Accidents Kill 17 in Michigan Over Weekend

14 Perish in Highway Crashes; Toll 2nd Only to New York's

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 17 persons have been killed so far in Michigan's long New Year's weekend, 14 of them in traffic.

The nation's traffic death toll stood at 136 persons since the holiday survey started at 6 p.m. Thursday.

Altogether 180 persons lost their lives in violent accidents. They included 24 killed in fires and 20 others who perished in miscellaneous accidents.

Michigan's highway toll was second only to New York, where 15 persons had been killed by Saturday morning.

Michigan's other deaths included a 72-year-old man who died of fumes from a gas heater, and another killed in a shooting accident.

Clarence E. Ranes, 24, of Farmington, a taxi driver, was killed early Saturday when his cab struck a utility pole in Detroit. The latest reported traffic victims included:

Conrad Noland, 23, of Route 1, Reading, killed Friday in an atuo accident two miles east of Reading.

Mrs. Verle Shultz, 27, of Detroit, was killed Friday when an auto in which she was riding rammed the rear of a parked bus.

Leo Schultz, 52, of RFD 1, Standish, was injured fatally Thursday night when his auto collided with a truck on U.S. 23, near Omer.

John Urick, 45, of Akron, Mich., lost his life early Friday when his auto overturned on M 25, near the Bay County-Sanilac County line.

Mrs. Florence Clorer La Pointe, 29, of Monroe was killed Friday when an auto in which she was a passenger collided head on with another on U.S. 24, a mile north of the Ohio line.

Jacob Polderman, 13, of near Kalamazoo was fatally injured yesterday when a car in which he was riding skidded and Polderman was thrown out. He died last night in Vicksburg's Franklin Memorial Hospital.

UCLA's Hopes Were High at This Point in Rose Bowl

CAMERON SCORES—Big Paul Cameron, UCLA's All American halfback, cracks through Michigan State's tackle for two yards and the Bruins' second touchdown against Michigan State in the Rose Bowl game Friday. Center Fred Rody is hitting Cameron as he goes into the end zone. Halfback Jim Ellis (11) comes up at right. On ground in foreground is Bruin end Bob Long (81). UCLA's hopes were high at this point, but the Spartans came from behind to win, 28 to 20. Additional pictures and stories appear on page 16.

Says Commies Carry Knives in Neutral Camp

Cpl. Batchelor of Texas Thinks More Also Want to Come Home

SEOUL (INS) — An American POW just back from captivity in Korea today urged a thorough going "shakedown" for weapons in the neutral zone compound where 21 other holdback American captives still are held.

The ex-POW, Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor of Kermit, Tex., called himself the "leader" of the American captives he left behind yesterday and said pro-Communist prisoners in the camp carry razor-sharp daggers to enforce Red rule.

He said other prisoners might follow him to freedom if the diehard Reds among them were disarmed and prevented from subjecting all outgoing mail to censorship by every member of the camp.

Batchelor was interviewed by Allied newsmen at the 121st Evacuation Hospital near Seoul where he was taken New Year's Day after he fled from the neutral zone compound for unrepatriated captives of the Communists.

The tall, blond 24-year-old Texan, who spent two years in Communist prison camps, admitted he included the "communist line" in letters to his Japanese wife in Tokyo.

But he explained:

"That didn't mean anything. I had to include it to get the letters out of the compound.

"My letters had to be read by everyone in the compound before they went out."

Batchelor said neutral Indian guards should enter the compound at once both to find and confiscate weapons in possession of certain prisoners and to investigate "control" conditions generally.

He predicted: "Others might come out if they do."

He admitted he once accepted "part of communism" but never accepted such Red propaganda charges which accused the United States of aggression and germ warfare.

He stated flatly that the Communists are maintaining contact with unrepatriated war captives held in neutral Indian custody.

Referring to the dagger-toting hard-core Communists in the compound, he said they made it "very difficult to get out." He indicated most of the armed POWs are South Koreans.

Batchelor said he "planned" to make his break from fellow captives since Dec. 12.

He chose to leave the camp at 1 o'clock in the morning New

U.S. Fears Stall as Hope Rises for Jan. 25 Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. officials expressed hope today that the Berlin foreign ministers meeting actually will open Jan. 25, but they said the Russians still can stall the conference if they wish.

Strong suspicions about Russia's tactics persist because one of Moscow's main purposes in the project is believed to be to delay French action on the proposed European Defense Community and so to delay Western plans for controlled rearmament of West Germany.

Russia can forward this aim by keeping alive hope of successful East-West negotiations, either by promising conferences or actually holding them. The brighter the prospects of international peace by negotiation, the less pressure, presumably, Frenchmen would feel to accept EDC and thereby abandon their deep rooted opposition to any revival of German military strength.

Notes which the Western Powers handed the Soviet Foreign Office yesterday accepted Jan. 25 as the opening date for the Berlin meeting agreed also to a Russian proposal that the place of the meeting be determined by Big Four officials in Germany and said that there is no point now in any further talk about an agenda for the conference since the ministers themselves will be meeting soon.

Several possibilities of further delay are conceded:

1. The French government is to be reorganized in mid-January after the new president takes office.

2. A site must be selected for the conference. The Western Powers proposed the Allied Control Authority Building, which the Russians do not like. There is some speculation that the Soviets may alternately propose a former broadcasting headquar-

17 Die in Crush at Tokyo Palace

41 Injured as 700,000 Holiday Crowd Pushes to Greet Hirohito

TOKYO (AP)—At least 17 persons were trampled to death and 41 were injured today as an estimated 700,000 subjects swarmed around the Imperial Palace to extend New Year's greetings to Emperor Hirohito, the newspaper Asahi said tonight.

Kyodo News Agency said the vast throng got out of hand at about 3:30 p.m. (1:30 a.m. EST), the deadline for signing the imperial register and offering best wishes to Hirohito.

The crowd swarmed toward the gates of the palace grounds as police tried to bar the entrance at the deadline, Kyodo said.

Thousands who had not yet had a chance to sign the register tried to push through. Men, women and children fell under the feet of the onrushing crowd.

There was no immediate word on whether any Americans were among the dead and injured.

The English language Japan News said the crowd gathered in hopes that the Emperor might make a public appearance.

The News said two American Marines helped Japanese police rescue persons knocked down by the crowd and prevent a possibly higher death toll.

Before the war only titled Japanese were allowed to enter the palace grounds and sign the imperial register. Since the war, however, everyone has been welcome. Each year hundreds of thousands of Japanese have made it a custom to wish the Emperor well during the new year.

Petition to Remove Judge in Hubbard Case Rejected

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Williams today rejected the petition of Mayor Orville E. Hubbard of Dearborn to remove the judge who will hear ouster proceedings against the Dearborn mayor.

Hubbard demanded that Williams remove Probate Judge Wallace Waalkes Jr. of Kent County as the hearing examiner on the grounds that Judge Waalkes conferred with Circuit Judge Miles N. Culehan of Detroit, the one-man grand juror who recommended Hubbard's ouster.

Williams said that the conference between the two was "improper" but that he had full confidence in Judge Waalkes impartiality.

Williams said the meeting was officiated by Assistant Attorney General Irving Beattie to set the time, place and arrangements for the hearing.

"Such a meeting between him and Judge Waalkes for such a purpose was perfectly proper and necessary," Williams said.

"The fact that Judge Culehan came along and sat in was certainly unnecessary and improper and it is regrettable that such a circumstance should have occurred to give rise to this question.

"However, I have discussed the whole matter personally with Judge Waalkes and I am satisfied that there is no prejudice on his part. He is not going to try to decide this case anyhow.

"His job is to preside at the making of a record which will then be presented to me. I have confidence in his impartiality and I therefore will not entertain the petition to remove him from this case."

Hubbard's ouster hearing will start in Detroit Monday.

Ore Ship Limps Toward 'Frisco

Two Holds Flooded in Crash With Freighter Off California

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The ore ship Permanente Silverbow limped toward San Francisco under Coast Guard escort today after two of her holds were flooded in a slashing collision with a freighter off the northern California coast.

The 7,629-ton ore carrier, southbound from Portland, Ore., with 40-45 crewmen, collided late last night with the Manila-bound 7,606-ton freighter Colorado, about 145 miles north of San Francisco.

The Colorado's forepeak was flooded but she reported no danger.

The Silverbow radioed the flooding appeared halted. A passing Standard Oil tanker, the J. N. MacGaregill, the Colorado and two Coast Guard cutters, were accompanying the Silverbow to San Francisco, where it was expected to arrive by mid-morning.

Henry J. Kaiser's Permanente Steamship Co. of Oakland operates the ore ship and the Colorado is owned by the States Steamship Co. of New York.

French in Indochina Await Rebel Attack

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—French Union troops deeply entrenched on the heavily fortified plain of Dien Bien Phu today awaited an attack by the Communist-led Vietminh which may see the rebels hurling far superior strength into the battle.

Seldom has the Vietminh ever attacked such a strong French Union position without outnumbering the defenders anywhere from six to ten times, hoping thereby to overwhelm and overrun the French positions.

Hundreds of American-supplied Dakota transport planes have poured American-made guns and ammunition and French-Vietnamese troop reinforcements into Dien Bien Phu.

County Jails 8 Drunk Drivers

67 Others Start New Year Behind Bars on Conduct Charges

Eight motorists have been jailed so far on drunk driving charges in Oakland County over the long New Year holiday weekend.

Another 67 persons went to Oakland County Jail on drunk and disorderly charges.

Pontiac police have jailed only one person during the weekend for drunk driving but led other departments in arrests for drunk and disorderly persons with 27.

From the start of the New Year's Eve celebration until a few hours following it, four motorists went to jail under drunk driving complaints. Since yesterday morning four more drivers have gone to jail.

Drunk and disorderly arrests reached a peak New Year's Eve with 46 arrests. Another 21 persons have been added to the jail's lists since the New Year's Eve.

Sick Child Eats, Father Worries

ROME (AP)—Luciana Barbonis, 5, eats five meals a day, in which she usually consumes 14 bananas, four beefsteaks, vegetables, fruit and a handful of vitamin pills.

She has to eat that much, doctors say. She has an intestinal tract 21 feet longer than normal, but with very weak absorption. She gets little nourishment from her food.

Vittorio Barbonis, her father, came to Rome to try to lay his problem before Prime Minister Giuseppe Pella: "On a salary and family allowance totaling 40,000 lire a month (about $65) how can I feed her?" he asked. "Besides, she has five other brothers and sisters."

Head-on Crash Kills Two Men

Dixie Collision Friday Brings Death to Detroit, Center Line Motorists

Two men were killed instantly yesterday when their cars crashed head-on on Dixie highway about seven miles east of Holly.

Joseph J. Cascio, 35, of 7021 Jenerous, Center Line.

Dr. C. E. Lockwood, acting Oakland County coroner from Holly, pronounced both men dead at the scene, 500 feet north of M 87.

O'Brien's auto, southbound on U.S. 10, apparently swerved across the center line into the path of Cascio's car, according to Michigan State Trooper Paul Witt of the Pontiac Post. There were no passengers in either car.

Parents Happy, Couple Is Alive

Son and Daughter Held Prisoners for 7 Years by Russians

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The parents of a man and woman held prisoner in Russia were rejoicing today in the knowledge, after seven years silence, that their son and daughter are still alive.

Mrs. Patiana Green, the mother of George Green, 35, and Leah Green, 40, was located yesterday at her home here. She said her son and daughter remained in Russia when she and her husband returned home in 1936. The Greens and their children went to Russia in 1932 and Green worked as a construction engineer. Originally Green and his wife came to the United States from Moscow in 1906.

The son and daughter remained to attend a Moscow university, Mrs. Green said. Before World War II the daughter became an English teacher in a Moscow school and the son was employed as an engineer by the Associated Press.

The Greens, along with Jack Rural of Beverly Hills, were among several Americans named as Russian prisoners by Pvt. Homer H. Cox, 33, of Oklahoma City, after his release from Soviet custody.

Five Pct. More VA Loans for Homes Granted in '53

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Veterans Administration reported today it guaranteed nearly five per cent more GI home loans during 1953 than in 1952 and that the houses cost more.

The average price, the agency said, was $11,275, compared to $10,915 in 1952.

The VA said in a year-end review of its 1953 loan guaranty operations that it guaranteed more than 320,000 home loans totaling over three billion dollars.

About two-thirds of the 320,000 veterans who obtained loans last year bought newly-built homes. VA figured in about 20 per cent of all new one-family and two-family homes built over the nation in 1953.

In connection with the increased average cost of the new and proposed homes, VA commented that only 30 per cent of those purchased by veterans in 1953 were priced at $10,000 or less, compared with 40 per cent in the under 10,000 class in 1952.

It made no reference to an increase from 4 to 4¼ per cent in the maximum allowable interest rate on all kinds of GI loans which became effective last May 5.

But it did say the loans made late in 1953 had longer repayment terms, following renewal of real estate credit controls early in the year.

The review also made no reference to the rate of GI home loan applications, which is considered a barometer of current availability of funds for financing housing.

An application comes in when a private lender agrees to make a loan. The guarantee on the loan then may not be issued for weeks or months while all processing is being completed.

A check of VA home loan applications received in the first 11 months of 1953 showed a total of $296,913, as compared with 285,737 in the similar 1952 period.

VA also guarantees or insures farm and business loans. It said that while the number of home loans was increasing by nearly 5 per cent the total number of GI loans for all purposes dropped about 1 per cent, but the 1953 original amount borrowed increased by about 10 per cent over 1952.

Property Owners Weigh City Suggestion to Revise Off-Street Parking Laws

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM — Property owners and businessmen in the southwest quadrant of the city are beginning to turn the problem of off-street parking over in their minds, now that the city commission has set its policy toward the northwest quadrant plans of the Wabeek-Jacobson group.

The commission has decided that revising the off-street parking ordinance to alow a change to be made for parking would solve the problem in the northwest quadrant.

Mayor Ralph Main was asked to set up a meeting with property owners in the southwest area, and City Manager Donald C. Egbert has informed them of the present off-street parking progress.

Edward E. Rothman said yesterday he had forwarded copies of Egbert's letter to southwest quadrant property owners Ferd Broock, James Couzens, Henry Dalquist and Clarence W. Blenman, and they plan to have a meeting shortly.

"There seems to be a feeling that the city should not enter the parking business, but many other communities are doing it," Rothman said.

"To make parking projects a success, the city's power of condemnation and police powers are needed," He added, "Only a wealthy group can go out and buy the necessary land on the open market."

Previous suggestions for parking in the southwest quadrant have been lots north of Merrill, between Pierce and Woodward; the east side of Pierce, between Merrill and Brown, and Shain park.

GMC Truck Names Two New Regional Managers

Creation of two additional national regions to strengthen GMC Truck and Coach Division's field sales organization was announced today by R. C. Woodhouse, general truck sales manager.

GMC Truck has divided the country into four regions, replacing the former two region system, Woodhouse said. This, plus a retirement, have resulted in several sales personnel promotions throughout the country, all of which take immediate effect.

Elevated to join the two previous regional managers are J. E. Singer, formerly zone manager of the Memphis zone, who becomes southern regional manager, and G. W. Sheldon, formerly Oakland zone manager, who becomes western regional manager.

W. L. Vande Water will remain eastern regional manager in charge of an area which has been reduced in size by creation of the southern region. J. M. Gilroy, formerly western regional manager, becomes manager of the new central region.

Singer's office will be in Memphis; Sheldon's headquarters will be in Oakland, and Vande Water and Gilroy will continue to make their headquarters at the home office in Pontiac.

Woodhouse also announced the appointment of Leonard W. Beck, former zone manager in Cincinnati, as administrative assistant to the general truck sales manager in the home office, replacing Harold Cross who becomes zone manager in Kansas City.

J. B. Mosley, Jr., formerly Kansas City zone manager has been transferred to Atlanta as zone manager, replacing H. J. Wasson, who plans to retire in the spring.

Other appointments include: J. R. Clements, former manager of the GMC Retail store in Los Angeles, promoted to zone manager for Oakland, Calif., filling the post held by G. W. Sheldon.

Robert H. Gervin, former assistant zone manager in Memphis, promoted to zone manager there filling the position vacated by J. E. Singer's promotion.

Hugh F. Huggin, former assistant zone manager in Cincinnati, elevated to zone manager to fill Beck's post.

Houghton's Big Bald Eagle to Live in Washington Zoo

HOUGHTON (UP) — Jocko, a huge bald eagle which grew tame on a diet of whisky and rabbit's feet, winged toward Washington today—by commercial airliner.

After its arrival in the nation's capital, the bird is destined to lead a life of leisure with other eagles at the National Zoological Park.

Jocko got its first taste of civilization, and liquor, after it was found floundering on the ice off Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Ice fishermen, who believed the bird was injured in a Lake Superior storm, brought it to Chassell, about eight miles southeast of here.

Shoe-maker Otto Ruotsi, 60, assumed personal charge of nursing the big bird back to health. At first, Jocko was fed only rations of whisky. Then the shoe-maker added rabbit's feet.

As Jocko's strength returned, it surprised everyone by growing fond of Ruotsi. It even started carrying his tape measure and other shop tools around in its beak.

But the tale of tape was a sad one for Jocko. It showed he had a wingspread of six feet, four inches and stood nearly three feet high—making it capable of flying off with sheep or even small children as the story-tellers have said.

Jocko loomed as "potentially dangerous" and Ruotsi thought it best to get rid of the bird before it fully recovered.

Publisher John Rice of the Houghton Mining Gazette heard of Jocko and believed the bird, as the United States' national symbol, deserved a good home. He contacted Rep. John Bennett in Washington and the Michigan Republican in turn contacted zoological park officials who agreed to house Jocko.

Jocko, housed in a specially-built crate, left for Chicago Friday afternoon on the first leg of its flight to its deluxe accommodations.

Suspend Police Vice Raid Team

Detroit Squad Dropped After Entering Building Without Warrant

DETROIT (AP)—Four Detroit policemen were suspended today after raids on two suspected blind pigs brought protests that the police had forced entry without search warrants.

Kennedy Lawrence, deputy superintendent, quickly suspended Sgt. Thomas Watson, and Patrolmen Robert Trozak, James Shannon, Ervil Goolsby, all of the Bethune Station for their part in the raids.

Lawrence said that two scout car patrolmen would be questioned concerning charges by one of the residents that they had accepted five dollars and a bottle of whisky Christmas Eve. He did not reveal their names.

Both of the raids early New Year's Day were carried out by the same four-man raiding party. A police inspector earlier said he thought the team had done the right thing.

The cleanup squad's four-man team first raided a private dwelling in mid-town Detroit at 3:45 a.m. Police said they acted on complaints of a "blind pig being operated on the premises."

Officers said they broke up a bar in the rear of the dwelling, where they found several partly filled bottles of whisky. The squad next moved on an apartment just 15 minutes away from the first.

They wrecked a bootblack stand on the ground floor but found no evidence of gambling or illicit liquor, then forced their way into upstairs living quarters.

Inspector George Pell said he was sorry if the legitimate residents of the apartment were caused any "inconvenience," but said he was satisfied the officers did the right thing.

"Sometimes it becomes necessary to take drastic action to safeguard the decent people living in the neighborhood," Pell said.

Sgt. Thomas Watson led the group. He said they were let into the second building by Ambrosia Turner, 29, and went directly to a rear room where they destroyed two tables and several chairs but denied they "bothered anyone" in the upstairs living quarters.

Police said they raided the same building last July and confiscated whisky and beer. They said Fred Hall, 47, operates the shoe-shine parlor in the building. Hall was arrested during the July raid and convicted of engaging in an illegal occupation.

Police said the shoeshine parlor is owned by Harry Gasaway, who is out of town. Gasaway, once convicted for violating state gambling laws, has a record of 46 arrests.

Watson said, however, the raiders found no evidence of gambling or liquor in the building. He said they were "just tired of warning the place."

Demands Hearing in Wife Slaying

Albert Munson, 28, of 442 Bloomfield Ave., charged with the first degree murder of his wife, Gladys, 33, of 240 Hughes St., demanded examination this morning when he appeared before Pontiac Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

Munson, released from Pontiac General Hospital where he was treated for a bullet wound, was ordered held in Oakland County Jail without bond until the hearing Jan. 13.

Pontiac Police said that Munson went to his estranged wife's home Tuesday night and shot her during an argument.

Detective John I. Williams said that Herman Walton, 38, of 502 Bloomfield Ave., was wounded three times when he tried to intervene.

Walton, who said he was acting as a bodyguard for the victim since the couple separated Dec. 23, fired back at Munson, wounding him in the neck.

He was ticketed by Michigan State Trooper Lloyd Hallman for reckless driving.

Returned POW Tells of Commie Daggers

Year's Day, when he walked up to an Indian guard and quietly requested repatriation.

At one time while he was in Indian custody Batchelor spoke with an Indian officer through the compound fence as three Indian guards stood by.

Asked why he did not then ask for repatriation, the Texas corporal answered:

"I prefer not to answer that question at this time."

The major factor which influenced his decision to request repatriation, he said, were "letters from the outside and conditions in the camp."

As for his feelings about communism, he explained:

"At first I believed what I read. I wanted to fight for peace and against American aggression.

"Now I don't believe the United States was an aggressor and I don't believe that America ever used germ bombs.

"I never could believe America or that type of country would do such a thing.

Batchelor added thoughtfully:

"I never intended to become a Communist. I merely wanted to be a peace-fighter—from their point of view."

By this he said he meant "preaching their peace propaganda."

He disclosed that when the Communists employed him to transmit "peace propaganda" he believed "anything I said at that time to be true."

He frankly admitted that he was a "progressive" while he was held in a North Korean POW camp. "Progressive" was a term invented by the Reds for those who went along with the Communist line.

Batchelor said he had talked with Communist newsmen Allan Winnington and Wilfred Burchett about Communist-alleged atrocities against Communist war captives in the Koje Island prison camp.

He said he never believed Communist charges that Chinese and North Korean captives were "slaughtered" by Allied guards.

"I knew they used quite a bit of propaganda," he said. "I believed it was mixed with the truth. It was confused and mixed up."

Batchelor said he told Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission, that he was the leader of the unrepatriated American POWs.

He declined to answer when asked whether or not Sgt. Richard G. Corden of East Providence, R.I. was the true leader of the stayback Americans.

Corden has signed pro-Communist petitions and acted generally like the accepted leader of the Americans.

Turning another subject, Batchelor said the POWs "got the news that (Cpl. Edward) Dickenson had been prosecuted by the United States government."

Dickenson, who voluntarily asked for repatriation from the camp for pro-Communist captives, returned to his home in Virginia in November and is honeymooning with his bride.

Batchelor said none of the prisoners had heard Dickenson was not prosecuted for having been suspected of embracing communism, nor had they heard he had married and was honeymooning.

Milford Man's Leg Broken in Accident

John Kelly, 42, of 1944 Bodie Dr., Milford, suffered a broken leg yesterday in a freak accident as he attempted to have his car pulled out of a ditch on Wixom road.

Another car which was going to pull Kelly's auto from the ditch, one-half mile south of Loon Lake road, ran into Kelly as he was taking a chain from the trunk of his car, pinning him between the bumpers of the two cars.

He is in good condition today at Pontiac General Hospital.

ters which they control in West Berlin. That almost certainly would meet with ready Western acceptance.

But there also has been speculation that the Reds would propose alternating the sessions between East and West Berlin or among the four occupation sectors of the city. Despite difficulties such as the problem of uninhibited news reporting by Western correspondents, authorities here say such arrangements could be worked out.

If the ussians should unexpectedly insist that the meetings be held in East Berlin, the Western Powers, according to Washington officials, would reject the proposal flatly.

3. Another possible cause of delay is the matter of subjects to be discussed.

In previous note exchanges both the Western Powers and the Soviet government have in effect agreed that the future of Germany is major topic of importance. Russia has served notice it will bring up its demand for recognition of Red China as a fifth big world power and the Western governments have said that Russia can talk about anything it wants to.

The West has repeatedly called for completion of an Austrian independence treaty and Russia has refused to agree to talk about this at Berlin.

Seeks to Curtail Probers' Power

Senator Wants to End McCarthy International Investigations

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa) said today he will ask the Senate to curb broad investigative powers in the field of international relations now held by the committee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

"This is a glaring situation," Gillette said in an interview. "It is something that was never intended and I will ask the Senate to pass on it at the coming session.

McCarthy is chairman of the Government Operations Committee and of its more widely known Permanent Investigations subcommittee.

* * *

Gillete said he wants the Senate to rescind authority for the Government Operations Committee to investigate international affairs and give this solely to the Foreign Relations Committee, of which Gillette is a member.

Although he has tangled with McCarthy in the past, Gillete made no mention of the Wisconsin senator in explaining why he sought the change.

"International relationships are delicate now and will be for an unforeseen time," Gillette said. "The Senate has given its Foreign Relations Committee authority in this field.

"We all know that careless actions or statements in this field can jeopardize our international status."

* * *

Gillete's proposal followed by a day a remark by another Democrat, Sen. McCarran of Nevada, that the investigations subcommittee in its investigations of communism "has stepped over into a field where it was not intended to function at all."

However, McCarran in an interview said nothing about attempting to curb McCarthy's activities. He said on the contrary he thought the investigations subcommittee has "done good work," and emphasized there was nothing personal in his remarks. He and McCarthy often have exchanged compliments.

The Nevadan said, however, he thought the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, of which he is senior Democratic member, "can do all the work necessary on the Senate side" in investigating subversive activities.

McCarthy, in Miami, said yesterday that "digging out communism" is not the "primary purpose" of his subcommitee and that it has been careful to check with the Internal Security subcommittee to avoid duplication. He continued:

"If in our investigations we find subversive elements in government which would prevent the government from operating properly, and no other congressional group is investigating, then we go ahead.

"I have no argument with Pat McCarran. Pat is one of the greatest senators we ever had and I have unlimited respect for him."

Noted Woman Editor Has Legs Amputated

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—Miss Rebecca F. Gross, editor of the Lock Haven Express, was in "satisfactory" condition at the Williamsport Hospital today following amputation of both her legs.

The 48-year-old newspaperwoman was injured in a two-car collision in the early hours of New Year's Eve as she drove to the airport here to meet her sister. She was thrown out of her car by the crash and landed against a utility pole. Her car spun around crushing her legs against the pole.

Ironically, Miss Gross had just finished writing an editorial on safe holiday driving before the ill-fated ride.

Title of the editorial was "Who Wants to Start the New Year in a Hospital or a Morgue?"

Widely known in the newspaper world, Miss Gross was one of seven American newspapermen and women to make a tour of Russia last year, marking an historic reversal in Russian policy.

Caught on Mt. Hood, 3 Descend to Safety

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Three climbers, isolated overnight by a sudden storm on the snow-covered slopes of Mt. Hood, walked into Timberline Lodge yesterday.

Fred Hart, Corvallis, Ore., Art Maki, Ridgefied, Wash.; and Layden Wash., Olympia, Wash., were apparently unharmed by the ordeal. They set out Thursday morning, hoping to be the first 1954 climbers to reach the peak of the 11,245-foot-high mountain east of here. When the storm hit, they waited out the night and made their way down the slopes by use of a compass.

Model T Nears End of Journey

2 Argentine Motorists Rest in Indiana Before Chugging to Detroit

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UP) — Two Argentine motorists gave their 1914 Model T Ford a well-deserved rest today before chugging on toward Detroit.

Jose Fernandez, 79, and his son, Ramon, 29, neither of whom speak English, were escorted into Evansville by State Police late Friday night and put up at a local hotel, free of charge.

The travellers were more than 400 miles short of their destination, but were still determined to reach their goal.

However, the route they planned to take from here was a mystery. State Police said the Argentineans had received an invitation from the Ford Motor Company to go to Toledo, and had indicated they might stop off there before continuing to Detroit.

* * *

The Model T was perking right along when State Police picked them up as they crossed into Indiana from Illinois at New Harmony, Ind. Officer Vaughn Cooper, who escorted the venerable vehicle into Evansville, said the car clipped along at a 25 mph pace without a sign of trouble.

Though they failed in their ambition to reach Detroit before the Ford Motor Co. completed the commemoration of its 50th anniversary on New Year's Eve, the Fernandez' appeared quite pleased with their progress. They happily filled their scrapbook with pictures and clippings that marked their stops along the way.

The Fernandez' left Argentina more than two years ago to pay their respects at the grave of Henry Ford.

Malays Search for 3 Manlike, Hairy Creatures

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP)—Police jungle squads in Perak State switched today from hunting Communist guerrillas to search for three hairy manlike creatures with fang-like teeth and wearing loincloths.

The three appeared for the first time on a rubber estate at Trolak and terrified Chinese and Malay workers who were tapping trees.

But G. M. Browne, manager of the estate, said the strange visitors did not appear unfriendly.

He discounted suggestions that they were Communist guerrillas in disguise or former Japanese soldiers who had been in the jungle for eight or nine years.

"The fang-like teeth is one point against either theory," he said.

Only Four Ask Police for Escort at Saranac

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y. (AP)—Business slumped in Saranac Lake's fifth annual "Operation Cocktail" but the result was the same—no New Year's Eve accidents.

Four persons took police up on their offer to ferry home any partygoers who had decided that the last one for the road was too much.

Godfrey and Troupe Back From Thule

NEW YORK (AP)—Arthur Godfrey and his troupe, and a party including Air Secretary Harold Talbott and Gen. Curtis LeMay, returned yesterday by plane after a New Year's Eve spent at Thule Air Force Base in Greenland.

The group, which also included Mrs. Talbott, Mrs. Godfrey, and publisher William Randolph Hearst Jr., flew to the "loneliest air force base in the world" on Wednesday.

"It was a wonderful trip," Talbott said. "It was a wise thing from a morale standpoint and the men were pleased and diverted."

Man of the Year

A safe guess is that very few were surprised when the country's newspaper and radio editors voted Dwight D. Eisenhower Man of the Year for the second successive time.

Such honors aren't new for Presidents of the United States, nor for the man who now makes his home at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

Back in 1944 the General who led Allied armies to victory in Europe was accorded the title "Man of War," and the following year was rated tops among military leaders.

Besides his office as President of the United States, there are several sound reasons why the editors would choose Ike a second time. His Administration can claim credit for the Korean truce, elimination of all economic controls, a new initiative in foreign policy and economy in government.

But if the President's record in office contained nothing else, he would deserve consideration as Man of The Year for his imaginative atomic pool proposal.

The man so many millions affectionately refer to as "Ike" long has been a commanding figure on the world stage. He has written much history as one of the country's greatest military leaders and is writing more as its first Republican President in 20 years.

Technical Aid Report

It is to be hoped that the warning sounded by a presidential advisory board headed by Eric Johnston, will get the Congressional attention it deserves.

Named to study technical assistance to underdeveloped countries, the board has distinguished membership. It includes Gardner Cowles, Harvey S. Firestone, Maurice A. Hutcheson and Dr. Thomas Parran.

In their opinion this form of aid whether called Point Four or something else, is one of the cheapest and most beneficial of all foreign aid programs. The report emphasizes that it builds up initiative and enterprise, rather than dependence, in the recipient country and does it with a minimum of bureaucratic overhead.

Moreover, the program has attracted the help of church and philanthropic groups whose personnel supplement the work of government specialists.

Board members see a developing danger in the decrease in economic aid. With military aid taking over they fear the identity of technical assistance will be lost. It is felt that this would alienate many helpful supporters and provide fuel for anti-American propaganda.

★ ★ ★

Director Stassen of the Foreign Operations Administration plans to ask Congress for a slight increase in the technical aid appropriation. But as the Johnston board has pointed out, the program needs preservation of its identity as well as money to keep it effective.

Red Threat to Thailand

There are vital political and economic reasons for the concern felt by Western powers over the threat to Thailand posed by the latest Communist offensive in Indochina.

That threat got world wide attention when the Vietminh forces succeeded in pushing their way across the narrow waist of Indochina to the Thailand border.

Thailand is important to the West because it is one of the few anti-Communist strongholds in southeast Asia. In his December 23 report on his trip Vice President Nixon said:

"If Indochina falls, Thailand is put in an almost impossible position. The same is true of Malaya . . . and of Indonesia. If this whole part of southeast Asia goes under Communist domination or Communist influence, Japan . . . must inevitably be oriented toward the Communist regime."

★ ★ ★

Economically Thailand is also a key country. Its rice crop helps to make up the food deficits of Japan and India. It is the world's third largest producer of natural rubber and the fifth ranking source of tin concentrates.

So far there has been no sign that the Vietminh leader, Ho Chi Minh, intends to push on into Thailand. But as recently as last September Secretary Dulles charged that the rebel forces were being supplied and trained by Red China.

★ ★ ★

The latest Red push and President Eisenhower's plan to withdraw two U. S. divisions from Korea no doubt explain Mr. Dulles' warning. Obviously he wanted to convince Peiping that any further intervention in Indochina or Korea would bring Allied retaliation aimed directly at Red China.

Fear seems to be universal and widespread. According to an astronomer, "Every island universe within sight of our telescopes is running away from all other universes."

The People's Business:

Big Year Ahead

Soapy Must Pick Between Lansing and Washington

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING (AP)—Welcome to 1954—a year of political decisions.

It seems as though we had just got the affairs of the state and the nation wrestled away from the brink of bankruptcy and safe in the hands of statesmen. Now we have to do it all over again in 1954.

This is the year in which Soapy Williams will decide whether he wants to continue to go on living in that big old house on Grand avenue in Lansing, or whether he would like the atmosphere better on Capitol Hill in Washington, D. C.

This is the year in which stern, loyal, hard-working D. Hale Brakes makes his pitch for governor, after having stepped aside year after year in favor of men who couldn't make the grade.

This is the year when Don Leonard must decide whether he wants to trade four years as Detroit police commissioner at $22,500 (including pension) or gamble on winning the governorship at $22,500 a year for two years. You or I could make that decision easily.

This is the year when Owen J. Cleary must decide whether he will try to add the governorship to a long string of political scalps—command of the Michigan state troops, state civil defense, chairman of the Liquor Control Commission, chairman of the Republican Central Committee, Republican national committeeman and secretary of state.

This is the year when the Democrats, who somehow have lost their old familiar party in the Williams shuffle, must find two guys and have them ready—one to go for the senate if Williams doesn't and one to go for governor if Williams doesn't.

This the year when we must elect 10 more representatives and two more senators than we now have—as if we don't have enough now.

This is the year when the Legislature returns to find the state treasury almost afloat for the first time in five years—a heady situation if there ever was one.

This is the year when the Republican Legislature must assemble all its generals in the ranks and convince them to march in the same direction—toward a solid, sensible, progressive program which will catch the voters' eye next November.

Ye gods, what a year it'll be.

There are some predictions which can be made with safety about political 1954.

Certainly some outstanding stateman whom Williams has appointed to public office will be rejected by the Republican Senate as unfit to be dog catcher. The resulting outcry will be heard in Medicine Hat, considerably puzzling the natives there.

Undoubtedly, the asparagus crop will find itself in distress, or the parsley acreage will fall off, and we will be summoned to the barricades to save the American farmer again.

Some li'l ole plant somewhere will lay off a coupla hundred poor guys and Williams, Reuther and 47 assorted drum beaters will decamp for Washington screaming: "Stop this depression!"

The Conservation Commission will decide to curtail trout fishing on the little old northwest branch of the Upper Tittabawassee and every gas station operator north of Harrison will give it as his considered opinion "they oughta be impeached."

A delegation will arrive in Lansing to ask Highway Commissioner Charlie Ziegler if he couldn't build another piece of their pet highway before the first half mile of it, built in 1928, falls to pieces.

The highway gang will come up with another "scientific" study which will prove we need another gas tax increase.

Somebody will investigate the prisons again.

And somebody will blame all the prison troubles on the Parole Board.

Somebody will discover the mental hospitals are overcrowded and that we need to spend $22,547,367.87 to fix things up OK.

And the National Guard will have to turn out in the rain to rescue somebody who built his house in a swamp.

Yeah, it'll be a big year—1954.

He Wonders Why Only Part of County Is Compelled to Have Dogs Vaccinated

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

What kind of laws do we have in Oakland County? Laws that are passed in spite of the people? The "dog law" was kicked right out of the city of Pontiac. Why does half the county have to keep this law and the other half says no and doesn't have to have its dogs vaccinated?

Are the small town people and farmers so unclean that their dogs are the only ones that are liable to get rabies?

I have an old dog 16 years old that will never have the use of his hind legs again after he was compelled to have a rabies shot. Am I supposed to drag this old dog down and have them give him another shot so he can be quite useless?

Oh, I suppose I could have him killed, but he has been a good dog and a faithful friend. I would no more have him killed than I would if he were a child.

Days of All Faiths

Protestant Custom of Starting New Year in Week of Prayer Waning in Popularity

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

An old Protestant custom, which unfortunately is waning in popularity, is that of beginning the New Year with a Week of Prayer. Borrowed perhaps from the Jews, who start each new year with 10 solemn days of penitence, the idea of the Week of Prayer has been to unite people of Protestant communions in concerted prayer for God's help through the coming year.

The week is characterized by union services in many American communities. The services, mostly in the evenings, move from one church to another throughout the week and are interdenominational.

The Feast of Epiphany, which is an ancient day in the churches that follow the Catholic calendar, is gaining wide popularity among Protestant denominations.

The word "epiphany" is Greek; it means a "showing," or, less literally, a moment of recognition. Jan. 6 refers particularly to the showing of the infant Jesus to the Wise Men, who represented the nations of the world beyond Israel.

The Feast of Epiphany celebrates therefore, the moment at which the newborn "King of the Jews" was recognized as the Savior of all mankind.

According to tradition, the Wise Men came from China, India and Ethiopia. Nothing in the New Testament says so, nor does anything state that there were three, but over the centuries legend has planted the number three in people's minds just as firmly as any historic fact is planted there.

The Wise Men's names (and there is no historic basis for this either) are said to have been Gaspar, Melchior and Balthasar.

The increasing Protestant observance of the Epiphany is related to the growing emphasis on Christianity as the only possible solution to international chaos.

Sermons and study material for Epiphany will point up the symbolism in the story of the Wise Men: the need for the nations of the world to recognize and bow down before their one Lord.

The Wise Men, incidentally, are often called the Magi. "Magi" is the plural form of a word, both Latin and Greek, which means "wise." It is the same word from which we get our English "magistrate."

An interesting thing about the Jewish religion is that its priesthood comes to a man not by ordination but by inheritance. In the 40th chapter of Exodus the account is given of how God established Moses' brother Aaron as the first priest and provided that the sacred office should be inherited by Aaron's descendants forever.

Orthodox and Conservative Jews still think of Aaron's line as Occupying a special position. Men named Cohen, Kohn, Kahn, Katz, or Kaplan are probably in the priestly family, and although they are not considered clergymen they are given certain ritual tasks, such as the blessing of the congregation at the synagogue services.

Jan. 7 will be St. Distaff's Day — or used to be, many years ago. But there never was any St. Distaff. The name is a joke, a piece of mediaeval humor.

A distaff is a part of a spinning wheel: the short pole or staff around which the wool or flax is wound. Women, of course, were the spinning wheel operators in the household, and it became customary to call women the "distaff side" of the family.

Jan. 7 in old times was the day on which everyone returned to normal routine after the Christmas holidays, which were observed from Christmas to Epiphany.

So, because it was the day on which the distaffs started twirling again, some mediaeval joker named it St. Distaff's Day.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Senator Stresses Need for More 'Horse Sense'

Senator Bricker is a good exponent of "horse sense." It would be far cheaper financially for the U.S.A. to buy Europe and then sublet it to cooperating little nations on a lendlease arrangement, than to waste 300 billions of dollars in gunpowder and munitions every generation henceforth. Think of the saving in human lives!

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case J-384: Senator John W. Bricker, aged about 60, is the able Buckeye statesman who advocates more "horse sense" and less nonsense in government.

In a Chicago speech some time ago he bemoaned the fact that the races of mankind haven't yet been able to live together in the harmony of the Golden Rule.

"The nations of the world must be taught that it is even good business to barter for territory instead of bomb," he added.

If you will ponder that statement, you will remember the American plan by which Thomas Jefferson acquired the great Louisiana Purchase for cash instead of ruthless warfare.

You may also recall our buying of Alaska and Florida. If the imperialistic nations of Europe would follow our American Plan, they would not only be money ahead, but think of the lives they would save!

To carry this thought to an extreme degree, let's suppose that Adolf Hitler in his desire for living space, had sent his agents into Belgium, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland and the Ukraine, with cash in hand to purchase the territory.

Suppose he had offered $1,000 per acre in good American money, which is really an exorbitant price, since our black Iowa prairie soil can be bought nowadays for $500 per acre.

Do you have any idea what Hitler would have paid? He could have bought the entire country of Belgium, with its 11,755 square miles of area, for less than 8 billions of dollars! Remember, too, that is at $1,000 an acre!

Austria, with its 32,369 square miles, would have cost him less than 22 billions. And also at $1,000 per acre.

Czechoslovakia, with 54,206 square miles, would have come to less than 36 billions!

Poland, with 150,415 square miles would have depleted Hitler's pocketbook by barely 96 billions, and the famous breadbasket of Europe, the Russian Ukraine, with 174,201 square miles, would have come to less than 112 billions.

Total all of these, and you will find that at $1,000 per acre for Polish swamps, as well as the arid land, and the eroded mountains of those other nations, plus their fertile valleys, Hitler could have bought Belgium, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland and the Ukraine for 274 billion dollars, or just about the U.S.A. war debt at present!

God gave mankind an intelligent human brain to realize these facts. Is it any wonder that God thus grieves at our wolfish, stupid attempt to grab territory by plunder and war?

The people of Poland would have jumped at $1,000 per acre in American money! They could then have been hired back as tenant farmers and still have been financially ahead.

Or they could have gone to Africa, or South America or even into fertile Iowa and bought better farms at less than half the price for which they sold out at home.

I'll admit that sentiment and other reasons may have hampered the sale of an entire country, but I am simply showing you today the wisdom in Senator Bricker's statement that peace is even financially sounder and more sensible than war.

You efficient American mothers, eminent for bargain hunting, better save this Case Record to use in stopping World War III, about 1975 A.D.

Why, our loans to England alone right now total $633 per acre for every acre in all of England, Scotland and Wales!

Baering Down

We start the new year atomically with controlled power for the benefit of humanity. There's only one brass ring on this merry-go-round.

On A-day plus two it's nice to know peninsulas will be respected and archipelagoes neutralized. We will brief the 1954 housewife on the plutonium slant of the fissioned kitchen.

We tested the Bikini barbecue with volunteer hamburger. The results indicate it's better to cook outdoors.

However, the atomic flat-iron is a success. But no shirt-tail in the world can withstand the temperature of 46,970,000 degrees, Bradstreet and Dun.

Flannel cakes a la Yucca Flats have a tendency to become flying saucers. Centrifugal force has a low boiling point.

Therefore the government scientists have developed a protective smog to prevent poached eggs from darkening the sun. The atomic egg poacher has resulted in the frying pan with the 75-foot handle. Even then the chef is browned off.

For close work with flannel cakes and Bikini fried potatoes the government scientists have sponsored remote control. The operator throws the switch from the signal tower in the High Sierras. Do not face the stove.

Washington warns the housewife you cannot recall the harsh word nor the pushed button.

Preparations are being made to de-activate the garbage cans in large cities. This will require a majority of 36 legislatures.

The atomic pocket lighter will be out-of-bounds for fast mushrooming of clouds to spoil other people's picnics. Indiscriminate use of the lighter may start forest fires instead of cigars.

Congress will ask Ike not to make the atom too homelike.

In the insulated interim three short and one long blast means come and get it. The dishwaster is burning holes in the kitchen sink.

Substantial Breakfast Very Much Better, Says Brady, Than Headache and Aspirin

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

THE MAIL BOX

Breakfast

Back in Minnesota my parents did everything according to Dr. Brady—especially in regard to raising us children, and we were a pretty healthy family . . . I neglected to eat breakfast here in New York, because I was always in such a hurry to get to my work . . . a supervisor advised me to eat a substantial breakfast and showed me your column to prove . . . now I eat a real breakfast, have no more headache, feel much better . . . (T. E.).

Answer — Why eat breakfast?—aspirin or other dope is cheap. A lot of Americans, particularly misguided, ignorant young people, have nutritional deficiency diseases because they do not eat an adequate breakfast, which must include these three essentials:

(1) Fresh fruit in season or frozen fruit or fruit juice.

(2) Plain wheat cracked and cooked as you like or oaten grits or rolled oats or oatmeal raw or cooked as porridge, with milk, cream or butter and maybe a spoonful of crude raw sugar on it.

(3) Instead of porridge, if one prefers, whole wheat bread or toast or shredded wheat biscuit, but either (2) or (3) not both.

(4) Eggs cooked as you prefer, or fish, or bacon, or sausage, or ham, or whatever meat you like or can get — fresh, canned, dried, salted. If no meat then at least one-half pint of whole milk, skim milk, separator milk, buttermilk or the equivalent in evaporated or powdered milk.

Athlete's Foot

Used your advice and happy to report I am free from it after several years of ineffectual use of other remedies. (W. D.)

Answer — For pamphlet on Foot Itch send stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fool Proof

Your fool proof cough medicine aptly named. Have used it with highly satisfactory results, for the children and for their grandfather too . . . (Mrs. E. P. H.)

Answer — Instructions for whipping up a batch of the fool proof cough medicine are given in the booklet Call It Cri, for which send 25 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Alcoholics

I'd like to have a copy of No. 16 Little Lesson The 7 Keys to Vite although I do not need it if it is for alcoholics, as I never drink . . . (H. S.)

Answer — It is for alcoholics and for "occasional" drinkers and for the teetotal abstainers. Naturally — if they had vite they wouldn't feel the need of alcohol or other narcotic to make 'em forget for a brief interval their inferiority. In the booklet there's an eleven line definition of v-i-t-e, but here suffice to say it means preservation of the characteristics of youth.

For Nth Time

For the third time I hereby request that a copy of your pamphlet Adult Tetany and Growing Pains be forwarded to the address below . . . (R. M.)

Answer — Next time inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and you'll have better luck.

Potentiator

You said vitamin B-12 should be combined with a potentiator to get the full effect . . . what is a potentiator? (H. P. W.)

Answer — Folic acid. Full information in the pamphlet The Red Blood Vitamin, available on written request (no clipping, please) if you provide stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Huh?

Please send directions for preparing and using Whitfield's ointment and liquid for foot itch. We love your column and read it daily. What an individualist! (M. E. B.)

Answer — For pamphlet on Foot Itch repeat your request and send stamped, self-addressed envelope. I don't know whether to bare a canine or all my teeth.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Convenient

After being deaf for many years an old man decided to buy an invisible hearing aid. A week or so later he took it back for a minor adjustment. He was asked how he liked it.

"Fine," he replied. "I can hear conversation perfectly now."

"Your relations must be pleased," commented the assistant.

"Oh, I haven't told them. I sit around just as I always did, only now I can hear what they say. I've changed my will three times already!"

Woodlot Pasturing Leads to Bad Loss for Farmer

WASHINGTON (INS)— The midwest soil improvement committee warns farmers they stand to suffer large financial losses if they put dairy and beef cattle out to pasture on woodlands.

The committee said such action leads to a double loss.

In the first place, it claimed the farmer will lose the amount of milk or beef he would have gotten had the cattle been on good pasture.

Secondly, the committee believes he will lose both in quantity and quality of timber that might have been produced on the woodland had their been no grazing damage.

It cites the case of a steer turned out on six acres of open woodland at Purdue University.

The animal actually lost weight between May and mid-August, while good pastures were producing 250 to 600 pounds of beef per acre.

The committee explains that farmers will be money ahead if they keep their cattle out of woodlots, and instead fertilize permanent pastures or renovate old ones to get the grass they need for high meat and milk production.

Meanwhile, Agriculture Department dairy specialists report there has been considerable change in the past few years in the winter feeding of dairy cows.

They say there has been a general shift in the U. S, from the use of corn silage to grass silage, with a tremendous increase in the use of grass silage.

According to the specialists, farmers can conserve feed values more efficiently and more certainly by making hay crops into grass silage.

This operation cuts down on the gamble with weather. Making crops into field-cured hay means taking a chance for 36 to 72 hours or more, while making the crop into silage means a gamble of only a few hours.

As a result of these changes, dairy farmers are feeding more and better forages to milking herds.

In addition, the Agricultur Department predicts even more grassland agriculture and more use of grass silage in the future.

Fewer Exports Blamed by U. S.

Government Trying to Keep Things Level With New Program Slated

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The year 1953 showed that the modern farmer, like his brother of the past, still has his financial ups and downs despite government efforts to hold things on an even keel.

Farmers produced abundantly, the total volume being close to the record set in 1952.

Yet farm prices declined nearly 8 per cent during the year. Farm income dropped 7 per cent.

The resulting reduction in farm buying power contributed directly to smaller purchases of farm machinery, equipment and other non-farm products.

Likewise, farm land values declined and farm debts increased.

These developments brought complaints from farmers and their leaders and predictions in some quarters that a new agricultural depression was just around the corner.

All this happened despite the fact that the government had broad farm price support programs in operation.

A major cause of the agricultural setback—which had its beginning in 1952—was a sharp reduction in exports of agricultural commodities. Foreign sales which reached a record peak directly after World War II, declined nearly 30 per cent.

As a consequence, supplies which otherwise would have moved overseas became surpluses that depressed prices. Most of these extra supplies were stored under government price support programs.

The farm situation was complicated also by a severe drought that plagued farmers in parts of the midwest, southwest, south and far west.

Because of poor pastures and feed grain crops, many farmers in these areas were forced to dump beef animals on the market. The result was a further depression of cattle prices.

The year also brought in a change of national administrations and a new secretary of agriculture.

Ezra Taft Benson, the new farm chief, started out by telling farmers that existing federal farm programs were not good enough to keep them prosperous. He also said the programs would eventually put producers under complete control of government.

Benson declared existing programs would eventually put programs, particularly price support measures, tended to price farm products out of foreign and domestic markets, create surpluses and bring on undesirable production controls.

Benson's ideas ran into bitter criticism from some farm leaders and congressmen, including some members of his own Republican party. Some of his critics demanded that he resign.

The basic point of controversy was the level of farm price supports. Benson said they were too high. He indicated favor for a flexible system under which supports would be high in times of shortages to encourage production and low in times of surpluses to discourage production.

With backing of President Eisenhower and with the help of an 18-member agricultural advisory commission of farm educators and leaders, Benson set to work drafting a new farm program for presentation to Congress early in 1954.

The U. S. uses about half the timber harvested in the world.

Milford Group Plays Host at Snow Party

MILFORD — One hundred fifty-three young people from the 83 churches in the Detroit Presbytery were guests of the Milford young people's group at a Senior-Hi 'Snow Party' Wednesday.

The group met at the Milford Presbyterian Church at 10 in the morning and proceeded to Kent Park where they skated, skied, and went tobogganing.

At noon the entire group assembled at the Milford Church where they had lunch.

After a short worship service, the group returned to the park and continued their outing.

This is the first time an affair such as this has been attempted, officials said, and was most successful.

3 Brothers Bring Honors to 4-H, FFA Organizations

By BURDETTE B. ASHLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

Three Future Farmers of America and 4-H Club members who are bringing credit to their organizations and honors and profits to themselves are the ambitious Brasington brothers of Montcalm County, William, Millard, and Loren.

They started 4-H work together in 1946 when their parents returned to farm life after six months in Detroit. That first year, on the farm near Edmore, William raised an acre of potatoes, Millard an acre of beans, and Loren raised pigs.

Each year they increased their activities, renting as much as 80 acres for their crop programs. In 1952 they grossed $8,700, which netted $4,000 before taxes; this year they expect to gross $8,000 with a $3,000 net.

In honors they have done as well. William, 19, a Michigan State College short course student was a letterman in track, football and basketball at Edmore High, won the State Junior Premier Potato Growers award, a trip to the 4-H Club congress in Chicago.

Millard, a 17-year-old senior at Edmore, is an FFA regional vice president, has twice been president of his class, is president of the Edmore Student Council and the county Junior Potato Growers Assn. He too, won letters in track, football and basketball.

Loren, who has quite a reputation to live up to, is a freshman at Edmore.

The partnership probably will be broken up this spring. William expects to go into the Armx.

The Old Newaygo Dairy Herd Improvement Assn. — it is the oldest cow testing group in the nation, having been founded in 1905—is just 16½ pounds away from its goal of an average of 400 pounds of butterfat per cow enrolled in the testing program.

Clare Musgrave, county farm agent, said that in the current test year the average was 383.5 pounds of fat for the 503 cows in 22 herds.

How far the Association has progressed is shown by a look at the records for the first year it was in existence. The butterfat average then for 239 cows on test was only 215 pounds.

The fact that Richard Purdy was herdsman in charge of the prize winning steer at the West Michigan Fat Stock show in Grand Rapids last month came as no surprise to beef cattle breeders. As a Purdy, he was only "doing what comes naturally."

In Michigan, and throughout the nation, there are few better known names among cattle experts. The Purdy name in connection with prize beef animals dates back to the late Grant Purdy of Harris, Mo., who got started with purebred shorthorns in 1889. He became one of the Midwest's best showman.

Richard's father, Neal, one of Grant Purdy's three sons, is head of the Michigan branch of the family. With Richard's two brothers, Wayne and Grant, Neal Purdy runs a 580 acre farm near Fowlerville.

Neal's brother, Earl, is manager of the famous EE ranch in Mississippi and is considered among the best polled hereford cattlemen in the country.

Earl's eldest son Herman Purdy, is widely known as Ohio State University's beef extension specialist.

In all, at least a dozen Purdys have made their mark in the beef cattle industry.

The Purdys, Michigan branch, also figure in a deal whereby Wally Cox, better known to TV fans as "Mr. Peepers" is going to become a hereford cattleman on the side.

Cox has a 300 acre farm near Dryden, Lapeer county, which he has named Birdfoot farm. He hadn't yet decided what kind of cattle to raise when Leo Leiter, Belding, hereford breeder and show exhibitor, heard about it.

Leiter, a veteran with herefords and secretary - treasurer of the Michigan hereford Assn, interested Cox in that breed and eventually was entrusted with purchasing the 20 purebred cows, 11 heifers and registered herd sire that will institute "Mr. Peepers" herd.

The stock came from the Fowlerville farm of Neal Purdy and Sons.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

by I. Lee Voorhees

J. L. VOORHEES

January first is only a date on a calendar or it can be a starting point to get all the things we want.

I watched a huge plane take-off. It had a destination. It might run into storms, be obliged to land prematurely, wait for clearing weather, then proceed to its destination and land like a feather. That plane could be like 1954.

M. L. SIPLE

We have plans. Let's take off in 1954, see our plans take shape, avoid the storms, or ride them through, go on to a glorious landing, where those nebulous plans become a reality in fact.

A Happy and Prosperous New Year to each and all of you is the wish of each and all of us. Happy Landing.

Youngsters' Recreation Is in Dakota Jail

By RELIGIOUS NEWS SERVICE

FAULKTON, S. D. — While churchmen and educators throughout the country ponder the problem of juvenile delinquency, this South Dakota community keeps its young people in jail.

But wait—the only kind of time the kids are serving is a good time, in the form of supervised recreation in a room in the jail building.

The enterprise is called the "Kids' Klink" and was organized by Sheriff Les Karas of Faulk County, who personally supervises the recreation center and reports excellent results.

"The best way to avoid trouble is to stop it before it starts," Sheriff Karas said. "The best way to do that is to keep youths occupied."

Employees of a San Diego, Calif., aircraft factory have built their own chapel. Land, plans and materials were donated by the factory's president.

Holy Land Tour Set for Spring

Luxury Ship to Leave New York March 23, Return April 21

By RELIGIOUS NEWS SERVICE

NEW YORK—The Christian Herald Association announced it will resume next spring the series of Holy Land tours conducted in pre-war days under the leadership of such men as Dr. Charles M. Sheldon and Francis E. Clark, founder of Christian Endeavor.

Carroll M. Wright, director of the Christian Herald Travel Bureau, said arrangements had been made to charter a completely air-conditioned ship with luxury accommodations for 250 passengers on a two-month tour of the Bible lands.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, editor of the Christian Herald, and Mrs. Poling will be the tour leaders, Mr. Wright said. They will be assisted by Dr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Jackman, photographers, lecturers and archeologists who have spent many years in the Holy Land.

The tour ship will leave New York City next March 23 and return here May 20 on an itinerary that will include stops in Italy, Greece, Egypt and North Africa.

The Bible Lands phase of the tour will begin at Beirut, Lebanon, on April 14 and conclude at Tiberias on April 21 with Easter Sunday being spent in Jerusalem.

Sermon Topics at 3 Churches Show Harmony

By RELIGIOUS NEWS SERVICE

ALBERT LEA, Minn. — Ministers of three local churches within a few blocks of each other posted these subjects for Sunday sermons, in this order:

"Where is He?"

"He Is Here."

"God Changes His Address."

The three ministers, who apparently chose their topics without consultation, are the Rev. Harold O. McNeil of First Baptist Church, the Rev. Melford S. Knutson of First Lutheran Church and the Rev. Lloyd A. Peterson of First Presbyterian Church.

Newspaper, Clergy Settle Libel Suits

By Religious News Service

LONDON — Libel suits brought against Associated Newspapers Ltd. by the Deans and Chapters of Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral were settled in court here with the clergymen accepting the defendant's apology and offer to pay costs of the actions.

The suits were based on an article printed last year in the Sunday Dispatch, one of the newspapers published by the defendant.

The article, written by Lieut. Gen. Sir Giffard Martel, had charged the Chapters of both Cathedrals with being "controlled by clergy who are either Communists or very 'pink.'" It appeared after St. Paul's had refused the General permission to stage an "anti-Communist pilgrimage" to the Cathedral.

Settlement of the suits followed a statement in court that members of both Chapters "are unanimous in their conviction that Communist doctrine is totally incompatible with Christianity" and that the only reason for opposing the proposed "pilgrimage" was that it "appeared to have a political character unsuitable to a Cathedral."

The Japanese call their country Nippon, or Nihon, which means "home of the sun."

Sunday Sermonette

THE PANTHEON

Walking along a New York street, an artist saw a friend of his, and as they stopped to chat he said to him, "I've just returned from the Pantheon."

"The Pantheon!" exclaimed the friend. "Do you mean you've been in Rome visiting the old temple dedicated to all the gods and goddesses of the ancient world?"

"Not exactly," the artist replied. "I've been in the subway, sketching the ancient divinities as they appear in the faces of their modern worshippers." Pulling out a sketch pad, he showed the results of his afternoon's work.

"That one," he said, "arrogant and brusque, is a worshipper of Mars, the god of war . . . This one, deceitful and crafty, is a sketch of Mercury, the god of trickery . . . That one, libidinous to the core, is Venus, the goddess of lust . . . And that, obviously drunk, is Bacchus, the ancient god of wine."

And so he went on, his quick and skillful sketches revealing in a striking way how men and women had become the sordid images of the old pagan divinities to which each had dedicated his life.

The fact is, as religion well knows, that we become the images of the gods we worship. And therefore religion says, "Beware of the gods you worship, for you will become like them; and false gods will betray you!"

Pope Blesses Flood Relief Provisions

ROME — Relief supplies for schools in the flood areas of Holland were blessed by Pope Pius XII in a ceremony at the Vatican Railway Station.

The supplies, a gift of the Pontifical Assistance Commission, were blessed by the Pope as they were loaded onto six freight cars for their journey to The Netherlands.

Among those participating in the ceremony was Msgr. Andrew P. Landi of Brooklyn, N. Y., director of the Italian Mission, War Relief Services—National Catholic Welfare Conference.

Moral Psychoanalysis Linked With Religion

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — Psychoanalysis that takes moral considerations into account can be beneficial for a Roman Catholic or anyone else, the Rev. John C. Ford, S. J. told the medical staff of St. Joseph Hospital here.

Father Ford, professor of moral and pastoral theology at Weston College and Boston College, Mass., emphasized the common ground between psychiatrists and religious teachers.

"Co-operation between priests and and psychiatrists is highly desirable," he said. "It is feasible when each has respect for the other's special competence and when each recognizes the validity of the other's field.

Jewish Aides Do Yule Chores

Assist Christian USO Volunteers by Taking Over Holiday Work

By RELIGIOUS NEWS SERVICE

NEW YORK — Jewish volunteer workers with the USO took over the chores and services of their Christian co-workers at the organization's clubs throughout the country on Christmas, the National Jewish Welfare Board reported here.

The board said the action is "in the traditional spirit of goodwill" and in the nature of a return for similar favors rendered by non-Jewish workers on Passover, Rosh Hoshanah and Yom Kippur.

In general, the Jewish volunteers manned snack bars, reception desks and checkrooms at USO clubs on Christmas.

At the Newark, N. J., USO club, they provided Christmas tree decorations and gifts for servicemen away from home. In Dothan, Ala., women of the Temple Emanu-El Sisterhood turned out with their husbands to help place GIs in the community's private homes for Christmas dinner, provide information service, make change for long-distance phone calls and do sundry other tasks.

At Mount Clemens, Mich., Jewish volunteers organized carol singing, and in Baltimore, Md., they operated the USO club from 7 a. m. until midnight.

Defense Posts Ban Bottled Liquor Sale

By Religious News Service

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Protests from church and temperance organizations were credited here with having played a large part in bringing about a reversal of the defense department's policy permitting the sale of liquor by the bottle at military posts.

The revised policy prohibits such sales at commissioned and noncommissioned officers' messes in the U. S., although sale by-the-drink is still permitted.

Last summer, the Air Force and Army issued regulations permitting, for the first time, sale of liquor by the drink or bottle at officers and "noncoms" clubs. The action, which brought the policy of these two services in line with the longstanding tradition at Navy shore station clubs, stirred immediate opposition from Congressmen and retail liquor interests as well as from church and temperance groups.

A Defense Department spokesman said the new policy was "prompted" by the numerous inquiries and comments it had received from members of Congress in response to the protests from opposition groups.

Greek Orthodox to Begin Traditional Rites Tuesday

Following closely on the beginning of the new year, Greek Orthodox churches have many traditional services.

On Tuesday morning, the Rev. Sortorios D. Gouvellis will have Divine Liturgy followed by the blessing of the water at 10 a.m. He will then leave the church followed by an altar boy who will carry the blessed water in a silver container.

Father Gouvellis will then go to the Greek homes in Pontiac, Birmingham, Drayton Plains and Port Huron to bless each Orthodox home. This will take about four days.

On WJR at 11:30 p.m. that day, Father Gouvellis will participate in the broadcasting of Epiphany services from the St. George Syrian Orthodox Church on Grand boulevard in Detroit.

The Metropolitan of the Syrian Orthodox Church from New York City, His Eminence Alexander, will be the celebrant and Father Gouvellis with a Syrian, Russian, Ukranian and Romanian priest will celebrate the liturgy and Epiphany in many languages.

Churches, Synagogues Cooperate for Pageant

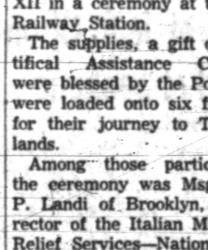

By RELIGIOUS NEWS SERVICE

HOLLYWOOD, Fla.—The third annual presentation of this community's joint Hannukah-Christmas pageant was held here under auspices of the Hollywood Department of Recreation.

All of the 18 synagogues and churches in the Hollywood-Dania-Hallandale area cooperated in producing the pageant which utilized a cast of 300 local residents, carefully chosen over a seven-month period.

The pageant was in two sections, the first or Old Testament portion depicting the struggle of the Maccabees to lead the Jews out of their Syrian captivity and culminating in the Festival of Lights at the rededication of the Temple. The New Testament portion portrayed the traditional story of the Nativity.

For the second straight year, Nancy Slater, an 18-year-old high school senior, played the role of the Madonna.

U. S. Methodists Total 9,151,524

Membership Decrease of 28,904 Results From New Ruling

By RELIGIOUS NEWS SERVICE

CHICAGO — Membership of The Methodist Church in the United States and possessions now totals 9,151,524, according to figures for 1953 released by the Rev. Albert C. Hoover, director of the denomination's statistical office here.

He said this represents a drop of 28,904 from the 1952 membership of 9,180,428, reflecting a ruling of the 1952 General Conference that inactive members no longer were to be listed.

Last year's total included 1,624,466 inactives, Mr. Hoover said. He credited intensive, successful evangelistic campaigns with compensating for most of the loss of inactive members pruned from the church rolls.

This year's 9,151,524 total includes 25,907 ministers, but not 968,981 preparatory members—baptized children and others not received into full membership.

A total of 406,153 baptisms in 1953 were reported, an increase of 18,245 over the previous year.

Church-school membership increased 152,434—from 6,141,284 in 1952 to 6,293,718 in 1953. Average attendance at church schools was 3,192,382, a gain of 93,137.

Membership in the Woman's Society of Christian Service rose from 1,694,898 to 1,719,986 and their contribution to local church work increased nearly a million dollars. The women gave a total of $24,871,100 to support local churches and a world-wide missionary program.

Chartered groups of Methodist Men were listed for the first time, with membership totaling 367,356 in 6,096 groups.

The value of church property was given as $1,857,497,972, with a debt of $82,318,462.

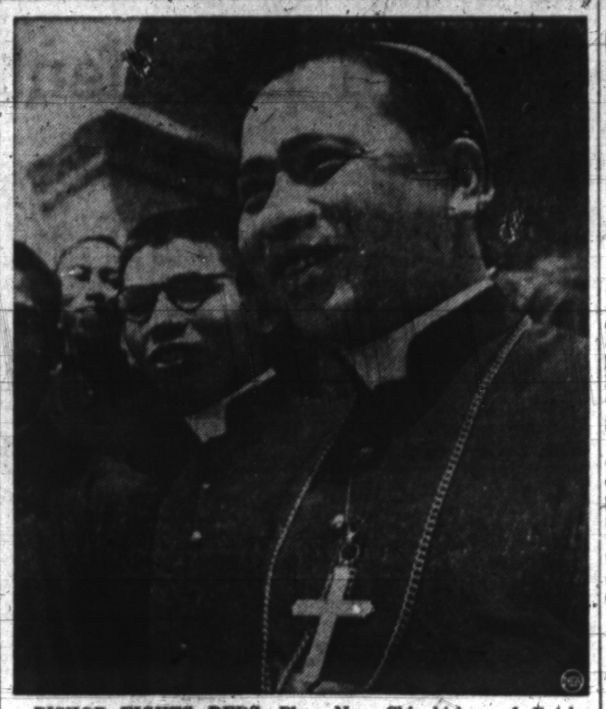

The report said current expenses amounted to $76,823,591, of which $11,739,954 went for church school administration, lesson materials and supplies. The grand total paid for all purposes was $314,521,212—an increase of nearly 25 million dollars over the 1952 figure.

England-Wales Catholic Membership Increases

LONDON — Roman Catholic Church membership in England and Wales increased 60,100 during the past year to bring the total to 2,939,900, according to estimates in the Catholic Directory for 1954.

There are now 2,909 Catholic Churches, 14 more than a year ago. Private chapels increased by ten to reach a total of 928. Some 12 new convents were opened during the year, making a total of 1,113.

Adult conversions for the year totaled 11,532, a gain of 172 over last year's figures. Baptisms, marriages, secular priests, priests in religious orders and seminary students all showed increases over the previous figures.

BISHOP FIGHTS REDS—Pham-Ngoe-Chi, bishop of Buichu, stands with some of his priests who led anti-Red campaigns in North Indo-China.

Confident Living

Try Bombarding Enemies With Good Will Prayers

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Not long ago, I was staying at a hotel in a large city. I came down to the dining room for breakfast one morning and, when the waiter came to take my order, I prefaced it by telling him, "I'm on a diet. I want to take off a few pounds."

"That's too bad," he said.

DR. PEALE

"You can bring me a glass of orange juice to start with," I ordered. "Then I want a small, thin piece of dry toast, no butter, and a cup of coffee. No cream. No sugar."

For some reason or other it always seems humiliating to give so spare an order, and this waiter made no secret of his disgust. He looked at me, grinned and went away, and he came back with a huge glass of orange juice, two eggs, bacon and even fried potatoes, along with a couple of sweet rolls.

"I didn't order that," I complained.

"I know you didn't," he answered, "but I brought it to you anyway."

"Why did you do that? I'm trying to reduce."

"Because you need strength," he told me, "you need vitality. You have a job to do. And I like you."

"Well, I like you too," I replied, "but why are you taking such good care of my health?"

"Do you remember," he asked, "a speech you made at a convention dinner in this hotel about eight months ago?"

I remembered.

"That night," he went on, "I was waiting table at the dinner. You talked about bombarding people with prayers. You said that if there was anybody you weren't getting along with, it would help to 'shoot' prayers at them.

I'd never heard about shooting prayers at people; I'd always directed mine only to God. At first, it seemed a queer idea to me, but I kept thinking about it, became interested and finally tried your suggestion.

"You see," he went on, "I have a brother. He was the meanest man you could ever meet and we'd fought for years. Then I started bombarding him with those prayers you told about. And what do you know? We get along pretty good now. That plan worked."

As he talked, I was so interested I forgot about my diet and ate every bit of that enormous breakfast. This pleased him and when I rose to go he gave my hand a hearty shake and said, "Brother, it works."

And it does work. Surround with prayers the people you don't seem to get along with and you'll notice a difference. Send out prayers of good will, prayers of generosity and friendship.

The first difference you'll notice will be in yourself. Doing this kind of praying makes you more extroverted, and people like extroverts. They become conscious that you love people and are trying to help them and believe in them.

As you pray for people, you can almost watch yourself flow out. And, as you flow out, others will flow in toward you in friendliness. Life comes to you instead of flowing away from you.

Of course, you have to give up hate. And negative attitudes can cancel out your prayers. You will have to try to fill your heart with love, then concentrate in a positive attitude of good will on the person at whom you're shooting the prayers.

Then, as the Psalms advise, "Leave it all quietly to God," and you will find the friendly spirit which you send out coming right back to you. Through the practice of this technique you'll have no trouble getting along with people.

Urge Churches Aid Spanish Americans

BUCK HILL FALLS, Pa. — Resolutions calling upon churches to aid the nation's 5,000,000 Spanish-speaking Americans were adopted here by the annual assembly of the National Council of Churches Division of Home Missions.

The resolutions urged local churches and church groups to sponsor programs which would help assure job opportunities, housing, welfare services and legal rights for Puerto Ricans, Americans of Mexican origin, and other Spanish-speaking Americans.

The delegates commended the National Council's General Board for its statement favoring unsegregated housing for minority groups and urged that the board's proposals be implemented. They also commended those localities where non-segregated housing has already been made available.

DETROIT—The Detroit Council of Churches has created the post of family life secretary, the first local church council to do so. The Rev. Donald F. Schraeder of Flint will be the executive. He will begin his duties next Feb. 1.

Mr. Schroeder's task will be to expand the council's marriage clinic operation to reach 100 engaged couples a month. He also will serve as consultant to denominational boards interested in extending their marriage, parent, and child development education in local churches.

In addition, he will inaugurate pastoral group field discussions on counseling and referral practice and arrange for graduate courses, especially designed for pastors, at Wayne University and the Merrill Palmer School, both located in Detroit.

Mr. Schroeder has been a teacher-counselor for the Clara Elizabeth Fund for Maternal Health at Flint since 1947. Previously, he served for 12 years as a Presbyterian minister including four years in Brazil for the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions.

The Rev. Sheldon Rahn, director of the council's social service department to which the family life committee is administratively related, said the council believes that family and marriage education is a major responsibility of the churches.

Congregationalists Plan Dinner on Wednesday

Parish dinner for the First Congregational Church will be Wednesday at 6:30 p.m.

Arnold and Anton Simson will furnish special music and the Rev. Malcolm K. Burton, pastor, will speak on "Free Church Polity" and the "Merger Question."

REV. C. E. SHUMAKE

Parkdale Nazarene to Hold Convention

Guest speaker at a New Year's convention sponsored by the Parkdale Church of the Nazarene will be the Rev. C. E. Shumake of Birmingham, Ala.

The Rev. Mr. Shumake, a native of Missouri, has served as district superintendent of the Church of the Nazarene for the last eight years. The services will start Sunday at 10:45 a.m. and continue each evening at 7:30 through Jan. 10.

Accompanying the Rev. Mr. Shumake will be Don and Frances Bowman of Covington, Ky., who will have charge of the special music and singing. The church is located at Parkdale and Hollywood. The Rev. Wayne E. Welton is the pastor.

War Experience Led Soldier to Ministry

FOSTERS, Mich. — A spiritual experience on a battlefield in Korea was the basis for a decision to enter the ministry, Eugene L. Inman, who spent three years as a prisoner of the Communists, said here.

The 22-year-old former soldier, who was repatriated recently, said he and his wife, Rosemary, will leave shortly for Kankakee, Ill., where he will begin a four-year year pre-seminary course at Olivet Nazarene College. Upon completion of his studies there, he hopes to go to Kansas City, Mo., for three more years at the Church of the Nazarene Seminary there.

The incident leading to this decision, Mr. Inman said, occurred on Nov. 30, 1950, when he and some 230 other soldiers were ambushed and only he survived.

"When I saw we were surrounded," he said, "I got down on my knees and prayed because I was afraid. Suddenly I felt something like a hand on my shoulder and I wasn't afraid any more."

Two Dallas, Texas, policemen recently entered the ministry.

Wife Objects to Sharing Valuable Gift

Neighbor Wants to Use New Sewing Machine

By EMILY POST

A reader tells me: "My husband bought me an electric console sewing machine for Christmas. I have always wanted one and am very happy with it."

"When I showed it to my neighbor she suggested that we make clothes together on my machine. I don't like the idea at all. It is not that I am selfish, but my husband bought this at a great personal sacrifice and I don't want anything to happen to it.

"She is not an experienced sewer and might very easily put it out of commission. Will you please tell me how I can explain this to her without losing her friendship?"

Answer: Tell her very plainly that John does not want anyone else but you to use the machine, that it took him quite a long time to save up for it and he's very fussy about it.

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I have just received an invitation to the wedding of a distant relative. The invitations, of course, are in names of the bride's parents, who are complete strangers to us.

I would like very much to go to this wedding but my husband will be away at the time and will be unable to go with me. Would it be proper to have my daughter go in his place?

Answer: Taking it for granted that your daughter is grown, it would be quite all right for her to go in your husband's place, but not if she is a young child.

Dear Mrs. Post: Someone told me that it was wrong to answer, "Fine, thank you" when asked, "How are you?"—and that the proper answer is "very well, thank you." To me this sounds very stilted and "Fine, thank you" seems much more natural to say. What is your opinion?

Answer: "Very well, thank you" may seem stilted to you but, nevertheless, it is correct. I'm sorry, but "Fine" is definitely incorrect.

This four-piece outfit distinguishes itself for many occasions and uses, from travel to career to lounging at home. It consists of a cardigan, blouse, tapered pants and skirt.

Menagerie for Ankles: That's News

NEW YORK INS)—People don't create much stir these days if they have hearts on their sleeves, bells on their toes or bats in their belfries—but animals on their ankles?

That's news.

The fashion world just previewed the latest gimmick in anklewear: Miniature animals, from lowly skunk to hoity-toity poodle, to be pinned to the cuffs of bobby socks.

The little beasties, about 2 inches in diameter, are made of fluffy chenille wrapped around wire frame and set onto pins.

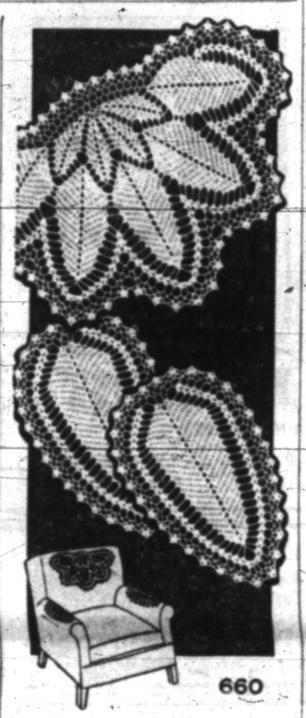

Since they are put out by Alex Lee Wallau, Inc., which makes socks under the trade name of "Bonnie Doon," the small whimsies are called "Doonies" — though "Loonies" would perhaps be more apt.

According to Edward A. Caffrey, spokesman for the firm, the skunks, bears, pandas, puppies and kittens, which sell for 50 cents each, can be used as lapel trimmings too. "But," says the sock salesman, "they look more at home on anklets."

They come in all colors from look-like shades to hues that would make bears and pandas the laughing stock of their communities. Particularly recommended by Caffrey, for instance: The green bear and the royal blue poodle with red ears.

Work in Such Organizations Develops Poise and Helps Improve Our World

By ANNE HEYWOOD

If like most women, one of your New Year's resolutions was to do more volunteer work, I have an excellent suggestion. It came from Miss G. E. B. in Glens Falls, N. Y.

Miss G. E. B. is tremendously enthusiastic about the League of Women Voters, and points out that work with the league not only helps promote improvements in our world, but also gives one the feeling of being up-to-date, well informed and an active participant in the city, state and national political scene.

So many times, we women are informed by husbands, sons, brothers or beaux that, "Well, you have the vote, but you're not doing so much with it; things aren't a whole lot better than they were before you had the vote."

Volunteer work with the League of Women Voters will help scotch comments of that kind.

Moreover, like most enlightened organizations, the league offers a variety of jobs, so that whether your own ability is with people or with figures, or along organizing lines, you can find the right kind of use for your talents.

It is non-partisan, so you will be welcomed whatever your political party.

One young housewife I know does volunteer work for the league, digging up facts about some proposed project and leading discussion groups.

She is getting excellent experience and training which will give her that poise, that authoritative air, which will be very handy indeed if, in the years ahead, she ever needs to enter business.

But whatever organization you choose, and however many hours of work you volunteer, be very firm with yourself on one point: Do only the kind of work which is up your alley.

If you are the social type, don't let yourself be assigned to filing, typing or research. If you are the factual type, don't ring doorbells or lead groups.

If you do, in a triumph of helpfulness over common sense, take the wrong kind of task, you will distort your own talents, be nerve-racking to work with, and do the organization no good in the long run.

'Back-Talk' Styles Stay in Spotlight for Springtime

The "back-talk" furor that swept the fashion business last fall continues to be part of the hot and up-to-the-minute news for spring.

Herbert Sondheim's easy-to-wear, easy-to-sew, easy-going dress is a perfect example of kind of repartee that can make you a center of attraction.

Sondheim made it first in a jersey, a fabric that gives easy grace to the back-fullness in the skirt (there's a back stay to hold the folds in place). The stand-out pockets (they're interfaced to keep them standing out) do the trick of making waists look smaller.

Crepe is equally good material for this model as are shantung, faille or peau de soie.

Bust	Waist	Hips	Sizes

'54 Home Materials to Suit Family Tastes

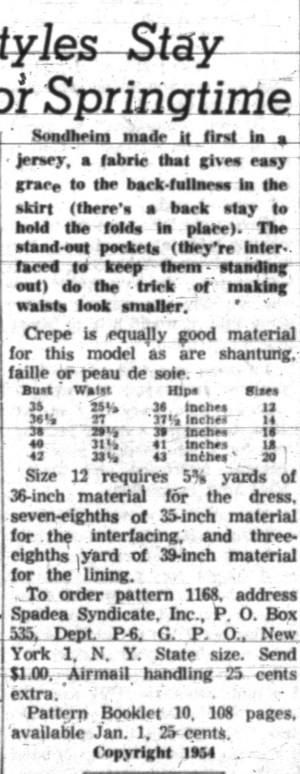

Home decoration will be a family affair in 1954, according to Martha Beha, decorating consultant. New printed, plain, sheer and woven materials are all designed to suit American home family tastes, from the youngest to the oldest member.

Contemporary linear and geometric prints and abstractions are so designed as to be usable with the more conventional traditional and provincial patterns. Thus, an entire home, from room to room can be made a pleasant mixture of high fashion contemporary and time tested taste.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

IF you like bows—

Well placed to highlight your face, your bosom, your beautiful back. Big bows for large people, little ones for small people.

Mrs. L. B.—The bow always adds a little more femininity and flattery. There is no one "spot" for the bow. It should be placed to call attention to your best feature or your best figure line.

Love Isn't Any Reason for Suffering

Romance Ought to Be All Smiles and Laughter

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

Love has the strangest effect on some girls. Suddenly a boy becomes magic—and she dissolves: Her tummy turns turtle, her heart leaps out of beat, her knees clack like castanets, and her wits go out the window. Love violently upsets her equilibrium.

Too bad it should make so many girls so sick. Love is dazzle and sparkle, stepped-up steam and quickened pulse. It is gentle smiles and rippling laughter. It is warmth and sheer delight.

But to some girls it is sheer torture. Uncertainty can make it that way — self-consciousness and doubt can douse the twinkle.

It's fun to love. It's silly to suffer over it like this girl is doing. She writes:

"Dear Miss Woodward: My boy friend and I are both 15, and we're among the top in our respective schools. He goes away to school — and that's the cause of my miseries.

"I couldn't quit school for anything for it means too much to my family and me, but I am so in love with him and I miss him so much that I must be with him!

"Should I quit school and go to him, or continue as I am, losing weight and not being able to study because my mind wanders from my books to thoughts of the two of us being together. What can I possibly do?"

You've gone completely overboard — it's time you got yourself back in the boat! Liking a boy when you're 15 is the icing on the cake. It's an ornamental, decorative, interesting accessory to the main plot. It's not the whole of life as you're letting it be.

You're living on a dream. So, small wonder you're losing weight! It's a dream that you could quit school now when you've so much learning ahead of you. A dream that you could join him. What would you both do when you got there? He has to go to school; he can't quit just like that, get a job and start supporting you.

So what can you possibly do? Cogitate on the words "self-discipline." Organize your scattered wits and put your A-type mind to work making yourself toe the line.

Pull your wool-gathering thoughts back to the job at hand, rudely and ruthlessly. Ration yourself just enough time in one day to write to him — and spend the rest on activities that will use all of your energy, your concentration and your imagination.

You can cure yourself of the miseries by changing your diet. Treat yourself to hard laughter with your friends. Get your hands really dirty at some worthwhile job.

Lavish your imagination on things artistic — the class play, your music lessons, your art course, even your family's menus. Fill your days to the brim with stuff and nonsense — then you won't have time nor strength for baying at the moon!

You'd think it mighty silly of an old hound dog to keep barking up a tree from which the coon had long since fled. Yet how many of you make yourselves miserable hankering after a boy who doesn't give a hoot for you.

Why, it isn't even realistic. But listen to what this girl has to say.

"Dear Miss Woodward: I have liked him for two solid years. At first it didn't matter that he didn't like me — but at this point I'm unbearable — it's absolutely impossible to get along with me! I dream about him all the time.

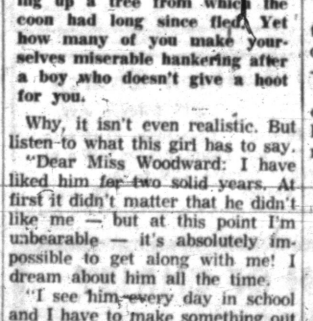

"I see him every day in school and I have to make something out of every little thing he says to me. Which isn't much 'cause he hardly ever speaks to me. I don't want to like him so much, but I can't stop!"

You can so — yes indeedy you can. A girl has to look out for her own tender feelings. And what earthly good has this wild pash of yours ever done you?

Well, unsell yourself on him — that's what you'd better do. Take off those rose-colored specs and list all his faults.

You can find a flock of flaws if you look for them — then you can convince yourself they're frightfully important. Enough to put you off him for life.

From then on you won't notice him in class. You won't follow him around. You won't be so everlastingly aware of him. He'll be easier to forget!

A girl needn't worry about going out with a perfect stranger—none of them are perfect.

New! Slim silhouette accented with your favorite detail—scallops! See how they form a yoke on the bodice, curve the pockets in the skirt. A 12-month dress—make it in faille now, cotton later. A step-in with stand-up collar, short or three-quarter sleeves.

Pattern 4517: Misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20. Size 16 takes 3⅝ yards 39-inch fabric.

This pattern easy to use, simple to sew, is tested for fit. Has complete illustrated instructions.

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

"Jane just won't let you do anything for her," a woman recently remarked about a friend. No doubt Jane is intent on always more than repaying every thing that is done for her. So she doesn't realize her friends would occasionally like to do something for her without being repaid promptly and in full measure.

The nicest thing we can do for others sometimes is just to let them do something for us.

Black Towels Aren't Dirty, but Fashionable

URBANA, Ill., (INS) — Black towels in the bathrooms these days don't mean slovenly housekeeping —they're highfashion items.

Black towels and other dark color towels are gaining in popularity with homemakers, but they need special care in laundering.

To produce deep-toned towels, an unusual amount of dye is required. Because dark towels sometimes color the wash water, they should be washed separately.

In washing, use warm water—about 120 degrees F.—and a mild soap or synthetic detergent.

Terry towels may be dried in the automatic washer or hung outside. Select a shady spot for outside drying, and give the wet towels a shake to fluff up the pile. Hang about a third of the towel over the line so that the hems won't pull out of shape.

When the towels are dry, shake and fold them, but never iron them. Ironing flattens the loops and lessens the absorbancy of the towel.

If the laundry washes your towels specify that they be fluff dried or tumble dried.

Accentuate the Feminine With a Touch of Perfume

This season, you feel particularly womanly in your clothes, for fashion has an elegance combined with simplicity. There is new emphasis on the bosom, on the natural soft lines of the feminine figure.

Accent this feminine picture with that most personal of all accessories—perfume. Notice how the fragrance lifts your spirits, how it brings to you a feeling of being attractive, an assurance that you are at your best. It takes but a few seconds to apply perfume yet its effect is enjoyed for hours.

Away with old-fashioned thinking which doubts the taste of perfume in the daytime. Every smart woman knows that she is completely dressed only when a subtle fragrance surrounds her.

Good taste calls for the right type of scent for the various occasions in a woman's life . . . and for the correct use of that scent: Just enough to be noticed, stategically placed on the skin to form a subtle aura.

Just as you wear your makeup with discrimination, so too should your fragrance be worn. There is no great mystery about how to use perfume. Think of it in relation to your make-up which you use to emphasize your loveliness yet keep from being obvious.

In the same way, the right perfume accents your femininity, gives you an inner sense of security in your own attractive charm.

For daytime wear, select a scent which is fresh, clear, crisp. It may be a light floral bouquet or a gay spicy scent or one of the modern blends with a special sparkle to add chic to the impression you make on others. The one that gives you a feeling of daytime freshness and beauty is the one for you.

Then put it on your pulse spots: inside wrists, inside the crook of your arm, along your throat. Some women like to touch perfume along the hairline to give themselves a sense of being surrounded in the perfume's loveliness. Others saturate a tiny piece of cotton and put it in the bra . . . since scent rises, the wearer enjoys the fragrance for may hours to come.

For afternoon dress-up occasions, more obvious scents are in good taste—just as your clothes are more obviously feminine.

You might like a insinuating, definitely powerful single flower perfume or you may prefer a provocative fragrance which has sultry undertones yet an airy topnote.

At-home clothes become more important every season . . . and this year there is a wide selection in the types of costumes to wear, from the high-fashion slim pants and skirt with the jersey blouse. Give added enjoyment to your home hours by wearing perfume which emphasizes your mood. It may be a scent which is light, gay and fresh or one which is exciting and insistent.

Take advantage of the gift of smell which has been given to you. Just as you derive pleasure from seeing a beautiful picture so too, you gain a lift from smelling a pleasing fragrance.

Any Garb Looks Partyish if It's Worn With Elegance

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS)—When it comes to choosing holiday go-to-party dresses this year, it's like the philosophic old Tin Pan Alley boys said — "Ain't what you do, it's the way how you do it."

Revised in smart fashion lingo, this should read — "it is not what you wear, it is the manner in which you wear it."

Actually there are no occasions this year which will be too formal for the short evening gown. But if your accessories and ankles are not right, it is a terrible selection.

And there are very few evening parties to which a woman cannot wear simple black wool dresses with proper accents. But if she does not wear them with a flair and an uptilted chin, she will look like she's dressed for the office instead of the gala.

The Emily Posts of fashion have generally agreed on this one solid point; With the exception of perhaps state banquets for royalty, any smartly cut, short or low, high-necked or low-necked, bare or covered frock will do . . if it's worn with elegance.

In spite of the fact, however, that the short formal has wider acceptance than ever before in fashion history, women are turning more and more to the floor-length gown this winter.

The newest look (really stolen from Godey's Ladies' Book, of course) is the regal floor-length gown with flowing fullness in the back and a slim, often wrapped, front. Straight from Maxim's at the turn of the century.

With the high-fashion drop in skirt lengths, a woman also drops the decollete, cutting the neckline to the lowest uncensorable level.

The bouffant, full-all-around look is not as popular this year as last. The sheath is becoming more exotic both in short and long lengths.

And to compensate for its slimness, to allow room for graceful dancing, the many folds at the rear become the smartest look of the season.

Heavy silks and satins, deeply draped, are the most elegant of the new styles — replacing in high-priced collections the sparkle of many jewels which were all the ritzy rage last Christmas season.

But there will still be plenty of pearls and sequins and jets for women who feel they want glitter; and fringe trims or feathers for women who do not feel content with the uncluttered grandeur of a beautiful fabric.

U of M Choral Groups to Sing at Cranbrook

The Michigan Singers, a choral unit of more than 50 selected voices from the University of Michigan, will be presented in concert by the Cranbrook Music Guild at Cranbrook Auditorium Jan. 10 at 4 p. m. in a program of classical and semi-classical music.

Similar in nature to the Robert Shaw Chorale, the singers are under the leadership of Maynard J. Klein, associate professor of choral music and director of the university choirs at the University of Michigan.

The Michigan Singers have been describe by Mr. Klein as a group organized six years ago "to fill the need of having a highly trained virtuoso choir capable of doing the most taxing choral literature."

A majority of the singers are graduate students with much training. The principal soloists are from the school of music.

Ticket information may be secured by contacting Mrs. William Graham of Birmingham. Tickets may also be purchased at the door.

Mrs. Charles Klingensmith is in charge of ticket takers and Mrs. John H. Abbott is promotion chairman for the event.

It's a good idea to begin planning early for landscape needs. In this way, you will avoid the last-minute rush for supplies which so often causes delays and a shorter planting season.

Mac Rae Happy Over Release From Warners

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Big-voiced Gordon MacRae is buzzing with plans now that he's free from his Warner contract.

The talented Scotsman was a fixture in Warners' musicals, largely with Doris Day. Since leaving the studio, he is more earnest than ever to succeed.

"In a way, my experience at the studio was a disappointment," he explained. "It was the only time in my career I had a half-way failure. I dont mean I was a flop. Warners built me into a name, and my pictures made a lot of money for them. But they were primarily concerned with only one musical star and that was Doris Day.

* * *

"I'm glad I got my release. I was in a rut. How long could I go on playing the college boy with the tight collars?"

Right now his primary ambition is to win the Curly role in the film version of "Oklahoma!" He is letting his hair grow in preparation for a test.

Included in his activities are replacing Jackie Gleason on TV for two weeks and continuing his popular Railroad Hour on radio.

"I also hope to have a really smash record some day," he remarked. "I've had some good sellers, but no big hits. I've often tried to figure out why. I don't mean this to sound conceited, but the only reason I could find is that maybe my voice is too good. It's a big voice, not the kind you expect to hear on a pop record."

Alfred Hitchcock was discussing his next picture, "Catch a Thief," a Raffles tale that will star Cary Grant. Based partly on fact, the story tells of a jewel thief who is imprisoned in France before the war. When the Nazis invaded, many prisoners escaped and joined the French underground. Our hero was among them.

After the war he retired to the Riviera to live off his loot. A jewel thief, using similar methods, starts operating in the area. The hero has to catch him in order to clear himself of suspicion.

The censorship code dictates that criminals must suffer for their crimes. But Hitchcock proposes to show Grant living nicely because of his previous thievery. I asked how he would manage this.

"These men have been pardoned," he replied. "If they're good enough for the French government, they should be good enough for the Breen office."

Honeymoon Bridge Game Takes Interesting Form

By OSWALD JACOBY

We've been describing various kinds of honeymoon bridge for the last few weeks, and this time we will discuss one of the very interesting forms of the game that isn't very widely known.

Like all games of honeymoon bridge, it is for two players.

Deal out four hands of 13 cards each, just as in the normal game of bridge. Two of these belong to you, and the other two belong to your opponent.

Pick up one of your hands, sort it, and discard any card face down.

Replenish your hand by picking up the top card of your other hand. Discard another card, replenish your hand again, and continue this process until you have used up the 13 cards of your other hand.

In the meantime your opponent is going through the same motions. Each of you finishes with a hand of 13 cards and a discard pile of 13 cards.

Push the two discard piles aside and get ready for the bidding and the play.

If you have a good memory, you will remember your 13 discards. By looking at your own hand and remembering your discards you can tell what 26 cards were dealt to your opponent. What you don't know, however, is how your opponent discarded. Hence you must guess at what your opponent has in his final hand of 13 cards.

The discarding for each of you is partly skill and partly luck. Naturally you try to keep high cards and a long suit of some kind. You tend to discard odd low cards in your shorter suits.

But if you keep getting similar cards back as fast as you discard them you may discover at the end that you have only two or three cards left in a suit of which you had nine cards to begin with in the 26 cards of your two hands.

Don't get too discouraged when you make a hash of your discarding. Your opponent is probably spoiling his hand in the same way.

The chances are that neither one of you has made the most effective use of your original 26 cards.

When the discarding process has ended, each of you bids. The dealer bids first, and then the other player. The bidding ends when one player's bid is passed by his opponent (or when both players begin by passing).

The nondealer leads, and this may have a very important effect on the play and on the final contract.

You can afford to bid no-trump if you will make the first lead when you have a long, solid suit, but you can't afford to bid no-trump if your opponent will be in the favorable position of leading a good suit.

Two Blind Sisters Rescued in Blaze

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—An elderly blind widow and her sister, almost blind, were rescued from their flaming frame home yesterday by neighbors attracted by their pitiful cries for help.

Mrs. Maggie Dellar Holt, 70, and her blind sister, Mrs. Rodie Emma Simpson, 76, were led from the blazing structure. Mrs. Holt couldn't see well enough to find the door. The women, both old age pensioners, received only minor burns. All their possessions were destroyed.

Enthusiastic Words From a Theater Manager's Wife Concerning—"LITTLE BOY LOST"

Usually my husband writes these ads . . . but today it's the little woman's chance to get into the act!

Yesterday (Friday) I attended the Oakland Theatre to see BING CROSBY'S latest, "LITTLE BOY LOST," which is one of the most heart-touching movies ever made.

I was very much surprised and delighted at the excellent dramatic performance given by Bing and more than thrilled by the search for Christian Fourcade, The Little Boy, after his mother's disappearance during World War II.

"LITTLE BOY LOST" is one of those rare motion pictures that come along once in a while . . . take my word for it ladies, you won't see a more poignant movie in a long time . . . it's excellent family entertainment!

P. S. I know your husbands will be enthusiastic about "LITTLE BOY LOST!"

BERGS BUILD BRICK, SHINGLE CONTEMPORARY—Located at 1030 James K Blvd., Pontiac, the Oscar Bergs selected a contemporary style for their new home with the unusual feature of a two-story living room. Exterior is of Roman brick with Indian red cedar shakes for the upper portion. Traffic lanes are devised so that four outdoor entrances make areas of the home accessible without going through the entire house. A long rectangular house, it utilizes the corner lot to best advantage by having the two-car garage entrance from the narrow side. Bruce Kinzler Construction Co. built the house which was designed by E. P. Eroh, architect, of Pontiac.

Pontiac Press Photos

PINK AND GRAY DINETTE, KITCHEN—Soft pastel hues of pink and gray used with hand rubbed birch woods give the Berg combination kitchen-dinette lovely decor. Pass-through counters and cupboards are convenient features of these combined rooms and floors are in the same colored tile. Furnishings with wrought iron for legs, carry out the pink and gray in plastic fabrics and formica topped table. Pink mesh cafe curtains are hung at the ceiling-to-floor window and the pull-down light fixture is a huge Japanese lantern covered in translucent parchment. Picture (at right) shows the room separator designed to serve as a divider between the entrance foyer and the living room. It is louvered in birch wood and its base is a brick planter. The Bergs' young daughter, Barbara, takes over the plant watering job to keep the many different types of green plants in luxuriant foliage.

RAISED HEARTH FEATURES PLANTER, SITTING SPACE—One entire wall of the Bergs' two-story living room is devoted to the fireplace, its mantel and long raised hearth. A planter, located at one end of the raised hearth, adds further color note to the brick structure. Color scheme for this high-ceilinged room is in elephant gray, white and soft gold. The ceiling is a slightly sloped beamed design and carpeting for this room is sculptured gray-green. The one picture on this wall is a Japanese print framed in wide wrought iron mesh. Other accessory pieces in the room are in wrought iron.

Your Neighbor's House

All-Purpose Home Serves Active Family

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

A two-story living room in a one-story contemporary home design presents an interesting variation in exterior lines to the new Oscar Berg home at 1030 James K Blvd.

Planned for the living needs and pleasures of four youngsters, the Berg home offers the ultimate in an all-purpose family house.

Exterior of the long rectangular house is of Roman brick with upper portion in Indian red cedar shakes. It is built on a corner lot so that the two-car garage is accessible from the narrow end of the property.

The living room, with its overhead clerestory windows, has a sloped beamed ceiling. Colors of this unusual room are elephant gray, white and soft gold.

One wall features a raised hearth fireplace and this offers "sitting" space, and contains a long built-in planter.

On this wall for decor is a large Japanese print framed in wide wrought iron mesh.

Sculptured gray-green carpeting covers the floor and the row-over-row of windows are framed in French silk gauze draperies whose white background has overall lines in silver and gold.

In the dining area of this room, the ceiling drops down to one story. This end has a twin-built in china cabinet and chest unit.

Adjacent to the living room is an entrance foyer that serves the bedroom area, the activity room and the living room. Floor of this is in beige and brown hues of flagstone.

The combination kitchen and dinette is a study in pink, gray and hand rubbed birch woods.

One of the favorite facilities of this area is the built-in brick grill.

"The youngsters love to help cook their suppers with this grill. Meats are delicious prepared on this grill," pointed out Mrs. Berg.

The kitchen area has birch cupboards with pink and gray floor tile and the same shades in a minute designed wallpaper. Pink mesh is used for the three tiers of cafe curtains on the ceiling to floor windows. A pass-through space has been provided from the kitchen to the dinette and cupboards have the same feature.

Actually a full length room including kitchen, dinette area and activity room, a folding door in soft green can be employed to separate the latter two rooms.

A central heating system is concealed with sliding birch doors in the dinette. This has a full-sized and small-sized furnace. Cold weather demands the use of the two as one unit and cool seasons the small furnace furnishes heat for the entire house.

Bedroom wing has a master bedroom, a girl's room and a large boys' room. Tangerine and azure are the colors for the master bedroom with blue and white for the girl's and natural beige for the boys'.

Master bathroom is tiled in sandstone and brown colors. It features a separate dressing room, with the tub and shower enclosed with frosted glass doors.

Another bathroom is located in the utility wing of the house which is done in green.

Traffic lanes have been well planned in this house making it possible to reach all areas without crossing through the living room.

Architect for the Berg home was E. P. Eroh of Pontiac and contractor was Bruce Kinzler Construction Company.

KITCHEN GRILL—The Bergs do not have to wait for warm weather to have grilled picnic suppers. They have a built-in brick grill in their kitchen, which, says Mrs. Berg, is so popular with the children they want to cook their suppers on it all the time. Meat flavor is improved, she maintains, when it is cooked by this method.

To Pay Tribute to Ben Franklin

Noted Patriot Brought 1st Bathtub to America, Plumbers Recall

Plumbers will join with printers on Jan. 17 to pay tribute to Benjamin Franklin on his 247th birthday. It was Old Ben who brought the first bathtub to America.

That was in 1791. Franklin got the idea from the French whose customs, language, and science he studied diligently in the course of several visits abroad. It was on his last voyage that he brought back with him to Philadelphia a hammered copper bathtub shaped like a slipper.

The "slipper" bathtub had an open end above the heel where the bather entered and assumed a sitting position. The bathtub had no piping connections. The water had to be poured into the bathtub. There was a small brazier under the heel in which charcoal could be burned to heat the water.

As the son of a soap manufacturer, Franklin all his life believed firmly in the importance of cleanliness. Franklin will be honored on his birthday as one of the founders of the plumbing industry in the United States.

From one bathtub imported from France in 1791, America has become the world's largest producer of bathtubs. American plumbing fixtures are sought the world over because of their superior styling and performance. More than 2,000,000 bathtubs were made in 1953. From a minimum of one bathroom in the home, the American standard has progressed to the point where two bathrooms are regarded not as a luxury but as a necessity for modern living.

Quality Mirror Requires Care

Abrasive Cleaner Must Not Be Used for Fear of Fine Scratches

Don't use an abrasive cleanser on your mirrors, if you want them to remain as lovely as they were when you bought them, warns June Cabot, home styling expert and consultant on interior design.

"Fine mirrors are made of quality polished plate glass," Miss Cabot said. "Each piece of polished plate glass is ground to make its surfaces as nearly flat and parallel as possible to eliminate distortion.

"Then it is polished to give it a highly lustrous finish which should last for the lifetime of the glass."

Abrasive cleansers are liable to cause minute scratches on the surface of the glass, Miss Cabot said. Repeated use of abrasive cleansers can, in time, ruin the finish of the glass.

What is the best cleaning agent to use?

Miss Cabot recommends warm water with a dash of ammonia. Commercial spray-type cleansers, alcohol and water, or even plain warm water are also effective.

"If the mirror is simply dusty," Miss Cabot said, "warm water is as good as anything else. But if there is a film of grease or oil deposited from cooking vapors or fingerprints on the glass, the ammonia (roughly one tablespoon to a quart of warm water) helps cut the grease and makes cleaning easier."

Two soft, clean cloths should be used. One dampened in the cleaning solution and one to wipe away excess moisture.

"With proper care," Miss Cabot said, "a good mirror will last as long as the house in which it is used. That is one of the many advantages of plate glass mirrors as a decorating material. They never have to be refinished or painted and require no expensive upkeep.

"They are ageless and bring a feeling of spaciousness, light and air into the rooms in which they are used."

Miss Cabot, a specialist in the use of mirrors in interior design, is now appearing on a nation-wide television tour in which she uses scale models of rooms to show her audiences how to use mirrors to solve difficult decorating problems.

Nuncio means messenger in Latin. A nuncio is the permanent official representative of the Pope at a foreign court or seat of government.

JAPANESE INFLUENCE—Evidence of the Japanese influence which inspired designer John Wisner to create the new "Far Horizons" line for Ficks Reed Company is seen in this rattan grouping which will be presented at the January 4-15 Market in Chicago and Grand Rapids. Featuring a new teak brown finish, and cuffed with brass, the pieces have a low gentle pitch and foam rubber-filled zippered cushions for comfort. A Japanese motif on white tile tops the corner table. The center coffee table has a beige laminated plastic top with painted leaves of brown.

Owners Can Share Painting With Pros

In many sections of the country it is now possible to have half your house painted by a professional painter while you do the other half yourself.

In such a case, the painting contractor paints the difficult-to-reach places, after taking down the shutters and doing the caulking.

You paint the shutters and the lower more accessible areas and have the benefit of the contractor's suggestions and advice.

For those who like to do their own house painting but dislike climbing high ladders, the economical arrangement is highly satisfactory.

Sound Waves May Be Insect Killers in Future

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (UP)—Sound waves may some day be used to kill insects, but this probably won't be for a long time, according to Dr. Hubert Frings, associate professor of entomology at Penn State College.

Dr. Frings said research in the field has been handicapped by lack of interest and by scarcity of equipment capable of sending out sound waves with frequencies above 20,000 cycles, the maximum capable of being picked up by the human ear.

However, he said a machine has been developed in France, capable of sending out 27,000,000 cycles. The machine will enable researchers for the first time to transmit sound waves at almost any frequency they desire.

Rattan Rises as Material for Living Room Elegance

CHICAGO — The rise of rattan as a material of elegance for the living room is convincingly demonstrated in the new "Far Horizons" additions for the January 4-15 Market in the Merchandise Mart.

A rich, highly polished teak-brown finish, brass trim for striking contrast, and highlights of red lacquer is the formula for imparting a formal feeling to this material — hitherto used only in casual pieces.

The 15 pieces — designed for both living room and dining room — like their predecessors, reveal a Japanese influence.

Included in the collection are lounge chairs, sofa, sectional loveseat on casters, a room divider, dining table with an oak parquette top and dining chairs, a credenza buffet with red lacquered sliding doors in a Japanese shoji design, and end and coffee tables. The small tables of the group have been variously designed with oak parquette, tile or plastic tops.

Foam rubber cushioning and zip slip covers are used throughout for the upholstered pieces.

A new line of upholstery fabrics, including two dozen new screen prints and a specially dyed group of correlated solid color fabrics in cotton shantung, Peruvian linen and textured plastic, also contribute to the more formal aspect of the new collection.

Furniture Shows Japanese Influence

One of the highlights of this year's home furnishing's scene was the revival of interest in Japanese-inspired designs, with Shoji screens, pagodas, and red lacquer edging their way to the top of the popularity ladder.

An elegant example of this trend is seen in Ficks Reed's "Far Horizons" pieces of rattan finished in teak brown and cuffed with brass.

Gently curved lines and low pitch, prime features of Oriental design, have been incorporated in the pieces by designer John Wisner as desirable elements for American furniture.

Accidents Are Not Fatal

BELMONT, Mass. (UP)—Death appears to be on a perpetual holiday on the streets and highways of this town of 33,000 inhabitants. There have been more than 1,500 traffic accidents in Belmont during the past seven years, but none proved fatal.

Use Synthetic Rubber

WASHINGTON (UP) — The recent increase in the percentage of synthetic rubber in the military tire has saved the taxpayer $10,000,000 and decreased the Army requirements for natural rubber which might be unavailable in wartime. The synthetic rubber content in the two-and-a-half-ton, six-by-six truck tire has increased to 87 per cent as compared with less than 25 per cent for comparable 9x20 commercial tires.

Paint Lights Up Home Hazards

White or Yellow Easy to See in Dark Cellars, Attics, Stairways

By HUBBARD COBB

Not so many weeks ago we went through a big industrial plant which prides itself on the fact that they have practically no accidents at all.

Considering the fact that they make TNT, this is something to be proud of.

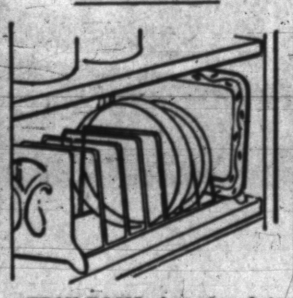

One reason they give for the lack of accidents is that any hazardous item about the plant is given a coat of paint to identify as something to watch out for. This same idea can be used in the home with good results.

For example, if you give the edges of basement and attic stairs a coat of paint—white or yellow—they'll show up like sore thumbs and people won't be so likely to miss one and take a fall or bark their shins on the lower step when it's dark.

If you have a girder or beam along the ceiling of the basement that is so low that tall people are likely to bump their heads on it, give it a coat of light-colored paint. This paint, needless to say, should be in contrast with the color of the ceiling.

Lots of homes have one, two and sometimes three steps between different levels. This makes for an interesting floor plan, but people who are not familiar with the house often trip over these little items. Give these steps a coat of paint so they will be noticeable.

People are always bumping themselves on corners of benches, porches and kitchen counters. It's a good idea to paint these corners a different color than the rest of the surface so they'll show up.

TRAY ROOM—A good rack to keep trays and flat pans upright in a kitchen cabinet can be had by using a phonograph record holder.

Lining Cedar Closet Easy for Do-It-Yourself Fans

Here is a tip for the do-it-yourself fan: To find a fascinating project, just look in the closets of your home.

Converting a dull, dark closet into a "cedar chest you can walk into" is an easy, fast job anyone can do, according to a home improvement magazine. It is simply a matter of lining the closet interior with moth-repellent red cedar, a moderately priced material produced in tongued and grooved strips for snug fit and quick application.

"The beauty and protection of cedar paneling can make your closets as sweet smelling and attractive as a fine aromatic cedar chest," the handicraft editor points out in a recent article.

"Cedar is that wood with the pleasant aroma which serves a double purpose in your closets—it preserves and it beautifies. It's pleasant and enjoyable to work with cedar."

Cedar closet lining may be obtained at most lumber yards. It is three-eighths-inch thick and comes in random lengths up to 8 feet. There is a choice of widths from 2 to 4 inches.

Some home craftsmen prefer the narrower widths. They make a tight, snug wall and may cost a little less. The strips are bundled, with each package containing coverage for 30 square feet.

The first step is to remove old braces and hooks from the walls. The wall studs can be located by punching holes in the plaster with a thin nail. Each wall is then built up from the bottom with the cedar strips, fastened to the studs with four-penny nails.

Set the nails slightly. It is not necessary that end joints occur over the studding. The interlocking action will hold in place any short pieces that may come between the nailing bases.

Screws for shelves, hooks and hanger rails should penetrate well into the studs for extra strength.

When no corner molding is used, the joints should be measured carefully to insure a tight fit. If there are any outside corners, the strips at such points may be sawed off evenly after they are nailed up. It is not necessary to miter outside corner joints. The workability of cedar allows you to overlap one board on the other, leaving an edge which can be sanded to smoothness.

Red cedar closet lining should never be sealed or painted. Paint, varnish or other finish of any kind will destroy the pleasant aroma and protective properties of your cedar-lined closet.

An occasional dusting with a dry cloth is all the attention it requires. To obtain maximum protection, the door should be weatherstripped or otherwise made reasonably snug fitting.

For complete protection and beauty, the door, floor and ceiling should also be lined with cedar.

Lace Appears as Wall Hanging

Fishnet Pattern Comes in Variety of Patterns, Colors

Lace is moving from the windows to the walls of modern homes. It has ceased to be acceptable in fancy displays at the parlor windows, festooned with blue satin bows.

Because of an entirely new approach to lace, the possibilities for home decoration are endless.

A problem wall for instance, might get brand new sparkle from the all-over application of a coarse, stiff fishnet made up of rounded squares and intended for just such decoration.

These fishnets come in high fashion colors for the home—flame, hot chocolate, lemon peel, mist gray, cherry red, gold and white.

But the fishnet also comes in a variety of other weaves, starting with a fine, square mesh that resembles filet and ending up with very coarse weave.

It is available by the yard and in ready made cafe curtains as well. These curtains have woven-in loops for quick, easy hanging. They also come in many widths and lengths.

Lace curtains have been adapted to suit every room type, from the formal period interior to the contemporary. There are all-over patterns and border designs in florals, geometrics, stylized motifs, plaids and stripes, plain filets and point d'esprit.

To aid you in being your own decorator, these patterns may be had in fabric by the yard, in panels, tailored pairs and tiers.

Lace tablecloths have been brought up to date, too, from the day when grandmother brought out her good lace cloth for company dinners at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

The new cloths have smart contemporary styling in high style colors and pastels. They can fit into the extremely modern decor with ease.

A current demand for round tables has naturally created a corresponding demand for round cloths. This has been met in lace. Some of these are semisheer cotton in pastel shades and floral patterns. Others are all nylon in floral designs or pastels.

One of the new lace cloths has alternating squares of coarse and fine fishnet, creating interesting texture. Another has diamond shaped segments defined by open mesh. Some of these textured cloths are reversible.

Tape Albums Styled for Home Libraries

NEW YORK (UP)—Tape recordings now are being styled for the home library.

A book-type container with maroon leatherette binding comes with three reels of sound recording tape.

A slip-out card on the binding of the album permits easy identification of the contents, while catalouing space to reach recording is provided on the side of the pack.

The tapes in the pack are stored on edge to protect them and to conserve space.

The albums, which are embossed with gold lettering, can fit into any bookcase or go on a shelf of their own.

First capitol of Idaho cost $30,000; present one, $2,290,000.

Place Against Inside Wall Away From Sun and Heat

By KAY SHERWOOD

Where to put the piano can be a major headache in a small home or a moderate-sized room.

But who wants to forego the pleasures of family song fests just to sidestep a decor problem? Not me.

If you're just about to discover the joys of owning a piano, new or old, perhaps some tips on placement and care will help you get more pleasure out of the music box.

Best spot for the piano for its protection is against an inside wall, away from any direct source of heat such as a radiator or fireplace.

Sunshine won't damage the keys, but it isn't good for the wood, so an open window won't be a good location. Of course, when the teenagers bang out the boogie I'd just as soon put the piano in the garage, but this isn't practical either.

Color camouflage can curb the bulky domination of the old grand. I got the idea from our doctor, who had to shoehorn a treasured old giant into a small living room.

He painted the walls a cocoa brown so that the piano blends into the background. The rest of the room is lightened by the use of white cafe curtains, nasturtium-colored drapes and striped slipcovers.

A simple shove solved a neighbor's problem of placing a baby grand in her long, narrow living room. The keyboard had faced the room and those white keys stood out with such clarity you couldn't see anything else.

We pushed the piano sideways so that the curved side faced the room and the keyboard was backed into the corner. Then we pushed a pretty little chair into the curved space which gave needed sitting room and subdued the bulk of the piano.

Pianos, I'm told, should be tuned every season and after any major move. Ivory, plastic or ebony keys can be kept clean with soap and water. But use very little water and depend on thick suds for soil removal.

To be on the safe side, use one cloth for the white keys, another for the black to avoid any color transference. Rinse with a damp cloth, then polish with a dry one.

Moths find the piano interior (all that felt) a snug haven. For a grand piano, put a moth preventive inside on a piece of cardboard. With an upright you can fasten bags of moth crystals inside at either end of the instru-

PIANO LOCATION—Placement of this piano is technically correct. It's against an inside wall, and blinds at windows screen direct sunlight which might harm polished wood case.

City's Building Boom Big in '53

Valuation on Permits Is Doubled; 100 More Are Issued Than in '52

The city of Pontiac had one of its biggest building booms in history during 1953.

According to the figures released today by the building department of the city, during 1953 the valuation doubled on permits issued and there were 100 more granted than during the previous year.

A figure of $8,246,765 was hit this year. The 1952 figure was $4,892,298.

Permits for one-family dwellings slightly edged out industrial additions during the year with a $2,098,350 valuation. Industry totaled $2,071,707.

The new Pontiac City hall took a high permit at $800,000; Mercantile stores applied for permits in the amount of $755,000.

Residential repair, alteration and additions took $543,948 and commercial in this division had a total of $381,040.

Church additions were made in the amount of $384,000; private garages, $332,279; commercial garages, $206,700; service stations, $113,000; warehouses, $164,000; lodge halls, $127,000; five-family dwellings, $18,000; two-family dwellings, $18,500; one motel, $65,000; barber shops, $18,000; dairy, $85,000; service stations, $4,008; dry cleaning plant, $15,000; florist shop, $13,000.

Other permits issued this year were for; gas regulator station, $1,200; school additions, $53,000; hospital addition, $2,000; ice machine, $5,000; storage tanks, $26,054; wreck buildings, $11,005; sheds and small offices, $16,165; move buildings $3,625; fences, $18,832.

Slum Clearance Abetted

More than 69,000 dwelling units have been brought up to city ordinance standards and 8,300 units unfit for rehabilitation have been demolished as a result of the Build America Better program of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, which urges aggressive enforcement of city ordinances that outlaw slum conditions as one phase of the movement.

Hoping for OK on Housing Plan

G.O.P Leaders Afraid Congress Will Poke on New Law

WASHINGTON (INS) — Administration leaders are hoping to win congressional approval of their new housing program by next spring when the home building season officially gets under way throughout the country.

Housing officials admit it will be a tough job getting Congress to whip out a complicated, if not controversial, housing law in less than three months time.

But they are willing to give it a try because the stakes are pretty high. The feeling is that any delay in passing the law will have a bearing on how many new homes are constructed in 1954.

Proposals, now under study by President Eisenhower's special housing advisory committee, call for a broad new housing program to rid the nation of slums and maintain high home production.

Housing administrator Alber M. Cole says he still hopes for production of one million new houses and apartments next year but believes that 900,000 dwelling is more realistic.

This may be based on expectations that effects of the worst mortgage money shortage in the postwar years still will hold down housing operations early next year even if Congress acts fast on new legislation.

Nevertheless, home builders and other allied groups feel that the action of the House and Senate will play a major role in determining whether housing output runs at top speed next spring.

By Dec. 15, Cole and his 22-man housing advisory committee will report their findings and recommendations to the President. A few days later Eisenhower will discuss the report in detail with his congressional leaders and then use it to form the basis for legislative proposals to be submitted in January.

In this connection, presidential assistant Sherman Adams says that home construction, rehabilitation and financing "should not be a socialized occupation of the federal government" but should be handled in a "partnership" with the cities and the states.

Brown Called Menace

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "Schoolroom brown" is a menace to children's eyes, says Dr. James F. Wahl, president of the American Optometric Association. "Drab brown floors, furniture and wall paint usually go with inadequate lighting, and together they breed many of the vision problems of American youth." He reports inadequate eyesight is twice as common in the eighth grade as in the first.

Tumble Bug Game for All, Easy to Make

Playing tumble-bug is fun for youngsters and grownups alike. For the "bugs," get some varicolored capsules from your druggist. Drop a ball bearing into each and put the halves together.

The only other equipment needed is a playing board. Cut a piece of tempered hardboard about one foot square and nail it to a block of one-inch lumber four inches wide, to form a ramp.

Plane the edge of the wood to the proper angle so the hardboard will fit properly.

Up to four players can play tumble-bug with a board this size. Each player holds his capsule in an upright position at the top edge of the playing board.

At the signal "go," the bugs are released to tumble end over end down the ramp. The one reaching bottom first is the winner.

Takes Only Two Minutes

New Car Wash Business Opens on East Montcalm

One of Pontiac's most modern car wash businesses opened its new building this week and went into full operation.

The Motor Mart Car Wash, located at 105 E. Montcalm, is owned by Fred Gaukler, a Pontiac business man.

Gerald Slater, Pontiac, will serve as manager of the new business which boasts the latest car wash equipment.

The building, measuring 103 feet long by 30 feet, is constructed of concrete block and steel. Cars are handled on a conveyor with all the actual washing done by hand.

A special steam cleaning process for all car chrome leaves a transparent film on the bumpers, grills and wheels which resists chloride damage. All car interiors are vacuumed as part of the regular cleaning procedure at the Motor Mart Car Wash.

"Two minutes is what we figure from the time the car enters the building," said Slater, who pointed out that new facilities made it possible for them to accommodate all types and sizes of trucks as well as cars.

The new building is directly across the street from the other Gaukler car washing business.

Offices of this establishment have interior finishes of knotty pine.

Says City Planning Stultifies Growth

The system of urban planning in England is stultifying a considerable amount of building development in England, according to E. F. Cleary, former vice-chairman of the National Planning Council and a member of the London County Council, expressed in an interview with HEADLINES, the weekly newsletter of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

The system has the effect of gradually giving the local governments complete ownership and control of the land, which he cited as a trend toward nationalization.

'Wheelchair' Homes for Disabled Vets

More than 29 million dollars has been granted by the Veterans Administration for specially equipped homes for disabled veterans including those of the Korean war.

New "wheelchair" homes total 2,662 and remodeled homes for seriously incapacitated veterans number 267.

Congress authorized the VA in 1948 to defray 50 per cent of the cost of "wheelchair" homes for eligible veterans up to $10,000.

These grants can be used to buy a lot, to remodel a house, or to apply against a mortgage of a suitable house already occupied.

Those thumping and banging noises, which echo through the pipes of a water system, are caused by suddenly closing a water faucet. Any home handy man can stop pipes from hammering.

Install an air cushion in the water line on the house side of the water meters.

The cushion need be nothing more than a 3-foot length of pipe, capped at the top, rising vertically from the water line. The water rushes into the cushion instead of hammering the sides of the pipe when the flow is suddenly cut off at the faucet.

It is estimated an average person has two severe colds per year.

CAPACITY COTTAGE—Two-story capacity in a cottage is the feature of this story-and-a-half house planned for economy of construction. Three bedrooms, bath and roomy closets are located upstairs. Large living room, lighted by windows on three sides, extends across one entire end of the house. A center hall with open stairway and guest closet, a lavatory adjoining the kitchen-dinette and a garden terrace are among features. This is plan H-291X by Alwin Cassens Jr., architect, 145 So. Franklin Ave., Valley Stream, N. Y. The house covers 1,222 square feet and the upper floor provides 990 square feet. (Further information and blueprints available from architect).

Spray Painting House Is Easy

Mixing Paint, Readying Surface Are Important for Good Job

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Many people are today discovering how easily they can paint the outside of their homes with a spray gun. By following simple directions regarding the preparation of surfaces and practicing a little with the gun, the application can be accomplished with ease and rapidity.

First of all, it's important to do a good job in readying the surface. It should be clean, free of dust, dirt and loose paint in order to insure the adhesion of the new coating. A wire brush can be most helpful in smoothing the surface.

If the old paint has scaled off in places, sand the edges, dust, cover the bare spots with primer and allow to dry. If there are rusted areas on metal, remove the rust and prime the metal with one of the special primers devised for the purpose.

After preparing the surface, get the material ready that you will use in the spray gun. Too many times, the amateur spray painter thins the material excessively. This results in a needless overspray. In most cases, exterior house paint can be sprayed just as it comes from the can. Your dealer can best advise you in this regard.

For best results, the paint should be thoroughly mixed and strained through cheesecloth or fine screen to remove any lumps or skin that may have formed between painting sessions.

The actual spraying stroke is made with a full arm motion, always keeping the gun pointed at right angles to the surface. Remember to hold the gun 6 inches from the surface at all times and to pull the trigger after you have started the stroke. Release the trigger before the stroke is ended. This prevents the paint building up at either end of the spray stroke.

Each succeeding spray stroke should be lapped at least one half the length of a spray pattern over the preceding one.

When spraying near sash, doors and other trim, it's a good idea to use a cardboard shield which will enable you to spray right up to the edges.

When spraying a house, start at the top and work down, painting as much as you can reach before placing the ladders in a new position. In choosing your time to paint, remember to avoid windy days. The best time to paint a house is during a dry spell. Never try it when the temperature is below 40 degrees or is likely to fall below that point within 24 hours of application time.

Pleasantries Unwelcome to Man Fixing Tire

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP)—Dionisio Robles won't speak to strangers any more.

Robles was walking down Fifth Street when he saw a man fixing a tire. He called out, "Hello, Jack."

The tire fixer clenched his fists, looked around and said, "don't call me Jack."

Then he picked up a jack handle and whammed it on Robles' head.

Good Frame, Mat Space Enhances Work of Artist

By JANE COCHRAN
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO — Not everybody can be an artist, but almost anyone can help improve an artist's work.

It takes a good frame to set off a good picture, and framing can be done at home, with very little trouble and not much expense.

The mat is the most important thing to consider in framing a print or a water color. While oils can be framed close, a mat border enhances prints and water colors.

Mat space sets the picture off, distinguishes it from its background against the wall and adds importance to a picture that otherwise would be lost in the space you can give to it.

Size of the frame available or the subject matter and size of the print are important considerations in determining proportions, but there are some general margin rules to keep in mind in choosing the mat size.

When your print is a vertical one, the bottom margin should be the largest, the top next widest and the sides the narrowest. This carries the eye up and down, emphasizing the shape of the picture.

When the major interest is horizontal, the bottom is the widest, the sides next and the top narrowest.

If the picture is square, make the top and sides narrower than the bottom, but equal to each other.

Mat-board and backing material can be purchased at any art supply store.

The mat should be slightly darker than the lightest tones in the picture, but the use of very dark mats can be quite striking if they pick up the right color in the print.

Dime stores and craft shops are good sources of frames. Simple moldings of natural wood can be tinted by rubbing in a little color or painting them.

Once you've assembled the materials, cut your backing to the size of the glass.

Next, place the print in position on the backing, holding it with a couple of pieces of tape. Measure out the margins, then draw them in with a light pencilled line on the mat. Cut at the lines with a single-edge razor blade.

A word of caution—don't try to make the cut in a single operation. Your results will be neater if you make the cut lightly and repeat it several times until the board is severed. Cut from the front edge of the mat so that the edges will slant toward the print.

The print is stuck to the mat, not the backing, so remove the temporary tape and put on other tape under the corners with the sticky edge up. Lower the mat into position, catching it on the tape, then turn it over, and tape all sides down.

Put mat, print and backing into the frame, seal the back and hang your picture for all to admire.

Clogged Pipes May Cause Low Water Pressure

If the water pressure in your home has dropped gradually over the past few years, chances are the water pipes have corroded and are becoming clogged.

Mineral alkali and acids corrode pipes, and that causes them to become clogged. Then a hard, steady stream of water cannot flow through the faucets.

The only practical way to correct this low-pressure condition is to replace the clogged pipes altogether.

How can you tell which are clogged? Usually the elbows become clogged first; then the horizontal runs; then, much later, the vertical risers.

As soon as you replace the old, clogged pipes, you'll find that water will course out of all your faucets without giving you any more trouble.

Mopping Creates an Excess Humidity

Every day home owners are becoming more aware of the structural damage that may result from the over-humidification of their dwellings.

They recognize the wisdom of following various wise practices that will help to eliminate excessive moisture that may be trapped indoors.

The water vapor, for instance, that's produced by mopping an 8x10 foot kitchen with soapy water, then rinsing it, can release nearly 2½ pounds of water vapor. Unless this water vapor is released to the outside, it will add to the relative humidity inside the house.

To prevent this, remember to close off the room that is being mopped from the rest of the house and to raise a window so the moisture will escape outdoors.

Expensive Extraction!
IF YOU LOSE your home and have to replace part of it out of your own pocket, that will be an expensive project. And that's what will happen if fire catches you under-insured. Better let us check your insurance protection now!

Finish Hardwood Floors With Penetrating Sealer

Close-grained hardwood floors should be finished with a penetrating sealer. There are many nationally distributed sealer products on the market that will not harm the fibres of the flooring.

Sealer finishes wear well, do not scratch noticeably and worn spots can be easily patched up with the same material. Filling the wood before sealer application is not necessary when floors are of maple or birch.

Home Repairs Are Budget Item

Now Is Time to Check and Provide for 1954 Upkeep Expenses

What the months ahead hold in store is important not only for your family but also your house.

Most of the major expenses of home owning can be foreseen and budgeted for, just as can many in family life. Anticipating your home's repair needs is economical, for often a small amount of work done in time will prevent further damage and greater expense.

Ask yourself now whether your home will need repair in one or more of the fields listed below during 1954, so that you can budget the needed funds in advance:

The bathroom. Peeling paint or crumbling plaster around the tub calls for more than half-measures. Installation of a waterproof material such as tile will eliminate the problem, since tile has a permanent finish.

The roof. A visual inspection is usually enough to indicate the condition of the roof. Neglected repairs may mean water stains on plaster or wallpaper in the interior of the home — and further expense.

Outside paint. Letting old paint peel or flake is costly, for often portions of it will have to be removed and the cleaned area spot-painted.

The porch. Wooden porch floors rot in a few years in many localities. In damp areas a pood plan is to replace old floor with weatherprof tile, which is rot proof and at the same time pleasing in appearance.

The kitchen. The kitihens in most homes built a generation ago are outdated and usually inconvenient. Perhaps a real kitchen remodeling, with new equipment, easily cleaned tile work surfaces and more cabinets should be your 1954 project.

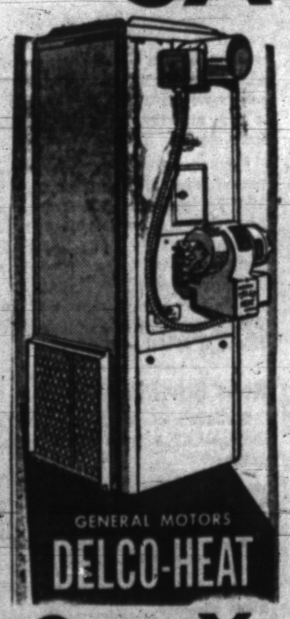

Light fixtures. Some old light fixtures are graceful and well styled. If they are not, they are not, they date a house badly and should be replaced.

Safety. Check every part of your house for safety. Even a minor hazard should be eliminated immediately.

Today's automobiles require up to seven miles of wire for their electrical systems, with more than 8,300 parts forming as many as 180 different electrical assemblies.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

PLAN #9365

PLAN FOR VERSATILE LIVING—Indoor-outdoor living is exploited in this plan for a house erected by the Long Island Home Builders Institute and AFL building trades unions as a contribution toward raising funds for 13 community hospitals. Materials, equipment and services were donated by more than 150 associate members of the institute.

The house features include doors at both ends of the garage to create covered play space for children in bad weather. A picture window adjoining the living room fireplace extends into the finished basement, where plants and vines grow up from the basement through the living room level. Sliding glass walls merge living room and terrace, where a barbecue fireplace is provided in the massive multiple chimney.

The house covers 1,585 square feet without porches and garage. It was designed by Matern & York, architects, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 2, N. Y. (Further information and blueprints available from the architects).

Old Stone Age Paintings Extant in South Europe

The still-existing paintings on the walls of caves in Southern Europe are of great interest to writers, historians and studens of the Old Stone Age. Said to be at least twenty-five thousand years old, many of the paintings are still clearly visible.

In her book, "The Past Lives Again," Edna McGuire writes of the young hunter who goes to the cave of the priest to ask him to send him many animals to kill on the hunt for which he is preparing.

"Quietly the priest listens," writes Miss McGuire, "then rising, he fills a hollow stone lamp with fat, light it and goes slowly into the cave. The hunter watches as the priest mixes his paints in a shell.

With a partly burned stick from the fire, the priest draws a buffalo, a wild horse and a reindeer. Taking up his paints of red, brown, black and yellow, he colors them. Last of all he paints a red arrow in the heart of each.

"Only when he sees the arrows does the hunter breathe" freely. Now he knows that a great kill will be his. The priest has blessed him with much game."

Painting Surfaces Must Be Clean, Dry

Don't apply paint over dry, loose dirt, dust or cobwebs. Wipe all interior walls carefully with a cloth. Clean floors with a stiff brush or a mop, then with a soft brush.

You can also clean both walls and floor surfaces with the brush attachment of a vacuum cleaner. Work into corners, along edges of the moulding and around window frames.

Greasy kitchen walls should be washed with soap and water or a special wall cleaner, then rinsed before refinishing. The surface should, of course, be allowed to dry thoroughly.

Avert Picture-Marks

You can prevent mirrors and pictures from staining the wall in back of them if you use carpet tacks driven into the back of the picture frame to keep it a fraction of an inch away from the wall.

Choose Color for Bath Early

Don't Wait Until Last Minute or Variety Will Be Limited

Forethought pays off in choosing a color scheme for the bathroom of a new home.

In the rush of decisions on other aspects of the building, many families leave the selection of colors for the bath until the last minute. Usually they wind up, under those circumstances, with a bathroom of no particular distinction.

Since the bathroom often becomes steamed and damp, it needs permanent, waterproof finishes. One of the most satisfactory, clay tile, is made in over 200 shades of basic colors, but you cannot select from such a variety if you wait until the week before the tilework is needed.

On such short notice, the tile contractor can supply only the limited number of colors carried in his regular stock.

Plan to make your color selection for the bathroom at the start of work on the new home, during the framing stage. The tile contractor can then let you select from a wide variety of colors and will have the time necessary to get your choice from the factory.

A good rule in bathroom decoration is to use only one color, or at the most two. Light or cool colors will make a small space, such as a bathroom, seem more spacious.

Decorators suggest that the color for the bath be one that will set off the complexions of most of the members of the family. For persons with blue eyes and light skins, they advocate soft blues, greens, yellow or peach for the bathroom.

Brown-eyed individuals with brown hair and olive skins look best against backgrounds of cream, tan, blues and blue-greens. Dark shades of any color should ordinarily be avoided in the bathroom, for they seem to come forward and as a result will make the space look smaller than it actually is.

UCLA PASS CLICKS FOR TD—Fullback Bill Stits snares a pass thrown by halfback Paul Cameron (34) on an optional pass-run play that gave UCLA its 1st touchdown in Friday's Rose Bowl clash with Michigan State. Cameron faked a run, then fired a pass to Stits standing on the goal line where he outmaneuvered halfback Billy Wells (14) and center Jim Neal (51). Michigan State scored three times in the 2nd half to win, 28-20.

ON WAY TO TD—Billy Wells, Michigan State's speedy halfback, was snapped during his spectacular 62-yard punt return for MSC's final tally in Friday's Rose Bowl game with UCLA. He had good blocking on this important dash, from end Don Kauth. State won 28-20.

BLOCKED PUNT GIVES MSC 1ST TD—End Ellis Duckett of Michigan State gets his hands on the ball just after it left the toe of UCLA's Paul Cameron on an attempted punt in the Rose Bowl game. Duckett blocked the kick, then picked up the ball and ran into the end zone for Michigan State's 1st touchdown.

Resurgent Spartans Win 28-20

By JOHN W. FITZGERALD
Assistant to the Editor

PASADENA—Led by Billy Wells and Johnny Matsock, the Rose Bowl kids from Michigan came back in the third period here today and made mighty amends for their first half ineptitude and won a terrific game from UCLA 28 to 20.

Rose Bowl veterans united in the assertion that this was one of the most exciting struggles in all west coast football history. State was steadily outplayed in the first half and was lucky to score at all, the first punt blocked in the last five years against the Bruins proving the medium.

But the second half was different. Methodically, ruthlessly and without a semblance of mercy, the Spartans ripped the Uclans apart in two of the most sustained drives in Rose Bowl experiences.

Once again the East Lansing boys came from behind and this time they did it with one of the most sustained exhibits of fury and power the nation has witnessed this year. There were no long passes. There were no long runs in the first two touchdowns. They came about through terrific hammering against a bigger line and a line that had outcharged the Spartans consistently in the first half.

Every conceivable seat in the bowl, which numbers 100,300 was filled. The weather was ideal, with the temperature in the middle seventies at game time. UCLA won the toss and chose to receive. Robinson kicked off to All American Paul Cameron who made a nice return to the Bruins' 19.

After picking up nine yards with Dalley and Cameron carrying the weight, Cameron quick kicked to the Spartan 30. In three plays swift Leroy Bolden made a first down on the Spartan 45. Then the Spartans were stopped and Yewcic was forced to kick into the end zone.

On the second play Cameron was smothered by Bill Quinlan and fumbled, Leroy Bolden recovering on the Bruins' 26. Tommy Yewcic tried his first pass of the day but it was intercepted by Cameron and returned to the Bruin 12. UCLA punted and Cameron's quick kick went 52 yards to Wells on the Spartans' 34.

The old Yost punt pass and prayer paid off immediately. Bolden fumbled and Salisbury recovered on the State 37. From here the Bruins drove to a quick touchdown on a short pass from Cameron.

State returned the kickoff 20 yards to the 30 but was forced to kick. The Spartans had the ball on the 46 when the quarter ended.

UCLA plowed back fast in the second quarter for a quick touchdown in five minutes. Hermans went fourteen yards to State's four. Two plays failed to make a T.D. And then Cameron went over from the two.

But as the Spartans took the 3rd quarter kickoff before the capacity crowd of 101,000 it was a different club—fired apparently by coach Biggie Munn during the intermission.

In 14 crisp plays Spartans went 78 yards with Leroy Bolden going over from one yard out, and fullback Evan Slonac added the 2nd of his four straight conversions to tie the count.

In three plays Bruins couldn't gain after taking the kickoff, punted, and the Spartans went on the march again. This one went 73 yards, abetted by an 18-yard pass from quarterback Tommy Yewcic to Bolden, a 27-yard run by right halfback Billy Wells and a 15-yard penalty. That put the Spartans ahead to stay. After UCLA scored again in the 4th period, but missed the conversion, Wells scooted 62 yards with a punt for the clincher.

Billy, the usually unsung member of the Big Ten co-champions' pony backfield, was the game's leading ground gainer with 80 yards rushing in additon to his punt return, and was voted the game's outstanding player by the Helms Athletic Foundation.

Later, Cameron lived up to his reputation and tossed a pass to Loudd, the big UCLA end for a touchdown. Hermann's kick was wide and State led by one point.

After a few plays Cameron was forced to punt and Billy Wells took the kick on the 38 and swept 62 yards to score untouched. Slonac converted and the score was 28 to 20.

Still fired up, Bert Zagers intercepted a pass from Cameron and went 50 yards into the end zone but pass inteference was called and UCLA had the ball with a first down on the 42.

Time was running out and they tried passing and running plays. But the Big Green held and all American Paul Cameron was stopped, like Paul Geil of Minnesota and all the rest to cross Cinderella's path to glory in her first year in the Big Ten.

(By the Associated Press)

Michigan State ranked third in the annual national Associated Press football poll for 1953 and UCLA ranked fifth.

"Michigan State was the best team we've played this year," said coach Red Sanders of the Pacific Coast champion Bruins. "They had more good running backs than any team I've ever faced."

Sanders said "We didn't look the same after that blocked kick"—the first one ever suffered by a Sanders-coached team.

It came in the second quarter after UCLA led 14-0. Tailback Paul Cameron, who spearheaded the UCLA attack throughout, was in punt formation deep in his own territory. Spartan end Ellis Duckett crashed through to block the ball, scooped it up on the six and went over for the Spartans' first touchdown.

The Michigan State coach termed Cameron "a terrific player — everything that has been claimed."

But the UCLA All-Americ wound up with a minus seven yards net rushing, largely due to getting tossed for some losses while attempting to pass. Duckett dropped him for a minus 27 in the fourth quarter to end one Bruin threat.

All-America end Don Dohoney and tackle Larry Fowler were also defensive thorns to the Bruins much of the afternoon. Tackle Jack Ellena was the standout for UCLA.

East Favored by Touchdown

West Team's Passing Deception Is Matched Against Power

By BOB WELLS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—With the ruckus of other post-season games fading offstage, the grid stars of 29 universities took the spotlight today for what has been called "football's finest hour"—the 29th East-West game.

Watched by an overflow crowd of 63,000; at Kezar Stadium here and additional millions over nationwide television and radio hookups, "the men who run so kids may walk" close out their college grid careers for the benefit of the Shrine crippled children's hospital.

* * *

Preceded by lavish pageantry, the game pitted an Eastern ground steamroller against the passing and deception of the finest college football talent in the West.

Rated 6½ point favorites, the East, coached by Ray Eliot of Illinois, presented a crushing line and the hard running of backs Johnny Lattner and Neil Worden of Notre Dame; Gene Filipski, former Army star who wound up at Villanova, and Steve Meilinger of Kentucky, plus many others.

* * *

The West, led by Coach Chuck Taylor of Stanford, had the passing of Bobby Garrett of Stanford—the nation's leading thrower — and Francis (Cotton) Davidson of Baylor, the receiving of ends like Tom Nickoloff of Southern California and the break-away run possibilities of backs like Veryl Switzer of Kansas State.

The kickoff was set for 1:30 p.m., (PST) (4:30 p.m., EST), after an hour and a half of pageantry featuring Michigan State's colorful band, which traveled here from the Spartans' Rose Bowl triumph at Pasadena yesterday.

Perez Quits Being 'Gent' in Ring, Beats Gallardo

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—No more gentleman of the ring for Lulu Perez. The 20-year-old Brooklyn featherweight has learned the facts of ring life.

* * *

Perez, qualifying for a Feb. 26 bout with Willie Pep, the old master, tore up the book of etiquette last night in a boxing-wrestling match with Davey Gallardo of Los Angeles at Madison Square Garden.

* * *

This was No. 3 of the Perez-Gallardo series and probably the last. All three officials voted for Lulu—Referee Ruby Goldstein 7-2-1 Judge Jack Gordon 6-3-1 and Judge Arthur Susskind 6-4. The AP card also was 6-4 for Lulu.

They faulted Perez for letting Gallardo rough him up in their Nov. 27 fight when Davey avenged a September TKO defeat by upsetting Lulu. Nobody could fault Perez for playing the Lord Fauntleroy after his most recent outing. First he wrestled Gallardo through the ropes. When he got up and offered to touch gloves, Lulu answered with a right to the body. Naturally, the crowd booed.

* * *

"I decided to stop being a gentleman, it don't pay," said Lulu in his dressing room.

Illegal Tackle Pushes Heroes From Spotlight

Lewis' Impulsive Play Pushes Rice's Moegle to Background

By UNITED PRESS

An apologetic fullback who made a foolish and illegal tackle in a losing cause stole the show from the more legitimate heroes of the New Year's Day football bowl games.

Culprit was Tommy Lewis of Alabama and he cried in the dressing room after his team's 28-6 defeat by Rice in the Cotton Bowl.

A gathering of 75,000 saw Lewis suddenly dart off the bench Friday in Dallas and tackle Dicky Moegle of Rice, who was on his way to a touchdown. The touchdown, which would have been a 95-yard deal, was allowed.

Moegle scored two other touchdowns on runs of 79 yards and 34 yards in the easy triumph.

Lewis, like a mountain climber who scales a peak simply "because it is there" said he had an irresistible urge to tackle Moegle, even though he wasn't in the game.

"I saw him coming a long way off," he said. "The nearer he got to me the nearer I moved to the field. I don't know what happened I just felt I had to get him. Now it seems like a dream."

Munn Tells Sanders He'll Take Head Job

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Speculation over the fate of Biggie Munn, coach of the Michigan State team that beat UCLA in the Rose Bowl yesterday, was stirred today by a "whisper."

The Los Angeles Times carried a story this morning quoting UCLA Coach Red Sanders as saying that while he was congratulating Munn after the game in Pasadena the Michigan State mentor whispered to him that it was his last game as a football coach.

Sanders told a Times sports writer that Munn informed him he would soon take over the Michigan State athletic director's post being vacated by Ralph Young.

Billy Martin Named Best in World Series

NEW YORK (UP) — Brash Billy Martin, big-nosed 2nd baseman of the Yankees, today was named winner of the Babe Ruth Memorial Award, which goes annually to the outstanding player of the World Series.

As befits their record of five straight World Series triumphs, it marked the 5th time in a row that a Yankee had won the award. Other winners were John Mize in 1952, Phil Rizzuto in 1951, Jerry Coleman in 1950, and Joe Page in 1949.

Ft. Ord Routs Great Lakes 11

Ollie Matson Is Star of 67-12 Decision in Salad Bowl

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Fort Ord, Calif., today had conclusively demonstrated why it was ranked the No. 1 service football team of the nation during the past season.

Warriors yesterday lambasted Great Lakes Naval Training Center, 67-12, in the 7th annual Salad Bowl game here, churning with full speed after being pretty well stymied in the 1st half. At the half, the soldiers were out in front by only a 20-12 margin and at one time in the 2nd quarter trailed 12-7.

But after the intermission, Ollie Matson and Co. burned up the turf. Warriors added two touchdowns in the 3rd stanza and then sacked the game with an avalanche of five more in the final period.

Star of the game was Matson, former All-America from the University of San Francisco and later with the professional Chicago Cardinals. Matson scored three touchdowns, two of them on spectacular runs of 47 and 48 yards and the 3rd on an 18-yard pass reception.

Terps' Failure to Score Is 1st in 51 Games

Maryland 11 Muffs 3 Great Opportunities in 1st Quarter

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Coach Jim Tatum and his Maryland football team tasted some of their own medicine today after having the props knocked out beneath their high and mighty position by Oklahoma's 7-0 Orange Bowl victory yesterday.

Even more surprising than the fact that Oklahoma won was that Maryland failed to score. It was only the 4th time in Tatum's seven years at Maryland that it happened and it was the 1st time in the past 51 games.

The team which had rolled up 298 points effortlessly in beating 10 teams had all the opportunity in the world to score in the 1st period.

Oklahoma had only five offensive plays in the 1st quarter while Maryland moved to a first down on the 4 and couldn't score and started other drives from the Oklahoma 32 and 24 without success.

Their 3rd good chance carried to the six at the start of the 2nd period but here fullback Ralph Felton missed a field goal.

Having looked Maryland in the eye for more than 15 minutes and come out top dog, Oklahoma took the ball back 80 yards then to score on the driving of halfback Larry Grigg who swept the last 25 yards over the goal.

Maryland got inside the Oklahoma 30 only once after that.

Oklahoma also lost its first string quarterback, Gene Calame, for the second half after he had completed all of four passes.

Tatum, who had insisted all along that Maryland's chances were about nil without Faloney, said the fault with Charlie Boxold as his replacement was "he couldn't analyze the smart defense."

Tangerine Contest Ends in 7-7 Knot

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—East Texas State's proud 29-game winning streak, longest in college football, came to an end in the 8th annual Tangerine Bowl game last night as Arkansas State battled the Lions to a 7-7 tie.

The Arkansans, undefeated but once tied in 1953, scored in the 1st period and held the East Texans at bay until the last quarter.

The tie, witnessed by 12,976, 2nd largest crowd in the series, was the 1st in Tangerine Bowl history. It marked the 2nd appearance by East Texas, 33-0 winner over Tennessee Tech in the 1952 game.

Princeton's 65-7 defeat by Navy this year was its worst loss in 85 years.

Oklahoma, Michigan State Boast Wins Over Nation's Leading Defensive Teams

By BOB HOOBING

NEW YORK (AP)—Oklahoma and Michigan State boasted impressive victories today over two of the nation's leading defensive teams, national champion Maryland and UCLA.

Oklahoma, ranked No. 4, defeated the one-touchdown favorite Terps 7-0 in the Orange Bowl for the only form reversal yesterday. The Spartans, No. 3, put on a scorching second-half drive to come from behind and give the Big Ten its seventh victory in eight Rose Bowl pact appearances, 28-20, over UCLA.

Georgia Tech captured its third straight post-season triumph 42-19 at the expense of West Virginia in the Sugar Bowl and Texas Tech rallied for a 35-13 trouncing of Auburn in the Gator Bowl with Bobby Cavazos scoring three touchdowns.

Individually, Oklahoma's halfback Larry Grigg, Michigan State halfback Billy Wells and end Ellis Duckett, All-America Paul Cameron of UCLA, Rice halfback Dickey Moegle and Tech quarterback Pepper Rodgers were among the standouts.

In Dallas, Alabama fullback Tommy Lewis gave his team an early 6-0 lead but really made bowl history when he got up off the bench midway in the second period to tackle Moegle at the 'Bama 42 on a run which had started on the Rice five. It marked the first incident of its kind in major post-season competition.

* * *

Officials ruled it a 95-yard touchdown play and Rice was ahead 14-6. Moegle, puting on an unprecedented Cotton Bowl performance in which he gained 265 yards in 11 tries for a 20.4 yard per try average, also had touchdown runs of 79 yards and 34 yards.

* * *

In other games Texas Western swamped vaunted Mississippi Southern 37-14 in the Sun Bowl, LaCrosse Teachers and Missouri Valley fought to a 12-12 tie in the Cigar Bowl, Ft. Ord (Calif.) romped over Great Lakes 67-12 in the Salad Bowl and Prairie View stopped Texas Southern 33-8 in the Prairie View Bowl. In a night game, East Texas and Arkansas state tied 7-7 in the Tangerine Bowl.

Terps Fall

Sooner Line Was Key to Orange Bowl Win

By FRANK LEAHY

It was the good fortune of Mrs. Leahy and myself to occupy seats in Miami's Orange Bowl as the weather man combined with two remarkably fine football teams to give that great post season classic one of the finest games ever played.

To Oklahoma's Bud Wilkinson goes a real tribute for a masterful coaching job. And to Jim Tatum a salute for a job real well done. The Oklahoma team they opposed was red hot and to hold them to one touchdown was a defensive achievement.

When games are real close and every inch gained has a definite bearing on the outcome, the linemen usually hold the key to victory. In my opinion such was the case in Miami.

Twice in the 1st quarter Maryland had first downs within the Oklahoma 10-yard line and on both occasions the stout Sooner defense held.

In attempting to review the game with complete fairness to both teams I would say that Maryland displayed all of the traits which made them the top team in the nation. They have good size, speed and defensive ability but lacked that real offensive spark which is necessary if any team is to be great.

The obvious answer is of course that their great quarterback, Bernie Faloney, was only able to make a token appearance and this hurt the Terps. But, to me the biggest point in Oklahoma's favor was not the fact that they were able to contain Maryland's offense, but rather, that they were able to move the ball so well and to score when the opportunity arose against one of the truly great defensive teams in the game.

Passes Bring Tech Victory

Rodgers Completes 16 of 26 Aerials, Sparks 42-19 Triumph

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Georgia Tech, its attack hinged on speedy end sweeps in the regular football season, used passes for a 42-19 Sugar Bowl victory over ambitious West Virginia.

Quarterback Pepper Rodgers, who threw only 59 passes all season, completed 16 of 26 yesterday to provide the offensive power in Tech's smashing of the Johnny - come - lately Mountaineers. His deadly aerial offensive, coupled with his calculated mixing of plays, earned him the award as the game's outstanding player.

West Virginia coach Art Lewis, his eyes filled with tears after the setback, said, "We just couldn't stop those passes and we made too many mistakes. We got beat by a very good football team."

Tech surprised the 76,000 fans when Rodgers elected to pass on the 1st play, an effort good for 19 yards to fullback Glenn Turner. Eight plays later Rodgers nailed end Sam Hensley in the West Virginia end zone with a 21-yard toss and Tech had a lead it never surrendered.

Couture, Rollins Star as Hawks Get All Goals in 1st 2 Periods

CHICAGO (AP)—Last place Chicago Black Hawks scored four goals in the 1st two periods last night and went on to defeat the National Hockey League leading Detroit Red Wings 4-2, before 10,860, largest crowd here since the season opener.

Veteran (Doc) Couture scored two of Chicago's goals but the real hero was goalie Al Rollins. He had 43 stops and had a shutout until the 3rd period when rookie Dutch Reibel spoiled it at 6:56. At 15:31 Ted Lindsay scored Detroit's second goal.

Referee Frank Udvari called 13 penalties, including a 10 minute misconduct on Gordie Howe. Eight of the penalties went to the Hawks, who now have won two games in a row and three out of their last four starts.

Couture scored twice in the 1st period, at 8:28 and again at 12:36. His 1st goal was a long, hard line drive delivered just as he hit the blue line. In the 2nd period, young Pete Conacher applied the successful scoring climax of a carry-in by Larry Zeidel and Larry Wilson at 3:06 and Jim Peters raised it to 4-0 at 15:21.

Tears, Prayers for Spartans

By ROBERT E. VOGES

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — There were tears and prayers in an emotion-packed scene in the Michigan State dressing room after Biggie Munn's last game as a coach.

Munn blew his whistle after all the squad had milled into the narrow room under the Rose Bowl stadium.

He was choked with emotion, tears filled his eyes and he could scarcely speak.

"I have never been so proud of a game or a team in my life," he said. His voice broke. "There are tears in my eyes but I can't help it. I appreciate this game so much. Let's say a prayer."

The football team went down on its knees for silent prayer. Many were sobbing, overcome by the emotion of the game and the moment.

"God bless you," Munn said.

Later, Munn was sitting on a bench beside his son Mike, fondling the game ball.

"It's the first game ball I've ever had in my life," he said. "The kids gave it to me. It's the one I wanted."

Newsmen tried to fox Munn into declaring officially that he is taking over as athletic director but he refused to be foxed.

"Any announcement will have to come from president John Hannah," he insisted.

But earlier, Hannah was overheard telling Munn — "it was a great way to end your career."

In the stadium, frenzied MSC rooters were tearing the goal posts to shreds for souvenirs. Munn was carried to the dressing room by his team, part of the time almost upside-down.

"I want to sit down for a while and calm down," said Munn before going into his mass press interview.

He was composed by interview time and said nice things about UCLA and Paul Cameron, answering all questions carefully. For a while his voice was drowned out by the MSC band blaring triumphantly by.

"It was the greatest victory in my life," Munn said. "we earned everything we got, though. UCLA was the best team we've met this year. When they missed that extra point, though, I knew we had it made."

Hal Boyle Says:

Make 1 Positive Resolution Not Dozen Negative Ones

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—If the road to Hell is paved with good intentions, there is a fine new six-lane superhighway today between here and Hades.

It is paved with the New Year's resolutions of perhaps 100 million Americans to lead better lives. Practically everybody makes these resolutions except women, small children, and non-talking dogs—all of whom either are already perfect or don't know how to spell the word resolution.

The only other exceptions are a few scattered old diehard scoundrels who are trying how to find a way to lead a worse life rather than a better one.

* * *

If all the good resolutions that are made at this season were really kept, the sale of aspirin would fall to almost nothing, so would the divorce rate, and the churches would be hanging out "standing room only" signs.

But, of course, most of these high resolves don't last. If each of these self-improvement artists broke a bone every time he broke one of his good resolutions, we'd have to tear down all our national forests to build crutches and splints.

The trouble with most personal reform programs is they set a Mt. Everest goal, where the average man finds the air too thin to breathe. Also, he gets lonely up there on his peak of purity.

* * *

"I'm going to give up smoking and drinking and frittering away money," this fellow writes in a memo to himself on New Year's Day. "I'm going to quit picking on my kids, yapping at my wife, and telling the boss his faults."

So he goes rambling on until he has a list of a dozen or so resolutions. What is wrong with them? Only this: All his resolutions have to do with things he is going to quit doing or things he is going to give up. But he doesn't put down anything positive he is going to do to take up the time he used to spend doing the wrong things.

* * *

The result? Before long he finds his new virtue as boring as a twice-seen grade "B" movie on television. He becomes restless because he has thought of nothing constructive to do. Soon he lapses into his old evil habits.

A better approach to the problem of leading a better life is to make not a dozen negative resolutions, but a single constructive one—and stick to it. For example, you might make yourself this pledge:

"I hereby resolve to spend more and more time in bed during 1954."

Now this is a simple, healthy pledge that any man with fine instincts and reasonable determination can carry out. You might start out by spending five minutes more in bed, then increase it gradually until you are able to spend a whole day in bed.

This plan has many advantages. The longer you spend in bed the less time you will have to spend in bars and traffic jams, and the more time to think up nice things to say to the wife, the kids and the boss.

* * *

You will find that in bed it is more fun to chain-daydream than to chain-smoke. You will find you need fewer medicines. You will have to do fewer household chores. You can read all those books you always intended to.

In a stout bed you are safest from most kinds of accidents. It is also the best place to weather storms or floods, unless you are in a low-lying area, in which case it might be a good idea to be sure you have a mattress that floats.

The more time you spend in bed the more money you save. You need fewer new suits, your shoes last longer. Your grocery bills will fall because you need less food. Your feet will feel better, and, in fact, you'll feel better all over. Remember the old saying, "A sound mind in a sound bed."

The more you stay in bed the more you will escape all forms of trouble and the ambushes of an overcrowded civilization.

The main thing is to fight back with an iron will against the temptation to get up. When you are able to spend a whole weekend in bed, you'll know you've got your problem licked.

By 1955 you'll be able to look up at the ceiling with a proud face. You have stuck manfully to your good resolution, and you are a better man in a better world.

In 1858 Queen Victoria chose Ottawa, then a city of 20,000, as the seat of government of Upper and Lower Canada. It became the capital of the New Dominion in 1867.

Thief Takes $3,500 From Store Safe

About $3,500 was stolen from the People's Super Market, 700 Auburn Ave. at 5 p.m. yesterday, according to Pontiac police.

Miss Ann Frecassi told police she left the safe open while supplying the store cash register with change and found the money missing when she returned.

The thief, police say, could have entered through a door leading from the street to the office containing the safe, without being noticed by store personnel.

Car Crashes Inn but Stops at Bar; Driver Not Hurt

WANAMASSA, N. J. (AP)—A car crashed into the Cypress Inn yesterday, bowling through the dining room all the way to the bar, which had shut down 50 minutes earlier.

The driver, David Brockleback, 19, of Freehold, stepped out of his car unhurt. He was arrested and charged with drunken driving.

The bar had closed down at 5 a.m. and owner Thomas Varnum and a few helpers were cleaning up when Brockleback made his entrance at 5:50. Police said the car came off Route 35, rammed a stone pillar at the entrance to the inn, jumped a curb and smashed into the building, still carrying part of the pillar.

Sailplane Theory Is Being Used

Technique Developed to Improve Performance of Large Planes

STARKVILLE, Miss. UP) — A new flight research technique originally developed for sailplanes is now being used here to improve the performance of large, multi-engine airplanes.

It consists of long glides from 20,000 feet to 10,000 feet with both engines of a Lockheed Lodestar stopped and the propellers feathered.

After the "dead-stick" test, drag measurements with the engines going are made to give a comparison of the power required in gliding flight with that of flight under power and point up modifications in design needed for increased speed without an increase in gasoline consumption.

Dr. August Raspet, head of the aerophysics department of Mississippi State College, is computing the drag and efficiency of the Lodestar.

To duplicate these tests would require the use of a fullscale wind tunnel which does not exist in a size large enough to contain the Lodestar.

"Even if such a wind tunnel did exist," Dr. Raspet said, "'tunnel wall' effects and flow turbulence would subject the tests to serious errors.

"Furthermore, by utilizing the sky as a wind tunnel, these flight measurements are made at a considerably lower cost."

He said tests already have resulted in an increase in cruising speed of 50 miles per hour with no increase in horsepower.

Salute to New Year Proves a Boomerang

Russell C. Bunker's salute to the new year backfired.

Employment Hit Record in 1953

State Commission Says Mid-Year's 2.7 Million Workers All-Time High

DETROIT (UP)—The Michigan Employment Security Commission said in a New Year's Day statement that 1953 saw the state record its highest employment on record and its lowest peace-time unemployment.

The record-breaking employment total came in June when 2,790,000 persons were "engaged in gainful occupations of all classes" in Michigan.

Most of the manufacturing workers were employed by auto plants.

"During April, May and June the automobile industry employed 43 per cent of all the workers in manufacturing and an additional 12 per cent in feeder plants," the MESC said.

"The upward trend was halted in July when the Detroit Transmission Plant (General Motors) was gutted by fire, and resulted in a loss of 72,000 jobs in the automotive industry."

MESC Director Max Horton said about 150,000 persons, a little more than 5 per cent of the state's labor force, were unemployed at the end of the year.

Horton said there was "little chance" of the unemployment total changing much in the next few months.

He said back-to-work calls in the auto industry would be offset by seasonal layoffs in the construction industry and department stores.

Horton said the commission paid out fewer claims in 1953 than in any other peace-time year, collected more money, reached the highest employment reserve and made more job placements than during any other year in history.

Lamb Brothers Work Canvas Into a Variety of Products

(Editor's note: This is another in a series of articles on various business establishments in the Pontiac area.)

By ROBERT F. MAHER

Two Pontiac brothers who started the Pontiac Tent and Awning Co. at 84 Oakland Ave. in 1921 now head their business from offices at 400 Oakland Ave.

They moved to their present address in 1924 after several other moves, made necessary by their growing industry.

"Practically all our work is custom-made," R. A. Lamb reports, "with the majority of orders coming from home owners."

He and his brother, Martin L. Lamb, set up a small machine shop in the basement of their store and turn out all the awning frames necessary for filling orders.

During the peak season three other employes run a variety of stitching and braiding machines on the first floor of the building, working large sheets of canvas into finished products.

"We take orders from persons interested in equipping their homes or businesses with awnings, then take the necessary measurements and turn out quality work," the brothers said.

The business includes installing awnings in the spring, servicing them if necessary through the summer, removing them when winter approaches and then storing them in our store until they're needed again.

In addition to awnings the brothers also take orders for waterproofed canvas (tarpaulin), "fancy dyed" canvas for lawn or porch furniture and tents.

We make our tents right here in the shop and rent them out for commercial enterprises such as fairs, picnics and exhibits."

"Our right-hand 'man' is Mrs. Clarissa Peters," according to R. A. Lamb. "She came to work for us in 1940 to answer telephone calls, but now she can run any machine in the shop and handles all our bookkeeping besides."

The brothers have three large storage rooms, a garage and the machine shop in the basement in addition to the main store and two sewing rooms on the first floor.

Martin lives with his wife at 144 Wenonah Dr. while Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Lamb live at 60 Kemp St.

Chesapeake Bay Retains Pleistocene Age Look

WASHINGTON (UP) — Life along the shores of the Chesapeake Bay hasn't changed much since the ice age — geologically speaking.

Oysters, clams, crabs, and other forms of marine life are still extant though not concentrated in the same habitat.

Sites studied in southern Maryland counties by Dr. S. F. Blake of the Department of Agriculture, yielded fossils dating from the early pleistocene age. The species found are typical of those along the coast from the Gulf of Mexico northward.

Secretary Hobby Reports Groundwork Laid for Advances in Coming Months

(This is the final in a series of year-end reports by members of President Eisenhower's cabinet.)

By OVETA CULP HOBBY
Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare

The record of the Eisenhower administration in the important fields of health, education, and welfare during this first year is, in my opinion, one of noteworthy administrative improvement. It has been a period in which some needed legislation was passed and the groundwork laid for more important recommendations in the months ahead.

In the course of the past session of Congress, President Eisenhower sent to the Congress ten reorganization plans, all of which were accepted.

The first of these reorganizations gave Cabinet status to the Federal Security Agency.

How important these programs are to the people of America can be judged by a brief review of their functions.

The Food and Drug Administration has, as its primary concern, the purity and safety of the foods, drugs, and cosmetics shipped across state lines.

The Office of Education encourages the sound development of the nation's schools in a variety of ways. This year Congress authorized the department to continue aiding "federally affected" school districts: those where federal installations, usually for defense, have cut the property tax base and overburdened the school system. New classrooms built with HEW help will house 350,000 pupils. Eligible school districts will receive operating funds to cover the expenses of about 1,000,000 youngsters this year.

Help Safeguard People's Health

By aiding state and local health departments, by supporting and conducting research into our major diseases, and by operating hospitals for the care of merchant seamen and other groups designated by Congress, the Public Health Service helps guard the health of our people.

The big, new Clinical Center of the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., was opened this year, combining hospital and laboratory research facilities.

The Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, in partnership with state rehabilitation agencies, helped more than 60,000 disabled men and women return to productive employment this year.

Many were previously on the public assistance rolls, receiving about $600 a year. Their rehabilitation cost only about $560 and made them self-supporting. And no price can be put on the value to the rehabilitated person himself of the chance to get back to a self-reliant, self-supporting life. Despite the soundness of vocational rehabilitation as an investment in human and community betterment, 2,000,000 disabled persons who could be restored to employment still await the skilled services that can help them back to work.

OVETA CULP HOBBY

Fight Delinquency Among Children

The Children's Bureau, a part of the Social Security Administration, works to foster the happy, healthy growth of our children.

In addition to its own research and educational activities, it partially supports, through grants-in-aid, the maternal and child health and child welfare programs of our states and territories.

This year, the Children's Bureau stepped up its campaign to stimulate community action against juvenile delinquency.

The shocking facts brought out by Senator Hendrickson's committee have greatly increased public awareness of a problem that has long troubled the Children's Bureau and other units of the department concerned with child welfare.

The Social Security Administration is best known, of course, for the two interlocking programs it supervises: old-age and survivors insurance and public assistance. Both are designed to afford some measure of economic protection to our people.

President Eisenhower has emphatically endorsed the extension of old-age and survivors insurance to some 10,000,000 workers who are not now covered.

An Administration bill introduced in the past session of Congress would extend coverage to self-employed farmers and professional people; hired farm and domestic workers not now covered; and ministers and state and local government workers, on a voluntary basis.

Details of this bill were worked out by a representative group of consultants called to Washington to advise us. They recommended that old-age and survivors insurance be extended to virtually all Americans, as basic retirement protection.

Pensions Surpass Outright Relief

In 1953, for the first time, more Americans were receiving retirement or survivors benefits under old-age and survivors insurance than were receiving outright cash grants for public assistance.

Those who did receive public assistance were either old and needy, blind dependent children, or permanently and totally disabled. Only a few had built up any rights in the old-age and survivors insurance trust fund to which they could turn.

Expansion of old-age and survivors insurance protection to more of our people, as called for by the President's bill, should undoubtedly work to reduce further the need for public assistance in the years ahead.

Matching grants to the states for public assitance make up three fourths of the Department's annual appropriation. Since the federal share of these programs must match state expenditures, we actually have little effective control over this portion of our budget. It was possible, however, to effect a 13 per cent reduction in the one fourth of our 1954 appropriation that represents "controllable" expenses.

Some of our most significant work this year was the painstaking, behind-the-scenes kind familiar to anyone who ever stepped into a going enterprise to introduce changes and improvements.

We have succeeded in cutting our full-time staff of nearly 35,000, down about 1,400 since last January.

Three fourths of these separations resulted from resignation and retirement. Full background investigations are now being made by Civil Service or the FBI of everyone in or appointed to a "sensitive" job in HEW.

To increase efficiency and integrate the Department, a Department Council has been organized. It brings our top officials together weekly to report accomplishments and consider policy decisions.

Of the money HEW receives from Congress, 94 cents out of every dollar goes to the states in the form of grants-in-aid or other benefits.

The forthcoming recommendations of the Commission on Intergovernmental Relations will naturally be of deep interest to our staff.

I cannot, of course, at this time reveal any details of the budgetary or legislative proposals relating to this Department that will be presented at the next session of the Eighty-third Congress. When these proposals are presented, I am sure they will make news.

They will also make good reading for all of us who are working toward sound social progress.

List 3,600 Missing in Korea as Dead

WASHINGTON (UP)—More than 3,600 American soldiers and airmen missing in Korea for over a year now are officially listed as dead. The Army and Air Force so informed their next-of-kin by wire yesterday.

Thus, the toll of battle deaths in the Korean War has been raised to nearly 30,000.

The Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps still must make final disposition of over 3,800 cases of men now regarded as missing in action.

They will be so carried on casualty rolls until at least one year has passed without information that would indicate they may still be alive.

Rochester Couple Injured in Collision

A Rochester couple was injured yesterday when their auto collided with another car at Sashabaw Rd. and Walton Blvd., according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Mrs. Frances G. Harrison, 50, of 300 Main, Rochester was admitted to Pontiac Genrael Hospital with a fractured pelvis. Her condition is reported good today.

Her husband, Howard, 51, was treated for multiple bruises.

Deputies said that Edward G. Gordon, 29, of Harrison, failed to see the stop sign in time and crashed into the Harrison car.

Proving It Doesn't Pay to Parade in Stolen Duds

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Rookie patrolman Joseph Kelly thought there was something familiar about the jacket worn by a passing marcher in yesterday's Mummers parade.

A second glance convinced him it was the same jacket stolen from Kelly while he was playing basketball several nights earlier.

The gent with the jacket, who identified himself as James Richards, also produced on demand Kelly's trousers and shirt.

He was held for a magistrate's hearing today.

Industrial Property Prices to Stay High

WASHINGTON (UP)—Industrial expansion and the high cost of new construction probably will keep prices of industrial property from dropping during the coming six months, the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards said today.

The association made public its 56th semiannual survey of the real estate market, which it said indicated that industrial property prices during the first half of 1954 are expected to remain at the same general level that has held for the past six months.

Nearly 75 per cent of the real estate boards surveyed in 259 communities, the association said, voiced this opinion.

One Slightly Injured as Car Hits Engine

Agapito Yera, 30, of 293 Crystal Lake Dr., was slightly injured when the car in which he was riding hit a Grand Trunk Western Railroad switch engine early today at the W. Wilson Ave. crossing. He was treated at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Driver of the auto, Lino Garcia, 47, of the same address, told Pontiac Police he failed to see the engine which was being operated by Carl B. Niemi, 34, of 2881 Marietta, Drayton Plains.

Police said the auto hit the engine with its right fender as the engine almost had completed its crossing.

Police Probing Damage to Cars

Windows Are Smashed as Officers Investigate Shooting; 2 Held

The patrol cars of policemen investigating a shooting at a New Year's Eve dance in the Pontiac Armory were damaged by persons milling around outside the building at 57 Water St.

Capt. Clark M. Wheaton, chief of Pontiac detectives, said Edward Cox, 23, of 13 Iowa, Detroit, and Lewis Williams, 22, of 409 Bloomfield Ave., were arrested early Friday morning for investigation of malicious destruction of property.

The patrol cars' windows were smashed and equipment was stolen from each of them, said Wheaton. The cars were parked outside the armory when police responded to the shooting alarm.

The victim of the shooting, George E. Wright, 24, of 107 Harrison Ave., was reported in good condition today at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. He was shot in the left side while dancing.

Wheaton said Manuel Crumb, 22, of 283 Branch St., is scheduled to make a statement today in the Oakland County Prosecutor's office. Crumb is being held for investigation of felonious assault.

Police also are holding Mrs. Joyce DeBoes of 422 Highland St. as a material witness.

After the shooting, police searched about 450 couples, said Wheaton. Ten knives were confiscated and a gun was found hidden behind the radiator of one of the police cars.

Some of the equipment stolen from the cars was found in the Clinton River today, Wheaton added.

Polish Rowdies Raided by Reds

Threat to Communism, Teenage Gangs Sent to Labor Camps

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Hundreds of teen-agers have been arrested in Poland in recent weeks in a drive to put down acts of hooliganism by roving gangs of young rowdies threatening Communist order.

Polish newspapers reaching here report almost daily raids by police in cities like Warsaw, Krakow and Lublin and in smaller towns. Young rowdies are rounded up and sent to labor camps.

Western diplomats in Vienna see the rowdyism as an expression of restlessness of Polish youth with Communist restrictions and only indirectly as a form of anticommunism.

The newspapers say that Communist youth organizations have been infected by rowdyism. On a recent excursion "the first cultural and educational demand of the (Communist) youth leaders was an energetic demand for vodka," one newspaper comments.

The juvenile gangs appear similar to those warring with authorities in some U.S. cities.

Newspapers make these complaints:

Gangs of young thugs attack "respectable people" on the streets of Warsaw and other cities in broad daylight. They enter state run stores and beat up the managers and assistants, apparently just for the fun of it.

* * *

They assault police, turn Communist-organized dances into brawls and have such defiance of the Red regime that they break up Communist meetings.

The hooliganism, says the Warsaw newspaper Zycie Warszawy, has even reached the point that high school kids beat up their teachers, It adds:

The range of hooliganism "consists of public rows, foul language, window breaking, destruction of public property, like the spoiling of park benches, attack and fights which often end with bodily injuries and even death of the person attacked."

Young Burglar Is Found Dead

Caretaker at Gar Wood Estate Discovers Body in Pool of Blood

DETROIT (UP)—An inquest was scheduled for today to determine the cause of death of a young burglar found in a pool of blood at the plush estate of former speedboat king Gar Wood.

The victim, who police said apparently cut his wrists while breaking windows, was identified tentatively as Robert Lee Schumake, about 18, of no known address.

Caretaker August Devos, 74, said he found the body Friday after following a trail of blood from a broken door window at the 30-room mansion to a tool shed 50 feet away.

Detective Sgt. Hiram Phibbs said the youth apparently cut his wrists while trying to break into the house, then bled to death when he was afraid to call for help. The body was found huddled under a lawn mower cover. Phibbs said the youth's wrists were "cut horribly."

Police said nothing was missing from the mansion. Wood, who is at his winter home in Florida, is owner of a boat-building concern and one-time holder of international speedboat records.

His Buddies Help Cop Become First 1954 Pop

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP)—Patrolman Frank M. Colella's buddies on the force helped him become Auburn's first 1954 father.

They took Mrs. Colella to a hospital in a patrol car when all the city's taxis were on New Year's Eve calls.

And the cop became a pop at 12:45 A.M. yesterday.

Enough Snow for 10,000 Balls to Go South

STOWE, Vt. (AP)—If nature cooperates, enough snow for 10,000 snowballs will be shipped from Mt. Mansfield to Puerto Rico tomorrow so the kids in the tropical isle can stage a snowball fight.

Sponsors are keeping their fingers crossed, however, because of the general scarcity of snow in this skiing area.

The snow, if available, will be packed in insulated containers and taken by truck to New York. There, the boxes will be placed aboard an Eastern Airlines plane Monday for the 1,600 mile flight to San Juan.

Roses Sent in Color on Grand Rapids TV

GRAND RAPIDS (UP)—WOOD-TV of Grand Rapids was one of the 21 television stations across the nation to carry Friday's Tournament of Roses Parade in color.

Manager Willard Schroeder said the station's special color equipment, ordered in May of 1953, arrived just in time to be set up for the telecast.

Schroeder said WOOD-TV will carry all future colorcasts made available by national networks. It is the only Michigan station now equipped to handle color telecasts.

The nation's only Anti-Aircraft Artillery Replacement Training Center at Fort Bliss, Texas, has trained more than 40,000 soldiers since its re-activation in August, 1950.

Lord Norwich Dies Aboard Cruise Ship

LONDON (AP) — Lord Norwich, eminent British politician, diplomat and man of letters, died yesterday aboard the French steamship Colombie off Vigo, Spain. He was 63.

Lord Norwich—who was Alfred Duff Cooper before he was raised to the peerage in 1952—collapsed in his cabin while on a cruise to Jamaica. His wife, society beauty and former actress Diana Manners, was with him when he died. She planned to accompany his body to England by plane today.

A member of Parliament for over 20 years, Lord Norwich served as minister of war and first lord of the Admiralty in prewar Conservative governments. He was minister of information in Prime Minister Churchill's war Cabinet from 1940 to 1943 and then was Britain's first postwar ambassador to France.

225 Auburn Prisoners Swap Pint for Pack

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP)—About 225 Auburn State Prison convicts got extra cigarettes for New Year's by contributing to the local blood bank.

The Red Cross swapped them a pack a pint.

Loretta's Quotations on TV Popular With Her Public

NEW YORK — One of the most popular features of TV's dramatic series 'Letter to Loretta' has been the quotations with which the star of the show, Loretta Young, ends each program.

The information bureau has had many requests for these quotations particularly the lesser known ones, or ones which people recognize but are unable to identify by authorship.

One such was the quotation used at the conclusion of the story "Turn of the Card:" "Mistakes are like knives . . . they either serve you or cut you . . . depending on how you pick them up." (Anonymous.)

The quotation used at the conclusion of the story about a polio victim whose supply of electricity which operated his iron lung was cut off, was a selection from the Bible — Hebrews-12:26 and 27. "Yet once more I shake not the earth only, but also heaven—that those things which cannot be shaken may remain."

In this instance, the program had shown how a man who desired death was reawakened to the love and loyalty of his wife and the great need for him to return this love by resuming his efforts to learn to breathe unaided by the iron lung.

One of the most popular of all Letter to Loretta programs was the one dealing with the Cub Scouts and the difficulty of interesting parents in the work of the organization.

The sponsor of the program was besieged with requests, following the program last fall, for prints of the film. The group who made the requests were for the most part Cub Scout packs who wished to show the film at parent-scout gatherings.

The quotation which Loretta used following that program was, "Everything you do with that boy of yours today —you are affecting what he will be tomorrow." The quotation is taken from the Cub Scout Manual.

Shakespeare, Bobby Burns, I. Pope, Longfellow, John Donne and Matthew Prior have been represented in the Letter to Loretta closings — each selection having been made on the basis of the individual program theme.

As an omnivorous reader, Loretta Young has taken particular delight in the quotations, many of which are her personal favorites.

In the first nine months of 1953, Great Britain exported almost twice as many passenger cars as the U. S.
