Anti-American Demonstrations Grow in Korea

U.S. Military Given Orders to Remain on Base

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Anti-American demonstrations spread in South Korea today. The U.S. Army ordered American military personnel in the Seoul area restricted to base except for official business.

A U.S. Army spokesman called the confinement order a "temporary measure to reduce the possibility of incidents" in view of the wave of demonstrations demanding the U.S. government sign a status-of-forces agreement giving South Korea court jurisdiction over American servicemen in some instances.

About 300 university students defying stern new warnings from South Korea's ruling military junta marched out of Yonsei University today.

It was the third demonstration in a week stemming from the alleged beating of a Korean civilian by two U.S. Army officers last month.

A solid wall of police halted the students about 100 yards from the main gate of the university in South Korea's third largest city, about 20 miles southwest of Seoul.

Police then withdrew the students, who were in a state of mind to do a sit-down strike. There were no reports of violence.

The government announced Friday night that the United States has agreed to principal to resume negotiations toward a status-of-forces pact. But it said Washington had raised issues which South Korea "finds difficult to accept."

It did not elaborate on these points but said the United States has been asked to reconsider them.

Reports from Washington quoted officials there as saying "very active consideration" is being given to an agreement. These reports made clear, however, that there is a division of opinion in Washington.

U.S. military men are said to feel that an agreement should not be concluded now because a technical state of war still exists in divided Korea and that is why about 50,000 American troops are stationed in this country.

Drinkers, Smokers Key Tax Targets

Sip...Puff...Pay Up!

LANSING (AP)—How much will Michigan's new "nuisance" taxes cost you?

If you neither smoke nor drink, not much. Higher taxes on beer, liquor and cigarettes account for $54 million of the $76 million total.

You'll probably pay the 4 percent tax on telephone service and probably be nicked for a slightly higher price for sending a telegram. The 4 percent tax will raise $8 million a year.

Indirectly you'll probably pay most of the cost of a one mill increase in the 4-mill corporation franchise fee, which will raise $14 million annually.

All the new taxes take effect July 1. It's easy enough to make a rough calculation of what the increases will cost you.

Say you and your wife each smoke a pack of cigarettes a day. The five-cent-a-pack tax is going up to seven cents, so the two-cent increase will hit you for $21.90 a year.

The beer tax will move up from three-eighths of a cent a bottle to two cents. If you drink 4 cases of beer a month, the increase will amount to $4.78 a year.

If you buy a $5 fifth of whiskey a month, the tax increase will add up to $2.40 in a year.

Add to those figures any beer or liquor you consume in bars and taverns, since retailers are likely to pass on the increase to you. On the basis of income tax returns filed by more than two million Michigan families, the State Revenue Department figured the average family will pay this much more:

$3,000 to $4,000 annual income — $1.33 a year in communications bills, $13.73 for liquor and beer, $15.48 for cigarettes for a total of $30.54.
$4,000 to $5,000 — $3.33 for communications, $14.80 for liquor and beer, $9 for cigarettes for a total of $27.13.
$5,000 to $6,000 — $4.80 for communications, $17.56 for liquor and beer, $18.53 for cigarettes for a total of $30.89.
$6,000 and over — $5.78 for communications, $21.00 for liquor and beer, $9.81 for cigarettes for a total of $36.59.

The figures are not typical, merely averaging the average spent for those items by families in those income brackets. Non-smokers and non-drinkers will pay much less; those who do will pay more.

TIPPED BY 1 STATE
The 42 percent increase in the beer tax will give Michigan a higher tax than all but six Southern states and Alaska.

It amounts to $6.61 for a 31-gallon barrel, compared with $1.33 in Wisconsin, $2.28 in Ohio, $2.71 in Indiana and $1.36 in Illinois.

New Jersey also has a seven-cent-a-pack cigarette tax, which is the highest among the eight largest industrial states.

Other rates are 3 cents in Indiana, 5 cents in Ohio, 4 cents in Illinois and 6 cents in Wisconsin.

Press Search in Canada for Murder Suspect

NEW YORK (AP)—The search centered today in Canada for Dr. Harvey Lowinger, wanted in the abortion death of a convent schoolgirl whose dismembered body was found in a sewer leading from the physician's expensive home and office.

The victim was Barbara Lofgren, 18, taken by her mother last Sunday to Lofthorpe, an abortion. The girl, a student at the College of New Rochelle, was four months pregnant.

In the lodge, a reception room will be named the Winifred room, honoring Mrs. Haas.

Joe Haas had been active in scouting for many years, and made a point to attend local and national jamborees regularly, all over the nation. For his devoted service, he had received the Silver Beaver award, the highest honor the movement bestows on its supporters.

Edward H. Leland, scout executive for the Clinton Valley Council, explained that the funds, which will come from the sale of stocks, bonds and property, will provide the lodge, its equipment, and pay for the maintenance for some time.

PICKED OUT SPOT
"Joe and I picked a tentative spot for the building on one of our trips to the camp," Leland said today. "It's on a high spot south of the present dining hall, and it overlooks the lake."

Leland explained that the lodge would be used year-round, for a variety of functions. During part of the year it might be a craft or nature center, and during other months it could be used for leadership training or winter camping.

This final gesture is just another one of the wonderful things Joe Haas did for scouting in this area, and he and Mrs. Haas certainly will never be forgotten, Leland said.

Convention Win Doesn't Cinch Nomination

House Speaker's Kin to Take Fight With Ted Before People

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Those ambitious, never-give-up Kennedys have done it again.

Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, eager 30-year-old brother of the President and of the attorney general, was endorsed by weary, hoarse Massachusetts Democrats last night as a candidate for the U.S. Senate.

In the big battle of famous political names, Kennedy piled up such a margin over Edward J. McCormack, 38, that McCormack gave up before the balloting was two-thirds completed.

With the score card showing Kennedy 80, McCormack's 20, the voting was stopped.

McCormack came to the microphone, listened gratefully to the cheers of his supporters, and said:

"I want to thank all of those who had the courage to stand up and be counted in my behalf. I will now take my case to the people."

TO CONTINUE FIGHT
This means that even though McCormack lost here he will fight Kennedy again in the November primaries, a right he has under Massachusetts law.

Secretly had McCormack left the platform than here came Kennedy, accompanied by his blonde wife, Joan, to get an even more rousing reception.

Kennedy said he was sure the people of Massachusetts will speak just as the convention delegates did.

"As of tonight," Kennedy said, "we're starting the campaign!" McCormack is the nephew of House Speaker John McCormack, who is waiting anxiously in the political wings as a young representative of yet a third famous family.

George Lodge, 34, son of the former United Nations ambassador, Henry Cabot Lodge, faces Rep. Laurence Curtis in the Republican convention a week from now.

Even though Friday night's victory didn't prove much—it gives today first place on the ballot, plus a note that the convention endorsed him.

"And young Teddy won here with technique his brother developed in Massachusetts' and perfected in New Hampshire, Wisconsin and West Virginia; bright young men in slick automobiles, pretty girls in crisp dresses, and an unrelenting industry behind scenes to make sure each delegate is reached again and again."

The contest was held in Room 142 of Utica High School. Master of ceremonies was Harry Magahay and contest chairman, Louis Shugart.

As Miss Utica, Irene will immediately begin her public of appearances to publicize the forthcoming holiday event.

Then the day of the celebration will be crowned by Gov. Winthrop before riding in the state of honor on the Lions Club float in the parade which opens the day-long program.

Other candidates for the Miss Utica crown were Suzanne Mohr, Judy Frase, Sandy Miller, Karen Dibley, Irene Detmeyer, Sandy Soulliere, Judy Adams, Carol Lieber, Mary Bennett, Trudy Bannow, Sandra Kacott and Cheryl Blashill.

Muggy Theme to Prevail Here Through Sunday

Muggy weather will continue to smother Pontiac through Sunday. There's a chance for brief thunderstorms tonight and tomorrow. The mercury will reach a high of 84 Sunday following a low of 54 tonight.

Warm temperatures with scattered thunderstorms are predicted for Monday. Winds shift from southeast to south at 8 to 15 miles per hour. Sixty-one was the lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac before 8 a.m. At 2 p.m. the thermometer read a warm 75.

To Reign Over Lions Celebration

THRO OF SPARKLERS — These three girls were chosen last night to reign over the Utica Lions Club's 16th annual Fourth of July celebration. In the center is Miss Utica Irene Heydens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald J. Heydens, 11070 18-Mile Road, Sterling Township.

She is flanked by her two maids of honor, Jessie Mackay, (left) daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Mackay, 8125 Mackay Court, Utica, and Cynthia Wales, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Wales, 8261 Canal Road, Utica. All are 17.

Selected Miss Utica in Her 3rd Contest

It was three times and "in" for 17-year-old Irene Heydens who won the Miss Utica title last night.

Three times she has entered a beauty contest. The first was the St. Lawrence High School Homecoming Queen competition — she was chosen a member of the court — the second, the Michigan Hothouse Rhubarb Queen contest — no luck — then last night — success!

A brunette with sparkling brown eyes, Irene received the judges' nod over 14 other local girls competing for the coveted crown. As queen she will reign over the Utica Lions Club's 16th annual Fourth of July celebration.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald J. Heydens, 11070 18-Mile Road, Sterling Township, Irene had received her diploma from St. Lawrence High last night before.

She was secretary of her senior class and plans to continue in that role in the business world.

Picked as first maid of honor was Jessie Mackay, 17, a light brunette with blue-green eyes. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Mackay, 8125 Mackay Court, Utica.

TO GRADUATE SOON
She aspires to a career in international law.

Another brunette with brown eyes, Cynthia Wales, 17, was named second maid of honor. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Wales, 8261 Canal Road, Utica. Both Jessie and Cynthia will graduate from Utica High next Thursday night.

Candidates for the title were voted on, posed, personality, beauty, grace and ability to speak before an audience.

Spain Puts Curb on Civil Rights

Bombings, Strikes Bring Two-Year Suspension of Choosing Where to Live

MADRID (AP)—Plagued by bombings and crippling strikes, Generalissimo Francisco Franco's regime today suspended for two years the Spanish people's constitutional right to choose where they want to live in Spain.

Under the sweeping edict, the government can control the movement of anyone opposed to Franco and keep agitators out of industrial centers hit by a seven-week siege of strikes that paralyzed mines and key factories.

The strike—illegal in Spain—dropped off sharply late last month after the government promised some workers pay boosts of up to 25 per cent.

Francisco's cabinet approved the decree suspending a key clause in Spain's bill of rights a few hours after the second bomb incident in three days rocked the Banco Popular, a big financial institution in the heart of Madrid.

Police blamed the left-wing Popular Liberation Front for the bombings which shattered windows in the bank and caused other damage. They were linked to recent strikes.

In death, Pontiac Press columnist Joe Haas has shown the same high regard for the Boy Scout movement that he did during his life.

The beloved Holly resident left his entire estate to the Clinton Valley Council of the Boy Scouts, it has been revealed by Oakland County Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore. The value is approximately $60,000.

Following requests he made before his death May 9, a lodge will be built at Camp Agawam, the Clinton Valley camp near Lake Orion. It will be named the Winifred Lodge, honoring the well-known newspaperman and his wife, Winifred, who died July 15, 1959.

In the lodge, a reception room will be named the Winifred room, honoring Mrs. Haas.

Joe Haas had been active in scouting for many years, and made a point to attend local and national jamborees regularly, all over the nation. For his devoted service, he had received the Silver Beaver award, the highest honor the movement bestows on its supporters.

Wrecker Hits Union for Picketing Sites

A project superintendent for Louis D'Amico, of Miami, Fla., urban renewal, wrecking contractor, yesterday sharply criticized union officials who picketed demolition sites yesterday.

Charles Hobart said that officials of Pontiac Laborers Local 1076 (AFL-CIO) and Teamsters Union Local 614 "used Goon-like tactics" in attempting to place D'Amico employees under union control.

Most of Hobart's remarks were aimed at George F. Molnar, financial secretary and business manager for Local 1076. Thursday, Molnar ordered the picketing after charging that "D'Amico" is breaching a contract agreement which obligates him to use local union labor at prevailing wage scales.

D'Amico was awarded the second demolition contract in the R-20 urban renewal project early in May by the City Commission. D'Amico has now among seven bidders for the contract with a bid of $22,000.

"We have threatened with physical violence by Molnar," Hobart said. "If we don't get out present employees to join his union, we won't cooperate with a union like this."

"We often threatened anyone with physical violence," Molnar said. "All we said was that we would try our best to stop demolition unless they lived up to contract agreement."

In answer to Molnar's charge that local people weren't being hired nor union wage scales paid employees, Hobart asserted that

Two Bandits Die Fleeing Bank Holdup

DETROIT (AP)—Two bank bandits died in a gun battle with police last night after pulling off a $10,000 robbery, wrecking one car and commandeering another in a wild flight.

The chase ended when the gunmen fled on foot into a wooded area, were surrounded by police from two suburban communities, and died trying to shoot their way to freedom.

Robert Chalmers, 38, of Wyand, was killed as he fled with his companion, Orville Wyatt, 31, of Hamilton, Ohio, died of wounds in a hospital.

Police said the pair held up the Pontiac Bank of Wyandotte about 7 p.m., took the money from cash drawers and fled in haste when a bank employee sounded an alarm. CHASE INTO POLE

They fired a shot through the windshield of a car in which a citizen pursued them, then crashed their own into a utility pole and were forced to abandon it.

They jumped from the car—still carrying the bank loot—and fled on foot across fields to a ditch in the wooded area.

Taylor Township and Southgate police, alerted by a motorist who witnessed the crash, converged on the area and exchanged some 30 shots with the pair before Chalmers and Wyatt were mortally wounded.

All of the bank money was recovered.

OTHER EMPLOYEES

"Aside from myself there are only three other employees: the owner, Mr. D'Amico; his son, who will eventually own the business; and a third man with 10 years experience in the wrecking field."

Hobart said D'Amico "planned to hire more workers as the project expands. We are running a small operation now but things should pick up soon."

Armed Bandit Holds Up Owner of Pontiac Bar

A masked bandit held up a Pontiac bar owner and his wife about 1:30 a.m. today in one of two robberies which occurred here since last night.

Russell Gillespie, 41, and his wife Jeanette told police they were closing Harold's Bar at 505 S. 2nd St. when they were surprised by a man wearing a cloth bag over his head and carrying a revolver.

The thief told Mrs. Gillespie's name was "Eddie." He fled when the burglar alarm sounded as he tried to enter the bar.

About 10 p.m. yesterday, James H. Wilson, 31, of 381 Prospect St., said he was robbed of $81 at E. Wilson and Saginaw streets by a young bandit armed with a knife, waiting in his car.

Expand Airport, Post Office Project Suggests FAA Delayed in Rochester

Fail to Mention Jet Plan; Cite Benefit to Detroit if Municipal Grows

The Federal Aviation Agency has recommended continued expansion of facilities at Pontiac Municipal Airport over the next five years to help relieve congestion at Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

The report made no mention of jet airport under consideration for portions of Pontiac and Orion Townships.

Pontiac Airport recommendations for more land, wider runways and taxiways, a new north-south runway and new taxiway were included in the FAA's National Airport Plan for 1962, submitted to Congress yesterday by N. E. Halahy, FAA administrator.

The report lists Pontiac's airport as one of some 50 airports designed primarily for general aviation use that should be developed to relieve congestion at Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

The City Commission is currently waiting for completion of an airport master plan before making further plans for improvements.

Any requests for federal funds to come from the Commission and be tied directly to recommended expansion in the master plan, said City Manager Robert A. Slater.

"We also would want to first discuss plans with Oakland County supervisors."

A $388,100 improvement program at Pontiac Municipal Airport is currently under way, including widening of the east-west runway and taxiway and installation of high-intensity runway lights.

It is slated for completion next fall.

DETROIT EXPANSION

The FAA plan calls for improvement and expansion at three Detroit area airports and construction of a fourth airport, as part of national airport development needs over the next five years.

Estimated cost of the program is $12.55 billion. Of this amount, Michigan would receive $17 million.

Halahy's plan called for 314 new airports throughout the United States, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands and for improvement of 2,613 existing airports.

Of these new or modernized airports, 250 would serve local (nonairline) aviation, primarily to relieve congestion in metropolitan areas.

The FAA report to Congress recommended a new general aviation airport, with site unnamed, for Detroit. Halahy said it should have a runway 3,800 feet long.

Halahy further recommended development and improvement of Detroit, Detroit Metropolitan and Willow Run Airports.

He also recommended construction of a new airport in Detroit and improvement of 3 existing airports in Detroit, nearby Southfield and Dearborn.

City School Candidate Denies Commission Aid

Pontiac Board of Education candidate Mrs. Lois Slater Naasom made the following statement today:

"I have not received any financial assistance from any member, past or present, of the Pontiac City Commission. I am not a 'rubber stamp' for anyone. Voters should remember this is a non-partisan and nonpolitical election."

Expand Airport, Post Office Project Suggests FAA Delayed in Rochester

A fight over who will get the job of expanding and modernizing the Rochester post office may delay the already one-week-late project even longer.

An East Detroit contractor said yesterday he was sending a wire to Chicago to protest awarding of a $229,000 contract for the work to a Detroit firm.

Carl Trost of Martin Trost and Sons, while once thought it had won the job with a $229,500 bid, said the General Services Administration had promised to notify his company when it made a decision on awarding the contract.

Awarding of the contract to Paul H. Johnson, Inc., was announced yesterday by U.S. Congressman William S. Brownfield, R-Oakland County, in Washington, and confirmed by a spokesman of the General Services Administration regional office in Chicago.

NOTICE SENT THURSDAY

The spokesman said notice of the decision was sent to the Johnson firm Thursday.

Trost said, however, that his attorney in Chicago was told yesterday morning by the spokesman that a decision had not yet been made and the matter was still under investigation by the agency's legal department.

Trost claimed the Johnson firm's bid was originally $500,000, but was changed by a telegram that arrived after other bids were opened May 10.

The General Services Administration spokesman said the telephone call arrived in time to be considered within provisions of the law.

Trost said the delay in awarding the bid was to determine if the change was to be allowed.

Meanwhile, Rochester Postmaster Cole Neumann is waiting for someone's equipment to show up and start tearing down an old house his branch has been using to store its main building. Work was scheduled to begin June 1.

An addition will be built to replace the old house.

CHANGED IN AFTERNOON

But it changed that Phoenix and pro-Communist Prince Souphavanna changed their minds and renewed the demand in the afternoon session.

Lao Press, official voice of Premier Prince Souphavanna's right-wing royal government, said Souphavanna and Souphavanna wanted the deputies "chosen from among the military chiefs of the (pro-Communist) Pathet Lao bands and Souphavanna's forces."

Observers had assumed the knotty problem of the key ministers were resolved yesterday when Souphavanna announced that the two points would go to his neutralist faction.

The communication on yesterday's meeting made no mention of any major differences.

The princes themselves gave no details, except to say that only a "few chiefs" stood in the way of a coalition.

Japanese Government to Provide Water Guards

TOKYO (AP)—The government decided yesterday to provide filters for some 30,000 rainwater-drinking families in outlying islands to protect them from possible radioactive fallout due to U.S. nuclear tests in the Pacific.

The simplified rain water filter sets cost about $10 apiece.

Charges Princes Block Coalition

ROYAL LOATION GROUP'S NEWS-AGENCY ASSAULTS Neutralist, Pro-Rod

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—The royal government's news agency today accused Neutralist and pro-Communist leaders of holding up agreement on a coalition government.

"It said the other rulers were demanding stronger representation in the key ministers of defense and interior (policy)."

An official statement in the "Lao Press" agency said the rival Princes demanded additional deputy ministers in the two departments at the meeting yesterday in the rebel stronghold of Khang Khay.

The statement came as a surprise.

Hope for a peaceful solution to the Lao civil war had been fanned by the confident prediction of neutralist Prince Souphavanna Phouma that final agreement will be reached on a coalition government by Monday.

Lao Press claimed that the negotiators first agreed to drop their demand for stronger representation during yesterday's morning session.

George Romney, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, is scheduled to address approximately 200 party members in the Pontiac Northern High School at 7 p.m. Monday.

Last night in a speech at St. Clair, he promised to replace strife with unity in Michigan if elected governor.

"We need a fresh new approach to take state government from the interest groups and return it to the hands of the people," he said.

There were no reports of casualties in the blast or the resultant fire.

More than 6,000 books and 39 film projectors were destroyed in the blast and flames.

Resents 'Nuisance Tax'

LANSING (AP)—Gov. John M. Swainson arrived home last night reporting "severe resentment" against a quarter of a century against the legislature's "nuisance tax" package.

The governor capped a stinging tour through Petoskey, Oshtemo, Rogers City, Charlevoix and Cheboygan with an appearance last night at a Roman Catholic affair on Mackinac Island.

U.S. Protests Red Gun Shots

American Commandant Hits Firing at Boat Used in Berlin Escape

BERLIN (AP)—The United States sharply protested to the Soviets today over the shooting in connection with the escape of East German pilots, Friday, aboard an excursion boat in Berlin.

The protest was made in a letter by the U.S. commandant in Berlin, Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, to Maj. Gen. Andrei I. Solov'yev, the Soviet commandant.

Watson charged that East German police fired some 20 shots from the Soviet sector of Berlin into the U.S. sector during the incident.

FROM FOUR POINTS

East German Vopos, as the people's police are called, shot from four points at the 38-ton pleasure boat Friedrich Wolf, which desperate East Germans hijacked for their escape to West Berlin.

Watson told Solov'yev that "shooting aimed at civilians men, women and children and kidnapping such as is being perpetrated by Soviet sector and Soviet zone personnel are crimes of most serious order."

BLAMED THE EAST

"In many countries," he said, "these crimes are punishable by death."

Watson blamed the recent increase of shooting incidents along the wall in Berlin squarely on the East.

"I am gravely concerned about the situation," Watson wrote, "not only because causing death and injury to innocent people reveals such a callous and criminal disregard for human life, but because it is bound to lead to a resentment that can create an increasingly serious problem of maintaining law and order in all sectors of Berlin."

Two City Raids Net 28 Arrests on Liquor Charges

Two raids within half an hour by Pontiac police today netted 28 arrests on charges of illegal liquor charges at 55 Franklin Road and 509 S. Franklin St.

Four vice squad officers and four uniformed police, led by Lt. William F. Neel, struck first at the Franklin Road address.

They seized, 17, of 481 Franklin Road, was charged with maintaining and operating an illegal liquor establishment. Five others were apprehended for interfering there.

The officers raided the Sanborn Street residence at 5 p.m.

Mrs. Mary Robinson, who lives at the address, was charged with operating the illegal liquor place. Her husband, 50, 41, was arrested for aiding and abetting the operation.

Three others were charged with interfering.

Romney Will Address Pontiac Republicans

George Romney, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, is scheduled to address approximately 200 party members in the Pontiac Northern High School at 7 p.m. Monday.

Last night in a speech at St. Clair, he promised to replace strife with unity in Michigan if elected governor.

"We need a fresh new approach to take state government from the interest groups and return it to the hands of the people," he said.

There were no reports of casualties in the blast or the resultant fire.

More than 6,000 books and 39 film projectors were destroyed in the blast and flames.

The plastic bomb has been a favorite weapon of the European independence of the center has been bombed several times in the past few years by European terrorists.

OAS commanders also bombed and burned other buildings in response of heavy security measures aimed at stopping the "scorched earth" campaign.

SCHOOL BOMBED

In Algiers the OAS put in the target a primary school in the quarter of Bab el Oued and a villa. The burst of Beirut in the last quarter burst into flames after a plastic bomb exploded. The buildings were empty.

Resents 'Nuisance Tax'

LANSING (AP)—Gov. John M. Swainson arrived home last night reporting "severe resentment" against a quarter of a century against the legislature's "nuisance tax" package.

The governor capped a stinging tour through Petoskey, Oshtemo, Rogers City, Charlevoix and Cheboygan with an appearance last night at a Roman Catholic affair on Mackinac Island.

The Day in Birmingham

School Districts Elect Board Members Monday

BIRMINGHAM—Voters in the Birmingham School District will elect two members to the board of education Monday while those in Bloomfield Hills will name one school member and decide three proposals.

Richard Barnard is the only incumbent among four Birmingham candidates. He is currently serving as secretary of the board.

The three other candidates seeking the two expiring posts are Foll Hollingshead of 489 Arlyle Road, Walter W. Selover of 1555 Valley Lane, and East A. Welley of 2434 Pembroke Road.

Barnard and Hollingshead are attorneys. Selover is a vice president of an advertising firm, and Welley is a professor at Wayne State University.

Only two candidates, including the incumbent, are seeking office in Bloomfield Hills.

OPPOSES INCUMBENT

Board President David W. Lee was being challenged by Bernard E. Sullivan of 3555 Forest Hill Road. Lee is truck advertising manager for the Ford Division of Ford Motor Co. Sullivan is president of the O'Brien Textile Corp.

The length of terms in both districts are four years.

Bloomfield Hills voters also will be asked to authorize the sale of $500,000 in bonds to finance the construction of a high school and a new elementary school. A three mill tax increase to be used for operations, and renew a 7.4 operating millage.

The total tax increase, including that which is needed to pay off the bonds, would only be about $2.80 per $1,000 since the school board intends to reduce taxes for bonded indebtedness.

New officers of the Birmingham Rotary Club will be elected following a 1 p.m. luncheon June 18 at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Lane, 553 Linden.

The Birmingham branch of the American Association of University Women will meet Wednesday at the Oakland Hills Country Club for its final luncheon of the season.

The group will be entertained with a puppet presentation of "Peter and the Wolf," performed by the AAUW's Puppets.

Police said the pair admitted a breaking and entering in Fowler earlier this week. They told police they had been hiding in the woods during the day to avoid capture.

The other two suspects, who walked away from the home farm in White Lake Township last Saturday, were apprehended Tuesday.

Wayne Wetherell, 22, of Cadillac, was picked up in Mount Pleasant and Malcolm Houston, 22, was arrested in his hometown of Flint.

5-Year-Old Girl Struck by Car in Front of Home

A 5-year-old Pontiac girl who was struck by a car in front of her home yesterday afternoon is reported in satisfactory condition today at Pontiac General Hospital.

Witnesses told police Rita F. Bruce, 279 State St., ran out in front of a car driven by Robert L. Beemus, 18, of 3121 Waukegan St., Waterford Township.

Hospital authorities said she suffered a possible head and leg injuries.

Some were struck out of the open door of the truck and was trapped beneath when it overturned. The accident occurred about 9:30 a.m. near the Shelby Township-Washington Township boundary.

There were scattered shootings and bombings elsewhere.

A patrol of temporary auxiliary Muslim police opened fire for a still-unexplained reason on a balcony of a house in the Hussein Day section of Algiers, killing a 61-year-old European woman.

A Moslem was killed and another wounded in attacks in the foreign legion headquarters town of Sidi Bel Abbes.

In Oran, OAS commanders lobbed grenades into a city government office, causing some damage but no casualties.

Reports from Oran said at least 15 Europeans had been kidnapped by Muslim terrorists. Four were expressed for the lives of the captives.

French security forces had been on the alert for new attempts by the OAS to turn Algiers into a charred and battered ruin.

Authorities also were concerned over the threat of financial ruin. The newspaper "Depeche d'Algérie" carried a communique this morning from Algiers' banks pledging that they would remain open.

Stanley S. Kresge

Foundation Head to Get U. of M. Honor

The University of Michigan will confer an honorary degree upon Stanley S. Kresge, 1071 N. Lake Annapolis Road, at commencement exercises June 18 in Ann Arbor.

He is vice chairman of the S.S. Kresge Co. board and president of the Kresge Foundation that donated $1.5 million for construction of the new library at Michigan State University Oakland.

Nine other men prominent in government, science, arts and business will receive similar awards from the U. of M. the same day.

Science Adviser to JFK Named to Head New Unit

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy chose Jerome B. Wiesner, his science adviser, yesterday to be director of the new Office of Science and Technology.

Kennedy made the appointment under a reorganization plan, which took effect yesterday, establishing the office and reorganizing the government's structure for encouraging and coordinating research and keeping pace with scientific developments.

At the same time Kennedy continued Alan T. Waterman as director of the National Science Foundation, whose functions are modified under the new setup.

Earlier this week Kennedy enabled Waterman to remain in the post by authorizing the director to serve beyond the retirement age of 70.

Resigns Job, Goes to Space Agency

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House announced today that Walter L. Lingle Jr. who has been deputy administrator of the agency for international development (AID) only since April, has resigned.

He is taking a job with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

When reporters asked presidential Press Secretary Pierre Salinger about reports that Lingle is dissatisfied with the aid program or foreign aid, Salinger said he preferred not to discuss these reports.

Salinger's explanation was that "there was a feeling that his talents could be put to better service" in the space agency.

It Seems to Me . . .

Elect Able Citizens Godsell, Mihalek to School Board

Encouraged by his control of the City Commission, MILTON HENRY has apparently decided he might as well start on the Pontiac school system.

It's up to the voters now. MILTON HENRY's hold in his own district is unshakable. In spite of his antics in the City Commission chambers, the voters in District One insist that "he's their boy."

That decision is theirs. This is a democracy.

But there are many staunch citizens who have labored for Pontiac over the years who refuse to believe that the balance of the people is willing to bow. They honestly question whether the voters in the rest of the City understood in the last election that they were supporting candidates who follow the lead dominated to a great extent by Milton Henry.

Now we face a school board contest. Personally, I believe the current office holders deserve re-election. Their policies and beliefs are clearly established. We know where they stand. I am of the opinion that a couple of the others may end up too closely allied with the HENRY theories.

Here are the two candidates running for re-election who have served so ably and capably: Walter S. Godsell (President) Mrs. Elsie Mihalek. Many thought Merle Smith was under Henry's thumb, but Smith discovered him vigorously in The Voice of the People, and I accept that statement.

If you don't subscribe to the theatrical tactics of the Champion of District One, you will prefer a school board that follows along more conservative lines. If you do, The Press recommends:

WALTER S. GODSELL (President) MRS. ELSIE MIHALEK. But don't go to the polls and vote blindly, and don't sit on your hands at home and then wring them in dismay if the opposition turns out in force and elects its candidates.

It's that simple. It's strictly up to you. MAKE YOUR CHOICE.

Quite a Debt . . .

The Nation's taxpayers are really on the treadmill. Senator HARRY BYRD, D-Va., says we're saddled with a debt of $1.25 trillion. (Don't confuse that with "million" or "billion.") We've outgrown those. He says: "This is the price of paternalism, intervention and control which have been allowed to develop in this country."

In commenting on this, The Chicago Tribune says that "There is hardly a piece of legislation before Congress which isn't calculated to buy political favor by 'giving' something to somebody. The new farm bill, medical aid under Social Security, aid to education, job retraining, public works, matching funds to the states — you name it, and it is always something that the politicians profess to be extending out of their own generosity."

President KENNEDY raised the Federal tax limit to $300 billion "temporarily." And now he rushes to Congress and wants to make it $308 billion.

Of course, it's just "temporary." Sen. Byrd declares our "actual and contingent Federal liabilities

— the legal and moral commitments which the Government is pledged to redeem — exceed the assessed value of all real and tangible property by four times."

The taxpayers swallow it meekly. What's the answer?

Scholle Is Upset . . .

AUGUST SCHOLLE is agitated because office workers and executives give money to the Republican Party. But he regards it as OK to pour union funds into Democratic races even though the members may strongly favor the GOP. Why, therefore, is he so concerned because a group gives its own money to any political party it pleases?

Is this Mr. SCHOLLE's business? How about tossing money from union members into the Democratic maw? That smacks of bossism. Is it fair?

Why does he turn somersaults because private citizens give their own money as they think best?

And finally, Michigan's Democratic National Committeeman is on record with a written acknowledgment of a package of 178 envelopes from Ford executives in the Detroit area with funds for the Democratic campaign. Doesn't that make Mr. SCHOLLE look pretty silly?

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Overheard: "Logic is just a systematic way of going wrong with confidence." . . . Two delegates to the International Press Institute in Paris — separated by thousands of miles — asked me if Milwaukee were in Michigan. . . . The Chicago Sun Times says Cleopatra will be brought back to life long enough to make one picture: "The Life and Loves of ELIZABETH TAYLOR." . . . Knoxville's Dick Goss is currently touted as "the longest hitter in golf." Each year a new candidate springs up and each year GEORGE BAYER shoves him back into the pack. . . . If some of the current tariff legislation is passed, Michigan's cherries around Traverse City will be dealt a blow.

I can't prove it but I'll bet a sugar cookie the first astronaut selected for a second trip will be Alan Shepard. . . . Chicago's Health Commissioner says mothers shouldn't let little children run full speed alongside barking, excited dogs on hot days as the dogs may bite and break the flesh unknowingly. . . . They tell me the Twist is passing from the scene. The newest is the "Limbo." . . . Saw Giselle MacKenzie on TV the other night and it made me wonder: Why isn't she on every week — or every night?

Police say the big majority of stolen cars are unlocked. Let this be a sharp lesson to you — and you — and you. . . . BILLY GRAHAM's current appearance in Chicago has been a madhouse success. The crowds exceeded all expectations and with unequalled enthusiasm in the Windy City. The man's simply terrific. . . .

An informal poll of band leaders in the East showed these two songs as perpetual favorites: "All the Things You Are," and "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes." Couldn't they add "Some Enchanted Evening"? . . . Dept. of Cheers and Jeers: the C's — The Pontiac Press's own Betty Crawford for her marks

The POWER of FAITH

It seems to be in man's nature to seek understandable expression in the form of symbols for great religious concepts and experiences. Both the Old and New Testament abound with religious symbolism: Satan represented by a serpent; Christ by a lamb; and other symbols — the cross, the star of David, the burning bush, the dove, tongues of fire. Christians have found symbolic meaning in architecture, too. The pointed arches common to Gothic churches and the pointed steeple both recall hands raised in prayer. The number of panels in doors and windows have meaning also — two panels to represent the old and new testaments, three for the Trinity, four for the evangelists.

Days of All Faiths:

Christians, Jews Honor Pentecost

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER. If you ask the average person today how one qualifies to be called a Christian, the chances are he will tell you either that a man is a Christian because he holds certain beliefs or because he observes a certain code of behavior. And of course both are right, to an extent.

But if you had asked the same question of a member of the Church 1900 years ago, he would have said nothing about either belief or conduct. He would have said simply "To be a Christian is to have received the Holy Ghost." By this he would have meant the experience of having God take control of one's whole life so completely that, in the New Testament puts it, God lives "in him" and he lives in God.

This is one of the differences between Christianity and all the other world religions. If you claim to be a Christian, one of the key questions you must be able to answer affirmatively is "Have you received the Holy Ghost?"

And this is what tomorrow — the Christian festival of Pentecost — is about. We talk about it as the festival of the coming of the Spirit of God into human affairs in His power to guide men's hearts. We might better say we are commemorating the day when a hundred or so friends of Jesus, having been prepared for the idea by their association with Him, first became aware that this is how God operates in the world.

Here is what happened. It is all told in the second chapter of Acts. The Jews had a festival called Pentecost, and in this particular year it fell just ten days after Jesus had ascended into heaven, leaving His disciples bewildered, lost, and frightened. Let the author of Acts tell it: "And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place. And suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting. And there appeared unto them cloven tongues, like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them; and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost." (Acts, chapter 2, verses 1 to 4.)

So began the third and final era of Christian history, the era through four years in high school: 19 "A's" and four "B's" and one "C." The "A's" — the teacher that gave Betty the "C."

— HAROLD A. FITZGERALD of the Holy Ghost, God at work in the world through men's hearts and through His Church. Most people miss the tremendous importance of this fact. They try to live in the second era, the time when God was on earth in the form of a man, they concentrate on trying to follow the precepts of a now departed teacher, rather than on accept-

Dr. William Brady's Mail Bag:

Learns Clear Nail Polish Helps 'Clear' Up Shingles

Six months ago, I had shingles. Doctor told me to apply clear nail polish to each little blister, to keep rash from spreading and the clothing from rubbing them. The nail polish peeled off by itself and each day I put fresh polish on. In no time at all, the shingles cleared up. (F. M. N.)

The nail polish treatment is new to me. Perhaps other readers will report their experience with it. Can artificial noncaloric sweetener be harmful to health if used permanently in place of sugar — six tablets daily, with sweetening equivalent of six teaspoonsful of sugar? (Mrs. E. S. L.)

Ans. — No. I want to thank you for the help I have obtained from your pamphlet on allergy. For the first time I've found a way to arrest the hives I used to get from various foods. (M. J.)

Ans. — Thank you. Persons with allergic sensitivity generally benefit from a high-calcium diet and calcium-D supplementation of the ordinary diet. Send $5 and stamped, self-addressed envelope for booklet, "The Calcium Shortage" and pamphlet, "Relief for Allergy."

With my first three babies, my face became covered with moth patches. With my last, the doctor put me on a diet, no fried food, cake or candy, a green leafy vegetable and a yellow one every day, at least one kind of fruit daily, at least 6 ounces of meat daily, with rice, grits, etc. Not even one moth patch came on my face. (Mrs. C. I. W.)

Ans. — Thank you. I don't know what causes so-called moth patches or liver spots (chloasma, a medical language) certainly moths and the state of the liver have nothing to do with such blemishes. Anyway your diet suggestion would do no harm. Have a knee that goes out ing the guidance of the Holy Ghost within them.

The Jewish feast known as Pentecost came fifty days after Easter, just as the Christian Pentecost comes fifty days after Easter. More important than their numerical relationship, however, is their similarity in what they are commemorating.

U.S. Reds Covering Tracks Well

WASHINGTON (NEA) — After the stock market break, there was a revival in Washington of the old 1929 depression gag line, "Recovery is just around the corner."

Discussing Kennedy administration proposals which he said were disrupting business confidence, new U.S. Chamber of Commerce President Ladd Plimley says they remind him of a woman who named her husband "Theory" — because he never worked.

Chairman Walter W. Heller of the President's council of economic advisers says some people these days are confusing him with Walter E. Heller of Chicago, whose investment firm is reported to have bought $7 million of Billie Sol Estes' mortgages on those infamous nonsectarian fertilizer banks.

"People write in and ask how it is that I'm advising the President on economics," Heller told the Women's National Democratic Club,

"That's the reason why women can't be as successful as men," he said. "They don't have wives behind them."

Voice of the People:

'Well-Rounded Education Is Worth High Taxation'

"Taxed to Death" thinks teachers are overpaid. Big deal! They put in untold hours taking care of our "most precious possessions." They're supposed to be modest with exceptionally high moral standards.

Those "overpaid" teachers are required to have a college education. I doubt if "Taxed to Death" has. I am a truck driver with a high school education, but I make at least $16,000 a year more than the average teacher. Does that speak very well for forwarding them?

There are papers to grade, social functions, school plays, meetings and other things for our teachers. Find out how many are already leaving for other jobs. "Taxed to Death" had better see how much money he actually pays to the schools and how much for luxury.

I have four children out of school and one yet to finish, but I expect to pay school taxes more and more every year to give children a better education.

After reading the letter signed "Wondering" I was very surprised and disgusted to know that such trash would be printed. All men are created equal regardless of race, creed or color. Too Much Control Leads to Disaster

Many Americans deplore the John Birch Society, but like General Eisenhower, are actually concerned over the program of the Kennedy Administration to increase greatly presidential powers and centralization of government.

Government controls lead to loss of individual freedom, our precious heritage. Kennedy's own inaugural statement should apply: "Let us not spend your government can do for you; ask what you can do for your government." America has remained the last holdout of freedom.

Get Behind Her, Satan!

His Wife Must Remember to Keep Her Eyes Open

By ANGELO VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Three weeks after we were married my husband joined the Air Force. He was a great over-achiever, almost immediately and will be gone a year.

Before he left he asked his brother to look after me so I wouldn't be lonely. The brother is two years older than my husband and looks and acts quite like him to pass for his twin. I find myself thinking romantically about my brother-in-law.

I love my husband and don't want to hurt him. I could close my eyes and think his brother was my husband. What should I do?

ONLY HUMAN

DEAR ONLY: Keep your eyes open. Wide open. DEAR ABBY: My husband's sister, who lives in Germany, sent him a violin in 1914. It belonged to his grandfather, who got it from his father, so we know it has been in the family for over 100 years. When it came it was battered, but we had it refinished and it looks like new. We wrote to different people asking where to take it to have the value assessed and nobody answered.

A friend of ours, who played with the Detroit Symphony, saw it and played it and said it had a marvelous tone. He wanted to buy it but we didn't want it to go out of our family for sentimental reasons.

Inside the violin, printed on a piece of paper, not the wood floor itself, is:

"ANTONIUS STRADIVARIUS CREMONENSIS FACIEBAT ANNO 1732"

Is this worth anything?

MRS. M. M.

Overhill Drive, Bloomfield Township, president, discuss the agenda for the social club which has expanded to include program meetings, educational classes for the members and the community, philanthropic work and a club bulletin, "The Villager."

Pontiac Press Photo

DEAR MRS. M. M.: Run, don't walk, to your telephone directory and look in the yellow pages for dealers in antique violins. Take your violin to several and you will soon find out if yours is a genuine Stradivarius. If it is, you have a real treasure. And no fiddling around.

DEAR ABBY: Our son and his young wife have a four-month-old son. They also have a female cat. This animal is allowed the freedom of the house.

She is on the chairs, sofa, tables, and even jumps into the baby's crib and sleeps with him at night. I worry that the cat might suffocate the baby. Is there any truth to that? Both parents have had ringworm from this cat.

DEAR WORRIED: Advise your son to ask his doctor about cats sleeping with babies. Especially a cat which has given both him and his wife "ringworm." If your son doesn't follow through, YOU do it. Your son and his wife appear as though they should be raising cats, not children.

How's the world treating you? For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of The Pontiac Press.

chapel and educational wing. Frederick J. Horner was the architect and L. & R. Custom Construction Inc. of St. Clair Shores was the contractor. Total cost of the structure including the four-acre site was approximately $105,000.

By Mrs. Henry A. Frisom of Grand Rapids and the Redeemer Four, a male quartet from Warren.

Rev. O. W. Stucky of Detroit who served as interim pastor will offer the dedicatory prayer. Refreshments will follow the service in Fellowship Hall. Rev. Harold W. Gieseke said the public is invited to all services.

Dr. Koller will also speak at the 11 a.m. worship tomorrow. At 6 p.m. there will be an informal hour with the devotional address by Dr. A. Dale Barie, pastor of Grose Pointe Baptist Church.

It was the Grose Pointe Church that has sponsored the new congregation since its organization in 1960.

FIRST UNIT COMPLETED
The first unit of a projected building plan, the "building is a combination chapel and educational wing providing for a congregation of 180, a Sunday school of approximately 200, a nursery, pastor's study, church office, kitchen and large Fellowship Hall on the ground level.

Interior walls are white and the nartex is glass enclosed. Windows throughout the building are of colonial styled glass. Pews and all pulpit furniture are white with deep red trim.

Curving in the sanctuary is crimson.

A joint committee from the Grose Pointe and Bloomfield Hills churches supervised the construction.

Representing the joint committee and receiving the keys to the new building tomorrow will be Edward J. Russell of Grose Pointe and Jack White of the new congregation.

ORGANIZED IN 1960
The Bloomfield Hills Baptist Church was organized on March 8, 1960 when nine families of the Bloomfield Hills vicinity explored the possibility of beginning an evangelical Baptist work in the area.

There were 23 charter members.

The first pastor was Rev. Wallace A. Alston who served until May 1961. Rev. Stucky then served until the end of 1961 when Pastor Gieseke began his ministry. The present membership is 66.

Average attendance during May was 116. Sunday School averaged 104.

During the first 21 months of the life of the church services were held in the Hickory Grove School. Groundbreaking on the present site was on July 23, 1961 and the cornerstone was laid Oct. 22 of that year.

Home Improvement
Guide

Do you have a home problem? Is it lack of closet space? Do you want a patio for outdoor living? Need a new bedroom? Or do the floors need refinishing? Today's Home Improvement Sections, assembled by The Pontiac Press may give you the answer. Keep these sections on file for future use; the ideas have been gathered from many professional sources. Summer is a good time to improve your home.

In addition to the wonderful editorial suggestions, and pictures of how to do the job you will find advertisements from firms who can furnish materials, help, and even finances with which to do your job.

Read every page for they contain information you probably have been seeking.

Do Something About Lights

If you spend one-third of your life in the bedroom — and most folks do — you have eight reasons for providing proper installed lighting, says the American Home Lighting Institute.

- To protect against accidents.
- To use into drawers.
- To lighten cleaning and bed-making.
- To select clothing.
- To dress and groom.
- To read in bed.
- To care for the sick.
- To enhance wall colors, fabrics and furniture.

When it comes to lighting, the bedroom is one of the most neglected rooms in the home, according to the Institute.

Minimum lighting standards for average bedrooms (125 to 225 square feet) call for a ceiling fixture at least 15 inches across with a 130-watt or four 40-watt bulbs.

In addition, you should have supplementary light over bed and dresser.

Over the bed, the Institute suggests a 48-inch wall bracket with a 40-watt fluorescent tube shielded by a baffleboard. Or you may prefer a 150-watt incandescent pull-down fixture over the night stand.

Appropriate for lighting the dresser are 75-watt ceiling-mounted bullet spotlights with swivel necks.

Special Hardboard Covers Workbench

A workbench top made of hardboard will resist damage for a considerable period of time. But only the most careful workman can prevent it from sustaining cuts, scrapes and other marks.

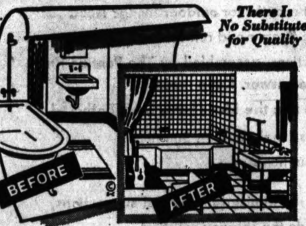

The top can be renewed easily with a piece of hardboard screwed to the hardwood. Do not use the standard hardboard. Buy the kind which is tempered. It costs only a couple of cents more per square foot but is much tougher. In attaching it, keep the smooth side up.

This type of workbench top may never need renewing, but if you ever have to replace it, you merely have to take out the screws and put on a new sheet of tempered hardboard.

Build this bench around a tree and you will have a shady place to sit. The construction offers no problems. Pattern 47, which gives actual-size cutting guides for all the angles of seat, back and supports, is 35 cents. This pattern also is included in Pocket 63 which is an Indoor-Outdoor Assortment of patterns—all for $1. The Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., Bedford Hills, New York.

New Products Aid Home Handyman

Dozens of exciting new building products, which are equally suited for installation by the do-it-yourselfer or the professional, are available to home owners this year. Of special interest are new products just announced by Owens-Corning Fiberglas, a major manufacturer of home building products, which include:

FriCTION Fit Building Insulation, without vapor barrier, is applied between wall and ceiling framing members simply by pressing into place without stapling. Poly-backed gypsum board of polyethylene film used over the unfaced insulation in walls assures a positive barrier and eliminates air and vapor leaks. This "instant insulation" can easily be installed by home handymen and the method of application assures a tight fit and permits visual inspection of the job.

Especially suited for attic room improvements, garage workshops, or major home additions, the insulation is easily cut with an ordinary knife to fit odd-shaped spaces or to straddle pipes, wiring, or other obstructions when location prevents the full butt thickness from fitting behind them.

A do-it-yourself acoustical and luminous suspended ceiling combines Fiberglas acoustical panels and light-diffusing panels in an aluminum grid system. For installation in bathrooms, kitchen, and recreation rooms, and for covering cracked ceilings in any room where conditions prevent plastering.

It is especially suited for lowering the height of ceilings in older homes to the modern eight-foot level and for concealing pipes, wiring, ducts, and other obstructions while still retaining accessibility. Although the new ceiling offers many advantages, one of the most outstanding is its simplicity of installation. The lightweight components go up quickly and easily with just a few ordinary household tools, and a special locking device included with the system.

A Fiberglas-reinforced plastic shower stall, which is leak-proof and is impervious to rust and deterioration, comes complete with chrome drain, soap dish, and safety grab bar. Owens-Corning says use of the lightweight shower stall eliminates the need for periodic repainting of joints as the unit is fabricated in one piece. Shower stalls are available in a two-wall model for corner applications and a three-wall model to provide a "baffle" installation.

These units are warm to the touch on even the coldest nights, and are easier to keep clean because of the smooth plastic surface and absence of dirt-trapping sharp corners. The shower base has a skid-resistant finish for added safety.

The Prefabricated Duct System combines air duct, thermal insulation, acoustical liner, and a vapor barrier in one product for residential heating and air conditioning. It is available in pre-formed rectangular and round forms as well as flat boards, which can be fabricated into duct components.

The new product effectively absorbs blower noise and eliminates voice transmission and duct vibration. The factory-installed vapor barrier, an integral part of the product, eliminates condensation worries.

The only work required during installation is the joining of the duct sections, which is accomplished by use of a new interlocking joint and special tape. No metal connectors are necessary for most duct sizes.

Knife Better Than Pencil — When you must make a very accurate mark in wood, try this old cabinetmaker's method. Use a knife instead of a pencil to eliminate the wide pencil line.

Strength of Wood Is Undergoing Tests

Much more wood than may be country's construction lumber is actually needed in use in the construction of a house.

Nobody is quite sure of that, because nobody yet has been able to answer the age-old question: how strong is a piece of wood? Once that question is answered, the building industry will know whether it is correct in supplanting that considerable space is being cluttered up with a lot of unnecessary structural bulk. If the surmise turns out to be true, it no longer will be necessary to figure triple safety factors in engineered wooden buildings.

The solution of the problem may come out of a tremendous testing project being conducted by the United States Forest Service. Wooden cylinders, up to 12 inches in diameter, are being tested by being taken from thousands of trees in the forests of the Pacific Northwest, where much of the

Spring Decorating Calls for Liveliness

Spring and redecorating go together like green grass and April showers. The fresh, gay look of the outdoor world creates the urge to bring some of the change inside. But anything new, large or small, should be chosen with imagination.

When you buy new furniture, make up your mind to avoid the staid and stodgy. Forget those matched living room "suits." Far more interesting are the sofa in one fabric and pair of matching chairs in a different style, fabric and color.

Furniture for the dining room need not come in sets, either. Consider, instead, painted chairs with a natural wood table and serving pieces. Painted bedside tables, a painted chair or a colorful desk in the bedroom will provide salt in the stew.

It's Just an Illusion Paneling Enlarges

Vertical paneling can make a small bedroom appear larger. This basic premise must be tied in with the use of light paneling, with the ceiling color even lighter.

The panels can be of wood, pre-decorated fiberboard planks or any of the many dry wall materials which come in 16-inch widths. If ease of maintenance is an important consideration, try one of the plank boards with a plastic surface. Scuff marks, stains and hand prints can be wiped off easily with a damp cloth.

Be sure to get matching cover and base moldings with whatever wall material you select, so that there is a continuity of line and color.

If you want something different in ceilings, you can use the 16-inch square plastic-surfaced blocks of the same material as the walls. They can be applied over the old ceiling with adhesive and special metal clips.

Improvement Loans Are More Liberal Nowadays

Now you can modernize your home, create additional living space, or build a completely new kitchen or laundry room — and Uncle Sam will give you a helping hand.

Major home improvements represent fairly large dollar outlays, usually more than the average home owner can afford without financing. But with the Federal Housing Administration's new program, homeowners can finance home improvements ranging in cost from $2,500 to $10,000.

These loans are designed for basic improvements such as additional space for expanding families, new kitchens, baths, garages, and structural alterations and reconstruction. Or your home might need new plumbing, roofing, heating and air conditioning, flooring and tiling. You can even obtain these loans for landscaping and home site improvement.

With these new FHA loans, homeowners in suburban and rural areas can enjoy big city comfort and convenience by installing modern home appliances such as built-in ovens and ranges operated on liquefied petroleum gas, or LP-gas for short.

While the FHA doesn't actually loan you the money, the necessary funds for remodeling may be obtained through any FHA-approved mortgage such as a bank, saving and loan association, or other financial institution. Lenders can allow as long as 30 years to repay the loan at 6 per cent interest plus one-half per cent FHA insurance premium.

A borrower should remember not to begin his work until FHA has approved the plans and bid on the work and had agreed to insure the loan. FHA will not insure work already begun. Also, FHA offers the protection on these loans of inspection during and at the completion of the construction work.

This new program goes far beyond the older FHA Title I improvement loan plan which limited borrowing to $2,500 and required repayment within five years. These limitations ruled out bigger remodeling and modernization projects.

Homes, like automobiles, can get run down and out-of-date. But that doesn't mean older homes have to be abandoned. With a more liberal home improvement loan program, backed by an agency of the federal government, homes everywhere can be made as modern as tomorrow.

Cover Cracked Ceilings With Acoustical Tile

Spring is the ideal time to attend to those unsightly cracked or stained ceilings. Rather than go through all the mess of an old-fashioned patch-up job, though, try covering the old surface with an attractive new acoustical tile ceiling that won't crack, chip or peel.

Acoustical tile can be cemented in place with a special tile adhesive called Brush-On Ceiling Cement, or stapled to wood lath strips, depending on the condition of the existing ceiling.

Current reports of the U.S. Forest Service indicate the Southern Pine forests are increasing in volume at the rate of 3½ billion board feet each year.

Oil Base Paint Is Best on Radiator

Heating tip of the week: an oil base paint is better for use on radiators than paint such as aluminum or bronze.

According to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, the kind of paint on your radiators affects the heat output. Metallic paint reduces the total radiant output by about 10 per cent or more.

The reason for this is that the metallic particles in the paint act as reflectors which retard the flow of heat in the same manner as metallic reflective insulations.

It does not matter if an undercoat of paint is metallic — the final coat is the determining factor. Also, it makes no appreciable difference what color the oil paint is, since the output variation from color to color is slight.

The efficiency of a radiator can further be increased, says the bureau, if a sheet of reflecting metal is placed behind it, not in contact with the radiator. This does two things: it retards the flow of heat from the radiator to the wall, thus increasing the amount of heat available to the room; and it reflects this useful heat into the room.

Some people think that no paint at all beyond the factory's prime coat is the best policy for radiators or hydronic baseboards; but the fact is that oil base paints of any color do not reduce heating efficiency.

It is therefore highly practical to paint all radiators and hydronic radiant baseboards to match the decor of the room.

Sorting Board Used to Add Laundry Space

A laundry center with plenty of smooth, snag-free surfaces for sorting and handling clothes can be a great help to a busy home-maker.

It takes a lot of counter space to sort the family's clothes after a big wash day, and often there just isn't enough space available. One simple solution is a home-made "sorting board" designed to rest on top of the laundry sink or tub. When not in use, it can stand on end against a wall.

An excellent panel for clothes sorting can be made from a piece of Marlite, which has a washable plastic surface. This snag-proof paneling, available at lumber yards, comes in plain colors and interesting patterns.

OUT-OF-TOWN OWNER — Oliver Lawson of Temperance, Michigan is the owner of this 2-family house. He was discouraged by poor tenants in the past and the deteriorating condition of the neighborhood. But he went along with Urban Renewal plans and spent money in remodeling and improving. A better apartment would mean good tenants and more income. See the result below.

RENEWAL PROJECT — This apartment belonging to Oliver Lawson at 17-19 Hovey Street is now spick and span looking. Not only is it more modern looking than it was, but the inside has been renovated completely to bring the house up to city health and safety standards. Lawson is an out of town owner who was willing to spend nearly $5000 to further Urban Renewal.

Underwriters Lab Passes on Shingle Efficiency

How safe are the shingles on your roof? Will they resist fire and prevent it from spreading? How well are the shingles made? How efficiently will they protect your home against sun, rain, wind and snow?

As a home owner you can depend on the label of the Underwriters' Laboratories to answer those questions for you. If the shingles you or your contractor buy and apply to the roof of your home carry the UL label on the package, you can be certain they are of high quality, they are fire resistant, and when so indicated on the label they will withstand high winds.

The Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., founded in 1894, is a nonprofit testing organization working in the interest of public safety. It also sets up specifications for materials and performance standards. Thus the familiar UL label found on products ranging all the way from household appliances and automobile parts to hospital incubators has become a mark of both safety and quality.

What the UL label is and what it means to the consumer is illustrated by a new Underwriters' standard established for asphalt shingles and under this standard, the shingles are stronger and heavier. In roofer's language, they are "25-pound shingles." The lighter "20-pound shingles" no longer qualify for the UL label.

The laboratories began testing asphalt roofing as long ago as 1907. At that time most houses were protected from the weather by flammable roofing materials. When fires occurred, the dried-out roofing burned fiercely and flaming brands were blown onto neighboring roofs. The fire spread so fast that control was almost impossible. Obviously, shingles had to do more than shield houses from the weather. They also had to protect them from fire.

As a result of the laboratories' investigations, roof coverings resistant to fire were classified, and those which met the requirements qualified for the UL label. These classifications were also incorporated into many building codes and fire regulations.

The UL Class "C" label on shingle wraps or packages means the shingles will resist fire and its spread from house to house. But, of equal importance, the label also means the shingles have been carefully checked and inspected at a number of stages during manufacture in order to insure the home owner a durable and satisfactory roof.

Checkerboard Bathroom
Brighten the decor in a children's bathroom by using Marlite blocks in two harmonizing colors on the ceiling. By alternating the colors, a "checkerboard" effect can be achieved. The blocks have a baked melamine plastic surface that is highly-resistant to heat and moisture. A damp-wiping is all that's needed to clean Marlite blocks.

Hardboard Strip Makes Cabana

Masonite Forms Arch When Clothesline Is Drawn Tight, Tied

A backyard or beach cabana can be built at a cost of about $3 for the materials, according to the Masonite Home Service Bureau. It can be transported to location atop a car.

The curved design is attractive and simple to build. Materials needed are a 4'x8' panel of Masonite 1/4" Tempered Presdwood, two 1" x 2" lumber strips 4' long, two 1" dowels about 6' long, two screw eyes, two screw hooks, and a length of plastic clothesline.

The lumber strips are nailed at each end of the hardboard panel and the eyes screwed into one of them about 4" from each edge. Screw hooks are similarly placed on the other strip.

When the plastic cord is run through the eyes and hooks and pulled tight, the hardboard will be drawn into an arc. One end of the curved panel rests on the ground while the other is supported by the dowels, which fit into 1" holes drilled into the top lumber strip.

To return the hardboard to its flat shape for transportation or storage, unhook the plastic line and pull out the dowels.

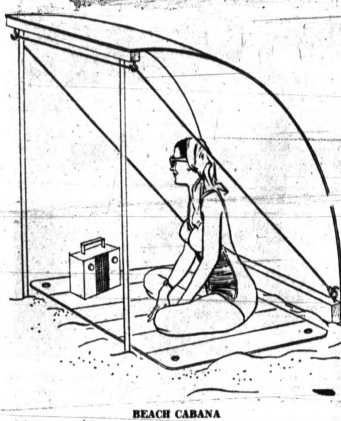

The ensemble should be painted on both sides with a primer coat and two coats of exterior quality oil paint. A light color which will reflect the sun and heat is suggested for the top side.

For off-sand seating, use a 4' square of Masonite 1/4" Tempered Presdwood, rounding the corners and beveling the top edges lightly with a file or sandblock. Then paint the board attractively in alternate stripes of red and white, for example.

Holes shown at the corners are for the necks of pop bottles, which serve as legs when the board is used for a beach picnic table.

Tile Window Sills

The "open" season is on its way, which means that window sills will be exposed to the elements. Scraping, sanding and repainting eventually will be necessary if those sills aren't covered with a waterproof, sunproof material such as ceramic tile. Real tile never needs painting, is easy to maintain and is available in more than 200 colors to harmonize with any room decor.

BEACH CABANA

Seal Out Drafts

If you're bothered by drafts around the air conditioner — and they'll be more annoying as the weather gets colder — you can block them with rope calk. This comes in a roll and is easy to apply, requiring no tools. Just unroll the amount needed and press firmly into the crack or over the meeting place of the window and the conditioner. To remove, peel it away.

Send for Booklet on Plumbing

A booklet, "Plumbing Care and Repair," gives the homeowner invaluable tips on what should be done to keep everything in prime condition for years of enjoyment and service. The booklet is available for ten cents from the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, 33 East Wacker Drive, Chicago 1, Illinois.

Some included suggestions:

- 1 - To prolong the life of your water heater, drain a few quarts of water from the tank bottom every few weeks.
- 2 - Fix leaky faucets immediately to avoid damage to fixture parts. (The booklet shows you how.)

- 3 - Don't pour lye down a food waste disposer, as it will corrode the metal.
- 4 - When you change washers, pad the wrench you use to prevent marring the fine finish of the fittings.

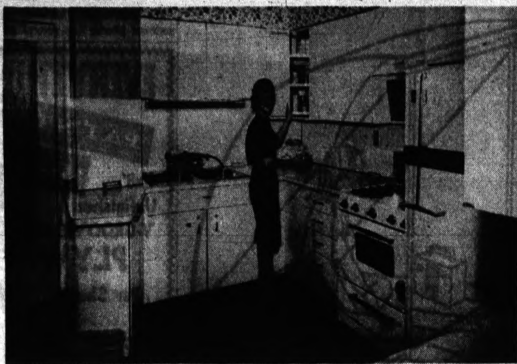

- 5 - Tag or identify all valves in your home so water can be shut off in an emergency arises.

- 6 - Seek the expert service of a qualified plumbing contractor for all maintenance except minor repair and replacement.

The plumbing in your home represents an important investment. Proper care will assure you many years of convenience and service.

IT'S ABOUT TIME—Barbara Zimmerman, home service adviser at Consumers Power Company, Pontiac, helps local homemakers with their kitchen problems. But until recently she worked in a preparation kitchen that hadn't been changed since it was built in 1931. This budget kitchen can be installed in many types of homes. The floor is vinyl tile. Cabinets are Neva-Mar plastic. Appliances are by Roper (range) and RCA Whirlpool (refrigerator). Note how the counter at the left narrows down to make more walking space. Barbara is taking supplies from a corner lazy susan cupboard.

Hide Various Meters but Keep Available

Plans for a recreation room, laundry room or other finishing job in the basement must always include some provision for reading the utility meters.

The easiest way to do this is to install small doors which can be opened when it is necessary for a utility company employee to read the electric, gas and water meters. However, they should not be so small that, in an emergency, a repair could not be made on any of the meters.

Any one of various types of catches or latches can be used on each of the doors. One of the easiest to install and operate is the magnetic catch, which permits the door to be opened easily but which snaps shut quickly.

There are over 3,000 separate parts and approximately 4,000 nails in the average home, according to the Tile Council of America.

Deeptone Paint Colors Go Well in Any Room

The new deep wall colors now gaining favor with home style leaders go with traditional American as well as contemporary decorating schemes.

The rich hues can be used with either the formal, elegant Early American or the informal homes characterized by use of maple, pine wood or simple Shaker designs.

For rooms in the formal mode, deep, jewel-like tones of blue, red or gold effectively display graceful flutings, scrolls and other carvings painted sparkling white, says Miss Margaret Hutchison, color stylist for Martin-Senour.

The lush colors of an oriental rug go extremely well with this style, picking up the wall hues.

For the more informal home, rich browns, olive or gold can be combined with lighter backgrounds in stone-gray, cocoa, fawn, pewter or tawny gold. Here the furnishings are less ornate, creating a warm, lived-in atmosphere.

Bronze-green is the color most dominant in the new trend toward deeper colors, mainly because of its versatility.

Olive bronze makes a subtle background for the new stained glass or jewel tones of ruby, emerald and sapphires.

All of these deep color combinations are showing up in carpets, drapery and upholstery fabrics, wallpaper and paint.

A rule of thumb for prospective homebuyers offered by housing authorities is that one should pay no more than two-and-a-half times one's net annual income for a house.

Glass Block Replaces Windows for Privacy

A window or wall replaced by gleaming glass blocks can brighten a small bathroom and yet provide privacy, insulation and ventilation.

An experienced do-it-yourselfer can do a good job of replacing a wall with some advice from the dealer supplying the glass blocks. But the average home handy man is better advised to have the project done professionally. Replacing a window with glass blocks is another matter. It can be done by following these four steps:

- (1) Remove the old window, taking care not to damage the frame. Rotten or badly corroded frame should be replaced. Holes or cracks in the wood should be plugged with wood filler or other material.

- (2) Brush asphalt emulsion, available with mortar from your supplier, on the inside of the frame. A good, thick coat of emulsion is essential.

- (3) Next, lay in the glass blocks with mortar, making the joints one-quarter inch thick. Joints should be completely filled with mortar. Tool the mortar to a smooth finish.

- (4) Clean the face of the blocks of any excess mortar before it hardens. Leave room at the top of the glass block panel to allow for expansion. Caulk at sides, top and bottom to assure complete weather-tightness.

Privacy is no problem when using glass block. The prismatic construction of green-tinted light-filtering glass blocks keeps vision out but allows an abundance of natural daylight to enter. The glass blocks provide insulation equivalent to that of an 8-inch masonry wall. Special panel-vent blocks give adequate ventilation when desired.

Thickness Is No Longer Rule for Strength

Technical advances have exploded the myth that certain building materials such as metal, glass and plastic must be thick to be strong. And now this is reaching into home interiors.

For the first time, homemakers can get a pure vinyl flooring material, featuring high styles and the same durability of thicker vinyls but costing less because it's only 1.18-inch thick.

In extensive laboratory tests, engineers have found it will provide the same resiliency and long-life qualities as thicker 1/2-inch or .880-gauge solid vinyls.

The big advantage of solid vinyl over other kinds of flooring tile is that it can be produced with accurate renditions of soft pastel colors that are styled to blend with major appliances now so universally used in light and delicate shades, as well as fabrics, paints and ceramics.

The soft hues of the pastels are presented in a unique style of marbelization combining a soft cloudiness and a directional graining at different levels within the tile. This effect gives the feeling of true marble, but with added brilliance and depth.

Plane Needs Care

When finished using a plane, retract the blade and place the plane on its side. Never use a screwdriver or other tool with a metal point to dislodge shavings from around the blade.

3 WAYS TO PROTECT YOUR HOME INVESTMENT

1. Keep up regular maintenance
Regular maintenance of your home is a "must." Every week, chances are, something needs special attention. Keep up with "fixing up." Do it yourself, or call in an expert. It's a basic way of preserving the value of your home.

2. Improve the building and grounds
A little painting and refinishing can do wonders for your home, and a basement family room or an attic bedroom will be a real improvement. Go to work outside, too. A coat of paint and some shrubs will make yours one of the neatest houses on the block.

3. Add new furnishings and equipment
A new light fixture, a new rug, or a new chair can make a world of difference in any room. And perhaps you can now add the helpful appliance you need. Figure out what you need most, then plan to buy it.

the best way to pay the bills...

Proper Use of Ladder Prevents Accidents

Insurance records show that most accidents with outside ladders around the home are caused by a lack of knowledge of the fundamentals of safety. You can eliminate or reduce the chance of an accident by remembering these things:

1 — Whenever possible, have someone assist you in raising a long ladder against the side of a house.

2 — When it is absolutely necessary to raise the ladder without help, push the base of it against the foundation of the house. Move back to the top of the ladder and raise it to the level of your eyes.

3 — Whenever you go under it, grab one of the rungs with both hands and walk forward slowly, moving your hands from rung to rung as you walk toward the house. When the top of the ladder is against the house, move out the base a few feet to get the ladder in proper position.

4 — The distance from the foot of the ladder to the bottom of the house should be one-fourth the height of the ladder.

5 — When on the ladder, work with one hand while holding on with the other. You're looking for an accident when you reach out too far. This is true even when you are using one of the gadgets that enables the top of the ladder to be attached to the house.

6 — When the ground is soft, use a large wooden board under the base of the ladder. When the ladder is not on concrete or any surface that might be slippery, place rubber feet on the legs.

7 — Never paint a wooden ladder. It hides splits and other defects that may occur.

Correct Use of File Is a Little Tricky

An amateur user of a file can be detected immediately. He pushes the file forward and then, without releasing the pressure, pulls the file back towards himself.

The trick of using a file is to exert pressure on the forward stroke and little or no pressure on the return stroke. In fact, when working on especially fine stock or a small piece of wood, it is better to lift the file entirely on the return stroke.

Best results with a file are obtained when the work is on a level with your elbows. When through with a file, clean it and place it where it will not gather rust. And don't leave it in a drawer where it will bang against other metal tools.

Cork tile is the quietest and most comfortable underfoot of all smooth surface flooring materials.

Sloppy Cement Won't Hold Up

The most common mistake of the amateur in the guiding of concrete is the addition of too much water. Concrete made with too much water hardens into a mass that appears to be very strong. But it is usually only half as durable as concrete made with the correct volume of water.

The condition of the sand used is closely related to the amount of water you'll need. About 5 gallons of water is recommended for each sack of portland cement, but this will vary depending on whether the sand is wet or dry. With very wet sand you may need only 4 gallons, with very dry 6 gallons.

Chemicals Preserve Wood Give It Driftwood Look

When Southern Pine lumber is pressure treated with certain chemicals, a finish is obtained which provides long service. The color weathers to a rustic driftwood effect which is especially desirable in some forms of architecture.

Primary purpose of the chemicals is to permit the safe use of wood under conditions of severe weather exposure.

NEW LOCK—A safety lock that folds the prowl and prevents forcible entry through partially opened or closed windows is announced by Shelby Metals Products Company, Shelby, Ohio. Known as "Standard" Safety Window Lock No. 220-BB, it automatically locks double hung windows in any partially opened position and prevents opening windows wider from the outside. It also stops small children from opening windows beyond safe limits. Locking is equally automatic and effective in closed position. This lock can be installed quickly with a screwdriver or coin.

It's Tedious Job to Paint Screens

Painting screens involves a certain amount of work for which there are no shortcuts. One way of getting a good job is to use a paint primer.

Be sure all dirt, oil and grease are removed from both the frame and the mesh. Remove rust by rubbing gently with steel wool. Prime bare spots with a metal primer.

Special screen enamels are recommended, but a regular exterior enamel will give a good result if thinned sufficiently to prevent clogging in the mesh. Small, inexpensive screen painters can be used, but here again it is possible to use regular equipment, such as a brush or roller.

When paint fills some of the mesh, you can do the unclogging with a toothpick or something similar. But when there is an excessive amount of clogging, it is better to wait until the paint has dried then go over the screen with a scrub brush.

When it is desired to retain the original color of copper, brass or aluminum screening, use spar varnish or an exterior clear lacquer.

Check Over Advantages of Building on a Porch

Has the patio put the porch out of style?

No a bit. If you're looking for real outdoor livability — and that means comfort and convenience — try a porch.

Plus marks in favor of the porch are these: (1) It is built above ground, at least slightly, which means that cooling breezes can circulate under and around it. (2) It is built of wood, which neither retains nor reflects heat. Even if placed on the south side of your house, the porch is likely to be comfortable at all hours of the day. (3) It is raised to floor level, meaning that the porch is wonderfully accessible.

Vinegar, Turpentine, Oil Mixture Covers Scratches

NEW YORK (UPI)—To conceal scratches on wood, use a mixture of one-third each of white vinegar, turpentine, and boiled linseed oil from a paint or hardware store.

Shake the mixture in a bottle, rub it over the scratched wood with a clean cloth. Turpentine and linseed oil remove dirt. The acid vinegar helps to close scratches.

Hide With Paint

Older homes and apartments often have visible pipes of one kind or another right where you don't want them. The easiest way of "hiding" such a defect is to paint the pipe the same color as the wall behind it. If it is a heat pipe, try to paint it when the heat is off; very often the effect of the heat may cause the paint to dry a color slightly different from that on the walls.

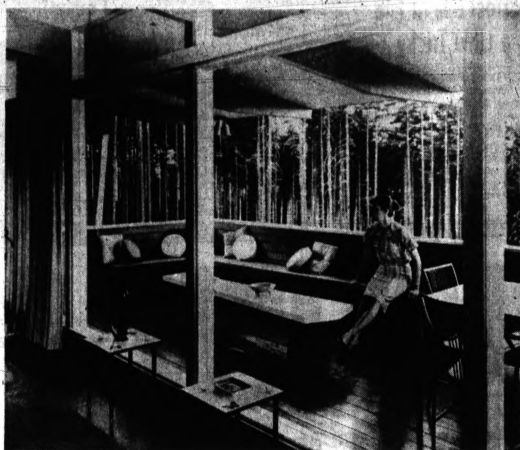

A fourth advantage is that a porch can be supremely decorative. It's easy to create form and shape with wood. Located outside a picture window, the porch itself can provide a view or outlook for the room on the other side.

Then, too, a wood porch reflects no sun glare, as does paving, and draperies on the connecting window can stand open all day. This is particularly true if the porch decking and balustrade are weathered or stained wood, rather than painted.

To pack as much livability onto the porch as possible, several design elements should be considered. The balustrade, for instance, can be so much more than just a deck rail. If built in a solid, hip-high style, perhaps of horizontal bevel siding to match the house, it will act as a windscreen.

One end of it can be designed as a banquet seat to provide permanent seating for a lounge spot. The seat and back of the balustrade-bench can be fitted with specially tailored cushions for added comfort, and you can also build in a permanent coffee table for increased convenience.

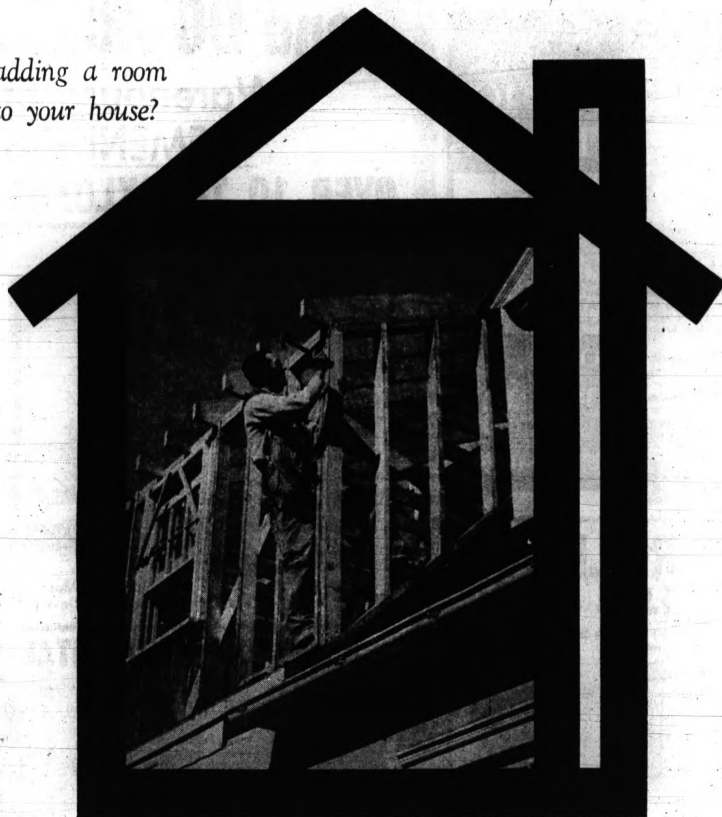

It's smart to construct the porch floor with a slight spacing between planking so that rain-

CERAMIC TILE — This was the Stanley T. Weber kitchen, 574 Argyle, Birmingham before it was done over. It's compact, has ceramic tile work space and plenty of cupboards (the doors had been taken off for refinishing). But there was no dishwasher and to install one meant a remodeling job. See the picture on below for the result.

NEW LOOK — This is the Stanley T. Weber kitchen after its face lifting. The left hand counter was narrowed and brought around the corner. Counter tops, cabinets and splashbacks are now Formica covered. A drop-in range replaces the free standing one in the "before" picture above. The desired dishwasher has been installed. Knotty pine upper cupboards were given a lighter finish. Charlotte Clark did the designing.

Italian Dukes Had Palace Cooled by Da Vinci

Leonardo Da Vinci, "the universal genius," was one of early inventors of an air-conditioning device.

His patron, the Duke of Milan, ordered him to cool off the palace. Leonardo as a result designed a 12-foot, two-ton water wheel which operated in the river flowing near the palace. As the current turned it, the wheel took cool air from-the rim and pushed it through ducts to rooms upstairs. The Duke was delighted.

For Picnic Use

Old pine saw-buck tables may be rejuvenated with a coat of shellac, and then waxed. If used in the yard, these may be protected against the elements when not in use with an old shower sheet or plastic cover anchored against the

Keep It Horizontal

You'll generally get better results when enameling furniture if you can work on a horizontal surface. Where the piece is small enough, keep turning it so that the side you work on is horizontal, waiting, of course, until the side on which it rests is dry. Where furniture cannot be turned, you can avoid runs and sags if you pick them up with a nifty dry brush, stroking back into the surface.

Be sure to wear rubber gloves and avoid contact with skin or eyes as caustic acid is poisonous. Leftover solution should be poured down a drain and all containers, cloths and brushes should be washed thoroughly or thrown away for safety's sake.

Sump Pump a Necessity Some Places

Seepage of water into basements has become increasingly prevalent in recent years as new home construction has extended into subdivisions which only recently were open fields or wooded areas.

Since this type of ground is usually heavily laden with moisture, many homeowners find themselves confronted with how to handle the problem of water which seeps in around the walls and basement floor.

The answer is a sump pump, which will also handle the equally serious difficulty often created by heavy rains or springing thaws. (If you are in one of these "danger areas," ask a qualified plumbing contractor about the advisability of installing an overhead loop in the sewer line to prevent water backing up).

The pump is also called a "cellar drainer." It operates automatically when the water in the sump (a drain reservoir) reaches a predetermined level, pumping the water into a sewer, back yard, alley or garden, whichever is desired.

Many sump pump dealers recommend that the water be discharged onto a filter of tile and loose stones buried in the back yard. It then gently seeps away into the garden or yard.

Stains on Redwood Can Be Removed

Dark streaks that occur on redwood furniture are caused probably by the combination of iron, wood and moisture, say California redwood experts. When wood is used where moisture is prevalent, aluminum, not dipped galvanized or stainless steel nails and fastenings should be used, they advise.

If nails were not counter-sunk when the furniture was put together, they should be. Apply a liberal application of a water repellent, allowing it to flow into the nail holes. After a week or so fill holes with a non-alkali-type filler.

The stains can be removed with oxalic acid solution (four ounces of acid dissolved in one gallon of water). Use a nonmetallic container and with a cloth or soft brush, apply solution to an entire board or an area at a time. When the wood dries, rinse with clear water.

Be sure to wear rubber gloves and avoid contact with skin or eyes as caustic acid is poisonous. Leftover solution should be poured down a drain and all containers, cloths and brushes should be washed thoroughly or thrown away for safety's sake.

UNUSUAL — Householders can get ideas from this novel use of clay flower pots as space divider in lobby of the new Parks and Recreation Department Building in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Create a Room Divider With Clay Flower Pots

AP Newswriters Looking for something new in the way of a room divider?

Why not try clay flower pots? The idea comes from Dell Doty, superintendent of Forestry, Parks and Playgrounds for the city of Colorado Springs, Colo. He's not just talking about it, either.

He has made this ingenious use of stacked red clay flower pots to build attractive space dividers for the lobby of the new Parks and Recreation Department Building in his city. And he thinks the same principle can be followed in making room dividers in the home.

The framework for the divider consists of one-inch hollow square steel tubing stock welded together to form a rectangle. The four dividers are 8 feet high and vary in width, depending on how many rows of flower pots are used. Six rows of 3-inch flower pots have been used in one divider. In another, 17 in another and 25 in the other.

Holes are drilled through the top and bottom parts of the frame. Steel rods run vertically through these holes.

The flower pots are stacked alternately upside down and rightside up, with the rods running through the drainage holes of the pots. A surprisingly interesting effect is thus created.

The holes in the bottom part of the frame are drilled only part way, so as to form sockets into which the steel rods fit snugly. The holes in the top part of the frame are drilled completely through. This enables the maker to maneuver the rods through the top holes for proper placement of the flower pots.

While the metal frames in Doty's dividers were welded together, you can use metal stock which takes bolts or some other building material. The frames should be secured to the ceiling and the floor, although this will not be necessary if the dividers are no more than 3 feet in height.

Many variations of design are possible, since clay pots are available in sizes of from one to 10 inches. You can also obtain colored, glazed or other types of pots, although the soft color of the natural clay pot is very attractive.

The Gulf of California, extending between the Mexican mainland and the peninsula of Baja California, has many sudden storms. One of the most feared is El Cordono, "The Lash," which brings hurricane-force winds and frequent bolts of lightning.

Plan Utility Room to Suit Family's Kind of Life

Sometimes overlooked in planning or improving a home is the utility room or area. But it shouldn't be, for just a few changes or modifications can mean greater convenience for every member of the family.

There are normally four pieces of equipment in the utility room: automatic clothes washer, dryer, water heater and household heating plant.

How to improve this arrangement? One easy way is with compartmentalized laundry tubs. An automatic washer by no means rules out the usefulness of laundry tubs. How else can the housewife conveniently soak heavily soiled clothes before washing? And where else, perhaps, can the home gardener and children get cleaned up without tramping through the house?

On the subject of compartmentalized tubs, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, it is wise to have a double faucet fitting on the tubs so the tubs may be used while the washer is operating.

One of the reasons for having laundry tubs applies also to a simple shower installation. What a convenience for home hobbyists and children dirty from playing in the yard of the utility room instead of tracking dirt through the house toward a regular bathroom.

Any reputable plumbing contractor will be glad to estimate the cost of the above improvements in your home, and help you plan how to get the most benefit out of the room.

Another utility room suggestion for modern living is to set aside a particular area near a floor drain for a drip-dry area. Summertime living need no longer include hanging your miracle fabrics to dry over a bathtub if you make this simple arrangement.

Venetian Blinds Aid to Dining

The separate dining room, a casualty of the days when housing space was at a premium, is making a comeback in many new homes offered for sale today.

Spurring interest in more spacious dining areas are apartment dwellers who have been restricted in their entertainment activities by the smaller confines of dinettes, reports Jessica Thomas, home furnishings specialist for the Flexaluminum division of Bridgeport Brass Company.

Whether you prefer dinner for two in a cozy nook or serving 20 guests in a spacious dining room, making the most of lighting possibilities can add enjoyment to meals, the Flexaluminum specialist points out. Venetian blinds should be custom fitted for maximum control of light and air. New aluminum venetian blind finishes, available in a wide choice of colors, are easier to maintain and stay new looking longer.

If possible, Miss Thomas says, windows in the dining room should be large enough to allow plenty of light to enter and permit a view of the outdoors.

At breakfast time, venetians should be tilted to admit morning sunlight.

For lunch or snack time, blinds should fend off glare while conveying interesting light patterns on walls and ceilings.

In the evening, venetians should be drawn tight for privacy and to permit full use of decorative artificial illumination.

Ready-Made Curtains Can Be Individual

New curtains should look new. The woman who has to watch her pennies and can't sew a straight seam may think she can't win this new curtain game. Some of her friends either can have their curtains custom-made or stitch up smart things themselves.

Ready-mades, used with imagination, can make her the winner. The living room picture window may require three pairs of pleated-at-the-top draperies. Suppose they are to be gold. Then buy three blending shades of gold, one pair of each.

Hang the two palest curtains in the center. Then comes the next deeper shade, one at either side of the center pale ones. The two outer panels will be the deepest color and the whole a delightful ombré striped effect. Contrasting colors could be combined for more striking striped effects.

Anyone who can thread a needle can sew braids or tasseled fringe to ready-mades, either across the bottom of each, at the top of the hem and then beneath the top heading or down each inside edge of a pair of curtains.

Rather than always having ready-mades hanging straight to the floor, catch them back at either side with unusual tiebacks. Ready-mades can look like custom-mades.

CAMPING TOP — Here is a sleeping compartment that fits on top of your car, station wagon or in the back of a pickup truck. When you travel it's only 8 inches high, making little wind resistance. It takes less than two minutes for one person to raise it for sleeping. The sides fold in like an accordion. Air mattresses or outdoor furniture pads make it comfortable. It's wind, rain, dust and bug proof.

Anyone can build this sleeping compartment when he uses the easy-to-follow pattern. The pattern lists the required materials (mostly plywood) and gives easy-to-understand directions and illustrations. To obtain the cartop sleeper pattern number 281 send $1.00 by currency, check or money order to Steve Ellington, Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 233, Van Nuys, Calif.

NEW FREEZER — This compact new upright model by General Electric has the famous straight-line design so that it fits flush at side and top. It is 12.2 cubic feet and will hold up to 47 pounds of food. Solid refrigerated adjustable shelves provide total contact with packages to assure quicker freezing. There are two stationary shelves on the door which provide storage space for cans of frozen juice or soups, as well as odd-shaped items. This space-saving upright freezer fits perfectly in the kitchen, either along the wall lining up with the other kitchen appliances or even in a corner since no door clearance is necessary.

This was one of the better homes inspected at the start of Urban Renewal, according to authorities. But Schaefer put in a completely new bathroom and painted the exterior of both house and garage. Updating Your Old Home Will Pay Off When Selling Selling a home, which a few years ago was considered a once-in-a-lifetime experience, has become a much more frequent occurrence for the average home-owning family.

Approximately 3 1/2 million "used" homes change owners each year, estimates Clarence Hausmann, a housing authority at Allied Chemical's Barrett Division.

Among the factors responsible for the high turnover rate, Hausmann says, are the desire of couples to "trade up" to larger homes as their children and families grow, the frequent transfer of employees to plants of offices in other states; and the growing interest on the part of older couples to move from houses that have become too big for them.

"It's a sound investment to update a home just before you plan to sell it," advises Hausmann, "and any remodeling or modernization will probably help fatten the price."

Among the projects which Hausmann recommends to help increase the resale value of a home are: 1. Modernizing the kitchen to include attractive, easy-to-reach wall cabinets; refrigerator-freezer, acoustical ceiling tile, wall oven, exhaust fan, etc.

2. Adding another bathroom if the house has only one. Most new homes today have 1 1/2 or more baths, a feature for which most prospective homebuyers look.

3. Finishing a basement or attic area to provide a recreation room. This is a relatively easy, relatively inexpensive do-it-yourself project that can be accomplished with gypsum wallboard and fiberboard ceiling tiles.

4. Reroofing with asphalt shingles that now are made in a wide variety of attractive colors. Light-colored or white shingles are most popular, and they do a better job of reflecting the sun's rays than do the darker shades.

5. Adding closet space where possible, such as underneath the basement stairs, behind the garage or in the basement.

Greater modernizing savings can be obtained, says Hausmann, by doing more than one improvement at a time, such as combining reroofing and siding jobs.

Central Cooling Recommended

Two prominent architects writing in a recent issue of a national homemakers' magazine, have stated flatly that unless you live in a region where it is never hot, central air-conditioning is the best bet for your home.

The authorities are Carl Koch of Cambridge, Mass., and Leonard C. Haeger, building consultant for House and Garden magazine, in which publication their views appeared.

In answer to the question "Should my house have central air-conditioning?" the two architects replied:

"Unless you live in a region where the summers are never hot, the answer is, 'yes.' No architect would advise against central heating, yet the numerous advantages of central air-conditioning have been slow to gain the universal acceptance they deserve.

"The latest air-conditioning systems are easily installed in new houses; that cost much less than they did only a few years ago; and they accomplish total conditioning of your indoor environment.

"In addition to cooling the air, today's systems control the humidity, filter dust and lint particles, remove odors and keep fresh air constantly circulating through the house the year around."

Little Details Help Improve Closets

Any large closet or one that doesn't get sufficient room light should be lighted electrically, advises the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information.

A switch in the door jamb, similar to that on a refrigerator, will turn the light on automatically when the door is opened. A 25-watt bulb is sufficient. It should be placed close to the ceiling, away from the contents of the closet, to avoid fire danger.

Flooring in a light color, such as a pastel shade of solid vinyl tile, will help children locate objects which have fallen to the floor.

For decorative unity between room and closet, use the same floor covering in both areas. This makes both room and closet appear more spacious.

Tempered Hardboard Is Really Sturdy

Hardboard panels are designated as "standard" or "tempered." Because of the many varieties of applications special processes have been developed to produce hardboard with special properties. By the addition of chemicals into standard hardboard and a heat-treating process, the product takes on added stiffness and hardness, better finishing properties, greater resistance to abrasion, and particularly to moisture. This is tempered hardboard.

Recent iron ore deposits in the U.S. are located in northeast Minnesota.

Automation Takes Over

If you are shopping for an electric post light to illuminate your yard and walk, you might want one with an electronic brain. Many of the large variety available are equipped with photoelectric cells that automatically turn the light on at dusk and off at sunrise.

Air Conditioning Makes Attic More Livable

An expandable attic often is the best spot to find more space for growing families, but attic space can have its drawbacks. Discomfort is one. Unfinished attics can be notoriously hot in summer, cold in winter.

But any attic can be made comfortable all year 'round with proper insulation and a room air conditioner. Mineral wool insulation, installed to meet the Quality Home Requirements of the National Mineral Wool Insulation Association, blocks the escape of heat in winter, helps keep it out in summer. Attic installation of mineral wool can be a money saving do-it-yourself project.

BEFORE—Shows just before remodeling started, old attic was useless. Now double-hung windows of ponderous pine replaced single sash for more natural light and good looks.

Today's room air conditioners are powerful enough to remove even the excessive heat that builds up in an attic, and may be installed. This includes its size, exposure of roof and outside walls, number of windows and direction they face and whether electric circuits are 115, 230 or 208 volts. With this information, a dealer can determine the cooling capacity needed in terms of BTU's per hour.

Of all Americans 65 or more years old, about 80 per cent have annual incomes of less than $2,000.

Quick Drying Varnish for Redwood, Pine

Your redwood or pine outdoor furniture now can keep its natural, woody look for many years.

This is due to a new polyurethane varnish that actually absorbs destructive ultraviolet sun rays and leaves a clear, protective coating that can take rough use, extreme weather, wind, salt water and active children.

The varnish can be brushed, sprayed or rolled on any surface and can be cleaned with soap and water. It also protects the finish of all of your outdoor metal furniture and equipment with a completely transparent film. If you're planning a patio party and your furniture needs touching up, Martin Senour's Astro-Var dries in less than an hour and the furniture can be freely used by your guests in less than two and a half hours.

Change Wall Color at Flip of a Switch

Technicians at the Western Pine Association laboratory in Portland, Ore., are looking into the possibility of convertible walls. These would be lapped wood paneling covered like shutters or venetian blinds. Light on one side and dark on the other. A flip of a switch would change the wall from light to dark or from a color suited to the daytime to one that would be more effective under artificial lighting. Already available are folding walls or partitions which slide across a room or runners. Under study are walls to make adjacent rooms larger or smaller at any desired time.

ELECTRIC HEAT

Sometimes home improvements change the heating requirements within a home. When they do, baseboard electric heating units—or one of the other types of electric heating units—can solve the problem simply. They can give you supplemental heat to ease the load on your present heating system, make cold areas warm, eliminate the drafts often found near large window areas.

Electric heating units can be built into any part of a house—or room—without taking away valuable living space. They're safe, simple and compact. Best of all, they put real comfort at your family's fingertips. Simply dial the thermostat and heating begins at once, right where it's wanted. It's so comfortable you'll hardly know it's winter.

These are benefits that mean something. Made possible only by electric heat, they more than make up for the increase in operating costs. Phone or visit your Detroit Edison office for more facts or mail the coupon.

Get all these benefits—whether you're buying, building or modernizing

CLEANLINESS... The cleanest heating method ever devised, electric heating means walls, draperies, carpets and furniture stay cleaner longer. With electric heat, there's no soot or other products of combustion circulating in the air.

CUSTOM COMFORT... Keep one room at 72, another at 65. The temperature can be up in one room, down or completely off in another.

EFFICIENCY... Electric heat lets you raise the temperature in one room without firing up the entire heating plant. And with electric heat, all of the heat created is usable heat—none is wasted up a flue.

REGULABILITY... Electric heat can replace regular baseboards—can be built into the walls or ceiling. Whether it's one room or the entire home, there is a system to give better heating—electrically.

CARES FOR ITSELF... Set a dial, then forget it. There are no moving parts at all in radiant systems. Forced air electric heating systems are long-lived, too; they use low-velocity fans. In either type, there's little to wear out, need adjustment or replacement.

SAFETY... No combustion process. No wires. Concentrations of superheated air are eliminated. Electric heating systems distribute heat safely, gently.

SMOOTH RATES... In addition to the money saved on cleaning and decorating, residential customers can now take advantage of a new, lower rate. Just 2¢ per kilowatt-hour when monthly electrical use is over 750 kilowatt-hours. Though other living costs have been rising steadily during the past several years, electricity remains one of your biggest bargains—now more than ever, with this new and lower rate step.

Look for this symbol when you buy. It assures you of safe, dependable installation. For complete information about electric heating, stop in at the Edison office near your home or send in coupon of right for free booklet about electric heating.

How the FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK SYSTEM

*helps us serve savers and borrowers
at all times*

Location of the eleven
Federal Home Loan Banks and districts served

This emblem displayed in offices and advertising of an association indicates membership of that institution in the FHLB System.

What is the Federal Home Loan Bank (FHLB) System?

It is a central reserve banking system, created by the U. S. Congress in 1932, to establish a reserve line of credit for savings and loan associations. It is similar in structure to the Federal Reserve System for commercial banks. There are eleven FHLB regional banks under the direction of a three-man FHLB Board in Washington, D.C., appointed by the President of the United States. It serves 4,795 associations, with combined assets of $82 billion, and has lent $17,455,000,000 to savings and loan associations—all of which has been repaid without loss.

How FHLB Membership Benefits You

1. MUST PASS RIGID EXAMINATION

In order to become a member, an association must pass a rigid examination made by the regional FHLB Bank to check compliance with the statute and FHLB regulations. An association must prove stability and soundness of operation, competence and integrity of management.

2. MUST MEET LIQUIDITY REQUIREMENT

To meet the cash needs of savers, the FHLB currently requires that a member association maintain, in cash and U.S. Government bonds, a minimum liquidity ratio of 7% to savings capital. First Federal Savings' current ratio is 12%.

Actually, First Federal Savings regularly holds cash and securities more than sufficient to cover six months' normal savings withdrawals. (This no commercial bank can ever do because a commercial bank normally pays out deposit withdrawals equal to its total deposits in about two weeks.)

3. MUST MEET STRICT FHLB RULES, REGULATIONS

Comprehensive annual examinations are made by qualified FHLB examiners. Associations are checked for: adequate reserve allocations; maintenance of required liquidity in cash and U. S. Government bonds; lending and investment practices authorized by the officers and directors during the year.

4. MEMBERSHIP REQUIRED FOR FSIC INSURANCE

To qualify for insurance of accounts by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, an association must maintain FHLB membership.

How Major Purposes of FHLB Benefit You, the Community

1. To meet sudden and unusually heavy withdrawal demands;
2. To meet seasonal requirements—to even out the irregular seasonal flow of savings and loan-lending;
3. To provide an additional source of long-term home financing funds;

—Member associations may borrow funds from their FHL Bank up to 50% of their savings capital. In the case of First Federal Savings, this "source of liquidity" amounts to $16,000,000.

These advantages are made on the security of mortgages pledged as well as on collateral consisting of U.S. Government obligations. Thus the savings and loan system has liquidity and flexibility which enable it to serve the needs of both the saver and home-buying family.

In view of these facts, no reasonable person can doubt First Federal Savings of Oakland's ability to honor withdrawal requests promptly in any amount. In fact, since founding in 1934, First Federal Savings of Oakland has paid every saver's withdrawal, regardless of amount, on request.

Your Neighbor's House

William J. Davids' Country Home a Welcoming Place

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Because the legs fell off the old couch, the William J. Davids started a whole facelifting project in their home on Lockhaven Road. About 8 years ago they bought the house before it was completed. Ever since then they have been finishing it and adding on. The all-purpose room is still being worked on.

David who teaches at Wayne State University enjoys working around the house and yard, but when asked how many acres he owns, his answer was, "Twelve and that's 11 too many!"

At one time the family had horses, 11 cats, a pig and 3 dogs. They thought the pig was the answer to meat for the winter, but no one could bear to eat the ham, bacon and pork chops that came back from the butcher.

Debbie and Diana are just a year apart in age — 11 and 10. David came along as a belated second family; he's 7½. The animals have been reduced to Tinker Bell, the cat; Delilah, a white poodle; and Gerrie, just dog.

We sat under a big canvas umbrella out on the lawn and talked for a time before entering the white cement block house with its aqua trim.

To go in the back door we passed through the breezeway where a little fountain plays merrily. Right inside the back door is the utility room and a little lavatory. The latter has wallpaper with bright yellow daisies on it.

The kitchen is large with ample work space and an adjoining dining area. Floor tile is black with inserts of rosettes. Three walls are green. The light fixture above the eating space is a wagon wheel.

Counter tops in the U-shaped work space are yellow. On the east wall there is country scene paper. Fringed valances hang under wooden curtains; the cornice over the range is awning shaped to hide the ventilating fan.

There's a small round glass top green metal table with ice cream chairs in the work area. Accessories are copper.

The dining table is a beautiful birch maple harvest table. Ladder back chairs have rank seats. Mrs. David collects pink and white transoms china and ruby glass ware. Both she displays on the table and in the hutch cabinet.

The TV room opens off the dining. Next to the wide doorway is a maple deacon's bench.

TV ROOM

Carpeting in the TV room is beige. Walls are sandalwood with a mural above the sofa. The window has shutters on it, rather than draperies.

Sofa and wing chair are slip-covered in gold and gold and white chintz. There are round bolsters on the sofa. A walnut organ stands against the wall. Across the room is the entrance to the all-purpose room.

There is a picture window at the front of the living room. The opposite wall has glass doors opening into the all-purpose room which has a picture window on its rear wall. These three glass areas are planned to line up so that you can look through to the outdoors in either direction.

Mrs. David is pleased with her new white Austrian shades on the front window and the doors. On either side of the living room windows there is a silk panel of blue, fuchsia and purple; a white tasseled cord crosses this panel from the shades.

Carpeting is beige with a textured pattern. Over it there are several pink rugs with blue and beige flowers.

The entire room and some of the furniture is painted white. Mrs. David used 11 gallons of white paint before she was through.

You see, when the legs fell off the couch, the Davids replaced it with a new sofa upholstered in a soft pastel blue and purple flowered material. This screamed at the dark walls. Painting them white was the only answer. Then came new upholstery.

It took courage to paint some of the furniture white; David wasn't sure he liked the hi-fi in its new dress.

At the end of the room nearest the kitchen is a handsome walnut credenza. The top is marble. Veneered panels are left in their original walnut with the rest painted white. The white baby grand piano has a mirror insert above the keys.

Below the front window is a round glass table with 3 crescent upholstered stools fitting underneath. The day we photographed the house there was an amethyst vase filled with lilacs on this table.

GLOWING COLORS

In front of the fireplace are two white chairs with fuchsia upholstery. On the hi-fi in the alcove next to the fireplace is a tall brass candelabrum with a fat twisted purple candle.

The Davids play chess and have a table with a chess board set up at all times. The two chairs used at this little round white table are still to be recovered. The seats will be purple velvet with backs striped like the curtains' side panels.

In the front hallway the floor is slate. Walls are white. There is a gold and white wall hanging suspended on brass poles. On each side is a white sconce with gold trim.

On the other wall is a brass hat rack with a mirror in the center. The antique walnut chair has amethyst upholstery. Behind the door is a tall walnut stand with a marble top.

Davy has the front corner bedroom. When we arrived, it was spick and span. By the time we left, Davy had dragged out all his beloved toys Mother had so carefully put in the corner toy cupboard. He has the usual things small boys have in a room—like a furry animal rug and a rocking horse. His furniture is white.

In the bathroom the floor is tiled in white. Walls and fixtures are blue. The shutters at the window are orchid with scalloped short white curtains above. Underneath is a metal bench painted orchid and violet with a white fringed pad on top.

When the all-purpose room was added, a third bedroom was put on too. This now is the master bedroom.

Paneled walls have an antiqued finish. The carpeting is gold. Around the window there is wallpaper — a floral stripe with green and orange predominating. Orange and white panels alternate as draperies.

The bed has sheer white spread and canopy. Throw pillows are orange and bright blue. A Victorian walnut chest serves as a dresser. The peach down puff is thrown over a deacon's bench near the door.

Debbie and Diana share a large room with turquoise walls and beige carpeting. All their furniture is painted antique white.

Each girl has a single canopy bed made by her Dad.

These have only short canopies. Spreads are pink quilted ones over candy striped skirts. Throw pillows are red and white.

The girls' doll collection is delightful, including as it does, bride dolls and a pair of old fashioned dolls.

Each girl has a desk with the chair upholstered in red velveteen. The same red velveteen covers the vanity bench.

The Davids enjoy working on and in their home. They like to build things and to paint and refinish. Now they're thinking of starting all over again and a lot they own at Orchard Lake. Maybe we can get pictures of that house some years hence.

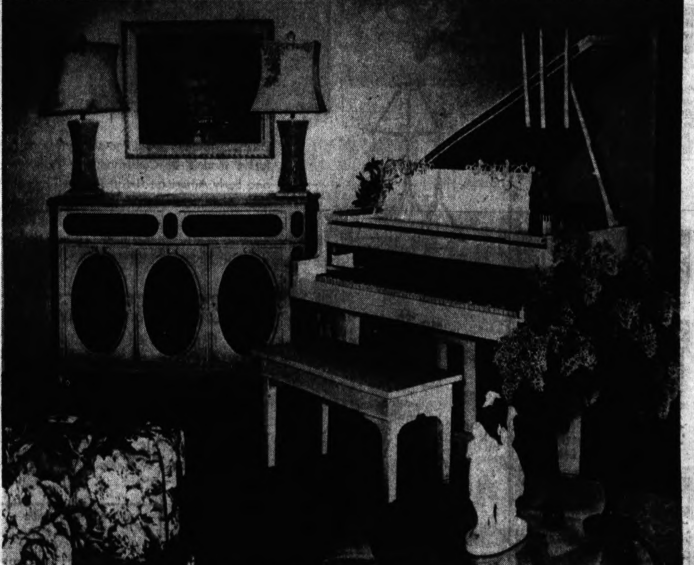

FEMININE RETREAT — Debbie and Diana share a girlish looking room. Walls are turquoise. Short canopies on their beds are white. The quilted spreads are pink over pink and white skirts. Jewel red velveteen covers a throw pillow on each bed and the desk chairs. Curtains are sheer white criss-cross ones.

COLORFUL GROUPING — When Mrs. David wielded the paint brush in the living room, she didn't stop until walls, ceiling and most of the furniture were covered. Then she introduced blues, lavenders and fuchsia in furniture and accessories. The chairs on either side of the fireplace are upholstered in fuchsia. Although the flowered design on the sofa stands out strongly in the picture, it is in reality a muted pastel print combining blue, lavender and gray. A brass lantern hangs on a swag chain over the hi-fi next to the fireplace.

THE HOUSE OF DAVID — Small David David trots after his two big sisters, Debbie (left) and Diana (right) as they set off down the lane to the road where they catch the school bus. In the background is their home, a comfortable sprawling white WHITE PIANO — There's a candelabrum but no Liberate. The David grand piano is painted white which makes it blend into the background of the room. A mirror has been inserted behind the keys. At the left is the handsome walnut credenza Mrs. David found in an antique shop. This she also painted white, leaving the veneer panels and the marble top in their original state.

QUESTION: I am making a table with a half-inch plywood top. The plans I have been following call for the use of plywood tape to cover the edges of the table top, as I do not like the way the edges of the plywood look.
My hardware dealer says he doesn't know what plywood tape is. Can you give me some help on this, telling me where I can purchase this tape?

ANSWER: The word tape in this connection is something of a misnomer, although it is often used. It is really a real wood veneer. It comes rolled up and usually is sold in small plastic containers. Nearly all lumber yards carry it.

Try using for rolled-up wood trim. You can get it in any one of several types of wood. Some persons try to match the plywood to which it is being attached. Others prefer a contrasting color.

Replace Aerator Use Light Touch

Most modern faucets on plumbing fixtures, particularly the kitchen sink, have an aerator attached to the end of the spout that gently "bubbles" the water to effect a softer flow.

Like all filters, the aerator becomes clogged after prolonged use and water may flow unevenly. When this happens, advises the Plumbing-Hotting-Cooling Information Bureau, it is usually a simple matter to unscrew the aerator and clean the strainer.

If the aerator is severely clogged or if the strainer wires are damaged, a replacement from a plumbing contractor is called for. Be sure to take the old aerator to the contractor so the threads can be matched.

If the old aerator is so tightly screwed on that a wrench must be used, a simple precaution can be taken to prevent the abrupt splash of the fitting. The Bureau suggests covering the teeth of the wrench with a cloth, or a cloth between the wrench and the fitting. At any rate, do not allow the bare wrench to come in contact with the fitting or face.

Another point to remember—whatever minor repair work you undertake, do not attempt to force anything that does not turn easily. If you don't know exactly what you are doing, a great deal of damage can result from a heavy twist of the wrench.

Tips on Storage in Free Booklet

Tips on painting are included in a color-illustrated booklet which also has information on remodeling and home improvement ideas. In fact this handy book is crammed full of suggestions for improving the storage in your garage, in the kitchen and other key working areas of the home.

Finding up a recreation room or den with Masonite Sadrift is one suggestion that's illustrated in color. One illustration shows teenagers enjoying a recreation spot with a soft drink bar that is frothed with this handsome embossed hardboard.

For a free copy of "Ideas on Storing," send a post card to the Home Service Bureau, 29 North Wacker Drive, Chicago 6, Ill., requesting Form 6134.

In 1960, pure vinyl accent areas were successfully combined with embossed linoleum marking one of the most significant styling achievements in linoleum since Frederick Walton, an Englishman, invented the material in 1863.

and grain. Wood trim is applied with ordinary wood glue. However, this means that clamps will have to be applied until the glue sets.
A simpler way is to use one of the varieties of contact cement. This is applied to both surfaces, which are joined together without the use of clamps. Since this cement grips immediately, it is necessary to be extra careful in positioning the wood trim against the edges and ends of the plywood.

The wood trim, or tape, can be cut with a scissors. After it has been applied, there may be a slight overhang at the top or bottom. It can be trimmed with a razor and then sanded down.

QUESTION: There are two coats of paint over the wallpaper in our bedroom. We want to remove the paper. We tried a steamer, but could not get the steam to penetrate the paper until we first used rough sandpaper on an electric buffer. We had rented the steamer and it took us six hours to do one side of the wall. Is there any easier way we can get off the wallpaper?

ANSWER: When wallpaper has been painted—especially with more than one coat—it is always a nuisance to remove the paper. There simply is no easy way of doing it. The paint creates a seal and, until you pierce the seal, there is just no way to attack the adhesive that holds the paper to the wall.

While a steamer often is recommended, some persons maintain that it is better to soak the paper again and again with cloth soaked with warm water or one of the commercial wallpaper removers.

When this has been done, the scraping, with a putty knife or similar tool, should not be delayed too long, otherwise the paper will dry and stiffen up again.

But it can't be done instantly, either, as some time must be allowed for the water to soak in. Generally, from three to five minutes is about right, but individual cases vary. This is something you'll have to judge yourself as you go along.

Since you are going to soak the paper and not just wet it, there'll be a lot of water dripping down the wall, so you'd better see that the floor is protected.

AN EYESORE—The neighbors were unhappy with this little old house on Parkhurst. It was shabby and run-down. Urban Renewal authorities acquired it. Then the John R. Lumber Company of Madison Heights stepped in and spent over $5000 on the house. See the "After" picture below.

MUST BE SEEN—If you compare this picture with the "Before" shot above you'll find it hard to believe both are the same house. The John R. Lumber Company of Madison Heights completely rebuilt the interior of this 3-room home. Inside it is clean and shining and safe. Outside, it is a credit to the neighborhood. About the only things left are the sturdy basement and the little side porch (even that was jacked up). The house is at 60 Parkhurst and is for sale.

Line Storage Areas With Red Cedar

Here's some practical advice for keeping "hand-me-downs." First, catalog and label the clothes. Next, store them somewhere safe from moths.

For instance, socks might be stored in a shoe box. Label each box with the size and type of garment in it: "Socks—winter—3 to 4 years."

Before you store the clothes, make sure they are clean and mended, ready for use in case there's a sudden change in the weather or they're needed for quick replacements.

The best storage place for the boxes, of course, is in a closet lined with red cedar. The aromatic red cedar repels moths and protects the clothes.

If you don't have a red cedar closet, a home handyman can install one over a weekend. All he needs is a hammer, saw and nails. The material is available at lumber dealers in convenient kits. Instructions are included.

Save Sight, Electricity by Adding Windows

Natural light is important for working, reading, and just plain morale. A homemaker who needs artificial light even on bright days is apt to weary of her work and suffer from sagging spirits.

This can be cured by adding windows to dark rooms—an easy job if stock windows of ponderous pine are used.

GE Introduces New Portable Disposal

CHICAGO—A new portable garbage disposer, the Model PD-30 Disposal, has been introduced by the General Electric Company's portable appliance department, according to Norman R. Landefeld, the department's marketing manager. Compactly designed and weighing only 12 pounds, the portable Disposal is operated by setting the base in the sink over or near the drain, scraping in the top in the motor is located, plugging the unit into a wall outlet, and turning on the cold water so that it runs into the food waste container. The motor unit feeds securely into place when it is twisted into the base section. The motor itself is sealed to prevent the entry of water and never needs lubricating.

The Disposal will accommodate average dinner scraps for a family of four in each operation. Scraps are spun against stainless steel shrouds by a stainless steel flywheel and are ground up into small particles which are flushed away to sewer or septic tank. The flywheel and shrouds are never soiled, depending on the food waste and the disposal can be used including rented houses, apartments and mobile homes.

Cast-Iron Figures Back in Style

You'll add charm to your home—and have ready-made conversation pieces when entertaining—by using brightly-colored cast iron figures as doorknobs, bookends, or just decorative items on patio, porch, or recreation room.

Such figures are available in a variety of ideas—soldiers, replicas of famous personages, different types of animals. In fact, collecting cast iron figures for use throughout the home has become a hobby with some people. If you want to go into it in a bigger and more expensive way, you might even consider searching out some of the cast iron hitching posts of horse-and-buggy days as yard decorations. A unique styling in such posts is a cast iron jockey which makes a highly-interesting entryway decor.

Vacuum Does Job for Man of House

Household appliances needn't be the private property of the lady of your house. And you shouldn't feel you've got to do a dust-cup and pitch in with the house-cleaning just because you get the vacuum cleaner out. There are plenty of areas... in a man's domain... where a vacuum cleaner can be put to a rapid cleanup use, according to the Eureka Home Care Institute.

When you're getting ready to put your window screens away this fall—as well as getting them out in the spring—an encounter with the vacuum cleaner during attachment will help get rid of loose particles of dirt and lengthen the life of your screens.

And a good vacuum-dusting of the garage and basement areas is in order about once over three months—especially for the areas where all that loose dust accumulates.

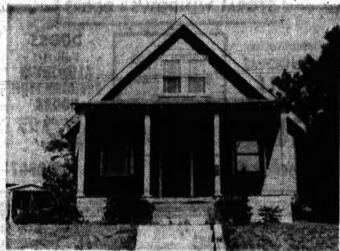

What about the saw dust, shavings and debris piled in small heaps in 9 out of 10 do-it-yourselfer's workshop areas? Use your vacuum cleaner to keep work bench and floor area clear and workable.

FACE-LIFTING — The Arthur Newbys, 27 Wall Street, have a home that needed only minor improvements to bring it up to standard in the local Rehabilitation project. At the left is the house in the fall of 1960. At the right is the house today. With an ad in the Pontiac Press, the Newbys found 3 men just but of service who did an "excellent" job of tearing off the old porch and rebuilding it. New steps, new paint and new railings made it look better. Furthermore, it's more usable now. Mrs. Newby is now doing interior painting to spruce up the rooms.

Waterproof Walls With New Primer

MIGHTY-MIX, a new waterproofing primer which permanently stops the age-old problem of water seepage in basements (and fallout shelters) has been introduced by Valpar Corporation, and the Valpar Group of Companies, Rockote Paints, Paints and Janney Best Paints, Rockford, Ill.

This unique bonding primer is merely mixing water and painted on the poured or block concrete walls which need protection. Twenty-four hours after the primer has been applied the surface is then recoated with an approved latex paint of any color. The end product is a guaranteed waterproof, crystal-hard surface.

The new bonding primer works equally well on painted or unpainted surfaces. The primer bonds securely to the surface on which it is applied whether poured concrete, concrete block, brick or stone, stucco or plaster finishes.

Only preparation required is brushing loose material from the surface. No need to wet down the walls or any other special preparation requirements, as long as the surface of previous coating is firm.

The new primer, used in conjunction with approved latex finishes, fuses permanently with the old surface. It eliminates pressure seepage and leaks, won't powder or oxidize, surface hardens sandy face.

Quarry Tile Underneath

If you yearn for a pool table in your basement, it's a good idea first to check your flooring. To provide proper enjoyment, a pool table must stay absolutely level. A bright, easy-to-clean floor also will add to enjoyment of your recreation area. Such a floor can be constructed of quarry tile. In addition to all the qualities listed, it is slip-resistant, a definite boon to the observance of the one-foot-on-the-floor rule.

New Ceiling Tile Colonial Looking

The first acoustical ceiling tile especially designed to complement Early American furnishings is one of the three new patterns introduced by Allied Chemical's Barrett Division.

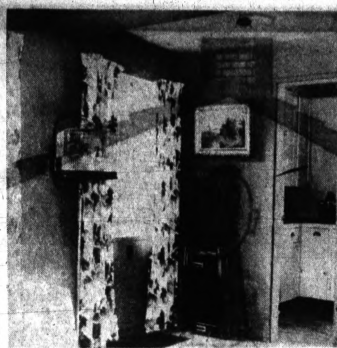

All three new patterns feature pastel-colored designs that have the appearance of being hand-painted, according to William D. Herbert, Barrett authority for fiberboard products, Henry A. Sheehan, A.I.D., designed the patterns.

"Decorative ceiling designs were popular among the early colonists who favored painted and paneled ceilings," Herbert explains, "and it seems appropriately modern that the values of an acoustical ceiling blend with the decor that has recently become so popular."

Provincial is the pattern name of the acoustical fiberboard tile that is imprinted with a pastel blue-green, petal-shaped design that fits with Early American furnishings.

Woven Grass tile is imprinted with a purposely imperfect lattice-type design that softens its linear effects and produces a third-dimensional appearance. Its colors are pale green and yellow. Woven Grass is also acoustical.

Surfaces of some vinyl sheet floors and linoleum are embossed slightly to heighten the three-dimensional feeling.

NEW OUTLOOK — There are still 3 children at home in the Winterberry Drive home of the Kenneth Sandersons. The family now eats in a spacious bay-windowed dining room, and Mrs. Sanderson cooks in an attractive and convenient kitchen. Between the door and the range a small table pulls out from under the counter to become a movable work table. Both charm and usefulness have been added to the house.

Furnace Ducts Can Serve in Cooling System

Your present furnace, or the one you'll be installing in that new home, is the best start to your round air-conditioning you can have, according to the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute. Usually "split system" air-conditioning can utilize the same ducts used by the furnace, as well as the furnace blower fan. It is pointed out.

The result: you may save as much as half the cost of an original installation.

The time to plan for that future "add on" air-conditioning system is right now, A.R.I. officials explain. They urge home buyers to check with their local air-conditioning dealers to make sure that warm air ducts in the house they're building or buying are large enough to handle air-conditioning later.

Start with a good furnace, they advise, with a well-planned duct system. With these as a beginning, you're half way toward year-round air-conditioning.

New Home Buyers Should Check All Parts of House

Spring is the big season for buying a house. On balmy weekends many apartment dwellers head for the suburbs or country, real estate section in hand, to hunt for the first home of their own. The average family will spend about three months looking and wind up paying a price that equals two-and-a-half times its annual income, come.

A house is probably the largest investment that most families ever make. That's why it is so important to choose it carefully and protect it wisely. Besides the neighborhood, site and land area, what are some of the things to look for in buying a house? Here's a checklist from Jean Kinkead, women's consultant to The Travelers Insurance Companies:

Be sure the roof is sound. Find out what it's made of. If it's shingled and over 20 years old, you may have to replace it... a major expense.

With an eye to possible repair work, go over the outside covering, the siding. Check for solid, light window sills outside and inside. Open and close windows.

In the attic check rafters for dry-rot and examine insulation.

Check all stairs and floors for sturdiness... and don't forget you need lots of closets.

Particularly important in an older house is plumbing. Check it by opening faucets to test water pressure. Ideally, the pipes should be copper.

The electrical system is vital. Be sure it's adequate for modern usage with sufficient outlets and safe wiring.

In the cellar, check walls for dryness. Look at the foundation... and examine the ceiling posts and crossbeams for hardness. If the wood crumbles, suspect termites.

Look at the heating system and pipe insulation, and ask what the owner pays annually for fuel.

Install Faucet High

When having an outside faucet installed outside your house, see that it is placed high enough so that a pail can be placed under it. Do this even if you think you will never use the faucet for anything except a hose connection.

Protect Your Youngsters From Heater Burns

ATLANTA (UPI) — Gratings of gas room heaters set flush at floor level are dangerous to young children, Dr. Julian A. Waller reports. The children get burned and otherwise injured, falling on the grate.

The Public Health Service consultant suggests constructing a brick wall or other structure around the outlet when the heater is out of the direct line of traffic.

Venetian Blinds Set the Stage

If you're about to furnish a home or apartment for the first time and venetian blinds are on your purchase list, here's some expert advice to help you get the most value for your venetian blind dollar.

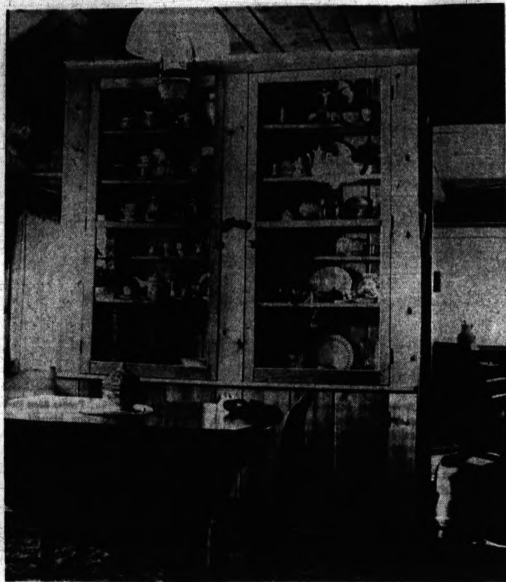

Eleanor Kandel, a venetian blind specialist for the Plexalum division of Bridgeport Brass Company, passes along some tips to consider before shopping for furnishings.

1. Venetians are probably the least costly furnishing you will buy, so weigh the advantages of custom aluminum blinds that fit and look better, give you more privacy, are easier to clean and offer a much wider choice of decorator colors.

2. Select a venetian style that goes best with your furnishings and room decor. In modern rooms, for example, the broad horizontal lines of the Jouvets and the vertical tapes carry out that lean, crisp, look. If lots of color is what you're after, choose one of the over 20 or so different venetian color styles and patterns available today.

3. You can use venetian blinds to help solve a vexing decorating problem. For example, if you need an impressive background as a setting for an important furniture grouping, look into solid color blinds. If you have a parlor room, white wall-to-wall venetians in combination with drapes can create an illusion of more spaciousness.

It's not how much you spend on furniture, but the setting you put it in that makes the difference. Mrs. Kandel says. Adroit use of venetians, wall and floor coverings can transform an ordinary room into something special.

NEW AND OLD — Mrs. George Krohn, 112 N. Washington Street, Oxford, has a beautiful new pine china cupboard in her dining room. She uses this built-in cabinet to house her antique dishes. Her husband who spends most of his time in his basement workshop restoring antiques constructed the cupboard.

Hardwood Floors

If you are planning to spend this weekend on an inspection tour of new homes, look at the floors first.

If the new homes have hardwood floors, please notice the glowing and inviting atmosphere they create. You will immediately appreciate the friendly warmth of the beautifully grained wood. And, the hardwood floor will make the home more valuable than the cost of the material and installation — a fact you will quickly discover, if you ever decide to sell.

Plank-and-Beam Traditional, but New

The system known today as wood plank-and-beam construction has become one of our most glamorous forms of contemporary home design. No modern method of home building is more trim or streamlined—or more carefully engineered. But with all this, the system remains a direct descendant of ancient trim and factory design.

The chief blessing of plank-and-beam, beyond beauty, is extraordinary simplicity of form. The structure of the house involves little more than vertically placed wood posts and horizontal ceiling beams crowned by a canopy of two inch thick lumber called "roof decking."

The system affords an ideal medium for joint realization of the high strength and golden beauty of Southern Pine lumber. The great self-sufficiency of the roof simplifies interior partitioning, opens up the plan. It also permits large window areas to effectively integrate the landscape with the interior view.

Kitchen Ventilation

Tests by Texas A. & M. College indicate that as much as 200 pounds of grease-laden air are given off annually in the average kitchen. A range hood fan quickly expels droplets of grease, carried by steam, before they settle on walls and ceilings. A hood with an exhaust fan should cover the entire range and be not more than 30 inches from range burner level to the bottom of the hood.

Don't Need Grade A

Are you planning to paint a room? Are you going to paint the siding? If so, you'll save money by buying Grade D vertical grain or flat grain Douglas fir.

SMALL, BUT—The Peter Aldos, 1041 Voorhes Road, have a small kitchen. When they remodeled it recently, they added a couple of features you might like to copy. Above the sink Mrs. Ald placed a mirror so that she could have a glimpse of the out-of-doors while washing dishes. At the right is her little wall clock. The front opens up to become the writing surface. It is handy to the telephone.

Wood Kitchens Appeal to Her

What's the most popular room in the home? Builders of America's custom homes say it is the kitchen by long odds.

Smart builders across the country put little extra features in the kitchen which are sure to attract the attention of the woman buyer.

One feature which delights the homemaker's heart, says a Portland builder, is an all-wood kitchen. "You should hear them exclaim," he says, "when they walk into one of these charmers."

"There is warmth and friendliness in wood," he points out, "and we make the most of it. We try to select light-colored woods such as white oak, hemlock or Douglas fir, and then we finish the wood with clear plastics to get the full impact of their natural golden coloring and their incomparable texture and grain."

"These two woods," the builder pointed out, "we call the glamour woods because they have so much elegance and charm, and yet they are relatively inexpensive."

"Next to wood cabinets and wall paneling," the builder said, "we try for something unusual in storage ideas. This always appeals to women, something a little different in storage which puts most items closest to her when she needs them."

"I have seen," the builder stated, "women almost bypass the rest of the house because they have become so intrigued with a good wood kitchen."

191 CHANDLER — This house owned by the Leon Putmans, was originally slated for acquisition in urban renewal, but plans were changed. After removing 3 huge trees that shaded the house too much, the Putmans repainted and started interior improvements. Putnam, partially disabled by a stroke 4 years ago, is doing all the remodeling himself. Already there is a new gas furnace, a completely new tiled bathroom and new paneling in the den. Kitchen remodeling comes next. When the Putmans bought this house 25 years ago, it was already old. They remodeled it then.

Must Fill Some Woods

Certain woods used for furniture and flooring have large visible pores and are generally filled so that the final finish will be level and smooth. The most frequently used open-grain woods are oak, mahogany and walnut, but there are others, too: ash, chestnut, elm, hickory, rosewood, butternut and locust. The filler is applied after the wood is stained and sanded. The filler comes in a variety of wood colors or the natural filler can be colored to match the stained wood.

Rotovynyl Floor Covering Attractive, Inexpensive

Today it is possible to find some of the most attractive styles in floor coverings at a price that shouldn't upset even the tightest budget. Rotovynyl vinyl floor coverings — or rotovynyls, as they are called — offer an almost unlimited range of colors and designs and cost only about $25 for a 10'x15' room.

With warmer weather making an appearance, housewives and husbands are turning their attention toward fixing up their homes.

Rotovynyls offer the homemaker an ideal way to brighten up a room with a temporary floor covering with a minimum of expense.

The rotovynyls made their debut on the floor covering stage only recently. Already one type of rotovynyl material, called Accolene, is available in floral effects, geometrics, carpet-like designs, representations of natural stone and pebbles and some designs too intricate to describe.

Rotovynyls are intended as coverings for floors, not as permanent floors themselves. They do not compare in durability with true resilient flooring. They will, however, give several years of satisfactory service if taken care of properly. They are priced well below linoleum, vinyl sheet flooring materials, vinyl tiles and the other resilient

Basement Lures Heat Evaders

With warm weather approaching, your basement will probably be the coolest place in the house because it is insulated from the hot sun by the entire structure above. This area can easily be converted into a play room that will afford many hours of fun and relaxation for all members of the family.

The biggest basement problem is the congestion caused by posts placed at intervals across the basement to support the weight of the house. These often can be replaced by one steel girder which requires no center supports and will yield wide-open recreation space.

Next the interior walls should be painted with a water-proofing compound. These are available in many different colors and provide a colorful and cheerful appearance at low cost.

CONSIDER FLOORING

The next thing to consider is the floor. It's the most used part of the basement and it's best to use a flooring material that can be installed over concrete, such as asphalt or vinyl asbestos tile. This comes in a wide variety of colors and styles.

With a little imagination, the tile floor can serve a double purpose. Patterns for checker boards, tic-tac-toe games, shuffle board or hopscotch can easily be created in the floor and will provide fun and recreation for all members of the family. Checkers or markers can easily be fashioned from wood.

Window treatment can be simple in the basement. Best bet may be plastic or fiberglass curtains which would not require frequent cleaning. Existing bare-bulb lighting fixtures can be covered with clamp-on shades.

Hardboard Is a Boon to Garage Planners

A well-planned garage — both inside and out — can contribute its share to the better living that comes with owning a new home. Styling advances in recent years have produced dramatic architectural construction in making the garage enhance the overall appearance of contemporary homes.

One important factor in the beautification of garages has been the changing designs in garage doors that conform to the style of the entire structure. Sectional, panel-type doors also make practical any styling innovations through the use of a variety of carved or applied decorative elements.

More and more garage door manufacturers, architects and builders are selecting tempered hardboard panels as the ideal material as a component part in the construction of garage doors. They do so because hardboard will not split, splinter, check, crack or delaminate.

Hardboard resists weathering

The tough surface will resist scuffing.

Other panels available in the familiar dark brown coloration can be painted to color-code work tools and garden equipment which are painted in corresponding colors.

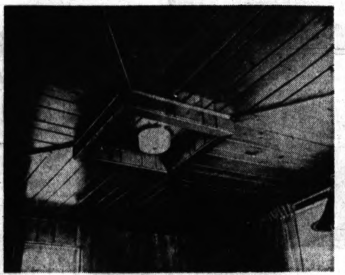

Foster With Roller

Since painting with a roller is faster than with a brush, why not reduce your kneeling or crouching time to a minimum by using a roller when enameling baseboards? Generally the top and bottom molding are first painted with a small brush, protecting wall and floor with a metal guard or shirt cardboard. Then do the rest of the baseboard with the narrow roller.

Moth Repelling Cedar a Southern Wood

Aromatic red cedar, which is widely used for lining closets, is a distinctive Southern wood.

The warmth and beauty of the rose and white wood, and its unique fragrance that repels moths, are important features. In addition, red cedar requires no special treatment to prolong its life or moth-repelling.

MITERED CEILING — Ceilings in the living room and dining room of the George Kröhn home in Odont are mitered. Kröhn, who is retired, delights in doing meticulous work of this sort. He spent many hours fixing up the family home with new interior walls and ceilings.

Add to Original Plans Pay Lower Costs

The biggest bargain in a development's model home that strikes your fancy is likely to be something that you can't even see.

It's the extra living space the builder may add to the plans, to provide a home that is roomier than the model.

William Herbert, a building authority for Allied Chemical's Barrett Division, estimates it costs only half as much per square foot to add space to a house, provided the change in plans is made in advance of the actual construction.

He reasons that land, on-site improvements, builder's expenses and basic heating and plumbing equipment account for about half of a house's cost. In a 1,000-square-foot house selling for $12,000 (or $12 per square foot), the structure itself costs only about $6 per square foot.

So, with labor and materials already on the scene, an additional bedroom, family room or a larger dining room or kitchen may be built for what amounts to half price.

COSTS VARY
Although building costs vary from $10 to $20 per square foot, depending upon location and the section of the country, the proportions remain substantially the same, says Herbert.

"Many development builders will agree to additions provided they can be incorporated into the basic design," he explains. "Such changes are relatively simple in most ranch homes offered for sale today."

In split-level homes, where additions may be more difficult, Herbert recommends finishing house.

ment recreation areas with fire-retarding gypsum wallboard and fiberboard ceiling tiles. A recreation room in the basement will cost much less when built with the rest of the house.

"In two-story houses with expansive attics, it will pay to finish out the attic immediately for greater savings and more enjoyable living."

Why should the prospective buyer want to make his home bigger right away? Herbert offers four sound reasons.

1. The experience of other homeowners who have found they bought a smaller house than they actually needed. More privacy, more storage space, more room for entertaining, recreation or study become necessary as the family grows.

2. The savings in cost over calling in a contractor after a few months or a few years to make additions or alterations.

3. The increased value that is immediately built into the home.

4. The opportunity for individuality in a development where one home often looks much like every other one.

Herbert estimates that for mortgage payments of about $70 a year more, a new homeowner might add a 12-by-12 bedroom with walk-in closet space, or build an enclosed porch or recreation room. Other possibilities are for converting a combination kitchen-dining area into a larger kitchen or a separate dining room, or construction of a garage or a home workshop.

Railroad grade crossing accidents occur most frequently on Sunday.

Portable Tubs Are Useful All Around

Families with little or no organized space for a laundry center can take advantage of portable laundry tub sets. These roomy units can be moved into position on wash day, and then rolled back into a storage spot when not in use.

The laundry tub sets are made of durable galvanized steel and are mounted on stands equipped with casters. They are available in single and double tub sizes and the tubs have convenient drain outlets.

Many home handymen also keep one of the laundry tub sets in the garage. It comes in handy when washing the car or preparing the screens for summer time use.

Many families have found that laundry tub sets, also come in handy at summer cottages where appliances are not available. They are particularly useful for a large family because bathing suits can be washed and rinsed quickly in the tubs.

To prevent your garbage can from blowing over during a wind storm, set it inside an old automobile and mobile tire.

OLD STYLE — The John A. Mitchells, 5420 Longmeadow, Birmingham, bought an old house for its roominess. But the 40-year-old kitchen was too small and the wood cabinets hard to keep clean. See below for what happened.

make a cake and Mrs. Mitchell need to look up a recipe, the kitchen was crowded. The sink was too small and the wood cabinets hard to keep clean. See below for what happened.

FATHER DID IT — From Father's Day, 1961 to Christmas, John A. Mitchell of Birmingham worked on remodeling the kitchen. Enlarging it by 9 feet, he bricked in the wall above the range and barbecue, installed Formica cabinets, built in ovens and refrigerators, added a bench for the harvest table, laid a new floor — and acquired "quite an education." Vicki and Stuart have plenty of room for kitchen chores now. They also help their dad count the 2,865 nails in, just one layer of the roof. Charlotte Clarke helped the Mitchells plan their new kitchen.

Visualizer Kit Helps Plan Room's Every Detail

A new, do-it-yourself room-plan operation of each is described in this kit to help families bent on detail.

Ways to use panel and lower doors to the greatest decorative advantage inside and out are suggested. Fireplace mantels, complete entranceways, corner china cabinets — all available in stock from building materials dealers — are shown, and their decorative and practical uses explained.

Furniture cutouts included are of practically every piece used in living rooms, dining rooms, and bedrooms. Cutouts for kitchens include typical furniture and all appliances, as well as counter and cabinet areas, all scaled to size.

The kit also features large photographs of rooms in which stock woodwork units have been used decoratively and practically. Such things as windows, doors, fireplace mantels, and walls are prohibitively expensive to chance once they're in place. That's one reason the new "visualizer kit" can be an invaluable aid in room planning. The kit can be obtained by sending 25 cents to the Ponderosa Pine Association, 39 So. La Salle Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Flooding Is Eliminated by Metal Hatchway

The problem of flooding of the steps leading from the basement to the yard, and possible flooding of your basement as well, can be permanently avoided by covering the steps with an all-metal prefabricated hatchway available at your building supply dealer's.

This unit is completely weather-tight when it is installed properly. When it is caulked at all joints it prevents the entry of rain and snow onto your steps. It prevents ice from forming on the steps in winter.

PROBLEM SOLVER — This attractive home provides the answer to those who require expansion room but like the new and economical bi-level construction. A high pitched garage

Extra Bedrooms Planned in Bonus Attic Space

By JULES LOH

Bi-level construction, architect's latest advance in home design, appears finally to have come of age in this attractive model. It was picked as today's House of the Week because it solves, better than any plan we've seen so far, the two most vexing problems associated with the new design technique:

1. How to make the foyer serve its proper function instead of becoming a no-man's-land between the two levels.

2. How to provide for family expansion other than on the lower level, which rightly should handle only recreation and service facilities.

This architect Samuel Paul has produced a house with bi-level advantages — the main one being a greater ratio of livable space to overall volume — without sacrificing any of the conveniences of more standard construction. It is design J-25 in the series.

BASIC HOUSE

The basic house consists of a well ordered two-bedroom ranch plan on the raised first floor, an area of less than 1,100 square feet. Beneath, in what customarily would be the basement, are four additional rooms made entirely livable by virtue of being raised out of the ground.

One of the rooms is a dra-

New Interest in Wood Floors

CHICAGO (UPI) — Hardwood floors are showing again, because of a trend to area rugs.

Sprinkling the trend is the open plan of many contemporary homes, leading to the use of area rugs to divide otherwise one-room living areas into dining rooms, music corners, etc.

With so much floor bared, interest runs high in high-styled hardwood flooring. Hardwood floor manufacturers report that plank style flooring, in particular, is fast gaining in popularity. The wide planks apparently strike an appropriate note of informality in both colonial and contemporary ranch homes.

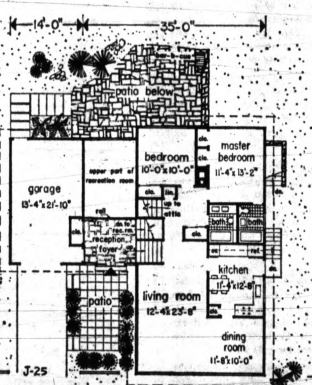

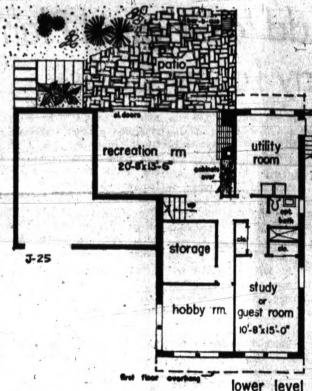

Available in widths from three to nine inches, the hardwood planks generally are laid in random widths. Thus, a typical plank floor may be composed of pieces three, five and seven inches wide, placed alternately.

Superceding the conventional parquet hardwood is unit-block flooring. More formal in character than either strip or plank flooring, it is produced in squares and rectangles of several dimensions. A popular choice is the 36x36 inch square. The blocks can be laid in countless eye-catching patterns.

Most extensively used is oak. Hard maple, beech, birch and pecan are becoming increasingly popular, however. More costly, but striking when used for flooring, are walnut, cherry, ash, hickory and teak.

Birch for Floors Too

Northern hard birch flooring has a beauty. The heartwood is close to dark brown, tinged with red. The sapwood has a soft yellow tone. This combination of color is reflected, vividly in the flooring, giving it a rich satiny sheen possessed by few woods. The ideal combination in your kitchen, is to choose birch floors, cabinets and counter tops.

FLOOR PLANS — Total area of enclosing shell of this house is 1,649 square feet which includes 307 square foot garage. Overall dimensions are 49' by 44'9", which means it would fit nicely on a 60' by 100' lot. Two-bedroom attic expansion is optional feature.

A vanity stretching from wall to wall. Downstairs, the recreation room is the obvious eye-catcher with its large stone fireplace and sliding glass doors leading to the rear patio. The room can be seen from the foyer over a balcony railing which adds its own touch of glamour. The view from the foyer, in fact, extends right on out to the patio.

A large utility room adjoins the recreation room and has its own outside entrance. There are five outside entrances to this house, which makes for uncommonly good traffic flow and convenience.

Enclosing shell of entire house, including garage, contains 1,649 square feet. Main level 1,098 square feet; foyer 101 square feet; garage 307 square feet; lower level 1,137 square feet; attic expansion 377 square feet.

J-25 Statistics

A bi-level plan with living room, dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms and two baths on main floor; recreation room, hobby room, guest bedroom and optional third bath on lower level. Has attached garage and attic expansion enabling two additional bedrooms.

Outdoor Electrical Work Takes Know-How to Do

With the addition of electrical outlets, living outdoors can be as convenient as living indoors.

The simplest form of outdoor connection is made by an extension cord from indoors. This is temporary, often inconvenient and sometimes dangerous.

The simplest form of permanent outdoor connection can be had by simply fishing wires through the wall from indoors and mounting a receptacle on an outside wall.

Cut a hole in an outside wall to fit an outlet box. Run wires through from an inside outlet as the fuse box. Be certain to remove the fuse for this circuit before working.

Hook up box and receptacle as you would for an indoor connection, except that you must provide a waterproof rubber lined cover plate. Screw-on caps offer convenience and safety.

Do not attempt to double back through the same conduit. Do not make splices below ground.

SURFACE BOX

If you do not wish to cut a hole, or if the outside wall is too difficult to cut through, install a surface mounted box. In this case the entire box must be waterproof.

The disadvantage of the house wall outlet is its limited use. At any distance from the house you are again forced to use extension cords.

Underground wiring is preferable. With the development of new types of wire that do not need enclosures, this becomes simpler than ever. Before, all wires placed underground had to be lead-free braid to turn off all power outside sheathed or run through conduit.

The fixtures can be free-standing anywhere in yard (if so, schedule the conduit with concrete where it comes out of the ground), or can be fastened to the side of another building as the garage or be mounted on a pole.

The safest thing to do when planning outside wiring is to plan on a separately fused circuit. If you are not sure of yourself, an electrician will assist you.

Fireproof Basement for Family Safety

A large percentage of home fires start in the basement over the heating plant or fuel storage areas. Many of these resulting fires can be avoided or lessened because a basement can be effectively fire-protected, at a minimal cost, by a plaster and metal lath panel over the heating plant.

Many cities have ordinances requiring this type of protection, but prospective home buyers should check carefully and insist on basement fireproofing. The stairwell leading to the basement should also have the same protection.

Cost of putting in a protective panel is comparatively small if the job is done at the time of initial construction. If safety is the only object, full 5" of plaster applied in two coats over metal lath is sufficient to give protection. However, if appearance is important, a third or finish coat should be applied.

Storage in the Round

For convenient under-the-sink products storage, cover a lazy Susan with washable adhesive plastic paper. Then place supplies on its shelves. A touch of the finger, and the revolving shelf brings a needed item to hand without the usual search.

STATE HOMES — This home called the Town House, is one of 11 models offered by Dorothy Snyder Lavender, local realtor, built by the Michigan Lumber Company of Detroit, and on view at 701 East Highland Road (that's M-39 near Lakewood Village), the 3-bedroom house sells for $9,800 on your lot. Features include aluminum siding, forced warm-air heating, rough plumbing, finished walls and ceiling and an optional garage. Owners finish the bathroom, install kitchen cupboards and do the interior decorating. The Town House has a farm size kitchen, large living room and utility room in addition to the bedrooms. Open daily.

Cement Plays Part at Poolside

Like widening ripples this swimming pool curves out from the adjoining house, making a distinctive pattern for the whole outdoor area.

A shallow section for wading is separated from the section for swimming by an arc of concrete, making it easy for small children to enjoy a dip in greater security.

A curved platform for dining and relaxing fills the space between pool and house, providing additional facilities for poolside lounging. The concrete used for dining area and border around the pool was integrally colored to harmonize with lawn and flower beds.

A swimming pool with attractive surroundings in which to relax something the whole family can enjoy, and offers a pleasant and easy way to entertain friends. Summer heat, vacation boredom, and holiday traffic are no problem when there is a pool right outside the door. It is not surprising that the number of private pools is growing rapidly.

For an attractive booklet on swimming pools and poolside facilities, you may want to write to the Portland Cement Association, 33 West Grand Avenue, Chicago 10.

CURVED POOL — A growing number of people are increasing their enjoyment of summer leisure with a home swimming pool. The attractive pool shown was designed in concrete, which can be used for many different shapes and styles. When combined with comfortable facilities for eating and sun-bathing, a pool makes home just about the most attractive place to be in hot weather.

New Gadget Can Check Thickness of House Paint

NEW YORK (UPI) — To protect buyers of FHA-insured homes from skimping or too-thin paint jobs, the agency has developed a gadget to test the thickness of exterior paint to guarantee that it is the required 4/1,000th of an inch deep.

"House and Home," reports the gadget has three teeth scaled to scratch the paint. If it cuts through to the bare wood too soon, the paint film is not thick enough to pass FHA inspection.

Check Year-Round Condensation Trouble

Condensation is a year-round problem, not one limited to summer when warm air condenses on cold water pipes and toilet bowls. During the winter, when walls are cold and interior air warm, condensation is going on all the time although you may not see it. At best it's annoying, at its worst it can cause decay and structural weaknesses.

Warm air can hold more moisture than cold. Water vapor generally moves from warm to cold areas—that is from high to low humidity areas. When warm, moisture laden air hits something cold so that the air can no longer hold the moisture, it condenses.

In vapor form, water can pass through materials — walls, for example — and end up in the form of water.

The condensation shows up as beads of water on cold windows. Or you may find damp spots on walls and ceilings, frost on the underside of the roof, stained plaster, blistering and peeling paint, rust on metal fixtures.

NEVER DANGER — If you have a new house, the danger of condensation is greater than in an old one. In older homes, there was little insulation and all those drafts provided for a free exchange of warm and cold air. But, modern insulated houses don't allow the free passage of air and moisture condenses wherever it can.

A few common sense precautions can cut down on moisture. When you take a shower, keep the door tightly shut to keep moisture from spreading through the house, open a window afterward. Better yet, install an exhaust fan in the bathroom.

Cooking fills the air with moisture. An exhaust fan in the kitchen is an asset.

A basement full of drying clothes gives off much dampness. Cut down the activity or open a window each time. Dryers must be vented, too.

When you use exhaust fans, remember to provide a source of fresh air. Open a window slightly. Make certain that your attic has louvers and that they are large enough to keep air circulating.

Vents under eaves allow moist air to escape.

PAINT IT OUT — While you are providing all these special paths through which moist air may move, make certain that it cannot circulate elsewhere. Moist

To Fill Window Cracks

To fill cracks around window frames, you can make your own paper mache insulation at minimal cost. Put a little glue in thick hot soap or detergent suds, and add a large quantity of shredded newspaper. Work a bit of paper into cracks with a screwdriver and paint when dry.

Dining outdoors is a joy with this saw-buck table and benches. Short matching benches may be used for seating people at ends of big tables or they make good serving tables. Also note supply trough under big table. Pattern 279, which lists material and shows construction steps, is 35 cents. This pattern is also in the Outdoor Bench, Chair and Table Packet No. 73 for $1. The Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., Bedford Hills, New York.

Move While Drying

To prevent the movable louvers of shutters or doors from sticking shut when they are painted, the louvers should be moved back and forth several times before the paint has dried completely.

FAMILY PROJECT — The Alphonse Huseraue, 42 Park Place, had an old 2-car garage at the back of their lot. Huseraue, with the help of his sons and son-in-law, tore it down. He and Mrs. Huseraue poured a 6-inch cement base, then he rebuilt the garage from the old lumber and other old lots of wood he could get nearby. The two of them painted it and the result is what shows above — a trim 1½ car garage with storage space — an asset

New Certification Rates Cooling Capacity of Unit

A way has been found to answer a question that frequently occurs to the prospective purchaser of a room air conditioner: "Will this unit really give me the cooling performance that's claimed for it?"

The answer this year is "Yes!" if the air conditioner is one whose cooling capacity has been certified as accurate by the National Electrical Manufacturers Association.

Under NEMA's new certification program, cooling capacities in British Thermal Units first are verified by an independent laboratory. Models that do not pass the tests must have their ratings changed.

Companies marketing more than 90 per cent of all room air conditioners sold in the United States are participating in the program. All of their 1962 models must be certified. A seal identifies each certified unit. All certified models are listed in a directory, which may be consulted at a dealer's store.

A booklet, "Certification of BTU's," explains the program fully. It is available to anyone who sends a stamped, addressed envelope to Room Air Conditioner Section, National Electrical Manufacturers Association, 355 East 46th Street, New York 17, N.Y.

(Editor's Note — This is the fifth in a nine-part series by two veteran Associated Press newsmen on Michigan's proposed constitution.)

By GENE SCHROEDER AND A. F. MARIAN

LANSING (U. S. — The education article gets one of the most complete revampings of any in Michigan's proposed new constitution. And it is likely to draw strong support from those it affects most — the state's educators — despite protests from a majority of Democratic delegates to the constitutional convention that it would reduce the state superintendent of public instruction to the status of an executive secretary.

Mrs. Cornelia A. Robinson of Kalamazoo, a Democratic member of the present four-member state board of education, described herself as pleased with the article generally and said that "in the long run this appears the way to get the education and constitution needed."

Dr. E. Dale Kennedy, executive secretary of the Michigan Education Association, says he has little doubt that the MESA will endorse the article, and he personally views it "with enthusiasm because it is a damned good section."

Dr. Harlan Hatcher, president of the University of Michigan, said "It preserves safeguards" and "went a long way toward the views I set forth in my testimony before the education committee."

The convention's education committee included these delegates among its members: Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University; Ross O. Boudreau, former University of Michigan registrar; Dr. Charles Andapach, former president of Central Michigan University, and George Romney, who once headed a study group that won approval of 100-plus changes in the Detroit school system.

First off, the new article would expand the State Board of Education from four to eight members, elected on partisan ballots from the state at-large. It would increase the terms of members from six to eight years.

APPOINTED BY BOARD
Next, it would empower the board to appoint the state superintendent of public instruction, who would be its chairman but have no vote in board actions. Now, the superintendent is elected at-large for a two-year term and is a voting member of the board.

The governor also would be an ex-officio (without vote) member of the new board. Romney, a Republican candidate for governor, insisted upon gubernatorial membership.

The board is directed to "serve as the general planning and coordinating body for all public education, including higher education," and to "advise the legislature as to the financial requirements" for the various segments of education.

It also is charged with "leadership and general supervision over all public education," including adult education and instructional programs in state institutions, except as to institutions of higher education granting baccalaureate degrees.

Those boards which would control the various colleges and universities are to "supervise their respective institutions and direct the expenditures of the institutions' funds." But they would have to go through the state board in the legislature with their requests for funds and accept coordination and planning policies set by the board.

Some major changes were made in college and university governing boards.

Michigan State University's board of trustees and Wayne State University's board of governors would be raised from six to eight members to be elected to eight-year instead of six-year terms. They would parallel the University of Michigan's board of regents.

AT OTHER SCHOOLS
Similar eight-member, eight-year boards would be created to govern each of the state's other colleges and universities. The latter, however, would be appointed by the governor with Senate advice and consent, whereas the Michigan, Wayne State and Michigan State boards would be elected "as provided by law," which now is as party nominees from the state-at-large.

The new constitution also would require the legislature to provide for establishment of community and junior colleges, "which shall be supervised and controlled by locally elected boards."

It also is instructed to provide by law for an eight-member, eight-year State Board for Community and Junior Colleges "which shall advise the State Board of Education concerning general supervision and planning for such colleges."

The State Board of Education, now the governing body for all universities and colleges other than the big three, would appoint the junior colleges advisory board. "The legislature shall," the new document says at one point, "supervise measures to maintain the University of Michigan, Michigan State University, Wayne State University, Eastern Michigan University, Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Central Michigan University, Northern Michigan University, Western Michigan University, Ferris Institute, Grand Valley State College, and other institutions of higher learning established by law."

This would be the first constitutional recognition for others than the big three, but the constitution would give something brand new for Wayne, Michigan and Michigan State, too.

ANNUAL ACCOUNTING
It provides that "the legislature shall give an annual accounting of all income and expenditures" by all of the colleges and universities, and that formal sessions of their governing boards "shall be open to the public."

Under prodding of the Michigan Press Association and others, these three boards have opened their formal sessions over the last few years to the press, but there was no requirement for them to crack their doors open that much.

And on some occasions in the past, big three boards have told the legislature, in effect, where their money came from and how they spent it was none of the legislature's business.

Immediately after the preamble, the new education article says: "The legislature shall maintain and support a system of free public elementary and secondary schools as defined by law. Every school district shall provide for the education of its pupils without discrimination as to religion, creed, race, color or national origin."

The education committee said it inserted the latter sentence "in order that the new constitution would leave no room for doubt" on the question of segregation.

Democratic delegates found no fault with six of the article's nine sections, but they would have kept the superintendent of public instruction an elective office and given it a stronger hand by giving it "general supervision over all public education."

PLANNING BODY
They would have reserved to the board of education authority to "serve as the general planning and coordinating body."

They also objected to the proviso that gubernatorial appointments to governing boards, other than the big three, be subject to Senate confirmation. They proposed that the governor's appointments be with the consent of "the legislature."

Disenters summed up their objections thus: "The proposed document denotes the superintendent of public instruction to a mere apologist of an eight-member board. The strong and independent superintendent of public instruction here-fore responsible directly to the people would become, in effect, an executive secretary with no effective power to represent and fight for the educational system.

Until 1959, paleontologists believed mankind to be 500,000 years old. Then the discovery in Tanzania of an earlier man was reported. This early man lived and hunted on the shores of a long-vanished lake some 600,000 years ago.

The northern portions of North America and Europe abound with glacial lakes. Scandinavia, Ontario, Maine and Minnesota are among areas thickly set with the lakes.

Government engineers estimate that coal and lignite comprise about 96 per cent of the U. S. mineral fuel energy reserves, not including the atomic power elements.

State Chiropractors Oppose SS-Medicare

LANSING (U) — The Michigan State Chiropractic Society said yesterday it will oppose the King-Anderson bill for Social Security-linked medical care for the aged. Society directors adopted a resolution calling the proposal: "A conglomeration of words, the essence of which when translated into law would be of little or no aid whatsoever to the vast majority of needy older citizens; "Discriminatory—for it does not provide any freedom of choice of mode of treatment; "Fiscally unsound." Directors said they supported a proposal by Congressman Frank T. Bow, R-Ohio, which would allow the elderly to deduct from their income tax $125 per individual per year for medical expenses.

Nick Adams Trading Rifle for Rapid-Fire Typewriter

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — The rebel has turned in his rifle for a typewriter and a newspaper beat in New York City. That's Yankee country.

Nick Adams didn't venture closer to the Mason-Dixon Line than southern New Jersey as a boy, but he had two good years as "The Rebel" on television and so endeared himself to Dixie. That's all behind him now as he prepares for his second series, "Saints and Sinners."

Nick, whose enthusiasm reminds you of Tony Curtis in his hustling days, says it's going to be a smash. He's a persuasive guy you want to believe him.

"It's a newspaper story, only it's going to be done right," he explained. "None of this 'stop the presses!' jazz. This will be the real thing—the way newspapermen really work."

WAS A COPY BOY

I hated to tell him that such can also be dull on occasion. Nick himself is a graduate of a newspaper, having interned as a copy boy on the Jersey City Journal. He also served under editor Clark Gable in "Teacher's Pet."

Some of his best friends are newspapermen.

"Saints and Sinners" is an hour show out of the Dick Powell stable for Monday nights on NBC. Nick will be the star reporter on a New York tabloid, the Bulletin, but he'll be spelled by John Larkin, Richard Erdman and Ann Blyth.

"Am is our Washington correspondent," said Nick, and that should set a capital journalism ahead a few notches.

HAS BIG PLANS

Some folks were surprised to see Nick tie up with another series. His feature career has been thriving since he left "The Rebel." He has gone from "Hell is for Heroes" to "The Interns" to "The Hook," his current film with Kirk Douglas.

His reasoning: "By the time I finish the second series, I should be independently wealthy. I had a 16-23 per cent interest in 'The Rebel,' which so far has netted me $240,000 in capital gains. 'Saints and Sinners' should bring me a half million. I expect it will run a couple of years and then I will quit television and devote myself to films."

But supposing it runs five years instead.

"Not a chance. The days when an 'I Love Lucy' or a 'Father Knows Best' runs five or more years are gone. People lose interest fast nowadays. They've seen everything and they're always looking for something new."

Airline's Patronage Booms During May at Municipal

North Central Airlines patronage boomed last month at Pontiac Municipal Airport as the highest passenger load for any month this year was recorded.

There were 51 passengers on outbound flights in May. The previous 1962 high was 33 in April, according to J. O. Edwards, station manager.

Inbound NCA flights carried 43 passengers as compared to only 18 on inbound flights in April.

OUTBOUND MAIL UP

Outbound flights in May carried 1,206 pounds of air mail, 201 pounds of air express and 1,149 pounds of air freight. For comparison, April outbound flights recorded 519 pounds of air mail, 652 pounds of air express and 1,405 pounds of air freight.

Inbound flights last month carried 469 pounds air mail as compared to 656 in April. Air express amounted to 136 pounds in May and 161 the month before.

Air freight on inbound planes showed a sharp increase with 4,921 pounds carried in May as compared to only 2,934 in April.

Increased use of NCA flights is expected to continue, spurred on by warmer weather, according to Edwards.

Medalists Upset in Pine Lake Event

By BILL CORNWELL
A sharp-shooting Red Run team became the established favorite but a father-and-son two-man team commanding attention as Pine Lake Country Club's 13th annual invitational golf tournament entered the 2nd round of match play today.

Veterans Tom Draper and Perry Ryard moved into the favorite's role after scoring an easy triumph in Friday's opening round, a 54 over-par golf of Forest Lake and Orchard Lake's George Webb.

Ray West and his 17-year-old son Chuck drew most of the attention yesterday by upsetting Thursday's qualifying medalists, Bill Pettibone and George Linklater of Red Run, 1 up.

Definite underdogs in their battle with Pettibone and Linklater, Ray and Chuck led a three-hole lead slip through their fingers before clinching victory with a birdie four on the final hole.

Under the shotgun start being employed this year, the match began on the 17th hole. After nine holes the West family was ahead, 3 up.

Pettibone and Linklater rallied furiously, winning the 10th, 11th and 12th holes to square the match.

The Wests regained the lead on the 13th as Ray sank a 56-foot chip shot for an eagle three. After halving the 14th, Pettibone came a 20-foot putt at No. 15 for a birdie three to tie the match.

Then the Wests took the verdict at No. 16 as dad again came through by dropping a downhill 35-footer for a birdie four.

Ray and Chuck were even with par at the finish.

Draper and Ryard, 1955-Pine Lake champions, shot the best golf yesterday in the championship final. They were two under par in their one-sided conquest of Eylon and Webb.

The Wests tangled with another formidable team, Bob Babish of Detroit Golf Club and Pine Lake's Lou Conroy, this morning. Babish and Conroy went 19 holes for a 1-up decision over Drs. Harry and Len Latos of Red Run.

MEADOWBROOK WIN
Another strong entry, Meadowbrook's Tony Shover and George Lakotish, gained the 2nd round with a 3-1 conquest of Red Run's John Atleian and Stan Lendson. Shover and Lakotish were one over par.

This Is the Way to Start a Match—Shoot an Ace
Gary Spees, Pontiac's veteran public links player, must have had a discouraging effort on his opposition Friday in the 1st round of match play in Pine Lake Country Club's 13th annual invitational golf tournament.

Spees, teamed with Bob Oliver of this city in the 3rd flight, made a hole-in-one yesterday on his first shot of the match.

Under the shotgun start in effect, Spees and Oliver began their match with the Forest Lake team of Sterling Gordon and Ed Mardigan on the 24-year 14th hole.

By BILL CORNWELL.
A sharp-shooting Red Run team became the established favorite, but a father-and-son twosome was commanding attention as Pine Lake Country Club's 13th annual invitational golf tournament entered the 2nd round of match play today.

Veterans Tom Draper and Perry Byard moved into the favorite's role after scoring an easy triumph in Friday's opening round, a 5-4 rout of Blaine Eynon of Forest Lake and Orchard Lake's George Webb.

Ray West and his 17-year-old son Chuck drew most of the attention yesterday by upsetting Thursday's qualifying medalists, Bill Pettibone and George Linklater of Red Run, 1 up.

Definite underdogs in their battle with Pettibone and Linklater, Ray and Chuck let a three-hole lead slip through their fingers before clinching victory with a birdie four on the final hole.

Under the shotgun start being employed this year, the match began on the 17th hole. After nine holes the West family was ahead, 3 up.

Pettibone and Linklater rallied furiously, winning the 10th, 11th and 12th holes to square the match.

The Wests regained the lead on the 13th as Ray sank a 50-foot chip shot for an eagle three. After halving the 14th, Pettibone came a 20-foot putt at No. 15 for a birdie three to tie the Wests once more.

Then the Wests led the verdict at No. 16 as dad again came through by dropping a downhill 25-footer for a birdie four.

Ray and Chuck were even par at the finish.

Draper and Byard, 1955 Pine Lake champions, shot the best golf yesterday in the championship flight. They were two under par in their one-sided conquest of Eynon and Webb.

The Wests tangled with another formidable team, Bob Babish of Detroit Golf Club and Pine Lake's Lon Conroy, this morning. Babish and Conroy went 19 holes for a 1-up decision over Dr. Harry and Len Lato of Red Run.

The poorest golf Friday was posted by Pine Lake's Harvie Nelson and Ralph Ellstrom of Dearborn, yet they still managed to win.

Nelson and Ellstrom were five over par and failed to card a birdie while trimming Milo Cross of Pine Lake and Edgewood's Ed Novak, 1 up.

The popular selective drive-alternate shot tourney concludes Sunday with semifinals in the morning and championship matches in the afternoon.

U.S. Military Given Orders to Remain on Base

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Anti-American demonstrations spread in South Korea today. The U.S. Army ordered American military personnel in the Seoul area restricted to base except for official business.

A U.S. Army spokesman called the confinement order a "temporary measure to reduce the possibility of incidents" in view of the wave of demonstrations demanding the U.S. government sign a status-of-forces agreement giving South Korea court jurisdiction over American servicemen in some instances.

About 700 university students defying stern new warnings from South Korea's ruling military junta marched out of Taegu University today.

It was the third demonstration in a week stemming from the alleged beating of a Korean civilian trespasser by two U.S. Army officers last month.

A solid wall of police halted the students about 100 yards from the main gate of the university in South Korea's third largest city, about 200 miles southeast of Seoul.

NO VIOLENCE SEEN
Refusing to withdraw, the students squatted in the street and turned their protest into a sit-down strike. There were no reports of violence.

The government announced Friday night that the United States has agreed in principle to resume negotiations toward a status-of-forces pact. But it said Washington had raised issues which South Korea "finds difficult to accept."

It did not elaborate on these points but said the United States has been asked to reconsider them.

Reports from Washington quoted officials there as saying "very active consideration" is being given to an agreement. These reports made clear, however, that there is a division of opinion in Washington.

U.S. military men are said to feel that an agreement should not be concluded now because a technical state of war still exists in divided Korea and that is why about 50,000 American troops are stationed in this country.

Drinkers, Smokers Key Tax Targets
Sip...Puff...Pay Up!

LANSING (AP)—How much will Michigan's new "nuisance" taxes cost you?
If you neither smoke nor drink much, higher taxes on beer, liquor and cigarettes account for $4 million of the $76 million total. You'll probably pay the 4 per cent tax on telephone service and probably be nicked for a slightly higher price for sending a telegram. The 4 per cent tax will raise $8 million a year.

Indirectly you'll probably pay most of the cost of a one mill increase in the 4-mill corporation franchise fee, which will raise $14 million annually.

All the new taxes take effect July 1. It's easy enough to make a rough calculation of what the increases will cost you.

Say you and your wife each smoke a pack of cigarettes a day. The five-cent-a-pack tax is going up to seven cents, so the two-cent increase will hit you for $2.90 a year.

The beer drinker will move up from three-eighths of a cent a bottle to two cents. If you drink a case of beer a month, the increase will amount to $4.78 a year.

If you buy a $5 fifth of whiskey a month, the tax increase will add up to $2.40 a year.

Add to those figures any beer or liquor you consume in bars and taverns, since retailers are likely to pass on the increase to you.

On the basis of income tax returns filed by more than two million Michigan families, the State Revenue Department figured the average family will pay this much more:

$3,000 to $4,000 annual income—$4.33 a year in communications bills, $14.73 for liquor and beer, $12.03 for cigarettes for a total of $32.09.

$5,000 to $7,000—$3.33 for communications, $14.73 for liquor and beer, $9 for cigarettes for a total of $37.06.

$8,000 to $10,000—$4.08 for communications, $17.56 for liquor and beer, $10.53 for cigarettes for a total of $32.17.

$10,000 and over—$5.76 for communications, $31.60 for liquor and beer, $9.61 for cigarettes for a total of $46.97.

The figures are not typical, merely representing the average spent for those items by families in those income brackets. Non-smoking and non-drinkers will pay much less; those who do will pay more.

TOPPED BY 7 STATES
The 428 per cent increase in the beer tax will give Michigan a higher tax than all but six Southern states and Alaska.

It amounts to $6.61 for a 21-gallon barrel, compared with $1 in Wisconsin, $2.50 in Ohio, $2.71 in Indiana and $1.96 in Illinois.

New Jersey also has a seven-cent-a-pack cigarette tax, which is the highest among the eight largest industrial states.

Other rates are 3 cents in Indiana, 5 cents in Ohio, 4 cents in Illinois and 6 cents in Wisconsin.

Says Northern Michigan Resents 'Nuisance Tax'
LANSING (AP)—Gov. John W. Swainson arrived here last night reporting "intense resentment" in northern Michigan against the legislature's "nuisance tax" package.

The governor capped a stumping tour through Petoskey, Unaway, Rogers City, Charlevoix and Cheboygan with an appearance last night at a Roman Catholic affair on Mackinac Island.

The governor capped a stumping tour through Petoskey, Unaway, Rogers City, Charlevoix and Cheboygan with an appearance last night at a Roman Catholic affair on Mackinac Island.

Edward H. Leland, scout executive for the Clinton Valley Council, explained that the funds, which will come from the sale of stocks, bonds and property, will provide the lodge, its equipment, and pay St. Michael's graduates. No speaker is scheduled for the St. Frederick's program.

A total of 33 seniors at St. Michael's High School and 30 at St. Frederick's High School will be awarded diplomas.

Fr. Paul Berg of Sacred Heart Seminary in Detroit will deliver the commencement address to the three area schools and baccalaureate services for five others will be held Sunday.

Our Lady of the Lakes High School in Waterford Township will hold its first commencement program. Rev. Ar. Walker, S. J., president of Columbiere College in Independence, Township, will address the 22 graduates.

Our Lady of the Lakes' commencement will take place at 7:30 p.m. The other two are scheduled for 8 p.m.

TO ATTEND MASS
Graduates at all three schools will attend mass in a body Sunday morning. Mass will be at 8 a.m. for seniors at the two Pontiac Schools and 12:30 p.m. at Our Lady of the Lakes.

Commencement exercises for St. Frederick's graduates will be held at St. Vincent de Paul Church. Graduation ceremonies at the other two schools will be held in their respective churches. Baccalaureate services will be (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Convention Win Doesn't Cinch Nomination

House Speaker's Kin to Take Fight With Ted Before People

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Those ambitious, never-give-up Kennedys have done it again.

Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, 30-year-old brother of the President and of the attorney general, was endorsed by weary, hoarse Massachusetts Democrats last night as a candidate for the U.S. Senate.

In the big battle of famous political names, Kennedy piled up such a margin over Edward J. McCormack, 38, that McCormack gave up before the balloting was two-thirds completed.

With the score card showing Kennedy, 691 to McCormack's 360, the fight was stopped.

McCormack came to the microphones, listened gratefully to the cheers of his supporters, and said:

"I want to thank all of those who had the courage to stand up and be counted in my behalf. I will now take my case to the people."

TO CONTINUE FIGHT
This means that even though McCormack lost, he will fight Kennedy again in the September primaries, a right he has under Massachusetts law.

Severely hurt McCormack left the platform this hour, came Kennedy, accompanied by his blonde wife, Joan, to get an even more rousing reception.

Kennedy said he was sure the people of Massachusetts will speak just as the convention delegates did.

"As of tonight," Kennedy said, "we're starting the campaign!"

McCormack is the nephew of House Speaker John McCormack, and waiting restlessly in the political wings is a young representative of yet a third famous family.

George Lodge, 31, son of the former United Nations ambassador, Henry Cabot Lodge, faces Rep. Laurence Curtis in the Republican convention a week from today.

Even though Friday night's victory didn't prove much it gives Teddy first place on the ballot plus a note that the convention endorsed him.

And young Teddy won here with a technique his brother developed in Massachusetts and perfected in New Hampshire, Wisconsin and West Virginia: bright young girls in crisp dresses, and unremitting industry behind scenes to make sure each delegate is reached again and again.

The contest was held in Room 113 of Utica High School. Master of ceremonies was Harry Maguire, and contest chairman, Louis Simgaj.

As Miss Utica, Irene will immediately begin her round of public appearances to publicize the forthcoming holiday event.

Then the day of the celebration will be crowned by Gov. Swainson before riding in the place of honor on the Lions Club float in the parade which opens the day-long program.

Other candidates for the Miss Utica crown were Suzanne Mohr, 17, Judy Frase, Sandy Miller, Karen Dibley, Irene, Dreyer, Sandy Soule, Judy Adams, Carol Lieber, Mary Bennett, Trudy Bannow, Sandee Kaczor and Cheryl Blashill.

To Reign Over Lions Celebration

TRIO OF SPARKLERS—These three girls were chosen last night to reign over the Utica Lions Club's 16th annual Fourth of July celebration. In the center is Miss Utica Irene Heydens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald J. Heydens, 11070 18-Mile Road, Sterling Township. She is flanked by her two maids of honor, Jessie Mackay, 8125 Mackay Court, Utica, and Cynthia Wales, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Wales, 8261 Canal Road, Utica. All are 17.

Selected Miss Utica in Her 3rd Contest

It was three times and "in" for 17-year-old Irene Heydens who won the Miss Utica title last night.

Three times she has entered a beauty contest. The first was the St. Lawrence High School Homecoming Queen competition—she was chosen a member of the court—the second, the Michigan Hothouse rhubarb Queen contest—no luck—then last night—success!

A brunet with sparkling brown eyes, Irene received the judges' nod over 14 other local girls competing for the coveted crown. As queen she will reign over the Utica Lions Club's 16th annual Fourth of July celebration.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald J. Heydens, 11070 18-Mile Road, Sterling Township, Irene had received her diploma from St. Lawrence High just the night before.

She was secretary of her senior class and plans to continue in that role in the business world.

Picked as first maid of honor was Jessie Mackay, 17, a light brunet with blue-green eyes. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Mackay, 8125 Mackay Court, Utica.

TO GRADUATE SOON
She aspires to a career in international law.

Another brunet with brown eyes, Cynthia Wales, 17, was named second maid of honor. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Wales, 8261 Canal Road, Utica.

Both Jessie and Cynthia will graduate from Utica High next Thursday night.

Judges were Louis A. Guette, undersecretary of Macomb County; Maurice A. Vincent, feature editor of the Daily Monitor-Leader; Mount Clemens; and Lee Winborn, area news editor of The Pontiac Press.

The contest was held in Room 113 of Utica High School. Master of ceremonies was Harry Maguire, and contest chairman, Louis Simgaj.

Spain Puts Curb on Civil Rights

Bombings, Strikes Bring Two-Year Suspension of Choosing Where to Live

MADRID (AP)—Plagued by bombings and crippling strikes, Generalissimo Francisco Franco's regime today suspended for two years the Spanish people's constitutional right to choose where they want to live in Spain.

Under the sweeping edict, the government can control the movement of anyone opposed to Franco and keep agitators out of industrial centers hit by a seven-week strike of strikes that paralyzed mines and key factories.

The strike—illegal in Spain—dropped off sharply late last month after the second bomb incident in three days resulted in a bounty of up to 50 per cent.

France's cabinet approved the decree suspending a key clause in Spain's bill of rights a few hours after the second bomb incident in three days resulted in a bounty of up to 50 per cent.

Police blamed the left-wing Popular Liberation Front for the bombings which shattered windows in the bank and caused other damage. They were linked to recent strikes.

Cole Porter Reaches 70
WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (UPI)—Composer Cole Porter, quietly celebrated his 70th birthday today at his country home on rustic Buxton Hill.

Incumbent Eldon C. Rosegar, president of the school board, is seeking a second term.

The others, all first-time candidates, are Norman L. Cheal, Elmer O. Johnson and Ellis L. Nordbeck.

Soviet Bloc Invites West to Expand Trade Vistas

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet bloc today launched a new drive to promote East-West trade in opposition to the growing might of the European Common Market.

After a two-day conference, leaders of seven Communist nations of Eastern Europe, issued a communique calling for an international trade conference to end what Premier Khrushchev has denounced as regional discrimination by such groups as the common market.

They also pledged closer economic cooperation and stepped up production within their own countries.

Western observers here said the Soviet invitation to the West for expanded trade seemed doomed to failure.

WANTS FACTORIES
They reasoned that the Soviet Union wants to purchase equipment to create factories of the type which would put the East in competition with the very nations that supplied the factories.

The communique said the seven nations voted Orly Moundia into their group, officially called the Council of Mutual Economic Assistance (COMECON).

Albania, once a member, appeared to have been dropped. The communique listed the other members as the Soviet Union, East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria.

The group proposed to set up joint industrial designing organizations and joint scientific research centers in lightening up the organization.

The communique said the organization should pay special attention to speeding up the work of specialization and cooperation in the production of machinery and equipment, which it called in short supply.

It also called for maximum development of raw material, fuel and power supplies.

IN AND OUT OF MOVIE — Marilyn Monroe (right) was removed today from the cast of her current film and was replaced by actress Lee Remick (left). Twentieth Century-Fox said.

Studio Brings In Sub

Marilyn Gets the Boot

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marilyn Monroe is out of work today, fired by the same studio that made her a star.

The sacking, which caught a studio no one by surprise, came Friday only hours after Marilyn notified 20th Century-Fox that she was "ready and eager to return to work Monday morning."

WASN'T IMPRESSED
But the studio wasn't impressed and called in Lee Remick to take over.

In another development, the studio announced it had begun legal action against Marilyn to recover $500,000 allegedly lost as a result of the star's frequent absences from the set.

This was reported Friday by the subcommittee's dismissed Republican counsel, Robert E. Manue.

He spoke to reporters outside a hearing room where the subcommittee was taking testimony from two former agriculture department officials who had received such money orders.

TELLS OF GIFTS
James T. Ralph, former assistant secretary of agriculture, told the subcommittee that he and his wife, William E. Morris, each received a pair of $100 money orders from Estes, last January—and turned them over to the Democratic party.

Both Ralph and Morris have been fired because of their connections with the indicted Texas promoter whose boom-to-bust operations under government farm programs have stirred charges he carried and got favored treatment from officials.

DENIES FAVORS
Ralph denied accepting gifts from Estes and also denied that he or anyone else in the agriculture department had ever granted favors to Estes.

Meanwhile Republicans blazed away at the dismissal Thursday of Manue as the minority counsel on the subcommittee which is headed by Rep. L. H. Fountain, D-N.C.

The Democratic majority on the committee voted to fire him for leaking an agriculture department report on Estes to a newspaper. But the Republican congressional committee charged Manue was "dumped" when he found out Estes had chummy contacts with Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

JOHN SILENT
Johnson had no comment. Speaking to reporters, Manue said he had a list of persons who allegedly got Estes' money orders.

"The testimony taken in executive session related to a list of individuals to whom Estes allegedly sent gifts in the form of money orders," said Manue at an informal press conference.

The list, he said, included the names of "certain members of Congress and at least one very high-ranking administration official."

GIVEN TO PARTY
In his testimony Ralph said the money orders he and Morris received arrived about Jan. 10 and were in $100 denominations. When asked Morris if he had any idea what the money was for, Ralph said Morris expressed belief they were for tickets to the $100-a-plate Democratic dinner on the anniversary of President Kennedy's inauguration.

Ralph testified he sent one money order to the Democratic National Committee and the other to the Democratic party in California.

Berlin Incidents Embarrass Reds

U.S. Officials Claim Soviets Try to Shift Blame in Latest Note

BERLIN (AP) — The United States sharply protested to the Russians today over the shooting in connection with the escape of 14 East Germans yesterday aboard an excursion boat in Berlin.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say Russia has been embarrassed by the string of refugee incidents in Berlin and has tried to shift the blame with its note accusing the West of provoking trouble along the wall.

Although the note was the strongest the Soviet Union has issued recently on Berlin, U.S. authorities said they saw no indication the statement foreboded a Kremlin effort to start the Berlin crisis boiling again.

COOLED OFF
The dispute over the divided city has cooled off during the past several months while the United States and Russia have explored various ways of reaching a peaceful solution.

So far the talks have produced no agreement. Another meeting between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin is scheduled June 18.

Russians threatened Friday to step into the Berlin situation, charging the United States, Britain and France with fostering "intimidated intrigues of the revolution and military adventurism."

"It's said," said one front-office executive, "but no studio these days can afford to have Liz Taylor and Marilyn Monroe working the same time—especially a studio that lost $25 million last year."

The same executive, who asked to be anonymous, predicted Marilyn's firing could mean the end of a fabulous career.

'ALL IN HER MIND'
"Marilyn claims she couldn't work because she was sick. I actually believe Marilyn thinks she is sick."

"It's all in her mind, of course, and maybe her mental condition makes her physically ill. I don't think she can control herself. She wants to work, wants to be a great actress, and is a great star."

"But whatever her ailment is, just won't let her work," Marilyn said today.

Kuhn said his report is a "point-by-point refutation" of the Democratic stand urging defeat of the proposed constitution. The report will be finished by Tuesday, he said.

Kuhn said Democrats are upset because "George Romney might benefit from the adoption of the new constitution."

Democrats are doing their best to defeat the constitution. But charged by "taking minute points and ballooning them up to create an issue."

Kuhn said the new state document provides maximum protection for the people and will help Michigan to economic recovery.

Romney Will Address Pontiac Republicans
George Romney, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, is scheduled to address approximately 200 party members in the Pontiac Northern High School at 8 p.m. Monday.

Last night in a speech at St. Clair, he promised to replace strife with unity in Michigan if elected governor.

"We need a fresh new approach to take state government from the interest groups and return it to the hands of 'the people,'" he said.

Souvanva won the premiership and defense ministry in the cabinet and foreign ministers went to his neutralist followers.

The education ministry was given to rightwing strongman Gen. Phoumi Nosavan and the finance ministry went to another rightwinger, Lucan Insaleng.

The information and combined ministry of economy and planning was given to the Communist-supported Pathet Lao faction headed by Souphanouvong, so-called "Red prince of Laos" and brother-in-law of Souvanva.

Sources said Souphanouvong probably would be named information minister.

4 POSTS FOR EACH
The princes agreed that the rightists and Pathet Lao each should have four cabinet posts.

They also agreed that the remainder of the cabinet positions should be split and divided equally between Souvanva's neutralists and Vientian politicians with neutralist sympathies.

City School Candidate Denies Commission Aid
Pontiac Board of Education candidate Mrs. Lois Slater Nassau made the following statement today: "I have not received any financial assistance from any member, party or person, of the Pontiac City Commission. The Day in Birmingham

School Districts Elect Board Members Monday

BIRMINGHAM — Voters in Birmingham School District will elect two members to the board of education Monday while those in Bloomfield Hills will name one board member and decide three proposals.

Richard Barnard is the only incumbent among four Birmingham candidates. He is currently serving as secretary of the board.

The three other candidates seeking the two expiring posts are Peil Hollingshead of 408 Arville Road, Walter W. Solover of 2135 Middlebury Lane, and Earl A. Welley of 204 Pennbrook Road.

Barnard and Hollingshead are attorneys. Solover is a vice president of an advertising firm, and Welley is a professor at Wayne State University.

OPPOSES INCUMBENT
Board President David W. Lee is being challenged by Bernard E. Sullivan of 3835 Forest Hill Road.

Lee is truck advertising manager for the Ford Division of Ford Motor Co. Sullivan is president of the Offshore Towing Corp.

The length of terms in both districts are four years.

Bloomfield Hills voters also will be asked to authorize the sale of $500,000 in bonds to finance the construction of a high school swimming pool, approve a three mill tax increase to be used for operations, and renew a 7.4 operating millage.

The total tax increase, including the one which is needed to pay off the bonds, would only be about $2.80 per $1,000 since the school board intends to reduce taxes for bonded indebtedness.

New officers of the Birmingham Rotary Ann will be elected following a 1 p.m. luncheon June 18 at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Lake, 583 Linden.

The Birmingham branch of the American Association of University Women will meet Wednesday at the Oakland Hills Country Club for its final luncheon of the season.

The group will be entertained with a puppet presentation of "Peter and the Wolf," performed by the AAWU's Puppets.

Two City Rides Net 28 Arrests on Liquor Charges
Two rides within half an hour by Pontiac police early today led to the arrest of 28 persons on illegal liquor charges at 481 Franklin Road and 528 S. Sanford St.

Four vice squad officers and four uniformed policemen, led by William E. Nesbitt, struck first at the Franklin Road address about 4:30 a.m.

They then raided the Sanford Street residence at 5 a.m. Mrs. Mary Robinson, who lives at that address, was charged with operating the illegal liquor place.

Her husband, Will, 46, was arrested for aiding and abetting the operation. Ten other persons were charged with helping.

American Center Bombed by OAS
ALGERIES (UPI) — The American cultural center in Algiers today was badly damaged by a plastic bomb believed planned by Army Organization (OAS) commandos.

There were no reports of casualties in the blast or the resultant fire.

More than 6,000 books and 30 film projectors were destroyed in the blast and flames.

The plastic bomb has been a favorite weapon of the European extremists fighting against Algerian independence. The center has been bombed several times in the past few years by European terrorists.

OAS commandos also bombed and burned other buildings in a series of heavy security measures aimed at stopping the "scorched earth" campaign.

SCHOOL BOMBED
In Algiers the OAS put in a torch a primary school in a suburb, and a school of Red-Red and a villa. The school of Beirut in the last quarter burst into flames after a plastic bomb explosion. The buildings were empty.

Authorities also were concerned over the threat of financial ruin. The newspaper "Depeche d'Algerie" carried a communique this morning from Algeria's banks pledging they would remain open.

Nine other men prominent in government, science, arts and business will receive similar awards from the U. of M. the same day.

Two Bandits Die Fleeing Bank Holdup

DETROIT (AP) — Two bank bandits died in a gun battle with police last night after pulling off a $13,000 robbery, wrecking one getaway car and commencing another in a wild fight.

The chase ended when the gunmen fled on foot in a wooded area, were surrounded by police from two suburban communities, and died trying to shoot their way to freedom.

Robert Chambers, 30, of Wyandotte, was killed at the second stop. He was shot by police after pulling off a $13,000 robbery, wrecking one getaway car and commencing another in a wild fight.

Police said the pair held up the National Bank of Wyandotte about 7 p.m., took the money from cash drawers and fled in haste when a bank employee sounded an alarm.

CRASH INTO POLE
They fired a shot through the windshield of a car in which a citizen passed by, then crashed the car into a utility pole and were forced to abandon it.

They jumped from the car — still carrying the bank loot — and fled 50 yards across fields to a ditch in the wooded area.

Taylor Township and Southgate police, alerted by a motorist who witnessed the crash, converged on the area and exchanged some 30 shots with the pair before Chambers fell dead and Wyatt was mortally wounded.

All of the bank money was recovered.

Estes Gift List Sought by Unit

Dismissed Counsel of House Probers Says Paper Names Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee is reportedly trying to lay its hands on an alleged list naming congressmen and an administration official as receiving money order gifts from Billie Sol Estes.

This was reported Friday by the subcommittee's dismissed Republican counsel, Robert E. Manue.

He spoke to reporters outside a hearing room where the subcommittee was taking testimony from two former agriculture department officials who had received such money orders.

Laos Peace Seen by Neutralist Prince

KHANG KHAY, Laos (UPI) — Hopes for a peaceful solution to the Laotian crisis rose today with the confident prediction by Prince Souvanva Phouma, that a final agreement will be reached on a coalition government Monday.

Souvanva, who is premier-designate of the proposed coalition government, met yesterday in this rebel stronghold in the Plain of Jars with pro-Western Premier Prince Bouan Oum and Communist-backed Prince Souphanouvong and settled all but one major issue.

LEADS NEUTRALISTS
Souvanva, leader of Laos' neutralist faction, predicted the three princes would sign the final agreement when they meet here again Monday.

The princes hammered out their differences during a two-hour morning session when the toughest issue was settled. This involved who would get the key defense and interior (police) ministries.

They were handed over to Souvanva without any public guarantees that the two posts would be allowed to slip into the hands of Souphanouvong's followers.

Souvanva won the premiership and defense ministry in the cabinet and foreign ministers went to his neutralist followers.

The education ministry was given to rightwing strongman Gen. Phoumi Nosavan and the finance ministry went to another rightwinger, Lucan Insaleng.

Tigers Have Bating Practice at Washington...in First Game

Fleet Maury Wins Fleet Maury Puts Dodgers Ahead

By The Associated Press. Who says you can't steal first? The Los Angeles Dodgers did it Friday night, snatching first place in the National League on the base stealing of mercurial Maury Wills. The swift shortstop ran the Dodgers to a 4-3 victory over the Houston Astros when he walked in the 13th inning, swept two bases, then scored the winning run on a short sacrifice fly. The steals were the 31st and 32nd for Wills this season.

By winning the Dodgers took the half-game edge over the San Francisco Giants, who were second and third, then sprinted home from the St. Louis Cardinals 8-4. It was the third setback in a row for the Giants and the fourth straight victory for the Cards, on the rebound after a string of eight defeats.

Philadelphia beat Cincinnati's slumping Reds 10-3, and the New York Mets stopped their losing streak at 17, trouncing the Chicago Cubs 4-3 in the opener of a doubleheader. The Cubs won 3-2 in the second game, called in the eighth inning because of darkness. Rain washed out the Pittsburgh-Braves game at Milwaukee.

WHAT HAPPENED? — Ken Hubbs just makes it back to first base as the New York Mets try to pick the runner off in yesterday's first game of a doubleheader. Faye Thorneberry puts the late tag on Hubbs after taking the throw from pitcher Jay Hook.

World Record for Two Miles Set by Beatty

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Explosive little Jim Beatty claimed a world record of 8:29.8 for two miles Saturday, the first by an American at this distance since 1936.

The 5-foot-6, 126-pound Beatty unseated the run in the Southern Pacific AAT Track and Field Championships at Occidental College's Patterson Field Friday night. He races for the Los Angeles Track Club.

He bettered the recognized record of 8:32 flat made by Australia's Albert Thomas in Dublin, Ireland, Aug. 7, 1958.

Shucks, Putter Missing but He Still Shoots 32

Like most ardent golfers, Jim Hanes of the Pontiac Inter-Office golf league became all shook up when he reached for his putter on the first green at Silver Lake and found he had left it at home.

Unlike many golfers, however, Hanes took the absence of his favorite putter in stride and decided to borrow one from his partner Ed Biggs, playing in a foursome with Jack Masterson and John Fabran.

Hanes proceeded to birdie the 1st, 4th and 6th and eagled the 9th to finish with a 5-under 32. Hanes currently holds a one-hole lead over the 31 at Silver Lake with Bill Fleischer.

When the match ended Hanes unsuccessfully tried to buy the putter from Biggs.

WALKED FIRST. Wills drew a walk off reliever Don McMahon leading off the bottom 13th at Houston, stole second and third, then sprinted home from the St. Louis Cardinals 8-4. GOOD RELIEF. McDaniel replaced winner Bob Gibson with two on and one out in the seventh and the score 6-4, retired Willie Mays and Willie McCovey, then put away six more Giants in a row. Mays socked his 20th homer with a man on in the third and McCovey followed with his eighth homer.

Dennis Bennett's four-hit pitching and the Phils' five-run inning pushed the Reds to their fifth straight loss. Bennett clipped in with a two-run single during the fifth as the Phils piled up a 7-0 lead against loser Johnny Klippstein and reliever Mo Drabowsky. Roy Sievers knocked in three Philadelphia runs with a double and single, while Tony Taylor and Don Demeter added homers.

The Mets ended their long famine and made it 4-for-4 against the Cubs in the ninth inning of the opener at Chicago when Charlie Neal sent in the winning run with a bases-loaded sacrifice fly. Jay Hook was the winner in eight decisions.

13-Hit Assault Wins 10-Inning Opener, 7-6

Then Stenhouse Blanks Bengals by 1-0 Score in Nightcap

From Our News Wire. WASHINGTON — Detroit's Tigers, who thought they had come here for batting practice, today worried whether they could take a lead in their five-game stand with the Senators.

The lowly Washington club took 10 innings to lose the opener 7-6 and then shut out Detroit 1-0 last night. The second game, won by Dave Stenhouse, was the first shut-out of the season to be suffered by Detroit.

The Tigers got some batting practice, Washington allowed 19 hits in 19 innings of the twin bill which occupied the three-day engagement.

The first game was a wild affair which used more than three and one-half hours and 58 players, 12 of them pitchers. Winner Ron Nabelek and loser Carl Boudin were the fifth pitchers used by their teams. Boudin had just reported from Syracuse earlier yesterday.

Ken Retzer got his fourth home run of the season in the second inning with two aboard to push the Senators to an early lead. The Tigers managed a run in the third, but Washington scored twice more that inning, and by the fifth frame Detroit was behind 6-1.

Tiger batters, who amassed 13 hits in the opener, scored twice in the fifth, twice in the sixth, and in the ninth inning took the game 6-6 by taking advantage of one of two Senator bobbles in the game.

BIG ERROR. The crucial ninth-inning fumble was Chuck Cottier's botch of Dick Brown's grounder with two out and runners on second and third. The tie-breaker was scored by Billy Bruton who walked, made third on a single and scored on Rocky Colavito's sacrifice left-field fly.

Colavito had three RBIs and he and Bubba Morton had four hits for the Tigers.

A brilliant pitching performance by Don Mossi was wasted in the second game.

Mossi and Stenhouse locked horns in a six-hit pitcher duel. Both pitchers hurled scoreless balls until the eighth when the Senators scored the only run of the game. Ken Hamlin, Washington shortstop, opened the frame with a single and was moved into scoring position on a sacrifice by Stenhouse. Hamlin romped home when Chuck Hamilton slapped a Texas league single that barely cleared the outstretched glove of Chico Fernandez.

In their half of the ninth, the Tigers put on a brief show of power and scared the Senators. But Stenhouse survived the challenge.

Cash opened with a single and Dick McCalliff hit a liner to short left field. Hinton made a brilliant, diving catch of the ball. Pinch-hitter Wy Werts then singled Cash to second and both runners advanced on a ground out by pinch-hitter Larry Osborne.

Stenhouse then loaded the bases with an intentional pass to pinch-hitter Charles Maxwell, but managed to wrap up his fourth win of the season by retiring Jack Wood on a pop fly.

Placekick Single Wins Game. John Nellenbach's placekick (single) with time running out (two out in the last period (seventh inning)) scored the winning point (run) for Dixie Ben in a 17-16 victory over Hault Pontiac in Class A at Dayton Plains last night.

This softball game that ended with a score went two hours and 31 minutes before being decided.

Before it was over, the two teams had made 12 errors and 21 hits; there were 36 errors and 18 hits in the game. Nellenbach was the winning pitcher in relief.

Home runs by Frank Emerson and Vern Cork led in Labeled Pharmacy to a more normal 7-5 win over Haskins Chevrolet in the other "C" game. Jerry Redmond was the winning pitcher.

An exhibition double-header tonight will match Spencer 36 swats against Pat Hurnt Smith's Creamery at 7.

JUGGLING ACT — Baltimore's Johnny Temple (2) goes into second base safely on Yankee second sacker Bobby Richardson's fumble in the first inning of last night's game in New York.

Richard shovels the ball to shortstop Tom Tresh who can't find the handle. The Umpire is Al Smith. New York won, 1-0.

By The Associated Press. First it was Ralph Terry. Then it was Bill Stafford. Now it's Jim Fregosi. The New York Yankees, playing-planned pitching staff has allowed a grand total of eight hits and no runs.

Coates ailed the string Friday night, taking over when ace left-hander Whitey Ford was forced out by shoulder pains after the first inning but permitted one hit in the rest of the way as the Yankees blanked Baltimore 1-0.

It was the third consecutive shutout for the Yankees' mound crew, weakened by the absence of relief specialist Luis Arroyo and Ford's inability to post a victory since May 9. The stylish southpaw, who posted a 2-5 record during the 1961 campaign, is 3-4 this year.

Ford gave up one hit, making it a two-hitter for the Ford-Coates combination and extending the scoreless streak to 28 1/3. Terry started it with a four-hit 5-0 triumph over Cleveland and Stafford followed with a two-hit job that beat the Indians 4-0.

The latest victory kept the Yankees' American League lead at one game over the Minnesota Twins, who edged the Chicago White Sox 1-0. Third-place Cleveland belted Boston 15-3 with a six-run uprising in the 13th inning and remained two games off the pace.

The Los Angeles Angels got a two-hit pitching performance from newly-acquired Don Lee and defeated Kansas City 7-1, and Detroit and Washington split a doubleheader.

Don Mincher broke up a pitching duel-between the Twins' Jack Krackel (5-4) and John Buzhardt (6-5) of the White Sox when he edged a single in the last of the eighth, driving in Lenny Green with the deciding run. The Twins took a 1-0 lead on Zoilo Versalles' homer in the fifth but the White Sox came back to tie it in the sixth when Luis Aparicio singled for the first of six hits of Krackel, and scored on Floyd Robinson's triple.
