29 Arrested by Police in Raid on Local Club

2 Slain in Addison; Woman Is Arraigned

A Chrysler engineering employee and his wife of five months were found shot to death early this morning at the Addison Township home of the man's ex-wife.

The victims were identified by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department as Glen Kendall, 45, and his wife, Lucille, 46, of Detroit.

Held in custody at the Oakland County Jail is Mrs. Jane Kendall, 45, of 1480 Noble.

She was arraigned on a charge of first-degree murder

HEADED FOR JAIL — Mrs. Jane Kendall shields her face as she is led to jail by a sheriff's deputy about noon today following her arraignment on a first-degree murder charge before Avon Township Justice Luther C. Green.

Weekend Due to Be Nice

The bright blue skies greeting early risers this morning were just right for football games, golf or a hike in the country.

They will continue through Monday with a few scattered clouds overhead tomorrow.

The weatherman promises mild temperatures, the low dropping near 50 tonight. Highs will hit 56 to 64 tomorrow.

Southwest winds will shift to northwest tonight and tomorrow.

A sunny 49 was the thermometer reading at 8 a.m. The mercury had climbed to 65 by 2 p.m.

late this morning before Avon Township Justice of the Peace Luther C. Green.

Mrs. Kendall stood mute at her arraignment, and a preliminary examination was set for 9 a.m. Oct. 12. She is held without bond in the Oakland County Jail.

Sheriff's officers said a woman called about 1:45 a.m. and said, "I just shot my husband and his wife... and maybe hurt my daughter."

Deputies responding to the call said they found Kendall lying face down in bushes near the front door and Lucille Kendall prone on the front porch at 1480 Noble.

10 SHELLS

Ten 22-caliber shells were reported found on the porch along with a 22-caliber automatic rifle.

Officers said Mrs. Jane Kendall told them her former husband and his wife had attempted to break into her home to get her 13-year-old daughter, Laurie.

She said Laurie ran from the house, according to deputies.

The knob was torn off the front door and the screen smashed in with a hammer, police said.

FOUND UNHARMED

Laurie was found unharmful at the home of a neighbor.

Mrs. Kendall and her daughter were taken to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department following the shootings.

Detectives said neither would make a statement.

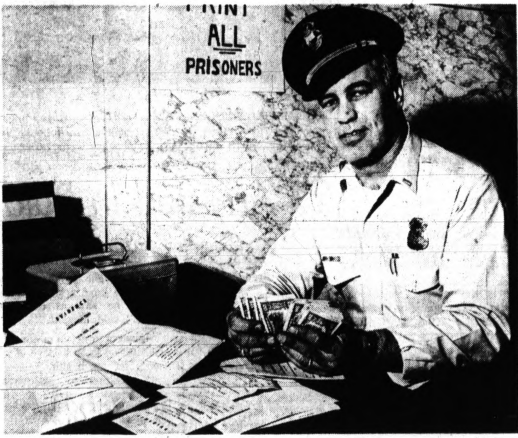

After being booked on the murder charge, Mrs. Kendall appeared briefly in a hallway at the sheriff's department.

WORE SKI SLACKS

She wore ski slacks and had a dark overcoat completely wrapped around her head and neck.

Asked about reports that her mother and father were angry prior to the shooting, Laurie said they had "a difference of opinion."

Police said Kendall and his first wife had one other child, a son William, 18.

COUNTS BRIBE — Pontiac Police Lt. Raymond E. Meggitt fans out $400 he accepted as a bribe while working undercover for the department. In all, Meggitt received $2,050 before the alleged gambling operation he was paid to protect was smashed this morning by Pontiac and state police.

Aid to Chicago Halted by U.S.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago stood today as the first target of the federal government's drive under the new Civil Rights Act to ensure equality in education.

Until complaints of racial discrimination are settled, $34 million in federal aid for public schools was frozen late yesterday by Francis Keppel, U.S. commissioner of education.

Keppel's decision, announced in Washington, came despite the influence of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, who is said to wield considerable political power to get federal funds for his city.

A spokesman for the office of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) said investigators found evidence Chicago had failed to comply with desegregation provisions of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The Northern city with nearly 1 million Negroes, thus became the first to face charges of violating the rights bill's elementary and secondary education provisions aimed primarily at cities in the South.

The HEW spokesman said complaints were filed by the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations (CCCCO), which represents many civil rights groups in Chicago.

92 MARCHES

The CCCC conducted 92 marches during the summer protesting alleged de facto segregation in public schools. Hundreds were arrested during the marches.

School Supt. Benjamin C. Willis had proposed spending most of the money in predominantly Negro school districts.

He telegraphed Keppel: "What are the complaints? What is the probable noncompliance? When will you let us know?" He refused to discuss the funds freeze.

State School Supt. Ray E. Page called the decision a surprise. "I want to find out why these complaints of discrimination haven't been filed with our Springfield (Ill.) office as well," he said.

The Rev. Lynward Stevenson, associated with the CCCC, said he thought Mayor Daley would be intervening.

"I suspect he will use all the Local Army Reserve Unit to Go Inactive

A Pontiac Army Reserve unit was one of five in Michigan which the Pentagon yesterday said would be inactivated in a plan to streamline reserve components.

The local unit is the 4th Battalion of the 39th Field Artillery (105 mm howitzer-towed).

Based in Pontiac, the 4th Battalion has 290 men.

It is one of two local units—the other being the 2nd Battalion of the 33rd Regiment of the 70th Division.

Both units train at the Army Reserve Center, 40 Walnut.

Pontiac's 4th Battalion formerly was designated as the 579th Field Artillery Battalion. It was reorganized and renumbered in 1959.

Local Army officials said that they had not yet received word of the order to inactivate the battalion.

The Pentagon gave no indication at this time of how the men in the Michigan units would be redesignated. A total of 461 men are involved.

Operation Biggest in City in Years; Run by Alleged Mafia Chief

By JIM LONG

Pontiac and State police staged an early-morning raid today on an alleged gambling den, arresting 29 persons and climaxing four months of undercover work by two Pontiac police officers.

Sixteen policemen took part in the raid on the Seaway Civic and Social Club, 118 S. Paddock, located on the floor above Frank's Dry Cleaners, Auburn and Paddock.

The club was operated by Angelo (Barrels) Lombardi, according to police.

In October 1963, the Detroit gas station owner was named by Detroit Police Commissioner George Edwards, as a section leader in the Mafia, an international crime syndicate.

Instrumental in crushing the operation were Lt. Raymond E. Meggitt and Sgt. Robert C. Gaines, both of whom Lombardi believed to be on his payroll, said Pontiac Police Chief William Hanger.

Hanger, who led the raid, said the chartered club had been under surveillance since late May.

He said it was the biggest gambling operation in Pontiac in many years.

The club, he said, initially was started in downtown Detroit but was moved here last spring.

Inside knowledge of the operation was gained when Meggitt, a 19-year-veteran of the department, was approached in June by Lombardi and asked if he would accept a bribe.

WAS TO INFORM

He was to inform of pending raids or investigations of the operation by other law agencies, police said.

Meggitt told Hanger of the attempted payoff.

Hanger directed Meggitt to play along and take the money until the time his department, State Police and the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office could prepare a case.

It wasn't until this morning that another undercover officer, detective Lowell W. Wild of the Detroit State Police post, was able to enter the club and act as an eyewitness to the operation.

DICE GAME

Police said that when they forced their way into the building, a dice game was being played on a 6-by-12 foot snooker table.

All but six were charged with the misdemeanor of loitering in a gambling establishment.

Three charges were brought against Lombardi, 37, of 20411 Sorrento, Detroit, including bribery, conspiracy to bribe and violating state gaming laws.

In May, Lombardi was arrested by Internal Revenue Service agents in raids on alleged $2-million-a-year numbers racket establishments in Detroit and Oakland County. Nine of the 11 arrested at that time were from Pontiac.

The case is pending in U.S. District Court in Detroit.

Martial Law Proclaimed in Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — Jakarta radio said today martial law had been proclaimed and the capital was in a "state of war."

The broadcast followed an announcement that forces loyal to President Sukarno had smashed an attempt to seize power.

Martial law applied in the Jakarta area and in West Java, the radio said.

It also reported fighting in Central Java where a colonel was reported defying orders to renounce support of the rebels.

The country's political situation remained unclear but the radio station last reported that Sukarno, 64, still was chief of state following a coup against him Thursday, and a counter-coup by loyal army units yesterday.

NO CLUE

The radio reports gave no clue as to Sukarno's whereabouts but said he was safe and well. He appeared for the last time in public Thursday night.

Since early yesterday, Sukarno's palace has been cordoned off by troops stationed several blocks away.

Sukarno's palace guards were on duty despite the fact that Thursday's coup was led by his commander, Lt. Col. Untung.

A newsmen who reached the palace gate through the roadblocks was told by an officer: "The president has no program for the day."

CONFUSION

There was confusion about what actually had taken place. The only available official information were communiques broadcast by Radio Jakarta.

Foreign diplomats in Jakarta said they could not evaluate the situation.

Communications with other countries remained cut but Jakarta. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Saigon Blasts Claim 11; 2 of 42 Hurt Are Yanks

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — Terrorist bomb explosions, hours apart, killed 11 Vietnamese in Saigon today. Among 42 persons wounded were two Americans.

In the air war, two U.S. A-1E Skyraider planes collided during an attack on guerrilla ground gunners near An Khe and a U.S. military spokesman said the pilots and one passenger were killed.

The passenger was identified as Bernard Kolenberg, 38, a photographer for the Albany (N. Y.) Times-Union. On leave from his newspaper, he was working on an assignment for The Associated Press.

In Saigon, the first bomb went off at noon at the base of a steel utility pole near the Cong Hoa National Stadium, a training center for Vietnamese police officers. Police said four children and five police officers were killed.

The explosion took place about 100 yards from three multiple-story military billets and about 100 yards from the U.S. Navy hospital, one of the major American medical facilities in Saigon.

Thirty-two persons were wounded.

The explosion was believed to have been a Claymore type mine, which can be aimed to fire pellets like a shotgun.

A taxi loaded with a bomb exploded in front of a Saigon theater and near three American military billets tonight, killing two Vietnamese passersby and wounding 10 other people, including two Americans.

U.S. military police officers at the scene said the bomb was being carried under the rear seat of the small taxi and that it apparently exploded prematurely in the middle of the street.

Neither of the two wounded Americans was in serious condition.

The explosion took place about 100 yards from three multiple-story military billets and about 100 yards from the U.S. Navy hospital, one of the major American medical facilities in Saigon.

BIRCHERS BLASTED — Gov. Romney tells newsmen in Chicago yesterday that the Republican party must deal with the John Birch Society "just as the Democrats once dealt with Communists in their party." Romney, who addressed the Illinois Chamber of Commerce last night, cited Birch tactics of infiltration and subversion.

By Supreme Soviet

Russia Economic, Job Shake-Up OK'd

MOSCOW (AP) — The Supreme Soviet approved an ambitious economic-reform program and new jobs for Communist Party First Secretary Leonid Brezhnev and younger, rising Soviet leaders today.

In a move that could point toward eventual Kremlin changes, Brezhnev 58, was made a member of the Presidium, or executive committee, of the Parliament. He continues to head the Communist party.

Brezhnev was serving as chairman of the Supreme Soviet's Presidium when he and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin took over power from Nikita Khrushchev last Oct. 14. His return to the body in a lesser capacity lacked an immediate authoritative explanation.

It could mean he is consolidating his power as one of the country's joint leaders by taking on a government as well as a party position. It could be a preliminary to his taking over the chairmanship again if the man now in the job, Anastas Mikoyan, retires (as is rumored) when he turns 70 Nov. 25.

If Brezhnev again became chairman of the presidium — which is equivalent to being the Soviet president — he could be taking a less powerful, more ceremonial position. Or, if he held onto the party leadership, the presidency could be used as an additional base of strength.

ANOTHER CHANGE

In another major change, Dmitry Polyansky, 47, was promoted from deputy premier to first deputy premier. That makes two first deputy premiers. The other is Kirill Mazurov, also 47.

Polyansky, who visited the United States in 1959 when he was premier of the Russian republic, personifies the "new Soviet man" of the younger generation which is rising in the Soviet hierarchy.

He is an expert in agriculture and mining, with a pragmatic, "Let's get things done" approach and friendly manner.

It is the younger generation that is being counted on to make the changes in the Soviet economy, increasing its efficiency by giving more responsibility to the lower levels, and get the country moving ahead faster.

RUBBER STAMP

These changes, proposed by Kosygin, were approved unanimously by the Supreme Soviet, which rubber-stamps the decisions of the party and government leadership. The session lasted only two days.

Konstantin Rudnev, 54, was removed from his post as deputy premier and put in charge of the important Ministry of Machine Tools, a new agency created under the economic reform program.

Nikolai Baibakov, 54, was appointed a deputy premier and assigned to direct the state planning committee, called Gosplan.

Meggett said Lombardi was paying him $400 a month, which he was to share, with Gaines, night supervisor of the sales squad.

In all, Meggett received $2,650. He turned the money over to Hanger each time he was paid off.

Meggett said Lombardi once gave him an additional $50 to buy a graduation gift for one of his two daughters.

DUAL ROLES

According to Hanger, the dual roles played by Meggett and Gaines presented some problems.

"A number of times, I received tips from people who said my officers were on the take. Until now I couldn't defend them for fear of breaking security."

Assistant Prosecutor Patrick Oliver was with police to provide legal aid when the raid was pulled off at 3:45 a.m.

Oliver was one of three assistant prosecutors assigned to the Madison Heights Sten Assembly Club Trial in which all 20 defendants were convicted of gambling charges last month.

AFTER PAYOFF

The raid came just about two hours after Meggett had been paid off by Lombardi during a meeting in a downtown Pontiac parking lot.

The Most Rev. James Augustine Healy, son of an immigrant Irish plasterer and a Georgia slave girl, was the first American Negro to be named a bishop of the Catholic Church. He served as bishop of the Portland, Maine, diocese from 1875 to 1900.

Father Perry, 49, born in Lake Charles, La., was present at the news conference when his appointment was announced by the two arch-bishops. "It was a surprise to me," he said, "I learned about it only yesterday."

Newsmen asked whether Father Perry was the first U.S. Negro Roman Catholic bishop. Archbishop Cody and Hannan consulted some books, and then Father Perry said:

NOT CONSIDERED

"I am the first Negro bishop. The others did not consider themselves Negro."

Father Perry, who served as rector of the Divine Word Major and Minor Seminary at Bay St. Louis, Miss., from 1958 to 1964, was in Rome to participate in consecration ceremonies of another newly named bishop from the Divine Word order, Carlo Lewis, auxiliary bishop of Panama.

Father Perry, a member of the Divine Word Missionaries Order, was named superior of the southern province of the order, with headquarters in Bay St. Louis, in 1964.

Harrod, an employee of General Motors Truck & Coach Division, and Tischer also were charged with conspiracy to bribe.

GROCERY OPERATOR

The other Pontiac man, Mekras, operates a grocery store at 510 S. Paddock, according to police.

Meggett said that Lombardi was paying him $400 a month, which he was to share, with Gaines, night supervisor of the sales squad.

Plans for Wing Get Go-Ahead

"I thought Lombardi was going to have a heart attack when he saw us come in later," said Meggett.

Gaines was not in on the raid because he is on a leave of absence for his health.

In addition to confiscating furniture and fixtures in the establishment, police seized about $400 as evidence.

LIGHT CROWD

Hanger said the small amount of money reflected the fact that there was an "unusually light crowd."

He said his department's investigation revealed that the operation was open every night of the week.

Most of those arrested for loitering are from Detroit.

They are Harvey P. Greenspon, 22; James George, 77; Luigi Laudazio, 22; Zygmunt Pycz, 63; Peter P. Hagos, 67; James T. Elias, 41; Walter Fortka, 74; Edward J. Parrish, 50; Mike J. Manuvelis, 74; and Paul J. Pappas, 63.

Other Detroit residents are Paul Bruselet, 34; Walter W. Baldyga, 17; Samuel J. Greenspon, 63; James J. Karalla, 57; Constantinos Kalopoulos, 57; Markus Jokobek, 53; and Paul Sanders, 42.

Others are Ronald E. Cohen, 21, Oak Park; Daniel H. Richardson, 42, Highland Park; Edward J. Janowski, 52; Frank Manick, 70, both of Hamtramck; Stanley Low, 34, Warren; and Hassan Hachem, 41, Dearborn.

All pleaded innocent to charges when they were arraigned before Municipal Judge Maurice Finnegan.

The preliminary court examination for those charged with conspiracy was set for 9 a.m. Wednesday, while those accused of loitering will appear 10 a.m. Thursday. All were released on bond pending their court dates.

Say Chinese Invade Sikkim

NEW DELHI (UPI) — The Indian defense ministry said about 25 Chinese Communist troops invaded the Himalayan kingdom of Sikkim today and opened fire on a three-man Indian observation post "well inside" Indian territory. The Indians returned the fire.

It was the first exchange of fire since Chinese troops were reported withdrawing from the mountain border areas where they said the Indians had destroyed military installations.

Peking claimed were built on Chinese territory.

The Chinese incursion injected a new note of crisis into the conflict between India and Pakistan which it was hoped would end with the position of a cease fire by the United Nations last week.

There have been many Indo-Pakistani skirmishes since then and open fears the war could start again.

The Defense Ministry said the Chinese Communists surrounded the Indian post and were sitting tight within Indian territory. The fate of the three Indian soldiers was not yet known though the ministry said they fought in the early stages of the high-altitude incursion.

Hunt Ends for Plane; Three Professors Die

WHITE CLOUD (AP) — Federal Aviation Agency officials today began combing the wreckage of a Cessna 172 Skyhawk to determine how the plane crashed in heavy fog early Thursday, killing three Ferris State College instructors.

Search planes, taking advantage of the first clear weather in 36 hours, discovered the crash site three miles northeast of this Newagony County community Friday afternoon.

Killed in the crash were the aircraft's pilot, Dr. Steve Bordonaro, 46, assistant professor in communications; Dr. William

'Aid Mothers of Retarded'

LANSING (AP) — "It's a tragedy not to treat the child, but it's worse to lose the mother and family," a legislator declared Friday as he urged legislation to aid the mothers of retarded children.

Rep. Robert Slingerland, D-Lake Orion, member of the House Mental Health Committee, said he will push next year for legislation that will send mental health care workers into the homes of retarded children to help the mother adjust psychologically and pave the way for otherwise normal family life.

He said his proposed bill would require school authorities to notify mental health departments of any retarded child in the school.

School personnel would consult with parents on placement of the child and mental health workers would work with the mother "to see that the family does not suffer additional strain and break down."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed into law today a bill strengthening federal programs to combat water pollution and said "additional, bolder legislation will be needed in the years ahead."

The three men had flown to Lansing Wednesday to lecture at Lansing Community College and were returning to Reed City when heavy weather forced them to change course. With White Cloud Airport also closed in Bordonaro had asked for a heading on Muskegon Airport.

Police said the wreckage indicated the plane was heading west when it crashed.

U.S. Feels U.N. Won't Admit China in '65

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The United States remained confident today it can keep Communist China out of the United Nations another year despite efforts by Peking supporters to dramatize the issue.

Cambodia used a new tactic Friday. Ambassador Ieng Sam-bath told the General Assembly that Cambodia would boycott the main U.S. committee because Red China's absence had eroded the world organization's ability to cope with critical issues.

In a policy speech peppered with denunciations of the United States, Sam-bath said no international issue can be resolved without the participation of Peking.

The United Nations needs China more than China needs the United Nations," he said.

ECHO ALBANIA

Echoing Thursday's argument by Albania — Red China's voice in the United Nations — Sam-bath denounced U.S. air strikes against North Viet Nam and urged the United Nations to take up what he called American intervention.

He said Cambodia would keep its seat in the General Assembly but would not take part in the work of assembly organs.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, answering attacks on Washington's Viet Nam policy, told the General Assembly Friday the key to peace in South-east Asia lies hidden in North Viet Nam. "For this reason, the United States must continue defending South Viet Nam from the threat of Red engulfment, he said.

Goldberg recalled that the United States had repeatedly expressed willingness to enter "negotiations with any government at any place and any time without conditions on a formula for bringing an honorable end to the Viet Nam war."

ONLY RESPONSES

The only responses, he said, were "contemptuous rejection" from Peking and unacceptable conditions from Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital.

U.S. sources are convinced that recent warlike statements emanating from Peking, and its moves to block U.N. efforts to restore peace between India and Pakistan, will kill any chance Red China might have of getting into the organization this year.

The manifesto by Red Chinese Defense Minister Lin Piao proclaiming a doctrine of revolutionary war around the world and Foreign Minister Chen Yi's statement deriding the United Nations as a bargaining place between U.S. imperialists and the Soviets have provided the Americans with plenty of ammunition.

Missourian Reigns Over African Tribe

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — King Edward I of the African tribe of Bifche in the Republic of Senegal has never seen his country or his people — all 35 of them. The king is Edward C. Schafer, 42, a St. Louis public relations consultant. He was elected king, with hereditary privileges, Jan. 20, 1963.

"Actually those hereditary privileges don't mean much at the moment," said Schafer. "I'm single."

Schafer's path to the throne began in 1962 when he became chairman of a St. Louis committee to help the tribe. It started when a native of Saint-Louis, Senegal, told several American friends the Bifche needed aid. The tribe was holed in a hard row in a semi-arid country 10 miles north of Saint-Louis.

SENDING MONEY

"That committee and the tribe now is called the Kingdom of Bifche," said Schafer.

The committee and the tribe now is called the Kingdom of Bifche," said Schafer.

The committee of 15 St. Louisans began sending money and agricultural information to the tribe. The Bifche, who never knew a king before, decided to elect one.

"They thought our committee was helping them more than anything else and chose the chairman, which happened to be me, as their ruler," Schafer said.

He learned of his election through a Roman Catholic priest assigned to the tribe.

"I wrote to the U.S. State Department and asked them about the election," said Schafer. "GOOD MOVE"

He said the State Department told him it would be a good move to encourage friendly relations, "so I accepted."

"The Bifche are very serious about it," said Schafer. "They write for permission on just about anything from expanding farm production to declaring a holiday."

King Edward appointed the priest, the Rev. Joseph Lambrecht, governor. A tribesman who had attended agricultural school in France, Pierre Clavay-Faye, was named chief of village affairs.

The Bifche have started irrigation canals and have diversified their crops of rice, lettuce and beans. They are attempting to grow cotton "so a saleable crop would be available," Schafer said.

"They are working very hard to improve themselves," he said. "They send us some wood carvings from time to time. We sell them and send the money back to Father Lambrecht for use by the tribe."

"I would like to travel to the village and meet them personally. But up to now, we have felt that the money could best be spent in helping the Bifche."

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODY ISHMAEL

The American Friends Service Committee is an active witness to the Quaker faith and practice. Since its founding in 1917, concerned people of all faiths have worked in all areas of the world with AFSC to alleviate suffering, hardship and misunderstanding. Their helping hand is out to all in need, whether it be public health service in Mexico, community development in Peru, urban problems, youth service, or school desegregation in our own country.

They have worked with refugees in Tunisia, Hong Kong and Austria. No community or problem is too small for their interest and attention.

Their creed "is rooted in the conviction that each human life is sacred, each man a child of God, and that love, expressed through creative action, is the only power that can overcome hatred, prejudices and fear." This truly illustrates the power of faith.

Finding the Way:

World Communion Sunday, 1965

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.

On any Sunday of the year, Christian people gather to worship, to read the Scriptures and to share in the Sacraments of the church. On the first Sunday of October they are conscious of the worldwide observance as well as the local witness. As light makes its way around the planet, and men and women in varying cultures and continents greet a new day, there are those who assemble for worship.

It is ironic to talk of "World Communion Sunday" in a world so concerned with anger and war, it is also heartening to know that this minority continues to gather to worship.

This is why the fact of the Sacrament is impressive. It talks of communion with God and asserts that this fellowship has something to do with the world in which men live. It's a tough assignment if it's done honestly by people and their clergy.

Langdon Gilkey phrases the question, "How are we to talk of God's rule over our history when Birmingham is so stubborn, Chicago's ghetto so crushing and Dallas so utterly meaningless? How can we speak to this age of God?" It puts any honest man into tension.

That's World Communion Sunday, 1965. As each little company of believers gathers, worshipping in a thousand different languages, participating in a multiplicity of ceremonies in the common meal of bread and wine, there is a local and provincial event. Multiply that in terms of the peoples of a planet and it has worldwide significance.

The bread and wine are brought into these churches, and what happens in that worship must be carried out from those churches. The importance of the local moment of forgiveness, repentance and love is valid as it sends people of reconciliation into the tough situations of our day.

A television commentator recently asked an official of NASA whether an ordinary citizen, suddenly placed in a capsule of an earth-orbiting satellite, would be able to survive. The official thought that he might but he also was certain that he'd be frightened and speechless.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Saturday, Oct. 2, the 27th day of 1965 with 90 to follow.

The moon is in its first quarter.

The morning star is Jupiter.

The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

Indian leader Mohandas Gandhi was born on this day in 1869.

On this day in history:
In 1780, British spy Major John Andre was convicted in connection with Benedict Arnold's treason and hanged at Tappan, N.Y.

In 1889, 16 Latin American countries were represented at the first Pan-American Conference in Washington.

In 1918, President Woodrow Wilson suffered a stroke and his left side was paralyzed.

In 1960, a bomb blast in New York City's Times Square injured several hundred persons.

Merit in City's Plan to Solve Area Issue

Culminating a year-long legal effort on the part of Congress Street residents to restrict the operations of the Sam Allen & Sons scrap yard on the grounds that it is a public nuisance, the City Commission has moved to sell the firm a 35-acre tract from the 212 acres the City recently annexed from Pontiac Township for a sanitary land-fill site.

In exchange, the scrap firm would vacate and transfer its present 22.7-acre holding to the City for a price of $24,000. This amount would be credited against the $99,778 the firm has agreed to pay for its new site.

The two-way transaction, however, is presently stymied by a suit to nullify the City's annexation of township acreage by a township supervisor and two residents. The bill of complaint alleges that the proposed use of the property would be detrimental to the area.

Despite such objection, we strongly urge that both land-fill project and scrap yard relocation be resolved in accordance with the City Hall plan. It would in effect kill two birds with one stone, and bring to an end the drawn out litigation over the operation of the present scrap yard.

It is axiomatic that little progress is possible without inconvenience or disaffection for some.

The extension of our rail network across the Nation, that began a century ago, entailed adjustment on the part of farmers to encroachment of rights-of-way across their lands. Similarly, the vast complex of interstate highways has disrupted a small minority that the great majority might benefit.

So it is with municipal measures to keep pace with population growth and augmented services required by residents. But where acquisition of property is necessary, it is effected with due regard for legality and equitable compensation for property owners affected.

As a philosopher well put it, "Nothing is so changeless as change." If our community is to enjoy progress, we must philosophically accept the changes that accompany it.

Trial of Troy Family an Indictment of State

To pass judgment on the complex pattern of circumstances which recently enmeshed the THORNE family would be to presume the wisdom of Solomon. Few mortals are so endowed.

But as the picture of prolonged parental anguish emerged, what at first seemed to be an incredible act of a mother's abandonment of her sick offspring takes shape as a deed of desperation by a parent whose mental stability has suffered from the unremitting trial to which it was subjected.

Maternal love, it is true, transcends all other human emotions; and does not condone desertion of its own flesh and blood. But the quality is, after all, embodied in human form, which is not always proof against the vicissitudes of fate.

Along with the parents of RICKY THORNE, all thoughtful persons will find comfort in knowing that the unfortunate boy has at last found a haven.

But for Michiganders the THORNE case points an accusing finger at the State's alarming lack of institutional facilities for the proper care of mentally-retarded youngsters.

In asserting that they were unable to find adequate care for their son in their home state and hence were obliged to look elsewhere — to Florida, in this instance — it might have been thought that the THORNEs' attitude stemmed from inconclusive survey of Michigan's resources.

Their conviction, however, has been unequivocally supported by authorities in the field wherein the care sought should have been available.

Until the State expeditiously moves to correct the shame reflected upon it by the Thorne tragedy, the citizenry can but feel a deep sense of responsibility for the events that focused the national spotlight on a distraught family and for the probability that there are many more comparable situations that have not had public airing.

Immigration Act Product of Era

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — The new immigration act may look like just one more item in the long list of accomplishments by the 1965 Congress, but it is more than that.

It is part and product of a turbulent time—the past 20 years — which future historians will probably consider the most revolutionary period in the history of man.

In those 20 years: The great colonial powers, exhausted by war, surrendered their possessions. Men everywhere, and of all races, developed a sense of freedom or nationalism or, in most places, an appreciation for the dignity of man.

The United States was swept along in this global revolution in thinking and, gradually and grudgingly, particularly in the South, began to undo centuries of segregated injustice to Negroes.

The immigration bill passed Thursday by both houses, ending 41 years of limiting immigration by nationality, is simply an extension of the new, but far from complete American revolution against discrimination.

It has a more immediately practical side, of course, since it is hardly intelligent for the United States to discriminate among nations when it is trying to be friends, if not allies.

The world itself has passed beyond the simple primitive days of unsophisticated contests between nations, although they persisted, and now was in the great contest between ideologies.

Meanwhile 117 nations, through the United Nations, for the first time truly began to cooperate to preserve peace although they have yet to prove they can try it indefinitely or achieve it absolutely.

In these 20 years, the United States has been having multiple revolutions within itself: in social welfare, political representation, automation, labor relations, education, religious tolerance, medicine and crime.

So, while the immigration act definitely leads into the mainstream of the mid-century life of the United States and the world, it is still only one of many tributes.

Jaycees Ask Cooperation to Fight Mental Illness

After reading and listening to the reports on the Ricky Thorne family, I couldn't help but wonder if there are other families in the area with similar problems. The fight against mental disabilities has enjoyed much success. There are workshops, schools, parent groups and hospitals working with these people.

I must add there is a great need for more workshops and schools, but this can only be done with the support of the people. If a member of your family is mentally retarded or emotionally disturbed and you would like to know where you can get help, please contact a member of your local Jaycee chapter.

The Jaycee's major project is to fight mental illness and mental retardation. Unfortunately, few people know or care enough about mental disabilities to make this an easy job.

Tells Responsibility of Mothers in Divorce

I, too, am for equal rights in divorce. But more rights for men? You must be kidding. We women must be forced, unwillingly and without work. We give of ourselves 24 hours a day, seven days a week for 18 years and beyond.

Speaking of the human machine breaking down, what mother can afford the luxury of a sick leave? We might be missing on all cylinders but 24-hour child care goes on.

I'd like to know what man would feel fair and equal in caring for his children after divorce. I get the impression that helping to feed and clothe is a strain on the male human machine.

'Senators Should Vote Against 14B Repeal'

I note with regret that the U. S. House of Representatives passed the resolution for repeal of Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act. In one sense no state should need a right-to-work law, but the lawmakers in Congress have made such a shambles of our constitutionally guaranteed freedoms that some states have felt it desirable to enact these laws in order to bring some semblance of order out of the federally-created chaos.

I believe that the trend toward centralized, coercive collectivism has to be stopped in this country and we must cease allowing the Federal government to inject itself into matters that constitutionally belong to the states. I believe that in the current session of the Senate our Michigan Senators should summon the courage to cast a vote against any Senate resolution to repeal 14B.

Washington Notebook:

'Team' Information Is Channeled

By WASHINGTON STAFF
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Reporters have gripped vehemently over the last year or so about the difficulties in getting information from the State Department. Now, it develops, some government officials themselves are complaining about the same problem.

A U. S. Information Agency (USIA) official phoned a State Department information officer the other day to get a few statistics. The latter's answer was a blunt and un diplomatic "I'll have to clear it through higher channels before I can tell you anything."

"Look, we both work for the government!" the USIA man exploded. "We're on the same team!"

Later he admitted ruefully: "It didn't do me any good at all."

A time-worn Washington social custom is the "fake telegram" gag at farewell parties. This custom was well observed when a group of close friends gathered to say good-bye to Richard Goodwin, who recently resigned as a White House speech writer. Some samples:

From President Johnson:

"The news of your departure leaves me speechless."

From ousted Dominican Republic Gen. Wessin y Wessin:

"At least, you left voluntarily. From Arthur Schlesinger to President Johnson: 'I said Dean Rusk, not Dick Goodwin.'"

To illustrate his belief that quality rather than quantity should be stressed in Armed Forces management, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, uses a report alleged to have been uncovered in Japan after World War II.

Supposedly submitted to Japanese Intelligence by an American-based spy, it reads:

"It is useless to bomb Washington. If you completely destroy one building and everyone in it you accomplish nothing, for the Americans already have two other buildings completely staffed with people doing exactly the same thing."

The latest Republican gag on Capitol Hill is this definition of an old-timer:

"A guy who thinks 'U. S. Grant' was a bearded Civil War general rather than a federal subsidy."

A reporter walked into a Washington library recently and asked a clerk if the library had any books on race relations in Maryland. After checking a few cards, the clerk answered in the affirmative.

A few minutes later, he proudly handed the newsmen a book entitled, "The Insider's Guide to Maryland Race Tracks."

Waterford Board to Get Request for Walkways

Parents from the Cass-Elizabeth and Hatchery neighborhoods will carry their fight for better walking standards for their school-age children to the Waterford Township Board Monday night.

On the basis of a visit to a Board of Education meeting last week, it is expected the parents will ask for construction of gravel walkways.

They contend that their children, who attend Pierce Junior High School and Lambert Elementary School, are forced to walk hazardous routes to and from school. The Board of Education is currently conducting a study on the issue.

In other business Monday night, the township board will hear a rezoning request for the proposed development of a $4-million project.

60-ACRE PARCEL

The 60-acre parcel of land involved in the proposed development is located on the northeast corner of Cass-Elizabeth and Cooley Lake.

It would contain new homes, an 18-hole golf course and a beach. David Zaehke is the applicant.

The land is presently zoned, agricultural and small farm district.

Also Monday night, the board will consider two requests of the Library Advisory Board.

The library board will ask for upwards of $500 to hire a consultant to review millage powers of the library and will seek permission to advertise for a qualified librarian.

Red Cross Teachers Scheduled to Meet

Red Cross instructors in first aid and water safety are asked to attend a meeting Oct. 12 to discuss the newly organized Southeastern Michigan chapter.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the United Foundation Building, 132 Franklin Blvd.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — St. Louis apparently lost its 1963-64 season Friday night as a mid-night deadline set for agreement on a new union contract passed without a settlement.

Jobs on Outside to Prepare Many Convicts for Release

WASHINGTON (AP) — For hundreds of federal prisoners who yearn for something better, prison walls are about to become "something you return to at night" when other men are returning to their homes.

They will be given a chance to prepare a place for themselves in the nation's labor force in hopes of easing transition to freedom when their sentences are up—a shock that often leads them back to prison.

They will be turned loose from 10 federal institutions each morning, to travel to jobs, work beside free men and return voluntarily to their cells in the evening.

For every step of the way they will be on their own — unescorted, unwatched.

The "work relief program" for which the Federal Bureau of Prisons is now setting machinery into motion, is a provision of the prisoner rehabilitation law signed by President Johnson Sept. 10.

It marks another step in the long campaign to transform

U.S. penal institutions from dark holes of confinement and despair to colonies where men who have strayed from the path of lawfulness can make a stab at redirecting their lives.

Another provision of the law became reality this week when a car thief was freed from the Atlanta Penitentiary for a day to visit his dying mother in Chattanooga, Tenn. He was without a prison escort and returned on time.

The law also provides for the establishment of an adult version of "halfway houses"—pre-release guidance centers—that have proved effective with young offenders in easing the transition from prison to private life.

Myrl E. Alexander, director of the Bureau of Prisons, said in an interview a surprising number of community organizations have indicated a willingness to accept workers from nearby institutions.

But he said there would be a gradual approach to the program.

During early months of the work release program, implementation will be limited to 10 institutions where minimum custody is the rule rather than the exception.

Eligible prisoners from the major security institutions such as those at Leavenworth, Kan., and Marion, Ill., may be transferred to prisons taking part in the program.

These are the institutions at Englewood, Colo.; El Reno, Okla.; Chillicothe, Ohio; Terminal Island, Calif.; Ashland, Ky.; Petersburg, Va.; the National

Fisher Body's Oldest

Woman Employee Retires

The alarm clock didn't ring yesterday morning in the Waterford Township home of the William P. Kellys. Instead, the clock just ticked.

For almost the first time in nearly a half-century, both William and Eleanor Kelly slept in.

"We slept in, but not too late," said Mrs. Kelly on the first day of her retirement from Fisher Body Division of General Motors Corp.

"It was nice to wake up without the alarm."

Honored at a retirement party last night, Mrs. Kelly can lay claim to being the oldest woman, in terms of service, to retire from Fisher Body.

Mrs. Kelly of 2331 Edgefield, began work in 1918 at the old auto plant at Baldwin and Oakland.

Working on the old Oakland car, she said she began on a piecework basis, earning 15-18 cents per hour and working 10 hours a day.

Beginning in the sewing room, Mrs. Kelly ended her work career Thursday doing much the same work in Fisher Body's cushion repair department.

Between 1918 and 1965, she said the pay and working conditions had improved, the work speeded up, the work hours were cut and the equipment modernized.

Had she ever thought of quitting?

"Yes, but the conditions were never right."

What are her plans?

"As soon as we get organized we'd like to travel, but primarily we want to live a little slower."

Her husband is happiest about Mrs. Kelly's retirement. In his mid-70s, he retired from Pontiac Motor Division about ten years ago.

Dedication service for the main building on West Huron Street at Franklin Boulevard will be read by Mrs. Percy Jones, former religious emphasis chairman on the YW board.

The service she will use was written by Mrs. Maude Pino, past president of the YWCA of Metropolitan Detroit, for use in dedicatory rites of four new branch buildings several years ago.

Servind Netzler, a music major at Oakland University and son of the YW executive director, Mrs. Sixten Netzler, will sing two solos. He will be accompanied by Linda Schimmelman.

During the open house before and after the program, hostesses will conduct tours of the new facilities and preside at the refreshment table. Present and former members of the board of directors have been asked to assume these duties.

Talk of the Town Now, but Gossip Will Cease

By ABIGAIL VAN VUREN DEAR ABBY: My husband's brother put an ad in our local paper asking for information on his wife's running around with other men. I understand he got a lot of answers and is using them to prove his wife is an unfit mother. As far as I am concerned our family's name in this town is mud. I told my husband that if he didn't prove the kids and me away from here, I was going to leave him.

He says that just because his brother is a jackass doesn't mean that he is one, too. And besides, he says that he has too much invested in his business here just to pick up and move because of the talk.

What should I do? OUR NAME IS MUD DEAR MUD: It takes only one jackass to make a laughingstock of an entire family. The talk will die down eventually, so stay with your husband. Moving away is no solution. "Talk" has a way of moving, too.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who asks his wife to dig into her purse to settle a bill in a restaurant? That's my husband. Although everyone knows I work, I would just as soon preserve the illusion that my husband is the breadwinner of the family.

It's not the money. I wouldn't mind giving him the money at home if he's "short" or forgot to cash a check, but I think it looks terrible for outsiders to see a woman paying for things when she's with a man. How do I put a stop to this? He laughingly calls me his—

"CASH REGISTER." DEAR CASH: Get the finances straightened out at home and tell hubby that from now on the "Cash Register" is ringing up No Sale in public.

DEAR ABBY: For the past year I've been riding to work and back with a man who works where I work. He is a lot older than me, married (so am I) and I assure you he means nothing to me but free transportation.

The other morning, on the way to work, this man said to me, "In case anyone asks you, you are paying for these rides because that's what I told my wife and I don't want a liar made out of me." Abby, I don't know his wife and can't imagine where I would ever meet her, but this bothered me. Sure, these rides save me a lot of money, and I appreciate them, but I don't like this set-up.

The man has never gotten out of line, although he has asked some rather personal questions, but I always changed the subject. What should I do?

RIDING ALONG DEAR RIDING: Find another mode of transportation. Money isn't everything. If you sleep with dogs, you'll get up with fleas.

Problems? Write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BEADED LACE Motifs of beaded Peau d'Ange lace trimmed an ivory beau de sole sheath gown for the bride who wore a mantilla of silk illusion edged with matching lace. Her flowers were white orchids and Stephanotis.

Mrs. Donald J. Conlon of Southfield was matron of honor with bridesmaids, Mrs. Richard Schrieber of Atlanta, Ga., Joan Fellrath of Detroit, June bridesmaid and flower girls were Lisa and Ellen Berry.

Stewart Arens of West End, N.J. served as best man. Ushers included Bruce Andrews, Allen Lewis, Kent Campbell, Raymond and John Conlon and Donald J. Conlon.

BERMUDA HONEYMOON Following a reception in the Detroit Golf Club, the newlyweds left for a honeymoon in Bermuda.

Area Folk Lend Talents Symphony Opens

Felix Resnick will raise his baton Tuesday evening in Pontiac Northern High School Auditorium to open the 12th season of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra. It is his fifth year with the local organization.

DUO PIANISTS In addition to the some 70 members of the orchestra, concert-goers will hear Luboshutz and Nemenoff, duo pianists. They are both members of the staff of Michigan State University.

For their part of the program they will play the Martin Concerto for Two Pianos and Orchestra. This was written for and dedicated to them by the late Rumanian-born composer.

Orchestral selections will include "Ein Kleine Nacht musik" by Mozart; the Overture to "Die Meistersinger" by Wagner; "The Moldau" by Smetana; and "Pavane for a Dead Infanta" by Ravel.

MEMBERSHIP Membership in the Pontiac Symphony is not limited to professional musicians. Only a few of the members pursue a full-time musical career.

Jack Boesen, concertmaster and first chair violinist, plays with the Detroit Symphony and chamber music groups and teaches violin.

Edward Sauve who plays French horn has performed with the famous Montovani orchestra and is assistant first French horn in the Detroit orchestra.

Nearly a score of area public school music teachers are orchestra members.

NOT ALL PROS But the players are not all such pros. Many of them come week after week to rehearsal and practice at home simply because they love music and the discipline of playing with an orchestra.

A sampling of such individuals would include Jay Young who studied trombone under Dale Harris, had a milk route for a few years and is now a sales supervisor at a local dairy.

It would point to Doris Thompson, a housewife—Bob Button, an insurance agent who plays with both Pontiac and Flint symphonies—Susy Lyon, secretary, and Louis Surowitz, a Saginaw street merchant—or Irvin Posten, an engineer.

Backstage, Mrs. Gordon Boice, symphony manager, attends to details like issuing music, taking attendance, making up the payroll and dispensing coffee. She is a clerk at Pontiac General Hospital by day.

Celia Merrill Turner, the symphony's associate conductor, combines her musical career (she is a graduate of Juilliard) with that of wife, mother and producer-director-actress at Will-O-Way Apprentice Theater.

Each member of the orchestra, including the high school students who participate, considers music an important part of his life and membership in the Pontiac Symphony an interesting outlet.

ALWAYS OPEN Orchestra membership is always open to qualified individuals. Mrs. James Rosenblatt, West Iroquois Road, will arrange an audition for anyone who is interested.

The concert Tuesday begins at 8:30 p.m.

Outlining Plans for New Year

Will Way Out Outfits 'Go-Go' With Women

By JEANNE NELSON Step into a WAY OUT. Can you guess what the young lady in this picture does for a living? Is she an A-Go-Go dancer? Maybe she's a girl a dancer. An entertainer? Perhaps she's a car hop. Nope! Not even close.

Karen Weines of Madison Heights is a hair stylist at the Pontiac Mail. And this is her uniform.

Different? Well it's that all right.

GREEN AND BLUE The custom-designed dress is made of hopsacking in olive green and (although not recognizable in the picture) trimmed with powder blue stitching. Hemlines are a little below mid-thigh.

Powder blue lace lights are worn with mid-calf matching boots.

The uniform can be worn in any season.

When performing tasks such as bleaching, or tinting, the operator dons a light blue plastic apron that attaches to the front panel of the frock.

Donnell Thomas, owner of the shop, admits that not all his operators are as youthful as Karen and some have doubts about the length of the dress.

LOWERED HELMS However, this was solved by a lowered hemline and, instead of the mid-calf boot, and ankle boot is worn.

Asked about customer reaction to the innovation, the beauty shop owner replied that he anticipates an acceptance of the idea and expects it to prompt other shops to follow suit.

Karen Weines of Madison Heights models her working wardrobe. Can you guess what she does?

Dolls Teach Little Girls About Style

Female dolls, like females, have a right to be fussy. And if little girls want to change their dolls' hair color, dab some rouge on her cheeks, or apply some lipstick occasionally, why not? The fact of the matter is that the young ladies can glamorize their dolls now, and instantly, too.

GROWING UP

From market research, a toy corporation and a leading manufacturer of dolls, has learned that children thoroughly enjoy the cosmetic functions of growing up. Children practice for the future with their dolls.

Dolls have become do-it-yourself teaching aids for in-home instruction to little girls on style and clothing-cosmetic coordination.

From their dress-up dolls, the little ladies learn to match greens with yellows and to avoid stripes with plaids. Awaiting the day when they will be allowed to dab their own lips with frosted shocking pink, the youngsters now have insisted that their dolls be permitted the privilege of using make-up.

"Glamor Misty" and her many doll companions have satisfied the desires of these children by including a make-up bar with each of their clothing ensembles. And toy manufacturers have gone even one step further.

They have introduced dolls to teach the little ladies that redheads look best in green, brunettes in red, and blondes in blue. That's right, it's possible these days to dye a doll's hair.

'Anxiety Factor in Pilot Error'

Finding Contained in Pontiac Intern's Study

Anxiety and its role in airplane accidents attributed to "pilot error" is the subject of research compiled recently by a Pontiac General Hospital intern.

Dr. Durand Benjamin Jr., in a senior-year term paper, applied data on anxiety in commercial and military air mishaps to the field of general or private aviation.

Pilot errors, as opposed to mechanical malfunctions, are the cause of 80 per cent of aircraft accidents annually, he said.

Dr. Benjamin, who emphasizes that his work consisted strictly of library research, offers a case for adequate psychological and medical examination of prospective aviators.

The new Pontiac General intern suggests that drastic results are likely if the pilot uses flying as release for his emotions like the motorist uses an automobile.

Defining anxiety as a state of heightened tension, Dr. Benjamin said that anxiety may decrease a pilot's altitude tolerance or "ceiling."

The decrease in an anxious individual's "ceiling" can be affected by several thousand feet. "Ceiling" is the altitude at which a pilot can fly without an oxygen supply.

Similarly, the doctors research showed that anxiety can accelerate fatigue and decrease performance.

Also, a pilot's field of attention can be affected by anxiety, specifically in two ways. First, Dr. Benjamin said there is the phenomenon of "fascination."

TOO INTENSE

Fascination can be a factor because of too-intense concentration.

As an example, he cited the experience of a student pilot who had been practicing emergency landings.

After two unsuccessful approaches, the student was determined to make a good approach.

On the third try both the pilot and the instructor were so engrossed that they failed to hear a warning horn and landed with the wheels in the up position.

DIFFERENT FORM

A second but different form of fascination occurs when the pilot becomes too relaxed. This most often happens during dull, uneventful "perfect weather" flights.

Thus, anxiety can cause too-intense concentration and also preoccupation. Both can lead to accidents, he said.

Dr. Benjamin, who had a published account of his findings printed in "The Flying Physician" magazine, hopes some day to obtain his pilot's license.

He spent six months in flight training while in the Navy.

"Flying is sort of infectious," he explained. "Once you get the bug you don't get rid of it."

Sentence Pair Whose Arrest Led to Riots

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two brothers whose arrest allegedly sparked the massive Los Angeles riots last August were sentenced after a judge refused to allow them to change their guilty pleas.

Marquette Frye, 21, and Ronald Frye, 22, had asked last Sept. 2 to be allowed to withdraw the pleas, but Municipal Court Judge Mary E. Waters denied the motion Friday.

Marquette was given a partially suspended 180-day jail sentence and placed on three years' probation on charges of battery, malicious injury of property and drunken driving. He will spend the first 30 days in jail.

Ronald received a 120-day suspended county jail sentence, was fined $50 and placed on three years' probation on a charge of interfering with a peace officer.

Home Reveals Artistic Talent

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

The exciting contemporary home of the Martin E. Reinert, Kirk Lane, Troy, reveals artistic and creative talent throughout.

Though neither of the Reinerts are artists per se, they both have a highly developed and enviable color and design sense.

Not for a moment do the clean contemporary lines of the furnishings and accessories impart the feeling of impersonal coldness.

Rich splashes of color complement one another as they flow from room to room.

SUNLIGHT BACKDROP

In the walnut-paneled family room, the multicolored diamonds of Danish, Flemish and Dutch glass create a focal point of beauty highlighted by a backdrop of sunlight.

The turquoise fireplace, set on a base of white stones, is illuminated by cut-work cylinders. Screening the door and window which overlook the pool area are walnut drop curtains.

Grouped on the redwood bench in front of the olive green vinyl sofa are candlesticks from Hong Kong, a blue glass bauble and a green glass jug.

A Turkish throw of blues and greens introduces a texture contrast and emphasizes the arrangement's color.

The bench was made by the Reinerts' son, Marc, a sophomore at Oakland University.

Centering the sculptured white shag before the living room's white brick fireplace is a round fruitwood finished table.

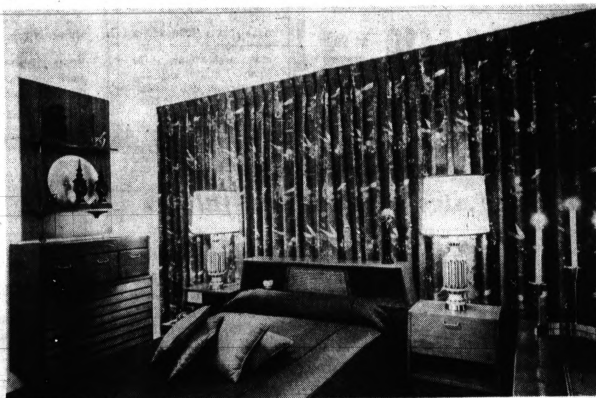

An abstract figurine in walnut and Danish white glass add decorator touches.

U-SHAPED RANCH: The bedroom wing on the left and the well-designed garage on the right enclose the spacious front porch of this compact ranch house, giving it a friendly appearance and providing a practical room arrangement.

'U' Ranch Avoids the Long, Low Look

A ranch house, with all the rooms on a single floor, must have a certain amount of length to it to avoid a square or boxy look.

There are reasons, however, why most ranches do not have the rooms strung out in a straight line.

For one thing, a plot with enough frontage for that type of house is not always available.

For another, many persons are not sold on the idea of a house with a long, low look, although it must be admitted that some seek out just such a design.

For those who like the basic ranch style and have neither the land nor the desire for a house with a lengthy front, the U-shaped plan is ideal.

NO STAIRS

It has the important ranch advantage of no stairs to climb during housekeeping chores and at bedtime, cutting down on the length of the house, gives it a welcoming look, and provides an interior arrangement that is highly suitable for easy livability.

An excellent example of a U-shaped ranch is Design G-4, created for the House of the Week series by architect Herbert C. Struppman.

From the wide gracious entrance porch, sheltered by the wings of the bedrooms and double garage, one gets an immediate appearance of comfort.

The handsome living room windows provide a view of the front garden or lawn and the street, but still offer the family privacy because of the width of the portico.

It is always somewhat surprising what a sight and sound buffer this open yet sheltered area can provide.

The interior plan makes the best use of the "U." Minimum halls, but enough for a good flow of traffic, are used.

Thus, the bedroom wing includes a feeling of space and isolation.

CENTER AREA

Its center area is efficient, with two baths back to back and a closet complex that would do credit to a more costly house.

For the parents' room, the full bathroom and huge closets act as a privacy shield — a kind of twin vestibule that makes this room a real suite and frees every foot of it for furniture placement.

No youngster would complain about the rear bedrooms.

They have a closet-wall between, offering almost 13' of storage space to the two rooms.

The living room is nicely scaled, with its highlights of front window area and side fireplace making it most adaptable to formal decor.

You can be comfortable in a room like this no matter how you handle it.

Through an arch at the back, the dining room is square and suitable for a family room if this is preferred to a separate dining room.

PRACTICAL PLAN

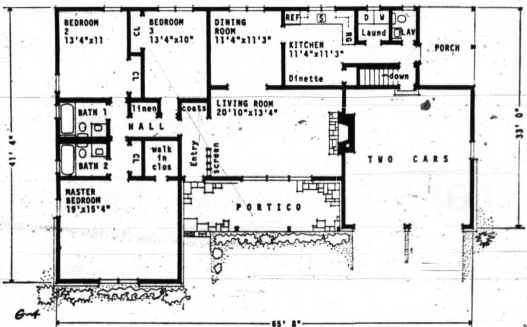

The service and utility areas complete a practical floor plan. A nice square kitchen has a dinette corner and a step-saving L counter for appliances and kitchen storage.

A big pantry closet is a feature. To the side, there's a windowed laundry section with a lavatory adjacent.

A secluded back porch is big enough to be used as a play area.

The service door via the porch and the garage access to the back vestibule make it easier to keep back-door traffic where it belongs.

The 1600 square feet of habitable area are utilized to the utmost in this well-planned, comfortable house.

FLOOR PLAN: The slightly different and excellent floor layout of this ranch is made possible by the structural placement designed by architect Herbert Struppman, the U-shape eliminating a too-lengthy frontage.

G-4 STATISTICS

Design G-4 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, laundry area, three bedrooms, two baths, a lavatory, a rear porch, a two-car garage and a front portico. The habitable area totals 1,600 square feet, not including the garage and porches. Over-all dimensions, which include everything, are 65' 8" by 41' 4".

Minor Jobs Not Difficult

There are many ways in which the homeowner can protect the plumbing in his home from needless wear and tear. There are likewise many minor plumbing repair jobs the homeowner can accomplish, jobs most plumbing contracts would actually rather you did yourself. The good plumbing contractor, like the good doctor, is quick to respond to an emergency call and is, of course, available to care for any "illness" of a plumbing system. But having to be constantly on call for very minor jobs may mean that someone with a major problem cannot get immediate service.

To let the homeowner know of the many small things he can do to protect his valuable plumbing system, the booklet title, "Plumbing Care and Repair." It is available for 15 cents from the Bureau at 25 East Wacker Drive, Chicago, Illinois 60601.

There are 20 subjects covered in the booklet, including drains and fittings, care of all plumbing fixtures, water heaters, leaky and frozen pipes, noises in the plumbing systems, shut-off valves, etc.

The booklet explains what the average homeowner can do in the way of plumbing repairs, and what should be left to the expert, the qualified plumbing contractor.

Advice given in the booklet is in down-to-earth language, and easily understood. Where necessary, simple diagrams illustrate the valuable tips.

Be Prepared!

What to Do if Power Failure Strikes

Power failures can come at any time of the year, but they are most likely during bad weather.

Lines can be blown down by high winds and rain, can sag and snap under the weight of ice and snow.

Low temperatures make power lines brittle, more susceptible to breaking.

There are things you can do about the resulting discomfort and problems a power failure brings on, but nothing you can do about the failure itself.

Stay away from downed power wires. Notify the police of the location of downed wires and they'll set up barricades.

PREDICAMENT

Indoors there is the problem of getting along without electricity.

This means no lights, no appliances, often no heat since automatic furnaces need electricity for controls and forced air systems require it for blowers.

If you have an electric stove you lack a means to cook.

An emergency supply of candles and several flashlights belong in every home.

Disconnect all appliances immediately — those that run continuously on electricity.

These include refrigerators, freezers, furnace blowers and electric pumps.

Often power is restored at only partial voltage. Motors will work harder trying to make up for less power and will cause damage to windings and contacts.

Keep a lamp plugged in where you can see it easily.

When power is restored, observe the lamp. If it glows feebly, then you have only partial voltage.

Once the light starts glowing brightly you can start connecting appliances, one at a time.

Even if power were restored at full voltage, it is wise to have appliances disconnected.

Everything going on at once could cause an overload if the wiring in your house is just barely adequate.

Avoid opening and closing refrigerators and freezers as much as possible.

If you keep the freezer closed its contents will keep for 36 to 48 hours. Food in a refrigerator will not last quite as long.

EMERGENCY COOKING

If you use electricity for cooking, then some emergency means of cooking should be provided.

Small camp stoves can be used to prepare hot food. Propane stoves are efficient.

Small, folding stoves using canned heat are less efficient, but are cheaper.

Use these in a well ventilated room. You also can use the portable grill you normally use in summer.

But do so in an open garage or open porch. Aside from smoke, the fumes from the charcoal can be dangerous in a confined area.

If you have a fireplace that's usable you have a source of heat until power is restored.

It's a source of heat, that is, if you have remembered to have a stock of dry wood handy.

Keep the family in the one room with the fireplace if your house is so equipped, or in the room in which you are cooking.

Open and close outside doors as little as possible.

Try to use outdoor entrances that do not open directly into a room but into a hall or foyer that can be closed off.

Close off unused rooms and a tight.

Architects Save Money for Buyers

Many persons consider an architect as a man who "draws plans" for a home. He does, but actually this is a minor part of his job. His real purpose is to save you time, money and anguish in turning your dream home into an actual structure.

His first step in stretching each penny of your building dollar may be to analyze your family's living habits and requirements and match them to your financial resources.

Too, he will assist in choosing a building site. Professional advice in this matter has become increasingly important since suitable land is getting so scarce.

The architect also can specify every item that goes into construction, down to the shape and color of ceramic tile.

The value of his skill in preparing specifications is important because anything not covered may be considered an extra by the contractor, and charged accordingly.

DESCRIBE WORK

The specifications also describe the work to be done and list operations under major classifications.

This may save time (and money) in the event that workmen disagree over building procedures.

Architects also contribute to home building efficiency by selecting contractors who offer reliability at a fair price.

They also can help select quality building materials.

Power Failure?

Disconnect all appliances immediately. When the power is restored, full voltage could cause an overload. Partial voltage will cause motor damage.

2nd Sign-Up Period Starts for Supplementary Medicare Plan

By JOHN TROAN

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. WASHINGTON—Is your 65th birthday in January?

If so, yesterday was the first day on which you could have signed up for supplementary Medicare insurance.

The supplementary insurance will help pay for doctor bills, out-of-hospital diagnostic tests and other health services not provided to persons past 65 by the Basic Medicare Plan.

The Basic Plan, financed by Social Security taxes, will offer hospital and nursing home benefits as well as some services in the patient's own home following hospitalization.

The supplementary insurance will cost an individual $3 a month. Premiums will start next July, the same month benefits become available.

An estimated 19 million persons will be eligible for supplementary insurance by mid-1966. SIGNUP STARTED Initial enrollment began Sept. 1 for persons who already were 65 or will be before the end of this year. They have until March 31 to sign up.

Folks who will become 65 in January have from now until April 30 to enroll. Those who will reach 65 next February may begin signing up Nov. 1. Persons signing up next March may start enrolling Dec. 1.

Those who will be 65 in April may start signing up Jan. 3. Persons reaching 65 next May, may begin enrolling Feb. 1. And those who will be 65 next June may start signing up March 1.

The Social Security Administration will begin distributing Medicare identification cards next April, and everybody who is signed up should have one before July 1, 1966, when benefits first become available.

MAIL SERVICE

Those drawing monthly Social Security, Railroad Retirement or Civil Service retirement checks are receiving applications in the mail.

About 10 million such applications already have been sent out. Mailing will continue until all eligibles on the Social Security, Railroad Retirement and Civil Service rolls are contacted.

A postage-free envelope is supplied for return of the application, on which each person is asked to specify whether or not he wants the supplementary coverage in addition to the basic Medicare benefits to which he may be automatically entitled.

Similar applications are being mailed to anyone past 65 who has established eligibility for cash Social Security benefits but isn't collecting them at the moment because, for instance, he's earning too much money to draw monthly checks.

LONG ENOUGH

Persons past 65 who have worked long enough under Social Security to qualify for cash benefits but who have not yet filed a claim may do so right now — even if they are still working.

Such claims will be processed immediately. If eligibility is established, the individual will be automatically signed up for the Basic Medicare Program and offered a chance to apply for mail for the supplementary insurance.

About two million persons in the 65-plus group can't qualify for Social Security, Railroad Retirement or Civil Service retirement.

Some of them are on relief. Welfare agencies are letting them know about their basic Medicare benefits and about how they may sign up for the supplementary insurance.

The rest must go to Social Security offices to enroll for Medicare. Even if they don't want to buy the supplementary insurance, they'll have to register for the basic benefits. Otherwise, they won't qualify for anything.

More than 60 million pieces of mail came into the United States in 1963-64.

Holiest Day of Jewish Calendar

Yom Kippur Starts Tuesday

Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, is the most solemn of Jewish festivals.

It is a 24-hour period completely given over to the confession of sins and remorse over wrongdoing. It is a day of seeking pardon from a person whom one may have offended by word or deed.

From sunset to sunset Jews are expected to observe complete abstinence from food and drink, and to assemble in their houses of worship for prayer.

Yom Kippur culminates the 10-day repentance period.

Like all Jewish holidays Yom Kippur begins at sundown of the previous day.

Prior to the beginning of fasting, the entire family eats an elaborate and festive meal to indicate that the fasting is approached not in a spirit of doom, but with an eager anticipation of God's grace.

BLESS CHILDREN

After the meal when parents are ready to leave the house for the Kol Nidre service, they customarily gather their children about them, and bless them with the laying on of hands.

They implore God that they might have a good year, and be able to serve Him with truth and integrity.

The Kol Nidre service, recited on the eve of Yom Kippur, is the most impressive service of the day.

The plaintive melody of this traditional prayer, with its echoes of the Crusades and countless other calamities the Jews have suffered, induces the worshiper with a sense of the solemnity of the occasion when man faces his Maker to ask forgiveness for past errors and for help in facing the future.

According to Jewish scholars, Jews fast on Yom Kippur as a penance. The man who fasts for his sins is saying in so many words "I do not want to be let off lightly; I deserve to be punished."

TEMPLE BETH JACOB

Yom Kippur services at Temple Beth Jacob, 78 Elizabeth Lake, will begin at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday. On Wednesday, worship is scheduled for 10 a.m.

The blast of the shofar will terminate the fast at 6:30 p.m.

Church School with classes for all ages including a nursery will be held at the same hour. The Rev. James McClung, pastor, said the membership now stands at 400. The congregation just moved into the first unit of the building program in September.

LIGHT MEMORIAL BOARD — Rabbi Ernest J. Conrad, spiritual leader at Temple Beth Jacob, (left) and Isadore Goode of 203 Cherokee are shown lighting the Memorial Board in the Temple foyer. According to the rabbi, on Yom Kippur, prayers in memory of the beloved departed are recited throughout Jewish congregations and candles lit for "the soul of man is the light of the Lord." Mr. Goode is chairman of the religious services committee.

ARRIVE AT TEMPLE — Mr. and Mrs. Sherwin Birnkrant and sons Stephen (left) and Jon arrive at Temple Beth Jacob for Rosh Hashana services this week. Jews are observing the most sacred period of the year, High Holy Days, marking the beginning of a new year. The holidays will close with the observance of Yom Kippur Tuesday and Wednesday. Mr. Birnkrant is president of the congregation. His father, Saul J. Birnkrant, and grandfather, Jacob Kovinsky, also served as presidents of the Temple.

26th Annual Observance

Christians Join in World Wide Service

Christians around the world will join in services of unity and fellowship tomorrow when Protestant, Anglican and Orthodox churches participate in the 26th annual observance of World Wide Communion Sunday.

Those of the Christian faith will come to the Communion table in rural churches, city cathedrals in hospitals, military chapels and on shipboard.

Roman Catholics will be celebrating Mass as is their custom every Sunday.

The observance of Holy Communion was instituted by Jesus as He celebrated the Feast of the Passover on the night when He was betrayed.

It was around a table in an upper room in old Jerusalem that the disciples gathered to commune with their Lord on that spring evening long ago.

And as they were eating, Jesus took bread and blessed it, and broke it, and gave it to the disciples saying "This is my body which is given for you: This do in remembrance of Me."

He spoke to but a few gathered in a single room, but today far and near, millions hear His words "Remember Me."

This remembrance is the significance of Communion. Communion services in Pontiac area churches include First Christian Church at 11 a.m. Those who wish to be served Communion at home should contact Edward Underwood, chairman of the board of elders.

The first meeting of Christian Youth Fellowship will be from 5 to 7 p.m. tomorrow. Mr. and Mrs. William Hard, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Aeschliman are sponsors.

Pastor Malcom K. Burton will give the Communion meditation "Reading the Heart," at First Congregational Church at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow. New members will be received.

Mary Speare, missionary to Greece, will tell of her experiences at the 6:30 parish dinner Wednesday. She will also speak to the youth group Thursday.

Phyllis Harris, accompanied by Charles Wilson at the piano, will be heard in solo numbers.

Sunday School children and adults will present a play entitled "Tribute to Dr. Albert Schweitzer."

Aid to Clergymen

Lectures Start at Courthouse

The second in a series of five lectures on "Marriage and Pastoral Counseling" will be presented by Dr. Aaron L. Rutledge at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Oakland County Court House.

His subject will be "A Psychological Look at Guilt and Anxiety."

Dr. Rutledge, head of the counseling and psychotherapy program at Merrill-Palmer Institute, Detroit, is president of the American Association of Marriage Counselors.

The marriage and family consultation program is a pilot project in a new attempt to aid active clergymen in their pastoral counseling work.

Began in the fall of 1964 it is sponsored by Religious Assistance and Protective Services, Inc., an interfaith organization of Oakland County clergy and judges.

Funds for the program are provided by grants from private foundations.

Besides the lectures there are 12 different seminars for smaller groups of clergymen meetings throughout the year.

SEMINARS START

The fall quarter will include eight sessions on "Introduction to Marriage Counseling" every Tuesday from 10 a.m. to noon starting Oct. 12 and ending Nov. 30.

Each Wednesday at the same hour starting Oct. 13 will be a seminar on "Counseling Procedures." The sessions will continue eight weeks.

"Premarital Counseling" is scheduled for Thursdays beginning Oct. 14 at 10 a.m. These sessions will continue through Dec. 2.

The seminars, open only to clergymen, are without any tuition charge and limited in size to no more than 15 members for each group.

The winter quarter starting in January will be followed by seminars in the spring and summer quarters.

The executive committee of the sponsoring organization consists of Rabbi Milton Rosenbaum, president of Temple Emanu-El, Oak Park; Circuit Court Judge Arthur E. Moore, Oakland County; and James W. Hunt, executive vice president Juvenile Court, Oakland County.

Other committeemen are the Rev. Paul Johns, Calvary Lutheran Church, Clarkston; the Rev. Frank Williams, Presbyterian Church, Milford; the Rev. James McDonald, Holy Name Church, Birmingham; and the Rev. Thomas Kirkman, First Presbyterian Church, Royal Oak.

Physicians Needed for S. Viet Nam

Personnel for medical teams to serve in South Viet Nam are needed quickly. The East Asia Christian Council stated in an appeal to the churches in Japan, Australia, the Philippines and New Zealand.

Some offers of three-person teams of a doctor, nurse and assistant have already been received. The Council reported that $78,000 has also been pledged or given to date in response to its appeal for aid program funds.

The money has come from churches in Scandinavia, Britain, France, Germany, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Australia, Ceylon, Canada, Taiwan, Thailand and the United States in response to an appeal from the World Council of Churches.

EACC officials reported their representatives are supplying supplementary food rations three times a week to some 30,000 people, and that relief supplies are being given primarily to refugees who are not receiving aid from U.S. or South Vietnamese governments.

Among them are the 15,000 Montagnards whose crops and homes have been destroyed. Difficulties in establishing contacts and obtaining information on needs in North Viet Nam have limited the churches' aid to the needy there, the EACC reported to Geneva.

The Red Cross, it said, has been asked to investigate needs which the churches can meet in the north.

Miss Penneys made her first public appearance at the age of 18. Since that time she has played many concerts both in recital and with orchestras.

When 13 years of age she appeared as soloist in the 14th annual Los Angeles Music Festival with the orchestra conducted by

Lutheran Churches
Launch Program

Stewardship Month will be the theme of workers at St. Paul and Sylvan Lake Lutheran churches for the next few weeks.

The Sylvan Lake Church has initiated a five-point program aimed at developing and encouraging a greater use of talent, time and gifts of the congregation.

Members of the board of elders visiting an average of eight families during the period will explain the functions of the church including cost of operation.

Pastor Robert J. Sheets said the program will be launched tomorrow at both the 8 and 10:30 a.m. services when the congregation observes World Wide Communion Sunday.

An informal open house will be held at the church from 2 to 4 p.m. on Oct. 31 to give members an opportunity to become better acquainted.

ST. PAUL
St. Paul Lutheran Church will launch its five-week every member visit effort tomorrow morning.

Pastor Maurice Shackelford will speak on "God's Pilot Project."

During the next five Sundays members of the campaign stewardship committee will speak from the lectern giving talks on Christian Stewardship.

Weekly Bible classes will begin at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. "Great Chapters of the New Testament" will be the subject of the discussion group. Coffee and refreshments will be served.

Chimpanzee Coming to Sunnyvale

Skeeter, a trained chimpanzee, will be at Sunnyvale Chapel Sunday School, 5311 Pontiac Lake, Waterford Township at 9:45 a.m. tomorrow.

Martin Schrein, owner of Skeeter, said the three-year-old chimpanzee plays several instruments, walks on his hands and jumps rope.

Tomorrow is the first day of the Month of October Michigan Sunday School Contest in which Sunnyvale Chapel is competing.

Dr. Bill Piper, evangelist from South Carolina, will speak during the Sunday School hour. Young and old are invited to the service, Pastor V. L. Martin said.

'Missioners Aid Anticommunism'

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Missioners of the Pentecostal Church are giving Catholic missionaries in Latin America great help in keeping the people from turning to communism, a Protestant leader told the annual pastoral meeting of Maryknoll in Santiago.

"The Pentecostal missionaries are definitely filling voids which otherwise would be filled by Marxism," said John P. Nichols of World Church Service.

He said the Pentecostal Church is one of Latin America's largest branches of the Protestant Church with more than 10 million members from Mexico to Chile.

In Chile, he said, the Pentecostals account for nearly half of the country's 1.2 million Protestant population.

Pontiac Central Eleven Sitting Atop Saginaw Valley Conference

Chiefs Top Flint Northern 21-0 for 3rd League Win

By FLETCHER SPEARS

FLINT — The Chiefs of Pontiac Central are no longer football patsies of the Saginaw Valley Conference.

The Chiefs, living up to their billing as the state's No. 2 ranked team, displayed a potent ground attack and a rugged defense here last night in blanking Flint Northern, 21-0, before 2,600 fans at Atwood Stadium.

The victory was the Chiefs third in a row in SVC action and left them atop the league with a 3-0 record. Second place Bay City Central (2-0), Michigan's No. 1 prep squad, downed Alpena, 27-7, last night in a non-conference contest.

The lofty standing among the state's Class A teams and the top spot in the SVC is something new for the Chiefs whose last league championship came back in 1943.

In the years since the title campaign, the Chiefs were easy pickings. But that's changed.

SECOND SHUTOUT

Along with recording their third victory, the Chiefs also rang up their second shutout in a row. They blanked Midland last week, 19-0, after opening a week before with a 33-7 triumph over Saginaw Arthur Hill.

Against the Vikings, the Chiefs had too much of everything — running, passing and defense.

The defensive unit, which held the Vikings to a total of 182 yards rushing and passing, accounted for the Chiefs' first score in the first period. PCH added their other touchdowns in the second and third periods.

Pontiac Central took the opening kickoff but the attack stalled at the PCH 47-yard line. Bob Boyce punted to Flint's Ron Chastmon, who fumbled the ball at the Viking eight-yard line.

The ball squirted into the Viking end zone and end Herb Mullen recovered for a PCH touchdown. Halfback Karl Williams added his first of three extra points on a run and the Chiefs led, 7-0.

FIVE PLAYS

The Chiefs moved 72 yards in five plays late in the second period for their second score.

With tackles Tom Henkins and Keith Dextrom along with guards Leroy Jackson and Sylvester Robinson opening the holes, PCH started from its own 28 and moved to a first down at the 43.

Halfback Walter Horton picked up a yard off right tackle on first down, and on second down, Don Lavaula took a handoff from quarterback Jack Jerry Murphy and a turned left end for 66 yards and the six points.

Lavaula had clear sailing around the end and he cut back to the middle of the field at the Vikings' 30 and rumbled on in untouched.

Murphy used the air lanes for the third touchdown. From the Vikings 41-yard line following a punt, the Chiefs reached paydirt in two plays with Murphy hitting Boyce with a pass down the middle for the final 25 yards.

TIGHT DEFENSE

Jackson, Paul Roberts, Mark Ford and Jim Shorters manned a tight defensive line for the Chiefs who gave the Vikings only 50 yards on the ground.

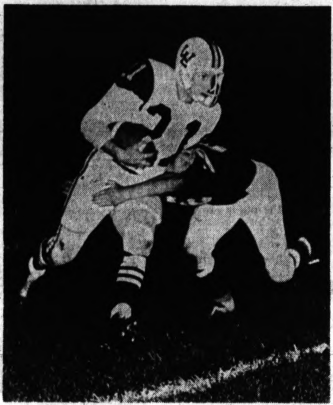

The losers, now 1-1-1 in league play, made only one serious threat, not coming in the first period when they drove to the PCH 10-yard line before losing the ball on downs.

The Chiefs also put a strong rush on quarterback William Wallace, who completed only STILL GOING — Hard running Steve Fogle (21) breaks tackle by unidentified Pontiac Northern defender during action last night at Walled Lake. Huskies were troubled frequently by poor tackling in the contest which they lost, 27-0.

Imlay Surprises Oxford; L'Anse Edges Lapeer 11

A favored Oxford eleven suffered its third setback of the season last night at the hands of a surprising Imlay City squad, 13-7.

In a Tri-County League contest, L'Anse Creuse nipped Lapeer, 14-12, to take the early lead in the loop. Romeo and Kettering tied, 13-13, in the other league outing.

Oxford (0-3) went into Imlay City a heavy favorite to make the Spartans their first victim of the season.

But it didn't work out that way.

Imlay (2-1) pushed across 13 points in the second quarter and held on for the victory.

South Lyon Loses Despite Control

South Lyon had 67 offensive plays to 30, but plagued by penalties, fumbles and other mistakes, lost a 25-6 decision to Dexter last night.

Jim Richardson went five yards to clinch a 66-yard run in the second quarter for South Lyon which had the ball on Dexter 15 yard line before losing the ball on downs.

Hoeksema went 30 yards, Dick Ellessor 5 and 15 yards and McIntyre passed 30 yards to Shoop for Dexter.

Spartans ahead 7-0 on a five-yard burst midway in the second, and with 40 seconds remaining in the half, Hoeksema hit Rick Vincent with a 79-yard pass for six points.

Oxford tallied in the third when Mike Cummings picked off an Imlay City punt and rambled 70 yards to paydirt. Mike Lantry added the PAT.

The losers moved to the Imlay five-yard line in the fourth after a drive of 60 yards, but Imlay dug in and took over on downs.

At Lapeer, an extra point pass from quarterback Jim Doehner to Jim Davenport turned to be the winning margin for L'Anse Creuse.

Lapeer went out in front in the first period on a short TD drive by John Beattie and Pat McKenna's extra point, but L'Anse came back with TDs in the second and third for a 14-7 lead.

Doehner tossed a 15-yard pass to Randy Payne for the first L'Anse score and Steve Skelton's run made it 7-7.

Midway in the third, Skelton tallied on a 15-yard run and Doehner followed with his PAT pass to Davenport.

Lapeer cut the lead to 14-13 in the fourth on a short pass from McKenna to Roger Lincoln, but McKenna's try for the PAT sailed wide.

Walled Lake Whips Northern, 27-0

Viking Herron Scores 3 TD's; Skippers Rally

Farmington Thwarted on Closing Drive; Passes Hurt Huskies

Walled Lake methodically dumped Pontiac Northern and plagued Farmington to set up their showdown next week in the Inter-Lakes League.

Walled Lake blanked the Huskies, 27-0, scoring in each quarter led by Russ Herron's three touchdowns. The Vikings, still looking for the key to their offense, had a 7-for-11 passing performance by quarterback Terry Lehmann.

Waterford nipped Farmington, 7-6, as both teams waited until the final quarter to score.

Walled Lake was restrained by PNH until 23 seconds remained in the first period. Steve Fogle then plunged over from the one-yard-line and booted the first of his three conversions.

The score was set up by an 11-yard Northern punt that went out of bounds on the Huskies' 23.

Then Herron took charge of the scoring. He capped a 21-yard drive by kicking a Lehmann flat pass and scampering 21 yards to paydirt in the second quarter.

In the third, he swept left end from one yard out behind the blocking of Dennis Brandt to end a 48-yard drive; and the 180-pound senior picked up a PNH fumble and ran 33 yards untouched for a final six-point-er.

ERRORS HURT

The Waterford victory was a struggle. Mistakes by both teams repeatedly nullified scoring chances. Farmington lost five fumbles had one pass intercepted.

The Skippers, particularly in the first half, were stopped by two pass interceptions, a penalty and failed to get off a punt deep in their own territory the first time they had the ball.

Rick Ziem, Waterford quarterback, finally got the Skippers moving in the fourth quarter for only the second time in the game. It came after Farmington drove 52 yards in 11 plays.

Ziem then took the Skippers 61 yards, utilizing excellent blocking by the right side of the Waterford Line; guard Greg Ballard, tackle Steve Main and end Dave Farris.

The running of Dave Kline, Dave Doemeny and Dick McDowell took the ball to the 17. There on third and four, Ziem completely fooled the Falcons with a screen pass to Roemsky who followed three blockers for an easy touchdown. Farris then cleanly split the up-rights with the conversion kick.

Dick Hanley kicked the extra point that tied the score 13-13. And that's how the first Tri-County game of the season for both teams ended.

Kettering missed a golden opportunity to put the contest out of reach with three minutes to Royal Oak Kimball has a kicking specialist who may just boot the Knights into the winner's circle in the Southeastern Michigan League.

The gridders with the point-making toe — Ron Hare — sent one through the uprights in Kimball's opening game, a 7-6 victory over Walled Lake and he collected a pair a week ago as the Knights downed Roseville, 20-13.

Last night he was at it again. He booted four over the crossbar as Kimball (3-0) bounced Southfield (1-2), 28-24 in opening the league races.

In other SEMA games, Ferndale (2-1) dumped Birmingham Seaholm (1-2) 26-12, and Hazel Park (1-2) posted a 7-6 win over Berkley (0-3).

Sharing the spotlight with Hare was teammate John Gab-ler and Southfield's Ted Simmons.

THREE TDs

Gabler scored three touchdowns on runs of 26, three and three, and Simmons matched his output with TD runs of 50, 40 and 87 yards.

Simmons' first two TDs put Southfield ahead, 12-0, in the first quarter, but Kimball came back with 14 points in the second for a 14-12 lead on a pair of scoring jaunts by Gabler.

Southfield went ahead again in the third, 19-14, on Simmons' third TD and again Gabler tallied to push the Knights in front, 31-18.

Eric Sorenson's five-yard run made it 28-18 for Kimball early in the fourth, and Terry Thompson went over from the two-yard line with two minutes remaining for the losers final score.

Ken Luxton scored three times for Ferndale and Terry Myers added the fourth on a one-yard plunge.

SCORING PASS

Bill Kennedy took a 34-yard pass from Chip Beel for Seaholm's first tally, and Chris Charlton plunged one yard for the other score in the fourth stanza.

Hazel Park and Berkley pushed across their points in the opening quarter and played defense the rest of the game.

Berkley went in front, 5-0, on a 34-yard off tackle slant by Dan Blaquier, but Hazel Park's Daryl Smith took the kickoff following the score and scampered 75 yards to paydirt. Quarterback Jeff Gifford ran the extra point for the winners.

Romeo Ties Kettering With Late TD

By DON VOGEL

Kettering's Captains let an upset win slip out of their grasp in the final two minutes at Romeo last night.

Buzz Lee, Romeo's fine halfback, took a pass from quarterback Frank Czajka on the Kettering 45, slipped out of the grasp of three Captains, received a key block and raced to the end zone to complete a 75-yard play with 1:41 left in the game.

Dick Hanley kicked the extra point that tied the score 13-13. And that's how the first Tri-County game of the season for both teams ended.

Kettering missed a golden opportunity to put the contest out of reach with three minutes to play when the Captains reached the eight. But a 15-yard penalty killed the drive and allowed Romeo to open up its last ditch passing attack.

Lee scored Romeo's first touchdown in the opening period on a 42-yard sprint off right tackle. Frank Perraine's kick was wide.

Both of Kettering's TDs were setup by defensive plays.

Ken McLean blocked a punt on the final play of the third period to give the Captains possession on the Romeo 34. A roughing penalty moved the ball to the 19 and halfback Lyle Cooper carried 12 yards to the seven.

On the next play he scored on a dive off tackle. John Kampsen kick for the conversion went wide.

KEY INTERCEPTION

On the first play after the kickoff Bob VonBargen intercepted a Brad Czajka pass and returned the ball 39 yards to the Romeo four. One play lost three yards, but quarterback Dick Miceli passed seven to end John Griffin for the TD and Kampsen split the uprights.

Romeo had gone into the game with a 2-0 record and was considered a top contender for league honors. Kettering, faced with a rebuilding year, and holder of a 1-1 nonleague mark, was an underdog.

The tie projected the Captains into the thick of the race.

Except for Romeo's two long scoring bursts and Kettering's unsuccessful fourth period march, the game was a defensive duel. The Captains received strong play from McLean and defensive ends Don Johnson and Jay Nash.

Romeo had an edge in the first half, but the Captains dominated the action in the last two periods when Romeo made only two first downs; one on the touchdown pass and the other on a penalty.

Kettering's hopes appeared to dim late in the second half when halfback Jerry Harkey, the team's top ball carrier, suffered a neck injury.

But Cooper more than took up the slack by piling up 23 yards on 14 carries with all but 17 yards coming in the second half. Harkey is expected to be ready for Kettering's next game.

Interceptions played a key role for the Captains. VonBargen picked off two and Dan Groux grabbed another in the end zone to thwart Romeo.

Lee was the top running and passing threat for Romeo. He gained 63 yards on eight carries and grabbed two passes for 86 more.

Pennant Race in National Almost Over

Dodgers Can Reign by Winning Once or Having Giants Lose

By The Associated Press
It would be fitting if Sandy Koufax clinched the National League pennant for the Los Angeles Dodgers today. But he may not get the opportunity.

In this case, time is of the essence.
Koufax, whose 25 victories have led Los Angeles' drive for the pennant, is in a position to nail it down for the Dodgers, who clinched at least a tie for their third flag in seven years despite a 2-0 loss to Milwaukee Friday night.

But due to television commitments the Dodgers game will start at 4:15, EST — one hour and 15 minutes after the second-place San Francisco Giants take the field against the Cincinnati Reds who mauled them 17-2 Friday night.

The time factor is such that if the Giants lose before Los Angeles finishes its game, the Dodgers would have the pennant clinched before Koufax had an opportunity to wrap it up.

TWO LEFT
As the race now stands, with the Dodgers leading by two games and only two remaining, either a San Francisco loss or a Los Angeles victory ends the struggle. The best the Giants can hope for is a tie by winning their games while the Dodgers lose twice, thus forcing a playoff.

Koufax will start against the Braves' 24-game winner, Tony Clement. The Giants will send Ron Herbel, 11-9, against Jim O'Toole, 3-9.

In other games Friday night, Pittsburgh edged the Chicago Cubs 2-1 and Houston defeated St. Louis 4-2.

The Chicago White Sox moved into a tie with Baltimore for second place and only two remaining, after a San Francisco loss or a Los Angeles victory ends the struggle. The best the Giants can hope for is a tie by winning their games while the Dodgers lose twice, thus forcing a playoff.

The Dodgers, who had won 13 games in a row, could have clinched it Friday night by winning one more, but the Braves' Denny Lemaster stood in their way. Lemaster, winning only his seventh game against 13 defeats, pitched out of his only jam in the first inning and went on to set the Dodgers down on five hits.

Claude Osteen, now 15-15, matched Lemaster until the Braves broke through for an unearned sixth inning run.

Redskins Ace Back Will Oppose Lions

The Washington Redskins will be in a scolding mood when they invade Tiger Stadium Sunday for a National Football League game against the Detroit Lions.

The injury-riddled Redskins have taken it on the nose from Eastern Division contenders Cleveland, 17-7, and Dallas, 27-7, while the Lions have taken the measure of Los Angeles and Minnesota to tie for the Western Division lead.

Charles Taylor, Washington's fine halfback, is back in harness after suffering a severe ankle injury during the exhibition season. Pat Richter also returns to the punting.

And the Lions don't need that. The Lions usually have trouble with Washington.

Since the Redskins and Detroit opened competition in 1933, Washington has won eight of 10 games.

The Redskins and Lions have met once already this year. That was in Detroit's final exhibition season and that time Washington clobbered the Lions, 20-0.

Since then, however, Detroit has, undeniable, come a long way. The traditionally strong defense and a rebuilt offense have been responsible for the strong showings against Los Angeles and Minnesota.

The defense couldn't be budged by the Rams and after that game Detroit led the league in eight defensive categories. Minnesota did quite a bit better last Sunday, behind Fran Tarkenton's direction, but in that game the Detroit offensive unit came of age.

Quarterback Milt Plum threw three touchdown passes and scored once himself late in the second half after the Lions had recovered a Minnesota fumble.

Plum's passing Sunday, 158 yards, with 14 completions in 29 throws kept him in fifth place among the NFL signal callers with a 53.7 percentage completion mark.

Detroit Dies in Crash
Marquette (AP) — Don Campbell of Detroit was killed Friday in a two-car collision near here.

Reflections

MAGIC:
 Several botanicals perform like magic, one in particular is soybeans. Chinese called it "magic milk." Soybeans were introduced to U.S. farmers in 1904. 1950 we exported 300 million bushels to feed children and adults all over the world. Last year, 1964, 85% of our production went into almost everything we eat.

J.L. VOORHEES

Without Soybeans we couldn't think water point for our house nor prevent a holocaust on a landing strip with Fire Foam; we drive thousands of miles on tires made from fractions of Soybeans. This magic botanical gives us Quick Drying Enamel; newspaper presses couldn't roll with lightning speed — the ink wouldn't dry without Soybeans. Stems and leaves are ground into a mash with 40% protein and fed to cattle and chickens. Magic? The trick is performed in test tubes and scientific know-how. The greatest magician couldn't do as much with all his bag of tricks.

NY Prepares for Pope Paul

Millions Expected on Motorcade Route

NEW YORK (AP) — New York, which regularly showers plaquards and ticker tape on the great and famous of the world, made ready today to welcome Pope Paul VI's mission of peace.

Even by New York standards, the preparations were on a grand scale — to match the historic importance of Monday's visit, the first to the New World by a reigning Roman Catholic pontiff.

Finishing touches were put on the Pope's crowded 14-hour schedule that includes a meeting with President Johnson, a plea for world peace before the United Nations General Assembly and public Mass in Yankee Stadium.

In addition, the Pope will pray at St. Patrick's Cathedral, meet with Protestant and Jewish leaders and stop at the Vatican Pavilion of the New York World's Fair.

MOTORCADE ROUTE
 After he arrives at Kennedy Airport Monday morning, the Pope will enter a specially constructed limousine for a 34-mile motorcade to St. Patrick's.

Millions are expected to crowd the route, including more than 900,000 children of the city's parochial schools who get the day off. Special areas are reserved for them.

All of New York's 26,000 policemen will be on duty Monday, most of them assigned to the papal visit. Commissioner Vincent L. Broderick has estimated the city will pay $1 million in police overtime.

In the limousine, the Pope's seat will raise him seven inches above the other passengers. The rear of the car is roofless but a transparent top is available in case of bad weather.

SUNNY, MILD
 The Weather Bureau's extended forecast indicated a sunny and mild day.

The limousine was designed to make the Pope more visible, but it also will give the pontiff a chance to see many faces of the nation's largest and most polyglot city. Harlem is included in the motorcade route.

"We desire to show the Holy Father some of the more significant sections of the city," said a church spokesman.

"If we didn't show him Harlem, both the Puerto Rican and Negro areas, we truthfully would not be showing him the significant sections of New York."

County Brochure Aimed at Growth and Recruitment
 Oakland County will publish a brochure next spring designed to help encourage the county's economic growth and aid in personnel recruitment.

Authorization to spend $20,000 for production of the color magazine was given yesterday by the ways and means committee of the County Board of Supervisors.

The County Planning Commission project will be coordinated by Richard Hanson.

Some 50,000 copies will be printed with some earmarked for sale to business and industry and others to be retained for county use. Proceeds of the sale are expected to nearly offset the cost.

Invitation to Bio
 The Board of Education of Bloomfield Hills School District, Michigan will receive sealed bids for site work for new high school building at 10000 W. 12th St. on Monday, Oct. 11, 1965.

Plans and specifications may be obtained on and after Tuesday, Oct. 5, at the office of the Architect, Tarrance-Mackintosh Associates, Inc., 191 West Main St., Detroit 26, Mich.

'Moses,' Back in Egypt, Greeted by Old Followers

By EARL WILSON

CAIRO — A short, plump camel-driver in one of those striped kimono outfits came clumping up to Charlton Heston the other day near the Grand Mosque and screamed "Welcome!"

Heston... who greeted him like an old friend. "Pasha!" shouted Heston, putting his arm around the kimono. "You should have brought 'Canada Dry'!"

"Canada Dry" is one of the camels out at the Pyramids. Heston had remembered the camel-driver and the camel's name from 16 years ago when he was here in Egypt filming "The 10 Commandments." As they talked, other Arabs gathered around Heston, also remembering him as "Moses."

"Everybody loves you because you are the real McCoy... you're okay-doe," the camel-driver exclaimed.

Heston couldn't help being pleased. He's about to be seen on the screen of who plays Michaelangelo in "The Agony and the Ecstasy," but he's back here now playing General Charles Gordon, the brandy-drinking, Bible-reading British soldier, mystic and one-man army who was sent to death and decapitated at Khartoum in the 1880s.

"Gordon was quite a fellow," Heston said, between takes when I came to interview him during the filming of "Khartoum."

Heston was wearing a British black-branded uniform of the Victorian era, a red fez, and carrying a bamboo cane which was one of General Gordon's dapper trademarks... an interesting outfit for the boy from Michigan, Northwestern, Chicago and the Carolinas who is soon going to run out of historic figures' to portray.

"Gordon hated war and guns and usually was armed only with his stick," Heston said, his long legs stretched out as he sat in a director's chair. "The Chinese called it his 'wand of victory.' Had he been a different type, he could have been emperor of China."

THE WEEKEND WINDUP
 Allan Sherman recorded two versions of his hilarious new tune, "Peyton Place" — one for disk jocks, a zesty lyric for home consumption... The Giant footballers meeting at Gallagher's, showed a very short film, the "highlights" of their poor '64 season... Louis Armstrong, signed for both the Hollywood Palace and Decca Records' TV's.

The Hong Kong government reduced permission for a mock sea battle in the harbor, for the "Sand Pebbles" film; they thought Red China might like the explosions nearby... Comic London Lee'll form his own publishing outfit, Garment Music... "Our Man Flint" opens Dec. 17, and writer Hal Fimbberg's already working on a sequel: "F in Flint."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Fall will be beautiful this year," says Bob Orben. "There are countryside abounds with gold and browns and reds. Not falling leaves — color TV."

EARL'S PEARLS: For some football fans, the most important part of the game is the pint after touchdown — Arnold Glasgow... that's carl, brother.

Substitute Due for Ailing Star
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., a senator longer than anyone in the nation's history, is 88 today.

President pro tempore of the Senate and chairman of its Appropriations Committee, Hayden was first elected to the Senate in 1926 and is in his seventh six-year term.

Hayden was Arizona's first congressman when it attained statehood in 1912, and served in the House until election to the Senate. His 33 years in Congress are a record for service.

Nab 3 in Theft at Cabin of Detroit Councilman
GAYLORD (AP) — State Police Friday arrested three youths from nearby Vanderbilt in the burglary of a cabin owned by Detroit Common Councilman William G. Rogell.

The break-in broke into the $400 in guns, ammunition and a walkie talkie radio. Rogell, a former Detroit Tigers shortstop, said he would not prosecute the youths if they made restitution.

Couple Found Shot to Death in Addison Twp.

29 Arrested in Local Raid

By JIM LONG
Pontiac and State police staged an early-morning raid today on an alleged gambling den, arresting 3 persons and cl-

COUNTS BRIBE—Pontiac Police Lt. Raymond E. Meggitt fans out $400 he accepted as a bribe while working undercover for the department. In all, Meggitt received $2,060 before the alleged gambling operation he was paid to protect was smashed this morning by Pontiac and state police.

Saigon Blasts Claim 11; 2 of 42 Hurt Are Yanks

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Terrorist bomb explosions, hours apart, killed 11 Vietnamese in Saigon today. Among 42 persons wounded were two Americans.

In the air war, two U.S. A1E Skyraider planes collided during an attack on guerrilla ground gunners near An Khe and a U.S. military spokesman said the pilots and one passenger were killed.

The passenger was identified as Bernard Kolenberg, 38, a photographer for the Albany (N. Y.) Times-Union. On leave from his newspaper, he was working on an assignment for The Associated Press.

In Saigon, the first bomb went off at noon at the base of a steel utility pole near the Cong Hoa National Stadium, a training center for Vietnamese police officers. Police said four children and five police officers were killed. Thirty-two persons were wounded.

The explosion was believed to have been a Claymore type mine, which can be aimed to fire pellets like a shotgun.

A taxi loaded with a bomb exploded in front of a Saigon theater and near three American military billets tonight, killing two Vietnamese passersby and wounding 10 other people, including two Americans.

UNDER REAR SEAT
U.S. military police officers at the scene said the bomb was being carried under the rear seat of the small taxi and that it apparently exploded prematurely in the middle of the street.

Neither of the two wounded Americans was in serious condition.

The rear of the taxi was torn to pieces in the blast and several cyclists were knocked to the ground.

The explosion took place about 100 yards from three multiple-story military billets and about 100 yards from the U.S. Navy hospital, one of the major American medical facilities in Saigon. Some windows were reported to have been shattered in the U.S. installations, but nobody was injured there.

Two U.S. planes were lost on missions yesterday.

and Social Club, 118 S. Paddock, located on the floor above Frank's Dry Cleaners, Auburn and Paddock.

The club was operated by Angelo (Barrel) Lombardi, according to police.

In October 1963 the Detroit gas station owner was named by Detroit Police Commissioner George Edwards, as a section leader in the Mafia, an international crime syndicate.

Instrumental in crushing the operation were Lt. Raymond E. Meggitt and Sgt. Robert C. Gaines, both of whom Lombardi believed to be on his payroll, said Pontiac Police Chief William Hanger.

SGT. ROBERT C. GAINES

Hanger, who led the raid, said the chartered club had been under surveillance since May. He said it was the biggest gambling operation in Pontiac in many years.

The club, he said, initially was started in downtown Detroit but was moved here last spring.

Inside knowledge of the operation was gained when Meggitt, a 19-year-veteran of the department, was approached in June by Lombardi and asked if he would accept a bribe.

WAS TO INFORM
He was to inform of pending raids or investigations of the operation by other law agencies, police said.

Meggitt told Hanger of the attempted payoff.

Hanger directed Meggitt to play along and take the money until the time his department, State Police and the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office could prepare a case.

It wasn't until this morning that another undercover officer detective Lowell W. Wild of the Detroit State Police, was able to enter the club and act as an eyewitness to the operation.

DICE GAME
Police said that when they forced their way into the building a dice game was being played on a 6-by-12 foot snooker table.

All but six were charged with the misdemeanor of loitering in a gambling establishment.

Three charges were brought against Lombardi, 37, of 20141 Sorrento, Detroit, including bribery, conspiracy to bribe and violating state gaming laws.

In May, Lombardi was arrested by Internal Revenue Service agents in raids on an alleged $2-million-a-year numbers racket establishment in Detroit and Oakland County. Nine of the 11 arrested at that time were from Pontiac.

The case is pending in U.S. District Court in Detroit.

The other five were charged with violations of state gambling laws. They are Casey L. Harrod, 37, of 30 Fairgrove; George J. Mekras, 47, 840 Rob-inhood; Odus Tinner, 49, 28619 Jane, St. Clair Shores; Anthony J. Bachorowski, 6661 Fern, Highland Park; and Thomas J. Misko, 47, of 29236 Joan, St. Clair Shores.

Harrod, an employee of General Motors Truck & Coach Division, and Tinner also were charged with conspiracy to bribe.

Aid to Chicago Halted by U.S.

CHICAGO (UPI)—Chicago stood today as the first target of the federal government's drive under the new Civil Rights Act to ensure equality in education.

Until complaints of racial discrimination are settled, $34 million in federal aid for public schools was frozen late yesterday by Francis Keppel, U.S. commissioner of education.

Keppel's decision, announced in Washington, came despite the influence of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, who is said to wield considerable political power to get federal funds for his city.

A spokesman for the office of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) said investigators found evidence Chicago had failed to comply with desegregation provisions of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The Northern city with nearly 1 million Negroes, thus became the first to face charges of violating the rights bill's elementary and secondary education provisions aimed primarily at cities in the South.

The HEW spokesman said complaints were filed by the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations (CCCO), which represents many civil rights groups in Chicago.

22 MARCHES
The CCCO conducted 92 marches during the summer protesting alleged de facto segregation in public schools. Hundreds were arrested during the marches.

School Supt. Benjamin C. Willis had proposed spending most of the money in predominantly Negro school districts.

He telegraphed Keppel: "What are the complaints? What is the probable noncompliance? When will you let us know?" He refused to discuss the funds freeze.

State School Supt. Ray E. Page called the decision a surprise. "I want to find out why these complaints of discrimination haven't been filed with our Springfield (Ill.) office as well," he said.

"I suspect he will use all the aid he can muster to help Supt. Willis. However, I think there is in Washington a determination in men like Mr. Keppel to see that the question does not become a part of political shenanigans," he said.

"We need the money so badly that Ben Willis will correct his mistakes," he added.

Asked about reports that her mother and father were arguing prior to the shooting, Laurie said they had "a difference of opinion."

Police said Kendall and his first wife had one other child, a son William, 18.

The bright blue skies greeting early risers this morning were just right for football games, golf or a hike in the country.

They will continue through Monday with a few scattered clouds overhead tomorrow.

A Chrysler engineering employee and his wife of five months were found shot to death early this morning at the Addison Township home of the man's ex-wife.

The victims were identified by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department as Glen Kendall, 45, and his wife, Lucille, 46, of Detroit.

Held in custody at the Oakland County Jail is Mrs. Jane Kendall, 45, of 1480 Noble in Leonard.

She was arraigned on a charge of first-degree murder late this morning before Avon Township Justice of the Peace Luther C. Green.

Sheriff's officers said a woman called about 1:45 a.m. and said, "I just shot my husband and his wife... and maybe hurt my daughter."

Deputies responding to the call said they found Kendall lying face down in bushes near the front door and Lucille Kendall prone on the front porch at 1480 Noble.

Ten 22-caliber shells were reported found on the porch along with a 22-caliber automatic rifle.

Officers said Mrs. Jane Kendall told them her former husband and his wife had attempted to break into her home to get her 13-year-old daughter, Laurie.

She said Laurie ran from the house, according to deputies.

The knob was torn off the front door and the screen smashed in with a hammer, police said.

FOUND UNHARMED
Laurie was found unharmed at the home of a neighbor.

Mrs. Kendall and her daughter were taken to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department following the shootings.

Detectives said neither would make a statement.

After being booked on the murder charge, Mrs. Kendall appeared briefly in a hallway at the sheriff's department.

WORE SKI SLACKS
She wore ski slacks and had a dark overcoat completely wrapped around her head and neck.

Asked about reports that her mother and father were arguing prior to the shooting, Laurie said they had "a difference of opinion."

Martial Law Proclaimed in Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Jakarta radio said today martial law had been proclaimed and the capital was in a "state of war."

The broadcast followed an announcement that forces loyal to President Sukarno had smashed an attempt to seize power.

Martial law applied in the Jakarta area and in West Java, the radio said.

It also reported fighting in Central Java where a colonel was reported defying orders to renounce support of the rebels.

The country's political situation remained unclear but the radio station last reported that Sukarno, 64, still was chief of state following a coup against him Thursday, and a counter-coup by loyal army units yesterday.

NO CLUE
The radio reports gave no clue as to Sukarno's whereabouts but said he was safe and well. He appeared for the last time in public Thursday night.

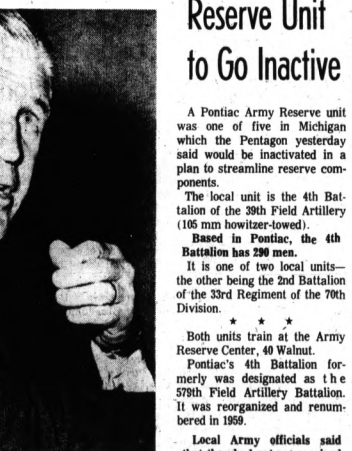

Since early yesterday, Sukarno's palace has been cordoned off by troops stationed several blocks away.

Sukarno's palace guards were on duty despite the fact that Thursday's coup was led by his commander, Lt. Col. Untung.

A newsman who reached the palace gate through the roadblocks was told by an officer: "The president has no program for the day."

There was confusion about what actually had taken place. The only available official information were communiques broadcast by Radio Jakarta.

By Supreme Soviet

Russia Economic, Job Shake-Up OK'd

MOSCOW (AP) — The Supreme Soviet approved an ambitious economic-reform program and new jobs for Communist party First Secretary Leonid Brezhnev and younger, rising Soviet leaders today.

In a move that could point toward eventual Kremlin changes, Brezhnev, 50, was made a member of the Presidium, an executive committee of the Soviet parliament. He continues to head the Communist party.

Brezhnev was serving as chairman of the Supreme Soviet's Presidium when he and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin took over power from Nikita Khrushchev last Oct. 14. His return to the body in a lesser capacity lacked an immediate authoritative explanation.

It could mean he is consolidating his power as one of the country's top leaders by taking on a government as well as a party position. It could be a preliminary to his taking over the chairmanship again if the man now in the job, Anastas Mikoyan, retires (as is rumored) when he turns 70 Nov. 25.

If Brezhnev again became chairman of the presidium which is equivalent to being the Soviet president — he could be taking a less powerful, more ceremonial position. Or, if he held onto the party leadership, the presidency could be used as an additional base of strength.

ANOTHER CHANGE

In another major change, Dmitry Polyansky, 47, was promoted from deputy premier to first deputy premier. That makes two first deputy premiers. The other is Kirill Mazurov, also 47.

Polyansky, who visited the United States in 1959 when he was premier of the Russian republic, personifies the "new Soviet man" of the younger generation which is rising in the Soviet hierarchy.

He is an expert in agriculture and mining, with a pragmatic, "Let's get things done" approach and friendly manner.

It is the younger generation that is being counted on to make the changes in the Soviet economy, increasing its efficiency by giving more responsibility to the lower levels, to get the country moving ahead faster.

RUBBER STAMP

These changes, proposed by Kosygin, were approved unanimously by the Supreme Soviet, which rubber-stamps the decisions of the party and government leadership. The session then closed.

Konstantin Rudnev, 54, was removed from his post as deputy premier and put in charge of the important Ministry of Machine Tools, a new agency created under the economic reform program.

Nikolai Baibakov, 54, was appointed a deputy premier and assigned to direct the state planning committee, called Gosplan.

The three men had flown to Washington Wednesday to lecture at the American College and were returning to Reed City when heavy weather forced them to change course. With White Cloud Airport also closed, Borden had asked for a landing on Muskegon Airport.

Police said the wreckage indicated the plane was heading west when it crashed.

Washington (AP) — President Johnson signed into law today a bill strengthening federal programs to combat water pollution and said "additional, bolder legislation will be needed in the years ahead."

ROME (AP) — Appointment of the very Rev. Harold R. Perry to be auxiliary bishop of New Orleans was announced here today. He is the first American Negro to be named a bishop of the Roman Catholic Church in 90 years.

Announcement of the appointment by Pope Paul VI was made jointly by the new archbishop of New Orleans, the Most Rev. John Patrick Cody, now archbishop of Chicago.

The Most Rev. James Augustine Healy, son of an immigrant Irish planter and a Georgia slave girl, was the first American Negro to be named a bishop of the Catholic Church. He served as bishop of the Portland, Maine, diocese from 1875 to 1900.

Father Perry, 49, born in Lake Charles, La., was present at the news conference when his appointment was announced by the two arch-bishops. "It was a surprise to me," he said. "I learned about it only yesterday."

Newsmen asked whether Father Perry was the first U.S. Negro Roman Catholic bishop. Archbishop Cody and Hannan consulted some books, and then Father Perry said:

NOT CONSIDERED

"I am the first Negro bishop. The others did not consider themselves Negro." And Archbishop Hannan said, "We welcome the first American-born Negro bishop."

Father Perry, who served as rector of the Divine Word Major Seminary at Bay St. Louis, Miss., from 1958 to 1964, was in Rome to participate in consecration ceremonies of an other newly named bishop from the Divine Word order, Carlo Lewis, auxiliary bishop of Panama.

Father Perry, a member of the Divine Word Missionaries Order, was named superior of the southern province of the order, with headquarters in the Bay of St. Louis, in 1964.

GAMBLING SCENE — Playing cards lie on a table (foreground) in a large room in 118 Paddock where Pontiac and State police staged a gambling raid early this morning. Dice was played on the smooker table in the background, according to police.

at 510 S. Paddock, according to police.

Meggitt said that Lombardi was paying him $400 a month, which he was to share with Gaines, night supervisor of the vice squad.

In all, Meggitt received a total of $2,650. He turned the money over to Hanger each time he was paid off.

Meggitt said Lombardi once gave him an additional $50 to buy a graduation present for one of his two daughters.

DUAL ROLES

According to Hanger, the dual roles played by Meggitt and Gaines presented some problems.

A number of times I received tips from people who said my officers were on the take. Until now I couldn't determine in fear of breaking secrecy."

Assistant Prosecutor Patrick Oliver was with police to provide legal aid when the raid was pulled off at 3:45 a.m.

Oliver was one of three assistant prosecutors assigned to the Madison Heights Stern Assembly Club Trial in which all 20 defendants were convicted of gambling charges last month.

AFTER PAYOFF

The raid came just about two hours after Meggitt had been paid off by Lombardi during a meeting in a downtown Pontiac parking lot.

"I thought Lombardi was going to have a heart attack when he saw us come in later," said Meggitt.

Gaines was not in on the raid because he is on a leave of absence for his health.

In addition to confiscating furniture and fixtures in the establishment, about $400 was seized as evidence.

LIGHT CROWD

Hanger said the small amount of money reflected the fact that there was an "unusually light crowd."

County Board Budget Action After Hearing

A public hearing on Oakland County's proposed $18,280,677 1966 budget is scheduled for 10 a.m. Monday in the courthouse auditorium.

Following the hearing, the County Board of Supervisors will take formal action on the budget.

The proposed budget, termed a "light one" by county officials, compares to the current budget of $17,218,878.

It provides $7,538,212 for salaries, $7,445,927 for departmental and institutional operation and $3,306,538 for nondepartmental appropriations.

Most of the revenue to finance the proposed budget, or $12,971,132, will come from the 5.3-mill county tax levy on state equalized tax valuation of $2.44 billion.

Estimated receipts and the projected 1965 year-end balance of $100,000 provide the remainder of the revenue.

He said his department's investigation revealed that the operation was open every night of the week.

Most of those arrested for loitering are from Detroit.

They are Harvey P. Greenspan, 22; James George, 77; Luigi Laudazio, 22; Zygmunt Pyc, 63; Peter P. Hagos, 67; James T. Elias, 41; Walter Portka, 74; Edward J. Farrah, 50; Mike J. Manuavakis, 43; and Paul J. Pappas, 63.

Other Detroit residents are Paul Brusloff, 34; Walter W. Baldyga, 71; Samuel J. Greenspan, 63; James J. Karalla, 57; Constantinos Kalopodis, 72; Markus Jokobek, 35; and Paul Sanders, 42.

Others are Ronald E. Cohen, 21; Oak Park, Daniel H. Richardson, 42; Highland Park; Edward J. Jankowski, 52; Frank Matc, 70; both of Hamtramck; Stanley Low, 34; Warren; and Hassan Hachem, 41, Dearborn.

All were to be arraigned today before Municipal Judge Maurice Finnegan.

Architectural drawings are expected to be completed by April with work beginning about the first of May.

The county anticipates $2.45 million in its building fund by 1968.

FALL SHORT

This would fall short of estimated requirements, if no trimming is done, because the county is committed for a $500,000 outlay for the South Oakland Health Center.

David Levinson, chairman of the ways and means committee, said he was confident county building needs could be met by budgeted funds.

An early start on the courthouse wing won't mean in a full approval of the full board of supervisors in August to meet projected space needs of county government by 1975.

No details were available on the fighting in Central Java.

TROOPS SENT IN

The newly appointed army chief, Maj. Gen. Suharto, was said to have sent troops to deal with the commander of the Semarang area who had declared himself in support of the rebels.

A broadcast said the commander, Col. Subernan, had been dishonorably discharged from the army. Semarang is about 150 miles east of Jakarta.

It was not known whether there was fighting elsewhere in Indonesia, a 5,000-mile-long chain of islands.

Broadcasts said Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, Sukarno's defense minister, had restored order in the capital after the attempted coup by Untung.

Obscure Officer

Untung, a relatively obscure officer, said he seized power to save Sukarno from a plot concocted by a council of generals.

He did not name them but said the council was a "subversive body" backed by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. The U. S. State Department denied the charge.

The best available information said Untung was supported by three battalions.

He seized the radio station early yesterday and told the nation he was in power at the head of a 45-member "revolutionary council."

RED SYMPATHIZERS

The council included at least 10 Communist sympathizers but the political coloration of Untung's movement was not known.

Exhibit of Spooky Masks on Institute's Calendar

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — An exhibit of spooky masks for Halloween and a program of self-entertainment for youngsters are featured on this month's calendar at the Cranbrook Institute of Science.

The exhibit, entitled "Masks for Magic," will be on display Oct. 9 through 31.

Based on the Halloween theme, the ritual masks will represent many cultures.

A series of four classes for youngsters also will begin Oct. 9.

Children in first through third grades can attend the 9 to 10:30 a.m. programs if accompanied by adults.

Topics are "What Is Sound?" "Our Feathered Friends," "Plants Are Interesting" and "What Is an Animal?"

The programs will be held in the institute auditorium on consecutive Saturdays.

A six-week program of classes for junior high school pupils will begin Oct. 13.

Charles F. Gosser, curator of education, will conduct the course.

Ford Is Sued for $1 Million in Local Case

PONTIAC (AP) — A suit seeking $1 million in damages was filed against Ford Motor Co. Friday by the Salesmen's Guild of America, Chapter 1.

The suit, filed in Oakland County Circuit Court, asked a permanent injunction against interference with the guild's dealings with John McAskill Ford, 63, Oakland, Pontiac. It also asked $1 million in punitive damages "for the malicious, direct, willful and intentional interference with the contractual relationship" between the guild and the dealer.

The contract between the guild and the dealership expires Nov. 30. It now is being renegotiated.

The guild, an independent union, represents salesmen at six dealerships in the Detroit area, according to Robert Cunningham, attorney for the union.

Ford declined comment on the suit which is to go before Circuit Judge William J. Beer on Oct. 11.

Actor Brando's Ex-Wife Wins Custody of Son, 7

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The long, bitter struggle between actor Marlon Brando and actress Anna Kashfi over custody of their young son has taken another turn with Miss Kashfi this time winning custody.

In awarding custody of Christian DeVi, 7, to the 30-year-old actress, Superior Court Judge A. A. Scott said Friday:

"If this lady is left to lead her own life with her own son and without fights and obnoxious matters put in her way, she will be a good mother."

Judge Scott said that if Brando and Miss Kashfi, who are divorced, cannot agree on the actor's visitation days, the court would make the orders.

A preliminary examination on this charge, after numerous adjournments, still hasn't been concluded in Pontiac Municipal Court.

Federal Court Judge Frederick Kaess charged the jury late yesterday in the federal case against Skelton and adjourned the trial until Monday at 9 a.m. when the jury didn't reach a verdict by 5:30 p.m.

Hunt Ends for Plane; Three Professors Die

By ED MARKAITZ

Associated Press Writer

WHITE CLOUD (AP) — Federal Aviation Agency officials today began combing the wreckage of a Cessna 172 Skyhawk to determine how the plane crashed in heavy fog early Thursday, killing three Ferris State College instructors.

Search planes, taking advantage of the first clear weather in 36 hours, discovered the crash site three miles northeast of this Newaygo County community Friday afternoon.

Killed in the crash were the aircraft's pilot, Dr. Steve Borden, 40, assistant professor in communications; Dr. William Sunkes, 32, assistant professor of pharmacy; and Kenneth Spoerk, 30, a biology instructor. Borden and Spoerk were married and each left three children. Sunkes was a bachelor.

The bodies were taken to the Kroeze Funeral Home here.

The search, hampered by rain and fog which prevented flying, plus heavily timbered and swampy terrain, covered an area 200 miles long by 170 miles wide. A party of some 200 Ferris State students had set out to search on foot when word came that the wreckage had been sighted by John Kreischer, 41, of Detroit, one of 14 pilots answering a Civil Air Patrol call.

Another pilot, Bob Barton, landed at White Cloud and called State Police to direct them to the scene.

Officers said the aircraft's clock was smashed and stopped at 12:25 a.m., about 17 minutes after Borden had made a position check with the Muskegon Airport. There was then no indication he was in trouble.

Rep. Robert Slingerland, D-Lake Orion, member of the House Mental Health Committee, said he will push next year for legislation that would send mental health care workers into the homes of retarded children to help the mother adjust psychologically and pave the way for otherwise-normal family life.

He said his proposed bill would require school authorities to notify mental health departments of any retarded child in the school.

School personnel would consult with parents on placement of the child and mental health workers would work with the mother "to see that the family does not suffer additional strain and break down."

Water Pollution Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed into law today a bill strengthening federal programs to combat water pollution and said "additional, bolder legislation will be needed in the years ahead."

ROME (AP) — Appointment of the very Rev. Harold R. Perry to be auxiliary bishop of New Orleans was announced here today. He is the first American Negro to be named a bishop of the Roman Catholic Church in 90 years.

Announcement of the appointment by Pope Paul VI was made jointly by the new archbishop of New Orleans, the Most Rev. John Patrick Cody, now archbishop of Chicago.

The Most Rev. James Augustine Healy, son of an immigrant Irish planter and a Georgia slave girl, was the first American Negro to be named a bishop of the Catholic Church. He served as bishop of the Portland, Maine, diocese from 1875 to 1900.

Father Perry, 49, born in Lake Charles, La., was present at the news conference when his appointment was announced by the two arch-bishops. "It was a surprise to me," he said. "I learned about it only yesterday."

Newsmen asked whether Father Perry was the first U.S. Negro Roman Catholic bishop. Archbishop Cody and Hannan consulted some books, and then Father Perry said:

NOT CONSIDERED

"I am the first Negro bishop. The others did not consider themselves Negro." And Archbishop Hannan said, "We welcome the first American-born Negro bishop."

Father Perry, who served as rector of the Divine Word Major Seminary at Bay St. Louis, Miss., from 1958 to 1964, was in Rome to participate in consecration ceremonies of an other newly named bishop from the Divine Word order, Carlo Lewis, auxiliary bishop of Panama.

Father Perry, a member of the Divine Word Missionaries Order, was named superior of the southern province of the order, with headquarters in the Bay of St. Louis, in 1964.

Merit in City's Plan to Solve Area Issue

Culminating a year-long legal effort on the part of Congress Street residents to restrict the operations of the Sam Allen & Sons scrap yard on the grounds that it is a public nuisance, the City Commission has moved to sell the firm a 35-acre tract from the 212 acres the City recently annexed from Pontiac Township for a sanitary land-fill site.

In exchange, the scrap firm would vacate and transfer its present 22.7-acre holding to the City for a price of $36,000. This amount would be credited against the $99,778 the firm has agreed to pay for its new site.

The two-way transaction, however, is presently stymied by a suit to nullify the City's annexation of township acreage by a township supervisor and two residents. The bill of complaint alleges that the proposed use of the property would be detrimental to the area.

Despite such objection, we strongly urge that both land-fill project and scrap yard relocation be resolved in accordance with the City Hall plan. It would in effect kill two birds with one stone, and bring to an end the drawn out litigation over the operation of the present scrap yard.

It is axiomatic that little progress is possible without inconvenience or disaffection for some.

The extension of our rail network across the Nation, that began a century ago, entailed adjustment on the part of farmers to encroachment of rights-of-way across their lands. Similarly, the vast complex of interstate highways has disrupted a small minority that the great majority might benefit.

So it is with municipal measures to keep pace with population growth and augmented services required by residents. But where acquisition of property is necessary, it is effected with due regard for legality and equitable compensation for property owners affected.

As a philosopher well put it, "Nothing is so changeless as change." If our community is to enjoy progress, we must philosophically accept the changes that accompany it.

Trial of Troy Family an Indictment of State

To pass judgment on the complex pattern of circumstances which recently enmeshed the Thornes family would be to presume the wisdom of Solomon. Few mortals are so endowed.

But as the picture of prolonged parental anguish emerged, what at first seemed to be an incredible act of a mother's abandonment of her sick offspring takes shape as a deed of desperation by a parent whose mental stability has suffered from the unremitting trial to which it was subjected.

Maternal love, it is true, transcends all other human emotions, and does not condone desertion of its own flesh and blood. But the quality is, after all, embodied in human form, which is not always proof against the vicissitudes of fate.

Along with the parents of Ricky Thorne, all thoughtful persons will find comfort in knowing that the unfortunate boy has at last found a haven.

But for Michiganders the Thorne case points an accusing finger at the State's alarming lack of institutional facilities for the proper care of mentally-retarded youngsters.

In asserting that they were unable to find adequate care for their son in their home state and hence were obliged to look elsewhere — to Florida, in this instance — it might have been thought that the Thornes' attitude stemmed from an inconclusive survey of Michigan's resources.

Their conviction, however, has been unequivocally supported by authorities in the field wherein the care sought should have been available.

Until the State expeditiously moves to correct the shame reflected upon it by the Thorne tragedy, the citizenry can but feel a deep sense of responsibility for the events that focused the national spotlight on a distraught family and for the probability that there are many more comparable situations that have not had public airing.

Immigration Act Product of Era

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — The new immigration act may look like just one more item in the long list of accomplishments by the 1965 Congress, but it is more than that.

It is part and product of a turbulent time—the past 20 years — which future historians will probably consider the most revolutionary period in the history of man.

In those 20 years: The great colonial powers, exhausted by war, surrendered their possessions. Men everywhere, and of all races, developed a sense of freedom or nationalism or, in most places, an appreciation for the dignity of man.

The United States was swept along in this global revolution in thinking and, gradually and grudgingly, particularly in the South, began to undo centuries of segregated injustice to Negroes.

The immigration bill passed Thursday by both houses, ending 41 years of limiting immigration by nationality, is simply an extension of the new, but far from complete American revolution against discrimination.

It has a more immediately practical side, of course, since it is hardly intelligent for the United States to discriminate among nations when it is trying to be friends, if not allies.

The world itself had passed beyond the simple primitive days of unsophisticated contests between nations, although they persisted, and now was in the great contest between ideologies.

Meanwhile 117 nations, through the United Nations, for the first time truly began to cooperate to preserve peace although they have yet to prove they can try it indefinitely or achieve it absolutely.

In these 20 years, the United States like others, was having multiple revolutions within itself, in social welfare, political representation, automation, labor relations, education, religious tolerance, medicine and crime.

So, while the immigration act definitely leads into the mainstream of the mid-century life of the United States and the world, it is still only one of many tributes.

The POWER of FAITH By WOODI ISHMAEL

The American Friends Service Committee is an active witness to the Quaker faith and practice. Since its founding in 1917, concerned people of all faiths have worked in all areas of the world with AFSC to alleviate suffering, hardship and misunderstanding. Their helping hand is out to all in need, whether it be public health service in Mexico, community development in Peru, urban problems, youth service, or school desegregation in our own country.

They have worked with refugees in Tientsin, Hong Kong and Austria. No community or problem is too small for their interest and attention.

Their creed "is rooted in the conviction that each human life is sacred, each man a child of God, and that love, expressed through creative action, is the only power that can overcome hatred, prejudices and fear." This truly illustrates the power of faith.

Finding the Way:

World Communion Sunday, 1965

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.

On any Sunday of the year, Christian people gather to worship, to read the Scriptures and to share in the Sacraments of the church. On the first Sunday of October they are conscious of the worldwide observance as well as the local witness. As light makes its way around the planet, and men and women in varying cultures and continents greet a new day, there are those who assemble for worship.

If it's ironic to talk of "World Communion Sunday" in a world so concerned with anger and wars, it is also heartening to know that this minority continues to gather to worship.

This is why the fact of the Sacrament is impressive. It talks of communion with God and asserts that this fellowship has something to do with the world in which men live. It's a tough assignment if it's done honestly by people and their clergy.

Langdon Gilkey phrases the question, "How are we to talk of God's rule over our history when Birmingham is so stubborn, Chicago's ghetto so crushing and Dallas so utterly meaningless? How can we speak to this age of God?" It puts any honest man into tension.

That's World Communion Sunday, 1965. As each little company of believers gathers, worshipping in a thousand different languages, participating

In a multiplicity of ceremonies in the common meal of bread and wine, there is a local and provincial event. Multiply that in terms of the peoples of a planet and it has worldwide significance.

The bread and wine are brought into those churches, and what happens in that worship must be carried out from those churches. The importance of the local moment of forgiveness, repentance and love is valid as it sends people of reconciliation into the tough situations of our day.

Jaycees Ask Cooperation to Fight Mental Illness

After reading and listening to the reports on the Ricky Thorne family, I couldn't help but wonder if there are other families in the area with similar problems. The fight against mental disabilities has enjoyed much success. There are workshops, schools, parent groups and hospitals working with these people.

I must add there is a great need for more workshops and schools, but this can only be done with the support of the people. If a member of your family is mentally retarded or emotionally disturbed and you would like to know where you can get help, please contact a member of your local Jaycee chapter.

The Jaycee's major project is to fight mental illness and mental retardation. Unfortunately, few people know or care enough about mental disabilities to make this an easy job.

Tells Responsibility of Mothers in Divorce

I, too, am for equal rights in divorce. But more rights for men? You must be kidding. We women match force, unreliably contributions willingly and with love. We give of ourselves 24 hours a day, seven days a week for 18 years and beyond.

Speaking of the human machine breaking down, what mother can afford the luxury of a sick leave? We might be missing on all cylinders but 24-hour child care goes on.

I'd like to know what man would feel fair and equal in caring for his children after divorce. I get the impression that helping to feed and clothe is a strain on the male human machine.

'Senators Should Vote Against 14B Repeal'

I note with regret that the U. S. House of Representatives passed the resolution for repeal of Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act. In one sense no state should need a right-to-work law, but the lawmakers in Congress have made such a shambles of our constitutionally guaranteed freedoms that some states have felt it desirable to enact these laws in order to bring some semblance of order out of the federally-created chaos.

I believe that the trend toward centralized, coercive collectivism has to be stopped in this country and we must cease allowing the Federal government to inject itself into matters that constitutionally belong to the states. I believe that in the current session of the Senate our Michigan Senators should summon the courage to cast a vote against any Senate resolution to repeal 14B.

'Team' Information Is Channeled

By WASHINGTON STAFF
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Reporters have griped vehemently over the last year or so about the difficulties in getting information from the State Department. Now, it develops, some government officials themselves are complaining about the same problem.

A U. S. Information Agency (USIA) official phoned a State Department information officer the other day to get a few statistics. The latter's answer was a blunt and undiplomatic "I'll have to clear it through higher channels before I can tell you anything."

"Look, we both work for the government!" — the USIA man exploded. "We're on the same team!"

Later he admitted ruefully: "It didn't do me any good at all."

A time-worn Washington social custom is the "take telegram" gag at farewell parties. This custom was well-observed when a group of close friends gathered to say good-bye to Richard Goodwin, who recently resigned as a White House speech writer. Some samples:

From President Johnson:

"The news of your departure leaves me speechless."

From ousted Dominican Republic Gen. Wessin y Wessin: "At least, you left voluntarily."

From Arthur Schlesinger to President Johnson: "I said Dean Rusk, not Dick Goodwin."

Jobs on Outside to Prepare Many Convicts for Release

WASHINGTON (AP) — For hundreds of federal prisoners who yearn for something better, prison walls are about to become "something you return to at night" when other men are returning to their homes.

They will be given a chance to prepare a place for themselves in the nation's labor force in hopes of easing transition to freedom when their sentences are up—a shock that often leads them back to prison.

They will be turned loose from 10 federal institutions each morning, to travel to jobs, work beside free men and return voluntarily to their cells in the evening.

For every step of the way they will be on their own — unescorted, unwatched.

The "work relief program," for which the Federal Bureau of Prisons is now setting machinery into motion, is a provision of the prisoner rehabilitation law signed by President Johnson Sept. 10.

It marks another step in the long campaign to transform U.S. penal institutions from dark holes of confinement and despair to colonies where men who have strayed from the path of lawfulness can make a stab at redirecting their lives.

Another provision of the law became reality this week when a car thief was freed from the Atlanta Penitentiary for a day to visit his dying mother in Chattanooga, Tenn. He was without a prison escort and returned on time.

The law also provides for the establishment of an adult version of "halfway houses"—pre-release guidance centers—that have proved effective with young offenders in easing the transition from prison to private life.

Myrl E. Alexander, director of the Bureau of Prisons, said in an interview a surprising number of community organizations have indicated a willingness to accept workers from nearby institutions.

But he said there would be a gradual approach to the program.

During early months of the work release program, implementation will be limited to 10 institutions where minimum custody is the rule rather than the exception.

Eligible prisoners from the major security institutions such as those at Leavenworth, Kan., and Marion, Ill., may be transferred to prisons taking part in the program.

These are the institutions at Englewood, Colo.; El Reno, Okla.; Chillicothe, Ohio; Terminal Island, Calif.; Ashland, Ky.; Petersburg, Va.; the National Training School in Washington; Seagoville, Tex.; Milan, Mich.; and Danbury, Conn.
