Five-Mill Hike Soundly Beaten by 5-1 Margin

Heart-of-City Landowners Ask Tax Cut

Group of 30 Requesting Five-Year Assessment Slash Over 60 Pct.

A group of 30 downtown Pontiac property owners has asked the city for a cut of more than 60 per cent in tax assessments.

Appearing before the city's Tax Board of Review during its current slate of hearings, the group requested a "temporary outside" until urban renewal projects and the proposed loop highway have been completed.

No action will be taken on the request until the board concludes its hearings later this month.

There was a blanket reduction of five per cent in the assessed value of Saginaw Street properties from Oakland Avenue to Franklin Road last year and another 5 per cent drop in planned this year, according to City Assessor Edward C. Bloe.

Spokesmen for property owners referred to the 5 per cent cut as "just a token reduction."

A 5 PER CENT CUT

Bloe said the city planned another blanket reduction next year too. "A 5 per cent cut across the board represents a loss of about $500,000 in the city's tax base," he said. At that rate, a 50 per cent cut of all Saginaw Street properties would cut at least $5 million off the city's total assessed valuation.

Bloe urged downtown property owners to "all fight." He admitted "shopping centers have hurt downtown business and taken away some tax base, and urban renewal will hurt until it's completed."

"I'll do all I can to cooperate with downtown property owners as a whole, but can't give breaks to a few."

Meyer Simon, partner in Simms Bros. Inc., was one of about 10 property owners speaking for the group.

"We're not afraid of competition," he asserted. "All we need is a little breathing spell in which to regroup our forces."

HAS CONFIDENCE

"Once the loop road is in and urban renewal finished, I have great confidence that downtown Pontiac will be the heart of retail activity in Oakland County," Simon pointed out that "it is the general consensus among property owners that a cut of 50 per cent to two-thirds in tax assessments is needed."

He emphasized that any cut should "only be temporary; say for about five years at the most."

Argentine Chief Hanging On

Strike Call Threatens Frondizi

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — A Catholic archbishop of Buenos Aires said today that he would support a strike call to protest cancellation of the presidency of Argentina.

The president, 53, was remaining in power as a result of his agreement to split his cabinet between military men and civilians while banning all political activities by followers of ex-dictator Juan D. Peron. The Peronists won sweeping victories in provincial elections Sunday, but Frondizi by decree has nullified the election of Peronist governors.

Sixty-two powerful unions called a 24-hour strike for Friday to protest cancellation of the Peronist victories. There were fears the strike would last longer and lead to violence.

Andres Framini, the Peronist textile union boss whose victory over the governor of Buenos Aires was crushed out by Frondizi, told news men he believed the workers would act together "not to allow our victories to be taken from our hands."

REQUESTS HELP

Earlier Framini, who as governor would be second only to the president in power and prestige, conferred 70 minutes with Antonio Cardinal Gaggiani, Roman Catholic primate.

He emphasized that any cut should "only be temporary; say for about five years at the most."

Detroit Tax Bill Gets 1st Defeat

House Votes 63 to 40 Prohibiting Levy From Hitting Nonresidents

Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh's plan to levy an income tax on both residents and nonresidents working in Detroit met its first defeat in Lansing yesterday.

The House voted 63-40 in favor of the bill to prohibit city income taxes from affecting nonresidents and sent it to the Senate for consideration.

Cavanagh said today he will lead a team of Detroit city officials to Lansing in an attempt to stop legislative action by the Senate.

He also said he would urge Gov. George Romney to veto the House-approved bill should it reach his desk.

LI. Gov. T. John Lesinski helped the bill along yesterday by steering it to the Senate Judiciary Committee instead of the Taxation Committee. Sen. Clyde H. Geerlings, R-Holland, chairman of the taxation committee had said he would support the city's efforts to trim a $41 million deficit if his committee got the bill.

Rep. John T. Bowman, D-Roseville, had introduced the bill to the House yesterday.

JFK Gets Note: 'Disarmament Has Priority'

President to Study Red Decision Before Any Public Comments

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev agreed today to cooperate with the United States in space exploration, including a program for sending vehicles to other planets.

But he emphasized such joint venture depend "in some degree on the solution of the disarmament problem."

Khrushchev replied to a letter of President Kennedy on March 7 suggesting that the United States and the Soviet Union pool their efforts in such fields as weather forecasting and international communications and even future exploration of the moon and planets.

In Washington the White House said Khrushchev's proposal was received by President Kennedy last night but he will have no comment until he has had a chance to study the letter.

Khrushchev proposed a six-point program largely parallel to the President's suggestions. He said he was instructing Soviet representatives in the U.N. Space Committee to meet American representatives and discuss practical plans.

LIMITS PROPOSAL

"At the same time it seems obvious to me that the scope of our cooperation in the peaceful exploration of space, just as the choice of the very directions along which such cooperation would be possible, depends in some degree on the solution of the disarmament problem."

Before an agreement on general and complete disarmament is reached, he said, both countries are limited in the possibility of cooperating in space.

"I state these considerations for the simple reason that it would be better if we see all the sides of the question in a realistic light," he added.

NO VISIBLE PROGRESS

The 17-nation disarmament conference meeting in Geneva since March 14 has made no visible progress because of the disagreement over the issue of inspection to prevent cheating.

In his March 7 letter, Kennedy proposed Soviet-American cooperation in launching satellite probes to observe and map the earth's magnetic field and experimenting in international communications, helping track each other's space (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

County Budget for '63 Offered

Tentative $16.6-Million Figure Would Result in $1.8 Million Increase

The Oakland County Board of Auditors today presented a $16,638,286 tentative county budget for 1963 to the Board of Supervisors' Ways and Means Committee.

The county currently is operating with a $14,845,586 budget.

This could spell a $1,827,622 rise in the cost of local government next year, although the rise is likely to be lessened before a final 1963 budget is adopted by the supervisors in the fall.

Present figures reflected in taxes would mean a 71 mills hike over the current rate of 5.25 mills. "We should be able to trim that millage figure," Ways and Means Chairman David Levinson said, following the committee's first look at the proposal.

The proposed budget is based on receipts of $12,858,837 in property taxes and $3,822,000 receipts from county departments.

Included in the budget at this time is a salary schedule totaling $7,261,105, up $547,900 from the current budget schedule.

A big slice of the anticipated budget's total increase again is attributed to rising cost of social services—welfare and hospitalization costs, Levinson pointed out. Once the committee completes its work on the budget, it will be presented to the tax allocation board for further hearings.

LAKE WORTH, Fla. (AP) — Jack Wigle, 51, president and general manager of the Perth Amboy (N.J.) Evening News Co., since 1960, died Tuesday of a heart attack. Record Turnout Forces Hasty Printing of 1,000 Extra Ballots

The Waterford Township School District millage proposal was soundly defeated in Tuesday's special school election by a ratio of nearly five to one.

The proposed increase of five mills over the next seven years was voted down 3,913 to 825 as a record number of voters turned out.

Voting was so heavy that 1,000 mimeographed ballots were hurriedly prepared late in the afternoon when it became apparent that all precincts might run out of the regular printed ballots.

The turnout of approximately 25 per cent of the estimated 19,000 registered voters was not anticipated. Some 4,738 went to the polls. Generally 4,000 of the printed ballots are sufficient for a school election.

"Disappointing" was the term used by School Board President Edson Rosegarn when the final tabulations came in late last night. School superintendent William Shunk said he called the outcome "disturbing."

In a formal statement issued following the election, Rosegarn said, "I don't believe the people are really unwilling to support their teachers and schools but rather have expressed a concern for the local tax burden. I feel that something will work it out."

Shunk issued a statement this morning to all staff members of the school district saying that all personnel, teaching and nonteaching, must strive to continue to provide the best in educational opportunities for the youth in the school district.

"For us to attempt less than this would not be worthy of us," he added.

In his statement Shunk also said he was pleased by the work of board of education members in their many public appearances prior to the election explaining the aspects of the millage proposal.

Most observers registered surprise at the overwhelming vote against the proposal. A close election was generally anticipated.

If passed the proposal would have provided approximately $455,000 additional operating funds each year for the school district if the full five mills were spread.

The estimated average cost to taxpayers for the proposed increase of five mills was to be about $25 a year.

shots and polling information on space medicine.

Looking to future exploration of the moon and planets, the President said "the tasks are so challenging, the costs so great, and the risks to the brave men who engage in space exploration so grave, that we must in all good conscience try every possibility of sharing these tasks and costs and of minimizing the risks."

This was Kennedy's response to a suggestion for space cooperation, in general terms, which Khrushchev made in voicing congratulations on the three-orbit flight of Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.

Khrushchev predicted weather forecasting with the aid of artificial earth satellites "will make it possible to wage a more successful struggle against disaster and will open new prospects for the increase of the welfare of mankind."

Gives Urgency to Berlin Talks

Gromyko Calls in E. Reich Aide

GENEVA (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko summoned Communist East Germany's top diplomat to Geneva today for consultation.

This step gave Berlin urgency to the East-West talks on the background of the 17-nation armament conference.

The conference itself addressed a special bid to France to abandon its boycott of the Geneva meeting and send a delegate to fill the empty 18th chair. There was no indication that President Charles de Gaulle would heed the appeal. He considers the meeting useless.

Man Questioned in Murder Case

Lapeer County Sheriff Quizzes City Resident in Woman's Death

A local man was being questioned this afternoon by Lapeer County Sheriff Kenneth A. Parks in the strangulation slaying of former Pontiac resident Mrs. Hazel A. McArthur of Brown City.

Lapeer County authorities have been questioning suspects in the killing of the Brown City widow since her body was found at 9 p.m. yesterday in her rural home at 7896 E. Burnside Road.

Robert Harrison, 37, of Pontiac, was picked up for questioning after two Pontiac school maintenance men reported to state police that they found a purse in a gutter here Monday which had some travel checks and Mrs. McArthur's name in it.

The two men, Arnold Covert of Cooley Lake and Chester Grammer of Pontiac, said they watched for an ad in the paper about a lost purse.

When they heard about the slaying they contacted police.

State police said records at Sandusky showed that Harrison was put on probation for three years in 1957 for forgery in connection with Mrs. McArthur's bank account.

The badly beaten body of the woman was found in the rear hallway of her five-room frame home. An autopsy showed she had been dead since Sunday.

Mrs. McArthur had lived near Brown City since the death in 1951 of her husband, Floyd, a foreman at the Pontiac Motor Division.

Mrs. McArthur resided in Pontiac with her husband before his death. Her daughter and six grandchildren live near Chicago. See earlier story on page 23.

Jobless Pay Bill Set for Passage

Set for Passage

A jobless pay bill, sponsored by Sen. Farrell Roberts of Pontiac, was set for final passage in the State Senate today.

The bill, which gained preliminary Senate approval yesterday, would pump $25 million into the state unemployment compensation fund.

It would also change statutes which resulted in the 1959 Ford-Canton decision by the State Supreme Court. In that case, Michigan workers laid off because of a strike in 1955 were allowed to collect unemployment benefits.

Roberts' bill is the Republican answer to Gov. Swainson's unemployment compensation program which was shelved in committee. It is virtually the same measure vetoed by Swainson last year.

Democratic Sen. Philip Rahol of Iron Mountain, predicted the governor would veto the bill again.

Under Roberts' plan, employers would pay taxes on the first $3,000 of an employee's annual salary, instead of the present $3,000.

Detroit Tax Feels Defeat

The House to protect suburbanites working in Detroit.

"We recognize that the city of Detroit has its financial problems," Bowman said. "But we people in the suburbs are taxed up to our ears. We hope the Detroit people realize that we have problems too."

Bowman's bill is aimed at the 1969 City Incorporation Act which allows cities to levy excise taxes. It is believed that Cavanagh would interpret excise tax as meaning income tax in the event his proposed bill calling for a city-county income tax is killed in the legislature this year.

"His bill, introduced to the House, was still in the Taxation Committee today."

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors has filed an amendment to the proposed bill, which would limit it to Wayne County residents.

Senate Would Curb Radar Speed Device

LANSING (UPI)—An attempt to curb the use of speed traps against motorists in cities, towns and villages was passed, 27-7, today in the State Senate and sent to the House for action.

The bill, by Sen. Stanley Rosyczki, Detroit Democrat, would outlaw radar and mechanical devices by local law enforcement officers. It would not apply to roads outside community limits.

Rep. M. J. O'Brien and other Detroit Democrats led the legislature the latest figures showed the Motor City was operating with a $1-million deficit.

Jobless Pay Bill Set for Passage

The maximum tax would be increased from 4% to 6% per cent.

Benefits to unemployed workers would be hiked slightly, with the maximum increased from $35 to $50 weekly.

VERNON'S PLAN

The governor wanted a smaller tax increase but asked for benefits reaching a high of $70 a week by 1968.

Roberts called the governor's program "totally unrealistic" because it "includes huge benefit increases which would just make the fund go broke even faster."

Roberts said his bill would help get the fund out of the red by increasing payments by firms with unstable employment records. "The fund now is in the worst shape any state in the union," he said.

Roberts said the fund presently contains $152 million but that the state owes the federal government $195 million for an emergency loan into the fund. He said his bill would "immediately" replenish the fund by $25 million and eventually put it back on its feet.

Roberts' bill redefines an employer's establishment as the actual physical plant inside Michigan. In the Ford-Canton case the State Supreme Court ruled workers could draw unemployment benefits because the establishment could cross state lines.

Rahol opposed Roberts' bill. He said it would put more persons on welfare, which in turn means more taxes both locally and by the state.

Really, Wants Cleanup

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Democrat John C. O'Keefe, who is running for Congress, yesterday mailed small bars of soap to voters urging his election for "clean government."

Kennedy to Restudy RS70 Bomber Program

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy promised today to study whether more money should be spent on the controversial RS70 plane program. His action headed off a showdown floor fight in the House.

On the basis of the President's pledge, the influential House Armed Services Committee laid aside a recommendation that Congress "direct" the administration to move ahead faster in developing the big jet plan.

Committee Chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ore., claimed the House grooved when its battle to speed up work on the reconnaissance-strike bomber. Some other committee members were less certain of the final outcome.

A letter to the committee from the President promised an immediate restudy of the RS70 program. Kennedy said he would spend extra funds on the 2,000-mile-an-hour aircraft if the study shows it would be profitable.

Kennedy's letter and one from Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara spelling out the compromise were submitted to the House committee at an announced closed-door session.

Today's development marked a change of view by McNamara just as the committee was set to carry the fight to the floor.

CALLS ON RESERVE — President Kennedy uses a number of pens yesterday in signing legislation designed to safeguard pension and welfare funds. Behind him are, from left, Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen Jr., R-N.J.; Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa; Sen. Benjamin Smith, D-Mass.; Herbert Miller, assistant attorney general; and Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore.

London Cabbies Strike; JFK's Brother Involved

LONDON (AP)—A strike idled London Airport's taxi squadron today. It stemmed from an incident when Edward Kennedy, the U.S. President's youngest brother, touched down here for a visit last month and climbed into the third cab in the line at the airport. . . . The drivers of the first two cabs weren't around but the driver of the third wouldn't take him. The airport cabbies have a system—which is against police regulations—that the passenger must take the first cab in line. Kennedy waited several minutes until the driver of the first cab came up. The incident created a stir in the London papers, and a stir in official quarters. Tuesday night the police issued

CAB Questions More Witnesses

Idlewild's Crash Plane Showed Smoke From 2 Engines, Report Four

NEW YORK (UPI) — Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) focuses on witnesses again today in its effort to learn the probable cause of the March 1 American Airlines jet crash that killed 95 persons.

The crash of the Los Angeles bound Boeing 707 into Jamaica Bay less than two minutes after take-off from Idlewild Airport was, at the time, the worst single plane disaster in U.S. commercial aviation.

Loss of a charter flight over the Pacific with 107 aboard last week has since displaced the New York crash.

Four eyewitnesses were quoted at the first CAB hearing yesterday as reporting that two of the jet's four engines were smoking heavily just before the plane began its fatal plunge.

FOUR SEE SMOKE
Ralph F. Stokes, a CAB investigator who questioned about 100 witnesses to the dive from a cloudless sky, said that of the 11 most reliable witnesses, only four noticed the smoke. One of the four, he added, disagreed with the other three as to which of the four jet engines were smoking.

The first public disclosure of readings taken from a flight recorder recovered from the shredded wreckage placed the plane's altitude at 1,825 feet just before the dive began. That was 20 seconds after take-off.

John D. Rawson, CAB air safety investigator, said that at 85 seconds there was a sharp drop in speed and the plane pitched off and plunged to the water, flipping over as it fell.

Rawson said more study of the thin aluminum foil tape taken from the recorder was necessary. The recorder's tape, which indicates speed, altitude, direction and the pull of gravity, is being compared with tapes taken from other crashes and from normal flights.

Syrian, Israeli Planes Clash Along the Border

JERUSALEM (AP) — Syrian and Israeli warplanes clashed today and a Syrian spokesman said one Israeli fighter fled from a dog fight in flames.

Each nation accused the other of violating its air space in this follow-up to hostilities launched in an eight-hour battle in the Sea of Galilee area Saturday.

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet military planes flew in Berlin's air corridor again today, but Western officials said there was no incident. Western planes flew as scheduled.

West, East Lack Confidence in Each Other

Geneva Proves Man's Fears Outweigh Faith

By PHIL NEWSON
UPI Foreign News Agency
PARIS — If the so far fruitless discussions of Geneva prove anything, it is that man's fears still far outweigh his faith.

At Geneva, men of East and West argue from fixed positions over control of nuclear weapons—weapons which already may be obsolete.

In a war in which mass destruction is to be used, other weapons, such as chemical or bacteriological, may prove more efficient.

In the more immediate future, the mere knowledge that each side possesses massive retaliatory power mitigates against the use of nuclear weapons employed only twice in the war against Japan and never used in any of the smaller wars which have followed.

In the arguments presented by his delegates at Geneva, Nikita Khrushchev leans heavily upon faith.

But it is a faith which the Western Allies must give but not receive.

YEARS SPIES
He holds that an iron-clad inspection system of disarmament simply would put Western spies inside Soviet borders.

The West, he says, must have faith in Soviet sincerity.

As Western colonial empires have dwindled and all but disappeared and a new Soviet colonialism has grown, the West has offered many examples of good faith.

In the years since World War

II, in the neighborhood of a billion people in these former Western empires have received their independence.

But this is not the kind of faith Khrushchev can afford. Otherwise he would be required to answer for the millions of Eastern Europe and Asia for whom there is no hope of independence under communism.

The West offered good faith in Korea, Germany and Southwest Asia only to suffer the disappointment of hard reality.

To have faith in Khrushchev it first would be necessary that he renounce communism.

For it is written in the Communist philosophy that to conquer an enemy, he first must be disarmed and it must be accomplished without war if possible. Thus the Soviet Union first took over Hungary.

Here in Paris, a comfortable distance from Geneva, one understands better the cynicism of (Charles) De Gaulle.

De Gaulle boycotted the Geneva conference because he regarded it as another form of Soviet aggression.

Perhaps, as the British believe, it is better to "jaw, jaw, jaw" than war, war, war. But it is apparent, too, that faith is not a commodity to be bartered over the most dramatic is the emergence of the Common Market among former enemies. It is based on faith in Western Europe, of which the last it was born of bitter necessity.

Dramatic events are taking place in Western Europe, of which the last it was born of bitter necessity.

Birthday Surprise

His Dream Comes True

WESTBROOK, Maine (AP) — Few men have the dream John B. Gooch had. Fewer still see it realized as he did.

Gooch works in the research laboratory of S. D. Warren Paper Co. In off hours he conducts the company's 15-member band.

Tuesday night, on his 62nd birthday, Gooch went to rehearsal as he has been doing every Tuesday night—except in summer—for 14 years.

There was his dream come true. Waiting on the stage of the small auditorium in the Warren Memorial Library was a 110-piece band.

SCoured MAINE
Friends had organized the group as 500 B.C.

as a birthday surprise. They knew Gooch's great dream was to conduct a really big band. So musicians were gathered throughout southern Maine.

The band was so big only a few friends and company officials could squeeze into the auditorium. The musicians, three open windows so others outside could hear. And for four of the happiest hours in John Gooch's life they made music.

"I got a great kick out of it," Gooch said. "I'll be thinking about this for a long time."

The ancient Egyptians used sails of papyrus on the ships as early as 5000 B.C.

Communists Winning in Argentina's Election

News from Argentina is bad. The wrong side's winning.

Aided and abetted by the Cuban Communists, Peronists were victorious in the current election in this great South American nation. Frondizi and his austerity program which was designed to restore financial order in Argentina lost to the malcontents and the trouble makers who were aided by the international bandits hailing from the Kremlin.

Currently, the military has taken over in an attempt to "preserve the republican form of government which the constitution provides." This move was countered by an immediate threat of a nationwide strike.

Chaos is the order of the day. The red-inspired party is an outspoken opponent of our own $20-billion Alliance For Progress which President Kennedy has designed to aid South America and to help bring stability and a better economic order to the entire hemisphere.

From exile in Spain, Peron becomes exceedingly vocal and issues orders right and left. In Argentina, the cry now spreads: "Thief or no thief, we want him back."

Peron is one of the great phonies of this era. He practically sank the Argentine with his bankrupting policies that left the country drained dry and helpless. When he fled, he carried away everything that wasn't actually nailed down or a permanent part of the landscape.

This was no secret. The people knew. And yet, they want him back. The problems in Central and South America are titanic. They can't be solved overnight and they can't be solved without a succession of setbacks along the recovery route.

This is one. It's tremendously discouraging, but you never win every battle in any war. It's easy to appeal to people who haven't enough of the simple necessities of life. They're disinclined to look down the road and see the best solution that rests there. Rather, they listen to the opportunists who promise everything tomorrow.

Perhaps this is a human characteristic. Peron's followers and the Soviets are past masters at fooling people who are discouraged. And Peron actually built parks, swimming pools and other show places (that the country couldn't pay for when judgment day came). Hence, he has a colorful appeal that's difficult to oppose with the sobering truths and realities.

Study of High Schools Is Most Encouraging

At times it seems that there is a lot said against education, so it is encouraging to hear a good word from someone like JAMES B. CONANT, scientist, educator, diplomat and long a crusader for better American schools.

After a recent study of U.S. high schools in general, he says now he thinks things are looking up a little.

He surveyed two Midwestern states and one in the East. In the latter, he found the average high school graduate completing 24 courses, some 14 in academic subjects. The totals in other states were less impressive, 20 and 18 respectively, but still encouraging.

Dr. Conant thinks every high school graduate should complete 18 academic courses, and no less than 20 altogether. In the Pontiac School System a graduate must complete 24 academic courses.

He advises plenty of study in English, foreign language, mathematics, science and social studies.

It's good to have men like Dr. CONANT around. For the good of U.S. education, let's hope they continue to speak out.

The Man About Town

Deer on a Souse

Have Failing That Matches a Bad Habit of Us Humans

By JOE HAAS
Coming from former Pontiac resident, George Meyette.

Now living near Gaylord, is news of an interesting experiment in the winter feeding of deer. It tells of a frailty in the beautiful white tails that is somewhat akin to that of humans. It also shows that a habit can be fostered among them, just like humans, they fall victims to its vices.

It seems that the pumice or pulp, left over from apples when they are ground up and converted into cider or vinegar at mills throughout the state, is being fed to deer in areas where their usual winter feed supply is short.

Unless it has been kept under refrigeration from the start, it ferments and contains a good percentage of alcohol. The deer relish it, and will partake of it until they are unable to make straight tracks in the snow. It also accelerates the spirit of fighting among the bucks.

They also decline other food put out for them, and even refuse to eat the pulp that has not been allowed to ferment, although their love for apples is generally known; and will paw in the snow under an apple tree in search of the rotting apples — that have fermented.

"Worst winter," Annual spring lament.

The Canadian honkers are flying north earlier than usual, according to Jack Silberry of Cass Lake. He phones that a number of "V" formations of these geese have circled over the lake during the last couple of days, looking for open water. Not finding any, they continue their northward migration. He also says their honking can be plainly heard in the night hours.

The recent high water period was one of contrasts. The Clinton River got back to its bad boy days, and Pontiac Creek remained quite docile. The Dixie Highway's worst flood was about a quarter mile north of the Walton Blvd. and Williams Lake Road intersection, a point that never before put on such an inundation prank.

First to report garden plants growing from seed that was planted out of doors is Mrs. Mary Wedden of Waterford, who covers them up nights. She expects to have fresh radishes by April 15.

Funny How Different People See Things

David Lawrence Says:

JFK Wants to Weaken High Court

WASHINGTON — The Kennedy administration has just made an attempt to weaken the Supreme Court of the United States which might not have been surprising if it had come from the John Birchers or other so-called "extremists."

In a bill written by one of the top advisers of the President, and introduced in Congress, the administration demands that Congress strip the Supreme Court of any power to review the proposed law governing tariff changes and duties and relations with the common market in Europe.

Rarely in American history has there been any significant move to get Congress to limit the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the United States.

In 1888, Congress did take away from the Supreme Court appellate jurisdiction under the Habeas Corpus Act of 1867 in an effort to prevent the court from passing on the constitutionality of reconstruction laws. Shortly thereafter, in a famous case, the court itself affirmed the right of Congress to make "exceptions" to its appellate jurisdiction.

Today, the power sought by the Kennedy administration is very sweeping indeed, as it calls for an abolition of the right of any citizen to question the acts of the President in the complex and far-reaching field of tariffs and customs duties which he could impose or remove at will.

Under the proposed law, the President would be authorized to make a variety of determinations on reduction or elimination of duties, on adjustment assistance, extraordinary relief and other matters covered by the terms of the act.

Section 404 then says that all these determinations by the President or by any administering agency "shall be final and conclusive and shall not be subject to review by any court."

CONSTITUTIONAL No more sweeping attack on constitutional rights has arisen in recent years. Incidentally, the provision in the bill itself to be constitutional if enacted, because Article III of the Constitution says:

"In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a state shall be party, the Supreme Court shall have original jurisdiction. In all other cases before mentioned, the supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions, and under such regulations as the Congress shall make."

These "exceptions" enacted by

SITUATION CONTROLLABLE The attack of coronary insufficiency is also due to oxygen hunger by the heart muscle.

When the oxygen shortage is relieved by reducing the circulatory load—by sitting, lying down or resting—the attack passes; the electrocardiogram remains unchanged and recovery is complete unless, of course, the circulatory load again is increased.

MOST DANGEROUS In a coronary occlusion or thrombosis, the vessel is plugged. Sometimes the plug is the result of progressive narrowing by atherosclerotic deposits (also called "coronary artery disease").

When it's a sudden block due to clot formation within the vessel (acute coronary thrombosis).

When it's a slow occlusion, the consequences may not be so grave since there's time to establish a collateral circulation and also to tunnel through clot

Voice of the People:

'Humane Slaughter Law Is Needed in Michigan'

Write your state senator and representative to get a state humane slaughter law passed in Michigan. Senate Bill 1005 introduced by Senators Dornedahl, Green and Nichols is in committee now and House Bill 115 has been introduced by Representatives Burley and Hager. Urge the committee to approve it and get it up for a vote in the House soon. Ask George M. Van Pelt, Republican State Chairman, to urge legislators to get it approved and out of committee. Stress the humane angle—the better and safer working conditions for the men. The calves, lambs, pigs and cattle do not have paid lobbies in Lansing—you must speak for them on their behalf.

Eleanore Appel

'Right Wing Groups Are Dangerous'

The Communist party is at its lowest ebb here. Its membership is down from 80 thousand to 10 thousand; many members are in jail. Its finances are drying up and new legal measures are taken against it.

Paradoxically, we witness the proliferation of extreme right wing organizations which claim to be fighting domestic communism. They attack social security, progressive income tax, labor unions, our membership in the U.N. and they frequently tell us many of our top government officials are members of an "international conspiracy."

'U.S. Should Take Action on Cuba'

The Second Declaration of Havana, with its call for immediate guerrilla warfare throughout Latin America, is a constant cause for agitation in Communist Cuba, which is looked upon as the instigator, collaborator and example of the revolutionary strife in all countries of the continent.

Writer's Comments Are Challenged

I challenge Mr. Buckner's presumption in declaring for whom the State of Israel represents and speaks.

In the context of the Eichmann trial as quoted, what is dealt with is the legal question of the doctrine of "linking point," a legal connection that links the publisher with the publisher, the prevailing judge spoke of the various connections between the Jewish people and the State of Israel. At no point did he speak of Mr. Buckner's "the Jews of the world."

Mr. Buckner sought "official" proof that his statement was correct. In fact, it is odd that he should seek the proof on a political matter from a non-political source, Israel's Prime Minister Ben-Gurion, who has made Israel's position on the relationship between the State of Israel and American Jewry quite clear.

'Do Expenses Make Better Schools?'

Senator Stevens said Michigan was already about "average" in school expenditures per pupil, so we must have better schools because we spend more money for fuel than those in Mississippi, Alabama, etc. Michigan should be ashamed to be compared with the average school.

Oh, my darling, please believe me... Skies of gray fade into blue... And the world turns into heaven... In the love I have for you... Though I do not always write you... When we are so far apart... Please believe me, oh, my darling... You are ever in my heart... When I see the pallid moonlight... In the nighttime drawing near... Oh, my darling, please believe me... Tender thoughts of you and moral causes, like the Red Cross, the YWCA, etc.

On this day in history:
In 1786, the first person became the first U.S. secretary of state.

In 1918, American and German soldiers were engaged in the Battle of the Somme.

In 1945, about 7,000 Allied airplanes dropped 12,000 tons of explosives on Germany in full daylight.

In 1946, the United Nations moved into temporary headquarters at Hunter College in New York City.

DANGEROUS WIDOWS Widows are often dangerous as regards their children and it is time they realized this fact. For it is very easy to fall into the snare of inverse double affection on your child, when the other parent is dead or divorced from any child.

Unwittingly, you thus multiply the odds that you will be a double of your double investment of love and care, you tend to be doubly possessed.

But if you are doubly possessive, it is quite natural that you will doubly resent an attractive young woman's threat to your dominant role.

So widows are often doubly jealous. But they are usually smart enough to avoid showing such jealousy in public, so they often sabotage the romance or marriage of their child via indirect methods and insinuations.

"She doth protect too much" is thus a paraphrase from Othello that may apply when such a widow professes such fondness for her daughter-in-law.

Obviously not all widows or widowers are unskilfully possessive but this is such a common fault that every "only" parent must CHECKING ON DEATH — Dr. Manfred von Linde, 38, and his wife, the former Mrs. Lucille Rogers, are pictured in New York's Looton Club shortly after their wedding March 1. In Port au Prince, a U. She died in Haiti Thursday while on their honeymoon, of what was said to be a heart attack.

Strikebreaker Ban in Senate

Passes House With No Dissenting Votes, Was Killed Previously

LANSING (AP) — Without debate, the House yesterday gave unanimous approval to a bill to outlaw professional strikebreakers.

It now goes to the Senate, where a similar, but more stringent measure died in the state affairs committee.

The bill would prohibit any firm or individual from employing a professional strikebreaker, described as one "who customarily and repeatedly offers himself for employment in the place of employees involved in a strike or lockout."

Another provision would prohibit struck employers from advertising for workers without notice to prospective employees that there is a strike at the place of employment.

Knocked out of the bill was a ban against recruitment of workers to replace employees involved in a strike.

The proposal is promoted chiefly by the International Typographers Union (ITU), James A. McNish, president of the Michigan Federation of Typographical Unions, said similar legislation has been adopted in six states.

MGM to Study Its Old Contract With Grace Kelly

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood press agents are beating the drums over the return of Grace Kelly. The din may be augmented by some legal noises.

When Alfred Hitchcock announced that Princess Grace would make a movie for him in August—her first since she married Prince Rainier of Monaco in 1956—MGM Studio found itself with a position to study.

"It is our position," said MGM, "that we still have a contract with Miss Kelly and we are studying this position now."

Miss Kelly walked out on an MGM contract when she married. The contract would have expired by 1960, but MGM put its royal runaway on suspension. MGM thinks the suspensions may have extended her obligations to the studio through this year.

Seize U. S. Engines En Route to Havana

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The U. S. Defense Department won possession yesterday of 42 tank-type Diesel engines which Fidel Castro tried to buy from Detroit, by way of France.

Federal Judge David W. Dyer ruled that the engines were "munitions and implements of war" and signed an order turning them over to the Defense Department.

The engines were seized here last June 11 from the French freighter El Priorato. They were manufactured in Detroit, put aboard the freighter at Le Havre in France and were bound for Havana.

Defense Chief Has Many Labels

McNamara Believes "in Making Decisions"

(Editor's Note—What kind of a man is Robert S. McNamara, who runs by far the largest enterprise in the world—the U. S. Defense Department. Last week McNamara granted UPI reporter Louis Cassels one of his rare on-the-record interviews.)

By LOUIS CASSELLS
WASHINGTON (UPI)—"I believe in making decisions," said Robert S. McNamara. "I don't believe in kicking problems under the rug."

The general wasn't made boastfully. It was a candid answer to a reporter who wondered how McNamara had managed, during 13 months in the cabinet, to acquire such widely disparate labels as "dictator," "IBM machine with legs," and "the greatest secretary of defense."

"Dictator" is what McNamara is called by some Pentagon officials who feel that he doesn't rely on their advice as much as he should. The description, "IBM machine with legs," was applied to him, admittedly, by Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater.

He was Chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., of the House Armed Services Committee who pronounced McNamara "the greatest secretary of defense who has ever occupied that office."

PRaise in OPPOSITION
Vinson's praise is especially significant for having been voiced at the same time that the 78-year-old Georgia lawmaker was urging Congress to override McNamara's decision against continuing the production of the B57, previously known as the B70.

McNamara emphasized in an interview with United Press International that he recognizes Vinson's high regard. But he also made clear that he intends to stand firm on the B70 issue, and that he hopes Congress will eventually see it his way.

"Mr. Vinson has a great deal of wisdom and experience in military affairs, and I'm conscious of the fact that he has been serving in Congress since two years before I was born," McNamara said. "But until March 14, the Armed Services Committee had not been exposed to all of the information on which the B57 decision was based."

The Defense Secretary returned to a 2½ hour meeting with Vinson's committee last week. He did not succeed in getting Vinson to change his mind but he obviously hopes he has planted the seeds for such a change in course eventually.

Is Soviet Satellite Spying on America?
LONDON (UPI)—The London Daily Mirror's science editor said today that the Russians may be "spying" on America with its new satellite launched last week and the Pentagon is giving it "careful thought."

The space vehicle, said Ronald Bedford, could have television cameras aboard similar to the one with which the Russians photographed the far side of the moon.

"They (the Russians) are being unusually secretive about the new satellite," the science editor said.

'Winter Rains are Over! Get Out the Umbrella'
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—"Winter rains are over," U.S. Weather Bureau forecasters said today, boldly announcing last night apparently with one hand on his umbrella.

6:30 p.m. (9:30 Pontiac time) Tuesday night, we will start spring rains," he added.

Promote State Trooper

Ex-Broadway Actor Dies
NEW YORK (AP)—Charles Purcell, 75, Broadway singer-actor of the 1920s and 1930s, died Tuesday of a heart attack.

House Passes Bill to Aid Menominees
WASHINGTON (AP)—The House passed and sent to the Senate yesterday a compromise bill to authorize financial aid to the Menominee Indians of Wisconsin.

The Menominees have been free of federal controls since April 30, 1961.

Collegians Get Pitch From City of Muskegon
MUSKEGON (AP)—Vast expanses of bench and bad water, scores of lovely girls—including the current Miss America—and jazz by Woody Herman's latest herd. All is on tap at Muskegon.

That's the ball being dangled before the swarms of winter vacationing college students at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The Muskegon Seaway Festival Committee reached by paid advertisement into the Florida haven in an attempt to swing the tide of college students to this west Michigan port city as visitors once classes let out.

Heavy Pipe 'Plaything' Crushes Boy to Death
BETHPAGE, N.Y. (AP)—Robert Hughes, 12, and a group of his pals found a concrete pipe, a 5-foot-long section that rolled like a log when you got it going.

Approve Highway Bonds
LANSING (AP)—The State Municipal Finance Commission has approved issuance of $35 million in highway bonds by the State Highway Department to finance trunkline construction.

Also approved was issuance of $300,000 in school bonds by Hanover-Horton Schools, Jackson and Hillsdale counties, for additions.

The plane is a new type of long-range reconnaissance-strike airplane designed to fly 2,000 miles an hour. McNamara feels that Air Force plans would lead to 150 of them, to be ready about 1970 or 1971 at a cost of some $10 billion.

With the backing of President Kennedy and all members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff except Air Force Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, McNamara vetoed that project. But the current defense blueprint calls for $1.3 billion for development of three prototype models of the plane.

LeMay took his case to Congress, and Vinson's powerful committee is now sponsoring legislation to require a bigger outlay on the plane.

NEED NOT CLEAR
In the first place, it is not yet clear that we'll have any military need for such a bomber by the time it would be available.

In the second place, the technology required for the B570 weapons system is not yet developed, and I don't believe its development could be speeded up by spending additional sums beyond those we are already planning to spend.

Q. Does this decision mean that we're going out of the manned bomber business and putting all our strategic eggs in the missile basket?

That one got his Irish up. His dark eyes flashed behind his gold-rimmed spectacles, and he slumped at his desk top with the side of his open right hand to emphasize his reply.

"That is not true. The public has been led to believe that, but it is not true. We are still very much in the bomber business."

"In 1967—which is as far ahead as our five-year defense projections run—we'll still have a manned bomber fleet of more than 700 planes, in addition to more than 1,500 missiles."

Divorce Stories Don't Fool Old Clyde

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD—Clyde Mack, the cynical clerk, dropped by my desk to talk about Hollywood divorces.

Clyde is a press agent whose realistic view of the Hollywood scene keeps him unemployed most of the time. Trouble is, when a producer asks him what he thinks of a movie, Clyde tells him.

"I see you're writing another divorce story," said Clyde, reading over my shoulder. "Did you know that Hollywood divorces come in three, just like Hollywood deaths?"

"An old wives' tale," I scoffed. "No, no, old wives don't tell tales in Hollywood," he corrected. "They merely use on grounds of 'mental cruelty.' No matter if their husbands were drunk, chased a car or the charge is always 'mental cruelty.'"

"Very interesting," I said dubiously. "Now if you don't mind—"

'STILL FRIENDS'
"Oh, I know these divorce stories inside and out," Clyde continued. "You know what a Hollywood marriage is called—if it has lasted 18 months or over?"

"I give up."

"One of Hollywood's perfect marriages." The film colony is "shocked" and "taken by surprise" when it breaks up.

"Another thing. Even if he tries to pour lead in her ear, they are 'still friends.' She may start throwing the bone china at the mention of his name, but the announcement always says they are 'still friends.'"

"I picked out a few words, but he continued."

"I'll tell you something else that has got to go into the release: 'No other person is involved.'"

Named to Board of Finance Officers
Pontiac City Finance Director Marvin M. Alward has been elected to a two-year term on the board of directors of the Municipal Finance Officers Association, Michigan Chapter. It is the first time Alward has served as a director.

The association represents finance directors and city treasurers in cities throughout the state. Also on the five-man board is Royal Oak Finance Director George W. Tubbs.

Guardsmen, Reservists MAY Be Home by Fall
WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Department officials are reported considering Aug. 25 for starting demobilization of more than 135,000 National Guardsmen and reservists now on Cold War active duty.

According to this thinking—and it still is tentative—most of the reservists would be mustered out within the following month, informed sources said.

A SIGN OF WEAKNESS
Some officials suggested the possibility of a summit meeting early this summer is another factor working to keep reservists in uniform. They said reserve demobilization around that time might be taken by the Russians as a sign of weakness.

At the height of the Berlin crisis last summer, Congress authorized Kennedy to call up to 250,000 men for as much as a year of service.

All but a few associates of the more than 150,000 kept for crisis duty came on active service in October—about 75,000 on Oct. 1 and another 75,000 on Oct. 15.

'Employees Delay Help'

To Join in War Games
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Pentagon announced yesterday that U. S. troops would join Latin American military forces in war games next September in Honduras.

Denies Bombing Charge
CAIRO, U.A.R. (AP)—The Omari Office here categorically denied a British government charge that rebel Omari tribesmen planted a bomb causing the loss of the British ship Darna. The Darna sank in the Persian gulf last April with 197 dead.

"Here's another surefire line. The couple still hope to iron out their difficulties." Yeah, they might be throwing iron at 30 paces. In that case, you use the old standby: "Attorneys are in the process of negotiating a property settlement."

I finally interjected: "Look, Clyde, I've got a deadline. See you later. Give my best to your wife."

"My wife?" he said glumly. "We're separated. 'Clash of personalities.' She can't stand mine. Too bad. It was one of Hollywood's perfect marriages."

Indictments Don't Faze Hoffa

'Teamsters Worth Billion Dollars'

By NORMAN WALKER
Associated Press Labor Writer
WASHINGTON—James R. Hoffa said today the Teamsters Union he heads has become a billion-dollar operation and is doing fine despite a barrage of indictments against him and his fellow officials.

Hoffa, back from his latest bout with the courts, was interviewed on the issue of federal court actions brought against Teamsters leaders in cities from coast to coast alleging fraud and violence.

"There is no question the government is spending millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money to satisfy Bobby's (Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's) vendetta," Hoffa said. "It's costing us money for defense against these charges."

that we could use for collective bargaining and other union purposes.

"And what has the government come up with? Nothing."

THINK OTHERWISE
Government prosecutors obviously think otherwise. A steady stream of Teamsters indictments began when Kennedy, former chief counsel of the Senate racket committee which investigated the Teamsters affairs for three years, became attorney general. Hoffa said he knows more than two dozen grand juries are delving into Teamsters matters.

Hoffa minimized one indictment after another, and expressed confidence he will be freed from the 15-count, mail fraud indictment pending against him at Orlando, Fla. This alleges that Hoffa and a Detroit bank official misused $500,000 of Detroit Teamsters funds in a Florida land development deal.

"Nobody got defrauded out of a quarter," Hoffa said. "So where in the hell is the problem?"

"Stories about the Orlando case make it look like Hoffa put $500,000 in his kick. Which ain't bad if you can die it—but I didn't," Hoffa, asked about the net worth of the Teamsters and the union's various pension and welfare funds put the figure at $1 billion.

He said a rumor that he had put a couple of million dollars of Teamsters pension funds in the building housing Toots Shor's new restaurant in New York City is only partly true. He said the sum was over $4 million, adding that Shor leases the nine-story structure at a 9 per cent investment return basis.

"It's a very good investment," Hoffa said. "I'd say the value of the property has tripled since the day they put the first shovel in the ground."

Airline Strike Looms Despite JFK Order

REDWOOD CITY (AP)—Creation of an emergency review board by President Kennedy has blocked a strike by the Flight Engineers Union against Trans World Airlines that was originally scheduled to begin today.

But union officials say rank and file members will stay away from their jobs beginning at 4 p.m. Friday unless TWA stops training second officers as flight engineers.

A rank and file committee met here yesterday after President Kennedy announced his creation of the board by executive order. Kennedy said the strike threatened to interrupt interstate commerce by depriving a section of the nation of air service.

The order prevents a formal strike until 30 days after the emergency board has made its report.

Actor Brando's Ex-Wife to Keep Married Name

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Anna Kashfi has decided to keep her married name—Brando—even though she doesn't like it.

Her attorney asked Superior Court Tuesday to drop Miss Kashfi's petition for legal use of her maiden name. The attorney said she decided to retain the Brando name for the sake of her son, Christian Devi Brando, now 4, born during her stormy 11-month marriage to actor Marlon Brando.

Guatemalan Leader Weathers Uprising

GUATEMALA (AP)—President Miguel Ydigoras appeared today to have weathered a student-led attempt to topple his conservative regime.

The University Students Association abandoned street-fighting tactics after antigovernment demonstrations that left more than a score dead and 550 wounded. For the first time in the week-long crisis, no major incidents were reported yesterday.

Police said the students hoped to rally a nationwide strike. But workers that had struck in support of the students drifted back to work, and most services and businesses appeared to be operating normally.

May Finally Get to Vote in Her 1st Election at 86

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Catherine Agnes O'Shea, 86, who became an American citizen in 1947, says she will vote for the first time in the May primary.

"I may have voted before, but I worked every election day and by the time I got home there was no one to take me to the polls," Miss O'Shea said. "But I would like to vote once before I die."

Trouble Over Santa

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Allen Nutting said Tuesday he has ordered an investigation to determine how an auto license plate had been sold to one Kris Kain, wrote Kringle (fictitious) of 234 Snowfall Lane (also fictitious) a non-existent 1959 car.

Slams Con-Con on Road Plans

Angered Mackie Says Proposals Will Stifle Programs, Public Voice

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie sounded off bitterly last night over constitutional convention proposals affecting the highway department.

Mackie told the Michigan Highway Council at Grand Rapids the convention "threatens to make a shambles over the state's roadbuilding program and robs the public of its direct voice over highway policy."

Three proposals now under consideration by the convention, he said, would seriously jeopardize Michigan's highway program. He cited these as:

—Weakening of existing laws which prevent diversion of motorist taxes to nonhighway purposes.

—A change in procedures now used by the department to acquire highway right of way.

—A proposal to change the present system of electing a highway commissioner to creation of a four-man highway commission appointed by the governor. The commission then would appoint a highway director or commissioner.

HITS 4-MAN BODY
Mackie, a Democrat, sounded the most upset by the idea that his job, not be elective.

Said Mackie of the four-man commission proposal in an obvious reference to George Romney, convention vice-president and Republican candidate for the nomination for governor:

"It is a shabby political maneuver designed to fill the whim of a candidate for governor who wants to grasp greater power and glory for himself at the expense of the people of the state."

He said the convention earmarking provisions would mean the legislature would have exclusive authority to decide how money collected from motorists would be spent.

Busy NY Commuters Mark Jewish Holiday---in Motion

BETHPAGE, N.Y. (AP) — An ancient story of the triumph of beauty over villainy was chanted in Hebrew aboard a Long Island Railroad train Tuesday as Jews commencing their New York City jobs celebrated the festival of Purim.

The traditional, noisemakers drowned out the clatter of the train as commuters turned their attention to the Megillah of Esther—the story of the deliverance of the Jews of Persia some 2,500 years ago.

Following the religious service, "Hamanaschen"—the traditionment's book of Esther—tells of the plot of Haman, the prime minister of ancient Persia, to destroy all the Jews in that far-flung empire.

Learning of the plan from her uncle, Mordecai, the beautiful Queen Esther interceded with her husband, King Ahasuerus. She told him that she herself was a Jewess and begged him to spare her people.

Incensed at the plot, Ahasuerus ordered Haman hanged on the very gallows he had prepared for the righteous Mordecai. He also published a decree throughout his empire sparing the Jews and permitting them to arm themselves against their enemies.

DAY OF DELIVERANCE
The scheduled day of destruction had been decided by the casting of lots—in Hebrew "purim." Instead, it was turned into a day of deliverance, and the Jews were instructed by their leaders to celebrate the day every year as a religious festival.

It was in observance of this age-old command that the Jewish commuters assembled in the railroad train's club car, put on their skull caps and held the service.

Small noisemakers and Haman-taschen were provided by Rabbi Jungreis' wife.

Her name, incidentally, is Esther.

Warns of Purchases of Insurance by Mail

LANSING (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley warns Michigan residents to check with state officials before purchasing insurance from mail-order applications.

"Unlicensed out-of-state insurance companies are the source of numerous complaints from Michigan consumers who discover too late that the coverage is not what they thought it would be," Kelley said.

"Because many of the out-of-state insurance companies which conduct national advertising campaigns are not registered with the state, Michigan authorities can offer no quick and painless remedy," he said.

Trunk Airlines Lose $34 Million During 1961

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Transport Association said yesterday final figures show the trunk airlines had a net loss of $34,653,000 last year.

The 1961 loss, the first for the trunk airlines since 1947, compared with a net profit of $1,188,000 in 1960.

Operating revenues last year were $2,028,385,000, and operating expenses were $2,019,977,000, for an operating profit of $6,388,000. Nonoperating expenses, income taxes and special items brought the total down to a net loss of $34,653,000.

Research Funds Needed in State

U. of M. Is Looking Into Ways to Attract New Industries

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A University of Michigan research team is seeking methods of stepping up spending on industrial research in an effort to attract new industries to Michigan.

The industrial research office, part of the U. of M. Institute of Science and Technology, currently is polling Michigan's electronic and machine tool industries which are looking for more Defense Department contracts.

Industry representatives are being asked what problems stand in the way of more research and development being done in Michigan.

Dr. James K. Wilson, director of the Institute, said, "We've known for a long time that Michigan does not have a big enough bloc of research and development activity."

"We have slipped behind the east and west coasts, notably Massachusetts and California, in industry-related research. These states got a head start during World War II when there may have been a more favorable risk capital situation."

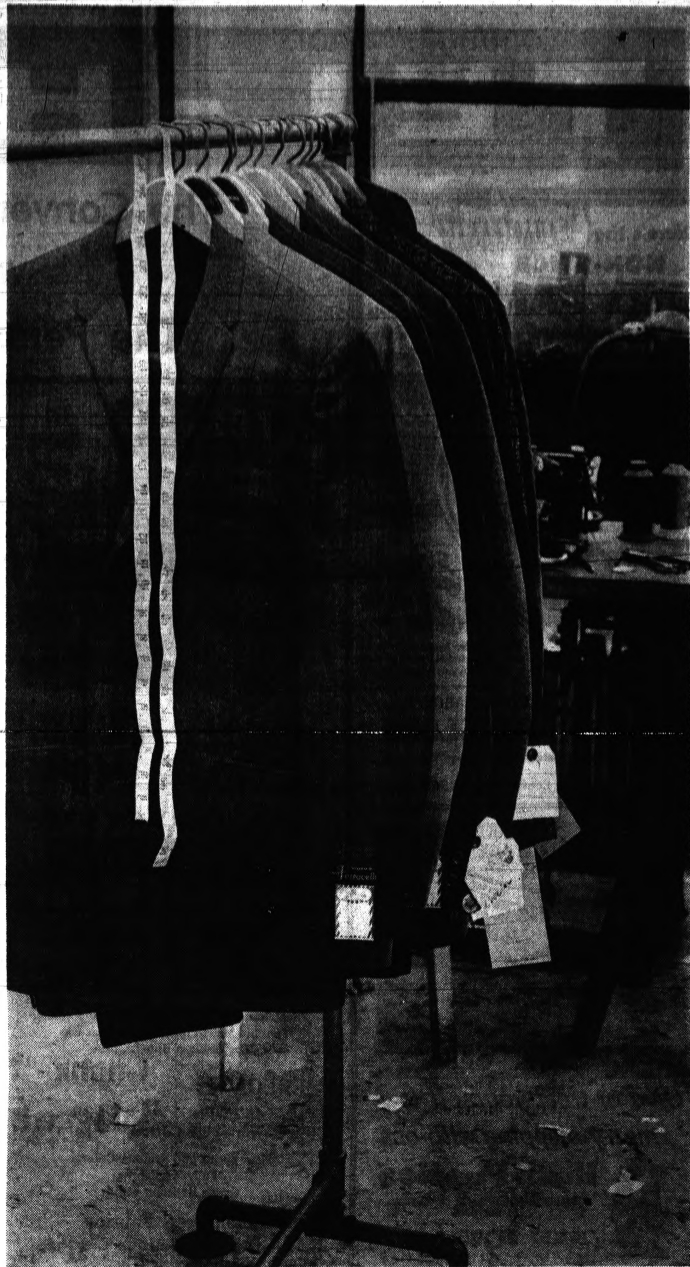

"While they were getting in on the ground floor of development research, Detroit was making tanks and other practical hardware of war."

He added that California and Massachusetts get large Defense Department contracts because of the growth of research-oriented industries in the areas.

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the University of California receive large sums for research from the Defense Department, he added, as a result of the association between industry and the universities.

You can make a lot of lasting friendships in thirty years.

We at Osmun's are lucky to count those years in terms of close ties with some of America's most famous—and trusted—manufacturers.

Take Petrocelli suits.

As you probably know, Petrocelli is one of the finest names in the clothing industry. Select fabrics, superb needlework, and fresh styling have made this label the choice of many of the best dressed men everywhere. But you won't find these suits everywhere.

Far from it.

To insure its reputation for high standards, Petrocelli chooses only those men's stores that can match these standards.

We are very proud that Osmun's has been the only store in the Pontiac area chosen to sell Petrocelli suits. And pleased, too. It's very pleasant to look back and count the friends we've made. The next time you come in, we'd like you to meet them. There are many, many more than we can list here. But they all have this in common...

They're great company.

Children Love 'Em

Warning: Keep Poisons Locked

What do you do when poison kills a member of your family? Poison is a devious killer. Often the only clues are an open medicine chest and a child writhing in agony.

The poison control center at Pontiac's St. Joseph Mercy Hospital each year handles an estimated 1,000 such cases.

Noting this is National Poison Control Week, Dr. Robert Mason, the center's founder, offered some advice for the times when poison may have been taken:

STEPS TO FOLLOW

1 — Find out what was swallowed, look for the antidote indicated on can or bottle.

2 — Induce vomiting by pressing handle of teaspoon on back of tongue.

3 — If no vomiting occurs, dilute the poison: swallowed by giving several glasses of one of the following: (a) soapy water; (b) baking soda solution (one teaspoon per glass of water); (c) one teaspoon of dry mustard in glass of water.

4 — Call doctor to get further instructions (call him first if there is time).

5 — If doctor is not in, call the poison control center, FE 4-3511.

As the emergency procedure shows, the center serves as a backdrop for the physician — a place which has information on treatment for even the rarest poisons.

In addition, the center, which is located in St. Joseph's emergency area, has several beds for emergency treatment, stomach pumps, oxygen apparatus and a ready supply of drugs kept locked in a special room apart from the hospital pharmacy.

DEPEND ON SYMPTOMS

Poisons are a particular danger for children.

Once they've taken a poison, doctors point out, they often can't tell anybody which bottle they've taken it from. Thus the doctors usually must depend on the symptoms in order to determine an antidote.

Wandering Indians and lurking wild beasts weren't so much a worry to a mother in pioneer days as are the poisons for the mother of today, Dr. Mason warns.

"Today," he says, "danger lurks in every nook and cranny of the home, in the yard, in the garage, but especially in the kitchen, the basement and the medicine cabinet."

While drugs have brought improved health and longer life to mankind, doctors say they may be deadly if taken by the wrong person or in wrong amounts.

Children appear to specialize in taking overdoses of aspirin, bleach and lye. Also included in their selections are overdoses of antibiotics, cough syrups and tranquilizers.

They even vary their diet with the seasons.

In the winter they favor petroleum products. In the summer, fungicides are high on the menu.

Adults who take poisons purposely generally tend to use overdoses of barbiturates and tranquilizers, products they can obtain from their doctors.

In all cases, Dr. Mason advises: "Don't sit around; call your physician right away."

Celebrate 52 Years This Week

Recalls Camp Fire Girls Service

Camp Fire Girls are celebrating their 52nd birthday this week.

The first Pontiac groups were organized soon after the founding of national Camp Fire Girls in 1910. Local board of directors member, Mrs. Lloyd Smith of Milford, remembers being in one of the first Camp Fire groups organized in Pontiac in 1912.

Local interest in the national movement continued to grow and in 1928 the groups organized a council and were issued a charter.

ACTIVITY LIST

Through the years, Camp Fire Girls have given considerable service to their community, according to Pontiac Council President Richard Jarvis. They started a Camp Fire group at the county juvenile home in 1934, collected clothing for flood victims in the south in 1935, planted hard maples on many Pontiac school lawns in 1938, collected waste fat for munitions, set up a bicycle corps, made bandages for the Red Cross, collected books for the United Service Organization, held salvage rallies and earned defense stamps during World War II.

In the early '50s they helped with occupational therapy at Pontiac State Hospital. They also collected clothing for Yuba City, Calif. flood victims and Hungarian refugees in the late '50s.

The council is now concentrating its efforts on finding women with an understanding of girls who will train to be leaders.

And, according to Mr. Jarvis, "There are many more girls than the 1,200 we are now servicing who want the program."

The organization has a program for three age groups, Mr. Jarvis explained.

"We have Blue Birds for girls 7-10 years of age, who in most cases, are having their first group experience. The girls begin their social development training by learning how to get along with other girls, to share, wait their turn and to assume some responsibility for planning and running the weekly group meetings.

The basis of the Blue Bird program is creative play. Through their supervised and guided "let's pretend" activities about the things close to them — family, school, pets — the girls begin to gain an understanding of life.

"At ten, the Blue Birds 'fly' into Camp Fire, a program for girls 10 to 15 years of age which emphasizes planning, Indian symbolism, progression through ranks and earning honor beads in seven areas of achievement—outdoors, home-making, sports, science, business, citizenship and creative arts.

"The Camp Fire program is particularly imaginative. Each girl decorates her jacket as she wishes, chooses her own Indian name and combines Indian symbols representing her Camp Fire name into a symbolgram.

FOR OLDER GIRLS

Girls 15 to 18 may join the Horizon Club which offers a program of grooming and personality development, vocational exploration, community service and boy-girl activities which the girls themselves plan."

An important part of the Camp Fire program liked by all age groups is camping. The girls enjoy progressive experiences in the outdoors, such as cooking on an open fire, pitching a tent, swimming and boating at the council's Camp Oweki near Clarkston which is supported by the girls' annual candy sale and civic donations.

Coordinating the program on a council level is a 25 member volunteer board of directors and a staff of three headed by executive director, Mrs. Donald Beck. The Camp Fire offices are located on Franklin Boulevard.

Kin Ko Hi Wa Camp Fire group of Houghton School demonstrates telling of an Indian picture story, an Indian lore project which the girls recently showed their parents. From left are Nancy Tarchalski, Charlotte Morris (kneeling), Judy Chakroff, Lola Hamill (kneeling), Cheryl Gustkey and Cheri Morris.

Wear Longer Skirts, Says Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Now that skirts are being worn above the knees, I have a problem which I can no longer hide. I am knock-kneed. Someone told me that an orthopedic surgeon could do wonders for me. It would mean breaking both my legs and removing some of the bone and cartilage. I know it would be expensive and probably painful for a while, but I would do anything for a pair of nice-looking legs. I am no kid. I am 23.

ABBY

friend should call for you at your door and see you in your door when he brings you home. I am for all girls listening to their mothers, but yours is way off the beam and at 41 you are no longer a girl.

DEAR ABBY: Could you please tell me what the superstitions are about moving? By this I mean, which days are lucky and which are unlucky for me? Someone once told me that because I was born in July under the sign of Cancer it was bad luck to move on a Tuesday.

I also heard that if I didn't have a loaf of bread and a box of salt in my new home before I moved in I would have bad luck there. I would appreciate any information on the subject from you or anyone else who knows. Do you believe in superstitions?

SUPERSTITIOUS

DEAR SUPER: Many people have great faith in both superstitions and the horoscope. But not I. I touched wood only once, when I hit a tree. That brought me bad luck immediately.

Pakistani Legends Unfold For Jackie

By United Press International
The great cannon Zamzama, in whose shadow Rudyard Kipling's Kim once played, still stands in a central square of Lahore, first stop of Jacqueline Kennedy's visit to Pakistan.

The legends of Kipling are still vivid there. The British novelist's old newspaper, the "Civil and Military Gazette," is published daily.

ANCIENT HERITAGE

Lahore is only 18 miles from the border with India and a number of historic spots were destroyed in the bloody battle between the Sikhs and Moslems that marked partition in 1947. But many others survived and are proud reminders of an ancient heritage.

The city is the site of the Shalimar Gardens, built more than three centuries ago by Shah Jehan, who also gave the world the Taj Mahal. The Shalimar Gardens have 80 acres of fountains, lawns and flower beds.

Mrs. Kennedy also will see the vast Badshahi Mosque, largest in the world. It can accommodate more than 30,000 persons.

With partition, the Sikh and Hindu population fled to India and thousands of Moslems came to Lahore. President Ayub Khan has had the city restored to show place condition.

Jackie will stay at the home of Governor Malik Amir Muhammad Khan, a fiercely matched Pakistani who invariably wears a high, stiff turban.

HOLLYWOOD OF PAKISTAN

Lahore is also the Hollywood of Pakistan. Nearly every major motion picture studio is represented there. Several hundred miles northwest lies Rawalpindi, the second city on Mrs. Kennedy's tour. Rawalpindi, provisional seat of the government, is the traditional headquarters of the Pakistani army.

Even Youth Bows Before Self-Respect

By MURIEL LAWRENCE,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I attended a high school in one of the wealthiest suburbs in the eastern states. Students arrived at it in luxurious, chauffeured limousines. Their frat and sorority pins were jewels of seed pearl, ruby and emerald. One became accustomed to the Paris labels in the deceptively simple dresses girls flung carelessly into lockers before gym class.

Though you might not think so, these young people presented a discipline problem to teachers whose salaries barely equaled those paid to butlers by the students' parents.

It was a discipline problem quite as severe as any presented by young hoodlums who carry knives to class in our big cities' "asphalt jungle" high schools. For these wealthy children treated underpaid authority with a barely-veiled contempt that was quite as threatening as any hidden weapon.

All our teachers met their challenging behavior with ingratiation. Some made arch inquiries into their students' love affairs. Others made a point of after-class jokes. All flattered — all except one.

I will never forget the morning he put it on the line.

TERRIBLE SILENCE
He had been saying something about Shakespeare's "Tempest" that flustered the whole play with lights when one of his most languidly insolent female students raised her hand to drawl, "Are we supposed to take notes on this?"

There was a terrible silence. Then, the finest teacher I ever had in my life smiled at us. "Little ones," he said softly, "you bore me." And dropping his copy of Shakespeare's "Tempest" into his jacket pocket, walked out of his classroom.

Through its windows we watched him saunter across our school's rich, green lawn to the shadow of a maple tree. There he lay down, opened his book and read the play to himself for the rest of our English period.

From that day forward his spoiled young bullies were his abject adorers.

FBI Agent Guest Speaker

AAUW Officers Named

Pontiac Branch of the American Association of University Women met to hear a guest speaker and elect new officers Monday evening at the Community Services Building.

Mrs. Tom Reese presided as the following officers were elected: Mrs. Donald McMillen, president; Mrs. Donald LaVire, first vice president; Mrs. Caroline Muecke, recording secretary, and E. Grace Clark, director.

Program chairman Mrs. Philip Lockhart introduced Mrs. Donald S. Hostetter, special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Detroit, who was the featured speaker.

Other guests included Mrs. Fred Crossman, Dawn Davis, Mrs. Charles Colberg, Mrs. Richard Zimmerman, Mrs. Richard Huttenlocher and Mrs. William F. Moorehouse.

Assisting the social chairman, Mrs. LaVire, were Mrs. Richard McCoy, Mrs. Donald Gause, Mrs. Frank Voight, Mrs. J. L. Van Wagener, Evelyn Wade, Janet Wager, Mrs. Charles Wiseman, Mrs. Edna Workman, Dorcas Wolf and Mrs. Maxwell Shadley.

the teaching profession. Frankly, I am afraid of my 11th grade history students. Often when school is over, I find myself shaking. It's not the open rudeness that I mind so much as their jeering attitude. They think it's fun to be insolent, even-cruel.

Do you respect the knowledge of history you have to offer them?

You see, respect for what he had to offer us was my great teacher's strength. He had given time, effort and love to the comprehension of Shakespeare.

Appreciating the knowledge he could transmit to us, he put a greater value on it than on the steadiness of a salary, his popularity with his students or his status with his board of education.

When he took steps to make that clear to the spoiled children whose values were confused, they too began to respect what he had to offer.

Whether we are parents or teachers, the young always know when they encounter self-respect.

Waterford Twp. PTA Units Will Meet This Week

Parent-Teacher Association meetings are planned later this week by two Waterford Township schools.

WATERFORD VILLAGE
Oakland County Civil Defense Director John Madole will speak at Waterford Village School's 8 p.m. Thursday PTA meeting in the school.

Discussion and a short film will concern this area's progress in civil defense measures.

HAVILAND
Missy the Clown of Detroit television will visit Laura Smith Haviland PTA meeting at 7 p.m. Friday.

Tickets, on sale at the school office, also may be purchased at the door. The meeting is open to the public.

"Mirror, mirror in the hand" smiles back at Mrs. Richard W. Mason of Silver Lake Road, Waterford Township, general chairman for the Zonta Club of Pontiac's "Easter Parade" March 23 in Pontiac Northern High School. Adjusting Mrs. Mason's rough-straw Breton is Mrs. Charles Hewitt, Arthur's Women's Apparel Shop, fashion coordinator. Ticket chairman Mrs. Wendel G. Kellogg Jr. of Walled Lake (left), will model a one-piece afternoon dress.

Zonta Club of Pontiac Is Planning an 'Easter Parade' Fashion Show

The Zonta Club of Pontiac will sponsor an "Easter Parade" of fashions at 8 p.m. March 23 in Pontiac Northern High School Auditorium.

Proceeds from the style show will be used toward two scholarships awarded to Pontiac area students at Michigan State University in Okla. The Pontiac Zonta Club has been contributing money from its service fund for MSU scholarships since the college opened.

Tell Friend Snub Was Accidental

By The Emily Post Institute
Q: The other day while walking on the street, a woman came toward me in the opposite direction. She smiled as she passed, but as she did not look familiar to me, and my mind was on something else at the time, I simply assumed that it was a case of mistaken identity and walked past her without recognition.

A short while later it dawned on me who she was. She was a relative of a close friend of mine whom I met several weeks ago at a party at this friend's home. I feel terrible about this and certainly don't want her to think me a snob. Will you please tell me what, if anything, I should do to make amends?

A: If I were you, I would tell this friend just what happened and ask her to please explain it to her relative.

Q: We are about to send out the invitations to my daughter's forthcoming marriage. We are enclosing reply cards in with the invitations. The question has come up as to whether or not the return envelopes should be stamped. My daughter thinks they should be and that we will be considered cheap if we don't do this. I, on the other hand, think it is insulting to include return postage and implies that they are too cheap to do this themselves. Will you please settle this?

A: You are right. It is not very courteous to suggest that guests need four cents to tell you whether they will or will not accept your invitation.

The American plan for marriage today doesn't call for either the girl or the young man to prove they are ready for marriage.

All they have to do is say: "We're going to be married!" and that settles the matter.

Maybe that is why all to often the next announcement the young couple makes is "We're getting a divorce."

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

The Tailor-Trix winner for this week is Mrs. H. P. Wagstaff, Grand Rapids, who makes this suggestion.

"Are you a zipper saver? The best use for old jacket zippers is to sew two terry cloth towels together and attach the zipper at both ends, very similar to roll towels. This keeps the towels off the floor and is especially helpful if you have children."

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

"Thank you for the 'ray of light' you give us who sew. It is very difficult and almost impossible to get the effect or 'expression in clothes' that you mention. Have you any ideas to help us?"

Mrs. L.M.S.

Dear Mrs. L.M.S.:

The most time consuming part of sewing and also the most important, is your selection of pattern and fabric. Rather than following a new trend, always consider YOU, and try to choose a pattern that will look well on your figure, and also fit into the type of life you lead.

Our pattern companies have done a wonderful job when it comes to illustrating and designing patterns that resemble ready-made clothes. If you don't have a natural fashion sense, try to get your ideas as to fabric, color, and details from your better clothes which are pictured in fashion magazines and advertising.

LITTLE CHANGES

Change your pattern to little details and then no one will think you made your garment. Remember, it's these little touches that take your clothes out of the ordinary category. Use the best fabric you can afford, take your time and see that your work is perfect, and above all, keep the basic design simple. It takes a little time to visualize just how a pattern will look when it is finished, but with more practice, you will make fewer and fewer mistakes.

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

"After purchasing a piece of knitted wool laminated material, I have been given so many warnings concerning it, that I am afraid to begin sewing. Any hints you can give us will be appreciated."

Mrs. T.J.T.

Dear Mrs. T.J.T.:

Foam-laminated fabrics are easy to cut and sew, but since they are different than regular fabrics, there are a few things to remember. Cut border off of your pattern before you lay it on the fabric. Folding wrong sides together makes it easier to cut. If you are using a laminated jersey, be sure the fold line is on a single rib of the knit. Do not use a tracing wheel for marking this fabric.

When machine stitching, use a longer stitch, about 10 stitches per inch, and a slightly looser tension. Also loosen the pressure on the presser foot. If the foam sticks under the presser foot when stitching, place tissue paper under the foam and tear it away after the stitching has been completed.

When stitching all bias seams, you must allow some "give" so the seam will not look pulled and the stitches break. When stitching bias seams on laminated fabrics, place tissue paper under the seam line and BIAS binding on top of the seamline, stitching the bias tape in the seam. All seams must be graded to prevent bulkiness.

In pressing, use a steam iron and a press cloth. Since it is rather difficult to obtain a flat, thin look to any faced edge, it is usually suggested that you top stitch through all thicknesses of your fabric about one quarter to one half inch from the finished edge.

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY:

Laminated fabric: This is a foam type material that is bonded to the back of some fabrics, at this time, mostly jerseys. It helps retain the shape of the garment, prevents excessive crushing, and also give an insulation which is excellent in coats and jackets because it provides warmth without bulk.

If you have trouble inserting sleeves, send 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Eunice Farmer in care of this newspaper. Ask for "All About Sleeves."

Please send your questions to Sew Simple, in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered as soon as possible in the column, not personally.

More Than Million Have Been Cancer Can Be Cured

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The word, cancer, naturally strikes fear into the heart of anyone. Generally, it is thought that the cancer victim is a doomed individual.

This is too bad for several reasons. In the first place, this is not true. Also, the terrible dread of the disease causes some to delay in checking in with their physicians when suspicious symptoms occur. Then, too, there has been some indication that emotional stress may speed the spread of cancer, or contribute to its re-occurrence.

Actually, many folks do not realize how many people have been cured of cancer. Today in the United States alone there are more than one million people who have been cured.

While there have been no real breakthroughs and no miracle drugs, there has been a steady increase in the cure rate.

For a long time now the National Cancer Institute of the United States Public Health Service and The American Cancer Society have been doing extensive, basic research concerning cancer, its causes and its prevention and cure.

BETTER INFORMED

Techniques have improved and information has increased, but perhaps the main reason for the upswing in cancer cures is the fact that the public is better informed. More people now are aware of the importance of the regular, physical checkup and of the wisdom of going to see the doctor when they notice any unusual symptom.

It is estimated that 520,000 people will develop cancer during 1962. Of these, one-third or about 173,000 will be cured of the disease. Another 37,000 of these new cases could be saved if they would have early detection and prompt treatment with the medical skills and knowledge now available.

Uterine cancer, could be conquered to a great degree if women only would have periodic Papanicolaou tests. This test is very simple and can be made in a doctor's office. Breast cancer fatalities also could be greatly reduced if women examined themselves, and also had periodic examinations by a physician. The most important secret of cancer cure is early detection and early treatment.

So do not think of cancer only in terms of fear, but intelligently. This attitude gives you a large measure of safety should you be one of those who will develop this disease.

Fear of cancer keeps many from the doctor's office — which is the very place to get lifesaving facts and help. Many people have been cured of cancer — today in the United States alone they number more than one million. While there have been no real breakthroughs and no miracle drugs, there has been a steady increase in the recovery rate, notes Josephine Lowman.

The Public Affairs Committee of the American Cancer Society, recently has published a most interesting pamphlet called, "Science and 25 cents to the Public Affairs Against Cancer." Its author is Committee, 22 East 38th Street, Pat McGrady, Science Editor for New York 16, New York.

China Stumbles Trying Great Leap Forward

By FERNAND GIGON

NEW YORK (NEA)—The "Great Leap Forward" once extolled by Chinese propaganda is finished. The backyard blast furnaces which dotted the Communist Chinese landscape are no more. They were to supply the nation with its iron and steel, but industrial smelters with Soviet machinery have taken over the job.

Gone, too, are the dormitories where men slept on one side and women on the other.

Gone are the community kitchens where peasants ate the same meal cooked in an immense cauldron.

Gone are the work brigades of 250 to 500 persons who would fall on a field like a flight of birds to till and harvest the land. No longer are children raised away from their parents.

In less than two years these features of the rural people's commune have disappeared. The super-brains of the Communist regime, who perhaps have never set foot in a field, are forced to admit the failure of their policy which they imposed on 500 million peasants.

But, despite failure they will not admit defeat. They still maintain that they will "straighten the thinking of each Chinese and raise his ideological consciousness."

I asked officials for permission to visit a rural commune, and perhaps to stay there two or three days. The official answered my question with only a shrug of his shoulders.

Several future requests were in vain. The People's Republic of China cannot bear to display the evidence of its disastrous policy, visible in the furrows of the grain fields and rice paddies of the south.

Finally, however, I succeeded in visiting three communes during my 750-mile trip from Wuchang to Shanghai down the Yangtze River.

BEST FOR SHOW

They were, of course, rich and prosperous communes which work well. They can be shown to foreigners who will be led to believe that they represent all 25,000 communes across the face of China.

One of these communes which I visited was a community of 25,000 persons under the leadership of Kwang Yang Yu, an able director who rose to his position from the laboring class.

Kwang is very popular with the workers in his commune. In the previous year he had distributed to the commune members an average of 247 yuan (a yuan is worth about 40 U.S. cents).

To the local citizens he distributes the harvest of the commune. Only then does the government receive its share.

On Kwang's commune, called Tang Wei, three of the four community tractors were parked broken in a yard. Until mechanics could come to repair them the peasants hauled out their old wooden plows, and attached their buffalo to them as their ancestors had done for generations.

Muscle power is still the main source of energy in China — as it has been for centuries.

Tang Wei is a single commune. I asked Director Kwang for a translation of some of the workers' songs. Some of the titles: "The Song of the Cotton"; "Song of the Cotton"; "Song of the Vegetables."

Heavy with propaganda, some of the lyrics went like this: "Previously we had holes in our hats and shoes without soles. Our skin was our only dress. Today our heads are covered by a new hat and our body is clad in seven

MUSCLE POWER — Much of the work in China is done as it has been for centuries — by layers of cotton. We also have seven pairs of shoes.

ANOTHER MISTAKE

A team of girls was busy at lag insecticide on the fields. An insecticide when I arrived, spray-crease in the insect population had been the result of a program to massacre crop-destroying birds. The successful bird eradication program killed the bugs' natural enemies.

Money is now used as a strong incentive to increase agricultural and other production. Because of this capitalist-type competition there often exists a black market in reverse in the rural areas.

Sometimes the amount of produce which a peasant has for sale is so great that he must keep his prices cut well below the official level. Chickens, rabbits, pigs and fruit are offered for sale in the market places.

At a collective called the October Commune, an automatic director named Wang pointed proudly toward the fields. "Here, who ever sows hard makes big money," he said. "Look what the peasants do with the land the government has given them and where they can grow whatever they want."

Wang, not a very capable administrator, made up for his ignorance by thundering at his 25,000 peasants. But he understood his directives well from Peiping.

In another commune, at the village of Ho Chen, I walked with a group of commune leaders to the fields for a first-hand look at the Chinese peasant at work. Suddenly I saw a small child run ahead of us and disappear into a corn field. He was to alert the workers that we were arriving.

When we reached the peasants they were, indeed, hard at work.

But not a single drop of sweat was on their faces, and their new shirts were still sharply creased.

This artificial display of zeal does not diminish the quality of the Chinese peasant in my mind. I consider him one of the best farmers in the world. What is embarrassing is this mixture of propaganda and work offered as a spectacle for the foreign visitor to China.

So goes life in the people's communes of China. They are prosperous if well directed, but miserable if the local director's income penance combines with the delirious policy of the party. But whatever their failures or successes, the agricultural communes adapt themselves well to the earth and mentality of China.

(Note: The Black Market.)

Retired Hotel Executive Found Dead of Stroke

MUSKEGON (AP)—Retired former Chicago hotel executive John J. Griffin was found dead of a stroke yesterday in his North Mankato home. He was 71.

Griffin had been associated in a managerial capacity with several Chicago hotels and the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island prior to his retirement.

As asked City Manager Robert A. Stierer to contact Pontiac Transit Corp. "and see if we can't get some bus service out there no later than Monday morning."

When it was suggested by other commissioners that the matter be turned over to the City Commission's transportation committee, Landry charged the committee with taking too long to get things done.

Unknown to Landry, Neil E. Pilson, general manager of the corporation, and the transportation committee have been discussing the possibility of shopping center bus service for over a month.

'GOOD POSSIBILITY'

Last month, Pilson said there "is a good possibility we will operate a bus route which would include both the shopping center

City Will Set Hearings

Street Projects Slated

Public necessity resolutions were passed by the City Commission last night, authorizing the city to proceed with estimates and hearings on some $553,463 in public improvement projects this year.

The proposed street improvement program consists of curb and gutter construction, repaving of black-top projects on some 56 city streets.

Of the total estimated cost, $249,996 will be paid through special assessments to affected property owners and $303,467 by the city from capital improvement and state gas and weight tax funds.

The biggest slice, $370,851, will go for curb, gutter, gravel and related work on 25 streets, for which $236,425 will be collected in special assessments and $134,426 paid by the city.

BLACK-TOPPING PLANS

About 16 streets will get black topping on a gravel base at a cost of $113,202. This will require $22,941 in special assessments and the city will pay $90,261.

Recapping and curb repairs are slated on five streets. The cost is estimated at $69,400, with $35,700 coming from special assessments and $33,700 the city's cost.

The individual plans, cost estimates and assessment rolls for each project are still subject to public hearings before the commission.

Curb and gutter construction is proposed on the following streets:

Arline, Madison to Perry; W. Beverly, Hollywood to the East line, lot 241, Bureau Vista Heights Subdivision, Cameron, Madison to the South line, lot 567, Perry Park Subdivision; Carlisle, Kennet to the North line, lots 147 and 299, Bureau Vista Heights Subdivision; and Cedar, Bigham to the East line, A. P. 105.

Chicago, Carlisle to Stanley; Columbia, Joslyn to Arlene; Corwin, Montclair to Gordon; Emerson, Mt. Clemens to Madison; Fairview, Kennet to the North line, lots 286-288, Buena Vista Subdivision; Fourth, Fuller to Arlene; Harvey, Dittmar to south end of street; and Jordan and Maxwell, Mt. Clemens to South line, Mt. Clemens Hills Subdivision.

SLATED FOR WORK

Monticello, Orlando to Ingleside; Poplar, Baldwin to railroad tracks; Robinson and Scottwood, Perry to Manhattan; Rosewood, Astor to end of street; Rundle, Oliver to Edison; Second, Fuller to Arlene; and Stanley from Chicago to Walton and Yale to Princeton.

Third, Fuller to Arlene, and Dewey, Kennet to the North line of lots 236-241, Buena Vista Heights Subdivision, round out the curb and gutter projects.

Black topping is proposed on the following streets:

Bassett, Basswood to Woodward; Cameron, Baltimore to Mt. Clemens; Elm, Paddock to Jessie; First, Fuller to Arlene; Foster, Howard to Forest; High, Blaine to Summit; Hillsdale, Burt to City Line Road; Kenilworth, Mt. Clemens to Perry; and Monticello, Oakland to Orlando.

Stanley, Kinney to Montclair; Steinbaugh, Augusta to State; Sterling, Mt. Clemens to Madison; Woodland, Lakeside to Dresden; and on Fuller Street at the intersections of Mansfield, Beverly and Tennyson.

'Hurry Up, Family...Let's Be Off to the YM'

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

Of all things — more than one-half of the members of the once all-male realm of the Young Men's Christian Association are women.

And oddly enough, the 2,800-male membership not only encourages this procedure, but promotes it by stimulating other projects through family participation in the many YMCA programs.

From 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. every Tuesday and Thursday, more than 1,800 women and girls attempt to improve their physical and emotional status by splashing around in the big heated swimming pool, cavort in the gymnasium and tone up tired muscles in the beauty-salon area at the Y.

For the career gals that spend an eight-hour day sitting at a typewriter doing tediously routine office work, there is the evening figure-control facilities from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

'WHERE ARE MY CLOTHES?'

Twasn't always this way, according to some of the older members. There was a time when a man could go to his private locker, confident that he would find his gym clothes, indoor track shoes and other manly sports-wear neatly piled and ready for action.

Now, on top — or pushed to the side of his personal belongings are smartly tailored short shorts, small-sized gym shoes (in color, yet), small sleeveless blouses and body-hugging leotards.

At the present time, the gals are using the men's doorless box-like lockers to stow their gear until the proposed $650,000 addition has been completed. After ground has been broken in the adjoining parking lot the next two weeks and the building is finished, women will have their own lockers and other facilities at the YMCA.

'WANNA LOSE WEIGHT'

Up in the big gym, fat women, thin, medium, short and tall go through rigid calisthenics under the supervision of their pretty director, Gloria Lust.

Later, athletic director John McClure blows the whistle for the beginning of a rugged game of volleyball and kickball which is concluded with a fast sprint around the gymnasium. After this, the gals head for the showers then into the swimming pool.

Little girls in the 9- to 11-age bracket really have the most fun during the gym-swim programs, scheduled from 4 to 5:30 p.m. Tuesdays. If they qualify after learning how to kick, hold their breath underwater and float on their backs, they may join the 4 to 5:30 p.m. Thursday "Minnow" club.

'LOOK, MA, MY AWARD'

From there they graduate to the "Fish" club, the "Flying Fish" and "Shark" clubs, finally ending with Junior and Senior Lifesaving groups, receiving American Red Cross merit of achievement awards for their efforts.

No man would ever dream of invading the privacy of the stream-lined beauty shop area down under the old building.

'OH, MY ACHING BACK'

In one corner of the room, a physical-enthusiast can ride from here to New Mexico if she wishes on a fast-working stationary bicycle.

For those who like to ease their aching back muscles after a night of doing the "twist," there is the vibrating machine that literally shimmies the hips down to size. Sloppy muscles really get a firm-up treatment on this machine.

How can women do all these relaxing, yet exhilarating things if they have small children?

There's a fun-type nursery available where a grandmother of 11 children presides. She is Mrs. Sue Long, and the kids that participate in games and listen to her absorbing adventure stories, look forward to mom's "Day Out."

'COME ON, LET'S GO'

The oldest men's athletic club in Pontiac has turned into a mother-daughter, family-friends, father-son center. Despite the change — or because of it, YMCA officials agree that entire family units are benefiting mentally, morally and physically from the female and family projected activities.

IT'S A WOMAN'S WORLD — That's what Mrs. Marvin McAnnally says as she basks in the warm steam bath at the YMCA. Evelyn Slosson adjusts the sterile towel and keeps a wary eye on the woman who will feel 100 per cent better later. The beauty parlor area in the intersanctum of the "Y" is maintained for women only.

EXERCISE'S FUN — It's a lot more fun to exercise in a group rather than alone as these 25 women have found out. They are shown at "Ladies Day" at the YMCA, with their instructor, Gloria Lust, putting the women through strenuous paces. The calisthenics will be followed by a fast sprint around the gym, a game of volleyball and a dip in the big YMCA pool.

STORY TIME — Soft-spoken Mrs. Sue Long is shown in the YMCA nursery reading Bugs Bunny stories to Andy Kerr, Bradford Strom and Kathie Bruno, while their mothers do toning-up exercises upstairs in the gymnasium and swimming pool. This is only one of the many accommodations afforded women and girls at what was once an all-male organization, the YMCA.

GOING NOWHERE — It's fun if you can take off weight or tone up winter-tired muscles together. Here Mrs. Floyd Coulter spins her wheels for toning, and Mrs. Ray Peters enjoys the vigorous massaging of the vibrating machine at the women's beauty area at the YMCA.

MID-AIR EXERCISE — There's nothing like a perfect swan due to tone muscles, and Marilyn Feldman was caught in mid-air at the big YMCA swimming pool, during a "Ladies Day" session. Women and girls can learn to swim, or just come in for a quick frolic with others determined to stay healthy.

OOPS, MY DEAR — Volley ball is one of the favorite sports of women attending calisthenic classes at the YMCA, once a strictly men's club. Here the gals are shown batting the ball back across the net to their opponents with all the enthusiasm of high schoolers. Good for the waistslines!

First Lady's Host-Escort Pulls Goof After Goof

BY RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON: John Kenneth Galbraith wrote a book, "The Affluent Society," which has become a bible for the New Frontier. In it the egg-head economist wrote unequivocally:

"In the future, it will be college professors and government officials, not businessmen, to whom the public will grant prestige."

Well, yes and again no. Johnny-ken is a Harvard professor-turned-diplomat, which puts him in his own top category; yet judging by some of the reports streaming back from First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy's Oriental safari, Galbraith as a diplomat is just another absent-minded professor.

One of JFK's first presidential acts was to appoint as our ambassador to India the Canadian-born-and-bred—Galbraith, who graduated from the University of Toronto and studied at England's Cambridge University.

ONE GOOF AFTER ANOTHER

Then, when Jackie began clamoring to visit India, the President wrote Galbraith to arrange things, but from the day of her arrival in India, the "goof" has been pulling one goof after another.

For instance, he barely made it to the airport minus his official limousine, in time for the welcoming ceremony.

His 10-year-old son, who shouldn't be allowed to play in a government car, had locked all of its doors with the only set of keys inside. Jackie's sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, had to ride into town with him in a considerably less-classy vehicle.

A few days later, the President mentioned during one of his over-the-telephone chats with his wife that their 4-year-old daughter, Caroline, had not received any of the letters Jackie had promised her.

The mother was amazed. She had written her several times, she said, and had given them to Ambassador Galbraith to mail. Yes, that's right. The absent-minded professor had stuffed the letters in his pocket and forgotten all about them.

The First Lady was probably not amused, but she managed to hold her tongue and moved on to Banarash, with the lanky economist still in tow.

The schedule called for her to visit a silk-weaving center. While there the free-spirited young woman became so enchanted with the handloom fabrics that she bought $50 worth, including some raw silk jacket material for her husband.

She ran short of money, and two U.S. Secret Service agents shelled out what she needed because— you've guessed it—

Galbraith hadn't thought to take any money with him.

A couple of days later, the ambassador was at it again. In Jaipur, India's ancient "Pink City," Jackie was showered with rice and lotus blossoms, symbols of good fortune. She was then expected to throw a coin from her own country into a silver pot to reciprocate the good wishes, but Galbraith hadn't told her of the local superstition, and didn't have a U.S. coin. Neither did Jackie, so touring newsmen supplied a couple of quarters.

Total forest area in the United States is 787 million acres.

'Replace FCC if Ineffective'

Prof at Hearing Says Agency Should Force Changes in Chicago TV

CHICAGO (UPI)—A University professor said yesterday the Federal Communications Commission should be replaced if it fails to use its licensing power to force changes in local television program policies.

Dale Pontius, Roosevelt University political scientist, was among 50 witnesses testifying this week in the FCC's first inquiry into local television programming in a major city. The hearing will continue through Saturday and then adjourn until April 9, when station officials were expected to testify.

Passenger Train Hits Rock Slide; Injures Minor

DE SOTO, Kan. (AP)—A few cars and engines were the only injuries reported after the Santa Fe Railroad's Kansas Citian skidded into a rock slide last night and plunged off the track.

The front end of the three-unit diesel locomotive turned over on its side. Six baggage cars, a lounge and a passenger coach derailed but remained upright. Six other passenger cars stayed on the track.

A boulder weighing several tons was among the debris that slipped down from the Kaw River bluffs and blocked the track three miles northeast of De Soto.

The train was about 25 minutes out of Kansas City and headed for Dallas-Fort Worth when the accident occurred.

'St. Peter Speaking'

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI)—"Main gate, St. Peter speaking" is the answer some people get when they telephone the Dayton Air Force Depot. The depot does not have a direct line to heaven, just civilian guard Jay St. Peter at its main gate.

Cat Explosion!

ASHLAND, Wis. (UPI)—Dog warden Jaim Paternot complained yesterday that people have been so law abiding in the last two years that "there aren't enough dogs running around to keep the cats under control."

It's Been One of the Worst

Terrible Winter History (We Hope!)

By The Associated Press
Just about the only good thing about this winter was the end.

It left the calendar Tuesday night after three months of storm and cold waves that buried roads under snow, clogged rivers with ice, damaged crops, highways and streets, isolated towns, stranded travelers, closed schools and airports, filled fracture wards, and

Weather bureau officials agree that it was one of the worst when you consider the wide spread of subnormal temperatures, snow, sleet, freezing rain, high winds and daytime gloom.

Hot Con-Con Battle Starts Over Make-up of Ad Board

LANSING (U) — Constitutional convention delegates have fired the opening barrage over what promises to be a lengthy and partisan verbal battle over the make-up of the State Administrative Board.

Main issue involved is whether the Ad Board—sometimes called the governor's cabinet—should continue to be elected by the people or appointed by the governor.

As debate opened on the controversial subject, the final assembly appeared likely to be some combination of both.

This was part of the compromise agreement reached last week by leaders of the conservative Republican bloc in talks with George Romney, a candidate for the GOP nomination for governor.

COVERS OTHER ITEMS

The compromise package covered other controversial subjects, such as house reapportionment, earmarking of tax revenues and reinstatement of the historic 15-mill property tax limitation, which the convention tentatively eliminated several weeks ago.

Supporters of the compromise package hope to muster enough strength to adopt all the proposals when they reach the showdown stage, although there was some indication of wavering in the Republican ranks.

GOP delegates outnumber Democrats 98-46.

The Democratic delegation appeared to be solidly behind a proposal to continue as elective officers the secretary of state, attorney general, state treasurer and highway commissioner.

Delegates already have tentatively approved a plan whereby the superintendent of public instruction would be appointed by an elected State Board of Education.

Romney's compromise with the conservative-rural faction calls for an elected secretary of state and attorney general, a treasurer appointed by the governor and a highway director appointed by a bipartisan commission named by the governor.

GOP sources said some delegates had expressed dissatisfaction with at least one part of the compromise package, involving the highway commissioner.

CONSIDER CHANGE

In behind-the-scenes action, consideration was being given to retaining the present elective status of the highway chief and allowing the governor to appoint the secretary of state.

As reportedly discussed in secret caucuses, an appointive secretary of state would be stripped of his supervisory power over the state's election division, which would be transferred to the attorney general's department.

In opening debate on the Ad Board, issue, William Marshall, D-

Taylor, charged that Republicans were trying to change the rules to regain control of the state government.

Marshall, an AFL-CIO vice president, accused the GOP of engaging in "gutier politics," and declared:

"A deal has been made, and the people will get a card or two from the bottom of the deck."

Marshall said the system of election of the state's administrative officials was not subjected to cism until Democrats were elected.

Richard Van Dusen, R-Birmingham, a staunch Romney supporter, replied that the Democrats were the only ones to change their position. First the Democratic State Central Committee, then Gov. Swannson and then the Democratic delegates came out for election of the Ad Board, he said.

"If there's been any change in position for political purposes, it's clear where it was made," Van Dusen declared.

An attempt by Marshall to delay consideration of the matter until Friday was defeated by a 71-39 vote.

Marshall said he wanted to postpone the debate until Romney returned from a trip to New York and Detroit.

"In all fairness, we should have his advice and counsel," Marshall said with a smile.

In earlier action yesterday, the convention voted to allow local communities to adopt civil service for their employees, with technical assistance from the State Civil Service Commission.

Waives Examination In Attempted Robbery

MUSKOGEE (U) — Joseph Mahan, 32, waived examination in Municipal Court yesterday on a charge of attempted armed robbery at Whitehall.

He was ordered held in lieu of $5,000 bond pending Circuit Court arraignment March 26.

A Robbery resident and ex-convict, Mahan also was held as a parole violator in a 1960 car theft case.

Reuther Favors Tariff Changes

However, He Insists Displaced Workers Get Plenty of Protection

WASHINGTON (UPI) — United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther told a House committee today that his organization supported the aims of the Kennedy administration's international trade goals but called for protection of the American workers.

Reuther, in a report prepared for the House Ways and Means Committee, said his organization supported the goals for a mutual lowering of barriers to international trade, a broadening of trading relationships and the strengthening of economic ties between all countries of the free world.

His qualification called for the trade expansion bill to be improved to "assure sufficient provision of assistance to those who might otherwise suffer hardship in the course of readjustment to new conditions."

He also called for a "clear statement of policy in the support of the negotiation of fair labor standards in international trade."

Reuther said that with such improvements "we shall wholeheartedly support the bill now before the committee."

Provisions in the bill for extending assistance to workers displaced from their jobs due to increased foreign trade need to be considerably strengthened, he said.

LISTS BENEFITS

Specifically, he noted the fields of increasing the maximum readjustment allowance for displaced workers and the 52-week limitation on benefits; removal of arbitrary limitations on duration of benefits to displaced workers taking retraining programs; provision of full benefits to older workers until they are old enough to apply for Social Security pensions and then payment of the full pension benefit they would be eligible for at 65.

He termed the claim that high-priced American labor made it impossible to compete internationally marked "only one of a series of propaganda attempts to beat labor over the head."

Search Is Resumed for Missing Plane

GUAM (AP) — Thirty-two planes resumed searching today for a Flying Tiger Super Constellation which vanished over the Pacific last Friday on a military charter flight to South Viet Nam with 107 persons on board.

The 107 included 92 U.S. Army troops.

The Joint Rescue Coordination Center contacted Lockheed Aircraft and Flying Tiger line officials and provided them with a detailed description of a piece of aluminum tubing found afloat on Tuesday by the USS Cayuga County.

The tubing, supported by fiber glass insulation, was found about 65 miles southeast of the point where the Liberator freighter, Lion, reported seeing falling red lights at 1:30 a.m. last Friday.

Casablanca Countries Plan Summit Meeting

CAIRO (AP) — Reliable sources said Tuesday night the Casablanca countries will hold a summit meeting in Cairo May 25.

The chiefs of state of the United Arab Republic, Morocco, Mali, Guinea and Ghana have not held a formal meeting since the Casablanca charter was drawn up in January 1961.

Aviation Pioneer Dies

DIAMOND SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — John Tjaarda, 65, Dutch-born pioneer aviator and automobile designer, died Tuesday. Tjaarda flew the first mail from England and later founded a flying service that became the Royal Dutch Airlines (KLM). He came to the United States in 1922.

Agronomist Succumbs

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Dr. George Dewey Scarseth, 65, agronomist, soil chemist and author, died Tuesday. Scarseth, a former professor at Purdue University, had been director of research for the American Farm Research Association since 1944. He was born in Galeville, Wis.

36 Babies Evacuated in Blaze at Hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirty-six premature babies — some of them in incubators — were evacuated from a ward on the top floor of Kings County Hospital in Brooklyn during a two-alarm fire on 4 a.m. today.

The infants were kept in corridors until firemen extinguished the fire, of undetermined origin. They later were returned to their specially equipped ward.

The fire destroyed a superstructure that housed equipment at the top of the elevator shaft and also fans for ducts through the 10-story building.

He told the subcommittee he would press for creation of a department of education, science and technology, headed by a secretary.

Postpone Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate investigation of the government's stockpiles, which had been due to start today, has been put off because of controversy over a proposed constitutional amendment to abolish poll taxes.

'Should Send Me Up'

'Spacewoman' Unhappy

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Miss Jerrie Cobb, the United States' first woman astronaut trainee, says officials haven't yet given a legitimate reason for not putting a woman into space.

"It's the same old story," she told newsmen Tuesday. "Some say a woman's place is in the home. Others say we want to do so but it's a little too early yet."

Miss Cobb, here to make some speeches, said the United States could beat the Russians by being the first to orbit a woman.

"It's our only chance of doing something in the space race before they do," she remarked.

Let Cops Nab Pals? Yells Muttin' Doing

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — For a long time, both stray dogs and trash had accumulated in the densely populated sections along the French Quarter in the eastern fringe of New Orleans.

Then a city official decided the debris should be removed. Nothing was said about the dogs.

Cleanup crews started their work. One of the dogs growled and snapped at the workers and finally nipped a policeman.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals sent a truck Tuesday to extend the hospitality of the SPCA pound to the dogs.

The idea didn't appeal to the mutts or to John Gould, 37, who lives in the section. Gould offered the dogs sanctuary in his small home and many accepted.

"You're interfering," police told Gould.

"You'll take these dogs over my dead body," shouted Gould. "Put me in jail instead of the dogs, if you want."

Patrolmen Merrill Koenig and Alex Vega decided to accommodate Gould. But they wanted the dogs, too. Fists started swinging. Gould went to jail. He was charged with keeping unlicensed dogs, interfering with police and assault on arresting officers.

Koenig went to a hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises below the right knee.

The dogs went to the SPCA shelter.

And, finally, the trash got picked up.

Names Webberville Man Delegate to Con-Con

LANSING (U) — Howard L. Jones, 36, of Webberville, was appointed a delegate to the constitutional convention by Gov. Swainson yesterday.

Jones will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Charles J. Davis, who was elected to the legislature from Ingham County's 2nd District.

The governor's appointment raises the number of Democratic delegates to 46 and cuts the Republican total to 58.

Ribicoff Wants Education Dept.

Eyes Scholarships for Able Students Unable to Go to College

WASHINGTON (U) — Abraham A. Ribicoff, secretary of health, education and welfare wants all federal education activities consolidated in a new cabinet-level department.

"In my opinion education is power," said Ribicoff. "I think the Soviet Union has recognized this a lot better than we have."

Ribicoff, testifying recently before a House appropriations subcommittee, said a minimum of 60,000 boys or girls in the upper third of their high school graduating classes don't get to college because they can't afford it.

And he said, another 50,000 students with good grades drop out of college every year because they don't have the money to continue.

"I don't think we can afford it," he told the committee. "I for one think we can do a better job."

Said Ribicoff in the testimony made public today: "I think it is a great loss, I think we are making a great mistake, in not having scholarships for the qualified, able young men of this country who otherwise would not get an education."

He told the subcommittee he would press for creation of a department of education, science and technology, headed by a secretary.

How the money you save for your family's future can help your country now

Some up-to-date facts about the U.S. Savings Bond way to security

It takes more than arithmetic to add up the benefits you get from U.S. Savings Bonds. You'll have no trouble counting the dollars and cents at 3 3/4% interest, but the other benefits—not so easily counted—are every bit as necessary to your family's future.

One of these benefits is freedom itself. Every dollar you invest in a Savings Bond gives Uncle Sam exactly that much more help in the vital task of safeguarding liberty today. You not only save money, at the same time you also help save your future freedom to enjoy it.

That's why Bonds are such a sound way today to reach any savings goal. With Bonds, you save for a home and a better world to build it in. With Bonds, you save for your own retirement and the liberty to enjoy it as you choose.

Why not buy a Bond today? All you need is $18.75 and a little of the "spirit of '76."

Why buy this Bond? One important reason for buying Savings Bonds today is to help preserve your freedom to own a share in your country.

Communism clamps blinders on the mind. One of America's great strengths is our free press. Keep freedom in your future with U.S. Savings Bonds.

Apples When They're Well; Easily Digested Meals If They're Ill

An apple a day can keep the doctor away. At least, for 1,381 student volunteers at Michigan State University, this maxim proved true.

Studies of this group, over a three-year period, revealed that these students made one-third fewer calls at the University Health Service for upper respiratory infections (colds, primarily).

than would be expected of the student body.

"The health of the apple-eating volunteers was thus shown," according to a report in the MSU Agricultural Experimental Station Quarterly Bulletin (Nov. '61), "to be generally better than that of the student body as a whole."

Although the Michigan State students apparently benefited from their daily intake of vitamin C-rich apples, there is no known nutritional preventative for colds. Vitamin supplements, even in large doses, cannot prevent colds, nor any illness other than a vitamin deficiency. Supplemental vitamins, taken once a day, can provide insurance against vitamin undernourishment.

However, according to Dr. Fred T. Sai of the Harvard University School of Public Health, there is a direct relationship between infection and nutrition. He has stated that an undernourished or malnourished person is more prone to develop infections than a well-nourished one. And when he does, the illness is often more severe than in his well-nourished counterpart. Proper nourishment during an illness and convalescence is, of course, essential.

What can a mother do when faced with the task of feeding a cold-ridden, house-bound youngster?

A prime rule to follow, says the U.S. Department of Health Education and Welfare in its booklet "Your Child From 6 to 12," is: "Never force a sick child to eat."

A sick child seldom wants to eat or is able to ingest as much food as when he is well.

When fever accompanies the illness, remember that there is an increased need for protein, water and vitamins.

Here are some dietary tips for the fever-ridden patient compiled in the text "Normal and Therapeutic Nutrition":

Calories may be increased.

Protein-rich foods such as milk and eggs should be given liberally.

Intake of fats should be reduced if there is nausea. Skim milk may replace whole milk.

Increased intake of vitamin A, ascorbic acid and B complex is advisable.

Approximately 2 to 4 quarts of fluids should be ingested daily including water, fruit juices, soups and carbonated beverages.

Bland, readily digested foods should be served, in small quantities, and at frequent intervals.

Aluminum Foil Gets Gay New Package

Keeping pace with the fashion trend of gaily-colored kitchens, the producer of quilted cooking foil has completely repackaged his entire line to match this modern mood.

The new decorator packages are glamorous, delightfully feminine, yet practical as always. The design is a radical departure from the "industrial look" so often applied to foil boxes. Warm pleasant colors, pink, orange and gold-schre now key the various kinds and sizes of quilted cooking foil. With 1,000 meals a year to plan and prepare in the family kitchen, today's homemaker welcomes the pretty touches which make her duties seem lighter. And this cooking foil is certainly one of them.

Like all meat frankfurters? Then read the label when you buy the franks to make sure of what you are getting.

Canned Milk Replaces Egg in Coating Fish

Give variety to the menu with Crisp Fish Filets. Dip the filets in evaporated milk; roll them in corn-flake crumbs seasoned with salt, pepper, and MSG, using 1 teaspoon MSG for each 1 cup crumbs. One cup of crumbs coats 1½ pounds of fish. The MSG brings out the flavor of the individual ingredients and combines them into a harmonious whole.

Line a baking pan with aluminum foil and bake the filets in a moderate oven (375 degrees) about 20 minutes or longer, depending on thickness of fish.

Egg and Cheese Filling

Chop 5 hard cooked eggs, coarsely and mix lightly with ¼ cup diced celery. Stir together 1 tablespoon sherry, 3 tablespoons mayonnaise and ¼ cup crumbled American blue cheese. Blend dressing into eggs and celery. This tangy filling is surprisingly delicious on pumpkinseed slices.

Rosy Applesauce Due to Cranberries

Ruby-red applesauce, as good to look at as to eat.

Ruby Applesauce—
½ cup water
¼ cup cranberries
3 medium-sized McIntosh apples
Salt
¼ cup sugar
Put the water and cranberries in a 1-quart saucepan. Quarter apples and core; slice thin with out peeling; arrange over cranberries. Add a dash of salt. Boil over moderate heat until cranberries all pop—about 5 minutes. Continue to cook fairly rapidly stirring a few times, until apples are soft; watch so as not to scorch because mixture will be thick. Stir through food mill or force through a strainer. Makes about 1 cup. Chill before serving.

Puffy Potato Soufflé Is Glamorous Left-Over

A Potato Soufflé is excellent for serving left-over mashed potatoes, says U.S. Department of Agriculture home economists. To 2 cups of seasoned, mashed potatoes, add 1 tablespoon each of minced parsley and green onion and about 1.3 cup grated cheese. Beat in 4 well-beaten egg yolks, and then fold in 4 stiffly beaten egg whites.

Pour into a 1½-quart casserole and bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes. Serve piping hot as a delicious accompaniment to seafood and broiled fish platters.

Horseradish Garnish

Open sandwiches are great for evening snacks. One delicious combination is made this way: arrange thin slices of roast beef on dark bread and center with a mound of chopped jellied consommé topped with horseradish. Men like this! Use fresh grated horseradish if you can; otherwise substitute the drained bottled variety.

Avondale Citizens Unit Gives Conclusion in School-Problem Study

Dissolution of the Avondale School District and consolidation or annexation to another district is the answer to financial problems is not the correct solution. This is the conclusion drawn in the 38-page report of the Avondale Citizens School Study Committee presented to the board of education.

The Citizens' subcommittee on finance consulted William J. Emerson, Oakland County superintendent of schools, on the question.

Emerson said such a plan would be highly impracticable, almost impossible and should not be seriously contemplated. He said there would be no state or county support for such a move.

Creation of countywide school districts in Michigan is not likely to occur either, Emerson said.

LOWEST IN COUNTY
Avondale has the lowest tax valuation per school child ($5,900) in the county, but not as low as that of many other districts in the state, according to Emerson.

Last year Avondale spent $310 per child, compared to the county average of $369. The state average is closer to the $310 figure, however.

Traffic Toll 219 to Date
EAST LANSING (AP)—Traffic accidents have killed 219 persons in Michigan so far this year, provisional figures compiled by state police showed today. The total for the same date a year ago was 281.

Propose 2 New Lyon Schools

Advisory Committee Says No New Taxes Necessary

SOUTH LYON — Construction of two new schools, a $1.3-million high school and a $125,000 elementary facility, has been proposed by the Citizens Advisory Committee on School Needs.

The committee, in asking that the Lyon Township Board of Education give immediate consideration to the projects, said no additional taxes would be needed to construct either building.

Money for the construction of the elementary school and the purchase of a high school site is available in the present building and site fund, the committee stated.

The high school could be constructed through a bond issue. No tax hike would be needed, according to the committee, because of present debt retirement savings and anticipated increased revenue from higher property valuation.

The committee recommended that the four-room elementary school be built in Salem Township, Westland County, but did not specify a location for the high school.

The proposed high school would be built to originally accommodate 700 students, but have a total capacity of 1,200 with later additions.

Supt. Frank Bartlett said the school board will meet tomorrow but doesn't believe it will take any action on the school proposals at that time.

"The board's time will be devoted to balancing the school budget and possibly setting an election date for the renewal of expired taxes," Bartlett said.

The proposed budget is approximately $40,000 higher than the school district's anticipated income. The tentative budget totals about $78,000, which includes $500 salary increases for teachers.

Bartlett said he believes that the budget can be brought in line without reducing the proposed salary schedule for teachers. The current salary schedule is the lowest in the county.

One way of doing this, the superintendent explained, is by reducing the four-mill operational levy and continuing and redesignating 2.5 mills now used for building and site purposes. The 2.5 mills will be used for operations.

Both taxes expired in December.

The board action was taken when McManigal stated he would not comply with a policy requiring him to lead the band in "The Star Spangled Banner" in school programs.

The policy discriminated against members of his religion, he complained to the FEPC.

McManigal did not refuse to teach the piece, but only to lead it.

"We know the flag is an image of the state and we look upon it as an idol," McManigal said. "Our respect is for the principle and not the object."

He told his students that he could not, in good conscience, participate in "nationalistic" programs.

McManigal's teaching duties already include some music instruction in the elementary schools.

Strangled Near Brown City

Grill Suspects in Murder of Woman in Farm Home

BROWN CITY — Several suspects in the slaying of a 58-year-old widow near here were being questioned today by Lapeer County sheriff's deputies.

A Flint man, picked up yesterday for questioning in the death of Mrs. Hazel A. McArthur in her rural home at 706 E. Huron Road, was released after taking a lie detector test.

Mrs. McArthur's body was found yesterday morning by a friend, Mrs. Gladys Laughter of Lapeer. Mrs. McArthur had been strangled with a pair of nylon hose, found wrapped tightly around her neck.

The Lapeer County coroner's office said she had been dead 36 to 48 hours, which placed the time of the slaying sometime Sunday.

Sheriff Kenneth A. Parks said robbery was apparently the motive. A purse which relatives said contained $300 was missing, although the house was not ransacked.

Mrs. McArthur was last seen alive at 7:30 p.m. Sunday by two brothers who own nearby farms.

She was found cold only in a slip and underclothing. Police theorized she had been preparing for bed when the killer broke in by smashing the glass in the rear door.

There was no evidence the victim had been criminally assaulted, police said.

Grammar School Starts Road to College

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
Professor of Education
University of Southern California
 Grammar school is a name too early to start your child on the road to college.
 It's during the grammar school years that he acquires the pattern of thinking that affects the success of his future schooling.
 The way a child learns is more important than what he learns in grammar school.
 The way of learning may stay with him for the rest of his life, either as a help or a handicap.
 Once such a pattern is established it is difficult to change. It can be changed if the student grows. DR. NASON urges the advantages of a different approach to learning. But it takes an effort.
 Faulty habits that eventually lead to failure in college can often be traced back to the child's first years.
 When high school or college students have difficulty learning chemistry or physics there usually is something wrong with the way they try to learn.
 Many otherwise superior students have difficulty with physics or chemistry because of some combination of the following tendencies:
TENDENCIES
 —They are satisfied to grasp in a general way.
 —They accept ideas too quickly and easily for complete assimilation. That is, they really learn too fast.
 —They do not think about an item long enough and seriously enough to gain precise understanding.

30,000 Pieces of Mail Received by Astronaut

By FRANK CAREY
LANGLEY FIELD, Va. (AP)—More than 30,000 fan letters and packages have been sent to John W. Glenn Jr. since he soared into history. They have contained everything from pennies to an offer to name an orchid entry in a spring flower show for him.
 "Scores of offers have come in to name things for John," said one official. "They range from the orchid to bridges, and from schools to libraries."
 Governors of various states want Glenn to pay a visit. He has offers of free cruises on steamships, all-expenses-paid trip to Hawaii—and gifts ranging from cakes and candy to an electric computer and an adding machine. All incoming gift packages are checked to determine whether they look like some attempt at commercialism. If they do, they are returned with thanks.
PUT IN FUND
 All cash gifts are being turned over to a special fund which eventually will be donated to charity. This includes a check for $100 from a physician who wrote Glenn: "You deserve a party—go out and have a good time."
 The names and hometowns of the letter writers are not available at the moment. Officials at the Washington headquarters of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said they were still sorting Glenn's mail and could not give any breakdowns.

National Aeronautics Association (NAA) officials also said they would continue to press for independent observers to witness space flight record attempts. So far they have been unsuccessful.
 The NAA is the governing body of sporting aviation and custodian of U.S. air and space flight records. It is the U.S. member of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale (FAI), international records custodian, which certified Titov's record a week ago.

student pick one relationship in physics or one principle of chemistry and think about it and work on it until he really understands it. He must see exactly how a chemical equation is balanced or exactly what is meant by molecular weights.
 One student, suddenly grasping the idea of thinking in this manner, was so startled that he asked, "Do other people think like that?"
THINK, DON'T GUESS!
 I found that this boy in grammar school had been inclined to guess rather than think. Confronted with an arithmetic problem, he worked the problem according to the way it looked to him.
 He was a very likable lad and unfortunately everyone gave him a hand and helped him get by with his. He did not get his learning habits straightened out until he reached college.
 Students of superior intelligence may easily obtain grades at any level through the eighth grade without acquiring those skills needed for college.
 It is possible for them to solve problems in elementary school without using pencil and paper. They may avoid handwritten material almost completely.
 More advanced courses in high school and college present problems which are too complex for mental solution. Lacking the techniques of pencil and paper, these otherwise superior students cannot succeed in these courses.
 They failed to "learn how to learn" in grammar school.

U. N. Unit to Meet on Syrian Charges

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — A U. N. Security Council is expected to meet next week to take up Syrian charges of Israeli aggression along their explosive frontier.
 Syrian and Israeli forces clashed near the east coast of the Sea of Galilee for the second time in three days yesterday shortly before Syrian delegate Farid Chehlaoui urged the council to investigate the fighting he said threatened peace in the region.
 Council President Carlos Sosa-Rodriguez of Venezuela said that unless something unforeseen occurred, he would not call the council into session before next week to hear the Syrian complaint.

Lease on Land to YMCA OK'd

The City Commission last night approved an agreement to lease a 157-foot strip of city land along Mt. Clemens Street to the Pontiac YMCA.

The land lies between the YMCA property line and sidewalk. The YMCA had requested a lease on the strip, which will be in front of its new addition, so it could erect four ornamental fountains on the site.

Following passage of a public necessity resolution for reviewing the scene on Montclair Street at Curves Street, City Engineer James N. Carls submitted a cost estimate of $5,950.49 for the job.

The entire cost will be paid by the city from its share of state gas and weight tax funds. The city is straightening out a very sharp curve that city officials feel constitutes a traffic hazard.

Work will proceed on the project immediately.

Defeat Bill to Allow Uncertified Teachers

LANSING — A bill to permit noncertified teachers with state's degrees to teach in public schools went down to defeat in the House today. The vote was 46-57.

A humane slaughter bill cleared the lower chamber 87-16 and moved to the Senate.

Opponents of the school bill warned that it would severely damage the state's certification system by allowing school superintendents to judge whether a person without required education courses were qualified to teach.

"It would allow hiring of improperly prepared and unskilled people," said Rep. Lucille H. McCollough, D-Dearborn. "It is as important to know how to teach as what to teach."

Supporters tried the measure as a means of tapping a large pool of qualified talent to relieve a teacher shortage in some areas.

Any noncertified teacher would be compelled to have a master's degree in the subject he taught. He would be hired on a temporary basis and be paid the same as other teachers in his position.

IDEA FROM DEANS

Rep. Robert E. Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, the sponsor, said he got the idea for the bill when he dined with academic deans of Michigan's three biggest universities and learned one could teach in high school for lack of certification.

"There are many people like that with tremendous talent and knowledge who are unable to teach simply because they don't have certain education courses," Waldron said.

The humane slaughter bill, hotly defended and attacked during debates earlier in the session, would require slaughter of livestock by mechanical, electrical, chemical or other means that are rapid and effective before being shackled, hoisted, thrown, cast or cut.

Resolution would be a misdemeanor punishable by up to 90 days in jail and a $100 fine.

At present, prospective jurors drawn from assessment rolls by supervisors.

Under the House-approved bill, names of jury candidates would come from registered voter lists and the commission would screen the candidates.

REMOVES LIMITS

The bill is intended to keep jury lists from being limited to property owners, since only their names appear on assessment rolls.

Supporters of the bill also say it would eliminate repeaters and hand-picked jurors from the lists. They contend it would guarantee random selection of jurors.

Along with the jury commission bill, House legislators passed a measure to pay jury commissioners the same as county supervisors.

Oakland County supervisors presently receive $15 for each day they meet. The current scale for jury commissioners is $3 a day.

Upjohn Withdrawing Monase From Market

KALAMAZOO — The Upjohn Co. said today it is withdrawing its prescription drug, Monase, from the market because the drug may be associated with a blood disease in some cases.

The pharmaceutical firm said in a statement that some patients after use of the drug developed angioedema. A spokesman called this an acute blood disease marked by the lowering of the number of white blood cells.

Discover $2,500 in Stolen Goods

More than $2,500 in stolen goods taken from two adjacent West Bloomfield Township homes were discovered by police last night hidden in a nearby doghouse.

Township and state police said most of the items were recovered the evening from the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Bennett of 2400 Lockin Lane and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Womack of 2448 Lockin Lane.

Found in the dog house on Womack's property were guns and rifles valued at more than $1,000, a portable TV, several cameras and golf clubs.

Police believe that the thieves hid the goods in the doghouse with the intention of making several trips to cart them off when Mrs. Bennett returned home about 9:30 p.m.

Most of the items recovered were owned by the Bennetts, according to police. The Womacks were to take an inventory today to see what was missing from their home.

The only items that the thieves managed to escape with were what they could carry in their pockets, with the exception of a record collection, police said.

Psychological Tests Get Unusual Responses

Some Think Men, Women Should Be 'Apart'

BY DELOS SMITH
Science Editor

NEW YORK — Just about all people would agree that man and woman by natural affinity and personal preference belong together.

They'd also agree no one should stand between a woman and her child, and not even a dog should have a rank over that of human beings.

These propositions were some of the meat of a psychological experiment with 100 men by Scientist James J. Kuehse of the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore. And the startling thing is that deep down in their minds, percentages of these men didn't agree to one or another.

Kuehse used a psychological device to get the 100 men to reveal their depths, unconsciously or at least unthinkingly. A big piece of blue felt was stretched out on a wall.

Each of the 100, in turn, was given small-cut out figures of yellow felt and told to put them on the blue felt in any design they wished. Because of felt's nap, the yellow stuck to the blue.

The subjects had a number of linings of this play, using a different set of cut-outs in each. One set was a man, a woman and two rectangles of approximately the same size.

Of the 100, 78 put the man and the woman together with the rectangles flanking them.

But the other 22 used the rectangles to separate the man and woman in one way or another, in ways to suggest they thought in terms of a barrier to their opposite sex.

In another lining, the 100 men used cut-outs of a man, woman and a child. Eight didn't put them in line. Of 92 who did line them up, 44 gave them the conventional order of man, woman, child, and 48 made it man, child, woman.

The other eight separated the woman from the child by putting the man in between.

DOG SEPARATED
In a third lining, the figures were of a man, a woman and a dog. More than half—56—put the dog first, then the man and the woman, and 10 put the dog ahead of the woman, that is, between the man and the woman. The remaining 34 ranked the dog last, after the woman.

The subjects also played with cut-outs of three men and three rectangles in a set and two women and two rectangles in another set.

In his report to the American Psychological Association, Kuehse noted that the man and woman figures were put together more often than the two woman figures.

Common sense psychology would have predicted this result," he conceded, and went on at once to the "idiosyncratic responses" or those whose arrangements were apart from common sense psychology.

The putting of barriers between man and woman "might reflect a disturbance of the normal concept of the relation between male and female figures," he said, adding that this and the other "idiosyncratic responses" could also "reflect disturbances of normal social thinking."

FAA Cancels Air Certificate

Flight Engineer at Time of Richmond Crash Is Blamed in GI Deaths

WASHINGTON — The Federal Aviation Agency has canceled the certificate of William F. Poythress, 20, the flight engineer in the plane crash in which 74 Army recruits were killed at Richmond, Va., Nov. 2.

Poythress, one of three survivors, was charged with 11 major violations of flight safety regulations in connection with the flight. The FAA said the cancellation closed its proceedings against Poythress, whose address was given as Miami.

The agency said enforcement proceedings against the pilot and only other survivor, Ronald H. Conway, 25—are still under way.

Last Feb. 6 a report of the Civil Aeronautics Board accused the operator of the plane—Imperial Airlines of Miami Springs, Fla.—of mismanagement.

The CAB said the crew was "not capable of performing the function or assuming the responsibility" assigned to it. Three crew members perished along with the Army men.

NO INSPECTION
The FAA said that Poythress failed to inspect the log books of the Lockheed Constellation before it took off from Columbia, S.C., to determine whether any needed correction, and signed the log books after the flight departed without first insuring that repairs were made properly and that the aircraft was airworthy.

The plane traveled to Newark, N.J., Milkes-Barre, Pa., and Baltimore, Md., to pick up the recruits from training in the South.

The FAA said that before the take-off from Columbia, Poythress repaired the No. 2 auxiliary fuel pump with an automobile brush not "approved by the FAA," and that he failed to advise the pilot of this.

It said Poythress was aware that another fuel pump, serving engine No. 3, had malfunctioned on the preceding day, but permitted the take-off without knowing of any repairs to that pump.

Jury Unit Bill OK'd by House

Measure Would Create Commission to Select Voters for Court Duty

A bill to allow creation of a jury commission in Oakland County was passed yesterday by the State House of Representatives.

If the bill gains approval of the Senate and Gov. Swainson, it will enable the Board of Supervisors to set up a three-member commission for selecting jurors.

At present, prospective jurors are drawn from assessment rolls by supervisors.

Under the House-approved bill, names of jury candidates would come from registered voter lists and the commission would screen the candidates.

REMOVES LIMITS

The bill is intended to keep jury lists from being limited to property owners, since only their names appear on assessment rolls.

Supporters of the bill also say it would eliminate repeaters and hand-picked jurors from the lists. They contend it would guarantee random selection of jurors.

Along with the jury commission bill, House legislators passed a measure to pay jury commissioners the same as county supervisors.

Oakland County supervisors presently receive $15 for each day they meet. The current scale for jury commissioners is $3 a day.

K Ties 'f' to Space Pact

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev agreed today to cooperate with the United States in space exploration, including a program for sending vehicles to other planets.

But he emphasized such joint ventures depend "in some degree on the solution of the disarmament problem."

Khrushchev replied to a letter of President Kennedy on March 7 suggesting that the United States and the Soviet Union pool their efforts in such fields as weather forecasting and international communications and even future exploration of the moon and planets.

Khrushchev proposed a six-point program largely parallel to the President's suggestions. He said he was instructing Soviet representatives in the U.N. Space Committee to meet American representatives and discuss practical plans.

But he added:

"At the same time it seems obvious to me that the scope of our cooperation in the peaceful exploration of space, just as the choice of the very directions along which such cooperation would be possible, depends in some degree, on the solution of the disarmament problem."

Before an agreement on general and complete disarmament is reached, he said, both countries are limited in the possibility of cooperating in space.

"I state these considerations for the simple reason that it would be better if we see all the sides of the question in a realistic light," he added.

The 17-nation disarmament conference meeting in Geneva since March 14 has made no visible progress because of disagreement over the issue of inspection to prevent cheating.

In his March 7 letter, Kennedy proposed Soviet-American cooperation in launching satellites for weather observation, mapping the earth's magnetic field and experimenting in intercontinental communications, helping track each other's space ships and pooling information on space medicine.

Looking to future exploration of the moon and planets, the President said "the tasks are so challenging, the costs so great and the risks to the brave men who engage in space exploration so grave, that we must in all good conscience try every possibility of sharing these tasks and costs and of minimizing the risks."

This was Kennedy's response to a suggestion for space cooperation, in general terms, which Khrushchev made in voicing congratulations on the three-orbit flight of Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.

Khrushchev predicted weather forecasting with the aid of artificial earth satellites "will make it possible to wage a more successful struggle against natural disaster and will open new prospects for the increase of the welfare of mankind."

Heart-of-City Landowners Ask Tax Cut

Group of 30 Requesting Five-Year Assessment Slash Over 60 Pct.

A group of 30 downtown Pontiac property owners has asked the city for a cut of more than 60 per cent in tax assessments.

Appearing before the city's Tax Board of Review during its current state of hearings, the group requested a "temporary cutback" until urban renewal projects and the proposed loop highway have been completed.

No action will be taken on the request until the board concludes its hearings later this month.

There was a blanket reduction of five per cent in the assessed value of Saginaw Street properties from Oakland Avenue to Franklin Road last year and another 5 per cent drop is planned this year, according to City Assessor Edward C. Bloch.

A 5 PER CENT CUT
Bloch said the city planned another blanket reduction next year. "A 5 per cent cut across the board represents a loss of about $300,000 in the city's tax base," he said.

At that rate, a 60 per cent cut of all Saginaw Street properties would cut at least $5 million off the city's total assessed valuation.

Bloch urged downtown property owners to "sit tight." He admitted that "shopping centers have hurt downtown business and taken away some tax base, and urban renewal will hurt until it's completed."

"I'll do all I can to cooperate with downtown property owners as a whole, but can't give breaks to a few."

Meyer Simon, partner in Simms Brgs., Inc., was one of about 10 property owners speaking for the group.

"We're not afraid of competition," he asserted. "All we need is a little breathing spell in which to regroup our forces."

HAS CONFIDENCE

"Once the loop road is in and urban renewal finished, I have great confidence that downtown Pontiac will be the heart of retail activity in Oakland County."

Simon pointed out that if the general consensus among property owners is correct, the city will be in a position to make way for the new condition.

Bows to Army With Cabinet

Frondizi Hangs On as President

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — A strike call to two million workers raised new threats today to Arturo Frondizi's thin hold on the presidency of Argentina.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — President Arturo Frondizi clung to his job today by making a deal with Argentina's armed forces' chiefs to form a coalition cabinet — half civilian, half military — and outlaw all political activity by insurgent Peronists.

The crisis eased, for the moment at least, as the government announced that the eight civilian cabinet members had resigned to make way for the new coalition.

Antonio Alsina, the air force commander.

Afterward the government announced in a brief communique that the president would form a "Cabinet of national unity" after consulting today with "the representatives of the Democratic parties and representative institutions."

TO KEEP AUSTERITY
Frondizi also declared he would not retreat from his unpopular austerity program which was widely blamed for his election setback.

His agreement with the military brought Frondizi through the worst challenge to his hold on the government since he took office in May 1958.

He still faced the reaction of millions of voters who chafed at his smashing victories for Peronists in Sunday's congressional and provincial elections. So far, however, the capital was surprisingly quiet.

The military chiefs had appeared ready to force Frondizi out and seize control to nullify the landslide elect on wins of Peronist forces in 10 provinces.

The United States reportedly sent word it would cut out of even eliminate Argentina's share in its Alliance for Progress aid program if the military took over.

WARNING SOUNDED

Britain was also said to have warned that without a constitutional president, Argentina would become unattractive for British investments.

In their new pact, Frondizi and the chiefs of the army, navy and air force also reportedly agreed that:

1. All political activity by followers of exiled former dictator Juan D. Peron will be outlawed once again. After being held in check for six years, Peronists were allowed to run under their own banner again in Sunday's elections.

2. The government will eliminate the closed shop and enact a right-to-work law, an apparent move to cut the power of the mammoth Confederation of Labor.

3. The executive branch and other government departments will be purged of "Peronism"—the influence of Rogelio Frigerio, a millionaire businessman, close adviser of Frondizi and long a target of the military leaders.

Precipitation will total about .50 of an inch in rain or snow late Saturday or Sunday.

The lowest recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 3 a.m. was 23. At 1 p.m. the thermometer reading was 40.

Friendly Grocer Leaves Estate to Old Customers

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Adam Reitz, a friendly grocer whose personal belongings were valued at $21, died last Dec. 20 at the age of 93 and left most of a $223,547 estate to 31 friends and former customers.

Reitz will probated yesterday, bequeathed $100,000 to 31 persons in amounts ranging downward from $9,000. Other bequests included $44,000 to 14 nieces and nephews.

The estate consisted of real estate valued at $53,750, mortgages and notes totaling $109,483 and corporation stocks worth $37,255.

The proposed increase of five mills over the next seven years was voted down 3-913 to $25.

Detroit Tax Bill Gets 1st Defeat

House Votes 63 to 40 Prohibiting Levy From Hitting Nonresidents

Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh plans to levy an income tax on both residents and nonresidents working in Detroit met its first defeat in Lansing yesterday.

The House voted 63-40 in favor of a bill to prohibit city income taxes from affecting nonresidents, and sent it to the Senate for consideration.

LI. Gov. T. John Levenski helped the bill along by steering it to the Senate Judiciary Committee in stead of the Committee on Finance.

Sen. Clyde H. Gooding, R-Holmdale, chairman of the taxation Committee had said he would support the city's effort to trim a $1 million deficit if his committee got the bill.

Rep. John T. Bowman, D-Roseville, had introduced the bill to the House to protect suburbanites working in Detroit.

"We recognize that the city of Detroit has its financial problems," Bowman said. "But we people in the suburbs are not going to pay for their problems."

Rep. John T. Bowman, D-Roseville, had introduced the bill to the House to protect suburbanites working in Detroit.

Bowman's bill is aimed at the 1969 City Incorporation Act which allows cities to levy excise taxes.

It is believed that Cavanagh would interpret excise tax as meaning income tax in the event his cities to levy excise taxes on city income tax is killed in the legislature this year.

His bill, introduced to the House, was sent to the Taxation Committee today.

Proposed Boost in School Funds Downed 5 to 1

Board of Education Chief Calls Results of Vote Disappointing

The Waterford Township School District millage proposal was soundly defeated in Tuesday's special school election by a ratio of nearly five to one.

The proposed increase of five mills over the next seven years was voted down 3-913 to $25.

Disappointing was the term used by School Board President Edson Koenig when the final tabulations came in late last night. School superintendent William Shunk called the outcome "disturbing."

In a formal statement issued following the election, Koenig said, "I don't believe the people are really unwilling to support their teachers and schools but rather have expressed a concern for the local tax burden. I feel that somehow things will work out."

Shunk issued a statement this morning to all staff members of the school district saying that, as personnel, teaching and non-teaching, must strive to continue to provide the best in educational opportunity for the youth in the school district.

"For us to attempt less than this would not be worthy of us," he added.

In his statement Shunk also said he was pleased by the work of board of education members in their many public appearances prior to the election explaining the aspects of the millage proposal.

Most observers registered surprise at the overwhelming vote against the proposal. A close election was generally anticipated.

If passed the proposal would have provided approximately $425,000 additional operating funds each year for the school district if the full five mills were approved.

The estimated average cost to taxpayers for the proposed increase of five mills was to be about $25

Basic arguments offered prior to the election for the millage boost were to make the district more competitive in hiring teachers, to meet rising operating costs and to maintain a desirable teacher pupil ratio in the classroom.

Algerian Blood Stops Flowing

ALGER (AP) — A savage street battle between French troops and right-wing European secret army guerrillas broke out in the heart of Oran today and repeated rounds of gunfire killed at least 100 persons, according to the Algerian government. Jobless Pay Bill Set for Passage

A jobless pay bill, sponsored by Sen. Farrell Roberts of Pontiac, was set for final passage in the State Senate today. The bill, which gained preliminary Senate approval yesterday, would pump $25 million into the state unemployment compensation fund. It would also change statutes which resulted in the 1959 Ford-Canton decision by the State Supreme Court. In that case, Michigan workers lost off because of a strike in Ohio were allowed to collect unemployment benefits.

Give Go-Ahead to Plan of Sidewalk Replacement

BIRMINGHAM — Authorization to proceed with the 1962 sidewalk replacement program has been given to the engineering department by the City Commission. Residents will be notified by mail within the week if sidewalks on their property are to be replaced by the city with the cost assessed to the homeowner.

The property owner has the choice, however, to construct or replace the sidewalk at his own expense if it is believed the job can be done at a cheaper rate.

If this is to be done, the city must be informed by April 21 and the work completed by May 1. City Engineer William Killen said sidewalk construction bids will be let in the near future with work to begin in May.

Students of the Tecumseh High School — ringing door bells, writing letters and making telephone calls — had campaigned energetically to put over the proposal.

London Cabbies Strike; JFK's Brother Involved

LONDON (AP)—A strike idled London Airport's taxi squadron today. It stemmed from an incident when Edward Kennedy, the U.S. President's youngest brother, touched down here for a visit last month and climbed into the third cab in the line at the airport.

The drivers of the first two cabs weren't around but the driver of the third wouldn't take him. The airport cabbies have a system—which is against police regulations—that the passenger must take the first cab in line.

Kennedy waited several minutes until the driver of the first cab came up. The incident created a stir in the London papers, and a Tuesday night the police issued firm instructions to the 75 taxmen based at the airport that they must take any fare that approaches them. The cabbies then walked out.

Discovers Aid in Heart Attack

Chemist at WSU Finds New Element in Blood; Related to Thrombin

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Wayne State University biochemist reported yesterday the discovery of a chemical blood-clotting aid that could revolutionize research on cerebral strokes, heart attacks and some blood vessel diseases.

AT WAYNE
Walter H. Seegers of the Wayne College of Medicine in Detroit said he had found in human blood a previously overlooked "middle-man" in the blood clotting process called "autoprothrombin."

The scientist said the development "promises to revolutionize the entire perspective of research on thrombosis and hemorrhage disease."

Thrombosis is the undesired process of blood-clotting inside a blood vessel. Such a clot is a vessel feeding the brain can cause a stroke, and clotting inside a vessel feeding the heart can cause coronary thrombosis, popularly known as a heart attack.

Hemorrhagic diseases, such as hemophilia, are those in which the blood fails to clot at times when it should—for example, in an open wound.

HEADED RESEARCH
Seegers announced the discovery in a report made public by the American Chemical Society on the eve of its 141st national meeting.

He indicated that the newly noted chemical was found to be a kind of intermediary between "thrombin"—the material long known to be directly responsible for clotting—and a substance called "prothrombin" which is the ultimate precursor of the clotting process.

Seegers headed the research teams which isolated prothrombin in 1953, and thrombin in 1958.

He said the new material is so closely tied up with thrombin in the blood that that was undoubtedly the reason it has hitherto gone unnoticed.

ANNOUNCING A BUDGET PAYMENT PLAN

For Home Heating Customers of Consumers Power Company

SPREAD YOUR YEARLY COST OF HEATING OVER 12 MONTHS

It takes a lot more heat to keep your home warm in January or February than it does in July or August.

Monthly service bills of home-heating customers therefore vary considerably as between summer and winter.

Many home-heating customers have told us they would like a plan that would permit them to pay about the same amount every month.

The Budget Payment Plan makes this possible.

HOW THE PLAN WILL WORK

The budget year begins with May and runs through April of the following year. The total amount to be paid for service during the budget year will be estimated on the basis of past usage or other available data. Your monthly service bills then will be approximately one-twelfth of this amount.

During the first part of the budget year, your monthly payments will be somewhat larger than they would be under normal billing. You will thus be building up a credit against the winter months when your use of natural gas or electricity reaches its peak.

You will be billed for the same amount each month unless the credit you have built up is insufficient, when combined with the amount of the budget payment, to cover the service used, in which case you will be billed for the amount due.

In April you will receive a bill for the amount then remaining due, which may well be less than the amount of the monthly budget payment. Small overpayments of a year's bills can be carried over to apply against the next year. Larger overpayments can be refunded.

IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO PAY YOUR SERVICE BILLS ON THE BUDGET PAYMENT PLAN, JUST FILL OUT THIS FORM AND MAIL OR TAKE IT TO THE NEAREST CONSUMERS POWER COMPANY OFFICE. YOUR FIRST BUDGET PLAN BILL WILL REACH YOU IN MAY.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

The Tailor-Trix winner for this week is Mrs. H. P. Wagstaff, Grand Rapids, who makes this suggestion.

"Are you a 'zipper saver'? The best use for old jacket zippers is to sew two Terry cloth towels together and attach the zipper at both ends, very similar to roll towels. This keeps the towels off the floor and is especially helpful if you have children."

"Dear Eunice Farmer:
"Thank you for the 'ray of light' you give us who sew. It is very difficult and almost impossible to get the effect or 'expression in clothes' that you mention. Have you any ideas to help us?" Mrs. L.M.S.

Dear Mrs. L.M.S.:
The most time consuming part of sewing and also the most important, is your selection of pattern, and fabric. Rather than following a new trend, always consider YOU, and try to choose a pattern that will look well on your figure, and also fit into the type of life you lead.

Our pattern companies have done a wonderful job when it comes to illustrating and designing patterns that resemble ready-made clothes. If you don't have a natural fashion sense, try to get your ideas as to fabric, color, and details from your better clothes which are pictured in fashion magazines and advertising.

LITTLE CHANGES
Change your pattern in little details and then no one will think you made your garment. Remember, it's these little touches that take your clothes out of the ordinary category. Use the best fabric you can afford, take your time and see that your work is perfect, and above all, keep the basic design simple. It takes a little time to visualize just how a pattern will look when it is finished, but with more practice, you will make fewer and fewer mistakes.

"Dear Eunice Farmer:
"After purchasing a piece of knitted wool laminated material, I have been given so many warnings concerning it, that I am afraid to begin sewing. Any hints you can give us will be appreciated." Mrs. T.J.T.

Dear Mrs. T.J.T.:
Foam-laminated fabrics are easy to cut and sew, but since they are different than regular fabrics, there are a few things to remember. Cut border off of your pattern before you lay it on the fabric. Folding wrong sides together makes it easier to cut. If you are using a laminated jersey, be sure the fold line is on a single rib of the knit. Do not use a tracing wheel for marking this fabric.

When machine stitching, use a longer stitch, about 10 stitches per inch, and a slightly looser tension. Also loosen the pressure on the presser foot. If the foam sticks under the presser foot when stitching, place tissue paper under the foam and tear it away after the stitching has been completed.

When stitching all bias seams, you must allow some "give" so the seam will not pull and the stitches break. When stitching bias seams on laminated fabrics, place tissue paper under the seam line and BIAS binding on top of the seamline, stitching the bias tape in the seam. All seams must be graded to prevent bulkiness.

In pressing, use a steam iron and a press cloth. Since it is rather difficult to obtain a flat, thin look to any faced edge, it is usually suggested that you top stitch through all thicknesses of your fabric about one quarter to one half inch from the finished edge.

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY:
Laminated fabric: This is a foam type material that is bonded to the back of some fabrics, at this time, mostly jerseys. It helps retain the shape of the garment, prevents excessive crushing, and also gives an insulation which is excellent in coats and jackets because it provides warmth without bulk.

If you have trouble inserting sleeves, send 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Eunice Farmer in care of this newspaper. Ask for "All About Sleeves."

Please send your questions to Sew Simple, in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered as soon as possible in the column, not personally.

More Than Million Have Been Cancer Can Be Cured

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The word, cancer, naturally strikes fear into the heart of anyone. Generally, it is thought that the cancer victim is a doomed individual.

This is too bad for several reasons. In the first place, this is not true. Also, the terrible dread of the disease causes some to delay in checking in with their physicians when suspicious symptoms occur. Then, too, there has been some indication that emotional stress may speed the spread of cancer, or contribute to its recurrence.

Actually, many folks do not realize how many people have been cured of cancer. Today in the United States alone there are more than one million people who have been cured.

While there have been no real breakthroughs and no miracle drugs, there has been a steady increase in the cure rate.

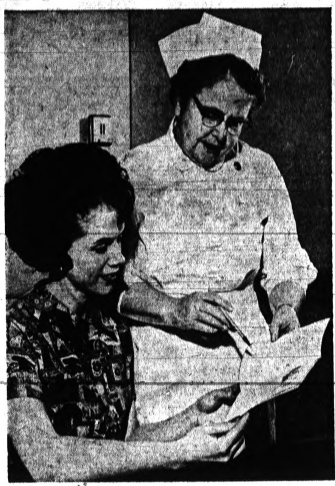

For a long time now the National Cancer Institute of the United States Public Health Service and The American Cancer Society have been doing extensive, basic research concerning cancer, its causes and its prevention and cure.

BETTER INFORMED
Techniques have improved and information has increased, but perhaps the main reason for the upswing in cancer cures is the fact that the public is better informed. More people now are aware of the importance of the regular, physical checkup and of the urgency of going to see the doctor when they notice any unusual symptom.

It is estimated that 520,000 people will develop cancer during 1962. Of these, one-third or about 173,000 will be cured of the disease. Another 347,000 of these new cases could be saved if they would have early detection and prompt treatment with the medical skills and knowledge now available.

Uterine cancer, could be conquered to a great degree if women only would have periodic Papaniolosou tests. This test is very simple and can be made in a doctor's office. Breast cancer fatalities also could be greatly reduced if women examined themselves, and also had periodic examinations by a physician. The most important secret of cancer cure is early detection and early treatment.

So do not think of cancer only in terms of fear, but intelligently. This attitude gives you a large measure of safety should you be one of those who will develop this disease.

Fear of cancer keeps many from the doctor's office — which is the very place to get lifesaving facts and help. Many people have been cured of cancer — today in the United States alone they number more than one million. While there have been no real breakthroughs and no miracle drugs, there has been a steady increase in the recovery rate, notes Josephine Lowman.

The Public Affairs Committee re-the American Cancer Society. It recently has published a most in-you would like to have a copy, interesting pamphlet called, "Science" send 25 cents to the Public Affairs Against Cancer." Its author is Committee, 22 East 38th Street, Pat McGrady, Science Editor for New York 16, New York.

'Hurry Up, Family...Let's Be Off to the YM'

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

Of all things — more than one-half of the members of the once all-male realm of the Young Men's Christian Association are women.

And oddly enough, the 2,800 male membership not only encourages this procedure, but promotes it by into a mother-daughter, family-friends, father-son stimulating other projects through family participation in the many YMCA programs.

From 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. every Tuesday and Thursday, more than 1,800 women and girls attempt to improve their physical and emotional status by splashing around in the big heated swimming pool, cavort in the gymnasium and tone up-tired muscles in the beauty-salon area at the Y.

For the career gals that spend an eight-hour day sitting at a typewriter doing tediously routine office work, there is the evening figure-control facilities from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

'WHERE ARE MY CLOTHES?'

'Twasn't always this way, according to some of the older members. There was a time when a man could go to his private locker, confident that he would find his gym clothes, indoor track shoes and other manly sportswear neatly piled and ready for action.

Now, on top — or pushed to the side of his personal belongings are smartly tailored short shorts, small-sized gym shoes (in color, yet), small sleeveless blouses and body-hugging leotards.

At the present time, the gals are using the men's doorless boxlike lockers to stow their gear until the proposed $650,000 addition has been completed. After ground has been broken in the adjoining parking lot the next two weeks and the building is finished, women will have their own lockers and other facilities at the YMCA.

'WANNA LOSE WEIGHT'

Up in the big gym, fat women, thin, medium, short and tall go through rigid calisthenics under the supervision of their pretty director, Gloria Lust.

Later, athletic director John McClure blows the whistle for the beginning of a rugged game of volleyball and kickball which is concluded with a fast sprint around the gymnasium. After this, the gals head for the showers then into the swimming pool.

Little girls in the 9- to 11-age bracket really have the most fun during the gym-swim programs, scheduled from 4 to 5:30 p.m. Tuesdays. If they qualify after learning how to kick, hold their breath underwater and float on their backs, they may join the 4 to 5:30 p.m. Thursday "Minnow" club.

'LOOK, MA, MY AWARD'

From there they graduate to the "Fish" club, the "Flying Fish" and "Shark" clubs, finally ending with Junior and Senior Lifesaving groups, receiving American Red Cross merit of achievement awards for their efforts.

No man would ever dream of invading the privacy of the stream-lined beauty shop area down under the old building.

'OH, MY ACHING BACK'

In one corner of the room, a physical-enthusiast can ride from here to New Mexico if she wishes on a fast-working stationary bicycle.

For those who like to ease their aching back muscles after a night of doing the "twist," there is the vibrating machine that literally shimmies the hips down to size. Sloppy muscles really get a firm-up treatment on this machine.

How can women do all these relaxing, yet exhilarating things if they have small children?

There's a fun-type nursery available where a grandmother of 11 children presides. She is Mrs. Sue Long, and the kids that participate in games and listen to her absorbing adventure stories, look forward to mom's "Day Out."

'COME ON, LET'S GO'

The oldest men's athletic club in Pontiac has turned into a mother-daughter, family-friends, father-son center. Despite the change — or because of it, YMCA officials agree that entire family units are benefiting mentally, morally and physically from the female and family projected activities.

IT'S A WOMAN'S WORLD — That's what Mrs. Marvin McAnnally says as she basked in the warm steam bath at the YMCA. Evelyn Slosson adjusts the sterile towel and keeps a wary eye on the woman who will feel 100 per cent better later. The beauty parlor area in the intersanctum of the "Y" is maintained for women only.

EXERCISES FUN — It's a lot more fun to exercise in a group rather than alone as these 25 women have found out. They are shown at "Ladies Day" at the YMCA, with their instructor, Gloria Lust, putting the women through strenuous paces. The calisthenics will be followed by a fast sprint around the gym, a game of volleyball and a dip in the big YMCA pool.

GOING NOWHERE — It's fun if you can take off weight or tone up winter-tired muscles together. Here Mrs. Floyd Coulter spins her wheels for toning, and Mrs. Ray Peters enjoys the vigorous massaging of the vibrating machine at the women's beauty area at the YMCA.

MID-AIR EXERCISE — There's nothing like a perfect swan dive to tone muscles, and Marilyn Feldman was caught in mid-air at the big YMCA swimming pool, during a "Ladies Day" session. Women and girls can learn to swim, or just come in for a quick frolic with others determined to stay healthy.

back across the net to their opponents with all the enthusiasm of high schoolers. Good for the waistslines!

Congressmen Fussing Over Grant Recipients

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Aid to the needy, a nonprofit search organization, says that at least 14 states raised more in tax support for the various programs than they got back in federal aid. One state, Virginia, seems to have about broken even. And others appear to have got more from Uncle Sam than from the citizens of the 14 than it cost them.

The foundation arrives at the burden of aid payments by estimating distribution of the burden of general taxes. In the case of highway aid, the basis is the Bureau of Public Roads' estimate of the state distribution of taxes going into the highway trust fund.

Without questioning the availability of any particular federal dollar, the foundation says, it looks at how the states fare.

The foundation says New Jersey paid $2.10 for each federal dollar it received in the fiscal year ending last June 30. Delaware paid $2.01. Other states paying out more than they got back were, in order, New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Maryland, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Massachusetts, Illinois, California and Florida.

The foundation doesn't include the costs of tax collection and aid administration, nor the sums the states put up to match federal grants.

N.Y. Town Takes to Air Business Lure Hifs High

By DAVEN CHAMBLISS
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The town of New York is taking to the air a new high—about 2,000 feet—this week.

A sky-writing plane blazoned a message in the blue over the general offices near here of General Foods Corp.

Hudson N.Y. wants Jell-O. It was the town's jell to attract a multimillion-dollar plant the company's Jell-O division plans to build within a 25-mile radius of New York City.

It was also an attempt to the effort of another city, Amsterdam, N.Y., which drew a bead on the town's pocketbook with another gimmick.

Its people sought out General Foods products in the store, then enclosed postcards and keychains with letters—some 3,000 of them—boosting their town as a site for the plant.

LAUS SPURT
Burke Giblin, general manager of the Jell-O division, lauded the spirit shown by Hudson and Amsterdam.

The flamboyance of these efforts doesn't hide the fact that this is serious business, as towns and states over the country scrap among themselves for new industry.

Amsterdam is in the economically depressed Mohawk Valley.

Host is the Oakland County Engineering Society. Registration begins at 9 a.m. Friday.

Slated to attend the Friday sessions are:

R. J. Alexander, director of the Oakland County Department of Public Works, will be chairman at 11 a.m. will be "Michigan's New Concept in Public Works Construction and Maintenance," and Robert C. Phil, district engineer of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, who will speak on "Advancing the Engineer."

At 2:30 p.m., "Electronics in Preway Traffic Controls," will be subject of a talk by Edward P. Gervais, traffic research engineer for the Michigan State Highway Department.

MACKIE TO SPEAK
A State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie is scheduled to speak at a 7:30 evening session.

On Saturday's agenda is a 9:30-to-noon business session at which new officers for the society will be elected.

A talk entitled, "The Automobile Power Plant—Past, Present and Future," will be presented at 1:30 p.m. by C. L. Bouchard, manager of the Ford Motor Co.'s Research and Engineering Center.

Afternoon activities also include a bus trip to Michigan State University.

The sessions will be concluded by a 6:20 p.m. talk, "Great Moments in Medicine," by author-lecturer Robert Thon.

Steel Build-Up Slows Down

Orders Have Tapered Off to Match Shipments, Reports Magazine
NEW YORK (AP)—The inventory buildup by steel users has slowed somewhat, the magazine Iron Age said today.

The metalworking weekly said that "for three years now" and now just about match shipments, which in turn are geared to an input production rate of between 80 and 85 per cent of capacity.

"This rate is not likely to change quickly unless there is a sudden turn of events in steel labor negotiations," the magazine said.

A quick settlement would bring a sharp drop in orders and shipment. On the other hand, it said, a lack of urgency on the part of negotiators will add to hesitation by buyers.

"If there is no real agreement there will have to be a sharp drop in new business," the magazine said.

Lyle Baker to Head Appraisers' Society

Lyle E. Baker of 735 N. Main St., Clawson, is the new president of the Society of Residential Appraisers, Oakland County Chapter No. 142.

Other newly elected officers are: Elmer W. Haines, president of the 122nd Mile Road, Southfield; and Theodore Koella, secretary-treasurer, 2072 Birchland-Ave., West Bloomfield Township.

The board of directors now includes Baker, Haack, Koella, William E. Maloney of 22255 Loomis St., Farmington Hills, and Thomas F. Jackson of 311 N. Blair Ave., Royal Oak.

Leases New Building to Construct Lounges

DETROIT (AP)—Chrysler Corp. said today it has leased a new building in Warren to build 20 mobile lounges for the Dulles International Airport at Washington, D.C.

Chrysler was awarded the $1,654,000 contract by the Federal Aviation Agency last November. The first five lounges are to be delivered by October.

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The Castro regime has put teeth in its new rationing laws by decreeing five years imprisonment for any unauthorized person caught butchering cattle.

Pontiac City Affairs

Lease on Land to YMCA OK'd

The City Commission last night approved an agreement to lease a 15-foot strip of city land along Mt. Clemens Street to the Pontiac YMCA.

The land lies between the YMCA property line and sidewalk. The YMCA had requested a lease on the strip, which will be in front of its new addition, so it could erect four ornamental fountains on the site.

Following passage of a public necessity resolution for reviving the curve on Montclair Street at Spaulding Street, City Engineer James N. Carls submitted a cost estimate of $40,000 for the job.

The entire cost will be paid by the city from its share of state and federal tax funds. The city is straightening out a very sharp curve that city officials feel constitutes a traffic hazard.

Work will proceed on the project immediately.

A public hearing was scheduled for April 17 on a proposed ordinance to rezone a portion of Herington Hills Subdivision from Residential-2 to R-1. The ordinance was introduced for first reading last night.

It covers the only part of the subdivision not zoned R-1.

The change was suggested by planning Commissioner John A. Dugan so that multi-family dwellings could be constructed in the predominantly one-family dwelling subdivisions.

Commissioners okayed a resolution requesting deeds to several lots in a tax sale by the state. Deeds cost the city $1 each.

The city will buy lot 81 and part of lot 82, A.P. 128, for an extension of Branch Street, and lot 13, Cypress Lake Heights Subdivision, to protect the right-of-way to an existing sewer.

A resolution and citation honoring two Pontiac policemen for their efforts in trying to save a drowning victim recently was offered by Commissioner Milton R. Henry and approved by the commission.

The document cited Patrolmen Charles Lindberg and Joseph Wilson "for their gallant and heroic action" in trying to save Thomas Short Feb. 25. Short's car was put into production at the Clinton River.

The plane was called the R750 but now it is to be known as the R750 to reflect a new missile-age mission.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said he not only will not but cannot spend the extra money, no matter what Congress does.

He said development work is proceeding as fast as possible and it is too soon to make a judgment on whether the new weapons system can or should be put into production at a cost estimated at $10 billion.

Short of an order to do so by Kennedy, McNamara apparently has not left himself any room for retreat. All he offered Vincent committee was another restudy and a promise to spend $2 million looking for ways to make the system demands but which he said he isn't sure can be built.

Vinson, in a series of speeches and statements, also appeared to have cut off any line of retreat, barring some offer or action by Kennedy that could be construed as a reprieve.

McNamara said is possible.

Kennedy Being Pushed to Showdown on R750

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Carl Vinson, D-Ga., pushed the House toward a clash with President Kennedy today over the R750 plane because of widespread reports that a compromise was in the works.

Neither Kennedy or Vinson, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, actually were ready to give ground the basis for their settlement was not imminent.

He said development work is proceeding as fast as possible and it is too soon to make a judgment on whether the new weapons system can or should be put into production at a cost estimated at $10 billion.

Short of an order to do so by Kennedy, McNamara apparently has not left himself any room for retreat. All he offered Vincent committee was another restudy and a promise to spend $2 million looking for ways to make the system demands but which he said he isn't sure can be built.
