who has headed GMC Truck's advertising and merchandising activities for 30 years.

JENNINGS

Jennings served GMC in various sales and promotional capacities since 1945. He joined General Motors in 1941 and worked for General Motors Acceptance Corporation and the Allison Division before being transferred to GMC Truck.

One of the nation's most widely known automotive advertising managers, DeHart joined GMC Truck and Coach in 1929 after working on newspapers on Chicago and Lansing.

He rose from assistant advertising and sales promotion manager to the top positions in both departments by 1933. He was named truck merchandising manager in 1953.

A native of Lafayette, Ind., DeHart is a graduate of Purdue University where he majored in science. He is a member of the Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity, and various other fraternal organizations.

DeHART

Jennings was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, on Jan. 13, 1918. He attended Oberlin College in Ohio, receiving a bachelor of arts degree in eonomics and business administration.

Since joining GMC Truck, Jennings has served in various executive sales capacities. He was named sales training manager in 1950 and zone sales manager in Boston two years later. He returned to the GMC Home Office here in 1955 as sales promotion manager.

Robertson was born June 10, 1926, in Westerly, R.I., and attended Amherst college and Massachusetts State College before joining GMC Truck in 1947 as a General Motors Institute engineering student.

ROBERTSON

After graduation, he served as service training instructor and service training school supervisor before being named an engine section product representative.

Pontiac Program Producing Skilled Auto Mechanics

An advanced vocational training program, tested successfully by Pontiac Motor Division in 1958, will help relieve the ever-increasing need for skilled mechanical personnel in dealership service departments, according to S. E. Knudsen, Pontiac general manager.

"Our first concentrated application of the program resulted in the training and subsequent full-time employment of 10 vocational school students with Pontiac dealers in the Philadelphia area," Knudsen said. "Due to these gratifying results we will extend the program in 1959, on a dealer-request basis, to other key location across the country."

Pontiac's pilot program was developed by the division's service department in cooperation with the Philadelphia Board of Education and Pontiac dealers in that area.

Students were selected by competitive examinations with each of 10 participating dealerships accepting one vocational school senior. Then followed an intensive four-week classroom and workshop training program, conducted by Pontiac service instructors at the General Motors Training Center in Moorestown, N. J.

All trainees were carried on the dealer payrolls during the program, and all returned to full-time employment as bonafide automobile mechanics.

For the past five years, Pontiac also has aided its dealerships with a refresher type service training program for already established mechanics. Utilizing well-equipped classrooms in all 30 of General Motors' training centers in the United States, Pontiac instructors update mechanics periodically on latest changes, developments, and service techniques.

Steel Output to Drop

DETROIT (AP)—The trade publication Iron Age said Tuesday steel production in the Detroit area is expected to drop sharply this week because of uncertainty of operations at McLouth Steel Corp. Steelmaking operations have been scheduled at 69.6 per cent of capacity. Last week's operating rate was 82.8 per cent. A year ago the operating rate was 53 per cent of capacity.

Capt. Zebulon M. Pike, who discovered Pike's Peak with a party of soldiers in 1806, never reached the summit of the mountain.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

Senators Debate on Housing Bill

First Floor Fight on Eisenhower's Budget Begins Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The year's first floor fight affecting President Eisenhower's budget opens in the Senate today on a $2,925,000,000 Democratic omnibus housing bill.

Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala), author of the measure, told a reporter he was sure he had the votes to hold the measure largely intact. He predicted Eisenhower would sign it.

But Republican leaders, after talking with the President Tuesday, said Eisenhower was quite unhappy about provisions of the measure which would far exceed his budget. They said the possibility of a veto was not discussed but they promised to try to cut the bill closer to administration figures.

On the other side, Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa) has pledged a floor fight in an effort to increase the size of some of the programs.

Sparkman's bill is quite similar to one which passed the Senate last year but died in the House in the face of administration opposition. It compares to a $1,650,000,000 proposal of the President this year.

It is designed to meet mergency financing needs of some government housing programs, including an increase in the almost exhausted authority for FHA loan insurance.

In Memoriam 2

Mortgage Bus Terminal

DETROIT (AP)—A four million dollar mortgage loan on the new Greyhound Bus Terminal in Detroit has been obtained from the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States.

CLASSIC TRANSITION — John Kerr plays a young American who inherits a London mansion from an 18th Century forebear in the Hall of Fame colorcast of the classic, "Berkeley Square," tomorrow night. Moving into the house he becomes so immersed in diaries and other lore that he is transported back to London of 1784, taking the form of his ancestor.

Theater Classic on Hall of Fame

'Miss TV' of Britain Plays Romantic Lead Opposite John Kerr

The "Hallmark Hall of Fame" will present "Berkeley Square," an all-time classic of the theater, as its 90-minute color production on Channel 4 Thursday at 9:30 p.m.

The play will star John Kerr, seen on Broadway this season in "Cue for Passion" and well-remembered for his performance in both stage and screen versions of "Tea and Sympathy." He also gave a memorable performance in the Hall of Fame production of "The Corn Is Green" three seasons ago.

Kerr will play the role of Peter Standish, created by the late Leslie Howard in the Broadway production of "Berkeley Square."

Jeannie Carson and Edna Best have been named to co-star with Kerr and the play will serve also to introduce to American audiences Janet Munro, England's "Miss Television of 1958" and one of that country's most sought-after young actresses.

The British beauty at 23 is a veteran of stage, screen and TV. Her father, Alex Munro, is a top comedian in English variety and, at 15, she quit school to work with him. Soon she was with a repertory company, and at 18 was playing leads.

"Berkeley Square" is a whimsical, enchanting play based on the theory that all time—past, present and future—is one. It is the story of a young American, Peter Standish, who inherits a mansion on London's Berkeley Square from an 18th century forebear of the same name.

Upon moving into the ancestral home, he becomes so immersed in diaries and other lore that the process of reincarnation is reversed and he is transported back to the London of 1784, taking on the form of the first Peter Standish.

The difficulty of comporting himself in the 18th century manner, and the dramatic complications of loving a girl of that time while being affianced to a girl of his own century, eventually force him to return to his own time and live with his memories of the distant past in the mansion on the Square.

First Nighters Uncork for Hans Conreid Show

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Broadway first-nighters are often falsely accused of being icy—and they proved it false when they broke into applause for Hans Conreid (Jack Paar's frequent TV guest) when he shot over funny lines in "Tall Story," the Howard Lindsay-Russel Crouse comedy.

WILSON

"I went to lunch at the Faculty Club — an organization composed entirely of gentlemen who have lost their faculties," was his smasher.

"I've never been so important since my bar-mitzvah," was another.

They also roared when the stern Prof, very drunk after a party, said, "I never knew I liked so many people I didn't like." And again when Marc Connelly, an actor now, said, "Leon is going to be a full professor," and his wife, Marian Winters, said, "He's a full professor now."

Crouse and Lindsay studied colleges at Ohio Wesleyan. "They gave me an honorary degree there, but I'm the most uneducated doctor you ever met," Crouse said. "I didn't go to college. My college" —indicating the Belasco Theater and Times Sq.—"was right here."

Tallulah Bankhead's 56th birthday party—"b. Jan. 31, 1903," it says in Who's Who—drew all the VIPs. 'Twas Carol Channing's birthday, too, but she could hardly get a word in, except when she did her impression of deep-voiced Tallulah throatily declaiming, "With my voice, I can go into places where no other woman can go." Tallulah told me, "I don't see why you want to mention my age when I'm so beautiful." Tallulah gave Carol a bottle of Joy perfume. "What does this cost?" Carol inquired. "I'm so glad you asked, darling," said Tallulah, "Ninety-five dollars!" Tallulah recalled the best tale ever told of her age; when she once said to Irving Hoffman, "Darling, I don't look 40, do I?" and he said, "No, not any more."

Soapy to Happy: Be Thankful for Nickname!

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Be happy about "Happy," the governor of Michigan suggested to the governor of Kentucky. It's all in the way the nickname is used.

G. Mennen Williams should know. He's known in his home state of Michigan as Soapy.

Williams said some of his advisors think Soapy isn't dignified. But he suggested, when told Gov. A. B. Chandler of Kentucky felt the same way about Happy, that nicknames are all right when the people using them do it in a friendly way.

For instance, there's a man in Washington who doesn't mind being called "Ike," he said in an interview here.

Williams' brothers used to be known as "Lather" and "Suds" but "those names washed off while Soapy stuck."

TV News and Reviews:

New Comedian Braces Eddie Fisher's Show

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mort Sahl's brief turn on the NBC-TV Eddie Fisher show last night was the evening's principal bracer.

Like most of the better new comics — Elaine and Mike, Johnny Winters, Lenny Bruce, Milt Kamen, Shelley Berman — Sahl is steeped in his time. His idiom is contemporary.

He assumes that the members of his audience have gone to school, read newspapers and an occasional book, have voted, earned money and are practicing members of the human community. He assumes, in other words, that his audience is alive.

It is an assumption foreign to many of our veteran comics whose approach leans on formula and lacks spine. Insularity is one of the penalties of success and many of our veteran comics seem to suffer from that insularity.

They seem to lack contact with people in their ordinary living. As a result, their routines are made up of rote jokes about marriage, children, weather, autos plus jokes about the only field they know well — show business.

Sahl and his contemporaries don't work much on TV and it's kind of sad. I suppose the programmers are a little afraid of them. They needn't be. It's just possible that the TV audience has gone to school after all.

SHORT SHOTS: Jack Paar returned to his NBC-TV show last night with some fairly engrossing footage from Cuba . . . Vic Morrow, who played the hero on last night's ABC-TV Naked City, is one of the most interesting young actors I've seen recently on TV — he is intense and individual . . . Gretchen Wyler, a last minute substitution for the ailing Vivian Blaine, added considerable bounce to the CBS-TV Garry Moore show last night.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: NBC-TV's Steve Allen has been assured he'll be back next fall, but there is a distant possibility he may be shifted from Sunday night to another time spot — NBC-TV is hot for the one hour 'Mississippi Riverboat" for a Sunday slot.

High-Pressure Salesmen Sued

$65-a-Week Man Says He Was Sold $5,290 Car He Didn't Want

PATERSON, N. J. (AP)—A $65-a-week draftsman today claimed auto salesmen used "moral compulsion and psychological pressure," including a tape recorder, to sell him a $5,290 car he didn't want.

Robert W. Jennings, 21, of Wood-Ridge, filed a superior court suit against Legion Motors, Inc. of Union and three of its salesmen —James D. Grant, James Wright and Robert Wortley.

Jennings said in the suit they wore down his resistance in putting over a deal Jan. 21 for a 1959 Chrysler. He claimed they allowed him $1,200 for his 1958 Chevrolet and charged him $740 to finance the transaction.

According to Jennings, Grant and Wortley induced him and his wife to speak into a tape recorder when the deal was discussed, despite his reluctance to do so. He said the two salesmen told him they wanted the recording because Wright, identified as their boss, was not present.

After signing the papers, his wife started to cry, Jennings said, and the salesmen refused to cancel the deal. He asked the court to rescind the sales contract and have either his old car or $1,200 returned to him.

Mother Saves Child, Home by Shutting Door

KALAMAZOO (AP) — A young mother who knew that fires burn more slowly when a door is shut, saved her 16-month-old daughter's life and probably her home yesterday.

Mrs. Phyllis Thomas, 25, of nearby Galesburg, dashed into her daughter's room when she smelled smoke. She snatched the child, Diana, from a burning crib. Diana was ill and the fire apparently was started by a makeshift vaporizer.

Carrying Diana and scurrying from the room, Mrs. Thomas remembered to close the door. She said she had read somewhere that a fire burned slower in a room where the door was shut.

Neither Mrs. Thomas nor Diana was hurt.

'Thermostat' in Humans Discovered

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A Dallas researcher says he's found the "thermostat" which controls the body's production of cholesterol—the fatty substance which sets the stage for many heart ailments.

Dr. Marvin Siperstein says a complex system acts like a thermostat to keep the body's cholesterol level constant, regardless of how much cholesterol-producing food a person eats.

He and his associates now are searching, he said, for ways to turn down the thermostat and keep cholesterol from reaching dangerous levels.

Cholesterol and other fats, when the level is too high, are deposited inside blood vessels and contribute to heart attacks and strokes, the scientist said.

These deposits may either cause a blood clot or shut off the blood flow in an artery.

Dr. Siperstein said the thermostat is very complicated and involves the liver. Chemical reactions are involved in the buildup of cholesterol, he said.

The researcher said discovery of the thermostat has opened possibilities of locating a whole set of master controls of all kinds of metabolism, even the production of cancer.

Dr. Siperstein is an associate professor of medicine at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School here. He made his report a few days ago in New Orleans, La., at the Southern Society for Clinical Investigation.

Wurtsmith Preparing to Handle Missiles

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP) — The Air Force has announced start of construction of facilities for handling of Hound-Dog air-to-ground missiles and Quail air-to-ground decoy missiles at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Michigan.

The Hound-Dog is carried by Strategic Air Command heavy jet bombers for air launch against possible enemy targets. Quail, fired in the same manner, is designed to confuse enemy air defenses and increase the capability of the SAC bomber force in penetrating heavily defended areas.
