Bundestag OK on Paris Pacts Awaited Today

Narrow Margin Seen for Controversial Bonn Rearming

BONN (INS)— The bitterly divided lower house of the West German Parliament is expected to vote approval today, but only by a narrow margin, of the Paris agreements to rearm West Germany.

The furious debate in the Bundestag yesterday produced a split in chancellor Konrad Adenauer's coalition government when some of his free Democratic Allies decided to vote against the controversial Saar agreement, one of the interlocking treaties affecting rearmament.

However, members of the chancellor's Christian Democratic party with its numerical superiority and the smaller Germany party, along with a few dissidents from other parties, are expected to win approval of the second reading of the Paris accords by about 20 votes.

Adenauer reportedly will press for immediate consideration of a third reading in the hope of winning final passage by tonight.

(In Paris, meanwhile, new Premier Edgar Faure promised "very rapid" final ratification of the Paris agreements. The French National Assembly already has approved the accords but the council of the Republic (upper house) has yet to give consent.)

The Bundestag members were slated to discuss technical aspects of West Germany's entry into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, rearmament and stationing of foreign troops in West Germany before proceeding to take a vote.

Stormy debate marked yesterday's session, particularly after Dr. Max Becker of the Free Democrats announced his party's refusal to support the Saar agreement with France.

Becker contended that the Saar agreement would mean years of discord between France and Germany and protested that "young Germans can only be-

Auto Tag Sales Hit New High

License Manager Says 9,000 More Motorists Still Lack Plates

Sales of 1955 license plates zoomed to a new high yesterday when 2,000 of the new green-and-white tags were issued at the Pontiac secretary of state's office.

Manager Willis M. Brewer estimated that about 40,000 plates had been issued so far, but he said about 9,000 more motorists still need new tags.

Brewer said his office will probably issue some 2,500 plates today, and another 3,000 or more on Monday when the agency remains open until 9 p.m.

This, he pointed out, will still be short of number needed for the estimated 49,000 motor vehicles in the Pontiac area.

The local office, at 53 N. Parke St., will be open until 5 p.m. today.

He told his mother what he had done, but she didn't believe him until the big red fire engines arrived.

Asian Pact Nations Sure of Strength to Stop Reds

BANGKOK (AP)—The eight Manila Pact nations stood firmly today in the path of creeping communism in Asia, confident their alliance could stop the Reds.

They showed their determination to fight aggression in a three-day conference that ended late Friday. Delegations from the United States, United Kingdom, Pakistan, the Philippines, Thailand, Australia, New Zealand and France hailed the organizational work as a positive step against stopping the Communists.

Informed Thai sources said today that Manila meeting of military planners under the Southeast Asia defense treaty organization has been set for April 6.

The conference showed the world that:

1. The United States means to stand behind its Asian allies militarily, economically, culturally and spiritually.

2. That the best defense against

Pontiac Safety Ranking Jumps

National Report Shows City Now Stands 15th in U.S. Listing

The Pontiac Chamber of Commerce Safety Committee today quoted an annual report by the National Safety Council, citing Pontiac for climbing to 15th place among 85 U. S. cities in general traffic record improvement.

Following the committee's first meeting of the year, Chairman Clyde R. Haskill, disclosed that the city has jumped from 43rd place in 1953 when eight persons died as a result of traffic accidents here.

Five were reported killed last year. Pontiac had ranked 79th in 1951 when 16 were reported killed in traffic mishaps.

A detailed report of the city's traffic situation will be given next summer at an annual meeting with various officials attending.

The 14-member committee reviewed its 1954 safety programs and began planning this year's traffic safety campaigns.

The committee presented safety programs in 1954 for more than 60,000 persons, according to Haskill.

Congress Asked for OK to Build 3 New Atom Subs

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Navy wants permission from Congress to build three new atomic submarines and another super aircraft carrier.

Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas told the Senate Armed Services Committee yesterday that: "We are requesting a fifth carrier of the Forrestal class, seven destroyers, six frigates, two destroyer escorts, eight submarines including three nuclear-powered and three auxiliary vessels."

In addition, Thomas said, the Navy wants to modernize six aircraft carriers and convert other ships to guided missile and radar picket vessles.

Thomas pointed out that Russia is building up its naval strength and said it is important for the U.S. to maintain its "naval superiority."

Pontiac Elks 810 Launch New Expansion Program

Pontiac Elks Lodge 810 launched a $400,000 expansion program this week with the announcement that a new lodge building will be constructed on the present Orchard Lake Ave. site.

Good-will bonds will be sold to members with a $300,000 goal set by the building committee. These will be interest bearing. The additional $100,000 already is available in the reserve funds of the lodge.

Plans call for completion of the building this fall.

Monroe Osmun has been named general chairman of the campaign. Howard Powers is heading the bond sales teams and Donald J. Wilson will handle the publicity program. Judge Cecil McCallum is committee chairman of the legal arrangements with Walter A. Giddings serving as financial accountant for the project.

Building plans call for the razing of the old portion of the present building, with the newer section to be integrated with the new project.

The new building will measure 107 feet across the front on Orchard Lake in addition to the present lodge room which will be retained. It will extend 121 feet toward the rear of the property.

Floor plan includes a modern entrance and foyer with an adjoining secretary's office. There will be a lounge bar to accommodate 100 persons completely separate from the dining room. The lobby area extending across the front will have a full fenestration of glass windows with a fiberglas curtain to separate the lobby from the dining room.

The new dining room will accommodate about 1,000 people and may be divided into four sections by disappearing partitions. Adjacent to the dining area will be a new kitchen which will be large enough to handle the dining room at capacity.

Twelve bowling alleys will be included in the basement design with a separate bar room for bowlers and a locker room.

The present rathskellar is to be converted to a stag room. Other areas for a card room, billiard and pool table space have been provided.

Contractor for the structure will be J. A. Fredman Construction Co. of Pontiac.

No Mottled Teeth From Fluoride, Is Fargo Report

FARGO, N.D.—Told that a Pontiac citizen had charged that "mottled teeth are said to have appeared after only two years of fluoridation in Fargo," H. D. Paulson entered a flat denial.

The editor of the Fargo Forum asserted: "Anti-fluoridation forces initiated an ordinance prohibiting the City Commission from fluoridating our water. We had a city wide vote and fluoridation won by a rather wide margin. During the campaign we had strange reports brought in from all over the country. We checked a number of them and found they could not be substantiated. Mottled teeth among school children have not appeared in Fargo."

The charge here was laid in a letter in the Voice of the People signed: "Truth Will Win."

Killer Captured After Gun Battle

Slays Two Men, Then Holds Off 30 Police in 90-Minute Duel

APPOMATTOX, Va. (AP) — An Appomattox man early today shot and killed two men, police said, then fought a savage 90-minute gun battle with nearly 30 officers before he was wounded and captured.

Police said Frank Mayberry, 49, first shot his brother-in-law, then felled a physician who was called to the scene. Mayberry was charged with two counts of murder. He denied the shootings.

Authorities said they knew of no motive for the wild shooting spree, at the nearby south central Virginia village of Evergreen.

The dead were Jack Tucker, about 40, and Dr. David A. Christian III, about 34.

During the gun battle that followed the twin killings, police besieged Mayberry with hundreds of rounds of ammunition, tear gas bombs and flares.

Southfield Man Is Ranked Fifth in Justice Bid

Delegates Open State Convention Today at Grand Rapids

By BURDETT C. STODDARD
Pontiac Press Staff Writer

GRAND RAPIDS—Thomas Giles Kavanagh Jr., of Southfield Township, was conceded only an outside chance today of winning a Democratic nomination to run April 4 for Michigan Supreme Court justice.

The Detroit attorney was ranked fifth in the race for two high court nominations when party powers broke up a final pre-convention meeting at 4 a.m. today. The formal convention of 1,380 delegates started at 11 a.m. today to work through the afternoon to pick a slate of candidates to present this spring.

Kavanagh, 37, is pushed as a "favorite son" candidate by the Oakland County delegation.

There was little question that Circuit Judge Stephen J. Roth of Flint, would receive one justice nomination. The prime supreme court question revolves around selection of the other nominee. Pontiac attorney Clark Adams was urged last night to accept the spot.

Adams served briefly on the high court as an appointtee of Gov. Williams, but was defeated for re-election. He termed reports he would be drafted as "just rumors."

A controversy on the court question involves Port Huron Circuit Judge Eugene F. Black. He is a one-time Republican attorney general who bolted the party and announced candidacy for justice as a Democrat.

Black threw his hat in the ring last week after the GOP had nominated former State Treasurer D. Hale Brake, of Stanton, as one of their two candidates. Black and Brake have been at loggerheads since they served together in the administration of the late Gov. Kim Sigler.

Black is said to have a hard core of support, but his political flipflop appears not to set well with some party elements. Despite this, Black last night seemed to have the inside track for the second nomination. Spotted third and fourth in pre-convention strength behind Roth and Black, but ahead of Kavanagh, were Edward J. Ryan, of Kalamazoo, and Leon A. Cousens, of Detroit.

In event of a deadlock, some observers feel Adams may yet

Burma Chiefs, Dulles to Confer

Secretary in Rangoon for 'Full and Friendly' Talks With Leaders

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles today came here to have "full and friendly" talks with Burmese leaders.

Many Burmese believe Dulles is here to try to win Prime Minister U Nu over to the side of the West in the cold war, but the secretary said after his arrival:

"I did not come here to woo or be wooed."

The secretary flew to Rangoon this morning from Bangkok where the first conference of Manila Pact powers was concluded yesterday.

Dulles was greeted at the airport by Foreign Minister Sao Khun Hkio; the Australian, Indian, French and Pakistan ministers; and representatives of Nepal, Holland, Japan, Italy and Britain.

Dulles sped through police-guarded streets to the home of President Ba U. Later he called on Prime Minister U Nu whom he described as "one of the leaders for whom we have a great respect."

OVIEDO, Spain (INS) — A cat misjudged a jump, and the resulting damage at a farm near Oviedo was estimated at nearly $4,000. The cat tumbled into the farmhouse fireplace, raced into the barn with its hair on fire and dived into the haymaw. The barn burned to the ground.

Japan Election Tomorrow Will Shape Nation's Future

TOKYO (AP)—Japan votes tomorrow in a national election that will help set the nation's course in the cold war struggle between communism and the West.

It also will decide how fast Japan will rearm.

There are four major parties in the race, two conservative and two socialist. The Communists also are trying a minor comeback.

Predictions are that the conservatives will pile up a commanding margin.

At stake are the 467 seats of the House of Representatives, which elects the prime minister and makes Japan's laws.

A record 37 to 38 million Japanese men and women—75 per cent of those registered—are expected to vote. Women have voted in Japan only since the war.

It is Japan's sixth postwar election and her third since regaining independence in April, 1952.

The voters will choose among more than 1,000 candidates in 118 election districts from Hokkaido, within sight of Soviet-held territory, to Amami Oshima, near Okinawa.

These major parties are in the race:

1. Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama's Democratic party (conservative), which now holds 124 seats in the lower House. Hatoyama, 71, favors increased trade and diplomatic ties with Japan's Communist neighbors, Russia and Red China, but says he does not want to weaken Japan's strong bonds with the United States.

2. The equally conservative Liberal party of former Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, larg-

Senate Stalls Measure

Compromise Seen for Congress Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) and Rep. Walter (D-Pa) agreed today the House would demand some substitute for the tax-free fund which caused a surprise Senate rejection of a compromise on congressional pay raises.

The Senate shouted down the measure yesterday and sent it back to conference with the House. No further action is possible before Monday.

The bill carries a $22,500 salary for the lawmakers, $7,500 more than they now receive, in addition to the controversial $1,250 nontaxable allowance designed for excess office expenses.

Also included were increases of $7,500 to $10,000 in the pay of federal judges, and raises for the vice president, House speaker, U. S. attorneys and their assistants, and top justice department officials.

After the voice vote rejection of the bill worked out by a Senate-House conference committee, the Senate voted 62-7 to instruct its conferees to insist the tax-free fund be eliminated.

The same five conferees who acted previously were named by the Senate. Kefauver, head of the group, told a reporter he was sure the House would insist on some other concession as a substitute for the expense fund.

Rep. Walter (D-Pa), one of the original House conferees, said in a separate interview he thought the Senate now might have to give up a provision to give the lawmakers their expenses for five round trips home each year, in addition to the one round trip they now get at 20 cents a mile. It

Break in Sight for Gas Firms

Predict Move to Free 4,000 Companies From Federal Price Control

WASHINGTON (UP) —Informed sources predicted that a presidential committee on fuels resources will recommend today that some 4,000 independent natural gas producers be freed from federal price regulation.

The sources also predicted the committee will urge that voluntary steps be taken to restrict imports of residual fuel oil to the 1954 level.

The recommendations were expected to highlight a long-delayed committee report which the White House planned to release today. The report originally was due last Dec. 1, but was held up by the committee's inability to agree on policy decisions.

The report could have a tremendous impact on the nation's coal, oil and gas industries and their customers, ranging from the biggest industrial firms to owners of home furnaces.

A recommendation for congressional action to free independent natural gas producers from federal control would nullify a Supreme Court decision of last year in the Phillips Oil Co. case. The court ruled that under existing law, the Federal Power Commission must control the price of gas from the wellhead to consumer if the fuel is sold in interestate commerce. This brought thousands of heretofore exempt producers under federal regulation and set up new pricing standards for 30,000,000 consumers.

Opponents of such regulation claim it usurps state regulatory functions.

est now with 180 seats. The Liberals warn against going too far with Communist trade. They follow solidly American foreign policy.

3. The right Socialists, with 61 seats. They tend to favor a neutral course in the cold war and oppose rearmament, favored by both the conservative parties.

4. The left Socialists, with 74 seats. The leftists range from neutralism to pro-communism and are strongly opposed to rearming Japan.

5. The Communists, who have only one seat but have about 70 candidates in the race.

The two conservative parties—the Democrats and the Liberals—are split mainly over personalities and relations with Communist nations. If one or the other scores an outstanding victory, the winner may swallow the other.

38 Believed Dead in Australia Flood

SYDNEY, Australia (INS) — At least 38 persons are believed dead and another 40 are missing today in disastrous floods sweeping northern New South Wales.

Agence France Presse reported that broken communications have made it impossible to get a complete picture of the disaster and the death toll may grow when new reports are received from the stricken area.

In Inverell, a town of 3,000, the flood water swept through the streets, carrying away houses, cars and people. And the number of homeless has been set at well over 20,000 with more than 30 towns isolated.

Chiang Attacks Commie Craft

Two Vessels in Group Near Tiny Wuchiu Isle Are Reported Sunk

TAIPEI, Formosa (UP)—Nationalist warplanes early today attacked Chinese Communist craft northwest of the tiny island of Wuchiu in the Formosa Strait and destroyed two, air force headquarters reported.

The communique did not describe the type of tonnage of the Red ships. It said all Nationalist planes returned safely.

Earlier, the Defense Ministry reported Chinese Red gunboats shelled Nationalist-held Wuchiu but said it was not regarded as preliminary to an invasion attempt.

The Nationalist Ministry said the exchange of gunfire at tiny Wuchiu, 80 miles west of Formosa and less than a half square mile in area, broke out when 11 Communist gunboats and armed motorized junks happened to pass by.

A communique said two of the Red craft were damaged heavily.

In Taipei, Nationalist Premier O.K. Yui told the Legislative Yuan (Parliament) that Chiang Kai-shek's forces would "in no circumstances" give up Quemoy and the Matsus without a fight.

The Premier said those islands were vital to the defense of Formosa and the Pescadores and added that he believed American experts should agree. The United States is committed to defend unspecified areas which it deems necessary to the defense of Formosa and the Pescadores.

Press at Meetings Agreeable to MSC

ANN ARBOR (UP)—The regents of the University of Michigan, who opened their meetings to the press last fall, reported yesterday "it was an agreeable relationship."

Regent J. Joseph Herbert of Manistique said, "We have found their presence agreeable and we think they have been fair in their reporting."

H. F. (Bill) Bailey, general manager of the Adrian Telegram and chairman of the Freedom of Information Committee of the Michigan Press Assn., said:

"I, of course, am very happy about it. In my report to the MPA I told of our warm and agreeable relationship . . . I'm very happy about the way the plan is working. We've been able to get together on the matter of education in Michigan, both with the regents and the Board of Agriculture (governing body of Michigan State College)."

Area Democrats Boom Williams for Presidency

GRAND RAPIDS—The lobby of the Hotel Pantlind during the Democratic state convention here is buzzing with Williams-for-President talk.

Immediate past Oakland County Chairman Willis M. Brewer said the statewide delegation might pass an official resolution today endorsing Michigan's governor for the 1956 nomination.

The county group was generally enthused over the prospect of Williams taking a shot at the White House.

"Without a doubt, Williams' experience, attitude and sincerity stamp him as being presidential timber," stated Pontiac's State Representative Leslie H. Hudson.

Hayward Whitlock, Pontiac City Democratic chairman, said the governor's day-to-day job of running the state administrative machinery has been performed with the highest type skill.

"He has vote-getting power plus executive ability. He's our man," said Joe Hiltz of Waterford Township.

Adenauer retorted hotly that Becker's speech was "nationalistic" and said it caused "great harm to Germany." He emphasized that general settlement of Franco - German problems depended on the Saar agreement.

He also pointed out that the Saar agreement with France provided only a temporary settlement pending a final peace treaty.

The Chancellor said that the entry of West Germany into NATO, as provided for by the Paris accords, would mean that Germany would cease to be a "battlefield."

Kavanagh's Hopes for Nomination Dim be prevailed on to declare himself. Many say nothing can budge him.

All of the would-be candidates for each office toured caucus places last night making themselves known and stating their policies.

The other important battle is over the superintendent of public instruction nomination. The party wants a strong candidate able to win in April giving them all but one major state administrative post.

The favorite has been Lynn W. Bartlett, assistant superintendent of Grosse Pointe Schools. However, Mesick schools official William K. Baker launched a determined bid last night.

When delegates finally agree on the Supreme Court and public instruction issues, the remainder of the ticket, with one exception may be decided on a geographical basis.

The exception is Dr. Connor D. Smith, incumbent state board of agriculture member, who will get one of two nominations.

Fighting it out for the other spot are Harold E. Cuthbertson, of East Lansing, and former State Representative W. J. Bryan Jarvis, Berrien County farmer. Jarvis' geographical location was thought to be in his favor. Eugene B. Power, of Ann Arbor, and Paul Adams, former Sault Ste. Marie mayor, last night were running ahead of John M. Veale, of St. Clair Shores, for two nominations to the University of Michigan Board of Regents.

Frank Semperger, of Melvindale, is the announced candidate for the one post on the State Board of Education, but might encounter opposition if Veale decides to bid for the post instead of regent.

Both Neil Staebler, of Ann Arbor, and Adelaide Hart, of Detroit, are expected to be re-elected chairman and vice chairman respectively, without opposition.

The Oakland County group caucused until 3 o'clock this morning. Paul Sutton, of Royal Oak, was elected permanent convention chairman, with Carlos G. Richardson, of Waterford Township, vice chairman; and Bessie Weatherstone, of West Bloomfield Township, recording secretary.

After a lengthy debate, the group decided it would cast its 86 votes, largest of any county outside Wayne, by every delegate voting individually.

Supporters of the unit rule system were voted down. They advocated letting the chairman cast the Oakland votes in a bloc for a single candidate.

Donald Adams, of Waterford Township, was re-elected to the state central committee. Others named to the state group were Leona Simmons, of Pontiac; Mrs. Harriet Phillips, of Huntington Woods, and Leonard Bennet, of South Lyon.

Driver Injured in Crash After Police Chase

Robert J. Hockey, 21, of 2426 Pinte Lake Ave., Keego Harbor, was hospitalized early today after leading West Bloomfield Township police on a 3-mile auto chase with speeds up to 95 miles an hour in a car which had been reported stolen.

Hockey, reported in good condition with possible head injuries at Pontiac General Hospital, is under police guard for investigation of reckless driving, auto theft and driving with suspended operator's license.

According to Pontiac and Bloomfield police, Hockey struck a utility pole and an abutment at Orchard Lake Ave. and Williams St. where the chase ended. Police said they began their chase of the auto when the driver ignored signals to halt at Orchard Lake road near Middlebelt road.

The auto which went into a spin, narrowly missing the pollice car, was reported missing by Richard Layman of 2307 Fordham, Keego Harbor, said police.

Sees Surprise in Nuclear Field

Father of H-Bomb Says Next Development May Be Radically Different

BERKELEY, Calif. (INS)—The so-called "father of the H-bomb," predicts that the next development in the nuclear field may be a complete "surprise" rather than simply a bigger hydrogen bomb.

In an article published in this week's issue of the magazine, Science, Dr. Edward Teller plays down his role in the development of the H-bomb and gives credit to many scientists including Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer. Oppenheimer has been denied security clearance because of asserted delaying tactics in H-bomb work.

Teller, now a University of California physics professor, relates that the idea of a thermonuclear reaction grew out of theoretical research on the possibility of harnessing energy of the stars.

Teller concedes the destructive power of the H-bomb but adds:

"We would be unfaithful to the tradition of Western civilization if we were to shy away from exploring the limits of human achievement."

"Where the next steps will lead I do not know. It is not likely that it will be just bigger bombs again. The world is full of surprises, and great developments rarely go along straight lines."

52 per cent instead of permitting them to drop to 47 per cent on April 1. It also would extend excise levies on liquor, tobacco, gasoline, automobiles and other items at present levels.

Byrd said he believes the committee will strike out the Democratic-sponsored income tax cut which survived a 210-205 House vote before that chamber passed the bill 242-175.

But Sen. George (D-Ga), on whom Byrd was counting heavily as an ally, said in a separate interview that he wants to canvass the situation thoroughly before he decides what steps to take.

This statement represented an apparent change in views by the Georgia senator since President Eisenhower last Wednesday denounced the income tax cut as "reaching some kind of heights in fiscal irresponsibility."

Previously George had said that he considered the proposal "unwise and unfortunate" at this time.

House Democrats, headed by Speaker Rayburn of Texas, tightened their lines after eisenhower's statement and won what many of them considered a political victory over the administration. On the key 210-205 vote, the tax cut was supported by 205 Democrats and 5 Republicans, and opposed by 16 Democrats and 189 Republicans.

Billy Graham Starts Second British Tour Next Month; Huge Crowds Expected

LONDON (UP)—American evangelist Billy Graham touches off his second British crusade next month. There will very likely be the same problem as before—not enough seats and standing space for people who want to see and hear him.

Graham, who preached in London three months last year, drew turnaway crowds consistently. He packed in more at Wembley Stadium than the 1948 Olympic games. The handsome 36-year-old minister became the first person to fill both Wembley and White City Stadiums in a single day.

Graham's major "Back to God" effort this time will be in Glasgow, Scotland, beginning March 21. The arrangements committee is already wondering where it will put everybody.

* * *

Temporary seating to handle 11,000 persons is being erected in the exhibition auditorium of Glasgow's Kelvin Hall, where Graham will preach six weeks. Closed circuit television will bring his face and words to the overfow in another section of the hall where there are 3,000 permanent seats.

For a windup rally, the crusade committee is thinking of taking over Hampden Park, Britain's largest stadium, which can hold 140,000.

Graham will carry his crusade to London from May 14-21. Then he will tour major cities in continental Europe.

When he arrived in Britain last February, some sections of the press were concerned over his brand of vigorous evangelism, and there were predictions the staid British public would not warm to his "Decision for Christ" appeals. But when his exhausted team packed up after a three - month campaign, Graham had talked to more than 1½ million Britons.

Of that number, Graham gained some 36,000 converts. They were given cards and asked to hand them to a pastor of their choice. Recently there have been attempts to check on how well the conversions "stuck."

The Evening Standard said that it took a sample of 336 persons who had come forward after Graham's sermons. A check with 20 vicars showed only about one-third of the 336 could be called converts, the newspaper said.

The British Weekly, an interdenominational paper, found from 1,500 pastors that they had received 3,222 Billy Graham cards. Of these, 1,565 had been outside the church before hearing him, and about a year later 1,002, or 64 per cent, were still attending church services.

Applying its sample to the 36,000 converts, the British Weekly said 17,485 were outsiders or irregulars, and 11,196 were still attending church.

Graham's well organized counseling and follow-up unit says its checks with pastors showed 26,500 persons, or about 75 per cent, handed over their cards. Up to six months after the crusade, 86 per cent were reported still active in church.

Walter said if this is dropped, then the conferees might agree on $24,000 straight salary, $1,000 less than the House first voted but $1,500 more than the Senate put in its bill.

The tax-exemption feature on the expense fund was the principal issue raised against the compromise bill in the Senate yesterday.

Arguing against it were Sens. Barkley (D-Ky), Holland (D-Fla), Monroney (D-Okla), Williams (R-Del) and Knowland R-Calif).

SAGINAW (UP) — A Coast Guard helicopter was scheduled to join the search today for Charles Schramm, 10, and his 8-year-old sister, Georgianna, missing since Wednesday.

The youngsters last were seen about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday on the banks of the ice-swollen river. A search Wednesday night, Thursday and yesterday failed to turn up a single clue.

Say Campaigns Cheated Public

New York Probers Say Millions Raised by 3 Red-Front Groups

NEW YORK (AP)—State legislative probers say the public has been hoodwinked in the fund raising drives of three organizations listed by the U.S. attorney general as subversive.

At the close of three-day hearings yesterday the Joint Legislative Committee on Charitable and Philanthropic Organizations said it would seek to tighten laws on fund raising.

The three organizations under investigation were the Civil Rights Congress, the American Committee for Protection of the Foreign Born, and the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committe.

* * *

Committee counsel Bernard Tompkins said none of the three had registered under existing laws or told what had been done with money collected through public appeals.

"The generosity of the public had been perverted," said Tompkins, who earlier in the hearings had reported that the three groups in 12 years raised 3½ million dollars.

Sen. Edward P. Larkin (R-Nassau), chairman of the committee, said he would seek amendments to the present fund raising law so that it will definitely include organizations such as those probed.

The three groups have contended their political and civil rights projects do not place them in the category of charitable or philanthropic organizations, as specified in the present law. They are fighting the issue in the courts where there has been one ruling against them so far.

Dorothy Parker, a writer who headed one of the committee's drives, said she never bothered to check on how the money was used.

She said she had a firm belief in the committee's aims and never bothered to ask if there were Communists behind it. She declined, on the basis of the Fifth Amendment, to say if she was or ever had been a Communist.

Insecticides Put in Soil Curb Many Crop Bugs

URBANA, Ill. (AP)—Many crop insects now can be controlled by insecticides applied to soil at planting time. This fact is confirmed by a second year of experiments conducted by Dr. Harlow B. Mills, chief of the Illinois Natural History Survey of the University of Illinois.

The materials used in the experiments were dieldrin, aldrin, lindane and heptachlor.

Insects affected by soil treatments in cornfields included corn seed beetle, corn seed maggot, grape colapspis, wireworms and white grubs. The study showed that treated areas had larger yields than untreated areas in about four-fifths of the experimental cornfields.

Reductions of insects in garden crops were evident in onion and cabbage plots treated with aldrin. Turnip plots were successfully treated with heptachlor. Damage by bacterial scab, a gladiolus disease, was reduced by treating the soil for white grubs which are suspected of spreading it.

'Caboose Cook' Still Plys Art

Chef on Freight Train Keeps Crew Well-Fed on Icy Adirondack Run

OGDENSBURG, N. Y. (UP)—Brakeman Martin Fraser, the "chocolate pudding king" of the New York Central Railroad "caboose cooks" is hip deep in another winter in the rugged Adirondack Mountain line.

Fraser is one of the few remaining exponents of the once-familiar art of "caboose cookery," which is still practiced along the icy northern New York railroad runs.

Old-time railroaders can remember when any passing caboose exuded the aroma of freshly-made coffee. Now there are very few left familiar with such culinary pursuits.

But the crews of freight trains that daily chug their way through the heart of the Adirondacks are well-versed in cooking. The area they work in is known as the state's "icebox" — with drifts reaching 15 feet and mercury dropping to 30 below in the winter.

"We don't have any special recipes," said Fraser, "just plain good old fashioned cooking. In the winter, we especially like warmed up potatoes with onions and hamburgers cooked in.

"I'm known as the chocolate pudding king on the run," said Fraser. "I make the pudding in an old kettle and, I tell you, that fire I use is sure hot."

Caboose cooking came to life in the days when freight crews were away from home base for long stretches at a time. They considered the caboose home during those periods.

Most crews now have faster runs and spend less time in the caboose. As a result, caboose cooking has mostly given way to the lunch box.

But the Adirondack crews carry on the tradition. Long before the train is set to roll, the pot-bellied stove in the caboose has been stoked with coal.

Fraser said all the trainmen "are great lovers of coffee." And he added, "I dare say Lawrence McDonald of Norwood is the best coffee-maker on the division."

McDonald's secret is simple. "A clean pot and fresh coffee are a must," he said, "if you like to get it right."

He likes to recall one old-timer who had a sure-fire receipe and a widespread reputation for good coffee.

The word "orange" started out as "nurungo" in Sanscrit and became "narungee" in Hindustan, "naranj" in Arabian and "orange" in Provence.

Soviet Authors Again Toe Line on Red Policy

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — New evidence appeared today that Russian literature is being forced back into purely propaganda service of Stalinest days.

There was a time under former Premier Georgi Malenkov when it looked as if the boy-meets-girl theme which the rest of the world enjoys would be given a free rein also in the Soviet Union.

Russian writers in public conferences recognized that love has a place in literature as well as life. They were cautiously encouraged to develop the time-honored theme of romance and even to explore now and then some new ideas in writing.

That was a radical change from the days of Joseph Stalin when Communist party pressures left the writer only the function of serving as a propagandist for Stalinism.

But the old idea seems to be coming back under the post-Malenkov leadership dominated by Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev.

In an editorial, the Communist party newspaper, Pravda, on Feb. 22 asserted bluntly:

"Soviet literature in all fields should fully meet the demands of the policy of the Communist party and should contribute toward the implementation of this policy."

Millionaire Is Bitter

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Oilmen are laughing about one of their number who spent a pretty penny on a present for his wife.

"It's not true that my wife married a millionaire, she made me one," said the oilman with a trace of bitterness.

"That so?" said a surprised friend. "What were you before your marriage?"

"A multimillionaire!"

Hawaii Cabbie Tipped in Style

Elderly U.S. Pair Send Courteous Chauffeur to St. Louis Orchid Show

HONOLULU (UP) — Honolulu's orchid-growing cab driver, Tomi Tomiyasu, got more than the usual 10 per cent tip from two of his satisfied fares. An elderly Pasadena, Calif., couple rewarded his courtesy with a 6,500-mile round-trip to St. Louis, Mo.

The Pasadena visitors were passengers in Tomi's cab during their recent vacation in Hawaii and they presented the 35-year-old cabbie with a round-trip air ticket so he could attend the recent International Orchid Show in St. Louis.

The Californians, who asked that their names be withheld, explained that Tomiyasu had, with his kindness and courtesy, made their trip to the islands an unforgetable event. The ticket, they said, was just their way of saying "thank you."

"I just treated them like all my other fares," Tomi said. "They were sure a nice old couple."

Although the trip to St. Louis is the biggest tip Tomi has ever received, it's not his first extra dividend. During the nine years Tomi has been hacking in Honolulu, he has received scores of presents from mainlanders who return home giving him full credit for making their Hawaiian vacations a success.

The secret of Tomi's success in the taxi business rests on the fact that he likes people.

"I started out" he explained, "as a carpenter, but I felt there must be a little more to life than just driving nails. I was amazed at how much people appreciated the little things you did for them, especially the tourists."

Tomi took his cue from that, and made it his business to give the customers something more than just transportation from one place to another.

He ran errands for tourists, always had a thermos jug of hot coffee on hand on his tours of the islands, and made doubly certain that his fares didn't get gypped in their shopping tours.

"You have to answer lots of questions in this business," he explained, "and I had to do lots of studying to answer some of the questions that were thrown at me. I was surprised at how much I didn't know about my own home."

As a hobby, Tomi raises orchids, and his collection has grown to more than 1,000 plants. He is a member of both the Honolulu and American orchid societies, and his plants have won several awards.

Tomi's fares have been his best means of advertising. Visitors returning home have recommended him to their friends, and 80 per cent of his business now comes from tourists who have heard of but never seen him.

"It's lots better than driving nails for a living, and more fun, too," Tomi summed up.

OLD TIME FURNITURE—6
A Little Hooked Rug

The thrifty German settlers in Pennsylvania made colorful hooked rugs out of old clothing cut into strips. The cloth was pulled through canvas, knotted and trimmed off to make bright designs. You can make your own cut-out "Pennsylvania Dutch" hooked rug to place on the floor of your colonial room.

You can color the rug as you wish, perhaps with a yellow bird on a bright blue background. His head can be orange and his tail red. Also fill in the flowers and the edge of the rug. Paste the picture on stiff red paper and cut it out. Cut the dark lines around the edge down to the black dots to make the fringe. Now it should look like the rug in the small drawing.

To make a room for the furniture take the bottom of a cardboard box. You can color the walls a light brown if you wish and cut out windows and doors in the sides. Arrange the "Pennsylvania Dutch" furniture and rug in it.

Homer Beaver Gets Homesick, Returns to Mate

CRAWFORD NOTCH, N. H. (UP) — Homer became homesick.

He was one of two beavers who chewed through their wooden enclosure in Crawford Notch State Park and swam to freedom via inlets of water which run through the cage.

Arthur Boucher, the park manager, said he found Henrietta waiting outside the cage. She was recaptured.

A conservation officer, George Hamilton, who had live-trapped the beavers, was told about Homer and he said, "I'm afraid that's the last you'll see of that fellow."

But a few days later Homer was spotted waiting outside Henrietta's new cage. It took Boucher 10 minutes to obtain the cage keys, and Homer was still waiting when the park manager returned to put the mates together again.

Police to Jewel Thief

CHESTERTOWN, Md. (AP) — The odor of pickles led to an arrest on a charge of robbing a jewelry store.

Police Chief Howard Hadaway found a cap and jacket in the building which housed the jewelry store. There was the unmistakable odor of pickles on the clothing.

Hadaway followed his nose to a local plant which packs pickles and found a suspect at work with some of the loot in his possession.

Claim Pigs Brightest of Hoofed Animals

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Cornell University specialists say the pig probably is the smartest of the hoofed animals. The scientists, Dr. H. H. Dukes and Dr. A. U. Moore, say the horse "just isn't too bright."

Tests here showed pigs to be quickest of the hoofed group in responding to signals for food. The scientists say that pigs get no chance to show their intelligence because they usually go to market before they are a year old.

Given a chance, the specialists feel, the pig can be one of the cleanest of animals. He roots around in the dirt partly because the sensitive feeling device in his snout helps keep him in contact with his environment. In effect, pigs have "fingertips in their noses."

They rank the hoofed animals' intelligence as follows: pigs, mules, horses, goats and sheep. The specialist say cows probably rate below horses, but the evidence is not clear.

Grenade Blow Fatal

MANILA (AP) — A bandit gang raided a home in a tiny Ilocos Norte Province village. One carried a hand grenade in his pocket. As he fled through a window after the robbery, the pin accidentally was pulled. Police have been unable to identify the mutilated body of the victim.

Probation Camps for First Offenders

Under study in the Senate at Lansing is a bill that proposes establishment of probation camps for youthful first offenders.

The idea behind this bill strikes us as well worth trying. The aim is to avoid the necessity of sending such youths to prisons where they would come in contact with hardened criminals.

A further provision is that if a youth's conduct is satisfactory during probation, the record of his conviction would be erased. The argument for this plan is that many first offenders aren't basically bad, would learn their lesson in such camps and eventually become good citizens.

In the vast majority of cases this certainly would be better than allowing the convictions to stay on the record and thus hinder first offenders' chances for future success.

It is wiser and cheaper to save boys than to mend men.

France's New Premier

France has its 21st postwar premier after a 19 day cabinet crisis.

The new cabinet is headed by Edgar Faure formerly foreign minister and before that finance minister in the government of Pierre Mendes-France. Only four of the new ministers in the conservative coalition organized by Faure are veterans of the Mendes-France regime, and two of them have new posts.

★ ★ ★

The approval given Faure's ministry came after three other French political leaders—Pinay, Pelimlin and Pineau—had tried and failed to form a cabinet.

Although most of the new ministers have had previous cabinet experience, all will need some time to familiarize themselves with current problems before venturing important decisions.

★ ★ ★

A Radical Socialist, which means anything but that, Faure has promised to work for upper house ratification of German rearmament. He also is reported to have pledged efforts to arrange a Four Power conference with Russia and to work out an economic and social new deal for France.

Other problems his government will have to tackle include negotiations with Tunisia over internal autonomy. This is the issue that broke the backs of the Mendes-France cabinet.

★ ★ ★

When the vote count was completed, it was found that Faure had won Assembly approval 369 to 210. It may be indicative of the chronic political situation that Paris opinion considers this vote no guarantee the new government will last long.

GOP Convention Choice

Political circles still are buzzing with speculation over factors which dictated the choice of San Francisco for the 1956 GOP convention.

The news that August 20th was chosen for the start of the quadrennial gathering was less of a surprise than that it will be held in the famed Cow Palace in the Golden Gate city.

The most obvious reason for choice, of course, is that the August weather in San Francisco is ideally comfortable. The late date is in harmony with the increasingly widespread belief that Presidential campaigns should be shortened.

★ ★ ★

But there are other reasons for the GOP decision to go West and one of them is President Eisenhower himself. A growing number of Republicans insist he will seek nomination. California's political climate, thanks to the traditions of the Warren regime, is more in harmony with the Eisenhower Administration's ideals than Chicago.

★ ★ ★

Moreover, California's Governor Knight is a strong Eisenhower supporter. Then, too, the national committee had a chance to recognize the increased political importance of the State, now the Nation's second largest.

Finally, Chicago, where the Democrats will meet, is the strong-hold of anti-Eisenhower right wing Republicans. While San Francisco is certain to add glamor to a convention many believe predestined to renominate President Eisenhower.

Why Ship Subsidies?

Many an American, no doubt, has wondered why this country finds it necessary to pay ocean shipping companies operating subsidies.

The answer to that question is simple—the subsidy is paid to ensure the maintenance of an adequate merchant marine for use in the event of war. Additional information on this situation is supplied by President Joe Curran of the National Maritime Union CIO.

★ ★ ★

He points out that in October 1952, an American able bodied seaman's pay was $1.63 an hour or almost four times the British seaman's 47 cents. The necessity for the subsidy arises from the fact that our shipping firms have to compete directly with the British lines and all other low wage foreign shipping.

★ ★ ★

Without the subsidies, our merchant marine would wither and die and we'd have no adequate home controlled means of transporting critical materials vital to national defense.

Mighty Williams Strikes Out on Program for Roads

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING—Maybe the next time the Republicans ought to nominate Rep. Emil A. Peltz (R-Rogers City) for governor.

Because this choleric small town hardware merchant is the only man who ever slickered Gov. Williams and, as one sad Democrat said, "went racing back into the House with the governor's britches sailing out behind him."

Well, sir, you could have heard Williams holler from here to Baraga. He said the Peltz plan was "political feather-bedding," that it would dissipate the new money all over the state, that it was a creature of these evil old connivers, the county road commissions, and that if the Legislature dared to consider the Peltz bill he would probably veto it.

So finally Peltz, faced with the governor's iron determination to build up the main arteries fast, gave in and killed his own bill.

And then one day this week, newsmen found Peltz sitting across the governor's big desk playing euchre.

"Emil and I have compromised our differences," the governor said.

And what was the compromise?

Well, they would go for a cent and a half gas tax increase. (Score one for Peltz.)

They would increase the truck tax. (Score one for Williams.)

They would submit it to the people. (A draw.)

They would let local governments float revenue bonds. (Score one for Emil.)

They would let the state float revenue bonds, too. (Score one for Emil, because the state could already do that.)

And—watch it, the hand is quicker than the eye—they would distribute the money on the present formula, 56 per cent to local units. (The 64 dollars is yours, Emil, you earned it.)

Where was Williams' iron determination to have a 500-million-dollar bond issue? Where was Williams' frantic determination to devote the new money to a big, four-lane-divided-highway arterial system?

What was Williams doing in that political feather bed with the county road commissions?

Many in the Capitol are convinced that Sen. Creighton R. Coleman of Battle Creek put his finger right on it when he said Williams was willing to sell out the bright dream of a main arterial system to get something on the ballot this spring.

Coleman asked "Why?" and the Capitol these days is echoing and echoing and echoing "Why?"

Some say Williams thinks it will bring out a big Democratic vote in April. Some think Williams is desperately anxious to claim credit for a road building program—any road building program. Some think Williams is afraid to sign a tax increase unless the people have approved it first. Some think—?

But, in the Democratic caucus rooms, the labor lobbyist hotel rooms, the sad corners of the executive office, there is no joy tonight. The mighty Williams has struck out.

'Same Old Welder' Says He's Not Bitter Toward Police Department as Insinuated

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

"One Who Knows" (what modesty) asks how many tickets I've received from the police. I've only had three: one for arson, one for rape and one for negligent homicide. "One Who Knows" (what confidence in one's self) says I'm bitter towards the police. That isn't true and my letters don't indicate it. I can't help an absolute inability to comprehend by "One Who Knows."

"O.W.K." says if I were in the position of an officer disarming a holdup man. I'd "learn the difference between police officers and welders." Well, sir, I'll let you in on a secret. I know the difference now. That's why I'm a welder.

The Knowing One closes by saying no matter which way an officer turns, "there is always someone at his throat." In the last 15 years I have seen police officers exactly 19,473 times and never yet, not even one time, have I seen anyone at their various throats.

Could it be old "O.W.K." is exaggerating? I should sign this "Master Mind" or "Big Brain" and try to rate myself high like "One Who Knows." But I won't.

Same Old Welder

Mr. Ritter's Letter Brings in Replies

I would like to reply to Mr. Ritter as I don't like his letter and think a little enlightenment would not do him any harm. If he read the article which appeared right above his, signed "A Mother," he found an answer nearer the truth.

I do not belong to any church and still don't have to be told right from wrong.

This is what I think of the terrible indictment of which he writes. You cannot cure a sick and twisted mind in a church. I know of cases where it has happened to strict church members. One such case was near Chesaning, Michigan a few years back.

The boy's parents were church members and forced him to go to church with them. One evening he hid in the barn with a 22 rifle, waited for and shot to death his mother and sister, then ran away from home.

Well, the law caught up with him, as always, then what do you think happened, Mr. Ritter? Well, the boy was sent to an institution with a sick mind. Now I do not condemn churches but all the people who go there are not perfect, either. The parents of Floyd Diamond may have been just as good as you or I.

Too much church is just like too much of anything, drives people batty and helps fill our institutions. Why? A weak and sick mind.

A Reader

"A Mother" asks what we are going to do to keep our children from murdering or being murdered.

May I answer that for you? I am a father, and unfortunately, have a mentally retarded boy. I trust him with friends, relatives and strangers. He is a good boy because he has only been allowed to see and hear the good things of life and has been taught right from wrong since he was a baby.

We must also teach the normal children in the same manner. We believe in God and His teachings and attend church and Sunday School regularly. This is the one and only way to a sound and happy life. If this were practiced in every home there would be no evil.

No one is forced to watch an undesirable picture. When a picture of this type comes on our TV, our retarded boy turns it to something better or shuts it off.

Yes, "Mother" there is only one way out of all this terrible crime. That is the Holy Bible.

This is in reply to a letter from Ray Ritter of Hamilton St. in regard to that poor, unfortunate boy, Floyd Diamond, and his sorrowing parents.

Has Mr. Ritter thought of that passage in the Bible that says, "Let them without sin cast the first stone?"

Can Mr. Ritter honestly say that he is completely without sin? Who is he to say such things about the boy's heartbroken parents?

Mrs. Edward Galpin
80 Virginia Avenue

A lot has been said about the killing of Kathleen McLaughlin, but this is the most absurd thing I have had the misfortune of reading. It was written by Ray Ritter.

I'm not against the act of loving God, and going to church, because I do these things myself. But this is a free country. We have Freedom of Religion. You can't put people on trial because they don't take their children to church.

Don't you agree that only a mentally unbalanced person would commit a crime such as this and not just because he didn't go to church and love the Lord?

Pat Marshall
1080 Vinewood Avenue

I don't believe anyone but God has a right to pass judgment on the parents of Floyd Diamond. He knows everything . . . we don't.

Asks What Fluorine Has to Do With It

Will some ardent anti-fluoridation expert answer two questions?

How could Communists poison water that had been fluoridated any more easily than they could water that hadn't?

If these Russian water witches are going to poison the water, why will they hunt for fluoridated water?

Little Red Riding Hood

A few years ago, the Press started publishing letters without disclosing the name of the writers. I understand you have the names on file there in your office as an evidence of good faith.

How can there be "good faith" when letters distort the truth, ignore the facts and state things that are simply absolutely false? I think when it's clearly established that a letter is a falsehood, the Press should then publish the name of the writer.

It would act as a punishment that's deserved. Also, it would put other writers on guard. They wouldn't lie as glibly and easily if they knew their name would be printed later if their statements were proved wrong.

Reader

Editor's note—You have a good idea. When we print a letter in good faith and then later we find it's simply an outright lie, it shakes our faith in mankind. We feel as though we'd failed in our duty to our readers. Running the names of those who tamper with the truth may be the solution. Your suggestion has much merit. Editors in cities which have had fluoridation campaigns have been especially bothered.

Ellen Niedelson Cites Recreation Center Need

Do you think anything could be done about a recreation center for teenagers? I certainly think Pontiac needs one! For entertainment teenagers go to their "hangouts" or supply their own recreation that usually does damage to others.

I think this could easily be prevented if teens were given someplace they would enjoy going to. I can't seem to express how deeply I feel about this on paper, but I can assure you that we teenagers would certainly appreciate a recreation center.

I wonder if any progress will be made. I am 13½ years old.

'U.S. Money Abroad Creating Hatred'

In the Feburary 18 issue of the Pontiac Press there appeared a rather important article regarding our so great and helpful Marshall Plan to Europe and the rest of the "so-called" Free World by Bob Considine.

You should print such news on the front page. I am still receiving the "Pontiac Warrior," and believe it or not, another such article, appeared there by C. M. White, President of Republic Steel Corporation, who recently returned from Europe telling how our taxpayers' money is creating hatred among the people over there; not against Russia but the U.S.A.

So why not mind our own affairs and let them do the same?

Text of International Sunday School Lesson for tomorrow.*

Tomorrow Marks First Sunday in Lenten Season

DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Tomorrow is the first Sunday in the Lenten season, which began last Wednesday. Note that the six Sundays between Ash Wednesday and Easter are called Sundays IN, not OF, Lent. This is because the Sundays are not actually a part of the season. Lent is 40 days long—if the Sundays counted it would be 46 days.

Only English-speaking people call this season "Lent." The Latin, and perhaps more official name is "Quadragesima," which means 40 and refers, of course, to the 40 days of the season. That is, it does now.

Originally the reference was to the 40 hours between Good Friday afternoon and Easter morning, for at first the fast period in preparation for Easter was only those few hours long.

It was not until the Ninth Century that it was extended to the present 40-day duration.

We call the season Lent because that is what our Anglo-Saxon ancestors called it — from their word "lencten," which meant "Spring." More literally it meant "lengthen," Spring was the time of lengthening days.

In rural districts in Germany there used to be a strange ceremony connected with this first Sunday in Lent. People made a huge wheel out of straw, so big it took three horses to move it, and dragged it to the top of a neighborhood hill.

When night came they set fire to the wheel and rolled it down the hill. The people, carrying torches, ran behind the wheel, screaming and creating a great commotion. As the wheel stopped and burned itself out they all gathered around and ended the evening singing hymns.

The connection is no longer clear, but this burning-wheel celebration was supposed somehow to be a prayer for the earth and the crops of the coming season.

Methodists tomorrow come to the climax of their Week of Dedication which has become an annual event at the beginning of the Lenten season. Beginning on the Sunday before Lent, the week builds up with special meetings, prayer groups, mission study, and individual members' private devotions — all emphasizing the Methodists' new opportunities in many parts of the world.

On the first Sunday in Lent the Week of Dedication reaches its peak when the people express their concern in the tangible form of a special voluntary offering.

The origin of this Week was in the sudden and great changes that began to confront organized Christianity during World War II. New communities began to appear as American industry expanded.

Other population shifts were brought about by the establishment of vast army camps. It was a time of population shift and dislocation, and the church as it had existed was no longer adequately set up to minister to all the people's needs.

In the changing situation, leading Methodists as early as 1942 proposed a week of prayer, with an offering to be received at the end of the week. By the spring of 1943 the Week of Dedication was a reality, and the offering on this first occasion amounted to nearly a million dollars.

For the past week Methodists throughout the country have been learning about 10 special needs in places as far apart as Puerto Rica and Hawaii, for which $250,000 is required.

Tomorrow it is expected that members will back up their interest with an offering well in excess of the amount asked for.

Gossip among the offside-wingers is how is Malenkov going to get it?

He's the optional bird in the skeet shoot. And made the mistake of losing an election bet while in office.

Along the Volga the office seeks the man after he's left it.

Will he be invited for a stroll to Siberia during the blister season? Malenkov and Khrushchev put the whammski on Beria in 1953. It is a Moscovian rendition of "In a Purging Garden." Nobody carries the mail.

In this writer's bumble opinion Malenkov had better walk on eggs for the rest of his life. Which is liable to be shorter than Eton jackets.

The Kremlin is using the Stalin hail-and-farewell on Malenkov. You lull the mugg into a smog of security. Then you slip him the black bean soup.

Will they sing that old ballad, "Mally O?" Will they make him director of the undersea ballet at high tide? Will they let him pull-the-badger on the lion cage? Will they teach him the vertical mambo on a trapdoor?

Mally is going to get it sure as rough edges in the Alps. They will accuse him of pushing on the Volga rope. He will be charged with sabotaging the production of dust in old attics.

When the Kremlin gets a peg to hang the hat on they don't stretch the hat. They squeeze your head.

Artificial Heating of Home Dries Out Air Too Much

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

THE MAIL BOX

Moisture in the Air

Mother dries a large wash in the room where children sleep. Isn't the excessive moisture in the air injurious to the children's health? (Mrs. S. W.)

Answer—On the contrary, it is beneficial to the health of every one living in the house. Great trouble with indoor atmosphere in the season when artificial heating is necessary is that the air becomes excessively dried out. So the children are lucky at least on washdays.

Cod Liver Oil for Rheumatis

Our doctor advised my husband to take your Iodin Ration to perk him up. He said it is good for most people as they grow older . . . Do you think pure cod liver oil every day would help rheumatism or arthritis (Mrs. M.F.T.)

Answer—Instead of the Iodin Ration alone for folks of mature age who want to perk up, I suggest suitable daily rations of iodin calcium, phosphorus and vitamins B1 (thiamin), B2 (riboflavin) and D to supplement the everyday diet, as described in pamphlet Young Folks and Old Folks, for which send stamped, self-addressed envelope. The old timers prescribed a wineglassful of cod liver oil daily for chronic rheumatiz. A good remedy, as far as it went—it provided at least iodin and vitamin D.

Or Mashed Potato Either

I can't agree—the Dr. Brady who has taught us the health value of plain wheat now tells us that honey has no health or remedial value that ordinary sugar or syrup does not have . . (R. E.)

Answer—If you like it, honey is excellent food, and for that matter, so is mashed potato. But so far as health and nutrition are concerned, there is no convincing evidence that honey is preferable to plain sugar or syrup or that mashed potato is preferable to baked, boiled, or shoestring.

Everyone Should Know How to Breathe

I have found the belly breathing exercise, described in Little Lesson 21, especially good for relaxing when I am tensed up and unable to get to sleep . . . (M. L. T.)

Answer—Thank you. It tends to equalize circulation, warm cold feet and induce natural sleep. For 21, How to Breathe, send 25c and stamped self-addressed envelope.

Thirty Pounds is Only Part of It

I used to weigh 100 pounds soaking wet. I followed the suggestion in your pamphlet, drinking a pint of milk at bedtime, and have gained 30 pounds . . . (Miss D. C. H.)

Answer—In the pamphlet I say 20 pounds in a year. For the pamphlet How to Gain Weight send stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bed-Wetting Habit

Following your suggestions for bed-wetting resulted in complete cure in unbelievably short time. Deeply grateful. (Mrs. C. L. J.)

Answer—Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet on Bed-Wetting Habit.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to the Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Mich.

Ex-Bookie Facing $7 Million Tax Lien

NEW YORK (UP) — Harry Gross former big-time bookmaker soon eligible for parole, faces a government claim for $7,328,700 in back income taxes and penalties.

A lien for this sum was filed yesterday by the Internal Revenue Department on any cash or property Gross and his wife might have. The department said they owe the money for the years 1946 through 1950 but did not specify the amounts for each year.

Gross, one-time head of a 20-million - dollar - a - year bookmaking empire, has been serving a six year sentence in Bronx County Jail. With time off for good behavior, he will be eligible for parole next month.

Skunks Evict Chicago Family

Mom, 4 Children Are Forced to Leave Home as Animals Take Over

CHICAGO (UP) — A family of skunks has forced Mrs. Helen Luther and her four children to leave their home again, the third time in 11 days.

The Luthers are separated in four homes of friends and neighbors in suburban Winthrop Harbor.

The skunks moved in under the house last summer but caused no trouble. But they started raising a fuss the night of Feb. 14 and made the home unsuitable for living. The Luthers moved out the next day.

* * *

Five days later Mrs. Luther returned home with her children. The next day they left. Mrs. Luther, who is clerk of the village, sought help from police and firemen. They found the terrain unsuitable for a fight and their mission was not accomplished.

Police expressed belief that tear gas might make things worse. Exterminating companies have shied away from the job of routing the skunks.

So Thursday night the Luthers returned home. They made a hasty retreat again yesterday, going their separate ways as the skunks appeared to remain united, and determined.

Mrs. Luther says she is in favor of any idea that will help her get rid of the skunks.

She added she would welcome suggestions. She hopes the mailman will be able to get close enough to her mail box to deliver them.

Phoenix Visitors Get Sightseeing Trip on City Bus

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UP) — City officials believe Phoenix is the only municipality in the United States sponsoring sightseeing and historical tours.

Louis Messinger of the Phoenix Parks and Recreation Department suggested formation of the Visitors Club a year and a half ago. He started it as a hobby. Now it is a regular organization sponsored by the city.

Visitors are taken on weekly tours to points of interest. Messinger goes along as guide and narrator.

Each tour is limited to 30 persons in a city bus. One of the features of the tours is a picnic, with food and coffee supplied by the Parks Department and prepared over a camp fire in the desert.

Although most of those making the tours are visitors from other states, there is one Phoenix couple who take nearly every trip. Mr. and Mrs. William Haine, who came here from the East, and became acquainted on one of the first trips. They continued to take the trips. Last February they were married.

3 American Cents Buy Good Time in Bolivia

A 50 Boliviano bill in Bolivia is worth only three cents in American money, but what a world of things it will buy! Three cents will get you a pack of cigarettes, two cups of extra rich coffee, five shoeshines, a Pisco Sour (a brandy drink) or a ticket to your favorite movie house in LaPaz.

In a country noted for its silver products, silver money has given way to paper currency, with a value of approximately 1,400 Bolivianos to a Yankee dollar. Three cents in Bolivian coin, therefore, would be a fistful, indeed—4,200 centavos.

St. Francis Art Being Restored

Believe Two Frescoes Work of 13th Century Painter

WASHINGTON — Italy's famed Church of St. Francis, in Assisi, will soon regain two frescoes attributed to the 13th century Florentine painter Cimabue and long cherished by art scholars and pilgrims the world over.

Probably by summer the works, "Three Angels," and "The Archangel St. Michael," with their lustrous gray and flame colored wings, will be back near their old position high in the left transept of the Upper Church. Recently they were carefully "peeled off" the stone walls and removed to Rome for the meticulous pob of preserving old beauties blistered by dampness and tarnished by decomposition of pigments.

Experts of the Italian Institute for Restoration took pains to retain color tones, says the National Geographic Society. Furthermore, the paintings were transferred to canvas reinforced by a metal framework and waterproofed on back.

The Umbrian hilltown of Assisi, wrapped in olive groves, is one of Italy's happiest spots. In 1182 it became the birthplace of St. Francis, among the most beloved of Catholic saints. His ascetic, many-sided character still sheds an aura of medieval mysticism there.

Not long after his death in 1226 a church was started on the spot where the founder of the Franciscan Order died. It grew into two Romanesque-Gothic churches, one above the other, both destined to be early landmarks in the history of Western art.

The fresco-adorned Upper Church is chiefly linked to the names of Cenni di Pepo, called Cimabue, and his more renowned disciple, Giotto. The sense of mystery that pervades the place is heightened by the frescoes. For although some authorities believe Cimabue painted several of the masterpieces of the Upper Church, doubt still persists as to whether the Florentine ever visited Assisi.

In the Upper Church it is probable that Giotto at least planned and supervised the series of 28 scenes from the life of the saint.

Like his subject, the man of tender emotions, the lover of nature, the personification of the joyous spirit, Giotto was a great humanizer. In the field of painting, he represents the significant breakaway from stiff Byzantine formalism and the entry of warm Italian individualism.

Brigance Design Sure to Be Favorite for Fresh, First-of-Spring Look

Long Torso Hits Teener This Spring

NEW YORK (INS) — Even the pigtail set won't be able to avoid the "long torso" look in feminine fashions this spring.

The "long torso" for teens, tweens and sub-teens isn't so different a silhouette as it is for older gals.

In fact, the lower-hipped dresses for young girls this spring look like last year's reefer and princess silhouettes, with trimming added at the hipline.

Dropped hipline skirts are showing more pleats, and there's a new color range to choose from, but mostly the young ladies will have the same slim, easy-lined clothing they always choose for the easter parade.

Even the full skirt that needs plenty of petticoat remains popular; the only change is that the petticoat ruffles are placed lower down.

Navy remains the top color for spring clothes aimed at the younger set. Red is popular, too, but coming up strong are the lilac and mauve shades that swept the men's shirt business last year.

The same pink idea, by the way, is just showing up in stylish vests for the up-to-seven-year-old beau brummel.

Prints for young girls accent flowers and diamond checks, most in lilac, orange or pink tints.

Dry and aging... or soft and youthful?

Woods Can Have Same Color Tone

By HUBBARD COBB

When it comes to this business of refinishing furniture, people often expect too much.

For example, there are always some who have a maple coffee table or chair which they'd like to transform into oak, birch or maybe cherry.

Now you can do a lot of things with stains and finishes but unless you are someting of an expert you'll never make a piece of pine look like a piece of solid mahogany.

It just can't be done. About the best thing you can hope for is to get both of the woods to more or less have the same general color tone.

People also expect a lot from one application of bleach. Now a good grade commercial bleach which has been properly applied is going to lighten the color of a wood but how much it will lighten depends upon the wood, how dark and deeply it was stained and how many coats of bleach are applied.

And, even so, it's just about impossible to take a very dark wood and bleach it out so that it's white.

Liquid paint and varnish remover is something else that people ask too much of. The usual procedure here is to coat the entire piece of furniture with the liquid and then sit back and wait for the finish to peel itself off.

This is not the way things really work. The solvent will soften up the finish but you'll have to remove it either with steel wool or a scraper. And don't expect the finish to become soft the minute the solvent remover has been applied; it takes a few minutes for the remover to work on the paint to get said paint soft.

And, last but not least, people expect far too much from finishes. A finish will never turn out smoothly unless the surface to which it is applied is smooth and the brush which does the application has nice soft bristles.

PETUNIA!

Like, for instance—when you HAVE to powder over tired make-up without washing your face first, DO use the lightest shade of powder available. You'll look much fresher, brighter!

Washday hands? Not if you use this tone lotion to keep them soft and smooth before your work's begun and, again, when the work is done. This pretty pink and creamy-with-lanolin hand lotion is citrus scented to make your hands smell as fresh as your laundry in from the sun.

May Even Change Her Mind by Then

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

Yesterday is over and done with—it's just a memory. Tomorrow will undoubtedly come. But there's something far off and vague about third Tuesday of next July.

It will roll around in due course of time, but you can't count on how you'll be feeling about things by that time. That's why today is important.

You know just where you stand today. You're reasonably sure that tomorrow won't throw you in a heap. So why look farther ahead when it's your heart that's concerned? Why not make the most of now?

That's the advice I have for this girl who faces a separation from her love next summer and is already torn and tortured over it. She writes:

"Dear Miss Woodward: We love each other so much we'd like to be together all the time. But he's going all the way across the country next summer with another friend of his to take jobs that are waiting for them there.

"He says he will come back twice a year to see me and his family. We're planning to get married in a couple of years when he has some money and I'm old enough. (I am 15 now and he's 18.) I told him I'd sit at home and wait for him to come back. But my mother thinks I should go out with other boys.

"She says he'll get way out there and forget all about me. But he says he won't. He says there'll never be another girl for him. Please tell me, should I wait for him or not?"

Were I you I'd wait until next summer to decide, that's what I'd do. Lots of things can happen between now and then that will help you make up your mind. And I see no point in rushing across that bridge until you come to it.

Right now your boy friend is on hand so why not enjoy every minute with him without letting any clouds mar your happiness? Today with him is something you can touch and feel.

Tomorrow will come, too, and it's comfortable to know he'll be around. So why torture yourself with looking ahead into months far off when he might not be there? Why let the thought even spoil your present together?

Making promises now for future delivery isn't exactly smart. Though you can't imagine it's happening, you might change your mind about the lad within the next six weeks. And he might change his mind about you—and even decide not to take that far-off job. Binding promises now are, therefore, unreasonable.

Why not let next summer take care of itself, and let your hearts be young and gay for now?

IF under-coat suit—

Silk and silk-and-wool blend tweeds lend themselves to soft styles in straight or pleated skirts, smart under coats.

Miss C. S.—The easing of today's silhouette demands feminine lines and soft, caressable fabrics. Narrow skirts must be designed with "walking" or "taxi cab" pleats. All-around pleats fit into the general trend of easier living fashions.

Decorating House Door Led to Part-Time Work

By ANNE HEYWOOD

The other day, a friend told me of a most interesting job which a friend of hers is doing in her city.

"Her name is Joanne," my friend said, "and she used to be an interior decorator. That isn't exactly true, because she still is.

"Joanne studied decorating and then had a year of apprenticeship with a well-known decorator. After that, she married and moved to our town.

She had a couple of kids, and then, a year or two ago when they began school, she told me she was dying to get a part-time decorating job. But there were none available.

"So, for a while, Joanne comforted herself by doing things around her own house. Among other things, she fixed up their front door charmingly.

"She shopped the antique and secondhand shops, and got a lovely brass knocker for almost nothing. She got two pots for plants, and put one on each side of the door. The finishing touch was a lovely welcome mat.

"At Christmas and Easter, and almost every holiday, she rigged up charming decorations—a lovely branch of imitation cherry blossoms for Washington's birthday, a cute bunch of fat red firecrackers, with an American flag, on Fourth of July.

"She devised the most delightful decorations for every single holiday; she thinks it's crazy to decorate just on Christmas.

"We all began to ask her to do our doors. None of us could pay much, but she did a beautiful job with each one, and some of the wealthier families began to commission her to do theirs.

"Now she's our town's leading decorator of doors. For some families she just does the knockers, but there are others who pay her a flat fee for holiday decorations. She never does two alike. She gets great pleasure from this work, she can do it part time, and she is making nice extra income.

"It just goes to show you," my friend said, "that lots of women can make their own temporary jobs, if they just keep their eyes open!"

Tots Will Like This Toy

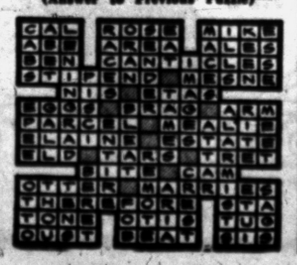

Here is a ball which can be used for indoor play. You may want to make one for a brother or sister.

Today's suggestion is for tiny tots, but you might like to have a safe ball for indoor play, too. Toss ball is fun for everyone, Regina Frank Wood from Staten Island tells us about these sock balls. Ask Mother if Dad has one sock left from a worn-out pair. If there is a wool one it is even better.

Cut off the toe part (A), about one-third of the foot. You now have (B). Make a ball of rags and stuff into toe, (C), then sew up toe opening and you have finished ball (D). In the 1, 2, 3 pictures you make another ball by cutting around plate, lay rag ball in center of circle, then sew edges together with yarn as shown in 3. Make your ball either way.

You can use brightly colored sock or material and make your balls bright and easy to see.

Should Have Introduced Him Anyway

Alright to Admit Lack of Knowing Friends Last Name

By EMILY POST

A young man writes me as follows: "The other evening while driving home from the theater with my girl friend, I stopped to give an acquaintance a lift of a few blocks.

"As we passed the bus stop I noticed this person standing in the rain waiting for a bus so I offered to drive him home. I knew this man only as 'Jack' and did not introduce him to my companion as he was only in the car a short while.

"After we 'dropped' him off, my girl friend told me that I was extremely rude to both of them for not introducing them and that I belittled her. Was I wrong, and what should I have done when I didn't know his full name?"

I don't think you belittled anybody, but I do think you showed lack of knowledge of what to do. All you had to say was, "Jack, may I present you to Miss Smith?" and then if she asked you what his name was, you could have pretended not to hear, giving him a chance to answer himself.

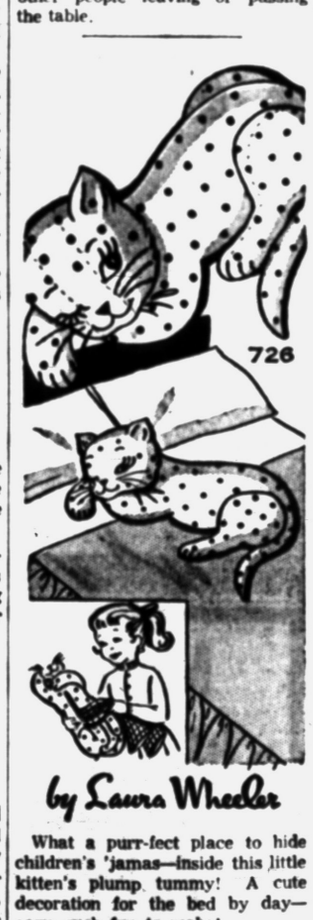

Even if he hadn't answered you could have said something like this: "Come to think of it, Jack, I've never known your last name."

Dear Mrs. Post: My boy friend and I would like very much to become engaged, but as he is still in college it is impossible for him to buy me an engagement ring. I recently inherited a beautiful diamond ring from my aunt. Would it be proper to use this for my engagement ring?

A ring is not at all necessary for an engagement. However, if you wish to use your aunt's ring as your engagement ring, I don't think your aunt would have had any objection, and if your fiance does not mind, certainly no one else can have anything to say against your doing so.

Dear Mrs. Post: When rising from the table in a restaurant, is one supposed to push the chair back where one found it?

Not unless it is in the way of other people leaving or passing the table.

You haven't received a thank-you note for a gift you had a store mail a month ago, and you wonder if it was received. Write the person to who it was sent and ask, if you like. If he has received it, but neglected to thank you for it, your inquiry may be embarrassing.

But if he has waited a month to say "thank you," maybe his embarrassment will prod him into acknowledging gifts more promptly in the future.

Pontiac Link in Chain of International Observance

At All Saints Episcopal Church

United Church Women Conduct World Prayer

United Church Women of Pontiac opened the local session of World Day of Prayer at All Saints Episcopal Church Friday.

Friday was the day when prayers for peace and understanding among nations were offered by millions of Christians in 130 countries.

These prayers ask not only for peace but for faith, courage, and for fulfillment of the needs of others who are lonely, hungry and homeless.

It all started 68 years ago by a group of Presbyterian women in Brooklyn, N.Y. The idea gradually spread to other churches in the United States and overseas. In 1927 the first Friday in Lent was designated as the day for universal observance.

This year's theme was "Abide in Me," and the service was written by Seniorita Jorgelina Lozada of Buenos Aires, an ordained Disciples of Christ minister.

George Gaches and Mrs. Stanley Kipp narrated a skit, "Offering Objective." Taking part were Martha Gaches, Mrs. E. D. Moessner, Mrs. Eva Spears and Mrs. Robert Gaff Jr.

Others in the skit were Mrs. Arthur Selden, Mrs. Robert Sanford, Mrs. William D. Wilcox, Mrs. Dora Dawson and Mrs. J. A. Rammes.

Mrs. Lewis C. Ball gave the call to prayer. Mrs. Clyde Marshbanks was heard in a solo and meditations were given by Mrs. Edward D. Auchard and Mrs. Hector McClellan.

Mrs. H. E. Ryan led the prayer period and Mrs. H. B. Harbage gave the benediction for the morning service.

Mrs. Vernon Vie of the Salvation Army, speaker for the afternoon, used the topic, "Our Dedications." Mrs. Paul R. Havens was soloist for the afternoon and Oscar Schmidt was organist. Mrs. John Garrison gave the prayer of intercession.

The round-the-world chain of prayer began at daybreak in the Fiji and Tonga Islands, just west of the international date line.

The last prayers were said at nightfall on St. Lawrence Island off the Alaskan coast, east of the dateline.

Aprons Solve Women's Pocket Woes

Women get their vengeance, but in such a pretty way.

Some friend (who knows how many years ago?) decreed that women's clothes should lack pockets that are good for anything. And so it has stayed.

While men blithely load enough equipment for an engineer's office into their various pockets, women are hamstrung on the street, carrying a dangling, bouncing, rattling pouch. Then men have the colossal nerve to make fun of the contents.

Women have their vengeance today. Husband comes home, takes off his jacket and hangs it up. He's down to a mere three or four slim pockets, most of which he has to sit on, thereby eliminating their use for crushables.

But Mother—she is dazzlingly arrayed in the most marvelous set of enormous portable pockets ever invented—an apron.

She wears one all day and most of the evening, for she has many.

She launders at the first sign of a spot, for today's lovely aprons are a proud badge.

And the variety she has: The cobbler apron, comfortable as a smock, but gay; the kitchen apron that needs only a skirt to be an outfit; the tea apron, as gay and frothy as a petal, touched with glitter or velvet; the baby-carrying apron for baby tending with free hands; the pot - holder pocket apron.

She doesn't even need to have apron strings today if she objects to the idea. There are waist hoops of white plastic that can take a variety of aprons for quick change.

But in addition to the justice of having at last, a place to carry keys, matches, notes, pencils, potholders and a button that must have come off something, aprons have not forgotten their original function—protection.

Whether nylon, organdy, net, poodle-printed dacron, leopard-spotted cotton or corduroy, they all wash.

The dress that has seen better decades is covered with a crisp apron, fresh from the wash-and-iron circuit and what could be more appealing and feminine?

Aside, of course, from the smile of triumph as a housewife produces a needed light bulb, two dollars for the grocer and a baby from her apron pocket.

National WCTU to Give Awards

Speaking Contest Open to Encourage Study of Alcohol Problem

EVANSTON, Ill. — An inter-collegiate oratorical contest with state and national awards to encourage study of the alcohol problem by young people, was announced by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, here today.

Mrs. Glenn G. Hays, the union's president, said state contests will be sponsored by State WCTUs, in interested universities and colleges, and that state winners will be eligible to enter the national competition.

"Participating State WCTUs," Mrs. Hays said, "will offer preliminary contest prize money to each college having five or more qualified contestants, the amounts probably differing by states and to be apportioned as each college desires.

"The contests are to encourage and promote research among young people on the harmful effects of drink in the areas of health, safety, home and social welfare, crime, juvenile delinquency, and economic and industrial security, as well as on individual happiness and capacity for progress and achievement."

Mrs. Hays said times and places of the contests in the states will be announced "preferably soon after March 1," and that impartial judges are to rank the contestants.

"State contests," she added, "must be completed by June 1, 1955. The place and dates of the national contest at which state winners will appear in person will be announced shortly."

The national winner will be awarded $150, with $100 and $50 going to second and third. Rules for the contests, Mrs. Hayes said, may be obtained from the National WCTU in Evanston, or from State WCTUs.

It will not be officially affiliated with any state, national or world council. Membership will be open to all congregations that desire to cooperate in the interests of Christian service to the Pontiac area.

Confident Living

Love, Compassion Build True Bethlehem in Heart

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Recently I stood on a road outside the little town of Bethlehem and watched a man leading a donkey on which was seated a sweet faced woman with a baby in her arms. It startled me, for it was for all the world just like Joseph, Mary and Jesus.

In the almost two thousand years since Joseph brought Mary to Bethlehem, little has changed. The people dress very much the same and live as they probably did in Biblical times; Bethlehem remains, as it was then, a small village, famous then only because it was the birthplace of Benjamin, the scene of the Book of Ruth and the home of David, and beloved now because it was the birthplace of Christ.

DR. PEALE

In the world into which Jesus was born, there were other cities, much more important than Bethlehem and, indeed, other countries more powerful than Palestine. Alexandria, Babylon and Tiberias were the major centers of ideas and learning. And there was Rome, the Eternal City from which Emperor Augustus ruled the world.

Athens had only just been displaced as a center of political power and was still the seat of the glorious Hellenic spirit of art and beauty. Other Greek cities and city-states such as Thessaly, Sparta, Miletus, Corinth, Syracuse and Rhodes were famous throughout the world. But now, twenty centuries later, Bethlehem influences more multitudes than all these cities taken together.

When Augustus died, he was deified by the Roman people because they believed that a sovereign whose reign seemed so efficient must be a divinity.

This was the period during which Jesus carried on His earthly ministry. Scarcely noticed by the famous men of His time, the relative importance of Jesus and the emperor is evidenced by the fact that two thousand years afterwards, many of us know of Augustus only by the words, "There went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed," told as part of Luke's story of the birth of Jesus.

Why does Jesus shine like a star in history while all these others have faded into oblivion? Simply that they lived by force; He lived by love, and love is the most powerful fact in the world.

Tolstoi illustrates this truth in a charming story of two old men, Efim and Elisha, who set out to Bethlehem on a pilgrimage they had planned for many years. On their way, Elisha became thirsty and stopped at a hut for a drink, telling Efim to go on and that he would catch up with him. Elisha entered the hut and found a family sick and dying of hunger. So great was his heart of love that he stayed with them, put them back on their feet and then resumed his journey. But soon he discovered that he had spent so much of his money helping the sick family that he could not go on and sadly returned home.

In the meantime, Efim made his way to Bethlehem, always expecting that Elisha would catch up or perhaps had somehow even passed him and that they would meet at the Savior's birthplace. However, Elisha did not come. Later in the Church of the Nativity on three separate occasions Efim was startled in that he seemed to see his friend in the very best and most honored place in the church. But when he tried to reach Elisha he vanished out of sight.

When Efim returned to his home in Russia he was amazed to discover that Elisha had never reached the Holy Land at all. Then Efim realized that one can through loving acts make spiritual pilgrimages to Bethlehem, and that honored places in holy shrines depend not on distances covered but on the depth of love developed in one's heart.

The message of Tolstoi and the meaning of Bethlehem to us is simply that through love and compassion and service you can build the true Bethlehem in your heart. If, from a manger in a little town in Palestine two thousand years ago, could come a message that has gripped the world long after "the glory that was Greece and the grandeur that was Rome" have become only memories, then the love of Christ in our hearts is the creative influence that can bring goodwill and peace among the peoples of the world today.

The Prevalence of Pink Eye

By DON D. TULLIS

At sometime in your life you may have had the pink eye. The disease is somewhat different today. It is not the eyes but the objects that have turned pink. Whatever way we look, whether it is a woman's dress, a man's shirt, a baby's blanket or a new car, the color is the same.

This predominance of one of the uglier tints indicates our enslavement to the god of conformity. The unforgivable sin in society is that of being out of style. No matter how homely the fad, beauty must step aside and give it room. Beautiful gowns give way to toreadors, attractive skirts surrender to shorts and gorgeous hats are shelved for unbecoming pancakes.

But the styles are nothing as compared with the thing they involve—our willing enslavement to the practices of the mob. This is an indication of a weak personality.

This god of conformity moves mightily in the moral realm, driving people to do things harmful to themselves and others. Cocktails are the style, you can't afford not to serve them. You cannot be "in things," unless your steps are in line with the crowd. It is the style to drive recklessly, hence the many murders on the highways. In the state of Florida alone last month, there were 84 persons killed and 1931 injured, some permanently.

It takes two or three divorces to make a cinema star, and a robbery or murder to make a delinquent youth into a big shot. It's because of the popularity of crime today that it is on the increase. It is more important to follow the fad than follow the flag. The home, the church, the government—all suffer from this form of pinkeye.

There seems to be little hope of curing this disease, this tendency to "follow the flock." However, there is a way out. It is making goodness, purity, kindliness and the other virtues the prevailing style, rather than immorality, impurity and crime. THIS IS THE MAJOR TASK OF THE PEOPLE OF GOD.

When they succeed in making honesty more popular than trickery, love than hate, and faith more fashionable than folly, we shall be well on the way to a better world.

Shall we ever realize this dream? Most surely. God's world is not a dying creation. Man is not doomed. Jacob can always become Israel, if he will, and if his will is God's will.

Prayer Is Daily Activity of Candy Manufacturer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Prayer is a daily, integral part of the life of Lem T. Jones, chief executive of a candy firm that did a $10,000,000 business last year.

Mr. Jones, a partner who describes himself as "lead horse" of Russell Stover Candies, starts each business day in the firm's headquarters with prayer.

"I like to bow my head and my heart as I sit at my desk each morning," said Mr. Jones, a gray-haired man with a kindly smile. "I start every day in the office with the prayer: 'My God, make me adequate in Thy sight for this day.' "

Mr. Jones keeps a small testament in his coat pocket. After rendering his daily praper, he takes the book and opens it. Wherever it opens he reads a verse.

"I consider this as committing myself to sovereign authority," he said. "It prepares me for whatever difficult situations the day may produce."

In another pocket of Mr. Jones' business suit there is a silver cross which fits into the palm of his hand.

With its stores and factories spread out over the 48 states and Alaska, the candy company's business has many ramifications and pressures. Mr. Jones, as the "lead horse," makes most of the important decisions.

"When some complex situation arises," he said, "and I feel I'm getting out of control, I reach into my pocket and pick up the cross and say to myself, 'steady now, fellow.' "

Mr. Jones, an elder of Second Presbyterian church here, is president of United Church Men, laymen's department of the National Council of Churches. Through the years, he has been prominent in many national, state and local religious organizations. A past president of the Kansas City Community Chest, his activities include participation in charitable and civic groups.

When Mr. Jones leaves his office each evening, his religion goes home with him. The Jones residence in the Country Club district has a Bible in every room. Grace is said before each meal.

"I feel that a Bible in every room is evidence of an authority in life," he said. "It depicts the great discipline of free men, guided by a sovereign authority for purpose and direction."

Mr. Jones, a school teacher in his early manhood, and his wife, Jessie, have been married 32 years.

Door to Door Campaign Catholic Students Launch

CHICAGO—A group of Roman Catholic eighth graders began a door-to-door campaign here to obtain support for passage of a city ordinance banning the sale of indecent literature.

The youngsters, members of the Civic Club of Maternity of the Blessed Virgin Mary School, were armed with 1,500 printed petitions each providing for 10 signatures. After the drives, the petitions will be presented to aldermen of the four wards which include or bound the school.

Stanley A. Dembowski, 14, president of the club, hopes that the idea will mushroom into a city-wide campaign, with as many as 150,000 signatures before the drive ends Feb. 12.

The petitions will be distributed by priests, rabbis and ministers in the community to children of their congregations, he said. The four wards include some 90 churches and synagogues.

Stanley said a survey of the area's newsstands and bookstalls revealed much evidence of indecent literature and horror comics.

"We hope to reduce juvenile crime which may stem from reading such books," he said.

The petition reads:

To Aldermen—We petition you!

"Unless an aroused public forces a change, society will continue to permit our youth to be debauched by bad magazines and comics. We are indignant at the savagery of the Russian and Chinese brainwashings, but we are quite complacent with the vile brainwashing that the publishers and sellers of dirty books and magazines inflict upon our young people. There is something wrong with this civic picture. Our lawmakers have the power to change it.

"What is being done about situation? Fortunately, quite a bit. A number of cities recently have passed city ordinances prohibiting the sale of objectionable comics and some cities have ordinances banning all indecent literature. If there is a popular demand that something be done, our aldermen can and will do it.

"Now is the time for a determined citizenry to act! Your signature and your address are needed to the following petition which we are sending to the aldermen of our ward. We urge legislative action to ban the sale of all literature and comics which tend to corrupt the morals of our youth."

The drive received a boost when the Chicago Daily News printed a picture of the officers and a story of their project. Also backing it with news stories are the community papers and the aldermen themselves.

Bill Proposed to Create Clinics for Marriages

By Religious News Service

COLUMBUS, O. — Court-conducted clinics to salvage marriages about to be broken are proposed in a bill introduced in the Ohio legislature.

Ministers, priests and rabbis would be among the instructors at the clinics.

The proposed law, sponsored by Thomas L. Thomas (D-Summit), would require principals in an action for divorce or alimony to attend an educational clinic once a week, or until 26 lecture periods are completed.

If the party found to be at fau't by the court had failed to attend the clinic and to contest the divorce or alimony action he would not be permitted to remarry.

No—Belief in God Is NOT Enough!

Many people are risking their eternal salvation on a "religion" of their own . . . which is actually no religion at all.

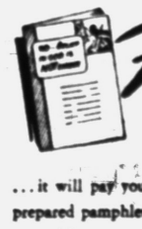

"Oh, I believe in God," they say, "but I don't go to church. I'm just not the religious type."

Almost everybody, of course, believes that there is a God. Common sense tells us that this is so. But if we actually believe there is a God, should not this same common sense tell us we must do something about it? And how can we give expression to our belief in God if not through religion?

Religion is simply the consequence of our realization of Who God is. It is our striving to be honest and consistent with this knowledge—to learn and fulfill our duties to our Creator.

Catholics believe that God created us for a definite purpose . . . that He gave us the intelligence to recognize what that purpose is—and the means to fulfill it. It is through our religion that we give evidence of our desire to honor and serve God. It is through religion that we approach God in faith, repentance, love and gratitude.

If you are living in the belief that you don't need religion . . . that all you have to do is to believe in God and live a moral life . . . we urge you to ask yourself these questions—NOW: "Why am I living? Why did God create Me?" The most elementary common sense answer is that you are living because God created you . . . and that God has a purpose in doing so. Catholics believe it is our duty to find out what God's plan is for our lives—and do our best to live it.

If you have been living without any deep religious convictions . . . it will pay you to read a specially-prepared pamphlet which we will send you without cost or obligation. It discusses such questions as: Can the truth of Christianity be proved? Is it honest to ignore religion? Is science, ethics or education a substitute for the Church? Also other topics that should concern you deeply. For free copy write today . . . ask for Pamphlet No. KC-18.

Civil Defense 'Rescue Operations' to Be Held at Keego

Plan to Canvass in Blood Drive

House-to-House Calls in West Bloomfield Area to Start March 5

WEST BLOOMFIELD—A 10-day house-to-house canvass for blood donors from the large inter-lakes area will begin next week, in an all-out effort to secure sufficient blood for the year in one big campaign.

Recruiters will call at the homes from March 5-15, taking registrations for blood donations to be given March 22. On that day the Red Cross Bloodmobile will be stationed from 2-8 p.m. at West Bloomfield Township Hall.

The donor station will be staffed by skilled medical, nursing and technical personnel supplemented by volunteers, Mrs. O. S. Koskinen of Birmingham, county blood chairman, said.

Chairman of the volunteers Mrs. Edward Sintz of Walnut Lake road has sent out a call for additional volunteers. She is asking that Gray Ladies, nurse's aides, registered nurses and registars who wish to give their services for the day, contact her in advance, leaving their name and phone number.

In their house-to-house calls, workers will explain that those who have already promised blood donations to their lodge, church or place of employment may give their blood on March 22 and it will be credited to the group specified.

Heading up the recruiting will be Mrs. Joseph Gaydos, Pontiac, in the Whitfield school district; Mrs. Edward Collins, Pontiac, in the Roosevelt School district; Mrs. J. L. Anderson, Green Lake, in the Scotch School district; and Mrs. H. A. Hoxie, Willow Valley road, Birmingham, in the Green School district.

Mrs. John Nahabedian, of Walnut Lake road, will be chairman in the Walnut Lake School district; Mrs. Fred Gould, Monterey court, in the Foxcroft area; and Mrs. Edward Fuller, Worlington road, at at Wing Lake.

All residents in the recruiting areas may be party to the two-way program of donating and releasing blood for use in need, and the chairman listed in the individual neighborhoods can be contacted when blood is needed.

"SNOW CHASING" FESTIVAL — If winter decides to stage a fierce comeback, Oakland County residents might find it helpful to take a tip from the town of Nassereith, Austria, to rid itself of blizzards. In this Alpine village, the ancient custom of donning wierd masks and costumes to drive off the evil spirits of winter is observed each year. Above, a child looks up at the masked giant figures who will play a part in the carnival. Deafening noises also will help scare off the winter blasts.

Weather-Worn Red Barn Not for Ike; Wants "Grey Green With White Trim"

THURMONT, Md. (AP)—President Eisenhower, an amateur artist of note, probably never took more care with an oil portrait than he did in selecting the color he wants his barn painted.

The barn is on his 189-acre farm at nearby Gettysburg, Pa., and the shade he chose — with Mrs. Eisenhower's approval — is pastel greyish green, with a white trim.

The President spent five hours at the farm yesterday inspecting the nearly completed new home he and Mrs. Eisenhower are building on the historic Civil War battlefield, and going over repair work on the big old barn, now a weather beaten red.

* * *

When it got too dark to see much around the place, the chief executive and the First Lady drove 25 miles for a weekend of rest at their rustic lodge here in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains.

While Mrs. Eisenhower and New York interior decorator Elizabeth Draper planned furnishing of the new home, he wandered down to take a look at the barn.

He found the painters applying a coat of primer white over the red and experimenting with a yellowish green trim. The chief executive had a different idea.

* * *

"What I had in mind," he told building contractor Charles Tompkins of Washington, "was a grey green with a white trim."

Then he thought of his wife and added with a laugh:

"I'll have to ask Mrs. Ike. She'll have the last word on it."

* * *

He went to work with one of the painters on the color he wants.

Forty-five minutes and several mixtures later, Eisenhower finally was satisfied. And he had the painter try some of the presidential concoction on the side of the barn.

Then he hiked back to the house and had Mrs. Eisenhower take a look out the window.

A moment later he reported the First Lady thought the shade was "just right."

* * *

His parting shot to the painter was:

"Let your artistic sense be your guide."

The Eisenhowers' new home — the first of their own in nearly 40 years of marriage — is just about ready for occupancy. Already partly furnished, the house obviously pleased the President.

Ho-Hum, It's a Woman's World

Ladies Take on Chisels as Men's Class Fizzles

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — When an industrial arts class in Do-It-Yourself techniques was offered, there were plenty of registrants for the Waterford High School adult education course.

The class had been scheduled, the instructors were on hand and the students were waiting, but the course had to be withdrawn.

Reason? Sex.

It seems that women, not men, are the ones most eager to wield a hammer or chisel, or twist a plumber's wrench. Of the many eager registrants who tried to sign up for the course, only six were men.

Mixed company in a course of this type wouldn't work, adult education director George Tramontin said. The women would need more instruction on the use of tools, and the men would be chafing at the bit, wanting to move ahead at a pace faster than the feminine fixer-uppers could manage.

Instructor John Thompson agreed that the instruction should fit the student, and final decision was that a course for would-be carpenters and handymen would be offered next fall if possible — but strictly for the ladies! Some of the instruction, it was felt, might be slanted to help Girl Scout leaders and Cub and Brownie den mothers.

Meanwhile, some 125 persons enrolled for the various other courses, and beginning and advanced sewing as well as tailoring classes went along without a dropped stitch or a raveled temper, and a full quota of female students.

But the teachers are keeping their fingers crossed. It's anybody's guess what could happen next semester if the men should decide to play follow the leader and start registering for a course in dressmaking or fine needlework.

Hopeful Grandma Sets Goal of 30 Grandchildren

DRAYTON PLAINS — William D. Pettit, 31, of 4900 Rossiter wasn't too surprised today when he received a letter from his grandmother in Backoo, N. D., who wrote that her chief goal is 30 great grandchildren.

She already has 28.

" . . . Thanks to the way my grandchildren have 'em," she writes. "Keep 'em coming in two's and we'll make it."

What his grandmother was refering to, Pettit explained, are the double feted events which occurred twice in their family since Dec. 22, 1951. On that day, Pettit's brother, John had a baby boy in Petersburg, N. D., and his first cousin, Mrs. James McFadden of Cavalier, N. D., also gave birth to a boy.

Last New Year's day, William's wife, Mildred, 29, presented him with Carol Lynne. He learned in the letter that his cousin also gave birth to a baby boy on Jan. 1.

"Let's make it 30, what do you say, Bill," the 86-year-old grandmother concludes.

Demonstration Set for Monday

W. Bloomfield Firemen to Stage Spectacular Life-Saving Feats

WEST BLOOMFIELD — This area's only known civil defense volunteer rescue team will go through its paces in mock ladder rescue operations Monday night in Keego Harbor.

As part of a 30-hour CD rescue training course, 26 West Bloomfield Township volunteer firemen will demonstrate for the public how casualties trapped on the third floor of a buliding can be brought to safety with the aid of only three types of equipment.

Using only ladders, stretchers and ropes, teams of three will demonstrate the three rescue methods — regulated by whether the evacuees are injured.

The third floor of Keego Harbor's Roosevelt High School will be the base of operations for the squads, and the starting time 8 p.m. Fire Chief Ben Mosher will direct activities.

Depending on the degree of injury and prevailing conditions, stretchers will be manipulated in either perpendicular or horizontal positions down thre floors to the ground and sought-for safety. The third method of rescue is a "life basket" method, a rope tied in a special knot around a person, who is then lowered.

The men have been training two hours a week, and in three weeks will have completed their course. Instructor Harry M. Laidlaw, who works for the Oakland County Road Commission, qualified for his teaching job by attending a two-week national civil defense training school in Maryland. Laidlaw said the school was started in 1952 and has had an overall attendance of about 35,000.

Basis for much of the building rescue operations will be the state civil defense truck stationed below, Laidlaw said. Normally the truck is housed with the road commission, but it will be on display from 7:15 until the rescue action starts.

Laidlaw said $4,800 in equipment is contained in the truck, including a generator, power plant, self energized phone, electric saws, gas masks, acetylene torches, ropes, blankets, first aid equipment and other tools.

Laidlaw said the truck may also be seen through appointment at the road commission offices or will be loaned for similar programs as this one.

Lights from the truck, three 500 watt bulbs, will be the only ones available to the rescuers.

Heston Living Part of Moses

Is Like Bible Character in Ten Commandments for New Movie

B BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Charlton Heston is not only playing Moses; he has to live like him.

That great showman Cecil B. DeMille is making the Moses epic, "The 10 Commandments," with Heston in the title role. The film veteran has placed unusual restrictions on his star.

Reported Heston: "When I am on the set in my costume and makeup as Moses, I cannot sit down, read a newspaper, use the telephone or give interviews. I don't smoke anyway, so that is no problem.

* * *

"These are the same restrictions DeMille placed on H. B. Warner when he was playing Christ in 'The King of Kings.' Except that I believe Warner had to be veiled when he walked from the makeup department to the set.

"DeMille has a twofold purpose: (1) to make others on the set get the illusion that I am Moses; (2) to make me feel the role. And by golly, it works. When I get the beard and robes on, I really feel like Moses."

I was able to interview the young actor because he was not in his Old Testament robes. He was dressed as a United States infantry captain. This was for his current film "The Private War of Major Benson."

* * *

Heston explained that he had done two months of locations with DeMille in Egypt. He soon embarks on 5½ months of shooting on the picture at the Paramount lot. In between, he has sandwiched the Army comedy.

Heston has approached the Moses role with much thought.

"I do a great deal of research on every historical figure I play," he said. "But especially this one. Here is a man about whom Winston Churchill once remarked that his life marked the greatest stride forward in the history of the human race.

"The responsibility is a great one. After all, Moses figures in three of the world's great religions. You have to be prepared to answer questions of all of them concerning the interpretation of Moses' life."

The Place Is MANNY'S CATALINA ROOM

Ogden Nash's Poetry Outdoes Flashes on TV

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — When you watch Ogden Nash on "Masquerade Party" on TV, you may find it hard to believe that he's a man who really makes a living as a poet.

"But that's the backbone," the 52-year-old bard from Baltimore and Boston told me recently.

"I have enough books that keep selling to give me an income. TV, and testimonials and lectures are the gravy."

You'll notice the non-poetic character of his speech. Yet his "Candy is dandy, but liquor is quicker" poem has undoubtedly been recited (correctly) by more people than have recited "Thanatopsis" (correctly).

Of course it is shorter.

And did the garden clubs ever reprint Shakespeare? They reprinted one of Nash's poems:

"I think that I shall never see
A billboard lovely as a tree
Perhaps unless the billboards fall
I'll never see a tree at all."

Nash, a six-footer with mouse-colored hair and a quiet, retiring manner, went around for years hearing himself quoted—but rarely recognized except by people who's heard him lecture.

Now even the cab drivers know him.

DAGMAR

"That was a good show, Ogden," they tell him, as they drop him off at het Harvard Club (he was at Harvard a year, then quit to go to work) or at the Coffee House, his only other club.

★ ★ ★ ★

A sensitive fellow, Nash is often pained—afterward — by something he's said on TV.

"You'll make jokes in front of millions of people that you wouldn't make in your own home," he said.

"Once in a while the producer in his demoniacal way will give you a question to ask that makes you out a damn fool."

Without tipping off the answers, producers do sometimes suggest humorous questions before the show.

"When Dagmar was on," confessed Nash, "I was requested to ask her, 'Is your bust in Westminster Abbey?'"

He feels that whatever answers he gets on the program are flashes of luck.

"Sometimes, no matter how the person's dressed, he betrays himself with some little gesture. Still, I'd done 42 weeks on the air with Guy Lombardo and I didn't recognize him. He was supposed to be an Eskimo. It was one of the hottest days of the year and he had on about 550 pounds of fur."

Nash is happy about the TV, because poetry isn't printed as widely in the magazines as formerly.

The Saturday Evening Post and The New Yorker are still good markets. Three years ago he received four figures from Life for a long poem. Years back, when times were hard, he wrote verse for laxative ads.

Besides TV, lecturing and poetry-writing, Nash is completing a show which is as irregular in idea as some of his meter.

"It's based on the assumption that George Washington, when offered the Crown by England, took it and became king. So America is a monarchy—and there's a Princess—and a guy from Arizona wants to make it a republic."

Through all this activity, Nash's face is probably better known than any other poet's. Not long ago, after a TV show, he gave an autograph, and then heard one kid say:

"Who'd you get?"

"I got no idea," said the other boy, "but he was easier to get than Perry Como."

Easy Victor Over Davis, Saddler Eyes Lightweights

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP) — He's not the old Sandy Saddler of pre-Army days but the featherweight champion still is the best in his division by far.

The skinny slasher from New York proved it once again Friday night by walloping 31-year-old Teddy (Red Top) Davis of Hartford with monotonous regularity en-route to a unanimous decision in a title 15-rounder in Madison Square Garden.

Having disposed of the No. 1 contender of the 126-pound class, Sandy looked forward with eagerness today in the direction of lightweight king Jimmy Carter.

"That's the one we want next," said manager Charley Johnston.

"Sandy has wiped out everyone else so we might as well go after Carter. I'm going to try and make it for May or June outdoors."

"Carter? Sure, man, if there's money in it, he's the man for me," said the virtually unmarked champion.

Davis, the "losingest" challenger of all time with 47 previous defeats on a spotty record, blamed an injured right hand for his one-sided defeat.

There was a small lump on the hand about two inches back of the knuckle of his index finger. Dr. Vincent Nardiello said it appeared to be a sprain but he advised the squat little fellow to have it X-rayed.

"I hurt it in the third round when I hit him on the head," said Red Top in his dressing room. "That upset my style. I'm a two-fisted fighter. I like to bore in and let go with one-twos but I couldn't keep coming in with the one-twos with the hand. It hurt real bad."

Red Top had a huge lump on his right cheek bone and he was bruised about the left eye and cut around the mouth.

"He's a rough fighter — a dirty fighter," said Davis. "He breaks the rules. The referee should have taken a few rounds away from him."

Harry Kessler, the enginering firm executive who officiated, warned Sandy many times for holding and hitting and low punching but he didn't penalize the champion. He also warned Red Top, who was guilty of a little holding on his own. The crowd of 5,272 which paid $21,734 for the broadcast and telecast scrap booed Saddler often for his bulling and rough house tactics.

Chiefs Trap Wolves 2nd Time for 5th SVC Win

By H. GUY MOATS

Pontiac High School basketball Chiefs Friday night had their shooting eyes in sharp focus. They had heard Coach Art Van Ryzin declare "we have to win this one", because a victory was necessary to assure possession of the Saginaw Valley Conference 3rd spot.

So they went out and trapped Bay City's Wolves for the 2nd time this winter, 60-43, to clinch the place, and to chalk up their 5th Valley victory.

Both objectives had been set-up by the PHS mentor, who now has a week to get ready for the big finale against SVC champs, Arthur Hill. That game will be sandwiched in between the Thursday and Saturday State District B-C tournament here. No games will be played next Friday in the tourney.

The white-clad Chiefs wasted little time banging in a substantial margin. They racked up 17 points to Wolves' 6 in the opening period, then added a dozen more to provide a 29-18 halftime count. Third period was practically a repetition of the 1st and the finale hit the exact total of the opener.

Pivotman Dick Blacklaw and guard Walt Poe were the ringleaders in the early scoring. Walt King joined Blacklaw to pace the last half compilation. Blacklaw's 6 baskets and 7 free throws (19 points) produced the game's best scoring. Jim Chesney, rugged Wolf guard, had 14 for a good evening's work.

Chiefs were far and away superior to the upstate five in all departments of the game, at least in last night's game. They dunked 24 baskets in 79 tries, compared to only 13 in 59 for Wolves. The biggest difference, however, was in the free throw department. Pontiac missed only 7 in 19, while Art Paddy's boys were having difficulty getting little more than half of the 34 tries.

The West Huron outfit was so effective in the early stages of the tilt that it converted 7 of the first 19 shots into baskets. Wolves did not mark up a basket until after two minutes of the second period.

Going into the finale the count stood at 43-25. Then Van Ryzin called on his bench. During that session he scraped the bottom of the barrel. Every 1st string squadman had a whirl at it, and Bob Williams, James Taylor and James Jones all contributed to the score. Walt King began hitting well in the last half, to bag 10 points to lend material help to Blacklaw. Walt Poe was right behind him with 8.

It was largely routine business with the Chiefs, who had a job to do. Bay City never was close. The Wolves were almost always hedged around by the much faster Chiefs, and seldom had an open shot at the twines.

The evening brought victory also to Fred Zittel's Little Chiefs. The reserve squad won its 9th game against 5 losses, with a 53-43 victory over the Wolfcubs. Like the varsity game, it wasn't even close.

Frank Whitlock and Terry Zellhardt had 10 each. Terry Ebright was Bay City's best with 14.

Chiefs now prepare for the season's windup, next Friday in PHS gymnasium, against the Valley champs, Arthur Hill.

In the only other SVC game, other than that in Pontiac Friday night, Flint Central set a new Valley League scoring mark with its 106-53 win over Saginaw High. Central held the old mark, 90 points, made a year ago. Indians' Joe Quarles also set a SVC individual mark with 43 points. The 106 total is believed a new state Class A record.

HOLD IT BUD!—That's about what Johnny Krafft, Bay City guard was thinking early in last night's game at Pontiac High, when Chiefs' Bob Johnston set sail on a fast break (above). But Bob didn't stop and passed off to Dick Blacklaw for Pontiac's 1st basket. Chiefs went on to win their 5th Valley victory and nail down 3rd place with a 60-43 win. Walt Poe (PHS) is No. 10 in picture and No. 46 is Bay City's George Stevenson.

Prep Titles Decided

By JACK SAYLOR

Regular season play, with the exception of the Class A Eastern Michigan League, concluded for Oakland County prep cagers Friday night, and it was a night for championship celebrations.

Here is the roster of league champions for the 1954-55 season:

INTER-LAKES—Southfield. Bob Watts' Bluejays gained a clear-cut victory by downing Farmington, 47-42, while Walled Lake upset Berkley, 67-61.

WAYNE-OAKLAND— Milford. The Redskins made an 86-56 romp of an expected tight championship battle with Clarkston.

OAKLAND-B— Roseville. Avondale was beaten, 56-44, while Troy settled for 2nd place, lacing Clawson, 75-48, behind the record 46-point spree of Jack Acton.

SOUTH CENTRAL—Imlay City. The Spartans are still shaky after nipping Mayville, 68-67.

SOUTHERN THUMB — Almont. A perfect league campaign of 12-0 was completed with a 56-40 victory over Capac as Larry Kersten and Tom Spencer hit 19 points each.

BI-COUNTY— Co-champs Utica and South Lake. Latter defeated Center Line, 76-53. Utica, which was on verge of the title a week ago, was upset by Lake Shore, 59-50, and forced to share it.

Southfield jumped off to a 17-2 lead at Farmington, but eased up and was tied, 42-42 with 2 minutes to play. Bob Evans' jump shot broke the deadlock and 3 free throws padded the lead.

Meanwhile, Mike Tierney sparked Walled Lake to a 27-point final quarter which wiped out a 7-point deficit and upset Berkley. Tierney had 22 points for the game and sophomore Larry Hughes added 19.

Waterford made it 2 straight wins in the other Inter-Lakes windup by beating Van Dyke, 45-33. Chuck Gillis popped in 9 of 16 shots and took scoring honors with 19 points.

Milford caught Clarkston on a poor-shooting night and made a runaway of the Wayne-Oakland showdown. The Redskins held a 7-point lead at the quarter, then out-scored the Wolves, 20-10, in the 2nd period, and 26-14 in the 3rd. Reserves held the advantage in the last stanza.

Jim Davidson plunked in 27 points to wind up the season with 325. Tom Gould added 15. George Lang's shooting (he bagged 15 points) was Clarkston's only consolation.

Northville dumped West Bloomfield, 46-45, as Paul Hamlin netted a tie-breaking free throw and the Keego quintet failed to get off a shot in the last 50 seconds. Holly streaked to an 11-0 lead and continued to a 53-50 win over Clarenceville.

The leading non-conference game was a thriller at Lake Orion, won by Rochester, 70-69. The Falcons lost a 10-point lead after Bill Dean and Earl Kitchen fouled out. Rod Wiley tied the score at 69-all for Orion, but Dave Peters' free throw with 2 seconds left settled it.

Kitchen scored 26 points, despite a heavily taped ankle. Wiley had 24 for Orion.

Birmingham cut loose in the 2nd quarter with Bob Isbell and Ed Peters showing the way and handed East Detroit a 67-50 licking.

It gave the Maples a half-game lead in the EML and set up a title deciding game with Mt. Clemens next Friday. Dick Sheldon led with 17 points as Birmingham won its 11th straight game.

Acton's 46-point effort against Clawson came on 19 baskets and 8 foul shots. It eclipsed his own school record of 37 made against the same team earlier this season. The total was the season's highest for an Oakland County player.

National Kings Spice Field for IC4A Contests

Tonight's Meet Lists More Than 600 Stars From 43 Colleges

NEW YORK (AP) — Spiced by the appearance of three national title-holders, the IC4A track and field championships took over Madison Square Garden today with 671 athletes from 43 colleges seeking more than a dozen individual and relay titles.

* * *

Even the team championship is far from certain with Manhattan, Penn State and Boston University all attempting to grab off Yale's crown. The Elis won it last year by a scant half-point over BU, but this time they don't appear to have the depth to repeat.

* * *

Manhattan, seven-time winner of the event which had a three-year streak snapped last year, was favored over both Penn State and BU, although the Jaspers will need every fourth and fifth they can muster. The team race is on a 5-4-3-2-1 basis.

* * *

George Eastment's lads were counting heavily on hurdler-jumper Charlie Pratt, miler Bill St. Clair, 1,000 yarder Bob Goodwin and two-miler Bob Sbarra. If they can score heavily, the Jaspers should win it.

Arnold Sowell of Pitt, Charlie Jenkins of Villanova and John Haines of Penn—along with the Syracuse two-mile relay team—all have been wearing national crowns the past week. Sowell tied the world indoor 1,000 mark of 2:08.2, Jenkins captured the 600 and Haines took the 60-yard dash in 6.1 which also ties the listed world record.

All will be favored.

Other solid favorites include Villanova's Don Bragg in the pole vault, the Syracuse baton passers, and John Stellern of California in the shotput.

White, Sibley Elected to Top OCSC Positions

Bob White of Waterford, named president of the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club Wednesday night, will be installed March 30. He succeeds Jerry Wooliever.

Other officers are; 1st vice president, Lloyd Sibley of Clarkston and 2nd vice president, William Bosserman of Birmingham; Jack Greathouse of Drayton Plains, secretary; Jack Hamilton of Ortonville, treasurer; Sergeant-at-arms, George Vaverly of Pontiac, and Tice Woody of Bald Mountain, trustee.

Ray Meyer Says Warriors Great

CHICAGO (AP)—A coach rated as one of the nation's best judges of basketball flesh today called Marquette's victory-weaving Warriors a "real great team."

The Milwaukee marvels, unbeaten since an opening loss to Michigan State, try for their 22nd straight at Valparaiso (Ind) University tonight.

Coach Ray Meyer of De Paul, "The man who made Mikan," said Marquette proved its mettle as a ranking contender in the forthcoming NCAA tourney by defeating Notre Dame, 84-74, at South Bend, Ind., Thursday night. Meyer, a former Notre Dame star, saw the game.

Meyer said he thought Notre Dame was going to trounce Marquette by 40 points after the Irish swept to a 12-1 lead at the outset and led 37-25 at halftime.

Youthful U.P. Jumper Breaks Ski Record

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich. (AP) — Rudy Maki, a modest 19-year-old maintenance mechanic in Humboldt, Mich., iron mine, today was the show stopper of national ski jumping.

The 170-pound youth, who proved his mettle by winning the national title three weeks ago in Leavenworth, Wash., led 41 contestants into the last three jumps listed for the Olympic tryouts on the giant Pine Mountains slide.

Maki's first three efforts yesterday provided a record. He zoomed from the 156-foot scaffold and down the 300-foot incline for leaps of 295, 268 and 300 feet. His total points, based on form and distance, were 324.0.

Trailing Maki in the pressured competition for berths were Billy Olson, 25, University of Denver, with jumps of 275-262-271 for 318 points; Dick Rahoi, 19, Iron Mountain, with 268-293-298—316; Ragnar Ulland, 17, Seattle, 262-280-282—314; Art Devlin, Lake Placid, N.Y., 241-276-272—308.9; Coy Hill, Ishpeming, Mich., 267-293-272—308.4; Len Johnson, Duluth, Minn., 250-259-267—304.2; Ralph Bietila, Ishpeming, 248-283-266—300.8; and Art Tokle, Chicago, 249-269-277—299.3.

Favor Nashua; Doge Bows Out

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP)—A dozen 3-year-old horses, including the highly-promising favorite, Nashua, will run the righ Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah Park today.

But Boston Doge, undefeated in eight starts, was not on the list when the entries were filed Friday. Hialeah's racing secretary, Charles J. McLennan, said he received word the colt had a cough.

The Flamingo had shaped up as a duel between the speedy, blue-blooded Nashua and the surprising Boston Doge. But the New England horse's failure to enter left Nashua as the favorite and odds of 4 to 5 were expected on him at post time, 4:50 p.m. (EST). Eddie Arcaro will ride him.

With 12 colts starting, all to carry 122 pounds over the mile and a furlong distance, the Flamingo will gross $141,800 and pay the winner $104,600.

Bobsled Ace Dies

SOUTH BOUND BROOK, N.J. (AP) — Former Olympic bobsledding ace William F. Dupree, 45, died at his home Friday of a heart ailment. Dupree, a native of Saranac Lake, N.Y., represented the U.S. in the 1936 and 1948 Olympics.

Hawks Rated Over Wolverine Quintet

CHICAGO (AP)—Iowa's Hawkeyes, aiming for the Big Ten basketball title, meet Michigan today before their showdown battle with Minnesota Monday night.

The Iowa-Michigan battle at Iowa City will be televised nationally (CBS—3 p.m. EST).

A victory would put the Hawkeyes in a first place tie with Minnesota, each with 10-2 league records. The Gophers are idle today. Iowa is a heavy favorite.

UM Athletic Receipts Total Nearly One Million

ANN ARBOR (AP) — University of Michigan has reported its athletic program took in nearly a million dollars in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1954.

Regents of the university accepted a report by the board in control of inter-collegiate athletics yesterday showing operating receipts of $993,789.

This exceeded expenses of $765,716 by $288,573. It was an improvement over the previous fiscal year but an expanding building program dipped into the board's cash reserves.

The report, signed by athletic director H. O. (Fritz) Crisler and Marcus L. Plant, secretary of the board, showed that $506,115 was spent on plant additions.

This reduced cash on hand from $746,426 to $468,384.

The report said:

"In general, our sources of revenue were stable. There were expectable variations in individual items, such as our income from radio which was less than that of the preceeding year by approximately $10,000 (1954 radio, not included in the roport, was up again). This was more than offset, however, by an increased in net receipts from television of approximately $14,000. No particular income account showed a diminution of disturbing proportions."

The board reported that bids would be taken for a new men's swimming pool and diving pool, larger than the current one. The pool would cost some $765,000.

Hawks, Rangers Battle to Tie

Rookie Goalie Shines for Lowly Black Hawks in 2-2 NHL Contest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The last-place Chicago Black Hawks are going nowhere in the National Hockey League this year, but if rookie goalie Hank Bassen lives up to expectations, they could present a problem next season.

Bassen gave another fine performance Friday night when the Hawks and the New York Rangers —the two clubs out of the Stanley Cup playoffs—battled to a 2-2 tie. He made several sharp saves.

The teams battled on even terms all the way. Allan Stanley got the Hawks off to a lead in the first period only to have Pete Conacher come right back and tie it. Red Sullivan sent the Hawks in front again in the second session, but Conacher again found the range to tie it less than two minutes later.

Rocky Already 3-1 Favorite Over Cockell

Contract Is Signed for First Anglo-American Title Bout Since '37

NEW YORK (AP)— Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano has has been made an early 3-1 favorite to beat England's Don Cockell in their 15-round title fight in San Francisco's Kezar Stadium the week of May 16-20.

* * *

Broadway bookmakers set the price shortly after both fighters signed contracts Friday at the International Boxing Club.

* * *

It will be the first Anglo-American scrap for the world heavyweight crown since Joe Louis outpointed Tommy Farr of Wales in 1937. Farr was a 5-1 underdog and it was 3-1 that he wouldn't last the full 15 rounds distance. He surprised by putting up a good fight.

* * *

"We haven't picked the exact date," said President Jim Norris of the IBC, "because we don't know whether we will have home television or theater television."

* * *

Norris said he expected to gross $500,000 and up. Jim Murray, the San Francisco promoter who will co-promote the bout with the IBC, said "We can do a million if it gets hot."

* * *

As agreed before, Marciano will get 40 per cent of every thing and Cockell 20 per cent. Rocky will get a return bout in September if he should lose. The return bout site would be at the selection of the IBC, said Norris, and he left no doubt that he meant the United States.

Chiefs, Bay City Tie in Season's Final Swim Test

Pontiac's swimming team, a 10-point victor against Bay City the 1st time the teams met, was forced to win both relays to salvage a 42-42 tie with the Wolves in the final dual meet of the season, at Bay City, Friday night.

It gave Des Boyce's team a dual meet record of 10 wins, 2 losses and a tie for the season.

Valley Relays, originally scheduled for March 4, will not be held, so the Chiefs' final action of the campaign will be in the state meet at East Lansing, March 11-12.

In addition to winning the relays, Pontiac got firsts from Bob Lamson (40- and 100-yard free styles), and Bob Keavy in the 100-yard breast stroke. Tom Cross was upset in the backstroke and Rennie Saigeon could gain only a 3rd in diving.

In addition to four firsts, Bay City took 2-3 in the 40 free and breast stroke, plus seconds in diving and the 100-yard free style.

Pontiac's reserves defeated Bay City, 40-35.

Favorites Trail Rookie Ellis at Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — All the favorites were trailing a 23-year-old newcomer today as one of the tightest fields in Houston Open history began the third round of the $30,000 tournament.

* * *

Wesley Ellis, who talks with as much confidence as he exhibits on the tee and green, held a one-stroke lead at the halfway mark.

While Jimmy Demaret, the first-round leader, was missing nine putts of 10 feet or less Friday, Ellis calmly produced his third and fourth nine-hole 34s.

* * *

The pair of 68s by the young Rivervale, N.J., pro left him with an eight-under-par 136 for 36 holes on the 7,200-yard par 72 Memorial Park Course. A stroke away at 137 were Demaret, Ed Furgol, the National Open Titlist from St. Louis, and Ed Carpenter, San Antonio.

Demaret jumped to a 71 with a shaky putter after a first round 66. The steady Furgol had rounds of 68 and 69, while Carpenter, a 30-year-old unattached pro, had 69-68.

* * *

As a reduced field began the final 36 holes, 15 players were within three strokes of Ellis and six more were only four away.

Ellis, who lived across the street from Brackenridge Park Municipal Course in San Antonio until he turned pro last April, has won only $467 since he joined the winter tour in San Diego. First prize here is $6,000, richest of the winter tour.

"The putts I've been missing all along have been dropping here," said Ellis, who has traded only one bogey for nine birdies in 36 holes.

The bogey came on the 475-yard, par 4 12th hole Friday. He needed three putts after his second shot was on the edge of the green. On the 488-yard, par 5 13th, however, he took a 4 with two putts. His other birdies saw him sink putts of 6, 8, 6 and 30 feet.

Demaret described his second round as the easiest 71 he has ever played but complained that an 8-foot putt on the final green was his only decent putt of the day.

* * *

Hillman Robbins, the 22-year-old intercollegiate champion from Memphis State, has left all other amateurs, and many of the veteran pros, far behind. His 71-67—138 has earned a tie for fifth place with Doug Ford of Kiamesha Lake.

Ziske-Jameson Tied for Sarasota Lead

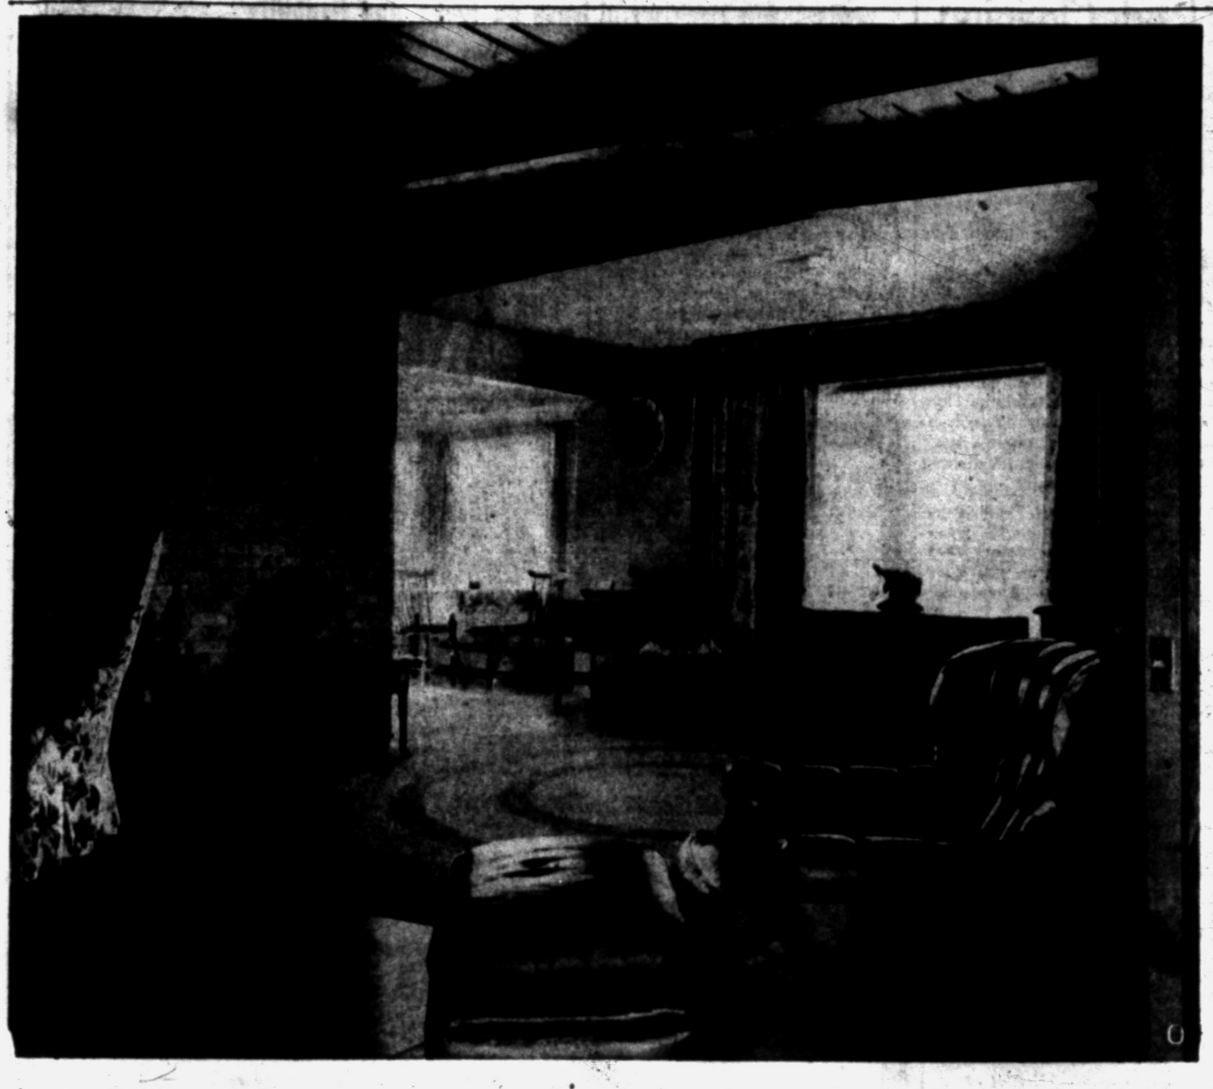

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Joyce Ziske, playing the best golf of her three tournaments as a professional, was tied with Betty Jameson for the lead at the halfway point in the $5,000 Sarasota Women's Open today.

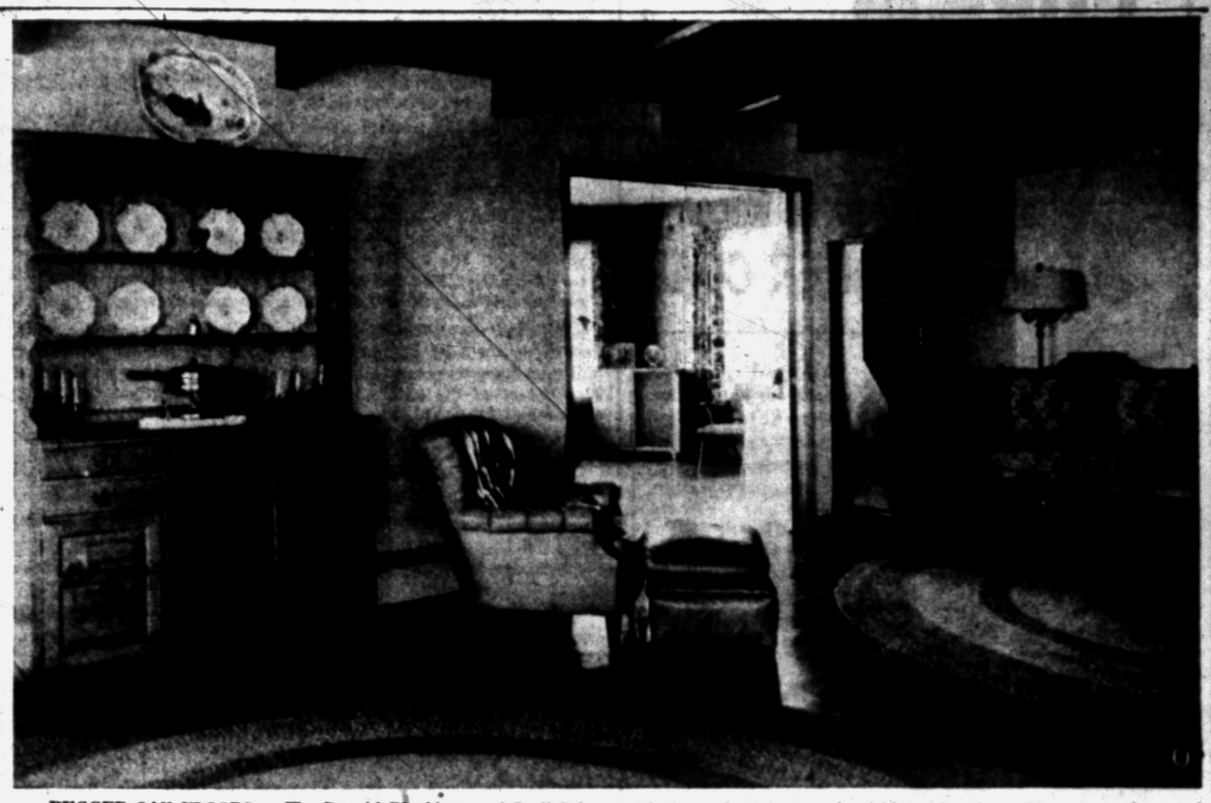

Miss Ziske carded an eagle and six birdies Friday in turning in a 68 for the 6,282-yard, par 74 Bobby Jones Course. That gave her a 36-hole total of 141 and shot her up from a four-way tie for 10th place.

PEGGED OAK FLOORS — The Donald Blackburns of Snell Rd., Mt. Vernon, selected a high hill on the front of their "80" for their new country contemporary. Although modern in line and material, Mrs. Blackburn has skillfully proved that two periods are compatible with the early American furnishings she chose. Floors are of pegged oak with ceiling interest for the living room in sloped, beamed cedar. At the left, the photo shows the different ceiling treatment and elevations between the living room and dining areas.

FIREPLACE WALL — Using the same yellow brick as the exterior of the house, the Blackburns' fireplace wall cores their house. Oval wood braided rugs are used on the pegged oak floors. Rose, blue, green and brown predominate in this room with beige and rose designs used for slipcovering on the fireside wing chairs. The spinning wheel in the photo at the left is a family heirloom. The upper photo shows the exterior of the home built by the Blackburns. It is located on a hilltop near Mt. Vernon, a small community between Rochester and Romeo.

Your Neighbor's House

Blackburns Pick Hill on Mt. Vernon '80'

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

From now on it's "life in the country" on a scenic "80" for Mr. and Mrs. Donald Blackburn of 2911 Snell Rd., Mt. Vernon.

That "80" includes a high hill site for a lovely yellow brick home. It includes several stands of young timber; a reed marsh where wild life reproduces and thrives and a long lane where on quiet Sunday mornings (and very often during the week), young deer from a nearby reservation area come to frolic and nibble a tender blade.

From the wide windows on one side of the house the eye views a cultivated farm that carries on the annual business of tilling the soil, and producing cattle and grains. From the wide windows on the opposite side of the house another panorama of community life shows dozens of new homes that are beginning to dot the countryside near the settlement long known as Mt. Vernon.

"Moving to the country was a momentous decision for us to make," says the charming Mrs. Blackburn. "We had always lived in Huntington Woods close to neighbors and the bustle of metropolitan life. But never would I trade the peace and tranquillity of the country for that pace of living again."

The Blackburn house is as open as the countryside.

Different ceiling treatment and graduated elevations give an illusion of one room flowing into another.

The core of the house is an L-shaped, spacious section which has a sloped, exposed beamed ceiling in the living room. Ceiling for the dining area of the living room is conventional and of plaster construction. It has recessed overhead lighting.

Central interior wall of the house is the yellow brick of the house exterior. It contains the fireplace and has three niches for an antique clock, a planter and a copper plate.

Floor of the living room, dining room and the two large bedrooms are all done in pegged oak.

The kitchen and breakfast area (actually the base of the long L), have been designed so that Mrs. Blackburn can prepare the meals and look directly across the rolling fields. By placing the double stainless steel sink and work counters in a bar-type unit, the kitchen worker also faces the breakfast room.

The windows of the home are framed in aluminum and all of the sills are marble. Keeping the maintenance at a minimum, these two features are permanent decorating items.

Cupboards are made of waxed birch with gray plastic counter tops matching the vinyl floor tiling. The section of the cupboard unit which faces the breakfast room has sliding glass doors and deep drawers for linen storage. This is a definite step-saver, says Mrs. Blackburn.

Kitchen equipment includes a stainless steel built-in oven and counter top stove and wall areas equipped for hanging pots and pans.

Furnishings, carried through from the breakfast room to the dining and living rooms, are in a warm honey-toned maple. Windsor chairs, drop leaf tables and a many-shelved hutch cabinet are at home with large oval wool braided rugs and the pegged floors.

Fireside wing chairs are slipcovered in beige and rose prints and another chair is upholstered in sea green leather. By the hearth sits an old spinning wheel.

The front porch, actually an extension of the living room, has three sides in window walls. This overlooks the deep ravine in the back. A pair of sliding French doors can be pulled to close this room off from the remainder of the house.

For floor, the Blackburns selected cork tile. The walls are paneled in knotty cedar.

Offering the ultimate in storage areas, the Blackburns have full walls of closets in hallways, the utility room and bedrooms. In the latter rooms, the doors are folding leather units with birch sliding doors for the other rooms.

The bedroom wing has a master bedroom done in green and white and a second bedroom done in yellow and rust. The bathroom for this wing is gray with dubonnet trim. Blue fixtures, including a recessed square tub, are used in this room.

For shades, Mrs. Blackburn selected natural wood shutters and these same shutters are used in the utility room for window decor.

The laundry and utility room, again efficiently planned and equipped, features a folding table which hinges on a wall. This is extremely handy, says Mrs. Blackburn, for wash days. Storage cupboards are part of this room's facilities.

A glassed-in breezeway whose walls are of knotty cedar provides an entranceway to the house whose plan also includes a three-car garage and workshop area. The garage doors have an 'electric eye' device which raises the doors from the inside of the automobile.

Builder of the Blackburn house was Robert Fetterly of Rochester.

Critique on Split-Level Gives Various Opinions

The split-level house seems to be going to seed. Not only is it spreading faster everywhere, but in many places it has grown into a complicated contraption with little family resemblance to the original designs that solved hillside building problems.

First called the tri-level house throughout the Middle West, the plan moved East and got fancy until now you can find five and six-level houses with so many little flights of stairs that one woman complained "No matter where I am in this house, I wish I were someplace else."

If you have been thinking about a new house you undoubtedly have wondered about the split-level idea—or already have decided you want it. It's the type of plan that can give you more house for your money than you can get in a one-story rambler, although not quite as much as you'd get in a conventional two-story house.

But there are a lot of things about split-levels that people don't like. And there are a lot of things that can be criticized architecturally. Still, these houses outsell all others and a recent survey showed that 90 per cent of the people living in "splits" said they would buy another one if they had to move.

• • •

Arguments both pro and con are summarized in the current issue of a professional publication which restricts its circulation to the home building industry. Since this study is not available to householders in general, we'd like to give you some of its highlights.

Here are the gripes about the split-level house collected door-to-door:

"1. It's so ugly! Chopped rooflines and awkward elevations mark the streetscape.

"2. We have trouble with water and drainage. Water stands in the yard, runs into garage, seeps into basement. Planting and cutting grass are difficult on mounds surroundings the house.

"3. The floor of our recreation room is so cold the children don't want to play there.

"4. The bedroom over the garage is cold.

"5. The stairs are too steep. Too many levels in the house.

"6. Our heating system isn't well balanced. The recreation room is chilly, the bedrooms fiercely hot (except over garage).

"7. The kitchen is too far from the recreation room and patio for easy serving of food to either.

"8. The one or two steps into the sunken living room are dangerous and cause accidents."

• • •

Why do people like split-levels? Here are five reasons:

"1. The house is so spacious. (The second living room and more open planning appeal to former apartment dwellers as well as to former ranch house owners).

"2. Our bedrooms are wonderfully private. The half-level-higher bedrooms seem to be much more remote from the noise of traffic in the rest of the house.

"3. The short stair runs are much easier than stairs in a two-story house.

"4. The house looks larger outside. (Owners feel this more substantial appearance over the ranch house has greater prestige value).

"5. It's nice to have something new."

• • •

The architectural critics observe that "split-levels sell when they are ugly (as most of them are). They sell when they are handsome (as they sometimes can be). They sell when they make sense. They sell almost as well when they make no sense at all."

Summing up, the editor offer this tip to builders—a tip for all of us to remember: "The split is a difficult, costly, and often ugly way to build a small house, but it is a good way to build a house that is just too big on one level to work well on a small lot."

As for the gripes of the owners, the publication concludes: "Most of them add up to the same thing—the split they bought is too small to be good."

Medicine Chest Needs Cleaning

Spring Chore Includes Inventory on Cabinet in Bathroom

"Where did we ever get all that junk?"

And where is the homemaker who, surveying cleaning chores, hasn't asked that question numerous times?

Medicine chests can be just as cluttered as any clothes or hallway closet and just as dangerous as roller skates on the basement steps. They're definitely a high-priority target in any housecleaning campaign. That doesn't mean there should be wholesale discard of the contents. But:

1. All unlabeled containers should be thrown into the trash can. Don't try to remember what use was made of the pink pills in the blue bottle. A mistake could be costly.

2. All medicinal and pharmaceutical products should carry the date of purchase so that over-age items can be easily detected. Argyrol, for example, loses potency quickly while certain vitamin tablets have a short span of effective life.

3. Ointments, salves, jellies and the like, especially if packaged in collapsible metal tubes, have an unusually long shelf life since air cannot get at the contents to dry them out.

4. Some throw-it-out signals are solid residues in the bottom of medicine bottles, cloudy solutions and darkened or watery ointments.

5. Never, never have an old prescription refilled without checking back with the family doctor.

6. A final hint for medicine chest clean-up time: Vitamins, penicillin drugs, all the mycins, cod liver oil, even cold cream and cologne, are better stored in the refrigerator.

Within a 500-mile circle drawn around Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, lies more population and probably more natural and manufactured wealth than in any such radius of any other metropolis in North American.

To Banish Moisture Provide Proper Drainage

According to a recent survey, over half of all new one-story houses are built without a basement.

Many of these have left crawl spaces of only 18 inches to 4 feet between the floor and the ground.

In such areas, moisture may be drawn to the surface of the ground by capillary action and evaporated into the atmosphere between the floor and the ground. As a consequence, the water vapor in this space usually becomes excessive.

This moisture often finds its way into the interior of the wall space and causes damage to the wood structure. Moisture from this source, as a matter of fact, may be greater than from all other sources combined.

Proper drainage of the crawl space should be provided so that water will not collect in this area. Surfacing the crawl space with waterproof concrete or a layer of heavy 55 lb. coated roll roofing, lapped 3 inches, will prevent the moisture from getting into the space between the ground and the house.

Artificial Watering Best?

Strangely enough in cities where there is little natural rainfall and practically all watering of trees and shrubs is done artificially, home properties are often planted more beautifully than in many cities where natural rainfall is fairly abundant. Salt Lake City, Utah, is cited as an example.

Color, Glass, Tile

Modern House Has Mind of Its Own in This Age

Here's a home with a mind of its own.

It has no cabinet storage above the work counters in the kitchen. It has a bathroom where one may read while bathing in a luxury styled tub. Picture windows are getting bigger — most of an entire wall is glass. A quarry terrace outside the living room area? Yes; but it doesn't stop — or start — there. The terrace extends right into the house.

And some other features: Part of the kitchen is in the living room. Near the guest room is a half-size powder room which also serves as a bathroom for the children. It has built-in storage — everywhere. Last, but not least, room colors and lighting are planned to complement each other, stimulating gay or restful moods when wanted.

What is this, an exorbitantly priced dream house? Not at all. All of the features mentioned here are part of the trend to good living in today's quality homes of moderate price.

Take the kitchen, for instance. Work counters are now being located under large or double windows for natural light which is ideal to work by. Storage is being built into the wall at waist-high levels as are the major appliances, the refrigerator and oven. The living room fireplace can double as a barbecue range for casual entertaining.

The use of quarry tile, for long-range economy and beauty, on terrace and living room floor makes a unity out of the two areas which are almost always in use at the same time. Its a definite design trend today. As for color and lighting? There's not a builder or architect who isn't conscious of the dynamic roles these two factors have in modern home design.

No Piano Dampness

Water is the province of the British. They have found a way to remove dampness from your piano. The new product that does it is a plastic covered cable installed in the lower front panel of the piano. Plug it into the electric outlet, and it maintains a heat a few degrees higher than the surrounding and presumably damp atmosphere. That keeps the piano dry. Maker is Warm-Glo Co. Ltd., of Progress road, Leigh-on-Sea, Essex.

Scale Does Everything

Toledo Scale Co. of Toledo, O., has perfected a new scale for self-service meat markets that not only weighs the meat but also prints on a label the weight, price per pound, the date, the total price of the meat in the package, and what kind of meat is inside the package.

Paint Averts 'Evil Eye'

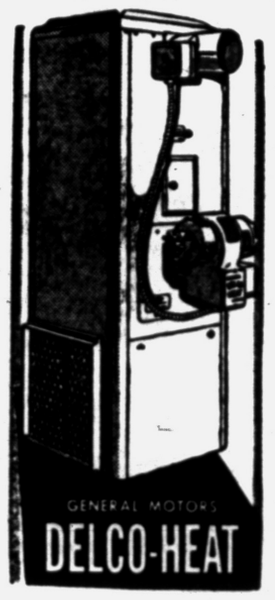

Fishermen of Caparica, Portugal, have no wish to draw the "evil eye" in the direction of their endeavors. To avert any such bad luck, they paint eyes on the prows of their fishing boats—a precaution also taken by the Phoenicians centuries ago.

When cane seats on chairs begin to sag, sponge them with hot water to which salt has been added. This will take up the slack.

NEW UNION LAKE BUILDING — Embree and Gregg Agency recently moved into its new building at 1565 Union Lake Rd. A 40 by 50 foot structure, the new building has a ledgerock and Roman brick front. Planters are placed at each side of the central doorway. One part of the building is designed for the insurance agency which represents six different companies, and the other was designed for a doctors' suite. Drs. H. L. Munson and William R. Rech of Walled Lake will move into the new location shortly. Other features of the building constructed by Frank Stewart & Sons of Pontiac include separate glassed-in insurance booths and pastel walls in citron green and cameo rose for the interior. An acoustical ceiling has been installed with fluorescent lighting used throughout.

Sometimes Smarter Not to Do-It-Yourself

The do - it - yourself theory can be carried too far. There are certain projects that homemakers might do without calling in professionals to remedy mistakes. But one who considers herself a Jill-of-all-trades, might find trouble abrewing.

A recent inquiry from a lady reader asks "how can I take up linoleum that has been cemented to the floor and save the linoleum."

Anyone who has ever seen linoleum removed knows that it isn't a cinch. As a matter of fact it is a fairly ragged proposition without enough smooth pieces left to make buttons for your toy soldiers. One authority says:

"Linoleum is put down with cement. The removal is a huge mess. Besides the fact that it must be ripped up for all practical purposes, the floor must be left spanking clean. The surface must be scraped and cleaned of every bit of cement before a new surface is put down. A little unremoved imperfection even the size of a dime can look like a mountain after new linoleum has been put down."

On the other hand new floor covering may be put down by the home worker, but that too takes a good deal of skill. Floors must be straight and the tiniest imperfections removed beforehand.

Neophytes do manage to put down composition tiles without a great deal of trouble. But employ common sense even when these squares are used. For one thing measurements must be exact. The floor must be spaced out perfectly — quarter lot sections make it easier than any other method, according to professionals. And the best idea, if you have the time, is to lay out the tile pattern in pencil or chalk.

If you plan a two or three-color scheme, use chalk, labeling every square in the color you have chosen. Square layouts are good for cork and rubber tile floors and for linoleum tile floors laid over concrete plywood or hardboard subfloors, according to the professionals.

Most people lay the tiles out in a dry run before they put them down permanently. The adhesive is then put down in an area measuring not more than about three feet square so that the paste will not set too fast. Excess paste may be removed from tiles with a damp cloth.

The center tiles are laid first and the boarder area, where tiles are to be cut to fit, is left until last (this must be carefully done and directions given by tile manufacturers must be followed). Each tile must be pressed carefully into place.

When it comes to putting down tiles, you might be capable of doing it yourself. But chances are (if you have a little investment in the tiles) it would make much more sense to get an estimate from your local tile man.

To Finish Job Right

After you have completed a painting job, all papers and rags you have used should be taken outside and burned.

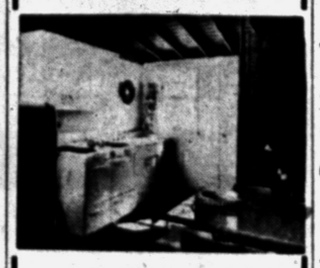

Pour any unused paint back into its original container and seal it tightly. Brushes and paint rollers should be cleaned carefully, according to the directions on your paint can label, then stored where they will be protected from dust.

The park system of Washington comprises almost 750 units in the District of Columbia and vicinity.

Water for Hammer Dent

DUAL PURPOSE DIVIDER—If your living and dining areas are side by side in the same room, why not separate them with a piece of dual purpose sleep equipment . . . a well-designed sofa bed, for instance? This will provide you with several advantages: A big-room feeling will not be impaired as it is with many room dividers; you will gain additional seating facilities; and you'll be able to sleep an overnight guest in comfort and style.

Dos and Don'ts of Lumber Buying for Home Hobbyist

Do remember that, with ordinary solid lumber, the dimensions are those before it was dried and milled; thus, a 2x4 is 1⅝x3⅝ when bought.

Do remember, too, that this does not apply to plywood and wallboard, which are sold by their actual dimensions at the time of purchase.

Do select both the proper grade and type of wood for the job at hand; it is a waste of money, for instance, to buy an expensive hardwood in top grade when it will be painted.

Do pay particular attention to the purchase of wood that will be used outdoors. Get redwood, cypress, cedar or some other wood that resists the weather or, if buying plywood, make sure it is stamped "exterior grade."

Do cut down waste by writing down the exact measurements of your project and then figuring out how much wood you will need.

Don't forget that lumber can be purchased tongue - and-grooved, beveled, shiplapped and in many other forms to make your job easier.

Don't select an open-grained wood unless (1) you plan on applying a wood filler or (2) you are striving for an "old world" finish, in which the pores are deliberately left open.

Don't expect the wood you buy to retain its exact color, since even the clearest of finishes tends to change the shade slightly.

Don't overlook the possibility of getting a better price by buying the wood in larger sizes and cutting it yourself, especially if you have a power saw.

Don't be afraid to ask your dealer for advice, since these days nearly all lumber yards cater to the home handyman.

Cutting an arc in a board with a keyhole saw can be simplified by cutting a series of kerfs to within a half-inch of the scribed arc. The American Builder suggests using an 8-point saw for these cuts. The scrap wood is knocked out with a hammer and the keyhole saw will not bind because small pieces will break away as you saw.

Farmers are generally likely to find their economic situation in 1955 to be about the same as in 1954.

Tubs Designed for Bathrooms

Big or Small, There's a Tub to Fit Every Size of Room

Rub-a-dub-dub, here are some ideas for a tub:

* * *

Any sort of a bathroom — big, small or misshapen—can have the right tub to fit in with the room's size, shape, and design. So if you're remodeling a bathroom, remember that you may save money by using an unconventional tub rather than knocking down walls to install a conventional one.

* * *

In the past, the standard rectangular tub that fits snug against three walls has solved the problem for most homes.

But with today's trend to larger bathrooms of more varied design, there's been the need for innovations in the shape, size and placement of tubs. Often, in today's bigger bathroom, the space for the tub will be actually smaller than in an older bathroom. A square tub, with the bathing area running diagonally across, is most often used in smaller spaces. The bathroom with a square tub often has a separate shower stall elsewhere in the room.

* * *

The rectangular tub with two finished sides can be placed against two walls with room left at one end for storage space, a chair, or even a handy bookshelf for reading while you bathe.

In some fine new homes, creative architects have extended tile over the entire tub area. This makes for a really luxurious bathroom because of the wide variety of colors and design possibilities of ceramic tile. But it's practical too; the material insures a sanitary, slip-proof, definitely waterproof and easy-to-clean tub.

* * *

Finally, here's the newest twist to bathing: the sunken tub. Set beneath the floor level, the sunken tub is a good space-saver and makes bathing a new delight.

Terrace a Need for Today's Home

When you purchase a new house you are investing in much more than a structure with so many rooms, windows, doors and the like.

A sizable portion of the purchasing price goes into the home's location and the outside landscape.

For that reason, give a good deal of study to your plot's possibilities for future development.

Ideally, it should be large enough and so shaped that the addition of a terrace can be made in a few years. A terrace is really necessary for modern outdoor living.

With the trend to larger families and informal entertaining, a terrace helps measurably to increase a home's living value.

Ceramic Art Influencing Modern Home

You see it everywhere — the important new influence of ceramic art on modern homemaking. Some excellent work is being done in the field. Artists are developing new color techniques and glazes, finding their inspiration both from the modern abstract and the rich romanticism of the past.

Their ceramic tiles are used as wall pieces, table tops, bookend inserts, and even as entire wall panels. Known for warm textural and color effects, this flowering new art has now extended the versatility of ceramic tile into all phases of homemaking.

The same practical qualities that have distinguished tile as a waterproof, durable surfacing for bathrooms and kitchens still apply in the artistic use of the material.

Scratchproof and fireproof, a tiled table top, for instance, can withstand a lifetime of constant wear and still retain its beauty.

Cushion Comfort Today Comes From Wire, Nylon, Plastic, Glass, Steel

NEW YORK—Furniture comfort of yore meant cushions—of either horsehair or feathers. Ingenious designers and manufacturers today are proving that without resort to the animal kingdom—in fact, without cushions—chairs can be more comfortable than ever.

A variety of new ways to create resiliency in chairs has been developed. Sculptured shapes, metal "cradles," woven wire, mesh nylon, or plastics are but a few of such new "cushion-less chair" treatments. Welcome by-product of many of these new devices is the comparative freedom from household chores and cares unhappily inherent in upholstered pieces, since upholstery and it cleaning needs are completely eliminated.

Selig of Leominster, for example, has produced a chair adapted from an 18th Century wing seat, but in a modern indestructible material called fiberglas. Anatomically contoured to fit every curve of the body, the chair—in a variety of colors for and home scheme or for any room — gives life-time service without upkeep problems.

Hans Wegner has created a high-back rocker of teak, with seat shaped to make cushioning unnecessary for solid comfort. Another teak chair—an armless occasional chair—has laminated seat and back so designed that it actually has springiness without springs. The seat and back are attached to hairpin-shaped metal legs with a brass screw, creating a "floating" look and feeling.

A bentwood chair, adapted from a turn-of-the-century school desk, recently introduced in Chicago, has either maple or walnut finished back, tubular steel frame and ribbon-shaped legs. Back and seat are fashioned so that they completely comform to body contours.

Avaard has used another means of developing comfortable contours in a cushion-less chair. Carving on the seat and back of a walnut chair has been so cleverly placed that the "scooped out" places provide solid "sink-in" comfort.

Summer furniture, too, has developed figure-shaped contours for the sitter's comfort. Newest collection, from The Troy Sunshade Company, features thin slats of curved redwood coupled with tubular, tapered frames of gold anodized aluminum for unupholstered comfort.

Spun nylon's resiliency has been utilized by Designs In Production for a black wrought iron framed chair that requires no cushioning. The elongated chair—almost a half chaise longue—provides complete relaxation.

A diamond-shaped frame, with rounded points and with metal wire mesh "upholstery" coated with resilient plastic, has been used by Harry Bertoia for a flexible all-purpose occasional chair.

The one-time heavily-upholstered and cushioned "glider" for outdoor comfort has likewise taken on trim, cushion-less lines. New by Zerbee-Texteel is a collection of gliders and chairs with woven wire providing the "give" for comfort.

New Finishes Aid Home Decorators With Wood

New developments in wood finishing play a large part in creating more livable and more desirable interior decorating schemes.

These new furniture finishes are the result of intensive color harmony studies and surveys. They combine the best in so-called "casual" and neutral tones, blending qualities and depth.

HOW TO—The many varieties, sizes and textures of plywood make it ideally suited to the needs of the home woodcrafter.

Plywood's New Specialty Is Home Improvements . . .

Home woodworkers have long been fond of plywood for its many favorable characteristics. Chief among them is its tendency to resist warping and twisting.

That fact, plus the added advantage that it is readily obtainable in much wider panels than natural lumber, and that it can be purchased with hardwood veneers that duplicate the finest grain patterns of natural lumber, makes plywood a workshop "natural." Its uses have limits, however, and natural lumber is still essential to almost every kind of woodcraft project.

The two general types of plywood are Exterior and Interior. Waterproof Douglas fir plywood is used for all exterior applications, because its plies are bonded with synthetic resin, which stands up under extremes of weather.

Interior plywoods range from Douglas fir, a softwood, for wall and ceiling panels, subfloors, storage units and many types of furniture, to hardwood-veneer types mentioned before.

Highest grades of Exterior and Interior plywoods are made in widths of 2½, 3, 3½ and 4 feet and lengths of from 5 to 12 feet. Lower grades come in a shorter range of sizes.

There are several grades and classification of plywood adopted by the Douglas Fir Plywood Association as standards for the industry.

For instance, the highest grade of either Exterior or Interior fir plywood is called A-A, or "good-two-sides." That means both sides are sanded smooth and have high-quality appearance. Plywood designated A-B is a common workshop grade. It has one sound side suitable for fine finish, while the other side has small, tight knots or other slight imperfections.

The lowest grade the handyman is likely to use is the A-D grade, for wall and ceiling paneling, and other uses where only one face will show. Of course this grade costs less than either of the others mentioned.

Thicknesses of plywood range from ⅛ inch for hardwood veneer construction to 1⅛ inches for Douglas fir Exterior grades.

Hardwood plywood is graded differently from the Douglas fir variety. Grade 1 is the highest and calls for close matching of grain and color of both sides. Very slight imperfections are allowed. Grade 4 Rejects is the lowest designation and this type should be used only where it is entirely concealed.

The most common and most readily available hardwood plywoods are walnut, mahogany, oak, gum and birch. There are many others not quite so easy to obtain, and all have a wide variety of grain patterns.

To the home woodcrafter or everyday handyman, hardwood-veneer plywoods have great appeal for making fine furniture, including cabinets and desks, television and radio cabinets, table tops, wall coverings and others.

There are other types of special plywoods, such as striated or textured wall tiles, hardwood plywood planks, also for wall paneling, and plastic-faced plywoods for kitchen tables, sink tops and similar treatments. Everything considered, plywood is a highly versatile, home-improvement product.

Good Planning for Basement

Economical, Efficient, It Provides Extra Space for Fun, Storage

A basement makes sense in a new home, if you plan it sensibly.

Over the years basements have fallen into disrepute because in nine cases out of ten they looked more like dungeons than possible living and work space. They were dark, dirty and usually damp.

On the credit side, the basement is low-cost space, and that factor is bringing it back today. But it's coming back with a difference, for far-sighted families are planning it as carefully as they do other parts of the house. Here are some of the things being done:

Basements are being planned so that they get plenty of daylight. They need windows two or three feet high, not the single dinky old-fashioned one that doubled as a coal shute.

The recreation or family room is planned into the basement when the house is built. To give that room needed color, the floor is finished with tile, which is durable and dentproof. A tile floor can be installed at less expense when the house is built than at some later date.

Access to the basement is being provided from both the exterior and the interior of the home. Exterior access makes it easy for the homemaker to take clothes from the basement laundry to the clothes line. It also facilitates using and storing garden tools

Waterproofing is being given thorough consideration. The ground-water level, the type of soil and the drainge are checked before the house is planned. Indeed, in some areas, these factors may make a basement impractical.

Finally, the problem of condensation in summer is being whipped. Proper ventilating, insulation and mechanic dehumidifying are all effective in keeping the basement dry and livable.

Proper Paint Important in Child's Room

Applying new and lovely color to a drab or discolored surface is fun at any time. Doing over a child's room is probably the most fun of all.

Children have very definite color preferences and their many interests suggest a wide variety of decorative themes. The new types of interior coatings are both easy to apply and easy to cleanse of grimy finger marks.

If you're doing a room for a young child who is still at an age where he is likely to chew or "mouth" toys or furniture, check with your dealer regarding the proper paint to use.

Never, for instance, be tempted to use left-over exterior paint where a child may get it in his mouth. Such exterior paints, made durable to withstand the driving force of all kinds of weather, are definitely not made to eat.

Hundreds of plans and variations in our files can help you decide what you need in that home you want to build. Just drop in and let us know that you'd like to get some planning ideas.

Edward G. Robinson, Son, Both Face Divorce Actions

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) —The marriages of the Edward G. Robinsons, both Sr. and Jr., have hit the rocks.

Edward Sr., the movies' "Little Caesar," was sued here yesterday by Gladys Robinson, 59, after 28 years of marriage. She accused him of "destroying my happiness" and "destroying the legitimate ends of matrimony." She charges mental cruelty.

A few hours later the wife of Edward Jr., Frances Chrisholm Robinson, 24, instructed her attorney, S. S. Hahn, to bring suit for divorce next Monday on grounds of incompatibility.

"We'll try to get the divorce as quietly as possible so far as the accusations are concerned," Hahn said.

* * *

Mrs. Robinson Sr. yesterday asked temporary alimony and half of community property which she values at $3,500,000.

The movies' tough guy married the former Gladys Cassell of New York City in 1927 in Medina, Pa. She was known professionally as Gladys Lloyd.

The 61-year-old actor stated through Warner Brothers Studio, "this is a tragic occurrence after many years of marriage . . . there is a possibility that we may resolve our differences. At least, that is my hope."

The Robinsons have had one of filmdom's longest marriages. The divorce came as a big surprise to Hollywood.

Mrs. Robinson said she will leave Hollywood and spend six months at LaGuna Beach, Calif., and then go to Italy's Gritti Palace on the Adriatic Sea to live.

* * *

Her suit listed among the joint assets $1,700,000 furnishings and paintings and their $175,000 Beverly Hills home. She said they also have two cars, bank accounts, and $263,000 in bonds, stocks and insurance.

Robinson, a noted art patron, has a large collection of paintings, including the works of Van Goh, Cezanne, Renoir, and Gaugin.

Robinson Jr., 22, and his TV actress wife were married in 1952. They separated for the first time last June but were reconciled. Hahn said the couple remained together three months. "When young Robinson failed to keep his promise to stop drinking, they separated again," he said.

The young couple faced problems from the start. Robinson Sr., learning of his son's elopement to TiJuana, Mexico, stopped the latter's $70 weekly allowance and ordered the newlyweds out of his Beverly Hills home.

Robinson Jr. subsequently was arrested on a charge of issuing checks to defraud. The charges were dismissed. Drunk arrests followed and last December robbery charges against the youth were dismissed in court here. The elder Robinsons stood by their son during the legal tribulations.

The young couple has a 22-month-old daughter.

Senate Earmarks $1.5 Billion for FHA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate by voice vote yesterday passed a bill to add 1½ billion dollars to the amount of mortgages which the Federal Housing Administration may insure.

The measure now goes to the House, where a similar bill has been approved by the House Banking Committee.

Sponsors said the measure is needed to continue FHA activities between now and June 30. They said the present authorization is almost exhausted.

The Senate acted over the protest of Sen. Byrd (D-Va), who contended all government civilian housing programs should be ended. He said they were started as depression measures and "have outlived their usefulness." He contended also the government program "is suffering from scandal."

Reds Warn Jap Voters Against 'U.S. Dictation'

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China today pictured the Japanese election tomorrow as a crossroads leading in one of two directions—"toward independence and peace," or to subjection to "U.S. dictation."

"The first course is heartily welcomed by the Asian peoples, especially by the people of China," a Peiping radio broadcast said.

UAW-CIO Says Prices Too High

Union Notes No Drop in Cost-of-Living to Equal Lower Buying Power

DETROIT (AP) — The CIO United Auto Workers (UAW) union sees "additional evidence that prices are still too high," in the current cost-of-living index.

The January index, announced yesterday by the Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics, showed insufficient change in living costs from October to alter the 6-cent hourly allowance now being received by some one million UAW members whose wages are tied to the index under so-called "escalator clauses" in work contracts.

Auto workers gain or lose a cent quarterly on each .6 of a per cent fluctuation in the index. The index stood at 114.3 on Jan. 15, down only two-tenths of one per cent from Oct. 15, the government said.

The UAW said in a statement:

"While there has been a decrease in employment, farm income and purchasing power, there has been no corresponding decrease in the cost of living, and no amount of political propaganda can camouflage this sad economic fact."

The index announced yesterday could be the last affecting auto workers at Ford and General Motors. UAW contracts with Ford and GM expire before the next adjustment period. Chrysler workers, however, will have at least one more adjustment. The union's Chrysler pact doesn't expire until Aug. 21.

The BLS index for April, which could affect Chrysler wages on June 1, will be announced in May.

The UAW also reiterated yesterday that it will demand continuation of both the escalator and annual improvement factor clauses in new contracts with the auto industry.

The annual improvement factor clause gives auto workers a 4 cent hourly raise each year to compensate for job-cutting technological advances.

At the same time the union said anew it wants no contract longer than two years.

Ex-Truman Aide Sees GOP Victor in 1956 Election

RED BANK, N.J. (AP)—Democrat Leon Keyserling told a Roosevelt day dinner of the local Americans for Democratic Action last night he does not expect a Democratic presidential victory in 1956.

Keyserling, onetime economic adviser to former President Harry Truman and a New Dealer, outlined the record of the Eisenhower administration and then added:

* * *

"I believe the President will run again. It is extremely difficult to wrest victory from a popular hero and a sincere man."

He said two things will help the Republicans win again: The people will remember that "the boys" are back from Korea, and the international situation will gain votes, assuming there is no general war.

Keyserling told the ADA members, "I may be stepping on some toes, but I wonder about the role of ADA in politics." He said it was not good to have small groups interfering in political affairs.

Nab Detroiters in Robbery Plot

2 Held in Kansas City; Planned to Dynamite Payroll Car, Police Say

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Two Detroit area men were among six held today for investigation in a plot to blow up a payroll car from Grandview Air Force Base.

Kansas City police said they stumbled onto the plot while checking leads on several holdups and robberies, including the theft of dynamite from a construction project.

The Detroit area men were identified as Airman Walter W. Kalomyski of Wayne and Airman Gerald Richard Domcik, 20, of Detroit. Domcik is stationed at Grandview Air Force Base.

The others held for questioning are Robert E. Beebe, 24; Raymond L. Ratty, 21, and Cleero Watson, 21, all of Kansas City; and Airman Charles Cole, 24, Miami, Fla., also stationed at Grandview.

Police said the six abandoned the plan to blow up an Air Force staff car carrying a payroll because some of them held the risk to be too great.

Police identified Kalomyski as masterminding the plan. Officers added that Kalomyski, Domcik, Ratty and Cole first attempted to test their scheme by dynamiting a bridge last November. After that, police said, they blew up an abandoned truck, in further tests.

Windsor Bar Hostess Stabbed by Flunky

WINDSOR (AP) — A Windsor mother of three was stabbed to death late yesterday in a Windsor restaurant. Police accused a 24-year-old bar flunkey and said he did it apparently without reason.

The victim was Mrs. Betty Lesperance, 33, stabbed twice in the chest and once in the back with a stout hunting knife with a 4½-inch blade.

Charged with murder was Vitalija Lukasev, who also went under the name of Victor Lucason. He ran into a police station and surrendered minutes after the stabbing.

Mrs. Lesperance was a hostess in the restaurant, where Lukasev was a handyman. Police Lt. Alfred Carter said Lukasev apparently had no grudge against the victim and that they generally worked in separate parts of the building, seldom coming in contact with each other.

Panhandle Gas Appeal Refused

U.S. Court Turns Down Petition to Stop Pipeline of Competing Firm

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has turned down a petition by the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co. that sought to prevent competing firms from building a 130-million-dollar natural gas line from Louisiana to Michigan.

In an unanimous opinion written by Judge Gerad McLaughlin, the court yesterday upheld an order by the Federal Power Commission of Oct. 1, 1954.

The order conditionally authorized American Louisiana Pipe Line Co. and Texas Gas Transmission Co. to build facilities to supply natural gas to Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. and Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Co.

The two firms plan to build a line from Krotz Springs, La., to Detroit.

Panhandle Eastern said the line would affect its interests. The court ruled Panhandle failed to show how it would be adversely affected.

The court said there exists a need for additional gas in the areas to be served and it said Panhandle has given no indication it plans to service those needs.

Unofficial Surveys Show Million New Cars Sold

DETROIT (AP)—The auto industry already has sold a million new cars this year—if unofficial surveys are approximately correct.

Last year it was mid-March before that sales milestone was reached.

Most industry authorities agree the sales volume will increase during the coming four months. Thus it is wholly possible the January-June retail deliveries will top the 3¼ million unit mark.

Experts also appear to agree the big three of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler will account for more than 90 per cent of the January-June sales volume? Some say Chrysler, currently engaged in a comeback effort, will account for 20 per cent of this total.

Most surveys indicate the 1955 production and retail sales patterns are following rather closely those of the latter part of last year. But the share of the market going to each of the larger companies isn't just falling to them automatically.

There never has been a time in industry history when the retailing division had to put forth as much sales effort.

Weekly and monthly production and sales records have been falling repeatedly. Nobody has been bold enough to predict this year's output and retail deliveries could top the 1950 record totals—6,675,000 assemblies and 6,220,000 deliveries.

It must be noted, however, that such an achievement is not impossible. A leveling off of production and sales after mid-year is something of a tradition in the auto industry. But nobody expects a major decline. And, if present indications are borne out, model changeovers will start at least a month earlier than in 1954.

Pay Adjustment Unchanged

Curtice Says 5-Year-Pact Brought Industrial Peace

DETROIT — General Motors Friday afternoon announced that there had been insufficient change in the nation's cost-of-living index to require any new adjustment in the cost-of-living allowance to be paid its approximately 390,000 hourly rate employes during the next three months.

Thus these employes will continue to receive a total hourly cost-of-living allowance of six cents per hour for the months of March, April and May. In addition, approximately 103,000 eligible salaried employes will continue to receive a total quarterly allowance of $30 in this period.

Under the GM wage formula, wages are reviewed quarterly and adjusted in line with changes in the consumer price index of the U. S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Friday marked the twentieth review of the cost-of-living allawance in the five-year period since the agreement was signed with the UAW-CIO and other unions representing GM hourly-rate employes in the spring of 1950.

During the five-year period, the cost-of-living allowance was increased in eleven quarterly periods, decreased in six quarters and remained the same in three other quarters.

Commenting on the effects of the five-year agreement, Harlow H. Curtice, General Motors president, said: "When it was signed in 1950 it was the hope of both parties that this agreement, and the administration of it in good faith, would bring about an era of industrial peace; that it would mean stable jobs with good pay; uninterrupted and high volume production; and would, in short, be beneficial to the employes, the shareholders, the suppliers, the customer and the management.

"That is has fulfilled the promise held for it is now a matter of record."

Following are some of the results attained under the five-year agreement, according to the GM statement:

During the five-year period, General Motors achieved record sales and a record volume of production. Also, it undertook the greatest expansion program in its history. The result of these actions were that 82,000 new jobs in the United States plants of GM were created since June, 1950, an increase of 20 per cent in total U.S. employment by GM in less than five years. This was accomplished despite a steady decline in defense jobs during the last two years.

The hourly earnings of GM hourly rate employes has increased 44 cents since June 1, 1950, under operation of the wage formula incorporated in the agreement.

Of this amount, 22 cents represented the net increase in the employes' cost-of-living allowance during the five years. It was this portion of the formula which was designed to protect GM employes against inflation and preserve the purchasing power of an hour of work.

The other 22 cents was paid hourly-rate employes in the annual improvement factor of standard of living increases in their base rates of pay.

Additionally, approximately 40,000 skilled trades employes received basic increases of 10 cents per hour or more beyond the cost-of-living and annual improvement factory increases.

Work remained at steady and high levels throughout the five years of the agreement with hourly-rate employes averaging 40.7 hours of work per week during the period.

There were no major strikes in GM plants during the five years and, as a result of prompt and co-operative action on the part of both union officials and company personnel, time lost as the result of minor stoppages was kept to a minimum.

The end result was that GM hourly rated employes lost an average of only 33 minutes per man per year during the period because of work stoppages. The best record was achieved in 1954 when only 3 minutes per man employed on the average was lost because of stoppages.

Under the new GM pension plan negotiated in 1950 with the UAW-CIO and other unions, 12,700 hourly rate employes have retired and were paid $11,800,000 by GM in pension benefits.

Also, $168,000,000 was paid out to GM hourly rate employes in sickness, accident, death benefits and hospital and surgical expenses under the GM insurance and benefit program during this five-year period. The company and employes jointly share the cost of these insurance and benefit programs.

To Hunt Treasures in 2-Man Submarine

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP) — An Oklahoma City engineer, who helped design an experimental submarine said today it will be leased by a group of Michigan adventurers hunting sunken treasure in the Caribbean.

Engineer George Moore said the Caribbean Expedition Co. of Mackinaw City, Mich., plans to accept delivery of the two-man plastic sub June 1 at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

"It is an established firm interested in more than 300 locations in the Caribbean," Moore said.

"Three of their expeditions are in the area now engaged in salvage and sunken treasure work. They plan to use our sub at depths up to 600 feet."

Moore said he plans to go to Mackinaw City sometime in March to complete arrangements.

It required 13 years to build the Brooklyn bridge.

AN OPEN LETTER To All TV Owners from the Oakland Co. Electronic Assn.

Numerous complaints are being received by this association from television set owners regarding repairs recently rendered their TV sets. 90-Pound Blonde Picked to Play TV's Jenny Lind

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Beautiful gals with coloratura voices are about as easy to find as diamonds in the Bowery, but Television has made a real discovery in Leni Landry, a shapely 90-pound blonde with music in her throat.

Leni, who will do the role of Jenny Lind, the famed Swedish Nightingale, in an upcoming "You Are There" TV drama, had to go all the way to London to be discovered for an American video show.

"That's always the way it is," she said, "I'm not the only one. I met more American singers abroad than I did foreigners.

"I asked one girl from Brooklyn why she didn't go home and sing and she said (with full Brooklyn accent) Are you kiddin! I could never make a livin' there!"

Leni once was under contract to MGM as a "child wonder," but she wound up spending her film career in the schoolroom.

Then she scooted over to England where she studied voice, appeared in several British motion pictures, returned to America and married Albert Landry, a New York art director.

When she was asked to play Jenny Lind, the curvy little singer took the role so seriously she went to the New York public library and photographed actual scores sung by Lind during her sensational appearances in the United States.

"At first," Leni admitted, "I thought Jenny Lind had put a hex on me because I had 'stolen' her arias. First off, I got the flue then I lost my voice.

"And then, on the way to Hollywood the weather was so bad we had a forced landing in Denver (Colo.). By the time we got there I felt like something out of 'The High and the Mighty.'"

The songs, as warbled by Leni on the show, will be the first authentic renditions of the arias as originally sung by Jenny Lind in 1850.

"I can understand why they've never been sung since," Leni shrugged. "They're rough. I'll never attempt them again as long as I live!"

As per written, Leni will do the dramatic aria "Costa Diva" from the opera "Norma" and "C'est Bie L'air" by Myerbeer.

The blonde 31-year-old singer, who has been brushing up on the life of the Swedish Nightingale, discovered that Jenny had an amazingly brief career.

"I was surprised to find," she said, "that Jenny Lind quit about the age of 31, married and had five children!"

To Haul Down Flags Aboard 'Mighty Mo'

BREMERTON (INS) — The battleship USS Missouri will be decommissioned at the Puget Sound Naval Shipyard in Bremerton today.

Capt. J. R. North, skipper of the "Mighty Mo," will read the orders placing the historic battlewagon out of active service. Her commission pennant will be hauled down for the first time in nearly 11 years of uninterrupted service with the U.S. Fleet. The Missouri, although officially decommissioned, still will serve the Navy.

Her office spaces and living quarters will remain in use as she replaces the Battleship USS Indiana as the accommodation ship for the commander, Bremerton group, Pacific reserve fleet.

The "Mighty Mo's" colorful history was highlighted Sept. 2, 1945, when 91 admirals and generals of 10 different countries witnessed World War II's end as the Japanese signed formal surrender papers aboard the 58,000-ton vessel.

In 1940, one farm worker in the United States could produce enough food for 11 people, on the average. Today, with shorter hours, he can produce enough for 18 people.

Last Union Veteran, 108, Enters Hospital

DULUTH, Minn. (UP) — Albert Woolson, 108, last survivor of the Union forces of the Civil War was hospitalized here yesterday with what his doctor described as a lung congestion.

Woolson was placed in an oxygen tent soon after being taken to the hospital.

The hospital reported this morning that Woolson spent a comfortable night, but that the full extent of his ailment had not been determined.

The illness developed yesterday. Woolson had been up and about and apparently in good health Thursday.

A person needs to know between 6,000 and 8,000 Chinese characters to read Chinese newspapers with some facility.

Cop Spends 18 Months Hunting Honest Driver

SALT LAKE CITY (UP)—After 18 months, police officer Ed Myers is still looking for an honest motorist.

It was 18 months ago when Myers returned to his parked car and found a note on the steering wheel which said: "Here is $5 for the dent I put in your fender."

It was signed "a reckless driver."

Myers has even advertised in search of the man.

Worm Turns; Officer Faces Traffic Court

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (UP)—Dr. Paul G. Wolff, arrested on a charge of running a stop sign, followed a police car to police headquarters where he paid a $7.50 fine.

The physician then swore out a complaint charging the arresting police officer, Sgt. Clifton Bess, with exceeding the 25 m.p.h. speed limit on the trip to police headquarters last night.

The sergeant's case comes up in police court Monday.

Kalamazoo Driver Gets NAACP Award

KALAMAZOO (UP) — Rev. William Smith, a white laundry truck driver and assistant pastor for a Negro congregation, was named last night as the winner of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's brotherhood award.

Smith, a driver for the Kalamazoo Laundry Co. for more than 50 years, is assistant to the Rev. B. A. Roberson, pastor of the Mt. Zion Baptist Church.

Smith was presented with the award last night at the brotherhood week banquet by University of Michigan board of regents member Alfred B. Connable.

Jobless Claims Spurt Upward Here This Week

Jobless claims spurted upward this week to a total of 2,715, the Pontiac office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission reported yesterday. The total is 68 above last week.

Unemployment claims should drop to the 2,000 level within a few weeks, said James H. Dudley, branch manager. "We're already getting requests for help," he said.

Would Disbar Those Who Refuse to Testify

CHICAGO (AP)—A lawyer who invokes the Fifth Amendment against self-incrimination, says the president of the American Bar Assn., should be disbarred.

Such attorneys, said Loyd Wright of Los Angeles, show "lack of loyalty," and "negate the presumption of fitness to continue as a lawyer."

Speaking before the Law Club of Chicago last night, Wright said: "When the assertion of the constitutional right by one who is also an attorney to seek protection against self-incrimination under the Fifth Amendment is present, this seems to me to be completely inconsistent with his high status as a member of the bar and an officer of the court."

He added the Fifth Amendment, however, must be preserved "to protect the individual against the collective power of government."

The dangers of the police state would loom large indeed if we were without it," Wright said.

Gen. Hull, Far East Chief of U.N. Forces, Will Retire

By C. YATES MCDANIEL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army today announced the retirement April 30 of Gen. John E. Hull, U.S. and U.N. commander in chief in the Far East. His successor was not named immediately.

Hull will leave the Army after more than 37 years service and just one month before he would be subject to compulsory retirement.

Hull is the fourth Army general to hold the top command in the Far East, starting with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The announcement of his retirement, coming at a time when Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, second ranking U.S. commander in the Western Pacific, is in Washington, stirred speculation Taylor would succeed Hull.

The Defense Department has declined to comment on such published reports. It has also kept officially quiet about other reports that the top command in the Far East would pass to one of the other services, possibly the Air Force, now that there has been a large reduction in the number of Army troops stationed in Japan and Korea.

Taylor, who commanded the 8th Army in Korea, took over one of Hull's top jobs last November when he became commander of U.S. Army Forces, Far East.

Hull is a veteran of both World Wars and served successively as assistant chief, deputy chief and vice chief of staff for the Army before he went to Japan in October 1953.

Hull entered the Army in 1917 after graduating from Miami University in his home state of Ohio.

He was in charge of the big atomic weapons test at Eniwetok in the spring of 1948.

U.S. Returns 7 Red Fishermen to Set Example

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new effort to obtain the release of 15 American fliers jailed in Red China is being made by the United States — by setting an example.

It is returning to Red China seven fishermen rescued by U.S. Air Force planes after they were stranded on a reef about 200 miles off Indochina. The fishermen came from Hainan Island, just off the Red China Coast.

* * *

American officials reported the incident to Dag Hammarskjold, secretary general of the U.N, emphasizing the United States behaves in a civilized way and sends castaways home as quickly as possible.

Hammarskjold made an unsuccessful effort last month to persuade Red China to release the American fliers, captured during the Korean War. Eleven of them have been sentenced to prison terms as "spies."

Officials said yesterday the Red Chinese fishermen were rescued last May and taken to an Air Force base at Manila.

New York Prepares for Auto Inspection

ALBANY, N.Y. (UP) — New York's Motor Vehicle Bureau is getting ready for Sept. 1, 1955.

That's the deadline for the millions of family autos in the state to have their first official inspection. The bureau is already making plans to license some 13,000 inspection stations to help make the highways "accident free."

The system of periodic checkups at state-licensed private garages will start next summer. The bureau expects the program to be in operation in plenty of time for car-owners to meet the deadline. In return, they will receive windshield stickers to show their cars have been approved as mechanically safe.

The bureau noted that faulty brakes, for example, caused 353 death or personal injury accidents in the state during the first four months this year.

Family Beating Charged to Dad

Farmer Is Accused of Hitting Wife, 2 Children With Gun, Chair Arm

POPLARVILLE, Miss. (AP)—A 30-year-old tenant farmer was held today on charges of assault and battery with intent to kill after beating his wife and two children with a shotgun and a chair arm.

* * *

Sheriff Buford Walker said Chester Thrash fired the shotgun into the ceiling Thursday and then used it to beat his wife. The sheriff said 75 stitches were required to close the wounds on her head.

The sheriff said Thrash then used the chair arm to beat his two children, Linda Gale, 13, and Gary Lyn, 11. Walker said 125 stitches were needed to close the cuts on the girl's head and 75 were needed to close the boy's wounds.

Hospital attendants reported the three in serious condition last night, Walker said. In addition to the head wounds, Walker said they suffered numerous bruises and lacerations.

Walker said an argument developed between Thrash and his wife after they had been drinking.

San Diego Zoo Exhibits Texas Longhorn Steers

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The San Diego zoo counts two Texas longhorn steers, named Villa and Lobos, among its new attractions.

They were brought here from the federal government's Wichita Mountain refuge near Cache, Okla. Zoo officials said the 230 there represent about the last of the sturdy breed, developed from cattle brought to the new world in the 16th century by the Spaniard Villa Lobos.

The zoo said it is the only one in the west exhibiting longhorns.

Asks Whether Test Tube Babies Are Legitimate

CHICAGO (AP)—State legislatures should specify whether human artificial insemination is legitimate or illegitimate, says an American Medical Assn. official.

C. Joseph Stetler, director of the AMA law department, said no state specifically approves or bans test tube babies.

Stetler told the Headline Club last night he doubts that the AMA or any other organization should take a formal stand on artificial insemination in view of the moral and legal issues involved.

* * *

Another speaker, Ritchie Davis, visiting law professor at the University of Chicago, said doctors have estimated that the United States has 50,000 to 200,000 test tube babies.

The most recent court ruling on the subject came in Chicago, where a judge ruled that a test tube baby is illegitimate and that the insemination by which he was conceived constituted adultery.

The decision is due for a test in the Illinois Supreme Court.

Winnie Limits BBC Debates

Tells Broadcasting Co. Not to Rival Parliament as Public Forum

LONDON (AP)—The British Broadcasting Corp. has had a clear warning from Prime Minister Churchill to keep its place and avoid overshadowing Parliament.

Churchill—a House of Commons man for half a century and its star performer—says he never will permit the government-controlled BBC to drain away any of the Parliament's dignity and prestige by serving as a rival forum for topical debates.

* * *

As the situation stands, his Conservative party and the opposition Laborites have entered into a gentlemen's agreement with BBC under which it promises not to broadcast or televise debates on any subjects due to come up in Parliament within two weeks.

This ban has resulted in the BBC dropping discussion programs the past few days dealing with the hydrogen bomb and price fixing. Newspapers of various political views and some members of both parties have objected. They claim the gentlemen's agreement is strangling BBC. The ban particularly annoys Parliament members who regularly appear on TV and radio.

* * *

The House of Commons adopts legislation. But unlike the U.S. Congress, this putting of new laws on the statute books is not always regarded as the House's most important function.

It serves as a great debating forum where the often conflicting opinions of the nation can receive an airing and as a place where the actions and policies of the Cabinet can be subjected to close questioning.

In Churchill's view, one forum at the center of the nation's affairs is enough.

Pier Angeli Shaken Up as Plane Hits Rough Air

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Actress Pier Angeli, wife of crooner Vic Damone, was under hospital treatment today for bruises suffered when she was shaken up on an airplane.

The pilot of a Western Air Lines plane said Miss Angeli was in the lavatory when the plane struck turbulent air while nearing the airport on a trip from Los Angeles yesterday.

The actress, an expectant mother, was brought to Desert Hospital after a routine landing. Damone was not with her.

Reflections

Classified Love Story

J. L. VOORHEES

Philip C. Lucido was in love; that in itself is nothing unusual. The fact that his lady-love was a wife he had cherished for 21 years, in contrast to the few months that seem to be the ultimate of endurance and the short cryptic sentence we read, "I am not responsible for debts of anyone but myself," then 21 years is indeed unusual.. He cast around in the sea of ideas for some unusual way to again declare his love; he could have sent flowers, or candy, or taken her out to dinner, bought a new car or evening gown but that would be usual. He wanted the unusual.

M. E. SIPLE

He composed a declaration of love for his wife, Charlotte, and ran it as a classified ad in his newspaper.* "I am responsible for all debts — of my wife — happy to be the provider for a woman who has borne me six lovely children — has made the past 21 years the nicest of my life."

That sentiment is a beacon marking the deep channel of marital bliss.
