Movie K Denounced Will Debut

MOSCOW (AP) — The film about the Soviet Union's disenchanted youth that former Premier Khrushchev condemned and ordered remade, will make its public debut this month, informed sources say.

The movie, trimmed to half its original length, is expected to premiere in Moscow theaters with the approval of the new Kremlin regime.

The title has been changed from "Ilyich's Outpost" to "I Am 20 Years Old." "Ilyich" is a popular nickname for Vladimir Ilyich Lenin.

Khrushchev denounced the film and its young director, L. Kholodny, in a speech to a meeting of Soviet writers and artists on March 8, 1963. The speech was made at the height of a Communist party crackdown on ideological shortcomings in Soviet cultural activities.

PREMIER ANGRY

The premier angrily described the film as depicting "the idlers and semidegenerate characters who love and respect no one and whom one may still encounter among your young people."

"They are displeased with everything, grumble at everything, mock and despise everything, spend their days in idleness and their nights in carousing in a disreputable manner."

"They speak of labor with swinish scorn. While gobbling his daily bread, this good-for-nothing icers into the bargain at those who make this bread by the sweat of their brows."

NIKITA OBJECTED

Khrushchev bitterly objected to one scene in the film in which one of the three main characters meets the ghost of his father, who died at the front during World War II.

Khrushchev gave this account: "When the son asks the ghost how he ought to live, it in turn asks the son how old he is. Hearing the son say 23, the father says he is 21, and vanishes."

"Do you really want us to believe such a thing could be true?" Khrushchev raged.

He continued with a passionate denial that there is a "father and son" conflict in the Soviet Union.

BELIEVED CUT

Another scene believed cut from the revised version, according to informed sources, portrays the caustic attitude of young workers toward the elaborate May Day demonstration in Red Square. In this episode, the young workers chuck their placards and banners on the ground in disgust after they have marched through Red Square.

Then, a young girl shocks her parents by introducing them to her boyfriend.

"He is my lover, but we are getting fed up with one another and are going to break up."

Some historians trace the first public automobile garage to Boston when W. T. McCullough of the Black Bay Cycle and Motor Co. opened his establishment May 24, 1899.

School Board OKs Architect Plans for 3 Additions, Remodeling Project

Architectural planning for three classroom additions and a remodeling project was approved last night by the Pontiac School Board.

Slated for occupancy by September 1965, the additions were recommended by Supt. Dana P. Whitmer to match anticipated enrollment increases next fall.

Six-room additions are proposed for Alcott Elementary School and Frost Elementary School.

The board voted to retain Harry M. Denyes & Associates to plan the Alcott project and O'Dell, Hewlett & Luckenbach Associates for the Frost project.

A third addition — four classrooms — is proposed for the

EXPRESS OPPOSITION

Representatives of the Pontiac NAACP chapter, the Citizens' Human Relations Committee and a group of 12 teachers appeared at the meeting to express opposition to the McConnell project.

The gist of their prepared statements was that enlarging the predominantly Negro school would perpetuate school segregation.

They offered no alternative proposals, however, when questioned by Board President William Anderson.

The board voted to retain the firm of O'Dell, Hewlett & Luckenbach to study the project after Supt. Whitmer pointed out that professional assistance would be necessary to determine its feasibility.

REMODELING

Remodeling of the office area and library is slated for Whitfield School. It will also be planned by Denyes & Associates.

Total cost of the building program was estimated at $420,000.

However, because of population shifts, some schools — Alcott, Twin, Frost and Irving — have had enrollment increases.

Once the architectural planning is completed, construction would get under way in the early months of 1965.

D. C. Public Schools, 87 Per Cent Negroes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negro pupils now account for 87.6 per cent of the enrollment in District of Columbia public schools. School census figures released yesterday show an increase of 5,816 Negro pupils over last year, and a decrease of 2,283 white pupils. Total enrollment is 142,689.

Real Estate Appraisers Elect Officers

The Oakland County Chapter of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers, has elected Richard M. Irwin, 2155 E. Hammond Lake, Bloomfield Township, vice president, and Theodore Koella, 1845 Woodland, Sylvan Lake, secretary-treasurer.

James Barbour of 7135 Sherwood, Bloomfield Township, was elected a director for a one-year term at the chapter's annual meeting recently.

Other officers for the 1965 term are: Thomas F. Jackson, president; William Hoover, director for a three-year term; Vern Horn, director for a two-year term, and William E. Maloney of Farmington, a director for a one-year term.

Jackson, Hoover and Horn are from Royal Oak.

The Oakland County and Greater Detroit chapters will hold a seminar at Stoufferts Northland Inn, Nov. 21. This meeting will cover updating of appraisal reports by professional appraisers.

Rest Area Opens Tomorrow on I-75

The first of five freeway rest areas between Pontiac and Midland will be opened tomorrow, according to the State Highway Department.

The new safety rest area, which has parking facilities for 50 cars and 20 trucks, rest rooms, telephones, drinking water and a travel bulletin board, is located on southbound I-75 two miles south of M57 in Genesee County.

The other four, scheduled for opening by the end of the year, are located on I-75 near Clarkston, Bridgeport and the Bay-Saginaw county line and on US10 at Midland.

Navy Seeks Technicians

There are now openings in the Navy's nuclear electronics field and nuclear engineering technician field, according to Navy recruiter, CPO Robert Scott.

Men who are high school graduates and can meet the mental and physical requirements are eligible, Scott said.

YOU CAN LEARN ELECTRONICS TECHNOLOGY

In less than a year! Electronic technicians are in sharp demand! Train for higher pay in just two mornings or two evenings per week. E.I.T. is now co-educational. Women should investigate the high wages available to technical secretaries and technical writers. Tuition is low and you can pay as you go!

Trouble Seen Unless China Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

RUSK-CHINA: Secretary of State Dean Rusk foresees a trouble ahead in Southeast Asia unless Red China decides to leave its neighbors alone.

"We have made it very clear we are not going to pull away and leave Southeast Asia to be overrun..." Rusk said yesterday in an interview.

Rusk disclosed no basic changes in U.S. policy toward China. He said it would be up to the Communist Chinese to change their policies if tensions are to ease.

If they do, Rusk added, "then there are not any problems that cannot be solved by the ordinary processes of discussion with the nations of Southeast Asia."

He said ambassadorial talks with the Red Chinese in Warsaw have given the United States a clear picture of the thinking of the Peking regime and "we do not like what we found out."

BAKER: A $300,000 damage suit against ex-Senate aide Bobby Baker will probably be settled out of court next week, according to Washington attorney David Carliner.

Carliner said yesterday that Baker and his attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, are out of town, preventing any decision until next week. Carliner represents Capitol Vending Co., which operates vending machines, in the suit.

Capitol's suit charges that Baker used his influence on Capitol Hill to have a lucrative contract taken away from the firm. Baker quit his post as secretary to Senate Democrats shortly after the suit was revealed last year.

Carliner denied a Newsweek magazine story this week which said that he and Williams reached an agreement Oct. 5 with a proviso that the agreement be kept secret until after last week's presidential election.

HELLER: Dr. Walter W. Heller, President Johnson's top economic adviser, says he has not changed his plans to resign and return to his teaching position at the University of Minnesota.

Heller was questioned yesterday after informed sources reported that Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey, acting at Johnson's behest, had been trying to persuade Heller to keep his post.

Heller announced some months ago he would resign after the election.

He has said several times that his relations with the Johnson administration are excellent, and that his reasons for resigning are personal.

SATELLITES: Space scientists say that long-known, odd-ball variations in the earth's gravitational pull may be responsible for the purported temporary joggling of the U.S. satellites out of orbit as they pass over the Solomon Islands in the Southwest Pacific.

The scientists said in interviews yesterday they doubted that any truly mysterious forces are responsible for the deviations.

Dr. Alvin McNish of the National Bureau of Standards explained that variations in gravity at different sites on the earth stem from two main causes:

• The fact that the earth is rotating—and is not a perfect sphere — makes the pull of gravity stronger at the earth's north and south poles than it is elsewhere. In general, there is a gradual lessening of the gravity pull as one goes from the poles toward the equator.

• Distance of a particular part of the earth's surface to the earth's center makes a difference in the gravity pull.

In general, the farther you are from the earth's center—as on a mountain top — the less the gravitational pull.

However, the composition of the earth's surface at different sites can also enter the picture. The denser the structure, he said, the greater the gravitational pull.

Says State Rails Not Necessarily in Red

LANSGEN (AP)—"According to the indications we have received, the railroads are not necessarily losing money in Michigan," a Kalamazoo paper company official said in an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing Wednesday.

Melvin Lievese, general traffic manager for the KVP Sutherland Paper Co., testified on behalf of the state which is opposing abandonment of nearly 200 miles of track in northern and western Lower Michigan by the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads.

The railroads contend they are losing money on the track in question as well as on a railroad ferry across the Straits of Mackinac, run by New York Central, Pennsylvania, and Soo Line railroads.

"We didn't intend to participate in this at first," Lievese said. "We assumed the railroads were actually losing money."

NOT NECESSARILY

"But then we discussed this matter with other paper companies and with legal counsel and according to the indications we have received, the railroads are not necessarily losing money," he added.

"I am a little confused as to just why—if they are making money—they are trying to abandon service," he said in examination by John Morrison, a Jackson attorney retained by the Committee for the Retention of Railroads. The committee is a private group whose largest sponsors are Consumers Power Co. and Edison Soo Electric.

RAIL ATTORNEY'S Railroad attorneys declined

RHINO WITH AN ITCH — This rhinoceros is not exactly a family pet, but according to his handlers, it's as "gentle as a lamb." A resident of the Taronga Park Zoological Gardens in Sydney, Australia, the rhino enjoys having its stomach scratched.

to question the witness in the hearing before ICC hearings examiner Hyman Blond.

"We entered this case voluntarily," Lievese said later, "because in the company's judgment it is in our best interests to keep this rail service."

Dr. Hereford Garland, director of the Institute of Wood Research at Michigan Tech, said earlier one of the Upper Peninsula's greatest assets is wood, which requires rail service to reach its market.

A $27-million plant in the U. P., he said, could turn out 300 tons of wood products a day.

"We've got a real timber growing area—and it's growing faster than we can figure out what to do with it," he said.

The hearing, begun last summer in Cheboygan, was scheduled to end this week, but apparently was going to go beyond the previously expected windup Thursday.

The railroads presented their case in Cheboygan. The state is now presenting its arguments.

Rochester Board to Award School Addition Contracts

ROCHESTER — The board of education will award contracts for the construction of nine rooms at Rochester Senior High School at its Monday night meeting.

Bids were opened this week and, to the pleasant surprise of the board, the low bids totaled more than $8,000 less than the estimated construction cost of the addition.

Although some alternates, which could affect the total cost, are yet to be decided upon, the low bidders were:

Free X Rays Offered for Two Areas

Lake Orion and Rochester residents will be offered free chest X rays and blood tests next week when the Oakland County Health Department's mobile screening unit visits those areas.

The unit will be parked at the Lake Orion Youth Center next Monday from 2 to 6 p.m. and Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 3-7 p.m.

The unit will spend three days in Rochester. It will be parked in front of the Detroit Edison office and will be open on the following schedule:

Nov. 18, 10-12 and 1-5; Nov. 19, 11-3 and 4-8; Nov. 20, 9-1 and 2-4.

The unit will take X rays for the detection of tuberculosis, lung cancer and heart abnormalities. Blood tests will be given for the detection of diabetes and venereal disease.

VALUABLE AID

Dr. Bernard D. Berman, Oakland County health director, said the screening clinic is no substitute for a physical examination, but it is a valuable aid to early detection of certain chronic diseases.

A visit to the unit requires only a few minutes, Dr. Berman said, and could prove to be a lifesaver.

Legion Post Offers Fish Fries in Troy

THROY — Friday the 13th may not be a particularly auspicious time to begin anything, but that doesn't worry the Auxiliary of Charles Edwards Post No. 14, American Legion of Birmingham and Troy.

It will initiate a series of weekly fish fries tomorrow running from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Post Home, 1340 E. Maple, Troy.

Those who attend will have a choice of either fish or shrimp, with reduced prices for children.

The fish fries will be held every Friday night at the same time.

Orion Twp. Hires New Consultant

ORION TOWNSHIP — With a $250-million development under construction here and the zoning ordinance to be re-examined and perhaps changed, the Township Board has engaged a mediator consultant for expert advice.

The Board voted to engage Geer Associates of Bloomfield Hills as planning consultant, accepting the recommendation of the township planning commission.

The development, called "Keatlington," will be the biggest project for the planning consultants, as it covers 3,200 acres and is expected to eventually grow to a community of some 30,000 persons.

In other action, Wallace Crane was reappointed for a five-year term on the township zoning board.

The Township Board also voted to continue to provide fire protection for the western portion of Oakland Township.

PROVIDED SERVICE

Orion has provided such protection for five years, and continued it for another two. Under present arrangements, Oakland Township pays $75 for the first hour of a fire call and $50 for every hour thereafter to Orion Township.

Holiday Food Program Topic

ORION TOWNSHIP — Many women and more than a few men who find cooking more of a chore than a pleasure look forward to it with anticipation just once a year — during the holiday season.

The preparation of various holiday foods has become an art in itself, and the Orion Jaycees Auxiliary is sponsoring a program tonight designed to improve the skills of any holiday cook.

A demonstration entitled "Tis the Season" will be given at 7:30 tonight in the Consumer Power Co. auditorium at 28 W. Lawrence, Pontiac.

The demonstration will show the attractive and easy way to prepare holiday foods for serving and giving, and is open to the public.

THROY — The Friends of the Troy Public Library is staging the third annual book sale today, tomorrow and Saturday in the basement of the Troy National Bank, 15 Mile Road and Livernois.

Supervisor Cyril E. Miller reported to the board last night that Metropolitan Council No. 23, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, will request recognition by the board shortly, for the second time.

When some of the township's employees organized nearly a year ago, the board denied a request for recognition, and periodic meetings since then have failed to make any further progress.

Miller said that he and Township Attorney Rex Bebout met yesterday morning with representatives of the union, an AFL-CIO affiliate, together with a mediator appointed by the State Labor Relations Board.

Miller declined to comment this morning on the positions taken by the mediator as to the recognition of the union local by the board, and would say only that it will again ask for such recognition.

STATE RULING

Several weeks ago, the State Labor Relations Board ruled on the eligibility of township employees for membership in the union. Library employees, although paid by the township, were ruled ineligible.

Determined eligible were parks, department of public works, cemetery, and all office employees, as well as the township assessor and building inspector.

The ruling gave the union members a majority of one.

Trustee Donald J. Campbell, while acknowledging that inequities have existed in the past with regard to the treatment of municipal employees, said that "they gained a tremendous amount this year, perhaps as much as they would with the union."

"They can't strike, as municipal employees," he continued, "and would wind up just paying dues without getting much out of it."

Campbell pointed out that the board has in the past year "rectified some inequities and established a hospitalization and pension plan."

For Utica District

To Huddle on School Vote

UTICA — City government officials will huddle with their Shelby and Sterling township counterparts and the Utica School Board Nov. 21 to discuss the Dec. 12 bond issue and millage election for the Utica School District.

The voters will be asked to approve an $8.5-million bond issue proposition and two millage proposals in the special election.

The meeting of township and school officials was suggested by Sterling Township Trustee David Maddox and approved by the Utica School Board.

The bond issue covers future building needs, and can be funded without a hike in taxes, according to Detroit bonding attorney Stratton Brown of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone.

One millage proposal will ask for a renewal of the present 5-mill levy for 1966 and 1967.

ADDITIONAL MILLS
The other will request an additional 6 mills for 1965, 1966 and 1967.

The millage propositions are for operating funds only and according to Schools Supt. Fred Atkinson "will fill minimum needs for full-time teachers and full-day sessions when new buildings are built."

The millage will also allow "adjustment of teachers' salaries and will provide transportation in hazardous areas," he said.

Hazardous areas are to be pinpointed by representatives of the police department and the AAA Safety Bureau.

MORE CLASSES

On the elementary level, the bond issue would provide 10 classroom additions including library materials centers at Switzler and Flickinger schools.

Also included would be four new elementary schools, each with a 22-classroom capacity.

A new senior high school without a swimming pool, auditorium or lighted athletic field would also be covered by the bond issue.

The present senior high school would gain a new library facility and other remodeling.

Avondale Junior High to Hold Open House

Village Councilman Resigns at Milford

MILFORD — Village Councilman Vernon Rounds has resigned the office he has held for seven years.

Rounds told his fellow councilmen his decision was made because of ill health.

They are expected to appoint a replacement at their Dec. 14 meeting.

The council has hired Milford Township Justice of the Peace James VanLeuven to serve also in that capacity for the village.

The new ordinance which allows the village to have its own part-time justice sets his salary at $1,500 a year plus $500 for office expenses. VanLeuven will begin his new duties immediately.

Junior Editors Quiz on TYPEWRITER

QUESTION: Why isn't the typewriter keyboard in alphabetical order?

ANSWER: A great deal of study, research and experiment went into the development of the first practical typewriter. Among other things, the strength and quickness of the average person's fingers were studied.

It was found that certain fingers were fitted to take a heavier load of activity than others. At the same time, certain letters are used more often than others. From about 1868 to 1873 Carlos S. Glidden, Samuel W. Soule and Christopher L. Sholes worked to perfect the typewriter keyboard.

The letters most used were given to the strongest fingers. Check our alphabetical keyboard against the touch system fingers; you will see that such important letters as "r" and "y" have been placed, in the touch system, where the active index fingers can operate them.

We still use the system these inventors worked out. However, experiments are being made to design a keyboard allowing the hands to fall in a more natural position (lower left).

Notice how conveniently the space bars are located, where the two thumbs would fall naturally on them.

FOR YOU TO DO: Arch the fingers of one hand and put them down on a table. Pick up one finger at a time and tap down without lifting the others. Notice how strongly you can tap with the first or index finger—better than the others.

for C. of C. Mixup

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—The presiding officer at the Ohio Chamber of Commerce annual meeting yesterday apologized to the audience because the people at the head table were seated in reverse order of that listed in the program.

"Maybe it was the election," he told the businessmen, "but the gentleman who led those at the head table into the room turned to his left instead of going to the right as we had planned."

Wallenda Daughter Back on High Wire

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — "Carla has always wanted to come back to the Flying Wallendas. After Detroit I didn't want my own family in the act any more."

Thus spoke Karl Wallenda, 59, whose name, in tragedy, has become magic to the circus world. He spoke with evident pride of a reunion that would be effected tonight.

Wallenda's youngest daughter, Carla, 27, will perform for the first time in over four years with her father's famous high wire human pyramid act.

"Every wound heals and I am unhappy if she's not with me."

ANOTHER CIRCUS

Carla was appearing with another circus on that night nearly three years ago. Two members of the Flying Wallendas, Karl's nephew and son-in-law were killed, and his son Mario suffered a paralyzing injury when the pyramid collapsed during a performance in Detroit.

Last year tragedy struck again. Karl's sister-in-law, Yetta Wallenda, fell and was killed in a show at Omaha, Neb.

"Most of them quit the act after that," Wallenda said of his old troupe. "Some have retired from the circus."

Carla worked with another circus until recently.

"She's been at our home in Sarasota, Fla., Wallenda said. "When I came out here this week she came with me."

Joining them on the wire 40 feet above the circus floor here will be Wallenda's son-in-law, Andy Anderson, and Luis Murillo, a veteran high wire man from Chile. Their show will include two human pyramid acts.

Anderson is married to Jenny Wallenda, Karl's other daughter, who was watching the act in Detroit and saw her first husband, Richard Faughnan, fall to his death.

ABANDONS CRUSADE — Mrs. Margaret Malherbe of Johannesburg, South Africa, is shown with one of the thousands of posters which she and her courtesy crusaders distributed in their country in an attempt to ease racial friction between races there. Lack of public support has forced her to abandon the crusade.

Aimed at Easing Race Friction

S. African Drive Unsuccessful

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The adage that "courtesy costs nothing" is doubtless still true, but Margaret Malherbe has found it takes money to promote the idea.

Lack of public support has forced Mrs. Malherbe and 14 helpers to abandon a courtesy crusade aimed at reducing friction between the segregated racial groups of South Africa. She spent two years at it, and about $1,400.

Mrs. Malherbe, a Johannesburg housewife, says:

"We are sorry to see the campaign abandoned, but our operation lasted only as long as funds were forthcoming. Now we have nothing left in the bank."

The courtesy campaigners distributed thousands of leaflets, posters and booklets urging shopkeepers, householders, business organizations and schools to encourage and promote interracial politeness.

The campaigners' courtesy code suggested that black and whites should:

Speak out against rudeness wherever found;

Refuse to accept service if others, regardless of color, have been waiting longer;

Refrain from calling a black servant or other employee by the name of Jim, Boy or Kaffir — African;

Challenge unfair condemnation of any particular racial group;

Never ask a male African servant to wash or iron women's undergarments — it offends his dignity;

Treat Africans and other races with human dignity;

Teach children to be polite.

"Children are often the worst offenders," says Mrs. Malherbe.

"The social structure of South Africa allows white children to be waited on hand and foot, not only by African servants but also by their parents. This way of life breeds thoughtlessness which leads to rudeness and, as they grow older, it becomes an established way of life which leads to friction between the races."

Mrs. Malherbe found promotion of racial good will no easy task.

South Africa's rigid apartheid laws are enforced by thousands of "whites only" signs. People are channeled into separate buses, trains, theaters and post office counters. There are thus few opportunities for contact by whites intent on promoting courtesy and good will among the racial groups.

After the courtesy campaign was closed for lack of financial support, the government minister for African affairs, Michiel de Wet Nel said:

"I do not approve of cheap fraternization or social integration, but whites should be careful not to hurt the dignity of the African. It would be desirable to inform young people what their attitude toward the African should be."

State Colleges Register More

DEARBORN (UP) — Enrollment in Michigan colleges and universities increased more than 15 per cent over last year, a University of Michigan report shows.

A total of 219,474 students have enrolled in credit programs at 73 colleges and universities in the state. Included were 53,971 freshmen, an increase of 27 per cent over last year, and 48,021 in junior colleges, a jump of 40 per cent.

The report, compiled by Harris D. Olson of the U. of M. office of registration and records, was presented to the Michigan Association of College Registrars and Admissions Officers at a meeting at U. of M. Dearborn campus.

Olson said the 15 per cent increase this year compared with annual increases in the last several years of about seven per cent. He said Michigan colleges and universities have about 39 per cent more students than they did five years ago.

Junior college enrollment increased 40 per cent, he said, compared with the seven per cent rise last fall.

N. Viet Film Brings Relief to Flier's Kin

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) —The family of Navy Lt. (j.g.) Everett Alvarez Jr., captured in August by the North Vietnamese, was less apprehensive today about the flier's condition after seeing him in a propaganda film.

"It's just wonderful," exclaimed Delia Alvarez, 23, sister of the pilot, after viewing a North Vietnamese film shown Wednesday night on NBC's Huntley-Brinkley report.

"We're all very happy about this," Delia said. "He looked about the same. He always has been thin."

Alvarez, 26, was captured after his jet fighter plane was hit by antiaircraft fire during a raid on North Viet Nam patrol boat bases. The raid was in retaliation for a gunboat attack on U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin Aug. 2.

AT BAYONET POINT

The five-minute documentary showed Alvarez, wearing a flight suit, being marched down a street at bayonet point. A second scene showed Alvarez being questioned by a North Viet Nam officer.

"The first time he appeared," Delia said, "it could have been anyone — I mean, his head was covered with the helmet and glasses.

"But when we saw him up close, when they were interrogating him — well, it was him, okay."

"He seemed to be listening to an interpreter, or something. But he never was much for talking," Delia said.

VERY INTERESTING
The pilot's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Alvarez Sr., another sister, Madeline, and the pilot's wife, Tangee, watched the show alone. They had declined to allow newsmen into their home because, the father said, they "didn't know what to expect."

"Really," Delia said, "the whole film was very interesting. It was the first time I've ever seen a film released by the Communists."

She said relatives began telephoning the Alvarez family immediately following the television show. "It was sort of a telephone family reunion."

"We weren't sure we would see him," the sister said. "But he seemed healthy and obviously he wasn't injured. Oh, we're all so happy."

The film was cut from 10 minutes to five by NBC editors, the network said. The film was photographed by North Vietnamese cameramen and Japanese newsreel photographers and obtained by NBC from the Nippon Denpa Co. in Tokyo.

Jr., the U.S. Navy pilot captured during last August's air strikes against North Vietnamese bases. His plane was hit by enemy ground fire, forcing him to parachute.

Ex-Inmate Put Prison to Use

LECCI, Italy (AP) — Giuseppe De Luca walked out of prison here an expert on medicinal herbs.

During 20 years of a prison term he served for a homicide which he insisted he did not commit, De Luca concentrated on the study of herbs.

He spent more than $2,000 buying all available books on the subject and devoted all his free time in a tiny botanical experiment garden in the prison growing and testing his plants.

Approaches New Job With 'Alarming' Foot

LOUISVILLE (AP) — A receptionist at a Louisville bank got off on the wrong foot.

In midmorning of her first day, she accidentally stepped on the burglar alarm button, bringing police squads to the bank. Before the day was over, she accidentally tripped the alarm again.

Earmuffs are believed to have first made their appearance in Maine in 1873. They were called car muffers by Chester Greenwood of Farmington, who patented and manufactured them.

Letters People Would Like to Get

'You Need 6-Month Vacation With Pay'

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Letters people would like to get but rarely do.

“The diagnosis of our clinic is that you are suffering from generalized fatigue brought on by overwork. Therefore we are recommending to your employer that you be given a six-month leave of absence with pay so you can recuperate. It is imperative that you have no cares or responsibilities. We suggest a warm climate, such as Thali, and recommend that you leave your wife at home.”

“At our last division reunion your old company commander and I decided you never did get proper credit for repulsing that enemy charge on our food depot near the Rhine early in 1945. It was one of the most heroic individual actions in our outfit. Anybody who singlehandedly saved 21 tons of our precious peanut butter from being captured certainly deserves some kind of reward, so — belatedly — we are turning you in for a Silver Star.”

“Remember back in 1958 when I bet you $50 even that Alf Landon would carry at least 20 states? Well, my great aunt passed away recently and left me a little money, so please find enclosed my check for $50. If you feel like putting a little dough down on the 1968 race, I'll bet you 2-1 that the Republicans will—”

HOSPITAL MISTAKES

“Of course, every hospital makes mistakes, but I still can't see how our nurse informed you that you were the father of quadruplets when all your wife had was a 6-pound boy. There will be no medical charges, naturally, for treating the concussion you received when the shock from receiving the nurse's mistaken news caused you to faint and strike your head on the hospital floor. Our attorney will call on you soon to discuss a reasonable settlement.”

“It is our pleasure to inform you, Mrs. Smythe, that you were the winner among 46 million entrants in Krackly-Krunch's 25-word boxtop essay contest on “Why I love to eat cheerful sounding breakfast cereals.” The first prize — a Rolls-Royce filled with silver dollars — is now ready. Do you wish to pick it up, or shall we drive it to your home?”

“It has come to our attention that your orthodontist has put so many wires in your young son's mouth that the lad can now tune in radio stations with his teeth. We would like to have him appear on our weekly television show, ‘Distinctive People in the news.’ There will be a cash honorarium of $500 for his appearance.”

“Remember me, your old pal, Joe Hardtop, the guy who beat you for the job as varsity half-back our senior year in high school? Well, I'm selling Christmas cards for a living now, and I wondered if, for old times' sake, you'd—”

WAS FOOLISH!

“It was foolish of you to let my baby play with your $750 diamond ring, Madge. You might have known he'd swallow it. I don't mind telling you I'd have sued you if it had been necessary to operate. But, anyway, here's your ring back, good as new, and I suggest we both just forget the whole incident.”

“I was just shuffling through some of the White House mail and came across your teenage son's application to work as a cowboy on our ranch next summer. Nothing would de-light me more. Lady Bird and I sure would take it as a favor if you and the missus would join us for a couple of restful weeks, too. If you like real Texas Chili, I can promise you that—”

Waterford Building Up for '64

Despite a dip in the valuation of building permits issued last month in Waterford Township compared to October 1963, building activity this year remains more than $2 million ahead of 1963.

Last month the building department issued 128 building permits at a valuation of $486,376. This compares to 116 permits in October 1963 at an $800,569 valuation.

Permit valuation for the first 10 months of 1964 is $3,040,841 compared to $6,956,651 for the January through October period last year.

Last month, 28 permits were issued for houses at a valuation of $412,426. In October 1963, 25 housing permits at $447,810 were issued.

Commercial permit valuation last month amounted to $60,000 compared to $57,000 in October last year.

The largest single permit issued last month by the building department was for a 12-unit apartment building as Sasabaw and Seeden. Valuation was $85,000.

Bandmaster 'Fair' With Knife Wound

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Paul V. Yoder, well known composer and bandmaster hospitalized with a severe abdomen wound, was reported in fair condition today.

Police said Yoder, 56, had slashed himself with a boning knife Nov. 4. His wife said that recently he had been in bad health and despondent.

Yoder has published more than 1,200 band compositions and has conducted the University of Miami Band in its Orange Bowl performances several times.

POOCHES POSE PROBLEM—Mrs. Edna Pope of Meiners Oaks, Calif., pets one of her 10 dogs while figuring her next move. Neighbors have protested her love of canine companionship and obtained a county order for her to move or get rid of all but four of the dogs.

Woman With 10 Dcgs Has Neighbors Howling

MEINERS OAKS, Calif. (AP) — In this Southern California hamlet lives a resolute woman with 10 dogs — all sick.

Her neighbors are sick, too — of listening to the dogs howl. And, because she has been ordered to get rid of all but four of the dogs or move, Edna Pope is also sick — of her neighbors.

"I'd drink if I could," she said. "That's what everybody else does. But I'd get sick." Mrs. Pope, fiercely Irish — "You think I'd be fighting like this if I weren't Irish?" — said her age is secret but "I'm old enough to know better than to be in the mess I'm in today."

DENIED ZONING
Last week the Ventura County Board of Adjustment denied her petition for a zoning change which would have allowed her to keep more than four dogs, the legal limit.

"You should have heard what those people said about me and my dogs," Mrs. Pope said. "People. People are like sheep. I'm off people."

"Appeal? Why waste my energy? I need it to take care of my dogs."

Mrs. Pope, a widow for 40 years, must find a new place to live within two months — she doesn't know where yet — but she is too angry with her neighbors now to stay anyway.

SPENDING MONEY
"They spend their money on cans of beer," she said. "I spend mine on cans of dog food."

Mrs. Pope went into the real estate business after her husband died. She was 27. After rearing three children, she retired to live alone in a neat little home beneath a huge persimmon tree. Alone, that is, except for the dogs.

"They're all sick," she said. "But I know how to take care of them. Look at that one. A vet gave up on him five years ago and wanted to put him to sleep. 'To sleep? I don't put my dogs to sleep. These vets.'"

NEUTROTIC DOGS
Mrs. Pope said she once had a run-in with a poundmaster who tried to take one of her pets, and the dog became a neurotic because of the experience.

"His hair fell out. He had a nervous breakdown because of me. He knew I was having a nervous breakdown because of all the fuss," she said.

New Lights Shine in New York Harbor

NEW YORK (AP) — The harbor lights of New York City have been augmented, if only briefly, by the 752 new lights on the Verrazano-Narrows Bridge, longest suspension span in the world.

The occasion was a test at twilight Wednesday of the lights on the bridge between Brooklyn and Staten Island which opens a week from Saturday.

"This is the biggest moment of my life," said Harry Sverdlove, president of the electrical company that installed the lights. He said one man at a $100,000 console will control the bridge's vast electrical system.

'U.S. Trails in Taming H-Bomb'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Russia is trying a lot harder than the United States to tame the H-bomb's thermonuclear fusion reactions and thus acquire a practically limitless supply of electrical power.

According to a Commerce Department survey reported this week, the Soviets are ahead of this country "in the race toward achieving a controlled fusion (power) reactor."

This may be debatable. Paul W. McDaniel, director of the Atomic Energy Commission's division of research, told United Press International he would not try to say which country is closer to the long-sought goal.

But he said there is no doubt the Russians are devoting more scientific and engineering manpower to the quest. McDaniel estimated that Soviet work in this field represents about 40 per cent of the world effort. The U.S. fusion power project, he said, accounts for 22 to 25 per cent.

STAGNANT PROGRAM

The American program, in terms of money appropriated by Congress, has been "stagnant" for the past three years or so whereas the Russians have been putting more and more effort into their H-power work.

Several countries are doing fusion research. The rewards of success would be hard to calculate.

The AEC said in a financial report this week that "successful fusion power would mean an inexhaustible fuel supply (hydrogen from seawater) which would provide man with all the energy he could ever want for his industries and other works."

The Commerce Department survey was based on Soviet reports, the word of Western physicists who have visited Russia, disclosures by Soviet scientists visiting Western countries, and proceedings of international scientific conferences.

TWICE AS MANY

The survey showed that "about twice as many scientists are engaged in controlled fusion research in the U.S.S.R. as in the United States."

In the number of experimental controlled fusion machines, "the survey finds the U.S.S.R. leading the United States."

On the basis of published results from these machines, the department said, "The U.S.S.R. is at present ahead of the United States in the race toward achieving a controlled fusion reactor."

In a report Tuesday on "Ten Years of Progress," the AEC said most of the available information on hydrogen power "had been contributed by the U.S. scientists who at present represent about one-fourth of the total world manpower devoted to controlled thermonuclear research."

McDaniel said this meant that Americans had published more papers on the subject than anybody else. He conceded this was not necessarily a gauge of actual scientific progress. The Russians have done fine work in this field, he said, but so have the Americans.

The first drive-in theater was opened in Camden, N. J., on June 6, 1933. It had space for 500 cars.

'Worst in History' in Some Areas

Drought Damage Up; No Sign of Relief

CHICAGO (AP) — Damages mounted in many segments of the nation's economy today as a long spell of unseasonably warm, dry weather showed no signs of a general, immediate break across wide areas from the Rockies to New England.

The severe drought, termed by Weather Bureau officials as the worst in history in parts of the East and Midwest, has dealt crippling blows to farmers and dairymen.

Heavy, soaking rains are needed desperately to bring relief to thousands of farmers and to halt the mounting outbreak of fires in bone-dry forest and timberlands.

Most of the Far West was out of the dry belt. Heavy snow and rain pelted areas in the region earlier this week and today a new Pacific storm moved inland through Oregon, setting off more snow in the western mountains and spreading rain along the Pacific Coast.

SNOW FALLS

The snow was expected to move into mountain areas of Utah, eastern Nevada and southern Idaho. Snow also fell in mountain sections of Colorado and New Mexico but no heavy rains were reported in Colorado where the state's $100-million winter wheat crop is threatened by the lack of rainfall.

There was a chance of rain in central sections of the nation — one of the hard-hit regions — with showers indicated from northeast Texas to the Great Lakes. Thunderstorms rumbled across southeast Kansas. A one to three-inch blanket of snow covered areas in northern and central Maine, another area badly in need of moisture.

An Associated Press survey showed some of the major effects of the dry conditions: Damages to winter wheat crops mounted into the millions of dollars, with some farmers threatened with complete destruction of their crop.

MANY FIRES

Hundreds of fires have burned thousands of acres of under-forest lands and forest areas in many parts of the Midwest and East. Some forest lands have been closed to the public. Hunters have been barred from some wooded regions. Water supplies dwindled to a trickle in many areas. Wells and ponds continue to dry up in parts of New England and the Midwest, causing a severe shortage of water for livestock. The lack of water in many states was termed from severe to critical.

There has been no official estimate of the overall damage. In Illinois alone, the drought has cut farm production 10 per cent, and cost farmers an estimated $94.9 million. The output of the state's major farm crops—corn, soybeans, oats and wheat—is 95 million bushels below average.

$10 MILLION LOSS

In New York, state officials estimate dairymen alone have lost $10 million in feed crops because of the prolonged dry spell. Many counties in the East and Midwest have been declared disaster areas, enabling farmers to qualify for federal aid in obtaining feed grains. Temperatures again were far above normal Wednesday, with record high marks for Nov. 11 in some cities. The record high of 77 in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, compared to readings in the Deep South.

Valuable Gold Coin

Stolen in California

The pickets were withdrawn later in the day by order of UAW Regional Director Pat O'Malley in Cleveland, Reed said.

The Cigar Makers International Union inaugurated the union label in the country in San Francisco in 1874.

BELVEDERE, Calif. (AP) — A 1907 experimental $20 gold piece valued at $18,250 by coin catalogues has been reported stolen by its Belvedere, Calif., owners.

The experimental, extremely high-relief coin was struck from a die designed by famed sculptor Augustus Saint-Gaudens.

COLORADO BAKED — Eastern Colorado is badly in need of moisture, and unless some rain comes soon the situation will turn to disaster. This is the third straight year drought has hit the plains of eastern Colorado.

Now It's Republicans' Turn

Political Shoe Changes Foot in Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — After each presidential election since 1868, the Democrats in Alabama have counted the returns and twitted the Republicans: "You're eligible to have a primary now, why don't you?"

A political party must get 20 per cent of the votes in a general election before it can have a primary, at state expense, the following election year.

The Republicans have been eligible since the first Eisenhower campaign of 1952. Their kept right on nominating their candidates by convention — and getting a bigger vote each election.

This year, it's a different story. It's the Democrats who had to call in the mathematicians to see if they can hold a primary in the 1968 elections.

REPUBLICANS WON

Sen. Barry Goldwater carried Alabama on Nov. 3. The Democrats got only about 30 per cent of the vote.

Thus have the mighty fallen from public favor in a state where, for generation after generation, Democratic nomination was all it took to win.

The Goldwater landslide elected five Republicans to Congress and swept Democrats out of local office in a score of counties. Thousands of Alabamians, bristling with resentment against the party of their ancestors, cast a straight GOP ballot.

Republican spokesmen jubilantly proclaimed the advent of a strong two-party system in a state long known for one-party control. Acting GOP state chairman Tom Brigham went further. He said Alabama will be a Republican state in the years to come.

DISMAYED LEADERS

Dismayed Democratic leaders analyzed the GOP victory, hopefully, as an emotional outburst touched off in large measure by opposition to the Civil Rights Act. They forecast a return to Democratic domination two years from now, but readily admitted their ranks are split by intraparty strife.

Some Democrats blamed Gov. George C. Wallace for the party setback because of his part in the presidential campaign and his refusal to support the national party.

Brigham credited Wallace with persuading the voters that they didn't need the national Democratic party — thus helping elect GOP candidates.

The unprecedented defeat brought demands from the Democratic ranks for reorganization of the party; for a party registration law to keep Republicans out of the Democratic primaries; and for a return to the loyalty oath binding Democrats to the national ticket in future elections.

NEW STRUGGLE

It foreshadowed a new struggle for control between loyalist Democrats favoring closer allegiance to the national party and the Wallace-led States Rights faction.

The election accomplished one thing for certain: Republicans will have a financial advantage in 1968 if the party nominates by convention again.

Democrats running for governor, the U.S. Senate, the House and lesser offices will have to spend huge sums of hard-to-get money seeking nomination in the primary, and then more in the general election.

Their GOP opponents, without the expenses of a primary race, can wait and spend their cash on the general election.

Exiled Cubans Seeking Unity

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A movement to unify Cuba's largest political party, the Authentic, split into five sectors in exile, has been started as part of a plan to intensify anti-Castro action.

Former Cuban Senate President Eduardo Suarez Rivas said an Authentic party congress of all factions is planned.

Suarez Rivas said his own faction, led by ex-President Carlos Prió Socarras, is preparing a petition to the Organization of American States for recognition of a government in exile and authorization of armed aid for exile anti-Castro warfare.

Before leaving for Washington to join Socarras, Suarez Rivas said he hoped other Authentic factions would support the petition. He did not spell out methods of forming an exile government, but said it would be based outside the United States.

Fifth Suspected Arson

KALAMAZOO (AP) — The Kalamazoo County Sheriff's Department stepped up its arson investigation in the Richmond Township areas north and east of here after a fifth farm building fire Wednesday destroyed a storage barn with the loss estimated at $20,000.

U.S. Offers Aid to Nations With Population Troubles

WASHINGTON — The State Department is quietly offering training and research assistance to underdeveloped countries trying to meet problems of population growth, officials said yesterday.

They emphasized the U.S. government is not trying to push countries into adopting birth control plans, but is cooperating where governments or responsible private agencies seek help in training specialists in the population problem.

Latin America is coming in for special attention, because government experts regard the rocketing population rate there as a major problem.

U.S. foreign aid experts say some developing nations actually are losing ground in their struggle for higher living standards, despite financial help from the United States and their own governments. This, they say, is because population growth is at a higher rate than the economic development needed.

PROBLEM DISCUSSED

Thomas C. Mann, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, and head of the U.S. Alliance for Progress agency, discussed the Latin-American population problem in a speech this week.

State Department officials said the speech represented another step in a quiet but continuing campaign, under way since early in the days of the administration of the late President John F. Kennedy, to bring the problem out in the open.

Dr. Edgar Berman, Baltimore surgeon and expert on population affairs, now serving as a State Department consultant, helped draft Mann's speech, they said.

Mann spoke at the annual banquet in New York of a private organization called "Planned Parenthood — World Population," which is engaged in study of the population problem.

UNDER STUDY

Mann commented that Pope Paul VI of the Roman Catholic Church — the prevailing denomination in Latin America — said recently the population problem is under study, "as wide and profound as possible, as grave and honest as it must be on a subject of such importance."

State Department officials said various private foundations have sent experts to several countries to aid national governments in research and training.

Governments of India, Pakistan, South Korea and Nationalist China have population study programs under way, they added.

But Elder Statesman Is Aging

Mao Moves to Top in Communist Party Influence

HONG KONG (AP) — The last four weeks must rank among the most satisfying ever for Communist China's Mao Tse-tung.

In that time he has emerged as probably the most influential Communist leader in the world — the elder statesman of Marxism-Leninism.

He has seen — and perhaps was partly responsible for — the fall of his arch enemy, Nikita Khrushchev.

He has received credit for the success of Communist China's first atomic explosion.

INCREASED INFLUENCE

And now, Western observers

here believe, he is confident he can increase his influence in Moscow and "correct" the "false revisionist beliefs" of the new men in the Kremlin.

He probably will not succeed. But at least he knows that his trusted aide, Chou En-lai, is in a strong bargaining position in relations with the Soviet Union.

Mao will be 71 next month. Recent photographs have shown he has lost weight. He appears to be ailing. His clothes hang on him.

He still smokes heavily and occasionally drinks a little rice wine. He lives with his fourth wife—Lan Pin, a former Shanghai actress — in an old one-story house in Peking.

RARE TRIPS

He occasionally ventures out to the opera or to an official function, but these trips are rare.

Western observers here believe Mao's age and physical frailty will prevent him from holding the reins of power much longer.

His successor probably will come from one of the five men whom recent official announcements from Peking described as Mao's "closest comrades in arms."

These are Liu Shao-chi, Chou En-lai, Lin Biao, Teng Hsiao-ping and Peng Chen. The announcements suggest that one of these men will take Mao's place if he steps down or dies.

OBVIOUS CHOICE

Liu, who is president of Communist China, has been called the obvious choice. But Liu, along with all the others, is in his 60s.

Mao recently introduced a campaign to train "Red heirs" — successors to the old elite.

But despite his precautions, there are likely to be confusion, struggles and purges when Mao passes from the scene.

Several years later there may be the emergence of a host of younger figures. These newcomers probably will be technocrats whose allegiance may be more to their disciplines than to communism or nationalism. The Red heirs could turn into "revisionists" and proponents of the peaceful coexistence Mao has fought.

Design Press Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Leonard Baskin, author and sculptor at Smith College, has been commissioned to design a medal for the World Press Achievement Award of the American Newspaper Publishers Association foundation.

HEIR APPARENT? — Liu Shao-chi, president of Communist China (left), shown with Chinese Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung in Peking last month, is described as the "obvious" choice to succeed Mao, should the aging leader step down or die. Mao, who will be 71 next month, appears to be ailing.

Streets Don't Meet Neat

MILTON, Wash. (AP) — When you get to the corner of 4th Avenue and 5th Street here you figure 5th and 5th is coming up next. But it's 10th and 5th one block away.

You also get a little confused at the corner of Porter Street and Porter Avenue. And you wonder why North End streets are called "East." On top of this, the Post Office Department uses a completely different set of street designations.

It's like that all over this picturesque western Washington town of some 2,500 folks near Tacoma. Milton is laid out in an orderly east-west, north-south grid pattern, but its street name situation has just been a problem, that's all.

But don't give up. The Milton City Council has announced it has a solution.

Students in Milton Elementary School's fifth and sixth grades were asked officially to rename the city's streets from top to bottom — and sideways — using consecutive numbers one way and alphabetical names the other.

Said one reliable source in the fifth grade, who declined to be quoted by name:

"One thing's for sure, the kids can't do any worse."

MSU May Stall Opening of New Medical School

EAST LANSING (AP) — Indications arose Wednesday that Michigan State University might delay the opening of its two-year medical school, originally scheduled for fall of 1965.

The Michigan State News, a student publication, reported that some advisers were telling prospective students that the school may not be open next fall.

Dr. William H. Kniesley, director of MSU's Institute of Biology and Medicine, said only:

"President (John) Hannah will make a recommendation to the board of trustees concerning the opening of the school at its next meeting (Nov. 19)."

Dangerous Elements in S. California: Winds, Fire, Water, Mud

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An avalanche of mud pucks down a suburban street, wrecks a home and carries a housewife three-quarters of a mile to her death in a debris-filled catch basin.

Why? This tragedy, which occurred three days ago in adjoining Burbank, points up an old vicious circle.

Half or more of the native ground cover in Southern California is dry — and highly combustible — from years of drought.

"Then a fire starts, you get these 100-mile-an-hour Santa Ana winds and it's impossible to stop," says Bob Singleton, public information officer for the county fire department.

The Santa Anas hot winds flowing down coastal canyons from interior desert regions — the "devil winds" of California lore.

The fire strips hills and mountainsides of their protective covering of water-retaining brush and grass.

When rain does come, as it did Monday, water, boulders, tree limbs and mud come pouring down on homes, sweeping cars and sometimes people to destruction.

Why do people live in such danger areas?

THEY LOVE IT

A county aide who lives on a dead-end street in the Hollywood Hills, overlooking the San Fernando Valley, says: "I love it. It's a little closer to living in the country, and much easier than the flatland."

A county ordinance forbids building in areas "determined by the county engineer to be subject to flood hazard" unless there is provision for adequate drainage and other protection. This applies only in unincorporated county territory, however. What is needed, says Warren M. Dorn, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, is a uniform ordinance

Man Is Freed in Dog Case

Jailed for Refusing to Have Pet Destroyed

PEARISBURG, Va. (AP) — Jim Laing leaves the Giles County jail today after serving only one week of a four-month sentence for refusing to turn his dog over to authorities for execution.

Laing, 63, is being freed under a reprieve from Gov. Albert S. Harrison Jr., who announced last Monday that Laing's dog, Ricky, had been destroyed.

It was because he wouldn't surrender Ricky, a German shepherd condemned for sheep-killing, for legal execution that Laing was fined $1,000 and sentenced to jail for contempt of court.

Gov. Harrison's announcement apparently meant that Ricky is legally dead.

DOG DESTROYED

Laing's attorney, Harvey Lutins of Roanoke, said he understood a dog named Ricky was destroyed and cremated in zewell, a southwest Virginia community.

But was this the real Ricky? Lutins declined to say so flatly. Gov. Harrison, however, seemed disinclined to quibble.

The release of Laing, a retired man unable to work, would serve the ends of both justice and mercy, the governor said. He said Laing showed a willingness to purge himself of contempt by surrendering at the Giles jail last Thursday for his four-month sentence.

covering all of the county's 76 incorporated cities. Some of them are spread out along about 50 miles of brushy foothills.

TWO PROGRAMS

How can a repetition of Monday's tragedy be prevented? Authorities say it can be done by continuation of two programs: fire prevention and flood control.

In the Santa Barbara area, where fire ravaged 67,000 acres of mountainous Los Padres National Forest this summer, tons of debris, rock and mud battered homes and closed roads Monday. The conglomeration jammed against bridges, broke a main water line and sent creeks roaring out of their channels.

The U.S. Forest Service said the downpour didn't dislodge most of the rye seeds scattered by plane to provide a quick-growing cover over the burns.

Some Santa Barbarians have advocated control burns at three- or four-year intervals to forestall big fires. James Stubaer, Santa Barbara County's flood control engineer, prefers the idea of spreading brush-control chemicals that kill the brush but leave grasses. The U.S. forest Service is starting such an experiment in the Santa Barbara burned area.

BUILDING DAMS

The Los Angeles County Flood

Control District operates 20 dams and about 60 debris basins. Voters just approved a $275-million bond issue to increase the 800 miles of storm drains to 1,225.

whole problem is compounded by the tremendous population and construction growth in Southern California.

"Fighting the fire problem has to be a constant educational campaign."

Sauteed Mushrooms Go in Sauce for Fowl

How do you prepare fresh house mushrooms? The experts say that preparation is especially easy. Do not peel and do not water-soak mushrooms. The best chefs wipe fresh mushrooms with a damp paper towel or rinse them in a light stream of cold water and dry at once. Snip off the ends and the mushrooms are ready for use. . . . What could be easier? The easiest way to cook fresh mushrooms is to saute them. Heat a large-surface heavy skillet . . . then add enough butter or oil to coat the surface generously. When hot, but not dark brown, arrange the mushrooms over the surface so they do not touch. The mushrooms should begin to sizzle immediately. As soon as the edges begin to brown and the centers take on that clear, quality, turn each mushroom. Lightly brown the other side; then lift the mushrooms onto paper toweling. Be careful not to overcook. Fresh house mushrooms are their "tender best" when just cooked through.

Mushrooms and Cider Sauce

Roast small chickens rather quickly (400 degree oven). Don't overcook. Rub all over inside and outside with sweet butter (unsalted). Don't overcook. Remove from roaster to keep warm.

In bottom of roaster over high heat, dash ½ cup fresh cider. Stir well, digging loose all brown particles. Add 1 teaspoon minced parsley and 1 teaspoon frozen dried chives with ½ pound sliced sauteed fresh mushrooms. Toss together and serve with roast chicken.

MUSHROOMS IN CIDER SAUCE

Mushrooms Go in Peach Half

A delightful accompaniment for various kinds of meat, "Mushrooming Peaches" puts the spotlight on heated canned cling peach halves filled with a creamy, well seasoned mixture of sliced mushrooms and diced green pepper.

Mushrooming Peaches
1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) cling peach halves
1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms
Light cream
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup diced green pepper
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon seasoned salt
½ teaspoon Worcestershire
Roast chicken, prime rib, roast pork or steak

Drain peach syrup into shallow pan; add peaches, cup-sides up. Cover and heat through — about 5 minutes.

Meanwhile, drain liquid from mushrooms into measuring cup; add cream to make ½ cup liquid. Melt butter in small skillet; add green pepper and saute until tender-crisp. Stir in flour and seasoned salt. Add cream liquid and Worcestershire. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add mushrooms.

Lift peach halves from syrup with slotted spoon onto serving plate. Spoon mushroom mixture into peach cups. Serve with meat. Makes 6 or 7 servings.

Horseradish Adds Zip

If you like a bit of snap and zest in your meat, prepared horseradish can be spread on a pot-roast after browning, but before braising. If you like horseradish, but not quite this much, leave it off the meat and add a bit only to the gravy.

Cheese Is Best When Kept in Right Way

Soft, unripened cheese, such as cottage, cream or Neufchatel, are highly perishable, explains USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service. They should be kept refrigerated and be used in a few days.

Ripened or cured cheeses will keep for several weeks if wrapped tightly and refrigerated.

Limburger and other especially strong-odored varieties should be stored in a tightly covered container and be used within a reasonable time after purchase.

Normally, cheese should not be allowed to freeze, for it will become crumbly and mealy. However, small pieces (1 pound or less) not over 1-inch thick of certain varieties may be kept frozen as long as 6 months.

Brick, Cheddar, Edam, Gouda, Muenster, Port du Salut, Swiss, Provola, Mozzarella and Camembert are considered "freezable."

Cheese Important in Salad

Two excellent new recipes are offered: Swiss Banana Salad calls for cooked ham cubes, always so good with Switzerland Swiss, and generous amounts of yet another flavor-mate, the mellow creamy taste of bananas. Firm to the touch bananas, boxed in the tropics, are now widely available, and give the salad body and smoothness. Pecan halves and strips of pimientos are delicious, too; the salad dressing suggested has honey and curry powder to accent a corn oil base.

In a glass bowl, arrange washed and trimmed romaine spears. Add thick chunks of Switzerland Swiss cheese in

Sweet Fig Loaf Is a Quick Bread

Coconut Fig Bread
¾ cup flaked coconut
¾ cup chopped dried figs
¾ cup boiling water
2½ cups flour
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons salt
1 egg, slightly beaten
¾ cup milk
¼ cup shortening, melted

Mix together the coconut, figs and water; cool. Stir together the flour, brown sugar, baking powder and salt. Beat egg with milk to combine; add to flour mixture with shortening; mix well. Stir in coconut mixture.

Turn into a greased 9 by 5 by 3 inch loaf pan. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 1 hour and 10 to 15 minutes, or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 15 minutes; turn out on wire rack; cool.

Ever serve fried scallops on creamed spinach? Good combination.

Cheese Important in Salad

very generous amount. Arrange lengthwise slices of banana sprinkled with lemon juice, cubes of cooked ham, pecan halves, the strips of pimiento, so that the salad makes a bouquet effect in the bowl.

Serve with Special Curry Dressing.

Special Curry Dressing
¾ cup honey
¾ cup corn oil
¾ cup lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon curry powder

Combine all ingredients in small bowl. Beat with rotary egg beater until well blended. Chill until ready to serve.

Squash Likes It Cool

If you plan to store hard shell squash, select a cool (50-60 degree) dry, well-ventilated area. Squash to be stored should be fully mature.

Spanish Recipe for Rice Unusual

Rice Flamenca is a dish as colorful and attractive as the handsome flamenco. It has a Spanish name it bears. Its flavor is as irresistible as the strains of a flamenco dancer's heels. Choose it as a vivid addition to the menu for family gathering or gala.

Like other typical Spanish dishes, Rice Flamenca makes excellent use of a fair number of ingredients. Also it uses oil rather than butter to saute its vegetables.

Spanish cooks long ago learned that this cuts down expense yet does not impair the flavor or texture of the finished dish. Its taste is bold and positive, yet compatible with the other foods it may accompany.

The mild-flavored rice absorbs and blends the many separate ingredient flavors into one that is unique and rich and completely in the Spanish character.

Rice Flamenca

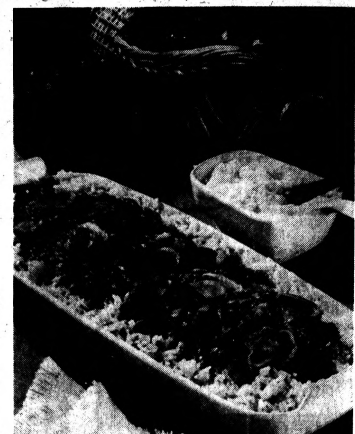

1 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
½ cup chopped green onions
½ cup chopped celery
¾ cup grated carrots
6 tablespoons oil
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
1 cup water
1½ cup uncooked rice
3 cups chicken bouillon
2 teaspoons salt freshly ground black pepper
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Cook mushrooms, onions, celery and carrots in 4 tablespoons oil until tender. Add tomato paste, tomato sauce, and water. Cover and simmer for 15 minutes.

Lightly brown rice in remaining 2 tablespoons oil. Add bouillon and salt. Heat to boiling, stir once. Cover. Reduce heat and simmer 15 minutes or until liquid is absorbed.

Add vegetables and toss lightly. Top with grated cheese. 6 servings.

Locally Grown Mushrooms Lend Glamour to Eating

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

For years we've been under the impression that one ate mushrooms. Now we know that they can be used effectively in a table decoration.

We have before us as we write a small arrangement of straw flowers, dried weeds, autumn leaves and mushrooms. The mushrooms are the central part of the bouquet.

This is entirely appropriate at this time for it is National Mushroom Week. And we live near one of the main mushroom producing areas in the country.

A couple of weeks ago we visited a cooperative canner and packing plant near Warren. Organized 15 years ago, this cannery will handle almost six million pounds of mushrooms this year. When it began, the year's total was 400,000 pounds.

Fresh mushrooms are brought in daily from surrounding growers. From the refrigerated trucks they are immediately cooled, packed and sent to Detroit Metropolitan area stores. Those that are canned are sealed under a number of labels and sent all over the country.

A visit to the Vannini Brothers ermushroom farm on Dequindre road followed the cannery visit.

We saw the carefully prepared beds where the spawn send creeping white fingers through the soil. Then we entered another pitch black house where mushrooms were ready for picking. Windowless and controlled in temperature, humidity and ventilation, these houses are now air conditioned for year-round production. There is a woody odor, not at all unpleasant.

Workers wearing miner's lamps carefully hand-pick every mushroom. Interesting enough, mature mushrooms vary in size from buttons to those measuring four inches across. But most of them are a snowy white with rounded knob-like tops.

You'll find mushrooms in pint boxes and in bulk at this time of year. They are less expensive in the bulk. Even when mushrooms are brownish and have a fully opened cap, they are delicious in soups, sauces and casseroles. For sauteing and special dishes you'll want the fresher white ones.

If you have yet to taste your first fresh mushroom, this is the week to start. But never, never, never peel a mushroom.

Admiring a cluster of freshly picked mushrooms is Pontiac Press food editor, Janet Odell. With her is Albert Vannini, one of the owners of the Vannini Brothers mushroom farm at 45555 Dequindre Road. There is no light in these mushroom houses and pickers wear the traditional miner's cap. Readers can see the variation in size of the mature mushrooms.

Cheese Soup Fine Sauce for Mushrooms

For an extra special main course for luncheon made with a minimum amount of time and effort, try Mushrooms with Cheese Sauce. The ingredients are all taken from your pantry shelf.

As a base, use canned condensed cheddar cheese soup, a can of diced or julienne carrots and a can of broiled mushroom crowns. Instead of using milk to thin the soup to the consistency of a sauce, use a white dinner wine and serve the rest of the bottle of wine, slightly chilled with your main course.

Mushrooms With Cheese Sauce
1 can (6 ounces) broiled mushroom crowns
1 can (8 ounces) diced or julienne carrots
1 can (11 ounces) condensed cheddar cheese soup
½ cup Sauterne or other white dinner wine

Heat mushrooms and carrots in their own broth and drain thoroughly. Place soup in saucepan and stir until smooth. Then slowly stir in ½ cup wine. Add drained mushrooms and carrots to sauce and heat slowly, stirring occasionally, but do not boil. Serve over hot cooked noodles or toast. Garnish with asparagus tips if desired. Makes 3 or 4 servings.

Survey Discloses

Mushroom Fans

How often does your family enjoy mushrooms? According to a national survey, more than eight out of ten homemakers in the United States have eaten fresh or canned mushrooms. Families living in the Pacific area use more mushrooms than other American families, and families living in the South use fewer mushrooms than others.

According to this study, the typical homemaker who has eaten mushrooms is over 25 years old, has an income in the $10,000 plus range, she lives in a city of two million and more... she is the wife of a "white collar worker" and she or her husband have a college education.

Mushrooms Too

Hint of Mint in Squash Stuffing

A delicate vegetable such as zucchini deserves special treatment. Try stuffing it with this unusual combination of mushrooms, cheese crackers and a surprise herb—mint.

Mushroom Stuffed Zucchini
6 medium size zucchini
¼ cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 4-ounce can sliced mushrooms, drained
2 tablespoons catsup

Cardomom Is Scandinavian Idea

Here's a tea loaf to try when that committee meets at your house.

Cardomom Tea Loaf
3 cups bisuit mix
¼ teaspoon ground cardomom
1 egg
½ cup each milk and honey
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
½ cup medium sherry

Stir together the biscuit mix and cardomom in a medium mixing bowl. In a small mixing bowl, beat the egg until thickened and lemon colored; add the milk, honey and sherry; beat to combine; stir in lemon rind. Add to biscuit mix; stir just until dry ingredients are blended.

Turn into a well greased loaf pan (5½ by 4½ by 2½ inches). Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven 45 to 50 minutes or until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Turn out on wire rack; cool.

Store in a tightly covered container. Serve with butter and honey.

½ teaspoon salt
Dash ground blackpepper
¼ teaspoon powdered mustard
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon crushed mint leaves
Dash Worcestershire sauce
¾ cup cheese crackers crumbs, finely rolled ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Cut off stem and flower of zucchini. Slice in half lengthwise and scoop out pulp, chopping it coarsely. Saute onion in butter or margarine until tender. Add mushrooms and saute 2 to 3 minutes. Stir in catsup, salt, pepper, mustard, nutmeg, mint, Worcestershire sauce, cheese crackers crumbs and zucchini pulp. Mix well.

Fill zucchini shells with this stuffing. Place on a greased baking pan. Sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese and dot with butter or margarine. Pour ½ cup hot water around zucchini and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 45 minutes or until zucchini is tender. Makes 6 servings.

Canape Spread Made With Mushrooms

This unusual spread for canapes will have your guests guessing about the contents.

Mushroom Canape
1 can (6 oz.) chopped mushrooms
1 package (4 oz.) grated sharp American cheese
Few drops tabasco
1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese
Chop mushrooms into smaller pieces, then stir in grated cheese and tabasco. Blend in cream cheese. Serve on crackers or melba toast.

Fresh or Canned? Consider the Price

Have you ever wondered about price comparisons between fresh and canned mushrooms? If the price of a 4-ounce can of mushrooms is one-third that of a pound of fresh hothouse mushrooms, both are equally good buys. This is based on the logic that one pound of fresh whole mushrooms will yield six servings while a 4-ounce can of whole mushrooms yields two servings. If your recipe calls for a pound of fresh mushrooms, you can use 20 to 24 fresh mushrooms... or one quart of raw whole mushroom caps... or one 6- or 8-ounce can of mushroom caps or crowns.

Even when mushrooms are brownish and have a fully open-

'Boom Town' Seeks to Break Chain of Tragedy

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Some call it Boom Town, U.S.A. Gas, paint fumes, even air have become sudden assassins in the series of explosions which have rocked Terre Haute for the last 22 months. The toll stands at 22 dead and 106 injured.

Gerald Fagg, a workman who survived the worst of the city's seven explosions, says, "When they get to talking about it, one thing keeps coming up — Who'll be next?"

The prevailing trend of thought among the 72,000 residents of this western Indiana city seems to be an effort to forget the thread of tragedy in hope it will end.

TRIES TO FORGET

A gasoline tank truck driver, John Vermillion, said, "You know, a fellow learns not to think about these things in this kind of work."

Fagg and 200 other employees at the Home Packing Co. plant along the Wabash River where reporting to work the morning after New Year's Day, 1963, when an explosion ripped apart the brick packing house. Seven-teen died, 51 were injured.

A fire marshal's report blamed the blast on leaking gas. The Terre Haute Gas Corp., a privately owned utility, made a $1.65-million settlement on 64 personal damage suits.

A month later, explosions occurred two days apart in separate residential districts. They left 23 more injured. Gas fumes lingered in the air.

2 KILLED

A boiler explosion traced to paint fumes killed two workmen and injured another at a power plant that summer. In September, 1963, an air compressor exploded at a fertilizer plant, killing one man and injuring nine others.

A crew was welding a pipeline this summer when gas again exacted its toll — two dead and five hospitalized. The latest blast, Oct. 20 came as gas workmen were installing a meter in the basement of a store. The building was leveled and 17 persons were injured.

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS

In the midst of this, a $3½-million fire consumed a dozen businesses along Terre Haute's main street — Wabash Avenue — last year. Another explosion had killed 22 in a coal mine, since closed for safety reasons, northwest of Terre Haute in 1961.

Mayor Ralph Tucker calls it just a run of bad luck.

"I don't think there's any connection between all of them," he says of the explosions. "We have had tragedies before and we've come out bigger and better."

Asst. Fire Chief Frank Klamp adds, "It's just the way the ball bounces."

The city has an extensive fire prevention and inspection program, but four of the explosions have been traced in official reports to gas mains buried underground. "When we inspect it doesn't do a bit of good," says Fire Chief Norman Feiler.

Of the three blasts in early 1963, Klamp says, "I've seen some of the gas mains they've dug up. These were good mains. We just had a severe winter. The ground froze down deep and put pressure on them."

But Feiler says after the latest blast in sunny autumn weather, "This one is upsetting our theory on it."

Terre Haute's headaches have been overshadowed by the state's worst disaster in history — an explosion which hurled chunks of concrete through an ice show crowd in the State Fair Grounds Coliseum in Indianapolis a year ago, killing 74 and injured 375.

COOKING GAS

That tragedy was blamed by a grand jury on cylinders of cooking gas used to warm popcorn.

But Terre Haute's problems have stirred no large governmental uproar. After the winter explosions in 1963, schools were closed for an inspection. Gas leaks were found in four. Then the issue seemed to die until this fall.

After the seventh explosion last month, the state's Public Service Commission chairman ordered an investigation of the Terre Haute Gas Corp. to determine whether the utility "is doing what it can to avert explosions and whether safety regulations are being followed."

The chief investigator for the fire marshal's office had a workman arrested on the charge that he was filling test holes at the blast site and hindering his investigation.

BUSY DIGGING

But Feiler says, "the gas company all summer has been digging all over Terre Haute trying to find bad spots. They've been busy recently replacing mains."

Roy S. Brunner, the utility's general manager, says the firm has spent half a million dollars in improvements and maintenance this year.

"The system is in very good shape and there is no particular reason for the people of Terre Haute to be concerned," he said.

Fagg, 22, was buried in the rubble of the packing house. His body was pinned, except for his left arm. He finally thrust his hand through the surface and clutched the ankle of a rescue worker standing above him.

STILL DREAMS

"I still dream about it," he says. "It's something you never forget."

Fagg was standing only two feet from John J. Callahan, 24, who was killed in the blast seven days after he became engaged. His mother, Mary Callahan, a widow, says of the city's chain of calamity, "I really don't know what to think."

She pauses, then adds, "It's a ghastly thing. It makes you think — about what might be in the future."

Feeds on Peat Below Ground

New Jersey Fire Won't Go Out

SADDLE RIVER, N.J. (AP) — A woodland fire that won't go out belches occasional flames from an underground lair and casts a constant pall of smoke over this northern New Jersey area.

The blaze feeds below ground on peat — about 200 acres of it. It began before Labor Day and has ravaged nearly 70 per cent of a beautiful 300-acre wooded tract where tree-loving poet Joyce Kilmer once roamed.

Fire fighters from Saddle River, Allendale and other communities come on the run when, from time to time, the fire shoots flames above ground.

The smoke periodically blankets Route 17 and has caused a rash of accidents on the busy north-south highway serving the New York metropolitan area.

GOOD RAIN

Home owners near the fire keep their property wetted down for safety. Against the smoke they have no protection.

Authorities say only a good soaking rain will end the fire. Fire Chief Louis Werner of Saddle River said that the land despoiled was virgin territory.

"It's a sad sight to see a great tree go down," he said. "The fire will eat the tree's roots away and then suddenly she goes."

NIGHT WATCHES

Werner said that when the fire began it was on the southeast section of the tract. Houses in Waldwick were threatened for a time. Now the area where the fire is uncontrolled is in the northwest.

Werner said some home owners have set up night watches, and his community bought a Jeep to patrol the area. "We run it all through the mess," he said. "It can be dangerous. You never know when a big tree is going to go."

RIDE IN STYLE — Teen-agers commuting to high school in Middleton, Mass., with Bradburn Barrows, 18 (at the wheel) ride in style in a 1939 12-cylinder Lincoln about twice as long as the average hot rod. Barrows says he likes to pack as many friends aboard as possible to share the gas bill.

'39 Lincoln Is Plush

Teens Travel in Real Comfort

MIDDLETON, Mass. (AP) — Those who commute to school with Bradburn Barrows, 18, travel in comfort and style for- eign to today's hot-rodgers.

Bradburn drives a shiny, black, 12-cylinder Lincoln limousine that's 19½ feet long and fitted out like a living room.

It has leather upholstery, teakwood paneling, foot pillows, chromium fixtures, window blinds, an intercom system and a roll-down window that separates the passengers from the chauffeur.

"This is the greatest," said young Barrows Thursday. "We didn't know such comfort when I was driving my 1932 hot rod with no hood and no roof."

MANY AS 17

"We've had as many as 17 in the car. At drive-in theaters we invite young people from other cars to join us and sit around in a crowd."

"We've had football rallies, birthday parties and even smokeouts in the car."

For the unknown, Barrows explains that a smokeout is when a bunch of guys sit around in the car smoking cigars and cigarettes with all the windows up and the blinds down.

After a while, "I chimed in a friend, Michael Murphy. 'The smoke is so thick you can't even see the guy next to you. You can't talk. You sit there choking.'"

'OCCUPIES US'

Ron Melzard, 17, another companion, said of the smokeouts: "It occupies us. It's better than sitting around getting into trouble."

Barrows said he isn't trying to compete with the school buses, "but the more kids I pack into the car the more there are to chip in for gas."

"They don't make 12-cylinder cars any more. This car is a 1939 model, and it's not exactly gentle on gas consumption. I bet

I don't get eight miles a gallon on it."

"We've ordered as much as 20 gallons at one time, and the gas tank wasn't even full. And the other day when the oil was changed it took 11 quarts."

FROM FATHER

Young Barrows obtained the 1939 Lincoln recently through his father, R. Lionel Barrows, inventor of an automatic pin-setting machine for bowling.

The elder Barrows said he had got the Lincoln from a friend, Merton Barrows of near-by Topsfield, who is no relation, by putting up a 1919 Model T Ford and $1,500.

Vandals Damage Headstones of Early Americans

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "It's just one of those things that literally turn you upside down," said the Rev. Ernest A. Harding, rector of Christ Church.

For the second time in little more than a year vandals early Wednesday scaled the red-brick fence around the cemetery where Benjamin Franklin and four signers of the Declaration of Independence are buried.

They walked among the headstones, brittle with age and with legends worn by the elements, knocking some over and defacing others. Twenty of the markers were damaged or ruined.

In August 1963, vandals got inside the cemetery and damaged or ruined 63 stones. It cost about $2,000 to repair the damage.

USW Issues Call for Meeting to Lay Groundwork on Goals

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The top policy makers of the United Steelworkers (USW) will meet with 700 local union leaders for two days next week in New York City to lay the groundwork for new wage contract demands.

Telegrams summoning them to the meeting went out yesterday to the local union officers at plants of the 41 major steel producing companies and to the 170 members of the USW's wage policy committee, the union's final authority on wage contract matters.

USW President David J. McDonald emphasized in the telegrams that the meeting next Monday and Tuesday will not be for the purpose of setting a wage policy for contract negotiations with the 11 companies expected after Jan. 1.

McDonald said the purpose of the meeting is to get the views of the local leaders on wages, working conditions and other contract matters.

"I am sure that this meeting can be a tremendous help to all of us prior to the deciding of an international wage policy," McDonald said in the telegrams.

TO SET POLICY

That policy will be set in a meeting of the wage policy committee next month. The time and place of the meeting have not been set, but McDonald said it would take place about Dec. 1.

The wage policy committee includes the top leadership of the USW. All 33 executive board members and the directors of the 41 USW districts in the United States and Canada are members of the committee.

The New York City meeting Nov. 16-17 will be held at the Billmore and Hilton hotels.

It is expected that at the December meeting the wage policy committee will vote to formally notify the 11 major steel producers that the USW will seek negotiations for a new labor contract after Jan. 1.

If no agreement is reached by May 1, the union would be free to strike at that time.

Hatfield Offers GOP Rebuilding Plan

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Gov. Mark Hatfield of Oregon offered a three-point plan for rebuilding the Republican party today, and warned GOP leaders to quit "jockeying for the 1968 presidential nomination."

"We must rebuild the party organization and leadership on a first-things-first basis."

"If the Republicans don't do better in 1968 than they did in 1964, we might as well throw in the towel as far as 1968 is concerned," the Oregon governor said.

Many political observers believe last week's election greatly enhanced Hatfield's position in the Republican party.

His speech attacking extremism keyed the GOP National Convention which nominated Sen. Barry Goldwater for president.

Hatfield, in an interview with UPI, called for Republicans to:

• Outline a positive, progressive policy and philosophy based on the records of accomplishments of Republican governors

• Establish "councils of ideas" between GOP officeholders and rank and file party members at the local level

• Concentrate on making substantial GOP gains in 1966 as a prelude to the 1968 presidential contest.

Hatfield said Republicans must establish "a broad middle-ground philosophy and outline positive positions on civil rights, Medicare, taxation, conservation, education and foreign aid."

He called for "closer communication between Republican governors to project a progressive image of the party based on facts and the records of accomplishments achieved at the statehouse level."

Hatfield said congressional leadership was vital to the GOP. But since 1931 the party had been on the defensive as the "loyal opposition and had established a negative reaction in the mind of the voter," he said.

Seek Cooperation on Radio Channel Use

The Pontiac State Police Post has asked the cooperation of the citizen band radio operators in the use of an emergency channel.

Many months ago channel 17 on the citizen's band was informally established as an emergency channel. This is the least-used channel on the band.

The plan, however, has not been as successful as hoped, according to Richard Montgomery, president of Hart, a citizen's band emergency organization.

Citizen band operators are using this channel for non-emergency traffic. Montgomery either use too much power or said. Also, some operators do not keep their sets adjusted

Beethoven Outpolls Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was Beethoven by a landslide—bigger than the one President Johnson chalked up—when the National Symphony Orchestra logged the returns in its favorite symphonic composer poll.

In an awesome display of musical popularity, the Bonn genius got 61.7 per cent of the vote in a field of 38—a little better than the 61.4 per cent Johnson scored in another sort of contest last week. Immediately behind Beethoven were Sibelius, Mozart, Brahms and Tchaikovsky.

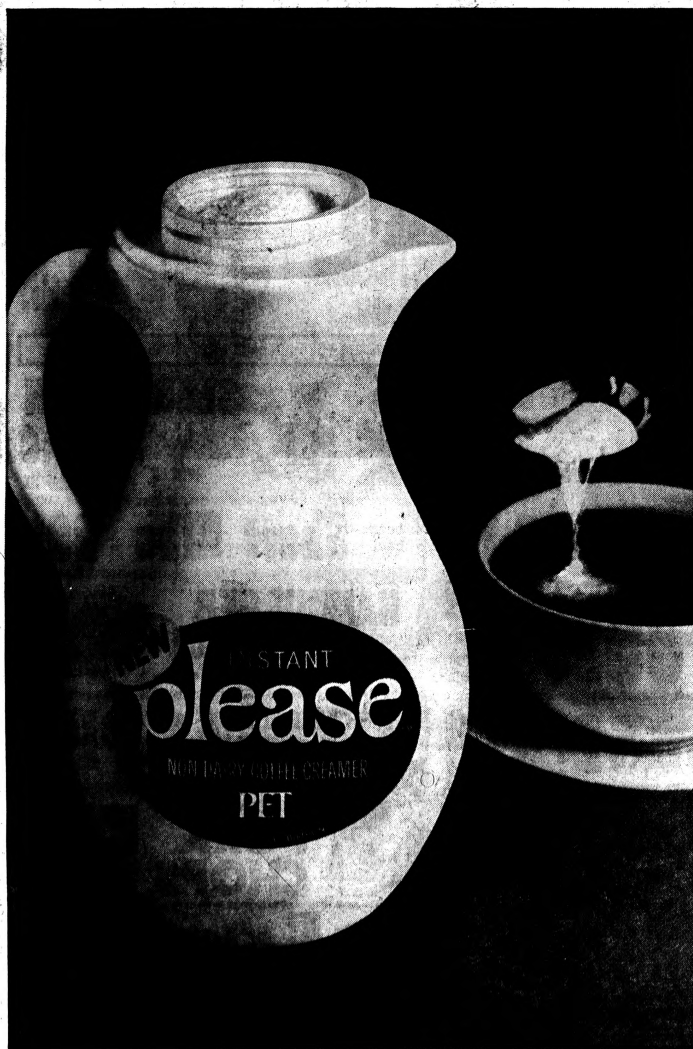

The National Symphony mailed 35,000 ballots to subscribers and the general public. About 1,000 ballots were returned.

to the proper frequency, he said.

Sgt. John Amthor, local State Police post commander, has asked that all citizen's band operators use channel 17 for emergency traffic only.

Amthor said the project would depend entirely on the voluntary action by operators, and he hoped all radio owners would cooperate.

Dimension in Art and Music," using colored slides to illustrate his ideas.

Also featured on the program was Lyle Vette, 17-year-old percussionist member of the Pontiac Central High School band and Pontiac Symphony Orchestra. He was a 1964 Dora Dawson scholarship winner.

Lyle performed Paganini's "Perpetual Motion" on the marimba, accompanied by Mrs. W. C. Schmitz at the piano. As an encore, he played a four-part transcription from Chopin's "Fantasy - Impromptu," unaccompanied.

At the December program to be given in the sanctuary of Central Methodist Church, the Pontiac Tuesday Musicales chorus will give its annual Christmas program.

Directed by Mrs. Ferdinand Gaensbauer, the chorus will be assisted by the Baroque Ensemble of Oakland University. This group features early music and instruments such as the recorder, harpsichord and viola da gamba.

This meeting will be open to all members and their guests.

Discuss Club Plans and Future Events

Mrs. H. Delos Nichol opened her home on Lake Angelus Shores to members of the Mizpah Temple Past Chiefs' Club Tuesday evening. Plans for the gala evening on Dec. 8 were discussed by Mrs. Paul Elter. Serving with her on the committee is Mrs. Edward Kerr.

In other years they played and sang in the High Fever Follies. This year they'll display their talents at the High Fever Frolic dance Dec. 4 at the Elks Temple. Ralph Merkowitz, Pine Ridge Road, West Bloomfield Township, and Mrs. LaVon Ryden, Pioneer Drive, both raise their voices in song at an early rehearsal. The dance is open to the public.

Chairing the social committee on Tuesday were Mrs. William Belaney and Mrs. Richard Irwin. Assistants were Mrs. E. C. Russell, Mrs. F. A. Compton, Mrs. C. H. Harmon and Mrs. Elwood Bigler.

Others sharing hostess honors were Mrs. W. E. Rorbaugh, Mrs. Martin Alward, Mrs. H. C. Carroll and Mrs. R. D. Heltich.

Mrs. James G. Aldrich and Mrs. E. L. Phillips presided at the tea table.

Auxiliary Unit Plans High Fever Frolic

Plans are being completed for the High Fever Frolic dance to be held Dec. 4 in the Elks Temple. Sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to the Pontiac General Hospital, it will feature Carl Edson's Big Band Sound and other professional entertainment.

By SIGNE KARLSTROM
The University of Michigan Alumnae will hold its annual "Men's Night" Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Village Woman's Club.

Mrs. P. J. Laux is chairman for the evening. She and Mrs. W. H. Burgum are accepting reservations.

Prior to the lecture Dr. Fred A. Henney of Bloomfield Village will entertain Dr. and Mrs. Smith for dinner.

Breakfast will follow the dance.

According to Mrs. Edward Dalton, chairman, the High Fever Frolic dance will replace the High Fever Follies which has been an annual affair for the past ten years. Proceeds from the dance will be used to purchase equipment for the hospital.

Other committee members are Mrs. Clark J. Adams, Mrs. Cecil McCallum, Mrs. Donald E. Redmond, Mrs. Peter Hoogerhyde, Mrs. Louis Scariotti, Mrs. Leo Donaldson and Mrs. Gene Connell.

Also helping with the affair are Mrs. Clyde Dearing, Philip Rowston, Mrs. Fred Fuller, Mrs. Socrates V. Sekles, Mrs. William Fox, Mrs. John Benson, Theresa Spauldore and Mrs. Eugene Carey.

How Much Should Man Buy Date?

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: When out on a date, is it up to the man to assume all the expenses of the evening, even to the extent of paying for anything the girl might buy while she is with him?

A: To be more explicit: The other evening my girlfriend stopped at a newsstand on the way home and bought several current magazines.

Was it up to me to pay for them? I didn't do so but felt rather cheap afterward and wondered if I should have paid for them?

A: It was not at all necessary nor expected of you to pay for these magazines she herself decided to buy.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

She Found Brother's Ashes in Old Shoe Box in Closet

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My only brother died in California a few years ago and was cremated.

When I visited his widow this summer, I asked to be taken to the place where my brother's ashes were kept.

She opened the door of a closet which was crowded with junk, old luggage and boxes jammed in every which way. Finally she unearthed a shoe box and said, "Here it is."

I was speechless. I didn't even open the box, but handed it back to her. I was shocked that my beloved brother's ashes were kept in such a place.

I cut my visit short, but it's been on my mind ever since and I don't know what to do about it.

My sister-in-law goes to church regularly and says grace before meals.

Please put my mind at ease with some advice. Am I overly sentimental?

DEAR BEWILDERED: No.

Apart from her sister-in-law's appalling lack of respect for her husband's remains, something else is cockeyed here.

Each state has its own laws governing cremation and the disposition of ashes. And under the California Health and Safety Code, the ashes are not given out.

They are either placed in an urn and kept in a bona fide cemetery, put in a mausoleum-type building, or buried in the earth (like a casket) with a marked grave.

Ask your sister-in-law how come your brother's ashes are in a shoe box in her closet?

DEAR ABBY: My second wife and I have been married for 15 years. My first wife died.

I had eight children by my first wife and none by my second. When my children introduce me to any of their friends, they say, "This is my father . . . and this is Mary."

Mary has gone all out to be a good mother to my children and she has been a wonderful wife to me. All the children are married and have children of their own, so they could call us "Grampa and Grandma."

Or they could refer to Mary as their stepmother, or even "Mrs. So and So."

What procedure should I use to get my children to refer to my wife in a more respectful manner?

DEAR GRANDPA: Why not call your children together and ask that they refer to your wife in a manner more pleasing to you?

I vote for "Grandma" for the children and see nothing wrong with "Mary" the rest of the time.

CONFIDENTIAL TO D. H. K. IN SCOTTSDALE: If you want your dreams to come true, don't oversleep.

Cranbrook Churchwomen Will Hear Evangelist, Rev. Canon Bryan Green Speak

The Rev. Canon. Bryan Green, Anglicanism's most renowned evangelist, will speak on "Christianity in the Home" before the Episcopal Churchwomen of Christ Church Cranbrook on Tuesday.

Reservation deadline for the luncheon is noon on Friday. The 62-year-old missionary comes from Birmingham, England, where he is canon of the Cathedral and also rector of St. Martin's Church. His world-wide travels conducting missions for Anglicans take up much of his schedule.

Canon Green's first visit to American Episcopalians in 1948 was almost historic. During the seven evenings he spoke in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York City, some 42,000 heard him.

He will conduct the week-long "Bishop's Mission" which opens Sunday in Cobo Hall, Detroit.

Educated at Merchant Taylor's School and London University, Canon Green served as curate of New Malden, London and later was chaplain to the Oxford pastorate in Oxford University, vicar of a North London parish and vicar of Holy Trinity Church in London's West End.

Polly's Pointers

To Dampen Clothes

By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY — An excellent way to dampen clothes is to place in the drier one load of clothes to be ironed and two thoroughly wet towels.
Push the button to "No Heat" and set the timer for 15 minutes. The clothes will iron beautifully as every piece gets an equal proportion of dampness. — HAPPY WITH DISCOVERY.

DEAR POLLY — We men have a special grooming problem after we spend Saturdays working on home improvement and repair jobs.

How can we have clean hands when we step out for a Saturday night on the town?

Serious projects such as repairing the lawn mower are impossible without getting one's hands dirty so I keep waterless hand cleanser in my workshop.

In construction jobs, lay out and assemble the new pieces of lumber or metal before fitting them to a part of the house that has accumulated a lot of grime.

This not only reduces the number of times the hands must be cleaned but it also helps keep the new material fresh and clean until painted.

When painting or staining time comes, work first on those horizontal surfaces which can be reached with brushes pointing down.

Vertical surfaces come next. Leave until last any underneath parts where the paint has a tendency to run down the brush.

Properly used, waterless hand cleansers can be used as often as needed but the advantage of proper work scheduling lies in the desire to limit trips to the laundry sink without the danger of soiling walls or furniture along the way. — WALTER

DEAR POLLY — I keep a fresh, soap-filled scouring pad, wrapped in an old clean rag, twisted around my outside water faucet.

When we return from one of our frequent fishing jaunts or a picnic, the materials are right at hand for a quick cleaning of the cleaning supplies. — HELEN

Vat-Dyed Best

For blue jeans that stay blue, look for the words "vat-dyed" on the label. Most mothers (who do most of the buying of blue jeans) don't know that vat-dyed denim is usually of better quality and therefore more durable to wear as well as colorful through repeated washings.

Her Views on Love Would Saddle Mate

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I am 28 and have never gone steady.

Please tell me if there are marriages where the wife appreciates everything her husband does; always laughs at his jokes, no matter how often she's heard them; praises him to the skies; only likes what he likes and puts him ahead of everything else in the whole world.

This is the kind of marriage I want as I know I could be a wife like that and make my husband happy. . . .

ANSWER: And what would you expect in exchange for all this self-denying devotion to him?

I have the notion that what you'd want in return would be the same total sacrifice of his wishes to your wishes — the identical self-sacrifice you plan to give to him.

And because that expectation of yours cannot possibly be satisfied, I beg you to get yourself psychiatric help that may be able to bring you down from the clouds to earth and reality.

In the meantime, I am going to suggest to you that your view of love between men and women is not beautiful at all, but voracious and greedy. It is not beautiful.

Nobody — not our men, our children nor our friends — want to be saddled with the weight of such gratitude as your self-denying notions of love command.

We don't want to be under

To Decorate Cakes

such terrible obligation to anyone. If you laugh at a joke we tell which has ceased to amuse you, we know it and resent your charity of false laughter.

If you always praise what we do up to the skies, your praise becomes empty and irritating to us. If you put us ahead of everything else in the world, we feel obliged to do the same for you.

When our work, an appointment with a client, a friend's illness has to be put ahead of you, we will hate you for making us feel that we have cheated you.

YOU'RE UNAWARE

I want you to see a psychiatrist because I am sure that you are unaware of how demanding you are.

I think that these out-of-the-world notions of yours about human love all boil down to terror of knowing that you want something back for what you give.

And that is a problem for a psychiatrist.

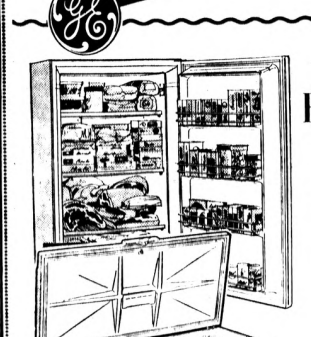

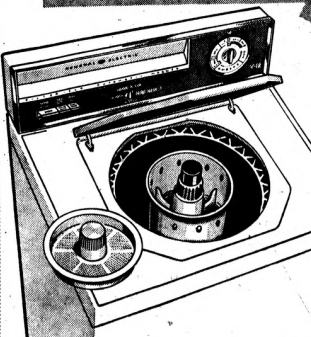

You are now a grown-up woman and there is no more time for dreaming.

Save Blossoms From Bouquet

A delightfully sentimental custom that has fallen into some disuse these days is the Victorian habit of pressing a flower or two from the bridal bouquet.

Select a fresh blossom and place it between two sheets of blotting paper. Put the blotting paper and the flower between the pages of a heavy book — an unabridged dictionary is perfect for this — and let it stay for a month or so until the flower is completely dried. It may now be put in a locket or put away with the wedding dress as a happy memento of a very happy day.

Leather Offers a Wide Selection of Handbags for Fall

The woman who knows fashion will find this fall's elegant leather handbags a joy to have and to hold.

Handbag fashions for fall, previewed recently at Leather Industries of America, display a new delicacy of line and styling, coupled with the most comprehensive range of leather textures ever seen.

Leathers developed to an airy lightness were shown in striking surface treatments—grained, smooth, sueded, brushed, patent, waxy, embossed and saffian, a new leather with light cross-hatched markings.

On each bag was hung the black-and-gold "Genuine Leather" tag that signifies quality and durability to the selective shopper.

All-important to all women is the daytime bag for everyday use. This wardrobe indispensable comes in a variety of shapes for fall. Leather Industries' showing spotlighted the pouch, satchel, box bag, envelope and shoulder-strapper, each available in many colors and leathers.

Bag proportions are trim but sizable, with wide bottoms and expandable sides allowing plenty of room for the feminine niceties and necessities. Single and double self-leather handles, or cut-out handles, predominate in this category.

Rainbow Furs

Furs for fall and winter come in all colors. From the natural skins, they go on to bright reds, greens, blues, grays, golds, pinks, and blacks and whites.

In a class by itself is the Chanel bag, a quilted leather pouchy envelope with outside pocket and chains. The Chanel's phenomenal rise continues into the coming season.

Back with a bang is the handy shoulder-strap bag. Swinging jauntily from the shoulder or converted to hand-carrying style with a quick pull, the new leather shoulder-strappers have a smarter, sprucer look than their predecessors. Some versions shown are held just under the arm pit, others at customary waist level.

In a more formal mood, daytime bags deck out in a range of distinctive leathers—from highly polished smooth leather and fine-napped suede to unusual embossed leather textures.

Gold trim in plain or florentine finish, snaky chains and embossed effects decorate the envelope, pouch and small box bag for tasteful teaming with dressy costumes.

Anticipation of autumn's crowded social calendar has brought forth a sparkling collection of "little leathers." Cocktail time and festive fall evenings will see petite envelopes, clutches and pouches in lustre, suede, smooth, embossed leathers.

These after-five nifties come embellished with tiny bows or jewelry, or beaded to show off the beauty of the leather texture.

Hold With Clay

When mending a piece of china with adhesive, use modeling clay to keep the pieces together until the cement is hard. The clay is pliable and may be removed easily when the adhesive is thoroughly dry.

EMOTION VS. MOTION

Emotions are not subject to your will.

But motions can be promised successfully for future delivery.

Thus, you can vow to sit down tomorrow at 10 a. m.
and write a letter to me.

And when tomorrow arrives, you can fulfill that promise, for muscular actions are subject to your will.

But suppose you pledge today that at 10 a. m. tomorrow you will be shedding tears of grief or frothing at the mouth in rage or overwhelmed with love's intoxication.

PREVIOUS PROMISE

Though you solemnly make such a vow and sincerely expect it to be carried out, your previous promise cannot produce such an emotion at that future date!

So you idealistic wives must wake up to grim reality!

That vow in the marriage ceremony is beautiful but very impractical.

Unless you wives evoke your husband's love afresh tomorrow morning, he cannot love you just because of a wedding pledge made years ago!

Yet many wives have drifted along complacently, figuring their husband simply MUST love them forever because of that sentimental inclusion in the marriage ceremony.

Beware! Motions can be promised successfully for future delivery — but not emotions!

ETERNAL TRIANGLE

You wives are thus in an eternal triangle every day you live.

Your husband cannot love you because of the past but only because you excite his love NOW, this very minute!

So he will not love you tomorrow or next year unless you evoke such an emotion in him at that future date.

This is the dynamic but correct view of love, so quit coasting complacently, as millions of you wives do!

If you lose your slender figure, then you better add some other charm to offset this reduction in your ability to excite his ardor.

For love is much like a balanced equation in algebra!
If you subtract something, you must then add its equivalent or the equation is on long-

As a rule, you wives who become most indignant at this column are the ones in gravest danger of divorce!

Small Garden Plots in Russia Big Problem to Kremlin

By STANLEY JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
There is something about the Russian atmosphere that makes even raising chickens or hoeing cabbage take on conspiratorial overtones.

Where else would they call the half-acre garden around a farmer's home his "private plot?"

But since the early days of Stalin, it has been obvious that the Kremlin's rulers regard all farmers as plotters against them.

In some ways they are right.

The mere fact that the 3 per cent of agricultural land left in private hands produces more than 40 per cent of the country's meat, 45 per cent of the eggs, 45 per cent of the milk and 60 per cent of the Russian staple—potatoes—is a public indictment of socialized agriculture.

It grates on doctrinaire Communist and city workers alike that the peasants, using their private produce, eat better than anyone in the country including guests at Kremlin banquets.

It also demonstrates to the world that while the Kremlin laments that farmers on state and collective farms are nowhere near as efficient as American farmers, the ones working their private patches are.

Western figures on Russian farm efficiency tend to be misleading, however. One frequently hears of extremely low productivity per farmer.

This presupposes that the whole population of a collective farm works on it, but this is not the case.

HOTEL LIFE

For instance, my wife and I lived three years at the Metro-Pole Hotel in Moscow where the chambermaid was technically a collective farmer.

She came 30 miles by train to start work every day at 6 a.m., finished at 2, hurried home and spent the rest of the day privately plotting.

There are cases where the whole family works off the farm and others where they all work on it. A typical situation in the Moscow area, however, would be for a father to have a factory job, mother to work on the farm, mother-in-law to keep house and retired father-in-law to work the private plot.

There are model establishments, but life for most collective farmers—away from the table—is pretty grim.

On the road from the Polish border to Moscow, for instance, most of the homesteads are sod huts dug deep into the ground.

Housing is better along the Leningrad-Moscow road, but you can drive 100 miles without seeing an electrified farm house.

Trudging along the highway are beset women, wooden yokes slung over their shoulders, carrying home water from the communal well in buckets hanging from the yokes.

The red tape and bureaucracy on a collective farm are almost incredible to westerners, but a kind heart can cut through it.

ATTACK OF FLU

Some years ago I had a bad attack of flu during a winter when there wasn't a bit of fresh food to be had in Moscow markets.

I also had a friend who taught French at a high school on a nearby collective farm.

She went to a meeting of the "kollektivny" and made a motion that a certain amount of vegetables be made available for the suffering American in Moscow.

Some days later I got a written "diklat" (decision) from the chairman saying the members had voted to let me have so many green onions, one cucumber and a certain number of lettuce leaves.

I appreciated it although by then I was over the flu.

Foreign News Commentary

2 Crucial Issues Face U.N. Assembly

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
When the United Nations General Assembly opens its delayed session on Dec. 1, it will be faced almost at once with two important issues.

One will deal with the question of the admission of Red China, which the United States always has opposed adamantly.

The other is of more immediate importance and deals with the Soviet Union's continuing insistence that it will pay "not one kopek" of its assessed share of the costs of the United Nations peace-keeping operations in the Congo and the Middle East.

That share amounts to $52.6 million, and the United States is insisting that since the debt now is more than two years old the Soviet Union should lose its vote in the general Assembly under article 19 of the U.N. Charter.

France also has refused to pay its Congo assessment and becomes liable to article 19's two-year limit on Jan. 1.

For their part, the Russians have said they will quit the United Nations if they lose their vote, and there the matter rests in stalemate.

It is rated the most serious crisis to face the United Nations since the death of former U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld when only direct negotiations between the U.S. and the Soviet Union were able to break a deadlock on selection of his successor.

That compromise resulted in the appointment of U Thant, the Burmese diplomat who continues to hold the job.

Withdrawal of either the United States or the Soviet Union would end hope for the continued effectiveness of the world body.

The most hopeful sign is that both the United States and the Soviets reportedly have given assurances that they seek a solution.

SERVES NOTICE

To reinforce its position, the U.S. has served notice it will refrain from making any pledges to the U.N. special fund and technical assistance program. It also has indicated that if special cases are to be created whereby certain countries are forgiven their debts, the U.S. might also consider a refusal to pay U.N. assessments.

Despite Soviet insistence that both the Middle East and the Congo operations were illegal inasmuch as they were ordered by the General Assembly and not in the Security Council where Russia has a veto, the United States reportedly is convinced the Russians will pay to keep their vote.

Especially so if they become convinced that article 19 will be enforced.

So far, no one is taking bets on the outcome.

On the question of Red China, the prospects seem to be that for this year the United States once more will be successful in barring Red Chinese membership, but for this year only.

3 Vie for Humphrey's Old Job

Democrats Ready to Scramble for Prestige Posts in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Already involved in a section scrap over one of their leadership jobs, Democrats appear to be heading toward a free-for-all scramble for prestige posts in the new Senate.

What committee assignments to give Sen-elect Robert F. Kennedy of New York and other newcomers may prove more perplexing than the choice of an assistant leader to succeed Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota when he quits the Senate to become vice president.

A contest among Sens. John O. Pastore of Rhode Island, Russell B. Long of Louisiana and Mike Monroney of Oklahoma for Humphrey's old job seems to be shaping up into a sectional battle.

Pastore, generally credited with being President Johnson's favorite for the job, appears likely to get the support of Eastern and New England members who lean toward liberalism.

SOUTHERN SUPPORT

Long's basic backing is among conservative Southerners. He claims to have pledges in one form or another from 39 colleagues. There will be either 67 or 68 Democrats, depending on the outcome of a recheck in Nevada. But Long's bid has been damaged by his state's Republican majority in the presidential contest and his own opposition to civil rights legislation.

Monroney is claiming strong support from Midwestern and Western Democrats who generally class themselves as middle of the road in their views.

This contest may go down to the wire as a three-man race to be settled by a caucus vote early in January.

But what to do about posts Humphrey is leaving on the influential Foreign Relations and Appropriations committees may provide a giant-size headache for the Democratic steering committee. It is headed by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana.

5 NEW FACES

Under the so-called "Johnson rule," each new Democrat will get one major committee assignment.

There are five new faces among the majority, Kennedy, Ross Bass of Tennessee, Joseph D. Tydings of Maryland, Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma and Joseph M. Montoya of New Mexico.

Bass and Montoya, retiring House members, and Harris all have been sworn in as senators to fill out unexpired terms. Under the seniority rules which apply in parceling out committee assignments, they technically will have a call over Kennedy and Tydings, who won't take office until January.

If any of the freshmen bid for either the Foreign Relations or Appropriations committees, some senior member may put up a fight. Sens. Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania and Ernest Gruening of Alaska reportedly have their eyes on a Foreign Relations spot. Many senior Democrats not on it covet a place on the Appropriations group.

The Democrats may resort to changing the ratio of party membership committees in its favor.

REPUBLICAN RULE

The Republicans, whose new members are Paul Fannin of Arizona and George Murphy of California, do not use the

"Johnson rule." They go strictly by seniority and their new members will be at the bottom of the committee assignment list.

However, they may face some difficulties in assigning a campaign convert, Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina. Thurmond is a Democratic member of the Armed Services and Commerce committees.

If he retains those assignments, Sen. Hugh Scott, a member of both groups, has served notice that Thurmond will have to go to the foot of the Republican class on each.

Pay Is Up for White Collar Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP)—A survey of white collar workers ranging from clerks to attorneys shows their salaries are up 2 to 5 per cent over last year, the Labor Department said Wednesday.

The survey covering 75 job levels in 12 occupations listed monthly salaries ranging from $259 for clerks doing routine filing to $2,024 for lawyers handling complex legal problems.

Only large business establishments with 250 or more employees were surveyed. The department said its survey, taken last February and March, covered occupations with more than one million employees—about one-fifth of the estimated total in professional, administrative, technical and clerical work.

FROM $612

Engineers, the largest professional group in the survey, were earning average salaries ranging from $612 a month for recent college graduates in trainee positions to $1,707 for experienced men.

Stenographers, who made up the largest clerical group, averaged $356 per month, the department said.

The 12 occupations and average salary increases since 1963 were accountants 2.8 per cent, auditors 3.1, chief accountants 4.8, attorneys 3.3, office managers 2.7, job analysts 3.5, personnel directors 4.6, chemists 3.3, engineers 2.9, engineering technicians 3.6, drafting 2.6, clerical 2.9.

Kathie Browne and Lisa Gaye, have portrayed losers on the television program. The occasion was one of Gardner's rare visits to Hollywood, a party for the losers of the 371 shows during the series' eight years.

Erle Stanley Gardner Pays a Rare Visit to Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—Erle Stanley Gardner, the one-man book factory, was in town for a rare visit to his brainchild, Perry Mason, and to make sure the defense attorney continues his winning ways.

Gardner's advent was celebrated by a party given by Raymond Burr, the Mason of television, for the losers of the 371 shows during the series' eight years. The place: the Losers Club, a watering place along La Cienega's restaurant row.

THOMAS

Burr didn't appear, but dozens of his defeated opponents did. Gardner himself was a grumbling participant—"My ears are bad and I have no gift for small talk," he complained earlier. But he seemed to have no complaint as he posed for photographs with three of the most luscious losers—Joyce Jameson, Kathie Browne and Lisa Gaye.

In a more relaxed mood, Gardner lounged at the Hollywood Hills home of his partners, Cornwell Jackson and Gail Patrick—she the executive producer of the CBS series. He is a chunky, tweed-suited man whose quiet manner is in contrast to the enormous energy he has poured into his work over the years.

FEW VISITS

"I come to Hollywood as little as possible," he remarked. "People are apt to trample me to death, and I start to get behind in my work. I'm always closing offices and opening up new ones because people catch up with me."

Besides his 3,000-acre ranch in Riverside County, he has 27 acres at Paradise, Calif., and a houseboat which he keeps in the delta country of the Sacramento River. In these places and others, he maintains a staff of six to eight secretaries, who take the rat-a-tat-tat dictation for his books and correspondence—"I've forgotten how to operate a typewriter."

His output so far? He couldn't remember, so he had a secretary phone the ranch office. The report came back: 123 books, including 74 Perry Masons; four now at the publisher or in the works.

SIDETRACKED

"I used to do two to four Masons a year, plus two under the name of A. A. Fair," Gardner said. "But lately I've gotten sidetracked into other interests. For instance, I've been doing a lot of research on Baja, California and have made expeditions down there. I'm also producing a book about houseboats. And I've been doing a great deal of investigation in the Superstition Mountains about the Lost Dutchman mine."

"Run out of ideas?" he said. "I don't think I ever will, as long as I maintain a variety of experience. I try to make each new Perry Mason better than the last one."

Mayo to Be Released From Hospital Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Charles W. Mayo, retired surgeon at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., is expected to be able to leave Georgetown Hospital in Washington soon. He was taken there Saturday when he suffered an ulcer attack while on a flight from Minneapolis to Pittsburgh.

A doctor at the hospital said yesterday that Dr. Mayo was in satisfactory condition.

Actor Muni Listed Serious

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI)—Paul Muni, 66-year-old Academy Award-winning actor, was reported in serious condition today in Cottage Hospital.

Muni was admitted to the hospital Oct. 30 for pneumonia, but now is suffering from a serious heart condition.

"The pneumonia has cleared up, but his heart condition has grown serious," doctors reported.

For the past several years, Muni has been living in semi-retirement in this coastal city with his wife, the former Bella Finkel.

One of the most esteemed actors of stage, movies and television, Muni's performance as Louis Pasteur, French discoverer of pasteurization, won him an Academy Award.

His performance as a convict on the run in "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang" focused attention on inhuman prison conditions.

Muni also breathed life into many other diverse characterizations, including the gangster in "Scarface," the crusading writer in "The Life of Emile Zola," the devil-may-care fur trapper in "Hudson's Bay," the Lincoln-worshipping patriot in "Juarez," and the Chinese peasant in "The Good Earth."

The latter role won him an Academy Award nomination.

One of his most recent film appearances was in "The Last Angry Man" in 1958. He also has been on television during the past year in the "Saints and Sinners" series.

LANKY NEWCOMERS — Midwestern Baptist's Falcons are relying on newcomers Wayne Selby (34) and Dean Byron (12) to provide rebounding power for the defending Michigan Christian College Athletic Association champions. Selby is a 6-5 sophomore and Byron a 6-2 freshman for the Golf Drive seminary team which will open its season Saturday.

Christian College Quints Start Season Saturday

Pontiac's Midwestern Baptist Seminary quintet and Rochester's Michigan Christian Junior College will open their state Christian College Athletic Association schedules Saturday.

The Midwestern Falcons, who have nowhere to go but down, will entertain Grace Bible College of Grand Rapids in a 7:30 p. m. contest at their Golf Drive gym.

Michigan Christian's Warriors will be looking to climb up this season as they open on the road at Grand Rapids School of Bible & Music in an afternoon tilt.

The Midwestern squad won the league's regular season title and playoff crown en route to a 14-0 mark. Two key starters have departed; but coach Ken Frederick has several promising newcomers to blend with his veterans.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Mickey Wright and Kathy Whitworth — two sharpshooters who deadlocked at 299 last year — are co-favorites to win the annual San Antonio Civitan Open Golf Tournament.

Play was scheduled to begin today in the $10,000 tournament that sports a first prize of $1,300.

Miss Wright, leading money winner on the women's tour, shot an even par 72 Wednesday on the Pecan Valley Country Club course. So did Miss Whitworth.

Bears' Pair Near Record for Aerials

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Morris and Mike Ditka of the Chicago Bears are approaching a National Football League record for combined pass receptions, the latest statistics disclosed Tuesday.

The two have a total of 123 receptions, Morris 68 and Ditka 55, to rank first and second in the circuit. With five games remaining, they are only three away from the record set in 1959 by three Los Angeles Rams, Tom Fears, who caught 84 and Glenn Davis and Elroy Hirsch, who snared 42 apiece.

Morris already has topped his previous career high of 58 passes caught in 1962.

Northern dates back to 1950, during which the Flint crew has racked up a 25-7-1 margin.

After Flint, the Chiefs can start remembering the 21-0 defeat they suffered at the hands of PNH's Huskies last year.

Central has a long road to travel to even the Flint Northern series, but the PCH team, with a victory, could knock the Vikings out of fourth place in the Saginaw Valley Conference race.

LEAGUE FINALE

The game is the final one for Central in the SVC. The Northern squad, with a 3-2-1 loop mark, closes the season Thanksgiving Day, against Flint Central.

Other games tomorrow find league-leading Saginaw Arthur Hill (6-1) closing the campaign at Bay City Handy (0-7) and Bay City Central (5-1-1) meeting Saginaw (2-5). Flint Southwestern (2-5) closes the season with a non-conference tilt against Flint Northwestern.

Flint Central (5-1), a half game behind Arthur Hill, entertains Midland (3-2-2) Saturday night.

If Arthur Hill wins, Flint Central would need a decision over Midland and a victory on Turkey Day to tie for the title.

A victory of PCH, coupled with a Saginaw loss, would give the Chiefs a share of sixth place in the standings, an improvement over their cellar-dwelling 6-7-1 record last season.

BAREFOOT BOOTER — Michigan State's bid to upset Notre Dame Saturday could depend on the field goal kicking of Dick Kenney, who learned his barefoot style in his native Hawaii.

MSU Coach Rebukes Theory

EAST LANSING (UPI) — The theory — or fable — that teams coached by Ara Parseghian "fold up" late in the season is not subscribed to by Michigan State mentor Duffy Daugherty, the man who most surely would like to see it start Saturday.

Daugherty's Spartans, impressive winners of three straight in the Big Ten, have a date at South Bend with the No. 1-ranked Notre Dame Fighting Irish.

Three streaks will be on the line. Duffy has beaten the Irish eight straight times and topped Parseghian five in a row when his coaching rival was at Northwestern.

But the Irish have captured seven straight games this year to earn their top national rating. As for the philosophy, it goes:

"Parseghian's teams are always great the first five or six games, and then fold up." Basis for the skepticism is Ara's record at Northwestern before moving to South Bend this season.

HAD A HABIT

It seemed the Wildcats did have a habit of ending previous glittering seasons with a November collapse.

Daugherty, however, said Parseghian was usually the victim of circumstances.

"At Northwestern one year it happened, he lost his quarter-back Dick Thornton in the middle of the season. Injuries when you have limited depth can cause it, but that can happen to anybody," Duffy said.

But, the argument continues. November came and Notre Dame barely got by Pittsburgh 17-15, so the Irish are folding too.

"I don't see them flat on their faces yet," Daugherty said. "How many games have they won now?" and the coach pointed out that against Pitt the Irish gained more than 300 yards.

Daugherty said the Irish are "stronger this year than last, and last year they were as strong a team as we played."

Saturday's contest will be nationally televised.

California Star to Skip Baseball for Pro Gridiron

BERKELEY, Calif. (UP) — Craig Morton, California's standout quarterback, says he will give up baseball and concentrate on football as he aims for a professional career.

The 6-foot-4 senior has smashed every University of California passing record in his career and it will be a major surprise if he isn't picked in the first round of the professional drafts.

Coaches who have faced him rate him a true All-America candidate and his own mentor, Ray Wilsey, says:

"I think he is as fine a college quarterback as I've ever been around or seen. This would include such present pros as Don Meredith when he was at SMU, Fran Tarkenton at Georgia and John Brodie at Stanford."

Title Contender Eager

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernie Terrell's manager called on the World Boxing Association today to get its heavyweight elimination tournament going.

"We've made no deals with anyone and Ernie Terrell is ready to fight anyone the WBA designates for the vacant heavyweight championship," said Julie Isaacson, manager of the contender ranked No. 1 by the WBA.

Block Passes at Michigan

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Pass defense highlighted Michigan's football practice Wednesday as the Wolverines prepared to face Iowa Saturday.

The defense worked against Iowa's pass patterns, as they prepared to face the nation's second best passing team.

The offense, meanwhile, practiced ground plays, particularly sweeps around end.

The Hawkeyes, trying to avoid injuries, held no-contact drills for their final game against Michigan.

Celtics Keep Coach Happy With Victories

By the Associated Press

Red Auerbach's approach to his Boston Celtics and the Celtics' approach to the National Basketball Association can be summed up in a word — totalitarian.

"I'm a dictator," Coach Auerbach has told his players. "It's up to you to keep me happy."

The Celtics, presumably, are keeping Red happy. They have played 11 games this season and have won them all, including a 110-84 romp over San Francisco Wednesday night.

They are four short of the NBA's record getaway of 15 Washington Capitols in 1948.

Bill Russell, Boston's greatest gremlin, held with Chamberlain to 24 points, 10 under his current average.

In Wednesday night's other games, Hal Greer and Chet Walker led a late Philadelphia breakthrough that carried the 76ers past Baltimore 123-114 while Cincinnati's Wayne Embury capped his 13-point closing burst with a basket in the last half-minute that sunk St. Louis 118-116.

Electronic Assist

MSU Band Wired-Up

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State is going to use electronic devices, including a small transistor radio mounted in a hat, to try to beat Notre Dame Saturday.

But it will be only in the band show. Such devices have been outlawed for football, although some coaches have figured they might be handy for sending messages to quarterbacks.

Inside the talk hat of Spartan drum major Sam English will be a receiver geared to directions relayed by his director, William Moffitt, spotting from the pressbox.

As an added perfection of the electronic age, both MSU bass drummers will have small receivers with flashing lights that will mark the tempo from a broadcasting metronome in the pressbox.

It will be the first away trip of the year for the 175-man marching band, due to perform early at South Bend's courthouse and square and then at pregame and half-time shows.

'King' Wins International

Kelso Continues Reign

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Kelso, king of the hill for an unprecedented four years, refuses to come down.

His ground seemed shaky in Wednesday's $150,000 Washington D.C. International horse race.

The old boy sent his would-be successor, Gun Bow, whose rider weakly cried foul, reeling by 4 1/2 lengths. Six foreign invaders were lost in the shuffle in the battle for the pinnacle.

Kelso's 7-year-old legs traveled the fastest time ever on an American track for 1 1/2 miles, 2:23 4/5.

Indians Rehire Coaching Staff

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians' coaching staff has been rehired for next season, Gabe Paul, president and general manager of the baseball club, announced Wednesday.

However, Elmer Vado will be manager of the Tribe's Dubuque, Iowa, team in the Class A Midwest League instead of first base coach, a post he has held the last two seasons. He will work with the Indians in spring training at Tucson, Ariz.

George Strickland will return for his third year and Solly Hemus and Early Wynn for their second season.

Strickland took over as acting manager last season after Manager Birdie Tebbetts suffered a heart attack during spring training.

Senior Titlists Still on Course

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Four matches were scheduled over the No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club as the World Seniors Four-ball Amateur Golf Tournament continued.

Still going strong in the best-ball tournament were the defending champions, Deane Daniels of Winter Haven, Fla., and Dr. John Mercer of Fitchburg, Mass. They won their way into the quarter-finals with a 2-up victory Wednesday over Ray North of Pinehurst and H. E. Hussey of Durham, N.C.

The medalist, John Ledbetter and Wallace Simpson, both of Pinehurst, advanced with a 7 and 5 victory over W. L. Parrish of Copperhill, Tenn., and Harvey Saylor of Kingston, Tenn.

Scoring Contenders Have Final Chance

Whenever Milford gets close to payday Friday night, chances are halfback Jim Ward will be called upon to tote the ball into the endzone.

Unless Ward scores a few touchdowns, he will finish second to Holy's Mark Phalen in the Oakland County scoring race.

Phalen (127) leads Ward (109) by 18 points, but the Milford speedster could close the gap and take the lead with a good performance against South Lyon, a team that has won but twice in eight starts.

While Ward is expected to have a good evening against the visiting South Lyon eleven, Phalen will be a marked man when he and the Broncos tangle with Panton.

Penton (84) is ranked seventh among the state's Class B squads and the Tigers have given up only 13 points in eight outings.

Turnover Costs Dixie 241 Years

South Losing Congressional Seniority

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The South is losing a big chunk of seniority and committee rank in Congress.

A combination of political deaths, retirements and one death in taking 241 years of seniority in the next Congress from the eight Southeastern states.

In an area known for its reluctance to replace congressmen, only Florida and North Carolina are returning their delegations intact.

Chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., of the House Armed Services

Committee is quitting after a half-century in Congress. Vinson's decision plus retirements of two other Georgia Democrats, Reps. E. L. (Tie) Forrester and John L. Pitcher, cost the state a total of 76 years in House seniority.

Another retiring southerner is Rep. J. Vaughan Gary of Virginia, a congressman since 1945 and eighth-ranking Democrat on the Appropriations Committee.

BIGGEST LOSS
Alabama's 87-year loss is the biggest for a single state. Rep. Albert Rains, D-Ala., retired; Rep. Carl Elliott, D-Ala., was eliminated in a primary; and three incumbent Democrats were ousted by Republicans. Among them was Rep. George M. Gran, a 27-year veteran who would have been third-ranking Democrat on the Agriculture Committee.

In neighboring Mississippi, a Republican defeated Rep. Arthur Winstead, who after 22 years in Congress — would have moved up to fourth among Democrats on the Armed Services Committee. It was the first change in Mississippi's delegation since 1947.

Rep. Clifford Davis of Tennessee, a primary victim, would have been the Public Works Committee's second-ranked Democrat. The late Rep. Howard Baker of Tennessee would have ranked No. 2 among Republicans on the Ways & Means Committee.

How badly the South will be hurt by its seniority loss is debatable and hard to gauge.

DIFFERENT MEANING

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., who left the Democratic party to become a Republican, says seniority and committee rank "don't mean what they used to."

"Now," he says, "the liberals put bills on the calendar without even going through committee."

But Elliott says "Legislation is still written primarily in committee and the higher a member ranks, the more influence he will have on the final bill."

Elliott says the South stands to lose a lot by its 1965 congressional turnover.

3 Killed, 2 Hurt in 2-Car Crash

DETROIT (AP) — Three women were killed and two men injured Wednesday night in a two-car collision on the Ford Expressway in suburban Romulus Township.

Detective Kenny Young of the Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol identified the dead as Georgia Thornton, 75, of Detroit, Elita Fluker, 75, of Milan, and Mary Ellen Johnson, 65, of Milan.

Young said they were riding in a car driven by Isaac Johnson, 70, husband of one of the victims. He said the car and one driven by Paul Verhines Jr., 19, of Dearborn Heights, collided at an expressway intersection. Both Johnson and Verhines were injured.

Device That Hurt 46 Not Made in U.S.

HANAU, Germany (UPI) — The explosive device which injured 46 German children in a schoolyard was not of American manufacture and probably was German-made, the U.S. Army said today.

Eleven-year-old Rudolf Popelich, who is described as mentally retarded by his father, found the device yesterday in a construction ditch, en route to school. It went off as about 450 children had mustered in the schoolyard after a recess.

An Army spokesman said U.S. Ordnance experts had studied fragments of the device and knew of no U.S. grenade mine or shell which resembled it. The Ordnance men believe it was of German make.

Boys Play 'Chicken'

Dodging Locomotives

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Southern Pacific Railroad officials are disturbed because some local boys insist on playing "matador" — using speeding locomotives for bulls.

The game is to see who can remain the longest on the tracks, jeering at the engineer as the train bears down on him. Last one to jump is the winner.

Princess Plans to Keep February Date With Stork

BY EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Princess Grace—who's reportedly said she wants six children—has been having difficulty getting to No. 3. Last year there was a miscarriage... then she became excited again, and recently has been ill.

But a cheery message just sent from Monaco to her friends here and in Philadelphia says, "He's still with me and, God willing, I'll have him by February."

Anthony Quinn's got a sense of humor about his domestic situation (S). Quinn's here en route to L.A. to discuss a play with Norman Corwin.

"How's your family?" a friend asked Quinn. He replied, "They're both fine!"

Jane Wyman just flew back to Hollywood—a very unhappy girl. Plans for her Broadway stage debut collapsed. "Not in the Stars" was indefinitely postponed. Jane had been privately rehearsing a month with Nancy Walker, the director, getting ready for the regular rehearsals. They never began.

Recently divorced commentator-author John Henry Falk and actress Marjorie Maricle were in a celebrating mood at Le Valois... Natalie Di Silvio of "Something More," the new musical, is the Star of Tomorrow—according to director Jules Styne.

THE MIDNIGHT EAR

Mayor Wagner and Barbara Cavanagh dined at the Voisin Sunday night (and Friday at the Colony)... Steve Lawrence's the only one who can see Eydie Gorme during her monotonous recuperation... Irving Berlin's wife Ellen flew to London; her daughter there is expecting... First LBJ Inaugural Ball in vitation (Jan. 20) that we heard about was to Tony Bennett, who of course, will sing... Most delightfully acted show in many months: Burgess Meredith, Orson Bean, Pert Kelton, Eli Mintz, David Doyle, Bernard Hughes in "I was Dancing."

Treasurer Says GOP Will Go to 'Little Guy' for Next Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican treasurer William Middendorf III says the GOP will turn once again to the man who answered the party's call for financial help — the little contributor.

It was, and will be, a measure born of necessity, he said in an interview Wednesday.

"Historically, we've been the party of the rich guy," Middendorf said. "This time he went over to the other side. So we had to go to the broad middle income field, and we went after it hammer and tong."

Thus, he said, the party will continue a vigorous direct mail campaign for the $10-a-year sustaining contributions to help meet an estimated $1.5 million budget next year.

OTHER DEVELOPMENT

As the contributions drive pushed ahead, there were these other Republican developments: — Republican National Chairman Dean Burch was quoted by the National Broadcasting Co. as saying in a Jamaica interview that he won't be able to continue as chairman if the national committee votes "no confidence" in him at a meeting scheduled for January.

— Sen. J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware suggested that Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky would be a good choice for party chairman if Burch is replaced. Morton was chairman from 1959 to 1961.

On the financial front, Middendorf and other GOP officials make no secret of the fact that many traditionally Republican purses snapped shut following the nomination of Sen. Barry Goldwater for president — although there still were some large contributions.

BLEAK OUTLOOK

For a time during the campaign, the financial situation was bleak. But repeated televised appeals for funds resulted in hundreds of thousands of letters bearing contributions in the $1 to $10 range.

GOP officials won't say how much they got, but Middendorf said recently that 1.5 million persons contributed to the Republican campaign compared with 40,000 in 1960.

The net result: a surplus for the Republican National Committee. Middendorf won't say how much, but he scoffs at reports that it tops $1 million.

He said it will barely cover last-minute campaign expenses and the committee's operation through December. Still, he said, it is better than the $700,000 debt the party wound up with after 1960.

Middendorf reckons it will cost $125,000 a month — $1.5 million a year — to keep the committee going next year. That compares with his recent estimate of $12 million spent at the national level on the GOP presidential campaign.

Other sources have said the figure may be closer to $14 million, with the Democrats not far behind.

Former presidents are honored with 21-gun salutes at ceremonies the same as incumbent chief executives.

We're Trying to Halt Flow of Smut, Says Postmaster

By DON PEMBER
The Pontiac Post Office is doing everything possible to stop the flow of lewd and obscene material through the mail, according to Postmaster William Donaldson.

The postmaster today commented on complaints made by citizens who are alarmed over the amount of obscene material on sale at newsstands.

Donaldson said that no postal laws have been rescinded recently and he didn't feel anyone was being derelict in his duty.

He then made two points in connection with the post office's fight against obscene material.

First, most material which appears on newsstands does not come through the post office.

The magazines, books and newspapers are trucked into the area and then distributed from dealers to the newsstands, drug stores and other outlets.

MAIN AVENUE

Secondly, the post office's main avenue in fighting smut is through citizen complaints, and it is almost impossible to act without these complaints.

The non-newsstand obscene material which is sent through the mail is usually sent as a first-class package or letter, Donaldson said.

"We are prohibited by law from opening first-class mail," the postmaster added.

The Post Office Department has always invited its patrons who receive objectionable material to bring the matter, along with the envelope it was mailed in, to the post office, Donaldson said.

INVESTIGATION FOLLOWS

He explained that when the post office receives this material it is immediately sent to the postal inspector's office for investigation.

Donaldson added that as a father and grandfather, he personally welcomed the feeling of resentment displayed by local residents during the past weeks.

Investigation of obscene materials sent through the mails is a big job; a never-ending job according to Postal Inspector Harry Wetzel of the Detroit Post Office.

In the past two or three years enforcement of the postal regulations has been stressed, more than ever before, Wetzel said, with the result of more arrests and more convictions.

During the 1963 fiscal year, 761 arrests for violation of the mail obscenity laws were recorded (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Budget Target Set by Board

$11.5 Million Asked by Pontiac Educators

An operating budget target of $11.5 million will be sought for 1965-66 by Pontiac schools, it was disclosed last night.

Supt. Dana P. Whitmer presented the target figure at last night's meeting of the Pontiac School Board.

The target figure is used by department heads, principals and other administrators in drawing up a preliminary budget, scheduled for board action in February.

Whitmer compared the 1965-66 target of $11,500,000 with the projected budget for next year in the "Study of Needs, 1963-1974."

The projected budget for 1964-65 was $11,065,708, compared to the actual budget of $11,066,426.

10-YEAR STUDY

The 10-year study projected a budget of $11,455,913 for 1965-66. However, two changes have revised the budget to the $11.5-million figure.

First, enrollment is estimated at 22,413 for next year, compared to only 22,176 in the 10-year projection.

Thus, school officials have added $75,000 to handle the 237 more students and the added teachers, materials and supplies required to maintain standards.

Secondly, the cost of living index jumped only one per cent, instead of 1.21 per cent anticipated in the "Needs" study.

STATE AID

On the income side, Whitmer said the $168 per pupil in state aid the same $168 per pupil in state aid.

Also, state equalized valuation in Pontiac is expected to rise from $398 million in 1964 to $410 million next year.

Whitmer said most of this increase is projected from Pontiac Motor Division expansion.

Although allocated millage will continue at the present 8.23-mill level, school officials anticipate the 1.40 mills, allocated as a variable rate in the city, will

7 Die in Fire; Suspect Arson

HOLYOKE, Mass. (AP)—Seven persons—five of them children—perished when a general alarm midnight blaze, believed set, destroyed a five-story tenement.

Officials said the fire, which apparently started on a wooden rear porch, was the worst in the history of this industrial city located in Massachusetts' Connecticut Valley.

Four of the victims were members of one family. The other three dead were two small brothers and a little girl from a third family.

Five persons were hospitalized. Some 50 to 60 persons either fled the building or were rescued down ladders. None of the five injured was reported on the danger list.

Fire Chief William W. Mahoney said the fast-spreading fire "definitely was set." A volunteer rescue worker quoted a first floor tenant as saying he heard what he thinks was an intruder in the cellar of the building shortly before the fire was discovered.

There was confusion as to the number of victims until six hours after the blaze was brought under control in Holyoke's "the flats" section. Fire officials said at 8 a.m., however, that all known occupants had been accounted for.

Sub Protest Falls Short in Japan

SASEBO, Japan. (AP)—Crewmen from the U.S. nuclear submarine Sea Dragon went sight-seeing unmolested in Sasebo today shortly after Japanese riot police broke up a leftist sub protest that fell far short of its organizers' estimates.

The only violence was a grappling match between some 200 leftist students and police who dispersed the sit-down attempt.

No incidents involving Americans were reported.

Police maintained a strong guard at the U.S. Navy base in the southern Japanese port.

They were uncertain whether the demonstrators had withdrawn to regroup or had abandoned their protest because they failed to draw the 10,000 to 15,000 persons their leaders had predicted.

3-DAY VISIT

The Sea Dragon, first nuclear-powered warship to visit the only nation ever atom-bombed, arrived this morning for a three-day recreational visit.

The Japanese government admitted the sub only after extensive tests to make certain it brought no danger of radioactive contamination.

As the Sea Dragon moved to its mooring buoy, about 2,000 demonstrators marched to the U.S. Navy base in a cold drizzle and milled around in front of its gates. They pulled back at noon for lunch, then came back for an afternoon sit-down demonstration.

County GOP to Pick Leader

Oakland County Republicans will get a new chairman today.

The GOP leader will be elected, along with other party officers, by the Republican Executive Committee at a closed meeting in Birmingham tonight.

The new chairman will succeed Charles L. Lyle, who has taken himself out of the running for the key post.

Lyle, 42, cited personal and business reasons for not being a candidate.

County chairman since 1961, Lyle of 18890 Hillcrest, Beverly Hills, said, however, that his decision does not mean that he will be inactive in party politics.

CHANGED MIND

An April 1963, he announced that he was going to resign his post before the end of that year, but later changed his mind. He noted then that he definitely would not be a candidate for reelection.

Lyle, a manufacturers representative with the Electro-Vox Co., was elected to the post in 1962.

The executive committee, responsible for naming the county chairman, is composed of the 19 Republican nominees for county and state legislative offices and an equal number of persons who were elected at the county GOP convention in September.

This will be the first time that party members at large will have a voice in the election. In the past the nominees each appointed a voting member to the executive committee.

This procedure, was changed by state law.

New Soviet Regime Ford Plants Over Peking Barrel? Begin Layoffs

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Red China's team in Moscow seems to have the new Soviet regime over a barrel in the struggle over what direction world communism will take.

Premier Chou En-lai and his delegation forced a concession from the Kremlin in return for extending the current chilly truce in the dispute.

From its strong bargaining position, Red China appears to have forced the Kremlin to back time. This cease-fire now may last into 1965, or at least keep the battle in a minor key.

But up to now the new Soviet leadership under Leonid I. Brezhnev as Communist party first secretary and Alexei N. Kosygin as premier seems to have failed in an important respect to meet the Chinese price for anything approaching a real peace.

While talks went on in Moscow, Peking's propaganda laid down peace conditions in no uncertain terms. The conditions are harsh and probably never can be met by the Russians.

The Peking People's Daily, the voice of the Chinese party, warned that the Soviet Union, if it wanted to restore unity, would have to support violent

Settlement Reached at Louisville Unit

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co. laid off 500 of its workers yesterday and said several thousand more would be furloughed by the end of the week because of strikes at eight of its key plants.

The number of at-the-plant strikes was reduced from nine yesterday when Ford said a settlement had been reached at the Louisville, Ky., assembly plant.

This plant and eight others were struck by United Auto Workers union members Friday to back up their demands for local working agreements.

The local pacts supplement a national contract already agreed to by Ford and the UAW.

After announcing the Louisville settlement, Ford said it did not plan to post work schedules at the plant until union members ratified the settlement. A ratification meeting is scheduled for tomorrow.

PARTIAL LAYOFFS

Yesterday's layoffs were at the Canton, Ohio, forge plant (300 men) and the Rawsonville parts making operation (200 men).

Ford said the layoffs were partial, however, and the plants were continuing to operate.

A company spokesman said the layoffs were "a direct result of strikes" at the idled key plants.

He said if the strikes were not settled today, 1,100 workers at the Lorain, Ohio, assembly plant would be laid off at the end of the day shift.

ANOTHER 3,000

Another 3,000 would be laid off at the same plant at the end of the day shift tomorrow if the strike is not settled by then, he said.

UAW and Ford bargainers have been meeting all this week in an effort to end the strikes.

Talks dealing with four of the plants had been held in Detroit this week but the bargainers for three of them returned home last night to continue the negotiations.

Would Abolish Surcharge on Many Goods

Total Reduction Could Reach $2 Billion; Autos Not Included

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson has decided to recommend a 1965 excise tax cut that may approach $2 billion. It would stretch the spending money of almost every citizen in the land.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, an overnight guest at the LBJ Ranch near here, reported late yesterday that Johnson had just agreed to a basic decision, first of all, to abolish all $550 million of excise taxes added to the retail price of cosmetics, toilet goods, jewelry, furs, luggage and pocket-books.

These war-born taxes boost purchase prices by 10 per cent.

In addition, Dillon told a news conference, Johnson will ask Congress in January to repeal or reduce still other excise taxes that would add "a good bit more" to the total size of the proposed tax cut.

Dillon said the maximum possible tax saving would be $4 billion. And he emphasized that such a figure was sure to prove too high.

POSSIBLE ACTION

At another point, he spoke of possible action on 65 to 70 different excise levies that net Uncle Sam nearly $2 billion a year.

Most experts believed the total tax cut to be recommended by Johnson—and this decision still was up in the air—would amount to somewhere between $1 billion and $2 billion.

Dillon said a final presidential decision would be delayed pending a last-minute reading of the economic outlook and possible inflationary influences.

Dillon said he thought "this would be a rather easy bill to pass" in Congress and he expected the proposed tax cuts to take effect next July 1.

Dillon, who talked to newsmen at the White House press center in Austin, 65 miles east of here, said repeal of all excises on retail sales Johnson "agreed that was the minimum of what we should do"—would save shopkeepers a lot of book-keeping.

Partly Cloudy, Mild Predicted for Tomorrow

Sun and clouds will take turns covering the area tomorrow. Mild temperatures will continue.

The weatherman expects partly cloudy skies with a high of 50 to 55, following a low tonight of 35 to 42.

Showers are scheduled for Saturday, however, accompanied by cooler temperatures.

The low mercury reading prior to 8 a.m. today was 54. At 1 p.m. the thermometer recorded 68 in downtown Pontiac.

School Policy Is Supported

Action Deferred on Integration Statement

A policy statement reemphasizing the neighborhood school concept and placing "a positive emphasis upon achieving and maintaining a racially integrated school system" was discussed last night by the Pontiac School Board.

The board voiced approval of the statement, and it has reportedly been approved by the 16-member advisory Citizens Committee on Human Relations.

Action on it was postponed, however, until the next regular meeting, scheduled for Dec. 8.

Board President William Anderson said the board's bylaws dictate that proposed changes in or additions to policy must be tabled until the next scheduled meeting.

The board will not meet Nov. 25 because of the Thanksgiving vacation.

REVIEWS POLICY

Prompted by "de facto segregation" charges made by local Negro leaders, the statement reviews criteria for pupil placement, teachers and educational programs.

Pupil placement practices adhere to "sound educational principles, and should provide integrated school populations insofar as this is possible," the policy announced.

The so-called neighborhood school concept, according to the policy, is considered sound educational practice and will be continued.

School attendance areas are governed by three criteria:

- Nearness to pupil residences.
- Safety of access routes.
- Reasonable capacity of the school.

The policy statement held out the possibility that additional criteria, namely, integrated student bodies, might be used in the future in making school boundaries.

Convictions during that year totaled 637, a 108 per cent increase over 1959.

Federal statutes govern the sending of obscene material through the mail.

Briefly, the federal law states that it is illegal to send pornographic or obscene material in the mail.

MAXIMUM PENALTY
Maximum penalty could be a $10,000 fine or 10 years in jail, or both.

Wetzel points out that persons who cause the mail to be sent, such as a person who orders obscene material, are equally as guilty as someone who supplies it. Both face the same penalties.

The inspector also said that prosecution under this law may take place at the point where the mail is sent, the point the mail is delivered, or any intermediate point.

Wetzel said one of the chief problems faced in prosecution is proving material, primarily literature or pictures, is obscene.

UP TO COURTS
There is no line which can be drawn as to determine that material is or is not obscene, Wetzel said.

The courts must decide and the primary precedent which is used as a measure is the 1957 U.S. Supreme Court decision in Roth vs. U.S., Wetzel said.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr., in writing the majority opinion for the court set down several ground rules which are still used.

Among other things he said: Sex and obscenity are not synonymous; obscene material being material which deals with sex in a manner appealing to prurient interests.

PROPER TEST
The proper test (of obscenity) is whether, to the average person, applying contemporary standards, the dominant theme of the material when taken as a whole appeals to prurient interests, he added.

The justice made it clear that it was not fair to judge a piece of material by the effect of isolated portions of the piece upon the most susceptible individuals, such as small children.

Wetzel admitted that the department had not been too successful in stopping some magazines from using the mail for distribution.

Publications such as a "nudist" magazine are designed specifically for one group of people, nudists, and are not meant for public consumption, he said.

CONVICTION DIFFICULT
It is difficult to obtain a conviction in a matter such as this, he said.

The inspector said that the bulk of the obscene material sent through the mail is from mail-order companies.

Unolicited advertisements are addressed from mailing lists bought by the suppliers from any number of sources, he said.

Wetzel said that it was his opinion that the American society was becoming a little more liberal in general about all things including obscenity.

He said this could be the reason more material is appearing today both in the mail and on the newsstands.

But he said that Michigan was still practically free from dealers or suppliers in obscene material.

He credited the "clean record" to strict enforcement by local police forces.

The prime suppliers are either the California or New York, he said.

Wetzel also stressed as did Donaldson, that the department can do nothing unless patrons bring the objectionable material to the post office for investigation.

State Tax Cut Threatens Local Government Income

Michigan township and city assessors' and tax equalization officials are deeply disturbed over a new personal property assessment schedule issued recently by the Michigan State Tax Commission.

The new schedule of assessments is designed to give Michigan business and industry a tax break. But in so doing, it deprives many of the state's municipalities of a sizable portion of their tax income.

Edwin C. Sage, director of the Oakland County Equalization Department, estimated the potential loss in county tax revenue at nearly $2 million in 1965, based on a decrease of some $4 million in state equalized valuation of personal property.

The City of Pontiac will likely face a loss of between $9 and $16 million in its present state equalized value, but it will be offset by current expansion of Pontiac Motor Division, according to city officials.

Macomb County stands to lose some $70-$80 million of its tax base, and Wayne County's potential loss hasn't even been estimated yet.

HEARINGS SET
Apparently expecting opposition to the new schedule, the Tax Commission has scheduled hearings in Detroit and Lansing Nov. 18 and 19 for municipal officials to present their case.

For tax purposes, personal property includes manufacturing tools, machinery and materials inventory, business equipment and stock inventory, farm implements, livestock and other valuable items.

Each property owner is allowed an exemption of $10,000, so the average citizen does not pay personal property tax.

Real estate tax provides by far the greatest share of county and city income in Michigan. But metropolitan industrialized counties like Oakland, Wayne, Macomb and Genesee and cities like Pontiac, Detroit and Flint derive a sizable revenue from personal property tax.

NEW PROVISIONS
The tax commission's new assessment schedule, which is revised every year, provides for faster depreciation and lower assessments on factory equipment.

The problem of what to do about the threatened loss of revenue was discussed at length Tuesday in a meeting of the Oakland County Equalization Commission.

No immediate solution was presented, but the committee members and tax officials from Macomb County agreed that raising real property taxes isn't the answer.

Chances are the five counties in the Detroit metropolitan area will present an organized appeal to the State Tax Commission.

The outcome of such an appeal is doubtful, but the committee agreed that it would be at least a step in the right direction.

POINTED WARNING
Peng Chen, a power in the Peking Politburo, said in a speech this week that "victory of the people's revolution will not come as a matter of course; it is a pointed warning that the U.S.S.R. would have to dragging its feet and disregard risks of war involved in supporting violence."

The Chinese make these points:

The People's Daily said unity depends upon disappearance of "great national chauvinism."

EQUAL TREATMENT
Moscow must treat Peking as equal, and "it is only when these principles are strictly observed, not only in word but in deed, that the unity of the international Communist movement can be strengthened."

Moscow must purge from power all who supported Khrushchev. This is one of the most difficult demands, since Khrushchev's adherents were strongly entrenched.

But the People's Daily insisted that "uncompromising struggle must be waged against all forms of opportunism which betray Marxism-Leninism, especially modern revisionism."

Budget Target Set by Board

not be granted by the County Tax Allocation Board in 1965.

LOSE $325,000
Schools would lose approximately $325,000 in tax revenue, said Whitmer.

However, he cautioned that "much uncertainty" surrounds the question of variable allocations. He said the allocation board might increase basic allocations, reducing some of the loss.

In addition, the Oakland County Superintendents Association, headed by Whitmer this year, is considering sponsoring legislation to make variable rates legally acceptable.

In any event, Whitmer told board members, it appears the projected cash reserves for June 1965, will have to be used to finance the operating budget.

It appears now that the reserves will be sufficient to cover the projected target.

STAFF STUDIES
Staff studies — items to improve school programs and services, will be incorporated into the preliminary budget, adopted in February.

Prior to being presented to the school board, staff studies will be reviewed by the superintendent.

Final action on the 1965-66 budget is scheduled for next June. The fiscal year begins July 1.

Smith interprets these educational concepts in terms of their part in the development of the individual student.

HELP INDIVIDUAL
"This whole program is geared to helping the individual," he said.

The superintendent sees as a major purpose of educators to "so stimulate and motivate the youngster over a 17-year span that he is determined to learn as long as he is alive."

Thus the Birmingham Plan will offer something to the exceptional student, the potential dropout and each of their classmates.

Emphasis is not to be placed entirely on division according to ability Smith said although the traditional manner of grouping by age is subject to question.

Instructional methods being investigated include team teaching.

Plan Aimed at Aiding Youths

BIRMINGHAM — The academically able student who needs more than the average amount of intellectual stimulation . . .

the troubled child whose problem may mar his life this year or at some unknown time in the future . . .

It is these who concern Schools Supt. Dr. John B. Smith.

And it is in terms of these youngsters, and those in between and around them that he explains the $1.3-million Birmingham Plan.

The program now being implemented was backed by district voters in June. They then approved an operating levy which included seven-tenths of a mill for improving the school program.

FIVE YEARS
Expected to raise $125,650.00 during the five years it is in effect the mill levy is earmarked for research and development — incorporated into the Birmingham Plan package.

Several ideas now are being considered by a steering committee of teachers and administrators are coming in from other members of the professional staff.

System-wide proposals under exploration include the creation of a special program for the academically able student, a developmental reading program and expansion and acceleration opportunities in mathematics and science.

At the senior high level, the following areas are under study:

% The needs of the "marginal" student and potential dropout with consideration of programs other than the vocational type.

• Extension of honors or advanced placement courses in all areas.

EXTENSION OF COURSE
• Development and extension of courses in the humanities.

% A restudy of the scheduling processes for the development of more extensive opportunities in the various arts.

The Birmingham Plan will involve the utilization of a number of the professional staff members on a 12-month basis.

It is estimated that 25 per cent, or about 150, of the staff will have 12-month contracts within five years.

12-MONTH FACULTY
The 12-month faculty members will concentrate on up-dating a new program, develop, improve teaching methods and special programs, evaluate the output of the school system and establish ways to train specialists and master teachers.

"It's an old cliché that education is 50 years behind educational research," Smith said. "We're going to narrow that gap."

Lecturer From England Found Dead on Tour

CHICAGO (AP)—An English educator was found dead Wednesday a few hours before he was to have boarded a plane for Ann Arbor, Mich., the next stop on a lecture tour. Dr.

Thomas Finnegan, 63, president of Selly Oak College in Birmingham, England, apparently died of a heart attack, authorities said.

The Quids, proponents of states rights, were organized in 1804 in opposition to Thomas Jefferson's policies.

Man Faces Charge in Death of Daughter

KALAMAZOO (AP)—Albert Frazier, 24, will appear Wednesday for examination on a manslaughter charge in the Sept. 19 death of his 14-month-old daughter, Amelia. An autopsy showed the girl strangled as a result of sickness and complications from an abdominal injury, police said. Frazier was remanded to jail Tuesday in lieu of $2,500 bond.

Missouri levied a $1 tax on 21- to 50-year-old bachelors in 1821.

'Boom Town' Seeks to Break Chain of Tragedy

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Some call it Boom Town, U.S.A. Gas, paint fumes, even air have become sudden assassins in the series of explosions which have rocked Terre Haute for the last 22 months. The toll stands at 22 dead and 106 injured.

Gerald Fagg, a workman who survived the worst of the city's seven explosions, says, "When they get to talking about it, one thing keeps coming up — Who'll be next?"

The prevailing trend of thought among the 72,000 residents of this western Indiana city seems to be an effort to forget the trend of tragedy in hope it will end.

TRIES TO FORGET

A gasoline tank truck driver, John Vermillion, said, "You know, a fellow learns not to think about these things in this kind of work."

Fagg and 200 other employees at the Home Packing Co. plant along the Wabash River where reporting to work the morning after New Year's Day, 1963, when an explosion ripped apart the brick packing house. Seventeen died, 51 were injured.

A fire marshal's report blamed the blast on leaking gas. The Terre Haute Gas Corp., a privately owned utility, made a $1.65-million settlement on 64 personal damage suits.

A month later, explosions occurred two days apart in separate residential districts. They left 23 more injured. Gas fumes lingered in the air.

2 KILLED

A boiler explosion traced to paint fumes killed two workmen and injured another at a power plant that summer. In September, 1963, an air compressor exploded at a fertilizer plant, killing one man and injuring nine others.

A crew was welding a pipeline this summer when gas again exacted its toll — two dead and five hospitalized. The latest blast, Oct. 20 came as gas workmen were installing a meter in the basement of a store. The building was leveled and 17 persons were injured.

In the midst of this, a $3½-million fire consumed a dozen businesses along Terre Haute's main street — Wabash Avenue — last year. Another explosion had killed 22 in a coal mine, since closed for safety reasons, northwest of Terre Haute in 1961.

Mayor Ralph Tucker calls it just a run of bad luck.

"I don't think there's any connection between all of them," he says of the explosions. "We have had tragedies before and we've come out bigger and better."

Asst. Fire Chief Frank Klump adds, "It's just the way the ball bounces."

The city has an extensive fire prevention and inspection program, but four of the explosions have been traced in official reports to gas mains buried underground. "When we inspect it doesn't do a bit of good," says Fire Chief Norman Fesler.

Of the three blasts in early 1963, Klump says, "I've seen some of the gas mains they've dug up. These were good mains. We just had a severe winter. The ground froze down deep and put pressure on them."

But Fesler says after the latest blast in sunny autumn weather, "This one is upsetting our theory on it."

Terre Haute's headaches have been overshadowed by the state's worst disaster in history — an explosion which hurled chunks of concrete through an ice show crowd in the State Fair Grounds Coliseum in Indianapolis a year ago, killing 74 and injuring 375.

COOKING GAS

That tragedy was blamed by a grand jury on cylinders of cooking gas used to warm popcorn.

But Terre Haute's problems have stirred no large governmental uproar. After the winter explosions in 1963, schools were closed for an inspection. Gas leaks were found in four. Then the issue seemed to die until this fall.

The chief investigator for the fire marshal's office had a charge that he was filling test holes at the blast site and hindering his investigation.

BUSY DIGGING

But Fesler says, "the gas company all summer has been digging all over Terre Haute trying to find bad spots. They've been busy recently replacing mains."

Roy S. Brunner, the utility's general manager, says the firm has spent half a million dollars in improvements and maintenance this year.

"The system is in very good shape and there is no particular reason for the people of Terre Haute to be concerned," he said.

Fagg, 22, was buried in the rubble of the packing house. His body was pinned, except for his left arm. He finally thrust his hand through the surface and clutched the ankle of a rescue worker standing above him.

STILL DREAMS

"I still dream about it," he says. "It's something you never forget."

Fagg was standing only two feet from John J. Callahan, 24, who was killed in the blast seven days after he became engaged. His mother, Mary Callahan, a widow, says of the city's chain of calamity, "I really don't know what to think."

She pauses, then adds, "It's a ghastly thing. It makes you think — about what might be in the future."

Feeds on Peat Below Ground

New Jersey Fire Won't Go Out

SADDLE RIVER, N.J. (AP) — A woodland fire that won't go out belches occasional flames from an underground lair and casts a constant pall of smoke over this northern New Jersey area.

The blaze feeds below ground on peat — about 200 acres of it. It began before Labor Day and has ravaged nearly 70 per cent of a beautiful 300-acre wooded tract where tree-loving poet Joyce Kilmer once roamed.

Fire fighters from Saddle River, Allendale and other communities come on the run when, from time to time, the fire shoots flames above ground.

The smoke periodically blankets Route 17 and has caused a rash of accidents on the busy north-south highway serving the New York metropolitan area.

GOOD RAIN

Home owners near the fire keep their property wetted down for safety. Against the smoke they have no protection.

Authorities say only a good soaking rain will end the fire.

Fire Chief Louis Werner of Saddle River said that the land despoiled was virgin territory.

"It's a sad sight to see a great tree go down," he said. "The fire will eat the tree's roots away and then suddenly she goes."

NIGHT WATCHES

Werner said that when the fire began it was on the southeast section of the tract. Houses in Walwick were threatened for a time. Now the area where the fire is uncontrolled is in the northwest.

Werner said some home owners have set up night watches, and his community bought a Jeep to patrol the area.

"We run it all through the mess," he said. "It can be dangerous. You never know when a big tree is going to go."

State Dem Leaders
Call Meeting Dec. 4

LANSING (AP) — State Democratic leaders called Wednesday for Democrats elected to the legislature to meet Dec. 4 in East Lansing to prepare for a "transition to a Democratic majority" in the House. House Democratic Leader Rep. Joseph Kowalski, assistant floor leader Albert Horrigan, caucus chairman Dominic Jacobetti, and Steering Committee Chairman George Edwards issued the call.

How Much Should Man Buy Date?

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: When out on a date, is it up to the man to assume all the expenses of the evening, even to the extent of paying for anything the girl might buy while she is with him?

To be more explicit: The other evening my girlfriend stopped at a newsstand on the way home and bought several current magazines.

Was it up to me to pay for them? I didn't do so but felt rather cheap afterward and wondered if I should have paid for them?

A: It was not at all necessary nor expected of you to pay for these magazines she herself decided to buy.

She Found Brother's Ashes in Old Shoe Box in Closet

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My only brother died in California a few years ago and was cremated.

When I visited his widow this summer, I asked to be taken to the place where my brother's ashes were kept.

She opened the door of a closet which was crowded with junk, old luggage and boxes jammed in every which way. Finally she unearthed a shoe box and said, "Here it is."

I was speechless. I didn't even open the box, but handed it back to her. I was shocked that my beloved brother's ashes were kept in such a place.

I cut my visit short, but it's been on my mind ever since and I don't know what to do about it.

My sister-in-law goes to church regularly and says grace before meals. Please put my mind at ease with some advice. Am I overly sentimental?

BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: No. Apart from your sister-in-law's appalling lack of respect for her husband's remains, something else is cockeyed here.

Each state has its own laws governing cremation and the disposition of ashes. And under the California Health and Safety Code, the ashes are not given out.

They are either placed in an urn and kept in a home, or put in a mausoleum-type building, or buried in the earth (like a casket) with a marked grave.

Ask your sister-in-law how come your brother's ashes are in a shoe box in her closet?

DEAR ABBY: My second wife and I have been married for 15 years. My first wife died.

I had eight children by my first wife and none by my second. When my children introduce me to any of their friends, they say, "This is my father" and this is Mary."

Mary has gone all out to be

What procedure should I use to get my children to refer to my wife in a more respectful manner?

GRANDPA

DEAR GRANDPA: Why not call your children together and ask that they refer to your wife in a manner more pleasing to you?

I vote for "Grandma" for the children and see nothing wrong with "Mary" the rest of the time.

CONFIDENTIAL TO D. H. K. IN SCOTTSDALE: If you want your dreams to come true, don't oversleep.

Leather Offers a Wide Selection of Handbags for Fall

The woman who knows fashion will find this fall's elegant leather handbags a joy to have and to hold.

Handbag fashions for fall, previewed recently at Leather Industries of America, display a new delicacy of line and styling, coupled with the most comprehensive range of leather textures ever seen.

Leathers developed to an airy lightness were shown in striking surface treatments—grained, smooth, sueded, brushed, patent, waxy, embossed and saffian, a new leather with light cross-hatched markings.

On each bag was hung the black-and-gold "Genuine Leather" tag that signifies quality and durability to the selective shopper.

All-important to all women is the daytime bag for everyday use. This wardrobe indispensable comes in a variety of shapes for fall. Leather Industries' showing spotlighted the pouch, satchel, box bag, envelope and shoulder-strap, each available in many colors and leathers.

Bag proportions are trim but sizable, with wide bottoms and expandable sides allowing plenty of room for the feminine niceties and necessities. Single and double self-leather handles, or cut-out handles, predominate in this category.

Rainbow Furs.

Furs for fall and winter come in all colors. From the natural skins, they go on to bright reds, greens, blues, grays, golds, pinks, and blacks and whites.

In a class by itself is the Chanel bag, a quilted leather pouchy envelope with outside pocket and chains. The Chanel's phenomenal rise continues into the coming season.

In a more formal mood, daytime bags deck out in a range of distinctive leathers—from highly polished smooth leather and fine-napped suede to unusual embossed leather textures.

Cold trim in plain or florentine finish, snake chains and embossed effects decorate the envelope, pouch and small box bag for tasteful teaming with dressy costumes.

Anticipation of autumn's crowded social calendar has brought forth a sparkling collection of "little leathers."

Cocktail time and festive fall evenings will see petite envelopes, clutches and pouches in lustre, suede, smooth, embossed leathers.

These after-five nifties come embellished with tiny bows or jewelry, or bared to show off the beauty of the leather texture.

Hold With Clay

When mending a piece of china with adhesive, use modeling clay to keep the pieces together until the cement is hard. The clay is pliable and may be removed easily when the adhesive is thoroughly dry.
