'Bill Loss Won't Halt Osteopathic College'

Despite the defeat of a bill to create a state osteopathic college authority yesterday, the Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine will be established in Pontiac, the president of the college board said today.

"It will take longer and the providing of more physicians and members of the health team will be delayed," said Dr. Alan Potts.

The measure, which would have provided state support, was rejected by the House of Representatives in two votes on the question.

It was expected that the bill would not be revived until next January.

The proposal was defeated 44-47 in the first vote yesterday, and 49-47 when it was reconsidered after a half-hour debate.

Already approved by the Senate, the bill would have created a 15-member authority charged with running the college, to be built on a 164-acre site on Pontiac's East Side.

One of the strongest supporters of the bill, Rep. Arthur J. Law of Pontiac, said it was "impossible to win under the circumstances."

LOTS OF OPPOSITION
"We were getting opposition from all angles — the medical profession, the state attorney general and the governor on the constitutionality of the bill, and finally the UAW," Law said.

"I don't believe there is anything unconstitutional about the proposal," said Law. "and (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Exec Is Mute in Fraud Case

Charged in Suspected $5-Million Swindle

DETROIT (U) — Accused of concocting a $5-million-plus swindle that "could rate right up there with that of Billie Sol Estes," a Detroit businessman stood mute yesterday when arraigned on fraud charges.

Ellsworth Burton Foote, 56, owner of John Henry Cartage Co. of Detroit, waived preliminary federal court examination and was freed under $25,000 personal bond.

Foote surrendered to FBI agents yesterday after a warrant was issued for his arrest on charges of using the mails to defraud U. S. Atty. Lawrence Gubow said other charges could be brought. He did not list them.

Foote, of suburban Dearborn Heights, was accused of using counterfeit warehouse receipts as security for loans totaling at least $5 million.

The mail-fraud charge, Gubow said, involved loans to Foote from David Katz, operator of a Detroit investment agency. Gubow said Katz loaned Foote one of $2 million, while eight others chipped in a total of about $2.9 million.

An assistant of Gubow, Robert Grace, said other complaints are being received.

How Do You Stand?

Draft Prospects Examined

(EDITOR'S NOTE) — This is the first article in a series that tells what every young man should know about his prospects for service in the armed forces. With much additional detail, the articles have been reprinted in a booklet which may be obtained through The Pontiac Press for $1.

By ELTON FAY

What are the odds on you finding yourself in military uniform either because you are drafted or because you volunteer for a regular or reserve duty after a glance over your shoulder at the draft board?

Selective Service headquarters has in its files some statistics which give a clue.

At the beginning of 1966, more than 31 million men were registered, with over 120,000 more being added each month.

This big total, of course, includes millions over the 19-to-25 year age group now being drafted. And it also embraces other millions deferred or exempted.

In the "qualified" category are millions I-A and I-A-0, the latter being conscientious objectors available for non-combatant service) about 1.5 million were on hand at the start of the year. Selective Service figures it this way:

At the age of 25, of each 10 who have registered, six are or have been serving in the regular Army, Navy, Marines or Air Force — or in National Guard or reserve units.

The other four did not serve because they failed to meet Defense Department standards in mental, physical or moral categories, were deferred by draft boards or exempted by law.

Selective Service says it fills the monthly quotas predominantly with single men who are 19 through 25 years old. The oldest available men are at the top of the list.

Son Takes Over

DETROIT (AP) — Sebastian S. Kresge, 86, whose name appears in large letters on 673 variety stores across the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico, has resigned from his firm.

The firm boy who at 30 entered the dime-store business with $5,000 left it yesterday with more than $200 million. The dime-store concept developed into general merchandising at varied prices.

The founder of the Detroit-based S. S. Kresge Co. sent a letter to the board of directors announcing his resignation as chairman.

His son, Stanley S. Kresge, 66, of 1071 Lake Avenue, Lake Angeles, formerly vice chairman, has replaced him as chairman of the board.

The company said H. B. Cunningham would continue as president and chief executive officer, a post he has held since 1959.

QUITS FOUNDATION

Kresge also resigned as trustee of the Kresge Foundation, an educational philanthropic organization he established in 1922 with a gift of $1.3 million. The foundation now has a net worth of $175 million.

In May 1962, Kresge officially presented to Oakland University its $1.5 million library.

Avon Man Charged With First-Degree Murder in the Case

An Avon Township man, Jack W. Young, was arraigned this morning on a charge of first-degree murder in the bludgeoning slaying of his attractive, 30-year-old wife.

Young, 34, arrested last night in Unionville in the Thumb district, appeared before Avon Township Justice Luther C. Green.

Pretrial examination was set for 9 a.m. July 12.

Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson issued the first-degree murder warrant "based upon the evidence presented and after a thorough review."

Sheriff's detectives Alphonse Anderson and Everett Fredericks arrested Young at about 9 last night as he returned to Unionville, located off of Saginaw Bay in Tuscola County, after he reportedly went fishing with a friend.

Young had been sought for questioning since his wife's body was discovered in their small rented home at 3040 Crooks.

The body, battered about the head and shoulders, was discovered about 6 p.m. Monday.

TIME OF DEATH

The time of death was estimated as midnight Sunday.

The apparent murder weapon — a stainless steel hammer — was found near the fully clothed body.

The victim was found sprawled across a bed in the three-room house.

Neighbors told sheriff's deputies the Youngs had argued Sunday.

LAST SEEN

Young was last seen at the house Sunday night, according to deputies.

Capt. Leo Hazen said that Young, in the past, had worked in an aluminum factory and also played polo in several bars.

Mrs. Young, reportedly a former bar waitress, was unemployed.

TRIO REMEMBERED — Dr. Martin Luther King (kneeling, foreground) leads a prayer on a Philadelphia, Miss., street corner for three civil rights workers who were slain two years ago. The prayer was preceded by a fist-swinging melee yesterday which interrupted a march on the Neshoba County Courthouse. ## Race Trouble Flares in Two Dixie Towns

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Outsiders were banned early today from a Negro neighborhood in Philadelphia, Miss., after Negroes and whites inside the area exchanged gunfire during the night. One white man was struck by buckshot.

The shooting was touched off at a Negro political headquarters while Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and other leaders on the Mississippi march were in Yazoo City, 75 miles away, discussing their return to Philadelphia.

Meanwhile, hundreds of Negroes rioted early today in Pompano Beach, Fla., smashing windows, throwing rocks and bottles at police, stores and cars. Two cars were overturned and one was set afire.

Police cleared the streets with billy clubs and the threat to use tear gas. Reports said three or four policemen were injured by flying glass.

The riot in the Florida beach town of about 16,000 persons apparently was the culmination of tension built up yesterday when reports spread that a white store owner had slapped a 10-year-old boy.

The owner, Arthur M. Marks, 42, was charged with assault and battery and released on $50 bond.

The Pompano Beach riot lasted less than an hour and 24 Negroes were arrested before streets were cleared about 1:30 a.m.

Instead, the commissioners talked of reopening negotiations with Oakland County for a future transfer of Pontiac Municipal Airport into county ownership — a subject of debate for more than two years.

A motion was approved last night to have City Manager Joseph A. Warren and the city's two-man airport committee, Commissioners Leslie H. Hudson and T. Warren Fowler Sr., renew the long-stalemated talks.

Warren previously related that Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the County Board of Auditors, had informally indicated the county was willing to reconvene the talks.

BRINGS UP SUBJECT

Hudson last night brought up the subject of the airport in pointing out a proposed $13,500 appropriation for capital improvements at the airport.

Hudson said the airport should be a county operation. He claimed 80 to 90 per cent of its usage was by noncity residents.

POINT OF COLLAPSE

City-county negotiations in the past have collapsed at the point where they reached discussion of a price for the 438-acre facility in Westland Township.

Both sides agreed the airport should be county operated.

City officials have sought some compensation for past improvements, while county spokesmen have talked of offering a nominal $1 for the installation.

Legislators Crack Down in 3 Measures

LANSING (U) — In its third "last bill-passing day" of the year, the House voted yesterday to regulate marriage counselors and crack down on drinking drivers and wiretappers.

And, fearing that it might fail for the third time to meet its deadline for passage of bills from the other house, the legislature had ready a resolution to extend the time limit another 24 hours.

Lawmakers now have one or two days depending on whether or not the resolution is adopted to tie up loose ends — ironing out House-Senate differences over bills that have been approved by both chambers.

Yet to be completed is work on the 1966-67 budget and a controversial legislative pay raise. The Senate spent most of the day preparing for conference committee work.

SECOND IN U.S.

The marriage counseling bill, if the House version is approved by the Senate and signed by Gov. George Romney, will be the second in the United States. California has the first.

It creates a seven-member Board of Marriage Counselors and requires certification of counselors after Jan. 1, 1967.

It exempts certified consulting psychologists, attorneys or physicians who do not advertise themselves as counselors and do not collect fees for marriage counseling.

Also exempted are psychologists or social workers employed by a governmental or "reputable" social service agency, and clergymen.

Mayor Reports Meeting With Grand Trunk on Problems

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. reported last night that railroad-city problems were explored at a recent meeting of top officials of the city and Grand Trunk Western Railroad.

He said a request by the railroad to put an additional set of tracks across Johnson was discussed with railroad officials agreeable to absorbing the cost of improving the street grade there.

There also was discussion of a proposal being considered internally by the city to have preliminary plans and cost estimates made for a grade separation at Johnson.

Taylor said railroad officials were "receptive" to sharing the planning costs. He said the matter is to be taken up with Grand Trunk management and a report made in two weeks.

The mayor said the meeting concluded with a suggestion that a joint committee be set up to meet once a month to discuss railroad-city problems.

GREATER USE

Taylor disclosed that city officials suggested Grand Trunk make greater use of the East Belt Line track to help ease problems of street blocking.

The belt curves north, then east and then south around the city, but where it crosses major streets there are grade separations.

The mayor also disclosed that the city felt something might develop whereby the railroad might bear a greater share of the costs (now set at 15 percent by state law) of projected grade separations.

No action was taken last night on a request from the Oakland County Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) to renew and extend its lease on facilities at 7 W. Lawrence.

UNDER ADVISEMENT

The commission received the request and took it under advisement for consideration at an informal meeting Monday.

A six-month lease, paid by the city, expires this month in the downtown OEO center. OEO officials want the city to pick up the lease for 2 1/2 years.

A proposed ordinance to combat petty larceny was introduced last night by the commission.

The ordinance was recommended by Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum and the Downtown Pontiac Business Association.

The ordinance would provide a penalty of $100 fine, 90 days in jail or both for various forms of petty larceny.

In other business last night, the commission revised slightly the charter amendment scheduled for the Aug. 2 state primary ballot.

The change in wording, recommended by the attorney general, is necessary to permit the city's two municipal court judges to come under terms of city's general employee pension plan.

BIDS SUBMITTED

Three companies, Citizens, Nationwide and Michigan Mutual Liability Inc., submitted bids on insurance for city vehicles and workman's compensation coverage for city employees.

The bids are to be studied by the staff and a recommendation presented to the commission.

Also last night, the commission approved commercial rezoning for a lot on the southeast side of Monticello at Oakland.

Public hearings were ordered for July 5 on resurfacing Lee Court, Orchard Lake to the south end of the street, and curbing and paving Parkwood, Perry to Manhattan.

ESTIMATED COST

cost of $386. Parkwood was estimated at total of $34,040, $10,044 assessed and $22,796 the city's share.

Public hearings were also set for July 5 on the special assessment rolls for the paving of six local streets — portions of Arlene, Cottage, Linda Vista, Madison, Spruce and University.

Brash... Brasher...

Sewer Pact Changes for Waterford OK'd

As an outgrowth of an informal meeting earlier this month between city and township officials, two changes were approved last night by the City Commission for a contract to expand sewer services to Waterford Township.

A 20-year service period and the same sewer connection charge for township residents as paid by city residents were the two changes under dispute.

The city conceded both points.

In recommending the changes in the amendment, which would enlarge the township district served by a sewer outlet in the city, City Engineer Joseph E. Neippling reported that:

• The previous three-year clause was instituted at a time when the city was under an order from the state because of its limited treatment facilities.

• The double connection charge ($300 as opposed to the city's $150) was adopted in line with the city's policy of charging double rates on quarterly service bills.

On the latter question, Neippling said he proposed an identical connection fee for the township because the connection charge was based on the actual average dollar requirement per acre to construct trunk sanitary sewer lines.

Neippling added, however, that the quarterly service rates would still be double.

Commissioner Robert C. Irwin pointedly asked Neippling what the township's timetable was to install sewers in the area of the West End drain to eliminate pollution of Crystal Lake in the city.

The city engineer replied that he had approved the final plans and that these had gone back to the township's consulting engineers and no doubt were on their way to the state for approval.

He said construction probably would be under way by spring with connections to the new sewers being made in the fall of 1967.

Seek Operator for Restaurant

The City Commission moved last night to avert the possible closing of the city-owned Skyroom Restaurant at Pontiac Municipal Airport.

Now operated as a student training facility by Waterford Township School District, the much-troubled restaurant is to get a new operator.

At least, the commission last night directed that negotiations commence to that end with an interested party.

Township school officials have indicated the school district is losing money on the restaurant operation and the district wants out of its 5-year lease with the city which began last fall.

June 30 had been set as the date for the school district's withdrawal.

The commission directed negotiations begin with a proposed new operator, Mrs. Thomas McClernan, a cook now employed at the restaurant by the school district.

Acting Airport Manager J. David VanderVeen reported that Mrs. McClernan has indicated she would like to take over operation of the restaurant, which has had a succession of operators.

VanderVeen said the restaurant could continue to operate without any interruption in service.

Resignation Accepted, 4 Given Posts

A resignation and four appointments were among items considered last night by the City Commission.

The resignation was received from Rev. Amos G. Johnson, pastor of New Bethel Baptist Church, who resigned from the Pontiac Housing Commission.

Appointed to the commission in 1963, Rev. Johnson said he was forced to resign because of the press of increased church duties.

The commission named two new members to the police trial board, Galen Joseph, 162 N. Jessie, and Thurman E. Whit, 183 W. Longfellow.

They were appointed to five-year terms expiring in May, 1971.

Rabbi Israel Goodman, 140 Oneida, was reappointed to a five-year term on the trial board.

Joseph and Witt replace John Leonard and Victor L. Smith.

The commission appointed Fred Beedle, 689 E. Pike, to fill a vacancy on the Civic Improvement Advisory Committee. His term will expire March 1, 1969.

School Heads, Teachers in Accord

At a time when news on the education front is underscored by teacher dissatisfaction, teacher ultimatums and teacher strikes, it is noteworthy that without public recrimination or partisan airing of issues the Pontiac School District and the Pontiac Education Association have just formalized a three year contract.

The contract, mutually termed "good" was negotiated in an atmosphere of sincerity and good faith.

Representing a total annual salary increase of $525,000, it provides an equitable advance in teachers' base pay and for the first time pushes compensation for holders of master's degrees above $10,000 yearly.

Other benefits include establishment of a life- and liability-insurance program and a lengthened Easter vacation.

A significant feature of the contract envisages the creation of a professional relations committee composed of teachers' representatives who will meet regularly with school authorities in the interest of sound teacher-administration relations and instructional program development.

The Press warmly commends the Pontiac School District and the Pontiac Education Association on the exemplary accord evidenced by the new contract. It might well serve as a national model.

An Expert on Deficits Airs His Views

In remarks recently made before a meeting of the Michigan Press Editorial Association, former governor G. Mennen Williams displayed characteristic naivete.

Matching campaign appeals with fellow Democrat Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh and Republican U. S. Senator Robert Griffin for the Senate seat vacated by the late Patrick McNamara, Williams charged that Griffin "simply could not understand that cutting taxes and accepting a temporary deficit in a national budget was the way to boost our economy."

As an architect of deficits, Williams spoke with unquestioned authority. Elected in 1948, he served as Michigan's governor for 12 years, during which period the surplus of $100 million inherited from Republican administrations was diluted into an $80-million deficit by the time his Democratic successor, John R. Swainson, was defeated by Republican George Romney in 1960. Under Gov. Romney's stewardship, that deficit has now been converted into a $130-million surplus.

Particularly eye-catching is "Soapy's" use of the term "temporary" as applied to deficits. We would be interested to know just how long a temporary deficit is, and just how long a nation, state or family can continue to operate under one.

If you are also interested, you might act on the advertising slogan (slightly paraphrased) of a one-time artistocrat of automobiles: "Ask the Man Who Owed One."

Ed Wynn

If any performer could be described as "four dimensional," it would be veteran entertainer Ed Wynn, who died Sunday at the age of 79.

A predestined luminary of the theatrical world, he rose to stardom in the legitimate theater, the movies, radio and TV.

Recognized for decades as show biz's top clown, he suffered an eclipse and sat on the sidelines as his son KENNAN kept the WYNN name up in lights.

But the spirit of the trouper would not give in, and in 1962 Wynn electrified movie audiences with his masterly portrayal in "Requiem for a Heavyweight." He subsequently starred in other movie and TV dramatic roles.

BOTH ISAIAH EDWIN LEOPOLD, the future comedian was endowed with artistic versatility, writing the book, lyrics and music for many of his own musical shows.

The countless friends and the multitude of fans to whom Ed Wynn brought enjoyment and sentimental stimulation deeply mourn the passing of this sterling personality.

Rulings of High Court Reviewed

By JAMES MARLOW AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court gave some historic decisions in the 1965-66 term which ended Monday even though this was not its most spectacular session.

Its major actions, following the liberal direction of a dozen years, were in the field of rights.

The court extended and protected an individual's rights against the power and machinery of government: the right to a fair trial; to keep quiet and have a lawyer in a police station; and to free speech.

The court not only knocked out the poll tax payment as a requirement for voting but, in upholding sections of the 1965 Voting Rights Act, opened the way for more thousands to vote, particularly Negroes.

In this, the court supported President Johnson, who called for the 1965 law, and Congress which passed it.

WENT FURTHER

This year, the Court went further than ever in protecting a person arrested as a crime suspect — against forced confessions — by ruling he must be told by police he doesn't have to answer questions and must be given a lawyer if he wants one but can't afford one.

The court then said this strict limit on the use of confessions at trials applies only to cases where the trial began after the decision, which was on June 13.

And the court put a flat responsibility on trial judges everywhere to conduct fair trials when it ruled Dr. Samuel Sheppard, who had served nine years for the bludgeoning-slaying of his wife, didn't get one.

The court said the judge in Sheppard's case let newsmen turn the trial into a carnival.

ANOTHER CASE

In still another case, the court said defense counsel may not waive his client's constitutional right to plead innocent, to have a trial, and to cross-examine witnesses.

And a ban was put on any sentence over six months for criminal contempt in federal court unless the defendant gets a jury trial or waives it.

Payment of a poll tax as a prerequisite for voting in federal elections was outlawed by the Constitution's 24th Amendment, adopted in 1901. But the court banned it in state elections, too.

Dipping into the obscenity field, the court ruled that sexy tracts designed to exploit their "salacious appeal" may be banned from the mails.

CONFUSION

This may have to be explained further. It caused confusion.

In another case, the court reaffirmed its opinion that a public official cannot collect for libel unless he can prove actual malice. Many more thousands of voters can cast a ballot because the court approved sections of the 1965 Voting Rights Act giving Congress the right to suspend state literacy tests and similar voting qualifications and to authorize the attorney general to appoint federal examiners to register qualified voters in various parts of the country.

Cracking?

David Lawrence Says:

Interdependence Can Cut Strife

WASHINGTON — The interdependence of nations in an economic sense can help to reduce political friction in the world and prevent wars.

A striking example of such interdependence has just been given in an announcement from Ottawa that the Soviet Union has agreed to purchase from Canada 336 million bushels of wheat and flour, to be delivered in the next three years at a cost of $800 million.

This isn't the first time it has happened. In 1963 the Soviets bought from Canada 239 million bushels of wheat valued at $500 million, as well as several million bushels from the United States, Australia and other countries. In 1965 they also bought 187 million bushels of wheat from Canada.

Poor harvests have affected internal conditions in Russia. Bread is important to the Russian diet, and the news of a crop disaster cannot very readily be suppressed.

It now is evident that, even though the Soviets are trying to improve their agricultural production, they will still be dependent upon the outside world.

One wonders why the men in Moscow and in Peking do not perceive that the United States would be glad to open up all markets and even give some of our surplus wheat to their peoples, provided the Communists recognize once and for all stop their aggression and infiltration throughout the world.

It seems ironic that the Soviets should be repeatedly charging the United States with "aggression" in Viet Nam when the free world knows that primarily it is the Russian support by arms as well as technical advisors which keeps the North Vietnamese engaged in a war which they otherwise would lose.

The free world could, of course, deny economic help to the Russian people, but this would mean starvation for millions.

There is, on the other hand, a strong movement inside Congress to permit extended trade relations with the Soviet bloc in Eastern Europe.

No serious objection is likely to be raised to this course if, at the same time, the United States government spent at least a billion dollars a year to carry messages of truth to the people behind the Iron Curtain.

Once the interdependence of nations is fully understood, peoples now under Communist leadership — including the people on the mainland of China, who also need wheat — would undoubtedly in the long run awaken to the fact that they alone have the supreme power to prevent war and maintain peace by cementing peaceful relations with other countries.

Bob Considine Says:

One of 2 Superjet Rivals Faces Colossal Letdown

NEW YORK — Everything pertaining to the two rival U.S. supersonic airliners is colossal, including the colossal letdown one of the competitors will have next Jan. 1 when the government announces its choice. It will mean a billion dollars-plus to the winner.

The hospital builders, Lockheed and Boeing, have poured a lot of their own money into their proposed models, over and above the sums received from Washington.

Lockheed's full-size mock-up which will be formally unveiled next Monday alone cost $1 million.

The two entries in the costly American effort to overcome and surpass the British-French Concorde and the supersonic jet the Russians are building represent two sharply different approaches to the problems of faster-than-sound transportation.

Lockheed's 271-foot ship proposes to fly on a double-deck delta fixed wing.

SPREADS OUT

Boeing's design, which stretches 300 feet, the length of a football field, would use a wing that spreads out at right angles to the fuselage for take-offs and landings, and tucks itself back into a close-fitting delta configuration for high speeds.

Equally concerned over the Jan. 1 date are Pratt & Whitney and General Electric, whose research for the supersonic transport's power plants has been partly underwritten by the government.

Like Lockheed and Boeing, the engine rivals have presented two distinct types for approval.

Pratt & Whitney proposes a big chubby duct-burning turbofan, while GE's choice is a long, comparatively slim turbojet with afterburner.

60,000 POUNDS THRUST

Each would develop about 60,000 pounds of thrust, about five times as much power as the engines used in today's subsonic jets.

Voice of the People:

Senator O'Brien Gives Reasons He Voted "No"

The reasons expressed by Mr. Dale Feet regarding my voting against his confirmation as State Insurance Commissioner are completely erroneous and without basis. There were two basic reasons for my voting against the nominee: I felt he could not or would not work to stop the outrageous rate increases of the insurance companies, and he would not or was not capable of halting the indiscriminate automobile policy cancellations which are affecting more and more Michigan families.

Mr. Feet's remarks that I worked to get other Senators to turn down his appointment were incorrect. I told him some time ago I did not approve of the tactics he employed in trying to get Senators to confirm his nomination. I did not at any time try to influence any other Senator's decision.

Almost a month ago, Zoltan Ferency, Democratic Party Chairman, attacked Dale Feet's lack of qualifications for Insurance Commissioner. This undoubtedly had far more to do with other Senators voting against him than anything else.

CARL W. O'BRIEN, SENATOR
17TH DISTRICT, PONTIAC

Appreciates Efforts of CAI in Waterford

I wish to express my appreciation to all those people who have worked in Community Activities, Incorporated. I am very grateful for the twenty-two years of service that hundreds of people have given to Waterford Township and nearby areas and the many activities which have been provided.

The educational, recreational and social nature of the program has been outstanding.

FLORENCE SHUNCK
WATERFORD, MICH.

Says Policy Is Appeasement and Retreat

We have just moved into Pontiac area. My children have had some instruction in school here in singing the "Star Spangled Banner" and were so interested that, through questioning them, I found they had previously been unfamiliar with our national anthem, and I thought they would learn, here, what it is to be an American.

Then I read an article about refusal to allow distribution of Bibles in the Waterford schools. The American people aren't learning to be victorious anymore. We're learning how to appease and retreat gracefully. I was brought up as an American, and I shall remain an American. We let a minority of one take our Bible out of the schools. How about having a minority put it back?

The Communists don't have to fight us. We're letting our government hand us over on a silver platter. The servants of the people have slowly become the masters.

Question and Answer

On a recent trip to Oakland University I was shocked to see neither a flag nor flagpoles on the campus. So much has been written about students' patriotism, what about the University putting up a flagpole and flag as soon as possible?

AN OBSERVER

REPLY

Mr. Crowder of Oakland University assures us there will be one in the very near future. This is a situation recognized by both students and staff for some time, and the Committee Council (organization of commuting students) took it on as a joint project with the University. Chancellor Varner met with the students last week, and the student newspaper-Observer expresses hope of having it up by Fourth of July.

After returning from a trip to Yugoslavia in 1964, Sen. J. William Fulbright had some unusually sound advice.

Statements by members of Congress have a greater capacity than most congressmen realize to disrupt American foreign policy in unconstructive and unintended ways, he said.

It is proper, the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee added, for his colleagues to remember this, that "they are under an obligation to exercise voluntary self-restraint on delicate matters of foreign policy."

Our foreign policy would be stronger today if he heeded his own advice. In recent weeks the senator has frequently said the U.S. is "arrogant with power" in its commitments to freedom in South Viet Nam.

More recently he rose to new heights of irresponsibility when he said "both literally and figuratively, Saigon has become an American brothel."

Even Senator Fulbright would have to concede that Viet Nam is among the most sensitive of policies the U.S. has abroad. He also must be fully aware that his harsh criticism of his nation's policy would rattle through the capitals of the world.

Strident emotionalism... no matter how disguised in the language of wisdom," said the President, "is harmful to public policy... The exercise of power in this century has meant for the United States not arrogance but agony. We have used our power not willingly and recklessly, but reluctantly and with restraint."

However, Senator Fulbright's remarks, echoed by the phantoms of the Senate, and not the President's, will be remembered by the Communists. Critics of the U.S. policy by a senior and powerful senator suits their propaganda purposes well.

Equally unfortunate are the questions about dedication of the U.S. commitment to freedom raised in Korea, Japan, Australia, and even North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations.

The attacks on U.S. policy by political leaders can serve only the purposes of the enemy and hurt the U.S.

GI Pay Hike 'Clears Hurdle'

Congress Conferees
Reportedly Reach OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A pay increase for U.S. servicemen averaging 3.2 per cent reportedly has cleared a major congress-sional hurdle.

Source: said Senate-House conferences reached tentative agreement Tuesday on the increase for some 3 million persons now on active military duty or in other uniform services.

Details of the military pay boost were expected to be announced today by Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., House Armed Services Committee chairman.

Rivers guided the pay increase, contained in the annual $17.8 billion military procurement authorization, through the House after the body had voted a 3.2 per cent boost for some 1.8 million civilian government employees.

NOT CONSIDERED
The Senate did not consider the military pay raise when it approved the military procurement bill. The measure was sent to a conference committee to settle difference in the House and Senate versions.

Senate conferees agreed with the House that the increase should become effective July 1 unless the civilian pay bill, still lacking Senate action, is delayed. Then both increases would start the same month.

The increase would apply to those on active duty in the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Coast and Geodetic Survey and the Public Health Service.

Battle Creek Woman Is Killed in Crash

HART (AP) — Mrs. Fanny
Lancaster, 60, of Battle Creek, was killed Tuesday in a two-car collision on U. S. 51 north of Hart in Oceana County. Police said she was riding in a car driven by her daughter, Mrs.
Connie Dane, 32, when an oncoming vehicle swerved across the centerline and collided with their car. Mrs. Dane was hospitalized in Muskegon.

New Unit Will Aid Retarded

LANSING (AP) — The State Mental Health Department has announced plans to set up a five-member cadre of special consultants to communities and regional committees planning services to the retarded.

The cadre will consist of experts appointed by directors of the major state agencies concerned with the problem of mental retardation.

The project will be financed by a $173,600 grant from the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Actor's Son Among Four in Drug Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor
Henry Fonda's son, Peter, 24, and three other men were free on $2,000 bail today after their arrest on warrants charging possession of marijuana.

Police said marijuana plants were found at the younger Fonda's home in nearby Tarzana.

Arrested with Fonda were John B. Haeblerlin III, 25, and John R. Robinson and Steve Aleberg, both 22.

WOMEN'S SECTION

Hubby Needs Lesson

He's Just Too Friendly

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I think my husband is entirely too friendly to strange women. For instance, he will bury his nose in an elevator operator's hair and say, "My, you have pretty hair — and it smells nice, too." Or, he will compliment a waitress on her "beautiful legs" or "school-girl figure." When I tell him that it shows a lack of respect for me when he does this in my presence, he says he is only trying to make a poor working girl feel good. How do you feel about this sort of thing, Abby? Am I wrong to resent it?

A FRIENDLY FELLOW'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: It is ill-mannered and presumptuous for a man to make personal remarks (complimentary or otherwise) to strange women in (or out of) his wife's presence.

Tell your husband if he doesn't cut it out one of those poor working girls is apt to work him over.

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a wonderful man, and our wedding date has been set for Sept. 18. My fiancé (I'll call him Marty) wants his brother (I'll call him Jack) to be his best man.

Well, Jack lives out of state and his wife, Millie, is expecting around that time. Jack won't leave Millie, and Millie won't be able to travel then, so now I have a problem. Marty's mother thinks we should postpone our wedding until December. Do you think it's fair to center our marriage around Jack and Millie?

I always thought it was up to the bride to choose the wedding date. All my plans are set for September, and it would be a mess to change things now. What is your advice?

DEAR UNHAPPY BRIDE: The bride selects the wedding date with an eye to the most convenient time for both families. But now that your date has been set, I agree it would indeed be a mess to change things now.

So proceed with your plans, and ask your fiancé to select a next-to-the-best man.

DEAR ABBY: As a service man, presently serving in Korea (but this applies to all service men serving overseas) I would appreciate it if you would drop this helpful hint to all families, friends, and relatives. Please ask them to send all their letters AIR MAIL. If a letter has only a 5-cent stamp, it takes more than 2 months to get to us because it goes by boat.

ABBY, I am sure the extra 3 cents isn't going to break anyone, and it sure means a lot to those of us who are 10,000 miles from home.

ST. C.E.L., 51st SIG. BN. Problems? Write to Abby in care of The Pontiac Press. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby in care of The Pontiac Press for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Here is an answer to my request that readers send me their pet peeves.

Dear Mrs. Post: The perpetual favor-askers are first on my list of rude ones. Several times, as we left for vacations, friends or relatives asked if we wouldn't mind picking up imported blankets, sweaters, liquor, china or what-have-you.

Since this put us on the spot, I used to reluctantly agree. One year, our enforced job as purchasing agent caused us to lose one whole day's vacation time. — Sue Glick.

Dear Mrs. Glick: I agree! It is a real imposition to ask travelers to pick up this or that, no matter how insignificant the item.

Weight is an important consideration if you are flying, to say nothing of space and customs regulations. The necessity of taking precious hours from your sight-seeing or just plain relaxation, is an intolerable annoyance.

So stay-at-homes, think twice before you ask your vacationing friends to make purchases for you or they'll probably not be your friends by the time they come home.

"SHOT GUN" BRIDE?

Dear Mrs. Post: My best girl friend has to get married in July. Due to the circumstances of her wedding, would it be in good taste to give her a bridal shower? I would very much like to do so. — Mary H.

Dear Mary: Girls in your friend's unfortunate situation generally get married quietly and with a minimum of the usual festivities.

A large shower would be in poor taste. However, if you wish to ask a few of her closest friends in informally, you may do so, but keep it more in the nature of a gathering of friends wishing to give the bride small presents, rather than a formal shower.

The booklet on "Table Rules of Importance" describes how to eat spaghetti as well as other difficult foods.

If you would like a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Alcoholic Housewife Becoming an Alarming Problem Today

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Alcoholism in women is growing. In a series of articles, The Pontiac Press presents a closer look at this problem. Mrs. Frances Zaluska of the Alcoholism Information Center, Pontiac Health Department, worked with our reporter while she was preparing these articles.)

By JEANNE NELSON

The lady is a drunk... Among sophisticated circles she's known as a compulsive drinker. Medical journals point her out as a victim of the disease, alcoholism. Call her anything, but color her drunk.

Her love affair with the bottle has deteriorated what once could have been called a successful marriage. The damage done to her children will last a lifetime.

And though friends and relatives plead with her to stop, the affair continues.

In the beginning, new friends are sought out — those with thirsts as great as her own. But even their company begins to pall and she soon finds greater comfort in drinking alone.

Her role as housewife doesn't demand split-second timing so it is not difficult to put things off while daydreaming with the bottle.

Sooner or later, the daydreaming gets mixed up and fantasy becomes reality. No longer is she able to distinguish between the two.

Her happiest time now is only after she has bolted the door of her mind against the outside world.

What of the family? Apprehensions set in. The growing knowledge of her drinking cannot be ignored any longer.

Aside from the obvious destruction of the human being herself by alcoholism is the residual it leaves in its wake.

Economically it's disastrous. There will be many trips to the hospital for drying-out periods. These in turn will be followed by more costly drinking binges.

Under the influence of the liquor, she will again be drawn to the fantasies and without any true understanding, subject the family to long term debts in fits of impulsiveness.

The authorities may be involved. Added to all the rest, she is now a statistic on the police records.

After her many meaningless promises to "go on the wagon," the husband takes what he considers a wise move. He completely cuts off her money source and any credit she may have been able to use.

Her only course now is to obtain the liquor in any way she can. Morals and the law have become incidental.

The children, neglected by their mother for reasons they can't begin to understand, start to show signs of delinquency. The discouraged husband often turns to another woman.

Her own guilt through all of this only leads her to escape again with the bottle, seeking its anaesthetic powers.

But when she awakens once more, it will be to a world bleaker than the one she has left.

The lady is a drunk.

Oweki Girls Will Travel in Busloads

Girls attending Camp Oweki, sponsored by the Pontiac Area Council of Camp Fire Girls in July, will have bus transportation this year.

Mrs. Deanne Hensel, camp coordinator, says the bus will leave the Community Services building on Franklin Boulevard and make stops at Whitfield and Wever schools.

There are still openings for any girl of school age who wishes to attend one of the two eight-day sessions. She need not be a registered Camp Fire Girl. Sessions start July 5 and 19.

The camp stresses nature lore and campcraft in addition to outdoor cooking, boating, sports, games, folk dancing, hiking, singing, weaving and art.

Mrs. Adolph Baxter will direct the first session, Mrs. John Fitzgerald the second. They will be assisted by a group of adult and teen-age volunteers.

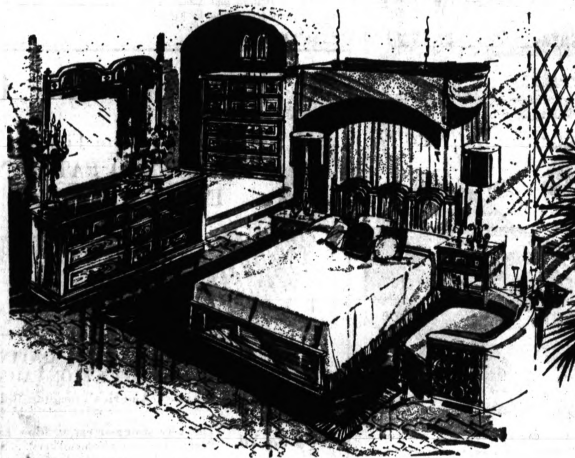

Further information and camp registration forms may be obtained from the Camp Fire Girls office in the Community Services building.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

"In the summer your nerves can be worn to a frazzle by having to replace a constant barrage of zippers in shorts, slacks and skirts. This is because children simply won't take the time to put their clothes on and take them off with care. Sew a double fold of fabric, or a double strip of hem tape across the lower end of the zipper (wrong side) just about 1 inch above the end of the slide. The zipper won't slip down farther than the tab, and it prevents stretching and tearing at the end.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. K. G. Miller, Wolverine, Michigan, is the winner of a Tailor Trix board for the following suggestion.

"Just wanted to tell you how I completed an ensemble this spring. I made a dress of pale green printed whipped cream crepe. I looked and looked for a matching pale green coating without any luck. One day I noticed a pair of draperies I had at the stair landing window and they matched! They were a rough texture with a heavier thread woven in them. They made a beautiful coat. (Scarlet O'Hara used this idea first!) I even made frogs for the neck closing. I have had so many compliments on my outfit and it only cost me $2.98 (since the drapes were on sale). Since that time, the drapery department has opened up a whole new world of high fashion possibilities for me."

Dear Mrs. Farmer:

I thought some of your readers may be interested in this idea. Perhaps you have used it before, but it was new to me.

Due to an illness, I am not allowed to wear anything tight like a girdle. Since I have a large tummy and am short waisted, my suit skirts look terrible, in fact they were so uncomfortable, I just couldn't wear them.

I ripped off the waist band and attached a camisole top that works beautifully. It's so neat and comfortable. Of course, it eliminates tuck-in blouses, but overblouses are so much more becoming for mature figures that there is no problem.

Mrs. R. J. F.

Dear Mrs. R. J. F.:

Thanks for reminding me about this again. Yes, I did put this in my column before but perhaps others haven't seen it. This is also a perfect idea for a skirt that will be topped with a very short overblouse to keep from showing your slip, your skin, or whatever, when you raise your arms.

Be sure to use a lightweight fabric. You may bind the neck and armholes if you desire, replace the back zipper by one long one. Who knows, you may never go back to the separate skirt again. If this is for one particular suit, try to match the color of the fabric of your suit with the camisole top. This way if it would show when you moved, it wouldn't matter.

Summer is the perfect time to learn to adjust your pattern. You can make simple, inexpensive cottons using your new alterations. To help you with this project, you'll want my new leaflet, "Your Pattern and You." Send 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Eunice Farmer, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Families Create Work

Home Usually a Mess

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE Z-42: Naomi B., aged 34, is a twin for millions of good wives.

"Oh, Dr. Crane," she moaned, "I feel inferior as both a wife and mother."

"For we have five children. And my house usually looks a mess."

"My husband works in a neat office where everything is kept spic and span."

"So he criticizes me for not keeping my home in apple pie order."

"And the children get on my nerves so I yell at them and too often spank them."

"So how can I keep a neat house and remain serene or calm?"

MOTHERS, TAKE HOPE

Mothers, you deserve a gold star if you can just get your home in spottless order for a couple of hours per week, as when Sunday guests are due. And a busy housewife like Naomi must not expect to match her husband's efficient office layout!

Until your children graduate from high school, your household will be a scene of turmoil, debate and often a free-for-all.

That's normal! And even desirable to a large degree.

For children can't retain "parlor manners" and remain hushed, little Lord Fauntleroy if they are to grow up properly.

Remember, quarrels and even fist fights are normal! And wholesome!

For you cannot smooth the jagged edges of a garden hoe on an emery wheel without seeing sparks fly and hearing raucous noise.

At Higgins Lake for a honeymoon after a reception in Waltz Hall are the Martin D. Barrs (Suzanne Marie Wildbilly) who were wed Friday before Rev. Geoffrey Day in the Evangel Temple. White French lace over taffeta fashioned a gown for the daughter of the Warren W. Waldbills of Jordan Road who was attended by her sister Carol Sue. George Morris was best man for the bridegroom, son of Mrs. Ruth Barr Bayliss of East Draher Road.

Similarly, you cannot smooth the selfish habits of a child and get him to harmonize reasonably well with other youngsters, without equals and fireworks!

"I know from firsthand experience, for our 5 Crane children were close together in age and full of youthful energy. So you husbands must accept the fact that your home, if full of children, should be primarily a teaching laboratory for preparing those youngsters for self-reliant adulthood."

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Sandra Lee Tyler and Oliver Joseph Drumheller, East Strathmore Avenue, spoke vows before Rev. Galen E. Hershey, Saturday in the First Presbyterian Church. After a reception at Aunt Fanny's Restaurant, Royal Oak, the couple left for a northern honeymoon. Parents are the Mark G. Tylers, Percy King Drive, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Oliver L. Drumheller. The bride wore Alencon lace over white silk organza. Attendants were Susan Stuart, Gloria Rogers, Shirley Finkle, Gary Forester, Meinhard Lorenzen, and Douglas Ingamells.

Reception in Pine Knob Resort followed recent noon vows for Susan Elizabeth Haskins and Dennis Lee Galligan in Our Lady of the Lakes Church. Parents are the Royce R. Haskins, Cambrock Lane and the Roger Calligans of Cherryllan Street. Venise lace enhanced the bride's gown and cathedral train of white silk organza over peau de soie. Attendants were Mrs. Donald Jenks, Jerry Baggett and Mrs. Harold Weston; David Galligan, James Laajala and Michael Haskins. A Mackinac Island honeymoon is planned.

1902 Grads Look Ahead

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (U) — College classmates, visiting together 64 years after their graduation from Vassar, chose to talk about the future rather than the past.

Mrs. David D. Terry, 83, and Miss Evelina Pierce, 85, both 1902 graduates of Vassar, said "there are too many interesting and exciting things to be talking about the past."

Their discussions included the "revolution in transportation, religion and space."

This was Miss Pierce's second visit with Mrs. Terry in Little Rock. The first came in 1904 at Christmas. Mrs. Terry then lived in the same home she lives in today. A Little Rock historic site, Mrs. Terry's home was built in 1840.

Financial Problems of a Military Family

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley: I was glad to see your recent article giving some information about military pay. I hope there will be more said on this subject so the civilian can more fully understand the military family's financial problems.

Many civilians raise rents and prices when they accompany duty military families. We are considered bad risks due to the fact that we can be transferred and are not permanent residents. We have to put up with such treatment on a much lower salary than these same civilians have. I hope your recent article opens the minds of these people.

My husband is now serving in Viet Nam — his third war. He is a skilled professional at his job, and yet drawing much less pay than most unskilled civilians. We have to manage our budget and still try to save a little.

Our two sons are in the service. Please tell the parents of young military men not to tell them that a certain amount must be saved out of their very small pay. The boys have to keep up their uniforms, shoes, haircuts, etc., and still need a little left over for relaxation.

Newlyweds Will Live on Utah Base

Lt. and Mrs. Thomas Edward Pratt (Linda Lou Schomberg) who were wed recently in St. John Lutheran Church, Rochester, left for his base in Salt Lake City, Utah, after a reception in the Rochester Elks Temple.

Their parents, the Leonard Schombergs of Crooks Road and the A. Henry Pratts of Walbridge Street, are of Avon Township.

An illusion veil complemented the bride's gown and train of Chantilly lace over white satin. Her bouquet held red roses and white carnations.

With Barbara Schomberg, honor maid, were bridesmaids, Mrs. Herbert Schomberg, Beverly Moore, Judy Clark and Carol Hochthanner.

Donald Pratt was his brother's best man. Ushers were Henry C. Pratt, Robert Sherry, Van Muhn and Frederick Barrai, all of Lansing.

J. C. Baileys Travel West

The James Chalen Baileys (Linda Lee Neff) left for a Western honeymoon after their recent vows before Rev. Maurice Shackell. The ceremony took place, as did the reception, in St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Parents of the couple are the Robert N. Neffs of Shimmers Road, Willard D. Bailey of West Tennyson Avenue and Mrs. Hilliard LaFrance, Genes Road.

White peau de crepe fashioned the bride's Empire gown. Her attendants were Donna Lee Neff, Cheri Monroe and Lois Hunt.

Attending the bridegroom were Kenneth Pirochta, Chris Giles, Ronald Hunt, Robert T. Neff and Charles Bailey.

Shirt-Tails Stay

To keep daughter's shirt-tails from popping out, dress her in one of the new blouses adapted for the "younger woman."

Children's styles run a gamut from tailored shirt tops to demure lace collars and cuffs, puff sleeves, and jaunty collars with bows. These 2-in-1 garments are easy to launder after every 1-or-2 wearings, as they are mainly made of machine-washable and dryable fabrics.

The boys will learn what it costs for such things and are better judges of what they can afford to save.

The majority of military men and their families do manage to save a little. But they go without more in order to do so. I think that the problem of the military family is simply that the civilian doesn't fully understand the financial limitations.

Thank you for any future articles you may write on this subject.

A Military Wife and Mother of Two Military Sons, Rochester, N.Y.

Dear Military Wife: Don't thank me. Let me thank you. You've stated some things that needed saying. Fellow civilians: let's all listen.

Dear Miss Feeley: I changed my E bonds to H bonds. We had conflicting answers as to whether H bonds were automatically extended. I wrote the Treasurer of the United States in July, 1965. Her reply was that E bonds were automatically extended, not H bonds. Has this been changed? Mrs. J. B. N., Bonita, Calif.

Dear Mrs. J. B. N.: No, this has not changed. Even though interest rates on government bonds were increased in December, the maturity on H bonds has not changed and is as follows: H bonds issued prior to Feb. 1, 1967 have a 10-year extension, so these bonds will mature in 19 years, 8 months from the time they were issued.

Any H bonds issued since Feb. 1967 will not mature until next year. At that time a new extension date will be announced.

(You can write to Mary Feeley in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions of wide interest will be discussed in her column.)

The Thomas Edward Kutakowski (Margaret Sue Mouser) left for a trip to Florida after recent vows spoken before Rev. Gerald H. Rapelje in the Memorial Baptist Church. A starched lace tulle with veil, complemented the bride's gown of Chantilly lace. Attendants were Mrs. James Kurkowski, Sharon Molsinger and Mrs. Allen Wadley. John Trumble, Wayne and Lee Keiser. The newlyweds' parents are Mrs. Walter Millage, West Brooklyn Avenue and Woodrow Mouser, Ruth Street; Mrs. Martin Kutakowski, East Walton Boulevard and the late Mr. Kutakowski.

Dated Beauty

Beauty is ever what the beholder says it is. In the 17th century, a beauty had to have a double chin; in the 18th century, it was a small face, short nose and a mop of powdered white curls. The admired Victorian miss had curls, a rosebud mouth, innocent eyes and a demure manner. For today's a-go-go girl, it's a smooth, swinging hairstyle with no-show curls and lots of body, achieved with an uncurly permanent.

Why Grow Old?

by JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

For a couple of days now I am going to share two letters from SOME of you with the REST of you. Listen to this one:

"Dear Josephine Lowman: 'I realize that I am not like I wanted to be at 52 years of age. In fact, not even the way I would want to be 92. I've had more than my share of illnesses and have been around hospitals and older folks a lot.

I know that pain and trouble can cut a person down to size but how people meet these and weather them makes such a difference!

"I have had many operations and much traction. This is my twelfth visit to a hospital fairly recently and believe me, operations don't come cheaper by the dozen. During my little 'vacations' between operations I have visited with dear friends who are living alone in nursing homes.

SOME AGE FASTER

"I have observed the way some of them have aged as compared to others I visit, and would so like to avoid the many pitfalls, and getting sidetracked by life, as I have seen some do. In one Bible teaching we are told to 'love the unlovely' but isn't it nice to find out that some who need our love are easy to love?

"All this is a preface to asking for your leaflet 'Individual Happiness.' If you can send me several you can be sure that they will be read and used and passed around. In the meantime I'll try to slow down my aging.

In spite of the tone of this letter I do count my blessings instead of the years, and in my life's ledger I can still balance the books with a lot more credits than debits and find many things to be thankful for and many people to be thankful to."

Isn't that an inspiring letter? How true it is that our approach to life can make all the difference in the world. Some may become bitter with the first brush with trouble while other towers of strength seem to weather tremendous pressure and turmoil.

Some folks seem to have a one-sided life ledger. They remember only the bad breaks and their grudges and forget the good things.

If any of you would like to have my leaflet "Individual Happiness" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Draft Hearings Begin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee opens hearings today on the military draft — a system the committee chairman described as an "unpleasant fact of life that cannot be wished away."

U.S. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, who has headed the Selective Service for 26 years, is the first witness at sessions called by Chairman L. Mendel Rivers after the draft came under fire from congressional critics.

In a statement prepared for the start of today's hearing, Rivers said the committee must determine whether the draft law is functioning as Congress intended or whether it needs substantial revision.

The South Carolina Democrat added: "The facts appear abundantly clear—we do need a draft law for now and the foreseeable future."

Hershey's testimony could have a bearing on whether there will be a later, full scale investigation of the Selective Service System.

ACKNOWLEDGES COMPLAINTS

"If it looks like the draft needs an investigation, we'll make it," Rivers said.

Rivers acknowledged there have been complaints about the draft's operation. He said he hoped Hershey could answer them.

Some of these he cited as:

- One local board defers a college student indefinitely, while another board terminates the deferment from completion of the academic year.

- No nationwide regulation on part-time students.

- High school dropouts must score higher on tests than high school graduates to be accepted.

'ENCOURAGES DROPOUTS'

"This obviously encourages high school dropouts," Rivers commented.

The chairman warned "No law . . . can endure if it does not, in the last analysis, have the sanction and support of a majority of the people."

Congressional critics contend the draft discriminates against the poor and uneducated. They charge that the affluent who can afford to go to college are deferred.

Some members of Congress have suggested that other types of national service, such as the Peace Corps, be allowed as an alternative to the draft.

NEW PROCEDURES

But others say new administrative procedures could curb discrimination.

The "authority to induct" portion of the draft law expires June 30, 1967. The hearings starting today could provide groundwork for decisions on this and other sections of the law.

Strong Bill on Auto Safety
Now Goes to Senate Floor

WASHINGTON (AP) — An auto safety bill stronger than President Johnson originally asked has been approved unanimously by the Senate Commerce Committee. It goes to the Senate floor where leaders hope for passage before the July 4th holiday.

The committee's bill directs the secretary of commerce to issue interim safety standards next year for 1968 models and to put permanent mandatory standards into effect a year later.

Johnson had proposed legislation giving the secretary authority to issue safety standards. But administration officials working with the committee said they had agreed to the stronger version.

The bill also is stiffer than proposals made by the auto industry.

COMMENT WAITS

A spokesman for the Automobile Manufacturers Association said in a statement Tuesday night his group would have no comment "until we have had an opportunity to study the language of the bill and the committee report in final form.

"Our position has been—and is—that we favor an effective and workable bill with mandatory standards."

In tentatively scheduling the measure for floor debate next week, Senate leaders explained they would like to obtain Senate passage before Congress starts its Independence Day recess.

The bill is expected to clear the Senate with almost no difficulty. But a companion highway safety measure scheduled for consideration at the same time could touch off a floor battle.

BETTER PROGRAMS

The highway safety bill as approved by the Public Works Committee would authorize $75 million to help states and cities develop more effective accident prevention programs. Some senators contend not enough money is provided by the measure. A floor fight to broaden it is likely.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., commerce committee chairman, said the interim standards for U.S. and foreign cars, trucks, buses and motor scoters probably will be based on the items the government requires on vehicles it purchases.

These include seat belts, padded dashboards, impact-absorbing steering wheel columns, exhaust control devices and back-up lights.

The interim standards would be issued Jan. 31, 1967, and take effect from six months to one year later. The permanent standards, to be announced Jan. 31, 1968, also would go into effect within six months to a year. They could be revised every two years.

Sewerage Role Weighed

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — A financial consultant will study the township's financial structure during the next three or four weeks to determine whether or not the township can afford to participate in the Clinton-Oakland Sanitary Sewer System.

The study, to be made by Stratton Associates, Inc., was suggested at the Township Board meeting last night.

The Avon Township Board will also discuss possible participation in the sewer system at its meeting tonight.

Independence Township Supervisor Duane Hursall said he doesn't think the township can afford to participate, but the money in the general fund is system would serve mainly the limited and the township's ability to pay must first be determined.

"We're going to have to go served by individual septic at this now, or later on the cost tanks."

W. Bloomfield Teachers Get Pay Proposal

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The Board of Education last night presented another salary proposal to teachers represented by the West Bloomfield Education Association (WBEA).

James Maker, WBEA president, said the teachers did not make a counterproposal to the board's salary schedule for bachelor's degrees.

According to Maker, the board proposed a starting salary of $5,650 for teachers with bachelor's degrees and a maximum of $9,000 after 11 steps.

Those with master's degrees would receive $6,650 with a maximum of $9,800 after 12 years.

The WBEA is proposing a maximum salary of $10,000 for teachers with master's degrees he said.

BACHELOR'S DEGREE

According to Maker teachers with a bachelor's degree plus 20 hours were offered $5,850 starting salary and $9,400 maximum. Those with a master's degree plus 30 hours would receive a starting salary of $6,350 with a maximum of $10,200.

Maker said the teachers are asking for maximum salaries of $9,650 for a bachelor's degree plus 20 hours and $10,400 for a master's degree plus 30 hours.

Other disagreements include increment pay, terminal leave pay, longevity pay, and some non-economic issues, he said.

Negotiations will continue Friday at 1 p.m. at the high school, Maker said.

New Principal at Rochester

Holt Educator Gets High School Post

ROCHESTER — John E. Wellington, principal of Holt High School, has been appointed principal of Rochester High School to replace Harlan Johnson.

Johnson has been named director of instruction and certified personnel for the school district.

Wellington, 44, will begin his new duties July 25. He was principal of Holt High School for seven years and principal of Fowlerville High School for nine years.

He received his bachelor of science degree in 1949 from Albion College and a master's degree in educational administration from Michigan State University in 1955.

He and his wife have three children.

The board of education has also appointed Duane Hull, superintendent of Cassville schools since 1962, as administrative assistant.

Hull, 36, will be in charge of financial procedures as well as federal and state reimbursable programs.

A graduate of Michigan State University in 1953, he received his master's degree in educational administration from there in 1962.

He and his wife have four children. He will begin his new position July 1.

To Add 1,800 Acres to Farmington

Annexation Petitions Filed

FARMINGTON — Petitions have been filed at the Oakland County clerk's office for annexation of approximately 1,800 acres bounded by Grand River, Gill, 9 Mile and Haggerty in Farmington Township.

City manager John Dinan said over 500 names appeared on the petitions.

The petitions will go to the boundaries committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors for a recommendation.

The committee's recommendation would be considered at a meeting of the Board of Supervisors which could authorize a vote on the proposal.

Dinan said it is hoped that the election could occur this fall. Voters would be limited to city residents and people in the proposed annexation area.

2 MAJORITIES

The issue would have to pass by a majority vote in both the city and township area, Dinan said.

Most of the land involved is sparsely settled, according to Dinan, but it does include a 700-acre industrial park. The city of Farmington, he said, is 95 per cent developed and needs to expand.

A similar proposal was defeated last November by township residents. City residents voted 960 to 184 in favor of the annexation, but residents of the area to be annexed voted against it, 85 to 60.

Last year's proposal only extended as far as Halstead.

POLLUTION MEASURES

At Monday night's council meeting corrective measures were approved to curb pollution of the Rouge River.

An alarm system is to be established at a lift station at 9 Mile and Grand River and tied into the police department. The system would warn police of any breakdown of pumping equipment.

A bypass is to be constructed around the treatment plant so that sewage will run into the interceptor instead of the river when equipment is being cleaned or repaired.

The system is also going to be closely checked by the Oakland County Health Department, which will report any inadequate septic tanks, said Dinan.

NAMED TO POST

In other council action, Robert F. Deadman was officially appointed director of public safety. He has been acting director since April 1.

An ordinance to help control and regulate the operators of motorcycles and motorcycle rental agencies was approved by the council.

Although there are no rental agencies in Farmington, the action is designed to prevent problems which have occurred in Detroit and suburbs.

According to Dinan, the regulations involve safety equipment, drivers' licenses, vehicle licenses and insurance.

Operators under 21 years of age will need parental permission to drive their cycles.

Rental agencies will be regulated according to the distance from residential property.

Custodial Pact OK'd

Rochester School Talks End

ROCHESTER — With the ratification of the custodial pact, the board of education has wrapped up negotiations with all of its employee groups.

The custodians' agreement, the last to be ratified, grants the raises amounting to about 11 per cent.

Custodians will receive $4,900 to $5,700; grounds and utility workers, $5,000 to $5,800; and skilled maintenance employees, $5,400 to $6,200.

The group is represented by Council 23 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO.

Beetle Damage Hits Cass County

CASSPOLIS (AP) — Cereal leaf beetle damage has shown up in areas not covered last month by a joint state-federal aerial spray program, according to Cass County agricultural agent Fred Sackrider.

He said evidence was appeared in oat and wheat fields not sprayed since 1965. Sackrider predicted "considerable damage" would result in his area if it is not sprayed next year.

The program last month covered more than 700,000 acres in portions of 10 southwestern Michigan counties.

'Not Tied to Senate Clash'

CIA Shuffle Viewed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The switch in the Central Intelligence Agency leadership was no covert shuffling to try to head off a Senate clash over supervision of the spy agency, senators involved in the dispute said today.

William F. Raborn's resignation as CIA director did not change the picture, nor was it an attempt to salvage any wounded Senate feelings, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said.

"It had nothing to do with the hassle up here," Mansfield said in an interview.

"It was not involved," Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said. "The dispute is not over the CIA, but over the Senate supervision of it."

Further, Mansfield said, Fulbright's Senate Foreign Relations Committee may introduce its resolution to revamp the Senate supervision of the big intelligence agency.

FIREWORKS COMING

This, he said, would set the stage for fireworks after the Senate's July 4 holiday week.

The battle is over the foreign relations committee's attempt to put three of its members on the exclusive seven-man CIA panel headed by Sen. Richard B. Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee. Russell has called it an attempt to muscle in.

Raborn's resignation was announced Saturday by President Johnson. The President nominated Richard M. Helms, the agency's No. 2 man, to succeed Raborn as director.

* * *

Johnson's announcement came a day after disclosure of an exchange of letters between Raborn and Fulbright.

SAME TREATMENT

Fulbright had asked if the foreign relations committee set up its own CIA subcommittee whether Raborn would give it the same treatment he gave Russell's subcommittee.

Fulbright reminded the CIA director that Raborn had refused to answer some of his questions at a briefing in February.

In his letter of reply, dated a week ago, Raborn said "The question to which I stated I was unable to respond were questions directed to the activities of the agency as to 'sources and methods' rather than to substantive intelligence information."

* * *

Fulbright acknowledged yesterday that he had asked Raborn — and Raborn had refused to answer — whether the agency in effect ever used university research programs or the student exchange program, bearing Fulbright's name, in its efforts to gather intelligence information.

DAD'S GLAD, SON'S SAD — Richard Terranova of Redwood City, Calif., arrived in Alameda Naval Air Station yesterday after spending a six-month tour of duty on the aircraft carrier Enterprise. He was happy to see his 4-month-old son, Tony, though the feeling didn't appear to be mutual. Mrs. Terranova was happy to have her family reunited.

Soapy Fails to Show to Debate Foreign Policy With Cavanagh

DETROIT (AP)—A proposed foreign policy debate between two candidates for the Democratic U. S. Senate nomination failed to materialize Tuesday night when former Gov. G. Mennen Williams declined to attend.

Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh addressed the Ad Hoc Committee of Citizens Concerned with Foreign Policy by himself, and discussed his position on Viet Nam and Red China.

Cavanagh said there "must be a cease fire to permit the widest participation" in free elections in South Viet Nam. Cavanagh said he did not advocate immediate withdrawal of U. S. troops from Viet Nam, but stated that the U. S. should "we must face the fact that two be prepared for such a move."

The Detroit mayor also said China's exist today. We must offer mainland China a seat among the great powers on the United Nations Security Council.

Williams dwelt mainly on domestic issues such as civil rights and poverty in a speech before the Flint Sportsmen's Club in Flint Tuesday night. The former governor urged the passage of new civil rights legislation and stronger enforcement of existing laws.

"Instead of having federal voting registrars in only a few counties in the South," said Williams, "I propose that the attorney general send registrars into every single county where the last vestige of discrimination exists."

Senator Robert Griffin spent Tuesday in Washington working with the Senate labor subcommittee on amendments to a minimum wage bill.

TELEPHONE SPEECH

Tuesday night he spoke by telephone to an Oakland County Young Republicans group.

2 More Cuban Athletes Defect to U.S. at Games in Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, P.R. (P) — Two more Cuban athletes have defected to seek asylum in the United States as the end of the Central American and Caribbean games in San Juan draws near.

Francisco Marti Gonzales, 20, a swimmer, and Hector Rodriguez, a track man, left their team Tuesday, bringing to three the number of Cubans to defect since the games started 10 days ago. Marti said five or six others plan to defect.

Juan Pablo Vega Romero, 18,

a wrestler, sought asylum June 13.

The Cuban government sent a 357-member delegation to the event, which ends Saturday. About 10 Cubans defected during the last games in Jamaica in 1962, most of them in the final days.

There was a rumor that Cuban officials would order all athletes as they finish competing to return to the Cuban freighter Cerro Piquelido which is waiting off San Juan to take the delegation back to Havana. But Jose Llanuza, Cuban education minister, the head of the Cuban delegation, has said repeatedly that his athletes are free to defect if they wish.

Marti competed in the 100- and 200-meter butterfly stroke but did not qualify for the finals. The swimming competition ended two days ago.

TAKEN TO IMMIGRATION

Both Marti and Rodriguez were taken to the U.S. Immigration offices by Cuban exiles.

The man, who aided Marti was his cousin.

Marti already has been granted asylum, and U.S. officials began processing Rodriguez' application.

Marti said he plans to live with his cousin in New York. He told a news conference he was turning his back on Fidel Castro because there is no future for a young man in Cuba. He said he tried to leave Cuba in 1961 but was denied permission.

Marti said he worked as an auto parts technician and was paid 100.42 pesos a month. The peso is pegged by the Cuban government at $1 but is worth much less abroad.

PREDICTS COLLAPSE

He said 80 per cent of the Cubans do not favor life under Castro's regime, and he predicted that the Castro government would collapse.

Marti said his mother, grandfather, three brothers and other relatives are still in Cuba.

Llanuza called Marti a traitor and ordered a reporter seeking comment to leave the Cuban quarters at the Olympic Village.

PREDICTS GAINS — Ray Bliss, Republican national chairman, predicts his party will make substantial gains in November, but called upon it to "run scared." He is shown speaking at a news conference at the end of a strategy session of the Republican National Committee in Washington, D.C., yesterday.

GOP Is Running Scared in '66 Races, Says Bliss

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican National chairman Ray C. Bliss reported yesterday that his party was "running scared" in the 1966 state and congressional election campaigns despite a general feeling of optimism.

Bliss, in effect, warned against overconfidence as he summed up the results of a two-day GOP National Committee meeting which concluded four days of conferences on campaign strategy.

He told a news conference that there was a feeling that the GOP could gain ground this year, but that it was running scared despite public opinion polls indicating a steady improvement in the Republican outlook.

Bliss reported that the national party organization was well financed and there was an enthusiastic effort to strengthen the party machinery.

"The issues are sharpening in our direction," he said. "I think we can win if they are handled right and we don't get overconfident."

The GOP chairman refused to offer any forecast beyond one of "substantial gains" for the Republicans in the Nov. 8 voting.

Romney Urges Tougher War

CINCINNATI (AP)—Michigan Gov. George Romney said Tuesday he believed the United States is not going to bring North Viet Nam to the bargaining table by just showing them that they can't win.

"We have got to show them that they are going to lose," Romney said.

Romney spoke at a news conference during the Midwestern Governors Conference here.

Romney said much more is at stake than just the Viet Nam war. "We are losing effective relationships all over the world. We are tied down there and neglecting our other problems," he said.

TOO MANY PLANS

On the domestic front, Romney said that the federal government is developing too many programs.

"I'm not saying the federal government shouldn't initiate programs," he said, "but it is bypassing the states and dealing with local governments so that it is hard to know who is doing what."

He also said the GOP should concentrate on 1966 and not 1968 at this time.

State Woman Victim of Crash in Wisconsin

SPRING GREEN, Wis. (AP)—Two persons died Tuesday in a head-on collision on a stretch of highway where traffic had been narrowed to a single lane because of a construction project.

Killed were Mrs. Oriole LaFleur, 52, Bay City, Mich., and Earl Campbell, 47, Spring Green. Mrs. LaFleur's husband, George, 66, was hospitalized at Dodgeville in satisfactory condition.

Iowa County sheriff's deputies said the LaFleur and Campbell cars collided on U. S. 14 three miles east of Spring Green in an area where workmen were replacing slabs of concrete pavement. A deputy said barriers had been erected around a patched place in one lane. The construction crew and its flagman had moved on to another segment of the highway, he said.

Difference of Viewpoints

MOSCOW (AP) — Differing viewpoints slowed up the opening round of talks between President Charles de Gaulle and Kremlin leaders, high French sources disclosed today.

"When we talk about easing of tensions, they talk about security," complained one French informant after the opening three-hour session Tuesday with Communist party boss Leonid Brezhnev and other Soviet leaders.

De Gaulle sat down in the Kremlin today for another session before leaving on a week's tour of four Soviet cities. He will meet Soviet leaders for more formal talks after he returns to Moscow June 29.

The differences Tuesday apparently involved de Gaulle's suggestion that other West European states, notably West Germany, hold bilateral talks with the Soviets to try to ease East-West tensions in Europe. The French source added:

Lynda Shows Latest Dances

MADRID (AP) — Lynda Bird Johnson demonstrated some of the latest American dances early today at a dinner dance in her honor which wound up the first day of her visit to Spain.

Her hosts were Ambassador and Mrs. Angier Biddle Duke. Danced to a fast-beat orchestra continuing well past midnight.

Wearing a sheer green gown, the President's 22-year-old daughter danced with a number Madrid.

"When they talk to us about a European conference, we reply that this must be an end, not a beginning."

This was a reference to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko's proposal in April for a conference of states of Eastern and Western Europe on security questions. He would exclude the United States.

The conference has been opposed in the West, notably in West Germany, because of the exclusion. The French have said they favor such a conference but have left the question of U.S. participation vague, saying the United States should play its proper role.

FULL VOTE
There is also a problem of what kind of voice Communist the tour.

It was in this context that the French viewed such a conference as a later step in efforts to ease tensions in Europe.

In a Kremlin speech Monday night de Gaulle stressed that bilateral talks should come first.

The talks are expected to continue informally on the road. It is understood that either Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny or Premier Alexei N. Kosygin will accompany de Gaulle on the tour.

TALL IN THE SADDLE — On a clear day you can see for miles over the top of traffic from the seat of this odd-looking bicycle ridden by Don Burkley, 15, and built by a brother. Don's passenger is Howard Holler, 12. Both riders are from Kansas City, Mo.

Dems Change JFK Day at GOP Urging

LANSING (AP)—House Democrats were about to memorialize Nov. 22—the date of President Kennedy's assassination Tuesday, until Republicans talked them out of it.

The Senate-approved measure would have declared that date John F. Kennedy Memorial Day in Michigan.

"But that's a somber date—commemorating a great tragedy," said Rep. Homer Arnet, R-Kalamazoo. "We should pick some other date if we want to honor this great man."

"EQUAL BILLING"

"If we declare Nov. 22 a memorial, they're giving equal billing to Lee Harvey Oswald," said Rep. Russell Strange, R-Mount Pleasant, as he proposed changing the day to May 28—Kennedy's birthday.

Democrats went along with the idea and the bill was changed. The amended version later passed the Senate and the measure went to Gov. George Romney.

U. of M. to Provide Class Standings

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The University of Michigan announced Tuesday it would provide the class standings of students with draft deferments for a review of classifications this summer.

Allan F. Smith, vice-president for academic affairs, said the ranking would be released unless the university was asked not to by individual students by July 8.

Officials of Michigan State and Wayne State universities are already providing this information, although Wayne State has said it will discontinue the practice after this year.

Crash Area Takes Care of Own

HAMPTON, Va. (AP) — Residents of a stricken area here take care of their own.

In the wake of the crash of a Marine jet that killed two and injured 44 Monday night, the Red Cross set up emergency facilities in Buckroe Beach High School to shelter the 60 persons left homeless.

But there were no takers. The homeless were with relatives and neighbors.

The AEA Intruder jet collided high above Chesapeake Bay with a sister jet. The second craft plunged into the bay after its crew bailed out, unhurt. The other continued toward Buckroe Beach, a heavily populated section of Virginia's vast military complex, after its crew, too, bailed out over the bay.

The pilotless craft clipped the top half off a 50-foot oak behind a house owned by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gallant, hit the house on the left side and plowed a 25-by-8 foot crater in the earth between the two dwellings across the street.

Mrs. Gallant, 26, and her year-old son Donald were killed. Most of the injured suffered burns from the fire as the jet fuel burst into flames. Only 10 of the 44 were kept overnight at Dixie Hospital.

Rows of one-story, shingled cottages were charred or ripped open by the blast or fire. Four automobiles were smashed or burned out. Ten homes were leveled and others were damaged.

Residents of the 12-acre area, their friends and relatives, and civilian and military officials turned to the task of digging out Tuesday.

Maj. Gen. George S. Bowman, deputy commander of the Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, was on hand during the day to check on salvaging what bits and pieces of the wrecked jet could be found.

Bowman set up an office on a lawn in the area where residents could file damage claims. In Washington the Marine Corps said in investigation has been started. A team of 10 military lawyers and four other specialists was assigned to accept civilian damage claims resulting from the accident.

ICC Postpones Date for Railroad Merger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission Tuesday postponed to Aug. 12 the effective date of the merger of the New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads.

The two lines—whose merger was approved by the ICC last April—had planned to consummate the merger Aug. 1.

The commission—in response to requests by the Erie-Lackawanna and Delaware & Hudson railroads—put off for two weeks, until July 11, the deadline for filing petitions contesting the merger, thus delaying the effective date.

Crime Foes Look to Science

WASHINGTON (AP) — Experts put their heads together today in search of space-age methods to combat the nation's swelling crime rate.

Some 50 educators, industry experts and law enforcement officials have been invited to a first-of-its-kind "national symposium on science and criminal justice."

Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach, cosponsor of the conference, said its purpose is "to give science a clear view of what new tools and techniques are needed in the national effort to improve the control of crime."

The ideas generated in the two-day assembly at the State Department probably will be scrutinized by the National Crime Commission, of which Katzenbach is chairman.

The commission, the Justice Department and the President's Office of Science and Technology are cosponsoring the conference in affiliation with the National Security Industrial Association.

The association is a nonprofit organization of more than 400 American firms that supply goods and services to the Department and other government agencies.

Designers of the conference hope it will produce the most up-to-date thinking yet achieved in the efforts against lawbreakers.

For instance, an official of the Department of Housing and Urban Development will discuss the possibilities of cutting down crime by the design and construction of city areas.

The delegation also will discuss the use of computers at all stages of law enforcement and the administration of justice; more effective and cheaper burglar alarms that might automatically trigger a radio announcement; and the use of the latest technological devices to improve prison security.

Such recent ideas as tranquilizer guns, with which policemen could immobilize attackers, will be considered, as will the identification of criminals through the recently developed voice prints and the latest laboratory techniques to develop usable evidence linking criminals to the scene of the crime.

Police communications will be analyzed in hopes of coming up with ideas to speed the response of police to emergencies and provide the latest information to officers in the field.

Dominicans Seek Action on Peace Force Removal

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The Dominican government is seeking an urgent meeting of hemisphere foreign ministers to set the date for the Inter-American Peace Force to start leaving.

Official sources said Dominican Foreign Minister Carlos Federico Perez summoned the Latin-American diplomatic corps Tuesday night to ask for a meeting in Washington Friday for the foreign ministers of the Organization of American States.

Diplomatic sources expressed doubt the ministers could or would meet on such short notice. They believed that provisional President Hector Garcia-Goody knew this but wanted to put his effort on the record.

Freeway Bonds OK'd

LANSING (AP)—The State Administrative Board has approved the sale of $24.1 million in Detroit freeway bonds at an interest rate of 3.91 per cent.

Garcia-Goody has been mentioned as a presidential possibility in 1970.

The decision by the provisional government was believed to have the approval of President-elect Joaquin Balaguer. Garcia-Goody and his cabinet met with top officials of Balaguer's Reformist party Tuesday.

CREATED IN '68

The six-nation peace force was created in May 1965 by the foreign ministers of the OAS nations after the United States sent 18,000 troops to the Dominican Republic to stop the 1965 rebellion. The United States has about 6,800 men in the force, and there are about 1,300 Latin Americans.

The six nations with troops in the force—the United States, Brazil, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras and Paraguay—have proposed to the OAS that the foreign ministers agree on a withdrawal date after the new Dominican government is installed July 1.

It is known that Balaguer is not anxious for full immediate withdrawal of the force. Garcia-

Ex-Editor of Look Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Chester L. Morrison, a recently retired senior editor of Look magazine, died Tuesday at 66 years of age. He had been a senior editor for more than 15 years and previously had worked for The Associated Press, the New York Post and the Boston Herald.

Goody, however, has expressed belief that the Dominican armed forces and police are capable of handling any internal security problem.

Some Dominicans fear that ultraconservative elements in the Dominican military may balk at projected reforms or attempt reprisals against followers of defeated presidential candidate Juan Bosch, whom they overthrew in 1963. The peace force is considered to have been the main deterrent against such reprisals.

Balaguer's victory over Bosch was confirmed Tuesday by the national election junta. The final official result gave Balaguer 789,385 votes to 525,330 for Bosch.

Death Takes Engineer

U.S. Leaders Express Confidence in Allied Victory Over Cong as Monsoons Near

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. commanders are guardedly confident that the tide of war in Viet Nam is running in favor of the allies.

They feel they can smash a Communist monsoon offensive if there is one.

Their optimism stems largely from military successes of the past three months, a time when South Viet Nam was wracked with political turmoil and crack Vietnamese fighting units were pulled out of the line.

But some observers contend that American commanders are making the same mistake the French made before their defeat here in 1954. They say the French thought they could win if the Vietnamese fought on French terms, but the Communists pursued their own form of guerrilla fighting in a war that was as much political as military.

SEVERAL FACTORS

The guarded U.S. optimism stems from these factors:

1. The United States and its allies have clearly seized the initiative and are seeking out the enemy in ever-increasing offensives. In one recent week, allied operations reached a record high of 39 search-and-destroy sweeps by 1,000 troops or more. Of these, U.S. forces launched 25.

2. The massive buildup of allied forces continues. The United States has 270,000 troops here and expects to add 100,000 more before the end of the year. Nearly all of these will be combat forces rather than logistic or support troops. The Australians have just finished increasing their force from 1,500 to 4,500. The South Koreans have nearly 25,000 men now and will add 17,000 more by August. The allies, including the South Vietnamese, already outnumber four to one the combined North Vietnamese and Viet Cong force of 200,000 estimated to be in South Viet Nam.

NEW METHODS

3. New weapons, new tactics and, importantly, new methods of intelligence in detecting the Communists and anticipating their intentions are paying off.

4. The high mobility of U.S. and allied forces, built around the helicopter, is proving a decisive battle factor. Helicopters are being used to lift troops swiftly into battle, as gunships to bring ammunition and weapons to the battlefields, and even to bring in artillery pieces.

5. U.S. air attacks on North Viet Nam are disrupting supply and transportation lines, hampering war production and hurting morale. In South Viet Nam, U.S. planes are supporting ground actions by the allies and keeping the Viet Cong from massing for offensives.

U.S. military men feel that if the South Vietnamese government can settle the internal strife produced by the Buddhists, the allies in time can convince the Communists they cannot win militarily and must negotiate.

During the antigovernment disorders of the past three months, soldiers of the Vietnamese 1st Division sided with the Buddhist rebels in Hue and Da Nang, thousands of Viet- troops were used in support of several recent large American operations, notably Hawthorne and Paul Revere in the central highlands.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, says the coming two months of the monsoon season could be critical in determining who will win.

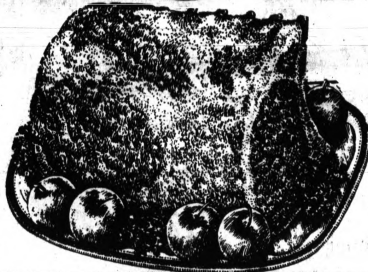

The heavy monsoon rains theoretically work in favor of the Communists by hampering movement of ground troops by pointed out that Vietnamese helicopter.

Racism, Disorder: Mississippi Stigmas

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG Jr.

Executive Director
National Urban League
James Meredith intended marching though the state of Mississippi to demonstrate that a new era was at hand and that it was possible for Negro citizens to walk the public byways in safety.

The brutal attempt on his life in full view of armed policemen who did nothing to prevent the attack, is proof that very little has changed in Mississippi.

The new era Meredith was hoping for has been deferred, and a climate of racism and lawlessness still dominates.

If a national figure like James Meredith can be shot in Mississippi, the only lesson we can draw is that no Negro, no matter how prominent or respected, is safe from danger. Still less safe is the average Negro citizen.

This situation prevails because a climate of lawlessness prevades many places in the South. Acts of violence against Negroes often go unpunished.

Moderates Silent

Too many moderate men are silent. Signs of interracial co-operation are usually suppressed. An aura of fear and mistrust rules this sad state.

When volunteers arrive to help register Negroes to vote or to help them combat illiteracy, the cry of "outside agitator" goes up. Anything that challenges the status quo, anything that tries to improve the lot of Mississippi's Negro citizens, is vilified.

The state has seceded morally from the union. It is this public immorality that created the atmosphere in which such a vicious attack could take place.

Samples of editorial comment from some Southern papers are even more shocking.

NO CONDEMNATION

Rather than condemn the attack on Meredith as a frightful instance of criminality, they blame the would-be assassin for making possible passage of the pending Civil Rights Act.

Other papers, and the governor as well, said that while the shooting was "foolish," so was Meredith for attempting to exercise his rights.

James Meredith is a courageous man. He showed his courage when he became the first Negro to attend the University of Mississippi in the face of armed rebellion on the campus, a rebellion which was aided and abetted by the defiant attitude of the governor of the state.

While Meredith failed to prove that a Negro can go about his business peacefully without risking his life in Mississippi, he did prove quite a few other things.

First, he proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that federal protection for civil rights workers and Negro citizens is urgently needed.

The long list of martyrs who died at the hands of Southern racists is testimony to the need for such federal protection.

The attack on Meredith also gives the lie to the racists who claim they are superior men. Superior men do not lurk in bushes to shoot other men in the back. Only weak men do that, and only weak men fear honest difference of opinion.

Auto Civilization Coming to Soviet Union

By JOHN WEYLAND
MOSCOW (AP)—The automobile civilization seems about to come to the Soviet Union.

Communism will never be the same again if it does. In its way, this is one of the most revolutionary developments in the country since the Bolshevik Revolution of 1917.

Until now, the Soviet Union has hardly seen what the automobile can do to life. It has been getting along on public transportation.

Whereas there are 374 cars per 1,000 population in the United States and 178 in France, the Soviet Union has only 4 per 1,000.

But the new five-year plan indicates things are going to change. The new Soviet man will find himself confronted with the joys—and horrors—of the automobile era, if the plan in fact foreshadows the future.

During the next five years, auto production is to increase from 200,000 a year to 800,000. Two new plants are to be built. A new small model called the Zima is to be introduced. Cars already being manufactured are to be remodeled. Prices are to be reduced from their present astronomical levels — now about four times higher than in the West.

If all this involved some other product it would not be so significant. But the automobile is something special. It symbolizes a new, Western-like attitude toward life. Its introduction on a large scale has been bitterly opposed.

Back in the iron age of Joseph Stalin, the car — the private car, that is — had no place.

Nikita S. Khrushchev came along and started raising living standards, letting the people have more of the national product. Nevertheless, Khrushchev was strongly antiautomobile.

During his visit to the United States, he was shown the great complex of highways around San Francisco filled with the American dream on wheels. He was supposed to be impressed. He was, saying: "What a waste."

Khrushchev increased public transportation. He saw it not only avoiding the "waste" of private cars, but also the needs they bring with them — parking places, service stations, garages, highways. The whole complex.

Khrushchev's successors, led by Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, in all probability agree with him about the uselessness of the private car, from the old standpoint.

NEW RESPONSIVENESS

But they are showing a new responsiveness to the wants of the people, who are no longer just the poor, simple masses. Education and prosperity have made for pressure from below. The leadership is so well-trenched that it probably could resist this pressure altogether and survive. But Brezhnev, Kosygin & Co. apparently see no reason why they should.

The Soviet Union has reached the point where it can hold onto its position as a top world power and still provide its citizens some luxuries. The old tight-belt days are gone.

Result — private automobiles on a large scale coming up. There is no doubt that the Soviet public wants them. People obviously do not enjoy being squeezed and trampled in their marble-balled Metro anymore than New Yorkers do in their subway.

New Corned Beef Can Be Roasted

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Have you seen the new type of corned beef, the kind you can roast instead of simmer?

It is specially prepared so that it'll be fork-tender after two to three hours of roasting.

You may treat the surface like a ham, scoring it and inserting cloves; or you may glaze the roast during the last 20 minutes.

These roasts may be mild or zesty with garlic and spices. Follow directions on the package for either one.

Try this new roasting corned beef on your charcoal grill. Use the oven roasting time given on the label. Time will vary, depending upon equipment.

If you're hungry for corned beef and can't find the new kind, settle for a regular cut of corned brisket. Simmer until tender or cook in a pressure cooker and finish in the oven.

FRUITED CORNED BEEF

1 piece (4 lbs.) corned-beef brisket
1 tablespoon mixed pickling spices
1 onion, sliced
1 clove garlic
Few sprigs celery tops
1 jar (1 lb. 4 oz.) chunky apples with apricots

1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon powdered cloves
1/4 teaspoon prepared mustard
Cover corned beef with cold water, bring slowly to a boil, simmer 5 minutes. Taste the water. If it seems excessively salty, drain.

Cover meat with fresh cold water, add spices and vegetables. Bring to a boil, cover, simmer 4-5 hours, until tender. Test by piercing with a fork.

You can cut cooking time to about 1 hour if you use a pressure cooker. Check manufacturer's directions for exact time.

Lay brisket on broiler rack.

Trim excess fat. Blend fruit with spices and mustard, spread over meat. Broil about 5 inches from the heat until the topping is bubbling and glazed.

Or arrange meat on a baking pan, cover, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 45 minutes.

Serve hot or cold, in thin slices. Decorative and delicious on the buffet! Makes 8 to 10 servings.

You're sure to have some meat left over. Use it in a special sandwich made with hot corn bread.

CORNED BEEF SANDWICHES

Corn Bread

One 10-oz. pkg. easy corn bread mix
1/4 cup chopped green onions and tops

1 egg

Mustard Sauce

1 tablespoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 cup mayonnaise
1 egg yolk, beaten

Sliced cooked corned beef

Heat oven to hot (425 degrees). Put onions, egg and milk into bag of mix. Squeeze upper part of bag to force air in. Close top of bag by holding tightly between thumb and index finger. With bag resting on table, mix by working bag vigorously with fingers. Mix about 40 seconds or until egg is completely blended.

Squeeze bag to empty batter into special aluminum foil pan contained in package. (Do not grease pan.) Bake in preheated oven about 20 minutes. Open corner folds of pan for easy cutting and serving.

Heat corned beef. For sauce, combine all ingredients, stirring until blended. Heat in top of double boiler over hot water, stirring constantly.

To serve, cut hot corn bread upper part of bag to force air in 6 strips; split horizontally. Top with corned beef and mustard sauce. Makes 6 servings.

CORNED BEEF SANDWICHES

Sauerkraut Adds Crispness to Salad

Summertime cooking can be easy, if your cupboard shelf is kept stocked with an assortment of convenient canned and packaged foods with good keeping qualities.

Depend on macaroni products such as elbow macaroni and egg noodles for quickly prepared stick-to-the-ribs dishes. And look to canned sauerkraut for a non-preparation-at-all vegetable with refreshing crispness welcome in the warm weather.

Macaroni Kraut Salad is cool and crisp and colorful, and would be the ideal accompaniment for any kind of meat: broiled or barbecued, hot or cold.

Macaroni Kraut Salad

1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
1 can (1 pound) sauerkraut, drained
1 cup cherry tomatoes
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup chili sauce
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon celery seed
1/4 teaspoon coarsely ground black pepper
1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
Crisp salad greens

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water; drain again.

Combine remaining ingredients except salad greens with macaroni; chill. Serve salad in bowl lined with salad greens.

Upside-Down Cake Has Fruit Cocktail on Top

Need a glamorous dessert for a very special occasion? If so, your dream will come true with a colorful Jeweled Treasure Cake. It's pretty to view and delicious to eat, but the best part is the ease of preparation for the hostess.

Combine delicious fruit cocktail with brown sugar in the bottom of a ring mold. Top it with cake batter, tinted pink, and bake. When done invert the cake and there it is still warm with a dish of pre-dipped ice cream in the center. It is so easy, colorful and tantalizing that no one will be able to resist.

Jeweled Treasure Cake
1 can (1 lb.) fruit cocktail, drained
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed

4 maraschino cherries

8 pecan halves
1 package (1 layer) white cake mix

2 tablespoons maraschino cherry liquid
1 pint ice cream, optional

Drain fruit cocktail well. Place butter in 1-quart ring mold pan and put in oven long enough to melt butter. Remove pan and stir in brown sugar. Cut 4 maraschino cherries in half; nestle deep into sugar mixture; alternate with nuts.

Prepare cake mix according to package directions substituting 2 tablespoons maraschino cherry liquid for 2 tablespoons water.

Place fruit cocktail over brown sugar mixture and top with pink cake batter. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes or until done. Remove from oven and let stand for 5 minutes. Invert onto cake plate.

When ready to serve, fill bowl with ice cream and place in center of ring mold. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Green Salad Looks Good, Tastes Better

Making an attractive salad is an art. This Bell Ringer Salad is designed with simplicity but the texture and color contrast of the ingredients along with the last-minute dressing will have a pleasing effect.

Bell Ringer Salad

Remove the core of 2 medium to small heads of iceberg lettuce. Run a heavy stream of cold water into the heads. Turn upside down to drain and refrigerate a few hours before preparation time.

Cut crosswise slices of lettuce about 1 inch thick. Cut a bell shaped green pepper in circles. Put the circle of pepper on top of the lettuce slice; a pickled or marinated artichoke heart in the center.

Cut in half, lengthwise, a pitted ripe or green olive put at the base of the pepper ring to look like a bell clapper. Makes 6 servings on individual salad plates or arranged on a large glass plate.

Dressing: In a bowl set in ice, blend together 2 tablespoons red wine vinegar, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, pinch of dried tarragon, ¼ teaspoon salt and a dash of white pepper. Gradually whip in ¼ cup of olive oil. Blend until smooth. Makes ¼ cup dressing.

BASIC BARBECUE SAUCE—Mix one can (8 oz.) tomato sauce, ½ cup steak sauce, ¼ cup brown sugar and two tablespoons vinegar. Simmer five minutes. Makes about two cups of sauce that is excellent on hamburgers, steaks and frankfurters. For chicken: Omit brown sugar and add three tablespoons pineapple or apricot preserves. For spare ribs: Substitute ½ can frozen concentrated orange juice for brown sugar.

Snip the Fat

To keep a ham slice from curing while it is under the broiler, snip the fat around the edge at about 1-inch intervals. You can use your kitchen scissors to make these gashes.

A large head of Boston lettuce and half a head of watercress will make enough greens for a tossed salad to serve eight.

Make Sandwich With Ladyfingers

Party Ladyfingers
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup plus ¼ cup sifted confectioners sugar

1 tablespoon milk
¼ teaspoon vanilla
12 ladyfingers, split
¼ to ½ cup orange marmalade

¾ cup lightly packed flaked coconut
Cream butter and ½ cup confectioners sugar; beat in milk and vanilla; stir in coconut. Spread one half of each ladyfinger with some of the frosting; spread the other half with marmalade; press together the halves. Roll in the ¼ cup confectioners sugar.

Use Prepared Biscuits

Bran Sweet Rolls Are Quick

"Regardless of the temperature, you still need calories, protein, minerals, and vitamins," Dr. Fredrick J. Stare, eminent nutrition authority, points out in his book, Eating for Good Health.

On a hot morning, how do you prepare a light breakfast containing the necessary nutrients? Build the breakfast around the cereal and milk serving. It furnishes for most persons, approximately ten per cent of the daily needs of protein, important B vitamins, and essential minerals.

Add a slice of chilled melon or glass of orange juice, bread and butter, and you have a quick, adequate breakfast.

Then, because you still may want to prepare something extra to tease appetites, bake this attractive bran flake raspberry coffee cake. It is fast, tender, and not too sweet.

Anyone who wants a sweeter bread may frost the coffee cake with confectioners' sugar icing, after letting it cool 5 minutes.

Bran Raspberry Coffee Cake
½ cup raspberry preserves
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted

¼ cup chopped pecans
1 cup bran flakes
1 can (8 ounce) refrigerated biscuits

Combine preserves and 3 tablespoons butter or margarine. Stir in pecans and ½ cup bran flakes. Roll biscuits in circles about ¾ inches in diameter.

Spoon an equal amount of cereal mixture onto each biscuit; sprinkle with remaining bran flakes. Fold edges of biscuits over filling to shape into cornucopias.

Arrange cornucopias spoke-fashion in greased 8-inch layer pan. Brush top with remaining butter or margarine. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) until done, 15 to 20 minutes.

Yield: About 10 rolls, 4 to 5 servings.

This Dessert Is Different

Cognac-coffee dessert is a jellied version of a popular after-dinner beverage.

Soak 2 envelopes of unflavored gelatin in ¼ cup of cognac brandy to soften. Add ¾ cups of brewed strong coffee that is very hot, ½ cup of sugar or more to taste, and stir until dissolved. Pour into mold.

Chill in refrigerator until set. Serve with whipped cream and garnish with candied cherries. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

YOUR CHILD MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS 1 OUT OF 3 DOES

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms. — ugly parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it. To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W Tablets do... and here's how they do it: First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily. Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... small, easy-to-take tablets... special sizes for children and adults.

Dallas Considers Parking Lot at JFK Memorial

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Construction of the John F. Kennedy Memorial, covering a city block in downtown Dallas, is being delayed by county officials to consider adding an underground parking lot.

Work of clearing old buildings from the site, located about two blocks from the spot where President Kennedy was assassinated in November 1963, was completed last week.

Construction of the memorial was to have started next week but the Central Business District Association has urged that an underground garage be included.

Detroit School Committee Reports

Carty Ouster Backed

DETROIT (AP)—A Northern High School citizens' committee Tuesday recommended replacement of Northern principal Arthur T. Carty with an administrator "more sensitive to the needs of the students and the community."

The committee's report to the Detroit Board of Education did not mention Carty by name, however.

SPLIT PLANNED

Recent troubles at the high school stemmed from a basic split among faculty members and failure of the school's administration to recognize the cure, the report said.

The committee said a basic difference in attitude on the teaching of inner-city children existed between groups of teachers. The school administration, the report said, could see no other cure than getting rid of the faculty members who did not approve of the administration. This idea was rejected by the committee.

There was also criticism of the lack of communication between the central school administration and the administration at Northern.

STUDY IN FALL

The committee did not investigate the school's curriculum, the report said, because of a lack of information. A curriculum study will be made in the fall.

There were a number of shortcomings in the building, the committee said, and asked that Carty had requested them be remedied, but that his requests had been ignored or denied. Included were overcrowded classrooms, inadequate lighting, too many lockers, worn steps, uncleaned desks, exposed nails in the gymnasium floor and broken equipment.

The committee was named six weeks ago to investigate the quality of education at the high school, which drew national attention when students staged two walkouts there.

State Education Board to Meet in Detroit

LANSING (AP)—The State Board of Education will hold its regular semi-monthly meeting next Wednesday in Detroit. A dinner meeting with the Detroit Board of Education is scheduled for Tuesday night. The state board will meet Wednesday night with the Wayne State Board of Governors.

Veteran Disowns Diploma Because of Pro-Cong Prof

EAST ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—Richard Barrett, 23, doesn't want his diploma from Rutgers University, he says, because it refused to fire a professor who said he favored a Viet Cong victory.

Barrett, from Rutledge, Tenn., is staying with friends here. He was graduated from Rutgers in 1964 and then served two years in the Army, including one in Viet Nam, where he was wounded.

He said he read of Prof. Eugene Genovese's statements on the Viet Cong in an Army newspaper. "This diploma is worthless to me," Barrett said.

The germ of leprosy—the bacillus Mycobacterium leprae—was one of the first diseases producing microbes to be identified under the microscope. It is also called Hansen's bacillus after its discoverer.

Food Price Dip Slows Living Cost Spurt

WASHINGTON (AP)—A big drop in food prices last month gave Americans a temporary breather in the highest spiral of living costs in 15 years, the government said Tuesday.

Grocery prices declined six-tenths of one per cent and balanced off increases in other living costs to a relatively slight over-all rise.

The net effect on the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index measuring typical family living costs was a one-tenth of one per cent hike to 112.4.

This means it cost $11.26 in May to buy goods worth $10 in the 1967-68 period.

Asked if the worst of this year's inflationary trend appeared over, Assistant Commissioner Arnold Chase of the Bureau of Labor Statistics said: "I really can't tell. All I know is it has gone up in June every year for the last 10 years."

The one-tenth of one per cent rise in the index for May was the first drop in eight months.

ment economists consider non-inflationary, but followed three months of sharp increases totaling 1.4 per cent—the highest for the period of the year since the Korean War year of 1961.

The decline in food costs, which hit most family budgets quickest and hardest, was the first drop in eight months.

An estimated five million cans or packages of dog food are sold daily in grocery stores.

AMA Warns Old People on Inactivity

By Science Service
CHICAGO—Inactivity in nursing homes and all kinds of retirement facilities can have a disastrous effect on the old folks, the American Medical Association warns.

Inactivity at any age has a bad effect on all the body organs. Astronauts use isometric and isotonic exercises such as pulling on a rubber bungee cord hooked around both feet.

Dr. Frederic J. Kotke of the University of Minnesota Medical School, Minneapolis, says in the Journal of the AMA that "total inactivity of muscle results in net loss of strength of approximately three per cent per day."

Prolonged bed rest impairs neuromuscular and emotional control and intellectual performance, even though it may protect a damaged organ, Dr. Kotke explains.

Whether limited activity is enforced by a double hip spica cast for double fractures, by the need to rest a damaged heart or by a prolonged space flight, the AMA advises, special efforts should be made to minimize the effects.

Some regular exercises are possible in most cases. For example, the hip patient can pull wall weights daily to strengthen his upper extremities.

He also can do isometric muscle-setting exercises for certain muscles several times daily.

New knowledge of the relationship of the heart to various physical activities can help in devising beneficial programs for the patient recovering from coronary thrombosis.

As Medicare increases demands for nursing-home facilities and services for people over 65, the AMA has expressed the hope that many physicians will supervise and even instruct the rapidly assigned staffs prepared to give mainly custodial care. Goals for desirable amounts of exercise and activity should be set.

Fat Feet Courtesy of Arizona's Floors

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Most Arizona houses have concrete floors—resulting in an Arizona's feet being bigger than other people's.

The Arizona Podiatry Association, in concluding this, said in almost all other areas of the United States' homes and a good percentage of commercial buildings have wooden floors.

Concrete doesn't yield under the weight of a walker.

A spokesman for the association said: "Something's got to give, if only a little, and in the case, it's the foot."

Ignorance Expensive, Police Officer Finds

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Ignorance may be bliss but it can be expensive, according to the Wichita Police Department. An unidentified traffic officer damaged the transmission of a police car by putting motor oil in the wrong opening. It cost the department about $200 to repair the damage.

over fences for 12-17-year-old riders. One of the brightest prospects among the Bloomfield Open Hunt riders, Miss Wilson rode Rome Dome in the class.

McLain Makes Pitch for Own Movie

Hills' Rider Show Winner

Ontario, Ohio and host Bloomfield Open Hunt entries posted major victories Tuesday as the Detroit Horse Show progressed under sunny skies and warm temperatures.

Adding to their dressage championships of Monday, the Canadian horses and riders took the final dressage blue ribbon yesterday morning then lauded onto the Joan Caulson Memorial Trophy for the first time.

The Caulson award goes to the outstanding working hunter in the combined junior exhibitors 13-and-under and 14-17 classes.

Mrs. Barbara McGuinness rode Gold Tassel to the dressage prize; while 14-year-old Mary Hall-Anderson accepted the Caulson Memorial for Ramon Doe, a London (Ont.) Hunt Club entry.

The club was founded in 1883 and is one of the oldest in terms of continued existence.

JUMPERS

An Ohio jumper, Anthony A. — ridden by Don Snelling for Dorchester Farms — outdid Irish Hills — ridden by Canadian Equestrian Team member Moffat Dunlop — for the first Open Jumpers victory in the horse show that runs through Sunday night.

Five horses tied and a double jumpoff was required to settle the standings.

Debbie Wilson, a talented Bloomfield Hills rider, brought BOH some honor by winning the Michigan Hunts Perpetual Trophy for equitation over fences (12-17-year-olds).

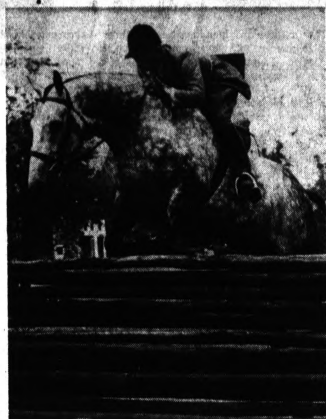

Miss Wilson finished second in the equitation not to jump class earlier for 14-17-year-olds. In maiden equitation (9-and-under), Ann Arbor's Mary Hulett beat out Les Newlander of the BOH for the blue ribbon; and Tamara McKinney, 3, (Lexington, Ky.) won the lead-line class (6-and-under) with Jaye Polozker of Huntington Woods second.

Katie Monahan, 11, of Birmingham, took a third in the equitation not to jump for 13-year-olds and under. Niles' Tina Carmichael was the winner.

In an amateur working hunter class, Moonlight Murrum owned by Linda Randt of Bloomfield Hills was the winner. Mrs. A. C. Randolph's Quiet Flite (Virginia stables) won the open conformation hunters class; and a Chicagoan St. Jayne's Happy Talk was the best open regular working hunter.

A Bloomfield Hills horse, Mrs. G. J. Graham's Battle Fashion was second in Happy Talk.

Bengal Hurler Halts Senators for 11th Win

Victory Puts Detroit 2 Games From First in League Race

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Denning McLain would like nothing better than to land a starring role in a movie.

Not the Hollywood type, mind you, but the kind of film which he could invite the entire family, especially his father-in-law, to view in the privacy of his home. A World Series film, for instance.

McLain's joy at such a prospect would be heightened by the knowledge that his father-in-law, former shortstop great Lou Bourdeau, would find himself in the same uncomfortable position as his son-in-law during the past three years.

For whenever McLain pays a visit to his in-laws, he is invariably dragged into a private room for a presentation of the game in which Bourdeau played a major part.

"I've seen that film once I've seen it a thousand times," notes McLain. "I'm just glad I didn't have to pitch to that man. Boy, he was tough, and how he'd jump on those fast balls."

ELEVENTH WIN
McLain, however, has wasted no time in stepping into the American League spotlight himself. Only 22 years of age, the Detroit hurler posted his 11th victory in 14 decisions Tuesday night with a five-hit, 5-2 triumph over the Washington Senators.

McLain's dreams are not very far from reality at this stage. Two games to be exact. That's the margin which separates the Tigers from the league-leading Baltimore Orioles, who split a two-night doubleheader with the New York Yankees.

Dick McAuliffe triggered a three-run Detroit burst in the first with a leadoff triple and started a two-run spurge in the fifth with a double. Jim Northrup and Norm Cash each drove in a pair of runs.

Cash's two singles raised his runs-batted-in total to 38. Mickey Stanley made his first appearance in the lineup since May 13 as he filled in for Kaline in the last two innings. Don Wert, who rejoined the team Tuesday, did not play.

Another recent returnee, Mickey Lolich, will go against Phil Ortega tonight in the second game of a three-game series.

IT WON'T FIT—Gary Howard has a big appetite and his grandfather, Willard Dye, 12750 Scott, Springfield Township, did his best to keep the 300-pound waterfowl Kettering high football player satisfied by catching the 11-pound 4-ounce pike Gary is holding.

But it's too big for the frying pan held by his grandfather, Mrs. Dye. The fish was taken early Saturday afternoon from Long Lake near the Dye home. A sucker was used for bait. The northern leads The Pontiac Press Big Fish Derby's pike division.

Area Youth Is Delegate to National Conference

Bob Taylor learned his conservation lessons well last winter.

As a result of his attentiveness during classes at the Waterford Boys Club, the 14-year-old Pierce Junior High student will leave for Washington Sunday.

He will be one of 500 delegates attending the National Youth Conference on Beauty and Conservation. The conference will be made up of boys and girls from various organizations across the nation. Bob earned the four-day trip by compiling the top examination score and writing the winning essay covering what he had learned during the classes.

The Boys Club arranged a seven-week course in conservation for members and their fathers. Staff members of the Conservation Department's Pontiac Lake district office were the instructors.

Charles F. Sitton, director of the club, submitted the classes and essays as a project in the National Boys Clubs Conservation Contest. The Waterford club was declared a winner and Bob was designated as a delegate to the conference.

There will be 42 boys club delegates at the conference. Bob will be the only one from Michigan. National Boys Clubs is paying part of his expenses.

While in Washington, Bob and the other delegates will hear talks given by Mrs. Lyndon Johnson; Mrs. Stewart Udall, wife of the Secretary of the Interior; Mrs. Overall Freeman, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture; and top federal conservation specialists.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Taylor, Bob feels that water pollution is the most serious problem in the area. "Bob really deserves the honor," said Sitton. "He is a top student in school and is very interested in electronics as well as conservation."

He is tentatively planning for a career in the conservation field. In Michigan.

English Pirate Radio Tycoon Charged in Murder After Station in Ocean Is Seized

LONDON (AP) — A leading British politician-businessman was charged with murder today after the operator of a pirate radio station was found slain in his home.

The dead man's pop music station off the southeast coast in the Thames estuary meanwhile was occupied by a mysterious band of raiders who silenced it.

Maj. William Oliver Smedley, former vice president of the Liberal party and a pirate radio tycoon, was charged with murder in a special court.

The dead man was Reg Calvert, 37, who ran Radio City, a pop station operating from an abandoned anti-aircraft fort on Shivering Sands, 12 miles off the coast.

The shooting came shortly after disclosure that an unidentified boarding party had taken over the station.

Police gave no indication whether there was any direct link between the raid and shooting.

Smedley, 54, is chairman of Project Atlantis, an organization associated with the pirate radios which broadcast from just outside British waters to evade the government ban on commercial radio broadcasting.

A few hours before police announced Calvert's death, it was learned that a boarding party of 10 men and a girl had taken over his station Monday and were still holding it.

The raiders and the station's seven-man staff stood on the deck of the fort early today and are doing it. After that, ask the pling irons and rocket lines, crowd and it's frightening to, the transmitters and we haven't, husky gentlemen don't seem to ## oil or latex house paint

REG. 5.99 OIL BASE HOUSE PAINT

Why paint twice when once will do? This oil-base paint has extra-hiding power—covers most colors in just one coat. It's durable, too! Lab tests have proved that white stays bright and colors won't fade for years.

REG. 4.99 ACRYLIC LATEX PAINT

No matter what the surface is, this paint does the job for you—wood, stucco, asbestos shingles or masonry! Resists moisture blistering on wood and alkali damage on masonry. Stays clean and bright without the usual chalking action so common with other paints of its type. Apply it in 'most any weather, even on damp surfaces, then wash hands and tools in plain soap and water.

Skilled chemists develop new, advanced products in Wards own modern paint factories. For example, they have developed a process in which alkyl oil is added to an acrylic latex base to produce Acrylic Latex 401—the only paint we know of that promises 1-coat coverage over any previously painted chalking surface—without priming! 401—an example of Wards continual quest to develop the best, through research... then better it.

A View From Home—3

The Enemy---250,000---Pitiful, Vicious

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the third in a five-part series by Tom Tiede on home-front reactions on the Viet Nam war. Tiede recently returned from a reporting tour in Viet Nam.)

By TOM TIEDE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — There are about 250,000 old and young in Viet Nam who daily dream of murdering a soldier from the United States of America.

They are miniature people, covered in soiled rags and infested with enormous open sores on skins that have cracked like shoe leather from lack of nutrition and soap.

They are born with two woe-filled possessions, ignorance and poverty. Before they die they acquire one other. Despair.

They are pitiful but vicious, these people.

'COMMUNIST TRIBE'

We call them the Viet Cong, an abbreviation of "Viet Cong San," which, roughly translated, means "the tribe of Communists." But the label fits only a portion of the enemy. Most are not Communists, have no conception of the ideology and harbor no strong political feeling of any intellectual nature.

Yet in the name of communism, they kill 15 of us a day. In the same name they forfeit nine of their own lives hourly.

Why?

There is no full answer. But part of what answer there is lies in further description of the enemy themselves — thick haired, thin-limbed people who may be as old as 70 or 80 or as young as 7 or 8.

Their lives are brief and unhappy. Their country's diet and diseases, parasites and pollutions combine to kill the greater number of them by the time they are 35.

EARLY DEATH

One of every two of them dies before he is 5 years of age. Each of the others faces a lifetime of maladies: harelips, crossed eyes, feet pointing the wrong way, joints that bend back and forth, typhus, typhoid, cholera, amoebic dysentery and infectious hepatitis.

And for the ailing there are few cures, one doctor for every 100,000 patients and not enough money to purchase whatever remedy is available.

They work harder to accomplish less, these people, because in the year 1966 their economic and technological progress is anemic and their living conditions are two centuries behind the times.

GO NOWHERE

They go nowhere of meaning, do nothing of consequence.

THIS, THE ENEMY—Captured Viet Cong males, with little else to do, sit in compounds and await their fate. Diseases, parasites and pollutions kill most of them by the time they are 35. The Communists, they believe, are the only ones to care whether they live or die.

Their voices are not listened to, their thoughts left to seed, their persons completely ignored.

Death-Cause Errors Shown by Autopsies

By Science Service

CHICAGO — Autopsies, which some physicians believe are out of style, proved their value in a survey comparing the stated cause of 265 deaths with the postmortem diagnosis.

Here are a few of the surprises found in the survey at Paddington General Hospital, London, by Dr. Robert R. Wilson:

A patient with peritonitis (infection of the abdominal lining) had been diagnosed before autopsy as dying of tuberculosis. He had actually died from perforation of a gastric ulcer.

One cause of death had been diagnosed as cerebral tumor but was found at autopsy to be a case of intestinal obstruction due to a hernia in the presence of gross lack of blood supply to the brain.

SHOW HEMORRHAGE

Still another patient was brought to the hospital as an abdominal emergency, believed to have a twisted sigmoid colon requiring immediate surgery.

Nothing was found in the exploratory operation, but postmortem examination revealed that both adrenal glands had been destroyed by hemorrhage.

Dr. Wilson, now of Stobhill General Hospital, Glasgow, Scotland, who reported the survey in the Journal of the American Medical Association, said he intended no "disrespect to clinical colleagues" in the survey.

Indeed, no one cares whether they live or die.

Except, they believe, the Communists.

At least the Communists say they care — and for those grasping for straws it is too often enough of a promise. So if they are asked, they listen. And though they may or may not see the logic, they see the dream. And when lies are told, few care; even impractical hope is better than nothing at all.

FOR HOPE

Thus when they are asked, they fight for that hope. Crossbows against jets, if need be. Homemade knives against the richest armies of history. Cruelty, savagery and hate against a GI who has never before been defeated in war.

The odds are impossible. They can't win. Yet they refuse to lose, because surrender is abandoning hope and quitting is accepting despair.

So they are a baffling and deadly adversary. And in war we must, unfortunately, kill them.

But killing is not the final answer. It is at best a stop-gap solution. There are forever others to take the place of the dead.

DESTROY CONDITIONS

The eventual path to peace in Viet Nam is not in destroying the Viet Cong, but in destroying the conditions that breed the Viet Cong. And any eventual progress there will not come by erasing the enemy, but by erasing the misery and misfortunes which are his birthright.

Perhaps it is queer, thus, to fret about our enemy's problems. But such it is. And with reason. For there is only one way for our side to win in Viet Nam.

And that is to let the other side win something also.

(NEXT: Are We Winning?)

Charts Could Aid Spacemen

Eyed for Emergency Use on Moon Flight

By Science Service
MOFFETT FIELD, Calif. — An emergency cutting short a manned flight to the moon halfway through the journey may leave astronauts with no way to calculate their return but a handful of charts and graphs. But that will probably be enough.

Malfunctions at either end of the flight, while orbiting either the earth or the moon, pose problems of a different sort.

Orbits can be very accurately measured by computers, so while actually aborting the mission may be a difficulty, doing the necessary mathematics is not.

During flight from earth to the moon, however, the exact position and speed of the space craft are harder to determine at a given moment.

The problem is calculating how to turn and reaim the spacecraft so that it will hit earth's atmosphere at the proper re-entry "window" so as not to burn up from friction.

'SIMPLE ARITHMETIC'

Now two National Aeronautics and Space Administration scientists at NASA's Ames Research Center here have reduced the whole thing, with the aid of a chart, to nothing but "simple arithmetic" and one small trigonometry problem.

Using their method, astronauts could even pick their landing spot, unless the emergency was a critical one requiring "minimum return time."

George P. Callas and Robert B. Merrick have been working on midcourse aborts from lunar flights since 1963.

One source of error in their systems has been, and still is, that corrections in velocity cannot be made as accurately as they can be measured.

LIMITED BY ERRORS

This means that performance of the system is limited by the errors in the thruster rockets. Computer-simulated moon flights have shown, however, that accuracy is at least adequate.

Though it pays to be on the safe side, it is likely that a midcourse abort system will never be needed.

Things are more likely to go wrong during or just after launch, or during one of the rendezvous and docking maneuvers that will be necessary on both ends of the flight.

NASA's docking practice battling average is terrible, and any number of other bugs could cause either the astronauts or the mission controllers on earth to cut the mission short.

One of the few industries of Cyprus is exporting black-tinted false teeth to betel-chewing persons in the Orient.

New Book Outlines Civil Rights History

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.

Developing students into good citizens is one aim of educators.

A good citizen must know his rights, his privileges and his responsibilities. The Bill of Rights, as the first 10 Amendments to the Constitution of the United States are termed, is the starting point but, unfortunately, not the end.

DR. NASON

The Bill of Rights, which became effective December 15, 1791, is often printed on one page of letter-size paper. Yet teaching the Bill of Rights is not easy.

Additional Amendments, civil rights bills enacted by Congress, and many interpretations and court rulings, all become part of the background a teacher should have available in the discussion of civil rights.

This adds up to a mass of materials so great that it took two years of study by top level legal and education authorities working in California to produce a source book on civil rights.

Richard C. Maxwell, Dean of UCLA School of Law and chairman of a 14-man advisory committee which helped develop the materials, states,

"No point of view is being represented by the new guide except the belief in Constitutional government."

"I have no fear that it will be used by teachers to indoctrinate pupils with ideas of either the left or right. If the teacher is sincerely trying to go a good job, it will be impossible for him to propagandize any single ideology."

The development of the new materials for the teaching of the Bill of Rights was sponsored by the California State Board of Education with the help of a $30,000 grant from the Constitutional Rights Foundation. The source book will be printed by the State Board of Education this summer.

NEW FREEDOM

Thomas W. Braden, president of the California State Board of Education, told a convention held to introduce the teachers' guide: "Let us pray that the program we launch today will result in a new birth of freedom in California schools and for all our fellow Californians — and eventually for the schools and people of our nation."

Of the estimated four million persons in the United States with diabetes, only half of them know they have the disease.

90 Years Ago

Custer's Last Stand Was Indians', Too

CROW AGENCY, Mont. (AP) — It was 90 years ago this week that the most famous and talked-about battle between Indians and the U.S. Army was fought in the valley of the Little Big Horn River in southern Montana.

Now the nation sends spacecraft to the planets, but the years have seen little change for the green, rolling hills where Gen. George Armstrong Custer and his entire force of 262 men were annihilated June 25, 1876.

Only a cavalry officer's horse, Comanche, survived the massacre.

RE-ENACT BATTLE

The Crow Indian tribe will reenact the great battle in a weekend ceremony beginning Saturday. They will portray it from the Indians' point of view. The setting is about a mile from the actual battle site. The colorfully garbed Crow will ride into action against blue-clad cavalry.

They will portray the last great gathering of Indian warriors, determined to defend their homes and hunting grounds against the invading white man.

The museum on the battlefield, with its relics of the fight, and the small white markers which show where each man fell, fail to tell the total story of Custer's last stand. It may never be told completely.

Historians still argue about why Custer divided his command into three detachments and found only his segment battling some 5,000 Sioux and Cheyenne Indians. There can be no answer since there can be no rebuttal from the vanquished white side.

Although the Indian was victorious at Little Big Horn, this battle marked the end to major Indian resistance to the westward migration.

While preparing for battle, Sitting Bull, the Sioux medicine man, reportedly told his people, "Let us all gather for the last big fight."

Some historians attribute Custer's reckless behavior at the battle to his thirst for glory to ease his reprimanded pride. Custer had incurred the displeasure of President U.S. Grant by testifying against Secretary of War William W. Belknap in an investigation of alleged graft in handling affairs at Indian agencies.

Custer, a hero of the Civil War, was smarting from this rebuke when he rode to the Little Big Horn to lose a battle but win a cause. Never again did the plains Indians gather in great force to defend their homeland.

It was Custer's "last stand" and that of the Indians, too.

Old Congo Bells
Found in Wyoming

ARVADA, Colo. (AP) — Norris Spencer found a pair of bells in a deserted cabin at South Pass, a point on the Oregon Trail in Wyoming.

The Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C., identified the bells as mourning bells made more than 500 years ago in the lower Congo in Africa.

Curators at the Granite Glen Museum in Evergreen, Colo., which also owns a set of the bells, speculate that the objects got to the United States on a sailing ship and then went west on a wagon train only to be abandoned to lighten the wagon load — the fate of many personal possessions that started the long road west.

Tiny Radio Set Can 'Bug' Teeth

By Science Service

LENEX, Mass. — While spies are worrying the world's leaders with their ingenious electronic listening devices, two dentists in league with a physicist have designed a tiny transmitter that can be hidden in a tooth.

* * *

No military secrets are in danger from the device, however. Triggered by a metallic filling in the opposing tooth, the miniature sending set provides detailed information about the subject's bite.

A loop of wire around his neck picks up the transmitter's signal and relays it to receivers that amplify and record it. Chewing, swallowing and other functions of the "oral cavity" can be investigated with the instrument.

Drs. Irving Glickman and Jan H. N. Pameijer of the Tufts University School of Dental Medicine put together their gadget with the help of Raytheon Co. physicist Fred W. Roeber. Dr. Glickman said at a dental conference here that tests have been made under all sorts of conditions, including coffee-drinking, hamburger-eating and a mixture of both.

* * *

The transmitter occupies less than one-hundredth of a cubic inch and is usually implanted in a small bridge replacing a lost tooth.

NOT FIRST

It is not the first "tooth-radio," but it is reportedly the first capable of reporting on all tooth contacts in their normal, foremost and rearmost positions.

Even though it fits in the space of a missing tooth, however, the transmitter may save many more, Dr. Glickman said, by enabling early detection of "occlusal stresses," or bite problems.

One way to use the tooth-radio's data would be to compare X rays of someone with a suspected problem with the normal bite "standards" obtained by radio.

* * *

Naturally, spies would not be concerned with monitoring a person's bite pattern, but the project has been sponsored for two years by the U.S. Army. Hmm. . . .

Brown Receives Grant

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Brown University has received a two-year federal grant of $166,000 to plan a high-energy radiation center to cost about $3 million. It will involve several hospitals in the state.

The Women's Educational and Industrial Union of Boston has been awarded a grant for its Partnership Teaching Program which will seek to pair two women who will work part time to fill one full-time position.

New Drug Given Test in Therapy

By Science Service

SAN FRANCISCO — A new hallucinogenic drug has been found more effective for psychotherapy than LSD, it was announced here.

This is the alkaloid, ibogaine, derived from a plant growing in the Belgian Congo.

A South American psychiatrist, Dr. Claudio Naranjo, professor of anthropological medicine at the School of Medicine, University of Chile at Santiago, gave the first report or results in humans.

He reported to an LSD conference at the extension division of the University of California on 15 cases he has treated with ibogaine in Chile since last December.

Dr. Naranjo said ibogaine gives a person access to his unconscious while leaving him in control of his actions and mental processes.

The drugged man relives experiences and emotions from childhood, often in the form of exotic, dream-like images.

With the therapist's help, he is able to find the personal significance of these hallucinations, much as he does with dreams in traditional non-drug therapy.

One difference between LSD and ibogaine lies in the patient's greater accessibility.

In some cases, LSD may send him so "far out," that he will not or cannot respond to the therapist's proings.

But by using ibogaine, the therapist manipulates and probes directly into a patient's difficulties, such as what is wrong with his marital life, his relation to his parents, and so on.

In short, it is more compatible with intellectual activity than is LSD, making "an on-going dialog" easier to maintain.

Ibogaine also produces a positive desire in the subject to express himself, in contrast to LSD.

Dr. Naranjo said he found that yage, a drug used by South American Indians, has the same outgoing effect as ibogaine.

Space Tests Are Science Fiction Fright

By ALVIN B. WEBB JR.
United Press International

SPACE CENTER, Houston — The room about me seemed to yawn ominously, frighteningly with thousands of pointed teeth, and I squeezed my eyes shut to try to close out the mounting dizziness.

Minutes later, I unknowingly walked into a superintense beam of light of the type I had once heard referred to as a possible "death ray."

Thus was a visit on a sunny — and unsuspecting — afternoon to the science fiction-like facilities of what the federal space agency Manned Spacecraft Center officially calls its chamber.

The fantastic complex plays a serious and important role in this nation's $20-billion Apollo program to land men on the moon this decade.

In one section, technicians will test the performance of Apollo ships under radiation and sound conditions such as can be expected in space—the anechoic chamber.

In another area, experts are trying out early models of devices that someday may permit earthlings to talk to men landing on the planet Mars — part of the antenna and radio range.

DANDY PLACE

But the first observation of this neophyte observer was that the whole complex would be a dandy place to send one's enemies — unwarned.

I stepped into the 55-foot-high, 150-foot-long anechoic chamber — and my head reeled.

The place looked like a grotesque parody on a medieval torture chamber. Its floor, ceiling and walls were covered with pyramid-shaped teeth that seemed to be made of concrete.

As one awe-stricken reporter put it, "You feel like you want to jump out in the middle of that."

LITTLE HARM

Actually, it would have done little harm. The "teeth" are made of foam rubber, and bend to the touch.

The effect of the chamber, aside from dizziness, is to reduce sound to a minimum by eliminating practically all echoes (thus the term "anechoic").

In this room, a shout carries a scant few feet.

At one end is a vast door that, as it slides back to admit a space machine, produces an eerie visual sensation similar to that of a revolving spiral.

Technicians delight in telling of the visiting CIA agents who, when the door began to open, fell against the wall in panic.

"They thought the walls were closing in on them," one explained.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Rest, Digitalis Alleviate Myocarditis Disease

Q — What is the cause of myocarditis and how does it affect a person?

A — Myocarditis, inflammation of the heart muscle, may be caused by any acute infectious disease — especially such diseases as rheumatic fever, diphtheria, typhus, pneumonia and more rarely influenza and influenza-like diseases.

BRANDSTADT

The cause is sometimes obscured by the fact that several weeks may elapse between the infection and the onset of the myocarditis.

Myocarditis may be acute or chronic. It causes enlargement of the heart, shortness of breath on exertion, easy fatigability and characteristic changes in the electrocardiogram. The chief remedial measures are limitation of activity and digitalis.

Q — My 10-year-old daughter, has had pimples and blackheads on her face for two years. The doctors have not been able to help her. What causes these blemishes and what can be done for them?

A — This is no easy problem. Both blackheads and pimples or acne are associated with over-activity of the oil glands of the skin. They are usually worse during adolescence.

The following measures may be helpful. Wash the face gently three or four times a day with a plain, white soap or one that contains hexachlorophene.

This will remove the excess oil and bacteria. Avoid cold cream and other cosmetics with a greasy base. Avoid squeezing the pimples or blackheads because this tends to spread any infection that may be present or introduce infection from contaminated fingers.

Drastically cut the intake of chocolate, nuts, fats and iodized salt.

Your doctor can remove the blackheads under aseptic conditions after first loosening them with hot applications but, unfortunately, they are likely to come back again in the same location.

Exploiting the Sea—2

Money, Efforts Poured Into Search

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Man for centuries has used the oceans as a source of food, as avenues for commerce and as a surface on which to fight his wars. Now he is pumping hundreds of millions of dollars into deep-sea exploration in a quest for knowledge and wealth.)

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press International
WASHINGTON — The sea is the world's greatest relatively

Underwater
Cable to Take More Talk

By Science Service
NEW YORK — Fish between Florida and the Virgin Islands may soon be startled by the coming of an intruder: a 1,250-mile copper "snake" stretching all the way from Jacksonville to St. Thomas.

Inside the snake will be a constant flow of electrical impulses as up to 720 telephone calls — almost six times more than with current systems — flash between the U.S. and the Caribbean.

Bell Telephone Laboratories developed the snake, part of what is called the SF system, and the American Telephone and Telegraph Corp., has asked the Federal Communications Commission for permission to lay it in place.

Within the snake's 1.5-inch-diameter copper skin is a 33-inch copper tube, separated from the outer one by a polyethylene core. Within the smaller tube are 41 strands of steel wire that are nothing but a spine, designed to strengthen the rest of the snake.

Telephone conversations will actually pass not through the copper, but through the plastic core, in the electric field between the two tubes.

REPEATER

After every 10 nautical miles of snake will be a device called a repeater, which boosts passing signals as they go by.

Unlike a lot of Space Age electronic gear, which is advertised for the thousands of parts it contains, repeaters must be made as simply as possible, since they will be almost inaccessible on the ocean floor.

The SF system model contains only 130 components, compared to the 200 in its predecessor.

The SF system gets its six-fold increase in voice capacity from an increase in bandwidth.

This means that signals can be carried in a greater range of frequencies (2,224 kilocycles) than in the earlier SB system (144 kilocycles) of SD system (422 kilocycles). Signals going in one direction will not use the same frequencies as those going the other way.

untapped source of knowledge and wealth.

So it is not surprising that the federal government has been pumping money and effort for many years into oceanographic research and development. The motives are the age-old hungers for knowledge, food, wealth, safety and national security.

At least 22 separate U.S. bureaus and agencies are heavily engaged in various aspects of oceanography ranging from basic research to ocean engineering.

Since 1960, the work of these agencies has been coordinated by the White House Interagency Committee on Oceanography (ICO).

Each year, the ICO presents to Congress, via the President, what it calls the National Oceanographic Program designed to pull into focus efforts of the federal and state governments, industry, and scores of universities and private institutions to understand and use the oceans.

ASKS INCREASE

For the fiscal year starting July 1, President Johnson asked Congress to appropriate $219.9 million, compared with $178.2 million for the current fiscal year. This would be an increase of about 23 per cent.

The national goals include physical and chemical research into the characteristics of the sea, study of the ocean's "living populations," strengthening of national defense, protection of life and property from storms and earthquake-generated waves, management of ocean resources and control of pollution, improvement of seafood harvesting, and development of the sea's recreational potential — including, in the word of a congressman, "bikini watching."

The Navy normally gets half or more of government funds for oceanography. It spends much of what it gets on basic research into the nature and behavior of the ocean from the bottom up.

It also spends more — $350 to $400 million a year — on research to build up its strength in antisubmarine warfare.

SURFACE VESSELS

In the past year, the nation's ocean research fleet has been increased by seven to a total of 113 surface vessels, along with new survey ships, deep diving vehicles, underwater platforms, instruments, laboratories, and computer systems.

Space satellites, viewing the sea from orbit, also promise to help the oceanographer to understand the oceans.

These improvements in ocean research and exploration equipment and methods should help bring about better forecasts of sea states and weather, better navigation, and better understanding of the sea-atmosphere relations which produce both hurricanes and monsoons and the great hemispheric weather regimes which may afflict dry land regions with blizzards, floods, or droughts thousands of miles from the sea.

It is President Johnson's hope eventually to save many lives and hundreds of millions of dollars in property damage by an improved disaster warning system involving everything from seismic sea waves, stemming from undersea earthquakes, to typhoons.

SOVIET FLEET

Russia, with more than 400 vessels, has the most powerful submarine fleet ever built. So the United States naturally is putting a lot of effort into anti-submarine hardware.

But that is apart from the National Oceanographic Program which is concerned, among other things, with acquiring fundamental information about the ocean as a fluid medium in which to wage war.

President Johnson's oceanographic message for fiscal 1967 has this to say about the sea as a theater of war:

"Submarines armed with ballistic missiles can use the ocean's cloak of concealment to strike any target on earth.

NEAR FUTURE

"In the near-future, naval warfare may be extended to the seabed, as nations intensify their competition for resources and strategic positions on the ocean floor.

"It is therefore urgent that the United States develop a military capability to operate offensively and defensively — throughout the total marine environment."

The United States has a coastline of 12,500 miles. Under an international agreement signed by United States and 45 other countries in 1964, a nation has the sovereign right to exploit adjacent continental shelf areas out to a depth of about 600 feet.

Under the same agreement, any nation also has a right to exploit any deeper areas to which it may be able to extend its operations.

STARTS RACE

This in effect starts a race, by such nations as may want to enter, for establishment of national sovereignty over vast regions of the deep-sea floor beyond the sharply sloping shelves which bound the continents.

In any case, it adds 850,000 square miles of shelf sea bottom — equivalent to about 25 per cent of the continental United States itself — to the economically exploitable area of the nation.

And according to the President's oceanographic message, "advanced deep ocean recovery techniques are now being employed by the U.S. petroleum industry that will open new vistas in oil exploration beyond the 600 foot depths."

Elke's Sentimental Journey Takes Her Back to the Start

LONDON (AP) — German-born film star Elke Sommer is starting on a sentimental journey — back to where she started her movie career eight years ago.

For the movie "Deadlier Than the Male," Elke, 26, flew from Hollywood, where she now makes her home, to London, where she once worked as family help for $7 a week pocket money while she learned the language.

* * *

The film also will take her on location a few miles south of Viareggio, Italy, where she was discovered.

She has often been back to London and usually has dinner with the family she once lived with as family help. But this will be her first visit back to Viareggio.

VERY SENTIMENTAL

"It's going to be a very sentimental journey," said the blue-eyed blonde beauty. Then she told how her movie career started: "It was in 1958, right after I worked in London. I went on a motor coach tour to Viareggio with my mother. One evening I was invited to a dance and my mother came along as well; I was only 18 and didn't speak much Italian at the time.

"At the entrance to the open-air dance I was given a card with the number 14 on it. I saw the other girls were pinning their numbers on their dresses, so I did the same. We danced around and after about an hour they announced I had been chosen Miss Viareggio of 1958."

They put a sash over Elke's shoulders and gave her a bouquet, stockings, perfume and other prizes. Next day her photograph appeared in the local paper and that brought an Italian film producer hurrying to her hotel.

FILM TEST

He wanted her, he said, to play a German tourist in a film he was about to make in Rome. Her film test was a success and Elke was offered $1,500 to play in the film.

"I was only a student and it seemed a fabulous amount of money," she recalled. "I thought, 'with this money you can continue your studies without having to work on the side for a long time.' So I decided to take a half a semester off from my studies.

"Halfway through that film, 'Friend of the Jaguar,' Italian actor and producer Vittorio de Sica, who was working on the next stage at the same studios, offered me a part in his next film. I thought: 'You've already taken off half a semester, why not take the other half as well and make the money while you have the opportunity.' At that time I wasn't really interested in a movie career. I wanted to study to be an interpreter."

JUST LUCKY

Looking back on it now, she says: "I guess I was just lucky. To me it was like money found on the street. I didn't have any great interest in acting and I thought the whole business was hysterically funny."

But by the end of the second picture Elke began to be interested in the movie business. So she went home to Germany and landed a contract with a German film company. She made more films in Germany, then came to Britain and made an English film. Then came two films in France and one in Spain. Then Carol Foreman picked her for a role in his big-budget international film, "The Victors."

Nowadays Elke gets $150,000 a film — a far cry from her first film salary. She lives in Beverly Hills with her husband, American writer Joe Hyams, and they have a villa near San Sebastian, Spain, and a house at Erlangen, near Nueremberg, Germany, where Elke grew up.

In a single day, an average of 200 million pieces of mail are delivered in the United States, a volume almost as great as all the mail delivered in all the rest of the world.

MEMORY LANE — German-born film star Elke Sommer is shown in London where she is starting on a sentimental journey — back to where she started her movie career eight years ago. For the movie "Deadlier Than the Male," Elke, 26, flew from her Hollywood home to London, where she once worked. The film also will take her on location a few miles south of Viareggio, Italy, where she was discovered.

PROJECT UNDER WAY — Workers are shown fitting out a barge at Caseville to carry a water test line three miles out into Saginaw Bay. Samples are presently being taken from the shore-end of the line to determine whether the water is suitable for drinking and other uses. The tests are being conducted as the result of an engineering study by Johnson and Anderson, Inc., of 2300 Dixie, Waterford Township.

Waterford Firm Is Engaged in Water Sampling Project

A Waterford Township firm of engineering consultants is performing what it believes is the first water sampling program of its kind in Michigan.

In quest of a suitable water supply for the Bay County area, Johnson and Anderson, Inc., of 2300 Dixie has had marine contractors lay a three-mile test line into Saginaw Bay from Oak Point which just out from Michigan's thumb at Caseville.

Transported to shore, the water is checked at Bay City's water treatment plant.

Based on sample checks, the State Department of Health will determine whether water taken from this location of Saginaw Bay is suitable for treatment as drinking water to supply the developing area of Bay County.

The tests are being conducted as a result of an engineering study by Johnson and Anderson, Inc., for the Bay County Board of Supervisors.

NEW SOURCE

The firm was retained by the board to find a new source of water, rather than expand existing intake facilities at the lower end of Saginaw Bay now serving Bay City.

Existing facilities are located near the mouth of the Saginaw River.

Engineers at Johnson and Anderson, felt that the site off Oak Point was the closest location worthy of consideration as a permanent pollution-free water source.

If the site presently being considered or an alternate location proves suitable, the water will be transported by pipeline some 60 miles or more to a treatment plant in Bay County.

From there, water would be transported by lateral pipelines to homes, industry and other users.

According to engineers, the lack of sufficient water in Bay County to date has hindered the otherwise normal development of land in the area.

Engineers estimated the cost of an intake station and 48-inch pipeline from Oak Point at $21,075,200.

CONTINUE TESTING

Testing will continue at least through October.

Station Wagon Meets Summer Family Needs

With summer come vacations, long weekends and many other occasions planned around the family car.

For those trips the station wagon has become far and away the most desirable for travel since they meet every need from transporting small boats to the lake or an entire team of Little Leaguers to the ball park.

The popularity of Pontiac Motor Division's 1966 station wagons is attributed to both their distinctive exterior styling and their capabilities to perform as a family car as well as a delivery vehicle.

Offering station wagons since 1937, Pontiac now has six-passenger wagons available in the Tempest, Tempest Custom and Catalina series while nine-passenger models are offered in the Catalina and Bonneville line-up.

"In designing our versatile station wagons we objectively engineer and style them to meet the various needs of different customer groups," John Z. DeLorean, a General Motors vice president and Pontiac general manager points out.

OFFER MORE

The 1966 Pontiac wagons offer more than ever before in reliability, safety and comfort.

The standard Tempest engine is the revolutionary overhead cam six-cylinder with 165 horsepower. Two V8 engines are optional.

A wide range of rear-axle ratios are available to provide each customer with the desired combination of performance and economy.

All Pontiac station wagons are built on a 121-inch wheelbase while the Tempest wagons have a 115-inch wheelbase.

All 1966 Pontiac station wagons include as standard equipment the following safety items: outside left-hand rear view mirror, two-speed windshield wipers and washer, front and rear seat belts, backup lamps, padded sun visors and instrument panel pad.

Underachievers Program Target

Thirty Pontiac High School students from low-income families will be encouraged to raise their educational goals this summer.

They will be among 60 young people participating in a six-week Upward Bound Program starting July 5 at Oakland University.

Financed with an $81,019 grant from the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity, the program is designed for underachieving 10th graders.

Project director will be Charles E. Morton, a member of the State Board of Education and pastor of the Metropolitan Baptist Church in Detroit.

Reginald Wilson, Detroit psychologist and special education teacher, will be associate director.

Purpose of the program is to improve the participants' performance in high school and to encourage them to set vocational and professional goals requiring post-high school education, Morton said.

The 60 students from Pontiac, Ferndale, Oak Park and Hazel Park will live on campus for six weeks.

Their daily routine will include individual and group counseling, seminars, independent study, recreation and cultural enrichment activities.

The program will acquaint students with advantages and requirements of post-high school education and will help them develop the skills and insights necessary for success in such schools.

FOLLOW-UP PROGRAM

Morton said the project also is designed to further their personal, social, cultural and intellectual development.

The Upward Bound program will not end at the completion of the summer session at OU.

A follow-up program will be carried out by high school and university personnel with the assistance of school community action programs.

The total program is being planned in cooperation with the Oakland County Office of Economic Opportunity.

145 From Area at Guard Camp

Nearly 700 Michigan National Guardsmen from Pontiac, Flint, Owosso, Lapeer, and Grand Rapids are undergoing two weeks of basic training at Camp Grayling.

There are 145 area men in Company B, 1st Battalion, Airborne, 225th Infantry Selected Reserve Forces, from Pontiac.

The Selected Reserve Forces, known as surf units, could be called to active duty as replacements for regular Army troops in the U.S. who may be activated to meet manpower buildups in Viet Nam or elsewhere.

Guard recruits undergoing these two weeks of basic training still will have to attend a four- or six-month Army boot camp session once pressure has been eased at the regular training sites.

The Fat 'Boyled' Away

Navel Victory Hard-Fought

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—On a clear day I can see my navel now. At last, at last!

That may not be a landmark in world history. But, as every ex-fatty knows, it is an epochal moment in the long battle of the bulge.

Naturally, you must be burning with curiosity about how it came about.

Well, it happened at roughly 6:07 a.m.—give or take a minute or two—a week ago Monday.

I had taken off my pajama tops and, like millions of other red-blooded Americans at this hour, was trying to get my heart started by cautiously bending down and touching my toes several times. Monday morning it is particularly difficult to get the blood to circulate, isn't it?

Suddenly I became aware of a strange dimple in my midriff. At first I thought it was just another ripple in the blubber. I punched it tentatively with my index finger.

No, there was no doubt about it. It was no mere blubber crease. It was my navel, the same navel I had last glimpsed in 1959 before a vacation in France shot my weight up to a record 217½ pounds. Since then its existence had been to me only a matter of hearsay.

I leaned back on the bed breathless, feeling like Galileo when a new star swam into his telescope or Columbus gazing at dawn on a new world.

Quickly I showered, shaved and dressed and at breakfast informed my wife of the wondrous event.

"You're dreaming, Rover boy," she said. But when she was finally convinced, she said, "that deserves a celebration."

She went to the refrigerator and came back waving a big bonus stalk of celery.

"Can I put salt on it?" I asked.

"Why not?" she said. "Live it up, kid. You've earned it."

FOOLPROOF DIET

Having dropped to 193 pounds, I have developed a fool-proof diet which you may find useful, too, if your silhouette has changed from willowy to billowy.

It is simple, easy to follow, and—best of all—doesn't require you to rent a computer to count your calories.

What you do is to take a milk bottle and at mealtimes scrape into it everything on your plate that looks good to eat. Then you eat whatever is left on the plate.

When the milk bottle is full of mingled, uneaten goodies—bread, butter, gravy, pie, cake, ice cream—you take it out and bury it in the back yard at night, when the neighbors can't see what you're doing.

Junior Editors Quiz on BARNACLES

QUESTION: Are barnacles seashells?

ANSWER: When the tide goes out along the seashore, you will often find that rocks and pilings, which were submerged at high water, are covered with hundreds of little creatures with whitish shells.

One might imagine they were related to the mollusks, a primitive group with soft bodies which often build shells for protection.

Many mollusks, such as snails, move about. But the nearly formless structures they move on are not real legs, since they have no joints.

Barnacles, however, belong to a different and more advanced group, the arthropods, having such relatives as lobsters, shrimps and crabs.

When very young, a barnacle is not attached to a rock, it is a free swimming little creature with six legs and one eye. It passes through several stages, getting 12 feet and two eyes.

Feelers in his head are changed into suckers carrying a strong cement. Now the little barnacle gropes around for a permanent home and glues himself to it, head downward, for the rest of his life.

His body secretes a shell with a hinged top, which can close down for protection.

He can stick out his feathery feet and, by waving them, force water inside his shell, bringing in oxygen and food particles.

* * *

FOR YOU TO DO: If you get tired sometimes and begin to envy the little barnacles resting on their rocks, don't! They have security, but they can't detach their heads to see what the world is like. And they have no newspapers to read!

Draft Prospects Are Examined

By ELTON FAY

What are the odds on you finding yourself in military uniform either because you are drafted or because you volunteer for regular or reserve duty after a glance over your shoulder at the draft board?

Selective Service headquarters has in its files some statistics which give a clue.

At the beginning of 1966, more than 31 million men were registered, with over 130,000 more being added each month.

This big total, of course, includes millions over the 19-to-25 year age group now being drafted. And it also embraces other millions deferred or exempted.

In the "qualified" category (this means 1-A and 1-A-O, the latter being conscientious objectors available for non-combatant service) about 1.5 million were on hand at the start of the year.

HOW MANY SERVE?

Selective Service figures it this way:

At the age of 26, of each 10 who have registered, six are or have been serving in the regular Army, Navy, Marines or Air Force — or in National Guard or reserve units.

The other four did not serve because they failed to meet Defense Department standards in mental, physical or moral categories, were deferred by draft boards or exempted by law.

Selective Service says it fills the monthly quotas predominantly with single men who are 19 through 25 years old. The oldest available men are at the top of the list.

Cartage Exec Stands Mute to Charges of Huge Fraud

DETROIT (AP) — Accused of concocting a $5-million-plus swindle that "could rate right up there with that of Billie Sol Estes," a Detroit businessman stood mute yesterday when arraigned on fraud charges.

Ellsworth Burton Foote, 56, owner of the John Henry Cartage Co. of Detroit, waived preliminary federal court examination and was freed under $25,000 personal bond.

Foote surrendered to FBI agents yesterday after a warrant was issued for his arrest on charges of using the mails to defraud U. S. Atty. Lawrence Gubow said other charges could be brought. He did not list them.

Foote, of suburban Dearborn Heights, was accused of using counterfeit warehouse receipts as security for loans totaling at least $5 million.

The mail-fraud charge, Gubow said, involved loans to Foote from David Katz, operator of a Detroit investment agency. Gubow said Katz loaned Foote more than $2 million, while eight others chipped in a total of about $2.9 million.

An assistant of Gubow, Robert Grace, said other complaints are being received. "From what we have ascertained so far," Grace said, "this case could rate right up there with those of Billie Sol Estes and Tim DeAngelis, the salad oil manipulator in New Jersey."

HIGH ESTIMATE

Gubow said, "Undoubtedly, our estimate of the losses will climb."

Gubow added he thought Foote acted alone in the alleged swindle. He said his office probably would seek a (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

City Seeks Airport Talk Renewal

Pontiac Municipal Airport apparently is again to become a topic of conversation between city and county officials.

City Commissioners last night renewed a proposed $100 capital improvement fund budget, but they offered few comments on the budget.

Instead, the commissioners talked of reopening negotiations with Oakland County for a future transfer of Pontiac Municipal Airport into county ownership — a subject of debate for more than two years.

A motion was approved last night to have City Manager Joseph A. Warren and the city's two-man airport committee, Commissioners Leslie H. Hudson and T. Warren Fowler Sr., renew the long-stalemate talks. Warren previously related that Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the County Board of Auditors, had informally indicated the county was willing to reconvene the talks.

BRINGS UP SUBJECT

Hudson last night brought up the subject of the airport in pointing out a proposed $13,500 appropriation for capital improvements at the airport.

Hudson said the airport should be a county operation. He claimed 80 to 90 per cent of its usage was by county residents.

If it were a county airport, Hudson, costs of capital improvements would be spread over the entire county.

Indicating a willingness to renew discussions, other commissioners generally agreed with Hudson's viewpoint.

POINT OF COLLAPSE

City-county negotiations in the past have collapsed at the point where they reached discussion of a price for the 48-acre facility in Waterford Township.

Both sides agreed the airport should be county operated.

City officials have sought some compensation for past improvements, while county spokesmen have talked of offering a nominal $1 for the installation.

Meanwhile, a proposed 1966 capital improvement fund totaling $10,000 was received last night. A public hearing was set for July 2.

'Bill Loss Won't Halt Osteopathic College'

Despite the defeat of a bill to create a state osteopathic college authority yesterday, the Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine will be established in Pontiac, the president of the college board said today.

"It will take longer and the providing of more physicians and members of the health team will be delayed," said Dr. Alan Potts.

The measure, which would have provided state support, was rejected by the House of Representatives in two votes on the question.

It was not expected that the bill would not be revived until next January.

The proposal was defeated 44-47 in the first vote yesterday, and 49-47 when it was reconsidered after a half-hour debate.

Already approved by the Senate, the bill would have created a 15-member authority charged with running the college, to be built on a 164-acre site on Pontiac's East Side.

One of the strongest supporters of the bill, Rep. Arthur J. Law of Pontiac, said it was "impossible to win under the circumstances."

LOTS OF OPPOSITION

"We were getting opposition from all angles — the medical profession, the state attorney general, the governor and finally the UAW — on the constitutionality of the bill," Law said.

"I don't believe there is anything unconstitutional about the proposal," said Law, "and I will continue to explore this area."

He said that a telegram sent to a number of representatives from Russell Leach of the UAW opposing the bill carried considerable weight in defeating it.

"This broke down our reserves," said Law.

'REAL LOSERS'

Potts, noting the shortage of physicians, said "The real losers in this defeat are the people of Michigan."

"With the coming of Medicare, and the draft of physicians in the armed services, the shortages will become more acute and more critical," said Potts.

"Many who oppose the establishment of the college did so for narrow and selfish reasons," he added.

"The health care needs of the people of the state for today as well as tomorrow were not given the consideration they require and deserve."

Son Takes Over

Kresge Quits Store Post at 98

DETROIT (AP) — Sebastian S. Kresge, 98, whose name appears in large letters on 673 variety stores across the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico, has resigned from his firm.

The farm boy who at 30 entered the dime-store business with $8,000 left it yesterday with more than $200 million.

The dime-store concept developed into general merchandising at varied prices.

The founder of the Detroit-based S. S. Kresge Co. sent a letter to the board of directors announcing his resignation as chairman.

His son, Stanley S. Kresge, 66, of 1071 Lake Angelus, Lake Angelus, formerly vice chairman, has replaced him as chairman of the board.

The company said H. B. Cunningham would continue as president and chief executive officer, a post he has held since 1959.

QUITS FOUNDATION

Kresge also resigned as trustee of the Kresge Foundation, an educational philanthropic or-

LANSING (AP) — In its third "last bill-passing day" of the year, the House voted yesterday to regulate marriage counselors and crack down on drinking drivers and wiretappers.

And, fearing that it might fail for the third time to meet its deadline for passage of bills from the other house, the legislature had ready a resolution to extend the time limit another 24 hours.

Lawmakers now have one or two days depending on whether or not the resolution is adopted to tie up loose ends — leaving out House-Senate differences over bills that have been approved by both chambers.

Yet to be completed is work on the 1966-67 budget and a controversial legislative pay raise. The Senate spent most of the day preparing for conference committee work.

SECOND IN U. S.

The marriage counseling bill, if the House version is approved by the Senate and signed by Gov. George Romney, will be the second in the United States. California has the first.

It creates a seven-member Board of Marriage Counselors and requires certification of counselors after Jan. 1, 1967.

It exempts certified consulting psychologists, attorneys or (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

THO REMEMBERED — Dr. Martin Luther King (kneeling, foreground) leads a prayer on a Philadelphia, Miss., street corner for three civil rights workers who were slain two years ago. The prayer was preceded by a fist-swinging melee yesterday which interrupted a march on the Neshoba County Courthouse. In background (wearing Western-style hat and sunglasses) is Neshoba County Deputy Sheriff Cecil Price, who—the federal government claims—participated in the murder of the three civil rights workers.

Scene of Dixie Strife Is Closed to Outsiders

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) — A small Negro neighborhood where Negroes and whites exchanged gunfire last night remained closed to outsiders today.

Deputy Sheriff Cecil Price said the area was closed to the press and other nonresidents. Price said it was uncertain how long the restriction would continue.

First reports were that the off-limits restriction would be lifted at daylight today.

"We're not going to have any more of this shooting on either side," said Price.

The gun battles erupted here as civil rights leaders 75 miles away debated the merits of violence and nonviolence when they returned to Philadelphia as part of the Mississippi march.

Philadelphia Police Chief Bruce Lattimer said a white man whom he identified as Stanley Stuart, an employee of a glove factory, was wounded during an exchange of gunfire near the Freedom Democratic party headquarters.

Stuart was treated for buckshot wounds in the neck and shoulder at a hospital here and sent home.

Negroes in Florida Riot; 24 Arrested

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Hundreds of Negroes rioted early today, throwing rocks and bottles at police, stores and cars before riot police cleared the streets with tear gas and the threat of tear gas. Two cars were overturned. One was set fire, and three or four policemen hurt by flying glass, one officer said.

Debris littered the main street in the Negro district from sidewalk to sidewalk, but the overall damage apparently was light.

Arraignment Today Before Avon Twp. JP

Suspect Apprehended in Thumb; Charge Is First-Degree Murder

An Avon Township man, Jack W. Young, was to be arraigned this morning on a charge of first-degree murder in the bludgeoning slaying of his attractive, 30-year-old wife.

Young, 34, arrested last night in Unionville in the Thumb district, was to appear before Avon Township Justice Luther C. Green.

Prosecutor S. Jerome Brown issued the first-degree murder warrant "based upon the evidence presented and after a thorough review."

Sheriff's detectives Alphonse Anderson and Everett Fredericks arrested Young at about 9 last night as he returned to Unionville, located off of Saginaw Bay in Tuscola County, after he reportedly went fishing with a friend.

Young had been sought for questioning since his wife's body was discovered in their small rented home at 3940 Crooks. The body, battered about the head and shoulders, was discovered about 6 p.m. Monday.

TIME OF DEATH

The time of death was estimated as midnight Sunday.

The apparent murder weapon — a stainless steel hammer — was found near the fully clothed body.

The victim was found sprawled across a bed in the three-room house. Neighbors told sheriff's deputies the Youngs had argued Sunday.

LAST SEEN

Young was last seen at the house Sunday night, according to deputies.

Capt. Leo Hazen said that Young, in the past, had worked in an aluminum factory and also played piano in several bars. Mrs. Young, reportedly a former bar waitress, was unemployed.

Wilson Orders 12 Ports Open

Acts to Keep Harbors Clear for Vital Goods

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson invoked special crisis powers today and ordered emergency committees set up in 12 strike-clogged major ports to keep them clear enough to receive vital supplies.

The government empowered the committees to direct any ship arriving to enter the ports to any other port throughout the United Kingdom to prevent the present jam from clogging into a complete bottleneck.

They could order the royal navy into action.

Ports affected include Bristol, Glasgow, Grimsby, Hull, Leith, Liverpool, London, Manchester, Middlesbrough, Newcastle, Southampton and a group of ports in South Wales.

Transport Minister Barbara Castle issued the emergency measure under a special regulation which came into force May 23 and expires at midnight tonight.

WILL BE EXTENDED

The state of emergency will be extended by royal proclamation from Queen Elizabeth after a meeting of her privy council today and new regulations in amended form will come into operation immediately, officials said.

Officials said at first the committee's power will be limited to directing any ships arriving to enter already crowded ports in the United Kingdom and to clear the jammed ports for vital cargo.

But, they said, if necessary now that emergency regulations have been invoked the committee can call on the royal navy or other service personnel "to ease congestion" in the ports.

Emergency power is necessary to enable service personnel to enter private property for the purpose.

HURRIED CONFERENCE

Wilson held a hurried 45-minute conference with Labor Minister Ray Gunter at 10 Downing Street.

Then he left for a meeting of the parliamentary Labor party, which includes the left-wing members who have criticized him for alleged "McCarthyism" in bluntly blaming Communists for exerting pressure to continue the sea strike.

Wilson did not name the Reds in specific terms.

U.S. Loses Five Planes in 24 Hours

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A U.S. Navy pilot flying a jet fighter crippled by enemy fire and running critically low on fuel shot down a Communist MIG17 jet over North Viet Nam Tuesday.

One other MIG was damaged and possibly destroyed as four Navy F8 Crusaders and four MIG17s tangled 65 miles north of Hanoi.

Related Story, Page C-7

But the MIGs shot down one Crusader, and ground fire brought down a Navy photo-reconnaissance plane in the same area.

In all, five American planes were reported lost in the past 24 hours in Viet Nam. The others were an Air Force F106 Thunderbolt shot down Tuesday 30 miles northeast of Hanoi, an Air Force F100 Super Sabre hit by Viet Cong ground fire 75 miles southwest of Saigon today and a C130 transport downed on a defection mission over the South Tuesday.

The crews of both planes lost in South Viet Nam were rescued.

IN GROUND WAR

In the ground war, U.S. paratroopers and cavalrymen battled a Communist battalion on the eastern flank of South Viet Nam's strategic central highlands for the third day, and a national said the enemy toll had risen to 144 killed.

No major action was reported elsewhere in the South. Premier Nguyen Cao Ky eased his political war against his militant Buddhist opponents by briefly lifting the five-day blockade of Saigon's Buddhist Institute.

During the hour's respite, 300 persons quitted the encircled compound, but several hundred remained behind.

Several truckloads of draft-age youths were hauled off for military service as KY mingled the conciliatory gesture with continued firmness against the dissidents.

Though his revolt showed every sign of disintegrating, the militant monk Thich Tri Quang continued his protest for the 15th day in the Saigon hospital where the government brought him from Hue Tuesday.

The battle with the Communist battalion was the third this month in the central highlands, the loss of which split South Viet Nam in two. It began Monday when the Reds hit a small unit of the 101st Airborne Division pushing through a valley during Operation Nathan Hale.

Helicopters quickly lifted reinforcements from the 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division.

Hospital Board Posts Are Filled

One man was appointed and another reappointed last night to the board of trustees of Pontiac General Hospital by the Pontiac City Commission.

Robert P. Grant, 45, of 269 Gallego was the new man named to the 11-member board, while Robert T. Flynn, 46, of 138 Ogden was reappointed.

Both men will serve four-year terms.

Grant, appointed to represent labor, replaced John B. Maye, president of Pontiac Motor Division United Auto Workers Local 653.

Grant, a tool and die maker at Universal Oil Seal Co., is financial secretary-treasurer of UAW Local 733 there. He is a 12-year member of the Oakland County AFL-CIO Council and has held a number of union posts.

COMMUNITY WORK

He has been active in the Boy Scouts, Wever School PTA and the Baldwin-Walton Community Club.

Grant is married and the father of two children. He graduated from Pontiac Central High School.

Flynn has been active in the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce and was past vice president of the Pontiac Co-Op Real Estate Assn.

He is a life insurance agent with the Prudential Life Insurance Co. He attended Cleveland College and the University of Michigan.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Jack W. Lees, business manager of Cranbrook Academy of Art, has been named vice president for administration.

LEES

Lees' responsibilities now will include those of administrative assistant to the president, registrar and business manager.

Lees, who lives at 3637 Shalbrook came to Cranbrook in 1964 as assistant manager of the Cranbrook Service Commission and was appointed academy business manager in 1965.

Before coming to Cranbrook he was director of business affairs for the South Lake School in St. Clair Shores.

BIRMINGHAM — Two Birmingham area high school students were elected to officiate this week in the Wolverine Boys' State and the Wolverine Girls' State.

Harriet Ann Davidson of 32316 Nottingham, Farmington Township, a student at North Farmington High School was elected an alternate to the Girls' National.

Malcolm Smuts of 315 S. Gienhurst, a student at Seaholm High School, was elected alternate general of Wolverine Boys' State.

Boys' and Girls' State are mythical 15th states set up for exercises in government techniques.

Also exempted are psychologists or social workers employed by a government or "reputable" social service agency, and clergymen.

Educational and experience requirements include a doctorate in psychology, sociology, psychiatry, marriage or pastoral counseling — or a non-"equivalent doctorate" together with five years' professional experience, including one year specialization in marriage counseling.

The writtap bill modernizes language to take into consideration recent advances in the field of electronics.

It makes it a felony to intercept telephone or telegraph messages, increases the fine from $1,000 to $2,000, and makes sale of tapping devices a misdemeanor.

The drunken and reckless-driving bill survived another attempt to add so-called "implied consent" language which would have made possession of a Michigan driver's license automatic consent to testing for alcohol in the blood.

REVOCATION, FINE

The bill gives a court the power to revoke a license and impose a $1,000 fine for a second conviction of drunken driving.

For a first conviction of reckless driving, the license would be suspended for at least 90 days. A second would mean permanent revocation.

The bill also requires a driver suspected of drunken driving to submit to a breath test. Refusal to do so would carry a $100 fine — but would not affect the determination of guilt or innocence.

three reports of homes being looted.

TENSION BUILDS

The riot in this city of 15,000 about 25 miles north of Miami lasted less than an hour.

It apparently was the culmination of tension built up yesterday when reports spread through the Negro district that a white store owner had slapped a 16-year-old Negro boy.

The store owner, Arthur M. Marks, 42, was charged with assault and battery and released on $50 bond. The boy was unidentified.

Muttering crowds gathered at the store at closing time and the owner asked for police protection. Civic leaders asked the Negroes to leave. Most did, only to return later.

The crowd grew to 600 late in the evening and the mood wore as the number of police grew.

Bill Freeing Poor From Bail Signed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed into law today a bill which permits poor people awaiting trial in federal court to be released without bond.

He said it will "eliminate needless, arbitrary cruelty."

Signer the overhaul of the 175-year-old bail system at the White House, Johnson said that with the reforms "we can begin to insure that defendants are considered as individuals and not just as numbers."

He said he was weighed not with fact nor law nor mercy but with mercy.

City Banker to Leave State Group Post

Milo Cross, chairman of board of the Pontiac State Bank, will step down from presidency of the Michigan Bankers Association (MBA) at its convention this weekend on Mackinac Island.

Cross, 1975 N. Hammond Lane, Bloomfield Township, has served as first and second vice presidents and as chairman of Group 10 of the MBA.

Cross, 42, joined the association 21 years ago as a delegate for their new Pontiac State Bank.

He was president of the bank until his election to board chairman a year ago.

Cross spent 12 years as a federal assistant supervising examiner before he helped form the Pontiac bank.

SUCCESSOR

He will be succeeded as MBA president by Joseph Foster, president of the Ann Arbor Bank.

The MBA, with 353 member banks, attempts to provide a meeting ground of common interests for Michigan bankers.

grand jury indictment in the case.

Foot's lawyer, Harry L. Pliskow, said his client would probably stand mute if arraigned on a grand jury indictment. Foot himself was unavailable for comment on the charges. His son said any comment would have to come from Pliskow.

Gubow and Grace said warehouse receipts are used like money in certain business transactions.

OFFICE MACHINE

They said Foot apparently counterfeited some "a common office duplicating machine," filled them in and offered them as security for loans.

Grace said Foot presented bogus receipts to friends and money-lenders, seeking loans at 2 per cent interest. He added: "We have no idea where the money has gone."

Gubow said Foot reassured Katz by obtaining in the mail the stationery of a warehouse and counterfeiting it. Hence, he said, the mail-fraud charge.

Conviction for mail fraud carries a maximum penalty of a $1,000 fine and five years in prison.

Police in Sydney Guard Politico Leaving Hospital

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Opposition leader Arthur A. Calwell left the hospital under guard today after treatment for facial cuts suffered Tuesday night when a bullet was fired through the window of his car.

Five police cars escorted the 68-year-old Labor party chief's automobile to the airport, and a government plane flew him home to Melbourne.

Political writers could recall only one other Australian politician who had been the target of a gunman.

Earlier today Peter Raymond Kogan, 19, a factory hand, was brought into a Sydney court and charged with firing a sawed-off rifle at Calwell "with intent to murder."

NO BAIL

Unable to raise bail of $2,240, Kogan was ordered held in custody for another hearing June 30.

There was no known motive for the shooting, which shocked the nation. Calwell has been an outspoken critic of the use of Australian draftees in the Viet Nam war. He assailed the police Tuesday night at a Labor party rally in suburban Mosman.

Calwell will be prime minister if his Labor party wins the national elections late this year. He has said in campaign speeches that if he is victorious, Australian draftees will be pulled out of Viet Nam.

Police said that Kogan was not a member of any political association and had never been arrested before.

'Boy Started 2nd Five-Alarm Fire in Detroit'

DETROIT (AP) — An 11-year-old boy with a record of 18 previous arrests touched off Detroit's second five-alarm fire in less than 24 hours, police said Tuesday.

Several firemen were injured for the shooting, which shocked the nation. Calwell has been an outspoken critic of the use of Australian draftees in the Viet Nam war. He assailed the police Tuesday night at a Labor party rally in suburban Mosman.

Calwell will be prime minister if his Labor party wins the national elections late this year. He has said in campaign speeches that if he is victorious, Australian draftees will be pulled out of Viet Nam.

Police said the boy admitted starting a fire in an abandoned garage across an alley from the building. The fire leaped across the alley to a frame window on the warehouse.

Two other boys, one 4- and one 5-year-old, were with the older boy when he started the fire, police said.

Escapes to West Berlin

BERLIN (UPI) — A 22-year-old woman early today fled through a barred wire to the American sector of Berlin unseen by East German border guards, West Berlin police reported.

The average age for being drafted is slightly over 20 years and may increase somewhat in coming months.

It's possible to draft a man between the ages of 26 and 35, with the youngest being called first, if the available pool of men below 26 is exhausted.

Only those classified as 1-A or 1-A-0 may be called.

DELINQUENTS

First on the order of call are "delinquents"—those who have failed to perform some of their draft law and may increase somewhat in coming months.

Prospects of Being Drafted Are Examined

the more likely he is to be deferred or exempted for various reasons.

What are the chances of being drafted? Selective Service shies away from a categorical answer but says local boards can give them "occupational" deferments, though this does not preclude a later call-up for the draft.

Student deferments have been in controversy arising out of demonstrations protesting the Viet Nam war.

GRADES IMPORTANT

The law makes a student eligible for deferment until graduation from college, provided he goes to school full time and his grades are satisfactory.

Selective Service lets the local boards decide whether he is really working at his education or just using it to keep out of the service.

Graduate students can be deferred on the basis of "national health, safety or interest."

A young man reaching 18 years is required to register with his local board (there is one in about every community and the address usually appears in telephone directories) within five days after he becomes 18.

REGISTRATION EASY

Registration is easy. You make a personal appearance at your local board and the registrar asks questions and fills out forms.

A man is required to notify his board of change in address within 10 days after it occurs.

A draft registrant has the right—and it is used often—to appeal his classification. The appeal must be made by the registrant within 10 days after it is mailed him by his local board.

His employer also may appeal if the employer previously had requested deferment for the registrant. And legal dependents also may appeal.

FOLLOW LAW

Better do like the Selective Service law says. The maximum penalty for violation of provisions of the law is five years in prison or $10,000 fine or both.

And, as Defense Secretary Robert McNamara told Congress last night in 1966:

"We cannot look forward to discontinuance of the draft in the coming decade unless changing world conditions permit the reduction of our regular forces substantially below the levels which have proved necessary since the beginning of the Korean war."

So don't count on wars going out of style and the need for Selective Service or volunteer enlistment ending. We'll talk about volunteering tomorrow.

Mayor Reports Meeting With Grand Trunk on Problems

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. reported last night that railroad-city problems were explored at a recent meeting of top officials of the city and Grand Trunk Western Railroad.

He said a request by the railroad to put an additional set of tracks across Johnson was discussed with rail officials agreeable to absorbing the cost of improving the street grade there.

There also was discussion of a proposal being considered informally by the city to have preliminary plans and cost estimates made for a grade separation at Johnson.

Taylor said railroad officials were "receptive" to sharing the planning costs. He said the matter is to be taken up with Grand Trunk management and a report made in two weeks.

The mayor said the meeting concluded with a suggestion that a joint committee be set up to meet once a month to discuss railroad-city problems.

GREATER USE
Taylor disclosed that city officials suggested Grand Trunk make greater use of the East Belt Line track to help ease problems of street blocking.

The belt curves north, then east and then south around the city, but where it crosses major streets there are grade separations.

The mayor also disclosed that the city felt something might develop whereby the railroad might bear a greater share of the costs (now set at 15 percent by state law) of projected grade separations.

No action was taken last night on a request from the Oakland County Office of Economic portunity (OEO) to renew and extend its lease on facilities at 7 W. Lawrence.

UNDER ADVISEMENT
The commission received the request and took it under advisement for consideration at an informal meeting Monday.

A six-month lease, paid by the city, expires this month on the downtown OEO center. OEO officials want the city to pick up the lease for 2½ years.

A proposed ordinance to combat petty larceny was introduced last night by the commission.

The ordinance was recommended by Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum and the Downtown Pontiac Business Association.

The ordinance would provide a penalty of $100 fine, 90 days in jail or both for various forms of petty larceny.

In other business last night, the commission revised slightly the charter amendment scheduled for the Aug. 2 state primary ballot.

The change in wording, recommended by the attorney general, is necessary to permit the city's two municipal court judges to come under terms of city's general employee pension plan.

BIDS SUBMITTED
Three companies, Citizens, Nationwide and Michigan Mutual Liability Inc., submitted bids on insurance for city vehicles and workman's compensation coverage for city employees.

The bids are to be studied by the staff and a recommendation presented to the commission.

Also last night, the commission approved commercial rezoning for a lot on the south-east side of Monticello at Oakland.

Public hearings were ordered for July 5 on resurfacing Lee Court, Orchard Lake to the south end of the street, and curbing and paving Parkwood, Perry to Manhattan.

ESTIMATED COST
The Lee Court total estimated cost was $680 with an assessed cost of $293 and a city

cost of $386. Parkwood was estimated at total of $34,940, $10,844 assessed and $22,730 the city's share.

Public hearings were also set for July 5 on the special assessment rolls for the paving of six local streets — portions of Arlene, Cottage, Linda Vista, Madison, Spruce and University.

Brosh . . . Brasher . . .
RICHMOND, Ky. (AP) — Tom Smith, police judge here, felt that some thieves who stole some of his clothing from an automatic coin laundry were brash enough. But a few days later, someone stole his portrait from his desk in his office in the police station.

Sewer Pact Changes for Waterford OK'd

As an outgrowth of an informal meeting earlier this month between the city and township officials, two changes were approved last night by the City Commission for a contract to expand sewer services to Waterford Township.

A 30-year service period and the same sewer connection charge for township residents as paid by city residents were the two changes under dispute.

The city conceded both points.

In recommending the changes in the amendment, which would enlarge the township district served by a sewer outlet in the city, City Engineer Joseph E. Neippling reported that:

• The previous three-year clause was instituted at a time when the city was under an order from the state because of its limited treatment facilities.

• The double connection charge ($300 as opposed to the city's $150) was adopted in line with the city's policy of charging double rates on quarterly service bills.

On the latter question, Neippling said he proposed an identical connection fee for the township because of the connection charge was based on the actual average dollar requirement per acre to construct trunk sanitary sewer lines.

Neippling added, however, that the quarterly service rates would still be double.

Commissioner Robert C. Irwin pointedly asked Neippling what the township's timetable was to install sewers in the area of the West End drain to eliminate pollution of Crystal Lake in the city.

Owner Sought for Restaurant
The City Commission moved last night to avert the possible closing of the city-owned Skyroom Restaurant at Pontiac Municipal Airport.

Now operated as a student training facility by Waterford Township School District, the much-troubled restaurant is to get a new owner.

At least, the commission last night directed that negotiations commence to that end with an interested party.

Township school officials have indicated the school district is losing money on the restaurant operation and the district wants out of its 5-year lease with the city which began last fall.

June 30 had been set as the date for the school district's withdrawal.

CALL FOR TALKS
The commission directed negotiations begin with a proposed new operator, Mrs. Thomas McClennen, a cook now employed at the restaurant by the school district.

Acting Airport Manager J. David VanderVeen reported that Mrs. McClennen has indicated she would like to take over operation of the restaurant, which has had a succession of operators.

VanderVeen said the restaurant could continue to operate without any interruption in service.

Terms of the lease with Mrs. McClennen would be similar to those with the school district according to the current proposal.

$50 A MONTH
However, Mrs. McClennen wants a flat $50 a month rent for the first 12 months.

Summer School Registration Will End Tomorrow at PCH
Tomorrow is the deadline to register for the Pontiac Board of Education's summer school program, which will begin Friday.

Enrollments are taken in the Pontiac Central High School office from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

High school credits can be earned by anyone who has completed his ninth year of formal education. Enrollment in the six-week program is not limited to Pontiac School District residents.

Classes will be scheduled from 8:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. in English, social studies, mathematics, science, business education, industrial arts and creative arts.

Special classes in social studies and consumer education will meet from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. but will be limited to seniors who need one and a half credits to complete graduation requirements.

AUGUST GRADUATION
Commencement exercises for students completing graduation requirements will be held Aug. 5.

Hershey First Witness

Draft Hearings Begin

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Armed Services Committee opens hearings today on the military draft—a system the committee chairman described as an "unpleasant fact of life that cannot be wished away."

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, who has headed the Selective Service for 25 years, is the first witness at sessions called by Chairman L. Mendel Rivers after the draft came under fire from congressional critics.

In a statement prepared for the start of today's hearing, Rivers said the committee must determine whether the draft law is functioning as Congress intended or whether it needs substantial revision.

The South Carolina Democrat added: "The facts appear abundantly clear—we do need a draft law for now and the foreseeable future."

Hershey's testimony could have a bearing on whether there will be a later, full scale investigation of the Selective Service System.

ACKNOWLEDGES COMPLAINTS
"If it looks like the draft needs an investigation, we'll make it," Rivers said.

Rivers acknowledged there have been complaints about the draft's operation. He said he hoped Hershey could answer them.

Some of these he cited as:

- One local board defers a college student indefinitely, while another board terminates the deferment from completion of the academic year.
- No nationwide regulation on part-time students.
- High school dropouts must score higher on tests than high school graduates to be accepted.

'ENCOURAGES DROPOUTS'

"This obviously encourages high school dropouts," Rivers commented.

The chairman warned "No law . . . can endure if it does not, in the last analysis, have the sanction and support of a majority of the people."

Congressional critics contend the draft discriminates against the poor and uneducated. They charge that the affluent who can afford to go to college are deferred.

Some members of Congress have suggested that other types of national service, such as the Peace Corps, be allowed as an alternative to the draft.

NEW PROCEDURES
But others say new administrative procedures could curb discrimination.

The "authority to induct" portion of the draft law expires June 30, 1967. The hearings starting today could provide groundwork for decisions on this and other sections of the law.

Strong Bill on Auto Safety Now Goes to Senate Floor

WASHINGTON (AP)—An auto safety bill stronger than President Johnson originally asked has been approved unanimously by the Senate Commerce Committee. It goes to the Senate floor where leaders hope for passage before the July 4th holiday.

The committee's bill directs the secretary of commerce to issue interim safety standards next year for 1968 models and to put permanent mandatory standards into effect a year later.

Johnson had proposed legislation giving the secretary authority to issue safety standards. But administration officials working with the committee said they had agreed to the stronger version.

The bill also is stiffer than proposals made by the auto industry.

COMMENT WAITS
A spokesman for the Automobile Manufacturers Association said in a statement Tuesday night his group would have no comment "until we have had an opportunity to study the language of the bill and the committee report in final form."

"Our position has been—and is—that we favor an effective and workable bill with mandatory standards."

In tentatively scheduling the measure for floor debate next week, Senate leaders explained they would like to obtain Senate passage before Congress starts its Independence Day recess.

The bill is expected to clear the Senate with almost no difficulty. But a companion highway safety measure scheduled for consideration at the same time could touch off a floor battle.

BETTER PROGRAMS
The highway safety bill as approved by the Public Works Committee would authorize $375 million to help states and cities develop more effective accident prevention programs. Some senators contend not enough money is provided by the measure.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., commerce committee chairman, said the interim standards for U.S. and foreign cars, trucks, buses and motor scoters probably will be based on the items the government requires on vehicles it purchases.

These include seat belts, padded dashboards, impact-absorbing steering wheel columns, exhaust control devices and back-up lights.

The interim standards would be issued Jan. 31, 1967, and take effect from six months to one year later. The permanent standards, to be announced Jan. 31, 1968, also would go into effect within six months to a year. They could be revised every two years.

Auto Civilization Coming to Soviet Union

By JOHN WEYLAND
MOSCOW (AP)—The automobile civilization seems about to come to the Soviet Union. Communism will never be the same again if it does—in its way, this is one of the most revolutionary developments in the country since the Bolshevik Revolution of 1917.

Until now, the Soviet Union has hardly seen what the automobile can do to life. It has been getting along on public transportation.

Whereas there are 374 cars per 1,000 population in the United States and 176 in France, the Soviet Union has only 4 per 1,000.

But the new five-year plan indicates things are going to change. The new Soviet man will find himself confronted with the joys—and horrors—of the automobile era, if the plan in fact foreshadows the future.

During the next five years, auto production is to increase from 200,000 a year to 800,000. Two new plants are to be built. A new small model called the Zima is to be introduced. Cars already being manufactured are to be remodeled. Prices are to be reduced from their present astronomical levels — now about four times higher than in the West.

If all this involved some other product it would not be so significant. But the automobile is something special. It symbolizes a new, Western-like attitude toward life. Its introduction on a large scale has been bitterly opposed. Back in the iron age of Joseph Stalin, the car — the private car, that is — had no place.

Nikita S. Khrushchev came along and started raising living standards, letting the people have more of the national product. Nevertheless, Khrushchev was strongly anti-automobile.

During his visit to the United States, he was shown the great complex of highways around San Francisco filled with the American dream on wheels. He was supposed to be impressed.

He was, saying: "What a waste!"

Khrushchev increased public transportation. He saw if not only avoiding the "waste" of private cars, but also the needs they bring with them — parking places, service stations, garages, highways. The whole complex.

Khrushchev's successors, led by Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, in all probability agree with him about the uselessness of the private car, from the old standpoint.

NEW RESPONSIVENESS

But they are showing a new responsiveness to the wants of the people, who are no longer just the poor, simple masses. Education and prosperity have made for pressure from below. The leadership is so well-trenched that it probably could resist this pressure altogether and survive. But Brezhnev, Kosygin & Co. apparently see no reason why they should.

The Soviet Union has reached the point where it can hold onto its position as a top world power and still provide its citizens some luxuries. The old tight-belt days are gone.

Result — private automobiles on a large scale coming up.

There is no doubt that the Soviet public wants them. People obviously do not enjoy being squeezed and trampled in their marble-balled Metro anymore than New Yorkers do in their subway.

Racism, Disorder: Mississippi Stigmas

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG Jr., Executive Director National Urban League

James Meredith intended marching through the state of Mississippi to demonstrate that a new era was at hand and that it was possible for Negro citizens to walk the public byways in safety.

The brutal attempt on his life in full view of armed policemen who did nothing to prevent the attack, is proof that very little has changed in Mississippi.

The new era Meredith was hoping for has been deferred, and a climate of racism and lawlessness still dominates.

If a national figure like James Meredith can be shot in Mississippi, the only lesson we can draw is that no Negro, no matter how prominent or respected, is safe from danger. Still less safe is the average Negro citizen.

***
This situation prevails because a climate of lawlessness prevails many places in the South. Acts of violence against Negroes often go unpunished.

Moderates Silent

Too many moderate men are silent. Signs of interracial co-operation are usually suppressed. An aura of fear and mistrust rules this sad state.

When volunteers arrive to help register Negroes to vote or to help them combat illiteracy, the cry of "outside agitator" goes up. Anything that challenges the status quo, anything that tries to improve the lot of Mississippi's Negro citizens, is vilified.

The state has seceded morally from the union. It is this public immorality that created the atmosphere in which such a vicious attack could take place.

Samples of editorial comment from some Southern papers are even more shocking.

NO CONDEMNATION

Rather than condemn the attack on Meredith as a frightful instance of criminality, they blame the would-be assassin for making possible passage of the pending Civil Rights Act.

Other papers, and the governor as well, said that while the shooting was "foolish," so was Meredith for attempting to exercise his rights.

James Meredith is a courageous man. He showed his courage when he became the first Negro to attend the University of Mississippi in the face of armed rebellion on the campus, a rebellion which was aided and abetted by the defiant attitude of the governor of the state.

While Meredith failed to prove that a Negro can go about his business peacefully without risking his life in Mississippi, he did prove quite a few other things.

First, he proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that federal protection for civil rights workers and Negro citizens is urgently needed.

The long list of martyrs who died at the hands of Southern racists is testimony to the need for such federal protection.

The attack on Meredith also gives the lie to the racists who claim they are superior men. Superior men do not lurk in bushes to shoot other men in the back. Only weak men do that, and only weak men fear honest difference of opinion.

Debris of N-Tests Falls to the South

By Science Service

LONDON — Radioactive debris from nuclear tests — whether U.S., Russian, French or Chinese — crosses the equator and falls out in the Southern Hemisphere, a scientist reported here.

Dr. R. N. Woodward of the Institute of Nuclear Sciences, Private Bag, Lower Hutt, New Zealand, has detected barium 140 after virtually every atomic or nuclear explosion since 1961. The only exceptions are the low-yield nuclear explosions by the Russians in the Semipalatinsk area, from which no debris was spotted.

***
It is not known exactly how this transfer of air mass from the Northern to the Southern Hemisphere occurs, Dr. Woodward reported here in the British scientific journal Nature.

Custer's Last Stand Was Indians, Too

CROW AGENCY, Mont. (AP) — It was 90 years ago this week that the most famous and talked-about battle between Indians and the U.S. Army was fought in the valley of the Little Big Horn River in southern Montana.

Now the nation sends spacecraft to the planets, but the years have seen little change for the green, rolling hills where Gen. George Armstrong Custer and his entire force of 302 men were annihilated June 25, 1876.

Only a cavalry officer's horse, Comanche, survived the massacre.

RE-ENACT BATTLE

The Crow Indian tribe will reenact the great battle in a weekend ceremony beginning Saturday. They will portray it from the Indians' point of view. The setting is about a mile from the actual battle site. The colorfully garbed Crow will ride into action against blue-clad cavalry.

They will portray the last great gathering of Indian warriors, determined to defend their homes and hunting grounds against the invading white man.

The museum on the battlefield, with its relics of the fight, and the small white markers which show where each man fell, fail to tell the total story of Custer's last stand. It may never be told completely.

Historians still argue about why Custer divided his command into three detachments and found only his segment battling some 5,000 Sioux and Cheyenne Indians. There can be no answer since there can be no rebuttal from the vanquished white side.

Although the Indian was victorious at Little Big Horn, this battle marked the end to major Indian resistance to the westward migration.

While preparing for battle, Sitting Bull, the Sioux medicine man, reportedly told his people, "Let us all gather for the last big fight."

Some historians attribute Custer's reckless behavior at the battle to his thirst for glory to ease his reprimanded pride. Custer had incurred the displeasure of President U.S. Grant by testifying against Secretary of War William W. Belknap in an investigation of alleged graft in handling affairs at Indian agencies.

Custer, a hero of the Civil War, was smarting from this rebuke when he rode to the Little Big Horn to lose a battle but win a cause. Never again did the plains Indians gather in great force to defend their homeland.

It was Custer's "last stand" and that of the Indians, too.

Old Congo Bells Found in Wyoming

ARVADA, Colo. (AP) — Norris Spencer found a pair of bells in a deserted cabin at South Pass, a point on the Oregon Trail in Wyoming.

The Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C., identified the bells as mourning bells made more than 500 years ago in the lower Congo in Africa.

Curators at the Granite Glen Museum in Evergreen, Colo., which also owns a set of the bells, speculate that the objects got to the United States on a sailing ship and then went west on a wagon train only to be abandoned to lighten the wagon load — the fate of many personal possessions that started the long road west.

Tight Credit Role Eyed

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK — Builders of homes contend they're the first victims of tight money. Consumers who buy on the installment plan might be the second. And some businessmen say they're worried lest their plans for expansion be cramped. But supporters of the policy to fight inflation by holding tighter rein on credit don't think there'll be any great or lasting deterrent in the plans of many now regarded as possible victims.

The theory is that tight credit in itself isn't the sole cause for the home building downturn.

Home builders have the statistics right now that seem to back their contentions that their industry is suffering. The Commerce Department says that in May, when money was noticeably tightening, the starting of new homes dropped 13 per cent. This brought it to the lowest rate since January 1963.

Other segments of the construction industry are still booming. Office and commercial buildings, business plants and equipment are still putting a pressure on most material supplies and labor.

Installment loan charges are going up in some areas. But consumer buying hesitation now seems to be little influenced by higher interest.

I'm afraid, rather a mixed bag. Flintkote — which serves the building trade — is highly cyclical and the shares have had no real earnings or price progress over the past decade. But this is considered a cyclical issue, it is not suitable for the average untrained investor.

Mountain Fuel Supply is a distributor of gas but it is also a pipeline operator and the pipeline stocks have been out of favor for some time. Here, too, there has been little price gain over the past decade, although earnings have shown moderate growth. I regard this solely as an income play.

Lucky Stores, as a matter of fact, has acted somewhat better with its group and has shown excellent earnings gains in recent years. I regard this as a growth issue.

Some long-term capital enhancement is your goal, I would hold Lucky Stores, but would switch Flintkote into Chicago Musical Instrument and Mountain Fuel into Standard Oil of California.

Q "We have Series E savings bonds. Would it be wise to turn them into Series H bonds? Will greatly appreciate your advice." H.K.

A) The answer depends entirely on your need for current income. Series E bonds accrue interest and Federal income taxes may be deferred until redemption. Series H bonds offer the same return as Series E — 4.15 per cent — but the income is received by you semiannually from the Treasury.

If you exchange your bonds, you can continue to defer income by redeeming your Series E bonds at current market value on your E bonds but must pay tax on current payments.

Dodd's Ex-Aide Testifies on Trip

Says Senator Planned It to Help PR Man

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd's former administrative assistant swore today that the senator told him the purpose of a 1964 trip to Germany was to help Chicago public relations man Julius Klein.

James P. Boyd Jr. was the first witness as the bipartisan Senate Ethics Committee began taking public testimony in its investigation of misconduct charges against Dodd, a Connecticut Democrat.

A trip Dodd made to Germany in April 1964 has been described by the committee as "a critical element" in the current phase of its probe—the senator's relationship with Klein, a registered agent for West German interests.

Boyd testified that before the senator made the trip, Klein had advised him that he had lost clients in Germany and needed to be "bolstered" and to have his "image refurbished."

Boyd said there were frequent visits to Dodd's office and repeated phone calls beginning in December 1963, after Klein had figured in a Senate Foreign Relations Committee investigation for foreign agents.

Benjamin R. Fern, chief counsel of the ethics committee, asked Boyd what he understood was the purpose of the trip. Dodd made to West Germany.

However, he said that David Martin, a long-time aide to the senator, told him that the matter of interviewing a prisoner in a German prison also was involved in the trip.

Interest Hike on U.S. Home Loans Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The president of the National Association of Home Builders believes the interest rate ceiling on federally insured home mortgages should be raised to 6 per cent.

The official, Larry Blackman, told a news conference yesterday that a 6 per cent rate would help free more money to build new homes.

Blackman made his recommendation one day after the Commerce Department announced that housing starts in May fell to their lowest point in nearly 34 years.

Officials doubt that another increase in the interest rate ceiling would do much good toward stimulating construction. The Federal Housing Authority already has raised the rate twice this year with little effect.

Blackman said a survey of member home builders showed that of 400 responding, 80 per cent are reducing their operations by an average of 35 per cent.

REDUCTION SEEN

Projecting the figure to all the association builders, Blackman said, would mean a reduction of 250,000 in the number of new homes started in the next 12 months.

He said the most conservative estimate shows that 1.6 million new homes are needed a year, but at current rates only 1.25 million will be constructed this year.

Stock Mart Resumes Advance

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market resumed a moderate advance in fairly active trading early today.

A slightly higher trend was apparent from the start and became more well-defined as the session continued. Stocks were continuing a technical recovery which began Tuesday after a four-day losing streak.

Sperry Rand looked as if it would top the most-active list for the third straight session. It rose  $\frac{1}{4}$  to 34 on an opening block of 26,000 shares, touching another new high for the year.

Electronics in general were higher, along with aerospace, but up at  $\frac{1}{2}$  at 18,000. American Telephone, unchanged at 53 $\frac{1}{2}$ , on 7,600; Commonwealth Edison, up  $\frac{1}{4}$  at 48 $\frac{1}{2}$  on 6,800.

Tuesday the Associated Press Average of 60 Stocks sank 2 to 321.2.

A generally higher trend prevailed on the American Stock Exchange.

Up about a point were IBM, Polaroid, United Aircraft, American Airlines and Boeing. Opening blocks included: Chicago & North Western, off at 121 on 34,000 shares; Continental Telephone, unchanged at 53 $\frac{1}{2}$ , on 7,600; Commonwealth Edison, up  $\frac{1}{4}$  at 48 $\frac{1}{2}$  on 6,800.

Tuesday the Associated Press Average of 60 Stocks sank 2 to 321.2.
