

Negotiators for Waterford Teachers, Board OK Pact

Negotiating teams representing the Waterford Education Association (WEA) and the Waterford Township Board of Education last night reached agreement on a 1966-67 master contract for teachers, culminating nearly seven months of bargaining.

If ratified by teachers at a

WEA meeting at 7:30 tonight and by the board tomorrow, classes will open on schedule this week.

The agreement was announced by Harry N. Caselman, an arbitrator for the Michigan Labor Mediation Board (MLMB) who supervised intensified bargaining and mediation sessions lasting 31 hours between Thursday night and 8:30 last night.

The WEA ratification meeting will be at the Community Activities, Inc., building.

Teachers had threatened not to return to classes unless a contract was negotiated by the time school opened.

Teachers are slated to report back to school tomorrow, while students are scheduled to return Thursday.

Terms of the contract are being withheld, pending ratification by the teachers and school board.

Negotiations between the two sides first began last Feb. 11.

In June, a mediator from the MLMB was called into the scene after teachers had voted to withhold their professional services unless a contract was negotiated before the start of the school year.

CHARGES FILED

Last Monday, the WEA filed charges of unfair labor practices against the school board, and Supt. of Schools Dr. Don O. Tatro. Tatro appealed to Gov. George Romney to intervene in the crisis in an effort to find a solution.

Thursday, Romney prepared a 40-day moratorium for Waterford Township and eight other troubled Michigan districts to assure that school would open on schedule.

He was turned down, but received pledges from all nine districts that intensified bargaining would be carried out in an all-out effort to prevent any delay in the opening of school.

Waterford already had planned stepped-up negotiations prior to the governor's meeting.

Florida Crash Kills 7 as U.S. Toll Skyrockets

By The Associated Press

Seven lives were snuffed out early today as two cars crashed near Clearwater in western Florida, pushing the 78-hour Labor Day weekend traffic toll toward what the National Safety Council said looked like a "pretty definite" record.

The death toll reached 450.

The crash on U.S. 19 a few miles north of Clearwater killed three boys and four girls, all teens, and injured three others.

It was one of four multiple fatalities that marred the holiday.

The grimest accident came yesterday when three cars collided west of Norwalk on the rain-slicker Ohio Turnpike and nine persons died.

"Unless there's some radical improvement," said a safety council spokesman, "it will be a two-car collision on U.S.-19 near this southern Michigan community, shortly after 11 a.m. Officials refused to identify the victims, pending notification of next of kin, but said that six of the dead were Branch County, Mich., residents, and two were from Mishawaka, Ind."

COLDWATER (AP)—Eight persons were killed and two were seriously injured today in a two-car collision on U.S.-19 near this southern Michigan community, shortly after 11 a.m. Officials refused to identify the victims, pending notification of next of kin, but said that six of the dead were Branch County, Mich., residents, and two were from Mishawaka, Ind."

"The proposal at this time is untimely and embarrassing to the commander in chief," Morton said in an interview.

"I am upset and concerned that the Democratic leadership is so little disciplined that it could come out with a proposal like this."

"If we do this — and we won't — Europe would consider NATO as going down the drain and the rest of the world would think we were concerned only with Viet Nam," the Kentucky Republican said.

An Associated Press canvass disclosed that 65 senators willing to take a public position at this time, 48 favor early withdrawal of some American troops from Europe while 17 oppose the action as likely to have far-reaching adverse consequences.

Johnson Urges Labor Restraint

4 U.S. Planes Are Downed in N. Viet Raids

Government Troops Kill Nearly Half of 600-Man Red Force

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — North Vietnamese ground fire shot down three U.S. fighter-bombers during raids near Hanoi yesterday and another American plane was knocked down farther south today, the U.S. command announced.

Only one of the five pilots was rescued, a spokesman said.

The aircraft losses brought the number of U.S. planes reported shot down over North Viet Nam to 361.

While American jets pounded oil depots, missile sites and other targets in the North Vietnamese heartland, government troops in South Viet Nam reported wiping out nearly half of a 600-man elite Communist force in a three-day operation in the sweltering swamps of the Mekong Delta 120 miles southwest of Saigon.

The fighting broke a 10-day lull in ground action in the south.

BRACE FOR TERRORISM

As the allies braced for increased Communist terrorism in advance of the national election next Sunday, 5,500 South Korean troops arrived aboard three U.S. transports at the central coast port of Nha Trang.

A U.S. twin-engine Army Caribou transport plane crashed into a Vietnamese village yesterday shortly after taking off from Dong Tre airfield about 250 miles northeast of Saigon.

Record Jobs, Inflation Woes Backdrop for This Labor Day

WASHINGTON (AP) — Flags wave, workers parade, bands blare and speakers laud labor's role in American life as the nation observes Labor Day today.

The holiday dates back to 1882, when workers staged the first Labor Day parade in New York City. It has been a legal holiday since 1894.

This year's observance comes amid record unemployment and a growing discontent over inflationary pressures.

The government announced last week that 78.4 million Americans were at work in August, a carryover of July's record-breaking figure. A week earlier, it had announced the cost of living had reached a record high.

Labor's top spokesman, George Meany, president of the 13-million-member AFL-CIO, defended the right to strike as vital to democracy and said in a holiday statement labor is not to blame for rising prices.

EQUAL SHARE

President Johnson said Labor Day is a time to focus on new ways to assure every citizen an equal share in the greatness of America.

"Every segment of American life — labor, government, business, the public at large — has a special stake in extending our prosperity to those it has excluded for too long," Johnson said in his Labor Day message.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz steered clear of controversial economic issues in their Labor Day messages, confining themselves to praising labor's role in seeking a better life for all Americans.

In the background of the Labor Day celebration hung the strong possibility of a major strike in the telephone industry, following hard on the heels of the recent crippling airlines walkout that spurred new talk of antistrike legislation.

"In recent weeks and months, some of the basic precepts of free trade unionism have been challenged," Meany said in an obvious reference to the airlines furor.

Anyone who says he believes in the right to strike must accept the fact that strikes will sometimes occur," he said.

Congress was considering legislation to end the airlines strike when the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists settled with five airlines. There are signs that new legislation to deal with strikes may come up in the next session of Congress.

Turning to economics, Meany said it was a difficult subject for most Americans to understand except when it comes to "the family budget."

He said labor was unfairly catching the blame for rising prices.

Government figures show that unit labor costs have long remained stable, while profits have been climbing at record rates, he said.

"Prices are not being pushed up by wages," Meany said. "It is a profit inflation, pure and simple."

Today's partly cloudy skies will clear tonight and it will be cool. Tonight's low is predicted between 66 and 82.

West to southwestly winds at 10 to 18 miles will diminish and become west to northwestly tonight.

Wednesday's outlook is sunny and a little warmer.

The lowest temperature reading in Pontiac before 8 a.m. today was 55. It was 60 by 10 a.m.

Political Trip to Detroit First of Campaign

Vows Continued Fight on Guaranteed Pay, Taft-Hartley Repeal

DETROIT (AP) — President Johnson told organized labor today, on its own holiday and in one of its citadels, that "it can't make all the gains it wants — all at once."

Johnson, starting his first admittedly political trip of the campaign season, coupled a blunt call for labor union restraint in wage demands with these promises:

—He pledged he would not forget the goal of a guaranteed annual wage.

—He promised to fight in 1967 for repeal of section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act, which authorizes states to outlaw the union shop contracts that require all eligible employees to join the union.

In a Labor Day address prepared for a union-sponsored memorial service at Cobo Hall for Sen. Patrick V. McNamara, D-Mich., Johnson said he did not want to vanish rough facts about inflation — "a pickpocket." He asserted in a key passage:

"Labor wants — and labor deserves — a growth of real wages, not just money wages. It wants wage gains that will offset some of the recent rise in the cost of living. But it can't make all the gains it wants — all at once —"

Car-Muncher Coming to Pontiac

A machine that could spell the end of so-called auto graveyards is scheduled to go into operation in two weeks on Pontiac's North Side.

City officials, including Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., Police Chief William K. Hanger and Fire Chief James B. White, were on hand Friday for a look at the pilot model of the "Rhino-autoripper."

The machine has been installed at the scrap processing yards of Sam Allen & Sons, Inc., located on Collier near the city's sanitary land-fill site.

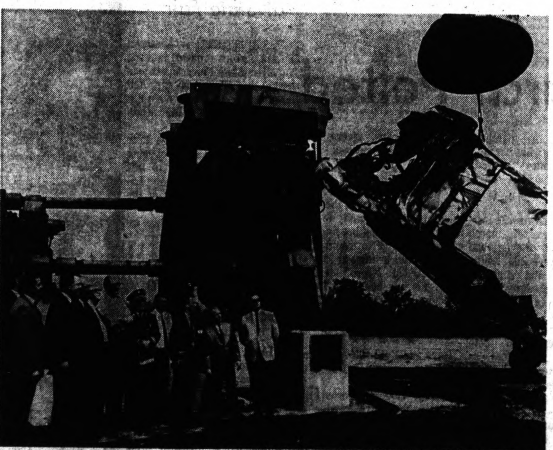

The Rhino-autoripper is a machine that reduces automobiles to a big lump of metal, cutting and ripping with double sets of 12-inch metal teeth.

The machine, the first of its type to be installed in the country, will rip at the rate of 300 per day.

Search Intensified in Killing of Girl, 9

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — A force of more than 50 detectives has been assigned to search for the slayer of 9-year-old Julia Beckwith, whose muddy blood-spattered body was found early yesterday in a vacant lot about a half mile from her home.

Police Chief Harold A. Breier ordered all days off canceled in the department as the hunt widened for Julia's murderer.

Her partially-nude body was found by her father and two policemen with her slacks wound tightly around her neck. She had several stab wounds.

4 Canadian Jailbreakers Face Hearing

GARY, Ind. (UPI) — Four Canadian jailbreakers, whose plans to flee to Cuba in a stolen plane ended Saturday night in a hail of police bullets, faced arraignment today before U.S. Commissioner Wilbur J. Glendinning in Hammond, Ind.

The four, including an insane murderer, an alleged rapist, and the man reputed to have staged a $383,000 gold bullion robbery last March, were held on a technical charge of international transportation of a stolen aircraft.

An FBI spokesman said Canadian officials were expected here today and may return the men to Canada tomorrow.

The four were among 10 men who broke out of Headingly Provincial Prison at Winnipeg, Man. Thursday night. The jailbreak was believed to have been masterminded by Kenneth Leishman, 34, who piloted the escape plane.

The four landed in a field southeast of here Saturday, begged a ride to the nearest town and caught a bus to Gary, where they spent four hours in a tavern.

They braggled to the tavern-keeper that they were the men mentioned in a television newscast, and he notified police by sending them to a hotel nearby.

George Leclerc, shot in the wrist and leg as he fled police, was under heavy guard in Gary Methodist Hospital. Leishman, Barry Duke and Joseph LaPorte were transferred yesterday to the Lake County jail in nearby Crown Point.

Helping Hand Help Hindered While Helping

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP) — Sidney Ashley, 81, had been told by the city to make repairs to his old house, or move out.

Ashley said he didn't have the money to make repairs and his neighbors were sympathetic. So when they saw workmen tearing down the front porch, they assumed the city had ordered the house demolished and tried to throw the workmen off the property.

Only then did they learn that the men had been sent by a contractor, who had learned of Ashley's plight and offered to fix the house free of charge.

CICERO, Ill. (AP) — A long-threatened open housing march filed through hostile Cicero Sunday, with 3,000 police and National Guardsmen swinging bayonets and billyclubs to maintain order.

Six white spectators suffered minor bayonet cuts and police arrested at least 40 persons.

The march by 192 persons — far less than the 1,000 authorized by a parade permit — was projected to be a large one — many mobilized during the past six weeks of protest marches in the Chicago area. Less than one-quarter of the marchers were white. Some other marches have been nearly half composed of whites.

As in other demonstrations, rocks, bottles and firecrackers flew at the marchers and hecklers shouted taunts and obscenities.

A White Lake Township youth led Waterloo police in a high-speed chase causing minor property damage and ending in an accident early yesterday morning, police said.

Victor E. Credland, 20, of 7001 Highland, reaching speeds up to 120 miles per hour, tore up a yard at 1804 Alma, Waterloo Township, when he was unable to stop, according to police.

Credland also ran over a curb, knocking down mailboxes and a no parking sign, skidded across Highland and crashed into a tree 40 feet off the road in front of the Peace Lutheran Church, 5825 Highland, Waterloo Township, police said.

He was taken to the Pontiac General Hospital, treated for minor injuries and released. Credland was charged with reckless driving.

Reuther Views Role of Labor

New Commitment to End Poverty Is Urged

DETROIT (UPI) — Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers union, said today the American labor movement must dedicate itself to expanding the opportunities for human fulfillment.

"Progress for American labor is inescapably tied together with the advancement of the welfare and the well-being of our whole society," Reuther said in a Labor Day message.

He called for a "bold, new commitment" to eradicate poverty and improve the quality of American life.

"We shall not win the war against poverty at home until we are prepared to commit resources to this war equal to our commitments in Viet Nam," Reuther said.

His message climaxed a Labor Day celebration in Detroit highlighted by the visit of President Johnson.

MAJOR CAUSE
Reuther also said the major cause of inflation was "unjustified high prices."

He called on business leaders "to share the fruits of developing technology between workers, stockholders and consumers."

General Motors Corp., Reuther said, could have cut its auto prices in 1965 by $100 per unit on the wholesale level and still made an after-tax profit of $1.9 billion "equal to 25 percent return on investment."

Red Guard Rampage Hits China Homes

HONG KONG (UPI) — Roving bands of Communist Chinese Red Guard youths have begun terrorist house-to-house raids in Canton, the largest city in southern China, travelers arriving here said today.

They said the Red Guards uncovered clandestine radio stations and arms caches belonging to Nationalist Chinese agents in Canton.

Others said the young zealots seized gold, jewelry and other valuables from terrified residents.

There were still other reports from travelers that worried residents in Canton had begun runs on banks to withdraw their deposits — sparked by Red Guard threats to cancel interest on deposits.

Almost all travelers returning from South China said that Red Chinese border guards had bolstered their security forces to prevent any mass exodus by worried citizens.

The Red Guard militants are carrying out the house-to-house searches on an around-the-clock basis, the arrivals said. But the raids are the most severe at night, they said.

Record Crowd in Attendance at State Fair

DETROIT (UPI) — A record 181,213 persons crowded into the Michigan State Fairgrounds yesterday and allowed an expected large Labor Day turnout a chance to break the fair attendance record today.

So far, 1,072,291 persons have come to the fair since opening day Sept. 26, according to fair manager Walter Goodman. Labor Day is the final day of the fair.

All previous records were established last year.

Group Flying High on Old Glory Gift

By DAVID J. COOK

"We used to have to borrow a flag just to march in parades now we have one of our own." In those words Guillermo Garcia, chairman of Pontiac's North Side American G.I. Forum, summed up the feelings of his group after being presented yesterday with an American flag.

"And we're especially proud of being the first Latin-American group in the state to receive a flag," declared Garcia, who is also vice chairman of the American G.I. Forum of Michigan.

Garcia of 194 Harrison formally received the flag from State Sen. Carl W. O'Brien, D-Pontiac.

"We're still a pretty new group," Garcia commented, "and hopefully we're still growing."

"This flag means a lot to us."

DINNER HELD
Joining North Side members and O'Brien in the dinner ceremony at Club 48, 848 S. Woodward, was State Rep. Robert J. Singelend, D-4th District.

The flag presented to Garcia by O'Brien is one which previously flew over the State Capitol building in Lansing.

Germans Fear British Troop Pullout

Look for the United States, Britain and West Germany to meet shortly to seek ways to keep British forces on the European continent without London paying for the upkeep in sorely needed hard currency.

The United States has a direct interest — British withdrawal would increase pressure on the rearmament to pull out some American forces. NATO allies, notably Germany, are worried that a taken pullout would start a landslide withdrawal from Europe.

How Do French, U.S. Navy Boot Camps Compare? Vive la Difference, Say French

BORDEAUX, France (AP)—The same goes for the radar school in an island off Toulon and the nearby trade school, except that the choice is between beer and wine at each meal, and the Naval Academy near Brest, where milk too is offered and one-third of the cadets take it in preference.

Even the traditional haircut routine sounds like a pleasure in the new arrival's first instruction pamphlet. The crewcut "gives your hair the convenient military elegance," it says, and to back up these words the fatherly Cmdr. C. V. Villeneuve doffs his regulation headgear for visiting foreign newsmen to show that he shares the requirement with his brood.

The boot camp, opened to newsmen on a tour of training centers, receives 2,000 to 2,500 recruits a month for the six-week course. Many of them later go to the trade schools.

Like any other navy, the French prefer to give the longest training courses to the men who sign up for the longest periods. The minimum is two years.

Private industry is always snapping up the most proficient technicians.

But if a young man has a yearning for the sea, the French Navy gives him what he wants. The "dry land sailor" of the American Navy is but a small minority.

The minimum enlistment age is 17 years, but a boy who sees no other way of learning a trade can join at the age of 15½ without having to sign enlistment papers until 16 months later have passed. But he usually does so in the face of the 18-month compulsory military service.

The trade school offering is wide.

In schools all around France's three coastlines, everything from elementary metal working to advanced electronics is taught.

The underwater demolition school makes not only "combat swimmers" but also para-trooper skin divers in a six-month course.

Students learning to plot courses of "enemy" bogeys communicate in crisp technical English "because it is absolutely necessary for cooperation between naval forces around France."

To an American counterpart, the apparent laxity on the subject of physical appearance might imply slovenly performance. But as the French commanders see it, a lad from a waterless Brittany farm would be bedeviled to distraction by the spic-and-span routine.

What's Happened to Lyndon's Luck?

By LYLE WILSON
United Press International
What in the world hit lucky Lyndon, what happened to all of that Texas magic?
Former President Harry S. Truman threw a high hand one at Johnson last week.
Adding to the bad news of of a bad week for the Johnson administration was revelation in House of Representatives debate that another $5 to $15 billion will need to be appropriated early next year to carry on the war in Southeast Asia and that a 1967 tax increase is very likely.

Another big gun, Sen. J. William Fulbright, is shelling administration Viet Nam policies. But none of these causes LBJ to lick under his skin as does Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, New York's resident political genius.

TEAMED UP

Bobby has teamed up with

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., to indict the Johnson administration on charges of short-changing American cities.

The action pattern strongly suggests that Bobby is (a) paying off some old scores and (b) developing a campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972; possibly the vice presidential nod in 1968. This may be just some more of LBJ's change of luck.

Over half of the passports issued to United States citizens in 1965 were for women.

Sets Off Alarm, but Flees to West

BREILIN (AP) — An East German refugee set off an alarm as he crept through border barbed wire early today but still made it safely into West Berlin, police said.
East German border guards fired three shots at the refugee, a 23-year-old electrician, but missed.

Sex Hormone Role Explained

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — Maleness and femaleness are largely determined by the presence or absence of sex hormones in early life, a California study with animals has shown.
Absence of the hormones at a critical period in infancy gives rise to femaleness, while its presence leads to maleness, said Dr. Richard E. Whalen, a psychobiologist at the University of California at Irvine.
Dr. Whalen said his work on rats and more recently, cats, indicates the need for caution in giving hormones to pregnant women to prevent miscarriage.

Labor Proud of Past Record Working for Greater Future

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In keeping with our policy of running guest editorials from time to time, our Labor Day message has been written by Larry Hartman, International Representative of the United Auto Workers.)

By LARRY HARTMAN

On this Labor Day 1966 that has been set aside as a legal holiday to honor the millions of American laborers, we should take inventory of the American labor movement, its history, where it is today, and Labor's role in the future.

Prior to the inception of the labor movement in this country in the early 1800's and for scores of years thereafter, there were powerful, pious and pompous men, both business and academicians, who held that nothing could be done about poverty from unemployment; that charity alone could mitigate industrial accidents; that the operation of the economy was governed by natural law and it would be economic blasphemy to seek to regularize our work, and that the economic disasters that come with sickness and death were as inevitable as pain and the grave.

American labor challenged this concept and took this fight on at both the bargaining table and in the legislative halls of government. The fruitful results are well known to everyone. Favorable laws on unemployment compensation and workmen's compensation have come about basically because of labor's activities in political action and the ballot box. Paid insurance to take care of sickness and accidents, better working conditions, a living wage, numerous fringe benefits and human dignity have been gained at the bargaining table.

Labor has long ago learned that it can make economic progress only as the whole community makes economic progress. Although capital, labor and the general public often have conflicting short-term economic interests, their long-term interests are inextricably interwoven. If a single group benefits at the expense of the other two, the result is an imbalance in the economy from which all three groups eventually will suffer.

In collective bargaining, management and the union each have their respective responsibilities, but both have an overriding responsibility to the whole of society. It is this sense of responsibility and the obligation of organized labor to its millions of members and the community at large that causes it to concern itself with such matters as Aid to Education, Health and Medical Care, Housing and better development of our communities in general and many other aspects affecting people and their lives.

Labor is proud of its role as a dynamic link between this Country and the free labor movement in Asia, Africa, Latin America and Europe. This is a vital operation to maintaining friends for this country and definitely assists in countering communism in those countries. Labor also has a right to be proud of its rank and file members and officers who have risen to high positions and serve with distinction in our City Governments, in the Halls of the State Legislatures and in the Congress of our great Nation.

Labor is indeed proud of its many noted leaders, but it is none the less proud of each and every one of the millions of wage and salary workers in its ranks who, shoulder to shoulder, have made these many economic and social gains possible and who in the future will be found among the other responsible members of the community, meeting and working out the problems and challenges that accompany the rapidly changing world we live in, created by the economic, technological and social changes and the population explosion that our nation faces this Labor Day, 1966.

Bloodless Victory for Viet Cong

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The American official in a central Viet Nam province was attempting to explain how the Viet Cong had taken over "model" settlements in his area.

The government had lavished large sums of money, scores of advisers and technical experts and military backup on this group of villages. In all, 30 "model" hamlets had been established in the local area by mid-1964.

Yet out of the 38 hamlets, the Communists took over 24 in less than two years. They did this without military attacks. The hamlets simply offered no political resistance.

The hamlets in this particular area were part of the government's land redevelopment program. Economically, the people were well off.

The government cleared land for them, dug wells, brought in bulldozers and graders to clear and repair roads. The people were aided with free fertilizer, seed, trees and health facilities as well as schools.

PROSPERITY

With years of government aid, the people were actually quite prosperous compared with folk in the average Vietnamese hamlet.

"The Viet Cong started by bringing in political organizers," said the U.S. official. "At the beginning, these men simply went around talking and making friends."

"The VC tried to send in as agents relatives of people who already lived in the hamlets. These men contacted sympathizers who lived locally and drew out and trained some of these men and sent them back in."

"It was out of these groups that the VC built their local organization."

"Once they had some friends and had a small underground organization going, they secretly moved in on the school teachers.

WORK ON TEACHERS

"They talked to them quietly, one by one, encouraged them to change their teaching to include large doses of Communist propaganda."

"The VC didn't go through the local government or the school administration. They just privately hunted out the teachers and worked on them with threats."

"The teachers who followed this Red advice were allowed to stay. Those teachers who refused to knuckle to the VC threats were terrorized until they fled or agreed to teach Red propaganda."

"The VC didn't control the government or any part of it at this time. They just moved in on the teachers and leaned on them."

FARM YOUTH

"Then the Viet Cong infiltrated the youth farm organizations. They simply came in and took over the leadership. They did this by first getting their men in key posts and then by manipulating the meetings."

"The VC agents were very effective. The government men came and went, but you saw the Viet Cong man every day."

"He'd stop and talk to you about your problems, meanwhile getting in digs about the government. He'd talk about high taxes or official corruption. He'd sit or squat barefoot and talk right in the dirt."

"He included many distortions and lies, but he sounded logical to the peasant who had felt the high taxes and seen the corruption—even if he was doing well."

The moral as this American official sees it is: "You can't change a people's loyalty by economic benefits—if they don't trust the government."

Everything Goes Wrong for LBJ

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — Is there anyone with a heart so calloused that it does not ache at times for President Johnson? Here is a capable man who unquestionably is trying to do the best he knows how, and who yearns to go down in history as one of our greatest presidents.

But the tide of history seems to be thwarting him at every turn. As he struggles with the ever-mounting cost of an unpopular war in Asia, organized labor makes inflationary demands which would increase that cost, and our basic industry adds to the burden by upping the price of steel.

The President fears to end his honeymoon with big business by ordering a steel price rollback, although the price increase is bound to affect not only the defense budget, but the price of automobiles, construction machinery and other vital products.

And in the never-ending price spiral, stiffer labor demands for wage increases are sure to follow steel's action.

LBJ's once happy marriage with a quiescent Congress is coming apart at the seams. His own party's Senate foreign relations chairman constantly assails his policy in Viet Nam, as he did the earlier action in the Dominican Republic.

TRACES BROKEN

Other Senate leaders whom LBJ considered his faithful side-kicks have also broken traces, and are sniping at him on both foreign and domestic issues.

Johnson has effected more civil rights advances than any previous president, but he is now castigated by Negro leaders who shout "black power," and by the white nationalists who demand our ignominious withdrawal from Viet Nam as the price of their appeasement.

The President has pushed through more legislation favoring college students, and has taken longer strides to overcome the misery of our slums than any predecessor, but he is sneered at on college campuses, and hoisted in the ghettos.

The presidency of these

United States is surely the most thankless job in the world! The fleet of limousines, the armada of yachts and jet planes fail to buy privacy for the first family.

WORLD SHINKS

The shinks has grown so small that virtually any governmental crisis anywhere immediately lands on LBJ's desk.

The fate of many thousands of young men in Viet Nam depends on the harried President's decisions, and the security of our nation similarly hangs around his neck like an albatross.

If LBJ dances too late, his critics say he is frivolous. If he appears solemn in public, the nation frets that he is ill, or that he is withholding bad news from the war front.

We all smiled when over-exuberant Jack Valenti said that he sleeps better at night because Lyndon Johnson is in the White House. Certainly each of us can sleep better at night, however, because we are not in LBJ's shoes.

MacArthur Told Story of War Plan in a Phrase

TOKYO — The room we have at the Okura Hotel provides a view of the American embassy, and that dishes loose memories of U.S. pro counsils who have labored there.

Sixteen years ago, not long after the outbreak of the Korean War, I returned to Tokyo from a brief but instructive trip to what was called the Pusan perimeter.

American, South Korean and taken U.N. forces were on the run in Korea.

Barry Paris, head of International News Service, had arranged for me to have an exclusive interview with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, whose official residence was the embassy.

DISSERTATION

He gave me a two-hour exclusive dissertation on sports, recalling his days as manager of the West Point football team, his scoring of the first run in the first Army-Navy baseball game and his introduction of intra-mural sports during his days as superintendent of the military academy.

It was about the most frustrating two hours of my life as a reporter.

Then, to my dismay, I was being ushered out. Luncheon was over and the general had to take his nap.

At the door, I finally crashed through the monologue. I blurted, "General, I've just been in Korea and they're knocking our brains out. What are you going to do?"

MacArthur rubbed his jaw and said, casually, "I'll have my best men in Korea and they're knocking our brains out. What are you going to do?"

I left him then, wondering if he had become senile. Twenty-six days later he made his immortal landing at Inchon.

Then years later there was a meeting here with another MacArthur, the general's nephew, U.S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II.

Demonstrations by the Zengakuren, militant students, had caused the cancellation of President Eisenhower's scheduled visit. Ambassador MacArthur agreed to meet a few of us who had jumped ship on the Eisenhower ship to cover the Tokyo disorders.

He arrived half an hour late and he would speak for 15 minutes and then accept questions. He became very upset when one of us started to ask a question after he had spoken for 12 minutes.

When he finished he accepted one question, answered it brusquely, got up and walked out.

When my college-bred daughter answered the phone on an unfamiliar male voice said, "Come on over, we're waiting for you."

Much annoyed, she inquired, "To whom do you wish to speak?"

There was a long pause, and then the man replied, "I'm sorry I must have the wrong number. Nobody I know says 'whom.'"

After two years of study, a joint United States-Puerto Rican commission has recommended that the islanders vote to choose their future status.

There was a carefully reasoned judgment that developed from correspondence between the late President Kennedy and former Puerto Rican Gov. Luis Munoz Marin in his findings drew heavily on informed opinion among the islanders themselves.

Said the commission: "The policy governing the relationship between the United Selfishness, vulgarity and infidelity do exist in our society and we do need intelligent understanding of these weaknesses.

However, since such language or behavior would not be tolerated in our homes, we must question the wisdom of paying money to "window-peep" on a similar filmed performance and call it "entertainment."

Air Mail Overseas Unnecessarily Expensive

I recently mailed a box at the Pontiac Post Office, airmail to Viet Nam. It cost $4.08 for just under five pounds. I later found out that I could have sent it for $1.35 by regular mail because the government pays for shipping parcels air mail from California.

I think the clerk at the Post Office could have informed me of this.

Thoughts Concerning the Teachers' Dispute

If the surplus in the Waterford Township Board of Education Operating Fund was a million dollars instead of the half million it is, would the teachers be demanding double what they are presently asking?

The school board erred in levying more than sufficient millage to carry the schools through the coming year. The residents of Waterford Township have been very generous in voting millage for salaries—close to the very highest in the state.

The superintendent should not permit overcrowding when rooms are available.

HARRY W. FOWLER

I feel it is regrettable that due to the Waterford Township Board of Education's procrastination in the settlement of teaching contracts, Waterford Township seniors will be about two to three weeks behind in submitting college applications, thus drastically reducing chances of admission.

It may be possible that an individual ferry owner takes passengers, but according to Miss Gaches of AAA travel service, the Bridge and Ferry Book lists no established line offering ferry service in that area. Sandusky, Ohio, to Leamington, Ontario is the nearest run listed.

Camera Angles

Photos Save Memories

By IRVING DESFOR

AP Newfeatures

My No. 2 home - grown model - since she was an infant - was married yesterday and her family album came to a logical, happy photo finish!

The pictures I've taken of Barbara, now 21, have been used many times in the past 18 years of writing a camera column. They've illustrated typical family situations and activities in the same way that makes photography such a universal home hobby.

The pictures unfold a panorama of pleasant memories of past family vacation trips, holiday celebrations, children's birthday parties, school affairs, graduations, family visits and get-togethers.

They show how a child grows, blossoms and matures, compressing the years into an album of photographs which can be stopped, studied and relived.

They reveal again the value of picturing occasions as they happen, of filling the negative safely and of preserving the prints so that they can be viewed or displayed.

Home movies add still another dimension to these memories which can make them even more cherished.

Despite the pleasure derived from the pictures today, I recall that sometimes it took great persuasion and persistence to lure some of the events.

It was usually because my wife or the girls felt that they weren't wearing the best outfit or their hair wasn't exactly right. Their reasons always sounded trivial so some maneuvering took place to get the pictures anyway. It didn't always work.

Actually spontaneity and naturalness make pictures more appealing and effective than primping and posing. By shooting unobtrusively, quickly and candidly we may be able to preserve natural memories of tousled hair, everyday attire and regular chores and these mementos become more precious with time.

As I watched my daughter become a bride, it was somewhat frustrating to be unable to take pictures personally during the ceremony. From my advantageous position, I could see the dedication and spiritual solemnity of the young couple plighting their troth - a beautiful, meaningful picture for the future.

But Emily Post, or whoever made the rules, was evidently not an enthusiastic camera fan and tradition says the father of the bride can't carry a camera during the ceremony.

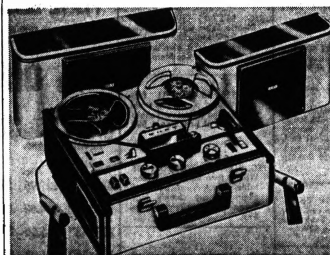

Since the rule was enforced by my family as well as religious officials, only mental pictures were registered of the solemn moment.

Let Them Know Facts

Honesty Still Best Policy

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: When you advised her aunt (whose attractive young niece was coming to visit her) not to withhold the fact that the girl was a recent divorcee, I think you overlooked an important factor.

To label a young woman "divorcee" is like hanging out a sign, "Wolves, Welcome." All males immediately assume that a divorcee is starved for affection, and they rush to her aid.

Not until a nice young man wants to make a lifetime arrangement need he know all the facts. And in the meantime, the girl doesn't have to fight him off.

When he asks, "How come a nice girl like you isn't married," she should not say, per your advice, "I was." She should say instead, "I am waiting for some nice man to ask me." If he is interested, he will prove it. Then there is plenty of time for integrity and confessions.

MRS. M.

DEAR MRS. M.: Some people would not knowingly pursue an interest in one who has been divorced. (I am not necessarily condoning this view, I am merely stating a fact.) So, the word from here is still unqualified honesty from the word "Hello."

DEAR ABBY: Now what do we tell brides? I refer to an obvious error in the official White House wedding invitation for Pat and Luci. You know, every bride in the country wants to emulate someone as important as the President's daughter.

But I was shocked — after 40 years in the printing trade to note the invitation read:

"On Saturday the sixth of August..."

Our most authoritative sources, which we follow, indicating that it should have read:

"On Saturday, the sixth of August..."

separating the day from the date with a comma.

Who is correct? Amy Vanderbilt? Emily Post? We? Or the White House printers and engravers?

Yours for fostering social traditions

C. J. UNDERHILL, SAN DIEGO, CALIF.

DEAR MR. UNDERHILL: Technically, you are correct. I, too, am for fostering tradition, but in such a tremendous undertaking as the Johnson wedding, if the most serious omission were a comma, I would credit them with a monumental job.

Paper Dress Becomes Conversation Piece

By PATRICIA McCORMACK NEW YORK (UPI) — I wore a new silver lame dress to a dinner party the other night and everyone said, — "Gee, what a great tan you have."

So I cleared my throat and discussed about the dress — believed to be the first lame paper one, full length, worn outside a shower.

It looked like silver lame, but everyone had to feel the material — giving me a chance to know how a little feels when a bunch of humans take turns stroking it.

"Perfect for a newspaper-woman," a comic said. "But it doesn't fit very well," my husband said.

"Don't knock a hit," I said, "and hold your breath."

TWO IN ONE

While he was holding his breath, I kept hoping the dress would hold together.

It was two size-eight paper dresses put together in a way to make a size 16.

Putting the two dresses together wasn't hard. I just took some extra side panels from one dress and glued them to the other.

But the thing did fit like a tent — for an elephant.

To make it more shapely, I retired to my host's library and made a few alterations with a stapler.

Everyone agreed that it looked better, but it was feeling like a steam cabinet.

It trapped the body heat — understandable when a nice man told me it is made of material used in paper-thin survival blankets for arctic use.

At the price — a little over $3 — the shimmering paper formal isn't a bad buy.

You can wear it five or six times. It looks nice, it rattles, it is hot, but it cuts the cost of living and makes talk.

Desperate Wife Needs Budget Advice

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Mrs. Feeley: People are getting at our throats for the money we owe them and I don't blame them. My husband is going to divorce me if I don't get us out of this situation! I got us into it.

We're in debt $3100 worth counting everything except a payment of $17.88 a month at the bank for a deep freeze. Our mortgage payment is $87.68, and I figure our fixed and basic living expenses a month are $292.93 — WITHOUT food and clothing costs. My husband is 28 years old, I'm 27, and we have three children 10, 6, and 5.

We have two cars, '61 models, which we just have to have. I've attached an itemized list of our income and expenses.

Could you please put us on a good budget? I would rather just get an allowance for groceries and for mine and the children's clothes, and let my husband pay the other bills. He would rather, too! He is a proud man and if word about our debts gets around to his boss, we'll end up in the divorce court, I know.

Assuming we borrow $3,000, where should we get it and what would be the cheapest way to borrow?

Desperate Wife, Southwest
Dear D.W.: If you're thinking about borrowing $3,000 in the shape you're in, from a "bank or whatever," you'd better concentrate on "what-ever," unless you can come up with some collateral to persuade a conscientious banker.

Even with your husband's upcoming raise of $40 a month, I don't see how you'll have enough to spare to make much of a loan repayment. But let's consider any assets you may have.

Could you refinance the home you're buying, in order to get some cash right now and still keep monthly payments about the same? This would necessitate having a substantial equity in the house. Maybe property rates in your area have gone up, and you might have more equity than you realize.

Could you get part-time work of some kind when the two oldest children are in school — and make some arrangements for care of the 5-year old?

Is there any chance that some of the family members and/or relatives might lend you money (with interest) on a long-time basis?

Can you revise your daily schedules to make use of public transportation, plus some walking. And sell one of those cars? Drastic as it may sound to you, drastic measures are long overdue. A sale could mean some ready cash and savings on operation.

Have you gone in person to talk to each of your creditors? Have you explained frankly what your income is and what your overall indebtedness is? How patient they may be is a question. But you should be able to report to each some specific steps you're trying to take to make a repayment plan.

Using some of the figures you say are "fixed," this is about the least budget you could work with as things stand now.

Income, with raise, $636.78 take-home pay per month.

Housing, $87.06; household operating, including heat, water, utilities, $60; food, $178; including milk; family clothing, $80; insurance $10; freezer loan, $14; medical $20; recreation $5; two-car operation, $75; miscellaneous (including newspaper) and church donations, $15; Total $613.05. This leaves $35 a month to divide among your creditors. (For Mary Feeley's "Make Every Dollar Count" booklet, send $1 to be in care of The Pontiac Press.)

Why Grow Old?

JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

About a year ago the popularity of the carbohydrate watching diet was at its height. I am still receiving so many requests for information concerning it from readers who have just heard about it. I will write about it.

The idea of this diet is to hold your carbohydrate intake to 40 grams a day, and then eat anything else you want without a worry about calories. You can see why this is so intriguing. You can eat all sorts of goodies which are prohibited on the regular calorie-counting diet.

For instance, notice the difference between the calories and the gram count in some of these foods. Bacon, 3 strips (crisp), 100 calories and only a trace of carbohydrate — not even one gram. Standing rib roast, average serving, 300 calories and no carbohydrate grams. Camembert cheese, 1 1/4 ounces, 125 calories and no grams.

Caviar, one tablespoon, 50 calories and no grams. Chicken, fried, one-half medium, 325 calories and no grams. Chicken a la king, one-half cup, 375 calories and four grams. Chicken fat, one teaspoon, 65 calories and no grams. One egg, 75 calories (boiled), and only a trace of carbohydrate. One egg fried, 100 calories and only a carbohydrate trace.

AVERAGE SERVING

An average serving of Hungarian goulash gives you 350 calories and only 4 carbohydrate grams. An average serving of lamb roast gives you 200 calories and no carbohydrate grams. Mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon, 100 calories and only a carbohydrate trace.

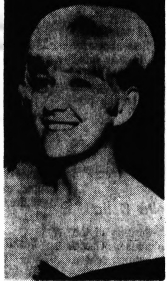

You will get some surprises the other way, too. Some of the fruits and vegetables are much higher in carbohydrate grams than you had thought.

You will learn to choose the lower-gram ones in the same category.

If you eat one apple dumpling, you've had it! You have already gone over your day's quota because this gives you 63 carbohydrate grams.

There has been great controversy over this diet. Actually the concept of the low carbohydrate diet isn't new. It has been investigated in many studies. If you have any special physical problem or abnormality, before changing your diet for any considerable length of time, you should check with your doctor first.

If you would like to have my "Carbohydrate Gram Counter," send 15 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

A petal headpiece capped her French illusion veil and she carried a white orchid with Stephanotis and white heather from Scotland on her mother's bridal prayer book.

Attendants were Carol Dolfman, Walled Lake honor maid along with the bride's sisters Mrs. Daniel Giles and Linda Hyland, Sheila Freytag and Yvonne Gauthier, Detroit.

Joseph Sisung was best man at the ceremony performed by Rev. C. George Widdfield.

Seating guests were Daniel Giles, Matthew Wright, Richard Kretschmar and Louis Wilhelm, Rhineclaire, Wis.

After greeting some 300 guests in the C.A.I. Building, the couple left for a wedding trip to the Muskoka Lakes in Ontario.

Are you planning a wedding in 1967? We are interested in having your engagement and wedding news. But we need your cooperation.

The Pontiac Press has printed forms for both engagement and wedding announcements. But you may send in the details, giving full names and addresses (husband's names for a married woman) and other pertinent details.

Please include a telephone number so that we may check if necessary.

There must be four months between engagement and wedding stories, if there is to be a picture with both. No engagements are announced less than a month before the wedding date.

We prefer to receive wedding stories and pictures before the ceremony.

If pictures are taken at the wedding, we must have them no later than two days after the ceremony (that is, by noon Tuesday for Saturday weddings).

If the wedding takes place out of town, this deadline is extended.

BEST PICTURES

Pictures should be black and white, preferably glossy prints. Snapshots cannot be used. Color and tinted prints are not acceptable.

While The Pontiac Press makes no promise to use every picture submitted, some printed mention of the event will be made.

There is no charge for editorial space, but it cannot be reserved nor can we promise the size of picture or its position.

Engagement and wedding pictures are kept for two months, then discarded. They may be called for any time after publication.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Work Is the Foundation of Good Health

In our annual salute to labor, we too often lose sight of the blessing of work.

Kahill Gibran in his classic, "The Prophet," said, "Work is love made visible," and E. F. Ware said, "Work brings its own relief."

Although it is true that the job that satiates one man's emotional needs may be mere drudgery for another, some form of useful work is the greatest boon a person can have.

Not only does work create the seas for a weekend of change or a holiday, it is the basis of both mental and physical health.

It is no accident that large armed forces hospitals, Veterans Administration hospitals and even state mental hospitals have seen fit to install departments of occupational therapy.

Idleness leads to unhealthy introspection, a preoccupation with one's own minor sources of irritation.

SOURCE OF SATISFACTION

Whereas the devil finds work or rather mischief, for idle hands to do, a job of work well-done is a source of healing self-satisfaction.

This has been amply illustrated at the VA Hospital in Brockton, Mass., where a program of work therapy called CHIEF (Community Hospital-Industry Rehabilitation Project) has enabled some veterans, who would otherwise have had to spend the rest of their lives in an institution, to turn to useful jobs in their communities.

The project is based on the belief, supported by observed results, that the maximum benefit comes from training for a specific job.

Labor unions have been frightened enough to realize that a union member might at any time become a patient and that a patient may become a union member rarely given any more for any purpose.

They have, therefore, lent their support to the project.

One moral to be drawn from this experience is that every adolescent should train himself for service in a field that stimulates his interest.

The man who goes through life at odds with his job is not only missing the whole point of life — he is paving the way for a variety of ailments that are produced or aggravated by chronic dissatisfaction.

Q—My doctor prescribed salt-peter to be taken with my food. A friend told me that it is dangerous to take this every day. Is that true? Of what value is it?

A—Salt-peter is potassium nitrate. It was given routinely to soldiers in World War I to subdue their "animal spirits." It has also been given, in the past, to control waterlogging of tissues. Since modern water pills are much more effective, it is SILVERY SEA AND SAND—Vacationers seeking the relaxing beauty of the seashore and an exhilarating swim in northern waters were rewarded in both instances when they journeyed to Sand Beach in Acadia National Park along the Maine coast.

New Methods Are Urged for Solving Water Woes

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — Short-sighted planning and growing pollution problems have caused serious shortages of fresh water that are becoming critical in many regions of the U.S., pointed out a 14-member Committee on Water, sponsored by the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council.

U.S. water planners over the past century have been dominated by a rigid "quick fix" outlook that solved impending water shortages by the cheapest rather than wisest method.

By seeking new sources of water from a distance, from underground, from the clouds, or from the sea, planners followed a single engineering solution and excluded all other alternatives, including methods of conservation.

Narrowing down alternatives or picking the "single best plan" will simply not work any more.

Even aside from "knotty questions" of contending water rights, "it is difficult to disentangle fully the web of consequences that would result from pursuing one solution rather than the other."

CHANGES
Flexible water planning means changes in laws and prices, as well as in water-using equipment and behavior of the various users.

A wide variety of studies should be made including research into the behavior of water resources, changes in environment, and new processes such as waste treatment, desalting, cooling, as well as in finding water substitutes.

Water planners should make more sensitive evaluations for decisions such as whether to use a canyon as a reservoir site or preserve it for its scenic and recreational values, or whether to build one large dam or a series of dams for flood control and power production.

Scientists, engineers, public officials and informed citizens should all be influential in such decisions.

The water committee, headed by Dr. Gilbert F. White of the University of Chicago and including men drawn from the federal government, universities and private business, studied for two years before making its report.

Quite a Crowd at Steak Fry

Plain Ol' George

New British Diplomatic Look

By TOM CULLEN
European Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assoc.
LONDON — George Brown, Britain's new foreign secretary, is either a national disaster or a fresh breeze blowing through the dusty corridors of power, depending upon one's political outlook.

Whatever they may think of him, most political pundits were caught flat-footed by the surprise promotion of Brown to the No. 2 government spot in the recent cabinet reshuffle.

Many commentators had been predicting Brown was on his way out after his controversial handling of Britain's financial crisis as minister of economic affairs.

Owl-like Brown, 52, is everything a foreign secretary traditionally should not be. He is quick-tempered, indiscreet, impulsive, at times almost hysterical.

("If I could be born again, I would pray to have a more equable temperament than I have," he says.) He has all the makings of a demagogue.

ON REBOUND

Brown, who wears thick-rimmed glasses, gets caught in revolving doors, forgets appointments, pulls colossal boners such as on the night of President Kennedy's assassination when he chatted flippantly on television about "the Kennedy I knew."

But his very weaknesses have served to endear him with a section of the British public, who see in him "one of us."

Whatever else he may lack, Brown has the common touch. He is the big-screen projection of the average man.

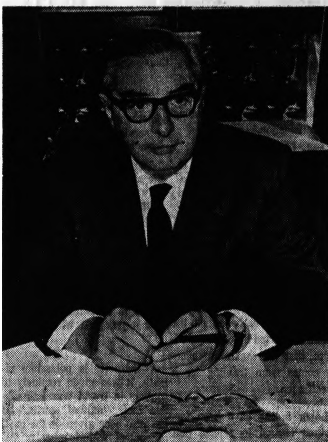

To date, his greatest claim to fame is as the man who told Nikita Khrushchev to go to hell. The incident occurred in 1956 when Khrushchev was guest of the British Labor party at a luncheon at Claridge's Hotel.

POLITICAL LIST
After the ice cream and coffee, Brown suddenly produced a list of political prisoners being held behind the Iron Curtain and asked the Soviet premier to release them. Khrushchev hit the ceiling and Brown hit the headlines.

The Russians apparently have not forgotten this incident. Commenting on Brown's appointment as foreign secretary, Moscow Radio snorted, "An odious figure has now been entrusted with Britain's foreign policy."

"I have been politically active since the age of 8," Brown likes to boast. At that age, he tramped South London with his Irish truck-driver father distributing Socialist leaflets.

At 22, he was fired for union activity from his job as a fur salesman. He then went to work for the Transport and General Workers' Union, which served to launch the political career of another British foreign secretary, the late Ernest Bevin.

BROTHERHOOD
Bevin is Brown's idol. It was Bevin who taught the ex-fur salesman all about the brotherhood of man.

"Not the brotherhood of poets or politicians, but the brotherhood of ordinary people," says Brown.

As foreign secretary in the postwar Labor government of Clement Attlee, Bevin started by being hostile to the senior civil servants at the Foreign Office, ended by trusting them completely, giving continuity to British foreign policy.

Will his disciple, George Brown, do the same?

STRIPPED PANTS
"There's too much striped pants and stuffed shirt attitude in international relations still," says Brown, in what is obviously intended as a swipe at Foreign Office establishment figures.

Brown goes on to point out that he has no objection to what British diplomats wear.

"It's the wearing of striped pants in the soul I object to, and having a Homburg hat where your heart ought to be," he explains in one of his tortured figures of speech.

Again, he says, "Some nonumental errors in British foreign policy have been made by men who could speak French and hold a fish fork nicely."

SWADLINCOTE
In place of the striped trousers and Homburg hat, image evoked by an Anthony Eden, George Brown evokes the cloth cap image of Swadlincote (population 20,109), the Derbyshire mining town where Brown frequently spends the weekends.

"Swad," as the natives call it, lies in Brown's constituency, and he has a tiny flat above the local Labor Club where he can get away from it all.

"There's a Swadlincote in everybody's life," he says. "As foreign secretary I'm going to work in terms of Swadlincote and nobody is ever going to forget it."

Working for "Swad," in Brown's thinking, means working to get Britain into the European Common Market, for he is firmly convinced that the nation's future lies in concerting its economic policies with those of its European neighbors.

As for British policy in the Far East, which is of immediate interest to America, Brown is on shakier ground. He admits that he has little first-hand knowledge of the Far East, but he adds, "I shall soon put that right."

Fuel Line Fixed for Saturn Shot

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A fuel line which burst last month near the launching pad of the Saturn 1 moon rockets has been repaired and the mishap will not materially delay the Saturn 5 schedule, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration says.

A spokesman said fueling tests are expected to resume later this month. The fuel line, to transfer liquid oxygen from a tank to the 365-foot Saturn 5, broke Aug. 19. About 800,000 gallons of the valuable fuel were lost.

New Conductor for Orchestra

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Gregory Millar is the new leader of the Tucson Symphony Orchestra, replacing Frederic Balazs, who will become conductor at the Cincinnati, Ohio, conservatory.

Millar, 40, is a former assistant to conductor Leonard Bernstein at the New York Philharmonic.

YOUNG HUNTER — Eight-year-old Philip Lane holds a foot-long alligator that lunged across water and bit his boot while he played near a drainage ditch in Midwest City, Okla., an Oklahoma City suburb. No one seems to know where the alligator came from but where it's going is almost a certainty — the Oklahoma City Zoo.

Computer Will Monitor Dam

Savings of $600,000
Yearly Are Expected

By Science Service
GRAND COULEE, Wash.—A "watchdog" computer system is expected to save more than $600,000 a year by watching over the largest hydroelectric power facility in the U. S.

The automated system will monitor and record data at Grand Coulee Dam, including generators, switchyards and giant 65,000-horsepower pumps that lift water up into a reservoir for canals irrigating a half-million acres of land.

Reportedly the first ever applied to an all-hydro power plant, the system will become fully operational by the end of September. The Interior Department's Bureau of Reclamation built and operates the dam on the Columbia River.

Grand Coulee, with 18 generators in two power plants at opposite ends of the dam's spillway, now has a rated capacity of almost two million kilowatts that is fed into the northwest power pool.

A third power plant, authorized last June by Congress, will boost the dam's output to 5.6 million kilowatts.

CAREFUL WATCH
Prior to the computer system's installation, highly trained clipboard-carrying operators had to carefully watch the operation of each of the 108,000-kilowatt capacity generators to insure that they were operating properly.

Surveillance still will be necessary, but operational data will be logged automatically on electric typewriters at stated intervals or whenever any of the hundreds of operating conditions exceed preset limits.

Audio and visual alarms alert operators if the latter occurs.

Russians See Red on Warren Report

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian language copies of the Warren Commission report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy have been returned to the U.S. Embassy by five members of the Supreme Soviet and week denounced the report as four minor officials.

The Soviet government last "condemned to the Soviet people" and banned further distribution—presumably because of quotes from assassin Lee Harvey Oswald's comments on his stay in Russia.

They'll Take the 'High' Road

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — Bagpipes stirred a familiar tune at the opening of the new $2.8-million Loch Lomond distillery on the Bonnie banks of the Queen of Scottish wakes. Loch waters will be an ingredient of the annual 500,000 gallons of Scotch coming from the plant. Burdon Distilling Co. of Kentucky owns a half interest.

It's a Sign Water's Pure

By Science Service

BAYTOWN, Tex. — A do-it-yourself bird sanctuary has come into being spontaneously in a 380-acre area of water-conservation lagoons at Humble Oil and Refining Company's refinery here.

Egrets, herons, rare roseate spoonbills and other birds are building nests in thickets around the edges of the water, directly south of one of the refinery's big catalytic-cracking units and close to derricks in a nearby oil field.

The presence of abundant wildlife seems to be a good sign that the water-purification system is working well.

In Humble's three-stage cleaning system water used for industrial purposes is treated chemically in the regular purification facilities and then retained for 45 days in the lagoons before being released to the adjacent Houston Ship Channel.

Natural oxidation in the lagoons supplements the effects of the earlier mechanical aeration, and bacteria and algae are also useful in improving the quality of the refinery's waste-water in an effort to curb water pollution.

3-Day Crime Spree

Police Nab Mental Patient

FARWELL (AP) — A 27-year-old escaped mental patient "faced arraignment today following a three-day crime spree in Central Lower Michigan.

Russell Scheldendbrand was held Sunday at the Isabella County jail and police said he would be charged with assault to commit murder and escaping state custody.

Police arrested Scheldendbrand early Sunday after he was found asleep in a car parked on a lonely wilderness trail near here. His capture came after a three-day manhunt by police that included three gun battles. No one was hurt.

Scheldendbrand escaped from the Iowa State Hospital for the Criminally Insane on Aug. 25. The police search began one week later after a grocery store in Hills Lake, north of Farwell, was held up. Then followed an attempted holdup of another store, four car thefts, an encounter at gun point with a frightened cabin occupant, plus three gun battles with police.

Scheldendbrand was sent to Iowa July 2, 1965, after he was adjudged a criminal sexual peccator as a result of the kidnapping of a 15-year-old baby sister, with whom he had taken indecent liberties.

104 Remain on Job;

Recruiting Is Begun

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The task of recruiting firemen confronted city officials today as the aftermath of a strike which has shut down two-thirds of Atlanta's fire stations.

An estimated 104 firemen continued on their jobs Sunday night while 500 members of the independent Atlanta Firefighters Union stayed away.

The striking firemen are demanding a pay increase. The fire fighters now work 40 hours a week and the starting salary is $400 a month.

A proposal under negotiations for a reduction of four working hours was turned down. The strikers want a 7 per cent increase in pay.

INTERNATIONAL

The men on the job are mostly members of the International Association of Firefighters, AFL-CIO, from which the striking union broke away earlier this year.

The strike, which began Friday night, marked the second time in three months the fire fighters had walked off.

City officials met with fire department heads Sunday to begin planning a recruiting program to replace the strikers, who are under court order to return to work.

Space Rescue Questionable

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Few things in the annals of mankind are more moving than the occasional endeavors of people to save other people in peril.

A mountain climber is stranded on a high ledge, facing what looks like certain death. But other climbers, themselves risking death, crawl painfully up the mountain and bring him down.

Literature is filled with accounts of dramatic rescues on the surface of the boiling sea. Now the Navy is trying to develop ways of hauling distressed submarines from the depths before their crews expire. This won't be easy, but at least it seems to be feasible.

Long before men started riding rockets into space, many a science fiction plot featured the nick-of-time arrival of a rocket-powered ambulance from earth to take care of say, Dr. XQZ's ruptured appendix.

Well, men eventually did go into space, and the issue of space rescue graduated from the field of fiction to that of sober studies to find out whether it is reasonably in the cards.

The problem was dramatically focused last March when astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and David R. Scott fought high over the earth to recapture control of their wildly tumbling Gemini 8 spacecraft.

Happily, they won out. But if they hadn't, there was nothing on earth that anybody on earth could have done to rescue them.

Will a practical space rescue system ever come to pass? The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) and the Air Force have been searching for an answer. Thus far they haven't found it.

A House space subcommittee recently called upon NASA to come up by Dec. 1 with programs "to assure that economic logistics (supply) and rescue systems are available in the early 1970s."

URGE DEVELOPMENT

Dr. Edward C. Welsh, executive secretary of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, has also urged development in the same time period of "operational space rescue capability for astronauts."

But Dr. George E. Mueller, NASA's manned space flight director, is by no means sure the time ever will come when ambulances ply between earth and earth orbit — or between earth and moon — to succor injured, ailing, or stranded astronauts.

Such a system obviously would require a development program comparable in cost and magnitude to projects for exploring the moon and planets. In a recent talk Mueller said it is questionable whether earth-to-space rescue ever will be practicable.

A somewhat more attractive notion, he said, is to equip spacecrafts with "lifeboats" — rocket propelled modules which would permit astronauts to bail out of a disabled craft and return to earth.

But this would add critically to the weight launching rockets would have to hoist into space at the outset. So "at this point in time," Mueller said, the experts feel it might be better to use the extra weight to make the ship safer and less likely before the fact to come a cropper in space.

Mueller said this could be done, assuming the necessary rocket power, by building more "redundancy" — duplication of vital propulsion, control, and navigation systems — into the spacecraft in the first place.

Man kind may yet witness a rescue cliffhanger as thrilling as anything that ever happened on a mountain face or the bottom of the sea. For the time being, however, the odds seem to be against it.

Server Can 'Dial' Drink

DETROIT (AP) — A special mixer-server for martini and manhattan cocktails allows the host to "dial" the strength of the drinks. A ratio ranging from 2-1 to 9-1 of strong liquor to vermouth may be set on the dial. This is accomplished through a novel arrangement of plastic containers, one inside the other, permitting simultaneous pouring of two ingredients through the same spout. Called the "Bon Vivant," this gadget is available from IMI Products, Detroit.

Mutts Add Up

GREENWICH, Conn. (UPI) — Town Clerk Otto Klumpp announced that there were about 10,500 dogs in this town of 60,000 persons, and he said this probably was the greatest ratio of dogs to humans of any community in the nation.

Arrows Blank Ypsilanti, 18-0

Myers Gets Rude Welcome to Midwest Football League

By BRUNO L. KEARNS

Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Tommy Myers, discarded quarterback of the Detroit Lions, was made a believer to Midwest Football League style of play yesterday.

Overcoming a tough Ypsilanti defense, the Pontiac Arrows won the regular season opener yesterday at Wiser Stadium, 18-0, and for Myers, who played one full quarter, it was an earth-shaking experience.

"It felt good getting hit at first," said Myers, who for one year and five exhibition games has watched from the sidelines at Tiger Stadium.

"but after awhile it was getting to be a habit."

A crowd of 3,200 under sunny skies, mixed with a five-minute rain fall, chanted "We want Myers."

They got him, but so did the Ypsilanti Vikings, who hit him seven times in the backfield.

Two of the losses however were offset by penalties.

GUIDES SCORE

Myers got into one play in the first half and one series in the third period guiding the Arrows to their third touchdown with two passes to Tony Adneal and a 15-yard keeper as the key plays.

Willie Jones went over from the three to make it 18-0 with a 28 left in the third period.

The former Northwestern All-American went most of the way in the fourth quarter and the huge Ypsilanti defensive line appeared to make a special effort to give Myers an MFL baptism.

Myers had no opportunity to work out since he joined the Arrows on Saturday after his release by the Lions.

"I didn't have any running plays to call," said Myers, adding "the only running play was to run myself and run for my life."

and I hope they enjoyed it more than I did," Myers joked as he rubbed the dirty seat of his pants.

The Arrows, defending champs of the MFL, had a tough time cracking the Ypsilanti defense. The drive with Myers was the only sustained offense.

Myers went over from the one to make it 6-0. With kickers Ron Bishop and Ed McQueen injured, Willie Jones tried the PAT and missed.

The first touchdown came in the second quarter after Chlo Johnson took the ball out of quarterback George Beaudette's hands as he was being hit by the Ypsilanti 16.

Four plays later, Jimmy Johnson went over from the one to make it 6-0. With kickers Ron Bishop and Ed McQueen injured, Willie Jones tried the PAT and missed.

SECOND TD
The second Pontiac TD was an unusual tally. A pass from Bill Harrington with 1:19 left in the half bounced off the hands of Ypsilanti defenders Don Coughlin and Ron Martinez into the arms of intended receiver Tony Adneal. He pulled away from the pair for a 40-yard touchdown play.

In the early stages of the game, both teams had drives bogged by interceptions, and when Ypsilanti tried to move in the third quarter, Pontiac defensive back Jesse Parrish came through with two spectacular over-head interceptions.

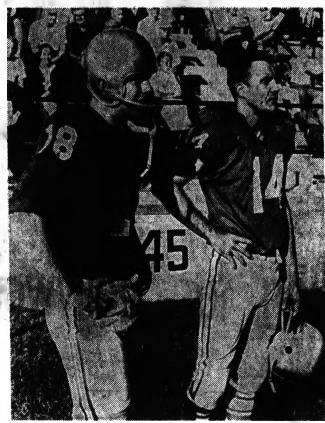

Coach Tom "The Bomb" Tracy of the Vikings said he was happy with his team's defensive play and noted that his offense would probably get moving when former EMU quarterback Beaudette got his timing. "He throws a nice ball, but his timing is off, having been out of football for couple years," Tracy commented.

The game was postponed from Saturday night because heavy rains made the field unplayable. The Arrows mustered 152 gross yards, but lost 63 of them during the passing rush against Myers and Harrington in the second half.

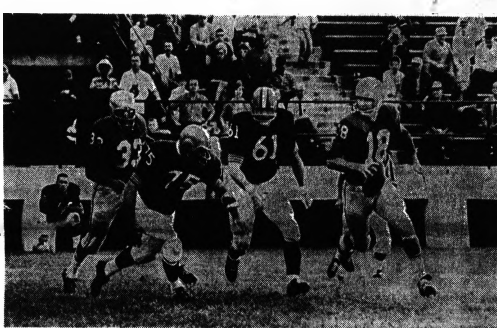

Next Saturday night, the Arrows face the Detroit-Rouge Steelers at 7:30 p.m. at Wiser Stadium.

In another MFL game Saturday night at Dayton, the Arrows' leading challengers to the title, the Dayton Colts thumped the Flint Blue Devils, 48-0.

SCORING PLAYS
Johnson — One yard plunge, Kick missed.
Harrington — Pass from Harrington 40 yards, Kick missed.
Jones — 3 yard plunge, Kick missed.

NEW ARROW — Quarterback Tom Myers (18), obtained by the Pontiac Arrows from the Detroit Lions this week, watches the action on the field with Arrows' regular signal-caller Bill Harrington. Both saw a lot of action as the Arrows downed the visiting Ypsilanti Vikings, 18-0.

ON THE RUN — In his first appearance with the Pontiac Arrows, quarterback Tom Myers (18) spent much of his playing time running from the big defenders of the Ypsilanti Vikings yesterday at Wiser Stadium.

San Diego Prevails

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The revengeful San Diego Chargers, riding the passes of John Hadl and a spectacular punt return by Leslie Duncan, swept to a season-opening 27-7 victory over the defending American Football League champion Buffalo Bills before 27,572.

It was the first meeting between the teams since Buffalo shattered San Diego, 23-0, in the AFL final game December 28.

Duncan led the Charger victory late in the game when he zigzagged 81 yards with a punt, after Hadl directed the Charger attack in the fashion that made him the league's leading passer in 1965.

BALL-HAWKING
A ball-hawking Charger secondary wrecked the Bills' Jack Kemp, intercepting three passes that led to two touchdowns and one of two field goals by Dick Van Raskopf. The thieving unit frustrated any chance Buffalo had to score until 1:27 was left, when rookie half-back by Burnett scored on a two-yard head pass and returning 81 yards to the Bills 31.

Veteran quarterback George Blanda threw three Houston Oilers defense held Denver in check as the Oilers rolled over the Broncos 45-7 in an AFL opener Saturday night.

Heat Slows Umpire

CINCINNATI (AP) — Umpire Harry Wendelstedt was forced to leave Sunday's game between Los Angeles and Cincinnati in the seventh inning because of the intense heat and humidity at the stadium.

Wendelstedt, the plate umpire, was replaced by third base umpire Doug Harvey.

Miss Bueno is the only past winner in the women's event.

She won for the first time in 1959 and captured the championship again in 1963 and 1964. Last year she was eliminated by Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., in the semifinals.

Teamsters' 9 4-1 Loser to Battle Creek

Pontiac Entry Leaves 18 Men on Base in Two Setbacks

The Pontiac Teamsters 614 stranded too many runners Saturday and Sunday afternoon while being eliminated from the State Class A baseball Championships at Battle Creek.

Host Battle Creek ousted the local nine, 4-1, yesterday as southpaw John Mayer limited Pontiac to five hits and left eight Teamsters' runners on base.

Saturday, Pontiac fell to Dearborn Adray, 4-3, despite outpitching its conqueror 11-5. The uniformed stranded 10 runners in that game.

The Teamsters defeated Kalamazoo, 14, Friday night as Tom Walters tossed a no-hitter in Pontiac's opening tourney game.

A single and Larry Garman's two-run homer off Mike Burklow in the fifth inning gave Mayer all the runs he needed Sunday. Larry Johnson hit for the Pontiac in the Teamsters' sixth to cut the margin, but Norm Barea padded the Battle Creek lead with a bases-loaded single in the bottom of the series.

Saturday, Gerry Lie's shut-out relief hurling and his two-run homer that just stayed fair tied the score for Dearborn. In the sixth, Joe Skinger doubled and Gary Ladeau singled off Don Sackett for the winning marker.

All the Teamsters' runs came in the third inning. Les Stone singled, John Flesher walked and both scored when John Lucadam's bunt was thrown wild. Al Barkeley drove in Lucadam.

Battle Creek plays Dearborn Adray in today's finale.

Two Magazines Forecast MSU Top College 11

NEW YORK (AP) — Two national magazines, Look and Parade, have predicted that Michigan State will be the No. 1 college football team in the nation this season.

Look named the Spartans to the top spot with Notre Dame second and Alabama third. Rounding out the top 10 were Nebraska, UCLA, Arkansas, Baylor, Colorado, Purdue and Syracuse.

Parade named a top three of Michigan State, Alabama and Nebraska. Following in order were Arkansas, Notre Dame, UCLA, Syracuse, Michigan, Tennessee, Baylor.

Tahoe Miss Pads Margin

MADISON, Ind. (AP) — Mira Slovak and Tahoe Miss won the Governor's Cup in the vault and a second place gave them the 1966 unlimited hydroplane championship almost locked up.

Slovak, a 37-year-old former Czechoslovakian Air Force pilot, beat Miss Lapeer and Warner Gardner of Detroit two out of three heats Sunday.

Tahoe Miss retired the trophy on three straight victories, although it was Slovak's first first race here. Tahoe Miss won the race the last two years in the hands of Chuck Thompson, who was killed in the Gold Cup race at Detroit July 3.

SPORTS

Tigers Nip Tribe, 4-3

Bengals Creeping Up

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers creep slowly toward the league-leading Baltimore Orioles.

The American League season runs swiftly out of games. To catch the Birds the Tigers would have to win 22 of 25 remaining games. If Baltimore won 16 of the 25 remaining games.

The Tigers completed a four-game sweep over the Cleveland Indians Sunday with a 4-3 victory in 12 innings. Willie Horton won it with his 24th homer, two night Labor Day double header at Tiger Stadium. Tigers Manager Frank Skaff plans to pitch Johnny Podres and Mickey Lolich today against the Nats.

The Tigers remain 9 1/2 games behind Baltimore, who outlasted Chicago 8-6 Sunday.

That leaves the Orioles with a magic number of 17-any combination of 17 Baltimore victories or Detroit defeats would clinch the pennant for the Birds.

BAD PITCH
Except for an error and one bad pitch, southpaw Hank Aguirre might have had a shut-out, a duel with Cleveland's ace, Sam McDowell.

Detroit drew first blood in the first inning on a walk to Don Wert. Dick Tracewski's single an infield out and Al Kaline's sacrifice fly.

Cleveland tied the score in their half of the inning on Larry Brown's double, an infield out, and Aguirre's miscue on Leon Wagner's shot to the mound.

Mickey Stanley slammed his second homer of the season in the second to put Detroit in front 2-1. But the Indians went ahead in the fourth, 3-2, on a double by Wagner and Max Alvis 15th homer which barely eluded Stanley's reach at the centerfield fence. The bad pitch struck what otherwise would have been a great day for Aguirre, who got two hits off McDowell.

The Tigers tied the score in their half of the inning on Larry Brown's double, an infield out, and Aguirre's miscue on Leon Wagner's shot to the mound.

Triumph in U.S. Golf Lifts Canadian Ace

ARDMORE, Pa. (AP) — Gary Cowan sees his playoff victory in the U.S. National Amateur Golf Championship as a shot in the arm for Canadian golf.

The 27-year-old insurance salesman from Kitchener, Ontario, Canada, won the U.S. title Sunday by a stroke, 75 to 78, over Deane Beman of Bethesda, Md. Cowan, who tied for the lead after the regulation 72 holes when Beman blew up on the 17th and 18th Saturday, said his victory should convince Canadians the American golfers aren't too tough.

"Our golfers read so many press clippings about how good the Americans are they feel we can't beat them," said Cowan, the first foreigner in 34 years to win the U.S. Amateur title.

"I've proved to myself and played with them long enough to know this isn't true," said the blond former Canadian amateur champion.

BOTH EVEN

Actually, Cowan and Beman now are even in their competition. It was Beman's 66 over Cowan's 68 that won the 1962 America Cup for the U.S. The two also played in the 1964 Masters and tied for low amateur honors with 291.

Cowan almost tossed the championship away on the 16th hole Sunday when he took a triple bogey seven and lost his two stroke edge. He appeared to have taken a gamble by trying to hit over tall trees to the green instead of playing a safe shot to the fairway. He didn't see it that way.

"I had a good lie, and I was thinking it would be nice to be three ahead, but I made a bad swing," he explained. "I didn't

Golfers Collect Ace in Tourney

Gols-Curtis Leading Rochester CC Event

Lee Gols of Livonia may have another string of holes-in-one.

The Michigan Public Golf Association play collected its first ace back in 1945. Others followed in 1946 and 1947.

Yesterday, he picked up his fourth ace and thoughts of three more in a row came to him.

The act also enabled Gols and his partner, Bill Curtis of Farmington, to fire a 66 and take a one-stroke lead in the George Sadowski Memorial Best-Ball tournament at Rochester Country Club.

Gols and Curtis, along with 106 other teams, will play the second 18 holes of the tournament today.

SHAKE SECOND

Sharing the runner-up spot at the halfway mark with 67s were Don Brooks-Bob McMansters and Ray LaVasseur-Sue Mazzio.

Defending champions Melvin Stevens and Don Head were five strokes back at 71.

Golfers Devlin Richer

SOUTHEAST, England — Bruce Devlin of Australia won the $25,000 first prize by one stroke in the Gilling Classic at Gilling, England, 49 for a 28-hole total of 88.

HIGH-STEPPING HORNING—Green Bay's Paul Hornung (dark jersey) kicks up a heel while cutting downfield Saturday on a 47-yard run to the Giants' five-yard-line in a National Football League exhibition. New York's Jeff Smith (57) and Wendall Harris are pursuing the prancing Packer halfback.

Yanks Fold Before 1-2 Punch of Twins

By the Associated Press
Big Jim Kaat shook up the Yankees with a left hook and little Luis Aparicio punished them with five right-hand shots. One more punch and New York will be down for the count. Kaat, Minnesota's 225-pound southpaw pace, breezed to his 22nd victory of the season Sunday as the Twins pounded the Yankees 9-2. Aparicio, Baltimore's 155-pound shortstop, drilled five straight hits, leading the Orioles past the Chicago White Sox 8-4.

FAR OFF
The winning Twins-Orioles combination dropped the Yankees 24½ games off the pace in the American League—and left them one short step from mathematical elimination.

Should the first-place Orioles beam them in either game of today's holiday doubleheader at Baltimore, the Yankees will compete their earliest fade-out since 1925.

The Yankees, who finished seventh in an eight-team league that year, are in danger of hitting bottom in this season's 10-team race. Sunday's loss tumbled them into eighth place, only 1½ games out of the cellar spot shared by Boston and Kansas City.

The A's and Red Sox divided a doubleheader Sunday, Kansas City taking the nightcap 7-2 with the help of a triple play after losing the opener 5-0.

Washington climbed past the Yankees into seventh place by downing California 5-3 and second-place Detroit remained 9½ games off the pace by edging Cleveland 4-3 in 12 innings.

Harrison Killebrew and Tony Oliva, with three hits apiece, led the Minnesota attack against Pedro Ramos and two successors. Ramos was making his first start for the Yankees after 123 relief appearances over the past 2½ years.

FOUR SINGLES
Aparicio stroked four singles and a double in five trips to the plate, increasing his hot total to 161, the top figure in the Orioles' line-up. He capped Baltimore's decisive three-run rally in the eighth with his fourth single after pinch hitter Charlie Lau's triple broke a 4-4 deadlock.

The Athletics gained a split with Boston as left-hander Gil Blanco, helped out of a first inning jam by the triple play, yielded only two hits over the first seven innings. Relievers Wes Stuck and Jack Ack completed the three-hit.

NL Heading for Hollywood Finish

Pirates Keep Hold on First

Bucs, Giants, Dodgers Post Sunday Wins

By the Associated Press
No, Herman, Walter and Harry. Alfred Hitchcock did not make up the final month of the National League schedule. It just seems that way.

The way things are going to break for the top three contenders in the pennant race, their managers may have to keep a careful watch on their sanity. It's going to seem as if there's nobody else in the league.

And, in fact, that's almost the case. Herman Franks' San Francisco Giants, for instance, have 25 games left. Starting today, they play their last three against the Los Angeles Dodgers and then have no less than seven left with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

SAME SITUATION
Harry Walker's Pirates, in first place by two games now, face the same situation. Of their last 25 games, three are with the Dodgers and then those seven with the Giants.

Walter Alton's Dodgers have it a little better. Of do they? Of 27 contests remaining, three each are with the Giants and Pirates. But Los Angeles also has six games left with Philadelphia, which is in fourth place, and is as hot a club as there is in the league at the moment. The Phillies presently have won five in a row.

In Sunday's action, the Pirates retained their grip on first with an 8-5 victory over Chicago. San Francisco kept pace with a 9-2 pounding of St. Louis and the Dodgers did the same, beating Cincinnati 8-4. The Phillies beat New York 5-0 and Atlanta blanked Houston 2-0.

The Dodgers send Don Sutton against the Giant's Gaylord Perry today. Los Angeles is now in second place by one percentage point, though both teams are two games back of the Pirates.

The Pirates spotted the Cubs a four-run lead but came back with four in the third and three in the fourth, two on Manny Mota's pinch-hit single.

Juan Marchal won his 21st game and Willie McCovey provided the punch, a homer and two-run single, in the Giant victory. Tito Fuentes also homered for San Francisco.

Coach Stirs Packers

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Coach Vince Lombardi, like a master chef careful not to heat the sauce too soon, has relit the fires under his Green Bay Packers with an eleventh hour flourish. The defending National Football League champions may still be simmering Saturday night when they open the season against the Baltimore Colts.

The Packers reached their pre-season boiling point Saturday night as they picked apart the mistake-prone New York Giants 37-10.

With Bart Starr leading the attack with 208 yards through the air, the Packers racked up 439 yards in total offense. Their defense limited the young Giants to 177 yards—only six of them rushing.

The Packer's veterans, a year older and a year wiser, were magnificent. Starr, 32, scored one touchdown on a six-yard pass and passed 31 yards to rookie Donny Anderson for an air.

Fred Thurston, 32, drew gasps from the packed stands with his bone-crunching blocks from running guard. Max McGee, 34, caught four passes for 73 yards. The sly old receiver, running surprisingly fast and hard, caught one for 29 yards which led to a touchdown.

Jim Taylor, 30, scored twice, from one and four yards out.

Colts Accuse Otto Graham of Dreaming

BALTIMORE (AP)—Coach Otto Graham of the Washington Redskins, who contends he rejected a proposed trade with the Baltimore Colts, was called "an unmitigated prevaricator" by Colts' owner Carroll Rosenbloom Saturday.

Graham told a Washington luncheon gathering Friday that the Colts had offered veteran halfback Lenny Moore and fullback Tony Lortick for Washington fullback Charley Taylor.

"They forgot to mention that we offered them John Unitas, Raymond Berry, and Jim Parker too. All I've got to say is I must be having another pipe dream," chided coach Dan Rula.

Oakland 9 Triumphs

ORANGEBURG, S.C. (AP)—Oakland, Calif., right-hander Joaquin Vargas shackled Tuscaloosa, Ala., on a four-hitter for a 4-1 victory and the American Legion Junior Baseball Championship Sunday.

Track Mishap Kills Dragster in Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—A veteran drag racing driver was killed as his father and two brothers watched Sunday during national championship eliminations at Indianapolis Raceway Park Sunday.

Another driver was injured in a second spinout as 60,000 persons watched.

James Riley, 30, a sheet metal worker from Garwood, N.J., was killed when his Class A gas dragster spun in its own oil and smashed at 145 miles an hour into a guardrail.

Racing resumed after the crash, but Robert Lindwall, 27, Grays Lake, Ill., was injured when his AA fuel dragster veered out of control at 170 miles an hour and slid sideways into the grass.

French Runner Quitting Track

BUDAPEST (AP)—Michel Jazy of France said he would retire from track and field by the end of this year.

"My decision to stop competing this year is final," Jazy said. "I am 29, old enough to give the field to the young ones."

Jazy, the European record-holder, outlasted Harald Norlander, West German in a race down the home stretch and became the European 5,000-meter champion.

The French star won in 13:42.8, more than 15 seconds off his European mark.

Summer Fruits Can Be Preserved for Future Delight

PLUM RELISH — This unusual fruit relish may be made now while those large sweet fresh purple plums, grown in the Pacific Northwest, are here in the markets. Show it away in your freezer to enjoy with holiday foods.

Or you can postpone its making until the day before you want it, if you'll quick-like freeze some of these delicious plum plums to use in so many ways throughout the winter months. Why not both?

Relish Goes Steady With Meat

Prune Plum Relish—so good with lamb, veal, pork, and poultry—is a treat to enjoy now while those delicious large sweet purple plums, really Italian prunes grown almost exclusively in the Pacific Northwest, are here in our markets.

This uncooked relish is so easy to make, keeps a week or more in the refrigerator, freezes well to last for months. But you can have it anytime if you freeze some of these unusual plums, to be used as one would the fresh fruit in so many ways—pie, cobbler, crisps, coffee cakes, sauces and the like.

Purple Plum Relish

- 15 medium purple plums, halved and pitted
- 1 medium-sized orange, quartered
- 1 medium-sized apple, peeled and quartered
- 1 and 1/2 cups granulated sugar

Put fruit through moderately-coarse plate of food chopper. Add sugar. Mix well. Pack in tightly-covered containers, preferably those that hold enough for one meal, especially if relish is to be frozen.

Let stand over night in refrigerator before serving. Serve cold. Yield: 3 to 3 and 1/2 cups.

Note: If to be frozen, allow 1/2-inch head room for small containers, 3/4-inch for larger; seal well. To use, allow to thaw several hours in the refrigerator.

Variation: prepare relish as directed, adding 1 cup scissor-cut seedless raisins, 1/2 cup chopped walnuts, dash of ground cloves, 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon.

Even Melon Can Be Made Into Preserve

The summer months are made-to-order for fresh fruit fanciers. And no summer fruit has more devoted following than cantaloupe.

July and August are the peak months for these monarchs of the melon harvest. Enjoy cantaloupe half-shells at breakfast—or any other time of day—and cantaloupe balls, cubes or wedges in a wide assortment of salads, appetizers, main dishes and desserts.

For a really special treat, take advantage of this year's excellent crop and put up some "Cantaloupe Preserves."

In addition to diced cantaloupe, these preserves are appealingly flavored with orange and lemon. If you wish, you may stir in whole blanched almonds and whole drained marshmallows cherries during the last five minutes of boiling.

CANTALOUPE PRESERVES
2 to 3 oranges
2 to 3 lemons
1 to 2 cantaloupes
4 cups sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
Grate 1 teaspoon EACH orange and lemon rind. Pare and finely dice oranges to make 2 cups. Squeeze seeds and rind. Finely dice to make 1 quart.

In a large kettle, combine oranges, lemon rind and melon; cover and boil over medium heat 15 minutes. Stir in orange and lemon rind, sugar and salt. Continue boiling, uncovered, 45 to 60 minutes or until mixture is clear and thick, stirring occasionally.

During last 5 minutes, skim thoroughly. Pour into sterilized tapered self-seal jars or into jelly glasses and cover with paraffin. Makes 3 1/2 cups.

3 1/2 cups prepared fruit (about 1 lb. each fully ripe peaches and pears)

1 lb. each fully ripe peaches and pears

1/2 cup lemon juice (2 lemons)

6 cups (2 lb. 14 oz.) sugar

1/2 bottle liquid fruit pectin

Peel and pit or core about 1 pound each peaches and pears. Chop very fine or grind. Combine fruits and measure 3 1/2 cups into a large saucepan. Squeeze the juice from 2 lemons; add 1/2 cup to fruit.

Thoroughly mix sugar into fruit in saucepan. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. Cook gently 1 minute. Immediately add all sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil, and high heat, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat and skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim for 5 minutes. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover at once with 1/2 inch hot paraffin. Makes about 10 medium glasses.

THUMBPRINT COOKIES

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour

1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon double-acting baking powder

1/2 cup butter

1/2 cup sugar

1 egg

1 teaspoon vanilla

Such cookies are known as thumbprint or thimble cookies because either thumb or thimble is used to dent the dough for jam.

Thoroughly mix sugar into flour in saucepan. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. Cook gently 1 minute. Immediately add all sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil, and high heat, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat and skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim for 5 minutes. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover at once with 1/2 inch hot paraffin. Makes about 10 medium glasses.

Drop from teaspoon into remaining corn flakes and roll to coat with the cereal. Bake on ungreased sheets at 275 degrees for 5 minutes; then make depression in center of each. Return to oven and bake 7 to 8 minutes longer.

Cool; then fill centers with jam. Store in tightly covered container. Makes about 4 dozen cookies.

PEACH JAMS — Breakfast toast treat, gift, or dress-up for baked goodies, is this versatile Peach-Almond Jam. It is made with liquid fruit pectin so you get more jam from a batch of fruit.

BLUE CHEESE GOES WITH TOMATOES

When tomatoes are in season, "Tomatoes Americana" is an economical side-dish that will add glamour to your dinner.

Tomatoes Americana

6 medium large ripe tomatoes

1 1/2 cups dried bread crumbs

1 teaspoon minced chives

1/2 cup finely chopped onion

1/2 cup butter

1 teaspoon basil flakes

1/2 teaspoon sugar

1 tablespoon parsley flakes

1/2 cup crumbled American blue cheese (about 3 ounces)

salt and pepper to taste

Cut off top of tomatoes and hollow out inside. Invert and drain. Saute bread crumbs, chives and onion in butter. Stir in remaining ingredients.

Fill tomato cavities with cheese stuffing. Place in casserole and bake at 375 degrees about 15 minutes or until heated through. Serve hot.

UP-TO-DATE PEACH AND PEAR JAM — A basket of fruit this size is an easy session with the jam kettle when you use liquid fruit pectin. It ensures nine glasses of good eating or gift giving after cooking peaches and pears only a short time.

Store Up Blueberries for Winter Eating

A box of fresh cultivated blueberries is a pint. A crate is 12 boxes. Not too much at all to have on hand for those long winter months when the big luscious cultivated blues are only a summer dream.

Want a blueberry pie in January? Take out a box of dry-pack blueberries from your freezer, rinse in hot water and be on your way. Or, pop a few handfuls — still frozen — into your pancake batter some chilly November morning.

Fresh blueberries in a winter fruit salad? Easy if you have a few jars preserved at the height of goodness.

Or, what could be nicer than a delicious fresh Blueberry Jelly for hot biscuits, toast or on waffles? So easy and so inexpensive to preserve fresh blueberries now, you'll probably be back for a second crate when the family sees what's going on.

DRY-PACK FROZEN BLUEBERRIES

Pick over fresh cultivated blueberries, using only firm ripe berries. Don't wash. Just pack in freezer containers leaving 1/2-inch headspace. Seal and freeze. To use, just rinse and treat as fresh berries.

CANNED-IN-SYRUP BLUEBERRIES

Pick over fresh blueberries to select firm ripe berries. Wash and drain thoroughly. Place in glass jars within 1/2-inch of top, shaking berries down while filling jars.

Cover with boiling sugar syrup, leaving 1/2-inch headspace. (For this sugar syrup, boil 2 cups sugar and 4 cups water together for 5 minutes to obtain 5 cups of syrup.)

Adjust lids and process in boiling water bath (212 degrees). Pint jars take 10 minutes; quart jars take 15 minutes. Remove jars from canner and complete seals if jars are not self-sealing type.

FRESH BLUEBERRY JELLY

1 quart fresh cultivated blueberries

1 cup water

4 cups sugar (about)

Juice of 1 lemon, strained

1/2 bottle liquid fruit pectin

Mash fresh cultivated blueberries in large kettle. Add water and bring to a boil. Simmer for about 5 minutes or until blueberries are soft. Pour into a jelly bag and let drip for several hours or overnight for a clear jelly.

Measure juice into a very large kettle and for each cup of juice, add 1 cup of sugar.

Add liquid fruit pectin and bring back to a full rolling boil and boil hard for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim for 5 minutes. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover at once with 1/2 inch hot paraffin. Makes about 9 medium glasses.

Add lemon juice. Mix well and place over high heat. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly.

Add liquid fruit pectin and bring back to a full rolling boil and boil hard for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and skim off foam with metal spoon. Pour immediately into sealed jelly glasses.

While still hot, cover with thin layer of melted paraffin. Cool and cover. Yield: 8 medium jars.

Stuff Tomatoes With Vegetables

Finely chopped cooked vegetables, mixed with mayonnaise, make an excellent stuffing for tomatoes that are to be served as a salad.

Starting from the stem end of each tomato, cut it into sixths, but do not cut, all the way through. Spread the wedges apart and then add the stuffing.

Parsley Flavors

Fresh parsley in the house? Stuff lots of it and add to bread mixture for roast chicken or turkey. The parsley provides delightful flavor — if you add enough of it.

Make Two Pear Jams With Pectin

You'll relish this Peach and Pear Jam next winter when the first snowfall reminds you that it'll be a long time before you see fresh peaches and pears again.

Liquid fruit pectin insures that the jam will set after only a short cooking time. You get better color, more jam, and better flavor from a batch of fruit than you would if you made jam the old-fashioned way — without pectin and with long cooking.

In fact, without pectins it would be hard to get a spread of any kind — even a spoonable one — from peaches and pears. Though most fruits contain some pectin naturally, these fruits have very little.

Best jams and preserves often call for lemon juice, which adds acid, a little pectin, and brings out fruit flavor. Citrus peel is the source of the bottled liquid and powdered fruit pectins used in these recipes which are made in California near the orange and lemon groves.

Witch Doctor Drives Off Ghost for Fee

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (U) — Television cameras trained on the witch doctor as he rubbed foul-smelling ointment on superstitious African workers.

"Get them behind me, ghost," he murmured as, on the orders of the local town council, he drove off the haunting spirit that had terrified the Africans.

Carefully blended mud (medicines) made from parts of snakes, elephants and leopards were used to keep the ghost at bay.

Witch doctor Josiah Mangani, son of an African tribal chief, was working under contract to the town council at Krugersdorp, 20 miles west of Johannesburg.

The council, after a long discussion during which several councillors expressed varying opinions on African superstitions, had accepted his 11 pounds ($31) offer to get rid of a ghost haunting the local sewage pump.

KILLED INTRUDER

The ghost was said to be that of an intruder killed by an African guard. African workers said he gurgled at them. They refused to work at night in the area.

Town engineer Lud Hersch checked Mangani's credentials, which included a professional certificate from the African Dingaka (witch doctors) Society.

Mangani said he inherited his supernatural powers from his mother, a well known witch doctor.

With his bag containing black magic potions under his arm, he turned up at the sewage pump to drive away the evil spirit.

First he scattered around the area powder made to his own prescription. Men were gasped for breath and stood back for his killer, he said.

SMELLS GREASE

Then Mangani smeared grease over several Africans who had complained the ghost was tormenting them.

A dried snake, fats and roots were ground, mixed into a potion and placed on the roof of the pump-house.

More roots, ointment and herbs were burnt inside the pump-house to ensure that the ghost would never enter again. The smell was so overpowering that no one else could enter, either.

Mangani chanted, prayed and burnt bones as he called to the spirit of his ancestors to give him power. He stroked a small Springbok (deer) horn, filled with snake fat, which he said gave him back a message from his ancestors.

The message was that the ghost of the restless soul who was stabbed to death was looking for his killer, he said.

CALLED OFF

More chanting and praying and scattering of powder followed. The witch doctor then announced that his ancestors had called off the ghost.

Just to make doubly sure the ghost didn't return, Mangani buried a tin containing black magic at the door of the pump-house.

The African workers were apparently satisfied. They said they were convinced the witch doctor had chased the ghost away and they would return to work.

Mangani packed his bag and prepared to leave. Confidently, he said the ghost would not bother the workers any more. If it did, he added, he would refund his 11 pound fee.

Stork Sends a Substitute

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Leon Woods family was expecting the stork. Instead, they got a pelican.

The big-beaked bird lighted on the roof of the Woods' house and was still there hours later, and was still there hours later, and was still there hours later.

"I wish it had been the stork," said Mrs. Woods, who expects her second child by October.

Michigan's New Property Condemnation Law Is Explained

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is a public service article explaining in general terms a provision of Michigan law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult a private attorney.)

By Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelly
Michigan has a new condemnation law — the first in more than 40 years. It will become effective 90 days after the 1966 legislature adjourns.

The new law differs in a number of ways from the existing highway condemnation statutes.
One of the important changes is that the Department of State Highways is no longer required to hold hearings concerning the necessity of the construction before it can condemn property.
The new law merely requires that a declaration of necessity be filed by the Department of State Highways with the circuit court for the county in which the property is located.

Title to the property will then pass to the state unless an owner challenges the determination of necessity because of either fraud or abuse of discretion.
The new legislation also provides that just compensation be determined by a jury similar to the type utilized in regular circuit court cases.

Under the new act, the question of when the condemned property passes to the Department of State Highways is left to the circuit courts discretion.

Before receiving possession, the state must deposit the total amount of its offer with the court which may advance any portion of it to the property owner prior to the hearing on damages.

The new act contains a unique provision on benefits. If the Department of State Highways claims the property will benefit from the construction of the highway improvement and the owner disputes this, the state has the right to acquire all of the property it claims will be benefited.

Conversely, the owner may demand that the land not actually needed for highway purposes, which the department says will benefit from the construction, be taken if the department does not exercise its right to take it.

Thus, the property owner is not forced to keep the disputed property and expose himself to risking a financial loss if the state's position as to benefits should prove to be incorrect.

Another feature of the act is a provision that any increase or decrease in value of the property being condemned that results from an announcement of an impending highway improvement will be disregarded, in arriving at the amount of just compensation due the owner.

NO PLACE FOR NO COAT — Freshly shorn sheep are herded on a ranch on Umnak Island in the Aleutian Chain of western Alaska where 95 per cent of Alaska's wool is produced. Although temperatures which average slightly above 40 degrees year-round, winds exceeding 100 m.p.h. are not uncommon, making the need for a warm coat important.

Antipollution 'Fleet' Launched in Canada

By Science Service

TORONTO, Canada — A three-ship Canadian "navy" has been launched to fight water pollution in the Great Lakes. The fleet's job is to assist in tabulating the industrial, domestic and surface pollution from Ontario, and to check the effect of these discharges on the lakes.

The 65-foot Lac Vancouver is plying Lake Ontario, the 41-foot Sparks operates on Lake Erie and the 38-foot Pelican covers the Detroit and St. Clair rivers, with side trips along the Lake Huron shore.

The ships will collect samples from predetermined points or stations on the Lakes, make preliminary analyses on them, including tests for dissolved oxygen, temperature, or acidity and alkalinity.

Samples are taken by a device capable of collecting water from any specific depth. In deeper water a sample is taken five feet below the surface, five feet from the bottom and half way in between.

The results of the tests will be fed into a computer for further examination.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT — Six-year-old Chester Gordon of Denver, Colo., tried out his dad's handcuffs recently and wound up locked to a light post for two hours. Chester's father, a police technician, arrived home and sprung the prisoner. The youngster said he was practicing so he could help catch crooks.

Dating Game Is Fun at Mine, Town Sites

SOCORRO, N. M. (AP) — How to date exploring ghost towns, old mine sites and abandoned habitations is one of the more popular forms of recreation in New Mexico.

Part of the enjoyment of visiting an old site is to try to determine when it was occupied, and when and why it was abandoned.

Determining this information can take some real detective work, and be a lot of fun.

Many mines can be located and dated by referring to records available from the State Bureau of Mines and Mineral Resources at New Mexico Tech in Socorro.

But there are many old and unrecorded sites that will have to be studied before their age can be determined.

One method of arriving at dates of unknown areas is to uncover old newspapers which may be found in old houses. Sometimes the papers were used as insulation and can be obtained without being destructive.

These artifacts are associated with miscellaneous camp parts including the old Ford monkey wrench known as the "Knuckle breaker."

The last period (which we have dubbed the modern obcene) covers the last twenty years and is the era of the beer can and aluminum utensils.

CAMP OPENER
Ghost town and mining camp enthusiasts of the future will date this era's debris by the familiar opening made by the can opener or by the pear shaped opening of the aluminum "pop top" cans.

Tin cans used to preserve food before World War I, were of the type that generally required lead seals along the seams on the sides and had a little hole on the top of the can, where steam was let out during the pressure cooking process.

The color of glass fragments scattered around the camp can be helpful in determining occupancy dates.

Camps active before World War I have an abundance of purple glass fragments whereas camps younger than World War I have little purple glass and an abundance of clear glass.

MADE CHANGES
The purple glass, found in the older camps, was originally clear but exposure to sunlight has caused photochemical changes in the glass, causing the purple coloring.

CAUTION DRIVE WITH CARE...SCHOOLS OPEN

A Special Message to All Drivers

"School days are here again which is a reminder to drivers that children will once more be in the daily traffic pattern.

A good school safety record has long been the pride of Michigan's school people and traffic enforcement officers.

This has been accomplished because of the cooperation extended by all those concerned. School bus drivers and supervisors have been busy inspecting, reporting and generally making ready 7,500 of these vehicles to transport more than 670,000 students' 76 million miles during the coming school year. School officials and teachers are preparing their plans for the day to day safety instruction given in most elementary schools. Police departments and school safety officers are preparing for their part in the program. State police and traffic field officers are working with the department of public instruction on the schedule of lectures they annually present to driver education classes.

"But all of these preparations mean nothing unless the driver follows safety rules. Fortunately, Michigan drivers have a good safety record in this field, but nonetheless it can be improved just as all records can be improved.

"We are appreciative of what the drivers have done, we hope they will do even better. But this message is principally intended to remind them that school days are here again. Remember to be careful wherever there may be children, remember to be especially careful in school zones, remember to stop when a school bus stops for children.

"From the standpoint of safety, let school days be happy days for the youngsters. Watch out for them."

Infant Can See Shape-Doctor

Study Shows Babies Like to View Pattern

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — The number who assist her newborn babies can see shape and form, despite all she has been told to the contrary, now has the backing of two new studies on infant development.

From birth, babies constantly choose to look at patterns rather than at blank squares or circles, which means they can see them, reported Dr. Robert L. Fantz of the Western Reserve University in Cleveland.

His study of newborns of infants overstates the long-held belief that infants have no consciousness to see anything other than light, color and size.

In a separate study, Dr. Peter H. Wolff of Harvard University Medical School has demonstrated that infants are capable of fixing their attention, even in the first month after birth.

Together the two investigations point up how infant capabilities have been underestimated in the past. "We've lived this idea, Dr. Fantz developed an ingenious method of peering into the black of babies' eyes and observing the reflections there. When he saw no image (fixed directly on the pupil), he assumed the baby was seeing that picture."

Whether or not the picture means anything to the infant is irrelevant, said Dr. Fantz. The important point is that he has no inside, unexplained interest in patterns.

Most attracted
Newborns appear to be most attracted by lines and arrangements — checkerboards or patterns — Dr. Fantz found.

At 2 months of age, their interest shifts to a more complex, random pattern, probably due to learning of measurement of the face.

This preference for patterns makes sense, said Dr. Fantz, when one considers that the child first finds his way around the environment by the shape of things, rather than by their color.

Hemorrhoids Removed by Rubber Bands

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — The use of rubber bands to remove hemorrhoids in a doctor's office could be a special advantage with the expected shortage of hospital beds for hemorrhoid patients.

Dr. Eugene P. Salento of Plainfield, N.J., told a meeting of the American Proctologic Society in Cleveland that 79 percent of the 94 patients he had treated in 67 years of age and that it was to be expected that the hemorrhoid problem would become much more prevalent in the future with more protracted life.

The rubber band method can often be used where surgery is not indicated and is less expensive than temporary.

The originator of the method, Dr. Paul C. Bland of Pasadena, Calif., reviewed 18 years of hemorrhoid experiences with the rubber band technique in the American Journal of Proctology.

Dead City Looks Very Much Alive

CAIRO (AP) — On the eastern outskirts of Cairo stands a small cluster of villages extending over more than 5,000 acres. At first sight, you think it is a city, full of life.

In fact, it is the City of the Dead, a village cemetery where the dead are buried — some with gardens — serve as graves.

The City of Dead was built in the heart of the 9th Century by a Muslim prince and it has grown over the centuries to become one of Cairo's most colorful and interesting sights. It is richly decorated with ornate domes and minarets which adorn the "ornamented" houses of wealthy Muslims.

New Type of Corn Big on Protein

By Science Service
MADISON, Wis. — Dry milling of a newly developed high lysine corn could produce food products such as corn flakes and meal that are so rich in protein that water instead of milk could be poured over them, said Prof. E. T. Mertz, a Purdue University biochemist.

Here to address a University of Wisconsin school for feed men, Prof. Mertz said that the new corn will have a big effect on food for humans.

As an example, he said — that "Masa (gruel) made from this corn and fed at recommended levels has about the same value as dried skim milk."

The result of a mutation in the genetic process, high lysine corn contains higher amounts of lysine and tryptophan, both essential amino acids needed for body growth and tissue synthesis. Prof. Mertz said that "we can manipulate the protein content of (high lysine) corn from eight per cent to 18 per cent."

He noted that high protein corn developed earlier was not much in demand because the protein was of inferior quality, but the high quality of the protein in the new corn provides "the building stones of amino acids."

High lysine corn is not yet available commercially, but hybrid corn breeders are working to produce inbreds that will combine protein quality with high yields.

Transmitters Keeping Tabs on Animals' Daily Lives

WASHINGTON — On any one day in the United States some 200 to 300 animals are running around free and uncumbered while they give off radio signals from tiny transmitters in their stomachs.

The animals have no discomfort. Their lives are normal. They have simply been made to swallow a "radio pill," enabling scientists to gather round-the-clock recordings of heart beat, body temperature, blood pressure, movement and other physiological measurements.

In rough terms this is the scope of the nation's current "bio-medical telemetry" program — a 10-year-old science by which biologists are gathering previously unobtainable facts on animals and even humans.

Among the animals that have taken radio pills are snakes, rabbits, iguanas, dogs, monkeys, a 400-pound Galapagos turtle — and humans.

Dr. Samuel McGinnis, a dedicated telemetry scientist from California State College in Hayward, Calif., recently traveled to San Blas, Mexico, to monitor body temperature in the green iguanas (iguana iguana).

RADIO RANGE

To get a radio range of up to 300 feet, Dr. McGinnis had to use a large transmitter the size of a finger, and implant it rather than put it down the animal's throat. He and his team then camped out under a tree to listen.

Among other things, they discovered that "if you're a tropical lizard, the only way to cool off is to get in a thunderstorm."

The U. S. Southwest lizard, on the other hand, hibernates every night, said Dr. McGinnis. His temperature hits a low of 53.8.

Dr. McGinnis was one of several hundred international and U. S. representatives who attended an intensive four-day course on bio-medical telemetry, sponsored by the Smithsonian Institution and the American Institute of Biological Sciences.

Conducted by Dr. R. Stuart Mackay, acknowledged leader and pioneer of the field, the conference made clear that radio pills have medical usefulness, apart from their job in broadening scientific knowledge.

An Interview With Garbo on an Occasion to Remember

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The Lincoln Center Film Festival is making a big deal out of its Sept. 17 showing of one of Greta Garbo's best silent films, "A Woman of Affairs," which happens to remind me of my famous near-ill interview with the great Gee-gee some years ago.

People often say to me, with just a little urging on my part, "Please tell us, Mr. Wilson, how did you interview Garbo? How did you accomplish the seemingly impossible?"
