First Space Trip for Man Nears

FLIGHT PLAN — Diagram shows the planned flight of the North American X-15 rocket research ship in the world's first effort to put a man on the edge of outer space and bring him back safely. The 50-foot, stainless steel, man-carrying "bullet" will be dropped from the belly of a modified B-52 bomber above Edwards AFB, Calif. Rocket engines, taking over with a 60,000-pound thrust, will develop a speed of 3,600 m. p. h. During 90 seconds of powered flight, the X-15 will zoom to a height of 100-150 miles above the earth. At this apex of flight, the pilot, aided by a highly advanced Sperry inertial guidance system, will maneuver the plane into the correct re-entry position. From there, it will make a gliding descent into the earth's atmosphere, landing at Wendover AFB, Utah, 400 miles from the start.

Ford Workers Get $1,000,000 in Jobless Pay

Top Michigan Judge Also Rule in Favor of Escanaba Teamsters

LANSING (AP) — Labor unions have won two big victories in the Michigan Supreme Court, one worth a million dollars in cash and the other removing a barrier to organizing activity.

The cash will go to 11,000 United Auto Workers employed by the Ford Motor Co. in the Detroit area in the form of unemployment compensation checks for idleness in 1953.

In the other case, the Teamsters Union won a ruling that state courts lack authority to enjoin peaceful picketing in labor disputes—specifically where a union is using pickets to organize non-union employes.

The Supreme Court split 5 to 2 yesterday in the Ford jobless pay ruling, with Chief Justice John R. Dethmers and Justice Leland W. Carr dissenting. Justice Thomas M. Kavanagh took no part.

Involved was idleness at the Mound Road, Highland Park and Ford Rouge plants in May, 1953, while a Ford forge plant at Canton, Ohio, was shut down by a strike April 20 of UAW members there.

The Detroit area units were dependent for continued operations on forgings supplied from Canton. Employes lost one to three weeks' work and claimed jobless benefits of from $27 to $105 apiece.

In effect, the majority held that the Detroit area men were forced off the job by circumstances other than a labor dispute in the Ford "establishment" as defined by the Michigan Employment Security Law.

Justice George Edwards said that in determining the Canton plant and those in Detroit were not part of the same "establishment," the majority was following the lead of high courts in seven other states.

Edwards said it was not the Legislature's intent to deny jobless pay benefits in such a situation.

Gov. Williams, commenting on the Ford jobless pay case, said today he didn't see why it should affect Michigan's business climate adversely.

Ike Budget Provides for Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower told the new Republican leaders of Congress today his 77-billion-dollar budget for the new fiscal year contemplates a surplus of about 100 million dollars.

★ ★ ★

House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana told newsmen there is hope of a tax reduction in the next two or three years if the heavily Democratic new Congress goes along with Eisenhower's spending and legislative programs.

The President's budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 will go to Congress next Monday.

The White House recently announced it would be a balanced budget calling for spending about 77 billion dollars—approximately two billion less than in the current year.

Dulles Declares Red Plan Stupid

Says Germany Proposal Brutal and Dangerous to Peace of Europe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today Russian proposals for the future of Germany are brutal and stupid and fraught with danger for the peace of Europe.

★ ★ ★

Dulles told a news conference the United States and its Allies stand firm on their basic policy of tying a reunited Germany into the Western world.

But he also said, possibly for the first time, that German unification might be accomplished by ways other than through free elections. He declined to elaborate.

Dulles left no doubt he expects to take a very firm line on the German policy issue when talking with Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan here Friday. After the talk with Dulles, Mikoyan will see President Eisenhower on Saturday.

Dulles said he hopes the talks with Mikoyan may eliminate the dangers of miscalculations and accidental mistakes between the Soviet and U.S. governments but he said the United States is not negotiating with Mikoyan.

Young Mother Rescues Another in Noon Blaze

A six-months old boy died in flames that devoured a small, frame cottage at noon today in Highland Township.

Dead is David Newsum, whose 23-year-old mother was able to rescue one other child but was forced by flames and smoke to abandon her baby.

Cause of the fire at the Newsums' home, 2809 Duck Lake Rd., has not yet been determined.

The distraught young mother said she had just taken two other children, Lois, 4, and Edward, 3, out to play when she heard a third child, Vickie, 1½, screaming in the house.

"When I ran back in, there was smoke everywhere. I grabbed Vickie and carried her outside, then I went back in for the baby.

"But the smoke and flames were so terrible, I just couldn't make it to the baby. I had to leave."

Highland Township firemen found the baby's body in a bassinette in the living room opposite the front door. They began a search of the rubble to discover how the fire started.

★ ★ ★

"I haven't any idea what caused the fire," sobbed Mrs. Newsum. "We have an oil heater and a gas stove, but everything was working all right when I took the older kids out to play."

The Newsums also have another child, Michael, 5, who was attending kindergarten today. Newsum, a laid-off Pontiac Motor Division worker, was in Detroit.

Mrs. Newsum and the four surviving children went to the home of her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Newsum, 96 Monterey St.

Charges 'Deal' With Gangsters

Local Attorney Claims Texas Officials Protect Murder Informers

Texas authorities made a "deal" to uncover the slaying of Fort Worth gangster George Kean near Pontiac 13 months ago, it was charged today.

Two Texas hoodlums revealed the death to police on condition they would not be extradited to Michigan to stand trial, according to Pontiac attorney Clarence K. Smith.

"I have no proof of this, of course," Smith admitted to Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty and a jury of six men and six women, who are hearing charges of second-degree murder against Demitrios Tsermengas, an Ecorse ex-convict accused in Kean's death.

The body of Kean—described as Texas' most wanted man—was unearthed from a shallow grave near Alpena last September. A few days later, Tsermengas was arrested and charged with shooting the ex-convict to death during a drunken scuffle that occurred the previous December in a Commerce Township home.

★ ★ ★

Two members of Kean's gang, Thomas D. Smith and Lowell E. McComb, were present when the killing took place, but Texas authorities have refused up to now to let Michigan authorities place them on trial.

Charged with murder here, they also are held on lesser charges in Fort Worth.

The Pontiac attorney saw no collusion between Michigan and Texas authorities, except in so far as Michigan police once let Smith return to Texas without pressing any charge against him.

That was last September, when Smith was brought here to help locate the makeshift grave in which he, McComb and Tsermengas placed the dead man's body.

PLEAD ACCIDENT

Attorney Smith, who represents Tsermengas, indicated his client would plead the shooting occurred accidentally during a fight in which he was trying to defend himself.

Smith said that Tsermengas was no a member of Kean's gang, but had involuntarily become involved in it through his former criminal associates in Fort Worth.

Kean, McComb, Smith and Tsermengas were heading from Fort Worth to Sault Ste. Marie, where Kean planned a robbery, when they stopped off at the home of Donald Chandler, 1872 Pointe Dr., 10 miles west of Pontiac, Smith said.

Chandler, a friend of Tsermengas, witnessed the shooting but had no connection with the gang, authorities say.

Control Battle Looms in Deadlocked House

LANSING (AP) — With fingers crossed, Michigan lawmakers will be counting heads tomorrow when they assemble in the capitol to open the 70th legislature.

Absence of a single Democrat from the noon session in the house could throw control of the lower chamber to the Republicans. And any Republican who fails to show up will be throwing away GOP chances to take command.

Michigan voters are responsible for this crucial and unprecedented situation.

Last November they elected 55 Republicans and 55 Democrats to the house. Neither party won a majority of seats, so neither won authority to elect a speaker, control committees or enjoy the other spoils that go to the majority party.

Like the statewide situation, Oakland County voters in November caused a split among its six representatives in the House, electing three Republicans.

All but two, Reps. Lloyd L. Anderson (R-Waterford Township) and Farrell E. Roberts (R-West Bloomfield Township), will be newcomers. During the last session there were four Republicans and two Democrats.

Taking their oaths for the first time tomorrow noon will be Pontiac's Democratic representative, Arthur J. Law, James Clarkson, Democrat representing the Fourth District, William Hayward, Republican from the Fifth District, and John C. Hitchcock, Sixth District Democrat.

Republicans and Democrats will huddle today in separate caucuses to map strategy and try to agree on a plan for organization of the house. They'll clash head-on tomorrow in an expected battle royal for control.

If only 109 representatives put in appearances, however, prospects for a prolonged tug-of-war may dissolve. In that event, the reins of authority almost certainly will fall to the party with more members present.

Filibuster Rule Changed but Argument Continues

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has changed its rule governing debate, but the argument continued today over how big a step it had taken toward curbing filibusters.

"No gain at all," commented Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY), one of a group of Northern and Western Senators who had fought to make it easier to throttle filibusters against civil rights bills and other measures.

"A soothing syrup to lull the conscience of America," was the assessment of Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill), one of the leaders of the bipartisan fight for a rules change.

Some Southern Senators protested that the change — any change—went too far.

But an overwhelming majority of the Senate voted 72-22 for the new rule to allow two thirds of the Senators present and voting to cut off debate. A rule in effect since 1949 had required the votes of two-thirds of the entire Senate membership, or 66 of the 98 Senators.

The rules battle roared to its climax Monday night with Senators in sharp disagreement over what the effect of the new rule will be.

But no one questioned that the outcome was a spectacular triumph for Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader.

The change in rules went through just the way he proposed it on the opening day of the new Congress last Wednesday. Johnson and other Senate leaders of both parties called it a reasonable, middle-of-the-road solution.

Douglas said, however, that it marked a great victory for Southern senators.

With the aid of conservative Republicans, he said, they had been able "not to blunt but to reverse the drive for civil rights and an effective anti-filibuster rule."

In contrast, Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), said "it is a sad day when the Senate of the United States demeans itself by imposing new restraints" on freedom of debate.

Motel Beating Victim Dies

Accuse Pontiac Woman of Robbing Him at New York Lodging

A Syracuse salesman, found robbed and beaten in a Rochester, N. Y. motel Dec. 23, died today.

The status of a 21-year-old night club entertainer from Pontiac, arrested Christmas night at her home and charged with first degree robbery and first degree grand larceny in the case, was undetermined this afternoon.

George Fisher, 46, died of a skull fracture and brain lacerations. The victim failed to regain consciousness after being found 21 days ago in a Rochester, N. Y. motel.

Miss Wilson, who was arrested at the home of her parents, denied to Pontiac and Detroit police officers that she beat or robbed Fisher. Police said she admitted being in the motel with Fisher and claimed she left him the morning of Dec. 23 while he was sleeping and uninjured.

She waived examination Dec. 26 in Rochester, N. Y., and was ordered held for the grand jury. Miss Wilson is a divorcee and mother of two children.

A gold ring and $50 were missing when Fisher was found beaten. Some glass case holders manufactured by the optical firm for which Fisher works were found on Miss Wilson when she was picked up by police.

He is described by police as a boy friend of Miss Wilson. He told police the girl told him she slugged and robbed Fisher.

'Gun Game' Proves to Be Real Thing

DETROIT, Mich. (AP)—Waitress Janet Bundy thought the little boy was playing when he slammed a gun on the restaurant counter and demanded money Monday night.

"I grabbed for the gun," said Miss Bundy, 20, of Detroit. "I thought it was a toy. But the boy grabbed it back first and fired a shot into the floor."

Now realizing it was the real thing, she grappled with the boy when he came around the counter.

"He broke away and ran out of the store swearing and cursing," she said.

She described the would-be robber as about 12 years old. He had two companions between 12 and 14 who fled with him.

Ship Explodes, 13 Men Missing

34 Were on Salvage Tug Serving Crippled Tanker in Turkey

ISKENDERUN, Turkey (AP)—The giant tanker Mirador exploded in the harbor today and started to sink. Six Turkish crewmen of the Mirador and 7 crew members of the Turkish salvage tug Imroz were reported missing.

★ ★ ★

The Greek-owned tanker, which flies the Panamanian flag, was badly damaged in the harbor here Dec. 18 by a fire and explosion as it was transferring gasoline to the U.S. Navy oiler Ocklawaha.

Two Greek seamen on the 20,762-ton Mirador were killed in the blast and one was injured. Turkish officials investigated the possibility the earlier blast was caused by sabotage.

The tug Imroz was pumping water out of the Mirador's flooded tanks when the explosion took place today. The fire quickly spread to the tug.

Order Thompson to Stand Trial

Judge Says Evidence 'Sufficient' in Kierdorf Arson Case

Flint Municipal Judge Donald R. Freeman this morning held that Thompson, 41, be bound over to Genesee County Circuit Court following a two-day preliminary examination last month.

Judge Freeman ruled that "sufficient evidence" had been presented by the state to warrant the trial.

Thompson was permitted to remain free on a $1,500 bond pending Circuit Court arraignment on the arson charge Jan. 19.

Kierdorf, also a business agent with Flint Teamsters Local 332, died at Pontiac's St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Aug. 7, leaving investigators baffled about his mysterious death.

Genesee County Prosecutor Jerome F. O'Rourke paraded 32 witnesses to the stand during the preliminary hearing in an attempt to link Thompson as Kierdorf's accomplice in the bungled arson of the Latreille Dry Cleaners outside Flint on Aug. 3.

Twenty-nine was the lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The mercury rose to 35 at 2 p.m.

Kidnaped One Child to Regain 4 Others

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

NEW YORK—Police said today they believed that a 43-year-old widowed mother of eight children kidnaped newborn infant Lisa Rose Chionchio in an effort to trap her boyfriend into marriage.

Ironically, authorities said, the alleged plot of the accused kidnaper, Mrs. Jean Iavarone, was designed to get back four of her children who have been placed in orphanages and foster homes because she was considered incapable of caring for them.

They theorized that Mrs. Iavarone, a stout, blonde grandmother who lived alone, had abducted the infant from a Brooklyn hospital nursery 2½ hours after her birth Jan. 2, with the intention of telling a boyfriend it was their child.

Assuming he would agree to marriage, Mrs. Iavarone believed that, with a husband and home, she would be permitted to regain custody of the four children who had been taken away from her, authorities said.

The plot failed, however, when a suspicious woman neighbor—in the 313th telephoned tip on the mystery—led police Sunday to a cluttered one-room apartment in a dilapidated Brooklyn brownstone apartment building.

There, only 200 yards from the Brooklyn police headquarters, police found Mrs. Iavarone and the Chionchio baby.

The baby, in good health, was returned Monday to the arms of her happy, tearful 26-year-old mother, Frances. In a jubilant reunion at St. Peter's Hospital, the mother said it was the happiest day of her life.

The infant, who had gained one ounce over her seven pounds at birth, had received good care in the first nine days of her life.

The Chionchio family expressed compassion for the alleged kidnaper and renewed a pledge made while the baby was missing that she could visit the child.

MRS. JEAN IAVARONE

In fact, the father of Lisa Rose was so delighted at getting his infant daughter back unharmed that he balked for a time today at signing a complaint against the baby's alleged kidnaper.

The father, Frank Chionchio, a 28-year-old lawyer, changed his mind and agreed to sign after a conference in the chambers of a Brooklyn magistrate and a subsequent telephone conversation with his wife.

News Flashes

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Jean Iavarone was held in lieu of $50,000 bail today on charges growing out of the kidnaping of 2½-hour-old Lisa Rose Chionchio. A defense request for a mental examination of the defendant was denied.

LANSING (UPI) — Democratic chances of breaking GOP control of the House were dimmed today with the disclosure that Rep. Josephine D. Republican leaders said they knew of no GOP members that would be absent but emphasized anything could happen.

Top State Court Rules on Huron-Clinton Millage

A ruling yesterday by the State Supreme Court that tax collections for the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority must be made a part of the 15-mill taxing limitation will be felt in Oakland County, according to Norman R. Barnard, county corporation counsel.

The high court reversed a Wayne County Circuit Court decision concerning levying of a one-quarter mill by five southeastern Michigan counties.

The eight justices, splitting 5 to 3 on technicalities of the ruling, said the case should be remanded back to the Wayne court for a judgment in favor of Chester J. Morse, who brought the suit against the Wayne County Board of Supervisors.

However, the high court was unanimous in agreeing that the decision of Wayne Circuit Judge Frank Fitzgerald should be reversed. It said the authority is not a municipal corporation and is therefore not exempt from the constitutional limitation.

Oakland followed Wayne County this year in collecting tax outside the limitation, based on the decision of the Wayne-Court that this could be done as it represented a voted increase by the people.

Barnard said this reversal of the Supreme Court will mean that in the preparation of the county's 1960 budget, the annual one-quarter mill will have to be included within the 15 mills.

"This won't affect us immediately," Barnard said, "as the county is already collecting for this year outside the limitation."

Oakland officials viewed the earlier Wayne court decision as an aid to the county's heavy welfare burden. That portion of the 15-mill limitation taken up in past years by the tax for the authority was slated to go toward lessening this welfare burden.

Based on state equalized figures this represented roughly $441,000, said Robert Y. Moore, Board of Auditors chairman.

In other decisions affecting Oakland County, the Supreme Court ruled there was no fraud or misrepresentation in the sale of 91 lots to the A & M Land Development Co. in 1955.

The lots, located in the Bloomfield Knolls Subdivision in West Bloomfield Township, were sold to the company by Samuel A. Miller.

The development firm said it understands there were certain improvements on the land that later were found not there and asked for damages before Wayne Circuit Judge Horace Gilmore. Gilmore dismissed the case.

The company appealed to the high court and was turned down yesterday when it upheld the dismissal of the suit.

In a third matter, the late Oakland Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick was upheld by the State Supreme Court yesterday on his decision involving a disputed $7,000 rental payment by Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

Hartrick said the Adeline Realty Co. was not entitled to collect rent from the telephone company for a building in Royal Oak during a two-month period when ownership of the building was in question.

Bell had deeded the property to Excel Investors, Inc., with the agreement Excel could construct a building for lease to Bell.

The investment firm deeded the property to Adeline Realty Co., but Bell continued to make its rental payments to Excel.

Phone Warning Brings on Rush to Pay Tickets

Traffic offenders began converging on the Violations Bureau of the Municipal Court en masse late yesterday afternoon after being warned by phone if they didn't settle up quickly a warrant would be issued for their arrest.

The policy of the Violations Bureau, which was moved from under the wing of the Police Department to the court at the beginning of the year, is to give motorists seven days to pay fines, according to Leo F. McDonald, court clerk.

On the eighth day, offenders will receive a call telling them to come in within 24 hours or they will be arrested and taken into court, McDonald said.

If they have no phone, delinquent violators will be arrested after the seven-day period, he said.

McDonald pointed out that, in addition to the fine, delinquents will have to pay $5 for each warrant issued.

In addition, Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum said delinquents taken to court could be sentenced up to $100 or 90 days in jail—or both.

Thirty persons who failed to pay their fines since the first of the year were called yesterday, with 15 paying fines shortly after. The others gave assurances they would settle today.

A total of $19,413 was earmarked for alcoholism programs in three other cities and at University of Michigan and Wayne State University. A total $128,654 was sent out under the library program.

Delta County Circuit Court injunction issued in 1956 against Teamster Local 328 at the request of Town and Country, Inc., Escanaba General Motors dealer.

Unanimously, the Supreme Court held that Congress had reserved exclusively to the National Labor Relations Board the right to seek injunctive relief where a dispute hinged on alleged unfair labor practices.

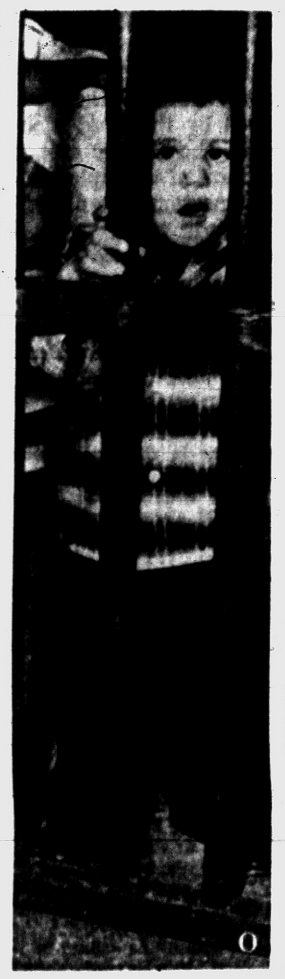

The NLRB has the right, under the Taft-Hartley Act of 1947, to relinquish jurisdiction to states whose laws are consistent with federal law, but had not done so, the justices found.

By then declining to exercise its exclusive jurisdiction in disputes failing to measure up to certain economic yardsticks, the federal board left a "no-man's land situation," they continued, with neither employers or employes having a remedy as to a large number of unfair labor practices.

BATISTA MEN ON TRIAL Four followers of former Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista appear before a Cuban rebel tribunal, where they were convicted of crimes against the revolutionary movement. They were among 75 executed yesterday. Below, a Havana youngster peers through the bars at the La Cabana military prison as he seeks to talk with his father inside. Need Little Time for Cuban Verdicts

(A United Press International reporter describes the trial of three of Batista's soldiers in the following dispatch.)

By ANDRES LOPEZ

COLON, Matanzas Province, Cuba (UPI)—Cuban revolutionary justice allows plenty of time for testimony but needs only minutes to reach a verdict.

★ ★ ★

This was the pattern in yesterday's trial of three former Batista soldiers on charges they were responsible for 20 to 30 deaths in this sugar town 45 miles east of the provincial capitol of Matanzas.

A five-man tribunal headed by Capt. Julio Chaviano, local commandant of the July 26th movement, convened at 4 p.m. at a rural guard headquarters building.

In addition to Chaviano, a young Castro guerrilla veteran, the tribunal consisted of two other members of the rebel movement—a militiaman and a civilian member of the rebel underground.

★ ★ ★

On trial were former army Capt. Isidoro Lopez, Sgt. Juan Leonard and a private soldier, Segundo Napoles, who sat on folding wooden chairs when not addressing the court.

PRESS WATCHES

At one point Leonard vigorously disputed his former commanding officers' assertions to the court.

The press and witnesses were permitted to attend the trial but residents of the area were excluded and could only peer in through the dusty windows.

Once the long testimony was finished Chaviano cleared the court and the accused men were returned to their cells. Five minutes later the verdict was ready and the men were brought again into the courtroom.

Chaviano read the verdict: "Guilty" and sentenced them to be shot. He then saluted Lopez who returned the salute, wheeled and again was sent to his cell.

★ ★ ★

The rebels sent a Roman Catholic priest, Fr. Juan Langlois of Montreal, into Lopez' cell where he spent several minutes hearing the captain's confession.

The priest had been gone only a few minutes when shouting echoed throughout the jail. Rebel guards rushed to Lopez' cell and found him clutching his throat, gurgling and gasping.

He had tried strangling himself with a mattress string but it broke. The rebels conducted him to a hospital.

The execution must await approval of the tribunal's sentence by the provincial military commandant, William Galves, in Matanzas.

Battle Looms in Legislature

meeting that probably will last into June.

If house members organize, Gov. Williams will go before a joint session Thursday with a message recommending methods of meeting the state's current cash crisis. Williams said last week state government operations will be "seriously hamstrung" if the legislature doesn't produce between 35 and 75 million dollars in the next month.

The Governor said yesterday he will defer his recommendations on new taxes, "probably for a couple of weeks."

House Republicans and Democrats so far show no signs of relinquishing control to the rival party.

Republican leaders, led by house speaker George M. Van Peursem (R-Zeeland), proposed soon after the election to split control down the middle. They suggested that one party name the speaker, the other the speaker protem, and that both share equally on committee memberships.

★ ★ ★

Democrats, relegated to an underdog's role for the last 20 years, wouldn't buy the GOP plan. They insisted on full control, citing their bigger vote total on a statewide basis.

SENATE CALM

Rep. Louis Mezzano (D-Wakefield), house minority leader, stands out as a slight favorite for speaker if Democrats win out. But opposition has come from supporters of veteran Reps. Michael J. O'Brien and Joseph Kowalski, both of Detroit. F. Charles Raap (D-Twin Lake) is another possibility.

Across the capitol rotunda, the senate, by contrast, will meet in an atmosphere of settled calm.

With Democrats in control of every fulltime elective state office, the upper chamber is the last stronghold of the GOP in Michigan. But there Republicans reign supreme, controlling 22 of the 34 seats.

Without fuss or fanfare, senate Democrats named Sen. Harold M. Ryan (D-Detroit) minority leader, replacing John B. Swainson, the new Lieutenant Governor. Sen. Frank D. Beadle (R-St. Clair) retained his job as GOP floor spokesman.

O'Rourke claims Thompson was with Kierdorf on the arson job. Thompson claims he had not seen Kierdorf for more than two days before the fire, and that he had spent the weekend at his cottage in Grayling.

The Genesee prosecutor produced two witnesses, the owner and caretaker of a Flint apartment house in which Thompson's mother resides, who contradicted Thompson's testimony.

Mrs. Dorothy Wallace, the caretaker, said she saw Thompson drive into the apartment driveway on the night of the fire.

She also said another bespectacled man, who might have been Kierdorf, was with him.

Both she and the owner, Roscoe W. Clark, said they smelled the odor of burned flesh at that time.

Club Members Boost Fund for Fire Victim

Response to the "Max Richardson Fund," established by members of Edgewood Country Club, Commerce Township, was reported excellent today.

Mrs. Robert Spengler of 8877 Edgewood Dr., Commerce Township, who started the fund for Richardson, who was critically burned, said, "We received a $200 donation from a group of 30 members over the weekend and another $160 Monday afternoon."

Richardson, 40, of 2624 Walton Blvd., Waterford Township, is widely known for his many years of service in area golfing circles.

He was burned Jan. 5 when an electric heater ignited gas fumes in his garage, causing an explosion and fire. Fighting for his life for seven days, he was taken off the critical list for the first time this morning at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Richardson left a managerial position at Edgewood a month ago to become vice president and manager of Hillcrest Golf and Country Club near Mount Clemens.

Blood donations are being referred to the Pontiac Elks Lodge, which is handling donations through its blood bank.

Richardson was connected with various other golf clubs in the county and was manager of the Pontiac Country Club before going to Edgewood.

The Hillcrest owners have assured him he will remain on the payroll until he is able to assume full time duties once again. A close friend, Jack Hoffmann, ex pro at Edgewood now at Hillcrest, is planning to promote a benefit dance at Hillcrest for Richardson.

The employes and management at The Hub Clothiers, where Richardson worked in the off-season, have offered to back any benefits planned and are expecting to make a donation to the fund later this week.

Richardson served in the Air Force during World War II and currently holds the rank of major in the Air Force Reserve.

Return to Command Is Eyed by Straley

By MAX E. SIMON

Police Chief Herbert W. Straley indicated yesterday he is uncertain of his future role with the Pontiac Police Department, but that he is operating on the assumption he will be restored as department commander.

Straley, stripped of his powers Nov. 12 by Public Safety Director George D. Eastman, has since been attached to Eastman's staff on "special assignment."

His two assignments have been to prepare an analysis of the Public Administration Service (PAS) report, which was highly critical of both Straley and the department, and a report on vice in Pontiac.

The chief has turned in his vice report, but is still working on the PAS report analysis.

Straley said yesterday, "I've never been in a position like this before. It's so unusual—I don't know what to make of it.

"I've served the city well for seven years and suddenly I find myself removed from command. I've had several talks with the city manager. I asked him why I was removed. But he has never given me an answer.

"When I asked him about it last week, he told me: 'Things will straighten out.'"

Straley said he had never discussed resigning with City Manager Walter K. Willman and had never been asked to do so.

Straley has said that he would never resign, and if the city wished to oust him, it would have to file formal charges before the Civil Service Commission.

"With my many years of experience, I feel I could be of great assistance in handling department problems. But I'm not called on to do so and I don't know why," the chief said.

Straley said he was operating under the assumption that he would be restored as department commander but had "no idea" when this would be.

"That's up to them," he explained, referring to Willman and Eastman.

"I don't want to see the chief hurt if it can be avoided. He's served the city for seven years," Willman told the Commission in getting an informal agreement from the Commission for more time before deciding on Straley's status.

"A little more time won't hurt," Willman said. The Police Department troubles, after all, have been going on for quite a while."

Willman refused to specify whether he had in mind retaining Straley or bringing removal charges against him before the Civil Service Commission.

★ ★ ★

He refused to say whether he had discussed resignation with Straley.

Fair From Rockies to Atlantic

Mild Weather Prevails

By The Associated Press

Dry and fairly mild winter weather was the outlook for most areas from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast today.

Showers dampened Western sections of the country and cooler air moved into northern California and the Pacific Northwest. It also was a little cooler in parts of Minnesota.

Considerable sunshine and generally southerly winds warmed nearly all of the Midwest and East Monday. Southwesterly Gulf winds sent temperatures rising in Florida.

Temperatures were higher than 24 hours earlier in nearly all areas east of the Rockies, with the greatest warming in a belt from northern Alabama and northern Georgia northward through the Virginias into Pennsylvania, Ohio and the Great Lakes.

Rain diminished along the Pacific Coast, with heaviest falls continuing along the central California coast. Light rain fell throughout southern Idaho.

Light drizzle sprayed eastern sections of Texas while light snow was reported in the lower Great Lakes region and northern New England.

BIRMINGHAM — Members of the newly-formed Birmingham Ski Club will forego their formal meeting tomorrow night in favor of a trip to Mt. Grampian at Oxford.

Non-members interested in the ski club's first trip can get full details at the recreation office in the Municipal Building. Dr. Stewart Scott, chairman, and Don Kirby, acting club secretary, said the group will leave Birmingham at 7:30 p.m.

Now numbering 45 members the club is planning its first full weekend trip Jan. 21 to Caberfae.

Capt. Raph Bessig, commanding officer of the Birmingham Civil Air Patrol, said a recruitment drive by the group will highlight the 7 p.m. meeting tomorrow at Pembroke Elementary School.

Boys and girls 14 years of age or older are eligible for enlistment. Parents of CAP cadets may apply for membership in the parent club.

Deaths Mount in Cuban Purge

From Our News Wires

HAVANA — Rebel sources said today "several thousand" Batista men faced revolutionary justice throughout Cuba. It was certain the death toll would rise far above the known formal and informal executions.

At least 145 persons had been reported executed between Batista's flight on Jan. 1 and Monday night. More speedy trials were under way, including hearings for possibly 100 prisoners in Oriente province.

The toll took a big jump Monday when revolutionary firing squads reportedly shot 75 persons near Santiago, capital of Oriente, where Castro's rebellion was centered and anti-rebel repression was strongest.

Officials of the provisional government claimed all cases were being fully investigated, but otherwise there was no information on the trials of the condemned men.

Rebels in Santiago commanded by Raul Castro, brother of the revolutionary leader, have arrested at least 320 persons. Seventy of them faced a mass trial and 14 were executed immediately.

In addition 40 persons were reported "informally" executed by zealous Rebels in the early hours of victory before the Rebel command gained control over the overzealous civilians. At least 20 of the killings were reported in Havana.

Mikoyan Meets, Clowns With Jerry Lewis

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Soviet deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan continues his cross-country goodwill tour of the United States today with a trip to New York City before returning to Washington for talks with President Eisenhower next Saturday.

Mikoyan traded clowning capers on a Hollywood movie set with comedian Jerry Lewis yesterday and topped his successful three day visit here by appearing as a guest on a local television show (Paul Coates Show of Los Angeles station KTTV).

His visit to Los Angeles was unmarred by public demonstrations that punctured his stays in Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and San Francisco.

"As far as we are concerned," Mikoyan told interviewer Paul Coates, "we do not want a war over Berlin, but it depends on the other side to keep the peace."

Mikoyan completed his busy day which included a tour of UCLA, a luncheon meeting with prominent businessmen and educators and a visit to Paramount Studios by taking a walk around the grounds of his hotel shortly before retiring to his suite about midnight.

Earlier, the glib Russian official clowned with Jerry Lewis on the set of the comedian's latest picture, and even planted a firm kiss in the European style on Lewis' cheek.

Mikoyan seemed to want to meet all the beautiful starlets in the studio, causing Lewis to wisecrack: "I'm going to get a skirt and sweater, that's the only way you can make an impression on this guy."

Toastmasters to Hold Meeting at Hospital

The Pontiac Toastmasters Club No. 643 tonight will hold one of the most unusual regular meetings in the club's history.

Meetings are regularly held at the Pontiac YMCA, but because one of the members, Charles Dugas, is currently recovering from a foot operation at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, arrangements have been made to have the meeting in the hospital conference room.

The club will have dinner at the YMCA and then go to the hospital for its business meeting and weekly program beginning at 7 p.m.

New York Will Hike Gas Tax as 1st Step

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—New York State will raise its gasoline tax by two cents a gallon within a few weeks. It also may increase the income tax and raise its tax on cigarettes.

That was the outlook today as the legislature's Republican high command moved swiftly to carry out a call by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for higher taxes to balance a record budget of nearly two billion dollars.

After weeks of hinting, Rockefeller revealed last night he had decided the gasoline tax must be increased from four to six cents a gallon.

He had said previously there would be a 230-million-dollar deficit unless additional revenues were found.

167% Sales Gain for 1959 Ramblers Proves:

by GEORGE ROMNEY
President, American Motors Corporation

Recently, I overheard two men talking about cars. One said, "I'm just sick. I paid $5,000 for my car and in less than six months it rattles and squeaks like a milk wagon. And they can't seem to do anything about it!"

Unhappily, this is a remark that is heard far too often. A recent survey showed the greatest number of complaints about the big cars centered on gasoline consumption. Next came complaints about squeaks, rattles, poor workmanship, "poor body construction."

Rambler Owners are Happier because of Rambler's Finer Quality

By contrast, all-round satisfaction of Rambler owners was far higher than that of owners of any other make surveyed, all of whose cars cost more than Rambler. That's because no car manufactured in America—regardless of price—is built to higher standards of engineering quality, of workmanship and of inspection than the 1959 Ramblers. Even a short ride will prove this to you as it has to hundreds of thousands of Rambler owners.

Rambler quality is superior because Rambler is engineered better and is built with the basically superior construction method used in jet airliners, streamlined trains, transcontinental buses.

Single unit construction is the only modern, efficient way to build anything that needs to move swiftly, economically and comfortably. It gives more room without bulk. It has far greater torsional strength and rigidity, while reducing cumbersome, gas-wasting weight.

So, we invested $50,000,000 in new plant facilities to build cars this new and better way. As a result, hundreds of thousands of Rambler buyers have saved tens of millions of dollars on first cost, maintenance, fuel and depreciation.

Safer Single Unit Construction

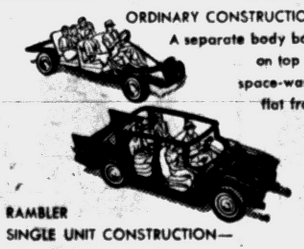

Passengers in cars with old-type construction ride above and outside the frame (see drawings at lower left). In Rambler, with single unit construction, structural girders surround the passenger compartment, making it much safer in case the car is struck from the side. Big box-girders also extend forward to protect passengers and engine from impact.

Now Even More Miles Per Gallon

For 1959, Rambler has a new, costlier, gas-saving carburetor which delivers up to 2 more miles to the gallon.

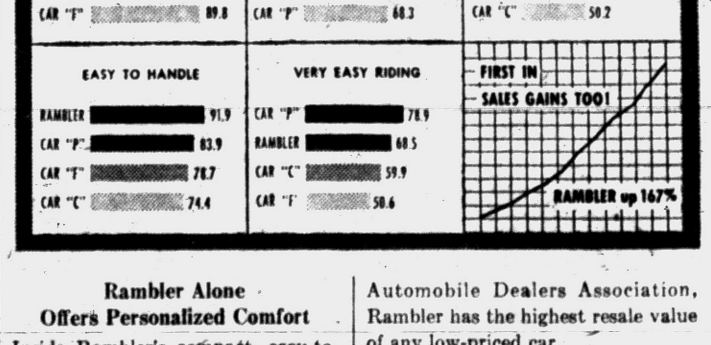

"Deep-Dip" Rustproofing and Wide Use of Costly Aluminum Save You Money

No other low-priced car gives you rustproof aluminum window frames, nor "Deep-Dip" rustproofing. And for 1959, Rambler has added costlier aluminized mufflers and tailpipes to give years more service.

HOW THEIR OWNERS RATE THE LEADING LOW-PRICE CARS:
according to an impartial survey of 3,600 owners of each make.
(Includes equal numbers of 6 cylinder and V-8 owners.)

RAMBLER QUALITY RANKS FIRST IN 8 OF 10 COUNTS

Rambler Alone Offers Personalized Comfort

Inside Rambler's compact, easy-to-park exterior is full room for six big men, including plenty of legroom for the "middleman." That room is even more usable with new Personalized Comfort. Front seats are sectional sofas that glide back and forth individually, so driver and passenger can each adjust legroom to his comfort. Other exclusive comfort features include Airliner Reclining Seats, adjustable headrests and Twin Travel Beds.

Stricter Inspection Standards

"Not how many, but how well built," is our motto. Our employees are conscientious participants in this program. They build cars carefully and inspect every one thoroughly before it goes to a Rambler dealer for delivery to a customer.

Highest Quality—Highest Resale

You can ask no better proof of the true quality of a product than the price it will bring as a used car on the open market. According to both nationwide authorities, the Red Book National Market Reports and the Official Used Car Guide of the National Automobile Dealers Association, Rambler has the highest resale value of any low-priced car.

The Rambler Star is Soaring

As other cars grow bigger, heavier and more costly (yet with less usable passenger room), Rambler sales go higher. 1958 Rambler model sales were 88.6% above 1957. And already, sales of 1959 Ramblers are 167.4% above 1958 sales for the same period.

Who Will Be the Boss—You or Your Automobile?

In many families, the question is as simple as that. The expense of owning and operating a big, gas-hungry car can literally take control of the family finances and wreck the household budget. If you want to own your car instead of its owning you, you will be wise to see your Rambler dealer. See how the 1959 Ramblers, while not neglecting styling and comfort, have been built to "last longer" rather than to "look longer." You will not only save a substantial sum of money, you will have a finer quality car that is more fun to drive.

Both Have Eye on Dem Nomination for President

Kennedy, Humphrey Will Be Playing Trumps in Senate

(This is the second of a series of articles by a noted Washington correspondent highlighting the key men in the Capitol today as the new session of Congress builds up steam.)

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON—The most scintillating sideshow of the current congressional session will be the hurdle race of Democratic senators hell-bent on winning the presidency.

Already off to a fast start is wealthy, 41-year-old Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, whose Midas-rich daddy has reportedly put his bulging bankroll at the disposal of his eldest son's ambition.

The entourage of high-priced public relations men who are already at work to advance Kennedy's chances recently prompted a gridiron skit by Washington newsmen entitled: "I give the best speeches money can buy."

Certainly the youthful senator chalked up more miles and delivered more speeches to more varied national audiences than any of his rivals last year. Only two states in the Union have yet to greet the charming, intellectual millionaire with the infectious smile and the boyish crewcut.

A Boston Irish Catholic who has become the darling of many southern politicians, he is the son of former ambassador to Britain Joseph P. Kennedy.

Studious by nature, the senator has made his weight felt on the powerful Foreign Relations Committee, and on the Senate Racketeering Committee which his younger brother, Robert, ably serves as chief counsel.

WON HEAD START

Kennedy won a head start over his current rivals at the Democratic convention in 1956 when Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee—now considered a dead-dog for the presidency—narrowly beat him out for the vice presidential nomination.

★ ★ ★

Recipient of a Pulitizer Prize for his book about senatorial predecessors entitled "Profiles in Courage," Kennedy concedes that the most serious strike against his presidential hopes is his religion. Few politicians today believe, however, that this fact could have the repercussions which led to the overwhelming defeat of Al Smith a generation ago.

Spurting too far in front too early in the game is not always healthy for a presidential aspirant, and Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota believes that he has a trump card in his pocket.

The loquacious solon who recently filibustered Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for eight solid hours in the Kremlin is considered by many to be organized labor's choice for the presidency.

The mantle long worn by Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams slipped westward to Humphrey when millionaire "Soapy" ran behind his ticket last November in his sixth win of the governorship.

A former mayor of Minneapolis, 47-year-old Humphrey is an outspoken member of the Foreign Relations Committee who will undoubtedly nominate himself to take the lead in all matters concerning Soviet Russia during the current session. After all, other senators have spoken to Khrushchev, but not at such marathon length.

Good friends, Kennedy and Humphrey frequently kid each other about their mutual presidential ambitions. But with civil rights as the hottest domestic issue in the Democratic fold, the prize could slip through both of their eager clutches.

Few believe that southern conservatives would accept an all-out liberal like Humphrey as the standard bearer of the Democratic Party, if at the same time a strong civil rights plank were written into the platform.

Should the 1960 convention deadlock over that blazing issue, a compromise candidate may be found in the person of Sen. Stuart Symington, a 55-year-old millionaire who hails from the border state of Missouri.

Tall, blonde, good looking Symington is a former secretary of the Air Force who speaks with an authoritative voice on the Armed Services Committee.

A sometimes golfing companion of President Eisenhower, he is nevertheless an outspoken critic of the administration in its efforts to reduce defense spending, and has usually won congressional support for his pleas to strengthen the Air Force.

Only one president in modern times has been elected to the White House directly from the Senate, and these three hopefuls know thaat they must vie for the prize against twice-loser Adlai Stevenson and a glittering array of Democratic governors.

A small town (says Carey Williams) is a place where a bus strike doesn't tie up the commuters . . . Snow, grumbles an unhappy suburbanite, is something you can't do anything with, for, or against. —Earl Wilson.

Hunt for Boy, 16, After Landslide in Frisco Bay

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Under searchlight glare from a Coast Guard boat, police and firemen dug frantically into a landslide in the Golden Gate Monday night for a missing 16-year-old boy, Bill Stoltero. The search will be resumed today.

★ ★ ★

His girl friend, with whom he had been climbing up a cliff from a beach, told police they saw a mass of earth and rock hurtling down on them from above.

"I jumped one way and he jumped the other —, he just jumped the wrong way," said Margaret Valentine, 15.

★ ★ ★

She was covered with mud and suffered from bruises when she panted to the top of the cliff and hailed a passerby to report Stoltero's disappearance down the 350-foot cliff.

Williams Asks Board for Senior Citizens

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Gov. Williams says he plans to appoint a state commission on the aging in the immediate future.

The governor announced the plan last night in an address to the Michigan Society of Gerontology. (Gerontology is the study of the problems of old age).

Williams noted a proposal for a state commission on the aging almost got through the last legislature.

"This year," he added, "I think it will be passed and Michigan will at last recognize by a separate agency the needs of our senior citizens."

Fishing Vessel Runs for Shore With Live Mine

In fact, the cree made a run for port because of the extra 500 pounds picked up with 1,000 pounds of cod.

The extra weight? A magnetic mine — live — similar to the type used by the United States during World War II.

★ ★ ★

The mine, containing 300 pounds of explosives, was pulled aboard five miles east of Block Island. Ashore, the mine was taken care of by a Navy demolition team.

BFA Helps Failures in Business

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Can a man talk himself out of failure?

A 40-year-old engineer who has failed himself, been jailed for drunkenness and spent the last 18 months in Alcoholics Anonymous thinks so.

In fact he started his own organization a few months ago, patterned after AA. It is called Business Failures Anonymous.

The founder, like all BFA members, insists on remaining anonymous.

He is soft-spoken, the father of three, and proprietor of a going engineering business. But he describes himself as a failure.

"I'm a self-made man and proud of it. But I can look back on a self-made career and find that I did a terrible job."

He and the members don't seek professional advice on how to achieve success. They probe for solutions within themselves. The meetings are devoted to frank conversation in which "the people try to find out where they went wrong."

The only requirement for membership:

"The individual must show a desire to avoid failure in the future."

Sinclair Weeks Made Trustee for Dad's Library

LANCASTER, N. H. (AP)—Sinclair Weeks, "unemployed" since retiring as secretary of commerce, has a new job today, but without pay.

An official resident of this northern New Hampshire town of 3,113 residents for only 12 days, Weeks was appointed to the board of trustees of the William D. Weeks Memorial Library here.

The library was donated to the town by his father, William D. Weeks, a former secretary of war.

Dems Warm Up House, Say Idaho Republicans

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—Seventeen Republican lawmakers, in an informal resolution Monday, asked if the heat could be turned down in Idaho's House "in the interests of economy and in the presence of excessive Democratic hot air."

Replied Don Pieper, Democratic majority leader: "The State House has a central heating system, and the furnace remains under the Governor's jurisdiction."

Water-Borne Typhoid Extinct in Michigan

LANSING (AP) — Typhoid fever isn't the serious health menace it used to be in Michigan.

No cases of water-borne typhoid were reported last year for the 24th straight year, the State Health Department said yesterday.

If the 1900 typhoid death rate had prevailed, there would have been 2,700 deaths, the department said.

It took four years of intensified study to open two brittle, corroded copper rolls containing portions of the Dead Sea Scrolls. An English scientist contrived a special saw which sliced the copper with delicate incisions only six one-thousanths of an inch wide.

Arkansas Low in School Costs

$154 Per-Pupil Outlay Is Least of Any State; Oregon Rates Highest

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arkansas spends the least per pupil and Oregon the most among the 32 states in which school districts operate the public schools, the Census Bureau reported Monday.

Operating outlays per pupil in Arkansas in 1957 were $154, the census survey of school district finances showed.

This was well below half the amount spent in Oregon, $356 per pupil. The school enrollments are roughy comparable: Arkansas enrolled 388,000 pupils in October 1956, and spent $59,854,000; Oregon had 340,000 pupils and spent $120,918,000.

Second lowest state in per capita outlay was South Carolina, $165. Third was Alabama $177. Then came Kentucky $185, and Georgia, $192. All other states spent more than $200 per pupil.

After Oregon at the upper end of the scale was California with $355. School operating outlays in that state approached the billion-dollar mark; educating California's 2,809,000 enrolled pupils cost $996,051,000.

The third highest state in per capita outlay was Wyoming, $347.

★ ★ ★

The other states followed in order:

Spent $118,700 on Roads in Waterford Township

Approximately $118,700 was spent in 1958 on Waterford Township roads, according to the annual report of the Oakland County Road Commission.

The largest amount, $34,960, was for roadside and drainage work. Pavement patching was next highest, totaling $27,873.

Indian Chief Deplores 'Savagery'

Apologizes to Mikoyan

DURAND (AP)—Chief White Bird, who represents 4,000 Chippewa Indians in Michigan, says he has mailed Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan an apology for the eggs thrown at him during his visit to Detroit Thursday.

★ ★ ★

"When the white men first came to America we Indians treated them as guests should be treated," White Bird wrote. "We continued to treat them as guests as long as they conducted themselves as guests. We were often referred to as uncivilized savages.

"You (Mikoyan) being a visitor of this onetime Indian territory of Michigan, I must apologize for the way some of the modern savages behaved while you were here. So far you have conducted yourself very well during your stay here.

★ ★ ★

"This is the way I feel and I know it is the opinion of the other 'Americans' even though I think you and your Moscow Reds consider a treaty made in good faith 'a mere scrap of paper.' We Indians are very familiar with mere scraps of paper treaties. I have spoken."

When not acting in his capacity as an Indian chief, White Bird is known as George Cook, an iron worker living near this Central Michigan community.

Would-Be Settlers Send Scouts to Inspect Alaska

DETROIT (UPI) — A group of Detroiters, determined to homestead in Alaska, have decided to send a couple of scouts on ahead.

Some 38 families who plan to leave in March for the Kenai Peninsula, chipped in $850 to send two men on an exploration trip.

The men will be gone three weeks and will investigate the quality of soil, accessibility of land, prices in Alaska, markets, jobs, restrictions and available homesteads.

The group also adopted a name, "The Fifty-Niners" and elected Ronald Jacobowitz, 23, founder of the homestead expedition, as its president.

Originally around 70 families had planned to make the Alaska trek, but warnings of hard times by Alaskans caused some to withdraw.

Others withdrew because they objected to the plan for pooling equipment and for common use of individual labor in the land-clearing and home-building projects.

Negroes Should Support Party That Helps Them

It's common knowledge that Negroes are subject to varying degrees of insults and indignities in the rock-ribbed, Democratic south. Below the Mason-Dixon Line, the colored people get their worst and most unfriendly treatment.

★ ★ ★

That's where some aren't allowed to attend school with the whites. That's where they are given railroad waiting rooms of their own. That's where they ride in segregated sections of cars and busses. That's where they can't vote, except in a limited degree. That big region is the geographical stronghold of the Democratic Party and yet millions of colored people VOTE DEMOCRATIC.

★ ★ ★

They accept the worst social treatment accorded on this continent and then file to the polls and vote for the party that represents their tormentors—north and south.

★ ★ ★

It now remains for Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia, (a Democrat, of course) to prepare a bill which would compel the Federal Government to pay the costs of moving southern colored families to the north. This is about the frankest statement that has come out lately. In other words, "we simply don't want you colored people around us. We're going to try and get the National Government to move you."

What else does it say?

What other interpretation is there?

★ ★ ★

Was there ever a more direct slap at a race than this?

Come election time, will the Negroes "vote Democratic"—thus supporting the party that has fought them continuously for a century?

DID ANY REPUBLICAN ANYWHERE EVER MAKE A PROPOSAL LIKE THIS?

You Have to Hand It to Those Danes

Denmark may be a small country, but the Danes are a great race.

★ ★ ★

A lot of Pontiac people became convinced of this fact years ago when they had an opportunity to rub elbows with the late William S. Knudsen, who later became president of General Motors. Knudsen came to the United States as an immigrant from Denmark to make his way in the New World.

★ ★ ★

More Pontiac residents are ready to go along with the idea, having come to know SEMON E. KNUDSEN, general manager of Pontiac Motor Division and son of the former G.M. president. And of course there are plenty of other good Danes about.

These Danes have active minds. They are idea men. They are self-starters.

The latest demonstration of this racial characteristic came to light recently. It was all but buried in the mass of publicity which annually bursts forth in the effort to lure Americans abroad for the Christmas holidays, or for Easter, or next summer. Any time at all, just so more American tourists head toward Europe.

"Bring the youngsters to Denmark," say the Danes.

"We'll take care of them while the parents tour Europe."

★ ★ ★

The Danish National Travel Office came up with this gimmick which seeks to make sure that Denmark gets its share of the tourist trade. It offers a list of camps, homes and special hotels near Copenhagen.

It feels that in Denmark the children will find ideal surroundings in its fairy tale climate since that great creator of fairy tales, HANS CHRISTIAN ANDERSEN was a Dane.

Maybe this new pitch won't work any miracles, but you have to hand it to its originator. He's in there trying.

AS A U. S. citizen, you now own 1/175,000,000 of the Hope diamond. You would run into difficulties, however, should you try to hock your share of it.

Recreational Spots in Our County Had a Record Year

Well, It Worked on the Walls of Jericho

David Lawrence Says:

Balanced Budget Is Vital to U.S.

WASHINGTON — The battle of the century has begun. How it turns out will affect the future of the American dollar for decades to come. On the way the die is cast in the next few months depends the purchasing power of the pay envelopes of millions of Americans.

LAWRENCE

Will the dollar remain stable or will it decline still further? For today the dollar is worth 48 cents in terms of what it was worth just 20 years ago—and if the forces of confiscation have their way, it could go down to 25 cents in another decade.

★ ★ ★

The whole world is watching to see what America does. It affects trade everywhere.

The battle against a stable dollar is being waged here right now under respectable auspices by men in Congress who scorn the label "radical" but who could commit the United States to expenditures far beyond the President's budget.

★ ★ ★

Already the American people are being told by the political partisans that a "balanced budget" means insecurity or indifference to the military safety of the country. To play upon such fears, the devotees of the doctrine of spending evidently believe, is to get sanction for big appropriations—more billions for missiles or expeditions to the moon.

★ ★ ★

The insidious argument made is that the President gives too much weight to the balanced budget idea and that he is neglecting "national defense." Will this campaign undermine the President's influence and open the floodgates in Congress so that billions more than he recommends will be appropriated even in the face of a $12 billion deficit this year?

Eisenhower has been absorbed for months formulating the new budget. He has held lengthy conferences with our military leaders and with our economic experts. Honest, patriotic, experienced military men, without any political bias, helped to make the new budget.

It was no casual decision by one man that led the President to announce that he believed the budget for the next fiscal year could be balanced.

What is the biggest single fact about our military position? The intercontinental missile is not yet perfected, but the intermediate missile can be fired from bases in Europe close to Soviet Russia.

The truth is, moreover, the Soviet leaders know their country can be devastated in a matter of hours. Both sides know a "mutual deterrent" has come into being. There's a stalemate on the military side.

The urgent question now, therefore, is not the spending of unlimited amounts on military defense, but giving more attention than ever before to economic defense.

★ ★ ★

Unless the American people can see through the maze of propaganda and alarmist talk, and put into proper perspective the selfish ambitions of some of their legislators, Macaulay's prophecy of more than 100 years ago that the American ship of state is doomed to destroy itself because it is "all sail and no anchor" could, instead, come true.

The Country Parson

"It's a good thing we aren't asked to limit our love only to those with whom we agree."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Check of Artery System Urged for Those Over 30

"A careful estimation of the condition of the cardiovascular renal (heart-artery-kidney) system is an outstanding obligation of the physician to every individual of the arteriosclerotic age (30 years old or older) who seeks medical advice, regardless of the apparent nature of the illness."

DR. BRADY

(I quote this verbatim from a medical book, not because I'm in a morbid mood but just to indicate that disasters which seem to strike out of a clear sky may actually be the more or less characteristic manifestations of heart-artery trouble which has escaped recognition because the physician consulted earlier did not make a careful estimation of the condition of the heart-kidney-artery system, or the patient rejected such examination as unnecessary when he or she just wanted something for gastric disturbance, indigestion or a cough which hangs on.)

Two centuries of almanac education and belittling of the subject of physiology in school have made Americans contemptuous of health instruction and suckers for exploitation by quacks and nostrum vendors. The Yankeeland population is naively credulous regarding the mysterious ingredient, "the wonder drug," what 9 out of 10 doctors say, or how the new formula gives all the good effects but none of the untoward effects of the old.

I have the cardiovascular renal system and cardiovascular degeneration (CVD) or heart and artery troubles of insidious or gradual onset in mind when I advise business, professional and white-collar people to take six miles of oxygen on the hoof every day. This or even only a mile or two twice a day—say walking to and from the office, store, job or school instead of riding—gives real, natural relaxation, instead of the dull, stupid state produced by alcohol or other narcotic.

One who resorts to cocktails or highballs for make-believe "relaxation" at the end of a trying day only adds to the strain on his cardiovascular renal system and hastens the development of cardiovascular degeneration.

Unless you are sure you know better than I do what is good for your health and longevity, it can do you no harm to read my monograph: CVD, for which send me in care of this newspaper 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

If you consider this a little steep, then please try this experiment and see: Instead of stopping at the cocktail lounge or tavern for one or two quick ones, keep the money in your sock and take a brisk walk of a mile or two. If you don't feel better, I'll refund the full price of the paper.

★ ★ ★

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

'Psychic Trauma' Perverts Girl

Alice suffered what psychiatrists call psychic "trauma" or severe emotional injury at the age of 12 years. As a result, it caused her to lead an abnormal sex life during college and has hampered her marrying and becoming a happy, well adjusted wife. Note, too, what an excellent psychologist her boss is. Scrapbook these daily articles for future use.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case A-426: Alice B., aged 29, is a very attractive secretary, to a leading American newspaper editor.

★ ★ ★

"But she is a partial homosexual," her employer informed me as we had lunch together.

DR. CRANE

"And I believe it all started from a shocking childhood experience which she suffered. For example, Alice had a neurotic mother who was just a bundle of phobias.

"On a stormy night, out in the country, this mother delivered her sixth baby. Alice was the only attendant the mother had, for the storm had disrupted telephone service, so they couldn't contact their doctor.

"And Alice was only 12 years old at the time. Meanwhile, her neurotic mother screamed and made quite a scene. She kept saying she was dying and repeatedly cried out, 'God have pity on my soul.'

"Alice was sure her mother was dying. And the total experience left such a profound impression on her that she abhorred all dates with boys during her teens.

"When she went to college, she roomed with a masculine girl who was homosexually inclined. And this dominant female became attached to Alice.

"Since her graduation, she has worked in my office as secretary and I have introduced her to a fine young man.

"But she has been diffident and alternates between interest in dates with him and the dominance of her college roommate, who teaches school in this city and who is as jealous of Alice as any husband might be of his wife if the latter dated anybody else.

"Dr. Crane, I want you to have dinner with Alice and see if you can't give her some helpful advice."

CONTAGIOUS PHOBIAS

Yesterday I told you about a dog whose terror of lightning had infected all the other dogs in the neighborhood.

★ ★ ★

Well, sex phobias also can become contagious. Thus, many a soured divorcee has prejudiced her daughters or nieces against happy marriage.

For such divorcees may boldly claim that "All men are fickle and brutes and selfish monsters, etc."

In my visit with Alice I found that her employer's diagnosis was quite correct.

Alice had been so shocked by her 12-year-old experience when her mother bore the baby, with Alice as the only attendant, that Alice subconsciously developed a severe phobia of childbirth.

Thus, in order to avoid marriage and motherhood, she shunned the male sex, even to the extent of refusing dates with boys throughout high school and college.

But the natural romantic desires of a young person could not be completely ignored, so she was vulnerable to the wiles of the homosexual girl roommate.

Many homosexuals are thus driven into this condition by chance contacts or fears of the opposite sex or dread of veneral infection.

Please notice that Alice's boss was a very astute man in diagnosing her case. You don't need to spend seven years in college in the formal study of psychology or earn a Ph.D. degree in this field before you can analyze people and make very shrewd diagnoses!

This editor knew as much psychology as many professors of the subject so make psychology your own hobby, even if you never have a chance to go to college. It will prove very helpful all your life.

And send for my booklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit). It shows how to prevent cases like Alice's.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Get Plans Ready for Emergency

Commission Appointed to Prepare Michigan for Nuclear Attack

LANSING (AP) — Michigan plans to be ready with emergency government operational plans if an enemy launches a nuclear attack.

Toward this end, Gov. Williams yesterday announced appointment of a Commission on Continuity of Government. Chairman will be Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams.

"In the unhoped for eventuality of enemy attack upon our nation, state and local governments may be disrupted and isolated for days and even weeks," Williams said.

"If Michigan is fully to meet its civil defense responsibilities, we must establish procedures which will permit governments to operate even in the absences of key officials and the usual governmental facilities."

Among other things, he said, the commission will study ways to establish emergency lines of succession for key positions at all government levels, preservation of essential records, location of emergency governments and utilization of governmental personnel and facilities for emergency operation.

These Men Beat Odds of 100,000 to 1

GRAND HAVEN (AP)—Police said the Rev. Cecil Klages and Wilfred J. Bernia beat odds of 100,000 to one this weekend when they drove away from a Grand Haven store in separate autos.

The odds centered on ignition keys to two 1953 model sedans driven by the men.

The Rev. Mr. Klages, pastor of St. John Lutheran Church, was first out of the store. He stepped into one of the two cars parked side by side and drove back to the service station which had loaned him transportation.

Bernia spotted something amiss. The car he entered wasn't his, he told police, but the ignition key fit. He drove to headquarters and reported the mixup. It was solved by a police check of service stations.

No Room for Governor at Own Inaugural Ball

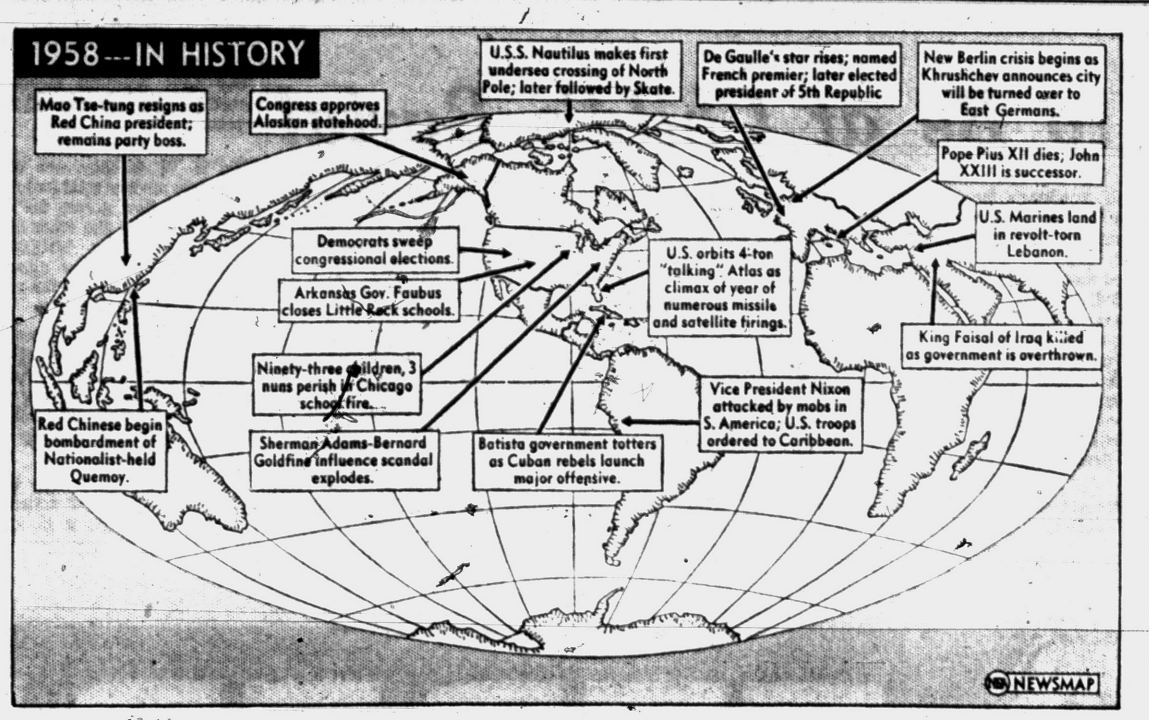

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Gov. George Docking didn't get to dance at his inaugural ball Monday night.

Uprising May Spread to Central America

LONDON (AP)—The success of the Cuban revolt may soon have repercussions in Central America, the London Times declared in an editoral today.

"Batista has gone," the paper said, "but absolute dictatorship survives under General Trujillo in the Dominican Republic. There is simmering revolt in Haiti and Nicaragua, too.

"To the reformers there is also evidence of sinister foreign influences. United States investment in this area is very large, and open American intervention in Central American affairs is by no means something of the dim past.

"In 1954 there was evident American encouragement of the movement to overthrow the undoubtedly Communist infiltrated Arbenz government of Guatemala, but whose agrarian reforms would also have afected important American private interests.

"There is Panama, whose raison d'etre is the American-controlled Canal Zone, which many Panamanians now regard as an affront to sovereignty. British Honduras is thought of in much the same way. Dr. (Fidel) Castro has said pointedly that the American military mission in Cuba is no longer necessary.

★ ★ ★

"Much of what is being said in Cuba can be put down to the exaltation of victory. When the provisional government settles down, more realistic appraisals are likely; in fact they are already being made. But the Cuban revolt could stir up smouldering fires in this part of the world."

Bob Considine Says:

Father Risks Eye to Be at Child's Burial

NEW YORK—At the mass burial of a number of the children who died in that terrible school fire in Chicago last month there was one especially heartbreaking scene.

One victim, 13-year-old Beverly Burda, had prayers said over her little white coffin in advance of the others. The reason for this was poignantly apparent.

The mother was near the state of collapse; relatives wailed unrestrainedly. To keep them waiting for other bodies and families to arrive at the cemetery was unthinkable.

But it was the father who commanded our stunned gaze. Stanley Burda, a 37-year-old unemployed milkman, stood there in the stabbing cold at graveside with his face covered by a leather mask.

Out of one side of the mask, at eye level, protruded what appeared to be a jeweler's eyepiece. He had undergone an operation for a detached retina a few days before and was attending this last sad rite strictly against the orders of his doctor.

★ ★ ★

Stanley Burda was present under an appalling additional handicap. He had been told that if he wept at his daughter's funeral the salt from the tears would enter the incisions and probably cost him his sight.

And there he stood, still garishly hooded, amidst the sights and sounds of utter woe, fighting the compulsion to weep.

Even the photographers cried. I did a piece about it which concluded, "I don't know how it turned out. I just don't know."

Well, now I do, with the help of Hal Bruno of the Chicago American.

"They took the wraps off Burda's eyes last week and the operation was a success," he reports. "Then he could cry, and did. I asked Mrs. Burda what she says to him when he does cry—after all that time.

"She said, 'There's not much to say. I cry, myself, too. We seem to cry mostly at night when things are quiet and there's time to think.'"

The Burdas have moved in with her mother while their own house (844 North Ridgeway) is being remodeled a bit. It reminded them too much of their girl.

As Burda's condition improves he spends more time with the 20 children who are still hospitalized from the fire at Our Lady of Angels school, distributing presents among them, visiting them.

He went to Elgin, Ill., the other day to pick up a dog and cat for children who have asked for pets. This week Stanley Burda goes out in search of a job as a truck driver. There are three other Burdas to care for. Life goes on.

Errol Flynn was saying on Jack Paar's show the other night that he became a follower of Fidel Castro because of the man's complete idealism. It is a word commonly associated with the bearded young rebel leader.

But what beautiful ideals are served by drum courts and firing squads?

Dr. H. W. Ritchey, one of the pioneers in modern solid-fuel rocket propellants, flew across the country to New York the other day to appear briefly on WNEW-TV's "Wonderama," a show aimed at improving the minds of the young. He has a crusade to wage.

Ritchey, who is vice president and technical director of the rocket divisions of the Thiokol Chemical Corp., believes the teaching of science to children can be speeded by relating it to the peaceful missile.

"Is there an easier way to explain Newton's law of action and reaction than to do it through a rocket?" he asked us. "There's little in science that is not bound up in a spatial missile: Physics, chemistry, stresses both human and material, electronic technology and the myriad like.

"We can make these badly needed studies more palatable in this way, sugar-coat them in fact. In Russia such studies are next to mandatory. Here we must find other ways toward a unified action. Our survival is deeply involved."

The Bearded Men of Castro Reign in Cuba

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

HAVANA — It has been a just, a tough and enormously romantic revolution.

Romantic, in the sense that the bearded men who have fought with the pied piper of Cuba are as picturesque, in behavior and appearance, as characters out of the Bible thrown on a large screen by Cecil De Mille. They are of it, too. And infinitely prouder than most men.

You could tell that before the great New Year's overthrow, when the Batista forces discovered a mysterious carpet bag in a street in Havana.

Terrified that it held a bomb, they handled it gingerly — later discovered it was stuffed with black whiskers and a note advising, "The Barbudos (Bearded Men) Town."

Even Hitchcock could not have dreamed up so tingling, so juicy, an omen.

The men who fought the hardest and longest may wear their beards the rest of their lives. Many of these untrimmed fur pieces straggle chestward and below. The longer the beard, the prouder the man of his role in blotting out tyranny.

★ ★ ★

"Don't take a picture of them," spat a lady from the underground when a jeep-load of only slightly fuzzed fellows cruised past me in the Castro victory parade. "They're three-day wonders. You could get better beards than that going fishing Saturday and Sunday."

SHORT STUFF

The men with the greatest extension of chin also appear slightly suspicious of the short stuff.

This is quite natural, since it is well known that there may still be thousands of Batista sympathizers who are posing as revolutionists strictly to save their necks.

"They will do anything to get away," said a former member of the underground. "Batista, you know, he took only the main ones off the island. Now nobody can leave but students. The rest of his people, they are just like what you call a rat in the trap."

So they pose as members of the 26 of July movement, in uniform and rifle and as much overgrowth as they can work up in this short period of pseudo-allegiance, and hope to get by with it.

"This is why there was still sometime shooting," my informant went on. "The Batista men probably try to stir up a fuss so the people will think the revolutionarists are dividing themselves.

"But it won't last. Almost everybody are crazy about Castro."

Fidel Castro, himself, has a quite modest beard compared with some of his long-term lieutenants who look like mystics out of Tibet. His reputation already established, and firm, he can afford an occasional trim.

JOE BLOE CASTRO

It is difficult to imagine him as a man in tropicals with a clean shave. I have stared at him, admiring the eyes, at once gentle and alive, above the jet-covered set of his chin. He has a Biblical sort of look which the people adore and respect.

Without the beard, he has a plump face. He might be Joe Bloe Castro, undetected in a crowd.

He must have thought of this, too, because during his victory march through the provinces, he publicly asked the people if he should shave his badge of honor. They screamed "never."

Most of the professional men in the rebel army will, inevitably, be forced to take razor in hand and return to routine. The great army is sentimentally divided on exactly how they'll do it. There are three separate camps:

1—Those who want to shave in their own home towns in the provinces.

2—Those who want to shave at a special mass in church.

3—Those who will shave only in the presidential palace, sitting on Batista's throne. Understandably, the last group is the largest.

MSUO Sewage Plant Construction Is Approved

Public Library Price to Be Set

Commission to Pick Architect to Design Priority Building

City Commissioners tonight are expected to set a price on a new public library and select an architect.

* * *

City Manager Walter K. Willman has recommended that a ceiling of $600,000 be placed on the new building, which has No. 1 priority on the city's capital improvement program.

Seven architectural firms have indicated an interest in designing the library, Willman said. It is to be located across S. Parke street from City Hall in the civic center area.

Among them is Heenan & Pullar, Inc., successor to the firm of the late Leo J. Heenan who designed the City Hall, Public Safety Building and the new wing at Pontiac General Hospital.

* * *

There is also Smith, Hinchman & Grylls Associates, Inc., the Detroit firm which acted as consultant in the hospital expansion.

* * *

At informal discussions, Willman and commissioners have favored Odell, Hewlett & Luckenbach, the Birmingham firm that designed the proposed new Oakland County courthouse.

The company has promised to keep within whatever ceiling the city decides on, Willman said. It plans a two-story building that would harmonize with the style of the other civic center buildings, he said.

Also scheduled tonight is final passage of an ordinance amendment to strengthen the city's vice laws, focusing attention on the purchaser of vice as well as the seller.

* * *

Two hearings are scheduled. One covers a proposal to vacate the alley parallel to Columbia avenue west of the Pontiac, Oxford & Northern Railroad. The other is to rezone nine lots along the railroad to Commercial use for established ment of a beer distributor's warehouse.

Also up for consideration is a Planning Commission proposal that photographic studios be added to the permissible uses of land classified in the personal service zoning category.

* * *

Commissioners are expected to appoint three persons to serve on the Board of Review this year and two persons to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Waterford to Pay 10 Pct. of Camley Street Repairs

The Waterford Township Board at its meeting last night agreed to have the township pay approximately 10 per cent of the Camley street improvement costs.

Some 15 residents attended the hearing on the project to inquire about road construction, cost estimates and drainage problems. Estimated total cost of the project is $8,200.

An engineering representative of Johnson and Anderson explained the details to the group and the hearing was adjourned until Jan. 26 so that notifications of individual assessments can be sent to each of the 21 property owners.

In other business, the Board accepted a request from Mrs. Freda Huggett to petition the Oakland County Board of Supervisors to establish the former county contagious hospital as a short-term psychiatric diagnostic hospital and clinic.

Waterford Township will assume the construction of some 400 feet of a 12-inch water main now being installed on S. Cass Lake road due to an error in construction plans.

The water main is being extended south on Cass Lake road to the Venice - of - the - Lake Subdivision.

The purchase of frost-breaking equipment, costing $1,360, from Homelight, Inc., was approved by the Board. Not only could the machinery and generator be used by the water department but also will serve as emergency lighting units, Clerk James Seeterlin said.

Two new police cars will be purchased for $1,367 from Eddie Steele, Inc., of Keego Harbor. The next low of seven bids submitted last week was $1,480 by the Beattie Motor Co. of Waterford.

Hunt for Bomb in Troy School

TROY — Troy high school students had a brief holiday yesterday afternoon while police searched for a bomb "in the lockers."

An anonymous phone call to the school office reported a bomb planted in the lockers.

Police and school personnel checked the locker rooms and at 2:05 p.m. evacuated the school so the search of individual lockers could be made without the hindrance of heavy outer clothing.

The hunt was quickly completed because master keys and lock combinations were immediately available.

Rex Smith, school superintendent, said that to ward off attempts on the part of students to dodge classes through such calls, the board has adopted the policy that lost class time must be made up at a later date.

High Court to Review Test Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — In what could be another key segregation test case, the Supreme Court is going to review the trespass conviction of six Negroes given today jail terms for playing on a segregated golf course.

Rejecting a plea by North Carolina that it stay out of the dispute, the court agreed yesterday to rule on the case involving a golf course owned by the city of Greensboro, N. C., but leased to a nonprofit group.

In a brief urging the high court to dismiss the Negroes' appeal North Carolina's Atty. Gen. Malcolm B. Seawell argued that the case involved no racial bias.

He said the Negroes refused to show they were eligible to play on the course, which Seawell said admits only members and their invited guests.

Slayer of 3 Blames FBI for His Action

MAITLAND, Fla. (UPI) — Authorities said today that a suspicion he was being followed by FBI agents investigating possible Communist affiliations led a 40-year-old father to hack to death his wife and two of his four children.

"It's a long, long story," Harry G. Higgins told police. "Just check with the FBI. They've been chasing me for weeks."

Higgins denied he was a Communist, but said he wanted to spare his family the embarrassment of an investigation.

The Pentagon estimates that contracts for research and development work during the current fiscal year will come to about 8 billion dollars.

Skid Accident Injures Oxford Area Woman

An Oxford Township woman, Hazel M. Reed, 51, of 590 Maloney St., was injured when the car she was driving went out of control on icy pavement near her home yesterday and smashed into a tree.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies investigated the accident, which occurred on Maloney near Lakeview boulevard shortly after 1 p.m.

Mrs. Reed was treated at Pontiac General Hospital and released.

Local Paintings to Be Loaned for Exhibit at MSU Jan. 25

By LEE WINBORN

ROMEO — Anyone who ever knew the late James B. Giern knew his love of art and the uncanny gift he had as a collector to recognize greatness in talented young painters.

* * *

Giern, who died shortly before Christmas, had been planning for a year to lend some of the paintings in his collection to Michigan State University for an exhibit Jan. 25 to Feb. 17. It will be the first exhibition in the new art building on the campus at East Lansing.

The featured artist in this one-man show will be Francis de Erdely, internationally known Hungarian artist whom Giern befriended in the early 1940s.

The story is told by Giern's niece, Ann L. Nutzhorn, who lived with her uncle and was his only relative. She said de Erdely was born in Budapest in 1904 and studied art at the Royal Academy there and later in Paris.

At the age of 20, he exhibited his works in Budapest. His fame spread, and he was commissioned to do a portrait of Queen Maria Christina of Spain.

The son of a Hungarian nobleman, de Erdley also painted and studied in Singapore, Brussels, Antwerp, Ghent and Bruges. In 1937 he returned to his homeland. With the rise of Nazism, he left Hungary to seek refuge in England and then in Detroit in 1940.

ACTS AS BENEFACTOR

It was at the Scarab Club in Detroit that Giern first met de Erdely. His interest aroused, Giern helped support the young artist until his reputation was established in the United States.

For many years Giern gave a prize for the best etching at the Annual Exhibition of Michigan Artists held at the Detroit Institute of Arts. De Erdely won the prize in 1943.

Art critics began acclaiming de Erdely as the "Van Gogh of Hungary," and among the honors he received was a citation from the former Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. for a poster he painted for the fifth war loan.

* * *

His war pictures, critics said, were painted "as if he had arrived on the scene only a few minutes after the enemy left." He also painted still lifes with the same sensitivity, they said.

ILLUSTRATES STORIES

Giern's and de Erdely's mutual admiration for each other, Miss Nutzhorn said, was evidenced by the charming pen and ink drawings the artist did for several stories Giern wrote. The stories are not yet published.

The collection to be exhibited includes 12 oils, 8 drawings — mostly crayon and ink sketches, all framed — and 9 other unframed drawings, five of them the story illustrations which have never been exhibited before.

The refugee-artist became an American citizen in 1944 and is now art professor at the University of Southern California.

MECCA FOR ARTISTS

Giern, who was 73 when he died, lived on a farm north of Romeo after he retired from business in Detroit. The farm became a mecca for new and established artists from all over the metropolitan area.

Initiate Area Students Into Honor Society

Eight area students were initiated into Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic honor society, Jan. 7 at The University of Michigan, a university spokesman announced today.

They are Marianne H. Davidson, 1307 Lapeer Rd., Lake Orion; Conrad M. Smith, 261 Cedar Rd., Lapeer; Ellen L. Schreiber, 18151 Sunnybrook St., Lathrup Village; and Calvin D. Arnett, 29668 Robert Dr., Livonia.

Others are Richard E. Charlick, 3705 Lone Tree Rd., Milford; John W. Funk, 438 Yerkes St., Northville; Winifred H. Ledger, 13241 Albany, Oak Park; and Gerry E. Hendershot, 621 Louis St., Royal Oak.

The initiation ceremony was held in the Rackham Amphitheater and featured an address by Dean Roger W. Heyns of the College of Literature, Science and the Arts.

Romeo Clerk, Treasurer Get Salary Hikes

ROMEO — In action taken last night, village council members voted to increase the clerk's salary from $3,560 to $4,000 per year and the treasurer's from $850 to $1,000 at the beginning of the new fiscal year.

Sidney J. White, village clerk was appointed to handle acquisition of surplus army equipment for use in the local civil defense program.

The council also voted to advertise the bids on a new police car to be opened at a special meeting Jan. 26.

EAST LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Sheep Breeders' Assn. will hold its annual meeting at Michigan State University Jan. 22.

A luncheon will be served.

The menu?

Pontiac Township Board OKs Temporary Facilities

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — The township board last night took one of the essential steps toward construction of adequate facilities to handle sewage disposal at Michigan State University Oakland and the adjacent area.

Board members adopted a resolution approving the servicing of the temporary sewage disposal plant planned for the MSUO community.

This action matches that taken recently by the Avon Township Board in an effort to have some facility to dispose of waste ready by the time the first unit at MSUO opens next September.

The two boards are following the recommendation of a group of townships, county and state officials who met Jan. 7 with two members of the Michigan Dept. of Health to discuss the sewage disposal problem at MSUO.

* * *

The meeting was called by Roy Hardy, chairman of the Utilities Committee of the Avon Township —Pontiac Township Planning Commission.

The group learned that the State Health Dept. will allow construction of a temporary sewage disposal plant as long as it fits into a master plan to be developed for the entire county.

This plant, Hardy said, could be expanded to one-million gallon capacity as the need arises.

"This will take care of the university and Auburn Heights," Hardy told board members, "and, if you don't approve this proposition now, you won't ever get it as cheaply again."

Board members then adopted a resolution to appropriate $1,250 to help pay for the services of Robert Hotaling, MSU urban planner, who is acting as advisor to the Planning Commission.

This action was taken upon the request of the commission itself which made a similar request of Avon Township.

* * *

The pressing problem of locating more street lights in the township was raised at the meeting. A motion was made to install one at the intersection of Perry street and Walton Blvd.

The board then tabled action on other suggested locations until the next regular meeting when the lighting committee is to have completed its survey of the township.

* * *

The minutes of the last electrical board meeting were read and the matter of registration fees for contractors was tabled until the results of a meeting of the Oakland County Reciprocal Electrical Council are known. The council meets tomorrow night in Pontiac City Hall.

Other action taken by township board members included the expression of their intentions to comply with basic state law and begin work on a building code for the township.

Some forty persons attended the meeting which lasted approximately four hours.

The nation's chemical plants produced 3.8 billion pounds of plastics in 1957, an increase of 84 per cent in five years.

Claims Public Pays for Raises

Economist Blames Union Monopoly Power in Talk at Detroit Club

DETROIT (AP) — Labor unions have a monopoly power which they used to sweeten their members' paychecks with the general public paying the freight, a Harvard economist said yesterday.

Dr. Edward H. Chamberlain, professor of political economy at Harvard, said labor often abuses its role as an agent of collective bargaining.

He told the Economic Club of Detroit that labor has received legal immunities which often cause it to work against the public interest.

"With respect to agreements and alliances, anything goes so long as only labor groups are involved," said Dr. Chamberlain.

He suggested labor's power should be curbed to bring it in the proper balance.

* * *

"A general rule in the labor field would be that no employer should have brought against him pressures exerted by anyone other than his own employes," said Dr. Chamberlain.

He said unions should be prevented from joining together against an employer or community.

Nixon to Graham: 'Get Some Rest'

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Ailing revivalist Billy Graham heads today for an appointment with Mayo Clinic specialists. Cautioned by Vice President Richard M. Nixon to "get some rest," he still plans a crusade in Australia. But he is postponing the start by at least a week and is not sure whether he will be able to go through with other projected visits on a world tour.

The 40-year-old preacher may learn this week the cause of an ailment that has left him with only 50 per cent vision in his left eye. It has been described as a "rare and serious condition" by his father-in-law, a doctor.

Chaplin's Auto Hits Bus

LONDON (AP) — Charles Chaplin and his wife Oona escaped injury today when their auto skidded into a bus as they were driving to a film studio. The Chaplins, now living in Switzerland, have been in Britain since before Christmas.

Pioneer Home Flaunts Modern Era

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

Flanked on all sides by advancing modern development, the Percy King mansion in Waterford Township stubbornly refuses to merge with its unorthodox surroundings.

Situated on the oldest of Centennial Farms in Oakland County, the solidly built home stands as a defiant monument to Mrs. King's ancestors, the Huntoon pioneers who settled the farm in 1831.

The Kings, Percy, 80, and his wife, Grace, 77, (nee Huntoon)—have witnessed remarkable changes in and around the old house on William Lake road over a span of more than four generations.

Years ago, when road-building engineers laid out Airport road they ran into difficulties. The Kings refused to allow their home to be destroyed for a right-of-way. Rather than start condemnation proceedings, the government detoured Airport road around the 14-room residence.

The home stands starkly today, trying to compose its splendor amid new gas stations, gigantic subdivision developments, a cement factory and an outdoor movie theater.

It all began 127 years ago when Mrs. King's pioneering ancestor Josiah Huntoon of New York, received a 640-acre grant in Michigan from the Federal Government.

Little did Huntoon know that the parchment-deed signed by the President of the United States would turn out to be a paradise of richly wooded land and scenic hills dotted with fresh spring-fed lakes.

ARRIVED IN 1831

When the family arrived in the area in 1831 by oxen-driven covered wagons, land was cleared and the first of three homes was constructed.

As the years progressed, the crude log cabin was replaced by a six-room frame house, then the present early Victorian structure was erected in the center of the family's land.

One of the most colorful of all the various family members to live on the property, was Mrs. King's great uncle Phineas Huntoon, she recalls.

Phineas decided to build the biggest and best house in the whole county—so he joined the big rush to California in 1849, and soon accumulated enough gold to return and make good his promise.

Nothing was spared in building the present house, truly a showplace in its heyday, Mrs. King said.

* * * *

There were unheard of cement sidewalks and an iron-spiked fence surrounding the gracious home. Fine walnut wood shutters were installed inside and out, with only the best cabinet-makers hired to do the work. Later, it was the first house in Oakland County to have electric lights.

* * *

The present Kings admit that things aren't like they used to be with "spanking white horses pulling their shiny black surrey." However, they are enjoying the luxuries of modern day miracles.

* * *

They are momentarily awaiting the delivery of a brand new television set, with remote controls, "so we won't have to get up to shut off unfavorable commercials," she concluded.

Editor's Note: Centennial plaques are awarded to people whose ancestors have lived on the land continually for one hundred years or more.

There are many farms in Michigan that are more than 100 years old, but the fact that they have changed hands during the years makes them ineligible for the recognition.

The Detroit Edison Co., Consumers Power Co. and the Michigan Historical Society have united in making the presentations possible. The society collects the facts, and the two companies pay for having the plaques made and installed. Inmates at Jackson Prison paint the individual signs.

HOUSE-HUNTING — Milford's first village manager, Oliver S. Taylor (left), and Mrs. Taylor were greeted yesterday by Village President Joseph Gerrard who immediately set to helping them look for a place to live. Taylor steps into the newly created $6,500 position Feb. 1. He is presently administrative assistant to the city manager of Springfield, Ohio. The Taylors have two children.

Pontiac Press Photo

REFUSES TO SURRENDER — The Centennial Farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy King at 6028 Williams Lake Rd., Waterford, stands starkly unbending to its present-day surroundings. Once, grandiosely situated in the middle of a 640-acre estate the proud, Victorian-style farmhouse is hemmed in today by modern homes, gas stations, a factory and a drive-in movie. Like the Oakland County pioneers who settled the land in 1831, the house continues to master its environment.

Hal Boyle Says:

Actress Holds Europeans Make Best Wives

NEW YORK (AP) — "It's a woman's country this — in a blatant way," said Siobhan McKenna.

But the Irish actress feels that European women in some ways have more real power—and are more content with their lot—than American women.

★ ★ ★

This soapy little drama has probably ruined more masculine lives than the three-martini business lunch. It upholds the thesis, dear to all women, that behind every successful dunderhead lies the guiding hand of a shy but firm wife. Partly as a result of this play, wives have been thrusting their sticky little paws for two generations into areas of men's lives they really know nothing about.

What is the difference in this respect between European and American women?

"The European woman is more subtle in maneuvering her man into the kind of action that will make him a great man (or at least a better man), without him realizing it," said Miss McKenna.

"The European woman seems to be a quiet little mouse with no great brainpower. She never seems to push herself, but suddenly you find out that it is she who has the ideas in the family—and her husband executes them."

Miss McKenna doubts that the wider public activity of American women really makes them much more powerful.

"The European wife is just as influential, if not more so," she observed. "But she doesn't appear in public so much. She prefers to stay behind the scenes and let her husband take the spotlight. She prefers to be the woman the man comes home to."

★ ★ ★

"I'm not so sure that this works as well as separating the home from the office. A man has to have his independence. His home should stay his kingdom. It should be an island of calm to him—not just another salesroom for his career," she said.

The Irish actress, who has hazel-green eyes, an unruly mop of dark brown hair and looks like a freckled elf, is also dubious about the advantage of the American wife's household gadgets.

"I feel most of these modern aids in the kitchen are more trouble than they are worth," she said. "They take so much time to clean.

★ ★ ★

"The European woman has more of a sense of repose. Her time is more of her own even though she lacks many time-saving gadgets."

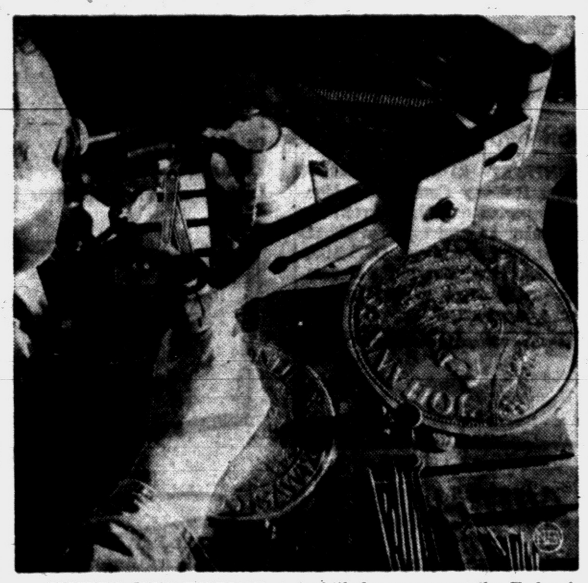

Miss McKenna expressed belief a European woman puts up more readily with failure on the husband's part because "she feels she is partly to blame herself.

"In Ireland you find women who are happy married to men who would be called ne'er-do-wells here. It doesn't matter to these wives that they have to go out and find the work," she said.

"It seems to me that the spiritual union is more important than whether your husband is a success."

Asked her own philosophy of life, Siobhan said:

ETCHED INTO HISTORY — A skilled engraver at the Federal Mint in Munich, Germany, makes castings for a series of gold medallions that will be issued at banks in commemoration of the crowning of Pope John XXIII. Using a special machine, the engraver moves a stylus in his right hand along the etched portions of a large master die. A cutting tool, rear center, is linked mechanically with the stylus. This cuts the reduced design on a casting that will produce the actual medallions.

Discuss Message to Go to Congress Next Week in First Meeting

The session was expected to include a briefing on his forthcoming budget and economic messages. Both messages go to Congress next week.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, new GOP leader of the Senate, said in advance of the session he looks for only a general discussion of the legislative program.

Heading the House delegation was Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, who defeated the veteran Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts for the leadership post.

Other new members in the group included Sen. Thomas Kuchel of California, who succeeded Dirksen as whip, or assistant leader, and Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, who replaced Martin as chairman of the House GOP policy committee.

The new group includes also Sens. Styles Bridges (NH) and VARIED BILLS —1 col 3-17 hed and Reps. Leslie W. Arends (Ill), Charles Hoeven (Iowa) and Leo Allen (Ill).

Federal, state and local governments in the U. S. spent money in 1957 at the rate of $730 per American.

Payments Sent to 59 Libraries Under State Aid

LANSING (UPI) — The state library has sent $128,654 to 59 Michigan libraries, the first of four payments to qualifying libraries under state aid.

Total grants will be about $294,000. All Michigan public libraries are eligible for aid if they meet standards set by the State Board for Libraries.

The money is used for providing better library service on the community level but not for relieving tax support to those libraries. The money is spent for any library purpose except construction or payment on indebtedness.

But Daughter Saw No Baby

'Mother Looked Sick'

NEW YORK (AP)—"My mother looked sick, strained and pale."

With those words, a 15-year-old daughter of Jean Iavarone, arrested for the kidnaping of Lisa Rose Chionchio, told of visiting her mother in her two-room apartment on Saturday.

"Of course, I was only in the living room," added the daughter, Frances Morello, Mrs. Iavarone's child by a former marriage.

"My mother looked strained, sick and pale. She hasn't been herself since my father died. After what she went through with my brother, she's been even worse. He died so young.

"But I'm convinced she never took the baby," she added.

She referred to the death of Mrs. Iavarone's son, Robert, 23, last September. The accused kidnaper has seven living children, both boys and girls.

A daughter-in-law, Joan Getch, also expressed disbelief that Mrs. Iavarone was the kidnaper.

"She has been in a fog since her son died last September. She seemed to be thinking all the time. But she never talked about babies," Mrs. Getch said.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Iavarone's first husband, John Getch, lives in Passaic, N.J. They are divorced. Her second, Peter Morello, died three years ago.

Mrs. Iavarone's son, Anthony Getch, 22, was at work as a longshoreman, unaware of the arrest.

Mrs. Getch asked, "How do you tell your husband his mother may be a kidnaper?"

Varied Bills Introduced in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's something for almost everybody in the thousands of bills that have flowed at a record rate into the House since Congress convened last week.

★ ★ ★

For those who took part in the capture of the Ute Indians in 1906, for example, there's a bill to recognize them as veterans of the Indian wars.

Other measures would provide: For wild horses, protection against being captured or killed for horsemeat; for the next cruiser built, the name "Brooklyn"; for the village of Whitehall, Washington County, N. Y., recognition as the birthplace of the U. S. Navy.

About half the vegetables and a fifth of the fruits consumed by Americans come in jars or cans.

Dem Leader Wins Filibuster Showdown

Johnson's Astute Maneuvering Pays Off

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Liberals looked amateurish compared with the professionalism of Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas who outmaneuvered their efforts to make it much easier to smash a filibuster.

To make a long story short: When the showdown came they didn't have the votes. Johnson did. Knowing the thoroughness of Johnson, it seems safe to say he had his votes lined up beforehand and the liberals didn't.

What happened would indicate one of two things about the fight they made.

1. Either they were overly optimistic on the support they'd get from the rest of the Senate and didn't make a nose count or—

2. They knew their chance was slim but decided to go ahead and fight anyway for the sake of the record and to get at least some concessions.

Under the old Senate Rule No. 22 a filibuster could be stopped only by a two-thirds vote of all the senators, or 66 of the 98 senators. A filibuster is a prolonged talking spree whose sole purpose is to prevent some bill or measure from coming to a vote.

Such a two-thirds vote is tremendously difficult to get in the Senate, where so many members traditionally cherish the right — which any one of them might want to use someday — to block a distasteful measure.

In addition, the rule provided no means at all — not even that big two-thirds vote — for stopping a filibuster against a motion to change the rule.

The liberals set out to get the rule changed right at the start of this session of Congress last Wednesday. They wanted it changed to let a simple majority — 50 of the 98 members — stop a filibuster.

But Johnson, leader of the majority Democrats, grabbed the floor right from the start. This was his right, as leader. And he beat the liberals to the punch by proposing that Rule No. 22 be changed this way:

To let a filibuster be stopped — not by the full two-thirds vote of 66 of the 98 senators or by 50 of the 98 — but by a simple two-thirds vote of just those senators present on the floor at voting time.

This may seem lots easier to get. In actual practice, it probably wouldn't be, because on anything so important as breaking a filibuster, most of the senators would be present anyway.

But it was a concession to the liberals. Southern Democrats, who have used the filibuster to block civil rights legislation, didn't like the concessions. It was more than they wanted to yield. It was less than the liberals wanted.

But Johnson, whose job is to try to keep all the Democratic senators working together during the year on legislation he wants passed, is a master at compromise. What he proposed about the rule change was enough of a compromise to win the votes it needed for adoption.

From the time Johnson made his proposal, the liberals had almost impossible going. The reason: Johnson had made a concession that wouldn't antagonize the Southerners too much, and would satisfy those other senators who thought Rule No. 22 ought to be softened a bit but not too much.

The result: The liberals were voted down on one attempt after another to get the rules changed to their liking, thus paving the way for overwhelming adoption of Johnson's proposal.

There's no doubt the liberals did a lot of homework: Research on the history of Rule No. 22 and the filibuster. But in the terribly important field of practical politics — votes — whatever they did wasn't enough.

Now Eligible for Social Security

300,000 Persons 'Missing'

By RAY HENRY
Associated Press Writer

The Social Security Administration is hunting some 300,000 "missing persons."

If you're one of them and you turn yourself in, there's a substantial cash reward awaiting you.

The reason: The "missing persons" are people entitled to Social Security payments for the first time due to changes made last year in the Social Security law, but who've failed to apply for them.

Here's a list of the types of people the administration is hunting: (If you're among the types and you're not collecting monthly payments, you should visit your Social Security office. You may be entitled to payments.)

Dependents of persons now receiving disability payments when Congress changed the Social Security law last September, it made the following persons eligible for payments if they are dependent on a person drawing disability payments:

1. A wife 62 or over, and
2. A wife—regardless of her age—if she's caring for children under 18 or a disabled child over 18 who was disabled before reaching 18.
3. A child under 18 or a disabled child over 18 who was disabled before reaching 18.

Dependent parents—A father 65 or over or a mother 62 or over not now collecting payments may be eligible if a deceased son or daughter before death was covered by Social Security.

Such parents can collect Social Security even though the widow and children of the deceased son or daughter are receiving payments.

Disabled persons over 50 who couldn't collect Social Security because they were receiving a veteran's pension, state workmen's compensation or other disability payments from the federal government—the law changes make it possible for persons receiving other types of federal disability payments to collect Social Security disability payments also.

Widows and other beneficiaries who forfeited payments when they remarried—many such persons may now resume their Social Security payments due to the changes.

Because the changes are technical, the best way to determine whether you're again eligible for Social Security is to call or drop by your local office.

The biggest group of persons who can resume their payments are widows who received payments based on their deceased husband's Social Security record, but who had to give them up because they remarried.

Disabled adults who were disabled before 18 regardless of the degree of dependency, such persons who are dependents of persons receiving retirement payments may now receive Social Security.

Previously, disabled adults had to prove they were at least 50 per cent dependent on a Social Security recipient to get payments.

Ready, Willing and Jilted, Asks for Ring Back

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—It was tough enough when his sweetheart jilted him. But when she kept his diamond ring . . . that was the final jolt.

So Henry Lee, a young school teacher, filed suit today against Antoinette Bryant for return of the ring. Either that or pay the cost of the diamond, $439.78.

Lee's complaint says he "was ready, willing and able" to marry the said Miss Bryant, but she accepted the ring without him.

Arraign Berkley Boy in Hillsdale Slaying

A plea of not guilty was entered for him and he was returned to Hillsdale County Jail without bond. A trial date for Feb. 3 was set tentatively for the Berkley youth.

Flannery is accused of beating Thomas Neitling, 21, of Tecumseh, to death with the stock of a shotgun on Nov. 26. Neitling was killed in the room he shared with Flannery near the Hillsdale College campus, where both were students.

New York Fashion Focus on Prints in Jungle Hues

From Pauline Trigere's spring, 1959, collection is this svelte dinner dress and matching coat—awhirl with a profusion of jungle flowers vibrantly printed on crisp silk surah. The coat has wide, fan-shaped sleeves which balance the slimness of the silhouette, gathering onto the shoulders in a cape effect.

Impressionistic blue flowers splashed on sheer silk is the theme of Nettie Rosenstein's short evening dress from her first new collection for spring, 1959. Loose butterfly sleeves dramatize the smooth bodice line of the sheath, which is covered by a sheer tunic in twin-printed silk organza.

Densely patterned with swirls of primeval green roses on pure Swiss silk is Harvey Berin's spring, 1959, short evening dress. It is gently rounded with a standaway flange bodice and an Empire waistline indicated by a diagonally placed bow from which balloons a wide panel-pleated skirt.

Spring Favorites Will Accent Fit

By JUDITH L. CLEMENCE
Women's Editor, Pontiac Press

NEW YORK—Colorful prints will make fashion news this spring with dazzling color combinations. Emerald green and blue seem to be the most popular at this writing. Jungle flowers printed on sheer silk in lilac, green and a variety of colors are seen on both evening and daytime dresses.

MRS. CLEMENCE

Most of the showings Monday favored the long evening dress for spring over the bouffant gown. Most important, designers stressed the natural waistline and the fitted look.

NEW SILHOUETTE

Nettie Rosenstein's new butterfly silhouette gives an easy feeling to the bodice with the skirt of the costume often straight in front with massed fullness in the back.

★ ★ ★

Famous for the little black dress, Mrs. Rosenstein's newest version has a low neckline tied in back with a self-fringed bow. The skirt is flat in front and forms a fullness at the back.

Clair McCardell's famous shirtwaist dress is revived, which will be a delight to most women. Gay colors and prints are important in this collection. New is the elasticized belt for the shirtwaist which is optional, but we think most women will want it after "suffering" through the chemise.

SUITS FEATURED

Monte Sano and Pruzan's collection is marked by beautifully tailored suits with slim skirts, short sleeves, short jacket and open-collared necklines.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

There is an illusion of width at the shoulder with the cape-collared coat which is rounded and full in back. Sleeves are from very short to below the elbows. This is a definite trend for spring coats and suits. Wool jersey is a favorite fabric for this line.

Anne Fogarty's sheath highlights her silhouette story, but her well known full skirt silhouette with color coordinated petticoats is still a major part of the collection. Prints and vivid colors, seen on both sheath and full skirts, are destined to revive a tired wardrobe.

We'll have more news for you tomorrow from some of the nation's top designers who are showing fashions here at the Waldorf-Astoria. The week-long showings will conclude Saturday.

Curfew Can Be Enforced

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me how we can get our son's young friends to go home at a reasonable hour? We have a finished basement in our house and our son's friends—boys and girls both — come here often and dance to the hi-fi. I'm delighted to have them come and they are always welcome but they never seem to want to go home.

"Would it be proper for my husband or myself to go down at a certain hour and tell them to go home, or is there a more tactful way to handle this situation?"

Answer: Have your son explain to his friends that you insist that everyone has to leave at whatever hour you decide on. Then, if they stay beyond it you can go down and say, "I'm sorry, but it is our bedtime and you will all have to go home."

"Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is soon to announce her engagement to a young man whose family I have never met. I would like to invite them to dinner so that we may become acquainted. We live very simply however, and his family is quite well off and accustomed to being waited on; the thought of having to prepare and serve dinner petrifies me.

"Would it be just as proper to take them out to a very good restaurant to dinner, or since we do have a place in which to entertain them, would they think it strange not to have them here?"

Answer: You might solve your problem by making your dinner a buffet at which you will all serve yourselves. Or if you prefer you can invite his family to tea and cocktails in the afternoon.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My fiance's parents live in this same city, but at the other end of town. They do not have a car. I would like to know if it is the obligation of my family to send a car for them on the day of the wedding to pick them up and take them to the church."

Answer: No, this is not expected of your family.

It Might Be a Good Policy! — Abby

Insurance Man's Wife Would Cut Hazard

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: My husband is an insurance salesman which gets him inside lots of houses. I wish he never saw the inside of. One woman in particular. In the first place the street she lives on isn't even in his territory. In the second place his commission from her policy is only thirty cents a week.

ABBY

"Once, she called him up in the middle of the night to tell him he forgot to give her change for fifty cents. He says she's strictly business, but this eyes shine when he talks about her. Outside of that, he's a good husband. Am I wrong to ask him to transfer her to somebody else to keep him away from temptation?"

JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: Good husbands are at a premium and keeping him away from temptation is the best policy.

DEAR ABBY: My nephew expects to marry a girl who has a small child born out of wedlock. They are going to live in the same city with us, where he is known but she is not. How should we explain the child?" AN AUNT

DEAR AUNT: When a man marries a woman with a child, it is assumed that the child is hers from a "former marriage." There is no need to "explain" otherwise.

"DEAR ABBY: About six months ago a real troublemaker moved into our block and was asked to join our group. She decided she needed more education so at the age of 38 she started back to college with all them kids. I said if she got along for 38 years without college she could get along for another 38. Right? That isn't all. She's a reformer. She got one grandmother to take a correspondence course to get her High School diploma and another one going to Business College.

"To cap it all she decided that every woman on our block should vote, so she yakked and pestered till she got her way. This is a free country, Abby, and I don't need anybody to run my life. The neighborhood isn't the same since she took over. What do you suggest?" BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED: I suggest you choose your own friends and allow your neighbors the same privilege.

"DEAR ABBY: It's too late for me but if you print my letter it may help other girls from making the same mistake I made. I fell in love at 15. Nobody could talk me out of it, either. The boy was 16. We went steady for two years and did a lot of things we had no business doing.

"At 17 I thought we had to get married so I quit school and got married in a hurry and then found out we didn't have to. We live with his folks and now he blames me for "tying him down" but he runs with his buddies while I sit home with his parents. Now I AM pregnant, Abby, and am stuck with him. Won't you please tell girls to listen to their parents and not to go steady in high school?"

"KNEW IT ALL"

"DEAR ABBY: I am a stepfather of two fine girls. One is 24 and married and the other is 18 and single. The 24-year-old lives out of the state and was expecting in two months. The 18-year-old went to visit her for her 2-week vacation. The married one suddenly had to go to the hospital to have her baby prematurely and when they telephoned me this news I asked the 18-year-old girl to come home at once.

"I didn't lie. I said it didn't look right for her to be living alone in the apartment with her sister's husband when his wife was in the hospital. Both girls are beautiful and I am a man and know what's what. Now everyone is mad at me and saying I am very evil-minded. What do you think?"

A STEPFATHER

DEAR STEP-FATHER: I think you acted wisely.

Oh, My Aching Feet

Saga of a Search for Right Shoes

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

This is the story of my experience when trying to buy a pair of shoes during a recent stay in New York City. Perhaps you have had a similar experience, wherever you are.

I badly needed a pair of high-heeled black suede pumps. I brought the only ones I had left last spring and they had had hard wear. I went to the store where I have bought shoes for many years and asked for the nice salesman who has waited on me for a long time.

I may be a problem child, but I do not have problem feet except for a very high arch. I have normal averaged-sized feet, perhaps a bit smaller than average for my height and build. My shoe size is a 6½. My height is five feet, six inches.

What happened? I spent more than an hour in the store and the salesman did his best. At the end of that time I settled, out of desperation, for a pair of pointed toes and extremely high spike heels.

Now I have become accustomed to the pointed toes and the less than half-dime size heel base so these were no trouble. I feel comfortable in normally high heels but when they add that extra one-fourth inch, it kills me! I returned to my hotel and walked about my room with my new shoes on. I knew that I would never wear them because of the height of the heels. I returned them.

I did not have time to shop the following day. That evening I had dinner with some fascinating folks at a glamorous restaurant. I was resigned to the fact that my old shoes were not up to the occasion, but I must admit that I was temporarily "thrown" when I discovered while dressing that the suede had separated from the sole of one shoe. Fortunately I had my false eyelashes on that night and nobody looked at my feet.

The next day I spent time I could ill afford away from interviews in trying on shoes at another of New York's wonderful stores. I asked for a slim-heeled, pointed toe model, but one which was not so extreme.

The salesman and I finally discovered a beautiful shoe with just the right heel. The toes were quite pointed but I thought that they would be tolerable. Again I took the new shoes back to my hotel and walked about in them. Within 15 minutes I knew that my toes would be deformed within 60 days and that I would be uncomfortable lots sooner than that.

The NEXT day (in the meantime wearing the shoe with one foot hanging out) I returned the second pair of shoes and said to the salesman, "You MUST have a pair of shoes I can buy!" (thinking to myself that the old ones might give way completely in the middle of a dance.)

He found a pair which were comfortable and for a moment it seemed like heaven! Then I looked at them real well and asked, "Are those toes unusually rounded or have I just become accustomed to the pointed toes?" He laughed and replied, "The latter."

I bought them and will wear them until I can get some others, but they look like clod hoppers and I feel awful awkward when I have them on.

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

An effective, yet simple dessert is made with angel food cake and three flavors of ice cream. Make it a day ahead of time and freeze it. Your guests will "oh" and "ah" when you cut it.

Mrs. Thomas White of Sylvan Lake is today's cook. She belongs to the New Sylvanites Club and to the Whitfield PTA. The mother of three children, she is also a Brownie Scout leader. Reading is her hobby.

ICE CREAM CAKE
By Mrs. Thomas White

1 angel food cake
3 quarts of ice cream—3 different flavors
1 pint whipping cream

Cut cake into four layers. Place a layer of ice cream on three of the layers. Chocolate mint or pistachia, strawberry and chocolate are a good combination. Place cake layer on top.

Whip cream and completely cover the cake. Put in freezer until 20 minutes before serving time. Serve with a strawberry sauce.

If Baked Alaska is desired, substitute a meringue for the whipped cream frosting. Brown in a very hot oven. Be sure to cover the cake completely with the meringue and place cake on a board before putting it in the oven.

Didn't go along with the voting which won Jimmy Brown the "Outstanding Player Award" of the National Football League.

Our vote went to Johnny Unitas, the "cool-cucumber" of the Baltimore Colts who was a master-engineer with a powerful right arm for coach Weeb Ewbank.

In the championship game against the Giants, Ewbank admitted it was the only game in which the bench failed to call at least one play.

Unitas called every single play and who can argue with the result? The Giants stopped Brown in three games, no one stopped Unitas in 13.

Must be the Tiger brass are happy the Tiger GM "outdid" baseball's top trader, Frank Lane of Cleveland, last season.

Six Aquinas Players Disciplined

Tidwell Scores 37 for 'M'

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Bill Perigo, Michigan's basketball coach, discovered last night exactly what had been wrong with John Tidwell's scoring eye—nothing.

The slender 6-3 sophomore, jittery in his first three Big Ten games, erupted for 37 points as the Wolverines beat Wisconsin 84-74. The victory jammed the Wolverines atop the conference standings with Indiana and Illinois. Each has a 3-1 league record.

Tidwell, a scoring whiz in non-conference games with an average close to 20 points, went into a mild slump at the start of the conference campaign.

Last night he made Perigo a prophet.

"Tidwell should be as good a soph as there is in the Big Ten," Perigo said before Michigan embarked on its conference schedule. "Sophs are pressured. But it doesn't seem to affect him at all."

Tidwell's 37 points were the second greatest accumulation ever tallied by a Wolverine in a single game. M. C. Burton scored 38 last month against Butler.

The Wolverines now enter the examination break. They don't play until Jan. 28 when they meet Washington of St. Louis. Their next conference game is Jan. 31 against Iowa.

Little did coach Ray Null realize what would happen when he disciplined six of his players by booting them off the Aquinas college basketball team yesterday.

After all things weren't going too well for Aquinas anyway. The Grand Rapids team had lost four straight. So with makeshift lineup of five varsity holdovers and two hastily recruited reservists Aquinas broke its losing streak by beating Olivet 82-68 last night.

Null put six of his players on probation before the game when he learned they had been drinking on a road trip to Alma last week. He confronted the players and they admitted breaking training.

It was the second time in recent months that drinking has created a furor in Michigan College athletics. Frank (Muddy) Waters dropped several players from his Hillsdale football team when they admitted breaking training. Hillsdale rebounded to win its next game—as did Aquinas.

In another basketball game last night, Central Michigan scored an easy 73-41 victory over Ferris Institute.

Supreme Court Affirms Orders for Dissolution

New Group Maps Plans for World Heavyweight Title Fight

NEW YORK (UPI)—A new promotional group mapped plans today for a world heavyweight title fight at Madison Square Garden within three months while attorneys for the International Boxing Club considered means of partially reviving the IBC from its knockout by Uncle Sam.

Young Bill Rosensohn of Los Angeles reportedly heads the new promoting outfit; and Kenneth C. Royall of New York, former secretary of the army, heads the IBC attorneys who were slated for a meeting today with Truman Gibson, IBC president, and other IBC officials.

The attorneys and IBC officials were to discuss the advisability of asking New York's federal district judge Sylvester J. Ryan to "soften" some of the dissolution orders of his 1957 monopoly decree, which was affirmed yesterday by the U.S. Supreme Court at Washington.

Judge Ryan's sweeping antitrust decree provides that James D. Norris and Arthur M. Wirtz, longtime principals in the IBC, must sell all their stock in New York's Madison Square Garden corporation. And they must also dissolve the IBC Clubs of New York and Illinois.

When the supreme court upheld that decree, it delivered a knockout to the IBC, and it gave the government final victory in its six-year fight to bust the monopoly.

But it left the boxing world in an atmosphere of unceretainty — of hope mingled with doubt — doubt that the powerful Norris group, which had nearly absolute control over the fight game since May, 1949, would actually yield that control.

Optimistic Jack Dempsey said at Chicago the supreme court decision produced a "new birth" for boxing. The ex-heavyweight champion said it "will take the hobble chains off boxing and put the small clubs back into operation."

★ ★ ★

But in New York, Cus D'Amato — manager of heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson — said, "although I'm over-joyed at the decision, I'm also sure that the IBC now will try to attack me more viciously and aggressively than ever before — since they no longer have any reason for restraint — no longer have to pursue a soft-pedal policy while awaiting the supreme court's decision."

D'Amato, a crusader against the IBC, claims that the Noris outfit has persistently tried to interfere with Patterson defending his title for independent promoters.

Whether there's any basis for D'Amato's lingering suspicions will be determined when the Rosensohn group attempts to stage Patterson's next title defense as an independent operation at the garden.

Rosensohn prompted Patterson's last defense against Texas Roy Harris at Los Angeles, last Aug. 18. Young Bill is a former executive of the Teleprompter Corporation, which televised the Los Angeles fight to theaters in the United States and Canada.

Rosensohn was at the ringside in London last night when England's Henry Cooper became a world-title challenger by winning the British and empire championships from fellow-countryman Brian London. It's expected that Cooper will be the garden challenger if he accepts a reasonable guarantee.

BEDSIDE TERMS — Red Schoendienst (left) and Birdie Tebbetts, executive vice-president of the Milwaukee Braves, enjoy a hearty laugh after the Braves' second baseman named his 1959 contract terms from his hospital bed where he has been for two months with tuberculosis. His salary is expected to be around $35,000, the same as last season.

Jim Orr of Steelers NFL's Rookie-of-Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Jimmy Orr, an unheralded offensive end who gained stature with the Pittsburgh Steelers as the season progressed, today was voted the National Football League 1958 Rookie of the Year in a close race with Bobby Mitchell of the Cleveland Browns.

The 5-11 native of Seneca, S. C., who did his college playing for Georgia University, received 16 votes of the 41 football writers voting in the annual Associated Press Poll. Mitchell, the speedy halfback who started the season as if he were going to run off with first year honors only to slow down in the final weeks, received nine votes.

In all, nine freshmen were nominated. Los Angeles tackle Lou Michaels, Baltimore halfback Ray Brown and New York halfback Phil King received four votes each. Single votes went to tackle Alex Karras of Detroit, quarterbacks Mack Reynolds and Dale Meinert of the Chicago Cardinals and halfback-end Bill Anderson of Washington.

Orr, drafted by the Rams, caught Pittsburgh coach Buddy Parker's eye in an exhibition game when he grabbed a touchdown pass against the Steelers. Shortly thereafter, Parker made a deal for him for a future draft choice. It turned out to be one of the best trades Parker made.

The 21-year old Orr, who weighs only 185 pounds, caught 31 passes, seven of them for touchdowns and gained 910 yards, an average of nearly 28 yards per catch. His grab of a 78-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Bobby Layne beat the Cardinals.

"Orr proved a valuable addition," said Parker. "He has a wonderful pair of hands and has deceptive speed. I expect big things from him next season."

The youngster leaves shortly for army service and will serve six months under the reserve program. He went to Clemson on a basketball scholarship but after one year switched to Georgia where he starred in football.

Mitchell, 23, got away winging for the Browns. He accumulated 17 yards in his first nine games, getting most of his yardage on long runs. The Illinois grad shone brightest on kickoff and punt returns. He ran back a kickoff for a 98-yard touchdown against Philadelphia and another time he scampered 68 yards for a score against Los Angeles after picking up a blocked field goal attempt.

Shamrocks Aim to Clip Ravens

SCL Rivals Collide Tonight at PCH; Ritas at Orchard Lake

Highland Park St. Benedict cagers pay their first visit of the Suburban Catholic League season to Pontiac, tonight, and St. Michael's is taking aim at them in hopes of chalking up their 4th win. Mikemen and Ravens meet only once this winter.

St. Benedict now shares 2nd place with St. Frederick, which is idle tonight. St. Michael occupies the spot just back of this pair. The club coached by veteran mentor Art Massucci is always a tough opponent, and Jim Niebaur's Shamrocks expect a close, exciting scrap on the big PCH floor.

Unbeaten St. Mary of Orchard Lake is host to St. Rita tonight and will be gunning for its 5th consecutive victory, as SCL's top team.

"We think we can get through the Ravens' zone defense if that's what they use on us," Niebaur commented. "And I believe our style of play will be effective," he added.

Ravens will return to Pontiac on Feb. 6, for their 2nd tilt with the Rams, who administered their only defeat this year.

Game time is 7 p.m. for the preliminary and 8:15 for the varsity contest.

Popular Michigan State football coach Duffy Daugherty and new Michigan baseball mentor Don Lund have been added to the long list of headliners scheduled to attend the 21st annual Elks Father and Son banquet Thursday night at Lodge 810.

Daugherty recently returned from Honolulu where he coached the college stars in the Hula Bowl game. He previously had piloted the East team in the East-West game at San Francisco.

Lund, who takes over Michigan baseball next spring replacing the retired Ray Fisher, is well known as a former Wolverine baseball and football star who went on to play Major League baseball. He later scouted and coached for the Tigers before signing to return to his Alma Mater.

Principal speaker for the program will be former baseball executive Bill Veeck who is currently trying to get back into the game with the Chicago White Sox. He formerly was front office boss of the Cleveland Indians and the old St. Louis Browns.

Ned Irish, general manager of the Detroit Pistons, will be master of ceremonies for the program being arranged by chairman Ray Gorsline.

Former Tiger pitching greats Hal Newhouser and Dizzy Trout, John Moffat, the backfield coach at Hillsdale College, and the head coaches of nine local high schools are also expected to be on hand.

Newhouser, who is now recreation director at the Oakland County Children's Home, will bring 30 boys from the home to the fete. They will be sponsored by the Pontiac Optimist Club.

The event will start at 7 p.m. with all Elks and their guests invited to attend. Tickets are still available at the Lodge or from any club member, according to ticket chairman Ted Hubert.

St. Louis Kegler Holds Top Spot

★ ★ ★

The field of 192 men will be chopped in half at the end of tonight's action. The round-robin match game finals start Thursday.

Three Michigan men are among the leaders. They are Bob Hill of Detroit in fourth place, tied for 9th of Lansing, 10th and Robert Kwolek, Detroit, 16th.

In the women's division Olga Hoof of Norwood Park, Ill. led the 16 qualifiers into the semi-finals today and tomorrow.

Among the women stars eliminated were Charlotte Kardas of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Ann Setlock of Detroit. But three other Michigan women qualified: Marge Merrick, Detroit, 4th; Val Mikiel, Detroit, 11th; and Elvira Toepfer, East Detroit, 13th.

ELKS GUEST — One of the many guests at the annual Father and Son Banquet Thursday evening at the Elks will be Don Lund, former Tiger assistant, who is now head baseball coach at the University of Michigan.

Vossler Fires 273 for Victory, Record

TIJUANA, Mex. (AP) — Golf's professional wanderers today headed for Bing Crosby's big show at Pebble Beach next weekend with a new name and a new record written into the books here.

The name was Ernie Vossler of Midland, Tex., and the record was the 72-hole score of 273 which netted him victory in the $20,000 Tijuana Open yesterday.

Four pros, Vossler, Tommy Bolt, John McMullin and Jay Hebert, were deadlocked as they turned into the final nine holes.

Sawchuk Chosen First Team Goalie

DETROIT (UPI)—The National Hockey League all-star team for the first half of the season was full of surprises but the biggest saw superstars Gordie Howe and Maurice (Rocket) Richard not even making the second team.

The all-star team, announced out of Montreal today by NHL president Clarence Campbell, has two Detroit Red Wings on the first team—goalie Terry Sawchuk, who saw the red light flash six times behind him Sunday, and defenseman Marcel Pronovost.

Not even Doug Harvey, first team selection for the last seven years, could make the second team. Jacques Plante, Canadiens' goalie who has a 30-goal Vezina Cup lead over Sawchuk, was named to the second team along with defensemen Bill Gadsby of New York and Fern Flaman of Boston, center Jean Beliveau of Montreal and wingers Bernie Geoffrion of Montreal and Alex Delvecchio of Detroit.

Howe and Richard, the two highest scoring players in NHL history, had a virtual lock on the right wing berth for the past 14 years. Bathgate held a 20-point margin over Geoffrion, the league's top scorer, and Howe had 40 of a possible 90 points. Richard got only three votes.

A first team berth is worth $1,000 to each player and his club usually matches that. Second-place is worth $500 apiece. The team is selected by sports writers and sportscasters from the six NHL cities who will vote again at the close of the season with the cumulative points deciding the positions.

Only Henri Richard and Moore, linemates along with the Rocket, were holdovers from either the final voting last spring or the midway voting a year ago.

Sawchuk outpolled Plante, Vezina winner as the league's stingiest goalie the past three season, by 75-66.

The first and second all-star teams with the number of points polled in parenthesis:

FIRST TEAM	POS.	SECOND TEAM
Terry Sawchuk, Detroit (75)	Goal	Jacques Plante, Montreal (66)
Tom Johnson, Montreal (60)	Def.	Bill Gadsby, New York (52)

Howe, Litzenberger Threat to Leaders

MONTREAL (AP) — Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings and Eddie Litzenberger of the Chicago Black Hawks are the newest menaces to Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion and Andy Bathgate in the National Hockey League scoring derby.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

The league's official statistics, released today, show Howe scored one goal and collected five assists for his week's work while Litzenberger put together three goals and two assists for a five-point production. They moved, respectively, into third and fourth places.

Jewelers Upset, 76-71

Sports 5 Surprises Again

Soprts Shop, which last week upended the defending champion Lakeside Royals in the Class A City League basketball race, turned the upset tables again last night at Pontiac Central.

This time the Sports Shop quintet made Shaw's Jewelers the victim with a 76-71 triumph. All five of the Sports Shop starters hit double figures, led by Mel Taylor and Felix Brooks with 17 points apiece. Shaw's Dave Diehm took game honors with 22.

The Royals returned to their winning ways yesterday with an 84-75 victory over the Knights of Columbus. Five Lakeside players broke into double numbers with John Jackson leading the way on 20 points as the Royals hiked their record to 4-1. Bob McManus scored 18 for the Knights.

Monday's two Class D games at Lincoln were both runaways with one falling in the upset class. Boys Club handed Welden's its first loss in the American division, a 47-28 drubbing, and Eastside Shopping stayed undefeated in the National loop with a 38-15 rout of Coca Cola. Gene Gidcumbe tallied 13 points to spark the Boys Club's surprise win over Welden's. Bill Davis netted 10 for the losers. Dexter Jarrett's 10 points paced the Eastside cagers to their easy conquest of winless Coca Cola.

Official statistics released today showed that Pettit has tallied 1,105 points in 38 games for a 29.1 average. While helping the Hawks open a 9½ game lead in the circuit's Western division, Pettit has tallied the most points ever recorded at this stage of the season.

Paul Arizin of the Philadelphia Warriors continues in the runner-up position. But the two-time titleholder has slipped 158 points behind Pettit. Jack Twyman of Cincinnati is third. Arizin has collected 947 points and Twyman 941.

Skippers Host to 1st Meeting of Long Series

By CHUCK ABAIR

The 1st athletic meeting of any kind between Pontiac Northern and Waterford highlights a slimmed-down prep basketball schedule tonight.

A full slate in the Eastern Michigan League, an Oakland B game and several interesting non-loop tussles should help make it an action-packed program.

The big one at Waterford will begin what is expected to be a long and popular series involving Skipper sports teams and the new Pontiac school. They will be league rivals when Northern joins the Inter-Lakes next fall.

Northern has the better record but the more experienced Skippers are rated a slim favorite adding the home court edge to the experience factor.

Coach Dick Hall's Huskies have won two straight after dropping their 1st three starts while Waterford is only 1-4 but the charges of Jerry Wallace, for the most part, have played tougher opposition. Two of the WTHS losses have been by a total of four points to I-H powers Berkley and Southfield.

Northern has averaged 60.5 points in beating West Bloomfield and Detroit Thurston led by scoring ace Mike Fedynik and Bruce Norton. Chubby center Barry Campbell has been the only steady Skipper point-getter as they have failed to reach the 50-mark.

Birmingham at Port Huron and Mt. Clemens at East Detroit are a pair of important EML games. Hazel Park will be guest of Royal Oak Kimball in the other tilt while Ferndale goes outside the league playing at Grosse Pointe.

Avondale will have its hands full trying to get above .500 for both the season and Oakland B play at Fitzgerald. The Yellowjackets have taken bad beatings the last two times out. They are 1-1 in the loop. Fitzgerald is one-half game behind Troy with 2-0.

The independent games are headed by Clarkston's invasion of Oxford's new gym which will be in use for the 1st time tonight. Clarkston won an earlier high-scoring battle at home and is 4-2 overall. Oxford is 2-4 despite the outstanding play of newcomer Doug Stott.

Bloomfield Hills visits Cranbrook, Roseville goes to Van Dyke, Madison is at L'Anse Creuse, Oak Park at Troy, Goodrich at Ortonville, Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows at Utica St. Lawrence, Country Day hosts Grosse Pointe University School and Utica travels to Warren in others.

Cranbrook was an early season powerhouse led by Jerry Williams. The Cranes will be seeking their fourth straight success after starting with a loss. Bloomfield has been almost the opposite winning its first two but losing three in a row since.

Kentucky, K-State, Bradley Roll On

Cincy Gets By in Overtime

By The Associated Press

An unpublicized college from Denton, Tex. had the basketball world taking notice today following a stirring performance that resulted in a relatively poor night for Oscar Robertson and a near upset of the Cincinnati Bearcats.

As it turned out, little North Texas State lost to sixth-ranked Cincinnati 64-56 in overtime. But not before the Bearcats had come within inches of defeat.

With only six seconds remaining and the score deadlocked 49-all in regulation time a shot by Rod Byrd of North Texas State hit the rim and bounced away.

Robertson was held to 19 points until he added seven free throws and one field goal in the overtime for 28 points.

Kentucky, which dropped to second place behind North Carolina State in the latest poll, finished strong to beat Tulane 85-68. Kansas State (No. 4) clobbered Oklahoma 90-45 and Bradley (No. 7) outlasted Houston, 60-50.

Kansas State's victory left it in a two-way tie for the Big Eight lead with the Kansas Jayhawks who swamped Iowa State 69-48. In other Big Eight competition, Nebraska defeated Missouri 81-69 and Colorado, rebounding from a lop-sided loss to Kansas State, turned back Oklahoma State 65-52.

Bradley's triumph enabled the Braves to move into sole possession of the runner-up position behind Cincinnati in the Missouri Valley Conference. The Bearcats hold the lead on the strength of their 85-84 success over Bradley in overtime Jan. 5.

Elsewhere in the Mo. Valley Conference, St. Louis got hot in the second half and beat Tulsa 76-61 and Wichita's Shockers led all the way to get past Drake 61-52.

Victories by Indiana, Illinois and Michigan in the Big 10 enabled each to tie for the conference lead, replacing vanquished Minnesota. Indiana beat the Gophers 63-59 on the strength of a 21-for-29 performance from the free throw line. Roger Taylor and Mannie Jackson had 24 points apiece as Illinois rode over Iowa 103-97 and Michigan, paced by John Tidwell's 37 points, defeated Wisconsin 84-74.

Georgia was not scheduled. But Miss. State walloped Vanderbilt 83-65. In other league games, Georgia Tech trampled Mississippi 89-70, Alabama beat Florida 82-77 and Tennessee defeated Louisiana State 65-58.

In the Southwest Conference, Texas A&M held off a late rally to edge Arkansas 63-62. Davidson nipped Virginia Military 75-70 in the Southern Conference.

In non-league encounters, Duquesne snapped a three-game losing streak with an 85-68 triumph over Loyola of Chicago and Furman outclassed South Carolina 87-63.

Yeager Quits at Milford

Dick Yeager of Milford became the 2nd Wayne-Oakland League football coach in recent weeks to leave the grid coaching ranks when he announced his resignation yesterday.

He will stay on at the school as athletic director and golf coach while continuing his teaching duties.

Supt. Harold Hansen said no successor has been signed to handle the Redskin footballers as yet. "It will have to be someone who can fit into our teaching system," he added.

Yeager completed six seasons at Milford with a combined record of 19 victories, 25 defeats and five ties. An 0-7-1 mark last fall pushed him below the .500 level.

"There was no pressure on me from anyone. I just decided to step down after 15 years of it," said the coach who drew high praise from school officials for his work there.

The past season was the only year a Yeager team had not finished in the top half of the standings. His best finish was a deadlock for runnerup honors and his top overall season record was 5-3 in 1957.

Huskies Barely Miss Victory

Final Relay Settles Swim Test, 54-42 With Dearborn-Lowrey

It was touch and go all the way in yesterday's swimming meet at Pontiac Northern High's pool, where Dearborn Lowrey edged the Huskies, 54-42. The final event settled the issue and that one, the 200-yard freestyle relay, was a "touch-out" for Lowrey. A win for PNH would have given Huskies the meet by a single point.

Coaches Ed Dauw and Dick Marsh were enthusiastic over the fine showing by the new Husky squad. "That was one of the best meets I've seen," says Dauw. "We missed several firsts only by touch-outs, they were so close," he added.

Huskies had two double winners. They were Bill Ratliff who missed a perfect diving card by only two-tenths of a point, and captain Gary Rose. Both are juniors.

Huskies will be busy again Wednesday, going against Fitzgerald at Warren. Other area meets include Southfield at Livonia today, Pontiac Central at Flint Northern, Birmingham at Ann Arbor and RO Kimball at Southfield, all on Friday.

Romney Chides Appliance Firms

Says Industry 'Sick' Because Sales Drive Based on Underselling

CHICAGO (AP)—George Romney, president of American Motors Corp., says the appliance industry has grown sick because it has "centered its efforts to stimulate sales primarily on drastic and devious price cutting."

* * *

Romney spoke last night at the annual convention of the National Appliance and Radio-TV Dealers Assn. during the international home furnishings market.

The American consumer, living in an age of abundance, is spending his money on other things he wants more than current appliances, regardless of price, Romney declared.

All the industry has been doing to get its share is "telling the consumer to buy now, buy at does for less," Romney said.

He urged appliance men to think about the general competition from all other businesses, all other industry, and not so much about the appliance store down the street or in the next state.

Romney said unreasonably low appliance prices and profits have not only created a sick industry, but have not kept pace with the general rise in the national economy because of the "blindness to the responsibilities of leadership among the leaders of the industry."

He did not identify the leaders.

Official Refuses Raise

TORRINGTON, Conn. (AP)—Raymond Over, president of voters, was so disturbed over the new budget before the city council that he refused to accept a proposed salary increase. He said the raise was "one of the most irresponsible governmental acts I had seen of the problem and to see the work going forward," Haber said.

Twelve registered nurses will work under the supervision of Dr. William E. Crommett. All have volunteered their services.

Economist Cites Needs for State

Says Million More Jobs Must Be Found by 1970 if Growth Continues

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan will need to find another million jobs by 1970, says a University of Michigan economist.

* * *

The forecast was made by Prof. William Haber, who is making a study of the state's population, labor force and employment trends over the next 10 years.

Haber told a meeting of the Committee on Michigan's Economic Future yesterday the state's population is swelling at a faster clip than any other state, with the possible exception of California and Florida.

He said this rapid growth would increase Michigan's labor force in 1970 by at least one million and possibly by 1,400,000.

The Michigan Employment Security Commission currently estimates the state's labor force at 2,901,000 including unemployed.

* * *

Haber said the 100 member committee was created to solve the problem of where the new jobs will be found.

"It's good to see a recognition of the problem and to see the work going forward," Haber said.

Marion Hargrove Hitting Stride as Script Writer

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — At 22, Marion Hargrove wrote "See Here, Private Hargrove," which sold 3½ million copies, became a hit movie and made him famous.

Now he is 39 and finally hitting his stride as a writer, penning movie and TV scripts.

* * *

"I learned a lesson," he now admits. "A writer shouldn't have such success until two conditions prevail: No. 1, he should be rewarded for a work on which he has lavished a great deal of time and effort. No. 2, he should be at an age when he is mature enough to follow up the success."

Seventeen years later, Hargrove still looks youthful enough to play the Army private—well, corporal maybe. Now that he is hot as a writer again, he can look back reflectively at the pitfalls of his youth.

* * *

Before the war, he was a deskman on the Charlotte, N.C., News. A pre-Pearl Harbor draftee, his wry views of Army life were printed in a series of articles in the News. They were brought to the attention of a book publisher, who recognized their appeal. Hargrove attached a beginning and ending, and the book became a wartime sensation.

Hargrove roamed the world as a correspondent for the Army magazine, Yank, returned after the war to pursue a career as author and journalist.

* * *

"For the first two years, I couldn't write a thing," he said. "It was the old story about facing the blank piece of paper in the typewriter and being unable to get an idea."

The turn in his career came when studio boss J. L. Warner wanted a comedy about the new Army. Who else could write it but Marion Hargrove?

* * *

"I came out from New York and went up to Fort Ord for research," he said. "I found I had to start anew with this Army; my field of reference was entirely different. I turned out a script treatment, but they didn't like it. So they kept the movie rights and I turned out a novel. The novel ('The Girl He Left Behind') was better than the picture."

Dog's Life Can Be Fun With $15,000

DETROIT (AP)—Butzo, a husky three-year-old German Shepherd, has $15,000 to spend on anything his dog's whims dictate.

To lead his dog's life, Butzo also has a human-sized house and a caretaker.

* * *

Johnson, who liked dogs, had four of them when he wrote his will in 1950. All died, and young Butzo became Johnson's only heir.

* * *

Johnson's will said Butzo would receive his entire estate. It included $15,000, Johnson's cottage and arrangements for Butzo to be attended by a roomer at the house.

Johnson said anything remaining when Butzo dies would go to the Detroit manufacturing firm that employed him as a chef for 40 years.

Suffers Cuts, Bruises When Ejected

Mayor Egan Brawls at Council Meeting

AURORA (ILL.) (AP)—Mayor Paul Egan, 58, lost a one-round brawl to Aurora City Council's 41-year-old burly sergeant-at-arms Monday.

The usually voluble mayor, who spent the night in St. Charles Hospital, refused to talk about the fight.

* * *

Hospital officials declined to report on the condition of Egan, a stormy petrel in Aurora since his election as mayor in 1953. Earlier however, Dr. J. D. Rossman said Egan had suffered a cut on the right side of his jaw and some bruised swellings on his face. He said the mayor also complained that his back was injured.

* * *

policemen rushed from the traffic room to halt the fracas. Egan, the jag, ended by Herman M. Halbesma. Halbesma, 63, a 20-year building inspector acting as sergeant-at-arms at a council meeting, had bounced the mayor from the council chambers on orders from other commissioners.

* * *

Egan, banging the gavel, had told the four commissioners that he would consider no business except his order of firing Police Chief Donald Curran. The commissioners ignored him and Egan continued to pound the gavel and shout.

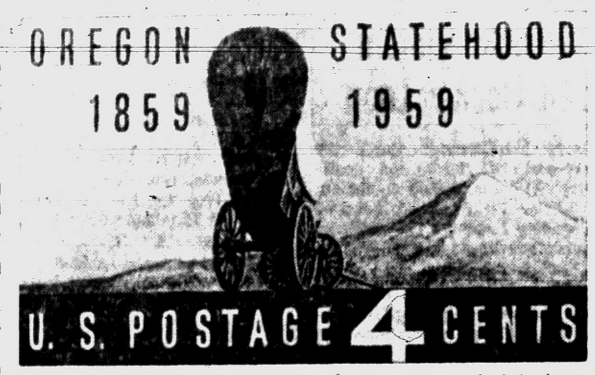

The commissioners then ordered Halbesma to eject the mayor, who is serving his second four-year term. He pulled the struggling Egan from the mayor's chair, off the podium and out to a rear doorway.

"OK. That's it," Halbesma told the mayor. "I've had enough. You'll apologize for that."

The two men grappled and then Halbesma floored the mayor. Four

Halbesma, who was not arrested, left the council chamber, commenting "It's a fine way to start

13.7 Billion Spent on Employe Security

NEW YORK (AP) Private industry spent $13,700,000,000 on pension and welfare payments and other forms of employe security last year, the National Industrial Conference Board estimates.

These costs accounted for 6.6 per cent of the estimated $208,400,000,000 private employers paid in wages and salaries. In 1929, employe security payments accounted to $500,000,000, or one per cent of total compensations.

More than half of the 1958 security payments were channeled into private pension and welfare funds, the board said. Old age, survivors and disability insurance made up more than a quarter of the total, while the balance went to unemployment insurance and injury compensation.

Remove Bodies From Alaska Glacier

Air Crash Victims Reached

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — as it struck Petrof Glacier between the 3,000 and 4,000 foot levels.

Rescuers reached the shattered hulk of an Air Force plane high on an Alaskan glacier Monday and began the task of bringing out the bodies of nine crewmen.

* * *

The crippled C124 failed to clear a 5,200-foot mountain range late Sunday as it came in, with two of four engines out, for an emergency landing at Homer, on the tip of the Kenai Peninsula. The giant plane was demolished.

The Globemaster from Travis Air Force Base, Calif., had disappeared into clouds while being escorted across the Gulf of Alaska by Coast Guard amphibians.

* * *

The C124 took off from McChord AFB in Washington about noon Saturday on a flight to Kodiak, Alaska. It carried more than 17 tons of classified military cargo.

DETROIT (UPI)—Recorders Judge George Murphy gave six-month jail terms to seven persons yesterday and handed probation terms or fines to 11 other members of a million dollar numbers ring.

Leo Monteleon, 40, named by police as the ringleader, was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $2,500. Five other persons were fined a total of $20,750.

Iowa Farmers Chatty?

DES MOINES (UPI) — Iowa leads the nation in the number of farms with telephone service. Nine out of 10 farms in the state had telephones at the end of 1957, the State Department of Agriculture said. The total number of phones was 174,000.

Crews Shielded From Radiation

A-Plane Safeguards Developed

DETROIT (AP) Effective shielding has been developed to protect crews against radiation when nuclear-powered aircraft are ready, Society of Automotive Engineers members were informed Monday.

* * *

N. M. Schaefer and R. L. French, of Convair Division, General Dynamics Corp., reported on field tests at the opening session of the engineers' five-day annual meeting. They said a reactor was operated in flight for the first time on Feb. 13, 1956, at 15,000 feet above New Mexico.

A five-man crew, they said, was protected in the flight compartment by rubber and lead neutron and gamma shielding.

J. G. Stuart, of General Electric Co., reported on some effects of nuclear radiation and high temperatures upon materials used in reactor control equipment. He recommended engineering studies to find materials which can endure in such environment.

* * *

Stuart said radiation can cause both natural and synthetic rubber to harden, plastics to become unusable as structural materials, carbon steels to undergo a severe loss in ductility, and even ceramics to change in temperature conductivity, density and crystallinity.

A group of reports on the automotive industry's research into smog problems and means to control exhaust gas emissions will highlight the closing sessions of the convention next Friday.

Smog and the auto industry's responsibility for it have been the subject of some caustic exchanges between officials of the Los Angeles area and some of Michigan's major automotive centers.

The Automobile Manufacturers Assn. reported recently it has spent more than five million dollars in smog research. It announced also that several new approaches to pollutant control had been developed.

Ready for testing by all motor vehicle makers the association said, was a muffler device described as a low temperature catalytic converter. It would cost nearly $150 for installation, the announcement said.

CHAPTER XXV

Knocking, Angus heard the admiral's voice and went in to find the old man standing at the window. On the table was the remains of a meal, and the admiral jerked his head towards it.

"Had to eat something," he said. "Can't go till nearly midnight waiting for dinner."

"You could always have dinner at eight if you wanted to, sir."

"No, no, no. Got to keep in line. Don't want to travel and take all my home habits with me. All the same, it's a barbaric time, and it's playing hell with with my inside. Oh well. Sit down, will you? Shan't keep you a minute."

He had to wait some time. The Admiral walked up and down, stared out of the window, coughed nervously, gazed at the ornaments on a shelf and moved them a quarter of an inch to the right, coughed again and finally turned to face Angus.

"Just wanted to have a word with you about—er—something."

"Yes, sir?"

PSYCHIC PHENOMENA?

"Yes. It . . . I hope I'm not keeping you from anything important?"

"Not at all."

"Well." The Admiral took a plunge. "Ever heard of something called psychic phenomena?" he asked abruptly.

Angus, concealing his surprise, said that he had.

"Ah. Well, what I wanted to say was, my sister—Mrs. Denby-Warre—is by way of being . . . er, psychic."

Angus raised his eyebrows in polite attention, but said nothing.

"Wouldn't think it to look at her. I mean, people who go in for that sort of thing are usually crackpots, but she's got a very level head in other ways.

"But every now and then—not often; not more often, I'd say, than once or twice a year—she gets a . . . a sort of. . .of. . .feeling. Lot of people," muttered the admiral, "don't believe in it."

"I had a great-aunt," said Angus, "who had a gift of second sight. It was most extraordinary."

How extraordinary, he did not feel it necessary to explain. Aunt Evelyn was dead and all those men she had seen chasing her had either given up the chase or were pursuing her round and round the heavenly mansions.

How, he wondered, did it take Mrs. Denby-Warre? She seemed an unlikely subject for visions.

"My sister didn't receive any manifestations—her word, not mine—until she was well over middle age, and I can tell you in confidence that I had my own ideas as to what was the matter with her.

'CAME LAST NIGHT'

"But I was wrong. One thing after another turned out just as she said it would. Well, this thing—this pre-vision or whatever you like to call it—came to her again last night."

"She did. She saw the Green Empress in a ditch."

"The coach?"

"This coach, I daresay they're all alike, but she says she's absolutely positive it was this one. It was in a ditch. A Spanish ditch."

"A——?"

"That's what she said. It was a Spanish ditch. I asked her how she knew. A ditch, I said to her, is a trench of muddy water and you can't give it a nationality—but she said it was this coach, and the ditch was in Spain. What's more, I was under the coach."

"You were——"

"I was under the coach."

* * *

A question hovered on Angus' lips, and he hesitated before uttering it. Then the thought came to him that he had, after all, a right to know.

"Where," he inquired, "were the other passengers?"

"That's just the point. The odd part, I mean. They weren't there."

"Not there?"

"No." The admiral coughed again in acute embarrassment. "They weren't there." A keen look satisfied him that he had 'Angus' grave attention, and he finished the story in a rush.

"The coach was empty. It was in the ditch—not in it, you understand; just partly in it. And I was under the coach."

There was a pause.

"Is she alarmed, sir?" asked Angus at last.

DOESN'T LIKE IT'

"Well, she doesn't like it. And so this morning, when she heard that Tarrant's luggage had been stolen, she was in favor of the day's delay. But then the question came up, and you vetoed it.

"So did I, at first—but she hadn't told me about her—her premonition or whatever you like to call it.

"So we talked it over, and I said I'd explain the circumstances to you and tell you that if there's going to be a vote on waiting a day, or going on, we're in favor of waiting."

Angus frowned.

"But I don't quite see, sir," he pointed out, "how Mrs. Denby-Warre can be certain that the delay would prevent the—catastrophe.

"If she doesn't know exactly when it's to happen, mightn't it be a possibility that the day's delay is going to be the very factor that causes it?"

* * *

"Hadn't thought of that," he mumbled.

"I think we shall be going on, sir—but perhaps that point of view, if you put it before Mrs. Denby-Warre, would reassure her."

"Might do."

"How do you feel about it, sir?"

"Me?"

"You were the——"

"Oh, yes, yes, yes. See what you mean. Well, m'own feeling is that I didn't particularly want to end up in a Spanish ditch, but if that's where they've put my number, that's where I'll find it, and going on, or not going on won't make much odds."

"I don't think, sir, that even if Tarrant gets in touch with London, they'll authorize a delay."

"That's what I thought. That's what I said. But she insisted on your being told about the—the dream, or whatever you like to call it. She thought you ought to know.

"Don't run away with the idea that I care one way or the other. I came to tell you this solely on my sister's behalf."

"I think that we shall be going on, sir."

"Very well. I shall tell her."

They went out of the door together. The Admiral marched towards his sister's room, and Angus walked thoughtfully back to his own.

He was still pondering when he went down a little later to spend some time with the manager, talking over the events of the night.

Half his mind was on the interview, but the other half was on what Mr. Holt had said about the attempts to delay the coach.

Tarrant, this morning, had been anxious to keep the coach back for a day. Now Mrs. Denby-Warre seemed equally anxious to provide an excuse for delaying the Empress. Mrs. Denby-Warre. . .or the admiral.

This was more cryptic than the last. On a plain sheet of paper was written, in block capitals, a few words:

CUPBOARD IN CORRIDOR OUTSIDE TARRANT'S ROOM.

He left his room at once and went to the floor above. Walking along the corridor towards the cupboard, he was in no doubt about what he was going to find.

NOT SURPRISED

Opening the cupboard, he saw without surprise what he had expected to see.

On the wide shelves were Maurice Tarrant's two suitcases, his clothes and his shoes.

Angus did not at once tell Tarrant of the recovery of the luggage. He wanted time to think, time to reassess the situation.

He went thoughtfully back to his room, but before he reached it, he found that he had changed his opinion about the unlikelihood of Tarrant's having removed his own luggage.

NYC Railroad Makes Profit

President Says Final '58 Totals Will Cancel 11-Month Deficit

NEW YORK (AP) — Final figures will show that the New York Central Railroad made a profit in 1958 President Alfred Perlman said Monday.

For the first 11 months of 1958, the road reported a deficit of $[illegible],600 compared with net income of $8,218,221 in the same months of 1957.

Perlman told a news conference the break-even point had been reduced from 3,900,000 freight carloadings a year to 3,172,000 cars. He admitted, however, that part of this improved efficiency "was accomplished at the expense of work we would like to have done."

In 1959, Perlman said, the road expects a 7 per cent increase in business which he described as not great. "But," The Central president added, "I don't feel the corner has been turned yet on heavy industry."

★ ★ ★

[illegible] for Americ[illegible] products from foreign countries there has been a great loss to industrial production in the territory." But, he said, industrial production will pick up.

Grain Dealings Continue Slow

CHICAGO (AP) — Prices were steady to easier today in slow early grain futures dealings on the Board of Trade. Influences generally were absent.

Farmer soybean meal prices attracted some scattered demand for soybeans. Sales of about 700,000 bushels of soybeans to Denmark was the only export business reported overnight.

However, there were renewed reports that India and Pakistan will be back in the wheat market for additional purchases, probably before the end of the week. At the same time, though, there were advices from the Southwest that the grain has been moving into commercial positions there a little more liberally.

Near the end of the first hour wheat was ⅜ cent a bushel lower to ⅛ higher, March $1.96¾, corn unchanged to ⅛ lower, March old type contract $1.13⅜, oats unchanged to ⅛ higher, March, 66, rye ¼ to ⅜ lower, March $1.34¾, soybeans ⅞ higher to ⅝ lower, January $2.15⅛.

Auto-Lite and Union Reach Agreement

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The United Auto Workers said last night the union has reached "understanding on a national agreement" with Electric Auto-Lite Co. against which it has been on strike for eight weeks.

Richard T. Gosser, international vice president of UAW, said the tentative agreement is for three years to March 1, 1962. He said the strike will continue while agreement terms are submitted to ratification by UAW members at Electric Auto-Lite plants in 12 cities.

If a majority of workers in all plants approve the agreement, the union will instruct its members to end their walkout next Monday at those plants which have no unsettled local issues, Gosser said.

Farm Income Here May Hold Up OK

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Lower prices for farm products and higher production costs are cited as contributing factors in a prediction that agricultural incomes, gross and net, are likely to be lower this year than last.

So says Michigan State University farm economist William A. Cromarty.

Farm product prices may drop as much as five per cent for the United States as a whole. Michigan prices, however, may hold up better because of the greater importance of dairy where prices are expected to hold steady.

★ ★ ★

Cromarty reports that supplies of farm products will continue to increase. Larger marketings of beef, hogs, poultry and eggs will lead to a drop in prices to the farmer. Only a small increase is seen in demand for farm products.

Art Entry Deadline Set

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Institute of Arts said Monday it will close entries for the 49th annual exhibition for Michigan artists Feb. 7. The exhibition is open to artists born in Michigan, artists who have worked or studied in the state for two years, or artists who have lived in the state for at least one year and are now residents.

LESSON IN LAUGHTER — She has no trouble laughing now, but at one time Carole Mathews had to take laughing lessons because she was unable to smile. She is seen regularly as Wilma Fansler, gambling house operator, on "The Californians."

She Had to Take Lessons to Laugh

Sober Outlook Resulted in 'Hard-Boiled' Parts; She Hopes for Others

"Learning to laugh was the most painful thing that's ever happened to me."

This startling admission comes from Carole Mathews who is seen regularly on "The Californians," (Tues. 10 p.m.—Channel 4).

Carole, the product of a broken home, set out on her own when she was 17. "I intended to become a nun or a schoolteacher but I became an actress instead after winning a beauty contest," the attractive, honey-blonde actress recalls.

Her very first role called for laughter, but strange as it may seem, Carole was incapable of it.

★ ★ ★

"I was a very quiet, solemn person and life just didn't seem amusing to me. I didn't see anything to laugh about. In fact, I had to take laughing lessons so I could do this role," Carole said.

She attributes her eventual change in outlook to two dramatic coaches, Nina Moise of Hollywood and Ella Gerber of New York.

"Learning how to laugh was the most painful exercise I'd ever done, physically and psychologically—it was like tearing flesh off my body," she said. "I knew how to call forth other emotions, such as sorrow, because everyone can think of something sad and bring forth tears. But I'd never known happiness and I couldn't think of anything funny or amusing."

Her reserve soon got her typed to play hard-boiled roles. She commented: "I used to say that producers just would 'Dial M (Mathews) for Murder' every time they wanted a female 'heavy'."

While her screen and TV personality stayed pretty static, her own personality, on the other hand, underwent some significant changes.

"I discovered that life wasn't really as grim as I thought it was and that there was much that was wonderful and good," she explained. "I found out that laughter is really a very healthy and necessary thing and that the answer is to laugh with life, not at life."

Once she accepted this, Carole discovered a new pleasure in living.

"It was like discovering a new facet to my personality," she continued. "It was like growing in a new direction. The wonderful thing about being a human being is that you can change your thinking and in turn, can change your life."

★ ★ ★

In fact, she believes now that comedy is really her forte, and is well-known for many successful comedy roles on stage.

Her TV roles, however, still portray her as a hard-boiled gal with a kind heart. But even this is changing gradually. As Wilma Fansler, gambling house operator in "The Californians," Carole is true to type, but not without a great deal of warmth and a delightful sense of humor.

Carole believes that her true personality is really asserting itself now and that some day she will play the tender and compassionate roles she feels herself genuinely capable to handle now.

Even His Own Brother Can't Reach Bob Hope

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Bob Hope's brother, George, is a writer on the Peter Lind Hayes-Mary Healy TV show. Why he doesn't write for brother Bob you shouldn't ask me, because like a dope, I forgot to ask. George Hope said he's been trying to reach Bob, but can't. "Where is he?" seemed a logical question. "I think Bob heard about an Air Force private who went A.W.O.L. in Australia," George answered. "And he flew out there to do a special Easter show for him."

WILSON

More than 2,600 people attended Ohio Gov.-elect Mike DiSalle's recognition dinner in Toledo, before his departure for Columbus. Mike said he'd been given several going-away parties before, "but never before was there such a big crowd to make sure I was going."

Mike, born of Italian parents in N.Y.C., confessed that when he started school in Toledo at the age of four he was rejected twice because he couldn't speak English. His parents had kept him at home, afraid of bad associates he'd meet. "Some of the kids didn't like the way my father cut our hair," he recalled. "He was a good father, but a poor barber."

VIRGINIA

Virginia Deluce, the beautiful Boston actress, is going to sue that Detroit hotel, where a rat bit her in the lobby (the hotel's lobby, pUHLEASE!) for $1,000,000. She had leaned over to pick up something, when this rat sunk its teeth into her finger and held on. A female jury would award her $2,000,000 just not to hear about it.

Accustomed as I am to public celebrities, I'm always amazed by Steve Allen. I phoned to check some rumors. His secretary, who'd be seeing him at rehearsals, asked me to give her the questions. Twenty minutes later she phoned.

"Mr. Allen dictated the answers . . . they'll be at your office by cab in 30 minutes." They were.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

William Holden's off on an African safari with Ray Ryan . . . Willie Mays was a a local cafe, but left early "because I have to play basketball with the kids tomorrow" . . . If Castro closes the gambling casinos, "The Boys" will try it in Nassau . . . Constance Bennett's Auntie Mame" troup will give a benefit for the survivors of the Chicago school fire . . .

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Those who have the hardest time living through adolescence are the adolescent's parents . . . That's earl, brother.

Telephone Hour Rings Bell

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UPI) — The telephone company and I have had our differences in the past—notably over the occasional flights of fancy that have gone into the making of my monthly bills.

However, after last night's NBC-TV Bell Telephone Hour, I am quite willing to call a temporary truce. In fact, with a little encouragement I might even be cajoled into looking into the yellow pages, whatever they are.

The Bell show, first of a series of four specials scheduled for this season, offered Renata Tebaldi, Harry Belafonte, the New York City ballet, Maurice Evans and the piano team of Gold and Fizdale. It was a pretty bonny hour.

One portion, it should be admitted at the start, was fairly tedious. A rendition of Saint-Saens "Carnival of the Animals" with Evans and some puppets. It struck me as the sort of boneless gruel the easily intimidated look upon as charming.

Another portion — a tongue-in-cheek ballet done in the style of a silent movie to the music of Samuel Barber—contained some soggy stretches, but also packed a fair measure of fun.

As for Belafonte, he was spotted in a 15-minute segment that was stunningly staged—mounted in a striped down setting of dights and police that punctuated his material to fine effect.

Belafonte, of course, trembles perilously close upon the edge of the cornball—he milks songs with almost offensive obviousness and constantly shoots for a curious kind of understated sensationalism.

But it also must be said that he is a great showman, that he has taste in his choice of material and is a performer of personal attractiveness, boldness and presence.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: NBC-TV may shift its Tuesday night show, the Californians, to a new spot . . . Margaret Leighton and James Mason will star in a courtroom drama, "The Second Man," on CBS-TV's Playhouse 90 Feb. 12—it'll mark the 100th show of the series.

CBS-TV's new western, Rawhide, pulled a 20.1 Trendex Friday while ABC-TV's Walt Disney Presents was racking up a 19.2 and NBC-TV's Ellery Queen a 12.3 . . . NBC-TV's new Saturday night western, Black Saddle, notched a 23.0 Trendex to edge the 17.8 of CBS-TV's Gale Storm and the 17.3 of ABC-TV's Lawrence Welk.

Rock 'n' Roll Gives Pep

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) — Virginia Tech's football coach, Frank Moseley, is playing recorded music — mostly rock-'n-roll — in the players' dressing rooms. "You'd be surprised how peppy the music makes the kids," he says.

Q. Will the use of glasses require that they be made stronger from time to time? Related to this, "do glasses make one's eyes weaker?" J. E. M.

A. Definitely not, assuming that the proper prescription is worn at the proper time. Stronger lenses may become necessary, but not because glasses were used; this would have occurred anyway. The belief among wearers that they see less well without glasses than they once did generally stems from the wearer's dissatisfaction with inadequate seeing, once he had grown accustomed to good vision.

Q. Will lenses have to be worn forever, if they are put on now? F. F. G.

A. It depends upon the nature of the defect. Many times lenses are prescribed as a temporary measure for a few months, or a year. It is becoming more common to use lenses this way. In severe cases of blurred or double vision, lenses will need to be worn continuously. However, it is the defect which determines the need, not when the lenses are put on.

Q. Can contact lenses be worn for swimming? I. A. J.

A. Yes, providing you have worn them for approximately six months. If you are thinking of getting contact lenses and would like to go swimming with them this coming summer, now is the time to be fitted for them.

Ike Will Speak to Press Club

TV, Radio Coverage Planned for Question Forum at Dinner

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will answer newsmen's questions in a public forum Wednesday with his replies broadcast live by television and radio.

The occasion will be the President's appearance before the National Press Club, which is celebrating its 50th anniversary. It will be Eisenhower's first visit to the club since he became President.

The luncheon will be limited to members of the club, but the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting System announced Monday they plan both TV and radio coverage. The American and Mutual radio networks also will carry the program.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower will have no set speech but might make some informal remarks.

After that, in accord with the usual Press Club practice, Eisenhower will reply to written questions. This is different from procedure at regular White House news conferences, where reporters ask their questions orally. Because of the Press Club visit, Hagerty said, the normal Wednesday news conference probably will be passed up this week.

Coyotes Killed Off, 'But Boy Those Rabbits'

LA CUEVA, N.M. (AP)—Col. William Salman, rancher-farmer in New Mexico's Mora county, says he believes in complementing the work of nature rather than trying to rock nature's boat.

"My neighbors wanted me to go in with them on poisoning the coyotes, and against my better judgment, I did," he says. "Now we don't have coyotes, but boy, do we have rabbits!"

Region Offices to Fight Crime

Justice Department Sets Up Branches in 4 Cities Across Nation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department has created four regional offices to assemble data in connection with a long-range nationwide program to combat syndicated crime and organized racketeering.

★ ★ ★

Reporting this today, department officials said field offices are now functioning in New York City, Chicago, Los Angeles and Miami.

It is understood that in some areas under the jurisdiction of these offices, grand juries have been convened or will be called shortly to assist investigators in assembling information.

★ ★ ★

Asst. Atty. Gen. Malcolm Anderson, who heads the Justice Department's Criminal Division, is the over-all director of the program. Milton Wessel, 34-year-old former assistant U. S. attorney in New York City, is coordinating the country-wide information.

Officials are not discussing what general results have been obtained.

Peril of Food Riots Halted in New Delhi

The government opened shops selling American wheat and flour at subsidized prices after a week of shortage. Prices on the open market, which had climbed 25 per cent in a month, promptly dipped.

The government is shipping 1,000 tons of imported U.S. wheat daily to New Delhi. It promised an investigation of the shortage which a competent observer attributed to a combination of market manipulation by dealers, faulty distribution of government stocks and between-harvest scarcity usual at this time of year.

Nixon Invites Scrutiny of Defense Program

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon has indirectly invited a sweeping inquiry into President Eisenhower's defense program. The Democrats are ready to give it a thorough going over.

Nixon, who has sat in on preparations of the budget, has told fellow Republicans he is satisfied Eisenhower's military proposals will stand up under the most minute examination by the Democratic controlled Congress.

It is Nixon's belief, as related by those with whom he has discussed the matter, that Eisenhower's planned program will keep overall U. S. military power ahead of the Soviet Union, so that there will be no future "black-and-gap" in relative defense strength despite a current Soviet lead in missiles.

Eisenhower has said the new 77 billion dollar budget he will send to Congress next Monday will include seven billion dollars for all types of missiles and related armament.

Relative missile strength is one of the issues the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, headed by Johnson of Texas, expects to investigate as soon as Congress is fully organized.

The Senate Space Committee, also headed by Johnson, already is surveying U. S. and Russian accomplishments in the space field. Eisenhower's budget is expected to call for a 700-million dollar outlay to develop spacecraft.

Nixon has conceded that this country is behind in both the missile and satellite fields. But he has told associates he is confident the rate of American development now exceeds that of the Soviets.

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo), a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, challenged Nixon in the Senate Monday to prove the United States is ahead of Russia in intercontinental missiles. Nixon made no public reply.

Symington told the Senate "There seems to be a continuing effort on the part of high officials in this administration to lull the people into a state of complacency not justified by the facts."

On the other hand, Nixon was said to have told his colleagues that while it would be a great mistake to overestimate U. S. strength, it would be unfortunate if that strength were underestimated and an impression of weakness given to the world.

DSR Employes Asking for Increase in Pay

The drive was pushed by the bus drivers' union which has 1,900 members. Maintenance workers, through their union, also requested raises from the DSR commission.

Rossellini Asks Swift Custody of 3 Children

The Swedish star and Schmidt were married last month in London.

Jersey Officials Say 'Let Them Eat Bread'

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Essex County officials took a look at the menu being offered guests at the county penitentiary and decided to let them eat bread.

Cake will no longer be available. Neither will any other kind of dessert.

The county told Warden Geoffrey Berrien Monday that slicing off cake and things would save $11,000 a year.

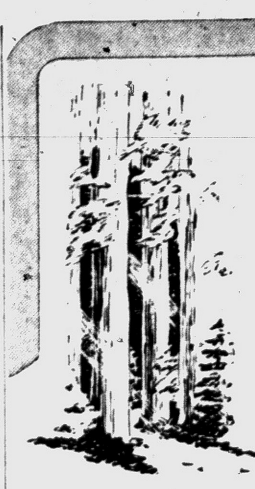

Berrien gave in and removed the item from his operating budget. He did say, however, that he felt dessert was "nutritionally and psychologically advisable."

Grandpa Gets Mumps to Add to Confusion

DENVER (AP) — Things went from bad to worse at the Kenneth Lorenz home when their two children and a nephew caught the mumps within a three-week span.
