Caro Trucker Murdered Near Pontiac Tavern

LBJ Is for Latin Summit

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Johnson endorsed today a proposal for him to meet with Latin-American chiefs of state to speed up work of the Alliance for Progress.

Johnson gave a broad review of U.S. policy toward Latin America in a speech prepared for delivery at the unveiling of a statue of Abraham Lincoln in a park in Mexico City's Polanco residential section.

Referring to the summit meeting proposed by Argentine President Arturo Illia, he said:

"I will in the months ahead join with Latin-American leaders in exploring the proposal for a new meeting at the very highest level to examine our common problems and to give the Alliance for Progress increased momentum."

Although warning that "any such conference should be prepared with utmost care," Johnson added that "careful preparation need not be the enemy of imaginative action."

SUMMIT MEETING

There has been speculation recently that the U.S. President may visit South America before the end of the summer, and a summit meeting could provide the occasion for his visit.

The unveiling of the $150,000 bronze statue, which the

Faces Quiz on Ford's Allegations of Bomb Shortage, Port Snarl

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who has spent more than 80 hours before congressional committees this year, faces more congressional questioning about bomb shortage charges and his readiness policies.

Republican House leader Gerald R. Ford said yesterday McNamara "will be asked many questions" after the House returns from its Easter recess.

Ford showed every sign of boring ahead with his charge that the Johnson administration is guilty of "shocking mismanagement" of the war effort.

He was unconvinced by McNamara's assertion that "there isn't any" shortage of bombs for the Viet Nam war and that there is no truth to the mismanagement allegation.

★ ★ ★

While Democrats, too, have challenged McNamara's readiness policies, the Republican House leader's volley had the sound of an official GOP position for the coming congressional election campaigns.

★ ★ ★ ★

Ford kicked off the latest skirmish over readiness when he called a news conference, made his "shocking mismanagement" charge, and:

Spoke of reports that "we are running short of bombs despite all the billions we have voted for defense."

Declared "the back-up of shipping in Saigon harbor is almost a national scandal."

★ ★

Several hours later McNamara held a news conference of his own at the Pentagon.

He replied: "I don't think there is any basis whatever" for charges of mismanagement or bomb shortages. "It just isn't true," he said.

MURDER SCENE — Investigating police officers stand near the blanket covered body of Carlaroy W. Henry, 29, of Caro, who was shot and killed early this morning in Pontiac. No suspects have been picked up in the murder of the truck driver. Robbery is believed to be the motive in the slaying.

Police Theorize Robbery Was Killer's Motive

Single Bullet Wound Kills Father of Three; Wallet Is Missing

A young truck driver and father of three children was shot and killed early today in a parking lot of a south-end Pontiac tavern.

The victim was identified by Pontiac polic as Carlaroy W. Henry, 29, of Caro.

Police said there were no suspects in the killing and theorized the motive was robbery, since they couldn't find Henry's wallet near or on his body.

Henry, en route from Pontiac to Saginaw, died of a single bullet wound from a 22-caliber automatic pistol, according to police.

He was shot in the chest.

★ ★ ★

Detective Sgt. John A. DePauw said Henry apparently was shot as he walked from a pay phone booth back to his diesel cab after making a routine check-in with the Detroit office of the Central Transport Co.

BODY DISCOVERED

The victim's body was discovered by two GMC Truck & Coach Division employes at the side of the Jet Bar, 716 Woodward, just before 2:30 a.m.

Henry was found just 11 minutes after calling his office at 2:19 a.m.

Gerald L. Bullock, 31, 8461 Bridge Lake, Springfield Township, told police he came upon the victim lying face down on the gravel next to his still-running diesel truck.

★ ★ ★

Police said they had been unable to find anyone who heard a shot, and believed that the sound of a small-caliber weapon would have been drowned out by the loud running diesel engine.

CALLED POLICE

Bullock and his companion, Edward H. Friend Jr., 368 Tower, then returned to the bar and notified a bartender who telephoned police.

Three detectives, along with a half-dozen officers and patrolmen, responded to the call and combed a wide portion of the Woodward-South Boulevard area until daylight.

Found in a field some 150 feet from the site of the shooting was a partially loaded clip of 22-caliber bullets, which police tagged as evidence along with a

Henry Ford II Blasts Auto Safety Critics

WOODHAVEN (UPI) — Henry Ford II departed from a bland speech text today to lash out at safety critics of the auto industry.

★ ★ ★

He warned Congress it could hurt the economy by imposing new burdens on car makers.

Gov. Romney, following Ford to the speaker's rostrum at a factory dedication ceremony, also defended the auto industry's work on safety.

Romney, former president of American Motors Corp., said the auto industry had pulled the United States out of depressions in the past and the nation's prosperity was closely linked with that of car makers.

★ ★ ★

Ford, chairman of Ford Motor Co., strongly criticized attorney Ralph Nader, author of "Unsafe at Any Speed," a book alleging cars as unsafe, and a star witness in Senate hearings on proposed auto safety legislation.

QUESTIONS AUTHORITY

Ford said he questioned Nader's technical authority.

He cited Nader's allegation yesterday that the Volkswagen, a German car, is unsafe as an example of an attack based on insufficient technical knowledge.

He said congressmen considering legislation that would give the government the power to impose safety rules on car makers were "men of good will." But he urged them to give more consideration to the economic harm their proposals might impose on the auto industry.

Ford said it was not fair to blame car makers for traffic deaths.

SHARED CONCERN

He said the industry shared the nation's concern over 50,000 traffic deaths a year but was building safe cars now and making them safer every year.

He said too many unqualified people were joining the chorus of criticism.

Bridge Leap Fatal to Man

Lawyer's Car Found Near Port Huron Site

PORT HURON (AP)—A man leaped to his death from the International Blue Water Bridge today, police reported.

Police said a car registered to Chase S. Osborn III, St. Clair city attorney and grandson of former Gov. Chase S. Osborn, was found parked on the bridge near the spot where the man leaped 152 feet into the water.

A briefcase belonging to Osborn was found in the car, officers said.

The bridge spans the St. Clair River and links Michigan and Ontario, Canada.

★ ★ ★

Witnesses on the Ontario side said they saw a man get out of the car, walk to the bridge railing and jump. They said he appeared to struggle for a moment and then sank beneath the surface of the water.

SEARCH RIVER

State Police skin divers were searching the swift-flowing river for the body.

Osborn is a former St. Clair prosecutor.

His grandfather was governor from 1911 to 1913.

Firemen, City Near Accord

State Labor Mediator Leonard Bennett announced yesterday that tentative agreement has been reached between the city and the Pontiac Firefighters Association (PFA).

Terms of the potential settlement of the wage dispute that dates back to last summer are being withheld pending ratification by both sides, said Bennett, even though they would involve expenditure of public funds.

Seeking a written agreement, the PFA had listed among its demands a longevity pay plan, settlement of certain grievances and $49 more per year for fire fighters than the $351 pay hike granted by the commission last August.

Jack Douglas, PFA president, said today that he plans membership meetings next Tuesday and Wednesday.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren said a further meeting with PFA representatives is planned for Thursday to prepare a final draft of the PFA-city agreement.

Tigers, Tied for 1st, Open Play at Home

DETROIT — Dave Wickersham and Al Kaline, a pair of 31-year-old veterans, were prepared to "show off" here today when the Detroit Tigers opened their American League home schedule against Washington.

The Tigers went into the game tied for first place with a 3-0 record.

Wickersham, designated the Tigers' top relief pitcher by Manager Charlie Dressen before spring training started, is getting a chance to show if he deserves a spot in the starting rotation.

On the other hand, Kaline is out to show the home fans that he has regained the friskiness that was his trademark in former years.

After pacing the Detroit pitching staff with 19 victories two seasons ago, Wickersham fell off to an 8-14 record in 1965.

Strong showings by youngsters Deny McLain and Joe Sparma plus the acquisition of Bill Monbouquette sent the strong right-hander to the bullpen where the Tigers are weakest.

★ ★ ★

UNHAPPY

Dressen, however, is unhappy with the recent performances of Sparma and Hank Aguirre and is starting Wickersham "until they are ready." Wickersham would just as soon stay a starter and will be trying to prove it today.

He is being opposed by Washington righthander Jim Duckworth.

Off-season surgery on a sore foot apparently has returned Kaline to the form that once made him a league batting champion.

★ ★ ★

"Al is like a kid again," said Dressen. "He is aggressive again as he should be. Being aggressive in the field and on the bases is his biggest value. He lost some of that last year because of his foot injury."

★ ★ ★

Kaline also is hustling more than ever in the outfield. He dived into the right-field stands in Yankee Stadium during the Tigers' three-game sweep to try and head off a home run by Jake Gibbs.

A crowd of 36,000 was expected to see the usual first-game ceremonies. Showers are forecast for this afternoon, but are not expected to hinder play.

Viet 'Lifeline' Huge Success

By PAT McCARTY

College kids do care.

The young men and women at Oakland University had more than a ton of supplies which prove it.

The project which Marine Lt. Richard Stier feared would be an "embarrassing flop" has in fact become a colossal success.

Involved students knew it yesterday as they helped Marines load the results of "Thang Binh Lifeline" onto a truck.

★ ★ ★

Transporting of the goods to the Grosse Ile Naval Air Station is the first leg of a trip which eventually will get them to the rural Viet Nam village of Thang Binh.

RECEIVED PRAISE

Oakland University administrators also knew of the students' involvement and praised them yesterday for a job well done.

But the comments with the most impact came from Stier, via letters to his wife and to Mrs. Dorothy Hope, OU alumni relations director.

Stier, who graduated from OU in 1963, wrote his first letter to Mrs. Hope in February.

With a heavy heart, he said, he wrote of the tragedy of war—of the women who had become widows and the children left fatherless in the hamlet of Thang Binh, some 20 miles south of Da Nang.

"They have a bare minimum of clothing to wear," he wrote. "They are undernourished, dirty, destitute and have very little to live for."

Stier asked Mrs. Hope if she thought OU students could be interested in collecting supplies or money to help the villagers.

Were they interested?

"I can't believe it," he wrote in a recent letter to his wife, who lives with their two small children at 716 Hamlet, Pontiac Township.

EXPECTED FLOP

"Dick said he thought it would be a big flop," Mrs. Stier said yesterday. "He had heard about all the student demonstrations and he didn't think there were 10 that felt the same way he did."

"To say the least I am stunned," he wrote in a recent letter to Mrs. Hope.

Whether they support or oppose the war in Viet Nam, the students responded as one to the humanitarian lifeline project, uniting in a group headed by junior Margaret O'Reilly, 2952 Old Orchard, Waterford Township.

They hatched novel schemes to aid the drive — an "ugly man contest" which netted more than $40 and "soap dances" to which

BOUND FOR VIET NAM — Two Oakland University coeds help a Marine load a truck with supplies collected in the "Thang Binh Lifeline" campaign on the campus. Margaret O'Reilly (top), a Waterford Township junior, was chairman of the committee which collected 2,083 pounds of goods to send to the rural Vietnamese village. Maimu Oja, a freshman from Leonia, N.J., was chairman of the committee that packed the shipment.

Sing Along: April Showers May Come Our Way

A few light showers are expected to dampen the Pontiac area tonight.

Clouds will clear out tomorrow, leaving skies sunny and temperatures mild, says the forecaster.

The mercury will slip down to 34 to 40 tonight, then soar to highs of 58 to 60 tomorrow. There's a chance of showers again Sunday with temperatures continuing mild.

Morning winds were 6 to 14 miles per hour east to northeast.

Metro Area Hit by Sonic Booms

Sonic booms rolled across Oakland County and other parts of the metropolitan area early this morning as jets from Selfridge Air Base broke the sound barrier.

A spokesman at the Mount Clemens military installation said the planes, F106 all-weather interceptors, were on a training exercise.

The thunder-like blasts were heard at various times between 3 and 3:45 a.m., and according to the spokesman, were concentrated in the Mount Clemens-Warren area.

Miriani Plea Innocent in Tax Evasion Case

DETROIT (UPI) — Former Mayor Louis C. Miriani pleaded pleaded innocent today to charges of evading $62,000 in federal income taxes.

Miriani, now a city councilman, entered innocent pleas to each of four income tax evasion charges. He appeared before United States District Court Judge Thomas Thornton who freed him on $1,000 bond.

Buddhists Call Off Demonstrations

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Buddhist leaders in Saigon today reaffirmed their support of the military government's plans to hold elections in three to five months and called off future demonstrations. But they threatened to send the demonstrators into the streets again if the elections are not held as promised.

★ ★ ★

There was no indication that the Buddhists in an all-day policy session had decided whether to demand the resignation of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's regime or to allow it to rule until the elections.

A call for an immediate change of leadership came from Ky's military rival, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, whose ouster as 1st Corps commander a month ago set off the wave of unrest. Thi told a newsman in Da Nang: "We must have an immediate change of government. There must be a government of the people supported by the people. I don't think the people have confidence in the government of Premier Ky."

MONKS MEET

A council of 10 influential monks met at the Buddhist Institute in Saigon to thrash out the next move in a campaign that has so far forced the government to yield to most of the Buddhist demands.

★ ★ ★

A spokesman denied that the council had already demanded Ky's resignation. He said it still had not decided whether to seek the appointment of a caretaker regime to supervise the elections.

★ ★ ★

"That is one of the matters to be discussed," he said.

Tran Quang Thuan, the council's lay spokesman and a former welfare minister, said the monks were "generally satisfied" with the government's pledges Thursday but added they did not erase all problems.

PRESERVE HONOR

"Many problems confront us and the government and we must arrive at solutions that preserve honor and prestige for all concerned," he said. "For instance, we want to be assured that no one who took part in the demonstrations will be punished."

Thuan said that despite the government's pledge of an amnesty to all demonstrators the monks feared reprisals in Da Nang, Hue and other northern Buddhist strongholds where the public agitation began.

the admission was several bars of soap.

SENT CONTRIBUTIONS

Students from Oakland Community College, Rochester High School and Marian High School in Bloomfield Township also sent contributions.

Wrapped and ready to go, the supplies weighed 2,083 pounds.

In the more than 100 boxes were 2,000 bars of soap, 926 undershorts, 230 play shorts, 300 polo shirts, six cases of plastic toys, four cases of powdered milk, two cases of paper towels, 576 toothbrush kits, assorted clothing, sewing materials, powdered food and 2,000 lollipops.

★ ★ ★

There also is a $250 check for CARE and plans to send a treadle sewing machine.

SHORT OF CASH

The project was so successful that the students found themselves short of cash to cover mailing expenses.

The Army had agreed to ship the supplies to Viet Nam from the West Coast, but getting them to California was the committee's problem.

Mrs. Hope, who served as adviser to the project, contacted Col. Robert L. Rathbun, commanding officer of the Marine Air Reserve Training Detachment at Grosse Ile Naval Air Station.

★ ★ ★

Rathbun agreed to airlift the supplies to San Diego and arrived yesterday with two Marines from his detachment to transport the goods to the station.

BY ARMED CONVOY

Eventually, the goods will be taken by armed convoy to Thang Binh, which is surrounded by Viet Cong-held territory.

Stier will return to the U. S. in June and probably will be a civilian by the time the shipment arrives.

However, a token shipment of three cases will be flown directly to him, so that he can distribute some himself.

His letter read yesterday by Mrs. Hope expressed Stier's gratitude.

"For the recipients of these supplies, I thank you and everyone else involved," he wrote. "People like you make the U.S.A. great."

Dzendzel Quits Governor Race

Support for Ferency Is Growing in State

By the Associated Press

Senate Majority Leader Raymond Dzendzel, D-Detroit, who earlier flirted with the idea of bidding for the Democratic nomination for governor, today said he has decided not to enter the race.

Dzendzel bowed out of contention as support grew for state chairman Zolton Ferency, who is expected to announce at a talk at Michigan State University Tuesday that he will seek the nomination.

★ ★ ★

Unlike many other party leaders, Dzendzel did not climb on the Ferency bandwagon. In fact, he earlier expressed concern that Ferency might not be challenged for the Democratic nomination.

"We need somebody who is a drawing power," he said at the time. "We have legislative and congressional races to worry about."

VOWS SUPPORT

Today he merely said he would support the party's gubernatorial nominee.

Ferency got the blessings Thursday of James Hare, Secretary of state since 1954 and the top Democratic vote-getter in the 1964 state election.

Hare's endorsement of Ferency to oppose Republican Gov. George Romney's bid for a third term followed similar approvals from Speaker Joseph Kowalski of the Michigan House, Neil Staebler, Democratic national committeeman, and Attorney General Frank Kelley.

CAVANAGH CAMPAIGN

Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh took his campaign for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate Thursday night to a Chamber of Commerce banquet in heavily Republican Lenawee County.

Meanwhile a Cavanagh opponent, former Gov. G. Mennen Williams, was principal speaker at a Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner for Ohio Democrats at Cincinnati.

A third Democratic senatorial aspirant, James L. Elsman of Detroit, challenged both Cavanagh and Williams to make their campaign finance records available for public inspection.

BIRMINGHAM — The work of Bloomfield Art Association students will be incorporated into a varied exhibit to open Sunday at the Birmingham Art Center.

All students in the spring, summer and fall 1965 and winter 1966 classes have been invited to submit their work.

Juror for the annual student exhibition is Lawrence Barker, head of the print department at Cranbrook Academy of Art, Bloomfield Hills.

The entire first floor of the art center will be used for the exhibition, with adult students' work in the front and main galleries and the work of the children's winter classes in the classroom area.

★ ★ ★

The show will indicate the scope of courses now being offered by the association—weaving and woven forms, sculpturing, oil painting, acrylic, watercolor, portraiture, ceramics, metal pottery and fused glass.

TIME OF RECEPTION

The opening reception is scheduled for 2-5 p.m. Sunday. The adult student exhibit will continue through May 1.

The children's exhibit will be on display until April 24 only.

Hours at the center, 1516 S. Cranbrook, are 2-5 p.m. daily except Monday.

A grand finale for spring vacation will be the children's show tomorrow at the Community House.

Featured in the program will be television personality Jerry Booth and LaThom the Magician.

Two performances are scheduled — 10:30 a.m.-noon and 1:30-3 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Because the number of seats is limited, parents are urged to pick up the free tickets in advance if possible.

Sunday will be the official day for flying kites in Birmingham.

Children 5 through 12 years of age can participate in the annual kite-flying contest by registering at 2 p.m. at Derby Junior High School.

At 2:30 p.m., 5- and 6-year-old youngsters will compete, with 7- and 8-year-olds to "do their stuff" at 3 p.m.

The contest for boys and girls 9 through 12 years old will be at 3:30 p.m.

PRIZES SET

Prizes will be awarded for the high-flying kites and to those children who made the most beautiful and the most unusual kites.

The contest, sponsored by the Birmingham Optimist Club and the recreation board, will be held April 24 in case of rain Sunday.

U.S. Congress authorized as a gift to the Mexican people, was a high point of the President's hastily arranged 24-hour visit to Mexico's capital.

Today is the 101st anniversary of Lincoln's assassination.

The visit began with a thundering welcome last night which left Johnson a bit weary but exhilarated.

PUBLIC APPEARANCES

Today he mixed more public appearances and private talks with Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz at Los Pinos, the Mexican White House.

Johnson in his speech declared, "We are engaged in a vast social revolution touching the lives of millions of peoples on two continents.

"Like Lincoln's this is a test of whether freedom can work.

"It is a test of whether men in liberty can overcome the weight of the past and lift from their brothers the blight of hunger, the blindness of ignorance and the burden of disease. We are in the midst of that test."

Johnson said his administration "will not be deterred by those, whether in the United States or in Latin America, who tenaciously or selfishly cling to the stultifying privileges from the past. We will not be deterred by those who say that to risk change is to risk communism."

Uncle Sam's Reminder: Today Is 'Pay' Day

WASHINGTON (AP)—Failure to file an income tax return by tonight's midnight deadline could subject a taxpayer to payment of penalties and interest on the tax he still owes the government.

★ ★ ★

The Internal Revenue Service said today that in some cases — if a taxpayer is ill, involved in an accident or out of the country, for example—an exemption can be granted permitting the late filing of a return if the taxpayer requests one.

Although this would exempt the taxpayer from paying penalties, he would still be subject to an interest charge of 6 per cent annually on any tax due beginning at midnight tonight.

The penalty for failure to file a return without such an exemption is 5 per cent monthly on the tax still owed the government up to a maximum of 26 per cent. A 6 per cent interest charge is also made.

★ ★ ★

IRS said it would be better for a taxpayer to file his return before the deadline even if he can't pay now what he still owes. In this way he might avoid the penalty and be required to pay only the 6 per cent interest charge for late payment.

Sewer Plans Almost Drawn

Lines in Waterford Will Curb Pollution

Final construction plans for approximately two miles of sanitary sewer lines for a portion of Waterford Township bordering Pontiac are about 70 per cent complete, according to Johnson and Anderson, Inc., township engineering consultants.

The area's untreated waste water and septic tank effluent presently flow into the county's West End storm drain which empties into Pontiac's Crystal Lake, according to the Michigan Water Resources Commission.

The problem received special attention at Tuesday night's Pontiac City Commission meeting.

City Manager Joseph Warren was directed to obtain a report from township officials on what steps have been taken to eliminate pollution in this area.

The directive followed consideration of a township request for extension of city sewer services to another area near Marion and Scott Lake Road in the township.

★ ★ ★

The township requested that a 1958 city-township agreement be amended to provide for the extension, which is to serve a new elementary school — cherokee Hills — and 50 residential lots.

COMPLETION DATE

Johnson and Anderson officials said yesterday that they have notified the Michigan Water Resources Commission that construction drawings and specifications will be completed by June 1 for the project in the West End Drain area.

In a letter received by township officials last Oct. 11, the Water Resources Commission originally proposed the following timetable for implementation of the program:

- Complete construction plans and specifications for facilities by March 1.
- Complete financing of the facilities by June 1.
- Award construction contracts by June 15.

A plea of not guilty was entered on behalf of the defendants—Roy White, 30, of 173 Bagley and Lewis Cummings, 39, of 240 Wessen — by U.S. District Judge Thomas P. Thornton.

The pair were indicted Tuesday by a grand jury on 10 counts of violating the federal narcotics statute.

Although trial date was not set, Asst. U. S. Atty. Howard E. O'Leary Jr. said he would seek to try White and Cummings "within a month."

Following arraignment, both were released in continuance of $2,500 bond set at their preliminary hearing.

Mexico Welcome 'Magnifico'

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Upstaged, but delighted by it all, Lady Bird Johnson described the tumultuous Mexican welcome for her husband in one Spanish word — "magnifico."

★ ★ ★

The U.S. First Lady said the flag-waving, band-playing, cheering, colorful outpouring of more than a million persons, amid a snowstorm of colored confetti, was the biggest turnout she'd ever experienced in years of travel the world over with Lyndon B. Johnson.

★ ★ ★

She didn't seem to mind that her own carefully prepared speech — in Spanish — was eliminated for lack of time.

★ ★ ★

Daughters Lynda, 22, and Luci, 18, shared the spectacular occasion.

Luci, briefly upset by Mexico City's high altitude and a rough plane ride from Texas, dropped out briefly at the airport ceremony. But she was back in fine spirits for the 2½-hour, 9-mile motorcade that was a triumph for her father.

'INCREDIBLE'

"Just incredible — like nothing I have ever seen in my life," said Luci, who had never been to a foreign capital before.

She found herself the center of enthusiasm, too, reporting that "hundreds and hundreds of people" shouted to her. There were cries of "Viva Luci! Happy wedding. Where's your fiance?"

Luci is to marry Pat Nugent, 22, of Waukegan, Ill., on Aug. 6. But he was left behind in Texas.

It was to have been Mrs. Johnson's show before the President moved in and took it over. He had named the First Lady and Secretary of State Dean Rusk cochairmen of a delegation to dedicate a statue of Abraham Lincoln today as a gesture of American friendship with Mexico.

SPANISH CLASSES

Mrs. Johnson had brushed up on her Spanish, resuming private classes with friends in Washington last January, then the President announced he was going along. His major speeches left Lady Bird with a few "brief remarks."

★ ★ ★

Among last-minute decisions was the President's idea to invite his daughters along.

★ ★ ★

"Come on, why don't you go?" he urged Luci. She took him up on it. Then he telephoned Lynda and she left her classes at the University of Texas.

★ ★ ★

It was the bouncy, turbulent two-hour jet plane ride from San Antonio to Mexico City that caused Luci's initial discomfort. She said this, plus the effect of Mexico City's high altitude — 7,400 feet above sea level — made her feel weak during the long airport ceremony that included 21-gun salutes and translation of all speeches.

★ ★ ★

Midway in her father's response to the welcome of Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, Luci retired to the plane with the White House physician, Vice Adm. George Burkley. He administered a bit of oxygen to get her back on her feet.

"We stood up a long time," Luci said of the arrival ceremony.

China Embassy Hit in Jakarta

JAKARTA (UPI) — Thousands of Indonesian students of Chinese descent today stormed the Chinese Communist embassy, battered down the doors with a truck, and shot an embassy employe in a wild demonstration against the Peking regime. Indonesian troops guarded the students with armored cars.

★ ★ ★

Members of the embassy staff shouted curses from a balcony and fought back with long knives and spears but the weight of number of the students prevailed.

★ ★ ★

The demonstrators surged over the walls — accompanied by troops — and battered through the massive teak portal of the embassy with a truck.

Ten thousand youths had attended a rally announcing their support for Defense Chief Lt. Gen. Suharto and then streamed toward the compound.

Drawings OK'd for Facilities

Working drawings for Oakland County's proposed courthouse addition and court tower remodeling as well as those for the South Oakland Health Center in Southfield were approved yesterday.

The buildings and grounds committee of the County Board of Supervisors accepted the drawings which represent some $5 million in proposed construction.

Cost of the health center is estimated at $971,000 with an additional $105,000 earmarked for furniture and equipment. A federal grant for one third of this total cost is sought by the county.

Committee members called for some minor alterations in the design of the proposed east wing and must later approve the drawing changes.

★ ★ ★

Bids will be taken on the estimated $3.3 million wing and the $450,000 court tower alteration project by mid-July.

Bids on the health center are expected to be received early in June.

Legislative Conference Gets Districting

LANSING (AP)—The Legislature was agreed today on one man-one vote districts for county boards of supervisors, but the proposal was headed for a House-Senate conference committee for agreement on details.

Lawmakers hoped to have everything worked out in time to permit use of new districts for next fall's elections.

★ ★ ★

The Senate voted 26-9 for equal population districts Thursday after inserting a provision to prohibit gerrymandering.

Senators declined to insert a provision asking for an advisory opinion from the Michigan Supreme Court on constitutionality of the bill.

POSITION UNCLEAR

The court's position is unclear. It has upheld, by 4-4 votes, two directly opposed lower court opinions on the one man-one vote concept.

★ ★ ★

In a compromise with Republicans, majority Democrats in the Senate have added a provision to allow the boards of supervisors in counties under 370,000 population 30 days in which to do their own redistricting. This would apply to all but Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Genesee Counties.

★ ★ ★

In the large counties, and after 30 days in the smaller counties, districts would be drawn up by a commission composed of the county treasurer, clerk, prosecutor, chairman of the board of supervisors and senior probate judge.

The House version leaves the board chairman and probate judge off the apportionment commission.

★ ★ ★

Senators added a provision allowing city, village or township officials to become supervisors without giving up their local posts.

★ ★ ★

The House and Senate versions also differ on how many members boards of supervisors should have, although both agree it should not be more than 35.

Moose Had Right-of-Way

HOVLAND, Minn. (AP) — School bus driver Turie Waananen found himself stymied by a road hog the other day as he drove along a narrow road in wooded northeastern Minnesota.

★ ★ ★

The road hog, a moose, paced ahead of the bus, refusing to get out of the way. Waananen finally found passing room when they got to the intersection with U.S. Highway 61.

The setting was appropriate. It happened on Moose Valley Road.

BEGINNING OF A COMMUNITY—Work is well under way on the first buildings in the $250-million Keatington community at Baldwin and Waldon roads in Orion Township. The development on the 3,200-acre former Scripps Estate is being built by Birmingham-Bloomfield developer Howard T. Keating.

Illustrates Price Rise, Urbanization Trend

Farm Census Report Released

The gradual rise in farm market prices and land values and the trend toward urbanization in Oakland County in the past five years are graphically illustrated in a U.S. Census Bureau report released yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Taken in the fall of 1964, the census lists 987 farmers in the county, compared to 1,370 in 1959, the last year the census was taken.

Despite the nearly 39 per cent decrease in the number of farms, the value of farm products sold in the county rose from $8,267,506 in 1959 to $8,435,157 in 1964, an increase of 2 per cent.

The spread of residential, commercial, industrial and road construction is reflected in the percentage of total land area classified as farmland, which dropped from 29.4 to 23.1.

★ ★ ★

Elimination of smaller farms by urbanization and consolidation is shown in the average farm size, which rose from 120.5 acres to 131.6 acres during the period.

VALUE PER ACRE

Elimination of submarginal farmland, together with the steady increase in real estate values, pushed the value per acre of farm land in the county from $384.98 in 1959 to $529.66 in 1964.

The average value of land and buildings rose from $46,257 to $74,600 per farm during the five-year period.

The average age of farmers in the county rose from 52.2 in 1959 to 54.3 in 1964.

★ ★ ★

The most significant drop in the number of farms was in the dairy category, which fell nearly 40 per cent from 240 farms in 1959 to 145 in 1964.

HERDS LARGER

The number of dairy cows in the county dropped less than 18 per cent, from 6,200 to 5,110—indicating that although the number of herds is considerably less, they are larger.

The decline in the hog population was much greater — 9,178 to 2,970, while the beef cattle population rose from 4,382 to 5,345.

Beef and hog farms, not counted separately, were included in the total of "livestock other than poultry and dairy farms."

Although there was no significant change in number of farms, poultry farming increased about 10 per cent, while sheep operations decreased about 25 per cent.

EVERY 4 YEARS

The U.S. Department of Commerce conducts an agriculture census every five years in years ending in "4" and "9". The series began in 1840.

Steadily broadened in scope, the latest report contains more than 500 facts about agriculture in Oakland County.

Single copies are available from the Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C. 20233, or from the Detroit office of the Department of Commerce.

Work on Boys' Club Addition Is Slated to Begin This Summer

Work is scheduled to begin this summer on a $185,000 addition to the Auburn Heights Boys' Club.

Plans for the 12,500 square-foot addition were made final this week.

A meeting of the Boys' Club Board of Directors is scheduled for tomorrow to determine the method of financing the work.

Boys' Club Director Sam Sheehy said it is hoped that $25,000 can be raised in a community pledge dirve.

He said two foundations have promised to match whatever amount can be raised in the community.

COMMUNITY CENTER

Sheehy said the addition is to be a community center building and serve all groups within the community.

★ ★ ★

It will contain a gymnasium, community meeting rooms, arts and crafts rooms, senior and junior games rooms, a quiet room for choir practice and small group meetings and a snack bar.

Signs of Progress Seen at Huge Development Site

ORION TOWNSHIP — The proposed $250-million community near I-75 and Baldwin is beginning to show signs of progress.

Ground was broken for Keatington subdivision on the Scripps Estate in October 1964, but the construction company went bankrupt the following January and work was halted.

A new contractor, Michigan Sewer Construction Co. of Southfield, took over the work last September.

The vast development is to contain single-family homes, a high-rise apartment complex, town houses, office buildings, a private country club and golf course for residents, a number of marinas private beaches, schools and churches.

★ ★ ★

The development on Voorheis and Sixteen lakes is planned as a self-contained town, according to a spokesman of the Howard T. Keating development Co. of Birmingham.

★ ★ ★

The entire community is expected to take 10 to 15 years to complete.

Access Road to Link M24, School Site

LAKE ORION — A new road will soon be constructed from the junior high school site to M24 to alleviate traffic problems on Scripps Road.

Schools Supt. A. A. Reed estimates that the board of education will have to pay about $25,000 for the second road to the school.

He said that with 2,000 students attending the high school and junior high school, school buses tend to "pile up" at peak hours on Scripps.

The new road will be at the north end of the school property.

★ ★ ★

The board of education has also authorized a Head Start program for this summer.

90 PER CENT

Project Head Start is administered by the Office of Economic Opportunity. The federal government contributes 90 per cent of the funds for the project while the local district provides 10 per cent.

★ ★ ★

It provides underprivileged children with eight weeks of preschool training to prepare them for entry into kindergarten in the fall.

Details of the program for Lake Orion have not yet been worked out, according to Assistant Schools Supt. Lewis Mundy.

Tree Seedlings to Be Distributed at Fairgrounds

Some 150,000 pine tree seedlings purchased by the Oakland County Soil Conservation District will be distributed tomorrow in the block building at the 4-H Fairgrounds, Perry and Walton.

Ellis Humphrey, work unit conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service, said the entire lot of seedlings has been sold in advance.

Purchasers may pick them up between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The district provides the seedlings each year for farmers and others who wish to beautify their property and control erosion.

The varieties include Scotch, white, Austrian and red pine and Colorado and Norway spruce.

State Farmers Start Planting

LANSING (AP)—Some Michigan farmers already have started their spring planting, the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said Thursday.

There was very little snow in the state. A few fields of oats have been planted in Lower Michigan. Farmers also had started fertilizing fields.

★ ★ ★

Michigan's winter wheat crop was reported in good condition. There was very little winter kill and moisture supplies were adequate to surplus.

The 1966 winter wheat crop was forecast at 28.65 million bushels. This was four per cent above last year but 22 per cent below the 1960-64 average.

March milk production was estimated at 451 million pounds, six per cent below the month last year. Egg production, at 116 million for the month, was down four per cent from last year.

Huron-Clinton Record

120,000 Hear Nature Lectures

Over 120,000 southeastern Michigan school-age youngsters and their teachers heard nature lectures conducted by Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority naturalists from Nov. 1, 1965 through March 31.

This figure is the highest on record, surpassing the 86,800 youngsters who heard lectures during a comparable period last year.

Six naturalists visited 267 schools this year, compared to 204 last year, and provided 674 lectures compared to 465 last year. The lectures are accompanied with slides or film on a wide range of topics on natural science.

The lectures were presented by Lee Curtis, Don Hollums and Richard Mortemore from the Nature Center at Kensington Metropolitan Park near Milford, and by naturalists Miss Patricia Eising, Robert Kelly and Thomas H. Smith from the Nature Center at Stony Creek Metropolitan Park north of Rochester.

School groups may now hear lectures at either of the nature centers during morning hours Tuesday through Friday. Advance appointments for this service may be obtained by contacting the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, 1750 Guardian Building, Detroit 48226.

Preliminary Budget Figures Nudging $1 Billion in State

LANSING (AP)—The potential state general fund budget for 1966-67 nudged $1 billion today, legislative committee figures showed.

But fiscal experts in the House and Senate predicted it would decline to some point below that mark before the last bill was passed.

★ ★ ★

And House Ways and Means Committee members insisted their working figures will be subject to a great deal of revision before they are approved.

The committee introduced discretionary spending bills totaling $296.1 million Thursday. Coupled with $476.1 million introduced by the Senate Appropriations Committee Tuesday and Wednesday, they bring the total in general fund budget bills to $762.2 million.

A nearly $300-million school aid bill now under consideration would push the budget past the billion-dollar mark and wipe out the estimated $134 million surplus the state expects to have on hand at the end of the current fiscal year.

Gov. George Romney said earlier he expected his $945 million budget to eat up about half the surplus.

ABOVE FIGURE

Sen. Garland Lane, D-Flint, chairman of the appropriations committee, estimated that with the school aid formula being contemplated by the House the potential budget stands at about $1.059 billion — $114.2 million above Romney's recommendations.

With the aid formula being contemplated by the Senate, he said, it stands at about an even $1 billion.

"At what level will it wind up?" he was asked.

"Below $1 billion."

"How far below?"

"Your guess is as good as mine."

QUITE CLOSE

Rep. Einar Erlandsen, D-Escanaba, chairman of ways and means, said the House figures "are quite close to the governor's." But they are only working figures—developed by a group of subcommittees, he said.

"They haven't even been looked at by the full committee yet," he said. "And in many places we just put in a tentative figure to plug a gap in our information. There's a lot of work to be done yet."

★ ★ ★

The bills were referred back to committee as soon as they were introduced. Each chamber has until next Friday to pass all of its own bills.

Firm Halting Sale of LSD

Claims Action Due to Public Criticism

HANOVER, N.J. (AP) — The only licensed American distributor of the hallucinatory drug LSD has voluntarily halted distribution.

The action by Sandoz Pharmaceuticals was attributed to unforeseen public reaction against LSD, lysergic acid diethylamide, produced in Switzerland by the company's parent firm, Sandoz, Ltd.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Craig Burrell, medical director for Sandoz, said last night, "we brought it in from Switzerland for experimental purposes and released it only to highly qualified clinical investigators. Our stuff hasn't gone into the black market but the impression does persist among some people that it may have gone there."

In Washington, Paul Schuatte of the Federal Food and Drug Administration said the agency did not put any pressure on Sandoz to stop selling the drug.

Extensive use of LSD — which has no color, taste or odor — has been reported in New York. The New York County Medical Society has urged stiffer penalties for its illicit manufacture and sale.

The drug is said to produce extreme sensations of color, sight and taste, breaking down the sense of reality. Experts say it can cause suicidal or homicidal tendencies and mental damage.

★ ★ ★

In the recent murder of a 58-year-old woman teacher in Brooklyn, N.Y., her son-in-law, charged with the slaying, allegedly told police he had been "flying" on LSD for three days.

Storm-Lashed Liner Due in NY Tomorrow

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Italian luxury liner Michelangelo is expected to dock in New York tomorrow, two days late because of a mighty Atlantic storm that buffeted the ship earlier in the week.

Three persons aboard the Michelangelo died of injuries suffered when high winds and heavy seas hit the ship Tuesday. Twelve persons on the Italian lines were injured.

The dead were identified as an Italian crewman and two passengers, one of them insurance executive John Steinbach, 58, of Chicago.

Originally 10 persons were reported injured in the storm. But the line said yesterday two more reported to the Michelangelo's infirmary with broken ribs, raising the total to 12.

They were identified as an Italian steward and Wilbur Weeks, press attache at the American Embassy in Rome.

The storm took a total of eight lives. Five British seamen were washed overboard from the refrigerator ship Chusgal on Tuesday and lost at sea.

NEW SKYSCRAPER — Workmen gather atop the 56-story skyscraper of the Toronto-Dominion Centre in Toronto yesterday for a ceremony marking the "topping off" of steel on the tower. The building is the tallest in the British Commonwealth. A gold-painted bolt pinned the steel beam to the completed framework 740 feet above ground level.

'Basing U.S. Jets in Spain Not Due to French Action'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says its decision to base jet fighter squadrons in Spain is not the result of France ordering all foreign military forces and bases from its territory.

A Pentagon spokesman said Thursday there now are no U.S. air squadrons in France. He said the decision to base three squadrons of Air Force F100 jet fighters at the Torrejon Air Base was made to lessen the strain on the U.S. Tactical Air Command.

The command has been rotating three squadrons of jets from the United States to Italy and Turkey. The Spanish base will permit Italy and Turkey to be served by U.S. Air Force units in Europe.

About 800 Air Force men from the United States will be transferred to the Spanish base outside Madrid by the end of this month. Torrejon is one of three air bases used by the United States in Spain. The others are at Moron in southern Spain and Zaragoza in eastern Spain.

Torrejon also is the base for KC135 jet tankers used to refuel B52 bombers. Spain now bars aerial refueling over its territory after a KC135 and a B52 collided last January. Four hydrogen bombs were lost, including one that was not recovered until last week in the Mediterranean sea.

'County Road Tax Can't Exceed Limit'

LANSING (AP)—Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled Thursday that a local vote can not authorize taxes for local road purposes that might exceed the limit set by statute.

★ ★ ★

"The amount of taxes for county road purposes which may be levied in each county is subject to the limitation prescribed by the statute," Kelley said.

★ ★ ★

"Such limitation is not subject to increase by vote of the electors authorizing increase in the maximum millage limitation for the levy of taxes."

The question was raised by Sen. Robert Richardson, R-Saginaw.

One Good Term Deserves Another

Four years ago, Pontiac found itself with a city commission that soon after election split into factions. The effect was interference with the duties of the city manager that hamstrung effective conduct of city affairs and eventually the loss of a highly-regarded city manager and a competent chief of police.

Pontiac suffered widespread publicity as a city drifting without direction and a hazardous environment for potential industry.

★ ★ ★

Two years ago, the electorate rose up against the injury being done their city and cleaned house at City Hall.

The new commission, all men of high personal and business stature, have completely reversed the stalemate of confusion that characterized its predecessor. It appointed a city manager of demonstrated capability and has confined itself to the proper sphere of counsel and cooperation.

Today, the City's affairs are in a state of exceptional stability. The citizenry can point with pride to realization of a program of debt-free capital improvements, a bonded debt of inconsequential amount and one of the lowest tax rates in the State.

As election day nears, there is the inevitable last-minute sniping at the incumbent commission. One issue — Pontiac's urban renewal program — is harped on by those who would break up the unity of the best governing body the City has had in many a day.

But in advancing the administration of urban renewal as weakness on the record of the commission, critics unwittingly point to its strength. By resisting the many opportunities to "fragmentize" the redevelopment of downtown Pontiac, the commission has preserved the entirety of its area against the day — now seemingly at hand — when it could be undertaken as a grand total concept.

Fiscal Pontiac is analogous to a $10 million business. Let's not jeopardize its well-being by handing over the reins of government to the inexperienced. Let's keep a good thing when we've got it and vote Monday to continue in office able commissioners:

New Bank Combines Money With Magnificence

If you're harassed by modern banking methods — photoelectronics, automation, and other assorted robotry — relief is in sight. All you need is $25,000 and access to New York City, where today La Banque Continentale opens its doors.

This is the long awaited experiment in luxury banking underwritten by the Franklin National Bank. The location is 60th Street and Fifth Avenue, and the decor is Louis Seize. The $25,000 is the balance required for checking accounts for individuals—$50,000 for corporations.

La Banque promises multilingual service and all the facilities of the best banks of today in an eighteenth century atmosphere. It was to have opened last November, but its progress has been impeded by, among other things, lack of the proper woodwork.

★ ★ ★

Already several accounts in six figures have been established. This is one bank that may never be robbed. The bandits, if caught, would probably be guillotined.

Youngster Takes Things a Bus-Into Own Hands

A 12-year-old boy stole a big interstate bus in Washington D. C., the other day.

That in itself was noteworthy, even in these days of expanding child precocity.

★ ★ ★

But this kid was even more unusual. He drove that big bus through the midafternoon traffic jam on Pennsylvania Avenue, out through historic Georgetown, across the Potomac River and along busy highways of Fairfax County until the police caught up with him.

He must be punished, of course. But after he has atoned for his act and is properly repentant, someone ought to take him in tow and make a driver instructor out of him.

★ ★ ★

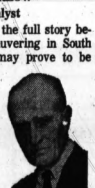
But they'd better be quick about it, before he gets old enough to regard safe driving as kid stuff.

That usually happens around 16.

U.S. Discord Useful to Buddhists

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — When the full story behind the Buddhists' maneuvering in South Viet Nam comes out it may prove to be one of the slickest pieces of Machiavellianism in our time.



MARLOW

The Buddhists are trying to oust their government. The U.S. government doesn't seem well-informed on what's going on among the Buddhists and what's driving them or, if it is, it's keeping the information to itself.

For that reason no one seems able to say if the Buddhist's leaders have a deal with the North Vietnamese Communists to seize the South Vietnamese government, ask the Americans to leave and let the Reds take over.

It might appear at first, if this is what the Buddhists have in mind, that they are operating on sheer gall since this country is backing the government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and has enormous forces in Viet Nam.

But they might be banking on something else to help them carry the day: divided American opinion.

★ ★ ★

When the history of these days is written, the effect of what has happened here in the field of one of America's most prized possessions — freedom of speech — may appear as a strong factor in the Buddhists' thinking.

POLICY ATTACKED

President Johnson's policy on Viet Nam has been under attack from many quarters in this country — particularly in the Senate and the academic world — and perhaps he can't gauge its full effect on him.

And the criticism here at home could leave no doubt in the minds of the Vietnamese, North and South, that American thinking was divided not only about how to wage the war but even about continuing it at all.

For instance, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., said the American people are going to "repudiate this administration and they should. You just can't justify our being in war over there."

★ ★ ★

He called the U.S. position in Viet Nam "shockingly immoral" and said that if the South Vietnamese were ever to choose freely a Communist government, the United States should support it.

END TO ILLUSIONS

If you were a Vietnamese and heard that —and much more — you wouldn't be under any illusion that Americans were 100 per cent behind Johnson in trying to crush the Communists or at least force them to seek peace.

And if you were a Vietnamese, American division might seem to you a symbol of uncertainty and hesitation and therefore an inducement to action which otherwise might have seemed hopeless to you.

Face To Face!

David Lawrence Says:

Viet Strife Jeopardizes U.S. Aid

WASHINGTON — If the rival factions and groups in Saigon could understand what the current reaction to their quarrel has been throughout the United States, they would be much worried about their own survival.

LAWRENCE

They might come to realize that they may be on the verge of committing suicide by turning South Viet Nam over to the Communists.

For ever since the new crisis began and threats were made to overthrow the existing regime in Saigon, there have been misgivings here, together with concern as to whether the United States might be required to withdraw from Viet Nam altogether.

The idea of "pulling out" has been widely discussed, and some cynics have even suggested that maybe removal of the present regime might furnish an excuse for the United States to extricate itself from a situation which has become politically menacing to the administration.

It is obvious that, if the military forces of the United States left Viet Nam, the Communists would take over through the Viet Cong, their puppets.

All the effort to protect South Viet Nam from acts of aggression would have proved to be in vain, and there would arise in Southeast Asia a worry as to which government or country would be the next victim of Communist deviltry.

CONSIDERABLE PATIENCE

Through the whole period of uncertainty, however, the high officials of the American government have refused to believe that the rival parties in South Viet Nam would dare to do anything that would lose them the military assistance of the United States.

Considerable patience has been required to continue the military struggle in the face of the discouraging circumstances that have emerged in the internal squabble over the establishment of a new government.

It is, of course, recognized as desirable to arrange for a civilian government to preside over the destinies of the Vietnamese people.

The demand for a constitutional assembly is logical — the premier has publicly promised to call one in five months. But the top Buddhist leader isn't satisfied with that interval and wants more immediate action.

Unfortunately in a war-torn country like Viet Nam, where changes in government have been accomplished before by a sudden coup d'etat, there is a fear of a complete breakdown in the established government.

This creates a serious dilemma for the United States, which has held to the view that its intervention in Viet Nam is justified under international law because the government in power requested such aid and participation in repelling aggression.

But if a new government begins to debate whether or not it wants American aid, it jeopardizes the whole situation.

Clarification of the Vietnamese position would seem imperative if the whole structure of American aid is not to become shaky as a rising public opinion in the United States starts calling for a withdrawal.

Bob Considine Says:

What Terrible Pressures Johnson Must Be Under

NEW YORK — Say a prayer for LBJ. The decisions he must make in the next few days call for the aid of greater advisers than even Robert McNamara.

CONSIDINE

I suppose every mother and father in our land still hopes that their little boy will grow up to be president of the United States, a sacred American ambition.

But even the littlest boys must recognize by now that the post their proud parents have hopefully assigned them can be a terrible kind of job, filled with more heartaches than pomp and circumstance, accompanied by more dirges than stirring renditions of "Hail to the Chief."

What terrible pressures the man in the White House must be under! Is there any parallel in our history to his dilemma?

★ ★ ★

Here we are, committed 300,000 strong in a turbulent country halfway around the world, fighting a war unlike any we've ever fought in our times, against a foe we know in our hearts is the Bad Guy of modern life.

The task of the American boy engaged there must become increasingly bewildering.

For a time he was simply asked to be an adviser. Then he was urged, or commanded, to fight at the side of the South Vietnamese in the hope of saving them from a Communist take-over.

At a certain point, about the time Premier Ky came in, it was suggested that he fight on his own against the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese regulars, as tough or tougher than the Japanese his father may have faced in World War II.

Now he fights both the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese and pretty soon he may be battling against sternly regimented and indoctrinated groups garnered by the nutty and chauvinistic Buddhists of Viet Nam.

The U.S. is filled with speculation that Washington is about to say to our friends in South Viet Nam, "Sorry, chums, we did what we could for you; now you handle it your own way."

One wonders, one waits. One hopes. One prays for a right decision from the lonely man in the White House who must make it.

Readers Discuss City Commission Election

I thought The Pontiac Press would urge the reelection of the present City Commission. The Pontiac Press urged the election of Nixon, Bagwell, Goldwater, etc. Also, isn't this the Commission that urged an income tax on the working people of Pontiac?

CLAUDE STOGLIN
629 BALBOA

The editorial in Monday's paper about our present City Commissioners leaves me with one thought and that is just how stupid do you think we are. Where did the present City Commissioners get experience if not at our commission table? I know of one candidate for the City Commision who has been working with another phase of our City government and manages a large business office. If this man were given half a chance he would put most present City Commissioners to shame.

★ ★ ★

Let's be fair and have a few more open-minded editorials. Many of the men who are now challenging the present Commissioners are more than qualified.

★ ★ ★

America is based on the fact that everyone has an equal chance. These present Commissioners haven't shown the working people too much and we would like representation.

Supports Bill Regulating Insurance Firms

Let's hope the pending bill goes through to regulate insurance companies and prevent indiscriminate cancellation of policies. Insurace companies can now cancel because a person goes bankrupt. Bankruptcy has nothing to do with an accident. The insurace company says a person who goes bankrupt is a poor risk. How come?

FOR THE BILL

'Fraudulent Works Blighting Art Market'

An increasing flood of fraudulent art, particularly the works of famous living artists, has become a blight on the otherwise booming U.S. art market. Private collectors, museums and educational institutions are being victimized by frauds, forgeries and other deceptive practices. The situation has led to demands for legislative reforms that would make traffic in fraudulent and forged art more difficult.

This part of our warning is a continuing effort to educate and protect the public.

Writer Gives Details of Fire Fighters' Pay

The Pontiac Fire Fighter — the lowest rank — is now paid $7,059 per year. This is an increase of $1,010 in the past 18 months. He is on duty 24 hours and is off 24 hours with an extra day off every six calendar days.

★ ★ ★

This means the Fire Fighter is on duty only ten days out of 30 and he can trade days to extend his time-off period. He gets a vacation with full pay in addition. After one year he gets 19 days off; after five years he gets almost a month off, and after ten years he gets five weeks off.

In addition to all this, firemen get ten extra days' pay a year for holidays whether they are on duty or not. This is $271 a year for the beginning position.

The City furnishes complete uniform and replacements. It pays half of the insurance premium on $7,000, and the entire Blue Cross-Blue Shield expense for the fireman and his family. In addition to all this, the City pays into the pension fund over $1,600 a year for each fireman toward his retirement, and gives him a very generous pension at age 55, after 20 years of service.

★ ★ ★

His annual pension can be as much as 75 per cent of his final salary. The City pays him while he is sick up to nine months. When he is called back for a major fire he gets time and a half. But the picket line signs around City Hall say, "The City just gives us peanuts."

Curfew

The Saginaw News

While confessing that crime and delinquency are not simple problems and do not lend themselves to simple solutions, Saginaw must ask itself why it has not been applying at least one tool immediately at hand to discourage some of the delinquency.

As Prosecuting Attorney Robert B. Currie noted, Saginaw has a 10 p.m. to 7 a.m. curfew law on the books restricting minors under the age of 17.

Applying Governor Romney's own figures that boys and girls 16 years of age and under commit 56 per cent of the reported crimes in Michigan — why have law enforcement officers ignored the obvious?

A curfew never will solve alone the sources of delinquency, but it could remove from the streets and gathering points hundreds of youngsters whose idle nighttime wanderings and groupings lead them into so-called "kick" activities.

There is enough leeway in the curfew law to permit legitimate after-hours travel. If police have failed to impose the ordinance on a citywide basis because of presumed general public disapproval, then let the ordinance be challenged officially. Let its justification be proved or disproved.

If crime is our number one problem, we'd better use available tools at hand until better ones can be developed and applied. It is something to be discussed, now, in cooperation with township and county officials as well.

Emphasizing Caution

The Holland Evening Sentinel

Every driver who has tried to beat the yellow caution light of a traffic signal will appreciate the efforts of James Hines. He is producing, and now has ready for sale, a traffic signal which allows a driver to know how long the caution light is going to stay on. No more guessing; no more getting caught in the intersection just as the red signal turns against you.

Mr. Hines' light works like this. A few seconds before the green signal is about to go off a bright 9 (for 9 seconds) appears on the caution light. Then it ticks down to one at one second intervals — 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1. Then the entire caution light lights up for three seconds. Then the red light comes on. This gives the motorist a good chance to judge whether he can make it through the intersection safely or not.

★ ★ ★

Abilene, Texas, has tried the signal on one of its worst intersections for nine months and was so well satisfied with the results that it is buying another $6,000 worth to try on other bad corners. If it works for Abilene it's likely to work anywhere. And if a new light can save lives, then we should investigate the Abilene, Texas, program then give the light a trial run.

FOUR INJURED IN CRASH — James McMullin, 21, of Wenatchee, Wash., driver of the big rig shown here, was listed in fair condition by hospital authorities after a collision with a station wagon driven by Mrs. Jaretti Beriault of Issaquah, Wash., near her home yesterday. Mrs. Beriault and her son and stepson received minor injuries in the crash.

Officials Doubt China Ready to Improve U.S. Ties

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. authorities voiced doubt today that Communist China is ready to improve relations with the United States despite Washington's gradually - opening - door policy toward the Chinese mainland.

The State Department Thursday opened that door a bit further, saying that Communist Chinese scientists and scholars will be allowed to come to American universities.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey said several inquiring U.S. universities have been told by the State Department in recent weeks that they may invite visits by Red Chinese scientists and scholars. The Peking regime has been advised of this but he knows of no response, he added.

The U.S. government eight years ago lifted its bars against American newsmen going to Red China. In recent months, with the personal approval of President Johnson, it has further lifted barriers for various types of experts.

MEDICAL SPECIALISTS

Last December the State Department said U.S. medical specialists could visit Communist China. Last month it said U.S. scientists and scholars could go. It also suggested trading weather information with the Red Chinese.

But so far, U.S. officials reports, Peking has steadfastly rebuffed the U.S. overtures both publicly and in the periodic confidential U.S.-Chinese ambassadorial meetings at Warsaw.

* * *

Red Chinese propaganda continues to berate the United States as the No. 1 capitalist-imperialist arch enemy. At Warsaw, the Peking ambassador is said to have rejected any accommodation with the United States on other matters until this country quits supporting the Chinese Nationalists, which Washington refuses to do.

U.S. authorities believe that the current Peking leadership is so wedded to its militant policy, which even includes castigation of the Soviet Union's "peaceful coexistence," that no turnabout in Red China's posture toward the United States is in the offing.

Little Judy Still Getting Lots of Mail

FLINT (AP)—Tiny Judy Lynn Funsch, 5, who underwent rare heart surgery five weeks ago, still is receiving mail from well-wishers around the world.

Each day's delivery brings another 50-75 letters and cards expressing hope that Judy will recover completely from her five-hour ordeal on the operating table. The total has now climbed to more than 2,000 pieces of mail.

Doctors at the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor removed an obstruction in a pulmonary vein bringing blood from the lungs to the heart. Without the operation, they said, Judy would have only a few years to live.

The frail little blonde went home to Flint last week. No visitors outside the family are to be allowed for a month, when she will return to the hospital for a checkup.

TOY WHITE POODLE

Judy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Funsch, bought her a toy white poodle for Easter. She has played with the dog around the yard outside their house.

"But she tires easily," Mrs. Funsch said. "And when she tires, she complains of chills."

At first, Judy was lonesome for the hospital, where she virtually was adopted as a mascot by nurses and the staff.

The day after returning home, Judy developed a sore throat and high fever—but it did not last.

"Judy's not eating well," her mother said worriedly. "She has a pretty good breakfast, but not much the rest of the day.

"Some days are good—and some not so good."

Robber Gets $65,174 in Warren

WARREN (AP)—A credit union clerk reported a robber clouted him on the head with a pistol and escaped with $65,174 from a Warren parking lot Thursday.

Cashier Michael Scherb, 23, said he was taking the money from a bank to the Tek-Ni-Kal Credit Union, which serves the General Motors Technical Center, to cash pay checks when he was accosted by an armed man in a parking lot.

* * *

Scherb told police he attempted to out walk the man to his office, but the man hit him over the head with the gun and grabbed the suitcase in which he was carrying the money.

Police said a man burning trash at the rear of the credit union reported he was attracted by the commotion and saw the robber jump into a car driven by a confederate. Police said he got a partial license number.

* * *

Scherb described the robber as white, between 20 and 30 years of age, who called Scherb by his last name. He said the gunman was about 5-feet-8 and weighed 180 to 220 pounds.

'The Ringer' Is on FBI's List

WASHINGTON (UPI)—James Robert Ringrose, a fast-moving bad check artist and narcotics addict, was placed today on the FBI's list of 10 most-wanted criminals.

The FBI warns that the 23-year-old fugitive is armed and "extremely dangerous." He has been sought since Feb. 26, 1965, when he passed a bad check on a New York Bank.

* * *

Known to the underworld as "The Ringer," Ringrose is credited with netting hundreds of thousands of dollars through his bad check exploits and is also suspected in a number of armed robberies throughout the United States.

The range of his operations was demonstrated in September 1964, when he defrauded a bank in Minneapolis of $3,000 on one day and the following day was arrested after a gun battle in Seattle, Wash., where he attempted a similar scheme.

Wrong-Way Bus System OK

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Wrong-way buses," presently being tried in Indianapolis, may play a significant part in solving the transit problems of big cities, the president of the American Transit Association said today.

Edgar A. Claffey, who also is president of Indianapolis Transit Co., said Indianapolis officials, including the police, and the public are enthusiastic about the wrong-way bus system which has been tried experimentally on one of the city's main thoroughfares for the past nine months. It was suggested by Arthur Wake of the city traffic department.

As the name implies, the wrong-way system means having the busses in one lane on the side of a one-way street go in the direction opposite to the flow of the traffic. No parking is allowed in this lane, so the buses never meet with any obstructions.

As used on College Avenue in Indianapolis, the buses move wrong-way only as they bring passengers into the heart of the city. The buses moving in the other direction move with the flow of the traffic and have no special lane.

"Any motorist also can drive wrong-way on College Avenue so long as he stays behind the bus until he turns off," explained Claffey. "And the buses in line; they can't pass each other.

LINE MARKER

"A double yellow line marks off the wrong-way lane and the no-parking rule in it is strictly enforced."

Oakland Schools Seeking Land for New Board Offices

Oakland Schools officials are seeking an additional 25 acres of land to house board offices, and a new state law is expected to ease their task.

Yesterday, the Oakland Schools Board of Education authorized Supt. Dr. William J. Emerson to commence negotiations with county officials to obtain land at the Service Center.

The new law — signed by Gov. Romney this week — permits intermediate school districts to award bonds up to one-tenth of 1 per cent of a county's total state equalized valuation for erecting and equipping buildings and buying land.

To issue bonds within these limits would not require a public vote.

* * *

The county's estimated state equalized valuation this year is $2,569,750,000, which means that Oakland Schools could issue bonds totaling more than $2.5 million.

WILL BE NEEDED

Emerson and board members noted that more permanent buildings will be needed in the future for the library, staff development, administration, special education and data processing.

Oakland Schools' main facility off North Telegraph and branches on Huron and Oakland Avenue presently consist of 36,800 square feet of space.

In other business, the board approved a preliminary general budget of $635,258 for 1966-67—previously accepted by designates of local school districts—for submission to the County Tax Allocation Board.

* * *

Oakland Schools expects to receive .186 mills (18.6 cents per $1,000 state equalized valuation) which would produce about $480,000 in revenue, for general budget purposes.

$80,000 INCREASE

The budget is about an $80,000 increase over the current budget of $555,209.

The board also authorized Emerson to apply for two federal grants under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965.

Included is one of $37,200 for planning a mathematics project for non-college-bound secondary students.

* * *

The other — for $300,000 — will be issued jointly from Detroit City Schools and possibly two other intermediate districts for engineering and programming a complex of teleprocessing systems.

CENTRAL COMPUTERS

Local districts would submit work directly to central computers at intermediate district facilities.

In still other business, the board approved transfer of $4,800 in the general budget from reading clinic trainees to reading clinicians.

Two persons were hired yesterday.

* * *

Richard Brozovich, 26, will be an educational psychologist starting Sept. 5, while Claire Mautner, 27, was hired as a consultant for physically handicapped.

Brozovich, who has B.S. and M.A. degrees from the University of Michigan and George Peabody College, respectively, will be paid $10,500 a year. He is presently a school psychologist for Dearborn schools.

Miss Mautner, a graduate of Central Michigan University, will start at $6,600. She is presently with Kalamazoo schools.

Plot in Cairo Said Smashed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Egyptian authorities have smashed a plot by a group of army officers to overthrow the regime of U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser, diplomatic sources said today.

They said 20 officers had been arrested in Cairo and would be given secret treason trials because of the Nasser government's reluctance to publicly admit opposition within the army.

The officers were reported to have decided to attempt to overthrow the regime because of opposition to Nasser's Yemen policies.

The were said to be resentful over the financial drain and cost in lives of the Yemen operation, and favored immediate withdrawal.

* * *

Nasser recently announced his 70,000 troops in Yemen, who have been propping up the republican regime in three year of civil war against Saudi Arabia-backed Royalists, would tsay there until at least 1968.

Even Dead Politicians Not Safe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The kidnaping of political party patriarchs was escalated yesterday when Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan remarked aloud that Thomas Jefferson "called himself a Republican."

★ ★ ★

Ford, House Republican leader, also told a news conference that Jefferson cut federal spending, reduced taxes, repaid part of the national debt and repealed the tax on whisky.

"Whether he was the last Democrat or the first Republican to do this, I will leave for historians to argue," Ford added.

House Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., often has argued that if Abraham Lincoln lived today the emancipator would be a Democrat. McCormack was out of town when Ford spoke and couldn't answer.

★ ★ ★

Jefferson's party, from which the present-day Democratic Party claims descent, was known as the Republican Party. It opposed the conservative group of the day, the Federalists.

Highway Unit Affirms I-696 Rejection

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Commission voted Thursday to affirm a previous decision abandoning its preferred location of I-696 through south Oakland and Macomb counties.

But Highway Director Howard Hill warned: "What it boils down to is this route (the original) or no route at all."

★ ★ ★

Commission Chairman Ardale Ferguson said negotiations on the project will continue for at least three months more in hopes the communities fighting the proposed route will withdraw objections.

One of the series of meetings was scheduled Thursday night at Madison Heights.

CONSTRUCTION HALT

Ferguson said if no agreement is reached "Construction will grind to a halt."

Hill visioned worse possibilities.

★ ★ ★

"If we don't proceed along this route, we're dead," he said. "We can study alternate routes but this is the only one that can be completed by the 1972 deadline to qualify for 90 per cent federal assistance under the Interstate Highway Program."

Hill said failure to qualify for federal aid would leave only two alternatives.

—"Absolute traffic stagnation" in the fast-growing and populous areas of southern Macomb and Oakland Counties.

—Construction of the $150-million east-west highway with local funds.

★ ★ ★

The commission took a second vote on the routing after Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled that a March 4 special meeting at which the commission first rescinding its approval of the route was illegal.

Takes Husband's Place

Gal Sheriff No Gunslinger

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Annie Oakley's home county has a woman sheriff but she doesn't plan to tote shootin' irons.

Margaret Howard

The new sheriff of Darke County, a grandma and former shoe clerk, figures on leaving to her menfolk subordinates the chore of bearing arms in patrolling the county's 677 square miles and protecting its 47,000 citizens.

She is Margaret Howard, born and raised here, and appointed interim successor to her late husband, Sheriff Robert Howard.

The Democratic Central Committee picked her on its first ballot this week to serve until a November election can fill the final two years of her husband's unexpired term.

Mrs. Howard's husband died at 50, on March 30. The widow said she felt obligated to carry on her husband's work the way she feels he would have wanted it done, and that's why she announced as a candidate for the appointment.

FORGET IT

As for any influence the fabled "Little Sure Shot," Annie Oakley might have had on Mrs. Howard's career, forget it.

"I haven't read up too much" Mrs. Howard said about the Wild West show markswoman who became an expert shot in Darke County bagging game for a family left fatherless. "But my grandfather was quite a historian and always talked about her."

* * *

As a child, Mrs. Howard remembers Annie coming to town, and vaguely when she was brought back here for burial — "Actually I don't recall whether I saw it myself or just heard of it."

Asked whether she would wield a gun, the sheriff replies, "I don't intend to carry one — but I do know how to use them."

OFFICE WORK

Primarily, however, she says she will be in the office as executive.

She gathered experience in the sheriff's office by helping with dispatching, communications and budget work for her husband.

Three Michigan Men Killed in Viet Nam

Killed in action were Pfc. Dennis A. Desco, son of Mr. and Mrs. Art Desco of Flint; Spec. 4 Randall B. Prinz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Prinz of Roseville; and Pfc. J. C. Leslie Short, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Short of Munith.

U. of D. Will Honor Rabbi Posthumously

DETROIT (UPI) — The University of Detroit announced today that it will bestow a doctor of humane letters degree posthumously on the slain Rabbi Morris Adler.

The degree will be conferred April 30 at commencement exercises at the Roman Catholic school. Honorary degrees will also be conferred upon the Rev. John Courtney, S.J., Woodstock College in Maryland, and the Rt. Rev. Richard S. Emrich, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan.

Heads Thoracic Society

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Dr. Edward G. Nedwicki, chief of the pulmonary disease section of the Veterans' Administration Hospital in Dearborn, was elected president of the Michigan Thoracic Society Thursday. He succeeds Dr. John Isbister, chief of the cardio-pulmonary division of the Michigan Department of Health.

Sukarno OKs Vote for New Congress

SINGAPORE (AP) — Indonesian President Sukarno has agreed to election of a people's Congress, Radio Jakarta said today.

The broadcast, monitored in Singapore, said Sukarno will address the present Parliament on the proposed elections at a meeting May 12. The radio did not say when the elections would be held, what powers the new Congress would have, or whether it would replace Indonesia's present advisory parliamentary groups.

* * *

Observers in Singapore said elections had already been decided on by the new reform Cabinet, led by military strong man Lt. Gen. Suharto, and Sukarno's approval was only a formality.

If a football game is won by forfeit, the score is recorded as 1-0.

A Junior Editors Quiz About WATER

QUESTION: How much water is in our bodies?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Our artist has used a fanciful way of illustrating the remarkable fact that our bodies have more water in them than anything else. Jim (left) has found out that in reality his body is composed of about 70 per cent water.

The figure (right) is his idea of what he would be like if all the nonwater parts were concentrated in one place so he could compare them with the amount of water in his body.

Actually, of course, the solid matter is not concentrated in one black area but is widely distributed, making strong bones, skin, tissue and a great many other structures which hold our bodies together and allow them to operate.

Why is so much water needed? The body is composed of minute cells inside of which is the mysterious living substance called protoplasm. Water makes up a large part of this.

Scientists say this is necessary for the intricate chemical processes which are always taking place in our bodies. Water distributes food and takes away waste.

It acts as a carrier for the many dissolved substances which must be continually moved in and out of the many organs and cells.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: The picture shows that dogs need water too. Be sure you provide enough to keep your pets healthy and happy.

PNH Students Plan to Purchase Organ With Candy Profits

By ALICE TURNER

Pontiac Northern vocal students are presently planning a "sweet" school project to provide the necessary funds for a school organ in time for the baccalaureate service June 12.

For the past seven years, Northern has borrowed an organ but students and several faculty members feel we should have our own organ for this very special occasion.

Over 300 vocal students and any other interested students will sell candy to raise the money.

Student Council will work closely with vocal students in this very special school project.

★ ★ ★

Approximately $3,500 is needed to purchase the organ.

Prizes will be awarded to the top salesmen with a $50 savings bond being presented to the highest salesman.

STARTS APRIL 21

The candy will be on sale April 21 through May 8.

Juniors at Pontiac Northern are preparing for their coming prom entitled "Magic Town."

The prom is scheduled for May 7 from 8-12 p.m. and will be held in the school cafeteria.

Cochairmen for the dance Nancy Watkins and Scott Hudson claim progress for the prom is coming along at a good pace.

Colors will play a very important part in the decorations for this particular prom. Colors will be blended and designed especially to create the appearance of a truly "Magic Town."

Various paper buildings will also be constructed to add to the reality of the little town.

Tickets for the dance will go on sale next week. Attire for the dance will be semiformal.

Juniors plan to have a popcorn sale today to raise funds for the dance and possibly a bake sale will be held later. Money was also collected in each of the junior homerooms.

CAMP TAMARACK

Seniors have again decided to make Camp Tamarack the site for the class trip.

Over 200 seniors are expected to go as well as approximately 20 staff members.

Activities will include baseball, football, volleyball, tennis, archery, swimming, dancing and almost every other sport as well.

One of the main highlights will be the traditional canoe race at which time each cabin competes against the other.

A hootenanny and a song festival will also provide fun and enjoyment for the campers.

Seniors chose Tamarack over a dude ranch near Gaylord and a boat trip to Mackinac Island.

Payments for the trip will begin in May.

★ ★ ★

St. Fred's

Most students feel that once the student body leaves school, the doors are locked and no one enters until the vacation is over.

At St. Frederick School this week, this assumption would be completely false, for floors are being mopped and waxed, desks cleaned, and windows washed.

★ ★ ★

Besides the cleaning forces in action, students are also gathering at the school to draw posters, paint scenery, build props, and practice for the upcoming senior play, "January Thaw."

A pleasant interlude during the vacation was the junior-senior banquet which was held recently at Oakland University.

Brazil Chief Solving Economic Woes

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Just two years ago a squat, bull-necked man named Humberto Castello Branco took office as Brazil's president with a program guaranteed to be unpopular with many a free - swinging Brazilian used to eight wild but ruinous years under three previous presidents.

NEWSOM

Castello Branco was a former army chief of staff rated both as an intellectual knowledgeable in economics and a reformer.

His job to halt a plunge toward communism and reverse inflation spiralling upward at a rate of more than 140 per cent per year.

The army which overthrew Castello Branco's predecessor has a tradition of respect for civilian governments and democratic processes.

But in succeeding weeks and months of the new regime, its methods frequently seemed less than democratic.

* * *

By mid-June, 1964, the army's political purge had deprived 337 persons of office. Political parties were abolished by decree.

SAME DECREE

The same decree took the election of a presidential successor to Castello Branco out of the voters hand and placed it in the congress where the government could not lose. Freedom of speech was limited.

The Castello Branco government eliminated Communist leadership from the unions, and economically it was making undoubted gains.

In the first year, it cut the rate of inflation just about in half and last year held it to 45 per cent. More improvement is expected this year.

* * *

Foreign governments and investors slowly regained confidence in the future of Brazil.

The year 1965 showed a $590 million trade surplus.

But among the unions, there remained a smouldering suspicion that the government intended to deprive them of the blessings promised by Joao Goulart, the former president.

Now industry also is complaining. Sales, say industry spokesman, are 40 to 50 per cent below last year's levels. Tight money is making it hard to meet payrolls and pay income taxes.

Politically, there are charges that the military intend to perpetuate themselves in a dictatorship.

* * *

This is something only the future can show. Meantime the Castello Branco regime continues to accomplish an economic miracle.

Scouts Rule Subways

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Boy Scout troop did yesterday what Massachusetts Institute of Technology students could not do, even with the aid of a computer.

The Scouts broke all existing records by traveling the entire 237 miles of the city's subway system on one token apiece in 23 hours and 28 minutes.

Nine Scouts of Unit 290, Whitestone, Queens, and their leader, Edward M. Levine, began their nonstop journey Wednesday morning. Levine, a subway engineer, helped the teen-age boys plan their attack on the complex system of tracks.

One boy, Steve Weber, 13, was done in by the ordeal and had to be carried off the train by his fellow Scouts.

* * *

"He was just sitting there in a daze and couldn't get up," said a member of the troop.

The Scouts chopped 40 minutes off the old record. A group of students from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology planned their route with a computer recently but failed to break the record.

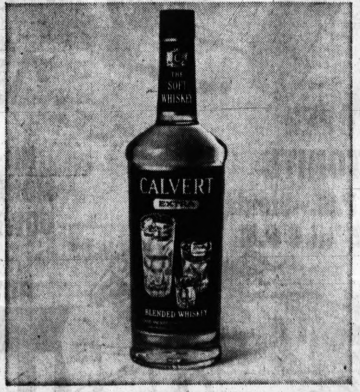
You'll never miss what's missing from Soft Whiskey.

To make Soft Whiskey soft, we didn't take out anything you'd want. It's still whiskey, doing what any other whiskey can do—only it does it softer.

The first thing you'll notice is that it goes down easy and stays smooth all the way down. That's because we don't make Soft Whiskey all at once. We do some distilling in small batches instead of large ones. Of course, it takes more time and effort, but that's one of the things we have to do to get Soft Whiskey.



Good business sense prevents us from telling you more about how we make Soft Whiskey. It's our secret and we're not about to give it away.

State House Approves Beefed-Up Lobbying Control Measure After 3½-Hour Debate

LANSING (AP) — The House passed a beefed-up lobbying control bill Thursday after 3½ hours of debate, delay and public soul-searching.

The measure, approved 7-26 and sent to the Senate, toughens up present lobbying laws by requiring:

—Lump-sum reporting of all expenditures by lobbyists and the firms that hire them;

—The disclosure by the "civilian" employer of a legislator of the salaries and gratuities paid to the lawmaker if the firm also spends $100 more a year to influence legislation;

—Lobbyists to declare their dealings with members of other branches of government. Only legislators dealings are now covered.

★ ★ ★

Majority Floor Leader Bob Traxler, D-Bay City, called it "one of the most vital pieces of legislation before us this year." Others called it unnecessary and Speaker Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit, voted against it.

Much of the concern that prompted drafting and passage of the bill was generated by two recent incidents. One was Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley's charge that public funds were spent improperly for lobbying by Kenneth Gremore, lobbyist for the Peoples Community Health Authority.

The other was a rumor that some House members had been approached with carefully veiled hints of campaign contributions in exchange for votes for a business tax-break bill. The measure was sent back to committee and killed.

"This is one of the finest lobbying bills in the United States, Traxler said shortly before the vote on the much-amended measure.

Virtually writing a bill as it went along, the House finally approved a measure that would require lobbyists to report quarterly to the secretary of state the total amount spent on lobbying activities—excluding personal expenses.

Ex-LBJ Aide Suggests Sending Peace Plan to North Viet Nam

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (AP) — Richard N. Goodwin, who served as a key adviser to President Johnson until last September, suggests the administration should submit a peace plan to Communist North Viet Nam.

Then, he said, the United States should follow up the plan by seeking a meeting between a high-level North Vietnamese and a top U.S. official.

In Washington, the State Department said it planned no comment on Goodwin's remarks.

Goodwin, 34, now a staff member at the Center for Advanced Studies at Wesleyan University here, was interviewed by the Associated Press Thursday night.

COMPROMISE

He proposed the appointment of "some type of governmental structure" in South Viet Nam "that will have the trust of both sides." But he acknowledged that it would be difficult to "find people to fit into a compromise interim government that will be trusted by both sides."

He added, "I am sure there must be people like this, but I admit that it would be a tough job to find them."

★ ★ ★

Such an interim government, Goodwin said, might take the form of "an international trusteeship of some sort—possibly something under the United Nations."

"It must be such that it will guarantee to all parties that there will, in fact, be free elections and that the victors can take office. We must assure both sides that the results of the election—no matter who wins—will be honored," he said.

Goodwin said that the 1954 Geneva agreement that partitioned Viet Nam into North and South failed because "it did not provide any structure to guarantee that there would be free elections in Viet Nam in 1956."

Goodwin said he was against U.S. withdrawal from Viet Nam "until we achieve a settlement that does not mean American defeat."

★ ★ ★

Goodwin, who is regarded as a "resident intellectual" in the Johnson administration, quit his federal post for "compelling personal reasons." However, he pledged to continue to support administration policies and said "perhaps, in some small way, I can continue to be of service."

Coast Guard Charges 11 as Homosexuals

CAPE MAY, N.J. (AP) — The Coast Guard disclosed yesterday that 11 enlisted men stationed at the Coast Guard Recruit Training Centers have been charged as homosexuals and are being discharged from the service.

The Cape May training center, one of two operated by the Coast Guard, has 1,300 recruits and about 400 permanent staff.

A Coast Guard spokesman said none of the accused were either trainees or instructors.

Four of the men have already received general discharges, as ordered by a military board of investigation, and the remaining seven cases are being reviewed in Washington.

Capt. W. K. Thompson, chief of public information for the Coast Guard in Washington, said the investigation into alleged homosexuality involved the entire training center and was not limited to the 11 men.

BRIEF RESPITE. — A trooper of the U. S. 2nd Brigade of the 25th Infantry Division takes a brief rest atop an M114 "Bouncing Bonnie" during a break on a search and destroy operation in the Ho Bo woods. The area, frequently used as a hideout by the Cong, is about 25 miles northwest of Saigon.

Jets Hit N. Viet Targets; South Is Quiet

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Allied ground operations against the Viet Cong remained at a near-standstill today, but spokesmen reported U.S. Air Force and Navy jets smashed deep into North Viet Nam, hitting troop barracks, oil dumps, ammunition stores, bridges and roads.

While South Viet Nam's generals pondered their political future, only one American operation was under way in the South where a few weeks ago as many as five or six were in high gear. The governmental uncertainty kept South Vietnamese military activities at a minimum.

★ ★ ★

Two U.S. B57 jet bombers collided over the water on returning from patrols to Da Nang. The four crewmen ejected safely and were picked up by helicopters. The planes were lost.

The U.S. military command reported that 306 American planes had been lost in the war up to last Tuesday. This was an increase of seven since the last announcement on March 28.

DOWNED PLANES

Four more planes downed in operations against the North brought the number lost there to 205 and three more in the South brought the total for those operations to 101.

U.S. war planes flew 55 missions against North Viet Nam Thursday, ranging far northwest of Hanoi and returning once more to the Mu Gia Pass where B52s set off huge slides Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Military spokesmen gave this summary of the results: Air Force F4C Phantom jets destroyed eight buildings and damaged five at the Ban Pau army barracks 92 miles northwest of Hanoi. The pilots also reported setting off large secondary explosions, including a fireball 500 feet wide, indicating hits on oil and ammunition stores.

Other planes hit the Lan Thip railroad yard and bridge, on the Red River line, 117 miles northwest of the capital, and ripped up 1,000 feet of track.

SECONDARY EXPLOSIONS

The Phantoms also scored Route 15 near the Mu Gia Pass, 230 miles south of Hanoi, and set off secondary explosions that shot white flashes 200 feet high.

Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs followed the assault after the Phantoms and reported seeing trucks backed up at the pass. The pilots said they destroyed seven trucks and left others burning. The fighter-bombers also struck an automatic weapons position and heavily damaged six guns 20 miles north of the 17th Parallel, the spokesman said.

Navy carrier planes destroyed a bridge, seven junks and 12 barracks in the Vinh area. The Ba Lang underground storage area 26 miles south of Vinh was assaulted with Bullpup missiles and 1,000-pound bombs. Pilots said they saw numerous secondary explosions.

The Strategic Air Command B52s returned to South Viet Nam late Thursday night and blasted a suspected Viet Cong troop area in Thua Thien Province 20 miles west of Hue. The raid was less than a mile from a target hit 24 hours before.

'FLYING WING' — A parachutist glides from 5,000 feet in an experimental parachute being studied by the Flight Dynamics laboratory at Wright Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio, for accurate aerial delivery of supplies and equipment to troops. The "flying wing" has a 24-foot projected span.

Indonesian Travel Is Slow, Unreliable

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Transportation in Indonesia functions with luck, baling wire and the grace of Allah.

With everything in short supply here, including luck and wire, people move from one point to another largely by accident. Just by chance one gets on the bus or dump truck of his choice. Getting off as scheduled is a rare delight.

★ ★ ★

This is a city of three million, most of them desperately poor. They travel in everything from horse carts to embassy cars—when the embassy driver wants to make a few extra rupiahs on the side.

Taxis are virtually nonexistent. The de luxe Hotel Indonesia operates its own fleet of taxis. Private cars, including relics antedating World War II, provide additional taxis.

TYPE OF TRAVEL

Most of the city relies on buses, three-wheeled pedicabs called betjaks, and dump trucks, or the people walk.

The city operates which might loosely be called a bus system. Government and private bus companies use buses from Australia, West Germany, Hungary and small ones from Japan.

★ ★ ★

Officials in import departments saw to it that a variety of bus makes was imported. From many sellers they could figure on a handsome kickback for making the purchase and helping it through customs.

Nobody thought to order spare parts, so more than half the buses are sidelined. Most of them are being cannibalized to keep the others moving.

BUSES SCARCE

As buses grow scarce, betjak drivers make more rupiahs. Even so it barely keeps them alive. They recently formed a political front against the high rates they have to pay each day for the betjaks—10 rupias, about 17 cents.

★ ★ ★

For long-distance traveling, dump trucks or military convoys are recommended by seasoned travelers. The trucks are well-ventilated and provide a splendid view of the countryside.

The government is talking about fixing the transportation system. No more passenger cars. Only spare parts will be imported, says the government.

★ ★ ★

But Indonesians, who saw prices increase by 600 per cent last year, are understandably some of the world's greatest cynics. Trucks and betjacks appear here to stay as transport.

Medicare Said Bad for Nursing Homes

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Certain standards imposed on nursing homes by medicare could "inflate an already serious shortage of professional workers," says, Charles Hoffman, a spokesman for the American Nursing Association.

★ ★ ★

Hoffman told a meeting of association members that "medicare will require one registered nurse and several licensed practical nurses to each shift at a nursing home."

British Expedition Set to Trace Vinland Voyage

LONDON (UPI)—A British expedition will set sail May 3 for Vinland, that mysterious part of North America which the Vikings are said to have discovered long before Columbus sailed from Spain for the New World.

The Guardian newspaper, sponsor of the expedition, said today the expedition will sail from the North Sea port of Scarborough and try to use the currents and tidal streams to reach the same landfalls the Vikings found.

"It will make first for southwest Greenland and then attempt to reproduce Leif Erikson's voyage to Vinland of about the year 1001 from such sailing directions as are recorded in the old Icelandic sagas," the Guardian said.

If the expedition's landfalls can be identified with the descriptions in the sagas, "it will be at least circumstantial evidence of the probable location of Vinland," the paper said.

Last year, Yale University published a map which supposedly proved that the Vikings sailed to America in the 11th and 12th centuries.

MANY THEORIES

The map, showing an island called Vinland, is said to have been produced before Columbus made his voyage in 1492.

The Guardian noted that "there have been many theories about Vinland, but no one knows precisely where it was."

Disclosure of the Yale map set off a controversy in the United States between those who would have Columbus as the discoverer of America, and those who want the Vikings to have that honor.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Diverticula Is Increasingly Common

Along with stroke, high blood pressure and emphysema — all primarily diseases of persons in their later years — there has been a steady increase in diverticula (out-pouchings) of the digestive tract, especially the lower bowel.

BRANDSTADT

This has brought an increase in the number of questions about them.

The surgical removal of these diverticula is sometimes necessary but is rarely advisable because there are so many of them.

The mere presence of a large number of them (diverticulosis) does not cause any symptoms but when they become inflamed (diverticulitis) the victim usually complains of abdominal pain and in about 25 per cent there is some rectal bleeding.

In the acute stage there is also a low grade fever. The inflammation is caused by fermentation of undigested food particles that become trapped in the outpouchings.

* * *

Dr. Louis Malow in Chicago, noting that many patients with this disease felt better for two or three weeks after an X-ray examination with barium sulfate reasoned that this improvement was probably due to the fact that the inert barium salt coated over the inflamed area and protected it from further irritating fermentation.

PRESCRIBED DOSE

He then started giving his patients who had this disease a tablespoonful of barium sulfate in half a glass of water or milk three or four times a week.

If the patient had acute diverticulitis he did not give the barium until the acute phase had been controlled with a bland diet, antispasmodics, intestinal antiseptics and bed rest with hot applications to the abdomen.

He also warns that cancer and other organic diseases of the intestines must be ruled out before proceeding with the barium treatment.

* * *

The barium sulfate will not cure the condition. Indeed, this is not to be expected but in Dr. Malow's series it controlled the discomfort very well as long as his patients avoided such foods as peanuts, popcorn, pineapple and foods with seeds such as tomatoes, strawberries and raspberries.

Teens Save Goods From Burning Store

FLINT (UPI)—Firemen credited a group of teen-agers yesterday with saving merchandise from a building supply store which was heavily damaged by fire.

* * *

The one-story "Builders Market" in Flint Township suffered about $75,000 damage in the blaze. Firemen said a group of teen-aged bystanders saved hundreds of auto parts by forming a brigade to pass the merchandise out of the building before the fire could destroy it.

* * *

They estimated the youths saved about $50,000 worth of auto parts. One end of the building had been leased for storage of the parts.

Hart Charges Antitrust Laxity

Cites 'Largest Merger Tide in Our History'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart accused the government yesterday of laxity in antitrust law enforcement despite "the greatest merger tide in our history."

The Michigan Democrat, who is chairman of the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, said the current trend could produce a system of industrial cartels, with the government setting their prices and wages.

★ ★ ★

"Our economy today requires a tough, stringent and vigorous antitrust approach — not a laissez-fair antitrust policy," Hart said in a speech prepared for an American Bar Association meeting.

He told the association's antitrust section that enforcement of the anti-trust laws "is being carried on in a low key.

"Major mergers are consummated without apparent challenge," said Hart, "predatory practices often receive little attention, identical pricing patterns in concentrated industries seem to be regarded with little concern."

He said identical pricing in many major industries has been "practically ignored" by the government.

When He Talks to Her, She Gets the Message

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — University of Southern California students Paul Liles and Jan Feltz have a unique system for communicating between their on-campus apartments — teletype machines.

Liles, a ham radio operator, built the machines from surplus parts when his late night telephone calls to Miss Feltz annoyed her sorority sisters.

Culprit Had Fur Coat

VERCELLI, Italy (UPI) — For eight months police have been investigating the steady theft of chickens and turkeys from Giuseppe Albino's poultry farm. Hundreds of the birds had disappeared and yesterday the police finally discovered the culprit — a cat.

Help Him 'Learn to Learn'

Problem Pupil Needs Attention

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.

Dear Dr. Nason: We need advice as to the education of our 10-year-old, fourth-grade son. We recently moved to a new neighborhood in the same general area. Bill seems to be adjusting well except for his schoolwork. He is maintaining approximately a D average.

DR. NASON

When I try to help him with his work, he gives all sorts of excuses about the teacher explaining it a certain way or she doesn't give him enough time or some other excuse. I am trying to find out how he thinks, but I get nowhere when I question him and he starts crying.

I am sure his teacher is also having this problem. He would rather tell me why he can't do the work than to just get busy and do it.

I am undecided as to what would be the best thing for him, keeping him back a year, or getting a tutor and pushing him on.

Mrs. M. T., Indianapolis, Ind.

Your son is not learning in class. If he were, he would understand the teacher's explanation and work out his problems correctly. Holding him back a year will not automatically solve his problem.

Tutoring, as it is usually carried on, will help him gain an understanding of past and present work and would probably bring about some improvement in grades. But it could weaken rather than strengthen him.

The basic problem can be solved only by helping him to "learn to learn" in class. Someone, preferably not a parent, should discuss the materials and ideas with him in advance of the time they are discussed in his classes.

His cooperation in this endeavor is essential. He must be striving to solve his learning problems.

Dear Dr. Nason: My daughter is a high school sophomore and an honor student. For a long time she has talked about becoming a high school teacher, which pleased us very much.

However, lately, she has changed her mind. Her reasons have to do with what she hears about unruly students and their lack of manners and discipline.

She is now interested in becoming a highly skilled IBM operator in foriegn langauges. Is this a woman's job? Am I wrong to be disappointed in this choice of occupation? Should I try to change her mind?

Mrs. L. N., Syracuse, N.Y.

Your daughter's goal is a very satisfactory one. There are many opportunities for women in this field. Salary and working condition are usually excellent. In this type of work, she would be associated with other sucessful young people.

The particular type of work she finally enters will probably be determined only as she continues her participation.

Encourage her in working toward this new goal. For best results, the goal must be the student's own choice, but parental approval and encouragement must also be present.

(You can wirte to Prof. Nason in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions of general interest will be answered in his column.)

Philippines Fearing Volcano Eruption

MANILA (UPI) — Seismologists recorded slight tremors from Taal volcano about 40 miles south of here today, raising fears of a new eruption.

Taal exploded last September, killing about 200 persons on Crater Island and neighboring areas.

Volcanology Commissioner Arturo Alcaraz said the tremors were accompanied by slight rumbling noises, indicating a definite increase in underground activity. He called the situation "critical."

CITY COMMISSION'S CLOSED DOOR POLICY BLOWS URBAN RENEWAL PROGRAM

Last week the Federal government officially rejected the City of Pontiac proposal to do something about the urban renewal plight faced by the citizens of Pontiac.

This rejection was based on the failure of the present City Commission to establish a citizens participation committee as required by the Federal government.

Because the City Commission has refused to set up a citizens participation committee in accordance with Federal regulation, they have been turned down by the Federal government and thus have deprived Pontiac taxpayers of millions of dollars in available funds to improve our city and increase the value of your property and bring in more taxes to the city.

Why is the present City Commission afraid to involve the people of our city in its planning as required by the government? Don't they trust the people? Why is not everything open and above board?

Do you like being cheated?

Well, that's what is happening to you because tax dollars you are entitled to are not being sent to Pontiac but are being used by other cities who plan and are moving ahead while we stand still!!

This turn down by the Federal government will:

1. Delay Pontiac urban renewal probably two years.
2. Reduce your property values substantially.
3. Probably cause you to pay more taxes.
4. Deprive you of return of millions of tax dollars to the community.

All because your "horse and buggy" City Commission had rather "drift" than to establish a bonafide citizens committee as required by your government.

You can do something about this tragic situation!

You can stop the secrecy!
You can get real citizen participation!
You can get Pontiac on the move!
You, the Voters, can do these things by electing a City Commission that trusts the people.

TUCKER PLEDGES

CHARLES M. TUCKER, JR. states, "I share the concern with many others in District 1 of adequate representation from our District.

"PROGRESS FOR PONTIAC is my pledge. This can only be accomplished by maximum citizen participation. Our City is comprised of people. The Commission must sincerely represent people, not just concrete and steel. In order to achieve progress, I recommend the following:

"A Citizens Advisory Committee reflective of the composition of our City to Assist in the developing, planning and understanding of the benefits which can accrue from Urban Renewal.

"A factual study to ascertain the present and projected future housing needs of Pontiac.

"We must provide decent, low cost housing for our elderly, low income and middle income families. This should be done by private enterprise where possible and if not possible, the City must not negate their responsibility and provide this basic necessity for her citizens.

"There must be community centers for our young people throughout the City.

"We must provide for our municipal, fire and police employees a wage and security comparable to industry.

"A study made by qualified persons as to financial problems of the City of Pontiac and the solution of these.

"We must together plan and work to make our City the 'Core City'. Not a City divided by racial friction, business mistrust and uninformed Citizens.

"Pontiac has the basic ingredients for progress. Progress can only be accomplished by full participation of its citizens. Pontiac cannot progress in the darkness of its past misunderstandings and the exclusion of all but a privileged few. We are living in a new day, we all must work together and meet the challenge of the future. We cannot succumb to the past. I sincerely and humbly ask for your vote this Monday."

Johnson Delays Decision on Tax Boost

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson will delay a decision on the use of an anti-inflation tax increase while key indicators are giving a mixed reading of the nation's economic health.

★ ★ ★

This was the view yesterday from White House sources who gave their forecast shortly after the government announced both production and income for March rose to new highs.

"If the economic indicators continue mixed," the sources said, "we're going to wait a while." They said no deadline has been set on deciding whether a tax increase would be required.

The Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production went up 1 per cent to 152.9 per cent of its 1957-58 for March. Commerce Department figures showed Americans' personal income increased $3.8 billion to a record annual rate of $561 billion.

★ ★ ★

But other economic indicators for last month — notably spending for construction and wholesale prices — were down last month.

LABOR SHORTAGES

Unemployment, which had been dropping sharply and raising fears of labor shortages, turned around and rose a little in March.

And the Labor Department has said that shortages of skilled workers in tool and machine making industries might dampen the boom in industrial expansion, a major source of inflationary pressure.

It was these "mixed" indicators which gave Johnson and his top advisers pause about asking Congress as an anti-inflation measure.

The President has said repeatedly that he does not want to crack down too hard on the economy which is enjoying the longest peacetime boom in history. He fears this would turn the boom into a recession.

Plan to Make Diplomat Book Secret Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Government Information subcommittee said today a reported plan to classify the biographical register of Who's Who in the U.S. diplomatic service would be "incredibly stupid."

Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., added that he would demand a full explanation from the State Department and, if it intends to go ahead with the classification, promised to call for a public hearing.

The State Department clamped a secrecy veil over its plans Thursday shortly after the Associated Press reported that the publication of a new issue would bear security classification for the first time.

★ ★ ★

State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey later confirmed that there is a plan for a new issue of the register, but added it is "a bit premature" to say it definitely will be kept secret. However, he noted that "some consideration is being given to that."

CONCEAL IDENTITY

McCloskey refused to elaborate but other sources said the Central Intelligence Agency wants the new edition kept from the public in an effort to help conceal the identity of CIA men attached to U.S. diplomatic missions abroad.

It is understood that the department now will take another look at the plans to withhold the book from public scrutiny. The biographic register, one of the department's oldest publications, gives short summaries of birthplaces, dates, educations, rankings and careers of State Department officials. It is used as a reference by newspapers and libraries, as well as the State Department.

★ ★ ★

The register does not list CIA men or espionage agents as such but with the information given it is sometimes possible to determine who is a career State Department office and who is an intelligence agent.

Moss was described by one associate as extremely upset by the reported move. He is author of the so-called right of information bill, which gives citizens the right under certain conditions to inspect public records. A similar measure has cleared the Senate.

Mrs. Smith was driving to work. The daughter told officers she "was just riding around."

Police said they haven't decided which driver was at fault.

Killers of Malcolm X Get Life

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three reputed members of the racist Black Muslim sect were sentenced to life imprisonment yesterday for the slaying of breakaway black nationalist leader Malcolm X.

Justice Charles Marks handed down the mandatory life sentences following an eight-week trial. New York state law would not permit the death sentence in the case.

The three, Talmadge Hayer, 24, of Paterson, N.J., and Norman 3X Butler, 26, and Thomas 15X Johnson, 30, both of Bronx, were convicted of first-degree murder March 11.

Malcolm, a former Black Muslim leader who split with the Chicago-based sect to found his own black nationalist organization, was gunned down Feb. 21, 1965 as he began to address a rally in the Audubon Ballroom in upper Manhattan.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Betty Shabazz, Malcolm's widow, arrived in court in time to hear the judge pass sentence on Johnson, the last of the three to be sentenced. She refused to talk to newsmen.

Hayer's wife, Betty, Johnson's wife, Etta 2X, and other members of their families also were in court. None of Butler's relatives attended the session.

Scientists Slowing Up Psychology Testing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — America's "brain watchers," awed by powerful new means of laying the human mind open and shaken by outcries from the public, are putting their foot gently on the brake.

At a meeting of the American Orthopsychiatric Association here yesterday, a collection of the top psychologists, psychiatrists and sociologists in the country took to "analyzing" their own work in relation to human privacy.

"We have a bear by the tail," was the way Dr. Orville G. Brim of New York, put it.

Psychological tests that ask a person intimate questions about his religious beliefs, his sex life and inmost thoughts have become commonplace in schools, industry and government.

★ ★ ★

Last June both the U. S. Senate and House held hearings in Washington over the use of such tests on Peace Corps applicants.

'PRETTY SILLY'

"We have made up some pretty silly tests," Brim told his fellow psychologists yesterday.

He added that the profession would have to admit also that "we have made some irresponsible use" of test results.

Brim said, however, that even if the sex questions are taken out of the tests, there would remain "a much more powerful source of resistance" to such psychological examinations.

★ ★ ★

This, he said, was the simple concept of privacy — "many of us do not like to reveal ourselves."

READY TO CONCEDE

Among psychologists and students of the mind, Brim said frankly, it has been thought that nothing could be more important than science — "individuals were there to be studied."

Now, he said, he and many of his colleagues were ready to concede that "scientific research has to take its place along with other values, including privacy."

The New York psychologist called on educators, sociologists and employers to take another look at their attitude towards privacy too.

Schools and agencies providing services to people on welfare have assumed that the services were more important than the individuals' privacy, Brim said a recheck of the value system was needed.

Fund Cutoff Is Threatened

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Welfare Secretary John W. Gardner has reemphasized the federal government's intention to deny funds to schools and hospitals that fail to comply with federal desegregation standards.

The deadline for school system assurances of compliance with revised federal guidelines was today. Hospitals have until July 1.

'Not Used as Spies'

MSU Knew of Agents — Mission Chief

EAST LANSING (UPI) — The chief of a Michigan State University aid mission to South Viet Nam said yesterday school officials were well aware five Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) operatives were employed on the project.

"There was no secret about it," said Prof. Wesley Fishel.

He categorized as "a lot of nonsense" an official university statement to the effect that the school was not aware the five employes were CIA men.

Fishel said, however, the men performed "no cloak and dagger work" while associated with the now-defunct MSU mission.

★ ★ ★

"They were employed by the university simply to train the Vietnamese civil police in countersubversive activities," Fishel said.

DID NOT KNOW

James Denison, MSU's public relations manager, had said the university did not know the men were agents and promptly dismissed them when it found out.

Denison made the comment in reply to an article in Ramparts, a publication describing dissent," which had charged the school had provided academic "cover" to CIA agents in violation of the 1964 Geneva agreement on Viet Nam.

Fishel joined Denison in denying that the aid mission trained militia and palace guard personnel for the late President Ngo Dinh Diem and bought ammunition ranging from pistols to rocker launchers, as the article alleged.

★ ★ ★

The university was hired by the State Department to train Diem's civil police force and set up a civil service organization for South Viet Nam. The program ran from 1954 until 1963, Fishel said.

BORROWED

Fishel said the university hired former city, state and federal law enforcement officials from many locations to conduct the police training. The CIA men were borrowed from the agency to conduct the counterinsurgency portion of the training, he said.

Stanley K. Sheinbaum, a former MSU professor who worked on the project staff, said yesterday he worked on the police hiring staff at MSU and was told "not to investigate" the five CIA agents.

At the time they presented themselves as former department of the Army employes, he said.

"Arrangements were made at the time to hire them (the CIA men) under MSU cover," Sheinbaum told newsmen in a special California - to - Detroit telephone hookup arranged by Ramparts. Sheinbaum contributed to the article. He now works for the Center of Democratic Studies, Santa Barbara, Calif.

NEVER KNEW

Sheinbaum said the professors in Saigon never knew what the CIA men were doing but were told to leave them alone.

Fishel said this was not true. He said Sheinbaum was the liaison man in East Lansing and visited Saigon only once or twice.

Alaska's biggest foreign customer is Japan, which received 89 per cent of its exports last year.

Bootleggers Drop Dope for Tobacco

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Eastern gangsters who would rather switch than fight are giving up the illicit narcotics traffic to smuggle cigarettes, a conference of tobacco tax officials from 13 states was told yesterday.

The bootlegging of cigarettes, primarily from North Carolina to New York City, has become an organized, gangster-infiltrated racket that cost the State of New York $40 million in tax revenues the last fiscal year, the conference heard during the opening session of a two-day meeting. It is scheduled to wind up today.

"There is no doubt that the Mafia is involved in the operation," said Thomas Russell, an assistant director of the Connecticut excise section.

The cigarette tax in New York City is 16 cents a pack. John Purcell, assistant director of the New York State Miscellaneous Tax Bureau, said New York lost an estimated $40 million in taxes over a 12-month period because of smuggling.

★ ★ ★

Other experts attending the meeting said in private that Purcell's estimate was conservative.

PHONE CONVERSATIONS

Purvell also told the conference that New York police knew of telephone conversations in which known dealers in narcotics said they were switching to the cigarette "business."

Law enforcement officials for years have considered traffic in illegal narcotics one of the backbones of organized crime in this country.

Maryland Comptroller Louis Goldstein reported the Federal Bureau of investigation informed him several weeks ago that the smuggling operation in New York State amounts to $1 million worth of cigarettes a day.

★ ★ ★

The cigarettes usually are distributed by milkmen, housewives, service station attendants factory representatives and other persons having a wide range of contacts, it was reported.

The Jenkins Act of 1949 prohibits interstate shipment of untaxed cigarettes by mail. An amendment currently before Congress would extend the act to cover all types of transportation, and also require registration of large sales in tobacco-producing states.

Legislator Raises Possibility of Probe

EAST LANSING (AP) — The possibility has been raised of a legislative investigation into a connection between Michigan State University and the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) in South Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit, says he plans to discuss an investigation with fellow members of the House Ways and Means Committee.

What authority the Legislature would have over Michigan State, governed by a constitutionally created board of trustees, was a question.

State Senate Picks Hoffa's Son for Post

LANSING (AP) — James R. Hoffa Jr., 24 - year - old son of the Teamsters union president, has been named to a Senate research position on the strength of his University of Michigan law studies performance.

★ ★ ★

Young Hoffa, whose father reached only the ninth grade in school, is one of nine students given the appointments in the Legislature. Each post pays $5,000 a year. The nine were chosen from a list of 15 submitted by the university.

The nine winners were chosen on the basis of their academic records and from personal interviews. The Ford Foundation is a sponsor of the program.

Hoffa receives his law degree at Michigan this month. He also studied at Michigan State University.

Cleric Charged in Tax Case

Detroit Rights Leader Mute at Arraignment

DETROIT (AP) — The Rev. Clarence L. Franklin, organizer of Detroit's 1963 civil rights march, was charged Thursday with failure to file federal income tax returns for the years 1959 through 1962.

The Rev. Mr. Franklin, pastor of the New Bethel Baptist Church, stood mute during his arraignment on four counts before U. S. District Judge Thomas P. Thornton. Judge Thornton entered an innocent plea and released the Rev. Mr. Franklin on $1,000 personal bond. No trial date was set.

★ ★ ★

Assistant U. S. Attorney William Merrill said Mr. Franklin had earned $76,843 during the four-year period and should have paid $9,759 in income taxes.

Mr. Franklin is chairman of the Detroit Council for Human Rights.

GOOD DEFENSE

His attorney, former state representative Harold Ryan said his client had a goo defense that would be brought out at the trial.

Each count carries a maximum penalty of one year in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Boston Reaffirmation of Busing Ban Brings Aid Halt

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston School Committee has again voted to ban busing as a way to end racial imbalance in public schools, and the action cost the city $16 million in state education funds.

★ ★ ★

The funds were cut off as of today by the Massachusetts Board of Education on recommendation of Education Commissioner Owen B. Kiernan.

★ ★ ★

"Commissioner Kiernan is using dictator tactics to force the Boston School Committee to betray the trust of thousands of voters who elected them on the chief issue that there would be no busing of their children," William E. O'Connor, school committeeman, said before the 5-0 vote was taken Thursday night.

★ ★ ★

The 3-year-old dispute involves the quality of schools in the predominantly Negro Roxbury section. It has led to two one-day school boycotts and a civil rights protest march of some 10,000 persons.

Louise Day Hicks, former school committee chairman, who is still a committee member, said today there can be no suitable plan to ending racial imbalance in the schools.

★ ★ ★

"It can't be done," she said. "Mr. Lee's scatteration plan is the only hope."

★ ★ ★

She referred to a proposal by committeeman Joseph Lee that 14,000 Boston Negro children be transported daily to schools in the suburbs as a means of compliance with the state's new racial imbalance law.

The Massachusetts Legislature last year enacted a law requiring cities and towns to eliminate racial imbalance in their public schools within a reasonable time or face a loss of state education aid.

NOT HARMFUL

Before Thursday night's meeting Mrs. Hicks was quoted as saying, "as I've said many times before, I don't believe racial imbalance is educationally harmful."

Negro parents contend that racial imbalance and overcrowding greatly interfere with the educational process in the school of their district.

The education commissioner said that as soon as Boston submits plans for compliance with the law, its state education funds will be restored.

★ ★ ★

Joseph Salerno, a member of the state board, said "busing is at the heart of the matter," and added that he doubted whether a revised plan that does not include some busing would be acceptable.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Three doctors and a nurse happened to be passing by yesterday when Jack Baker, 5, was struck down by a car in rush hour traffic.

"He was knocked at least four car lengths," said Dr. Emilio Ferrara, a dentist.

★ ★ ★

"He wasn't breathing and was turning blue," said Ferrara, who drove up with a nurse, Jean Carr.

Ferrara administered heart massage and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation as two more physicians, Dr. Earl G. Solomon and his wife, Ann, came along.

HEART SURGERY

"When you see a person is not breathing, the procedure is a tracheotomy," Mrs. Solomon said.

She started the operation with a pocket knife borrowed from a passerby but it was too dull.

"We called again and someone gave me a large knife," Mrs. Solomon said.

"It worked."

INK PEN USED

"We also wanted a straw but someone took a ball point pen apart and handed me the hollow tube.

"It worked nicely."

Mrs. Solomon said the child started to breathe again when she blew air into the tube and Dr. Ferrara continued heart massage.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Baker, was hospitalized and was in critical condition today.

Science for You

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: The Erratic Balloon.

NEEDED: A helium-filled balloon and an automobile.

DO THIS: Hold the balloon by the string in a closed automobile. Ask someone to drive the vehicle in a circle. All objects in the car will tend to move toward the outside of the circle — except the balloon. It will float in the opposite direction.

HERE'S WHY: The balloon tends to rise because its helium is lighter than air. As the automobile turns, the heavier air is inclined to move toward the outside of the circle, as do the people and other objects. The helium, which is lighter, tends to move in the opposite direction.

AN ANALOGY: Float a table tennis ball on water in a fish bowl, and turn around with the bowl in a hand. The water will move toward the outside of your circle, and the ball will move toward you.

378 Mystery Phone Calls

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Louis E. DeWitt says 378 calls the telephone company said he made are mysteries to him.

DeWitt told the Public Utilities Commission he paid the General Telephone Co. $1,000 for 378 calls too many last year.

* * *

He said the calls — to bars, restaurants and residential and business establishments — were not made by either him or his family.

A PUC examiner completed his hearings on the complaint yesterday and said a recommendation would be made to the commission on a possible settlement.

Drunk Drivers Build Airports

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Foreign visitors often admire Finland's modern airports, but few realize that many of them were built by drunken motorists.

In the gangs working on airports and on other projects, you'll find members of Parliament, doctors, teachers and businessmen digging alongside unskilled laborers.

Finnish authorities nab about 6,000 drunken drivers a year. For the past 10 years they have been sentencing them to from three months to two years in work colonies.

About 80 per cent of these work gangs are alcoholic autoists. The rest are regular convicts.

Inmates of the work colonies lead a spartan life, rising at 6 a.m., working a full day and turning in at 10:30 p.m. They live in army-type barracks with tiers of bunks, a big wooden table in the center of the room and no other furniture.

* * *

Visitors are limited to three hours each Sunday. In special cases, a relative may see a prisoner for 10 minutes on a weekday.

* * *

Prisoners are paid 60 cents an hour for their work but most of this goes for such items as meals at 50 cents each and work clothes which they must buy or rent. The government also deducts about 25 per cent of the prisoners' wages in taxes. If an inmate is single, he must save 10 to 20 per cent of his earnings. If he has a family, up to 50 per cent of his pay is deducted for family support.

It probably would not be too difficult to escape from one of these work colonies. But the escapee would be quickly picked up by police.

Penalty for escaping includes loss of time served, forfeiture of earnings and added imprisonment up to two years.

Theoretically all the prisoners are on the same footing, but it does not work out that way. Those from the upper clases are usually segregated from the lower ranks, an arrangement that both groups prefer.

* * *

It's also known that wealthy inmates often pay other prisoners to make their beds and brew coffee or tea for them. The richer prisoners have also been known to buy power tools to make their jobs easier. When their time is served, they usually sell them to some incoming prisoner.

The biggest work camp of this type is located next to Helsinki Airport on the outskirts of the capital. Inmates of this camp built the airport about 15 years ago in time for the 1952 Olympics which were held in Finland.

BUSINESS LEADERS

Business leaders caught driving under the influence of alcohol are usually sent to this camp. There is a standing joke in financial circles about an executive going away on a three-month business trip.

"You can pick him up at Helsinki Airport when he returns," a colleague will say with a wink.

Confinement in one of the work camps for drunken driving does not carry the stigma associated with a regular prison sentence for some crime. Many inmates develop a camaraderie; after they get out there are reunions to recall experiences, much in the manner of army veterans.

The Finnish Government spends about $150,000 a year studying alcoholism, and private organizations contribute heavily to special studies. New experiments are being tried continually, but most agree one of the best ideas conceived was the work system for drunken drivers.

'400,000 Odd Blue Objects in Universe'

By Science Service

HAMPTON, Va. — The universe holds some 400,000 "oddball" light sources known as "quasi-stellar blue objects," the American Astronomical Society was told here.

The first members of this new class of quasars which are the puzzling energy champions of the cosmos, were discovered less than a year ago by Dr. Allan Sandage, astronomer at Mt. Wilson and Palomar Observatories.

Now, Dr. Sidney van den Bergh of David Dunlap Observatory, Richmond Hill, Ontario, Canada, has carefully searched a small part of the sky, counting the number of blue objects he could detect inside the selected patch.

From the 33 spotted in a small area near Andromeda, Dr. van den Bergh calculates that 400,000 could be detected over the entire sky.

Although 400,000 may seem like a large number, it is actually a very small fraction of the billions upon billions of stars and other luminous objects in the universe.

Quasi-stellar blue objects are related to quasars but do not emit radio waves as quasars do. Dr. van den Bergh said that the 33 he detected are a "mixed bunch," some being in the Milky Way galaxy or in halo surrounding it, others lying in far-distant galaxies.

Expense a Prime Factor in Reception Choice

By MADELEINE DOEREN

After the bride-to-be has set the date and time of her wedding and chosen the church, she decides what type reception she would like.

There's the church reception with cake, sandwiches, punch and coffee, following the ceremony, or a reception in a hall with dancing, food and liquid refreshments.

Then there is the home or garden reception which can save as much as half of the reception budget. Even an elegant one need not be too costly.

FOLLOWS CEREMONY

A 'breakfast,' the term used for a reception that takes place before one o'clock in the afternoon, immediately following a morning ceremony, has many advantages.

The newlyweds who may be leaving on a long motor trip or flying to their destination receive a 'head start' . . . so do the out-of-town guests returning to their homes.

The cost of an evening reception in home or hall, plus dinner for out-of-town guests, in addition to their place setting at the breakfast can easily cost $500 more than the simple post-ceremony breakfast.

The size of home or apartment for the home reception is important. If the rooms are small, some articles of furniture could perhaps be moved out for the day.

If the house is large enough to accommodate guests for the reception, a catering service providing a buffet will save many a family headache. Roughly, the cost per person for this type reception is about $2.50.

FLOWERS

One large floral arrangement is suggested for the reception rather than several small scattered bouquets. Place it where most effective, as on a mantel, foyer table or on the bride's table.

The bridesmaids may arrange their bouquets at one end of the bridal table as part of the decor. It is an added use of lovely bouquets which the girls usually tire of holding during the reception. They can be picked up later, of course.

* * *

Many churches have fine halls available and the cost is normally much lower than a commercial hall which runs from $35 to $125. Arrangements can sometimes be made with the church janitor to clean the hall after the reception.

Usually there is a women's guild to take over full responsibility for the reception. They will cut the sheet cakes, if any, mix and pour the punch and wash the dishes at a nominal cost per person, whether a luncheon, buffet supper, or cake-and-coffee affair.

* * *

A 50-gallon coffee-maker is usually 'standard equipment' in the church kitchen, also china, silver, punch bowl and glasses. If not, there are agencies or caterers which specialize in renting candelabra, punch fountains, silver, china and crystal . . . even carpeting or a platform for beneath the bride's table.

A few area caterers have dining rooms available where a buffet or even a sit-down breakfast or luncheon is priced at from $3 to $3.25 per head. This includes tax and tip.

One local caterer serves what he calls a 'foreign brunch' in the home using paper plates at $2 per person or china for an extra charge. Many kinds of meat dishes and salads, also coffee, are offered.

Some bakers and caterers will roast hams, turkeys or large beef roasts to be taken to the home or to a hall, with the family preparing foods to go with the main dish.

OPERATION 'SANDWICH'

Other caterers prepare sandwich fillings, bring these to the home or the scene of the reception and spread the breads just before the guests arrive. Added to their hourly charge is the price of the materials. This still costs less than buying a given number of sandwiches and provides a reserve for any extra servings.

KEEP SIMPLE

Refreshments should be simple, with enough to satisfy the guests but the variety of foods held to a minimum.

On a summer day, a fresh, cooling salad is pleasant, with dainty sandwiches. Serve petit fours, if you wish, but remember that the wedding cake is the important sweet to be served.

* * *

One of the most memorable moments of the reception is the toast to the new couple. Champagne is the proper beverage and the traditional tribute to the newlyweds.

For a single toast, a case is sufficient for up to 100 guests, as one bottle serves six. If punch is to be served, the caterers usualy prepare the base or 'mix' on the scene, adding gingerale and ice, as needed.

Only through thorough planning of the reception can it be the normal and festive aftermath of the wedding service it was meant to be.

Present Gift When Alone With Her

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: My husband and I along with two other couples, were invited to the new house of friends of ours. It was not a party; we were just asked to come and spend the evening.

I brought a small gift for the house. The others brought nothing. When I arrived, I handed the gift to the hostess. My husband thought it was very tactless on my part (and embarrassing to the others) to have given it to her in their presence.

He said I should have put it aside and waited until she was alone to present it to her. Was I wrong?

A: Even though there was no reason for the others to bring presents, I agree with your husband that your handing a gift to the hostess in their presence might have been embarrassing.

It would have been more tactful if you had put the present down inconspicuously and when you had an opportunity, mention to the hostess that you had brought her a small gift.

INVITATION

Q: My girlfriend, who is in college, is going to visit me in my parents' home over the spring vacation. She asked me if my mother would write her a note confirming my invitation so that she could show it to her mother.

Is this the correct thing to do, or would a letter from me be enough?

A: Your girlfriend is perfectly right in wanting a note from your mother to show to her family, and they would be equally right in not allowing her to visit you if she didn't hear from your parents.

Let Him Blow Off Steam

Dear Editor: I Protest

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a compulsive letters-to-the-editor writer. Hector was an English major and was once the editor of his high school newspaper, so he knows something about writing. But he has been going at that typewriter something fierce lately.

ABBY

* * *

He has something to say on every subject currently in the news. If President Johnson wants to know what to do about Viet Nam, the rising cost of living, taxes or unemployment, he should ask Hector. I realize that this is a good safety valve for Hector's steam, but every once in a while one of his letters gets published and he is the laughing stock of the community for months.

* * *

His psychiatrist says it's good for him, but Abby, I have to live in this town, too. What do you think? Please print this because Hector reads your column and gets a big kick out of it, but he says you make up all the letters yourself.

HECTOR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell Hector that I don't make up any letters. With people like him around, I don't have to. And to answer your question, I agree with the psychiatrist. Let Hector shoot his typewriter off.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Is there such a thing as being too polite? I know a man who is so polite he makes everyone nervous. He is the one who races on ahead to open doors. And he jumps like a jack-in-the-box whenever a woman (or even an older person) enters the room.

He beats all the other men when it comes to helping ladies with their coats and pulling out chairs. I don't think this much courtesy is necessary. Should I be quiet? Or should I tell him he is overdoing the perfect gentleman routine?

HIS FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Be quiet. I suspect your "too polite" friend is merely well-bred and is behaving accordingly. Courtesy cannot be overdone.

And he who is made "nervous" by good manners probably needs to brush up on his own.

DEAR ABBY: I have two very close friends who like me a lot, but they just hate each other. One will get very mad at me if I go with the other one. What should I do?

IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR IN: Drop both of them! Everyone has the right to choose his own friends. And so have you!

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I cannot agree on something that I think should be settled soon. Our daughter is nearly 17. She is pretty, a good student, has a steady beau and she listens to reason.

My wife says that hand-holding, hugging and kissing, and all signs of affection between young people should NOT be done at home, where others might walk in at any moment.

This came up when we had another couple in for bridge. The four of us were playing in the living room and my daughter and her boyfriend were in the kitchen. My wife went into the kitchen to get something and she caught them kissing. She was terribly upset. I say I'd rather have them at home doing this than somewhere else.

My wife says they have plenty of opportunity to show affection elsewhere, and if one of our friends had walked in on them instead of her, she'd never have been able to face them.

She lectured our daughter for an hour the next day and cut her dating down to one night a week instead of two. What do you think?

DAD

DEAR DAD: I think your wife is wrong. Normal and innocent displays of affection between a boy and a girl are natural and harmless. Tell your wife to get off your daughter's back or she might feel she has to ask her boyfriend to rent a motel room in order to give her a goodnight kiss.

Lack of Exercise Just a Bad Habit

NEW YORK (UPI) — The lack of daily exercise, according to the American Heart Association, is nothing more than a "bad habit" usually begun in childhood "with living patterns learned from parents."

Some studies, the Association reports, show that men living sedentary lives run a higher risk of heart attacks than men who get regular exercise.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Today I am bringing you a little of the fountain of youth! A recent interview with Joyce Lee proved to be very exciting. Miss Lee is the creator of the Joyce Lee Method of Facial Exercises, and is a wonderful example of what her method can do.

She was born in Toronto, Canada, of Viennese parents. Some of her earliest inspirations came from her mother and grandmother. Among other things they taught her simple facial exercises with which to keep her face firm and youthful. Over the years she has not only practiced these but perfected them, and others she herself has developed.

* * *

In her private salon in Beverly Hills she teaches movie and TV stars and other clients how to keep their faces youthful. Their grateful letters are proof of her success. Joyce Lee herself is 52 years old and looks more like a radiant 32.

She has worked closely with members of the American Medical Association on many patients with excellent results. Many of her customers are sent to her by plastic surgeons, dermatologists and psychiatrists.

GENERAL PRINCIPLES

Today let's listen to some of her general principles and to her instructions about how to cream the face and neck. Some of these ideas are certainly different from those we have been taught before. For instance, when creaming the neck Joyce Lee advises rubbing down, NEVER up on the neck.

To cream the neck tilt the head and chin back until the throat is taut. Apply cream to hands, rub palms together, and caress the neck with downward strokes. Remove cream by pressing tissues against the neck and then stroking gently down on the neck with the tissues.

* * *

One of Miss Lee's most important warnings is to avoid stretching the skin of the face and neck. She believes that rubbing on soap or cream stretches the skin into droopiness unless the muscles of the face are taut so that the skin does not move. She advises making a tight oval of the face by dropping the lower jaw and pursing the lips.

Apply cream upward and outward just to the eye-ring. Holding your face in the tight oval, raise lower lids up just under the eyes, making them taut too, and apply cream toward the bridge of the nose. By doing this you can't push or pull your skin around.

PASSIVE MASSAGE

Joyce said, "Facial massage is passive. My method does not exercise the skin, but the facial muscles. This brings increased circulation that plumps out the tissues of the face, erasing flabbiness and wrinkles, and when the muscles are shortened and strengthened, they stay that way with only a few minutes of toning up once a week."

She also said that while each face responds differently, even most of the most difficult facial faults usually take no more than three to five months of short daily exercise to be eliminated.

Lansing Trip on Agenda for Members

Fourteen Pontiac women will attend the Michigan School Food Service Association convention in Lansing next week.

Among them will be Mrs. Connie Lee, former manager of Pontiac Central High School cafeteria and a charter member of the association's 25-year club.

Other cafeteria managers who will be in Lansing Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday are Mesdames: Jesse Cooper, George Cummings, Douglas Davidson, Carroll Ferris, Chauncey Flora and Glen Hartung.

Others are Mrs. Charles Moore, Mrs. William Richards, Mrs. Amos Terrell, and Mrs. Gilbert Williams.

Concluding the list of participants are Barbara Wilson, coordinator of food services for the Pontiac schools, and Janice Yaeger, food service secretary.

Avoid Full Frills

Do not make frills too full when trimming aprons. They take a lot of material, are very hard to iron and do not look as pretty as those less full.

The engagement is announced of Nancy Khan, daughter of Mrs. Raymond Khan of Dwight Street and the late Mr. Khan, to Roland Systermann, son of the Nicholas F. Systermanns of Utica. She attended Pontiac Business Institute where her fiance is presently enrolled. August vows are planned.

Wrinkles Will Go

When unpacking a suitcase, hang a damp turkish bath towel in the closet where you are going to hang your clothes. After the clothes are hung neatly in the closet, close the door. Most wrinkles will disappear.

Test Yourself on Dating Know-How

CHAPTER 23

Here's a quick quiz to determine your Femininity Quotient. It's just for fun, so don't go into a decline if you get a poor score — devote your energies to improving your gentler qualities.

A. You are wearing a new dress. Your date comments on how lovely you — and it — look. Your reply:

- "Thank you," and change the subject
- "Oh, this old rag. Why I've had it for simply ages."
- "It's a favorite of mine, too. You've made my day!"

B. Your date loves politics and you have all you can do simply to read the headlines of the morning papers. When he talks about his interest, you:

- Say, "Politics bore me."
- Bat your eyelashes and say, "I don't know anything about all that."
- Ask questions and listen intently while he speaks, quietly resolving to bone up on current events on your own time.

C. You have just sat down to dinner with a young man. The conversation lags, so you:

- Tell him your life story.
- Tell him juicy little tales about your friends.
- Ask him about his interests.

D. He has asked for your food preference, and when the menus arrive, he is unfamiliar with the dishes. You:

- Order for him.
- Ask him what he's been doing all his life.
- Tell him you've just discovered this restaurant, too, so you'll both have fun exploring it together.

E. You have finished the meal and it is time to repair your makeup, so you:

- Empty your purse and proceed to do "the works."
- Excuse yourself and spend half an hour in the powder room.
- If you MUST, discreetly powder your nose and apply lipstick as prettily as possible at the table, until you can manage a quick visit to the powder room.

F. You are stuck with a dancing partner. Should you:

- Feign a headache and ask to leave the floor?
- Look around at all the other boys desperately hoping someone will cut in?
- Suggest getting a glass of punch, then join a nearby group of friends?

G. You already have a date for a Saturday night, but "something better" comes along.

* * *

You:

- Break the first date at the last minute.
- Keep both, but call the first one short.
- Take a raincheck on the newcomer with a friendly "But I'd love to next Saturday."

* * *

Total your points. If you checked Number 3 in each case, you probably have more dates than you can handle. A low score means you'd better make an effort to enjoy being a girl.

* * *

Do you ever wonder how you should talk to boys?

Boys are PEOPLE — human beings a lot like yourself. Once you remember that, everything sort of falls into place. Perhaps you think they are lucky because they have the privilege of deciding whether or not they want to call you up for a date, while you have to sit around biting your fingernails waiting for the phone to ring.

* * *

But boys, even the most self-assured, are often afraid of being refused; they worry about their own popularity, just as you do.

BAIT THE HOOK

Encourage a date to tell you all he knows about a subject (even if you know more about it than he does.) Throw out a whole bunch of bait — baseball, football, airplanes, the movie you just saw — and wait for his response. When he's off and running, encourage him by telling him with your eyes as well as words how smart, wonderful and great he is.

* * *

Say something like, "Oh, how interesting! Where did you ever learn that?" You don't have to gush or be insincere — just let him know you think he's nice to be with. He'll think you're wonderful because you realize how wonderful he is. (It's amazing how much outright flattery boys can soak up.)

Tea at Antique Show to Feature Scones

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Next week at the antique show in All Saints Episcopal Church, tea will be served each day of the show. The featured foods will be Scotch scones and butterscotch brownies.

Mrs. Clarence Smith was given the scone recipe during a visit to Scotland. The donor was a 92-year-old woman. These scones will be made daily and served hot.

SCOTCH SCONES

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons shortening
1 egg, beaten
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon honey

Sift together dry ingredients. Cut in shortening. Add egg, milk and honey, stirring only enough to make dough hold together.

Turn out on lightly floured board and knead for 30 seconds. Roll out one-half inch thick and cut with biscuit cutter.

Bake on cookie sheet 12-15 minutes in 425-degree oven. Serve hot. Any leftover scones may be split and toasted.

BUTTERSCOTCH BROWNIES
By Mrs. William Isgrigg

½ cup butter or margarine
2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups sifted flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup flaked coconut
1 cup pecans, chopped

Put butter or margarine and sugar in saucepan and cook together until melted and thick. Cool.

Add rest of ingredients and pour into 9x13-inch greased pan. Bake 25 minutes at 350 degrees. Cut into bars when cool.

MAYTIME You'll love the way this delightful pattern creates a refreshing new mood. The wide yellow band frames the soft white blossoms and the tan toned leaves. New as the spring itself, bright as the morning sun!

Father Hurls Wide Charges

Projects His Own Guilt

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE Y-491: Alice B., aged 15, is a pretty high schooler.

"But, Dr. Crane," she burst into tears, "Daddy has been quarreling with Mother for several weeks.

"And last night, he accused me of doing awful things!

"Why, he said I was a tramp and having affairs with boys in my church Young People's Society!

"How could he have even though such terrible things?

"He knows I am president of that church group and have never done any of the bad things he mentioned!"

PROJECTION

What do you readers think is behind this man's false charges?

Remember, he is not an uneducated, uncouth male, for he is a very successful doctor, aged 50.

Perhaps you recall the old adage that "It takes a thief to catch a thief."

Paraphrased a bit, we might say that it is often a guilty man (or wife) who makes wild charges about sexual immorality against his mate or even his children.

And that is exactly the case here.

Alice's daddy has been chasing around with several married women.

★ ★ ★

For he is in the climacteric, which corresponds to a woman's menopause.

That is chiefly a psychological zone that troubles most people when they reach middle age and begin to grow panicky lest they lose their sexual vigor.

Alsas, this sexual frenzy is not limited to illiterates or those who have not graduated from high school.

It is also typical of the most educated classes, including physicians, dental surgeons, engineers, editors and even clergymen.

For colleges thus far have done very little to reduce the terrific divorce rate in America!

And those few which schedule classes on "Marriage Problems" are likely to focus on the kitchen, living room and nursery but ignore the boudoir.

Yet most divorces start in the bedroom!

Visit your Court of Domestic Relations and see for yourself!

Feuding husbands seldom accuse their mates of being poor cooks.

And they may admit that their wives entertained creditably for the husband's clients and friends.

Indeed, the angry husband may even confess that his wife was a better parent to their children than he has been.

So he may thus grant her an "A" grade in the kitchen, plus a similar top mark in the living room and nursery.

But he gives her only a "D" grade (often a mere "E" or "F") in the bedroom.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.

Registration for a new class in Bishop I to be given on Saturdays from 1 to 3 p.m. are now being accepted.

Install Officers

Officers were installed when the Women's Society of Bethany Baptist Church met Thursday in the church's Traver Parlor.

Mrs. Walter Wilkon is the group's new president.

Naomi Group served a dessert luncheon preceding a vocal solo by Mrs. Victor Lindquist. Elda Sutter was accompanist.

An open house in their Rochester home Sunday will mark the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Eckert. Strange Order for Milkman

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Mrs. George Hammer's milkman was puzzled by the note he found in her milk box.

It was in his customer's handwriting but was a far cry from the usual order for dairy products. It read:

"You are being followed. Use your secret ray gun. Do not kill person — just put him to sleep."

An embarrassed Mrs. Hammer explained: "That's something I fixed up for my daughter and her friends who were playing 'Man From Uncle.' I can't imagine why they hid it in the milk box."

A suspicion of caramel syrup (made by melting and browning granulated sugar) is fine to use in gravies.

Pretty Mom Has License for Trapping

PORT UVE, Pa. (AP) — Gail Svetz, pretty young mother of three, is a rabbit trapper.

Early every morning during trapping season Mrs. Svetz, with her three children and three dogs tagging along, heads for the brush-covered hills on the outskirts of Port Vue to empty, move and bait her traps.

★ ★ ★

"It's fun. Any woman could do it," says Gail, a young woman who prefers heavy leather hiking boots to high heels, and her husband's old hunting jacket to silks and laces.

As a trapper licensed by the Pennsylvania Game Commission, Mrs. Svetz baits her long, wooden traps with fresh apples.

★ ★ ★

Her youngsters, son Steven, 8, and twins, JoAnne and Joseph, 5, like to help with this chore.

APPLES LURE

The fragrance of the fresh apple lures the rabbit into the trap. But sometimes attracts rats and squirrels, too!

Each morning, and again each evening when she checks the traps, Gail empties the rabbits into a canvas bag, and then into carrying cases.

★ ★ ★

Every other day, the carrying cases full of rabbits are picked up by the Game Commission and transported to more remote areas of the state.

"Rabbits are pests around the town. I try to put my traps near homes, where there's evidence of rabbit damage," she says.

★ ★ ★

In the fall, Gail Svetz meets up with her rabbits again when she hunts with husband Bill, a bricklayer.

Discipline, Love Create Happy Child

WASHINGTON—When parents set clear rules of conduct which they expect their children to obey, and when they enforce these rules with respect and affection, they are likely to rear successful and happy children. This is one conclusion from a seven-year study completed by the National Institute of Mental Health.

HIGH STANDARDS

The most successful youngsters in school and at play, the study showed, were those with the highest self-esteem. They come from homes with the strictest parents. The parents of these children were likely to feel it more important that their children meet high standards than that they enjoy themselves. They were also apt to regard "achievement" as more important than sociability."

★ ★

Strict parents, the study shows, granted their children more responsibility, listened to them more closely, gave them a say in making family plans, knew virtually all their friends, and tolerated sharp disagreements more than permissive parents.

Although the stricter parents did not necessarily spend more time with their children, they were more deeply interested in them and enjoyed being with them.

The firm parents, the study indicates, respect themselves, are independent and less conforming, and are interested in community affairs.

The mother frequently had worked for a long time, had enjoyed her work, and had drawn self-confidence from it. She welcomed child-rearing and did not let it cut her off from her other interests. Such women were satisfied with their marriages, husbands and the way the latter helped to raise the children.

The strict father was usually successful, self-confident and the family disciplinarian.

★ ★ ★

Both parents were direct and realistic and expected and usually got the best out of life.

'Go-Togethers'

The total look is as important in the house as in fashion, these days. For a real go-together look in a dining room or eating area, why not make table settings to match the decor. Place mats, cloths, and napkins might be made of the same fabric as curtains or upholstery. Or, trimmings might match or coordinate. It's great fun to do, and adds a really personal touch to your table.

An August wedding is planned by Diana Lynn Covert, daughter of the Walter L. Coverts, Davisburg Road, and Collin Wayne Walls, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norris Walls of Warfield Street, also in Springfield Township. She attended Flint Junior College. Her fiance, an alumnus of Western Michigan University, is enrolled in graduate school at the university.

The Clifford Hetchlers of Hartline Street, Avon Township, announce the betrothal of their daughter, Fern Ann, to Pvt. James W. Wetherell, son of the Otis Wetherells of Midland. Her fiance is stationed at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Late September vows are being planned by Lynne Elizabeth Anderson, daughter of the William H. Andersons of Ostrum Drive, and John J. Kent, son of the George Kents of Oxford. The bride-elect is a junior at Adrian College.

She Brings Clear Proof

MT. STERLING, Ky. (AP) — This community has a rule requiring a $7 windshield sticker for motor cars. Whenever drivers change cars, however, they pay only $1 for a new sticker if they bring with them a portion of their old sticker.

Recently a woman came to the city hall carrying a large chunk of a car windshield. She said her old car had been in a wreck and she couldn't get the sticker off — so she brought in the windshield.

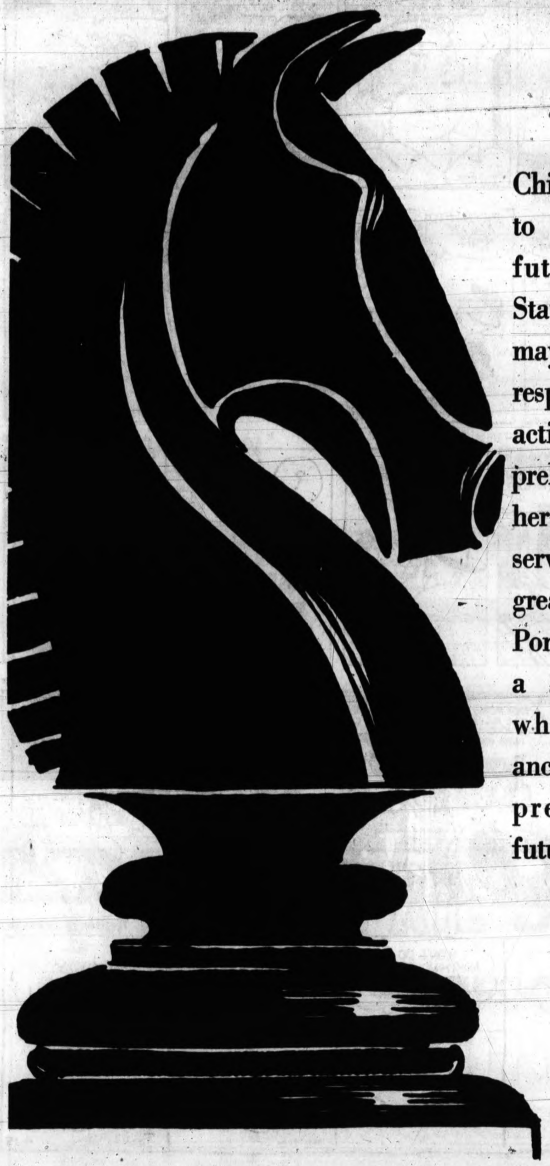
Is it CHINA VS. the UNITED STATES?



China is a puzzle, a riddle to most people. Yet the future of the United States, if not the world, may depend on how we respond to her actions . . . actions which we can comprehend only if we study her history. As a public service, in the interests of greater understanding, The Pontiac Press will present a 24-part story-strip series which examines China's ancient past, her turbulent present and potential future.

By JACOBY & SON

One of the penalties for being an expert is that you frequently find yourself in an inferior contract because your partner goes out of his way to become dummy.

JACOBY

North would normally have bid six no-trump but his partner was the late Sidney Silodor and North wanted to let Sidney handle as many dummies as possible.

Six no-trump would have been a cinch. Against any lead but a spade, North would have knocked out the ace of clubs and made 12 top tricks. Against a spade lead North would have had to finesse. The finesse would work and North would make a grand slam.

West opened the ace of clubs and shifted to a heart. Sidney won in dummy and led the nine of spades for a finesse. When it held, things looked fine. He continued with the eight of spades. That held also and West showed out.

★ ★ ★

This left East with king and one trump and Sidney didn't have any more trumps to lead through him. A little thing like that never disturbed Sidney. He proceeded to make the hand by means of a coup.

His next play was a low club which he ruffed. Then he entered dummy with the queen of hearts and ruffed a high club. This left Sidney with only two trumps.

He went to dummy once more by overtaking his queen of diamonds and proceeded to run off high cards from dummy. East could trump any time he wished but Sidney was ready to overtrump any time.

★ ★ ★

Actually East held out until the bitter end but since Sidney had reduced to the same number of trumps as East, he was able to hold out with him.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South

Pass	1 N.T.	Pass	2♣
Pass	3♣	Pass	3♥
Pass	3♠	Pass	?

You, South, hold:

What do you do?

A—This is a tough one. Our preference is for four spades but we would not criticize a return to clubs. WE WOULD NOT PASS.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Instead of bidding three spades your partner goes to four clubs. What do you do now?

Canada Fleet to Be Biggest of Great Lakes

CLEVELAND (AP)—Soon the Canadians will have more ships hauling cargo on the Great Lakes than the United States has, the chief counsel of the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries said Thursday.

John Drewry told the Lake Carriers Association stockholders and directors in their annual meeting that Canada already is operating three times as many ships over 24,000 tons, "a significant advantage since economy is a function of size."

★ ★ ★

Half of the U.S. lakes fleet is more than 50 years old, and the fleet has declined 30 per cent in numbers and 17 per cent in tonnage in the last decade, Drewry said. The Canadian fleet declined 26 per cent in numbers, but because of larger replacements increased in tonnage by 52 per cent, he added.

The number of vessel employes in the U.S. fleet fell from 14,000 to 9,000 since 1953, Drewry said.

Ways Found to Aid Memory

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Memory in senile individuals is apparently improved by carbon dioxide inhalation and vitamin B3.

★ ★ ★

This could well mean that metabolism and the production of new protein are central to memory storage — a highly current topic of debate among scientists searching for the physical traces of memory.

In reporting his experiment before an international assembly of psychopharmacologists, Dr. Heinz Lehmann of McGill University, Montreal, Canada, added one more bit of evidence in support of the protein theory.

Dr. Lehmann tested drugs on both senile patients — those with organic brain damage — and schizophrenic patients, mentally ill but showing no organic disease.

★ ★ ★

He found that while the CO2 and vitamin B3 or nicotinic acid approach worked with the first type of patient, tranquilizers improved memory in the schizophrenics.

If the treatment was switched, neither group of patients profited, at least in their ability to remember.

Court Approves Law Districting Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb (AP) — A three-judge federal court panel has approved Nebraska's latest legislative reapportionment law. It has a population variance of nearly 20 per cent between the largest and smallest counties.

The court specified that the 20 per cent should not be regarded as a standard or a pattern for reapportionment.

Avoid Springtime Woes

Keep Mower Engine Purring

The life of small engines — like those on lawn mowers — can be "materially shortened" if they are not correctly cared for when being put back into service after storage, contends a Michigan State University agricultural engineer.

Robert G. White says hours of "headache and trouble" can be avoided by giving a little more attention to putting the engine into service. Heofferst he following suggestions for lawn mower spring tune-up:

● Remove the spark plug and pour two tablespoons of a half-and-half mixture of gasoline and lubricating oil into the cylinder. Replace spark plug and crank engine slowly once. Do not connect spark plug wire.

● Again remove spark plug and crank engine rapidly several times to blow excess fuel and oil mixture out the spark plug hole. Be sure to ground spark plug wire, so that spark will not start fire.

● Clean and re-gap spark plug properly and replace, using a new plug gasket. Tighten spark plug snugly, but do not over-tighten. Always use a spark plug wrench. With two-stroke cycle engines, be sure a special two-stroke cycle spark plug is used.

● With four-stroke cycle engine, drain crankcase, flush with flushing oil or light motor oil, drain again and refill to proper level with correct grade and viscosity motor oil.

● Drain all old fuel from fuel tank and carburetor. Clean fuel filters or screens, and refill fuel tank and carburetor.

★ ★ ★

Use of regular grade gasoline is permissable unless your opcalls for a non-leaded, or "white" gasoline.

With two-stroke cycle engines, add lubricating oil to gasoline in proportion called for in operator's manual. Always thoroughly mix fuel and oil for two-stroke cycle engines, before filling fuel tank.

● Check air intake system, and clean air filtering element. If oil-soaked filtering element is used, wash in fuel, swing briskly to throw out fuel, dip in motor oil, shake off surplus oil, and replace.

● Remove air control shields of air-cooled engine, and remove all trash, grass, grease, etc. from cooling fins. Replace air control shields.

● Start engine and operate slowly for several minutes before putting engine to work. Engine will probably smoke badly for a few minutes.

If gum has formed in fuel tank, lines, or carburetor, it may be dissolved with acetone or a half-and-half mixture of alcohol and Benzol.

Your mower should now be ready to tackle the grass.

Large divided heart-shaped leaves distinguish the hardy American spikenard, aralia racemosa.

Bean Stock Is Improved

The traditional Saturday night baked bean supper may be a pleasure soon for those whose digestive facilities are upset by the gas from ordinary dried beans.

Prof. Radcliffe B. Pike, a horticulturist at the University of New Hampshire believes it possible that even persons who have undergone a colostomy may be able to eat his new bean without difficulty.

Pike's field is ornamental plants, but he moved into the vegetable area because of his liking for baked beans and rutabagas (turnips).

He also has developed a milder but fine-flavored rutabaga, by crossbreeding the common rutabaga with Chinese cabbage.

★ ★ ★

The double project took about 10 years of spare time with help from two prominent brothers — Summer T. Pike of Lubec, Maine, former chairman of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, and Alger W. Pike of Lubec, a member of the Maine Sardine Council.

HEIRLOOM STRAIN

Horticulturist Pike noted that an heirloom strain of Jacob's Cattle Bean originally given by the Passamaquoddy Indians to one of Pike's ancestors, was less gaseous than other dried beans.

But it had a poor yield. He crossed it with a bountiful, small black Mexican soup bean.

From 600 seedlings, only one plant met Pike's standards.

The result is a bean that resembles Jacob's Cattle but yields much more heavily and retains the gasless quality.

★ ★ ★

The plant breeding was done at the University of New Hampshire.

The seedlings were grown at Lubec by Alger Pike.

Beans should be planted several feet away from other varieties of beans so that they won't hybridize.

The common wood leek flowers in early spring.

Introductions Hit Garden Market

Spring catalogs have poured in, offering many new items, such as:

Yellow Nugget Marigold, a dwarf, triploid first generation species hybrid of mound shape that keeps on blooming, never going to seed. (by Burpee)

Rosy Glow Barbary with maroon leaves and halos of pink that run scarlet after the first frost. Grows 3 to 4 feet tall, and planted 1½ feet apart make a thick hedge. (Kelly Bros.)

Amaryllis Apricot Lily for growing indoors; Zinnia Envy, apple-green in color, and Primula Nosegay, compact and hardy for shady places. (Park).

Troublesome Spot

If you have a troublesome spot in your lawn — under trees, where tree roots compete for food and water or where the soil is poor — you'll find it profitable to add seed annually.

Spring Bulbs Must Ripen

Do not mow the tops from your tulips, jonquils and other flowering spring bulbs after the bloom has gone.

Let them stay there until they dry up.

By doing this, the tops ripen and store up food in the bulbs for next year's blossoms.

Plants Prefer Staying in Accustomed Place

Do not carry house plants outdoors when it rains in order for them to get a soaking.

Proper watering and occasional washing of the foliage indoors will do more good than shifting them briefly from one environment to another.

The hardy red baneberry, actaea rubra, features a late springtime show of white flowers followed by red fruit.

Sure, it's Springtime and the "mower fever" is upon us. There are deals to be made. And we have as good as you'll find anywhere. PLUS, we have the new YARD-MAN line of mowers . . . Reels, Rotary Mowers and Lawn Tractors. None better. And we prove it! Which is why we want you to drop by and see them BEFORE you decide. Find out why YARD-MAN has helped build the trend to reel mowers . . . the only mower for fine lawns.

Planting Time Is Now

Roses Adaptable in Garden Landscape

Roses have many functional uses on the property. They make colorful beds along the driveway and serve, too, as borders for annuals or other shrubs.

Climbing varieties can be planted to adorn the garage or an unsightly fence post.

Planted near the house, rose bushes add color to the evergreen foundation plants from spring through fall.

They can be used as accent plants, and if well placed they will emphasize the architecture of the house.

★ ★ ★

As hedges they create privacy where desired, and they are useful as screens as well as ground covers.

MINIATURES

Rows of miniature rose bushes add striking effect under picture windows or along walks.

The early gardener acquires bigger and better rose blooms.

The sooner your rose plants throw out their roots, the earlier the plants will grow and bud, forming better quality first-year flowers.

★ ★ ★

So start early in your rose plantings. Bare root rose plants preferably are set out when they first come into the markets.

So start early in your rose plantings. Bare root rose plants preferably are set out when they first come into the markets.

At that time they are in their most perfect condition, and of course, they will have the benefit of longer season of growth and flower.

A fairly new type of rose is a class known as "grandiflora." Its name characterizes this plant, which is vigorous in growth and has a wealth of blooms.

★ ★ ★

It is ideal as a specimen or accent plant, its blooms often having a spectacular display.

Miniature Plants Fit Window Sills

For indoor pleasure there are miniature geraniums in small clay pots that fit most window sills.

There are many miniature varieties to brighten the kitchen in winter and spring, in the window or planter.

Floribunda roses are extremely useful for landscaping.

They afford masses of blooms of just about the right height for narrow beds along a walk or fence, or rose beds.

Many new floribunda roses have been introduced in recent years, and they are available in a wide range of coors.

★ ★ ★

The smallest rose plants are the miniatures which have had a revival in modern landscaping where low rose plants are desired beside a terrace or as a low border to a garden of other flowers.

The small flowers are perfectly formed miniatures of the larger blooms and they are increasingly being used for pots, table arrangements and boutonnieres.

Tree roses have assumed more importance recently as the demand for landscape roses has increased

★ ★ ★

Tree roses are grown on a single large stem or "trunk," branching out at a height of about four or five feet to appear like a bouquet of roses.

They are grown in a variety of colors.

Along walks, in a regular rose garden to give "tiered" effect, or set on a terrace in tubs or pots, they impart a rather formal effect.

As always, climbing roses are best for arbor planting or beside a porch, garage or along a fence or high wall. They are widely used in landscaping.

★ ★ ★

For formal rose gardens the hybrid tea rose is preferred by many, although it is often used elsewhere, in beds along walks, beside a patio or garden living room and similar locations.

Some of the newer varieties are conversation pieces and like other species, they provide cut flowers for inside the home.

New colors, from lavender to orange, with many new shades of yellow, pink and red, are continuously being produced by famous hybridizers here and abroad.

So select your rose plants with care to serve your property functionally as well as for beauty.

Dandelions Are Versatile

You probably feel unimpressed about the dandelion, but to be honorable about the pest, it deserves it its due.

The dandelion is versatile. Its yellow petals are used to concoct a tasty wine.

The young green leaves may be eaten as you do spinach. In some places the roots are used as a substitute for coffee.

And some folks will tell you the roots will ease indigestion.

* * *

When a substitute for rubber was sought during World War II, dandelion sap was being tested when development of a synthetic rubber pushed the plant back under the lawnmower.

White Baneberry Thrives in Shade

Deciduous white baneberry, actaea alba, puts forth white flowers April through June which are followed by white berries.

* * *

Hardy, it is perfect for the shady rock garden.

Aconitum Uncinatum Has Blue Blossoms

Blue hood-shaped clambering monkshood, aconitum uncinatum, produces showy flowers in midsummer.

Its smooth vine-like stem grows to a length of 3-5 feet.

Connecticut Gives Soil to 36 States

Connecticut is being given away in 4-ounce lots.

The State Agricultural Experiment Station reports that in one year, 215 samples of Connecticut soil, sterilized to avoid transporting insect pests or diseases, were mailed to 36 states in answer to requests.

Why do people want the soil? For many reasons.

The Hungarian Alumni Association of Rutgers University wanted to put it in an urn presented to the university.

The urn contained soil from each of the 50 states, symbolizing the U.S.A. and "representing the bondage of new graduates of Rutgers to the country and its people."

A Nebraskan wanted enough Connecticut soil to fill half a medicine bottle.

A Montana girl wanted soil from the lawn of the State Capitol.

A Rhode Islander said "please be sure the soil is not fertilized."

A North Carolina young lady requested "enough of your best soil to grow a lima bean in."

An Illinois girl said she was "collecting . . . average dirt . . . from each state."

A New York woman wanted samples from all states to take to Our Lady of Fatima, to ask her blessing of peace for this nation.

Right in Your Own Back Yard

A National Beautification Program Begins at Home

"The responsibility for natural beauty and conservation starts at home," says Russell E. Train, president of the Conservation Foundation, "of this we can be absolutely certain.

Our immediate job lies in our own backyard, on our own street, in our own neighborhood."

How does the average citizen go about conserving and beautifying his own property?

Beauty alone is not enough. To be really worthwhile, the beauty of trees and shrubs should be made to work for the family to make family living both more enjoyable and productive.

* * *

Good conservation practice includes preservation of the soil, fertilization, sound drainage and plant covers which prevent erosion.

A lawn or other ground cover will accomplish this.

To make the conservation and beautification improve family living, however, a landscape plan is needed which will provide privacy, shade where you need it when you need it, outdoor or patio living, flowers to beautify and cut for indoor decoration, family fruit, or whatever the family itself decides upon.

How does one obtain a plan?

* * *

Landscape architects and landscape nurserymen will draw plans for individual properties.

Some nurseries will draw plans without charge providing the plants are purchased from them.

In addition to the home property, streets and the neighborhood can be beautified.

* * *

How does one go about this? The street, neighborhood or community group makes a survey of what is needed to beautify.

If presently beautiful, perhaps only a few touches will make all the difference.

If there are ugly areas, perhaps they can be cleaned up and planted with something permanent and beautiful that requires the least amount of maintenance.

Examples of community projects include street trees, small parks and recreation areas, waterfront landscaping including banks of local streams and many others.

Industrial landscaping movements have done much to beautify in some areas.

On one's own home grounds is a logical place to start beautifying, then with the cooperation of other individuals and civic groups should come expansion to neighborhood and community projects.

Community beautification under the direction of the mayor, advised by a committee of experts, can call a conference, organize, and lay out a long range program that benefits the area.

To be most effective, beautification should range all the way from the individual home to the Federal Government at Washington.

Use Ice Teaspoons as Plant Supports

Use plastic ice teaspoons as supports for your potted plants. They are colorful, do not rot and are easy to transfer from one crock to another.

Aztec Lily From Mexico

An amaryllis relative is the Aztec Lily, or sprekelia.

A native of Mexico and Guatamala, it blooms at the same time as the amaryllis, but the flower has a slender, more delicate form.

It enjoys amaryllis conditions, a tight fit in the pot, rich soil, sun and moisture.

Wild ginger, asarum canadense, prefers a moist shady corner and is an ideal companion for wild ferns.

Suburbanites Need Great Society Help

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the unsolved problems of the Great Society is what to do about suburbanites.

BOYLE

At present they don't quite fit into either the government's antipoverty or foreign aid programs, but certainly something needs to be done to help them.

Life is getting too tough for them out there on the farthest rim of civilization, out there where the begonias bloom and the sidewalks end.

FLED TO SUBURBS

They fled to the suburbs originally to escape the poisoned air and crowded clutter of the cities. They thought they would find health of body and peace of mind away from the human herd.

But it hasn't worked out that way. Show me a suburbanite and I'll show you an ambulant neurosis, a man overwhelmed by an environment beyond his ability to cope with.

Let us consider Ronald Halfacre, a typical suburbanite. He is a horizontal yo-yo who rides a train five mornings a week to his job in the city, and rides home five evenings a week to a mortgage-covered cottage in the suburbs that looks like it had been cut out of cardboard by a child with a rusty pair of scissors.

★ ★ ★

Ronald is 35 and looks 50. His thinning hair is whitening fast, his eyes are feverish, his face twitches, and he smokes four packs of cigarettes a day. He is popular with his office pals but they prefer to sit to leeward of him at lunch because his entire system seems to have been infiltrated with lawn fertilizer.

BEST SLEEP

It isn't his job, or his journeying back and forth, that are aging Ronald. As a matter of fact he gets his best sleep on the train and during quick naps in his swivel chair.

What has made Ronald old before his time are those long weekends in the suburbs. They are simply more than human flesh can bear.

Ronald never stops going from the time he steps off his train Friday night until his weary wife shovels his limp frame aboard the 8:12 express Monday morning.

★ ★ ★

What does he do? Ronald parties until nearly dawn, then gets up and paints and scrapes walls and plants beans and fights crabgrass and asphyxiates himself burning hot dogs in a back yard pit and parties some more and stays up until dawn again and drives the kids to the beach and parties at the Country Club and parties at the neighbors; paints the crabgrass and fights the walls, and parties some more, and yackety-yackety-yaks, and before he knows it, Monday dawn is shining and he is lying there in bed sweating and silently screaming.

LONG NIGHTMARE

Where did the weekend go? He doesn't remember it except as one long nightmare. His head rings like a temple gong and his stomach feels like it had been blown up and used in a football game. It isn't until Wednesday that Ronald returns to normal.

Multiply his problem 30 million times and you can see why this is a problem that requires government action. Only the government is big enough to deal with it. But unless it does something, American suburbanites probably will go the way of the dodo and the dinosaur.

Johnson Signs New Time Law

Bill Ends Confusion on Daylight Saving

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—President Johnson signed into law yesterday legislation to end the confusion generated by the annual summer switch to daylight saving time.

The Texas White House announced that Johnson, in a farewell to the hodgepodge times of yesteryear, had signed the measure shortly before he left on his trip to Mexico City.

The immediate effect of the law is that every community in the country going on daylight time this year must start at 2 a.m. (local time) April 24, just 10 days from now.

Under the new law, clocks will be turned ahead one hour on the last Sunday in April and turned back one hour on the last Sunday in October. The idea is to make the time change uniform throughout the country.

★ ★

Starting next year, the entire nation will go on daylight time for the six-month period, with this exception: A state legislature may vote to exempt the entire state from the requirement and thus stay on standard time for the entire six months.

AUTOMIC MOVE

Any state that does nothing automatically goes on daylight time.

Expectations are that few states will vote to exempt themselves. Last year, 36 states went on "fast time" to some extent.

Sixteen already observed the dates set by the new law, while 20 others used different dates. Of the 36, only 18 observed daylight time statewide.

Girl Dealers in Vegas to Lose Shirts

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The odds on blackjack might be getting worse around here.

Nevada Atty. Gen. Harvey Dickerson says at least one casino is planning a new distraction—topless dealers.

* * *

As eager as visiting card players might be to lose their money so pleasantly, natives took a dimmer view.

"It's lewd," said the Rev. Glenn Tudor, member of the Clark County (Las Vegas) Ministerial Association.

CHAIRMAN

"I don't know. I don't know," said Milton Keefer, chairman of the Nevada Gaming Commission.

"I think it's indecent exposure," said Pete Bommarito, day shift manager at another casino.

"No comment," said Robert Miller, assistant general manager of the Silver Nugget, where Dickerson said the women dealers, stripped to the waist, would begin work next Tuesday.

* * *

Topless chorus girls are old hat in Las Vegas. They made their debut in 1958. They survived an attempt to outlaw them. And they were introduced in Reno in 1961.

WEEK OF TRAINING

Dickerson said Thursday he learned that the Silver Nugget, in suburban North Las Vegas, has hired new women dealers who are willing to work so dressed. He said the new girls were getting a week of training.

"My office has had several calls from the women dealers presently employed by the casino," Dickerson said. "They have complained that unless they shed their top garments, they would lose their jobs.

* *

"If the Nugget carries out this plan, I'll seek a court injunction to halt this affront to the decent and law-abiding citizens of Nevada.

"If this course is taken by the casino involved or by any other casino, my office will request in the strongest language that a close look be taken by the gaming control board at the licensing authorizing '21' (blackjack) games in that place of business."

'OUT OF LINE'

"I personally think that this is a little out of line," said W. E. Leypoldt, gaming board member.

In downtown Las Vegas and along the Strip, casino spokesmen indicated topless dancers were in—but topless dealers were out.

* * *

Officials of several strip hotels said it would cheapen their image.

GESUNDHEIT! — Sneezing June Clark had hoped to catch an airplane for Mesa, Ariz., from Miami yesterday. Miami Mayor Chuck Hall (left) hoped so, too. June's father (right) hoped the change of climate would ease the condition for the girl, who has been sneezing a number of months. However, due to a comedy of errors, she missed her flight. Officials managed to book passage on later flight.

Frank Sinatra's Jet Damaged by Blaze

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Fire damaged Frank Sinatra's jet plane Thursday night at the Lear Aircraft factory where it was being modified.

The amount of loss was not disclosed.

* * *

The two-engine $600,000 plane was delivered to Sintra last fall and was returned to the factory last week for overhaul and installation of more instruments.

Workmen said the fire started when an electric drill accidentally pierced an oxygen line.

'Carpetbaggers' Stars to Wed

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "A marriage is the union of a man and a woman; a wedding is the custom by which they conform to the dictates of society. It's the marriage that is important, not the wedding."

THOMAS

These were reflections of actor George Peppard on the brink of Matrimony. He will be wed on Sunday to darkly beautiful Elizabeth Ashley, whom he met when they co starred in "The Carpetbaggers."

* * *

"The wedding will take place at the Bel-Air Hotel before ported. "Then we'll have a reception for about 100 in another eption for about 100 in another room of the hotel. It seems like a good excuse for a party."

He met Miss Ashley, who is divorced from actor James Farentino, three years ago when she tested for "The Carpetbaggers."

5 ACTRESSES

"She says we met while she was under a hair dryer," Peppard remarked. "Could be, but I don't remember that. I tested with five different actresses. I'm happy to say that Elizabeth got the part."

* * *

The romance blossomed during the filming, in which she played the long-suffering wife to his Jonas Cord, a businessman.

"The engagement came last spring," he recalled. "We were having a party because I was going off to Africa to make 'The Sands of Kalihari.'"

FLURRY OF LAWSUITS

After reporting to "Kalihari," he ran into a dispute with the company and returned to Hollywood in a flurry of lawsuits.

* * *

Peppard recently returned from five months of filming "The Blue Max" in Ireland. He had insisted on learning to fly World War I planes in the film, and he experienced a number of near-mishaps. This flirtation with peril may or may not have influenced his decision for a wedding. She is 26, he is 34.

* * *

"To appear together would be professionally dumb, I think," said George. "There are too many unequal elements in doing a picture together. Why look for trouble?"

Name Negro Principal to White Dixie School

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — The Richmond County Board of Education yesterday assigned a Negro principal to an all-white elementary school in this city on the South Carolina border.

Mrs. Annie Mae Williams was shifted to the Martha Lester School from the Fifth Ward School, an all-Negro school closed in compliance with the new strict federal school desegregation guidelines.

CMU Gets Okay on Educational TV Operation

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP)—Central Michigan University Thursday announced final approval from the Federal Communications Commission for the school to operate an educational television station on Channel 14.

It follows a $171,000 grant April 4 from the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare for station establishment and operation. The university hopes to begin operation of the station this winter. It will be known as WCMU.

* * *

Spokesmen indicated the initial signal will cover a 30-mile radius and serve schools in the Mount Pleasant area. Commercial stations now carrying CMU educational programs will be able to pick up the new station's signal and relay it to other central and northern Lower Michigan communities.

Fire Is Fatal to Woman

IN GOOD SHAPE — Actress Elizabeth Taylor leaves a Rome clinic yesterday following a 24-hour checkup. She appeared to be in good health, and doctors described her condition as excellent. She is in Italy to film "The Taming of the Shrew" with her husband, Richard Burton.

Many Expected at Viet Talks

By STANLEY M. SWINTON

MANILA (AP) — When and if the Viet Nam problem moves from battlefield to negotiating table, Washington and Saigon may be surprised at the number of voices which expect to be heard.

South Viet Nam and the United States are bearing the greatest burden in blood and money in the fight against the Viet Cong and Communist expansion in Southeast Asia.

★ ★ ★

But South Korea, Australia and New Zealand already have forces in South Viet Nam. President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines expected the vanguard of 2,000 Filipino combat engineers and support troops to reach Saigon in May.

Thailand has made no direct commitment in Viet Nam but U.S. planes take off against both North and South Viet Nam from five Thai bases quietly made available for that purpose by the Bangkok government.

U.N. EFFORT

South Korea, grateful for the United Nations effort which saved the republic from Communist North Korea and Red China, has 20,000 men in combat in Viet Nam. Part of a second 20,000-man force is due to leave shortly.

An Associated Press reporter who talked with a number of top Korean leaders found that all expect South Korea to have a place at the negotiating table.

★ ★ ★

Korean leaders almost without exception feel that a major political error was made when the United States and its U.N. allies did not fight the Korean War to a conclusion and left the country divided between Communist North and anti-Communist South. They believe strongly the same thing must not happen in Viet Nam.

Australia and New Zealand have lesser Vietnamese commitments. Their basic policies are likely to be close to American views — but diplomats say they will want to be heard.

LESS INSISTENT

The Philippines are less insistent. President Marcos says that after his troops participate in the Viet Nam effort, the Philippines will expect "to be consulted" in any talks. He says it's too early to say whether the Philippines will ask a place at the negotiating table.

Thailand is strongly anti-Communist. Its leaders' views come closest to those of the South Koreans. However, Thailand's contribution has been indirect and there has been no indication Thailand will expect to take part in future talks.

★ ★ ★

It is likely that the Thais will be satisfied with consultation.

U.S. diplomats in Asia say that Washington is aware that its Asian and Anzac allies expect a role in any Vietnamese settlement — but these same experienced Americans fear that the White House and State Department underestimate the extent to which South Korea, at least, expects to participate.

'No British Troops Asia-Bound'

LONDON (AP) —The Foreign Office ruled out yesterday the idea that Britain might send a token military force to Viet Nam.

A spokesman said at his daily news conference that no request for such a force has been received from the United States, nor is one expected.

★ ★ ★

"We are in a special position as one of the cochairmen of the Geneva conference on Indochina," the spokesman said. "This is recognized by the United States as precluding us from the dispatch of British forces to Viet Nam."

The Soviet Union is the other cochairman of the Geneva peace making machinery created 12 years ago.

The Foreign Office comment came as a result of a report in the British newspaper Guardian, which said the United States almost certainly will ask the British soon to send a token force to Viet Nam. The Guardian said the American need is for military engineers.

Other British government authorities said the Americans will understand this country is burdened with another major commitment in Asia—its treaty pledge to help defend Malaysia and Singapore against Indonesia's attacks.

Loan Allowed Rwanda

WASHINGTON (AP) — The International Monetary Fund has approved a standby arrangement permitting Rwanda to draw the equivalent of $5 million over one year to help finance its balance of payments.

Castro Officially Cuts Estimate of 1966 Sugar Crop

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro has officially cut his estimate of this year's sugar crop to five million tons, 1½ million less than he had hoped.

He said in a broadcast monitored in Miami Thursday night that the crop was hurt by a drought he described as the worst in decades.

★ ★ ★

Castro predicted a 1967 crop of seven million tons and a 1970 crop of 10 million.

Exile economists have been saying that this year's sugar production, Cuba's main cash crop, could not run over five million tons.

Detroit Police Arrest Six in Numbers Raids

DETROIT (AP) — Police arrested five men and a woman in raids on a house and an apartment building Wednesday and said they had smashed a $3,000-a-week numbers operation.

The five were charged with conspiracy to violate state gambling laws. Officers said they confiscated bet slips, three autos and a gun.

Washington Foe at Tiger Stadium

First Place Tigers Get Home Opener Welcome Today

DETROIT (UPI) — A horseshoe, the Coast Guard and a pair of politicians.

And, oh yes, a three-game winning streak.

Mix them all with a crowd of 35,000 people, 65-degree temperatures and the Washington Senators and you have the season opener of the Detroit Tigers — on tap today in Tiger Stadium.

The Tigers go into the game tied for first place after beating New York 3-2 and 5-2 yesterday.

The horseshoe is a floral job, customarily presented to the Tiger manager, Charlie Dressen.

The Coast Guard Color Guard performed opening flag-raising ceremonies.

And Republican Governor George Romney and Democratic Mayor of Detroit Jerome Cavanagh have the traditional ball tossing out honors.

But the expected crowd of 35,000 had one thing in mind and that was to get a first-hand look at the team which a majority of the experts are picking to win the American League title.

If they could do it, it will be the first time in 21 years that a Detroit team finished atop of the heap in the Junior Circuit.

★ ★ ★

The Tigers got off to a fast start against New York in the first three games of the season.

Besides a rejuvenated Al Kaline, a highly-hoped-for rookie Mickey Stanley and the assorted hit-productions of Norm Cash, Willie Horton and Dick McAuliffe, fans today were to get the season's first look at ace of the bullpen, Dave Wickersham.

But Wickersham has temporarily abandoned his "ace of the bullpen" title to pull a startling job since Dressen wants to see Joe Sparma and Hank Aguirre advance into better form before sending them onto the hill.

"We're off to a great start and the pitching staff looks like it has straightened out," chipper Tiger manager Charlie Dressen beamed Thursday. "Now we'll just have to keep it up."

The Tigers put it all together Thursday — good starting pitching, sharp relief work, timely hitting, and key contributions from its strong bench.

★ ★ ★

But probably the most important factor of the Tiger sweep was that they took advantage of Yankee mistakes.

This was the way it used to be with the old winning Yankee teams who always took advantage of the miscues of the opposition.

In the first game, Mel Stottlemyer out-pitched Detroit's Denny McLain and deserved to win. But McLain, who was shaky during his eight-inning stint but always came up with the big out when he needed it, was helped out of several jams by brilliant Tiger fielding.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, the Yankees handed Detroit three tainted runs and that was enough for the Tigers. In the ninth with the score tied 2-2, big Gates Brown walked and McAuliffe hit a dribbler down the first base line. Elston Howard's throw was off-target and McAuliffe was credited with a hit, sending Brown racing to third.

★ ★ ★

After Willie Horton walked to load the bases, Norm Cash tried to check his swing and hit a weak roller to shortstop Horace Clark, who had replaced starter Rueben Amaro. It might have been an inning ending double play but Clark booted the ball and Brown raced home with the winning run.

New York tried to get by with National League retread Bob Friend in the second game but Detroit tagged him for seven hits and four runs, as he was knocked out in the fifth. Al Kaline's third single sent him to the showers.

★ ★ ★

Second-string catcher Orlando MacFarlane hit a solo homer in the fourth inning for what proved to be the winning run.

★ ★ ★

Making his first start as a Tiger, Billy Monbouquette pitched a strong six-hitter to chalk up the win. He was never in trouble after Jake Gibbs touched him for a two-run homer in the second.

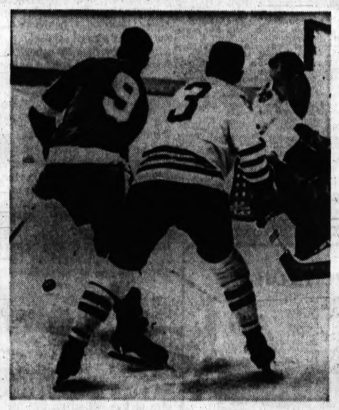
Red Wings Even Stanley Cup Series With Hawks, 5-1

Watson's Play Against Hull Is Big Factor

Three Power Plays Net Detroit Goals at Olympia



AP Photofax

HOWE MOVES IN — Gordie Howe (9) of the Detroit Red Wings moves in front of Chicago Black Hawks' Pierre Pilote (3) to get a shot at the net, but he failed to score when goalie Glenn Hall made the save. The Wings evened the Stanley Cup playoff series with the Hawks at 2-2 by winning 5-1.

DETROIT (AP) — Sudden success with the power play against Chicago and the continued spirited play of Bryan Watson has given the Detroit Red Wings new hope in their Stanley Cup semifinal series with the Black Hawks.

The Red Wings scored three goals in the third period on their way to a 5-1 victory Thursday night to even their best-of-seven series at two games each.

Watson, spelled at times by Gordie Howe, continued his effective shadowing of Chicago's Bobby Hull and added insult to injury by scoring his second goal of the series.

Hull has scored once and got only two shots on the Detroit goal Thursday.

"I kept telling everyone that my goals came in bunches," said Watson, who scored but two times in 70 regular season games.

BROKEN STICK

"But darn it, I broke my favorite stick," he added, recalling a bruising check by Hull in front of the Red Wings' bench which splintered the stick.

Paul Henderson scored two goals and Andy Bathgate, Watson and Howe added the three in the final period. Stan Mikita got Chicago's lone marker in the first period.

Three of the Detroit goals came on power plays, giving them eight such markers in the series. They had six in 14 regular season games with the Black Hawks.

★ ★ ★

Detroit Manager-Coach Sid Abel said the only difference with the power play was that "we are starting to click."

Chicago Coach Billy Reay, forced to play without the services of Doug Mohns, Chico Maki and Elmer Vasko, conceded his team had taken the worst lumps but insisted the series was far from over.

EXPECTED BACK

"I said when this began that the series would go seven games and I have not changed my mind," Reay said.

He added he expected Mohns and Vasko to be ready for Sunday's game in Chicago.

Bible Schools Compete for 'Spirit Jug'

Midwestern Baptist Seminary and Detroit Bible College will initiate a rivalry Saturday that they hope will become an annual competition.

The two schools will compete at Wisner Stadium and Jaycee Park in five events with the over-all winner gaining possession of the Spirit Jug.

A 10 a. m. track meet at Wisner will begin the festivities. Following a potluck lunch, there will be boys' and girls' softball games, horseshoe competition and finally a rope-pulling event all in the afternoon at Jaycee Park.

The jug presentation to the better school will be made at approximately 3:30 p. m. at the park.

Canadiens Sweep Maple Leaf Series

TORONTO (AP) — The Montreal Canadiens — victors in one of hockey's shortest and most savage wars — plotted defense of the Stanley Cup today while Toronto's scattered Maple Leafs licked their wounds.

The Canadiens capped a four-game sweep of their National Hockey League semifinal playoff series against arch-rival Toronto Thursday night by crushing the Leafs 4-1 in a pitched battle that set eight penalty records.

★ ★ ★

Montreal goes after its 12th postseason title since 1927, when the Stanley Cup became the NHL's symbol of supremacy, against the survivor of the other semifinal set between Chicago and Detroit.

"I'd like to start the finals right away — the way we're going," said Montreal Coach Toe Blake after his club's third come-from-behind victory over the Leafs.

"But then," he added, "some of our players have aches and pains. Maybe the rest will do us all good."

★ ★ ★

More than a few of the aches and pains are the result of a first period donnybrook that delayed Thursday night's game 27 minutes and resulted in 124 penalty minutes — more than double the previous record for a single period in playoff competition.

Fights broke out all over the ice after only 3½ minutes of play and six main eventers shared in the penalty parade.

Braves Plan to Appeal

MILWAUKEE (AP) — One battle over, baseball is apparently moving toward an appeals court clash with Wisconsin in its continuing legal tug-of-war over the Braves.

Wisconsin not only expects another fight but says it will help get the case priority status before the State Supreme Court.

"If baseball appeals, we would ask the State Supreme Court to take up the case right away," said Atty. Gen. Bronson La Follette Thursday. "We have a state statute that gives priority to cases like this."

★ ★ ★

"I suppose we would be extremely fortunate if we had a Supreme Court decision by the end of May."

Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller Wednesday found baseball in violation of Wisconsin antitrust law for allowing the transfer of the Braves from Milwaukee to Atlanta without supplying Milwaukee with a replacement team.

Roller ordered the National League to agree by May 16 to add an expansion team in Milwaukee in 1967. If baseball fails to comply, the Braves must return to Milwaukee this season, the judge said.

WILL APPEAL

Warren Giles, league president, and William Bartholomay, Braves' board chairman, both said Thursday that baseball would immediately appeal the decision.

Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckerts has voiced disapproval with the ruling but has offered no plan of action.

La Follette said he anticipated that baseball would appeal as soon as possible. He said an appeal must be made not later than 90 days after the judgment.

Las Vegas Scores High

Four Champions Break Par

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — It's called the Tournament of Champions, but to be honest, very few played like one.

That was the picture today as the 26 professional golfers in the Las Vegas springtime classic fired away in the second round of the $100,000 tournament.

★ ★ ★

In the first round Thursday, only four players broke par 72 at the Desert Inn Country Club. Eighteen did it in the same round a year ago. And for the first time in the 14-year history of the event, no one penetrated the 60s.

Bill Casper Jr. and Gay Brewer were the co-leaders teeing off today with first-round 70s and one shot back were PGA champion Dave Marr and Dudley Wysong.

Bill Casper Jr.	34-36—70
Gay Brewer	34-36—70
Dave Marr	36-35—71
Dudley Wysong	35-36—71
Bruce Crampton	36-36—72
Doug Sanders	38-35—73
Bobby Nichols	39-34—73
Phil Rodgers	40-34—74
Lionel Hebert	37-37—74
Arnold Palmer	36-38—74
Ray Floyd	37-37—74
Jack Rule Jr.	38-36—74
Don Massengale	39-35—74
Joe Campbell	38-36—74
Frank Beard	39-36—75
Butch Baird	38-37—75
Babe Hiskey	39-36—75
Ken Venturi	38-37—75
Jack Nicklaus	40-36—76
Gary Player	41-35—76
Al Geiberger	39-37—76
Bob Verwey	37-39—76
Tony Lema	40-37—77
Dick Mayer	39-38—77
Gene Littler	42-37—79
Dan Sikes	41-41—82

Bruce Crampton of Australia was the lone man even with par and fans had to look further down the list for the other stars in golf.

Doug Sanders and ex-PGA champion Bobby Nichols were tied at 73, and Arnold Palmer was in a group of seven deadlocked at 74.

Masters king Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player were in the 76s, and Tony Lema reposed at 77.

Explanations varied regarding the high scoring.

Palmer said there was possibly a letdown after last week-end's Masters Tournament. But Brewer, who folded in the play-off at Augusta, was anything but let down.

Many of the pros complained about the greens and Nicklaus said perhaps they were not mature at this time of year.

MOVED UP

If so, the pros can blame the PGA because it was their own organization which forced Tournament Director Allard Roen and host professional Bo Wininger to move the tournament up several weeks ahead of its usual date in the spring schedule.

Looking back one year, Palmer had a first-round 66, Casper a 68 and Sanders a 69 among the par-busters. Palmer went on to win with a 72-hole total of 277.

The consensus this year was that something more than 277 would win the $20,000 first prize.

Unhappiest of the current cast of players was Gene Littler, who won the tournament three straight years starting in 1955. Little typified the high scoring when he shot a nine on the par-four ninth.

PCH Thinclads Edged; Waterford Easy Victor

Flint Southwestern sprinted away from Pontiac Central in a triangular track meet at Wisner Field yesterday. Waterford did the same thing to Dearborn Fordson.

In another track meet, Oxford won over Brandon and Imlay City.

Southwestern piled up an 18-4 edge in the 100 and 220 and this was enough to give the Colts a 65½ to 62½ win. Bay City Central was a distant third with 9.

Bill Tipton tied Hayes Jones' Wisner Field high-hurdles mark with a 14.4 clocking. Jones set the mark in 1956. Tipton, a junior, also won the low hurdles.

Waterford won all but one event while leaving Fordson in its wake, 82-22.

Dave Farris won the high jump, shot put and 100 for the Skippers and placed second in the 220. Dick McDowell took the long jump and 440, was second in the pole vault to teammate Larry Biskner and ran a leg on the winning mile relay team.

Mike Lantry was a triple winner for Oxford as the Wildcats piled up 94½ points to 33 for Brandon and 9½ for Imlay.

Lantry won the shot with a toss of 56-2½, and both hurdle races. Tom Hoard took the long jump and 220 and Mickey Cummings won the high jump and 440.

Unknowns in Lead at Azalea

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Each year the Professional Golfers' Association of America distributes to newsmen a tournament player catalogue.

In its more than 100 pages are biographies of the regular tournament players and their records.

★ ★ ★

It takes two pages to detail accomplishments of Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer and a full page for other top players.

But to find the listings for Tom Weiskopf and Gary Bauer, co-leaders, and Jay Dolan, No. 3 man, going into today's second round of the $20,000 Azalea Open Tournament, you have to turn to the "thumbnail sketches" section at the end of the book.

★ ★ ★

There, five or six players of lesser renown are grouped on a single page, in smaller type. Eight or 10 lines tell the story.

Avondale Defeats Rochester

Avondale nipped Rochester, 2-1, in an Oakland A baseball duel Thursday afternoon that was scoreless for the first five and a half innings.

The host Yellow Jackets squared their record at 1-1 in the O-A standings; while Madison and Clawson moved into a two-way tie for the lead by posting their second wins.

Madison dumped Troy, 5-1, Clawson trimmed Lake Orion, 10-1, and Cousino defeated Fitzgerald, 5-1.

Avondale plated its two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning when Bob Burt and Terry Van Gilder raced home with two out following a wild throw on a ground ball.

Rochester came right back to score on a one-out single by Dan Johnson, but the tying run was left at second base as the final two batters popped out.

SHAKY

Tim Robson's hurling stymied Lake Orion and the Dragons' shaky fielding and pitching made Clawson's second win an easy one.

Sophomore Roy Keider hurled a three-hitter for Cousino against Fitzgerald, both of whom are now 1-1.

Winning Start at Farmington

Farmington started its baseball season on a winning note yesterday by downing Redford Union, 2-1, behind the three-hit pitching of Dan Wolfman.

Wayne Johnson scored both runs for the winners after hitting singles. In the second he was tripled home by Mike Perry and in the fourth he scored on Ron Lee's double.

Wolfman fanned 10 and walked two as he held the host team in check after it scored in the first inning.

Milford, Northville Lead

Full Baseball Slate Played in W-O Loop

A 10-inning struggle, a sparling no-hitter and an upset highlighted a full slate of Wayne-Oakland League baseball games Thursday.

Milford edged Bloomfield Hills, 6-5, in 10 innings to gain a share of the lead with Northville which was a 3-0 conqueror of Clarkston on Steve Evans' no-hit gem.

West Bloomfield, surprised Brighton, 7-3, for its first diamond success in three seasons. Winless Holly dropped a 4-1 verdict to Clarenceville.

In other prep tilts, Utica opened its season with a one-hit triumph over Romeo, 3-0, behind Herb Doebler. Capac rallied to beat Yale, 7-6, in its debut.

The Milford-Hills' contest was a see-saw affair until the Barons squeezed home the tying run in the sixth inning. The score remained, 4-4, until Milford tallied twice in the top of the 10th on two errors, Mike Yeager's second double (third hit) and Jim Kaspar's single.

HOME RUN

Mike Painchaud of Milford had a long two-run homer.

Evans, a lanky right-handed senior, hurled his second straight strong game for Northville. He fanned 16 batters and had only three runners on base while not permitting a ball out of the infield.

John Jameson's double and Jerry Imsland's single led to the first Mustang run, and Dave Boerger's triple highlighted a two-run fifth inning.

West Bloomfield hadn't won a baseball game in more than 20 starts until Tom Leahey and Les Randall combined to stop Brighton yesterday.

Biff Phillipbar doubled home the first two runs for the Lakers and Marty Foxman plated a third one with a single as the home team took an early 3-1 lead and never trailed.

Holly got its lone run in the first inning when Mark Phalen tripled and Jeff Reagan drove him in, and added inning.

At Utica, Doebler allowed only a fourth-inning single by Romeo's Doug Bogg and walked one batter. He also chipped in with a triple to drive in one run and scored another in the Chieftains' winning rally.

Oliva Bats Twins to 3-Game Sweep of A's

By the Associated Press

Tony Oliva, who won batting championships in each of his first two American League seasons swinging with one hand, has both to work with now so it figures he'll do twice the damage.

Like a home run title to go with his batting crowns perhaps?

* * *

Oliva walloped his second homer in as many days Thursday as Minnesota completed a three-game sweep of Kansas City, 4-2.

His homer gave the 24-year-old Cuban outfielder four hits and five runs batted in, in his first 10 at bats this season.

BONE CHIPS

Oliva underwent surgery at the Mayo Clinic last fall to remove bone chips from the middle finger of his right hand. The chips had prevented him from gripping the bat tightly last year and caused him to lose control of it many times.

"I can grip the bat a lot better now," Oliva said. "But I still worry about hurting the finger by hitting it on the knob of the bat."

The young star is wearing a black glove to protect his damaged hand this spring but there's nothing protecting enemy pitchers from his bat.

He went hitless in his first three swings against Kansas City in Tuesday's opener but it bothered neither Oliva nor manager Sam Mele.

"Oliva could step out of a photography darkroom and hit a baseball," Mele said. "I never worry about his hitting."

In the only other American League games played Thursday, California shaded Chicago 2-1.

Jim Kaat hurled a six-hitter for Minnesota's triumph over Kansas City and got ninth inning help from Jim Merritt, who came on with two out and pinch runner Bert Campaneris on first base. Merritt promptly picked Campeneris off, ending the game.

Rookie Jack Warner broke up a pitcher's duel between Marcellino Lopez of the Angels and Joe Horlen of the White Sox with his first major league home run in the ninth inning.

Chicago had scored in the first when Lopez forced across a run with three straight walks before getting Bill Skowron on a double play bouncer to end the inning. Bobby Knoop tied it for California with a homer in the third and it stayed that way until Warner connected in the ninth.

Bobby Dodd Happy at Texas Western

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) —Football coach Bobby Dobbs said Thursday he will remain at Texas Western after deciding not to take the head coaching job at West Point.

Dobbs told a news conference that he was, "flattered and honored that West Point was interested in me, but my family and I have been very happy in El Paso."

Dobbs said he would be on the field with his team Friday for spring drills.

Dobbs, 43, who played football at West Point under Earl "Red" Blake in 1943-45, was approached by Army as a possible replacement for Paul Dietzel, who resigned to take the South Carolina head coaching job.

By JERE CRAIG

The best scoring bowlers in the Pontiac area once again have an official 700 Club of America chapter. A charter was presented to some of their representatives last Saturday night in an impressive, short ceremony at the Hotel Waldron.

Chapter 90's first slate of officers was installed by Ernie Dieterle of Ann Arbor, the director of the Upper Central region for the national organization.

Pontiac becomes the fourth 700 club in the state affiliated with the national group. Muskegon, Flint and Ann Arbor, also, are; while Grand Rapids has an active 700 club but isn't nationally oriented.

Actually, Pontiac was a member several years ago but the members let the organization fade out. Whether or not the current effort will last isn't apparent.

Some of the most active bowlers in the county are charter members of Chapter 90. Al Pietz (King Pin), Joe foster (Pin Buoy) and Lou Koprince (Scorer) have three of the most important positions and can be expected to work hard.

But of the more than six dozen paid up charter members already enrolled in the chapter, less than two dozen were present (with their wives) at the installation.

A previous attempt at holding a singles tournament to help stir interest in the new club was cancelled due to too many conflicts that would limit participation.

★ ★ ★

Still, the sufficient number of charter members includes enough serious, dedicated bowlers to develop the strong, active organization necessary to accomplish deeds and promote the sport.

This will come with the proper motivation and desire. The area definitely could use a well-guided sports group to compliment the Pontiac Woman's Bowling Association. Good luck, men.

SPARE PINS

The annual Frank Jennings Trophy bowloff will begin 11 a.m. Sunday at Orchard Lanes with Cooley Lanes meeting West Side Lanes.

They are the survivors in this season's Oakland County Traveling Classic League competition. Cooley eliminated regular season leader Sylvan Lanes, while West Side knocked out Wonderland in the semifinals.

Three weekends remain in the ninth annual Milford Doubles Tournament at Fairgrounds Bowling. The action has been extremely close to date, with only four pins separating the top four teams.

More than 500 duos have entered the tournament, creating a $3,000-plus prize fund which includes a $1,000 guaranteed first prize.

It takes a 1324 handicap total currently to win the top prize since Detroiters George Phillips and Clyde Oldham are now No. 1 with 1322.

A Warren duo has 1321, and two Motor City pairs have 1319 each to tie for third. Glen Hopkins and Dick Hummel of Pontiac are fifth with 1312.

Dale (Skip) Seavoy of Birmingham finished second on the Greater Detroit Bowling Association's City Tournament Class A Singles, throwing a 698 actual last weekend for a 713 total, five pins behind winner Jim Tachar.

A Huron Bowl women's team that includes Shirley Pointer hit a 1091 game this winter at Southfield Bowl, and that stands as the sixth best Women's International Bowling Congress sanctioned score of the season.

Dorothy Aldred had 246, Pat Pell 233, Pat Lisowski 227, Mrs. Pointer 193 and Helen Baker 192 in the big game. Mrs. Pointer finished with 619 as the team had a 2929 total.

Pontiac Press Photo

BIG TEN PRIZE WINNER—John Bennett, 18, of Waterford Township, has a big trophy to show off after bowling 1824 for nine games to win the Big Ten All-Events championship. The Michigan State team member had a 656 to finish second in the singles action, he teamed with Jerry Briney of Benton Harbor to finish second in the doubles (Bennett having a 600), and the MSU team was sixth behind Minnesota. A Waterford Kettering graduate, Bennett carries a 193 average in campus competition.

Local Entries Compete in AAU Swim Meet

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Seven defensive champions headed an impressive field as the Senior Women's National AAU Swimming Championships got under way today with prediction from meet director Ken Treadway of record-setting performances in all 15 events.

Three of the defending champs — Patty Caretto, Cathy Ferguson and Cynthia Goyette — each won two titles last year. Miss Caretto, 15-year-old swimmer for the City of Commerce, Calif., Swim Club, is defending in the 500-yard and 1,650-yard free-style races. Miss Ferguson, 17, of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, won the 100- and 200-yard backstroke.

Miss Goyette, 19-year-old representative of Detroit's Motor City Swim Club is defending champion in the 100- and 200-yard breastroke.

Area entries in the meet include Sue Smith of Bloomfield Hills and diver Micki King of Pontiac.

Miss Smith is swimming for the Motor City Club and Miss King is with the Ann Arbor Swim Club.

Other defending champions are Sue Pitt, 17, East Brunswick, N.J. Scarlet Jets, 200-yard butterfly; Penny Estes, 16, Miami Springs, Fla., Recreation Club, 200-yard freestyle; Sharon Stouder, 17, City of Commerce, 100-yard butterfly, and Sharon Finneran, 20, Santa Clara, Calif., Swim Club, 400-yard individual medley.

HOLD RECORDS

Miss Finneran, Miss Caretto, Miss Ferguson and Martha Randall, 17, Philadelphia Vespers Swim Club, also hold world marks. No world records are in danger this weekend since the meet is being held in a 25-yard pool.

Slight Change in ABC Field

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Franklin Maniace and Joe Grasso of Batavia, N.Y., combined for games of 465, 429 and 428 and a total of 1,322 to take over third place in the regular division pairs of the 63rd American Bowling Congress tournament Thursday.

The 1,322 total left the pair one pin ahead of the fourth-place duo of Bill Mrozek and Mickey Spiezio of Joliet, Ill.

Tony Loiacano and Bob Kwiecien of Detroit lead the competition at 1,351 with Chicago's Ray Johnson and Gordy Baer holding second at 1,330.

In earlier competition, Mario Allenzo, a bowling alley proprietor from Hillside, N.J., rolled 624-613-601-1,838 to move into fifth place in classic all-events.

The leaders of Rochester, N.Y., shot 2,701 to settle for a sixth place tie in the booster division. Ridge Bowl of Chicago, last year's champions, lead the booster division again with a 2,765.

BOWLING

Tight battles for the individual honors featured this week's West Side Classic bowling; while the Huron Bowl Classic race was deadlocked last Friday.

Eight-point sweeps by Gorman Golf Products and West Side Lanes kept them one-two in the West Side title chase. Don Pennell just managed to edge Bill Kirkland for high series honors, 676-675.

★ ★ ★

Pennell had a 245-221 duo and Kirkland 243-223. However, high game laurels were shared by Harold Pennell and Mitch Stepp with 267s apiece. Joe Morys had 257-210—658, Pennell 655 and Stepp 643.

Bill Bull of Moose Lodge No. 182 rolled a 663 but the team still lost two points and slipped into a tie with Herk's Supply which swept eight to gain a share of the lead.

Coppers Lead Mart Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — Coppers again provided the stock market with solid group leadership as the rally continued early this afternoon in heavy trading.

The copper stocks were continuing to respond to a 50 per cent increase in the export price of copper by Chile. Other nonferrous stocks strung along with the coppers.

Some of the outstanding copper issues were long delayed in opening due to accumulations of buy orders.

Following yesterday's 13-million-share session — third biggest in New York Stock Exchange history — some profit taking was inevitable. This affected selected aerospace, airline, office equipment and others in the glamor group.

TAX DEADLINE

The April 15 tax deadline had arrived and stocks had largely ignored it. Meanwhile sentiment was boosted by record highs reported for industrial production and personal income in March.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.1 at 350.8 with industrials up 2.4, rails unchanged and utilities up .3.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 5.07 at 950.55.

* * *

General Motors traded unchanged after erasing an early fractional loss.

Prices were irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Conductron rose about 3½, Baker Industries and Circuit Foil about 2 each. Flying Tiger and TWA warrants more than 2.

* * *

Corporate and U.S. Treasury bonds were generally unchanged.

Irish Aim Curbs at IRA Terror

More Attacks Vowed by Outlawed Group

DUBLIN (UPI) — Irish authorities put in effect unprecedented security precautions today to prevent more terrorism by the Irish Republican Army (IRA) whose machine gun and bomb attacks jarred independence celebrations.

A spokesman for the outlawed organization, which spearheaded the 1916 uprising against the British, said the IRA was responsible for the attacks yesterday in the southern town of Kilmacow.

He said the attacks would continue "until the government has decided to release and pardon our comrades who are at present serving sentences in jail."

Late yesterday, the extremists threatened the life of the mayor of Waterford, Patrick Browne.

★ ★ ★

He was sent a small box that contained two live 32-caliber bullets and a note reading: "You do not know when or the hour — you traitor."

ON BLACKLIST

Brown has been on the IRA's blacklist since he received a party of sailors from a British warship that paid a courtesy call to the city.

★ ★ ★

The government of Northern Ireland announced that it will virtually seal its border to the south to prevent terrorism from spreading during the weekend.

Home Affairs Minister Brian McConnell said all direct rail traffic between Dublin and the northern capital of Belfast will be banned for 22 hours between Saturday and Sunday night — a move without precedent in the province's history.

40 Cities Ripe for Riots, Says CORE Chief

NEW YORK (UPI) — At least 40 American cities are ready to erupt in racial violence this summer, Floyd B. McKissick, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) said yesterday.

But McKissick said CORE has selected Baltimore, Md., as a target city for its next major drive.

Asked to rate Baltimore on Negro rights, McKissick said the city "if not the worst, is very close to it." He said the drive in Baltimore would include a program to win more welfare benefits for Negroes.

McKissick told a news conference he could not name all the cities he considered ripe for violence this summer.

But he listed New York, Los Angeles, Washington, Philadelphia and Detroit as cities where Negro feeling has reached "a riot pitch."

"I can't calculate where this feeling is," McKissick said, "but, brother, it's everywhere."

Father of 8 Not Caught in the Draft

DETROIT (AP) — Victor C. DiStefano, father of eight, was notified today he will not be drafted for military service as a male nurse.

The notification came from the office of U.S. Rep. William D. Ford, D-Mich.

Ford's office said it had been assured by DiStefano's draft board in Brooklyn, N.Y., he would be reclassified from 1A, eligible, to 3A, deferred because of children.

★ ★ ★

DiStefano, 34, was notified last week that he faced callup because he was a qualified nurse and there was a shortage of women nurses.

He was rejected for service 10 years ago because he had two children.

DiStefano has lived in the Detroit area since 1954, but his home town draft board retained jurisdiction.

★ ★ ★

Since he received the original notice of callup, DiStefano has been the subject of numerous widely circulated news stories. At one point he said he would ask U.S. Sen. Robert Kennedy D-N.Y., for help since Kennedy is the father of nine children.

Earlier this week the draft board said it might reconsider his case.

Antiradiation Serum Is Reportedly Near

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Tow Cornell University scientists, with obvious excitement, today reported a possible "major scientific breakthrough" toward protecting humans and animals against lethal doses of radiation such as might be released in nuclear warfare.

They reported they've developed a kind of vaccine—from a chemical derived from the Oriental, weedlike "jackbean" plant—and that it immunizes a large majority of mice against such doses, in much the same way a person is inoculated against an infectious disease.

★ ★ ★

They said it could open the way not only to protecting whole populations months in advance against the effects of radioactive fallout from exploding nuclear bombs in time of war, but also to:

—Inoculating atomic industry workers and the crews of nuclear submarines against possible lethal or injury effects of "nuclear runaways" or other radiation accidents.

—Allowing much larger doses of radiation to be used in treating cancers than are now employed because of fear of damaging normal tissue.

"The possibilities in both times of war and peace are tremendous," said Dr. Willard J. Visek, a member of the research team, in a report prepared for the 50th convention of the Federation of of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

★ ★ ★

Coauthor of the report was Dr. Hung Chen Dang. Both are of the New York State College of Agriculture, a contract college of the State University at Cornell. They amplified on their technical report at a news conference.

★ ★ ★

Visek cautioned at the news conference that he and his colleague still could be proved wrong in the concept underlying their venture—and that the whole idea might fail to have practical application for man.

But he added that experiments extending over several years, involving more than 600 test animals—together with some clinical research in humans on a related concept, although not involving radiation protection — convinces him they're on the right track.

TREATED MICE

The scientists said that in repeated tests, mice inoculated with a serum made directly from the jackbean chemical, or from blood of rabbits first given the plant chemical, were exposed to radiation doses of 800 Roentgens produced by a radioactive cobalt source. Other, untreated, mice were similarly exposed.

★ ★ ★

Approximately 80 per cent of the untreated mice were killed by the radiation—whereas only 30 per cent of the immunized rodents died.

Greater use of school grounds for educational programs will be considered at a workshop at John F. Kennedy Junior High School April 22.

★ ★ ★

Educators from throughout the state will attend the session, planned by the Michigan Department of Education.

★ ★ ★

Participants will consider ways of developing special outdoor programs and expansion of recreational opportunities, as well as utilization of federal funds for school site development.

TO MY FRIENDS AND FELLOW citizens. Monday is election day. It is time for a change. For a more democratic form of city rule, let's rid Pontiac of Taylor and Hudson.

Taylor failed to:
1. Failed to demonstrate leadership and ambition as Mayor.
2. Failed to take action on downtown urban renewal.
3. Failed to offer citizens downtown public comfort stations.
4. Failed to support adequate public services such as garbage collection.
5. Failed to support rights and welfare of firemen and policemen.

Hudson Failed to:
1. Failed to support the interest of citizens in his area.
2. Failed to correct railroad crossing congestion.
3. Failed to support abatement of smoke and soot.
4. Failed to protect residential area by allowing across years in area.

I repeat — Now is the time for a change and William Winters and George Grba can give us the necessary changes for good government for all citizens in the city of Pontiac.

Vote for William J. Winters and George Grba

Why can you buy a Beauty Crest home at Huntlon Shores Subdivision for hundreds of dollars less than you would pay for a comparable home built by another builder? Because hundreds of hours of careful research by Beauty Crest's competent planning experts have discovered that today's home buyer will not sacrifice quality for price; he demands full measure for his dollars and Beauty Crest has cut building costs through unique purchasing of raw materials—and passed the savings on to the buyer. Live Pokey Continues Cavorting

CHARLES CITY, Va. (AP) — A young whale named Pokey continues to cavort in his James River playground, apparently none the worse from his joust with man.

★ ★ ★

After surviving a hail of bullets from a 30-30 rifle, Pokey resumed his peaceful meandering around a mud bank, some 70 miles upstream from his natural Atlantic Ocean habitat.

★ ★ ★

The question of what to do with the 3,000-pound whale remains unanswered.

His finder, fisherman Norman C. Haynes, tried to dispose of him on two occasions, but without success.

IN HUDDLE

The Department of the Interior, the Army Corps of Engineers and the Coast Guard huddle today in Washington to seek a solution to the problem.

★ ★ ★

Some Virginians think he should be killed. Haynes' son, Bernard, has already tried that. Wednesday night he drilled Pokey with a dozen bullets from a 30-30 rifle. When Haynes tried to tow the "dead" whale away the next morning, Pokey thrashed around, "breaking three nylon lines like they were shoestrings."

★ ★ ★

The American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals demanded the Haymes men be prosecuted for their actions. State officials checked Virginia statutes and said it appeared that "legally a whale is fair game for anybody."

★ ★ ★

When Pokey was discovered, he already had between 25 and 30 bullet wounds plus lacerations all over his body. In all, he has been riddled with some 40 bullets.

WOULD SAVE POKEY

Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., appeared to side with those who want to save Pokey.

★ ★ ★

"They ought to be honored to have a whale," Smith said. "I don't know of any other place in Virginia that has a whale. What are they fussin' about?"

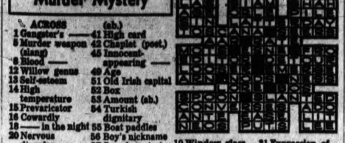
Answer to Previous Puzzle



Was He Drunk?

MUSKEGON (UPI) — The police blotter listed the infraction as drunken driving.

But the officers making the arrest on James Carr of North Muskegon said that was an oversimplification.

★ ★ ★

According to the officers, they saw Carr driving in a reckless manner but, before they could catch him, he drove down four streets.

On the way, they said, he sideswiped a car, ran a stop sign, struck another car in the rear after skidding more than 100 feet, spun around, jumped a curb, knocked down two trees, ran another stop sign, jumped the curb again, ran across a lawn, backed into the street, ran another stop sign, jumped the curb again, almost hit two pedestrians, tore up another lawn, hit another tree and finally parked his car on the street where police arrested him.

IS DO-IT-YOURSELF SERVICE AS DANGEROUS AS THEY SAY?
The total failure of many a good TV set can be traced directly to "do-it-yourself" tinkering.

People in the News

By The Associated Press

Nearly 31 years ago, George H. Weyerhaeuser was abducted and held for ransom in a sensational kidnaping case in Tacoma, Wash.

He was released a week later after his parents paid $200,000 ransom. Three persons were convicted of the crime.

Weyerhaeuser was 9 years old then.

Yesterday he was elected president of the Weyerhaeuser Co., a big lumber and wood products firm.

Anti-Viet War Protest Proves Taxing

George R. Rosenblatt of New York is against the war in Viet Nam and wants his view to be counted.

So when he went to pay the balance due on his income tax yesterday he stuffed each of 174 dollar bills in separate envelopes—each marked "not to be used for war."

Internal Revenue Service agents at the Brooklyn office took 45 minutes to open the lot and assure the count.

But patience ran out when Rosenblatt began an informal speech to his fellow taxpayers. Six marshals rushed him out.

Said Rosenblatt, "They were very serious, and they told me not to come back."

Scot Turns Yank Before Viet Service

Staff Sgt. John McCamley, a native of Scotland, has been in the U. S. Army for eight years. Now he's headed for Viet Nam in less than three weeks.

Before he gets there though, he will become an American citizen.

McCamley was naturalized yesterday at Baton Rouge, La. He has also served in the British and Australian armies.

Oldest Man in Utah Has 102nd Birthday

William J. Dermody, believed to be the oldest man in Utah, celebrates his 102nd birthday today at Ogden where he has lived since 1881.

Dermody is listed as the oldest pensioner of the Western Union Telegraph Co. He went to work for Western Union as a boy in Mount Vernon, Ohio, his home town. He became a telegraph operator before deciding to head for San Francisco to catch a ship for the South African mines. He got as far as Ogden.

Hilda Erickson, 107, of Grantsville is listed as the oldest woman in Utah.

NASTY DISPOSITION — Despite an earlier legal dispute, bloodless bullfights were introduced to a small audience of about 1,500 persons last night in Philadelphia. The Pennsylvania Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals sought unsuccessfully to bar the show. The show went on and assistant matador Raul Capetillo was hoisted off his feet by this bull that displayed a nasty disposition. Capetillo was not hurt.

Bullfights Bow in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia, the shrine of Quakerism, the Liberty Bell, and main line aristocracy, resounded to the thud of hoofs and roars of "ole!" last night as bloodless bullfighting made its much-debated debut here.

Whether the daring matadors, twirling capes, and 700-pound black bulls would be seen here again, however, depended on the outcome of a judicial hearing today. The Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is still seeking to block the bullfights.

The society had asked for a preliminary injunction which was refused earlier this week by Common Pleas Court Judge Edward J. Griffiths. He left the door open to further action, however, by scheduling the second hearing.

Judge Griffiths, accompanied by Administrative Judge Vincent A. Carrol, was among the 1,500 spectators at last night's first of four performances scheduled by Bravo Enterprises, Inc.

★ ★ ★

Griffiths, who said he had read two books on bullfighting in preparation for the show, took notes by the light of a flashlight.

TAKING NOTES

Also taking notes were members of the SPCA who had been authorized by the judge to examine the condition of the bulls before and after the fights, or "displays."

Robert G. Hudson, director of operations for the society, after a preperformance examination of the first bull, said the animal appeared in good condition. He declined to comment, however, after a second examination following the display.

Jeff Ramsey, 22, an American-born bullfighter who performs in Mexico City and who was technical adviser for the bullfights here, said that unlike the Spanish and Mexican tradition, the bloodless bullfight is conducted without injury to the bull.

★ ★ ★

Banderillas, the barbed spears jabbed into the bull in traditional bullfighting, were simulated by blunt wooden stick which could not pierce the skin.

FALSE SWORDS

The matadors carried false swords, and even those were thrown away before the final maneuver, in which the traditional kill was replaced by a tap on the bull's shoulder, by the matador's empty hand.

★ ★ ★

What remained the same was the daring capework, and the danger to the matadors from the bulls's sharp horns, which Ramsey said had not been blunted or capped.

No horses were used in the ring with the bulls.

Gustavo Castillo, 24, of Mixico City was thrown twice by a bull, but escaped serious injury.

MURDER SCENE — Investigating police officers stand near the blanket covered body of Carlaroy W. Henry, 29, of Caro, who was shot and killed early this morning in Pontiac. No suspects have been picked up in the murder of the truck driver. Robbery is believed to be the motive in the slaying.

Latin Summit Is OK'd

Viet Bungling Claim Disputed by McNamara

Faces Quiz on Ford's Allegations of Bomb Shortage, Port Snarl

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who has spent more than 80 hours before congressional committees this year, faces more congressional questioning about bomb shortage charges and his readiness policies.

Republican House leader Gerald R. Ford said yesterday McNamara "will be asked many questions" after the House returns from its Easter recess.

Ford showed every sign of boring ahead with his charge that the Johnson administration is guilty of "shocking mismanagement" of the war effort.

He was unconvinced by McNamara's assertion that "there isn't any" shortage of bombs for the Viet Nam war and that there is no truth to the mismanagement allegation.

While Democrats, too, have challenged McNamara's readiness policies, the Republican House leader's volley had the sound of an official GOP position for the coming congressional election campaigns.

Ford kicked off the latest skirmish over readiness when he called a news conference, made his "shocking mismanagement" charge, and:

Spoke of reports that "we are running short of bombs despite all the billions we have voted for defense."

Declared "the back-up of shipping in Saigon harbor is almost a national scandal."

Several hours later McNamara held a news conference of his own at the Pentagon.

He replied: "I don't think there is any basis whatever" for charges of mismanagement or bomb shortages. "It just isn't true," he said.

BIG WELCOME — The motorcade bearing President Johnson and Gustavo Diaz Ordaz through Mexico City passes beneath an arch of balloons en route from the airport to the presidential palace last night.

LBJ Endorses Plan to Meet With Leaders

Chiefs of State Bid to Speed Up Work on Alliance for Progress

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Johnson endorsed today a proposal for him to meet with Latin-American chiefs of state to speed up work of the Alliance for Progress.

Johnson gave a broad review of U.S. policy toward Latin America in a speech prepared for delivery at the unveiling of a statue of Abraham Lincoln in a park in Mexico City's Polanco residential section.

Referring to the summit meeting proposed by Argentine President Arturo Illia, he said:

"I will in the months ahead join with Latin-American leaders in exploring the proposal for a new meeting at the very highest level to examine our common problems and to give the Alliance for Progress increased momentum."

★ ★ ★

Although warning that "any such conference should be prepared with utmost care," Johnson added that "careful preparation need not be the enemy of imaginative action."

SUMMIT MEETING

There has been speculation recently that the U.S. President may visit South America before the end of the summer, and a summit meeting could provide the occasion for his visit.

The unveiling of the $150,000 bronze statue, which the U.S. Congress authorized as a gift to the Mexican people, was a high point of the President's hastily arranged 24-hour visit to Mexico's capital.

Today is the 101st anniversary of Lincoln's assassination.

The visit began with a thundering welcome last night which left Johnson a bit weary but exhilarated.

PUBLIC APPEARANCES

Today he mixed more public appearances and private talks with Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz at Los Pinos, the Mexican White House.

Johnson in his speech declared, "We are engaged in a vast social revolution touching the lives of millions of peoples on two continents.

"Like Lincoln's this is a test of whether freedom can work.

★ ★ ★

"It is a test of whether men in liberty can overcome the weight of the past and lift from their brothers the blight of hunger, the blindness of ignorance and the burden of disease. We are in the midst of that test."

Car Critic Hits Foreign Autos

Calls Volkswagen One of Most Perilous

WASHINGTON (AP) — Auto industry critic Ralph Nader, testifying at a Senate hearing for the fourth time, yesterday aimed his attack on foreign car manufacturers.

"It's hard to find a more dangerous car than the Volkswagen," he said.

Despite this, Nadler added, the German manufacturers tried to give the impression there is "virtue in technological stagnation."

He also critized the safety of the Czech-built Tatra.

★ ★ ★

West German's Volkswagen Co. today said it was studying Nader's accusation. A company spokesman said the firm would make no immediate comment.

SUBMIT REPORT

The spokesman said the firm's American subsidiary, Volkswagen of America, Inc., had been asked to submit to the parent concern a full report of Nader's remarks "in order to avoid any misunderstandings.

"We must study this material very carefully before issuing any kind of statement," the spokesman said.

Meanwhile in Washington, Senate committees hope to have highway safety legislation ready for Senate action early next month.

SEPARATE PARTS

They are the public works and the commerce committee that are handling separate parts of President Johnson's highway safety programs.

Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., acting chairman of the public works committee, indicated he expects the legislation to go beyond the President's commendations — both in authority for setting auto safety standards and in federal grants for state highway safety measures.

Trucker Slain; Killer Hunted

A young truck driver and father of three children was shot and killed early today in a parking lot of a south-end Pontiac tavern.

The victim was identified by Pontiac police as Carlaroy W. Henry, 29, of Caro.

Police said there were no suspects in the killing and theorized the apparent motive was robbery, since Henry's wallet was not on his body when found.

Henry, en route from Pontiac to Saginaw, died of a single bullet wound from a 22-caliber automatic pistol, according to police.

He was shot in the chest.

★ ★ ★

Det. Sgt. John A. DePauw said Henry apparently was shot as he walked from a pay phone booth back to his diesel cab after making a routine check-in with the Detroit office of the Central Transport Co.

BODY DISCOVERED

The victim's body was discovered by two GMC Truck & Coach Division employes as they left the Jet Bar, 716 Woodward, just before 2:30 a.m.

Henry was found just 11 minutes after calling his office at 2:19 a.m.

Gerald L. Bullock, 31, 8461 Bridge Lake, Independence Township, told police he came out of the bar and saw the victim lying face down on the gravel next to his still-running diesel truck.

Shriver Hits for Disruption 'Professionals'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sargent Shriver today blamed "professional demonstrators" for a hooting, shouting demonstration that drowned out part of his speech and forced an abrupt end to a convention of antipoverty workers.

★ ★ ★

"It was quite obvious that 25 or 30 people there organized themselves to create a disturbance and make trouble," the director of the administration's antipoverty program said in an interview.

A group of dissidents, who said they were spokesmen for the nation's poor, heckled Shriver as he evaluated the antipoverty program for some 500 members of the independent, privately financed Citizens' Crusade Against Poverty.

Rejecting attempts by leaders of the conference to restore order, they took control of the meeting.

A number paraded to the speakers' platform and denounced Shriver, his office of Economic Opportunity and even some of the elder members of the audience.

YELLS AT SHRIVER

As Shriver was escorted out of the room, Barbara Taylor of Washington's Southeast House yelled at him: "It's just a big publicity deal. He isn't helping the poor. He's just getting his picture in the paper."

Civil Rights leader Bayard Rustin, an officer of the citizens' organization, was among those who tried unsuccessfully to control the situation.

Rustin was the first official to say the outbursts against Shriver were planned.

"This was not a spontaneous demonstration," he told a news conference. "Some of the people shouting about the poor participating were not poor but have a vested interest. And some members came into the meeting with a sheet that was printed several hours before."

Metro Area Hit by Sonic Booms

Sonic booms rolled across Oakland County and other parts of the metropolitan area early this morning as jets from Selfridge Air Base broke the sound barrier

A spokesman at the Mount Clemens military installation said the planes, F106 all-weather interceptors, were on a training exercise.

The thunder-like blasts were heard at various times between 3 and 3:45 a.m., and according to the spokesman, were concentrated in the Mount Clemens-Warren area.

Firemen, City Near Accord

State Labor Mediator Leonard Bennett announced yesterday that tentative agreement has been reached between the city and the Pontiac Firefighters Association (PFA).

Terms of the potential settlement of the wage dispute that dates back to last summer are being withheld pending ratification by both sides, said Bennett, even though they would involve expenditure of public funds.

Seeking a written agreement, the PFA had listed among its demands a longevity pay plan, settlement of certain grievances and $49 more per year for fire fighters than the $351 pay hike granted by the commission last August.

Jack Douglas, PFA president, said today that he plans membership meetings next Tuesday and Wednesday.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren said a further meeting with PFA representatives is planned for Thursday to prepare a final draft of the PFA-city agreement.

Indonesian Students Raid China Embassy

JAKARTA (UPI) — Thousands of Indonesian students of Chinese descent today stormed the Chinese Communist embassy, battered down the doors with a truck, and shot an embassy employe in a wild demonstration against the Peking regime. Indonesian troops guarded the students with armored cars.

Members of the embassy staff shouted curses from a balcony and fought back with long knives and spears but the weight of number of the students prevailed.

The demonstrators surged over the walls — accompanied by troops — and battered through the massive teak portal of the embassy with a truck.

Ten thousand youths had attended a rally announcing their support for Defense Chief Lt. Gen. Suharto and then streamed toward the compound.

Army troops and armored cars moved in to divert traffic. One armored car parked in front of the gate with its cannon aimed at the courtyard.

★ ★ ★

Before attacking the embassy complex the youths adopted a resolution at the rally in Banteng (Buffalo) Square demanding that Indonesia break diplomatic relations with Red China, shut down all Communist Chinese schools in Indonesia and end the legal distinctions between Indonesian nationals of different ethnic origins.

VIOLENT OUTBREAK

It was perhaps the most violent outbreak of anti-Peking feeling in Jakarta since the Communist-inspired coup attempt last November against President Sukarno.

Embassy staff members tried to resist the invasion but were beaten back.

Foreign Minister Adam Malik tried to prevent the invasion but arrived too late.

★ ★ ★

He rushed to the building after what was described as a blistering session with Sukarno, but the students already were inside the building, ripping up its contents and burning them.

Viet 'Lifeline' Huge Success

By PAT McCARTY

College kids do care.

The young men and women at Oakland University had more than a ton of supplies which prove it.

The project which Marine Lt. Richard Stier feared would be an "embarrassing flop" has in fact become a colossal success.

Involved students knew it yesterday as they helped Marines load the results of "Thang Binh Lifeline" onto a truck.

★ ★ ★

Transporting of the goods to the Grosse Ile Naval Air Station is the first leg of a trip which eventually will get them to the rural Viet Nam village of Thang Binh.

RECEIVED PRAISE

Oakland University administrators also knew of the students' involvement and praised them yesterday for a job well done.

But the comments with the most impact came from Stier, via letters to his wife and to Mrs. Dorothy Hope, OU alumni relations director.

Stier, who graduated from OU in 1963, wrote his first letter to Mrs. Hope in February.

With a heavy heart, he said, he wrote of the tragedy of war—of the women who had become widows and the children left fatherless in the hamlet of Thang Binh, some 20 miles south of Da Nang.

"They have a bare minimum of clothing to wear," he wrote. "They are undernourished, dirty destitute and have very little to live for."

Stier asked Mrs. Hope if she thought OU students could be interested in collecting supplies or money to help the villagers.

Were they interested?

"I can't believe it," he wrote in a recent letter to his wife, who lives with their two small children at 716 Hamlet, Pontiac Township.

EXPECTED FLOP

"Dick said he thought it would be a big flop," Mrs. Stier said yesterday. "He had heard about all the student demonstrations and he didn't think there were 10 that felt the same way he did."

"To say the least I am stunned," he wrote in a recent letter to Mrs. Hope.

Whether they support or oppose the war in Viet Nam, the students responded as one to the humanitarian lifeline project, uniting in a group headed by junior Margaret O'Reilly, 2952 Old Orchard, Waterford Township.

Buddhists Call Off Demonstrations

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Buddhist leaders in Saigon today reaffirmed their support of the military government's plans to hold elections in three to five months and called off future demonstrations. But they threatened to send the demonstrators into the streets again if the elections are not held as promised.

* * *

There was no indication that the Buddhists in an all-day policy session had decided whether to demand the resignation of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's regime or to allow it to rule until the elections.

A call for an immediate change of leadership came from Ky's military rival, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, whose ouster as 1st Corps commander a month ago set off the wave of unrest. Thi told a newsman in Da Nang: "We must have an immediate change of government. There must be a government of the people supported by the people. I don't think the people have confidence in the government of Premier Ky."

MONKS MEET

A council of 10 influential monks met at the Buddhist Institute in Saigon to thrash out the next move in a campaign that has so far forced the government to yield to most of the Buddhist demands.

* * *

A spokesman denied that the council had already demanded Ky's resignation. He said it still had not decided whether to seek the appointment of a caretaker regime to supervise the elections.

* * *

"That is one of the matters to be discussed," he said.

Tran Quang Thuan, the council's lay spokesman and a former welfare minister, said the monks were "generally satisfied" with the government's pledges Thursday but added they did not erase all problems.

PRESERVE HONOR

"Many problems confront us and the government and we must arrive at solutions that preserve honor and prestige for all concerned," he said. "For instance, we want to be assured that no one who took part in the demonstrations will be punished."

Thuan said that despite the government's pledge of an amnesty to all demonstrators the monks feared reprisals in Da Nang, Hue and other northern Buddhist strongholds where the public agitation began.

Ferency Near Governor Bid

Dem Is Expected to Enter Race Tuesday

By The Associated Press

State Democratic Chairman Zolton Ferency is expected to announce Tuesday that he will become a candidate for his party's nomination for governor.

The announcement is anticipated in a speech at Michigan State University on "Election Campaign — 1966."

* * *

Ferency got the blessings Thursday of James Hare, Secretary of state since 1954 and the top Democratic vote-getter in the 1964 state election.

Hare's endorsement of Ferency to oppose Republican Gov. George Romney's bid for a third term followed similar approvals from Speaker Joseph Kowalski of the Michigan House, Neil Staebler, Democratic national committeeman, and Attorney General Frank Kelley.

CAVANAGH CAMPAIGN

Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh took his campaign for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate Thursday night to a Chamber of Commerce banquet in heavily Republican Lenawee County.

Meanwhile a Cavanagh opponent, former Gov. G. Mennen Williams, was principal speaker at a Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner for Ohio Democrats at Cincinnati.

* * *

A third Democratic senatorial aspirant, James L. Elsman of Detroit, challenged both Cavanagh and Williams to make their campaign finance records available for public inspection.

The records should be placed in a Detroit bank five days before the Aug. 2 primary, Elsman said, adding that "mine will be in the Michigan Bank."

'PEOPLE SHOULD KNOW'

"I believe," said the Detroit attorney, "the people are entitled to know before they vote who is paying the fiddler to call the tune and where the money is ending up."

Rep. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., candidate for the GOP senatorial nomination, announced appointment of Ralph J. Heikkinen of Grosse Pointe as state chairman of his "Youth for Griffin" organization.

The opening reception is scheduled for 2-5 p.m. Sunday. The adult student exhibit will continue through May 1.

The children's exhibit will be on display until April 24 only.

the admission was several bars of soap.

SENT CONTRIBUTIONS

Students from Oakland Community College, Rochester High School and Marian High School in Bloomfield Township also sent contributions.

Wrapped and ready to go, the supplies weighed 2,083 pounds.

In the more than 100 boxes were 2,000 bars of soap, 926 undershorts, 230 play shorts, 300 polo shirts, six cases of plastic toys, four cases of powdered milk, two cases of paper towels, 576 toothbrush kits, assorted clothing, sewing materials, powdered food and 2,000 lollipops.

* * *

There also is a $250 check for CARE and plans to send a treadle sewing machine.

SHORT OF CASH

The project was so successful that the students found themselves short of cash to cover mailing expenses.

The Army had agreed to ship the supplies to Viet Nam from the West Coast, but getting it to California was the committee's problem.

Mrs. Hope, who served as adviser to the project, contacted Col. Robert L. Rathbun, commanding officer of the Marine Air Reserve Training Detachment at Grosse Ile Naval Air Station.

* * *

Rathbun agreed to airlift the supplies to San Diego and arrived yesterday with two Marines from his detachment to transport the goods to the station.

BY ARMED CONVOY

Eventually, the goods will be taken by armed convoy to Thang Binh, which is surrounded by Viet Cong-held territory.

Stier will return to the U. S. in June and probably will be a civilian by the time the shipment arrives.

However, a token shipment of three cases will be flown directly to him, so that he can distribute some himself.

His letter read yesterday by Mrs. Hope expressed Stier's gratitude.

"For the recipients of these supplies, I thank you and everyone else involved," he wrote. "People like you make the U.S.A. great."

3 Unexploded Bombs Found on Sicily Farm

ROME (AP) — Italian national police at Pachino, near Siracusa, said today they had found three unexploded smoke bombs dropped in a nearby farm three days ago from an airplane.

Rome's leftist Paese Sera said in a dispatch from Siracusa the bombs were dropped by a NATO plane from the American base at Sigonella in northeast Sicily. But Pachino police said they did not know what planes dropped the bombs or where they were based. They said the bombs caused no damage.

Uncle Sam's Reminder: Today Is 'Pay' Day

WASHINGTON (AP)—Failure to file an income tax return by tonight's midnight deadline could subject a taxpayer to payment of penalties and interest on the tax he still owes the government.

The Internal Revenue Service said today that in some cases — if a taxpayer is ill, involved in an accident or out of the country, for example—an exemption can be granted permitting the late filing of a return if the taxpayer requests one.

Although this would exempt the taxpayer from paying penalties, he would still be subject to an interest charge of 6 per cent annually on any tax due beginning at midnight tonight.

The penalty for failure to file a return without such an exemption is 5 per cent monthly on the tax still owed the government up to a maximum of 25 per cent. A 6 per cent interest charge is also made.

* * *

IRS said it would be better for a taxpayer to file his return before the deadline even if he can't pay now what he still owes. In this way he might avoid the penalty and be required to pay only the 6 per cent interest charge for late payment.

Sewer Plans Almost Drawn

Lines in Waterford Will Curb Pollution

Final construction plans for approximately two miles of sanitary sewer lines for a portion of Waterford Township bordering Pontiac are about 70 per cent complete, according to Johnson and Anderson, Inc., township engineering consultants.

The area's untreated waste water and septic tank effluent presently flow into the county's West End storm drain which empties into Pontiac's Crystal Lake, according to the Michigan Water Resources Commission.

The problem received special attention at Tuesday night's Pontiac City Commission meeting.

City Manager Joseph Warren was directed to obtain a report from township officials on what steps have been taken to eliminate pollution in this area.

The directive followed consideration of a township request for extension of city sewer services to another area near Marion and Scott Lake Road in the township.

* * *

The township requested that a 1958 city-township agreement be amended to provide for the extension, which is to serve a new elementary school — cherokee Hills — and 50 residential lots.

COMPLETION DATE

Johnson and Anderson officials said yesterday that they have notified the Michigan Water Resources Commission that construction drawings and specifications will be completed by June 1 for the project in the West End Drain area.

In a letter received by township officials last Oct. 11, the Water Resources Commission originally proposed the following timetable for implementation of the program:

- Complete construction plans and specifications for facilities by March 1.
- Complete financing of the facilities by June 1.
- Award construction contracts by June 15.

MAJOR POINTS

In other major points, Johnson said:

- The United States will continue to concentrate assistance mainly in economic and social fields "and to encourage our Latin-American neighbors, where possible, to limit their outlays for military purposes."
- The United States will continue to work to stabilize earnings of traditional Latin-American exports "while assisting efforts to expand those new exports on which Latin-American trade will increasingly depend."
- Latin-American economic intergration is vital to hemispheric development.
- The United States is committed "to government by the consent of the governor — a consent to be granted in free and honest elections. It does not seek to impose on others any form of government. But let us stand determined on principle: Despots are not welcome in this hemisphere."

Three detectives, along with a half-dozen officers and patrolmen, responded to the call and combed a wide portion of the Woodward-South Boulevard area until daylight.

Found in a field some 150 feet from the site of the shooting was a partially loaded clip of 22-caliber bullets, which police tagged as evidence along with a spent shell picked up a short distance from the victim's body.

Mexico Welcome 'Magnifico'

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Upstaged, but delighted by it all, Lady Bird Johnson described the tumultuous Mexican welcome for her husband in one Spanish word — "magnifico."

* * *

The U.S. First Lady said the flag-waving, band-playing, cheering, colorful outpouring of more than a million persons, amid a snowstorm of colored confetti, was the biggest turnout she'd ever experienced in years of travel the world over with Lyndon B. Johnson.

* * *

She didn't seem to mind that her own carefully prepared speech — in Spanish — was eliminated for lack of time.

Daughters Lynda, 22, and Luci, 18, shared the spectacular occasion.

Luci, briefly upset by Mexico City's high altitude and a rough plane ride from Texas, dropped out briefly at the airport ceremony. But she was back in fine spirits for the 2½-hour, 9-mile motorcade that was a triumph for her father.

'INCREDIBLE'

"Just incredible — like nothing I have ever seen in my life," said Luci, who had never been to a foreign capital before.

She found herself the center of enthusiasm, too, reporting that "hundreds and hundreds of people" shouted to her. There were cries of "Viva Luci! Happy wedding. Where's your fiance?"

* * *

Luci is to marry Pat Nugent, 22, of Waukegan, Ill., on Aug. 6. But he was left behind in Texas.

It was to have been Mrs. Johnson's show before the President moved in and took it over. He had named the First Lady and Secretary of State Dean Rusk cochairmen of a delegation to dedicate a statue of Abraham Lincoln today as a gesture of American friendship with Mexico.

SPANISH CLASSES

Mrs. Johnson had brushed up on her Spanish, resuming private classes with friends in Washington last January, then the President announced he was going along. His major speeches left Lady Bird with a few "brief remarks."

Among last-minute decisions was the President's idea to invite his daughters along.

* * *

"Come on, why don't you go?" he urged Luci. She took him up on it. Then he telephoned Lynda and she left her classes at the University of Texas.

It was the bouncy, turbulent two-hour jet plane ride from San Antonio to Mexico City that caused Luci's initial discomfort. She said this, plus the effect of Mexico City's high altitude — 7,400 feet above sea level — made her feel weak during the long airport ceremony that included 21-gun salutes and translation of all speeches.

* * *

Midway in her father's response to the welcome of Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, Luci retired to the plane with the White House physician, Vice Adm. George Burkley. He administered a bit of oxygen to get her back on her feet.

"We stood up a long time," Luci said of the arrival ceremony.

Officials Doubt China Ready to Improve U.S. Ties

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. authorities voiced doubt today that Communist China is ready to improve relations with the United States despite Washington's gradually - opening - door policy toward the Chinese mainland.

The State Department Thursday opened that door a bit further, saying that Communist Chinese scientists and scholars will be allowed to come to American universities.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey said several inquiring U.S. universities have been told by the State Department in recent weeks that they may invite visits by Red Chinese scientists and scholars. The Peking regime has been advised of this but he knows of no response, he added.

The U.S. government eight years ago lifted its bars against American newsmen going to Red China. In recent months, with the personal approval of President Johnson, it has further lifted barriers for various types of experts.

MEDICAL SPECIALISTS

Last December the State Department said U.S. medical specialists could visit Communist China. Last month it said U.S. scientists and scholars could go. It also suggested trading weather information with the Red Chinese.

But so far, U.S. officials reports, Peking has steadfastly rebuffed the U.S. overtures both publicly and in the periodic confidential U.S.-Chinese ambassadorial meetings at Warsaw.

★ ★ ★

Red Chinese propaganda continues to berate the United States as the No. 1 capitalist-imperialist arch enemy. At Warsaw, the Peking ambassador is said to have rejected any accommodation with the United States on other matters until this country quits supporting the Chinese Nationalists, which Washington refuses to do.

U.S. authorities believe that the current Peking leadership is so wedded to its militant policy, which even includes castigation of the Soviet Union's "peaceful coexistence," that no turnabout in Red China's posture toward the United States is in the offing.

Little Judy Still Getting Lots of Mail

FLINT (AP)—Tiny Judy Lynn Funsch, 5, who underwent rare heart surgery five weeks ago, still is receiving mail from well-wishers around the world.

Each day's delivery brings another 50-75 letters and cards expressing hope that Judy will recover completely from her five-hour ordeal on the operating table. The total has now climbed to more than 2,000 pieces of mail.

Doctors at the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor removed an obstruction in a pulmonary vein bringing blood from the lungs to the heart. Without the operation, they said, Judy would have only a few years to live.

The frail little blonde went home to Flint last week. No visitors outside the family are to be allowed for a month, when she will return to the hospital for a checkup.

TOY WHITE POODLE

Judy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Funsch, bought her a toy white poodle for Easter. She has played with the dog around the yard outside their house.

"But she tires easily," Mrs. Funsch said. "And when she tires, she complains of chills."

At first, Judy was lonesome for the hospital, where she virtually was adopted as a mascot by nurses and the staff.

The day after returning home, Judy developed a sore throat and high fever—but it did not last.

"Judy's not eating well," her mother said worriedly. "She has a pretty good breakfast, but not much the rest of the day.

"Some days are good—and some not so good."

Robber Gets $62,174 in Warren

WARREN (AP)—A credit union clerk reported a robber clouted him on the head with a pistol and escaped with $65,174 from a Warren parking lot Thursday.

Cashier Michael Scherb, 23, said he was taking the money from a bank to the Tek-Ni-Kal Credit Union, which serves the General Motors Technical Center, to cash pay checks when he was accosted by an armed man in a parking lot.

★ ★ ★

Scherb told police he attempted to out walk the man to his office, but the man hit him over the head with the gun and grabbed the suitcase in which he was carrying the money.

Police said a man burning trash at the rear of the credit union reported he was attracted by the commotion and saw the robber jump into a car driven by a confederate. Police said he got a partial license number.

★ ★ ★

Scherb described the robber as white, between 20 and 30 years of age, who called Scherb by his last name. He said the gunman was about 5-feet-8 and weighed 180 to 220 pounds.

Indonesian Travel Is Slow, Unreliable

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Transportation in Indonesia functions with luck, baling wire and the grace of Allah.

With everything in short supply here, including luck and wire, people move from one point to another largely by accident. Just by chance one gets on the bus or dump truck of his choice. Getting off as scheduled is a rare delight.

★ ★ ★

This is a city of three million, most of them desperately poor. They travel in everything from horse carts to embassy cars—when the embassy driver wants to make a few extra rupiahs on the side.

Taxis are virtually nonexistent. The de luxe Hotel Indonesia operates its own fleet of taxis. Private cars, including relics antedating World War II, provide additional taxis.

TYPE OF TRAVEL

Most of the city relies on buses, three-wheeled pedicabs called betjaks, and dump trucks, or the people walk.

The city operates which might loosely be called a bus system. Government and private bus companies use buses from Australia, West Germany, Hungary and small ones from Japan.

★ ★ ★

Officials in import departments saw to it that a variety of bus makes was imported. From many sellers they could figure on a handsome kickback for making the purchase and helping it through customs.

Nobody thought to order spare parts, so more than half the buses are sidelined. Most of them are being cannibalized to keep the others moving.

BUSES SCARCE

As buses grow scarce, betjak drivers make more rupiahs. Even so it barely keeps them alive. They recently formed a political front against the high rates they have to pay each day for the betjaks—10 rupias, about 17 cents.

★ ★ ★

For long-distance traveling, dump trucks or military convoys are recommended by seasoned travelers. The trucks are well-ventilated and provide a splendid view of the countryside.

The government is talking about fixing the transportation system. No more passenger cars. Only spare parts will be imported, says the government.

★ ★ ★

British Expedition Set to Trace Vinland Voyage

LONDON (UPI)—A British expedition will set sail May 3 for Vinland, that mysterious part of North America which the Vikings are said to have discovered long before Columbus sailed from Spain for the New World.

The Guardian newspaper, sponsor of the expedition, said today the expedition will sail from the North Sea port of Scarborough and try to use the currents and tidal streams to reach the same landfalls the Vikings found.

"It will make first for southwest Greenland and then attempt to reproduce Leif Erikson's voyage to Vinland of about the year 1001 from such sailing directions as are recorded in the old Icelandic sagas," the Guardian said.

If the expedition's landfalls can be identified with the descriptions in the sagas, "it will be at least circumstantial evidence of the probable location of Vinland," the paper said.

Last year, Yale University published a map which supposedly proved that the Vikings sailed to America in the 11th and 12th centuries.

MANY THEORIES

The map, showing an island called Vinland, is said to have been produced before Columbus made his voyage in 1492.

The Guardian noted that "there have been many theories about Vinland, but no one knows precisely where it was."

Disclosure of the Yale map set off a controversy in the United States between those who would have Columbus as the discoverer of America, and those who want the Vikings to have that honor.

Killers of Malcolm X Get Life

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three reputed members of the racist Black Muslim sect were sentenced to life imprisonment yesterday for the slaying of breakaway black nationalist leader Malcolm X.

Justice Charles Marks handed down the mandatory life sentences following an eight-week trial. New York state law would not permit the death sentence in the case.

The three, Talmadge Hayer, 24, of Paterson, N.J., and Norman 3X Butler, 26, and Thomas 15X Johnson, 30, both of Bronx, were convicted of first-degree murder March 11.

Malcolm, a former Black Muslim leader who split with the Chicago-based sect to found his own black nationalist organization, was gunned down Feb. 21, 1965 as he began to address a rally in the Audubon Ballroom in upper Manhattan.

Mrs. Betty Shabazz, Malcolm's widow, arrived in court in time to hear the judge pass sentence on Johnson, the last of the three to be sentenced. She refused to talk to newsmen.

Hayer's wife, Betty, Johnson's wife, Etta 2X, and other members of their families also were in court. None of Butler's relatives attended the session.

Scientists Slowing Up Psychology Testing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — America's "brain watchers," awed by powerful new means of laying the human mind open and shaken by outcries from the public, are putting their foot gently on the brake.

At a meeting of the American Orthopsychiatric Association here yesterday, a collection of the top psychologists, psychiatrists and sociologists in the country took to "analyzing" their own work in relation to human privacy.

"We have a bear by the tail," was the way Dr. Orville G. Brim of New York, put it.

Psychological tests that ask a person intimate questions about his religious beliefs, his sex life and inmost thoughts have become commonplace in schools, industry and government.

★ ★ ★

Last June both the U. S. Senate and House held hearings in Washington over the use of such tests on Peace Corps applicants.

'PRETTY SILLY'

"We have made up some pretty silly tests," Brim told his fellow psychologists yesterday.

He added that the profession would have to admit also that "we have made some irresponsible use" of test results.

Brim said, however, that even if the sex questions are taken out of the tests, there would remain "a much more powerful source of resistance" to such psychological examinations.

★ ★ ★

This, he said, was the simple concept of privacy — "many of us do not like to reveal ourselves."

READY TO CONCEDE

Among psychologists and students of the mind, Brim said frankly, it has been thought that nothing could be more important than science — "individuals were there to be studied."

Now, he said, he and many of his colleagues were ready to concede that "scientific research has to take its place along with other values, including privacy."

The New York psychologist called on educators, sociologists and employers to take another look at their attitude towards privacy too.

Schools and agencies providing services to people on welfare have assumed that the services were more important than the individuals' privacy, Brim said a recheck of the value system was needed.

Fund Cutoff Is Threatened

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Welfare Secretary John W. Gardner has reemphasized the federal government's intention to deny funds to schools and hospitals that fail to comply with federal desegregation standards.

The deadline for school system assurances of compliance with revised federal guidelines was today. Hospitals have until July 1.

Expense a Prime Factor in Reception Choice

By MADELEINE DOEREN

After the bride-to-be has set the date and time of her wedding and chosen the church, she decides what type reception she would like.

There's the church reception with cake, sandwiches, punch and coffee, following the ceremony, or a reception in a hall with dancing, food and liquid refreshments.

Then there is the home or garden reception which can save as much as half of the reception budget. Even an elegant one need not be too costly.

FOLLOWS CEREMONY

A 'breakfast,' the term used for a reception that takes place before one o'clock in the afternoon, immediately following a morning ceremony, has many advantages.

The newlyweds who may be leaving on a long motor trip or flying to their destination receive a 'head start' . . . so do the out-of-town guests returning to their homes.

The cost of an evening reception in home or hall, plus dinner for out-of-town guests, in addition to their place setting at the breakfast can easily cost $500 more than the simple post-ceremony breakfast.

The size of home or apartment for the home reception is important. If the rooms are small, some articles of furniture could perhaps be moved out for the day.

If the house is large enough to accommodate guests for the reception, a catering service providing a buffet will save many a family headache. Roughly, the cost per person for this type reception is about $2.50.

FLOWERS

One large floral arrangement is suggested for the reception rather than several small scattered bouquets. Place it where most effective, as on a mantel, foyer table or on the bride's table.

The bridesmaids may arrange their bouquets at one end of the bridal table as part of the decor. It is an added use of lovely bouquets which the girls usually tire of holding during the reception. They can be picked up later, of course.

★ ★ ★

Many churches have fine halls available and the cost is normally much lower than a commercial hall which runs from $35 to $125. Arrangements can sometimes be made with the church janitor to clean the hall after the reception.

Usually there is a women's guild to take over full responsibility for the reception. They will cut the sheet cakes, if any, mix and pour the punch and wash the dishes at a nominal cost per person, whether a luncheon, buffet supper, or cake-and-coffee affair.

★ ★ ★

A 50-gallon coffee-maker is usually 'standard equipment' in the church kitchen, also china, silver, punch bowl and glasses. If not, there are agencies or caterers which specialize in renting candelabra, punch fountains, silver, china and crystal . . . even carpeting or a platform for beneath the bride's table.

A few area caterers have dining rooms available where a buffet or even a sit-down breakfast or luncheon is priced at from $3 to $3.25 per head. This includes tax and tip.

One local caterer serves what he calls a 'foreign brunch' in the home using paper plates at $2 per person or china for an extra charge. Many kinds of meat dishes and salads, also coffee, are offered.

Some bakers and caterers will roast hams, turkeys or large beef roasts to be taken to the home or to a hall, with the family preparing foods to go with the main dish.

OPERATION 'SANDWICH'

Other caterers prepare sandwich fillings, bring these to the home or the scene of the reception and spread the breads just before the guests arrive. Added to their hourly charge is the price of the materials. This still costs less than buying a given number of sandwiches and provides a reserve for any extra servings.

KEEP SIMPLE

Refreshments should be simple, with enough to satisfy the guests but the variety of foods held to a minimum.

On a summer day, a fresh, cooling salad is pleasant, with dainty sandwiches. Serve petit fours, if you wish, but remember that the wedding cake is the important sweet to be served.

★ ★ ★

One of the most memorable moments of the reception is the toast to the new couple. Champagne is the proper beverage and the traditional tribute to the newlyweds.

For a single toast, a case is sufficient for up to 100 guests, as one bottle serves six. If punch is to be served, the caterers usualy prepare the base or 'mix' on the scene, adding gingerale and ice, as needed.

Only through thorough planning of the reception can it be the normal and festive aftermath of the wedding service it was meant to be.

Present Gift When Alone With Her

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: My husband and I along with two other couples, were invited to the new house of friends of ours. It was not a party; we were just asked to come and spend the evening.

I brought a small gift for the house. The others brought nothing. When I arrived, I handed the gift to the hostess. My husband thought it was very tactless on my part (and embarrassing to the others) to have given it to her in their presence.

He said I should have put it aside and waited until she was alone to present it to her. Was I wrong?

A: Even though there was no reason for the others to bring presents, I agree with your husband that your handing a gift to the hostess in their presence might have been embarrassing.

It would have been more tactful if you had put the present down inconspicuously and when you had an opportunity, mention to the hostess that you had brought her a small gift.

INVITATION

Q: My girlfriend, who is in college, is going to visit me in my parents' home over the spring vacation. She asked me if my mother would write her a note confirming my invitation so that she could show it to her mother.

Is this the correct thing to do, or would a letter from me be enough?

A: Your girlfriend is perfectly right in wanting a note from your mother to show to her family, and they would be equally right in not allowing her to visit you if she didn't hear from your parents.

Let Him Blow Off Steam

Dear Editor: I Protest

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a compulsive letters-to-the-editor writer. Hector was an English major and was once the editor of his high school newspaper, so he knows something about writing. But he has been going at that typewriter something fierce lately.

★ ★ ★

He has something to say on every subject currently in the news. If President Johnson wants to know what to do about Viet Nam, the rising cost of living, taxes or unemployment, he should ask Hector. I realize that this is a good safety valve for Hector's steam, but every once in a while one of his letters gets published and he is the laughing stock of the community for months.

★ ★ ★

His psychiatrist says it's good for him, but Abby, I have to live in this town, too. What do you think? Please print this because Hector reads your column and gets a big kick out of it, but he says you make up all the letters yourself.

HECTOR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell Hector that I don't make up any letters. With people like him around, I don't have to. And to answer your question, I agree with the psychiatrist. Let Hector shoot his typewriter off.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Is there such a thing as being too polite? I know a man who is so polite he makes everyone nervous. He is the one who races on ahead to open doors. And he jumps like a jack-in-the-box whenever a woman (or even an older person) enters the room.

He beats all the other men when it comes to helping ladies with their coats and pulling out chairs. I don't think this much courtesy is necessary. Should I be quiet? Or should I tell him he is overdoing the perfect gentleman routine?

HIS FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Be quiet. I suspect your "too polite" friend is merely well-bred and is behaving accordingly. Courtesy cannot be overdone.

And he who is made "nervous" by good manners probably needs to brush up on his own.

DEAR ABBY: I have two very close friends who like me a lot, but they just hate each other. One will get very mad at me if I go with the other one. What should I do?

IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR IN: Drop both of them! Everyone has the right to choose his own friends. And so have you!

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I cannot agree on something that I think should be settled soon. Our daughter is nearly 17. She is pretty, a good student, has a steady beau and she listens to reason.

My wife says that hand-holding, hugging and kissing, and all signs of affection between young people should NOT be done at home, where others might walk in at any moment.

This came up when we had another couple in for bridge.

The four of us were playing in the living room and my daughter and her boyfriend were in the kitchen. My wife went into the kitchen to get something and she caught them kissing. She was terribly upset. I say I'd rather have them at home doing this than somewhere else.

My wife says they have plenty of opportunity to show affection elsewhere, and if one of our friends had walked in on them instead of her, she'd never have been able to face them.

She lectured our daughter for an hour the next day and cut her dating down to one night a week instead of two. What do you think?

DAD

DEAR DAD: I think your wife is wrong. Normal and innocent displays of affection between a boy and a girl are natural and harmless. Tell your wife to get off your daughter's back or she might feel she has to ask her boyfriend to rent a motel room in order to give her a goodnight kiss.

Father Hurls Wide Charges

Projects His Own Guilt

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE Y-491: Alice B., aged 15, is a pretty high schooler.

"But, Dr. Crane," she burst into tears, "Daddy has been quarreling with Mother for several weeks.

"And last night, he accused me of doing awful things!

"Why, he said I was a tramp and having affairs with boys in my church Young People's Society!

"How could he have even though such terrible things?

"He knows I am president of that church group and have never done any of the bad things he mentioned!"

PROJECTION

What do you readers think is behind this man's false charges?

Remember, he is not an uneducated, uncouth male, for he is a very successful doctor, aged 50.

Perhaps you recall the old adage that "It takes a thief to catch a thief."

Paraphrased a bit, we might say that it is often a guilty man (or wife) who makes wild charges about sexual immorality against his mate or even his children.

And that is exactly the case here.

Alice's daddy has been chasing around with several married women.

* * *

For he is in the climacteric, which corresponds to a woman's menopause.

That is chiefly a psychological zone that troubles most people when they reach middle age and begin to grow panicky lest they lose their sexual vigor.

Alsas, this sexual frenzy is not limited to illiterates or those who have not graduated from high school.

It is also typical of the most educated classes, including physicians, dental surgeons, engineers, editors and even clergymen.

For colleges thus far have done very little to reduce the terrific divorce rate in America!

And those few which schedule classes on "Marriage Problems" are likely to focus on the kitchen, living room and nursery but ignore the boudoir.

Yet most divorces start in the bedroom!

Visit your Court of Domestic Relations and see for yourself!

Feuding husbands seldom accuse their mates of being poor cooks.

And they may admit that their wives entertained creditably for the husband's clients and friends.

Indeed, the angry husband may even confess that his wife was a better parent to their children than he has been.

So he may thus grant her an "A" grade in the kitchen, plus a similar top mark in the living room and nursery.

But he gives her only a "D" grade (often a mere "E" or "F") in the bedroom.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.

Mrs. John R. Denihan, Judson Street (seated) shows her pupil, Mrs. Charles F. Collison of Lenox Street just how to stitch a seam. Mrs. Denihan instructs Bishop sewing classes two evenings a week for the McConnell Community School program. The classes are open to any interested woman; high school students are not accepted. Registration for a new class in Bishop I to be given on Saturdays from 1 to 3 p.m. are now being accepted.

Install Officers

Officers were installed when the Women's Society of Bethany Baptist Church met Thursday in the church's Traver Parlor.

Mrs. Walter Willson is the group's new president.

Naomi Group served a dessert luncheon preceding a vocal solo by Mrs. Victor Lindquist. Elda Sutter was accompanist.

An open house in their Rochester home Sunday will mark the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Eckert. The gala will will take place from 2 until 5 p.m. The pair was married in Pontiac on April 15, 1916. Their children are Mrs. Harvey Beach of Pottsville, Md., William Jr., and Mrs. John Smith. There are 15 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Strange Order for Milkman

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Mrs. George Hammer's milkman was puzzled by the note he found in her milk box.

It was in his customer's handwriting but was a far cry from the usual order for dairy products. It read:

"You are being followed. Use your secret ray gun. Do not kill person — just put him to sleep."

An embarrassed Mrs. Hammer explained: "That's something I fixed up for my daughter and her friends who were playing 'Man From Uncle.' I can't imagine why they hid it in the milk box."

A suspicion of caramel syrup (made by melting and browning granulated sugar) is fine to use in gravies.
