Action on Survey Sparks Hospital Board Row

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

Hassle after hassle marked the monthly meeting of Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees held last night.

All four officers of the board were re-elected for one - year terms, but only after Willis M. Brewer, vice - chairman of the board, and Charles E. Yaeger argued previous actions of the group.

Brewer later left the meeting when the board voted 5-to-2 to raise the salary of Miss Lauretta Paul, hospital director, to $12,000. He and Mrs. B. B. Roush, reported opponents of the director, voted against the $1,000 increase.

Mrs. Roush said later in the 3½-hour session she "will sit right here until some action is taken on this report." She had reference to a lengthy survey of Pontiac General by a Minneapolis hospital consultant firm.

'I'm absolutely fed up with these things being shunted around, "she protested bitterly. "I asked for an investigation of the credit department two years ago and nothing was ever done.

After Mrs. Roush's demand to know what was going to be done with the survey, William P. Babcock, chairman of the board, set July 26 as the first of three meetings to study the report.

When later asked for the date of the survey study meeting, Babcock replied: "The way things are going now we probably won't have a next meeting."

The following four officers were re-elected after the Nominating Committee, headed by Yaeger, moved for the re-election: Babcock, chairman; Brewer, vice-chairman; Mrs. Roush, secretary; and Harold S. Goldberg, treasurer. It will be the second one-year term for the three men, and the fifth for Mrs. Roush.

The committee delayed the meeting 20 minutes as they met separately with officers.

The Brewer-Yaeger debate was touched off when Brewer was hesitant in accepting another term, because, as Brewer put it: "I don't think the board goes along with me on many things." Yaeger immediately took exception to the statement and demanded an explanation.

Brewer answered by demanding to know what was "going to be done with the report" before saying whether he would accept the re-nomination.

"I'm not going to sell my opinion on these matters for your support," Yaeger said.

Brewer had reference to a recommendation in the report that Miss Paul be given one year to correct deficiencies discovered in the operation of the hospital from the analysis. "If the director would get on the job and do what this survey says to do, you would see me for her 100 per cent," he said.

During the poll of whether the directors were interested in re-nomination, both Babcock and Mrs. Roush said they would relinquish their positions.

"Apparently members of the nominating committee do not uphold that part of the report," Mrs. Roush said. She was referring to the firm's recommendation that officers serve only three consecutive terms in any one office.

Brewer asked that the nomination of the officers be voted on separately because he had a nomination for vice-chairman. He offered in nomination Joseph Jones. Yeager argued that the nomin-

Asks AEC Shakeup

Greater Speed in Peaceful Use of Atom Sought

WACHINGTON (AP) — Over administration opposition, the House Appropriations Committee today called on the Atomic Energy Commission to speed up construction of government atomic power plants.

The committee majority demanded a shakeup in the commission. It said the United States is "bogged down in inexcusable stagnation" in the race to develop commercial atomic power and singled out AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss for special castigation as the man primarily responsible.

The majority said a pledge made by President Eisenhower December 8, 1953, before the United Nations General Assembly "has been, and is being, frustrated by an unrealistic administration of this most vital need of government."

That pledge, the committee quoted, was that the United States would "devote its entire heart and mind to find the way by which the miraculous inventiveness of man shall not be dedicated to his death, but consecrated to his life."

The views were embodied in a stinging report accompanying a bill financing the AEC. The report was drafted by Chairman Cannon (D-Mo.) It was expected to draw a quick rebuttal from Republican members.

It asserted that the United States is behind Russia and Great Britain in atomic power and said "the Russians and the British are going to have atomic electric power sooner than this country."

The committee moved squarely into the middle of a hot congressional fight by recommending 400 million dollars to put into effect a program of government construction of atomic power plants.

The program—but not the financing—was approved 49-40 last week in the Senate and cleared the House Rules Committee this week by a 5-4 count.

The plan is embodied in a Democratic-backed bill directing the AEC to build large-scale atomic furnaces to develop power for AEC installations and to construct smaller experimental reactors at undesignated sites.

Republican opponents, as well as some Democrats, insist that the program might actually retard efforts of private industry in the atomic field.

President Eisenhower did not ask for the 400 million dollars the committee added to the AEC budget for the power plant job. The addition brought the money bill's total to $2,338,700,000, an increase of 440 millions over presidential requests and 1½ billion more than the AEC was given last year.

The committee took cognizance

Senate Rejects Bill Authorizing Federal Work in Hells Canyon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Hells Canyon controversy would seem to be up to the courts now that Congress has bowed out.

The Senate yesterday rejected a bill to authorize a federal dam in the Hells Canyon area of the Snake River bordering Idaho and Oregon.

The decisive 51-41 Senate vote apparently killed also chances of a similar House bill still pending before the Rules Committee.

The courts will decide whether the Idaho Power Co. will be permitted to construct three smaller dams in the same river. The three dams would flood the federal site and vice versa.

* * *

Idaho power obtained a Federal Power Commission construction license last year, and has already started work on one of the dams. Public power groups asked the U.S. Court of Appeals to nullify the license, contending the FPC should have rejected Idaho Power's application and recommended the federal proposal subject to authorization by Congress.

The appeal is based largely on a contention by the public power advocates that the FPC broke a federal power law which they say requires that the government be given an opportunity to build dams best adapted to a comprehensive river basin development plan.

CD Launches Operation Alert With 'Bombing'

Federal Agencies Hide as Mock Enemy Hits Hawaii, Puerto Rico

EMERGENCY PRESS HEADQUARTERS, Operation Alert (AP)—The biggest civil defense exercises ever held in the United States began today.

It was the third annual Operation Alert, a U. S.-Canadian joint exercise that sent more than 30 government departments and agencies scurrying for cover outside Washington.

The test got under way at 10:06 a.m., Pontiac time, with this announcement from Emergency Press Headquarters at a secret location more than 100 miles from Washington:

"A simulated surprise attack was launched against the United States at 10 a.m. EST today with the simultaneous mock bombing of Hawaii and Puerto Rico as the initial phase of a nationwide civil defense exercise."

Seven minutes after that air raid warning sirens shrieked in Washington and President Eisenhower hurried into a meeting with an expanded National Security Council.

* * *

The plan called for theoretical surprise nuclear attacks from submarines upon Hawaii and Puerto Rico at the starting moment.

Next were scheduled theoretical rains of H-bombs on 73 areas of the continental United States and 25 targets in Canada.

Eisenhower planned to keep in contact with the operation until he leaves for Panama tonight.

Many of the officials attending the Security Council meeting planned to leave for their assigned relocation centers after the White House session. Other government centers will be operated by their subordinates.

For the first time since the series of annual tests alerts began the Defense Department is taking part.

Like other government agencies it is setting up headquarters "somewhere outside of Washington."

There will be an important Conelrad test this afternoon from 4:10 and 4:25 o'clock. At that time all regular radio and TV programs will go off the air and the Conelrad system will take over.

All persons are asked to tune their radios to 640 or 1240.

The general public is not participating most areas. New Yorkers were instructed to seek shelter when the sirens wail. Washington area residents were asked only to report to civil defense officials on the effectiveness of the warning signals.

Reserve Unit Off for Training

HEADED FOR McCOY — Three enlisted men and the commanding officer of Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment of the local 307th Ordnance Battalion reserve unit in Pontiac, last night loaded one of many cars in which unit personnel will travel to Camp McCoy, Wis. tonight for their two week summer training. From left to right: M.Sgt. Walter B. Waldon, M.Sgt. Cliff W. Salton, both of Waterford Township, SP3 David J. Hurt, of Ferndale, and Major William J. Lacy, 847 Menominee, commanding officer. The officers and enlisted men of the unit will encamp from July 23 through Aug. 4.

Reserve Embarks for Camp

Civilian attire will give way to two weeks of khaki garb for 26 members of Pontiac's 307th army reserve unit which heads for its annual summer encampment at Camp McCoy, Wis., tonight.

The five officers and 21 enlisted men of Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment of the 307th Ordnance Battalion were busy last night at the reserve training center, 37 W. Lawrence St., packing up administrative records, and personnel "gear" and loading up their cars for the jaunt to camp.

Beginning Monday and running through Aug. 4, the men will spend 88 hours of classroom and field work learning latest ordnance techniques. The unit is commanded by Major William J. Lacy.

Included in the training will be two days on the range qualifying with the .30 caliber, another two days in the ordnance shops learning the latest methods of modification of vehicles and weapons, and an overnight field problem.

During the stay at McCoy, the Pontiac unit will be attached to the 9330th Ordnance Training Center unit from Freeport, Ill.

Like any GI, the men will take driver training preparatory to being issued their army driving licenses.

The men, many of whom are college graduates, are trained specialists in administration, supply, mechanical supervision, and other fields.

Like all branches of the army, the men will have refresher course in throwing the hand grenade, studying mines and booby traps, and the dissassembly and assembly of weapons.

Although their 5½-day week runs from 7:30 a.m. until 4:30 daily, the men will have plenty of time to visit neighboring cities, M. Sgt. Harlan Pierce, ordinance advisor, reported.

Corps Methods Will Be Studied in McKeon Case

Court Decides to Admit Evidence After Sharp Legal Squabble

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. AP.—The training methods of the Marine Corps will be admitted as evidence in the general court-martial of S. Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon.

Whether those methods had any bearing on McKeon's conduct in leading a 74-man recruit platoon into marsh-bordered Ribbon Creek in which six drowned has become a sharp issue in the trial.

For the 31-year-old former drill instructor's attorney, Emile Zola Berman of New York City, it was a major victory.

In his ruling the court's law officer, Navy Capt. Irving N. Klein of New York City, said the evidence would be admitted to indicate whether McKeon was acting in a reasonable or unreasonable manner when he led the march.

In the course of the legal debate one of the assistant government prosecutors, Capt. W. L. Oteen Jr. of Easton, Pa., said: "The issue is not whether he led them (the recruits) on a night march or into water, but that he took nonswimmers into deep water."

The government has said the water was 10 feet deep, while the defense maintains the depth is arguable as a point of fact; that the water was less than 10 feet where McKeon led and not above his armpits. Even whether the men were nonswimmers is at issue in the case.

Berman had said in asking Klein to overrule the government's objection: "You are to determine whether it was the exercise of reasonable care by a reasonably prudent drill instructor under the circumstances."

Therefore, he argued, the performance, customs and actions of other drill instructors in teaching the recruits discipline was a matter of pertinence.

Just before the legal argument broke out in the court room a tough Marine sergeant had appeared on the stand to describe McKeon as "an outstanding drill instructor."

McKEON'S SENIOR

The testimony on McKeon's professional ability came from S.Sgt. Edward A. Huff of Chicago, McKeon's senior drill instructor on the night of April 8, the date of the fatal march.

Huff, asked by the defense to evaluate McKeon's performance as a junior drill instructor, replied, "Sgt. McKeon is to me an outstanding drill instructor."

Union Weighs Steel Offer of Improved Pay Package

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Steel talks moved into a new phase today with union negotiators reportedly weighing a new industry offer of a three-year contract and an improved money package.

The proposal aimed at ending the 20-day nationwide steel strike apparently was introduced at a bargaining session yesterday. The striking United Steelworkers were reportedly cool to the offer. Union President David J. McDonald revealed the union's desire for a 15-cent hourly wage increase and time and a half pay for Sunday work, it was reported.

McDonald, in a prepared statement, last night denied that the union has received a new offer.

Federal Mediation Director Joseph F. Finnegan, who met with both sides after the joint meeting, declined even to tell newsmen whether he was "encouraged or discouraged" with the status of negotiations.

Shortly afterwards, it was learned that the three-year plan had been proposed by the industry's Big Three—U. S. Steel Corp., Bethlehem Steel Co. and Republic Steel.

Management originally offered the union a 52-month contract which it said would provide an hourly package increase of 17 2-3 cents an hour.

McDonald valued it at 14 cents an hour. The 650,000 strikers averaged $2.46 an hour under the old contract.

The walkout has resulted in furloughs for about 100,000 workers in allied industries, principally railroads and mines.

Close Calls Bring Recheck

Judges Plowing Through 9,165 Pot-O-Gold Entries

The numerous stacks of postcards rose two feet over the table, but Press POT-O-GOLD judges moved briskly behind them this morning as they began the gigantic task of rechecking each of the 9,165 attached entries.

Even the flying pencils seemed to be excited by the prospect of discovering the person who will claim the $700 in accumulated cash prizes.

Has someone cracked the giant pot? The possibility is there, but first a record number of entries must be restudied before the Press can announce its decision.

Entries in the Puzzle No. 7 phase of the summer-long word game smashed a seven-week record Wednesday and Thursday when 9,414 were received and recorded in the judging room.

But alas! — 139 arrived in envelopes and another 110 missed the final deadline.

The initial analysis indicates that about nine entrants missed only one word — another 12 came within two.

Entries like those prompted the judges' decision to once more go through the stacks. Their final word will be announced in tomorrow's Press.

Meanwhile, readers can find out how they fared by turning to Page 14 for the answers to Puzzle No. 7 as illustrated above.

And if you haven't already tried POT-OF-GOLD, look on Page 25

for the last entry form for Puzzle No. 8 — a correct solution will be worth another $100 next week no matter what the outcome of this week's contest.

Abe, Ike Picked for Cover Picture of GOP Program

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—This time the Republicans have agreed on a cover for the national convention program—busts of Abraham Lincoln and President Eisenhower side by side in profile view to draw attention to the party's 1856-1956 centennial.

In the background are photographs of San Francisco landmarks—the Golden Gate Bridge, Fisherman's Wharf, Chinatown, Coit Tower, Mission Dolores and a cable car.

A recently proposed, but quickly rejected, design was a photograph of Rodin's celebrated sculpture of three nude males at the gate of Hell.

Democrats gleefully pointed out that the gate was inscribed: "All hope abandon, ye who enter here."

Snake Hunter Bit in Orion Township

A Detroiter was being treated at the Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital late this morning shortly after being bitten by a three-foot Massasauga rattlesnake he was trying to capture near an Orion Township park.

Donald W. Doran, 19, was reported in "good" condition by a hospital spokesman who said the man was bitten just above the left wrist.

Doran, who raises and sells snakes in Detroit, was reportedly looking for snakes with his dog when he came across the rattler at the Bald Mountain Recreation area near Orion Road. He was able to pick it up by the back of the neck but told doctors his grip was apparently not tight enough, allowing the rattler to turn its head and bite him.

Pontiac Schools Planned Ahead to Skip Steel Crisis

Pontiac's school building program is dodging the pinch a steel strike usually has on construction.

* * *

Administration planning has cut the use of steel in buildings by more than half, as a cure for frustrating delays.

Dr. Otto C. Hufziger, assistant superintendent in charge of business, says as a result the steel dispute will cause no holdups in construction of 16 new buildings.

Use of other materials has also resulted in lower insurance rates, he added.

The planning is part of the school board's 10-year, nine million dollar expansion to provide modern schools for the growing school population.

"The whole program is timetabled," Hufziger pointed out, "and delays mean loss of money and children left without proper classrooms.

"We've cut down on steel because we've learned in the past that steel often is not delivered because of labor disputes," he said.

Once, schools were built with steel roofs, steel structural supports, steel doors and door frames and steel reinforcement in foundations.

Now pre-cast concrete is used in roofs, Hufziger said, and in some buildings, laminated wood serves structural needs.

Hufziger compared the steel cost in the Bethune School, completed last fall with full use of steel, and in the Linda Vista School, ready this fall.

59 PER CENT SAVING

The cost was cut by almost 59 per cent, he said. In the Linda Vista School, concrete slabs replaced the usual steel-deck roof, and much of the structural steel was replaced by concrete pillars.

At the Walton Boulevard school open this fall, classrooms are topped with concrete. Delivery of steel for door frames was "so poor," Hufziger said, wood was used instead.

A multi-purpose building at the Linda Vista School will have a steel-deck roof, Hufziger said, but concrete will be used in multi-purpose rooms under construction at three other elementary schools.

* * *

However, steel remains necessary for reinforcing foundations, Hufziger said, pointing out the possibility that the strike if prolonged could hold up delivery of steel for reinforcement.

Through use of concrete and other materials, Hufziger said, insurance rates have dropped about 28 per cent.

This is because steel exposed to fire tends to buckle and bend, and concrete does not. Rates have lowered even when wood is used for structural support, he added.

Insurance companies know, he said, that thick wood beams take hours to burn through, but steel is affected as soon as temperatures rise high enough.

Britain Names New U.S. Envoy

Sir Harold Caccia, Top Eden Aide, to Succeed Sir Roger Makins

LONDON (AP)—Sir Harold Caccia, one of Britain's top career diplomats and an old friend of President Eisenhower, has been named Britain's new ambassador to Washington.

Caccia, 51, was named today to succeed Sir Roger Makins. Makins is returning to Britain as one of Prime Minister Eden's chief aides in the government's battle to bolster Britain's economy.

Caccia is one of the most experienced men in Britain's diplomatic service.

A seasoned negotiator and veteran of many big East-West parleys, he is now serving as deputy undersecretary of state at the Foreign Office.

Chubby and balding, Caccia already holds the personal rank of ambassador as Britain's permanent representative on the council of the Western European Union.

King George VI knighted him in 1950 when he was British high commissioner in Austria.

He was educated at Eton and Oxford University, where he shone both in football and cricket. He joined the foreign service in 1929.

After serving in Peiping, Athens and in the Foreign Office, he caught the eye of Eden—then foreign secretary. In 1936 Caccia became his assistant private secretary.

In World War II, Caccia served on the headquarters staff of Gen. Eisenhower before the invasion of Europe.

In 1954 he took up his present job at the Foreign Office. He has attended many big international parleys since then.

These high - level conferences built Caccia's reputation as an energetic worker and a first-rate host.

He has a thorough knowledge of the United States. He once startled an American correspondent by arguing in minute detail some minor facet of the Civil War.

Action on Survey Sparks Board Row

ating committee had an alternate slate of officers in case the incumbents declined new terms.

After salaries were established for three new positions at the hospital, Harold B. Euler raised the question whether Miss Paul's salary should be raised immediately, in accordance with a January vote taken by the board.

* * *

Babcock asked that the minutes of the January meeting be read to prove the board passed on a $1,000 hike for the director pending receipt of the survey. The vote then was 5-2 with Brewer and Mrs. Roush casting nays. A roll call vote was asked last night, with the hike approval resulting in Brewer's exit.

"All of this shows that as much as you can spend on this will be to our liking," Euler directed at Miss Paul regarding the appraisal.

"A good many things I am on trial for are the result that we haven't got the salaries to hire the qualified individuals," she answered. "Some of the criticism was a little unfair because I don't claim to be perfect."

Mrs. Roush said this morning she considered no election of officers was held last night according to parliamentary procedure, since "there's been no ballot taken."

* * *

But Miss Paul said under the new procedure of the Nominating Committee, recommended by the hospital firm and adopted by the board in June, the slate of officers was formally re-elected. "The chair asked for any discussion on the report of the committee and then its recommendation was moved and seconded," she said.

Drops Loan Offer to Egypt

U.S. Quits on Aswam Dam

LONDON (AP)—Britain joined the United States today in withdrawing its offer to help Egypt finance its proposed Aswan Dam.

* * *

A Foreign Office spokesman said that after close consultation with the United States "we have also concluded that in the present circumstances it is not feasible to participate in the project."

* * *

The United States announced yesterday that it has withdrawn its offer to help finance the giant project.

The British spokesman said the same factors which caused the United States to cancel its offer influenced the decision of the British government. He did not enumerate the factors beyond saying they centered around Egypt's "economic capacity" to pay its share of the $1,300,000,000 undertaking.

* * *

It was clear Egypt's recent deal to buy armaments from Communist Czechoslovakia represented the key factor. Egypt has mortgaged several years of her cotton output, which forms the backbone of her economy at present, in order to pay for the weapons.

* * *

Under the Western proposals Britain would have supplied 15 million dollars and the United States 55 million dollars to enable Egypt to buy the machinery and equipment to start construction of the dam.

* * *

Additionally the World Bank, of which the United States and Britain are two of the most important members, offered 200 million dollars in loans. The United States and Britain promised also to consider sympathetically subsequent additional loans of 130 million dollars. This program of Western help would have left Egypt to find the remaining 900 million dollars to meet local costs of the dam, which according to estimates would take up to 15 years to complete.

In Cairo, the Anglo-American decision to withdraw its offer to help build the dam was received with shock and indignation by the government and public.

Planned Hamilton Appeal Runs Into Money Problem

DETROIT (INS)—The planned appeal of the first degree murder conviction of Maurice Hamilton, 19-year-old Baghdad student, hit a snag today over the lack of funds.

Michael Kranson, who defended Hamilton during his trial for the murder of Aziz Hermiz, met with Hamilton's father, Thomas, yesterday to discuss the appeal.

Kranson told the elder Hamilton, who came to Detroit from Baghdad for the trial, that the transcript of the trial alone would cost $2,500. At this the father threw up his hands in apparent despair and said:

"That's out of the question. I don't have any money."

Kranson, who said he believes Hamilton innocent of the crime, offered his services free in an attempt to win a reversal. He said:

"The conduct of the trial was full of error. There is lots of cause for mistrial and new trial."

The convicted youth's parents moved from the $15-a-week hotel to a rooming house yesterday where they will pay $8 per week. They intend to stay at least until the Aug. 1 sentence date of the son.

ASYLUM FOR LIFE

Meanwhile, Hamilton's co-defendant in the trial, Mrs. Victoria Hermaniz, left at 6:10 this morning for the Ionia State Hospital for the Criminally Insane. The recorder's court jury had found her not guilty of the crime by reason of insanity.

The committment order for Mrs. Hermiz was read in court yesterday and stated that she would be confined "for the rest of her life."

* * *

As she left the county jail she told newsmen:

"I only want the forgiveness of the people and Maurice."

Yesterday, Mrs. Hermiz had a tearful reunion with her two children, Jennifer, 3 and Jeffrey, nine months, at which she told her daughter:

"Take care of your little brother as long as you live, remember be a good girl . . . always. Be quiet and dignified and obey your mother (the child's custodian) but don't ever forget me and that Victoria loves you very, very much."

Asks Greater Speed for Atomic Use of claims that private industry is able and willing to keep this country ahead in the atomic field. It said none of the atomic reactors now in use have been built by private electric companies and said the evidence "overwhelmingly forecloses any suggestion that the time is ripe for private industry to take up the task."

"A mere statement of the attendant risks defeats any such proposition," it said. "This transcends any issue of private power vs. public power." Neither group is in a position to undertake the risk of insolvency. The operation and construction of commercial plants by the government will thus provide information that can be obtained in no other way."

The committee said "the inherent dangers" in the operation of an atomic power plant "are awesome to consider," and no one can say that an atomic plant "will not get out of control."

* * *

No private operator "dares take such a chance," it added.

"The problem goes way beyond the possibility of explosion, as industrial explosions are known to us. The problem is the escape of radioactive gases or waters into the surrounding terrain. This deterrent alone is of such magnitude that only the government itself is in a position to go ahead with the vital problem at hand."

EARLY RELEASE

The report was prepared before the release of last night's AEC announcement that means has been found to cut down the area of fall-out danger. That development might affect prospects for a no-nuclear-bombs pact.

Assuming such an agreement the report went on:

"If we drag our feet—and we are dragging our feet—the other nations of the world will inevitably turn to Britain and Russia as the suppliers of atomic electric power plants."

* * *

The committee said the British atomic plant at Calder Hall will precede the Shippingport, Pa., plant in operation by some months.

The Shippingport plant on the Ohio River near Pittsburgh is expected to commence operation in 1957. It is being built by the government, with 85 million dollars of federal funds and a smaller amount from the Duquesne Light Co. and the Westinghouse Corp. The committee called it "99.99 per cent a project of the taxpayers of this country" and said it will produce power at "an exorbitant cost" for a period of 10 years.

The committee didn't pull its punches when it discussed AEC personnel, Strauss, W. F. Libby and H. S. Vance.

* * *

Here are some of its remarks:

"The approach to the problems which is urged by Commissioners Strauss, Libby, and Vance constitutes nothing but defeat. We are stagnated because of the dogmatic attitude of Chairman Strauss. The United States set out, logically, to meet the pledge laid down by President Eisenhower. His pledge to the world has been effectively thwarted by reason of a philosophy on the part of Mr. Strauss which cannot be continued.

PURPOSE DEFEATED

"Mr. Strauss set out to defeat the whole purpose of the Congress in entrusting this responsibility of sweeping magnitude to a five-man commission. This distortion of truth (referring to an advertisement by private utilities) was hand-in-glove with the philosophy of Chairman Strauss. To encourage the American public to believe that all is well, when in fact and truth, all is not well.

"It appears that the Atomic Energy Commission, with the singular exception on the commission level of Commissioner Thomas E. Murray, constitutes a front for the exercise of unauthorized power by Mr. Strauss."

Civil Rights Backers Pressing House Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of civil rights legislation pressed for a House showdown today, no matter how late, and counted on a ruckus among Republicans to solidify their ranks.

Their goal is House passage tonight, for moral and political effect. The bill is conceded no chance in the Senate.

But Southern opponents still had more than 20 amendment proposals and a variety of parliamentary maneuvers ready for use to continue delaying tactics.

Continue Baby Search

BOSTON (INS)—The search for Peter Weinberger, the two-months-old baby kidnapped from his home in Westbury, N. Y., centered on New England today as police in Massachusetts, Maine and New Hampire sought a panhandling couple who may have the child with them.

West German Farmers Hurt by Flash Floods

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — New cloudbursts and thunderstorms today caused devastating flash floods in West Germany. Damages to crops and livestock ranged into millions of dollars.

German police and fire brigades helped by American, Belgian and British troops, pushed urgent relief operations.

There were no new reports of fatalities. At least 10 persons died last Saturday and Sunday when torrential rains swept much of both West and East Germany, causing heavy damage.

Across the English Channel, southern England was drenched by more than an inch of rain in less than four hours. It brought the total in July to 4.86, the highest for the first 20 days of the month since 1875. Rail lines and roads were flooded, production was retarded in some factories and some families had to quit their homes.

Chiefs-of-State Meet in Panama

Plan to Sign Declaration of Hemispheric Unity; Ike Plans to Go

PANAMA (AP)—The chiefs of state of virtually all America's 21 republics were arriving in Panama today to sign a declaration of hemispheric unity, implied opposition to communism and hope for general prosperity.

The executives who govern some 350 million people will affix their signatures to the document Sunday, climaxing a hemisphere parley commemorating the first Pan-American Conference 130 years ago.

The document reportedly warns that the world is threatened by totalitarian forces and calls for greater inter-American cooperation.

Already here are Presidents Alfredo Stroessner of Paraguay and Carlos Ibanez del Campo of Chile. President-elect Manuel Prado of Peru is also on hand. Scheduled to arrive today and tomorrow are the chief executives of all the other Latin-American states but Colombia, Honduras and the Dominican Republic.

President Eisenhower's arrival tomorrow will complete the roster.

Colorado Delegates to Hear Dem Rivals

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—The Democratic State Convention opened today, tuned to bids for national convention support by the party's three leading presidential aspirants.

Adlai Stevenson, Gov. Averell Harriman and Sen. Estes Kefauver all were scheduled to address the 1,362 delegates.

Colorado will send 40 delegates to the Democratic National Convention, each with half a vote. Twenty-three have been selected; the other 17 will be chosen today.

Of the 23 already named, 11 have said they favor Stevenson, 5 prefer Harriman and the remainder are uncommitted. State law provides the delegates must be unpledged, although they can state a preference.

Lost Dental Plate Found in Lake 5 Years Later

PORT HURON (AP) — A dental plate found in the sand on the Lake Huron shore was claimed at the sheriff's office by a Port Huron man who said he lost the store teeth in the vicinity five years ago.

To prove ownership, Albert Allen, about 40, compared the teeth with a set he had bought to take their place. They were identical.

Name Suspects in Robberies

Two Ferndale Men Held for Investigation of Gas Station Holdups

Two Ferndale men have been identified as suspects in a pair of gas station holdups here Monday, Pontiac police said today.

Det. John Williams said that one of the victims, Arthur Sofian, 43, had identified the men yesterday at Detroit Police Headquarters, where they are held for investigation of other gas station holdups.

The men allegedly held up Sofian in his station at 477 S. Saginaw St., striking the victim on the head with a gun butt and stealing his billfold and $65.

The other victim was unable to identify the pair positively, Williams said. He is Robert LaForge, whose station at 494 Orchard Lake Ave. was robbed of $102. LaForge and a helper, Fred Foss, were herded into a washroom, but unharmed, Williams said.

* * *

The suspects possessed guns which resembled weapons used in the two holdups here and another in Southfield Townhip Tuesday night, Williams said.

Link Illinois Auditor With Racket Figures

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Investigators tracing some $800,000 in missing Illinois state funds will seek to establish whether there was any link between resigned State Auditor Orville E. Hodge and reputed southern Illinois rackets figures.

* * *

State's Atty. George P. Coutrakon made the disclosure yesterday after the St. Louis Post-Dispatch said it learned Hodge had business connections with Frank (Buster) Wortman, reputed East St. Louis, Ill., rackets boss.

In a copyrighted story, the Post-Dispatch also said Hodge had business dealings with Elmer (Dutch) Dowling, an associate of Wortman and Thomas Berry, former Belleville, Ill., slot machine operator.

The newspaper said the information had been gathered by federal agents.

* * *

Coutrakon said he would subpoena Wortman, Dowling and Berry after he has finished with the Hodge phase of the investigation "to see if any state money went to those fellows."

Meanwhile, Hodge's right-hand man Edward A. Epping has been labeled only "a messenger boy" in the financial scandal.

The grand jury investigation is but one of numerous inquiries into the missing state funds.

Youngster, 7, Injured After Being Hit by Car

A seven-year-old boy, struck by an auto yesterday afternoon, was listed in fair condition in Pontiac General Hospital today.

William Affeldt, 209 Seminole Ave. suffered severe face cuts and a broken right leg, authorities said.

Nancy Lee Brandt, 16, of 45 Putnam Ave. told Pontiac police the boy dashed in front of her car on S. Johnson avenue, just north of Orchard Lake road.

His staff is busy with completion of the purchase details.

The recent circuit court decision awarded $126,937 to property owners of the lots included in the parking lot plan, Egbert reports.

* * *

Blood Supply Drops, Donors Needed Badly

The Oakland County Blood Bank's supply has dwindled to 255 pints, Mrs. A. H. Magnus, Pontiac area blood chairman, reported.

Although 514 pints were collected last month, 769 were distributed, Mrs. Magnus said.

Donations will be taken Monday from 2 to 8 p.m. at the Elks Temple, 114 Orchard Lake Ave.

Since January, 4,226 pints were donated and 4,570 were released. The bank attempts to maintain 800 pints to serve the county, Mrs. Magnus said.

Because of the low supply, the local bank has had to borrow from nearby counties, she said.

Bonn Upper House Passes Draft Law

BONN (INS)—The upper house of the West German parliament approved today a law to draft German youths into the armed forces.

The bill passed its last legislative hurdle by a 21-to-17 vote following a quiet 90-minute debate.

* * *

The draft approval came on the 12th anniversary of the abortive plot against the life of Adolph Hitler.

U. S. Stays Under Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time in five years — and the fourth since 1930 — the government has ended the 1956 bookkeeping year with a budget surplus.

The surplus on June 30, the end of the last fiscal year, totaled $1,754,357,066.

Not since the early part of the Korean War had the last previous budget balance been achieved. It was balanced three times during the Truman administration, but before that, not since 1930.

The Blonde Cried MURDER

By Brett Halliday

XIX

LUCY had been sitting beside the telephone like this ever since Shayne had phoned to say he was sending his latest blonde over to her place for her to hold the girl's hand.

* * *

So, he didn't know whether she was "actually nuts" or not? And Lucy was supposed to bed down this blonde half-wit and keep her quiet and entertained while Shayne went off on a tangent hunting a brother who might not be a brother after all because she said her brother had been murdered —

Her buzzer sounded from the push-button on the foyer downstairs. Lucy got up and went to the door and unhooked the receiver and spoke into the mouthpiece: "Yes? Who is it?"

"Miss Hamilton?" The voice was flat and metallic in her ear.

"Yes."

"This is—I've a note for you from Mr. Shayne."

Lucy said coldly, "I know. He telephoned for me to expect you. I'm on the first floor." She pressed the button that released the catch on the inside door below. She held it a long moment, then released it and opened her door, stepping out on the landing and listening to the clack of high heels ascending the stairs.

She stood there and watched, saw the top of a blonde head of push-button in the foyer downhair appear over the railing, then a pretty young face that was tilted upward anxiously. A timid smile fluttered on red lips when the girl saw her waiting on the landing. She came on up, clutching a black suede handbag nervously and said, "Miss Hamilton? I—I know this is an awful intrusion at this time of night, but Mr. Shayne said—"

"I know just about what Mr. Shayne said," Lucy assured her dryly. "It's all part of my job — giving succor to his frightened female clients."

She stood back composedly and let the girl precede her into the lighted room, closed the door firmly and made sure it was double-locked, then turned slowly to look at her visitor.

I DON'T KNOW

She had stopped in the center of the room and stood there with her back to Lucy. For a moment her young shoulders slumped forlornly, and Lucy had to fight back a sudden up-welling of sympathy. She didn't want to feel sympathetic She wanted to hate the girl who had taken Michael away from her on this particular night.

* * *

When the girl just kept on standing there with her back turned, Lucy moved toward her, saying calmly, "So, you're Miss Paulson? May I call you Nellie?"

The girl whirled about at the words, her features twisting strangely, her eyes wild, and Shayne's warning came sharply to Lucy: "I don't know whether she's actually nuts or not, but on the fringe."

"On the fringe" was putting it mildly, Lucy thought to herself as the girl demanded, "How did you know — who told you my name was Nellie Paulson?"

"Mr. Shayne. When he telephoned me."

"Oh—I see." The distorted features smoothed out slowly. She even managed a smile as she fumbled with the catch of her black bag and got it open, extracted a sheet of paper and held it out to Lucy. "Here's the note he wrote for you. Just so you'll know."

Lucy glanced at the note and found it was about what she had expected. In the meantime, the girl turned away from her to the sofa, removing her jacket as she did so. "You've got a drink all poured out for me," she breathed happily, reaching for the cognac glass waiting for Shayne's return.

"Not that one!"

She drew her hand back from the wine glass as though it had burned her, and looked up in perplexity. "Sorry, I thought you'd fixed it for me."

Now her lips were pouting and she looked like a child about to cry.

Lucy said hurriedly, "You're welcome to a drink, of course. I'll get you another glass." She went swiftly into the kitchen and returned with a clean glass. "I'd poured that for Mr. Shayne when he was called out to see you, and he promised to be back to drink with me before midnight."

* * *

"Before midnight?" her visitor echoed speculatively.

"Not that I believe for a moment he'll make it." Lucy shrugged.

NOT VERY MUCH

"How much — did Mr. Shayne tell you about me over the phone?"

"Not very much. Just that some awful man is chasing you with a gun, and you're frightened and I'm not to let anyone in. So you needn't be worried any more," Lucy went on practically. "I'm quite sure Michael will take care of everything."

"Oh, I'm sure he will, too," the girl agreed fervently. "He's really wonderful, isn't he? Mr. Shayne? It must be marvelous to work for him. So exciting and interesting."

"It's seldom dull," Lucy conceded dryly.

Lucy sat erect suddenly as she finished speaking, and leaned forward to put her glass down. "I forgot. I promised to call him as soon as you got here."

* * *

She went to the telephone and dialed a number, and when a male voice replied, she said: "I'd like Chief Gentry's office, please. If he's still at headquarters."

Use of Sylvan Lake Banned for Two Days

Sylvan Lake patrons have been requested not to use the lake July 23 or 24 because of a chemical spraying program to rid the lake of weeds.

Residents are asked not to use lake water for sprinkling purposes until 30 hours after the project is completed. Mrs. Ethel Kohn, chairman of the weed control group, reported.

The work is being done by a bio-chemical firm and financed by contributions totaling $4,400 from nearby residents.

The restriction is a precautionary measure, Mrs. Kohn said, as the water reportedly is not dangerous to humans or animals during spraying unless four gallons of spray-infested lake water is consumed.

This is the first of three applications which the residents hope will eliminate the weeds from the lake, Mrs. Kohn stated.

Head of Edison Defends Monroe A-Plant Safety

DETROIT (INS)—Detroit Edison President Walker Cisler today defended the safety aspects of the atomic power station which is to be built near Monroe.

Cisler was answering charges by Thomas Murray, a member of the Atomic Energy Commission, who said serious questions exist about the proposed plant's safety.

In addition to heading Detroit Edison, Cisler is also president of both Atomic Power Development Associates (APDA) and Power Reactor Development Co. (PRDC), the groups building the atomic plant.

Cisler said all technical questions regarding the plant are under study and he is sure they will be solved in the four years it will take to build and test the plant.

Meanwhile, Cisler said, the public may be sure that the Detroit Edison Co. would not operate this, or any other plant, without the full assurance of its safety.

Board of Education OKs New Facilities

The Oakland County Board of Education at its meeting yesterday signed contracts for special education facilities in the Oak Park and Madison School Districts.

These contracts will involve setting up two rooms in each district for the mentally handicapped.

In other business the board postponed a request for transfer of a piece of property from Durfee to Northville School District until consolidation in the Novi area is decided.

The board also approved a clerk for the reading clinic to begin the last week in August.

Three Royal Oak men are being held for questioning in the Oakland County Jail today in a grand larceny investigation.

Kenneth T. Atkins, 23, Sam Hughes, 22, and Vernon D. Hughes, 23, were arrested early this morning by sheriff's deputies. They are held in the theft of two canoes from a Lapeer County Lake.

County 4-H Service Club to Sponsor Speaking, Talent Program Saturday

The 1956 Public Speaking contest and Share the Fun Talent Festival for county 4-H members will be sponsored Saturday night by the Oakland County 4-H Service Club.

* * *

The Service Club, the 4-H honorary, will present the program for the public at 8:30 p.m. at the West Bloomfield Township Hall, 4460 Orchard Lake Rd., according to County 4-H agent Jack Worthington.

This contest will be the county elimination for the district public speaking contest, August 2-3 in East Lansing. Winner will return for the state contest August 28-31.

The 4-H members eligible for the state contest must be 14 years of age on Jan. 1, 1956; be enrolled in a 4-H Club during the current year; and have completed two years of club work.

The speeches should last from five to seven minutes, and be original and factual, Worthington said. They will be judged on composition, and delivery.

TO BE ELIGIBLE

To be eligible for the Share the Fun Talent Festival, which is coordinated with the speaking contest, Worthington said 4-H members must be currently enrolled in a 4-H Club and have successfully completed a project in year preceding this contest. (Ten year olds in their first year of club work are eligible if currently enrolled.)

Recognition will be given to the top acts in the eight classes ranging from instrumental numbers involving more than three people to dramatic and novelty numbers with less than two people.

Winners will go to district elimination with the ultimate aim, the Share the Fun Breakfast at National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

Worthington said that Oakland County had a blue ribbon winner at State 4-H Show last year. "We wish to give everyone in 4-H the opportunity to display their talents.

"We are also urging all acts to participate in Talent Night during 4-H Fair Aug. 7-11 at the 4-H Fairgrounds," Worthington said.

Sue Tobin of Nov is in charge of registration for the Saturday program, he added.

State Aid Boosts Pay for 47,000 Teachers

LANSING (AP) — About 47,000 Michigan school teachers have received raises averaging $214 under a new law which gives school districts additional state aid for salaries.

Dr. Clair L. Taylor, state superintendent of public instruction, said 34,639 teachers received raises of $200 or more a year, while 2,932 received $150 or less.

The law was passed by the Legislature's special session last fall. School districts were given an extra $9 per pupil in state aid, the money to be used only for salaries.

Briggs Family Gives Up Ownership of Club

Many interesting facts stand out in the current sale of the Detroit Tigers. Public interest far transcended any previous major league sale. Clubs have been moved in toto from one city to another with less fanfare and less speculation. The whole State of Michigan long ago adopted the Tigers and subsequently the Lions as community projects.

This newspaper regrets that ownership passes from the Briggs family. Nor does this statement express or imply the slightest vestige of detraction from the new owners. In fact, we welcome the new president, Mr. Fred Knorr.

However, we are not unmindful of the fact that the Briggs' interests have relinquished control and we do not believe for one split second that Walter O. Briggs Sr., ever intended this to happen. Had he been appraised prior to his death that the Tigers would be separated from Spike and his sisters he would have been shocked and startled into an earlier demise.

★ ★ ★

Certainly attorneys were on sound ground in advising that succeeding generations might have legal action in challenging the retention of the baseball franchise. If a legal blunder does exist, it lies in the fact Walter O. Briggs was not advised that this could happen. We refuse to believe he knew. However, that's water over a dim and distant dam now.

The current situation evolved.

There is no alternate path.

★ ★ ★

Spike Briggs remains as Executive Vice President during the transition but the Briggs family has surrendered something that was very close and very dear to the heart of Walter O. Briggs Sr., whom the late Malcolm Bingay aptly proclaimed: "The Fan Who Bought the Ball Club."

And that's what he was.

Primarily, the senior Briggs was a red hot baseball fan. He loved the game. He bought the Tigers because they represented a splendid interest in his life and he could afford it. He gave Michigan the best he had and the profit motive was non-existent.

During pennant contention years he made money. Sometimes he didn't.

Mr. Briggs was indifferent.

He gave the fans the cleanest stadium in the two major leagues THAT WAS IMPORTANT. He struggled interminably for a stronger lineup. THAT COUNTED.

★ ★ ★

Walter O. Briggs Jr. has been imbued with precisely the same spirit. The year after his father died, the Tigers collapsed like a One Hoss Shay. That wasn't Spike's fault. His sole ambition has been to produce a winner. That was the main objective. We find too few men with these same ambitions left in sports. Spike is one of the last figures of a disappearing genus. He remains a red blooded fan. Tiger defeats hurt him more deeply than they did any player, coach or manager the team ever had and we will stand by this assertion until the Final Judgments are passed Up Yonder.

★ ★ ★

The Press regrets seeing a man so constituted become partly sidetracked, and we have nothing but a friendly welcome for Mr. Knorr. His reputation is stainless and his standing impeccable. Mr. Knorr and all the fans know the Tigers must ultimately try and pay a return on an investment of five million dollars plus. This is merely common sense. There are only a few multi-millionaires still owning big league franchises who can afford to be indulgent and wave the balance sheet aside.

★ ★ ★

And so, we greet the new owners with a smile and a bow of welcome but we feel part of the regret that would have accrued to "The Fan Who Bought the Ball Club," could he have anticipated this climactic turn of events.

Ferdinand N. Thiefels

By every accepted standard Ferdinand N. Thiefels was a citizen who did much to make Pontiac a better and happier place in which to live and work.

In the finest and fullest measure of the terms he was both a participating and contributing member of the community. He also played an important role in the City's industrial life through his many years service in a supervisory capacity at the Wilson Foundry & Machine Co.

★ ★ ★

Probably most of his fellow citizens knew Fred Thiefels best for his public service as a member, vice-president and president of Pontiac's Board of Education. As a gifted soloist, a member of the MacDowell Male Chorus and as director of the choir of St. Vincent de Paul Church, Mr. Thiefels made noteworthy contributions to the City's cultural and religious life.

★ ★ ★

Besides his membership in that church, he had served as an officer in the local unit of the St. Vincent de Paul Society. He was a Past Grand Knight of the local Knights of Columbus and a district deputy of the State council.

His sudden death at 71 not only is a severe loss to the community but will be mourned by a wide circle of friends.

The Man About Town

No August Quota

The Local Draft Boards Are Not Asked to Send Any Men

Right: What you should always be: It will please some people—and astonish the rest.

The two army draft boards which have their headquarters in Pontiac have not been asked to send any men in August. This applies both to the city and the out-county area. No men will be inducted here that month unless some unforeseen emergency arises. This is the first time in a long period when a monthly quota has not been asked here by the war department. Heavy local enlistments and a decrease in the overall number ordered for induction is the reason. no men will be sent from here next month.

It Looks Like Follow the Leader Again

David Lawrence Says:

Strike Reveals Economic Anarchy

WASHINGTON—A form of economic anarchy is revealed in the disastrous strike now being waged in the steel industry.

* * *

Innocent bystanders in industries and businesses not at all parties to the strike negotiations are being injured. Tremendous losses are being inflicted on other companies and their employes. Railroads, trucking companies, contruction firms and their employes have lost many millions of dollars a day because the steel companies and the labor unions prefer to battle it out with a strike instead of settling their differences either by mediation or arbitration or by mutual concessions in a negotiation.

The steel company managers cannot understand why the offer they made on what they considered very generous terms should have been rejected. Certainly the offer of a total of 45-cents-per-hour increase in compensation over the proposed contract period—representing actual increases in cost to the companies and various benefits copied from the important contracts just negotiated in other industries—indicates a desire at least to meet the growing demands of the steel union.

The damage done by the inability of the two sides to make an agreement is not confined to the present strike. It means that again and again, as the time for negotiations approaches, steel users will pile up inventories in advance so as to protect themselves against stoppages in production. In fact, before the present strike occurred, such an artificial stimulus was given to steel purchasers and, as a consequence, the industry runs into periods of abnormal peak and then recession as inventories are subsequently liquidated.

OVERLOOK DIFFERENCES

Instead of negotiating a contract based on conditions in one industry, the tendency is to demand uniformity irrespective of the differences in requirements. Likewise, inside an industry, the larger enterprises with more equipment and better facilities which can pay higher wages set the pace which the smaller businesses have to meet. It is little wonder that business volume gravitates to the larger units while the smaller ones are slowly but surely forced out of the competition. Then Congress wakes up and asks what's happening to "small business."

But the worst feature of the economic anarchy is the use of economic power that is made by those who can wield it. The answer doesn't lie in government regulation or in government cartels or monopolies because none of these prombtes the efficiency which the rate of American production in the past has achieved. It lies rather in a better exposition to the whole people of the facts involved in each controversy so that the public interest can be safeguarded through the processes of public opinion.

The workers themselves do not know today all the background of the struggle and how they are being compelled to accept the penalties of an unnecessary strike. A report by 12 major steel companies just issued shows that the workers lost $622,000,000, and the companies lost 46.5 million tons of production in the three major strikes in the industry—29 days in 1946 and 49 days in 1949 and 54 days in 1952. It looks as if the present strike will increase the losses in wages by $50,000,000 and that two million tons of production will be lost each week of the strike.

OTHERS HURT TOO

But in the last big strike, for every man idled in steel, three to four other employes were thrown out of work.

Time was when the "public interest" could not be vitiated so readily by a major strike. But the steel dispute doesn't seem to have awakened much interest or concern. The President has discussed the matter with his cabinet. There is talk of invoking the Taft-Hartley injunction procedure, which means an 80-day truce and a vote at the end of that period taken secretly among the workers to decide if they want to accept management's final offer.

Not all benefits that labor seeks can be achieved in one negotiation or in one year. The theory that each negotiation must result in a 100 per cent acceptance of union demands, especially when it threatens a cycle of inflation for the whole economy, can only in the long run mean something worse than economic anarchy—namely, economic collapse.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Physician Supports Claims of 19th Century Doctors

It was a little more than a hundred years ago (1843) that Oliver Wendell Holmes published an essay on "The Contagiousness of Puerperal Fever" (septicemia, acute blood poisoning following childbirth) — an essay which became a classic in medical and English literature. That was three years before Ignaz Semmelweiss, 28-year-old assistant in the maternity department of the General Hospital in Vienna, ordered that no student examine a lying-in woman until he had washed his hands in chlorin-water. In two years this precaution lowered the death rate from puerperal septicemia from 459 a year to 45 a year. But Dr. Semmelweiss was denounced and reviled, indeed, hounded to death by his colleagues.

From all I have read about Dr. Holmes, I gather that he was no great shakes as a practicing physician. But no matter. Even before he was married he was selling stuff to magazines and newspapers, so I can well imagine Holmes got many a good chuckle out of the satire, ridicule, and invective directed against him by the top medical authorities of the day, men of high standing and, I'm afraid, high blood pressure such as Hodge, Professor of Obstetrics at University of Pennsylvania, and Meigs, Professor of Obstetrics in Jefferson Medical College. These arbiters had tremendous ponderosity in their time—but there was no American Medical Association to back them up and so the teachings of Holmes became the standard practice of modern obstetrics.

Two or three years after Holmes made himself so unpopular with the stuffed shirts of the profession in America, young Semmelweiss in Vienna followed in his footsteps—implying, the old-timers charged, that "everyone is out of step but Semmelweiss."

Now, when it comes to winning the good will of the profession, Holmes and Semmelweiss had nothing on the conductor of this egregious column. All they did was just insist that doctors should wash their hands before attending childbirth. I grant you,, that was pretty radical teaching a hundred years ago. But, after all, many of my teachings today are vehemently rejected by the yes-men of the AMA. Wouldn't it be better for them to educe, if they can, statistics to show—

(1) That it is as safe to have a baby in a hospital as it would be at home; or

(2) That an intelligent woman in childbirth should not decide for herself whether or when she shall have an anesthetic; or

(3) That newborn infants are as safe or as happy if taken out of their mothers' sight and hearing and put on exhibition in the show window nursery.

The old-timers of our day hate to admit it, of course, but every new departure I advocate here, in the field of obstetrics, is steadily growing in popularity — natural childbirth, rooming-in, and home delivery.

Having babies at home will logically follow rooming-in.

In all this evolution of mid-wifery let my colleagues and critics remember one thing: I didn't dream up or invent any of these reforms. I merely interpret for the public what goes on. If I'm inaccurate in my interprtation it is the moral obligation of the medical profession to do something now.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

'Important View Omitted in Prison Work Problem'

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

Noted with interest your column on the Ionia prison labor problem.

However, the author has omitted one very important point of view—the view of those "enemies of society" who are incarcerated in our overcrowded prisons like animals and whose point of view becomes important only when there are riots and serious disturbances. Has anyone thought to ask the point of view of the wardens and guards who must cope with the problem of men who have too little to do?

Does anyone consider the old proverb "Satan finds some mischief yet for idle hands to do" in connection with our rising prison population? Is the free workman within his labor union, secure in his job and home and right to work or change work, willing to deny to his more unfortunate brother the therapy of feeling useful, of feeling that he has accomplished something with his hands or brain?

I think before the legislators or the executives go much further with this problem, they would do well to consider the penologists' view—I understand we have some excellent ones in Michigan, and I think that Senator Porter would do well to consult them. They can't deliver many votes, true, but a little public light shed on the matter might do a great deal to straighten out the taxpayers' thinking.

July Business Statistics Face Political Distortion

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
INS Economic Commentator

The uncomputed business statistics for early July this year are subject to a distortion of substantial magnitude.

* * *

The impact of the steel strike on the national economy is comparable to an artificial fever, induced in a medical clinic for curative purposes. In medical cases, the doctors don't confuse such temperatures with spontaneous symptoms of disease.

Accordingly in a presidential election year, to be forewarned is to be forearmed.

When the figures flow out a month or so hence, the viewers with alarm will shout hysterically about the July dip and cite it as evidence that good times have evaporated.

* * *

But obviously the significance of the cooling down of the nation's blast furnaces is different when the situation reflects a strike rather than unmanipulated unwillingness of customers to place orders.

OTHER FIELDS PINCHED

And it is important to bear in mind that the volume shrinkage, growing out of the strike, is not confined to the steel industry, but extends to transportation, merchandising and services in the strike-bound communities, and to the various steel-consuming industries.

* * *

From the viewpoint of the union leadership, such induced economic distress was deemed a therapeutic method of whipping the steel companies into line with labor organization's "social" views.

Dave McDonald, president of the steel union, may also have felt some competitive urgency to excel his rival, Walter P. Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers.

Whatever the motivation from the labor side, the action by the union leadership was voluntary and deliberate.

* * *

Likewise, viewed from the management side, the work stoppage was man-made. The executives preferred to take a strike rather than accept on bended knees the union peace terms.

Management — to be fair — not only had to exercise judgment as to how much added cost the customers of steel products would be willing to accept but also had to consider the effect of higher steel costs on the general fight against inflation.

AGAINST U. S. POLICY

To have been reckless in inflating costs would have been to run counter to the anti-inflation strategy of the nation's leadership.

* * *

Steel executives, as setters of a new national wage pattern, also had some responsibility to other industries less able to compensate for higher costs with higher prices.

Be this as it may, this work stoppage was man-made. It should be so construed in interpreting the July economic statistics.

The public should be alerted against partisan maneuvers to interpret the artificial statistics as evidence that high-level activity and employment are behind us. There will doubtless be those who will use the statistics as propaganda to sneer at Eisenhower's "peace and prosperity."

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Love Won't Insure Happy Marriage

Notice the positive way Daniel and David outlined the rules under which they expect marriages to occur in the Crane household. They are wise in their suggestion. Mrs. Crane and I hope July and Philip and George agree with them. Love can always be developed easily afterwards, so stress basic habit patterns regarding religion, education, family background, etc.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case S-317: The scene is at the dinner table at the Crane household.

Mrs. Crane and I were there, with our two youngest sons.

* * *

"Who's this boy that Judy seems so enamoured of right now?" I casually inquired.

"Do you think she is serious about him?"

"Now don't worry, Pop," the boys exclaimed. "She'll never marry him. We will crack down on her if she shows too much interest. For he isn't the right fellow for Judy."

"But sometimes when people get infatuated, they don't listen to their family," I protested.

"Don't you worry," they reassured me. "Our family will. As a matter of fact, we'll make a rule that nobody marries until he brings his sweetheart home so all of us can see her. And that goes for Judy's boy friends, too.

* * *

"Unless the prospective in-law gets a unanimous secret vote of you and Mom and all the rest of us kids, then there'll be no wedding."

"Well, that suits me," I added. "And it is a smart idea, too. So I hope you remember it yourselves when the time comes. But George and Philip and Judy aren't here so maybe they will not assent to that rule.

"They'll have to agree to it," the boys exclaimed positively.

Many inexperienced young folks nowadays haven't had enough different romances to attain proper perspective.

For example, a shy girl with possibly an inferiority complex all through high school, is swept off her feet in her first mad college romance.

* * *

So she becomes intoxicated with love. She thinks her boy friend is perfect and feels positive that God divinely planned their marriage.

But her parents and mature friends realize she is inexperienced. If she had dated a dozen other fellows, she'd probably see that her present boy friend is only a second-rate marriage bet.

That's why you high schoolers should refuse to go steady. For you will never gain experience and mature judgment until you are better acquainted with the opposite sex.

"One swallow doesn't make a summer," runs an old adage that can be paraphrased to read:

"One romance doesn't mean a happy marriage."

"Oh, Dr. Crane, I shall never love any other man the way I love Jimmy," a coed recently protested about a fellow very unsuited to her.

"True enough," I answered, "for we psychologists recognize that each romance is different from all others.

"You may never love anybody else exactly as you love Jimmy, but I can name several boys you can love far more than Jimmy. And these other boys will make you much happier over the next 50 years.

"Besides, your future children will be grateful if you date these other boys, for they will make much better Dads than Jimmy."

It isn't enough, therefore, to let your family and friends help decide on your lifetime mate.

Your future unborn children also have a very important role. You deliver their votes for them, by proxy, so when you pick a wife or husband, you cast your own ballot, plus those of your future sons and daughters.

This is a momentous occasion. The only time in your entire life that you can influence the eugenical inheritance of your children is at the moment when you select their other parents!

So listen to your head more than your heart.

You can fall in love with a good man after the wedding. But you can't be happy with an unsuitable mate, even though he set your pulse aflame during courtship.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

When Strike Closes Steel Mills Life Goes on at Reduced Pace

GARY, Ind. (AP)—What happens when Big Steel's gates are locked, its blast furnaces banked and more than half a city's working population is left without work—and without pay?

* * *

That's the situation in Gary, home of the world's largest steel mill, a city born on the Indiana dunes and grown to maturity on the fringe and the wealth of U.S. Steel's sprawling acreage there.

Looking up Broadway, the city's main artery, a month ago, you would have seen the familiar pall of smoke in the northern sky by day and a bright orange glow at night.

Today the sky is clear and people walk slower, because 31,000 of them are in the 19th day of a nationwide steel strike in a city where nearly three out of every five workingmen normally labor at "The Mill."

* * *

Yesterday was payday for the 20,500 workers at the Gary works. A steady stream of men and women of all ages went to Municipal Auditorium to pick up their last check for work done before the strike. Some came alone, some with their families. Worry and determination were on their faces.

A woman office worker who'd just been paid said, "We're getting used to the strike. It's not the first one, you know. Like a lot of people, I've saved up money, but it would still be better to be working."

Another man, who wouldn't be named, said in a foreign accent, "It's not good. I'm only getting three days pay. When that's gone, then what?" Everyone except those collecting vacation pay was paid for three to five days. The payroll totaled two million dollars.

* * *

Broadway was crowded, but there wasn't much buying. Clothing stores and jewelers complained of "few customers and fewer buyers." Dave Stein, who operates a men's store, said, "We've cut prices to the bone to bring in trade, but it hasn't helped much. Business is bad and we look for it to get worse."

* * *

A mill electrician, Dave Harms, 28, took advantage of the strike to finish building a home. He said, "We wouldn't mind the layoff if we knew it would end next week. It gives us a rest and time to get things done around home. But the uncertain length of it is bad, because you don't know how thin to spread your savings."

* * *

Some strikers said they make a practice of setting aside money each payday so they'll be prepared "when contract time comes around." Others wait for the time when the United Steelworkers dip into welfare funds to help them out.

Over at union hall Oscar Leonard, representative of the international union, said, "We haven't made any welfare payments yet, but we probably will if the strike continues."

Filling stations, theaters and grocery stores reported almost the usual run of business. One downtown grocery was filling orders with payment not due until 30 days after the strike ends. A chain grocery manager said, "I don't know yet what we'll do if the strike continues."

* * *

Up at the main gate of the Gary works a few off-duty pickets played baseball and another group rolled dice on the sidewalk. Some strolled in and out of a refreshment tent where they watched television or ate. Company officials had run a power cable from inside the plant to the tent.

E. C. Rosenau, Chamber of Commerce head, said the city probably was better prepared for this strike than any in the past. "We've acquired a little more stability; people have more money in the banks. I think that's why things have been so easy going the last three weeks."

At strike's end, Gary will probably have spic-and-span neighborhoods. Stores report a general run on paint and do-it-yourself items. But what bothers many is: "We're running out of such jobs, and money too."

Crank Letter Sent to Conant

Note Demands Foreign Troops Be Moved Out of West Germany

BONN, Germany (AP)—U.S. Ambassador James B. Conant has received a threatening letter demanding that foreign troops leave West Germany.

* * *

Maj. Gen. Clark L. Ruffner, the top American military official in Bonn, has received a similar warning from an organization calling itself "The Fighting Assn. for an Independent Germany."

This was disclosed today by the U.S. Embassy in the wake of Washington reports that a number of soldiers' families in the United States are being warned by letters that U.S. forces must pull out of this country.

* * *

The letter to Conant was printed in German. That to Ruffner was in English.

The embassy said the letter to Ruffner was identical with those received recently by other American generals and colonels in West Germany.

But the one to Conant contained different wording, including a denunciation of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government.

* * *

"Merchants in the Bonn government, obedient to Jewish money and foreign lords," it said, "control the policies of a divided Germany. The policies of the Bonn government have nothing in common with the interests of the German people."

Westerns Riding High

WINNIPEG (AP)—The man from Mars can't hold a candle to the western cowboy when readers pick books from the city library. Books about spacemen caught on for a time, says chief librarian A. F. Jamieson. "But the western is right back on top and will always be with us."

Waterford Board Approves Tax Spread

Sign for Sites of New Schools

Rate Is Identical With Last Year's; Appoint Committees

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—The Board of Education, meeting in regular session last night, approved the tax spread that will appear on the December tax statements.

A rate identical of that of last year will be in effect — $27 per $1,000 on state equalized valuation. Of this amount, operating expenses will be allocated $13.82; the high school debt, $3.70 (this is the last year this item will appear on the statement); the Crary Junior High School, $4.40; the elementary building program, $4.08; and the first series of the new bond issue voted in February, 1956, $1.00 (only $1,000,000 is being used this year).

In other action, president Mrs. Donald Adams appointed the standing committees for the current year. E. L. Windeler is chairman of the personnel committee, assisted by Elmer Johnson and Supt. William A. Shunck. Marshall Smith heads the building committee, with Fred Poole, James DenHerder and William Bawden assisting. Johnson and Poole were named Board of Education representatives on the Township Recreation Board.

Bids were received on the addition to the Jayno Adams elementary school, the paving of the high school parking lot, the paving of the junior high school parking lot and driveway, the addition to the Board of Education offices and the remodeling of the high school counseling area. These were turned over to the architects for study. Their recommendations will be presented at a special meeting slated for July 26.

By a three-to-two vote the Board of Education turned down the request for a student insurance program. The Waterford Center PTA had initiated the request last fall.

It was later endorsed by seven more of the twelve parent-teacher organizations in the township. The Board studied possible procedures as presented by the Waterford Township Insurance Agents Assn. The deciding factor seemed to be that although it provides a community service, it is not a function of the school board.

In other action, the firm of George D. Mason and Co., was named as architects for the four elementary buildings to be constructed soon.

Preliminary agreements have been signed for one elementary site to serve the Waterford Center area. This is on Elizabeth Lake road near Lochaven road. Preliminary negotiations are in progress for a site on the north side of Watkins Lake. This building will alleviate the overcrowded conditions at Drayton Plains and Covert elementary schools.

Miss Coupar Wears Silk for Wedding in Marlette

MARLETTE — The Rev. Robert Kyser, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, performed the recent ceremony uniting Janet Lou Coupar and Eldon Higgins in marriage at the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Coupar are the parents of the bride, and Ernest Higgins of Sandusky and the late Mrs. Higgins are the groom's parents.

The bride chose a lace-trimmed gown of Italian silk with a chapel-length train. Her gown featured a portrait neckline and long sleeves. Her fingertip veil was secured to a crown of pearls, iridescents and rhinestones.

She carried a lover's knot bouquet of red and white roses tied with a white rope.

Mrs. Shirley Tracy of Flint was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Doris Harris and Margaret Glady.

Kathy Sweet of Melvin and Fay Coon of Port Huron, nieces of the groom, were flower girls. They were dressed in pink nylon and carried rose petals. The groom's nephew, Ray Badgero of Sandusky, was ring bearer.

Attending the groom were Hayden Stone and Bob Guygar of Sandusky, and William Christensen of Marlette. Seating the guests were Lawrence Higgins of Hazel Park, brother of the groom, Clayton Miles of Marlette and Gordon Stone and Bob Guygar of San-Flint.

A reception followed in the dining area of the church, and later a dance was held in the IOOF hall, with the Innes orchestra furnishing the music.

The couple will live on the bridegroom's farm near Sandusky.

17 Areas Represented at Kerbyson Reunion

CASS CITY — Ninety-two persons from 17 Michigan towns and and cities attended the recent Kerbyson reunion held at Lakeside Park, Port Huron. The group named Lloyd Kerbyson of Lexington as its president.

Other officers elected were Wesley Kerbyson of Port Huron, vice president, and Mrs. Ross Brown of Cass City, secretary-treasurer.

Leonard Units Agree to Aid 2 War Orphans

LEONARD—The Teenage Young People and Young Married Peoples Classes of the Methodist Sunday School are currently sponsoring two Korean war orphans.

The two boys were found begging in the streets, according to data the two classes have received.

Soo-Yeon Kim, 12, is at the Lyung Nam orphanage, while Park Won Sun, 16, lives at the Hoo Saeng Won Orphanage.

Photographs and personal details have been provided the church units by the World Vision, Inc., of Portland, Ore., which has arranged the sponsorship.

Mother, Who Deeded House to Son, Evicted

DETROIT (AP)—A tearful Mrs. Elizabeth Leidel, 69, has been evicted from the house which her son sold after she deeded it to him. She had fought eviction nearly four years.

Pale and trembling, she was escorted by a 16-year-old nephew yesterday from the house built by her late husband, Mike, 33 years ago. She was taken to a home for the aged.

Mrs. Leidel deeded the house to her son, Leonard Leidel, in 1952, but claims he promised her occupancy as long as she lived. He sold the house that same year.

Farm Gate Kills Washington Boy

Two-Year-Old Suffers Fractured Skull; Rites to Be Held Saturday

ROMEO—A two-year old Washington boy was crushed to death when a farm gate fell on him yesterday morning.

Brian Royal Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abner Jackson, 58106 Arundel St., was missing over an hour before his body was found. Mrs. Alex Kana of Hazel Park, a friend visiting the Jacksons, made the discovery.

The child had apparently been climbing on the double gate, when the gate fell, pinning him underneath, according to Romeo State Police.

The boy, his skull fractured, was pronounced dead by Macomb County Coroner Dr. R. G. Markle. The mother is still under a doctor's care today.

Service will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. at Roth's Home for Funerals, Romeo. Burial will be in St. Paul Cemetery, Warren.

Surviving besides the parents are one brother, Patrick G.; his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Grace Jackson of Center Line and the maternal grandfather, George Ervine of Rochester.

County Deaths

Charles B. McCreedy

HOLLY—Service for Charles B. McCreedy, a retired farmer who died Thursday at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, will be at 2 p.m. Sunday at Davisburg Methodist Church. Burial will be at Columbiaville.

Mr. McCreedy, 394 Broadway, Davisburg, had lived in Davisburg about five years. His body will lie at Dryer Funeral Home, Holly, until Sunday noon.

Surviving are his wife, Lottie; two daughters, Mrs. Esther Miller of Drayton Plains and Mrs. Helen Olson of Dayton, O.; one son, Lloyd of Orlando, Fla.; six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Orion Clean-Up Cited

LAKE ORION—All areas have been cooperating in the general clean-up campaign, according to Harold Maphis, building inspector and sanitation director.

He points out that all nine of the residents ordered to clean up junk cars, old refrigerators and other junk around their homes have removed the material in question, and all but one did so within the stipulated 15 days.

In the latter case, Maphis says, the offender complied after receiving a summons to appear in court but before the court session.

"Neighborhood pride does more than the law to create a beautiful township," says Maphis.

Very few builders are in violation of the building code, he says, and in most cases a lack of knowledge concerning the specifications is to blame.

Booklets have been prepared by the township and are on sale for a small fee at the township hall. They contain all details of wiring, sewage disposal and building requirements for Orion Township.

Sweden Uses Forests

STOCKHOLDM—Although about 40 per cent of Sweden's forest products are used within this country, the balance is sufficient to account for nearly half the nation's total exports.

Charge Orion Man Was in Union Battle

FLINT (AP) — Four union leaders will be arraigned in Circuit Court here Aug. 13 on assault charges growing out of an inter-union battle May 25 at the Fisher Body Plant in suburban Grand Blanc.

Municipal Judge John W. Baker yesterday turned down a motion asking that charges against three of the defendants be dropped on grounds of insufficient evidence.

Free under $3,000 bond each are Paul Allen, 40, of Lake Orion, business agent for AFL-CIO Riggers Local 575; his assistant, Nick Cova, 34, of Hazel Park, and two Detroiters.

They are each charged with two counts of assault to commit great bodily harm less than murder.

A jurisdictional dispute between union riggers and millwrights brought on the riot. Eleven workers were hospitalized.

SOS Answers Levy Opponents

Walled Lake Group Presents Endorsements of School Contentions

WALLED LAKE—Two officials' opinions on financial questions of opponents to the two mill school levy being voted on Monday are being publicized by the "Save Our Schools" organization.

Some levy opponents have contended that the assessed valuation of the district is five million dollars higher than the figures than the Board of Education has indicated.

Dr. William Emerson, Oakland County Superintendent of Schools is quoted by SOS members as saying, "The record of the tax allocation board shows $31,818,073. The record has stated this all along and the record is a public record.

His figures tally with those the board uses.

An audit of the books of the Walled Lake Schools had been asked by opponents hoping that such an audit would reveal available operating funds. The SOS group has a letter analyzing the financial report of Carl H. Wilmot, who audited the financial records for the past year.

* * *

The letter, from David A. Mansfield, a senior accountant with the General Motors Corp. who had had wide experience in evaluating accounting entries and financial statements, says:

"The report leaves nothing to be desired in respect to the purpose of an audit: i. e. the verification by a disinterested party of certain accounting entries and financial statements, and testifying to the correctness of said entries and statements."

The school reports thus endorsed show a deficit for the past year.

* * *

A group of businessmen and civic leaders of the school district recently also examined the report and the proposed budget.

They said in two resolutions that there was no need for a further audit and that the two mill levy was necessary.

Southfield Resident Is Re-named as Manager at First Meeting

Harry Garling of Pontiac was elected president of the State Fair Commission yesterday when the board held its first official meeting in Detroit.

Stephen Farce of Detroit was named vice president. Commissioners renewed the contract of Donald L. Swanson of Southfield Township as general manager. He will serve an 18-month term expiring Jan. 15, 1958.

The officials approved a ten-mile farmers pick-up derby with $500 in prizes as an added attraction at the fair Aug. 31 to Sept. 9.

Swanson reported that preparations for the fair are well ahead of schedule. The grandstands have been rebuilt and new bleachers added.

Hazel Park Private Sentenced in Japan

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP)—Among four U. S. soldiers convicted by a Japanese court today of assaulting Japanese policemen was Pvt. Walter R. McKenzie, of Hazel Park.

Pvt. McKenzie was given a three months sentence and one of the others six and the other two, four months each. All sentences were suspended to permit the soldiers to return home.

District Judge Tsunee Yamaguchi told the four he was suspending the sentences "because you had been drinking and because the police were not exactly unblameable."

The four were ordered to pay court costs and the costs of one to three weeks medical treatment for five policemen injured in the brawl. Court officials said costs would total about $200.

Growers to Decide on Wheat Checks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wheat growers in 36 states from coast to coast decide today whether to continue federal marketing restrictions on their crop another year.

* * *

Approval by at least two-thirds of the producers voting in a referendum is required to make the controls operative. Proposed under farm law by the Agriculture Department for the 1957 wheat crop, the restrictions are designed to keep a record surplus from becoming larger.

* * *

Marketing quotas have been in effect for wheat for three consecutive years. They were approved for this year's crop by a majority of 77.3 per cent of the growers voting in a similar referendum a year ago.

Officials expected the quotas to go over by a larger margin this year than last. They said there has been less advance opposition expressed this year than a year ago. The vote was to be tabulated after local polling places closed and the results were expected to be known before the night was over.

Hal Boyle Says:

Dieting Makes Men Feel More Important

NEW YORK (AP)—Curbstone reflections of a Pavement Plato:

At long last I have figured out why most people go on a diet.

* * *

They don't do it merely to lose weight. They do it because it makes them feel more important to themselves. At least this is true of men.

Women are different. They never take themselves for granted, and never let anyone else do so either. A woman finds it easier than a man to keep her self-esteem. She is vitally interested in herself, and everything about herself interests her. She rarely finds his navel. But a wom-

* * *

They say a true philosopher can escape the ennui of living by contemplating his naval. But a woman can go a philosopher one better. She can spend a happy afternoon, oblivious to everything else, in simply fixing a hangnail or trimming an arching eyebrow.

But after 35 the ordinary man finds it increasingly harder to think he amounts to very much. He feels more and more that he is only an easily replaceable cog of flesh in a mass world.

* * *

He wearies of shaving the same old bloopy face every morning. He eats himself out of shape because it gives himself something to do. He drops into a bar on the way home not for a few rounds of fellowship and good cheer so much as because it enables him to forget for an hour or so his own gnawing sense of unimportance in a civilization seemingly growing more goofball every year.

But let him go on a diet, and he changes almost overnight. Dieting has become a national form of poor man's psychiatry.

* * *

A man gripped by the dieting mania is like a slot machine addict. He is lost in a passion greater than himself. He is a crusader, fighting in a great cause.

He becomes more worried over whether he can drop another pound than whether some nation will drop the H-bomb. He counts his calories like a reverse miser—the fewer the better.

If a mosquito stabs him, he doesn't fret about the sting. He rushes to the scales to see if the swelling caused him to gain an ounce.

Every pound he peels off is a major victory. He hums an interior hosanna.

* * *

He no longer feels like any other faceless ant slaving in the human ant hill of living. He is proud of himself. He feels immeasurably superior to his wastrel friends, who go about suffocated in their own blubber.

* * *

He becomes as smug and foolish as a preening peacock. He is likely also to become a snob and a bore and a fanatic. But like all fanatics, gripped by a wildfire fever of faith, he is strangely happy in a way denied to lesser mortals who lack a strong belief.

And, like most fanatics, he is determined to convert all those about him, whether they want to be converted or not.

* * *

You, yourself, for example. Do you really want to go on looking like a lard barrel?

Well, take my own case. Seven weeks ago I weighed 207 pounds and had to quit wearing bowties because my chubby chins overflowed them. Well, sir, now I'm down to a tiger-trim 187 pounds, and all I did was to — .

See what I mean?

Prefers Long Amble to Traffic Scramble

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — Edward Behan turned the wrong way into a one-way street in Denver Monday night and in the resulting traffic jam his 15-year-old son scrambled out of the car and ran.

The Indian boy was picked up here yesterday, 135 miles from Denver and still 270 miles short of their home on the Wind River reservation at Pavillion, Wyo.

Milton Behan related he had hitched rides, slept in trees and bummed meals.

"Too many automobiles in Denver," he said.

10 Reds Head Home, 9 Who Fled, Remain

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Six passengers and the four crewmen of a state-owned Hungarian airliner, captured last Friday by a group of seven anti-Red escapees, returned by train today to their Communist homeland. The plane is being checked by technicians and will be flown back later.

The seven plotters of the escape and two passengers who also chose to stay in the West completed registration at the U. S. escapee center near Nuernberg. All nine want to go to the United States. Job offers have been pouring in from America for the plotters.

Elevator Falls 4 Floors, 1 Rider Dies, 1 Critical

LANSING (AP) — Charles Morrell, 22, of Okemos, one of two workmen injured yesterday in the four-floor plunge of an elevator, died last night.

The other man, Al Ziegler, 52, of Grand Rapids, was reported somewhat improved but still in critical condition.

The man, employed by the Llelelt Elevator Co. of Grand Rapids, were installing the elevator in the Eddy Bldg. in downtown Lansing. A chain hoist snapped and the elevator fell four floors to the basement.

Man, 104, Dies

MT. CLEMENS (AP)—A 104-year-old man believed to be Macomb County's oldest resident died here Thursday at the home of a daughter. David F. Jones, retired farmer and grocery store operator, was born in nearby Meade in 1852. A Republican, he voted for 20 presidential candidates beginning with Rutherford B. Hayes in 1876.

You Were Right if You Had These Answers

Solution to Pot-O-Gold Puzzle No. 6

1. TANK is right. In a TACK, while sailing, you are maneuvering out of your way in an unfavorable wind, in order to reach a given destination from an angle more suitable to that wind. So proper maneuvering in a tack is helpful but does not determine where you can go. Proper maneuvering in a TANK, as when involved in enemy action, would surely determine "where you can go," for if handled badly, the TANK can be put out of action and not go anywhere.

2. NIP is right. Since a Pin is purposely made sharp for use, and since no mention was made of being stuck by a pin, there is no valid reason for a pin to cause vexation. A NIP or sharp bite would obviously be most vaxatious.

3. FLASH fits the situation. A fellow can be Flush (have plenty of ready money) and still not be inclined to be careless with it. In fact, he may be flush because of good judgement in spending, investng, etc. The fellow who is FLASH (sporty or inclined to show off) is just the type to throw money around to make an impression.

4. MOP is better. The Pom (Pomeranian dog) is usually a very special pet, and its appearance would be important to its master or mistress. The tangled appearance of a MOP, used to clean floors or deck, cannot matter as much as the Pom's. A MOP goes through the wringer, and gets tangled doing a job in which appearance doesn't really count.

5. HOG is the choice. If drivers Hug the byroads, it means that they insist on using byroads in order to avoid the worry of heavier traffic on better roads. Drivers who HOG the byroads (or any other road) are clearly not worried about traffic. The roadhog unconcernedly takes up more room than he should require, with no concern for other cars on the road. An attitude like this is proof that the driver who will HOG a byroad does not worry about traffic.

6. PICK fits better than pack. The retail merchant knows how to pack his wares well enough for his purposes; actually the manufacturer is the one who must pack the goods properly. But the retailer must PICK his wares with skill, for good selling qualities and the right price, in order to get ahead.

7. BOW is the word. All the savoir faire of suavity that a performer has cannot make a Wow or smash success of an act. He also needs the proper material and acting ability. But in his debut or BOW before a hostile audience, his savoir faire will be a real help in meeting a difficult situation.

8. PARTS fits better than Traps, because of the limitation of "stage career." Traps players are often not considered actually on the stage, since they may have jobs playing with orchestras, at night clubs, for recordings, etc.

9. BAKE is right, since the work with kilns was especially mentioned. In order to make ceramics, other types of skill would obviously be needed. In order to BAKE pottery properly, a knowledge of the workings of a kiln would be necessary.

10. GAG is the choice. The words "not doing a good job" indicate that a job is being done. This means the comedians are performing, and if they GAG (crack jokes) too much to no effect, they are failing to amuse. If they Gab too much, they need not be doing their act at all, but simply talking together.

11. CHINK is right. An opening or crack in a wall may be there for a purpose, or may be the result of an accident. If it is meant to be there, it does not call for a repair job. If it is a break or flaw, it will call for repairs. This situation is covered by the word "may" in the clue. A Chunk may be part of a stone wall, and as such, belongs there and does not require repair.

12. SPORTS is better. A coach who can produce good Spurts or sprints among those on a relay team is doing no more than his job, with no cause for special pride. But if he can produce good SPORTS (with the implication that some were not previously good SPORTS), then he has molded character and can be justly proud.

13. FOOT is the choice. The FOOT or foundation of a building must be its strongest part. If would be better to have a faulty Roof than a weak foundation.

14. WORD obviously fits here. A philologist, or expert in words and language, has already chosen his Work—philology. Since there can be no question of choosing work, it must be the WORD he would choose.

15. BOLT is right. It would be reliatively easy to clock a Colt for running speed. It would be difficult to estimate the speed of a BOLT, as of lightning, or even of a BOLT as an arrow.

16. BETTER is the word. A pancake without a BETTER—that is, with no other pancake superior to it—would be the work of a very good cook. Pancakes cannot be made without Batter, and excellent ones can be made without Butter.

Credits Fear of God for Living 106 Years

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Mary Cameron Archer, 106 today, attributes her years to a plain life "lived in the fear of the Lord."

"I've lived all my life according to God's rules," she said. "When he said, 'Come unto me all ye who labor and are heavy laden and I will give you the rest,' he was speaking to me."

Polio Cases Take Dip in County Tabulation

The U. S. reported 435 new cases of polio last week, the smallest number for the comparable week in six years, according to a Public Health Services spokesman in Washington.

Two cases have been reported in Oakland County during the past week bringing the total to eight since January 1, 1956.

This compares with 13 cases reported in July 19, 1955 in the county, Dr. John D. Monroe, health director, said.

Illinois leads the nation with severe localized outbreaks in sections of Chicago.

Throughout the country from Jan. 1, 1956 until July 14 polio cases have totaled 3,365, compared with 4,676 in the similar 1955 span.

Colorful, 6-Mile Subway Opens for Tokyo Riders

TOKYO (AP)—Tokyo's first postwar subway, with red and white trains speeding alongside walls in pastel colors, is opening today.

It has taken five years and 25 million dollars to build the 5¾-mile underground railway. The main terminal is under the central station plaza. From downtown the four-car trains run at three- or four-minute intervals to a center in the northwestern suburbs called Ikebukuro.

With seven stops en route, it takes 16 minutes, half as long as the present over-crowded, roundabout elevated railroad.

The fare of 20 yen (7.2 cents) is the same as on Tokyo's only other subway, the nine-mile Ginza line. Built from 1924 to 1942, it has many dark, gloomy stations and standing room only from dawn to midnight.

Wild Bed Throws Man Into Wall—Cost $15,000

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—William D. Duckwell didn't have time to duck — result, a lawsuit filed against an apartment house because the mechanism of a folding bed failed.

Duckwall's suit contends he suffered a sprain in his right shoulder, bursitis, a torn ligament and a dislocated joint and asks relief to the tune of $15,000.

The suit said Duckwell was "thrown into various parts of the wall" after the bed mechanism failed.

Bob Considine Says:

Meet Millie—Wife and Helper for 25 Years

NEW YORK (INS)—A girl I know named Millie will be married 25 years Saturday. You don't meet many people like that in the set in which she travels. Neither does Millie, though she is not one to say so.

Some of her friends who have been married only a few times less than Man o' War regard her not only with affection but the awe reserved generally for the pioneer woman.

Millie has had only one husband, has two blue eyes, writes three different types of column, has four children, and carries five pieces of luggage on trips as short as to Ebbets Field. She considers six her lucky number.

In a climate wherein some of her friends change jewels between courses at dinner, like the wines, her rare gems consist entirely of several barely visible diamond chips in her wedding ring. She couldn't care less.

Not long ago she went with her friend Hope Hampton to a swank local jewelry designer who was doing over Hope's early summer baubles. Hope suggested that Millie have her jewels done over by the same fellow.

* * *

"Fine," said Millie, handing him her wedding ring and turning it so that with the aid of his powerful eyepiece he could detect a faint suggestion of glitter. "See what you can do with these."

DOWN IT WENT

There was a time, though, when she did own a big star sapphire. A friend brought it to her from Ceylon during the war. But one of the children was playing with it in the bathroom one day and wondered if it would flush. It did.

Millie can work all day on her columns, pay the bills, stall them pleasantly when there isn't enough to go around, cook, answer 419 phone calls, shop for the kids, have dinner with them, help with their homework, hear their prayers, get to a theater just as the curtain rises, dance like a swan at Elmer's Rocco until all hours, get a few hours sleep and be as good as new the next day.

She has easily scored hundreds of decision over that menacing bruiser, the cocktail party.

Not many women tell jokes well. But Millie does. Not many girls shake hands honestly—as a good man shakes hands. Millie does. Not many people can laugh gracefully at the top of their lungs. Millie can.

* * *

"You should have married a red cap," one of her friends wheezed to her as he helped her carry her luggage off a plane. Millie has pressed into service as her bearers scores of people in places all over Europe, Latin America, Hawaii and in this country.

* * *

She is probably the most traveled person ever born in Coyle, Okla., pop. 699. She rates as well with the formidable Albert, at Maxim's in Paris, as she does at the short order counter at Schultz's Drugstore in Allenhurst, N.J.

SKILLFUL LINGUIST

The schools she attended in Kansas City, Kans. and Mo., are not renowned for their language courses, yet their sweet girl graduate almost instantly picks up enough of the language of each country she visits to supply herself with the basic needs of life and keep her traveling companions out of jail.

* * *

One of the few times she was thrown for a loss was during a dizzy spell while visiting in Cuernavaca. "Bring me a pan, profavor," she asked the Indan housekeeper. The lady rushed Millie a loaf of bread.

Millie and her mother are connected by an invisible two-way wire that permits communication without recourse to the Bell Telephone Co.

"Mama's worried about something," she will say. Hanging up on that psychic connection, she'll pick up a phone, call her mother 1,500 miles away, and sure enough—the roof's leaking.

* * *

Millie went to work in the State Department in Washington as a slip of a girl and met an awkward youth who loitered there as a misfile clerk and who dreamed wanly of making a living at some other dodge, like writing.

She said to this poor soul one day, "why don't you take a chance at newspaper work, and if you flop, well I'm working."

NEST EGG OF $190

They were married on $90 she had saved, plus $100 the fellow got from George E. Allen and George Riley, then hotelmen, for doing publicity on a pro tennis match between Bill Tilden and Karel Kozeluh.

* * *

They spent two extra days on the Atlantic City end of their honeymoon. Her check was late arriving.

Interviewed in the rubble of her Park avenue apartment today, Millie said the only drawback to having a silver wedding anniversary is that there may be skeptics who'll no longer believe she's 39.

I doubt that. She looked to her interviewer pretty much as she looked the first time he saw her, but better, and the thought occurre to him if she were not already married he would ask her then and there.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

JUNIOR EDITORS

IN THE WOODS — 5

Woods Are Useful

Wood is useful to man for fuel, for buildings and furniture, and for material that goes into plastics, fabrics and paper. The paper on which this is printed was made of ground-up wood.

Growing trees also are important to us. They are beautiful, they hold the soil together, keep it moist and in good condition.

Forest also helps to prevent soil being worn away by wind and rain.

Here are Susan and Tommy studying a big stump in the woods, and counting the rings in the wood. That way they can tell the age of the tree that grew there. Each year the tree, while living, adds a new ring to its trunk.

Susan and Tommy are careful in the woods. They never eat any of the mushrooms, puffballs, plants or berries they find, no matter how pretty and tempting they are.

Color the picture with your crayons and then paste down on cardboard. Cut out the parts carefully. Attach the separate arm behind Tommy's right shoulder through the indicated holes with a brass fastener or bent pin. Fold back the end panels and fold the front panel forward, then the picture will stand up.

(For submitting this idea first Lois McKeag, Williamsport, Pa., wins $10. Send in your idea for a Junior Editors panel care of this newspaper and it may be worth $10 to you. Violet Moore Higgins; AP Newsfeatures).

Insect Trouble Can Be Defeated

Killing Breeding Spots, Spraying Animals Are Top Curbing Methods

WASHINGTON (INS)—An ever-increasing problem for the research scientists is the control of insects which bite, burrow, and suck the blood of livestock and cost growers an estimated half billion dollars a year.

A. W. Lindquist, an Agriculture Department entomologist, points out two major methods of controlling insect pests of livestock. One is by destroying their breeding places either through sanitation or use of insecticides. The other is by spraying or dipping animals with insecticides to destroy insects that spend all or a part of their lives on animals.

Against biting flies, sprays are also used as protectants or repellants, but do not kill.

The problem of control, the department points out, is growing for two reasons:

(1) A countrywide increase in livestock to provide meat for our rapidly expanding population; (2) An increase in irrigated pasture and crop lands to provide feed for increasing livestock numbers.

SPRAY SUGGESTED

Recommended control methods rely heavily on the use of insecticides in sprays and dips and on drainage of standing water from irrigated lands to prevent them from becoming breeding and hatching places for insects, particularly mosquitoes.

Several insecticides — either sprayed or used as dips—provide good control of hornflies, lice, and ticks. DDT, lindane, methoxychlor, TDE, and toxaphene are recommended for beef-cattle sprays to control hornflies.

For lice on cattle, sheep, or goats, the same chemicals, and also chlordane, make effective sprays. For hornflies on dairy cattle, however, methoxychlor, synergized pyrethrins or allethrins, and the thiocyanites are best. That's because most of the chlorinated hyrocarbon insecticides are secreted in milk and may he hazardous to humans.

The most spectacular control method yet devised by science is the use of radioactive cobalt rays to sterilize male flies of the screwworm.

Research has already shown that the screwworm population can be eradicated by release of sterilized male flies.

As a practical means of eradication or control of screwworms in the southeastern states, however, the method presents cost and other problems that have not yet been overcome.

5 Wurthsmith Airmen Ram Gas Pump, Injured

ALPENA (AP)—Five airmen from Wurtsmith Air Force Base at nearby Oscoda were injured, one critically, yesterday when their car missed a curve on M32, 25 miles west of Alpena, and crashed into a service station gas pump.

In critical condition was Alfredo Cortes, 21, of Washington, D. C. The others were seriously hurt.

The searchlight in the wing of a Navy P5M patrol plane is as bright as 15,000 hundred-watt bulbs.

Osteopaths Appoint Worster President

M. C. Worster was appointed president of the Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital Board of Directors at a meeting Wednesday night.

Others appointed for one-year terms are R. V. Todd, vice president and Harry H. Whitlow, secretary. H. W. Kruger, David C. Pence and Harry Parks were appointed members of the board.

The appointments were made by the hospital's Incorporating Committee.

Injured Airman Dies

ALPENA (AP) — Alfredo Castro, an airman from nearby Wurtsmith Air Force Base, died Thursday night from injuries received early Thursday when a car he was in went out of control on M32 and hit a gas pump at a service station. Castro was a native of Washington, D. C. Four other airmen were slightly injured.

Flying Farmers Hope to Hop Flattop to Italy

RUIDOSO, N.M. (AP) Ninety air-minded farmers hope to travel with their planes by aircraft carrier to Italy this summer on a good will tour which will take them behind the Iron Curtain.

They'll go if they can get the money.

Fred B. Triplett of Hillsboro, Tex., president of the Flying Farmers of America, said here the State Department has approved the plan. All that's lacking is a $300,000 appropriation from Congress.

The farmers plan to fly to at least six European countries on a "grass roots" visit, Triplett said they intend to visit Turkey, Italy, Greece, Yugoslavia, France and Sweden and will attend several international trade fairs en route.

Teach Ethics to Worried Children

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

One school morning when Dot was 10, she missed her history book.

She was rushing frantically about searching for it when her mother who was helping said, "Let's look for this lost book quietly. It doesn't matter whether we find it, you know. All that is required of us is trying to find it."

This moral value, by making Dot responsible for what she was doing instead of for its unknown results, stilled her anxiety over them, and cleared her mind of confusion so she could recollect where she had put her history book.

Last week Dot got home from college to learn that the summer job she'd been counting on was not available. Checking newspaper ads for camp counselor jobs, she was sadly reflecting that all the good ones were probably taken when she suddenly brightened.

She thought: "Why, finding the job doesn't matter! What counts, mother and dad would say, is searching for one. They'd say that by writing letters of application, I am already employed."

* * *

The old moral value, this time applied by Dot herself, again quieted her fear of results so that her letters conveyed a sense of self-possession that several advertisers found desirable — and wanted to hire.

ETHICAL VALUES

Parents underestimate pre-adolescent children's need of ethical values, Dr. Nathan Stillman of New York State Teachers College found in a recent survey.

* * *

That's not the half of it. Not more than two weeks ago, a dean of one of our big universities said to me, "Our students' worries only appear to concern families, love affairs, money and careers. Always, in the end the worry turns out to be: 'I don't know what's right for me to do.'"

No parents in the world are so efficient as we in procuring the advantages of material discoveries for our offspring.

Has Dr. Salk announced a new vaccine? Johnny must take advantage of this discovery at once.

Is color TV going to be cheaper? Then let's buy a set at once so that Mary can profit from electronic engineering's latest advance.

BUT NOT ETHICS

But we do not rush to give our children the discoveries of our race's ethical leaders so quickly.

Though, for example, our own St. Paul, as well as China's Lao-Tse and India's Buddha, have all urged us to focus on the virtue of the action in hand, not upon the consequences, their discovery for serene and productive living is seldom made available to children.

* * *

Which is why so many of today's youngsters, though physically healthy and well-entertained, are so often confused and troubled.

Clever Woman Can Turn Man's Faults Into Assets

Other People Are Apt to Accept Wife's Opinions About Her Husband

By RUTH MILLETT

A woman can turn her husband's faults into assets, if she is clever enough.

* * *

Liz Brown has done just that. When she married Harry he had quite a few faults that made him less than the life of the party.

To begin with, Harry has very little to say. He could leave any group and probably not be missed for a couple of hours.

But Liz has built Harry's inability to make conversation into an asset. She has sold their friends on the idea that Harry is a deep thinker, who sits back quietly and forms his own opinions.

* * *

Also, Harry has no tact. But Liz has praised his honesty and forthrightness so much that his bluntness is admired by their friends, rather than deplored as it might have been if Liz hadn't found a better name for tactlessness.

FAVORABLE LIGHT

Harry doesn't have a very important job. But Liz has seen to it that Harry isn't a man who hasn't succeeded. Instead she has built him up as a man who is vague about money and simply in love with his work.

* * *

That is just an example of one man and how his wife has influenced how others think about him.

But if you'll open your eyes you'll see all sorts of examples of how wives change their husband's liabilities into assets.

They do it by never admitting a fault is a fault and by always putting a nicer name on a quality that others might regard as a weakness or a failing.

* * *

It's surprisingly easy for a wife to make a husband's faults look like virtues.

For most people don't bother to judge others for themselves. They take somebody else's word for what another person is like.

* * *

And if a man's wife is always presenting him in a favorable light that's the way most others will see him.

Mrs. Lee Murphy Entertains Circle

Esther Circle of Oakland Park Methodist Church met with Mrs. Lee Murphy of Perry street Wednesday. Mrs. Albert Barker was a guest of the group. The meeting was opened by Mrs. Edward Tutty with a prayer and the reading of a poem, "Time."

* * *

The group chose its project for the year, collecting material for the American Cancer Society. In addition, each member will have a money-making project. Funds from these projects will be turned in this September.

* * *

Devotions were given by Mrs. Charles Baynes using the topic "Time." The group will hold its September meeting at the East Tennyson avenue home of Mrs. Fay Magner.

State Man Still Designs for Loyal Clients

High Style Plagues Fruit Farmer

SOUTH HAVEN (AP)—The gray-haired farmer in the bright checked shirt hopes this is his last year as a dressmaker.

But Martan of Chicago, designer of women's clothes, is finding it difficult to become plain Joseph Martan, fruit farmer with 83 acres of orchard to spray and care for.

It was two years ago that Martan closed his elite dress shop in Chicago and retired to a farm here.

But he found that the customers for whom he had been creating wardrobes since 1918 didn't want him to stop.

* * *

When he isn't working his Rosedale farm, Martan is fashioning fine clothing with the touch that only he can give.

EXCLUSIVE STYLING

In this day of clothing mass production, Martan's skill is just for those who want and can afford exclusive styling and fabrics.

* * *

Martan's prices, none of them inexpensive, depend on price of fabric (in one case $75 a yard), and the amount of time required to design, create and finish a dress.

Two years ago one customer paid $4,500 for a new wardrobe.

Martan designed clothes for this customer for almost 40 years and always came up with something fresh.

But Martan had his troubles in dressmaking, too. He says one woman was size 10 when he started making her dresses in 1918. Now she's size 42½.

* * *

Another customer had several gowns and suits almost completed when she adopted a reducing program. Martan had to stop work until she settled on a size.

STUDIED IN VIENNA

In September 1906, Martan went to Vienna to further his dressmaking studies after beginning in a Czechoslovakian high school.

* * *

In this country, he went to work for Lucille of Chicago and later joined the exclusive firm of Madame Albert, which he bought out 28 years later and operated under his own name.

Now Martan hopes this will be his last year as a dressmaker.

He has 83 acres of orchard and 50 acres of open field which he'd like to devote to vegetables. He also operates the Rosedale golf driving range on the highway near his farm.

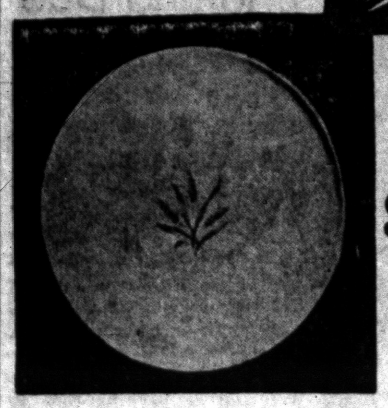

"I'd like to be a farmer," he says, "but the women still want me to make their dresses."

AP Wirephoto

Joseph Martan, known as top-flight dress designer "Martan of Chicago," works on a gown for one of his customers who refuses to let him retrie to his fruit farm near South Haven, Mich. He closed his establishment in Chicago two years ago, but found some of his customers wouldn't accept the loss of his services since he had been designing their wardrobes since 1918.

Accidents Mark Duke of Kent's Gay, Reckless Life

This is the third of four articles on the Duke of Kent, the dashing young man who is seventh in line for the British throne, but first in the ranks of London's gay, social set.

By FRED DOERFLINGER

LONDON (INS)—It took the go-ahead Duke of Kent only 13 months to smash up over $6,000 worth of cars and just two bizarre debutante parties to establish himself as the "spark" of the friskiest social set Britain has known since the days of King Edward VII.

* * *

This, added to Eddie's penchant for letting his hair down and clowning in public, has won him a notoriety all his own.

The duke, who could dismantle an automobile and put it back together again before he reached his teens, passed his own driving test with flying colors back in April 1953.

Eddie had his first crackup on June 20, 1954. He was driving the family station wagon on the London-Penzance main highway when he collided with another car.

* * *

Eddie was found unconscious, hanging out of the driver's door. He spent 10 days in a hospital and at one time it was feared he had a brain injury as a result of the crash.

NO OFFICIAL ACTION

No trace can be found of any official action against the duke or the other driver, but it was reported that Eddie got "the works" from the palace. The front of the family car was smashed in on the right hand side and a wheel ripped off.

* * *

Five months later, driving his own fast $3,000 Sunbeam, Eddie, with the pretty 18-year-old debutante Teresa Crossley, daughter of MP Anthony Crossley, by his side, skidded into a tree which had fallen across a road. This time there were no injuries barring a scratch over Eddie's eye, and only very minor damage to the car.

Teresa said Eddie wrote her afterwards to say he was "jolly glad I was alive" and then added that Eddie was "frightfully calm and efficient."

A matter of days later, outside London Airport, Eddie pulled up with screaming tires and squealing brakes to avoid a broadside collision with another car. A chauffeur who saw the incident tipped his hat, whistled, and told the unrecognized duke, "Nice going, son."

* * *

Shortly afterwards another quick stop saved a woman who stepped in front of Eddie's car as he was pulling away from a London house after a wedding reception.

END OF SUNBEAM

Then at 5 a.m. on July 15, 1955, on Pinetree Hill on the London road near Camberley, Surrey, the duke finished off his Sunbeam after a Mayfair party.

News of the accident did not leak out until July 20 and no official report was ever issued.

The track of the car showed it swerved to the other lane of traffic, leaped a 3-foot high grass curb, ripped the bark off trees, left twisted metal embedded in the trunks which could not be removed by hand, plunged into an 8-foot-wide and 4-foot-deep anti-fire ditch, went over a bank at the far side of the ditch, hit an anti-tank concrete block which ripped off a wheel, and then spun round back into the ditch.

All the glass in the car was shattered, the hood and fenders torn off and the chassis twisted. A workman who saw the wreckage said "that chap was lucky to escape with his life."

* * *

The duke in fact suffered a concussion, multiple minor injuries, severe bruises to the base of his skull, and general shock. Eddie spent some days in a hospital but was able to leave to participate in the graduation of his class at Sandhurst.

DRIVING HALTED

Whether the duke was then banned from driving by the royal family cannot be confirmed but, until he personally took delivery of a new 90 m.p.h. gray sports sedan with red upholstery this February, he was not seen again behind the wheel of an automobile.

* * *

While the fast-stepping Duke of Kent won his spurs as a gay blade on his ski holidays abroad by such capers as rolling up young ladies in tablecloths and bundling them out into the snow, it was two riproaring London parties on the night of May 25 this year that made Britain sit up and take notice.

Party No. 1 was aboard the pleasure-steamer Princess Royal, moored, until someone cast her adrift, off Cadogan Pier in Chelsea. More than 300 debs and their escorts thronged the decks as guests of twin sisters Felicity and Penelope Drew, and Celia Northey.

Then came the wagers for crazy pranks. For the paltry sum of $12 an ex-Hussar officer turned London office worker, Michael Whiting, dived fully clothed into the murky Thames River. Oxford University student Hugh Beveridge followed him, by way of a push through a porthole.

* * *

Now the duke, as he could probably use the money, didn't do anything as "wet" as this but the British press proudly reported that it was the laughing Eddie who was among the first to toss a life-belt overboard to the swimmers.

Naturally several dozen more followed and with them went hats, flowers, umbrellas, champagne bottles and glasses, and even chairs. Then the Thames River police arrived to be welcomed with a friendly jet from a hose.

AFTER MIDNIGHT

The second party of this "maddest season of them all," a ball at 6 Stanhope Gate given by Countess Anthony de Salis and Mrs. Pelline Eyre for their daughters, didn't really get started until after midnight.

* * *

By that time some of the guests, balancing on a fire-escape 40 feet above the street, were throwing champagne into the road below.

The mass-circulation press took note that Eddie, wavering a 1-foot-wide parapet, champagne glass in hand, was leading the way.

Draining half the glass, the story went, the duke flung the rest into the street while his excited companion, Penelope d' Erlanger, shrieked, "Come back, Eddie, we know how brave you are."

Furthermore, the duke was quoted as saying: "Let's have fun. I'm a bit fed up with being told what to do. For one evening I'm going to please myself."

But the reckoning was to come. Before the month was out the "hooliganism of silly young men and women of London society" at parties attended by the Duke of Kent was attacked in the House of Commons.

* * *

Socialist MP George Thompson did not mention the duke by name but he angrily claimed that if working-class people had behaved on a river boat as did the recent party aboard the Princess Royal they would have landed in cells. He demanded to know what action had been taken by the river police when the boat went adrift.

There was some laughter when William Deedes, undersecetary at the Home Office, replied that they kept the boat under casual observation but "no further action was necessary."

The irate Thompson then turned to the "dangerous antics" on a Mayfair rooftop and asked Deedes through the laughter to "make sure that breaches of the peace are treated as such by the police."

But Deedes merely replied that the police had no record of any disorder in the streets of Mayfair this year by people attending parties.

JOLLY GOOD FUN

It was all jolly good fun and the tenor of the august House of Commons was such that the government was certainly not inclinded to intervene in the boisterous high spirits of the younger generation.

The next evening, however, the Duchess of Kent, through her private secretary, made a surprising and unprecedented entry into the fray by denying that her son was concerned in incidents at the two parties.

The statement from Kensington Palace, where the duchess was recently granted a "grace and favor" residence, said that although the young duke was at the parties, "he was in no way involved in, nor indeed a witness of, the actions attributed to him."

The duchess has had the last word, but somehow the gilt on the gay duke's social crown remains untarnished.

Dangling petals are out of place at the office. Angora knit against felt in a profile silhouette is a sound daytime fashion.

Swathes of tulle looking anything but fresh by now, bobbing over a typewriter, are not smart. Pretty, delicate flowers same thing. Transitional hats of more sturdy fabrics are in order.

Man Wants to Call Halt to Writing

Lengthening Time Between Answers Should Do Trick

By EMILY POST

A man writes: "Is it rude not to answer a letter from an acquaintance? Two years ago I met a young woman while vacationing at a summeh resort. We became friendly and when it was time to go home she asked for my address and said that she would write to me, which she has been doing quite regularly.

"In the past I have always answered these letters but it is growing increasingly difficult to write to someone with whom I have very little in common.

"I would like to end this correspondence and I thought I would just not answer any more of her letters. Would this be the proper thing to do? If not, please tell me how I can tactfully put an end to this?"

Answer: To gradually lengthen the time between your letters would be the best policy.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My sister criticized me the other day for introducing myself with title. I think when giving one's name to a stranger it is the thing to do; otherwise the stranger has no way of knowing what to call you other than by your first name. This doesn't seem right to me. I would like your opinion on this matter."

Answer: A married woman always says "Mrs. John Jones" whether young or old. A young woman announces herself as Jane Jones and it is taken for granted she is "Miss." Only an elderly spinster would announce herself as "Miss."

"Dear Mrs. Post: My fiance insists that after alighting from a taxi, the woman walks directly to the entrance of the place to which they are going, while the man pays the driver. "I maintain she waits on the curb near him and they walk together into the building. Who one of us is right?"

Answer: She walks on slowly and he catches up with her. If the weather were very bad he would pay the driver before leaving the cab and both would hurry to shelter together.

Have You Been Wishing for a Larger Diamond?

CONNOLLY'S will take your diamond in trade on a larger diamond, allowing you the full amount that it would sell for today.

You may, in fact, receive more for it in trade than you actually paid . . . proof that diamonds are always a good, sound investment. Fortunately, unlike other commodities, there is no such thing as a used diamond. For, over a period of years, diamonds always increase in value. Therefore, diamonds are considered one of the safest of investments.

Bring your diamond in for an estimate today . . . and we'll gladly advise you in selecting a larger diamond if you desire . . . free of obligation, of course.

If you know the size of your diamond you can pretty nearly determine the trade-in allowance by using the price chart below. This chart, too, will help you determine the larger size diamond you can best afford.

We list below five of our most popular grades, showing our everyday prices.

Exercise to Build Chest Muscles

BY JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
(The Friday Question Box)

Q. "I would like to know if hormone shots will make the bust larger. Would a doctor have to recommend them?"

A. You certainly never should have any kind of shots except those given by a well-qualified physician. Neither should you take anything internally without his knowledge and recommendation.

So far as I know doctors are not using hormone shots for bust enlargement. Build up your chest muscles with exercise. This will increase your bust measurement. If you are underweight a gain will help, too.

Q. "I am underweight but I have a very small appetite and cannot eat a large meal."

A. Have a physical examination. Your doctor probably will prescribe vitamins for you. Be sure that you have plenty of the vitamins and minerals in your diet too.

Do not try to stuff down large meals. Eat five smaller ones. As between-meal snacks eat cheese and crackers and fresh fruit. Also build up your calorie intake by adding cream to your milk and ice cream to soft drinks.

Q. "I would like to know if I am overweight. I am 14 years old and weigh 137 pounds. I am 5 feet, 3½ inches tall. My bust measures 37, waist 26½ and hips 37 inches. If I am overweight, how can I distribute my weight more attractively?"

A. You are overweight, even allowing you a large frame. However, your measurements are in perfect ratio. Eat a well-balanced diet but cut out in-between snacks, candies, rich desserts and all the tidbits. Leave off second helpings.

Q. "I am a housewife, 52 years old. I would like to do some exercises to reduce my waist but at my age I am afraid to attempt any. You see, when I walk up a flight of stairs I am short of breath."

Push and pull your arms with your hands to increase your chest muscles.

A. You should see a doctor about the shortness of breath. Your age would not matter as long as you start slowly. However, every woman should have her heart and blood pressure checked before taking up exercise. This is especially true when there is any unusual symptom.

Q. "Could you advise me? I am almost 45 years old. I have kept a good figure through exercise and swimming but the past year I have noticed that the skin around my chin and jaws has begun to sag very badly.

"I realize that this is something that happens as we grow older but I want to look as good as possible. Is there any way to lift the face except plastic surgery? I hear that is very expensive and only the rich can afford it."

A. Plastic surgery is the only way I know of. However, I think that many surgeons are reasonable and somewhat scale their charge to the patient's ability to pay.

Legs Laud Ike or Adlai

Hosiery Turns Political

NEW YORK (INS)—The political conventions aren't till next month, but stocking manufacturers have already come out for their candidates.

* * *

You can "Like Ike" or "Win With Adlai" on your leg, or play it cagey with elephants and donkeys on your instep.

All these Republican and Democrat sentiments are immortalized in nylon hosiery, and for the true political enthusiast there are even GOP or Democratic garters with which to hold up your electioneering hose.

The nylons with the voting sentiment come in 60-gauge sheers and a variety of designs. There's one stocking with a gold elephant high on the instep. Another has a rhinestone donkey in the same place.

You can have "Win With adlai" on the side of your leg in still another pair and "I Like Ike" studed with rhinestones on a fourth set of nylons.

Stockings like these naturally should be anchored with special garters. Try the red, white and blue pleated satin garters with a donkey or elephant pin in the middle of the garter rosette.

Your vacuum cleaner can draw hairs and strings from the brush in the carpet sweeper when it is dirty and hard to clean.

Mrs. Joseph Phillips, Mrs. Mitchell Rampart and Mrs. Marshall Charter were elected to the board of directors.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. James Nourjian of Farmington, Mrs. Elten Knapp of Plymouth and Mrs. Robert Harkness of Clawson.

* * *

Boys School Studied

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Two Michigan sociologists are investigating the effect of size, staff personnel and morale on the treatment of children in the Boy's Vocational School at Lansing. The research, sponsored by the National Institute of Mental Health, is being done by Assistant Prof. Robert Vinter and Roger Lynd of the Michigan Department of Social Welfare.

Nazareth, Christ's home city, was so insignificant that the term "Nazarene" was used in derision.

THE POWERHOUSE

By Jimmy Powers

Gray spongey rain clouds floated slowly by overhead and the ink-black streets outside the Stadium glistened from a quick shower. The game had been called. George Weiss had a chance to sit back from a thick pile of mail and take a short breather in his snug office.

Were the Yanks, careening along at a dizzy pace, threatening to set an all-time won-loss record?

"There's no question the club is hot, but two weeks ago in Chicago we were so cold we felt the league was just about the toughest setup in modern times. It seems silly now with 72 games yet to play to talk of equalling the 110 won and 44 lost mark of the 1927 Yankees.

So many things can happen to a club physically, sometimes overnight, or during the course of a single doubleheader. But—some Yankee club IS going to beat the 1927 mark, and some slugger IS going to beat Babe Ruth's 60-homer mark. It could all happen in one wonderful year—this year—if we don't run into bad luck!"

★ ★ ★

With the club hurtling along playing just 13 little percentage points under .700 ball who ranks as key sparkplugs?

"I'd put Mantle No. 1, McDougald No. 2," Wiess added.

Who is responsible for winning most of the really tight critical games?

MANTLE STREAK KEPT YANKS UP

"Mantle again. His streak really buoyed us up. Which reminds me, a graph will show 1956 is a year for streaky ball. A club will win six, eight games in a row and then drop five or seven, in succession," he continued.

"Look at the chart showing the difference in play from opening day to Memorial Day and then from Memorial Day to the Fourth of July. Why, the Cubs gained 127 percentage points!

Even individual players blew hot and cold. Dale Long of the Pirates is typical. And then look at the Braves after Haney went in and Grimm went out.

With Yogi Berra back on the beam, couldn't the Yanks pull away to a 15-game lead?

★ ★ ★

"You put your finger on another instance of streaks. In the first month of play, Berra and Mantle carried the whole ball club with really sensational performances. Then Berra went into a slump and McDougald took over. You can call this coincidence or luck. I prefer to believe it reflects potential power," he concluded.

Yanks Square Series, Beat Tigers, 7-3

BOSTON (AP) — The Detroit Tigers decided to go tonight with veteran Virgil Trucks against the Boston Red Sox after two successes and a failure by three rookies in a row against the New York Yankees.

The Red Sox will counter with Willard Nixon (3-3) against Trucks (3-4).

Tonight's will be the opener of a three-game series against the Red Sox before Detroit returns home to Briggs Stadium for a 20-day stand.

Duke Maas, working behind victories by Paul Foytack and Frank Lary, was beaten 7-3 yesterday as the New York Yankees squared a four-game series.

Maas' loss was his 7th of the season without a victory. He hooked up with Tommy Byrne in a 3-3 pitchers duel through five innings. But the Yankees knocked him out in the 6th with four runs.

Al Kaline, whose home run was the winning margin in the second game of a Wednesday doubleheader and whose sensational catch preserved Lary's victory in the last of the 9th, was yesterday's other goat.

With the basese filled and two men out, Kaline hit the first pitch to reliefer Tom Morgan to shortstop Gil McDougald, who tossed out Charlie Maxwell at second to end the game. Kaline represented the tying run.

* * *

Kaline, however, had put the Tigers ahead with a two-run single in the 3rd, following a walk to Jack Phillips and a double by Maxwell. Detroit's third run came in the 4th on Jim Brideweser's single, a walk and Harvey Kuenn's single.

With the score knotted 3-3, the Yanks poured it on in the 6th. They sent nine men to bat.

Andy Carey started it with a single, Byrne bunted and both men were safe when Carey beat catcher Red Wilson's throw to second. McDougald bunted and Carey was caught at third, but Billy Martin's single loaded the bases.

* * *

Hank Bauer then slammed out a ground-rules double that bounded into the stands. That blow scored Byrne and McDougald and sent Mass to the showers.

Steve Gromek came on for Detroit and walked Mickey Mantle to load the bases again. Martin scored on Bill Skowron's sacrifice fly. Then Elston Howard's single drove in Bauer with the 4th run of the inning.

With two out, Kuenn, Phillips and Maxwell singled in the 9th. That set the stage for Kaline's jumper to McDougald on Morgan's very first toss.

The loss left Detroit in 6th place in the American League race, 20 games behind the front-running Yankees.

Home Runs, Scoring Sprees Feature Junior Loop Tilts

Bob Reeves and Chuck Gillis of the Boys Club combined to pitch a four-hitter and their teammates lashed out with a dozen safeties to shellack Waterford, 14-2, in a Class D Junior League baseball encounter Thursday night at Washington Junior High. Tom Crowley clouted a three-run homer for the Boys Club.

Terry Zellhart hurled a two-hit shutout in Wednesday's 'D' contest as the league-leading Pontiac Police defeated the Keego Harbor Boys Club, 8-0.

Pontiac Boys Club No. 3 coasted to an easy 10-3 victory over Arnold Drugs in Thursday's only Class F game. No 'E' games were scheduled.

Highlighting yesterday's Knothole League action was the Boys Club's lopsided 32-3 triumph over the Tigers. David Moczarski hit a grand-slam home run for the winners in the 3rd inning and punched out two additional safeties. Rudy Ransom accounted for the Tigers' three runs with a homer in the 1st.

Joslyn Market scored 12 runs in the 1st inning and Bill Crawford homered for a rousing 24-4 decision over Earl's Market. The Indians defeated the Senators, 6-2, behind Ron Burnstrum's four-hit pitching.

Cassady Signed Amid Elaborate Festivities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Howard Cassady, Ohio State's two - time All-America grid star, had a two-year contract with the Detroit Lions today which made him the season's highest - paid National Football League rookie.

The red-haired youngster signed here yesterday at a huge press luncheon financed by the Lions. No bonus was involved in the contract, believed to call for $14,500 a year.

* * *

Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State, who said "I've taught this boy for four years to hate Michigan, and now here he is playing for 'em," declared:

"I don't know what they're paying him, but it isn't enough."

* * *

"No matter how high you've gone, it's the best money you've ever spent."

Kerbawy said this was the first time a National League club had gone to a player's home town to sign him and that the festivities surrounding the signing probably were the most elaborate in history.

"But Hoppy is no ordinary football player," he said. "Then, too, we have an exhibition game with Pittsburgh at Toledo Aug. 17, and with the Cleveland Browns Sept. 15, at Akron, so a little Ohio publicity on this probably won't hurt the gate either place."

* * *

Cassady, 1955 "Athlete of the Year" in America, was in Chicago today for workouts with the College All - Stars who meet the National League champion Browns there Aug. 10.

In his four years at Ohio State he scored 37 touchdowns in 36 games, gained 2,491 yards in 436 carries for a 5.5-yard average, and paced the Bucks to two straight Big 10 titles and victory in the Rose Bowl.

* * *

Detroit officials said Cassady was the big hope to fill the shoes of Doak Walker—three-time All-America at Southern Methodist—who is retiring after six years with the Lions.

Cassady will do the Lion placekicking, in addition to his left halfback chores.

BUCKEYE AND THE LIONS — Two-time All-America halfback Howard (Hopalong) Cassady of Ohio State grins at his wife Betty over the Detroit Lion contract he signed yesterday at Columbus. Lion president Edwin J. Anderson (center) and Nicholas Kerbawy, general manager signed Cassady for a salary estimated to be around $14,500. Kerbawy, although he did not disclose exact amount, said the contract makes Cassady one of the highest paid rookies to be signed.

Wes Johnson, who plays in the Silver Lake golf league, will look twice before he shoots.

While waiting to drive on the 5th tee he decided to take an old ball out of his pocket and drive it out into some nearby woods.

"Got a good drive out of that old ball," he said. But when he went to tee-up his new ball he found only a dirty cut-up ball in his pocket.

"That practice drive cost me a buck," he said, looking out at the woods where he drove his newly purchased ball by mistake.

Meet Browns August 10th

All-Stars Begin Drills

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Fifty-two collegiate football players began training today at Northwestern University for the 23rd annual All-Star football game against the professional Cleveland Browns the night of Aug. 10 at Soldiers' Field.

Double practice sessions and nightly lectures will be held under direction of All-Star Coach E. L. (Curly) Lambeau for the next three weeks.

* * *

The All-Stars will seek a second consecutive victory over the Browns after beating the National Football League champs in last year's game, 30-27.

The Browns also opened training today at Hiram, Ohio, under Coach Paul Brown. Drills will be held twice daily as the Browns attempt to recover from last year's embarrassment.

The All-Stars first assignment was for pictures, newsreels, issuance of equipment, and physical examination. A closed practice session was on the menu for this afternoon.

Lambeau said he plans a wide open offense, stressing passing. He hopes to take advantage of the youth and speed of his collegians in a bid to defeat the older and more experienced pros.

Lambeau, former Green Bay Packers and Chicago Cardinals coach, is fortified with four of the nation's leading college passers for his offensive plans. They are Jim Haluska of Wisconsin, Earl Morrall of Michigan State, Jerry Reichow of Iowa, and George Welsh of Navy.

* * *

Heartly (Hunk) Anderson, former Notre Dame and Chicago Bear coach, and Don Kindt, former defense standout for the Bears will help Lambeau on defense workouts.

Offense will be handled by Hampton Pool, former Los Angeles Rams coach; Tony Canadeo, former Green Bay Packer star back; and Mike Michalske, on leave of absence from the University of Texas, where he is line coach.

Owosso, Flint Split Bill; Need Extra Zone Contest

After Owosso and Flint Buick Jr. American Legion baseball clubs divided a double-header zone contest yesterday at Birmingham High School's field, the zone playoff was moved to Flint for today's deciding battle.

Owosso, rated the class of the area, ran into trouble in Thursday's morning scrap, and bowed to Flint 5-4. A 3-run 9th inning rally, all of it on versatile Wally Haskins' homer, with two aboard wasn't quite enough to square things. Flint had counted three of its own in the bottom of the 8th to make a 2-1 lead at the time, hold up.

Patterson of Owosso also homered, in the 3rd.

Both clubs went on a slugging rampage in the afternoon setto which went 10 innings. Winner Owosso (10-9) banged an even dozen blows, including Stevens' game-winning double in the 10th. Count was knotted at 9-9 at end of nine frames. Errors blasted Flint's hopes, the Buick crew making a number at critical times, three of them in the 10th.

Bob Starr of Buick struck out 16 in the 1st game. He also went in as a relief hurler in the 9th frame of the 2nd game.

Dave Gannon, reliever in the 2nd tilt for Flint, hit a homer in the 6th with two on. Larry Arnold and Sid Weycker also homered in succession, in the 8th and 9th, respectively. Haskins had a pair of one-run four-baggers for Owosso, in the 5th and 9th.

Lakeland Pharmacy bested Emmanuel Baptist in a battle for 2nd place and front-running Drayton Drug trounced Thrifty Drug as the hotly-contested Waterford League softball title chase continued Thursday night at Drayton Plains.

A pair of runs in the 3rd inning was the eventual difference as Lakeland defeated Emmanuel, 3-1, in the opener. Gordon Nelson's single, a wild pitch, two errors and pitcher Don Herr's sacrifice fly accounted for the damage against hurler Harlan (Fat) Keith.

Herr further aided his own cause in the 6th stanza with a tremendous home run over the left field fence. The Baptist team tallied its lone run in the 7th with three consecutive singles after two men were out.

Drayton collected nine hits, three by Paul Atkins, and took advantage of nine enemy miscues to trim Thrifty's club, 12-7.

At left is Paul Pace, "B" champ, 1560 Lone Pine road. The "C" champ is Ernest Meeker, 446 Midway. The pair are hunting partners in regular game seasons. This is Meeker's 1st year at the traps. Pace recently shot a 25 straight over the difficult Williams bird field, one of only four shotgunners to hold that distinction, and the only one to do it this year.

Tribe Continues Slip

White Sox Crack 11-Game Slump

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati's robust Redlegs, for all their power hitters, are two games behind National League-leading Milwaukee and one big reason is Joe Adcock—the one-man gang Cincy traded away to the Braves.

Figure it from last week's All-Star game. Cincinnati's Fabulous Five—Wally Post and All-Stars Gus Bell, Frank Robinson, Ted Kluszewski and Ed Bailey —have hit nine home runs and driven in 26 runs among them while the Redlegs have lost four of nine and blown a 1½-game lead.

* * *

Cincinnati managed to keep pace by beating third-place Brooklyn 7-2 as Bell unloaded his 18th homer with a man on. Chicago's Cubs, with three homers, beat Philadelphia 4-3 in 10 innings on Dee Fondy's fifth home run of the year in the only other game scheduled.

* * *

Billy Pierce, who has won 11 straight from the Orioles, perked up the White Sox with a six-hitter for his 14th victory —, matching Yankee Johnny Kucks for the major league lead. He struck out nine, walked two. Singles by Nellie Fox, Ron Northey, Dave Philley and Fred Hatfield got the final two Chicago runs home in the third, Mike Fornieles was the loser as Baltimore's winning streak closed at six games.

In the American, New York's Yankees returned to normal, beating Detroit 7-3 after the Tigers had broken their winning streak at 11 games. Cleveland slipped 10½ games behind once more, losing to Washington 5-4 on Eddie Yost's ninth-inning homer, his second of the game. Kansas City cooled off third-place Boston 8-4 and the Chicago White Sox finally ended their slump, defeating Baltimore 3-2 after 11 straight defeats.

Gus Eichhorn hurled a sparkling four-hit shutout as Oliver Buick defeated the Anderson Jets, 3-0, in Thursday night's Class A City Baseball League attraction at Wisner Field. The win moved the Buick team to within half a game of the CIO and Elks No. 723, tied for 2nd place.

Eichhorn struck out seven batters and walked only one during his masterful stint. He yielded a lead-off single to Don Russell in the 1st inning, a double to Hurston Avery in the 4th, and one-base knocks to Bob Johnson and Avery in the 6th.

Wildness by starting pitcher Vernon Rains and two timely hits handed Oliver a 2-0 lead in the opening stanza. Jerry Hesse led off with a single. A walk to Daryl McGlashen and an intentional pass to Ernie Zubalik loaded the sacks with one man out. Walt Honchell singled to score Hesse and Maurice Stack drew a base on balls to force in McGlashen.

The Buick club tallied its 3rd run in the 4th inning. Eichhorn singled, advanced to 2nd on an infield error, and romped home on Hesse's 2nd safety. Jim Williams relieved Rains on the mound for the Jets in the 5th stanza.

Pontiac Marksmen Win 'B'-'C' Honors

Shooting in the recent three-day Michigan Trapshooting championships at Detroit Gun Club, two Pontiac men took down handsome silver awards for the Class B and Class C titles.

Paul Pace, 1560 Lone Pine road, won the "B" shoot in a shootoff with Adolph Nelson, Detroit. Pace hit 24x25, Nelson 23x25. Ernest Meeker, 446 Midway was "C" champion with 194x200. He also tied Ned Lilley, one of the best in the country for overall title but lost the shootoff when Lilley hit 25x25 to Meeker's 23x25.

In the 100-bird event Pace had 99x100, Meeker 98x100.

Dodson Studies New RO School

PHS athletic director Tom Dodson this week paid a visit to the new Royal Oak Kimball HS, a Class A institution expected to be in operation this fall.

Dodson's visit was for the purpose of studying the athletic facilities for ideas that might be useful in plans for Pontiac's new high school, now in preliminary stages. Steering committee has been studying information for the past year to aid in plans.

A new 45x75 pool, a gymnasium to seat 2,000, development of the football field are interesting features, Dodson reported. Kimball has joined the Eastern Michigan League as a Class A school.

State Babe Ruth Tournament Ready

Southfield High School baseball diamonds will be the scene of the Michigan Babe Ruth League tournament which gets under way tomorrow and concludes the following weekend.

* * *

It will mark the 2nd appearance of the Babe Ruthers at Southfield in as many years.

A total of 19 teams, the largest field of entries in history of the organization, will start action at 10 a.m. tomorrow morning.

Three diamonds will be used next to Southfield High School for the tournament, with defending champion Northwest Detroit again figured one of the teams to beat.

* * *

Two of the stronger Babe Ruth teams in the state, Birmingham and Berkley, will stage a showdown in the first game of the tourney at 10 a.m. on diamond No. 1 tomorrow.

The Birmingham team was eliminated in the first game last year by drawing the powerful Northwest Detroit outfit.

Walled Lake's Babe Ruth all-star team tangles with Lincoln Park on diamond No. 3 at 10 a.m. Saturday and Huron Valley faces Redford Township at the same time on diamond No. 2.

Saturday morning winners will continue eliminations in the afternoon with the quarter-finals set for Sunday on all three diamonds.

Semifinals and finals of the tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday, July 28-29, at Southfield High, which is located at Ten Mile and Lahser roads.

Doug Ford in Defense of PGA Tourney

CANTON, Mass. (AP)—An almost incredible amount of work has been done to get the Blue Hill Country Club course ready for today's opening of the 38th PGA championship.

* * *

The results should be pleasing to the club members, who will have a vastly improved course to play on, but it still leaves a few worried looks on the faces of officials who have the responsibility of planning future championships.

Naturally, they're not saying much about this. They don't want to put the rap on their own tournament. Neither do they want to injure the feelings of a lot of people who have done their best to turn this tight little 6,634-yard course into a championship test.

* * *

This annual affair is the showpiece of the vast PGA organization. The harsh fact is that the officials will have to do something about securing letter sites and about getting more of the better players into it.

* * *

Blue Hill, for example, is an old-fashioned New England country course. It has some fine, testing holes cutting through the woods and it should be adequate for this all-match-play tournament. But it isn't the kind of course the finicky U.S. Golf Assn. would pick for one of its major tournaments.

In addition to replacing the clubhouse, burned down last New Year's Eve, with a modernistic million-dollar building, Blue Hill had to do a lot of things like building roads and walk-ways over swampy areas and replacing damaged greens to make the course satisfactory for players and spectators.

The rebuilding job, plus a lot of bad weather, interfered with work on the course. There still are a good many unplayable spots which must be treated as ground under repair. On some holes the galleries will have to thread their way through the woods.

* * *

This rather rugged situation may even make the competition more interesting. In the 18-hole knockout matches which make up the first five rounds, one bad shot into the rocky woods or to a soggy spot could mean the difference between winning and losing.

Blue Hill with its 36-35—71 par, definitely is a course for accurate drivers. That could make it tough for players like three-time champion Sammy Snead, who hasn't been playing very well anyway, or Chick Harbert, another wild-hitting ex-champion.

* * *

Experts trying to pick the winner lean toward steady shooters like defending champion Doug Ford, Masters winner Jackie Burke, or Ted Kroll, who blew his big chance for the Open championship this year on one horrible hole.

For the first time 32 players were seeded, after a fashion, in this year's tournament draw. That rules out the chance that two top performers may come together in the first round or two. The most attractive matches likely will come during Sunday's double round.

* * *

But even more is needed to make this event the top attraction for spectators. PGA officials are trying to work out a scheduling system that will let them arrange tournaments at least two years in advance, as the USGA does, and pick the courses more carefully. They have three good clubs interested now and the chances are that the championship will go to California next year and to Atlanta in 1958.

Lesser, Quast in Semi-Finals

Pat Plays Janssen in One Test; Anne Faces Berridge Long

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP)—Two natural matches, one between the youngest and most sensational scorers and the other between the more seasoned pair, were lined up today for the semifinals of the Women's Western Amateur golf championship.

Paired in one match are Anne Quast of Everett, Wash., and Berridge Long of Huntington. Matched in the other are Mary Patton Janssen of Charlottesville, Va., and Pat Lesser, the defending champion of Seattle.

* * *

Miss Quast, who will be 19 next month, has been the standout golfer since she fired a two-under par 70 in the qualifying round on Monday.

In beating Anne Richardson of Columbus, Ohio, 6 and 5 in yesterday's semifinal, she threw in four birdies to leave her two under par for 65 holes on the Guyan Country Club course.

Miss Long, 20, was only one over par for the 14 holes she had to play in beating Mrs. Berton Craig of Morrow, Ohio, 5 and 4.

Lynn Spees Bags His Second Ace

Pontiac's Lyneer Spees, former PHS athlete and a high-rated area linksman, bagged his 2nd hole-in-one Wednesday at St. Clair Shores CC. His first ace was made in 1953 at Indianwood.

Lynn pitched a No. 6 iron shot to the No. 6 green at St. Clair, "right on the pin" of the par 3, 150-yard hole. He had a 36 for the nine, 76 for the round, played with James Smith of Gowanie (73) Dr. Bert LeCraix (74) of St. Clair Shores and Bob Holden, operator of the St. Clair club. (77).

Two 66s Share Birmingham CC Medal

By H. GUY MOATS

A pair of sharp-shooting best-ball teams yesterday posted identical qualifying rounds of 66 for medalist honors in the annual Birmingham Country Club Invitational golf tournament.

Turning in cards of 32-34—66, five under par for the rolling, tricky Birmingham layout, were BCC's prexy, Gale Stringer and Ed Ervasti, and Bill Nettle and Jim Kraus of Pine Lake. Fourteen other teams made up the championship flight that began match play this morning.

The Nettle-Kraus team fired a string of eight birdies and slipped over par three times, but turned in a balanced game, with both players contributing equally to the card. Nettle's 40-foot putt on the 2nd hole for a birdie was the hottest bit of greens work for the day.

Stringer and Ervasti (unattached) had six "birds" and were over par only once (17th). Indicative of the fine work around the greens by this team is the fact it never had a putt longer than six feet.

Thursday's qualification for Nettle was Bill's 3rd time up in the medalist spot. He teamed with Tom Draper in 1951, then had George Linklater for a partner as the 1954 medalists. All were 66s.

A new championship team will take over this year. Elmer Ellstrom and brother Ralph had a 72, just out of the top flight. Elmer won last summer with Pat Schwab, an Ohioan, who has since turned pro.

Single 18 hole matches will be played today and Saturday, with semifinal and final rounds on Sunday's 36-hole marathon finish.

Qualifiers for top flight with scores:

Nettle-Kraus vs. Steve Purdo-Bill Jordan (M'dbrook) 70; Jim Nick (Birm)-Chuck Kocsis (Red Run) 68 vs. Frank Jarrard (Flint)-Ken Place (B'fld Hills) 71; Jim Riddell (Oakland Hills)-Don Dawson (Red Run) 68 vs. G. L. Conely-Harry Martin (B'hm) 70; Ben Smith-Bud Gould (DGC) 69 vs. Ed Grabowski-Tyler Riggin (Kazoo) 71; Gale Stringer-Ed Ervasti 66 vs. Tony Lopucki (B'hm)-Earl Burt 70; Dr. George Jaakst (B'hm)-Fred Miklow (Hillsdale) 69 vs. Tommy Watrous-Bill Adams (Oak. Hills) 71; Randy Ahern (M'd'brook)-Ted Stillwell (B'fld Hills) 69 vs. Dick Wibel (B'fld Hills)-Dick Krall (PL) 71 and Roy Burgen-Dr. Frank Lovell (B'hm) 70 vs. Tom McMahon (CCD)-George Webb (B'fld Hills) 71.

Three Shutout Games Hurled

Softball Loop Pitchers in Top Form in City League Play

City Softball League pitchers took their spin at good fortune Thursday night and three brilliant shutouts were hurled in the four-game card at Beaudette and North Side parks.

Shaw's Percy McConner, Stadium's Verle Sheldon and Claudia Wasik of the Pulver Tire girls squad all turned in sparkling whitewash performances.

McConner twirled a two-hit masterpiece as the Jewelers swamped Bicmar Inn, 10-0, in the opening game at Beaudette. Louie Seay blasted a grand-slam home run for the American League leaders.

Stadium Inn blanked Sam Benson, 6-0, behind Sheldon's five-hit pitching, in the other American League attraction at Beaudette.

Wasik spun a two-hitter as Pulver Tire smothered Gingellville, 13-0, in a girls' loop contest at North Side. Pulver's Peggy Bryan slammed a two-run homer in the 7th inning.

In men's National division action at North Side, the North Side Merchants dumped Pontiac Select-a-Drink, 11-5. Terry Walsh made three of the winners' 12 hits.

Golfers will be grouped according to handicap and winners will be determined over an 18-hole distance. Prizes are in the offing for gross and net champions in each division and every flight.

Bernard (Tut) Bartzen of Dallas, second seeded in the men's division, went into the quarter-finals with a 6-3, 6-1 win over Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif.

Hugh Stewart of Pasadena, Calif., seeded No. 7, beat Bill Quillian of Seattle, 6-4, 6-4. Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N.J., seeded No. 3, defeated Mario Llamas of Mexico City, 6-3, 8-6.

Badgers Sever Game With LSU

Home and Home Series Canceled Because of Segregation Law

MADISON, Wis. (INS)—The University of Wisconsin is severing football relationships with Louisiana State because of Louisiana's new segregation law prohibiting Negroes and whites from competing in athletic events.

The Wisconsin athletic board and athletic director Ivy Williamson, in a joint statement yesterday said Louisiana's social segregation law would "have the effect of denying to the University of Wisconsin the privilege of selecting the members of its team without regard to race or color."

The statement said this was contrary to contracts between the two schools which provide that each school would have "complete freedom" to select its team members. It added:

"We would be compelled to view any action that interferes with this traditional basic policy of selection as tantamount to forcing termination of the contract."

Wisconsin and LSU were scheduled to meet Oct. 5, 1957, at Madison and Oct. 4, 1958, at Baton Rouge in a home-and-home series.

Midget Autos Race July 29 at Dixie Oval

Top drivers from the nation's midget auto racing fraternity will be in action Sunday, July 29, at the Dixie Speedway on US10-23 near the Saginaw-Genesee county line. The midget car program will be climaxed by a 100-lap feature race.

Thirty of the tiny bellowing speedsters are expected for the show, which is sanctioned by the United States Automobile Club. The races have been shifted from the Crystal Speedway to the Dixie track to take advantage of the latter's 5,000 seating capacity, according to promoter Bob George of Saginaw.

LAWNS BUILT

Extension Folders Aid Lawn Builders

It's not to soon to think about making a new lawn. Aug. 15 to Sept. 1 is the best time to seed a lawn in Oakland County, according to assistant county agricultural agent Wayne Siefert.

In the meantime, there are several preparations necessary to be ready when seeding time comes. Details on making a new lawn are included in a new Extension folder just received in the Oakland County Extension Office.

James Tyson of the Michigan State University soil science department wrote the folder which is number F-211. Grading, drainage, soil requirements, seedbed preparation, grass and seeding recommendations are explained in this publication.

For tips on caring for an established lawn, County Agent Siefert recommends another Extension folder, F-212, just published at MSU. Copies of both folders are available at the County Extension Office, 1260 West Boulevard, Pontiac.

Chrysanthemums will give a better fall showing if they receive a second and final pinch back this month.

EASTER LILIES IN JULY — Regarded essentially as a greenhouse flower, Bermuda Easter Lilies can be a featured garden flower, as proved by Mrs. William J. Mansfield of 29 S. Edith St. Pontiac Press Photo

Mrs. Mansfield shows her 150 blooms of Bermuda Easter Lilies that were grown without any special care and in soil considered "poor."

Transplant Daffodils

Daffodils may be transplanted and divided any time after the foliage has withered down and dried, a sign the bulbs have matured for next spring's bloom.

Bermuda Lilies Bedeck Garden on Edith Street

By VICKY MICU

Passers-by with cameras are a common sight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Mansfield, 29 S. Edith St., where an uncommon sight of approximately 150 Bermuda Easter Lilies are in full bloom.

The lily bulbs were given to Mrs. Mansfield by her brother in Florida three years ago. This is the first year the plants have bloomed so abundantly.

Although the lilies are usually considered a greenhouse plant and few people attempt to raise them in their gardens, Mrs. Mansfield says they are surprisingly easy to care for. Aside from the usual weeding, no special care is given the flowers.

Mrs. Mansfield added that the soil in which the lilies are growing is considered "poor."

In addition to the lilies, pansies and other summer flowers are grown at the Mansfield home. Outstanding in the springtime is the striking tulip bed, Mrs. Mansfield said.

Mr. Mansfield has made gardening his hobby since he and his wife came here from England 33 years ago. His prize work is the lot next door which he has been working on for the twelve years the Mansfields have lived on Edith street.

He has made a beauty spot of the property with the spruces and evergreens, flowers and shrubs he takes care of.

Mansfield is employed at the Pontiac Varnish Works as plant (not the growing kind) manager.

Mrs. Arthur Mansfield, daughter-in-law of the Mansfields, who lives across the street, gave the tip about the lilies to the garden editor.

Hay Drier Is Good Insurance

Test Temperatures to Combat Spontaneous Combustion

Spontaneous combustion is always a problem to farmers at haying time. Every year barns are burned and hay is destroyed when hay suddenly explodes into flame. Losses run into many thousands of dollars each year.

John Trocke, assistant county agricultural agent, says the problem is even more serious than these figures indicate.

Hay that becomes very hot, even though it may never ignite, loses up to 25 per cent of its food value. Also, it becomes much less appetising for the cows, and there is the possibility of mold.

At the bottom of this problem, of course, is putting wet hay into the barn. Trocke says that any baled or chopped hay with a moisture content higher than 20 per cent is dangerous. Loose hay can be a little wetter, perhaps 25 per cent moisture, before it reaches the danger point.

Wet hay heats up, reaching temperatures of 180 degrees and even 200 degrees in extreme cases. Trocke says there is still a great deal that scientists don't know about what happens when the hay reaches this temperature.

Sometimes it ignites, sometimes not. At any rate, he says, you can protect yourself. A hay drier is the best insurance.

If you don't feel you can install one, try to spread the hay around in layers as you put it in.

Then test the temperature at least twice a week with a hay prod thermometer. Don't let that hot hay put the heat on you, Trocke concludes.

Accident Traps Lurk in Garden

Home gardeners are urged to check gardens and lawn for accident traps this summer.

Danger may be lurking in the form of an upturned rake, being careless with flower sprays and insecticides and always that old enemy of overexertion in the hot sun.

The Institute for Safer Living has released information regarding treatment for both sunstroke and heat exhaustion. Be sure to get the treatments right because the wrong one may be tragic.

Sunstroke makes the skin dry and hot, turns the face red, causes a high fever. This is accompanied by throbbing headache, dizziness and hard breathing.

Cool the person's body with cold water or cloths. His head should be raised. Give him cold water, never ice, to drink.

Heat exhaustion is the result of loss of salt through excessive sweating. The skin is cold, the face pale and purplish in color. Chills may be accompanied by cramps.

Keep head low, the person warm and give a stimulant such as hot coffee.

This can be a much safer summer if we just think before we do.

Installs New Cooling System

Evaporation of Water Used by Pearce Floral Company

Larger and finer quality flowers are the aim of Pearce Floral Company, Orchard Lake Avenue, since they've installed their new water evaporation cooling system.

The new air conditioning system is installed in two greenhouses and is first in the state with the exception of an experimental unit used at Michigan State University.

The system used in the west and southwest for air conditioning, operates in a fairly simple manner says Charles Coppersmith manager of Pearce Floral.

Two large exhaust fans in each house change the air within the houses every minute. They pull 28,500 cubic feet of air per minute through a huge wall of excelsior.

One end of the greenhouse is built out and the glass removed. A frame is covered with the excelsior. A small motor pumps water up through a trough overhead.

In turn this water drips over the excelsior. As the huge fans pull the air through the excelsior with the water dripping over it, the large greenhouses are cooled immensely. Temperatures of 66 degrees or less are obtained with this system.

How does this help the flowers? According to Coppersmith, the flowers grow slower and consequently grow larger, better quality blooms.

The system has been installed for just a week and already Coppersmith has noticed results.

"If anything, the girls are much happier working in a cooler place," he said.

Coppersmith hopes to utilize the system for about five months of the year starting early in May.

If the unit works out well, he says they hope to install it throughout the greenhouses stretching over two acres next year.

Trees in State Lack Moisture, Says Specialist

EAST LANSING—Are the leaves on your trees turning brown?

You're not alone. The condition is general over Michigan. The reason is lack of moisture, indicates Harold Schick, extension municipal forestry specialist at Michigan State University.

He points out that the rainfall for June was two inches below normal on the average in the state.

So water the trees thoroughly, he advises, with a lawn soaker or sprinkler set close to the trunk. The water should run for at least an hour for most trees.

Sow Fall Vegetables

Seeds may be sown now for a fall crop of such fast-growing vegetables as lettuce, radishes, carrots and even bush-beans.

County Agent Says to Give Soil Nitrogen

Home gardens may have lost valuable nitrogen down the drain as the result of the heavy spring rains in Michigan.

* * *

Lyle Abel, County Agricultural Agent, suggests that home gardeners add nitrogen to their soil now or within the next few weeks. Unless there's an ample supply of this important nutrient, chances for a successful garden are reduced.

For gardens that were not fertilized this spring, Abel recommends an application of ammonium nitrate between the rows. Apply at the rate of one-fourth pound per 100 square feet. Be careful not to put any of the nitrate on the plants themselves.

Complete fertilizers may also be used to supply the nitrogen, Abel recommends an application of three pounds of these fertilizers per 100 square feet of garden area. Again, apply between the rows. Analyses such as 4-16-16, 6-12-12, and 5-20-20 are satisfactory.

* * *

For those who aren't sure whether their garden needs nitrogen, Abel suggests putting on some of these fertilizers in small test areas. If these areas become greener than the rest of the garden, then the entire area needs nitrogen.

Inspect the growing plants carefully for signs of insect infestation.

Seventh Chance! Sixteen Words Can Mean $100

Once again the Press offers another chapter in its challenging summer word game, Pot-O-Gold, the eighth puzzle of which appears below. Aside from the cash prize it offers to whoever can reach a solution, Pot-O-Gold is fun and a worthy exercise of the mental processes. First read the directions on how to play — and then be sure to read the rules (or no matter how good you are at picking words you can't win if you break one). Good luck!

The puzzle consists of (1) a number of circles which contain a few scrambled letters, and (2) a corresponding list of clues to these words printed below. The object is to arrange each group of circled letters into a word that best fits its clue. The word which you select for Circle No. 1, then would be the one which you would print in the space to the right of (1) below

You'll notice that some circles contain $ signs in pots of gold. You may use such a symbol as any letter you wish. However, it and all letters in that circle must be used. The $ sign, of course, can represent ANY letter in the word.

Do the same in all the other circles. Study the clues carefully and arrange all the letters into words that you believe best conforms to these clues. Use your $ signs to help you spell out the right words.

Doctor Doubts Luce Poisoning

Says He Treated Her for Different Ailments Unrelated to Arsenic

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce's physician said today her latest illness may have had no connection whatever with poison paint specks which allegedly dropped from her bedroom ceiling.

* * *

Dr. Milton Rosenbluth said the ailments for which he treated Mrs. Luce in New York two months ago were enteritis and iron deficiency anemia.

Their relation — if any—to traces of arsenate of lead detected in a specimen is "very unclear," he said.

Rosenbluth was interviewed by telephone in New York.

MAGAZINE BREAKS STORY

Time magazine reported Tuesday "a deadly fall-out" of the poison caused the long series of illnesses that have beset Mrs. Luce since she became ambassador to Italy more than three years ago. The ambassador's husband, Henry R. Luce, is editor in chief of the publication.

The magazine said a second investigation uncovered "a high content" of arsenate of lead from painted roses in the ceiling of her 17th Century embassy residence in Rome.

Rosenbluth said it was far from certain her latest illnesses were "arsenic-induced infection", as the magazine reported.

* * *

"Whatever she had in 1954 I would regard as cured," he said. "Her latest illness seemed to be related to some liver infection she had in Italy. Specifically, what she had now was not poisoning."

He said it is possible the earlier illness could have debilitated her to the point where she was more susceptible to the later ailment, but even this is uncertain.

Time magazine had no immediate comment on Rosenbluth's remarks.

DOUBT PAINT STORY

Other persons privately expressed serious doubt that poison paint dust from her ceiling could have caused her illness—at any time.

Medical experts at the Bethesda, Md., Naval Center told a reporter they found "a very tiny amount" of lead arsenate in a Luce specimen sent secretly from Italy for analysis.

Some expressed belief that this poison probably came from other sources. They suggested examining Mrs. Luce's drinking water, cosmetics, silver polish and insecticide sprayed on roses in her garden.

Woman Driver Killed

IONIA (AP)—Mrs. Edith Pierson, 67, of Ionia, was killed yesterday when her car left the road and struck a tree near Palo, 12 miles northeast of Ionia. She was alone.

Near Misses Common Over Nation's Airports

WASHINGTON (INS)—An airline safety expert says air traffic is now so bad that there are at least four near-misses every day.

* * *

David Halperin, chairman of the Trans-World Airline air safety committee, told a House Interstate subcommitte these near-misses mean the airplanes come anywhere from 150 to 400 feet of each other.

The subcommittee is investigating air problms in particular. The Grand Canyon collision took 128 lives.

Halperin said: "I don't know if the members of this committee know as well as the working pilot how imminent the danger of a collision actually is."

He said pilots were greatly surprised that when the accident they had been predicting finally occurred, it happened so far from high density traffic centers. These, he said, are Chicago, New York, Washington and Los Angeles.

TOO CONSERVATIVE

Another witness, C. N. Sayen, president of the Airline Pilots Association, said the administraton's five-year program for improving air traffic conditions is "too conservative." He said "we'll again be behind" at the end of the period.

He said President Eisenhower's recommendation this week for spending an extra 68 million dollars on the system will help.

However, he said Civil Aeronautics Administration funds have been decreasing steadily during the last five years while aircraft movements have been going up three million a year over the same period.

Earlier, a TWA pilot, J. S. Solomon, who flew over the Grand Canyon area 90 minutes before the ill-fated crash, said near-misses occur "all the time." He said pilots in many areas such as the canyon are "on their own."

Storm Strands Tourists in Path of Flash Flood

CANON CITY, Colo. (AP) — A severe hail storm and cloudburst knocked out the inclined railroad at Royal Gorge yesterday and stranded 70 sightseers for an hour.

The scenic railroad descends 1,000 feet down Telephone Gulch into the gorge. A 10-foot flood crest swept down the gulch at the height of the storm.

Emergency power equipment brought out the stranded tourists.

But He's Confident That Dean Can Succeed

Jerry Lewis Feels Tearful About Split-Up

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — Jerry Lewis, a sentimental young man with easy-flow tear ducts, was sitting in a hotel room as nearly alone as he ever cares to be. There were only nine other persons loafing around.

He was discussing life and love and Dean Martin, with whom he will part company five nights and 12 nightclub performances from now.

"I'll get through it, I guess, if I don't die first," Jerry said about their final united stand at the Copacabana next Wednesday. "But I don't guarantee I won't cry. I cry when a stranger gets hurt. And in this case — well I love the guy.

"Tears came to my eyes when Dean first put his arm around me 10 years ago in Atlantic City — we're on the same stage together, doing different acts — and I knew we could be a great act," Jerry said.

• • •

"Now I've been married to the guy for 10 years. You can't break up a marriage without doing some dying."

NOT MAUDLIN

Lewis was dressed in a loud yellow robe. He was drinking club soda. He wasn't funny or maudlin, just straight-forward.

The reason for the split, the decision of Martin and Lewis to follow their own careers alone, is simply that Jerry wants to be a "working slob" till he drops dead, and Dean likes some leisure with his labor.

"Maybe I'm nuts but I was born in a trunk and that's how it is," Jerry shrugged. "You cannot teach anyone who isn't born with it how to get a chill up his spine at an 8:40 curtain."

The 75-minute swan song act currently at the Copa features several ballads by Martin — the handsome 40-year-old who hopes to make his future by straight singing and acting after the pair breaks up. The customers, who pack the club at each show, become noticeably restless during Dean's solos.

• • •

But Jerry denies that this might indicate Dean will not be a success as a single entertainer.

CAME FOR LAUGHS

"Let me explain this," he says intensely, "you can't replace laughs with a song on a show where laughs are what the people came for. Dean can out-Cary Grant Cary Grant when he acts, and out-Al Jolson Al Jolson when he sings, if he wants to. That is, if he applies himself."

• • •

But mightn't the public be inclined to laugh at Dean in his serious attempts, because of the uproarious Martin-Lewis reputation?

Jerry leaned forward and answered intently: "You may think you've laughed at Dean but you never did. You laughed with him, laughing at me. When the lights come low, he becomes a different man. If he tries — he'll be a great performer."

As for Jerry himself, he is not worried about his professional future. He will make a movie for Paramount in the fall, and will do a TV series. Asked the format, he replied, "Laughter."

• • •

He will never have another partner. "I've had the best, and I don't want to settle for less. Besides, don't you know your foil is really your audience?"

NO SLOWING DOWN

Though his desire is to work 47 weeks a year, and prepare for work the other five, Jerry Lewis doesn't want ever to be told to slow down. "I'm a firm believer in God," he puts it, "and I feel that God gives no one individual any too big a burden.

Kiddies' Books Too Simple for Enjoyment

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) —The problem, says a former New York City librarian, is not whether Johnny can read, but why his mother and father don't.

Mrs. Frances C. Sayers, former director of children's work at the New York City Library, said yesterday at the University of Michigan that part of the trouble is children's reading is too easy.

Speaking at the 27th annual Summer Education Conference, Mrs. Sayers said:

• • •

"Only 17 per cent of the people in this country read books after they leave school; whereas in England, Australia and Canada, it's 55 per cent, and in Norway, Denmark and Sweden it's even greater."

One reason, she said, is that reading has been made too easy for children—so easy in fact it isn't enjoyable any more.

"We rob the children of the initial enjoyment of wrestling with reading," Mrs. Sayers said, "by making all the words too simple and making the sentences too short and saying too little and feeling nothing at all."

• • •

Not all children's reading should be pleasant either, she said.

"Children want all the emotions," she added. "Not only do they suffer but if they do not suffer they want to know what suffering is. Why else do they ask you, 'Have you got a book that will make me cry?' or 'Have you got a book that will scare me to death?' "

4 Rescued From Lake

HOLLAND (AP) — Four Holland youths spent Wednesday night adrift on Lake Michigan in a stalled 17-foot speedboat. They were spotted by a search plane five miles off the coast and were towed back to Holland Thursday. Three were identified. They are Buck Boersma, 19, Larry Kolb, 18, and Ronald Neimhuis, 18.

Largest world producers of tin and tin-plate are Malaya, Indonesia, Bolivia, Belgian Congo, Thailand, Nigeria and Texas.

Deny Flying Over Russia

'You're Mistaken,' U.S. Tells Reds After Check of Flight Routes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has told the Russians they were "in error" in complaining about alleged flights by American bombers over Soviet territory.

• • •

Rejecting the Russian charge of 10 days ago, the State Department last night informed the Soviet government that after a "thorough inquiry" it had been determined that no U.S. military planes in or around the European area at the time of the alleged overflights "could possibly have strayed" into Russian air space.

"Therefore, the statement of the government of the Soviet Union is in error," the State Department said in a note delivered to the Soviet Embassy.

On July 10, Russian Ambassador Georgi Zarubin protested to Secretary of State Dulles that on three previous days twin-engine U.S. medium bombers had flown into Soviet territory east of Poland, penetrating as deep as 200 miles.

• • •

The Russians said the planes came from Germany and they noted the alleged flights came about the time Gen. Nathan F. Twining, the chief of staff of the U.S. Air Force, was visiting in Germany on his way home from Moscow. The American note rapped Russia's knuckles for "insinuating" that the alleged flights might have been arranged by Twining.

Topical Wiretapping Tale Due for Movie Treatment

By DOROTHY MANNERS

(While Louella Parsons is traveling in Europe her column will be written by Dorothy Manners).

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—With the California Supreme Court ruling that the police can no longer use evidence produced from "tapped" telephones and "wired" rooms against criminal suspects, the movie fate of "The Talking Bug" gains importance.

The book by Mildred and Gordon Gordon (a thriller about the police officers who install and listen in on these mechanical devices), originally bought by Columbia for Glenn Ford, has been sold to Bretaigne Windust and Louis de Rochemont for $75,000. For reasons of their own, Columbia cooled on the production.

Windust (he directed Lunt and Fountanne in "The Great Sebastians" on Broadway) and De Rochemont, famed for his documentary approach to film fiction, have no star yet set. But Glenn Ford would be okay with them, too.

Mamie Van Doren, who bowed out of her U-I contract to be just Mrs. Ray Anthony after her baby was born, is back in the glamor business. She's been signed by Screen Gems for a telefilm series, "Girls About Town."

She'll play one of three roommates known as The Body, The Face and The Brain. The series will deal with their adventures striving for careers in show business, modeling and the business world. Need I add that Mamie is "The Body."

STEADY ESCORT

Here and there: Tom Conway, handsome brother of George Sanders, is the steady escort of Lady Iris Mountbatten around Europe . .

Has Jayne Mansfield ditched "Mr. Universe" (he's married anyway? Her latest, Frank Pachard, just gifted her with a fist-size diamond ring across a dinner table at Downey's in New York . .

When Victor Mature checks in at Las Vegas, we'll see if he takes up where he left off with beautiful chorus girl Joan McCrea . .

Alan Jay Lerner, of "My Fair Lady" fame, checks in with his own fairest lady, wife Nancy Olson, at the Bel Air Hotel today . . .

Joanne Dru's black eye is so completely healed you'd never know she had one . .

Oreste (he of the single name) appears on the same Hollywood Bowl program with Dorothy Kirsten Aug. 1. He'll also flex his vocal chords making a brief appearance as Caruso in "The Buster Keaton Story."

WEDDING DAY

This is the wedding day of Nancy Valentine and Fred Tillinghast III, at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas. Nancy's close friend, Leslie Synder, returned from New York in time to be matron of honor.

"I am legally free now of any entanglements holding over from my marriage to the Maharajah of Cooch Behar," said Nancy. "My lawer has informed me that the papers have arrived confirming an annulment."

At the time of the breakup with the maharajah (his government refused to recognize the marriage) Nancy took it so hard she went into retreat with a self-realization cult.

Hollywood in shorts: Not only will Frank Sinatra sing the National Anthem opening the Democratic convention, but his "You're Sensational" (from "High Society") will be the theme song of the winning candidate.

Nice boost for big business: Lana Turner is now incorporated and calling her company Lanturn Productions.

The beauty houseguesting with the Harry Joe Browns—her name is Susan Douglas Torreyson—is the big moment in the life of Harry ("Coco") Brown Jr.

Joe E. Lewis stayed over to applaud Hazel Scott's opening at the Mocambo.

Of all the wigs ever created by Perc Westmore (and he's made 1,000 or more) he's most sentimental over the one Al Jolson wore in "The Jazz Singer." Know where it is now? Atop Billy Gray's noggin in his new revue at the band box.

Ilona Massey returns to the Coast to star in "Tonight or Never" at the Pasadena Playhouse Aug. 2 following her nightclub appearance in Havana.

KALAMAZOO (AP) — The 1,500 workers of the KVP Co., a paper and carton manufacturing concern, in Kalamazoo met Thursday to determine whether they will strike or continue to wait for successful contract negotiations. Morocco Has Five Armies

Sultan Wants Only U.S. GIs in Order to Collect a Whopping Rent

RABAT, Morocco (AP)—A newly independent country of nine million, Morocco has five separate armies on its soil and no apparent enemies.

• • •

There are Spanish troops in the North, French troops almost everywhere else, the U.S. Air Force at four big bases, the official royal sherifian army, and an "Army of Liberation."

Sultan Mohammed Ben Youssef would like to get rid of all the foreigners except the Americans, from whom he hopes to collect a whopping rent. He wants to merge the liberation army with the green-bereted royal forces, most of them transferred by unit from the French. He seems to be making progress.

• • •

The liberation army at its peak may have had 12,000 men. It first appeared last October. On the very day the French removed the unpopular Sultan Mohammed ben Houlay Arafa, its guerrillas swooped out of the Riff Mountains to show they wanted Ben Youssef returned from exile.

Soon the French yielded to pressure and brought Ben Youssef back. The liberation army was pleased. Its leaders, though, decided to keep their own arms and organization—possibly with a view to supporting fellow Moslems of neighboring Algeria against the French.

• • •

It now looks as if Ben Youssef and his son Prince Hassan will be able to unify the country under their authority. That would mean the end of the Army of Liberation.

Siamese Twins Parted; Healthy Lives Predicted

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Lary and Gary Hutchens, born 18 days ago as Siamese twins, lay in separate hospital cribs today.

Physicians believe the twins face a normal, healthy future as a result of a separation operation yesterday.

Dr. Thomas F. O'Connell, chief surgeon at the operation, said that although there is a chance that complications may develop, he is "extremely optimistic" over the twins' future.

He said it would be two weeks before it can be determined whether there is any brain or other serious damage to either twin.

Russian Religion Gets Cold Shoulder at Most

By EARL WILSON

KHARKOV, U.S.S.R.—The great Russian religious revival appears to be one of those Soviet inventions.

Apparently it's largely phony. It gives you a shuddery feeling to hear one person after another assure you he doesn't believe in God, and even toss his head defiantly when he says it.

"Do you ever go to church?" I asked a woman guide when we came to this "Pittsburgh of Russia."

"No—except when I take tourists," she said.

"Did your parents go?"

★ ★ ★

"No, and my grandfather didn't go." Getting things mixed up a little, she added, "My grandfather didn't even go when she was a little girl."

But they show you a lot of churches—to prove how religious you can be in Russia if you want to be that crazy. Old people and sick people are the only ones who go, they tell you.

On one tour we penetrated some caves in an orthodox church where hermit priests lived and died.

We bought candles to help find our way through. When we came upon the tombs of long departed priests, one tourist asked:

"Were these priests saints? It would seem so from the letters in front of their names."

Our rather worldly guide in a black mesh dress retorted, "The church says so—I don't think so."

"How do the priests live if the church isn't encouraged financially by the state?"

"Oh, I think the church has plenty of money!"

One night some Intourist officials were trying hard to straighten out our schedule, which had become tangled. They worked hard at the phones—and suddenly one problem was solved.

A young official who'd been vehement against religion quickly put his finger tips together as though in prayer and whispered something.

I didn't hear what he said. But surely he wasn't muttering, "Thank Khrushchev!"

Hare Predicts Highway Crisis

Refusal of Lawmakers to Follow Williams Plan Draws Fire

LANSING (AP) — Secy. of State James M. Hare predicts "serious consequences" from the Legislature's failure to adopt Gov. Williams' safety proposals.

• • •

"The measures that were requested were certainly reasonable and there could not possibly have been any question of partisan differences about them," Hare said.

"One is forced to the conclusion that the majority of the Legislature doesn't care sufficiently about the safety of the citizens of Michigan," he said.

Williams asked the lawmakers to expand the secretary of state's control over issuance of driver's licenses, to appropriate some $350,000 to add to the staffs of the secretary's office and the State Safety Commission and to repeal a new law permitting 14 and 15-year-olds to operate motor bikes.

Hare said the extra employes on the State Safety Commission were needed to promote organization of local safety councils as recommended by the President's highway safety conference.

The change in the driver's license law was necessary to counteract the decision of the Ingham County Circuit Court that the secretary of state cannot deny new licenses because of "bad driving records," Hare said.

'No One Forced Ike to Run,' Aide Claims

TITUSVILLE, N.J. (AP) — White House aide Bernard M. Shanley says President Eisenhower "has never been pressured in any way" to run for re-election.

The first argument Democrats make, Shanley said last night, "is that the President was pressured into running by the White House palace guard, of which I happen to be one."

"I can assure you that he has never been pressured in any way," the presidential appointment secretary said, "and I can assure you that no one ever discussed with the President whether he should or should not run."

Shanley, who lives in Bernardsville, spoke to the Young Republican Club of Hopewell Valley at the Titusville fire house. He said it is part of the "Democratic line" to spread the impression that Eisenhower was pressured into seeking a second term.

Europe Circuses Faring Better Than U.S. Shows

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — The circus has run into trouble in Europe, but generally it's still going strong.

The one-ring show is the usual thing, in contrast to the three-ring circus under the big top that is ending in the United States. Distances in Europe are less and it costs less to keep a show on the road.

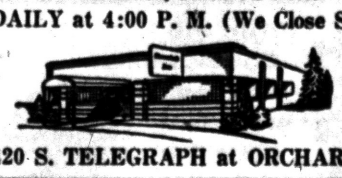

The renowned Carl Hagenbeck Circus of Hamburg went out of business three years ago rather than increase a 12-cent admission charge for children. With such rates the show lost money.

• • •

A spokesman for West Germany's biggest tented show, the Zirkus Krone, says:

"The circus in Germany today can live, but it is no longer a real business. The shows are too expensive. People have other interests—cars, radio and TV. But the circus still does well in rural areas."

That is a pretty general theme. In big cities, the shows are doing well mostly in permanent auditoriums. France, Germany, Belgium, Austria and Yugoslavia all have small traveling circuses that are big hits. It costs little to operate these shows. More often than not, entertainers pass the hat to pay their costs.

Defends Aid to Tito, Says to Trust Ike

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) pleaded today for Senate rejection of a move to shut off new military aid to Yugoslavia lest it serve as notice to the world "we don't trust the President."

Smith, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, voiced his view as the Senate prepared to debate a $4,105,000,000 foreign aid appropriations bill which has split both parties.

The biggest fight may come on a proposed amendment by Senate Republican Leader Knowland. Smith told an interviewer, "We ought to show enough confidence in President Eisenhower to leave it to his judgment whether continued aid to Yugoslavia is in the best interest of our own security."

Section 18.1. Prior to the effective date of his retirement, but not thereafter, any member may elect to receive his service retirement allowance as a benefit payable throughout his life, called a regular retirement allowance, or he may elect to receive the actuarial equivalent, computed as of the date of his retirement, of his regular retirement allowance in a reduced retirement allowance payable throughout his life, and nominate a survivor beneficiary, in accordance with the provisions of option 1, 2 or 3, as hereinafter set forth.

Option 1. Cash Refund Annuity. If a retirant dies before he has received in the annuity portions of his reduced retirement allowance an aggregate amount equal to his accumulated contributions standing to his credit in the annuity savings fund at the time of his retirement, the difference between his said accumulated contributions and the said aggregate amount of annuity payments received by him shall be paid to such person or persons as he shall have nominated by written designation duly executed and filed with the Board. If there be no such designated person or persons surviving the said retirant, such difference, if any, shall be paid to his legal representative.

Option 2. Joint and Survivor Allowance. Upon the death of a retirant his reduced retirement allowance shall be continued throughout the life of and paid to such person, having an insurable interest in his life, as he shall have nominated by written designation duly executed and filed with the Board prior to the effective date of his retirement; or

Option 3. Modified Joint and Survivor Allowance. Upon the death of a retirant his reduced retirement allowance shall be continued throughout the life of and paid to one-half of said reduced retirement allowance to such person, having an insurable interest in his life, as he shall have nominated by written designation duly executed and filed with the Board prior to the effective date of his retirement; or

Option 4. Modified Joint and Survivor Allowance. Upon the death of a retirant his reduced retirement allowance shall be continued throughout the life of and paid to two-thirds of said reduced retirement allowance to such person, having an insurable interest in his life, as he shall have nominated by written designation duly executed and filed with the Board prior to the effective date of his retirement; or

(b) If any benefits become payable under section 23 hereof on account of death of a retirant who was receiving a retirement allowance under either option 2 or 3 above, no retirement allowance shall be paid to his designated beneficiary under the said option 2 or 3. If the said retirant dies before he received in retirement allowance payments an aggregate amount equal to, but not exceeding, his accumulated contributions standing to his credit in the annuity savings fund at the time of his retirement, the difference between his said accumulated contributions and the said aggregate amount of retirement allowance payments received by him shall be paid from the retirement reserve fund to his said designated beneficiary, or to his legal representative.

Section 18.2. Any member who continues in the service of the City on or after the date he either (a) acquires 25 years of credited service or (b) attains age 55 years and has 10 or more years of credited service, whichever occurs first, may elect to receive his retirement allowance payable throughout his life, and nominate a beneficiary, in accordance with the provisions of option 1, 2, or 3, as hereinafter set forth. If a member does not have an option election in force at the effective date of his retirement his retirement allowance shall be paid as a regular retirement allowance.

Option 1. Cash Refund Annuity. If a retirant dies before he has received in the annuity portions of his reduced retirement allowance an aggregate amount equal to his accumulated contributions standing to his credit in the annuity savings fund at the time of his retirement, the difference between his said accumulated contributions and the said aggregate amount of annuity payments received by him shall be paid to such person or persons as he shall have nominated by written designation duly executed and filed with the Board. If there be no such designated person or persons surviving the said retirant, such difference, if any, shall be paid to his legal representative. No benefits shall be paid under this paragraph on account of the death of a retirant if he elected option 1, 2 or 3 provided for in section 18.1 hereof.

Section 18.3 Any member who continues in the service of the City on or after the date he either (a) acquires 25 years of credited service, or (b) attains age 55 years and has 10 or more years of credited service, or (b) attains age 55 years and has 10 or more years of credited service, whichever occurs first, and does not have an option 2 election in force, as provided in section 18.2 hereof, and (1) dies while in City service, and (2) leaves a widow, or in the case of a female member leaves a widower whom the Board finds to be totally and permanently disabled and to have been dependent upon the said female member for at least 50 per cent of his support due to lack of financial means, the said widow or widower, as the case may be, shall be entitled to receive the same retirement allowance to which the said beneficiary would have been entitled if the said member had (1) retired the day preceding the date of his death, notwithstanding that he may not have attained his voluntary retirement age; Provided, that the said option 2 shall be applied to a retirement allowance computed according to section 17 (a) and (b) hereof for a beneficiary of a deceased covered member, and according to section 17.1 hereof for a beneficiary of a deceased non-covered member, and (2) a member with an option 2 election in force at the time of his retirement, his said election of option 2 and nomination of beneficiary shall thereafter continue in force, unless prior to the effective date of his retirement he elects to receive his retirement allowance as a regular retirement allowance or according to any option provided for in section 18.1 hereof. No benefits shall be paid under this section on account of the death of a member if any benefits are paid under section 23 hereof on account of his death.

Section 18.3 Any member who continues in the service of the City on or after the date he either (a) acquires 25 years of credited service, or (b) attains age 55 years and has 10 or more years of credited service, whichever occurs first, and does not have an option 2 election in force, as provided in section 18.2 hereof, and (1) dies while in City service, and (2) leaves a widow, or in the case of a female member leaves a widower whom the Board finds to be totally and permanently disabled and to have been dependent upon the said female member for at least 50 per cent of his support due to lack of financial means, the said widow or widower, as the case may be, shall be entitled to receive the same retirement allowance to which the said beneficiary would have been entitled if the said member had (1) retired the day preceding the date of his death, notwithstanding that he may not have attained his voluntary retirement age, (2) elected option 2 provided for in section 18.1 hereof, and (3) nominated his said widow or widower, as the case may be, as beneficiary. No benefits shall be paid under this section on account of the death of a member if any benefits are paid under section 23 hereof on account of his death.

Section 19. Upon termination of the statutory period for payment of his workmen's compensation, if any arising on account of his City employment, or at his attainment of age 65 years, whichever occurs first, a disability retirant shall be given service credit for the said statutory period and his disability retirement allowance shall be adjusted to include such additional service credit. In no case shall his said adjusted retirement allowance payable to his attainment of age 65 years be less than his weekly workmen's compensation benefits converted to an annual basis.

Section 23. In the event (1) a member dies as the result of a personal injury or disease arising solely and exclusively out of and in the course of his employment, with the City, or (2) a disability retirant, while in receipt of workmen's compensation on account of his City employment, dies prior to his voluntary retirement age as the result of the same injury or disease for which he was retired, and in either case (1) and (2) such death, injury or disease resulting in death, be found by the Board to have been the result of his actual performance of duty in the service of the City, the applicable benefits provided in paragraphs (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e) of this section shall be paid subject to the condition that the beneficiaries eligible to pensions apply for and are in receipt of workmen's compensation on account of the death of the said member or retirant.

(a). In the case of a deceased member, his accumulated contributions standing to his credit in the annuity savings fund shall be paid according to section 26 hereof.

(b). His widow shall receive a pension equal to her workmen's compensation converted to an annual basis. Said widow's pension shall begin upon termination of the statutory period for payment of her workmen's compensation and shall continue until her remarriage or death.

(c). His unmarried child or children under age 18 years shall each receive a pension equal to such child's workmen's compensation converted to an annual basis. Said child's pension shall begin upon termination of the statutory period for payment of the child's workmen's compensation and shall continue until his adoption, marriage, attainment of age 18 years, or death, whichever occurs first. If a widow's pension is terminated each such child's pension shall be increased by an equal share of said widow's pension.

(d). His parents shall each receive a pension equal to such parent's workmen's compensation converted to an annual basis. Said parent's pension shall begin upon termination of the statutory period for payment of the parent's workmen's compensation and shall continue until his remarriage or death.

Section 24. If a person becomes entitled to a pension payable from funds of the retirement system as the result of an accident or injury caused by the act of a third party, the City shall be subrogated to the rights of the said person against said third party to the extent of benefits which the City pays or becomes liable to pay.

Section 25. (a). At least once each year during the first 5 years following the retirement of a member with a disability retirement allowance, and at least once in each 3 year period thereafter, the Board may, and upon the retirant's application shall, require any disability retirant, who has not attained his voluntary retirement age, to undergo a medical examination to be made by or under the direction of the Medical Director. Should any disability retirant who has not attained his voluntary retirement age refuse to submit to such medical examination in any such period, the Board may suspend payment of his disability retirement allowance until his withdrawal of such refusal. If such refusal continues for one year all his rights in and to a disability pension shall be forfeited by him. If upon such medical examination of the said retirant, the Medical Director reports to the Board that the said retirant is physically able and capable of resuming employment with the City he shall be returned to active service in the employ of the City and his disability retirement allowance shall terminate; Provided, the report of the Medical Director to the Board that the said retirant is physically able and capable of resuming employment with the City shall again become a member of the retirement system. Should his said reemployment occur within a period of 3 years from and after the date he last separated from City service, the credited service forfeited by him at the time he last separated from City service shall be restored to his credit. In the event a member becomes a retirant or dies he shall thereupon cease to be a member.

Section 13. War Service Credit. Should an employe who while employed by the City be called or enlists, or was called or enlisted, in the military, naval, marine, or other armed service of the United States Government during time of war, or other national emergency recognized by the Board, and should such member be reemployed by the City within ninety days from the date of termination of his required enlistment, then such war service shall be credited to him as City service; provided, that in all cases of doubt, the Board shall decide the amount of service to be credited to such person. During the period of such service rendered by a member to the Federal Government, his contributions to the Annuity Savings Fund shall be suspended and the balance in the Annuity Savings Fund standing to his credit as of the last payroll date preceding his leave of absence from City service shall be accumulated at regular interest.

Voluntary Retirement

Section 15. Any member who has attained or attains his voluntary retirement age and has 10 or more years of credited service may retire from City service upon his written application filed with the Board setting forth at what time, not less than 30 days or more than 90 days subsequent to the execution and filing thereof, he desires to be retired.

(b). Any member who has attained or attains his normal retirement age, as provided in paragraph (a) of this section, may be continued in City service for periods not to extend beyond his individual balancing in the annuity savings fund at the beginning of the fiscal year, and on the mean assets credited to the retirement reserve fund. The amounts of interest so credited to the annuity savings fund and the retirement reserve fund shall be charged to the pension reserve fund.

Section 33. The right of a person to an annuity, a pension, a retirement allowance, to the return of accumulated contributions, the annuity, the pension, or the retirement allowance itself, any optional benefit, any other right accrued or accruing to any member, retirant, or beneficiary under the provisions of this Chapter, and the moneys belonging to the retirement system shall not be subject to execution, garnishment, attachment, the operation of bankruptcy or insolvency law, or any other process of law whatsoever, and shall be unassignable, except as is specifically provided in this Chapter: Provided, that the City shall have the right to retain from any sum arising from embezzlement by or fraud of a member.

Section 34. Should any change in the records result in any member, retirant, or beneficiary receiving from the retirement system more or less than he would have been entitled to receive had the records been correct, the Board shall correct such error, and as far as practicable shall adjust the payment in such manner that the actuarial equivalent of the benefit to which the said member, retirant or beneficiary was correctly entitled shall be paid.

Section 35 (a). Members' employes social security taxes retroactive from the social security date to the extent necessary, to January 1, 1955, to the extent required, shall be paid from their respective individual accounts in the annuity savings fund unless such payment is otherwise provided for.

(b). The employer's social security taxes retroactive from the social security date to January 1, 1955, to the extent required, shall be paid from the retirements system's pension reserve fund.

The 1956 amendments to Chapter 18 of the City Charter shall become effective as of social security date as defined in sub-paragraph 2.26 of Section 2.

(c). According to such rules and regulations as the Board may from time to time adopt, any member who retires prior to his attainment of age 65 years may elect to have his retirement allowance equated on an actuarial basis to provide an increased retirement allowance payable to his attainment of age 65 years and a reduced retirement allowance payable thereafter. His increased retirement allowance payable to his attainment of age 65 years shall approximate the sum of his reduced retirement allowance to be payable after his attainment of age 65 years and his estimated social security primary insurance amount.

(d). In the event a retirant dies before he has received in retirement allowance payments an aggregate amount equal to his accumulated contributions standing to his credit in the annuity savings fund at the time of his retirement, the difference between his said accumulated contributions and the said aggregate amount of retirement allowance payments received by him shall be paid to such person or persons as he shall have nominated by written designation duly executed and filed with the Board. If there be no such designated person or persons surviving the said retirant, such difference, if any, shall be paid to his legal representative. No benefits shall be paid under this paragraph on account of the death of a retirant if he elected option 1, 2 or 3 provided for in section 18.1 hereof.

(e). In the event a covered member, who is a member at the social security date, retires prior to the date he acquires social security fully insured status on account of his City employment, the pension portion of his retirement allowance shall not be less than the sum of (a) $120.00 plus (b) 1-115 of his final average compensation multiplied by the number of years, and fraction of a year, of his credited service rendered after December 31, 1945; plus (c) 1-90 of his final average compensation multiplied by the number of years, and fraction of a year, of his credited service rendered prior to January 1, 1946.

Except as otherwise provided in this Chapter, should any member separate from the service of the City for any reason, except to become a retirant or his death, he shall thereupon cease to be a member and his credited service at the date of his said separation from service shall be forfeited by him. In the event he is reemployed by the City he shall again become a member of the retirement system. Grains Move Little Lower

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains tilted a little lower in routine dealings on the Board of Trade today.

An exception to the slightly easier tone in feed grains was July corn, which bounded up more than a cent at one time on short covering. It subsequently lost this gain, however.

July soybeans very weak in the previous session added a little to its loss. Trading in all July futures ends at the close of the market today.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ⅜ to 1⅛ lower, July $2.14⅜; corn unchanged to one cent lower, July $1.53⅝; oats ⅛ to ⅜ lower, July 75½; rye unchanged to ¾ lower, July $1.37; soybeans one to three cents lower, July $2.56¾; lard 10 lower to two cents a hundred pounds higher, July $11.37.

Wheat again had to absorb hedging pressure but it continued to attract support from traders who believed the price eventually will work higher. Portugal was scheduled to buy two cargoes of hard wheat but otherwise there was no export business.

School Officials Rule Smoke Room Nuisance

LAWRENCE, Mass. (AP) — If Greater Lawrence High School students want to smoke during school hours they'll still have to do it in secret.

Suggestions that a "smoking room" be set aside for students during their leisure were frowned upon by five high school principals.

Lawrence High School headmaster Augustine A. Lawlor summed up the opposition with the statement, "It would be a nuisance."

Stock Market Moves Upward

NEW YORK (AP)—Under leadership by aluminums and coppers the stock market advanced in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

Gains ranging to around two points were made by pivotal issues while most losses kept within a point.

The session started on a very quiet and irregular note then did a quick turnabout as coppers stepped ahead and then aluminums joined with wider gains.

By mid-day the early gains were shaved below their best but the list was solidly ahead. Steels firmed, also, on the rise but relapsed to about an unchanged position except for Youngstown Sheet & Tube which rose a point.

Aluminums gained best as a group with advances running about two points at best. Coppers moved up around the one-point zone.

Renewed efforts to settle the steel strike following the government's edict backgrounded action of the industrials and rails but seemed to have little impact one way or the other.

At noon the Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 30 cents to $188.60 with the industrials up 60 cents, the rails down 10 cents and the utilities up 30 cents.

Kaiser Aluminum, and Aluminum Ltd. kept to the plus side by around two points while Alcoa and Reynolds Metals were ahead better than a point each.

American Telephone continued yesterday's rise with another fraction. Motors were fairly steady with Chrysler ahead a small fraction. Mack Trucks rose more than a point on its record earnings report.

Club, Township Feuding Over Bennett Boathouse

DETROIT (AP)—A fabulous boathouse, once the retreat of Harry H. Bennett, righthand man of the late Henry Ford, is the center of a court fight today.

Located down the Detroit River in Grosse Ile, the seven-room boathouse built on the lines of a Chinese pagoda, is sought by a group of executives as site for a social club.

The Grosse Ile Social Club filed for a writ of mandamus yesterday in Wayne County Circuit Court for a zoning certificate from Grosse Ile Township.

Robert L. Wittbold, club president, said the group leased the property early this spring from its owner, a Detroit appliance firm. The masonry and stucco boathouse and 2½ acres of surrounding land have changed hands several times since Bennett owned it. Bennett, onetime personnel chief of the Ford Motor Co., lives in California.

TRYING FOR 3 MONTHS

Wittbold said three months ago his group applied to the township for a zoning certificate to establish a private, non-profit social club. He said the club was made up "primarily of young executives and professional people who reside in the downriver area."

He said the township, in effect, denied the application by "failing to act on it." The court action is intended to force the township to grant the application, he added.

The boathouse, built about 1935, would cost "in the neighborhood of a quarter of a million dollars to replace at today's prices," Wittbold said. It has three bedrooms a den, living room, dining room, kitchen and three baths on the main floor which is built out over the river.

* * *

Beneath the main level are a huge recreation area, two baths, a furnace room and two big boat wells. One of the boat wells is about 80 feet long; the other about 50 feet.

Although vacant for nearly two years, Wittbold said, the property, which also includes a stable and a sprawling barbecue pit would need only a few changes for use as a club site.

Wittbold said under township zoning regulations the club's application is valid. Regulations permit use of property for fraternal, social civic or religious purposes, he added.

He said the township offered no reason for failure to act upon the application.

Straley Suspends Detective Hoffman

Det. Olin E. Hoffman was suspended last night from the Pontiac Police Department.

Chief Herbert W. Straley confirmed this morning that Capt. Oliver Lemeaux had made the suspension, on orders from Straley.

Hoffman, on probation for one year after a police trial board hearing June 11, can be fired by Straley without further action by the board.

The suspension came after superior officers reported that Hoffman had violated police rules and regulations, Straley said. He said the reports included drinking while on duty.

Straley said he would investigate the reports and make a decision in the suspension "within a few days."

Hoffman, 41, has been on the force s ince 1942. He has a wife and five children.

Whales Assist Wartime Study

Australian Navy Uses Habits of Sea Mammal to Aid Skindivers

MELBOURNE, Australia—Ways in which techniques of modern underwater warfare might be assisted by research into the physiological functions and physical capabilities of whales are being investigated by the medical branch of the Royal Australian Navy.

* * *

The investigation may produce knowledge that will be of value not only to frogmen and deep-sea divers in the Navy. It may, incidentally benefit amateur aqualung divers who engage in diving as a sport.

The Minister for the Navy, Senator Neil O'Sullivan, said that whales that had been harpooned by whaling ships could dive immediately to a depth of 500 fathoms and at once rise again to the surface.

The maximum depth to which a human diver could descend, and from which he could ascend, immediately was 150 feet. If he exceeded that depth and tried to return without a decompression period he would suffer agonizing "bends" and might die as a result of deficiencies that were brought about in his blood.

Divers who descended more than 150 feet had to be brought to the surface in stages, otherwise they, also, would become affected by the "bends."

* * *

If study of the metabolism, heartbeats, general physiology and anatomy of whales could help to modify the limitations imposed upon frogmen and divers, and eliminate at least some of the time spent in staging, the efficiency of methods that would be used in future underwater warfare would be appreciably increased, the Minister said.

Plays Himself in Video Series

New Show Follows Up His Successful Role in 'My Little Margie'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — For a guy who was supposed to be retired from the acting business, Charles Farrell certainly leads an active career.

* * *

Several months ago, the former movie star finished up the massive chore of making 128 half-hour TV films in the My Little Margie series with Gale Storm. Now he's embarking on another series called, oddly enough, The Charles Farrell Show.

You can see it as the I Love Lucy replacement on CBS these summer Mondays. You'll find Charlie playing Charlie Farrell, owner and host of the exclusive Racquet Club in Palm Springs. The situations may be exaggerations of his actual life among the desert vacationers, but that's television for you.

* * *

"We're just doing 12 shows as a summer replacement," the actor commented.

"If the show gets a good enough rating, it might go on regularly, providing they can find a time slot for it. Everyone seems to be happy with the films we have done so far, and it could happen."

* * *

The films are being made at Hal Roach Studios, where Charlie put in his long service with "Margie." But the company also spent a few days in Palm Springs to get some outdoor shots of the Racquet Club. The actual locale was no problem, but the real guests at the club were.

"We had hoped to get some of them into the films, but ran into problems," Charlie remarked. "Groucho Marx was all set, then he said, 'I have a sneaking suspicion this show is on CBS.' He is under contract to NBC.

* * *

"Rock Hudson and Tab Hunter were at the club then, for a photo layout, but their studios wouldn't let them appear. However, we did get Bob Hope."

Parliament Supports Eden Cyprus Policy

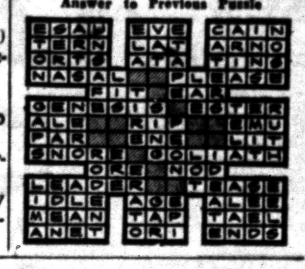

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Eden's Conservative government today had a solid parliamentary stamp of approval on its policy for strife-riddled Cyprus.

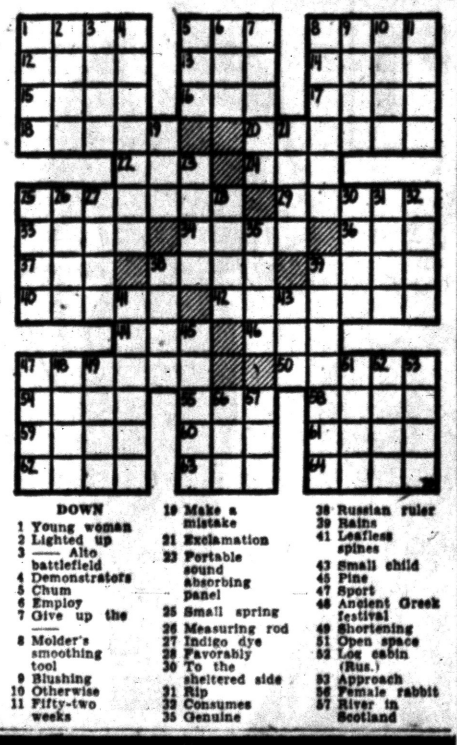

By a 319-246 vote, the House of Commons last night rejected a Labor motion to censure Eden's handling of the Cyprus dispute. Greek Cypriots on the Mediterranean island colony are waging a campaign to end British rule and join Cyprus with Greece. British forces have replied with stern measures to an underground campaign of violence.

The Laborites demanded that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization be asked to mediate "before there is nothing left of NATO in the eastern Mediterranean." The Eden Government opposes such a move.

Mexico had 411,752 tourists in 1954 compared to 549,314 in 1955.

'Met' All Set, if Its Singers Haven't Quit

NEW YORK (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera's voices of silver and gold will ring out again this year if the Met can get back its star singers.

* * *

A labor dispute which caused cancellation of the 1956-57 season Tuesday was virtually ironed out. Met officials said the only problem now is the availability of the key singers, some of whom might have made other arrangements in Europe.

There is "no way of knowing what has happened the past 48 hours in Italy," a Met official said. He added that because of the highly competitive situation in opera, leading singers might have been signed up by European operas as soon as the Met's cancellation of the season was announced.

The labor trouble stemmed from a dual labor-management role of Robert Herman, a Met employe. The American Guild of Musical Artists, representing most of the Met's singers and dancers, objected to Herman's management function.

* * *

Al Manuti, president of the big Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians, entered the dispute Wednesday. He offered a compromise proposal stipulating that the union will not prefer any charges against Herman until after the 1956-57 season.

Just Gets Out of Jail and Wants to Go Back

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP) — A man telephoned district court judge Charles F. Gadsby and asked for an appointment.

A short while later he appeared in person and stated his case:

"I just got out of the house of correction after serving 17 days of a 30-day sentence and I liked it down there so I want to go back," he said.

The judge obliged with a 10-day sentence for drunkenness.

Polio in St. Clair County

ST. CLAIR (AP) — A 9-year-old boy has been stricken with St. Clair County's first polio case of 1956. Physicians said he received two Salk polio vaccine shots. The case is non-paralytic.

Pickup Band Welcomes Home Circus

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—A Baptist minister played the trombone and a bank cashier beat the drums in helping give the circus a rousing welcome back home yesterday.

* * *

These musicians were part of a quickly organized band which greeted the first section of the Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey circus as it pulled into town.

On the first section were 18 cars of animal cages and three cars of circus personnel. Other sections came in later.

The train halted in the heart of this resort city for the celebration. There were big welcome banners, flapping flags, loud music from an old calliope.

The crowd wasn't as large as the city expected because the train pulled in an hour earlier than anticipated. But the music and noise soon packed 'em in around the small railroad station.

The circus pulled down its tent for the final time at Pittsburgh Monday. Now that it's back home, the big top a faces a very uncertain future.

* * *

John Ringling North, president of the circus, has added no more to his original statement Monday when he said the show would be back on the road next year in a different form and would play at air-conditioned arenas. Next year's opening date, as usual, will be at New York's Madison Square Garden, North said.

No More In-and-Out Treatment for Drunks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Chief of Police Frank Ahren blew the whistle today on San Francisco's "revolving door" policy for drunks.

* * *

It will be quite a change for this gay old city, founded by gold miners, painted ladies and card sharks.

For years the policy at the police department has been to put drunks in jail, hold them until they sobered up, then release them—all but the most persistent offenders—without a court appearance.

From now on, Chief Ahren decreed, all repeaters will have to face the judge.

The chief emphasized his new policy is aimed only at habitual drunks.

* * *

Federal statistics rate San Francisco the hardest drinking town in the country. Of 68,833 arrests last year, 43,709 were for drunkenness. Of the 43,709 cases, only 13,651 were taken to court.

Benson Plans to Attend Republican Convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson plans to attend the Republican national convention at San Francisco next month, his office said today.

Party officials said that doubtless the convention's platform committee would want to confer with the secretary in drafting a farm plank.

The platform is expected to endorse the flexible farm price support system Congress wrote in the law in 1954 and a new $1,200,000,000 annual soil bank program enacted in May, both on recommendation of President Eisenhower.

Hungarian Reds Upset After Rakosi Resigns

BELGRADE (AP) — Tension was reported last night among leaders of Hungary's Communist party after the resignation of party boss Matyas Rakosi.

Borba, central organ of Yugoslavia's Communist party, said in a Budapest dispatch certain reserve was expressed by leading Hungarian Communists toward the new party leader, Ernoe Geroe.

Geroe replaced Rakosi as first secretary of Hungary's Communist party.

Fighting Days Over for Oldest Battleship

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The USS Mississippi, oldest ship on active duty in the Navy, has made her final cruise, from the Norfolk Naval Base to the Norfolk Naval Shipyard at Portsmouth.

On July 31 she will officially leave the Atlantic Fleet and subsequently will be inactivated and stripped.

She has been in active service since her commissioning Dec. 8, 1917. During World War II she took part in eight major campaigns. These included the Solomons, Aleutians, Gilberts, Marshalls, Carolines, Leyte, Lingayen Gulf and Okinawa.

Since 1947 she has been classed as an experimental gunnery ship.

Troop Shake-Up in Far East Reflects Decision to Rely on Air, Sea Defenses

WASHINGTON (INS) — Top-level U. S. military strategists have decided to rely almost entirely on sea and air strength everywhere except in Europe.

* * *

This new approach to defense is reported responsible for Thursday's order pulling major Western ground forces out of Japan next year.

It is also behind a reported—and evasively denied—plan to cut U. S. ground forces 125,000 to 275,000 men over the next three years.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash) charged that the plan to cut military manpower "clearly implies the contemplated use of atomic weapons to counter small wars." He told newsmen, "there is a question of whether our Allies will support such a policy."

HEADQUARTERS SHIFT

Yesterday's order will shift the U. S. Far East Command, now headed by Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer in Tokyo, 4,000 miles east to Pearl Harbor and put it under command of Adm. Felix Stump, commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet.

Command of U. N. forces, also exercised by Lemnitzer, is to shift from Japan to Korea, presumably Seoul. The changes, effective July 1, will wipe out the Tokyo headquarters set up by Gen. Douglas MacArthur after World War II.

Since Stump's new command includes air, ground and sea forces and is expanded to take in all of Japan and Okinawa, the jurisdiction of Lemnitzer or his successor will shrink to the area of South Korea. There, Stump is ordered to "provide support."

* * *

The sweeping reorganization, involving also the Northeast, Alaskan and Caribbean commands, was announced by the Pentagon.

The announcement said no troop redeployment will be ordered "as a result of this action." But withdrawal of a large part of the 100,000 U. S. troops in the Far East is known to be under active consideration.

The U. N. command in Korea will be set up because of "the unresolved political-military situation" there. A small headquarters will be maintained in Tokyo for U. S. forces in Japan.

COMMAND ABOLISHED

The Northeast Command now under Lt. Gen. Glenn O. Barcus at St. Johns, Nfld., and embracing Greenland, will be abolished Sept. 1.

Command responsibilities for Northeast air defense will be taken over by Gen. Earle E. Partridge, Continental Air Defense commander at Colorado Springs, Colo. The Alaska Defense Command under Lt. Gen. Joseph H. Atkinson will be maintained, but Partridge will assume responsibility for air defense of Alaska. Stump will take over direction of Alaskan sea forces.

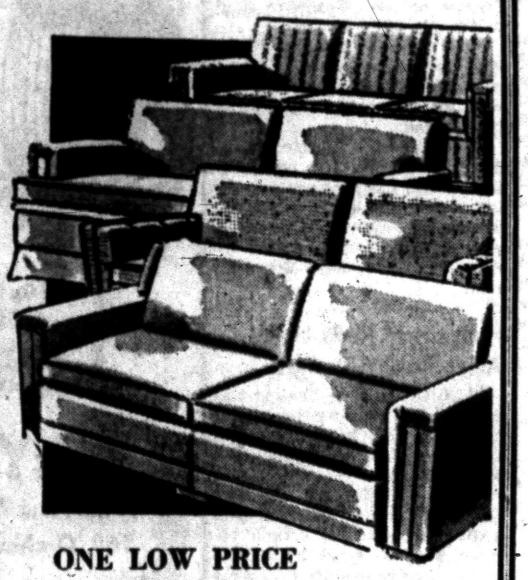

The Caribbean command under Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison at Quarry Heights, Canal Zone, is expanded to include all of South America and all of Central America except Mexico—a move to centralize consideration of Latin-American military problems.

The announcement said the Allied Command in Europe, in which Gen. Lauris Norstad soon will succeed Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, will remain "substantially unchanged."
