Selfridge Airmen Safe After Crash

Jet Wings Lock 20,000 Feet Up, Near St. Clair

Pilots Use 'Chutes, Are Uninjured, Both Planes Are Demolished

PORT HURON (AP) — Two jet planes from Selfridge Field Air Force Base collided while on a routine training flight over southwestern St. Clair County today. Both pilots parachuted to safety.

Their F86D jets were demolished after plunging 20,000 feet to the ground in the vicinity of Berville.

The pilots were uninjured. They were returned to the base near Mt. Clemens in a helicopter.

They were Capt. Henry W. Jones, about 30, of Phenix City, Ala., and 2nd Lt. Robert L. Buss, 23, of Hoskins, Neb.

A Selfridge spokesman said the two planes apparently clicked wings while flying on the training mission.

Jones, a former Royal Canadian Air Force officer and a veteran of the Korean War, and Buss "walked away from the wreckage under their own steam" upon returning to Selfridge Field, the spokesman said.

They were taken by ambulance to the base hospital for a checkup.

Maj. Max Gurman, base public relations officer, said the two men would be questioned today.

The collision was reported at 10:15 a. m. at a point 35 miles southeast of Port Huron.

The pilots were rescued by an H19 helicopter piloted by Dale E. Sutherland, of Fielding, Utah.

At the base, the two pilots were asked how they felt.

"I'm fine," said Jones, "this nick on my chin is from shaving this morning."

Their planes were described as the most up-to-date of the Air Force's interceptor planes. The two officers are of the 13th Fighter Interceptor Wing at Selfridge.

Eyewitnesses said one plane plunged into a clump of trees, exploding upon striking the earth. The wreckage scattered for hundreds of yards.

The other spiraled down, falling within 100 yards of two homes, and burned.

The plane which fell in the woods ripped a hole in the ground 8 to 10 feet in depth and 10 feet wide.

Telephone wires were struck by one of the planes, knocking out service in Berville.

Jones, a World War II veteran of the RCAF, was commissioned in the U. S. Air Force in 1944. He had made 13 jumps as a paratrooper.

The captain served in the China Burma theater in 1945, and with the 51st Fighter group at Okinawa, Japan and Korea in 1949-51. He is married and has one child.

Flags to Fly at Half Mast in Tribute to Late Judge

City flags will fly at half-mast this week to mark the death of Municipal Judge Charles P. Webster. Flags already were at half-mast because of the death of former Gov. Kim Sigler.

To Court Clerk Leo F. McDonnell he was "one of the best friends I ever had."

"We were talking yesterday and he told me he wanted to see me more often and then he died because he couldn't take it any longer. He was always a hard worker."

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — A tornado skipped across central Louisiana early today, killing eight persons, injuring at least 20 others and ripping homes and other buildings.

Six persons were killed at the town of Leander, about 20 miles southwest of Alexandria.

Two infants were reported dead at Tullos, about 40 miles north of Alexandria.

The Vernon Parish sheriff's office at Leesville identified the persons killed at Leander as Mrs. Charity Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Smith and their daughter, name unknown, and Herman Batson and his small child. Mrs. Batson was reported critically injured.

The Lasalle Parish sheriff's office at Jena said the one-month-old child of Davis Prestidge and the child of John Pendarvis, about 18 months, were killed at Tullos. Fifteen persons were reported injured there.

The Lasalle officials said at least 20 houses were destroyed or damaged at Tullos.

At the Paradise community, 10 miles north of here, four highway employees sleeping in a trailer were carried on a wild 100-yard ride by the raging winds, but were uninjured.

Some property damage was reported at Paradise.

The twister narrowly missed the Veterans Administration Hospital five miles north of Alexandria, but no one was injured and no property damage was reported there or in the city.

Judge Webster Dies Suddenly of Heart Attack

Born in Pontiac in 1886, Was Active in Oakland Politics Since 1932

Charles P. Webster, Pontiac Municipal judge since 1941, was dead upon admittance to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital early this morning. His death was attributed to a heart attack.

The judge, who served as an assistant county prosecutor here and an assistant state attorney general in the 1930s, was stricken about 4 a. m. in his home at 297 Ottawa Dr.

Born in Pontiac July 18, 1886, he was the son of Elmer R. and Birdie Pither Webster. He married Anne Moran here Nov. 23, 1922.

Graduating from Pontiac High School, Judge Webster attended the universities of Detroit and Chattanooga, receiving his law degree from the Detroit Law School.

Following graduation in 1908 he entered law practice with his father. The judge was made associate justice of Pontiac Municipal Court at the time the position was created and was made full-time judge in 1931.

An ardent Democrat, he was named chairman of the Oakland County Democratic Committee in 1932, serving in that capacity many times through the years.

In 1933-34 he served as chief assistant prosecutor and in 1937-38 he was named assistant attorney general by the then attorney general, Raymond Starr. During this period, he was a candidate for Congress in the 17th District.

Murray D. Van Wagoner named him a member of the State Public Trust Committee in 1941. He resigned in 1943.

Professional affiliations include membership in Oakland County and Michigan State Bar Associations and the American Bar Association.

Fraternally he was a member of Roosevelt Lodge 510 F&AM; Scotch Lodge 1000 F&M.

Funds Will Provide Yule Baskets, Support Other Relief Activities

You can help provide Christmas baskets for needy families and contribute to other worthy projects sponsored by the Pontiac Metropolitan Club, if you buy a newspaper from a club member Saturday.

About 40 Goodfellows from the Pontiac Police and Fire Departments, and Pontiac Post Office will take to the streets with bags full of papers at 1 p. m.

Other communities also have Goodfellow drives scheduled for the weekend. Rochester, Leonard and Highland citizens can buy papers Saturday afternoon, while Troy Township's sale is set for both Friday and Saturday.

The Pontiac Press will supply 7,000 papers to the local group, for sale downtown and on other main corners. Chief selling points include Haron at Saginaw and in front of the Sears, Roebuck Co. store.

Other main locations include Saginaw at Pike, Saginaw at Lawrence, Saginaw at Auburn, Telegraph at Orchard Lake, Telegraph at Elizabeth Lake, Auburn at East Boulevard and Woodward at South Boulevard.

John Morse, chairman of the drive here, said last year's sale was largest to date, with 7,000 papers sold for about $5,000. Proceeds bought 120 Christmas baskets and supported other relief activities during the year, he explained.

Time and Tide Creeps Up on Car

SIMPLY SWAMPED — Time and tide waits for no man. In this situation it took Bob Williams' auto from him at Jacksonville Beach, Fla., Tuesday. While driving along the beach, Williams became stuck in a slough and by the time he had brought a wrecker to the scene the tide had come in, swamping the car. Here, dampened physically and in spirit, he removes his possessions from the vehicle.

Prosecutor Asks Revision of Sexual Psychopath Law

Revision of the state's criminal sexual psychopathic law was urged today by Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem in letters to the county's five state representatives.

"My action was prompted by the order to commit rapist Donald V. O'Brien to a mental institution under the statute," Ziem declared.

"I don't think the statute was intended to apply to persons charged with murder," Ziem continued, "but rather to prevent persons with such tendencies from roaming our streets."

Provisions of the present statute would allow the State Hospital Commission to release O'Brien if his condition improves, but he can never be tried for any of his crimes.

Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty, who was forced under the statute to commit O'Brien to the hospital commission after a court hearing Monday, said he believed the law should be amended.

Rep. William S. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak) said he would ask the state's Legislative Service Bureau to draw up amendments for presentation to the Legislature in January.

Broomfield said he will ask amendments preventing persons charged with murder from being hospitalized under the statute.

Dutiful Soldier May Get Commendation

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — U. S. Army authorities have recommended a commendation for a private who stuck to his post for a week after the Army forgot him.

The soldier, Pvt. Raymond L. Cote of Saco, Maine, was assigned to guard pontoons near the small Hessian village of Ginsheim during maneuvers last October.

"Somebody slipped up and he was not relieved," an Army official here said today.

For a week Cote stayed on guard. At night he bedded down in the open in a sleeping bag. Worried Germans living nearby fed him sandwiches. Later in the week they urged him to leave his post because the exercise was over.

But Cote stayed on until members of his unit returned seven days after they left him. Back with his company, he got his first hot meal in a week.

Mexican Army Career Ended on a Sour Note

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A flute player dishonorably discharged from the Mexican army on charges of playing sour notes at the Falcon Dam dedication has challenged his accuser to a musical duel—flute versus a trombone.

Sgt. Silvestre Mayorga was ousted in disgrace for what his superior called playing false notes in a rendition of the national anthem in the presence of Presidents Eisenhower and Ruiz Cortines. Mayorga appealed.

At a hearing yesterday he said he played for 15 years with symphonic orchestras and the ballet and with the orchestra at the Palace of Fine Arts.

Trombone player Amador Perez, director of the army band, had little training by comparison, Mayorga said, and knew little or nothing about flutes.

Furthermore, Mayorga said, he would be happy to meet Perez on the field of honor and let experts decide whether he could twiddle the flute better than Perez could woot with the trombone.

Jenner Accepts Gouzenko Plan

Senator Will Abide by Canada's Terms Over Secret Interview

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate internal security subcommittee went ahead with public hearings in Washington today after accepting the Canadian government's terms for a secret interview with Igor Gouzenko in Canada.

At today's Communist-in-government hearing, the subcommittee expected to receive Justice Department records showing when FBI reports were sent to federal officials on some of the late Harry Dexter White's associates in the Treasury Department.

Information of this nature was sought on Y. Frank Os, Victor Paris and Solomon Adler—all of whom, the White, have been named before the subcommittee as sometime members of a Soviet spy network within the government.

Atty. Gen. Brownell touched off the investigations Nov. 6 when he charged former President Truman promoted White in 1946 in the face of FBI reports linking White to Russian espionage.

Subcommittee Chairman Jenner (R-Ill.) announced the decision on Gouzenko late yesterday after a meeting in his office.

The senator made public a letter to Secretary of State Dulles asking that secret arrangements be made for the interview so that Gouzenko's security would be protected.

Gouzenko fled from the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa, where he had been a code clerk, in September 1945, and tipped off Canadian authorities to a Russian spy ring operating in Canada with contacts in the United States. He has been living in Canada in anonymity under protection of the Royal Mounted Police.

Whether Gouzenko will agree to being questioned by the subcommittee is in doubt. He was quoted earlier this week as saying he would decline to be interviewed for fear of jeopardizing the safety of his wife, two children and himself.

POW From Ferndale Tells of Death March in Korea

From AP and UP Dispatches
WASHINGTON — Pfc. John E. Martin of Ferndale, Mich., told late Wednesday of a bloody "walk or get shot" march as a prisoner of North Korean Communists and of the Suchon Tunnel massacre which only he and 32 others survived.

Martin was among the Korean war prisoners who testified before a Senate subcommittee investigating Red atrocities. He was captured near Pusan a few days before his 18th birthday.

The Michigan soldier said that he and other Americans were marched nearly two-thirds of the way up the Korean peninsula. After days of merciless beating, brainwashing and starving, he said he and his group—which originally numbered 396—were taken to the Suchon Tunnel north of Pyongyang.

Just outside the tunnel, he said, the group was raked with small arms fire and left to die in a shallow ditch. Martin said the Reds inspected the ditch later to make sure all the Americans were dead but "they were in a hurry and didn't get down to my end."

Senator Insists Reds in Government Will Be Election Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) stuck by his criticism of administration foreign policy today and called on Americans who feel as he does about "blood trade" with Red China to make their views known to President Eisenhower.

He said he thinks Eisenhower "is an honorable man" and "will follow the will of the American people if that will is known to him."

And, in further disagreement with the President, McCarthy declared that Communists in government "will be an issue in next year's elections and 'the most important political issue for many years to come.'"

McCarthy urged too in a statement that "reappraise our whole policy" toward Allies dealing with Communist China.

But he declared at the same time that any suggestion he was challenging Eisenhower's leadership of the Republican Party "is both ridiculous and untrue."

McCarthy replied in a prepared statement to the blasts delivered at him in the last two days by Eisenhower and Dulles. Then, reading it for TV and newscast cameras, he added an appeal for Americans who agree with him to write or wire their views to Eisenhower.

A reporter asked McCarthy whether he had planned this appeal in advance since it was not in his prepared text.

"I never follow the script that I give out, unfortunately," the senator replied.

There was no immediate comment from the White House or State Department on McCarthy's fresh pronouncements.

Leonard W. Hall, Republican national chairman, had breakfast with the President and, when leaving the White House, told reporters that GOP Congressional and state leaders with whom he has talked are "completely in accord" with (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

3-Hour 'Hunting Season' on Monday in Birmingham as Shops Set Men's Night

BIRMINGHAM—A special three-hour hunting season will occur in Birmingham Monday night—sponsored, oddly enough by the wives and girlfriends who usually frown on such male outings.

Stores will be "posted" against illegal entry by women, as the unfettered male attends the "second annual 'Men's Night' for a stag evening of Christmas gift hunting.

Volunteer Cited by Red Cross

Bloomfield Hills Woman Given Merit Certificate and Award

Mrs. Ferd M. Brock of Bloomfield Hills won recognition Wednesday night as one of the nation's top American Red Cross volunteers.

The special award climaxed a speech to volunteers of Oakland County Chapter, American Red Cross, by Mrs. Theodore O. Wedel of Washington, D.C., Red Cross national deputy director of volunteers.

Some 200 local volunteers attended the dinner and program at Christ Church Cranbrook.

Mrs. Brock, awarded a silver dish and certificate of merit by Mrs. Wedel, opened her Red Cross volunteer work as a gray lady in Detroit's Grace Hospital in 1941. She established the Gray Lady service at Pontiac General Hospital and recently was chosen by the Red Cross Midwestern Area office as a volunteer field consultant.

Citing three major reasons the Red Cross deserves wide support, Mrs. Wedel said it (1) keeps alive the "personal concern for another person," (2) grants services regardless of race or creed and (3) functions through volunteer workers and voluntary contributions.

few moments after he was taken in August, 1950. He said a Communist officer knocked him down with a pistol butt while other Reds shot at wounded GIs crawling down a hill.

Later, he said, he and other prisoners were forced to attend "brainwashing" classes in a room supplied with books printed in Russia. When asked if he had anything to say about the Communist way of life as it was explained to him, Martin said:

"I don't think I have anything printable to say, sir."

Martin said the usual diet during his captivity was a single rice ball the size of a man's fist every day, and occasionally a dried fish.

"Things really started to get tough on the trip from Seoul to Pyongyang," Martin testified. "You either had to walk or get shot... We lost over 100 men."

He said that "a lot of people were dying" of jaundice, infection and malnutrition at Pyongyang. Sometimes, he said, Red officers refused to let prisoners bury their dead for two days, making survivors sleep in the same room with the corpses. The Reds did not permit religious services or grave markings, he said.

The prisoners were herded into a coal car after five days at Pyongyang and taken on a four-day trip to the Suichon Tunnel. Martin said seven more of his group starved to death along the way.

Martin said it was on Oct. 21 that the Reds said they would free the prisoners. They were taken out of the tunnel in groups of about 40. He said the prisoners were told to bend over—as if to dodge aircraft—and then were raked by Russian-made burp guns.

Hal Boyle Says:

Lack of Something to Do Can Make Pet Neurotic

NEW YORK (U)—Does your dog brood? Well, stop him. That way lies madness.

Civilized dogs and cats are getting more neurotic all the time. The main trouble? It's people. Modern people not only drive each other batty. They do the same thing to their pets.

"People drive 50 per cent of their pets neurotic by lack of understanding," said William Hall, a former management engineer turned animal psychologist.

His conclusions on the mental relationship between pets and people are based on the study of thousands of animals in his laboratory at Coral Gables, Fla.

"Any pet reflects its home," he said. "We can take a dog in our laboratory and quickly tell, in part simply by the way it wags its tail, the general mental health of its owners. We can even tell whether the husband or wife is dominant in the home—and how dominant."

A frustrated animal, Hall has found, usually is the product of frustrated people. He feels the frustration in both the pet and its owner stems from the same cause—an ego-deflating boredom that raises from a feeling of lack of accomplishment.

"We are all extroverts—we like to feel we are doing something worthwhile," he said. "A busy person rarely gets in trouble—and neither does a busy animal."

"A civilized pet has too much leisure, too much time to brood. It has surplus energy it must get rid of somehow. So, unless its owner understands this and gives it something to do that satisfies it, it becomes neurotic, bites people, chews up rugs or tears up the furniture."

Fortunately, the average dog, cat or parakeet doesn't have to write a novel, climb Mt. Everest or get elected to public office in order to gain a feeling of victory out of life.

"The right kind of toy will stimulate and satisfy him," Hall said. "But the big mistake pet owners make is to pick out a toy that pleases them more than it does their pet—an error parents also often make in selecting toys for their children."

"A toy should satisfy a pet's extrovert needs. A parakeet, for the prosecutor's office and presiding judge 30 days before release of any persons hospitalized under the act will also be asked, according to Broomfield.

Such revisions were advocated in the letters sent by Ziem, O'Brien was awaiting a first degree murder trial for the rape-slaying of Mrs. Hallie O. Perkins.

A petition asking he be declared a sexual psychopath was presented by his wife and subsequent psychiatric examinations finding him psychopathic were upheld by the court.

Judge Doty said from the bench he thought the law was unfair, but that it was outside his jurisdiction to do anything but commit O'Brien.

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

Ex-Gov. Kim Sigler

It is wholly fitting that flags on all State Government buildings should fly at half staff for 30 days in tribute to former Governor KIM SIGLER.

Since he first flashed across Michigan's political sky, it has seemed natural to refer to him as colorful and dynamic.

During the time he served as special prosecutor for the Carr graft grand jury he was instrumental in obtaining indictments against 115 persons. Of these 58 were business and professional men, 54 Legislators and one a State official.

Pontiac has reason to remember the former Governor. If it hadn't been for his work as special prosecutor no one ever would have known of the 1944 robbery of the Aristocrat Club here. It was SIGLER who connected the perpetrators of that robbery with the murder of State Senator HOOPER, who was one of his star witnesses against graft suspects.

SIGLER never realized his ambition of convicting those who killed HOOPER to silence him. But he did get convictions against two of the Aristocrat Club bandits for conspiracy to murder HOOPER and all five for the club robbery.

With his name a household word because of the vigor of his war on legislative graft and his flair for the dramatic, SIGLER had no trouble in winning election to the State's highest office in 1945. But in his work as prosecutor and later as Governor, he had trampled on too many toes, was disliked by the Legislature, denied the support of the regular GOP organization in the 1947 election and was defeated.

SIGLER probably had as many critics as admirers. But no one could deny that as special prosecutor and one term Governor he made two notable contributions to better government in Michigan.

One was the cleanup of Legislative graft. The other was his victorious fight for passage of the Department of Administration Act. This has been called the outstanding contribution to government reorganization in our time.

Kim Sigler died as he had lived—dramatically. He was an able attorney, a brilliant prosecutor and a man of high principles and unshakable devotion to them.

Liberia's Gratitude

Americans who have contributed to the technical and economic development of Liberia have received an official and personal message of thanks.

It came from CLARENCE L. SIMPSON, Liberian Ambassador to the United States. Speaking in Detroit he lauded the work of the YMCA and YWCA in his homeland and revealed the rapid progress being made toward modernization.

With a deep sense of pride he told how the 113-year-old Negro Republic is expanding health facilities and hydro-electric power and building roads, schools and modern correctional institutions. He added that the scientific agricultural programs, backed by U. S. financial aid, is under the direction of an American Negro, Dr. JOHN W. DAVIS, formerly president of West Virginia College.

This West African Nation, founded by freed American slaves, has the distinction of being one of the few countries entirely free of Communism. Also, as the ambassador pointed out, there never has been a revolution in Liberia.

These facts go a long way toward disproving the often heard charge that the Negro is incapable of governing himself.

Nixon Disarms Reds

During his stop at Pegu, Burma, Vice President Nixon using only the disarming weapons of his smile and handshake, made a Communist anti-American demonstration look silly.

The Vice President was greeted by Burmese bearing placards urging the "Yankee warmongers" to go home. Instead of acting like a warmonger, Mr. Nixon smiled at the paraders and slogan shouters, shook hands and soon was engaged in friendly conversation with them.

As a result, what might have been a very disagreeable incident became excellent American propaganda. For these Burmese it must have been a shock to see that Americans, including their Vice President, look and act like anything but warmongers.

The incident also emphasizes the unlikelihood that simple and friendly Burmese would stage such a demonstration without Communist direction. That kind of lying propaganda would harm any cause.

"The end of extremely heavy spending for military purposes is in sight," says a Federal official. So is the Milky Way.

The Man About Town

A Holiday Respite
 No More Draftees Will Be Taken for Several Weeks

Drafting
 Clover: Where you never get by snoozing in the hay.

The war department surely recognizes the holiday season in calling for its Oakland County quotas. The December army inductees left Wednesday, and no more will be asked for until well into 1954. Speaking for the young men under him, Kenneth W. Whitenton, leader of the Pontiac City December group, expressed thanks for the many gifts presented to them by local organizations. The same sentiments were expressed by Gerald D. Sohn, leader of the out-county group who went at the same time.

Many farmers in the Pontiac area are doing December plowing, there being practically no frost in the ground.

Completing 30 years as a nurse at Pontiac General Hospital is Miss Irene Barnes of 335 Orchard Lake Ave. She started work there on Dec. 1, 1923, and for the past 15 years has worked nights in the lying-in department.

Among the early holiday greetings is a good one. "Don't have a sad or crazy Christmas."

In the recent suggestion award distribution at Pontiac Motor Division, two employees put their heads together and carried off first honors—and $485. They are E. F. Olasbeck and G. E. Whitaker.

Largest individuals winners were Burt Goldrick who was awarded $273, and Edward Lockard whose idea was worth $227, while 68 other employees drew from $12 to $117.

Celebrating her ninety-second birthday in a few days,

Mrs. Kittie Harris of Davisburg helped prepare the Thanksgiving dinner at her home.

In spite of the large number of traffic fatalities last year in the United States, actual figures show that it was the lowest per million auto miles since the records have been kept.

Hunting ducks on Saginaw Bay,

Anthony Renee discovered that his gun has a big kick. In fact, it kicked him clear out of the boat—and he missed the bird. But, in company with his hunting partner, Captain Edward H. Shigley of the Pontiac Police Department, and their friends, he is getting a good laugh out of it.

Although they went through last winter with little snow piled near them, the Oakland Road Commission is taking no chances—the high snow fences already are erected and waiting.

"Michigan State has a record that is marvelous in football history," says

Stuart E. Whitfield, "and when all comparisons are completed they really had a cinch on the Rose Bowl."

When any argument comes up as to who will take turns at some disagreeable task, Prosecutor Fred C. Ziem has a good reason for suggesting that the choice be made alphabetically.

Mrs. Waters Says to Gladden Hearts of Lonely Is Part of Christmas Spirit

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.

Christmas is nearly here with its cheer and exchange of gifts. It is rapidly becoming commercialized, a case of value received. The Christmas spirit is lacking. When I was six or seven my father had little to spend for toys so he gave my sister and me a new lead pencil. I was as happy over that gift as if it had been a doll.

Children should be made happy on Christmas Day because heartaches come too soon. We find the old folks lonely and sad.

Their friends have passed on, their children consider them a burden and there is nothing in life for them.

Another type of loneliness is that of the men and boys who are found sleeping in the alleys and doorways on Skid Row. Few know the utter despair that comes to one when he feels that all his efforts to rise above his environment have been futile.

Thank God for the Bowery Mission which takes them in and gives them food clothing and work. It gives them the upward look and leads them to Christ who sees them as material fitted for his service.

It is a pleasure to open one's gifts Christmas morning but I would receive much happiness to know that the money spent for my gift had been spent to gladden some lonely soul on Christmas Day.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Be strong and courageous, be not afraid nor dismayed for the king of Assyria, nor for all the multitude that is with him: For there be more with us than with him.—II. Chron 32:7.

Be courageous. Be independent. Only remember where the true courage and independence come from.—Phillips Brooks.

Rabbi Saperstein Protests U. S. Policy in U. N. Toward Israel and Arab States

Rabbi Sanford E. Saperstein of Temple Beth Jacob today protested the attitude this country has displayed in the United Nations toward Israel and the Arab States.

"The situation in the Middle East, with particular reference to the relations of Israel and her neighbors, has worsened recently," he pointed out in an interview. "Both as an American and a member of the Jewish faith, I am deeply concerned."

"As an American, I am concerned because the strength of our foreign policy everywhere depends upon conditions of peace and stability. As a Jew, I am joined with bonds of sentiment to that tiny territory which has always been the 'Holy Land,' and which, lately, has played a magnificent role as a humanitarian sanctuary and shown unwavering adherence to the cause of democracy."

"Two events were recently highlighted in that area: one was a raid on the Jordan village of Kibya, which resulted in a stern rebuke by the U. N. to the State of Israel. The other was the halting of an irrigation and hydro-electric project under economic pressure by the United States."

"The handling of both incidents revealed, I fear, serious lack of wisdom on the part of the great powers at the U. N., including our own delegation."

"To begin with the second matter: Israel had been proceeding with a hydro-electric project which aimed at using the waters of the Jordan for power. Syria objected that this would injure her interests. Although similar objections had been declared unfounded by the competent U. N. authorities in the past, Israel, as a good U. N. member, agreed to halt work, while the problem was being investigated."

"It ought to be noted that for

RABBI SAPERSTEIN

Israel to accept as a permanent principle that constructive enterprises within her sovereign boundaries must wait upon Syria's consent would mean stultification of Israel's development forever. For Syria, consistently refusing to make peace, has indicated that it will always veto any action involving Israel, even if the action were to benefit Syria as well.

"What distresses me more however, is that the action of our own State Department—withdrawing economic assistance in order to coerce Israel to accept these shackles on her development—seems inconsistent with the traditional American policy of fair play. It is the kind of pressure that has not been applied impartially."

"For example, Egypt has continued to maintain a blockade of the Suez canal. The Security Council ordered Egypt to stop the blockade: It has brazenly continued it."

"Another example: Jordan refuses to permit access to the building and grounds of the Hebrew University and the Hadassah Hospital, in direct violation of solemn treaty obligations and in spite of a U. N. directive. But—not only has the same pressure not been applied to these countries. The free world has increased aid to them."

"Let me turn to the Kibya incident. The attack on Kibya was a tragic thing, which no one condones. Equally as tragic were the circumstances which caused a people with a millennial record of love of peace to feel driven to such an act as its only means of defense."

"What are those circumstances, which never received the kind of publicity Kibya did? The Israelis have suffered 421 killed and wounded, 866 cases of armed attack, 128 cases of sabotage, 3,263 cases of robbery—all by infiltrating marauders from Jordan and other neighboring lands.

"Typical was the event that occurred just two days prior to the Kibya incident. Arab infiltrators murdered a sleeping woman and her two children with a hand grenade. The tracks led to a Jordanian police station; the culprits were never caught."

"Now what followed is not unfamiliar to Americans who know the history of our own border and the response of border settlers to Indian attacks on their women and children. Though this makes what happened at Kibya understandable it still cannot be condoned. But I do think that it is proper to ask whether it was not unfair for the Security Council to administer a severe rebuke to Israel exclusively, and to ignore so many incidents of murder and pillage committed against the people of Israel."

"My deepest regret is that our own country failed to play a role of proper leadership in the United Nations. Here was a magnificent opportunity to deal with the real and basic sickness which afflicts the Middle East, a sickness of which such incidents as Kibya are only symptoms."

By DAVID LAWRENCE
 WASHINGTON—For several days now the headlines have been implying that President Eisenhower and Sen. McCarthy of Wisconsin, have "broken." It just isn't true. For if a difference of opinion on whether Communists in government is going to be an issue in the coming political campaigns means a "break," then Eisenhower must be considered as having "broken" with more Republicans than the senator from Wisconsin.

Even differences on foreign policy have heretofore not caused the President to "break" with members of his party. For Sen. Knowland, the Republican leader, doesn't always see eye to eye with the State Department.

Since Eisenhower made his first comment to his press conference last week that he hoped the issue of Communists in government would be a memory by the time of the 1954 campaign, five Republican senators have differed with the President by expressing the belief that it really would be an issue. They are: Senators Saltonstall, Jenner, Millikin, Ives and Welker.

When President Eisenhower reiterated at his press conference on Wednesday of this week that he expected Communists in government not to be an issue in the 1954 congressional campaigns, he issued a prepared statement on the subject.

There has been steady pressure at the White House from "left wingers" and others who don't know much about politics—except perhaps from the standpoint of what benefits the Democrats—to persuade Eisenhower that he must demonstrate dramatically to the country that he is anti-McCarthy.

The people who have advised the President along this line seem to have forgotten that McCarthy as an individual senator can be readily attacked, but this leaves in its wake a considerable disaffection among millions of Republicans who believe McCarthy has been doing a good job in awakening the Congress and the executive branch of the government to the menace of Communist infiltration in the government.

What seems difficult to understand is Eisenhower's belief that all that's necessary to eradicate the issue of Communists in government from politics is to eliminate them from the government under his own administration.

That's a rather naive approach, and undoubtedly it is also the innocent approach of some of his inexperienced advisers.

The truth is that, if Communists are driven out of the government now, what assurance is there that, if a Democratic administration returns to power in 1954, the Communist sympathizers will not get back again into positions of influence?

Must the party out of power not be held responsible for its sins, especially when the recent reaction of its leaders to the Harry Dexter White case shows they have learned nothing by it? The importance of the 1954 congressional elections is that, if the Democrats get back into control of both houses and some of their so-called "liberals" become chairmen of congressional committees, the work that has to be done to check executive agencies constantly will be regarded as finished because of the Eisenhower pronouncement, and inquiries will be abandoned.

Yet the record shows that the executive agencies cannot do their own house-cleaning because often the facts are mobilized by congressional investigators or their own committees to show that the facts are not as they are.

William Remington, recently convicted of perjury in denying that he was a Communist, was cleared by departmental boards. Alger Hiss was never caught till he testified before a congressional committee.

There are many instances where the statute of limitations has run and only by congressional inquiry can facts be brought to light that show contacts between government personnel already "cleared" and persons outside the government whose connections are dubious.

Eisenhower cannot possibly control or censor what is said in a congressional campaign either by the members of his own party or the opposing party.

If he thinks he can get a commitment from the Democrats to avoid attacking "McCarthyism" in the 1954 campaign, then maybe not much will be said about the Communists-in-Government issue.

But Eisenhower is not in control of what the Democrats may say on this, and many of them think "McCarthyism" will be an issue.

So it seems rather pointless for Eisenhower to lend himself to any schemes to discipline members of his party for openly expressing their own ideas as to the 1954 campaign.

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
 (International News Service)
 Great news that an American got the Nobel Peace Prize in an off-year. Must have got pistol packin' mamma to lay that artillery down.

If a fellow went shopping for peace these days he would have to do it without samples. Don't forget those Nobel people skipped a couple of years and finally had to give it to a soldier.

General Marshall deserves that honor. But don't forget that a philanthropist almost got it in 1952 for throwing a shovel to a fellow in the Grand Canyon.

Peace is getting scarcer than burlesque in Boston and harder to locate than a cricket with scotia. We thought a man might get the prize for turning down his radio set in a board-down-house.

Just heard that rocking chairs are forbidden in the Kremlin. Somebody might not accidentally.

Fact is peace on earth and goodwill to men is the preamble to a Christmas postcard. But the Nobel people had to get rid of that prize somehow. You just don't put money in the attic.

Can hear the Mau Maus, the Viet Minnies, the Chinese Reds and the independent snipers declaring an armistice like fleas changing sides in a dog fight.

Dr. Brady Suggests 3 Books to Doctors; Sure It Will Do Them Good to Brush Up

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

I cheekily recommended here recently that trick specialists and regular quacks who conceal their ignorance by telling credulous customers their complaints are such vague conditions as "bad nerves," "overwork," "neuritis," "weak heart," "anemia," et cetera, crack a book or two that will give them new knowledge.

Nothing so cheeky about that. Heavens knows it will do the doctors no harm to take a little time out from cocktail and poker parties and bull sessions in the doctors' room at the hospital to brush up a bit in diagnosis.

I named three books which I consider a good investment for any medical practitioner—and when I say a new medical textbook is worth the price you can be pretty sure it is.

Last summer, right there on the porch of the hotel I was bunked out of some folding money by a pair of experts who evaporated from the scene so fast that I had to count myself I hadn't just dozed and dreamed.

For a while I felt pretty cheap about it, but later, on quiet reflection, I had many a chuckle over it, and if I were to meet the swindlers again I imagine I'd congratulate them—if they are still on the outside.

No such consolation to be had when one is bunked out and then again by the publishers of medical textbooks.

When I look around at the costly junk on my bookshelves I feel a good deal cheaper than I did after those precious rascals finished with me in Canandaigua.

Once in a long while a new medical book proves a good investment. I mean it brings a bit of new knowledge.

Most new medical books are merely compilations of abstracts from earlier works, neatly arranged by a bright office girl and in the name of her employer.

The three books I recommended to every medical practitioner are the following—and please reserve comments until you have examined the books:

- (1) Duncanson's Diseases of Metabolism ($15)
- (2) Ricknell & Prescott's The Vitamins in Medicine ($12)
- (3) The Calcium Shortage ($10)

I can't vouch for the first two, but the publisher of the third book in the list promises to refund purchase price, less carriage, if you return the book and say over your signature that you do not think it is worth the price.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped and addressed envelope is enclosed. Copyright 1953.

Rochester Lions Wind Up Christmas Parade Plans

ROCHESTER — Plans for the second annual Christmas parade were completed Tuesday night.

Sponsored by the Lions Club, the parade will be held a week from Saturday and will feature floats, bands and Santa Claus.

Three bands have been signed: Rochester, Oxford and Avondale. Hazel Park and Troy bands are also expected to take part.

The parade will form at 1 p.m. on North Hill and start promptly at 2 p.m., according to Kenneth Mills, parade marshal. The line of march will be down Main street to Second, west on Second to Walnut.

The parade will turn north again and back to Fourth, east on Fourth to Main and then to the Hills Theater, where Santa Claus will announce his headquarters. A free show with one hour of cartoons at the Hills will follow the parade. The committee is also expecting to have TV and sports celebrities for the event.

Meanwhile, Main street is being festooned for the Christmas season, with light poles being wound with greens and decorated with plaques and 10-foot candy canes.

Lighted strings of Christmas greens and large bells are being strung across Main street by the department of public works, under the direction of Manager Robert Stone.

Lions Club planned the decorations and Rochester merchants financed the operation.

Dr. L. W. Melstrom, who heads the general committee, has announced that floats from any of the surrounding villages and Pontiac are welcome to enter the competition.

Prizes of $25, $15 and $10 will be given the best three floats.

A contest also is being offered junior and senior high school students for original costumes. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of originality.

It Will Add to Your HAPPINESS...
There is a great new value that comes with a new home which is difficult for any one to evaluate except a new home owner. To put it briefly a new home adds a goodly measure of happiness to a family's daily existence. It is not just the satisfaction which comes from fine surroundings and extraordinary comfort — it is more a sense of pride and family well being — a joy of possession — a consciousness of membership in the world's most distinguished guild — those who own their own homes. Home owners will tell you that these things are very real and very valuable. And remember — all this is, in addition to the considerable practical reasons for owning your own home.

THE LITTLE TREE THAT TALKED

By WALT SCOTT

Pitdown Hoax Exposure a Boon to Anthropology

By CHARLES MERCE R

NEW YORK (U)—Now that "Pitdown" has been exposed as a hoax, where does man stand in his knowledge about evolution?

The answer, just about where he did before that famous fossil skull was found to be a fraud.

In fact, the exposure clears the air. Physical anthropologists have been viewing Pitdown with skepticism for years.

When the pieces of skull and jawbone were found in an English gravel pit near the Sussex village of Pitdown between 1912 and 1915 some scientists concluded they were parts of the same creature who lived anywhere from 50,000 to 500,000 years ago.

On the basis of evidence then at hand, Pitdown seemed to them to be either a superior type of sub-human or a sub-normal type of true human. Yet his head was curiously different from those of other prehistoric men found in various parts of the world. He was a puzzle in the whole evolutionary picture.

Dr. Harry Shapio, head of the department of anthropology of the American Museum of Natural History, says Pitdown "never was consistent with other data. He was out of line chronologically. His removal, instead of weakening, in effect strengthens our knowledge of the evolutionary process."

In the study of mankind's evolution through fossils the most important discovery was made in Java in 1892 by a young Dutch physician, Eugene Dubois. He found the famous Java Man skull—an ape man twice the size of a gorilla who prowled the volcano slopes of ancient Java possibly 750,000 years ago, a real missing link between ape and man.

About the same period another giant peered out of a cave near modern Peking. Imagine a 1,000-pound brute with over-size jaw and under-size brain, even bigger and tougher than Java Man. His fossil remains were discovered in 1929 by Franz Weidenreich, who incidentally was convinced that Pitdown was a phony.

A third giant was added to this company in 1948 when Robert Bloom, a renowned anthropologist, found its petrified remains in South Africa.

It is interesting to recall the Book of Genesis: "There were giants in the earth in those days." In 1921 the remains of Rhodesian Man were found in northern Rhodesia. Far down the evolutionary chain from the giants, he lived from 20,000 to 40,000 years ago. He stands as an ancestral type to modern man, about five feet 10 and stoutly built. But his brain space was small, his face reminds you of a gorilla's.

Since World War II, paleontologists have been aided in some phases of their work by fluorine testing.

With advances in methods of fluorine testing Pitdown recently underwent his final examination. Then the world learned that fragments of the cranium are genuine remains of a primitive man but the jaw is from a modern ape and deliberately faked.

Remodeled Salon Emphasizes Beauty

A beauty shop that accents its own good looks—as well as those of its customers—is the newly-remodeled Andre's Beauty Salon in Pontiac State Bank Building.

The revamped shop features convenience, comfort and a companionable atmosphere in attractive modern surroundings.

The hair-drying area features built-in dryer stands behind chairs with their own arm rests and ash-trays. Hair-washing bowls are enclosed behind large, ivy-colored, wooden lattices in the center of the salon.

Green and gray asphalt tile flooring gives an easy-to-clean surface that is comfortable underfoot. The color scheme features leather upholstery in white, plus shocking pink and gray. Imported antique white drapes with gold metallic thread and pink and turquoise wallpaper carry out the theme.

Terrapin Particular About Melon Patch

GUTHRIE, Okla. (U)—Walter S. Tharp's melon patch south of here seems to be irresistible to at least one terrapin.

Tharp told today of transporting several of the turtles from his melon patch, where they eat cantaloupes, to a Guthrie park about a mile and one-half away. The farmer said he painted the shell of one of the terrapins white, then printed his initials on it in black.

Twenty-four hours later, Tharp declared, the creature was back, inching his way toward the coveted cantaloupe.

Thinking someone had played a joke on him Tharp again transported the painted terrapin to the park, this time making sure nobody knew of the trip. The next day the turtle was back.

"The only thing I can make out," Tharp said, "is the turtle either dislikes parks or likes cantaloupe an awful lot. If he likes them that well, the least I can do is accommodate him."

Give Home Seasonal Air

There is nothing worse than a dreary home during the Christmas season. If you do not have a gay tree, at least have some of the Christmas symbols around your house—the manger, stars, candles, poinsettia plants, holly, mistletoe and wreaths may help message the happy spirit of Christmas.

Give Permanent at Yule

A sure-fire hit with any glamor girl is a permanent wave gift certificate. Be sure you select her favorite salon, however.

Pets Appreciate Gifts

If you have a little bird, dog or cat, don't forget them at Christmas time. Pet stores have interesting items—from catnip mice for Tabby to rubber pork chops for Fido. And for that little parakeet, why not get him a new little mirror, swing, bell, or perhaps a little piece of driftwood which may become a tree in his cage?

Dress Up Your Pets Dress up your pet on Christmas Day. Put a bright red bow on your dog or cat and give the bird's cage a little decoration with Christmas ornaments.

New Rubber Perfected

WASHINGTON (INS) — American chemists are acclaiming a new synthetic rubber called Vulcan, made from coal tar and natural gas, perfected in West Germany and tested in the U. S.

as "so good we don't have to look any further for rubber that will outlast the normal life expectancy of an automobile."

No Interest on Ticket

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UP) — Corporation Court has received a tattered traffic summons and a check for $20 from Germany. Cpl. Abel Ramos, now in the Air Force, mailed the three-year-old speeding summons and wrote: "I would appreciate tremendously if I were permitted to make the necessary payment at this time." Said a court clerk, "He'll be allowed to pay the fine, but for only $10." The remaining $10 was returned.

Deer Shot in Backyard

SOUTH WINDSOR, Conn. (UP) — After several futile Maine hunting trips in pursuit of his first deer, Lou Burnham bagged one in his own backyard. He ran to the aid of a woman motorist whose automobile had been struck by the animal and quickly dispatched it with his rifle.

The first International Postal Congress was held in Switzerland in 1874.

Flying Saucers Interest Group

Far-Flung Club Collects Data Concerning Aerial Objects

STURGEON BAY, Wis. (UP) — Did you ever see a flying saucer?

If so, Mrs. Coral Lorenzen of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., would like to hear about it, provided the object can't be explained away as a natural phenomenon.

The 28-year-old housewife and mother heads the Aerial Phenomena Research Organization, a non-profit group that gathers, studies and evaluates data on flying saucers.

Mrs. Lorenzen abhors crackpots and others who think every light in the sky that doesn't come from a heavenly body is a space ship hurtling from Mars bent on destruction.

Reports of saucer sightings are forwarded by members of APRO to the organization's main chapter here. Chapters are spread around the country and as far away as Australia.

"We try," said Mrs. Lorenzen, "to fit any sighting into one of the following categories before labeling it as a bona fide aerial phenomenon — unidentified balloons, conventional aircraft, reflections, meteors or atmospheric phenomena."

APRO had its beginning back in 1947 while Mrs. Lorenzen was in Arizona. She saw a strange light come from over the Mexican border and travel to the far horizon. It couldn't have been a meteor, she said, for it moved in the wrong direction. A few weeks later came the sighting of nine silvery objects over Mt. Rainier in Washington state. That really started the saucer "craze."

When reports became fairly common she decided a group was needed to get details of all sightings of the strange objects, or that, a world-wide organization was needed, and she began contacting interested persons. So, in January, 1952, APRO was founded.

A Flying Pup for Christmas

Little Henrietta, whose family was very poor, didn't have much to look forward to at Christmas-time — until she found Willie the pup. He was the only Christmas she would have. But Henrietta's father had to give Willie away. He ate too much. Henrietta was broken hearted until Willie, after many exciting adventures flew back to her on Santa's sleigh Christmas Eve. But would he stay? It was so much more fun in Santa Land. You'll find out when you read the Christmas serial "Santa and the Flying Pup."

Parasite Worms Lead Soft Life

Lodge Selves in Victim, Then Merely Hang on for Free Ride

CHAMPAIGN, ILL. (UP) — A man who devoted 40 years to studying the spiny-headed worm found that it has an easy life. All these worms have to do, he said, is just hang on and reproduce. They don't even have to chew and swallow their food. It's absorbed through their skin.

The worms are known to scientists such as the late Prof. Harley J. Van Cleave as "acanthocephala." Van Cleave was with the University of Illinois until his death.

The spiny-headed worm is a parasite that lives in the bodies of animals, birds and fish all over the world. They have been found in Arctic seals, South American birds, whales, and even in man. Van Cleave culminated almost a lifetime of work on the species of North American Acanthocephala. The book was published recently by the University of Illinois Press.

He said the worm has a large thorax head that it buries in the intestines of a host. The worms range in size from 4/100ths of an inch to nearly 16 inches long.

They have no organs of sense or digestion. Most of their body is simply a pouch containing highly developed reproductive organs. The male seems to exist only for breeding. Once he has served this purpose, he is eliminated from the host's body.

Van Cleave said the worms may have been "parasitic" in fishes before the other vertebrate groups had their origin.

The worms are more of a nuisance than a menace, he added, although they can cause considerable local damage to the intestines of hosts.

Police Backing Safety Program

State-Wide Drive Aims to Cut Drunk Driving Accidents

The Association of Michigan Chiefs of Police and the Michigan Safety Commission again are sponsoring a state-wide safety emphasis program this month aimed at reducing accidents due to drunk driving.

"The success of this program," Pontiac Police Chief Herbert W. Straley said, "depends upon the cooperation of all motorists, tavern owners, the police and courts."

In furtherance of the program a meeting was held Tuesday by the Oakland County Table Topper Association and police officials to discuss the campaign against drunk driving.

Several thousand table cards and posters, warning against drunk driving, were distributed to members for display in their establishments.

"Intoxication places drivers beyond any public sympathy," Straley said.

He added that the legislature "felt so strongly about the driver who gets drunk and operates his car, that it passed a law providing for a mandatory suspension of the operator's license for 90 days."

The commission says that many judges believe the crime of drunk driving is so serious that they impose jail sentences.

Statistics furnished by the National Safety Council indicate that in 23 out of 100 fatal accidents a driver or a pedestrian had been drinking; 18 out of 100 drivers involved in fatal accidents had been drinking, and 26 out of 100 pedestrians involved in fatal accidents also were under the influence of liquor.

"As the holiday season approaches it is a good time to remember that driving safely requires the best mental and physical resources of the driver," Straley pointed out.

"A motorist whose mind is befuddled from drinking hasn't a

Suggests Speedometers to Keep Rate Record

DENVER (AP)—Gov. Dan Thornton has been asked to have the Colorado Legislature consider next January a proposal that all automobile owners be required to install recording speedometers. These would make a permanent record of the speeds traveled.

Periodic inspections would be made by the state. If the speedometers showed any speed in excess of the legal limit, the motorists would be fined.

Arrest Driver Waiting for Yule Light to Turn

CHANDLER, Okla. (AP)—Police man Hank Albritton promptly arrested a motorist for drunkenness when the driver, holding up traffic for blocks, demanded indignantly, "When's that light going to change?"

The red light he was referring to was part of downtown Chandler's new Christmas decorations.

Auditor Refuses to OK Budget; His Pay Missing

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Auditor Clarence H. Hackmann, who helped prepare the budget, entered a firm objection to approving the proposed expenditures when they came up before the St. Louis County Council.

Hackmann's own annual salary, an $8,500 item, was missing from the proposed budget.

A deputy omitted the auditor's salary, Hackmann said, while preparing the salary listings. The error wasn't discovered until the budget had been submitted.

Council Chairman Charles R. Skow added Hackmann's missing salary to the $49,832 office salary budget, still pending before the group.

Will Arraign Man on Driving Charge

AUGUST F. Mellendorf, 51, of 1130 Meadowlawn Dr., charged with felonious driving after striking a motorcycle policeman Nov. 19, was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court following an examination yesterday before Pontiac Judge Charles P. Webster.

Mellendorf, who is scheduled to appear for arraignment Friday, posted a $300 bond.

Officer David H. Slater, who

Navahos Are Taught With Film Strips

ITHACA, N. Y. (UP)—Cornell University anthropologists have developed a method of teaching English to the Navaho Indians who don't read their own language. From their Fruitland, N. M., field station, the Cornell professors report they have worked out a plan to use film strips with tape-recorded dialogues in Navaho and English. Photographs made at Fruitland will show everyday events in the Indians' lives—farming operations, shopping, applying for a job, talking with government agents.

The film strips, they add, are nearly self-explanatory, eliminating the need for teachers to speak both languages. The project was initiated by Dr. John Adair as one phase of Cornell's world-wide studies of the impact of modern technology in underdeveloped areas.

Good news for parents is that toy prices for 1953 are the same or in some cases a little lower than last year.

Old River Pilot Building Boat

Mississippi Captain, 74, Erecting All-Steel Craft 65 Feet Long

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP). — It will take more than advancing age and the protests of his wife to stop Capt. Charles N. Drake from building his own all-steel, 65-foot tow-boat.

"Can you imagine?" the 74-year-old river-boat captain exclaimed. "My wife says I'm too old. But I just want to get back into the thick of things."

And Drake has been doing just that for the past four years.

The boat, dubbed the Lorene E., is nearly completed and standing high on the levee along the Mississippi River.

"All that's lacking now is installation of the engines, some finishing touches and some high water," Drake said.

He has followed no plans or blueprints in building the tall, sturdy craft, just the ideas gathered from years of boating experience. It will have housing for an eight-man crew and draft shallow enough to enable it to go almost anywhere.

Drake, a riverman from 'way back, spent his boyhood on his grandfather's packet boats. He has operated riverboats more than half a century and doesn't feel like quitting now.

"I can still stand at a pilot wheel 15 hours at a stretch and then some," he said.

But Drake used a little psychology to handle the protests of his wife. He got the name, Lorene E., by using portions of the names of his daughter, wife and daughter-in-law — Lola Belle, Irene and Elizabeth, respectively.

Avoid Marring Holiday With Tragedy; Follow Advice of Fire Underwriters

The child was badly burned. Somehow her dress had caught fire. It happened last year. It happened the year before. It will happen again this year.

And it won't be a single, isolated tragedy.

You'll read about it in your local newspaper. These tragedies often occur at the Christmas holiday—the happiest time of the year—sometimes even around the Christmas tree itself.

The reason the tree burns so fiercely and so rapidly is because it's filled with pitch and resin, which, rank among the most combustible substances known.

And the flimsy dress is no match for an intense fire.

What can you do about the tree? What can you do about the dress—especially the loosely-woven costume worn in school plays and pageants?

The National Board of Fire Underwriters offers these suggestions:

1. Choose a small tree. It's less dangerous than a large one.
2. Don't set it up until a few days before Christmas. Until then, keep it outdoors.
3. Place it in the coolest part of the house, away from fireplaces and radiators. And don't let it block an exit.
4. Stand it in water, or use a live tree planted in a tub of earth.
5. Never use cotton or paper for the decoration on or around the tree.
6. Do not put electric trains under the tree.
7. Use only electric lights, never candles, and see that the wires are not frayed. Be sure that the wiring for lights you choose bear the seal of Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc. That shows they have been tested for safety.

TRAGEDY AT CHRISTMAS—This trouble can be avoided, according to safety experts. One sure-fire way to prevent fire is by removing wrappings from around the tree as soon as gifts have been opened. Be careful, too, of frayed light wire, poor ventilation, hazards underfoot and dim lighting.

8. Provide a switch some distance from the tree for turning tree lights off and on. Don't plug or unplug them beneath the tree.

9. Throw away all gift wrappings as soon as the presents have been opened. Don't let them pile up near the tree.

10. Do not leave the lights burning when no one is home.

11. If needles near the lights turn brown, move the lights.

12. When needles start to fall, take the tree down and discard it.

As for the dress, or other fabrics, safety lies in flameproofing. Here's how it's done:

First, prepare a solution of nine ounces of borax and four ounces of boric acid to a gallon of water. If the water is warm, the other ingredients can be mixed more easily. Use a spoon or a rotary beater.

When the borax and boric acid are thoroughly dissolved, dip the material or clothing you wish to flameproof. Then wring it out and hang it up to dry.

washable fabric. However, the This method can be used on any material can be ironed without affecting the flameproofing. It will remain flameproofed until it is washed.

Should a fire happen, the heat of the flames will char the area which it contacts. When the flame is removed, the charring will stop. The result is no sudden flash fire to turn your child's happy Christmas into a family tragedy.

Mayor, Wife Keep Dates for Luncheon

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP). — If you're ever in the mayor's reception room here around noon, you're likely to see a white haired man stick his head out of the inner office and shout to the receptionist:

"Call the Little Tea Shop — and tell 'em to save two pieces of lemon pie."

This would be Mayor Frank Tobey. And the lemon pie would be for him and his wife.

It was in 1936 that Tobey and his wife decided it would be nice to lunch downtown each day. When he became mayor six months ago, Mrs. Tobey feared the demands on his time would force them to give up the pleasant custom.

These demands do cut into the routine at times, but the couple refuse to let go entirely. They still manage to lunch together several times a week.

When Mt. Pelee erupted on Martinique Island in May, 1902, more than 30,000 people were killed.

Says Schools Need Authority

Educator Tells Group Power to Control Isn't Anti-Democratic

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE
LANSING — "Authority is the backbone of any organization, including our schools," Dr. Francis S. Chase who admonished those claiming that "authority is anti-democratic." He spoke Wednesday before representatives of Michigan school boards and administration holding a pilot-conference at Kellogg Center this week.

Dr. Chase, director of the Midwest Administration Center, University of Chicago, said that authority definitely had a place in the classroom.

Purpose of this experimental four-day conference being chairmaned by Dr. Dwight B. Ireland, supt. of Birmingham schools, is to help "upgrade administration in both school superintendency and board of education membership."

"Is There a Place for Authority?" was the topic of yesterday's conference.

"Those who decry authority as anti-democratic, just don't know what they are talking about," said Dr. Chase.

No business, or organization, he pointed out, could exist without some line of control.

"That control can be exercised in a democratic way, and I would insist that no superintendent abrogate his decision-making authority. Final authority in a school system rests with the superintendent and the board of education," he said.

Dr. Chase reviewed the survey he has made of different types of schools from coast to coast.

"I have found that the 'everything do everything' type of educational program results in much activity, but in a great deal of chaos."

"There must be a decision-making teacher in the classroom who will guide the students in their program," he said.

Stating that good teachers are pleading for more time to teach and freedom to teach, he said that too many systems hamstringing their teachers with committee work.

"Good teachers know they have a professional responsibility to their students. They should be left free to decide their methodology, and their domain should be preserved inviolate of outside intrusion," said Dr. Chase.

"They do not want their time diluted by other factors which do not pertain to their particular teaching set-up."

Tyranny of pressure committees can come from within a school system as well as from without, he said.

The right to demand obedience, said Dr. Chase, permeates our democratic structure, and there is no better place for boys and girls to be exposed to it than in the classroom.

Tracing the ascendancy of authority in a school system, Dr. Chase said that from its beginning in the classroom, it reaches its final symbol in the superintendent. "His decision should be based on what is the best for the entire student body," he said.

Unsolved Bombings Among Dramatic Past Incidents

Pontiac Teamsters Local Faces New Chapter in Turbulent History

Exploding bombs rocked the homes of two union officials on a rain-swept night in 1949 and shattered the harmony of Pontiac Teamsters Local 614.

Targets of the bomb plot were Daniel J. Keating and Louis C. Lintean, controversial figures in the AFL union local's stormy history.

The explosions occurred only 25 minutes apart on that dismal fall night. The first wrecked a bedroom of Lintean's home at 615 E. Toussaint Ave.; the second ripped the garage of Keating's Williams Lake dwelling.

Neither Keating, then president of the local, nor Lintean, the local's secretary-treasurer, had an explanation for the violence.

Keating and his family were in northern Michigan that night, and Lintean was returning home from a union meeting in downtown Pontiac.

Lintean said a sudden decision to stop for a cup of coffee and CAT'S MEOW—Russell and his mistress, Dinah Mitchell, seem to be getting a big charge out of seeing how Russell would look if he were half a cat. Actually, the blue-furred cat model is no gag, for it is an important part of a new evolution exhibit at the museum of Cranbrook Institute of Science. The model illustrates how various parts of an animal body develop from three primary germ layers of an embryo. The museum is open free to the public daily from 2 to 5 p. m.

3 Dimension Models Show Evolution in Animal Life

A painless, three-dimensional biology lesson awaits the public at the Cranbrook Institute of Science. Using transparent plastic models in three dimensions, a recently opened series of exhibits shows the stages of evolution in animal life.

Tracing the development of life from the simple to the most highly complex, the displays were made and assembled by a staff of sculptors and model-makers at the institute and in other studios from Germany to Texas.

Starting with radiant energy from the sun, illustrated by a glowing globe of spun glass, one of the new exhibits shows the origin of the power of winds and waters and all living things.

The combination of the sun's energy with basic elements like oxygen and hydrogen to make up the living world is represented by a cell—the smallest living unit—magnified to an eighteen-inch luminous glass model held by a giant hand.

Two lines of life organization are next shown. First, single-celled organisms, such as the amoeba.

County Office Collects More Last Month Than in November 1952

Oakland County Register of Deeds office collected $15,974.95 in fees last month for processing 11,258 mortgages, deeds and other papers, Register Orrin McQuaid reported today.

Heavier business and higher fees put this November's total cash receipts about $6,000 over the November 1952 figure of $9,772.15.

A total of 5,588 papers was processed last November, well under last month's total.

Workers handled 2,583 deeds for $4,231.25 in fees last month, as against last November's 2,281 deeds filed for $2,740.75. Personnel collected $3,965.50 for processing 1,218 mortgages, as against $2,949 for last November's 1,043.

Chattel mortgages totaled 4,474, some 400 above the November 1952 total of 4,049—and brought in $4,474 in fees, as compared with last November's total of $2,024.50.

Meet to Raise Brake Support

Local Republican Aid Sought in Nomination for Governor

A meeting to obtain backing of Oakland County Republicans for State Treasurer D. Hale Brake's nomination for governor was held last night in Oakland County courthouse.

Jack W. Hutson, Royal Oak attorney, conducted the meeting and introduced Brake to about 60 persons assembled in courtroom No. 2.

Brake said he is trying to establish a framework for organized support in his bid for the governor's post and asked that county and local committees be set up for that purpose.

He said his aim was to obtain a committeeman in every precinct in the county and that his campaign was going to be organized and not "ballyhoo."

"Committees have been established in almost 35 counties throughout the state," Brake told his audience.

"State government is a $650,000,000 yearly business," Brake declared, "and I'm sure it can be run with less ballyhoo."

Brake has served as treasurer since 1943 and was a state senator from the 25th district for eight years before obtaining that post.

2 to Be Arraigned in Theft of Autos

Two men were bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court yesterday for arraignment Friday on a stolen auto charge.

Albert R. Moyer, 38, of 312 Fisher Ave., and Roosevelt Blackmon Jr., 22, of 384 Dittmar St., were ordered held in Oakland County Jail by Judge Maurice E. Finnegan after neither was able to post $1,000 bonds.

Suspicious of a license plate dangling from one bolt, Pontiac Patrolmen Donald Gravin and Frank Randolph arrested Moyer when a check of files indicated the car had been stolen.

Sgt. Albert W. Foster, head of the police auto theft bureau, said Moyer implicated Blackmon in a truck theft.

Snyder charges that several petitioners have been threatened with violence.

'53 Yule Event Huge, Colorful

Giant Balloon Figures, Bands, Floats Highlight Hour-Long Show

An hour-long Christmas "variety show on wheels" is planned for Pontiac Saturday morning.

The city's 1953 Christmas parade, featuring something for everyone and some things for all, will start down Saginaw street at 9:30 a.m.

Under sponsorship of Pontiac Retail Merchants Association, churches, merchants, organizations and schools have worked together to turn out the biggest, most colorful Christmas parade in Pontiac's history.

For those who enjoy bands, there are Pontiac, Waterford, Walled Lake, Lake Orion, Avondale, Pontiac Junior, Lincoln, and Oxford high school bands and the well-known Plymouth Kiltie band from Detroit.

Those who enjoy the giant balloon figures which have lent color to past parades will see a score of them—big clown heads, "Felix the Cat" and his family, an "elephant" and rider, Humpty-Dumpty, clown and chariot, away-back horse, Diesel engine and train and others.

Watchers who love calliope will have two this year: the Detroit Edison Co. calliope and a balloon calliope.

Highlight of this year's parade will be 21 Christmas floats built by Pontiac's churches and organizations, showing the religious spirit of Christmas in life-size pageantry.

Floats include the prophecy of Christ's coming, the Annunciation, Mary and Joseph, "No Room at the Inn," "Star of Bethlehem," "Manger Scene," "Angels and Shepherds" and the "Three Wise Men."

Others are "Christmas through the Ages," "For God and Home," "The Christmas Spirit," "One Solitary Life" and "The Christ of Christmas."

Adding color will be Pontiac Police Department's color guard, Flint Auxiliary Police unit, Oakland County Sheriff's mounted posse, and a color guard from Michigan National Guard's 197th Ordinance Co.

Climaxing the parade will be a jolly Santa Claus, with the snow of the North Pole still fresh on his shoulders.

This, then, is the lineup for your Christmas Parade.

There's no admission charge for grandstand vantage points along its route.

CHRISTMAS BAZAAR—Taking stock as Pontiac State Hospital Psychiatric Aides Association prepares for its annual Christmas Bazaar Friday are committeewomen Mrs. Gladys Vanderhoeven, 30 Rosshire Ct.; Mrs. Magdalene Pearson, 650 E. Tennyson Ave.; Mrs. Esthel Massengale, 213 Clifford St.; and Mrs. Gertrude Estes, 368 S. East Boulevard.

Sale Scheduled Tomorrow

Christmas Bazaar to Aid Patients at State Hospital

Proceeds from a one-day sale of cakes, cookies, toys, children's clothes and knickknacks at Pontiac State Hospital tomorrow will buy Yule gifts for hospital patients who otherwise may sit empty-handed on Christmas morning.

The hospital's Psychiatric Aides Association will open its third annual Christmas bazaar at 12:30 p. m. in the employees' lounge, just off the main lobby.

The bazaar, run entirely by employees who volunteer time and work, were started in 1950 when the association discovered that half the hospital's 5,000 patients would receive nothing—not even a Christmas card—on Christmas morning.

"They sat around, trying not to cry, and watched other people open Christmas gifts," according to Robert Larson, association president.

"We've got some fine baked goods and Christmas gifts lined up for tomorrow's sale," he added.

If the bazaar goes well, its proceeds—and other money the group has raised this year—will buy some 1,500 small gifts, such as socks and handkerchiefs.

Volunteers will wrap packages and deliver them to patients whose families and friends forgot.

Committeewomen for the bazaar are Mrs. Ruby Eargle, Mrs. Erma Klesock, Mrs. Florence Swartz, Mrs. Magdalene Pearson, Mrs. Audrey Dodge and Mrs. Onita Fields.

Others are Mrs. Leona Mae Sharp, Mrs. Gladys Vanderhoeven, Mrs. Eva Cunningham, Mrs. Gertrude Estes and Mrs. Nellie Young.

Try to Tow Sunken Ship Close to Canadian Shore

PORT HURON (UP)—Salvage workers hoped to tow the German freighter Wallschiff close enough to the Canadian shore today to place a temporary patch on its shattered hull.

The freighter, which sank in the St. Clair river after colliding with an ore carrier two months ago, was raised partly above the surface Wednesday. Most of its cargo of steel has been removed by divers.

Ex-Convict Held in 3 Killings

Police Say Man Admits Part in Detroit Robbery-Slayings

DETROIT (U)—Wilmon Goodwin, a 30-year-old ex-convict, was reported by police today to have implicated himself in at least three brutal Detroit killings.

Authorities immediately began questioning him in a fourth strong-arm slaying.

Police said he confessed the fatal beating of a 77-year-old crippled recluse, Joseph Kostekci, in his home last Nov. 8 in a futile robbery attempt.

Goodwin also was quoted by police as admitting he took part in the slayings of Gerald Miller, 27, a Korean War veteran robbed for $7.50, and John McKillop, 47, a factory worker.

Goodwin arrested in an east-side house-to-house search yesterday, surprised officials by implicating himself in the McKillop slaying. They quickly switched to questioning him about the death of Joseph Likewicz, 65-year-old boiler, beaten to death similarly to McKillop.

No formal charges, however, have been placed against Goodwin. He was booked "for investigation of murder."

While he implicated himself, police said, Goodwin claimed that both McKillop and Miller were actually killed by Charles Alexander, 23, who previously had identified Goodwin as the double-killer.

Goodwin's fingerprints, police said, were found at the scene of the Kostekci slaying.

Alexander is held as a police witness.

Ironically, Goodwin was placed on probation in April in an armed robbery at the request of police who said they wanted to use him as an informer in the Miller case. They said Goodwin told them he saw it, didn't know the killer's name, but would recognize him if he ever saw him again.

Goodwin has served five years in prison for auto theft and a 4 to 5 year burglary term.

Gravel Cave-in Brings Protests

Omar-Monterey Area Residents Say Project Imperils Children

After a cave-in at a gravel-removal operation yesterday killed a dog and narrowly missed two children, residents of the Omar street-Monterey avenue area complained today to City Manager Walter K. Willman.

According to Mrs. Conrad Burison of 125 Omar St., her children, Ralph, 9, and Betty, 11, were playing with their dog, "Fritz," on the excavation site yesterday afternoon. A tunnel dug in a bank by the youngsters collapsed on the dog immediately after the two children had crawled out.

One complainant, Richard Avery of 127 Monterey Ave., said he asked Willman to investigate the excavation and recompact it be leveled off after each day's work.

The property is owned by Pontiac businessman Kenneth G. Hempstead, who said he gave the Chauncy Costello Co. permission to remove sand and gravel from the site.

Hempstead said he would investigate the area with Costello and consider means to remedy the problem.

Neither Keating, then president of the local, nor Lintean, the local's secretary-treasurer, had an explanation for the violence.

Keating and his family were in northern Michigan that night, and Lintean was returning home from a union meeting in downtown Pontiac.

Teachers, Pupils Get Insurance Plan

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A unique accident insurance plan for school teachers and their pupils has been given the approval of the Philadelphia Board of Education.

Parents will be able to buy policies for their children for $1.25 a year. Teachers will pay a slightly higher rate.

The policies would provide accident coverage up to $2,000 for medical expenses on a single accident and will be underwritten by a private insurance firm, the board said. Coverage would be effective from the time the pupil or teacher leaves home until he returns home after classes.

33 Women Given Top Civic Posts by Republicans

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Republicans claim they've outdone the Democrats on another score—government jobs.

Miss Bertha S. Adkins, chairman of the women's division of the Republican National Committee, proudly points out that since President Eisenhower took office, January 20, the administration has named 33 women to top policy-making jobs.

"It's an all-time record," she says.

Of the total, 26 are presidential appointments. The others are departmental selections. The distaff side fills jobs in diplomacy, health and welfare, civil defense, the United Nations, foreign assistance, legal affairs, customs and agriculture.

Among these jobs, the GOP also is claiming many "firsts." Miss Adkins reminded that under the Republicans, the nation has its first woman ambassador to a major European country—Claire Boothe Luce, in Italy; the first career woman diplomat ever elevated to ambassadorial rank—Frances E. Willis in Switzerland; the first woman deputy civil defense administrator—Mrs. Katherine Howard; and of the Foreign Administration, Mrs. Hiram Cole Houghton.

Won't Garnishee Pay Until After Christmas

DETROIT (AP)—Common Pleas Judge James M. Jeffries announced yesterday that beginning Monday and until Jan. 4, Common Pleas Courts will honor no more garnishments of pay checks. It's the Christmas season.

More than half a million people visit Carlsbad Caverns every year.

HEARTH AND HOME—They deserve their share of gifts, too, especially when it eases the load of homemaking. At left is a streamlined serving cart that doubles as additional work table for any room. At right is a combination washer-dryer that can shorten Monday to 68 minutes.

Practical Gifts Last for Years

Entire Family Shares in Equipment to Make Home More Livable

Among the best gifts at Christmas are practical presents for the home—gifts that a family can share, and use for years to come.

"Every time the family uses the gift they'll feel 'Christmasy' all over again."

Everyone will benefit, for instance, from a new reclining easy chair. If you haven't been to your furniture dealer recently, you'll be amazed at recent improvements.

The newest models, based on scientific principles, guarantee the best in relaxation and are sure to become the favorite spot in your living room.

Since the entire family has frequent clothes mending needs, you can't go wrong with a modern electric sewing machine.

The latest portable and cabinet models can do almost any type of stitch automatically. The new machines are very attractive, well designed and one type can even be installed as a kitchen unit in a gleaming pull-out cabinet.

Besides being so useful, this particular gift is economical in the long run. In many cases, with Mom or Sis learning to make their own clothes, it pays for itself in a year or less.

Also tailor-made as a Yuletide gift, as eating is a favorite household pastime, is a colorful serving cart. Useful, too, as a work table, the cart is mounted on smooth-rolling casters and is stain, scratch and heat-resistant.

For year-round comfortable living, treat the family to that healthful room air conditioner that they dreamed about so much last summer. A novel and practical present, it ventilates, circulates and filters the air, with or without cooling and dehumidifying.

A family of music-lovers will spend many happy hours with a new three-speed phonograph.

Some recent models feature high-fidelity units, and one model has a novel "moving light" arrangement that lets you see when the record isn't playing at its exact recorded pitch and tempo so you can make the necessary speed adjustments.

The family that includes school children will also appreciate a desk and matching chair. Well-worth seeing is a new styling in matched walnut woods, with double-size, partitioned bottom drawer and sturdy foam rubber chair seat.

Winnie Ruth Judd Goes to Arizona State Fair

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Trunk murderer Winnie Ruth Judd, inmate at the Arizona State Hospital for Insane, was permitted to attend the Arizona State Fair here last month. It was disclosed yesterday.

Dr. M. W. Conway, hospital superintendent, said Mrs. Judd was kept under close guard and she went unrecognized.

Mrs. Judd, who six times has escaped the institution, has been in low spirits since her mother died in the same hospital last month, Dr. Conway said.

Marine Guard Kills Worker in San Diego

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A civilian gardener was shot and killed at the San Diego Marine Corps Recruit Depot yesterday, reportedly in a dispute with a guard over observance of flag-raising ceremonies.

A military court of inquiry was told that Irving V. Lefever, 27, employed at the depot, was shot by Pfc L. C. Camp, who was guarding four Marine prisoners at the time.

Deputy County Coroner Oliver M. Ladd said testimony disclosed there was an argument over how the civilian should conduct himself during the flag ceremony.

Says America Plans to Win This Cold War

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott said yesterday America is "trying to win a war without fighting" by becoming "so strong no one will dare attack us."

Talbott, in an address before the Pennsylvania Society of Sons of the Revolution, said he didn't know, however, "how long we will have to maintain that situation."

Talbott said the United States has built up a strong home defense with "30 bases where defense aircraft can be in the air in three minutes."

Drug Relieves Pressure

NEW YORK (AP)—High blood pressure was relieved in 17 out of 23 elderly men and women by a new drug, methium chloride, Drs. Henry A. Rasky, Andrew Horonick and Jeanne C. Rasky write in the Journal of the American Geriatric Society. The drug had few side effects, they said in a preliminary report.

Laniel on Way to Bermuda

French Premier Lands Today for Big 3 Talks to Start Friday

By STANLEY JOHNSON
TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP)—France's "lame duck" Premier, Joseph Laniel, sped across the Atlantic today to the Big Three Bermuda conference. He was reported bringing a full bag of requests for Prime Minister Churchill and President Eisenhower.

Habitually late-rising Churchill left an early call to meet the American-built Constellation bringing Laniel. Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and a staff of 17.

Eisenhower arrives tomorrow from Washington and the five days of talk start that afternoon.

To the Americans, the major task of the conference is to prod the balky French National Assembly into ratifying the European Defense Community Pact. It provides for a unified West European army including troops from France's long-time enemy Germany.

Laniel can promise nothing because his government must resign Jan. 17, a month after France's new President is elected. But he reportedly was bringing a raft of conditions which French sources say must be met before there is any chance for Assembly approval of German rearmament.

These include:

1. British-American agreement to pressure the West Germans into agreeing that the Saar Basin, rich in coal and steel, will remain politically autonomous but linked economically to France. It was German before World War I and the Germans want it back.

2. British and American assurances that they won't pull their troops if the continent and leave the French to face rearmament Germans alone.

3. Continued American help against the Communist-led rebels in Indo-China, or Allied diplomatic support for a negotiated settlement with Ho Chi Minh's forces.

4. British-American agreement to Moscow's proposal for a Big Four foreign ministers meeting.

Of these, only the Saar seems a major stumbling block. Resurgent West Germany so far has given no sign of conceding anything on that question.

Russian Is Invited to Talk to Committee

NEW YORK (AP)—Andrei Vishinsky, Soviet deputy foreign minister has been invited to appear before a House committee and "defend himself" on the issue of Russian seizure of three Baltic nations.

Last Tuesday Alfred Derrins, former Latvian cabinet member, said in Washington that Vishinsky was in charge when Russia took over his country, Lithuania and Estonia.

Derrins told his story to a special House committee headed by Rep. Kersten (R-Wis.). The committee was set up to investigate the Soviet seizure of the Baltic nations.

The committee opens public hearings today.

Keeps Audience Happy and Present Rating Is at New High

NEW YORK—The popular musical quiz 'Name That Tune,' observed its first birthday recently with producer maestro Harry Salter, comedy quizmaster Red Benson, and vocalist Vicki Mills putting contestants through their paces.

Salter is described as the daddy of the musical quiz because of his prior connection with Pot o'Gold and Stop the Music. He believed that audiences would be receptive to something new in the way of question-and-answer programs.

He introduced such new wrinkles as having the titles of the songs sung in foreign languages to stump the contestants.

With the radio run a success, the musical quiz moved to TV on July 6, 1953, as a summer replacement. However, after the first week's telecast audience mail was of huge proportions; the show soared in popularity and was extended through the fall.

Today, its rating is at a new high and its mail response heavier than ever.

"The musical quiz has been an unexplored territory," Salter says. "Everybody can find some enjoyment there. Music is the one field everybody loves."

"The reason this show has clicked is because we combine the music with comedy, mystery and a few little tricks which the viewer can enjoy."

In Name That Tune, contestants try to guess the titles of songs played by Salter's orchestra and sung in foreign languages by Red Benson or Miss Mills. The competitor winning the most money in each of the three rounds of music is given an opportunity to crack the $1,600 jackpot.

Viewers also can share in the monetary prizes by submitting a list of songs, identified on the program as the Golden Medley. If an entry is selected, the writers wins an amount equal to that achieved by the contestant.

Mother's Tears, Rewards Won't Win Back POW

PANMUNJOM (U)—The prisoner of war, a South Korean, was in his early 20s. He smoked a cigarette, his face impassive.

Across the small table from him today, a South Korean major expounded the attractions of the republic over Communist North Korea.

It was the second day of Allied explanations which had failed, up to this point, to win back a single captive from Red ideology.

The major promised promotions, rewards, medical treatment and pardons for any crimes. Then he asked permission to play recordings. The POW agreed.

First came the strains of the South Korean national anthem, then the voices of recent voluntary repatriates telling of good treatment in their homeland.

The captive asked the addresses of the repatriates. The major supplied them.

South Korea had been rehabilitated, the major said. He unfolded a two-page spread of pictures from the U. S. Army newspaper Stars and Stripes showing the progress.

The captive asked the major his name, address, military unit. He wrote the answers carefully.

"Who sent you?" the POW asked. "Why did you take the trouble to travel to Panmunjom?"

The major replied, softly, patiently.

"I know everything about South Korea," the captive interjected. "I am sure you must know why I chose freedom and decided not to return to South Korea."

An Indian guard spoke. "You should listen to the explanation."

"Tung-moo," the young major said. "Comrade."

It was not the Communist salutation, but the South Korean address of a soldier to a soldier.

"Tung-moo, do you want the interview to continue?"

"Yes, please continue."

The major laid aside his notes.

"Your absence has brought tears to the eyes of your mother," he said.

"The scientists say that a tear is just water. I think they are right—but I think there is something more."

"I think there is love in a tear. Your mother is crying and waiting for you."

The prisoner did not answer. He went on scribbling notes.

When the major stopped speaking, the prisoner jumped to his feet.

"You know South Korea as well as I do," he said. "That is why I am going north."

"I will see you one day."

30 More ROKs Go Communist

Allies Are Unsuccessful in Persuading POWs to Come Home

PANMUNJOM (U)—A second group of 30 South Koreans today unanimously chose life under the Communists, giving Allied persuaders a total blank for two days of efforts to woo home balky war prisoners.

There was no violence, but many prisoners were more talkative than the 30 who yesterday listened passively to ROK explanations, then chose communism.

The U. N. Command said 30 more South Koreans of 323 who refused repatriation will be interviewed tomorrow.

There was no indication when 22 Americans and 1 Briton who stayed with the Communists will be called.

Some South Korean prisoners interviewed Thursday marched into the explanation tents singing Communist songs and chanting slogans.

But the interviews went so smoothly that a young Polish major serving as a repatriation commission observer began nodding and finally went to sleep. He awoke with a start when the session ended.

There was one dramatic scene when a young prisoner walked into the tent and recognized an ROK repatriate as a friend from a South Korean army unit.

Both fought in the 2nd Battalion of the U. S. 5th Regimental Combat Team, then with the 24th division.

The ROK major and the prisoner talked together for two hours, much of the time discussing the prisoner's family in South Korea.

Finally the POW said he had nothing against the major personally, but that he could "not return to South Korea as long as President Syngman Rhee remains in power."

The two shook hands and the prisoner walked out the door designated for those who chose to remain with the Communists.

One interview captive walked out the other door, apparently choosing to go home. But after walking 20 yards with South Korean guards he appeared to discover his error and darted back to the explanation tent.

ROK intelligence officers said he apparently walked out the repatriation door in a staged attempt to embarrass Allied persuaders.

For the most part the prisoners listened quietly to promises of promotions, back pay, reunions with families and pardons for crimes committed in North Korea. But many tried to wind up the interview with political speeches which Indian tent chairmen cut off quickly.

Other prisoners asked question after question or took voluminous notes as the ROK officers talked.

One POW objected to the recorded voices of his family.

As each interview was completed the prisoner was led away to a separate compound where they are segregated from those not yet interviewed.

Crime Is Ruled Out in Death of Widow

BENTON HARBOR (U)—Police concede today they have failed to find "any sign of a crime" in the death of Mrs. Maurice J. Hall.

Mrs. Hall, 65-year-old socially prominent widow, died four days ago under what appeared at the time to be mysterious circumstances.

A coroner's verdict has yet to be returned and State Police laboratories still are analyzing samples of blood and body organs, but Police Chief Vern Story of Benton Harbor and State Police Detective Sgt. Victor Beck issued the following joint statement late yesterday:

"Investigation of the Hall case does not show any signs of a crime."

Jailed for Robbing 2nd Boss to Pay 1st

GRAND RAPIDS (UP)—Stella Conklin, 22, was serving a prison term today because she robbed one employer to pay back embezzled funds to another.

Miss Conklin embezzled $3,200 from Ardmore Frozen Foods, Inc., at Grandville and was placed on probation for three years in June 1952. Part of the terms for probation was that she make restitution in installments.

Circuit Judge Dale Souter revoked the probation Wednesday after she admitted stealing $1,400 from her recent employer, Charles Bengry Real Estate Company, so she could pay back the original embezzlements. The judge imposed an 18-month to 10-year sentence in the Detroit House of Correction.

Other prisoners asked question after question or took voluminous notes as the ROK officers talked.

Hope Seen in Yule Buying at Business Year's End

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (U)—Business goes into the homestretch of the year today with some placing their bets on the Christmas shopper while others put the slump in factory output higher on their dope sheets. How well the buying public fills its Christmas stockings will solve the worries of merchants who wonder if they've overstocked—or have been too cautious in their ordering and may miss sales. Industrial production's slip is showing, the Federal Reserve Board reports. In November, the total output of the nation's mines and factories dipped below the year ago figure for the first time. It's six per cent lower than the postwar peak reached last March. Usually production rises in November, but this time it slipped below the October level. Part of the drop was blamed on lower auto production. And James J. Nance, president of Packard Motor Car Co., says the coming year will be "tough and rugged" for his industry. Eastern bankers, however, have some reassuring words today about the general trend.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Boston reports consumer spending so far this year in New England is slightly above the mark at the same time last year, with Christmas trade to set the final pattern. New Englanders, moreover, have saved away more savings this year than last. "The moderate and selective decline in business which started last summer appears to have continued in recent weeks without any striking change of pace," The Guaranty Trust Co. of New York reports. The National City Bank of New York says in its December letter, out today, that "Business sentiment in general is tending to move from extremes of either pessimism or optimism into the middle ground." Some businessmen expect a recession and the bank lists their reasons as follows: 1. The big spring spurt was largely due to building up of inventories and consumer debt, and this trend has now about ceased; 2. Consumers have bought so many appliances and other durable goods that demand is bound to slacken; and 3. Wages, costs and prices got out of balance during the long inflationary period, so that now many manufactured goods are priced out of reach of consumers, notably farmers whose incomes are falling. But the bank finds many reassuring factors. Government demand for goods and services stays high, with any drop in federal spending likely to be offset by rises in local government projects and highway building. "Lending institutions are sound and liquid," the bank says, "current savings are large, money policy is aimed at stability rather than restriction, and it would be hard to show that money is scarce or will become scarce for worthy projects." Large inventories have been built up to match sales and production and not speculation, the bank believes. And, finally, if recession comes, purchasing power will be bolstered by unemployment compensation, pensions and farm price supports.

Carpenter Emergency
MADERA, Calif. (UP)—When Joseph Riggs, assistant state forester in Los Banos, informed headquarters here he was going to Basalt Mountain because the lookout, Sam Johnson, broke his leg, he was advised by radio that an ambulance and doctor were being dispatched. "Not necessary," Riggs retorted. "Send a carpenter. Sam broke his peg leg." More than 25 million acres of California are national forests.

Set Dec. 18 to Rule on Schreiber Re-trial

LAPEER—Circuit Court Judge Timothy C. Quinn today set Dec. 18 as the date for final disposition of the Floyd Schreiber case here.

Judge Quinn said he would consider a motion for a new trial filed Monday by Schreiber, 60, one of 10 men accused of obstructing justice in the year-old eviction case involving Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens. Schreiber was sentenced Oct. 19.

In his motion, Schreiber charged a juror with bias. The juror, Harry Dodds, was reported to have said: "All of those farmers should be behind bars now."

White Substance Analyzed to Be Soap in River

WHEELING, W. Va. — That "strange, white bubbly substance" stretching from shore to shore in the Ohio River has been identified. It's soap.

A. R. Todd, chemist at Wheeling filtration plant, announced today his analysis showed it to be 32 pounds of detergent—a synthetic soap product—to each million gallons of water.

Todd said the detergent might have been accumulating in creeks during the long dry spell from family washings and other cleaning processes and was flushed into the river during the recent light rain.

CD Workers Get Touch of Realism

Some 90 civil defense volunteers from Detroit and nearby areas showed up at Detroit Artillery Armory Wednesday to learn how to feed bombed-out communities.

Expecting the usual classes in steam-heated rooms, many volunteers turned up in business suits and fashionable dresses.

Instead they were told they would spend Wednesday and today in a wind-swept field back of the armory.

The Army would provide food, but if they wanted to eat between 7:30 a.m. and 8:30 p.m., volunteers would have to build their own cooking utensils and cook the food.

For the rest of the day, Louis C. Jarrendt, Oakland Council civil defense director; Mrs. Odessa Bieschke and Miss Juanita Wicks, dietitian and assistant at Pontiac General Hospital, and others slogged through the mud, rummaged through the armory dump's rubbish, and patched together stoves and cooking tools.

The Army offered some help. Seven Army cooks and bakers helped show volunteers how to build stoves out of water pipes, oil drums, bricks and mud; how to fashion mess kits from old antifreeze containers; and how to make cups and spoons from tin cans and wire.

Out of the chaos, mud and grime came noon meal of Mulligan stew, steamed cabbage, biscuits and cake, wolfed down by the hungry volunteers. Supper was baked beans and hot dogs.

Civil Defense officials commented that today's exercises would be even rougher.

But the crew of volunteers turned out this morning prepared for the worst.

Silver Dollar Buttons Are Refused by Judge

DELTA, Colo. — Police Judge N. E. Darrow returned 29 "buttons" with which three Indians had attempted to pay drunkenness fines yesterday. The buttons came off their wives' clothing.

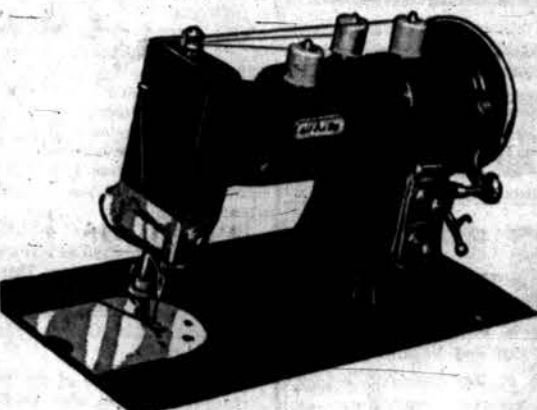

They were silver dollars defaced by copper loops welded to them. A bank refused to accept them.

The judge suspended the $29 in fines.

We know, because we've heard scores of people do it. People who have never had time to learn music. Pine Cones, Mirrors for Table Decoration

There are many charming ideas for Christmas table centerpieces if you will just give a little thought to it. An over-sized glass may be filled with pine cones, fir branches and Christmas ornaments, placed on a small mirror and flanked by two candles for a pretty effect.

If you have a small collection of little angels, choristers or other Christmas symbols line them up in the center of the table and surround them with pieces of pine. Some of these figures may be purchased for a few cents in dime or department stores.

Own Motion Pictures Will Please Young

What little youngster wouldn't be delighted with a gift of his very own motion pictures?

These are handy to have during the Yuletide season, too, if there is a party planned. No matter whether Dad's projector is 8 or 16 mm, there is a delightful assortment of films available, ranging from fairy tales, westerns and comedies to novelty animal subjects—all to please the most discriminating small-try.

Adult audiences will enjoy the toddlers' matinee also, perhaps, whether Woody Woodpecker or Andy Panda are the stars of the moment.

Old-time favorites like Tom Mix and W. C. Fields are available in thrillers to cheer the hearts of any audience.

Write Your Thanks

Anyone who has taken the time to select and wrap a Christmas gift for you certainly deserves a note of thanks. And, to be proper, it should be hand-written, instead of one of the printed thank-you cards. Your note should mention the gift, and express your heartfelt appreciation.

Rattler Repaid

SATANITA, Kan. (UP) — Ben Davis and rattlers are even now. Almost 20 years ago a rattlesnake bit him and escaped. Davis was laid up quite a spell. On a recent tour of his farm, Davis spied a rattler, grabbed a fence post and dealt it a death blow.

'SNUFF, THANKS—They say goats will eat just about anything. This one, owned by Harry Cochran, of Fish Lake, Ind., has a craving for snuff. In addition to relishing the strong tobacco powder, "Billy" will sometimes chew up a cigarette as dessert. Here Eva Cochran, 17, a Mill Creek, Ind., high school student, gives the goat his snuff ration. He snatched the cardboard snuff box out of her hand and gulped that down, too. Peering from a safe distance is her nephew, three-year-old Darryl Johnson.

Paint Brushes, Ideal Yule Gift for Handyman

For the husband whose home-work is in the "handyman" class, no finer Christmas present can be found than a set of good paint brushes.

Every handyman likes to use the right tools for the job to be done. And, in painting, selection of the right brush for the painting job to be done is essential to attain professional-looking results.

In selecting paint brushes to make up a Christmas set, a good guide is the recommendation of the Paint and Varnish Brush Division of the American Brush Manufacturers Association.

For basic home painting needs, a set of five brushes is ideal. Such a set includes a sash brush, probably an inch or an inch-and-a-half wide; a two-inch varnish brush; a wider varnish or enamel brush, two-and-one-half or three inches, with a chiseled edge; and two wall brushes, three and four or four-and-a-half inches wide.

With paint brushes, as with other fine tools, quality pays off in service.

When You Can't Boat 'Em

FALLS CITY, Neb. (UP)—When Dick King couldn't land a big fish he hooked, he jumped into the Ne-maha River and "rode" it to shore. The fish, a yellow catfish, weighed 35½ pounds.

Prehistoric Briton Appears to Have Been Smart Bloke

LONDON (UP)—The more British scientists learn about prehistoric man on this island the more they believe he was not the blue-painted barbarian of legend but probably one of the smartest apes of the ancient world.

He made better stone axes than anyone else and exported them to Europe in the Stone Age—probably before the English Channel was formed.

He seemed to have understood the principle of perspective foreshortening in architecture about 1,000 years before the ancient Greeks.

He probably did a brisk trade with Greece 3,500 years ago.

No "mapped" southern England, where he was concentrated, so that even today anyone with the key can follow the short cuts through the hills and fords over the rivers he figures out before recorded time.

He knew astronomy, too. The prehistoric Briton pops into the scientific news today because of a remarkable stroke of luck which befell Prof. Stuart Piggott of the University of Edinburgh and a colleague.

They were examining Stonehenge, the mighty stone ruin of Wiltshire, when the slanting rays of the setting sun struck one of the rough stone columns. In its light they saw something that had somehow been overlooked by the thousands who have minutely examined the mysterious monument over the centuries.

It was a carving of a bronze dagger of a type used at Nycene in Greece 3,500 years ago. This, in the opinion of other scientists, tends to confirm that the ancient Briton traded with Greece at least that long ago.

Dr. Gordon Childe of the University of London also pointed out that this helped date the monument, and, since its architect used perspective foreshortening, he evidently knew about it 1,000 years before it appeared in the classical age of Greece.

But Stonehenge — which may have been a pagan cathedral or shrine and is popularly believed to have been a sacrificial altar of the Druids—may be even older.

Samples of charcoal taken from wood burned in the holes at Stonehenge in the slick process used to slide the 14-foot stone columns into place were submitted to the University of Chicago for analysis.

The Institute of Nuclear Studies there estimated from its radio-carbon content that it had been burned 3,798 years ago—give or take a couple of centuries. This agrees significantly with a date of June 21, 1840 B.C.—3,793 years ago—given by some astronomers for a possible summer rite at Stonehenge.

Meanwhile, Prof. E. A. Ruge is looking for more "pudding-stones." He says Bronze Age Britons used these distinctive stones to

Superior Court Upholds Right to Fire Teachers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Superior Court has upheld the right of the Los Angeles City School Board to dismiss three teachers for refusal to testify before the House Committee on Un-American Activities. Judge Joseph W. Vickers held yesterday with the school board that the teachers could be dismissed for unprofessional conduct, evident unfitness for office and refusal to obey reasonable regulations.

Counsel for the teachers, Abraham Minkus, Serrill L. Gerbey and Harry Shepro, said they would appeal.

Gets Prison Term for Genesee Crash

FLENT (AP)—James R. Smith, 30, of 338 Lakeview Dr., Pontiac, was sentenced to 20 months to 2 years in Southern Michigan Prison Tuesday after pleading guilty to felonious driving that nearly resulted in the death of an 8-year-old boy.

Smith admitted driving a car that struck a farm wagon on a road near Grand Blanc Oct. 31, injuring Duane Clark, who was riding on the wagon. Duane lost a leg in the crash.

Dr. Chester H. Adams, a Grand Blanc physician, crawled into the wreckage and held his fingers on severed arteries of Clark's leg, stopping an excessive loss of blood, until an ambulance arrived.

Smith's car smashed head-on into a Genesee sheriff's car shortly before striking the farm wagon. He was pursued by deputies at speeds up to 80 miles an hour.

Rabbi Saperstein Protests U.S. Policy in Near East

hate-ridden refusal of the Arab neighbors of Israel to sit down with them to discuss final peace terms. Those of us who have a vision of our country exercising its power for moral purposes waited anxiously for such a word of peace to come from our own delegate. We waited, alas, in vain. "It is possible that this failure to utilize the moment to demand that the Arab countries enter into peace negotiations is part of a wooing of the Arabs that is now regarded as a 'realistic' foreign policy. Even in the context of the cold war, I cannot agree what this is realistic for very practical reasons.

"To place reliance upon those countries which have a notorious record of internal instability and discontent, of indifference to and subjugation of democracy is unrealistic in the highest degree.

"Perhaps our policy makers have decided that it is more expedient to yield to the crude, arrogant threats of the Arab League to 'cooperate or else' as the press recently reported. If so, it means the abandonment of our greatest strength if we exchange morality for expediency.

"Let me make myself clear: Friends of Israel ask for no special favor or partiality for Israel from our country. I do feel that it is proper to point out that our actions in the Security Council has encouraged the Arab countries to continue a state of war against Israel and that thereby we have undermined the stability and strength of any area that is highly strategic in the world-wide defense of democracy.

"Our foreign policy ought to encourage and sustain the forces of peace and stability. For this reason men of good will should find it completely appropriate to encourage our government to use its influence both in the U.N. and directly to bring the Arabs and Israelis together so that they may resolve the present uneasy armistice into an enduring peace."

Williamston Steer Gets Grand Championship

JACKSON (AP)—Exhibiting an Aberdeen Angus steer, Roana Farms of Williamston walked off with the grand championship of the first Southern Michigan Fat Stock Show.

Ronald Hamaker, a Marshall 4-H Club member, won both the reserve and junior championships with a Shorthorn steer.

Clair L. Brown of Kalamazoo won both the individual and pen championships for barrows with Poland Chinas.

Eppelheimer brothers of Jonesville won the lamb championship with a Southdown, while Carl Dawson of Litchfield won the lamb pen championship.

Strayed, Stolen? 31 Sheep Vanish From Area Farm

Robert Ellis is still trying to find 31 sheep that strayed or were stolen early this week from his farm at 995 Romeo Rd., Oakland Township.

His wife, Helen, said the sheep have been missing since Sunday and a three-day search has proved futile.

"We've had these sheep eight months and they've never wandered out of sight before," said Mrs. Ellis. "None of our neighbors has seen them since they disappeared."

Mrs. Ellis said the flock may have wandered back to private property around Green Lake, which has not yet been searched.

"I can't understand why anyone would want to steal them. Sheep prices are low now," said Mrs. Ellis.

SANTA and the FLYING PUP

By LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

Chapter One

Once upon a time in a land far away there lived a little girl named Henrietta. Her family was very large and very poor.

She lived with her parents and her grandparents and two uncles and two aunts in a teeny tiny house. She was the only child in the house. There was hardly room for her to move without stepping on some one.

There was never a Christmas in this house. Worse than that—there never was enough to eat. Nor enough blankets to keep a body warm at night. There was hardly ever a bright new toy for a child to play with.

"But Henrietta didn't mind. She was a cheerful, happy child. Only sometimes she was lonesome."

With no children to play with and no toys and no money to go to the movies with or anything—well, you can understand why she would be lonely now and then.

But one day Henrietta met Willie and she thought she would never be lonesome again.

It was near Christmas. Henrietta was coming home from the store with a bag of turnips for the family dinner. When she came to her house she saw sitting on the bottom step, the littiest, softest, brightest looking brown and white puppy you ever dreamed of.

Henrietta stood there and held her breath and gazed down into the deep brown eyes of the puppy. The puppy gazed up into the soft blue eyes of Henrietta. For a long moment there seemed to be nothing else in the whole world except this one little girl and this one little puppy.

Henrietta dropped to her knees. She put down the bag of turnips. Slowly she held out her hand. She never said a word. She dared not breathe. Suddenly a stump of a tail sticking from under the puppy began to wiggle furiously and the little dog leaped into Henrietta's arms.

"Oh, you wonderful, wonderful thing!" cried Henrietta.

She scooped up the puppy and,

"Oh, you wonderful, wonderful thing!" cried Henrietta.

leaving the turnips forgotten on the sidewalk, ran into the house.

"Mother! Father! Grandmama! Grandpapa! Everyone! Come quickly!"

All the family came. They saw at once this marvelous thing that had happened to Henrietta.

"He's mine!" cried the little girl. "He has no collar and he wants me and oh! I love him so!" She pressed her face into the soft warm fur of the puppy's neck.

The family smiled and patted the dog and spoke gently to the child. All the family except one. Henrietta's father stood there silently. He watched the child and the dog and slowly, sadly he shook his head.

Henrietta turned to her father. She was afraid. "I can keep him father?"

The father cleared his throat. His voice when it came, was tired and old. "Poor folks can't afford a puppy, Henrietta. We have no food nor room to spare."

"But, I'll give him food from my own plate!" cried Henrietta. "And he can sleep with me. Why you won't even know he's in the house. I promise! I promise!"

The puppy wiggled free from Henrietta's arms and dashed to the father's feet. He licked the father's broken shoes lovingly. The father did not smile nor speak.

"Christmas will be here soon," said the mother, taking pity on Henrietta. "Let the child have her dog."

"I'll call him Willie!" exclaimed Henrietta. She threw herself down beside the scampering pup and gathered him into her lap.

"What's the harm?" mumbled grandpapa. "Let the child have her dog."

"I'll love him for ever and ever!" whispered Henrietta. The dog escaped from her and ran joyously round and round the tiny room.

"It's the only Christmas she will have!" said the uncles and the aunts.

"He's my dearest friend!"

breathed Henrietta. "My only friend."

But the father stood solidly in the kitchen doorway and said not a word.

"Oh, father, please!" cried Henrietta and she burst into tears.

Christmas Can Prove Easy With Saving

Saving is the smartest way to solve your Christmas shopping problem.

Millions of people start Christmas savings accounts at this time of the year to be prepared for next Christmas. It is a painless way to meet all gift obligations in a grand manner.

Edward F. Dorset, president of the Christmas Club corporation which encourages banks to handle weekly deposits toward this goal, reports that the habit formed through Christmas savings has given millions of savers the benefits of full banking services.

"Many banks report," says Mr. Dorset, "that as many as 70 per cent of the club members have opened savings and checking accounts, rented safety deposit boxes, or financed homes through their institutions."

"Here is a concrete demonstration that our financial institutions are serving all the people—are helping the man in the street to achieve that high standard of living and security that is characteristic of American democracy."

Approximately 12 million persons maintain Christmas savings accounts in 6,400 banks and savings and loan associations.

SAN FRANCISCO (U)—Extra police were ordered today to keep order during a threatened march on Civic Center by Harry Bridges' longshoremen protesting House Un-American Activities Committee hearings at City Hall.

The protest, labeled a stop work meeting by Bridges' own Local 10 of the left-wing International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, could tie up 40 ships. It was called at a meeting attended by fewer than 600 of the local's 5,500 members after several Bridges aides were named as former Communists by a witness before the committee Tuesday.

Rep. Harold Velde (R-MI) denied ILWU charges that his committee is here to attack it. He stated: "We will continue our hearings against communism and subversion wherever we find it."

Police Chief Michael Gaffey ordered 50 uniformed officers and 30 inspectors to prevent mass entries into City Hall and to keep pickets from blocking entrances. Another 50 policemen were held in reserve.

The committee expected to hear today a friendly witness, described by Rep. Donald L. Jackson (R-Calif) as a "former member of the fourth estate—the press." He was not identified.

Louis Rosser, 47, of Los Angeles, who said he was a disillusioned ex-Red, testified Tuesday these ILWU officers were Communists. Louis Goldblatt, secretary-treasurer and Bridges' No. 1 lieutenant; Charles (Chill) Duarte, president of Local 6; Richard Lyndon, secretary-treasurer of Local 6; Jack Olson, former Local 6 publicity chief; and Paul Heide, Local 6 business agent.

Decree Gives Cubans Month's Vacation

HAVANA (UP)—Cubans can now look forward to a month's paid vacation every year.

President Fulgencio Batista has issued a decree codifying all the rules pertaining to paid vacations. The new law makes it compulsory for an employer to grant a month's vacation to a worker for every 11 months he works.

Recognizing that an employee needs to rest from his job for his health's sake, as well as for the well-being of his family who depend on him for their support, the decree also compels the worker to take the time off due him. The employer is granted a five and one-half month period after the vacation comes due in which to grant the paid holiday.

If the worker should resign before his 11 months are completed, or be dismissed for grave misdemeanors, he forfeits the vacation pay accumulated up to that time. The decree also provides for establishment of a commission to supervise and enforce the law.

Cobalt Is Discovered

MOA BAY, Cuba (INS)—One of the most important discoveries of cobalt in recent years was made recently at Moa Bay on Cuba's northeast coast. The discovery is expected to provide U. S. with a continuing source of these strategic metals.

TOPPER TO A CHRISTMAS MORN—It can be that new hat he needs but won't buy. Pick it out with his style in mind.

Whaler Treats Whaling as Secretive Business

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (UP)—Even whalers don't like to spread the word around of their favorite fishing spot.

The General Electric Co. recently received a request for technical advice from a radio operator on a Dutch whaler working out of South Africa.

He needed a two-way radio set-up strong enough to maintain contact over water between the factory ship and the smaller catcher ships. The only hitch was that the broadcast couldn't be too strong or other whalers could tune in and find out where the whales were.

Delicacies Are Ideal Gift for One With 'Everything'

For someone who "has everything"—or for anyone who enjoys fine food—the ideal gift is a basket or hamper crammed with out-of-the-ordinary delicacies.

It's a gift that will truly fill them with Christmas cheer.

Olives
Large, perfect, ripe and green; stuffed with anchovies, almonds or pearl onions. Others pitted and stuffed with chopped olives. For a special treat buy them mounted on "plastic" trees and packed in bottles. The tree saves digging in to get them. Green, ripe—a delicate novelty.

Hors d'Oeuvres
Smoked turkey and smoked turkey paste; smoked oysters; caviar (1 ounce, 2 ounces, 4 ounces, 1 pound); pate de foie gras, ham tongue paste, Argentine liver pate, kippered snack, Danish liver paste, anchovies in oil, imported sardines, cocktail sausages, cheddar cheese spread.

Nuts
Brazil nuts, paper-shell pecans, almonds, walnuts. (At holiday time whole nuts in shell are in demand.) Marrons in syrup, Macadamia nuts, assorted salted nuts, pine nuts.

Fruits, Fruit Jams
Kumquats in syrup, whole fruit in brandy, figs in syrup, imported marmalades, gourmet jams, table raisins packed in clusters, watermelon rind in syrup, fresh fancy grapes, apples, pears, Santa Claus melon.

Dessert Items
Fruitcake and plum pudding, assorted cocktail and imported sweet crackers, fine cheeses.

Ice Cream Sauces
Nesselrode, tutti-frutti, grandy hard chocolate, butterscotch. That's only a partial list of luxury items for your gift basket. Epicures advise that you build your basket around the personality and social life of the recipient rather than send items you, personally, would like to receive.

Source Says Chinese Aim to Make Tools

HONG KONG (UP)—On paper it reads good. Peoples' China, Red magazine, says that China will concentrate in the next five years on development of ferrous and non-ferrous metallurgy, the machine-building industry, the coal industry, the petroleum industry, the electric power industry and the defense industry.

The idea is for Red China to produce her own machine tools, precision instruments, automobiles, tractors, airplanes, tanks and artillery. Most technical opinion here is that the Reds do not have the raw materials nor the technical know-how to build such an industrial goal in 10 years, let alone five.

GIFT HAMPER—This basket is laden with 15 mellow cheeses, making a gift fit for any gourmet. Hamper may be used for sewing kit or jewel case when empty.

Urban Business Center Losing Past Popularity

CHICAGO (UP)—Central business districts in large cities are losing their popularity because of increased traffic congestion, according to an article in Public Management Magazine.

Increased automobile registration and a post-war boom in suburban areas have kept customers away from "downtown," said J. D. Carroll, Jr., director of the Detroit, Mich., Metropolitan Area Study.

Carroll also noted a "steady, relative decline in real property values in central business districts, especially in land values."

Cobalt Use Is Great

PITTSBURGH (INS)—The steel industry is the largest single user of cobalt, an important alloy in making heat-resistant steel, essential to jet engines, gas turbines, turbosuperchargers and gun barrel linings.

Kitty of Change Grows

SEARCY, Ark. (UP)—A bank here stocked a make-your-own-change jar with $15. Three months later, after numerous customers had fished in the kitty for change, there was slightly more than $15.

Men's Ideas Vague in Buying Flowers

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—Persons who believe men are poor customers should listen to what folks who must handle men's flower needs have to say and be confirmed in their beliefs.

Ralph Robinson, general manager for Telegraph Delivery Service in Los Angeles, believes men don't know what they want when they walk in to place an order for flowers.

"A man doesn't ask for the traditional two dozen red roses," he explained at a convention here recently. "They leave everything up to the shop."

"Women will say, 'I want something for $5,' but a man will just ask, 'How much will it cost me?' and that goes for a man who will go bargain hunting (a rarity) for a shirt or necktie."

The consensus was that while men don't wear boutonnières the way their forebears did, they do did their ancestors.

Hailstorms Cause Most Destruction in Kansas

TOPEKA, Kan. (UP)—Hail storms, not tornadoes, are the weather villains of Kansas, frequently called the cyclone state, a summary by weather observers indicates.

They reported that Kansas storm damage last August amounted to an estimated $322,265. Of that amount, $263,200 was chargeable to hail, while tornadoes cost a paltry $16,115.

During the month two tornadoes, nine hail storms, four severe windstorms, and 11 electrical storms occurred in the state.

Czech Family Flees Reds by Hiding Under Lumber

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—A Czech grandfather told today how he and four of his family, one a pregnant woman, escaped from their Communist-ruled homeland by hiding for a week under a pile of lumber on a freight train.

Bedrich Cech, a 52-year-old baker, said they feared arrest by Czech police because his daughter Vlasta is married to a former American GI, Ronald K. Brown, and lives with him near Earlham, Iowa.

Cech told a news conference in Linz that starvation, thirst and sickness nearly wrecked the escape of the party, which included his son, Marion, 30; his pregnant daughter-in-law Dr. homira, 24, and their two children, Ladislav, 4, and Vlasta, 2.

The Trieste-bound train on which they were huddled crossed and recrossed the Iron Curtain three times before they finally reached the safety of the American zone of Austria last Thursday. Customs inspectors overlooked the refugees hidden under the load of wood.

Cech gave these details of the amazing escape plan:

On Nov. 19 Marion ordered an open freight car from the sawmill where he worked to be loaded in such a way that a six-foot square space would be left under the lumber. The family climbed in. The children were given sedatives. The family took two suitcases with family heirlooms, an oxygen tank, rolls of tarpaper, tools, food, water and a strong liquor.

They reached the border on Nov. 21. They held their breath while customs inspectors circled the freight car with dogs. Two hours later they reached the Soviet zone of Austria.

"We were overjoyed," said Cech. "There was no need to conserve our food. We ate and drank heartily to celebrate. The freight car waited for 12 hours then suddenly began going in the wrong direction. We were horrified. We went right back into Czechoslovakia."

They spent three days in the car at the border town of Horni Dvuriste. Their food and water was gone. The children were fed a few lumps of sugar moistened with plum brandy, the only liquid left.

Cech was driven to desperation by the cries of the children. "Grandpa, water, water, please give us water." He decided to give up, and the family, almost too weak to stand, emerged from the den in the freight car.

But refreshed by water from a nearby stream, thoughts of surrender were set aside. They returned to the lumber car compartment.

On the morning of Nov. 25 the men decided on a bold gamble. They put their tools in a kit and marched to the station master.

Doctors Most Annoyed by Late Timed Calls

ST. LOUIS (AP)—What annoys a doctor more than anything else? A number of doctors attending the annual American Medical Assn. clinic session here said the "late call" which gets them out of bed when they could have been called earlier.

Most of the doctors agreed that 11 p.m. seemed to be the peak hour for unnecessary calls.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK H. PARKER

Dorla Jean Rose Married in Church at Lake Orion

LAKE ORION — Before a candlelit altar banked with baskets of chrysanthemums Nov. 21 at First Baptist Church, Lake Orion, Dorla Jean Rose became the bride of Frank H. Parker.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. bolt, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Parker of 99 Shadbolt, Lake Orion.

For the 2 p.m. ceremony, the bride wore a floor-length chantilly lace-over-satin gown with V-neckline, stand-up collar and long sleeves. Her full skirt swept into a cathedral train and her fingertip net veil was held by a seed pearl and rhinestone crown.

Dressed in a green gown with fitted lace bodice and full net skirt was Mrs. Claude Parker, matron of honor.

Attendants were Mrs. Oliver Hughes, Miss Laura Lind and Miss Judy Rose. All wore gowns similar to the matron of honor's.

Serving as best man was Claude Parker, and groomsmen were Francis Rosebush, Richard and Ralph Parker.

Importance of Youth Topic at Dem Meet

The North Oakland County Young Democratic Club heard an appeal Tuesday for young blood and new ideas in the Democratic Party by Philip Hart, legal adviser to Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

Hart spoke at an organizational meeting of the club at the Hotel Roosevelt attended by more than 200 people. Twenty-five new members were accepted.

Hart was joined on the speakers' platform by Norman Krandall, Democratic committeeman, and Dr. Roy Cooley, Pontiac City commissioner.

Krandall, who also is chairman of the Oakland County Young Democratic Club, stressed the importance of expanding youth activities within the Democratic Party.

Dr. Cooley, in a non-partisan talk on political activities of young people, emphasized the need for a more active interest in politics by the nation's youth.

Justice Official Denies Laxity

Claims 19 FBI Agents Aided in Denver Jury Tampering Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department, denying laxity or refusal to aid in a Denver grand jury tampering case, says 19 FBI agents aided in the investigation.

U.S. District Judge Willis W. Ritter had said last week that the department had refused to assist in an inquiry into jury tampering by Denver gamblers. The judge, then sitting in Denver, could not be reached last night at his home in Salt Lake City.

The Justice Department statement late yesterday did not mention the judge but referred to a "political discussion" of the case—an obvious reference to a discussion of it by Clayton Fritchey, deputy chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Fritchey, in a television appearance Sunday, declared that Atty. Gen. Brownell reopened the controversial Harry Dexter White case, in part, to divert attention from "a serious situation within the Justice Department." He mentioned Judge Ritter's remarks.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Warren Olney III took note of comments that the Denver case "had been in some way mishandled," and he declared: "There is no substance to this assertion."

Former Tiger Speaks to Lions Club Members

ROCHESTER — Former Detroit Tiger pitcher Dizzy Trout spoke before 200 Lions Club members and guests at "Earl Carmichael Night" Monday at St. John Lutheran Church.

Trout showed motion pictures and delivered a short talk on baseball.

The affair was in honor of the late Earl Carmichael, who was prominent in Lions Club activities.

Couples Group to Start Meeting Next Thursday

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—Starting date for Young Married Couples Club activities has been postponed a week, Thomas Belton, township recreation superintendent, announced today.

The change, which sets the starting date for a week from today rather than today, is due to facilities conflicts, Belton said.

Meetings will be held Thursday nights in the Community Activities Building gymnasium and will feature volleyball, table tennis, badminton and shuffleboard.

They are open to young married couples from the township and surrounding area.

Belton requested those intending to join to register before opening night. The Recreation Department phone number is OR 3-9152.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—In support of her petition for a divorce decree, Mrs. Gladys L. Myers, 37, complained that her husband Stanley, 53, aircraft plant policeman, watched television by the hour and forced her to stay in the kitchen meanwhile.

The court granted her a decree.

Reds' Korean Barbarities

HAMILTON, Bermuda (INS)—President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Laniel could render few greater services to the free world, during their Bermuda talks, than to issue a vigorous 3-power denunciation of the perpetrators of Korean atrocities.

Whether this matter will reach the agenda, or be taken up even if it does, is not known as yet. But at the conclusion of a vicious war engaged in by the three nations represented here, aligned in varying strength against Russian-inspired invaders, what more pertinent topic could be broached?

It seems apparent that the men will do a great deal of talking about recognition of Red China, the continuing war in Indochina, the build up of Western German military forces, the eventual evacuation of allied troops from Germany, the Italy-Yugoslavia and Israel-Jordan disputes, and the further distribution of U. S. funds, arms and know-how.

On virtually every point there are differences of opinion. But on the question of atrocities there can be no difference of opinion. Torture and death know no language barriers.

The documented proof this country has submitted to the United Nations cannot be contradicted. The horrifying record stands for all the world to see. In an age hailed by historians as a period of enlightenment never before achieved by man, a party to a war was base enough to put to death in a variety of diabolical ways some 38,000 human beings who fell into its hands and sought mercy.

The real culprit is known to the world. Cabot Lodge put the finger on him the other day at U. N. when he cried:

"These facts indicate a sort of common dedication to wholesale brutality which is utterly repulsive to contemplate. These terrible acts were taken by an authority having an unhappily close connection with the Soviet Union and were and are in conformity with actions tragically typical of so many absolutist systems throughout history."

He then charged that most North Korean leaders were Soviet citizens and that Russian officers were in the chain of command of the North Korean prison camps. The U. N. resolution condemning the atrocities is a natural fruit of such revelations. But it lacks the emphasis of a pronouncement signed by Eisenhower, Churchill and Laniel.

A few Frenchmen, a few hundred Britons and about 10,000 Americans perished before the evil of their Communist captors in Korea. The big Western nations were all involved.

There could have been no war of that scale without Russian encouragement, and there is ample evidence on hand that there would have been no atrocities of that revolting nature without Russian prompting.

Perhaps the desire of the Western leaders to sit down soon with Malenkov will blunt their natural desire to give Russia hell for what it has done in Korea to innocent victims of the war that was thrust upon the free world. But, if they do soft-pedal the leaders concerned may all live to rue the day when — gathered together — they failed to speak clearly and sharply on the supreme subject of the desecrated dignity of man.

HOUSE GIFT—This one makes living easier, cleaner and it is always welcome. This gent figured it was time for a new carpet sweeper in a gift wrap.

Author Says Whole Nation Should Reduce

If you want to get ahead, lose weight. That's the advice of Elmer (Sizz) Wheeler, New York sales consultant and author who spoke recently in Pontiac.

"I realized the slim salesmen were getting ahead, while the fat boys were getting fallen arches. I lost 40 pounds and wrote a book about it — 'The Fat Boy's Book'."

He said lots of people lost weight, but then began to backslide. So he wrote a companion book, "The Fat Boy's Downfall."

Are fat persons funny and full of life? "No," said Wheeler. "Who can be happy when he's carrying a 40-pound sack slung under his chest?"

How important is holding that weight line? "Not just salesmen need to reduce, the whole country needs to, added Wheeler.

Sometimes Fatal

6th in Series
Many motorists spend so much time thinking about the fact that high speed is dangerous—and it is—that they forget that even very slow speeds can be fatal—to pedestrians.

This threat to life exists because the pedestrian's head is so soft and the pavement is so hard. Pedestrians are so fragile, compared to the automobile and the pavement, that killing them takes very little movement.

Even 3 miles per hour is enough, and few people drive that slowly. Once the car bumper gets behind his knees and his head hits the pavement it's all over.

When you see that pedestrian, slow down, not just a little but a lot—enough so that you can stop without touching him.

Generally speaking, more pups are born in a dog's first three litters than in subsequent ones.

Defense Change*Joint Chiefs Chairman Against Sudden Shifts
in Military PlansNEW YORK (AP)—Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, says the JCS favor a gradual—not radical—change in the national defense setup based on a long-term program.The admiral, speaking last night before the American Ordnance Assn., did not mention the "new look" ordered by the Eisenhower administration after installing a new slate of members for the Joint Chiefs organization.The Russians, Radford said, are capable of touching off a shooting war triggered by a "small group of men in the Kremlin."He said the Soviet system includes a three-pronged method of gaining objectives: politico-economic, military, and psychological-propaganda. If one of them is turned back, he said, another is used.In view of Russia's objectives, he said, talk, "and other planning factors, the new Joint Chiefs of Staff considered it absolutely mandatory that we not make any recommendations for radical changes —especially not on an overnight basis." He added:"In discussing this with Secretary (of Defense) Wilson, we agreed that the best defense plans and programs will come about through evolution, if we plan deliberately and with wisdom."We further agreed that even though our military plans are based primarily on military factors, we must also take into account a wider range of policy and economic factors, as well as the latest technological developments."Therefore, in accordance with our established national policies and commitments, the Joint Chiefs of Staff submitted in October their recommendations for combat forces for fiscal year 1955."The forces do not represent any material change from those developed in previously approved plans except, of course, for certain increases we recommend for continental defense."Neither do these forces represent a decision to carry on just as before, merely for the sake of resistance to a change. They represent interim levels, pending the formulation and completion of a longer term program which continues under study. They represent a step in what I call our planning for the long term pull, in lieu of a particular year-of-crisis."Engineer Gets

Over HighwayTRENTON, N. J. (AP)—State Highway Engineer Edward W. Kilpatrick, revealed he is as sentimental as the rest of us.His department is going to widen and repave a section of Route 24—the first concrete highway ever built in New Jersey. It would mean burying the last bit of the original concrete, laid down in 1912."That's a little more than I could reconcile myself to," said Kilpatrick, and ordered a five-foot square of the old concrete cut out and saved. It will be set into the new pavement at the surface for all to see.Kilpatrick was an engineer for the contracting firm that built the road 40 years ago.Sam Benson Says:*OPEN

Says Sun, Too, Affects Tides

Expert Cites Solar 'Pull' on Oceans as Reason for Prediction Difficulty.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The moon is usually cited as the cause of ocean tides, but there also are "sun tides."

Rear Adm. Leo O. Colbert, former chief of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, explained this and other complicating factors in tide prediction in the latest annual report of the Smithsonian Institution.

If the earth were uniformly covered with water, Colbert said, tides could be predicted with fair accuracy by the position of the moon at any time.

However, earth masses, the contour of the ocean, and the sun's attraction complicate the prediction of the basic pull of the moon. Because of these factors Colbert divided the Atlantic into two basins for purposes of tide prediction.

The larger basin extends across the North and South Atlantic, with the eastern coast of North America at one end and the Antarctic Ocean at the other. The smaller basin is bounded by the northern coast of Brazil and the North Atlantic shores of Europe.

In the first basin high tide occurs 12 hours after the moon passes over the Greenwich meridian, and low tide about six hours later. In the smaller basin high tide occurs eight hours after the moon passes Greenwich.

In the same manner the Indian Ocean is divided into three such basins and the Pacific into two. The sun's pull also has its effect on tides though far less than does the moon.

However, in a few places the arrangement of land and water is such that the sun is the most important tide-producing force.

This is the case on the shores of Tahiti. High tide there come at noon and midnight, low tide at six in the morning and six in the evening, regardless of the moon's position. A larger solar tide occurs on Tuesday Island in Torres Strait off the northern coast of Australia.

Dive-Bombing Owls Plague City at Dusk

FORD CITY, Pa. (UP)—Residents of Ford City have "experienced difficulties with dive bombing owls," says District Game Protector W. J. Brion.

"About dusk, for several evenings a family of barn owls swooped on residents of Ford City, causing them to run for cover," says Brion. He adds that similar owl attacks have been reported elsewhere in the state this year.

Acquaintance Renewed

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)—Officer M. B. Hightower stopped Mrs. Martha Jane Fawcette and gave her a ticket for running a red light and for driving without an operator's license. Five minutes and 10 blocks away, Hightower stopped a motorist for running a red light. It was Mrs. Fawcette. He gave her a second ticket for not having her driver's license.

Teenagers Get Job Previews

Institute Shows Students What Kind of Careers Are Open to Them

NEW YORK (UP)—When teenagers buckle down to finding jobs, many find themselves hampered in their search by a lack of practical, down-to-earth guidance.

A pattern for preventing this kind of disillusionment has been developed in the Youngstown, Ohio, area.

There in the Mahoning and Shenango valleys an organization sponsored by local industries provides what might be called "career previews" for teen-agers while they are still in high school.

Besides giving young people a graphic picture of the numerous jobs available to them in the local area, this growing service group—known as the Industrial Information Institute—also shows them how they can help industry make real contributions to the community.

Thousands of high school students are drawn to the institute's annual exposition in Youngstown to study special job-analysis charts.

Required aptitudes like stamina, coordination, perceptual speed and leadership are shown so students can practically prepare themselves.

Steel companies, utilities, banks, railroads and the other interests backing the institute see it as a workable job pattern that others might follow.

Lowly Peripatus Eligible for Title 'Missing Link'

WASHINGTON (UP)—One of the oldest-surviving animals, a soft-bodied, worm-like creature, is found in substantial numbers on Barro Colorado Island in the Canal Zone. Its scientific name is the Peripatus.

The Peripatus is a foremost contender for the title "missing link." It may be quite close to the common stock from which both insects and existing worms arose, possibly among the first to invade the land.

The Peripatus looks like a caterpillar two or three inches long. It has the circulatory system and various other physiological characteristics of an insect. Its nervous system and other features are more like those of worms.

The lowly Peripatus is successful at avoiding attention. It is found in damp earth under rotting logs and rarely ventures from concealment except at night.

It has primitive eyes but rarely uses them. Instead it feels its way around with the aid of two horn-like projections on its head, very much like the antennae of insects.

Fossils of the Peripatus have been found in rocks formed half a million years ago which show it has changed very little if at all in that time.

Today the tiny animal is found in Africa, southern Asia, Australia, New Zealand, and in South and Central America, but nowhere in great numbers.

In 1951 and 1952 the number of trailer parks in the United States doubled from about 6,000 to about 12,000.

The Michigan conservation department plants approximately a quarter of a million legal-size trout in the state's streams prior to the opening of the trout season every spring.

Turn Blackberry Jam Into Topping for Cake

Do you have some blackberry jam? Then here's a way to enjoy it as a topping for sponge cake. Whip a half cup of heavy cream, until it will just hold its shape; add a quarter cup of blackberry jam and mix it in with only a few whisks of the beater.

File at once on top of six squares of light-as-a-feather sponge cake and serve to your delighted guests.

Sliced fruitcake makes a pleasant dessert when it's served with a tart lemon sauce and lots of good hot strong coffee.

Tastes So Much Better!

Good for Christmas cooking, good for Christmas giving, it's a welcome addition to the long list of good cookbooks.

New Christmas Cookbook Can Be Used Year 'Round

By JANET ODELL

The Christmas Cookbook by Zella Boutell (Viking Press, $3.95) is on our desk. We have an idea it is going to be one of our treasured recipe books for many a year at this season.

To the best of our knowledge it is the first cook book devoted entirely to the preparation of the many wonderful dishes we all cook during the month of December.

There have been other books on Christmas cookies and candies, but this one is unique in its comprehensiveness.

We like Mrs. Boutell's philosophy about Christmas cooking. In her introduction she says, "A family can achieve more of the spirit of Christmas and of good will toward men, I think, by making things together than by buying impersonal gifts."

"Christmas gifts of food can be as simple or as complicated as your time, budget and experience permit; the idea that you have taken the trouble to make something for someone is the important thing."

The chapter on cookies makes up almost a third of the book. In it you'll find recipes for many of the old favorite Christmas cookies, as well as some definitely modern ones.

For instance, Mrs. Boutell uses the frozen juice concentrates in many of her recipes. Cookie patterns that may be traced are included, along with many suggestions for decorating the baked products.

Mrs. Boutell's recipes for Christmas breads are wonderful. They range the world in their variety.

Here again we like the author's attitude. She reminds her readers that their ancestors would have taken advantage of all the modern flavorings.

Recipes for candying your own fruit are included. Mrs. Boutell insists they are superior to the commercial product. Done according to her directions it should not be too difficult a process.

Among the other subjects discussed in succeeding chapters are cakes, pies, puddings, candy, egg-nogs and punches, relishes and sauces. The book concludes with a number of excellent Christmas menus, all of which contain some foods that can be prepared ahead of time.

This may be a seasonal reference book — The Christmas Cookbook—but we are sure we shall use it often during the entire year.

Good for Christmas cooking, good for Christmas giving, it's a welcome addition to the long list of good cookbooks.

Salmon Supper Ready in Jiffy

Again, we're in the midst of the season of good cheer, tight time schedules and topsy-turvy budgets.

It's all wonderfully hectic, the planning, shopping, gift-wrapping, note-writing, etc., etc.—but isn't it a pity these pre-holiday days don't stretch to 30 hours or so?

Alas, they do not, so every hour of the standard 24 needs to do double duty.

Mealtime continues to recur three times a day without fail, and must be met with menus that are substantial, quick to fix, and kind to the pocketbook.

Here's help. Quick Salmon Savory with buttered rice cereal is perfect for a shopping day supper.

Quick Salmon Savory

- 1 1-pound can red salmon
- 1/4 cup finely cut celery
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- 2 tablespoons grated onion
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 3 cups rice cereal
- 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine

Remove bones and skin from salmon; separate pieces. Cook celery, green pepper and onion in heated butter until soft. Stir in flour and salt.

Add milk gradually, stirring constantly; cook until thickened, stirring occasionally. Fold in salmon; heat thoroughly.

They Enjoy Working on Christmas Treats Like Pepperkaker

Grandmothers and Christmas cookies just naturally go together. There are grandmothers who make the cookies for their grandchildren, and then there are grandmothers who let the children help. Mrs. Richard Erickson is one of the latter.

Christmas in her childhood home in the Upper Peninsula was never complete without Pepperkaker, a true Swedish cookie. We are happy that Mrs. Erickson gave us the recipe to use.

Pepperkaker (Swedish Cookies)

- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup dark corn syrup
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 2 teaspoons soda
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon cloves
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon allspice
- 4 cups flour

Put sugar, corn syrup and butter or margarine in saucepan and bring to a boil. Add the soda and allow to cool. When cool, add the rest of the ingredients and mix well. Put in refrigerator to chill.

Roll very thin and cut into desired shapes with floured cookie cutters. Bake on greased pan in 375-degree oven 8 to 10 minutes.

Remove from pan immediately after taking from oven. You may sprinkle these cookies with sugar before baking them if desired.

GRANDMA'S HELPERS—Mark and Roger Erickson, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Erickson of Clarkston, take seriously their job of helping Grandma, Mrs. Richard Erickson of Thorpe street. The cookies, Swedish Pepperkaker, taste much better when small boys cut and decorate their own.

Brazil Nut Crunch Yummy for Holidays

Try this unusual candy for holiday eating. It makes use of the wonderful tasty Brazil nuts that are now abundant.

Brazil Nut Crunch

- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup ground Brazil nuts

Put sugar in heavy saucepan or skillet. Place over low heat, stirring constantly until sugar melts. It is important to keep the mixture stirred constantly over low heat in order to get a light caramelization of the sugar.

Just as soon as all of the sugar is melted, stir in one-half cup of the Brazil nuts.

Turn onto a greased baking sheet. Sprinkle remaining Brazil nuts on top of candy, roll out with rolling pin, pressing the nuts into the candy.

When slightly cool, mark into squares and break into pieces. Yield: 1 1/3 pounds.

No tears in your eyes if you hold onions under running cold water when you peel them.

Bananas With Cream Make Good Dessert

You don't always have to spend long kitchen hours to make a delicious dessert for your family. For instance, what could be better than some fragrant sliced bananas with a topping of good cream? Good just for the youngsters? Just try them for the grown-ups some night and see how fast they disappear! Some like an extra sprinkle of fresh lemon juice on them—some prefer sugar. Ground nutmeg is another flavor favorite.

Heavenly Bars Look So Pretty

Picture pretty and so tempting you can't resist them, that's our holiday treat, Heavenly Bars. These bars are rich and delicious with that melt-in-the-mouth goodness.

The recipe is versatile—you can make bars or for a more festive occasion, shape as cookies and give them a chocolate coating.

Heavenly Bars

1 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup confectioner's sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups sifted enriched flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup quick rolled oats, uncooked
Topping:
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 6-ounce package chocolate chips

Cream butter, add sugar gradually. Beat in vanilla. Add flour and salt to creamed mixture. Stir in rolled oats. (Dough will be quite stiff.) Spread in a greased 1x11-inch baking pan. Bake in 325 oven 25 to 30 minutes. Sprinkle chocolate chips on top; return to oven until chocolate is melted, about 3 minutes. Spread chocolate evenly; sprinkle with nuts. Chill and cut into bars. Makes 24 bars.

Chocolate Dipped Cookies: After step 3, shape dough into small cones, balls or logs and place on greased baking sheet. Bake as directed above. Cool. Prepare chocolate dip by melting two 6-ounce packages of chocolate chips in the top of a double boiler. Add 1/4 cup of milk and beat with a rotary egg beater until combined. Using a pair of tongs or 2 forks, dip the cooled cookies into the chocolate. Roll them in chopped nuts or shredded coconut if desired and place on a wire rack to drain. Store in refrigerator.

Mince Pie Once Was Called Shrid and Meant Gifts

Have you ever heard these things about mince pie?

Mince pie has always represented a compound of the choicest productions of the East and symbolizes the gifts of the Wise Men to the Child Jesus.

In the beginning mince pies were called "shrid" or shredded pies. There was an old saying that you would have as many months in a year as mince pies you tasted at Christmastime.

Mince pies were first baked in the form of the manger, and the old books always called the upper crust of the pie its coffin.

Arrange Proper Space When Dad Carves Meat

When dad gets ready to carve the dinner roast make sure that he has plenty of space in which to work. See that water glasses, vegetable dishes are not in his way. Place the meat platter directly in back of the dinner plates.

If your platter is not several inches larger than the roast, then it's wise to have a second hot platter on which he can place the carved slices of meat. Be sure to keep garnishes simple enough so that he need not remove them before carving.

Yule Shopping May Set Record

Some Retailers Believe Volume May Exceed '52 by 10 Per Cent

This is the biggest Christmas shopping season in history.

Christmas Club services at the banks again are pouring more than a billion dollars into the retail market.

A year ago stores had the best sales ever known and this year "even the more conservative retailers," according to Business Week, anticipate a volume as great, while some estimate as much as a 10 per cent increase over a year ago.

The reason? "City after city," Business Week observed, "reports employment high, liquid savings up from last year, quality of merchandise improved without rise in prices—in all, an orderly stage setting for a great gift-buying splurge."

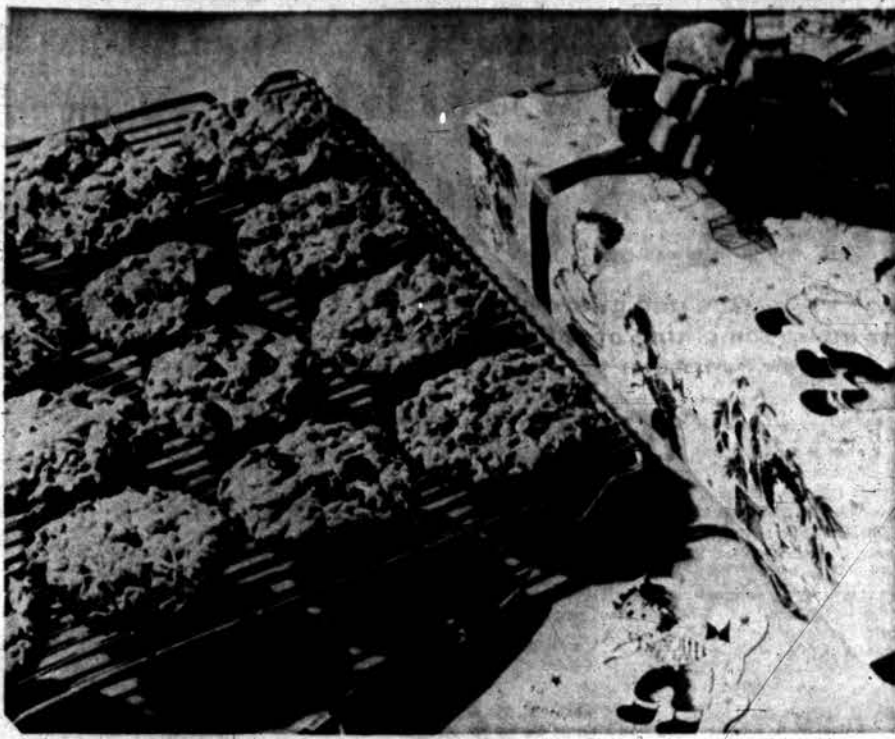

Although Christmas week this year will have one more selling day than last year, the smart shopper will do his Christmas shopping early, avoid the last minute rush and crush, and with the malls running as they have been recently, he will mail early, or send gifts by express.

The importance of shopping early has been underlined by a study of when most retail items are purchased. The Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association has found that more purchases are made in November and December in almost every line.

More sportswear is bought in the last two months of the year than in June. More shoes are bought in December than in any other month. Almost twice as much luggage is bought in December than in any other month.

Home furnishings, men's and boys' wear, infants' wear, sporting goods, cameras, and all of things that appeal to women reach their peak sales in the Christmas shopping season.

The post-war baby boom is one factor for this big record. The do-it-yourself hobby boom is another. This is the time to shop.

Add Nuts or Cranberries to Basic Oatmeal Cookies

When the time for that holiday baking spree arrives, do it the easy way. Both the shopping for ingredients and the actual baking will be simpler.

Just take a basic recipe, such as this one for a simple one-bowl Oatmeal Cookie, then dress it up with the addition of festive fruits, nuts, or spices.

The basic recipe makes a good cookie without further enhancement, but you can get an impressive assortment for that Christmas gift package by trying these simple variations on the original.

Either the regular or the quick-cooking rolled oats may be used in these cookies.

Basic Recipe for Oatmeal Cookies

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup fat
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons milk
1 1/2 cups rolled oats, uncooked

Sift together flour, soda, and salt into bowl. Add fat, sugars, egg, vanilla, and milk. Beat until smooth, about 2 minutes. Fold in

Applesauce Gives Fruit Cake Flavor

Holidays come all too fast but it isn't too late to make this applesauce fruit cake. It's full flavored and will keep for weeks.

Applesauce Fruit Cake

1 cup unsweetened applesauce
1/2 cup soft shortening
2 cups sugar
4 large eggs
1 cup all-purpose sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon allspice
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon lemon extract
1 1/2 lbs. candied fruit mix
1 lb. raisins
1 cup nuts

Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs and beat well. Sift dry ingredients, reserving 1/2 cup of flour to mix with fruit and nuts. Stir applesauce and flour mixture into creamed shortening and sugar. Add lemon extract and fold in fruits and nuts. Turn into prepared pans. Bake at 300 degrees 2 1/2 to 3 hours. Test for doneness.

Bake your favorite square or loaf cake to take along on picnics. Leave the cake right in the pan for easy carrying. Then when you arrive at the picnic grounds the cake will still have its nice shape and texture.

Apples Add Special Flavor to Pancakes

Bright red apples shredded, unpeeled give the pancakes special texture and pleasing tart flavor.

Festive Apple Pancakes

1 large apple
1 cup all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
2 beaten eggs
1 1/2 cups milk
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Sift flour and measure. Sift again with sugar, baking powder, salt and cinnamon. Combine eggs, milk, melted butter and enough unpeeled shredded apple to measure 1 cup. Bake on hot griddle.

Serve with brown sugar and butter, with maple syrup, with lemon juice and sugar, or buttered and rolled around little pig sausages.

For an emergency appetizer or quick dessert, use a half package of frozen fruit to extend odds and ends of fresh fruit. Be sure to overwrap carton containing the remainder of the frozen fruit with foil or cellophane and seal with tape. It'll be handy for another jiffy appetizer or quick dessert!

Black Walnuts Give Flavor to Cookies

You either love the flavor of black walnuts or you dislike them intensely. If you're fond of these nuts, you'll like this simple recipe for black walnut cookies.

Black Walnut Drops

3 eggs
3/4 pound brown sugar
1 cup chopped black walnuts
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda
3 to 4 cups cake flour

Beat whole eggs with water until thick, add sugar gradually, beating all the while. Add nuts and flour sifted with soda and salt. Form in small balls and bake on ungreased cookie sheet in a moderate oven at 350 degrees for about 15 minutes. Store in a tin box or cookie jar with a piece of cut apple.

Every good cook needs a fork for lifting meat and other solid foods, and for testing to see whether food is done. Such a fork is most useful when it is two-tined, and has a long handle. The tines should be sharp enough to pierce food easily and the handle long enough to keep the cook's hand away from the heat and splattering grease.

NEW STYLE PLUM PUDDING—It's not too early to make your plum puddings for Christmas. You may make any steamed puddings several weeks in advance and keep them in the refrigerator or the freezer. Ready-to-eat bran cereal is the new ingredient used.

Sunday night supper treat: Stir chopped ham into waffle batter and bake waffles as usual. Serve with maple syrup.

Make a Bran Plum Pudding

Christmas wouldn't be Christmas without steamed pudding. Granted, many of us can't think of eating so sweet a dessert right after Christmas dinner... but later on in the day, it hits the spot. Use this recipe this Christmas.

It's a "quick and easy" recipe, using all of the traditional Plum Pudding ingredients. And for extra measure, one unusual ingredient is added: Ready-to-eat bran cereal. It adds a new flavor that's noticed and appreciated.

Plum Pudding
1/2 cup sifted flour
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 cup raisins
1 cup seedling raisins
1 cup cut dried figs
1 cup cut dried apricots
2 cups ready-to-eat bran
1 cup dry bread crumbs
1 cup hot milk
1 cup grape juice
4 eggs, well-beaten
1/2 pound suet

Sift together flour, sugar, salt and spices; mix with fruits. Combine bran, bread crumbs, milk and grape juice; let stand about 5 minutes. Add eggs and beat well. Chop or grind suet very fine; beat until soft. Add bran mixture and mix well. Stir in sifted dry ingredients and fruits. Spread in greased molds, cover tightly and steam 5 hours. Serve with hard sauce or spiced-lemon sauce. Makes 3 1-pound puddings.

Spread mixture evenly in a greased 8-inch pan. Bake in 350 oven 30 to 35 minutes or until done. Cool and cut into bars or small squares. Makes 8 large bars.

Lemon Yam Puff Brightens Menu

Economy-minded homemakers know Turkey a la King is a delicious way to use turkey left from the holiday feasts. When this specialty is on the dinner calendar, serve Lemon Yam Puff, made with mashed Louisiana yams, and add a spark of interest to the menu.

The puff, mellow flavored and smooth-textured, is the perfect vegetable accompaniment for creamed turkey and chicken dishes.

 1 teaspoon salt
 1/2 tablespoon grated lemon rind
 1/2 tablespoon lemon juice
 1/2 cup milk
 2 eggs, separated
 3 cups mashed cooked yams

Combine mayonnaise, salt, lemon rind, lemon juice and milk. Beat egg yolks and add to mayonnaise mixture; mix well. Add mayonnaise mixture to mashed yams; beat until light and fluffy.

Cookie Baking Is Disease but Exciting at Christmas

By JANET ODELL

Although we no longer believe in Santa Claus, we get a very special feeling about this time of the year. Some people call it a disease, for it is violent in its attack.

One siege is definitely not guaranteed to grant immunity; the same thing happens every year. We love it and welcome it.

It's the Christmas spirit expressed in a mass production of Christmas cookies.

As soon as Thanksgiving is over, we get the urge to start our Christmas baking. Cookies are our specialty, though we always make a number of holiday coffee cakes, full of nuts and candied fruit.

We just don't have the touch for candy. But cookies—ah, they are wonderful!

Having been raised by a mother who is a superb cook, and with two grandmothers also skilled in the kitchen, we learned early what fun Christmas cookies can be.

Since having our own kitchen, many old favorites have come out of the oven; but each year there are several new recipes that simply have to be tried. We have trouble knowing when to stop.

This issue of the Market Basket is devoted entirely to Christmas cooking. We have tried to include a little of each specialty like candy, fruit cake, raised bread and, of course, cookies. If we haven't included a recipe you want, please call us and ask for it.

Do you have your schedule all worked out? You probably know what you want to make in the weeks ahead.

No doubt many of you already have fruit cakes ripening. If not you may still make them, since they will have three weeks to stand.

Your steamed puddings may be made any time and stored in the refrigerator or freezer.

Many Christmas cookies improve with age. If you make Springerle, Pfefferkuchen or Lebkuchen, they need some time in a cookie jar or tin before they are just right.

Other cookies need to be made nearer the time they are to be eaten. Any cookie with a high fat content will not keep too well (but who wants to KEEP Christmas cookies!).

We have found from sad experience that a delicious gumpaste bar cookie gets as hard as a rock in a week. Zella Boutell, in her excellent Christmas Cookbook, says to substitute honey for all or part of the liquid in a drop cookie if you want it to keep well.

Let the children help with Christmas baking. They will like the decorating best of all.

We admit that their idea of what looks good is far from ours. But they have such fun "helping Mama" and are so proud of the cookies they make.

So see that they scrub their hands, give them some dough and be prepared to scrub the kitchen floor afterwards. You'll give them memories that will be precious the rest of their lives.

If the good smells from cookies in the oven were wafted out of chimneys like smoke, all the citizens of Pontiac and surrounding areas would be licking their chops.

Be sure to have a plate of samples ready for your family after a day of baking.

When you have filled all the cookie jars and casseroles and tin boxes and covered pans, paste on signs reading, "Hands Off!" and hope you will have enough to give away, offer to guests and feed the family.

Have fun. We intend to.

FONDANT RIBBON CARAMELS—Here's a candy that will keep well, pack well, and taste heavenly. Smooth, creamy date fondant is sandwiched between two layers of rich caramel. It may be sliced into bars or cut into smaller individual pieces.

Caramel Candies Sure to Please Your Menfolk

Any man is certain to be overjoyed if he's given these date fondant ribbon caramels. A layer of smooth rich date fondant is sandwiched between two layers of chewy caramel and then the candy is cut into bars big enough to satisfy a man-sized yen for candy.

And this caramel confection is easy to make, too. The creamy fondant filling should be made a day ahead so it will ripen as good fondant should.

Then the caramel layers can be made—and the whole put together very simply.

For Christmas mailing overseas the bars can be wrapped in aluminum foil and packed snugly into a coffee can disguised in bright Christmas paper.

Date Fondant Ribbon Caramels

1 recipe Date Fondant
1 recipe Cream Caramel

Work ripened fondant until it is plastic. Press fondant over a layer of caramel and cover with a second layer of caramel. Place in refrigerator to harden before cutting. Cut into bars about 1 inch thick and about 2 1/2 inches long. Wrap in aluminum foil and pack coffee can if desired. Makes about 12 bars.

Date Fondant

2 cups sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon light corn syrup
1 cup evaporated milk
1-2 cup finely cut dates

Mix sugar, salt, syrup and milk in saucepan. Bring slowly to a boil, stirring constantly. Then cook over medium heat to soft ball stage (238 degrees F.), stirring all the while. Cool until the hand may be held on the bottom of the pan with comfort. Stir in dates. Beat until creamy. Pour onto buttered plate and let stand until crystalline and just cool enough to handle. Knead until smooth and plastic. Place in covered dish or wrap in foil. Set in refrigerator overnight to ripen.

Cream Caramels

2 cups sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups light corn syrup
1/2 cup butter
1-2-3 cups evaporated milk (1 tall can)
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Mix sugar, salt and syrup in a heavy saucepan. Cook rapidly to firm ball stage (244 degrees F.), stirring occasionally. Add butter and milk gradually so that the mixture does not stop boiling at any time. Cook over medium heat to firm ball stage (242 degrees F.), stirring constantly because the mixture sticks easily at the last.

About 25 minutes are required for cooking. Add vanilla. Let caramel stand until mixture stops bubbling, then pour equal amounts into 2 buttered 8-inch pans. After caramel has cooled to room temperature, loosen caramel layers with table knife or spatula and turn onto wooden board.

Let 'Em Eat Cake

Christmas is the ideal time for plum pudding and fruit cake. So here's hoping Mom will have plenty on hand to last her through the Yuletide season.

This Fruit Cake Worthy of Name

Almost as enjoyable as the holidays ahead are the festive preparations—like making fruit cake. You've a treat in store in a new cake that calls for condensed tomato soup as liquid and mince-meat as the fruit.

A richer texture results from the use of the soup. And the cake keeps moist so long, thanks to this combination of ingredients.

It's a dessert worthy of any occasion. Serve it at the holiday feast or whenever refreshments are in order.

Surprise Fruit Cake

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon powdered cloves
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup sugar
3/4 cups prepared or two 8-ounce packages of condensed mince-meat (add 1 cup water; boil 3 minutes, cool)
2 eggs, well beaten
1 can (1 1/2 cups) condensed tomato soup
1 cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and spices. Cream shortening and sugar; add cold mince-meat and mix thoroughly. Blend in eggs. Add flour mixture alternately with soup; stir until smooth. Mix in nuts. Pour into two greased loaf pans (8" x 5" x 2 1/2") or one 9 1/2" tube pan; bake in 350 oven about 80 minutes, or until done. Cool; serve with hard sauce or cover with your favorite white frosting.

Pretzel Is Symbolical of Wheel of the Sun

Some Christmas cookies are made in the form of pretzels. There is an old story about the origin of pretzels.

The old calendar sign for the winter solstice was a circle with a dot in the center, it represented the wheel of the sun. A symbolical cracker was made at this season, called a pretzel or pretzel. The original form was a circle of dough with a cross in the center to represent the four seasons. The present form, is therefore, a variation caused by making the cracker of one piece of dough.

Almond With Meaning

In all the Scandinavian countries an interesting food custom prevails. A rice porridge is served at either the Christmas Eve dinner or the dinner on Christmas Day. An almond is put in the porridge just before serving. Whoever finds the almond in his or her portion is sure to be married within the year.

Delicious salad: Crisp leaves of romaine with slices of chilled cooked beets and crisp cucumbers arranged on them. Serve with mayonnaise to which you've added a little lemon juice and a pinch of tarragon or basil.

BRAZIL NUT FRUITCAKE—This fruitcake requires no baking. Rich with Brazil nuts, spices and glazed fruit it will be the hit of the season. Pack it into foil boxes, tie it with Christmas ribbon, and you've a most welcome gift.

Icebox Fruitcake Easy, Different

Just the other day we had a request for an unbaked fruit cake. None of the recipes we looked up were quite like this one. It is inexpensive and not too difficult to make.

No-Bake Brazil Nut Fruitcake
2 cups Brazil nuts (2 pounds unshelled)
1 pound graham crackers
1 pound seedless raisins
8 ounces dried, mixed glazed fruit
1 8-ounce jar maraschino cherries, drained
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup molasses, unsulphured
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1/2 teaspoon each cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves
1/2 teaspoon each allspice, ginger

Line one large or two small loaf pans with two strips of waxed paper, extending paper 3 inches above rim. Set aside. Crush graham crackers with a rolling pin. Mix with Brazil nuts, raisins, glazed fruit and cherries.

Soften gelatin in orange juice; place over boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add sugar; stir until dissolved.

Pour molasses into large bowl of electric mixer; add gelatin mixture, vanilla, orange rind and spices. Beat 15 minutes on high-speed. Add to nut-fruit mixture; blend thoroughly with spoon.

Turn into prepared pan, press down with hands. If desired, garnish with additional cherries and nuts. Chill in refrigerator 6 to 8 hours. To store, wrap in aluminum foil and keep in refrigerator. Makes 4 1/2 pounds fruitcake.

Preparing Fruit Ahead Makes Cake Job Easier

NEW YORK (UP)—If you bake your own holiday fruit cakes, here are some tips for easing the job.

In shopping, remember that 1/2 pound of pineapple, cherries and citrus peels each produces 1 1/2 cups. One pound of walnuts produces 1 2/3 cups nutmeats; 1 pound almonds, 1 1/4 cups and 1 pound filberts, 1 1/2 cups.

Don't try to do all the preparation and baking in one day. Buy fruits and nuts during regular shopping trips. Cut them and store in screw-top jars as you find time during regular kitchen duty. Prepare the pans and measure the ingredients the day before baking, and you'll find the actual cake-making a breeze.

Color Ice-Water

A few drops of food coloring in the ice-water pitcher is tasteless, but gives your holiday table an extra Christmas look. Make one pitcher of red, one of green water.

Don't Use Mayonnaise in Frozen Sandwiches

DALLAS (UP)—Frozen sandwiches are time-savers, especially during the holiday period when baking and candy-making compete with fixings for the lunch pail. Fillings which freeze safely include chicken, beef, salmon, cheese and peanut butter. All retain quality and flavor for several weeks. But the food experts warn against raw vegetable filling or the white of egg in frozen sandwiches. The vegetable loses color and crispness when thawed, and the egg becomes rubbery. Margarine or butter makes the most satisfactory spread. Mayonnaise may separate and soak into the bread base.

Tree Tops for Pies

When you are preparing open-face pumpkin pie, make some extra pastry. Roll it thin and cut small Christmas trees out of it; bake the pastry trees until golden, then arrange over the top of the baked pie. Make sure you have one tree for each serving.

Vaccine Is Developed for Sheep Sickness

DAVIS, Calif. (UP)—A vaccine to immunize sheep against bluetongue disease may be ready for use this fall in wool-growing areas should an outbreak occur.

University of California veterinary scientists say they have successfully weakened the bluetongue virus to a point where they are working on a vaccine that soon may be in quantity production for general use.

D. G. McKercher warned that the vaccine must be thoroughly tested by the university before it can be released for public use. The disease causes severe mouth lesions, weight loss, and costly decline in wool quality.

To Protect Old Tree From 'Rebel Attacks'

HARRISVILLE, O. (UP) — The owner of a red spruce tree sold to returning Civil War veterans in 1865 plans to install a lightning rod on it to protect it from any more "Rebel blasts."

Charles MacIntire, an official of the Ohio Reclamation Association, said the tree has been struck by lightning about 25 times and that he wants to protect it from further damage.

Although the real reason for the tree being hit so often lies in its location, MacIntire likes to think of the blasts as Rebel artillery following the Yankee invader to his home.

Entertains for Business Association

Yuletide Program Given Wednesday at Stevens Hall

By DONNA ANDERSON
Yuletide music of the 17th and 18th Centuries was chosen by the Pontiac Women's Chorus, under the direction of Charles E. Hutton, when the group presented a program for Tipac Chapter of the American Business Women's Association Wednesday evening in Stevens Hall.

Accompanied by Dorothy L. McKibben, the chorus opened the program with the brilliant "Welcome Yule." A selection from Britten's "Ceremony of Carols," the piece is written and sung in ancient English and is a joyous hymn of welcome to the happy Yule season.

"O Gathering Clouds" arranged by Bain was next on the program, followed by Brahms' "Cradle Song." The tender lullaby, beloved throughout the year, is especially appropriate for the Christmas season.

Spicker's "While By My Sheep," a study in contrast between the joyous full chorus and the faraway echo, enabled the chorus to show its versatility of expression.

Carol Crittenden took the short solo interlude in "Song of the Angels," a Dickinson arrangement of an 18th Century melody.

It just isn't a Christmas program without "Silent Night," so the chorus chose an unusual arrangement by Warren called "Christmas Lullaby." The beloved melody prevailed throughout the selection to combine with the serene mood of a sacred cradle song. With a solo by Dorothy Eastham, the tender presentation will long be remembered.

Everybody loves bells at this time of year, so the chorus concluded the program with Elliott's delightful "Christmas Bells." The joyous spirit of presentation lent itself completely to the light, happy mood intended by the composer.

A pleasing mental image was created when the chorus sang of the peaceful village blanketed in snow, and what fun it was when the singers, ushered in the sleigh, full of laughing people and decked with jingle bells.

The chorus, sponsored by the Pontiac Department of Parks and Recreation, closed the program after creating the feeling that the holiday season is really here.

Planning the evening's dinner meeting with the Christmas season in mind, members of the American Business Women's Association presented Cleobelle Coleman, violinist, and Mildred Barnett, pianist, who played "The Lord's Prayer."

Others on the program included Outis Harris, Bill Hill and Bob Dunn with a saxophone trio, and a clarinet trio was composed of Ruth Baumann, Kaye Nerlin and Judy Palmer.

Humorous readings were given by Martha Varney and a cornet and trombone offering was presented by Jerry Fredriksen, Bernard Wright, Jim Erwin and Carl Theorin.

At the business meeting, Mrs. Millicent Swindleman, Mrs. Frank Brusha and Mrs. Evelyn Cole were appointed members of a nominating committee to select officers for the ensuing year. Dolls dressed and donated by members were on display.

Piety Hill Plans Yule Gathering

The Christmas meeting of Piety Hill Chapter, DAR, has been announced for Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Dale O. Miller, regent, on Waddington road in Birmingham. Mrs. Joseph Bennett of Pontiac, who has made a hobby of collecting bells, will speak on "Bells at Home and Abroad."

In keeping with the holiday season, Christmas decorations will adorn the tea table. Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. Charles Butters, Mrs. Glen Coley, Mrs. Norman Lyle, Mrs. Thomas McDonnell and Mrs. Reed Dewey. The meeting will begin at 1:30 o'clock.

Plans Announced for Floral Showing

Shirley Hulet has announced that the Mary Lyon Group of the First Congregational Church will sponsor a floral demonstration Monday in the music room of the church basement.

Tickets may be obtained from group members at the church office or at the door.

In Detroit Hospital

Mrs. A. J. Archambeau of South Anderson street is recovering from surgery at Providence Hospital in Detroit.

Adding the final touch to a work of art is Mrs. George Chelsey of Birmingham, as she prepares her entry for the Birmingham Branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association Christmas show scheduled for this Saturday at Birmingham Community House.

Displays by Garden Club to Glamorize Yule Season

Birmingham Community House will become an exciting world of Christmas artistry Saturday when the Birmingham Branch of Women's National Farm and Garden Association takes it over for the annual Christmas show.

From 3 until 9 p.m. exhibits and displays will show what can be done with imagination and some basic equipment.

One class of arrangements called "Christmas Traditions of Other Countries" will not be judged. Mrs. L. A. Hyland has charge of it.

YWCA Planning Greens Hanging Monday Evening

Members of the YWCA will meet after school today and this evening to make garlands, wreaths and festive trimmings in preparation for the traditional Hanging of the Greens Monday evening.

Mrs. R. A. Armstrong and Mrs. Myron L. Buck are cochairmen for the program. Plans have been made for trimming the building and singing carols before a candle-lighting ceremony.

"Y-Teens will present a skit of "Christmas in Many Lands," and special emphasis will be placed on Christmas legends and customs from Holland.

Mrs. Humphreys Is Captain of Guild

Mrs. Louis Humphreys was elected captain of St. Catherine Guild, St. Vincent de Paul Church, Tuesday when the group met for dinner at Hotel Waldron.

Mrs. Delmo Chappelaine is co-captain and Mrs. Arthur Crawford is secretary and treasurer. Plans were made for the ensuing year, and gifts were presented to the officers by guild members.

2 Attend Meeting

Mrs. Sybella Stevens and Mrs. Joe Doyle attended the Department of Michigan American Gold Star Mothers, Inc., meeting Tuesday in Lansing.

Mrs. Paul Gorman Serves as Leader of the Day

Standing and special committees and reports and their consideration were the topics discussed by Parliamentary Study Club Wednesday in the Masonic Temple on East Lawrence street.

Mrs. Paul Gorman was leader of the day and Mrs. Bradley D. Scott had charge of the guest book. Mrs. Leslie Hotchkiss was welcomed as a new member.

Officers of the demonstration group demonstrated the procedure of an annual meeting, including presentation of annual reports by standing committee chairmen and officers, appointment of tellers, election of new officers and appointment of new standing committee chairmen.

Mrs. Joseph Panter answered questions from the question box. Demonstration group for the next meeting will include Mrs. Leonard Sarti, Mrs. Ray Kingsbury, Mrs. Fred Mitterdorf, Mrs. Eugene Perko, Mrs. M. E. Baldwin and Mrs. Edwin Carlson.

Tellers for the election of officers were Mrs. Aden Thornton, Mrs. Basil Hartt and Mrs. Stanton Deyo.

Pontiac Press Photos

Everyone was amazed by the long stay of Indian summer. Delta Delta Delta sorority sisters, Jane Kohr of Birmingham (left, above right photo), Bev Shea of Huntington Woods (center) and Enid Foster of Ferndale compare notes before going to class, while Don Campbell of Birmingham (right photo), the Michigan Daily's chief photographer, snaps a sunny picture of Nonette Gunther of Lincoln avenue.

Diamonds Dazzle Irene Dunne's Guests

One of the gayest, and certainly most unique of fashion teas ever to appear on the Hollywood scene took place recently when Irene Dunne staged a showing of patio clothes around her swimming pool — for the benefit of her favorite charity.

The event was named the "Diamond Dip," and the plot required that the "models" (in real life, many of film's loveliest stars) wear their diamond jewelry against a background of their own play-clothes.

Irene herself caused the first gasp of astonishment and admiration when she came "onstage" to welcome the guests and emcee the show.

She was wearing a simple, strapless white cotton sundress with a flared skirt, bound at bodice top and hemline with silver embroidery and beads. And sparkling at her waistline was a diamond belt which she had made by fastening together her fabulous diamond choker and matching bracelet.

Among the glamorous women assisting Irene with her party was Arlene Dahl, who was attired in a one-piece white cotton playsuit with a low V halter neckline. Around her waist was a plum-colored silk scarf, knotted through her blazing diamond solitaire ring.

Gracie Allen caused quite a sensation in her turquoise chiffon Turkish pajamas with long, flowing sleeves, tightly wrapped midriff and low sweetheart neckline. On her feet were Turkish slippers with tiny, thin heels and turned-up toes, entirely studded with diamonds.

And Dorothy Lamour was vivid in a ruffled, full-skirted sundress of orange silk, with a surprise splash of shocking pink. She wore her diamonds in her hair — piled high in an intricate Oriental hair style, held in place with solitaire stickpins.

The show-stopper of the afternoon occurred when couturier designer Don Loper's No. 1 model, Nancy, appeared in a pale pink tank-top bathing suit of closely knitted wool, completely embroidered in an overlay of silver thread and diamonds.

After tea, the inspired guests were heard murmuring to themselves, as they departed, about what they were going to do with their diamonds and play-clothes when they got home!

Let Your Yule Decorations Symbolize the Merry Spirit of Christmas

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

We hear a lot about the importance of a hostess putting a guest at ease—but it is just as important for a guest to put the hostess at ease. He can do that by showing plainly that he is glad to be where he is, that he is having a fine time, that he is relaxed and at ease, and that he finds the company interesting or amusing. There's a bonus for the guest in such behavior.

In trying to put your hostess at ease, you'll find you're perfectly at ease yourself.

Poll Disproves Blonde Legend

NEW YORK (INS) — The average American man really prefers brunettes.

So reports the latest survey compiled by Dr. George Gallup, whose organization interviewed thousands of Americans.

The poll also disclosed that the average American man thinks ability to run a home smoothly and efficiently is a more important quality in a wife than good looks or anything else.

On the distaff side, the poll said, the average American woman thinks husbands drink too much, prefer marriage to a career, but wants the word "obey" taken out of the wedding ceremony.

Other statistics compiled by the Gallup group show that the best age for a girl to get married is 21, for a man 25, and that engagements of three months or less lead to three times as many divorces as engagements of more than two years.

Physically, Gallup said, the average American male is five feet, 9 inches tall and weighs 158 pounds while his female counterpart is 5 feet 4 and weighs 132.

Welcome your friends at Yuletide by hanging a glittering felt Christmas tree on your front door. Some scraps of fabric and some leftover buttons and a little ingenuity are all you need.

Criticized for Going to Theater

Pair Attends Play After Making Sure Mother Is OK

By EMILY POST

One of the most unreasonable points of view that I ever encountered is expressed in the following letter: "My husband and I and two other couples had tickets for the theater for last Saturday evening. These tickets were bought weeks in advance.

"Two days before we were to go to the theater, my mother-in-law was in an automobile accident and was taken to the hospital. She was very badly shaken up but we were assured by the doctor that she would be all right.

"My husband and I went to the theater as planned. We are now being looked upon by the rest of the family as being very uncaring. This has upset me a good deal and I would like to know if we were wrong."

Answer: Unless your mother-in-law was so critically ill that death was possible, there was no reason in the world why you shouldn't have gone to the theater. It would have been senseless not to go—especially since she was being well taken care of.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a school teacher. My daughter goes to the same school and will be in my class next term.

She, of course, always calls me Mother, and I would like to know if it would be proper for her to call me this when she is in my class, or must she call me what the other students do—which is Mrs. Brown.

Answer: Even though it would be quite understandable for her to call you mother, it would not avoidably give her a privilege which the others lack. Therefore, it is important that she learn to call you what the other students do while in the classroom.

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to know if it would be proper to give my fiancée a lounging robe and slippers for Christmas. I know this is something he would like and could use, but wondered about the propriety of such a present.

Answer: If you are going to be married very soon, I can't see any impropriety in adding this to his trousseau. But if your wedding date is in the far future, then I think another type of gift would be better.

Let the children make paper figures out of construction paper and colored tapes. These Christmas carolers may serve as an inspiration for other designs.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Omit Word 'Handicapped' in Dictionary, Vocabulary

Along with similar outmoded and harsh-sounding words, I hope that "handicapped" is right now on its way out of dictionaries and common usage.

There's certainly no point to a word that has lost its meaning. And, according to what two great men told me within the space of a single week recently, that's exactly what has happened to "handicapped."

Casualty remarked James Thurber, a precise man with words and author, I think, of the funniest prose written today: "Now that I've lost my sight and can't use the typewriter any more, I write in my head. For a writer, blindness is not so bad."

"Vision may be a greater handicap than the lack of it. I've done more in the past 10 years than in all the rest of my life put together."

"A writer is likely to start thinking that he can only work in a certain town or in a certain room. He will use any excuse to dawdle. For me now, any town is a certain town, any room is a certain room. I can write wherever I am and there are no distractions."

As I sat listening to James Thurber, I found myself really believing that he was a lucky man to be without the distracting handicap of vision.

Twenty-four hours later I was talking to Peter Freuchen, 62-foot high Arctic explorer, who years ago lost his leg as a result of being buried alive under tons of close-packed snow in the far north.

Quite casually, he told of hours of painful digging, of finding that his left leg was useless, and of crawling for miles to camp. Even when he described how later he cut off his own toes with a pair of pincers and went through the amputation of his entire leg in Denmark, his manner was still unemotional, even gay.

"They kept us separated, there at the hospital," he said. "Those of us who had lost legs were together, and those who had lost arms were in another section. We who had lost only legs pitied those who had lost arms."

"Those who had lost arms pitied us who had lost legs. None of us felt the least bit sorry for ourselves. We joked and had a fine time."

"When I decided I couldn't travel any more because of losing a leg, I started writing. And after I started writing, I found that I could travel, too. So now I do."

Family Kitchen Has Renewed Popularity

The family kitchen is back. It's the room where soap and water reign supreme—where the family, friends, relatives and pets can join in on the activities. There should be room for assembly-line dishwashing.

Solid cooperation and an exchange of efficient methods for doing things are some of the rewards—care your sink, suds and society—you'll find it's great fun.

Doll Is Also Pillow

A foam rubber doll that can also be used as a pillow is a practical toy designed for children with allergies. Covered with sanforized percale, both the boy and girl editions are thoroughly washable.

Diphtheria No Longer Major Killer

Once the most terrible of all infectious diseases that menace children, diphtheria is being vanquished by advances in medical science. Where cases do arise, effective weapons are on hand to combat them.

For example, Michigan had 23 deaths from diphtheria for each 100,000 population in 1920—a time when good antitoxins and vaccines were available.

Today, that same state has less than one death caused by diphtheria for each 100,000 people.

Over 80 per cent of all diphtheria cases arise in children below 10 years of age.

The disease is spread by children or adults who have the disease, either with symptoms or without them. The latter person is called a "carrier."

Doctors recommend that all children be inoculated against diphtheria before the end of the first year.

Because wide-scale immunization has become common in recent years, there is a tendency for the disease to appear with greater frequency in older children who have neglected re-inoculation.

Recent scientific reports show that excellent results are obtained when the antitoxin is given together with an antibiotic.

In one study, six patients with acute diphtheria treated with terramycin and antitoxin showed no signs of the disease after an average of 2.3 days treatment.

Antibiotics also have been used to eliminate the diphtheria germs from carriers of the disease.

Try to Avoid Returning Purchases

Christmas merchandise should be bought with special care to avoid returns.

Customers who abuse the privilege of returning goods to department stores and specialty shops indirectly make higher prices. Some returns are justified, but many are not.

When shopping, keep these points in mind:

Know the right size, don't guess.

Get the right color—bring along a sample of anything you want to match.

Don't buy an unsatisfactory style because you are rushed or because there is a crowd. Think it over and make up your mind. Shop before noon when there are fewer crowds.

Check for soiled spots, torn stitching and damaged places before you buy. These are legitimate reasons for returning goods but you will save time, energy and expense if you discover them at the store, not at home.

Look for tags, labels and instructions for care. Many goods are returned because they've been damaged by improper care. This won't happen if you buy labeled goods and follow the directions.

When ordering by mail or phone always be sure merchandise is clearly described. And state a second choice. Find out when the goods are scheduled for delivery and plan to be home.

Boy Owes an Explanation for Breaking Engagement

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

Under many circumstances it seems pretty silly to me for a girl to carry a blazing torch for a boy who is no longer interested. When he makes signs that he's through, she ought to want no more of him.

Trying to get him back by a lot of devious plots and obvious passes puts a girl in a very undignified position. Her frantic efforts can become embarrassing to all concerned.

IF correct occasion

Quilted cotton cobbler over socks, frilly, flaring organdie apron over sheath skirt, create chic silhouette for home entertaining.

Mrs. C. A.—Frilly and functional describe holiday aprons. They range from crisp organdie cocktail styles to bright cobbles, with a quilted look, and dirdi button-sashed tea aprons.

Ming Tree Beautifies Your Home

DALLAS, Tex. (INS) — Here's an easy formula for making an attractive and carefree little ming tree to brighten up that blank space in your home.

You'll need ordinary chicken wire; plaster of paris, a tree branch, driftwood or manzanita branch (it must have horizontal planes for the Oriental effect); Peruvian moss and lichens; and, if desired, small Oriental accessories.

Cramp the 1-inch chicken wire — a piece about 2 feet square is about right — to resemble a miniature mountain terrain, tacking the excess underneath.

Insert the branch into the wire and entwine it securely within the base, then cover the base with plaster of paris, leaving little indentations for the accessories.

Next wire the Peruvian moss to the horizontal branches, and glue the lichens, if you decide to use them, around the wire for a cover-up and an added interesting texture.

For a more realistic effect, holes may be bored in the branches and the moss stems inserted into the openings filled with glue.

Peruvian moss is an almost woody moss imported from the South American country, and can be obtained at most florists, who use it in the creation of their own ming trees.

The moss may be painted with a semi-gloss paint so the little tree will fit in with your color scheme. Paint it before applying to the tree. You may also wish to paint the branch, and certainly the plaster of paris "mountains."

Yes, normally, when a boy lets down the final curtain, I'm all for saying "so be it—it was fun while it lasted."

But there are times when it doesn't seem fair for a girl to lose out without a word or two in her own behalf. Just lying low and keeping quiet amount to losing by default.

Here's such a case. This girl and her boy friend had progressed beyond the young love stage to being engaged. Should he be allowed to walk out on that contract without a peep from her? I don't think so. Here's what she writes:

"Dear Miss Woodward: We are both 18 and we'd been going steady for two years. When we graduated last spring he told everyone of our plans to be married. He took me to pick out a ring.

"Then two weeks later he wrote me a letter saying that we would not go together for two or three months and see if we still felt the same about each other. He even fixed the date on which we would get together to see.

"But in the meantime he had become engaged to another girl and they are to be married the same day he was to come back to see me!

"He says he still loves me, and that he isn't happy — yet it's the other girl he's going to marry. I can't figure this out—can you?"

You can take this quietly on the chin, and go through the rest of your life curdling every time you hear his name or see his face. Or you can demand a showdown with the lad.

If you can keep your voice and your emotions under control, call him up and ask him to come over to see you. It's only fair that he should keep his part of the bargain he made.

In all good faith you agreed to your engagement—though he's the one who did most of the talking about it. You picked out a ring which sealed the agreement.

You had the separation inflicted on you—it was, after all, his idea. And you've waited the time out as he requested. While he seems to be involved in an alliance that is making him miserable.

Wouldn't it be better all around for the two of you to talk this thing out? You'd be happier if you could be satisfied in your own mind that he no longer loves you, despite what you've heard.

And he'd be happier to find out which girl he really does love, before he gets married to anybody. Win or lose—why let him just walk out on you?

Put Cleaning Needs Within Handy Reach

Chores go quicker if you have your equipment where and when you want it.

A neat little swinging tray can be attached to the drain-pipe under the kitchen or bathroom sink to keep cleansers, soap and brushes within handy reach.

Made of rust-proof aluminum, it needs only a wipe-off with hot soapsuds to keep it sparkling and sanitary.

Not Too Hot

Never press woollens completely dry. Use a well-padded smooth board and a moderately hot iron. A too-hot iron makes the fibers brittle. Always stop pressing while the garment still is damp.

Start the picture-taking early. There's no time like the Christmas holidays to capture a youngster's excitement. The wonder of the season will live in snapshots to delight you again and again.

Leaky Valve in Radiator Is Harmful

Human nature is such that if you went around during the summer inspecting and repairing radiator shut-off valves your friends would probably stop speaking to you and your neighbors would look upon you with a certain amount of suspicion.

Of course, it's easier to do this sort of work when the heat is off but it just isn't ever done.

A leaky shut-off valve is bad for two reasons. First it ruins the floor or floor covering and secondly it means water must be added to the boiler and this means wasted heat.

If you have a leaky valve, the first thing to try is tightening up the big cap nut that fits under the handle. It may be that just by tightening this nut you will stop the leak. It may also be that in tightening the nut this far, it becomes impossible to turn the valve handle.

If you are in the habit of turning on and off radiators, this is bad. If you leave your radiators on full blast all the time, the fact that you can't move the handle isn't going to hurt anything.

Often the packing inside the nut is so shot that it must be replaced before you can stop the leak. Let the fire in the boiler get low and if you have a hot water system, drain enough water off the boiler so that the level is below the level of the radiator on which you are working.

Remove the valve handle and then unscrew the nut. Inside the nut you'll see the old packing. Take it out and replace it with fresh packing which you can get at a hardware store.

Some valves use washers for packing and some use a special kind of wicking. Just be sure that the packing is suitable for radiator work.

Run the nut back on, replace the valve handle and you should be all set for a good many years.

People who live in houses with big picture windows might just as well answer the doorbell.

'Silver Rhythm' Flatware Curves In Toward Plate

By ELIZABETH HILLIER
Dignity and elegance will always be important in so proud and long-lasting a possession as silver, but contemporary design is wanted, too, for the home in contemporary style.

A new pattern in sterling by a major maker of fine silver is always news, but especially newsworthy is one introduced in time for Christmas giving. Silver Rhythm, which has the important look of traditional silver and the simplicity and grace of the best of contemporary design.

An unusual feature of Silver Rhythm's design is the way the knife and spoons, on the right

MSC Tells Method for Removing Wax

Christmas always brings the problem of candle wax stains on table linens. Home economists at Michigan State College suggest this solution:

Remove the paraffin as completely as possible by first allowing it to harden and then scraping off the surface wax. Then press with a warm iron on white blotting paper.

If any dye still remains in the cloth you can probably remove it by sponging with carbon tetrachloride or a commercial dry cleaner.

Father Tries to Force Son Into Law, Though Boy Is Natural-Born Salesman

By ANNE HEYWOOD

We often hear of the young person who is pushed into being a lawyer—a doctor, or banker, or whatever—because his father was one.

But in my experience, it is more often that the son is pushed into a field because Daddy always wanted to be one, but wasn't.

One mother, faced with this problem, came to see me recently. She was badly upset, and it took her some time to get to the point.

"My son Donald," she began, "is a very bright boy. He's a junior in college. My husband is a well-to-do insurance salesman and gives Donald a lavish allowance. Not that the boy needs it—he is always lining up part-time jobs on campus and making a lot of money.

He loves to sell. When he was in high school he always sold ads for the school paper, getting all the big tradesmen in town to buy advertisements.

"And he runs an accounting service, and I don't know what all, at college. It's like food and drink to him, just selling. He wants to get into it the minute he graduates."

She paused, dabbed at her eyes, and blew her nose.

"But my husband won't have it. My husband says selling is no fit profession for Donald. He claims that he has hated it every minute, and always regretted that he couldn't be a lawyer."

"Now he thinks Donald should be one. And he is forcing it. Honestly, they don't even speak to each other any more. They're both stubborn."

"But my husband says law is a dignified profession with real prestige, and sales is something anyone can do. What do you think?"

I told her how strongly I feel that each of us has a right to the life work we want, and suggested that her husband come in to talk it over.

He was a pleasant man, but very stubborn. Without naming any names, I gave him the case histories of six unhappy lawyers I had counseled—each of whom had spent a heartbreaking time getting out of law, into the field he wanted.

Cleanliness Advised in the War on Polio

Cleanliness can't be overemphasized as a sensible protective measure in fighting the spread of polio.

No real safeguard is known, but one official suggestion is to teach your children that they must always wash their hands after using the toilet and before eating. Be sure that they have a ready supply of soap and clean towels. You just can't keep clean enough.

Home Sewers Seek Washable Material

One hundred per cent washable — that's what a woman likes to hear when she's buying yardgoods over the counter!

If you're spending your time and your money making wardrobes, you want to be certain that the finished garment will take the wear and washing they're going to need.

Pillows Unknown

Pillows, which mean so much to our present day sleep comfort, were unknown in England until the 16th century.

"You can force Donald to take law," I told him, "but you cannot make him like it, or stay in it. Why not save yourself all that money—plus the possibility of ruining your son's friendship for you?"

Rather reluctantly, he agreed. Then I suggested that he take a few law courses at night himself—it's never too late to learn, and it might give him a great feeling of satisfaction.

Donald is now in a good sales job, making a small fortune. His father is taking law at night and may well one day pass his bar exams.

They are the best of friends, and the woman in the case is pleased as she can be.

Try It Sew Up Your Yule Gifts

Christmas is coming closer! Have you started your Christmas shopping yet? I hope you have, for part of the fun in the giving of gifts is in the wrapping.

So many times when you do your shopping at the last minute you find that many of the nice things are gone, and then you must hurry to wrap them that is a chore instead of a time for using clever ideas and having fun. Too, packages which must be mailed should be sent within a few days now to insure prompt arrival.

Have you ever thought of sewing your gifts up? This is a good way to use scrap material and it is certainly fun for the person who is receiving the gift. After all, when you give a gift it is not the cost of the gift which counts, it is the thought, and when a gift is wrapped with thought, it is especially nice.

One package in the drawing is wrapped in a bandana handkerchief. Do not cut the material, and then the handkerchief can be used. Sew it with matching thread.

The lower package has a dotted cover and stitching on the edges. You can stitch your gift card on, too. The striped cover is nice, and you can sew it with matching embroidery thread, using cross stitching. Use your imagination for different packages.

Pontiac Lions Mark 30th Anniversary

Pontiac Lions Club celebrated its 30th anniversary at a special dinner meeting here last night in Hotel Waldron, with Gov. G. Mennen Williams, a member of the Lansing Lions Club as guest of honor.

The governor, in keeping with service club tradition was fined upon his late arrival at the meeting.

With a capacity crowd looking on, the club's Tailtwister, the Rev. Soterios Gourville, taxed the governor the usual 10 per cent fee for tardiness.

In his talk to the Lions, Gov. Williams outlined the prospects for a balanced budget for the state to be presented by his office to the legislature without dependence on additional taxation.

He also reviewed the charitable work of the Lions in behalf of the School for the Blind in Lansing. The governor was introduced by Lion Donald Adams and Lion J. B. Van Wagoner.

A "This Is Your Life" novelty honored charter members of the local club, Arthur Selden and Galen Blaylock.

Selden was presented an award for 30 years perfect attendance by the governor and the club listened as the years were reviewed for the two men.

Mention was made of the Lion-sponsored "Boost Pontiac Week" of 1925 with its 5-mile long parade, the concert of the U. S. Army Band in 1928 which netted $1,400 for the Lion's defective vision fund, the endowment of the Pontiac Public Library children's reading room in 1934 and the comedy presented in 1941.

Numerous awards were made recognizing long loyalties to the club, and its continuing sight conservation program.

Toastmaster for the evening was Ross P. Tenny, John Maddaugh was chairman of the committee for the celebration.

Guests included Lions from neighboring clubs and district officers. Dr. F. Milton Hathaway is president of the local club.

Nearly 150,000 farms in the United States were electrified in the year ending June 30, 1953.

Benson to Explain His New Soil Conservation Setup to Solons

WASHINGTON (U.S.)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson goes before a House group today to argue the case for his controversial reorganization of the Soil Conservation Service.

But in advance of his appearance before a Government Operations subcommittee, the political heat generated by his month-old action appeared to be abating.

Walter S. David Jr. of League City, Tex., one of the severest critics of the reorganization, said yesterday he was ready to help make the plan work.

Davis, president of the National Assn. of Soil Conservation Districts, was slated to follow Benson as a witness before the House group. Davis and the association earlier had denounced the changes effected by Benson, particularly abolition of seven regional soil conservation offices.

Chairman Bender (R-Ohio) indicated the committee was standing clear of the dispute until all the arguments are in.

"The purpose of the hearings is to provide a forum for both sides in the controversy," Bender told newsmen. "We want to prepare a record for Congress to consider when it returns in January."

"None of the committee has any preconceived notions, but I feel it is better to get both sides of the record because of the numerous protests which have come to Congress."

Any action by Congress to repeal the organization would have to be by legislation subject to a presidential veto.

Benson put the Agriculture Department reorganization into effect Nov. 3 over the protests of some farmers, conservationists, and members of Congress.

Most of the controversy centered around that part of the plan which abolished the soil conservation regional offices, a move which Benson said would lead to strengthening state offices.

Five-Year-Old Interviews Idol, Cowboy Autry

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Nancy Thomas, who is blonde, independent and 5 years old, was supposed to write this story about Gene Autry.

But she is too busy working over her jumbo western coloring book, so her leg man will have to carry on.

Nancy, you see, just had her tonsils taken out, an awful experience for young or old. Since she came through so admirably—her only real indignation was over getting a shot where she sat down—she deserved a reward. That was tagging along on, or conducting, as it turned out, an interview with one of her TV heroes, Gene Autry.

Gene was absent when we arrived at his large manse on the edge of the San Fernando Valley. We were ushered into the Autry den, where Nancy examined the cowboy relics.

She asked about an object on the desk. I explained that it was a telegraph key to send messages and that Gene used to be a telegrapher before he became a movie cowboy.

"Quite interesting," she allowed.

Gene arrived and came in with a big hello for Nancy. "He looks just the way he does on TV," she observed.

He showed her around the place and explained a glass-enclosed tableau of wood-carved cowboy figures. "Now that's the man riding the bucking bronco and that's the owner of the horse and—"

"Where's the villain?" TV-wise Nancy wanted to know. He had to explain that there wasn't any.

She admired his red and green cowboy boots and he offered to show her more. So we went upstairs and he displayed a closet full of boots, all kinds and colors. He also showed us enough shirts to clothe a king-size rodeo.

"How old is Champion?" asked Nancy, moving on to other matters.

"Why, he's around 15, honey," Gene replied. "Gettin' pretty old for a horse."

Downstairs, Nancy ordered a cola and sipped on it while Gene and I exchanged man-talk. I wanted to know what was happening to the program western.

That old movie fixture appears to be dying out; Rex Allen is the only cowpoke making a series for theaters now. Gene discontinued them recently, joining Ray Rogers, Johnny Mack Brown, Charles Starrett, Bill Elliott and other stalwarts of the Saturday matinee.

"I have four unreleased pictures under my old Columbia

HOLLYWOOD INDIAN—Script book and hobby pins for her hair provide sharp contrast for the Indian wigwag background and the costume worn by May Wynne on the set of the film, "The Woodhawk." Pining up unruly locks in the modern manner in the setting of another day spices present with past.

deal," Gene explained. "That's enough to last me until next May. Then I'll decide whether I'll go ahead and make some more."

"The program western has been hard hit. You see, we used to have the weekend trade to ourselves. But then the big-name stars moved in."

"There was Jimmy Stewart with 'Bend of the River' and others, and Gary Cooper with 'High Noon,' and Gregory Peck. And John Wayne makes westerns every once in a while, and Randolph Scott makes two or three a year, and Joel McCrea."

"These pictures naturally cut into our trade. But I think the program western will come back. Westerns have taken a beating before—I remember it happened just after sound came in. The thing is that you'll have to keep your costs down, because the market is smaller."

"Nuts," said Nancy. "What's that?" I asked. "May I have some nuts?" she inquired, gazing at the nut bowl. She was allowed to take one home.

Gene added that he was taking a rare rest until Jan. 6, when he starts a musical tour in Duluth, Minn. When we finished talking, he escorted us to the car. He told Nancy that he ate mashed potatoes after he had his tonsils out.

As we drove off, she remarked: "I eat ice cream." Just like a woman, she had the last word.

Doctor Defines 'Anxious Heart'

Says Seeming Ailment Is Caused by Fear and Anxiety

ST. LOUIS (U.S.)—Worried about your heart?

There's a good chance you just have "anxious heart," with nothing actually wrong despite pains or other signs.

This anxiety heart disease was described today by the American Medical Assn. by Dr. Jackson A. Smith, department of psychiatry and neurology, Baylor University College of Medicine, Houston, Tex. Some Civil War soldiers had it—it was then called "irritable heart." It was thought to be due to too much excitement.

Lots of World War I soldiers had it. For many it cleared up after the armistice.

Fear and anxiety cause it, in civilians as well as soldiers. The person focuses attention on his heart, Dr. Smith said. Sometimes it's created or helped along when during a heart examination the doctor says or does something making the patient believe his heart is really physically in trouble.

In anxious heart, a person becomes aware of his own heart beat or pulses in his head or throat, Dr. Smith said. His heart may skip or seem to skip beats, and he fears his heart has stopped or will stop. Often he complains of being breathless and fatigued.

The personality type likely to have anxious heart is one who is tense, easily embarrassed, sensitive to opinions, indecisive, over-conscientious, and trying to live by standards which are realistically too high, the physician said.

One expert finds that more than half the people who go to see heart specialists have anxiety heart disease, he added.

The treatment is to assure a person that there's nothing wrong with his heart, and then not to mention his so-called heart disease again, Dr. Smith said. The patient should be encouraged to be as active physically as his age permits. He should be told his trouble comes from tension, and tension these days isn't rare and isn't disabling. Then the cause of the anxiety—whether in his job, marriage, or other sources—can be sought out and made understood.

Hefty Aga Khan Doesn't Expect Platinum Weight

CANNES, France (U.S.)—The Aga Khan, who is the leader of a Moslem sect as well as a worldly sportsman, said today he won't get his weight in platinum next year. Some of his followers have fallen upon hard times.

The five million members of the Aga Khan's Imamee Ismaili sect have kept the old Eastern custom of showing their devotion by weighing him in gold or precious gems.

Next year will be the Aga Khan's platinum jubilee and he said he would go to Karachi early in 1954 to celebrate.

"I will get on a scale and be weighed," he said, "but it is unlikely that I will be given my weight in platinum. Certain states, less rich than others, haven't been able to furnish their share of the platinum. Because of this, the ceremony will be of a symbolic nature."

The Aga now weighs 210 pounds. His followers are scattered through Morocco, Egypt, Kenya, Tanganyika, Mozambique, Madagascar, Iraq, Syria, Saudi Arabia, Iran, India, Pakistan, Afghanistan, Burma, Malaya, Ceylon and Tajikistan, in Russia. There are even a few in New York.

In 1946, when he weighed 260, the Aga was weighed in Bombay in diamonds estimated to be worth 2½ million dollars. As at previous weighings, he was given the money equivalent of the gems and used it for charity for his followers.

A PICTURE YOU WILL NEVER FORGET!

Time does not permit me to send this personal message to everyone in Pontiac, so I am using this method to tell you about something I want you to know.

It's about a motion picture that is so good, I'm willing to stake my job on it.

The picture is called "SO BIG." Here is a picture that is tops in my book. Based on the novel by Edna Ferber which won the Pulitzer Prize with Jane Wyman and Sterling Hayden portraying the DeJongs in a small midwest Dutch settlement called New Holland.

I recommend that everyone in Pontiac see "SO BIG." It's a film which everyone who has ever had a son will get a wallop out of seeing.

Snub to Ruler May Upset Britain's Policy in Africa

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor

"For lack of a nail, the shoe was lost."
"For lack of a shoe, the horse was lost..."

And partly because the Kabaka of Buganda wasn't included in the carriage procession at Queen Elizabeth's coronation, the British now have more troubles on their hands in Africa.

And because of this new trouble, a great hydroelectric and irrigation project for Uganda, the Sudan and Egypt may be affected.

And if that's affected, it may also affect Queen Elizabeth's scheduled visit to Africa next spring.

Which is a considerable oversimplification used only as an illustration of the problems which beset the empire on which the sun never sets.

Accompanying an election in the Sudan which was disappointing to the British have been rumblings of discontent in the adjoining East African British protectorate of Uganda.

Uganda, in turn, adjoins Kenya where the African Mau Mau have been waging their bloody campaign against the white settlers.

In the center of Uganda lies the native kingdom of Buganda, comprising an area about the size of Oregon and populated by the richest and best educated tribe in the country.

The ruler is known as the Kabaka.

The present Kabaka is 32-year-old Edward William Frederick Lugemba Mutebi Luwangula Mutesa, whose fellow students at Cambridge University dubbed him "Lulu."

Many of the Kabaka's followers regard grasshoppers as among nature's greatest delicacies, but he himself is a suave, sophisticated man in the European sense, is an honorary captain in the Brigade of Guards and with his European dress wears the blue and scarlet tie of the guards.

But now the Kabaka has been banished from his kingdom by the British and forced into the role of London pensioner.

That, the situation in Kenya and the vote by which the Sudan indicated it wishes to sever its ties with Britain roused a storm in Britain's House of Commons which delayed Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill's departure for the Big Three meeting in Bermuda.

Immediate reason was the Kabaka's announcement that he wanted no part of any African political federation, that henceforth he wishes to deal with the Foreign Office instead of the Colonial Office and also wanted a date set for Buganda's independence.

The British said that attitude violated a 50-year-old agreement and out he went.

Beyond all that, however, has been the Kabaka's dissatisfaction with his own personal treatment by the British. He was snubbed that he did not get the

Jersey Government Is Deodorizing Hogs

SECAUCUS, N. J. (UP) — The walking sausages of Secaucus really don't have to smell the way they do, so the state government is lending a hand in the deodorizing process.

Assemblyman C. William Haines, launching a drive for cleanliness and sanitation, introduced a bill that would regulate raising of garbage-fed swine of the Secaucus type.

The bill, also authorizing the state's agriculture department to appoint a seven-member supervisory council, was designed to decrease the incidence of the vesicular exanthema disease, Haines said, by eliminating pig wastes.

Haines pointed out that local farmers were unable to sell their pigs outside New Jersey for the past year because of a federal quarantine resulting from spread of the animal disease.

Brainy Traffic Signals Favor Busy Highway

DALLAS, Tex. (INS) — Have you ever wished a traffic light could see you coming and not turn red before you made it to the corner? Yep, they've thought up one that does that, and then some.

Traffic lights with mechanical brains are now in operation at a few Dallas intersections.

The light, an electronic device, operates in favor of the street with the greatest amount of traffic. If there is an equal amount of traffic on both streets at the intersection, the lights give each an equal amount of time.

Explorer's Kin Flops

GUERNSEY, Wyo. (UP) — That famous explorer and guide, Kit Carson, would be unhappy about this, C. A. McGillen of Anderson, Ida., a grandson of the frontiersman, was inspecting the area around Fort Laramie, Wyo., checking a route once traveled by Carson. McGillen got lost, his auto stuck in the sand and he had to search for help to pull out the car.

Auto Owner Perfects 'Imperfect Crime'

HUGOTON, Kan. (UP) — Nomination for the "imperfect crime."

An auto burned near Hugoton. Investigating officials found it had been liberally sprinkled with kerosene.

On the cylinder block were partly burned matches. In a ditch nearby was an empty kerosene can.

While the fire still was in progress, Albert R. Collins, 60, of Batesville, Ark., the owner of the destroyed vehicle was picked up as a hitchhiker not far from the scene.

It also developed that although the car was burned at mid-evening, Collins had called his insurance company in Arkansas six hours earlier and reported that his car had been consumed by fire.

In Stevens County district court, Collins admitted he had done "a punk job." He pleaded guilty to arson.

Sentenced to a one-to-five-year prison term, Collins was paroled because of ill health.

Prefers Prison Life

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP) — Robert E. Brassell, convict who gained fame as the master of ceremonies of the Prisonaires, a group of singing inmates, wanted to go free but remain as head of the prison songsters. The parole board told him he could have his freedom, if he would leave the state. Brassell, 37, declined, saying he wanted to remain here "with all the fine contacts I have made."

Employees Have Say in Wisconsin Village

CHICAGO (UP) — A Wisconsin village has set up a government within its government to work out personnel policies.

The Civil Service Assembly reports that at Shorewood, Wis., village employees have a direct voice in determining their salaries and working conditions. The village has set up an 11-man council with representatives from each of the city departments. The council discusses problems with the village manager and plans employee recreation and welfare programs.

The development of employee participation is being recognized in more government agencies on all levels, the assembly reports. Informal employee participation programs exist in the Tennessee Valley Authority, the Library of Congress, the Department of Agriculture, the Navy and other federal agencies, the assembly added.

Private Eyes Call Cops for Burglary Attempt

COLUMBIA, Mo. (INS) — What happens when smoke gets into a private eye?

He calls the police. At least that's what detectives at the Western Detective bureau in Columbia did when they discovered evidence of an abortive burglary and arson attempt in their office.

Havana Tourney Draws 29 Top American Pros

Defending Titlist Dutch Harrison Doesn't Expect to Win This Year

By BEN MEYER

HAVANA (AP)—The Havana Country Club's International Golf Tournament drew 29 of the top United States professionals today for the next to last chance for 1933 prize money.

Defending champion Dutch Harrison of Ardmore, Okla., took one look at the field and said: "I don't think I'll be able to win this year."

Some of Harrison's colleagues promptly dubbed him "the doleful drawler" and observed he is only a year older than last year when he won the tournament with a 17 under par 271. Par for the Havana course is 37-32.

There are 31 pros in all, including two from Havana, participating in the three-day pro-amateur tournament. Art Wall of Pocomo Manor, Pa., is scheduled to tee off first.

Each pro plays with two amateurs three days or 54 holes. On Sunday the pros add up their three-day scores and play 18 holes more to decide who gets what part of the $15,000 prize money. Harrison said he thought maybe Jim Deamer of Klamath Lake, N. Y., looked like a good bet to win.

The first half-dozen money winners among the pros are entered. They include Lew Worsham, No. 1, and Doug Ford, No. 2, on the money-winning list. Other entries number Marty Furgol, Walter Burkemo and Julius Boros.

Purdue Defeats Valparaiso Five

Well-Balanced Scoring Brings the Boilermakers 83-64 Triumph

CHICAGO (AP)—Flashing a well-balanced scoring punch from four juniors and promising performances by eight sophomores, Purdue opened its basketball season last night with an 83-64 victory over Valparaiso.

Purdue, Big Ten football club for the last two seasons, broke a 33-33 halftime tie with a 31-point spurge in the 3rd period. Junior Ted Dunn, 6-4 forward, topped the Boilermakers with 19 points. Four others scored 11 or more points each.

Illinois and Wisconsin are the only other Big Ten teams that have made a start, beating Ohio University 83-54 and Butler 70-54, respectively.

Wisconsin is at Marquette tomorrow night for its 2nd start. Nine Big Ten teams will be in action Saturday.

Notre Dame opens its season tonight at home against Ball State. Loyola of Chicago posted its 3rd straight victory last night, trouncing North Dakota 90-85.

Unbeaten Jaycees Set for Junior Rose Bowl

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Two high-scoring junior college teams, both undefeated and untied in the 1933 season, have been chosen to meet in the Junior Rose Bowl football game Dec. 12.

Selection committee named Northeastern Oklahoma A & M of Miami, Okla., to represent the East and Bakersfield, Calif., Junior College the West.

Good Baseball Instructors Lacking; Max Carey Gets Much Credit for Improvement of Al Rosen

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK (AP)—Al Rosen, most valuable player of the American League, has helped to prove an important point.

In the first place, it should be stated again that the MVP nominations of Rosen and Roy Campanella were approved by practically everybody. They were standouts in every way.

Rosen, the Cleveland Indians' star, was so determined to better his batting average that he worked on it during the winter season.

We have often wondered why the young ball-player gets less instruction, less teaching, than a beginning competitor in any other sport. Golf has around 10,000 teachers instructing millions all through the year.

Prep schools and colleges are packed with football coaches, teaching the young how to pass and kick, run and block. They are at work in thousands of schools and hundreds of colleges.

Tennis instructors are all over the map. But in baseball there is only Rogers Hornsby, and a few other able instructors, plus a few winter camps that are ably handled in the main.

Hornsby is now getting ready to teach via television and he should do well, for he certainly knows his trade.

Getting back to Rosen. At Miami, back in 1932, I ran into Max Carey, another smart instructor. Max was meeting Al Rosen, who wanted to improve his batting enough to work on it during the winter.

"Rosen is a good natural hitter," Carey said, "but he wants to be a better hitter. I've been working with him to get him swinging his bat in the right plane—in lines that are parallel to the ground. Too many batters try to swing up too much at the ball while aiming at a higher lift to carry some fence.

Others cut down at the ball, getting no lift at all. When a bat is swung along the right line you get far better results. Rosen has already improved his swing a lot. In 1933 you'll see greatly improved results."

ALL-MICHIGAN PREP ELEVEN—Here is the 1933 All-Michigan high school football team selected by the Associated Press in cooperation with coaches: Ends, Larry Catlin, Flint Central, and Dave Bowers, Traverse City; tackles, Ernie Delco, Ann Arbor, and Gene Hecker, Grand Rapids Central; guards, Dale Asel, Bay City

Keego, Northville Favorites

By JACK SAYLOR

Last fall's wide-open race for football honors in the Wayne-Oakland League provided a lot of interest and it appears more of the same may be in store in basketball this winter.

Keego Harbor and Northville battled down to the final game of the grid season before deciding the championship and this pattern may well carry over.

In the Oakland B, however, Roseville is top-heavy favorite to win for the third straight time. With Tom Evenson gone, Brighton stands little chance of repeating in the W.O. Keego and Northville are both well-fixed.

Johnny Wassel, little sparkplug guard, returns with Lloyd Law (6-1) and Lester O'Shaughnessy.

To fill the gaps, Minard can call on Bob Hobson (6-1), John Craig (6-6), Jerry O'Shaughnessy, Jim Deacon and a pair of rangy juniors, Dennis Singleton and Bill Nicholson.

Presence of veterans Glen Howarth (6-3), Lamar Nally and Ed Nash makes Dick Kay's Northville club a contender. Clarenceville has seven lettermen reporting, to a new coach.

Milford, also under a new tutor, shows promise with plenty of height. While short on experience, last year's Redskin jayvees were unbeaten. Lettermen reporting are Jerry Winterhalter (6-3), Don Perkuchin (6-1), Bob Stallsmith (6), Jim Davidson (6-3), Don Colegrove, Ken Davidson and Dave Hensal.

Chet Aubuchon is counting on speed to offset the lack of height at Holly. Three starters, Jack Felch, Earl Garner and Jerry Hunter, are back, and the Broncs have added (6-3) Bud Lamberton, a transfer from Waterford.

Clarkston's graduation losses were important, but coach Don Manti does have standout forward Ron Schebor (6-1). Pete and Pat Thompson, Gordon Cascadian, Bill Dunstan and Lanny Leak also are on hand.

New coaches are Jack Menzie (Milford), Art Orloske (Clarenceville) and Rex Carrow (Brighton). There are no changes in the Oakland B.

George Koskimiaki has a tall and talented squad, headed by Jim Berger, who scored 364 points a year ago. In two years, Roseville has won 19 league games, while losing only one; a 1-pointer to Madison. Starting lineup will average 6-2.

Roseville's strongest challenge should come from Troy, where Peyton Goodwin's fine 1932-33 sophomore crop may "come of age." Top Colts are seniors Mike DeKane, 6-4 center Fred Burnard, Jerry Wyett, Bill Haney and juniors Jack Acton, Jim Murdock, Rex Moore and Ira Elliot.

Bob Eldridge lost three regulars and is building around Al Hill and Dick Kramp. Leading candidates are Giles Goforth (6-2), Jim Uhan, Toby Aldrich, Marv Evans and Ron Shore. Latter is back in shape after suffering a broken leg in football.

Fitzgerald may prove troublesome, but Clawson and Madison aren't apt to make serious title gestures. Madison lost everyone, while Jim Davis is Clawson's key returnee.

Loop coaches are still Koskimiaki, Goodwin, Eldridge, Tom Raeside (Fitzgerald), Carl Baker (Madison) and Clint Russell (Clawson).

Flint Schools Place Johnson, Larry Catlin

Bay City's Asel on List; 2 Chiefs Win Honorable Mention

Ten seniors and a dazzling, skinny-legged junior—all top college prospects—were named today to the Associated Press Class A all-state high school football team.

It is a team with an all-veteran line and a potent backfield which accounted for 55 touchdowns this season.

It is a team of speed, savvy, deception and balance.

Only non-senior is halfback Art Johnson of Flint Northern. A dynamic breakaway runner, Johnson scored 15 touchdowns and led Flint Northern to the championship in the powerful Saginaw Valley Conference.

The three senior backs are Jim Ninowski, Detroit Pershing; Al Davis, Port Huron, and Jim Yore, Battle Creek.

Line consists of ends Larry Catlin, Flint Central, and Dave Bowers, Traverse City; tackles Ernie Delco, Ann Arbor, and Gene Hecker, Grand Rapids Central; guards Dale Asel, Bay City Central, and Duane Wohlfert, Lansing Eastern, and center Bill MacPhee, Grand Haven.

Delco, Ann Arbor's 208-pound tackle, is the only all-state regular. He was honored last year.

Many scouts who have seen Flint Northern's Johnson claim he has more potential than little Leroy Bolden of Michigan State. Bolden, who also attended Flint Northern, was named to the AP all-state team in 1930.

Only time will tell, of course, whether Johnson will be a collegiate star. But his exploits this season bordered on the fantastic. He carried 9 times and rolled up 832 yards.

Johnson is 17 years old and it's not certain whether his age will rule him ineligible to play next year for Northern.

Detroit Pershing went undefeated through nine games this season and the key player in its attack was Jim Ninowski.

A cool, level-headed quarterback, Ninowski passed for 14 touchdowns and ran for three. He seldom called a wrong play, was a shikof of defense and did Pershing's punting.

Port Huron's Al Davis, a hard-driving 215-pounder, scored 12 touchdowns, kicked 24 extra points and two field goals. The two field goals—of 26 and 36 yards—gave Port Huron a 19-14 victory over Hazel Park and clinched the title in the Eastern Michigan League.

Davis carried 110 times for 565 yards—an average of 5.1.

Fourth member of the backfield—Jim Yore of Battle Creek—had a 7.6 average on 67 yards in 88 carries. He scored 11 touchdowns, twice getting three in one game.

Delco was a two-way star for Ann Arbor's unbeaten Pioneers. His speed enabled him to break into opposing backfields time and again.

Hecker also is fleet of foot despite his large 6-foot-3, 195-pound frame. Liked to play it rugged.

At ends Catlin compiled a two-season record of 30 receptions for 516 yards and 12 touchdowns. He's also a basketball and track star.

Catholic Central Tops Class A II's in Scoring

By The Associated Press

Detroit Catholic Central, with 310 points, was the highest scoring Class A high school football team in Michigan this season.

It barely won the title from unbeaten, untied Detroit Pershing, which rolled up 303 points while winning nine straight games.

Royal Oak had the best defensive mark among the Class A teams, allowing only 46 points in nine games—an average of 4.4 per game. Three other Class A teams allowed less than one touchdown a game: Grosse Pointe (4.4); Bay City Central (5.7) and Port Huron (5.9).

This meant a sweep of honors for the eastern half of the state—but it was in this section, too, where some dubious Class A records were set.

Highland Park, for instance, gave up more points than any other Class A team—298. And Detroit Southwestern was able to score only 12 points all season, worst Class A mark in the entire state.

Counting all classes, however, Comstock was the team scoring champion. It rang up 350 points, followed by Traverse City St. Francis, 315 points; Detroit Catholic Central, 310, and Detroit Pershing, 303.

Glen Arbor, Leelanau, boasted the best defense against scoring, allowing no touchdowns in five games.

On the reverse side of the ledger, Columbiaville not only gave up the most points, 311, but failed to score a point all season.

Biggest rout of the season was Lansing Vocational's 103-0 victory over Boy's Republic. Next was Comstock's 83-0 bludgeoning of Tekonsha.

All of these records were made available to the Associated Press by Dick Kishpaugh, sports statistician, Kalamazoo.

Here's the '53 All-State Team

Spartan Quint Meets Creighton on Saturday Night at MSC

EAST LANSING (AP)—Basketball and hockey move into the sports scene at Michigan State this weekend with the 1st home games scheduled for the two winter sports.

MSC basketball team will open its season Saturday night against Creighton University. Hockey team has games scheduled Friday and Saturday nights against Ontario Agricultural College.

Creighton, located at Omaha, Neb., already has played two games. It won both. Creighton beat Buena Vista College 73-69 and St. Ambrose 84-73.

Creighton brings an experienced team to Lansing fieldhouse. All five starters from last year are back.

Center Ray Yost and forward Elton Tuttle are top scorers for Creighton. Tuttle, a big six-foot-five incher, was one of the nation's top scorers last year with 469 points. Yost, who stands six-foot-two, netted 329 points last season.

MSC coach Pete Newell also will start a seasoned lineup headed by forward Al Ferrari and center Bob Armstrong. Ferrari, with 331 points, set a Spartan scoring record last year.

Denny Hartman will start at the other forward position and Rickey Ayala and Keith Stackhouse will start at guards.

MSC hockey team already has a record of two wins and a loss during a road trip through New York state. Spartan icemen split with St. Lawrence, losing 5-3 and winning 5-1 and ran up a 9-1 edge over Clarkson.

Rangers, Hawks Battle to Tie

By The Associated Press

No matter in what position the New York Rangers finish this National Hockey League season, it looks as if they will be able to boast one of the circuit's top scorers in little Wally Hergesheimer.

Hergesheimer, who scored 39 times last year, racked up his 8th tally of the current campaign last night as the Rangers battled to a 3-3 tie with the Chicago Black Hawks in the only game scheduled.

Wally's marker was a big one. It came at 11:36 of the final period just after defenseman Al Dewsbury had put Chicago in front 3-2 with his 1st goal of the season.

Hawks, winless in their last eight starts, played inspired hockey as their 35-year-old coach Sid Abel took the ice for the first time.

Larry Wilson scored twice for the Hawks while Bones Raleigh and Andy Bathgate accounted for the other New York goals.

lete. He's a guard in basketball and a trackman.

Asel is rated one of the fastest linemen in Bay City Central's history. A hard, two-way player, he was a key blocker all season.

Wohlfert made the amazing total of 88 tackles in eight games for Lansing Eastern.

Bill MacPhee was the force which brought Grand Haven its first perfect season in history. He's a three-year veteran and was used as linebacker.

Writer Figures Army's Earl (Red) Blaik Should Rate Selection as Coach of Year

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—For my money, only one man is worthy of serious consideration for having turned in the finest job of coaching in the football season now coming to a close. If Earl (Red) Blaik of Army doesn't get the award they should examine the ballot box for signs of tampering.

There possibly are better teams in the land than the task force of Cadets which ripped Navy before a national audience last week. Through sheer manpower the leading teams might grind Army into defeat somewhere in the second half. But we do not believe they could do it for the first 30 minutes of play.

Bevo's Mates Sure He'll Set Garden Record

NEW YORK (UP)—Rio Grande players, to a man, were confident that Bevo Francis would smash the Madison Square Garden basketball scoring record tonight in his 1st appearance on the famed hardwood floor.

The fabulous, six-foot, nine-inch Bevo, who broke all existing scoring marks by totaling 1,934 points last season, begged off any predictions as to how well he would fare against Adelphi tonight but he admitted he would try to eclipse the current record of 84 points.

"That fellow who set the record (Harry Boykoff of St. Johns) against St. Francis of Brooklyn in 1947 was a whale of a player," said Bevo, "and his record has stood a long time."

"I may get 10 points against Adelphi or I might get 60," he added. "It depends on what kind of a night I have. All I can say is that I'll be trying like all get-out."

Francis doubts, however, were not shared by his teammates.

PCL Will Hold Special Session on Seals' Fate

League President Takes Franchise From Miller; Bids Being Accepted

ATLANTA (AP) — Pacific Coast League has called a showdown meeting for San Francisco, Dec. 11 to "wind up the situation" concerning the San Francisco franchise.

After taking back the franchise from Damon Miller and his associates yesterday, president Clarence Rowland announced the league is ready to accept bids. First application was from Rudy Shaffer of Baltimore.

Miller insists he still has the franchise legally. "In my opinion the meeting can be declared illegal," Miller said, "because I was not there. But I hope I don't have to go to any courts on the matter. Nobody has informed me of the situation, except the newspapers."

According to Rowland, however, Miller's group had the franchise on a conditional basis. "He failed to meet the condition," he said. "But he still has a chance, the same as anybody else, Dec. 11."

A lease on Seal stadium was the main difficulty. Rowland said the Miller group's franchise ownership had been contingent on their ability to get a lease on the ball park releasing the league from any obligation or liabilities.

While the PCL was trying to straighten out its affairs, president Frank Shaughnessy of the International League reported the picture appeared to be bright in his circuit.

He said it now appears likely that Springfield, Mass., will continue in the Triple-A League next year and that a decision has been promised by the parent Chicago Cubs within the next few days.

Havana of the Class B Florida International League is ready to move into the International as the 8th club, replacing Baltimore, which jumped up to the majors.

PHS Club Boasts Size, Speed and Experience This Season

By BILL MARTIN

Pontiac High opens its 1953-54 basketball season here Friday night, playing host to Royal Oak in a non-conference curtain-raiser.

Prospects at PHS are considered brightest in years. In a squad that boasts nine lettermen and a couple of promising newcomers, Coach Art Van Ryzin has speed, size and experience.

Chiefs got their experience the hard way last year when, as sophomores and juniors, they lost 15 times in 19 starts. This year, the seasoning should pay off.

Marvin Caswell, 6-foot 1-inch forward, will join returning regulars Walt Poe and Bob Johnston at guards, Leroy Moore at center and John James at forward to form the starting lineup to face Royal Oak. Bench strength will be provided by lettermen Jimmy Williams and Bill Rose at guards and Dick Ayling and Homer Harrison at forwards.

Another pair of promising forwards are Dave Ballard and Dick Blacklaw, 6-foot 3-inch performers who didn't play last season.

Royal Oak Coach Don Bray has two regulars — 6-foot 3-inch center Roger Sides and guard Jack Drawbaugh — from the team that won four of 16 games last year.

Beaten Americans Watch Aussie 'Twins' Win Test

By WILL GRIMSLEY
MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — While American Davis Cuppers watched intently from the grandstand, Australia's 19-year-old court twins, Ken Rosewall and Lewis Hoad, stroked their way today to the final of the Victorian tennis championships.

Top seeded Rosewall, a cool backcourt machine, smothered George Worthington 6-1, 2-6, 6-0, 6-1.

The stocky Hoad, pulling off service aces seemingly whenever it suited his fancy, powered past the vastly improved Rex Hartwig 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.

The American forces, who hope to challenge for the cup here later this month, got little encouragement from watching the Sydney teenagers outclass the two Aussie upstarts who previously had eliminated Uncle Sam's brightest stars.

Playing on a lightning fast Koo-yung turf court in hot, cloudy weather the young Aussies gave an exhibition which raised home hopes of retaining the cup on Dec. 28-30.

CASE—Preventing Overtake.
Increase Reach—One of the costliest mistakes a star must continually guard against is over-turning the ball. All top bowlers have sleages of it.

The remedy I have found most effective is to lengthen the slide a bit—two or three inches will do, for which you compensate by stretching your footwork accordingly—and concentrate on increasing the swing-through reach, as the sketch shows.

Thus the arm, fully extended, sends the ball on its way with a smooth, upward lift. The thumb is released first, leaving the fingers to apply hook spin.

Prep basketball in the Oakland County area gets into full swing Friday night with 20 games on tap, including nine in which county schools play at home.

Pontiac's Chiefs begin the campaign on their own floor against Royal Oak, while Waterford travels to Milford. Walpole Lake entertains Cranbrook and Oxford is at Clarkston.

Keego goes to Madison of Royal Oak and Farmington is at home to Bentley. Lake Orion, which opened successfully Tuesday, tangles with Orionville in the Hawks' gym. South Lyon is at Clarencerville and St. James at Shrine of Royal Oak.

Possibly the toughest opening night task for an Oakland County team confronts Berkley. Lloyd Houden sends his Bears against Fordson, defending state Class A champions.

Only league game matches North Branch and Mayville of the South Central.

Friday's schedule:

Furore Raised Over Calling of Footfaults

Former Aussie Davis Cup Player Criticizes Melbourne Officials

By WEL GRIMSLEY
MELBOURNE (U)—Adrian Quist, former Australian Davis Cup player, said today he was inclined to believe that Americans Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert do not footfault. The Americans were hardest hit in the wave of footfaults that caused a furore in the Victorian Tennis championships.

Writing in the Sydney Morning Herald Quist said "Seixas stands about a foot behind the line. It is extremely difficult to swing over from that distance."

"Footfault judges must watch the foot and at the same time make certain the racket struck the ball before the right foot carries over the line. I believe it almost impossible to watch both actions and give definite ruling against the player."

Quist said that Melbourne is the only place footfaults have been called, adding "Trabert rightly maintains he cannot change service action. His foot actions have been the same for the past year. He was not called in Sydney and he is mystified why he is called here."

Meanwhile the referee for the Davis Cup challenge round, C. E. Sproule, who watched yesterday's doubles match at which Seixas and Trabert protested frequent calling of footfaults said he felt the footfault judge did a good job.

Cards, Redlegs Trade 2nd-Line Infielder, Hurler

Tigers Sign Anderson, Ferrell as Scout and Coach

ATLANTA (U)—St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Redlegs kept the trading business at the minor league convention from being a complete dud by transacting a deal involving a pair of 2nd-line players yesterday.

Cardinals acquired Alex Grammas, a young shortstop, in exchange for relief pitcher Jack Crimian. Cards also paid out an estimated sum of $25,000.

Both Grammas and Crimian were in the minor league last season. In the only other action involving major league business, Rollie Hemisley was named coach of the Philadelphia Athletics while Detroit signed Rick Ferrell. Tigers also signed Wayne Anderson as a scout. Milwaukee announced the outright release of infielder Harry Hanebrink and catcher Paul Burris to its Toledo farm in the American Association.

Luke Sewell, former manager of the St. Louis Browns and Cincinnati Reds, was named manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League succeeding Burleigh Grimes.

Paul Campbell, ex-Tiger, was signed to manage Hagerstown in the Class B Piedmont League.

Hayes Shows Little Against Panther, Gets Suspension for 'Poor Condition'

By JOE FALLS
DETROIT (U)—Boston middleweight Norman Hayes went back to army life, today, apparently finished as a fighter until Uncle Sam gives him his discharge.

Fighting on a three-day pass, Hayes was soundly whipped by Garth Panther of Salt Lake City in a nationally televised 10-rounder at Olympia stadium last night.

Immediately following the fight, Hayes was suspended by the Michigan State Boxing Board of Control.

At first, the boxing commission sent word around the ring that Hayes was suspended for "inept performance" as well as "poor condition." Later, it amended this to just "poor condition."

Michigan commissioner Floyd Stevens said the suspension would be effective in all 48 states.

"We're suspending Hayes as a protection and won't lift it until he's in condition to fight," Stevens said. "His manager, John Buckley, assures me Hayes won't fight again until he's out of the army."

General feeling among sports writers covering the fight was that Hayes didn't put up a good showing but that he did his best considering the conditions. He's been in the army seven months and his last fight was May 21.

"I think Stevens is crazy to suspend him," said Buckley. "It's an injustice, that's what it is."

"I'd like to see Stevens try to get along on army food."

Buckley said he agreed to the fight after Hayes told him in a telephone conversation that he was in good shape.

Hayes, dejected, said after the fight:

"I just couldn't get started. I've got to have another chance to prove to these people that there's nothing wrong with me."

Hayes, a 23-year-old Negro, stepped into the ring, looking neat and trim. He started at a brisk pace, too, pounding Panther with a left-right combination which won the first round.

After a close second round, Hayes began to tire and Panther, a 23-year-old iron worker, took charge. He stalked the backpedaling Hayes around the ring, raking him with overhand rights.

The last few rounds were decidedly one-sided and on three occasions referee Lou Handler warned Hayes to "pep it up."

It was a unanimous decision for Panther, who posted his 53rd victory against 12 losses and two draws.

Scout Indicates SMU Might Try Spread Saturday

Wide-Open Tilt Likely for National Television Game-of-Week

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
SOUTH BEND, Ind. (U)—Unbeaten Notre Dame may be in for some surprises in Saturday's football finale, says Irish scout Johnny Druze, who has been spying on Southern Methodist.

Druze is certain that the national television audience and the capacity crowd of 55,000 at Notre Dame Stadium will see a sensational, wide-open game.

"When those Texans make up their minds to do something they usually succeed," said Druze, a fellow not accustomed to talking with tongue in cheek.

"SMU has nothing to lose in this last game of the season and a great deal to gain by knocking us off. This in itself is a healthy situation for them."

"We've always found out in the past that we can expect anything from SMU. Maybe I can throw away my scouting reports. They undoubtedly will throw stuff at us that they have been saving all season and no one has seen."

"We can expect spread formations, although I haven't seen them use one yet. They have backs who can be used in all kinds of combinations, although basically it's a tight T formation club with split T variations."

The Mustangs uncorked 45 passes to beat Notre Dame 27-20 in 1951, their last meeting.

Although Druze would not admit it, Notre Dame also is expected to come up with some new stuff that could entail a lot of passing.

Waterfowl Kill Down in South Part of State

LANSING (U)—Sharp drops in the numbers of waterfowl killed during the fall hunting season were registered in the Pte. Mouille, Fennville and Swan Creek waterfowl areas, the state conservation department said today.

Lack of success was blamed mostly on mild weather during the duck-hunting season.

Waterfowl experts estimated the percentage of shooting success at the three popular southern Michigan areas dropped between 25 and 50 per cent.

At Pte. Mouille, more than 7,700 hunting permits were issued during the season. Hunters shot a total of 5,817 ducks and coots compared to a kill of 9,969 birds last year.

Hunters who shot black ducks, mallards and blue-winged teal kept pace with the success ratio of last year, the biggest slump in the area being in coots and diving ducks.

Players and Owners at Odds Over Pension Plan

By JOE REICHLER
ATLANTA (AP)—The strained relationship between the major league players and owners reached its widest breach today following a pair of bombshells exploded yesterday.

It began with the refusal of the player representatives of the 16 major league clubs to attend a scheduled meeting with Commissioner Ford Frick because their attorney, J. Norman Lewis, had been barred.

It ended with the commissioner's revelation that the major league Executive Council was considering the termination of the players' multimillion-dollar pension plan.

Frick disclosed at a news conference that the major league owners, at their annual meeting in New York next week, will vote on a resolution that could dissolve the entire pension plan within 90 days although its present five-year set-up does not expire until 1956.

Frick explained that all player representatives responded but it was not until 15 minutes before the proposed meeting yesterday morning that Ralph Kiner and Allie Reynolds, player spokesmen in their respective leagues, called on him to permit Lewis to be present.

"I told them that was not possible," Frick said.

Frick said he felt he had the right to summon anyone he wanted—player or club official—in the interests of baseball, without any outsider present.

Kiner and Reynolds contended that Lewis was their official legal counsel and they advised Frick that the players had unanimously voted that Lewis must be admitted or they would not attend themselves.

All player representatives departed for their homes except Reynolds, who said he would attend the American League meeting in New York next week.

If the owners' resolution should be approved next week, it would terminate one of the most elaborate pension funds ever set up in sports. Conceived in 1947 and expanded in 1952 with the addition of an annual million-dollar allotment from World Series and All-Star Game receipts, it now provides a fund that assures an income of $100 a month to 10-year players on retiring at the age of 50 on down to $50 a month for five-year men.

Frick explained that the players demanded their pension payments be increased from $50 to $80 for five-year men and from $100 to $150 for 10-year men. At the same time, the players wanted to reduce the 50-year age eligibility to 45 while paying smaller premiums.

State police reported bumper-to-bumper traffic along several of the main highways.

Conservation experts had no quick estimate of the number of hunters in the field but said as many were out as for the opening day of the buck season on Nov. 15.

More than 2,000 hunters helped conservation department checkers by stopping at checking stations so their kill could be examined for age and sex.

Checks showed that the composition of the kill was nearly identical with last year.

Included in the 2,000-plus animals checked were seven per cent adult bucks, 52 per cent adult does, 20 per cent buck fawns and 21 per cent doe fawns.

Last year, composition of the kill was six per cent adult bucks, 50 per cent adult does, 23 per cent buck fawns and 21 per cent doe fawns.

ATLANTA (AP)—The baseball player pension fund is a complicated mechanism providing for maximum payments of $100 a month after a former player becomes 50 years old.

Since 1946 the players and club-owners have been paying money into the fund. It was revised in 1951 when the current radio-television contract was signed. The bulk of the money for the operation of the plan comes from that extra radio-TV cash.

The majors received about $975,000 for TV rights and $208,000 for radio rights to the World Series with the radio figure dipping to $175,000 last fall and due to drop another $25,000 next year. The All-Star game radio-TV rights add about $110,000.

A ball player pays 27 cents a day the 2nd year until it reaches $2.50 per day from the 6th through the 10th years. If he stays around more than 10 years, the rate drops back to $1.50 per day.

Each individual club pays $1.50 per day for each player on its roster, through his big league career. At the end of 10 years the player and club each will have paid $2,300.

At the age of 50 the players start to receive their annuities, provided they have had five years in the big league. A five-year man gets $20 a month for life, a 10-year man, $30 and on up to $100 a month for 20 or more years.

While an active player, he also has been protected by a $10,000 life insurance policy that can be signed

Special 1-Day Season Kill Is Estimated Near 20,000

LANSING (AP)—The 1-day any-deer season Dec. 1 resulted in a kill of between 15,000 and 20,000 bucks, does and fawns, the state conservation department estimated today.

Game statisticians emphasized, however, that the first figure is only tentative and may be revised later. The count was made through a traffic survey method worked out at the University of Michigan.

Near perfect hunting weather and good roads brought out a large number of hunters, the department said. Traffic in the lower Peninsula north of route M-55 was heavy throughout the day and into the night.

State police reported bumper-to-bumper traffic along several of the main highways.

Conservation experts had no quick estimate of the number of hunters in the field but said as many were out as for the opening day of the buck season on Nov. 15.

More than 2,000 hunters helped conservation department checkers by stopping at checking stations so their kill could be examined for age and sex.

Checks showed that the composition of the kill was nearly identical with last year.

Included in the 2,000-plus animals checked were seven per cent adult bucks, 52 per cent adult does, 20 per cent buck fawns and 21 per cent doe fawns.

Last year, composition of the kill was six per cent adult bucks, 50 per cent adult does, 23 per cent buck fawns and 21 per cent doe fawns.

Soap Provides Admission for Prep 'Benefit'

ROCKY FORD, Colo. (AP)—A bar of soap, any size, is the admission charge for a volleyball and three basketball games at the field house in Rocky Ford Saturday night.

The school district does not provide soap for the athletic teams nor for high school physical education classes. Coaches decided to hold the soap benefit.

Faculty members will play volleyball. The basketball games match Rocky Ford High School players.

Women Anglers Find Relaxation in Fishing

POPULAR BLUFF, Mo. (AP)—Mary Mack, columnist for the Poplar Bluff American Republic, has figured out why 25 per cent of the anglers nowadays are women. Says Mary:

"The average woman now has so many labor saving devices that it's a terrific strain to keep them all in operation. She needs the relaxation of a pleasant fishing trip.

"If men were half as smart as they would have us believe, they would know that a wife who understands the joys of angling will be much more agreeable about her husband's fishing jaunts."

Statistics Rate Ivy League 'Toughest'

Close Finishes Featured East's Play This Year

Valley, Skyline Loops
Also Are Rated High in Tight Games

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
NEW YORK (AP)—Pipe down, you
Texans! The nation's toughest college football league isn't your Southwest Conference. It's the Ivy League—and we have figures to prove it.

How? Well, as we see it, a "tough" league is one in which the teams are so closely matched that it's difficult to win any game.
And an analysis of this year's scores shows that fits the Ivy

For years the fans have rightly regarded the Southwest Conference as a league in which competition really was rugged. Sure, there aren't any "breathers" in that round-robin schedule and the only "upset" is when a favored team wins just as expected.

But the figures show that in the Southwest—and most other conferences—the winning team often manages to roll up a one-sided score. But the Ivies, who have been content to accept a secondary role in "big time" football, went in for close spine-shivering finishes this year and that's "tough" for the teams that play, regardless of the quality of the football.

Look at Princeton's last-minute, 20-19 decision over Columbia, for instance; or those two thrillers on one afternoon when Yale beat Princeton 26-24 in the last few seconds and Cornell barely held off Dartmouth 28-26. Those weren't easy games for anybody.

The same statistics that put the Ivy League first in tight games give second rank to the Missouri Valley Conference and third to the Skyline Conference, with the Southwest in fifth place.

They were reached to averaging the number of points separating the winners and the losers in all conference or league games—the point spread, if use of that term still is permitted.

Staff Improves New Alphabet

Ohio Professor Directs Study to Better Phonetic Letter System

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—The Air Force has commended an Ohio State University professor and his staff for "significant contributions" in a detailed research study of a new phonetic alphabet.

The research, directed by Prof. Henry Moser of the speech department, has been underway here for more than a year under a contract between the air force and the university's research foundation.

The alphabet was developed several years ago by the International Civil Aviation organization to replace the old "Able, Baker, Charlie" alphabet used by the military in World War II. The ICAO has headquarters in Montreal, Can., and has some 60 member nations, including the United States.

The phonetic alphabet is an important tool in radio-telephone communication throughout the world.

Development of an acceptable alphabet of this type has proved a difficult task because of differences in pronunciation among the various countries and because of the hearing problems which arise in both civil and military aviation.

Moser processed more than a million words under controlled sound conditions at the university's speech and hearing clinic, using foreign students as subjects. They recommended change of four words in the ICAO alphabet.

With these improvements, they reported, the ICAO alphabet, which now begins with "Alpha, Bravo, Charlie," overcomes more of the pronunciation problems posed by the different languages.

The sounds are more readily identified above noise interference. The new alphabet is now in the final stages of adoption.

A Soft Deal

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (UP)—The state is having a tough time finding a harbor master for Wethersfield Cove — and understandably so. The official gets no pay and has no boat, but if he fails to enforce a six-mile-an-hour speed limit he may be asked to forfeit a $300 bond.

Prisoner of War Uses $20 to Roll Own Cigarette

PAWNEE CITY, Neb. (UP)—Lloyd Dovel, back home after two years as a prisoner of war in Korea, recalls how one prisoner used a $20 bill for cigarette paper to roll his own.

The prisoners were getting "sweepings" with which to make their own cigarettes and had to use any kind of paper available, Dovel said.

The $20 bill was suitable because money had no value in the prison camps, he explained. Later, the prisoners were given tobacco leaves for smoking.

Shortly before repatriation, the Red Cross supplied American brand cigarettes but "we couldn't get any kick at all out of American cigarettes by that time," he recalled. "We were too used to our own brand."

Ex-Teacher Is Now Working for Actors

CHICAGO (UP)—Tall, blonde Mary Dooling, who once taught social subjects to Jesuit mission priests, now runs one of the midwest's biggest actors' agencies.

She believes her success in both undertakings is due to her interest in people.

Five years ago, nine Chicago radio actors asked her to manage their business affairs and she accepted.

Now as manager of Talent, Inc., she has 3,000 clients.

At Webster College, Mo., Mary Dooling studied to become a teacher, but after graduation she got a job in a department store.

Later she worked for an association of Catholic high school and college students, and for six years she edited a religious newspaper. She also lectured nationally and during the summers taught social subjects to Jesuit mission priests at St. Louis, Mo. She opened her theatrical agency June 30, 1948, with 10 clients. In a month she had 100 more.

Her clients include six-month-old infants and 75-year-old actors. Among them are off-duty policemen, wrestlers, even dogs. She gets them 700 jobs each month in television, radio and commercial films.

2 Hooks in One Fish

STURGIS (UP)—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Knox made sure their 18-pound rainbow trout didn't get away. The couple hooked the same fish at the same time at Fish Lake.

Cleveland Police Discharge Dogs

Claim Two Bloodhounds Couldn't Track Down Elephant

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)—A strong difference of opinion has arisen over the value of two purebred bloodhounds given to the police department and then discarded because they "didn't even know their own names."

The two canine bloodhounds, King and Blue, were given the department by Robert Sager and the Western Reserve Kennel Club this past summer.

Sgt. Henry Schrank, who lives in suburban North Royalton, was assigned the job of keeping the animals. He was to be assisted in their further training by Patrolman Walter Hertzel.

Kennels were to have been built for the hounds by the city, but somehow that never was done. Schrank, after about two months, gave up and turned the pair over to the dog warden, Al Rhoden, for "adoption," as it's delicately put here.

"I didn't want those things around here," Schrank said. "They weren't even dogs in the first place. Those big cows are more than I did. Besides those dogs didn't know anything. They weren't taught to mind and they didn't even know their own names."

Dewey Satterfield, who trained the dogs in the first place, was bitter when he heard Schrank's low opinion of the hounds.

"Those dogs could trail for a mile or 20 miles, and they proved it before they were turned over to those men," he said. "I'll make those guys eat their words."

Schrank, who claims to know about eating because he's "out $50 in food bills," scoffed at Satterfield's claims for the dog's tracking ability.

"They couldn't track an elephant," he said disgustedly.

The standard work week in the United States was reduced from 72 hours in 1850 to 40 hours in 1950.

BOARDING HOUSE

Oats Hold Up, Rest Ease Off

CHICAGO (AP)—All grains except oats eased in fairly active dealings on the Board of Trade today.

Selling in corn and soybeans was based largely on reports of an expansion in offerings of cash beans and corn by the country, particularly for shipment after the turn of the year. Additional heavy moisture in the Southwestern winter wheat belt created selling in the distant months of that grain.

Oats drew support in view of the nearness of the close of the navigation season on the Great Lakes.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was unchanged to 1/4 cent lower, December $2.02 1/2, corn 1/4 cent lower, December $1.56 1/2, oats 1/4 cent higher, December 78 1/2, soybeans 1/4 cent lower to 2 cents higher, January $3.12 and 1/2 to 30 cents a hundred pounds lower, December $17.22.
