Bullet Hits Jaw of Woman Near Home Window

Went to Check Knock at Front Door; Lives
in Highland Township

A Highland Township woman was shot in the jaw yesterday as she gazed out a window to see who was at her door.

In fair condition today at Pontiac General Hospital is Mrs. June Lebel, 59, of 1001 Hickory Ridge Rd.

She told Oakland County Sheriff's deputies that about 8 p.m. she heard a knock on her front door and looked out a window but saw no one. She then heard a faint shot and felt a bullet hit her mouth as the glass shattered. Mrs. Lebel said she turned away to get out of the light and heard another shot and a bullet smashed a window on the other side of the door. Both bullets, 22 caliber, have been recovered.

Sheriff's Det. Leo Hazen said that Mrs. Lebel's life was probably saved by her false teeth which took the impact of the bullet.

Mrs. Lebel, who is divorced, lives alone in the large isolated house. She was unable to give the detectives any reason why anyone would want to kill her.

Her former husband, Harper, lives in Florida. Detectives are investigating a Malcolm Holliday, of Detroit, who called Mrs. Lebel before the shooting. He asked to come out and visit her, but she refused. She told deputies that she did not want to see him.

Mrs. Lebel lives in a 14-room Victorian house on 300 acres of land. She has frequently had trouble with hunters whom she tries to keep off her land, according to neighbors.

One neighbor, Mrs. Donald Skinner, 720 Tierny Dr., said she saw a man walk up the road toward Mrs. Lebel's house at about 7:30 p.m. She described him as tall, dark and heavy set and wearing a blue jacket. She did not see a gun, however.

Mixup Around Second Base

TRAFFIC JAM—Two Yankee runners heading for the same base? It doesn't happen often, but did today, in the first inning of the final World Series game. In the top picture, Hank Bauer (left) and Enos Slaughter are both scampering for second base and at the bottom, Umpire Joe Paparella signals Bauer safe as he dives under Milwaukee shortstop Johnny Logan's tag. But the rules say only one runner to a bag, and Slaughter was tagged out. Slaughter started the play by tapping back to pitcher Lew Burdette. Braves' second baseman in on the play is Felix Mantilla.

Mackie Willing to See Chamber

Highway Commissioner Sure Meeting Can Be Arranged Soon

State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie is "very willing" to meet with the Greater Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce to discuss the lack of a Pontiac expressway in the state's recently announced five-year highway plan.

So said Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams, who telephoned Mackie yesterday for an appointment at the request of Chamber manager John H. Hirlinger.

"Mackie said he was very willing to meet with Pontiac representatives, but was unable to fix a date immediately due to confusion in his present office schedule," said Judge Adams.

"Mackie said he was sure the meeting would be soon, though."

Hirlinger said his group is protesting because Pontiac and Royal Oak are the only Michigan cities of more than 50,000 population which are not scheduled for an expressway during the next five years.

"I think the highway commissioner has committed a serious error in overlooking the highway needs of Oakland County, the second largest county in the state," said Hirlinger.

According to Mackie's plans, Northwestern Highway will be extended as a limited access expressway across the southern and western portion of the county from Detroit towards Flint.

But the highway commissioner said that a north-south expressway, part of the national interstate defense system, would be left out. The proposed interstate route parallels U.S. 10 (Woodward avenue) from Detroit past Pontiac and would serve all the north Woodward communities.

Go-for-Broke Game Today Pits Series-Pitching Heroes

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—It couldn't have been staged better if Hollywood had written the script. The seventh and "sudden death" game of the 1957 Series will offer, as starting pitchers, the man who has been the hero this year and the man who was the hero of the last one.

Lew Burdette has won two games for the Braves in this one. Don Larsen, who'll pitch for the Yanks, made indelible baseball history just a year ago by putting down 27 Dodgers in order—the first time it was ever done in a Series and the first time in the majors since 1923.

The Russians have made people sky conscious. All eyes were on four jet trails that appeared against the blue dome over the stadium, and there was a rippling murmur when some kids outside the park took advantage of the prevailing wind to float a covey of box kites over the proceedings.

Yogi Berra's crashing home run in the third, which put the Yanks ahead 2-0, was the tenth of his World Series career, which now has extended to a record-breaking 53 games. Until today he was tied with Phil Rizzuto for number of games played. His 10 home runs tie him with the legendary Lou Gehrig and with Duke Snider of the Dodgers.

Hank Aaron's home run, which tied the score at 2-2 in the seventh, was probably the most powerful poke of the Series. It was still 20 feet high as it cleared the low fence of the Braves bullpen in left-center—402 feet away from the plate. It was his third of the Series. Hank has hit safely in all six games.

Hank Bauer, sure the Series was going the distance, told Pat Robinson of INS before Wednesday's game, "I'm catching the first plane out of here tomorrow night. I've seen so little of my kid he calls me Hank instead of Pop."

Labor Leader Hints Hoffa Holds Up Action in County

Declares 'Brick Wall' Blocking AFL-CIO Merger

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

A "brick wall" has been put between the merger of the AFL and CIO in Oakland County, Fred V. Haggard, president of the Oakland County CIO Council, declared today.

Although he refused to define this "brick wall," Haggard said "all indications are that the Teamsters could be the ones."

STALLING MERGER

Haggard also declined to say whether the Teamsters' new president, James R. Hoffa, has been stalling the merger of the two unions on both county and state levels.

He did say, however, he would be "ashamed" to belong to the AFL-CIO giant organization if the Teamsters are not ousted.

Hoffa and the union apparently shunned a warning from the AFL-CIO executive council that if the Detroit labor leader were elected, its order to "clean house" would not be met.

UNION TO APPEAR

Hoffa has indicated the Teamsters would appear Oct. 24 before the council to answer a score of charges of irregularities in the 1,500,000-member union.

Haggard's statement brought an immediate denial from Grady B. Pinner, president of the Pontiac Oakland County Federation of Labor. "The Teamsters or Jimmy Hoffa are not dictating our policy in any way, shape or form," he said.

Association Cites 3 Area Schools for Fine Design

Three area communities were among seven in Michigan cited yesterday for excellence in school design by a panel of judges at the ninth annual conference of the Michigan Association of School Boards.

Pontiac's new high school, now under construction on Arlene street near Perry, was cited for its excellent adaption to the site of the school. The $3-million school, which will accommodate 1,000 students living on the northeast side of town, was designed by Eberle Smith Associates, Detroit. It is expected to be ready by next September.

Two Bloomfield Hills schools were among the eight Michigan school buildings named for excellent design.

They are the Hickory Grove Elementary School on Lahser road and the junior high school on Quanton road near Wing Lake road which is now under construction. One Birmingham school was also named for excellent design.

Say They Saw Mother Killed

Two Sisters Describe
Watching as Shepherd
Stabbed Wife to Death

Two girls yesterday described in Circuit Court how they watched in horror as their stepfather stabbed their mother to death.

Betsy Hutton, 10, and her sister, Janet, 13, testified against James D. Shepherd, 36, Birmingham man charged with first-degree murder in the May 27 slaying of his wife Elizabeth, 42.

The slaying occurred in the living room of the Shepherds' one-story home at 1309 Pierce St.

Betsy said on the night of the killing, she and her sister jumped out of their beds when they were awakened by her mother's screams about 10:30 p.m.

She said they raced to the living room, and saw their stepfather take a decorative knife from the wall and stab her mother in the back as she sought to leave the room through a side door.

CONFIRMED REPORT

Her sister Janet confirmed the report, and added that Shepherd grabbed her by the throat as Betsy fled to a neighbor to call police.

"He grabbed me around the neck with his hand, I couldn't talk. He still had the knife in the other hand," Janet said.

"He pushed me down on the floor on top of my mother. When I got loose I ran to my bedroom window and called out for Betsy. I stayed in the bedroom until the police came."

Utica Woman Dies of Clubbing After Argument

Husband Claims She Hit Him 1st on Head
With Fatal Rifle

A 47-year-old Sterling Township woman was clubbed to death yesterday following a quarrel with her husband.

Mrs. Louis Wedge, of 6077 Higgins, Utica was found by State troopers dead on her living room floor after a call from her husband Archie, 45.

Wedge, a tool-and-die helper at Chrysler's Mound Road plant, Detroit, told the troopers he and his wife argued bitterly about his alleged attentions to other women. "She grabbed a rifle from the wall rack and hit me on the side of the head," Wedge said, "so I grabbed it away from her and hit her once on the head and she fell."

According to Sgt. Max McCall of the Center Line Post, the force of the blow tore the gunstock away from the barrel.

The couple was married less than two years ago, but have a history of family arguments, McCall said. Both had previously been married and each has a married daughter.

Wedge, who is being held for investigation of first-degree murder, said the fatal argument began as soon as he returned home from work at 3:30 p.m.

He has a speech impediment which led officers to think he had been drinking, but he said he had only one beer before coming home.

Wedge will give a statement to the Macomb County prosecutor today and is expected to be formally charged.

Shutout for 3rd Victory Against New York

NEW YORK—The Milwaukee Braves won the 1957 World Series today by crushing the New York Yankees, 5-0, in the seventh and deciding game behind the brilliant pitching of Lew Burdette.

A four-run splurge in the fourth inning, highlighted by Eddie Mathews' double, and Del Crandall's eighth inning home run gave Burdette all the help he needed as he blanked the Yanks on nine hits.

It was Burdette's third World Series victory. The Braves' ace righthander hurled 24 consecutive innings of shutout ball as Milwaukee won the first world's baseball championship in the city's history.

FIRST INNING

Braves — Hazle struck out. Kubek threw out Logan. Mathews struck out. No runs, no hits.

Sky Observers Spot Rocket

First Official Sighting of Sputnik's Carrier
Made at New Haven

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sputnik's burned-out rocket, circling in space with the Russian satellite, was spotted today by an observation team scanning predawn skies over New England.

Scientists called it the first visual fix in this country, though there have been previous sightings reported from individuals.

The historic sighting was reported by a New Haven, Conn., moon-watch team at 5:23 a.m. EST and was confirmed by the Astrophysical Observatory of the Smithsonian Institution at Cambridge, Mass.

Scientists at the Naval Research Laboratory here said the Russian satellite is still holding to its original orbit and speed which carries it around the world every 96.1 minutes.

Moscow radio said the Soviet satellite completed its 78th orbit around the earth early today. The broadcast estimated the sphere up to that time had covered 3 1/2 million kilometers, or about 2,190,000 miles.

Major New York department stores reported today that New Yorkers, apparently eager for a look at Sputnik, have created a mild rush for binoculars and telescopes.

A Soviet scientist disclosed today that the Russian earth satellite was equipped to take photographs of outer space.

3 Persons Die in Accidents

Boy on Bike Hit by Car; Detroit Couple Killed as Auto Strikes Tree

A young Detroit couple and a 11-year-old Ferndale youth were killed in separate Oakland County accidents Wednesday.

Donald Blaylock, 20, of 3306 Harrison St., Detroit, and his wife Barbara, 17, an expectant mother, were killed when their car crashed into a tree at Woodward avenue and Catalpa drive in Berkley.

Fred Gauthier, 11, of 1115 Alberta Dr., Ferndale, was killed yesterday afternoon when he drove his bicycle into the path of a car, according to police. The car was driven by Mrs. Marion E. Tremblay, 70, of 220 Farmdale St., Ferndale.

Police said Mrs. Tremblay had just passed her final road test for a drivers license when the accident occurred. She was not held.

The accident took place near the intersection of Farmdale and Marshall streets in Ferndale. The boy died an hour later at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

Berkley police said witnesses reported that the Blaylock car was traveling south on Woodward at a high rate of speed when Blaylock apparently lost control. The car smashed into a tree throwing the engine and front fenders some 60 feet down Woodward.

Both agreed that Shepherd had returned home after supper-time May 27, had quarreled with his wife who refused to prepare dinner for him, and had announced to both of them that Mrs. Shepherd wanted a divorce. Shepherd, a former Detroit salesman, had been fired that day.

Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem contends Shepherd slew his wife in anger after she threatened to divorce him. Shepherd's attorney, David C. Pence, was prepared to argue today that the accused man was a victim of temporary insanity, induced by the combined use of intoxicants and tranquilizers.

Both sides had psychiatric experts prepared to debate the issue today.

Know THE Weather

By E. H. SIMS

On a cold day why does one not hear the buzz of insects, so common in warmer weather?

Practically all insects die or become dormant when the temperature drops below a certain point. The experts have figured out the exact temperatures at which bees, bugs and others creatures cease all movement.

Bees, for example, will cease their activities at about 50 degrees. If the temperature is less than 50 degrees you will not hear or see a bee then. The exact degree at which other insects and bugs become inactive has been a subject of careful study, which seems to prove that the behavior pattern seldom, if ever, varies.

Nature's laws, then, are better obeyed than most of man's.

Sweden's King Digging on Site of Ancient Ruins

The 75-year-old monarch, an archaeology buff, arrived last week to spend a month with a party from the Swedish Institute in Rome. They are trying to find relics of the Etruscan and other pre-Roman civilizations. Newsmen yesterday found the King wearing a gray sweater, mountain boots and a beret. At one point he dropped to his knees to dig carefully with a little knife, bringing out an ancient bit of ceramic.

"We have already had some good results," Gustaf said.

Reds Refuse to Free Nation

Rival Governments of San Marino Will Meet in Italy Today

SAN MARINO (AP)—The four top men from each of San Marino's two rival governments meet in Italy today, seeking an end to the stalemate produced by Communist refusal to surrender the tiny republic.

Communist spokesmen had said their group would capitulate last night. But the Reds changed their minds about turning in their arms and giving the anti-Communist "White" government undisputed control of the 36-square-mile mountain nation.

Leaders of the two sides met shortly after midnight and broke up within two hours.

"We hope to clear things up definitely in further talks later today," a Communist official said.

A leader of the anti-Communist government, Zaccaria Svoretti, said the later talks would be "decisive."

The anti-Communist forces, recognized by surrounding Italy and other Western nations after they proclaimed their government 10 days ago, had delivered an ultimatum to the Reds to hand over the government.

Domenico Morganti, Communist strong man and interior minister, said his side rejected the ultimatum but added that the Whites could take over the hilltop nation "at any time." The Communists have been occupying government buildings and most of San Marino while their opponents operated from an abandoned factory on the border.

Dry, Pleasant Weather Rules Most of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Showery and cloudy weather persisted in sections of the Northwest and the Southeast today but it was dry and fairly pleasant in other parts of the country.

Clear skies and temperatures in the 60s were indicated for the seventh and final game of the World Series in New York.

The continuing low pressure off the southern Oregon coast spread a blanket of clouds over most of the northern parts of the Far West and eastward to the Rockies. However, rain fell mostly along coastal sections of northern California and southern Oregon.

3 European Nations Ratify Treaties

ROME (AP)—Three of the six nations involved now have ratified the treaties to set up a West European common market and the Euratom pool for joint development of atomic energy.

The Italian Senate approved the companion pact last night, completing action by the Italian Parliament. Only the Communists voted no.

France and West Germany already have ratified the treaties. The Benelux countries—Belgium, Netherlands and Luxembourg—still must act. Sponsors hope to have the two plans in effect by Jan. 1.

The common market treaty provides for progressive elimination of customs and tariff barriers among the six nations and development of unified tariffs on imports from outside the area.

Mailman Jogs 53 Miles to Mark 53rd Birthday

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Burlington's 53-year-old running mailman, chagrined because he couldn't complete his annual mile-for-every-year birthday run recently, jogged 53.4 miles yesterday.

Satisfied, Paul (Hardrock) Simpson commented:

"I did it for my own personal satisfaction. I feel a lot better about myself now."

Simpson started the birthday run in 1946 and each year thereafter ran a distance in miles equal to his age in years.

Then, Sept. 20, 1957, rolled around and he had to postpone the jaunt because of a health condition.

Ten days ago he tried the twisting course in and around Burlington. His goal was 53.4 miles, the 4 lacked on because of the delay.

But after 38 miles and three messages from his trainer, he had to admit defeat.

Yesterday he tried again—successfully. He started at 5:30 a.m. and finished at 2:25 p.m.

Chemical Plant Planned

MONROE, La. — Denis Temple of Clarksburg, Ont., said Wednesday a large chemical plant will be built on a 1,000-acre site north of Dundee. Temple, an engineer, said he was not at liberty to disclose the name of the plant but he said it will be "vital to the state economy."

Record oil royalty payments enabled Venezuela to continue capital expenditures at peak levels in 1956, Caracas learns.

Presbytery Backs Ike body of 85 Presbyterian churches in the Detroit area.

Jerry Lewis Is Papa

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Comedian, Jerry Lewis says he's stumped for a name for his fourth son. "I had picked out Catherine because I was expecting a girl—but what do I do now?" the comedian grinned after the baby arrived. The 7-pound, 13-ounce infant and Lewis' wife, Pat, were reported doing fine.

STROII-LINES
...created for walking

BY FLEX-WALKERS

Avoid TV Disorders by Moving Positions

Prolonged sitting in awkward positions while watching television may produce serious circulatory disorders, a Philadelphia physician reports in the October Journal of the American Medical Assn.

Dr. MEYER NAIDE doesn't go into the other symptoms resultant from this fall's television fare: bow-legged walks, itchy trigger fingers, western speech "twangs," and acute nausea, after an overdose.

He doesn't say whether the three cases of blood clots occurred when the TV-viewers fell asleep in the awkward positions, bored by a constant barrage of gunshots and oft-repeated western story lines.

Dr. NAIDE recommended that television viewers get up and move about at least once an hour, in addition to moving their legs frequently. Girdles and other tight garments also should be removed before prolonged TV watching, he added.

One of the best exercises is walking across the room and turning the set off when the fare is substandard or repetitive.

As far as stripping down for viewing television action, the best thing you can get rid of is the eternal optimism that if you watch a lousy program all the way through, it might get better in the last couple of minutes.

Hammaraskjold Vote Tribute to His Work

Being re-elected as Secretary General by unanimous vote of the 80 member United Nations was no small tribute to DAG HAMMARSKJOLD.

For the past five years the Secretary has been untiring in his efforts to find solutions for knotty world problems. His conduct has strengthened the prestige and authority of the U.N. Secretariat.

Mr. HAMMARSKJOLD played a leading role in the withdrawal of British, French and Israeli troops from Egypt and organization of the first U.N. Emergency Force. He continues to urge the setting up of a permanent force to discourage aggression such as that in Hungary a year ago.

By maintaining scrupulous objectivity the Secretary has earned accolades from such diverse persons as Russia's Delegate KUZNETSOV, Nationalist China's TSIANG and U.S. Chief Delegate LONGE. It is good to know that Mr. HAMMARSKJOLD's persistence, ability and discretion are so widely recognized and appreciated.

Labor Leader Bevan Moderates His Stand

Despite predictions, the British Labor Party's five day annual meeting at the seaside resort of Brighton ended on a mild note.

ANEURIN BEVAN, party treasurer and left wing leader, called on his followers to put unity ahead of Socialist doctrine. Much to the disappointment of his more radical supporters, he helped defeat a resolution for large scale nationalization of industry under any future Labor government.

Also defeated were any commitments on disarmament and a pledge that the party "when in power will not under any circumstances take part in atomic warfare." Mr. BEVAN's opposition was based on the fact that such a ban would create a "diplomatic shambles" for any foreign secretary in a Labor Government.

Joining Labor Party Leader HUGH GAITSKELL, Mr. BEVAN called for closer East-West ties and continual Anglo-U.S. discussions on long term policy. He also favors admission of Red China to the United Nations and less British dependence on this country in international matters.

Should the Labor Government be returned to power, Mr. Bevan would be Foreign Secretary. The shadow of this responsibility may account for his present moderation.

The Man About Town Is a Prolific Year

Reports of Big and Unusual Growths Continue to Arrive

Truth: What, when it changes hands a few times, becomes fiction.

Reports of an exceptional autumn continue to arrive, as

Gene Listermann of Keego Harbor, picks two quarts of strawberries (not the ever-bearing variety) from plants that bore a heavy summer crop.

Fears that weigh a pound a piece come from

Ambrose Schiffer of Lake Orion, picked from a limb that had been grafted on an apple tree that has Northern Spy fruit almost as large. A sugar beet that weighs 17 pounds has been grown by Amos Gahagan of Oxford, large enough for a whole day's food for his flock of 60 chickens.

Zinnia plants, nine feet tall, are glorifying the garden of Mrs. Alan Riffe of Waterford, with 20 blossoms on some of them.

Chrysanthemums "almost as large as a basket ball," grown in the garden of

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pasternak of Rochester, will be worn by them at the Mich. State vs. Michigan football game Saturday.

Iris plants that bloomed at the usual time in the yard of

Mr. and Mrs. John Kachmarck in Drayton Plains, again are in a glorified display of color.

Exactly one-half century ago we were in a baseball dither that knew no bounds, according to that inveterate old-time fan,

Jack Couchman, as Detroit had just won the pennant. They later played Chicago in the World Series, in which the Tigers didn't win a game, Chicago taking four, with one a tie.

That cotton can be raised in Michigan has been proven by Mrs. Perry Metcalf of Drayton Plains. Plants raised from seeds started indoors a year ago and transplanted into her garden last spring, now have bolls ready to pick.

"Better look around your own county," phones

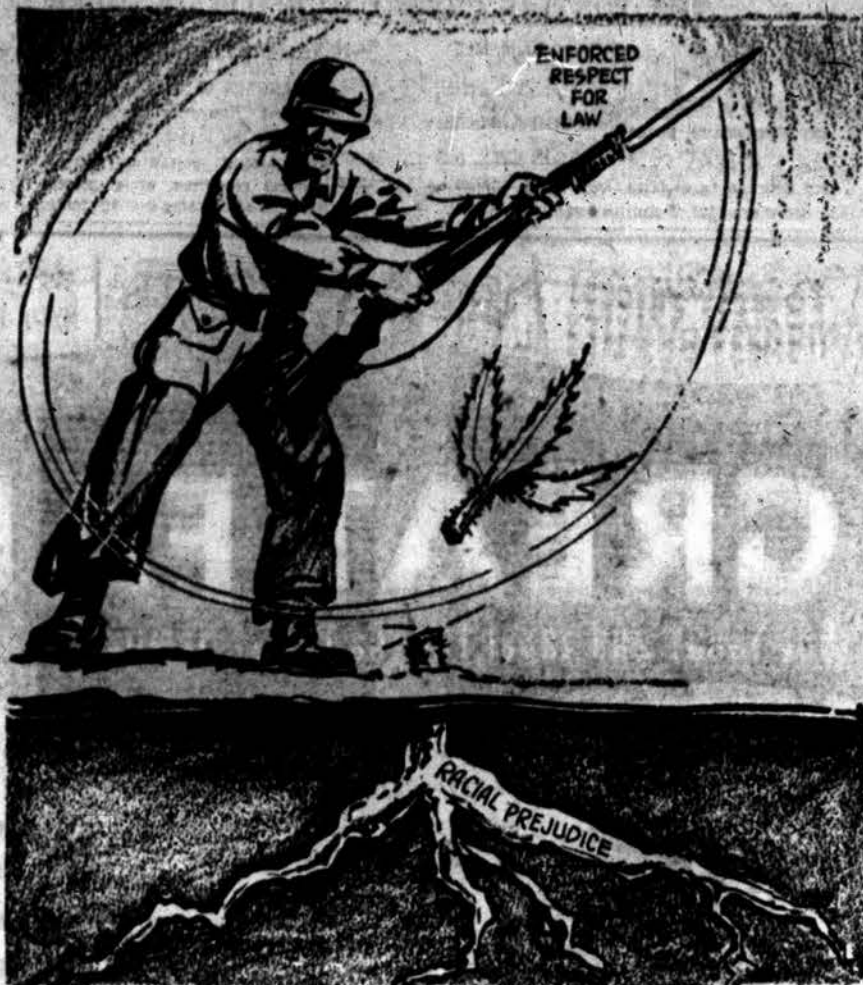

Mrs. Charlotte Branz of Auburn Heights, in regard to a three-column picture in a recent Press issue, showing a Wisconsin mushroom that weighed "almost six pounds." Mrs. Branz, Man About Town and thousands of others know that we raise them in Oakland County that weigh over three times six pounds.

My ever-watchful Lansing correspondent sends word that this is an anniversary. 'Twas 50 years ago today that Governor Fred M. Warner of Oakland County, warned the legislators that they had failed to bring their cuspidors for the special session. He feared it would be tough on the carpets.

The Root Is Another Problem

David Lawrence Asks:

Why Are Troops in Central High?

WASHINGTON — All over the front pages the news story was printed the other day that the Governor of Arkansas had revealed complaints from parents claiming that federal troops were in or near the dressing rooms of the girls at Little Rock High School. This was indignantly denied by the Secretary of the Army and by the White House.

But nobody has denied that the federal troops have actually been patrolling the corridors of the school building.

Under what law of Congress and under what federal court order were the troops stationed inside a public school, and what have they been doing there?

This is a question which has escaped general attention, but it goes to the heart of the dispute over the illegality of the so-called "occupation" of Little Rock by federal troops. For there is no Supreme Court ruling and no law of Congress and no court order thus far issued which gives federal troops the right to station themselves inside any public school at Little Rock.

If there is disorder inside a school, it is something for the principal or the local police or the state authorities to deal with. Under the federal Constitution only upon request of the governor or the State Legislature can federal troops enter a state unless there is insurrection against enforcement of an act of Congress.

Appropos of the right of federal troops to be in the public schools patrolling the corridors, the governor of South Carolina issued a statement on this point last Friday. Due to a careless error at a relay point on the wire services or for some other reason, his statement was not distributed throughout the United States and its publication was confined solely to the South—at least this correspondent could not find it printed in any of the principal newspapers Friday or Saturday in this section of the country.

Many persons in the South are resentful over what they claim is lack of coverage by the Northern papers of their side of the current controversy.

Governor Timmerman's statement was certainly news. He said in part:

"I publicly call upon General Eisenhower to tell the American people what law he thinks armed terror troops were sent to Little Rock to enforce. Vague references to the law and orders of courts are no answer . . ."

"Both the federal district courts and the federal circuit courts were created by Congress, and Congress has given them no power to order integration. What act of Congress does General Eisenhower think authorizes these courts to order a public school to integrate, and what is the text of that law?"

"The Supreme Court, in the school segregation cases, said no person could be denied admittance to a public school solely because of race, but it did not say admittance shall be granted solely because of race."

"It did not preclude the right to deny admission to any person for good valid reason or to prevent impending violence, or to preserve peace and good will in a community. Nor did it confer upon other federal courts the power to order integration. What decision of the Supreme Court does General Eisenhower think orders the integration of public schools, and what is the text of that decision?"

NEVER REVERSED

The South Carolina governor undoubtedly had in mind the historic

"civil rights cases," a decision by the Supreme Court of the United States in 1883, which declared unconstitutional various laws, passed by Congress during Reconstruction days, purporting to enforce the Fourteenth Amendment. That decision, written by Justice Bradley, has never been reversed, but has since been cited many times by the Supreme Court. Neither in the 1954 nor 1955 decisions by the Supreme Court on desegregation is there any language that rejects the opinion of Justice Bradley.

By that opinion, the Supreme Court flatly declared that Congress could not, under the Fourteenth Amendment, "legislate upon subjects which are within the domain of state legislation."

It looks as if, growing out of all this, there will be plenty of lawsuits some day for illegal trespass on school property and injury to private citizens.

Dr. William Brady Says:

B-12 Fine for Bell's Palsy, Effective Taken by Mouth

"A year ago a physician said I had Bell's palsy. My face was paralyzed on the right side and my mouth twisted to one side. My right eye stood open. The doctor gave me medicine while I was in bed. Then I had to go to his office twice a week for a year for B-12 shots."

"I looked almost normal again. Then one day I painted a door. Two days later I had Bell's palsy again. Received penicillin and shots until my arms looked like staves, and now the B-12 shots again. We are poor people and the doctor bill is far out of our reach . . . (Mrs. J.S.P.)"

To the best of my knowledge, vitamin B-12 by mouth is as effective as vitamin B-12 by injection.

Vitamin B-12 has proved very helpful in the treatment of Bell's palsy, paralysis of muscles supplied by the facial (7th cranial) nerve. The levator palpebrae escapes—this muscle lifts or opens the upper eyelid. The lid cannot be closed, the forehead cannot be wrinkled.

The corner of the mouth droops, the face looks flat on the paralyzed side. The patient can't whistle or blow out his cheek. The eye tears a good deal and requires special care to protect it from wind and dust, because natural protection by blinking or winking is impossible.

The palsy lasts from four or five weeks to a year. In some cases it is preceded or accompanied in the early stage by earache. The paralysis sometimes recurs. In some cases years after recovery patients complain of spasms and contractures, and the annoying "crocodile tears"—shedding tears when chewing or eating.

Indispensable treatment in all cases is daily applications of galvanic or faradic electricity, to maintain muscle tone and prevent permanent drooping.

Equally important is protection of the eye with a patch and use of boric acid solution as eye wash several times a day.

Everyone who takes vitamin B-12 for any purpose should preferably take B-12 combined with folic acid, for folic acid is the physiological or natural potentiator of B-12.

Further information in pamphlet available on application if you provide stamped, self-addressed envelope: The Red Blood Vitamin.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Funeral Director Has Vital Role

Wilma's question gives me a chance to outline some of the little understood functions of one of America's greatest professions. The man who buys up the souls of grief-stricken folks and who serves as a fusion of physician and clergyman, is described below. Be grateful to have him in your community.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
Case W-316: Wilma E., aged 33, is a registered nurse who also happens to be the wife of a successful funeral director.

"Dr. Crane, I need help," she said with a smile, "for I am soon to make a speech before the wives of our State Funeral Directors' Association. 'What should I include in my 20-minute talk?'"

FUNERAL PSYCHOLOGY

The modern funeral director is an unusually versatile professional man.

For instance, he is a deft surgeon who not only operates on the body of the deceased in order to inject the embalming fluids, but he also is a very skillful plastic surgeon.

Sometimes our loved ones are badly mutilated in auto wrecks and other disasters at the time of death.

But the mortician may repair the damage and leave the face so natural that you would hardly be-

Asks Consideration of Reincarnation

The logical, useful and (when properly understood) attractive theory of reincarnation should have its day in court instead of being dismissed without a hearing. Having studied the subject for over 20 years, either I have completely misinterpreted what I've found or reincarnation is a fact in nature.

I don't wish to convert anyone to a belief in successive rebirths. I would, however, like to convert everyone to a fair consideration of the evidence pro and con, which has never yet been done. This letter may induce a few to look into the matter for themselves instead of relying on the say-so of others.

It's beyond me how those Teamster delegates could elect Hoffa after all the evidence indicating he isn't fit to hold the office. Even though he hasn't been convicted of all the charges against him, it's a pretty bad sign when someone is even suspected of so many different irregularities. It's an utter disgrace to the American working man that such a man is chosen to represent them.

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

We're re-writing the Fifth to make it read partisan jealousy and speedy investigations. In times of inquisitive peril no citizen shall be quartered on the stand while his attorney is out to lunch.

We know that a Q. and A. squad of three Republicans and three Democrats sounds as fair as blue eyes and blonde hair. But civilization has been wrecked by committees reporting progress.

The problem soap-stocks to the ultimate ingredients of the aftermath. How long does an investigation keep 'em honest? We know that Tammy puts the interrogatory inquisition in the shave, shine and shampoo category.

It has survived more shipwrecks than Lloyd's of London. It may have lost a rowboat or two but it never gave up the oars.

You cannot keep partisan pulsations out of committee field work. The politics that stops at the water's edge does its clam-digging in the dark.

The Constitution doesn't package a detail about government by committees.

But your mammy's mammy proved if you sewed on enough patches you'll have a nice quilt.

Splitting a committee politically is like Nellie Fox's chaw tobacco. No matter which side Nellie wears it on it's still unbalanced.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

I spake unto thee in thy prosperity; but thou saidst, I will not hear. This hath been thy manner from thy youth, that thou obeyest not my voice. — Jeremiah 23:21.

No principle is more noble, as there is none more holy, than that of a true obedience. — Henry Giles.

Then the funeral director also furnishes cars and attendants, plus the type of casket which the family desires.

So please give the modern mortician full credit for making a funeral a beautiful graduation ceremony from this earthly classroom.

Remember, too, that civilization is measured in part by the reverence with which we bid our final farewell to our departed loved ones.

Funeral directors are usually religious men and pillars of their local churches.

They are even regarded with a certain amount of deference, much like that reserved for our clergy.

You wives of morticians must realize that your husbands symbolize the combined medical and clerical prestige of the community, so you should deport yourselves accordingly.

Morticians tie people over their greatest time of sorrow and help bolster the souls of the grieving family. They render a great service to mankind.

SCHEDULE NEW AIRFLIGHTS — For the first time, Pontiac airport has scheduled air plane flights connecting to the main air trunk lines. James Waller and Robert Weir, pilot two small planes out of the local airport five times a day.

2 Young Pilots Give Vital Aid to Pontiac Automotive Plants

By KERA HEINTZELMAN

Two very important young men in the Pontiac automotive industry are pilots James D. Waller and Robert L. Weir, at Pontiac Airport in Waterford Township.

Bob and Jim along with Robert Wolfe and George Pimlott, have started the very first scheduled airline flights out of the local airport, dropping in and out of the skies, five times daily.

The young men, flying twin-engine passenger planes, are vitally instrumental in helping keep the wheels of Pontiac industry moving, by serving as a "feeder line" to Willow Run airport.

According to Plant Traffic manager at Pontiac Motor Corp. Shirley J. Moore, this new service has proven invaluable as far as the time element is concerned.

EMERGENCY SHIPMENTS

He explained that most of the company's shipments are emergency out-bound parts to the seven assembly plants throughout the United States.

"The trick is to get the parts from Pontiac to the big transport planes headed for the trouble area—in a hurry," he said. "Assembly line break-downs cost corporations thousands of dollars an hour for labor, and this daily flight schedule is a definite advancement for Pontiac industry," he added.

It takes an aircraft only ten minutes from Pontiac to Ypsilanti, as compared to a 4 hour round-trip by truck express, Moore said.

After leaving Willow Run in the morning, the pilots fly in and out of Birmingham, Pontiac, Owosso, then back to Willow Run.

This routine circle can fly people and freight at no more than regular fare, rather than charter-plane costs, necessary before.

The idea of owning a small scheduled air line, has literally "grown up" with Bob and Jim.

STARTED IN TEENS

When they were teenagers in school, they "noised" around the Willow Run airport constantly, and when they had enough money the boys learned to fly there.

During the war years, they worked on planes and finally bought a twin engine Cessna of their own. Each have more than 900 flying hours to their credit and have established offices at each of the four airports in their circuits.

Wolfe and Pimlott are the "ground crew," handling scheduling, and paper work for the corporation, known as the Wolverine Inc.

Pontiac Airport manager Homer Hoskins said, "We've needed this air taxi service to Willow Run for many years. The community will certainly benefit enormously by the fast connections to the main air trunk lines."

Trading Stamps Under Scrutiny

House Committee Gets Conflicting Testimony From Top Witnesses

NEW YORK (AP) — Conflicting testimony on whether trading stamps given by retail merchants have a good or bad effect was given at a Congressional hearing yesterday.

Most of the session concerned the effect of trading stamps on food prices to consumers, as the consumer study subcommittee of the House committee on agriculture concluded a two-day session here.

Harold Unterberg, general counsel of the Associated Food Stores, spoke against the stamps. Unterberg, who represented the Food Industry Alliance as well as the Associated Food Stores, said use of trading stamps is adding to the retail costs of some foods.

Unterberg said federal regulation is needed to control the issuance of stamps.

Dr. Charles H. Phillips, president of Bates College at Lewiston, Maine, said trading stamps are a legitimate promotional device. He said various studies have indicated that consumer prices are not increased because of the stamps.

Phillips appeared in behalf of the Sperry & Hutchinson Co., a leading trading stamp distributor, and the Trading Stamp Institute of America, a trade association.

It was noted at the hearing that there are from 300 to 400 stamp companies operating in the United States.

Unterberg told the subcommittee that retailers have to buy trading stamps in advance, paying the stamp company $2 to $3 for 1,000 stamps, or two-tenths to three-tenths of a cent for each stamp.

He said the cost of the stamps to the retailer normally ranges from 1 to 3 per cent of his sales.

He said the increased cost has to be passed on to the consumer—not ordinarily on nationally advertised brands, but rather on luxury items and unbranded foods such as produce and meats.

Naval Officer Has Tough Job

He Explains to America Why Russia Beat U.S. in Launching Satellite

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

A gruff, 52-year-old naval officer has been in one of the most unenviable positions in America ever since Soviet Russia's first satellite soared into the sky.

He is Rear Admiral Rawson Bennett II, Chief of Naval Research and in charge of America's "Project Vanguard" to launch earth satellites some time next year.

Bennett's job now is to explain, sometimes to impatient audiences, why the U.S., which started talking about satellites first, is so far behind the Russians in achieving them.

Against the dazzling performance the Soviets are putting on, Bennett's words are having little effect so far. But some think there may turn out to be more in what he says than appears on the surface.

The admiral has been easing into his subject by saying that "there was no race to place a satellite in orbit as far as we are concerned," and "the U.S. satellite program is progressing according to plans."

SCIENTIFIC ACCURACY GOAL

A little more pointedly, he says "We have concentrated on doing the best possible scientific job with accurate tracking, proved instrumentation, and so forth... There is no connection between Vanguard and any missile project whatsoever... It is an economically run project."

He expresses great admiration for the Russian achievement, but mentions that the Soviet satellite is not broadcasting at the "internationally agreed radio frequency" and "tracking accuracy is not as good at the lower frequencies."

Bennett, who now has a home in Riverside, Calif., is a native of Chicago and a 1923 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy.

The turning point in his career probably came in 1934 when he returned to Annapolis for post graduate instruction in electronic engineering.

He completed the course at the University of California, and with the outbreak of World War II was in line for an assignment as head of the underwater sound design section of the Navy's electronics division.

For his services in that post, he received the Legion of Merit. The citation said he "designed sonic and supersonic underwater sound apparatus so urgently required by the fleet for the destruction of axis submarines and Japanese shipping."

Bennett is married and has four children—three sons and a daughter.

A circus has offered the town of Swindon, England, $350 for a double-decker bus to be used as a mobile home for a giraffe.

Lower, Higher Rate Studied Together

LANSING (AP) — The State Public Service Commission will hear an application for a rate increase by the Michigan Gas and Electric Co. At the same time it is considering a rate reduction for the utility.

Commission Chairman Otis Smith termed the situation unprecedented.

Smith explained that the commission currently is considering whether the utility's rates should be reduced because of complaints that excessively high rates were being charged customers.

The utility yesterday filed an application for a rate increase.

No amount was specified, the company only asking for "a fair rate of return."

The rate reduction matter and the rate increase petition will be considered together at a Dec. 3 hearing.

Saw Nobody Laugh in Russia

Eleanor Says One Who Had None Feels a Little Security Is Freedom

WASHINGTON (INS) — Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt characterizes Russia as a place where "for three weeks I didn't see anybody laugh."

The former first lady told an audience of women convened in Washington last night to devise a better home. She said the Russians had "sold their souls for a little bit of economic security."

Noting, however, that they had neither freedom nor economic security under the Czarist government, she commented:

"A little economic security if you don't have the background might seem a step toward freedom, might even seem like a little bit of freedom itself."

She told the Congress on Better Living that the Russian people are being trained in a system of conditioned reflexes so that they believe "they must work and sacrifice because if they don't we who want war, will bring about their destruction."

However, the world-traveler told her audience, "I never had any feeling of antagonism against me among the people."

She said the Soviet people have "no conception and no idea of what the rest of the world is doing," and the only newspapers available are Communist organs.

License Needed to Solicit Sales

Kavanagh Says State's Blue Sky Law Bans Dealers Otherwise

LANSING (AP) — The attorney general says that the blue sky law prohibits out-of-state securities dealers from soliciting sales in Michigan unless they are licensed to operate here.

Atty. Gen. Thomas M. Kavanagh issued an opinion yesterday so advising Lawrence Gubow, state corporation and securities commissioner. The opinion covers solicitations by mail or telephone.

Kavanagh also advised that such securities as legally may be offered must be registered in the state, with certain exceptions.

In a separate opinion, Kavanagh told Secretary of State James M. Hare that persons over 18 enrolled in school driver education courses must be appropriately licensed to participate in practice driving on state highways.

Kavanagh also issued opinions holding that:

Costs assessed in circuit court criminal cases must be credited to the county general fund, and that boards of supervisors then may provide by appropriations for the maintenance and upkeep of county law libraries.

Licensing requirements of the boarding home law do not apply to homes housing students under the U.S. Department of State student exchange program.

Many Borrow Larger Sums

Get Money for Longer Time, Delinquencies Up Somewhat

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Consumers are borrowing larger sums and for different reasons than a few years back. They borrow for a longer time and delinquencies are rising slightly. On the other hand, there is a trend in some areas toward paying off the loans ahead of schedule.

These are findings of small loan companies across the nation. They deal with some 10 million families a year for a total of about five billion dollars.

Their reports jibe with the findings of the Federal Reserve Board on the total volume of personal loans, the kind made by these companies and by other financial firms. The Board's figures put personal loans at 74 billion dollars, almost one billion above the total a year ago.

The National Consumer Finance Assn. queried top men in 26 of its member companies in 17 states and the District of Columbia on changes in the last few hours. All report a shift of emphasis from emergency or remedial borrowing to convenience or better living borrowing.

Quiz Likely Jurors on Body Disposal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Prospective jurors in the L. Ewing Scott murder trial are being asked this question by the prosecution:

"Do you think it possible for a person to completely dispose of a body so that it is never found?"

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Prospective jurors in the L. Ewing Scott murder trial are being asked this question by the prosecution:

"Do you think it possible for a person to completely dispose of a body so that it is never found?"

his wife, Mrs. Evelyn Scott, 63. She disappeared May 16, 1955. Deputy District Attorney J. Miller Leavy, in examining jury candidates yesterday, said the state will present no witnesses to testify to the cause of the wealthy woman's death of the time and place of her alleged murder.

Questioning of jurors continued through its third day without agreement being reached on a panel.

Posse Hunting Killers of Banker in Ontario

BLIND RIVER, Ont. (AP) — A posse of police and armed residents today continued an overnight search for two men who killed a bank manager in an attempted robbery. Some 50 to 60 police, called from as far away as Sault Ste. Marie and Sudbury, led the search of bushland between this uranium mining town, 65 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie, and Elliot Lake, 22 miles north.

Jailbreaking Legal —Until It Happened

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio — Mid-charge an inmate with breaking out of jail ran into a problem —

there was no law against breaking

They finally charged the escapee with destruction of city property
— he broke a window in his es-

Tunnel Through Alps to Be Ready by 1961

PARIS — France has decided to bore an 11-mile tunnel through 15,871-foot-high Mount Blanc. This project, which will cost $25,000,

000 to $30,000,000, will provide motorists with an all-weather road between central France and northern Italy.

France will pay more than half the cost and Italy most of the remainder; Switzerland will contribute $2,000,000. The new tunnel and roadway, a toll affair, should be open by 1961. An estimated 300,000 cars and trucks will use it each year.

PARIS — The French fancy in drinks seems to be turning soft. The greatest sales growth among beverages in recent years has been in soda pop, which is up something like 1,000 per cent since the war. Half a billion bottles of soft drinks were consumed last year. Nevertheless, the average Frenchman still drinks only 10 soft drinks a year compared with the average American's 187.

U.S. Bureau Develops Ultra-Strong Steel

WASHINGTON — The National Bureau of Standards has produced an experimental type of ultra-high-strength steel which it says can be heat-treated to a 285,000-pound-per-square-inch strength with enough ductility for structural uses.

The steel, primarily developed for use in aircraft landing gear, is said to be not only strong, but also to have high impact resistance. It is made by normal melting and working processes and shouldn't be hard to manufacture, the bureau says.

Over 1,500 products were shown at the first Japanese Industrial Fair in Mexico.

It's the Old Army Way

PONCA CITY, Okla. (U. S. — Dr. E. J. Crowder received notification from the Army that he had been promoted from major to lieutenant colonel. The notice came 11 days after Crowder was discharged.

Olive Oil Yield Seen

ROME — Olive-oil production for 1937 is expected to climb 29 per cent above last year's yield in the Mediterranean basin, where cold weather damaged millions of trees in 1936. The basin area produces more than 85 per cent of the world's olive oil. Basin exports are expected to total 100,000 tons this year, which would be an increase of 30,000 tons over 1936.

Find Mighty Mushroom

MOSCOW (U. S. — A mushroom weighing two kilograms and measuring 96 centimeters around the edge has been found near a river near Moscow.

U.S. Expands Output of Uranium Oxide

WASHINGTON — With 10 more processing mills planned or under construction, domestic production of uranium oxide is expected to double by the end of 1938, according to the Atomic Energy Commission.

Twelve mills at present are turning out refined oxide at an average total of about 23 tons a day.

School Using English

BANDJARMASIN, Indonesia — The first English-language school on the island of Kalimantan (Borneo) has been opened in Bandjarmasin. Similar schools are to be started in Samarinda and Pontianak.

WASHINGTON — Early United States postage stamps were printed privately for the Government, but since July 1, 1894, they have generally been printed by the Bureau of Printing and Engraving in Washington.

President Eisenhower's Attitude Toward Soviet Satellite: So What?

By ED CREECH
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's attitude toward the Soviet satellite could be summed up in two words: So what?

Many people — scientists, military men and the rest of us — have reacted somewhat differently. Some are alarmed, others are embarrassed that the Russians got there first, most are fascinated at the very least.

But not the President. He has asked himself: What did the Russians really accomplish?

And he gave his answer at a news conference yesterday: "Apparently, from what they say, they have put one small ball in the air."

Eisenhower showed less concern about this than he has been seen to show over the progress of one small ball from the fairway to the green.

No sarcasm is intended. The President was plainly aware of the worldwide uproar over the miniature moon. He came prepared with a long statement on the subject — something he rarely does.

But the essence of his words was: What's everybody so excited about? We could have done it ourselves if we had wanted to. And what does it really amount to, after all?

Others may say — and are saying — that the Russians have scored an historic triumph. There is all manner of speculation about what happens next: Do the Russians zoom ahead in missile development? Do they beat us to the moon? One British rocket expert, Arthur C. Clarke, goes so far as to say the United States became a second-class power when the Russians shot their small ball into space.

Eisenhower has a word for this sort of talk: hysteria.

He said he realized all along that the Russians would get "a great psychological advantage in world politics" if they were first with the satellite. But he said this country was concerned with orderly scientific research, not with propaganda, and "there didn't seem to be a reason for just trying to grow hysterical" about beating the Russians.

Nobody spoke up in favor of hysteria. Hardly anybody ever does. Nobody asked, either, why this country wasn't concerned with "psychological advantage," when it spends millions each year trying to convince the rest of the world that Americans are smarter and nicer than Russians.

Is the President satisfied with U.S. progress in missile development? He said he naturally wishes we were farther along, but is "not dissatisfied" with what's been done to date.

Is the country now going to put more money and effort into missile development? Eisenhower said the scientists have been given all the support they asked for and "that is all I can do." (His new secretary of defense, Neil H. McElroy, said a little later that serious consideration is being given to a missile speedup. McElroy said no action has been taken yet.)

Whether the President is being wisely calm or foolishly complacent is a question that only history can answer, not that plenty of people won't try to guess the answer in the meantime.

Area Boys Among 11 to Get Farm Award

LANSING (AP) — Eleven Michigan farm boys have been nominated for the American Farmer Degree, highest award conferred by the Future Farmers of America, Dr. Lynn M. Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction, said today.

The group will receive the degree next week when they and nearly 300 other young Michigan farmers go to the National FFA Convention at Kansas City.

Approved for the top award were James Boyne, Marlette; David Charlack, Milford; Elgin Darling, Milan; Merle Donbrook and Gene Easterday, Coldwater; Arthur Hessler, Belding; K. Craig McCoy, Benton Harbor; Robert Nourse, Grand Ledge; Douglas Steckly, Imlay City; Sidney Taylor, Hartland, and William Taylor of Byron.

School Avoids League

GRAND HAVEN (AP) — A Board of Education ruling results in continued independent status for Grand Haven High School in athletic competition. The Board Monday rejected its high school athletic council's proposal to join St. Joseph, Dowagiac, Buchanan, Niles and Portage in an athletic conference next fall.

A Dutch firm is building a $1,000,000 concrete bridge across the River Slaney, at Wexford, Eire.

Check Your 'De-Misters' and 'Silencer' Need Special Dictionary to Drive Car in England

DETROIT (INS) — If you are "flattening out" in your "saloon" or "drophead," you'd better make sure your "de-misters" and "silencer" are in good working condition.

Double - talk? No, just the King's English! But in the United States, you'd probably hear:

"If you are speeding along in your sedan or convertible, you'd better make sure your de-frosters and muffler are in good working condition."

Walter M. Spencer, Dodge service director, has compiled a list of American motoring terms and their British counter-parts as an aid to tourists visiting Great Britain.

Spencer explains that the English call their automobiles "motor cars," and in addition to "saloon" and "drophead," they have these names for the various body types: stationwagon — "estate car," and touring car — "tourer."

English trucks, says Spencer, are "lorries," while dump trucks are "tippers," and house trailers are called "caravans."

If you should have mechanical difficulties, the Dodge engineer's list includes these items of interest to any "petrol" or gas station attendant:

The hood is the "bonnet;" the choke, the "strangler;" your generator is called a "dynamo;" shock absorbers are "dampers;" spark plugs are "sparkling plugs;" the transmission is the "gearbox;" wrist pins are "gudgeon pins;" and wrist pin bushings are "little end bushes."

Spencer pointed out that for do-it-yourself mechanics, wrenches are known to Englishmen as "spanners."

Miscellaneous parts of the British motor car include: over-rider (bumper guards); scuttle (air in-take); fascia (dashboard); dip switch (dimmer switch); wings (fenders); gearchange (gear-shift); and cubby locker (glove compartment).

Others include: headlamp (head-light); nave plate (hub cap); mascot (radiator ornament); tyre (tire); boot (trunk); light (wind-down); ventilator (vent window); and windscreen (windshield).

In addition, the English shine their cars with a "wash leather," not a chamois cloth, and you order "spares" instead of replacement parts when you are in Merrie Old England.

Some will argue that to discuss the satellite as "one small ball in the air" is like calling the first controlled fusion reaction a little brush fire. Others will contend that the President isn't being taken in by the any Soviet publicity-stunt even if better to proceed with an orderly

President suggests, that it's some of his critics are. And, as military-scientific research program than to go heeping off into space. Anybody who happens to get hit by a guided missile in the course of this great debate may be excused for going a little hysterical.

Says 400,000 to Stay in Guard

Brucker Reveals Units of State Militias to Get Nike Missiles

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Army Secretary Wilbur M. Brucker says National Guard manpower will not drop below a level of 400,000 as long as he is in office.

Brucker also told the National Guard Assn. that Guard units, now manning anti-aircraft guns in this country, will be equipped with Nike guided missiles.

Arriving at the Jefferson County Armory, he was met by three pickets of the White Citizens of Kentucky, who carried placards reading, "Brucker turns guards against the South," and "Brucker, Brownell, Eisenhower—3 traitors."

One picket said they were trying to persuade the Guard association to adopt a resolution urging Brucker to defederalize the Guard at Little Rock. But Brucker said later "any such resolution would be up to this body (the Guard) and I wouldn't have anything to do with it."

Brucker made an obvious attempt to ease the apprehensions many Guard officers feel about scaling down reserve forces strength.

"This breaking up of the Guard—it will not be done," he declared. The present strength is 418,000 but it will be reduced to 400,000 by December.

Asked how the Guard is going to maintain even a 400,000 strength in the face of an annual attrition rate of nearly 100,000 men and what are regarded as difficult enlistment conditions, he replied:

"If I see it is going down (the strength of the Guard), we're going to get right in there and help them."

The Army secretary also outlined the military's progress in converting to the pentomic concept of warfare and said the GI may soon be wired for sound.

A helmet radio for the individual soldier, which may become standard equipment for combat troops, is already in experimental use.

HOUGHTON (AP)—The National Park Service will open bids Nov. 7 on a new dock to be built at Isle Royale National Park. Construction is expected to get under way next spring. The dock will be located near Rock Harbor Lodge on Isle Royale in Lake Superior. It is designed for a new ship to be built this winter.

Fear of a Scene Makes Mice of Americans

By PHYLLIS BATTLELLE
NEW YORK (INS)—Nine out of 10 Americans, because of polite upbringing and a horror of non-conformity, would rather sink off into the shadows in misery than to "create a scene."

A "scene," in the sense most Americans use it, is synonymous with a "fuss." Or a "spectacle." As in: "Don't make a fuss, you'll cause a scene and make a spectacle of yourself."

This almost-national trait, no doubt begun by the Pilgrim fathers to keep their children from causing talk and trouble among the Indians, is all very well, up to a certain point. In barrooms, for example, it is especially recommended; and the avoidance of "scenes" with law officers is also enthusiastically endorsed here.

However, the fear of a show-down has been carried too far in our society—to the point where, in small but certain ways, the poor polite American is being forced often to accept the mediocre, in terms of products and service, because he's embarrassed to "speak up."

FIGHTS FOR RIGHTS

Women are not as all-day suckers for scene-shirking as men, because women by nature are fighters for the preservation of the home (which they represent) and the preservation of its pocketbook.

Thus, it is that when a housewife gets a tough turkey from the grocery, she may create a small, intimate type scene with the proprietor until she gets a refund or a fresh fowl.

However, even the defender of the home gets herself bilked and blushing in situations that do not directly affect the survival of her family.

How many times, for instance, does the innocent, polite lady enter a millinery shop and try on hats before a snarling salesgirl whose haughty surliness frightens her into buying a hat she dislikes—rather than risk being publicly insulted with innuendoes that she is a cheapskate?

Men are even easier to "shame" out of complaints which are justified. A man in any kind of shop is less like "a bull in a china shop" (where do they get that comparison?) than he is like a dog in a muzzle. Bowed, cowed and incapable of bark.

In restaurants, the average American male and female are truly up against it, because of this dread of speaking up.

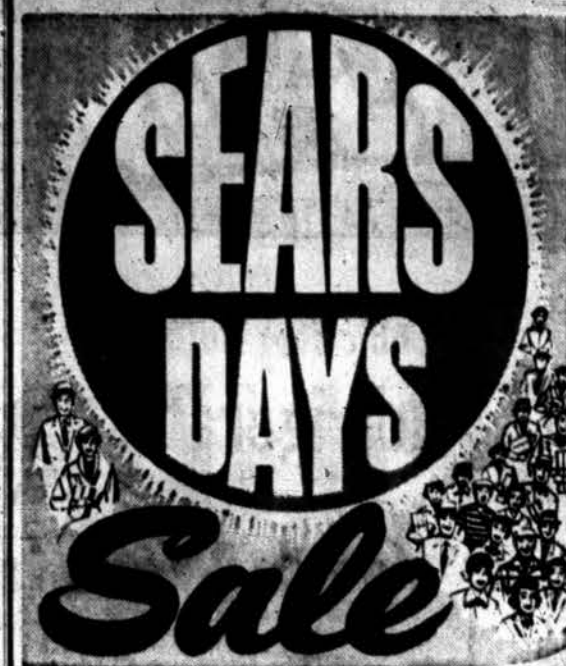

They order roast beef rare and it comes well-done. Perhaps mother will sulk softly, "That isn't the way I ordered it." Father will blush and act as if he hadn't heard; the waiter will scowl and act the same.

MEEK AS LAMBS

But most Americans, on most dining-out occasions, won't say a word about the food—unless, of course, they received an order that is outrageously incorrect, as in the case of receiving scrambled eggs when they ordered lobster. I think it is reasonably safe to observe that Americans are the most easy-going, and easy-to-take-for-the-chef's-reappraisal—or by them. What they don't realize is, folk in the world. They are walking out on a cocky sales the stares may be admiring. (Copyright 1937)

Spire Symbolizes Greater Strength

Commerce Body Moves Church

Methodists Dedicate Structure, Open House on Nov. 3

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

A new copper spire was placed on top of the century-old Methodist church in Commerce this week, dramatizing the mounting faith in spiritual values in this tiny community.

In July the 116-year old church was carefully removed from its original foundation on a back street to a five-acre plot on Commerce road. The spire had deteriorated and was authentically rebuilt by master carpenters.

Many months of study and building preparations was necessary before the church was transferred to the present location, according to the Rev. Perry Thomas, pastor for the last eight years.

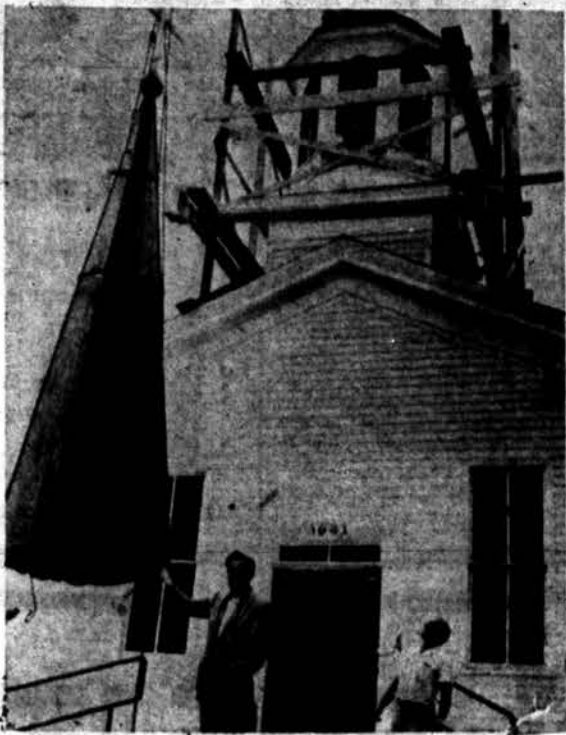

Three big questions dominated the moving decision. Was the old building structurally sound enough? Could it be incorporated into the new architectural plan, and was it economically feasible?

SENTIMENTALITY WINS

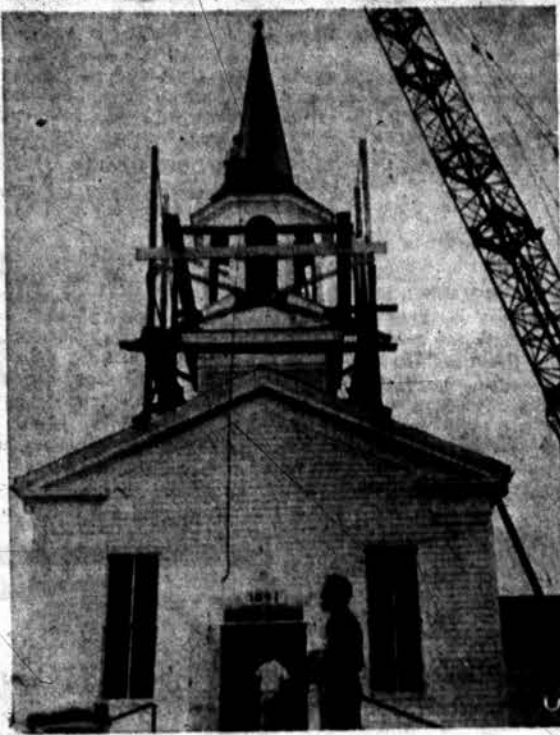

Sentimentality finally over-ruled all opposition, due to the fact that it is one of the two oldest churches in Michigan still holding regular services, Rev. Thomas said.

He added, "Besides the sentimental value involved, we found that the building was architecturally worthy of preservation."

The church is of Greek Revival

THIS IS THE STEEPLE — An authentic steeple was constructed to replace the old one when the 116-year-old Methodist Church in Commerce was moved. The Rev. Perry Thomas, pastor, watches

architecture brought to Michigan by the early settlers from southern New York state.

After the church was established on its new foundation, men, women and children began work on an addition and a ten-foot span connecting it to the old church.

More than 3,000 hours of back-breaking labor has been logged by the people of Commerce, in cement-block laying, woodwork, and all-over painting. "This has been a family project since the beginning," Rev. Thomas said.

The first unit is nearing completion and when finished will stand as a $150,000 monument to Commerce Methodists.

Inside furnishing of the church has been a project of various organizations, with the Women's Society pledging the $5,000 installation of all kitchen accessories.

In 1934, a 100-week building fund campaign netted $32,000 and a repeat performance last November totaled some $44,000. This, along with help from the Methodist Revolving fund has made the dream of a new church possible.

On Nov. 3, Dr. Chester McPheeters, superintendent of the Flint District of Methodist churches, will open dedication ceremonies at the 11 a.m. service.

From 3 to 7 p.m., visitors will be welcome at an open house, and the Rev. John Parish of the First Methodist church in Ferndale will be main speaker at the 7:30 p.m. service.

Addison Sets $1,186 UF Goal

Tea Held at Lakeville Sparks Drive to Benefit 150 Organizations

ADDISON TOWNSHIP—A quota of $1,186 has been announced for the Addison Township United Fund Drive by Mrs. Melvin Thorman, campaign chairman.

A tea was held in Lakeville this week at the home of Mrs. Robert McWilliams, with Mrs. John Dunn assisting, to enlist the aid of solicitors for the drive in the Lakeville-Addison area.

The committee of eight for Addison decided this spring to merge with the Metropolitan United Foundation. Their reasons:

1. To enable people of the area to gain help when needed in any of the 150 organizations which the torch drive fund supports.

2. To eliminate the drive for funds for cancer in the spring. The cancer program will receive its share of finances collected in this one-for-all drive.

The local community chest will still receive the same support it has in the past. It is handled by the Addison Township Fire Department.

Wire Delivery of Flowers Soars Sky-High

NEW YORK (INS) — The nation's green thumb has taken wings.

The Florists' Telegraph Delivery Assn. estimated today that it will send flowers valued at more than $60,000,000 this year, a gain of about 18 per cent over 1936. Global interchange of flowers also is booming, according to FTDA General Manager John Boddette, who left today for a meeting of Interflora, the international affiliate of FTDA, in Paris.

Chicle was once exported to the U.S. as a substitute for rubber. Industry uses nine times more castor oil than is required by medicine.

Junior Editors Quiz on PAUL BUNYAN

QUESTION: Was there a real Paul Bunyan?

ANSWER: Paul Bunyan was quite a fellow, with or without his axe. As a schoolboy, he ripped a side out of a granite mountain in Vermont and used it for his slate. But school was too tame for Paul, so he headed west to the logging camps and again took some liberties with our geography. With his bare hands he scooped out Puget Sound and used the excess dirt to pile up Mt. Ranier. Still not satisfied with the shape of the country, he hacked down whole forests, dug the Great Lakes and straightened out a couple of winding rivers. In his spare time, he romped with Blue Babe, an enormous ox that measured 42 axle handles between the eyes. Some Bunyan tales were told as long ago as 1890. In all probability, these stories were humorous exaggerations of the heroic feats of some strong and courageous lumberjack in the pioneer west.

FOR YOU TO DO: Paste this picture on cardboard and color it with your crayons. Cut out the picture, fold back the panel on the right end and Paul Bunyan will stand among the tall timber.

Fatally Shoots Sleeping Father

Colorado Boy Admits Slaying; Angry at Being Forced to Attend School

SPRINGFIELD, Colo. (AP) — An 11-year-old boy shot and killed his sleeping father, Dist. Atty. Carl M. Shinn said today, because the father made him attend school. Leonard Wear, 47-year-old father of 12 children, died yesterday of a 22-caliber bullet wound over the right eye. The shooting occurred early yesterday morning in the Wears' tiny two-room farm home near Pritchett, 14 miles east of this southeast Colorado community. Shinn said the victim's wife Eunice, 46, was asleep beside her husband at the time. The district attorney said blond, husky Earl Wear, questioned about his father's death, suddenly burst into tears last night and cried: "I shot him! I shot him!" He quoted the youth as saying he shot Wear "because I was mad at him for making me go to school."

Earl was entered in the sixth grade at Pritchett grade school last Monday. Shinn said the youngster was enrolled only after his father summoned him from a neighbor's field, where the boy had found work.

"Apparently the boy brooded about the money he was going to lose," said Shinn.

He added that the youngster signed a statement admitting the shooting. No charges were filed immediately.

A gentleman farmer is one who has more hay in the bank than in the barn. . . . Some people think the modern youngster's prayer seems to be, "Lead us not into temptation, but tell us where it is and we'll find it." —Earl Wilson Satellite-Moon-Mars, Venus-Space, Here I Come!

(German-born, Dr. Willy Ley, author of the following article is one of the world's best known and most authoritative writers on the subject of rockets and space travel, and a recognized expert and researcher.)

By DR. WILLY LEY
NEW YORK (INS) — Today — an earth satellite.

Tomorrow — the moon.

After that — Mars and Venus.

That is what the future holds, and the conquest of these goals, I predict, will be seen by most people now alive.

Let's not pretend the grapes are sour just because we didn't beat the Russians this time.

The launching of the first earth satellite is a major scientific accomplishment, and the date of Oct. 4, 1957, will become an historic date like the first flight across the ocean.

Scientists have been saying for many years that space travel would have to come about slowly and by means of comparatively minor steps, each of which could be predicted.

STEPS NOW TAKEN

The first step was to fire a rocket beyond the atmosphere. This was done in February, 1949, from the White Sands Proving Grounds.

The second step was the launching of the artificial satellite — which has been done now by the Russians.

The next step after this would be to put a pilot vehicle at the border of the atmosphere.

This would probably be done next year!

The rocket-propelled plane called the X-15 is now being built. It is expected to reach a peak height of 100 miles.

The step after that would be to put a man into an orbit — but between the flight to 100 miles and the orbital flight of a man, there will no doubt be many more artificial satellites carrying more complicated instruments than this first attempt.

After everything has been learned through such satellites, which scientists and engineers still first to know, a manned rocket ship can go into an orbit.

The date? Maybe 1963 . . . maybe 1965.

SPACE STATION NEXT
Once this has been done, a permanent artificial satellite with a human crew in it will be built.

This so-called "Space Station" will serve dozens of different purposes.

For example — weather forecasting, scientific research, medical research, and probably quite a number of things we do not even think of today.

Unless somebody should discover how to use atomic energy for rocket propulsion, trips to other planets cannot be made without this space station.

The ships for exploration will be carried up to the space station piecemeal, and will be assembled in space.

The first trip, no doubt, will be one around the moon — without landing.

Then will follow a landing on the moon.

THEN TO MARS

And then we will be ready to set out for our two neighboring planets — Mars and Venus.

Even if no new major invention is made, which is to say that if we just relied on the materials and fuels we now have, the first expedition to Mars will return before the end of this century.

Astronomers do not expect to find anything unexpected on our moon. The moon trips will have for the most part the purpose of testing the ships and their crews to the other planets.

It is possible that an astronomical observatory may be built on the moon. But we do not expect any great discoveries on the moon itself.

As for the planet Mars, we know that most of it is desert and that it is cold most of the time. But we think we see plants growing on Mars. To investigate life which has accustomed itself to such strange conditions will be very interesting to scientists and probably teach them a great deal.

The planet Venus, on the other hand, is a complete mystery. It is always surrounded by dense clouds and no one has ever succeeded in catching a glimpse of the surface.

Naturally, one would not send a ship with a crew into the unknown—which is Venus.

The idea is to first send an unmanned vehicle, the technical term is a "Planetary Drone," to Venus, have it land automatically, reporting all the time by radio and television what its instruments can feel, hear, and see.

Only then can definite plans be made about landing on Venus.

But it is pretty certain that most people now alive will live to be witnesses to all these coming accomplishments.

From the standpoint of years that it will take to realize these goals, I predict that we will be on the moon in about 10 years, on Mars three to five years later — 1970 to 1973.

The launching of the first earth satellite by the Russians should not cause concern to Americans. We were not in a race to get our moon — "Project Vanguard" — into space in an all-fired hurry. The Russians, it may seem, might have been.

CAUGHT OFF GUARD

We were caught off guard, and with incomplete tracking equipment.

"Project Vanguard" visualized perfect tracking of the satellite. We had established a chain of radio tracking stations down the east coast of North America and on the west coast of South America, which are in the same Meridian.

The radio chain is designed to catch the satellite's radio signal every time it passes overhead.

In addition to this radio chain, we are building a chain for optical tracking with astronomical cameras. This chain will run from Honolulu, New Mexico, Florida, Spain, Tehran, India, and Tokyo, with a few extra stations in South America thrown in.

But this camera-chain is not yet completed, and it was probably felt in Washington that it was no use to shoot a satellite before all the tracking equipment was installed — and in working order.

So, even if we could have launched a moon on Oct. 4, 1957, we may not have done so until our entire operation was in readiness.

The Russians presumably followed a different path of reasoning — of shooting first and observing later.

Naturally the Russian people will be elated by this accomplishment. But what effect it will have on other people remains to be seen.

So, the Russians beat us. But so what?

If Lindbergh hadn't flown the Atlantic, someone else would have. I have not been able to figure out any military implications out of this satellite project. It is purely a scientific feat.

And if the Russians decide not to share whatever scientific knowledge they gain from the first earth satellite, it won't matter either. This information will become known to everyone soon enough. Space, here we come!

What is said to be Indonesia's first palm oil mill has been opened by a Dutch firm 25 miles south of Medan. Construction was started in 1954.

Man Gets to Work Late, Finds Snake in Auto

PENSACOLA, Fla. (U. P.) — Mitchell, commercial manager of radio station WBSR, was three hours late to work and here's why: When he started to get into his automobile a three-foot blacksnake was curled up on the seat. Before he could eject it, the reptile disappeared under the dashboard. Vigorous applications of a hoe, smoke from burning rags and fumes from the exhaust all failed to dislodge the snake. Mitchell finally sent for a can of cyanide gas. When it arrived, the back seat was removed and the slightly dazed snake was found and quickly dispatched. The retina of the human eye is nine layers thick.

They Do It Themselves

RICHMOND, Va. (U. P.) — A do-it-yourself project here saved $200,000. Prisoners at the penitentiary built it — a new dining hall. The new structure provides space for 1,166 prisoners to eat at the same time. It replaces one with space for 700 and eliminates a two-shift basis. Now a major product, liquefied petroleum gas was considered a waste product by refineries 30 or 40 years ago.

Build Cool Model Ship

HALIFAX, N. S. (U. P.) — An ice model of the new Canadian Navy aircraft carrier Bonaventure, displayed at a civic reception for officers of the ship was carved from a 300-pound block of ice.

Aussies Eating Less but Drinking More

CANBERRA — A report by the Australian Bureau of Statistics indicates the average Australian today is twice as thirsty as his pre-World War II counterpart, but he has a smaller appetite.

He now is eating 48 pounds of food a year less than the average for the 1937-38 period. But his consumption of tea, coffee, beer, and wine has increased from 130 pounds yearly to 266 pounds.

Meat remains the average Australian's most popular food, but he is eating 25 pounds a year less now.

He consumes more fish, poultry, sugar, and milk, but eats less fresh fruit and vegetables.

Missile Technologists Study 'Falling Stars'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (U. P.) — Technologists are taking a lesson from nature to perfect long-range missiles. They're studying "falling stars."

Scientists at Battelle Institute here, who are conducting research for the Air Research and Development Command, are studying chunks of metal which have soared for ages through space.

They believe the meteorites will help them find ways to bolster space missiles resistance to severe heat as they re-enter the earth's atmosphere.

Fire Destroys 25 Cars

Russians Allowed Military to Prepare Their Moon

(As started as was most of the world's first moon to successfully launch a satellite into space, the Soviet progress in the field of rockets has been no secret to U.S. intelligence and informed scientists of the world. In this article, second of a series, Martin Caidin, discloses details of the "crash" satellite program that was launched by Russia's triumph.)

By MARTIN CAIDIN

When the Soviet Union decided in 1955 to go ahead with its plans to fire a 134-pound satellite into space at 18,000 miles per hour, things happened with amazing efficiency.

Russian scientists immediately investigated the latest developments in missile weapons to find the rocket that would carry their "sputnik" out of this world.

MOVE BRILLIANT

It was a brilliant move on their part. The Russians considered the American satellite program "Vanguard" as a foolish mistake.

The development of the rocket to launch the American satellite was taken out of the hands of these very companies which were building the largest military rockets in the United States—and the Russians intended to commit no such error.

The Soviets were unimpressed with the news released from the United States that described the Vanguard rocket as strictly a vehicle of science, and entirely removed from any missile program. To the realistic Russian mind this was unimportant. What did it matter where the rocket came from, just so long as it worked?

REDS RIGHT

They were right—their satellite is in space. We were wrong. The Vanguard rocket has yet to be fired.

The immediate military implications of the dazzling Russian success with their satellite overshadows the scientific aspects of the launching.

For the satellite is the grimmest proof that Russian rocket progress has outstripped that of the United States. It is evidence that the Russians have a working Intercontinental Ballistic Missile, a weapon that enjoys tremendous success.

It requires split-second precision engineering control to place a satellite in an orbit. The Russian "moon" is whirling in space in an almost circular orbit. This goal was announced by our scientists as beyond the capabilities of our own Vanguard program for years to come.

But the Russians have done it now! This leads to the inescapable conclusion that not only do the Soviets have the dreaded ICBM, but that their intercontinental war rocket is accurate.

Political leaders around the world have noted this fact with grave alarm. The United States has never even fired in a test a successful Intercontinental Ballistic Missile. The Russians have fired theirs repeatedly.

The United States has achieved success with but a few IRBM's—the Intermediate Range Ballistic Missile. The Russians have for nearly a year fired large numbers of their IRBM weapons, and have achieved excellent accuracy with the rockets.

This is a terrifying fact of life. We have permitted Russian rocket science to leap ahead of our own. For years the Russians have concentrated an enormous effort on missiles. Under the helm of chief marshal of aviation, N. F. Zhigarev, the Russians have made enormous strides in missile research.

Their special weapons chief, General A. S. Yakolov, has pushed the development of missiles past the research stage to where intermediate range ballistic missiles are already being assigned to operational units in the field.

FUNDS SHORT

While American military leaders struggled under slashed missile appropriations and the Department of Defense officially scorned active development of equipment for space flight, Zhigarev and Yakolov put the Russian ICBM on a crash priority basis. This accomplished, they gave crash priority to the development of Soviet space satellites and space weapons.

For years the Russians have test-fired ballistic missiles from the island of Kolguev in the Arctic, near Novaya Zemlya. From this lonely site their IRBM and ICBM rockets have hurtled for thousands of miles to crash into the northwest Pacific sea of Okhotsk, which has been sealed off for many months to all shipping.

Several weeks ago the Russian news agency Tass jubilantly announced the successful development of an "over-continental ballistic missile, capable of delivering a nuclear warhead anywhere in the world."

There is absolutely no reason to doubt this claim.

The Russians have been firing missiles over 1,500 to 2,000 mile ranges for more than a year, and in the last several months their rockets have hurtled at speeds up to 15,000 miles per hour over a range of 5,000 miles.

There is proof that for better than eight months the Russians have had a 1,000-mile range missile in mass production, and that they have delivered it for operational use to their Army field units.

The U. S. Army is testing its "Jupiter." The Air Force tests its "Thor." Both are IRBM's of 1,500-mile range. About three Jupiters have been successful; only one Thor has been fired successfully.

The Russians have launched many "dozens" of IRBM rockets. This is their M-103, a giant missile with a 254,000 pound thrust. It has a range of 1,800 miles. The American Thor and Jupiter are more advanced—but only four have fired successfully.

The M-104 is the Russian ICBM. This, it appears, was the main launching rocket for the Soviet satellite. The United States has launched exactly two ICBM rockets. Both of the giant "Atlas" weapons were destroyed.

Scattered all over Russia are the factories to build their giant rocket weapons. Factory No. 456 in Moscow is a prime source. There is a vast plant in Tomsk. Modern factories have sprung up all over eastern Russia, and a massive assembly area is working full-scale at Komsomolsk on the Amur River. Our intelligence has located many more, all working under crash priority.

In this country, missile research stops at the end of a workday. Factories, laboratories, and testing sites close down for holidays and weekends. To save money, overtime work is not allowed.

It is no surprise to our scientists and engineers that the Russians have stormed into space, while we are busy arguing about appropriations and working hours.

Next! Why the United States failed.)

Device Warns Pilot of Skid Danger

AKRON, Ohio (INS) — Safety engineers have literally gotten to the bottom of things, to keep aircraft pilots on their toes.

The latest warning device is a gimmick that thumps the pilot on the sole of his shoe when it senses an impending skid during a landing.

Projecting through a hole in the brake pedal, the "foot thumper" starts pounding away when a sensory mechanism in the wheel axle detects an abrupt wheel slowdown during a braked stop.

It keeps up the staccato rapping until the pilot eases up on the brake pressure to allow the locked wheel to roll again.

The system was introduced by the aviation products division of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company.

Tourists Seek Exile to Serenity

Reminders of Napoleon Ever Present on Tiny Colorful, Historic Island of Elba

PORTOFERRAIO, Elba—Anyone who has grown weary of the world can take a tip from Napoleon and head for exile in Elba. Today, wayfarers find much in the way of sun and serenity to recommend this rocky island aside from its colorful past.

Elba's chief claim to fame, of course, stems from Napoleon who set up his comic court on the island close to 150 years ago. Although the Little Corporal was a defeated second-hand emperor when he landed at Portoferraio on May 14, 1814, the Elbans set the harbor ablaze with candles and gave him a royal welcome.

Bonaparte ruled Elba for 10 months before he grew restless. During his brief reign, he built Windmill Palace which has now been restored. He also managed to design a summer villa at San Martino where he masqueraded as a country gentleman with a herd of cows, a flock of chickens and a vegetable garden. Meanwhile, he ordered marshes drained and roads built and extended his tiny empire to include the nearby dots of Pianosa and Palmajola.

COVER IN 1 DAY

All of Elba can be toured in a day by car, since the island is only 19 miles long and five miles wide. Napoleon once looked down on Elba from atop Monte Capanne, the island's peak, over half a mile high. Recalling how his realm had dwindled from a sizable slice of Europe to this tiny speck floating in a turquoise sea, he commented dryly: "My empire seems somewhat small."

Despite its pint size, Elba contains a wide range of attractions within less than 100 square miles. Rocky slopes streaked with the red scars of iron deposits form the eastern coast. Hillside to the west are dotted with evergreens and the white villas of wealthy Italians. Broad bays and white sands fringe the northern and southern sides of the island, where sequestered coves make bathing a private-beach affair.

Houses in Portoferraio, Elba's capital, line the horseshoe of hills around the bay like seats in a stadium. Close to the waterfront level lies the palm-shaded public square, where Napoleon mounted the Elban throne and knelt for an inaugural Te Deum.

Aside from Napoleon, the island's illustrious guests include Alexander Dumas. The author arrived with Prince Napoleon Bonaparte, nephew of the Emperor. After a brief stay, Dumas hurried over to examine the sister island of Monte Cristo, a short boat ride away. The literary consequences of this excursion are now well known.

Combs Earth for Treasures

Versailles Restores Former Glory

By EDWARD FORD

VERSAILLES (INS) — Detective work of a unique kind as practiced by a tall, handsome 44-year-old Frenchman is doing wonders in restoring the traditional glory of one of France's greatest monumental treasures.

Millions of dollars in state aid, and the generous contributions of many Americans, among others, is helping revive the artistic splendor that was the Royal Palace at Versailles.

But it has been the passionate dedication and the dogged sleuthing of Head Curator Gerald Van der Kemp, that has guaranteed the best use of these funds.

Endless hours of searching the many National Archives and the French government's warehouse combined with the reading of hundreds of volumes of revolutionary history, has put the "Sherlock Holmes of Versailles" on the trail of many lost and mislaid treasures from the Royal Chateau.

After the revolution, the furnishings and fittings of Versailles were sold to the highest bidder by the Revolutionary Court.

The records of this court have been an important source of information for Van der Kemp.

SEARCH OLD BILLS

Endless and minute searching of the nearly indecipherable bills of sale and the cross matching of even the vaguest clues has enabled the young curator to trace down many of the royal residence's rich furnishings.

These usually turn up in one of three places. Other museums, whose directors understandably are reluctant to part with any of their possessions, public galleries or antique shops, and private homes.

In the first case Van der Kemp can count on the influential aid of his chief, Jacques Bordenave, Under-Secretary of State for Fine Arts and Letters, to help him effect a transfer.

In the second, the young curator, who looks more like a movie star than the head of a great museum, bargains firmly with the owner, unashamedly playing on his artistic conscience. Van der Kemp buys when the price has been adjusted to what he considers fair, paying out of whatever funds he has available. If the exchequer is low, he brings his problems to the attention of a wealthy friend and sooner or later the object shows up at the chateau as a gift.

TURN ON CHARM

When an item has been traced to private ownership, where the offer of money might be offensive, Van der Kemp comes into his own. At this point the personal scholar usually embarks on "Operation Charm."

According to some of the voluntary victims to his persuasive talents, it is not unpleasant to be the object of the curator's campaign. He manages to convince people that they will feel better by doing a great service to France, Versailles, art in general, and their mutual friendship.

Mr. Rush H. Kress, an American art lover and a great friend of the famed chateau and its efficient curator, told International News Service:

"Mr. Van der Kemp is doing wonders at Versailles. 'I may add that he is a very persuasive young man and I find his enthusiasm very contagious.'"

Kress' personal donations to the Chateau include two cabinets of precious woods, inlaid with Sevres porcelain and trimmed in gilded bronze, that belonged to Marie Antoinette.

The tall, youthful director of one of the world's greatest architectural treasures has been Head Curator at Versailles since 1933.

Before that he was an architecture student, and then an artist in the design department of the Louvre.

After his release from German captivity at the time of the Franco-German armistice in 1940, he was put in charge of the Chateau Valenciennes, where the great statuary of the Louvre had been placed for safekeeping.

Later he was transferred to the Chateau Montal where the famous museum's greatest paintings had been stored.

There, during a reprisal raid on the town, he talked the SS captain out of burning the Chateau and another officer out of shooting him as a hostage.

At the liberation of Paris he returned in a truck with one hundred of the Louvre's greatest masterpieces.

Van der Kemp's plans call for more detective work and more painstaking extraction of money from those who can afford it.

He wants to finish the job so that his beloved Versailles can once again reign in splendor over France.

The trend toward do-it-yourself house painting seems greatest in those areas which have seen marked increases in home ownership. Recent polls have shown that 33 per cent of the house paint jobs are being done by the owners themselves. In 1941 this figure was a modest 19 per cent.

HOLDOVER — A glorious veteran of motor racing, this 55-year-old De Dion auto, winner of the 1903 Paris-Madrid race, gets ready for another go on the famous Monza track at Monza, Italy. With Frenchman Francis Rene Ville at the wheel, the ancient racer covered more than 30 laps of the 2½-mile course at an average speed of 51 m. p. h. Even being designated No. 13 didn't seem to daunt the old-timer which came out of the two-hour ordeal at Monza in perfect condition.

There are about 100,000 Euro-Portuguese provinces on the east coast of Mozambique, the coast of Africa.

Bob Considine Says:

Reply to Sputnik; Annual SAC Bomb Drill

NEW YORK (INS) — The Air Force has given a ringing answer to the Russian Rocketeers who have proved they can hang a moon over our cities—a moon that theoretically can say "boom!" instead of "beep."

Strategic Air Command's top B47 and B52 crews, accompanied by RAF crews flying Vulcan and Valiant jet bombers, will open on the night of Oct. 30 a six-day simulated H-bomb attack on three famed target cities.

Minsk? Pinsk? Stalingrad? Nope. Atlanta, St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo.

It's the annual Bombing, Navigation and Reconnaissance Competition. The Georgians and Misourians won't see or hear the planes. They'll fly at better than 40,000 feet, and their "hits" will be recorded by radar from the ground. During the six-day operation the combined strategic forces will fly more than 700,000 miles and carry out 270 bomb drops on each of the three cities.

That'll change Sputnik's tune! Say, there, you chaps who expect to get a look at Queen Elizabeth II and His Royal Highness The Prince Philip. There's been a sticky little change in the schedule. It's best to know, I always say.

The speed of the Royal Vehicle will be stepped up to 30 and maybe even more miles per hour on the drive from Uplands Airport to Government House in Ottawa on Saturday, "in order to permit the Vehicle to travel at a very slow rate of speed through the built-up areas where the largest crowds will assemble." The speed in front of the most people will be eight miles an hour.

Stay away from Montcalm street in Hull, unless you're mad. There's been a change. The Vehicle won't make its arranged U-turn there, after all, as it proceeds along Main street. The U-turn will be at St. Redemptour instead.

Changes in the drives of Saturday and October 16. Instead of using the gates of the Civil Air Terminal, departure from the airfield on Saturday and arrival there on October 16 will be through the gate near the Ottawa Flying Club.

Got that straight now? Goes to show you, though, the incredible amount of detail that go into such a visit. That U-turn probably had to be brought to the attention of Harold Macmillan, just as there had to be documents back and forth between the State Department and the British Foreign Office on her majesty's allergy to shellfish.

The Milwaukee Braves are so sensitive about being called "Bush," during the Milwaukee portion of the series, that there's a report that they'll refuse to play next season in the home of the St. Louis Cardinals — Busch Stadium.

Walter O'Malley saw nothing at Milwaukee that made him want to change his mind about moving the Brooklyn Dodgers to L.A. when they were the Boston Braves, Lou Perini's team seldom made a quarter, often lost tens of thousands. Now they are working a gold mine that shows no sign of ever wearing out. This club is genuinely idolized in Milwaukee, and the fans there have abundantly shown how grateful they are for big league baseball.

Los Angeles will react in the same way. The Dodgers going to L. A. are a better ball club than the Braves who went to Milwaukee. O'Malley leaves with no regrets. He takes along our best wishes, and we hope he got everything he demanded of the Los Angeles city fathers — including ambergris rights to all whales who beach themselves within a radius of 50 miles around home plate.

A modern researchplane can fly 5½ miles in 12 seconds.

Coty Resumes Search Today

Has No Candidate Yet; Plevin Gives Up Trying to Solve French Crisis

PARIS (U)—President Rene Coty today resumed his search for a new French premier after Rene Plevin abandoned his attempt to end the 10-day Cabinet crisis by forming a government.

Sources close to the President said Coty had no likely candidate in mind to head France's 24th postwar government.

The political crisis provoked by the parliamentary defeat of Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury deepened with failure of Coty's second choice to win enough support in the National Assembly.

The President's first nominee, Socialist Guy Mollet, refused even to try to form a Cabinet.

Plevin, a member of the Small Democratic and Socialist Union of Resistance, gave up last night after 36 hours. He said he quit because the Radical Socialists of Bourges-Maunoury, who is serving as caretaker premier, refused to back his program.

Plevin had demanded that all parties except the Communists and the extreme-right Pouladists join his Cabinet and unite in a one-year political truce.

Ghana Minister With Ike, Nixon for Breakfast

WASHINGTON (U)—President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon breakfast today with Ghana's Finance Minister K. A. Gbedemah, barred from a Dover, Del., restaurant because of his color.

Howard Cook, who operates the restaurant under a Howard Johnson franchise, confirmed that Gbedemah and his secretary, also a Negro, were told by a waitress they couldn't eat in the restaurant. Cook said he was not on hand at the time and that he regretted the incident.

Gbedemah, accepting Eisenhower's breakfast invitation, said he thought he would forget about an official protest he had been contemplating.

The State Department, without waiting for any protest, sent a formal note of apology to the Ghana Embassy here.

Howard Johnson personally telephoned his apologies to Gbedemah.

In Quincy, Mass., a spokesman for the restaurant chain said his company believes in serving everyone. He said the restaurant in Dover has been advised of that policy, but added that in franchised restaurants the chain controls only the food and the architectural appearance of the buildings.

The finance minister obviously was pleased by Eisenhower's bid, and he said regarding the Dover episode, "I don't think it will affect our (U.S.-Ghana) relations in any way whatsoever."

'Amnesia Husband' Dies of Heart Attack

LOS ANGELES (U)—Five months after her marriage in 1942, something went wrong with Mrs. Henry Miller's memory. She couldn't remember her husband, didn't even know her own identity.

After 10 cloudy months — during which Miller became known as the "amnesia husband" — she finally recalled the marriage, threw her arms around her husband. They vowed nothing would ever separate them again.

And nothing did until yesterday, when Mrs. Miller, now 37, found her 58-year-old husband dead in their apartment. He had suffered a heart seizure.

Hawk. Both are powered by a V-8 supercharged 283-cubic inch engine generating 275 horsepower.

Dealers in this area are Koss & Printz Motor Sales, at 7675 Highland Rd., and Mazurek Motor Sales, at 245 E. South Blvd.

Go on Display Oct. 15; Packard Hawk to Join Line for Next Year

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — A wider look — combined with a lower and flared silhouette — highlights the styling features of the new 1958 Studebaker sedans and station wagons which will be introduced to the public Oct. 15 in dealer showrooms across the country.

The new Packard Hawk will also make its debut at this time — joining Studebaker — Packard's Golden Hawk and Silver Hawk for 1958, which with 14-inch wheels comprise one of the lowest series of cars on the road.

In November, two sleek completely new models will be introduced into the Studebaker line — the lines of Studebaker-Packard two-door hardtop in both the President and Commander series.

Chief characteristics of the new Studebakers are dual headlamps, lowered roof line and high, cantilevered rear fins.

The new Packard Hawk blends the lines of Studebaker-Packard's Hawk styling with a new European concept, in keeping with Packard's classic styling.

The rear deck flows out and down, giving a long, symmetrical appearance — with a Continental tire motif cresting and accentuating the lines.

Dealers also will display the 1958 version of the popular Scotsman models which scored such a sensational success as a 1957 model in Studebaker — Packard's line-up of fine cars.

The crisp and clean lines have been continued, along with economy of operation and maintenance that attracted purse-wise buyers last spring and summer.

To mark the discovery of aniline dyes in 1856, India will hold a dyestuffs show.

True Interracial Harmony Keep Store for Japanese

CALIPATRIA, Calif. — Japanese-born Takeo Momita is a druggist in this Imperial Valley community of some 2,500 persons.

While driving with his wife to visit a married daughter in Los Angeles last Saturday, Momita was involved in a head-on collision.

His wife Shizuko, 50, was killed.

A delegation of friends and city officials called on Momita at a hospital, where he was recovering from lacerations and shock.

"Give us the keys to your store," said Mayor Edward Rademacher. "We'll keep things going until you get back on your feet."

Townfolk took turns running Momita's drugstore. They kept it operating just as if he were there. Chester Thompson, druggist in nearby Brawley, came over a few hours a day and worked in the pharmacy department.

Momita, 56, an American citizen for three years, has been operating the store since shortly after World War II. He spent the war with his family in a relocation camp near Poston, Ariz., as part of the government's program for persons of Japanese ancestry. Momita, born in Hiroshima, came under the program even though he had been in the United States since 1908.

Today Momita is recuperating at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Louise Kikawa in Gardena, a suburb of Los Angeles.

Mayor Rademacher said the townsfolk will continue to run his store until he is well enough to take over.

"This is not like the Little Rock story," the mayor said. "It is the story of the better side of our life that too often is not presented."

"It's good to know you're part of the community," said Momita.

Fog Halts Attempts to See Red Moon

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — A thick fog along the coast today blanked out for the second day in a row moon watchers' attempts to catch a glimpse of the Russian satellite.

Despite the fog, the Cambridge moon watch team atop the Harvard College Observatory building turned out in the early morning darkness and set up their telescopes for the 6:40 a. m. passage of the satellite.

On this circuit, the satellite, traveling in a northwest to southeast direction, shot over Nova Scotia off to the northeast of Boston.

In its hour-and-a-half swing around the world the satellite will make another early morning trip over eastern United States. But its trip this time some 10 to 15 minutes after 8 a. m. could not be seen because of daylight.

VFW Observer Says Fuss Over Girard Needless

HONOLULU — A Veterans of Foreign Wars senior vice commander says repercussions in Japan from the "Girard incident" were unnecessary. He blames the U.S. Army for most of the trouble.

John Mahan of Helena, Mont., the VFW official, went to Japan to represent the organization at the trial of Army Specialist William S. Girard, who killed Mrs. Naka Sakai with a blank cartridge as she was picking up brass scraps on a U.S. firing range.

Mahan said if the Army had gone immediately to Mrs. Sakai's family, apologized and offered to help, the Japanese people might never have demanded Girard's trial in Japanese courts.

Mahan left last night for Washington to report to legislative representatives of the VFW.

To Signal in Code Only Over Russia

Sputnik May Have Several Eyes, Ears to Study Meteors, Magnetism Changes

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—Russian reports now suggest that their moon carries several eyes and ears to explore secrets of space and earth.

It would be radioing back in various Soviet reports indicate code what it learns.

Sputnik is measuring temperatures in space, meteors, changes in magnetism, and perhaps cosmic rays.

At first Sputnik was said to carry only batteries and radio equipment so it could send out signals needed to learn its path or orbit. A Russian rocket scientist, Dr. A. A. Blagonravov, attending a meeting in Washington said he thought it was a simple moon, doing only that job.

But he said Russia had two moons ready to shoot at the time. And it's possible the first Sputnik to go aloft was the more complex one.

Now Dr. Blagonravov says he thinks the moon is measuring temperatures in space.

Earlier a Russian scientist in Moscow said it was counting hits by meteors in space.

It would have to radio such information back in code.

U. S. scientists say Sputnik's signals seem to contain a code, known only to the Russians.

This code seems to be broadcast continuously. The Russians could also send a command signal for Sputnik to talk to earth only when it is passing over Russia.

Now Russia radio says Sputnik is learning new things about the electro-magnetic south pole.

How this information is being learned by Soviet scientists

Unemployment Higher in August

Pontiac Area Notes Drop of 7,000 Due to Model Changes

Between mid-August and mid-September employment in the Pontiac area dropped 1,300 due chiefly to automobile model changes, the Pontiac branch of the Michigan Employment Security Commission reported.

These changes amounted to a 1,200 decline, while smaller losses of 100 occurred in machinery and metal-industry plants.

Employment in non-manufacturing firms increased slightly. Retail trade jumped 200, while construction work picked up 100.

Unemployment at mid-September was estimated at 7,000, up 1,100 from the August level, Paul Kimball, branch manager said.

"Currently the unemployed make up 8.3 per cent of the total labor force of 80,000," he said. "This compares with 7.3 per cent in August and 8.9 per cent in September of 1956."

Claims for unemployment insurance, because of the model change layoffs, was at the highest level since October, 1956. During September, the Pontiac office issued 14,710 checks totaling $512,592. This compares to 11,494 checks worth $396,294 issued in August.

tracking Sputnik in the Antarctic is not explained.

Sputnik might carry a magnetometer to measure changes in the earth's magnetic field. A planned U. S. moon will do this.

Or some information might be learned by the way the radio waves broadcast by Sputnik beamed as they came to earth near the magnetic pole.

During Past Two Years

Report 80 Pct. Reduction in Paralytic Polio Cases

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Folsom today reported a dramatic 80 per cent reduction in paralytic polio in this country over the past two years.

A sharp decline was noted also in the less severe nonparalytic cases.

Folsom said the success of Salk polio vaccine provides the means for "a knockout blow" to the disease next year if the millions of Americans under 40 who still have not done so will get the full three recommended doses.

He spoke out in a statement launching a new program to encourage use of the vaccine.

He reported that the number of paralytic polio cases this year up through Sept. 28 was only 1,576, compared with 7,896 two years ago, before widespread use of the Salk vaccine, and 5,241 cases up to this time in 1956.

A check of records showed deaths from polio in the first seven months of this year were estimated at 130, compared with an estimated 220 for the similar 1956 span and an actual 257 in the corresponding 1955 period.

"If people will use the vaccine available, it is possible to give paralytic polio a knockout blow within the next year," Folsom said.

Statistics showed there had been

Filipinos Restricted in Travel to Japan

MANILA (AP)—The Philippine government today restricted travel of Filipinos to Japan. Informed sources said many reports had been received of discrimination against Philippine nationals in Tokyo.

A government announcement said Filipinos would be allowed to visit Japan "only for official business and for exceptionally meritorious cases." It explained the action was taken "to minimize the occurrence of unpleasant incidents affecting Filipino travelers."

In Tokyo, Japanese Foreign Office sources said the office could recall no cases of discrimination against Filipinos.

"The Japanese government does not have any intention of discriminating against citizens of the Philippines," one official said.

The nation's hunters and fishermen spend a total of more than $30,000,000 a year for their fees alone. No fewer than 35,000,000 licenses are issued in the 48 states each year.

General Slips Out of Norway

West German Speidel Avoids Protests About His Nazi Days

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Gen. Hans Speidel slipped out of Norway today after an overnight visit without encountering demonstrators protesting his service under Hitler.

Speidel, West Germany's top military man who now commands NATO ground forces in central Europe, flew from Ryege Air Force Base, 50 miles from Oslo. He landed there yesterday to avoid a crowd waiting to demonstrate at the Oslo airport.

Speidel was traveling with French Gen. Jean Valtzy, his NATO superior. The group drove out to the air base at such speed that they shook off newsmen. However, there was no crowd at the Oslo airport, where the generals were scheduled to leave an hour later.

On his northern tour Speidel

Junior Ad Unit Eyes Advertising in Outer Space

DETROIT (AP)—The opening of the space frontier is not going to catch the Junior Advertising Club of Detroit by surprise.

Club officials announced yesterday that they will launch an immediate study of advertising in outer space.

Rex Clavola, club president, declared "a code of ethics must be developed before we find ourselves swamped with such problems as satellites broadcasting recorded commercials, blinking satellites with messages readable from earth and billboard rental space on the moon."

had been booted in Copenhagen, which Nazi forces also occupied during World War II.

About 5,000 persons demonstrated in Oslo yesterday against his visit and workers staged brief protest strikes throughout the country.

Speidel was jailed by the Nazis after the July 20, 1944, bomb plot against Hitler. He was teaching history when the West German government called him back into uniform in 1950.

Pacific Fleet to Get A-Sub Within Year

HONOLULU (AP)—Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of U. S. Naval Operations, says the Pacific fleet should have an atomic-powered submarine within a year. He said the sub is being commissioned tomorrow at Mare Island Shipyard, Vallejo, Calif.

Burke leaves today for Japan, Okinawa, Taiwan and Korea.

The admiral said there was "a very great possibility" Russia already has nuclear powered submarines as effective as America's. He also said the Soviets have been working on an atomic-powered icebreaker, the Lenin, for about three years.

All You Need Is Long-Range Lens and Sun Tan Oil

Missile Snooping a Snap at Cocoa Beach

OUTWARD BOUND — Missile spots test area on Florida's map.

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. —(NEA)—Ideal working conditions appear to exist here for Red espionage agents seeking to filch America's ballistic missile secrets.

To get good sharp pictures of missiles before launching or in flight all an agent needs is a long-range lens for his camera and sun tan oil to keep from getting burned.

A hamper of caviar sandwiches and a thermos of vodka martinis does well for nourishment while he waits on the cool white Cocoa Beach for a firing.

If an agent misses the word of an approaching shot — common gossip in the area — he periodically glances at the 90-foot pole on the beach at Cape Canaveral. They hoist a huge yellow ball atop it to warn nearby boats of an upcoming test.

When the outdoor spying palls our agent can turn to the scores of good bars and restaurants along this fine vacation beach to eavesdrop on conversations. These spots are frequented by the top U. S. missile experts, either visiting or stationed here.

Unfortunately, America lacks the huge wasteland for test firings which is available in Russia. As a result, firing missiles over water from a land base such as Canaveral presents some security disadvantages.

Patrick AFB itself is 18 miles south and apart from the Cape Canaveral area where the launching pads, control block houses and missile assembly areas are located.

Patrick is merely a cluster of one and two story frame and cinder-block office buildings and a big air field, making up the administrative unit for the Air Force Missile Test Center.

Patrick is in the center of the state on the Atlantic coast between Melbourne and Cocoa Beach.

Famed scenic highway A1A runs between the beach and the base and is open to anyone. It's no more difficult for a visitor. It's no more Patrick than it is to get into any Air Force installation.

It's the Cape, the business end of the installation, which is probably the most heavily-guarded piece of sand in the world. Canaveral is 12,160 acres of flat land covered with typical Florida scrub vegetation. It's shaped like a nose and surrounded by a high, heavily-patrolled fence, except along the beach.

Air Force police and a civilian force of more than 300 uniformed guards make up for the "natural" security weaknesses of the site. Patrols constantly move up and down the unfenced beach. A study is under way to use dogs with these patrols.

Elaborate security investigations are made on all employees before they can even get inside the first gate. After that an employee only gets a badge which will permit him to enter that particular section of the Cape where he works.

Inside the main fence there are many fenced-off, restricted sections. Inside these sections there are guarded buildings. Inside the buildings there are restricted offices. You've got to have the right marks on your badge to get past each guard at each security barrier.

When a missile is moved out to a launching pad in preparation for firing it is kept shrouded with canvas for as long as possible. Guards around the pads are then tripled and maintained 24 hours. There has been no attempt at sabotage and no discovered attempt at espionage inside or near Canaveral, officials claim.

An armed defense plan is in constant readiness in the event of a major attack on the area from sea or land. It is surprised at least once a week.

Except that it gives the Russians a fair report on America's missile progress, officials here aren't too worried about the fact that the tests can be observed from the nearby public beaches.

There are numerous clues to tip off reporters and persons living around here about upcoming tests. Motors of all missiles are test fired on the ground a week or several days before a launching. The special sound or size of the roar is a good indication of the type of missile about to go.

Several days before a firing, out of town officials begin arriving at the motels and hotels. The firms they are known to represent give an indication of the specific missile to be tested.

Just prior to a firing, when the shrouds are removed from a missile, there are several time indicators. The yellow ball goes up on the tower several hours before a shot. The crash boats go out a little later.

When white vapor comes out of the missile it's a matter of minutes before the missile goes.

By that time the beaches are usually crowded with hundreds of "birdwatchers," as the spectators are called. During these periods government investigators mingle with the crowd. They politely get names, snap pictures and take license numbers of cars parked nearby.

"Just checking," explains a security official.

"BIRDWATCHERS" AT COCOA BEACH — All you need is a long-range lens and sun tan oil.

Back Into Soviet Orbit Attempts to Entice Tito

By KENNETH C. DONOGHUE
INS Staff Writer

Russia's Marshal Georgi Zhukov, blunt-spoken but shrewd Soviet defense minister, may be able to capitalize on Yugoslavia's internal troubles during his current visit to President Tito.

Tito, just as blunt-spoken, would be tough to bamboozle. But he ought to be impressed by a Zhukov argument which goes like this:

STAY FRIENDS
"Look, you've been trying to stay friends with both us and the west. Then this Milovan Djilas writes a book and you have to try him for your own preservation. The imperialists don't understand and you lose prestige when Djilas is convicted and sentenced."

"But we understand. And approve. Why not get off that fence and come back on our side? Be our partner. We've got this earth satellite and the intercontinental ballistic missile and there's plenty more to come."

It is unlikely, despite all those honeyed words of Russo-Yugoslav "friendship" uttered on Zhukov's arrival in Belgrade yesterday, that Tito would do Russia's bidding at this time.

TITO TEMPTED
But Tito might be tempted. If he were not a convinced Marxist Communist he might realize that many people formerly friendly to Yugoslavia believe that Tito proved Djilas' charges by putting his former vice president on trial.

Djilas' sensational book, "The New Class" (which is banned in Yugoslavia), says that communists governments become more tyrannical and corrupt than those they overthrow. He was not speaking specifically about Yugoslavia, he said, but he obviously was not excluding her, either.

So Tito, who probably would have been a lot smarter if he merely had banished the pesky Djilas, then accused Djilas, tried him behind closed doors and made sure his judges imposed a stiff sentence. Readers of "The New Class" could have predicted it all.

The London correspondent of the Yugoslav newspaper Politika wrote recently to Britain's respected Manchester Guardian to claim that Yugoslavia does not, in fact, have to choose between East and West.

He mentions that Yugoslavs are free to read foreign books and newspapers and listen to foreign radio broadcasts.

But this "freedom" contains a threat to Tito: People who are allowed to think freely eventually will want to speak freely.

The guardian says Titoism is suffering from hardening of the arteries. One wonders what treatment Doctor Zhukov may recommend.

Enrollment Record Set

HOUGHTON — President J. R. Van Pelt reported that Michigan Tech enrolled a record-breaking total of 2,805 students this fall. This is a 10 per cent increase over 1956.

Zhukov to Inspect Yugoslav Troops

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (U)—Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov arrived by train today in Zagreb on the first leg of his tour of northwestern Yugoslavia.

In the area west of Zagreb, Zhukov will witness maneuvers by Yugoslav troops on what was described as a limited scale. The troops likely will be using American-supplied equipment.

Zhukov already has seen American F84 and F86 jet fighters in Belgrade. About 50 of the planes were lined up at the military Batajnica Airport, where he landed Tuesday. There is some reason to speculate they were there for his benefit.

A artificial island is being built 25 miles off Borneo's coast for drilling for oil beneath the seabed, Bandjermasin reports.

Army Official in Berlin

BERLIN (U)—Frank H. Higgins, U.S. assistant Army secretary, arrived by air today for a three-day tour of American Army installations in West Berlin. Higgins, who deals mainly with supply problems, is on a tour of Western Europe.

About 88 per cent of all the coal mined in the U. S. comes from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia.

SHOT IN THE ARM for an Indian boy is administered by a U. S. Public Health Service nurse at a reservation clinic.

Better Health for Indians Is Long, Costly Process

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Public Health Service is supplying medical arms to the Indians in a desperate attempt to drive off mass attacks of disease which have been sweeping over the reservations for years.

Until their health arsenals are sufficiently stocked with the white man's medicine, Indians will remain a generation behind the rest of the nation's population in the race to control disease.

Sixty-five out of every 1,000 Indian babies will die before their first birthday. Children under 5 years of age will make up one-third of all Indian deaths. And those who survive childhood will die at the average age of 39.

These PHS casualty statistics add up to the fact that the American Indians are suffering from the poorest health of any racial group in the United States, despite their outdoor life in the great open spaces.

CAUSE OBVIOUS
Doctors have to take only one look at an Indian village to learn what is causing the high death and disease rates.

Thousands of Indians barely exist on some of the most desolate, barren land in the nation. Many live in crude one room hovels made out of dirt, logs and rocks, which sometimes house as many as four people.

Water is often too scarce to permit proper cleanliness. And contaminated water is used for drinking and cooking.

In addition, a lack of education which prevents Indians from understanding the causes of disease, leaves them wide open for attack.

These conditions help explain why illnesses which no longer pose a major threat to other people kill many Indians each year.

When the PHS Division of Indian Health took control of the problem, it immediately started to increase the number of hospitals above the 56 used to care for Indians and Alaskan natives.

BUILD HOSPITALS
Work is under way on a new 200-bed hospital in Gallup, N. M. Three others are being built to replace older ones. And architects are designing plans for a dozen new health centers to handle outpatient care.

Efforts have also been made to place Indians in more non-federal hospitals. So far the government has contracts with about 160 local hospitals in the United States and Alaska.

Since PHS started its work the number of personnel involved in Indian health has increased from 3,574 to 4,604.

Doctors are already starting to win a victory in the fight against tuberculosis. One physician reports that for the first time hospitals have more beds ready for tuberculosis cases than they have patients to fill them.

But this is just a start in the difficult job of actual medical treatment and teaching Indians disease prevention. To complete the job, PHS says more doctors, hospitals and money are needed.

When the program gets into full swing within 5 to 10 years, PHS estimates about 70 million dollars a year will be required to operate it properly.

Judge Restrains Family

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. — Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Howard went to court to seek an order to restrain eight of their 10 sons from annoying them or making remarks about them in public. Common Pleas Judge John W. Daniel entered an order in the case, prohibiting among other things, the use of strong language toward one another in public.

Hope Springs Eternal . . .

COPENHAGEN—Drilling for oil has been going on in Denmark for nearly a generation, with no discovery but salt. Geologists are generally doubtful that oil will ever be found, but oil firms have not given up hope. A new Danish-American company is concentrating on strata 1½ miles deep. Previous drillings have gone down nearly two miles.

Hal Boyle Says:

America Needs 'Pill-Takers Anonymous'

NEW YORK — Sidewalk scrawls of a pavement Plato: America, the richest country on earth, is also the land of the half-well.

It has millions of people who dwell in twilight health — they aren't sick enough to go to a hospital and they aren't well enough to feel good.

They are chronically fatigued and feel sure there must be something seriously wrong with them. But in a majority of cases the only thing wrong with them is themselves, and their bad living habits which—let's face it—would kill an Alredale or break down a bluff.

So what do they do? They take a pill...another pill...and still another pill. Pills, capsules, tablets—every year they spew out of the machines and down the gutters of half-ailing Americans by the millions and billions. And to what effect? A remarkably small one, many honest doctors would be the first to agree.

The most persistent delusion of many otherwise sensible people is that the fountain of health lies in a well-stocked medicine cabinet.

Actually, what this country needs is an organization called "Pill-Takers Anonymous," composed of people who have broken themselves of the habit of taking pills and potions needlessly.

The pill-taking habit, if overdone, is in its way as harmful as excessive smoking or drinking. The reason: It hurls people into a false sense of well-being, prevents them from making the changes in their living habits that alone can restore them to real health. (I am speaking, of course, not of pills prescribed for genuine organic ailments, but pills for "that tired feeling.")

Recently a friend of mine who was taking 13 pills a day (thyroid pills, vitamin pills, pep pills, tranquilizer pills, and a pill to make his body shed fluids faster) became extremely nervous and decided he was "over-medicated." "I went to another doctor, a general practitioner too busy to give sympathy," he said, "and was told that all I needed was to take off some weight and live like my grandfather had—simply."

"So I threw away all my pill bottles. Every one. I went on a diet, cut down on my drinking, got more sleep and started walking home from work every night. I feel better now than I have for 20 years. And because I feel better I don't worry like I used to." The average middle-aged pill-taking American who has nothing seriously wrong with him can achieve the same result the same way. Aristotle gave the key to healthful living long ago: "Moderation."

Pills are in too many cases merely a kind of crutch, a form of bottled psychiatry which can often hurt more than help. Here is the prescription that will put more zing into living for America's jittery pill prisoners than all the wonder drugs ever invented:

1. Quit feeling sorry for yourself. Self-pity will make even a whale sick.
2. Get an hour more sleep every night.
3. Eat only the foods you tell your kids are good for them.

4. Spend at least half an hour a day in some kind of moderate exercise—even if it consists only of patting yourself on the back.
5. Never take a pill except when you have a nosebleed. The pill won't help the nosebleed, but on the other hand do most of the pills you gulp now do any more to make you really healthier?

Schedules 3 Workshops

BIG RAPIDS — Ferris Institute has scheduled three workshops starting Oct. 17 for 107 township clerks from Isabella, Lake, Mecosta, Montcalm, Newaygo and Oscoda counties on records and financial account procedures. County clerks also have been invited to the sessions.

Eyes School Relations

ANN ARBOR — Dean Ralph A. Sawyer of the University of Michigan's Horace R. Rackham School of Graduate Studies is a member of a panel discussing relationships of undergraduate and graduate schools at a meeting today and Friday of the American Council on Education in Washington.

'Island' a Fallacy

NEW IBERIA, La. — An "island" that is not really an island lies near New Iberia. Part of Avery Island rises 196 feet above sea level and is completely surrounded by sea marsh and swampy thickets. During the Civil War, salt was quarried there for the Confederates.

Jerry Giesler Famed Lawyer

Sought by Stars, Makes Headlines Regularly; Inspired by Darrow

NEW YORK — Harold Lee Giesler, who signs himself "Jerry," is a soft-voiced, solemn-visaged Los Angeles of 67 who is regarded as the dean of all criminal lawyers now practicing in the United States.

According to an article about him in a recent issue of a national magazine, Giesler has one of the shrewdest legal minds the country has ever produced. With it he reputedly earns well over $150,000 a year, and it has made him famous, much to his distaste. But, because he is sought out by movie stars as soon as they get into trouble of any kind, his name is in the headlines regularly.

Giesler admits that at one time or another he has represented nearly every important movie personage since the days before Mack Sennett arrived. He has also defended scores and scores of unknowns.

In standing for more than 100 people accused of murder, he has never lost out to the state gas chamber, and only one was sent up for life. Among his colleagues he is immensely popular, although some of his courtroom maneuvers have sent his opponents into paroxysms of frustrated rage.

Giesler was born in 1890 in tiny Wilton Junction, 25 miles west of Davenport, Iowa. He grew up in a town called Muscatine. When he was about 14, he became fascinated by stories he read about Clarence Darrow, and resolved that he too would some day be a criminal lawyer. Some years later, during his first courtroom appearance, Giesler found himself defending the very man whose career had originally inspired him to study law.

Today, Giesler and his second wife like to stay at home and entertain their friends at small dinner parties. He reads a good deal and every now and then considers writing his memoirs. Publishers have offered large sums for them, but so far he has refused, saying it would not be the proper thing to do while he is still in practice.

BISCUIT VARIATIONS — With packages of prepared biscuits you can make up all kinds of fancy breadstuffs for dinner or luncheon. Cheese, garlic, poppy or other seeds all contribute flavor to interestingly shaped rolls. They're a cinch to prepare.

Package Biscuits Change Into Flower Like Rolls

The answer to instantly made biscuits, rolls and other bread varieties is to be found in packaged plain or buttermilk prepared biscuits... and a group of newly developed recipes. The modern home-baked main course rolls are as easy to make as they are to eat.

No need to make the dough. Instead, get the ready-to-use prepared biscuits available in your local food store's dairy case.

To shape eye-catching and taste-appealing individual rolls suitable for main course service is simplicity itself. A snip of your kitchen scissors, a roll of the hand or a twist of the fingers will do the trick.

To vary flavors, use both plain and buttermilk prepared biscuits and merely add salt, seeds, cheese or other simple ingredients to suit your taste.

Snappy Cheese Biscuit Twists
2 packages plain or buttermilk biscuits
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 cup grated (4½-oz. package) sharp natural cheddar cheese

Roll each biscuit between hands to 8½-inch length. Take two lengths of dough. Press top end of each together firmly. Twist one length around the other and press bottom ends together. Place on aluminum foil-covered baking sheet. Repeat for remaining biscuits.

Brush with melted butter; sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake in very hot oven (450 degrees) about 10 minutes, or until golden brown. Makes 10 twists.

Note: To make smaller twists, cut each biscuit in half. Roll each half to 4½-inch length. Proceed as above.

Crispcross Garlic Rolls
2 tablespoons butter
1 clove garlic
1 package plain or buttermilk biscuits

Melt butter with garlic clove. Remove garlic clove. Arrange biscuits in ungreased 8-inch layer pan with sides touching. With kitchen scissors, snip a crisscross into top of each biscuit. Brush tops with garlic butter. Bake in very hot oven (450 degrees) 8 to 10 minutes, or until golden brown. Makes 10 rolls.

Crispcross Seeded Rolls
1 package plain or buttermilk biscuits
2 tablespoons butter, melted
Croutons salt
Poppy, caraway, celery or onion seeds

Remove only one portion at a time from refrigerator. Shape about ½ teaspoon dough into a ball; place on well-greased baking sheet. Flatten with the bottom of a well-floured glass to 1-1½ inch thickness.

Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about five minutes or until edges are lightly browned. Remove from baking sheet immediately. Variations: Sprinkle some of the cookies with sugar or a cinnamon and sugar mixture before baking.

Bacon drippings may be used for frying breaded veal chops.

Plenty of Protein in This Recipe

Keeping weight down and interest in low-calorie nutritious foods is important for all dieters. It's a neat trick but it can be done easily and with good taste.

Cereal and milk are two highly acceptable foods from both the taste and nutrition angles. Combined in a dish, these foods offer valuable protein, the B vitamins, calcium, iron, and other essential nutrients. Eating them together at breakfast is a long-time favorite but try them combined in main dishes for a new exciting experience.

Here is a chicken main dish using instant non-fat dry milk and cuts. The flavor is wonderful and the calorie count is interestingly reduced.

Chicken and Ham on Biscuits
3 cups liquidized instant non-fat dry milk
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon pepper
1 cup sliced cooked chicken
1½ cup sliced cooked ham
½ cup raisins
1 tablespoon parsley flakes
24 junior-size shredded wheat biscuits

Four milk in top of double boiler. Mix flour, salt, ginger, pepper together and sprinkle over surface of milk. Beat until well mixed. Cook over hot water stirring constantly until thickened. Stir in chicken, ham, raisins, parsley flakes and continue to cook for 5 minutes. Serve over shredded wheat biscuits. Makes 8 servings. Each serving is about 235 calories.

Helps to Unmold Gelatin
To unmold salads and desserts made with unflavored gelatin, dip the mold in warm or hot water for a few seconds. Next, loosen around edge of gelatin with tip of a paring knife. Place serving dish on top of mold and turn upside down. Shake, holding serving dish tightly to the mold. Carefully lift off mold.

Cooking liver and bacon? Cook the bacon first, then use half-bacon fat and half-butter for sautéing the liver.

Flatten Cookies With a Glass

Here's a recipe that makes seven and a half dozen—that's 50—cookies that are as crisp and delicate as the most elaborate rolled cookie, delicious and eye appealing to boot. But you can make them in almost no time, for they are flattened to thin roundness with the bottom of a floured tumbler after you plop bits of the cookie dough on a greased baking sheet.

Old Fashioned Cookies
¾ cup sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter, melted
½ cup (½ 16-oz. can) sweetened condensed milk
2-3 cup dark brown sugar, firmly packed

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together into large bowl. Make a well in center of dry ingredients; add remaining ingredients. Beat until thoroughly blended. Divide dough into three parts; wrap each in waxed paper. Chill in refrigerator about 2 hours.

Remove only one portion at a time from refrigerator. Shape about ½ teaspoon dough into a ball; place on well-greased baking sheet. Flatten with the bottom of a well-floured glass to 1-1½ inch thickness.

Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about five minutes or until edges are lightly browned. Remove from baking sheet immediately. Variations: Sprinkle some of the cookies with sugar or a cinnamon and sugar mixture before baking.

Bacon drippings may be used for frying breaded veal chops.

Frozen Corn Ideal to Use in Fritters

When you have corn on your freezer shelf you can make these fritters.

Corn Fritters
1 box quick-frozen corn (thawed)
Milk or buttermilk
3 tablespoons butter or margarine (melted)
½ cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon double-acting baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 egg
Maple-blended syrup

Drain thawed corn in strainer, pressing slightly against sides. Measure liquid and add enough milk or buttermilk to make 3 tablespoons. Leave corn in kernels or chop.

Mix drained corn and melted butter. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and pepper together; mix thoroughly with corn and butter. Add the 3 tablespoons milk mixture and stir until smooth. Meanwhile beat eggs with rotary beater (hand or electric) until thick and pale-colored; fold into corn mixture.

Bake fritters on hot well-greased griddle. Serve hot with maple-blended syrup. Makes 10 to 12 fritters.

Coarsely Ground Meat Best for Broiled Patties

Did you ever have a meat retailer ask you if you preferred your meat ground once or twice? If you were wondering why, here's the reason!

If you are planning to use ground meat for tender, juicy patties that are broiled, have him grind it coarsely. Double or triple grindings are fine for meat loaves and small meat balls.

Extra Cooked Spuds Creamed in Oven

Cook extra potatoes and use them this good and nutritious way.

Baked Cream Potatoes
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
2 cups sliced cooked pared potatoes
Salt, pepper
1 pound thinly-sliced cheddar cheese

Melt butter in a 1- or 1½-quart saucepan over low heat; blend in flour thoroughly. Add milk all at once; cook and stir constantly over moderately low heat until thickened and bubbly. Mix tightly with sliced potatoes in a 1½-quart shallow baking dish, adding salt and pepper to taste.

Arrange the thin slices of cheese over the top. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven until cheese melts — 20 to 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Deep Fat Fry Spears of White Asparagus

Deep-fat fried foods made with lard always taste just right, and are economical, too! Try these deep-fat-fried asparagus spears... they're a delightful treat for fall meals.

Drain 1 can (1 pound) of white asparagus tips. Season with salt and pepper. Beat 1 egg slightly and combine with the asparagus liquid. Dip the spears in the egg and then in fine dry cracker crumbs. Chill. Fry in deep hot lard at 365 degrees F. until golden brown. Serve immediately.

A liberal sprinkling of marjoram through canned apple sauce turns it into a relish to serve with lamb chops. And very good, too!

Simple Rules Suggested for Meal Strategy

Reba Staggs, home economist well versed in the field of meat and meat cookery, suggests you keep these few meal preparation suggestions in mind for your own convenience.

You'll find that if you refer to them often, they'll become part of your meal planning strategy.

1. Learn a different meat cut every time you go to the market. It'll add variety to the more than 1,000 meals you prepare each year.
2. For safe and sane reducing, follow a high protein meat diet.
3. Learn that simplicity is the key to garnishes, as well as fashionable dress.
4. Always use a low temperature when cooking meat.
5. Always cook all fresh pork cuts to the well-done stage.
6. When carving, always cut across the grain except when carving steaks. When carving steaks, always cut with the grain.
7. To add spice to your meal-time planning, learn how to incorporate the wide variety of canned meat items in your menu schedule.

Avocados Are Tops

Avocados are soft and non-irritating; ideal for bland diets. The fruit is high in protein content and may be substituted for animal protein at a doctor's suggestion in the treatment of certain diseases. Florida avocados, in season during fall and winter months, provide pleasant variety to a number of dishes.

SAUCEPAN SORCERY — A simple method for making cookies is the saucepan method. You melt the shortening and finish mixing the cookies right in the same pan. Two different varieties are shown here and recipes for them are in the accompanying article. Try them soon for the family and for lunch boxes.

Bit of Saucepan Sorcery Saves Steps and Dishes

Keeping the cookie jar filled these days is no trick at all if you use a little saucepan sorcery. This kind of sorcery meets with everyone's approval from mother right on down. The idea is to use as few steps and dishes as possible. In fact the same saucepan is used for melting the margarine and mixing the rest of the ingredients. With this simple method you can keep a supply of cookies on hand for tasty snacks or desserts.

Saucepan bars offer varieties aplenty. Rich chocolate brownies are probably first choice for most, but chewy coconut or colorful gumdrops bars may suit the fancy of others. The basic ingredients, however, are always the same.

Saucepan Brownies
1 stick (½ pound or ½ cup) margarine
1 cup sugar
1 cup brown sugar, packed
2 tablespoons water
1 cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup small spicy gumdrops, finely cut

Rub bottom of a 9-inch square pan with margarine. Melt margarine in a saucepan. Remove from heat. Add sugars and water. Blend. Stir in flour and baking powder. Add egg and vanilla. Beat well. Add gumdrops and stir lightly to combine. Pour into prepared pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 30 minutes. Do not overbake. Cool in pan. Cut bars at serving time. Makes 18 bars.

Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 30 minutes. Do not overbake. Do not burn. Cool in pan. Cut into bars at serving time. Makes 18 bars.

Saucepan Gumdrops Bars
1 stick (½ pound or ½ cup) margarine
1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup brown sugar, packed
2 tablespoons water
1 cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla

Wine Seasons Frozen Scallops

Among the many contributions the frozen food industry has given to modern American dinner tables, one of the most welcome is the scallop, a tender succulent morsel of goodness. There is absolutely no waste to a pound of scallops, whether fresh or frozen. They are truly a convenience food, because they have only to be cooked, and that very quickly.

Marinated Sauteed Scallops
1 pound sea scallops, fresh or frozen
1 cup California white wine
1 cup corn meal
1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon instant minced onion (dried)
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 cup butter or margarine
Chopped parsley and chives

If scallops are frozen, let them thaw at room temperature or on refrigerator shelf. Pour wine over scallops. Let stand 2 or 3 hours; refrigerate—spooning wine once or twice over scallops. Mix corn meal with paprika, pepper, salt, minced onion, mustard.

Coat scallops with the seasoned corn meal. Melt butter in a skillet. Saute scallops about 2 minutes, turning once to brown both sides. Serve immediately, offering chopped parsley and chives for sprinkling over the scallops. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Lamb Barbecue Calls for Pineapple

Lamb spareribs are especially tasty when they are baked and basted with a sauce. Once these dishes have been sampled, we think they will be on the dinner table often.

Pineapple Barbecued Lamb Spareribs
3 pounds lamb spareribs
1 8-ounce can crushed pineapple
1 cup vinegar
1 cup honey
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon mustard

Place spareribs on rack in shallow roasting pan. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees) about 1½ hours. Drain off drippings. Combine remaining ingredients; mix well. Pour over lamb. Bake 45 minutes. Baste lamb with pineapple mixture frequently during baking period. Makes 4 servings.

Rainy day fun: Make up a batch of cookie dough and cut it out in the shape of gingerbread men. Have candied cherries, raisins and dates on hand so small fry can decorate the cookies before they go into the oven.

Pinnan haddle is delicious when it is baked in milk and a little butter. Add chopped egg to French dressing and serve over water. Cook some extra rice and re- and diced banana. Fold into it. Sweeten it to taste whipped cream for a luscious dessert. and add drained crushed pineapple per.

New Style Welsh Rabbit Good With Rye Waters

What is Cheese Ry-bit? It's a dunk that has left the snack class and has come to dinner. It's a modern, easy-to-make version of old-fashioned Welsh Rabbit served in small bowls right on the dinner plate. Dip crisp rye crackers in it and the last bite will be just as crunchy as the first. The combination of cheese and rye with just the right amount of seasonings is so good that there'll be many tasty bites in between, too.

Serving the Ry-bit in bowls has several advantages besides that of having each bit of cracker just as crisp as the first. The Ry-bit will stay hot longer, it's much easier to serve, and most important, won't mix with the rest of the food on the plates.

Cheese Ry-Bit

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon onion salt

1/4 teaspoon celery salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
2 dashes cayenne pepper
1 cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese
(1 1/2 lb.)
18 crisp rye crackers

Melt butter. Add flour and blend thoroughly. Add milk gradually. Stir over low heat until thickened. Add seasonings and blend. Add cheese. Stir until cheese is melted. Add baking powder. Heat and stir until thoroughly blended and Ry-bit is bubbly. Serve 1/2 cup portions in small bowls. Dip crisp rye crackers in Ry-bit. (Yield: 4 servings).

Serving canned green asparagus for a dinner-time vegetable? Bundle several stalks together with a thin ring of pimiento.

Sweeten whipped cream with honey and serve with baked apples whose core cavities have been stuffed with dates and walnuts.

Traditional or Native Fare Can Be Chosen

HONOLULU — Tourists in Hawaii for Thanksgiving can do their feasting Hawaiian or New England style. While there's no frost on the pumpkin in this sun-drenched isle, hotels and restaurants, nonetheless, go all out to prepare turkey, dressing and all the fixings. Americans, however, who want to observe the holiday with an exotic menu can try a Polynesian luau. Fare at this native feast includes barbecued pork; salmon, butterfish and beef, wrapped in ti leaves; stewed chicken mixed with coconut cream; poi, a thick paste made of taro roots; baked yams, bananas and breadfruit. All this is washed down with a potent local beverage called "missionary's downfall."

Visitors also have a choice of Thanksgiving entertainment. Honolulu offers two major football games as well as a round of colorful harvest pageantry. Kawaiaho Church will hold its annual Thanksgiving service with Hawaiians singing hymns of thanks and placing fruits and vegetables before the altar.

Dieters Need Lean Meat

Do you have a reducing problem? Lean meat has long been recognized as a valuable food in the reducing diet. The enjoyment of its fine flavor makes adherence to the diet much easier. Meat's content of complete high quality protein helps to minimize between-meal hunger. It also offers B vitamins and essential minerals to supply the dieter with valuable amounts of these nutrients.

Skewer Hamburg Balls

Season hamburger with your favorite seasoning and roll it into balls the size of a large walnut. Thread the hamburger balls on to a skewer, alternating with chunks of tomato, green pepper, cooked carrot, cooked potato and canned onions. Brush all with melted butter or margarine and place in pre-heated broiler. Broil five minutes.

BREAKING THE FAST — Believers in a good breakfast, the Joseph Hubbards never skimp on essentials, even though Mrs. Hubbard works with a limited food budget. When grandson, Dwight Hubbard of Drayton Woods, comes to visit, bacon is on the menu. Both the Hubbards are great milk drinkers, although Mr. Hubbard wants his coffee for breakfast. Those are homemade sweet rolls he is buttering.

Spiced Cookies Are Low-Caloried

Here are Applesauce Cookies, as old-fashioned in goodness as those you remember your grandmother baking. Plump with raisins and aromatic with cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves. Golden brown and crisp on the outside, soft and moist within.

But these cookies have one important difference, one you can't see, taste, or smell. They're far lower in calories than the ones grandmother used to bake. Look at our recipe and you'll see why. Instead of sweetening the cookies with sugar, we've used the new non-calorie sweetener, sucaryl... and saved 17 calories per cookie. This sweetener can be used to whittle calories in all your cooking and baking. It mixes right in with the other ingredients, and because it has a natural sugar-like flavor, you can't taste the difference.

In grandmother's day, women didn't concern themselves with calories. And, if you're slim as a reed, you probably don't care about calorie-counting, either. But if you're not, and you do, this recipe is for you.

Applesauce Cookies

1 1/2 cups cake flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup applesauce
1/2 cup sucaryl solution or 2 1/2 cups sugar
1 egg
1/2 cup raisins
1 cup all-bran

Sift together the flour, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves, and baking soda. Mix butter, sucaryl and egg until light and fluffy. Then add flour mixture and applesauce alternately, mixing well after each addition. Fold in raisins and all-bran.

Drop by level tablespoonfuls onto greased cookie sheet, about 1 inch apart. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 20 minutes, or until golden brown.

Makes 4 dozen cookies. Each cookie contains 39 calories; 0.6 gram protein; 2.1 grams fat; 5.2 grams carbohydrate. If made with sugar, each cookie would contain 55 calories.

Don't Stint on Size With Hero Snacks

Men usually enjoy hero-type sandwiches for a snack. Make these with crusty club rolls from a bakery.

For 9 or 10 rolls, use a half-pound of thinly sliced Italian-type salami, 1/4 pound of thinly-sliced boiled ham, 9 or 10 very thin slices of cooked smoked tongue, 1/2 pound of thinly-sliced natural Swiss cheese, dill pickles, small pickled "cocktail" onions, prepared mustard, romaine or lettuce.

Split the rolls lengthwise and butter the cut surfaces lightly. Then layer one side with the meats and cheese—folding these over as necessary — and add very thin lengthwise slices of dill pickle. Spread the other side of the roll with the prepared mustard and tuck three or four small pickled onions down into it at intervals. Put the rolls together with a small leaf of lettuce and romaine.

Wrapping each sandwich individually in foil or waxed paper, if they are to be stored before serving, is a good idea. These are hefty offerings and they are too big for sandwich bags, but you can be sure they won't be too big for man-size appetites!

Aloha Candy Made With Fudge Mix

Give that neighbor your favorite fudge recipe plus all the "fixins" in real do-it-yourself style — a package of penuche quick fudge mix, some pecan meats already chopped, neatly protected in a polyethylene bag tightly closed with a colored pipe cleaner, a fudge former and a small can of crushed pineapple.

Hawaiian Penuche

2 tablespoons butter
1 cup well-drained crushed pineapple
1 package penuche quick fudge mix
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Keep water boiling in bottom of double boiler. In top part melt butter with crushed pineapple. Add contents of package of penuche quick fudge mix. Stir 3-4 minutes... until glossy. DO NOT BEAT. Add chopped nuts. Pour at once onto buttered pan, plate or waxed paper. Cut in squares when cool.

Corn Waffles Are Good Appetizer Base

Here's a quick trick appetizer idea that's a real prizewinner. Crisp corn waffles cut into bite-size portions and topped with your favorite spread. Deviled ham, chopped egg, cheese, fish or cold cuts all gain added elegance from the corn flavored squares.

Basic Corn Waffle Recipe

1 1/2-cs. o.k. corn waffle mix
1 egg
1/2 cup milk
2 tablespoons melted shortening

Empty contents of package into bowl; add egg, milk and shortening, and beat until smooth. Let stand 5 to 10 minutes. Bake on hot waffle iron until golden brown. Makes about 6 waffles. Cool and cut into bite-size pieces. Spread with various toppings and garnish.

Spiced crabapples are delicious served with a cheese soufflé.

Job Goes Better With Right Knife

EAST LANSING—Whether you are paring, slicing, dicing, mincing or chopping there is a knife to do every job. You should be able to accomplish all your kitchen tasks with the six basic cutlery pieces listed by Elaine Mishler. Miss Mishler is food manager in one of the women's dormitories at Michigan State University.

The first of the six basics she suggests is the paring knife with the three or three and a half inch blade. Second is the six or seven inch utility knife which Miss Mishler points out is handy for halving oranges, grapefruit and slicing tomatoes and onions, besides a million other cutting jobs you find for it.

An eight inch narrow slice is almost a necessity for slicing bread, hot and cold meat and poultry and shredding cabbage. An eight inch cook's knife (often called a chef's or French knife) is characteristically wide at the handle and tapers to a fine point. Miss Mishler describes it as almost straight across the top or non-cutting edge. It is handy for dicing carrots, celery and onions and chopping nuts.

To use the French knife properly takes just a little practice. In using it for slicing celery, for example, hold the celery stalks in the left hand and with a wrist and rocking motion with the knife in the right hand, rock it over the celery. Be sure to keep the edge of the blade on the board at all times.

The fifth of the basic six is a seven or eight inch, two-line pot fork and the last is a sharpening steel about eight or ten inches long. Miss Mishler advises you to store the knives in a special wood block or partitioned drawer for keeping them sharp and keeping your fingers and hands safe and free from cuts.

Some Split Peas Go Into Soup

You may be hearing a great deal about dry peas this Fall, because we have so many of them. The U.S. Department of Agriculture says we have millions of pounds of dry peas left over from last year, and now there's another harvest about completed, giving us more dry peas than ever before.

What to do with them? Split pea soup, of course. It's delicious, filling, and nourishing. In fact, nutritionists say a bowl of rich pea soup is about equal to a serving of meat in protein content.

But there are other dishes that can be made from dry peas, dishes that are rich and tasty. One that is suggested by home economists of the Department of Agriculture is SPLIT PEAS AU GRATIN.

The "Au Gratin" means "with cheese." Right away your taste buds should begin to tingle and your mouth should begin to water. And there's more flavor, too: a garlic sauce.

Dry peas give you a two-for-one deal. Start with one cup of dry split peas and simmer in plenty of water until the peas are tender. By that time, you'll have about two cups of cooked peas.

While the peas are simmering, make a garlic sauce: rub a sauce pan with a garlic bud, melt two tablespoons of butter; add enough flour and sour cream to thicken; stir while heating. Mix the garlic sauce with the peas, and top with thinly sliced or grated American cheese. Place under a medium broiler for about 10 minutes, or until cheese is melted.

Lightly cooked shredded green cabbage is delicious added to tomato soup flavored with onion.

Nuts, Cocoa and Coffee Blend in Scrumptious Pie

Pecans have provided generations of Americans with mighty good eating since their beautiful trees first grew wild along the river banks of southwestern states. But no dish of our ancestors ever tasted better than this Mocha Pecan Chiffon Pie.

As for this recipe, it's as simple to make as "all get out" as Grandma used to say. The combination of coffee, cocoa and pecans leaves nothing, but nothing, to be desired unless it is a second helping!

By the way, this superb filling is also excellent as the "fill" for an angel food cake or simply piled into a pretty dessert bowl and served with custard sauce. Try this pie first, however—it's a prize winner!

Mocha Pecan Chiffon Pie

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
1/2 cup cold water
2 tablespoons cocoa
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
2 teaspoons instant coffee
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 teaspoon imitation rum extract
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup finely chopped pecans
1 baked 9-inch pie shell
Pecan halves
Whipped cream

Soften gelatine in cold water. Combine in heavy saucepan the cocoa, 1/2 cup sugar, water and instant coffee; stir to dissolve sugar. Bring to boil, and let cook gently for 4 to 5 minutes, stirring constantly.

Beat egg yolks slightly. Pour hot mixture on top slowly, stirring constantly. Return to saucepan. Stir over heat until mixture thickens. Remove from heat. Add gelatine, vanilla and rum extract; stir until gelatine dissolves.

Chill until mixture mounds slightly.

Sausage Gravy Is Colorful

This spicy sausage main course is the kind that appeals to a family on a crisp fall evening. The sausage patties are cooked with chopped vegetables and tomato juice.

Creole Sausage

1 1/2 pounds pork sausage meat
1 No. 2 can tomato juice (about 2 1/2 cups)
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup water
Parmesan cheese

Shape sausage into 12 patties and brown slowly over moderate heat, draining off drippings. Add tomato juice, green pepper, celery, pimiento, onion, sugar, salt and pepper; cover and simmer 1 hour. Remove sausage to platter. Blend flour and water and stir into liquid. Cook, stirring, until thickened and serve gravy over sausage. Sprinkle with cheese. 6 servings.

Ice Cream Crowns Coffee Meringues

Vanilla, toffee, or butter pecan ice cream are perfect complements for this coffee-flavored meringue. The meringue may be prepared whenever time is available, stored in a cool, dry place, and then filled with ice cream just before serving time. A chocolate sauce made according to the following recipe will be a delightful topping for this dessert that knows no season for its standing popularity.

Coffee Meringues With Ice Cream

1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons instant coffee
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 egg whites

1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup crushed corn flakes
1 quart vanilla, toffee, or butter pecan ice cream

Sift sugar; mix with instant coffee and salt. Beat egg whites until foamy. Add cream of tartar and beat until egg whites are stiff enough to hold soft peaks, but not dry. Sprinkle sugar-coffee mixture over egg whites 1 tablespoonful at a time and beat well after each addition. Fold in corn flakes.

Draw an 8-inch circle on brown paper. Place paper on cookie sheet. Spread a layer of meringue 1/4 inch thick over entire circle. Spoon remaining meringue in heaping spoonfuls around edge of meringue circle.

Bake in a slow oven, 275 degrees, until firm and delicately browned, 80 to 90 minutes. Cool thoroughly away from drafts. To serve fill center with ice cream. Serve plain or with chocolate sauce. Makes 10 servings.

Note: Individual meringues may be made by dropping round mounds of mixture 2 inches apart onto brown paper on a cookie sheet. Make a depression in center of each mound. Bake in slow oven, 275 degrees, until firm and delicately browned, 45 to 60 minutes. Cool thoroughly away from drafts. To serve fill centers with ice cream and top with chocolate sauce. Makes 12 individual meringues.

Chocolate Sauce

1/4 cup butter
2 squares bitter chocolate
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup table cream
1/4 teaspoon vanilla

Melt butter and chocolate over very low heat. Add sugar gradually, blending well. Mixture will be thick and dry. Add salt, stir in cream, gradually. Cook 5 to 6 minutes to dissolve sugar. Remove from heat; add vanilla. Serve hot or cold. Makes about 2 cups.

11, needed help to land the fish they hooked here. It was a skate fish, 5 feet long and 3 feet 3 inches wide.

Whole-wheat bread sandwiches may be made with a filling of cream cheese and sliced bananas. Different and good!

Delicious Fudge Easy to Achieve

Like maple flavor? Want the fun of offering homemade candy when your friends come to visit? Then you might like to try this recipe for maple fudge. Directions are so specific that you should have no trouble in turning out a batch with a professional air.

Maple Walnut Fudge

1 cup sugar
1 cup maple-blended syrup
Salt
1/2 cup light cream
1/4 cup coarsely broken walnut meats

Put sugar, maple-blended syrup, a dash of salt and the cream in a heavy medium-sized saucepan. Place over low heat and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Then boil, without stirring, until a small amount (about a teaspoonful of the mixture forms a soft ball when it is dropped into a cup of very cold water (or to a temperature of 236 degrees on a candy thermometer).

Remove from heat. Cool to lukewarm (110 degrees on a candy thermometer) without stirring. Then beat mixture until it loses its gloss — this usually takes from 12 to 15 minutes. Just as the candy is losing its gloss, stir in the walnuts.

Turn at once into a lightly buttered pan — 8 by 4 by 3 inches is a good size. When candy is cold cut into squares and remove with spatula. Makes 18 large pieces.

Mystery Fruitcake

1 package Honey spice, yellow, white or devil food cake mix
4 cups candied mixed fruit (two 1-lb. jars)
1/2 cup each whole red and green candied cherries (1/2 lb.)
1 1/2 cups seedless raisins (1/2 lb.)
1 cup dates, cut up (6 1/2-ounce package)
4 1/4 cups pecan halves (1 lb.)
1 package fluffy white frosting mix

Make cake as directed on package. Cool. Crumble cooled cake into large bowl and add rest of ingredients.

Make Fluffy White Frosting

Mix according to package directions and add to fruit, nuts, and cake mixture. Stir with spoon or toss together with hands until mixture is damp and blended together.

Pack tightly into two foil lined 8 1/2 x 4 1/2 x 2 1/2 or two 9 x 5 x 3 loaf pans. Pat down with buttered hands until smooth. Cover cake with foil and chill in refrigerator at least 24 hours. Cake improves if stored longer. Slice with sharp knife and serve cold. Makes 6 1/2-lb. fruitcake.

For smaller fruitcake: Follow recipe above except, use only 1 layer of cake and half of fruit and nuts, and use only half prepared frosting mix in fruitcake. Pack tightly into one foil-lined 8 1/2 x 4 1/2 x 3 loaf pan. Ice remaining layer with rest of icing.

POTTED STEAK—Here's a man's dish if there ever was one! Potted steak with savory herb gravy-sauce is a steak you have treated with loving kindness. Sprinkled with meat tenderizer, it's been cooked slowly to keep it juicy.

Potted Steak Has Rich Gravy

Set before a man, or a family, this great thick steak... brown, gently oozing juice, obviously fork tender, laved with herb gravy-sauce, hissing hot... and watch the beaming anticipation. For here is meat in full glory.

Best of all, you have given it a gravy made savory with herbs, canned apple sauce, sliced onions, mushrooms and seasonings all simmered down together in the pot with the meat. That gravy! Best part of the whole works, some will declare. Lends rich extra flavor to the meat—and in the serving can be spooned over the vegetables, too.

Canned apple sauce is the main reason you can make this gourmet sauce with such happy ease. Canned apple sauce helps give it heft and thickness, adds its own lively apple zest and acts as a blender.

Potted Steak with Savory Herb Gravy-Sauce

1 1/2-lb. sirloin steak (about 3 pounds)
2 tablespoons meat tenderizer
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup shortening
1 cup sliced onion
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
1/2 cup sliced mushrooms
1 6-oz. can tomato paste
1/4 cup ketchup
2 cups canned apple sauce
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup boiling water
Pinch oregano
Few grains pepper

Sprinkle steak with crystalline meat tenderizer on both sides. (Use no additional salt.) Pierce both sides with long tined fork. Let stand at room temperature

Food Editors Conference Produced Surprises

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Imagine having to choose between a diamond-set star sapphire ring and six months' supply of beef! That was the predicament of one food editor when she won first prize in a game tasting contest.

At one of the parties we attended in Chicago a meat packing company prepared nine different kinds of "wild" meat for us to taste. By the time I got to the third or fourth one, they all tasted alike. What I called moose was buffalo; what I said was bear turned out to be whale meat. I came nowhere near winning. The lucky gal chose the ring.

On Wednesday we tasted Black and Tan sandwiches, supposedly the rage of the Twenties in eastern college towns. They're a combination of peanut butter and chocolate sauce on white bread.

At lunch that same day we had spare ribs, chicken and beef-burgers marinated in different salad dressings, then grilled. They were delicious and can be done indoors or out. All during the meal we were kept informed about the World Series game.

Many of you have used meat tenderizers this summer with varying degrees of success. I had an interesting talk with a member of the American Meat Institute about this subject. The meat industry is working on several different tenderizing ideas.

PRE-TENDERIZED
Some companies are tenderizing the meat after it is cut, then packaging it for retail trade. Other companies are injecting some form of tenderizer into the animal before it is slaughtered! The tough leg muscles are softened so the beef is tenderized on the hoof.

One of the most interesting films we saw all week was one shown by the Roquefort Association. Back in the days of the early Romans Roquefort cheese was being made in the same caves in France in which it is made today.

Shepherds still tend their flocks of sheep high in the mountains in the ancient manner. The milk is now often transported to the cheese plant in American made jeeps, but the process of cheese making hasn't changed much.

A TRADE NAME

Roquefort is not a trade name; it is a kind of cheese. The Association is jealous of its product and is particular about licensing manufacturers. All true Roquefort comes from France. Blue cheese is an entirely different cheese.

Christmas in October is almost more fun than in December. General Mills hosted the food editors at a real Christmas party, complete with costumed carolers and sparkling trees. They brought the trees all the way from Minnesota where they're a bit easier to find than in Chicago.

Each table was covered with red felt and centered with a frosting Christmas tree. White cardboard cones were covered with soft frosting, then decorated with cookie ornaments. Each tree was placed on a milk glass plate which in turn rested on a revolving music box that played a holiday tune. The one at our table played "Jingle Bells."

SEASONAL FOOD

For "Christmas" dinner we started with raspberry sherbet in avocado halves. The color combination is beautiful. The main course was stuffed Cornish rock hens with cranberry garnish, squash and creamed onions. Salad was Bibb lettuce with pomegranate seeds.

There were two desserts. The first was Mystery Fruit Cake and the recipe for that should be in today's Market Basket section. Really, it was good. I tasted both a spice and a chocolate version. The second dessert was ice cream molded in the form of flowers.

Then Santa Claus came with a gift for all of us. In about a week bookstores will be displaying it—the new Betty Crocker cookbook for boys and girls. It has delightful pictures and easy-to-follow recipes. Your small fry will love it.

On our last morning we had breakfast with the Alcoa people who make aluminum foil. In the center of each table there was a figure made from foil, representing one of the United Nations. The work of Connie Hula, a talented designer, they showed an unusual use of this handy material. Our table had an Eskimo, complete with fur parka and pack on his back.

Before breakfast we were invited to sample different kinds of coffee. Foreign students from the University of Chicago served it. There was Cafe Espresso and Cafe Cappuccino from Italy, Viennese Coffee from Austria, Hot Mocha from Arabia and Cafe au Lait from France. I tried the Mocha.

MODERN-MINDED DINNER — It's smart to eat in the modern way that satisfies the appetite without satiating it, nor adds so many rich and heavy foods that one's figure suffers. A pleasant plate at a pleasant price is the assortment of foods pictured — frozen halibut baked with tomato sauce, green beans and bananas baked with fruit juice and no fat. The banana earns its way into modern dinner planning as a medium banana contributes only 88 calories.

Be Original at Dinner: Serve Baked Bananas

When a baked banana joins with the simple addition of a few forces with frozen fish and green beans, it's good news for people who count calories and pennies. The banana is the gay deceiver of the food world. To look at the warm, yellow jacket, and to bite into the firm fruit, you might think a banana is loaded with calories. But you'd be wrong.

Bananas are liberal in providing vitamins, minerals and food energy, but in the calorie department they show remarkable restraint. Nor need baking a banana increase its calorie quota; baste it with fruit juice rather than fat and you by-pass this problem entirely, and bring out the flavor in a delightful new way.

This technique was part of the new slant on the banana discussed at a press brunch co-sponsored by the United Fruit Company, during the Food Editors annual conference at the Drake Hotel in Chicago.

Since you're concentrating on keeping weight down and flavor up, you will also be glad to know that you can safely increase the color and interest of your frozen halibut by adding sauce. A fresh tomato sauce has a zest all its own, is economical and can be quickly prepared. Tomatoes have long been famous for their sensational low standing in the calorie field, and just as famous for their congeniality with a long list of foods, fish included.

As for green beans, a perennial favorite in most households, they take on an appealing piquancy

Mocha Fluffs Use Coffee in Meringue

Improving on Baked Alaska may seem like gilding the lily, but these individual Mocha Fluffs are as easy to prepare as they are extra-elegant. The flavor bonus comes from using rich all butter pound cake as the base.

First make the meringue by beating 3 egg whites and $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon of salt until frothy. Add $\frac{1}{4}$ cup of sugar 2 tablespoons at a time to the egg white and beat after each addition. Add $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon of instant coffee gradually and continue beating till the egg white forms stiff peaks.

Cut 4 slices of all butter pound cake about one inch thick and place on board or baking sheet covered with heavy paper. Slice a very hard pint brick of chocolate ice cream into 4 slices and place slices on top of cake. Spread meringue on top and sides covering completely, then bake in preheated 450 degree oven until lightly browned (about 4 to 5 minutes). Serve immediately.

Who's to Play With Police Dogs?

PONCA CITY, Okla. (U) — The desk sergeant at police headquarters here didn't know how to answer a woman's call for help.

She said she had two small police dogs that wanted to play and that she wanted a policeman sent out to play with them immediately.

Driver Falls Asleep While Stealing Gas

ANADARKO, Okla. (U) — Falling asleep cost 17-year-old Herbert Martin Hensley $53 in fines and court costs.

Sheriffs officers awakened Hensley as he slept in his car, parked in the Caddo County garage. A siphoning hose was connected from a truck gasoline tank to the tank of Hensley's vehicle.

Hensley said he fell asleep waiting for the gasoline to be siphoned into his tank.

He pleaded guilty to petty larceny and an additional charge of driving a car with an improper muffler.

Some cooks like to add an egg yolk to hard sauce.

Good Luck Associated With Hopping John

Hopping John was first eaten in the United States in Charleston, South Carolina. The name, "Hopping John," is derived from the French "Pois Pigeon." Pigeon peas with rice is eaten by everyone on the Island of Jamaica. Originated in the West Indies, it was brought to Charleston and widely accepted as a delicious old time rice dish. Hopping John came to be associated with good luck and was always served at the New Year's dinner.

Hopping John
1 cup dried black-eyed peas
2 cups boiling water
1-3 pound salt pork or fat bacon
1 large onion coarsely chopped
1 spray of celery leaves
1 small bay leaf
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon black pepper

Place the peas and boiling water in a saucepan. Cover and allow to stand 2 hours. Do not drain. Cut the salt pork or fat bacon in squares and brown in a hot skillet.

After the peas cook, add the pork or bacon, onion, celery leaves, bay leaf, salt and pepper. Add the boiling water. Simmer in a covered saucepan until the peas are tender. Discard the bay leaf. Add the rice and simmer in the covered saucepan until peas and rice are tender. Add water if the dish becomes too dry. Add salt and pepper to taste if desired.

To serve, place the pieces of bacon or pork on top of the peas and rice and sprinkle with parsley. This recipe makes 6 generous servings.

Here's Scientific Proof Men Are Fatheads

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio (U) — Science has proven what many women have long maintained — men are fatheads.

Dr. Stanley M. Garn, associate professor of anthropology at Antioch College here, says a recent study of fat and its distribution over the human body shows that although women are 41 per cent fatter than men, the "superior male" has more fat on his head than do women.

Peculiar Noises in City Did Have Sound Basis

HOBBS, N. M. (U) — "I've been hearing a very peculiar noise out here," a woman caller told police, "and I wish you would come out and find out what's making it."

Police sped to the eastern edge of the city where the noise was reported.

The woman had indeed been hearing a strange noise.

Police found a cageful of lions belonging to a circus. They were asking for their evening meal in the only way lions can express themselves — by roaring.

Pot roast for sauerbraten should be braised in part of its spicy marinade. The rest of the marinade may be used in the gravy for the meat.

CAA Aide Likes to Be Up in Air

Mrs. Noyes Finds Joy in Her Work for Government

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON — Blanche Noyes gave up a career behind the footlights 28 years ago to become one of aviation's leading ladies.

Now in her challenging real-life role as chief of the air marking staff of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, she is the only woman federal executive flying government aircraft.

Though she spends a lot of her time in the air, flying alone, flight-checking, air markers or plotting new skyways, she says she's never lonely.

COMPLETELY HAPPY

"It's the only time I'm completely relaxed and happy," she told me, "I wouldn't change jobs for anything. It gets more interesting as time goes on."

Since 1936, when the program started, Mrs. Noyes has directed the placing of some 45,000 air markers (mostly on rooftops) to identify towns and nearby airports for pilots, and many have credited them with saving their lives. Still, Mrs. Noyes says she sees great room for improvement.

"Specifically, I would like to see every town and community of 15,000 to 100,000 in the United States air marked," she said.

FIGHTS HAZARDS

"CAA is doing everything it can to eliminate accidents. There isn't a cloud that hasn't been turned to cut down flying hazards and improve the airways to make flying completely safe."

She was particularly excited over a new luminous paint developed by a firm working cooperatively on experimental markers.

She says it is now being used by the military at a number of bases to put on training aircraft to eliminate air collisions.

Mrs. Noyes, a handsome, fashion-conscious woman with a special yen for hats and jewelry, was taught to fly in exactly 3 hours and 45 minutes by her late husband, Dewey L. Noyes, an airmail pilot.

OK'D BY AMELIA

She got her present job through personal endorsement by Amelia Earhart, whom she met in 1929 when they were competitors in the first women's air derby flying from Santa Monica to Cleveland.

Dental Unit Launches New Year

Oakland Auxiliary Has Luncheon at Devon Gables

The Women's Auxiliary to the Oakland County Dental Society began its fall season with a membership luncheon Tuesday at Devon Gables.

Mrs. Richard Brooks of Royal Oak, membership chairman, and Mrs. William Whitman of Birmingham, social chairman, were in charge of the luncheon.

GREETING MEMBERS

Mrs. Carl Ritchie of Utica, president of the auxiliary, welcomed new members and spoke briefly on the history of the auxiliary.

New members are Mrs. Frederick Fleming of Birmingham; Mrs. Jack Lohr and Mrs. Theodore Marecki, both of Utica. Each was presented with a corsage of fall-colored chrysanthemums.

Following the luncheon, Mrs. Stewart Scott, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Paul Schafer of Birmingham, a recognized painter who conducts several classes in art.

She discussed "Contemporary Art and Artists," displaying famous paintings done in 1900 but still considered contemporary, and explained phases and trends in art, illustrating different periods with paintings.

Guests were Mrs. Carl Ritchie and Mrs. Fred Atkinson, both of Utica.

Modeling the dress she'll wear Saturday evening for Trabajamas Alumnae dance is Mrs. Edward Shaw

Gal Can Be Stylish and Not Lose Mate

If fashion-minded women throughout the country have mixed emotions about the much publicized shapeless "chemise" silhouette, most husbands have a simple reaction . . . they hate it!—and have expressed in loud clear voice their confidence in their wife not to show up in one of those "rag bags."

That's what Arthur Jablow learned from his tour of fine fashion stores in key cities, while showing his current fall collection. His audiences of fashion-minded women begged him to solve their dilemma: How to look fashionable and keep their husbands.

"No problem," said Mr. Jablow, "because it simply isn't so . . . nobody is going to try to impose 'rag bag' dresses on American women, or their husbands."

Mr. Jablow then went on to explain that the chemise silhouettes as heralded by the American press were the "shocker" examples. "The

Home Bleaches Aid in Lightening Skin

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
There's no use kidding ourselves! The suntan which looked so lovely and was so flattering with summer whites and pastels makes us look slightly jaundiced when wearing the darker colors of fall and winter.

Also, some cosmetic houses have improved bleaches on the market today. While you wait for your skin to return to its normal shade, you might use a makeup base which covers the tan and gives your face a lighter glow. These are available in a color which will be right for you individually. Do not try one Slicing a lemon, yes, but not to eat. She is going to use the juice as a bleach for her arms and elbows.

No doubt your suntan already has faded some, but if you had a very heavy dose you may wish to speed the process. Time, of course, is the ultimate and only complete "fader-out," but other measures help.

You can use lemon juice as a bleach. This has mild bleaching qualities. It is especially good for elbows and arms. It will be too irritating for the sensitive skin of the face. You probably will need to dilute it some even for the arms.

Allow it to remain until it dries. Then wash it off. Do this several times a week.

Buttermilk is also a mild bleach and this can be used on the face. You may also want to try an almond meal pack. For this take a cup of meal and add enough peroxide to make a fairly thick paste. Add rose water until the mixture has a creamy consistency. Apply this to the face and neck.

Leave it on until it is dry. In fact, leave it on for as long as convenient and then wash it off. Afterward dash cold water over the face or pat it with an ice cube which is wrapped in a cloth. You will feel refreshed and repeated masks of this sort will aid in the loss of suntan.

Newcomers Meet With Mrs. Hahn

Newcomers Club of Pontiac met Wednesday afternoon in the Delaware drive home of Mrs. Harry Hahn with Mrs. Clarence Saunders as cohostess. Mrs. Norman Patterson and Mrs. Dora Milbourne won prizes at bridge.

Plans for a Christmas dinner and Men's Night were discussed.

Masculine Garb Gets High Style

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (INS) — The people who design men's fashions are trying to start a revolution to bring masculine fashions back to the high style field.

No more dull, drab menswear is the byword, and no more weird Hawaiian shirts either, with rainbows of big, bold patterns.

The latest shirt line boasts luxury, with silks leading the field as the fabric that looks most elegant and feels nice to the touch, too. The silks can be shiny and satiny or dull and subtle, depending on the man's taste.

Stripes are the most popular pattern, and they can be either thin pin stripes in a color contrasting the shade of the shirt, or they can be suggested by a change in texture of the fabric itself.

The designers have decided that open collars could do with a bit of pepping up. The result is stitching, bias trim along the edges, or the carrying-over of underfacing onto the lapels for a touch of accent color to an otherwise solid-shaded shirt.

Guests Attend Chapter Meeting

Mrs. Richard Koontz, Mrs. Howard Brinker, Mrs. Ralph Marriatt Jr., Mrs. Milton Ott, Mrs. Muriel Lloyd, Mrs. Glen Hicks, Mrs. Richard Wagner, Mrs. David Coultis, Mrs. Marlene Olson and Vera Murphy were guests of Alpha Omega Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

Mrs. Muriel Dodge opened her Ramona terrace home for a model meeting of the group Wednesday evening. Mrs. C. M. Beevers will open her home Oct. 23 for a rush party.

Hostesses for the evening were Miss Danton, Mrs. R. A. Davender, Mrs. W. O. Coxen, Mrs. Cole, Mrs. S. A. Craft, Julia Diamond and Mrs. Janet Dow.

Are You Sure You Love People?

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Whenever people say, "My, she's charming," you can be pretty sure she isn't. When they speak of someone they really think is charming, they are more apt to say, "Gee, I like her."

The same is true when people say, "I just love people." It usually means that they love the idea of people and think it's their duty to love them.

SHED BELIEVE IT

When I began in personnel work, and had to hire someone for a branch of what I call the people business, I'd interview a lot of applicants.

When one came along saying, "I just love people," I would be apt to believe him and hire him.

Nine times out of 10, he would crack under the strain—or she would, as was often the case.

We are conditioned to be charming, to pay attention to people and to "love people." Our social success depends on it, so does our marriageability.

Some of us, of course, are genuinely interested and fond of people, but not all of us. Before getting a job working with people, we must discover whether we are really fond of them or not.

For nothing is worse than this type of job if it isn't right for you. It can make you a nervous wreck.

THUMBNAIL TEST

Here's a little thumbnail test.

1. Do you like to have a certain amount of time to yourself every day?
2. Do people sometimes get on your nerves so badly that you feel like walking out on them?

3. Do you like some people much better than others?
4. Do people sometimes hurt your feelings?

5. Do you greatly enjoy hearing people's problems?
6. Do you spend a good deal of time analyzing people's motives and trying to figure them out?

If you answered Yes to the first four questions and No to the last two, chances are you belong in the people business.

LACK SENSITIVITY

But if your answers indicate you are capable of great objectivity, are not sensitive or easily upset by people, like all of them equally, love to hear their problems and analyze their personalities, then you lack sensitivity to them.

In that case, you would not be at your best working with them.

I'll be glad to send you a copy of my pamphlet, "Jobs in the People Business That Don't Require Degrees," if you'll send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope care of The Pontiac Press.

Nobody Wins Arguments Between Men and Women

Wise Girls Learn Other Methods of Getting Their Way, Proving Points

By RUTH MILLETT

It's a mistake for a woman ever to argue with a man.
There are a lot of sound reasons behind that conclusion as all truly feminine women eventually will agree.
A woman is never less feminine than when she is attempting to prove a man wrong. What woman would rather be right than be feminine?

The man's ego can't be overlooked. When a woman tells a man he is wrong and can prove it, she is putting him in a position where he has to defend his stand even if he is convinced she is right. How can he happily admit that a woman has bested him in an argument?

If a woman does occasionally win a man's grudging, "Okay, maybe you're right," she drives a wedge between their mutual admiration for each other.

For a while at least, he thinks she is bossy and opinionated, and she thinks he is a stubborn mule.
This doesn't help their relationship.

There is always the chance that the man is right and wins the argument hands down. Then he isn't going to let her forget how wrong she was. The fact that she doubted his wisdom in the first place makes it necessary for him to rub in his triumph just a little.

So nobody wins when a man and woman argue. Wise women learn this young and prove the points they want to make without damaging a man's self-esteem.

It's one of the reasons men say they can't understand women.
What they really mean is they can't understand women who know how to get their own way or put across a point without resorting to an argument.

Telephone Manners Questioned

Should the Caller Identify Himself to Answerer?

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please settle the following discussion: A friend of mine strongly feels that everyone making a telephone call, personal or business, should identify herself to the one answering on the other end whether or not she is known to that person, before the person being called is brought to the telephone, and that if she hasn't the courtesy to do this, she should be asked who is calling.

"I feel definitely that such identification is quite unnecessary when the caller is unknown to the person answering the phone, and indeed, if the person answering asks who is calling (unless authorized to do so by the person being called) it implies only curiosity and is impolite. What do you have to say about this?"

Answer: The person calling should definitely identify herself to the person answering by saying, "This is Mrs. Smith, may I speak to Mrs. Jones?" whether the person is known or not, and if the caller fails to do so it is quite proper for the person answering to ask, "Who is calling?"

"Dear Mrs. Post: My boy friend asked me to go to his grandmother's birthday party. She will be 80 years old and several members of her family are giving a party for her.

"I have never met this grandmother and feel that it would be wrong for me to go, especially since it will be mostly a family party. He insists that I go. Will you please tell me if it would be proper to go. Also, if I go, should I take a present?"

Answer: In this case you may go on his invitation if you wish to.
You should not take a present.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I've been given a very fine pen and pencill set by a group of friends in a club. I have no use whatever for this as I already have two in use and another in reserve. Could I exchange this at the store at which it was bought for something I do need?"

Answer: It would be senseless to keep the set you are never going to use. Exchange it, and if ever anyone of those who gave it to you notifies that you do not use it, I am sure they will understand when you explain.

Elizabeth's Wardrobe of 50 Dresses Involves 250 Fittings

Royal Visit to U.S. Requires Two Years of Planning

(This is the fifth of six articles about Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip and their forthcoming tour of the United States.)

By BOB CONSIDINE
International News Service
Queen Elizabeth II was crowned in Westminster Abbey on June 2, 1953. It was the most brilliant event of its kind in history.

Through the medium of television, it was seen "live" all over Western Europe. The U.S. networks spent fortunes to get the film and kinescopes in America in record time.

It was unreal, a Technicolorized throwback to Medieval England, to the glory that was Rome, to the time of the pharaohs.

The Queen moved through it like a doll in a trance, the huge, five-pound crown of St. Edward on her head through part of it, her great robes trailing her wherever she touched down. She prayed and was prayed over, and her breast anointed by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

But she was able to give off her girlish grin at the end of the ordeal as she headed for a triumphant parade through rain-drenched London streets.

SHE'S A TROUPE

The Queen's a trouper. Victoria used to grumble, after a tough day, "This is a job for a man." If her great-great-granddaughter feels the same way, she has managed to conceal it very well. She has taken up the curious business of being Queen with a strong feeling of dedication, and sometimes with zest.

Philip has been a great help to her in carrying out her job. He is the one who keeps her moving through the crowds, lends for her, keeps her rigid schedule intact, separates her from button-holing bores or windy officials.

"Back up, old dear, you're drooping," he was once heard to say from behind her.

The Queen would have found it difficult to have found any mate on earth who better fitted the public concept of what a young consort should look like. Philip has the lines of a good thoroughbred, is a fine all-around athlete, the prototype of the well-bred gentleman. But he's more: Good father, good sport, and he speaks the language of the people.

One of the most memorable of the honored guests at the coronation was Philip's mother, Princess Alice of Greece, a gray-robed nun in the Greek Orthodox Church.

Her marriage to Philip's father, broken years ago, Princess Alice entered the church and has since lived the spartan life her vocation requires. She founded the Sisterhood of Martha and Mary, a nursing and teaching order, and has devoted her life to raising funds for it.

PLACE FOR PHILIP

"My son must find his place in the life of England," she said in Chicago when King George VI died. "He must help his wife; that may require all his time. But there is no way of knowing exactly what his place will be. That is his responsibility to find."

Philip plainly has found his place. In December 1952, the Queen approved his appointment as admiral of the Sea Cadet Corps, colonel-in-chief of the Army Cadet Force, and air commodore-in-chief of the Air Training Corps, three posts previously held by her father.

The following month it was announced that he had been promoted to admiral of the fleet, field marshal and marshal of the Royal Air Force.

Philip's strength around Elizabeth is that he doesn't awe easily. There is a story that George VI lectured him once on the importance of using the right gestures with the right uniforms or costumes.

Philip excused himself, came back dressed in kilts, which he doesn't like, and solemnly curtisied in front of his father-in-law.

He prefers to be called "sir" rather than "prince."

"Everytime I hear somebody say 'prince' I feel I should bark," he once complained.

NOTABLE TRAVELS

The royal couple has had some notable trips since the coronation. Between November 1953 and May 1954 they were in Bermuda, Jamaica, Fiji, Tonga, New Zealand, Australia, Ceylon, Uganda, Malta and Gibraltar.

But the impending visit to Canada and the U.S. could well be their most momentous and significant trip.

Britain won wars and added to empire in the past with fewer details and logistics problems than apply to this visit.

It has been in the works for about two years, and was nearly nullified by the Anglo-French invasion of Egypt at the time of the Suez crisis.

The most astonishingly microscopic items, including virtually the time to be spent in lavatories, were being studied in 1955. The Queen's wardrobe of 50 dresses involved 250 fittings, and Philip's suits and uniforms scarcely less.

These must be rushed from airports to this place or that in advance of the royal couple, so that they may be pressed and presentable when needed.

In the case of the Queen's gowns, all designed especially for this trip, they must be burned after being used only once. She cannot appear in the same gown twice for fear of offending the group that gets the second showing of the creation.

HUGE RETINUE

There are huge staffs to carry along, ladies in waiting, equestrians, secretaries, a doctor, speech writers, maids, valets, experts on local lore, transportation wizards.

Advance men have informed all reception committees that the Queen is calorie conscious, will take a sip of champagne on occasion, loves broiled spring lamb, young chicken and tender roast beef, takes milk with her tea, drinks her coffee black and is allergic to most shellfish.

She expects to wear what is called "The Russian Fringe" tiara on Monday when she attends the first session of the new Canadian Parliament. It was the original property of Queen Alexandra, spouse of Edward VII.

Washington will see Elizabeth under a diamond tiara which once crowned the head of the Grand Duchess Vladimir of Czarist Russia. It can be worn with 15 large drop pearls suspended from the diamond ovals or, alternatively, an equal number of fine emeralds.

'Black Monday' at Little Rock

A Few People Bring Disgrace Upon City and Nation

By BELMAN MORIN

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—On the morning of Sept. 23, a Monday, 99 per cent of the people of Little Rock were nowhere near Central High School.

You don't often begin a report by noting something that didn't happen.

It's important in this case, however, because Sept. 23 was "Black Monday" in Little Rock, the day of the riots at the high school.

That was the day when a relatively few people, about 400 in all, beat up Negroes and newspapermen, fought with police, raged in the streets, and screamed to the children inside the high school, "Come out! Don't stay in there with the niggers!"

In the space of an hour, these few—

1. Brought shame and disgrace to a community of good people.

2. Fashioned a deadly propaganda weapon for the Communists to use against the United States in Asia and Africa, among the black, yellow and brown races this country wants as friends.

3. Rescued Gov. Orval Faubus, who had predicted violence, from what had appeared to be the role of a false prophet.

4. Figuratively tarred and feathered those people, on both sides of the Mason-Dixon Line, who are patiently searching for the answers to the immense problems that sprang from the Supreme Court ruling that segregated schools are unconstitutional.

Only a handful are responsible for this and more.

The rest of Little Rock was in its homes and offices and places of business as on any other day.

This is not to say that they approve integration. They don't. They overwhelmingly oppose integration and want no part of it.

But they also believe in obeying the law. And there is the dilemma. It is not easy to obey a command that rowels your deepest sensibilities, nor readily comply with an order that you feel, in blood and fibre, is wrong.

The police kept control inside the barricades. But they did next to nothing about the beatings that took place outside. First, the crowd attacked four Negro newspapermen. Later, they turned on white reporters and photographers. During all this, there were policemen close at hand.

Was the rioting organized? Did ringleaders come to the school with a plan?

That's what the FBI is tracking down now. They won't say whether they have any suspects or what charges may be brought.

On Tuesday, Sept. 24, the electrifying news came that President Eisenhower had put the National Guardsmen under federal orders, and that units of the 101st Airborne were on the way to the city.

KINDERGARTEN EXPRESS—A "pedibus"—a tiny bus on a bicycle-type framework—carries youngsters to kindergarten through the streets of Peiping. The "pedibuses," which are owned by the drivers, represent one of the few forms of private enterprise left in Communist China. This photo was made by a British correspondent.

Shortly after dark, a convoy of Army trucks rumbled over the main street bridge from the opposite side of the Arkansas River. People stared in utter disbelief.

Nothing like this had been seen in a Southern city since the days of the Reconstruction, 90 years ago.

There was every form of reaction in Little Rock—surprise, dismay, relief, blood-hot indignation. I went around the city that night, first to the school, then to other areas, talking with people.

The next day, Wednesday, Sept. 25, the paratroopers' officers quickly and efficiently demonstrated to the smaller crowds again gathered at the high school that they meant business.

Then the campaign began to induce as many parents as possible, by threats or persuasion, to keep their children out of school. It appears to have failed.

The hard-core segregationists who first remained away from classes came back last week. Then, soon after classes began, they tried to start a mass walkout. The snowball didn't roll.

Sixty-nine students were suspended last weekend. Most had joined in the walkout. Some had attacked two Negro boys. Supt. of Schools Virgil Blossom is prepared to crack down hard, he says.

But what of the future? The troops won't stay in Little Rock forever. What then?

People in Papeete believe that Matson Navigation Co. will build its proposed Tahitian hotel on the Taharua heights, just west of Point Venus.

Warns Drivers of Fire Danger

Carelessly Discarded Cigarettes Blow Back, Smolder in Cars

In observance of National Fire Prevention week, Waterford Township Fire Chief Edward Smith urges motorists to be more cautious in the smoking habits.

About 10 per cent of all fires reported to the Township Fire Department are calls to extinguish flames in automobiles, whether parked or on the highway, Smith said.

"Invariably, these fires are started by careless smokers," he continued. "They toss their lit cigarettes out the window —only to have them land in the back seat where they lay smoldering from three to four hours unattended."

Smith added that very few fires are caused from faulty wiring or other mechanical defects, and these are only in the older model cars.

The yearly report submitted to the State Fire Marshal by Waterford Township fire-fighters, shows that grass fires predominate with 141 calls reported last year. There were 122 dwelling fires and 33 automobiles destroyed by fire.

Not Dual-Purpose

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. (AP)—This city has discovered that its new aluminum street markers are poor chinning bars. Boys have been asked to shift their muscle-developing activities elsewhere to save strain on both the markers and taxpayers after a dozen markers had been snapped off.

New Training for Journalists

U. of M. Reveals On-the-Job Program for Graduates

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Prof. Wesley H. Maurer reported today 26 University of Michigan journalism graduates are receiving on-the-job training on Michigan newspapers and at an advertising agency.

Maurer, who is chairman of the Department of Journalism, told the annual meeting of the University Press Club that about $40,000 will be paid to students in the new training program by 16 newspapers and the agency. The journalism fellows get salaries ranging from $85 to $91 a week. Foreign journalism fellowships are included in the training program. Two journalists from abroad are brought to the campus each year. Maurer said future extension of the training program will include magazines, business, labor newspaper publishing, radio and television.

"It is our business as teachers," Maurer said, "to implement broad education for the student in the natural sciences, social sciences and the humanities and to demonstrate in intending journalists the usefulness of these studies in their chosen work."

Sheriff Holds 3 After Wild Chase Through Oxford

Three men are being held by the Oakland County Sheriff's Dept. after a wild chase through Oxford in which seven warning shots were fired by deputies.

Deputies Ray, Bills and Guy Kessler said they were in Oxford at 3:15 a.m. today when Edwin J. Taylor, of Ortonville, stopped them and said his car had been forced off the road by a 1933 car, and a beer bottle hurled at him.

As they talked, the same car drove by and the deputies gave chase. The car turned onto M24 and hit speeds up to 75 miles per hour. The deputies fired seven warning shots in the air before the car, which turned off on Dunlap road, stopped.

As the officers got out of their car, the Ford started up and smashed into the right side of the sheriff's car.

The driver, Lawrence P. Hawkwell, 18, of 36 Cottage Ct., Oxford, was arrested for reckless driving. Passengers, William E. Byers, 21, of 135 East St., Oxford, and George C. Shick Jr., 17, 1855 W. Leonard, were charged with being drunk and disorderly.

In a quarrel at Norvalspont, South Africa, between a native shearer and a native woman, the woman bit off one of the man's thumbs.

Says 'Brick Wall' Blocking Merger

County Municipal Employees and Norm Mallory, Local 394 UAW.

The Oakland County CIO Council consists of 91 locals representing 37,900 members living, but not necessarily working, in the county.

The Federation consists of 23 locals. Pinner said he did not know the membership strength.

Haggard, a member of the CIO since 1937, cited another possible delay in the merger of the local groups. "I don't think we will accomplish a thing until the Wayne County Council and Wayne County Federation (AFL) are merged in order to give us a tentative type program to follow," he explained.

"Everything indicates we are going to be patterned after what they do down there," the union leader added.

Tallest Man in Army? Sergeant Claims Title

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Sgt. George M. Dinsmore Jr., stationed with the Oklahoma State University ROTC unit, claims to be the tallest man in the Army.

The 39-year-old career man stands 6 feet 11 inches. He was 6 feet 6 when he joined the Army 20 years ago.

50-Car Limit in Detroit To Cut Hoffa Motorcade

DETROIT (INS) — Teamster officials assured Detroit's traffic director that the 200-car motorcade from Willow Run Airport for James Hoffa this afternoon will be cut to 50 cars when it reaches the city limits to avoid a mammoth traffic jam.

The car and truck parade was to be sponsored by members of the Teamsters Union in honor of Hoffa, who recently was elected president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

In New York two Teamster union officials were arrested yesterday on indictments charging them with conspiracy in failing to produce records of their local for a federal racketeering grand jury.

FBI agents took the men, Joseph Curcio, 39, and George Baker, 38, into custody at their homes. Curcio, described as a chief lieutenant of the James R. Hoffa and John J. Dio forces in New York, is secretary-treasurer of Teamsters Local 269. Baker is a business agent and organizer for the local.

The indictment declared "in truth they were not destroyed."

It added that Curcio and Baker conspired to obstruct justice by concealing and hiding the records and giving false testimony.

The two men were released in $10,000 bail each by Federal Judge William Heptlands after they pleaded not guilty. Trial was set for Nov. 4.

22 Crewmen Rescued From Grounded Tanker

HONOLULU (AP) — Twenty-two of the 45 crewmen of the stricken tanker Mission San Miguel were safely transferred to a Navy LST which was maneuvered into position to take on the rest, the rescue craft radioed early today.

Rising waves smashed into the reef that wrecked the Mission San Miguel. Its engine room was flooded, the LST messaged.

The tanker went aground Tuesday night on Maro Reef, a wave-swept area of rock and shoals some 12 miles long and 5 miles wide. The reef is 745 miles north-west of Honolulu.

Open Girard Defense, Two Officers Testify

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP) — The defense of GI William S. Girard opened today with testimony from two of his officers on the firing range where he shot Mrs. Naka Sakai fatally on Jan. 30.

One of the officers said he told the Illinois soldier to guard a machinegun and the other officer said a few hours before the shooting Japanese collecting scrap brass had to be driven away from the gun.

Girard admits firing the empty cartridge from a grenade launcher on his M1 rifle that killed Mrs. Sakai. But he contends he was performing his duty, was trying to scare her away and hit her by accident.

LT. Billy Mohon, 25, of Comyn, Tex., said he told Girard and another specialist 3rd class, Victor Nickel, to guard the machinegun about 5 or 10 minutes before the woman scavenger was killed.

But LT. William A. Gigante, 25, of Detroit said about 150 shell pickers swarmed over the machinegun earlier, knocking the gunner from it and raising the possibility it might fire accidentally.

Chicago Girl Bound, Stabbed by Prowler

CHICAGO (AP) — A 16-year-old girl told police a masked prowler yesterday bound her hands and stabbed her four times as she lay ill in the bedroom of her home in suburban Evanston.

The victim, Katherine Davis, was reported in fair condition at Evanston Hospital.

Police said the description she gave of the knife wielding marauder resembled that of a man who has been terrorizing homes in northern suburbs since June.

General Warns U.S. Must Meet 'Moon' Challenge

PHOENIX, Ariz. (U)—Brig. Gen. Robert L. Scott, commanding general of Luke Air Force Base, says the United States must meet the challenge of the Russian satellite or "be at the mercy of the Soviet Union."

"If necessary, let's get rid of all three branches of the military service," he told the Phoenix Executives Club last night. "Let's pull out from each of the branches enough forward-looking men to form a missile corps."

Gen. Scott is the author "God is My Co-pilot," a best seller of the World War II era. He formerly was stationed at the Pentagon. He is due to retire from the Air Force later this month.

"We're being beaten in the field of science," he declared. "Oh, America is ahead on a lot of things—Cadillacs, television, refrigerators and Revlon's Love-pat. But we have failed to launch a satellite."

Gen. Scott said he is infuriated by a Navy spokesman's comment the Russian satellite is just a hunk of iron," he said. "The world is no longer controlled by land masses and the seven seas—but by Sputnik, circling us in its own orbit."

U. of M. to Build Units for Married Students

WASHINGTON (U)—A loan of $1,850,000 to the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, was announced today by the Community Facilities Administration.

The University will use the loan and $1,570,000 of its own funds to build eight groups of apartment buildings to house 288 married students and their families.

Space Control Pact Hope Dims

Dulles-Gromyko Talk Indicates Russia Won't Work for Agreement

WASHINGTON (U)—Top U.S. officials see no present possibility of practical agreements between Russia and the West on major world issues such as international control of space satellites.

They feel that Soviet Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev is not seriously interested in reaching any such agreement at this time.

This estimate of Khrushchev maneuvers in foreign affairs is based primarily on an assessment of Secretary of State Dulles' talk here last Saturday with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

It also is described as taking into account the positive purposes of Khrushchev's apparently well-planned diplomatic offensive in connection with the launching of the earth satellite.

In the American view he is seeking simultaneously to impress the world with Russia's scientific progress and military power, and to promote the familiar propaganda line that the Soviet Union is actively seeking peaceful settlements with its power rival, the United States.

The Dulles-Gromyko conversation impressed Dulles and other top officials chiefly by demonstrating what they now term the "inflexibility" of Soviet policy on the disputed problems talked about. These were mainly the Middle East, disarmament and the European situation.

Gromyko, according to authoritative information, gave no intimation of any Kremlin willingness to change position on any of these subjects.

Slot Machines for $10

PHILADELPHIA (U)—Sixty-three confiscated slot machines worth an estimated $60,000 brought the government a tiny jackpot of $10 when they were auctioned in the basement of the Federal Building here by an Internal Revenue agent, who himself made the only bid as one of the few permitted to buy such merchandise. The machines will be smashed and sold for junk.

There have been and still are many great college football rivalries.

Some of the backyard scraps have grown to insurmountable proportions and some have sentimentally faded away or discontinued.

Without doubt, one of the greatest and oldest of gridiron classics is the annual natural battle between the Cadets of West Point and the Middies of Annapolis. The series began in 1890 and in 57 games Army holds the edge 29-23-5.

The East, where football was born, has many great series still intact, but some less attractive in recent years.

Yale and Harvard go back to 1875 for their first meeting and there's Yale and Princeton, which began in 1873. Penn and Princeton started their rivalry back in 1876 but in 1893 Penn and Cornell started their skirmishes and it became one of the best known of classic rivalries.

Penn's faltering grid program in recent years has cooled the series, but on Thanksgiving Day, it's still the Penn-Cornell game which takes the spotlight.

Boston College and Holy Cross have torn into each other since 1896 and then one could hardly forget the now-defunct series between Pitt and Carnegie Tech. This one was as close to a backyard scrap as one could get. The schools are across the street from each other.

RIVALRIES MOVED WESTWARD

As football moved across the country other great rivalries grew, and naturally Notre Dame became involved in many of the greatest series on record.

The largest grid crowd known to attend a college game were the 112,912 who witnessed the Notre Dame-Southern Cal battle in Chicago in 1929.

Then there were the battles of Notre Dame-Army, Notre Dame-Navy, Michigan-Minnesota, Michigan-Ohio State, California-Stanford, and as the years went by, Southern Cal-UCLA, TCU-SMU, Texas-SMU, grabbed the spotlight.

The South produced many great meetings, such as Georgia and Auburn, Mississippi-Mississippi State, Georgia-Georgia Tech, North Carolina-Wake Forest and now North Carolina-Duke and Tennessee-Kentucky.

The list can go on and on and the traditions get greater.

NOW IT'S "M"-MSU

Even though Michigan and Michigan State have played 49 times since 1898, the early games between the two schools were not really as big as Michigan-Minnesota or Michigan-Ohio State.

In the recent era however, the "M"-MSU game has moved into the primary list of backyard scraps and the 50th meeting Saturday could top them all.

LANESING (AP) — Gov. Williams regional game. Any quarrel as to said today he is going to put on the pressure to try to obtain a television showing of the Michigan-Michigan State football game Saturday.

"I'm going to do all in my power to see that it gets on," Williams said. "I don't know why, from the viewpoint of the university, it can't be shown. If the NCAA is responsible, I'd like to know that too."

The annual contest before 101,000 fans has been a sellout since early summer. The National Broadcasting Co. has announced it will show the Ohio State-Illinois game at Columbus on a regional basis this Saturday rather than the Spartan-Wolverine struggle.

"Michigan State has been rated the number two team in the nation and Michigan is sixth," the Governor said. "I think the fans unable to buy tickets are entitled to see the game as a matter of public interest."

Williams said he was sending telegrams to the governing boards and the presidents of the two universities in an effort to find out why the game was not being televised.

At Ann Arbor, Michigan's athletic director Fritz Crisler said the NCAA television plan "prevents any possibility" of the game being televised.

Crisler said the university also would like to have the game on TV but he added, "the university is bound to abide by the rules."

Crisler explained, "there are at least three college games played within the 90-mile radius (of the transmitter) next Saturday which in accordance with the plan prevents any possibility of the Michigan-Michigan State game being televised as a sellout exception."

"The NBC Network bought not only the rights for the national series on television but purchased the regional rights of the Western Conference as well."

"NBC has the right to select the national as well as the conference

Spartan Eleven Picked in 50th Game of Series

Huge Crowd to Watch State Rivals Battle at Ann Arbor Saturday

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

A full house of 100,000 football fans will be wearing their partisan colors of Maize and Blue or Green and White in Michigan Stadium Saturday afternoon, but the most natural color of the day will be Gold.

It will be the Golden Anniversary game in the series between the two schools and at the end of the day the victor will reap a pot of golden opportunities on the college grid scene.

The Big Ten crown, national honors and a trip to the golden west will be within grasp for either Michigan or Michigan State.

If the odds-makers are right, the Spartans from East Lansing will emerge victorious by a margin of six points.

If they are wrong, and they probably will be, it will just prove the useless task of attempting to predict a winner in this hectic classic.

Despite the potent offensive units of both teams, many observers including the coaches look for a defensive battle with the two lines taking the acid test.

In beating Indiana 54-0 and California 19-0, Michigan State has kept its goal line door closed, while Michigan with a 16-0 victory over Southern California and 26-0 over Georgia, has permitted only one visitor into its pay zone.

The workhorse duties will probably go to Michigan State's Walt Kowalczyk and Michigan's junior fullback John Herrnstein. Kowalczyk has carried the ball 21 times for 86 yards and a 4.0 average, and Herrnstein has carried the ball 21 times for 94 yards and a 4.4 average.

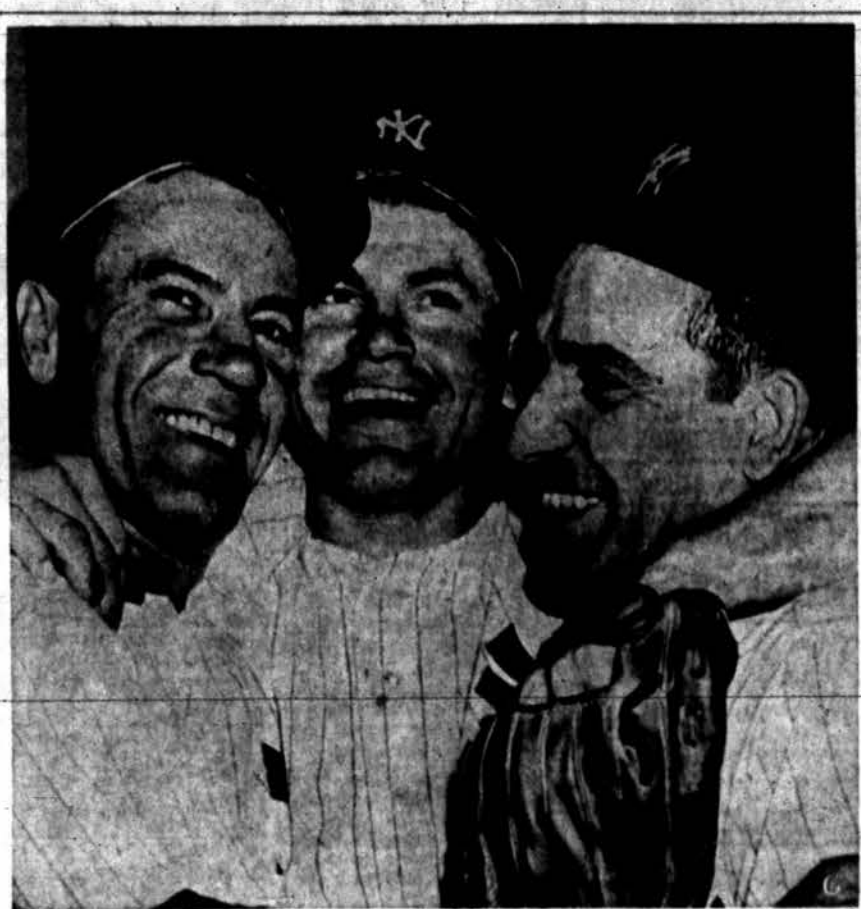

The passing battle between the quarterbacks should also prove interesting. Jim Ninowski of MSU has thrown 20 and completed 15 for 225 yards with one interception, and Jim Van Pelt of Michigan has thrown 16, completed 12 for 164 yards and one interception.

Second line signal callers Stan Noskin of the Wolverines and Mike Pamlich of the Spartans have also shown well. Noskin, only a sophomore, has hit on six of 14 passes for 92 yards and Pamlich has completed seven of nine for 78 yards.

Michigan, long time the fortress of the single wing, has Michigan State wondering what system coach Bonnie Oosterbaan will employ Saturday. Against Southern Cal, Michigan stuck to the T and against Georgia in the first half Oosterbaan employed the Wing, changing to the T during the entire second half.

Both teams are expected to pull a few tricks out of the hat, Michigan hoping to unleash an element of surprise and Michigan State to multiply its multiple offense.

Game time is 1:30 p.m. and a network of 21 stations will broadcast.

It's Up to Don, Lew

NEW YORK (INS) — Pride, a wonderful dream and just plain money are the prizes when the New York Yankees play the Milwaukee Braves today for baseball's World Championship in the seventh and take-it-all game of the 1937 World Series.

There can be no tomorrows for the losers of this sudden death game, and, dramatically, each side grasped for perfection in its fervent desire to wind up this hectic, historical playoff on a successful note.

Fittingly, it was to be Don Lissen, the perfect man of the 1936 series, pitching for the Yankees against Milwaukee's Lew Burdette, the perfect man of this year's series. And who could ask for anything more?

Certainly not the more than 60,000 fans at Yankee stadium who were to "be there" for the tension-loaded climax.

Yankees were listed as 13-to-10 favorites to win their 18th world title.

The Bombers were favored because they were home, because of their magic touch history and because they proved yesterday they haven't given up their habit of winning the big ones.

"Maybe Larsen will pitch another no-hitter, or something close to it," said Stengel, optimistically, as he smoked a cigarette and relaxed in his stocking feet in the Yankees' dressing-room after his team had evened up the series at 3-all yesterday.

Fred Haney, in the nearby Braves' dressing room, was saying at the same time:

"We've got just as good a chance to win now as when the series started."

And Burdette himself remarked: "I'm sure going to give it a try. I'm not going out there to lose. We've got to take this final game."

"This is the big one," said Casey. "We've got to go out there tomorrow full of determination and tell ourselves we'll win this thing. Who knows — maybe things will turn our way."

The feelings of the Braves were expressed by Wes Covington, Milwaukee's star left fielder. When he was asked yesterday if the Braves were discouraged at not having "wrapped it up," he replied:

"Certainly not. All these guys (looking around the dressing room) are pros. They know they've got to take defeats with victories."

"Tomorrow is another day. We'll be out there to win."

Ortonville Hosts Imlay 11 Friday at Homecoming

It will be Homecoming Game at Ortonville Friday night and the Blackhawks will have to be playing their best football to make it a successful one.

Riding a two-game win streak after losing the opener, the Ortonville eleven will be starting season play in the South Central Conference against no less an opponent than the defending champion, Imlay City.

Imlay opened defense of its crown a week ago by drubbing Millington but should run into more formidable opposition in the high-scoring Hawks. Ortonville boasts a strong backfield led by Chuck Graves, who has 33 points in three games.

Needs Two 'Doubles'

NEW YORK (AP) — Milwaukee needs two double plays today to equal the Series record set by Brooklyn in 1935. The Braves have 10 and the Yanks four.

Turley's Hurling, Homer by Bauer Lead to Finale

Berra Sets Record in 3-2 Sixth Game Triumph

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK — World Series managers Casey Stengel and Fred Haney are hoping for a kind nod from Dame Fortune today in the final, do-or-die game of the 1937 classic.

Milwaukee and New York have played each other to a standstill and will be "shooting the works" in the 7th game and trusting to luck.

The question still being asked around the baseball world concerning yesterday's 6th game victory by the Yanks was: Should Hank Aaron have bunted in the sixth inning of the sixth World Series game with some out, one man on base, and his team trailing by one run?

"No," says manager Fred Haney of the Milwaukee Braves. "Aaron is our power hitter. We never let him bunt under such circumstances."

"He's right," says manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees.

So Aaron fouled the first pitch, and then Bob Turley blazed in a curve and a fast ball for called strikes. Wes Covington promptly hit into a double play and New York won 3-2, forcing the series into a seventh and deciding game.

On the record Haney appears to be right in his views. Aaron has nine hits in 23 times at bat in this series for an average of .391 and three of the hits have been homers. In fact it was his homer in the seventh that tied the score yesterday. It was a boomer into the left field bullpen that cleared the fence with plenty to spare.

Nevertheless there are baseball men who argue that in the situation that confronted Milwaukee in the ninth, Aaron should have bunted in order to advance Ed Mathews, who had walked, to second base. Back of Aaron in the lineup came Covington and Frank Torre, and Torre has two series homers.

The sixth game was marked by splendid pitching and home runs, four of them. For Milwaukee, Bob Buhl (hit in the third), Ernie Johnson and Don McMahon were effective on the mound, except for two big home runs.

Turley went all the way for New York and he too was effective, with the same exception. But one of the home runs that the Braves yielded, that hit by Yogi Berra off Buhl in the third, was good for two runs, and that spelled the difference in the close game.

Berra set a new series record by playing in his 33rd game.

Buhl started off the game by getting Hank Bauer and Tony Kubek on swinging strikeouts, and then, after Enos Slaughter walked, and Berra singled, and Buhl himself put the runners on second and third with a wild pitch, he struck out Gil McDougald.

Things still looked good for him in the second, where a double play helped, and in the third, when Bauer pounded to shortstop, and Kubek grounded out. Then Buhl walked Slaughter and that set the stage for Berra to hit a home run into the right field stands.

Torre cut the Yankees' margin with a homer to right field in the fifth, and Aaron's big blow in the seventh evened matters.

Then in the bottom of the seventh Hank Bauer blasted his home run to the left field foul pole, and the Yankees had all they needed.

Red Wings Open Hockey Season Tonight

By BILL CORNWELL

DETROIT—Hockey moves into Olympia Stadium tonight when the revamped Detroit Red Wings open their 1957-58 season against the New York Rangers.Red Wing followers will have to study their programs closely this evening or they may lose track ofthe Detroit personnel, which has undergone a radical change since the end of last season.There are still several familiar faces, of course, such as the incomparable Gordie Howe, Alex Delvecchio, Red Kelly, Dutch Reibel, Warren Godfrey and Marcel Pronovost.But there are quite a few new comers on the roster, including four rookies and Johnny Wilson and Forbes Kennedy, who were part of the deal which sent veteran Ted Lindsay and goalie Glenn Hall to the Chicago Black Hawks.The trading policies of general manager Jack Adams havenever permitted the Wings to be a stand pat club and this year is certainly no exception. Detroit's 1957-58 edition is the most sharply altered squad in the National Hockey League.Lindsay, naturally, is the No. 1 absentee. The fiery competitor was shipped to Chicago after 12seasons here and criticism was promptly leveled at Adams from all directions.How the transaction will work out remains to be seen. Time alone will tell. Lindsay scored the lone goal and Hall turned in a shutout as the Hawks defeated Toronto, 1-0, in the NHL opener Tuesday night.The most notable addition to the lineup is goalie Terry Sawchuk, who formerly tended the Detroit cage before being traded to Boston. Illness forced Terry to quit the Bruins last season and now he's back with his old teammates.Wilson is also a former Red Wing while Kennedy was one of Chicago's better young players in 1956-57. The four Detroit rookies are Guy Fielder, Cammy Burton,
Bill McCreary and Tom Mc-Carthy.In contrast, the Rangers offer the most unchanged roster of any NHL club. The acquisition of center Hank Bussell from the Hawks for Ron Murphy and the return of ex-Ranger Bob Chry-stal have been New York's only alterations.The Red Wings will start their 32nd NHL season tonight with four new lines, all rebuilt in the last five weeks. Howe, Fielder and Wilson form the No. 1 line, followed by Lorne Ferguson-Delvec-chio-McCarthy, Bill Dineen-Reibel-Kennedy and MBurton-Norm Ul-man-Billy Dea.Detroit has lost just one opening game in the last 18 years and the Rangers are the most traditional 1st night foe. Tonight's game is not a sellout and the starting time is 8:30.

Offense St. Mike Problem

Offense — the striking force which scores touchdowns and wins football games — will be St.
Michael's No. 1 problem this Sunday afternoon against St. Frederick.Pontiac's two parochial high schools resume their gridiron feud for the 23rd time on that day at Werner Stadium and unless the Shamrocks show more striking power than heretofore, their domination of the southsiders will end abruptly.The Mikes are overdue for an offensive explosion. They have the backs, the line and the speed, but the long-awaited attack is still forthcoming. The potential is there, it just needs to "jell."St. Mike has been held scoreless for the last eight quarters. The southsiders conquered Detroit
Benedictine in their opener, 13-6, then absorbed successive 13-0 shutouts at the hands of Detroit
St. Rita and Highland Park St.
Benedict.Coach Bob Minewasser's charges displayed little or no punch during their two setbacks. Even in the Benedictine game, they failed to muster an attack until the 4th quarter when they scored twice for a comeback victory.Penalties in particular have damaged their offensive power.
Illegal procedure and offside infringements have repeatedly forced the Shamrocks into a 1st-and-15 situation or else nullified a successful 1st down play.So it becomes a case of Mine-wasser and his staff coordinating the offensive unit. Maybe the spirit of the occasion will produce the desired results.The Shamrocks' defense has been basically sound thus far. But de-fense alone does not win and to date the Mikes have been unable to launch a sustained attack.Flu and injuries are hampering the Shamrocks in their preparations for Sunday's battle.Lou Palace, senior tackle and captain, is lost for the season after a knee operation while half-backs Tom Chapdelaine, Chuck Steinhilber and Mike Flynn are all nursing leg injuries. Six regulars are sidelined with the flu.St. Mike has defeated St. Fred seven straight times and holds a 12-7 lead in the series.

The winner receives the Steve

Griffin Memorial Trophy, which signifies the city Catholic title.
Three victories mean permanent possession of the award.This is the 6th Griffin cup in series history. St. Mike retired the trophy in 1941, 1951 and 1954 while the Rams took home the coveted award in 1939 and 1946.

Arthur Hill High Holds Hex on Pontiac

Chiefs to Open Saginaw Valley Action Friday

PHS Unable to Score Win Over Lumberjacks Since 1951

It has been a long time since Pontiac has been able to score a victory over Arthur Hill and in 23 games since 1930 the Chiefs have been on the winning side of the ledger only four times.

Thus, the Lumberjacks from Saginaw will be heavily favored to score their third win of the season when they open Saginaw Valley action Friday night against PHS in Wisner Stadium.

Coach Kurt Kampe admits that in his seven years at Arthur Hill, only the 1954 team was better than the present squad.

With a veteran backfield combination and a strong forward wall, the Hillies romped over Alpena last week, 54-13, while the Chiefs were idle because of the flu which struck scheduled opponent Ferndale.

Pontiac could hope that Arthur Hill may be looking ahead to its clash with powerful Bay City Central next week, and with some of the improvement shown against Lansing Sexton two weeks ago, the Chiefs could pull an upset.

"We will have to play our very best from start to finish against this ball club," said PHS coach Jesse MacLeay, "and if we do we may surprise a few people."

Arthur Hill's running attack evolves around halfbacks Dave Carpenter and Bob Ahrens, both seniors weighing 170 and 180 respectively. Fullbacks Mike Seidel and Garmon Welker share the line-backing duties, with Welker doing the kicking chores.

Big Larry Masker, 237 pound center, plus 220-pound and Paul Doersam and 210-pound tackle Tom Harvey are the big men of the forward wall.

Doersam, a strong SVC choice, has been out of drills with the flu for several days and he may see only limited action. Gary Bishop and Wally Dirker a pair of 180 pound seniors may get the starting nod at ends.

Pontiac is expected to do some platooning at quarterback with veteran Dick Whitmer and sophomore Fred Staley. Others in the backfield will be Bob Manning and Jim Keller at the halves and Larry Douglas at fullback.

Should Staley operate well, there is the possibility that Whitmer may see action at fullback.

End John Phlegm is expected to be ready after a battle with the flu and Mike Hardman, the other terminal, should also be set after an injury.

Walled Lake Meets Farmington

Waterford Host to Berkley

Waterford and Walled Lake met in a crucial Inter-Lakes Conference game but not out, will try to pick themselves off the floor Friday night and fight in championship style like they were expected to do before the 1951 football season began.

The Skippers, still looking for their 1st victory, play host to tough Berkley while Walled Lake is visited by dangerous Farmington.

Oxford-Orion Renew Rivalry

Rival Neighbors Meet in Grid Clash Friday on Dragons' Field

They usually throw past records out of the window when neighboring rivals get together in any sport and that will be the case Friday when power-packed Lake Orion hosts winless Oxford in a non-league county clash.

Orion, possessing one of the best backfields in this sector, has rolled through three early rivals with considerable ease but the Dragons are expecting one of their busiest evenings of the season Friday.

Oxford has lost three times and scored only one touchdown but continues to improve in hopes of upsetting a few apple carts before too many more weeks go by.

The Wildcats, under new coach Dick Figg, have been praised by their conquerors as "greatly improved over last year" which could mean a change in fortunes before too long.

Walled Lake and Waterford were labeled Inter-Lakes co-favorites in pre-season forecasts and the lofty tag has so far been an unfortunate one. Neither team has lived up to its advance billing.

The "curse" of the favorite's role has apparently been just that. The Skippers have been particularly disappointing, although in fairness it must be said that they were a badly crippled squad last Friday at Farmington.

Flu struck down the heart of the Waterford team prior to that game. For example, John Herrington, an end, was playing quarterback on two days notice because regular signal-callers Jim Green and Wendy Meyer were ill. Half a dozen other regulars were also missing from the lineup.

The result was a disorganized Skipper eleven and a 27-0 lashing by Farmington. This, on top of a 6-6 tie with Lapeer and a 26-0 lacing at the hands of Royal Oak Dodgers, promises a disastrous campaign unless coach Dave Freeman's gridders get moving.

Walled Lake's won-lost record is much better, but coach Dave Smith's crew still hasn't been anything to shout about. The defending champion Vikings defeated Redford Union, 26-12, and West Bloomfield, 18-0, to run their winning streak to 10 games.

The Viking bubble burst emphatically last week when surprisingly strong Southfield snapped their victory string with a decisive 19-0 triumph.

It's a brighter picture at Waterford this week. The flu victims are struggling back and the Skippers are expected to be at almost full strength for the Berkley invasion.

The roving virus has found its way to Walled Lake, however, and several Viking players are ill, including quarterback Frank Fink. Fink will definitely be absent from the Farmington game, Smith said.

Waterford and Walled Lake victories are a "must" if they still have any hopes of winning the crown.

Berkley boasts the league's fastest backfield, headed by "swifties" Franz Neubrecht, Dick Pieple and Fritz Ellner, and a standout center in Ron Martens, Dave Catherman, a tricky ball-carrier, leads the Farmington attack.

Southfield, along with Berkley looking more and more like the team to beat in the Inter-Lakes, goes to Van Dyke tomorrow night for the other league game.

ORTONVILLE ACE — Half-back Chuck Graves is Ortonville's chief hope for an upset of Imlay City in Friday night's South Central Conference football game at Ortonville. The Blackhawk ace is Oakland County's 3rd highest scorer with six touchdowns and a total of 39 points.

Skowron Miserable

NEW YORK (U) — Moose Skowron, Yank first baseman is miserable because he can't play with his bad back.

"But I think I could pinch hit," he said. "I couldn't run, though." "Well, then, just hit home runs and you'll only have to trot," laughed Joe Collins.

NCAA Leaders Hang On

NEW YORK (U)—Bob Winters of Utah State, the total offense leader, and high scorer Wray Carlton of Duke were the only major college football individual leaders holding over from a week ago, the NCAA service bureau reported today.

Winters, who is leading in forward passing with 492 yards in three games, is tops in total offense with 515 yards. Bob Stransky of Colorado, second in total offense with 436 yards, leads in rushing with 369 yards. Arizona State's Leon Burton is the rushing runnerup with 365 yards. Carlton scored eight points as Duke defeated Maryland 14-0, running his total to 40, 30 more than for Jerry Mertens of Drake and Idaho's Howard Willis.

Tom Forrestal of Navy is second in passing with 386 yards, and

Larson Doesn't Expect Second 'Perfect' Game

NEW YORK (U)—Don Larson, the Yank starter in the deciding Series game, said he often thought of his perfect game against the ex-Brooklyn Dodgers in last year's Series.

"But I don't think it will happen again," he said. "I'll be too taken up with the job at hand."

Terry Brennan Says Flu Hurts Team for Army

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (U)—Coach Terry Brennan says his flu-ridden Notre Dame football team is in poor physical shape for Saturday's game with tough Army in Philadelphia before an expected 100,000 fans. Six of his regulars and two second stringers were sidelined by the flu bug yesterday and spent the day in their rooms or the university infirmary.

Injuries Hit Gophers

CHICAGO (U) — Midwest football briefs:

Minnesota — Three Minnesota regulars are doubtful players for the Gopher invasion of Northwest, Saturday. Right halfback Bob Schultz still is sidelined by an ankle injury. Halfback Dave Lindbloom and end Perry Gehring are nursing bruised hips.

Wisconsin — Wisconsin, a high scoring machine in two conference games, concentrated on defense for their Big Ten opener against Purdue at Lafayette, Ind., Saturday.

Northwestern — The Wildcats scrimmaged briefly against a freshman squad using Minnesota players. Senior Chuck Jersas, shelved for more than a month with a broken foot bone, returned to his guard position in practice and was expected to be ready for the Oct. 19 game against Michigan.

Illinois — Coach Ray Eliot emphasized an aerial offense as the Illini staged a stiff drill for their conference opener against Ohio State. Tackles Carl Johnson and Paul Adams returned to practice after being sidelined a week by injuries.

Purdue — The Boilermaker line got a boost for Saturday's game against Wisconsin as 235-pound tackle Wayne Farmer returned to the squad. Farmer, a 1956 regular as a sophomore, has been sidelined with a pinched neck nerve.

Indiana — Two reserves moved up to first string positions as the Hoosiers tapered drill for the Iowa game. Letterman Pete Riechle took over right guard and Tom Campbell advanced to the top wingback spot.

Marquette — A pass defense drill dominated the Marquette drill as Coach Johnny Druze alerted his team for an aerial offense by Holy Cross.

Ohio State — The Buckeyes went through a defensive workout and watched motion pictures of the Illinois offense. Coach Woody Hayes reminded the team of a 41-20 upset to Illinois at Champaign in 1953.

Flu Postpones Three Football Games Friday

The roaring flu bug continues to raise havoc with Oakland County area football teams. Two of Friday night's scheduled games were postponed Wednesday because of the pesky virus.

East Detroit and Hazel Park, undefeated Eastern Michigan League powers, were slated to meet Friday at Hazel Park, but the game was called off when flu disabled 26 varsity gridgers and three coaches at East Detroit.

Flu also delayed tomorrow's Oakland B League game at Madison between unbeaten Clawson and Madison. Clawson requested the postponement when 14 varsity players were stricken.

The two games have been tentatively rescheduled. Clawson and Madison expect to meet on Nov. 15 while the East Detroit-Hazel Park contest has been set for Nov. 22.

Latest postponement came early today when Avondale's Frank Crowell announced the L'apeer-Avondale game at Lapeer Friday had been cancelled. Coach Crowell, two of his aides, and 22 of 29 players are ill, Frank reported.

Weather Cloudy, Cool

NEW YORK (INS) — Variable cloudiness and cooler, with afternoon temperatures in the 60s and 10-15 mile-an-hour northwesterly winds, were forecast for today's final World Series game at Yankee Stadium.

STRIKES AND SPARES

By Joe Wilman

"Do you advocate a special grip in a bowling ball?"

That's a question usually asked of me wherever I give an instruction clinic.

The answer I give is, "No."

That doesn't mean, however, that a special grip, such as the Steve Nagy Grip or the Shur-Hook, won't help you. For some bowlers, these grips are fine for retaining firm control of the ball and getting a little extra "stuff" on it through finger lift.

If your ball slips off your thumb or your fingers, then you certainly need something to help you keep a firm grip. It may be a different pitch in your thumb or finger holes or perhaps some special grip.

Whatever the situation, only a qualified bowling instructor should advise whether you need a grip or not. Let him watch you roll a few games. From that, he can tell whether you're dropping the ball or whether your finger lift is weak.

He can also tell if your ball fits perfectly, as the ball in today's drawing does. If so, why add a special grip which you don't need. Let him be the judge.

DUPONT ZEREX® ANTI-FREEZE

PERMANENT TYPE

WITH MR-8 KEEPS YOU

GUARANTEED* SAFE

AGAINST FREEZE-UPS, RUST-UPS ...AND IT WON'T ROT HOSE

HOW MR-8 PROTECTS YOUR CAR

Here's the complete all-around cooling system protection you get with "Zerex," the only permanent type anti-freeze containing MR-8, Du Pont's special chemical rust inhibitor.

- 1. Works in all waters
Du Pont "Zerex" anti-freeze with MR-8 is compatible with all types of water. Even in hard water the inhibitor stays in perfect solution. Hard water makes the inhibitors used in many anti-freezes precipitate out, materially reducing their protective qualities.
- 2. Will not rot rubber hose
"Zerex" with MR-8 will not rot or soften rubber hose because it contains no oil. Oil is extremely harmful to some radiator hose, softening or rotting it sometimes in one season. Then the hose may collapse or burst, causing overheating and engine damage.
- 3. Neutralizes all acids
The seven different metals used in modern cooling systems can become corroded when a permanent anti-freeze solution turns acid. However, "Zerex" with MR-8 has extra "reserve alkalinity" that gives winter-long protection from the corrosive action of cooling system acids.
- 4. Keeps rust in suspension
"Zerex" with MR-8 keeps the cooling systems of today's complex engines clean and free-flowing. Because "Zerex" contains no oil, it does not cause rust to stick to cooling system surfaces and clog radiator passages, which can cause overheating and engine damage.

So don't take chances this winter. See your dealer now and get the complete winter-long protection only "Zerex" with MR-8 gives. It's the premium, permanent type anti-freeze made and guaranteed by Du Pont... your best assurance of quality and satisfaction.

*DU PONT GUARANTEE

"Zerex" anti-freeze will protect the cooling system of your car from freezing, rust or corrosion for one full winter—and will not leak out—if used in a properly operating, watertight cooling system and if used according to Du Pont directions printed on the "Zerex" container. Du Pont guarantees too, that "Zerex" will not boil away and can be used with either high or low-opening thermostats, at high or low altitudes in extreme driving or weather conditions. "Zerex" will not harm rubber hoses, gaskets, pump packing, metal parts of the cooling system or car finish. "Zerex" mixes perfectly with water, flows freely and transfers heat efficiently.

Everybody's Nervous About Queen's Visit

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—We're spinning around here like a satellite waiting for Queen Elizabeth—but we're not as nervous as Jane Powell who was tapped to sing at a dinner Secretary Dulles gives the Queen in Washington Oct. 18.

WILSON

Jane's husband, Pat Nerney, shot a half-G on white-tie-and-tails hoping somebody in Hollywood'll give that kind of a rumble so he can get one more wearing.

The State Department — also inviting Marge and Gower Champion — is working Saturdays getting ready for the Queen. (Only a half day, we heard). One investigating agency was asked whether it's investigating people who'll be hanging around outside the party.

"No," was the answer. "We're investigating the guests."

Today on her 29th birthday, pretty Pat Gaston (Mrs. T. Manville 10th) meets with lawyers to agree on a divorce from Tommy. They're still chummy; when she flits to Reno tomorrow—five months after the wedding—Tommy'll squire her to the train... fetching flowers.

SMALL-TOWN STUFF: This one-time country boy hasn't been back to the south forty in some seasons now but he wonders whether the butcherin', elder-squeezin', squirrel-hunting, rabbit-hunting, and flap-jacks for breakfast still prevail. And what's happened? Even Arthur Godfrey doesn't do any canning any more. Do the housewives?

JANE

Mike Todd's publicity chief, Bill Doll, a Grafton, W. Va., boy, is partly in charge of picking the guest list of 18,000 whom Todd is inviting to his little party at Madison Square Garden. "It's amazing," says Bill. "I've suddenly discovered that I have 18,000 intimate friends."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

Gwen Verdon turned down a $20,000-a-week TV show — didn't like the scripts... Julie London says her engagement to Bobby Troup isn't on, and adds, "But it isn't off, either."... Rock 'n' roll is still going strong — Fats Domino is buying two apartment houses in his native New Orleans.

EARL'S PEARLS: A woman seldom throws a fit unless there's a man around to catch it—Adrian Anderson. That's earl, brother.

Car Operating Costs Top 10 Cents a Mile

WASHINGTON — According to a survey made for the American Automobile Association, typical car-operating costs in the United States have risen above the 10-cent-a-mile level.

The survey found that these costs in 1956 climbed 5% per cent over the previous year.

More Petitions in Waterford

School Bus Dispute Brings Promise From Senator Lodge

At a meeting last night of the newly organized Waterford Township Safety Assn., members decided to circulate more petitions regarding bus transportation for school children until safe walking facilities are available.

Some parents contend that narrow, fast-traveled roads in the township are unsafe for their children to walk on, and that half-empty buses pass many children going to and from school.

State Senator L. Harvey Lodge has promised the chairman of the association, Ralph Blair, 6527 Elizabeth Lake Rd., that he plans on meeting with the Oakland County Board of Education to discuss the problem.

After the meeting with the school officials, Lodge will meet with the safety group to make recommendations regarding the situation.

Many parents in the township are still escorting their children to and from school en masse.

Buried Trash Now Treasure

Russell Cave Diggings Reveal Profile of Culture Through Centuries

WASHINGTON — Excavations in Russell Cave, the home of Stone-Age Americans in northeast Alabama, have been ended for the season.

During the second summer of work at the prehistoric site, diggers probed to a depth of 32 feet without reaching the original floor of the cave. Over thousands of years the cave's occupants covered their litter with fresh layers of earth, leaving behind an unsurpassed profile of cultural evolution in the American Southeast.

Charcoal taken from an ancient fire at the 23-foot level promises to be the oldest material of human origin found thus far in the Southeast. This fire was ten feet deeper than a deposit of man-made charcoal tested by the radioactive carbon 14 method after the 1956 excavations and found to be about 8,000 years old.

Russell Cave work has been carried out jointly with the Smithsonian Institution. The cave and its farm where it is located are owned by the Society.

Led by Smithsonian archeologist Carl F. Miller, the expedition has collected two and a half tons of artifacts which are now under intensive study. This treasure trove of what was once cave men's trash includes weapon tips; bone, shell, and pottery objects; tools; remains of ancient meals; and ashes and carbon from fires.

Hollywood Headlines

Leslie Caron's New Role Calls for Nary a Dance

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — No matter what you say, Leslie Caron won't dance.

It seems a crying shame, because the little French doll brightened the screen with her dancing in "An American in Paris," "Daddy Long Legs" and other musicals. Now she's back in Hollywood after a two-year absence, doing a nondancing role in "Gigi."

She's a changed girl. During her absence she acquired a new husband, British director Peter Hall, a new son and a more confident attitude toward life. She firmly predicts she will never dance again.

"Oh, if a studio came up with a really interesting story of a ballet dancer, I might do it," she said. "But I can't see that ever happening."

"Why? Because the life of a ballet dancer is dull, uninteresting, stupid and dirty. It is a terrible life, and I don't know why I did it so long. I haven't danced now for two years, and I must say I don't miss it a bit."

"Ballet dancing is not only stupid, it is against nature. Human beings were made to walk with their feet straight forward. But in ballet you are forced to make your feet go like this." She indicated the position of the feet side-by-side at right angles to their usual position.

Leslie, now 26, started dancing when she was 10. But when she left here after "Daddy Long Legs" with Fred Astaire, she was determined to leave dancing behind. She did a straight play with director Jean Renoir in Paris, then played "Gigi" on the London stage. That's when she met her husband, who directed the show.

"I'd rather be known as an actress than a dancer," she said.

Security for You

Survivor Must Present Proof of Death

By RAY HENRY

It was in 1789 that Ben Franklin wrote a letter to a friend:

"In this world nothing is certain but death and taxes."

He didn't have Social Security in mind when he wrote it. But, if he made such a remark today in a local Social Security office, chances are the response would be:

"Maybe so, but before we make any Social Security survivors payments we've got to have some proof of the death."

And, if Ben showed any signs of arguing, he'd probably have the regulations quoted to him.

Here, in essence, is what he'd find out:

If a person applies for payments based on the Social Security record of someone who has died, the person must show some proof of the death and give some details of the circumstances surrounding it.

The kind of evidence the Social Security wants is:

1. A certified copy of the public record of death, a coroner's report of the death, a report of the verdict of the coroner's jury of the state or city where the death occurred or a certified statement of the contents of the record of death; or

2. A statement of the funeral director, attending physician, or intern of the institution where the death occurred; or

3. A certified copy of an official report made by any agency of the United States which is authorized to make such a report under any law of the United States. (For example: A report of the Army of the death of one of its men.)

OTHER EVIDENCE

The Social Security Administration is aware that it is not always possible for a person to show an official or semi-official report of a death such as those listed above.

So, it says that if no such evidence is available, a person may submit:

1. The signed statements of two or more persons, having personal knowledge of the death, setting forth the facts and circumstances as to the place, date, and cause of death; or

2. Other evidence which would tend to substantiate the death.

The Social Security people also have a couple of rules on proving death when a person dies outside the United States or when a person disappears and isn't heard from again.

If death occurs outside the United States, the Social Security Administration requires a report of the death by a United States consul or some other agent of the State Department. The report must bear the signature of the consul or agent and his official seal.

If a person has been unexplainedly absent from his home and unheard of for a period of seven years, the Social Security Administration will presume the person has died. It will do so, however, only after the facts surrounding the absence are established.

For example: The letter below just wouldn't be enough to prove its point. It actually was received by a Social Security office:

Dear Sirs: Everybody here is sure that Sam is dead. We and the police looked everywhere for him. He was very regular and we could always count on where he was if he wasn't home. At Johnny's Stag Bar they said they knew he'd walk in the door at 5:20 on the dot every night. But he never came in that night, so I know he must be dead."

(Questions on Social Security problems may be addressed to "Social Security," in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered by mail from the Pontiac office of the Social Security Administration. There is no charge for this service.)

Young Hendersons Confuse Air Force

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — William John Henderson Jr., is causing a lot of confusion at nearby McClellan Air Force Base. There are two of them. Both are first lieutenants and members of the same squadron. In hope of reducing mixups, one of the Hendersons, from Escanaba, Mich., dropped the "junior" from his name. The other, from Dover, N. J., dropped his middle initial. But the confusion continues:

"He still gets all my checks and I get all his bills," says William J.

Bears Couldn't Bear Sight of Humans

GRAND MARAIS, Minn. (AP) — Bedtime bear stories! A loud crash woke Herman Hendrickson out of a deep sleep. He found himself face to face with a bear. Bruin, somewhat startled himself, went out where the door had been. Hendrickson found the door tipped from its hinges. When Mrs. Russell Gundersen walked into her bedroom to retire for the night she found a bear sitting on her bed. While Mrs. Gundersen raced to a neighbor for help, the bear left through a screened window, knocking over furniture en route.

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — An advertisement for a city-sponsored teenage dance here read: "Parents admitted free when accompanied by their children."

He Visited Court but Stayed Too Long

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — Nonie Tenorio, 24, Albuquerque, dropped into federal court to see how the Bernalillo County Grand Jury was proceeding. But he didn't stay long. He was spotted by deputy U. S. marshals and arrested on the spot. The curious Tenorio had been indicted the previous week on a dope charge.

He couldn't understand. Hadn't he been released on $1,000 bond? The deputies explained Tenorio had been released on $1,000 bond but U. S. Dist. Judge Waldo Rogers had raised it to $10,000.

Mills, Exports Steady Wheat

CHICAGO, Oct. 9. — Wheat futures held about steady on the board of trade today, influenced by some export business and a little mill buying. Other grains and soybeans eased fractionally in early dealings.

India was reported to have taken Pacific Coast white wheat overnight and this gave a slight lift to the bread grains on the Chicago market.

Traders said there was no pressure on wheat futures and that the market appeared to be holding at previous levels without any special incentive.

Soybeans were off slightly, influenced by easiness in soybean oils and meals.

Trading in most futures was light in early dealings. There was no news of importance to the trade, and weather conditions over most of the grain-producing states continued favorable.

Near the end of the first hour, new style wheat was 1/4 higher, Dec. $2.19 1/2; oats unchanged to 1/4 lower, Dec. $1.20 1/2; soybeans 1/4 lower, Nov. $2.29 1/2; lard 2 to 5 cents a hundred pounds lower, Oct. $11.60.

First Iced Tea in 1904

ST. LOUIS — A heat wave during the 1904 World's Fair in St. Louis led to the birth of iced tea. An English tea exhibitor, dismayed at the refusal of fairgoers to drink his hot brew, added ice to strong tea and came up with what proved to be the most popular drink at the exposition.

Stock Market Dips Sharply

The following are top prices covering sales of locally grown produce brought to the Farmer's Markets by growers and sold by them in wholesale package lots. Quotations are furnished by the Detroit Bureau of Markets, as of Wednesday.

NEW YORK — Stock market prices dipped sharply in active trading today.

Key stocks were off from one to four points on an earlier decline gathered speed.

Wall Street sources said the market was depressed over the news, including layoffs of around 4,000 workers by the Pennsylvania Railroad, high oil inventories, disappointment that more money is not being spent on missiles, cutbacks and some lower earnings.

The opening was active with prices generally lower. There were a few exceptions, but most of these switched to the minus side in later dealings.

The major steels showed barely any price movement, although Bethlehem gave up a fraction. Motors had a slightly lower trend with Chrysler off around a point and Ford a fraction. Missiles continued irregular.

Lukens Steel was up 1/4 at the opening, but quickly erased the gain.

Gulf Oil fell well over a point.

Opening bells included Westinghouse Electric off 1/4 at 57 1/2 on 1,200 shares; Boeing off 1/4 at 30 1/2 on 3,000; Santa Fe up 1/4 at 20 1/2 on 1,200; and American Can up 1/4 at 44 1/2 on 1,000.

Broadway Star Readies Series

Plans Fall Through She's Also Preparing for Play in Case Video

By DICK KLEINER
NEW YORK (NEA) — Fortunately, Ethel Merman is not one of these Broadway stars who look down their upturned noses (a neat, but possible, trick) at television.

Although she recently rejected a starring role in the CBS-TV spectacular, "Crescendo," Ethel likes television, just as she likes most homey things.

"I get a big kick out of TV," she says. "It's fun to do, first, and it gives me a chance to reach the people. I can reach more people in one night on TV than I can here in a year."

By "here," she meant the theater. She was sitting in her dressing room at the Majestic Theater while we talked.

Most dressing rooms are pretty sloppy. Hers is neat, decorated with taste, comfortable.

FAVORITE SHADE

"Jo Mielziner designed it," she says, referring to the famed stage designer. "It's my favorite shade of blue."

It's all that same blue, a chalky, smoky blue. There's a tiny sitting room first, then the dressing room itself.

The sitting room has places to sit, which is expected in a sitting room, and things to look at too. There's one table full of tiny animal figures, mostly bunnies.

"I have a thing about bunnies," she said. "Everybody knows it and brings them to me."

Inside, in the dressing room, there are more bunnies. These were mostly of the stuffed variety.

And there are autographed pictures of Jerry Lewis and Perry Como stuck in the mirror, and pictures of her own family framed on the dressing table.

ETHEL MERMAN

TWO YOUNGSTERS

She's married to Bob Six, an airline executive. Her two children — Ethel, at 15, looks just like her, from the picture, and Bobby is a handsome 12-year-old — do not seem to be headed for show business. Ethel "leans to art" and Bobby, quite naturally, is obsessed with airplanes at this point.

TV looms pretty large in her future. She's working on a series for herself — it's too early, she says, to divulge the situation — and, if it works out, it will mean no more Broadway for the duration.

Just in case it doesn't work out, however, she's already deep in work on a Broadway show, tentatively set for a year from now.

And there's a record deal coming up, too. She's signed with RCA-Victor for some singles, as well as albums. These will be her first single records in some years. The last was a duet with Ray Bolger on the old song, "Dearie."

Highway Department to Take Bids on Road

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Department today announced it will take bids Oct. 16 in Escanaba on a service road to funnel traffic off the southbound approach to the Mackinac Straits Bridge at St. Ignace.

The mile-long road will extend from the south approach at Graham St. to U.S. 2 just west of St. Ignace.

Orson Welles, 'Moon' Frighten Radio Listeners

KELOWNA, B.C. (AP) — Orson Welles and the Russian satellite proved too much for some radio listeners last night.

Radio station CKOV in this Okanagan Valley town devoted a brief newscast to the day's reports on Russia's Sputnik, now spinning around the earth.

Then, without an introduction or advance warning, the station put on a recording of Welles' famous "War of the Worlds" broadcast in 1938.

Twenty years ago thousands of radio listeners were frightened by the make-believe report that men from Mars had invaded the earth.

Last night 60 phone calls came in within a few minutes from anxious folk who thought Sputnik had landed hostile Russians in North America.

The United States averages 175,000 forest fires a year.

Santa Fe Is Oldest Seat of Government

SANTA FE, N.M. — Santa Fe is the oldest seat of government in the United States. It was founded in 1610 and 40 Spanish governors ruled a New World empire from its governor's palace.

Restored in 1909 to its original appearance, it is now the Museum of New Mexico. The present State Capitol is three blocks south of the old palace.

In 1608 Galileo Galilei perfected the telescope.

Drink Full Name

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A drink known locally as a "Flaming Purple Passion" certainly lived up to its name recently. The bartender was mixing the drink and started to light it a second time after it had gone out once. The concoction burst into more flame than expected, set fire to the blouse of a waitress and sent her to the hospital with second-degree burns.

Vatican City covers an area of slightly less than 130 acres.

Beagle Imitates Birds

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — Alexander the Great, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mack's 7-year-old English beagle, has taken an angling tip from diving birds. The dog waits motionless on the Mack dock at nearby Fine Lake until a fish swims by. Then he dives . . . and nine times out of 10 comes up with a fish in his mouth, say the Macks.

India plans to give military training to civilians, on weekends, four hours a day.

They Paid Money Back

WAUKESHA, Wis. (AP) — Two stole $3.50 from the poor box of St. Joseph's Catholic Church. But they already had spent the money — at the annual St. Joseph's church festival.
