

Discuss Congo, Berlin, N-Tests

Kennedy, Mac in Agreement

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan resumed their summit talks today in a relaxed atmosphere.

They had an intensive discussion Thursday of the Congo, Berlin and nuclear testing, and were reported in complete agreement on their next steps concerning those issues.

Kennedy and Macmillan returned to business in midmorning. Kennedy and Macmillan sought to reach broad agreement on policy for coping with Communist threats in Southeast Asia as well as Berlin.

The emphasis appeared to bear heavily on the question of resuming nuclear testing also.

The two leaders were believed to be discussing whether any world curb on nuclear explosions could be enforced and whether the Western allies — particularly the

U.S. to Resume Tests in Atmosphere? Page 10

United States — could afford to continue a self-imposed ban in face of the Soviet's enormous series of tests which showered the skies with radioactive debris.

The two leaders of the Western alliance were expected to go deeper into all three situations, and others as well, in further talks before Kennedy flew back to Palm Beach, Fla., late today to the bedside of his seriously ill father.

They conferred for five hours in their first session Thursday and there was every indication that the atmosphere was harmonious. But their spokesmen emphasized that each subject was discussed only to a limited extent.

AGREE ON BERLIN

In their talk on Berlin, White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said, Kennedy and Macmillan concurred on "steps that can be taken in this particular field." Informants said this meant the position the West should take in trying to negotiate a peaceful solution with Moscow.

The next step, it was agreed in Paris at the Big Three foreign ministers' meeting last week, will be talks by U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in Moscow to determine if there is a chance for formal negotiations on a new Berlin agreement.

But informants said they still must decide on a further approach to Moscow; whether, for example, to work toward a foreign ministers' meeting and ultimately an East-West summit.

They also must discuss ways to bring French President Charles de Gaulle around. De Gaulle insists that the tension over Berlin is all of Soviet making and therefore the Soviets must take the first steps toward easing it.

In the field of nuclear testing, Kennedy and Macmillan heard reports by their experts on the recent Soviet tests and what the experts have been able to deduce from them about Soviet advances in development of nuclear weapons.

Has Self Out on a Limb

CRAZY, MAN, CRAZY — Pontiac Press Photographer Ed Noble thought he was seeing things yesterday when he spotted Charles Looney sawing off a limb — and himself — in a tree in the County Service Center. Fellow worker Larry Hankins, also of the Oakland County Road Commission, sought to point out the optical illusion when . . . no, Looney didn't come tumbling earthward. Actually, Noble got his days mixed up. He thought it was April Fool's Day instead of nearing Christmas. So he asked the workers to pose this gag shot.

Congo Sets Deadline for Honoring Treaty

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — Premier Cyrille Adoula today said next Wednesday is the deadline for Katanga to honor President Moise Tshombe's unity commitment—and there'll be trouble if it doesn't.

The chief of the Congo's central government told newsmen his regime will take energetic actions to see that the eight-point agreement be signed with the secessionist leader is respected.

Tshombe said on his return to Elisabethville, his U.N.-occupied capital, that the agreement to end Katanga's secession was subject to ratification by his cabinet and assembly—and that cannot be done for at least 10 days.

Adoula declared, however, that Tshombe had undertaken to send Katanga deputies and senators to the Congolese parliament and start the unification process by Dec. 27.

EXPECT ENFORCEMENT

Both government quarters here and Belgians in Elisabethville said they expect the United Nations to enforce the agreement, again resorting to force if necessary.

Acting Secretary General U. Thant told the U.N. Security Council in New York that Tshombe made his eight-point Katanga declaration without any reservation.

AF Names Officer as 'Spy'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has charged a decorated officer with giving U.S. military information to foreign agents during a visit to Germany last year.

The officer, Capt. Joseph P. Kauffman, 45, has been returned to Germany for investigation.

The foreign power involved was believed to be a Communist country.

Officials here said they did not know whether any money had been paid or what the motives were.

The Air Force said Thursday the investigations now under way will determine if Kauffman, a 6-foot-6-inch, 160-pounder, holds the Bronze Star and several other World War II and Korean War decorations, will be tried before a court-martial.

The possible penalty could be as severe as death, but Air Force officials said they doubted the extreme penalty would be imposed if there were a trial and conviction.

The four alleged violations reported by the Air Force in response to inquiries were:

1. Conspiring with foreign agents to communicate U.S. defense information to a foreign country on or about October 1960.
2. "Wrongly" communicating information relative to the military defense with reason to believe the information would be to the advantage of a foreign nation.

3. Failure to notify his commander of attempts by foreign agents to get him to reveal security information.

4. Falsifying answers to a questionnaire by "denying that he had been employed by a foreign government or any agency of a foreign government."

At the time of the alleged offenses, the Air Force said, Kauffman was on leave in Germany en route to his new station at Castle Air Force Base, Calif. He had been stationed at Sondrestrom Air Force Base, Greenland.

The Air Force said the information allegedly handed to foreign agents concerned personnel and installations where Kauffman had been stationed.

Cardinal Visits JFK's Father

'He Spoke to Me,' Says Cushing; First Time Since Stricken

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Richard Cardinal Cushing visited his old friend, ailing Joseph P. Kennedy, today and reported the President's father was very much improved, and had spoken to him.

The cardinal, who is from Kennedy's home city of Boston, said he had told Kennedy: "My dear friend, Mr. Ambassador, keep up your courage. We're all praying for you. You're going to be all right."

And, to this, he said the 73-year-old Kennedy, who has been partly paralyzed from a blood clot on the brain, replied: "I know I am."

This was the first time since his Tuesday stroke that the elder Kennedy had been reported able to talk. Previous reports from his doctors had indicated that he was unable to speak but he could recognize members of his family.

A noon bulletin by Kennedy's physicians reported some improvement, but said his condition remains serious.

The brief report distributed by the hospital said: "Mr. Kennedy's condition remains serious, although he has shown some improvement."

His progress is satisfactory. The next bulletin will be issued after the President arrives."

President Kennedy is due back from his Bermuda meeting with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan early this evening.

CARL D. ROGERS

Pontiac C. of C. Elects Rogers Next President

Carl D. Rogers, factory manager of GMC Truck & Coach Division, has been elected president of the Pontiac Area Chapter of Commerce.

Meeting yesterday afternoon, the board of directors also elected Howard M. Nelson, first vice president; Dr. F. Milton Hathaway, second vice president; Gaylord L. Herrington, secretary; and Harold Cousins, treasurer.

The new president will take over from outgoing president Dr. Dana P. Whitmer at the chapter's annual banquet in February.

Rogers was elected first vice president a year ago. The first vice president customarily is elected president the following year.

Rogers, of 1411 Maryland Blvd., Birmingham, has served on the industrial affairs committee and was on the special committee which supervised the filming of "Pontiac, Story of Progress and Promise" early this year.

He was toastmaster at the annual meeting in 1958. Although he is not a member of the board, he has been active in the chamber for many years.

Missile Killer Passes Test, Army States

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nike-Zeus, the nation's most advanced missile-killer project, has successfully tracked and intercepted another missile, the Army reports.

The success claimed by the Army was scored Dec. 14 at the White Sands missile range in New Mexico against a 3,000-mile-an-hour Nike Hercules antiaircraft missile.

The speed of the Nike Zeus antiair missile has never been announced publicly. But the intercontinental ballistic missiles it would have to defend against travel about 17,000 miles an hour.

The Army's announcement on Thursday came on the heels of reports that the service has lost a new round in its fight to win approval of money to start production of long-lived items that would be needed in an operational Zeus system.

The weatherman said there's little hope that Michigan residents will celebrate a white Christmas.

The prediction was for up to 5 inches of snow during the weekend, mostly in flurries. But it appears likely the ground will remain uncovered except for Northern areas and the Upper Peninsula where previous snowfalls already had insured a white holiday.

Morning southerly winds at 5 miles per hour will become southeasterly at 10 to 20 m.p.h. late this afternoon.

Temperatures for the weekend will average near or a little below the normal high of 34 and normal low of 21.

Snow flurries may be mixed with rain mostly Saturday, Monday and Wednesday. Temperatures are expected to drop to 28 tonight and rise to near 30 tomorrow.

Twenty-four was the lowest recorded in downtown Pontiac preceding 7 a.m. The reading was 28 at 2 p.m.

It's Not Too Late to Get That Amusing Little Gift

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

You may not find exactly what you are looking for at this late date, but there are still many, many gifts to buy from Pontiac area stores.

An educational toy for the older youngster is a telescope with tripod. Give consideration to the large number of interesting educational kits offered. We'll wager the sugar cookie kit which Publisher Fitzgerald is always offering that many parents will be intrigued with some of the kits as the youngsters are.

A small gift is a little milk glass dish holding four bars of soap in flower shapes and some hand lotion. Another inexpensive item is a 5-piece desk set with a telephone line.

Ideal for someone who works in an office or the student away at college is a 2-cup electric percolator in a little zippered bag. Give your at-home teenager a 5-minute sand glass in the shape of a toy telephone. Maybe you can get the hint across in this subtle manner.

He longs to preside over the barbecue, does he? We saw just the gloves for him. On one it says, "I love" and on the other, "a barbecue."

Miniature Bibichis are conversation pieces, but are really practical. You can give one to the hostess who loves to entertain at cocktail parties. Then her guests can cook their own tidbits.

Items marked "His" and "Hers" have been around for a long time. But the newest set of towels so marked has a third towel with the word, "Guest" on it.

One of the most amusing items we saw all during our shopping was a "boobworm" finger cap. It's a foam rubber finger cap that you moisten and use to flip pages easily.

Dark and Dreary East of Wall

W. Berlin Bright With Lights and Cheer

By JOHN FIERZ
BERLIN (AP)—More than 800 huge Christmas trees are lit each day along the Western side of the Communist wall through Berlin.

On the East Berlin side of the barrier nothing matches this pre-Christmas atmosphere.

There are Christmas decorations, lighted trees and all, deeper inside East Berlin at the shopping centers. But along the Communist side of the 25 miles of concrete and barbed wire there are only three spindly fir trees set up by the East German guards. One, at Elsenstrasse between the Soviet and American sectors, is stuck into a low, concrete road barrier. It has no lights, no decorations.

In the background a powerful battery of Red loudspeakers blares out Communist propaganda slogans interrupted by popular Christmas songs.

GERMAN LYRICS
"You in West Berlin will be able to celebrate a peaceful Christmas because we built the wall to ward off any provocations," a shrill voice announces. Then come "Silent Night" and "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas" with German lyrics.

Just around the corner of Elsenstrasse is Harzerstrasse. Eight apartment houses stand right on the border on the East Berlin side. They look like dark monstrosities — barren windows, vegetation blinds half lowered, dangling down crookedly.

The houses have been forcibly evacuated by the Communists because many an East Berliner had fled West Berlin policeman on duty through the windows into the said.

street, which is West Berlin territory. Across the end of Harzerstrasse cuts the ugly Communist wall—eight feet high. Behind it, Red guards can be seen looking through the slit of a wooden watch tower.

One of the many West Berlin Christmas trees stands at the dead end of Harzerstrasse. East German border police occasionally hurl bricks at it. "They missed so far," the lone policeman on duty said.

Yule Motorists Total 3 Million

State Police Bolstered by Guardsmen Trying to Control Traffic

By The Associated Press
An estimated three million motorists made final preparations today for travel on Michigan highways over the four-day Christmas holiday weekend.

The Automobile Club of Michigan forecast that traffic peaks would occur late tonight, early Saturday and again on Monday afternoon as motorists return home from the 78-hour weekend.

State police forces bolstered by 100 Michigan National Guardsmen prepared for the heavy traffic. In addition, all days-off for troopers were canceled until Sunday for an attempt to keep traffic under heavy surveillance.

Last year's Christmas weekend traffic death toll reached 32. The highest for any Christmas period was 50 in 1955.

The auto club's three-million car estimate compared to 2.9 million last year.

AIRLINES SOLD OUT
Heavy passenger loads were reported by all major airlines in Detroit. Today was expected to be the peak period and most flights were sold out. Long waiting lists were reported for East and West flights.

Speakers said the pressure would continue until Tuesday.

The five-day weather forecast for Michigan called for snow in most areas tonight, Saturday and Sunday. One-half inch was predicted. Southern sectors possibly will have occasional rain, the U.S. Weather Bureau said.

A last minute Christmas shopping rush was anticipated in Detroit today and Saturday. The Retail Merchants Association said shopping to date has been brisk and expected to be 10 to 20 per cent ahead of last year's Christmas period.

Detroit bus workers were scheduled to start the holiday period with conclusion of shifts today. Production will be resumed Tuesday.

Salesgirl Tells Her Troubles, Too, Mrs. Customer

By PHYLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Sometimes it seems, particularly during the holiday season, that the salesgirl is a cranky creature to keep the customer from buying anything. Many of them are. They are "out of" the item you want. They are annoyed when you say "Charge it," irritated when you offer cash, and virtually uncontrollable when you write a check. You can almost read their minds. They merely hate their jobs—but they really despise you, the customer.

"All right, I agree with you," writes in a woman buyer. "Some salesgirls are innocent and indifferent and sales."

"But I have sold every type of merchandise and managed every type of department which caters to women in the East and the Midwest, so I know what women shoppers are like and I know what sales people are like (Heaven help me!)."

"And if my sympathy must go out to one group or the other—I'll pity the working girl. She may be indifferent. But women shoppers are frivolous, unthinking and vicious."

This is the beginning of an eye-opening letter I received some time ago after writing a column lamenting the surly treatment given me in a couple of fashionable Fifth Avenue stores. I have waited for an appropriate time to quote from it. With one desperate day of shopping left before Christmas, this seems the time:

LETTER FROM CLERK
"I invite you to examine the life of a clerk and see if there is any experience in your life to equal its irritations," writes the pen of experience.

"Did you ever show merchandise to one customer for two hours straight, listen to her person troubles, her criticism of you and the merchandise, her description of her entire wardrobe, and then have her either walk out without buying or even thanking you, or take $500 worth of purchases and send them all back a week later?"

"Did you ever have a woman refuse to look at what-ever you happen to be showing her and keep her eyes glued on another customer—demanding only what the other customer is trying on, and insisting that you bring it to her?"

"Did you ever work nights sizing and sorting your merchandise so the blues and blacks and the 16s and 38s are easy to find, and then watch every customer walk deliberately to the size and color she doesn't want, and say, 'If you only had this in navy, or in an 18'?"

"Did you ever have the 'groups' come on your floor—two or more women together who play the old, old game: Try on everything in stock with a prearranged display whereby the others talk down anything and one else tries to out, and after an hour or two, all walk out and say to a mate: 'We often knew'."

"Did you know that most of us (even we managers who can leave the floor at will to do book-work or pay invoices or just

Gets Order From Officer

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP)—Gov. Terry Sanford arrived for the permanent transfer of the battle-scarred USS North Carolina as a war memorial here wearing a Navy foul weather jacket and white sailor's hat. "Get the blues out of the way, the governor's coming aboard this ship," an officer ordered, before he realized to whom he was speaking.

come apart at the seams)—did you know that most of us take tranquilizing pills, have frequent attacks of such emotional ills as asthma, hives and all related allergies, and often just plain cry for an hour or two as we go about this immensely difficult and heartbreaking business of earning a living catering to women?"

"Did you know that salespeople are not entertainers, that our income is 50 per cent dependent on how much we sell, and that we don't get any bonus or model-of-value-for-the-hours-and-hours we spend with people who are only amusing themselves at our expense?"

"Please don't print my name, Miss Battelle. I have a job. As you can see, I am much of a job. But I need to keep it awhile longer."

The letter concludes, "I only wrote in to invite you to take a job selling. I don't want to write about salesgirls."

I didn't have the courage to take a job selling. But this is what I have to write about salesgirls: Merry end of Christmas may the Good Lord grant peace on your floor, good will among women.

Con-Con Debates Over Proposals Not Resolved

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's constitutional convention spent three days debating committee proposals Thursday — and wound up deciding only that the seat of state government should remain in Lansing.

Most of the discussion centered around a proposal which would have allowed the consolidation of all state resources "subject to appropriation" into a single fund. It ran into trouble immediately.

Proponents of earmarked revenues were on their feet quickly, protesting that the proposal would result in the doing away of earmarked funds.

William Marshall, D-Taylor, said the proposal was "hypocritical" in not providing for repayment of funds.

"This would make it possible to raid any earmarked funds with absolutely no time limit provided for repayment," he said.

The proposal was defended by D. Hale Braker, R-Stoughton, chairman of the finance and taxation committee, which reported it out.

Brake said although it may not be legal, the practice of juggling state funds to meet shifting obligations has been followed for some time.

INTERMINGLING 'CRIME'

Delegate Marvin Nord, D-Detroit, said that as a teacher of criminal law he wanted to point out that the intermingling of trust funds was a crime.

"And when such funds are mingled, even if they aren't spent — it's still a crime," he added.

Harold Norris, D-Detroit, said the proposal would give constitutional sanction to a "robbing Peter to pay Paul" situation in the state treasury.

Delegate John A. Hannah, R-East Lansing, suggested that the proposal be sent back to the finance and taxation committee for further study, since the delegates had debated the issue for 2½ hours and didn't appear to be near agreement.

On an 84-35 roll call vote, Hannah's suggestion was approved.

Only two other committee proposals were on the calendar, and the convention delayed action on one of them. It suggested the deletion of an obscure section of the constitution dealing with special charter railroads.

The third proposal to advance one step in the parliamentary process was one which would maintain that "the seat of government shall be in Lansing." It was sent to the committee on style and drafting which will study its grammatical style and meaning.

GET FINAL PROPOSALS

Before adjourning to Jan. 3, the convention received its final seven delegate proposals, bringing the total to 820.

Included were proposals which would:

- Increase the Supreme Court to a chief justice and 12 associate justices, five of whom would sit as an intermediate appellate court. Appeals from the intermediate appellate court would be a matter of right whenever two justices of the intermediate court dissented.
- Reduce the Supreme Court to seven justices, with the requirement that every justice have been a member of the State Bar for at least 10 years.
- Elect state senators from congressional districts and representatives on population, with the House empowered to enact by 23 vote legislation without the concurrence of the Senate.

Oxford High Seniors to Hold Seasonal Ball

OXFORD — The senior class of Oxford High School will stage its Christmas ball, "Mistletoe Magic," from 9 to 11:30 tonight, putting the finishing touch on a week of pre-valuation festivities.

The holiday activities began Monday evening with the annual Christmas concert presented by the Senior High Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Jean Valentine.

The program concluded with the alumni in the audience coming to the stage to sing the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's "Messiah."

On Tuesday, the Junior High Choir presented its Christmas pageant, "The Blessed Nativity." Highlighting the program were "living pictures" illustrating parts of the Christmas Story.

MOVING DAY — At 11:45 a. m. yesterday this four-family house, owned by the National Bank of Detroit, began to move slowly up Walnut Street toward the center of Rochester. An hour and a half later, after traveling along West University to Main and north on Main to Woodward Street, the stately 50-ton dwelling was parked securely at its new location. The house, moved by Goetz House Moving Co., Warren, is at 333 Woodward St., site of the former home of Mrs. Cora Barwick which was partially destroyed by fire New Year's Day, 1959.

At Clarkston 1st Methodist

Set Christmas Services

CLARKSTON — Climaxing the Christmas season, the First Methodist Church will have two services, at 9 and 11:15 a. m. Sunday, with the church school hour at 10 a. m. omitted in favor of complete family worship.

Featured in the Christmas services will be the story of "The Fourth Wise Man," by Rev. William J. Richards, pastor. He will be assisted by Lay Reader A. Everett Butters.

Accompanying the six choirs of 120 voices directed by William Mansfield, will be three instrumentalists, Joan Payne, French horn; James Chapman, clarinet; and Dennis Urick, clarinet. They will play "Trio From Christmas Oratorio," by Saint-Saens.

The choir will present "Slumber, O Holy Jesus," and close the services with the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's "Messiah."

Beginning at 7 p. m. Sunday evening, the church will celebrate the annual Christmas Eve Candlelight Holy Communion Service, with the Rev. Mr. Richards officiating.

He will present short meditations every eight minutes as the congregation comes and goes during the hour after members receive Holy Communion. The nave will be lighted by candles, and the choir and organist will provide soft background music during the periods of meditation.

School Board to Pay Out-of-Area Tuition

OAK PARK — The Oak Park School Board set a precedent last night in agreeing to pay the tuition at Southfield High School for three students living in the Oak Park School District.

The youths live in the extreme southwest corner of the school district. The parents in requesting assistance said that transportation to Southfield High from their homes is easier than sending them to Oak Park High.

Supt. James N. Pepper recommended that the tuition be paid by Oak Park, stating, however, that the action be restricted only to that area of the Northwest Gardens Subdivision.

Warren Marine Burned to Death in Auto Mishap

WARREN — A 22-year-old Marine corporal from here was burned to death yesterday when he was trapped in a taxicab following an accident in 23 Palms, Calif.

Killed was William J. Thurman of 2333 Curie St. when the cab he was driving on his off-duty hours was struck from behind by another vehicle and caught fire after rolling over.

Thurman, stationed at the 29 Palms Marine Base, was trapped in the wreckage and burned beyond recognition. Identification was established by examination of his teeth and later confirmed when his wallet was found near the scene.

Staff Sgt. Hugh E. Willingham, 30, also of the Marine base was the driver of the car that rammed the cab. He was arrested by Military Police on a drunk driving felony charge.

A San Bernardino County deputy sheriff, Arland Williams, arrived on the scene a moment after the accident at 2 a. m. and attempted to rescue Thurman. He suffered head burns.

Organ Service Christmas Eve

St. Philip's Episcopal Church of Rochester to Light the Star

ROCHESTER — The Christmas Eve midnight service at St. Philip's Episcopal Church here will begin with an organ prelude at 10:45 p. m., followed by the singing of carols and the lighting of the Star of Bethlehem over the altar.

The Christmas message will be delivered by the rector, Rev. Edgar A. Lucas.

A special musical setting to the Holy Communion service will be sung by the Adult Choir under the direction of Mrs. George Ross Jr. Organist will be Mrs. Franklin Shriver.

On Sunday morning there will be three services, Holy Communion at 8 a. m., morning prayer and church school at 9:15 a. m., and ante-communion at 11 a. m.

In the afternoon at 4 p. m. there will be a Christmas party in the undercroft for all the children and young people of the church school. Each will receive a gift.

Holy Communion will be administered Christmas day at 10 a. m. This will be followed by a baptismal service at 11:15.

Baskets of food and clothing prepared by the women of the parish are being distributed to the needy of the community today and tomorrow by church men.

White Lake Priest Makes Good on TV

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Many TV personalities trace their start to an off-beat hour not usually considered prime time, and Rev. Raymond R. Schlinkert of St. Patrick's Catholic Church here is no exception. Only he doesn't regard himself as any kind of celebrity.

Yet the degree of his success was indicated recently when Channel 3 decided to air his weekly program "With This Ring" twice each Sunday.

"Father Schlinkert's program on family and marriage has been seen for the past 10 months at an unlikely TV spot—Sunday evenings after the 'late, late movie.'"

Because of the response of viewers the station is redating the earlier series for presentation 7:45 a. m. Sunday. Fr. Schlinkert's new series will be continued at the late Sunday hour.

In writing his own programs, the priest draws on 30 years of experience, dealing with hundreds of couples in group counseling.

Avondale Firemen to Entertain Children

The Avondale Fire Department will host about 125 area children at its annual Goodfellows Christmas dinner at 1 p. m. tomorrow in the Community Building, behind the fire hall at 237 Auburn Road, Avon Township.

Festivities, including clowns, presents for the youngsters and a visit from Santa Claus, will be sponsored by the Avondale Metropolitan Club, Split No. 85, from funds collected in their Dec. 2 and 3 Goodfellows paper sale.

Firemen will distribute some 32 Christmas baskets of food to needy families Sunday as part of the Goodfellows program. Children in the Siles, Elmwood and Stone elementary schools are collecting canned goods for the baskets.

"A Merry Christmas to All!"

SYNOPSIS: Santa and King Ferdinand have solved the mystery of the Ispewitch. It is a giant shoe inhabited by the men who have been summoned to terrorize the Kingdom of Polydora by the King's traitorous minister of science.

CHAP. SEVENTEEN

"What!" cried the King. "My own minister of science caused my downfall!"

"It is true," said the Scaraboo. "The minister wanted to be King. He plans to replace all the other ministers with machines and to do away with farms and houses and such. He says this is the age of science and the Kingdom of Polydora is a thousand years behind the times. Instead of raising food the people will now make food pills in factories. And instead of houses they will live in underground caves. And—"

"Oh, this is dreadful!" moaned the King. "My poor people!"

The Scaraboos were overcome with remorse. "He promised us half the Kingdom," said the leader. "And we did so want to get away from this island! But what fun would it be to haunt a kingdom of machines?"

Santa said, "And Christmas! Will they have Christmas in the new Polydora?"

The Scaraboos looked at him in dismay. "We never thought of that! But it's true—the minister doesn't believe in Santa Claus."

"Ah," said Santa sadly. "Then I too shall vanish for to exist at all I must be believed in. And sooner or later he will get rid of you too, for haunts have no place in a scientific age."

The Scaraboos felt worse and worse. They clustered around Santa sobbing. "What shall we do?" Suddenly the King took a deep breath and threw back his shoulders. "I am still the rightful King of Polydora. I shall return and save my kingdom!"

Then all the Scaraboos and Santa and the King climbed into the big shoe and sailed away from the lonely island.

When they came to shore all the Scaraboos took a big hop. The shoe leaped forward and landed with a thud miles away. Again and again they hopped until they came to Polydora.

The people shook with terror to see the shoe settle down in the public square. The minister of science, wearing Ferdinand's crown, strode furiously from the palace.

He shook his fist at the shoe and cried, "Be off! I don't want you anymore." But the shoe just sat there. The minister got madder and madder. He was about to set fire to the shoe when Santa and the King, still dressed as shoeshine boys, popped out and climbed to the ground.

The astonished minister drew his sword and threw himself at the King but Ferdinand snatched the sword away and turned it on the minister. Then the Scaraboos, working faster than the eye could see, pinned the minister's arms to his sides and moved the crown from the minister's head to that of the King.

"What is this?" cried the people.

Ferdinand stripped off his disguise and stood forth in his rightful royal dress. "All your troubles are at an end," he declared. "I am your King and the Ispewitch is no more."

Then he told the people all that had happened. The people were furious and demanded that the minister be put to death. But the King said, "I have a better idea. I shall exile him to the Island of the Scaraboos where he will be all alone and sleep in a cave and eat food pills and even turn into a machine if he so desires."

"And the Scaraboos?" asked the people.

"They will live in our land forevermore," said the King.

A mighty cheer went up from the people and a teeny, tiny cheer from the teeny, tiny Scaraboos. Then the people said, "Your Majesty, it is Christmas eve. Will we have Christmas this year?"

Santa Claus threw up his hands. "CHRISTMAS EVE! Goodness gracious!" He stripped off his disguise. "Yes, indeed. You will have Christmas this year but I must hurry, hurry!"

And with a wave of his hand to the happy king he rushed away. When he reached the bend in the road he turned and shouted, "A Merry Christmas to All!"

The Lowly Birth of Our Savior

(In keeping with our policy of running guest editorials from time to time, our Christmas message has been written by Captain J. William Heaver of the Salvation Army.)

JOSEPH, with MARY riding the donkey, arrived at last in Bethlehem. What a journey! MARY, in her condition, should never have tried it. And yet, what choice had they?

The emperor had decreed a Civil tax. This meant an unprecedented census and each was compelled to register in the village of his fathers. Here were kept the lineage CAPT. HEAVER and vital records. Yes, it was a compulsory trip and an anxious one but here they were and MARY, though tired and wan, was still holding up bravely.

Joseph's satisfaction suddenly plummeted into despair. There was no room in the Inn, nor anywhere else. Bethlehem was filled to overflowing with earlier travelers. They prayed together, desperately!

Someone called! It was the innkeeper. Much concerned at having to turn away this troubled pair, he had an idea. There was a stable not worthy but all there was. Clean, warm, shelter with hay to make a bed. Would they accept? Indeed they would, with deep gratitude.

And so Jesus the Son of God, Prince of Peace, King of Righteousness, Savior of the World was born in this most humble place.

He was born, lived and died in the most humble circumstances. He needed nothing, wanted nothing, but the bare necessities. His Kingdom was not of this world. He came to draw all men unto Himself. The events pertaining to His birth are re-enacted today in each human heart. He came to Bethlehem (Hebrew Beth-le-chem) meaning "house of flesh."

He comes today to each human house of flesh, to seek admittance "Behold I stand at the door and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door I will come in"

Most Traffic Fatalities Occur in This Period

Be careful. This means YOU. We're referring especially to the next ten days. Traffic officials assert that the current period is the scene of the most fatalities of any like period in the year. This isn't opinion. It's a cold fact.

Unhappily, this time of general merriment and good will is haunted by the largest number of automobile accidents in the entire 365 days. To quote two well-worn but very illuminating mottoes from the past: "Remember, the life you save may be your own." And equally: "Don't be a statistic."

Perhaps the first advent of snow finds us a little too bold in our driving. Perhaps we don't give the roads quite the same undivided attention. Perhaps an occasional brother has wandered slightly from the straight and narrow path.

Whatever the reason may be, the grim, uncompromising figures bear out the original assertion and we repeat it again, right on the heels of a joyous Christmas season: Be careful. This means YOU.

to him, and sup with him, and he with me." Rev. 3:20.

Far too many hearts' doors are closed against Him, filled with unimaginable things of life, but into the humblest heart opened in sincere humility, He enters and a new life is born. The Prince of Peace brings joy and gladness and Heaven's Peace. Here is the beauty of Christmas.

O come let us adore Him. Christ the Lord.

A Popular Time

For Being Married—and Likewise for Being Born

Merry Christmas: This column's wish for its readers—and everybody else—if there is anybody else.

The Christmas time was a popular time for marriages in the days of 50 years ago or more—in the Pontiac area. And even earlier it was a popular time to be born if you wished to live to 80 years or more.

This finds conclusive evidence in the publication of our verbal records today, the longest list in the history of this column. They occupy the entire space that can be allotted to us today.

'How Did We Ever Get on This Side?'

David Lawrence Comments:

LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Amid all the serious words of politics and public affairs, and the recent outcries about "muzzling" the military, it may be a relief to resort to a lighter vein and report what the United States Navy Band did the other day.

The occasion was the ceremonial bidding farewell to John B. Connolly, who had just resigned as secretary of the Navy to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of Texas. Now, an integral part of the United States Navy is its band, whose members are enlisted just as are other members of the armed services.

Presumably, the band is subject to the same rules and regulations as to what it may say in public through its trumpet as are the colonels and generals in what they may say through the microphones to an audience.

So, when the U. S. Navy Band played "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You" and everybody smiled at this musical tribute last week to Connolly's candidacy, the question arises, more or less seriously, whether the Navy band violated regulations. Freedom of music, presumably, is analogous to freedom of speech.

Certainly Gen. Edwin A. Walker, who found himself, in effect, compelled to resign from the Army because they wouldn't let him make speeches warning about the Communist menace—and thereby inspire his soldiers to stand up to the enemy if ever captured in war—can smile a bit now. For maybe things aren't as dark as they may have seemed to him.

Possibly the Navy band has, by its little touch of politics, proved how ridiculous the whole business of "muzzling" the military can be at times. For when there is a big election back home, how can a sergeant be compelled to remain silent if a buddy asks him how he is going to vote?

Gen. Walker has been accused of trying to exert a political influence on his troops just because he told them where in the library they could enlighten themselves on the voting records of their congressmen and senators.

A MISTAKE? Being a man of conservative tendencies himself, he's referred them to the "Americans for Constitutional Action," and probably his only mistake was in not referring them also to the "Americans for Democratic Action," who take the opposite viewpoint.

But being honest with himself, Gen. Walker probably thought that he should tell his men at least how he himself felt. Being intelligent persons, his listeners presumably knew they didn't have to agree with him and that no disciplinary measures were contemplated if they disregarded his advice.

'It's pretty hard to spend your time digging up dirt about others without getting a little dirty yourself.'

For voting, fortunately, is a secret operation, and many a voter disregards what his boss or his labor union leader tells him to do. The whole fuss about Gen. Walker seems to be that he expressed himself forthrightly, even though informally, to soldiers.

It's strange how the rights of the individual are differently interpreted, depending upon what particular cause is being espoused.

Thus, a Communist is supposed to be immune from prosecution if he makes a speech explaining his belief in the party doctrine and tries to persuade others to accept his views.

OVERTHROW BY FORCE.

He gets in trouble with the law—as the Supreme Court of the United States interprets his rights—only if he says he wants to overthrow the government of the United States by force or incite other people to use force.

If he wants to overthrow the government by peaceful means—that is, through political actions—the court says he doesn't lose his right to free speech or free advocacy of such ideas.

Dr. Harold Hyman Says:

Public Is Badly Cheated by Worthless Machines

Our vigilant Food and Drug Administration is performing another of its valuable public services by shining the spotlight on "worthless medical devices for the diagnosis and treatment of disease."

Warning the public that "there are no cure-all machines that are capable of diagnosing or treating different kinds of disease simply by turning dials and applying electrical contacts to the body," the department lists the following "fakes" against which it has taken appropriate court action:

A spectrochrome or colored light projector, which gives treatment during certain phases of the moon when the subject's body is pointed north.

A plastic dumbbell device containing a glass tube containing "vibrant" water, which was claimed to produce the X-ray, a force unknown to science.

Uranium treatments for which sufferers from arthritis and rheumatism were permitted to sit in abandoned mines for $2 an hour while they "absorbed radiation" from the surrounding earth.

"Vibrator" devices in the form of mattresses, pillows, rollers, cushions and pads of various sizes and shapes, each having an electric motor with an off-center drive shaft. Presumably devised to shake away your ills.

EXPENSIVE FAKES Electronic diagnostic and treatment machines costing from several hundred to a thousand dollars apiece and more.

Diagnoses were received by federal inspectors who submitted for diagnosis samples of animal blood and "blood" made with colored water.

The diagnostic reports proved that these machines "could not distinguish the blood of the living from that of the dead, that of animals from that of humans, or real blood from coal tar dye."

Then, too, there are orthotracers, to treat more than 22 conditions, including tuberculosis, heart conditions and asthma; a radioactive device that irradiated blood for re-injection into the blood donor and claimed to be effective in leukemia, anemia, etc.; an ozone generator making similar claims; an orgone energy accumulator but the size of a telephone booth that was alleged to collect energy from the atmosphere and accumulate it for later dispersal or transfer to the occupant of the booth, etc., etc.

And we laugh at those whom we call "vibrating peoples" for the charms, fetiches, incantations and dances they use to ward off and spirit away diseases.

Voice of the People:
Tells Drivers How to Avoid That Fatal Traffic Accident

Traffic fatalities to date are below those of 1960, but the holiday season, one of the most deadly and dangerous periods on the nation's highways, is here.

The hopeful prospect that this year can be among the safest on record hinges on one of the most potent two letter words in the English language—IF.

If drivers can be persuaded to take it easy and not speed. (This factor still ranks as the number one highway killer.)

If they will heed the warning not to drink when they drive. (About 30 per cent of all fatal accidents involve drinking drivers, and this percentage nearly doubles during the winter holidays.)

If they must avoid driving during inclement weather, or if they must, use extreme caution. (Heavy traffic, coupled with dangerous road conditions makes driving extra hazardous.)

If they will be extra careful when driving after dark. (Night traffic accidents are double those of daytime.)

If they will have their cars in top mechanical condition. (It is estimated that two out of five cars on the road have some mechanical defect.)

If motorists between now and the new year will observe these precautions, chances are that the safety record established to date will stand, with everyone the happier and healthier for having done so.

'Be More Thoughtful to Your Animals'

You can judge a man's character by the way he cares for his dog.

I see dogs chained to houses so small I wondered how they managed to squeeze inside.—Of the dozens I observed, only one had a good master. There was straw spilling from the doorway, which had a burly bag over it. Most of the houses had no straw, and faced the wind.

It's too bad such masters couldn't be forced to endure the misery to which they subject these poor dumb animals. Make Christmas happier and warmer by buying a bale of straw for your dogs. Animal Lover

'We Should Refuse to Accept Junk Mail'

The post office recently permitted congressmen to send out mail to their constituents, addressed to "occupant." This adds to the other junk mail now being handled by the post office. I suggest that anybody receiving mail so addressed mark it "refused" and return it to the congressman. If they cannot address their mail properly it should not be read.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Can't Reform Mate After Marriage

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE CASE K583: Vera G., aged 27, has been a bride for six months.

"Dr. Crane, my husband is an intelligent man and ambitious and from a refined family," she began.

"But he has been married before. He apparently was infatuated with a woman who had had a dozen affairs with other men."

"He knew it," she continued, but against the advice of his parents and friends, he married her anyway. For he planned to reform her.

"She continued her immoral life, however, although he was the last one in the world to realize that. Finally, she deserted him. Despite his expensive gifts and pleading, she refused to give up her immorality for marriage."

"So he reluctantly got a divorce. Later, I met him and we were married. I haven't the cute mannerisms of his former wife, nor her baby vamp charms. But I am considered attractive."

"Besides, his parents love me and he says I am just the wife he needs and can respect."

"He seems very proud of my education, my popularity, with both sexes and my morality. Incidentally, his former wife is now a waitress in a beer joint."

"But he often thinks of the other girl. He has forgotten her last points and idealizes her memory. Sometimes he'll cry because he feels she is probably being mistreated."

"Dr. Crane, I need help. If he thinks it hurts me, he'll quit talking about her. But I know that bottled up thoughts are dangerous. So what can I do to win his thoughts away from her?"

Before I answer Vera's query, let me point out the fallacy in marrying people to reform them.

Kiwanians Thankful for News Coverage

Many times have we been so ready to ask, but so few times do we say "thank you."

In behalf of the West Pontiac Kiwanis Club, I wish to say "thank you" for the news coverage this past year.

Our activities to raise funds were aided by the coverage we received in The Press. The money helps us support our projects with underprivileged children.

'Bible Doesn't Say Observe Christmas'

I don't see where we are inviting God's wrath as Mrs. L. F. Poutar states. I cannot find in the Bible where it tells us to observe Christmas. Actually, this holiday stemmed from the heathen celebration of Sol, the sun god.

According to several books, Christmas was not observed among the earliest festivals of the church.

Nowhere in the Bible does it tell us to observe Christmas.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Can't Reform Mate After Marriage

For men and women are usually at their best during courtship.

That is the time when they put their best foot forward, so to speak. If they irritate you during courtship, and you feel you cannot endure their bad points as a permanent diet, then try to change them before marriage.

If you can't do it at that most favorable time, you might as well resign yourself to the inevitable. Or else look for new sweetheart. I generally recommend the latter course.

Moreover, don't think you can take shoddy merchandise to the marriage market and make it quality stuff. You are an intense egoist if you suffer from such exaggerated confidence in your own ability.

That ecstatic thrill of young romance wears off somewhat after six months of matrimony.

If husband and wife don't have good habits, high moral attitudes, unselfishness, a sense of fair play and the habit of complimenting each other regularly, they will then be heading for a marital wreck.

So face facts in this life! If you are marrying an immoral neophyte, that's the kind of wife you'll probably have, too.

Or, if your boy friend is a grandstand "mamma's boy," don't kid yourself into thinking he'll suddenly become an unselfish, sportsmanlike mate.

Our behavior, after marriage is a result of 30 or 25 years of our previous habits so that when we marry, we are usually quite set in our ways.

Of course we can put up a front for a few months for the sake of sales effect, and thus act gallant, but we generally slide back into our habitual behavior after the honeymoon.

HOW TO STAY MARRIED Never let the intoxication of young love anesthetize your brain. Use your head and pick a mate with at least the same degree of shrewdness that you would employ in picking an investment, or an insurance company.

For love is simply a cluster of emotional habits. It can be built up and also torn down, since our behavior is not fixed and unchanging.

Moreover, you can experience love more than once, just as you can undergo grief or rage, so if your first sweetheart is a disolute or unstable type, resulting slip in love is not in bad and look for a better mate.

If Vera wants to win her husband entirely, she must infuse his ego more than his previous wife did, especially in the erotic realm.

So, send for my booklet, "How to Prevent Impotence in Men," enclosing a stamped, return envelope plus 20 cents. Vera used this so successfully that in six weeks she heard no more comments from her husband about his ex-wife.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long a cent stamp, self-addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing cost when you send for my psychological charts and pamphlets. (Copyright, 1961)

Alert Phone Employee Saves Onsted Man

JACKSON 48—"Can't breathe," a man gasped over the long distance line from the village of Onsted, 20 miles south of here.

The Jackson operator couldn't trace the call. So she called Max Roberts, a maintenance man in Onsted, on another line.

Roberts raced to the dial exchange building. He found one line open from Onsted to Jackson. It belonged to Howard Richardson, 48.

Roberts, a volunteer fireman, summoned other volunteers.

They sped to the Richardson home. They found him unconscious and gave him oxygen.

Richardson, who was suffering from a respiratory ailment, was taken to a hospital in Tecumseh. His condition was listed as good Thursday.

Ike Settles Down for Vacation in S. California

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower settled down today to a winter desert vacation expected to include golf, relaxation and a couple of speeches.

Eisenhower looked with pleasure through his rented home here, chatted briefly with newsmen, then adjourned to the adjoining Eldorado Country Club after he arrived Thursday.

He said he would not campaign for Richard M. Nixon in the California Republican gubernatorial primary next June. But he indicated he would be available after the primary if Nixon is nominated and asks for aid.

Eisenhower said he expects to speak at least twice in Los Angeles, but did not say when.

Doctors Ask More Pay

SAN MARINO 48—All of San Marino's 17 doctors staged a 24-hour strike Thursday for higher wages. It was the first doctors' strike in the history of San Marino, a republic of 17,000 inhabitants that claims to be the world's oldest and tiniest.

DEDE'S DEBUT—Dede Buchanan poses with her mother, Mrs. Wiley Buchanan, at her debutante party in the staid Pan American Union building. Some Latin American diplomats privately expressed criticism over the night-club-like decorations for the party for the debut of Dede, daughter of the former U.S. chief of protocol of the State Department. The Pan American Union building is where diplomats meet to discuss serious problems of the Western Hemisphere.

Pan American Union Scene for the 'Twist'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pan American Union, usually a regal place of gold and white, had a different twist for Diane Dow Buchanan's coming-out party.

Thursday night it became a pink palace with pink plumes and giant peppermint sticks and a sign that read "Dede's Peppermint Lounge."

Not everyone was pleased with the transformation. Some Latin American diplomats whispered disapproval.

But Diane, better known as Dede, was pleased. She is fond of dancing the twist—a dance that has gone high hat after being "discovered" among the rock 'n' roll set at a New York cafe called the Peppermint Lounge.

Macmillan, JFK Study Nuclear Atmosphere Testing

An AP News Analysis

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan

Idaho Children to Receive Gifts Slated for Soviet

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP)—Candy-maker Robert I. Horne of Jacksonville, Fla., decided this year it would be a good idea to send 400 pounds of specially boxed candy with greetings in Russian to youngsters in Moscow, U.S.S.R. The State Department approved but the Soviet Embassy in Washington said "No."

Someone suggested sending the 400 boxes to children in Moscow, Idaho, U.S.A. Horne sent the candy to Mayor Fred W. Handel, paying the $24 in air express charges himself. Today the 2,000 boys and girls in Moscow's public and parochial elementary schools will get gifts of candy.

Goldwater Praises Kennedy's Courage

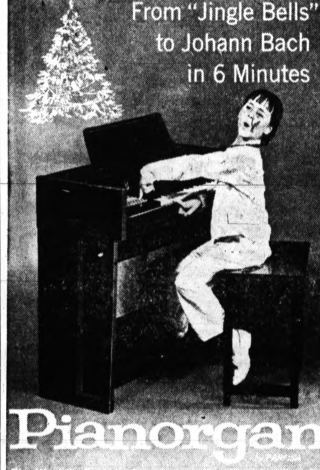

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater R-Ariz., a frequent critic of the Kennedy administration, has praised the President's South American program.

"I'll have to take my hat off to him," Goldwater told a civic club Thursday night. "What he said on his recent South American trip took courage."

"Before much progress can be made, the land owned by a few in Latin-American countries must be divided. The big question is how."

Clerk and Customer Milk and Miles Apart

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—The department store clerk was filling out a sales slip during the Christmas shopping rush. As the woman customer gave her address, the harassed clerk remarked: "A madhouse, isn't it?" "No," replied the customer, somewhat testily, "it's a private residence."

their first five-hour talk here may have reluctantly come to the conclusion that the United States must soon resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere. Macmillan's spokesman told newsmen that "the President and the prime minister heard a presentation by their experts on the subject of the recent Soviet tests."

Christmas Card Makes 30th Trip Between Friends

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Remember the fad back in the depression day of the early 1930s of using the same Christmas card year after year? It's still going on here. One of these cards has just made its 30th trip between two friends, Mary Louise Jordan of Columbus, and Mrs. William Bond of Bloomsbury, Pa.

They started the exchange when they both lived in Johnstown, Pa. Mrs. Jordan received the card this year. Next year it will go back to Mrs. Bond. Beside the usual Christmas greeting, it bears a picture of a Scotchman who says "Noo dinna get careless and lose this card... You can send it next year if times get hard."

REVIEW POLICIES

The nine-member committee of broker members was appointed Oct. 12 to review the exchange's rules, policies and procedures. This came after the Securities and Exchange Commission had launched its own investigation following a price manipulating scandal involving two specialists, the father and son team of Jerry and Gerard Re.

The Res were suspended by the SEC and later arrested. The exchange committee's interim report came only 10 days after the resignation of Edward T. McCormick from the $75,000-a-year exchange presidency.

COMPLAINTS OF LAXITY

McCormick, 50, and general counsel Michael E. Mooney, who quit with him, said they felt they should sever connections because of "recent publicity." There had been complaints of laxity in enforcing exchange rules and policies, and McCormick's administration had been under pressure from elements of the financial community.

The committee said the most immediate problem confronting the exchange is the selection of a new president. It conceded that it may be difficult to fill the office until details of any reorganization are known.

Romney Backing Grows in GOP

6 Wayne County Chiefs Indicate '62 Support at Luncheon Meeting

DETROIT (AP) — Republican chairmen of six Wayne County congressional districts have indicated general support for George Romney if he decides to run for the GOP nomination as governor in 1962.

At a luncheon meeting Thursday, the GOP leaders also talked about the possible candidacy of former Rep. Alvin Bentley of Owosso for congressman-at-large. But they were noncommittal on Bentley.

The district chairmen conferred with Wayne County GOP Chairman Norman O. Stockmeyer and William Reed of Adrian, a member of the Republican State Central Committee.

Reed, who has been touring the state on behalf of Bentley, reported that Romney has greater support among conservative Republicans than any candidate for governor in recent years.

Romney has announced he is considering making the race for governor and will make a decision by Feb. 10.

Bentley, who served three terms in Congress, gave up his congressional seat in an unsuccessful bid for a U. S. Senate seat last year.

Ex-Combat Veterans Know This Well

Peace, Family Unity Are Greatest Gifts at Christmas

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—The greatest gift at Christmas time isn't prosperity.

It is peace—and family unity.

No group of our people realizes more the blessing of Christmas at home than the millions of ex-servicemen who spent past Christmases far from home in wartime. Their minds this time of year turn back to those past times, their half-forgotten ordeals abroad, and their hearts surge with gratitude that they made it home at last.

And they remember, with a pang, the fate of those who didn't. BECOMES UNREAL.

Men are never more desperately lonely than at Christmas time on a battlefield. No matter how strong their faith in their cause, on this day that cause has an air of unreality and illusion. "Why am I here?" each man asks himself. "Why am I not home? War doesn't make sense."

Only peace makes sense at such a time, and peace seems far away and never to be achieved.

The airman climbs into his plane to take off on a bombing mission, and inside himself asks "Why?"

THE INFANTRY SCOUT, moving forlornly across a forlorn field where death is possible at every step, silently asks himself the same unanswerable question. "Why?"

The headquarters clerk, safe at a command post miles behind the front, is equally lonely. "Why?" he asks.

That timeless query rises in the breasts of thousands of men on both sides of a battlefield: "Why? What am I doing here? What are any of us doing here?"

THE ONLY REPLY

And their only reply is the growing of distant guns some where over the horizon, or the throb of hostile engines in an unfriendly sky.

Life is bittersweet as well as lonely to troops at war on Christmas day. No one wants to have to pull a trigger or launch a bomb.

The men at the actual front drop back in clusters for a hot meal, and maybe a religious service. They feel closer to each other than ever—because there is no one else near in that strange land to feel close to.

ALL ARE BROTHERS

Unit loyalty has to take the place of family loyalty. The members of a platoon are all brothers—blood brothers. A man's platoon is his whole family.

But as he gulps his scalding coffee, he looks around and wonders: "Will he be here tomorrow? Will I be here?"

Sometimes presents from home arrive on Christmas day. They are opened in reverence. A man peers into a battered package, then lifts out broken chunks of dried and crumbling fruit cake and passes them around to his buddies. Everybody shares what he has.

The men who get mail take their letters and walk a little way apart. They want to read them alone. They don't want to show the sudden tears in their eyes.

UNANSWERED CALL

Sometimes the soldier holding the mail calls out a name twice.

"Well, do you want it or don't you?" he demands.

No one answers. No one wants to. Suddenly the soldier understands. He calls out another name as he puts at the bottom of the pile the letter that came for a man who could have read it yesterday, but today is dead to news from home—and will be forever.

On Christmas night, back in the line, the troops lie in their foxholes and stare up at the stars, and that yearning query again affirmation.

War is the great rebuke to the gift of life. Peace is the grand almost chokes them:

"Why?" Helping their loved ones garland a Christmas tree now, many a man looks back and remembers a Christmas spent in snowy Belgium, or on some stinking Pacific island, or on a frozen ridge in Korea—and thinks a grateful prayer.

Asking Review of Assessments

State Highway Dept. Claims Excessive Costs Tagged on Drain

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP)—The State Highway Department filed four suits in Macomb County Circuit Court Thursday asking for a review of the County Drainage Board's assessments of costs for a multimillion dollar drainage system.

The department asserted its share of the cost—approximately $4.5 million—is too much.

The suits contend the drainage board "exceeded its jurisdiction, exceeded its statutory powers, acted contrary to law and acted in violation of the state and federal constitutions."

The charges against the department, they continued, "are so grossly excessive as to constitute a fraud upon the state."

"The record fails to show the method or manner by which the charges against the state were made or that they are based solely upon drainage of state highways," they said.

The proposed drainage system includes relief drains for 8½- and 11½-mile roads, Stephens Road and Lake Boulevard relief drains in Macomb County.

Name 8 Winners

The Wednesday Duplicate Club played its weekly bridge tournament at the Hotel Waldron this week.

Winning first were Dr. Lorraine Willets and Mrs. Gordon Longstrech. Second place honors went to Mrs. Ernest L. Guy and Mrs. Charles Davis. Other winners were Mrs. Robert Dawson and Melvin Small; Mrs. Sidney Ayles and Robert Keathley.

Zeta Eta Chapter Puts on Party

Mrs. Byron Barnes of Motorway Drive was hostess for Zeta Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority's annual Christmas party. Members played court whist, received gifts from secret pals and drew names for the coming year. Guests at the Tuesday gathering were Mrs. Robert Goff, Mrs. Dennis Lowes and Mrs. Eugene Bulgazy.

Hosts 12 Patrolers

Sharon Hills Married in Drayton

Sharon Hills exchanged vows with Robert Dombrowski in a double-ring ceremony performed by Rev. Walter J. Teeuwissen Jr. in the Community United Presbyterian Church, Drayton Plains.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack M. Hills of Drayton Plains.

A semi-cascade of white carnations and yellow roses complemented her street-length dress of white satin brocade. A bouffant shoulder-length veil fell from a crown of seed pearls.

Nihla Smith of Drayton Plains, who served as bridesmaid, wore brown silk brocade and carried yellow roses.

Donald Dombrowski of Vallejo, Calif., stood as best man for his brother. They are the sons of the Raymond Dombrowskis of Sylvan Lake who were hosts at a home reception following the Dec. 15 ceremony.

Cousages of white roses accented a green brocade sheath dress for Mrs. Hills and turquoise wool for the mother of the bridegroom.

Women's Section

Special Guest at Bible Class

Christmas devotions from St. Luke's Gospel were offered by Mrs. David Gee when 73 members and guests of First Baptist Church's Fellowship Bible Class met recently in Greenfield's Restaurant, Birmingham. Mrs. Gee spoke on "The True Meaning of Christmas."

Mr. and Mrs. John Cove and Mr. and Mrs. Ira Davis were in charge of the program. Special guest Cyle R. Haskell, local photographer, showed films of the missionary plane Spirit of Pontiac, a gift of the people of Pontiac to the Philippines which is used to move sick and injured persons from remote villages to hospitals. The Spirit of Pontiac fund was established by Dr. H. H. Savage, recently retired pastor of First Baptist Church. Mr. Haskell was fund-raising Committee Chairman.

Churchwomen Combine Party and Installation

Officers and committee chairmen were installed at Women's Association members of Joslyn Avenue United Presbyterian Church held a Christmas party Tuesday in the church's fellowship hall.

Following prayer by Mrs. Edmond Watkins and dinner, the installation was conducted by Mrs. William Hoisington. Assuming office were Mrs. Fred Bohman, president; Mrs. Robert Dunham, vice president; Mrs. Warren Stewart, second vice president; Mrs. Francis Oak, recording secretary; and Mrs. James Newbigging, corresponding secretary.

Others installed were Mrs. Loren Kelly, treasurer; Mrs. Hugh Simson, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Floyd Miller, world service chairman; Mrs. Frank DeHousse, sewing secretary; Mrs. Charles Eerallan, fellowship chairman; Mrs. Bertha Hoffman, assistant fellowship chairman; Mrs. Marion Farnsworth, church service; and Mrs. Leonard Slade, literature secretary.

Guest speakers were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Biddering, missionaries to Merida, Mexico. The couple discussed "Christmas in Mexico" and Christian education. A film concerning grade school progress in that area was shown.

Arrangements committee members were Mrs. Laurence Hettinger, Mrs. Loren Kelly, Mrs. Robert Nelson and Mrs. Elton Thorpe.

The nominating committee was comprised of Mrs. Lavern Saltee, Mrs. Eugene Hoisington and Mrs. Ford Newcomb. Mrs. Warren Stewart was program chairman.

Club Gives Gifts, Presents a Skit

Several members of Sylvan Shores Women's Club presented the skit, "A Sensible Christmas," for a party and gift exchange Monday in the Woodbine Drive home of Mrs. E. C. Conwell.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated with pink cloth, a white net angel and pink tapers.

Hostesses were Mrs. Larry Sherwood, Mrs. Merle Moll, Mrs. David Wagner and Mrs. Roy Lima.

Circle Holds Yule Meeting

Mrs. Floyd Parks of Clarkston was hostess for the Christmas meeting of Rebecca Circle of Oakland Park Methodist Church Wednesday evening. Mrs. Paul Allen assisted.

Participating in devotions centered around the Nativity theme.

A school of missions will begin Jan. 7 at the church and Mrs. Lee Murphy of Perry Street will be hostess for the January circle meeting.

String Up Spoons

Stringing measuring spoons on a key chain saves time and temper, because they are easier to manipulate than while spliced together.

Church Group Has Luncheon

First Presbyterian Church's January-March Group met Wednesday in the Bloomfield Hills home of Mrs. Smith Falconer.

Mrs. John Peck and Mrs. Chris Wright assisted the hostess in serving a holiday luncheon to 20 members and guests.

After devotions by Mrs. Lawrence McCann, officers were elected and installed in a ceremony conducted by Mrs. E. G. Clark. Mrs. Philip Meacham, president, will serve with Mrs. Carl H. Behn, vice president; Mrs. Glen J. Dolan, secretary; and Mrs. T. C. McFetridge, treasurer.

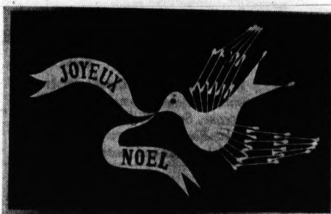

A gift exchange and carol singing closed the meeting.

Church Units Hold Combined Holiday Party

Miriam, Esther, Ruth and Naomi units of the Augustana Lutheran Church Women met for a combined Christmas party Tuesday evening in St. John Lutheran Church.

Rev. Charles Colberg read the Nativity story and the group sang carols.

A program entitled "Gifts of Christmas" was presented by Mrs. Adolph Hornblad, representing the voice of Denmark; Mrs. Samuel McMurtry, Finland; Mrs. John K. Frost, Norway; Mrs. John Englund, Sweden; Mrs. Clarence Nidlund, Germany; Mrs. Dallas

Need Time to Ponder Wounded Friendship

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

We are close to a couple whose daughter is also a friend of our 12-year-old Janet. I'm troubled because Janet has not spoken to Marge for two weeks. Apparently Marge pushed her off a chair in the school cafeteria so that another girl could sit beside her.

This kind of thing has happened before when Marge has made a new friend, but it's always blown over and the girls have made up. The coolness between them makes it awkward for the group.

Do you advise my straightening it out by speaking to Marge's mother?

Answer: No, I can't advise you to "straighten out" this friendship for your daughter unless she gives you permission to do so.

It is quite possible, you see, that she herself isn't certain she wants it "straightened out" — or she would have done something about it herself.

Instead of undertaking to restore her this friendship, what about supporting her right to uncertainty about continuing it?

What about saying, "Take all the time you need to think this thing out. Daddy and I can manage our friendship with Marge's parents no matter what happens between you two."

This freed from worry about your feelings, Janet may be better able to feel her own—and decide if and how she wants to restore her relationship with your friend's daughter.

When a friend who has repeatedly hurt us hurts us again, what we need is time. Like Janet, we remove ourselves from him to get time. What is going on in us is a process of balancing the advantages of his friendship against its disadvantages.

Though we are not always conscious of it, we are trying to square what the friend can give us and what we hoped he could give us.

Sometimes we emerge from this time-needing struggle to put an end to the friendship. Sometimes we decide to resume it on a different, more guarded basis, our expectations of the friend reduced. But if this painful process of new appraisal is interrupted by people who are overanxious to have us "make up" before we are ready to, they do us a disservice.

Though we resume the relationship, we resume it in self-doubt and resentment that merely involves us in another cycle of hurt, resentment and false forgiveness. This may be the process through which Janet is struggling. Let's support her uncertainty instead of confusing her with offers to restore her a friend that may not in fact exist.

Thoe, chairman, of Dorchester Avenue, while Gretchen Gaensbauer of Illinois Avenue, Susan Pill of East Hammond Lake Road and Carolyn Gaensbauer dip into paints and paste.

People Get Ideas, Abby Says

Don't Dine With Boss

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a secretary and I resent the implication that just because my boss takes me to lunch three or four times a week there must be some funny business going on between us.

He takes me to lunch because it is his way of showing me that he appreciates a good secretary. We might even have a cocktail or two before we eat and I see nothing wrong with it.

It has come back to me that there is talk in this office, and his wife has even asked the other girls questions about me. I wish you'd tell me just what two people could do between 12 and 1 in a crowded restaurant. LUCKY MISS BROWN. They could make plans to meet after 5 where it isn't so crowded.

DEAR ABBY: I can't stand my husband when he is drunk and he can't stand me when he is sober. What should we do?

I am a nervous wreck. After being married for 14 years we have nothing in common. We do have five children, but you would think I found them in a cabbage patch for all the help he gives me with them. The only affection I ever get from him is when he has liquor on his breath, and that is when I would like to run a mile. What is a woman supposed to do in a situation of this kind? HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: It is difficult to tell whether your husband is miserable because he's drinking or drinking because he's miserable. Catch him when he's sober and ask him to lay his cards on the table. Ignoring a poor relationship only makes it worse. It's time for some plain sober conversation. Start it!

Everybody's got a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, The Pontiac Press.

Have You Tried This?

Layered Holiday Salad Is Red, White and Green

Pontiac Press Home Editor

This recipe for a Christmas salad has appeared in the past, but it is so good that we think those cooks who missed it might like it now. If you are having a large crowd for the holidays, here's your recipe: it makes 24 servings.

Mrs. Louis Toler is our cook today. She has a full time job outside her home. Her 3 daughters are married and she has one grandchild.

CHRISTMAS SALAD

By Mrs. Louis Toler
2 packages lime gelatin
2 package lemon gelatin
2 packages cherry gelatin
1 cup miniature marshmallows
1 cup pineapple juice (drain crushed pineapple)
1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese
1 small can crushed pineapple
1 cup heavy cream
1 cup mayonnaise

Dissolve lime gelatin in 2 cups hot water. Add 2 cups cold water. Pour into 12x18x2 pan and let chill until almost set.

Add 1 cup hot water to lemon gelatin and pour into top of double boiler. Add marshmallows and heat until they melt. Remove from heat, add pineapple juice and cream cheese. Beat well to blend. Stir in crushed pineapple.

Whip cream and fold it into gelatin mixture along with mayonnaise. Chill to partially thickened stage and pour carefully over lime layer.

Dissolve cherry gelatin in 2 cups hot water. Add 2 cups cold water. Chill until syrupy and pour carefully over lemon layer. Let salad chill until serving time. Cut in squares to serve.

Don't let either of the first two layers get completely hard before adding the next layer or the second one may slide right off!

Keloa Klub Schedules Merry Mistletoe Dance

Keloa Klub members are preparing for their annual holiday dance, "Merry Mistletoe" Wednesday in Roosevelt Temple. An area orchestra will play for dancing from 9 p.m. to midnight.

Janet Thoe, general chairman, is being assisted by Barbara Gaylord and Sue Dawe, who are in charge of the alumni. Helen Ramsdell's committee will design and install the decorations. Ruth Hoffman and her post-dance committee will remove them.

Nancy Bain has charge of tickets and programs and Sue Pitt is handling publicity. Karen Bronel is chairman of music and patrons. Marilyn Jack and her assistants will serve refreshments.

Proceeds from the dance and the current candy sale, will aid the club's charitable projects. Christmas food baskets are being prepared for needy area families and a donation is slated for the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra. Articles were also contributed to the recent ingathering of the Needlework Guild of America.

Child Club Holds Its Yule Party

Mrs. Charles L. Bowers of Barrington Road was hostess Thursday evening for the annual Christmas party of the Child Culture Club. Mrs. William Forsyth assisted.

Eighteen members answered the roll call question "Is Christmas Fun For You?" Mrs. William A. Thiede narrated a Christmas fantasy entitled "The Candle in the Forest." In the cast were Mrs. William Gardner, Mrs. Andrew Kasorow, Mrs. Murray Osborn, Mrs. Owen Rindtuz, Mrs. Earl M. Steinhart, Mrs. Walter J. Johnson and Mrs. Irvin Harbaugh.

An interlude of organ music by Mrs. Dale Swanson and carol singing preceded the exchange of secret-pull gifts. The Jan. 11 meeting will be in Mrs. Johnson's home on Iroquois Street, Waterford Township.

Or Make-Up Will Do Harm

Keep Your Skin Clean

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. "I have some little pitted marks on my face. It seems to me that I read in one of your articles that too much make-up can cause these."

A. No, not in one of my articles. Perhaps you remember that I have said that leaving make-up on constantly, in other words, not properly and regularly cleansing the skin is bad for it. If the complexion is not cleansed regularly make-up and dirt may combine to cause skin blemishes.

Q. "Since I am 27 years old I feel as though I should use a lot of creams to keep my face from becoming too dry, although it isn't really dry. Please tell me what you think about this."

A. If your skin is not dry, then the best treatment is soap and water cleansing. In cold, windy weather your skin may require some lubrication to prevent chapping.

Unless your complexion is very oily I think that, even at your age, a woman benefits by patting eye cream about her eyes at night. Also watch for the time when your skin does begin to be drier — as it will as you get older — and immediately begin using a lubricating cream from then on.

Q. "I am 32 years old, 5 feet, 5 inches tall and weigh 123 pounds. I have a very small frame. My measurements are: bust, 37 inches; waist, 25 inches; hips, 37 inches. I feel that I should lose 1½ inches from all of my measurements. My husband thinks that I am just right."

A. No wonder your husband thinks you are just right. Stay that way!

Q. "Will you please settle a point in our family? I am a widow and I am past 80 years old. I am active. My height is five feet and two inches and I weigh 95 pounds. I have a medium to small frame. Am I underweight?"

A. You are underweight even with a small frame. One table says you should weigh from 102-110 pounds. Another that you should weigh 113 pounds.

Q. "I have four children, the youngest is 16 months old. I am quite slim, not the least bit overweight. How much will I have to exercise in order to keep my stomach flat?"

A. About 15 minutes a day.

Q. "I am 5 feet, 8 inches tall and weigh 120 pounds. My measurements are: bust, 34; waist, 22; hips 35. Am I too much underweight?"

A. You should weigh about 148 pounds if you have a medium build.

Trouble Is Ingredient in the Happy Home

BY RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"Why in the world are you letting Jim get a dog?" one wife asked another. "They're so much trouble," she added, as though that ought to settle the matter of pet once and for all.

But almost everything that makes a house a real home is extra trouble. Children are trouble. Log-burning fireplaces are trouble. Flower gardens are trouble.

Old-fashioned baking that keeps the kids in the kitchen waiting to "lick the pan" is trouble. Home hobbies are trouble. Do-it-yourself projects are trouble.

TRY HOTEL

But a home where there isn't always something going on isn't much of a home. In fact, if a housewife is going to turn thumbs down on anything that makes a little extra work—a family might as well live in a hotel. It would be just as much of a home.

In all the talk today about labor-saving devices and short cuts and easy housekeeping, housewives sometimes get to thinking that the most important thing in homemaking is to save themselves trouble.

But when you start worrying over how much trouble anything is going to be—you start narrowing your life until you are merely existing—not living.

So it's trouble—so what? If it is also fun or stimulating or inspiring or cozy, that is what is important.

Any housewife who is always

St. Dunstaners Celebrate Yule

St. Dunstaners celebrated their annual Christmas party, given by the board of directors, Tuesday at Cranbrook.

Members met in the choir loft of Christ Church for carols and a reading of the Nativity by Harry Booth.

Returning to the pavilion, the group enjoyed more caroling around a huge Christmas tree and the traditional punch prepared by Otis Thompson and Winston Kelling, who came from Westport, Conn., for the party with his half of the famous recipe.

Looks Like Yule in Northern Igloo

Band Strikes Concert, Seniors Help Student, Clubs Give to Needy

By PAM MORRIS
It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas around Pontiac North-ern's vast glass igloo.

Kicking off the Christmas season, the PN band gave a North Area Concert for junior high and high school handbells.

Peter Gareis Day came next. To prove that giving is better than receiving, the senior class presented Peter with enough money to call his parents in Germany.

Other presentations were made by the cheerleaders, the Student Council and Mrs. Ann Morrow's senior General English Class. Peter in turn gave his "heart" to Northern students.

Future Teachers and Future Nurses alike made gifts for needy children, fixing up old toys and making colorful felt stockings.

To bring a rewarding Christmas experience to many, the vocal music department magnificently presented "Amahl and the Night Visitors."

The All-City Christmas concert came next. Combined girls and boys glee clubs, the PN Choir, Scribblers and the All-City Advanced Youth Orchestra participated.

Spirit 'Swings' at PCH

By WADE WILKINSON
A real swingin' group, "real style," and "completely new and different" are just a few of the favorable comments heard about Pontiac Central High School's newest singing group, "The Caribbeans."

When they set their minds to it, they really sound off, with authentic Caribbean costumes, bongos, conga drums, a vibration, and other assorted musical instruments, backed up by almost sixty male voices.

Consisting of young men from the glee clubs and the a capella choir, all under the direction of vocal music instructor Jerry Libby, the Caribbeans were audacious with their renditions of the modern calypso songs.

ADD SEMI-CLASSIC
They have also added a semi-classical portion to their programs, singing such songs as "The Creation," "Climb Every Mountain," and are planning to add new songs like "Tea for Two."

Caribbeans have as their regular songs stylish numbers like "O Bahia," and "Come Back Liza." They've added Christmas songs from the Caribbean Seas for the season, among them an oriental flavored "We Three Kings" and "African Noel" arranged by Mr. Libby.

Having entered into the record making business too, soon to be released is the Caribbeans' E rpm recording of "Coral Reef," written and directed by Mr. Libby.

"Coral Reef" consists of the Caribbeans of the 1960-61 season, and features a bongo solo by Indonesian Rusli Maisa. When performed by the Caribbeans there are two silhouetted dancers in the background.

As with the other singing groups at Pontiac Central, the Caribbeans are busy during the Christmas season.

Having already sung at the annual fall vocal clinic, for the PTA,

Christmas Cheer Decks Waterford Kettering Halls

By SHERYL LEHIGH
Christmas spirit has "decked the halls" of Waterford-Kettering High School in many ways this week!

Thursday the homemaking department, instructed by Nancy Raker and Delores Larson, had an open house for students and faculty members in the homemaking room.

Visitors were invited to view the many unique gifts and ornaments made by the girls, and samples of their Christmas cookies and candy were offered.

Among the display of items were stuffed animals, pillows, caps, and headbands, which Miss Larson's homemaking students made to send to a mission for underprivileged children in Detroit.

Wreaths, artificial Christmas trees, Santa Claus and toys, completed by the girls in Miss Raker's classes, will be given as Christmas gifts to their individual families and friends.

Bringing thoughts and messages of Christmas in music were the Waterford-Kettering choir and orchestra Thursday morning.

During first hour, the student body attended the all school Christmas assembly directed by Donald Pirrin and Mrs. Janice Hendin.

Tuesday morning, five members of H-Y attended a Christmas breakfast with members from Clarkson High School.

Old Anderson, Rick Gaff, Mark Pankner, Roy Parker, and Bruce Robinson represented Kettering during the breakfast at the YMCA in Pontiac.

Y-Teen members prepared food baskets to give to needy people during the holidays, and Dramatics Club and French Club members both participated in Christmas parties.

Hustling for Lane of Candy Canes at St. Frederick

By SUZANNE POLMEAR
In character with the bright hustle and bustle of December, St. Frederick's is bursting with holiday activity.

Main topic of discussion and planning is the Christmas semi-formal dance to be held Friday. "Candy-Cane Lane" is the theme for the Teen Club activity.

Polly Myers and her able decorations committee are transforming the hall with huge candy canes suspended from ceiling, a veritable forest of Christmas trees surrounding the dance floor decorated with candy canes of the edible variety. An old-fashioned Christmas scene will dominate the stage.

Entertainment will be furnished by stereo and an instrumental group.

Other chairmen, working hard to make this affair a success are: Julie Dougherty, posters; Teena Monte, program and tickets; Carol Janczarek, door; John Morrissey, clean-up; Tina Lalonde, entertainment; Peg Polneer and Marilyn Larson, chaperones.

Greetings: Friends, Vacation

Waterford Bells Chime

By MARY KAY STRZELECKI
School Bells rang out for the last time this year yesterday at Waterford Township High School.

Many entertaining and fun-filled activities took place this week: gifts were exchanged among friends, cards were distributed and echoes of "Merry Christmas" and "Happy New Year" were still lingering in the halls when the last bell rang.

Before the students were dismissed, an all school Christmas assembly was presented in the gymnasium during last hour.

DANCERS INTERPRET
The Modern Dance Club, under direction of Mrs. Margerie White, physical education teacher, displayed on stage an interpretation of "The Birth of Christ."

On Tuesday Student Council members decorated Waterford High's annual Christmas tree. Decorating the tree were Jeff Bergemann, Joyce McKenna, Pat Dove, Dave LaBarge, Dick Wagner and Sandy LaBarge.

Due to the Christmas recess in area high schools, there will not be a school page next week, Dec. 29. The Press takes this opportunity to wish all school page correspondents a happy holiday season. One reminder: the next school page will be on Friday, Jan. 5.

Concessions May Bring Cease Fire

De Gaulle Hopes for Algerian Peace by End of Year

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Paris (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle may yet win out in his determination to restore peace to Algeria by the end of the year. It would be an uneasy peace based only on a cease fire and far short of final accord.

It also would be a peace not taking into account the Secret Army Organization (OAS) of disaffected European settlers and disaffected French army officers determined to keep Algeria French.

But it would provide a base from which other orders steps might be taken, with the end result a free Algeria.

The hope of a cease fire comes not from official sources but rather is the result of knowledge that for weeks secret contacts have been maintained between French representatives and the Moslem rebels and the marked absence of violence in the public statements by both sides.

Both have made certain concessions. The rebels have dropped their opposition to a plebiscite giving both the Moslems and the European settlers a chance to vote on their own future.

De Gaulle has conceded that a free Algeria would have an interest in the Sahara and its wealth.

The rebels have indicated they are willing to discuss guarantees for the European population which will be a minority among nine million Moslems and are believed to have gone so far as to agree to French retention of some military bases.

The OAS remains the question mark, and the extent of its influence in the army both in Algeria and metropolitan France.

ARMY LOYAL
Since the "generals' uprising" last spring, De Gaulle has made sweeping changes in command positions, and as of now it is believed the army remains loyal to him.

Even among OAS supporters there have been increasing indications of disgust with its campaign of violence, intimidation and blackmail.

Its more prominent intended victims was film star Brigitte Bardot who not only rejected a demand that she turn over $10,000 to the OAS but also promptly filed a lawsuit against it in Paris, participated in by political elements of both left and right.

For Brigitte the incident undoubtedly contained useful publicity but with her public denouncement of the OAS as "Nazi" she ran the risk of death or disfigurement from a plastic bomb.

Early this fall there still was talk of civil war in France in an OAS attempt to bring about De Gaulle's downfall. That talk now largely has disappeared.

Instead, there are rumors now that even OAS supporters might agree to an Algerian referendum in order later to lead a secessionist state embracing Algeria's most heavily European-populated areas.

But right now, the important thing is that there is a ray of hope for ending the 7-year-old conflict with its heavy drain upon both France and Algeria.

Irish Commander of U.N. Troops to Retain Post

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—Lt. Gen. Sean McKeown, Irish commander of United Nations forces in the Congo, will remain at his post three more months, the government information service announced Thursday night.

Gen. McKeown was due to end his service contract in the Congo Jan. 1. He has said he had no ambition to make a career in the United Nations force and wished to return to the Irish army.

The government announcement said the decision to grant the general further leave of absence for U.N. service was taken after a request was received from U. Thant, acting secretary-general of the United Nations.

The firm is Idemitsu Kosan Co. It is one of five Japanese refineries which have been supplying the U.S. military with about 600,000 barrels of oil annually. The department did not say how much this individual firm has supplied.

Earlier in the week, when asked about reports that Idemitsu was selling Soviet oil to the U.S. military, a department spokesman said the company had certified that none of the jet fuel came from Soviet sources.

The forest industry provides full-time jobs to more than 1 1/2 million employees with an annual payroll of nearly $7 billion.

Link Violence to Brain Waves

Scientist Says Abnormal Pattern Seems to Boost Aggression in Youths

CHICAGO (AP)—An abnormal brain wave pattern has been found in some teen-agers who commit murder and other violent acts.

The findings were reported Thursday by Dr. Sherwyn M. Woods of the psychiatry department of the medical school at the University of Wisconsin.

The abnormality itself does not touch off violence, he said, but it seems to boost the aggression in the psychological make-up of the young people.

Dr. Woods also theorized that the abnormality might trigger violence as a form of release from tension in some cases.

The abnormal brain pattern in violent youngsters has been noted on brain wave recorders and has been termed the "6 and 14" syndrome.

It is so called because the electroencephalograph showed distinctive peaks every 6th and 14th seconds.

"It is noted in a significant number of children and adolescents whose behavior includes fire setting, aggressive sexuality, murder and other acts of violence," Dr. Woods wrote in the Archives of General Psychiatry, a publication of the American Medical Association.

Clarifies Pronunciation

Lands on Pillow of Snow

EDGEMERE, Idaho (AP)—An F106 Delta Dart jet fighter exploded and crashed Thursday. The pilot, Maj. Joseph F. Passantino, chief of fighter group operations at Geiger Air Force Base, Spokane, ejected safely and drifted several miles by parachute, landing in about 30 inches of snow.

She's Far From Sweet Mopet Category Now

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD — Margaret O'Brien is back with Dr. Gillespie—but what a difference!

"Twice enough to give us old timers a sentimental twinge of jumbo. Little Maggie was back at MGM for the first time in a decade, but she wasn't little Maggie any more.

She was Margaret O'Brien, a stunning actress of 23 years—"I'll never be able to lie about my age; too many people know it."

In fact, her return to MGM had her playing a misguided nurse who tries to seduce Dr. Gillespie, Richard Chamberlain. (She does not succeed; this is television.)

What makes the event notable is that her second movie (after the tear-jerking "Journey for Margaret") was "Dr. Gillespie's Criminal Case."

Since then she has kept busy with TV dramas and summer stock. Last summer she toured with James MacArthur in the sexy farce "Under the Yum-Yum Tree."

"That was when I first met Lionel Barrymore," Margaret recalled. "He was very nice to me—even made me rag dolls. We got along very well together."

HER TOP FILMS
She followed with such films as "Meet Me in St. Louis," "Jane Eyre," "Big City," "Music for Millions," "Our Vines Have Tender Grapes," "Little Women" (which she remembers with the most fondness) and "Secret Garden." The latter was her finale at the Culver City lot.

There followed the usual in-between period when she strove to escape the saccharin tag that had befallen her in the MGM days. She never quite succeeded until a couple of years ago when she did a Playhouse 90 with Tony Randall in which he tore most of her clothes off. (This was television.)

Retail Dealers Urge Gas Be Made Public Utility

DETROIT (U) — A bill aimed at making the petroleum industry a public utility in Michigan is being readied for the legislature, Cash B. Hawley, general manager of the Retail Gasoline Dealers Association of Michigan, said today.

Hawley said the bill would ask the legislature to establish a state commission to regulate the industry, adding that "there's an awfully good chance for this industry to become a public utility, with a state commission dictating prices based on cost."

He indicated the bill was motivated by the latest in a series of gasoline price wars in the Detroit area. The latest battle, in which regular gasoline sold for as low as 18.9 cents a gallon at some dealers, ended last week.

Hawley said "even to be partially successful and meet his overhead a retailer must have a six-cents-a-gallon margin to survive. Prices still are 10 cents below normal."

WORKING ON MEASURE
He said the association's attorneys and lawyers for independent marketers' and jobbers' organizations were working on the bill.

"It's a matter of survival," Hawley said. "I don't particularly want the government running my business, but I don't want to go down the drain either, and if that's what it takes I'm for it."

William Palmer, executive secretary of the Associated Petroleum Industries of Michigan, remarked of the proposed bill that "It is obvious no group of businessmen would ask for public utility regulation — after a long and serious price war — unless they believed confidentially that this would insure higher prices for their product."

"Those who would advocate utility-type control of the sale of gasoline or any other competitive commodity must admit that the ultimate purpose is to force the motorist to pay higher prices."

Spirit of Nikita Floats Over JFK-Mac Meeting

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — The reason President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan could meet in comparative ease today is because Premier Khrushchev has a spell of diplomatic asthma.

He has stopped to catch his breath after working up a Berlin crisis. Last summer, spreading tension with every word he spoke, he said he wanted the problem settled by the end of 1961.

Then with the trouble getting explosive after his agents built a wall around East Berlin and the Allies were plainly confused on what to do about it—he sat back and said the settlement could wait until 1962.

How to deal with him next year—and they'll have to—is the No. 1 dilemma at the Kennedy-Macmillan meeting.

So, invisible in Bermuda but very much present at this Christmas-time, like a Santa Claus whose idea of fun is a bagful of cats let loose in a chimney, will be Khrushchev.

ANOTHER PROBLEM

If dealing with this Russian has Kennedy and Macmillan slightly stumped, they're equally baffled about dealing with their ally, French President Charles de Gaulle, the haughtiest man in 'worldocracy.'

He not only doesn't want to deal with the Soviets on Berlin, he doesn't even want to discuss it with them. He regards even a little negotiation on this as a mark of weakness. So he stands aloof from it.

This is nice work if you can get it, for a man in De Gaulle's position.

He not only doesn't have the army of the atomic weapons to deter the Soviet Union in a showdown—he'd have to depend on this country for that—he can't even settle the fighting in Algeria.

He's just making life tougher for Kennedy and Macmillan. The sorry part of it is that, on some, ga's mines—disagreed with Kennedy, who backed the United Nations in trying to whip Katanga into line.

Besides all this, Kennedy and Macmillan have been hit this week when they arranged their Bermuda meeting.

On this one Macmillan and De Gaulle—rich Frenchmen and Brits—have big interests in Katanga.

nothing Kennedy and Macmillan can do about making Nehru disengage Goa.

But the problem he created goes far beyond the realms of that tiny colony on the southwest coast of India. Portugal is a member of NATO, the Western alliance, along with the United States and Britain.

But India is part of the British Commonwealth.

All in all, Khrushchev hasn't had it so good in years. No wonder he was willing to relax a bit after working the Allies into a tizzy on Berlin.

Far more important to him than his battle over Berlin entirely would be a split among the Western Allies. Since he's no novice in human nature, he knows that individuals even the best allies at ways look out for their own interests.

Once they began to disagree on how to deal with him on Berlin, it was all to the good for him to give them even more chance by extending the deadline into 1962—to split.

Muskegon Hearing Set on Traffic Proposal

LANSING — A public hearing on a proposal to ban parking on a two-mile section of M-46 (Apple Avenue) in Muskegon will be held at the Walker Sports Arena in Muskegon Jan. 25, the State Highway Department said Thursday.

The hearing will be the first under provisions of a new state law permitting home rule cities to request hearings on traffic control orders.

Detroit Jury Awards $8.5 Million; Crews Can Start Wrecking

DETROIT — A condemnation awards totaling $8.5 million have cleared the way for wrecking crews to start tearing down Detroit's Skid Row.

Skid Row, 35 bars and many old landmarks, including the Salvation Army Harbor Light Center, will give way to a downtown redevelopment project. A proposed international village will locate a $30-million development in the area.

A Recorder's Court jury made condemnation awards Thursday to owners of 213 parcels of land in an area bounded by Third, Cass, West Lafayette, Michigan and Bagley avenues.

The condemned property includes all of Detroit's Chinatown.

The federal government will pay two-thirds of the awards and Detroit the remainder under terms of the redevelopment program.

The awards are subject to confirmation by Recorder's Judge John P. O'Hara.

Owners of Skid Row bars were awarded from $3,000 to $4,000 to cover the cost of removing stores and installing fixtures in a new location.

The Detroit Common Council still has the problem of relocation of pawn shops, cheap hotels, pool rooms, second-hand stores and bars.

Arrest 6 in Genesee for Short Weighting

FLINT — Six persons representing food stores in Genesee County have been arrested and convicted of violating the short-weight law.

County Prosecutor Walter P. Kuta said Thursday representatives of the Food and Standards Division of the State Department of Agriculture surveyed 13 stores during an investigation, buying 698 packages, each worth about $1. He said they found 317 underweight.

Kuta declined to name those convicted.

Make Quick Notes for Later Questions

Be Alert, Take Part in TV Class

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED.D.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California

You can relax if you want to during a television lesson because no one will call on you to recite. It's that you can't do and what you think about during the lesson that determines whether you learn anything or not.

The television lesson can put his lessons before hundreds — even thousands. You can hear him, you can see him. DR. NASON be tempted to accept it the same way. "Here I am," you say, "entertain me!" If you are really trying to absorb the new ideas, you may still find problems. Learning things from television is different. The speaker doesn't stop and let you "think through" a point. While you are thinking he can say several sentences that will put you to sleep. Don't bother raising your hand — he can't see you. Your question must remain unanswered for the time being. Frustrating, isn't it? If you hold a question or two in your mind until you have an opportunity to ask the teacher, you will probably miss most of the rest of the presentation, anyway.

CHEER UP!
It seems that just when you had set up a plan of action that got you by in a regular class situation, you are now faced with television teaching. The old schemes don't seem to work. Well, cheer up! For every new problem there's an answer, and there are answers to the problems of learning through television.

Here they are:
— Try to get a preview of what you are supposed to learn from the lesson before it starts. This will help you get your mind on the subject and keep it there. It will give you a "hitching post" to which you can tie the new ideas.
— Don't just sit there — DO something! Write down short sentence summaries from time to time. Make quick sketches to illustrate ideas.

When a question does arise in your mind, listen carefully for a moment or two. It may be answered. Many television lectures are planned to answer the questions most asked by student listeners. Of course, they cannot anticipate them all.

If your question isn't answered at once, write down a short reminder so that you can investigate later. This will get it out of your mind so that you can concentrate on the rest of the presentation.

EXPAND YOUR NOTES
— Expand your notes soon after the lesson. You should be able to make more sense to you than they will later.

— Think over the questions you wrote down. Check your book for answers. If you still have any doubts, formulate proper questions for the next meeting with your teacher.

This takes time, but it's time well spent. You are holding the new ideas in your thoughts long enough to get them organized into your own knowledge. Remember, if you've never known it, you can't remember it! Be sure you understand the new ideas.

Follow these suggestions and you'll become an active participant in this phase of the game of learning — not just a spectator. (You may write Dr. Nason in care of The Pontiac Press. While he can't answer questions individually, he will discuss those of general interest in his column.)

Santas in Blue Toting Record Christmas Mail

WASHINGTON — The Post Office Department said proudly today that its blue-clad Santas are carrying out the largest, most successful delivery of Christmas mail in history.

In the first 20 days of December, 9.5 billion pieces of mail passed through their hands.

This was 5.7 per cent more than last year and receipts were up about $5 million to $17.1 million.

The total incoming and outgoing mail handled for the Christmas season should easily exceed 11 billion pieces, the department said.

There are more than 15,000 kinds of orchids.

Gives Others Honor of Opening Freeway

BRIGHTON — State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie, who has become a champion ribbon-cutter, participated as only a spectator Thursday.

Mackie watched as four State Highway Department project engineers and four State Police troopers snipped the ribbon to mark the opening of 3.4 miles of the Detroit-Muskegon Freeway.

Mackie said he decided the honors should go to the project engineers because of the remarkable job they did in completing the section of a highway a year ahead of schedule and to State Police because of their outstanding record of handling traffic problems in the area during the construction of the $5.8-million project.

U.S. Apostolic Delegate to Consecrate Bishop

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Archbishop Egidio Vagnozzi, apostolic delegate to the United States at Washington, Thursday was named consecrator of Auxiliary Bishop-elect Charles A. Salata at Grand Rapids.

The ceremony, set for March 6, will bring to Grand Rapids about 60 members of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in America and hundreds of priests from throughout the Midwest.

Governor Locked Out

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Gov. Robert B. Meyner and his wife Helen found themselves locked out of the state house Thursday as they tried to get to the traditional Christmas tree lighting ceremony. They stood shivering in the cold until someone appeared with a key and let them in.

Lowly Bruins Hand Red Wings 4-2 Defeat

Break 1-1 Tie in 3rd Period Against Bassen

Punches and Penalties Share Ice Spotlight; Hawks Nip Montreal

BOSTON — The night was punctuated with punches and penalties as the lowly Boston Bruins plowed under the Detroit Red Wings, 4-2.

The victory ended an eight game winless streak in the National Hockey League for the last place Bruins. The loss prevented fourth place Detroit from gaining ground on it, third place New York.

In the only NHL action last night, Chicago edged Montreal, 4-3.

The Bruins collected three goals in three minutes in the third period to whip Detroit. The trio of tallies by Don McKenney, Cliff Pennington and Doug Mohns snapped a 1-1 tie.

No penalties were called in the high scoring third frame although referee John Ashley whistled 16 of them in the first two periods. Eight penalties came in the first frame and eight more in the second and third periods.

The two clubs split even, drawing eight penalties each.

The biggest of the punching incidents came at 11:19 of the first period when Detroit's Howie Hovine, Howie Glover and Gerry Orendak tangled with Boston's Ted Green and Andrew Brown.

Young and Brownovot got five-minute majors for fighting and the other participants got minors.

GAINED LEAD

Boston took the lead midway in the first period when John Bucyk split the defense and fired into the net. Detroit had an excellent chance to even it in the final five minutes of the period when Boston's Ed Westfall and Doug Mohns were penalized but failed to capitalize.

The Wings evened it in the second period after Young had drawn his third penalty of the night and left the team short-handed. The tally came when Gordie Howe intercepted the puck in his own end zone and fed Alex Delvecchio who clicked on a 25-foot shot.

But the Bruins collected their second victory in 16 games in the final period when McKenney fired a slick 15-foot turnaround shot at 4:54 that caught goalie Hank Bassen unaware. Pennington then went in on Bassen alone and blasted one in at 6:02, and Mohns converted a crazily bouncing 60-footer unassisted at 7:55.

Bill Gadsby played one in for Detroit after it no longer could do any good.

Pro Cage Clubs Settle Battles for Two Players

CLEVELAND — Dick Barnett, former Tennessee State star, will play with the Cleveland Pipers of the American Basketball League through an agreement reached with the Syracuse Stars of the rival National Basketball Association.

The two clubs reached what an NBA spokesman in New York called an "amicable settlement" Thursday only a few hours after a Cleveland judge handed down a ruling barring Barnett from playing with the Pipers. Terms of the agreement were not disclosed.

The spokesman also announced an agreement between the New York Knicks of the NBA and San Francisco's ABL team over Kenny Sears, who is now playing with San Francisco. Presumably, both were cash settlements.

A federal judge denied a request by the Knicks last June that Sears be permanently restricted from playing with San Francisco. Sears charged violation of the anti-trust act in a damage suit, he had pending against the Knicks.

All-County Grid Team Given Awards in Fete at Pontiac Elks

The 1961 Pontiac Press All-Oakland County football team received its just dues Thursday.

The Pontiac Press sports department paid honor to the elite grid squad in a luncheon and awards presentation at the Pontiac Elks Club.

Receiving extra special attention were quarterback Steve Judy of Northville, named Oakland's No. 1 grid performer this year, and Royal Oak Kimball coach Pin Ryan, chosen Coach of the Year.

Judy received the 6th annual Bronze Shoe award emblematic of his selection as the county's Most Valuable Player this season.

The Bronze Shoe award is presented by The Press sports staff in conjunction with the Thom McLean Shoe Company of New York.

Ryan, who guided Kimball to an unbeaten season and the Eastern Michigan League title, was awarded a plaque to symbolize his achievement.

Plaques were also presented to the members of the 6th annual honor team by Bill Cornwell, Press sports writer.

Plaques were awarded to the following players:

Ends — Craig Kirby, Kimball; end Ron Goovert, Hazel Park; tackle Willie Dale, Ferndale; guard — Jim Leto, Berkeley; and Dick Ries, Kimball; center — Clay Ovesen, Rochester; quarterback — Steve Judy, Northville; backs — Dorie Reid, Ferndale; Tom Mittel, Rochester; and Frank Stagg, Hazel Park; defensive lineman — Jack Dowd, Northville.

Defensive back Mike Marcum of Pontiac Northern, the 13th member of the elite squad, will receive his plaque later. He was unable to attend the dinner because of yesterday's PNH-KCH wrestling meet.

Other coaches in attendance were Walred Lake's Dave Smith, Berkeley's Irv Wilson and assistant coach Jack Kujavski of Ferndale, along with Chuck Abair, Press sports reporter.

Davis is on the West Coast working up with the East team in the East-West shrine game a week from tomorrow, Modell said he will fly to San Francisco next week to get Davis' signature on the contract.

The Buffalo Bills of the American Football League also were bidding for Davis, and Dick Gallagher, general manager of the Bills, said Davis had been offered a three-year deal worth "well over $100,000." Reports were the Buffalo offer was worth $135,000.

Modell was delighted. "There just aren't words to express my happiness now that Ernie has decided to play with us," he said.

Big Kentucky Invitational Hoop Tournament Begins Tonight

Xavier Included in 4-Team Field; Finals Saturday

Cincinnati and Purdue Add to Win Records; Santa Clara Loses 1st

By The Associated Press
"Everybody thinks we're a much improved team, over last year," Kentucky coach Adolph Rupp was saying. "I hope to find out in this tournament just how good we are."

Rupp, who is supposed to be in a rebuilding year, referred to the Kentucky Invitational that opens tonight, Kansas State and Xavier meet in the first game at Lexington, Ky., and the host Wildcats go against Tennessee.

It marks the second major test for the Wildcats, attempting to rebound from last season's 19-3 record, the worst in 22 years under Rupp.

ONE VETERAN
Kentucky, with only one starter back from last year's team, faced its first big challenge, losing to Southern California, the nation's sixth ranked team, in the second game of the season.

Should the Wildcats get past Tennessee, their performance in Saturday's final should give a solid indication whether Rupp has accomplished his architectural job.

The Wildcats have come up with sophomore hotshot Cotton Nash, hailed on Kentucky's best prospect since the days of Frank Ramsey and Cliff Hagan, and have been getting surprising play from backcourtman Scotty Baseler.

Other top action on a relatively light schedule tonight include the visit of Southern California to Arizona and Arizona State, tied for 10th in the national poll, to Utah. In Thursday night's top games, second-ranked Cincinnati bombed Colorado 84-67; eighth-ranked Purdue outlasted Evansville 83-77 and Wichita's tough Shockers knocked Santa Clara from the unbeaten ranks, 60-48.

Cincinnati used a first half scoring burst, trimmed by sophomore George Wilson and Ron Bonham, to establish a 42-20 lead and coasted in from there. Colorado's Ken Charlton led all scorers with 23 points. Paul Hogue had 20 for the winners.

FREE THROWS
Purdue used free throw accuracy and experience to add to its victory over Evansville's home-standing Aces. Purdue hit 29 of 30 free throws while the young Aces converted only 19 of 31.

The Aces held All-America Terry Dischinger to 19 points by double and triple teaming him. Mel Garland broke into for 25 as a result.

Santa Clara ran into a defense that allowed it only 20 points in the last half as the Broncos lost their first in eight starts. It pushed Wichita's record to 8-1, with the only loss to top-ranked Ohio State. Wichita center Gene Wiley, 6-10, popped in 16 points and collected 17 rebounds.

Joe Louis' Group Plans Title Bout

LOS ANGELES (AP)—With Joe Louis fronting his promoter United World Enterprises has come up with some grandiose, if nebulous, plans for leading championship boxing matches in Los Angeles.

The former heavyweight champion appeared at a news conference Thursday.

John L. Horn, Los Angeles businessman, said the new boxing promotional group has hopes of landing a fight between Sonny Liston and Eddie Machen Feb. 19 at the Sports Arena, the idea being to select a challenger for heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson's crown.

Louis said, however, that United World Enterprises probably will present a twin bill for its opening attraction.

"If we can't sign Liston and Machen, we'd like to show featherweight champ Davey Moore and Cico Andrade alone or Andrade and Len Mattheis in an over-weight match, for the first half of the twin bill, and heavyweights Alejandro Lavarante and George Logan in a rematch," said Louis.

The new boxing organization still doesn't have a license to promote contests.

Few Games Tonight; Twin Cities Man Clawson Wins, 65-56 Leads Keg Race

A light schedule tonight ends league basketball action until after the holidays.

Pontiac Central plays a crucial Saginaw Valley contest at Arthur Hill. The Wayne-Oakland has a full slate and two contests are set in the Oakland A.

Clawson won his sixth game in league starts Thursday with a 65-56 Oakland A triumph over Oak Park. PCH will have to contend with plenty of height. The Lumberjacks' tallest is Craig Dunn who towers 6-10. Other front liners for Arthur Hill top 6-5.

This will be Central's stiffest test. The Chiefs rolled over two league teams and one outside foe with comparative ease.

Titan Grid Card for '64 Lists Miami, Kentucky

DETROIT — A 10-game intercollegiate football schedule, highlighted by home games with the University of Miami of Florida and Virginia Military Institute in 1964, was announced today by Jim Miller, Director of Football at the University of Detroit.

The games with Miami, Fla., and V.M.I. will be on consecutive Friday evenings, Oct. 30 and Nov. 6. The Titans last met the Floridians in 1949 when the Hurricanes whipped them, 27-6. It will be Detroit's first meeting with V.M.I.

Kemmerer of White Sox Training for Ministry

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP)—Russ Kemmerer, Chicago White Sox pitcher, said Thursday he has begun to train for a career in the Methodist ministry.

Kemmerer, 30, a Pittsburgh, Pa., native, said he hopes to continue playing baseball until his ordination—possibly eight years from now.

He said he has been certified by the Wesley Methodist Church at Bloomington to undertake studies leading to a local preaching license. The license is the first step toward ordination.

3 Powers, Syracuse Motor City Entries

From Our News Wire

DETROIT — The Motor City Basketball Tournament opens next Friday with three strong teams and a fourth whose coach says "watch out."

The University of Detroit, boasting a 6-2 mark going into tonight's game with Regis of Colorado, meets winless Syracuse in the opener.

Further Woes in Grid Ranks at Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Further evidence of dissension within the ranks of the Los Angeles Rams has cropped up with the announcement fallback to Wilson that he hopes to negotiate as a free agent with some other club.

"Wilson has another year to go on his contract with the Rams, but he said Thursday: 'They refuse to trade me and refuse to play me. They tell me I am too bad to play and too good to go. I want to go to a club that will give me a chance to carry the ball.'"

"THEY SAY I can't block. But there was one game in which I graded 100 per cent in my blocking. In the Bear game at Chicago Jon Arnett had the all-time Ram low of 29 per cent in his blocking but he started the following week."

Wilson said he will play out his option year in 1962 with the Rams.

Unbeaten DePaul tries once-beaten St. Bonaventure in the first round game Dec. 23.

Coach Bob Callahan of the host Detroit Titans said yesterday his team was improving and "we sure hope that we can make the finals, at least."

The DePaul coach, Ray Meyer, said his team needed more outside shooting ability but "potentially this could be the best team we ever had."

DePaul has won all six of its games this year.

TOUTNEY CHAMPS
St. Bonaventure carries a 7-1 record into the tournament, losing only to Duquesne. Victories include the championship of the Blue Grass Tournament earlier this month.

Larry Weise, the Bonnie coach, told a news conference via telephone that the victory "was a good one and gave the team a boost."

Syracuse coach Marc Guley, who spoke just before his team lost to Pitt 74-63 last night, bemoaned the weaknesses of his team, then asserted:

"We're the dark horse in the tournament — but watch out."

The teams have met no mutual opponents.

Dixie Skaters Fall, 5-2

Pontiac's Dixie Tool & Machine hockey team suffered a 5-2 defeat at the hands of the Chiefs in a Detroit Senior Hockey League game on the Farwell ice rink. The loss evened Dixie's record at 2-2.

Gary Frevo and Hugh Remy scored Dixie's goals in the third period. Dixie's next game will be played Christmas night in the State Fairgrounds arena at 6:30.

Christmas Brings Cheer to Lonely---Young, Old

Christmas takes many different people to many different places.

It comes in the shape of a new shiny automobile pulling up in front of the Children's Center for a young lad whose life was soiled when he was neglected by his parents.

This car will take him to a nice warm home, decorated with the spirit of Christmas, full of life to play with and presents to open Monday morning.

Best of all, he'll have a Mom and Dad who care.

The elderly confined to the Oakland County Medical Facility—formerly called the infirmary—it means the end of many hours of loneliness as carers and organizations parade the corridors. They bear gifts, but nothing means more than the handshake and the wish "Have a Merry Christmas."

WANTS TO EARN WAY

For a 12-year-old boy, who relates sadly that "my parents don't want me and I'm here because they're looking for someone to adopt me," it means three hours to run a courthouse seeking shoes to shine.

"I want the money so when I go to a boarding home I'll have some school supplies," he explains.

Again this Christmas, parents—some with children of their own and some without—flooded the Children's Center with requests to "adopt" a young boy or girl for Christmas and New Year holidays.

They started departing for their new homes late yesterday. They took with them the toys that the many organizations and service clubs contributed.

About 50 of the 230 wards of Juvenile Court won't be as lucky. Because of detention problems or because they hadn't earned the privilege, they'll stay either at the Center or Youth Home.

"They'll be getting the turkey and all the trimmings though," said Mr. Kopp, supervisor of the center.

TERRIFIC RESPONSE

"I tell you it's been terrific—the response," he said. "This week the just opened up. We've received lots of lots of wonderful gifts, so most of the kids received at least three."

The GMC Truck & Coach Foreman's Club gave their annual Christmas party for the boys and girls.

Gifts poured into the Medical Care Facility to brighten an otherwise dull season for men and women ranging in age from 60 to 97.

Some came in the form of financial contributions, including $40 collected by a Circuit Court jury, which Thomas J. Leonard, manager, quickly turns into needed equipment, such as a movie projector.

Packages came from a group from the Birmingham-Blofield area. Each had a $1 bill attached, Leonard said.

"I never go out begging," said Leonard. "It's just the free will of the time of the year."

Patients can look forward to a Christmas dinner of roast turkey, dressing, potatoes, peas, cranberry sauce, gravy, homemade rolls, ice cream and cake.

About 40 groups have visited the hospital these past days to give the shut-ins a spiritual lift.

Patients Will Have Gifts

No patient at Pontiac State Hospital will be forgotten this Christmas, as volunteers and employees are giving thousands of gifts and time to bring light and hope.

Supt. Walter H. Obenauf today hailed the wonderful response to our pleas for contributions to cheer patients during this season.

Late in November, Obenauf suggested that the hospital receive the nearly 1,000 patients who have no relatives.

Since publication of the list, he said, tons of gifts have swamped the hospital's community relations office every day. He estimated that "several thousand" individual gifts would be totaled by Dec. 25.

At present, attendant nurses from the wards are making selections for their patients and are processing the gifts from unpacking through re-wrapping—all on their own time.

All of the 3,000 patients at the hospital have been cheered throughout the month with parties and entertainment sponsored by employees and volunteers alike, Obenauf noted.

"Our regular volunteer corps numbers 700 individuals in 73 organizations," he said. "This year, we have received additional aid from individuals and groups which would put the number of those helping us well into the thousands. We are extremely grateful to all of them—every individual and every organization."

Right now Obenauf is busy signing "thank you" notes to each donor of gifts. So far he has signed 400. He expects to sign several hundred more before winter's camp sets in.

Many From Foreign Lands

Christmas is a time of family reunions, but for some this is not possible.

For young doctors serving their internship at a hospital far from their native land, what to do on Christmas can raise a question. Luckily, the majority of interns at hospitals in Pontiac have made plans for spending Christmas day with friends or relatives.

At Pontiac State Hospital, the problem is not great. There are some 23 interns there from other countries, but the majority are married and have families here with them.

Others, interning at General like Dr. A.K.M. Abdel Hamid, from India, and Dr. Celal Cologlu, from Istanbul, Turkey, have been invited to dinner by friends.

Several of the dozen foreign interns at General will be traveling.

Dr. Pilar Franco, a native of Mexico, will be a guest in West Virginia, while Dr. George H. Semewald, a native of Germany, will visit his brother in Canada.

None will go as far as Dr. James P. Fagan. He is flying home for the holidays to his family in Dublin, Ireland.

At St. Joseph Mercy Hospital there are no interns from foreign countries, but there are six foreign doctors in residency.

Of the six, most are married and have their families here.

REINDEER: This one is real.

Designers' John Gibbs Won't Be Manager, Says Spokesman

Michigan Republicans have opened their Detroit branch office, but "designer" John A. Gibbs, former executive secretary for the Oakland County, won't get the job as manager.

A party spokesman said Gibbs, now holding the executive secretary position under State GOP Chairman George M. Van Pusem, is considered "too valuable" to let out of the Lansing State Central Committee headquarters.

The party grapevine said Gibbs, 28, formerly of Royal Oak, is under disfavor with some Wayne County party officials for officers in trying to steer his plan for party reorganization through the ranks. Creation of the Detroit office was part of the plan.

Van Pusem said, speaking of the office to be located in the LaFayette Building, and creation of more jobs to be located there, are part of a broad scale program to increase party effectiveness and reverse a long string of Democratic advances in state elections. Immediate goal is the 1962 election, the state chairman said.

The Detroit office, opened Wednesday, will furnish public relations, organization and training services in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, St. Clair, Washtenaw and Monroe counties, Van Pusem said.

"We are taking applications for a manager for the southeastern office and Lansing staff positions in the areas of public relations, research, training, and administration, accounting-office management and secretarial services," Van Pusem said.

Father of Four Killed in Excavation Collapse

DETROIT (AP) — Marvin Howie, 42, of Grosse Pointe Woods, father of four, was killed Thursday when he was buried under five feet of clay in the collapse of a sewer excavation in Detroit.

Howie, a partner in a heating and plumbing firm, was helping install a connecting sewer.

From Survey to Permits

As soon as a survey of Pontiac's fallout shelter is finished, David Teel, administrative assistant to the city manager, will take on the city's next assignment.

That's to find out which property owners will permit their buildings to be used for shelters.

Though Teel feels that phase of the National Fallout Shelter Survey can be accomplished without undue strain locally, a Wayne County official felt differently.

William Brinkman, acting director of Detroit and Wayne County civil defense, said the obtaining of permits would take another 20 employees at a cost of $50,000.

Teel, Brinkman and 83 other civil defense officials from Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties got the assignment on permits from acting director of the Michigan Office of Civil Defense, Robert S. D'Amelio, this week.

Teel said the city has enough employees and facilities to carry out the project locally without federal aid.

D'Amelio said there were no federal or state funds available.

Some 40,000 buildings in the tri-county area, many of them in Oakland County, are currently being surveyed for possible use as public shelters by the Detroit office of the National Fallout Shelter Survey and architectural firm of Giffels and Rosetti, Inc.

From aerial photographs it is determining sites where shelters are needed.

The structures will be tentatively identified as suitable fallout shelter sites when facts gathered by Giffels and Rosetti employees are correlated by an electronic computer in Washington.

Cards identifying buildings which appear to have potential to serve as shelters then will be returned

Top Car Output Seen This Month

December Production Predicted at 625,000, Highest Since 1955

DETROIT (AP) — Ward's Automotive Reports said today that passenger car production in the United States will reach 625,000 units in December, the highest for the same period since 1955.

The 19.5 per cent increase over 1960 December output will climax the industry's second best fourth quarter in history, Ward's said.

Fourth quarter output will be about 1,825,000 units, a 1 per cent more than was assembled in the same period last year and surpassed only by the 1,949,000 produced in the final three months of 1955.

Total 1961 production was estimated at 5,515,000 cars, Ward's said, a 17.6 per cent decline from 6,586,108 in 1960.

Production for the week ending today was estimated at 147,345 as the industry's second best fourth quarter in history, Ward's said.

At that time Glenn said his back-up pilot, Navy Cmdr. Scott Carter, moved into the "ready room" at Cape Canaveral's famed Hangar 3, near Cocoa Beach, Fla.

Tunisia is about the same area today as New York state.

Cost of Living Index Down 10th of 1 Pct.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs as measured by the government declined in November by one-tenth of one per cent.

At the same time, spendable earnings and buying power of the average worker rose to a record high.

Somewhat lower food prices, declines in most of the other consumer buying categories brought the living cost index down to 128.3 per cent of the 1947-49 base prices.

Announcing the figure today, Robert J. Myers, deputy commissioner of labor statistics, said a rise of seven-tenths of one per cent from November 1960, represented the smallest November-to-November living cost increase since 1955.

He predicted another small decline for December.

"We're pretty sure we'll have another little drop," he said. "The indications point in that direction. But we don't think we'll have any big decline."

He said the makings for the traditional turkey dinner at Christmas will probably cost even less than at last Thanksgiving, when turkey dinner costs were at a 10-year low.

In November, costs of both toys and sports goods, items that are in heavy demand as Christmas gifts, were down by two-tenths of one per cent from the level of a year earlier.

The factory worker's weekly earnings after federal income and social security taxes rose by about $1 from the October level to $85.03. The figure is for the worker with a family of four.

Over the year the average factory worker's spendable earnings have increased by more than $1 a week, or about 7 per cent.

Real Reindeer Will Cavort—for a Price

NEW YORK (NEA)—It's this Christmas Eve when the patter of reindeer hooves on your neighbor's rooftop, don't blame it on the Yuletide spirits; they're reindeer.

And, if this season goes as well as last — and all indications are it will be even better — people will be running into or away from the frisky beaties all over the cities.

It's the newest form of spreading Christmas cheer, and for only $15 a pair per day, you can have reindeer on your rooftop or driving you up the front lawn to dazzle and awe your youngsters and their friends on Christmas morning.

Admittedly, it's a stiff price for most just to play Santa for the kiddies, but more and more well-heeled individuals are rearing the cloven-hooved Christmas symbols according to those in the business, the animal rental agencies.

Most of the agency transactions are with corporations, department stores, television programs, chambers of commerce, banks and even churches for publicity and promotions. But today even ordinary fathers are climbing on the reindeer rental sleigh to the tune of $200.00 for one company.

As the owners of three of New York's largest agencies said:

CLIENTS SCREENED

"We screen our clients more carefully than the government does their security workers."

CORRECTION!

The price of bowling balls in the HURON BOWL was incorrect. It should have read:

Bank Teller Charged With Theft; $374,371 Missing at Last Count

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A third man was arrested by FBI agents today in connection with a bank embezzlement already reckoned at $374,371, with an audit still going on.

The actual theft from the Baltimore Avenue branch of the First Pennsylvania Banking and Trust Co. is charged to Joseph W. Barnes, 25-year-old former high school athlete. He was head teller at the branch.

ADMITTED THEFTS

The FBI said Barnes admitted taking the cash over the past 10 months, and spending most of it gambling on horse races and athletic events.

Last night the FBI arrested a taproom owner, who allegedly got about $150,000 from Barnes to cover gambling bets.

This morning, another tavern operator was seized. The FBI said Barnes apparently gave him "various sums of the bank's money to purchase stock for investment purposes."

John R. Daly, 36, operator of a bar several blocks from the branch bank, was charged with aiding and abetting Barnes in the embezzlement. A similar charge was lodged last night against Robert McDevitt, 30, the other taproom operator.

Under terms of the State Constitution, no county in Arkansas can be reduced to an area of less than 600 square miles.

Area Man on Team Winning U.S. Contest

NEW YORK (AP)—A team from New York University School of Law, including R. Wayne Cain of Ferndale, Mich., won the national moot court competition Thursday night.

Teams from more than 100 law schools participated. Associate Justice William H. Rehnquist of the Supreme Court of the United States presided.

Steps Planned for Shelter Project

As soon as a survey of Pontiac's fallout shelter is finished, David Teel, administrative assistant to the city manager, will take on the city's next assignment.

That's to find out which property owners will permit their buildings to be used for shelters.

Though Teel feels that phase of the National Fallout Shelter Survey can be accomplished without undue strain locally, a Wayne County official felt differently.

William Brinkman, acting director of Detroit and Wayne County civil defense, said the obtaining of permits would take another 20 employees at a cost of $50,000.

Teel, Brinkman and 83 other civil defense officials from Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties got the assignment on permits from acting director of the Michigan Office of Civil Defense, Robert S. D'Amelio, this week.

Teel said the city has enough employees and facilities to carry out the project locally without federal aid.

D'Amelio said there were no federal or state funds available.

Some 40,000 buildings in the tri-county area, many of them in Oakland County, are currently being surveyed for possible use as public shelters by the Detroit office of the National Fallout Shelter Survey and architectural firm of Giffels and Rosetti, Inc.

The firm is providing information from assessors' and insurance records to determine structural merits of the buildings.

The structures will be tentatively identified as suitable fallout shelter sites when facts gathered by Giffels and Rosetti employees are correlated by an electronic computer in Washington.

Cards identifying buildings which appear to have potential to serve as shelters then will be returned to the Detroit District office of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

TO ASSUME DUTIES

It is then that the local units of government and their civil defense officials will be asked to assume their first duty in the shelter project.

Joseph L. Avesian, Detroit district liaison officer for the Corps of Engineers, said the permit cards will be mailed to officials in the three counties early in March.

The local officials will be responsible for contacting owners of the buildings to obtain permits allowing more detailed inspections of the structures by Giffels and Rosetti.

Once owners have given permission for the building to be used for civil defense purposes, the professional architects-engineers will mark off the fallout shelter area in the structure.

Local authorities then will post civil defense signs on the building and store food in the shelter which will be paid for and shipped to Pontiac by the federal government.

The final responsibility in the shelter program will be a continuing one for municipal civil defense officials, according to Avesian.

They will be asked to make periodic inventories of the emergency food stored in the shelters.

Area Man on Team Winning U.S. Contest

NEW YORK (AP)—A team from New York University School of Law, including R. Wayne Cain of Ferndale, Mich., won the national moot court competition Thursday night.

Teams from more than 100 law schools participated. Associate Justice William H. Rehnquist of the Supreme Court of the United States presided.

In the semifinals earlier Thursday, New York University defeated the University of Michigan.

Cardinal Dies at 89

FLORENCE, Italy (AP)—Elio Cardinal della Costa, 89, Roman Catholic archbishop of Florence, died today. He had been ill with influenza and his condition was aggravated by a long-time heart ailment and a circulatory disturbance. He was made a member of the College of Cardinals in 1933 by Pope Pius XI.

A SENSE OF HUMOR — Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davis, whose Christmas cards traditionally have shown them photographed beside their huge fireplace, sent this card to friends this year. Their home, except for the fireplace, was destroyed last month in the tragic brush fire which swept the Brentwood-De Alir section of Southern California. The picture on the card shows them seated, with highballs in hand, and below the picture this phrase: "Out, but not down."

'Arise! Thy Light Is Come!'

(Editor's Note: In the Heavens, music, in the stillness below, the cry of a newborn infant. The mystery of the incarnation forms the subject of this last of four articles on the Christmas story, with its setting in heaven. The narrative is based on Scriptural allusions. Quotations are from the Bible, as attributed to angels, prophets and apostles whose words reflected the Mind of those higher realms.)

Outwardly, there is little noteworthy about the planet. It is relatively small and drab, a minor fragment of a minor sun. In the black ranges of the light-years.

Astronomically, one would scarcely notice the earth.

Yet on this night, it is a breath-taking attraction. The Planets can't match its glory. The magnificent Sirius pales in comparison. The earth on this night radiates with surpassing distinction.

"The Light shineth in the darkness."

Out of the throbbing skies, a luminous shaft streams down like silver on a rocky Judean hillside. And over the scene hovers a multitudinous host, exulting in the broad compass of the heavens.

"Lift up your heads, O gates! And be lifted up, O ancient doors: That the King of Glory may come in."

The lowly planet is touched by the Highest Presence. A unique Vibration crosses its serene and Sovereign Will bursts forth among uncertain humanity. Providence sets foot on earth. God joins man.

"In the beginning was the Word . . . and the Word was God . . . and the Word was with God, and the Word was made flesh and dwelt among them."

The great intervention is commenced, the divine quest to re-establish living union with a dubious and precarious people.

HOSANNA CHORUS

It was thrillingly strange that the Most High should stoop to mingle directly with such errant and swarming planetary life, even to sharing its wretched state. That of barren slope, the angelic course made a hosanna chorus, as swarming and lightome as leaves in summer.

"God so loved the world . . ."

Amid all the brilliant forms of interstellar space, the whirling spiral nebulae, the first-magnitude stars, crimson, blue and gold, and with their impinging planets, he had chosen to merge Himself with struggling earth.

It was a tiny, brownish ball, far out on the arm of the galaxy that men call the Milky Way, revolving in a secondary, aging solar system.

It presented a sallow, depressing character beside the flaming supernovae, the sparkling eddies, the constellations, the dynamic rhythms and dazzling colors of the firmament.

Yet God had leaned down to this lesser globe and its meager folk, cherishing them though they rejected Him, embracing them though they mocked, giving Himself to those who had failed to reciprocate.

"The love of God is shed abroad . . . Clap your hands, all ye people! Shout to God with loud songs of joy."

The surroundings in which he chose to appear were of the commonest kind. A tiny, brownish ball, far out on the arm of the galaxy that men call the Milky Way, revolving in a secondary, aging solar system.

He took on all the drawbacks of flesh, as a poor babe, in a penitential, migratory family from Nazareth. He acted to involve Himself in men's hardest, shabbiest, humblest lot, and hallow it.

He cast Himself into the world without money or price, as a man of no account, as a man of no account, as a man of no account.

frustrations, sarcasm, rituals, anxieties and nervousness. "He made Himself of no reputation, and took upon Himself the form of a servant . . . in the likeness of men . . . He had to be made like His brethren in every respect . . . to seek and to save that which was lost."

One of the angels thronged down to a no-nonsense event through other commonplace humans, a crew of shepherds guarding their flocks in the valley.

"Fear-not-for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Savior, which is Christ the Lord."

The herdsmen stood wide-eyed with awe.

"And this shall be a sign unto you; ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger."

HASTY JOURNEY

The trembling men, hiding their faces, moved in disorderly haste across the dim valley floor, tripping on roots and boulders. Over them, benign gases marked their shadowy course to the grotto.

"O man, greatly beloved . . . peace be with you."

Throughout the pinnacles and towering outposts of heaven, among the winging company that kept vigil, a fervent delight pulsed and swelled, from the still creation to the musty stall.

Low in the stratosphere, three other planets converged in a triangle. Jupiter, Saturn and Mars, forming a scintillating cluster like a giant, close-hanging star.

It cast a purple halo over the swarded earth and, across the desert and mountains in an arched, gleaming, racing spirit, it impelled learned magi to read the meaning of that star, and journey toward it.

"Arise! Shine! For thy Light is come."

It was a beautiful night, laden with ineffable solitude for troubled man. The heavenly minis regarded him with gentle hope, wondering at his blurred perception.

He could not see the noontide vista where they moved, nor hear the melody of their hallogahs. He could not imagine those eyes gleaming in an angelic spirit, that agile spirit bodies that could change direction without turning, that could be anywhere in an instant.

"God so loved the world . . ."

Amid all the brilliant forms of interstellar space, the whirling spiral nebulae, the first-magnitude stars, crimson, blue and gold, and with their impinging planets, he had chosen to merge Himself with struggling earth.

It was a tiny, brownish ball, far out on the arm of the galaxy that men call the Milky Way, revolving in a secondary, aging solar system.

his distorted ways blotted out the finer circuits, where wish was fulfillment, where work was accomplishment, where empathy was complete and life of a connected strand.

He groped in a three-dimensional prison, yearning to break out but too buried in his intellectual dogmas and conventional frame of references to see the way. He was alienated from true freedom by misuses of his own. In declining independence from God, man had become trapped in a medium of matter, shackled to his perishable physical environs.

"Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

CHRIST THE LIGHT

God descended to show that even in human form, it is the spirit, not the flesh, that lives. He could have abandoned redemption to its darkness. He didn't. On unseeing humanity, heaven rained its utmost revelation.

"The Light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ."

The Most High lowered Himself to close the breach between truth and mankind, to shatter the blockade shutting earth off from eternity. Men could not live up to Him. So he bent down to lead the fugitives back to their spiritual heritage, to mark the way, to end the separation and restore them to full friendship.

He offered a living pledge, in person, because he cared — immensely.

"God is love."

And it was Love that dropped that night into the sea of human history, an untried, unconditional, unparalysed order, a love for the unloving. "Everyone that loveth is born of God and knoweth God."

Moreover, God was not remote and aloof, as many assumed. He was there, in that stony cleft of earth, among men, the least and greatest of them.

"Behold the kingdom of God is with men, and He will dwell with them."

The cascading light curvessed the limestone cliffs, caressed through the curling leaves of olive trees and spilled into the blue shadows, where the livestock grazed in an infant.

And there was music in heaven. "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will to men."

Steelworkers '62 Strike Could Deal Setback to Nation

By NORMAN WALKER
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON — The stage is being set for a 1962 steel labor battle that could deal a severe setback to the nation's hesitant economic recovery.

Just as happened three years ago when a record 116-day steel strike helped distort normal supply and demand—steel consumers already are beginning to build up inventories against a possible new steel shutdown.

President Kennedy may well find himself toward mid-1962 faced with the same sort of desperate labor struggle as his White House predecessor, Dwight D. Eisenhower, encountered in the 1959 steel strike.

As Eisenhower did in advance of the earlier steel troubles Kennedy has been urging wage-price restraint and economic state-ship on both the steel industry and steelworkers union. But neither the steelmakers nor union have given Kennedy any iron-clad commitments.

If the strike comes off it's a good bet the federal government will again, as in 1959, intervene and even perhaps spell out the settlement terms.

FEAR OF AUTOMATION
On the collective bargaining front generally the main issue is sure to continue to be the worker's fear of being displaced by the machine.

vs. the employer's desire to mechanize.

On one hand, workers and their unions, eyeing the millions unemployed, put job security guarantees at least as high as wage increase demands on their bargaining agendas.

On the other hand, management wants to realize maximum savings from new production processes and techniques to obtain dollars for expansion, higher profits and lower prices.

During the past year both profits and wages were at high levels. Prices remained stable. Employment rose to a new peak but, with the increasing population and work force, unemployment also remained high.

Strikes were at a low ebb. But there were serious walkouts in the auto, maritime and airline industries, among others. Labor troubles at the missile bases, along with charges of labor abuses, led to a new strike pledge and establishing commission to settle missile labor disputes.

President Kennedy's administration rammed through Congress some long-time labor aims, including a higher federal minimum wage, increased Social Security benefits, and special help for depressed areas and the long-time unemployed.

Labor's political forces were gearing up for new fights in Congress in 1962 and a big role in the congressional elections next fall.

An innovation arranged by Kennedy's new secretary of labor, former union attorney Arthur J. Goldberg, is a White House labor-management committee that has been at work during most of 1961 mapping policies designed to secure industrial peace and to promote wage-price relationships.

James R. Hoffa finally rid himself of court monitor supervision and a mid-1961 Teamsters convention vested him with broad new powers over the nation's largest labor union.

At least some Teamsters members decided they'd had enough. Hoffa was faced with member revolts in a number of cities, including Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati. The AFL-CIO, refusing to cancel its expulsion of the Teamsters for corruption, began taking in Teamsters units that had defected from Hoffa.

One of the important situations on the labor-management scene was the rapidly-changing attitude of the National Labor Relations Board.

After Kennedy appointed two new members to the five-man board it was reversed a number of decisions made when the board had been dominated by Eisenhower appointees. Whereas the Eisenhower board was most often criticized by labor unions, employers were more often disagreeing with the new NLRB's doctrines.

A newly established government committee on equal employment opportunity, headed by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, negotiated agreements with nine major defense contractors in which they pledged to end job discrimination against Negroes.

Johnson's committee is seeking similar pacts with other defense contractors and with labor unions.

Woman Makes a Career for Her Cat

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Cat people are all a little nuts," said Louise Adams. "They'll buy anything for their pets."

Miss Adams, who is the devoted owner of a platinum Persian cat named Nicodemus, is planning to go on that theory to improve Nicodemus' financial status. She's got him incorporated, in a manner of speaking.

Nicodemus, a silvery, long-haired animal with big green eyes and a thoroughly indolent manner, earned about $5,000 last year posing for advertisements for such things as eye makeup, diamonds and luxury furs.

Miss Adams, who can pamper a cat with the best of them, is now trying to market some of Nicodemus' favorite luxuries — his Feline Fatale and Glamor Puss, naturally.

She has a doctor working on such things as "feline-ize" for unruly cats and a "feline-atic" pill for those who are feeling their age.

Other items she hopes to sell in Nicodemus' name to the fan-

W. Berlin Bright With Lights and Cheer

By JOHN FIEREN
BERLIN (AP)—More than 800 huge Christmas trees are lit each dusk along the Western side of the Communist wall through Berlin.

On the East Berlin side of the barrier nothing matches this pre-Christmas atmosphere.

There are Christmas decorations, lighted trees and all, deeper inside East Berlin at the shopping centers. But along the Communist side of the 25 miles of concrete and barbed wire there are only three spindly fir trees set up by the East German guards.

One, at Elisenstrasse between the Soviet and American sectors, is stuck into a low concrete road barrier. It has no lights, no decorations.

GERMAN LYRICS
"You in West Berlin will be able to celebrate a peaceful Christmas because we built the wall to ward off any provocations," a shrill voice announces. Then come "Silent Night" and "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas" with German lyrics.

Just around the corner of Elisenstrasse is Harzerstrasse. Eight apartment houses stand right on the border on the East Berlin side. They look like dark monoliths—barn windows, venetian blinds half lowered, dangling down crookedly.

The houses have been forcibly evacuated by the Communists. Many an East Berliner had fled through the windows into the street, which is West Berlin territory.

Across the end of Harzerstrasse cuts the ugly Communist wall—eight feet high. Behind it, Red guards can be seen looking through the slit of a wooden watch tower.

East German border police occasionally hurl bricks at the line. They have missed so far. The West Berlin policeman on duty said.

State Police Bolstered by Guardsmen Trying to Control Traffic

By The Associated Press
An estimated three million motorists made final preparations today for travel on Michigan highways over the four-day Christmas holiday weekend.

The Automobile Club of Michigan forecast that traffic peaks would occur late tonight, early Saturday and again on Monday afternoon as motorists return home from the 75-hour weekend.

State police forces bolstered by 100 Michigan National Guardsmen prepared for the heavy traffic. In addition, all days-off for troopers were canceled until Sunday in an attempt to keep traffic under heavy surveillance.

Last year's Christmas weekend traffic death toll reached 32. The highest for any Christmas period was 50 in 1955.

The auto club's three-million car estimate compared to 2.9 million last year.

AIRLINES SOLD OUT
Heavy passenger loads were reported by all major airlines in Detroit. Today was expected to be the peak period and most flights were sold out. Long waiting lists were reported for East and West flights.

Spokesmen said the pressure would continue until Tuesday.

The five-day weather forecast for Michigan, based on the most accurate tonight, Saturday and Sunday, one-half inch was predicted. Southern sectors possibly will have occasional rain, the U.S. Weather Bureau said.

A last minute Christmas shopping rush was anticipated in Detroit today and Saturday. The Retail Merchants Association said shopping to date has been brisk and appeared to be 3 to 5 per cent ahead of last year's Christmas period.

Detroit auto workers were scheduled to start the holiday period, with conclusion of shifts today. Production will be resumed Tuesday.

Spokesmen said the pressure would continue until Tuesday.

The five-day weather forecast for Michigan, based on the most accurate tonight, Saturday and Sunday, one-half inch was predicted. Southern sectors possibly will have occasional rain, the U.S. Weather Bureau said.

A last minute Christmas shopping rush was anticipated in Detroit today and Saturday. The Retail Merchants Association said shopping to date has been brisk and appeared to be 3 to 5 per cent ahead of last year's Christmas period.

Detroit auto workers were scheduled to start the holiday period, with conclusion of shifts today. Production will be resumed Tuesday.

Pope Pleads for Peace, Sharing World Wealth

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII in his fourth Christmas message Thursday combined a plea for peace with an appeal for more equitable sharing of the world's wealth.

The 80-year-old pontiff directed his appeals to "the rulers of nations, who today hold in their hands the fate of mankind."

The Vatican Radio today broadcast the annual message of the head of the Roman Catholic Church in scores of languages to all parts of the world, including the Communist East and troubled Africa.

There was hope in the message, but there was anxiety too.

"Sum all thought of force," the pontiff urged world rulers. "Think and loving, to his fellow man, has become a stranger, calculating, suspicious and selfish."

But the pontiff held out this hope: "We cannot believe that the terrible force now under the control of man will be released for the world's destruction. For the world and the lives of men (and) seek every means that modern progress has put at their disposal to increase the welfare and security of the world."

To mankind as a whole, Pope John said: "All humanity must be good... just, upright, generous, disinterested, willing to understand and to forgive..."

He spoke with concern of current world strife where "man is no longer brother, good, merciful for formal negotiations on a new Berlin agreement.

But informants said they still must decide on a further approach to Moscow, whether, for example, to work toward a foreign ministers' meeting and ultimately an East-West summit.

They also must discuss ways to bring French President Charles de Gaulle around. De Gaulle insists that the tension over Berlin is all of Soviet making and therefore, the Soviets must take the first steps toward easing it.

In the field of nuclear testing, Kennedy and Macmillan heard reports by their experts on the recent Soviet tests and what the experts have been able to deduce from Soviet Soviet advances in development of nuclear weapons.

Jet Crash Kills 27 in Turkey

Four of Five Americans Feared Dead in Wreck of British Airliner

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI)—A British European Airways (BEA) Comet IV jetliner en route to Tel Aviv, Israel, crashed and exploded in a snowstorm seconds after take-off last night, killing 27 of the 34 persons aboard.

The dead included four and possibly five Americans. Four Americans, an Israeli diplomat and two other men survived. All except the Israeli are being treated at an Ankara hospital.

BEA here identified the American dead as Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Miller, Miss Patricia Reape, and Miss Laura Mattin. It said a Miss Veronica Goharian, who survived the crash but died shortly afterwards, also was possibly an American. There were no home addresses available.

All seven members of the crew also were killed.

Lisbon Reviews Foreign Policy

Some Predict Salazar May Be Pressed Into Leaving NATO

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—High Portuguese officials spoke today of a sharp revision in this nation's foreign policies as a result of what they termed "the shameful failure of our Allies to help us against the Indian aggression in Goa."

Some predicted Premier Antonio Salazar would—perhaps under pressure from Portugal's civilian and military leaders withdraw his country from NATO.

Growing bitterness was evident against both Britain and the United States as the Portuguese Cabinet continued its daily emergency sessions.

There were many rumors as a result of statements by officials, most of them made privately, that Salazar would have to reconsider his country's association with the Western powers.

The pro-Salazar Diario de Noticias expressed the opinion of many Portuguese in a front page editorial today which said: "It may be incomprehensible that Britain could stand in support of its treaties a member of its own commonwealth of nations. But it is even more incomprehensible that a nation belonging to that commonwealth has been permitted to attack another nation that Great Britain has promised to defend."

Gare to Outline Duties of a Civil Defense Chief

BIRMINGHAM—City Manager L. R. Gare is expected to outline the duties and powers of a city civil defense director to the City Commission next week.

The commission meeting will be held 8 p.m. Tuesday instead of Monday because of Christmas.

It will be the second time in several weeks that Gare will have made recommendations on the job that has caused controversy as a city civil defense director.

Commissioners have questioned whether the civil defense director should have authority over department heads, whether a full-time director should be hired or whether Assistant City Manager Robert S. Kerning should be named to the post, and be given an administrative assistant.

Gare's redefinition of the job is expected to provide for more direct responsibility to the city manager. At the same time, Gare is expected to recommend the hiring of

Salegirl Tells Her Troubles, Too, Mrs. Customer

By PHYLIS BATTLE

NEW YORK — Sometimes it seems, particularly during the holiday season, that the salesgirls of America are banded together in a crusade to keep the customer from buying anything.

Many of them are cut. They are "out of" the item you want. They are annoyed when you say "Charge it," irritated when you offer cash, and virtually untouchable when you write a check.

You can almost read their minds. They merely have their jobs—but they really despise you, the customer.

"All right, I agree with you," writes in a woman buyer. "Some salesgirls are insolent and indifferent and snooty."

"But I have sold every type of merchandise and managed every type of department which caters to women in the East and the Midwest, so I know what women shoppers are like and I know what sales people are like (Heaven help me!)."

"And if my sympathy must be given to one group or the other—I'll play the working girl."

"She may be indifferent. But women shoppers are frivolous, unthinking and vicious."

This is the beginning of an eye-opening letter I received some time ago after writing a column lambasting the over-treatment given me in a couple of fashionable Fifth Avenue stores. I have waited for an appropriate time to quote from it. With one desperate day of shopping left before Christmas, this seems the time:

LETTER FROM CLERK
"I invite you to examine the life of a clerk and see if there is any experience in your life to equal its irritations," writes the pen of experience.

"Did you ever show merchandise to one customer for two hours straight, listen to her personal troubles, her criticism of you and the merchandise, her description of her entire wardrobe, and then have her either walk out without buying or even thanking you, or take $50 worth of purchases and send them all back a week later?"

"Did you ever have a woman refuse to look at what ever you happen to be showing her and keep her eyes glued on another customer—demanding only what the other customer is trying on and insisting that you bring it to her?"

"Did you ever work nights aizing and sorting your merchandise so the blues and blacks and the reds and the greens, and then watch every customer walk deliberately to the size and color she doesn't want, and say, "If you only had this in navy, or in an 18?"

"Did you ever have the 'groups' come on your floor—two or more women together who play the old, old game: Try on everything in stock with a prearranged byplay whereby the others talk down anything anyone else tries on, and after an hour or two, all walk out and go to a matinee?"

WE OFTEN WEEP
You can almost read their minds. They merely have their jobs—but they really despise you, the customer.

Gets Order From Officer
WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — Gov. Terry Sanford arrived for the permanent berthing of the battleship USS North Carolina as a war memorial here wearing a Navy foul weather jacket and white sailor's hat.

"Get the blazes out of the way, the governor's coming aboard this ship," an officer ordered, before he realized to whom he was speaking.

come apart at the seams)—did you know that most of us take tranquilizing pills, have frequent attacks of such emotional illnesses as asthma, hives and all related allergies, and often just plain cry for an hour or two as we go about this immensely difficult and heart-breaking business of earning a living catering to women?"

"Did you know that salespeople are not entertainers, that our income is 90 per cent dependent on how much we sell, and that we don't get any bonus or medal of valor for the hours and hours we spend with people who are only amusing themselves at our expense?"

"Please don't print my name, Miss Battle. I have a job, as you can see, it isn't much of a job. But I need to keep it awhile longer."

The letter concludes, "I only wrote in to invite you to take a job selling for a week or two—I'd then like to see what you write about salesgirls."

I didn't have the courage to take a job selling. But this is what I have to write about salesgirls: Merry end of Christmas rush. Happier New Year. And on your floor, good will among men.

Most Americans Hope for Crisis-Free Yule

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK — If there's any one last-minute Christmas gift most Americans would like to get from Santa Claus it might well be a weekend free of crisis.

Crisis crept so fast on each other's heels in the international trouble spots and in the domestic political, business and financial worlds that many Americans are pretty resigned to them if not callous.

Still it would be nice to have this long Christmas weekend free of any new ones. The old ones are quite enough.

MARKETS WILL CLOSE
At least the stock markets will be closed for a holiday, but the business world will be working. The business world is also bracing for a battle building up around currency movements, especially those that could affect the dollar adversely.

POSTPONED CRISIS
The big Christmas spending spree is postponed until after the holidays. So much money is flowing into retail markets that there is little time now for the worry between the discount houses and the outlying shopping centers. But don't be fooled. You'll hear a lot about it again soon—maybe in the post-Christmas sales.

ALL OF THESE THINGS WILL CONTINUE
All of these things will continue or build up. What we're saying, though, is just not any new ones for this weekend at least.

ANALYST SAYS
The business world is also bracing for a battle building up around currency movements, especially those that could affect the dollar adversely.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Perhaps it is just a "rest," but the market does not "act right," complains L. O. Hooper, market analyst for W. E. Hutton & Co.

He notes that the Dow-Jones industrial has backed away from its old peak and the Breadth over a new peak, might be considerably higher than the old peak, but you can't count on that.

TEMPERS BUILDING
Congressional tempers are building up over a lot of issues. The tariff battle seems sure to break out in intensity next week or years. It is reaching into many sections of business, into every part of the land.

Nervousness over the outlook
Nervousness over the outlook of the economy is building up in the United States balance of payments, with more dollars going out than return, is definitely back in what is known as a "balance of payments" crisis.

2.4 Million to Get Wage Increases

Labor Dept. Surveys Show $300-Million Rise Already in Writing

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 2.4 million workers will receive in 1962 at least $300 million in wage increases that already have been negotiated.

Surveys made public Thursday by the Labor Department also show that contracts covering some 1.8 million workers will expire and come up for negotiations during the coming year.

The pay increases are concentrated in industries making automobiles, farm equipment and related products, electrical goods, rubber products, and in meat packing, local and long-distance trucking, the maritime industry and warehousing and trade.

Small Changes in Pivotal Issues

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market showed some signs of steadiness in a mixed list early today. Trading was fairly active. Gains and losses of fractions to about a point were the general rule for most pivotal issues.

National Steel was off a point as so on profit taking following Thursday's late start of 3 on stock split news.

Pennsylvania Railroad gained a substantial fraction following news of another profitable month, reducing its deficit.

American Telephone dropped a fraction. Motors showed very little change. Aircrafts displayed an irregular downward trend but Douglas was up about a point in further response to its $50-million contract for work on the Saturn rocket.

Christmas Brings Cheer to Lonely—Young, Old

Christmas takes many different shapes for many different people.

It comes in the shape of a new shiny automobile pulling up in front of the Children's Center for a young lad whose life was ruined when he was neglected by his parents.

This car will take him to a nice warm home, decorated with the spirit of Christmas, full of kids to play with and presents to open Monday morning.

Best of all, he'll have a Mom and Dad who care.

For the elderly confined to the Oakland County Medical Facility—formerly called the infirmary—it means the end of many hours of loneliness as carolers and organizations parade the corridors.

They hear gifts, but nothing more, more than the handshake and the wish "Have a Merry Christmas."

WANTS TO EARN WAY

For a 12-year-old boy, who relates sadly that "my parents don't want me because they're looking for someone else."

GOP Opens Up Detroit Office

'Designer' John Gibbs Won't Be Manager, Says Van Puseur

Michigan Republicans have opened their Detroit branch office, but "designer" John A. Gibbs, former executive secretary for the Oakland GOP, won't get the job as manager.

A party spokesman said Gibbs, who had been secretary for the Michigan Republican Party, was being asked to leave the party because of his "unpleasant personality."

The party spokesman said Gibbs, 39, formerly of Royal Oak, ran into trouble with some Wayne County party officials when he tried to get the party reorganized through the ranks. Creation of the Detroit office was part of the plan.

Van Puseur said opening of the office is being located in the LaFayette Building, and creation of more jobs to be located there, are part of a broad scale program to increase party effectiveness and reverse a long string of Democratic advances in state elections.

Immediate goal is the 1962 election, the state chairman said.

The Detroit office, opened Wednesday, will furnish public relations, organizational and training services in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, St. Clair, Washtenaw and Monroe counties, Van Puseur said.

"We are taking applications for a manager for the southeastern office and Lansing staff positions in the areas of public relations, research, training, and organizational management and secretarial services," Van Puseur said.

Father of Four Killed in Excavation Collapse

DETROIT (AP)—Marvin Howle, 42, of Grosse Pointe Woods, father of four, was killed Thursday when he was buried under five feet of clay in the collapse of a sewer excavation in Detroit.

Howle, a partner in a heating and plumbing firm, was helping install a connecting sewer.

Judge Has Easy Day

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—33 cases in his traffic court Thursday. It was a record for him. The reason? In all but two of the cases, policemen who issued the tickets failed to show up to prosecute.

From Survey to Permits Steps Planned for Shelter Project

As soon as a survey of Pontiac's fallout shelters is finished, David Teal, administrative assistant to the city manager, will take on the city's next assignment.

That's to find out which property owners will permit their buildings to be used for shelters.

Teal, Brinkman and 83 other city defense officials from Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties got the assignment on permits from acting director of the Michigan Office of Civil Defense, Robert S. D'Amelio, this week.

Teal said the city has enough employees and facilities to carry body to adopt me," it means three hours to roam the courthouse seeking shoes to shine.

"I want the money so when I go to a boarding house I'll have some school supplies," he explains.

Again this Christmas, parents—some with children of their own and some without—flooded the Children's Center with requests to "adopt" a young boy or girl for the Christmas and New Year holidays.

They started departing for their new homes late yesterday. They took with them the toys that the many organizations and service clubs contributed.

About 50 of the 220 wards of Juvenile Court won't be as lucky. Because of detention problems, or because they hadn't earned the privilege, they'll stay either at the Center or Youth Home.

"They'll be getting the turkey and all the trimmings though," said Bill Kopp, supervisor of the center.

REINDEER: This one is real.

Real Reindeer Will Cavort—for a Price

NEW YORK (NEA)—If this Christmas you hear the patter of reindeer hooves on your neighbor's rooftop, don't blame it on the Yuletide spirits; they are reindeer.

And, if this season goes as well as last—and all indications are it will be even better—people will be running into or away from the frisky beasts all over the cities.

It's the newest form of spreading Christmas cheer, and for only $15 a pair per day you can have reindeer on your rooftop or driving you up the front lawn to dance and awe your youngsters and their friends on Christmas morning.

Admittedly, it's a stiff price for most just to play Santa for the kiddies, but more and more well-heeled individuals are renting the cloven-hooved Christmas symbols according to those in the business, the animal rental agencies.

Most of the agency transactions are with corporations, department stores, television programs, chambers of commerce, banks and even churches for publicity and promotions. But today even ordinary families are climbing on the reindeer rental sleigh to the tune of $200,000 for one company.

As the owners of three of New York's largest agencies said:

Cardinal Dies at 89

FLORENCE, Italy (AP)—Elio Cardinal della Chiesa, 89, Roman Catholic archbishop of Florence, died today. He had been ill with influenza and his condition was aggravated by a long-term heart ailment and a circulatory disorder. He was made a member of the College of Cardinals in 1953 by Pope Pius XI.

Tunisia is about the same area as New York state.

Festivities will be climaxed in a Christmas dinner featuring roast turkey followed by plum pudding. However, festivities will not start until after two New Year's dances. One is scheduled for noon permission patients at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 7; the other is for ground permission patients at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 29.

Many From Foreign Lands

Christmas is a time of family reunions, but for some this is not possible. For young doctors serving their internship at a hospital far from their native land, what to do on Christmas can raise a question. Luckily, the majority of interns at hospitals in Pontiac have made plans for spending Christmas day with friends or relatives.

At Pontiac State Hospital, the problem is not great. There are some 25 interns there from other countries, but the majority are from the United States and have families here with them.

Pastor Backs Practice, Bishop Warns Others Speaking in Tongues Stirs Episcopal Controversy

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Speaking in tongues, a religious practice usually associated with Pentecostal sects, has cropped up in a normally sedate Episcopal church here and touched off a controversy among churchmen.

"Something tremendously important is happening here at St. Luke's," says Rev. Dennis J. Bennett, pastor of the church. "It has nothing to do with denominationalism, but it is in the mainstream of historical Biblical Christianity."

Others disagree. Methodist Bishop Everett W. Palmer has warned ministers of his church in Washington and Northern Idaho that a minister who encourages speaking in tongues does one of two things:

"He creates such division that he cannot remain in his pastorate, or he creates a church in which no minister is acceptable save one characterized by the dis-son of speaking in tongues." The practice is known to theologians as glossolalia. The worshiper speaks in what seems to be nonsense syllables. The idea is that he is addressing to God, with the aid of the Holy Spirit, thoughts he could not utter unaided.

Some churchmen note that St. Paul, in I Corinthians XIV, expresses doubts about the practice. In the church, I had rather speak five words with my understanding, than by my voice I might teach others also, than ten thousand words in an unknown tongue.

"If therefore the whole church be come into one place, and all speak with tongues, and there come in those that are unlearned, or unbelievers, will they not say that ye are mad?"

The Rev. Mr. Bennett became interested in the phenomenon in October 1959, while pastor of the 2,600-member St. Mark's Church in Van Nuys, Calif. He said his advocacy of it cost him his pastorate there.

CHURCH HAS THRIVED

There is general agreement that St. Luke's has thrived under Canon Bennett's pastoral care.

Attendance at Sunday services, which are conducted in traditional manner with no speaking in tongues, has tripled. The church, unable to pay its assessments to the diocese two years ago, will build a $30,000 parish hall next year.

About 300 come to a nondenominational prayer meeting each Friday and about 100 to a weekly Tuesday meeting which is primarily for the parish. Speaking in tongues takes place at these meetings in a private home. He said a young man with no formal church connection discussed his experiences with tongues, then turned down the lights and uttered unemotionally what appeared to Smith to be a prayer.

Smith said the only word he was able to distinguish sounded like "Kolkiki."

Afterward, the young man, lighting a cigarette, told Smith: "The first time I did it I felt like a nut, and maybe I am one."

"It's hard to hold yourself down when you feel like shouting 'Praise God,'" said Mrs. George Hagey. Mrs. Hagey is a zoology graduate of the University of Washington.

Bishop Palmer calls speaking in tongues a perversion of a divine gift.

But the Rev. Mr. Bennett says it has brought to St. Luke's "a quiet deepening of spiritual life, a deeper love of our Lord and the church."

The chairman of St. Luke's, Oliver Skane, says that since he has been speaking in tongues "my heart sings during the services."

Area Man on Team Winning U.S. Contest

NEW YORK (AP)—A team from New York University School of Law, including R. Wayne Cain of Ferndale, Mich., won the national moot court competition Thursday.

Teams from more than 100 law schools participated. Associate Justice John M. Harlan of the Supreme Court of the United States presided.

Third Man Held in Embezzlement

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A third man was arrested by FBI agents today in connection with a bank embezzlement already reckoned at $374,371, with an audit still going on.

The actual theft from the Baltimore Avenue branch of the First Pennsylvania Banking and Trust Co. is charged to Joseph W. Barnes, 25-year-old former high school athlete. He was held earlier at the branch.

Bank Teller Charged With Theft $374,371 Missing at Last Count

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A third man was arrested by FBI agents today in connection with a bank embezzlement already reckoned at $374,371, with an audit still going on.

The actual theft from the Baltimore Avenue branch of the First Pennsylvania Banking and Trust Co. is charged to Joseph W. Barnes, 25-year-old former high school athlete. He was held earlier at the branch.

Admitted Thefts

The FBI said Barnes admitted taking the cash over the past 10 months, and spending most of it gambling on horse races and athletic events.

Last night the FBI arrested a tavern owner, who allegedly got about $15,000 from Barnes to cover gambling bets.

This morning, another tavern operator was seized. The FBI said Barnes apparently gave him "various sums of the bank's money to purchase stock for investment purposes."

John R. Daly, 36, operator of a bar several blocks from the branch bank, was charged with aiding and abetting Barnes in the embezzlement. A similar charge was lodged last night against Robert McDevitt, 30, the other tavern operator.

Under terms of the State Constitution, no county in Arkansas can be reduced to an area of less than 60 square miles.
