Nikita Invites Ike to Russia

Says Eisenhower Can 'Go Anywhere,' Repeats Offer on Berlin

MOSCOW (U-P)—Nikita Khrushchev, urging an end to the cold war, today offered Soviet guarantees of western access to West Berlin if his plan for settling the crisis is accepted.

The Western Powers so far have declined to consider the plan, which calls for making West Berlin an international city.

To appease Khrushchev in his final address coupled new warnings to the United States with an invitation to President Eisenhower to visit the Soviet Union.

The Soviet premier said Eisenhower could bring anyone he chose and go anywhere. He said the visit should prove useful.

This invitation came after the premier repeated his warning that the Soviet Union "now has the means to deliver a blow to aggressors in any part of the world."

Addressing himself to Secretary of State Dulles, Khrushchev remarked "Mr. Dulles, if you so desire, then for the sake of ending the cold war we are even prepared to admit your victory in this war that is unwanted by the peoples."

"Regard yourselves, gentlemen, as victors in this war, but end it quickly."

Khrushchev expressed confidence the Soviet government union could avoid war and defeat the west in peaceful economic competition.

Turning to Berlin, major point of East-West tension, Khrushchev again presented a formula he advanced Nov. 27—a separate demilitarized West Berlin under U. N. auspices.

West Berlin, though 110 miles from West Germany proper, is now officially a part of that country. Khrushchev said the Soviet Union would be willing to guarantee the city's corridors to the outside world. This appeared to be firmer than his previous statement that the Soviet Union would guarantee West Berlin would be supplied with food and its economy supported by orders from East Germany and the Soviet Union.

11th-Hour Police Peace Try Set

Citizens Committee to Attempt to Settle Straley Dispute

A 15-member citizens committee will make an eleventh-hour attempt tomorrow to settle differences between Police Chief Herbert W. Straley and George D. Eastman, public safety director.

If the attempt fails, charges against Straley probably will be brought out into the open before the Civil Service Commission next week.

The two police officials have agreed to appear at the reconciliation session, scheduled to begin at 3 p.m. in the second-floor conference room at City Hall, next to the City Commission chambers.

Mayor Philip E. Rowston announced the names of the 15 committee members, including himself.

Others named to the committee are:

Louis H. Schimmel, former president of the Pontiac Board of Education; Rabbi Israel Goodman, spiritual leader of Congregation B'Nai Israel; Dr. Milton H. Bank, pastor of Central Methodist Church; Everett C. Spurlock, president of the Urban League; Dr. Roy V. Cooley Jr., a former city commissioner; M. H. Doerr, a real estate salesman; Andrew Montgomery, first vice president of the Oakland County AFL-CIO Council.

Emil Jaworski, a contractor; William J. Hart, general manager of Radio Station WPON; Maurice J. Croteau, Pontiac representative on the Board of Supervisors; James F. Spence, former Pontiac mayor; John W. Hirlinger, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce; Commissioner William W. Donaldson; and Clare Uley, a businessman.

The meeting will not be open to the public or the press, Rowston decided.

A private meeting, he believed, would encourage committee members "to express their private feelings."

Rowston said that each police official will be asked to explain his position briefly, then the meeting would be thrown open for questions and comment.

The mayor denied that the purpose of the meeting is to encourage Straley to resign quietly and avoid the publicity of an open hearing.

"But this is a possibility, of course," he conceded.

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (U-P)—President Eisenhower's vacation headquarters today declined comment on Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's proposal that Eisenhower visit Russia.

James Hagerly, White House press secretary, replied, "No, not as yet" when asked whether the Soviet Union had extended a formal invitation to Eisenhower.

The press secretary also declined comment when asked whether Khrushchev would be welcome in the United States.

General Motors Being Probed by Grand Jury

Records Subpoenaed by Justice Department's Antitrust Division

WASHINGTON (U-P)—Government sources say a federal grand jury in New York has been investigating General Motors Corp., already the subject of a probe by the Justice Department's antitrust division.

General Motors is the world's largest producer of cars. It makes Cadillacs, Oldsmobiles, Buicks, Pontiacs, and Chevrolets.

The Justice Department, looking into what it calls undue concentration in the automobile industry, yesterday subpoenaed extensive records of the Detroit corporation.

In confirming the grand jury investigation Wednesday night, a government source said the subpoenaed records would be presented to the jury.

The source said a team of nine Justice Department lawyers has been presenting evidence to the jury for several weeks.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Victor R. Hansen, chief of the Justice Department's antitrust division, told the Senate-House Economic Committee Wednesday the problem of undue concentration "plagues autos and steel." He did not name any firms.

Hansen said the GM investigation had been under way for quite some time. However, he emphasized that no conclusions have been reached.

"No legal action is now in preparation for filing," he said.

But sources that confirmed the grand jury investigation said this did not contradict Hansen's statement because a grand jury investigation is not a legal action before a court although it could result in one.

The source, asked why the subpoenaed records would be presented to the jury.

For Cause of Crash

Probe Electra Wreckage

NEW YORK (UPI)—Teams of federal investigators were examining every detail today of the crashed American Airlines turbo-prop airliner in which 65 of the 73 aboard died.

★ ★ ★ Preliminary reports indicated lack of altitude aids and height perception difficulties over water may have caused the crash.

The sleek Electra 188, one of America's newest jet age airliners, crashed in the water while on an instrument approach to La Guardia field over the East River just before midnight Tuesday.

No conclusions have been arrived at, but the investigation uncovered these facts:

—Runway 22 was not equipped with a glide-slope radio beam which allows a pilot to gauge his elevation. It did have a directional beam which the pilot was using to line up with the runway. Some runways at La Guardia have both electronic aids.

—There were no approach lights on the water which borders the field. The landing lights of the runway start at the runway's wateredge head.

—Reports indicate a pilot landing over water, especially calm water, at night often suffers complete loss of depth perception. He often believes he is higher than he is.

Swarms of police, Coast Guard and other craft searched the area of the crash until 8 o'clock last night. The search and further work on raising parts of the wreckage were continuing this morning.

A congressional inquiry also was announced.

Bar Gets Trombly Letter Announcing Retirement

MOUNT CLEMENS (U-P)—Probate Judge Joseph V. Trombly, involved in a dispute with the Macomb County Bar Assn., announced plans to retire yesterday.

The Macomb County judge's announcement came at a bar association meeting at which a resolution was passed calling for an investigation of Trombly's capacity to conduct court.

Trombly arose on discussion on the resolution started and asked to read his resignation application to Gov. Williams to the association. The letter said in part:

"It seems that a very serious question exists in the minds of several members of the Macomb County Bar Assn. that I am totally and permanently incapacitated to perform my official duties as probate judge."

Trombly's letter went on to say he had suffered a serious hearing impairment for the last few years.

It said Trombly is applying for retirement and requested an examination by or under the direction of the medical director of the probate judges retirement system.

Trombly then turned the letter over to Frank E. Jeannette, bar association president, for immediate mailing to the governor.

Disclosure of the letter brought a motion to table the investigation resolution. The motion was defeated and the 100 lawyers at the meeting passed the resolution. Some of the lawyers said they were afraid Trombly might write a second letter rescinding his retirement application.

Trombly said he had driven to the meeting from Monroe, where he went Tuesday. He reportedly went there to be examined by two out-of-state doctors. But Monroe County Probate Judge Valrie E. Dussia said yesterday Trombly was not examined.

Trombly fired James P. Rosso, superintendent of the county youth home, Sunday. But he reinstated Rosso Tuesday.

Friday's high is expected to reach around 22 degrees. This morning's gusty winds at 20-30 miles an hour will diminish tonight becoming variable at 8-15 miles tomorrow.

Dulles Winds Up Talks in London

Leaves for Paris Today to Discuss Allied Plans on Berlin Issue

From Our News Wires

LONDON — U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles scheduled a second round of talks with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd today before flying to Paris for conferences with French leaders on "cold war" problems.

Dulles leaves by plane for Paris this afternoon. He arrived in London yesterday from Washington on a mission designed at working out a United Allied policy on Germany, Berlin and other East-West issues.

French diplomatic sources said President Charles de Gaulle intended to make a strong bid for a bigger role by France in international affairs.

Dulles said in London he brought "no new proposals," that he had come to listen rather than talk during his visit.

He met yesterday with Macmillan and Lloyd and other top British officials. Informal sources said there was complete agreement on a flexible but tough policy on Germany and the Berlin crisis.

Dulles was moving swiftly to set up a Big Four foreign ministers' conference with the Soviets before May 27, the target date initially set by the Russians.

Stormy Atlantic Is Searched for Weather Craft

4-Engine Superfort Had Only Enough Fuel to Stay Up Till 3 A.M.

HAMILTON, Bermuda (U-P)—A U. S. Superfortress weather plane and its crew of 12 were missing today and presumed down in the stormy mid-Atlantic.

The big four-engine aircraft had only enough fuel to stay aloft until 3 a.m. today.

The search centered about 300 miles northwest of Bermuda where a Japanese freighter reported it saw a burning plane crash Wednesday morning in the Atlantic.

Although the freighter said the plane appeared to be a single-engine craft, the four-engine B50 should have been in the general area at the time.

Coast Guard planes and Navy flying boats scanning the area said conditions were foul with 40 mile-an-hour winds, rough seas, and visibility down to 1 1/2 miles.

Names of the 12 men aboard were withheld until next of kin were notified.

The B50 Hurricane Hunter, attached to the 10th Weather Reconnaissance Squadron at Bermuda's Kindley Air Base, set out at 6:45 a.m. Wednesday on a daily flight over the North Atlantic collecting weather data. It was due back at 7:38 p.m.

The Superfortress was last heard from at 8:25 a.m.—15 minutes before the Japanese freighter radioed its report of seeing a plane crash and disappear on hitting the water.

The Coast Guard Cutter Mackinac, based in Bermuda, was racing to the position and was due on the scene this morning. The aircraft carrier Tarawa and six accompanying destroyers, which were on maneuvers in the North Atlantic, were ordered to join in the search.

Torrential Rains Give Ike Rough Flight to Georgia

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (U-P)—President Eisenhower hoped to go gunning for South Georgia quail today with an end to the monsoon-like weather that marred his arrival late yesterday.

Torrential rains forced the President's plane into an alternate landing field after a bumpy ride from Washington. Eisenhower then had to motor 67 miles through the rain to reach the milestone plantation of former Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey outside Thomasville.

An Eisenhower aide aboard the plane said the latter part of the flight from the capital was the roughest in six years of traveling with the President.

Eisenhower, however, was in a cheerful mood on stepping from his plane.

"Where is your Georgia sunshine?" he inquired with a chuckle. "It looks like you're having a little rain here."

That was putting it mildly. Despite a big blue and white umbrella raised to protect him, the President was rain-whipped by the time he got to his closed car.

Form Organization to Push Bond Issue

Formation of a working organization to support two proposals on the ballot at the Bloomfield Hills school election on March 5 was announced today.

John McBride has been selected as chairman of a group of about 275 residents who have organized "Your Educational Security Committee."

Earl Gibbons will serve the "YES" Committee as campaign director. William S. Bachman has been named chairman of the group's public education activity.

Serving as precinct captains will be Douglas Booth, precinct 1; Richard Fricke, precinct 2; Robert Nelson, precinct 3; Dr. and Mrs. Mark Dale, precinct 4; Elmer Plaxton, precinct 5; Richard Grooves, precinct 6; and William Robbins, precinct 7.

The two proposals on the ballot are for an increase in operating millage to meet a deficit in school funds, and an $800,000 bond issue to cover elementary and junior high classroom shortages.

McBride said the proposal to increase operating millage calls for an additional 4.6 mills, bringing the total to 22.29 mills.

"School income for 1939 will be $1,119,000 under present millage, while 1939 operating budget requirements are $1,385,000," McBride said. "The schools are thus faced with a deficit of $266,000 this year."

"This has resulted from the reduction of the county allocation board's school millage allotment from 8.51 mills to 7.55 mills, a step made to divert funds to the higher welfare load. It has also resulted from the sharp decrease in state funds for school transportation," McBride added.

He said the millage increase is for three years. It would then be reduced to 3.6 mills for another three years, when it would terminate.

The bond issue, he said, would provide for a necessary 12-room addition to the junior high school, and a single-unit elementary school building to be erected on school property adjacent to the junior high school.

Worst Storm Yet Hammers Over Rockies

By The Associated Press
Wintry weather hammered northern and central parts of the country today, with the season's worst storm in the central Colorado Rockies and a fresh blast of icy air moving into the Midwest. Snow swirled across the northern and central Rockies, from Montana into Colorado except for the northeast corner.

It was near or below zero in most areas from sections of the Rockies through parts of the Dakotas, the Upper Mississippi Valley into the northern Great Lakes region.

Gusty northwesterly winds powered the cold air into the northern central region. The snow and cold headed into the northeast part of the country.

Denver sloshed through more than seven inches of snow. Scores of traffic accidents resulted from the hazardous driving conditions.

The heavy rains which hit the Southeast yesterday appeared tapering off and was confined mainly to areas from northern Florida and southern Georgia to southeastern Pennsylvania. Gusty winds of 50 miles per hour snapped 25 utility poles at Jacksonville, Fla., Wednesday night, and strong winds also buffeted western sections of the Florida Panhandle.

property adjacent to the junior high school.

Education chairman Bachman, commented today on the Dec. 8 rejection of a school bond issue by voters in the school district.

"For some five years now I have lived in the Bloomfield Hills School District. Since I have two boys in school, the 5th and 7th grades now, I have more than a passing interest in our school system."

"Recently voters of our school district turned down a proposal for a new bond issue and new taxes for our school system. Certainly no one likes to pay taxes. But this is where I'm confused: Mr. Opposition's reasons for voting against the issue... The buildings are too fancy and costly."

"Just about 30 years ago I was in the 7th grade in a Detroit public school. And I want to tell you about some real frills. We had not one but two swimming pools, one for boys and one for girls. That was only junior high."

"Today we don't have a single swimming pool in the whole school district! And you should have seen the auditorium! Orchestra pit, balcony, permanent seats, projection booth and more wings, drops, spotlights and ropes than any Player could dream about."

"Or take the cafeteria. Two food lines, lots of room and a choice of foods that Greenfield's would envy. In our new Junior High the auditorium and the cafeteria are one and the same... and in between times, it's used for classes."

"Too many frills in the courses and activities," says Mr. Opposition. "Say, I can remember going to Junior High and being offered a choice of three kinds of shop: woodworking, machine and printing. This 'spoiled' seventh grader of mine has one."

"So, Mr. Opposition, what frills do we cut out? Do we give our children less education than our parents gave us?"

"The clear call is for more and better education. From a practical standpoint, I've found out (the hard way) that 'more and better' anything is going to cost more. I note that my school taxes are less than Birmingham, Avondale, Waterford, Oak Park, Clarkston, Walled Lake or Farmington."

"There is one other sacrifice that perhaps we should face. Because we don't have a lot of industry and commerce out here, the home owner has to pay higher taxes. What we want in the way of schools we will have to pay for from our own pocket."

"I'm told that the additional taxes asked for amount to about $70.00 a year on the average house. How many of us haven't gone out and spent that on a dress, a suit, a night out or a weekend of skiing?"

"As businessmen, which most of us are out here, we should know that to be competitive we have to have a good product — as good as, and we hope better than — competition's."

"If we are in competition with the Russia's, China's and the rest of the world (and perhaps the universe) we'd better darn well see that our product can stand the competition."

"What our homes, our businesses, our investments, our life insurance is worth twenty years from now absolutely depends on these boys and girls in school today."

Says Court Order Flouted by City

Attorney Claims writ Requires Officers Be Put in Proper Positions

The attorney for two Pontiac police officers who sued the city to win promotions has charged that the city has not complied with a circuit court order requiring that officers be put in the positions they qualified for.

Paul W. Hart charged city officials with "flouting the dignity of the court" and "grabbing on a technicality to try and avoid the judge's writ."

Judge Clark J. Adams last October, in saying the city was violating the Civil Service law governing policemen, ordered that Sgt. Fred L. Goines be promoted to Lieutenant and Detectives Herbert C. Cooley and James F. Bale to sergeant openings. Bale wasn't a party to the suit but had placed second on a sergeant eligibility list.

City Attorney William A. Ewart said the city had "complied with the court order giving the men their positions as ordered in the writ of mandamus."

He said Public Safety Director George D. Eastman had promoted Bale to a sergeant position and that "Cooley just recently was appointed sergeant."

It is Hart's contention that the men were not given the specific positions as outlined in the court order, but rather the city had elevated Goines to fill the vacancy created by Lt. Claude A. Evans' retirement. Bale in turn got Goines' old job.

It was while the city was awaiting an answer for leave to appeal Judge Adams' decision to the Supreme Court that Goines and Bale were raised to higher ranks. The high court later denied the city's petition.

Ewart said, "all the court was interested in was to give them promotions and not what jobs you put them in."

Hart yesterday filed a motion in circuit court which, in essence, will ask Judge Adams to inquire of Ewart whether his order had been complied with.

A hearing on Hart's latest motion has been set for Monday before Judge Adams.

Other officers of the society elected recently are Dr. James Reid, of Birmingham, secretary; and board members, Dr. Jack Geist of Rochester, Dr. Harry Arnkoff of Pontiac and Dr. Robert Bookmeyer of Birmingham. Dr. Walter Zimmerman of Royal Oak is president-elect.

Register of Deeds Receipts Rise $2,473 Over 1958

The Oakland County Register of Deeds office noted an increase of $2,473 in receipts last month as compared for the same time last year, according to Clerk-Register Daniel T. Murphy Jr.

Murphy said month-end totals showed $19,762.90 was received for handling 14,941 papers in January. This compares with 12,284 papers which brought in $17,289.60 in January, 1958.

Five new land plats were also recorded in the office last month.

So were 2,620 deeds, 1,347 mortgages, 4,993 chattel mortgages, 3,731 photos, seven bills of sale and 2,243 miscellaneous papers.

President Maps Civil Rights Plan

Asks Congress to Make at Crime to Use Force to Obstruct Orders

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower called on Congress today to strengthen civil rights laws by making it a federal crime to use force or threats of force to obstruct court orders in school desegregation cases.

As part of a seven-point legislative package, Eisenhower said this proposal would give the government a valuable enforcement power to deter mob violence and such other acts of violence or threats which seek to obstruct court decrees in desegregation cases.

The program had been tagged by the President in advance as a moderate one designed not to raise temperatures. But it may not please either Southern segregationists or Northern liberals of both parties in all respects.

The package provides: Additional investigative power for the FBI in crimes involving destruction or attempted destruction of schools or churches. Eisenhower would make a federal offense of flight from one state to another to avoid detention or prosecution.

Authority for the attorney general to inspect federal election records and require the preservation of such records for a reasonable time, in order to help preserve the right to vote as "the keystone of democratic self-government."

Temporary financial and technical help to state and local agencies to help them adjust to the school integration.

Michigan Rhubarb Queen Chosen in Utica Contest

Their Week Starts Sunday

Clarkston to Honor Its Boy Scouts

CLARKSTON — "On my honor, I will do my best—" is the theme being stressed during Boy Scout week, Feb. 8-14, and Clarkston, like other Oakland County communities is getting set to honor its Boy Scouts.

Each of the 51 boys in the Clarkston troop will have a special part of the two morning services at the Methodist Church.

Beginning at 6:30 p.m. Monday, 117 Boy Scouts and their fathers will attend a dinner at the church, served by the newly organized Mother's Auxiliary, under the direction of Mrs. John Osbo, 6339 Northview Dr.

Following the dinner hour, Scoutmaster Jack Frost will present Tenderfoot, 2nd class, 1st class and Star awards at the annual Court of Honor.

FOUR MONTHS OLD

Only four months old, the Clarkston troop has worked diligently in the Torch Drive, Community Chest, churches and other organizations benefitting the community, Frost said.

There are four assistant scoutmasters and 22 active troop committeemen in the local group, who are available at a moment's notice, Frost said. "This is very unusual for such a newly organized troop."

One of the most coveted awards, and the only one permitted to be worn on a scout uniform beside his badges, is the God and Country Award. Six boys in the troop are working with Pastor William Richardson. At the end of one consecutive year, they will receive this award.

As in other troops, the week will be devoted to award presentations, making plans for future campouts, canoe trips and overnight hikes—"all contributing to the character building phases of boys in the 11 through 14 age bracket," Frost said.

Royal Oak Fire Costs $75,000

Believe Blaze at Market Caused by Overheated Conveyor Motor

ROYAL OAK — A fire at the Lipson and Gourwitz Market at the corner of Fifth and Main streets caused an estimated damage of $75,000 last night.

Fire Chief Wilfred Spies said it is believed the blaze started in the basement and was caused by an overheated motor on a conveyor used to carry stock from storage to the main floor.

A passerby rang the fire department from a nearby alarm box at 10:52 p.m. He was unidentified.

The flames burned a large hole through the back end of the roof by the time the firemen arrived. It took two hours to get the two-alarm fire under control.

Chief Spies estimated the damage at roughly $75,000. Most of the loss is believed to be in stock.

The store was previously owned by the B. and C. Markets chain, and was purchased less than a month ago by its present owners.

No one was in the building at the time of the fire. The store closed at 9 p.m. as usual.

Also: A New Concept for Business District Revitalization, Urban Renewal, Bus Problems, Engineering Problems, and Initiating and Completing a Capital Improvement Program.

The institute is sponsored by the U. of M. Institute of Public Administration in cooperation with the Michigan Municipal League and the Michigan Chapter of the International City Managers' Assn. All meetings are being held in the Rackham Building.

Issue 100-Year Farm Markers

State Distributes 1,000 Centennial Tags to Rural Families in Michigan

Over a thousand Centennial farm markers have been issued in Michigan since the Historical Commission instituted the program ten years ago, according to Director Eugene T. Petersen.

In cooperation with the Consumers Power and the Detroit Edison companies, recognition has been given to Michigan people whose farms have been in the family for 100 years or more.

A metal marker is given an eligible applicant, free of charge, along with a certificate signed by the governor, secretary of state and the commission officers.

There is no way to determine how many of Michigan's 139,000 farms are eligible to be certified, Petersen said, but historically the pattern of agricultural settlement until after the Civil War was restricted to the southern half of the lower peninsula, he added.

There is more than an average number of certified Centennial Farm owners in Oakland County with a total of 47.

Petersen explained that there has been much sustained interest in the program on the part of farmers anxious to promote annual get-togethers during the current Farmers' Week at Michigan State University.

Last year, a special program arranged by the university and the Historical Commission, drew 250 Centennial farmers and their families, and steps have been taken to draw up articles of association for a permanent Centennial Farm Owners group, Petersen concluded.

Nancy Oliver, 18, Begins Reign

Senior at Center Line High, She is Selected From Field of Ten

UTICA — A Center Line High School senior, 18-year-old Nancy Oliver, begins her reign today as the 1939 Michigan Hothouse Rhubarb Queen.

Nancy was chosen over a field of 10 other contestants in competition staged last night in the auditorium of the Utica Community High School.

When the judges' decision was announced the winner's eyes filled with tears and she said, "I'm so happy, I never thought I'd see this day."

The new queen is the daughter of Mrs. Lillian Oliver of 24795 Eureka Rd., Warren and the late Francis Oliver. Her ambition is to go to college and later become an elementary school teacher.

Runners-up in the contest were Lorelei Hoxie, 18, of Armada and Judy Jambriska, 17, of Utica.

Lorelei, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Hoxie of 74241 Burke Rd., is a senior at Armada High School. Judy's parents are the John Jambriskas of 9480 Canal Rd. She is a senior at Utica Community High School.

All of the girls appeared on stage in street dress first to be interviewed by Master of Ceremonies Patricia McRath of Aloha Bridal Salon of Pontiac. They reappeared later in formal attire for further questioning in front of the panel of judges and the audience.

The judges were Janice DeAnne of the American Beauty Finishing School of Detroit, Ron Serba of Kimberly Flowers, Detroit and Lee Winborn of the Pontiac Press editorial staff.

They graded each contestant on personal appearance, social poise, self-confidence, speech and knowledge of rhubarb.

Queen Nancy faces a busy schedule in the month ahead. She will make numerous television and public appearances to focus attention on the fourth annual Michigan Hothouse Rhubarb Festival to be held Mar. 7 in Utica.

The annual event is sponsored by the Wolverine State Growers Assn. and the Utica Rotary Club. Utica Rotarian Charles Bannow is general chairman of the event this year.

Other entrants in the queen's contest were: Jerry Szewinski, Carol Cameron and Arlene Ternes, all of Utica; Janet Rinks of New Haven; Dolores Biggers of Romeo; Elaine Cickoski and Virginia Berak, both of Warren and Lois Kethe of Richmond.

The Rev. Robert Winne officiated at the double-ring evening ceremony.

The bride, the former Sara Mullins, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Mullins of 6313 Salline Dr. The parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Hoobler of 4061 LaForest Dr.

Her sister, Mrs. John McKim of Waterford, served as matron of honor. Best man was Bill Wood of Waterford, a cousin of the bridegroom.

Ferndale Teachers Want Probe of Street's Ouster

FERNDALE — A request for investigation of Scott W. Street's dismissal as principal of the Paul L. Best School here has been sent to the Michigan Education Assn. by a group of Ferndale teachers.

At an "emergency" meeting yesterday, 175 members of the Ferndale Education Assn. voted unanimously that no teacher in the district would accept the vacant principal's post until the school board reviews the case.

Street was demoted to teacher status Monday by a 5-1 vote of the Ferndale School Board for failing to execute board policy. The demotion is effective Feb. 16.

Wendell W. Cutliffe, principal of Jefferson School and president of the Ferndale Association, said his group represents 285 of the district's 335 teachers. He said the Ferndale group also has asked the MEA to support its boycott of the principal's job.

"There is not one teacher in this district who will take over Street's position," Cutliffe said, "and if we win national support, the board will have a difficult time in finding a replacement."

Street's demotion is under study by the state attorney general's office. Street has declined comment on the demotion.

Elton Mayon, president of the Ferndale Board of Education said a statement clarifying the board's position is expected to be released later today.

Mayon said Street was demoted after the board heard a tape-recorded interview with parents of a fourth grade student at Best. The parents told of lack of supervision, disorder and informal teaching methods they said they witnessed during two visits to the school.

He said the board majority believed Street "never was going to carry out the program we outlined."

Warren will speak on the subject of appraisal work. A question and answer period will follow his address.

A new treasurer for the association will be elected at the meeting to replace Oscar Scheffler, who resigned.

Members and friends have been invited to attend.

Church Marks 1st Anniversary With Supper

AVON TOWNSHIP—The University Presbyterian Church, 1285 Adams Rd., will be the scene of a smorgasbord supper at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow in celebration of the church's first year of activity. The anniversary was marked at special services last Sunday, and the dinner is planned to be a more informal observance of the event.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Nierder have charge of arrangements for the party. Members of the supper committee are Mr. and Mrs. Allan Bartlebaugh, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Bunting, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin French, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brinkman and Mr. and Mrs. Almon Durkee.

The evening's entertainment is under the direction of Dr. and Mrs. Lowell R. Eldund and Mrs. George Hardy.

Invitations have been mailed, but the committee says that others will be welcome to attend.

Such persons have been asked to call any member of the committee for information or reservations. Mrs. William B. Boardmore, publicity chairman, said today.

Cast of Avon Production Set To Feature Star Players

ROCHESTER—The cast of the Avon Players' forthcoming production of "Visitor to a Small Planet" will feature seven local thespians well-known to players in Rochester including several who have starred in roles in Detroit theatrical circles.

Peggy Gallagher, Tom King, George Long and Gordon Miller all have professional backgrounds, while Louise Akers, Don McMillan and Duane Utecht have had star experience with the Avon Players and other groups.

The cast now is busy with rehearsals for their next vehicle to be presented Feb. 20 and 21 in the auditorium of Rochester Junior High School. Tickets will go on sale at 8:30 p.m. both nights.

Long, who plays the visitor from outer space, and Miller, who will portray the Army general, are both members of other little theater groups, including the Players in Detroit. Both men are writers and directors as well.

Mrs. Akers and King also have directed shows in Rochester and Detroit.

King is cast as the Drew Pearson-like commentator who is the unwilling host of the space visitor. King has had experience in summer stock in New England.

In "Visitor to a Small Planet" the general attempts to establish military law in the household "invaded" by the spaceman. The result pokes fun at science-fiction, at the Army and even at romance when the "visitor" observes the earthling habit of kissing.

Sarah Jones' Ancestors Built Taylor-Made Town

Centennial Farm Has Original Charm

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

More than 120 years ago, Lemuel Taylor called a conference with his nine grown children and their families, and they all decided to leave New York state to create a "Taylor-made" town in Michigan Territory.

That was the beginning of the settlement of picturesque Stoney Creek near Rochester in 1823 — and of the establishment of Michigan's oldest Centennial farm, now owned by a great-great-granddaughter, Sarah Van Hoesen Jones.

When the big decision to homestead in Michigan had been made, Lemuel was then in his early 60s.

The opening of the partially completed Erie Canal touched off the gigantic migration of many New Yorkers to Michigan in the early 1800s.

After arriving by boat on Michigan soil, it was still a long journey by oxen team and covered wagon for the Taylor clan until they finally reached their designated land, granted by President James Monroe.

There was no doubt in any of the pioneers' minds as to the location of the new town.

THE RIGHT SPOT

A sparkling creek winding down through a tiny wooded valley, between Rochester and Romeo immediately attracted the Taylor family. Stately birch, willow and pine trees lined the banks of the clear running water that rarely freezes over. The original beauty of the land has been zealously preserved by descendants of Lemuel Taylor.

Log cabins were built, one by one, on various inclines. Rather than have semicircular rows of cabins, each Taylor chose his particular location, and the area has still maintained the individual character established so long ago.

As years passed by, more settlers began to arrive. Schools, churches and eventually frame houses were built.

Michigan's first frame house, typically colonial, still stands in the area, and architects have come from all over the country to copy the unusual "salt-box" design, according to the present Miss Jones.

The original Taylor women determinedly insisted on bringing their most beautiful furniture from New York, and many articles are still in Miss Jones' colonial-style frame and stone home.

CHANGES MADE

After the original log cabin was torn down, the front-middle section of Miss Jones' present home at Stoney Creek, was built in 1840 by her great-grandmother's family. Later this was moved to a position where two large wings were built on either side.

Hand-hewn timbers from an old barn predominate in the entrance hall, and the circular stairway leads to an open balcony overlooking a magnificent high-ceilinged downstairs library.

The charm of early America has been retained in the home. Many original cherry chests, horsehair-covered furniture, and fine white marble tables are tastefully arranged in the spacious rooms.

One favorite "furniture incident" has been discussed down through five generations. Lemuel's wife, Sarah, insisted on taking her beloved hearthside rocker with her to the new land.

Just to be sure that it would arrive safely, Sarah sat in the rocker in the back of the covered wagon all the way from the boat landing to the present property.

That same chair is now in Constitution Hall in Washington, D.C., a memorial to that Sarah—daughter of a Revolutionary soldier.

Three years ago, the present owner followed a request of her mother and aunt, by giving some 300 acres of the Centennial Farm land to Michigan State University for educational purposes.

However, there is still much land surrounding the old home and all of the descendants of Lemuel Taylor have been buried in a cemetery on top of one of the highest hills—near the little town they created 127 years ago.

MICHIGAN'S OLDEST — Records show that the Sarah Van Hoesen Jones farm near Rochester, is on the oldest centennial farm land in the state. Deed to the original grant was signed by President James Monroe in 1823 and one section of the present house is 119 years old.

months old," said her mother in relieved tones, expressing the joy at finally having such a heavy burden of worry lifted from her shoulders.

"We suddenly noticed a rattling or wheezing sound in her back as though she had pneumonia," Mrs. Schultz said.

"Our doctor suggested we take her to Ford Hospital for some tests. Doctors there ran a small tube through one of her veins into her heart and found the trouble."

Pamela was living on a poor mixture of blood, doctors said. The hole in her ventricle allowed blood coming into the heart and blood leaving the heart to mix.

Doctors told her parents they must be extremely wary of the slightest sign of a cold. In other respects, Pamela could indulge in the many normal activities of children her age, except for the possibility that the heart defect might affect her growth.

GROWTH NORMAL

Pamela didn't show any signs of growing at a less rapid rate than other children in the neighborhood. But twice, when she was three-years-old, she developed the dreaded sore throat.

Pamela was not just bundled up and fed cough medicines for 48 hours or so like most children are.

She was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital where doctors gave her the latest drugs and their closest attention to keep her alive.

officials to hear a sampling of the community's thinking on their problem."

The City Commission called for the committee Tuesday in an effort to have troubles in the police department patched up before the matter went to the Civil Service Commission.

Since the issue concerns the city administration, no city officials except himself and Donaldson have been named to the committee, Rowston said.

It was Donaldson who won Commission approval of the committee.

A draft of charges against Stanley has been prepared by Eastman and is in the hands of the city attorney for finalizing before delivery to City Manager Walter H. Wilman, who is to present them to the Civil Service Commission.

The charges reportedly accuse the chief of incompetence and insubordination.

They must be in the hands of the Civil Service Commission by next Thursday in order to meet the requirements of a 90-day statute of limitations.

It was on Nov. 12, just short of 90 days ago, that Eastman stripped Stanley of powers and the chief has been chief in little other than name since.

Federal Grand Jury Investigating GM

poena had been issued for the records Wednesday if the grand jury has been in session for several weeks, said "these things take time."

In Detroit, GM Board Chairman Frederick G. Donner said the subpoena called for a "tremendous amount of information, records and reports."

Donner said "in view of the complexity of this request, it obviously requires considerable study and analysis on our part. We have not had an opportunity to examine the subpoena in detail."

The subpoena was disclosed after the New York Journal-American reported the Justice Department is preparing an antitrust suit against GM.

The Journal-American story by its financial editor, Leslie Gould, said the suit will seek to force GM to drop at least one of its five automobile divisions and General Motors Acceptance Corp., its financing affiliate.

Gould said that "unless higher-ups overrule the antitrust lawyers, a suit will be filed." He said the target for divorce from the General Motors lineup is Chevrolet, "the biggest in volume and the most profitable unit."

Combined 1938 production of the five GM lines was 51.1 per cent of the industry's 4,244,005 passenger car output.

GM now is the only company of the Big Three auto makers that operates a finance company. However, Ford has announced it will re-enter the field from which it withdrew some years ago.

After four months of classroom and laboratory training at Ann Arbor Practical Nurse Education Center, the trainees are putting their newly acquired knowledge to work. They've begun 10 weeks of practice on the medical floors and later will receive six weeks of training in obstetrics and four in pediatrics, said Donald H. Carros, hospital personnel director. About 90 practical nurses have been graduated from the hospital's training program since it was initiated in 1950, and most of these went on to be employed at the hospital.

The latest class will be graduated late this year and, if state board examinations are passed, they may join the hospital's large practical nursing staff, too.

However, the hospital has not employed any of the last two graduating classes, said Carros, because of cutbacks in the hospital staff.

While working at the hospital, the trainees receive a $4-a-day stipend. They get four hours of classroom instruction every week and are under daily supervision of the nursing coordinator in the area in which they are training.

In the present class are Marilyn R. Eby, 534 Second Ave., Rochester; Helen M. Farley, 5131 Westcomb St., Orchard Lake; Margaret Kimard, 294 Raeburn St.; Claudine LaFay, 5649 Rowley Rd., Waterford Township; Atrell Riley, 22 E. Beverly Ave.

Martha Sanft, 2427 LaFay Dr., West Bloomfield Township; Bernice Switzer, 118 Westway Dr.; Gertrude M. Thomas, 90 Jackson St.; Ina Wendell, 12 Downing Court; and Jean M. Willhite, 3075 Waukegan St., Auburn Heights.

Dollars Everywhere — None to Spend Money Walls Hurt State

LANSING (AP)—Dollars, dollars everywhere but not a cent to spend.

That's a fair description of one aspect of the state's present cash emergency, State Treasurer Sanford A. Brown concedes.

As of Jan. 30, Brown reported balances of $99,928,711 in various funds under his control.

But nearly nine dollars out of ten had some string tied to it, preventing its transfer to hard up state universities or use for welfare and other vital purposes.

Over the years, the voters and the Legislature have erected protective walls around most state funds, rigidly limiting their use to specified purposes for which the money was taken in — no matter how critical another need may be.

Balances reported by Brown included: General fund, $13,500,000; employment security administration, $5,500,000; aeronautics, $2,200,000; motor vehicle highway, $29,000,000; school aid, $20,000,000; liquor purchase revolving, $3,200,000; trunkline bond redemption, $5,200,000 and escheats fund, $2,200,000.

Romney Tells of Plans to Meet Competition From Big Three DETROIT (AP)—The trend of the U.S. car market is toward the compact auto, American Motors Corp. President George Romney told his stockholders yesterday.

He said AMC plans to meet future competition from the big three auto makers in the compact car field.

The big three—Ford, Chrysler and General Motors—are expected to offer smaller built cars next year. But they have not made official announcements on their plans.

Romney told AMC stockholders at their annual meeting the success of the firm's Rambler "indicates our major competitors cannot indefinitely stay out of this growing part of the market."

"Evidence multiplies," Romney said, "that the mainstream of the U.S. automobile market is reshaping itself in line with the compact car."

"It is clear that the Rambler rise represented more fundamental trends than those resulting from the recession. Furthermore, the new 1959 models of the big three have not slowed the rate of Rambler increase. Neither has the entry of Studebaker-Packard into the compact car market."

Romney said AMC's program to expand its annual capacity to the 440,000 car level will be completed by the end of the current model year.

Nixon Breaks 2 Ribs in Fall on Icy Walk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon is nursing two broken ribs, but he's not letting them get him down.

Nixon fell on his back Tuesday night when he slipped on the sleek-covered sidewalk in front of his home.

X-ray examinations Wednesday showed two ribs were broken, but he refused to have them taped.

Nixon said at a reception Wednesday night the injury was painful. But he joked about it and said he had never before had such thoughtful treatment from his daughters, Patricia, 12, and Julie, 9.

He said they carefully helped him with his coat and performed many other tasks for him when he came home Wednesday night.

"Steel sandpaper" is said to be as flexible as the common kind as well as non-clogging and long-lasting.

Test Ban Hinges on One Idea

GENEVA (AP)—The future of the East-West conference on suspension of nuclear weapon tests may hinge on Soviet acceptance of one simple idea—a scientific instrument knows no politics.

After three months of negotiations, the conference of delegates from the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union remains in a deadlock.

A Soviet demand for sweeping veto rights over all inspection and control arrangements designed to police a test ban never will be accepted by the United States and Britain, conference sources say.

The Soviet Union fears that without a veto, the other two atomic powers would gang up on it.

The Western delegations understand this Soviet fear. They explained, however, that a veto would make any agreement to suspend tests meaningless.

A government accused of sneaking an atomic or hydrogen explosion could veto the sending of an inspection team into its territory or veto the findings resulting from an on-the-spot investigation.

What avenues are left open for the conference? Can some safe way be found to give some sort of parity between East and West? Can a system be worked out whereby inspection would be automatic and uncolored by political considerations?

The American and British delegations feel it might be possible to make control of a test ban depend basically on the readings of such instruments as seismographs. Standards might be set up so that inspections would take place automatically when a specified number of instruments in control posts recorded a suspicious disturbance.

As one source explained, the instruments themselves would not lie. They would go on year after year recording disturbances in all parts of the world.

U.S. Space Boss Promises Speed, but He Won't Mention Any Dates

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON—“We’ll work like hell—but about dates, I will not talk!”

That’s the word from Dr. T. Keith Glennan, boss of the nation’s civilian space agency, concerning his outfit’s program for 1959 and the immediate future thereafter.

Glennan, a scientist who looks rugged enough to play pro football, thrust out a firm chin as he said in an interview:

“People have been trying to get dates on such things as when we will try to shoot a rocket toward Mars or Venus, and it just makes no sense. You don’t invent on a schedule. But, at the same time, there should be no connotation that we are just sitting around debating.”

“Certainly,” he said, “we have a program for 1959.”

“We’re going to fire about a dozen satellites and space probes, including communications, meteorological and geodetic experiments . . . and we are very much interested in finding out the radiation hazards in space.”

IMPROVE TRACKING

Also, “We’ll be extending and improving our tracking stations, some of them abroad; we’ll be doing work on high-energy propulsion and on high-energy upper stages of the rockets.”

“And we’ll continue in 1960 and ad infinitum.”

NASA’s long-range program, he said, has “two basic end-points: first, the acquisition of as much knowledge as possible about space; and secondly, development of the capability of putting a man in space and getting him back safely.”

“As for the latter,” Glennan said, “I don’t know whether it will be 100 years—or two years.”

Without saying whether he meant this year or later, he said:

“At some point in our program, we’ll be using animals (in satellites), but whether it will be a pig, a primate, or mice, I don’t know at the moment.”

Trying to do just what the Russians do, Glennan said, “tends to put you in a strait-jacket.”

“In this country,” he said, “we have to compete as a world leader . . . (but) . . . I would not like to think our program is determined by what the Russians are doing.”

“MAKE PROGRAM URGENT”

Instead of doing specific things just to match the Russians, he went on, “we should make the whole program urgent.”

He noted that Russia started its space program in 1945, whereas this country didn’t start until 1954 and “that’s a very large gap to try to close.”

But, he added, “I think we beat ourselves around the head unnecessarily.”

“We have already seen a year’s worth of accomplishment regarding missiles and missile-space programs . . . (and) . . . out of the American satellites have come as much useful information as has been gotten out of those big things of the Russians, from what we know on a worldwide basis.”

As for advance publicity about American space attempts—and a tendency he sees for the public to expect too much speed on the part of space scientists—Glennan urges a letup. He wants his space boys to be able to do their jobs in an orderly fashion. He says:

“The glare of publicity really puts the scientists under a terrific handicap . . . none of these things are easy. The pressure can be really great.”

Franke Works Hard Navy's New Secretary Can Manage Money

By United Press International

President Eisenhower has selected as his new Navy secretary a man with extensive experience in managing defense spending.

If approved by the Senate, William Birrell Franke of Troy, N.Y., will succeed Thomas S. Gates Jr. as the Navy's top civilian official on June 1.

Franke will be 65 on April 15. He is six feet three, stoops slightly and wears a hesitant smile. He has been a figure around the Defense Department since 1948, working quietly on problems of military financial management.

From 1948 to 1951, he helped the Army in reorganizing its financial control system and stayed on for another year as a special assistant to the then Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett.

Eisenhower named Franke assistant Navy secretary for financial management in 1954 and since then he has supervised the spending of 11 billion dollars a year on sea power. In 1957, when Gates moved up to the secretaryship, Franke became undersecretary.

Though he had not been connected previously with military service, Franke quickly learned Navy ways. He went to sea in cruises during gunnery exercises, in submarines to observe torpedo firings and in carriers to watch air operations. He flew in jets, blimps and helicopters and found himself being hoisted by wire cable from a submarine by a helicopter for removal to a carrier deck.

Before his government service, Franke had served as director and officer of a string of companies in New Jersey, Tennessee, Virginia, Ohio and New York.

At 35, he set up his own accounting firm, Franke, Hannon and Withey, with offices in New York and Troy.

When there is time, Franke goes in for golf and reading, but is more likely to be absorbed with a briefcase full of Navy documents, day and night.

His wife is the former Bertha Reedy of Schenectady, N.Y. They have three daughters.

Franke's official biography describes him as a Republican, a Presbyterian, and a member of the Union League Club of New York, Army and Navy Club of Washington; Rutland, Vt., Country Club and Barrington, R.I., Country Club.

2 Deaths Ruled Murder-Suicide

Fisherman, 63, Shoots Mother, 95, and Self in Cheboygan

CHEBOYGAN (AP)—The shotgun-blasted bodies of a 95-year-old woman and her commercial fisherman son were found here yesterday in their three-story frame home.

Mrs. Carrie Hilborne still was sitting in her rocking chair. Jack Hilborne, her 63-year-old son, was slumped on the floor. Both bodies had been riddled by a blast from a shotgun.

Chief of Police James H. Demaray termed the deaths a murder-suicide.

He said Hilborne apparently shot his mother and then shot himself. Demaray said Hilborne evidently propped the gun against his head and pushed the trigger with a three-pronged fork.

A note and short letter was found in the home where Hilborne, a bachelor, lived with his mother.

“The letter said he didn’t know what he’d do,” said Demaray. “He seemed to know he was slipping.”

Hilborne was a World War I veteran and had applied recently for admission to a veterans’ hospital. Neighbors said he arranged for someone to care for his mother while he was gone. But they said she refused, pleading that she wanted to care for herself.

Hilborne had been depressed, Demaray said. He added that Mrs. Hilborne was active for her age and seemed to be self-reliant.

CONSHOHOCKEN, Pa. (AP)—Firemen went to a blaze Wednesday in an unoccupied house in this suburban Philadelphia community.

They found it had been caused by a wood fire under a 2,500-gallon capacity still.

State liquor agents said they had been looking for a still in the area the past two months.

Bubbling Hot Casserole Tempts Hungry Skaters

Skaters gliding across the mirror-like ice... at dusk... take on a glow when they hear the clang of the dinner bell from across the pond. The menu was announced this morning so each is eager to get home!

After mugs of hot buttered tomato soup... in front of a warming fire... the hungry skaters will enjoy a flavorful combination of boned chicken and vegetables topped with buttered crisp toast. Served piping hot, from a colorful casserole, this is a dish which pleases the racer or fancy figure skater.

You make it like this:

Chicken Vegetable Casserole
2 medium potatoes, peeled and cut in 1-inch cubes (about 3 cups)
1 small onion, sliced and separated
2 medium carrots, sliced (about 1 cup)
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup water
1 can (10 3/4 ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
Dash pepper
1/2 teaspoon whole rosemary, crushed
1/2 cup liquid (from vegetables)
2 cans (5 ounces each) boned chicken or turkey
3 slices buttered bread
In saucepan, combine potatoes, carrots, onion, green pepper, parsley, salt, and water. Cover; cook 10 to 15 minutes or until vegetables are just tender crisp. Drain, reserving 1/3 cup liquid.

Combine soup, pepper, rosemary, and vegetable liquid in a buttered 1-quart casserole; blend. Fold in vegetables and chicken.

Trim crusts from bread; cut each slice into 4 triangles. Place on top of chicken mixture. Bake, uncovered, in a hot oven (400 degrees) about 20 minutes, or until bubbly. Makes 4 generous servings.

Sugar Becomes Liquid

The rule to remember when using unflavored gelatin is that one envelope will gel up to two cups of liquid... water, fruit or vegetable juice, bouillon or stock, or milk. If sugar has been used in the recipe, it is counted as part of the total liquid because it goes into solution when added to the gelatine-liquid base.

Spanish Omelet Like Western Sandwich

In Spain they serve an omelet-on-toast reminiscent of our popular Western sandwich, but with added tuna fish. To make four sandwiches, heat 2 tablespoons of Spanish olive oil in a large heavy skillet.

Meantime, beat 4 eggs until frothy, add contents of a 7-ounce can of tuna fish, well-drained, about 1/4 cup each chopped green pepper and chopped onion, 1/2 teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper. Pour egg mixture into hot oil in skillet, cook over low heat until set, turning once or twice with spatula. Divide omelet into 4 portions, serve each on toast which has been spread with mayonnaise. If preferred, the individual portions of omelet may each be served between two slices of toast.

Is the Pan Big Enough?

Some directions for butter sponge cakes tell you to beat the eggs and sugar in the top of a double boiler over simmering water. Make absolutely sure your double boiler — regular or improvised — is really large enough to hold the mixture as it increases in volume.

Various Styles of Bacon Are Plentiful

What kinds of bacon do you serve at your house?

Regular bacon comes from the underside of the pig. It may be bought by the slab or sliced and prepackaged.

The bacon square is mostly fat and comes from the jowl of the pig.

Canadian-style bacon is very lean. It is made by curing and smoking the lean meat from the pork loin.

No matter what kind of bacon you serve, supplies are plentiful at this time reports the Marketing Information Agent.

He's Harmless as Boa Constrictor—Abby

Keep This Snake at Desk Distance

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: I have a boss who has started to ask me to work nights, I don't mind as I get paid for it. He moves his car after he locks up so nobody will know we are there. During the day he has never made a wrong move toward me, but lately in the evening he twists everything I say, to make it sound suggestive or sexy and I am not that way. 'He's married (I am not) and his family life does not interest me, but last night he remarked: 'You don't ever have to worry about my wife walking in as she lives in the suburbs and can't drive.' In your opinion, is this man harmless?"

OVERTIME
DEAR OVERTIME: Like a boa constrictor!

"DEAR ABBY: I have been going with Wendell for almost two years. We are in love and want to get married. I am 19 and he is 22. My parents don't like him because his future is unsteady. He hasn't got a job right now but he is looking."

"When I mention marrying him my parents run him down something terrible and tell me to forget him. Wendell says that if I really loved him I would stand up and tell them if they don't like it they can lump it. I do love him, Abby, but I can't talk to my folks that way. Please tell me what to do."

WENDELL'S GIRL
DEAR GIRL: Shake the stardust out of your eyes and look at the picture—clearly. A 22-year-old boy who isn't working has a lot of nerve proposing marriage. Furthermore a boy who encourages a girl to defy her parents turns into the kind of a husband who does as HE pleases—then tells his wife if she doesn't like it SHE can lump it.

"DEAR ABBY: This is for the two PING-PONG WIDOWS: Be glad your husbands come home to you after a few sets of ping-pong. There are lots of us young men in Korea who play ping-pong because that is the only company recreation we have here. When the game is over we don't have wives to go home to, either. We have to go home to a barracks and a GI bunk."

PFC. "R.M.T." (WONJU, KOREA)

"DEAR ABBY: Is there anything wrong with telling people who drop in on you unexpectedly that you have a previous engagement? My husband seems to think we are being insulting if we do this, and he also thinks it is insulting to ask people to please call before coming over. This happened to us last Sunday."

"The whole family sat home and had a very boring Sunday afternoon while I slipped into the other room and telephoned the people we had planned an outing with and broke the date. Please print this, Abby, it might help others with the same problem."

DEAR ANDREA: Your husband is 100 per cent wrong! There is nothing insulting about asking people to please phone before coming over, nor is it insulting to tell them when they drop in unexpectedly that you have a previous date. People who put up with intruders are a cinch to be intruded upon forever.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LEN: You are overdoing the "togetherness" bit. Mingle if you wanna stay single.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Pauline Triger's "skeleton coat" is a cross between a coat and a stole. Of white pique, it has a capelet back. The dress beneath is of black silk crepe and is bound together with the coat by a patent leather belt.

Valparaiso Guild Meets at Luncheon

Oakland County chapter of Valparaiso University guild met Tuesday at St. Trinity Lutheran Church for a dessert luncheon. Plans were completed for the annual luncheon and card party to be held Tuesday.

A film was shown on campus life at Valparaiso and Mrs. Ralph Thompson gave a report on the convention at Lansing.

The next meeting, a president's luncheon will be May 26 at St. Pauls Lutheran Church.

'Crown' Toddler With a Bowl Hat

When a toddler is learning to feed himself, he usually manages to get a couple of spoonfuls of something gooey in his hair. To avoid a real mess, let him wear a plastic bowl cover as a protective "hat" at mealtime.

When feeding time is over, mother can simply wash the bowl cover-hat in warm soap or detergent suds and wipe it dry.

Wrinkles may set in your drip-dry garments if you wring or twist them dry. Hang the garments dripping wet, say home economists.

Minds never run in the same channel when there is only one TV set in the house.

Lady Beatty Visits Palm Springs—So Does Sinatra

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Among the visitors in this desert resort is England's Lady Beatty. Among the resort's notable residents is Frank Sinatra.

But whether the singer and the 38-year-old British beauty will stage a sequel to their romantic interlude in England last fall remains to be seen.

"No comment," said Lady Beatty when she arrived here Wednesday and checked into a hotel for a week's stay. "No comment," echoed Sinatra, whose home is a short distance away.

The American-born Lady Beatty was divorced a year ago by 53-year-old Earl Beatty. She and Sinatra were constant companions at London social functions last fall.

Slurs on Salt Lake City Irk One Man Especially

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Arthur J. Mays is irked because, he says, Salt Lake motorists have "a national reputation for being discourteous."

"I hear about the city's poor courtesy reputation... every time I attend a national safety meeting," he said Wednesday.

"Maybe," he added, "I should start putting more people in jail." Mays can do it, too. He's the city's traffic judge.

Quest Began in Colombian Jungle

Boy Searching for Mother

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An unwanted American boy, who dared the Colombian jungle rather than live on in loneliness, is here on a wistful quest.

Carlos Telmo Lince Jr., 14, not quite an orphan, seeks the only person who can fill the void in his heart: his mother. His search could be hopeless.

He was only 7 when Mrs. Carlos T. Lince decided in 1952—one year after they had moved there from Los Angeles—that she could not go on living in Bogota, Colombia.

She disappeared. If she ever sent back word, it never reached Carlos and his sister, Lucia, 11, lives with their father, a Colombian airline pilot who has remarried.

Carlos went to a military school in Bogota. Lonely and friendless, he tried repeatedly to get away. The third time he ran away, last July 15, he made it.

He wandered in the tropical wilds, looking for something. What he didn't know. Coconuts and wild berries and vegetables kept him.

A statement from National Police headquarters said Allen Robert Nye, 31, had admitted he was promised $100,000 by the chief of the Batista Air Force, Brig. Gen. Carlos Tabernilla, if he killed the rebel chieftain.

Nye, who says his home is in Whiting, Ind., but who gives Coral Gables, Fla., as his last address, was arrested in Oriente province by Castro's men Dec. 26, five days before former President Fulgencio Batista gave up the fight against the revolution and fled to the Dominican Republic.

Tabernilla fled at the same time, to the United States.

There was no immediate indication what action the revolutionary government would take against Nye. He is being held in the Central Havana jail at National Police headquarters and has been allowed to see U.S. consular representatives and American newsmen.

Miriani Raps State

DETROIT (AP)—Mayor Louis Miriani of Detroit says Gov. G. Mennen Williams' proposed 140 million dollar state tax package contains "nothing additional for hard-pressed local governments."

Miriani told 10 fellow metropolitan area mayors Wednesday "We must put up a united fight against the state shirking its responsibilities... if we are to balance our budgets in the future."

NEW ROLE—Teenage idol Sal Mineo breaks away from his customary movie parts for "Tonka," in which he portrays an Indian. "Tonka" is now playing at the Oakland Theater.

Hollywood Headlines:

How Did Teens Conquer Field of Popular Music?

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Three fresh-faced young men stepped up to the microphone. They were dressed identically in Ivy League pants and open-necked striped shirts. They plunked two guitars and a banjo and started crooning:

"Hang down yer head, Tom Dooley..."

The youthful crowd of 6,000 in Los Angeles Shrine Auditorium loosed a roar of approval.

"...Pore boy, you're goin' to die..."

Cheers shook the great hall. This was the signal of acceptance for three bright fellows who are riding the teenage music boom to early fortunes.

They are Dave Guard, Bob Shane and Nick Reynolds, who call themselves the Kingston Trio. The name is an accident—"We started out when the calypso craze was on, so it sounded like a good idea."

Nor, despite their hit with the backwoods ballad of the doomed Dooley, are they hillbillies. Dave and Bob grew up in Honolulu. Nick is from Coronado, Calif.

How did the Kingstons crack to the top of a music market that puts little emphasis on musical or intellectual quality?

"Dooley" did it.

"The teenagers buy single records, and they made it a hit," explained Guard, chief Kingstonian. "So far it has sold 1,800,000 here and about the same in England. We're just as amazed as anyone."

The boys got together at Palo Alto. All were business students. Dave at Stanford University and Bob and Nick at nearby Menlo college. Dave and Bob were chums from Hawaii, where they had strummed ukuleles to island tunes. The trio began playing their guitars and banjos and chanting folk tunes in campus hangouts.

San Francisco publicist Frank Werber introduced them to San Francisco nighties. They caught on, played other intimate clubs in Chicago and New York. A year ago, they signed with Capitol Records and made an album which became a bestseller.

"Dooley" was one of the album songs; they had picked it up from an auditioner in a San Francisco ship and affection he craved," says Roy Aldridge, 28, a policeman in Cristobal, Panama, who brought Carlos to this country recently. "He's intelligent. Given the chance, he could really make something of himself."

An American citizen, Mrs. Lince now 32, was traced to Lincoln, Neb., but there the trail was lost.

Carlos has a home offered him. Aldridge's stepfather, H. F. Abney of Los Angeles, plans to adopt him if possible. Abney, too, is a policeman.

But the boy, more than anything else, wants to find his mother.

Cuba Says Nye Has Confessed

Report Ex-Navy Flier Plotted Against Life of Fidel Castro

HAVANA (AP)—The National Police early today announced that a former U.S. Navy pilot had confessed he came to Cuba in December to kill Rebel Leader Fidel Castro.

A statement from National Police headquarters said Allen Robert Nye, 31, had admitted he was promised $100,000 by the chief of the Batista Air Force, Brig. Gen. Carlos Tabernilla, if he killed the rebel chieftain.

Nye, who says his home is in Whiting, Ind., but who gives Coral Gables, Fla., as his last address, was arrested in Oriente province by Castro's men Dec. 26, five days before former President Fulgencio Batista gave up the fight against the revolution and fled to the Dominican Republic.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Three fresh-faced young men stepped up to the microphone. They were dressed identically in Ivy League pants and open-necked striped shirts. They plunked two guitars and a banjo and started crooning:

"Hang down yer head, Tom Dooley..."

The youthful crowd of 6,000 in Los Angeles Shrine Auditorium loosed a roar of approval.

"...Pore boy, you're goin' to die..."

Cheers shook the great hall. This was the signal of acceptance for three bright fellows who are riding the teenage music boom to early fortunes.

They are Dave Guard, Bob Shane and Nick Reynolds, who call themselves the Kingston Trio. The name is an accident—"We started out when the calypso craze was on, so it sounded like a good idea."

Nor, despite their hit with the backwoods ballad of the doomed Dooley, are they hillbillies. Dave and Bob grew up in Honolulu. Nick is from Coronado, Calif.

How did the Kingstons crack to the top of a music market that puts little emphasis on musical or intellectual quality?

"Dooley" did it.

"The teenagers buy single records, and they made it a hit," explained Guard, chief Kingstonian. "So far it has sold 1,800,000 here and about the same in England. We're just as amazed as anyone."

The boys got together at Palo Alto. All were business students. Dave at Stanford University and Bob and Nick at nearby Menlo college. Dave and Bob were chums from Hawaii, where they had strummed ukuleles to island tunes. The trio began playing their guitars and banjos and chanting folk tunes in campus hangouts.

San Francisco publicist Frank Werber introduced them to San Francisco nighties. They caught on, played other intimate clubs in Chicago and New York. A year ago, they signed with Capitol Records and made an album which became a bestseller.

"Dooley" was one of the album songs; they had picked it up from an auditioner in a San Francisco ship and affection he craved," says Roy Aldridge, 28, a policeman in Cristobal, Panama, who brought Carlos to this country recently. "He's intelligent. Given the chance, he could really make something of himself."

An American citizen, Mrs. Lince now 32, was traced to Lincoln, Neb., but there the trail was lost.

Carlos has a home offered him. Aldridge's stepfather, H. F. Abney of Los Angeles, plans to adopt him if possible. Abney, too, is a policeman.

But the boy, more than anything else, wants to find his mother.

Cuba Says Nye Has Confessed

Report Ex-Navy Flier Plotted Against Life of Fidel Castro

HAVANA (AP)—The National Police early today announced that a former U.S. Navy pilot had confessed he came to Cuba in December to kill Rebel Leader Fidel Castro.

A statement from National Police headquarters said Allen Robert Nye, 31, had admitted he was promised $100,000 by the chief of the Batista Air Force, Brig. Gen. Carlos Tabernilla, if he killed the rebel chieftain.

Nye, who says his home is in Whiting, Ind., but who gives Coral Gables, Fla., as his last address, was arrested in Oriente province by Castro's men Dec. 26, five days before former President Fulgencio Batista gave up the fight against the revolution and fled to the Dominican Republic.

Tabernilla fled at the same time, to the United States.

There was no immediate indication what action the revolutionary government would take against Nye. He is being held in the Central Havana jail at National Police headquarters and has been allowed to see U.S. consular representatives and American newsmen.

Miriani Raps State

DETROIT (AP)—Mayor Louis Miriani of Detroit says Gov. G. Mennen Williams' proposed 140 million dollar state tax package contains "nothing additional for hard-pressed local governments."

Miriani told 10 fellow metropolitan area mayors Wednesday "We must put up a united fight against the state shirking its responsibilities... if we are to balance our budgets in the future."

NEW ROLE—Teenage idol Sal Mineo breaks away from his customary movie parts for "Tonka," in which he portrays an Indian. "Tonka" is now playing at the Oakland Theater.

How Did Teens Conquer Field of Popular Music?

Convoy Drivers Suspect Plot

Believe Reds Set Up
Incident in Germany
on Purpose

HELMSTEDT, Germany (AP)—The drivers of a U.S. Army convoy held by the Russians for more than 50 hours said today they got the impression the Soviets had deliberately set up the incident in advance.

Specialist Elwood F. Johnson of Brooklyn, N.Y., acting as spokesman for the four drivers, said he couldn't explain their feeling, but "we got the impression it was pre-arranged."

"Within minutes of arriving at Marienborn we realized trouble was brewing up," he told a news conference at this Iron Curtain border town. The conference was held before the drivers and their four trucks resumed their interrupted journey from West Berlin to Mannheim, in West Germany.

Cpl. Richard C. Masiero of Stockbridge, Mass., the convoy commander, had returned to Berlin.

Soviet border guards halted the convoy Monday at the Marienborn checkpoint because Masiero had refused to permit an inspection of its cargo of broken-down jeeps. The convoy was released without an inspection late Wednesday after strong U.S. protests, including one from President Eisenhower.

Johnson added that it was his third convoy from Berlin and when they set off, "I had a feeling something would happen, but I didn't know the Russians would pick on my convoy."

Ava Gardner Not Worrying Trabert's Wife

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The wife of tennis star Tony Trabert says she isn't concerned over reports linking her husband with movie actress Ava Gardner.

"Tony is very upset," said Shauna Trabert, a former beauty queen here. "He just wrote another letter hoping everything was all right and hoping I would understand... which I do."

Australian newspapers have described Trabert as Miss Gardner's latest romantic interest.

Trabert is in Australia with a professional tennis troupe. Miss Gardner is there making a picture.
