New Site for Yule Tree

Pontiac has a new location for its Christmas tree this year, and a new source of supply.

The tree comes from within the city, and it was placed at the old courthouse site at Saginaw and Huron Streets yesterday. In previous years the tree had been at Oakland and Saginaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester C. Grammer, 69 W. New York, contributed the 40-foot spruce.

TO THROW SWITCH

Cheryl Hamm, 7, of 1654 River Bend, White Lake Township, will throw the switch in a 7 p.m. Friday lighting ceremony. As a ward of the juvenile court, she was selected to help point out the need for Christmas gifts for similar children.

Youth Freed During Probe in Gun Death

Sixteen-year-old Daniel F. Gosley of 9905 M15, Independence Township, was released by county juvenile authorities yesterday to the custody of his mother, Mrs. Jesse Lyons.

Gosley was being held in connection with the Tuesday night gunshot slaying of his stepfather, Jesse Lyons, 43.

Gosley was released pending further investigation of the shooting, according to juvenile authorities.

Sheriff's deputies said further tests will be made by the state crime lab on the 7mm Mauser rifle which fired the fatal shot in the killing.

Lyons was killed about 9:15 p.m. during an argument with his stepson in the family home at 9905 M15.

UNLOADED RIFLE

Deputies said Lyons lunged at Gosley with an unloaded 22-caliber rifle, striking the boy in the shoulder with the butt of the weapon.

Gosley was holding the Mauser rifle at the time and the weapon discharged, killing the ex-convict Lyons almost instantly.

Gosley told deputies he did not know the weapon was loaded and had gotten it out of the bedroom to run his stepfather out of the house.

Partisan Clash, Name-Calling in Baker Probe

Dem Lawyer Says
GOP Senator Told
Untruth at Hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate hearings into the Bobby Baker case renewed today with an angry partisan clash when the Democratic counsel accused GOP Sen. John Williams of telling "an unalterable untruth."

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., heatedly complained the remarks by counsel Lennox P. McLendon were an "impertinence" such as "I've never witnessed before in my years in Congress."

But Democratic Sen. Clairborne Pell, R-L., defended McLendon against Curtis.

"The man has a right to speak," Pell said. Then he added, "because he (Williams) is a senator, he's not a God."

The clash came as the committee resumed its investigation into charges that former Sen. Baker acted as middle man in a scheme to funnel $25,000 from a government stadium contract into the 1960 Democratic campaign and to various individuals.

Insurance man Don B. Reynolds testified Tuesday that he was the "bagman" in the alleged deal in which builder Matthew H. McCloskey overpaid for insurance coverage on the contract, and most of the excess went to the 1960 Democratic campaign fund and to several individuals.

PRIME MOVER

Sen. Williams of Delaware was a prime mover in the Baker investigation and has been sitting in on the hearings.

He triggered today's outburst when he said he had suggested to McLendon that the staff look into other McCloskey contracts, including construction of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) headquarters in suburban Virginia.

McLendon promptly denied that Williams had made any such suggestions to him or the committee staff. "That is absolutely and unalterably untrue. I deny that," the 74-year-old counsel declared.

Asked to Probe Ionina Hospital

LANSING (AP)—A legislative committee on mental health today was asked by the speaker of the House of Representatives to investigate a recent suicide and venereal disease incidence at the Ionina State Hospital.

Rep. Allison Green, R-Kingsford, asked Rep. David Upton, R-S.I., chairman of the House Mental Health Committee, to reconvene his group to conduct the probe.

The investigation was asked in a letter to Green from Rep. Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit, a leading candidate to succeed Green as speaker when Democrats take over the House majority in the 1965 legislative session.

Kowalski declared in his letter to Green that "something must be radically wrong" at the hospital in view of a recent suicide there and what Kowalski termed a report of more than 100 cases of venereal disease.

Green suggested to Upton that the probe meet first with Dr. Robert Kimnick, director of the State Mental Health Department, and then decide what further action is needed.

Mother Nature Tunes Up for White Christmas

Mother Nature began preparing for Christmas yesterday with a blanket of snow measuring three inches in Pontiac. More is on the way.

The weatherman forecasts intermittent, light snow—the remainder of the day.

Light snow also is expected tomorrow, with snow flurries predicted for tomorrow night.

The mercury will hit a low of 15 to 22 tonight and stay in the 20s tomorrow.

Saturday's weather picture is snow flurries and cold.

The low temperature reading this morning was 23. At 2 p.m. 33 was recorded in downtown Pontiac.

Brezhnev Repeats Stands on Congo Action, Viet Aid

MOSCOW (AP)—Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist party chief, denounced today the Western paratroop landing in the Congo and also said the Soviet Union is ready to help North Viet Nam.

But, in reiterating stands already taken by the Kremlin, Brezhnev withheld any specific pledge of direct Soviet intervention in either area.

He called the paratroop landing in the Congo a "surprising example of imperialist piracy" and said Western aims there are doomed to failure.

On Viet Nam, he repeated the words of an "authorized statement" made a week ago by the official Soviet news agency Tass:

"The Soviet Union cannot remain indifferent to the fate of a sister Socialist country and is prepared to render the necessary assistance to her." There was no elaboration by either Tass or Brezhnev.

Brezhnev spoke at a Soviet-Czechoslovak friendship meeting honoring visiting Czech President Antonin Novotny.

'BEWARE'

"Let the imperialists beware of playing with fire," he said. Brezhnev stressed that "the unity of the Socialist camp is strongest against imperialism in the cause of peace and for the benefit of all mankind."

Brezhnev again denounced the proposed NATO multilateral nuclear force as "a dangerous game" to give West Germany access to nuclear weapons. Here he made his only mention of Red China, saying: "Recently the Chinese have joined this view."

Apparently he was referring to Peking's proposal for a world disarmament meeting, made after Red China exploded its first atom bomb.

For the Communist camp, he went on, "our most important aim is to achieve a complete ban on nuclear weapons."

On the Congo, Brezhnev said, "Lately the world learned of a new aggressive act by the colonizers."

He said Belgian paratroopers were transported to the Congo in U.S. planes with full approval of other NATO countries in "a surprising example of imperialist piracy."

Brezhnev dismissed as "a hypocritical pretext" the Western view that the landing was forced by threats on the lives of hostages by Congolese rebels.

Like all Soviet statements on the Congo operation, Brezhnev's remarks made no mention of murdered American and European hostages.

He said the rebels, who have

Carter Trial Starts in Flint

The fraud conspiracy trial of former Pontiac and Flint City Manager Robert A. Carter and Flint businessman Samuel Catsman opened yesterday in Genesee County with the selection of 14 jurors.

An unusual trial setup—one man's fate in the judge's hands alone, the other's with a jury—marks the case involving Flint's 1962 land purchase for a Lake Huron water pipeline.

Catsman waived a jury trial. Circuit Judge Edward Kane of St. Clair County, accepting the waiver, will hear the case against Catsman simultaneously with the proceedings before the jury against Carter.

Carter, appointed Pontiac city manager by a City Commission led by Mayor Robert A. Landry in November 1963, resigned last February after being indicted in Flint.

Conspiracy charges against Carter and Catsman grew out of Flint's purchase of a parcel of land for $75,000.

The land allegedly had a value of $42,000.

The case against Carter and Catsman was brought last January as the result of a one-man grand jury inquiry.

Carter was Flint city manager at the time of the land purchase.

Special School Plan Grows

By L. GARY THORNE
A decade ago, a plan for education tailored to the needs of handicapped children prompted educators and legislators to launch a pioneering program in Oakland County.

They called it special education.

Today, as officials mark the program's 10th anniversary, special education teaches more than 14,000 blind, deaf, mentally and physically handicapped youngsters.

Unique enabling legislation, regarded as the first in the nation, paved the way for special education here. Public Act 18 was tailored to Oakland County.

The legislation, eventually amended to permit the state's 82 other counties to follow the same path, originated from parent protests over the lack of training facilities for the handicapped.

FEW DISTRICTS

Prior to 1954, few local school districts offered special classes for the physically and mentally handicapped.

For example, only two state institutions—one for the blind and one for the deaf—were available. Both state schools had long waiting lists.

In addition, sending a child to a state school meant in most instances that a five- or six-year-old was forced to leave home and become a resident student because of traveling distances.

The only other alternative was costly private institutions, which often also had waiting lists.

PARENTAL PROTESTS
Parental protests reached county educators who responded by pushing the enabling legislation. The Oakland County Superintendents Association furnished a countywide survey of needs.

Voters cooperated by soundly favoring a half-mill tax levy to support the proposed special education.

The first classes were begun in the fall of 1954. Fifty-six teachers were employed to start programs in seven categories.

The categories were the mentally handicapped, the homebound, orthopedic, speech correction, visiting teacher, blind and partially sighted, and the deaf and hard of hearing.

FIRST TIME

Directed by the intermediate county school district, special education classes in local school districts for the first time were providing facilities "for children who deviated from the normal to such an extent that they required special attention."

County educators, however, serving 1,782 children that

'Must Solve N-Arms Issue'

LBJ Says U.S. Wants to Talk, Not Dictate

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson said today the Western alliance must solve the problem of how to handle nuclear weapons but the United States wishes to talk, not to dictate, on this vital point.

From a forum at Georgetown University, Johnson directed a broad appeal for harmony and unity to Western Europe and the members of the NATO alliance at a time when France in particular, and Britain to a lesser extent, are questioning the advisability of an American proposal for a joint nuclear-armed fleet.

The President's address was prepared for delivery at a convocation closing the observance of the Roman Catholic school's 175th anniversary.

Johnson took the place of the late President John F. Kennedy, who was to have delivered the principal address.

The Bergens' other child, Kathy, 3, was in critical condition.

The scene of the slayings is a two-story brick home in a middle class residential area.

Neighbors said they knew little about the Bergens, that they had moved there only about three months ago.

The multiple murder was the second mass family slaying in the Detroit area in a little over two months.

On Sept. 28, Mrs. Betty Gravin, 40, and her six children, were slain with an ax, hammer and shotgun, in their suburban Troy home.

Pontiac Sets Sales Record

Showing complete recovery from the recent strike against General Motors, Pontiac Motor Division today announced that its dealers had set a new sales mark of 21,899 Pontiacs and Tempests in Nov. 21-30 sales period.

This, according to the General Manager E. M. Estes tops last year's record of 19,436 cars.

Estes also said Pontiac's 11-month sales total was $18,224, an all-time record. The previous 11-month high was $60,466, set a year ago.

"Consumer confidence in our products has been outstanding, and dealers from coast to coast report that most customers have been patiently waiting for their cars," Estes said.

"To get their orders filled, we are producing at a record pace."

He added that despite limited availability in the early days of November, sales in the month still totaled 51,711.

Four Children Among Victims on East Side

5th Child Is Critical; Murder and Suicide Suspected by Police

DETROIT (AP)—Police said a father apparently shot to death his wife, three of his four children and a teen-age girl, then himself today.

Detectives said they found the bodies of the six in James Bergen's home on Detroit's East Side at about noon today. Another child was wounded critically.

Bergen, 28, called relatives to tell them he had killed "my wife and children," police said.

They found Bergen dead of a gunshot wound in the head, slumped on his living room floor near a telephone.

There were conflicting reports as to the number of dead in the slaying case. However, as of 1:25 p.m., Receiving Hospital said the wounded child was still alive.

The officers identified the dead as:

Bergen's wife, Joyce, 23; a daughter, Linda, 18 months, and Robert, 6 months. Also killed was Mrs. Bergen's child by a previous marriage, Roger, 6 (no last name available).

Upstairs the teenager, about 17, was found shot in the head.

Police said the weapon was a .22-caliber rifle.

New Envoy Warns of Flow

Tells of Infiltration in Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Viet Nam sent 30,000 to 40,000 infiltrators into South Viet Nam during the past three years and the flow continues at a stepped-up pace, Ambassador Tran Thien Khien said today.

The newly arrived South Vietnamese envoy said in an exclusive interview that the Ho Chi Minh Trail, passing from North Viet Nam through Laos, serves as the main road of infiltration.

Khien, bespectacled 39-year-old soldier trained by the French and Americans, is a lieutenant general who has served as commander-in-chief of the South Vietnamese armed forces and as his country's minister of defense.

He was one of the triumvirate along with Gen. Nguyen Khanh and Gen. Duong Van Minh which ruled South Viet Nam last summer before the formation of the present civilian government.

How to stop the infiltration has been a perpetual worry of the Vietnamese general staff, Khien said in the interview.

STILL THINKING
He added: "We have been thinking about this for a long time and we are still thinking.

"If we are not able to stop the infiltration completely, at least it must be slowed down."

"We have special forces on the borders with Laos but there are not enough troops for this. Our biggest difficulty is the mountainous terrain which is hard to control."

Asked if stopping the infiltration would be decisive in turning the tide of battle in South Viet Nam, Khien replied: "We do think that if we can succeed in stopping the infiltration it will have a very large impact."

PROBLEM EYED
The problem of infiltration was touched upon in a White House statement Tuesday which followed a White House meeting between President Johnson and U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor.

It said there was "accumulating evidence of continuing and increased North Vietnamese support of the Viet Cong and of North Vietnamese forces in, and passing through, the territory of Laos in violation of the Geneva accords of 1962."

The State Department said yesterday that the evidence of North Vietnamese support and infiltration into South Viet Nam is "extensive and complex" but no figures were given.

MILITARY CADRES
Khien said that 60 per cent of the infiltrators have been military cadres and 40 per cent are civilians who are trained at organizing Communist cells at the village and provincial levels.

"According to captured documents and word from prisoners of war, the infiltration increased over a three year period of 1961-1963," Khien said.

Communist backing, were gaining strength "for decisive victories."

"The Congolese patriots continue their struggle against the invaders for freedom and independence," he said. "The (Western) adventure in the Congo will be a complete failure."

Brezhnev, Nikita Khrushchev's successor as first secretary of the party, also repeated the familiar Soviet position on Cuba.

"Economic blockade, provocations, violations of the sovereignty of Cuba seriously poison not only the atmosphere of the Caribbean area but also the international climate as a whole," he said.

Heart Ailment
Takes Life of Noted Banker

DETROIT (AP) — Banker Joseph M. Dodge, adviser to presidents and the man credited with putting postwar Japan on a firm financial footing, is dead at 74.

Dodge, chairman of the Detroit Bank & Trust Co. until his semiretirement last January, died yesterday in Harper Hospital of a heart condition. He suffered a heart attack last September.

Death came to Dodge four days before he was to have been honored at the dedication of his bank's new multi-million-dollar downtown Detroit headquarters building.

He was president and later chairman over a period of 31 years.

Dodge, who came to banking success from a clerk's job in an insurance company, spent years in the service of his country while also looking after Detroit Bank & Trust, one of the nation's 25 largest banks. The institution has assets of more than $1.2 billion.

DETROIT NATIVE
A Detroit native, Dodge became one of the nation's top men in banking with only a high school education.

He probably was best known for the economic restoration job he did for Japan after World War II.

This was one of his assignments under three presidents.

first year, encountered several early problems.

First, in order to show results to voters who had passed the half-mile tax, programs were set up to cover the county geographically.

Secondly, special education was new in public schools. Hence, state colleges and universities were not turning out the personnel to staff the new programs.

OUT STATE
It was necessary, according to school officials, to go outside the state to find qualified personnel.

The availability of teachers is still a problem. The need is always greater than the supply.

Deputy Supt. Kenneth W. Brown points out that for this year (1964-65) county programs need a total of 37 specialists that are not available.

The biggest need is for visiting teachers. Thirteen are needed that can not be found. Another big area where staff people are lacking is in speech correction.

BIGGEST PROGRAM
This latter program is the biggest in special education. Some 9,000 youngsters are served by 90 correctionists. Nine more are needed.

Beginning a decade ago with 56 people, the county-centered program now employs 385 people in a total of 11 categories or programs.

Four entirely new services have been added since 1954. Two of the programs—adjusted study and perceptual development—were not even conceived in 1954.

School officials say that they have resulted from observations made by trained specialists. The adjusted study program was instigated in 1959, while the perceptual development program is the newest of the county classes, starting in 1961.

DOUBTFUL FUTURE
Although rightfully proud of its pathfinding role, county educators see a doubtful future for special education. Some difficult questions concerning financing lay ahead.

Flies Back to Spain

SEVILLA, Spain (AP) — Juan D. Peron resumed his exile in Spain today after a brief and unsuccessful attempt to reestablish himself in South America for return to Argentina, the nation that cast off his dictatorship in 1955.

Brazil blocked Peron's plan and shipped him back on the same Iberia DCB jet airliner that carried him from Madrid to Rio de Janeiro yesterday.

The reaction of the Spanish government was uncertain. Peron's back to - Argentina campaign could be interpreted as a violation of one of the terms of his asylum, a pledge to avoid political activity.

But officials in Madrid said they understood he would be allowed to remain temporarily, "until a definite decision is reached."

Whatever the outcome, Spanish authorities seemed to be shielding Peron from public attention.

PLANE DIVERTED
The airliner that carried Peron back across the Atlantic, scheduled for Madrid, was diverted en route to Sevilla, 250 miles southwest of the capital.

Ivan Adopts Wait-and-See Attitude on Leaders

By FRED COLEMAN

MOSCOW (AP) — A story making the rounds in Warsaw, Poland, and brought back to Moscow by a diplomat puts it this way:

The day after Nikita Khrushchev was toppled from power, an earthquake shook Japan. The quake was caused by 700 million Chinese jumping up and down for joy.

If Russians are joking about Khrushchev's removal, few such stories reach Western ears.

Ivan Ivanovich, the Soviet man in the street, is still waiting to see how the shift at the top will affect him.

Khrushchev's familiar name and face are gone from Ivan's papers, magazines, radio, television and bookstore shelves. Otherwise his daily life is unchanged.

MORE GOODS

His new leaders promise more consumer goods. So did Khrushchev. Ivan has to wait and see.

Programs to spur production of more and better consumer goods were approved. Other changes were announced to increase food production. It will be 1965 at least before they show results.

This week there still was no flour for the Moscow housewife to buy at her market.

Russians, like all other people, had a variety of opinions on the change. Some expressed complete approval. Others seemed disturbed by the way it was handled.

EMBARRASSMENT

Even some dedicated Communists showed embarrassment when asked to justify the removal of Khrushchev in terms of Marxist philosophy.

Perhaps the change most noticeable to Westerners came at diplomatic receptions long dominated by Khrushchev's bubbling personality. Now collective leadership is stressed.

Leonid I. Brezhnev, successor to Khrushchev as Communist party first secretary, displays a preference for working out of the limelight and for speaking publicly in calm, serious terms.

At times, however, Brezhnev shows he enjoys being No. 1. He attracted attention at one reception by tapping on a microphone.

IMPRESSED

A small sampling of Russian opinion indicates Muscovites have been impressed by the new leadership.

Some will argue with Westerners about the change. Some have clever answers.

Cannon Keeps Nevada Lead

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Nevada's U.S. Senate race was apparently over today, with Democratic Sen. Howard W. Cannon the winner by 84 votes in a recount.

Republican challenger Paul Laxalt, Nevada lieutenant governor, said he would decide today whether to fire one last shot — a challenge of the outcome in the Nevada Supreme Court.

The recount, started in some counties Saturday, ended Wednesday.

The complete unofficial total was Cannon 66,907 and Laxalt 66,823. Laxalt asked the recount Nov. 25 after the Nevada Supreme Court certified Cannon the winner by 48 votes, 67,336 to 67,288.

On Israel-Syrian Border

Source of Dan Is Trouble Spot

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst
Just north of the Sea of Galilee, springs bubble up to form the headwaters of the River Dan which in turn supplies more than half the volume of the Jordan River. The Jordan then dumps into the Sea of Galilee.

It is less than coincidence that twice in less than three weeks Israel and Syrian forces have clashed near these springs which are vital to Israel's ambitious plans to bring fresh water to the arid Negev and open up new areas for her expanding population.

Ostensibly the clashes involved a patrol road along a poorly defined stretch of Israeli-Syrian border. Israel claims the river is wholly within its territory.

The Syrians charge it cuts as deep as 50 yards into Syrian territory.

In the first clash, on Nov. 13, four Israeli and seven Syrians were killed.

It was the worst of its kind since 1956. Syrian mortar shells fell on three Israeli villages. Israeli jet fighters hit two Syrian villages.

The Syrians charged that the Israelis deliberately provoked the attack to test the effectiveness of the new United Arab Command, a joint military program adopted by the Arab nations last January, and then used it as a further excuse for "aerial aggression."

DENY ADVANTAGE

The Israelis replied that they would never permit the Syrians to use their advantage of higher ground to shell Israeli villages with impunity.

The second clash came on Dec. 1 in the same area but halted without intervention by the United Nations Truce Organization and apparently without casualties on either side.

Whether by chance or not, the later action came just one day after the United Nations, with organizational troubles of its own, agreed to postpone further discussion of the Nov. 13 clash.

If it simply were a border clash, the easy solution would be the proposal put forward by Lt. Gen. Odd Bull, U.N. Truce commander, that the disputed area be surveyed by outside experts whose findings would be open to partisan challenge.

NOT SIMPLE

It is not, however, that simple.

The avowed purpose of the United Arab Command is first the prevention of Israel's use of Galilee's waters and second the extinction of Israel itself.

Syria has been in the forefront in demanding military action against Israel and has attempted to bring pressure on other Arab nations for stronger support of her position.

The Arabs have been threatening to cut off the headwaters of the Jordan, and plans already are in the works to divert two of the Jordan's three sources.

TWO SOURCES

One of these, the Hasbani, rises in Lebanon and the other, the Banias, in Syria.

The third and most important is the Dan, whose headwaters the Israelis wish to establish clear ownership.

Historically, the Israelis are supported by a 1923 agreement which placed them inside Palestine.

One report says that the Syrians have taken experimental borings which might tap the source of the Dan's underground springs, drawing off the water in that manner.

At any rate, if another war is to break out between the Israelis and the Arab states, Tel Dan (The Mound) is a likely spot.

Algonac Teen Dies,
5 Injured in Crash

MARYSVILLE (AP) — Alaura Jean Lange, 18, of Algonac was killed and five other teenagers injured Wednesday when their car skidded off a road and into a ditch near Marysville. The others were passengers in the car driven by Alaura, police said, and were hospitalized at Port Huron.

Rumors on Hoffa Are Discounted

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — Amid rumors from the United States of a move to oust Teamster President James R. Hoffa, the union's executive board is meeting in Acapulco with Hoffa presiding.

Union sources in this resort city and in Mexico City denied that Hoffa's ouster was the purpose of the conference. They also said there was no significance to the meeting being held for the first time in Mexico. It usually takes place in Florida or California.

The Teamsters lawyers annual conference also is being held in Acapulco but separately. It is expected to report to the executive board before the board leaves Mexico.

Union officials said the board meeting would last three or four days and would discuss Teamsters' problems and legal technicalities.

Sources in Mexico City said the board has authority to oust Hoffa but it was considered doubtful such action would be taken because of his popularity with the rank and file.

Hoffa has aroused some discontent in his labor empire since his conviction on charges of federal jury tampering and fraud, and for the use of an estimated $1 million in union money to pay his legal fees.

Lion-Hearted Winston Reflects British Lion

A figure destined for history's Hall of Fame has celebrated his 90th birthday.

Since it is not given mortal man to peer into the realm of the suppositious, it is idle to speculate on the complexion of the contemporary world had it not been graced by the presence of Sir WINSTON CHURCHILL.

CHURCHILL

Cast by fate for a leading role on the stage of national and world events, the doughty Briton as prime minister stood as the man of destiny in World War II. His strength of character and indomitable fighting spirit kept British resistance alive against the devastating incursions of Adolf Hitler and his Nazi minions until the might of America turned the tide of war.

"Like most forceful, illustrious personalities, CHURCHILL's was as multifaceted as were his talents. Biting criticism as well as idolatry were his lot as his political and government career paced the social and economic fortunes of the United Kingdom."

But in one way or another, there are few living today who have not felt the impact of one of the century's pre-eminent personages.

On the observance of his ninth decade of life we render Winnie a salute of deep admiration and respect.

Losses Chill Nation in 'Cold' War Clutch

The enemy is once again at our gates.

He annually costs the Nation $5 billion in lost wages, lost production and medical expenses. He is responsible for over 150 million man days lost from our work force every year. He laughs at the futile efforts of our best scientific brains to defeat him as he inflicts suffering on more than 20 million people on any given winter day.

Old King Cold is back, warns the American Medical Association, adding the somewhat distressing information that the number of viruses producing the symptoms we lump under the term "cold" possibly number as many as 100.

This is why current cold vaccines, effective against only a few viruses, are of little value. In fact, there is no treatment, drug or regimen that cures "colds." We can treat only for the relief of symptoms and the prevention of complications.

Since we can't lick it—at least not yet—about all we can do is make capitulation to the season's menace as pleasant as possible. And if it does catch (ker-choo) you, cheer up.

You'll hab pleddy of compaddy.

'Wide Track' Opening Opens Progress' Door

Pontiac's Wide Track Drive is completed and open for business.

Recent dedicatory ceremonies of the four-lane, two and one-half mile loop that skirts the city's downtown business section climaxed a seven-year project.

Envisioned as a complementing factor in the local urban renewal program, the strategic roadway is the first of its kind to be completed in the state and perhaps in the Nation.

The facility, constructed at a cost of $2.5 million of which Pontiac paid $755,000, is a major step in relief of traffic congestion in the central business area. It is this inconvenience, common to all municipalities, that has contributed to the trend toward development of outlying commercial facilities.

Yet to be translated from blueprints to reality is an inner loop that will complete Pontiac's modern pattern of traffic flow.

A three-lane, one-way thoroughfare, running counter to Wide Track, will see Wayne Street extended from Lawrence to Pike, to junction with Oakland and linked to a new Oakland-to-Perry strip.

We congratulate local officials and the State Highway Department on the fulfillment of the forward-looking arterial design that promises so much for the revitalization of Pontiac's downtown area.

WASHINGTON — The fog never lifted. As the American-backed war against Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam steadily deteriorated, there was a dense fog over this country's plans, if any, for saving the chaotic situation.

Then the U.S. ambassador to Saigon, Maxwell D. Taylor, came home to talk to President Johnson. After they met Tuesday the White House issued a statement which indicated neither a solution nor a new idea.

This doesn't mean the "we men didn't reach a decision on how to save Viet Nam and perhaps all Southeast Asia from communism. But they were very careful in the vaguely worded statement not to say so.

The White House statement said: "The President reaffirmed the basic U.S. policy of providing all possible and useful assistance to the South Vietnamese people and government in their struggle to defeat the externally backed insurgency and aggression being conducted against them."

"It was noted that this policy accords with the terms of the joint congressional resolution of Aug. 10, 1964, which remains in full force and effect."

LBJ ORDERED RETALIATION

When North Vietnamese PT boats attacked two U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin last August, Johnson promptly ordered American planes to retaliate by bombing North Vietnamese coastal bases, patrol boats and oil installations. That was Aug. 4.

This attack spread over five hours and 100 miles of coast. The next day Johnson asked Congress to give him advance approval for any steps he thought necessary in the Southeast Asia predicament. Congress obliged.

If approved a resolution authorizing Johnson to "take all necessary steps, including use of the armed forces," to assist South Viet Nam or any other country under the protection of the Southeast Asia collective defense treaty which asked for help in defense of its freedom.

Although Johnson said "The United States intends no rashness and seeks no wider war," this resolution was a green light. The fact that he referred to it Tuesday could mean he now intends far more drastic action than anything this country has attempted yet.

WIDENING OF THE WAR

But, if so, it almost certainly means widening the war, which is what Johnson said in August he didn't intend to do. There was no hint of this in Tuesday's statement but then, of course, it might be poor strategy to telegraph a punch to the Communists ahead of time.

Johnson's hesitancy about broadening the war is understandable, although hesitancy may lose it. If, for instance, North Viet Nam were bombed, Red China might come to its aid, thus turning a small war into an American-Chinese war.

David Lawrence Says:

U.S. Not Getting Its Story Across

WASHINGTON — Significant opportunities to sway the opinion of peoples everywhere in the world in support of the policies of the United States are today being neglected. Yet public opinion is the greatest single force that can strengthen the position of the United States abroad and help to prevent a third world war.

LAWRENCE

Not only is the government here failing to reach the peoples behind the Iron Curtain, but it is not placing its story squarely before the peoples in the so-called free and "nonaligned" countries.

No better example of the sins of omission on the part of our own government is to be found than in handling the story of the rescue mission in the Congo in recent days.

Here was a humanitarian project. Human lives were at stake. Innocent and helpless persons were being threatened with massacre. The United States merely furnished transport planes so that Belgian paratroopers could move in quickly to save men, women and children. The expedition had the highest purpose.

But the Russian and Chinese propaganda apparatus got busy at once to declare the whole thing to be "military intervention" and an "act of aggression."

VIRTUAL SILENCE

The United States stood by in virtual silence while the propaganda bombardment went on for several days.

Many of the new nations in Africa took the wrong attitude toward the rescue mission because they were being subjected to misrepresentations furnished by Communist sources.

The question will be asked: What would the United States have done?

For one thing, the President could have stressed the humanitarian nature of the mission and could have denounced in public and in unequivocal phrases the attempt of the Soviets and the Chinese to distort the true purposes of the expedition.

SOMEWHAT DEFENSIVE

The President had a press conference last Saturday at his ranch in Texas — the first since mid-October — but he made only a brief and somewhat defensive reference to the Congo situation.

He had an opportunity to deal comprehensively with the Soviet charges of military aggression. He could have readily obtained time on all the radio and television networks that same evening for an address that could have been repeated by the "Voice of America" throughout the world.

A signal opportunity was missed to gain a worldwide audience for the American point of view.

President Johnson is struggling with many problems but, until he solves this one, he is not likely to make the headway and progress in foreign affairs that his administration could otherwise achieve.

In Washington:

Taylor Could Warm Up Relations

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — One of the unhappy aspects of the war in South Viet Nam is the personal tragedy of our ambassador, Gen. Maxwell Taylor.

A few days back I was talking with a friend of Taylor's just in from Saigon. "He tries so hard," says this friend. "He works so hard. He is highly intelligent. But he can't unbend."

He stands there stiffly and awkwardly before people and asks them to be frank with him and tell him what they think and what's going on.

"But they can't. He seems so formal and distant and mathematical that neither the Americans nor the Vietnamese can relax around him."

"So the Vietnamese don't confide in him and tell him the cold facts on what's happening and what they're really thinking."

As a result, Taylor can't get to grips with the real problems and often ends up shadowboxing.

If we're to make a success of being advisers to the Vietnamese, we must get close to them. As one eager Viet officer put it to me: "We've got to

Readers Agree Teaching Should Remain Unbiased

A biased teacher loses the respect his position demands—no matter what his opinions are. He should stick to the facts and leave the interpretation of these facts to the student.

A CONCERNED PARENT

I admit teachers have it rough when they have to keep their own convictions out of the classroom, but we don't pay them to teach their own philosophies. If they do, they should be removed.

A SYMPATHIZER

As a teacher I feel that biased teaching is wrong, but perhaps some teachers give their own opinions merely to provoke the minds of their students.

Three Cheers for Camp Demonstrations

Waterford Township has a right to be proud of its police and fire departments.

For the past six weeks children from some of the sixth grades in Waterford Township schools have been at an outdoor education camp near Chelsea. One night every week Fire Chief Bud Goff and one of his men drove out to camp and gave a demonstration and talk about fire safety. Each week Sergeant Dave Putnam and Detective Dick Rosner went out on their day off and gave interesting demonstrations about firearm safety.

All of these men gave their own time in the interest of the students. Three cheers for both departments!

'Men Should Heed Automation Problem'

Now, when an ad says cow morale is at an all-time low due to worry about what's to become of them because of a coffee product that never needs cream or sugar, seems a good time for humans to heed the automation problem.

As a proposed solution, schooling per se is no job creator — producing only better educated unemployables, says Maynard Hutchins. Freedom loving citizens should first concern themselves with answering Justice Douglas's question "Who is to own the buttons in an automated world?"

Thus citizens may avoid the otherwise inevitable, miserable existence on doles a la Roman antiquity wherein slavery pre-empted that empire's system of free labor.

OLD SOCIALIST COW HAND

Says Voters Realize Mistake in Johnson

All of a sudden you realize the mistake of voting for LBJ. You knew he was a poor candidate. Maybe Goldwater was also a poor candidate but he left you thinking and with more knowledge of what's happening around the world. That's more than LBJ did. He just said "Poor Mr. Kennedy, may he rest in peace."

You turned away from Mr. Goldwater because he humiliated you and proved that you knew nothing of our nation's problem. You were too embarrassed to face up to your lowliness. No wonder LBJ won. Use thy brain. It's not there for laughs!

'Freedom-Loving People Should Unite'

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell Taylor believes the war in Viet Nam is very much in doubt. The Goldwater Republicans knew it was in doubt before the election.

The conservative Republicans also know that the Communists are taking over the world. They might not call themselves Communists but what is in a name if it ends up the same.

I believe that all freedom-loving people should unite and work to elect as many anti-Communists as we can, even if we have to cross party lines to do so.

know each other's thoughts, even without saying them."

Otherwise, this very difficult kind of two-country operation doesn't work.

In Saigon a short time back I had a two-hour personal talk with the then foreign minister of South Viet Nam. He said his greatest need was for close personal American friends, men he could sit down with informally, not officially, let down his hair and get the feel of how "you" approach problems.

People can't effectively work together in the close way we must work, he said, if they stay at arm's length with formal meetings.

Otherwise, it's Americans ordering Vietnamese. And the Vietnamese aren't interested in that, no matter how much they need American help.

So what happens is that Americans work out how the war should be fought by our concepts. Vietnamese, convinced the Americans don't understand their problems, go their own way.

This is a pity, because Vietnamese are the kind of people that Americans personally get along well with. To an amazing degree, individual Ameri-

Security Clearance Revoked Illegally

Wins 11-Year Legal Battle With Federal Government

By TOM STUCKEY

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—It's not often that one man challenges the vast power of the federal government. It is a rare occasion, indeed, when he wins.

William L. Greene of Annapolis did it. But it took him 11 years of legal battling, including two trips to the U.S. Supreme Court, to prove that he was illegally deprived of his job and to collect $48,900 as repayment for lost income.

The fight began in 1953 when the Navy revoked his security clearance, forcing him from his $18,000-a-year job as vice president of the Engineering & Research Corp. of Riverdale, Md. It ended this year when lawyers for Greene and the federal government agreed by stipulation on the $48,900 settlement.

WITHOUT RANCOR

Greene, 48, recalls the long battle without rancor. He is a stocky, witty man with graying hair. He speaks softly.

Greene, now the president of a concrete products firm, estimates the fight cost him thousands of dollars beyond the money he received in the settlement.

He relates that his first attempts to get his clearance restored and find out exactly why it had been revoked ran into a frustrating wall of official naval silence. "It was like punching feathers," he says.

With the help of his employers and a friendly congressman, he pressed for a hearing for six months before the Navy finally agreed. Another six months elapsed before the hearing began and before the charges were disclosed.

WIFE WAS LEFTIST

A substantial part of the charges was that Greene's first wife, from whom he had been divorced more than six years earlier in 1947, was an "ardent Communist" and that he had shared or been influenced by her beliefs and her friends.

"I don't know if she really was a Communist," says Greene who since has remarried. "She certainly had leftist beliefs."

At the hearing, he was allowed to bring witnesses and introduce evidence. He countered

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS SPECIAL REPORT

the charges with the contention that he had disagreed with his first wife's views and that the disagreement had been so complete that it had led to their divorce. He produced testimony by his friends and employers and a note from his ex-wife to support his argument.

No witnesses were produced against him, however, and he says he had no chance to refute specifically the information given by anonymous informants.

One month after the three-day hearing, the special board which had listened to the evidence ruled against him.

At this point, Greene, working as a draftsman in Annapolis for $5,000 a year, decided to appeal the ruling.

The first two rounds came off in U.S. District Court and the Circuit Court of Appeals and he lost both.

He carried the fight to the Supreme Court, and in 1959 the court struck down the industrial security program under which he had been denied clearance.

NOT FAIR PLAY

Chief Justice Earl Warren, writing the majority opinion, said Greene's hearing "failed to comport with our traditional ideas of fair procedure."

Having won the case, Greene sought to regain the $48,900 he figured he had lost because of losing his job. The government refused to pay, and he again went to court.

On Feb. 17 this year, the Supreme Court again ruled in his favor and sent the case back to the Court of Claims to determine the amount of the settlement.

Looking back, Greene "re with satisfaction the way most of his friends stuck by him."

And he says his two victories before the Supreme Court "speak well for our system." Today he lives with his second wife, Dorothy, and four children in a modest home in Annapolis.

Berlin Border Street Macabre Symbol of East

By JOHN O. KOEHLER
BERLIN (AP) — They stare back at you with dead eyes — the bricked-up windows of the high apartment houses. Behind the wooden doors there is silence, only rats scurry over the floors where once children played.

Beneath the windows on the sidewalk are small wooden crosses. Men and women fell or jumped to their death here to escape communism.

This is Bernauerstrasse — 1.2 miles long in West Berlin. It's the saddest street in the world. The roadway and both sidewalks of Bernauerstrasse are in West Berlin. But the buildings on the street's east side mark the border of the Communist world.

VIVID DEMONSTRATION

Nowhere else in this tortured city has communism so vividly demonstrated how it regards human rights. Bernauerstrasse is a macabre symbol of a people divided by political ideology.

"It has been suggested that we rename this street 'Die Strasse der Trauer' — The Street of Tears," said Helmut Mattis, mayor of the Borough of Wedding to which Bernauerstrasse belongs.

"But I rejected that at once. It will remain Bernauerstrasse, a name that has been entered in the annals of brutality."

Neighbors, friends and relatives were torn apart when the Reds started in August 1961 to build the Berlin wall to stop the mass escape of refugees.

The Communists began with bricking up the doorways and the ground-floor apartment windows.

VIRTUAL PRISON

It dawned on the people in the houses on Eastern side that the Communists were building a virtual prison. They began to escape.

The first fugitives knocked bricks out of the ground-floor windows. They tossed their most precious belongings into the street, then jumped or climbed to freedom.

The East German regime took further steps, bricking up the windows of the upper floors. Still people escaped. Men, women and children, young and old, slid down ropes and jumped into the nets of firemen. Some 200 made it safely.

Two women and a man became so desperate that they jumped when there was no life-saving net beneath them. They died on the sidewalk.

SEALED OFF

Finally all the windows were sealed off and Red guards ran barbed wire along the roofs.

Bernd Linser, 22, managed to avoid the guards and the barbed wire and perched precariously on a rooftop trying to attract West Berlin police.

West Berliners alerted the fire department. But he had also attracted the attention of his hunters, who fired submachine guns.

Bullets whizzed through Bernauerstrasse while firemen unfurled their net. They braced themselves and gave the signal to jump. Linser hurled himself 75 feet down and missed the net.

The Communists evacuated all the houses, moving the remaining 2,000 residents to other parts of East Berlin.

FRESH FLOWERS

Since then hair-raising escapades through tunnels and gun battles have kept Bernauerstrasse on front pages. It has become a major tourist sight.

Fresh flowers always decorate the four wooden crosses marking the spots where refugees died. They come from Irmingard Klatt's flower shop.

"Move away?" she asks. "No, I have been here for 30 years and you can't transplant old trees."

NO HOLES BARRED—Patrick J. McKenna, 60, an Oklahoma City newspaperman, shows a long strip of the belt he no longer needs since he lost 120 pounds in as many days by starving himself. He went down from 384 pounds to 264 pounds. McKenna subsisted on vitamins and nonfood liquids, such as tea, coffee and sugarless soft drinks.

New Diet Champion Starved for 120 Days

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Patrick J. McKenna, who trimmed his weight from 384 to 264 pounds on a 120-day starvation diet, said yesterday he would do it again if necessary.

McKenna said his waistline shrank from 64 to 50 inches and said he would repeat the performance despite the hunger he never lost and the desperate craving for salt he developed.

He admitted he fudged on his diet Thanksgiving Day but explained, "It didn't put any weight on me." He now weighs 265.

The 60-year-old Oklahoma City newspaperman lost the poundage under close supervision of doctors at the Oklahoma Medical Research Foundation from May 3 to August 31. He ate no food during the four-month period.

After his release, he went on a "suggested diet" prepared by medical researchers and is still sticking to it. During confinement he subsisted on vitamins and nonfood liquids such as tea, coffee and sugar-free soft drinks.

WANTED RECORD

Dr. R. Palmer Howard, associate head of the foundation, said McKenna could have continued on the diet another week to a month.

"But he wanted to set a record and he did," Howard said. "He was having dreams about food."

The previous record is believed held by an ex-wave in Los Angeles who dropped 116 pounds in 17 days before her starvation diet was ended by a severe attack of gout.

Another member of the four-man medical team that supervised McKenna and made extensive tests on him was Dr. Osvaldo J. Brusco, cardiovascular trainee from Buenos Aires, Argentina. Brusco took three to four blood samples a week from McKenna.

'THE VAMPIRE'

McKenna nicknamed the South American "the Vampire," but said, "He didn't hurt me once."

The medical team, at a news conference, said McKenna was overweight just because he ate too much. They said he had no side-effects from the weight loss except that he was slightly anemic and indicated he felt weak.

To pass the time during his starvation diet, McKenna worked on an autobiography and did other writing. Doctors said he became somewhat irritable.

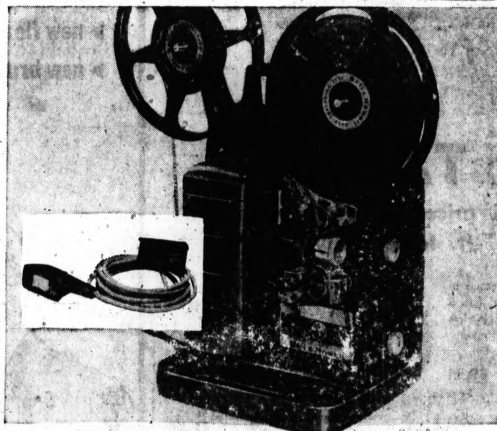

The researchers said they do not recommend prolonged starvation diets without medical supervision and added "that normal healthy persons can go on one for about seven days. Anything over that should be done under controlled hospital conditions."

Paul Meets With Orient Churchmen

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Pope Paul VI met today with leaders of ancient oriental religions and told them all men must "begin to work together to build the common future of the human race."

Marking a new dimension in the outlook of the Roman Catholic Church, the Pope asked the sages of Hinduism, Islam, Buddhism, Zoroastrianism and other non-Christian faiths: "Are we not all one in this struggle for a better world, in this effort to make available to all people those goods which are needed to fulfill their human destiny and to live lives worthy of the children of God?"

He paused, then added: "We must come closer together. We must come together with our hearts, in mutual understanding, esteem and love."

On this, the second day of his historic four-day visit to India, where the Pope is being received with a welcome of phenomenal enormity and zest, he also had meetings with leaders of other Christian bodies.

HISTORIC MERGER

His callers at the residence of Bombay's Roman Catholic archbishop included bishops and officials of the Church of South India, a historic merger involving about a million Protestants of formerly separate communions.

Also present for conversations initiated by the Pope were representatives of the ancient Mar Thoma Syrian Church, the Methodist Church in Southern Asia, the Anglican Church of India, Pakistan, Burma and Ceylon, the Evangelical Lutheran Federation, the North India Provincial Synod, the Methodist Church, and the National Christian Council of India.

The personal meetings with these churchmen, too, reflected the theme of Rome's modified stance — to make common cause and unifying overtures toward Christians outside the Roman Catholic fold.

In this region of the world inter-Christian alliance takes on heightened ramifications. For Roman Catholics constitute only a tiny minority — about 1.5 per cent — of India's 400 millions.

FIRST TIME

No previous Pope has sat down in mutual exchange with such a wide representation of the intensely devout and vastly numerous eastern religions.

The 67-year-old pontiff, venturing farther afield from Rome than any other Pope, met the religious leaders in a steady series of small gatherings. He had words of esteem for them all, and voiced hopes for closer bonds.

Early in the series of audiences, he met privately with Moran Mar Basileos Ougen I, Catholics of the Orthodox Syrian Church which has about a million members. It is one of three ancient orthodox bodies separated from Rome in the Middle Ages in a complex dispute over papal supremacy.

ABANDONED SHIP — The Liberian ship Fury is abandoned at Barachois Point, 95 miles east of Halifax today. Her 18-man crew left the ship yesterday after the vessel was grounded in a storm. Rescuers feared for the lives of the crew on the grounded ship, but at low tide, a reef was exposed which allowed the men to walk to shore.

4 Ships in Trouble off Canada

HALIFAX, N. S. (UPI)—Air-sea search and rescue operations resume today for four vessels threatened with foundering in mountainous waves in the gale-whipped Atlantic Ocean.

Rescue officials expressed little hope for two fishermen missing off southwestern Nova Scotia in a 30-foot lobster boat. It was doubtful they could survive the extreme cold of the gale even if their boat was still afloat.

Also in trouble were two ships aground on Prince Edward Island and a West German freighter listing badly in the Bay of Fundy.

Eighteen Greek seamen from the 5,200-ton Liberian freighter Fury yesterday walked to safety from the wreck of their ship during a low morning tide that exposed a lifeline footpath reef of gravel.

The Fury was slammed onto rocks at Barachois Point, some 110 miles east of here, by 100-mile-an-hour winds and 40-foot waves that crashed over the ship's bridge as the seamen hung on.

DAY DAWNED

When day dawned the ship was still upright, listing only five degrees, and perched on a ledge of rock. The men managed to get through the night with only minor aches and pains.

"When the tide went out, we dropped rope ladders down the side and walked ashore," said George Pataras, 28-year-old skipper. "It's quite unbelievable how we got away."

The abandoned wreckage of the Fury was not considered worth the trouble of salvage, but Pataras planned to make a sentimental visit to the freighter today.

He and his crew were lodged at a motel in Sherbrooke, some 15 miles from the wreck scene. They headed to bed soon after sitting down to a meal of hot corned chowder, steak and pork chops.

SHIPS AGROUND

Two of the distressed ships went aground on Prince Edward Island shores where winds last night whipped the Northumberland Strait into a foamy frenzy. It was the last of the gale forecast to die this evening.

The 5,500-ton Greek motor vessel Agios Nicolaos, with 28 men aboard, was shoved to within 25 yards of shore at Sea Cove Head, near Summerside, by winds gusting to 60 miles an hour.

The 12,744-ton Norwegian tanker Belfast was scraping bottom of Charlottetown harbor after dragging anchor in the gale. Efforts to free the ship during high tide last night failed.

The foundation tugs Venture and Valiant were expected in the island waters today and will likely make a bid to free both ships.

DESTINATIONS

The Venture was steaming in from Lauzon, Que., and the Valiant, which attempted to salvage the wrecked Fury, was heading in from Nova Scotia.

The 2,285-ton West German ship Elizabeth Shulte, with 28 men aboard, was listing 20 degrees off Cape Blomidon in the Bay of Fundy where winds had calmed to 35 miles an hour.

The tug Otis Wack and the freighter Gypsum Prince were alongside the German ship and plans were set to get a pilot aboard and sail the vessel into one of the ports on the Avon River. It listed when its cargo of ore concentrates shifted.

None of the Greek, Norwegian or German crews was considered in serious danger, but real fears existed for the two Nova Scotia fishermen.

DESTROYER SEARCH

The Navy put a third destroyer escort in the search. The destroyer HMCS de la Madeleine was steaming toward Cape Sable Island, where HMCS Terry Nova and HMCS Gatineau searched without success yesterday.

Four tracker patrol planes which searched all day yesterday will take another go at it again once day breaks. An RCAF Argus patrol plane was in the area through the night, but reported no sightings.

Seek Cash for Korean Orphanage

SOUTH HAVEN (AP)—Less than two weeks from its deadline and still $5,000 shy of its goal, this community-sponsored Wednesday for all available help in a drive to send needed materials to a Korean orphanage.

Food, medical supplies, winter clothing and Christmas toys have been held on the West Coast more than two weeks because of a charter flight which would have carried them free to the Holt Foundation Orphanage at Seoul, Korea, was canceled by insufficient passengers.

Dec. 15 was set as the latest date on which the shipment could be sent in time to reach the 600 children at the orphanage by Christmas.

The story came to light when Mr. and Mrs. Harlan White of South Haven, members of the originally planned charter flight approached The South Haven Daily Tribune.

RECENTLY RETURNED

The Whites recently returned from Seoul with two other Michigan couples, Mr. and Mrs. William Galloway of Lincoln Park and Mr. and Mrs. John R. Davidson of Southfield. All had adopted children from the orphanage.

While said most of the children remaining lacked sufficient clothing, were fed an unvarying diet of cooked rice, fish—when available—and powdered milk. Many lacked medical attention, he said.

The investigation by the Galloway couple was found to be suffering from tuberculosis and now is undergoing treatment, he added.

The Tribune's story of the stalled shipment led to numerous civic events here with proceeds collected by the Citizens Trust and Savings Bank to cover transportation costs.

Individual contributions from residents of Ann Arbor, Ludington, Jackson and elsewhere brought the total Wednesday to $1,953.85.

She Turned to Crime

LONDON (UPI)—A 46-year-old clerk was fined $14 because she couldn't keep clean honestly. Miss Fredjith Stovell said she was spending $4 a week on cleaning materials since a childhood incident left her with an uncontrollable urge to keep clean. This taxed her resources and led her to steal.

Old Check Has Value

IONIA (AP)—Celebrating its 100th anniversary, the First Security Bank offered a $100 Savings Bond to the person presenting the oldest check drawn on any Ionia County bank.

Ronald Story, 32, was announced as the winner Wednesday. He presented a 1894 check written by his grandfather, Irving C. Stebbins, and drawn on the Edwin Nash Bank in Clarksville.

Tricky Maneuver May Improve Mariner's Course

PASADENA, Calif. (UP) — A tricky maneuver will be attempted tomorrow morning to put Mariner 4 on a better course for its historic Mars fly-by photographic mission.

to within 8,000-12,000 miles of the Martian surface next summer. The attempt was scheduled for 8 a. m. PST, (11 a. m. EST).

Without the correction, Mariner-4 would approach Mars about next July 14 at a distance of about 151,000 miles to climax a 7½-month-long, 325-million-mile journey.

If all goes well, a radio impulse from the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) will crackle through about 1 million miles of space to trigger a rocket motor aboard Mariner 4.

The motor will change the spacecraft's course and aim it more directly toward the mysterious red planet.

GOOD SHOT

By most standards, the fact Mariner 4 would come within 151,000 miles of Mars without any correction presents an almost fantastic accuracy for America's space program.

Millions of fish have died in the Mississippi River Basin during the last four years from pollution.

Says Michigan's New Appeals Court Needs Additional $304,114 for First 6 Months

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's new Appeals Court is asking the legislature for an additional $304,114 to get through its first six months of operation, Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski said Wednesday.

Lesinski, a judge-elect and chief judge-designate of the new court, said it will take $601,245 to finance setting up the court. The costs, needs and staff of the new court have been worked out in meetings of the nine judges and approved by justices of the Michigan Supreme Court. Named clerk of the court was Ronald Dzierbicki, 30, of Detroit, an attorney who has been Lesinski's executive assistant for the past two years.

Each of the court's three districts will have deputy and assistant deputy clerks. Assistant deputy in the first district (Wayne County), is Otto Silver, Lesinski said, currently clerk in the court of Traffic Judge John Watts, who has been elected to the Appeals Court. A chief deputy has not been named.

Frank Warnemuende of Saginaw and Arthur Meyers of Flint have been named deputies in the second district (the 16 counties surrounding Wayne County), he said.

In the third district (the remaining 66 counties) George Beck of Clare, court reporter in the Clare District, has been named chief deputy. Rayfield Bester has been named assistant deputy.

The Appeals Court will start hearing cases in January — using borrowed courtrooms, office space and books and with only about half the money it needs.

'NO TROUBLE'

"We don't expect any trouble getting the additional money," Lesinski said. "We have talked to legislators and they told us the $300,000 was just a blind guess at the needs of the court."

Salary and personnel will cost the court $254,694; rent will be another $62,250; the library and equipment will run $162,602; office and courtroom furniture will cost $37,494, and travel, materials and supplies will cost $33,200, Lesinski said.

The judges receive $23,000 a year under state law.

The court, whose judges will rotate from district to district, will set up headquarters in Detroit, Lansing and Grand Rapids, with central libraries at each.

Main headquarters in Lansing will not be ready for the start of the first session, Lesinski said. Courtrooms and staff offices here will be ready about mid-February, he added; the judges' offices by mid-April.

The court will use the Supreme Court courtroom until its facilities are ready, he said. Cases will be heard temporarily in the Grand Rapids Federal Building — pending approval from the General Services Administration — and in the old County Building in Detroit.

Despite the temporary facilities, the court will ask the Supreme Court to send it about six cases ready for hearing in January, said Lesinski.

Although some 215 cases — fairly evenly distributed among the three districts — already have been assigned to it, he said, most of them are not ready for immediate hearing.

The distribution of the judges' offices does not necessarily correspond to their districts, Lesinski said.

Judge Thomas Kavanagh of Birmingham, second district, will have an office in Detroit with Lesinski and judges-elect Watts, and John Gillis. Sens John Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge, is in the third district, but will have an office in near-by Lansing, which is in the second district, along with Judge-Elect Timothy Quinn.

Judge-elect Louis McGregor, second district, will have a Flint office.

In the third district, Judge-elect Robert Burns will have a Grand Rapids office and Judge-elect Donald Holbrook will have an office in Clare.

TRIBUTE TO BROTHER — Robert F. Kennedy, senator-elect from New York, is shown speaking at ground-breaking ceremonies yesterday for the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. Kennedy said his brother "recognized in the arts something that revealed the truth about human beings and their suffering." Listening to the former attorney general are President and Mrs. Johnson.

Prisoners Won't Be 'Cool'

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Prisoners at the Jackson County jail wear sweat shirts in the winter months, and when Sheriff Arvid Owsley requisitioned two gross sweat shirts the county purchasing agent's office responded with a $48 alternative: $15.50 a dozen, orthodox sweat shirts.

$13.50 a dozen, blue sweat shirts adorned with "The Beatles" and likenesses of the British mop-tops.

Sheriff Owsley exercised a veto when he found the blue ones could not be dyed.

"Some of the prisoners would be insulted," he said. "And as far as I am concerned, we have enough Beatles in the jail already."

LBJ Tells Businessmen: Gear to Long-Term Gains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson wants the nation's businessmen to pass up a quick killing in profits and plan instead to benefit from long-term expansion.

He believes that short-sighted business strategies aimed solely at piling up fast profits could upset the current run of prosperity and cause bigger federal deficits in the years ahead.

The President, in a speech before the elite of the business community last night, singled out U. S. bankers for special counsel.

He said any increase in bank lending rates at this time "might slow down our economic advance." Some bankers feel that such an interest rate hike is long overdue.

Johnson outlined his blueprint for economic progress in a speech before the business council, which includes the presidents and board chairmen of the nation's biggest corporations. The council serves as an advisory group to the federal government.

SEEK PROFITS

He urged its members to "seek profits from market expansion rather than exploitation of short-run opportunities."

The President said savings in production costs should be passed on to the consumer in the form of lower prices.

Johnson stressed that the current burst of prosperity will soon peter out if business and government does not join in a campaign to keep it going.

He listed among government's obligations the need to maintain a tax system "that does not overburden businessmen or consumers," and a budget policy that "promotes balance between purchasing power and productive capacity."

HIGHER DEFICITS

Several times he mentioned higher budget deficits—always distasteful to business—as a likely alternative if short-sighted policies wreck the current economic expansion.

"If our federal revenues slip because the economy is running slower," he said, "the federal deficit will surely grow."

Under such conditions he said there would be "pressure" for higher government spending—an anathema to business.

Johnson said the recent increase in the Federal Reserve Board's discount rate did not justify any hike in the interest rates which banks charge borrowers.

"I am confident that American bankers will consider the long-term interest of the nation in sustaining a healthy and vigorous rate of economic growth," he added.

Governors Meet in Denver to Determine GOP Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican governors, many of whom were lukewarm to the presidential candidacy of Sen. Barry Goldwater, start today to examine the GOP's future in the wake of his smashing defeat.

Their meeting in Denver was also to be attended by two representatives of the "Wednesday club," an organization of some two dozen moderate GOP House members.

A number of governors, and governors-elect, planned to pass up the Denver conference including Ohio's James A. Rhodes, Oklahoma's Henry Belmon, Arizona's Paul Fannin and Wisconsin Gov.-Elect Warren Knowles.

Meanwhile, preliminary plans were completed for a meeting in New York next Wednesday night among the GOP's last three presidential candidates: Goldwater, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Nixon said in New York last night that he would meet with Eisenhower and Goldwater when all are at a dinner in the Waldorf Astoria Hotel honoring U.S. Steel President Roger Blough.

Nixon said Goldwater had suggested the meeting and that he and Eisenhower agreed the Blough dinner would "be a good time." No specific details have been disclosed concerning the talks, Nixon said.

The GOP governors meeting was called by Idaho Gov. Robert Smylie, chairman of the Republican Governors Association. In advance of the start of the session, Smylie yesterday accused Goldwater of having taken "a dictatorial attitude" in regard to the future of GOP national chairman Dean Burch.

Smylie favors Burch's ouster from his $30,000-a-year post and has made himself available as a possible replacement. A number of other GOP governors—including New York's Nelson A. Rockefeller—favor mounting a drive against Burch.

Goldwater has stood firmly behind Burch, a former Senate aide of his, and has predicted that the national committee which meets Jan. 21 in Chicago will voice confidence in his chairmanship.

Meanwhile, the governors were called upon to repudiate Goldwater as the party's titular leader and to write a new platform for the GOP.

The request came from Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke, a Negro who was reelected by a landslide even though Johnson carried Massachusetts by more than a million votes.

USW to Tell Pact Demands

Wage Hike Said Key Aim in Negotiations

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The United Steelworkers Union (USW) today makes known the demands it will level on the nation's "Big 11" basic steel producers in contract negotiations set tentatively for Dec. 15.

Reported high on the list of demands was a substantial wage increase. The 1.2 million members of the union have foregone a general pay hike the last three years in favor of other benefits.

Best estimates were that the USW—third largest labor organization in the nation—would shoot this time for a general wage boost of at least 15 cents an hour. The pay hike will be part of an overall "package."

USW President David J. McDonald said he was hopeful of negotiating new labor agreements peacefully.

In a flurry of union activity yesterday, the union's 35-member executive board drafted a statement of demands, which later in the day was presented for approval to the 170-member Wage Policy Committee.

The wage policy body, which has final authority in all union contract matters, was to meet again this morning. It was expected the policy makers would place their stamp of approval on the various demands then make them public.

Romney Role May Be Large

Events Could Boost Him Into Prominence

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney flies to Denver today for a Republican rebuilding conference that could thrust him even higher in the ranks of the nationally-shattered party.

Romney, calling repeatedly for broadening and unifying of the party, has disclaimed any major role as an individual. But since he governs a major state and was one of the few significant Republican winners in November, his influence could be sizeable at the meeting of 17 Republican governors.

The governor said Wednesday he thinks the leadership role of the GOP should take rebuilding action by early next year.

But he refuses to expand on this suggestion or others he plans to offer at the Denver meeting.

ROMNEY'S THEME

As it has been since the election, Romney's theme is that the rebuilding program must be hammered out and presented as a group plan rather than proposed piecemeal by individuals.

Consistent with this he has refused to castigate any segment of the party for the November results.

But that neutrality could be forced to disappear if the governors consider any strongly worded resolutions on such topics as the suggested ouster of Dean Burch as national chairman.

Romney hinted Wednesday at some dissatisfaction with the national committee when he refused to commit himself to favoring a place for the committee in the leadership action he suggests.

PLACE FOR BARRY

He did repeat, however, that Sen. Barry Goldwater, the presidential nominee whom Romney would not endorse, should have a place in the leadership.

Jury Convicts Pair of Conspiring to Spy

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A Soviet chauffeur and an American electronics engineer were convicted Wednesday night of conspiracy to commit espionage for the Soviet Union.

The verdict could mean death. Their penalty will be decided by U.S. District Court Judge Anthony T. Augelli, who presided over the 36-day trial. No date has been set for sentencing.

A federal jury of eight women and four men deliberated 9½ hours before returning the verdict against the American, John

W. Butenko, 39, and his codefendant, Igor A. Ivanov, 34.

Butenko and Ivanov were convicted of conspiring to relay secret Air Force information to the Soviet Union and of conspiring to violate the law requiring foreign agents to register with the State Department. Butenko also was convicted of acting as an unregistered agent for the foreign power — the Soviet Union.

SAID NOTHING

Butenko, a bachelor of Russian descent, said nothing as the jury foreman, Miss Michilena M. Deluca, announced the verdict. But the strain of the grueling trial showed on his face as he was led from the courtroom to be taken back to the Hudson County jail, where he has been held without bail since his arrest Oct. 29, 1963.

Ivanov, a crew-cut, blond Soviet citizen listened to an earphone linked to a translator as the verdict was announced. Ivanov, who worked as a driver for a Soviet trade agency in New York, is said to speak little English.

Both defendants kept their eyes on the jury as each member was polled at the request of a defense attorney. One juror said afterward that the panel had been in general agreement throughout the deliberations.

Ivanov smiled as he spoke privately with a representative of the Soviet Embassy and others after the verdict was announced. An embassy representative and two Russian speaking translators were present for the entire trial.

BAIL REQUEST

Augelli granted a request by Ivanov's attorney to continue Ivanov's bail at $100,000. The bail was put up Dec. 30 by the Soviet Embassy, permitting Ivanov to go home to his wife and daughter in New York City to await trial.

Wednesday night Aleksei P. Kosikov, of the Soviet Embassy, said Mrs. Ivanov returned this year with her 7-year-old daughter, Irina. Mrs. Ivanov gave birth to a son last month in Moscow, he added.

Diplomatic Load Heavy

Cuba Problem for Swiss

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — The poor state of Fidel Castro's relations with a number of nations is causing headaches in an unexpected quarter — the Swiss diplomatic service.

Neutral Switzerland now represents the interests in Cuba of eight countries that have broken relations with the Castro regime. The United States was the first, in 1961. Argentina, Guatemala, Honduras, Chile, Brazil, Ecuador and Venezuela followed.

In 1960, Switzerland had an ambassador and a first secretary as its entire diplomatic staff in Havana. Now there are 13 diplomats and a team of clerks, typists and office workers.

By far the most work in Havana is done on behalf of the United States, which had large interests in Cuba before Castro took over.

NOT REGISTERED

"We have issued over 2,000 Swiss protection passports to American citizens still in Cuba," a senior Swiss official said. "But there are still a number of people who have not registered with our embassy in Havana."

The Cuban government recognizes the Swiss protection passport although it does not give the holder the rights of a normal passport.

One of the most important functions of the Swiss Embassy in Cuba is to keep an eye on American prisoners in Castro's jails.

The Swiss also intercede for any Americans who accidentally land on Cuban territory.

Switzerland receives no fee for the extra work but the other countries pay expenses.

Troubleshooter Ball Has Rolled Up 371,000 Miles

Job of No. 2 Man in State Department Isn't Confined to Desk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undersecretary of State George W. Ball once described his plush offices on the seventh floor of the State Department as the place "in which, for my sins, I am confined."

But the notion of confinement is belied by statistics which show that since Ball was appointed to the department's No. 2 post by the late President John F. Kennedy in 1961 he has traveled more than 371,000 miles on official business.

These travels include 24-hour hops to cities in this country to speak on world affairs, four days of British-U.S. talks in December 1962 in the Bahamas when the outlines of nuclear cooperation across the Atlantic were drawn, and a hurried visit to Europe when Turkey and Greece were on the collision course over Cyprus.

He is currently in Europe conferring with allied leaders and U.S. officials about various economic and political problems of the Atlantic Alliance, including the U.S. proposal for a Multilateral Nuclear Force which has been one of his pet projects.

CERTAINLY FITS

The expression "trouble-shooter" certainly fits the white-haired specialist in international law who will be 65 on Dec. 21.

When Kennedy chose his team to run the State Department, he named Ball to the No. 3 post: undersecretary for economic affairs. The nomination was no surprise. Ball, who was associate general counsel to Lend-Lease administrator Edward R. Stettinius during World War II, became a respected figure in the world of international economics after the war.

He worked closely with Jean Monnet, the Frenchman called the architect of European unification, on establishing the European Coal and Steel Community.

Ball, who supported his friend, Adlai Stevenson, during the 1952 and 1956 presidential campaigns, became one of Kennedy's principal advisers on such important questions as foreign aid, balance of payments problems, and gold and trade policy. Kennedy, it was understood, was greatly impressed by the report Ball made for him on these issues shortly after the November 1960 election.

MAJOR CHANGE

In November 1961, in the first major change in the late president's political family, Ball replaced Chester Bowles in the No. 2 post.

Ball retained his over-all control of foreign economic policies and he now wears two hats. Every sign indicates he enjoys both of them.

On the political side he played a major role in such major crises as Cuba, the Congo and Cyprus.

On the economic side he still is the chief policy strategist on the intricate questions on relations with the Common Market.

Ball was born Dec. 21, 1899 in Des Moines, Iowa, and has been married for 32 years to the former Ruth Murdoch of Pittsburgh, Pa. They have two sons.

The 5,000 cars which use the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel every day are double the number of cars formerly carried on the ferry boats.

SUCCESSOR TO HER?—Members of Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity at Wichita (Kan.) The fraternity has received no reply.

S. Viets Deny Attacks by Air

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI)—The commander of the South Vietnamese Air Force denied vehemently today that any of his planes had attacked North Vietnamese villages in the demilitarized zone.

The North Vietnamese foreign office charged yesterday that 12 warplanes "coming from the direction of South Viet Nam" had bombed and strafed five North Vietnamese communities.

"It certainly was not the Vietnamese Air Force," Vice Air Marshal Nguyen Cao Ky said. U.S. military headquarters here declined comment on the charges, as is its custom.

North Viet Nam had accused the United States and its "lackeys"—an apparent reference to South Viet Nam—of "creating an utterly dangerous situation in this area" and of carrying out "a new act of war."

It was noted that the North Vietnamese charges came as Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, was conferring with President Johnson in Washington on methods of improving the conduct of the war against the Communist Viet Cong.

OUTSIDE SUPPORT

In Washington, the State Department said it was studying "extensive" evidence of increasing outside support of the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam.

Privately, officials said most of the infiltration was through Laos, which borders both North and South Viet Nam.

In Tokyo, the Communist Chinese news agency broadcast a report of the Johnson-Taylor talks, saying, "Johnson discusses U.S. aggressive war in South Viet Nam with high-ranking officials."

The Chinese agency charged that Taylor had openly advocated extension of the war in Viet Nam.

OTHER NEWS

In other South Vietnamese developments:

• An American military spokesman in Saigon said the Viet Cong lost 630 dead and 140 captured last week, compared with government losses of 110 dead and 100 missing. He said it was the "most favorable week" for the government since stepped-up U.S. aid to South Viet Nam began in 1961.

• Communist ground fire hit a U.S. helicopter 405 miles north of Saigon, wounding two U.S. marines — the crew chief and gunner. The aircraft had been carrying Vietnamese soldiers to an assault.

• The South Vietnamese government released 77 of 89 youths arrested last Sunday during a demonstration at the funeral of a boy slain in earlier rioting.

Girl Wanted a Bible; Pensioner 'Real' Santa
PORTSMOUTH, England (UPI)—When 8-year-old Susan Sanders sat down on Santa's knee here and asked for a Bible, he couldn't find the Good Book in the department store.

So pensioner George Jones, 74, went to a neighboring shop and bought one for the girl out of his pension money.

New York Official Is Scrap King

NEW YORK (AP) — Roger J. Browne has an unusual job: selling such items as unwanted pet animals, scraps of food from jails and hospitals and now three 400-ton obsolete ferryboats.

He's pretty good at his job, too, producing more than $500,000 in sales last year.

Browne is the city's purchases commissioner and the diverse items are listed in salvage operations.

"The idea is to make a buck for the city from leftovers."

"We're trying to get everybody in every department to save scraps," Arthur Maguire, one of Browne's assistants, said yesterday. "Anything we get, anything, is salvageable if it can bring in money."

PUBLICITY DRIVE

Browne and his lieutenants are launching a publicity campaign with this slogan: "Operation alchemist — turn your scrap into gold."

"Salvage was going steadily downhill," Browne explained. "We thought we'd jazz it up a bit. Nowadays you can't sell anything without dancing girls."

The ferryboats, each more than 38 years old, went into mothballs last week when the Brooklyn-Staten Island run was discontinued with the opening of the Verrazano-Narrows Bridge.

It is no understatement when Maguire says the department will try to salvage anything. These are among accomplishments from last year's list:

• Scraps of meat and fat sold to soap manufacturers for $10,144; waste paper for $7,015; ash residues, also used for soap, $18,790; and 64,753 pounds of empty, brass police cartridges to metal companies for just under $60,000.

• When a restaurant wanted to stage a publicity stunt, 4,000 World War I helmets used by the fire department auxiliary were sold for $150.

• Surplus zoo animals — including a yak, some burros, Sardinian donkeys, llamas and a chimpanzee — brought in $1,201.

The salvage division will open sealed bids Tuesday for a full-size hippopotamus, a pair of dingy dogs and three lion cubs.

The staff takes pride in its work. "There is no salvage company that handles like we do... to get the last dollar out of it," Maguire said.

He's a Young 60

Cary Grant's Youth Secret: Be Relaxed

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (U) — How does Cary Grant stay so young? This is the question that, since he makes no secret of being 60, is most often asked this durable star of the Golden Age of the movies.

BOYLE

After making more than 60 films in 32 years, he has only a few touches of gray to mark the inroads of three decades in Hollywood.

Grant answers with a kind of half-embarrassed, bantering seriousness queries as to his own formula for keeping young in spirit and looking trim and youthful in face and body.

"I don't know that there's any trick to it," he said. "I try to live in truth — and keep relaxed. I don't try to follow any regular program. I ride a lot, like to swim."

WHAT HE WANTS

"I try to do what I want to do at the time. I don't eat many fatty foods, but I really don't know whether that's important or not."

"I eat only when I'm hungry, and read when I'm not. Sometimes I don't sleep for three days. Other times I go to sleep for the whole blinking week-end."

A talk with Grant is a ramble through many fields as he is a man with sprightly enthusiasms, interested in religion, art, and human nature, and one gifted with some humor as to his own place in the scheme of things.

IN OWN WORDS

In his own words, here is how he feels:

"Life is just an occupation of time. It's all a matter of what you do between getting up and going to bed."

"I don't have a great respect for people who pick up lines of friction in living. It's best to keep an open channel to the powers that be. You have to learn to rest on the arms of God or creation, and then everything will be all right."

Man is afraid of his own power and inhibits it.

"The happiest time of my life? About now, I suppose, although I hope it will be happier tomorrow."

ALWAYS HAPPIER

"My life has become progressively happier, because I've got rid of a lot of the blows my ego got in childhood. You have to learn to forgive your parents the things they didn't know, and be grateful for what they did know."

"I used to carry some emotional torches in my youth, but I tried never to bore my fellow man with them. I'd rather torture it out alone."

"The most important thing in life is getting married well, and I haven't been very successful at that."

"You have to use some deceit in this world even to make a living. But paradoxically, you will last longer, have a better life and be more contented — if you relax and be yourself."

FREE HIMSELF

"I try to free myself as much as possible from hypocrisy and the need to ingratiate."

"I like people who express themselves easily, people who are able to use their full natural powers and not defeat themselves through fear. I mean people like Billy Graham, Howard Hughes, Jan Peerce, Frank Sinatra, Dave Brubeck, Peggy Lee, Picasso and Ingrid Bergman."

"Ingrid is the most attractive person in the world because she completely lacks artifice."

"Although I recognize injustices and inequities, I have no crusades to lead myself. I rarely get angry. You only abuse yourself when you get angry anyway."

BEST MOMENTS

"The best moments people have together are probably when they are silent. Most sounds that people make are only forms of self-defense."

"Sometimes I wonder if the day won't come when our sound boxes will be old-fashioned, and we will be able to communicate directly between our psyches."

Talks Fail to Halt Grand Haven Strike

GRAND HAVEN (AP) — Negotiations aimed at ending a month-long strike at the Gardner-Denver Co. here broke down Wednesday after an unproductive 40-minute session at a Muskegon hotel.

State and federal mediators reported no progress following Wednesday's meeting, the second called by mediators in efforts to end the strike over a new contract with union shop provisions.

Nine Ocean Ships Still in Lake Canal

PORT COLBORNE, Ont. (AP) — Nine ocean-going ships were still above the Welland Ship Canal Wednesday as the race to beat the winter freeze-up continued.

Twelve salt water ships cleared the canal from midnight Monday to midnight Tuesday. Six more cleared the canal early Wednesday.

There were still 67 salt water ships above the St. Lambert Lock at Montreal at midnight Tuesday with 19 in the St. Lawrence system and 48 above Iroquois.

Evidence Supports Psychokinesis

Scientists Probing 'Mind Over Matter'

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the fourth of five dispatches on extraordinary perception by the UPI's national reporter. It deals with the question: Is there such a thing as mind over matter?)

By HARRY FERGUSON
United Press International

Psychokinesis is a scientific term relating to the question of whether there is such a thing as mind over matter. One test is whether you can roll dice and make the numbers come up the way you desire.

Steady now, you gamblers. So far the answer is neither yes nor no. Experiments in the parapsychology laboratory at Duke University have shown that certain people can make the dice behave better than would be expected by the laws of chance.

But Duke has no intention of expanding its curriculum to include the theory and practice of rolling seven consecutive sevens or, if your point is four, making it the hard way with two deuces.

So far as dice are concerned, the facts are inconclusive. But there was nothing inconclusive about the strange events which occurred in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Hermann at Seaford, Long Island, N.Y.

It provided an excellent chance to study the theories of psychokinesis, and J. Gaither Pratt, who made on-the-spot investigations in behalf of the Duke laboratory, reported in detail on it in his study called "parapsychology."

LIVED IN TERROR

For five weeks in 1958, the Hermann family lived in confusion and terror.

through the air toward a television set, a bottle of ink sailed out of one room, through the door of another and spilled on the rug. A plaster statue of the Virgin Mary, 14 inches high, leaped from one dresser to another. A bottle of shampoo walked across a bathroom shelf.

There were 67 of these incidents between Feb. 3 and March 10 when they ceased. Visitors to the house frequently found Mrs. Hermann and her two young children, James and Lucille, in tears.

Hermann did what any sensible man would do. He called the police.

SEARCHED HOUSE

Detective Joseph Tozzi responded, thoroughly questioned all members of the family and examined the house for hidden wires and other devices of trickery.

But when things started sailing through the air while he was in the house, Tozzi realized he was against something not covered in the manual of police procedure. That was when Pratt moved in.

The question, of course, was whether this was a case of psychokinesis — mind over matter. Was one of the four persons in the house using his mind, consciously or unconsciously, to cause confusion and destruction? Or had the detective been bamboozled because he didn't know what to look for and where?

Pratt started out by eliminating 50 of the 67 incidents on the grounds that they could have been done by trickery. He does not contend they were done that way because he could find no firm supporting evidence.

NARROW FIELD

But he wanted to narrow the field down to the 17 cases that could not be explained. The flight of the statue of the Virgin Mary was one of them.

The first clue was that nothing unusual ever happened when the house was empty. If you believe in mind over matter, that supports your hypothesis that some member of the Hermann family possessed unusual mental powers and was using them destructively.

The boy James was the member of the family that interested the investigators because he was most often present in the house when things began moving and flying.

James was examined and cross-examined by his father, the police and Pratt. Once the boy burst into tears, and his mother complained that the father was being too hard on him.

A HOAX? Another possibility that was carefully examined was that all members of the family were collaborating in a hoax and giving false testimony about the puzzling incidents.

Pratt dismissed that for the excellent reason that five incidents occurred while either he or his assistant from Duke was in the house. This was his conclusion:

"No clues have been found to indicate either simple or skilled trickery, and some of the events which took place in the Hermann home cannot be explained, even assuming that the necessary skills and motives for trickery existed."

"But, as far as can be determined, there were no motives for a family hoax and no evidence that James possessed the skills to carry out some of the complex occurrences."

ENOUGH EVIDENCE

So where does that leave us? Obviously, with the clear implication that there is enough evidence of mind over matter to justify scientists to push ahead with their studies. The Hermann case was not the first such one reported and investigated nor will it be the last.

About 500 such cases have been recorded and there is only one thin thread that binds many of them together.

There is a tendency for such incidents to occur where some person is at the threshold of adolescence — in the case of the Hermanns it was James.

So we have a puzzle without a solution, a riddle without an answer. Explorers to the moon know where they are going and can see where they will land. No telescope affords us even one small glimpse into the mysteries of the mind.

Firemen Spark Up Yule for Needy Tots

Santa Claus will be wearing a blue uniform this Christmas for more than 100 area children. These are the youngsters who will find toys in their stockings which have been repaired and distributed by the Pontiac Fire Department.

After a lapse of five years, the department is once again collecting, repairing and giving toys to underprivileged kids in Pontiac.

A visitor to the workroom in the Central Fire Station will find the floors and tables covered with a maze of playthings — a miniature toyland.

Rocket launchers, helicopters, submarines, puzzles, roller skates, dolls — everything which can delight a freckle-faced five-year-old is there.

CAN USE MORE

"We have more than 100 good toys now," Lt. Jack Douglas said, "but we can use more, lots more."

He said that the firemen are seeking any type of toy or game, even broken ones which are in serviceable condition.

"Persons wishing to donate toys can drop them off at any fire station. Or, they can call us and we will come and pick them up," Douglas said.

The toy repair is a big project at the fire station. Most of the men take part in fixing up the broken articles, Douglas said.

FAMILY HELP

Wives and sons and daughters have even helped, he added.

Funds for repairing the toys are being donated by the Pontiac Fire Fighters Association.

Douglas said the toys would be distributed between Dec. 15 and Christmas.

"We learn of the needy in many ways," he said. "Some persons call us directly, other children are located through the help of charitable organizations in the city."

TAKE TOYS

The firemen also take toys to the Oakland County Crippled Children's Home, a frequent benefactor of the fire fighters' generosity.

Douglas said credit should be given to persons who have already donated toys and added that more toys are being sought.

"If persons bring us their toys as soon as possible, we will make certain they will be found under a Christmas tree on Christmas morning."

No Decision by CIA Chief

NEW YORK (UPI) — Central Intelligence Agency Director John A. McCone last night said no decision has been made on whether he will continue to head the agency.

There have been reports recently that he intends to return to private business. He has large interests on the West Coast.

McCone commented: "Every four years there is speculation on the future of the members of the President's official family. But a great deal of it seldom goes beyond speculation."

The 62-year-old CIA chief replaced Allen Dulles after the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba in 1961.

Former Undersecretary of Defense Roswell L. Gilpatric has denied being offered the CIA job, and claimed he is not seeking it. Published reports have named him as a front runner for the position.

TOYS FOR KIDS — Lt. Jack Douglas (left) and Pipe man Dan Sowell, both of the Pontiac Fire Department, spend their spare moments during the day repairing toys for the underprivileged children of the area. The Christmas project has been given strong support by the fire fighters, who still seek toys for their project.

Beer-Guzzling Goose to Be Offered Scotch

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Roger, a goose with a taste for beer, may have to switch to Scotch.

The goose acquired a taste for beer from his master, Edward Davis, who rented him yesterday to Harold Rose to promote the movie, "Father Goose." "This goose will drink what I drink," said Rose. He also said he drinks only Scotch.

Historians are unable to identify a period in recorded time when men did not wear armor.

'Pa Kettle' Is Resting After Brain Operation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Percy Kilbride, who won fame in the movies as "Pa Kettle," is recuperating in a rest home from brain surgery performed last month in a Los Angeles hospital.

Kilbride, 76, was transferred to the home yesterday. The brain surgery resulted from injuries suffered when he was struck by a train. Doctors said he is partially paralyzed and unable to speak.

Can Viet Nam Victory Be Won by Bombing Bases in North?

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Can victory be snatched from South Viet Nam's exhausted war only by a flight of bombers over Communist North Viet Nam?

Planners in Saigon and Washington have been weighing the possibilities of expanding the war outside South Viet Nam.

Since the Viet Cong war began draining blood and treasure in 1960, America has faced three alternatives.

The first is to get out altogether, turning over South Viet Nam to the Communists.

The second alternative — the one which has been followed up to now — is to shore up the Saigon government with money, supplies, arms and advisers, in the hope that Saigon will one day be able to hold its own.

The third is to move into the fight directly with U.S. combat troops and a frontal attack on North Viet Nam or even Communist China.

The first alternative and all its variations, including neutralization of South Viet Nam, had been rejected by both the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

Hopes of winning by the second method appear increasingly forlorn. The Saigon government appears less capable of holding its own than it was 10 years ago when South Viet Nam became independent of France as the indirect result of a smashing Communist victory at Dien Bien Phu.

THIRD CHOICE

The third alternative, therefore, which could lead either to a new Korea or a third world war, has come under new scrutiny.

Among the supporters of direct attack on North Viet Nam is Dr. Bernard Fall, a noted French historian and author specializing in Indochina problems. Fall has argued for years that while the United States is tactically weak in Viet Nam it has strategic strength which should be used.

Fall says on the basis of his trips to North Viet Nam that the Hanoi regime is confident it can defeat the United States in the field of guerrilla warfare but that Hanoi fears American bombers. North Viet Nam has a small but growing industrial plant which is highly vulnerable to air raids and which Hanoi would hate to lose, he contends.

Some Pentagon and State Department officials believe Hanoi would call a halt to the war in the South if its industries were threatened.

SUPPLY POINTS

Others have argued that at least Communist supply points and infiltration depots outside South Viet Nam should be bombed. Hanoi has charged in recent months that this is going on now, and Washington has declined comment on the charges.

One high Vietnamese official said:

"As things stand now, South Viet Nam is lost. Our only hope is the salvation that might come as the result of a final showdown between the United States and the great Communist powers."

Despite these arguments, many officials here believe expanding the war into North Viet Nam would have little effect on the war in the South. For one thing, it is doubtful that Hanoi could turn off the Viet Cong's campaign even if it wanted to.

STRENGTH BROADENED

The Viet Cong's strength has been broadened to some extent by infiltrators from North Viet Nam, and the rate of infiltration reportedly has increased in the past year. The Viet Cong also has been receiving limited quantities of arms and ammunition from outside the country.

Political and military guidance also has continued to flow from Hanoi to the Viet Cong through advisers and organizers sent to the South.

Despite these contacts with Hanoi, the Viet Cong remains essentially a South Vietnamese organization. The Viet Cong gets its food from peasants and the overwhelming majority of its weapons from government posts it overruns.

Despite the identity of objectives of the Hanoi regime and the Viet Cong, the Viet Cong retains a certain autonomy, if only because communications between the North and the South are extremely slow.

BOMBING OF CITIES
Some feel that rather than discouraging the Viet Cong, the bombing of cities in the North would only spur the guerrillas to greater efforts against Americans and would enlist many fence-sitters on the Viet Cong side.

Certain supply depots used by the Communists in Laos and Cambodia have been suggested as logical targets for air raids. Among them is the Laotian town of Tchepone into which large quantities of Soviet equipment and supplies have been flown at various times. Tchepone is only 20 miles from the border of South Viet Nam. At least some of the supplies flown there are believed to have gone into Viet Cong hands.

But the possibility of halting Viet Cong infiltration of men and material by bombing seems small in view of the difficulty of spotting jungle routes and depots used by the guerrillas. South Viet Nam's land border with North Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia extends for 900 miles, most of it in trackless, mountainous jungle.

A high-ranking American official said:

"Bombing North Viet Nam would certainly do our side some psychological good. There would at least be the satisfaction of hitting at the Communist high command.

'WE'RE STUCK'

"But I'm afraid we are still going to be stuck with our war down here. This just isn't the kind of war in which you can hope to stop the other guy with saturation air raids. The game may have to be played by another set of rules."

New Status Symbol

2 Baths Show You're 'Flush'

By DICK WEST

United Press International
WASHINGTON — Not so long ago I filed a report on "monobathrooms" which is an inferiority complex that springs from having only one bathroom in a single family dwelling.

Noting the growth of bathrooms as a status symbol in this country, I suggested that if we failed to achieve President Johnson's dream of a "Great Society," we at least would have a WEST society that was well-tubbed.

I also pointed out that increased emphasis on bathroom multiplicity was being accompanied by a rising interest in bathroom decor, including jeweled faucets and a high-style fixtures.

Frankly, that report was based more on my own impressions than on hard and cold facts. But now I find my observations confirmed by no less an authority than the Supply House Times, which is described as the "Prestige Magazine" of the plumbing industry.

The Times says that "the biggest news for the trade this year is the boom in decorated plumbing fixtures and ornate fittings." It credits this trend with helping the industry begin to emerge from the financial doldrums.

TOO MANY OF SAME

Previously, the magazine says, manufacturers "offered too many products of the same general type and size that performed the same function."

Maybe so, but I rather doubt that gold-plating a few knobs and handles, or changing the shape of tubs and basins, is going to solve the industry's main problem, which is longevity.

As the Times points out, the average bathtub in the United States is 34 years old. Assuming that the tub owners can be persuaded to remodel their bathrooms, what's to keep them from waiting another 34 years before the next changeover?

It seems to me that the way to start the bathroom plumbing industry really booming is to develop disposable fixtures. Such an innovation is not as unrealistic as some people might think.

DISPOSABLE TUB

I read recently that hospitals are switching more and more to disposable equipment. They are finding it cheaper to replace certain items after initial use than to prepare them for reuse.

Among the 50 or more disposable items presently available are hypodermic needles, syringes, uniforms, surgical gloves, transfusion tubes and bedpans.

If the hospital supply industry can develop a disposable paper made bedpan that costs but four cents, why can't the bathroom plumbing industry provide us with disposable tubs, basins and other accoutrements?

After taking a bath, for instance, we would pull the plug and the water would run down the drain, followed by the tub.

With disposable fixtures, we could redecorate the bathroom after every shower. And "monobathroomitis" would disappear overnight.

Dispite these arguments,

One high Vietnamese official said:

"As things stand now, South Viet Nam is lost. Our only hope is the salvation that might come as the result of a final showdown between the United States and the great Communist powers."

Despite these arguments,

Junior Editors Quiz on INCAS

QUESTION: How did the ancient Aztecs and Incas build in stone without iron tools?

ANSWER: The Aztecs, in what is now Mexico, created some magnificent stone work, but that of the Incas of South America was perhaps more remarkable.

It is said that an Inca chieftain, Maya Capac, found a forgotten city and was so inspired by its stonework that he determined to create something even finer.

The Incas cut and smoothed down huge stones many tons in weight and fitted them together, without building mortar, so exactly that in many cases a knife blade cannot be inserted in the cracks.

Our illustration shows how the blocks were shaped so as to interlock and hold together. The Incas did not know about iron and steel, had not invented the wheel, had no strong draught animals to give power. How, then, had such work been possible?

The Incas had knives or stone picks of bronze or hard stone. Using these with water, it was possible to gradually chip a stone down.

Smoothing and polishing could be done with sand — again using water. Stones could be moved by dragging, using ropes and great numbers of men.

For lifting, stone crowsbars and poles could pry a stone up, with a wall of small stones built underneath, this being repeated back and forth on both ends of the stone. The Incas had primitive pulleys, which also helped.

FOR YOU TO DO: Poke a pole or crowbar under a stone (not too big a one). Then put a little rock under your pole close to the stone. You will be surprised what force you will exert when you press the pole down, and you will begin to understand how the Incas moved rocks.

African as U.N. President Sign of Times

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Election of the first African Negro to be president of the U.N. General Assembly climaxes the rise of a once minor bloc to the most powerful voting force in the United Nations.

The choice of Ghana's Alex Quaison-Sackey, flamboyant champion of black nationalism, opened an assembly session that will focus largely on African issues.

Quaison-Sackey declared in his inaugural speech Tuesday that Africa "is steadily moving toward her determined goal of continental unity and total liberation."

This will be the African theme when the 115-nation assembly turns again to the stormy issues of white supremacy in South Africa.

BLOC GROWN
The African bloc has grown from 2 nations to 34 in 19 years. It is teaming up with the 25-nation Asian bloc to pressure South Africa to abandon its apartheid policy of racial segregation.

"These Africans with the help they get from Asia and the Soviet bloc could get about anything they want if they would stop bickering among themselves," a Western diplomat commented recently.

The Africans have run up an impressive voting record on colonial and racial issues. But at that point unity breaks down. Ranging politically from strongly pro-Western to near-Communist, the group splits on most other questions.

CONGO SITUATION
The chaotic situation in the Congo is not scheduled for assembly debate, but the U.S.-Belgian action to rescue white hostages from the Congolese rebels is certain to come up during the session.

A group of 14 African states is trying to bring the rescue operation before the Security Council, charging it constituted "flagrant violation" of African sovereignty.

Having won the assembly presidency, the Africans are eyeing the post of secretary general, now held by U Thant of Burma, whose term ends in 1966.

Two Europeans and an Asiatic have had the job," said one delegate. "It's only fair that Africa have its turn."

Congolese Advance in Rebel Ground

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — A mercenary-led government column penetrated further into the northeast Congo today in pursuit of rebels believed holding 500 whites as hostages. They found five more dead Europeans.

The rebels reportedly fled to Watsa, near the Sudanese border, as a government force of 70 mercenaries and 200 Congolese soldiers neared Bunia, 350 miles east of Stanleyville.

Bunia had a white population of 250, most of them Greeks, but the Congolese Army found only two Roman Catholic priests there. The rebels were believed to have taken the other whites with them to join hostages already at Watsa.

Reports of the Congolese advance through rebel territory were fragmentary. Latest word said the government column was headed toward Paulis, southwest of Watsa, after passing through Poko and Zobia. At Mambasa, south of Paulis, the mercenaries said that two Belgians, a Frenchman, a German and an unidentified missionary were found slaughtered.

The rebels are known to have killed 85 other whites. Belgian paratroops rescued about 2,000 others in airdrops at Paulis and Stanleyville.

Rebels at Stanleyville were reported entrenched on the west bank of the Congo River across from the European quarter.

In Khartoum, capital of Sudan, self-styled rebel Defense Minister Gaston Soumialot claimed yesterday the Belgians rather than the rebels killed the whites in Stanleyville. His charge was contradicted by the account of every white survivor of the Stanleyville massacre.

Soumialot also charged that the United States was committing genocide in the Congo.

Soumialot, who arrived in the Sudan Tuesday with a force of 200 Congolese rebels, said he planned to go on to New York and tell the American people his version of the Congo story.

Sudanese Foreign Minister Mohammed Ahmed Mahgoub denied reports his government planned to let the rebels use the country as a base for military operations in the Congo.

Meanwhile, Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe left Paris last night and flew home to Leopoldville after three days of talks with President Charles de Gaulle and other French officials. Tshombe said the talks were profitable, but there was no indication France had made any specific commitments of aid.

Brother May Go to Congo

ORANGE, Calif. (UPI) — The brother of slain Congo missionary Dr. Paul Carlson eventually may follow in his footsteps, according to his wife.

Mrs. Betty Carlson said yesterday that her husband, Dr. Dwight Carlson, 31, an intern at Orange County General Hospital has three years to serve in an internal medical residency at Harbor General Hospital starting early next year.

"Then we will do whatever God wills," she said. Paul Carlson was held prisoner in the Congo for months before he was executed last week. Twice his death sentence was commuted by rebel Congolese while American officials negotiated for his release.

"If God should lead us in this direction," said Mrs. Betty Carlson of Orange, "we are more than willing because of those (Congo) experiences to go to foreign fields."

NOT IMPETUOUS
"However, we are not going to do anything impetuous like taking over Paul's job," she said. "Neither are we going to say we will not get involved. But although we are carrying on as before, anything could happen."

Paul Carlson had a lucrative practice in Torrance, Calif., which he gave up to go to the Congo 13 months ago. He was buried this week in the Congo.

Bond Posted for Friend of FBI Suspect

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Judy Ann Bockius, 21-year-old Detroit area waitress, arrested when Raymond L. Wyngaard, 27, was nabbed by federal agents in Madison, was freed on bond Wednesday.

She was released on $1,500 bail by U. S. Court Commissioner John Adams. She has been charged with harboring a fugitive.

Wyngaard was on the Federal Bureau of Investigation list of 10 most wanted criminals. He agreed to extradition to Michigan to face a long list of charges. He was apprehended without incident as he stepped from a cab Saturday.

Wyngaard had been living in Madison for several months under an assumed name.

Miss Bockius' bond was co-signed by Mrs. Elizabeth Wisneski of Detroit, mother of Wyngaard. The younger woman said she would stay with Mrs. Wisneski.

Think Wife Is Tough? Read This Rule List

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — If Albert Zabala, a 31-year-old truck driver wants to return to his Pico Rivera, Calif., home to live with his wife, Adelaide, 27, and their children, Lonny, 6, and Mona, 5, he'll have to obey 15 rules set by his wife, including:

- Stop drinking.
- Give her his pay check.
- Return home immediately after work without stopping anywhere.
- Avoid seeing his sister or telephoning her.
- Stop doing favors for people.
- Agree to do whatever his wife asks of him.
- Never lend anyone money.
- Tell no lies.
- Not brag.
- Have his hair cut during the day rather than after work.

The written rules were given to Zabala yesterday by his wife in an appearance in Divorce Court before Superior Court Commissioner Betty Jo Sheldon.

"All this I demand of you and more," said Mrs. Zabala. "If it is not agreeable to you, forget everything."

Zabala, who has been living in nearby Montebello since the couple separated, declined to state whether he would abide by his wife's conditions for a reconciliation.

Mrs. Zabala was awarded $20 weekly child support, but the commissioner passed over her alimony request.

Zabala claimed he earns only $70 per week and has to pay $125 monthly on the family home. He also said he was in financial difficulties.

Medicare, Birth Control Top AMA List

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — The American Medical Association (AMA) liberalized its approach to birth control and planned a new attack on the Johnson administration Medicare program in the wintertime of its winter conference yesterday.

Dr. James Z. Appel of Lancaster, Pa., chosen president-elect of the AMA, said there will be a meeting in Chicago Dec. 13 of the board of trustees with representatives from each state medical society to solidify the Medicare attack.

Appel said that despite the new congressional strength won by President Johnson Nov. 3, "I don't think the AMA is being unrealistic" in keeping up its battle against medical care for the aged under Social Security.

"If we do our job — make the people understand what is at stake — I believe we can win new support for the Kerr-Mills law."

Kerr-Mills is the existing federal-state medical assistance program.

The 228-member House of Delegates, top policy unit of the AMA, approved the change in the AMA's approach to birth control in adopting a report of a committee which made a study of the subject.

FOUR POINTS

The report made four basic policy points, the first being that "an intelligent recognition of the problems that relate to human reproduction, including the need for population control, is more than a matter of responsible parenthood; it is a matter of responsible medical practice."

Physicians were called on to "accept a major responsibility in matters related to human reproduction as they affect the total population and the individual family."

"In discharging this responsibility, physicians must be prepared to provide counsel and guidance when the needs of their patients require it, or refer the patients to appropriate persons."

The report said that since the AMA policy against providing birth control information to lay groups was established in 1936-37, "there has been a great growth in voluntary lay organizations in the field of health, including those interested in all aspects of human reproduction."

"Therefore, it is recommended that the AMA cooperate with the appropriate organizations in the field of human reproduction which have adequate medical direction," the report said.

The southernmost point of the United States is Ka Lae or South Cape, on Hawaii, largest of the islands that makes up the 50th state. Ka Lae is on a parallel with Mexico City.

Sea Holiday Blue in Color, Gay in Spirit

Mary Tonnele isn't the least bit interested in a white Christmas. She prefers a blue one. And that's what she'll be having this Christmas as social director for a cruise ship sailing the blue waters of the Caribbean with 300 holiday-happy passengers.

She's spent Christmas at sea four times, and finds it much more exciting than a land-locked celebration.

"We're heavily loaded with families at Christmas time," says the attractive Mrs. Tonnele.

"We tell the children that Santa Claus will come down the smoke-stack, and that he lands on the ship in a helicopter. Christmas morning he gives presents to everyone on board, starting with the children."

WEEK BEFORE

The presents, along with the passengers, are loaded on the ship in New York when the liner sails a week or so before the big day.

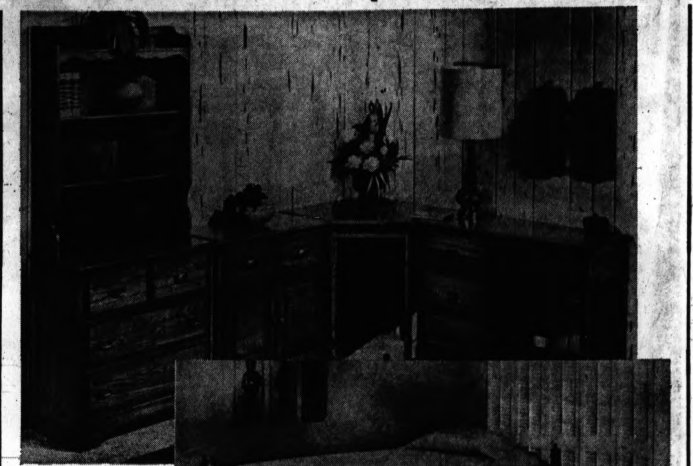

The ship is decorated with greens and glitter before it sails, and a large tree stands in its accustomed place in the lounge.

Mass is celebrated on Christmas Eve, followed by carol singing and a round of Tom and Jerrys. The menu for the traditional turkey dinner is printed on souvenir red and green handkerchiefs, to add a festive touch.

The cruise director says the ship has never been in port on Christmas Day and never a storm at that time to dampen celebrations.

Nearly 200,000 Americans wear leg braces and 139,000 have artificial limbs. About 250,000 others use wheelchairs.

1918 Tanks Involved in Fiery Verbal Battle

ABERDEEN, Md. (AP) — Two little tanks, which never went to war, are now artillery in an argument among antique auto fans.

Fierce Indians More Subdued

Yaqus Still Retain Many Tribal Customs

CUADRA OBREGON, Mex. (AP) — The fierce Yaqui Indians, once among this hemisphere's most feared warriors, are taking giant strides toward becoming peaceful cowboys and farmers.

Officially at peace with the Mexican government only since 1937, about 9,700 Yaquis today live quietly on 1,136,000 acres of land near this agricultural city in Sonora state.

Bronze-skinned and taciturn, they farm, raise cattle, maintain many of their tribal customs and look askance at prying outsiders.

Thousands of persons have seen a tribal Yaqui dance, the dance of the deer, at performances of Mexico's world-famous National Folklore Ballet, but few see it performed by the Yaquis themselves.

"These things are sacred, and not for idle, curious eyes," says a wizened Yaqui leader in turning away visitors.

TRIBAL CUSTOMS

The Indians' finality in guarding tribal customs stems from the same resoluteness with which they withstood the assaults of Spanish and Mexican invaders for 400 years.

Convinced that the Yaquis never could be subdued by force, Mexican President Lázaro Cárdenas gave official recognition in 1937 to their right to the land on which they now live.

The Yaquis still are ruled by tribal laws, and Mexican authorities tactfully avoid pressing them into any conflict with Mexican law.

The Mexican government does, however, take an active hand in the tribe's economic affairs.

BRANCH BANK

A branch of the National Bank of Agricultural Credit operates in the tribe's territory and its agricultural experts offer technical aid.

About $2.5 million a year is provided in credits for farming 49,420 acres and caring for 10,000 head of cattle.

One of the bank's technical experts, Jose Simon Nava Gomez, says the Yaquis are adapting well to the farm life and are beginning to see the logic in cattle-raising.

"We had a problem with the cattle at first," he says. "The Yaquis' way of thinking doesn't involve much planning for the future."

FIRST CATTLE

"When we first put cattle into the region, the Indians' first instinct was to slaughter them, divide the meat and have a feast."

"We finally convinced them that if they fatten the cattle up and sell them, they'd make enough money to buy a lot more meat."

"It took some talking, but now we can let cattle run free without worrying too much about anybody suddenly deciding he'll eat one."

Ft. Knox, Ky., recently claimed it had the world's oldest operating armored vehicle, a 1918 Ford tank.

Soldiers at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds have served notice that they too have a 1918 Ford tank. And what's more, theirs is more authentic.

To a casual observer, the two 3.1-ton tanks look alike. However, the Aberdeen tank is powered by its twin Model T Ford engines, while the Ft. Knox tank is run by a modern jeep engine.

"I would be against modifying any vintage machine with a modern motor," said J. Leonard Rhinehart, vice president of the Antique Automobile Club of America.

GO TO TROUBLE

"We go to all kinds of trouble to locate parts to get antique vehicles back in original condition," he said.

Leslie Henry, curator of transportation at the Henry Ford Museum, Dearborn, said, "The Aberdeen tank is restored as authentically as possible."

Of 15, originally produced, only the Knox and the Aberdeen tanks remain, and the Aberdeen vehicle is the only one that is complete. It is 90 per cent original and the other 10 per cent is authentic."

The Army ordered 15,000 of the tanks from Ford just before the World War I Armistice. When the armistice was signed, the order was canceled, but not before 15 of the little tanks were completed.

TANK DESIGN

Each tank was designed to carry two men and one 30-caliber machine gun. Cruising speed was 8 m.p.h.

One tank was tested here Nov. 2, 1918, and the progress report was filed Nov. 25, 14 days after the Armistice.

Then the little tank was forgotten and sat on the Proving Grounds until 1959.

"It struck me as a shame it couldn't be made to go again," recalled Arnold O. Sumpter, an antique auto buff from Perryville.

SITTING RUSTED

He said, "It was covered with honeysuckle and was rusting," when he first saw the old tank in 1959.

He and the Army got together and started restoring the old tank.

About the only things missing were the skids, which were originally attached to the tail of the tank to help it crawl over wide trenches.

Capt. R. W. Schreck of the Ordnance Corps went to Ft. Knox and photographed and measured their Ford tank's skids. Ordnance men then reproduced the missing hardware.

MACHINE READY

"Sumpter toolled around a neighbor's pasture for about three weeks in the tank before the final adjustments were made and the vehicle was pronounced ready for action."

However, the tank spends most of its time in the Ordnance Museum.

It sees action only on Armed Forces Day when it is run out to join its modern day counterparts, the hulking M40s, in a mobility and firepower contest.

Base Closings to Oust 28,500 Civilians

WASHINGTON (UPI)—About 28,500 Defense Department civilians will lose their jobs because of the Pentagon's order closing 95 military bases.

The largest job reduction, however, in the big economy move will be borne by the military which will lose 34,000 positions.

The elimination or reduction in the number of domestic and foreign bases and jobs is expected to save $477 million a year, the Defense Department said yesterday in making public figures on the number of jobs being eliminated.

The announcement also revealed that a halt on the hiring of blue collar workers and restrictions on employment of white collar positions have been in effect in the Defense Department since Nov. 20, the day after the base closing move was announced.

Neither Shulman nor Assistant Defense Secretary Arthur Sylvester, who also participated in the news conference, could say whether the elimination of military jobs would result in a reduction in military strength.

ing to move are to be offered new employment. In its normal payroll turnover, the Defense Department usually hires 135,000 civilians a year.

SOME UNWILLING
Deputy Assistant Defense Secretary Stephen Shulman told a news conference that undoubtedly some of those losing jobs will remain unemployed because they are unwilling to move, even at government expense.

He said this always has been the case in past base closings, but that job opportunities at other locations always have been offered to everyone.

The armed services now number just under 2.7 million men. The Pentagon said an aggressive program to find new jobs for those losing employment already has begun, and that it includes sending experts to places affected.

For example, an official who had experience in placing those who lost jobs when the San Diego naval repair facility was closed has been assigned to the Brooklyn Navy Yard and already is on the scene.

The computer system already is being tried on a pilot basis in Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin, with the computers located at the Defense Electronic Supply Center in Dayton, Ohio.

The department said the blanket freeze on blue-collar hiring will be in effect until next Feb.

28, when more "selective" restrictions will be ordered.

The nationwide computer system is expected to go into operation about the same time.

Iron Curtain Erected at Yale Party

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (U)—"The undercurrent was a bit tense," an assistant professor at Yale said today after a face to face meeting with a Soviet editor he had accused of being an "ideological watchdog."

The meeting yesterday at a Yale reception climaxed an academic controversy that began earlier this week when the faculty member, Charles A. Moser, criticized the makeup of a Soviet literary delegation.

The delegation included Alexander Chakovsky, editor of the Moscow Literary Gazette.

"I just wanted to present myself so it wouldn't be said I was content to work at a distance," explained Moser, who had urged the Yale community to give the Russian delegation "a minimal amount of hospitality."

Moser, a specialist in Slavic languages, had singled out Chakovsky, the delegation's senior member, and a poet, Robert Rozhddestvensky.

The poet, Moser said, was violently anti-American and Chakovsky an "ideological watchdog" and a "literary bureaucrat and hatchman."

"I can't say articles like that can lift our mood and make our journey very pleasant," Chakovsky told newsmen upon his arrival.

"I should like to say that all of us are ready to face Prof. Moser and to say to him what we think of him."

Chakovsky got his chance when the 30-year-old Moser approached him as he stood midway between two punch bowls in Yale's Woolsey Hall.

"The whole exchange involved a good deal of emotional reserve on both sides," said Moser.

Both Chakovsky and Moser gave separate versions of the three-minute encounter. It ended with the pipe-smoking editor saying "Okay" and turning his back to talk to someone else.

What was said was said in Russian.

WOMEN'S SECTION

Musicians Are Distracted by 'Show' in the Front Row

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Mine is a small problem compared to others, but it is still a problem. I play in the symphony orchestra, and a woman who has a season ticket sits in the front row at every performance.

She is very careless about her position, Abby. The way she sits, I mean.

This is very embarrassing to some of our orchestra personnel, and especially disconcerting during a concert. What can be done?

I think someone ought to tell her. My wife says I should mind my own business. I'd like your opinion.

WOOD WIND

DEAR WOOD WIND: She may be a patron, so keep still. Or imagine she's a cello player without her cello. Or better yet, keep your eyes on the music. P. S. Your wood wind is sighing.

DEAR ABBY: Re your advice to "EMBARRASSED," the woman who ditched the nude statues when she saw the preacher coming up the road:

I don't agree with you. If the woman's son is an art major, and got his sculpture in Italy, they might well be works of art rather than pornography.

Concert Slated
by Sorority

Four women will perform at the 8 p.m. Friday concert of the Detroit Alumnae chapter, Mu Phi Epsilon in the Woodward Avenue Presbyterian church.

Darla Dadeppo, violinist; Mrs. Millard Meador, vocalist; Mrs. George Williams, accompanist and Mrs. William Evans, organist will star at the event open to the public.

The concert will be preceded by a family night dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Was "EMBARRASSED" born in a corset? And did the preacher come into this world fully clothed?

Some bare facts are cleaner than nasty minds fully clothed in ignorance.

ART FOR ART'S SAKE
IN SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the art major's mother in Blytheville, Arkansas reminded me of this incident:

While touring Italy, "in a n y years ago, I bought a small, but, splendid replica of Michelangelo's David. My wife's mother lived with us at the time.

The poor inhibited little soul was terribly embarrassed at the sight of this magnificently formed, young, unadorned male body, so she KNIT him a "dress."

And our David wore that knit dress for as long as my mother-in-law lived.

4 Officers

Four officers were reelected to their posts at a Tuesday evening meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Metropolitan Club, Spirit 6.

New officers this year include Mrs. Henry St. John, vice president; Mrs. Leslie H. Dean Sr., sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Evi Allen, three year trustee; and Mrs. John Wilson, parliamentarian.

INSTALLATION PLANS

Plans for installation of officers for the Auxiliary and Spirit are being made for Jan. 9.

Named committee members to assist the Metropolitan Club Spirit for the Goodfellow Paper Sale Dec. 12 are Mrs. DePaw, Mrs. Isenberg, Mrs. Clay Parrett, Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Harold Wright.

Santa to Visit OU Chorus Early

Santa Claus is promising early delivery of 26 long white gowns at Oakland University where the university's chorus will perform Handel's Messiah with the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra, 7:30 p.m. Dec. 13.

The gowns are needed because the choir has expanded to 140 voices. A volunteer committee first donated and sewed white sheath evening gowns for women members of the chorus two years ago.

Santa Claus for the Oakland University Chorus is Mrs. Stephen DuBrul of Lake George Road, whose idea it was that the feminine chorists should be gowned in the University colors of white and gold while the male chorists appear in tuxedos.

She organized the volunteer committee when the chorus was invited to perform with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra at Ford Auditorium.

SPECIAL SPECIALTY Since then, the group has become the only university traveling chorus specializing in performing with symphonies.

The group has sung with the Minneapolis, Saginaw and South Oakland symphonies as well as with Pontiac and Detroit. It has a performance scheduled in the spring with the Scandinavian Symphony Orchestra.

While Mrs. DuBrul's committee sews the chorus under the direction of its new conductor, George V. Cripps, associate professor of music, is rehearsing the entire Christmas portions of The Messiah.

Buy Wisely

Toys Vital to Growth

Although our Puritan ancestors frowned upon such frivolous activity as play, psychologists now know that it is a vitally important part of a child's growth. And it starts in the cradle.

Fathers who rush out to buy electric trains for their newborn sons are a bit premature. In fact, that particular boy may not care for toy trains. At any rate, he won't be ready for electric ones for nearly a decade.

His home is the child's first classroom. Here, he develops one-half of his lifetime intelligence before he is four years old, according to experts.

PARENTS CAN SEE

It is the parent who must determine what toys are best at a given age. He must observe the child to find out whether he likes toys with which to build, pound, imitate or create.

Most children like toys that stimulate their imagination. They want to try their budding skills and to imitate the adult world around them.

Certain classic toys have never gone out of style for the preschooler set — blocks, pounding benches, pegboards, wagons, wooden trucks and puzzles.

As any parent knows, children thrive on noise. Some of the above classics have incorporated sound and music in them.

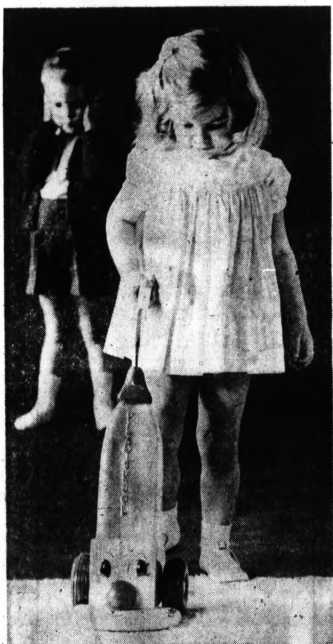

MUST BE STUDY

Knowing parents make sure that toys are soundly constructed. Flimsy playthings are not only disappointing to the child, but sometimes dangerous and always costly.

Pictured here are a number of new toys for this Christmas. The Pontiac Press does not have local outlets for them, but they, or similar toys, are apt to be found in any large toy department.

Further information for parents interested in knowing more about the significance of play and the selection of proper toys for the preschooler is available in a free booklet called "Playtools to Shape A Child's World." The booklet may be obtained by writing Playtool Research, 437 Merchandise Mart, Chicago.

There's satisfying sound and action in Playtool's new Pop-Pop Sweeper for the youngest lady-of-the-house. When it's pushed, colorful wooden balls strike the see-through, "dust receptacle" with a muted, staccato pop-pop. This newest push toy has the colorful face of a clown on its wooden base, a white rubber hand-grip, and non-marking balloon tires of polyethylene.

Stack-A-Ringo permits a child free, imaginative play. By stacking the seven plastic rings on the post, and then the plastic head, the child makes a beautiful bird. Hitting down on the wood rocker base allows him to send the bird (tail, rings, and head) a-flying, delighting every youngster with the action and the surprise. Made by Transogram Co., Inc.

Playtool's Big Big Workbench stimulates a child's imagination, develops coordination, and provides an opportunity to become familiar with tools and their uses. A two-in-one toy, the removable bench top can be used for pounding and coordination play, while the base of the bench becomes a saw horse with tray. Patterned after Dad's basement workshop, the deluxe workbench is equipped with wooden claw hammer, screwdriver, tri-square, peen hammer, 10 bolting cleats, vise, wooden nails, saw, plastic wrench; three nuts and bolts, five screws, and a heavy cotton work apron.

Event to Highlight Flower Arranging

"Driftwood and Dry Flowers" will be the theme when the Christian Women's club meets at Devon Gables for luncheon next Wednesday at 12:30 p.m.

Mrs. George Wilson will bring some materials from her store at Interlochen to demonstrate techniques for making floral arrangements.

Teens, Leather Go Together

Teens and leather still go together. This is the season that teen bags swing back to leather from plastics.

The newest bags are in scotch grain and mahogany-cordovan with totes popular, as always, and moderate-sized handled bags in style.

To Travel Light

To prevent travel from becoming burdensome, here are the things you should leave at home: wide-brimmed hats, long-handled umbrellas, breakable bottles, bulky robes and heavy books.

Seat Belts Safe for Everyone

CHICAGO — Expectant mothers may use a seat belt in all stages of pregnancy "with as much safety as it is used by the rest of the population," in the opinion of Dr. John R. Rodger, of Belleaire.

If a patient is in the late months of pregnancy, the belt should be fitted around the lower third of the abdomen, he reported in the Question and Answer section of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Another consultant, Dr. Frank E. Rubovits, of Chicago reported that the "harness-type" seat belt is preferable in such cases.

Fringe Benefits

What Does She Want?

By MIRIAM NEAL

Few American Santa Claus-es go "ho, ho, ho" when confronted with the prospect of buying their wife a Christmas present.

Ignorance of the female mind or fear of feminine frippery is no excuse. With a few basic rules and nerves of steel any man can find just the right gift.

The kind of gift you want is something she would not buy for herself — one she would classify as "too extravagant," "too special" or "not practical."

One such gift would be an evening bag like the one pictured. The white satin envelope, available locally, is highlighted by a classic design of pearls and rhinestones.

and retreats before he ever reaches the lingerie department. He shouldn't of course. It's perfectly respectable for him to be there and very complimentary to the recipient-to-be.

For those braving the 'sheer danger' for the first time, here are a few things to keep in mind:

- Don't be self conscious.
- Know her favorite color. Most women love pale blue and pink. Red is gay, festive and provocative and white never wears out its welcome.
- Lingerie has two looks: tailored and feminine. Most women have two personalities and are fond of both looks.
- Know her size. Ask sneaky questions or sneak a peak in the bureau drawer. A more direct approach is to ask her to fill out a general size chart.

BUYING SCENTS

There is no need to go around with your head in a cloud of spray mists if you have decided to get her favorite scent.

Fragrances can be purchased in several forms. The most concentrated and long-lasting is perfume. Next is toilet water. The lightest is cologne.

When choosing a scent, it's safest to duplicate her own favorite or pick one of the more familiar brand names. If you would like to live dangerously you can select your own.

Take small strips of a white blotter to the store and ask for samples to be placed on separate strips. Wave, smell and choose the one that matches your wife's personality.

'SHEER DANGER'

Many a brave man falters

SELECTING FURS

If you decide to buy a fur, one precaution: make sure the furrier is reliable.

Other gift ideas include: a good leather purse (shoulder bags are the newest hit), and jewelry (reptile pins and bracelets, copies of antique jewelry and swinging drop earrings are the current trend).

Small gifts, good for stocking stuffers, include: pretty nylon net caps for covering hair rollers, bath brushes, bath lotteries or one of the new lipsticks that taste like the fruit they are named after.

First in America to Deck a Tree

Credit for decorating the first Christmas tree in the United States generally is given to a group of Hessian soldiers.

It is believed that the Hessians, hired by King George III, to fight the American colonists, decorated a tree at Christmas, in keeping with their own Germanic traditions.

Eye Makeup Now Seen More

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The eyes and mouth are the two most expressive features in any face. Eyes have really come into their own in recent years. Women who never used eye makeup before do so habitually now.

As a matter of fact, we are likely to appear washed out without it when in the midst of the mascara, false eyelashes, eyeliner and eye shadow of others.

The more we highlight the eyes, the more we call attention to tiny defects surrounding them. The skin and tissues under the eyes are sensitive and thin. For this reason this area requires special and gentle care.

In order to avoid lines put an eye cream about the eyes at night and avoid squinting by wearing glasses if you need them and colored glasses when in the sun.

Many women look much older than they otherwise would because of bags under the eyes. These can be quite extreme. The eyelids may also droop with age.

PLASTIC SURGERY

I know of nothing which will banish the bags except plastic surgery. The fatty deposits which cause them can be successfully removed by a competent specialist.

Dark circles harass many women and certainly are not to be desired. Sometimes these are due to poor health, extreme underweight, malnutrition or some organic or systemic disorder.

However, many women in excellent health have these circles. They seem to be inherited. In this case camouflage is your answer. You can cover them with makeup.

A junior and a senior at Michigan State University are planning a March 24 wedding. Dietre Kaiser and James A. Riecks are the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Chefs' Secret for Scrubbing

Do you love Christmas but hate cleaning holiday pots and pans? Like most women, you may have marveled at shiny restaurant utensils wondering how they could be scrubbed so clean and yet not scorch and burn.

Here's the secret of short-order chefs. Scrub your pots as they do, with common table salt and a paper towel.

Rinse the soiled utensil under water and sprinkle with table salt. Scour lightly with a crumpled paper towel.

Then rinse in clear water and dry. Because salt can't scratch the surface, this method is even safe for Teflon-coated pans.

Use fine sandpaper to smooth a small nick on a piece of glassware.

A New Design for the Laundry

Everything that comes out of the linen closet for the holidays eventually ends up in the laundry room. If you find yourself doing a lot of walking on post-party Mondays, maybe your laundry room needs reorganizing. Where space is at a minimum, try an L-shaped design to help save steps.

The key items are an automatic washer, clothes dryer, sorting table or counter and sink — and, if space permits, a sewing and ironing area.

Another real labor-saver is an automatic bleach dispenser, which about 33 per cent of washing-machine buyers will get this year.

Polly's Pointers

For Marks on Cloth

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — A nail-white pencil is just the thing to use in marking notches, buttonholes and pockets when cutting out material.

The nail-white pencil shows up on dark material and does not rub off before you are ready to use it the way chalk marks so often do.

However, always make the marks on the wrong side of the fabric. — BLANCHE

DEAR POLLY — I read in the column that a lady who sews her own clothes makes two buckles for her dress belts as they wear out first.

I also make an extra buckle for ready-made dresses by using the back neck facing or any extra material on the wrong side of the dress. — MRS. G. E. G.

DEAR POLLY — Those of us who do not have clocks in our cars will find that strapping a child's wrist watch to the center arm of the steering wheel is a great help when trying to get places on time or to see how travel time is going.

It is easily seen and the original watchband fits just fine.

If you are about to dispose of a lawn chair (the kind made of aluminum tubing and webbing) because a section of the tubing is broken, try this:

Insert an appropriate size piece of an old broom handle into the broken aluminum tubing and secure it with short nails to make the piece usable again. The broken sections are reunited like magic. — MARY ALICE

Bags Can Go Inside Baggage

Plastic bags simplify packing for holiday trips and protect your clothes from shoe smudges. Use utility-size bags for sweaters, shirts, lingerie and large items.

Sandwich-size bags can be used to separate sets of jewelry, hair clips, nail polish, cosmetics and keep them from tangling with your clothes. Extra plastic bags are convenient for soiled clothes.

Wash blood stains immediately with cold water. Hot water will set the stains.

Promising to duplicate faithfully "every contour and measurement of a woman's figure" is a new personalized dress form made of molded plastic foam.

Then the cover is zippered onto a form, which is compressed into an exact replica of the woman's figure.

Guest Limit Is Made by Each Side

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: My son is going to be married shortly. I sent my list of guests to the bride's mother. The other day while speaking to some friends whose names I had included on this list, I asked them if they were coming to the wedding.

They said they hadn't received invitations. I was very much surprised to hear this as I knew the invitations had been sent out. I called the bride's mother to inquire about this.

She said she had to cut my list and omitted the last five names. I was furious over this and told her she had no right to do such a thing.

She said she was paying for the wedding and had every right to cut my list.

I am still seething over this and think she was definitely wrong. May I please have your opinion?

A: The bride's family has the right to limit the number of wedding guests, and even if the bride's mother failed to tell you how many guests you could invite when she asked for your list, it was her prerogative to ask you to cut five names from it.

However, she was very definitely wrong to remove the names herself without letting you decide which ones to eliminate.

The clothes of the bride's and groom's parents as well as those of the wedding guests are described in the Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Correct Clothes for a Wedding Reception."

To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Emily Post Institute, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Since the fireplace will be decked out in Christmas finery and made custodian of the stockings, it deserves to be cleaned up and made presentable. A solution of sal soda concentrated is the prescribed antidote for disfiguring soot stains.

Sal Soda Will Clean That Fireplace

Traditionally the fireplace is one of the focal points in the house during the holidays. It gets fancied up in greenery. It's the custodian of Christmas stockings. It deserves to look its best. So, before you and your decorating crew go into action, do give it a face-lifting.

Chief offender you have to contend with is the soot stain. For unglazed brick, which is the most common fireplace material, dust it well and then scrub it down with a bucket of hot water spiked with a cup of sal soda concentrated.

If the bricks have faded and you want to restore them to their original color, give them a coat of cold water paint after first consulting your local paint dealer on the proper shade and washing them down with the sal soda solution.

Or you can try what Mark Twain described in The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn . . . "the bricks were kept clean and red by pouring water on them and scrubbing them down with another brick."

Stone fireplaces, those made of quarry tile, bluestone, slate, flagstone or magnesite, are porous and so is the concrete in which they are set. When washed with soap-type cleaners, a scum forms on the concrete which cannot be completely rinsed away. A hot sal soda solution applied with a stiff-bristled brush is the recommended cleanser.

In the case of a slate fireplace, you can give it a dark, lustrous look after it's washed by carefully applying a little lemon oil and then wiping it with a clean cloth to remove the excess polish.

Plastic Trees Endure Years

Those popular plastic Christmas trees are sturdy enough to last for years, their flexible needles do not shed, and they can be washed.

Ranging from table size to eight feet tall, they come in white, silver, gold, and pink as well as traditional green.

Plastic trees made with hinged branches that fold flat can be immersed in suds in a washtub or bathtub, then rinsed and dried.

For Slick Deck

Sift a little talcum powder on playing cards that have become sticky. Shuffle the deck thoroughly to distribute the powder. Makes cards as slick as new.

Yards of Cloth Add to Holiday

An inexpensive way to add gay Christmas touches to the home is with yards of red or green machine-washable fabric printed with pine cones, big red bows, and other special holiday designs.

This sturdy piece goods can be used to make Christmas-time place mats, table runners, tree skirts, kitchen towels, aprons, cafe curtains, pinafores, and bibs.

Bias Tape Has Unlimited Uses

Those short pieces of bias tape left from your sewing can often be used to bind a pot holder, baby's bib or some such small article.

They also can be used for binding the ends of dish towels. One color may be used on one end, and another on the other.

Lovely Plants Can Harbor Tragic Danger

Beware! Your gay poinsettia and even the innocent mistletoe can be harbingers of tragedy.

Common ingredients of holiday decorations, both plants are poisonous.

The leaves, stems and milky sap of the poinsettia can cause, at the least, a skin irritation and, if swallowed, severe gastroenteritis, perhaps even death.

DON'T EAT THEM

If eaten, all parts of the mistletoe are dangerous, with the berries particularly toxic. Have a Merry Christmas. Protect your family against calamity by being doubly careful.

Triangle Club Show Is Coming!

The Princeton Triangle club, now in its 76th year, will present their musical comedy "Grape Expectations" at the Masonic Temple in Detroit Dec. 28.

A number of former Triangle club members from the Princeton Club of Michigan will be on the welcoming committee when the undergrads arrive in Detroit.

Charles W. Williams of Birmingham is chairman of the Detroit production this year. He was manager of the 1938 show.

William W. Stewart of Bloomfield Township is in charge of ticket sales. In 1941 he was a member of the Triangle Orchestra and in the chorus for the 1943 production.

WORKING ON PLANS

Brice Ocho and Paul L. Penfield of Birmingham will also be working on production plans for the Detroit show.

Both Tarkington organized the Triangle club in 1888. Joe Fyfe, Josh Logan and Jimmy Stewart are among the personalities who have starred in shows during their college years.

"East of the Sun, West of the Moon," and "Love on a Dime" are among the popular songs it has produced.

Tickets for this Triangle club presentation are on sale at Grinnells.

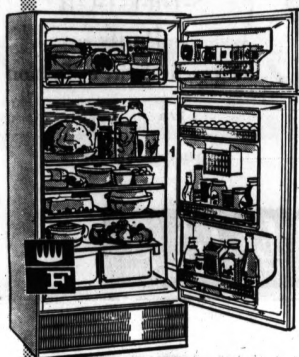

Members of the Princeton club of Michigan gathered recently at the University club to plan the Detroit production of the Princeton Triangle club show, "Grape Expectations." Included on the show committee are Birmingham residents

Spring Shoes to Be Softer

Sunday Work Not Wanted

How to Brighten Christmas Tree

Making old-fashioned ornaments to hang on Christmas trees can be a delightful project for youngsters at home, scout groups or adults.

A new idea in durable tree ornaments utilizes empty plastic bleach bottles. First, cut off the top and bottom of a large plastic container. Sift the large round band that was the middle of the bottle and lay it out flat.

Trace the outline of your design on the plastic, and cut it out with a sharp blade or scissors.

Pierce a small hole at the top with an ice pick or paper punch for the loop or ornament hanger. Decorate with paint, nail polish, sequins, yarn, fabric scraps or other, your imagination decrees.

Red Container You Can Make

Need a spectacular red container for a Christmas floral arrangement? Cover a one or two pound coffee can, a one quart mayonnaise jar, or a tall glass, with a crimson adhesive covering.

Keep arrangements of pine boughs, holly and berries intact by packing paper toweling around the inside of the container, then filling it with water. The arrangement will stay intact and moisture will reach all ends equally.

Many Factors Responsible for Increase in Cheese Eating

Americans are eating more cheese than they did 50 years ago, relates the District Extension Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawver. On the average, we each ate about three times as much cheese in 1961 as in the early 1900s.

In the period 1947-49 Americans used 7 pounds of cheese per person annually. Ten years later the average was 7.9 pounds per person.

In 1964, it is estimated that we will use about 9.3 pounds of cheese per person.

Several reasons account for our increased use of cheese.

Rising incomes account for our greater use of cheese. As family incomes increase, so do purchases of dairy products. Too, higher incomes have allowed us to travel more and to become acquainted with a wide variety of cheese.

We also eat more cheese than a few decades ago because of the additional new products and packages made available. From 50 to 100 varieties of cheese are offered in most food stores in this area. Nationally, more than 400 varieties are produced. The distinctive flavor and texture characteristics of each cheese is due to the kind of milk used, the method used for curdling the milk, the type of bacteria or molds used in ripening cheese, and the length of the ripening period. But all cheese is made from one basic ingredient — milk.

In fact, 11 per cent of the milk produced annually in the United States goes to make over one and one-half billion pounds of cheese each year.

American cheese dishes are most often built around the firm, yellow cheddar cheese which may be called American, Longhorn, Colby, cracker-barrel, or store cheese. Its name comes from the shape of the large bulk unit from which portions are cut.

Degree of ripening or aging contributes the mildness or sharpness of the flavor, and its relative cost.

In 1963, the production of American cheddar cheese was 1,125 million pounds — second largest on record — and three per cent above 1962. Production of other varieties of whole milk and part skim cheese increased two per cent to 569 million pounds, a record high.

Our use of cheddar cheese has increased from 5.2 pounds per person in 1947 to 6.3 pounds per person in 1963.

Smart shoppers consider these points when buying cheddar and other types of cheeses:

• Mild cheddar costs less per pound than sharp cheddar because sharp flavored cheeses are aged longer, and are therefore stored longer.

• The price of a large package of cheese is usually less per pound than the same cheese in small packages.

• The price of cheese produced in this country is less per pound than for imported cheese of the same variety, and it may be superior in quality.

• The price of cheese which is cut and wrapped in the store is usually less per pound than similar pre-packaged cheese.

• Blocks or wedges of cheese cost less per pound than the same type of cheese when it is sliced, cubed, or shredded.

• Cheese is ready to serve without cooking. If cheese is used in cooking, use low temperatures. High temperatures or long cooking makes cheese tough and stringy.

• One-half pound of cheese equals about two cups when shredded.

Celery Is Mixed With Mushrooms

To vary a vegetable, and surprise guests, you may want to serve this "different" combination.

Celery Francs
3 cups celery francs, 1/4 to 1/2 inch thick.
1 cup boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons butter
1 large onion, finely chopped (1 scant cup)

1 can (6 ounces) chopped mushrooms, drained
Freshly-ground pepper to taste

In a medium covered saucepan, boil the celery with the boiling water and salt until just tender — 5 to 8 minutes; drain. In the saucepan cook the onion and mushrooms in the butter until the onion is golden. Add celery and reheat; stir in pepper. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Nutty Recipes Are Stars of Holiday

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Last week, a fat package of pecan meats arrived at our house from Texas; my mother always sends me a supply for my holiday baking.

So many Christmas recipes call for nuts that you will do well to get your supply early. Perhaps you can get the whole family to help you crack the ones you buy in the shell.

Just yesterday a reader called in to ask if we knew any easy way to extract Bra-

Use some of them in this airy dessert.

Butterscotch Walnut Whip
1 4-ounce package butterscotch pudding and pie filling mix
1 tablespoon (1 envelope) unflavored gelatin
1½ cups (large can) undiluted evaporated milk
1 cup water
½ cup chopped California walnuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Combine pudding mix, gelatin, one cup evaporated milk and water in saucepan. Cook according to pudding-mix label directions. Whip pudding until smooth. Add walnuts and vanilla.

Chill ½ cup evaporated milk in refrigerator tray until soft crystals form around edges (15-18 minutes). Whip until stiff (1 minute). Fold whipped evaporated milk into pudding mixture.

Spoon into sherbet glasses. Garnish with walnut halves. Chill in refrigerator and serve for dessert or at snack time. Makes 8-10 servings.

Recipes for food to serve at open house affairs are always welcome during the holidays. Pecans are an important part of this one.

Holiday Cheese Ball
2 8-ounce packages cream cheese
1 8½ oz. can crushed pineapple, drained
2 cups chopped pecans
¼ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 tablespoon seasoned salt
Pineapple slices
Maraschino cherries
Parsley
Soften cream cheese; gradually stir in crushed pineapple, 1 cup pecans, green pepper, onion and salt. Chill well. Form into a ball and roll in 1 cup pecans. Chill until serving. Garnish with twists of pineapple slices, maraschino cherries and parsley. Serve with assorted crackers.

BUTTERSCOTCH WALNUT WHIP

all nuts from their shells. Here are two methods we gave her:

1. Cover the unshelled nuts with cold water; bring to a boil and boil 3 minutes; drain. Cover with cold water; let stand one minute; drain and crack.

2. Place unshelled nuts in the freezer for several hours before cracking.

Before trying to slice Brazil nuts, cover the shelled nuts with cold water and bring slowly to a boil; simmer 5 minutes; drain.

Slice lengthwise with a knife or use a vegetable peeler to make paper-thin lengthwise slices that will curl.

For finely chopped Brazils, put them through the food grinder, using coarse blade. For coarsely chopped nuts, use a French knife on chopping board.

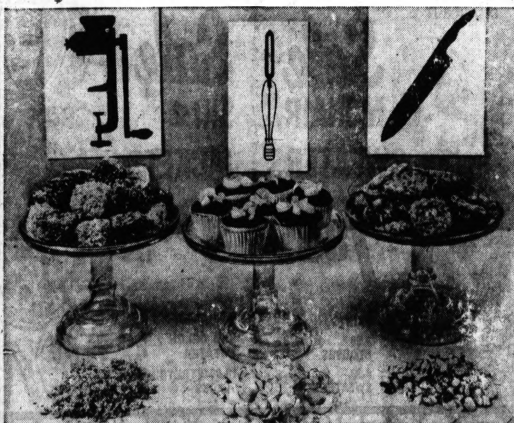

Use the knife chopping method for the nuts in this cookie.

Lacy Wafers
¾ cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup dark molasses
¼ cup butter (melted)
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup quick-cooking rolled oats
1 cup chopped Brazil nuts
Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar into a mixing bowl. Add milk, molasses, butter and vanilla; stir in rolled oats and nuts.

Drop level teaspoons of the mixture, each 2 inches apart, on greased and floured cookie sheets. Bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven 6 to 8 minutes.

Cool about 1 minute; remove to wire rack. Makes about 8 dozen.

What our mothers and grandmothers call English walnuts are now referred to as California walnuts. They are easy to get out of the shell whole.

VERSATILE BRAZIL NUTS — Ground fine in a food chopper, they cover frosted cake squares; curled with a vegetable peeler, they decorate cup cakes; knife-chopped, they go into Lacy Wafers.

Colorful Dessert

This lovely fruit compote will be a favorite family dessert. Combine canned pear halves and apricot halves in serving dish with syrup; spoon canned whole cranberry sauce over the fruits. Five to six servings.

Bean Recipes Vary in Calories

We know every calorie counts, but the rigid regimentation of pushing oneself away from the dinner table is not always easy. To help keep your family trim, count calories in the kitchen. It's really quite easy.

For example, take canned green or wax beans. Each average 3½ ounce serving as it comes from the can provides a mere 18 calories.

Thanks to modern technology and canning know-how, the beans are garden fresh and tasty without added seasonings or sauces. The newest style in canned beans, a diagonal bite-size cut, adds even more natural eye and flavor appeal.

Now for the calorie count down: If you'd like to serve canned diagonal-cut beans with low-cal personal touch, try zippy sweet 'n sour Piccadilly Beans. Total calories jump only to 44.

If calories aren't a problem in your family, try Honey Bear Beans. They are laced with a butter-honey sauce and chopped walnuts. The calorie count—135 per serving.

PICCADILLY BEANS

(44 calories per serving)
1 16-oz. can diagonal-cut wax beans, drained
¼ cup drained bean liquid
¼ cup cider vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper

1 tablespoon diced pimiento
Combine reserved bean liquid with vinegar, sugar, salt and pepper in small saucepan. Add drained canned beans and pimiento; let stand several hours, mixing occasionally. Simmer several minutes or until heated through. Yield: 4 servings.

HONEY BEAR BEANS

(135 calories per serving)
1 16-oz. can diagonal-cut green beans, drained
1½ tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
2 tablespoons honey
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup chopped walnuts

Drain liquid from canned beans into a small saucepan. Bring to a boil; add drained canned beans. Simmer several minutes or until beans are heated through. Drain thoroughly.

Drizzle with melted butter or margarine blended with honey and salt. Sprinkle with chopped walnuts. Yield: 4 servings.

Add Corn to Soup Mix for Chowder-Like Dish

Give chicken noodle soup mix a different "touch" by adding a bit of "imagination." Cook 3 slices bacon until crisp; remove and crumble. Pour off excess drippings. Add ½ cup (3 cups) cold water; bring to boil. Stir in 1 can (1½-ozs.) chicken noodle dry soup mix. Partially cover; simmer 7 minutes, stirring now and then.

Add ½ cup cooked whole kernel corn along with the crumbled bacon. Heat, stirring. Makes enough for 3 to 4.

Sprouts Are Miniature Cabbages

Choose Brussels sprouts which are bright in appearance and have a good green color. They should be hard or firm, compact, and of course, fresh. One pound will make 4 or 5 servings.

Although they will keep a few days in the refrigerator, like most vegetables, the sooner Brussels sprouts are used, the better.

Sprouts are essentially miniature cabbages. So they should be cooked and can be served in ways similar to cabbage, advise USDA home economists.

If necessary, trim off bruised, wilted or yellowed outer leaves. Soak the sprouts at least 30 minutes in cold salted water to remove any insects from the tight leaves.

Boil 15 to 20 minutes in just enough salted water to cover the little heads.

Artificial Respiration Ought to Be Known

Children age 4, 3 and 17 months were playing in the yard with a small plastic wading pool. The youngest child stumbled into the pool, struck his head and lay stunned with his head under water.

Cries of the other children brought mother from the house. She snatched the baby from the pool and her screams brought neighbors. The neighbors called the fire department.

By the time the fire department arrived, the baby was dead.

The grief-stricken mother, several hours later, took her husband's service revolver and shot herself.

The firemen worked on the baby eight minutes without results.

DIDN'T KNOW HOW

The newspaper report of the tragedy did not say whether the neighbors who called the fire department applied artificial respiration. Apparently they didn't know how. Likewise the child's mother.

I'm afraid a lot of mothers and a lot of fathers, too, don't know how to resuscitate a child or an adult rescued from submersion.

Every man, woman and child should be required to receive instructions in artificial respiration.

tion, from a Red Cross or other agency.

Now I hate to say this but I must. The loss of her baby was all the young mother could bear—but the thought that she might have saved the baby by immediate artificial respiration, which any 6-year-old child should be prepared to apply, was more than she could bear.

STUDY MANUAL

Even without personal instruction by an expert, any child or adult may learn how to apply artificial respiration in an emergency by studying the manual obtainable from Red Cross headquarters in your own community or by studying Little Lesson 21, "How to Breathe," which gives illustrated instructions in both methods, the mouth-pressure method and the mouth-to-mouth method.

For a copy of "How to Breathe," send me 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

It is all very well to call the fire department, the police, an ambulance or a physician in any emergency, but the individual who can only stand by and wait for such help to arrive may have his sin on his conscience the rest of his life.

Send letters, not more than one page each, with first name, last name, birth date and address, to: Red Cross, 1000 N. 1st St., Pontiac, Mich. 48106. (Copyright, 1964)

Poles Cheer Cardinal

On Return From Rome

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Cheers of "long live our father," greeted Stefan Cardinal Wysynski, the Roman Catholic primate of Poland, as he returned to Warsaw from the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

He was met by several hundred priests and Catholic laymen as he went back yesterday to his Communist-ruled homeland. Catholics gave the 63-year-old cardinal bouquets as he stepped from the train and he jokingly asked the throng: "Are you going to admit me to the city?"

A Greek explorer, Pytheas of Massalia, reputedly sailed up the coast of Norway in 325 B.C.

Opening lead—♠ 7.

A spade lead produced the king from West and the ace from dummy. Sam led a diamond from dummy and finessed his ten spot. Then he led a second spade toward dummy. If West had played low, Sam would have made five odd, but West took his queen to save the second overtrick.

It is the normal practice for the Italians to bid these close games. It pays to do so in International Match Point scoring but this time their North-South pair stopped a conservative two-no-trump. A heart was opened, but declarer guessed the diamond correctly and made the same 10 tricks that Slayman had.

By OSWALD JACOBY

The United States increased its lead substantially on hand 10 of the final match against Italy at the World Bridge Olympiad.

Sam Slayman, sitting South, passed originally, then jumped to two no-trump. Eventual, he arrived at three no-trump with 11 high-card points opposite 12 points in dummy.

Such contracts don't always make, but this time everything worked out perfectly for declarer.

U.S. Ownership of Vast Segments of the Canadian Economy Is Causing Concern

EDITOR'S NOTE — Canada has gone its own way on trade with Cuba and Red China. But what happens in Washington and Wall Street still sends shock waves through Canada. The following, fourth of five articles, details common Canadian complaints about U.S. influence.

By MAX HARRELSON
OTTAWA (AP) — Canadians are determined not to let their country become a U.S. satellite — or even to have the appearance of being one. They have demonstrated their political independence by trading with Cuba and Red China, and they are moving toward the eventual recognition of the Peking government. But they are tied closely to the United States both through the North American defense system and through the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Since last year, they have had American-owned nuclear warheads at two Canadian missile bases. For this reason, they are extremely sensitive to U.S. foreign policy decisions. KEEN INTEREST This accounts in part for the keen interest Canadians showed in the U.S. presidential election. Both Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson and opposition leader John G. Diefenbaker quickly hailed President Johnson's victory as a guarantee of continued friendly relations between the United States and Canada. On economic matters, Canadian nationalists find it much more difficult to assert their independence. The two countries do more business with each other than with anybody else.

There have been efforts by both main political parties to discourage foreign investments, but the pressure of provincial governments and of business was so great that the proposed measures were dropped. At present, U.S. investments are increasing.

Also means that huge sums of money flow abroad in interest and dividends. Foreign control of Canadian economy worries Canadians and hurts their pride. BUSINESS SLUMP They are afraid, for example, that in the event of a business slump, U.S. owners might close their Canadian subsidiaries and cause large-scale unemployment, while keeping their U.S. plants in operation. They also resent the application of U.S. laws, such as those restricting exports to Cuba and Red China, to Canadian subsidiaries.

Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp has said Canada is not worried that the United States will be unfriendly but that it may "neglect to take our legitimate interests into account."

In 1963, Martin said, Canadian exports of automobiles and parts to the United States amounted to $36 million while imports of automobiles and parts from the United States totaled $600 million. This is due mainly to the fact that Canada's automobile industry — almost all U.S. owned — consists largely of assembly plants and that high tariffs make exports to the United States difficult.

Canada now is trying to get the United States to end the tariffs so that Canada can build more cars for the U.S. market. NEXT: National Culture.

To Alliance for Progress Goals

Rural Latin Areas Are Major Obstacle

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Underdeveloped and isolated rural farming areas in Latin America present one of the major obstacles to fulfillment of Alliance for Progress goals.

Said an Inter-American Committee on the Alliance (CIAP):

"One problem emerges above any other in a broad view of the Latin American scene — the problem of modernizing rural life . . .

"On the other hand, food output is lagging behind the increase in population, and the gap between rural and urban ways of life within Latin America is becoming more acute."

Recent population surveys have shown that Latin America's three per cent annual population increase is the biggest in the world. But surveys also show that the continent's farm production has increased little, if any.

NOTE PROBLEMS
The CIAP report noted that several nations already had acknowledged the farming and rural problems and had begun agrarian reform programs. Peru and Ecuador were among the leaders in this field. But the problem has yet to be fully met, CIAP said.

"It is heartening to observe the beginning, in one Latin American country after another, of a new emphasis and priority for agricultural development," the report said.

"Many countries have enacted legal measures of agrarian reform, but this is still a field where a much greater and deeper effort is needed."

Following the elimination of the feudal-type land tenure systems and the waste of productive land, the CIAP recommended a five-point program designed to increase not only agricultural production but the social and economic welfare of the farmer as well.

RECOMMENDATIONS
The recommendations were:

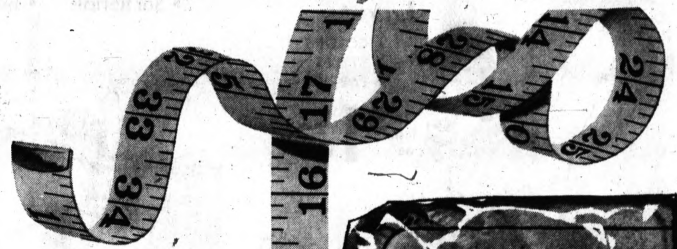

- Improve marketing arrangements between the cities and the farms as a means of providing better distribution and higher prices for farm products. The key element in this is transportation development.

- Provide not only agricultural needs but also domestic products to the farmer at reasonable prices as a means of increasing his incentive.

- Provide the farmer with greater credit at more reasonable, long-term rates.

- Provide the farmer with technical assistance, such as advice from qualified agents.
- Conduct agricultural research to improve the techniques of farming and the quality of farm products.

The report asserted: "The Latin American nations must look . . . to the modernization of agriculture . . . as a source of industrial raw materials, diversified export commodities, and as a market for the products of Latin American industry."

Changes Recommended in State Workmen's Compensation

LANSING (AP) — Changes in the controversial state workmen's compensation program ranging from increased benefits to an enlarged staff were recommended Wednesday by department director Weldon Yeager.

In a letter to Rep. Riemer Can Tili, R-Holland, chairman of the House-Senate Committee on Workmen's Compensation, Yeager recommended:

—Increase in compensation benefits to two-thirds of the average weekly wage, with a minimum of $25 a week and a maximum of $100 as compared with present maximums ranging from $35 to $57 and no meaningful minimum.

—Elimination of number of dependents as a factor in determining benefits, the reason for the current sliding maximums.

—Extending the act to include all employers of three or more workers, including domestic and farm help now excluded.

—Permitting claimants to change physicians after the first 30 days; all medical service now is chosen by the employer.

—Removing the 50-week limitation on benefits to extend payments as long as disability lasts; this would affect 1 to 2 per cent of claimants.

—Allowing injured workers to file a claim at any time, but making benefits retroactive for only a year; at present claims must be filed within three years.

—Hiring six new referees and six clerical workers, and expanding department space in Detroit.

MAJOR GOAL

A copy of the letter was sent to the Rev. Hugh White, head of the Governor's Study Commission on Workmen's Compensation, Yeager said.

Gov. George Romney and Republican and Democratic legislators have listed revision of the state compensation law as one of the chief legislative goals in the coming session.

Democrats generally have said they want a broadening of benefits. Republicans have said they do not object to increased benefits as long as restrictions are enforced to minimize abuses.

UAW Local to Vote Again on AMC Pact

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The executive board of United Auto Workers Local 75 said Wednesday a second attempt will be made next Monday to ratify a three-year contract with American Motors Corp.

The local rejected the proposed agreement by 82 votes last Sunday, but only 2,600 of the body's 9,000 members cast ballots. The contract has been ratified by UAW members at American Motors plants in Kenosha, Wis., and Grand Rapids, Mich.

The new vote by Local 75 will be taken at the gates of the AMC body plant in Milwaukee between 6 a.m. and 8 p.m. Monday.

Some members of Local 75 are dissatisfied with several provisions in the new contract. The issues include seniority and grievance procedures.

U.S. Steel Output Tops '55 Record

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the most illustrious records of U.S. industry fell today as the nation's steel output in 1964 climbed past 117 million tons.

Exact production data was not available but industry statisticians said 1965's all time high of 117,036,085 tons undoubtedly would be surpassed before midnight.

By the year's end, U.S. steel output is expected to top the former peak by between 8 and 10 million tons of ingots and steel for castings.

Sign of Good Neighbor

CLAYTON, Mo. (UPI) — Last June John J. Cullen offered his own home yard as the location for neighboring Marvin Koslow's sign. While putting up the sign, Cullen said, Koslow swung the hammer and hit Cullen's hand. Yesterday, Cullen said, Koslow for $25,000.

While benefits should be increased, Yeager said, there should be "no provisions for increase or decrease because of dependency."

DEPENDENTS DISCOUNTED

"Any given job does not pay more or less because a man has more or less dependents...a worker drawing two-thirds of his earnings, not having to pay income tax, transportation to and from work, lunches, the wear and tear on his car and clothing and other factors, should sustain his loss of income very well," Yeager said. When an employee fails to file a claim for more than a year after his disability, the director added, "no compensation shall be granted for a period beyond one year immediately preceding the filing of his petition"—a provision that now applies to petitions for further compensation.

"I can see no basis for treating more favorably the employee who stands by for three or four years than his counterpart," Yeager added.

Yeager also recommended against a medical board "to referee medical testimony in cases." This was recommended to the committee by the Wayne County Medical Society.

BEST METHOD

While legislative appropriation is the best method of financing the department, he said, other methods should be found if state allocations cannot support the program. One possibility, Yeager said, is an annual tax levied on employers earmarked for administration of the compensation fund.

The tax would range from $5 a year for employees with nine employees or fewer to $50 for those with 1,000 or more.

The department has a backlog of about 9,000 disputed claims, said Yeager, which take about 12 to 18 months each to process. Undisputed cases—about 80 per cent of all claims—take only two weeks to process.

Hiring of six new referees would raise department strength from 13 to 19, he said, and the expanded space would double the size of the Detroit office.

NO INCREASE

"The department has not had any significant budget increase for operation in the past eight years and currently works on an annual budget of $600,000," Yeager said.

He gave no cost estimate for the expanded compensation or facilities.

Yeager called for raising the minimum fund reserve from $200,000 to $400,000. Under present law, an additional levy is made on employers any time the fund dips below the $200,000 mark.

He also asked for elimination of the $10,500 limit on dust disease cases, asking "why discriminate against this kind of disease from any other, when this kind is just as disabling and just as disruptive and just as costly?"

MONEY PROBLEMS

This, he added, may mean money problems for "some financially tight foundry operations," giving rise to another possible solution to problems of financing the grants.

"It may be better public policy," he said, "to establish a fund financed from the general fund (general state revenues) to cover benefits in excess of a prescribed amount."

While the department's operations are financed by state appropriation, the benefits are paid out of employer contributions to the fund.

Prep Cage Spotlight Shines on League Action

Area Quintets Ready to Open Title Races

PCH Squad Travels to Bay City; Milford Plays at Clarkson

League competition takes the high school basketball spotlight as the season reaches its first big Friday night card.

Among the leagues getting under way are the Wayne-Oakland, Oakland A and Southern Thumb, while the Saginaw Valley Conference and Northwest Catholic League resume their activity.

Pontiac Central will attempt to stay atop the SVC standings when it journeys to Bay City Central tomorrow. The Chiefs are 2-0 and dumped defending SVC champ Flint Central Tuesday in their loop starter.

A big game is on tap for Saginaw Arthur Hill when cross-town rival Saginaw High visits. Both won their SVC openers Tuesday.

The fourth winner, Flint Northern, will play host to Ypsilanti in a non-leaguer. Midland will entertain Bay City Handy; while Flint Southwestern and Flint Central will collide, each seeking its first loop triumph.

W-O OPENER

The Wayne-Oakland League opens with the top game at Clarkson and Milford will provide the opposition. The latter has designs on the title shared by the Wolves and Bloomfield Hills last season.

Hills Friday will entertain Brighton, Holly (another expected contender) will visit Livonia Clarenceville and Northville will be host to West Bloomfield in other W-O tilts.

Avondale has nearby Rochester as its guest tomorrow in Oakland A Hillfield. Defending champion Warren Fitzgerald will travel to Midland Heights.

The Lake Orion Dragons hope to show their power against visiting Troy; and the Clawson-Warren Cousin meeting rounds out that circuit's lineup.

Dryden is expected to challenge in the Southern Thumb League but must get by defending titlist New Haven on the latter's floor Friday.

Darkhorse Alford will entertain Armada, Capric will go to Brown City and Memphis will meet Anchor Bay at game in other Thumb play.

The closest Class A game to Pontiac will find Waterford Kettering opposing North Farmington in a non-league opener on the former's floor.

The Captains were the county's only unbeaten quintet during the regular season last year. Coach Joe Dudy has a major rebuilding job, however, facing him.

Another non-leaguer will see Emmanuel Christian visiting Country Day School in Birmingham.

Catholic League action will feature St. Michael's attempt for its second win in loop action against Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows at the Madison Junior High School.

St. Frederick and Royal Oak St. Mary will attempt to bounce back at each other's expense on the Dondero HS court. Waterford Our Lady of Lakes will open at Detroit St. Agatha.

Ex-Champion in Golf Lead

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Former champion Lodie Kempa of Macon, Ga., carried a one-stroke lead into the third round of the National Left-handed Golfers' Open today.

He shot a three-over-par 74 Wednesday in scattered drizzles for a 146 total, beating out a fellow Macon resident, amateur Al Sams Sr., who shot a 73 for 147.

Other leaders: Alvin Odum Jr. of Galveston, Tex., 73-35 — 148; Jack Butler, amateur, of Co., 73-76 — 149; John Bulla of Phoenix, Ariz., 75-75 — 150; Bill Flynn of Danvers, Mass., 76-74 — 150; Ken Mast of Bluffton, Ohio, 71-80 — 151; Billy Quillen of Calgary, Alta., 76-75 — 151; and Howard Brown of Detroit, 75-76 — 152.

Heavy Snowfall Ushers In Michigan Ski Season

Any doubts that the winter season was with us were dispelled yesterday as the season's first effective blanket of white covered the Southeastern Michigan area. Actually, skiing and snow making were under way before yesterday's snowfall came; but preparations can now be accelerated at winter resorts around Oakland and surrounding counties.

Pine Knob is the first resort to have all-area skiing in effect. The area east of Clarkston opened its chair lift this morning. Manager Merle Trepp reports 6-10 inches of very good skiing snow on all slopes.

Mt. Holly on M24 is operating intermediate and teaching slopes today and expects to start skiing its advanced areas on the weekend.

Dryden (north of Rochester) opened its intermediate slope yesterday and plans to finish covering the advanced hills by Saturday. Owner Fred Molitor indicates he has a foot of snow covering the slopes now open.

Alpine Valley is working hard to start skiing Friday evening on its beginners and chair lift No. 1 slopes. Mt. Brighton, northwest of Brighton, also is striving toward a Friday opening.

Almost every ski area has made changes from last year either on its facilities, policies or administrative personnel.

A complete rundown of the ski season ahead is scheduled for next Thursday when The Press begins its weekly winter ski page.

Illini Star Signs With NFL Bears

Arnie, Nicklaus Defending Title

WOLVES' STARTER—Forward Gary Pearson will be in Clarkson's starting lineup when the Wolves open at the 1964-65 basketball season at tomorrow night, Milford will provide the opposition.

KAANAPALI, MAUI, Hawaii (AP) — It was the defending champion United States, with Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, against the world Thursday with the start of the prestige-packed Canada Cup golf matches.

Two-man teams representing 32 nations, plus twosomes from Hawaii and Puerto Rico, were set to tee off over the lush green acres of the Royal Kananapali Golf Course, one that measures 7,215 yards, with par 36-36-72.

There will be 18 holes each day, concluding Sunday. BIG PRIZE The Canada Cup, put into play first in 1953 as an emblem of international good will through the medium of golf, is the big prize. It is determined by the total scores of the two players. The companion award is the International Trophy which goes to the low medalist.

Palmer and Nicklaus won the Canada Cup last year in Paris, and while Palmer has yet to capture the International Trophy, he sounded a warning Wednesday.

Arnie, with an abbreviated version of his famed army at his heels, broke the course record in the pre-amateur prelude with a seven-under-par 31-34-65.

Best ball low score honors, 62, went to Palmer and his amateur partner, Howard Clark of New York, president of the International Golf Association.

Nicklaus had an individual 72-runners-up to Palmer were Bruce Devlin, Australia, 69, and at 70, Ted Makalena of Hawaii and Cheif Sayed of Egypt.

What neither the Americans nor the others encountered was an element that may well be the question mark of the matches — the wind.

The Rangers, victims of four Hull goals in their first two meetings with the Hawks, seemed determined not to surrender that 18th goal. New York Coach Red Sullivan assigned Bob Nevin and Donnie Marshall to shadow the hefty Hawk and they did a commendable job.

While most of the fans were watching Hull, Ranger rookie Lou Angotti salvaged the tie for New York with a goal in the last four minutes. It was the youngster's first lamp-lighter in 17 games and couldn't have come at a better time as far as Sullivan was concerned.

Ken Wharram's fifth goal of the year had given Chicago a 3-2 lead with less than eight minutes to go and that looked like it would be enough with Glenn Hall turning away everything the Rangers could muster.

But Angotti flagged a Jean Ratelle pass from the left boards and flipped it past Hall for the tie.

Earlier Nevin and Camille Henry scored for New York and Eric Nesterenko and Stan Mikita clicked for the Hawks.

ARNOLD PALMER

Palmer to Set Slower Pace on PGA Tour

KAANAPALI, MAUI, Hawaii (AP) — Arnie's Army can relax — the general is going to start taking it easier.

"I'm through knocking my brains out — next year I'll cut my tournament schedule almost in half," Arnold Palmer said today, before teeing off in the Canada Cup International Matches — his 30th tournament of the year.

"For 10 years I've been playing in 25 or more tournaments every season. It's too much. I love golf. I don't want to get to the point that it is no longer fun but drudgery."

"Next year I'll limit myself to about 15 tournaments — picking them out now. I'm getting too old and tired to try to keep up with these young bucks week-in and week-out."

Palmer played in 26 PGA tour tournaments, visited Australia and Japan and competed in the World Match Play Championship in England.

Butkus Shuns AFL Bidders

Houston Signs Baylor End Larry Elkins

CHICAGO (AP) — Linebacker Dick Butkus of the University of Illinois, most coveted collegiate lineman in recent years, signed today with the Chicago Bears of the National Football League.

While the National League was the struggle for Butkus services, the American League pulled even in signing competitive first round draft choices when the Houston Oilers signed the league's No. 1 selection, Baylor pass-catching whiz Larry Elkins.

The 245-pound Butkus was No. 1 choice of the Bears and the Denver Broncos in last Saturday's drafts by the rival NFL and American Football League.

It was the second big signing this week by Owner-Coach George Halas of the Bears, who Tuesday landed another first-round pick, speedy halfback Gale Sayers of Kansas.

COWBOYS The Dallas Cowboys of the NFL also announced today they had signed Craig Morton, California quarterback, their No. 1 draft choice.

Morton also was drafted by Oakland of the American Football League as a 10th round choice.

Morton is 6-4 and weighs 210 and was No. 2 college passer this season.

His 1964 record is completion of 185 passes out of 308 for a 60.1 percentage. His passes gained 2,121 yards and were good for 13 touchdowns.

Cleveland of the NFL split even on signing two of its second-round picks Wednesday, getting Purdue tackle Jim Garcia in a battle with Denver but lost Georgia Tech defensive back Gary Bussell to the Broncos.

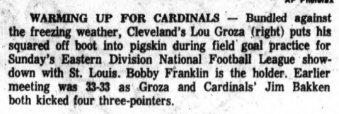

Other signings: NFL — Washington — Willie Adams, New Mexico State back; New York — Jim Carroll, Notre Dame back; Houston — Paul Hackett, East Tennessee State back; New York — Stan Strum, Green Bay; San Francisco — Cal's quarterback.

AFL — Oakland — Bob Sytko, Southern California tackle; Buffalo — Harry Schellenberger, Pittsburgh back; Houston — Pat Counts, Western Kentucky; Denver — Terry Metcalfe, Abilene; San Diego — John Farris, San Diego State tackle.

Bettor Wins Chance to Honor Some Bills

BALTIMORE (AP) — A middle aged man presented the first ticket for Monday's twin double at Pimlico Race Track Wednesday and was given a check for $17,032.00.

A mutual department spokesman said the bettor asked that his name not be revealed because "he owes about $50,000 worth of bills."

Rose Bowl— U-M Picked by 11 Points

NEW YORK (UP) — In three previous Rose Bowl appearances Michigan has outscored its opponents 112-6 and, although odds-makers may not have taken this into great consideration, they nevertheless established the Wolverines as 11 point favorites to beat Oregon State on New Year's Day.

In other major bowl games, the nation's No. 1 team, Alabama, was picked by 6 over last year's national champion Texas in the Orange Bowl. Louisiana State is favored by 6 over Syracuse in the Sugar Bowl and Arkansas, No. 2 team in the nation, is rated 6 points over Nebraska in the Cotton Bowl.

Scott Sparks Piston Attack

Detroit Tops Royals, 125-115; Hawks Win

DETROIT (AP) — Ray Scott set a new personal professional high of 39 points and was backed up by additional sharpshooting of Terry Dischinger and Eddie Miles as the Detroit Pistons whipped the Cincinnati Royals 125-115 Wednesday night.

Dischinger scored 30 points in the National Basketball Association game. Miles contributed 24. It enabled the Pistons to snap a four-game losing streak.

Elsewhere, Bob Pettit, who has scored more points than any man in National Basketball Association history and missed five games with a stomach muscle tear, was back for the St. Louis Hawks' 105-102 victory over Western Division leading Los Angeles.

His 23 points paced the victory which shaved the Lakers' margin to 2½ games over the Hawks.

Texan Stops Swap

Houston-Dodger Trade Dies

HOUSTON (AP) — Outfielder Frank Boward of the Los Angeles Dodgers was as good as traded to Houston when the principal owner of the Texas club stepped in and killed the deal, the Associated Press learned today.

Houston General Manager Paul Richards and Dodger General Manager Buzzie Bavasi reached agreement on a trade that would have brought Boward to Houston for third baseman Bob Aspromonte and pitcher Ken Johnson, the AP was reliably informed.

But the informant said Bob Smith, chairman of the board of directors of the Houston club, vetoed the trade because he didn't want to let Aspromonte go.

It appeared there was still a fair chance the Los Angeles Angels would trade pitcher Bo Belinsky to the Philadelphia Phillies. But no one seemed to know which Philadelphia player or players might be involved.

The Angels could use a first baseman, a third baseman, or both.

OTHER RUMORS

There was also a rumor that Houston and the New York Yankees might have a deal in the works. The players mentioned were Johnson and catcher Jerry Grote of Houston and pitcher Stan Williams of the Yankees. One source said Houston wanted an additional player.

Minnesota and Kansas City discussed a six-player deal involving outfielder Jimmie Hall, third baseman Rich Rollins and pitcher Dick Stigman of the Twins and third baseman Ed Charles, pitcher Wes Stock and outfielder Nelson Mathews of the Athletics. The Twins said they turned it down.

Charles also was mentioned as a possible party in a Belinsky trade should the Angels fail to make a deal with Philadelphia.

TIGERS TALK

There was talk of a three-way deal among the Cleveland Indians, the Twins and the Detroit Tigers. It would go like this: The Indians would send right-hander Ralph Terry to Minnesota for one of three left-handers, Jerry Arigo, Jim Roland or Stigman. The Indians would then send the left-hander to Detroit for outfielder George Thomas.

The proposed draft of players with no professional experience was approved unanimously by the minor leagues and was to be considered today in separate meetings of the American and National leagues. It was expected to win approval.

Under the plan, there would be three drafts each year. The first two, in January and June, would involve college players and high school graduates not planning to attend college. The third would probably be held in American Legion and sandlot players.

Each major league club would be permitted to pick one player at each draft. Selections would be made in inverse order of the clubs' standings.

Should a player refuse to sign with the club that drafted him, he would become subject to selection again at a special draft session held prior to the next regular draft. He might then be picked by a club other than the one that drafted him originally.

One object of the draft is to put a brake on high bonuses. Under present rules, a player may sign with the highest bidder, playing one club's offer against another's. Under the draft he would have to sign with the club that picked him or wait until the next draft, hoping to be picked by a club that would make a higher offer.

If adopted, the plan would become effective in January.

Avoid Olympic Letdown, AAU Spokesman Urges

HOUSTON (AP) — The Amateur Athletic Union feels the United States shouldn't follow its old habit of letting down in international competition after the Olympic Games but should work even harder, an AAU spokesman says.

Already much of the business at the annual AAU meeting here has been directed toward that goal. For one thing, the AAU has agreed on a 1965 triangular track meet between Poland, West Germany and the United States.

Don Hull, AAU executive director, said following a meeting of the foreign relations committee Tuesday that the plan is for 1965 to be "the largest and best ever for international competition the year after the Olympic Games."

The United States, he said, has a habit of letting down after the Games and then scrambling back the year before the next Olympics.

Hull said the AAU tentatively plans to match the men's and women's national champions and runners-up from Poland, West Germany and the United States in a July 10-11 meet in Los Angeles. It will be a tune-up for the dual meet between the United States and Russia in Moscow later that month.

Meanwhile, the squabble over control of open amateur athletics in the United States between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the AAU was at a standstill Thursday.

PLAN MEETING

Each side agreed to meet Dec. 16 in Chicago, but only on its terms. Neither gave any sign of giving in to the other, so most officials saw little likelihood the meeting would be held.

About 300 delegates and committee members have registered for the five-day meeting that ends Sunday.

Nearly 300 pending American records were to be considered Thursday for formal recognition. They included 70 for men's track and field, 31 for women's track and field, 60 for men's swimming and diving, and 130 for women's swimming and diving.

Billiken Booters Draw

NCAA Favorite's Role

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — St. Louis University, which has won the championship four of the last five years, was installed as the favorite again today as the NCAA soccer championship tournament opened at Brown University.

St. Louis met last year's finalist, Navy, in the first semifinal game. Army and Michigan State, conceded the best chances of upsetting the Billikens, were opponents in the other half of the draw.

Pontiac Twp. Water Plan Petitions Stalled

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — Petitions designed to forestall construction of a water main system here and pay for it by means of special assessments have been hamstringing in part by a technicality.

But they will apparently force changes in system plans anyway.

The Township Board will decide Wednesday in a continuation of a public hearing which opened Nov. 17 whether to construct such a system, and, if so, how much of the original plans will be dropped off due to resident opposition.

Petitions opposing the water main system were submitted at the Nov. 17 hearing in addition to widespread vocal opposition both at the hearing and since then.

The petitions came from four of 10 proposed special assessment districts, and it was evident almost immediately that District No. 10 would have to be cut from the plans.

NUMBER NEEDED

Under Public Act 188, a minimum of 20 per cent of the district's property owners, representing an equal or better percentage of the land in the district, can stop special assessment plans by signing petitions.

In District No. 10, which covers portions of Opdyke (east side), Old Salem, Hempstead, Oaknoll and Knollwood, a sufficient number of property owners put their signatures on opposing petitions to eliminate the district from the proposed system.

Petition signatures in District No. 5, in the Auburn Road area were clearly insufficient when the petitions were submitted in November.

But original validation checks on petitions submitted by residents of Districts 7 and 9 indicated that they, too, would have enough signatures to eliminate the districts.

DOUBLE CHECKS

A double check against the assessment rolls by assessor Clayton Lovelace and a former Pontiac city assessor resulted in a figure of 24 per cent of the land in District 7 and 22 per cent in District 9.

However, Charles Moon, boardman counsel for the Oakland County Department of Public Works (DPW), informed Lovelace that Act 188 says that only property owners "of record" are to be considered when validating the petitions.

The act further states, according to Moon, that the "record owners" shall be determined from the records of the register of deeds (Oakland County Register of Deeds in this case) as of the day of the hearing.

Some residents are purchasing their property under land contract, rather than a mortgage, and many of them are not listed in the Land Tract Index of the register of deeds.

SIGNERS INVALID

In short, the signatures of those residents who are purchasing property through a land contract are invalid on petitions of this nature unless they have registered the contract with the register of deeds.

Moon said that this part of Act 188 is about three years old, having been inserted in 1961.

A second check by Lovelace and a recheck by another person with the register of deeds lowered the land percentage in District 7 to 15.5 per cent and in District 9 to 4.07 per cent, after the names of those with land contracts not registered were struck from the petitions.

In view of the petitions and verbal opposition to the water main system, the DPW and engineers Hubbell, Roth & Clark are expected to recommend the following actions to the Township Board:

- Eliminate District 10 entirely.
- Retain District 7 entirely.
- In District 9, omit part of Supervisor's Plat 20 and the Perry Walton Subdivision. This will eliminate the lots on the south and north sides of Lapeer Road between Walton Boulevard and Opdyke Road.

AREA NEWS

for a two-inch pipe from the property line to the house, and this is the only variable cost.

Township Supervisor Lewis and Ferry recently asked the City of Pontiac to write for specific information on the possibility of Pontiac supplying Detroit water to the township.

This action followed unofficial talks with Pontiac which had resulted in the information that the township could get the water cheaper directly from a Detroit transmission main along South Boulevard.

Still unexplored is a possible "package agreement" with Pontiac which would cover both water and sewage systems, and, according to the opposition, would cut the cost of a sewer system by as much as 20 per cent.

On top of this would go an estimated cost of $1 per foot

CITED AT BANQUET — Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore (center) was the recipient of a "Man and Boy" trophy at the Auburn Heights Boys' Club appreciation banquet last night. Presenting the award, recognizing the judge's efforts on behalf of the youth movement in the area, was Dr. E. D. Barrett, board president, with Sam R. Sheehy, club director, looking on. Also given plaques for outstanding contributions were the Auburn Heights Rotary, Lions and Community clubs, Hill-Gazette Post 143, American Legion, and the Pontiac Optimist Club.

Charter, City Posts at Stake

Orchard Lake Vote Tuesday

ORCHARD LAKE — Electors here Tuesday will ballot on the document designed to put Orchard Lake into operation as a city.

While voting on the charter, they also will elect six city councilmen and a municipal judge who would take office the following week if the document is approved.

Seeking spots on the first city council are the nine persons who drafted the charter and Village President Fred J. Walls.

The single candidate for the judgeship is attorney Martin J. Katrell of 3752 Erie.

Among those running for council posts are four of the six present village commissioners.

COMMISSIONERS

They are Walls, John C. Hall, Edwin M. Douglas and Everett R. Case.

The latter three were members of the charter commission along with the other candidates, Kenneth Treacy, Sylvester Leaky, Mrs. Katherine M. Baker, Harold Knisley, Frederick S. Strong Jr. and Theodore Bloom.

The first council would meet at 8 p.m. Dec. 14 in the Village Hall and by sworn into office.

At that time, according to the charter, "all control of the officers of the Village of Orchard Lake and of the Township of West Bloomfield over that part of the township included within the city shall cease and be superseded by that of the officers of the City of Orchard Lake Village."

FROM RANKS

The council members would elect a mayor from their own number, as village commissioners now choose a president.

Two highest vote-getters in the council race would serve for three years, the next two for two years and the next two for one year. After that, all council terms would be for three years.

On March 3, village electors voted by a 204-124 margin to adopt cityhood for their community and to divorce it from West Bloomfield Township.

They elected a charter commission which spent the spring and summer months drawing up the document, which varies little from the present Village Charter.

DESIRABLE TRAITS

The idea, backers of the cityhood move said, was to keep intact the desirable characteristics of this residential community with its informal government.

The city, which has a population of about 1,200, is to grow within present village boundaries.

Its area is bordered on three sides by Cass Lake, Orchard Lake Road and the railroad tracks south of Pontiac Trail. On the west, the boundary jags north to Cass Lake through Upper Straits Lake.

The charter limits the city tax levy to 20 mills, while the present maximum is 15 mills. But city property owners no longer will be assessed township taxes, this year set at 4.35 mills.

FUNDS ADDED

It is expected that the city will add about $15,000 to its present income of $73,000 from taxes and $25,000 in state refunds.

The new property tax rate will be based on assessed valuation and not subject to an equalization factor, as is the township's.

Although no need for an increase in office equipment is anticipated, the city will have to rent fire protection, cost of which has been estimated at $8,000 to $9,000.

Orchard Lake residents using the West Bloomfield Township Library will have to pay a $5 nonresident fee.

FIRST PRESENTED

The idea of converting Orchard Lake to a city first was presented to the public in October 1963.

A citizens' committee had been studying the idea as a method of maintaining the community's attributes while protecting it from annexation or incorporation within a larger unit.

The rural-residential condition is to be kept in the name of the unit — the City of Orchard Lake Village.

"We felt that helps to maintain the general character and general atmosphere of the village," charter commission chairman Leahy said.

creation of a surplus of tax funds when the land is redeveloped which will more than cover the bond retirement.

A land use and marketability study made in 1963 of the re-division area predicted that all the land will be sold in a three-year period, and some adjacent industries have already indicated interest in obtaining some of the land.

BLIGHTED SECTION

In addition to the financial benefits expected from the project, urban renewal in this area would eliminate a "blighted" section of the village.

Present residents of the area will have their actual moving expenses paid or receive a flat $200 from the Urban Renewal Authority, which is also responsible for finding new living units for them.

The charter amendment proposal would eliminate a present $2 per capita maximum on the value of land the village can sell without a vote.

This is necessary for the re-division of the property in the urban renewal area to industry.

SIMPLE MAJORITY

The bond issue proposal needs a three-fifths majority to pass, while the charter amendment can be accomplished by a simple majority of "yes" votes.

One of them is the estimated renewal cost of about $20,000 an acre, compared to the $5,000 per acre sale price now being contemplated for the eventual buyers.

The difference will be more than made up, according to planners, when the land is sold and the village tax base broadened.

Present estimates compare current tax revenues from the renewal area of $1,700 in village taxes and $6,500 in school taxes with an eventual $30,000 and $100,000, respectively, with just 30 per cent of industrial development accomplished.

Paper Sales Set in Troy, Addison

The Goodfellows of Troy and Addison Township are prepared to launch their annual paper sale campaigns to benefit needy families and to stage children's parties at Christmas time.

Addison Township firemen's Goodfellows will kick off the drive as soon as newspapers, including The Pontiac Press, are on hand both tomorrow and Saturday.

Troy Goodfellows will devote one full day to the effort tomorrow, starting with a breakfast at Fire Station No. 1 at 8 a.m.

Addison Township's firemen and junior firemen will be working to collect funds for a children's party at the Addison Township Hall in Leonard at 2 p.m. Dec. 19.

Another goal of the paper sale here is to collect money to provide Christmas baskets for needy families. Eleven such families received baskets last year.

DOOR-TO-DOOR

Most of the money for this phase of the operation, however, will come from a secondary effort in the form of door-to-door canvassing for donations by the firemen and junior firemen.

In Troy, members of both the police and fire departments will strive to collect funds for a party for children at the Big Beaver School at 1 p.m. Dec. 19.

Troy also has a dual objective, and extends help to the aged, needy and underprivileged by means of gift vouchers for the purchase of food, clothing, or other needed items.

Some of the money collected in Troy is put aside for use in the same fashion throughout the year in helping persons who need immediate assistance.

CHAIRMEN

Robert A. McCallum is chairman of the paper sale in Addison Township, while Gene Maliga is chairman of the children's party and Fire Chief Elmer Powell of the Christmas baskets. Robert Dolmage is the paper sale chairman in Troy.

Persons knowing of a needy family can notify the Goodfellows in Troy through the police department and the Addison Township group by contacting Powell.

Rochester to Decide Fate of Renewal Issue at Polls

ROCHESTER — Village voters will go to the polls Tuesday to decide the fate of Rochester's plans to rehabilitate the East Third Street area under an urban renewal project.

Residents will be asked to approve two propositions, neither of which involves a tax increase.

The first asks if the village shall borrow $150,000 and issue general obligation bonds covering that amount in order to pay for its share of the cost of the East Third Street Urban Renewal Project.

The other asks if a section of the village charter shall be amended to permit sale of property located in an urban renewal area by the village without a vote of the electorate.

If the propositions pass, the following steps will be taken:

- The federal government will pay $33,778 toward the total cost of the UR project, under the National Housing Act.
- Although Rochester's share is only $150,000 in comparison, the village will be the sole owner of the 31 acres covered by the project, once it has acquired the property and until it resells it to developers.
- The project area will be bought by the village through either direct sale agreement with its owners or at a price set by a condemnation court jury if necessary.
- Ninety per cent of the existing structures on the land, including 26 rental units and eight owner-occupied houses, will be demolished, and the land mass graded.
- Improvements to the property will be made, including the straightening of Paint Creek, replacement of obsolete Paint Creek and Baldwin Avenue railroad bridges, construction of a new street entrance to supplement the present street East Third Street approach and general preparation for an industrial park.
- Once the land is improved, the village will sell the property to developers in about 18 parcels for use as light industrial sites.

There are several key factors of interest in the financing of the project and the financial benefits foreseen by planners.

COST PER ACRE

One of them is the estimated renewal cost of about $20,000 an acre, compared to the $5,000 per acre sale price now being contemplated for the eventual buyers.

The difference will be more than made up, according to planners, when the land is sold and the village tax base broadened.

Present estimates compare current tax revenues from the renewal area of $1,700 in village taxes and $6,500 in school taxes with an eventual $30,000 and $100,000, respectively, with just 30 per cent of industrial development accomplished.

Dedication Service at Highland Church

HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP — A festival service of dedication Sunday morning will be the first of four special programs at the new Faith Lutheran Church next week.

With formal ceremonies scheduled for Sunday, a youth night and women's tea are planned for later in the week.

The modernistic church recently was completed on a hilltop site on the northeast corner of Ridge and M39.

Constructed mainly of wood and cut stone, the church was designed by Robert Snyder and Associates of Southfield.

About 210 worshippers can be accommodated in the sanctuary and accessory seating area. There also is a pastor's study on the ground floor.

LOWER LEVEL

On the lower level is a large education - fellowship area with adjacent kitchen.

Members of the congregation did much of the work themselves. General contractor was P. D. Clawson of Bloomfield Hills.

Rev. David Ludwig, pastor of the church, will be the speaker at the 10-30 a.m. dedication service Sunday.

Liturgist will be Rev. Donald Simon of Milford's Christ Lutheran Church, who conducted services for the congregation when it was organized almost three years ago.

Delivering the sermon at the 6:30 p.m. vesper dedication service will be Rev. Lawrence Kinne of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, Walled Lake. Rev. Paul Faust of Detroit will be liturgist.

Open houses will follow each of the services.

Youth of the area have been invited to a special program for them at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The Faith Lutheran Women's Guild will hold a tea for area women from 1:30 to 3 p.m. Thursday.

Prepare Plans for Entrants of Miss Michigan Contest

Elaborate plans are being made to make the opportunity available to every aspiring young lady in Michigan to participate in the "Miss Michigan Beauty Pageant" which is preliminary to the Miss Universe Pageant.

Michigan's geographic area and population distribution has been analyzed and districted to get proportionate representation from every area on a basis of one contestant delegate per every 10,000 of population.

It is anticipated that local contestants will be sponsored by business firms or appropriate organizations which will enhance her chances of better representing herself and her area at the state finals.

Pageant officials at state headquarters announced that they are starting work now in order to begin receiving inquiries and handle the many details of securing sponsors, host for state finals, TV coverage, chaparrons for contestants, prizes and all other details of a statewide contest.

Economist Sees Better Prospects for State Crops

EAST LANSING (AP) — Prospects for most Michigan farm crops in 1965 appear improved, or at least the same as this year, says a Michigan State University agricultural economist.

John Ferris was optimistic especially about the cattle outlook. He said the demand for beef will be stronger next year, and there will be less competition from pork than this year.

Ferris estimated milk production to remain at about the same level.

He predicted a drop in wheat and sugar beet acreage, with national acreage limitations going into effect for sugar beets in view of the record crop predicted for 1965.

Potatoes and apples remain in good demand, Ferris said.

35 Forestry Officials Meeting Near Gaylord

GAYLORD (AP) — Thirty-five Great Lakes area forest land management experts are to meet today at the site of the new U. S. Plywood plant under construction near here to discuss a report covering the current Michigan Forest Survey.

The survey, jointly financed by federal and state funds, is designed to evaluate Michigan's forest resources and potential in connection with wood using industries.

Santa's Visit to Be Modern

LAKE ORION — Santa Claus has gone modern, at least for his pre-Christmas visit to Lake Orion.

Forsaking his sleigh and eight reindeer, the bearded old gentleman will arrive in a helicopter Saturday between 11 and 11:30 a.m., landing in the parking lot at L S Food Land, 331 S. Broadway.

After a visit with his young admirers there, he'll visit all the downtown stores. From 2 to 4 p.m., he will be at his downtown headquarters in the cab stand building at South Broadway and Front Street.

His hours on other days will be:

Dec. 11 — 6:30-8 p.m.; Dec. 12 — 2-4 p.m.; Dec. 18 — 6-30 p.m.; Dec. 19 — 2-4 p.m.

St. Nick's visit has been arranged by the Lake Orion Merchants Association.

Anniversary to Be Marked

ROCHESTER — Getsemane Lutheran Church will celebrate its 20th anniversary Tuesday with a banquet at St. John Hall.

Speaker at the 7 p.m. affair will be Dr. Paul L. Maier, associate professor of history at Western Michigan University.

Dr. Maier has lectured widely and is author of the best seller, "A Man Spoke, A World Listened." The book is a biography of the author's late father, Dr. Walter A. Maier, famed founder-speaker of "The Lutheran Hour."

Getsemane's pastor, Rev. Donald Kreuger, requests that ticket reservations be made by calling Mrs. Otto W. Miller, brandt, 3070 Grant, Avon Township.

Tornado Rise
Attributed to Better Recording

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are three times as many tornadoes on the books as there used to be, but the Weather Bureau says this doesn't mean that there are more of them.

Bureau statistics show an average of 150 tornadoes a year from 1916 to 1950 and more than 500 a year since 1950. But the bureau's weekly crop bulletin explains: "Tornado experts are generally agreed that this is a fictitious increase resulting from greater interest in tornado reporting, a population increase so that tornadoes are less likely to be unobserved, better communications, and possibly a relaxation of the earlier reporting rules so that indirect evidence of tornado activity is given more weight than formerly."

From the Mouths of Babes...

GRENOBLE, France (UPI) — "Do you take this woman to be your lawful wedded wife?" Deputy Mayor Pierre Grillet asked a prospective groom, Jean Gelant, 73, yesterday. There was a pause. Then Gelant's children, sitting behind him at the ceremony, whispered, "Say no, papa, say no." "No," Gelant said.

As the bride-to-be, Mrs. Renaud, 61, began arguing with the reluctant groom, the deputy mayor closed his register and ordered the whole wedding party to leave.

Computer Speedup Will Bring Award

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A faster method of feeding information to computers has resulted in an annual savings of $100,000 to the Navy and a presidential citation to the Johns Hopkins University senior who devised it.

Christopher S. Caldwell, who worked out the system last summer, will receive the award from President Johnson Friday. Explaining the process, Caldwell said there are two languages with which instructions can be given a computer, "one which is easy to write, but less efficient, and one that is hard to write, but more efficient. I mixed the two to get the best of both."

New Site for Yule Tree

Pontiac has a new location for its Christmas tree this year, and a new source of supply.

The tree comes from within the city, and it was placed at the old courthouse site at Saginaw and Huron Streets yesterday. In previous years the tree had been at City Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester C. Grammer, 69 W. New York, contributed the 40-foot spruce.

TO THROW SWITCH

Cheryl Hamm, 7, of 1654 River Bend, White Lake Township, will throw the switch in a 7 p.m. Friday lighting ceremony. As a ward of the juvenile court, she was selected to help point out the need for Christmas gifts for similar children.

Youth Freed During Probe in Gun Death

Sixteen-year-old Daniel F. Gosley of 9905 M15, Independence Township, was released by county juvenile authorities yesterday to the custody of his mother, Mrs. Jesse Lyons.

Gosley was being held in connection with the Tuesday night gunshot slaying of his stepfather, Jesse Lyons, 43.

Gosley was released pending further investigation of the shooting, according to juvenile authorities.

Sheriff's deputies said further tests will be made by the state crime lab on the 7mm Mauser rifle which fired the fatal shot in the killing.

Lyons was killed about 9:15 p.m. during an argument with his stepson in the family home at 9905 M15.

UNLOADED RIFLE

Deputies said Lyons lunged at Gosley with an unloaded .22-caliber rifle, striking the boy in the shoulder with the butt of the weapon.

Gosley was holding the Mauser rifle at the time and the weapon discharged, killing the ex-convict Lyons almost instantly.

Gosley told deputies he did not know the weapon was loaded and had gotten it out of the bedroom to run his stepfather out of the house.

Heart Ailment Claims Dodge

DETROIT (AP)—Banker Joseph M. Dodge, adviser to presidents and the man credited with putting postwar Japan on a firm financial footing, is dead at 74.

Dodge, chairman of the Detroit Bank & Trust Co. until his semiretirement last January, died yesterday in Harper Hospital of a heart condition. He suffered a heart attack last September.

Death came to Dodge four days before he was to have been honored at the dedication of his bank's new multi-million-dollar downtown Detroit headquarters building.

He was president and later chairman over a period of 15 years.

Dodge, who came to banking success from a clerk's job in an insurance company, spent years in the service of his country while also looking after Detroit Bank & Trust, one of the nation's 25 largest banks. The institution has assets of more than $1.2 billion.

DETROIT NATIVE

A Detroit native, Dodge became one of the nation's top men in banking with only a high school education.

He probably was best known for the economic restoration job he did for Japan after World War II.

This was one of his assignments under three presidents.

Growth Is Removed From LBJ's Hand

WASHINGTON (AP)—Surgeons removed a small growth from the right hand of President Johnson today.

The operation was performed at the White House.

Presidential Press Secretary George Reedy said it was a thickening of the skin, caused by overexposure to the sun, and "this is a very minor thing."

Reedy said that there was "no suspicion of malignancy."

Exposure to the sun, at times, is credited with causing skin cancers.

Reedy said the growth on Johnson's hand had been there for some time, and there was no indication that it had been aggravated by hand-shaking during this fall's political campaign. The medical term for the growth is "hyperkeratosis," Reedy said.

Stories Differ in Baker Probe Payoff Charge

Senator Says Justice Dept. Must Decide Which Witness Right

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Carl T. Curtis said today it's up to the Justice Department to square conflicting testimony about an alleged secret payoff to the Kennedy-Johnson campaign fund in 1960.

The Nebraska Republican said the issue has boiled down to "one man says yes, another says no, and the third man takes the 5th Amendment and won't talk."

Matthew H. McCloskey, 71, former ambassador to Ireland, yesterday accused insurance man Don B. Reynolds of lying when Reynolds swore McCloskey was a part of the alleged payoff scheme.

"He hasn't told you the truth once," the white-haired former Democratic National Committee fund-raiser snapped.

Baker, the man who Sen. John J. Williams, R-Dele., said "could talk" and square the conflict in Reynolds and McCloskey's testimony, refused to answer questions about his role in the alleged kickback.

Reynolds told the Senate Rules Committee Tuesday he was the "bag man" for Baker and McCloskey.

He testified he wrote the performance bond for McCloskey's construction firm when it built the Washington, D.C., sports stadium and was overpaid on the premium by $35,000.

Reynolds said he gave Baker $25,000, kept $10,000 for himself, and that Baker was to funnel the money into the campaign fund.

Baker is a former $19,000-a-year secretary to the Senate Democratic majority. An earlier inquiry into his outside business activities by the committee found him "guilty of many gross improprieties."

(Editor's Note: This is the first of two articles dealing with the growth of Oakland County's special education programs.)

By L. GARY THORNE

A decade ago, a plea for education tailored to the needs of handicapped children prompted educators and legislators to launch a pioneering program in Oakland County.

They called it special education.

Today, as officials mark the program's 10th anniversary, special education teaches more than 14,000 blind, deaf, mentally and physically handicapped youngsters.

Unique enabling legislation, regarded as the first in the nation, paved the way for special education here: Public Act 18 was tailored to Oakland County.

The legislation, eventually amended to permit the state's 82 other counties to follow the same path, originated from parent protests over the lack of training facilities for the handicapped.

Few districts

Prior to 1954, few local school districts offered special classes for the physically and mentally handicapped.

For example, only two state institutions—one for the blind and one for the deaf—were available. Both state schools had long waiting lists.

New Viet Nam Envoy Tells of Infiltration From the North

WASHINGTON (AP)—North Viet Nam sent 30,000 to 40,000 infiltrators into South Viet Nam during the past three years and the flow continues at a stepped-up pace, Ambassador Tran Thien Khieu said today.

The newly arrived South Vietnamese envoy said in an exclusive interview that the Ho Chi Minh Trail, passing from North

Viet Nam through Laos, serves as the main road of infiltration. Khieu, bespectacled 39-year-old soldier trained by the French and Americans, is a lieutenant general who has served as commander-in-chief of the South Vietnamese armed forces and as his country's minister of defense.

He was one of the triumvirate along with Gen. Nguyen Khanh and Gen. Duong Van Minh which ruled South Viet Nam last summer before the formation of the present civilian government.

How to stop the infiltration has been a perpetual worry of the Vietnamese general staff, Khieu said in the interview.

STILL THINKING

He added: "We have been thinking about this for a long time and we are still thinking."

"If we are not able to stop the infiltration completely, at least it must be slowed down."

"We have special forces on the borders with Laos but there are not enough troops for this. Our biggest difficulty is the mountainous terrain which is hard to control."

Jury and Judge to Rule in Case

Ex-Pontiac Official's Fate Is Left to Jurors

An unusual trial setup—one man's fate in the judge's hands alone, the other's with a jury—marks the fraud conspiracy case against former Pontiac and Flint City Manager Robert Carter and businessman Samuel Catsman.

Fourteen jurors were chosen Wednesday to hear the case involving Flint's 1962 land purchase for a Lake Huron water pipeline.

Catsman, however, waived a jury trial. Circuit Judge Edward Kane of St. Clair County, accepting the waiver, will hear the case against Catsman simultaneously with the proceedings before the jury against Carter.

Carter, appointed Pontiac city manager by a City Commission led by Mayor Robert A. Landry in November 1963, resigned last February after being indicted in Flint.

Conspiracy charges against Carter and Catsman grew out of Flint's purchase of a parcel of land for $75,000.

The land allegedly had a value of $42,000.

The case against Carter and Catsman was brought last January as the result of a one-man grand jury inquiry.

Carter was Flint city manager at the time of the land purchase.

MILITARY CADRES

Khieu said that 60 per cent of the infiltrators have been military cadres and 40 per cent are civilians who are trained at organizing Communist cells at the village and provincial levels.

"According to captured documents and word from prisoners of war, the infiltration increased over a three year (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Ousted Peron Back in Spain

Brazil Blocks Bid to Reenter S. America

SEVILLA, Spain (AP)—Juan D. Peron resumed his exile in Spain today after a brief and unsuccessful attempt to reestablish himself in South America for return to Argentina, the nation that cast off his dictatorship in 1955.

Brazil blocked Peron's plan and shipped him back on the same Iberia DC8 jet airliner that carried him from Madrid to Rio de Janeiro yesterday.

The reaction of the Spanish government was uncertain. Peron's back-to-Argentina campaign could be interpreted as a violation of one of the terms of his asylum, a pledge to avoid political activity.

But officials in Madrid said they understood he would be allowed to remain temporarily, "until a definite decision is reached."

Whatever the outcome, Spanish authorities seemed to be shielding Peron from public attention.

PLANE DIVERTED

The airliner that carried Peron back across the Atlantic, scheduled for Madrid, was diverted en route to Sevilla, 250 miles southwest of the capital.

Informed sources said the Spanish government ordered the diversion to keep Peron away from more than 100 newsmen—Spanish and foreign—who were waiting for him at the Madrid Airport.

Peron, 69, got off in Sevilla and drove in a black limousine to a hotel, the Andalucia. The city's police chief was reported to have accompanied him. Police barred newsmen from the hotel.

Also Repeats Kremlin Stand on N. Viet Aid

Direct Intervention Is Not Mentioned in Soviet Leader's Talk

MOSCOW (AP)—Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist party chief, deplored today the Western paratroop landing in the Congo and also said the Soviet Union is ready to help North Viet Nam.

But, in reiterating stands already taken by the Kremlin, Brezhnev withheld any specific pledge of direct Soviet intervention in either area.

He called the paratroop landing in the Congo a "surprising example of imperialist piracy" and said Western aims there are doomed to failure.

On Viet Nam, he repeated the words of an "authorized statement" made a week ago by the official Soviet news agency Tass:

"The Soviet Union cannot remain indifferent to the fate of a sister Socialist country and is prepared to render the necessary assistance to her." There was no elaboration by either Tass or Brezhnev.

Brezhnev spoke at a Soviet-Czechoslovak friendship meeting honoring visiting Czech President Antonin Novotny.

"BEWARE"

"Let the imperialists beware of playing with fire," he said.

Brezhnev stressed that "the unity of the Socialist camp is strong against imperialism in the cause of peace and for the benefit of all mankind."

Brezhnev again denounced the proposed NATO multilateral nuclear force as "a dangerous game" to give West Germany access to nuclear weapons. Here he made his only mention of Red China, saying: "Recently the Chinese have joined this view."

Apparently he was referring to Peking's proposal for a world disarmament meeting, made after Red China exploded its first atom bomb.

For the Communist camp, he went on, "Our most important aim is to achieve a complete ban on nuclear weapons."

On the Congo, Brezhnev said "Lately the world learned of a new aggressive act by the colonizers."

Special School Plan Grows

By L. GARY THORNE

A decade ago, a plea for education tailored to the needs of handicapped children prompted educators and legislators to launch a pioneering program in Oakland County.

They called it special education.

Today, as officials mark the program's 10th anniversary, special education teaches more than 14,000 blind, deaf, mentally and physically handicapped youngsters.

Unique enabling legislation, regarded as the first in the nation, paved the way for special education here: Public Act 18 was tailored to Oakland County.

The legislation, eventually amended to permit the state's 82 other counties to follow the same path, originated from parent protests over the lack of training facilities for the handicapped.

Few districts

Prior to 1954, few local school districts offered special classes for the physically and mentally handicapped.

For example, only two state institutions—one for the blind and one for the deaf—were available. Both state schools had long waiting lists.

In addition, sending a child to a state school meant in most instances that a five or six-year-old was forced to leave home and become a resident student because of traveling distances.

The only other alternative was costly private institutions, which often also had waiting lists.

PUSHING LEGISLATION

Parental protests reached county educators who responded by pushing the enabling legislation. The Oakland County Superintendent's Association furnished a countywide survey of needs.

Voters cooperated by soundly favoring a half-mill tax levy to support the proposed special education.

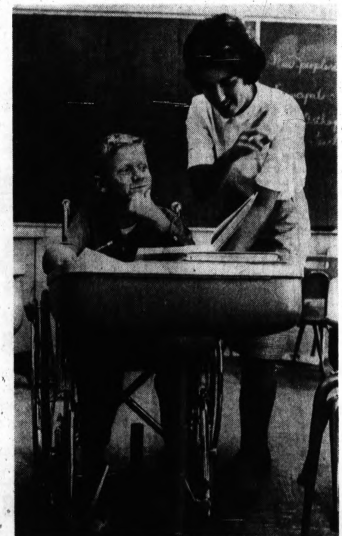

The first classes were begun in the fall of 1954. Fifty-six teachers were employed to start programs in seven categories.

The categories were the mentally handicapped, the home-bound, orthopedic, speech correction, visiting teacher, blind and partially sighted, and the deaf and hard of hearing.

FIRST TIME

Directed by the intermediate county school district, special education classes in local school districts for the first time were providing facilities "for children who deviated from the normal to such an extent that they required special attention."

Pontiac Sets Sales Record

Showing complete recovery from the recent strike against General Motors, Pontiac Motor Division today announced that its dealers had set a new sales mark of 21,899 Pontiacs and Tempests in the Nov. 21-30 sales period.

This, according to the General Manager E. M. Estes tops last year's record of 19,436 cars.

Estes also said Pontiac's 11-month sales total was 618,224, an all-time record. The previous 11-month high was 599,466, set a year ago.

"Consumer confidence in our products has been outstanding, and dealers from coast to coast report that most customers have patiently waited for their cars," Estes said.

"To get their orders filled we are producing at a record pace."

He added that despite limited availability in the early days of November, sales in the month still total 51,711.

Double Treat for Readers

The Pontiac Press is planning a double-barreled Christmas treat for its readers.

Starting Saturday is a serial designed for the young—"Santa and the Singing Turtle." On Monday, the ageless story of the birth of Christ—"The First Christmas"—will begin.

Both stories will appear daily in The Press.

period of 1961-1963," Khien said.

"According to the figures we got we understand North Viet Nam sent between 30,000 and 40,000 people."

Khien said the Ho Chi Minh Trail begins at Vinh, a seaport in North Viet Nam, crosses into Laos at Mu Gia Pass and runs into southeastern Laos to import supply and concentration points at Tchepone, Muong and Nong and Attapu.

PROTECT TRAIL

"Recently Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, rightist deputy prime minister of Laos and minister of defense, said North Viet Nam has some five divisions — 20,000 men — in the territory of Laos and two-thirds of these forces are being used to protect the Ho Chi Minh Trail."

"On the supply roads, according to the information we have, North Viet Nam is using Soviet-built Molotov trucks."

"This convoy of trucks is supported by armored cars or tanks," Khien said.

"He said this information had been given to him personally by royal Laotian Army officers from Savannakhet, one of the southern military bases of the Lao government.

QUITE SURE

Khien said that in the military field in South Viet Nam, "We are quite sure that the Communists are not able to win the war."

But he said the political situation still is confused because full agreement has not been reached among all political leaders on a unified point of view as to the best way of fighting the Communist Viet Cong.

"It is sure that the Communists will take advantage of this confusion to make the situation more difficult," he said.

The envoy added: "When I was a member of a triumvirate, we decided to take the army outside of politics and give the power to a civilian government."

SELF-RESPECT

"The way to bring back self-respect and law and order is very difficult."

"If the nationalist politicians who are responsible for the present situation do not reach a common point of view to fight against the Communists and if we cannot reach agreement among ourselves, I do think the Communists will use the nationalists to kill off each other and thus achieve domination for themselves."

He pointed out that a similar division among nationalist leaders existed in 1945 and led to Ho Chi Minh's gaining Communist control over the nationalist movement.

Khien said the Vietnamese Army would never back any nationalist political figures who do not take a very clear position against the Communists.

NO SUPPORT

The army would not back leaders who favor neutralization "or going along with President Charles de Gaulle," he said.

Khien is a prominent Buddhist and his words appeared directed against the reported efforts of some Buddhists to replace the present government with a neutralist regime.

Khien said the reason power was turned over to the civilians is because "we visualize the kind of war we are facing now is not merely a military operation, but a political, social and economic war."

"The army cannot fight this war alone. I think we have to give reason to the people to fight against communism and show them that after we win, they will have a better life."

first year, encountered several early problems.

First, in order to show results to voters who had passed the half-million tax, programs were set up to cover the county geographically.

Secondly, special education was new, in public schools. Hence, state colleges and universities were not turning out the personnel to staff the new programs.

OUT STATE

It was necessary, according to school officials, to go outside the state to find qualified personnel.

The availability of teachers is still a problem. The need is always greater than the supply.

Deputy Supt. Kenneth W. Brown points out that for this year (1964-65) county programs need a total of 37 specialists that are not available.

The biggest need is for visiting teachers. Thirteen are needed that can not be found. Another big area where staff people are lacking is in speech correction.

BIGGEST PROGRAM

This latter program is the biggest in special education. Some 9,000 youngsters are served by 90 correctionists. Nine more are needed.

Beginning a decade ago with 56 people, the county-centered program now employs 385 people in a total of 11 categories or programs.

Four entirely new services have been added since 1954. Two of the programs—adjusted study and perceptual development—were not even conceived in 1954.

School officials say that they have resulted from observations made by trained specialists. The adjusted study program was instituted in 1959, while the perceptual development program is the newest of the county classes, starting in 1961.

DOUBTFUL FUTURE

Although rightfully proud of its pathfinding role, county educators see a doubtful future for special education. Some difficult questions concerning financing lay ahead.

Announcer's Error

Jars Ringo Fans

LONDON (AP) — Beatle drummer Ringo Starr rested comfortably without his tonsils today while his British fans recovered from a severe case of postoperative shock.

"Ringo Starr's tonsils were successfully removed this morning," the British Broadcasting Corp. announced in its first newscast after the operation yesterday.

Alarmed that the surgeons had knifed the wrong end of their idol, thousands of fans jammed the BBC switchboard. Hasty apologies were made in later newscasts.

"I misread the item," said announcer Roy Williams, "it happens to all of us and I bet Ringo is glad I'm not his surgeon."

Man Is Killed by Sliding Car

Slippery roads were blamed for the death yesterday of Carl E. Thompson, 54, who was struck by a car in front of his home at 401 S. Williams Lake, Waterford Township.

Waterford police said Thompson had stopped his car at the end of his driveway and got out to check his mailbox, which is located at the bottom of a hill on Williams Lake Road.

A car driven by James A. Booth, 21, went into a skid on the hill, police said, and struck Thompson, pinning him to his own car. He was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital.

Booth, who lives at 1090 S. Williams Lake, White Lake Township, was scheduled to make a statement this morning before Assistant Prosecutor Barry M. Grant.

His body is at the D. E. Purley Funeral Home.

Traditional Men's Night to Open Yule Shopping

BIRMINGHAM — Here come the men!

Monday night they'll take over the area normally dominated by the distaff side of the family — the downtown business district.

Fortified with shopping lists and gentle hints, they will visit the more than 30 downtown stores which are open from 7 to 10 p.m. for the annual Men's Night observance.

Only "stag shoppers" will be welcome in the stores during the special period set aside for them, according to Knowles B. Smith, executive director of the chamber of commerce.

Special sales persons will be available to offer suggestions and answer questions on the latest in women's gift choices.

To further aid the males, many of the stores will provide models for their fashions.

REFRESHMENTS

Light refreshments are to be served at several of the stores.

Men's Night traditionally opens the Christmas shopping season here and is the first of several special activities being planned.

The Christmas lights decorating the downtown area will be turned on Monday, along with those on the large community tree.

Santa Claus is expected to arrive at his Shain Park workshop at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Europe's three Rivers as explored by Bloomfield Hills photographer Frank McGinnis will be this weekend's offering on the 1964-65 Travel Film Series at the Community House.

The color film will be shown at 8 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday.

McGinnis, 3802 Crestlake, launched his second career after his retirement from Ford Motor Co. in 1961. He had been advertising, sales promotion and sales training manager there.

His film covers the "primeval" Spanish Riviera, the "sophisticated" French Riviera and that "of innocence," the Italian Riviera.

The prefilm dinner, served at 6 p.m., will feature foods originated in the three countries as well as an American menu.

DEADLINE TODAY

Today is the deadline for making dinner reservations, although tickets for the film can be purchased at the door.

Consumers Completing Remodeling

Consumers Power Co., Oakland division, is completing the $60,000 modernization program of its office facilities at 28 W. Lawrence, in downtown Pontiac. A three-day open house is planned for Dec. 10-12.

"The completely remodeled sales floor and showroom not only will provide more convenience for electricity and gas customers doing business in the downtown area, but demonstrates the company's confidence in the urban renewal project now under way in the city," according to Charles F. Brown, division manager.

New floor covering and new indirect lighting supplement the displays, which feature actual models of kitchens and utility rooms as they would look in the home.

The latest features in outdoor living and cooking are on display on a patio. There are new cashier counters and customer information offices.

The sales department offices also are located on the first floor.

REPAIR AREA

The lamp bulb and small appliance repair department has been moved to the basement.

Consumers Power presently serves the city of Pontiac and 14 townships in northern Oakland.

Protesting Students Dragged Off to Jail

BERKELEY, Calif. (U) — Police plowed into some 800 University of California students who staged an all-night sit-in inside the campus administration building today, making arrests and dragging limp students to waiting buses for a trip to the county prison farm.

Hundreds of students and faculty members of the 27,000-student campus packed the area, as police, as many as four to a student, dragged the demonstrators through a thick cord of police encircling Sproul Hall.

On the second, third and fourth floors of the block-square building students made no protest as officers pulled them away.

The rebel students, who took over the building last night, were hauled into elevators where stenciled numbers were slapped on their chests. Police and commercial photographers took pictures of them and they were let outside.

The students were demonstrating for an end to regulations which they felt restricted students from fully exercising on-campus political rights.

Farnum Appoints

Newsman as His Executive Aide

Rep.-elect Billie S. Farnum of the 19th Congressional District today announced the appointment of veteran newsman William J. Coughlin, as his executive aide.

Coughlin has resigned as Detroit Free Press Planning Editor to direct Farnum's Washington staff.

Coughlin, whose Free Press posts included those of Sunday editor and associate editor, has also been a radio writer, program moderator and broadcaster on Cuba.

surprising example of imperialist piracy."

Brezhnev dismissed as "a hypocritical pretext" the Western view that the landing was forced by threats on the lives of hostages by Congolese rebels.

NO MENTION

Like all Soviet statements on the Congo operation, Brezhnev's remarks made no mention of murdered American and European hostages.

He said the rebels, who have Communist backing, were gaining strength "for decisive victories."

"The Congolese patriots continue their struggle against the invaders for freedom and independence," he said.

"The (Western) adventure in the Congo will be a complete failure," Brezhnev, Nikita Khrushchev's successor as first secretary of the party, also repeated the familiar Soviet position on Cuba.

"Economic blockade, provocations, violations of the sovereignty of Cuba seriously poison not only the atmosphere of the Caribbean area but also the international climate as a whole," he said.

Governors Meet in Denver to Determine GOP Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican governors, many of whom were lukewarm to the presidential candidacy of Sen. Barry Goldwater, start today to examine the GOP's future in the wake of his smashing defeat.

Their meeting in Denver was also to be attended by two representatives of the "Wednesday club," an organization of some two dozen moderate GOP House members.

A number of governors, and governors-elect, planned to pass up the Denver conference including Ohio's James A. Rhodes, Oklahoma's Henry Bellmon, Arizona's Paul Fannin and Wisconsin Gov.-Elect Warren Knowles.

Meanwhile, preliminary plans were completed for a meeting in New York next Wednesday night among the GOP's last three presidential candidates: Goldwater, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Nixon said in New York last night that he would meet with Eisenhower and Goldwater when all are at a dinner in the Waldorf Astoria Hotel honoring U.S. Steel President Roger Blough.

SUGGESTS MEETING

Nixon said Goldwater had suggested the meeting and that he and Eisenhower agreed the Blough dinner would "be a good time." No specific details have been decided concerning the talks, Nixon said.

The GOP governors meeting was called by Idaho Gov. Robert Smylie, chairman of the Republican Governors Association. In advance of the start of the session, Smylie yesterday accused Goldwater of having taken "a dictatorial attitude" in regard to the future of GOP national chairman Dean Burch.

Smylie favors Burch's ouster from his $30,000-a-year post and has made himself available as a possible replacement. A number of other GOP governors—including New York's Nelson A. Rockefeller—favor mounting a drive against Burch.

Goldwater has stood firmly behind Burch, a former Senate aide of his, and has predicted that the national committee which meets Jan. 21 in Chicago will voice confidence in his chairmanship.

REPUDIATE GOLDWATER

Meanwhile, the governors were called upon to repudiate Goldwater as the party's titular leader and to write a new platform for the GOP.

The request came from Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke, a Negro who was elected by a landslide even though Johnson carried Massachusetts by more than a million votes.

DISCUSS PAYMENTS—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko met yesterday for lunch-meeting was at the headquarters of the Soviet U.N. Mission. Russia's refusal to pay peace-keeping assessments of the U.N. was the main topic on the agenda.

USW to Tell Pact Demands

Wage Hike Said Key Aim in Negotiations

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The United Steelworkers Union (USW) today makes known the demands it will level on the nation's "Big 11" basic steel producers in contract negotiations set tentatively for Dec. 15.

Reported high on the list of demands was a substantial wage increase. The 1.2 million members of the union have foregone a general pay hike the last three years in favor of other benefits.

Best estimates were that the USW—third largest labor organization in the nation—would shoot this time for a general wage boost of at least 15 cents an hour. The pay hike will be part of an overall "package."

USW President David J. McDonald said he was hopeful of negotiating new labor agreements peacefully.

In a flurry of union activity yesterday, the union's 33-member executive board drafted a statement of demands, which later in the day was presented for approval to the 170-member Wage Policy Committee.

MORNING MEETING

The wage policy body, which has final authority in all union contract matters, was to meet again this morning. It was expected the policy makers would place their stamp of approval on the various demands then make them public.

Romney Role May Be Large

Events Could Boost Him Into Prominence

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney flies to Denver today for a Republican rebuilding conference that could thrust him even higher in the ranks of the nationally-shattered party.

Romney, calling repeatedly for broadening and unifying of the party, has disclosed any major role as an individual. But since he governs a major state and was one of the few significant Republican winners in November, his influence could be sizeable at the meeting of 17 Republican governors.

The governor said Wednesday he thinks the leadership level of the GOP should take rebuilding action by early next year.

But he refuses to expand on this suggestion or others he plans to offer at the Denver meeting.

ROMNEY'S THEME

As it has been since the election, Romney's theme is that the rebuilding program must be hammered out and presented as a group plan rather than proposed piecemeal by individuals.

Consistent with this he has refused to castigate any segment of the party for the November results.

But that neutrality could be forced to disappear if the governors consider any strongly worded resolutions on such topics as the suggested ouster of Dean Burch as national chairman.

Romney hinted Wednesday at some dissatisfaction with the national committee when he refused to commit himself to favoring a place for the committee in the leadership action he suggests.

PLACE FOR BARRY

He did reject, however, that Sen. Barry Goldwater, the presidential nominee whom Romney would not endorse, should have a place in the leadership.

Jury Convicts Pair of Conspiring to Spy

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A Soviet chauffeur and an American electronics engineer were convicted Wednesday night of conspiracy to commit espionage for the Soviet Union.

The verdict could mean death. The penalty will be decided by U.S. District Court Judge Anthony T. Augelli, who presided over the 36-day trial. No date has been set for sentencing.

A federal jury of eight women and four men deliberated 9½ hours before returning the verdict against the American, John

W. Butenko, 39, and his codefendant, Igor A. Ivanov, 34.

Butenko and Ivanov were convicted of conspiring to relay secret Air Force information for the Soviet Union and of conspiring to violate the law requiring foreign agents to register with the State Department. Butenko also was convicted of acting as an unregistered agent for the foreign power — the Soviet Union.

SAID NOTHING

Butenko, a bachelor of Russian descent, said nothing as the jury foreman, Miss Michilena M. Deluca, announced the verdict. But the strain of the grueling trial showed on his face as he was led from the courtroom to be taken back to the Hudson County jail, where he has been held without bail since his arrest Oct. 29, 1963.

Ivanov, a crew-cut, blond Soviet citizen listened to an ear-phone linked to a translator as the verdict was announced. Ivanov, who worked as a driver for a Soviet trade agent in New York, is said to speak little English.

Both defendants kept their eyes on the jury as each member was polled at the request of a defense attorney. One juror said afterward that the panel had been in general agreement throughout the deliberations.

Ivanov smiled as he spoke privately with a representative of the Soviet Embassy and others after the verdict was announced. An embassy representative and two Russian speaking translators were present for the entire trial.

BAIL REQUEST

Augelli granted a request by Ivanov's attorney to continue Ivanov's bail at $100,000. The bail was put up Dec. 20 by the Soviet Embassy, permitting Ivanov to go home to his wife and daughter in New York City to await trial.

Wednesday night Aleksei P. Kosikov, of the Soviet Embassy, said Mrs. Ivanov returned this year with her 1-year-old daughter, Irina. Mrs. Ivanov gave birth to a son last month in Moscow, he added.

Cuba Problem for Swiss

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — The poor state of Fidel Castro's relations with a number of nations is causing headaches in an unexpected quarter — the Swiss diplomatic service.

Neutral Switzerland now represents the interests in Cuba of eight countries that have broken relations with the Castro regime. The United States was the first, in 1961. Argentina, Guatemala, Honduras, Chile, Brazil, Ecuador and Venezuela followed.

In 1960, Switzerland had an ambassador and a first secretary as its entire diplomatic staff in Havana. Now there are 13 diplomats and a team of clerks, typists and office workers.

By far the most work in Havana is done on behalf of the United States, which had large interests in Cuba before Castro took over.

NOT REGISTERED

"We have issued over 2,000 Swiss protection passports to American citizens still in Cuba," a senior Swiss official said. "But there are still a number who have not registered with our embassy in Havana."

The Cuban government recognizes the Swiss protection passport although it does not give the holder the rights of a normal passport.

An American law decrees that U.S. visas and passports must be signed by an official of an American consulate or embassy. As none of these are now in Cuba, any American whose passport has expired has to go through a complicated procedure to go to the United States.

With his Swiss protection passport, he goes to the Mexican Embassy. There he applies for a Mexican transit visa. With it he can fly to Mexico City where the American Embassy gives him an American visa.

DIFFICULT PROCESS

The procedure is also difficult for Americans wishing to get information on friends or relatives in Cuba.

They must write to the State Department which forwards the request to the Swiss government in Bern which in turn sends it on to the Havana Embassy.

One of the most important functions of the Swiss Embassy in Cuba is to keep an eye on American prisoners in Castro's jails.

The Swiss also intercede for any Americans who accidentally land on Cuban territory.

Switzerland receives no set fee for the extra work but the other countries pay expenses.

Spring Shoes to Be Softer

Shoes that punctuate the point of fashion for spring are the softest, tenderest shapes in a decade, reports the National Shoe Institute.

Toes are ovals, rounds or soft squares. And there's lots of exposure via the revival of sling shapes.

Sunday Work Not Wanted

WEST ALLIS, Wis. (AP) — Although neighbors were notified by hand lettered circulars that Marilyn Mueller and Judy Krzyzan were available for such vacation chores as car washing, lawn mowing and baby sitting, the girls added one restriction: CLOSED ON SUNDAY.

How to Brighten Christmas Tree

Making old-fashioned ornaments to hang on Christmas trees can be a delightful project for youngsters at home, scout groups or adults.

A new idea in durable tree ornaments utilizes empty plastic bleach bottles. First, cut off the top and bottom of a large plastic container. Silt the large round band that was the middle of the bottle and lay it out flat.

Trace the outline of your design on the plastic, and cut it out with a sharp blade or scissors.

Red Container You Can Make

Need a spectacular red container for a Christmas floral arrangement? Cover a one or two pound coffee can, a one quart mayonnaise jar, or a tall glass, with a crimson adhesive covering.

Keep arrangements of pine boughs, holly and berries intact by packing paper toweling around the inside of the container, then filling it with water. The arrangement will stay intact and moisture will reach all ends equally.
